JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

February 27, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Tuesday, February 27, 2001, at 8:30 a.m. in room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chairs Maggie Jeffus and Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, and Mitchell Setzer.

Senator Ed Warren, chaired the meeting. He assured all the members that this was the best committee on which to serve because it is the heart of the Government. He said that the successful state employees we have run the state government and together we can make it happen.

Senator Warren then asked the committee members and staff to introduce themselves. He also introduced the fiscal staff present, Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism, and commended them for the excellent work they have given in the past and expressed his appreciation for having them back this year.

The two co-chairs, Representative Maggie Jeffus and Representative Wilma Sherrill were recognized for their comments:

Representative Maggie Jeffus said that she was glad to be back. She noted that this is going to be a difficult and intense year. She thanked everyone for being here. She said that there may be Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon meetings and if that were the case the meetings would be announced.

Representative Wilma Sherrill said she was delighted to be here. She said that this committee has been known to have had some fun in the past, but she did not anticipate it to be fun this year. She said she hoped everyone would realize the seriousness of the situation and be creative. She also said that the impact of this year hasn't really hit any of us yet.

Senator Warren thanked both Representative Jeffus and Sherrill for their comments. He said that we have the leadership in state government to make it happen even though there are issues in the challenge of the times.

Senator Warren then moved to the Agency presentations. Each Agency on the Agenda was allotted 5 minutes (attachment 1). Those persons not present to speak were represented as follows:

Department of Insurance – James E. Long, Commissioner was represented by Dashiell Propes.

Office of the Lieutenant Governor - Beverly Perdue, Lieutenant Governor was represented by Kay Gattis.

Office of the Secretary of State - Elaine F. Marshall, Secretary of State was represented by Rodney Maddox (attachment 2).

The Rules Review Commission - Joseph J. DeLuca, Jr. Staff-Director Counsel and the Department of State treasurer - Richard H. Moore, State Treasurer were deferred February 28, 2001 at 8:30 a.m.

The meeting adjourned at 10:05 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chairman

Delores Ledford, Committee Clerk

(2) request a Letter of Right to Sue from EEOC;
(3) request further conciliation from EEOC; or
(4) take no further action.

POLITICAL DISCRIMINATION

The Civil Rights Division is also responsible for investigating charges alleging political discrimination in hiring or promotion decisions. Any person wishing to file a complaint of political discrimination must file a charge with this Division.

After satisfying all filing requirements for the political discrimination charge, CRD notifies the complainant (charging party), the agency (respondent) against whom the charge is made and the individual hired or promoted that an investigation will begin. The case is then assigned a Civil Rights Investigator.

The assigned Civil Rights Investigator conducts an investigation of the charges/allegations, interviewing the charging party, appropriate agency personnel and any necessary witnesses. Further, the Civil Rights Investigator obtains copies of pertinent policies and documents from the respondent and the charging party.

An investigative report is prepared examining the allegations and evaluating the evidence produced during the investigation. The Civil Rights Division then determines whether there is probable "Cause" or "No Cause" to believe the alleged discrimination occurred. At the conclusion of the investigation, both parties and the individual hired or promoted are provided with notice of the investigative findings.

If the Initial Determination is a "No Cause" finding, the charging party has no further administrative appeals under GS 126-14.2. If the Initial Determination is a "Cause" finding, the charging party may file a petition with OAH for a contested case hearing before an ALJ or take no further action.

RULES DIVISION
NORTH CAROLINA REGISTER

The North Carolina Register is published twice a month and contains information relating to agency rulemaking, executive orders, contested case decisions and other notices required by or affecting Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. All proposed administrative rules and notices of public hearings filed under G.S. 150B-21.2 must be published in the Register.

State law requires that a copy of each issue be provided free of charge to each county in the state and to various state officials and institutions.

The North Carolina Register is available by yearly subscription at a cost of one hundred and ninety-five dollars ($195.00) for 24 issues. Individual issues may be purchased for ten dollars ($10.00). Request for subscription to the North Carolina Register should be directed to the Rules Division, Office of Administrative Hearings, PO Drawer 27447, Raleigh NC 27611-7447.

ADOPTION OF PERMANENT RULES

An agency intending to adopt, amend, or repeal a rule must first publish a notice of rulemaking proceedings in the North Carolina Register. This notice must include the statement of subject matter; a reference to the statutory authority for the action; and a statement of how public comments may be submitted to the agency. At least 60 days after publication of this subject matter notice, the agency publishes a Notice of Text in the Register. This notice must include the time and place of any public hearing or instructions on how a member of the public may demand a hearing if one is not scheduled; a statement of how public comments may be submitted to the agency either at the hearing or otherwise; the reason for the action; the text of the proposed rule; and the proposed effective date.

Unless a specific statute provides otherwise, at least 15 days must elapse following publication of the notice in the North Carolina Register before the agency may conduct any public hearing and at least 30 days must elapse before the agency may take action on the proposed rule or 60 days if the rule has an substantial economic impact. An agency may not adopt a rule that differs substantially from the proposed form published as part of the public notice until the adopted version has been published in the North Carolina Register for an additional 30 day comment period.

When final action is taken, the adopting agency must file the rule with the Rules Review Commission (RRC). After approval by RRC, the adopted rule is forwarded to the General Assembly and OAH. Approved rules become effective no earlier than the 31st legislative day of the next regular session of the General Assembly unless a legislative bill is introduced to disapprove a specific rule(s). After the legislative process, the approved permanent rules are entered into the North Carolina Administrative Code (NCAC).

Proposed action on rules may be withdrawn by the promulgating agency at any time before final action is taken by the agency or before review by the Rules Review Commission.

TEMPORARY RULES

Under certain emergency conditions, agencies may adopt temporary rules. Within 24 hours of submission to OAH, the Codifier of Rules must review the agency's written statement of findings of need for the temporary rule pursuant to the provisions in G.S. 150B-21.1. If the Codifier determines that the findings meet the criteria in G.S. 150B-21.1, the rule is entered into the NCAC. If the Codifier determines that the findings do not meet the criteria, the rule is returned to the agency. The agency may supplement its findings and resubmit the temporary rule for an additional review or the agency may decide that it will remain with its initial position. The Codifier, thereafter, will enter the rule into the NCAC. A temporary rule becomes effective either when the Codifier of Rules enters the rule in the Code or on the sixth business day after the agency resubmits the rule without change. An agency adopting a temporary rule must begin rulemaking procedures on the permanent rule at the same time the temporary rule is filed with Codifier. The temporary rule is in effect for 270 days or remains in effect if the permanent rule is filed with the Rules Review Commission within 270 days from publication of the temporary rule in the Register, and is approved by the Commission and pending the next legislative regular session.

NORTH CAROLINA ADMINISTRATIVE CODE

The North Carolina Administrative Code (NCAC) is a compilation and index of the administrative rules of 25 state agencies and 40+ occupational licensing boards. Compilation and publication of the NCAC is mandated by G.S. 150B-21.18.

The North Carolina Administrative Code is published by West Group. Subscription information for this publication is available by contacting your local West Group representative, or by contacting West Group at 900 Ridgefield Drive, Suite 90, Raleigh, NC 27609 or calling 1-800-344-5009.

Loose leaf copies of rules are available by contacting the Office of Administrative Hearings, Rules Division, PO Drawer 27447, Raleigh NC 27611-7447.

For more specific information on the rulemaking authority, please refer to General Statute Chapter 150B, Article 2A. Questions may be addressed to the Rules Division at the address provided above.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

If you change your mailing address, or if your address is incorrect, you should notify the Office of Administrative Hearings immediately of your new or corrected address. OAH cannot be responsible if mail does not reach you because you have not provided your correct mailing address.

AN EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS
A PLACE TO BE HEARD

THE OPPORTUNITY

North Carolina citizens who have disputes with certain state agencies have the opportunity for a hearing before an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ)

A BRIEF HISTORY

The Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) was created during the 1985 session of the North Carolina General Assembly. OAH is an independent, quasi-judicial (similar to a court) agency. The purpose of OAH is to provide a forum for a prompt and impartial resolution of disputes between citizens and certain state agencies.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Statutory authorities establishing and governing the Office of Administrative Hearings are contained in Chapters 150B and 7A of the North Carolina General Statutes.

Title 26 of the North Carolina Administrative Code contains the adopted rules of the Office of Administrative Hearings.

HEARINGS DIVISION
THE PROCESS

To begin a contested case, you must file a petition with the Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH). The petition should establish that the state agency:

(1) deprived you (petitioner) of property;
(2) required you (petitioner) to pay a fine or civil penalty; and/or
(3) substantially prejudiced your (petitioner's) rights.

AND in addition, that the state agency either:

(1) exceeded its authority or jurisdiction;
(2) acted erroneously;
(3) failed to use proper procedures;
(4) acted arbitrarily or capriciously; and/or
(5) failed to act as required by law or rule.

Petitioner forms are available at OAH.

In order that your petition be acceptable to OAH, you should do the following:

(1) File an original and one copy of your petition with OAH;
(2) Send a copy of the petition to all other parties, including the specific state agency named;
(3) Sign and file a "Certificate of Service" indicating the date you mailed or delivered the petition to the other party;

Your contested case is assigned to an Administrative Law Judge. A Notice of Contested Case and Assignment is mailed by OAH to all who are parties to the dispute.

The ALJ schedules a hearing. The hearing may be held in any one of three places:

(1) petitioner's home county; or
(2) the county where the state agency maintains its principal office; or
(3) any county where the ALJ deems it necessary in order to accommodate witnesses or to ensure justice.

A Notice of Hearing is mailed be certified mail to you and all parties at least fifteen (15) days before the hearing. This notice establishes, among other things, the time, date and location of the hearing.

The hearing is open to the public except in certain contested cases which require confidentiality.

At the hearing, each party has the right to testify; present documents and records; have other material witnesses to testify; question opposing parties and witnesses; explain or rebut evidence; examine documents which may be offered into evidence, and be represented by an attorney.

Should you need witnesses subpoenaed to testify or produce documents at your hearing, you may obtain subpoena forms from the Clerk's Office at OAH. You are responsible for ensuring the subpoenas are served.

Soon after filing, you may be notified that your case has been selected for a Mediated Settlement Conference. If so, you and the other party must agree on a mediator. OAH maintains a directory of mediators to assist you with this decision. If you are unable to agree, the presiding ALJ will choose a mediator for you. The parties are required to pay the cost of the mediated settlement conference.

A hearing may be continued or postponed but only for good cause. Unless time does not permit, a request for a continuance of a hearing must be made in writing to the ALJ and served upon all parties.

The hearing is recorded by either a professional court reporter or by an OAH hearing assistant using a 4-track tape recorder. Additional information is available through OAH regarding transcripts.

Once the hearing is completed, the ALJ makes a recommended decision and it is mailed to the parties. The state agency involved then makes a final decision. If the state agency does not accept the ALJ's recommend decision, the agency must explain its reasons in its final decision.

REVIEW OF AGENCY DECISION

If the Petitioner or other aggrieved party is not satisfied with the final decision, the petitioner or other aggrieved party may ask for review of the final decision before a Superior Court Judge without a jury. This petition for review may be filed in Wake County or in the county where the petitioner or other aggrieved party resides. The Court can affirm the agency decision, modify it, or send the case back to OAH for further proceedings.

REVIEW OF COURT DECISION

The Superior Court's decision may be appealed by either party involved in the review. In this event, the Superior Court's decision will be reviewed by the North Carolina Court of Appeals or Supreme Court.

LEGAL REPRESENTATION

You may be represented by an attorney in a proceeding before the Office of Administrative Hearings or you may appear on your own behalf. It is up to you to decide whether to be represented by an attorney. The Office of Administrative Hearings cannot advise you as to whether you should be represented by an attorney or recommend an attorney to you.

If you choose to be represented, the attorney must file a Notice of Appearance with the Office of Administrative Hearings and all correspondence or documents will be mailed to your attorney. If you do not have an attorney, all correspondence or documents will be mailed to you at the address you provide OAH and as shown in the records of OAH.

ADDITIONAL FUNCTIONS OF THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

CIVIL RIGHTS DIVISION

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the North Carolina General Assembly have designated OAH as a 706 Deferral Agency. 706 Deferral cases are investigated by the Civil Rights Division (CRD) in OAH.

This Division is responsible for charges alleging discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin or disability in employment, or charges alleging retaliation for opposition to such discrimination brought by previous and current state employees or applicants for employment for positions covered by the State Personnel Act, including county government employees.

Employees alleging employment discrimination may file their complaints directly with the Civil Rights Division without exhausting in-house or agency grievance procedures. These employees include the following:

(1) Non-Exempt State Government employees;
(2) Non-exempt UNC employees; and
(3) Four categories of County employees
  (a) Social Services
  (b) Mental Health
  (c) Public Health
  (d) Civil Preparedness

Any person wishing to file a compliant of alleged discrimination in any of the categories set out in the preceding paragraph must file a charge with the Civil Rights Division or EEOC.

If a determination is made to investigate a case, CRD notifies the complainant (charging party) and the agency (respondent) against whom the charge is made then an investigation will begin. The case is then assigned a Civil Rights Investigator.

The assigned Civil Rights Investigator conducts a comprehensive investigation of the charges, interviewing the charging party, appropriate agency personnel and any necessary witnesses. Further, the Civil Rights Investigator obtains copies of pertinent policies and documents from the respondent and the charging party.

An investigative report is prepared examining the allegations and evaluating the evidence produced during the investigation. The Civil Rights Division then determines whether there is probable "Cause" or "No Cause" to believe the alleged discrimination occurred. At the conclusion of the investigation, both parties are provided with Notice of the Investigative Findings.

If the determination is a "No Cause" finding, the charging party may appeal to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. If the determination is a "Cause" finding, the charging party enters the conciliation and settlement phase in an attempt to resolve the charge.

In the conciliation and settlement phase, the Civil Rights Division contacts the charging party and respondent to discuss the findings of the investigation. The Civil Rights Division attempts to bring about full compliance with applicable federal and state laws. If conciliation is successful, a Conciliation Agreement is entered into by the parties. If conciliation is unsuccessful, the following options are available to the charging party:

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE
ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

February 28, 2001
8:30 a.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, February 28, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Adams, Barefoot, Lucas, Setzer, and Wilson. There were four Senate members present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. (Visitor Registration list is attached as part of the record.)

Representative Maggie Jeffus chaired the meeting. Representative Jeffus called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance, and introduced the pages as follows: Chad Barefoot, Representative Jerry Dockham, sponsor; Avery Crest, Representative Rick Eddins, sponsor; Kevin Hassell, Senator Marc Basnight, sponsor; and Heather Bower, Representative Daniel McComas, sponsor. Also, she introduced Mr. Tyler Neighbors, intern for Senator Warren.

Representative Jeffus recognized Mr. Joseph J. DeLuca, Jr., Staff Director-Counsel of the Rules Review Commission and asked him to continue the agency report. Mr. DeLuca presented an overview of the Rules Commission, an independent commission appointed by the Legislature to reviews the rules that agencies have adopted to ensure they meet standards. Rules Commission has a budget of about $335,000. The budget officer is Celia Cox. If there are questions, call 733-2721.

Representative Jeffus recognized Mr. Joe Sansom, Assistant to the State Treasurer and Legislative Liaison for the Department of the Treasurer, who continued the department overview. Office of the Treasurer has an authorized recurrent budget of $34.6 million and 265 employees. (Mr. Sansom's remarks are attached as part of the record).

Representative Adams voiced concerns about the presentation in terms of the amount of cuts. What will be the impact in terms of programs if there are cuts. Have these determinations been made and if so, what are the impacts? Chairman Jeffus and Senator Warren responded that the Governor's budget will be presented in the next couple weeks, and we will know more then. Michele Nelson, Committee Staff, clarified that this agency review has to do with the modified zero based budget, targeting specific account expenditures as line items to look at.

Representative Jeffus recognized Mr. Thomas Wright, Director of the Office of State Personnel. Mr. Wright gave a brief overview of the responsibilities of the department then referred to the department's budget report. (Copy attached as part of the record.)

Representative Sherrill asked for clarification on statute requirement for services and explanation of fluctuations in amounts under Miscellaneous Contracted Services. Mr. Wright explained that those services are associated with Employment Opportunity Institute, which is required under GS 26-16.1. Ms. Nellie Riley, OSP, explained the fluctuation of the EOI money was because of a one-year contract with the State Highway Patrol to develop a sensitivity EEO diversity program for vets. They paid them to do that and in turn they paid two contractors to come in and deliver the EOI program. Two staff members were working very closely with student agencies to get them diversity training. This saved about $50,000 over open market training. This year they have one contractor who is working with them.

Representative Sherrill asked if the university system puts in any money in OJT co-op program? Ms. Nellie Riley explained that the cooperative education program is coordinated through Office of State Personnel. The university provides students and trains the students. Agencies actually select the students once they are referred to the agency. The agency pays 75% of cost to student and OSP pays 25%. The students are paid according to the positions they hold. Universities actually pay nothing for this program other than the fact that they have trained the student.

Representative Jeffus recognized Ms. Johnnie McLean, Deputy Director of the State Board of Elections to continue the budget report. Ms. McLean gave a brief overview of the operations of the State Board of Elections. She referred to the budget report for her remarks. (Copy attached as part of the record.)

Representative Sherrill asked if county pays any of the expenses when State Board members travel to counties? Ms. McLean responded that this is a new program and there is not a provision in place to allow that. Some counties have reimbursed expenses, and that reimbursement is reflected under mailing costs. The Board is looking at having counties provide assistance from within the county government.

Senator Harris asked if the figures presented here are actual expenditures or authorized budgets. Ms. McLean responded that they are actual expenditures. No comparison to budget. Ms. McLean responded that she believes items do not exceed any of the authorized budget.

Representative Adams asked if there is any income to the Board? Ms. McLean responded that the only fees the State Board collects are those for candidates who are filing for federal, state and district offices. House and Senate filing fees go to the county of residence. Money that comes in to the State Board goes to the State's general fund.

Referring to budget item under Other Aids and Grants, Senator Kinnaird asked if we had one-stop voting every November, would it always cost that amount of money or was this an initial start-up cost. Ms. McLean responded that the General Assembly appropriated $250,000 as a one-time grant in aid to the county boards of elections for the establishment of additional sites. Those counties that chose not to establish additional sites did not receive any of those funds. There is a limit of $15,000 to any county. For example, Mecklenburg County had one-stop voting in the office, as every county board of elections is required by statute to do. They also chose to establish eight additional one-stop absentee voting sites. They received $15,000 to apply to the cost of that, and it was not sufficient to reimburse them for the costs they incurred.

Senator Allran complimented the State Board of Elections for their outstanding job. Referring to Furniture and Equipment Replacement Schedules item campaign reporting, he asked for explanation of amounts in 1996 and 1997. Ms. Mclean responded that it was used largely for the cost for the development of campaign reporting filing software, and a small part for furniture. She added that when new requirements are passed by the Legislature, that can cause an expensive item for the Elections Board.

Representative Jeffus asked about the Board's new offices. Ms. McLean responded that offices are now located at 506 N. Harrington Street. The space is very nice, but location is less than desirable due to distance to government complex. The Board is still looking to lease state-owned property, which they feel would be a savings.

Senator Allran commented on the current legislation that has been introduced which would try to prevent what happened in Florida from happening in North Carolina. Ms. McLean responded that the Board wants to prevent an occurrence like that which happened in Florida from happening in North Carolina. The Board believes that the structure of the State Board of Elections and the county boards is such that it could be managed in a better way than Florida. Referring to equipment currently in use, eight counties used punch card voting equipment and no butterfly ballots. The technology is very old. Since November, one of those counties has purchased direct record electronic voting equipment. If the old system is abolished, seven counties will be without voting equipment. They will need a grant in aid to allow them to purchase new equipment. Tyrell County is the only county to use all paper ballots that the state prints. They believe calling for all counties to produce their own ballots for absentee voting can reduce the cost of printing.

Senator Kinnaird asked questions relating to voting methods. Ms. McLean explained that about 50 counties have optical scan technology. Thirty-three counties have direct record electronic voting equipment - either touch screen or you push a button similar to automatic teller machines. Durham County's problems came in the reporting from the precincts. The machines were recording and tabulating the ballots correctly; the problem came in the transfer of the information by the modem from the precincts to the board of elections office. In the November election, they were late displaying the results. It was staff error. When the testing was done, they did not zero out the test numbers.

Senator Warren asked if our voting process is up to date in every respect? Ms. McLean responded that our voting process is up to date. We have some counties that are using the punch card ballot. Some counties are using optical scan equipment that is no longer being produced and may have trouble finding replacement parts. Everything wears out.

Senator Warren asked where the money goes that is collected for late payment of filing fees? Ms. McLean responded that filing fee money goes directly into the state's general fund. Fines go to the Board of Education.

Senator Allran asked if the Elections Board gets involved in new legislation that is being drafted in the General Assembly? Ms. McLean said the Board's position is to provide information that would be useful to the legislators as they are making those decisions. The Board does support banning use of punch card ballots.

Representative Jeffus called Mr. Thomas Wright to revisit Miscellaneous Items in the Office of State Personnel budget review. Mr. Wright explained that under miscellaneous items, there were no allocations under one and two. Under publications, they have one 5,000 copies of one brochure at a cost of $241.50 to print. Under Salary Reserve for 2000-2001, $150,829 was in relationship to a demonstration project for banding a classification of pay in the Office of State Personnel.

Representative Sherrill asked for a better explanation of banding.

Mr. Wright said one of the methods we are looking at in terms of deciding what we need to do for classification pay system is go to a banded system which basically you decrease the number of levels in a class series and broaden the salary range. There have been demonstration projects in ITS, OSBPM, OSP, and certain units in the Departments of Commerce and Environment and Natural Resources.

Representative Adams asked where brochures were distributed. Mr. Wright said they are distributed at career fairs that we attend. The majority of their publications are on the WEB now.

Representative Sherrill asked for further explanation of the $151,000 in the red.

Ms. Peggy Oliver, OSP, responded to the career-banding project. The project was begun in 1998. Some limited funds were made available in 1998 and then again in June of 1999, Mr. Dorman and Mr. Penny arranged to have the funds to implement the remainder of the project. The funds, however, have not been transferred into our budget and that is the reason it shows a minus. We have been working with State Budget to try to resolve that situation. State Budget Office responded that the money is available in a reserve in state budget offices. We simply have not transferred it yet; it is a matter of paperwork having not been accomplished. The correct amount should be zero and not $150,000 in the negative.

Senator Kinnaird asked about banding. One of the problems we have had in state personnel is compression which is when we try to get classification so that people who have been around for a long time make an equal amount or change their classification. Is that what you are talking about?

Mr. Steve Davis, OSP, explained the benefit of banding in contrast to existing pay salary grades and pay ranges associated with those grades. The point of banding is to reflect labor market conditions. In North Carolina, labor markets across the state are extremely volatile. These banding demonstration projects enable us to test market based systems so that we get away from the rather finite structure of any given pay grade that has a set minimum and a set maximum. It will create compression. And, it creates a problem for those employees who are reaching the maximum. When we expand the ranges, we can then collapse any number of existing classifications into a single band. If we identify job competencies associated with a particular role, then we can place employees correctly on this band either at the beginning level, middle or immediate level or a senior level, and pay them according to a market rate. This is a pilot demonstration in different departments. Information technology is one that they are keenly interested in because it is so dynamic and there are so many demands on state government to compete in the labor market, and quite frankly we are still not competitive in information technology as well as other classes.

Senator Kinnaird asked about geographical disparity? Is that part of this too?

Mr. Davis said indeed there are different labor markets across the state. Some of those are specific to an occupational area, so that you know that in one part of the state the ability for that institution to recruit is quite different. Banding does allow us to address those changing market conditions. We are monitoring and trying to get a read on any given market condition for any given occupation. We can then take proposals to an agency that is having trouble with recruitment and retention and help them develop a band under a demonstration project as we have done in State Personnel, State Budget and some other areas.

There being no further business, Representative Jeffus said we may have to call people back. Staff will work with the Chairs to determine the direction the committee should go and to get further directions out to the agencies.

Representative Jeffus adjourned the meeting at 9:50 a. m. The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, March 1, 2001 at 8:30 am.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

March 1, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Thursday, March 1, 2001 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Jeffus, Co-Chair Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, Mitchell Setzer and Gene Wilson.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. Senator Warren recognized the Pages, and guests from Greenville and others.

The meeting began with a short explanation from Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism concerning the Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures. Michele stated that what this meant was to assume that the Budget was zero. (attachment 1)

Johnnie McLean from the State Board of Elections distributed a handout giving information on expenses. (attachment 2) Representative Sherrill asked "what do you pay from temporary services"? Johnnie McLean deferred the answer to Yvonne Sutherland of Campaign Reporting. Ms. Sutherland replied, $9.00 - $13.00 per hour. Representative Sherrill also asked "how much money do you make on coin operated copy machines?" After some discussion Ms. Sutherland was asked to submit a written report on this line item campaign finance copying.

Kaye Gattis, Chief of Staff from the Office of the Lieutenant Governor distributed a handout detailing expenses. (attachment 3) Ms. Gattis was asked to identify the account numbers. The identification is as follows: account 532711-532731 is Travel; account 534511-5328 is cell phone; account 534511-534522 is office equipment.

The meeting adjourned at 10:00a.m. The next meeting is scheduled for March 6, 2001 at 8:30 a.m.

Respectfully Submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chairman

Delores Ledford, Committee Clerk

STATE BOARD OF ELECTIONS

Miscellaneous Contractual Services

Administration	Temporaries assist permanent staff in audit of election returns for the State Board to certify as official results (G.S. 163 Article 16) In 2002 - Primaries and General elections
Campaign Reporting	Temporaries used to assist permanent staff in audit of campaign finance reports to meet statutory requirement of audit within four months. The State Board has never been able to meet the requirement but is persistent and diligent in attempting to meet the requirement. (G.S. 163-278.24.) There are four permanent employees and three temporaries in Campaign Reporting.
IS	Technical consultants needed in areas that State ITS is unable to provide.

Rental/Lease of Equipment

Administration	Use of Motor pool vehicles to travel to seminars, county boards, etc.
Campaign Reporting	There is one copy machine in public viewing area for public use; has previously been included in Administration line item. Will probably need replacing within next 12 months.
IS	Use of Motor pool vehicles to travel to cbe to service computer servers, conduct training sessions, etc.

Travel and Other Employee Expense

Administration	Required meetings, etc. are contained throughout General Statute Chapter 163. Some of the citations include: G.S. 163-22; -82.24; -108; -188; -189, Article 22, Article 22A The five-member State Board must travel to Raleigh to meet the statutory obligations to appoint county boards of elections, investigate complaints and hear appeals resulting from elections, certify names of candidates to appear on the ballot, conduct training for county boards of elections, certify election results and voting equipment. Staff, including two elections investigators, must travel to assist in training seminars, and to county boards for investigation and audits.

There is a wellness check that this office needs to conduct for each of the 100 county boards as preventative maintenance to identify potential problem areas that can be corrected early rather than being identified in a crisis situation. Some requests for a wellness check come from the board of county commissioners or from the county board of elections.

The ESD is a Director on the board of The Election Center and member of the National Association of State Election Directors. The meetings are generally out of State. He is chairman of the National Taskforce on Voting Accessibility for persons with Disabilities.

The Deputy Director is co-chairman of the Voting Systems Subcommittee of the Election Center's Taskforce for Election Reform currently preparing recommendations for Congress. Much of the work is performed via email with some meetings out of State.

Campaign Reporting	Staff must travel and assist in the training seminars and to county board of elections offices for audits.
IS	Subsistence, etc. for staff when travelling to cbe throughout the State.

Cellular Phone Services

Administration	Four phones; Executive Secretary-Director, Deputy Director and two investigators. When the ESD is out of the office, staff needs to have access. The investigators are frequently in remote areas in highly emotional situations and the cell phone is necessary for their sense of well being. One phone is available for necessary access to any staff member when out of the office
IS	Four phones; necessary for county boards and their IS staffs to have access to the IS staff for technical and statutory support.

Furniture and Equipment Replacement Schedules

Administration	Office equipment, i.e. copy machine
Campaign Reporting	Copy machine in public viewing area is under rental agreement; probably will need replacing within the next 12 months.

IS	Computers and related equipment necessary for the statewide voter registration system.

Other Aids and Grants

Administration	G.S. 163-33(8) requires the State Board to reimburse CBE for costs of publishing legal ads for State bonds or constitutional amendments. No specific funds have been appropriated and the reimbursement must come from any available line item.

Tuesday, March 6, 2001

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Tuesday, March 6, 2001 at 8:30 A.M. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. House members present were: Representatives Wilma Sherrill, Chair; Jeffus, Chair; Adams, Lucas and Barefoot. There were two Senate members present. Committee Counsel present: Michelle Nelson and Marilyn Chism. (Visitor Registration list is attached for the record.)

Representative Wilma Sherrill chaired the meeting. She called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance and introduced the pages and the Committee Assistant, Rosa Kelley.

Representative Sherrill recognized Mr. Joseph J. DeLuca, Jr., Staff Director-Counsel of the Rules Review Commission, and asked him to continue with his agency's report. Mr. DeLuca presented an overview of the Rules Review Commission, Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures for FY 1996-97 to FY 2000-01. Senator Warren asked Mr. DeLuca if the Commission ever met out of town. He responded that they did not unless under unusual circumstances or for the yearly conference. Representative Sherrill asked how many members were on the Commission. Mr. DeLuca responded there were 10 members. Representative Barefoot asked Mr. DuLuca where the conference was meeting this year. He responded that it was meeting in Arkansas. went on to explain that sometimes it was less expensive to meet in places of some distance because of special packages they were sometimes offered. If there are questions, call 733-2721. (For detailed information See Attachment I)

Representative Sherrill recognized Mr. Julian Mann, III, Director-Chief Administrative Law Judge with the Office of Administrative Hearings. Judge Mann presented their Modified Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures for FY 1996-97 through FY 2000-01. He also reported on the analysis of the Use of Salary Reserve for the Biennium 1999-2001. Senator Harris asked about the back log of cases. How long does it take to her a case to its ending? Judge Mann responded that a hearing was usually held within four months of the complaint and that they were able to dispose of 90% of all cases within six months. After hearing that this office put out information on the Internet, Senator Harris said that it was apparent that agencies are losing money by putting the information on the Internet. He reported that contested cases rose from 1266 in 1989 to 2131 in 2000. Represented Sherrill asked Judge Mann what were hearing assistants. He responded that all hearings are recorded and that these hearing assistants are people under contract from a temporary agency who record the hearings. These hearing assistants are paid $11.00 per hour. They use the same temporary agency. (For detailed information see Attachment II)

Represented Sherrill introduced Mr. Steve Albright, Chief Fiscal Officer of the Department of the State Treasurer. Mr. Albright presented an overview of the department's Zero-based Budgeting Expenditures. (For detailed information see Attachment III)

Representative Sherrill then asked Mr. De Luca of the Rules Review Commission to return and further explain the salary reserve fund. Mr. DeLuca said it was the difference in what is budgeted and what is actually spent. At the present time, they $2013.00 in the reserve fund.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned. The next meeting is Wednesday, March 7, 2001 at 8:30 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosa S. Kelley

Office of Administrative Hearings
Mission Statement

To provide a forum for prompt and impartial resolution of disputes of administrative law involving state agencies, to investigate alleged acts of certain unlawful employment practices and to function as the state's codifier and publisher of all proposed and permanent administrative rules

Office of Administrative Hearings Goals

- Increase fairness and protect due process rights in the application of administrative law in contested case hearings.
- Reduce the incidence of discrimination in employment practices.
- Increase citizen awareness of the existence and value of administrative rules.

Office of Administrative Hearings
Key Funding Issues

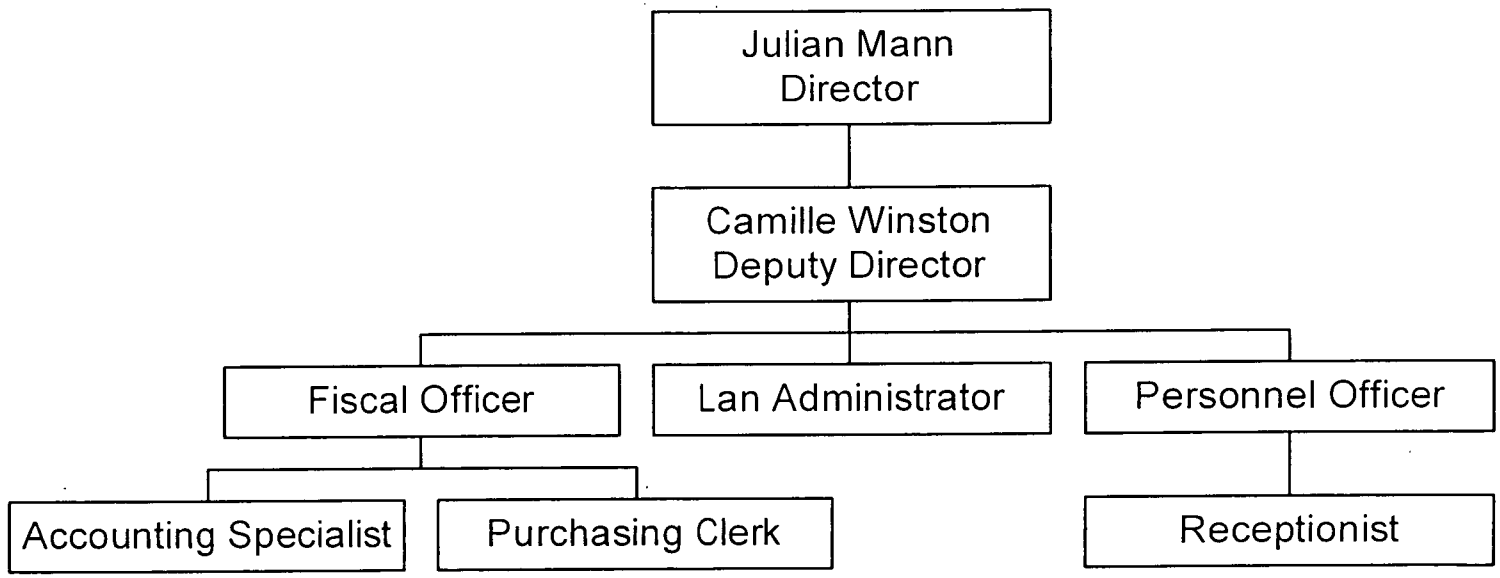
- Establish two positions that will address the Agency's critical needs in the areas of legal services and computer applications support and development.
- Funding to provide adequate work facilities for the Office of Administrative Hearings.
- Provide additional positions to allow OAH to adequately address the needs of the Civil Rights division.
- Funding to allow the Rules Division to develop the programs needed to provide Internet access to the NC Register and NC Administrative Code.
- Funding to allow the Hearings Division to complete the automated hearings program and to integrate electronic filing into the system.

Administrative Services Mission

- To provide administrative services support to the divisions of the Office of Administrative Hearings in the areas of:

  - Budget and Accounting
  - Personnel Services
  - Contract Administration
  - Communication Services
  - Local Area Network (LAN) Services
  - Facility and Equipment Services

Administrative Services Organization



There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

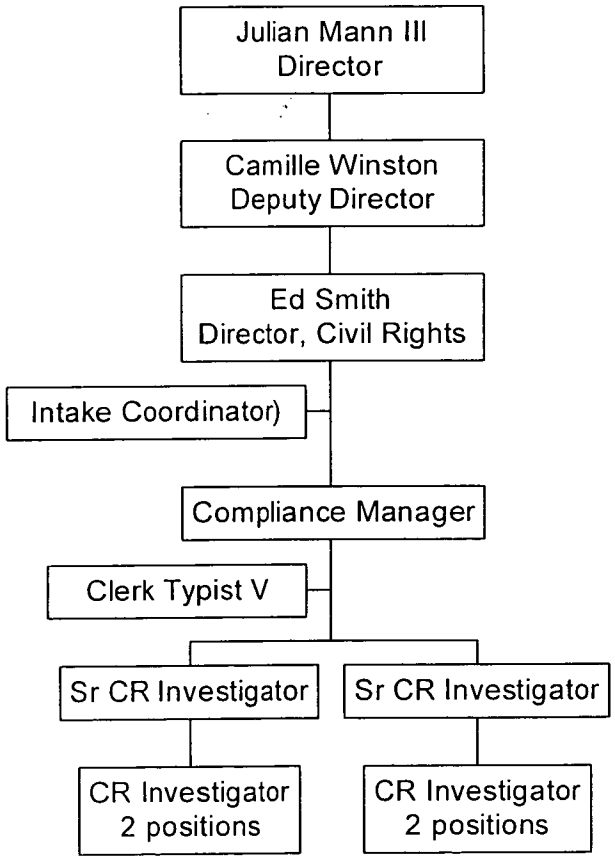
Administrative Services Issues

- OAH critically needs to establish two positions that will provide support to the entire Agency in the areas of legal services and computer applications support and development. The services of an Agency Legal Specialist are critically needed to provide counsel and interpretive advice. The Civil Rights division has the most critical need for this service as their work is based on legal requirements set out in federal and state statutes. Considering the often times conflicting and contradictory nature of these laws, it is necessary to have the services of in-house counsel in order that the Divisions' strategic goals are accomplished. Additionally, a computer applications support position is urgently needed to address the needs of the Agency in supporting current applications and in designing new applications that will enable OAH to operate more efficiently and meet current goals.
- OAH office facilities are inadequate for the effective and safe operation of the Agency. This causes problems in providing adequate support to all staff. A staff of only 44 employees is physically located in four different locations.

Civil Rights Division Mission

- To serve as the State's 706 Deferral Agency for investigations of alleged discrimination by State employees on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin or disability in employment.
- To investigate charges alleging retaliation for opposition to such discrimination brought by previous and current state employees or applicants for employment.
- To investigate charges alleging political discrimination brought by previous and current state employees or applicants for employment.

Civil Rights Division Organization

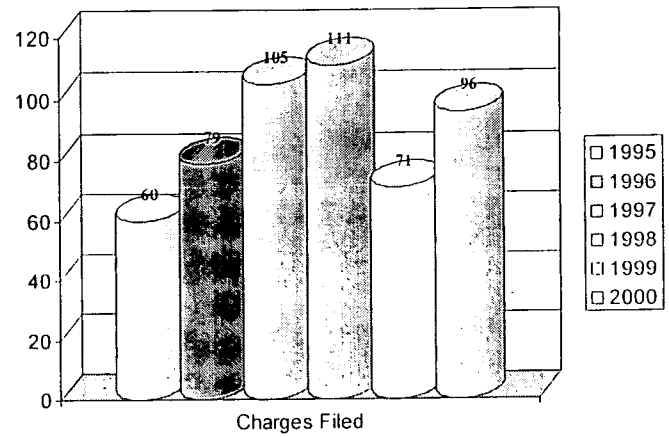


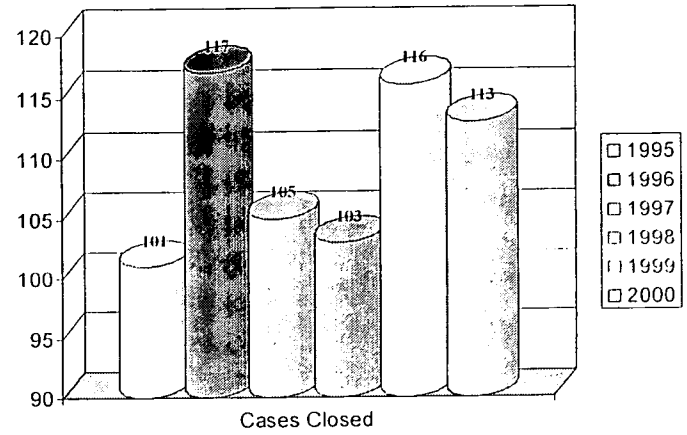
There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

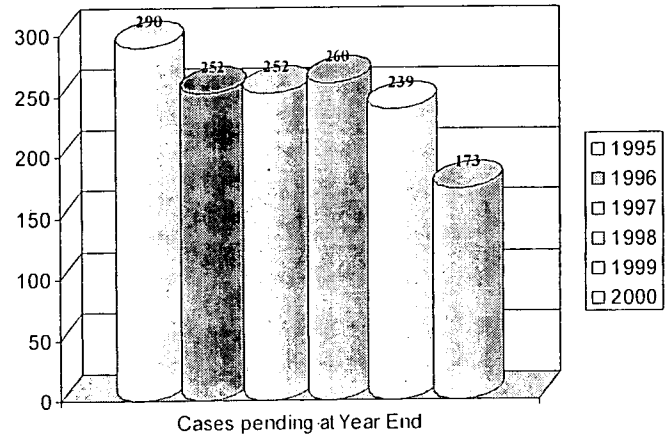
Civil Rights Issues

- The implementation of political discrimination cases has placed a burden on staff resources to resolve these cases within the statutorily mandated timeframe. Additionally, the investigation and resolution of EEOC cases has become more complex and time consuming due to legal requirements set out in federal and state statutes.
- Additional personnel resources are needed to adequately address the needs of the Civil Rights Division. Due to only marginal increases in staffing and additional responsibilities being assigned, it is becoming increasingly difficult to keep pace with acceptable case closure rates and carry out other oversight activities that have been assigned.

Civil Rights Division
Number of Investigations



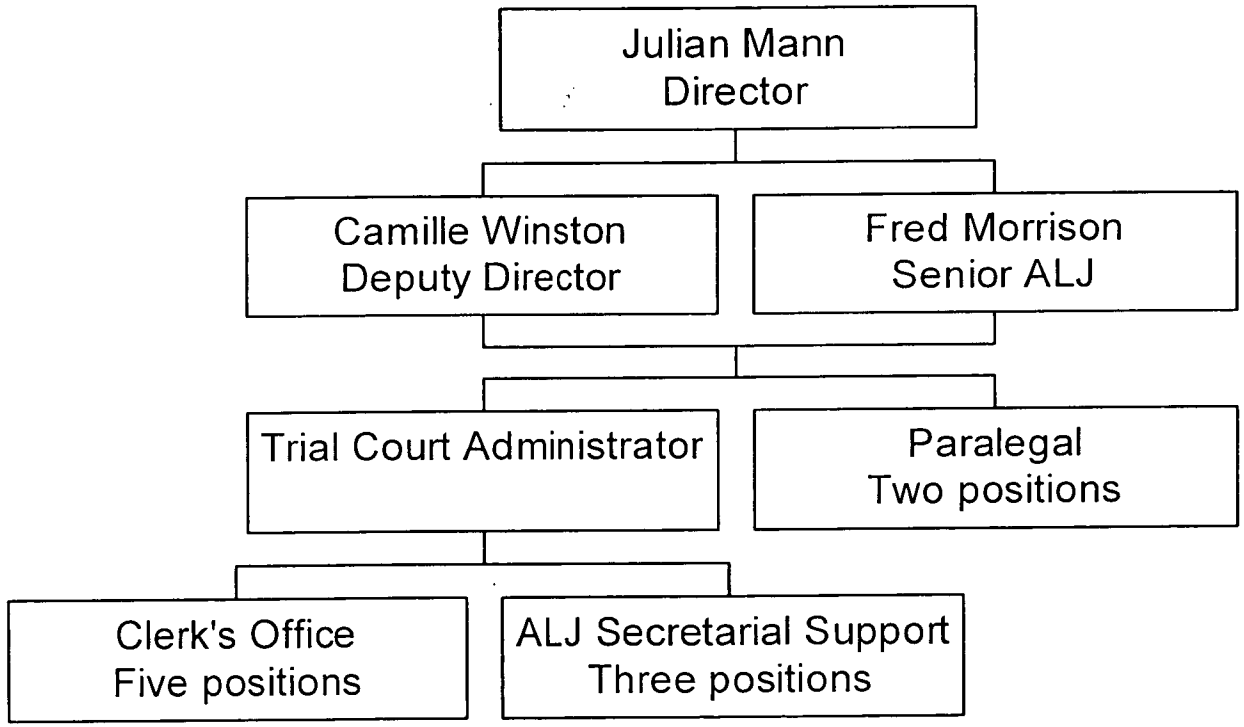




Hearings Division Mission

- To receive and maintain all contested cases and petitions filed and to hear contested cases by persons aggrieved who file against state agencies and who believe they have been deprived of property; substantially prejudiced of rights; or required to pay a fine or civil penalty.

Hearings Division Organization

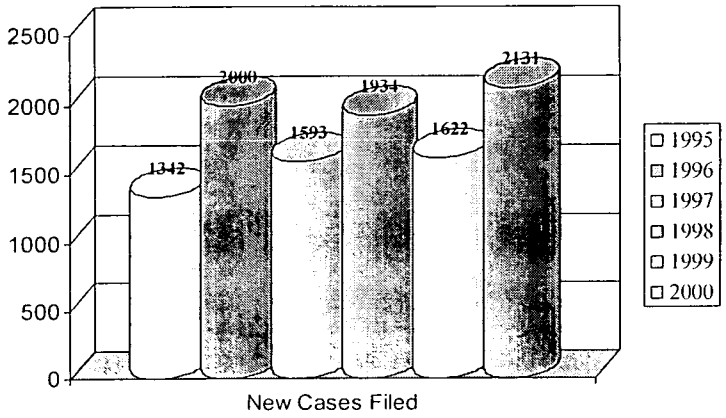


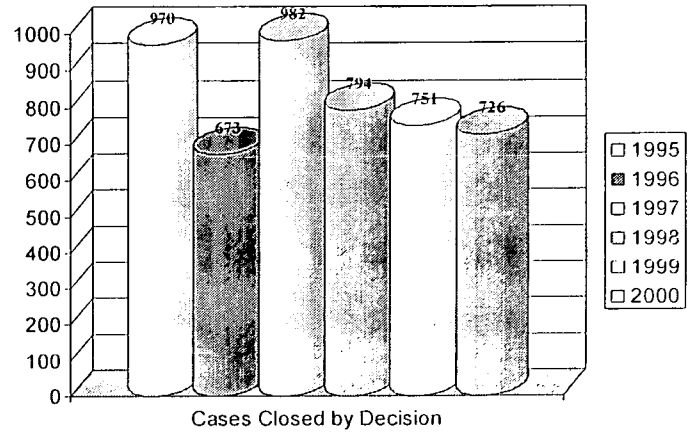
There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

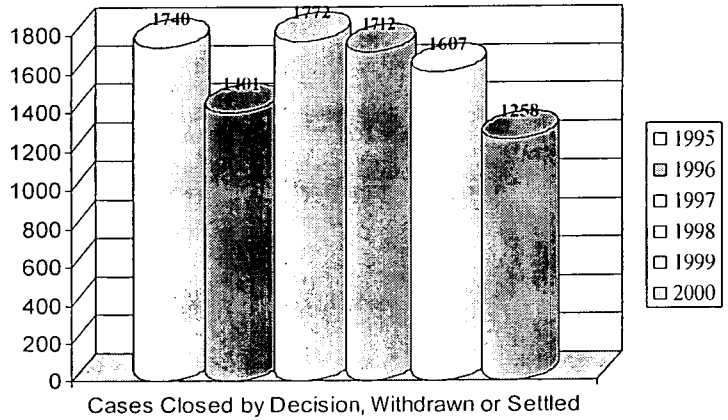
Hearings Division Issues

- Citizens' demand for government regulation (environment, day care, nursing homes, hog farms, etc.) adds extra burden on OAH to provide timely and competent hearings of contested cases.
- Growth in number and complexity of new cases increases the importance of a responsive OAH.
- Completion of our automated case tracking system will provide Hearings Division with improved efficiency and will provide OAH with on-line current case information and statistics. Additionally, OAH would like to expand this system to accommodate electronic filing of documents.

Hearings Division
Number of Cases



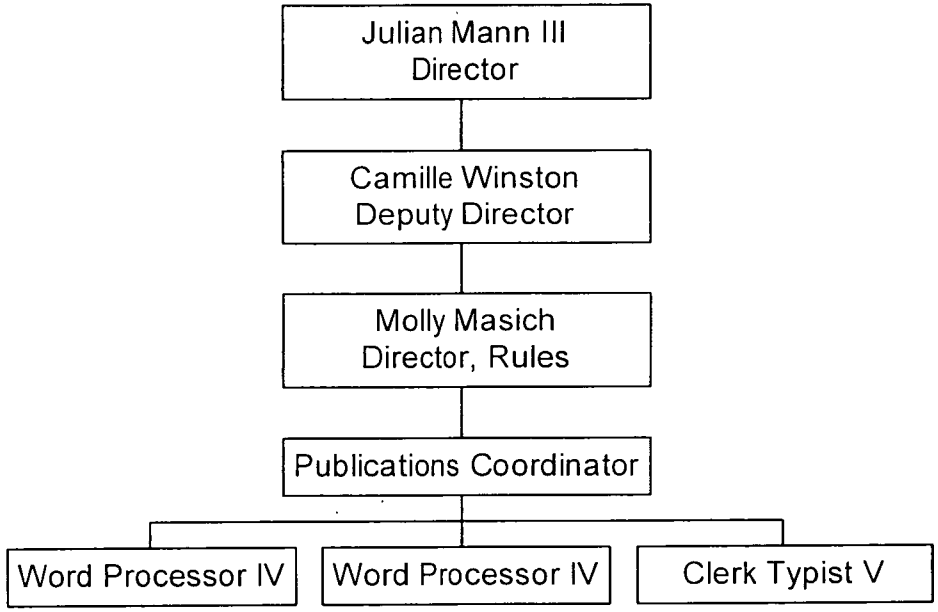




Rules Division Mission

- To provide means for citizen and public input into the rule-making process through notice and public hearing.
- To assist state agencies in publishing proposed rules and rule-making hearings (as required by law) in the NC Register before adopting the rule.
- To publish and maintain the official codification of all of North Carolina's agency rules - NC Administrative Code.
- To review findings of need for temporary rules.
- This division serves a variety of users through these publications - the citizens of N.C., citizens and industries in other states, agencies of the State, the Rules Review Commission and the General Assembly .

Rules Division Organization



There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

Rules Division Issues

- The growing complexity of government operations results in more complex agency rules.
- The current mode of distribution (printed copies provided by subscription) allows limited public access to the NC Administrative Code and Register. Internet access would provide for more timely distribution of rules. This mode of publication would be more readily accessible to the users and would be provided free of charge. The information would be in a searchable form and would incorporate all actions by all bodies on proposed and permanent rules. The Agency proposes to incorporate a rule tracking system into the Internet application.

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

March 7, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Wednesday March 7, 2001, at 8:30 a.m. in room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chairs Maggie Jeffus and Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, Mitchell Setzer, and Gene Wilson.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. Senator Warren thanked everyone for being there and began the meeting with the first Agenda item. The Agenda consists of three expense reports that were requested by the Committee. A copy of the Agenda for the Modified Zero-Base Budget Agency Review and List of Expenditure Accounts are attached. (attachment 1).

Franklin Freeman, Senior Assistant for Governmental Affairs from the Office of the Governor, distributed, as requested by the committee, a document detailing the Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures from the Office of The Governor. (attachment 2). Mr. Freeman reviewed the document for the committee. There were no questions.

David McCoy, from the Office of State budget, Planning & Management distributed a document of Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures. (attachment 3). Mr. McCoy explained that expenses in the report were incurred by the past administration. After some discussion Representative Sherrill asked for information that would show the savings if the Geodetic and Geologic surveys were merged.

Tony Goldman reviewed the report of the Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures from the General Assembly for George R. Hall, Legislative Services Officer. (attachment 4) . The report was followed by some discussion and it was noted that there needs to be consideration for increasing the State Employees mileage allotment from 29 cents since it has been several years since it has been increased. It was also noted that further consideration is needed regarding the renovation of the Legislative buildings.

There was no further business the meeting was adjourned until March 8, 2001 at 8:30 a.m.

Respectfully Submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chairman

Delores Ledford, Committee Clerk

JOINT
ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

March 14, 2001
8:30 a.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, March 14, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Representatives Adams, Barefoot, Lucas, Setzer, and Wilson. There were two Senate members present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. A Visitor Registration list is attached and made part of the record.

Representative Maggie Jeffus, Chair, called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance, and introduced the pages as follows: Sarah Sharpe, Representative Nelson Cole, sponsor; Lauren Capps, Representative Leo Daughtry, sponsor; Ashlee Bradshaw, Senator Brad Miller, sponsor; Aaron Paschal, Representative Russell Capps, sponsor; and Dawnelle Pierce, Representative Philip Baddour, Jr., sponsor.

Representative Jeffus recognized, Ms. Michele Nelson for an announcement. She called attention to the information set forth under the Rules Review Commission Tab that will better explains the salary reserve for 1999-2000. They did not use salary reserve for the first year of this biennium and used $2,800 to bring the salary level up for a new employee up to full level. A previous employee had worked twenty-three hours a week and the new employee worked forty and the salary was used to bring the salary up to full level. (See Attachment I)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY: Mr. Tony Goldman, Director of Administrative Services. (See Attachment II)

Representative Jeffus introduced Mr. Tony Goldman; Director of Administrative Services of the North Carolina General Assembly. He discussed salary reserve, publications, and cell phones/radios.

Mr. Goldman advised that there are two publications that the General Assembly is required to publish, one is the Session Laws and the other is the House and Senate Journals. The copies of the two publications are forwarded to the Secretary of State. Any books not distributed are sold for the printing cost.

The West Group won the bid for the most recent printing. There is no distribution on CDs and the Journals and Session Laws are not on the Internet.

After this session, it is hopeful that the Session Laws and Journals will be available on CDs and on the Internet. This would be helpful to scale down the distribution list.

Rep. Jeffus asked if there was a cost if placed on the Internet? Mr. Goldman stated that he did not have any figures on this at the present time but he believes that it would be a small amount. Rep. Jeffus inquired if we have the capabilities to put it on the Internet? Mr. Goldman replied that the General Assembly does not have the capability. However, the Department of Corrections has a very elaborate printing facility, but he is unaware of its capabilities. Senator Harris stated that if it is put on the Internet or CDs, it should reduce the number of copies printed and that could reduce the printing cost. Representative Jeffus asked about the cost of a hard copy. Mr. Goldman did not have the answer but would determine and advise. Representative Lucas asked Mr. Goldman why the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill received sixty-five copies of the Session Laws compared to the other universities, like North Carolina State University that received only five copies? He did not know but would try to find out. Mr. Goldman stated that having a law school at Chapel Hill could be one reason so many copies were needed.

Representative Barefoot was of the opinion that the Institute of Government would take up a large supply of the sixty-five books provided to the University in Chapel Hill.

Senator Harris, asked if we could legally, for example, give bidders access to all of our documents and then let them charge a fee for the records. Mr. Goldman stated that the General Assembly already offers free access to the General Statutes on the Internet and would run into a conflict. Senator Harris said that he was not just talking about one statewide.

Mr. Goldman continued that Salary Reserve for The North Carolina General Assembly is actually part of the overall reserves picture. There is not a line item for salary reserve for the General Assembly because it is placed in the overall reserve for the General Assembly.

Mr. Goldman stated that the subject of cell phones came up at a previous meeting. The General Assembly has in the Information System Division ten combinations of cell phones/radios. Six of these are set up to function only as radios. The other four are held by the Director of the Information System Division and three by the Network Systems Administrators who have the authority to use as both radio and cell phone.

Representative Sherrill asked if the Security Division uses the radio or cell phone? Mr. Goldman answered that they are all in the Information Systems Division. Security has hand held radios. Representative Sherrill asked if there are any pagers used? He answered that the pagers are used by ISD and Security mostly but some are scattered in the General Assembly. Representative Sherrill asked if any members of the General Assembly have pagers paid for by the General Assembly? Mr. Goldman did not know but will secure the answer.

OFFICE OF STATE PERSONNEL: Mr. Thomas Wright, Director.
(See Attachment III)

Representative Jeffus introduced Mr. Thomas Wright, the Director of the Office of State Personnel. Mr. Wright stated that there were several items he wished to discuss. The first item is Miscellaneous Contracted Services, which provides services for the Equal Employment Opportunity Institute. The Institute provides managers/supervisors strategies to effectively manage diversity and fairness issues that should increase employee participation and productivity. Without this line item, it would reduce the number of managers and supervisors who would receive diversity training.

The next item is for travel and the services provided and includes State Personnel Commission meetings, Supervisory, Management and Employee Training, Program Evaluations, Consultative Services in Major Program Areas and the HR Conferences.

Mr. Wright continued that they have two cell phones.

The next item is for furniture and equipment. For the past three years they have been on a computer replacement schedule as recommended by the State Auditor's office.

The last item refers to other aids and grants. This is used to employ college students in hard to fill positions. Presently, they have seventeen students in the co-op program.

Representative Jeffus asked for a further explanation of the program and especially on how they are selected. Mr. Wright recognized Ms. Nellie Riley, Director of Equal Opportunity Services, with the Office of State Personnel. She stated that this particular program has been in existence since 1984. Since that time, they have a number of students coming from different colleges and universities in the state. This program is restricted to residents of North Carolina and those attending colleges in North Carolina. Students vary in terms of the types of positions they hold. Basically, they are under representation positions and difficult to fill positions. Again, this program has helped with the recruitment efforts and diversification of the work force. The program started out with $100,000; but every time they have had to have a decrease in the Office of State Personnel, this program ended up being cut in order to keep from loosing perhaps some persons that are permanent. However, this program has helped with recruitment efforts as it relates to hard to fill jobs and diversification.

Ms. Riley advised that the colleges and universities actually have co-op programs on their campuses and job announcements and applications are sent out to them. The applications are returned to their office and they act as a conduit for the applications in order to insure that the applicant meets the requirements, such as being resident of North Carolina and qualified for the job opening. The applications are then forwarded to the department and the supervisor of that position selects the student. Ms. Riley's department does not make any selection.

These recruits are actually employees within that particular department and do some of the same types of duties. The salaries will vary with the position.

The number of students in the program varies. There are less in the fall and more in the spring.

Representative Sherrill asked how many of the co-op students have gone to work for state government and if they kept track? Ms. Riley will send a report to the committee.

Senator Harris pointed out on the bottom of the last page it states "Critical Issue," could you explain?

Mr. Wright stated that last year when they had budget reversions, they did not pay their last three months of the data processing bill and it moved into this fiscal year. There is $195,000 outstanding that has to be paid on last year's budget reversion. Mr. Wright called on Ms. Peggy Oliver from his office for an explanation. She stated that the Fiscal Management Office of the Department of Administration takes care of the budget matters, paying the bills, etc. In order to come up with the reversions that were required by the General Assembly last year, they withheld paying three months of the data processing bill. They were hoping they could come up with money in the current budget to pay those bills this year, but that looks doubtful. This money is owed to the State Computer Center (IPS).

Representative Jeffus asked for a clarification of the $195,000 outstanding debt and inquired if this was included in the total budget sent to them for this year? Ms. Michele Nelson responded that it wasn't in the total.

Ms. Nelson was requested to flag this item. She stated that IGS Budget is part of Commerce.

OFFICE OF STATE CONTROLLER: Mr. Ed Renfrow, Controller.
(See Attachment IV)

Representative Jeffus introduced Mr. Renfrow to present an overview of his department.

Mr. Renfrow stated that they did have three cellular phones but he turned his in because he could not stop it from ringing. The chief deputy has one and one is assigned to the help desk.

Mr. Renfrow explained that on page 10, the Flexible Benefits Plan, $1,590.71 has to do with a Tort Claim. The claim is under review.

Representative Sherrill requested an explanation of the Blue Cross Blue Shield Dental Plan. Mr. Renfrow stated that it was employee overcharges and it is to be used to reduce their future costs. Over a period of time, an employee has overpaid by leaving early, other things or didn't file claims. Now that will be used to be distributed back to reduce the cost to those in it. Rep. Sherrill asked, "Why wouldn't it go back to the employee?" Mr. Renfrow stated, "I guess it would to the extent that it is possible."

Ms. Gwen Canady came forward to explain that when the State did have a dental plan that was offered to state employees and the companies overcharged the employee, it really should go back to the employee. Representative Jeffus asked if they had tried to find the employees? Ms. Canady stated that they probably need to bring the committee some information back on this because they have not explored this idea of identifying the employees or how that money needs to be redistributed.

Representative Jeffus had a question on money owed to employees for workers' compensation claims? Mr. Renfrow stated that the state has pooled the workers' compensation administration into a central environment. In the past, it was administered on agency by agency but it still is funded by each agency for claims. These are the funds that are pulled together into this account to pay these claims. The money here is obligated to pay the workers.

Representative Sherrill wanted a copy of who might be entitled to a refund?

Mr. Renfrow continued with the report on publications, report inventory and expenditures. The information they print is also on the web. They are trying to pull back and print fewer copies.

Mr. Renfrow briefly went over the salary reserve. The State Personnel Commission in June 2000 approved a range revision for fiscal classes requiring at least twelve hours of accounting as a minimum requirement. OSC did not have sufficient salary reserve to address the increases. A request was made to receive funding from the Salary Adjustment Fund, which they have not received.

The meeting adjourned before hearing from the Secretary of State Elaine Marshall but will meet again today at 1:30 to hear her report.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

Salary Reserve Data for 1999 - 2001

1999 - 2000	Used	Purpose
2000 - 2001	Used	Purpose
	$2886	New hire

Explanation:

In October of 2000, Rules Review hired an individual working full time (40 hours a week) to take the place of an individual that had only been working only 23 hours a week. The budgeted salary for the position was adjusted in order to bring on this new hire on board, lowering salary reserve by $2,886.

PUBLICATION REQUIREMENTS

SESSION LAWS & JOURNALS

1. G.S. 120-34 Printing of session laws

(Excerpt)

(a) The Legislative Services Commission shall publish all laws and joint resolutions passed at each session of the General Assembly. The laws and joint resolutions shall be kept separate and indexed separately. Each volume shall contain a certificate from the Secretary of State stating that the volume was printed under the direction of the Legislative Services Commission from ratified acts and resolutions on file in the Office of the Secretary of State. The Commission may publish the Session Laws and House and Senate Journals of extra and special sessions of the General Assembly in the same volume or volumes as those of regular sessions of the General Assembly

(c) There shall be printed not more than 2,500 volumes of the session laws and 600 volumes of the journals of each house of each session of the General Assembly, all of which shall be bound, and delivered to the Secretary of State for distribution by him under the provisions of G.S. 147-45, G.S. 147-46.1, G.S. 147-48 and other applicable statutes.

§ 120-34. Printing of session laws.

(a) The Legislative Services Commission shall publish all laws and joint resolutions passed at each session of the General Assembly. The laws and joint resolutions shall be kept separate and indexed separately. Each volume shall contain a certificate from the Secretary of State stating that the volume was printed under the direction of the Legislative Services Commission from ratified acts and resolutions on file in the Office of the Secretary of State. The Commission may publish the Session Laws and House and Senate Journals of extra and special sessions of the General Assembly in the same volume or volumes as those of regular sessions of the General Assembly. In printing, the signatures of the presiding officers and the Governor shall be omitted.

The enrolling clerk or the Legislative Services Office shall assign to each bill that becomes law a number in the order the bill became law, and the laws shall be printed in the Session Laws in that order. The number shall be preceded by the phrase "Session Law" or the letters "S.L." followed by the calendar year it was ordered enrolled, followed by a hyphen and the sequential law number. Laws of Extra Sessions shall so indicate. In the case of any bill required to be presented to the Governor, and which became law, the Session Laws shall carry, below the date of ratification, editorial notes as to what time and what date the bill became law. In any case where the Governor has returned a bill to the General Assembly with objections, those objections shall be printed verbatim in the Session Laws, regardless of whether or not the bill became law notwithstanding the objections.

(b) All index references with respect to the session laws shall refer to the Chapter numbers of such laws in lieu of page numbers, and all index references to resolutions shall refer to the resolution numbers of the resolutions in lieu of page numbers, to the end that the indexes shall thereby be made consistent with the index to the General Statutes which refers to the section numbers and not to page numbers.

(c) There shall be printed not more than 2,500 volumes of the session laws and 600 volumes of the journals of each house of each session of the General Assembly, all of which shall be bound, and delivered to the Secretary of State for distribution by him under the provisions of G.S. 147-45, G.S. 147-46.1, G.S. 147-48 and other applicable statutes.

Editor's Note. - Session Laws 1995, c. 20, s. 17, provided that sections 1 through 16 of that act would become effective only if the constitutional amendments proposed by Session Laws 1995, c. 5, ss. 1-2 were approved as provided by Session Laws 1995, c. 5, ss. 3-4, to be decided in the November, 1996, election, and if so approved, sections 1 through 16 would become effective with respect to bills and joint resolutions passed in either house of the General Assembly on or after January 1, 1997. The constitutional amendments to N.C. Const., Art. II, § 22, and Art. III, § 5, were approved.

Editor's Note. - Session Laws 1995 (Reg. Sess., 1996), c. 603, s. 8, provides: "This act shall be funded by funds currently available to the University of North Carolina at Pembroke. Nothing in this act obligates the General Assembly to appropriate any funds to implement it."

Session Laws 1998-202, s. 36, contains a severability clause.

Effect of Amendments. - The 1998 amendment, effective January 1, 1999, and applicable to acts committed on or after that date, deleted "Youth Services, Division of" and its corresponding number of copies of session laws and assembly journals, inserted "Juvenile Justice, Office of" and provided that it receive three copies of session laws and no copies of assembly journals, and substituted "Johnson C. Smith University" for "J. C. Smith University," "High Point University" for "High Point College" in the table.

Session Laws 2000-137, s. 4.(ff), effective July 20, 2000, substituted "Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Department of" for "Juvenile Justice, Office of" in the table.

Equal Employment Opportunity Institute (EEOI)

GS 126.1 requires agencies, departments and universities to enroll new supervisors and managers in the EEOI. The Institute provides managers/supervisors strategies to effectively manage diversity and fairness issues in order to increase employee participation and productivity.

Impact of not providing service:
There would not be a consistent curriculum for new managers/supervisors to receive necessary training in addressing complex diversity issues in a legally compliant manner. It would reduce the number of managers and supervisors who would receive diversity training.

Majority of this line item is used for purchase and replacement of computers. In 1997, 1998 and 1999 OSP began purchasing and replacing computers to automate our staff in providing service to our clients in order to reduce the time and expense associated with paper transactions and mailings.

Based on a three-year replacement schedule, recommended by the State Auditor's Office, we are already behind in replacing some of our current computers. In this years budget through December of 2000 approximately $57,000 out of the total expenses has been spent on computer replacement and computer software.

Because of old furniture design, job transition to automation and ergonomic issues there is a severe shortage of money for new furniture that is ergonomically designed to meet the needs of the core job functions of most OSP employees.

Impact:

- Automated capability diminished possibly requiring need for return to paper communications;
- Slower processing times;
- Potential for repetitive motion claims due to lack of ergonomically designed furniture.

Employer OJT Inc. Model Co-op Program

This line item is used to employ college students in hard to fill positions and assist the state in diversifying the workforce in occupational categories where there is under –representation of demographic groups. It helps with recruiting highly qualified applicants for state service. It assists the state in competing with the private sector for applicants in high demand occupational categories. Also, it helps reduce the state's recruitment, advertising and training costs.

Impact of not providing service:
By not providing the service the state will decrease its access to a pool of highly qualified applicants for hard to fill positions. It also reduces opportunity for the state to attract more diversified candidates for employment. Additionally, it increases the state's recruitment and training costs.

Difference in expenditures in FY-1999/00 and other years. The expenditure in 1999/00 was actually $21,198. $14,016 was inadvertently applied to another line item.

Critical Issue:

- Data Processing shortage of $195,000 for this fiscal year. Because of carryover of three months bills from last fiscal year and increased utilization.

JOINT
ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

March 14, 2001
1:30 p.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, March 14, 2001 at 1:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Representatives Adams, Barefoot, Lucas, Setzer, and Wilson. There was one Senate member present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. A Visitor Registration list is attached and made part of the record.)

Representative Jeffus chaired the meeting and called the meeting to order. She introduced the pages, Ms. Lauren Capps of Goldsboro, sponsored by Representative N. Leo Daughtry, and Mr. Aaron Paschal of Raleigh, sponsored by Representative J. Russell Capps.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE: Elaine F. Marshall, Secretary of State. (See Attachment I)

Representative Jeffus introduced Secretary Marshall to bring her department's review to the committee. Secretary Marshall introduced Mr. Mike Peeler, Administrative Deputy, who has been with the department about five weeks and will do the presentation.

Mr. Peeler reported that there were some questions that the staff and committee requested them to address.

Item 1, they have no new programs to add to the continuation budget.

Item 2, they have no contracted personal services to report.

Item 3 through 7, he referred the committee to the spreadsheets for an overview

For Miscellaneous Contracted Service, the recommended budget for 2001-02 is $55,409.

Rent/Lease General Office and Workshop Equipment, the recommended budget for 2001-02 is $11,345.

Transportation/Lodging/Subsistence In State, the recommended budget is $41,963 and "Out-Of-State is $30,635 for a total travel budget of $72, 598.

Representative Sherrill asked for an explanation of the increase in the travel request from $19,616 (FY99-00) and $41,963 (FY00-01). Mr. Peeler explained that they had moved some items from other lines into this to accommodate travel that they had to make for their normal course of business. Representative Sherrill asked for an example?

Ms. Ann Harris, Budget Director, responded that the difference for fiscal year 1999-00, they added security positions and investigators. Representative Sherrill asked for further information on the need for increased funds? Ms. Harris explained that initially they did investigations in Wake County area but now they cover the state.

The line item for Cellular Phone Service, the requested budget is $1,405. They have three cellular phones.

The line item for Office Furniture has a requested budget of $5,330.

Office and Other equipment line item recommended budget for FY01-02 is $13,673.

Equipment-Computers line item recommended budget for FY01-02 is $2,500.

Questions 8-10, the discretionary grants, loans, other aids and grants. None to report.

Question 11, the current cash balance in special fund is $217.06.

Question 12, the Department has no positions vacant for six months or more as of January 23, 2001.

As to the question of fees, Secretary Marshall stated that 99.9 per cent of the fees charged by the Secretary of State's Office are statutorily set.

Representative Barefoot asked if any of the fees need to be revisited? She stated that some members of the Senate asked last year and House of Representative toif they were competitive with other states. This has been done. Two years ago they raised the corporation-filing fee, the non-profit filing fee and tinkered with some others. Just last year the Uniform Commercial Code fee was raised to become effective July 1, 2001. They constantly review the fee issue and are not out of line with neighboring states.

Mr. Peeler presented an overview of the publications they generate.

Representative Sherrill understands that all of the publications are priced based on the number of copies printed and Mr. Peeler agreed. Representative Sherrill asked if the statutes dictate the number to be printed. Secretary Marshall answered that the statute tells them the minimum that they have to distribute and after the extras are available for sale or for legislative use, which is above and beyond the distribution schedule. They try to compute every time they order what the need is for these various items.

Representative Sherrill wanted to know if all the publications were available on the Internet? Secretary Marshall replied that they were not but they try to put as many on line as possible.

Represesentative Sherrill asked if they had any recommendations for the committee in order to save money by changing some statutes. Secretary Marshall stated that they do need to look at the number of publications they should send to each agency. The distribution schedule for the N. C. Manual and the Session Laws. Repeatedly, the District Court Judges have told them that they do not need those. The Supreme Court Library stated that they do not need as many copies. Secretary Marshall would like for the distribution lists to be fine-tuned.

Secretary Marshall stated that the Directory for the Board and Commissions is not on line. That directory was published in 1996 and they received many calls for it. It is not a budget line item and without a line item for it, we cannot redo. A prior Secretary of State had some extra money and published it. They do not have the figures on the cost of redoing. Secretary Marshall further stated that the last time that an index was printed for the local government laws was twenty to thirty years ago. There has been a demand for a reprint.

Representative Barefoot, asked about the cost to update the NORTH CAROLINA MANUAL and the committee be advised. Ms. Marshall advised that the census material in the book is from the 1980's and the Secretary of State was Mr. Thad Eure. The Secretary of State does not have any available copies and there is a demand for the reprint of this book.

With regard to the Salary Reserve, Mr. Peeler referred the committee to the spreadsheet that he gave as an overview. The Department total is $48,460 FY 00-01.

NORTH CAROLINA DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE
James Long, Commissioner (Attachment II)

Mr. Daschell Propes, Chief Deputy Commissioner, filled in for Commissioner Long. He stated that their department is somewhat different from other departments as they are receipt supported in a modified way.

Commissioner Propes stated that they did not have any contracted personal services.

He highlighted the places in the miscellaneous contractual services that go up and down. In Administration, there was an increase from $16,440 to $31,593. They did some construction work in the Dobson Building and moved some walls and doors around. They do pay rent even though it is a State building. In the current year there is a figure of $18,837; there is a retired employee that is contracted back on like a half-time basis. He handles all of their surplus property. They are located in four different locations. Also, they had to replace some phone systems. The half time employee look after both of these items.

Commissioner Propes continued on this page and covered the company services, technical services, public services and Office of the Fire Marshall. They train instructors for the fire department and they return to their unit to train others. They have a matching grant program. They turn down many applications due to lacking funds.

Jim Newman stated that the part-time position collects mail from their four buildings and they use State Courier Service when possible.

Mr. Propes stated that the travel expenditure is either funded by the regulatory surcharge or other dedicated receipts that are not appropriated.

He made the point that the out of state collection agencies pay them back. The other companies do not pay for it.

Emergency Management Work is of the four main functions of the states' emergency response team. During Floyd, for example, there were twenty-three swift water rescue teams that were sent down east to save the people. They deployed each of the teams because they know which team is best suited for that kind of work. Most came from western North Carolina.

Mr. Propes stated that there are three inspectors in the Department of Insurance for new construction. He continued that unlike other buildings in this state, state buildings are not inspected for code compliance except for electrical. Any other new building in this state has a minimum of fourteen inspections on it for code compliance.

The state construction office has construction managers on every project for new buildings. The state law does not require inspections on state property.

Mr. Propes stated that they have added a security person for the entire Dobbs Building, which they did not have until they had some computers stolen. The Capitol Police had just secured the building.

Mr. Propes continued with his overview explaining the special fund cash balances as of December 31, 2000.

Mr. Propes will continue at the next meeting with a review of the Survey of Fees.

Representative Jeffus adjourned the meeting at 2:55 p.m. The next meeting will be March 15, 2001 at 8:30 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

Representative Margaret (Maggie) M. Jeffus, Presiding Chair

Agency Heads
February 21, 2001

1. New programs or items added to the continuation budget since the 1996 session, including appropriations for the 1996-97 fiscal year. (Fiscal Research Division to prepare information.)
2. Contracted personal services (expenditure account 531321)
3. Miscellaneous contractual services (expenditure account 532199)
4. Rental/lease of equipment (expenditure accounts 532521 to 532525)
5. Travel and other employee expense (expenditure accounts 5327xx)
6. Cellular phone services (expenditure accounts 532814)
7. Furniture and equipment replacement schedules (expenditure accounts 534500 to 534550)
8. Discretionary grants (expenditure accounts 5364AA)
9. Loans (expenditure accounts 5367AA)
10. Other aids and grants (expenditure accounts 5369AA) (Applies to Departments of Administration and Cultural Resources)
11. Special fund cash balances (2xxxx budget codes)
12. Positions vacant for 6 months or more as of January 23, 2001, the date of Governor Easley's letter to department heads and fiscal officers regarding the current year budget deficit. (Fiscal Research Division has printouts of vacant positions for each Agency. Therefore, it is not necessary for agencies to provide this information.)

It is understood that not all of the ten (10) items related to zero-based budgeting apply to each agency. Therefore, agencies should prepare spreadsheets that reflect the accounts that are germane to their budgets. Provide information for each expenditure account for the five-year period, FY 1996-97 to 2000-01.

To promote uniformity in reporting information and to provide continuity in subcommittee discussions, agencies are asked to provide information on a spreadsheet following the format that is provided in Attachment 1 for zero base budgeting. The recommended organization of information is by agency, expenditure account, and Fund/Division. For item #10, additional sample spreadsheets are provided to capture administrative and grant expenditures (Attachment 2).

Agency Heads
February 21, 2001

In addition to the items outlined above the subcommittee will also review the following:

1. The elements of various allocation formulas to determine if changes can be implemented to improve the method and achieve cost savings
2. Agency fees to determine if any increases are appropriate and can be used to off-set operating appropriations
3. The expanded use of the Internet for distribution of information and material with consideration of reducing publication, postage, and telephone expenditures and changing statutes, as necessary, to achieve cost savings.
4. Salary Reserve Account expenditures by Fund and the purpose for which the funds were used.

Item #1 applies only to agencies that disburse funds on a formula basis. For item #2, the subcommittee will use as a base the report on the survey of fees collected by agencies in 1997-1998 that was compiled by the Office of State Budget, Planning and Management in 1999. If information for your agency was included in the survey, the respective pages of the report are attached for review and modification (Attachment 3). In regards to item #3, the Internet has become a viable and a successful means of transmitting information electronically. Please provide a list of all agency publications by Fund including the statutory citation, the number of copies printed, the cost per copy, and the total cost of printing each year of the 1999-2001 Biennium. A sample spreadsheet is attached for providing information for item #3 (Attachment 4). Please arrange the list of publications by categories, if appropriate.

Discussion of this information will begin on Wednesday, February 28, 2001. We will contact agencies about the order of presentations, as thought is being given to starting with agencies with the smallest budgets.

We recognize the task in providing this information to the subcommittee, and extend in advance our appreciation for your work.

Please let us know of your questions.

2001-2003 biennium. The subcommittee will consider the information you present in deciding what if any amount will be included in the recommended budget for the 2001-2003 biennium for the specified line items and programs.

The current year budget shortfall is anticipated to have a significant negative impact on availability for the 2001-2003 biennium. To increase the availability for the critical needs of the agencies, the subcommittee is implementing this modified zero-based budgeting approach for the specified line items as an added dimension of its routine continuation or base budget review. After we complete the review of the zero-based budgeting information and have the Governor's recommended budget, we will continue our review by looking at the entire continuation budget and hearing presentations of the information requested by staff in their January memos to you. Again, in preparing your zero-based budgeting presentations be mindful of the fact that you are starting with $0 budgets in the specified line items. Be mindful also that the subcommittee needs to understand the impact that this will have on your ability to fulfill your responsibilities as it makes difficult budget decisions.

Please also note the additional points of clarification: (1) for salary reserves, indicate the purpose or use by Fund, e.g. $xxxx to reallocate or promote, etc. a, b, c position(s) and (2) for cellular phone usage, indicate the position of the employees who are using cellular phones.

Prepare 25 copies (3 hole-punched) of your presentation materials. If you have any questions, please contact Michele Nelson or Marilyn Chism. We recognize the task in providing this information as well as in adjusting your operations in light of the budget availability. We appreciate your work and cooperation with us and with staff.

Sincerely,

Senator Ed Warren

Representative Maggie Jeffus

Representative Wilma Sherrill

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

March 15, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Thursday, March 15, 2001 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Four of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Jeffus, Co-Chair Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, Mitchell Setzer and Gene Wilson.

The pages for this meeting were: Rafael Penn from Charlotte sponsored by Representative Cunningham, Shannon Stancil from Garner sponsored by Representative Ellis, and Ashley Arnold from Middlesex sponsored by Senator Swindell.

The meeting began with the continuation of the Department of Insurance. Mr. Dascheill Probes continued with the presentation. The continuation begins with Section 9. There were revised sheets on fees that were distributed (attachment 1) and used for review instead of those in the original packet because they are strictly fees.

From discussion it was noted that the only funds that the Department of Insurance keeps are those collected from manufactured housing licensing dealers and that money is used for operation of budget of that division.

Most publications are on-line but some are printed material also, such as pamphlets for distribution.

The Insurance Department is paying rent to the private sector. There is a consideration of buying a building and renting from the state underway. There is an indication that if the building is bought and rented to the department there would be 1½ million dollars savings. A written proposal to purchase a building is to be submitted. It is expected that this proposal will move fast since the current lease is up in September 2001.
A saving in funds would probably be realized in the next budget.

Discussion about the Regulatory Actions Division (RADs) disclosed that it is an eight-bed unit. In order to fill an essential vacant position the salary had to be increased by $12,973 from reserves.

Mr. Probes replied in answer to a question about saving money, that there is another section of the Insurance Department called Insurance Direct and it is not receipt supported. It was set up some years ago for Volunteer Safety Workers Compensation and was funded at $4,500,000. The Insurance Commissioner approached this group this year and asked if they could put in $1,500,000 and the state would put in $1,500,000 and return he other $3,000,000. He also stated that this money is reflected in the Governor's budget.

Lisbeth Evans was recognized from the Department of Cultural Resources. Ms. Evans reviewed the report (attachment 2).

There was a question regarding the digital expenses. It was explained that there are massive files of microfiche that will have to be converted to digital. Digitize machines will be needed forever to convert from fiche to digital.

It is necessary to continue with the travel budget because all of the work is at a site away from office location. If the R&R and Capital is cut then cuts the mission of Cultural Resources.

There was discussion concerning Queen Anne's Revenge. There was money spent for dives and it is non-recurring in the Governor's Budget this year. Repair and renovations schedule changes were made this year. A specific report will be brought back. There are eight employees and there is tremendous support from the University System as well as scientist from all over the world.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned at 10:00 a.m. The next meeting will be on Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. and will be a continuation of Department of Cultural Resources beginning on page 60 of the report.

Senator Ed Warren, Chairman

Delores Ledford, Clerk

Tuesday, March 20, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met on Tuesday, March 20, 2001 at 1:30 P.M. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. House members present were: Representatives Wilma Sherrill, Chair; Jeffus, Chair; Adams, Lucas, Barefoot Setzer and Adams. There were two Senate members present. Committee Counsel present: Michelle Nelson. (Visitor Registration list is attached for the record.)

Representative Wilma Sherrill chaired the meeting. She called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance and introduced the pages.

Representative Sherrill recognized Ms. Lisbeth C. "Libby" Evans, Secretary of the Department of Cultural Resources. Secretary Evans continued her presentation of the Modified Zero-Base Budget for the Department of Cultural Resources. Representative Sherrill asked Ms. Evans if the brochures printed by the department were statutorily directed and also if they were printed each year. Ms. Evans answered that the brochures are printed to be give out to be used in scrap books, etc. and were printed as necessary.

Represented Sherrill asked Ms. Evans if the brochures the Chamber of Commerce printed were the same as the ones the Department of Cultural Resources printed. Ms. Evans will check on this for her. She said she knew that some of the brochures printed by the Chamber are same as their department and some are not. She said that her department prints specifically when they have exhibits.

Relative to salaries of the department, Representative Sherrill if she could get for her a break down of the salaries. Ms. Evans said she would get that information for her.

There being no further questions, Ms. Evans; presentation was concluded. For further details, see ATTACHMENT I)

Representative Sherrill then introduced Ms. Gwyn T. Swinson, Secretary of the Department of Administration who then introduced deputies from her department in attendance: Deputies Carlton, Wooten, Cooke, Glass, Liston and Henderson.

Ms. Swinson presented the Zero-Base Budgeting Expenditures of the Department of Administration. Senator Warren asked how many cell phones were in use in the department. Ms. Swinson answered that had only one cell phone in use at the present time. Representative Sherrill asked if the cell phone was under contract. Ms. Swinson answered that the cell phone was under contract and they made it available if an employee needs at for reasons such as traveling at night alone. Representative Sherrill asked how much the cost was per year. Ms. Swinson will get that for her.

Senator Harris asked if the 30 million dollars in federal funds received by the department go through the agency. Deputy Cooke answered that the federal funds go directly to the agency receiving the funds and not the Department of Administration.

Ms. Swinson continued to explain that the Division of Non Public Education was transferred to the Department of Administration by former Governor Hunt with three employees. After much discussion relative to this division, Representative Jeffus suggested that the committee "flag" this item for further discussion.

Relative to the Mail Service Center, Senator Harris asked why all departments did not use the Mail Service Center. Staff was asked to get this information for the committee. Representative Sherrill asked how many cell phones were used by this division. The answer was 17. (For further details, see (ATTACHMENT II)

The meeting had to adjourn at 2:45 P.M. for Session. Thus, the presentation of the Department of Administration will be continued on Wednesday, March 21, 2001.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosa S. Kelley
Committee Assistant

Representative Wilma Sherrill, Chair

* For the six fiscal years listed above, budget cuts in State Appropriations amounted to $11,514,038
* For the six fiscal years listed above, position cuts amounted to 40.75

Division of Archives and History:

Virtually out of space, the Archives and Records Section desperately needs a new state records center to meet its legislatively mandated responsibilities to manage the state's records. In addition, funds are needed for e-government initiatives (digitization of state records), and to continue excavation of the probable Queen Anne's Revenge (Blackbeard's flagship). The division has lost over 40 positions during the 1990's through various budget cuts.

North Carolina Museum of Art:

For 2000-2001, 89.9%, or $3,627,199 of the Museum of Art's budget consists of personnel related costs. 8.8%, or $355,701 covers basic operating expenses such as telephone, supplies, and insurance. Only 1.3%, or $51,511 directly supports museum programming.

North Carolina Arts Council:

Since 1994, the Arts Council has cut 4.5 Federal positions, equalling $120,000 in salaries and fringes. This is a 16% reduction in Arts Council staff, to 24.25 positions.

North Carolina Symphony:

In the early 1980's, State funding was approximately 70% of the operating budget, with 30% coming from the private sector. Now, these percentages have reversed. State funding is now only 29% of its budget, with private sector funding at 71%.

State Library:

Since 1990, the State Library's budget to support direct service to customers has been reduced by over $1 million (a 20% reduction). This includes $600,000 and 6 positions in State funds and $500,000 and 6 positions in Federal funds. These funds also covered basic operations, library materials, books, and equipment.

North Carolina Museum of History:

In 2000 the Museum had its first personnel study in twenty-six years (1974). Funding does not exist to implement any part of the study.

DEPARTMENT OF CULTURAL RESOURCES

More information about the Department of Cultural Resources is available on the Internet at the Department's Home Page on the World Wide Web. The address is: http://web.dcr.state.nc.us

Mission Statement

The mission of the Department of Cultural Resources is to enrich the cultural, educational and economic well-being of citizens and visitors to North Carolina through the preservation, development, presentation, promotion and dissemination of artistic, historical and information resources. (G.S. 121-1-42; G.S. 125-1-19; G.S. 140-5.3-15; G.S. 140-1-6; G.S. 143B-49-133.1).

The mission statements and summary descriptions of the department's divisions follow:

Division of Archives and History: To collect, preserve, and utilize the state's historic resources so that present and future residents may better understand their history. The division safeguards the documentary and material evidence of past generations for the education of all citizens and the protection of their democratic rights.

The Division of Archives and History is responsible for researching, preserving and maintaining a record of North Carolina's rich cultural heritage. The division consists of seven sections: State Historic Sites, Archives and Records, Historical Publications, Archaeology and Historic Preservation, State Capitol, and Tryon Palace Historic Sites and Gardens and the Maritime Museum. The Director's Office also oversees operation of divisional computing, Stagville Center, the Western Office, the First Flight Centennial Commission, the Federation of N.C. Historical Societies and the N.C. Literary and Historical Association.

The Division's Internet address is: www.ah.dcr.state.nc.us.

North Carolina Museum of Art: To acquire, preserve, and exhibit works of art for the education and enjoyment of the people of the state, and to conduct programs of education, research and publication designed to encourage an interest in and an appreciation for art on the part of the people of the state". (G.S. 140-5.12, enacted by the General Assembly April 3, 1947)

In addition, the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Museum of Art adopted the following additional language in 1995 as a means to amplify the institution's mission:

"The North Carolina Museum of Art will be an active partner with arts and educational organizations that seek to advance knowledge about the visual arts and the creative process, and with economic development sectors of the state and its communities. The Museum is committed to serving people of diverse cultural backgrounds and of all ages with innovative programs of high quality, and to extending awareness of the collections of the Museum to the people of the state. The North Carolina Museum of Art acknowledges the ownership of its collections and facilities by all the people of North Carolina."—Board of Trustees Resolution adopted March 15, 1995

The North Carolina Museum of Art houses permanent displays of the state's art collections, plus changing exhibitions. The Museum's holdings represent over 5,000 years of human achievement and creativity. Collections of Renaissance and Baroque, English 18th century and American 19th century art are internationally recognized for their excellence.

NCMA is the premier institution of its type in the southeastern United States. The Museum of Art regularly receives national and international recognition for its collections, acquisitions, and programs. It has become a major tourist attraction, which draws many visitors from within the state and from beyond its borders each year. The hugely successful exhibition of the works of sculptor Auguste Rodin in the summer of 2000 drew over 300,000 visitors from around the nation. According to an economic impact study prepared by UNC-Chapel Hill, the Rodin exhibition contributed over $50 million in direct economic impact to the state. The Museum makes strong contributions to education and the state's cultural environment, further promoting the economy of North Carolina by helping to attract business and industry to locate and expand here.

In addition to exhibitions, the Museum's programs include films, lectures, concerts, workshops and classes for adults and children. Outreach programs are conducted across the state. The Museum features an outdoor performing arts facility and cinema, a gift shop, and a restaurant. The North Carolina Museum of Art actively employs technology to provide additional access to the Museum's collections. In the Museum, our interactive learning center, the Collection Connection provides computer access to digital images, information, and educational games based on the collection. North Carolina Arts Council: To enrich the cultural life of the state by nurturing and supporting excellence in the arts and by providing opportunities for every North Carolinian to experience the arts.

The North Carolina Arts Council provides grants, technical assistance, information, and a variety of services to non-profit organizations and individuals. The Grassroots Arts Program provides funds for local arts activities in every county on a per capita basis. Other grants support dance, music, theater, touring and presenting, folklife, literature and the public media, visual arts, and public art and community design. Fellowships and residencies are offered to professional artists and folk heritage awards to the state's finest folk artists. Arts education programs are offered in pre-K through 12th grade as well as after-school settings. Nearly 8.5 million people participated in Arts Council-funded projects in FY 98-99

North Carolina Symphony: The mission of the North Carolina Symphony is to present an orchestra of the highest artistic standard that enriches, entertains, and educates diverse audiences in a variety of settings and represents North Carolina as a leader in performance and music education.

The North Carolina Symphony, a major professional orchestra founded in 1932, performs approximately 175 adult and children's concerts each year, taking music to a wide range of communities across the state. In 1943, the symphony became the first state orchestra in the country to receive a state grant for ongoing support, and it has continued to receive the state aid for 57 years. The orchestra has one of the most extensive educational programs in the country, performing about 60 educational concerts a year as a part of the state's music curriculum for school children and sponsoring several youth competitions and a string internship program. The N.C. Symphony Society raises approximately 71% of the symphony's annual operating budget, while the N.C. Symphony Foundation holds the permanent endowment.

State Library of North Carolina: The State Library of North Carolina focuses its services to the people of the state in three ways:

1. by working in partnership with local communities to develop and extend public library services statewide;
2. by coordinating efforts among all types of libraries to improve library services and to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure; and
3. by providing direct library services to a constituency that includes government officials, business people, and the general public, as well as services offered through the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

The State Library of North Carolina has a long, rich history that began with its founding in 1812, the appointment of the first full-time State Library in 1843, the establishment of the North Carolina Library Commission in 1909, and the merger of the commission and the State Library into a single agency in 1955. Today, the State Library serves North Carolinians statewide by working in partnership with local communities to develop and extend public library services; by developing the North Carolina Library and Information Network to coordinate efforts among all types of libraries to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure; and by providing direct library services to a constituency that includes government officials, business people, and the general public, as well as services offered through the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The State Library administers the State Aid to Public Libraries Fund which will distribute $16.9 million in fiscal year 1998-99 through formula grants to public libraries serving all 100 counties as well as the federal Library Services and Technology Act.

North Carolina Museum of History: To promote the understanding of the history and material culture of North Carolina for the educational benefit of North Carolinians. Through collections and historical interpretation, its museums encourage citizens and visitors to explore and understand the past; to reflect on their own lives and their place in history; and preserve state, regional, and local history for future generations.

The North Carolina Museum of History promotes understanding of the history and material culture of North Carolina for citizens, school children and visitors in all one hundred counties. Three regional branches extend the museum's services: the Museum of the Albemarle in Elizabeth City, the Museum of the Cape Fear in Fayetteville, and the Mountain Gateway Museum in Old Fort. The museum develops, produces and maintains over 61,000 square feet of long and short term exhibits with interpretive programs, special events and publications for 350,000 visitors annually; it provides outreach to schools and community groups through programs such as the Tar Heel Junior Historians, a North Carolina Information Highway site and an Internet home page; and it serves other museums and historical organizations throughout the state through consultations and professional services. The museum's activities provide access to collections numbering over 300,000 artifacts representing all aspects of North Carolina history. Its support group, the North Carolina Museum of History Associates (numbering some 15,000), is the largest state history museum support group in the United States.

The Office of the Secretary performs planning/policy development activities for the department and assures that departmental programs serve the people of North Carolina. The Office of the Secretary directs the North Carolina Awards program, instituted in 1961 by the N.C. General Assembly. The North Carolina Awards is the highest honor the state can bestow, which recognizes notable accomplishments by North Carolina citizens in the fields of scholarship, research, the fine arts and public leadership. The four units under the Office of the Secretary are: Administrative Services, Capital Projects Unit, Public Affairs Office and the Human Resources Office.

The Roanoke Island Commission, an independent commission situated within the Department of Cultural Resources, was established by G.S.141B-131.1 in 1994 and operates the Elizabeth II and Roanoke Island Festival Park. The commission is charged to protect, preserve, develop and interpret the historical and cultural assets of Roanoke Island.

History of the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources

Although the Tar Heel State has touted its cultural wealth since colonial times, not until 1971 did the artistic and historic treasures of North Carolina have a state-level agency devoted solely to their maintenance and preservation. First created as the Department of Art, Culture, and History, what evolved into the present-day Department of Cultural Resources was the first such cabinet-level agency in the nation. The founding of the department by the N.C. General Assembly took place during state government reorganization, helping to consolidate the efforts of statewide cultural organizations which had been working for decades to promote North Carolina's artistic, musical, informational and historic riches. So, as is true of many departments formed during reorganization, it included several agencies much older than the department itself.

N.C. Division of Archives and History

In 1903, the N.C. Literary and Historical Association requested that the General Assembly establish a commission to preserve the history of North Carolina. A bill was introduced by Sen. R. F. Beasley of Union County, who was assisted by Raleigh lawyer William Joseph Peele, who wrote the bill. The law was enacted on March 9, 1903, creating the N.C. Historical Commission, consisting of five members appointed for two-year terms by the governor. They were given $500 and were instructed to collect valuable documents pertaining to the state's history. The members received no personal monetary compensation for their work.

In 1907, the legislature strengthened the commission by increasing the appropriation and by naming Robert D. W. Connor the first salaried secretary of the commission.

A series of secretaries followed, including Albert Ray Newsome, who encouraged the commission to turn from simply collecting materials to preserving and displaying them. In 1935 Christopher Crittenden became secretary, an association that continued for 33 years.

In the 1940s there was a reorganization of state government, and the name changed from the N.C. Historical Commission to the Department of Archives and History. Within this department were eventually created the Division of Archives and Manuscripts, the Division of Publications, the Hall of History (later the N.C. Museum of History) and Historic Sites.

In 1971 another government reorganization created the Department of Art, Culture, and History, later renamed the Department of Cultural Resources. Archives and History became a division within the new department, and its component parts became sections within the division.

The legislature created another N.C. Historical Commission in 1973 to serve as an advisory board for the N.C. Division of Archives and History. These members are appointed by the governor.

The sections within the division today are Archives and Records, Archaeology and Historic Preservation, Historic Sites, Historical Publications, State Capitol/Visitor Services, Tryon Palace Historic Sites and Gardens, and the N.C. Maritime Museum. The N.C. Museum of History became a separate division in 1996.

North Carolina Museum of Art

The North Carolina Museum of Art traces its origin to 1924 when the Art Society of North Carolina was founded with the purpose, "to promote an interest in providing a State Art Museum in Raleigh." In 1929, the General Assembly placed the Art Society under state patronage, which began a tradition of public/private partnership that continues to the present. In its early days, the Art Society began a program of collecting, staging exhibitions and educational programs even before there was a permanent museum. In 1947, North Carolina became the first state in the nation to appropriate public funds for the purchase of works of art to establish a state supported art museum. This effort was led by Senator Robert Lee Humber from Pitt County who obtained a commitment from Samuel H. Kress, the national five-and-dime store magnate, to contribute $ 1 million in art from his great collection with the stipulation that it be matched by the state. Armed with this extraordinary pledge, Humber leveraged support to gain legislative approval of the original appropriation to establish the North Carolina Museum of Art.

In 1953, the General Assembly appropriated funds to transform the former State Highway Building on Morgan Street in downtown Raleigh into an exhibition facility. William R. Valentiner, an internationally know art scholar, was appointed as the Museum's first Director in 1955. When NCMA opened on April 6, 1956, blockbuster crowds were thrilled with the results. The Museum operated in this location until 1983.

The present location of the North Carolina Museum of Art on Blue Ridge Road in west Raleigh was completed in 1983. This is the only art museum in the United States with a significant collection to be located on a large tract of land. The Museum has developed a master plan to develop the site into a major cultural destination. The first phase of that development was the Joseph M. Bryan, Jr. Theater in the Museum Park, an outdoor performing arts facility and cinema that opened in 1997. Here, the Museum presents live performances and films. Private funding of over 2 million dollars was raised for the design and construction of this facility.

Looking ahead, a major new development and opportunity for the Museum occurred in the summer of 2000. The General Assembly allocated to the Department of Cultural Resources, for the Museum of Art, the former Polk Youth Correctional facility land, which adjoins the Museum site. The Museum of Art had already begun plans to expand its current facility, which it had long since outgrown. However, analysis of the current building revealed the difficulty and high cost of adding to it. Recognizing the unique opportunity presented by the transfer of the former Polk site, the Museum's Board of Trustees at its December 2000 meeting, endorsed the concept of an entirely new building for the Museum to be located on the former Polk site. The new structure will not replace the current building, but will add significant space for education, public programs, and the state's growing collections. Many technical support facilities in the current building will continue to be used. The Museum is committed to building a new gallery building commensurate with its world class art collection. North Carolina deserves no less.

The State Library's mission and organizational structure today reflect its development during almost 200 years of its history. In 2001, the State Library both works to make certain that all North Carolinians have the best possible library service and to deliver direct library services as a special library to state government, a genealogical research service, and a library for blind and physically handicapped people in our state.

Although several public libraries existed, the only tax-supported library in North Carolina prior to the twentieth century was the State Library. The Library was founded in 1812, and an inventory of the State Library in 1828 listed approximately 1,150 titles in fifteen categories from "Atlases" to "Speeches and Debates." Of those books, only 117 survived the State House fire of 1831; of the 117 volumes, 97 were on loan at the time of the fire. From 1841 until 1921, the library's annual book budget was $500. The first full-time State Librarian was appointed in 1843 by the library's trustees; and after 1871, the appointment was subject to approval by the General Assembly. In 1886, the library was available to the members of the General Assembly during its sessions, to officers of the Executive Department, to justices of the state supreme court, to the attorney general and to the commissioner of agriculture.

The other arm of the State Library began as the "North Carolina Library Commission," established by the General Assembly in 1909 in response to a "...statewide demand for a more systematic extension and careful fostering of the general library movement." During its first decades, the Commission operated a number of traveling libraries that served communities across the state that did not have public library service. Over time, with the establishment of the Aid to Public Libraries fund in the 1940, counties developed countywide library service. The traveling libraries continued until mid-century, when they were largely superseded by local book collections. In the mid-1990s, Warren County became the 100th countywide library qualified to receive state aid, completing the process of assuring that every person in North Carolina has access to public library service. Today, all 100 counties have access to public library service.

The General Assembly approved legislation merging State Library and the Library Commission into one agency in 1956. The number of libraries in the state,

N.C. Arts Council

Governor Terry Sanford created the North Carolina Arts Council by executive order in 1964 to "survey the status and needs of the arts" and to "advance the interests of the arts." The Arts Council became a state agency in 1967 during Governor Dan K. Moore's term of office. Today the Arts Council provides technical assistance and more than 1,200 grants each year to artists and nonprofit organizations throughout the state, ensuring that citizens in all 100 counties have opportunities to experience the arts.

North Carolina's unique approach to stimulating arts development was populist from the start, helping communities help themselves. When the Arts Council published its first survey of the state in 1967, 17 local arts councils and 233 arts groups were organizing, hiring staff, and investing in arts facilities in communities across the state. Thirty-three years later, statistics compiled by the Arts Council show:

* A network of 103 local arts councils
* 2,623 arts organizations operating in the state
* 8.5 million people participating annually in arts activities funded by the Arts Council

Modest but steady increase in financial support from the state have enabled this growth. In its first two years combined, the Arts Council disbursed $187,816 in program support and grants. In the fiscal year 1999-99, the Arts Council awarded $4,947,652 to 503 arts organizations, 365 schools and community and civic groups, and 44 individuals.

The Arts Council's grants have had a proven catalytic effect. Arts groups attribute much of their ability to raise funds locally to the Council's support, its rigorous review processes and its technical guidance. In 1998-99, Arts Council funds stimulated a 14 to 1 match in individual, business, local government, and foundation support.

Over the years, the Arts Council has moved from being primarily a grant-making agency to one which also plays a major role as a connector, catalyst and activist partner in developing and channeling the state's arts resources and cementing stronger partnerships between arts groups and the citizens of the state.

N.C. Symphony

The N.C. Symphony was formed in 1932 under the direction of Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Lamar Stringfield. It served as a WPA project in the 1930s and in the 1940s became the first orchestra to receive state funding on a continuous basis. Under the 33-year leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swalin, the Symphony began its grassroots emphasis of taking the orchestra to the people of the state. That tradition has continued every year since the 1943 Horn Tootin' Bill was passed in the General Assembly. The including public, college, associational, and special libraries had grown from 20 in 1910 to 266 in 1956. North Carolina's libraries continue to grow and thrive in the age of electronic information with leadership from the State Library.

N.C. Museum of History

After visiting Boston in the 1880s and marveling at its preserved past, Raleigh News and Observer publisher Samuel A'Court Ashe began an editorial campaign encouraging the saving of North Carolina's history so that natives and visitors could learn of North Carolinian ancestors' lives.

Following Ashe's campaign, city editor Frederick Augustus Olds, the "father" of the N.C. Museum of History, began traveling across North Carolina, collecting objects from the state's past and listening to the stories associated with each item. Also following Ashe's campaign, a gallery of history was created in the State Museum (now called the N.C. State Museum of Natural Sciences).

On December 5, 1902 after developing a sizable private collection, Olds combined his historical materials with the State Museum's historical items to create the Hall of History. The artifacts were contained in 37 cases which were mothproof, dustproof and had double safety locks.

In 1914 after the N.C. Historical Commission took over the Hall of History, the hall moved into its second home in the State Administration Building, (now known as the Ruffin Building), at the intersection of Morgan and Fayetteville Streets. It soon became obvious that even these two large halls would not be adequate space for the fast-growing number of items.

Under the commission, the Hall of History took on a new two-fold purpose: to teach the history of North Carolina and to preserve historical materials. The museum's educational programs and preservation techniques would grow in coming years.

In 1939, the Hall of History moved to the newly constructed Education Building on the corner of Edenton and Salisbury Streets. With the new space, designed specifically for the museum, came goals for more attractive exhibits, improved lighting, and a better arrangement of artifacts as well as a new emphasis on educational programs and the care and organization of artifacts.

After decades of growth, the Hall of History was no longer a "hall." On July 1, 1965, it became the N.C. Museum of History and was named a division within the Department of Archives and History (now a division within the Department of Cultural Resources.) By the middle of August 1968, the museum was moved to the new $3 million Archives and History/State Library Building at 109 East Jones Street. More than 90,000 items were moved during the next 18 months; the mezzanine exhibits opened in late 1973, completing the galleries in that building.

John D. Ellington became administrator in 1974 and worked to establish the N.C. Museum of History Associates in 1975. The Associates, a support group for the museum, were instrumental in finding more space for the museum.

At One East Edenton Street, a groundbreaking took place June 14, 1988, for what was to become the current home of the N.C. Museum of History. Completed in August 1992, the new $29 million facility had a research library, a variety of classroom spaces, a large and well-equipped 315-seat auditorium and large gallery spaces totaling 55,000 square feet.
The N.C. Museum of History was named the sixth division within the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources in 1996 by Cultural Resources Secretary Betty Ray McCain following a review by the N.C. Historical Commission.

Division of Archives and History

Overview

The Division of Archives and History is the largest division in the Department of Cultural Resources. It is also the third oldest state historical agency in the country, having been formed in 1903. Nationally recognized, the Division of Archives and History has received a number of awards, including the first Distinguished Service Award of the Society of American Archivists in 1969 and the James Harvey Robinson Prize of the American Historical Association in 1984.

The Division of Archives and History is organized into sections based on program functions and activities as mandated by state law; intersectional functions are provided by the Director's Office (divisional administration). The Western Office in Asheville is also intersectional in nature but treated as a separate fund for budgetary purposes.

The division currently employs 415 permanent staff. Seventeen of these positions were added effective FY 1997-1998, when the North Carolina Maritime Museum (Beaufort, Carteret County) was transferred from the Department of Agriculture to Cultural Resources. In the 1999 General Assembly, the Maritime Museum at Southport was transferred to the division and three more employees were added.

The division's current challenges include:

- Each section of the agency is faced with flat or declining resources to accomplish its mission. This situation is forcing the agency to assess its service levels in the face of increasing demands from citizens and public agencies.
- The division is largely unable to meet its capital improvement needs. Such needs include plans for existing infrastructure as well as new projects.
- The agency is falling behind instead of progressing in the realm of the Internet and other technologies. The progress made to date has not been sufficient, given the dynamic nature of technological change.

Division Administration (Director's Office) – Fund 1210

Divisional administration provides overall coordination and control of state public history management and intersectional programming and directly supplies a variety of services:

- Public/Private Partnerships. Provides staff for the Federation of North Carolina Historical Societies, Inc. (uniting over 220 such organizations in all 100 counties) and for the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association, Inc. The division also provides staff support for the North Carolina Historical Commission—the statutory authority for rule-making and grants review for history programs of the state.

- Research. The administration's Research Branch serves as the division's ultimate point of review for research-related historical matters, provides internal research reports, manages and operates the Highway Historical Marker program, and answers general research inquiries.

- Field Services. Educational and public service programs are provided through the Western Office (Asheville) and Historic Stagville (Durham County).

- Intersectional Planning and Supervision. Current examples include: the administration of the "QAR Project" centering on the recently discovered early 18th century shipwreck believed to be Blackbeard's flagship, Queen Anne's Revenge, the "2003 Project"—the commemoration of the one-hundredth anniversary of Archives and History and administration of the division's web site.

The office also oversees the division's general business and financial operations, provides curatorial services for the Executive Mansion, and provides "pass through" funds to the First Flight Centennial Commission.

Archives and Records Section – Fund 1230

The Archives and Records Section conducts statewide archival and records management programs for state, county, and municipal government to provide economical and efficient preservation, maintenance, and access to public records. The State Archives maintains and provides access to the records of the colony and state of North Carolina from the 17th century to the present. The Archives collects and preserves private papers, photographs, audiovisual materials, maps, and other documents of historical value. Some 13,000 visitors a year use the State Archives in person; about 15,000 postal and electronic mail requests are processed each year. Users include genealogists, historians, attorneys, students, educators, government agencies, and the general public. The section also maintains an electronic finding aid describing much of its holdings and is developing a program for providing access to selected public records via the Internet. In addition, the section administers the Outer Banks History Center in Manteo, a research facility that focuses on the state's maritime and coastal history.

The section also administers a comprehensive records management program for records of state and local government and for the community college and university systems as required by GS 121 and 132. Services include inventory and appraisal of public records; development of records retention and disposition schedules; operation of the State Records Center for efficient, low-cost storage of semi-current records; providing comprehensive micrographic and other reformatting services; and offering consultation, assistance, and training for public employees and public agencies across the state on records management issues including electronic records. The section also provides regional records management services through offices in Asheville and Greenville. Annual records management services include:

- Over 4 million micrographic images produced;
- Over 800 records management consultations with public agencies;
- Over 25,000 requests for records from the State Records Center;
- Over 40 records management training workshops conducted

The Archives and Records Section currently faces three major challenges. The first is handling the proliferation of public records resulting from the state's growth. Land transactions and conveyances as well as court records have shown a particular escalation in number. There is a tremendous backlog in the processing, microfilming, and preservation of county and state public records. While the section is examining and implementing new procedures to deal with this backlog more efficiently, there still remains a growing amount of records for which the Archives has responsibility. The second challenge involves storage of records from state and county agencies. Space is desperately needed for records storage for both original and microfilmed records. A short-term solution has been to lease private warehouse space, while the long-term solution is to build a new state records center--a solution adopted by other southern states in recent years. A third challenge involves the development of an electronic records program that includes both the digital preservation and access of public documents as well as a program to deal with the growing number of government records that exist only in electronic format. The Legislative Study Commission's study committee on the Digitization of Public Records by State Archives has recommended the funding of expansion budget requests that address this challenge.

State Historic Sites – Fund 1241

The mission of North Carolina Historic Sites is "preserving the past for all people" through interpreting, operating, maintaining, developing, and preserving the twenty-two state-owned historic sites located from the mountains to the coast telling North Carolina's story to her people and her visitors.

The Historic Sites Section served almost 789,000 visitors in 2000 at the following sites: Alamance Battleground (Alamance County), Aycock Birthplace (Wayne), Historic Bath (Beaufort), Bennett Place (Durham), Bentonville Battleground (Johnston), Charlotte Hawkins Brown Memorial (Guilford), Brunswick Town (Brunswick), CSS Neuse/Caswell Memorial (Lenoir), Duke Homestead (Durham), Fort Dobbs (Iredell), Fort Fisher (New Hanover), Historic Edenton (Chowan), Historic Halifax (Halifax), Horne Creek Living Historical Farm (Surry), House in the Horseshoe (Moore), North Carolina Transportation Museum (Rowan), Polk Memorial (Mecklenburg), Reed Gold Mine (Cabarrus), Somerset Place (Washington and Tyrrell), Town Creek Indian Mound (Montgomery), Vance Birthplace (Buncombe), and Thomas Wolfe Memorial (Buncombe).

Off-site educational programs principally served 75,000 participants in school programs and people with other offerings in 2000. Around 95,000 students visited Historic Sites in 2,300 organized school groups and 41,000 general groups. Nearly 180,000 visitors attended over 120 special events and programs at various sites in 2000. Historic Sites personnel were represented at 78 off-site promotional shows. Over 6,500 volunteers contributed nearly 106,000 hours to programs at the sites; this was the equivalent of approximately 50 full time employees. Nearly 1,000 offenders gave over 20,000 hours of court-ordered or inmate labor during the year. Four donors gave $7,500 worth of major in-kind and artifact gifts to the Section in 2000. The Section received $1,800,000 in 46 grants and cash gifts during the period.

The section maintains 236 buildings totaling 650,000 square feet as well as other structures such as a gold mine, Civil War ironclad and earthen forts. Historic Sites used both historically furnished structures and modern exhibit areas to interpret our sites. As of August 1998, we had 68,500 square feet of interior furnished space and 126,177 square feet of modern exhibit space. The Section maintains around 1,800 acres at the twenty-two historic sites.

Some projects of interest in 2001 at Historic Sites are a symposium for the centennial of Charles B. Aycock's governorship, continuing research and rebuilding of the slave structures and culture at Somerset Place, fundraising for the Back Shop restoration at North Carolina Transportation Museum, the exterior restoration of the Chowan County Courthouse, continued community and support group efforts toward saving additional sections of the battleground at Bentonville, rebuilding the Thomas Wolfe Memorial after the 1998 arson fire, providing temporary staff space at the CSS Neuse site in the aftermath of Hurricane Floyd devastation, and production of major new exhibits at Fort Fisher and Brunswick Town.

Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens—Fund 1242

Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens in New Bern is North Carolina's oldest historic site. The reconstructed government house opened to the public in 1959. The site has expanded over time and today serves about 85,000 visitors annually through tours and history education programs offered 360 days a year. Programs in North Carolina history include, in addition to guided tours, workshops, lectures, re-enactment activities, garden demonstrations and programs, character interpretation and dramatic presentations, crafts and domestic skill demonstrations, archaeological digs, and period dance and music offerings. The lead attraction is the restored 18th century palace which served as the seat of government first for the Colony of North Carolina and then as the first capitol of the State. Other sites open to the public include the 1779 home of the North Carolina Revolutionary patriot John Wright Stanly, the 1830 Dixon-Stevenson House, the 1804 Robert Hay House, the 1809 New Bern Academy, and 14 acres of formal and kitchen gardens.

The mission of Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens is history education and preservation of historic artifacts. Preservation efforts focus on care of the historic buildings and a sizeable and significant collection of objects ranging from furniture through rare books. History education is carried out through a wide offering of programs year-round that serve both adults and children. Fifteen thousand school children visit each year to learn about their heritage as North Carolinians. Curriculum based programs are available for 2nd, 4th, 6th, and 8th graders, as well as high school students. The Living History Classroom, an educational newsletter designed for teachers, is distributed twice annually to more than 1,000 North Carolina educators to advance history education. An African American history research project was launched in 1998 and is providing important information for interpreting the roles of African Americans in the history of Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens and the broader central coast area of North Carolina.

Professional staff members carry out the Palace mission both at home and throughout the state, by carrying educational programs and services off site on a regular basis. Additionally, objects from the collections are loaned to other institutions for inclusion in special exhibitions.

Tryon Palace Historic Sites and Gardens is an accredited museum of the American Association of Museums, a distinction held by only 700 of the Association's 9,000 members nationally.

Heritage tourism is an important and growing industry in North Carolina. Visitors to Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens typically stay two to five nights in area hotels while combining their Palace experience with visits to other North Carolina heritage tour sites. Tourism revenues generated by these visits contribute significantly to the economy of the central North Carolina coast area and to the state's tourism industry generally. Paid admissions to Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens generated more than $570,000 in fiscal 1999-2000.

Planning for a new history education center is underway. This state-of-the-art facility will greatly enhance the institutional mission by using 21st century techniques to advance the teaching and understanding of North Carolina's early history.

State Capitol/Visitor Services Section – Fund 1243

The section annually serves over 400,000 people who visit the National Historic Landmark 1840 State Capitol (177,101 visitors), the Executive Mansion (50,864 visitors), and the Capital Area Visitor Center (73,405 visitors). The staff annually provides scheduling services and printed itineraries to approximately 3,200 school classes (111,850 students) touring the three state museums, the Capitol, the Legislative Building, and the Mansion. Thousands of North Carolina schoolchildren participate in educational programs provided by this section each year. The staff provides educational programs to visitors on the history and architecture of the Capitol and the Mansion, and the history and functions of state government. The Capitol and visitor center are open to the public seven days a week, 360 days a year. In addition to daily tours of the Capitol and seasonal tours of the Mansion and gardens, the programs include a variety of special event programs, an ongoing schedule of public lectures, workshops, and historical drams programs (living history presentations). Members of the staff coordinate over 100 special events held at the Capitol as well as develop and present educational presentations throughout the state. The nonprofit State Capitol Foundation, composed of twenty-four leading citizens of the state, seeks funding and support to assist with Capitol restoration and education programs. The ten-year restoration of the Capitol included interior and exterior painting, electrical rewiring, installing a new elevator, lighting of Union (Capitol) Square, and new HVAC systems. These projects were completed in February 2001.

The Capital Area Visitor Center is presently located in the 1914 Andrews-London House on the corner of Blount and Lane Streets. A new visitor center is being designed and will be located on the corner of Edenton and Wilmington Streets. An updated scheduling program will enable teachers to schedule tours, receive itineraries, and communicate more effectively via the Internet. Each day hundreds of national and international visitors, as well as several thousand N.C. schoolchildren will receive services at the center. Students will be safely unloaded onsite at the center, receive orientations in the 196-seat auditorium, visit restrooms, store and eat their lunches onsite (outside and inside picnic areas available), view traveling and permanent exhibits in two galleries, and participate in educational programs in one of three classrooms. The new center will have areas available for meetings, receptions, dramas, galas, and other special events and ceremonies. Underground parking will be available for visitors and state government employees.

North Carolina Maritime Museum – Fund 1245

The North Carolina Maritime Museum in Beaufort was transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Cultural Resources during the 1997 Session of the North Carolina General Assembly. Since the transfer, the Museum System has expanded to include three; the North Carolina Maritime Museum at Southport and the North Carolina Maritime Museum on Roanoke Island.

The North Carolina Maritime Museum System's annual visitation is over 220,000 people. That figure includes 60 percent in-state, 35 percent out-of-state, and 5 percent foreign. Some 80,000 school children visit the museum every year for general students. The Friends of the N.C. Maritime Museum, the museum's 501(c)(3) support group, is composed of 1,600 paid members. The Museum is accredited by the American Association of Museums, the highest professional certification available in North America. The museum is open to the public seven days a week, 360 days a year.

The North Carolina Maritime Museum is a treasure-trove of collections, exhibits, boats, and a library filled with a wide variety of books on marine topics. The Museum's Watercraft Center offers evening and weekend classes in boatbuilding, model building, and half model construction. The museum's Cape Lookout Studies Program conducts overnight field programs of several days' duration. The North Carolina Maritime Museum is the designated repository for the storage and exhibition of the underwater archaeology artifacts recovered from Blackbeard's flag ship the Queen Anne's Revenge.

In 1998 the museum purchased for 3.2 million dollars a 36-acre waterfront site for museum expansion. The property has 1,852 feet of estuarine shoreline in Beaufort to support the museum's expansion needs for the next 25+ years. The basic concept for this property is to build a turn of the century maritime village where there will be displays of tall ships, programs for junior sailing and boat builders, and educational exhibits and programs on maritime history. The museum's mission is to preserve and interpret all aspects of the rich maritime heritage found in North Carolina's coastal environment, through educational exhibits, programs and field trips.

State Historic Preservation Office – Fund 1250

This section identifies, protects, and enhances the historic resources of North Carolina through a coordinated statewide program of information and assistance for public agencies, private organizations, and the state's citizens to enable them to undertake successful historic preservation planning and project implementation. Section programs include the processing of nominations to the National Register of Historic Places, comprehensive architectural and archaeological surveys, site excavations and interpretation, and technical assistance for the care and treatment of historic buildings. It functions as the state clearinghouse for federal and state protection and incentive programs for properties that qualify for the National Register of Historic Places.

Historic preservation state tax credit laws were enacted by the General Assembly in 1997 and became effective January 1, 1998. The Historic Preservation Office (HPO) administers the preservation tax credits program, and in calendar year 2000, the HPO processed 279 applications for nonincome-producing historic structures representing 114 proposed projects with a total estimated rehabilitation cost of $18.4 million and 41 completed projects with a total cost of $5.4 million. The 279 applications in 2000 for nonincome-producing structures represent a 39% increase in the demand for services from 201 applications in calendar year 1998.

In addition, during calendar year 2000, the section processed 224 Historic Preservation Certification Applications for federal and state historic rehabilitation tax credits for income-producing historic structures representing 75 proposed projects with a total estimated rehabilitation cost of $124.4 million and 44 completed projects with a total cost of $39.4 million. The 224 applications in 2000 for income producing structures represent a 37% increase in the demand for services from 163 applications in calendar year 1998. The total estimated rehabilitation construction costs generated by the tax credits in the last state fiscal year amounts to $142.8 million dollars.

In state fiscal year 1998 – 1999 the section processed 2,996 requests for environmental review related to construction and development. By comparison, the HPO processed 4,035 reviews in state fiscal year 1999 – 2000 representing a 35% increase in caseload. In the same period National Register Nominations processed increased by two from 54 to 56 representing a 4 % expansion. However, it should be pointed out that the nomination caseload of state fiscal year 1999-2000 is 60% more than the fiscal year 1996 – 1997 caseload of 35. Because National Register listing is a prerequisite for taking the state and federal tax credits, the case load rapidly rose after the current state credits went into effect in 1998, rising to 54 nominations by the 1998-1999 fiscal year.

In addition, in the last state fiscal year of 1999 – 2000 the State Historic Preservation Office provided approximately 9,200 additional consultations and services pursuant to law and public request. Currently, 36 cities and counties throughout the state are Certified Local Governments (CLGs)—a federally authorized designation that bestows funding preference under a small federal preservation grants program administered through the State Historic Preservation Office.

Office of State Archaeology

From its central Raleigh office, and branch offices in Fort Fisher, Morehead City, and Asheville, the Office of State Archaeology (OSA) safeguards the prehistoric, historic, and underwater archaeological resources of North Carolina through a coordinated statewide program of data inventory, resource protection, public education and technical assistance. The OSA is part of the North Carolina Division of Archives and History, Department of Cultural Resources, and serves as the professional archaeology staff for the North Carolina Historical Commission. It dovetails with the State Historic Preservation Office in providing archaeological review of compliance projects. Processing nominations to the National Register of Historic Places, grant administration and comprehensive archaeological resource planning also figure prominently in the OSA's roster of responsibilities.

The section maintains a statewide, computer-based inventory of archaeological sites, along with maps, photographs, and other supportive data. OSA libraries house more than 7500 compliance reports, theses, academic volumes, and journals. Laboratory processing and curation of artifact collections occur at the OSA Research Center, where archaeologists, students, educators, and agencies may study the center's holdings.

The OSA protects endangered archaeological sites through enforcement of the North Carolina Archaeological Resources Protection Act (G.S. 70, article 2), the Unmarked Human Burial and Human Skeletal Remains Protection Act (G.S. 70, article 3), the North Carolina Archaeological Record Program (G.S. 70, article 4), and the "abandoned shipwrecks law" (G.S. 121, article 3). In FYs 1998-2000, the section processed four ARPA permits for archaeological investigations on state property, and issued 29 permits for shipwreck exploration. The OSA encourages protection of archaeological sites by easements and tax incentives and through the federal Certified Local Government program.

Fulfilling its environmental review function as a sister section to the State Historic Preservation Office, the OSA processed nearly 3,000 review cases related to construction and development in FY 1999-2000. Pertinent laws include the National Historic Preservation Act (sections 106 and 110), the NC Coastal Management Act, the NC Environmental Policy Act, and the NC Mining Act. It assisted more than 300 engineering and archaeological contracting clients with background searches in conjunction with approximately 25 percent of these reviews. It provided an additional 350 consultations and services to individuals, universities, local government agencies, and museums.

An essential activity for the OSA is public education programs, which target school groups, amateur archaeological and historical societies, and government agencies. During FY 1999-2000, staff reached nearly 700 individuals through 50 lectures or presentations. The OSA administered six major grants and provided content for the state's comprehensive plan for inventory, evaluation, and protection of archaeological resources.

DCR 51

The North Carolina Museum of Art

The North Carolina Museum of Art is a division within the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources and is governed by a 28 member Board of Trustees. Board members are appointed by the Governor, the General Assembly, the Art Society, Museum of Art Foundation Board, and the Board of Trustees.

The North Carolina Museum of Art traces its origin to 1924 when the Art Society of North Carolina was founded with the purpose, "to promote an interest in providing a State Art Museum in Raleigh." In 1929, the General Assembly placed the Art Society under state patronage, which began a tradition of public/private partnership that continues to the present. In its early days, the Art Society began a program of collecting, staging exhibitions and educational programs even before there was a permanent museum. In 1947, North Carolina became the first state in the nation to appropriate public funds for the purchase of works of art to establish a state supported art museum. That first appropriation matched a gift of 75 important works of art given by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation as part of its program of endowing regional museums throughout the United States. Negotiations with Mr. Kress and the Kress Foundation were led by State Senator Robert Lee Humber of Pitt County. Thanks to his efforts, of nearly one hundred institutions receiving art from the great Kress collection, the gift to the North Carolina Museum of Art was the largest and most important of any except that given to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. The Kress gift combined with purchases made with the original legislative appropriation created for the people of North Carolina the most distinguished collection of old master paintings in the southeastern United States, and formed the foundation for today's North Carolina Museum of Art.

The Museum's major responsibilities are well stated in its statutory mission, "...to acquire, preserve, and exhibit works of art for the education and enjoyment of the people of the State, and to conduct programs of education, research, and publication designed to encourage an interest in and an appreciation of art on the part of the people of the State." (G.S. 140-5.12). In keeping with that broad mission, the Museum's program budget objective is "to increase the percentage of visitors who experience an enhanced interest in and appreciation of art...". This is accomplished through a variety of programs focusing on the State's permanent art collection, which consists of thousands of objects spanning over 5,000 years of human history and creative effort. The Museum also brings to North Carolina many special exhibitions of important art treasures from around the world for the educational benefit and enjoyment of the people of our state. Scholarly publications and a full range of classes, workshops, lectures and other programs complement the Museum's educational mission and program objective.

The Museum is an active partner with the state's educational systems. Thousands of school children from all over North Carolina visit the Museum each year and learn about their own culture and about other civilizations through guided tours and other programs. Outreach exhibitions, slide programs, speakers, and teaching materials are also available to schools and other groups in all counties throughout the state. The Museum continues to enhance accessibility to its collections through the use of new technologies such as digital imaging, CD ROM, and the Museum's World Wide Web page (http://ncartmuseum.org). The Museum's conservation department provides consultation and conservation treatment services to other museums and public collections around the state. There is an extensive art reference library available for researchers, and the Museum's curators are available on a regular schedule to consult with citizens about works of art in their own collections.

The Museum of Art regularly receives national and international recognition for its collections, acquisitions, and programs. It has become a major tourist attraction, which draws many visitors from within the state and from beyond its borders each year. A prime example is the hugely successful exhibition of the works of sculptor Auguste Rodin in the summer of 2000 drew over 300,000 visitors from around the nation. According to an economic impact study prepared by UNC-Chapel Hill, the Rodin exhibition contributed over $50 million in direct economic impact to the state. The Museum also contributes to the economic well being of North Carolina by helping to attract business and industry to locate and expand here. When asked why they chose to locate in North Carolina, business leaders will most often cite the state's quality of life, including the cultural environment and its commitment to education. The North Carolina Museum of Art makes strong contributions in these areas.

The Museum is assisted in its mission by two affiliated organizations, The North Carolina Art Society and the Museum of Art Foundation, Inc. As mentioned previously, the Art Society is the predecessor of the Museum. The Art Society is a venerable and distinguished organization, founded in 1924 and under the patronage of the state since 1929. General Statutes provide that the Art Society shall be the membership arm of the North Carolina Museum of Art and continue under state patronage (G.S. 143B-89 and G.S. 140-14). The Art Society also holds the permanent endowment, the Robert F. Phifer Fund. Proceeds from this endowment are used solely for the acquisition of works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. This modest endowment provides the Museum's only reliable source of acquisition funding. There have been no state funds appropriated to add to the Museum's collection since 1985. Consequently, the Museum's holdings of art of the late twentieth century are not in keeping with the strength of the collection in other periods.

The Museum of Art Foundation, Inc. a private, non-profit corporation with tax-exempt status under IRS Code 501(c)(3). The Foundation holds some endowment funds and plays the essential role of operating the Museum's private fundraising efforts. The Foundation accounts for approximately two thirds of the Museum's average annual operating budget. These funds are spent directly by the Foundation on the Museum's behalf to support exhibitions, educational programs, staffing and other operating needs.

In 1997, the Museum's new performing arts facility, the Joseph M. Bryan Theater opened. This amphitheater, designed and built with private funds raised by the Museum of Art Foundation, will enable the North Carolina Museum of Art to offer a full range of performing arts experiences to complement the visual arts found inside the Museum's walls. Also in 1997, the Museum undertook a complete study of its present physical facilities made possible by an appropriation in the 1996 session of the General Assembly. This study directs the planning and programming of enhanced facilities to enable the institution to meet the state's needs well into the future.

In the 2000 session, the General Assembly allocated to the Department of Cultural Resources, for the Museum of Art, the state-owned property formerly occupied by the Polk Youth Correctional Facility. The transfer of this land has given the Museum a unique opportunity to accommodate the huge growth that has already occurred in the institution's programs into a new dynamic space. The Museum will seek to build a new structure to complement the existing building and provide exhibition and public spaces in keeping with the excellence of the Museum's collections and programs. In order to meet this and other challenges of the years ahead, the Museum looks forward to a continuation of the great tradition of partnering private funding with the public support provided by the General Assembly.

DCR 58

North Carolina is known throughout the world for its pottery traditions, literary legacy, Southern Appalachian music traditions, jazz, blues and gospel heritage, and an abundance of artists and arts institutions. Recognizing the state's rich cultural climate in 1964, Governor Terry Sanford established a state arts council to strengthen North Carolina's creativity, invention and prosperity. Since its beginning, the North Carolina Arts Council has been recognized as one of the nation's leading state arts agencies.

To fulfill our mission to enrich the cultural life of the state by nurturing and supporting excellence in the arts and by providing opportunities for every North Carolinian to experience the arts, we focus our work in three key areas which correspond to the goals of our long-range plan:

1. Our relationship with the state's arts resources—artists, arts organizations and our cultural heritage. It is our responsibility to help these resources remain strong so they can continue to produce rich and diverse arts experiences for the benefit of the state's citizens and visitors.
2. Our relationship to the state's communities. We use the word "communities" in the broadest sense to mean the many ways groups of people gather, both geographically or through other shared identities. It is our responsibility to make sure communities are strengthened through the arts.
3. Our relationship as a state agency to the state's agenda. It is our responsibility to make sure the arts are valued as a tool for achieving a strong economy, well-educated children, vital communities and involved citizens.

In building these relationships, we play the roles of connector, catalyst and activist partner, using our abilities to:

- Provide an overview of the strengths, needs and issues of the arts in the state
- Give grants to activate partnerships between artists, arts organizations and communities which benefit every county in the state
- Convene various groups of people around important topics to forge new partnerships
- Maintain access to a number of information outlets through which we collect, publish and disseminate a variety of resource materials

Following is a 5-page summary of how the North Carolina Arts Council accomplished its goals and objectives during fiscal year 1998-99.

DCR 59

NORTH CAROLINA ARTS COUNCIL
1998-99 ACCOMPLISHMENTS

GOAL I: DEVELOP, PRESERVE, AND SUSTAIN NORTH CAROLINA'S ARTS RESOURCES

1. Support the state's organizations that produce exemplary arts programs
   - 62 organizations received a total of $1,415,650 in General Support grants for ongoing programs and operations.
   - Awarded $116,000 to 25 organizations to commission new works in the performing and visual arts.
   - 50 organizations received a total of $293,791 for innovative literary, performing, and visual arts programs.
   - 19 organizations received long-term organizational assistance through the New Realities Program.
   - 29 scholarship grants went to artists and arts administrators to attend conferences and workshops.
   - 4 community arts interns and 1 folklife intern received 3 months of professional training through our internship programs.
   - A total of $48,882 in grant funds was provided to 25 organizations for consultancies in facility development, fundraising, board and staff development, project planning, and audience development.

2. Preserve and promote the state's folk cultural heritage through documentary projects and public programs
   - 16 artists and organizations received a total of $142,892 for festivals, radio programs, exhibitions, and projects which documented and presented the traditions of Cherokee arts and culture, North Carolina pottery, gospel music of northwestern North Carolina, coastal communities of Northeastern North Carolina, and the Montagnard community of Greensboro.
   - Sites were selected for the traditional music and Cherokee arts and culture trails as part of the Blue Ridge Heritage Initiative.
   - Co-produced "Cold Mountain Old Time Music Gathering" with the North Carolina Museum of Art. The production featured Charles Frazier reading passages from his best-selling novel, which included references to traditional music. He was accompanied by musicians from western North Carolina.

3. Improve financial support and professional opportunities for North Carolina's artists
   - Awarded fellowships of $8,000 each to 18 visual artists, 3 film and video artists, and 4 choreographers to support their artistic development and the creation of new work.
   - Grants were awarded to 1 writer and 1 visual artist to be in residence at the Vermont Studio Center, 1 visual artist and 1 writer for residencies at the Headlands Center for the Arts in California, and 2 visual artists for residencies at La Napoule Foundation in France.

- Developed the North Carolina Poet Laureate Program and provided funds to subsidize the Poet Laureate to conduct readings, workshops for writers, and public presentations.
- Through a partnership program with the South Carolina Arts Commission Media Arts Center, provided $5,000 in grant funds to support North Carolina film/video artists to access the center's equipment, studios, and training programs.
- Funded the Regional Artist Project Grants Program, which made awards ranging from $250 - $2,500 to 165 artists through 12 regional consortia of local arts councils serving 93 of the state's 100 counties.
- Three regional workshops were conducted for NC touring artists to strengthen community residency work and to encourage artists to become full partners in planning and implementing residencies.
- Promoted North Carolina touring artists to out-of-state presenters at the annual Southern Arts Exchange booking conference.

GOAL II. DEEPEN THE CONNECTION BETWEEN THE ARTS AND NORTH CAROLINA'S COMMUNITIES

1. Strengthen partnerships with local arts councils to provide arts programming in all 100 counties through the Grassroots Arts Program
   - More than 750 organizations received a total of $1,679,117 through the Grassroots Arts Program's per capita funding system. Published the Designated County Partner Guidebook, to provide local arts councils with information on the most effective ways to administer Grassroots Arts Program county allotments.
   - Provided 27 grants totaling $128,435 to local arts agencies to hire additional staff, to encourage increased local government contributions, and for professional development opportunities.
   - Provided a total of $265,818 to local arts councils to support visual arts, folklife, touring, and arts in education programs.
   - Developed a gallery resource guide for local arts councils and small town exhibition venues.
   - Staff conducted workshops and planning sessions at the annual Local Arts Council Executive Directors' Retreat.

2. Increase access to racially and culturally diverse arts programs
   - The Multicultural Organization Development Program provided $179,650 to strengthen the arts programs of African-American, Native American, Latino, and Asian American organizations. Funded a two-day workshop to assist multicultural organizations in developing entrepreneurial strategies to increase earned income revenue.
   - Grassroots Arts Program's per capita funds were distributed according to the percentage of racial and ethnic diversity of the population of each county.
   - $544,000 was awarded for arts programs that build appreciation and understanding of the state's diverse cultures.

3. Increase arts programming in underserved communities
   - Developed two large-scale cultural tourism initiatives, one focusing on rural counties in the west and the other on the northeast coastal region.
   - Staff member served on the Governor's Issue Team for Personal and Parental Responsibility.
   - Convened Arts Council's Access Advisory Group to recommend strategies to help arts organizations comply with 504/ADA regulations and to increase and strengthen accessible arts programs.
   - Awarded a grant to The Center for Universal Design to conduct planning workshops and provide recommendations for increasing participation of people with disabilities in the state's arts programs.
   - Provided $17,245 for arts programs in hospitals, nursing homes, and mental health centers.

4. Provide support for performances and artists' residencies in communities across the state
   - Awarded $314,650 for performance series, artist residencies of two weeks to six months, projects to strengthen the programs of the state's arts presenters, and a variety of performances and activities in schools and community venues.
   - Funded a marketing brochure for the NC Presenter's Consortium that contained a calendar of the seasons of over 35 North Carolina presenters.
   - Helped develop and coordinate a statewide tour of David Dorfman Dance to 5 communities across the state. Provided a grant and helped secure additional funding to support 17 weeks of performances and residency activities involving over 50 community partner organizations.
   - Helped 10 literary organizations develop and coordinate a 10-week residency by Chicano writer Luis Rodriquez. Provided a grant and helped secure additional funding to support readings and residency activities in Latino and non-Latino communities and build lasting bridges between them.

4. Develop and support public art projects that enliven community buildings and spaces
   - Installed 9 new artworks in state buildings, bringing the total of the state's public art collection to 60; published educational materials for each completed artwork and included this information on the Council's web site; hired a professional art appraiser to perform a comprehensive appraisal and assess conservation needs of the entire collection; hired a photographer to document the collection for a new brochure.
   - Updated the slide bank of the work of artists who create public art for use as a resource for communities pursuing public art projects.
   - Assisted 7 communities with public art planning and worked with the Department of Transportation and Triangle Transit Authority to explore the possibility of creating an art in transit program for the state's Amtrak stations and for the Triangle's future regional transit system.
   - Made presentations on public art, gave tours of the state's collection, and convened quarterly meetings of the Public Art Network to increase awareness and appreciation of public art.

GOAL III. HEIGHTEN UNDERSTANDING OF THE ROLE AND VALUE OF THE ARTS TO THE STATE

1. Build public awareness about the benefit of the arts to the lives of North Carolinians
   - County histories, which included narratives and listings of all Arts Council grants to the county over the years, were published for each of the 100 counties and distributed to all legislators and local arts councils.
   - Published 3 issues of ncarts, the Arts Council's journal that examines issues that shape the development of the arts across the state, and reports on important arts events.
   - Expanded the Arts Council's Web site to include more links to artists and arts organizations and information on 3 cultural tourism trails.
   - Developed and distributed a communications tool kit to assist grantees in publicizing funded projects and keeping legislators informed about their activities.
   - Made presentations to arts and civic groups on the Arts Council and the arts in the state, and participated in media workshops for local constituents on more effective writing.

2. Further the role of the arts as an essential part of education
   - Arts in Education (AIE) Partnership grants totaling $154,729 were awarded; 34 % of these funds benefited 5 rural, low-wealth counties.
   - AIE Development category funded 12 projects totaling $45,650.
   - A total of $121,833 funded 17 artist residencies, after-school programs, and summer arts camps, as well as 17 short-term performing arts projects.
   - Convened a weekend workshop entitled Tapestry: Weaving Artistry and Education to train artists to work more effectively in school settings. 75 artists attended sessions conducted by national and state arts-in-education leaders on topics such as early childhood development, school culture, the state curriculum, and integration of the arts with other subjects.
   - Produced a two-day workshop on arts in education program evaluation methods attended by 40 arts professionals.
   - Developed a partnership with the School of Education at UNC-Chapel Hill to create a traditional music curriculum that would be taught in schools as part of the Blue Ridge Heritage Initiative education component.
   - Hired a consultant to create a residency planning guide to provide technical assistance to organizations conducting arts in education residencies.

3. Develop initiatives to strengthen the role of the arts in economic and community development, tourism, international relations, and human services
   - Worked closely with the Blue Ridge Parkway Division of the National Park Service and the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians to implement the Blue Ridge Heritage Initiative; completed resource inventories and selected sites for a traditional music trail and a Cherokee art and culture trail.
   - Provided a consultant and staff assistance to North Carolina Heritage, Inc., a nonprofit organization created to support heritage tourism development, to facilitate a planning process, and strengthen the organizational structure.

- Convened three meetings of the Interagency Heritage Tourism Task Force, which coordinates the efforts of statewide agencies and provides training and technical assistance to local heritage tourism efforts. The task force is composed of representatives from the state's commerce, tourism, transportation, agriculture, and natural resource departments.
- Worked with the Department of Commerce on several joint projects including an African-American heritage publication and a 19-county eastern heritage initiative in the northeast coastal region.
- Organized and funded a consortium of major summer performing arts festivals, outdoor dramas, and theaters to collectively develop joint marketing strategies and pursue initiatives to increase cultural tourism to their sites.

DCR 64

North Carolina Arts Council - At a Glance

Arts Council Programs

- provide information and other resources to North Carolina's 2,728 non-profit arts organizations
- take artists into the schools
- tour professional dance, music and theater companies throughout the state
- support the state's major professional music, dance, theater, visual arts and literary organizations, many of which have regional and national reputations
- fund local priorities through the decentralized Grassroots Arts Program
- recognize our finest folk artists with Folk Heritage Awards and our finest career artists with fellowships
- provide targeted assistance to organizations in previously underserved communities
- work with local community leaders to develop cultural tourism opportunities

Arts Council Services

25 staff members work with arts and other community organizations to help them expand, stabilize, develop in appropriate directions and become managerially stronger. Staff targets and gives special attention to rural areas, urban organizations in communities with limited resources and older, established organizations going through transition. Through conferences, workshops, publications, information and special events, the staff provides support and technical assistance to the citizens of our state who are using the arts to build their communities.

Impact of Arts Council-funded Activities in FY 99-00

- Nearly 8.5 million people participated in Council-funded projects.
- Projects were funded in every county in the state.
- Grants went to 521 arts organizations, 439 school, community and civic groups, and 46 individuals.
- Each dollar granted by the Council was matched by twelve other dollars, many generated directly by the Council's grant.

Organizations Assisted by the Arts Council Play a Significant Role

- in North Carolina's tourism industry
- in downtown revitalization projects in numerous towns and cities
- in the creation of jobs, both within arts organizations and indirectly in restaurants, hotels, parking lots, printing and catering businesses
- in attracting and keeping desirable industries by making the community a more stimulating place in which to live and work

NORTH CAROLINA ARTS COUNCIL BUDGET GOAL: To Reach the National Average for Per-Capita Spending through State Arts Agencies

The national average is projected to be $1.50 in FY 02-03. A $4 million increase to the Arts Council's FY 00-01 budget would place North Carolina at the national average. With 98¢ to spend on each citizen in FY 00-01, North Carolina ranks 21st in the nation and 5th in the South, behind Florida, South Carolina, Louisiana and Alabama.

The Arts Council's Board has developed the following framework for future increases:

1. Grassroots Arts Program - $1,000,000 – Per capita funds will increase from 28¢ to 40¢ for community arts activities in all 100 counties. Local arts councils, vital players in community planning and economic development, are local partners in the distribution of funding.

2. Primary Arts Organizations - $1,000,000 – General support grants are awarded to 81 of the state's finest orchestras and opera companies, museums and galleries, arts centers, craft schools, dance and theater companies, literary and multicultural organizations. This increase will move all eligible organizations to their appropriate levels within the funding formula.

3. Arts in Education - $500,000 – The popular grants program which funds partnerships between arts organizations and school systems will expand. New programs will include annual training institutes for artists and teachers, yearlong artist residency programs, and early childhood and youth-at-risk initiatives. Because effective programs require one-on-one staff assistance, especially in small and rural schools with limited human resources, one consultant (Grade 68) and one program assistant (Grade 59) will be added.

4. Cultural Tourism - $500,000 – In the state's second largest industry, keeping our citizens at home for their recreational travel is important because they comprise one-third of this tourist market. The highest growth segment of the tourism industry, culture tourists are prized because they spend more, stay longer, are easy on the environment, and help sustainable economic development, especially in rural areas. These funds will increase new product development, provide marketing to build citizens' awareness of cultural opportunities as they travel, and stimulate support of arts statewide. One coordinator (Grade 68) will be added to assist with the labor-intensive activities required in this expansion.

5. Other Grant Programs - $350,000 – Several grant programs which did not benefit from the FY 99-01 increases are experiencing great demands from constituents. Included are touring and presenting, literature, folk arts, new works, and programs for small, emerging groups that need help with performances and exhibitions. This increase will more adequately address those needs.

6. Public Art and Community Design - $200,000 – The state's collection of over 60 artworks, appraised at $3.3 million, has more than doubled in value over the 11 years during which the artworks were produced. The value will continue to increase, provided the artworks are properly cared for and protected. These funds will cover the costs of appropriate conservation as well as interpretive displays and promotional events and publications. Funds will also allow communities to engage in public art and community design projects as a means of creating a sense of place and identity for residents and visitors. Grants will fund the creation and implementation of master plans, address specific design issues such as gateways, plazas, parks and downtown redevelopment; and plan for the development of arts facilities.

7. International Program - $100,000 – In response to the complexity and richness of the various cultures represented in North Carolina and to the state's growing international economic connections, the Arts Council will develop ongoing cultural relationships with selected countries to provide more comprehensive artist exchanges and other programming.

8. Research - $100,000 – Though the Arts Council has done very little in this area over the years, its enabling legislation charges it with "the study, collection, maintenance and dissemination of factual data and pertinent information relative to the arts" and to "identify research needs in the arts area and to encourage such research." Much research needs to be undertaken, much information collected, so that the arts community can make the most of its resources. This increase will fund the beginning of a series of comprehensive research studies and appropriately disseminate the information.

9. Arts Resource Center - $100,000 – An arts resource center will be established to provide learning and training opportunities to arts professionals, educators, students, tourism professionals, and others interested in the state's arts and culture. The Arts Council's significant and unique collection of folklife photographs, audio recordings, films, and videos are presently stored for safekeeping and are not easily available to the public. Also, there are heritage tourism inventories, arts in education curriculum guides, national studies, examples of model programs and other reference materials useful to those involved in planning arts projects. This funding will provide listening stations, a film/video viewing room, exhibition space, computer terminals and a library, as well as additional and/or updated inventories, reference materials, other resources, and sprinklers and a security system.

10. Operating Support - $150,000 – The $260,000 increase the Arts Council received for FY 00-01 replaced federal funds that were subsequently redirected to grants. Therefore, this year's $393,000 in operating support is the same as ten years ago. In the meantime, the number of nonprofit arts organizations in North Carolina has increased by 55.9%, and other organizations and individuals seeking Arts Council information has increased by over 8,400. This budget increase will allow staff to visit more constituents, site evaluators will make needed in-depth site visits and provide reports for use in making grant recommendations, and the Arts Council will continue to upgrade its technology and other equipment and services.

NORTH CAROLINA SYMPHONY

PART 1 - SYMPHONY OVERVIEW

The mission of the North Carolina Symphony is to present an orchestra of the highest artistic standard that enriches, entertains, and educates diverse audiences in a variety of settings and represents North Carolina as a leader in performance and music education.

Formed in 1932 under the direction of Lamar Stringfield, the North Carolina Symphony served as a WPA project in the 1930s and then in the 1940s became the first orchestra to receive state funding on a continuous basis. Under the 33-year leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swalin, the Symphony began its grassroots emphasis of taking the orchestra to the people of the state. That tradition has continued every year since the 1943 "Horn Tootin' Bill" was passed by the State Legislature and it continues today.

- The North Carolina Symphony is the 30th largest orchestra organization in the country; however, it is singularly unique in two respects:

  1) its commitment to statewide service
  2) its dedication to the musical education of public school children

- Each season, the North Carolina Symphony performs approximately 175 full-orchestra concerts for adults and children across the state. Nearly two-thirds of its performances take place outside the Triangle. Each season, the Symphony visits between 30 and 40 counties across the state, performing for more than a quarter-million individuals.

  No other orchestra in America serves its state to the extent the North Carolina Symphony does. Comparing to the 120 annual North Carolina Symphony performances outside of the Triangle, the next-most "statewide" orchestra in America (the Syracuse Symphony) performs only 45 performances annually outside its home base.

  Orchestra travels approximately 20,000 miles a season throughout the state of North Carolina

2 EAST SOUTH STREET RALEIGH NC 27601 TEL 919-733-2750 FAX 919-733-9920 WWW.NCSYMPHONY.ORG

- The Symphony performs between 45 and 65 full-orchestra music education concerts for school children throughout North Carolina. (See attachment for 2000-01 Educational Concert Schedule.) Between 60,000 and 100,000 school children are served each season. In 2000, the Symphony added two new positions: a composer-in-residence and an assistant conductor. Both of these positions have added renewed vitality the Symphony's music education programs.

- In February 2001, the Symphony opens a new concert hall, Meymandi Concert Hall at the BTI Center for the Performing Arts in Raleigh. The new concert hall is anticipated to be the finest performance venue in the southeast, possibly rivaling Boston's Symphony Hall and Vienna's Musikverein. The new hall will allow for major programmatic expansion, including a longer series, a new chamber orchestra series, a recital series, and opportunities for artistic partnerships with other organizations around the state.

  The General Assembly dedicated $3 million toward the $38 million cost of the BTI Center for the Performing Arts. State funds were used to enhance the acoustical quality of Meymandi Concert Hall, the new home of the North Carolina Symphony.

- In June 2001, the Symphony opens a new outdoor facility in Cary at Regency Park. The new facility will raise the profile and excellence of the Symphony's Summerfest series that serves 20,000 annually.

- 2001-02 marks the 20th anniversary of Music Director Gerhardt Zimmermann. The milestone will be observed with special programming, including the premiere performances of five new orchestral works.

- Approximate annual attendance is 300,000

- The Symphony has 64 full-time musicians. (Most orchestras of the Symphony's size have about 80. Finances permitting, the Symphony's Board of Trustees desires to bring this number up to the more ideal number.)

PART II - FINANCIAL

In the early 1980s, State funding was approximately 70% of the operating budget, with 30% coming from the private sector. In 1984, a subcommittee asked the Symphony to make significant changes in the percentage of funding in order to reduce public funding and increase private funding. The Symphony has worked very hard to accomplish this, and as of 2000-01 those percentages have reversed. Today, private sector funding has been increased to 71% of the budget with only 29% coming from state funding.

PART III - MUSIC EDUCATION OVERVIEW

The North Carolina Symphony has one of the most extensive music education programs of any orchestra in the United States. These concerts are part of the schools' music education curriculum and music teachers help to write and present the curriculum to fellow teachers in a unique, yearly workshop.

DCR 76

- Approximately 45 to 65 concerts are given free of admission yearly to school children throughout the state.
- Extensive curriculum development and collateral materials designed each year specifically for the music education program.
- An annual workshop for 350 music education teachers is held to assist them in preparing students for the statewide music education concert programs.
- Symphony annually stages a Youth Concerto Competition.
- Symphony sponsors the Triangle Youth Philharmonic.
- Symphony has established a partnership program to provide students at North Carolina schools and universities an opportunity to perform with the orchestra in rehearsals and concerts. (i.e. North Carolina School for the Arts; Appalachian State University; UNC-Greensboro; East Carolina University; and UNC-Chapel Hill)
- Opportunity for high school students to take music lessons from Symphony professionals.
- Develop adult music education programs for North Carolina citizens through statewide pre-concert lectures and discussions.
- The Symphony is a partner with WUNC (PBS Radio Station at UNC-Chapel Hill) for its composer-in-residence program.
- The Symphony continues to partner with UNC-TV to produce video programming showcasing the instrument families of the Orchestra. These programs are broadcast statewide and distributed to all school systems throughout North Carolina in advance of North Carolina Symphony visits.

DCR 87

The State Library of North Carolina
A Division of the Department of Cultural Resources

Part I - State Library Overview

The State Library has a long and proud history, beginning with its founding in 1812 as a collection of books in the office of the Secretary of State and the appointment of the first full-time State Librarian in 1843. Another historic milestone was the establishment of the North Carolina Library Commission in 1909. The Commission's primary mission was to provide assistance, advice, and counsel to: all libraries; all communities that proposed to establish libraries; and all persons interested in the best means of establishing and administering libraries. By action of the General Assembly in 1955, the State Library and the Library Commission were merged to form a single State Library.

Today, the State Library is a division of the Department of Cultural Resources; and the State Library Commission, a 15-member group of citizens and professional librarians, advises the Secretary of Cultural Resources and the State Librarian on priorities and policy issues.

Under the authority of G.S.125, the State Library of North Carolina focuses its service to the people of the state in three ways:

(1) by working in partnership with local communities to develop and extend public library services statewide;

(2) by coordinating efforts among all types of libraries to improve library services and to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure; and

(3) by providing direct library services to a constituency that includes government officials, business people, and the general public, with an emphasis on the geneaology researcher and people who qualify for the services offered through the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Part II – Financial Overview

The State Library's budget is divided into two funds:

- Fund 1410 – State Library Services: funds those State Library services provided to its customers. The budget of $4.7 million supports personnel, operating costs, library materials and resources, and other expenditures related to the direct delivery of library services and direct support for local library staff members. Today, the library employs 91.95 FTEs funded with state appropriations, and an additional 3.5 FTEs who work on federally funded projects.

- Fund 1480 – Statewide Programs and Grants: funds activities that help local libraries improve services and totals $21.7 million in state and federal funds. Major areas of expenditure include:
  - Aid to Public Libraries Fund: funded in 2000-2001 at $15.4 million, with $500,000 in non-recurring funds and $14.9 million in recurring funds. See Attachment A for a full description of this program.

  - NC LIVE and Internet Access for Public Libraries: NC LIVE is the groundbreaking electronic library project that went online in April 1998 (see Attachment B). The State Library receives $1 million to fund public library participation in NC LIVE. The State Library also administers $735,000 in ongoing funds to assure public library access to the Internet and to a range of information resources to supplement their print collections, assuring equal access to information to support the education of our young people as well as information to support people in their work and their daily lives.

  - Funds for children and reading services were added to the State Library's budget in 1998-99. The appropriation of $100,350 supports the statewide summer reading program, other programs for children and teens, and a portion of the activities of The North Carolina Center for the Book, a state affiliate of the Library of Congress program that promotes books, reading, and literacy.

  - The Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) is a new federal library program. It provides a block grant of approximately $4 million to the State Library to support programs in all types of libraries that use technology to improve services, build collaborative programs among libraries, and extend services to unserved and underserved North Carolinians. This year, the State Library has funded 223 LSTA grants to public libraries as well as libraries in schools, community colleges, and other publicly and privately funded academic institutions.

The State Library's budget to support direct service to its customers in Fund 1410 has, however, been reduced by over $1 million in the 1990s—a reduction of about 20%. The reductions in state funds have totaled almost $600,000, including 6 positions. With changes in federal funding programs, the State Library has also had to eliminate approximately $500,000 in federal funds that it had come to rely on for basic operations, resulting in the elimination of another 6 positions as well as funds for library materials and equipment. Lost funds have resulted in diminished levels of customer service and a significant cutback in the Library's book budget.

The highest priorities for the State Library in the upcoming biennium are $500,000 in additional funding for NC LIVE; and $112,000 in funds to implement the site differential for salaries for professional librarians at the State Library recently approved by the Office of State Personnel.

Part II - State Library Priorities and Services

The State Library's performance plan reflects its statutory mission and is based on input from its customers, including the State Library Commission and focus groups held in 1995 with representatives of the State's library community.

State Library Program Statement: Develop & promote library services - The purpose of this program is to provide library and information services and to assist local libraries in the development of programs, services, and facilities.

State Library Goal #1: Develop and extend public library services for North Carolinians in partnership with local communities.

Customers: Public library users statewide, local government officials, public library staff members, and library board members and friends

Funds supporting this goal: 1410 - State Library Services & Programs & 1480 - Statewide Programs & Grants

Examples of strategies or activities directed toward this objective:

- In 1999-2000, the State Library provided technical assistance to library staff, trustees, and friends statewide through 8,936 telephone and in-office consultations. The projected number of site visits to assist local libraries this year is 100. Last year, nearly 4,700 library staff members, trustees, and friends attended workshops sponsored by the State Library.

- The State Library administers the Aid to Public Libraries Program, which is distributed on a formula basis to libraries in all 100 counties through the 76 public library systems (see Attachment A for more information.) Annually, the State Library administers approximately 200 federal grants for libraries statewide.

- A comprehensive program designed to strengthen public library services for children and youth resulted in 122,000 children participating in local library programs that were made possible by the State Library's coordination and leadership.

- The public library statistics program provides information to assist local libraries in planning and evaluation. The State Library also participates in national library data collection efforts in partnership with the National Center for Education Statistics.

- The Center for the Book program promotes reading, books, and lifelong learning and helps local libraries develop programs and services. This program resulted in an increase from 271 in 1994-95 to 3,344 in 1999-2000 in the number of adults attending local library programs supported by State Library.

- The State Library continues to monitor trends, needs, and issues to assure that its programs are responsive to the primary customers for this goal area.

State Library Goal #2: Coordinate efforts among all types of libraries to improve library services and to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure, assuring equity of access to information for all North Carolinians;

Customers: Users of all types of libraries statewide and North Carolina residents with access to the Internet.

Funds contributing to objective: 1410 - State Library Services & 1480 - Statewide Programs & Grants

Description of strategies or activities directed toward this objective:

- The State Library is a partner in NC LIVE, the statewide electronic library, making resources available through libraries statewide--including the full-text of 5,500+ magazines and newspapers, 13,000 electronic books, and indexes to guide people to information in over 10,000 publications. (See Attachment B for more information.)

- Technical assistance and continuing education for library staff statewide.

- Federal grants to public and academic libraries to support improved access to the Internet for their library users.

- The State Library currently supports electronic mail accounts for over 500 library staff members from around the state, funds and manages nearly 430 Internet accounts for library staff statewide, and administers electronic discussion groups to foster communication and the exchange of information among library staff members statewide.

- The State Library also makes sharing of print resources possible among 189 smaller libraries of all types in the state, a service that delivered over 21,000 books and articles to North Carolinians in 1999-2000.

- Today, all public library staff in North Carolina have the opportunity to access the Internet and all of the 76 public library systems in North Carolina offer public access to the Internet as a service to users.

State Library Goal #3: Provide library and information resources for North Carolinians to promote knowledge, education, and business.

Customers: State agency personnel, local government officials, businesses, and the general public, with the emphasis on genealogical researchers and North Carolina residents with visual and physical impairments

Funds contributing to objective: 1410 - State Library Services
Description of strategies or activities directed toward this objective:

- The State Library manages the State Publications Clearinghouse, a coordinated program to collect, catalog, and distribute state publications in print and microfiche to 29 depository libraries statewide. In 1999-2000, this program cataloged and distributed over 44,100 state publications.

- The State Library assists other state agencies in cataloging and making their library holdings available in the library's online catalog.

- The State Library's FIND NC project (http://www.findnc.org) provides a way to search all North Carolina state government World Wide Web pages and NC GILS (Government Information Locator Service) indexes to get more information by and about state government.

- The State Library acquires, catalogs on-line, processes, and provides access to a varied collection of books, magazines, electronic information resources, and videos in excess of 212,000 items. In 1999-2000, the Library responded to over 22,300 requests for information, and over 172,000 items from the collection were used in-house or checked out.

- The State Library's Web site, which includes the electronic North Carolina Encyclopedia, was accessed 8.1 million times during the last year.

- The regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped serves over 12,000 users statewide and circulated over 450,000 items last year.

- The State Library loaned over 21,000 books, videos, and other library materials to help other libraries serve their patrons last year.

Fact Sheet: The Aid to Public Libraries Fund

North Carolina's Aid to Public Libraries program has been in effect since 1941--when the General Assembly articulated its policies regarding the role of the state in public library development--and appropriated the first $100,000 for the program.

Chapter 153 of the General Statutes of North Carolina (the chapter dealing with counties) contains the "Declaration of State policy" that says: The General Assembly recognizes that the availability of adequate, modern library services is in the general interest of the people of North Carolina and a proper concern of the State and of local governments. Therefore, it is the policy of the State of North Carolina to promote the establishment and development of public library services throughout the state. Chapter 125, which is the chapter dealing with the State Library, re-iterates that policy and established the state aid program: For promoting, aiding, and equalizing public library service in North Carolina a sum shall annually be appropriated out of moneys within the State treasury to be known as the Aid to Public Libraries fund.

From the time of that first appropriation of $100,000, the program has continued and evolved. Today 76 county, regional, and municipal library systems serving all 100 counties receive state aid--51 single-county libraries, 15 regional libraries serving 49 counties, and 10 municipal libraries that meet the minimum standards to qualify.

The current formula went into effect in 1983-84--and includes two components:

- ✓ A block grant: one-half of the appropriation is divided among the qualifying libraries. Each county receives one grant, and a regional library receives a block grant for each county plus an additional one for the region. Municipal libraries do not receive a block grant.

- ✓ Per Capita Equalization Grant: one-half of the appropriation is allocated under a weighted per capita grant inversely proportional to the average per capita income of people residing in the library's legal service area.

State aid is 20% or more of the operating budget for public libraries in 54 counties; and a total of 75 counties depend on the program for 15% or more of their public library operating funds. Statewide, state aid equals 10% of the total expenditures for public library service; however, that amount varies from a low of 2% in Charlotte/Mecklenburg to a high of 44%. For municipal libraries that do not receive a block grant, state aid represents an even lower percentage of operating expenditures.

Currently, state aid gives North Carolina public libraries considerably less buying power than they had in 1987, yet the number of people being served and the demand for services is greater than at any time in their history. During the past six years, the General Assembly has increased the Aid to Public Libraries Fund to $15.4 million, which represents $2.02 per capita. Even with these increases, the per capita Aid to Public Libraries appropriation this year is only $.34 more than the per capita appropriation in 1987. If the appropriation had kept pace with inflation, it would be $2.53 per capita, or $19.4 million. The $0.5 million appropriated for the current year is non-recurring, so the Fund will drop to $14.9 million (or $1.95 per capita) if additional funds are not appropriated.

NC LIVE
Your Library Link to the World

April 1998 marked the beginning of a new era in library service to the people of North Carolina. With the launch of NC LIVE—North Carolina LIbraries for Virtual Education—every North Carolina community gained access to a state-of-the-art service available using the telecommunications capabilities provided by the Internet.

NC LIVE provides:

- Access to an online treasure trove of information, with the added bonus of expert librarians to assure the quality of the resources and to help people with their search.
- Online access to 5-10 years of complete articles from over 5,500 journals, magazines, newspapers, and encyclopedias.
- Indexing and article summaries for more than 10,000 additional magazines, journals, and newspapers.
- Online access to over 13,000 electronic books
- The ability to use these resources at home, at school, or anywhere else there's a connection to the Internet, 24 hours a day, seven days a week

NC LIVE is a partnership of The University of North Carolina System (16 institutions), the North Carolina Community College System (59 institutions), the State Library of North Carolina (for public libraries serving all 100 counties), and the North Carolina Independent Colleges and Universities (36 institutions). A unique public-private venture between the state-funded organizations and the state's private colleges and universities, NC LIVE has leveraged their buying power to expand access to information statewide.

The current appropriation from the General Assembly is $2.7 million. Funds pay for subscriptions to the electronic publications and the technical infrastructure to allow all participating libraries to access information online. Each partner contributes not only funding but its special expertise to make the project a success. The University of North Carolina's institutions provide their exceptional technological expertise and the State Library offers training and support. Representatives of all the organizations help with governing, planning, and implementation.

NC LIVE "levels the playing field" so that rural isolation, community or institutional financial constraints, and limited local library resources are not barriers to accessing information. Everyone benefits!

DCR 98

North Carolina Museum of History Division

Mission

The North Carolina Museum of History Division promotes the understanding of the history and material culture of North Carolina for the education benefit of North Carolinians. Through collections and historical interpretation, its museums encourage citizens and visitors to explore and understand the past; to reflect on their own lives and their place in history; and to preserve state, regional, and local history for future generations.

Overview

The museum opened to the public in 1902 as the Hall of History in the State Museum of Natural History, located in the old Agriculture Building. In 1914 it joined the State Archives and Historical Publications Program as part of the North Carolina Historical Commission and moved to the old Supreme Court building. In 1939 the Museum moved to the Education Building, and in 1968 to the new Archives and History/State Library Building. Beginning in 1979, three other institutions became part of the Museum of History: the Museum of the Albemarle in Elizabeth City, the Museum of the Cape Fear in Fayetteville, and the Mountain Gateway Museum in Old Fort. These regional museum enhance the statewide presence of the Museum of History through exhibits, programs, and the extensive involvement of the communities they serve.

The Museum's new Raleigh facility opened to the public on April 23, 1994 with four new exhibits and a series of special celebrations. Since that time the Museum opened a total of 80 new exhibitions, hosted over 1,600 public programs for 250,420 participants, and toured some 441,618 in groups (primarily schoolchildren). During October 1997 the Museum's one-millionth visitor entered.

On February 1, 1996, the Museum became a separate Division of the Department of Cultural Resources.

The Museum of History as a whole develops, produces, and maintains over 63,000 square feet of long- and short-term exhibits with interpretive programs and special events. Visitation for 1999-2001 was 478,615. Since 1994 the museum has provided outreach to 2,003,085 people in school and community groups through the Tar Heel Junior Historians, the Media Center services (audiovisual services and History in a Box outreach kits), distance-learning classes, publications, traveling exhibits and other outreach services. The Museum's website provides access to collections numbering over 95,000 on-line artifacts representing all aspects of North Carolina's history.

The North Carolina Museum of History Associates, the Museum's statewide support group, is one of the largest such groups for a state history museum in the country with over 10,000 members, and promotes the Museum in 94 counties around the state by providing educational resources, programs, and membership involvement in the Museum.

Current Status, Goals, and Strategies

The Museum is currently working with the Human Resources Division of the Department of Cultural Resources and the Office of State Personnel on its first position study in over 20 years. The completion of the study will provide a sound basis for staff development in the coming years. The study is nearing completion, but funding does not exist for positions reallocated.

Work on capital projects (Raleigh restaurant, Elizabeth City new building, Fayetteville building and Arsenal Park, Old Fort amphitheatre and restrooms) continues to place demands on staff but will provide great improvements in service delivery and accessibility. The capital campaign to raise funds for exhibits for the new Museum of the Albemarle more that doubled its goal, raising over $1.7 million.

Outreach program development (technology access, traveling exhibits, collaborative programs, Tar Heel Junior Historians, audiovisuals) will become critical linkage between the four museums of the Museum of History and the counties they serve across the state.

Within the framework of preserving and promoting historical properties, the Museum's overall objective is to increase the percentage of visitors who express an enhance appreciation of North Carolina History. The primary strategies involved are to complete capital projects now in progress, improve the management and coordination of museum resources through constant evaluation, and continue to develop the four museums as an effective statewide organization.

Since the Museum of History opened its new facility in 1994 it has installed some sixty exhibits on a wide variety of topics related to North Carolina History. Most of the exhibits at the Museum are developed and created in-house such as the award winning Health & Healing Experiences in North Carolina and North Carolina and the Civil War. But others are borrowed from other agencies for short periods of time. In January 2001 the Museum of History was the debut location for an international traveling exhibit from the Smithsonian Institution's National Portrait Gallery--A Brush With History, Paintings from the National Portrait Gallery. In 2002, the Museum will again be a host of another significant exhibit from the Smithsonian-- Presidential Portraits. Through the generous support of the North Carolina Museum of History Associates and the Department of Cultural Resources the Museum is able to provide these world-class exhibitions free of charge to the public.

In 1999 a team of staff members from the Museum of History were charged with developing plans for a new and expanded exhibition on the history of North Carolina. Since it's opening in 1994, the Museum has relied on a temporary exhibit, Past in Progress, to orient visitors to North Carolina's rich history. After nearly two years of research, meeting with special interest groups and consulting with three advisory committees (American Indian, African American and an Academic Advisory Committee) to insure that the exhibition would be as inclusive as possible, a Concept Plan outlining the exhibition has been created and approved. The museum is now poised to begin work with an architect and exhibition design firm to begin creating this blockbuster exhibit on the history of North Carolina.

DCR109

THE ROANOKE ISLAND COMMISSION, an independent commission situated within the NC Department of Cultural Resources for historic resource management, organizational and budgetary purposes was established by legislation in 1994 under GS 141B-131.1. The 24-member Commission was created to protect, preserve, develop and interpret the historical and cultural assets of Roanoke Island, the birthplace of English speaking America. The Commission is legislatively associated with the North Carolina Department of Transportation for the Roanoke Voyages Corridor established by legislation in 1982. The Corridor is funded by DOT.

HISTORY: In 1984, the nation celebrated the 400th anniversary of the Roanoke Voyages and the first English colony in the New World. The State of North Carolina lead that celebration with the opening of a 24-acre state site which included a 69-foot representative 16th century sailing vessel, the ELIZABETH II. The Roanoke Voyages Corridor was also established as part of this permanent memorial. With these actions, North Carolina marked its place in history not unlike Jamestown or Colonial Williamsburg.

In 1988: The Outer Banks History Center, a 6,200 sq. ft. public research library and manuscript repository was opened by the Division of Archives and History

In 1998: The site expanded to include an 8,500 sq. ft. museum, a 238 seat film theatre, an art gallery/meeting space, an outdoor performance pavilion with lawn seating for 3,000, a maintenance facility, a museum store and marsh side boardwalks.

The Roanoke Island Institute of the North Carolina School of the Arts unveiled its premiere season with 45 performances of music, dance and drama.

The Commission requested and was awarded a parcel determined to be surplus by DOT at the foot of the Wright Memorial Bridge for future public water transportation from the northern beaches.

A cooperative agreement was initiated between the Commission, the NC Maritime Museum and the Town of Manteo to establish a working boat shop to begin the NC Maritime Museum on Roanoke Island.

In 1999: A dormitory housing facility was constructed for seasonal staff and performers vital for housing in this resort area.

A cooperative effort was established with WUNC Public Radio enabling the beginning of public radio in this region through use of a Festival Park space.

Preservation funds were sought and efforts were successful to acquire 130 acres, primarily wetlands, adjacent to this state site to protect and preserve natural resources in perpetuity.

The Commission initiated action to protect the entrance to Roanoke Island through options to acquire land with transfer to the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

Grant funds were sought and awarded to the Commission and the Roanoke Voyages Corridor Committee to remove remaining billboards on Roanoke Island.

An overdue restoration of the Elizabeth II was accomplished.

Since 1984 over 2 million visitors have celebrated our state and national history at this heritage site.

The Friends of Elizabeth II, Inc., a 501c3 non-profit organization, has worked to support the programs of this state site since its inception.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION TO PROMOTE AND DEVELOP THE ELIZABETH II STATE HISTORIC SITE AND VISITOR CENTER:

In light of the current budget deficit, no additional requests are being put forth in this session. The Commission is working diligently towards a goal of self-sustainment through revenues, grants and endowments over the next decade. These efforts are described in the "Accounting of Funds" section below.

AN ACCOUNTING OF FUNDS RECEIVED AND EXPENDED:
Budget Office Fiscal Data attached; overview follows:

	7/1/98-6/30/99	7/1/99-6/30/00
Appropriations	1,854,350.00	1,878,192.00
Expended personal svcs	1,091,001.00	1,206,236.00
Expended operations	331,161.00	316,040.00
Balance to endowment	432,188.00	335,916.00
Gate Admission	319,893.00*	330,740.00*
Interest/Dividends	93,193.00	124,997.00
Grants/Other Income	2,300.00	35,000.00
Natural Heritage Conservation Fund		385,000.00
R&R Funds-EII restoration (Completed 99-00)		400,000.00
ISTEA Grant for billboard removal (Awarded/in process)		44,000.00

When the Roanoke Island Commission became responsible for this state site in 1994, the site had experienced numerous budget cuts and personnel reductions that had caused it to be in a state of disrepair. For that reason it is the long-term goal of the Commission to make this state site self-sustaining. In 1994, the Commission established an endowment fund requiring 25% (*) of all revenues to be applied; that fund is currently $1,184,114.

Additional fund growth has been possible during this period due to:

- Savings in salary expense when construction completion was delayed
- Retained admissions
- Non-reversion of fund balances

It is important to note the current appropriation budget is on-target for the actual costs of operating the site.

Please note: the Roanoke Island Historical Association, a non-profit organization that produces "The Lost Colony" outdoor drama is a separate entity with no budgetary ties to the Commission.

The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission
Countdown to 2003: www.firstflightnc.com

- The First Flight Centennial Commission (FFCC) was established by the NC General Assembly to plan programs and activities in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Wright brothers' first flight.

- Goal: To make the world aware of North Carolina's role in the first flight and the subsequent 100 years of aviation, and to invite the world to share the celebration with us.

- Programs: Public awareness, educational outreach, and a statewide and yearlong series of celebrations and commemorations that involve business, the arts, the military, communications, transportation, aerospace and humanitarian flight.

- Partnerships are many, including the Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003, National Park Service, NASA, FAA, Smithsonian, US Centennial of Flight Commission, Dayton Ohio, Canada's National Aviation Museum, Experimental Aircraft Association, American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, corporations and aviation organizations.

- Major commemorative achievements to date:
  - Restoration and rededication of the Wright Brothers National Memorial monument
  - B-2 bomber named the Spirit of Kitty Hawk
  - Annual North Carolina and Ohio Class of 2003 summer educational programs
  - Centennial Schools program statewide with annual Centennial Teacher of the Year Award
  - US Mint release of the NC quarter with the Daniels photograph of the first flight
  - Travelling exhibit of NC's first flight displayed to hundreds of thousands at museums, NC State Fairs, Sun 'n Fun, Oshkosh Fly-in, Chicago O'Hare airport
  - International Symposium, They Taught the World to Fly, Oct. 22-25, 2001

- Plans for 2003 will put North Carolina in the international spotlight:
  - Major conventions, conferences and exhibitions brought to North Carolina
  - Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003, Memorial Day
  - NASCAR world record fly-over, Lowe's Motor Speedway
  - State travel guide, state map, airports guide, all to feature the first flight
  - Yearlong program to draw visitors to aviation sites throughout NC
  - World premiere of a First Flight Symphony with educational program

- Special advisors to the First Flight Centennial Commission include:
  - General Henry "Hugh" Shelton, Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Military Advisor
  - Col. Edward "Buzz" Aldrin, Aviation Advisor
  - H. Ross Perot, Corporate Advisor

The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission
Countdown to 2003: Report to the North Carolina General Assembly

December 17, 1903... With Orville Wright at the controls and his brother Wilbur running alongside, a fragile airplane lifted off the sands of North Carolina's Kill Devil Hills. It flew 120 feet in twelve seconds. The brothers flew three more flights on that cold and windy day, and the world changed forever.

In 2003, North Carolina will proudly host the centennial anniversary of mankind's first successful flight in a powered aircraft and celebrate the subsequent 100 years of aviation. The General Assembly established the First Flight Centennial Commission (FFCC) in 1994 under GS 143-640 to "develop and plan activities to commemorate the centennial of the first successful, manned, controlled, heavier-than-air, powered flight and other historical events related to the development of powered flight." The FFCC is an independent commission with administrative support from the Department of Cultural Resources (DCR). It receives its appropriation through DCR.

The Commission is preparing a statewide, yearlong series of celebrations to be launched on December 17, 2002. It is also developing partnerships for national and international observances. It is already clear that North Carolina will be in the national and international spotlight, drawing many visitors to the Wright Brothers National Memorial, northeastern North Carolina and aviation and historical sites throughout the state. Major events of the year will include national and international figures in commemorative events, major aerial displays and air shows, major media productions, new publications, community airport events, significant educational activities, and commissioned performance and public art. North Carolina will be the ideal venue for national and international conferences and conventions involving business, cultural, educational, heritage, scholarly, aviation, engineering, mechanical, aerospace, technological and other audiences. It will be a year to celebrate North Carolina pride throughout the state.

STRATEGIC PLAN

The Commission has divided its charge from the North Carolina General Assembly into four overlapping phases, summarized as Awareness / Education / Celebration / Legacy. Those phases will find expression through themes in the arts, commerce, military contributions, and humanitarian uses of flight.

1. AWARENESS: Generate positive national and international awareness and celebratory understanding of North Carolina's role in the first successful, manned, controlled, heavier-than-air flight achieved by the Wright brothers on December 17, 1903. Examples are:
   - The centennial website for events and programs, www.firstflightnc.com, was launched on National Aviation Day and has been visited by readers from almost every state and 24 countries.
   - The NC quarter design features the famous Daniels photograph of the first flight. The US Mint will place 750 million quarters in circulation in 2001.
   - Participation in the July 4th Ottawa celebration as guests of U.S. Ambassador Giffin brought exposure to over 5,000 Canadians. The FFCC exhibit was then at the National Aviation Museum in Canada through the summer 2000.
   - The FFCC centennial exhibit was featured at Chicago O'Hare Airport from December through March 2001, reaching hundreds of thousands of international visitors.
   - FFCC was a lead participant in centennial pavilions at the Sun 'n Fun (Lakeland, Florida) and Oshkosh (Wisconsin) air shows and the AirVenture Race from Manteo to Oshkosh, reaching nearly one million people over two years.

- FFCC's 1600 square-foot exhibit, winner of the Governor's Award, educated visitors at both the Mountain State Fair and the NC State Fair in Raleigh during years of record attendance.
- The covers of the 2003 aeronautical charts, airports guide, and state map and the NC Travel Guide (approximate distribution of 1 million copies nationally) will feature the centennial.
- Outer Banks Tourist Bureau's multi-million dollar advertising campaigns over next 3 years.
- Multi-state advertorial (advertising plus editorial) campaign with tabloid supplements on North Carolina's quality of life, role in the first flight, aviation and historic sites, and centennial programs and events.

2. EDUCATION: Create interest and understanding, especially for students and teachers, about our state's role and the resultant worldwide legacy of the events of 1903. This will happen through:
   - International symposium in Raleigh, featuring major speakers, October 22-25 2001.
   - Parallel teacher/student symposium in October 2001, co-sponsored with NASA and NC Space Grant Consortium, to help teachers develop a "flight plan" of lessons for 2001-2003.
   - Centennial Schools program for all NC schools, including annual Centennial Teacher of the Year Award for best classroom project on aviation.
   - Class of 2003: 35 high school students from across NC who come together annually with their Ohio counterparts and who serve throughout the year as centennial ambassadors in local activities like library reading programs in their communities.
   - NASA program with DPI to link all NASA educational resources on the centennial of flight and aviation to NC curriculum standards.
   - NASA-Connect feature of the First Flight Elementary School on an aviation program downlinked to 1600 elementary schools throughout the NASA network.
   - Educational outreach: Working with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, FAA, NASA, US Centennial of Flight Commission, NC Public Libraries, NC Symphony, NC Museums, Tar Heel Junior Historians, NC School for Science and Math to commit their educational programs to themes of aviation and North Carolina in 2002-2004 school years.
   - Air Force Association and programs with similar organizations to honor and preserve the memory of veterans who flew in service to the United States.
   - Aviation Maintenance Careers Commission, with broad-based industry endorsement, to promote opportunities in aviation maintenance as a career.

3. CELEBRATION: Create a celebratory/commemorative program whereby the state's residents as well as visitors from around the world will benefit directly and indirectly.
   - From December 17, 2002 through December 17, 2003:
     - A statewide celebratory program – First Flight Day – that will involve each of the 80 public airports and their local communities.
     - A statewide program to create centennial displays in exhibit spaces (museums, community centers, courthouses, libraries) in communities across North Carolina.
     - At least one significant event each month to take place at different sites across the state (detailed in this report under Scheduled Events).
     - Compelling travel programs and tours to revisit and explore those places in NC where the Wright brothers experimented and lived, as well as more recent locations of aviation and historical interest.

- Week of December 13-21, 2003 and December 17 celebration
  - An extensive program developed in conjunction with key centennial stakeholders, to include both WBNM-site and surrounding area activities such as major commemorative speakers, aerial displays and flyovers from every branch of the military and additional non-military groups, fireworks, festival of flight, static displays, educational exhibits, themed days of celebration (military, industry, general aviation), etc.
  - Statewide, national and international extensions from Kitty Hawk to celebrate at key aviation sites throughout the world.

- National commemorative initiatives that will enhance the North Carolina celebrations include
  - Commemorative postage stamp
  - NASA 2003 Mars explorer missions
  - National Air & Space Museum dedication of the new Dulles wing
  - Federal Centennial of Flight Commission's national programs
  - US Mint commemorative coin to be released in 2003

4. LEGACY: Plan the centennial to ensure that North Carolina's profile at home and abroad will be significantly enhanced beyond 2003.
   - Tourism development: The investment in 2003-related tourism activities will be returned in the form of increased visitation to North Carolina, generating new tourism expenditures and direct state and local revenues. The plan is to build on the existing tourism and cultural assets in North Carolina; expand cooperative marketing partnerships and communications programs; and add new tourism products that complement the current offerings.
   - Economic development: The centennial of flight will bring economic development benefits to all regions of the state by highlighting and giving national and international exposure to North Carolina's distinctive assets, including its unique cultural and historic treasures and its tradition of hospitality – after all, the Wright brothers came to Kitty Hawk because they were invited, and they returned throughout the years. The centennial anniversary will feature North Carolina in all publications, involve North Carolina companies in outreach activities, involve foreign businesses both in the state and abroad, and attract national and international aviation, aerospace, engineering, technological and military business conferences and conventions to North Carolina during 2003.
   - Special publications are in the production stages to add to the body of information about the Wright brothers, the achievement of flight, and the subsequent 100 years of aviation, and the future of aeronautics and astronautics.
   - Video productions are underway to document a variety of interesting angles generated by the centennial anniversary of flight
   - Special aviation heritage trails will be established in North Carolina, along a corridor from Maryland to Kitty Hawk, and from North Carolina to Dayton Ohio.
   - Plans are underway to establish a North Carolina Aviation Hall of Fame to honor the state's aviation pioneers and heroes
   - Commissioning new works of art: Inviting North Carolina artists as well as those from around the world to celebrate the centennial by creating new works of sculpture, art and literature, and new performing arts productions, such as a First Flight Symphony.

SCHEDULED PROGRAMS AND EVENTS:

- Major international symposium and parallel teacher/student symposium in 2001
- Special enhanced celebrations on December 16-17, 2001
- Launch of centennial year on December 17 2002
- 2003: January: World Premiere of First Flight Symphony
- February: Celebration of the contributions of African American aviators
- March: Celebration of the contributions of women in aviation
- April: North Carolina extensions of the Aviation World's Fair, Hampton VA
- May: Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003
  Charlotte: NASCAR air show at Lowe's Motor Speedway
- June: DOT's World Flight 2003
  Paris Air Show
- July: Celebration in Dayton Ohio at July 4th Exposition
- August through November: Airport community days, centennial exhibits across the state, media tabloids with concurrent centennial commemorations in cities nationwide
- November: Veterans Day celebrations honoring military aviators
- December: Centennial anniversary celebrations throughout North Carolina with national and international extensions

Ongoing throughout the year: State Fairs; major educational conferences in science, history, math and technology; publicity via editorials, speakers bureau, marketing partnerships, major centennial pavilions at annual air shows, and a variety of centennial events at the local community, statewide, national and international levels.

LOGISTICS:

The Commission knows that an international event of this caliber and duration will bring a host of visitors to all parts of North Carolina, and is developing a multi-modal transportation plan. Aspects include:

- DOT Division of Aviation has commissioned an Air Transportation Study to inventory aviation and community data, develop forecasts to predict the amount of air traffic in 2003, evaluate the existing NC aviation system's ability to manage the air traffic, recommend solutions and determine cost estimates for implementing the 2003 air traffic plan.
- FAA regional steering committee meets quarterly to review all aviation-related plans and events for appropriate approvals and planning, including the provision of temporary control towers, radar and other facilities.
- Representatives from the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety (e.g., Emergency Management Services, the Highway Patrol, the Civil Air Patrol and the National Guard) and the Department of Transportation (ground and aviation coordinators), as well as personnel from the Department of Commerce (tourism, statewide travel and visitors centers, NE NC Partnership) are developing an operations plan.
- Dare County and the Commission have formed integrated local planning teams with the county and municipality planners, sheriffs' offices, fire chief, and other logistical and public safety personnel from throughout the region.
- The National Park Service has hired a special events coordinator at the Wright Brothers National Memorial dedicated to the centennial anniversary; a logistical team from the regional headquarters is working with the Commission on all aspects of site involvement.

MARKETING and FINANCES:
A fully integrated marketing and promotions plan is generating widespread awareness of the importance of North Carolina's role in the first flight and a desire to be involved in the celebrations. The Commission expended its biennial appropriation for 1999-2001 in setting up offices in Raleigh and at the Outer Banks; hiring a time-limited full-time staff; participating in statewide, national and international events; developing and distributing educational materials to schoolteachers and students; preparing for an international symposium in Raleigh in 2001; creating promotional materials, traveling exhibits and a website; and planning the centennial 2003 events. An overview of expenditures is attached.

Preliminary estimates approximate the need from the state for $1.6 million in 2001-2002 and $3 million in 2002-2003. These expenditures are for additional critical time-limited positions (media, volunteer, communications and transportation coordinators), aggressive web-based and promotional marketing, the international symposium, educational outreach programs, expanded satellite office operations at Dare County in 2003, and national and international events. (By comparison, the Inventing Flight-Dayton 2003 projected expenditures are in the $30 - $50 million range.) A chart of allocated expenditures for 1999-2003 is attached.

The actual costs of North Carolina's celebration will exceed the amount requested from the General Assembly. It is clear that significant public and private financial support will be required to realize the potential benefit of the commemoration of the first flight. The Commission is acutely aware of the fiscal problems in North Carolina, and has expanded its application for resources to the following:

- Private fund raising from individuals and educational foundations
- Corporate contributions
- Promotional partnerships with NC and national tourism partners
- Endorsements and commercial commemorative partnerships
- Revenues from merchandise and e-commerce, expected to be generated in 2003
- Continued support from the NC General Assembly
- Support from the federal government
- Local government support
- Support from foreign participants in the celebration

Additionally, the Commission has acquired and will increasingly acquire in-kind contributions from numerous sources. These contributions, for services ranging from printing to promotions, from aerial resources to avionic website pages, from cargo airline assistance to volunteer expertise, will eventually amount to millions in dollar-value to the centennial celebration. An inventory of in-kind contributions is on file at the FFCC for an end-of-project economic impact statement.

PARTNERS and VOLUNTEER LEADERSHIP:
The Commission is forging many partnerships with other centennial affiliated groups in order to leverage resources and awareness and create a centennial year that is truly greater than the sum of its parts. Volunteer leadership is a key part of building effective partnerships. In addition to the 28 Commissioners from around the nation who serve on the First Flight Centennial Commission, leaders from the legislative and executive branches of state government, from state agencies and cultural organizations, and from the public and private sectors have joined the Commission's planning efforts. The focus of the volunteers and staff has been to identify and enlist partners – individuals and civic, cultural and business organizations – throughout North Carolina and the nation to join the centennial planning efforts. In addition to those listed earlier in this report, some of our partners and volunteer leader groups are listed on the following chart.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

March 21, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Wednesday, March 21, 2001 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson.

The pages for this meeting were: Marcus Ratley from Robeson, Representative Bonner's District; Ben Fleetwood from Burlington, from Representative Teague's District; and Reid Huttel from Raleigh, from Senator Basnight's District.

Representative Wilma Sherrill chaired the meeting in Senator Ed Warren's absence. Delores Ledford served as clerk.

Gwynn Swinson, Secretary Department of Administration began the continuation of the Modified Zero-Base Budget Expenditure report with State Property office on page 20 of the report distributed at the previous meeting. Those items to be reported and discussed are attached (attachment # 1).

A decision was made to separate out the two items in the Purchase and Contract line item for Furniture and Equipment. A breakdown will be brought back for further review. It was also asked that all departments separate out the Furniture and Equipment line item. Fiscal Staff requested a special presentation of this item.

In discussion of the difficulty of hiring a separate staff of Police for the State Capitol, the question arose as to whether the Capitol Police could be a part of the City of Raleigh Police force. This matter will be considered later.

With regard to the displaced homemaker program on page 26, the question was asked of how much money was brought in during the contribution budget? This information will be brought back at a later date.

More information will be brought back in regard to the need for more money and help to the Veterans Affairs administration which is an advisory for Veterans to get help in their home counties.

After some discussion of the Science and Technology Division to be moved to Commerce, the issue was flagged for further consideration.

The meeting adjourned at the end of page 39 Modified Zero-Based Budgeting. The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, March 22, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. and will begin on page 40 of the Budget Presentation Modified Zero-Based Budgeting.

Respectfully Submitted

Representative Wilma Sherrill, Chair
For Senator Ed Warren

Delores Ledford, Clerk

The State Property Office in accordance with G.S. 143-341 and 146 is the administering agency in state government for: the acquisition and disposition of real property or any interest therein; the allocation and reallocation of land, buildings or space in buildings among agencies, institutions or departments of the state; management of the state's vacant and unappropriated lands and submerged lands. It is also responsible for maintaining a complete and accurate inventory of all state lands and buildings.

Miscellaneous Contracted Services - (532199) - Continuation funding is not requested for this line item. This expense was a onetime expense for the conversion of 12,000 files from standard file cabinets to an high-density file system.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - The budgeted amount is being requested to make site visits, inspections, conduct negotiations and for education purposes. The One Million Acres Initiative and expected workload associated with the Wetlands Restoration Program and the Clean Water Management Trust Fund will put additional pressure on the travel budget.

Cellular Phone Services - (532814) - Cellular phones provide efficient use of staff time when traveling. Staff is able to negotiate property transactions, arrange appointments and keep in contact with client agencies and the office while traveling. The budgeted amount is actually less than needed, but we will limit use as necessary to stay within the budget.

Furniture and Equipment Schedule - (534500-4550) - The budgeted amount includes nonrecurring expenditures supported by receipts from the land fund to purchase a copier and a high density filing system. Continuation funds are being requested to replace computers as recommended by Management Information Systems, a fax machine, and other miscellaneous furniture.

The Division of Purchase and Contract is the central purchasing authority for all state departments, institutions, agencies, community colleges, technical institutes, and city or local boards of education. It also makes purchasing services available to local governments, charitable non-project hospitals, local non-profit community sheltered workshops, volunteer fire departments, and rescue squads. The Division establishes term contracts and disseminates information on these contracts via the Internet to all agencies that are required to buy commonly used products or services. By combining commonly used items into one contract, the division eliminates the need for each agency to independently solicit bids for these products and services, thereby saving millions of dollars to the citizens of this State.

Miscellaneous Contracted Services - (532199) - Current funding is requested to support statewide E-Procurement initiative that began February 8, 2001. Once the project is fully implemented, it is projected that contractual services may be necessary to perform some of the tasks associated with the project.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding level is requested to support the responsibilities required by statute, rule and/or procurement process. Among these include (1) the purchasing compliance team that conduct in-depth reviews and audits of purchasing transactions and processes for State Purchasing entities. This team also provides assistance by reviewing and assisting with development of purchasing procedures that comply with State Purchasing statutes, with education and training of purchasing personnel, (2) Quality Control Inspectors who travel throughout the State primarily inspecting goods that have been purchased to ensure compliance with purchase contracts prior to release of payment to vendor, (3) attendance at pre-bid conferences to ensure a clear understanding of the bid solicitation document, site conditions, special equipment, and installation requirements, (4) Travel and subsistence provided to Advisory Budget Commission members who participate in the weekly Board of Awards, (5) travel expenses associated with participation in local, state and national purchasing organization meetings which provide for continuing communication and improvements in State purchasing, (6) continuing education and training of professional purchasing personnel.

Cellular Telephone Services - (532814) - Current funding is requested to support telephones for designated employees in full time travel status authorized for efficiency in work assignments and safety while traveling.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is requested for the periodic replacement of equipment to support the needs of sixty-one employees. As a leader in the use of technology, we must purchase and maintain adequate equipment for communicating and performing job responsibilities. The Department recommends a three year replacement schedule for all computers and software. Copy machines, printers, faxes and telephone systems must also be replaced periodically.

The State Capitol Police is a law enforcement agency with police powers throughout Raleigh and state property in Wake County and provides security and property protection for state government facilities in Raleigh, Garner, Cary and Wake County. The agency protects employees and visitors; secures state-owned property; provides security for demonstrations, inaugurations, prison executions, personnel hearings; assist visitors to state facilities; investigates crimes committed on state property; and monitors burglar and fire alarms statewide.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services (532199) - Funding is needed to have background investigation done on prospective employees and when the need arises to do internal investigations of a sensitive nature. This allows our investigators to concentrate on their ever-increasing case load. It is more cost efficient to the Division to contract for these services than to hire a full-time employee.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Funding is necessary to support expense of accessing the Division of Criminal Information. This enables State Capitol Police to access vehicle registration, drivers history and license information. This is the link with other law enforcement agencies.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - These funds are necessary to support expense of leasing vehicles from the Division of Motor Fleet Management.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Phones are installed in the patrol vehicles for officers to conduct official business. These phones insure that the officer will have contact with communications when in a dead spot.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-4550) - These funds are necessary to replace at least two computers in order to adhere to the Dept. of Administration's three-year replacement schedule and update current software to keep up with changing technology.

The North Carolina Council for Women is the official state advocacy agency for women. The mission of the Council for Women is to advise the Governor and the N.C. Legislature on special needs of women in North Carolina. The N.C. Council for Women administers state and federal funding to local programs across the state addressing abuser treatment, displaced homemakers, domestic violence, rape prevention and sexual assault. The Council is composed of a twenty-member Board, and seventeen staff members, twelve located in Raleigh and five in other regional offices across the State.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Current funding necessary to support conference speaker presentation fee.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding necessary to support staff of seventeen and council members' travel and subsistence to accomplish themission of the Council. The five region directors located in New Bern, Greenville, Greensboro, Charlotte and Asheville use permanently assigned state cars to travel extensively in their respective regions to serve their clients across the state.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Current funding necessary to support cost of cellular phones. These phones are needed primarily for the five region directors who travel extensively. Much of their travel is done in rural areas at night and these phones are needed in case of an emergency.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - The budgeted amount will allow for the replacement of outdated computer equipment and related software in order to adhere to the Department's three year replacement schedule. The Council will also need to replace copiers and fax machines on a less frequent replacement schedule.

G.S. 143B0-394 requires that the Council for Women provide grants to displaced homemaker programs throughout the state. (A displaced homemaker is defined as an adult who is working primarily without remuneration to care for the home and family and, for that reason, has diminished marketable skills, or is unemployed or underemployed and experiencing difficulty in obtaining or upgrading employment.)

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is essential to support the state displaced homemaker coordinator. This coordinator must be able to help monitor the 30 displaced homemaker programs across the state when there is a problem with a program.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to replace outdated equipment such as computers, copiers and fax machines that are essential to the operation of the Council for Women. Current technology is necessary to implement and develop statistical data and maintain accurate data on displaced homemakers.

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - These grants provide funds to displaced homemaker programs throughout the state. Currently there are thirty (30) displaced homemaker programs throughout the state which served nearly 6000 clients in 1999-2000 with counseling, job placement, health education, financial management, educational services, tuition assistance, and daycare assistance. The state saves thousands of dollars as a result of investing in the displaced homemaker programs as the clients become self-sufficient by going to work and leaving public assistance.

* Note: $314,995 of these funds represent state appropriation and the balance supported by $20 of each individual divorce fee collected statewide.

In accordance with G.S. 143B-394.2 the rape crisis program supports rape crisis programs in all 100 counties for men, women and children victims, and the establishment of a network of coordinated public and private services for victims of sexual assault, incorporating existing programs as well as aiding in the development of new programs. To accomplish this, the Council for Women provides regional workshops and technical assistance necessary to create and find funding for local rape crisis programs with the goal of increasing the number of local areas with the identified mix of services for rape victims.

Miscellaneous Contacted Services - (532199) - Current funding is essential to contract with miscellaneous employees when necessary to provide administrative support.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses (5327XX) - Current funding for travel is essential to support the travel expense for the coordinator of this program.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to replace outdated equipment such as computers, copiers and fax machines that are essential to the operation of the Council for Women. Current technology is necessary to implement and develop statistical data and maintain accurate data on sexual assault victims.

Other Aids and Grants (5369XX) - These grant funds are awarded to rape crisis programs across the state that provide services for victims of sexual assault.

* Note: $225,000 of these funds were allocated as non-recurring. These funds were allocated as follows:
- 57 programs received an additional allocation of $1,181 making the total grant funding for each program $21,000
- The Coalition Against Sexual Assault received $50,000 to provide training and information to local programs.
- New services were extended to (13) thirteen additional undeserved counties.

The North Carolina Human Relations Commission provides services and programs aimed at improving relationships among all citizens of the state, while seeking to ensure equal opportunities in the areas of employment, housing, public accommodations, recreation, education, justice and governmental services. The commission also enforces the North Carolina Fair Housing Act and is fully substantially equivalent with the Division of Fair Housing within the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The commission participated in writing and implementing the Fair Housing goals for the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy and the Consolidated Housing Plan required by the federal government. The commission also serves as a resource to Community Development Block Grant recipients in helping them develop adequate Fair Housing plans.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Funding requested at current level to engage an occasional conference speaker.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Funding requested at current level to allow state to establish and assist local human relations commissions, respond to crisis in the community, conduct community relations training, or solicit hate violence information network participants.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Funding requested at current level. These phones are used to assist employees for emergency use when traveling in community relations roles. statewide.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is required to replace existing computer equipment and office equipment on periodic basis. Current budgeted funds are sufficient to replace one computer per year.

The Martin Luther King Jr. Commission was established to encourage appropriate ceremonies and activities throughout the state relating to the observance of the legal holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr's birthday and to provide assistance to local governments and private organizations across the state with respect to the observance of such holiday. The commission also promotes among the people of North Carolina an awareness and appreciation of the life and work of Martin Luther King Jr.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is necessary for staff and Board members to meet and carry out its statutory mandates.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is required to purchase data projector and laptop to conduct training and workshops for the upcoming year. Funding is also required to replace existing computer equipment on a three year replacement schedule according to the departmental MIS Division.

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - The General Assembly, when creating the commission, allocated $50,000 of the $75,000 appropriation to be spent on min-grants. To date, 223 grants with a total amount of $370,566 have been awarded. Many of the programs that promote the philosophy of Dr. King on a year-round basis depend on state funds as start-up money. Loss of these funds would prevent the commission from carrying out its statutory mandate of promoting the philosophy of Dr. King on a year-round and statewide basis.

The responsibilities of the Division of Veterans Affairs are to assist veterans and their families in the presentation, processing, proof, and establishment of claims, privileges, rights and benefits as they may be entitled to under federal, state or local laws. the division also cooperates with the various governmental units and veterans organizations in seeking to serve veterans.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Funding is requested at current level to support inmate labor contracted for at the Veteran Cemetery at Black Mountain.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Funding is requested to support lease of new computers to replace outdated computers. The Division did not have sufficient funds to purchase the replacement computers. Without the computers and technology available, the office would not be able to provide expected services.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is requested to support responsibilities of the Division as specified in G.S. 165-6 to assist veterans and their dependents, to aid persons in active military service and to train, supervise and assist any county, city or town that is engaged in veterans services. The Division has fifteen district offices that provide the assistance to veterans and provide training and supervision to county veteran service officers.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding level is necessary to have the ability to replace essential equipment. In order to fulfill the requirements of the statutes governing the responsibilities of this office, we must have the capability to replace old equipment. Most computers have been in place for over five years, the copy machine is over 10 years old

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - Current funding level is required to support G.S. 165-6(9) that allows the Division to contribute to each county an amount not to exceed $2,000 on a matching basis for any fiscal year of the operation of a county service program.
The additional amount for FY 2000/01 was a one-time contribution of $392,000 to the National World War II Memorial Fund.

The Domestic Violence Program provides grants and technical assistance to community groups providing services to victims of domestic violence. It makes available domestic violence programs for men, women, and children in all 100 counties. The goal of these programs is to decrease the incidence of domestic violence and increase help to victims.

Miscellaneous Contacted Services - (532199) - Current funding is essential to contract with miscellaneous employees when necessary to provide administrative support.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses (5327XX) - Current funding for travel is essential to support the Domestic Violence Coordinator. This employee must be able to monitor the ninety-three Domestic Violence Programs across the state when there is a problem with the program. This employee also plays an active role in the state Domestic Violence Coalition which results in additional travel.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to replace outdated equipment such as computers, copiers and fax machines that are essential to the operation of the Council for Women. Current technology is necessary to implement and develop statistical data and maintain accurate data on domestic violence victims.

Other Aids and Grants (5369XX) - These funds along with the marriage license fee funds (1782 fund) provide grants to ninety-three (93) domestic violence programs across the state in order to serve victims of domestic violence by providing safe shelters, hospital accompaniment, court accompaniment, support groups and community education and awareness. The safety of the victims is paramount and elimination of these grant funds could cause programs to close their doors thereby compromising the safety of the victims, putting program employees out of work and could also result in these crimes not being reported.

* Note: $1,000,000 of these grant fund were allocated in as non-recurring funds. These additional funds were allocated as follows:
- 77 Programs received an additional appropriation of $9,520 making their total grant $31,500.
- 16 programs received start-up funds to provide a portion of services provided by the other 77 programs.

In accordance with S.B. 935, Ch. 693, this fund was created as the Domestic Violence Fund supported by receipts from the Marriage License Fees. There are no state dollars appropriated to this fund but rather supported by a fee attached to each marriage license. Elimination of these funds will result in an unfunded mandate. These funds along with domestic violence funds in (Fund 1781 budget) provide grants to ninety three (93) domestic violence programs across the state in order to serve victims of domestic violence by providing safe shelters, hospital accompaniment, court accompaniment, support groups and community education and awareness. The programs that serve multiple counties receive a portion of the marriage license fees for each county they serve. The N.C. Coalition Against Domestic Violence also receives a share according to SB 935. The safety of the victims is paramount and elimination of the marriage license fees could cause programs to close their doors thereby compromising the safety of the victims, putting program employees out of work and could also result in these crimes not being reported.

The Commission on Domestic Violence was created by executive order to improve the state's response to domestic violence. It's mission is to coordinate strategy, policy, programs and services to conduct domestic violence.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Current funding is requested to contract with consultants to provide consultation in such areas as the state workplace violence policy, review and provide consultation to the training curriculum related to the workplace violence policy of the state and to assist in conferences planned for resource professionals in state government.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses: - (5327XX) - Current funding is requested for travel to support quarterly commission meetings, occasional travel to attend conferences associated with domestic violence programs, and local travel that is essential in order to participate in committee meetings and regular speaking engagements across the state.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 4550) - Prior expenditures included the purchase of a work table and several file cabinets. This minimal amount should be retained in the budget for miscellaneous small purchases as they occur.

The Board of Ethics operates under Executive Order 1. The members are appointed by the governor and serve four year terms. The current Board, appointed in 1993, has a membership of seven. Gubernatorial and legislative appointees to boards which are not advisory and state employees serving in policy-making, exempt positions are required to file statements of economic interest annually with the Board. The Board reviews the statements for actual or potential conflict of interest and notifies the proper officials. The Board renders advisory opinions and hears complaints.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - The Agency proposes the elimination of this budgeted $10,000. These funds were initially budgeted to support the expenses of a private investigator during any needed complaint investigation. Currently, the board has no pending complaint investigations requiring the use of these funds. Future need is unpredictable.

Travel and Other Employee Expense - (5327XX) - The Board request continuation of travel at the current level to support (1) travel for in-state ethics education and awareness presentations, (2) Board members' travel for Board Meetings, and (3) out-of-state travel to ethics meetings/conferences. The Agency recommends a possible reduction in the travel budget in the amount of $2,950. This can be accomplished by eliminating the out-of-state amount budgeted of approximately $2,200 and approximately $750 in budgeted funds associated with education.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-4550) - The continuation of these budgeted funds are necessary to accommodate the replacement of computer and office equipment on an as needed reoccurring bas

The NC Commission of Indian Affairs was created in 1971 by the NC General Assembly in response to the requests of concerned Indian citizens from across the state. The Commission's mission is to instill a positive vision for American Indians through preserving cultural identity by promoting and advocating the rights, beliefs and opportunities which impact quality of life.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - As per NCGS 143B-408, the Commission is required to hold quarterly meeting as part of its legislative mandate. The Commission membership administers state recognition procedures under NCGS 143B-406. The Commission also serves as an advisory body over federal and state programs administrated by the Commission. Budgeted travel is required to meet these legislative mandates.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-4550) - The Commission will need funding to replace outdated computer equipment and related software in order to adhere to the Dept. of Administration's three-year replacement schedule. The Commission will also need to replace copiers and fax machines on a less frequent replacement schedule.

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - The budgeted amount of $100,000 was a one time appropriation to provide funding to the Lumbee Indian Tribe regarding a tribal governance matter.

The N.C. Board of Science and Technology, established in 1963 has been modified over the years and most recently under Governor Hunt began to concentrate on strengthening research and education base in fields important to our state's economic growth. The powers and duties of the Board are to identify, support and foster the identification of important research needs of our public and private agencies, institutions and organizations in North Carolina. The Board has the responsibility of allocating funds available to the Board to support research projects, to purchase research equipment and supplies and to construct or modify research facilities.

ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

March 22, 2001
8:30 a.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Thursday, March 22, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Representatives Adams, Barefoot, Lucas, Setzer, and Wilson. There were three Senate members present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. A Visitor Registration list is attached and made part of the record.

Representative Maggie Jeffus, Chair, called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance, and introduced the pages as follows: Allison Carr, Representative Daniel T. Blue, Jr., sponsor; Andrew Turke, Representative J. Samuel Ellis, sponsor; and Tucker Mabry, Senator William R. Purcell, sponsor.

DEPARTMENT OF ADMINISTRATION – Summary of Publications

Representative Jeffus stated that there is only a small portion to finish for the Department of Administration and recognized Secretary Gwynn T. Swinson.

Office of The Secretary (page 47)

Secretary Swinson stated that the bulk of their publications are on their website.

In the Office of the Secretary, there are two publications, The Employee Newsletter, being transmitted electronically, and The DOA Record is a four-year publication that summarizes the departmental achievements which was recently published and do not have the need to do this for several years.

Division of Non-Public Education (page 48)

They are using their website to publish this directory of non-public schools and hope to reduce the number of hard copies to no more than five hundred and probably eliminate all hard copies beginning in January 2002.

Agency of Telecommunications Office (Page 49)

There is a statutory mandate under 143B-426.10 to provide and advise citizens and provide a clearinghouse of information. The January-February issue was not sent out by bulk mail and they will distribute all of the copies by hand, interoffice mail and website.

State Construction Office (Page 50)

The Instructions to Bidders is a document that they must produce in order for the bidders to be fully informed as to what they are submitting bids. The CPC Manual is probably not appropriate for this category but put them here for full disclosure. They are Capital Improvement Coordinator training manuals. They are used for course material and provided to the personnel in the various agencies including the universities and community colleges who are responsible for overseeing capital improvement. They only produce the manual when they teach the courses and they average one course a year

North Carolina Council for Women (Page 51)

The newsletter for the council is published quarterly to communicate about the various activities of the council to constituent groups around the state. They are looking into doing as much as possible on the website but understand that many of the victims do not have access to the Internet.

Human Relations Commission (Page 52)

They produce a Human Relations brochure, which is available to the local community of the Human Relations Agencies around the state. The Biennial Report has already been mailed out and they do not anticipate doing again this fiscal year.

This Six-Year Report has already gone out and it will be several years before it will be published again.

Youth Advocacy and Involvement Office (Page 54)

They will put the newsletter on the website but by General Statute 143B-414 the office is required to provide information to the general public. They will electronically communicate as much as possible.

The Board of Ethics (Page 55)

The Board publishes a newsletter that contains the Ethics opinions.

Governor's Advocacy Council for Persons with Disabilities (Page 56)

They have a number of ADA issues in terms of accessibility. Particularly, for those visually impaired. Accessibility is an issue here. Most of the publications are federally funded and the state's cost is less than five hundred dollars.

NORTH CAROLINA DEPARTMENT OF ADMINISTRATION – Summary of Salary Reserve

There are three categories.

The first category is the in range of salary adjustments based on job change or labor market funding source. On page 59, the first column is the sub totals for 7/1/99-6/30/00 and the second column is the amount used 7/1/00-2/28/01.

The second category is reallocations from class to class not associated with state personnel commission actions funding source. The amount used 7/1/99-6/30/00 was $75,563.00. The amount used 7/01/00-2/28/01 is only $10,895.00.

Representative Sherrill inquired as to amount they now have. Secretary Swinson stated that they have practically none.

The third category is state personnel commission approved actions and associated special entry rates funding source. Last year $17,005.00 was used and as of 2/28/01 they have used $3,792.

Senator Harris inquired as to their change out of computers every three years. What would it entail or how much would it put you behind if they deferred the change out of your computers for the upgrade? Secretary Swinson stated that it was her understanding that they have already been deferring the change outs for a number of years. In some places, the computers have already been in place for five years. They are already behind but that three-year time period is an ideal optimum time frame.

Senate Harris asked what is the number of vehicles that you anticipate purchasing this coming biennium and what kind of results would it be if you deferred purchasing those vehicles? Secretary Swinson stated that for the Division of Facility Management they have a recommendation that at least four of the vehicles should be replaced for a total of about $100,000. They have already been deferring in this area. For the Division of Motor Fleet Management, which is completely receipt supported, she does not know but will get the figures.

Senator Warren asked Secretary Swinson to get the figures on what it would cost to delay all purchases in the motor fleet for one year.

Senator Kinnaird stated that some high schools take in computers and repair and upgrade them. She stated that Cary has curbside computer pickup. Have you considered some of these computers? Secretary Swinson stated that they do get some old computers from the state surplus warehouse.

NORTH CAROLINA DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE (Attachment 2, Pages 1-35)

Representative Jeffus recognized Secretary E. Norris Tolson for his presentation on the North Carolina Department of Revenue. Secretary Tolson summarized the department.

Secretary Tolson introduced Mr. Keith F. McCombs, Director of Financial Services. He began by talking about getting temporary employees. Last year was most difficult, as they could not keep up with the private sector and what they could pay their temporary employees on an hourly basis. As of January 1, 2001, they increased the basic wage that they pay temporaries that come in and help during the tax rush. They increased that by $1.13 per hour bringing the total to $8.95 per hour. As a result, they have had no trouble in attracting the right people they have needed. It was increased on January 1 with no additional money in their budget and they are currently using lapsed salaries to fund that. They have made a request in their recommended budget that they submitted last fall to increase that money so they would not be taking it from lapsed salaries. However, that has not been funded at this point.

Mr. McCombs stated that as he goes through their handout, if anyone has a question, please stop him. The first twenty-seven pages will address the zero base budgeting expenditures.

Mr. McCombs reported that any shaded area represents receipts supported divisions or programs as opposed to general fund appropriation. They have about 1,280 permanent employees and about 350 temporaries. These people assist taxpayers or are involved in the collection of money. They review taxpayers' records as an auditor and the individual who process the paper. Last year they processed over nine million tax forms, and over 2.4 million refunds. Last year, they spent a little over $2 million on postage and Information Technology Services were paid a little over $5.5 million to process work for the Department of Revenue.

Mr. McCombs continued that he would speak to some of the items that appear to be rather large.

In Data Capture they spent $60,400 in the previous fiscal year. This is their image base. They put it into place in the fiscal year 1998-99 so they were appropriated over the two years something around $18 million for that project. That project will be brought to closure by June 30, 2001. The $60,400 was for an individual who had expertise in area of data processing. There is no money budgeted there for future years as it is rolled into everything else they are doing. The line Planning, Development and Technology spent $111,105 for fiscal year 1998-99 and fiscal year 1999-2000 $307,370. This was spent for Y2K compliance with the computer system. They used their money and some money from the statewide Y2K funds to make the changes to their system. They were large expenditures for those years only. Please note on all the pages the columns for Authorized Budget for fiscal year 2000-01 and the Recommended Budget for fiscal years 2001-02 and 2002-03. In Property Tax for fiscal year 1999-00, the $23,997 represents a study that was conducted by North Carolina State University for the property tax division to determine the value of farmland for farming purposes. In Administrative Service, the $65,986 for fiscal year 2000-01 was money that the Department received a number of years ago for the EFT Program that was put in place in the fiscal year 1993-94. Some money has been used but not the amount that was budgeted for that program; however, they may have used some other contractual line item for legal services in the same account area.

Mr. McCombs continued that the only expenditure for fiscal year 2000-01 was for a leased truck because the mail truck broke down.

The only money here is in Motor Fuels for the next two years. It is totally receipt supported by the Highway Fund.

This expenditure was for a leased large copier for the print shop. They had a copier that they had purchased from the North Carolina General Assembly in 1996-97 for $5,000 from State Surplus. The North Carolina General Assembly wore it out and they finished wearing it out. The copier they have now does about 135 copies per minute. They have a sixty-month lease on the copier that will cost over a five-year period $129,000. They did not have enough money in the budget to purchase it outright. Some of the money to pay for the copier is coming from maintenance money they were using on the old copier.

This expenditure is for the leasing of tables and chairs to open the heavy mail in mid-April.

Transportation (Pages 6-17)

These pages all deal with a type of travel, which is the fifth largest operating expenditure in the Department of Revenue. This is not considering salaries.

For the five hundred collectors, auditors, enforcement agency, criminal investigations that travel daily in performing their duties, the outside collectors usually collect nine dollars for every dollar that is spent; the in-house auditors usually collect about fifteen dollars for every dollar spent; the field auditors are usually around seventeen dollars for every dollar spent; interstate auditors return about twenty-five dollars for every dollar is spent. The interstate auditors are the ones usually stationed outside of the State. They live in a large metropolitan area like Atlanta, New York City, Los Angeles, etc. They audit large corporations in that area that have business in North Carolina. They have about 220 collectors that are located in the state and they are in the thirty-five local offices throughout the state. They have a staff from the Attorney General's office assigned to the Revenue Department for collection purposes and sometimes have to engage an attorney from another state if they are trying to collect revenue from someone in another state. They have contracted with a private collection agency and they are now pursuing the out-of-state accounts. This has been very successful. This was started last September and they have received more than $8 million in collections from the out-of-state accounts. They are paying the fee of about twenty to twenty-five percent to the agencies that are paid from individual income tax collections. There was legislation that allowed Revenue to continue this project, which expires June 30, 2001, and now have pending legislation that will allow them to continue this project. It has been very successful.

You will note that travel dollars are lower this year because they have been asked to cut down on travel and do not know if this has affected the amount of receipts.

Mr. McCombs continued that their travel has increased in the amount of money they have been given for travel over the last five years because the number of interstate auditors has increased from twenty-eight in 1997 to a total of forty-six. These auditors do require a lot of dollars when it comes to travel. Some fly from the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

Senator Harris wanted to know the amount of money that was collected as a result of the increase in the number of auditors? Mr. McCombs will get the figures to Senator Harris.

Senator Warren stated that in the Governor's budget he is asking for $18 million and wouldn't this require more travel money and more people? Mr. McCombs responded that they are developing a plan for the amount of money they will raise and the amount of money it will require to raise that amount of money.

Board/Non-Employee Transportation (Page 18) and Subsistence (Page 19)

Mr. McCombs continued that these two pages relate to travel but not for state employees but travel for the North Carolina Property Tax Commission. This Commission is made up of five members appointed, three by the Governor, one by the President Pro-Tem, and one by the Speaker of the House. This group hears the appeals of property tax evaluation from the local and state level. They meet once a month except in July. They have historically not had enough money for this group to travel and have to get money from other places either in that budget or another budget in the department. They have already spent $7,200 as of December and they only hah $8,40 several years.

Mr. McCombs pointed out that there is an increase as of July 1 for lodging and meals in all agencies. They have increased their budget on the basis of this increase. Those increases are not in the Governor's proposed budget to the legislature.

Mr. McCombs stated that they do have agreements with certain hotels in the state but not with out of state hotels. They receive what is referred to as the state rate. Also, they encourage them to share rooms and also to share rides to locations.

Cellular Phone Services (Page 20-20A)

Mr. McCombs continued that with an agency that has approximately 1,300 permanent employees, they have fifty-five cellular phones that are distributed to designated individuals or groups of people. On page 20 is the expenditure and on page 20A is the cellular phone listing. The Secretary of Revenue is the only one that can approve the issuance of a telephone.

Furniture – Office (Page 21)

Mr. McCombs spoke to Data Capture where $249,666 was spent during 1999-00. Again this is a one-time project and no money is budgeted in the next few years for that particular program.

For administrative services, $62,410, a portion of that was money spent on the Property Tax Board Room. A reception desk was purchased for the rotunda in the Revenue Building.

The $347,883 for fiscal year 2000-01, for the Motor Fuels Tax Division was relocated to a location outside the Revenue Building on Rock Quarry Road. This is not a state owned building. It is leased.

Mr. McCombs continued that this could be a large item for them since they have an in-house printing shop and also a number of large mail extracting pieces of equipment. Note that on Data Capture line for 1999-00, $813,700, which was used to buy a mail-sorting machine for $112,000. This was the basic machine and then a number of pieces of equipment were added. The line for Administrative Services, lists $159,663, and they spent $43,000 for a multi-graphic press. This is located in the print shop. Motor Fuels spent $50,857 for the relocation of this Division.

Representative Jeffus stated that obviously they have not finished with the Department of Revenue and hope that they can return to finish on Tuesday, March 27, 8:30 a.m.

The meeting adjourned at 9:55 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

The Secretary's Office provides direction for the management of all divisions of the department. Operations within the Secretary's Office include the Office for Historically Underutilized Businesses (HUB Office), Public Information Office, the N.C. Office on the Americans with Disabilities Act, Quality Improvement Operations and the N.C. State Clearinghouse.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Current funding level is requested to support occasional conference speaker, departmental studies such as efficiency, quality improvement, etc. that may be required of the Department. Prior year studies included the consolidation of the Mail Service Center and others.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Funding requested to support three-year lease of new computers acquired to replace outdated computers. Sufficient equipment funds were not available to purchase the necessary equipment.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is requested to support the travel expenses associated with the varied assignments and tasks of the Secretary's Office. These funds not only support the travel of the Secretary and her immediate staff but the travel of the HUB Coordinator, the ADA Officer, the Quality Improvement Coordinator, etc.

Cellular Phone Services - (532814) - Current funding is requested to support cellular phone for the Secretary of the Department. This position is on-call on a moments notice and must be accessible at all time.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding level is necessary to have the ability to replace essential equipment. Computer equipment must be replaced on a three year average cycle to adhere to DOA's replacement schedule. Copiers, printers, and fax machines also must be replaced on a less frequent replacement schedule.

Other Aid and Grants - (5369XX) - Current funding level requested to fund the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) Assessment to North Carolina. This assessment is based on the amount of ARC grants allocated to North Carolina.

The Office of Fiscal Management accounts for all fiscal activity within the Department of Administration in accordance with requirements of the Office of State Budget, Planning and Management, the Office of the State Controller, the Department of State Auditor and federal agencies. It files timely financial reports and invoices for central receipt-supported services.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Expenditures in this category are supported by receipts generated from indirect cost. These expenditures represent a contractual agreement with a firm to prepare the indirect cost plan for the Department of Administration.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is requested in order to support minimal travel by this agency to attend training workshops, etc.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current level of funding is necessary to have the ability to replace essential equipment. Computer equipment is used to perform the majority of the task within this office through the North Carolina Accounting System and various other systems. We must have the ability to replace equipment in accordance with the existing replacement schedule.

The Human Resources Management Office (HRM) provides a range of service for the Department of Administration. The Human Resources Management Office's services encompass all major areas of personnel administration in accordance with the requirements of the State Personnel Act. The division is responsible for employee selection and recruitment, position management, training and development, employee and management relations, and health benefits administration. The office also administers the State Employee Incentive Bonus Program and the department's Safety and Health Program.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) Budgeted to support three-year lease of new computers to replace outdated computers. The HRM office did not have sufficient funds to purchase the replacement computers. Without the computers and technology available the office would not be able to provide expected services.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Travel is budgeted to provide training to department employees mandated by the Office of State Personnel; to analyze statewide employee suggestions sent from departments to the state coordinator of the State Employees Incentive Bonus Program; to provide training to State Employee Incentive Bonus Program coordinators; to provide staff training offered outside the Raleigh area, and to attend State Personnel Roundtable Meetings not offered in the Raleigh area.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-534550) - Computer equipment must be replaced on a three-year average cycle to adhere to DOA's replacement schedule. Copiers and fax machines also need to be replaced on a less frequent replacement schedule.

The Division of Non-Public Education was established in 1961 as a regulatory agency within the Dept. of Public Instruction. In 1979, the General Assembly enacted legislation requiring the Governor to designate a duly authorized representative of the State of NC to receive notice of intent to operate and to terminate certain private schools. It operated as a monitoring agency under the direct jurisdiction of the Office of the Governor from October 1979 until July 1, 1998, when Governor Hunt transferred it to the Dept. of Administration.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) DNPE travel is confined entirely to in-state, non-public school visitation. GS115C-548 thru 562 requires that non-public schools meet certain requirements - including keeping and maintaining certain records which must be made available to a DNPE representative. The DNPE staff member must also check at the time of each visit to make certain that the facility's state and local fire safety and sanitation requirements are being satisfied.

Furniture and Equipment (534500-4550) - The perpetual growth, the maintaining of home school registration records and information is a constant challenge for our equipment and staff. The number of 99-00 home schools totaled 16,623 while the 90-91 total was 2,479. Computer equipment must be replaced on a three year average cycle to adhere to DOA's replacement schedule. Copiers and fax machines also need to be replaced on a less frequent replacement schedule.

The Management Information Systems Division provides the Department of Administration with quality computer services for technical support and business process re-engineering.

Miscellaneous Contracted Services - (532199) - Current funding is requested to provide temporary assistance from the Office of Information Technology Services (ITS) or contractor services. These funds are necessary when specialized expertise is required in resolving highly technical problems for the Department or assistance in planning new statewide automation initiatives required by ITS and the IRMC.

Rental/Lease of Equipment (532522) - Current funding is requested to support current lease of computer equipment leased to replace outdated computers. The Division did not have sufficient funds to buy the replacement equipment. Without the computers and technology available, the office would not be able to provide expected services.

Travel and Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding level is necessary to support expenses of e-commerce initiatives. Travel funds are necessary to attend required classes in support of this effort. These funds are also required to support staff travel to client sites to provide technical computer support.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Request current level funding to replace outdated computer equipment that is vital to the division. The Division has the responsibility of providing automation leadership, computer programming, and computer support to the Department. In order for this Division to support new computer hardware and software purchases throughout the department, we must have compatible equipment.

The Agency for Public Telecommunications (APT) was founded in 1979 to serve as the media production facility for state government and to provide satellite-based teleconferencing and live, interactive public affairs programs via cable to increase citizen access to government and to improve government efficiency through telecommunications.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Funding is requested at the current level for this line item to support miscellaneous contracts with producers and talent necessary for the production of video projects, for teleconferences and for client-sponsored call-in hours on the Open Public Events Network. Using contractors for these purposes and for hosts on appropriated supported OPEN programs makes it unnecessary to add permanent employees to the APT staff. Future need for these services will vary, based on the kind and complexity of our clients' projects. Note:Majority of this line item is supported by client receipts.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Funding for this line item is supported by receipts received from clients. As part of the cost of production, our public agency clients pay us for the special communication and production equipment we rent, as needed, for their projects. Future needs will vary based on the kind and complexity of client projects.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Funding is requested at the current level for this line item due to travel being necessary as a part of production. Note: Majority of this line item is supported by receipts from clients. Clients pay APT for the travel required for their projects. The need for travel will vary, based on the requirements of each production. The small amount of funds budgeted in this line item not supported by receipts, covers the cost of employee travel to annual cable meetings, etc.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Funding for this line item is supported by receipts received from our clients. As part of the cost of productions, our clients pay for our cell phone connections with field locations while we are videotaping, uplinking for satellite teleconferences, or shooting video for OPEN programs. Cell phone usage in the future will vary, based on the amount of on-location shooting required for clients' production.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-534550) - Funding for this line item is supported by both appropriation and receipts. Continual funding is necessary in order to replace equipment when it can no longer be maintained in good working order and is no longer compatible with the rest of the video production industry. In order to produce high quality products equipment must be in good working order. Without adequate funding and a timely schedule of replacements, cameras, studio and field gear, and other critical production equipment will gradually become obsolete, beyond repair, and impossible to maintain and operate over the next few years, making it necessary to rent more gear or fail to provide services our mandate requires.

The Mail Service Center provides mail services with the highest quality in the most cost-effective manner.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Current funding is requested to support the cost of leasing twelve (12) postage-metering machines. USPS regulations do not allow a company or agency to own postage-meters that will process USPS mail. These machines must be leased through a USPS approved vendor. The number of machines being leased was reduced by approximately 40 machines with the consolidation of numerous mailrooms into the centralized mail facility at the Mail Service Center.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is necessary to fund the director of the Mail Service Center's attendance at the annual USPS Postal Forum. This forum is specifically designed for the professional mail managers and deals with industry concerns and the latest technological advances in the mailing industry.

Cellular Phone Services - (532814) - Current funding is necessary to allows for the leasing of the phones for the inter-city (Wake County) mail carriers. This allows for voice communication between the Mail Service Center and the carriers on their respective routes.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to have the ability to replace essential equipment based on an established replacement schedule.

The State Construction Office is responsible for the review and approval of all plans and specifications for the construction or renovation of all state buildings; preparation of cost estimates relating to appropriation requests for the construction or renovation of state buildings; supervision of the letting of all contracts for the design, construction or renovations of all state buildings; and inspection and acceptance of all work done and materials used in the construction or renovation of all state buildings.

Miscellaneous Contracted Services - (532199) - Funding of this line item is necessary in order to contract for technology services. Such Services are necessary when specialized expertise is needed in technology services. Such services are necessary when specialized expertise is needed in conducting highly technical maintenance to our internal database InterSCOPE. This system was written and developed by contracted technical experts under the Y2K efforts. It will be necessary for this office to contract for necessary repairs and modifications to the system on an as needed basis. This system is essential due to the fact that the General Assembly and public access this database and rely on it for status reports of construction projects.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current level funding is requested for this line item in order to fulfill the duties and responsibilities of the State Construction Office in accordance with G.S. 143-341 and G.S. 143-34-44. Travel is an inherent and vital part of staff's job responsibilities. In order to complete the tasks in an efficient and timely manner, overnight and sometimes extended travel is necessary. It is not possible to inspect construction of state facilities and resolve problems without on-site visits.

Cellular Phone Services - (532814) - Current level funding for cellular phones is being requested. Since travel is such a vital role in fulfilling the duties and responsibilities of the State Construction Office, it is equally important to be able to contact field staff in a timely manner. The ability to have cellular and/or radio contact with field staff allows for a more effective and efficient use of staff and customer time. It is necessary to be able to communicate with architects, engineers and other state officials to timely resolve problems and give directions to expedite the construction of facilities.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding level is necessary to have the ability to replace essential equipment. All information regarding capital improvement projects is maintained on the State Construction Office central database, InterSCOPE. In order to fulfill the requirements of the statutes governing the duties of this office, it must have the capability to keep up to date with advances in computer technology. Our customers depend on our database to be accurate. The office must have the ability to stay in line with the private sector's technological level in order to serve our customers in the most efficient manner possible.

The State Property Office in accordance with G.S. 143-341 and 146 is the administering agency in state government for: the acquisition and disposition of real property or any interest therein; the allocation and reallocation of land, buildings or space in buildings among agencies, institutions or departments of the state; management of the state's vacant and unappropriated lands and submerged lands. It is also responsible for maintaining a complete and accurate inventory of all state lands and buildings.

Miscellaneous Contracted Services - (532199) - Continuation funding is not requested for this line item. This expense was a onetime expense for the conversion of 12,000 files from standard file cabinets to an high-density file system.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - The budgeted amount is being requested to make site visits, inspections, conduct negotiations and for education purposes. The One Million Acres Initiative and expected workload associated with the Wetlands Restoration Program and the Clean Water Management Trust Fund will put additional pressure on the travel budget.

Cellular Phone Services - (532814) - Cellular phones provide efficient use of staff time when traveling. Staff is able to negotiate property transactions, arrange appointments and keep in contact with client agencies and the office while traveling. The budgeted amount is actually less than needed, but we will limit use as necessary to stay within the budget.

Furniture and Equipment Schedule - (534500-4550) - The budgeted amount includes nonrecurring expenditures supported by receipts from the land fund to purchase a copier and a high density filing system. Continuation funds are being requested to replace computers as recommended by Management Information Systems, a fax machine, and other miscellaneous furniture.

The Division of Purchase and Contract is the central purchasing authority for all state departments, institutions, agencies, community colleges, technical institutes, and city or local boards of education. It also makes purchasing services available to local governments, charitable non-project hospitals, local non-profit community sheltered workshops, volunteer fire departments, and rescue squads. The Division establishes term contracts and disseminates information on these contracts via the Internet to all agencies that are required to buy commonly used products or services. By combining commonly used items into one contract, the division eliminates the need for each agency to independently solicit bids for these products and services, thereby saving millions of dollars to the citizens of this State.

Miscellaneous Contracted Services - (532199) - Current funding is requested to support statewide E-Procurement initiative that began February 8, 2001. Once the project is fully implemented, it is projected that contractual services may be necessary to perform some of the tasks associated with the project.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding level is requested to support the responsibilities required by statute, rule and/or procurement process. Among these include (1) the purchasing compliance team that conduct in-depth reviews and audits of purchasing transactions and processes for State Purchasing entities. This team also provides assistance by reviewing and assisting with development of purchasing procedures that comply with State Purchasing statutes, with education and training of purchasing personnel, (2) Quality Control Inspectors who travel throughout the State primarily inspecting goods that have been purchased to ensure compliance with purchase contracts prior to release of payment to vendor, (3) attendance at pre-bid conferences to ensure a clear understanding of the bid solicitation document, site conditions, special equipment, and installation requirements, (4) Travel and subsistence provided to Advisory Budget Commission members who participate in the weekly Board of Awards, (5) travel expenses associated with participation in local, state and national purchasing organization meetings which provide for continuing communication and improvements in State purchasing, (6) continuing education and training of professional purchasing personnel.

Cellular Telephone Services - (532814) - Current funding is requested to support telephones for designated employees in full time travel status authorized for efficiency in work assignments and safety while traveling.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is requested for the periodic replacement of equipment to support the needs of sixty-one employees. As a leader in the use of technology, we must purchase and maintain adequate equipment for communicating and performing job responsibilities. The Department recommends a three year replacement schedule for all computers and software. Copy machines, printers, faxes and telephone systems must also be replaced periodically.

The State Capitol Police is a law enforcement agency with police powers throughout Raleigh and state property in Wake County and provides security and property protection for state government facilities in Raleigh, Garner, Cary and Wake County. The agency protects employees and visitors; secures state-owned property; provides security for demonstrations, inaugurations, prison executions, personnel hearings; assist visitors to state facilities; investigates crimes committed on state property; and monitors burglar and fire alarms statewide.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services (532199) - Funding is needed to have background investigation done on prospective employees and when the need arises to do internal investigations of a sensitive nature. This allows our investigators to concentrate on their ever-increasing case load. It is more cost efficient to the Division to contract for these services than to hire a full-time employee.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Funding is necessary to support expense of accessing the Division of Criminal Information. This enables State Capitol Police to access vehicle registration, drivers history and license information. This is the link with other law enforcement agencies.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - These funds are necessary to support expense of leasing vehicles from the Division of Motor Fleet Management.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Phones are installed in the patrol vehicles for officers to conduct official business. These phones insure that the officer will have contact with communications when in a dead spot.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-4550) - These funds are necessary to replace at least two computers in order to adhere to the Dept. of Administration's three-year replacement schedule and update current software to keep up with changing technology.

The North Carolina Council for Women is the official state advocacy agency for women. The mission of the Council for Women is to advise the Governor and the N.C. Legislature on special needs of women in North Carolina. The N.C. Council for Women administers state and federal funding to local programs across the state addressing abuser treatment, displaced homemakers, domestic violence, rape prevention and sexual assault. The Council is composed of a twenty-member Board, and seventeen staff members, twelve located in Raleigh and five in other regional offices across the State.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Current funding necessary to support conference speaker presentation fee.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding necessary to support staff of seventeen and council members' travel and subsistence to accomplish themission of the Council. The five region directors located in New Bern, Greenville, Greensboro, Charlotte and Asheville use permanently assigned state cars to travel extensively in their respective regions to serve their clients across the state.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Current funding necessary to support cost of cellular phones. These phones are needed primarily for the five region directors who travel extensively. Much of their travel is done in rural areas at night and these phones are needed in case of an emergency.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - The budgeted amount will allow for the replacement of outdated computer equipment and related software in order to adhere to the Department's three year replacement schedule. The Council will also need to replace copiers and fax machines on a less frequent replacement schedule.

G.S. 143B0-394 requires that the Council for Women provide grants to displaced homemaker programs throughout the state. (A displaced homemaker is defined as an adult who is working primarily without remuneration to care for the home and family and, for that reason, has diminished marketable skills, or is unemployed or underemployed and experiencing difficulty in obtaining or upgrading employment.)

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is essential to support the state displaced homemaker coordinator. This coordinator must be able to help monitor the 30 displaced homemaker programs across the state when there is a problem with a program.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to replace outdated equipment such as computers, copiers and fax machines that are essential to the operation of the Council for Women. Current technology is necessary to implement and develop statistical data and maintain accurate data on displaced homemakers.

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - These grants provide funds to displaced homemaker programs throughout the state. Currently there are thirty (30) displaced homemaker programs throughout the state which served nearly 6000 clients in 1999-2000 with counseling, job placement, health education, financial management, educational services, tuition assistance, and daycare assistance. The state saves thousands of dollars as a result of investing in the displaced homemaker programs as the clients become self-sufficient by going to work and leaving public assistance.

* Note: $314,995 of these funds represent state appropriation and the balance supported by $20 of each individual divorce fee collected statewide.

In accordance with G.S. 143B-394.2 the rape crisis program supports rape crisis programs in all 100 counties for men, women and children victims, and the establishment of a network of coordinated public and private services for victims of sexual assault, incorporating existing programs as well as aiding in the development of new programs. To accomplish this, the Council for Women provides regional workshops and technical assistance necessary to create and find funding for local rape crisis programs with the goal of increasing the number of local areas with the identified mix of services for rape victims.

Miscellaneous Contacted Services - (532199) - Current funding is essential to contract with miscellaneous employees when necessary to provide administrative support.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses (5327XX) - Current funding for travel is essential to support the travel expense for the coordinator of this program.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to replace outdated equipment such as computers, copiers and fax machines that are essential to the operation of the Council for Women. Current technology is necessary to implement and develop statistical data and maintain accurate data on sexual assault victims.

Other Aids and Grants (5369XX) - These grant funds are awarded to rape crisis programs across the state that provide services for victims of sexual assault.

* Note: $225,000 of these funds were allocated as non-recurring. These funds were allocated as follows:
- 57 programs received an additional allocation of $1,181 making the total grant funding for each program $21,000
- The Coalition Against Sexual Assault received $50,000 to provide training and information to local programs.
- New services were extended to (13) thirteen additional undeserved counties.

The North Carolina Human Relations Commission provides services and programs aimed at improving relationships among all citizens of the state, while seeking to ensure equal opportunities in the areas of employment, housing, public accommodations, recreation, education, justice and governmental services. The commission also enforces the North Carolina Fair Housing Act and is fully substantially equivalent with the Division of Fair Housing within the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The commission participated in writing and implementing the Fair Housing goals for the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy and the Consolidated Housing Plan required by the federal government. The commission also serves as a resource to Community Development Block Grant recipients in helping them develop adequate Fair Housing plans.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Funding requested at current level to engage an occasional conference speaker.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Funding requested at current level to allow state to establish and assist local human relations commissions, respond to crisis in the community, conduct community relations training, or solicit hate violence information network participants.

Cellular Phone Service - (532814) - Funding requested at current level. These phones are used to assist employees for emergency use when traveling in community relations roles. statewide.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is required to replace existing computer equipment and office equipment on periodic basis. Current budgeted funds are sufficient to replace one computer per year.

The Martin Luther King Jr. Commission was established to encourage appropriate ceremonies and activities throughout the state relating to the observance of the legal holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr's birthday and to provide assistance to local governments and private organizations across the state with respect to the observance of such holiday. The commission also promotes among the people of North Carolina an awareness and appreciation of the life and work of Martin Luther King Jr.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is necessary for staff and Board members to meet and carry out its statutory mandates.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is required to purchase data projector and laptop to conduct training and workshops for the upcoming year. Funding is also required to replace existing computer equipment on a three year replacement schedule according to the departmental MIS Division.

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - The General Assembly, when creating the commission, allocated $50,000 of the $75,000 appropriation to be spent on min-grants. To date, 223 grants with a total amount of $370,566 have been awarded. Many of the programs that promote the philosophy of Dr. King on a year-round basis depend on state funds as start-up money. Loss of these funds would prevent the commission from carrying out its statutory mandate of promoting the philosophy of Dr. King on a year-round and statewide basis.

The responsibilities of the Division of Veterans Affairs are to assist veterans and their families in the presentation, processing, proof, and establishment of claims, privileges, rights and benefits as they may be entitled to under federal, state or local laws. the division also cooperates with the various governmental units and veterans organizations in seeking to serve veterans.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - Funding is requested at current level to support inmate labor contracted for at the Veteran Cemetery at Black Mountain.

Rental/Lease of Equipment - (532525) - Funding is requested to support lease of new computers to replace outdated computers. The Division did not have sufficient funds to purchase the replacement computers. Without the computers and technology available, the office would not be able to provide expected services.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - Current funding is requested to support responsibilities of the Division as specified in G.S. 165-6 to assist veterans and their dependents, to aid persons in active military service and to train, supervise and assist any county, city or town that is engaged in veterans services. The Division has fifteen district offices that provide the assistance to veterans and provide training and supervision to county veteran service officers.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding level is necessary to have the ability to replace essential equipment. In order to fulfill the requirements of the statutes governing the responsibilities of this office, we must have the capability to replace old equipment. Most computers have been in place for over five years, the copy machine is over 10 years old

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - Current funding level is required to support G.S. 165-6(9) that allows the Division to contribute to each county an amount not to exceed $2,000 on a matching basis for any fiscal year of the operation of a county service program.
The additional amount for FY 2000/01 was a one-time contribution of $392,000 to the National World War II Memorial Fund.

The Domestic Violence Program provides grants and technical assistance to community groups providing services to victims of domestic violence. It makes available domestic violence programs for men, women, and children in all 100 counties. The goal of these programs is to decrease the incidence of domestic violence and increase help to victims.

Miscellaneous Contacted Services - (532199) - Current funding is essential to contract with miscellaneous employees when necessary to provide administrative support.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses (5327XX) - Current funding for travel is essential to support the Domestic Violence Coordinator. This employee must be able to monitor the ninety-three Domestic Violence Programs across the state when there is a problem with the program. This employee also plays an active role in the state Domestic Violence Coalition which results in additional travel.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500 - 534550) - Current funding is necessary to replace outdated equipment such as computers, copiers and fax machines that are essential to the operation of the Council for Women. Current technology is necessary to implement and develop statistical data and maintain accurate data on domestic violence victims.

Other Aids and Grants (5369XX) - These funds along with the marriage license fee funds (1782 fund) provide grants to ninety-three (93) domestic violence programs across the state in order to serve victims of domestic violence by providing safe shelters, hospital accompaniment, court accompaniment, support groups and community education and awareness. The safety of the victims is paramount and elimination of these grant funds could cause programs to close their doors thereby compromising the safety of the victims, putting program employees out of work and could also result in these crimes not being reported.

* Note: $1,000,000 of these grant fund were allocated in as non-recurring funds. These additional funds were allocated as follows:
- 77 Programs received an additional appropriation of $9,520 making their total grant $31,500.
- 16 programs received start-up funds to provide a portion of services provided by the other 77 programs.

In accordance with S.B. 935, Ch. 693, this fund was created as the Domestic Violence Fund supported by receipts from the Marriage License Fees. There are no state dollars appropriated to this fund but rather supported by a fee attached to each marriage license. Elimination of these funds will result in an unfunded mandate. These funds along with domestic violence funds in (Fund 1781 budget) provide grants to ninety three (93) domestic violence programs across the state in order to serve victims of domestic violence by providing safe shelters, hospital accompaniment, court accompaniment, support groups and community education and awareness. The programs that serve multiple counties receive a portion of the marriage license fees for each county they serve. The N.C. Coalition Against Domestic Violence also receives a share according to SB 935. The safety of the victims is paramount and elimination of the marriage license fees could cause programs to close their doors thereby compromising the safety of the victims, putting program employees out of work and could also result in these crimes not being reported.

The Board of Ethics operates under Executive Order 1. The members are appointed by the governor and serve four year terms. The current Board, appointed in 1993, has a membership of seven. Gubernatorial and legislative appointees to boards which are not advisory and state employees serving in policy-making, exempt positions are required to file statements of economic interest annually with the Board. The Board reviews the statements for actual or potential conflict of interest and notifies the proper officials. The Board renders advisory opinions and hears complaints.

Miscellaneous Contractual Services - (532199) - The Agency proposes the elimination of this budgeted $10,000. These funds were initially budgeted to support the expenses of a private investigator during any needed complaint investigation. Currently, the board has no pending complaint investigations requiring the use of these funds. Future need is unpredictable.

Travel and Other Employee Expense - (5327XX) - The Board request continuation of travel at the current level to support (1) travel for in-state ethics education and awareness presentations, (2) Board members' travel for Board Meetings, and (3) out-of-state travel to ethics meetings/conferences. The Agency recommends a possible reduction in the travel budget in the amount of $2,950. This can be accomplished by eliminating the out-of-state amount budgeted of approximately $2,200 and approximately $750 in budgeted funds associated with education.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-4550) - The continuation of these budgeted funds are necessary to accommodate the replacement of computer and office equipment on an as needed reoccurring bas

The NC Commission of Indian Affairs was created in 1971 by the NC General Assembly in response to the requests of concerned Indian citizens from across the state.
The Commission's mission is to instill a positive vision for American Indians through preserving cultural identity by promoting and advocating the rights, beliefs and opportunities which impact quality of life.

Travel and Other Employee Expenses - (5327XX) - As per NCGS 143B-408, the Commission is required to hold quarterly meeting as part of its legislative mandate.
The Commission membership administers state recognition procedures under NCGS 143B-406. The Commission also serves as an advisory body over federal and state programs administrated by the Commission. Budgeted travel is required to meet these legislative mandates.

Furniture and Equipment - (534500-4550) - The Commission will need funding to replace outdated computer equipment and related software in order to adhere to the Dept. of Administration's three-year replacement schedule. The Commission will also need to replace copiers and fax machines on a less frequent replacement schedule.

Other Aids and Grants - (5369XX) - The budgeted amount of $100,000 was a one time appropriation to provide funding to the Lumbee Indian Tribe regarding a tribal governance matter.

The N.C. Board of Science and Technology, established in 1963 has been modified over the years and most recently under Governor Hunt began to concentrate on strengthening research and education base in fields important to our state's economic growth. The powers and duties of the Board are to identify, support and foster the identification of important research needs of our public and private agencies, institutions and organizations in North Carolina. The Board has the responsibility of allocating funds available to the Board to support research projects, to purchase research equipment and supplies and to construct or modify research facilities.

Special Funds Analysis
Balance At December 31, 2000

Budget Code	Center	Title	Fund Balance	Legally Obligated	Comments
24700	2470	Unauthorized Substance Tax	$3,833,158.37	Yes	All monies in this Special Revenue Fund are paid out to two sources; 25% to the General Fund and 75% to the law enforcement agencies involved in the arrest of the person. Distributions to these two sources occurs monthly, but only after all legal appeals available to the taxpayer have been satisfied. Until all of the taxpayer's appeal rights have been exhausted, the monies are not available for distribution.
24701	2000	Fed. Retiree Lawsuit - Refunds	$37,985.46	Yes	Monies remaining from refunds required of the Department with regard to the federal retiree lawsuit. The Department does not anticipate any additional refunds to the taxpayers.
24702	2020	Intangibles Tax Lawsuit - Refunds	$1,348,775.08	Yes	These remaining monies are to be used to process the refunds required in the lawsuit Derrick Close vs. State of North Carolina . This lawsuit addresses the taxing of beneficial interest with regards to the Intangibles Tax. The refunds expected to be made in FY 2000-01 total $6.0 million.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

March 27, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Tuesday, March 27, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Two of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, and Mitchell Setzer. Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. Senator Warren recognized Pages Louise Lucas from Representative Grady's district, Melissa Bullock from Representative Coates district, and Mariah J. Smith from Senator Reeves district. The fiscal staff members Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism were also present.

Maybe Keith McCombs from the Department of Revenue spoke for Mr. Norris Tolson. Mr. McCombs began by distributing a handout in answer to a question from Senator Harris asked at the March 22, 2001 meeting with regard to the amount of income generated since adding additional personnel to that group. The answer is provided by the numbers on the handout. (Attachment # 1).

Mr. McCombs continued the NC Department of Revenue Zero Base Budgeting Expenditures review on page 23 of the attached report. (Attachment # 2).

On page 28 there is a fund balance of $37,985.46 in the Federal Retiree Lawsuit fund. In answer to a question Mr.McCombs explained the money is excess needed for refunds. There are no further refunds and the money can be used for other purposes. The Department of Revenue was planning to show this money as unused money at the end of the year but it certainly can be brought back now. The General Government Committee will get back to the Department of Revenue with how to bring this money to the table for the current budgeting purposes.

Mr. Bill Saunders was asked to respond to a question with regard to the unauthorized substance tax. What type of activity increase or decrease do we have? Mr. Saunders answered that they have a new Director and that they are bringing in between $400,000 - $600,000 per month which is an increase.

With regard to a question of where the $6,000,000 for the Intangibles Tax Lawsuit will come from, an explanation was given that the money beyond the $1,348,775.08 would come from the general fund revenues during this fiscal year.

An effort is being made to reduce the amount of paper being sent out through the use of the Web. Also tax forms are not being mailed to those people who have their taxes prepared for them.

Is there flexibility without a change in statute to stop publications from being sent out if the department thinks they should be stopped? The answer to this question will be brought back.

Currently the process by which schools, cities and counties are reimbursed from sales tax is to take the tax and then reimburse it. If the process could be changed to not take the tax would the removal of paper work make a significant difference? This question is flagged and will be responded to by Michele Nelson.

The review of the Department of Revenue document review was finished.

The meeting was adjourned until March 28 at 8:30 a.m.

Respectfully Submitted

Senator Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

Special Funds Analysis
Balance At December 31, 2000

Budget Code	Center	Title	Fund Balance	Legally Obligated	Comments
24700	2470	Unauthorized Substance Tax	$3,833,158.37	Yes	All monies in this Special Revenue Fund are paid out to two sources; 25% to the General Fund and 75% to the law enforcement agencies involved in the arrest of the person. Distributions to these two sources occurs monthly, but only after all legal appeals available to the taxpayer have been satisfied. Until all of the taxpayer's appeal rights have been exhausted, the monies are not available for distribution.
24701	2000	Fed. Retiree Lawsuit - Refunds	$37,985.46	Yes	Monies remaining from refunds required of the Department with regard to the federal retiree lawsuit. The Department does not anticipate any additional refunds to the taxpayers.
24702	2020	Intangibles Tax Lawsuit - Refunds	$1,348,775.08	Yes	These remaining monies are to be used to process the refunds required in the lawsuit Derrick Close vs. State of North Carolina. This lawsuit addresses the taxing of beneficial interest with regards to the Intangibles Tax. The refunds expected to be made in FY 2000-01 total $6.0 million.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE ON GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Wednesday, March 28, 2001

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, March 28, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. House members present were: Representatives Wilma Sherrill, Chair; Jeffus, Chair; Adams, Lucas, Barefoot, and Setzer. There were two Senators present. Committee Counsel present: Michelle Nelson and Marilyn Chism. (Visitor Registration list is attached for the record.)

Representative Wilma Sherrill chaired the meeting. She called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance and introduced the pages.

Representative Sherrill announced that the Committee would begin the Continuation Budget today and then announced the schedule of presentations by the agencies.

Representative Sherrill recognized Franklin Freeman, Senior Assistant for Governmental Affairs. Mr. Freeman explained the chart outlining the various divisions of the Governor's office. He presented a comparison chart showing Governor Easley's cabinet with that of former Governor Hunt.

Representative Sherrill asked if there were any positions in the Governor's office paid from the budget of another agency. This information will be secured for her. Senator Warren asked if there has been any planning on moving the Western and Eastern Governor's office in order to save some money. There has not been at this time. Senator Warren asked if the names could not included on the organization chart of who held certain positions. Representative Sherrill responded that they are planning to ask that these names be added to the chart.

Mr. Freeman said that the budget for Contracted Personal services for FY 1996-97 to 2000-01 was $61,836 and that the same amount was in the budget for FY 2001-2003.

Represented Jeffus asked what has been eliminated under Education. Mr. Freeman responded about $20,000. The Governor has not yet filled the position of the Education Advisor.

Mr. Freeman then presented the Miscellaneous Contractual Services budget in the amount of $2565 for FY 2001-2002 and FY 2002-2003.

The Travel budget was presented. Senator Kinnaird asked about the "out of country" expenses and had that been eliminated. Mr. Freeman answered that this has been shifted to another agency.

Mr. Freeman presented the Furniture and Equipment Replacement budget which totaled less then $40,000.

The Cell Phone Service has been reduced from 31 to 21 in the Governor's office, thus reducing the cost almost half. He explained that almost half of these phones are assigned to the Governor's security force. Representative Sherrill stated that she thought the security phones were in the Highway Patrol budget. Mr. Freeman said "no" that they are in the budget of the Office of the Governor.

Senator Kinnaird asked if the people who had these cell phones were able to use them for personal calls or were they for business calls only. Mr. Freeman answered that they checked frequently to see that they are used only for business.Mr. Freeman presented the Rental/Leasing Equipment of less than $40,000 for FY 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 for all residences.

Mr. Freeman said that thee was no Salary Reserve in the office of the Governor at this time.

Mr. Freeman stated that the maintenance contracts through December 2000 was $3258.21. He also said that the Office of the Governor in the earlier Continuation Budget reductions presented by the Governor took a 2.4% reduction. This amounted to $50,834 more than was required. He said that the Governor's office had a total reduction of $135,000. This completed the presentation of the budget for the Governor's office. (See Attachment I)

Representative Sherrill then recognized Mr. David McCoy, State Budget Officer. Mr. McCoy presented the requested information from the Office of State Budget Planning and Management. He also presented and explained the chart showing the various divisions of the department.

Representative Sherrill asked if there had been any increase in the staff. Mr. McCoy answered "no" that they have just moved them around. She also asked if anyone got a promotion. Mr. McCoy said some were moved around but there was no salary increase. Representative Sherrill said that it appeared that the department has added some responsibilities, to which Mr. McCoy answered "yes". Senator Harris suggested that they flag the $45,000 in the Contracted Personal Services budget.

Mr. McCoy presented the Salary Reserve Report showing a balance of $9267.00. Funds are created by hiring at less than the budgeted salary and used by hiring at more than a position's budgeted salary and providing adjustments. He said there was one vacant position "Economist II" with a salary of $39,943 which they hoped to fill.

Representative Jeffus asked if the three publications by the department were shared in any way. Mr. McCoy said they were shared and that you can find them in the budget office on different floors and also in the Regional Offices. The publications are also in the Administration building and in the Elks building.

Mr. McCoy said that the total potential reduction for FY 2001-2002 is $70,567 and for FY 2002-2003 is $50,567. (See Attachment II)

The meeting adjourned at 9:50 a.m. to meet again on Thursday morning at 8:30.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosa S. Kelley

Representative Wilma Sherrill, Chair

Additional Potential Budget Reductions

The Office of the Governor in the earlier continuation budget reductions presented by the Governor took a 2.4% reduction in the continuation budget, which amounted to approximately 1% more than the average agency reduction. This amounted to $50,834 more than was required.

We are continuing to examine our budget for additional potential reductions.

RULES FOR JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEES 2001 SESSION

March 20, 2001

1. Subcommittee spending targets are composed of recurring funds.

2. Additional non-recurring reductions, beyond the subcommittee target, shall only be used for non-recurring expansion.

3. Verify that all current year (Fiscal Year 2000-01) non-recurring items have been removed from the continuation budget.

4. Identify all appropriations as recurring and non-recurring.

5. Identify all position changes (eliminations, reductions, etc...).

6. Unspecified reductions (negative reserves) recommended by the Governor must be specifically identified and presented to the subcommittee prior to adoption.

7. No non-recurring expenditures allowed in the second year of the biennium (Fiscal Year 2002-03).

8. No program expansion allowed in the second year of the biennium (Fiscal Year 2002-03).

9. No expansion positions shall be phased in during the fiscal biennium.

10. Special provisions shall not authorize expenditure of reversions.

11. Refer all salary-related, state employee health plan, debt service, and other statewide reserve issues to the Full Appropriations Committee Chairs.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

March 29, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Thursday, March 29, 2001 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Four of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Jeffus, Co-Chair Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. Senator Warren recognized the Pages: Louis Lucas, Melissa Bullock, and Mariah J. Smith. The fiscal staff members Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism were also present.

Franklin Freeman from the Office of the Governor distributed a handout of Information Requested for the Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government. (Attachment 1). He explained that the first three pages are an overview of the Governor's Office. The remaining two pages are a summary of line item budget showing cuts that are a part of the 2.5% requested. Representative Sherrill asked if Mr. Freeman could make a recommendation to the Committee for an additional $55,000 or 1% cut. Mr. Freeman stated that he could and would have it to the Committee by Tuesday of next week. The total cut would then be 3.5%. After some general discussion, Mr. Freeman's presentation was finished.

The next agenda item is a continuation of the Office of State Budget, Planning and Management. Mr. David McCoy reviewed briefly the Departments responsibilities as detailed in the handout from Office of State Budget Planning & Management (Attachment 2). This office serves the Governor's office to implement the necessary steps in the preparation of a budget. Senator Warren asked if the Personnel Office worked with the State Personnel Office. Mr. McCoy explained that while they are in the office of State Budget, Planning and Management, they are responsible for making sure that they adhere to the requirements of the State Personnel.

The fiscal information requested yesterday was presented and reviewed. A total 2.5% or 40% of the operating budget is being offered as possible cuts. Representative Adams asked what is included in other expenses? This information will be brought back to the next General Government meeting on Monday, April 2, 2001 at 4:00 p.m.

Adjourned at 9:25 a.m.

Respectfully Submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Information Requested for the Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on

General Government
March 29, 2001

Office of the Governor

Origins of the Office

According to the North Carolina Manual, the Office of the Governor is the oldest governmental office in North Carolina, dating back to the first colony on Roanoke Island. The 1972 reorganization created the Office of the Governor as one of the major departments in the executive branch of state government.

The Governor is authorized to have under his immediate jurisdiction various assistants and personnel to help carry out his functions as Chief Executive of the state. The size and configuration of the office vary, according to the style and priorities of the incumbent.

Major Roles and Functions

The Governor has many roles. His constitutional and statutory duties include the roles of Chief Executive, Director of the Budget, Commander-in-Chief of the state military, and Chairman of the Council of State. He is directed to "take care" that all state laws are faithfully executed and has the authority to convene extra sessions of the General Assembly. He has the power to grant pardons and commutations, issue extradition warrants and requests, join interstate compacts, and reorganize and consolidate state agencies. He has final authority over all state expenditures and ultimate responsibility for administration of federal funds and loans.

Organization and Management

The Governor's Office and its staff exist to help the Governor carry out his responsibilities and serve at his pleasure. The Governor's staff advises the Governor on policy matters; serves as liaisons with the public, media, and legislature; and supports the administrative operation of the Governor's Office.

Key Offices Reporting to Governor

In addition to the Governor's internal staff, several other offices report to the Governor through the Senior Assistants these include:

- ITS (Information Technology Services)
- NC Redevelopment Center (Floyd Recovery Office)
- Office of State Budget, Planning, and Management
- Office of State Personnel

Administration (Fund 1110)

The Administration account covers all organizational units and all internal staff.

The Senior Assistant for Administration, Senior Assistant for Governmental Affairs, and Senior Assistant for Policy and Legal Affairs assist the Governor by managing the Office of the Governor and its staff. In addition, they provide the Governor with assistance in the development of his legislative and budgetary policies. They also serve as the Governor's liaison to the Executive Cabinet and Council of State Agencies. Together, they are responsible for advising the Governor on all key issues, overseeing the staff's effort to carry out the Governor's agenda, ensuring that the Governor's Office is responsive to citizen concerns, and managing the internal operations of the Governor's Office.

The Policy Office advises the Governor on budget, legislation, and policy initiatives. The Director serves as one of the Governor's top advisors, and each policy advisor handles cross-agency policy matters and coordinates activities in those areas between the Governor's Office and the responsible federal, state and local agencies and organizations.

The Legal Counsel's Office monitors all legal issues related to the Governor and his cabinet. They advise the Governor when policy developments involve legal issues, coordinate judicial appointments, administer clemency requests, coordinate the preparation and execution of all Executive Orders and directives issued by the Governor, and oversee the Governor's execution of all deeds, easements, leases, and similar legal documents.

The Communications and Press Office manage the overall operations of the media and act as the primary liaison with the media for the Governor and coordinate daily outreach with the Capitol Press Corps. The Press Office devises and directs the implementation of media outreach initiatives, staffs the Governor during press events, and drafts press releases and other communications.

The Legislative Office is responsible for working with the Governor and the Cabinet agencies to develop the Governor's legislative agenda; developing and maintaining relationships with legislators and legislative leaders; and reviewing and tracking legislation. The Senior Assistant for Governmental Affairs is the chief lobbyist for the Governor, advises the Governor whether to sign or veto bills, and updates the Governor on the current status of bills.

The Office of Community Affairs and the Office of Hispanic / Latino Affairs serve as liaisons with the statewide minority populations, advise the Governor on policy, legislation and personnel issues of concern to our minority populations, and make recommendations.

The Office of Boards and Commissions advises the Governor on prospects for appointment to approximately 400 boards and commissions and makes recommendations of qualified individuals. The office also monitors the creation or abolition of boards and commissions, keeps a record of changes in the membership, and assists the citizens of the state interested in serving on a board or commission.

The Office of Intergovernmental Relations: (Fund 1130)

The Office of Intergovernmental Relations is responsible for coordinating state-federal issues and state-local issues that are of importance to North Carolina. Staff works directly with personnel in the federal agencies and with Congressional Members and staff, and the office serves as the point of contact for the state's participation in national and regional organizations. The office also acts as the liaison with the counties and cities interests in the state. The Governor's Washington, D.C., Eastern NC and Western NC offices are elements of the intergovernmental structure for ensuring that government services are responsive to the needs of all North Carolinians.

Office of Citizen Affairs (Fund 1210)

The Office of Citizen and Community Services responds to inquiries on state government matters; promotes volunteerism throughout North Carolina; recognizes outstanding achievement through awards and proclamations; ensures that the Governor's correspondence is responded to in a timely manner; and administers the Governor's Page Program.

Education (Fund 1230)

The Governor's Senior Education Advisor leads the Education Policy Office and keeps the Governor updated on major education issues at the local, state, regional, and national level, especially issues that have implications for any of the education sectors within the state. The Education Policy Office, which also includes the Governor's Teacher Advisor, assists the Governor in implementing his education initiatives by staying abreast of data and trends affecting teachers, K-12 schools, community colleges, and universities.

Also a part of the Governor's staff is the North Carolina Business Committee for Education (NCBCE). This 501 (c)(3) organization, in operation since 1983, is comprised of over 100 businesses and industries whose total focus is improving education in North Carolina. The State of North Carolina provides partial salary for the Executive Director and one clerical staff member, with NCBCE providing hundreds of thousands of dollars in funds and in-kind services to improve education. NCBCE is governed by a Board of Directors.

Raleigh Executive Residence (Fund 1631)

Staff of the Executive Mansion attend to the personal needs of the first family, provide staff support to the First Lady, maintain the Mansion and grounds, and administer a large variety of public and private functions.

Western Executive Residence (Fund 1632)

These funds are for utilities, general maintenance and operation for the Western Residence.

OFFICE OF STATE BUDGET PLANNING &

MANAGEMENT

Information Requested for the Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on

General Government
March 29, 2001

OFFICE OF STATE BUDGET, PLANNING, AND MANAGEMENT

Overview

The Office of State Budget, Planning, and Management serves the Governor as Director of the Budget by: providing fiscal advice, formulating a recommended state budget; executing the legislatively authorized budget in accordance with the Executive Budget Act (G.S. 143) and special provisions of Session Laws; estimating revenue and monitoring revenue during the course of the fiscal year to insure availability of funds for expenditure by agencies; providing economic analysis for budget preparation and execution; and controlling the allotment of funds. State/federal relations are coordinated by budgeting federal funds and monitoring the impact of federal proposals on the state. Fiscal management and analysis are provided by budget analysts. Direction and coordination of statewide planning and department planning for state government is provided by the office, including demographic forecast and Data Center analysis. Information needs are met by economists who make revenue and expenditure projections. System analysts develop and maintain budgetary information systems, and management analysts monitor performance against objectives set by programs and analyze operation to reduce cost and improve effectiveness. The office houses the Center for Geographic Information and Analysis and Geodetic Survey, which provide information for land use planning.

Budget

Budget analysts working under the supervision of administrators are responsible for the day to day tasks required to prepare and administer the State's budget. Analysts are organized into four sections, and a budget administrator heads each section: 1) Education; 2) General Government; 3) Health and Human Services and Public Safety; and 4) Capital Improvements and Transportation. Budget analysts represent the Governor and the State Budget Officer in legislative committees and serve as the primary liaison between the Governor and the state agencies assigned. Analysts are responsible for the processing of budget revisions and quarterly allotments.

The Fiscal Office reports to the administrator for Capital Improvements and Transportation. The Fiscal Office is responsible for maintenance of the budget for the Governor's Office; preparing budget estimates; depositing incoming funds; approving checks and vouchers; and preparing requests for quarterly allotment and requisition of funds.

Economic Research

Economic analysis, revenue monitoring and forecasting, and the development of economic and fiscal impact by state rules is conducted by staff reporting to the Chief Economist.

Planning

Planning analysts, under the supervision of an administrator, are responsible for strategic planning analysis. This includes: maintaining and facilitating the planning-related elements of the Performance Planning and Budgeting Process (PPB); and facilitating and overseeing the development of statewide and departmental goals, objectives, outcomes, and outcome measures. Planning analysts also provide technical assistance to departments in the development of plans and measures associated with their plans. Finally, they also facilitate and support long-range planning across state government and research on long-term, inter-departmental issues that impact state government operations.

Under the supervision of the same administrator for planning, staff in the State Data Center collect, catalog, and manage demographic, economic, social, environmental and governmental operation data, and provide technical assistance to users regarding access and interpretation of data. The staff also maintains the LINC (Log Into North Carolina) data system. In addition, staff responsible for demographic analysis provide official current and projected population counts for all counties and some multi-county regions), and provide technical assistance to both public and private sectors on a variety of population related issues.

Management

Management engineers under the supervision of an administrator are responsible for conducting all management and productivity studies in the organization as directed by the Governor, the General Assembly, or the State Budget Officer, or as requested by agencies. These state employee "consultants" conduct functional, operational, and organizational reviews, develop recommendations for improvement, and assist in planning and implementing recommendations.

The analysis of position and salary reserve data, State Health Plan data, State Retirement Systems data, FLEX Benefits program data, as well as analyses related to these programs are the responsibility of this section. The maintenance of the Salary Control System also falls within its purview.

The OSBPM Information Technology function is included in the Management Section (including maintenance and applications development related to Budget and Planning Information Systems, i.e.

Budget Preparation System (BPS), Budget Revision System (BRS), Salary Control System (SCS), Planning and Budgeting Information System (PBIS), as well as client/server and LAN administration).

Personnel Development and Support Services

Personnel Development and Support Services is a newly configured organizational unit in the Office of State Budget, Planning and Management charged with the following responsibilities:

1. To provide a full-service personnel function to employees of the Governor's Office, OSBPM, Geodetic Survey, and CGIA.

2. To implement an accurate and timely payroll service for the Governor's Office, OSBPM, Geodetic Survey, and CGIA.

3. To design, develop, and deliver a comprehensive employee training and development program, including statewide budget workshops and seminars for program and budget personnel in all state agencies; orientation for support level and professional employees of OSBPM; on-going or continuing education opportunities for all personnel.

4. To coordinate the assimilation, formatting and production of all publications in the OSBPM, including the budget document, summaries, and newsletter.

5. To provide support services for the OSBPM, including switchboard, word processing, mail, and file services.

Geodetic Survey, CGIA, and Floodplain Mapping

Under the supervision of an administrator, the Center for Geographic Information and Analysis (CGIA) provides: statewide oversight in the development of geographic information data and systems; maintenance of the geographic data housed in the State's Corporate Geographic Database; support for the state's clearinghouse used to exchange GIS related information and services; production and consulting services; and state support for the Geographic Information Coordinating Council (GICC). The Geodetic Survey Section provides: coordination of statewide geodetic activities, development and maintenance of the North Carolina State Plane Coordinate System, the Vertical Control Network, and the High Accuracy Reference Network (HARN); maintenance and expansion of North Carolina Global Positioning System (GPS), Continuously Operating Reference System (CORS); and implementation of the County Boundary Survey Program and the national Height Modernization System. The Floodplain Mapping section oversees the implementation and maintenance of all Flood Insurance Rate Maps (FIRMS) in North Carolina. This section oversees and coordinates: the identification of flood hazards; the acquisition of elevation data; hydrologic and hydraulic studies; the production of digital and hard copy maps; the information technology systems used for achieving, managing and disseminating the maps.

OFFICE OF STATE PERSONNEL (Attachment 1)

Introduction and Overview (Pages 1-9)

Representative Jeffus introduced Mr. Thom Wright, Director, Office of State Personnel. Mr. Wright stated that he would not be addressing the Governor's adjustments but will be going over to the introduction and overview of the Division. Each of the Division representatives will provide the committee with an explanation of their unit. The current organizational chart for this office will not change since the last administration. On page 2, depicts an overview of the office with seven divisions reporting to the director's office. The director's office has a duo relationship with the State Personnel Commission and the Governor's office. The major function of State Personnel is to facilitate efficient and effective personnel management in all the agencies and universities. The goals of the office are listed on page 2. The key functions to support the office are outlined on pages 3 and 4. On page 5, they compare the responsibilities, role of Office of State Personnel and agency and university role. The issues are listed on page 6. On page 7 are the mandated reports and explanation. The mission and the responsibilities of the Office of the Director are on page 8. On page 9 there is an explanation of the State Personnel Commission. Mr. Wright introduced the presenters from each division as listed on the agenda.

Administrative Services Division (Pages 10-11)

Ms. Peggy Oliver, Division Director of the Division of Administrative Services, stated that there are three major sections in her division: Internal Administration, Personnel Management Information System and Temporary Solutions Program.

The Internal Administration provides services on a timely basis in the areas of purchasing, budgeting, printing, personnel, housekeeping, etc. There are three staff employees in this division.

The Personnel Management Information System is a centralized computer system that contains histories of all employees and positions. There are about 115,000 active positions, 150,000 inactive positions. Each agency and each university enter all personnel actions into the computer system. For those that are decentralized, they approved their actions and updated the computer system at that time. Those that are not centralized send their actions to the Office of State Personnel for approval and they review their actions individually or on a random basis and update the computer at that time. These are sent to the payroll system for payroll.

The Temporary Solutions program provides qualified temporary employees for short-term replacements for a lesser price than private sector companies. It is totally receipt operated. All funding is funneled through the Office of State Personnel budget. In addition to providing temporaries at fifteen to twenty percent less than that in the private sector, this service provides employees who are many times better prepared to work in state government since they are already familiar with state government and only work in this setting. Many are retired state government employees. They have a policy that temporary personnel cannot work longer than twelve months consecutively. Some agencies try to get around this provision and they follow up on complaints. Some agencies have the authority to hire temporary employees at a certain grade level without coming through them. Revenue is one of them.

Employment, Classification, and Compensation Division (Pages 12-14)

Mr. Stephen Davis, Assistant Personnel Director and the Division Director, was introduced. He explained that this is a large diverse division and have eight sections under two team leaders that report directly to Mr. Davis. Under team one there are five sections: Human Resource Design and Analysis, Compensation and Benefits Analysis, Consulting Services, Local Government Services, and Administrative And Technical Support Team. Under team two, there are three sections: Pay and Policy Administration, Employee Selection and Retention, and Employee Relations.

Equal Opportunity Services (Pages 15-17)

Ms. Nellie Riley, Director, stated that the division has many responsibilities that can be classified into four major function areas. They are Equal Employment Plans and Resource Programs, Recruitment and Outreach, Equal Employment Training Programs, and Equal Employment Oversight and Reporting Program.

Human Resource Development (Pages 18-20)

Ms. Ann Cobb, Director, stated that the purpose of this division is to provide products and services to develop competent and motivated employees and effective organizations. She briefly covered the services offered by this division.

Personnel Services (Page 21)

Mr. Dusty Wall, Director, stated that the mission on this division is to provide comprehensive human resource management services to client agencies and universities and to develop and build the internal capability of human resource office. They assist agencies or universities that are small or have less experienced human resource staff.

Program Evaluation (Page 22)

Ms. Cassandra Atkinson, Director, stated that this division is responsible for evaluating and assessing the work that goes on in human resources offices. They offer technical assistance. A primary goal is to show compliance with all human resource policies, rules and regulations. They promote best practices and performance management. They do a three-year periodic review of every agency and university.

Risk Control Services (Pages 23-24)

Mr. Carl Goodwin, Director, stated that they deal with cost efficiency issues, comprehensive benefits, and safe and healthful work environments.

The workplace requirement programs for safety and health is mandated by General Statute that they visit state agencies and universities annually to review their safety and health programs to insure that there are safe working environments for employees. They are required to report to the North Carolina General Assembly annually.

The workers' compensation program has a third party administrator to assist their staff in dealing with statewide programs. In the year 2000, they had 8,412 compensation claims that cost the state approximately $32 million. The effort that they put into working with the third party administrator opposed to each agency handling their own claim saved the state a significant amount of money in this area.

In the unemployment insurance program, they have roughly 3,700 claims filed each year. They pay out about $2.5 million annually. The actual liability of the state is initially higher than that but under this program the state saves approximately $3 million per year in unemployment insurance cost. The central source of record of all employees that file claims is of assistance to the third party administrator.

The statewide flexible benefits program that started in 1995 has been expanded from less than 1,000 employees participating to an excess of 65,000 employees. This program provides statewide benefit plans that allows all employees to participate: medical spending account, dependent spending account, dental plan, vision plan, and an AD&D plan. The program is receipt supported, funded by FICA savings resulting from program participants.

Governor's Adjustments (Attachment 2, pages 50-51 of summary recommendations)

Ms. Peggy Oliver, Director of Administrative Services, was introduced. The cut for the Office of State Personnel was $124,362 for two positions along with operating expenses. On page 25, Attachment 1 reflects the cut in top chart for 2001-02 and 2002-03. The net appropriation of $8,157,732 has been reduced by $124,362. Ms. Nelson stated that the $8.1 million is what the committee will address when the committee gets to the one percent cut. Ms. Nelson stated that the figures she has are higher than their figures. Ms. Oliver stated that she got her figures from the Department of Administration, so they need to get together and correct the figures.

Continuation Budget, Span of Control, Maintenance Contracts, Modified Zero-Base Budget Follow Up, and Vacant Positions (Attachment 1, Pages 25-30A and Attachment 3 Vacant Positions)

Ms. Peggy Oliver, Director Administrative Services, continued to cover these pages and took questions as she covered the material.

Since they are moving in the direction of "banding" positions instead of "grades", Ms. Nelson requested an explanation of the difference between "banding" and "grades" for the committee.

Ms. Oliver referred to page 26 and explained that under the heading of 1:2 Supervisors means that there currently are two supervisors that supervise two employees each. Some may supervise over twenty employees. That is not on this sheet since they were asked to bring to the committee those that supervised one to three. Their average span is 7.33 employees.

Ms. Oliver reviewed maintenance contracts.

Ms. Oliver called the committee's attention to the travel budget and the projected budget.

Ms. Oliver reviewed the budget for furniture and equipment and indicated that on the next page is the projected budget for the items that they need to replace in the next biennium.

Ms. Nellie Riley pointed out that information on the Model Cooperative Education Program is found on page 30A. Representative Sherrill requested more information and asked that this item be flagged.

Page 31 represents the additional budget reductions that have been requested reflecting the figures for the one and two percent reduction. They would represent position because they do not have an operating budget that they could recommend cutting. The department has not designated them by position number yet because the new director anticipates reorganization and would like to be able to give the committee the exact positions at a later time. Ms. Nelson indicated that they would need that by the time the Senate prepares its budget that will probably be by the second week of May.

Ms. Nelson stated that the committee might need to see the department's costs from ITS so the committee can make a decision on how to handle this. Ms. Oliver stated that she has that breakdown. ITS says they are receipt supported but the receipts comes from agencies. Ms. Oliver indicated that they might have to find $200,000 for this agencies' budget.

Senator Harris stated that they would need their recommendation on how to resolve the deficit and how to address it in the future.

Mr. Wright stated that as well as cutting positions, they are looking at their operational budget such as travel, furniture, etc. Any travel has to be justified to Mr. Wright before taken. Their operational budget is very lean.

Representative Adams wanted information on where they would recommend cuts that would make the least amount of damage.

Representative Jeffus reminded the division that when they are providing information to make it a practice to provide it to all.

Ms. Nelson stated that this was done on January 24, 2001 to coincide with the Governor's freeze on vacant positions.

Ms. Oliver stated that the first one is vacant due to leave without pay. The third one is not vacant. The person retired and changed his mind and returned. The fourth one (position 4301) has been filled. The fifth one (position 4330) is going to be reduced in accordance with the reduction in the budget reduction for the Governor's proposal. The others are all vacant.

Representative Jeffus announced that the committee would meet in the morning at 8:30 and requested that the committee members watch their e-mail, as some adjustments might have to be made in the meeting schedule.

The meeting adjourned at 6:15 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

In response to House Bill 1006 (ratified in 1992), the State Personnel Commission is required to submit a report to the General Assembly concerning the status of Equal Employment Opportunity plans and programs.

Personnel Function Report

In response to Senate Bill 886 (ratified in 1997), the State Personnel Commission is required to report on certain personnel functions to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

State Employees Workplace Requirements Program for Safety and Health

Report summarizes the program activities of state agencies in compliance with Article 63 of Chapter 143. Report submitted annually to the Governmental Operations Committee.

State Personnel Director's Office

It is the mission of the Office of the Director to provide leadership, both internal to OSP and throughout the North Carolina personnel system. In providing that leadership, the Director, working in concert with the OSP Management Team, shall seek to develop and maintain an efficient and effective Human Resource system for North Carolina.

 Dual role as ECC Division Director*

On the organizational charts throughout this document, italicized and bolded text denote teams, program names or working titles; other text are the classification titles for actual positions

Responsibilities:

- State Personnel Commission
- Administrative Procedures Act (Rule Making)
- Legislative/Executive Liaison
- Designations for Exempt Policymaking or Managerial Exempt

State Personnel Commission

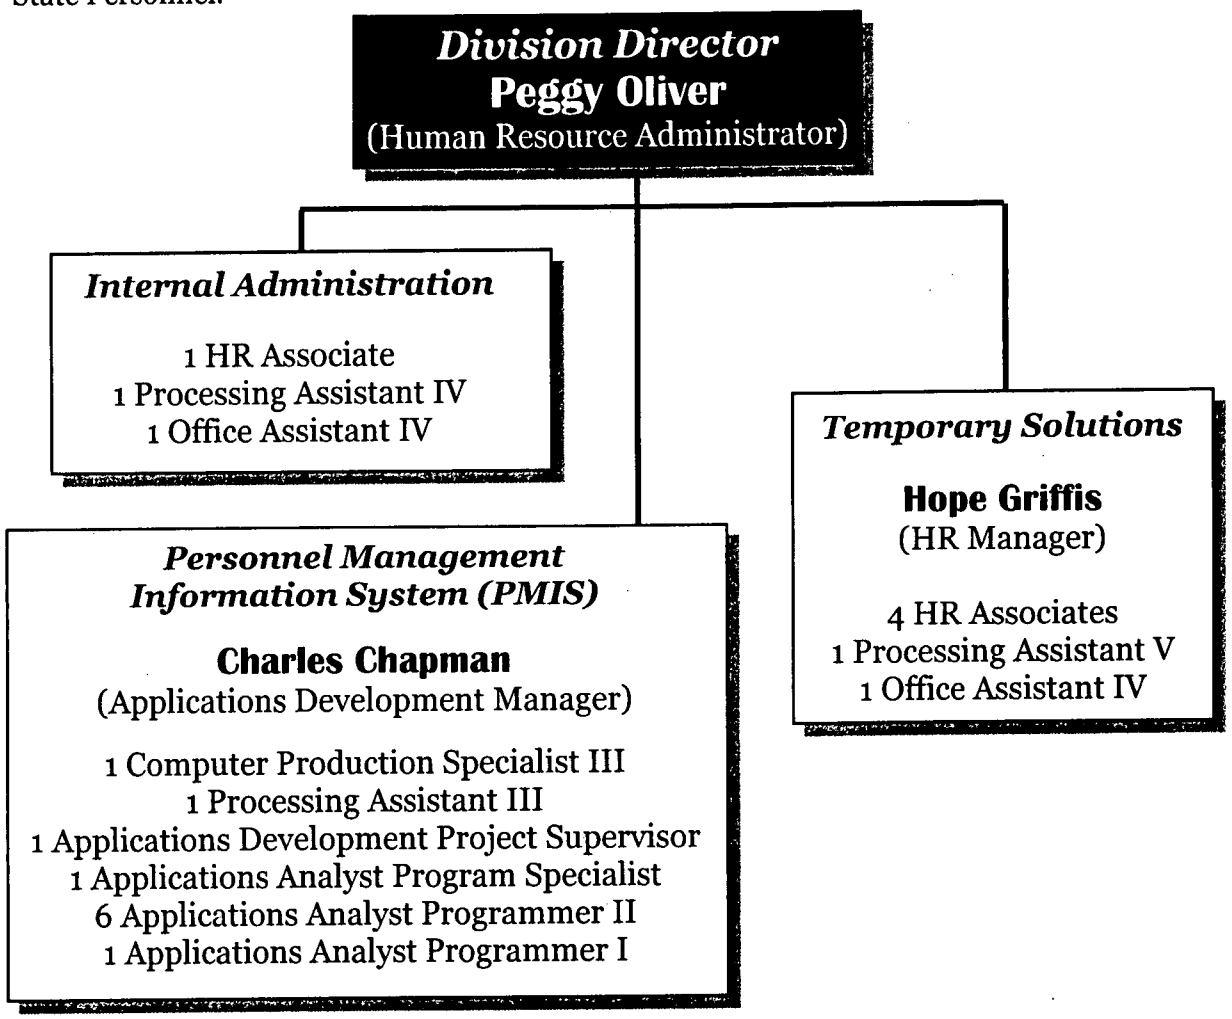
The State Personnel Commission (SPC) is the governing body for the state human resource system. The Commission is composed of nine members appointed by the Governor and the General Assembly, with representation from state and local government as well as the legal, business and private sectors.

The Commission:

- Establishes rules, policies and practices for several state human resource areas including the position classification plan, a compensation plan, hours and days of work and employee leave
- Reviews contested case appeals filed by applicants, employees and former employees and renders final administrative and advisory decisions in those cases
- Reviews cases remanded to the Commission from Superior Court and the Court of Appeals
- Awards remedies in contested case matters when the employee prevails

Administrative Services

It is the mission of the Division of Administrative Services to promote efficiency and effectiveness in the delivery of human resource information systems and temporary employment services and to provide orderly administration of the internal operations of the Office of State Personnel.



Internal Administration of the Office of State Personnel

Purpose: To provide day-to-day management of the operational needs of the OSP

Key Objectives:

- Provide services in the areas of purchasing, budgeting, printing, personnel, housekeeping, etc., on a timely basis
- Keep Internal Policies and Procedures Manual up-to-date
- Keep State Personnel Manual current and web copy up-dated at all times
- Coordinate internal recruitment/selection process for OSP

Personnel Management Information System

Purpose: To develop and maintain information systems that improve administrative and procedural processes, improve management information availability and make information more accessible.

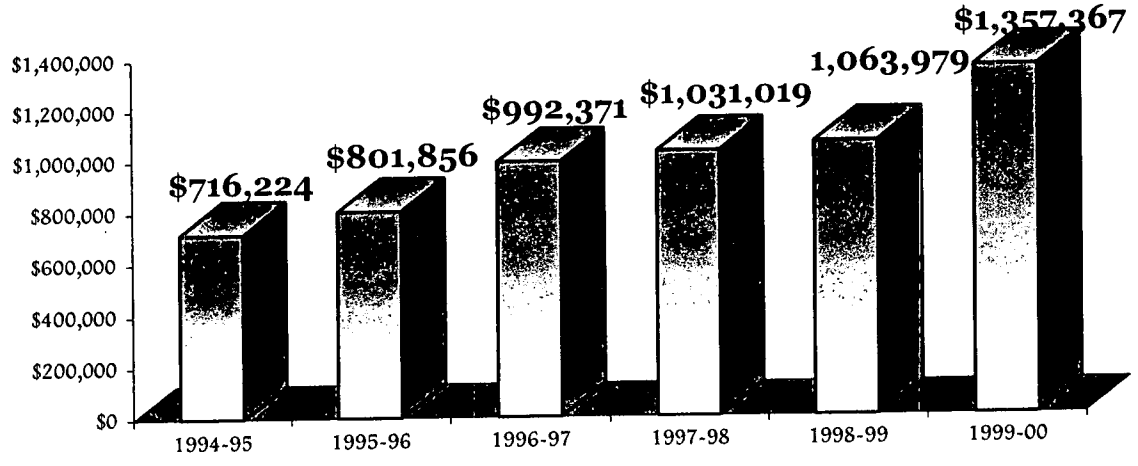
Key Objectives:

- Maintain an automated centralized database of all relevant and necessary information on employees and positions with the state personnel system including:
  - State employee and position history
  - Statewide Vacancy Posting System
  - Workers' Compensation, Safety and Health System
  - Grievance Tracking System
  - EEO subsystem
  - Document-Imaging subsystem
  - Leave Tracking System
- Provide on-going agency training for the efficient use of PMIS
- Implement client server systems and to develop PC and technical web applications to streamline processes both externally and internally
- Maintain LAN and up-to-date software for the Office of State Personnel

Temporary Solutions

Purpose: To provide qualified temporary employees to meet state agency work force needs for short-term replacement, overload, seasonal, emergency and time-limited project work. Services are provided for less than private sector companies.

Amounts Saved Each Fiscal Year
(compared to using private temporary agencies)



Employment, Classification & Compensation

The mission of the Employment, Classification and Compensation Division is to develop and maintain contemporary, integrated human resource systems and to offer consultative services to client agencies on core human resource issues. The Division's primary goal is to ensure a responsive delivery system for human resource programs and services with an underlying principle of cross-functional and collaborative consultation to clients.

 Dual role as Assistant State Personnel Director*

Key Objectives for ECC:

1. Identify and propose strategies for compensation and position classification systems that are responsive to labor market conditions and are occupation-specific.

2. Increase the number of agencies and universities with delegated agreements for classification and salary administration. Currently, 83 percent of state positions are delegated.

3. Simplify existing pay administration policies and rules to ensure sufficient flexibility for agencies and universities to attract, recruit, retain and develop a qualified, skilled workforce. This objective is essential to ensure that the state is competitive in a highly dynamic labor market.

4. Research, assess, test and disseminate new tools, programs, and services that support professional HR practice and provide a strong foundation for agency and university HR programs with an emphasis on innovation, results, and timely delivery of HR services to management and employees.

5. Develop a cost-effective system for the collection, analysis and timely reporting of compensation and benefits data

6. Review, assess and redirect existing services and programs designed for local government employees in public health, social services, mental health and emergency management occupations to ensure consistency with the requirements for a substantially equivalent HR system as defined by NCGS §126, State Personnel System.

ECC Division Teams

To achieve its key objectives, the ECC Division functions in a team concept. Following are the teams and their primary roles.

Employee Relations Team

Ensuring that agencies and universities create and maintain a work environment in which employees, applicants and former employees are treated in an ethical and equitable manner by resolving workplace issues fairly, efficiently and in a cost-effective manner.

Employee Selection and Retention Team

Providing technical assistance on reductions-in-force and associated employment priorities

Human Resource Consulting Team

To provide technical guidance and consultation on the administration of the state's human resource system to assigned agencies and universities that usually have substantial delegation of authority

Human Resource Design & Analysis Team

To conduct need assessments, feasibility studies, cost-benefit studies, and other research to evaluate, assess and recommend new programs/services or revisions to existing programs/services, and to develop prototypes and demonstration projects such as career banding models

Pay & Policy Administration Team

Analyzes and responds to inquiries and requests for interpretation of employee salary administration and leave policies; monitors and evaluates employee and position status change transactions as well as maintaining salary administration records through electronic imaging and automated storage

Compensation & Benefits Analysis Team

To ensure that State employees are paid competitive salaries and to recognize the need for and develop total compensation programs that promote employee recruitment, retention and development

Local Government Services

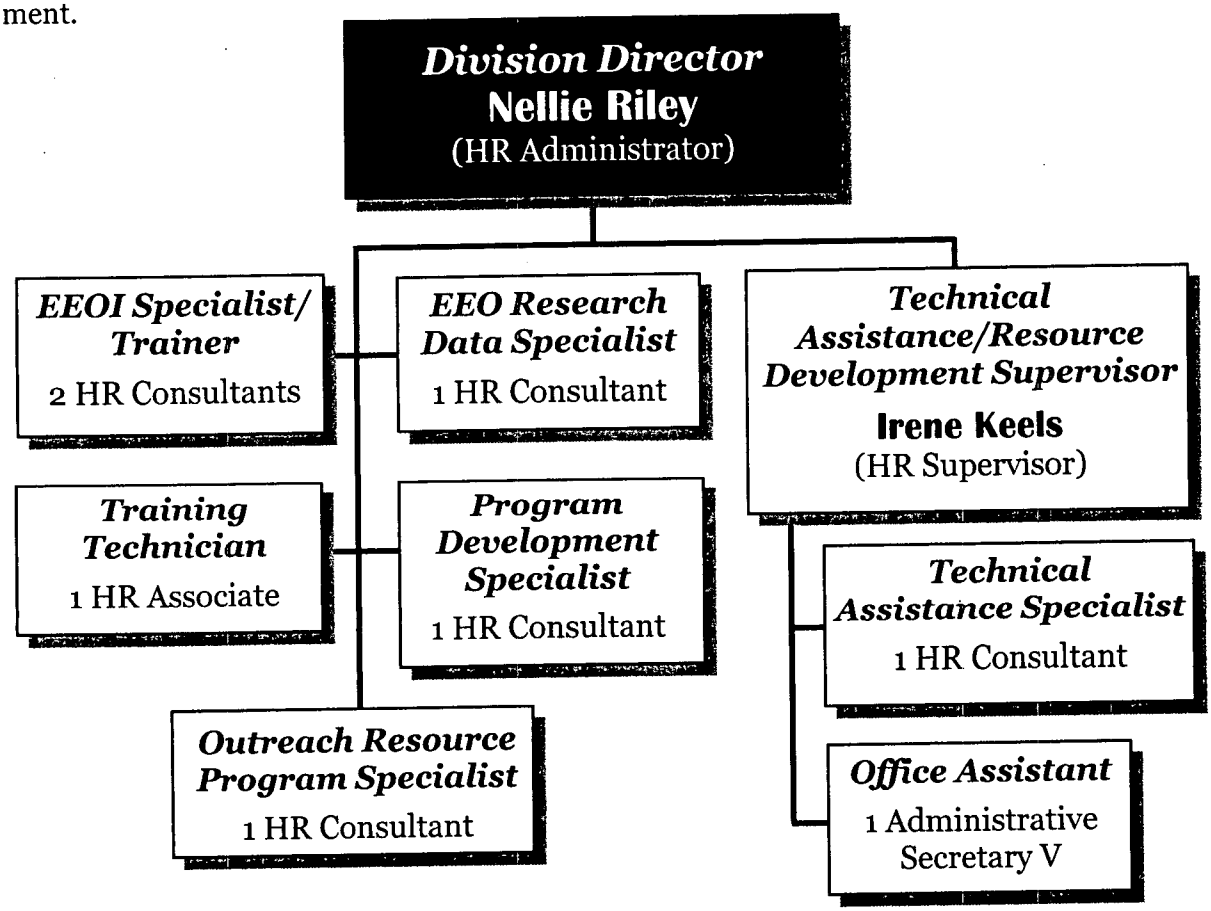
To provide assistance to local government jurisdictions developing pay plans and policies for their employees subject to the State Personnel Act (G.S. 126), to ensure that their annually filed pay plans and policies meet requirements of the State Personnel Commission

Administrative & Technical Support Team

This team provides a range of services including traditional office and clerical support; receptionist services; records management and administration; and records archiving. Technical support ranges from general research and analysis of human resource issues to basic project management in support of the other ECC program teams.

Equal Opportunity Services

The Equal Opportunity Services Division is responsible for developing and/or providing policies, programs, tools, innovations and services that implement state and federal equal employment opportunity laws, policies and regulations. The Division promotes work force diversity, fairness and equity in employment access, policies, practices and work environment.



Programs & Responsibilities:

The programs and responsibilities include EEO oversight, technical assistance/ consultation, resource assistance, data analysis, monitoring, reporting and training.

- Equal Employment Opportunity Institute (EEOI)
- Equal Opportunity plans and resource programs
- EEO issues training
- Outreach and Targeted Recruitment Program
- Model Cooperative Education Program (MCEP)
- Monitoring and reporting of EEO progress
- Skills Bank for targeted occupations
- Positive Emphasis Program (ADA)
- Upward Mobility and Glass Ceiling Programs
- Work and Family Program/Work Life Initiatives
- Special emphasis programs

page 30A more information

EEO Plans & Resource Programs

Purpose: To provide technical assistance/consultation and resource programs to departments, agencies and universities in the development and implementation of EEO plans and programs

Key Objectives:

- Provide EEO plan and program development assistance and consultation
- Review EEO plans and programs for compliance
- Develop or refine rules and/or policies and procedures which support changes in federal and/or state laws that impact EEO and ensure compliance
- Provide interpretation of EEO laws, rules, policies and procedures
- Coordinate the EEO Officer Network to share information on current issues and trends
- Assist managers and supervisors in increasing the representation of under-represented groups and eliminate historic inequities

Recruitment & Outreach

Purpose: To provide state government with an effective recruitment program which will attract and retain qualified, diverse candidates representative of the citizens

Key Objectives:

- Market state government as an employer of choice
- Coordinate a statewide recruitment advisory committee to address critical recruitment needs
- Design programs/action plans to assist agencies in attracting applicants for hard to fill positions and/or to diversify the applicant pool for targeted positions
- Design and operate programs to provide agencies with pools of qualified applicants
- Maintain contact with professional, community organizations and higher education institutions to promote state government opportunities and public service

EEO Training Programs

Purpose: To develop and conduct training to promote work environments with fair employment practices

Key Objectives:

- Increase awareness and sensitivity for employees working in a diverse workplace environment through various workshops and training courses
- Enhance managers, supervisors and employees' skills in communicating, valuing and working in a diverse and complex work force
- Increase knowledge of EEO and its relationship to effectively manage the HR system by enhancing understanding of EEO laws, regulations and changing EEO issues
- Enhance and broaden knowledge and skills of EEO Officers which can assist them in effectively performing their EEO responsibilities

EEO Oversight and Reporting Program

Purpose: To review, analyze and report work force representation, salary/pay grades, new hires and promotions by demographics to determine EEO progress

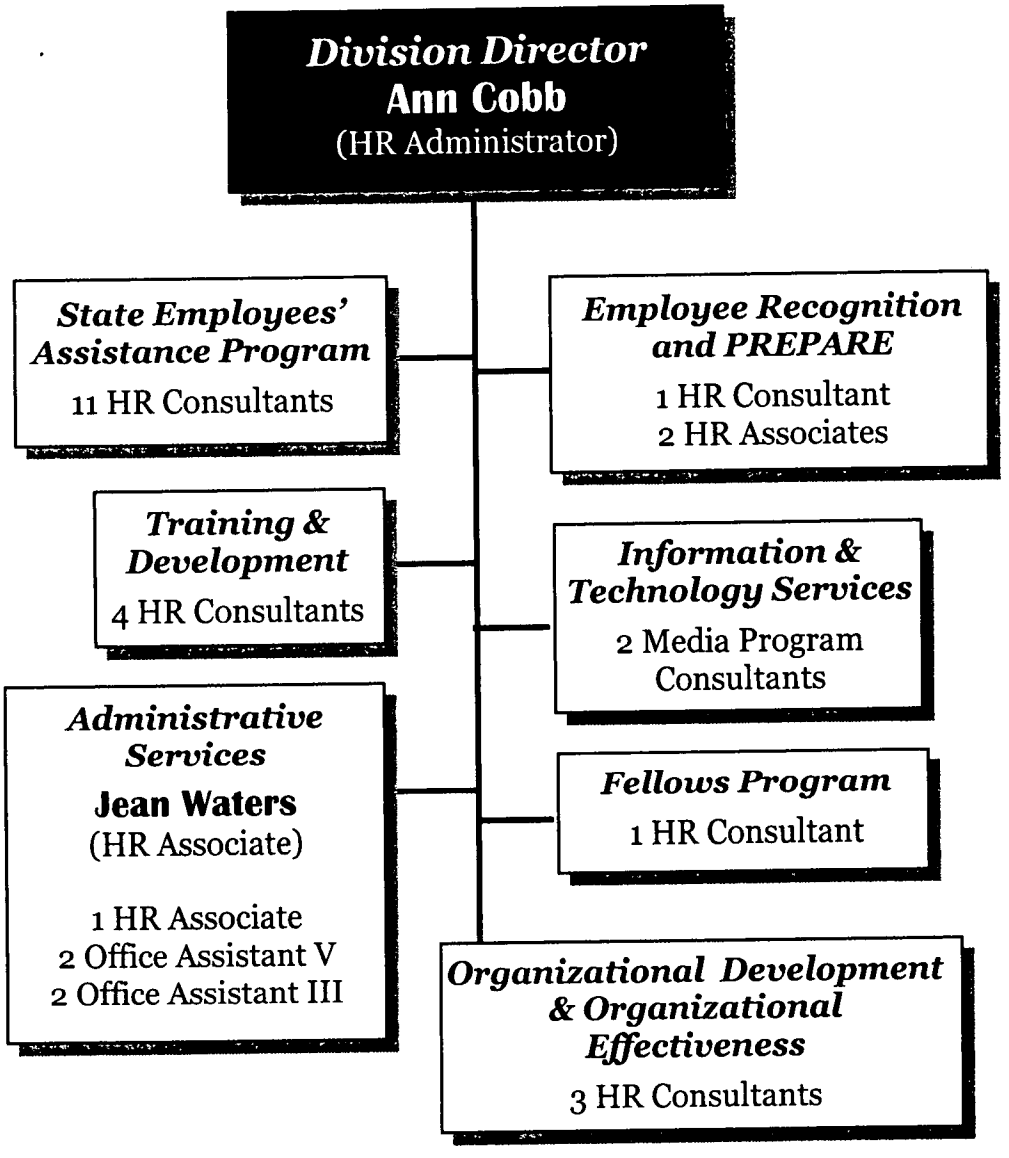
Key Objectives:

- Ensure standards and procedures are available to agencies, departments and universities for the development and implementation of EEO plans and programs
- Monitor quarterly EEO progress and issue annual EEO Status Report by each department, agency and university and state government as a whole
- Research EEO trends and make recommendations to address concerns or problems related to those trends

As noted in the Appendix Charts 7 and 8, the diversity of the state government work force has increased.

Human Resource Development

The Human Resource Development Division provides products and services that develop competent and motivated employees and effective organizations. The division's focus has broadened to include programs in addition to training that help organizations achieve their goals. Working as consultants, HRD staff use a variety of intervention models and methods with appropriate training to assess workplace situations, recommend corrective intervention and provide services to help an organization continually improve. HRD also provides numerous employee services such as the employee assistance program, statewide employee recognition programs, and retirement preparation workshops.



HR Development's Programs & Responsibilities:

- Customer Service Training
- Educational Assistance
- Employees' Assistance Program
- Employee and Organizational Surveys
- Employee Recognition Programs
- HR Professional Development Program
- Instructional Technology
- Leadership & Work Force Development System License
- Media Support Services
- Microcomputer Training
- Organizational Development
- Organizational Effectiveness
- Personnel Publications
- Pre-retirement training/information sessions
- Public Information
- Public Manager Program
- Supervisory Training
- Website content

Key Objectives:

- To provide essential training for employees, supervisors, managers, and HR professionals to enhance skills and productivity
- To provide consultative services and technical assistance to improve organizational effectiveness
- To deliver services to assist employees and coordinate programs to recognize their contributions
- To develop innovative strategies to meet changing workforce and organizational needs

The HRD Division accomplishes its Key Objectives through administration of many programs. A list of HRD programs and their purposes follow.

Human Resource Professional Development Program

Purpose: To provide in-depth training to HR professionals to support delegation of authority to agencies and universities

Public Manager Program

Purpose: To deliver comprehensive training curriculum to increase the competency and effectiveness of middle managers

Organizational Development & Organizational Effectiveness

Purpose: To provide consultative services, facilitation and training to support organizational development and effectiveness efforts

Leadership & Work Force Development System License

Purpose: To build specific, job-critical competencies and promote positive behavior changes that lead to improved job performance in employees, supervisors, and managers

Professional Skills Program

Purpose: To develop state employees' skills in using computer hardware, operating system hardware, application software, networking technologies and internet-related instruction

Supervisory Development Program

Purpose: To develop effective supervisors in the state government workforce

Employees' Assistance Program

Purpose: To provide confidential service to help state employees and their families resolve personal problems before they disrupt work or personal life and deliver management consultation services

PREPARE

Purpose: To help current state employees develop plans for retirement through workshops and small group discussions

Governor's Public Management Fellows Program

Purpose: To promote leadership and innovation in State Government by providing a career path for professionally trained public administrators and policy analysts in order to retain these individuals in permanent positions in North Carolina State Government

Performance Management

Purpose: To provide leadership and consultation to agencies and universities on the performance management system

Employee Recognition Programs

Purpose: To develop and coordinate statewide programs to recognize state employee excellence, dedication and years of service

Telework Program

Purpose: To implement, in cooperation with key agencies, a statewide telework program

Personnel Services

The mission of the Personnel Services Division is to provide comprehensive human resource management services to client agencies and universities and to develop and build the internal capability of HR offices.

shared with Program Evaluation Division*

The Personnel Services Division, through its HR Consultants, provides quality, individualized HR services to agencies and universities with small or less experienced HR staffs and those without sufficient resources to offer full HR programs. Through an in-depth understanding of the operations of client agencies and universities, division staff assists and supplements client HR offices as they seek to support their management in attaining established objectives. In some instances, the HR Consultants serve as the HR Managers for client agencies.

Services and Responsibilities:

- Deliver comprehensive, direct, hands-on HR services to client agencies and universities (client agencies/universities are those with small or less experienced HR staffs)
- Develop and build the internal capability of HR offices through mentoring and development programs for client HR staffs
- Provide consultation and technical assistance to client agencies and universities
- Identify, design, develop and market HR products and tools tailored for client agencies and universities

Program Evaluation

The primary mission of the Program Evaluation Division is to ensure accountability and compliance of agency and university human resource programs. The Program Evaluation Division conducts holistic and comprehensive assessments of human resource programs and services as well as research on human resource issues and trends affecting the HR system.

shared with Personnel Services Division*

Responsibilities:

- Agency and University HR program evaluations and assessments
- Technical assistance for developing data measures, data analysis and coordination
- Benchmarking and best practices
- Monitoring HR trends in public and private sectors
- Program review and monitoring
- Targeted research on human resource management and employment trends

Division Purpose:

The division promotes continuous improvement of HR services by helping agencies and universities identify best practices through benchmarking and other comparative analyses.

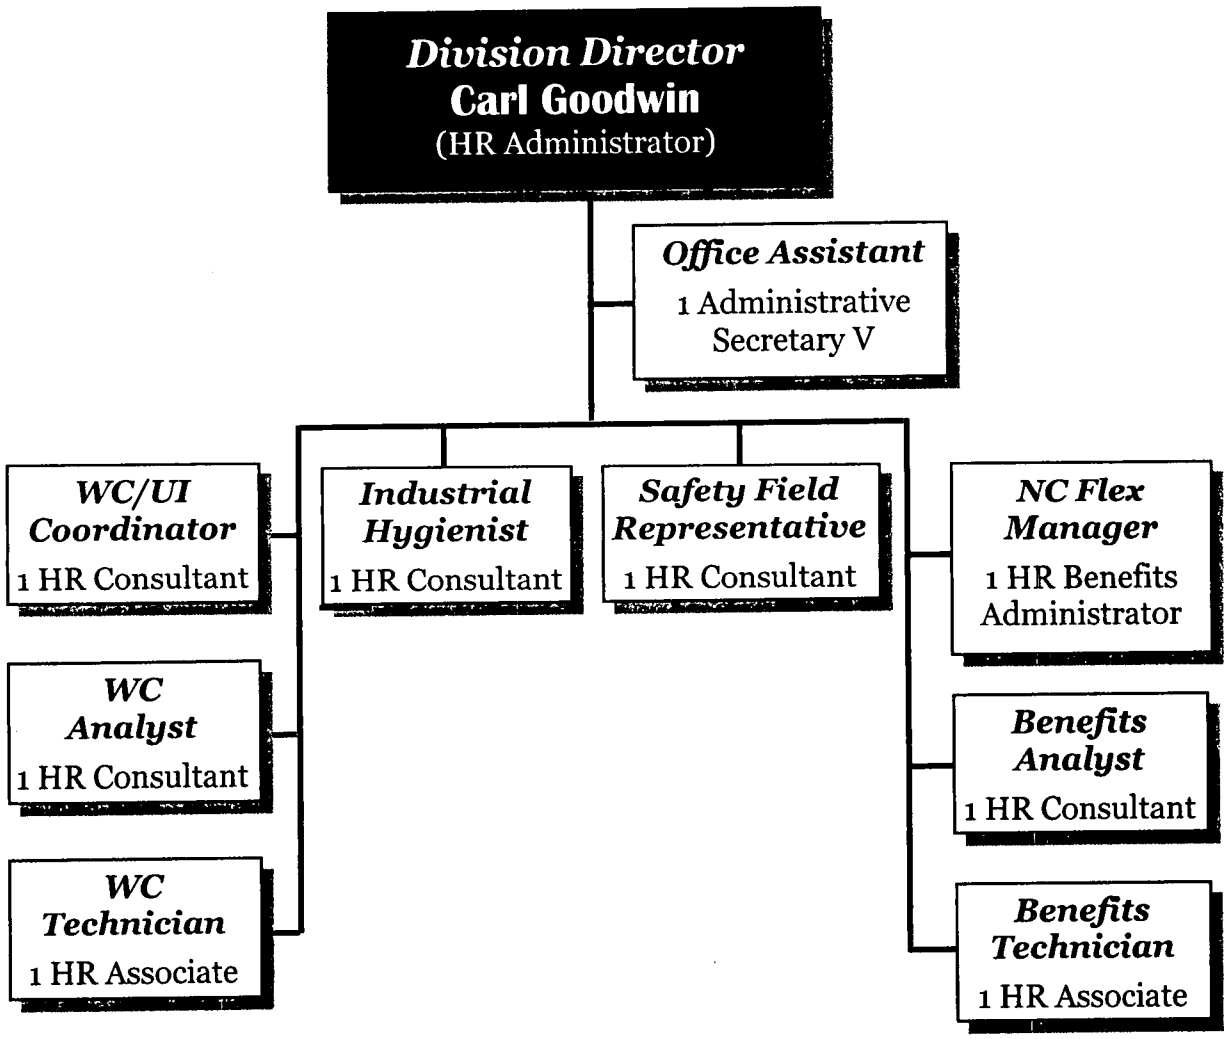
Key Objectives:

- Conduct annual holistic evaluations of HR programs to improve the delivery of HR services, assure compliance with HR policies and promote continuous improvement of human resource management programs
- Review and assess processes for collecting data from agencies and universities
- Develop and report trends, practices and policies that predict issues significant to the HR system and develop a process for benchmarking for best practices in human resources

Risk Control Services

The mission of the Risk Control Services Division is to develop and maintain systems and programs that promote:

- Cost efficient services
- Comprehensive benefits
- Safe and healthful work environments



Programs & Responsibilities:

- Workplace Requirements Program for Safety & Health
- State Government Workers' Compensation (WC) Program
- Unemployment Insurance (UI) Cost Management Program
- NC FLEX - Statewide Flexible Benefits Program

Workplace Requirements Program for Safety & Health

Purpose: Provide technical and consultative services in support of agency occupational safety and health programs to develop and maintain loss control and industrial hygiene services to provide a safe and healthful workplace for state employees. The program also monitors the legislative requirements for written Safety & Health programs and Safety & Health committees.

Key Objectives:

- Increase productivity by reducing the number and severity of work related accidents and injuries
- Maintain statewide statistical database
- Provide industrial hygiene and safety services for agency program needs

State Government Workers' Compensation Program

Purpose: To provide consultative and technical services in support of agency programs and injured employees to ensure that benefits are equitably provided to eligible employees in a cost effective manner.

Key Objectives:

- Efficient management of workers' compensation claims and expenditures
- Reduce controllable costs of workers' compensation claims
- Maintain statewide statistical data on claims and expenditures
- Oversee contract with third party administrator (TPA) and coordinate program activity between agencies and TPA

Unemployment Insurance Cost Management Program

Purpose: Ensure unwarranted unemployment claims are protested, provide effective management training and implement administrative cost avoidance strategies to keep the State's liability at the lowest possible level.

Reduce cost of unwarranted claims through:

- Coordinate contract oversight and central site record for state UI claims with the TPA
- Maintain central database of claims and cost activity
- Provide technical assistance, education and training to agency personnel
- Utilize non-charge reimbursement option of claims payments

Statewide Flexible Benefits Program (NC FLEX)

Purpose: Provide a uniform competitive compensation package to state employees which provides tax-advantaged benefits in compliance with federal and state rules and regulations. The program is receipt supported, funded by FICA savings resulting from program participants. Since its creation in 1995, enrollment has risen to 61,255 participants. (Chart 10)

New report 65,000

Enable the State to maintain and recruit a quality work force and provide uniform benefits package to all state employees by:

- Providing cost effective benefits products to employees
- Ensure uniformity in benefits available to employees
- Fiscal rewards to employees and the State through FICA savings

(1) OSP's furniture dates back to the 1960s. Much has never been replaced and does not meet today's ergonomic standards. We need to replace worn desks and chairs in individual offices and to replace chairs in the conference room, which is used by many different agencies.

(2) Two small copiers will need to be replaced in FY2002-03.

(3) In FY2001-02:
(a) Replace 16 computers purchased in 1997 or before with 200 MHZ (or less), 32 megs RAM = $27,200.
(b) Switch from Token Ring to Ethernet. Replace hubs = $3,500. Replace cards = $5,600.

In FY2002-03:
(a) Replace 5 computers with 200 MHZ and 14 computers with 333MHZ = $32,300
(b) Replace printer in Director's Office = $2,000.

(4) OSP's telephone system is antiquated and needs to be replaced. ITS has recommended replacement since it is so old there is no contract to maintain it. Cost of repairs is exorbitant.

(5) Miscellaneous equipment

For the April 2, 4 pm minutes, cannot locate the following:
Mentioned in the Agenda. pp 50 & 51 Governor's Adjustments.

Would you please send me a copy of these two pages to attach to the minutes. I am only here on Mondays and Fridays this week and next week due to my retirement. I am forced to cut my days. Many of the Assistants are in the same category. Rep. Jeffus' daughter, Holly, is filling in for me.

You can just send it to Rep. Jeffus' office Room 1013 and mark inside to my attention.

Appreciate your assistance.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 3, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Tuesday April 3, 2001 at 8:30 a.m., in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Mitchell Setzer, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson. The fiscal staff members Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism were also present.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. He recognized Kaye Gattis, Chief of Staff from the Office of the Lieutenant Governor.

Kaye Gattis discussed the Governor's Continuation Budget and benefits of a 1% - 2% reduction. She explained that the Lt. Governor's office has 10.5 staff members as compared to the former Lt. Governor's office of 8 staff members. The increase in staff is at less cost because of new employees without tenure.

Maintenance contracts are handed out (Attachment 1). The Span and Control are not included. Kaye Gattis will bring the report back to Michele Nelson today. She will also bring back today the 1% cut report.

In reply to discussion questions, Kaye Gattis said that one person supervises all staff and that there are no paid consultants.

The most essential item is insuring that we have our computer system running and current. With redistricting and records being computerized it is imperative that the Board of Elections have systems that are current. There are five needs that must be meet in order to stay current and productive. They are: 1- Microsoft software updates are necessary to stay current with the necessary technology to function properly and efficient, 2- with any new web connection there is an additional charge that must be paid, 3- there must be a replacement program in place in order to replace old hardware as necessary, 4- continuous training is necessary in order to function efficiently with the large turnover of employees, and 5- we must have an enhanced agreement with ITS. The pay-off from efficient computerized offices is very few errors, as was the case in the last election. The offices are more efficient and therefore, they are more productive offices and the elections are better.

There are two things that give us a little edge on our neighbors. We have the best programs for certification of elections officials and the preventative maintaince check.

In reply to discussions Gary Bartlett explained that the computer system is still being put in to place, and should be finished in June. The total cost will be around $9,000,000. This system gives us access to be able to audit across county lines and were able to find approximately 93,000 duplicates. Also, we were able to have access to vital statistics and were able to take off over 12,000 names of deceased persons. There is also a list of maintenance programs that allows for persons to be taken off of the voter lists if they have not voted in two consecutive national elections. Through such access we have a more accurate and cleaner election process. By July or August 2001 we should have the purest list ever.

How would it save us money if we got the digital signature? Mr. Bartlett said that the biggest savings would be to the county rather than the state. However, an estimate of quarter million dollars to the State is a fair assumption. The digital signature would impact savings in investigations and hearings.

The only cuts we have been able to offer to the Governor's Budget is in printing. This is the only cut we can offer without looking at cutting staff. We are ready to talk about cutting employees if you ask us too. There is the no flexibility in the Campaign Reporting Reserve fund but the committee can make cut suggestions.

Span of Control was reviewed as attached. (attachment 2).

Could there be any savings in moving to state property? We certainly need to have a permanent home and would gladly move to state property. We have moved twice in the last 5 years and it is very costly.

Representative Sherrill suggested they work on a statute change that will help streamline the process and save money on the cost to the state for candidates.

The committee is not ready to make a decision about were to cut. Mr. Bartlett will bring the possibilities to another meeting.

Meeting adjourned. The next meeting will meet 15 minutes after the last house adjourns today.

Respectfully Submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE ON GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Wednesday, April 4, 2001

8:30 A.M.

Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, April 4, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. House members present were: Representatives Wilma Sherrill, Chair; Jeffus, Chair; Adams, Lucas, Barefoot, Wilson and Setzer. There were three Senators present. Committee Counsel present: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. (Visitor Registration list is attached for the record.)

Representative Wilma Sherrill chaired the meeting. She called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance and introduced the pages.

Representative Sherrill introduced Tony Goldman who presented the total budget of the North Carolina General Assembly. The budgets are the same for FY 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 which is $40,567,848. Michele Nelson, Committee Counsel, stated that this amount does not include the proposed cuts.

Representative Adams asked if there was a breakdown of the permanent employees. Mr. Goldman will get them for her. she wants the names and the positions of just the House.

Mr. Goldman explained each division and what its duties entail. Representative Sherrill asked if the 25 temporary employees work just during the legislative sessions. Mr. Goldman answered there might be some work later but very little.

Mr. Goldman concluded by presenting the Budget Reconciliation of the General Assembly. The General Assembly's proposed budget was $41,576,119 and the Governor's proposed budget was $40,567,848. This budget was based on 28 weeks for a long session and 16 weeks for a short session. He proposed that the length of the sessions could be reduced by 2 weeks for each session. Representative Sherrill asked what would happen if, with redistricting and other matters, the session runs longer than July. Where would we stand with the budget. Mr. Goldman responded, there would be approximately 8 or nine million dollars left in the reserve at the end of the fiscal year.

Senator Warren asked what part of the cafeteria budget does the General Assembly pay. Mr. Goldman said we cover the cost of food and half of the labor. Mr. Goldman said that there are several items of expenditure which occurred during this year that would not be incurred in the next years. There has been a new bill drafting system, a new computer system and also a new redistricting system. The adjusted proposed budget is $39,863,848.

Senator Warren asked about the health room in the Legislative Building. He feels something should be done about the health room. George Hall said that they had been working on this item but they had been put on hold for the time being.

Representative Adams said that she would like to see something done about the cleanliness of this building. (Legislative Office Building) Mr. Goldman said he was not sure about cost of renovation but they could do something about the cleanliness of the offices. Senator Kinnaird said she would like to see the stairwells kept in better condition. Mr. Goldman said they would certainly look into these matters.

Representative said the members receive $1800.00 per year for mail, telephone, fax, etc. She wanted to know where does the balance of funds not used go – does it go into the reserve fund? The answer was "yes".

Senator Warren said he would like to see something done about secretarial help at home for the members. This concluded Mr. Goldman's presentation.

Representative Sherrill then introduced Mr. Ralph Campbell, State Auditor. Mr. Campbell stated that all the audits in the department are now available on the Internet.

Mr. Campbell said that the total requirements of State Auditor's office for FY 2001-3002 and 2002-2003 is $14,121,559. The net appropriation is $12,166,518.

Representative Sherrill wanted to know if his department had stopped sending E-mail asking if an individual wanted to receive a certain reports. He said they would be glad to do that and that a new survey on this would probably save a lot of money.

Mr. Campbell explained the mission of the department, its commitment and the goals of the department. There are 10 branch offices in North Carolina. Representative Sherrill asked that they give the committee the names of the individuals listed on the chart.

Mr. Campbell then explained that the audit of the State Auditor's Office was done by and individual auditing firm as well as by a national state auditor. Representative Sherrill if they also did a performance audit. Mr. Campbell they did do the performance audits. he proceeded to say that his office receives about 30 mandated calls per month which must be handled by his department.

The State Auditor's presentation will continue on Thursday morning at 8:30 a.m.

The meeting adjourned at 9:50 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosa S. Kelley, Committee Assistant

Representative Wilma Sherrill, Chair

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 5, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Thursday April 5, 2001 at 8:30 a.m., in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Four of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Mitchell Setzer, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson. The fiscal staff members Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism were also present.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. He recognized Ralph Campbell, State Auditor to continue his presentation from yesterday. The continuation began with the Specific Audit Functions: Investigative audit (Hotline). The portion of the handout being reviewed this morning is attached. (Attachment 1). Mr. Campbell explained that the State Auditor's office receives complaint calls from within and without state government reporting cases of fraud, waste, and abuse. He said that the Auditor's Office places advertisements for a hotline so that citizens can make anonymous calls regarding fraud, waste, and abuse. Also, telephone-recording equipment has been installed in an effort to capture the calls that are made in the evening and on weekends. The information received from state employees and citizens is investigated and results in savings for the State Government.

Mr. Campbell said that the number of audits has increased. For example since the beginning of Smart Start, 84 audits have been added to the necessary school audits.

About 6% of the total audit resources are in the information systems. It is imperative that the computer system is reliable and accurate for doing the financial audit work based on the work that comes out of those systems. This is the only area for which they are requesting expansion and will be requesting expansion over the next three to four years.

In answer to a question regarding the receipts section of the handout, Mr. Campbell explained that all receipts go into the general fund. Rates are adjusted each year and the last rate of $58 was adjusted in January of this year. The receipts are very close in the budget and any overage will be used to support the office in order not to cut staff. It is expected that over realized receipts will support the $182,000 for increased staff, and provide the reductions asked by the Governor of about $60,000. Mr. Campbell also commented that we need to raise salaries to compete with the private sector because the state is having difficulty acquiring and keeping competent employees.

With regard to a question concerning the rates that are charged, Mr. Campbell explained that rates are an average of the cost of the state budget. The state rates do not compare to the private sector.

Auditor's travel is done largely in the geographical area as much as possible to eliminate overnight accommodation. A large amount of the travel budget is for mileage. Approximately 95% of the travel is in state. Only rarely are there necessary trips out of state.

The computer equipment budget request is for the already supported upgrade on a three-year cycle.

In the last biennium there were no additional positions added. The Organizational Chart that was requested is attached. (Attachment 2).

The report from the State Auditor's Office is concluded.

Department of State Treasurer

Mr. Joseph Sansom gave the opening remarks. He introduced Mr. Richard Moore the State Treasurer and Mr. Steve Albright the State Comptroller.

Mr. Moore began his presentation by stating that the treasurer's department is a lean and mean shop and that the Treasurer's Department can't help in the General Assembly's quest for cuts. While the Department gets some General Funding it also reimburses for every dollar that is given on the other side of the balance sheet. The Department takes the expenses out of the groups they service. The Department is income neutral. None of the funds are General Funds and the General Assembly has the function of oversight. The majority of the Treasurer Departments function is to run the retirement funds. Once the money is contributed to the retirement fund it is no longer a part of the General Fund.

In answer to a question, the Universities determine the scholarships and the University Bonds are income neutral.

Representative Sherrill asked what the relationship is between the State Personnel Office and the Treasurer's Department. Mr. Moore said he would get that information to her.

The presentation continued with Mr. Steve Albright with the State Treasurer report by distributing handouts. (Attachment 3). Mr. Albright explained that the first page shows an error of $20,000 and the correction.

In answer to a question, there are 25 employees who do counseling with future retirees, and there are a total of 32 employees.

On the page of the handout for maintenance contracts the microfilm reader/printer is used for all checks prior to 1999 for court cases and other needs.

An additional handout is the Table of Organization (Attachment 4) is basically self-explanatory.

Senator Harris asked if the Treasurer's Department could make a contribution to the over-site this year? The response was that there would need to be an answer from the Attorney General's Office. Mr. Albright will get this information for Senator Harris.

Representative Sherrill asked for a Span-of-Control assessment. Mr. Albright will have it back by Monday.

In response to a question of how the money from the last cycle spent in regard to IT, it was explained that two and a half million was appropriated for the upgrade of the computers and this project will be finished by the end of November. A breakdown of how the money has been spent and what is unspent will be brought back to committee on Monday April 9 at 4:00 p.m.

This concluded the meeting. The Committee will meet April 9, 2001 at 4:00 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

Independence, Who Audits the Auditor, and Quality Assurance of our Work

- Our work is governed by strict adherence to professional standards and participation in independent reviews. Many of our staff are either certified government financial managers, certified public accountants, certified fraud examiners, certified information systems auditors, or certified public managers having met the educational and experience qualifications for these certifications. Constant educational improvement is a necessity in our work.
- Our office financial operation is audited annually by an independent accounting firm, and we have received a "clean" opinion for many years.
- We have participated for several years in the quality control program sponsored by the National State Auditors Association. Every three years our work is reviewed by a team of qualified audit professionals from other audit organizations from around the United States. This review looks at our standards for conducting both financial and performance audits. Our most recent review was in June 2000 and we received a clean opinion.
- In addition to the external review, we now conduct an annual internal quality control review by senior staff members of the work performed during the year. This gives us an opportunity to identify areas for improvement much sooner than the three year cycle under the external review process.
- Professional standards for the auditing field also address the role of the auditee in resolving and tracking audit findings. We work closely with all our client agencies in the development of any findings and recommendations in a concerted effort to bring about permanent changes to operations we feel should be addressed in order to better serve the citizens of North Carolina.

Department Summary Information

The principal business of the office is providing comprehensive auditing services for state government and the citizens of North Carolina. We strive to carry out our statutory duties in an effective and efficient fashion and in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards. Our audit findings and recommendations help ensure the accountability of public funds and enhance the management of governmental programs. To accomplish this end, we are organized into 2 divisions -- Administration and Field Audit.

- The Administration Division provides the support functions necessary to assist and facilitate the operational work of our organization. Finance, personnel, management information systems and overall administration of our operations are performed by a small and qualified staff.

- The Field Audit Division includes all the audit personnel. Within this Division are sub-programs that represent the major elements of our audit work; such as, financial audit, performance audit, fraud and abuse investigations, information systems audit, and Smart Start and non-governmental audits.

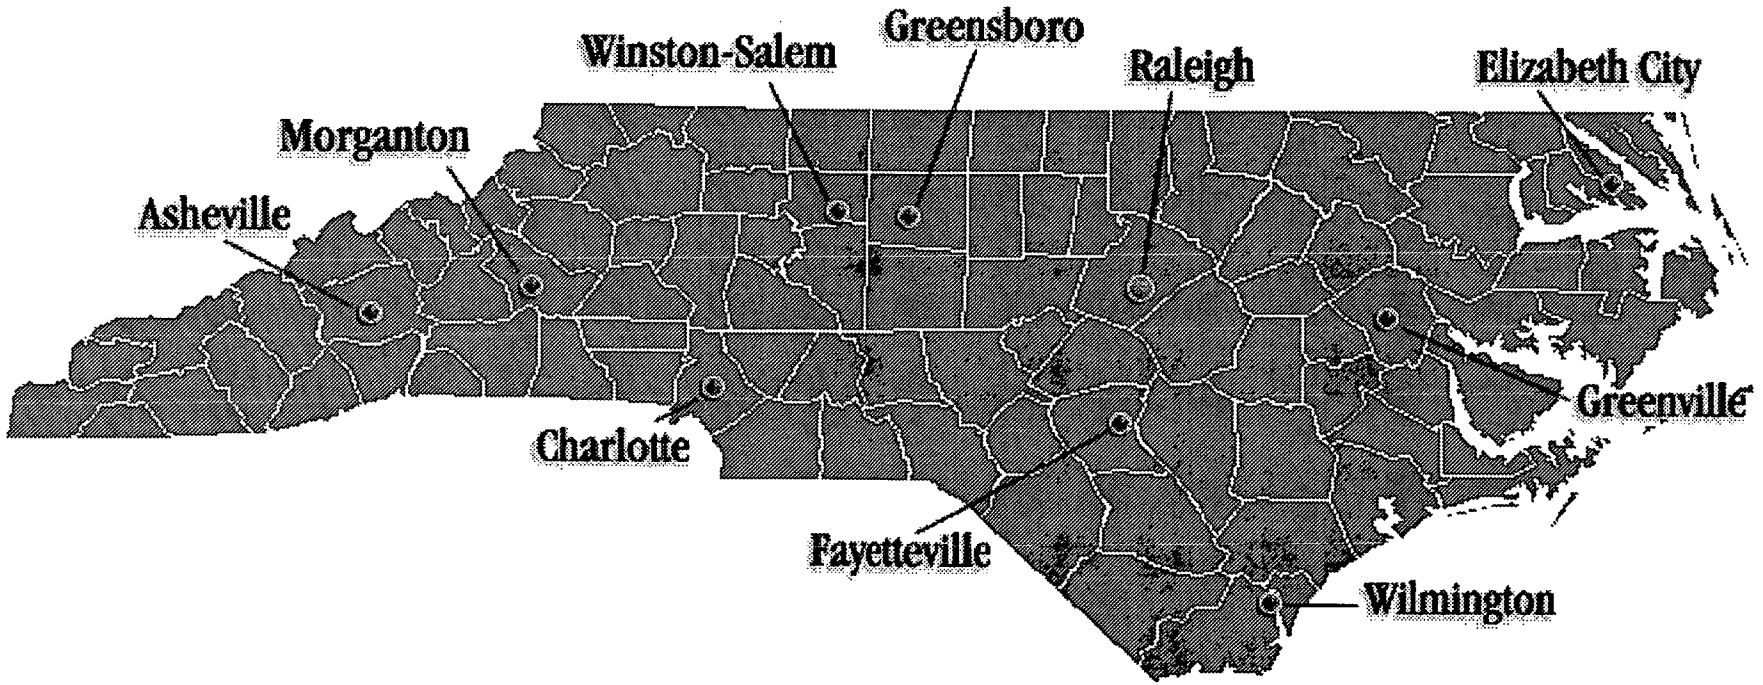
Main and Branch Office Locations

Note: 46 employees or 28% of our audit staff are assigned to branch office locations.



Our Goals Are:

- To report to the citizens and other customers on the accountability of state government.
- To provide responsive professional support to all our client agencies and to provide responsive professional and administrative support to our employees to enable them to carry out their responsibilities.
- To conduct audits which are timely, cost-effective, and performed in accordance with applicable professional standards.
- To ensure that staff are fully qualified to do the work.
- To implement new initiatives wherever possible to be more proactive in strengthening governmental management.

Our Commitment Is To:

- Conduct thorough audits and investigations by a professional staff.
- Present fair and independent findings and recommendations.
- Promote cooperative efforts with agencies and institutions under the oversight of the office.
- Accountability, integrity and reliability.

Our Mission:

The State Auditor is authorized by the North Carolina Constitution and General Statutes to perform or coordinate all audits of governmental organizations, programs, activities and functions funded wholly or in part with State funds. These audits furnish the General Assembly, the Governor, other governmental entities, as well as the public, with professional, independent examinations of financial records and thorough examinations of public program performance.

APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE
ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

April 9, 2001
4:00 p.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Monday April 9, 2001 at 4:00 p.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Representatives Adams, Barefoot, Setzer, and Wilson. There were three Senate members present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. A Visitor Registration list is attached and made part of the record.

Representative Jeffus called the meeting to order. She stated that the committee did not finished with the Department of State Treasurer and will continue with that department. She recognized Mr. Steve Albright, Controller, to continue with his department. Mr. Albright introduced Mr. Joseph R. Stewart, Chief Deputy I to do the presentation.

Mr. Stewart stated that when there is a change in administration, efforts are made to review and evaluate the existing administrative structure and the organization of the department. Then to make recommendations to this committee for any organizational restructuring that the new chief executive may feel is necessary for the goals and initiatives of the department as they interpret them. He presented the organizational chart, which represents a slight structure change of the senior management team. (Attachment 1)

Mr. Stewart continued by giving a general overview of the projects. The items on the expansion request include a number of items that were expansion requests inherited from the previous administration and their opinion of what was needed for a smooth and continuation of the office. The first item reflects organizational changes. None of the expansion requests have an impact on the General Fund but would be financed out of the existing receipts of revenue within the department.

Representative Jeffus interrupted Mr. Stewart and indicated that the committee did not want the expansion items today and he would be called at another time to present the expansion items.

Mr. Stewart introduced Mr. Steve Albright, Controller, to continue the report on the Span of Control. (Attachment 2) Mr. Albright stated that he has shown how many places there were with each type of one to one, one to two, etc. The average is one to 6.95 and the mode is one to four. There are a couple of oddball items in the administrative division. Currently, there are three one to one positions. Two of those are part of a programming team in the information technology area. They are the only two people that work in a certain area of programming. One in another area was setup to train the person underneath for the senior job. There are six programs in the Administrative Service Division each with separate staffs.

Mr. Albright continued. The second question that came up was what do we do about the money? He checked the overview that was published and they have $10,950,000 in one time money for the general fund. $3.4 million paid for certain services to be rendered by the computer center. Two smaller ones have been finished and the large one is in process but the money will all be paid out of the general fund this year. The replacement of the payroll system is $2 million and that has not been started. The have not spent any money on it and they will request that money be carried forward or have it reappropriated. The $5 million for the banking system has been started but they have not spent any money. The trust accounting package was in this. Five hundred thousand dollars of this, they are not going to do. Three million, four hundred and fifty thousand dollars will have been done by the end of this year and want to carry over $7 million.

Representative Jeffus requested this item be flagged for further study.

Senator Warren asked how do you handle your investments for state money? Mr. Alright answered that the equity part of the investments, there is an advisory committee but the final decision is made by the state treasurer. Senator Warren asked, "Who is on that advisory committee?" Mr. Stewart stated that the state treasurer selects them and they will send a list to the committee. A number of the top participants are set by statute but the treasurer makes the decision on the individual participants. Senator Warren stated that they have done a good job for the past several years.

DEPARTMENT OF CULTURAL RESOURCES (Attachment 3)

Overview

Representative Jeffus introduced Lisbeth C. Evans, Secretary, North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. She introduced the staff that is present.

Ms. Evans believes that if the department has any cuts they will be in deep trouble. They are less than one percent of the state's budget but seem to be the department that people look to cut. Forty-one percent of their budget is pass through money (money appropriated to them but is designated to send to someone else). Forty-seven percent of their budget is salaries. That leaves twelve percent which amounts to about $8.5 million to operate twenty-three historical sites, one art museum, six history museums, seven state libraries and all the state libraries and also keeps the 1,426 historical markers. Last year they cut $8 million out of their budget for Floyd. On page 3 she pointed out the Capital Improvement Budget and the Repair and Renovation Funds, which is the money that keeps the mission in tact and was all given away last year. That money builds the museums, keeps the paint on the buildings, and continues to do repairs to the buildings under their jurisdiction.

The other problem that Ms. Evans sees is that archives has digitized 11,000 documents. They have over 100 million, just in the archival department, that haven't even started with digitization. Every other state that surrounds North Carolina has their archives digitized. That money has been cut out of their budget every year.

Senator Kinnaird stated that businesses and corporations are attracted to an area with good educational programs, cultural and stimulating environment. She pointed out that we are not putting into this area what is being put into other areas.

Representative Barefoot stated that the figures show that this department has had its budget cut by one-third. How can this department possibly go on with these kinds of cuts? On travel and tourism today may be the number one revenue for the state and the number one part of travel and tourism in the state is heritage tourism. People from all parts of the United States are coming to North Carolina to see our history. If the funds are now provided for the historical sites, the state is going to have to close many sites. The state is turning its back on the people that made this state great. He stated that the committee couldn't continue to cut. This will destroy a department that has meant so much to our state.

Representative Adams reinforced what Senator Kinnaird and Representative Barefoot just stated. Representative Adams referred to page 18, with questions on the organizational chart. Secretary Evans stated that this chart has not been finalized and will discuss it later.

Secretary Evans continued that there is a library in every county in the state. They are providing Internet access which is most citizens have a library very close to their residence. In the library, there is someone there that will train them on how to use the system. Yes, the department cannot get enough money to digitize the records that need to be able to in their own house to put up on those great machines that they have been able to get with public-private partnership. The Gates Grant helped in doing this. In most of the things that they do is done with a public-private partnership. Every public library in the state had to be cut this year when $1.6 million was cut from the budget and every art grant has been cut in the last year.

Senator Warren requested Secretary Evans send the committee a list of the cuts made in the past three years in the budget for the Department of Cultural Resources.

A statement was made by Senator Kinnaird that she does not believe that there is another department that the private sector plays as big a role. Secretary Evans stated that seventy percent of the Museum of Art and seventy-two percent of the North Carolina Symphony, Tryon Palace is over fifty percent, and many more places are paid for by private money.

North Carolina Arts Council (Pages DCR 58-71) (Span of Control page DCR 125)

Ms. Nelson called the committee's attention to the Span of Control, which is on the chart with all other divisions.

Representative Jeffus recognized Ms. Mary Regan, Director of the North Carolina Arts Council for her report.

Ms. Regan feels that the work that her division does across the state is really important. Ms. Regan referred to page 58 that presents their mission and the three key areas, corresponding to the goals of the long-range plan, are the relationships with the state's arts resources, communities, and the state's agenda.

During the nineties there was a fifty percent growth in the number of arts organizations in North Carolina. They now have a total of 2,728.

Ms. Regan continued with the 1998-99 accomplishments and goal one to develop, preserve, and sustain the state's arts resources on page 59. They do this report at the end of the biennium.

Representative Jeffus requested a breakdown of the sixty-two organizations that received a total of $1,415,650 in General Support grants for ongoing programs and operations.

Ms. Regan continue with an overview of the their second goal that is to deepen the connection between the arts and North Carolina's communities on pages 60-61. She gave each committee member a list of grants received in just their county or counties they represent.

Ms. Regan presented goal three, which is to heighten understanding of the role and value of the arts to the state on pages 62-63.

On page 64, Ms. Regan highlighted several of the programs. She stated that the Arts Council funded activities for fiscal year 1999-2000, which impacted nearly 8.5 million people that participated in projects funded. Projects were funded in every county in the state and grants were awarded to 521 arts organizations, 439 school, community and civic groups, and 46 individuals. Each dollar granted by the Council was matched by twelve dollars and many were generated directly by the grant.

The summary of grant activities for the fiscal year 1999-2000 is on page 65. They received almost two thousand applications and they funded 1,336 partially. The amount given does not begin to cover what they need. Ms. Regan directed the committee to the 960 organization funded with the breakdown of the arts and other community organizations receiving the funds.

On page 66, Ms. Regan stated that about nine-three percent of the money out of their budget comes from the state and about seven percent comes from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Representative Adams asked for details on the amount the minorities received from the Arts Council's programs. In the grants programs, Ms. Regan stated that there is money that goes directly to multi-cultural organizations and there is money in the general support category that funds several of the stronger groups either from the native American community or the African-American community. They are being funded in different places in the budget. Ms. Regan stated that she did not give the details in the information she brought to the committee but will pull it out for Representative Adams.

Ms. Regan reported that every year they do a per capital analysis of how they spent their money by counties. (Page 67)

Pages 68-69 were prepared before the $2 million was removed from their budget. This is their goal to reach the national average for per-capita spending. The national average projected is $1.50 in 2002-2003. This is where Ms. Regan hopes to take the State of North Carolina.

Division of Archives and History (Pages DCR 26-49) (Span of Control Page DCR 125)

Representative Jeffus recognized Dr. Jeffery Crow, Director. Dr. Crow presented a brief overview of the basic issues in the division. Last year the management team of the Division of Archives and History undertook a process to do a strategic plan for this coming biennium. The results of this are on Page 26 in the Overview of the Division. During this process they conducted three town meetings, Greenville, Asheville and Raleigh. They met with citizens in each part of the states to get to know better what their expectations were for the programs of the Division. Also, they wanted to get their support. The challenges are listed on the bottom of Page 26.

Dr. Crow pointed out how the cuts have had an impact on the programs. In the historical site section, since 1997 they have had more than $1.2 million cut from capitol in repair and renovation funds. They have about two hundred and fifty sites in the State Historic system that needs attention and maintenance and they do not have money to put toward that or to replace exhibits that have been up since the 1960's. He continued that there are many demands on the staff. The General Assembly passed a state tax credit in 1997 for rehabilitating properties, which are eligible for the national register. There has been a boom for historic preservation in the state for main street programs and private homeowners. It has put a burden on the staff. The demand is greater at the time the budget is being cut. In environmental reviews they conduct over 4,000 reviews each year. There are so many forms of wireless communications and all of the cell towers have to connect. In the Archives and Records Section, since the 1990's, they have lost between twelve and fourteen positions. In facing the challenges in digitizing records, they are doing the best they can with the limited amount of staff and resources that they have. What they have done has been by reallocation of resources internally.

Representative Sherrill requested a review of some of the fees they can charge. Dr. Crowe stated that if you are from out-of-state there is a processing fee which is $10 (according to the statute this is the most they can charge) but not for someone living in state. There is some legislation pending to raise that cap to $25. We have one of the strongest public records laws in the country and they are allowed to charge any fee to obtain a public record except the cost to reproduce. In regards to historic sites, Tryon Palace does charge a fairly large admission fee that has recently increased to $15. Several other historic sites charge a small fee. The Secretary has been moving in a direction to charge more in other places and capture those that they can turn those funds around to support the site.

Due to the time, Representative Jeffus adjourned the meeting reminded the committee of the 8:30 a.m. meeting April 10, 2001.

The meeting adjourned at 6:15 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

NARRATIVE:

This request provides the funding required to put into effect the reorganization plan of the new State Treasurer, Richard H. Moore. The request is based on a comprehensive review of the administrative and organizational structure of the Department of State Treasurer. Since the last reorganization of the Department 24 years ago when Mr. Boyles first became State Treasurer, there have been a dramatic increases in the responsibility of the State Treasurer, (public funds under management has grown from $7 billion to $70 billion), as well as changes in other areas that affect Departmental operations, (such as technology and increased competition for highly-qualified personnel). At the same time the State has grown and so has the scope and complexity of providing the services of State government, necessitating increased emphasis on strategic planning, improved levels of efficiency and effectiveness, and heightened levels of intergovernmental cooperation. This request includes provisions for both the Office itself and for certain related administrative functions, and also provides for the funding needed by other units of the Department to pay for the administrative fees required to fund the administrative functions of the Department.

NARRATIVE:

In order to continue outside maintenance of the Retirement Imaging System we must convert it to a different system. The vendor is stopping maintenance on the current system.

We anticipate using the current vendor's version of an imaging system which runs on Windows NT. We do not expect any changes in the curent system which are not dictated by the inability of the proposed system to operate in this manner. This is a migration from a proprietary system to an open-system which conforms to the State-wide technical architecture.

NARRATIVE:

The proposed increases in the Information Technology operations of the Department of State Treasurer are to provide the level of service required to maintain the operations of each Division of the Department at the level of maximum efficiency. In addition, many of the application systems need to be modernized. Some of these have already been funded by the General Assembly. All new and updated projects will conform to the requirements of the IRMC. The three initiatives are:

1) Additional staff required by past approvals.
2) A disaster recovery system.
3)Update the application databases to a relational database.

All expenditures are funded from receipts of the user divisions.

Fund 7110 includes general expenses which because of there nature are not allocated in the accounting system.

NARRATIVE:

The proposed increases in the Information Technology operations of the Department of State Treasurer are to provide the level of service required to maintain the operations of each Division of the Department at the level of maximum efficiency. In addition, many of the application systems need to be modernized. Some of these have already been funded by the General Assembly. All new and updated projects will conform to the requirements of th IRMC. The three initiatives are:

1) Additional staff required by past approvals.
2) A disaster recovery system.
3)Update the application databases to a relational database.

All expenditures are funded from receipts of the user divisions.

The funds included in this request are Fund 7110, IT Administration; Fund 7210, Application Development; Fund 7310 Computer Operations; and Fund 7420, LAN/WEB Infrastructure.

NARRATIVE:

The Line of Duty Benefits (G.S. 143, Article 12A) sets aside $25,000, to be paid to the heir(s), of each elibigle person killed in the line of duty. This money is paid $10,000 the first year and $5,000 each subsequent year. The accrued balances are carried over from year to year until the entire $25,000 balance is paid. The remaining balances to be paid of all death benefits at June 30, 2000 was $225,000. However, we were only able to carryforward $85,000 to the 2000-01 fiscal year, giving us a deficit of $140,000. In the last fiscal year alone, we received seven new cases and we know of one new case already this year. If last fiscal year is any indicator we will soon be in a deficit situation in this program. The annual appropriation for this program is only $190,000. We are requesting an increase of $85,000 for the 2001-03 bienium so that this program can continue to serve the families of North Carolina citizens killed in the line of duty for years to come.

* For the six fiscal years listed above, budget cuts in State Appropriations amounted to $11,514,038
* For the six fiscal years listed above, position cuts amounted to 40.75

Division of Archives and History:

Virtually out of space, the Archives and Records Section desperately needs a new state records center to meet its legislatively mandated responsibilities to manage the state's records. In addition, funds are needed for e-government initiatives (digitization of state records), and to continue excavation of the probable Queen Anne's Revenge (Blackbeard's flagship). The division has lost over 40 positions during the 1990's through various budget cuts.

North Carolina Museum of Art:

For 2000-2001, 89.9%, or $3,627,199 of the Museum of Art's budget consists of personnel related costs. 8.8%, or $355,701 covers basic operating expenses such as telephone, supplies, and insurance. Only 1.3%, or $51,511 directly supports museum programming.

North Carolina Arts Council:

Since 1994, the Arts Council has cut 4.5 Federal positions, equalling $120,000 in salaries and fringes. This is a 16% reduction in Arts Council staff, to 24.25 positions.

North Carolina Symphony:

In the early 1980's, State funding was approximately 70% of the operating budget, with 30% coming from the private sector. Now, these percentages have reversed. State funding is now only 29% of its budget, with private sector funding at 71%.

State Library:

Since 1990, the State Library's budget to support direct service to customers has been reduced by over $1 million (a 20% reduction). This includes $600,000 and 6 positions in State funds and $500,000 and 6 positions in Federal funds. These funds also covered basic operations, library materials, books, and equipment.

North Carolina Museum of History:

In 2000 the Museum had its first personnel study in twenty-six years (1974). Funding does not exist to implement any part of the study.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Department of Cultural Resources is to enrich the cultural, educational and economic well-being of citizens and visitors to North Carolina through the preservation, development, presentation, promotion and dissemination of artistic, historical and information resources. (G.S. 121-1-42; G.S. 125-1-19; G.S. 140-5.3-15; G.S. 140-1-6; G.S. 143B-49-133.1).

The mission statements and summary descriptions of the department's divisions follow:

Division of Archives and History: To collect, preserve, and utilize the state's historic resources so that present and future residents may better understand their history. The division safeguards the documentary and material evidence of past generations for the education of all citizens and the protection of their democratic rights.

The Division of Archives and History is responsible for researching, preserving and maintaining a record of North Carolina's rich cultural heritage. The division consists of seven sections: State Historic Sites, Archives and Records, Historical Publications, Archaeology and Historic Preservation, State Capitol, and Tryon Palace Historic Sites and Gardens and the Maritime Museum. The Director's Office also oversees operation of divisional computing, Stagville Center, the Western Office, the First Flight Centennial Commission, the Federation of N.C. Historical Societies and the N.C. Literary and Historical Association.

The Division's Internet address is: www.ah.dcr.state.nc.us.

North Carolina Museum of Art: To acquire, preserve, and exhibit works of art for the education and enjoyment of the people of the state, and to conduct programs of education, research and publication designed to encourage an interest in and an appreciation for art on the part of the people of the state". (G.S. 140-5.12, enacted by the General Assembly April 3, 1947)

DCR 8

In addition, the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Museum of Art adopted the following additional language in 1995 as a means to amplify the institution's mission:

"The North Carolina Museum of Art will be an active partner with arts and educational organizations that seek to advance knowledge about the visual arts and the creative process, and with economic development sectors of the state and its communities. The Museum is committed to serving people of diverse cultural backgrounds and of all ages with innovative programs of high quality, and to extending awareness of the collections of the Museum to the people of the state. The North Carolina Museum of Art acknowledges the ownership of its collections and facilities by all the people of North Carolina."—Board of Trustees Resolution adopted March 15, 1995

The North Carolina Museum of Art houses permanent displays of the state's art collections, plus changing exhibitions. The Museum's holdings represent over 5,000 years of human achievement and creativity. Collections of Renaissance and Baroque, English 18th century and American 19th century art are internationally recognized for their excellence.

NCMA is the premier institution of its type in the southeastern United States. The Museum of Art regularly receives national and international recognition for its collections, acquisitions, and programs. It has become a major tourist attraction, which draws many visitors from within the state and from beyond its borders each year. The hugely successful exhibition of the works of sculptor Auguste Rodin in the summer of 2000 drew over 300,000 visitors from around the nation. According to an economic impact study prepared by UNC-Chapel Hill, the Rodin exhibition contributed over $50 million in direct economic impact to the state. The Museum makes strong contributions to education and the state's cultural environment, further promoting the economy of North Carolina by helping to attract business and industry to locate and expand here.

In addition to exhibitions, the Museum's programs include films, lectures, concerts, workshops and classes for adults and children. Outreach programs are conducted across the state. The Museum features an outdoor performing arts facility and cinema, a gift shop, and a restaurant. The North Carolina Museum of Art actively employs technology to provide additional access to the Museum's collections. In the Museum, our interactive learning center, the Collection Connection provides computer access to digital images, information, and educational games based on the collection. The Museum's website (ncartmuseum.org) is currently averaging over 10,000 visits per week.

The Museum's Internet address is: www.ncartmuseum.org

North Carolina Arts Council: To enrich the cultural life of the state by nurturing and supporting excellence in the arts and by providing opportunities for every North Carolinian to experience the arts.

The North Carolina Arts Council provides grants, technical assistance, information, and a variety of services to non-profit organizations and individuals. The Grassroots Arts Program provides funds for local arts activities in every county on a per capita basis. Other grants support dance, music, theater, touring and presenting, folklife, literature and the public media, visual arts, and public art and community design. Fellowships and residencies are offered to professional artists and folk heritage awards to the state's finest folk artists. Arts education programs are offered in pre-K through 12th grade as well as after-school settings. Nearly 8.5 million people participated in Arts Council-funded projects in FY 98-99

The Arts Council's Internet address is: www.ncarts.org

North Carolina Symphony: The mission of the North Carolina Symphony is to present an orchestra of the highest artistic standard that enriches, entertains, and educates diverse audiences in a variety of settings and represents North Carolina as a leader in performance and music education.

The North Carolina Symphony, a major professional orchestra founded in 1932, performs approximately 175 adult and children's concerts each year, taking music to a wide range of communities across the state. In 1943, the symphony became the first state orchestra in the country to receive a state grant for ongoing support, and it has continued to receive the state aid for 57 years. The orchestra has one of the most extensive educational programs in the country, performing about 60 educational concerts a year as a part of the state's music curriculum for school children and sponsoring several youth competitions and a string internship program. The N.C. Symphony Society raises approximately 71% of the symphony's annual operating budget, while the N.C. Symphony Foundation holds the permanent endowment.

The Symphony's Internet address is: www.ncsymphony.org

State Library of North Carolina: The State Library of North Carolina focuses its services to the people of the state in three ways:

1. by working in partnership with local communities to develop and extend public library services statewide;
2. by coordinating efforts among all types of libraries to improve library services and to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure; and
3. by providing direct library services to a constituency that includes government officials, business people, and the general public, as well as services offered through the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

The State Library of North Carolina has a long, rich history that began with its founding in 1812, the appointment of the first full-time State Library in 1843, the establishment of the North Carolina Library Commission in 1909, and the merger of the commission and the State Library into a single agency in 1955. Today, the State Library serves North Carolinians statewide by working in partnership with local communities to develop and extend public library services; by developing the North Carolina Library and Information Network to coordinate efforts among all types of libraries to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure; and by providing direct library services to a constituency that includes government officials, business people, and the general public, as well as services offered through the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The State Library administers the State Aid to Public Libraries Fund which will distribute $16.9 million in fiscal year 1998-99 through formula grants to public libraries serving all 100 counties as well as the federal Library Services and Technology Act.

The State Library's Internet address is: http://statelibrary.dcr.state.nc.us/ncslhome.htm

North Carolina Museum of History: To promote the understanding of the history and material culture of North Carolina for the educational benefit of North Carolinians. Through collections and historical interpretation, its museums encourage citizens and visitors to explore and understand the past; to reflect on their own lives and their place in history; and preserve state, regional, and local history for future generations.

The North Carolina Museum of History promotes understanding of the history and material culture of North Carolina for citizens, school children and visitors in all one hundred counties. Three regional branches extend the museum's services: the Museum of the Albemarle in Elizabeth City, the Museum of the Cape Fear in Fayetteville, and the Mountain Gateway Museum in Old Fort. The museum develops, produces and maintains over 61,000 square feet of long and short term exhibits with interpretive programs, special events and publications for 350,000 visitors annually; it provides outreach to schools and community groups through programs such as the Tar Heel Junior Historians, a North Carolina Information Highway site and an Internet home page; and it serves other museums and historical organizations throughout the state through consultations and professional services. The museum's activities provide access to collections numbering over 300,000 artifacts representing all aspects of North Carolina history. Its support group, the North Carolina Museum of History Associates (numbering some 15,000), is the largest state history museum support group in the United States.

The Museum's Internet address is: http://nchistory.dcr.state.nc.us

DCR 11

The Office of the Secretary performs planning/policy development activities for the department and assures that departmental programs serve the people of North Carolina. The Office of the Secretary directs the North Carolina Awards program, instituted in 1961 by the N.C. General Assembly. The North Carolina Awards is the highest honor the state can bestow, which recognizes notable accomplishments by North Carolina citizens in the fields of scholarship, research, the fine arts and public leadership. The four units under the Office of the Secretary are: Administrative Services, Capital Projects Unit, Public Affairs Office and the Human Resources Office.

The Roanoke Island Commission, an independent commission situated within the Department of Cultural Resources, was established by G.S.141B-131.1 in 1994 and operates the Elizabeth II and Roanoke Island Festival Park. The commission is charged to protect, preserve, develop and interpret the historical and cultural assets of Roanoke Island.

History of the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources

Although the Tar Heel State has touted its cultural wealth since colonial times, not until 1971 did the artistic and historic treasures of North Carolina have a state-level agency devoted solely to their maintenance and preservation. First created as the Department of Art, Culture, and History, what evolved into the present-day Department of Cultural Resources was the first such cabinet-level agency in the nation. The founding of the department by the N.C. General Assembly took place during state government reorganization, helping to consolidate the efforts of statewide cultural organizations which had been working for decades to promote North Carolina's artistic, musical, informational and historic riches. So, as is true of many departments formed during reorganization, it included several agencies much older than the department itself.

N.C. Division of Archives and History

In 1903, the N.C. Literary and Historical Association requested that the General Assembly establish a commission to preserve the history of North Carolina. A bill was introduced by Sen. R. F. Beasley of Union County, who was assisted by Raleigh lawyer William Joseph Peele, who wrote the bill. The law was enacted on March 9, 1903, creating the N.C. Historical Commission, consisting of five members appointed for two-year terms by the governor. They were given $500 and were instructed to collect valuable documents pertaining to the state's history. The members received no personal monetary compensation for their work.

In 1907, the legislature strengthened the commission by increasing the appropriation and by naming Robert D. W. Connor the first salaried secretary of the commission.

A series of secretaries followed, including Albert Ray Newsome, who encouraged the commission to turn from simply collecting materials to preserving and displaying them. In 1935 Christopher Crittenden became secretary, an association that continued for 33 years.

In the 1940s there was a reorganization of state government, and the name changed from the N.C. Historical Commission to the Department of Archives and History. Within this department were eventually created the Division of Archives and Manuscripts, the Division of Publications, the Hall of History (later the N.C. Museum of History) and Historic Sites.

In 1971 another government reorganization created the Department of Art, Culture, and History, later renamed the Department of Cultural Resources. Archives and History became a division within the new department, and its component parts became sections within the division.

The legislature created another N.C. Historical Commission in 1973 to serve as an advisory board for the N.C. Division of Archives and History. These members are appointed by the governor.

The sections within the division today are Archives and Records, Archaeology and Historic Preservation, Historic Sites, Historical Publications, State Capitol/Visitor Services, Tryon Palace Historic Sites and Gardens, and the N.C. Maritime Museum. The N.C. Museum of History became a separate division in 1996.

North Carolina Museum of Art

The North Carolina Museum of Art traces its origin to 1924 when the Art Society of North Carolina was founded with the purpose, "to promote an interest in providing a State Art Museum in Raleigh." In 1929, the General Assembly placed the Art Society under state patronage, which began a tradition of public/private partnership that continues to the present. In its early days, the Art Society began a program of collecting, staging exhibitions and educational programs even before there was a permanent museum. In 1947, North Carolina became the first state in the nation to appropriate public funds for the purchase of works of art to establish a state supported art museum. This effort was led by Senator Robert Lee Humber from Pitt County who obtained a commitment from Samuel H. Kress, the national five-and-dime store magnate, to contribute $ 1 million in art from his great collection with the stipulation that it be matched by the state. Armed with this extraordinary pledge, Humber leveraged support to gain legislative approval of the original appropriation to establish the North Carolina Museum of Art.

In 1953, the General Assembly appropriated funds to transform the former State Highway Building on Morgan Street in downtown Raleigh into an exhibition facility. William R. Valentiner, an internationally know art scholar, was appointed as the Museum's first Director in 1955. When NCMA opened on April 6, 1956, blockbuster crowds were thrilled with the results. The Museum operated in this location until 1983.

The present location of the North Carolina Museum of Art on Blue Ridge Road in west Raleigh was completed in 1983. This is the only art museum in the United States with a significant collection to be located on a large tract of land. The Museum has developed a master plan to develop the site into a major cultural destination. The first phase of that development was the Joseph M. Bryan, Jr. Theater in the Museum Park, an outdoor performing arts facility and cinema that opened in 1997. Here, the Museum presents live performances and films. Private funding of over 2 million dollars was raised for the design and construction of this facility.

Looking ahead, a major new development and opportunity for the Museum occurred in the summer of 2000. The General Assembly allocated to the Department of Cultural Resources, for the Museum of Art, the former Polk Youth Correctional facility land, which adjoins the Museum site. The Museum of Art had already begun plans to expand its current facility, which it had long since outgrown. However, analysis of the current building revealed the difficulty and high cost of adding to it. Recognizing the unique opportunity presented by the transfer of the former Polk site, the Museum's Board of Trustees at its December 2000 meeting, endorsed the concept of an entirely new building for the Museum to be located on the former Polk site. The new structure will not replace the current building, but will add significant space for education, public programs, and the state's growing collections. Many technical support facilities in the current building will continue to be used. The Museum is committed to building a new gallery building commensurate with its world class art collection. North Carolina deserves no less.

Symphony performs in large and small communities across the state from Murfreesboro to Wilkesboro during the regular season. More than 1,500 volunteers make sure that the orchestra reaches both children and adults.

Presently, the orchestra is led by Music Director and Conductor Gerhardt Zimmermann who is also artistic director and conductor for two other orchestras: the Canton Symphony Orchestra in Ohio and the Breckenridge Music Institute in Colorado. William Henry Curry serves as Associate Conductor and Jackson Parkhurst is Assistant Conductor and Director of Education.

The State Library's mission and organizational structure today reflect its development during almost 200 years of its history. In 2001, the State Library both works to make certain that all North Carolinians have the best possible library service and to deliver direct library services as a special library to state government, a genealogical research service, and a library for blind and physically handicapped people in our state.

Although several public libraries existed, the only tax-supported library in North Carolina prior to the twentieth century was the State Library. The Library was founded in 1812, and an inventory of the State Library in 1828 listed approximately 1,150 titles in fifteen categories from "Atlases" to "Speeches and Debates." Of those books, only 117 survived the State House fire of 1831; of the 117 volumes, 97 were on loan at the time of the fire. From 1841 until 1921, the library's annual book budget was $500. The first full-time State Librarian was appointed in 1843 by the library's trustees; and after 1871, the appointment was subject to approval by the General Assembly. In 1886, the library was available to the members of the General Assembly during its sessions, to officers of the Executive Department, to justices of the state supreme court, to the attorney general and to the commissioner of agriculture.

The other arm of the State Library began as the "North Carolina Library Commission," established by the General Assembly in 1909 in response to a "...statewide demand for a more systematic extension and careful fostering of the general library movement." During its first decades, the Commission operated a number of traveling libraries that served communities across the state that did not have public library service. Over time, with the establishment of the Aid to Public Libraries fund in the 1940, counties developed countywide library service. The traveling libraries continued until mid-century, when they were largely superseded by local book collections. In the mid-1990s, Warren County became the 100th countywide library qualified to receive state aid, completing the process of assuring that every person in North Carolina has access to public library service. Today, all 100 counties have access to public library service.

The General Assembly approved legislation merging State Library and the Library Commission into one agency in 1956. The number of libraries in the state,

N.C. Arts Council

Governor Terry Sanford created the North Carolina Arts Council by executive order in 1964 to "survey the status and needs of the arts" and to "advance the interests of the arts." The Arts Council became a state agency in 1967 during Governor Dan K. Moore's term of office. Today the Arts Council provides technical assistance and more than 1,200 grants each year to artists and nonprofit organizations throughout the state, ensuring that citizens in all 100 counties have opportunities to experience the arts.

North Carolina's unique approach to stimulating arts development was populist from the start, helping communities help themselves. When the Arts Council published its first survey of the state in 1967, 17 local arts councils and 233 arts groups were organizing, hiring staff, and investing in arts facilities in communities across the state. Thirty-three years later, statistics compiled by the Arts Council show:

* A network of 103 local arts councils
* 2,623 arts organizations operating in the state
* 8.5 million people participating annually in arts activities funded by the Arts Council

Modest but steady increase in financial support from the state have enabled this growth. In its first two years combined, the Arts Council disbursed $187,816 in program support and grants. In the fiscal year 1999-99, the Arts Council awarded $4,947,652 to 503 arts organizations, 365 schools and community and civic groups, and 44 individuals.

The Arts Council's grants have had a proven catalytic effect. Arts groups attribute much of their ability to raise funds locally to the Council's support, its rigorous review processes and its technical guidance. In 1998-99, Arts Council funds stimulated a 14 to 1 match in individual, business, local government, and foundation support.

Over the years, the Arts Council has moved from being primarily a grant-making agency to one which also plays a major role as a connector, catalyst and activist partner in developing and channeling the state's arts resources and cementing stronger partnerships between arts groups and the citizens of the state.

N.C. Symphony

The N.C. Symphony was formed in 1932 under the direction of Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Lamar Stringfield. It served as a WPA project in the 1930s and in the 1940s became the first orchestra to receive state funding on a continuous basis. Under the 33-year leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swalin, the Symphony began its grassroots emphasis of taking the orchestra to the people of the state. That tradition has continued every year since the 1943 Horn Tootin' Bill was passed in the General Assembly. The including public, college, associational, and special libraries had grown from 20 in 1910 to 266 in 1956. North Carolina's libraries continue to grow and thrive in the age of electronic information with leadership from the State Library.

N.C. Museum of History

After visiting Boston in the 1880s and marveling at its preserved past, Raleigh News and Observer publisher Samuel A'Court Ashe began an editorial campaign encouraging the saving of North Carolina's history so that natives and visitors could learn of North Carolinian ancestors' lives.

Following Ashe's campaign, city editor Frederick Augustus Olds, the "father" of the N.C. Museum of History, began traveling across North Carolina, collecting objects from the state's past and listening to the stories associated with each item. Also following Ashe's campaign, a gallery of history was created in the State Museum (now called the N.C. State Museum of Natural Sciences).

On December 5, 1902 after developing a sizable private collection, Olds combined his historical materials with the State Museum's historical items to create the Hall of History. The artifacts were contained in 37 cases which were mothproof, dustproof and had double safety locks.

In 1914 after the N.C. Historical Commission took over the Hall of History, the hall moved into its second home in the State Administration Building, (now known as the Ruffin Building), at the intersection of Morgan and Fayetteville Streets. It soon became obvious that even these two large halls would not be adequate space for the fast-growing number of items.

Under the commission, the Hall of History took on a new two-fold purpose: to teach the history of North Carolina and to preserve historical materials. The museum's educational programs and preservation techniques would grow in coming years.

In 1939, the Hall of History moved to the newly constructed Education Building on the corner of Edenton and Salisbury Streets. With the new space, designed specifically for the museum, came goals for more attractive exhibits, improved lighting, and a better arrangement of artifacts as well as a new emphasis on educational programs and the care and organization of artifacts.

After decades of growth, the Hall of History was no longer a "hall." On July 1, 1965, it became the N.C. Museum of History and was named a division within the Department of Archives and History (now a division within the Department of Cultural Resources.) By the middle of August 1968, the museum was moved to the new $3 million Archives and History/State Library Building at 109 East Jones Street. More than 90,000 items were moved during the next 18 months; the mezzanine exhibits opened in late 1973, completing the galleries in that building.

John D. Ellington became administrator in 1974 and worked to establish the N.C. Museum of History Associates in 1975. The Associates, a support group for the museum, were instrumental in finding more space for the museum.

At One East Edenton Street, a groundbreaking took place June 14, 1988, for what was to become the current home of the N.C. Museum of History. Completed in August 1992, the new $29 million facility had a research library, a variety of classroom spaces, a large and well-equipped 315-seat auditorium and large gallery spaces totaling 55,000 square feet.
The N.C. Museum of History was named the sixth division within the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources in 1996 by Cultural Resources Secretary Betty Ray McCain following a review by the N.C. Historical Commission.

The Office of the Secretary

The Office of the Secretary directs the operations of the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. In addition to administrative matters, the office oversees budget, administrative planning/policy development-related activities, operations, legislative matters, public information services, personnel, and capital projects. The Office of the Secretary oversees six divisions in the department: Archives and History, North Carolina Museum of Art, North Carolina Arts Council, North Carolina Symphony, State Library of North Carolina, and the North Carolina Museum of History. The Office of the Secretary coordinates appointments to appropriate boards and commission. The Deputy Secretary serves as the legislative liaison for the department.

The Secretary's Office oversees several awards program. The North Carolina Awards were instituted by the North Carolina General Assembly in 1961. The North Carolina Awards recognize "notable accomplishments by North Carolina citizens in the fields of scholarship, research, the fine arts, and public leadership." It is the highest honor the State can bestow.

The Governor's Business Council on the Arts and Humanities presents the Governor's Business Awards each year. The awards are given to North Carolina businesses that have conducted or participated in innovative projects to promote the arts and/or humanities. Cultural organizations that have promoted innovative business support of the arts and humanities are also eligible for awards. This awards program was established in 1978.

The Office of the Secretary's budget (Fund # 1110) includes the following units: Capital Projects Unit, Public Affairs Office, and the Human Resources Office. The Administrative Services Office (Budget Office) is budgeted separately under Fund # 1120 and a separate description of this office follows.

Division of Archives and History

DCR 26

Division of Archives and History

Overview

The Division of Archives and History is the largest division in the Department of Cultural Resources. It is also the third oldest state historical agency in the country, having been formed in 1903. Nationally recognized, the Division of Archives and History has received a number of awards, including the first Distinguished Service Award of the Society of American Archivists in 1969 and the James Harvey Robinson Prize of the American Historical Association in 1984.

The Division of Archives and History is organized into sections based on program functions and activities as mandated by state law; intersectional functions are provided by the Director's Office (divisional administration). The Western Office in Asheville is also intersectional in nature but treated as a separate fund for budgetary purposes.

The division currently employs 415 permanent staff. Seventeen of these positions were added effective FY 1997-1998, when the North Carolina Maritime Museum (Beaufort, Carteret County) was transferred from the Department of Agriculture to Cultural Resources. In the 1999 General Assembly, the Maritime Museum at Southport was transferred to the division and three more employees were added.

The division's current challenges include:

- Each section of the agency is faced with flat or declining resources to accomplish its mission. This situation is forcing the agency to assess its service levels in the face of increasing demands from citizens and public agencies.
- The division is largely unable to meet its capital improvement needs. Such needs include plans for existing infrastructure as well as new projects.
- The agency is falling behind instead of progressing in the realm of the Internet and other technologies. The progress made to date has not been sufficient, given the dynamic nature of technological change.

Division Administration (Director's Office) – Fund 1210

Divisional administration provides overall coordination and control of state public history management and intersectional programming and directly supplies a variety of services:

- Public/Private Partnerships. Provides staff for the Federation of North Carolina Historical Societies, Inc. (uniting over 220 such organizations in all 100 counties) and for the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association, Inc. The division also provides staff support for the North Carolina Historical Commission—the statutory authority for rule-making and grants review for history programs of the state.

- Research. The administration's Research Branch serves as the division's ultimate point of review for research-related historical matters, provides internal research reports, manages and operates the Highway Historical Marker program, and answers general research inquiries.

- Field Services. Educational and public service programs are provided through the Western Office (Asheville) and Historic Stagville (Durham County).

- Intersectional Planning and Supervision. Current examples include: the administration of the "QAR Project" centering on the recently discovered early 18th century shipwreck believed to be Blackbeard's flagship, Queen Anne's Revenge, the "2003 Project"—the commemoration of the one-hundredth anniversary of Archives and History and administration of the division's web site.

The office also oversees the division's general business and financial operations, provides curatorial services for the Executive Mansion, and provides "pass through" funds to the First Flight Centennial Commission.

Archives and Records Section – Fund 1230

The Archives and Records Section conducts statewide archival and records management programs for state, county, and municipal government to provide economical and efficient preservation, maintenance, and access to public records. The State Archives maintains and provides access to the records of the colony and state of North Carolina from the 17th century to the present. The Archives collects and preserves private papers, photographs, audiovisual materials, maps, and other documents of historical value. Some 13,000 visitors a year use the State Archives in person; about 15,000 postal and electronic mail requests are processed each year. Users include genealogists, historians, attorneys, students, educators, government agencies, and the general public. The section also maintains an electronic finding aid describing much of its holdings and is developing a program for providing access to selected public records via the Internet. In addition, the section administers the Outer Banks History Center in Manteo, a research facility that focuses on the state's maritime and coastal history.

The section also administers a comprehensive records management program for records of state and local government and for the community college and university systems as required by GS 121 and 132. Services include inventory and appraisal of public records; development of records retention and disposition schedules; operation of the State Records Center for efficient, low-cost storage of semi-current records; providing comprehensive micrographic and other reformatting services; and offering consultation, assistance, and training for public employees and public agencies across the state on records management issues including electronic records. The section also provides regional records management services through offices in Asheville and Greenville. Annual records management services include:

- Over 4 million micrographic images produced;
- Over 800 records management consultations with public agencies;
- Over 25,000 requests for records from the State Records Center;
- Over 40 records management training workshops conducted

The Archives and Records Section currently faces three major challenges. The first is handling the proliferation of public records resulting from the state's growth. Land transactions and conveyances as well as court records have shown a particular escalation in number. There is a tremendous backlog in the processing, microfilming, and preservation of county and state public records. While the section is examining and implementing new procedures to deal with this backlog more efficiently, there still remains a growing amount of records for which the Archives has responsibility. The second challenge involves storage of records from state and county agencies. Space is desperately needed for records storage for both original and microfilmed records. A short-term solution has been to lease private warehouse space, while the long-term solution is to build a new state records center--a solution adopted by other southern states in recent years. A third challenge involves the development of an electronic records program that includes both the digital preservation and access of public documents as well as a program to deal with the growing number of government records that exist only in electronic format. The Legislative Study Commission's study committee on the Digitization of Public Records by State Archives has recommended the funding of expansion budget requests that address this challenge.

State Historic Sites – Fund 1241

The mission of North Carolina Historic Sites is "preserving the past for all people" through interpreting, operating, maintaining, developing, and preserving the twenty-two state-owned historic sites located from the mountains to the coast telling North Carolina's story to her people and her visitors.

The Historic Sites Section served almost 789,000 visitors in 2000 at the following sites: Alamance Battleground (Alamance County), Aycock Birthplace (Wayne), Historic Bath (Beaufort), Bennett Place (Durham), Bentonville Battleground (Johnston), Charlotte Hawkins Brown Memorial (Guilford), Brunswick Town (Brunswick), CSS Neuse/Caswell Memorial (Lenoir), Duke Homestead (Durham), Fort Dobbs (Iredell), Fort Fisher (New Hanover), Historic Edenton (Chowan), Historic Halifax (Halifax), Horne Creek Living Historical Farm (Surry), House in the Horseshoe (Moore), North Carolina Transportation Museum (Rowan), Polk Memorial (Mecklenburg), Reed Gold Mine (Cabarrus), Somerset Place (Washington and Tyrrell), Town Creek Indian Mound (Montgomery), Vance Birthplace (Buncombe), and Thomas Wolfe Memorial (Buncombe).

Off-site educational programs principally served 75,000 participants in school programs and people with other offerings in 2000. Around 95,000 students visited Historic Sites in 2,300 organized school groups and 41,000 general groups. Nearly 180,000 visitors attended over 120 special events and programs at various sites in 2000. Historic Sites personnel were represented at 78 off-site promotional shows. Over 6,500 volunteers contributed nearly 106,000 hours to programs at the sites; this was the equivalent of approximately 50 full time employees. Nearly 1,000 offenders gave over 20,000 hours of court-ordered or inmate labor during the year. Four donors gave $7,500 worth of major in-kind and artifact gifts to the Section in 2000. The Section received $1,800,000 in 46 grants and cash gifts during the period.

The section maintains 236 buildings totaling 650,000 square feet as well as other structures such as a gold mine, Civil War ironclad and earthen forts. Historic Sites used both historically furnished structures and modern exhibit areas to interpret our sites. As of August 1998, we had 68,500 square feet of interior furnished space and 126,177 square feet of modern exhibit space. The Section maintains around 1,800 acres at the twenty-two historic sites.

Some projects of interest in 2001 at Historic Sites are a symposium for the centennial of Charles B. Aycock's governorship, continuing research and rebuilding of the slave structures and culture at Somerset Place, fundraising for the Back Shop restoration at North Carolina Transportation Museum, the exterior restoration of the Chowan County Courthouse, continued community and support group efforts toward saving additional sections of the battleground at Bentonville, rebuilding the Thomas Wolfe Memorial after the 1998 arson fire, providing temporary staff space at the CSS Neuse site in the aftermath of Hurricane Floyd devastation, and production of major new exhibits at Fort Fisher and Brunswick Town.

Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens—Fund 1242

Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens in New Bern is North Carolina's oldest historic site. The reconstructed government house opened to the public in 1959. The site has expanded over time and today serves about 85,000 visitors annually through tours and history education programs offered 360 days a year. Programs in North Carolina history include, in addition to guided tours, workshops, lectures, re-enactment activities, garden demonstrations and programs, character interpretation and dramatic presentations, crafts and domestic skill demonstrations, archaeological digs, and period dance and music offerings. The lead attraction is the restored 18th century palace which served as the seat of government first for the Colony of North Carolina and then as the first capitol of the State. Other sites open to the public include the 1779 home of the North Carolina Revolutionary patriot John Wright Stanly, the 1830 Dixon-Stevenson House, the 1804 Robert Hay House, the 1809 New Bern Academy, and 14 acres of formal and kitchen gardens.

The mission of Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens is history education and preservation of historic artifacts. Preservation efforts focus on care of the historic buildings and a sizeable and significant collection of objects ranging from furniture through rare books. History education is carried out through a wide offering of programs year-round that serve both adults and children. Fifteen thousand school children visit each year to learn about their heritage as North Carolinians. Curriculum based programs are available for 2nd, 4th, 6th, and 8th graders, as well as high school students. The Living History Classroom, an educational newsletter designed for teachers, is distributed twice annually to more than 1,000 North Carolina educators to advance history education. An African American history research project was launched in 1998 and is providing important information for interpreting the roles of African Americans in the history of Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens and the broader central coast area of North Carolina.

Professional staff members carry out the Palace mission both at home and throughout the state, by carrying educational programs and services off site on a regular basis. Additionally, objects from the collections are loaned to other institutions for inclusion in special exhibitions.

Tryon Palace Historic Sites and Gardens is an accredited museum of the American Association of Museums, a distinction held by only 700 of the Association's 9,000 members nationally.

Heritage tourism is an important and growing industry in North Carolina. Visitors to Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens typically stay two to five nights in area hotels while combining their Palace experience with visits to other North Carolina heritage tour sites. Tourism revenues generated by these visits contribute significantly to the economy of the central North Carolina coast area and to the state's tourism industry generally. Paid admissions to Tryon Palace Historic Sites & Gardens generated more than $570,000 in fiscal 1999-2000.

Planning for a new history education center is underway. This state-of-the-art facility will greatly enhance the institutional mission by using 21st century techniques to advance the teaching and understanding of North Carolina's early history.

State Capitol/Visitor Services Section – Fund 1243

The section annually serves over 400,000 people who visit the National Historic Landmark 1840 State Capitol (177,101 visitors), the Executive Mansion (50,864 visitors), and the Capital Area Visitor Center (73,405 visitors). The staff annually provides scheduling services and printed itineraries to approximately 3,200 school classes (111,850 students) touring the three state museums, the Capitol, the Legislative Building, and the Mansion. Thousands of North Carolina schoolchildren participate in educational programs provided by this section each year. The staff provides educational programs to visitors on the history and architecture of the Capitol and the Mansion, and the history and functions of state government. The Capitol and visitor center are open to the public seven days a week, 360 days a year. In addition to daily tours of the Capitol and seasonal tours of the Mansion and gardens, the programs include a variety of special event programs, an ongoing schedule of public lectures, workshops, and historical drams programs (living history presentations). Members of the staff coordinate over 100 special events held at the Capitol as well as develop and present educational presentations throughout the state. The nonprofit State Capitol Foundation, composed of twenty-four leading citizens of the state, seeks funding and support to assist with Capitol restoration and education programs. The ten-year restoration of the Capitol included interior and exterior painting, electrical rewiring, installing a new elevator, lighting of Union (Capitol) Square, and new HVAC systems. These projects were completed in February 2001.

The Capital Area Visitor Center is presently located in the 1914 Andrews-London House on the corner of Blount and Lane Streets. A new visitor center is being designed and will be located on the corner of Edenton and Wilmington Streets. An updated scheduling program will enable teachers to schedule tours, receive itineraries, and communicate more effectively via the Internet. Each day hundreds of national and international visitors, as well as several thousand N.C. schoolchildren will receive services at the center. Students will be safely unloaded onsite at the center, receive orientations in the 196-seat auditorium, visit restrooms, store and eat their lunches onsite (outside and inside picnic areas available), view traveling and permanent exhibits in two galleries, and participate in educational programs in one of three classrooms. The new center will have areas available for meetings, receptions, dramas, galas, and other special events and ceremonies. Underground parking will be available for visitors and state government employees.

North Carolina Maritime Museum – Fund 1245

The North Carolina Maritime Museum in Beaufort was transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Cultural Resources during the 1997 Session of the North Carolina General Assembly. Since the transfer, the Museum System has expanded to include three; the North Carolina Maritime Museum at Southport and the North Carolina Maritime Museum on Roanoke Island.

The North Carolina Maritime Museum System's annual visitation is over 220,000 people. That figure includes 60 percent in-state, 35 percent out-of-state, and 5 percent foreign. Some 80,000 school children visit the museum every year for general students. The Friends of the N.C. Maritime Museum, the museum's 501(c)(3) support group, is composed of 1,600 paid members. The Museum is accredited by the American Association of Museums, the highest professional certification available in North America. The museum is open to the public seven days a week, 360 days a year.

The North Carolina Maritime Museum is a treasure-trove of collections, exhibits, boats, and a library filled with a wide variety of books on marine topics. The Museum's Watercraft Center offers evening and weekend classes in boatbuilding, model building, and half model construction. The museum's Cape Lookout Studies Program conducts overnight field programs of several days' duration. The North Carolina Maritime Museum is the designated repository for the storage and exhibition of the underwater archaeology artifacts recovered from Blackbeard's flag ship the Queen Anne's Revenge.

In 1998 the museum purchased for 3.2 million dollars a 36-acre waterfront site for museum expansion. The property has 1,852 feet of estuarine shoreline in Beaufort to support the museum's expansion needs for the next 25+ years. The basic concept for this property is to build a turn of the century maritime village where there will be displays of tall ships, programs for junior sailing and boat builders, and educational exhibits and programs on maritime history. The museum's mission is to preserve and interpret all aspects of the rich maritime heritage found in North Carolina's coastal environment, through educational exhibits, programs and field trips.

State Historic Preservation Office – Fund 1250

This section identifies, protects, and enhances the historic resources of North Carolina through a coordinated statewide program of information and assistance for public agencies, private organizations, and the state's citizens to enable them to undertake successful historic preservation planning and project implementation. Section programs include the processing of nominations to the National Register of Historic Places, comprehensive architectural and archaeological surveys, site excavations and interpretation, and technical assistance for the care and treatment of historic buildings. It functions as the state clearinghouse for federal and state protection and incentive programs for properties that qualify for the National Register of Historic Places.

Historic preservation state tax credit laws were enacted by the General Assembly in 1997 and became effective January 1, 1998. The Historic Preservation Office (HPO) administers the preservation tax credits program, and in calendar year 2000, the HPO processed 279 applications for nonincome-producing historic structures representing 114 proposed projects with a total estimated rehabilitation cost of $18.4 million and 41 completed projects with a total cost of $5.4 million. The 279 applications in 2000 for nonincome-producing structures represent a 39% increase in the demand for services from 201 applications in calendar year 1998.

In addition, during calendar year 2000, the section processed 224 Historic Preservation Certification Applications for federal and state historic rehabilitation tax credits for income-producing historic structures representing 75 proposed projects with a total estimated rehabilitation cost of $124.4 million and 44 completed projects with a total cost of $39.4 million. The 224 applications in 2000 for income producing structures represent a 37% increase in the demand for services from 163 applications in calendar year 1998. The total estimated rehabilitation construction costs generated by the tax credits in the last state fiscal year amounts to $142.8 million dollars.

In state fiscal year 1998 – 1999 the section processed 2,996 requests for environmental review related to construction and development. By comparison, the HPO processed 4,035 reviews in state fiscal year 1999 – 2000 representing a 35% increase in caseload. In the same period National Register Nominations processed increased by two from 54 to 56 representing a 4 % expansion. However, it should be pointed out that the nomination caseload of state fiscal year 1999-2000 is 60% more than the fiscal year 1996 – 1997 caseload of 35. Because National Register listing is a prerequisite for taking the state and federal tax credits, the case load rapidly rose after the current state credits went into effect in 1998, rising to 54 nominations by the 1998-1999 fiscal year.

In addition, in the last state fiscal year of 1999 – 2000 the State Historic Preservation Office provided approximately 9,200 additional consultations and services pursuant to law and public request. Currently, 36 cities and counties throughout the state are Certified Local Governments (CLGs)—a federally authorized designation that bestows funding preference under a small federal preservation grants program administered through the State Historic Preservation Office.

Office of State Archaeology

From its central Raleigh office, and branch offices in Fort Fisher, Morehead City, and Asheville, the Office of State Archaeology (OSA) safeguards the prehistoric, historic, and underwater archaeological resources of North Carolina through a coordinated statewide program of data inventory, resource protection, public education and technical assistance. The OSA is part of the North Carolina Division of Archives and History, Department of Cultural Resources, and serves as the professional archaeology staff for the North Carolina Historical Commission. It dovetails with the State Historic Preservation Office in providing archaeological review of compliance projects. Processing nominations to the National Register of Historic Places, grant administration and comprehensive archaeological resource planning also figure prominently in the OSA's roster of responsibilities.

The section maintains a statewide, computer-based inventory of archaeological sites, along with maps, photographs, and other supportive data. OSA libraries house more than 7500 compliance reports, theses, academic volumes, and journals. Laboratory processing and curation of artifact collections occur at the OSA Research Center, where archaeologists, students, educators, and agencies may study the center's holdings.

The OSA protects endangered archaeological sites through enforcement of the North Carolina Archaeological Resources Protection Act (G.S. 70, article 2), the Unmarked Human Burial and Human Skeletal Remains Protection Act (G.S. 70, article 3), the North Carolina Archaeological Record Program (G.S. 70, article 4), and the "abandoned shipwrecks law" (G.S. 121, article 3). In FYs 1998-2000, the section processed four ARPA permits for archaeological investigations on state property, and issued 29 permits for shipwreck exploration. The OSA encourages protection of archaeological sites by easements and tax incentives and through the federal Certified Local Government program.

Fulfilling its environmental review function as a sister section to the State Historic Preservation Office, the OSA processed nearly 3,000 review cases related to construction and development in FY 1999-2000. Pertinent laws include the National Historic Preservation Act (sections 106 and 110), the NC Coastal Management Act, the NC Environmental Policy Act, and the NC Mining Act. It assisted more than 300 engineering and archaeological contracting clients with background searches in conjunction with approximately 25 percent of these reviews. It provided an additional 350 consultations and services to individuals, universities, local government agencies, and museums.

An essential activity for the OSA is public education programs, which target school groups, amateur archaeological and historical societies, and government agencies. During FY 1999-2000, staff reached nearly 700 individuals through 50 lectures or presentations. The OSA administered six major grants and provided content for the state's comprehensive plan for inventory, evaluation, and protection of archaeological resources.

North Carolina Museum of Art

DCR 51

The North Carolina Museum of Art

The North Carolina Museum of Art is a division within the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources and is governed by a 28 member Board of Trustees. Board members are appointed by the Governor, the General Assembly, the Art Society, Museum of Art Foundation Board, and the Board of Trustees.

The North Carolina Museum of Art traces its origin to 1924 when the Art Society of North Carolina was founded with the purpose, "to promote an interest in providing a State Art Museum in Raleigh." In 1929, the General Assembly placed the Art Society under state patronage, which began a tradition of public/private partnership that continues to the present. In its early days, the Art Society began a program of collecting, staging exhibitions and educational programs even before there was a permanent museum. In 1947, North Carolina became the first state in the nation to appropriate public funds for the purchase of works of art to establish a state supported art museum. That first appropriation matched a gift of 75 important works of art given by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation as part of its program of endowing regional museums throughout the United States. Negotiations with Mr. Kress and the Kress Foundation were led by State Senator Robert Lee Humber of Pitt County. Thanks to his efforts, of nearly one hundred institutions receiving art from the great Kress collection, the gift to the North Carolina Museum of Art was the largest and most important of any except that given to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. The Kress gift combined with purchases made with the original legislative appropriation created for the people of North Carolina the most distinguished collection of old master paintings in the southeastern United States, and formed the foundation for today's North Carolina Museum of Art.

The Museum's major responsibilities are well stated in its statutory mission, "...to acquire, preserve, and exhibit works of art for the education and enjoyment of the people of the State, and to conduct programs of education, research, and publication designed to encourage an interest in and an appreciation of art on the part of the people of the State." (G.S. 140-5.12). In keeping with that broad mission, the Museum's program budget objective is "to increase the percentage of visitors who experience an enhanced interest in and appreciation of art...". This is accomplished through a variety of programs focusing on the State's permanent art collection, which consists of thousands of objects spanning over 5,000 years of human history and creative effort. The Museum also brings to North Carolina many special exhibitions of important art treasures from around the world for the educational benefit and enjoyment of the people of our state. Scholarly publications and a full range of classes, workshops, lectures and other programs complement the Museum's educational mission and program objective.

The Museum is an active partner with the state's educational systems. Thousands of school children from all over North Carolina visit the Museum each year and learn about their own culture and about other civilizations through guided tours and other programs. Outreach exhibitions, slide programs, speakers, and teaching materials are also available to schools and other groups in all counties throughout the state. The Museum continues to enhance accessibility to its collections through the use of new technologies such as digital imaging, CD ROM, and the Museum's World Wide Web page (http://ncartmuseum.org). The Museum's conservation department provides consultation and conservation treatment services to other museums and public collections around the state. There is an extensive art reference library available for researchers, and the Museum's curators are available on a regular schedule to consult with citizens about works of art in their own collections.

The Museum of Art regularly receives national and international recognition for its collections, acquisitions, and programs. It has become a major tourist attraction, which draws many visitors from within the state and from beyond its borders each year. A prime example is the hugely successful exhibition of the works of sculptor Auguste Rodin in the summer of 2000 drew over 300,000 visitors from around the nation. According to an economic impact study prepared by UNC-Chapel Hill, the Rodin exhibition contributed over $50 million in direct economic impact to the state. The Museum also contributes to the economic well being of North Carolina by helping to attract business and industry to locate and expand here. When asked why they chose to locate in North Carolina, business leaders will most often cite the state's quality of life, including the cultural environment and its commitment to education. The North Carolina Museum of Art makes strong contributions in these areas.

The Museum is assisted in its mission by two affiliated organizations, The North Carolina Art Society and the Museum of Art Foundation, Inc. As mentioned previously, the Art Society is the predecessor of the Museum. The Art Society is a venerable and distinguished organization, founded in 1924 and under the patronage of the state since 1929. General Statutes provide that the Art Society shall be the membership arm of the North Carolina Museum of Art and continue under state patronage (G.S. 143B-89 and G.S. 140-14). The Art Society also holds the permanent endowment, the Robert F. Phifer Fund. Proceeds from this endowment are used solely for the acquisition of works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. This modest endowment provides the Museum's only reliable source of acquisition funding. There have been no state funds appropriated to add to the Museum's collection since 1985. Consequently, the Museum's holdings of art of the late twentieth century are not in keeping with the strength of the collection in other periods.

The Museum of Art Foundation, Inc. a private, non-profit corporation with tax-exempt status under IRS Code 501(c)(3). The Foundation holds some endowment funds and plays the essential role of operating the Museum's private fundraising efforts. The Foundation accounts for approximately two thirds of the Museum's average annual operating budget. These funds are spent directly by the Foundation on the Museum's behalf to support exhibitions, educational programs, staffing and other operating needs.

In 1997, the Museum's new performing arts facility, the Joseph M. Bryan Theater opened. This amphitheater, designed and built with private funds raised by the Museum of Art Foundation, will enable the North Carolina Museum of Art to offer a full range of performing arts experiences to complement the visual arts found inside the Museum's walls. Also in 1997, the Museum undertook a complete study of its present physical facilities made possible by an appropriation in the 1996 session of the General Assembly. This study directs the planning and programming of enhanced facilities to enable the institution to meet the state's needs well into the future.

In the 2000 session, the General Assembly allocated to the Department of Cultural Resources, for the Museum of Art, the state-owned property formerly occupied by the Polk Youth Correctional Facility. The transfer of this land has given the Museum a unique opportunity to accommodate the huge growth that has already occurred in the institution's programs into a new dynamic space. The Museum will seek to build a new structure to complement the existing building and provide exhibition and public spaces in keeping with the excellence of the Museum's collections and programs. In order to meet this and other challenges of the years ahead, the Museum looks forward to a continuation of the great tradition of partnering private funding with the public support provided by the General Assembly.

DCR 58

North Carolina is known throughout the world for its pottery traditions, literary legacy, Southern Appalachian music traditions, jazz, blues and gospel heritage, and an abundance of artists and arts institutions. Recognizing the state's rich cultural climate in 1964, Governor Terry Sanford established a state arts council to strengthen North Carolina's creativity, invention and prosperity. Since its beginning, the North Carolina Arts Council has been recognized as one of the nation's leading state arts agencies.

To fulfill our mission to enrich the cultural life of the state by nurturing and supporting excellence in the arts and by providing opportunities for every North Carolinian to experience the arts, we focus our work in three key areas which correspond to the goals of our long-range plan:

1. Our relationship with the state's arts resources—artists, arts organizations and our cultural heritage. It is our responsibility to help these resources remain strong so they can continue to produce rich and diverse arts experiences for the benefit of the state's citizens and visitors.
2. Our relationship to the state's communities. We use the word "communities" in the broadest sense to mean the many ways groups of people gather, both geographically or through other shared identities. It is our responsibility to make sure communities are strengthened through the arts.
3. Our relationship as a state agency to the state's agenda. It is our responsibility to make sure the arts are valued as a tool for achieving a strong economy, well-educated children, vital communities and involved citizens.

In building these relationships, we play the roles of connector, catalyst and activist partner, using our abilities to:

- Provide an overview of the strengths, needs and issues of the arts in the state
- Give grants to activate partnerships between artists, arts organizations and communities which benefit every county in the state
- Convene various groups of people around important topics to forge new partnerships
- Maintain access to a number of information outlets through which we collect, publish and disseminate a variety of resource materials

DCR 59

NORTH CAROLINA ARTS COUNCIL
1998-99 ACCOMPLISHMENTS

GOAL I: DEVELOP, PRESERVE, AND SUSTAIN NORTH CAROLINA'S ARTS RESOURCES

1. Support the state's organizations that produce exemplary arts programs
   - 62 organizations received a total of $1,415,650 in General Support grants for ongoing programs and operations.
   - Awarded $116,000 to 25 organizations to commission new works in the performing and visual arts.
   - 50 organizations received a total of $293,791 for innovative literary, performing, and visual arts programs.
   - 19 organizations received long-term organizational assistance through the New Realities Program.
   - 29 scholarship grants went to artists and arts administrators to attend conferences and workshops.
   - 4 community arts interns and 1 folklife intern received 3 months of professional training through our internship programs.
   - A total of $48,882 in grant funds was provided to 25 organizations for consultancies in facility development, fundraising, board and staff development, project planning, and audience development.

2. Preserve and promote the state's folk cultural heritage through documentary projects and public programs
   - 16 artists and organizations received a total of $142,892 for festivals, radio programs, exhibitions, and projects which documented and presented the traditions of Cherokee arts and culture, North Carolina pottery, gospel music of northwestern North Carolina, coastal communities of Northeastern North Carolina, and the Montagnard community of Greensboro.
   - Sites were selected for the traditional music and Cherokee arts and culture trails as part of the Blue Ridge Heritage Initiative.
   - Co-produced "Cold Mountain Old Time Music Gathering" with the North Carolina Museum of Art. The production featured Charles Frazier reading passages from his best-selling novel, which included references to traditional music. He was accompanied by musicians from western North Carolina.

3. Improve financial support and professional opportunities for North Carolina's artists
   - Awarded fellowships of $8,000 each to 18 visual artists, 3 film and video artists, and 4 choreographers to support their artistic development and the creation of new work.
   - Grants were awarded to 1 writer and 1 visual artist to be in residence at the Vermont Studio Center, 1 visual artist and 1 writer for residencies at the Headlands Center for the Arts in California, and 2 visual artists for residencies at La Napoule Foundation in France.

- Developed the North Carolina Poet Laureate Program and provided funds to subsidize the Poet Laureate to conduct readings, workshops for writers, and public presentations.
- Through a partnership program with the South Carolina Arts Commission Media Arts Center, provided $5,000 in grant funds to support North Carolina film/video artists to access the center's equipment, studios, and training programs.
- Funded the Regional Artist Project Grants Program, which made awards ranging from $250 - $2,500 to 165 artists through 12 regional consortia of local arts councils serving 93 of the state's 100 counties.
- Three regional workshops were conducted for NC touring artists to strengthen community residency work and to encourage artists to become full partners in planning and implementing residencies.
- Promoted North Carolina touring artists to out-of-state presenters at the annual Southern Arts Exchange booking conference.

GOAL II. DEEPEN THE CONNECTION BETWEEN THE ARTS AND NORTH CAROLINA'S COMMUNITIES

1. Strengthen partnerships with local arts councils to provide arts programming in all 100 counties through the Grassroots Arts Program
   - More than 750 organizations received a total of $1,679,117 through the Grassroots Arts Program's per capita funding system. Published the Designated County Partner Guidebook, to provide local arts councils with information on the most effective ways to administer Grassroots Arts Program county allotments.
   - Provided 27 grants totaling $128,435 to local arts agencies to hire additional staff, to encourage increased local government contributions, and for professional development opportunities.
   - Provided a total of $265,818 to local arts councils to support visual arts, folklife, touring, and arts in education programs.
   - Developed a gallery resource guide for local arts councils and small town exhibition venues.
   - Staff conducted workshops and planning sessions at the annual Local Arts Council Executive Directors' Retreat.

2. Increase access to racially and culturally diverse arts programs
   - The Multicultural Organization Development Program provided $179,650 to strengthen the arts programs of African-American, Native American, Latino, and Asian American organizations. Funded a two-day workshop to assist multicultural organizations in developing entrepreneurial strategies to increase earned income revenue.
   - Grassroots Arts Program's per capita funds were distributed according to the percentage of racial and ethnic diversity of the population of each county.
   - $544,000 was awarded for arts programs that build appreciation and understanding of the state's diverse cultures.

3. Increase arts programming in underserved communities
   - Developed two large-scale cultural tourism initiatives, one focusing on rural counties in the west and the other on the northeast coastal region.
   - Staff member served on the Governor's Issue Team for Personal and Parental Responsibility.
   - Convened Arts Council's Access Advisory Group to recommend strategies to help arts organizations comply with 504/ADA regulations and to increase and strengthen accessible arts programs.
   - Awarded a grant to The Center for Universal Design to conduct planning workshops and provide recommendations for increasing participation of people with disabilities in the state's arts programs.
   - Provided $17,245 for arts programs in hospitals, nursing homes, and mental health centers.

4. Provide support for performances and artists' residencies in communities across the state
   - Awarded $314,650 for performance series, artist residencies of two weeks to six months, projects to strengthen the programs of the state's arts presenters, and a variety of performances and activities in schools and community venues.
   - Funded a marketing brochure for the NC Presenter's Consortium that contained a calendar of the seasons of over 35 North Carolina presenters.
   - Helped develop and coordinate a statewide tour of David Dorfman Dance to 5 communities across the state. Provided a grant and helped secure additional funding to support 17 weeks of performances and residency activities involving over 50 community partner organizations.
   - Helped 10 literary organizations develop and coordinate a 10-week residency by Chicano writer Luis Rodriquez. Provided a grant and helped secure additional funding to support readings and residency activities in Latino and non-Latino communities and build lasting bridges between them.

5. Develop and support public art projects that enliven community buildings and spaces
   - Installed 9 new artworks in state buildings, bringing the total of the state's public art collection to 60; published educational materials for each completed artwork and included this information on the Council's web site; hired a professional art appraiser to perform a comprehensive appraisal and assess conservation needs of the entire collection; hired a photographer to document the collection for a new brochure.
   - Updated the slide bank of the work of artists who create public art for use as a resource for communities pursuing public art projects.
   - Assisted 7 communities with public art planning and worked with the Department of Transportation and Triangle Transit Authority to explore the possibility of creating an art in transit program for the state's Amtrak stations and for the Triangle's future regional transit system.
   - Made presentations on public art, gave tours of the state's collection, and convened quarterly meetings of the Public Art Network to increase awareness and appreciation of public art.

GOAL III. HEIGHTEN UNDERSTANDING OF THE ROLE AND VALUE OF THE ARTS TO THE STATE

1. Build public awareness about the benefit of the arts to the lives of North Carolinians
   - County histories, which included narratives and listings of all Arts Council grants to the county over the years, were published for each of the 100 counties and distributed to all legislators and local arts councils.
   - Published 3 issues of ncarts, the Arts Council's journal that examines issues that shape the development of the arts across the state, and reports on important arts events.
   - Expanded the Arts Council's Web site to include more links to artists and arts organizations and information on 3 cultural tourism trails.
   - Developed and distributed a communications tool kit to assist grantees in publicizing funded projects and keeping legislators informed about their activities.
   - Made presentations to arts and civic groups on the Arts Council and the arts in the state, and participated in media workshops for local constituents on more effective writing.

2. Further the role of the arts as an essential part of education
   - Arts in Education (AIE) Partnership grants totaling $154,729 were awarded; 34 % of these funds benefited 5 rural, low-wealth counties.
   - AIE Development category funded 12 projects totaling $45,650.
   - A total of $121,833 funded 17 artist residencies, after-school programs, and summer arts camps, as well as 17 short-term performing arts projects.
   - Convened a weekend workshop entitled Tapestry: Weaving Artistry and Education to train artists to work more effectively in school settings. 75 artists attended sessions conducted by national and state arts-in-education leaders on topics such as early childhood development, school culture, the state curriculum, and integration of the arts with other subjects.
   - Produced a two-day workshop on arts in education program evaluation methods attended by 40 arts professionals.
   - Developed a partnership with the School of Education at UNC-Chapel Hill to create a traditional music curriculum that would be taught in schools as part of the Blue Ridge Heritage Initiative education component.
   - Hired a consultant to create a residency planning guide to provide technical assistance to organizations conducting arts in education residencies.

3. Develop initiatives to strengthen the role of the arts in economic and community development, tourism, international relations, and human services
   - Worked closely with the Blue Ridge Parkway Division of the National Park Service and the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians to implement the Blue Ridge Heritage Initiative; completed resource inventories and selected sites for a traditional music trail and a Cherokee art and culture trail.
   - Provided a consultant and staff assistance to North Carolina Heritage, Inc., a nonprofit organization created to support heritage tourism development, to facilitate a planning process, and strengthen the organizational structure.

DCR 63

- Convened three meetings of the Interagency Heritage Tourism Task Force, which coordinates the efforts of statewide agencies and provides training and technical assistance to local heritage tourism efforts. The task force is composed of representatives from the state's commerce, tourism, transportation, agriculture, and natural resource departments.
- Worked with the Department of Commerce on several joint projects including an African-American heritage publication and a 19-county eastern heritage initiative in the northeast coastal region.
- Organized and funded a consortium of major summer performing arts festivals, outdoor dramas, and theaters to collectively develop joint marketing strategies and pursue initiatives to increase cultural tourism to their sites.

DCR 64

North Carolina Arts Council - At a Glance

Arts Council Programs

- provide information and other resources to North Carolina's 2,728 non-profit arts organizations
- take artists into the schools
- tour professional dance, music and theater companies throughout the state
- support the state's major professional music, dance, theater, visual arts and literary organizations, many of which have regional and national reputations
- fund local priorities through the decentralized Grassroots Arts Program
- recognize our finest folk artists with Folk Heritage Awards and our finest career artists with fellowships
- provide targeted assistance to organizations in previously underserved communities
- work with local community leaders to develop cultural tourism opportunities

Arts Council Services

25 staff members work with arts and other community organizations to help them expand, stabilize, develop in appropriate directions and become managerially stronger. Staff targets and gives special attention to rural areas, urban organizations in communities with limited resources and older, established organizations going through transition. Through conferences, workshops, publications, information and special events, the staff provides support and technical assistance to the citizens of our state who are using the arts to build their communities.

Impact of Arts Council-funded Activities in FY 99-00

- Nearly 8.5 million people participated in Council-funded projects.
- Projects were funded in every county in the state.
- Grants went to 521 arts organizations, 439 school, community and civic groups, and 46 individuals.
- Each dollar granted by the Council was matched by twelve other dollars, many generated directly by the Council's grant.

Organizations Assisted by the Arts Council Play a Significant Role

- in North Carolina's tourism industry
- in downtown revitalization projects in numerous towns and cities
- in the creation of jobs, both within arts organizations and indirectly in restaurants, hotels, parking lots, printing and catering businesses
- in attracting and keeping desirable industries by making the community a more stimulating place in which to live and work

NORTH CAROLINA ARTS COUNCIL BUDGET GOAL: To Reach the National Average for Per-Capita Spending through State Arts Agencies

The national average is projected to be $1.50 in FY 02-03. A $4 million increase to the Arts Council's FY 00-01 budget would place North Carolina at the national average. With 98¢ to spend on each citizen in FY 00-01, North Carolina ranks 21st in the nation and 5th in the South, behind Florida, South Carolina, Louisiana and Alabama.

The Arts Council's Board has developed the following framework for future increases:

1. Grassroots Arts Program - $1,000,000 – Per capita funds will increase from 28¢ to 40¢ for community arts activities in all 100 counties. Local arts councils, vital players in community planning and economic development, are local partners in the distribution of funding.

2. Primary Arts Organizations - $1,000,000 – General support grants are awarded to 81 of the state's finest orchestras and opera companies, museums and galleries, arts centers, craft schools, dance and theater companies, literary and multicultural organizations. This increase will move all eligible organizations to their appropriate levels within the funding formula.

3. Arts in Education - $500,000 – The popular grants program which funds partnerships between arts organizations and school systems will expand. New programs will include annual training institutes for artists and teachers, yearlong artist residency programs, and early childhood and youth-at-risk initiatives. Because effective programs require one-on-one staff assistance, especially in small and rural schools with limited human resources, one consultant (Grade 68) and one program assistant (Grade 59) will be added.

4. Cultural Tourism - $500,000 – In the state's second largest industry, keeping our citizens at home for their recreational travel is important because they comprise one-third of this tourist market. The highest growth segment of the tourism industry, culture tourists are prized because they spend more, stay longer, are easy on the environment, and help sustainable economic development, especially in rural areas. These funds will increase new product development, provide marketing to build citizens' awareness of cultural opportunities as they travel, and stimulate support of arts statewide. One coordinator (Grade 68) will be added to assist with the labor-intensive activities required in this expansion.

5. Other Grant Programs - $350,000 – Several grant programs which did not benefit from the FY 99-01 increases are experiencing great demands from constituents. Included are touring and presenting, literature, folk arts, new works, and programs for small, emerging groups that need help with performances and exhibitions. This increase will more adequately address those needs.

6. Public Art and Community Design - $200,000 – The state's collection of over 60 artworks, appraised at $3.3 million, has more than doubled in value over the 11 years during which the artworks were produced. The value will continue to increase, provided the artworks are properly cared for and protected. These funds will cover the costs of appropriate conservation as well as interpretive displays and promotional events and publications. Funds will also allow communities to engage in public art and community design projects as a means of creating a sense of place and identity for residents and visitors. Grants will fund the creation and implementation of master plans, address specific design issues such as gateways, plazas, parks and downtown redevelopment; and plan for the development of arts facilities.

7. International Program - $100,000 – In response to the complexity and richness of the various cultures represented in North Carolina and to the state's growing international economic connections, the Arts Council will develop ongoing cultural relationships with selected countries to provide more comprehensive artist exchanges and other programming.

8. Research - $100,000 – Though the Arts Council has done very little in this area over the years, its enabling legislation charges it with "the study, collection, maintenance and dissemination of factual data and pertinent information relative to the arts" and to "identify research needs in the arts area and to encourage such research." Much research needs to be undertaken, much information collected, so that the arts community can make the most of its resources. This increase will fund the beginning of a series of comprehensive research studies and appropriately disseminate the information.

9. Arts Resource Center - $100,000 – An arts resource center will be established to provide learning and training opportunities to arts professionals, educators, students, tourism professionals, and others interested in the state's arts and culture. The Arts Council's significant and unique collection of folklife photographs, audio recordings, films, and videos are presently stored for safekeeping and are not easily available to the public. Also, there are heritage tourism inventories, arts in education curriculum guides, national studies, examples of model programs and other reference materials useful to those involved in planning arts projects. This funding will provide listening stations, a film/video viewing room, exhibition space, computer terminals and a library, as well as additional and/or updated inventories, reference materials, other resources, and sprinklers and a security system.

10. Operating Support - $150,000 – The $260,000 increase the Arts Council received for FY 00-01 replaced federal funds that were subsequently redirected to grants. Therefore, this year's $393,000 in operating support is the same as ten years ago. In the meantime, the number of nonprofit arts organizations in North Carolina has increased by 55.9%, and other organizations and individuals seeking Arts Council information has increased by over 8,400. This budget increase will allow staff to visit more constituents, site evaluators will make needed in-depth site visits and provide reports for use in making grant recommendations, and the Arts Council will continue to upgrade its technology and other equipment and services.

NORTH CAROLINA SYMPHONY

PART 1 - SYMPHONY OVERVIEW

The mission of the North Carolina Symphony is to present an orchestra of the highest artistic standard that enriches, entertains, and educates diverse audiences in a variety of settings and represents North Carolina as a leader in performance and music education.

Formed in 1932 under the direction of Lamar Stringfield, the North Carolina Symphony served as a WPA project in the 1930s and then in the 1940s became the first orchestra to receive state funding on a continuous basis. Under the 33-year leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swalin, the Symphony began its grassroots emphasis of taking the orchestra to the people of the state. That tradition has continued every year since the 1943 "Horn Tootin' Bill" was passed by the State Legislature and it continues today.

- The North Carolina Symphony is the 30th largest orchestra organization in the country; however, it is singularly unique in two respects:

  1) its commitment to statewide service
  2) its dedication to the musical education of public school children

- Each season, the North Carolina Symphony performs approximately 175 full-orchestra concerts for adults and children across the state. Nearly two-thirds of its performances take place outside the Triangle. Each season, the Symphony visits between 30 and 40 counties across the state, performing for more than a quarter-million individuals.

  No other orchestra in America serves its state to the extent the North Carolina Symphony does. Comparing to the 120 annual North Carolina Symphony performances outside of the Triangle, the next-most "statewide" orchestra in America (the Syracuse Symphony) performs only 45 performances annually outside its home base.

  Orchestra travels approximately 20,000 miles a season throughout the state of North Carolina

- The Symphony performs between 45 and 65 full-orchestra music education concerts for school children throughout North Carolina. (See attachment for 2000-01 Educational Concert Schedule.) Between 60,000 and 100,000 school children are served each season. In 2000, the Symphony added two new positions: a composer-in-residence and an assistant conductor. Both of these positions have added renewed vitality the Symphony's music education programs.

- In February 2001, the Symphony opens a new concert hall, Meymandi Concert Hall at the BTI Center for the Performing Arts in Raleigh. The new concert hall is anticipated to be the finest performance venue in the southeast, possibly rivaling Boston's Symphony Hall and Vienna's Musikverein. The new hall will allow for major programmatic expansion, including a longer series, a new chamber orchestra series, a recital series, and opportunities for artistic partnerships with other organizations around the state.

  The General Assembly dedicated $3 million toward the $38 million cost of the BTI Center for the Performing Arts. State funds were used to enhance the acoustical quality of Meymandi Concert Hall, the new home of the North Carolina Symphony.

- In June 2001, the Symphony opens a new outdoor facility in Cary at Regency Park. The new facility will raise the profile and excellence of the Symphony's Summerfest series that serves 20,000 annually.

- 2001-02 marks the 20th anniversary of Music Director Gerhardt Zimmermann. The milestone will be observed with special programming, including the premiere performances of five new orchestral works.

- Approximate annual attendance is 300,000

- The Symphony has 64 full-time musicians. (Most orchestras of the Symphony's size have about 80. Finances permitting, the Symphony's Board of Trustees desires to bring this number up to the more ideal number.)

PART II - FINANCIAL

In the early 1980s, State funding was approximately 70% of the operating budget, with 30% coming from the private sector. In 1984, a subcommittee asked the Symphony to make significant changes in the percentage of funding in order to reduce public funding and increase private funding. The Symphony has worked very hard to accomplish this, and as of 2000-01 those percentages have reversed. Today, private sector funding has been increased to 71% of the budget with only 29% coming from state funding.

PART III - MUSIC EDUCATION OVERVIEW

The North Carolina Symphony has one of the most extensive music education programs of any orchestra in the United States. These concerts are part of the schools' music education curriculum and music teachers help to write and present the curriculum to fellow teachers in a unique, yearly workshop.

DCR 76

- Approximately 45 to 65 concerts are given free of admission yearly to school children throughout the state.
- Extensive curriculum development and collateral materials designed each year specifically for the music education program.
- An annual workshop for 350 music education teachers is held to assist them in preparing students for the statewide music education concert programs.
- Symphony annually stages a Youth Concerto Competition.
- Symphony sponsors the Triangle Youth Philharmonic.
- Symphony has established a partnership program to provide students at North Carolina schools and universities an opportunity to perform with the orchestra in rehearsals and concerts. (i.e. North Carolina School for the Arts; Appalachian State University; UNC-Greensboro; East Carolina University; and UNC-Chapel Hill)
- Opportunity for high school students to take music lessons from Symphony professionals.
- Develop adult music education programs for North Carolina citizens through statewide pre-concert lectures and discussions.
- The Symphony is a partner with WUNC (PBS Radio Station at UNC-Chapel Hill) for its composer-in-residence program.
- The Symphony continues to partner with UNC-TV to produce video programming showcasing the instrument families of the Orchestra. These programs are broadcast statewide and distributed to all school systems throughout North Carolina in advance of North Carolina Symphony visits.

State Library of North Carolina

DCR 87

The State Library of North Carolina
A Division of the Department of Cultural Resources

Part I - State Library Overview

The State Library has a long and proud history, beginning with its founding in 1812 as a collection of books in the office of the Secretary of State and the appointment of the first full-time State Librarian in 1843. Another historic milestone was the establishment of the North Carolina Library Commission in 1909. The Commission's primary mission was to provide assistance, advice, and counsel to: all libraries; all communities that proposed to establish libraries; and all persons interested in the best means of establishing and administering libraries. By action of the General Assembly in 1955, the State Library and the Library Commission were merged to form a single State Library.

Today, the State Library is a division of the Department of Cultural Resources; and the State Library Commission, a 15-member group of citizens and professional librarians, advises the Secretary of Cultural Resources and the State Librarian on priorities and policy issues.

Under the authority of G.S.125, the State Library of North Carolina focuses its service to the people of the state in three ways:

(1) by working in partnership with local communities to develop and extend public library services statewide;

(2) by coordinating efforts among all types of libraries to improve library services and to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure; and

(3) by providing direct library services to a constituency that includes government officials, business people, and the general public, with an emphasis on the geneaology researcher and people who qualify for the services offered through the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Part II – Financial Overview

The State Library's budget is divided into two funds:

- Fund 1410 – State Library Services: funds those State Library services provided to its customers. The budget of $4.7 million supports personnel, operating costs, library materials and resources, and other expenditures related to the direct delivery of library services and direct support for local library staff members. Today, the library employs 91.95 FTEs funded with state appropriations, and an additional 3.5 FTEs who work on federally funded projects.

- Fund 1480 – Statewide Programs and Grants: funds activities that help local libraries improve services and totals $21.7 million in state and federal funds. Major areas of expenditure include:
  - Aid to Public Libraries Fund: funded in 2000-2001 at $15.4 million, with $500,000 in non-recurring funds and $14.9 million in recurring funds. See Attachment A for a full description of this program.

  - NC LIVE and Internet Access for Public Libraries: NC LIVE is the groundbreaking electronic library project that went online in April 1998 (see Attachment B). The State Library receives $1 million to fund public library participation in NC LIVE. The State Library also administers $735,000 in ongoing funds to assure public library access to the Internet and to a range of information resources to supplement their print collections, assuring equal access to information to support the education of our young people as well as information to support people in their work and their daily lives.

  - Funds for children and reading services were added to the State Library's budget in 1998-99. The appropriation of $100,350 supports the statewide summer reading program, other programs for children and teens, and a portion of the activities of The North Carolina Center for the Book, a state affiliate of the Library of Congress program that promotes books, reading, and literacy.

  - The Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) is a new federal library program. It provides a block grant of approximately $4 million to the State Library to support programs in all types of libraries that use technology to improve services, build collaborative programs among libraries, and extend services to unserved and underserved North Carolinians. This year, the State Library has funded 223 LSTA grants to public libraries as well as libraries in schools, community colleges, and other publicly and privately funded academic institutions.

The State Library's budget to support direct service to its customers in Fund 1410 has, however, been reduced by over $1 million in the 1990s—a reduction of about 20%. The reductions in state funds have totaled almost $600,000, including 6 positions. With changes in federal funding programs, the State Library has also had to eliminate approximately $500,000 in federal funds that it had come to rely on for basic operations, resulting in the elimination of another 6 positions as well as funds for library materials and equipment. Lost funds have resulted in diminished levels of customer service and a significant cutback in the Library's book budget.

The highest priorities for the State Library in the upcoming biennium are $500,000 in additional funding for NC LIVE; and $112,000 in funds to implement the site differential for salaries for professional librarians at the State Library recently approved by the Office of State Personnel.

Part II - State Library Priorities and Services

The State Library's performance plan reflects its statutory mission and is based on input from its customers, including the State Library Commission and focus groups held in 1995 with representatives of the State's library community.

State Library Program Statement: Develop & promote library services - The purpose of this program is to provide library and information services and to assist local libraries in the development of programs, services, and facilities.

State Library Goal #1: Develop and extend public library services for North Carolinians in partnership with local communities.

Customers: Public library users statewide, local government officials, public library staff members, and library board members and friends

Funds supporting this goal: 1410 - State Library Services & Programs & 1480 - Statewide Programs & Grants

Examples of strategies or activities directed toward this objective:

- In 1999-2000, the State Library provided technical assistance to library staff, trustees, and friends statewide through 8,936 telephone and in-office consultations. The projected number of site visits to assist local libraries this year is 100. Last year, nearly 4,700 library staff members, trustees, and friends attended workshops sponsored by the State Library.

- The State Library administers the Aid to Public Libraries Program, which is distributed on a formula basis to libraries in all 100 counties through the 76 public library systems (see Attachment A for more information.) Annually, the State Library administers approximately 200 federal grants for libraries statewide.

- A comprehensive program designed to strengthen public library services for children and youth resulted in 122,000 children participating in local library programs that were made possible by the State Library's coordination and leadership.

- The public library statistics program provides information to assist local libraries in planning and evaluation. The State Library also participates in national library data collection efforts in partnership with the National Center for Education Statistics.

- The Center for the Book program promotes reading, books, and lifelong learning and helps local libraries develop programs and services. This program resulted in an increase from 271 in 1994-95 to 3,344 in 1999-2000 in the number of adults attending local library programs supported by State Library.

- The State Library continues to monitor trends, needs, and issues to assure that its programs are responsive to the primary customers for this goal area.

State Library Goal #2: Coordinate efforts among all types of libraries to improve library services and to provide access to both print and electronic information resources through a modern telecommunications infrastructure, assuring equity of access to information for all North Carolinians;

Customers: Users of all types of libraries statewide and North Carolina residents with access to the Internet.

Funds contributing to objective: 1410 - State Library Services & 1480 - Statewide Programs & Grants

Description of strategies or activities directed toward this objective:

- The State Library is a partner in NC LIVE, the statewide electronic library, making resources available through libraries statewide--including the full-text of 5,500+ magazines and newspapers, 13,000 electronic books, and indexes to guide people to information in over 10,000 publications. (See Attachment B for more information.)

- Technical assistance and continuing education for library staff statewide.

- Federal grants to public and academic libraries to support improved access to the Internet for their library users.

- The State Library currently supports electronic mail accounts for over 500 library staff members from around the state, funds and manages nearly 430 Internet accounts for library staff statewide, and administers electronic discussion groups to foster communication and the exchange of information among library staff members statewide.

- The State Library also makes sharing of print resources possible among 189 smaller libraries of all types in the state, a service that delivered over 21,000 books and articles to North Carolinians in 1999-2000.

- Today, all public library staff in North Carolina have the opportunity to access the Internet and all of the 76 public library systems in North Carolina offer public access to the Internet as a service to users.

State Library Goal #3: Provide library and information resources for North Carolinians to promote knowledge, education, and business.

Customers: State agency personnel, local government officials, businesses, and the general public, with the emphasis on genealogical researchers and North Carolina residents with visual and physical impairments

Funds contributing to objective: 1410 - State Library Services
Description of strategies or activities directed toward this objective:

- The State Library manages the State Publications Clearinghouse, a coordinated program to collect, catalog, and distribute state publications in print and microfiche to 29 depository libraries statewide. In 1999-2000, this program cataloged and distributed over 44,100 state publications.

- The State Library assists other state agencies in cataloging and making their library holdings available in the library's online catalog.

- The State Library's FIND NC project (http://www.findnc.org) provides a way to search all North Carolina state government World Wide Web pages and NC GILS (Government Information Locator Service) indexes to get more information by and about state government.

- The State Library acquires, catalogs on-line, processes, and provides access to a varied collection of books, magazines, electronic information resources, and videos in excess of 212,000 items. In 1999-2000, the Library responded to over 22,300 requests for information, and over 172,000 items from the collection were used in-house or checked out.

- The State Library's Web site, which includes the electronic North Carolina Encyclopedia, was accessed 8.1 million times during the last year.

- The regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped serves over 12,000 users statewide and circulated over 450,000 items last year.

- The State Library loaned over 21,000 books, videos, and other library materials to help other libraries serve their patrons last year.

Fact Sheet: The Aid to Public Libraries Fund

North Carolina's Aid to Public Libraries program has been in effect since 1941--when the General Assembly articulated its policies regarding the role of the state in public library development--and appropriated the first $100,000 for the program.

Chapter 153 of the General Statutes of North Carolina (the chapter dealing with counties) contains the "Declaration of State policy" that says: The General Assembly recognizes that the availability of adequate, modern library services is in the general interest of the people of North Carolina and a proper concern of the State and of local governments. Therefore, it is the policy of the State of North Carolina to promote the establishment and development of public library services throughout the state. Chapter 125, which is the chapter dealing with the State Library, re-iterates that policy and established the state aid program: For promoting, aiding, and equalizing public library service in North Carolina a sum shall annually be appropriated out of moneys within the State treasury to be known as the Aid to Public Libraries fund.

From the time of that first appropriation of $100,000, the program has continued and evolved. Today 76 county, regional, and municipal library systems serving all 100 counties receive state aid--51 single-county libraries, 15 regional libraries serving 49 counties, and 10 municipal libraries that meet the minimum standards to qualify.

The current formula went into effect in 1983-84--and includes two components:

- ✓ A block grant: one-half of the appropriation is divided among the qualifying libraries. Each county receives one grant, and a regional library receives a block grant for each county plus an additional one for the region. Municipal libraries do not receive a block grant.

- ✓ Per Capita Equalization Grant: one-half of the appropriation is allocated under a weighted per capita grant inversely proportional to the average per capita income of people residing in the library's legal service area.

State aid is 20% or more of the operating budget for public libraries in 54 counties; and a total of 75 counties depend on the program for 15% or more of their public library operating funds. Statewide, state aid equals 10% of the total expenditures for public library service; however, that amount varies from a low of 2% in Charlotte/Mecklenburg to a high of 44%. For municipal libraries that do not receive a block grant, state aid represents an even lower percentage of operating expenditures.

Currently, state aid gives North Carolina public libraries considerably less buying power than they had in 1987, yet the number of people being served and the demand for services is greater than at any time in their history. During the past six years, the General Assembly has increased the Aid to Public Libraries Fund to $15.4 million, which represents $2.02 per capita. Even with these increases, the per capita Aid to Public Libraries appropriation this year is only $.34 more than the per capita appropriation in 1987. If the appropriation had kept pace with inflation, it would be $2.53 per capita, or $19.4 million. The $0.5 million appropriated for the current year is non-recurring, so the Fund will drop to $14.9 million (or $1.95 per capita) if additional funds are not appropriated.

NC LIVE
Your Library Link to the World

April 1998 marked the beginning of a new era in library service to the people of North Carolina. With the launch of NC LIVE—North Carolina LIbraries for Virtual Education—every North Carolina community gained access to a state-of-the-art service available using the telecommunications capabilities provided by the Internet.

NC LIVE provides:

- Access to an online treasure trove of information, with the added bonus of expert librarians to assure the quality of the resources and to help people with their search.
- Online access to 5-10 years of complete articles from over 5,500 journals, magazines, newspapers, and encyclopedias.
- Indexing and article summaries for more than 10,000 additional magazines, journals, and newspapers.
- Online access to over 13,000 electronic books
- The ability to use these resources at home, at school, or anywhere else there's a connection to the Internet, 24 hours a day, seven days a week

NC LIVE is a partnership of The University of North Carolina System (16 institutions), the North Carolina Community College System (59 institutions), the State Library of North Carolina (for public libraries serving all 100 counties), and the North Carolina Independent Colleges and Universities (36 institutions). A unique public-private venture between the state-funded organizations and the state's private colleges and universities, NC LIVE has leveraged their buying power to expand access to information statewide.

The current appropriation from the General Assembly is $2.7 million. Funds pay for subscriptions to the electronic publications and the technical infrastructure to allow all participating libraries to access information online. Each partner contributes not only funding but its special expertise to make the project a success. The University of North Carolina's institutions provide their exceptional technological expertise and the State Library offers training and support. Representatives of all the organizations help with governing, planning, and implementation.

NC LIVE "levels the playing field" so that rural isolation, community or institutional financial constraints, and limited local library resources are not barriers to accessing information. Everyone benefits!

North Carolina Museum of History

DCR 98

North Carolina Museum of History Division

Mission

The North Carolina Museum of History Division promotes the understanding of the history and material culture of North Carolina for the education benefit of North Carolinians. Through collections and historical interpretation, its museums encourage citizens and visitors to explore and understand the past; to reflect on their own lives and their place in history; and to preserve state, regional, and local history for future generations.

Overview

The museum opened to the public in 1902 as the Hall of History in the State Museum of Natural History, located in the old Agriculture Building. In 1914 it joined the State Archives and Historical Publications Program as part of the North Carolina Historical Commission and moved to the old Supreme Court building. In 1939 the Museum moved to the Education Building, and in 1968 to the new Archives and History/State Library Building. Beginning in 1979, three other institutions became part of the Museum of History: the Museum of the Albemarle in Elizabeth City, the Museum of the Cape Fear in Fayetteville, and the Mountain Gateway Museum in Old Fort. These regional museum enhance the statewide presence of the Museum of History through exhibits, programs, and the extensive involvement of the communities they serve.

The Museum's new Raleigh facility opened to the public on April 23, 1994 with four new exhibits and a series of special celebrations. Since that time the Museum opened a total of 80 new exhibitions, hosted over 1,600 public programs for 250,420 participants, and toured some 441,618 in groups (primarily schoolchildren). During October 1997 the Museum's one-millionth visitor entered.

On February 1, 1996, the Museum became a separate Division of the Department of Cultural Resources.

The Museum of History as a whole develops, produces, and maintains over 63,000 square feet of long- and short-term exhibits with interpretive programs and special events. Visitation for 1999-2001 was 478,615. Since 1994 the museum has provided outreach to 2,003,085 people in school and community groups through the Tar Heel Junior Historians, the Media Center services (audiovisual services and History in a Box outreach kits), distance-learning classes, publications, traveling exhibits and other outreach services. The Museum's website provides access to collections numbering over 95,000 on-line artifacts representing all aspects of North Carolina's history.

The North Carolina Museum of History Associates, the Museum's statewide support group, is one of the largest such groups for a state history museum in the country with over 10,000 members, and promotes the Museum in 94 counties around the state by providing educational resources, programs, and membership involvement in the Museum.

Current Status, Goals, and Strategies

The Museum is currently working with the Human Resources Division of the Department of Cultural Resources and the Office of State Personnel on its first position study in over 20 years. The completion of the study will provide a sound basis for staff development in the coming years. The study is nearing completion, but funding does not exist for positions reallocated.

Work on capital projects (Raleigh restaurant, Elizabeth City new building, Fayetteville building and Arsenal Park, Old Fort amphitheatre and restrooms) continues to place demands on staff but will provide great improvements in service delivery and accessibility. The capital campaign to raise funds for exhibits for the new Museum of the Albemarle more that doubled its goal, raising over $1.7 million.

Outreach program development (technology access, traveling exhibits, collaborative programs, Tar Heel Junior Historians, audiovisuals) will become critical linkage between the four museums of the Museum of History and the counties they serve across the state.

Within the framework of preserving and promoting historical properties, the Museum's overall objective is to increase the percentage of visitors who express an enhance appreciation of North Carolina History. The primary strategies involved are to complete capital projects now in progress, improve the management and coordination of museum resources through constant evaluation, and continue to develop the four museums as an effective statewide organization.

Since the Museum of History opened its new facility in 1994 it has installed some sixty exhibits on a wide variety of topics related to North Carolina History. Most of the exhibits at the Museum are developed and created in-house such as the award winning Health & Healing Experiences in North Carolina and North Carolina and the Civil War. But others are borrowed from other agencies for short periods of time. In January 2001 the Museum of History was the debut location for an international traveling exhibit from the Smithsonian Institution's National Portrait Gallery--A Brush With History, Paintings from the National Portrait Gallery. In 2002, the Museum will again be a host of another significant exhibit from the Smithsonian-- Presidential Portraits. Through the generous support of the North Carolina Museum of History Associates and the Department of Cultural Resources the Museum is able to provide these world-class exhibitions free of charge to the public.

In 1999 a team of staff members from the Museum of History were charged with developing plans for a new and expanded exhibition on the history of North Carolina. Since it's opening in 1994, the Museum has relied on a temporary exhibit, Past in Progress, to orient visitors to North Carolina's rich history. After nearly two years of research, meeting with special interest groups and consulting with three advisory committees (American Indian, African American and an Academic Advisory Committee) to insure that the exhibition would be as inclusive as possible, a Concept Plan outlining the exhibition has been created and approved. The museum is now poised to begin work with an architect and exhibition design firm to begin creating this blockbuster exhibit on the history of North Carolina.

DCR109

THE ROANOKE ISLAND COMMISSION, an independent commission situated within the NC Department of Cultural Resources for historic resource management, organizational and budgetary purposes was established by legislation in 1994 under GS 141B-131.1. The 24-member Commission was created to protect, preserve, develop and interpret the historical and cultural assets of Roanoke Island, the birthplace of English speaking America. The Commission is legislatively associated with the North Carolina Department of Transportation for the Roanoke Voyages Corridor established by legislation in 1982. The Corridor is funded by DOT.

HISTORY: In 1984, the nation celebrated the 400th anniversary of the Roanoke Voyages and the first English colony in the New World. The State of North Carolina lead that celebration with the opening of a 24-acre state site which included a 69-foot representative 16th century sailing vessel, the ELIZABETH II. The Roanoke Voyages Corridor was also established as part of this permanent memorial. With these actions, North Carolina marked its place in history not unlike Jamestown or Colonial Williamsburg.

In 1988: The Outer Banks History Center, a 6,200 sq. ft. public research library and manuscript repository was opened by the Division of Archives and History

In 1998: The site expanded to include an 8,500 sq. ft. museum, a 238 seat film theatre, an art gallery/meeting space, an outdoor performance pavilion with lawn seating for 3,000, a maintenance facility, a museum store and marsh side boardwalks.

The Roanoke Island Institute of the North Carolina School of the Arts unveiled its premiere season with 45 performances of music, dance and drama.

The Commission requested and was awarded a parcel determined to be surplus by DOT at the foot of the Wright Memorial Bridge for future public water transportation from the northern beaches.

A cooperative agreement was initiated between the Commission, the NC Maritime Museum and the Town of Manteo to establish a working boat shop to begin the NC Maritime Museum on Roanoke Island.

In 1999: A dormitory housing facility was constructed for seasonal staff and performers vital for housing in this resort area.

A cooperative effort was established with WUNC Public Radio enabling the beginning of public radio in this region through use of a Festival Park space.

In 2000:

Preservation funds were sought and efforts were successful to acquire 130 acres, primarily wetlands, adjacent to this state site to protect and preserve natural resources in perpetuity.

The Commission initiated action to protect the entrance to Roanoke Island through options to acquire land with transfer to the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

Grant funds were sought and awarded to the Commission and the Roanoke Voyages Corridor Committee to remove remaining billboards on Roanoke Island.

An overdue restoration of the Elizabeth II was accomplished.

Since 1984 over 2 million visitors have celebrated our state and national history at this heritage site.

The Friends of Elizabeth II, Inc., a 501c3 non-profit organization, has worked to support the programs of this state site since its inception.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION TO PROMOTE AND DEVELOP THE ELIZABETH II STATE HISTORIC SITE AND VISITOR CENTER:

In light of the current budget deficit, no additional requests are being put forth in this session. The Commission is working diligently towards a goal of self-sustainment through revenues, grants and endowments over the next decade. These efforts are described in the "Accounting of Funds" section below.

AN ACCOUNTING OF FUNDS RECEIVED AND EXPENDED:
Budget Office Fiscal Data attached; overview follows:

	7/1/98-6/30/99	7/1/99-6/30/00
Appropriations	1,854,350.00	1,878,192.00
Expended personal svcs	1,091,001.00	1,206,236.00
Expended operations	331,161.00	316,040.00
Balance to endowment	432,188.00	335,916.00
Gate Admission	319,893.00*	330,740.00*
Interest/Dividends	93,193.00	124,997.00
Grants/Other Income	2,300.00	35,000.00
Natural Heritage Conservation Fund		385,000.00
R&R Funds-EII restoration (Completed 99-00)		400,000.00
ISTEA Grant for billboard removal (Awarded/in process)		44,000.00

When the Roanoke Island Commission became responsible for this state site in 1994, the site had experienced numerous budget cuts and personnel reductions that had caused it to be in a state of disrepair. For that reason it is the long-term goal of the Commission to make this state site self-sustaining. In 1994, the Commission established an endowment fund requiring 25% (*) of all revenues to be applied; that fund is currently $1,184,114.

Additional fund growth has been possible during this period due to:

- Savings in salary expense when construction completion was delayed
- Retained admissions
- Non-reversion of fund balances

It is important to note the current appropriation budget is on-target for the actual costs of operating the site.

Please note: the Roanoke Island Historical Association, a non-profit organization that produces "The Lost Colony" outdoor drama is a separate entity with no budgetary ties to the Commission.

First Flight Centennial Commission

DCR 116

The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission
Countdown to 2003: www.firstflightnc.com

- The First Flight Centennial Commission (FFCC) was established by the NC General Assembly to plan programs and activities in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Wright brothers' first flight.

- Goal: To make the world aware of North Carolina's role in the first flight and the subsequent 100 years of aviation, and to invite the world to share the celebration with us.

- Programs: Public awareness, educational outreach, and a statewide and yearlong series of celebrations and commemorations that involve business, the arts, the military, communications, transportation, aerospace and humanitarian flight.

- Partnerships are many, including the Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003, National Park Service, NASA, FAA, Smithsonian, US Centennial of Flight Commission, Dayton Ohio, Canada's National Aviation Museum, Experimental Aircraft Association, American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, corporations and aviation organizations.

- Major commemorative achievements to date:
  - Restoration and rededication of the Wright Brothers National Memorial monument
  - B-2 bomber named the Spirit of Kitty Hawk
  - Annual North Carolina and Ohio Class of 2003 summer educational programs
  - Centennial Schools program statewide with annual Centennial Teacher of the Year Award
  - US Mint release of the NC quarter with the Daniels photograph of the first flight
  - Travelling exhibit of NC's first flight displayed to hundreds of thousands at museums, NC State Fairs, Sun 'n Fun, Oshkosh Fly-in, Chicago O'Hare airport
  - International Symposium, They Taught the World to Fly, Oct. 22-25, 2001

- Plans for 2003 will put North Carolina in the international spotlight:
  - Major conventions, conferences and exhibitions brought to North Carolina
  - Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003, Memorial Day
  - NASCAR world record fly-over, Lowe's Motor Speedway
  - State travel guide, state map, airports guide, all to feature the first flight
  - Yearlong program to draw visitors to aviation sites throughout NC
  - World premiere of a First Flight Symphony with educational program

- Special advisors to the First Flight Centennial Commission include:
  - General Henry "Hugh" Shelton, Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Military Advisor
  - Col. Edward "Buzz" Aldrin, Aviation Advisor
  - H. Ross Perot, Corporate Advisor

DCR 117

The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission
Countdown to 2003: Report to the North Carolina General Assembly

December 17, 1903... With Orville Wright at the controls and his brother Wilbur running alongside, a fragile airplane lifted off the sands of North Carolina's Kill Devil Hills. It flew 120 feet in twelve seconds. The brothers flew three more flights on that cold and windy day, and the world changed forever.

In 2003, North Carolina will proudly host the centennial anniversary of mankind's first successful flight in a powered aircraft and celebrate the subsequent 100 years of aviation. The General Assembly established the First Flight Centennial Commission (FFCC) in 1994 under GS 143-640 to "develop and plan activities to commemorate the centennial of the first successful, manned, controlled, heavier-than-air, powered flight and other historical events related to the development of powered flight." The FFCC is an independent commission with administrative support from the Department of Cultural Resources (DCR). It receives its appropriation through DCR.

The Commission is preparing a statewide, yearlong series of celebrations to be launched on December 17, 2002. It is also developing partnerships for national and international observances. It is already clear that North Carolina will be in the national and international spotlight, drawing many visitors to the Wright Brothers National Memorial, northeastern North Carolina and aviation and historical sites throughout the state. Major events of the year will include national and international figures in commemorative events, major aerial displays and air shows, major media productions, new publications, community airport events, significant educational activities, and commissioned performance and public art. North Carolina will be the ideal venue for national and international conferences and conventions involving business, cultural, educational, heritage, scholarly, aviation, engineering, mechanical, aerospace, technological and other audiences. It will be a year to celebrate North Carolina pride throughout the state.

STRATEGIC PLAN

The Commission has divided its charge from the North Carolina General Assembly into four overlapping phases, summarized as Awareness / Education / Celebration / Legacy. Those phases will find expression through themes in the arts, commerce, military contributions, and humanitarian uses of flight.

1. AWARENESS: Generate positive national and international awareness and celebratory understanding of North Carolina's role in the first successful, manned, controlled, heavier-than-air flight achieved by the Wright brothers on December 17, 1903. Examples are:
   - The centennial website for events and programs, www.firstflightnc.com, was launched on National Aviation Day and has been visited by readers from almost every state and 24 countries.
   - The NC quarter design features the famous Daniels photograph of the first flight. The US Mint will place 750 million quarters in circulation in 2001.
   - Participation in the July 4th Ottawa celebration as guests of U.S. Ambassador Giffin brought exposure to over 5,000 Canadians. The FFCC exhibit was then at the National Aviation Museum in Canada through the summer 2000.
   - The FFCC centennial exhibit was featured at Chicago O'Hare Airport from December through March 2001, reaching hundreds of thousands of international visitors.
   - FFCC was a lead participant in centennial pavilions at the Sun 'n Fun (Lakeland, Florida) and Oshkosh (Wisconsin) air shows and the AirVenture Race from Manteo to Oshkosh, reaching nearly one million people over two years.

- FFCC's 1600 square-foot exhibit, winner of the Governor's Award, educated visitors at both the Mountain State Fair and the NC State Fair in Raleigh during years of record attendance.
- The covers of the 2003 aeronautical charts, airports guide, and state map and the NC Travel Guide (approximate distribution of 1 million copies nationally) will feature the centennial.
- Outer Banks Tourist Bureau's multi-million dollar advertising campaigns over next 3 years.
- Multi-state advertorial (advertising plus editorial) campaign with tabloid supplements on North Carolina's quality of life, role in the first flight, aviation and historic sites, and centennial programs and events.

2. EDUCATION: Create interest and understanding, especially for students and teachers, about our state's role and the resultant worldwide legacy of the events of 1903. This will happen through:
   - International symposium in Raleigh, featuring major speakers, October 22-25 2001.
   - Parallel teacher/student symposium in October 2001, co-sponsored with NASA and NC Space Grant Consortium, to help teachers develop a "flight plan" of lessons for 2001-2003.
   - Centennial Schools program for all NC schools, including annual Centennial Teacher of the Year Award for best classroom project on aviation.
   - Class of 2003: 35 high school students from across NC who come together annually with their Ohio counterparts and who serve throughout the year as centennial ambassadors in local activities like library reading programs in their communities.
   - NASA program with DPI to link all NASA educational resources on the centennial of flight and aviation to NC curriculum standards.
   - NASA-Connect feature of the First Flight Elementary School on an aviation program downlinked to 1600 elementary schools throughout the NASA network.
   - Educational outreach: Working with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, FAA, NASA, US Centennial of Flight Commission, NC Public Libraries, NC Symphony, NC Museums, Tar Heel Junior Historians, NC School for Science and Math to commit their educational programs to themes of aviation and North Carolina in 2002-2004 school years.
   - Air Force Association and programs with similar organizations to honor and preserve the memory of veterans who flew in service to the United States.
   - Aviation Maintenance Careers Commission, with broad-based industry endorsement, to promote opportunities in aviation maintenance as a career.

3. CELEBRATION: Create a celebratory/commemorative program whereby the state's residents as well as visitors from around the world will benefit directly and indirectly.
   - From December 17, 2002 through December 17, 2003:
     - A statewide celebratory program – First Flight Day – that will involve each of the 80 public airports and their local communities.
     - A statewide program to create centennial displays in exhibit spaces (museums, community centers, courthouses, libraries) in communities across North Carolina.
     - At least one significant event each month to take place at different sites across the state (detailed in this report under Scheduled Events).
     - Compelling travel programs and tours to revisit and explore those places in NC where the Wright brothers experimented and lived, as well as more recent locations of aviation and historical interest.

- Week of December 13-21, 2003 and December 17 celebration
  - An extensive program developed in conjunction with key centennial stakeholders, to include both WBNM-site and surrounding area activities such as major commemorative speakers, aerial displays and flyovers from every branch of the military and additional non-military groups, fireworks, festival of flight, static displays, educational exhibits, themed days of celebration (military, industry, general aviation), etc.
  - Statewide, national and international extensions from Kitty Hawk to celebrate at key aviation sites throughout the world.

- National commemorative initiatives that will enhance the North Carolina celebrations include
  - Commemorative postage stamp
  - NASA 2003 Mars explorer missions
  - National Air & Space Museum dedication of the new Dulles wing
  - Federal Centennial of Flight Commission's national programs
  - US Mint commemorative coin to be released in 2003

4. LEGACY: Plan the centennial to ensure that North Carolina's profile at home and abroad will be significantly enhanced beyond 2003.
   - Tourism development: The investment in 2003-related tourism activities will be returned in the form of increased visitation to North Carolina, generating new tourism expenditures and direct state and local revenues. The plan is to build on the existing tourism and cultural assets in North Carolina; expand cooperative marketing partnerships and communications programs; and add new tourism products that complement the current offerings.
   - Economic development: The centennial of flight will bring economic development benefits to all regions of the state by highlighting and giving national and international exposure to North Carolina's distinctive assets, including its unique cultural and historic treasures and its tradition of hospitality – after all, the Wright brothers came to Kitty Hawk because they were invited, and they returned throughout the years. The centennial anniversary will feature North Carolina in all publications, involve North Carolina companies in outreach activities, involve foreign businesses both in the state and abroad, and attract national and international aviation, aerospace, engineering, technological and military business conferences and conventions to North Carolina during 2003.
   - Special publications are in the production stages to add to the body of information about the Wright brothers, the achievement of flight, and the subsequent 100 years of aviation, and the future of aeronautics and astronautics.
   - Video productions are underway to document a variety of interesting angles generated by the centennial anniversary of flight
   - Special aviation heritage trails will be established in North Carolina, along a corridor from Maryland to Kitty Hawk, and from North Carolina to Dayton Ohio.
   - Plans are underway to establish a North Carolina Aviation Hall of Fame to honor the state's aviation pioneers and heroes
   - Commissioning new works of art: Inviting North Carolina artists as well as those from around the world to celebrate the centennial by creating new works of sculpture, art and literature, and new performing arts productions, such as a First Flight Symphony.

SCHEDULED PROGRAMS AND EVENTS:

- Major international symposium and parallel teacher/student symposium in 2001
- Special enhanced celebrations on December 16-17, 2001
- Launch of centennial year on December 17 2002
- 2003: January: World Premiere of First Flight Symphony
- February: Celebration of the contributions of African American aviators
- March: Celebration of the contributions of women in aviation
- April: North Carolina extensions of the Aviation World's Fair, Hampton VA
- May: Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003
  Charlotte: NASCAR air show at Lowe's Motor Speedway
- June: DOT's World Flight 2003
  Paris Air Show
- July: Celebration in Dayton Ohio at July 4th Exposition
- August through November: Airport community days, centennial exhibits across the state, media tabloids with concurrent centennial commemorations in cities nationwide
- November: Veterans Day celebrations honoring military aviators
- December: Centennial anniversary celebrations throughout North Carolina with national and international extensions

Ongoing throughout the year: State Fairs; major educational conferences in science, history, math and technology; publicity via editorials, speakers bureau, marketing partnerships, major centennial pavilions at annual air shows, and a variety of centennial events at the local community, statewide, national and international levels.

LOGISTICS:

The Commission knows that an international event of this caliber and duration will bring a host of visitors to all parts of North Carolina, and is developing a multi-modal transportation plan. Aspects include:

- DOT Division of Aviation has commissioned an Air Transportation Study to inventory aviation and community data, develop forecasts to predict the amount of air traffic in 2003, evaluate the existing NC aviation system's ability to manage the air traffic, recommend solutions and determine cost estimates for implementing the 2003 air traffic plan.
- FAA regional steering committee meets quarterly to review all aviation-related plans and events for appropriate approvals and planning, including the provision of temporary control towers, radar and other facilities.
- Representatives from the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety (e.g., Emergency Management Services, the Highway Patrol, the Civil Air Patrol and the National Guard) and the Department of Transportation (ground and aviation coordinators), as well as personnel from the Department of Commerce (tourism, statewide travel and visitors centers, NE NC Partnership) are developing an operations plan.
- Dare County and the Commission have formed integrated local planning teams with the county and municipality planners, sheriffs' offices, fire chief, and other logistical and public safety personnel from throughout the region.
- The National Park Service has hired a special events coordinator at the Wright Brothers National Memorial dedicated to the centennial anniversary; a logistical team from the regional headquarters is working with the Commission on all aspects of site involvement.

MARKETING and FINANCES:
A fully integrated marketing and promotions plan is generating widespread awareness of the importance of North Carolina's role in the first flight and a desire to be involved in the celebrations. The Commission expended its biennial appropriation for 1999-2001 in setting up offices in Raleigh and at the Outer Banks; hiring a time-limited full-time staff; participating in statewide, national and international events; developing and distributing educational materials to schoolteachers and students; preparing for an international symposium in Raleigh in 2001; creating promotional materials, traveling exhibits and a website; and planning the centennial 2003 events. An overview of expenditures is attached.

Preliminary estimates approximate the need from the state for $1.6 million in 2001-2002 and $3 million in 2002-2003. These expenditures are for additional critical time-limited positions (media, volunteer, communications and transportation coordinators), aggressive web-based and promotional marketing, the international symposium, educational outreach programs, expanded satellite office operations at Dare County in 2003, and national and international events. (By comparison, the Inventing Flight-Dayton 2003 projected expenditures are in the $30 - $50 million range.) A chart of allocated expenditures for 1999-2003 is attached.

The actual costs of North Carolina's celebration will exceed the amount requested from the General Assembly. It is clear that significant public and private financial support will be required to realize the potential benefit of the commemoration of the first flight. The Commission is acutely aware of the fiscal problems in North Carolina, and has expanded its application for resources to the following:

- Private fund raising from individuals and educational foundations
- Corporate contributions
- Promotional partnerships with NC and national tourism partners
- Endorsements and commercial commemorative partnerships
- Revenues from merchandise and e-commerce, expected to be generated in 2003
- Continued support from the NC General Assembly
- Support from the federal government
- Local government support
- Support from foreign participants in the celebration

Additionally, the Commission has acquired and will increasingly acquire in-kind contributions from numerous sources. These contributions, for services ranging from printing to promotions, from aerial resources to avionic website pages, from cargo airline assistance to volunteer expertise, will eventually amount to millions in dollar-value to the centennial celebration. An inventory of in-kind contributions is on file at the FFCC for an end-of-project economic impact statement.

PARTNERS and VOLUNTEER LEADERSHIP:
The Commission is forging many partnerships with other centennial affiliated groups in order to leverage resources and awareness and create a centennial year that is truly greater than the sum of its parts. Volunteer leadership is a key part of building effective partnerships. In addition to the 28 Commissioners from around the nation who serve on the First Flight Centennial Commission, leaders from the legislative and executive branches of state government, from state agencies and cultural organizations, and from the public and private sectors have joined the Commission's planning efforts. The focus of the volunteers and staff has been to identify and enlist partners – individuals and civic, cultural and business organizations – throughout North Carolina and the nation to join the centennial planning efforts. In addition to those listed earlier in this report, some of our partners and volunteer leader groups are listed on the following chart.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 10, 2001

8:30 A.M.

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Tuesday April 10, 2001 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Mitchell Setzer, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson. Michele Nelson from the fiscal staff was also present.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. He introduced the Pages Sarah Edwards from Fayetteville, Representative Morris's district and Dara Gould from Cary, Senator Carrington's district.

The Department of Cultural Resources continued their presentation from April 9, 2001 with opening remarks from Lizbeth Evans. Ms. Evans introduced Deloris Harrell, Executive Director of the Roanoke Island Commission. Ms. Harrell began her presentation on page 109 of the Cultural Resources handout. (attachment 1) She reviewed the history, and the report.

Ms. Harrell said there is a Total Year-round staff of 32. The handout on page 110 lists 34. In explanation to the discrepancy, it was noted that there are two previous SBA positions at the site.

Ms. Harrell said she wanted to emphasize the importance of partnering. With the Lost Colony outdoor drama, the NC Acquarium, and the Elizabethan Gardens on Roanoke Island it has help tremendously to cut advertising cost. This is one way that Cultural Resouces reduces cost.

Senator Kinnard praised the Cultural Resources Department. She said that through volunteers, it probably has ten times more unpaid people working for it than any other department. There were no further questions. Senator Warren thanked Ms. Harrell and the other staff members present.

The next agenda item was First Flight. It begins on page 116 of the handout. (attachment 2). Senator Warren recognized former Senator Russell Walker who made the opening remarks. He said we have an important upcoming historic project in North Carolina; in 2003 it will be a hundred years since the first flight took place on the outer banks. It is important that we have a real celebration because the first flight changed the world and brought the nations together and to make it a smaller world. A small staff has been formed and the work has begun. The staff is going out and making contacts with people across the nation. On Dec 17, 1903 the first flight was made which was a short flight of just a few seconds or minutes. Other flights followed of longer duration and the Wright Brothers made the first airplane to fly with man at the controls.

Two people who have worked hard to get the celebration going are Jim Trotter at the General Assembly who worked with the budget director for support and Kay Carrington who worked gratis for many long hours. The staff is working hard to get the structure together and the infrastructure to handle the people and airplanes that we believe will be coming from many places.

Senator Walker concluded his remarks by introducing Kathryn Holten the Executive Director for First Flight and praised her for her excellent accomplishments. Ms.Holten reviewed in some detail the report of The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission which is page 116 – 124. (attachment 2).

In answer to Senator Kinnaird's question regarding Federal Funds to help finance the celebration, Ms. Holten said, that mostly, the Federal Funds come through the National Park Service that help First Flight. Also, we are working with Congressman Ethridge on the Educational bills. We have not gotten any lump sum grants except through the FAA for DOT to do an air transportation study and to the National Park Service for an Aviation Theme Study throughout the state. Corporations plus First Flight Centennial has a 4.5 million dollar campaign underway for improvements to the site.

Representative Barefoot commented on the possibility of federal support. He requested that the First Flight Commission ask our congressional delegation for a direct appropriation to help with the celebration. He suggested that they sit down with all twelve representatives and both senators and tell them the importance of what is going on. He explained that one of the first contracts signed with the Wright Brothers was the United States Government and our government has benefited more from what took place at Kill Devil Hills than any other entity to the world. He said he thinks it would behoove the United States Government to help fund this thing and not put it all on the backs of the state of NC.

Ms. Holten replied that the First Flight Commission would take this suggestion seriously. She thinks they have a good possibility of strong support because Former President Bush was at the dedication of the monument in 1998 and is very dedicated to the First Flight project, and perhaps now we can get both current President Bush and his father involved.

Senator Harris asked about the major airlines being involved. Ms. Holten said they are working with both the airports and airlines to get them involved. For instance in getting information in the seat back pockets and in getting actual cash contributions.

Senator Kinnaird asked are we in competition with Ohio for federal money and airline money and everybody else? Ms. Holten replied, yes, but there is also cooperation. Ohio is using the Centennial Celebration for the revitalization of downtown Dayton. The two marketing groups will meet to do what can be done together and to see what needs to be done separately.

The committee members praised the First Flight for the good work they are doing in getting the celebration underway. This was the end of the First Flight presentation.

The next agenda item is North Carolina Symphony. Mr. David Worters is not present but Mrs. Renee Vance from The office of the Secretary is present and will start with her presentation.

The meeting continued with The Office of the Secretary presentation with Renee Vance. Ms. Vance reviewed the section of the handout beginning on page 20. (attachment 3).

Representative Sherrill made a request for the exact cost of the Governor's Business Council on the Arts and Humanities. Ms. Vance said it was very small, but would be glad to bring it back.

David Worters President and CEO of the North Carolina Symphony arrived. Ms. Vance deferred to him and will continue her presentation at this afternoon's meeting.

Mr. Worters presentation begins on page 73 of the handout. (attachement 4).
Mr. Worters began by apologizing for being late. He was unavoidably detained.
He continued the meeting with a review the handout material.

The committee members commended the NC Symphony. There was some discussion about statewide scheduling. It was noted that this is the first and only continually state supported symphony in the country. There are 64 full time musicians and would like for it to be up to 80. What are the prospects of that in the future? "The important challenge facing us artistically is money." The musicians are on full time salary which is necessary to attract the caliber of musicians that we need. With the hope of getting some new positions funded through endowment, donors of 1.25 million dollars is needed. He is fairly optimistic about making a reasonable dent in the current needs. The first 10 positions will be strings and then slowly start adding triple winds. In response to Representative Adams question about the percentage of private funding, private support has been about 30% of the budget in the past and is now it is about 70% privately funded.

Representative Sherrill asked about the bullet on page 76 that talks about the possibility of High School students to take music lessons from Symphony professionals. Mr. Worters said that the musicians work in the community in several ways. The musicians teach talented students on a flexible schedule, take extra gigs here and there, and work with ensembles. This is not an open market for musicians and they take advantage of whatever they can and it is helpful to the community.

There was no further discussion, Senator Warren thanked Mr. Worters for his presentation.

The meeting is adjourned.

The next meeting will be at 1:00pm today. Senator Harris will chair.

Respectfully submitted,

Senator Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

Roanoke Island Commission

DCR109

THE ROANOKE ISLAND COMMISSION, an independent commission situated within the NC Department of Cultural Resources for historic resource management, organizational and budgetary purposes was established by legislation in 1994 under GS 141B-131.1. The 24-member Commission was created to protect, preserve, develop and interpret the historical and cultural assets of Roanoke Island, the birthplace of English speaking America. The Commission is legislatively associated with the North Carolina Department of Transportation for the Roanoke Voyages Corridor established by legislation in 1982. The Corridor is funded by DOT.

HISTORY: In 1984, the nation celebrated the 400th anniversary of the Roanoke Voyages and the first English colony in the New World. The State of North Carolina lead that celebration with the opening of a 24-acre state site which included a 69-foot representative 16th century sailing vessel, the ELIZABETH II. The Roanoke Voyages Corridor was also established as part of this permanent memorial. With these actions, North Carolina marked its place in history not unlike Jamestown or Colonial Williamsburg.

In 1988: The Outer Banks History Center, a 6,200 sq. ft. public research library and manuscript repository was opened by the Division of Archives and History

In 1998: The site expanded to include an 8,500 sq. ft. museum, a 238 seat film theatre, an art gallery/meeting space, an outdoor performance pavilion with lawn seating for 3,000, a maintenance facility, a museum store and marsh side boardwalks.

The Roanoke Island Institute of the North Carolina School of the Arts unveiled its premiere season with 45 performances of music, dance and drama.

The Commission requested and was awarded a parcel determined to be surplus by DOT at the foot of the Wright Memorial Bridge for future public water transportation from the northern beaches.

A cooperative agreement was initiated between the Commission, the NC Maritime Museum and the Town of Manteo to establish a working boat shop to begin the NC Maritime Museum on Roanoke Island.

In 1999: A dormitory housing facility was constructed for seasonal staff and performers vital for housing in this resort area.

A cooperative effort was established with WUNC Public Radio enabling the beginning of public radio in this region through use of a Festival Park space.

In 2000:

Preservation funds were sought and efforts were successful to acquire 130 acres, primarily wetlands, adjacent to this state site to protect and preserve natural resources in perpetuity.

The Commission initiated action to protect the entrance to Roanoke Island through options to acquire land with transfer to the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

Grant funds were sought and awarded to the Commission and the Roanoke Voyages Corridor Committee to remove remaining billboards on Roanoke Island.

An overdue restoration of the Elizabeth II was accomplished.

Since 1984 over 2 million visitors have celebrated our state and national history at this heritage site.

The Friends of Elizabeth II, Inc., a 501c3 non-profit organization, has worked to support the programs of this state site since its inception.

The Roanoke Island Festival Park Internet address is: www.roanokeisland.com

When the Roanoke Island Commission became responsible for this state site in 1994, the site had experienced numerous budget cuts and personnel reductions that had caused it to be in a state of disrepair. For that reason it is the long-term goal of the Commission to make this state site self-sustaining. In 1994, the Commission established an endowment fund requiring 25% (*) of all revenues to be applied; that fund is currently $1,184,114.

Additional fund growth has been possible during this period due to:

- Savings in salary expense when construction completion was delayed
- Retained admissions
- Non-reversion of fund balances

It is important to note the current appropriation budget is on-target for the actual costs of operating the site.

Please note: the Roanoke Island Historical Association, a non-profit organization that produces "The Lost Colony" outdoor drama is a separate entity with no budgetary ties to the Commission.

The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission
Countdown to 2003: www.firstflightnc.com

- The First Flight Centennial Commission (FFCC) was established by the NC General Assembly to plan programs and activities in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Wright brothers' first flight.

- Goal: To make the world aware of North Carolina's role in the first flight and the subsequent 100 years of aviation, and to invite the world to share the celebration with us.

- Programs: Public awareness, educational outreach, and a statewide and yearlong series of celebrations and commemorations that involve business, the arts, the military, communications, transportation, aerospace and humanitarian flight.

- Partnerships are many, including the Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003, National Park Service, NASA, FAA, Smithsonian, US Centennial of Flight Commission, Dayton Ohio, Canada's National Aviation Museum, Experimental Aircraft Association, American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, corporations and aviation organizations.

- Major commemorative achievements to date:
  - Restoration and rededication of the Wright Brothers National Memorial monument
  - B-2 bomber named the Spirit of Kitty Hawk
  - Annual North Carolina and Ohio Class of 2003 summer educational programs
  - Centennial Schools program statewide with annual Centennial Teacher of the Year Award
  - US Mint release of the NC quarter with the Daniels photograph of the first flight
  - Travelling exhibit of NC's first flight displayed to hundreds of thousands at museums, NC State Fairs, Sun 'n Fun, Oshkosh Fly-in, Chicago O'Hare airport
  - International Symposium, They Taught the World to Fly, Oct. 22-25, 2001

- Plans for 2003 will put North Carolina in the international spotlight:
  - Major conventions, conferences and exhibitions brought to North Carolina
  - Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003, Memorial Day
  - NASCAR world record fly-over, Lowe's Motor Speedway
  - State travel guide, state map, airports guide, all to feature the first flight
  - Yearlong program to draw visitors to aviation sites throughout NC
  - World premiere of a First Flight Symphony with educational program

- Special advisors to the First Flight Centennial Commission include:
  - General Henry "Hugh" Shelton, Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Military Advisor
  - Col. Edward "Buzz" Aldrin, Aviation Advisor
  - H. Ross Perot, Corporate Advisor

The North Carolina First Flight Centennial Commission
Countdown to 2003: Report to the North Carolina General Assembly

December 17, 1903... With Orville Wright at the controls and his brother Wilbur running alongside, a fragile airplane lifted off the sands of North Carolina's Kill Devil Hills. It flew 120 feet in twelve seconds. The brothers flew three more flights on that cold and windy day, and the world changed forever.

In 2003, North Carolina will proudly host the centennial anniversary of mankind's first successful flight in a powered aircraft and celebrate the subsequent 100 years of aviation. The General Assembly established the First Flight Centennial Commission (FFCC) in 1994 under GS 143-640 to "develop and plan activities to commemorate the centennial of the first successful, manned, controlled, heavier-than-air, powered flight and other historical events related to the development of powered flight." The FFCC is an independent commission with administrative support from the Department of Cultural Resources (DCR). It receives its appropriation through DCR.

The Commission is preparing a statewide, yearlong series of celebrations to be launched on December 17, 2002. It is also developing partnerships for national and international observances. It is already clear that North Carolina will be in the national and international spotlight, drawing many visitors to the Wright Brothers National Memorial, northeastern North Carolina and aviation and historical sites throughout the state. Major events of the year will include national and international figures in commemorative events, major aerial displays and air shows, major media productions, new publications, community airport events, significant educational activities, and commissioned performance and public art. North Carolina will be the ideal venue for national and international conferences and conventions involving business, cultural, educational, heritage, scholarly, aviation, engineering, mechanical, aerospace, technological and other audiences. It will be a year to celebrate North Carolina pride throughout the state.

STRATEGIC PLAN

The Commission has divided its charge from the North Carolina General Assembly into four overlapping phases, summarized as Awareness / Education / Celebration / Legacy. Those phases will find expression through themes in the arts, commerce, military contributions, and humanitarian uses of flight.

1. AWARENESS: Generate positive national and international awareness and celebratory understanding of North Carolina's role in the first successful, manned, controlled, heavier-than-air flight achieved by the Wright brothers on December 17, 1903. Examples are:
   - The centennial website for events and programs, www.firstflightnc.com, was launched on National Aviation Day and has been visited by readers from almost every state and 24 countries.
   - The NC quarter design features the famous Daniels photograph of the first flight. The US Mint will place 750 million quarters in circulation in 2001.
   - Participation in the July 4th Ottawa celebration as guests of U.S. Ambassador Giffin brought exposure to over 5,000 Canadians. The FFCC exhibit was then at the National Aviation Museum in Canada through the summer 2000.
   - The FFCC centennial exhibit was featured at Chicago O'Hare Airport from December through March 2001, reaching hundreds of thousands of international visitors.
   - FFCC was a lead participant in centennial pavilions at the Sun 'n Fun (Lakeland, Florida) and Oshkosh (Wisconsin) air shows and the AirVenture Race from Manteo to Oshkosh, reaching nearly one million people over two years.

- FFCC's 1600 square-foot exhibit, winner of the Governor's Award, educated visitors at both the Mountain State Fair and the NC State Fair in Raleigh during years of record attendance.
- The covers of the 2003 aeronautical charts, airports guide, and state map and the NC Travel Guide (approximate distribution of 1 million copies nationally) will feature the centennial.
- Outer Banks Tourist Bureau's multi-million dollar advertising campaigns over next 3 years.
- Multi-state advertorial (advertising plus editorial) campaign with tabloid supplements on North Carolina's quality of life, role in the first flight, aviation and historic sites, and centennial programs and events.

2. EDUCATION: Create interest and understanding, especially for students and teachers, about our state's role and the resultant worldwide legacy of the events of 1903. This will happen through:
   - International symposium in Raleigh, featuring major speakers, October 22-25 2001.
   - Parallel teacher/student symposium in October 2001, co-sponsored with NASA and NC Space Grant Consortium, to help teachers develop a "flight plan" of lessons for 2001-2003.
   - Centennial Schools program for all NC schools, including annual Centennial Teacher of the Year Award for best classroom project on aviation.
   - Class of 2003: 35 high school students from across NC who come together annually with their Ohio counterparts and who serve throughout the year as centennial ambassadors in local activities like library reading programs in their communities.
   - NASA program with DPI to link all NASA educational resources on the centennial of flight and aviation to NC curriculum standards.
   - NASA-Connect feature of the First Flight Elementary School on an aviation program downlinked to 1600 elementary schools throughout the NASA network.
   - Educational outreach: Working with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, FAA, NASA, US Centennial of Flight Commission, NC Public Libraries, NC Symphony, NC Museums, Tar Heel Junior Historians, NC School for Science and Math to commit their educational programs to themes of aviation and North Carolina in 2002-2004 school years.
   - Air Force Association and programs with similar organizations to honor and preserve the memory of veterans who flew in service to the United States.
   - Aviation Maintenance Careers Commission, with broad-based industry endorsement, to promote opportunities in aviation maintenance as a career.

3. CELEBRATION: Create a celebratory/commemorative program whereby the state's residents as well as visitors from around the world will benefit directly and indirectly.
   - From December 17, 2002 through December 17, 2003:
     - A statewide celebratory program – First Flight Day – that will involve each of the 80 public airports and their local communities.
     - A statewide program to create centennial displays in exhibit spaces (museums, community centers, courthouses, libraries) in communities across North Carolina.
     - At least one significant event each month to take place at different sites across the state (detailed in this report under Scheduled Events).
     - Compelling travel programs and tours to revisit and explore those places in NC where the Wright brothers experimented and lived, as well as more recent locations of aviation and historical interest.

- Week of December 13-21, 2003 and December 17 celebration
  - An extensive program developed in conjunction with key centennial stakeholders, to include both WBNM-site and surrounding area activities such as major commemorative speakers, aerial displays and flyovers from every branch of the military and additional non-military groups, fireworks, festival of flight, static displays, educational exhibits, themed days of celebration (military, industry, general aviation), etc.
  - Statewide, national and international extensions from Kitty Hawk to celebrate at key aviation sites throughout the world.

- National commemorative initiatives that will enhance the North Carolina celebrations include
  - Commemorative postage stamp
  - NASA 2003 Mars explorer missions
  - National Air & Space Museum dedication of the new Dulles wing
  - Federal Centennial of Flight Commission's national programs
  - US Mint commemorative coin to be released in 2003

4. LEGACY: Plan the centennial to ensure that North Carolina's profile at home and abroad will be significantly enhanced beyond 2003.
   - Tourism development: The investment in 2003-related tourism activities will be returned in the form of increased visitation to North Carolina, generating new tourism expenditures and direct state and local revenues. The plan is to build on the existing tourism and cultural assets in North Carolina; expand cooperative marketing partnerships and communications programs; and add new tourism products that complement the current offerings.
   - Economic development: The centennial of flight will bring economic development benefits to all regions of the state by highlighting and giving national and international exposure to North Carolina's distinctive assets, including its unique cultural and historic treasures and its tradition of hospitality – after all, the Wright brothers came to Kitty Hawk because they were invited, and they returned throughout the years. The centennial anniversary will feature North Carolina in all publications, involve North Carolina companies in outreach activities, involve foreign businesses both in the state and abroad, and attract national and international aviation, aerospace, engineering, technological and military business conferences and conventions to North Carolina during 2003.
   - Special publications are in the production stages to add to the body of information about the Wright brothers, the achievement of flight, and the subsequent 100 years of aviation, and the future of aeronautics and astronautics.
   - Video productions are underway to document a variety of interesting angles generated by the centennial anniversary of flight
   - Special aviation heritage trails will be established in North Carolina, along a corridor from Maryland to Kitty Hawk, and from North Carolina to Dayton Ohio.
   - Plans are underway to establish a North Carolina Aviation Hall of Fame to honor the state's aviation pioneers and heroes
   - Commissioning new works of art: Inviting North Carolina artists as well as those from around the world to celebrate the centennial by creating new works of sculpture, art and literature, and new performing arts productions, such as a First Flight Symphony.

SCHEDULED PROGRAMS AND EVENTS:

- Major international symposium and parallel teacher/student symposium in 2001
- Special enhanced celebrations on December 16-17, 2001
- Launch of centennial year on December 17 2002
- 2003: January: World Premiere of First Flight Symphony
- February: Celebration of the contributions of African American aviators
- March: Celebration of the contributions of women in aviation
- April: North Carolina extensions of the Aviation World's Fair, Hampton VA
- May: Fayetteville Festival of Flight 2003
  Charlotte: NASCAR air show at Lowe's Motor Speedway
- June: DOT's World Flight 2003
  Paris Air Show
- July: Celebration in Dayton Ohio at July 4th Exposition
- August through November: Airport community days, centennial exhibits across the state, media tabloids with concurrent centennial commemorations in cities nationwide
- November: Veterans Day celebrations honoring military aviators
- December: Centennial anniversary celebrations throughout North Carolina with national and international extensions

Ongoing throughout the year: State Fairs; major educational conferences in science, history, math and technology; publicity via editorials, speakers bureau, marketing partnerships, major centennial pavilions at annual air shows, and a variety of centennial events at the local community, statewide, national and international levels.

LOGISTICS:

The Commission knows that an international event of this caliber and duration will bring a host of visitors to all parts of North Carolina, and is developing a multi-modal transportation plan. Aspects include:

- DOT Division of Aviation has commissioned an Air Transportation Study to inventory aviation and community data, develop forecasts to predict the amount of air traffic in 2003, evaluate the existing NC aviation system's ability to manage the air traffic, recommend solutions and determine cost estimates for implementing the 2003 air traffic plan.
- FAA regional steering committee meets quarterly to review all aviation-related plans and events for appropriate approvals and planning, including the provision of temporary control towers, radar and other facilities.
- Representatives from the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety (e.g., Emergency Management Services, the Highway Patrol, the Civil Air Patrol and the National Guard) and the Department of Transportation (ground and aviation coordinators), as well as personnel from the Department of Commerce (tourism, statewide travel and visitors centers, NE NC Partnership) are developing an operations plan.
- Dare County and the Commission have formed integrated local planning teams with the county and municipality planners, sheriffs' offices, fire chief, and other logistical and public safety personnel from throughout the region.
- The National Park Service has hired a special events coordinator at the Wright Brothers National Memorial dedicated to the centennial anniversary; a logistical team from the regional headquarters is working with the Commission on all aspects of site involvement.

MARKETING and FINANCES:
A fully integrated marketing and promotions plan is generating widespread awareness of the importance of North Carolina's role in the first flight and a desire to be involved in the celebrations. The Commission expended its biennial appropriation for 1999-2001 in setting up offices in Raleigh and at the Outer Banks; hiring a time-limited full-time staff; participating in statewide, national and international events; developing and distributing educational materials to schoolteachers and students; preparing for an international symposium in Raleigh in 2001; creating promotional materials, traveling exhibits and a website; and planning the centennial 2003 events. An overview of expenditures is attached.

Preliminary estimates approximate the need from the state for $1.6 million in 2001-2002 and $3 million in 2002-2003. These expenditures are for additional critical time-limited positions (media, volunteer, communications and transportation coordinators), aggressive web-based and promotional marketing, the international symposium, educational outreach programs, expanded satellite office operations at Dare County in 2003, and national and international events. (By comparison, the Inventing Flight-Dayton 2003 projected expenditures are in the $30 - $50 million range.) A chart of allocated expenditures for 1999-2003 is attached.

The actual costs of North Carolina's celebration will exceed the amount requested from the General Assembly. It is clear that significant public and private financial support will be required to realize the potential benefit of the commemoration of the first flight. The Commission is acutely aware of the fiscal problems in North Carolina, and has expanded its application for resources to the following:

- Private fund raising from individuals and educational foundations
- Corporate contributions
- Promotional partnerships with NC and national tourism partners
- Endorsements and commercial commemorative partnerships
- Revenues from merchandise and e-commerce, expected to be generated in 2003
- Continued support from the NC General Assembly
- Support from the federal government
- Local government support
- Support from foreign participants in the celebration

Additionally, the Commission has acquired and will increasingly acquire in-kind contributions from numerous sources. These contributions, for services ranging from printing to promotions, from aerial resources to avionic website pages, from cargo airline assistance to volunteer expertise, will eventually amount to millions in dollar-value to the centennial celebration. An inventory of in-kind contributions is on file at the FFCC for an end-of-project economic impact statement.

PARTNERS and VOLUNTEER LEADERSHIP:
The Commission is forging many partnerships with other centennial affiliated groups in order to leverage resources and awareness and create a centennial year that is truly greater than the sum of its parts. Volunteer leadership is a key part of building effective partnerships. In addition to the 28 Commissioners from around the nation who serve on the First Flight Centennial Commission, leaders from the legislative and executive branches of state government, from state agencies and cultural organizations, and from the public and private sectors have joined the Commission's planning efforts. The focus of the volunteers and staff has been to identify and enlist partners – individuals and civic, cultural and business organizations – throughout North Carolina and the nation to join the centennial planning efforts. In addition to those listed earlier in this report, some of our partners and volunteer leader groups are listed on the following chart.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The Office of the Secretary

The Office of the Secretary directs the operations of the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. In addition to administrative matters, the office oversees budget, administrative planning/policy development-related activities, operations, legislative matters, public information services, personnel, and capital projects. The Office of the Secretary oversees six divisions in the department: Archives and History, North Carolina Museum of Art, North Carolina Arts Council, North Carolina Symphony, State Library of North Carolina, and the North Carolina Museum of History. The Office of the Secretary coordinates appointments to appropriate boards and commission. The Deputy Secretary serves as the legislative liaison for the department.

The Secretary's Office oversees several awards program. The North Carolina Awards were instituted by the North Carolina General Assembly in 1961. The North Carolina Awards recognize "notable accomplishments by North Carolina citizens in the fields of scholarship, research, the fine arts, and public leadership." It is the highest honor the State can bestow.

The Governor's Business Council on the Arts and Humanities presents the Governor's Business Awards each year. The awards are given to North Carolina businesses that have conducted or participated in innovative projects to promote the arts and/or humanities. Cultural organizations that have promoted innovative business support of the arts and humanities are also eligible for awards. This awards program was established in 1978.

The Office of the Secretary's budget (Fund # 1110) includes the following units: Capital Projects Unit, Public Affairs Office, and the Human Resources Office. The Administrative Services Office (Budget Office) is budgeted separately under Fund # 1120 and a separate description of this office follows.

Administrative Services Section

The Administrative Services Section provides budgeting, accounting, data processing, purchasing, and payroll services to all divisions within the Department of Cultural Resources. The section assures the fiscal and audit accountability of all state, federal, and private funds entrusted to the department. The total recommended operating budget for the Department of Cultural Resources for FY 2001-2003 is $73.9 million
The Administrative Services Section is divided into the following four units: Administration, Budget and Accounting, Purchasing, and Computer Operations.

The Administration unit is responsible for:

- administration and oversight of all financial and business affairs in the Department of Cultural Resources
- planning and organizing all assignments to meet departmental goals and objectives while maintaining compliance with all federal and state laws and guidelines
- implementation of programs within statutory or policy/procedure limitations
- providing information and resources to every level of the department and state government
- administration of all departmental travel reimbursements and authorizations
- authorization and initiation of budget requests to Office of State Budget, Planning and Management (OSBPM)
- oversight of preparation of the department's biennial budget (continuation, expansion, capital)
- management of budget adjustments

The Budget and Accounting unit is responsible for:

- preparation of the department's biennial budget (continuation, expansion, capital, supplemental)
- preparation of financial statements for Office of State Controller (OSC)
- submission of budget revisions to Office of State Budget and Management
- submission of IRS forms
- requests for quarterly allotments
- reports to Office of State Auditor (OSA) on grants to private organizations
- administration of federal grants from U.S. Department of Education, U.S. Department of the Interior (National Park Service), National Endowment for the Arts, National Endowment for the Humanities, and National Historical Publications and Records Commission
- preparation of the indirect cost rate allowed for each federal grant
- management of State Treasurer Account by daily, monthly and quarterly revisions of general fund cash requirements and receipts
- management of employee benefits
- reporting of sales and use tax

Administrative Services, Budget and Accounting unit, continued

- administration of state telephone network operation
- administration of petty cash fund
- operation of employee transportation including parking and Motor Fleet Management leases
- management of accounts payable (1200-1600 checks written per month)
- management of accounts receivable
- maintenance of permanent and temporary payrolls
- control of fixed asset system

The Purchasing Unit is responsible for:

- procurement of goods and services for departmental operations (approximately $3 million per year in expenditures)
- coordination with Division of Facility Management for building maintenance and repair
- management of central supply store
- mail distribution
- disposition of surplus property

The Computer Operations unit is responsible for:

- operation of the departmental minicomputer facility, serving 650 users and over 50 applications, as well as public access terminals for the State Library and State Archives
- serving as representative on the state Information Resource Management Commission (IRMC)
- training department staff in the operation of microcomputer hardware and software

NORTH CAROLINA SYMPHONY

PART 1 - SYMPHONY OVERVIEW

The mission of the North Carolina Symphony is to present an orchestra of the highest artistic standard that enriches, entertains, and educates diverse audiences in a variety of settings and represents North Carolina as a leader in performance and music education.

Formed in 1932 under the direction of Lamar Stringfield, the North Carolina Symphony served as a WPA project in the 1930s and then in the 1940s became the first orchestra to receive state funding on a continuous basis. Under the 33-year leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swalin, the Symphony began its grassroots emphasis of taking the orchestra to the people of the state. That tradition has continued every year since the 1943 "Horn Tootin' Bill" was passed by the State Legislature and it continues today.

- The North Carolina Symphony is the 30th largest orchestra organization in the country; however, it is singularly unique in two respects:

  1) its commitment to statewide service
  2) its dedication to the musical education of public school children

- Each season, the North Carolina Symphony performs approximately 175 full-orchestra concerts for adults and children across the state. Nearly two-thirds of its performances take place outside the Triangle. Each season, the Symphony visits between 30 and 40 counties across the state, performing for more than a quarter-million individuals.

  No other orchestra in America serves its state to the extent the North Carolina Symphony does. Comparing to the 120 annual North Carolina Symphony performances outside of the Triangle, the next-most "statewide" orchestra in America (the Syracuse Symphony) performs only 45 performances annually outside its home base.

  Orchestra travels approximately 20,000 miles a season throughout the state of North Carolina

2 EAST SOUTH STREET RALEIGH NC 27601 TEL 919-733-2750 FAX 919-733-9920 WWW.NCSYMPHONY.ORG

- The Symphony performs between 45 and 65 full-orchestra music education concerts for school children throughout North Carolina. (See attachment for 2000-01 Educational Concert Schedule.) Between 60,000 and 100,000 school children are served each season. In 2000, the Symphony added two new positions: a composer-in-residence and an assistant conductor. Both of these positions have added renewed vitality the Symphony's music education programs.

- In February 2001, the Symphony opens a new concert hall, Meymandi Concert Hall at the BTI Center for the Performing Arts in Raleigh. The new concert hall is anticipated to be the finest performance venue in the southeast, possibly rivaling Boston's Symphony Hall and Vienna's Musikverein. The new hall will allow for major programmatic expansion, including a longer series, a new chamber orchestra series, a recital series, and opportunities for artistic partnerships with other organizations around the state.

  The General Assembly dedicated $3 million toward the $38 million cost of the BTI Center for the Performing Arts. State funds were used to enhance the acoustical quality of Meymandi Concert Hall, the new home of the North Carolina Symphony.

- In June 2001, the Symphony opens a new outdoor facility in Cary at Regency Park. The new facility will raise the profile and excellence of the Symphony's Summerfest series that serves 20,000 annually.

- 2001-02 marks the 20th anniversary of Music Director Gerhardt Zimmermann. The milestone will be observed with special programming, including the premiere performances of five new orchestral works.

- Approximate annual attendance is 300,000

- The Symphony has 64 full-time musicians. (Most orchestras of the Symphony's size have about 80. Finances permitting, the Symphony's Board of Trustees desires to bring this number up to the more ideal number.)

PART II - FINANCIAL

In the early 1980s, State funding was approximately 70% of the operating budget, with 30% coming from the private sector. In 1984, a subcommittee asked the Symphony to make significant changes in the percentage of funding in order to reduce public funding and increase private funding. The Symphony has worked very hard to accomplish this, and as of 2000-01 those percentages have reversed. Today, private sector funding has been increased to 71% of the budget with only 29% coming from state funding.

PART III - MUSIC EDUCATION OVERVIEW

The North Carolina Symphony has one of the most extensive music education programs of any orchestra in the United States. These concerts are part of the schools' music education curriculum and music teachers help to write and present the curriculum to fellow teachers in a unique, yearly workshop.

DCR 76

- Approximately 45 to 65 concerts are given free of admission yearly to school children throughout the state.
- Extensive curriculum development and collateral materials designed each year specifically for the music education program.
- An annual workshop for 350 music education teachers is held to assist them in preparing students for the statewide music education concert programs.
- Symphony annually stages a Youth Concerto Competition.
- Symphony sponsors the Triangle Youth Philharmonic.
- Symphony has established a partnership program to provide students at North Carolina schools and universities an opportunity to perform with the orchestra in rehearsals and concerts. (i.e. North Carolina School for the Arts; Appalachian State University; UNC-Greensboro; East Carolina University; and UNC-Chapel Hill)
- Opportunity for high school students to take music lessons from Symphony professionals.
- Develop adult music education programs for North Carolina citizens through statewide pre-concert lectures and discussions.
- The Symphony is a partner with WUNC (PBS Radio Station at UNC-Chapel Hill) for its composer-in-residence program.
- The Symphony continues to partner with UNC-TV to produce video programming showcasing the instrument families of the Orchestra. These programs are broadcast statewide and distributed to all school systems throughout North Carolina in advance of North Carolina Symphony visits.

APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 10, 2001

1:30 p.m.

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Tuesday April 10, 2001, 1:00 p.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Two of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Mitchell Setzer, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson. Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism from the fiscal staff were also present.

In Senator Warren's absence, Vice-Chair Senator Oscar Harris chaired the meeting. He introduced the Pages: Molly Seamans fromWake County, Representative Rayfield's district; Tiffany Kelley from Wake County, Representative Capps's district; and Shelby Crandal from Raleigh, Senator Eric Reeves's district.

The first agenda item is the North Carolina Museum of Art beginning on page 51 of the Cultural Resources handout. (attachment 1). Mr. Larry Wheeler, Director presented the report. Mr. Wheeler reviewed the written report.

Representative Sherrill asked, how many positions are funded by the government? Mr. Wheeler said there are 140 employees and 92 are funded by the state.

There was discussion concerning the restaurant and other ways in which the museum has income. Mr. Wheeler said that since the Rodin Exhibit the restaurant receipts had significantly decreased.

It was suggested that the museum look into charging a fee for out-of-state people since the museum is state funded, and it is open to the public except for special events at no charge. An example was given that there is a fee for out-of-state people in Virginia and in other states. Mr. Wheeler indicated that this was a good idea to look into.

Representative Barefoot commended the enthusiasm of the leaders. He asked when was the last year the General Assembly appropriated funds. The reply was 1981. Gifts of art and endowments are the way art is obtained without general funds. Senator Allran asked if the General Assembly has appropriated all funds needed. The reply was, "no, not at this time?"

There were no further questions or discussion.

The meeting continued with Renee Vance who presented a portion of the Office of the Secretary's report at the morning meeting today.

Ms. Vance continued her presentation beginning on page 21 and the Span of Control on page 125. (attachment 2) .

There was some general discussion and acknowledgement of a good job. Representative Sherrill asked that there be a discussion at a later date regarding Administration, Archives and History and the Arts Council.

The agenda was concluded and the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting is scheduled for April 11, 2001 at 8:30a.m.

Respectfully Submitted,

Senator Oscar Harris, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

The North Carolina Museum of Art

The North Carolina Museum of Art is a division within the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources and is governed by a 28 member Board of Trustees. Board members are appointed by the Governor, the General Assembly, the Art Society, Museum of Art Foundation Board, and the Board of Trustees.

The North Carolina Museum of Art traces its origin to 1924 when the Art Society of North Carolina was founded with the purpose, "to promote an interest in providing a State Art Museum in Raleigh." In 1929, the General Assembly placed the Art Society under state patronage, which began a tradition of public/private partnership that continues to the present. In its early days, the Art Society began a program of collecting, staging exhibitions and educational programs even before there was a permanent museum. In 1947, North Carolina became the first state in the nation to appropriate public funds for the purchase of works of art to establish a state supported art museum. That first appropriation matched a gift of 75 important works of art given by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation as part of its program of endowing regional museums throughout the United States. Negotiations with Mr. Kress and the Kress Foundation were led by State Senator Robert Lee Humber of Pitt County. Thanks to his efforts, of nearly one hundred institutions receiving art from the great Kress collection, the gift to the North Carolina Museum of Art was the largest and most important of any except that given to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. The Kress gift combined with purchases made with the original legislative appropriation created for the people of North Carolina the most distinguished collection of old master paintings in the southeastern United States, and formed the foundation for today's North Carolina Museum of Art.

The Museum's major responsibilities are well stated in its statutory mission, "...to acquire, preserve, and exhibit works of art for the education and enjoyment of the people of the State, and to conduct programs of education, research, and publication designed to encourage an interest in and an appreciation of art on the part of the people of the State." (G.S. 140-5.12). In keeping with that broad mission, the Museum's program budget objective is "to increase the percentage of visitors who experience an enhanced interest in and appreciation of art...". This is accomplished through a variety of programs focusing on the State's permanent art collection, which consists of thousands of objects spanning over 5,000 years of human history and creative effort. The Museum also brings to North Carolina many special exhibitions of important art treasures from around the world for the educational benefit and enjoyment of the people of our state. Scholarly publications and a full range of classes, workshops, lectures and other programs complement the Museum's educational mission and program objective.

The Museum is an active partner with the state's educational systems. Thousands of school children from all over North Carolina visit the Museum each year and learn about their own culture and about other civilizations through guided tours and other programs. Outreach exhibitions, slide programs, speakers, and teaching materials are also available to schools and other groups in all counties throughout the state. The Museum continues to enhance accessibility to its collections through the use of new technologies such as digital imaging, CD ROM, and the Museum's World Wide Web page (http://ncartmuseum.org). The Museum's conservation department provides consultation and conservation treatment services to other museums and public collections around the state. There is an extensive art reference library available for researchers, and the Museum's curators are available on a regular schedule to consult with citizens about works of art in their own collections.

The Museum of Art regularly receives national and international recognition for its collections, acquisitions, and programs. It has become a major tourist attraction, which draws many visitors from within the state and from beyond its borders each year. A prime example is the hugely successful exhibition of the works of sculptor Auguste Rodin in the summer of 2000 drew over 300,000 visitors from around the nation. According to an economic impact study prepared by UNC-Chapel Hill, the Rodin exhibition contributed over $50 million in direct economic impact to the state. The Museum also contributes to the economic well being of North Carolina by helping to attract business and industry to locate and expand here. When asked why they chose to locate in North Carolina, business leaders will most often cite the state's quality of life, including the cultural environment and its commitment to education. The North Carolina Museum of Art makes strong contributions in these areas.

The Museum is assisted in its mission by two affiliated organizations, The North Carolina Art Society and the Museum of Art Foundation, Inc. As mentioned previously, the Art Society is the predecessor of the Museum. The Art Society is a venerable and distinguished organization, founded in 1924 and under the patronage of the state since 1929. General Statutes provide that the Art Society shall be the membership arm of the North Carolina Museum of Art and continue under state patronage (G.S. 143B-89 and G.S. 140-14). The Art Society also holds the permanent endowment, the Robert F. Phifer Fund. Proceeds from this endowment are used solely for the acquisition of works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. This modest endowment provides the Museum's only reliable source of acquisition funding. There have been no state funds appropriated to add to the Museum's collection since 1985. Consequently, the Museum's holdings of art of the late twentieth century are not in keeping with the strength of the collection in other periods.

The Museum of Art Foundation, Inc. a private, non-profit corporation with tax-exempt status under IRS Code 501(c)(3). The Foundation holds some endowment funds and plays the essential role of operating the Museum's private fundraising efforts. The Foundation accounts for approximately two thirds of the Museum's average annual operating budget. These funds are spent directly by the Foundation on the Museum's behalf to support exhibitions, educational programs, staffing and other operating needs.

In 1997, the Museum's new performing arts facility, the Joseph M. Bryan Theater opened. This amphitheater, designed and built with private funds raised by the Museum of Art Foundation, will enable the North Carolina Museum of Art to offer a full range of performing arts experiences to complement the visual arts found inside the Museum's walls. Also in 1997, the Museum undertook a complete study of its present physical facilities made possible by an appropriation in the 1996 session of the General Assembly. This study directs the planning and programming of enhanced facilities to enable the institution to meet the state's needs well into the future.

In the 2000 session, the General Assembly allocated to the Department of Cultural Resources, for the Museum of Art, the state-owned property formerly occupied by the Polk Youth Correctional Facility. The transfer of this land has given the Museum a unique opportunity to accommodate the huge growth that has already occurred in the institution's programs into a new dynamic space. The Museum will seek to build a new structure to complement the existing building and provide exhibition and public spaces in keeping with the excellence of the Museum's collections and programs. In order to meet this and other challenges of the years ahead, the Museum looks forward to a continuation of the great tradition of partnering private funding with the public support provided by the General Assembly.

The Office of the Secretary

The Office of the Secretary directs the operations of the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. In addition to administrative matters, the office oversees budget, administrative planning/policy development-related activities, operations, legislative matters, public information services, personnel, and capital projects. The Office of the Secretary oversees six divisions in the department: Archives and History, North Carolina Museum of Art, North Carolina Arts Council, North Carolina Symphony, State Library of North Carolina, and the North Carolina Museum of History. The Office of the Secretary coordinates appointments to appropriate boards and commission. The Deputy Secretary serves as the legislative liaison for the department.

The Secretary's Office oversees several awards program. The North Carolina Awards were instituted by the North Carolina General Assembly in 1961. The North Carolina Awards recognize "notable accomplishments by North Carolina citizens in the fields of scholarship, research, the fine arts, and public leadership." It is the highest honor the State can bestow.

The Governor's Business Council on the Arts and Humanities presents the Governor's Business Awards each year. The awards are given to North Carolina businesses that have conducted or participated in innovative projects to promote the arts and/or humanities. Cultural organizations that have promoted innovative business support of the arts and humanities are also eligible for awards. This awards program was established in 1978.

The Office of the Secretary's budget (Fund # 1110) includes the following units: Capital Projects Unit, Public Affairs Office, and the Human Resources Office. The Administrative Services Office ~~(Budget Office)~~ is budgeted separately under Fund # 1120 and a separate description of this office follows.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE ON GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Wednesday, April 11, 2001

8:30 A.M.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, April 11, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. House members present were: Representatives Wilma Sherrill, Chair; Jeffus, Chair; Adams, Lucas, Barefoot and Wilson. There were three Senators present. Committee Counsel present: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. (Visitor Registration list is attached for the record.)

Representative Wilma Sherrill chaired the meeting. She called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance and introduced the pages. She also welcomed a delegation from Tryon Palace and thanked them for refreshments they brought.

Representative Sherrill introduced Lisbeth Evans, Secretary of the Department Cultural Resources, who introduced some representatives and workers from Tryon Palace, many who were in costume. She also thanked them for all they do for North Carolina.

Representative Sherrill then introduced Janice Williams, Interim Director of the Museum of History. Ms. Williams continued with the presentation which began on Tuesday. Her presentation was a continuation of the Museum of History and the Span of Control. The most expensive thing they do at the Museum of History if the restoration of artifacts. These artifacts are usually in very poor condition when they receive them. She explained that many of the items in the museum are now on their website.

Representative Adams asked how they advertised their services on the website. Ms. Williams responded that there was a site called "museum links" and you can go to the State or County you want to pull up. They also advertise in newsletters and magazines. Magazines are usually sent to schools for use by the children in the classroom.

Representative Jeffus asked if she could tell them about the increase in the positions listed. Ms. Williams responded that none of these listed positions have been filled as yet. She also said that the money for these positions came from the general fund.

Senator Harris said he felt they needed to flag the information on the new building. Ms. Williams answered that the Governor's budget did include this item.

Representative Sherrill then introduced Sandra Cooper, Director of the State Library Division. The total aid to libraries in all 100 counties as of March 26, 2001 is $14,949,669. This is the basic operating money for these libraries. The goal of the public libraries is to reach 25 million dollars. Senator Kinnaird asked how many of the libraries in the state have done things to raise money for their own library. Ms. Cooper said that many of the libraries do this. (See Attachment No. 1)

Representative Sherrill introduced Renne Vance, Business Officer of the Department of Cultural Resources, who explained the Maintenance Contracts, Vacant Positions and Reductions. Representative Sherrill asked the members of the Committee to look through the vacant positions and see if they had any questions. There were none.

Representative Sherrill then introduced Mr. Jim Long, Commissioner of Insurance. He explained the various positions in his department and their functions.

Representative Sherrill asked Mr. Long if they ever work with the National Association of Insurers. Mr. Long answered "yes" they do. They also have a data base which lists people in insurance frauds by their name.

Mr. Long passed out a copy of the 1999-2000 Biennial Report of the North Carolina Department of Insurance. (See Attachment No. 2)

Representative Sherrill stated that since time was running out, Mr. Long would continue his presentation on Thursday morning, April 12, 2001.

The meeting adjourned at 9:40 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosa S. Kelley, Committee Assistant

Representative Wilma Sherrill, Chair

APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 12, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Thursday, April 12, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Four of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Mitchell Setzer, Marvin Lucas, and Gene Wilson. Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism from the fiscal staff were also present.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting.

The meeting began with a continuation from the April 11, 2001 meeting. Commissioner Long from the Department of Insurance continued the review of the Biennial Report on page 11, Technical Services Group. (Attachment 1). A copy of the Department of Insurance General Government Sub-Committee Presentation was also distributed and is attached. (Attachment 2).

Senator Kinnard asked, how much does the taxpayer pay in insurance premiums for beach property? Beach property insurance premiums are strictly paid for by the home-owner. Some times the Federal Government (FEMA) runs a flood program subsidized by federal taxes from all over the country.

Do all of us pay higher premiums because we are subsidizing in some form or another in anticipation of floods? Yes, there is a higher premium for anticipated disaster as there is for car insurance because there is anticipated disaster cost shown by statistics.

Representative Jeffus asked: "on page 23 what does restricted mean"? The license on the HMOs in certain counties are restricted.

The review continued on page 26, with the Public Services Group.

Senator Harris asked, if he is buying a policy from a certain company, can he pull the company's status from the internet? Yes, you can see the ratios for the previous two years, financial ratings and other information.

Continuing on page 44. Senator Warren noted that 38% of the homes in N.C. are manufactured homes.

In answer to Senator Allran's questions it was stated that: Old trailer standards were not as stiff as the standards are today for modular homes.

The difference in tort claims and industrial claims is that they are two different pots of money is the answer to Senator Kinnaird question.

Senator Warren noted that three million dollars were given up by Fire and Rescue to go back to the General Fund. Any other cuts will not go to the General Fund.

In answer to a question from Senator Allran: if the insurance company goes broke, the insurance guarantee program will make up losses except for HMOs.

Senator Harris stated that in last session we appropriated $750,000 to purchase the old Sandford airport and to establish a training program for operating emergency vehicles through the community college. Is the insurance commission involved in that? This question was flagged and the information will be brought back.

Jeffus compliments the Insurance Commission for the terrific job they have done. But we are looking for some money.

The response is that the Insurance Commission is a special fund. The money already given from Fire and Rescue will go into the General Fund. No other money cut from the Insurance Commission will go into the General Fund.

Mr. Daschle reviewed the handout entitled Department of Insurance General Government Sub-Committee Presentation. He began the review on page 25 following the Organizational Charts.

Representative Adams asked are the jobs contracted? Some jobs are contracted because permanent employees are hard to attract in these jobs. The problem comes in the examination area, and they are behind. He will bring back how far behind they are.

The building discussed in the previous meeting is not available for sale. The commission is still looking for permanent housing. They will get back to Marilyn Chism with specifics on Housing for the Insurance Commission.

Sale of code books and the corresponding receipt line: 1% or 2% being $233,000 – $466,000. Those books are available from the commission and from other sources. But they would cost much more from the other sources.

The meeting was adjourned . The next meeting is scheduled for 4:00p.m. April 16, 2001.

Respectfully submitted,

Senator, Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

Department of Insurance Mission Statement

The North Carolina Department of Insurance serves the citizens of North Carolina through consumer protection and education, safety training and promotion, and regulation of specified activities and industries.

This is accomplished by:

- Assuring an optimum marketplace in which consumers can readily purchase fairly-priced insurance products from sound, responsive entities;
- Educating the public in loss prevention, safety awareness and developing life safety standards;
- Maintaining a well-managed, fiscally-responsible organization staffed by knowledgeable, courteous, professional employees.

At all times, the affairs of the department are conducted in an open, ethical manner and in the best interests of the public.

Jim Long,
Commissioner of Insurance

Company Services Group

The Company Services Group consists of five divisions: Financial Evaluation, Actuarial Services, Information Systems, Administrative Supervision, and Estate Operations.

The Financial Evaluation Division monitors the solvency of insurance companies; reviews admission of out-of-state, domestic, and surplus lines companies seeking to do business in the state and audits domestic and foreign insurance organizations.

The Actuarial Services Division assists in the review of rate, form, and statistical filings. The division also conducts actuarial studies for financial evaluation work and is involved in special projects and studies.

The Information Systems Division manages the Department's information technological resources, which include data processing, word processing, office automation, data communications and voice communications.

The Administrative Supervision Division monitors the financial condition and operations of domestic insurance companies to determine whether a troubled entity can be prevented from going into formal delinquency proceedings by returning the insurer to a sound financial condition and business practices.

The Estate Operations Division works closely with the Administrative Supervision Division to evaluate the necessity of instituting formal delinquency proceedings and to provide guidance to troubled insurers after leaving administrative supervision.

Financial Evaluation Division

The Financial Evaluation Division is comprised of the Company Admissions Section, the Financial Analysis Section, the Financial Examination Section and the Continuing Care Retirement Communities Section. The Division regulates all authorized insurers, entities that self-insure for workers' compensation, certain third party administrators, managing general agents, accredited reinsurers and continuing care retirement communities, for compliance with the solvency laws of this state. The ultimate objective of this regulation is to reduce the likelihood of any of these entities failing or to mitigate the effect of any of these entities' insolvency on the consumers of this state

Company Admissions Section

The primary responsibility of this section is the evaluation of the financial condition of insurance companies applying for initial licensing, or other type of authority to transact insurance business in North Carolina.

It is important that insurance entities meeting or exceeding the minimum requirements be licensed or authorized so that adequate and competitive markets are available to North Carolina insurance consumers. It is equally important that any entity not meeting the minimum requirements be denied a license or authority in order to protect North Carolina insurance consumers from potential insurer insolvencies.

During the 1999-2000 biennium, insurance companies continued to demonstrate considerable interest in establishing business in North Carolina. During the last two years, 86 new applications were received.

A total of 57 insurance entities were found to satisfy North Carolina admission requirements and received initial certificates of authority during the biennium This number included the formation of one North Carolina domestic insurance company.

The section is also responsible for the initial review of insurance companies applying for eligibility for the placement of surplus lines business. The surplus lines market is for insurance products that are not readily available to consumers through licensed companies.

During the 1999-2000 biennium, the section received and reviewed 13 filings for surplus lines eligibility. Twelve new companies were found to qualify.

Additionally, the section is responsible for reviewing applications for accredited reinsurer status in North Carolina. During1999-2000, 11 filings were received and 10 companies were found to satisfy the statutory requirements.

The section is responsible for the financial review of risk retention groups filing for initial registration. It is also responsible for making the initial determination that purchasing groups satisfy the requirements for registration. These entities operate under the authority of the Federal Risk Retention Act and North Carolina Insurance Statutes governing liability risk retention. The federal act permits risk retention groups and purchasing groups to provide certain types of liability insurance coverage to their members if the group is properly licensed in at least one state and files certain minimal financial information with each state in which it desires to do business.

We have required as much information as allowed under the federal act in order to evaluate the merits of risk retention group filings. North Carolina statutes require a purchasing group to buy its coverages from an insurance company that is either licensed or eligible for surplus lines business in this state.

During the biennium, six filings for initial registration were received from risk retention groups and 98 initial filings were received from purchasing groups. Seven risk retention groups and 91 purchasing groups received initial registration during the period.

Financial Analysis

The primary responsibility of this section is to monitor the solvency of all insurance organizations authorized by the Department. Monitoring the financial condition of insurance organizations is accomplished by reviewing the financial position and operating results of each insurance organization through financial analysis systems that encompass annual and interim financial statements and other financial data. A conclusion is reached on the financial health of each insurance organization and the required steps are taken to safeguard the interests of North Carolinians. The financial analysis process utilizes the database and programs of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and systems, which have been developed in-house.

The section also:

Processes renewal license applications of insurance organizations, and oversees corporate changes in insurance organizations. (i.e. acquisitions, mergers, dissolutions, charter changes, bylaw changes, and Holding Company Act filings).

In addition, Financial Analysis oversees the administration of security deposits from insurance organizations. These deposits are required of insurance organizations for the protection of policyholders. The funds are maintained by Wachovia Bank, N.A. under a safekeeping agreement and total approximately $500 million at present. Most of the functions of the collateral securities program are computerized, allowing rapid processing of transactions and better monitoring of the quality of securities on deposit.

Requests for authority to sell securities	32	149
Certificates of good standing, deposit, etc., processed	5,000	4,000

Financial Examination

This section serves as a complement to Financial Analysis. The section conducts varying types of audits ranging from full examinations to examinations of very specific issues. The latter usually involves the resolution of issues that can not be resolved during the financial analysis process. Practices and procedures have been developed by this section, the Financial Evaluation Division, and the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC).

In Fiscal Years ending June 30, 1999 and June 30, 2000, the section issued 66 examination reports on domestic companies.

Application software sub-licensed from the NAIC is used to perform examination procedures. Also, the NAIC has endorsed audit software that will assist in automating the entire exam process. North Carolina is one of 33 states currently using or implementing this software.

Automation is of great importance, however, technological advances and the development of more sophisticated software requires the section's commitment to maintain our hardware and software current.

Communication with the office and the NAIC is an important part of the examination process. Examiners have electronic access to both the office and to the financial information of insurance entities through the NAIC. The ability to communicate effectively while on-site is critical to conducting an efficient and effective examination.

Continuing Care Retirement Communities

The Continuing Care Retirement Communities Section has responsibility for the registration, disclosure, contracts, and the financial monitoring requirements of continuing care facilities in North Carolina. Continuing Care Retirement Communities (CCRCs) are entities that provide lodging or independent living combined with health-related services under a contract for the life of the individual, or for a period in excess of one year. The section provides financial oversight and licenses these entities. Additional safeguards for facility residents and prospective residents are provided through the oversight of disclosure statements.

There are 47 licensed CCRCs in North Carolina and six under development. Currently there are over 14,000 senior adults residing in North Carolina CCRCs.

On an annual basis the section reviews the disclosure statement, contract and audited financial statements for all licensed CCRCs. In addition, the section works with providers/sponsors who are currently developing, or interested in developing new CCRCs in North Carolina for compliance with statutes and rules.

The section is also responsible for reviewing the financial statements for Third Party Administrators Risk Retention Groups and Multiple Employer Welfare Arrangements.

Actuarial Services Division

Actuarial Services assists other Department of Insurance divisions in regard to all aspects of actuarial science. Divisions that receive actuarial assistance include the:

- Consumer Services Division with consumer complaints on rate increases and with general questions concerning insurance;

- Property and Casualty Division in reviewing rate filings, loss cost filings, form filings and statistical filings
- Financial Evaluation Division with reviewing Actuarial Opinions and Memorandums, reviewing of HMO claim reserves and various ad hoc projects;
- Field Audit Division with various claim reserve and proper accounting of reserve items;
- Managed Care Division in regard to the licensing of new HMOs and the review of expansion and material modification requests;
- Life and Health Division with reviewing individual accident and health insurance and HMO rate revisions and with the review of unusual life, annuity and health insurance products.

Other government agencies that have received actuarial assistance include the:

- State Health Plan with review of all rates submitted by HMOs;
- General Assembly's Research Division with cost estimates on proposed health and life insurance legislation and various ad hoc projects relating to actuarial science.

Life and Health Section

This Division's review of individual accident and health rate change requests has saved consumers, covered under such policies, $7 million in 1999, and $5.2 million year in 2000. Since the Division's review of rates began, consumers have realized savings of approximately $53.2 million as of December 2000.

During the biennium, Actuarial Services collected data and evaluated the impact of mandated reductions in the credit life and accident & health insurance prima facie rates. The combined savings to consumers purchasing credit insurance, is approximately $56.1 million in 1998, and $57.6 million in 1999. Since 1988, the first year of an evaluation of a prima facie rate reduction, consumers have realized savings of approximately $415.2 million as of December 1999.

Actuarial Services annually reviews the Medicare supplement insurance refund calculations submitted by insurance carriers. All carriers were correctly performing the calculations and no refunds were made for calendar 1999. The Division continues to review all Small Employer Group actuarial rate certifications to assure compliance with the Small Employer Group Health Coverage Reform Act.

Actuarial Services also assists in the review of licensing MEWAs and the review of their specific and aggregate maximum net retention level. During the biennium Actuarial Services' review of renewal licensing applications resulted in some MEWAs either increasing their surplus to accommodate their specific maximum net retention levels or lowering their specific maximum net retention level.

Property and Casualty Section

Actuarial Services works closely with the Property and Casualty Division in reviewing rate filings, loss cost filings, form filings and statistical filings. Actuarial Services has been heavily involved in private passenger automobile rate filings, workers compensation filings, self-insured compensations funds, and discussions with the North Carolina Rate Bureau on hurricane models for possible use in homeowners filings. The Actuarial Services Division strives to maintain rates that are not excessive to policyholders, yet adequate so as to provide a reasonable profit to companies and to protect their solvency.

The Division helped save drivers in North Carolina approximately $124.4 million from the 1999 Private Passenger Automobile Rate Filing as a result of a settlement and consent order. The North Carolina Rate Bureau had filed for a 5 percent decrease but settle for a decrease of 9.5 percent. Additionally, as a result of the settlement, an estimated $250 million from funds held in escrow for the 1994 private passenger filing (plus an estimated $125 million of interest) was refunded to the policyholders of North Carolina. Further, the North Carolina Rate Bureau agreed not to file any private passenger automobile rate changes in 2000.

The Actuarial Services Division reviewed a request by the North Carolina Rate Bureau for an increase in workers' compensation loss costs of 3.4 percent in 1999. The Bureau settle for no change in loss cost levels saving policyholders approximately $24.5 million. As a result of continuing trends an increase of 4.6 percent was approved in 2000. Additionally the Actuarial Services Division has annually reviewed more than 100 loss cost filings for individual companies during this biennium. The Division has reviewed the rate structure for every one of the self-insured groups domiciled in North Carolina and has assisted the Financial Evaluation Division in the financial review of these groups.

The North Carolina Rate Bureau filed for an increase of 15.6 percent in homeowners rates, an increase of 10.7 percent in dwelling fire rates, and an increase of 14.9 percent in extended coverage during this biennium. The Actuarial Services Division helped negotiate these filings resulting in the Commissioner ordering increases of 4.3 percent in homeowners and dwelling fire rates and an increase of 6.1 percent in extended coverage. The savings to policyholders totaled $84.1 million for these filings.

In addition to these activities, this Division has reviewed hundreds of rate filings, loss-cost and loss-cost adoption filings for commercial lines of insurance.

Information Systems Division

The Information Systems Division deals with high-technology issues and equipment in support of the Department's regulatory function. This activity, known within state government as "information resources management" (IRM), includes voice, image and data processing equipment and software, as well as telecommunications systems such as two-way radios, telephones and facsimile equipment.

Day-to-day responsibilities include programming, operating, planning, and managing a cluster of local area network (LAN) servers connected via the state's wide area network; and providing support for the Department's microcomputers. Internet email connects our staff with all other state departments of insurance and National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) staff; other state government agencies; numerous private insurance companies; and other Internet addresses worldwide. The Information Systems Division is directly responsible for developing an integrated client/server application system on the network: consumer complaint tracking and analysis, company licensing, property and casualty rate and forms filings, and life and health rate and form filings.

Staff of the Division also work with computer programmers at State Information Processing Services (SIPS) to maintain and develop major software systems for the Department's Agent Services Division. Other smaller applications include fire incident reporting and an inventory of state property, which is self-insured by the Department.

The Information Systems Division also consults with the Department's line divisions regarding technology planning. Information Systems is the Department's representative on the Chief Information Officers Council at ITS, and represents Commissioner Long on the Information Resources Management Commission as required. Similarly, the Division exercises approval authority over all acquisitions of information and technology resources such as telephones, radios, computers, software, services, and maintenance contracts.

Under the state's revised IRM structure the division will continue to perform the lead role within the Department for integrated information technology planning and management.

Administrative Supervision Division

The Administrative Supervision Division was formed in 1992 to increase regulatory scrutiny over potentially troubled insurance entities domiciled in North Carolina. The primary responsibility of this Division is to closely monitor the financial condition and operations of domestic insurance entities deemed to be in a potentially hazardous financial condition. The ultimate goal of this Division is to determine whether a troubled insurance entity can be prevented from going into formal delinquency proceedings and returned to sound financial condition and good business practices.

Examples of close monitoring procedures performed by this Division include:

- financial analyses of annual and interim financial statements and other financial data, including holding company and affiliated company data;
- initiating, monitoring and enforcing workout plans designed to correct deficiencies causing the hazardous financial condition;
- targeted financial and operational examinations;
- formal administrative supervision proceedings designed to protect insurance company assets through a workout period.

Potentially troubled insurance companies are transferred to the Administrative Supervision Division via interaction with the Financial Evaluation Division and other divisions of the Department of Insurance.

Estate Operations Division

The Estate Operations Division works closely with the Administrative Supervision Division to evaluate the necessity of instituting formal delinquency proceedings and to provide guidance to troubled insurers after leaving administrative supervision. The unit's ultimate goal is to rehabilitate and/or liquidate troubled and insolvent insurers in order to protect and preserve, to the maximum extent possible, the remaining assets of the insurer for the benefit of the company's policyholders, creditors and the public.

The Estate Operations Division manages the financial and operational affairs of domestic insurance entities placed into receivership. Examples of specific duties performed include:

- marshaling assets, pursuing asset recoveries and liquidating assets of companies in receivership to the maximum benefit of policyholders and other creditors;
- managing the operations of the various departments of the insurer through a runoff period including claims, underwriting, policyholder service, data processing, accounting, and personnel;
- coordinating relationships and issues involving the various state guaranty associations called upon to pay policyholder claims;
- providing litigation support services and coordinating relationships and issues involving federal and state investigative agencies outside of the Department of Insurance.

Technical Services Group

The Technical Services Group is comprised of the Property and Casualty Division, Market Examinations Division, Life and Health Division, Seniors' Health Insurance Information Program and the Managed Care and Health Benefits Division. The work performed by divisions in this group work with centers on policy issues, taking into consideration how they are implemented in insurance products, and day-to-day company operations.

The Property and Casualty Division's primary responsibility is the review of rate, rule and policy form filings relating to property and casualty coverages. These filings are made by insurance companies, statutory bureaus and licensed rating organizations.

The Life and Health Division is responsible for the review and approval of rate, rule and policy form filings submitted by life and health insurance companies and issuance of licenses for third party administrators.

The Market Examinations Division conducts field examinations of the market practices of domestic and foreign insurers and their representatives.

The Seniors' Health Insurance Information Program's (SHIIP) primary function is to train adult volunteers to help older adults through the maze of Medicare regulations, Medicare supplement insurance, long-term care insurance and claims procedures. In recent years, Medicare's move toward managed care options has led SHIIP to develop new training courses. Recently, there has been an increased interest in long-term care, and the need for information on this product has grown. SHIIP's ability to increase its activities and effectiveness depends on collaboration with numerous state, county, and federal agencies, as well as community organizations.

The Managed Care and Health Benefits Division (MCHB) was established in 1992 to monitor and regulate the activities of managed care entities such as health maintenance organizations (HMOs) and managed care indemnity health insurers, including their arrangements with Preferred Provider Organizations (PPOs), and Multiple Employer Welfare Arrangements (MEWAs). The Division's emphasis is on how company activities affect consumers in North Carolina. The MCHB Division accomplishes its work through several types of activities: market practice examinations of companies; review of document filings required of companies; and data collection, analysis and reporting.

Property and Casualty Division

This Division licenses rating organizations, advisory organizations and joint underwriting associations, along with reviewing rate, rule and policy form filings made by these entities. In addition, this Division reviews the rates, rules and forms for the North Carolina Rate

Bureau, North Carolina Reinsurance Facility, Beach Plan, Fair Plan and licensed property and casualty insurance companies.

State law permits insurance companies that are unlicensed to write insurance on risks in this state as "surplus lines" companies provided there is compliance with applicable statutes and rules. Surplus lines taxes are the responsibility of specially licensed agents. This Division receives and reviews the tax forms submitted by these agents.

Rate Deviations

Under the jurisdiction of the North Carolina Rate Bureau, State law allows companies to file rate deviations (discounts) on coverages such as private passenger automobile, homeowners, mobile homeowners and dwelling fire. A typical deviation would be lower auto insurance premiums for autos with anti-locking brakes.

Workers Compensation

A significant number of large deductible plans and scheduled rating plans have been approved for individual companies as the market continues to remain stable and competitive. This may be attributed to the introduction of loss costs in ratemaking, use of managed care plans, implementation of drug-free workplace plans and increased use of loss control programs. For example, the number of companies filing a drug-free premium credit has increased. Credits start at 5 percent. It applies to North Carolina employers who establish a drug-free workplace, supported by drug testing.

Private Passenger Automobile Program: The Private Passenger Non-Fleet Auto policy underwent some changes effective October 1999 including reduced liability for payments from workers' compensation or disability law and extending coverage to expenses incurred by an insured for emergency first aid to others.

Changes in Auto Insurance Rates

- Year 2000 Auto Insurance Settlement: As a result of Auto insurance settlement in March 2000 between the Commission of Insurance and the companies writing auto insurance in North Carolina, insurance rates began dropping an average of 9.25 percent statewide with Sept. 1 renewals. These lower rates are effective through at least Oct. 1, 2001.

  Additionally, policyholders who were charged rate higher than that approved by the Commissioner during the policy period of Jan. 1, 1995, through Dec. 1, 1996, will receive a refund between Sept. 1 and Dec. 1, 2000. If an insurance company discounted its rates (deviations), there may not be a refund. The refunds apply to private passenger automobile policies that are not in the Reinsurance Facility (high-risk pool) and to policies that are in the Facility but have no insurance points.

All refunds of more than $5 were to be made. They are applied to unpaid premiums on a policy, and if the premium was financed they were to be mailed to the premium finance company.

- Minimum Required Limits Increase: As of July 1, 2000, the minimum required automobile liability insurance coverage amounts increased as a result of an act of the General Assembly. Minimum limits that must be carried are now $30,000 bodily injury coverage for each person; $60,000 total bodily injury for all persons in one accident; and $25,000 for property damage. From 1980 until 2000 they were $25,000 bodily injury coverage for each person; $50,000 total bodily injury for all persons in one accident; and $15,000 for property damage.

  This increase in minimum required amounts will likely result in a four percent increase in bodily injury rates and a two percent increase in property damage rates for those policyholders who carry the minimum required amounts.

Other Significant Issues this Biennium

Hurricane Deductibles: As the availability problem for property insurance continues in the coastal areas, companies began to file hurricane deductibles. The Department has approved hurricane deductibles for commercial properties; but not for residential properties. Approval of a hurricane deductible for residential properties is expected in early 2001. The hurricane deductibles apply when the storm system is first declared either a Tropical Storm or Hurricane, and ends 24 hours after the storm system falls below Tropical Storm wind speed levels. Most provide deductible percentage options of 1 percent, 2 percent, 3 percent or 5 percent.

Medical Malpractice: The medical malpractice market continues to remain competitive. There have been increases in rates for medical malpractice, which includes physicians' and surgeons' coverage and hospital professional liability. There has been a significant increase in requests for copies of approved form and rate filings for medical malpractice companies. This industry is beginning to operate in a harder market, and significant increases are expected in rates for both Physicians and Surgeons and Hospital Professional Liability.

Crop-Hail: The Crop-Hail Insurance Industry experienced heavy losses in the 1999 crop season.

The top 20 states for Crop-Hail wrote $485,704,731 in premiums, paid $382,795,603 in losses and incurred a loss ratio of 78.81 percent. North Carolina ranked sixth in premiums, had the worse loss ratio of the 20 states due mainly to Hurricane Floyd. North Carolina's loss ratio for 1999 was 294.91 percent. This caused significant rate increases for the 2000 Crop-Hail season in North Carolina.

Technology: The Property and Casualty Division has utilized technology to improve its operations. An internal file management, tracking, and scanning system will provide more useful information to consumers, the industry, and for internal use. The Department is also participating in a national electronic filing system for rates and forms that was developed by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC). In 2000, the Division also implemented a fully electronic, web-based system for surplus lines agents' reporting, and billing for surplus lines taxes.

Life and Health Division

The 1999-2000 biennium has been a period of steady activity for this Division.

Health Insurance Issues

Many of the Division's efforts have concentrated on health insurance issues. These activities were a result of the public's interest in making health insurance more accessible and the continued growth of uninsured persons in North Carolina.

Division staff continued to implement NC statutes, which comply with the requirements of the Federal Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, known as HIPAA. The law makes all group health insurance plans "guaranteed issue," and increases the "portability" of all health insurance plans.

In order to determine the effect of the law of access to health insurance in North Carolina, Division staff completed in 2000 an analysis of the impact of the law. The report determined that limits on guaranteed access to health insurance remain a significant problem. Only a narrowly defined group of persons known as "eligible individuals" have the right to guaranteed access. Additionally, the analysis concluded that carriers are not actively marketing to these "eligible individuals".

The price of insurance remains a significant problem for those persons who have access to it, because these insurance reforms do not regulate cost. Research also indicated that although carriers must insure all members of a group, they can and do reject the entire group if individual members are considered high risk. There continues to be no evidence of a mass exodus of insurers from the state following the enactment of HIPAA.

Life Insurance Issues

New life insurance products have been developed during this biennium as this product is increasingly being sold as an investment, rather than strictly as a method of protecting beneficiaries. Life insurance companies are developing policies, which can compete with other investment vehicles, including annuities. The increasing entry of banks into the sale of insurance is fundamentally changing the way in which states and the federal government regulate insurance and banking.

Concerns have recently arisen regarding the use of viatical-type contracts by persons who are not terminally or chronically ill. Contracts to sell life insurance are being offered to healthy persons, the low-income elderly, and investors. These are known as "life settlements." This raises significant issues regarding the appropriateness of these transactions, because they may induce persons to unwisely sell their life insurance for an immediate financial gain, leaving their beneficiaries nothing.

Division staff assisted the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) in developing a new model for viatical legislation, and is considering proposing the model as a basis for a revision of North Carolina's viatical statutes at the 2001 session of the General Assembly. That revision would bring "life settlements" under state regulation. It would also respond to the more sophisticated investment methodologies now used to finance these transactions.

Form and Rate Filings

Nationally, insurers are calling for state insurance departments to speed up the review process for rates and policy forms, as well as achieve a higher level of uniformity from state to state. These requests are valid with respect to insurers' need to be able to compete in a national market and in an industry that has changed because of Congress' financial modernization efforts. However, appropriate regulation should not be sacrificed in the name of competition

The Division has worked steadily to speed up its review process during the 1999-2000 biennium and to make the rules by which products are reviewed more understandable for filers. The Division continued to update its Filers Guide found on the Department's Web site. The Guide contains a comprehensive overview of the statutes and rules applied by the Division in reviewing the insurance products it regulates.

In addition, during 2000 the Division began to pilot use of a national electronic filing system developed by the NAIC and known as SERFF. The system also enables a filer to electronically submit a product for review at a central site, which transmits it to all states in which it will be sold. The system, when fully operational will simplify filing for carriers and speed the review process as well. Finally, as part of the review process, the Division had reduced the period of time it takes analysts to respond to filings and filing related inquiries to an average of 9.3 days during the last six months of 2000.

The Division reviewed a significant number of complex form and rate filings during the 1999-2000 biennium. New products, many of which contain innovative and complex provisions, were submitted to the Life and Health Division analysts for review. The health insurance industry responded to increasing concern about costs, increasing marketplace competitiveness, the growth of the managed care industry and increasing pressure to provide insurance for the uninsured.

Seniors' Health Insurance Information Program

The Seniors' Health Insurance Information Program, known as SHIIP, was established in 1986 in response to an increased number of calls, letters and complaints from older North Carolinians confused by their health insurance options.

The activities and duties performed by SHIIP provide a valuable service to the state's senior population. SHIIP's primary objective is to educate the public on seniors' health insurance concentrating on Medicare, Medicare supplements, managed care and long-term care insurance. SHIIP also provides information to Medicare beneficiaries on the Medicare+Choice options approved by Congress as a result of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 and the Balanced Budget Refinement Act of 1999.

SHIIP educates the public using a three-tier approach:

- by training volunteer counselors in all 100 counties of North Carolina to educate and counsel their peers on seniors' health insurance,

- by operating a toll-free hotline from the Raleigh SHIIP office, and
- by developing educational materials for use by consumers.

Since its creation SHIIP has trained more than 8,000 senior volunteers who undergo an extensive 24-hour training course to serve as SHIIP counselors. Currently there are 1,083 trained SHIIP volunteers covering all 100 counties in the state. SHIIP Education Specialists conducted 20 training programs in 1999 and 25 in 2000, training a total of 381 volunteers. As a result of this training, SHIIP volunteers documented cash savings to clients of $194,576 in 1999, and $273,800 in 2000. In addition to individual counseling SHIIP received 65,098 calls on the toll-free hotline during 1999-2000.

SHIIP creates a number of consumer publications on a yearly basis including the Medicare Supplement Comparison Guide, the Guide to Long-Term Care Insurance in North Carolina and Getting Off to a Good Start With Medicare. The Division also serves as a clearinghouse for many Health Care Financing Administration publications.

SHIIP is coordinated in each county through an existing human service agency such as a Council on Aging office, a Senior Center, or a Cooperative Extension office. These agencies serve as sponsors and provide important continuity, an available point of access and are models for interagency cooperation. Currently there are 118 SHIIP sponsors in our state.

SHIIP Achievements:

- Received the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) Beneficiary Services Certificate of Merit from HCFA in July, 2000;
- Selected as a SHIPMates "mentor" state by the Health Care Financing Administration and the National Association of State Units on Aging due to "demonstrated experience and program strength";
- Played a vital role in the Remembering When project with the Department of Insurance's Office of State Fire Marshal to train seniors to present fire and fall safety programs;
- Coordinated and participated in two statewide van tours (November, 1999 and October, 2000) to provide public forums on Medicare and health insurance issues in 20 cities;
- Produced a monthly consumer column for 111 newspapers and newsletters across North Carolina;
- In cooperation with the N.C. Division of Aging, developed a video and training package explaining long term care options in North Carolina;
- Updated the Employer Group Health Plans and Related Issues training module for volunteers;

- Distributed Medicare Changes and Options, which targets all Medicare beneficiaries and details changes in Medicare due to the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 and the Balanced Budget Refinement Act of 1999;
- Continued its direct mailer project that distributes information about SHIIP's services to all North Carolinians just prior to their 65th birthday.

Market Examinations Division

The Market Examinations Division was created to monitor insurance company market practices, especially as they affect consumers. The examination methods employed by the Division are based on a program developed by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC). By agreeing to pilot the NAIC program, North Carolina became the first state in the nation to conduct market examinations along the lines promulgated by the NAIC.

Beginning in 1997, the Division initiated efforts to review examination processes for possible automation. Priorities were placed on automating examination processes by developing software capable of completing complex calculations necessary for completing the examination process. Additionally, the Division implemented the use of audit command language software that will eventually lead to 100% testing of areas subject to examination, such as claims processing and underwriting and rating reviews. This automation review process is an ongoing project. These combined automation efforts will result in increased review of company operations, allow examiners to spend more time on potential problem areas rather than "routine" tasks, and also result in substantial savings to the State since more work can be done in our offices rather than at company offices.

The Division, which monitors the activities of foreign and domestic insurance carriers operating in North Carolina, is divided into five regular examination teams. Two teams are assigned to review life and health companies and three teams to review property and casualty companies. Each team is capable of responding to special problems or concerns related to company practices.

Examinations are conducted on a regular rotation so that all companies domiciled in North Carolina and dominant foreign companies are examined on a five-year cycle.

Examinations are divided into three categories: general, compliance and target. The three types of examinations require distinct protocols to ensure that companies are treated fairly and without prejudice or unfair discrimination.

The most common examination type is the general examination; however, with new legislation, target examinations are having a larger impact on Division operations. One type of target examination the Division will be implementing fiscal year 2000 and 2001 will be the specialized examination to review property and casualty companies for compliance with the Commissioner's orders to refund premiums that were deemed excessive to consumers who purchased private passenger automobile insurance during the years 1995 - 1997. The Division will rely greatly on automated processes to conduct this target examination on premium refund. It is anticipated that this review will be completed in late 2001.

Upon completion of the examination, and after a report has been submitted to the Commissioner of Insurance, the company is required to take action on all areas of concern referenced in the report.

Managed Care and Health Benefits Division

The Managed Care and Health Benefits Division was established in 1992 to monitor and regulate the activities of managed care entities, including health maintenance organizations (HMOs); preferred provider organization benefit plans (PPOs); managed care indemnity health insurers; and multiple employer welfare arrangements (MEWAs). The Division's emphasis is on how company activities affect consumers in North Carolina.

Managed care introduced to the health care delivery system unique company, consumer and provider obligations not inherent in traditional indemnity insurance. In order to deliver the cost controls demanded by purchasers and consumers, managed care organizations apply a broad array of policies and techniques that have tremendous impact on consumers. These include requirements relating to provider networks, as well as programs and policies that insureds and their treating providers must follow as a condition of coverage for services.

The techniques employed by managed care plans to promote quality care and eliminate unnecessary care can also result in the inappropriate denial of coverage for services promised under an insured's policy. Thus, the Department's traditional regulatory oversight of company marketing practices, treatment of policyholders and solvency are expanded to include those systems that are unique to managed care plans.

The Division has played a pivotal role in the development of a comprehensive regulatory framework for managed care plans in North Carolina. In October 1996, regulations were implemented to establish industry standards and departmental oversight of plans' health care provider network arrangements and HMO's Quality Management Programs.

In 1997, the Department developed legislation that strengthened requirements for plans' Utilization Review Programs; established a standardized two-step process under which all health plans must consider plan member appeals and grievances; defined plan requirements for making coverage determinations; strengthened the Department's ability to take action against non-compliant HMOs; and greatly expanded the amount and types of information to be provided by health insurers to current and prospective insureds. Through these and other achievements, North Carolina consumers now enjoy most of the managed care protections currently proposed in federal managed care reform legislation.

The Division accomplishes its work through several types of activities: market practice examinations of companies, review of company filings and the collection and analysis of data. These activities are discussed below.

The Division's examination program provides for examination of each HMO on at least a triennial basis, and includes review of the non-financial aspects of company operations, including management and control, provider network development and credentialing, utilization management programs, quality management activities, third-party contracting arrangements, marketing, member services and claims payment, and underwriting practices. Examinations last two to eight weeks, depending on their type and areas covered.

General examinations entail comprehensive review of policies, procedures and practices in all operational areas of the company. Compliance examinations are designed to ascertain whether the company has taken corrective action to address problems found during the previous general examination.

The Division is also responsible for reviewing filings for an HMO certificate of authority. These reviews are conducted in consultation with others in the Department, including the Life and Health Division, Actuarial Division and Financial Evaluations Division, and include review of applicant companies' planned operations, as well as an on-site pre-licensure examination. When resources permit, a licensure follow-up examination is conducted approximately 12 months after a new HMO has been licensed. The purpose of follow-up examinations is to ensure that actual operations are in accordance with that proposed in the licensure application, as well as to review company policies and procedures relating to areas addressed in law or regulations.

HMO Examinations and Licensure Summary

Year	HMOs	General Exams	Compliance Exams	Pre-Licensure Exams	Follow-up Exams	Target Exams
1999	28 (6 restricted)	7	3	1	1	5

Beginning in 1999, the Division added PPO benefit plans to the examination program. The examination of PPOs includes review of the managed care aspects of the company's operations, including provider networks, utilization management, member services and marketing. The initial round of PPO examinations are conducted as a learning tool for companies, enabling them to bring their operations into compliance with all applicable laws. In 1999, the Division completed one PPO examination and during 2000, 12 PPOs were examined.

The review of form health care provider contracts used by HMOs and managed care indemnity health insurers is performed to establish compliance with regulations pertaining to carriers' responsibilities for arranging the provider networks to which insureds are directed and to determine compliance with regulations governing the utilization review process and the member appeal process. The review of annual PPO filings and PPO application filings also permits evaluation of carriers' written policies and procedures regarding provider networks, utilization review programs and member appeals processes.

Managed Care Filings

Year	Provider Form Contracts	PPO Filings
1999	305	71
2000	389	73

Since 1996, the Division has produced an annual Status Report and Analysis of Activity for HMOs, that includes information on plan enrollment trends and plan penetration in the consumer market. The Division expanded the 2000 Report to include data on PPOs and additional data on HMOs.

Legislation enacted in 1997 enabled the Division to collect data in a uniform format from HMOs and PPOs, providing consistent and comprehensive information to better inform the Department, the industry and consumers on the practices of these benefit plans.

Beginning in 1999, HMO and PPO carriers must report on March 1 of each year, summary information on:

- ⇒ grievances and noncertification appeals
- ⇒ changes in enrollment
- ⇒ provider turnover
- ⇒ provider availability and accessibility
- ⇒ utilization and utilization review activity
- ⇒ provider compensation methods
- ⇒ costs
- ⇒ HEDIS® outcomes measures

In 1999, the Division published two consumer guides to managed care, the 1999 Managed Care Plan Handbook incorporated the non-HEDIS data along with general information on managed care, and the 1999 HMO Performance Report contained the HEDIS® data. In 2000, the two guides were combined into one, the 2000 Managed Care Plan Consumer Guide, with additional performance data included.

Since laws were enacted to license multiple employer welfare arrangements (MEWAs), nine licenses have been issued. The Division reviews MEWA initial and annual license applications, coordinating their approval with other divisions, similar to the coordinated review of HMO certificates of authority.

Public Services Group

The Public Services Group is comprised of the Agent Services, Consumer Services, Special Services and Investigations Divisions.

The Agent Services Division regulates and issues licenses for insurance agents, adjusters, brokers and appraisers. The Division additionally reviews license applications, licensing examinations, and maintains a file on every licensed insurance professional doing business in the state of North Carolina.

The Consumer Services Division assists North Carolina consumers by answering insurance questions and resolving their insurance problems. A staff of consumer specialists advises and acquaints consumers with courses of action they may pursue to resolve their particular insurance problem.

The Special Services Division is responsible for licensing and investigating complaints related to insurance premium finance companies, collection agencies, professional bail bondsmen and bail bond runners, surety agents and motor clubs.

The Investigations Division is responsible for investigating criminal violations of North Carolina's insurance laws. Requests for investigations come from within the Department, consumers, law enforcement agencies, local, state and federal agencies and insurance companies.

Consumer Services Division

The technical and complex nature of insurance generates a multitude of questions from the consuming public and from many segments of the insurance industry itself. The Department's Consumer Services Division handles questions touching upon all types of insurance products. Each year this Division provides valuable assistance to a broad array of our citizens.

During the 1999-2000 biennium, Division staff handled just under 90,000 consumer calls in 1999 and over 100,000 in 2000. Each year the staff processed almost 10,000 written consumer complaints. A computerized data format allows for continuous updates and changes on each complaint file.

Such computerized complaint handling and the accumulation of related information offers important indications of how well departmental regulatory measures are affecting insurance market practices.

During the 1999-2000 biennium, the Consumer Services staff was involved and active in a number of areas:

- The staff spoke to numerous community groups and educational gatherings on a variety of insurance topics, including automobile, health, workers' compensation, and specialty coverage.
- The Division helped identify financially troubled insurance agencies and assisted consumers in the resolution of resulting problems.
- The Division, through its Market Assistance Plan, continued a remarkable record of helping prospective commercial policyholders locate and procure hard-to-find coverage that reduced their risks and allowed them to stay in business.
- The Division provided direction and information to the Department's Market Examinations Division relating to complaint experience regarding insurance companies' conduct in the marketplace.
- Staff provided front line participation at disaster recovery centers in the aftermath of natural calamities such as hurricanes, tornadoes and flooding.

In 2000, the Division's "Consumer" portion of the department's Web site was significantly enhanced with the addition of new and existing brochures, complaint ratios, and an automobile rating mechanism. The addition of an interactive online complaint form and an e-mail address for inquiries has provided consumers with instant access to the Consumer Services Division.

The Division serves as a significant front line service organization. Consumer Services staff continually strives to improve the quality of their service to consumers through professional training and continuing education. Additionally, the "hotline" section was recently reorganized to enable specialization between the Property & Casualty and the Life & Health lines of insurance. As such, the staff can field more complex inquiries in their lines of expertise and provide answers thereto with as much detail as is needed to properly answer consumer questions.

Agent Services Division

The Agent Services Division protects the general public of North Carolina by ensuring that individuals representing the insurance industry have an adequate knowledge of the industry and possess the moral and ethical characteristics necessary to operate in a fiduciary capacity. The Division's main function is to regulate all licensed agents, brokers, limited representatives, appraisers and adjusters authorized to do business in North Carolina. This regulation includes all activities concerning licensing, appointing and educating agents, brokers, adjusters and limited representatives (both resident and non-resident) selling insurance and adjusting claims of insurance in North Carolina.

The Division regulates the operation of 107 pre-licensing insurance schools conducted through private vendors, trade associations, universities, community colleges and technical institutions. In addition 1,788 continuing education courses were approved in the 1999 and 2000 calendar years. These courses were offered by 580 providers. An additional 453 seminars were approved for continuing education credits during this biennium.

Agent Services provides service to licensees with the assistance of two Voice Response Units (VRU). The Licensing VRU, (919) 981-5344, provides license status and general licensing information. The Continuing Education VRU, 1-800-931-7111, provides information regarding continuing education credits and course offerings.

The Division also conducts agency examinations. The purpose of the examinations is to ensure that agency staff is appropriately licensed, review financial information, determine if files are accurately underwritten and to recommend continuing education courses. There has been a noticeable decrease in the number of agencies that have gone out of business since the implementation of agency examinations.

Agent Licensing Activity

	1999	2000
Agent/Adjuster	13,830	13,830
Licenses Issued	30,212	31,107
Agent Appointments Issued	141,277	155,128
Certifications Issued	15,765	20,714
Renewals/Appointments	384,497	487,912

On an annual basis the Division hosts state licensing examination item-writing sessions for property/casualty and life/health. The purpose of the item-writing sessions is to keep state licensing examination questions current. The course catalog is available on the Division's Web site, www.ncdoi.com, as is the Department Newsletter, which is published twice a year.

The Division is currently participating in the National Association of Insurance Commissioner's (NAIC), National Insurance Producer Registry (NIPR). This network includes a Producer Database (PDB) that is a national central depository of licensing information containing demographics, license and appointment history, final regulatory actions and certification and clearance history on licensees. NIPR includes a Producer Information Network (PIN) that supports the electronic processing of licensees' appointments and terminations.

Investigations Division

The Investigations Division conducts criminal investigations and supports prosecution of insurance related crimes. The Division is the nation's oldest insurance fraud bureau, established by the General Assembly in 1945. The Division investigates insurance related crimes perpetrated by claimants, producers, companies, and unauthorized insurers.

During 1999-2000, case referrals and allegations of fraud submitted for investigation by this Division have remained at a consistently high level. This, of course, is reflective of the problem of insurance fraud itself as well as indicative of the steady increase of fraud awareness on the part of both the consumer and the industry. In addition, over the last two years, the Division has made a concerted effort to continually assure that quality investigations are being pursued so that the North Carolina consumer is most effectively served. This commitment to quality has resulted not only in impressive statistical achievement, but, also, in a more efficient and effective operation.

Investigations Activity Report

	1999	2000
Complaints and case referrals received	984	930
Investigations Initiated	170	143
Criminal Convictions	26	29
Restitution/monetary recoveries	$1,918,252.22	$17,212,867.73
Pending criminal cases	192	219

As was the case in 1997 and 1998, natural disasters played a large role in the work of this Division. Most notably, Hurricane Floyd and the resulting flooding in Eastern North Carolina in 1999 caused an influx of case referrals mainly concerning general contractors and adjusters generating fraudulent claims which overstated the cost of repairs. The intervention of the Division following Hurricane Floyd, in concert with FEMA, the FBI, and local authorities – as was the case following Hurricanes Bertha, Fran, and Dennis – was immediate and effective. Cases are still ongoing involving claims from each of these storms.

In addition, in 1999 and 2000, the Investigations Division played a pivotal role in the nationwide investigation of the viatical industry. In close cooperation with insurance investigators from state departments in Florida, Texas, New York, Kentucky, Nevada, and California, as well as with the FBI and Postal Inspection Service, the North Carolina investigators were instrumental in uncovering significant viatical fraud in North Carolina and elsewhere. The first federal convictions in the viatical initiative were obtained in North Carolina and, as a direct result of the North Carolina based investigation, the insurance industry realized potential savings of over $4.6 million. Nationwide, this initiative helped prevent an economic loss to the industry of approximately $1 billion. This investigation, currently in its final stages, continues to be very productive.

During the last biennium, 41 investigations involving licensed insurance agents were successfully resolved. Of these, 33 agents were convicted on charges ranging from policy application fraud to embezzlement of insurance premiums. These cases resulted in restitution, fines, savings to the consumer and industry, and fees totaling $15,511,111.

Further, in the same time period, 62 investigations involving subjects other than licensed insurance agents involved in fraudulent claims, terminating group insurance without notifying subscribers, workers' compensation fraud, or other insurance fraud, were successfully resolved. These investigations resulted in 22 convictions and restitution, fines, savings, and fees totaling $3,620,009. These results reflect not only the Investigations Division's commitment to quality and efficiency, but also the Division's ever widening expertise in virtually all arenas of insurance related crime.

Insurance fraud related cases have been and are being addressed in the areas of health care, workers' compensation, unauthorized insurers, Multiple Employers Welfare Arrangements, employee leasing companies, surety bonds, and the traditional claimant and agent fraud covering all lines of insurance.

The Division remains a vital entity of the North Carolina Department of Insurance, often assisting other internal regulatory divisions in the identification of subjects, schemes, and entities requiring attention. Investigators regularly testify at departmental hearings and assist in the preparation of new or amended anti-fraud legislation.

Personnel of this Division are active and respected members of industry anti-fraud organizations, law enforcement related organizations, and task forces throughout the state. Memberships include the North Carolina Insurance and Health Care Fraud Task Force, the North Carolina Insurance Crime Information Exchange, North Carolina Police Executives Association, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners Anti-Fraud Task Force, the International Association of Special Investigations Units, and the North Carolina Sheriff's Association. Division personnel regularly receive insurance and law enforcement related training and often are called upon to represent the Department by giving presentations and training to various groups in North Carolina and across the nation.

The Investigations Division stands ready to meet the many challenges that the future holds. As the very infrastructure of insurance methods and operations radically change, so will the methods and operations of the insurance fraudster. Internet based insurance transactions and electronic licensing/appointing functions unveil an entire universe of illicit opportunities to those intent on cheating the system. Banks and other financial institutions are entering the insurance market and insurance companies are diversifying as well. This will broaden the scope of potential fraud into a multitude of areas and will require a coordinated and uniform response from regulators, law enforcement, and the industry. The Investigations Division is committed to meeting these challenges now and in the future.

Special Services Division

The purpose of the Special Services Division is to protect the public by licensing and auditing professional bail bondsmen, bail bond runners, surety bondsmen, insurance premium finance companies, motor clubs, and collection agencies, and to regulate and investigate criminal violations of these licensed entities, seeking prosecution, restitution and/or disciplinary action.

In 1999 and 2000, the division licensed the following entities to operate in North Carolina:

During this biennium, the division issued 1,754 and completed a total of 1,629 routine and criminal investigative assignments. As a result of these assignments, criminal and regulatory actions were taken against the violators. Seventy-nine criminal charges by investigators of the division resulted in 22 arrests. 20 of the criminal charges referenced felonies. Successful convictions resulted in $24,065.26 in court ordered restitution. Administrative remedies resulted in civil penalties totaling $70,900. Consumer refunds issued back to North Carolina consumers totaled $109,458.19. (See attached tables detailing criminal/regulatory actions and refunds effected.)

In this biennium, the division processed findings of facts and request for payments from North Carolina county officials to satisfy bail bond judgments from security deposits held in trust by the Department. The process resulted in payments to various clerks of courts (local school boards) totaling $2,189,406.94. These payments represent an 850 percent increase over those payments processed during the previous biennium. These payments are detailed in the attached chart.

Legislative Action

Premium Finance Companies(1999)

Senate Bill 643 was ratified on Oct. 1, 1999. This act resulted in several changes to the laws regulating insurance premium finance companies and insurance premium finance agreements.

Bail Bondsmen and Runners (2000)

House Bill 1608 was ratified on July 13, 2000, resulting in several changes to the bail bond law (Chapter 58, Article 71). This law provides definitions and requirements for first year licensees and supervising bail bondsmen for surety bondsmen. The new law makes it a Class I felony to knowingly and willfully fail to return collateral security exceeding $1,500 in value and places further restrictions on the treatment of collateral security while it is in trust.

House Bill 1607 was ratified on July 7, 2000, resulting in act to modernize the bail bond forfeiture procedures. This act amends Chapter 15A-544 and one section of the bail bond law (Chapter 58-71-25).

Motor Clubs(2000)

House Bill 1699 section 7 was ratified on July 4, 2000 resulting in clarification of the definition of a motor club branch office contained in NCGS 58-69-2(1).

Office of the General Counsel

This organizational unit provides internal legal advice to all divisions of the Department. The Department's General Counsel also acts as liaison with the Attorney General. The office coordinates hearings on a wide variety of administrative matters and prepares complex orders and memoranda for the Commissioner. The General Counsel serves as the Department's primary hearing officer having final agency decision authority, and reviews all Department contracts with suppliers and consultants.

General Counsel

The General Counsel gives legal direction and counsel to the Commissioner and all members of the Department in areas of law relating to the entities regulated by the Department, which include: the insurance industry, the bailbond industry, collection agencies, premium finance companies and building inspectors. The General Counsel also provides advice to the Department on a wide variety of procedural matters, including the Administrative Procedures Act and Rules of Civil Procedure. Additionally, the General Counsel provides legal advice pertinent to the running of the Department itself, such as advice on personnel matters, and the public records law.

Between January 1999 and December 2000, the General Counsel's office responded to 579 legal service requests from Department personnel without the involvement of the Attorney General's office. Further, the General Counsel serves as the Department's primary hearing officer for a wide variety of administrative hearings under Article 3A of Chapter 150 B of the North Carolina General Statutes. During the 1999-2000 Biennium the General Counsel's office has been involved in over 119 administrative hearings.

The General Counsel evaluates the effectiveness of the work of the Attorney General in the context of providing advisory opinions and handling administrative proceedings and other litigation. The General Counsel also litigates cases at the instruction of the Commissioner of Insurance when the Department of Justice has conflicts with representing the Department of Insurance.

Ratemaking Litigation

During the 1999-2000 Biennium, Rate Counsel continued to be closely involved in several pieces of significant litigation involving ratemaking for lines of insurance under the jurisdiction of the North Carolina Rate Bureau ("Rate Bureau"). In March 2000, all pending litigation was finally settled.

1. 1994 Auto Rate Case

In September 1994, the Commissioner disapproved an auto insurance filing submitted by the Rate Bureau on Feb. 1, 1994. The Commissioner's 1994 order was subsequently appealed to the North Carolina Court of Appeals, which rendered its decision in the matter in December 1996, affirming in part, reversing in part and remanding the case to the Commissioner for a recalculation of the profit provisions and for a clarification on the issues of dividends and deviations and expense trends.

The Commissioner issued a Remand Order on Sept. 10, 1997, which further decreased the overall rates established by the Commissioner in the original Order and further ordered that the escrow amounts be increased pending appeal of the case. The Remand Order was also appealed to the Court of Appeals and a decision was rendered on Dec. 29, 1998, affirming the Commissioner's clarification of dividends and deviations and expense trends and remanding the case to the Commissioner for a recalculation of the profit provisions.

In January 1999, Rate Counsel petitioned the North Carolina Supreme Court for a review of the Court of Appeals' decision to remand the 1994 case to the Commissioner for a recalculation of the profit provision. The Rate Bureau likewise petitioned the Supreme Court for a review of the Court of Appeals' decision on the dividends and deviations issue in this same case. The Supreme Court accepted the case for the limited purpose of asking the Court of Appeals to review its decision to ensure that it complied with the Supreme Court's June 2000 decision in the 1996 rate case. The Court of Appeals subsequently affirmed its prior decision and in October 1999, the Rate Bureau petitioned the Supreme Court for further review. Rate Counsel opposed the Rate Bureau's second petition to the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court's decision on this second petition was pending at the time this case was settled in March 2000.

2. 1996 Auto Rate Case

In April 1996, the Rate Bureau submitted an auto filing which satisfied the 1995 and 1996 filing requirements. The Department held a six-week hearing and the Commissioner issued his final Order in October 1996 disapproving the filing.

The Rate Bureau appealed the Commissioner's order to the Court of Appeals, which rendered its decision on June 16, 1998 affirming in part, reversing in part and remanding the case to the Commissioner for recalculation of the profit provisions. The Court of Appeals' decision contained a dissent by Judge Greene, which allowed the Commissioner to appeal the profit issue to the Supreme Court as a matter of right. In addition, the Rate Bureau petitioned the Supreme Court for discretionary review of the issue of dividends and deviations; the Rate Bureau's petition was allowed on Nov. 5, 1998.

In February 1999, Rate Counsel filed two extensive briefs with the Supreme Court on the issues of profit calculation and dividends and deviations. In March 1999, Rate Counsel presented its oral argument to the Supreme Court on the pending issues. In June 1999, the Supreme Court rendered its decision affirming the Commissioner on the issue of dividends and deviations but remanding the case to the Commissioner for a recalculation of profit. The litigation of this case was pending at the time this case was settled in March 2000.

3. 1999 Auto Rate Case

In March 1999, the Rate Bureau filed for an approximate 5 percent decrease in auto rates. In August 1999, as a result of the Supreme Court's June decision on the issues of profit and dividends and deviations, the Bureau amended its filing in order to comply with the Supreme Courts's decision, but still seeking an approximate 5 percent reduction in rates. Despite the request for a decrease, the Commissioner called for a rate hearing because the Rate Bureau's methodologies were flawed and the reduction in rates should have been substantially larger. The hearing on the 1999 auto filing commenced in November 1999 and did not conclude until January 2000.

In March 2000, prior to issuance of the Commissioner's Order on the 1999 auto case, the Commissioner and the Rate Bureau settled all litigation on the 1994, 1996 and 1999 auto cases. The settlement resulted in a refund to consumers of $250 million plus approximately four years of interest at 11.5 percent per annum. The settlement also resulted in an overall reduction of auto rates of 9.25 percent through Oct. 1, 2001 (thereby effectively settling the 2000 auto rate filing, as well).

4. 1999 and 2000 Workers' Compensation Loss Cost Cases

In addition, the Commissioner settled the 1999 and 2000 Workers' Compensation cases without the necessity of a formal hearing. The 1999 case was settled for a 0 percent change in rates and the 2000 case was approved for a 4.6 percent increase in rates.

Office of State Fire Marshal

The Commissioner of Insurance has served by North Carolina General Statute since the late 1940s as the State Fire Marshal. Groundwork for this began in 1907 when the General Assembly established the "Firemen's Relief Fund," requiring the Commissioner to collect funds from insurance companies to be used for relief of distressed firefighters.

In an effort to bring more focus and visibility to this division's programs, the Office of State Fire Marshal (OSFM) was formally established within the Department of Insurance on Apr. 1, 1998, thus replacing the former Safety Services Group. The creation of OSFM primarily involved a name change, but there continues to be some reorganization and combining of resources as the new office evolves.

OSFM is comprised of the following six divisions: Engineering, Manufactured Buildings, Risk Management, Fire and Rescue Training and Inspections, Fire and Rescue Commission and Prevention, Program Development and Grants.

OFSM administers and enforces life safety standards throughout the state, promotes risk management practices throughout government, and maintains a sound insurance program for state agencies.

The Engineering Division is comprised of seven sections: code consultant, state property plan review, mechanical, home inspection, inspector certification, building code council and handicapped accessibility. This division administers the state building code and provides staff to the N.C. Building Code Council, the N.C. Code Official Qualifications Board and the Home Inspectors Licensing Board.

The Manufactured Building Division works to assure that construction standards for manufactured homes are maintained and that warranty obligations under state law are met. The division monitors handling of consumer complaints, licenses the makers of manufactured homes, dealers, sales representatives and set-up contractors and acts as staff for the N.C. Manufactured Housing Board.

The Risk Management Division administers the self-insurance funds for state-owned property and vehicles, and procures from private insurance companies other types of insurance needed by the state agencies and universities. This division inspects all state-owned facilities for fire and life safety and inspects all new state-owned facilities for Electrical Code compliance. Also, the division assists local governments with property and casualty insurance programs and makes available professional liability coverages for law enforcement officers, public officials and employees of any political subdivision in the State.

This division also provides staff, administration, and research services to the Public Officers and Employees Liability Insurance Commission (POELIC).

The Fire and Rescue Commission Division serves as staff to the Fire and Rescue Commission and handles the state's voluntary certification system comprised of 16 levels and 40,000 individuals, as well as the State Fire and Rescue Incident Reporting System.

The Program Development, Prevention, and Grants Division administers the Firemen's Relief Fund, Rescue Relief Fund, assists all divisions within the OSFM with development of programs and brochures and provides direction and support for injury prevention programs statewide. The division also administers matching dollar-for-dollar grants to volunteer fire departments and rescue squads and offers fire prevention education in the public schools.

The Fire and Rescue Training and Inspection Division trains fire departments, rescue squads, and instructors to improve fire and rescue protection statewide. Through special schools, development of training programs and teaching outlines, and specialist training directed to instructors, this division provides continuous upgrade to the training of our states emergency workers. Fire department's delivery capabilities are measured and upgraded by providing initial insurance ratings for fire departments, as well as coordination for the improvement of ratings to reduce insurance costs for homeowners.

Engineering Division

North Carolina's General Statutes give the Commissioner of Insurance the responsibility of general supervision of the administration of the North Carolina State Building Codes. The codes contain regulations relating to plumbing, electrical, heating, air conditioning and fire protection systems and the construction of buildings in general. The Division meets these responsibilities by providing interpretations of code requirements and assisting local government authorities with the application of the codes.

The Division reviews plans and specifications of new buildings for code compliance, assists with code-related educational programs and administers state examinations required for certification of city, county and state code enforcement officials.

Division staff also administers the state's accreditation program of independent inspection agencies that safety test and label electrical and mechanical equipment.

In addition to serving as an informal state code appeals agency, the Division also serves as staff to the North Carolina State Building Code Council, the North Carolina Code Officials Qualification Board and the North Carolina Home Inspectors Licensure Board.

Code Administration and Enforcement

The Division provides interpretations of the intent of the state building code to city and county inspection officials, architects, engineers, contractors, material suppliers, manufacturers, other state agencies, attorneys and the general public.

The Division is responsible for reviewing plans and specifications for large buildings. Before a permit can be secured for these buildings, a letter of compliance must be issued by this Division to the inspection department having jurisdiction.

State law requires that handicapped and disabled persons receive treatment equal to that afforded other persons. The Division has an Accessibility Section, which provides information to handicapped organizations, design and construction professionals and building owners in the application of these state laws and the building code requirements relating to accessibility. This assistance helps provide our disabled citizens with the full and free use of all buildings in the state. Accessibility regulations are currently being revised to make N.C. Code equivalent to federal Americans with Disabilities Act regulations.

Because some buildings require special construction, technical assistance is necessary from the Division to ensure that the building is safe. Inspection assistance is also provided for structures when deterioration, fire or storms create conditions, which appear to be hazardous to life.

Division staff also serves as the State Damage Assessment Team and assists the State Office of Emergency Management during disasters.

State Building Code Council Support

The Building Code Council consists of 17 members appointed by the governor. The Council is empowered to adopt and amend the state building code, hear appeals on the interpretation of the code and approve local building regulations which are different from the state code. The Council holds regularly scheduled public hearings on the second Tuesday in June and December. Additional meetings are held by Council code committees.

State law permits the Building Code Council to provide, in circumstances deemed appropriate, programs to certify independent testing laboratories as state-accredited third-party agencies to evaluate, inspect and label factory-built manufactured buildings, and electrical and mechanical building components. Division staff administers this program.

Code Officials Qualification Board Support

This Board develops standards for the training and certification of code enforcement officials. The Division provides clerical and staff services in support of this effort. The Board is also responsible for developing training schools and state examinations for inspector certification. Some Division staff members serve as instructors; all state certification exams are administered by Division staff.

Persons certified by the Board are issued a certificate for each level and area of inspection for which they have met qualification requirements. The Division also investigates written, substantiated complaints against inspectors made to the Board, which may then schedule a hearing.

Home Inspectors Licensure Board Support

This Board was created by the General Assembly in 1994 to provide for the licensure and regulation of those who perform home inspections for compensation. This Board is composed of seven members and a designee of the Commissioner of Insurance. This Board provides for the development and maintenance of standards of practice, code of ethics, examinations, licensure, renewal and disciplinary procedures for home inspectors in North Carolina. The Division provides clerical and staff services in support of this effort. The staff provides all administrative functions for the Board including administering the examinations, issuing licenses, renewal of licenses and investigation of complaints.

Manufactured Building Division

This Division acts both as a state administrative agency under the federal Manufactured Housing Constructions and Safety Standards Act and as staff to the North Carolina Manufactured Housing Board.

The role of a state administrative agency is to monitor manufacturers' handling of consumer complaints to assure compliance with federal standards. Staff support of the Manufactured

Housing Board includes receiving and resolving consumer complaints and licensing all manufacturers, dealers, set-up contractors and salespersons that do business in this state to ensure compliance with warranty requirements set forth in the General Statutes.

The Division is responsible for filing claims against surety bonds in the event dealers, manufacturers or set-up contractors go out of business or cannot otherwise fulfill their warranty obligations.

Manufactured Building is also responsible for developing set-up and anchoring standards for manufactured homes and assisting local inspection departments in the inspection of homes for proper set-up and anchoring requirements. Training seminars are held throughout the state each year to familiarize the local inspection departments, manufacturers, dealers, set-up contractors and other interested parties with the manufactured housing standards and any recent revisions to those standards.

This Division is entirely receipt supported. A portion of these receipts come from fees received from HUD for manufactured homes placed in our state for retail sale. The Division receives additional funds from licensing fees charged to manufacturers, dealers, set-up contractors and salespersons.

The Division also supplements its receipts by participating in a monitoring contract with the National Conference of States on Building Codes Standards. During 2000, Division staff spent approximately 1,200 hours in interstate monitoring inspections of manufacturing plant facilities.

The Manufactured Building Division also serves as staff to the N.C. Building Code Council in the administration of the state's modular construction program. This includes receiving and resolving modular complaints and the certification and monitoring of residential and commercial modular manufacturers. Currently there are 116 certified manufacturers shipping modular buildings into North Carolina, with plant locations ranging from Florida to Texas to Quebec. The Division also certifies independent certification agencies (third party agencies) that review modular plans for compliance with the N.C. State Building Code and monitors production in modular plants on continuing basis.

Risk Management Division

(Formerly State Property Fire Insurance Fund Division)

This division is responsible for the operation and maintenance of the State Property Fire Insurance Fund, the self-insurance plan for the State's property. The division currently has jurisdiction over approximately 14,000 state-owned buildings with a combined value of $15 billion. Losses to the State's property are investigated and adjusted by this division and are paid from the Fund with the approval of the Council of State. A total of 237 claims have been paid from the Fund during the past two years.

The Fund provides basic fire and lightning insurance coverage for state-owned property and offers insurance for wind, hail, riot, explosion, smoke, theft, sprinkler leakage, vandalism, flood, business interruption and "all risk." All General Fund facilities are insured for fire and lightning at no cost to the agency. Approximately 70 percent of the State's buildings receive this coverage free. Special Fund facilities are billed for this coverage at approximately one-half of the manual rate. This arrangement has saved the State millions of dollars, compared to buying commercial insurance. When the Fund was established in 1945, the General Assembly recognized that loss prevention was an essential ingredient for a successful self-insurance program. Statutes require an annual fire and life safety inspection of all State-owned buildings by inspectors who are certified in the interpretation of codes and standards for fire protection and construction. Reports are made to agency managers for correction of deficiencies. The inspection staff also provides advice on corrective measures.

This division also inspects all new electrical systems in state-owned buildings to assure that these systems comply with the State Electrical Code. Also, technical expertise and Electrical Code consultation is provided to local electrical inspectors, design engineers, contractors and the general public. This division administers a third party accreditation program for school electrician certification and coordinates planning and presentation of educational programs on the State Electrical Code.

The Risk Management Division serves as a resource for state agencies in resolving risk issues. This division administers the State's automobile insurance program, which covers 38,000 vehicles. Also, various types of insurance coverages are procured for state agencies from private insurance companies. These coverages include, but are not limited to, inland marine, ocean marine, aircraft liability and physical damage, boiler and machinery, workers compensation, accident and health, general liability, crime, professional liability and bonds. This division assists local governments with their property and casualty insurance programs. Since 1985, 163 North Carolina communities and counties have received insurance surveys and risk management services.

The Division also provides staff, administration and research services to the Public Officers and Employees Liability Insurance Commission (POELIC). The Commission is charged with making available a plan of professional liability coverages for all law enforcement officers, public officials and employees of any political subdivision of the state. The Commission also provides $11,000,000 in liability coverage on all state employees for losses resulting in bodily injury or property damage and for errors and omissions in the performance of their jobs. About 80 such claims are filed against state employees each year.

Fire and Rescue Commission

The Fire and Rescue Commission is an advisory board consisting of representatives from various fire and rescue organizations as well as state agencies. The Commission is responsible for developing voluntary certification programs and professional standards for all levels of fire and rescue personnel.

Presently, eight certification programs and 20 levels of certification are active, including: Firefighter, Instructor, Rescue Technician, Fire and Life Safety Educator, Fire Apparatus Driver/Operator, Emergency Vehicle Driver, Hazardous Materials Responder, Fire/Arson Investigator and Fire Officer I.

The Firefighter, Instructor, Hazardous Materials and the Driver/Operator programs are currently accredited by the International Fire Service Accreditation Congress, of which the Commission is an active member.

Each month the Commission receives approximately 300 applications for one of the above mentioned certifications, along with approximately 300 re-certification requests. Presently a firefighter must re-certify ever five years. The Commission records currently maintain over 60,000 certifications.

An ongoing project of the Commission is development and dissemination of the Occupational Safety and Health Standard for Fire Departments and Rescue Squads. This was a compilation of the applicable NFPA Standards and OSHA General Industry Standards.

Future programs from the Commission will include the Fire Officer II Certification program. Commission staff members are currently working on the development of this standard and should be ready for pilot testing in 2001.

The goal of such programs is that they will provide additional professional recognition, as well as enhance the safety of emergency services personnel in North Carolina.

Fire and Rescue Training and Inspection Division

This division serves as the certifying agency for qualifying fire departments and their members for several benefit programs.

The primary responsibility of this group is the delivery of instructor upgrade and qualification courses. However, additional requirements extend to direct program deliveries, program development and participation on the State Emergency Response Team.

During the biennium efforts were made to provide the best possible service for the Fire and Rescue Services in North Carolina. A constant review and update of all existing instructional programs is essential in providing the most current information and techniques. Training delivery continued with an emphasis on instructor upgrade and qualification but has also provided for special school direct deliveries.

This section has participated in programs provided by the National Fire Academy and the Emergency Management Institute both on a federal and regional level. Personnel attended classes as well as received the train-the-trainer programs to be delivered to in-state instructors and responders. OSFM personnel have been appointed to and are currently serving on national committees with the responsibility of creating training standards and curriculum with organizations including the National Fire Protection Agency (NFPA), FARMEDIC and the Terrorism Task Force.

This section also continues to attend in-state meetings and conventions and to serve on committees where requested. Some of the events which have been attended by our personnel include: the N.C. Firemen's Association and North Carolina Association of Fire Chief's annual conference, winter meeting of the Fire Chief's Association, the N.C. Association of Rescue and EMS annual conference, EMS Today, the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners, the North Carolina Fire College and many others.

The Commissioner of Insurance sets the standards and qualifications for the initial certification of all fire departments. North Carolina has experienced an annual growth rate of approximately 10 fire departments in each of the last 10 years.

July 1, 2000, marked the effective date for new legislation dictating inspections of departments in areas with a population less than 100,000. The General Assembly gave the responsibility for inspecting such departments to the Commissioner of Insurance. These inspections serve to determine the rate classification for homeowners insurance.

The inspection program is designed to help improve fire protection for the citizens of North Carolina and increase the safety of our state's firefighters. This section continues to assist local governments with fire district mapping, setting up tax districts, preparing fire departments for NCRRS surveys and by providing information on benefit programs. The section also serves as an information resource on rural fire protection for local government officials.

In October 1987, this section was given the duty of inspecting more than 1,000 9S fire departments in North Carolina. The results of these inspections were reported to the North Carolina Fire Rate Bureau and are used by them in filing future rates for fire insurance costs. The fire departments are reinspected on a two-to-three year cycle in order to maintain a current picture of the quality of fire protection in North Carolina and to assist the departments in making improvements.

The fourth inspection cycle of all Class 9S fire departments in North Carolina began Dec. 1, 1997. These inspections ensure that the fire departments are maintaining the minimum rating requirements, which are required by the N.C. Department of Insurance. Meeting these requirements provides for the eligibility of the department's personnel to participate in the Fireman's Pension Fund, in the Firemen's Death Benefit Act and in the Firemen's Relief Fund. Meeting these requirements also allows homeowners living in the Fire District to enjoy a lower fire insurance premium on their homeowners insurance policy.

Fire Dept. Inspection Summary:

December 1, 1997 – December 12, 2000

	East	West	State Total
Counties Inspected	16	26	42

Districts Not Meeting Requirements	0	20	20
Percentage Meeting Requirements	100	91%	95%
Percentage Not Meeting Requirements	0%	9%	5%

In addition to the inspection of Class 9S Fire Districts, the inspectors also assist communities on the actions needed to upgrade the District NCRRS Rating. Further duties of this section include providing fire protection information to local government officials, county Fire Marshals, local Fire Associations and citizens of North Carolina. Inspectors also assist with programs to fire departments and rescue squads on financing alternatives, record keeping, contract agreements, benefits and other administrative subjects.

Prevention, Programs and Grants Division

The Prevention, Programs and Grants Division is responsible for the development of comprehensive injury prevention strategies. Reducing deaths and injuries, especially to children, along with the associated economic costs, is the focus of the Injury Prevention Section. Unintentional injuries caused by fires/burns, falls, traffic crashes, poisoning and drowning are targeted. The section's primary goal is to raise awareness about the major causes of injury and develop interventions.

Special programs directed by this section include NC SAFE KIDS, Risk Watch, Learn Not To Burn and NC SAFE KIDS Buckle Up. The mission of these four programs is to reduce unintentional childhood injuries from birth through age 14, by coordinating a network of public and private partners. In 2000, over $700,000 in grants and public/private partnerships have been committed for NC SAFE KIDS. The Governor's Highway Safety Program provided grants totaling $800,000 to NC SAFE KIDS Buckle Up in FY 2001.

In partnership with N.C. Operation Lifesaver (NCOL), the Injury Prevention Section continues to offer grade crossing safety training for emergency responders. Individuals are certified to train their peers in a program called "They Shouldn't Die This Way." The goal of the program is to reach over 80,000 emergency responders with the NCOL message.

Research is a key component in the efforts of the Injury Prevention Section. Areas researched include impact studies, product-specific studies, educational methods research and general trend analysis. Data collected through the N.C. Fire Incident Reporting System and Casualty Reporting System determines the development of fire/burn prevention and safety programs for emergency responders.

The Research and Program Development section facilitates curriculum development and the related audio/visual materials for all fire and rescue training programs. In addition, this section designs and develops informational and educational materials for publication and distribution to the public. The Fire & Rescue Journal is published quarterly by the Research and Program Development group.

Funds

Working closely with the NC Fireman's Association, division staff continues to improve collection and disbursement of the Firemen's Relief Fund. Significant effort has been made to reduce the number of fire departments disqualified due to ineligibility. The Rescue Relief Fund was created in 1987 to assist rescue personnel in need.

Total Firemen's Relief Fund tax collected for 1999 was $3,001,328.75 and a total of $2,386,237.86 was disbursed to fire departments meeting all General Statute requirements. Total Rescue Relief Fund tax collected for 1999 was $678,756.26 and a total of $597,305.51 was disbursed to the N.C. Association of Rescue & EMS to distribute the funds according to General Statute 58-88-5. Total Rescue Relief Fund tax collected for 2000 was $689,425.36 and a total of $606,694.33 was disbursed to the N.C. Association of Rescue & EMS to distribute the funds according to GS 58-88-5. The Department of Insurance was given the responsibility by the General Assembly to administer the Volunteer Fire Department Fund and the Volunteer Rescue/EMS Fund in 1988. The intent of these programs is to financially aid volunteer fire departments and rescue providers to purchase related equipment and to make capital expenditures, based on need.

The Volunteer Fire Department Fund matches on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to $20,000. The Volunteer Rescue/EMS Fund will match on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to $15,000. The Volunteer Rescue/EMS Fund also allows rescue providers with liquid assets of less than $1,000 to apply for a $3,000 non-matching grant. Approved monies for volunteer fire department's and volunteer rescue providers through the Volunteer Fire Department Fund and the Volunteer Rescue/EMS Fund since 1988 exceeds $35,000,000.

Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue/EMS Grants

	1999	2000
Volunteer Fire Department Fund	$3,031,577.70	$2,970,056.17
Volunteer Rescue/EMS Fund	$1,132,652.16	$1,065,285.47

Remembering When Overview

The Office of State Fire Marshal (OSFM) and the Seniors' Health Insurance Information Program (SHIIP) have partnered to present the National Fire Prevention Association's fall and burn prevention series called Remembering When. A nostalgic trivia game is the hook that entices senior citizen audiences to learn how to prevent falls and burns, common injuries among the state's older citizens. By sharing staff and resources, OSFM and SHIIP hope to reach seniors in every county of the state within the next few years. A grant (in the amount of $70,000) from CDC through the NC Department of Health has been allocated for year 2000.

Learn Not to Burn Overview

Learn Not To Burn is an NFPA fire and burn prevention Curriculum taught by the classroom teacher to students in Pre-School through Grade 8. Each teacher is provided with manuals including lesson plans, knowledge tests and other materials for use in the classroom.

Juvenile Fire Setters

OSFM has created the NC Counsel for the Prevention of Juvenile Fire Setters. The Council is comprised of members from the fire service, law enforcement, juvenile justice, medical and social services agencies. The purpose of the council is to address the serious concern of the growing rate of Juvenile firesetting in N.C.

Risk Watch

Risk Watch is a comprehensive injury prevention curriculum for children in preschool through Grade 8. The program is taught in the classroom by teachers with support from community resources. Students act out learning activities by assuming character roles appropriate to their development stage. The program covers the eight safety areas that effects children the most with injuries and deaths, those being Motor Vehicle; Fire & Burn; Choking, Suffocation, and Strangulation; Poisoning; Falls; Firearms Injury; Bike and Pedestrian; and Water

North Carolina Code Officials Qualification Board

The board is organized under the provisions of Chapter 143, Article 9C of the North Carolina General Statutes. A list of members follows, along with the individual or organization by whom they were appointed.

JOINT
ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

April 16, 2001
4:00 p.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Monday, April 16, 2001 at 4:00 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Representatives Barefoot, Lucas, Setzer, and Wilson. Three Senate members were present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. A Visitor Registration list is attached and made part of the record.

Continuation Budget Review (continued) Department of Secretary of State (Attachment I)

Representative Jeffus recognized Mr. Rodney Maddox, Chief Deputy of Secretary of State.

Mr. Maddox summarized the several functions of the office that takes up five to six per cent of their staff. They deal with storage of information and records that are of contemporary use and do not need to go to Archives and History Division. These are records that people need to access on a regular basis.

Mr. Maddox continued that the other ninety-five percent of the people in the department are involved with the manifestation of the state's authority in the creation of wealth. The Secretary of State Department reaches out and is involved in helping people create wealth. The Department is divided into four divisions. The Corporation Division is responsible for the examination, custody, and maintenance of legal documents filed by corporations, limited liability companies, limited partnerships, and limited liability partnerships. The Securities Division exists to protect the investing public by regulating persons and firms doing business as stockbrokers and investment advisors. The Uniform Commercial Code Division serves as a vital source for "credit check" information used by banks and other lenders when a business or person of North Carolina wants to borrow money, for business or personal purchases. The Business License Information Office, which is a service provided to people seeking to go into business, to help them find their way through the beaureacy of permits and licenses. If they will share their business plan with them they will give them a road map that gets them through that process.

Mr. Maddox introduced Deputy Secretary for Administration, Mr. Michael Peeler and Budget Director, Ms. Ann Harris to speak to specific questions and items that the committee has requested.

Mr. Peeler began on pages 44-49 of Attachment I. He stated that each department has summarized the fiscal data for the continuation budget. Representative Jeffus called for questions. Mr. Peeler noted that the budget amounts are in keeping with the Governor's recommended budget.

Mr. Peeler continued that maintenance contracts are on pages 50-51 of Attachment I. The total of those contracts is $118,430.

Mr. Peeler advised that the next item in the package is a summary of the zero base budgeting expenditures on page 52 of Attachment I.

Representative Sherrill inquired about an item of Out of State Lodging of $12,600. He answered that the Security Division and UPC Division do most of their training at national conventions on regulations and administering security programs. Representative Sherrill asked that information on travel expense be forwarded to her for the past five years.

Mr. Peeler continued (see page 53, Attachment I, Span of Control) that they have made some progress over time in this area. The Agency Benchmark of 6.37 was set in 1995. The Secretary of State had 117 employees and 31 supervisors and the average span agencywide was 3.74. At this point, they are up to 196 employees and average span agencywide is 6.13, which is much closer to their benchmark.

Mr. Peeler stated that based on the governor's recommended budget for the next biennium, the Department of the Secretary of State is confronting a deficit of $384,000. There are some receipts that they don't see receiving because of the change in demand for some of their information. The requested one percent cut would cause a shortfall of $471,851. They would need to cut certain activities and operations out of their budget to accommodate this shortfall. Mr. Peeler requested the committee to consider an alternative for their department, and look at the business aspect of what they do, the services they provide, and the need for them to stay responsive and effective on how they deal with the many services they are delivering. They would like to increase some fees that they think would be appropriate for some relative minor adjustments at this point. They are described on page 43, Attachment I.

Representative Sherrill asked if the Secretary of State is allowed to make fee increases? Mr. Peeler stated that the fees are established by statute. She asked if they had requested a bill and Mr. Peeler stated that they had not. Ms. Michel Nelson will check on the proper procedure to increase the fees without a bill.

Mr. Peeler continued that they review their fees regularly but think these fees should be increased because of the demand and consistency in other areas and other states.

Representative Sherrill asked to look at the material they have on these fees?

Senator Warren recommended that the Secretary of State come back with recommendation as to why they are lacking funds and how are they going to get the money and with comparisons of what other states are doing.

Secretary of State Elaine Marshall responded that the fee increase would go into the general fund.

Senator Warren wondered if the General Assembly did not agree with the fee increase, what area would be cut?

NOTE: 4:30 p.m., Representative Jeffus left to attend another committee meeting because she has a bill on their agenda. Representative Sherrill will chair for her.

Senator Harris stated that the franchise tax should be a mandatory fee. In dealing with other states, it is a mandatory fee.

Representative Sherrill asked a question regarding the Notary Public. Do most corporations pay this fee for their employees or do you have any way of knowing? Secretary Marshall responded that they do not have any way of knowing. They renew every five years.

Senator Harris stated that he thought there was a bill out there somewhere because he is hearing some discussion on the increase of fees from the Secretary of State's office. Representative Sherrill was of the opinion that there is a fee bill for DMV and some others. Secretary Marshall stated that there is a bill out there about the franchise fee tax for LLC. Senator Harris suggested Senate Bill 246 introduced by Senator Fletcher Hartsell might be used for the fee increase. Representative Sherrill stated that they would flag this item.

The meeting adjourned 4:40 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rep. Maggie Jeffus

Representative Margaret (Maggie) M. Jeffus, Chair

NORTH CAROLINA DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE
BUSINESS LICENSE INFORMATION OFFICE

What We Do

The Business License Information Office cuts the red tape for the smallest and largest prospective and existing business operators by providing the following services:

- a one-stop-shop for identifying and meeting business related licensing and permitting requirements in North Carolina
- a clearinghouse for business licensing and permitting information
- one-on-one referrals to state, local and federal agencies and occupational licensing boards
- how-to guides on starting a business in our state
- customized assistance in identifying private and public resource groups
- customized packages of many state, local and federal forms necessary for conducting business, and
- the State Directory of Business Licenses and Permits.

How Busy We Are

Publications: Every other year the division usually compiles, publishes and distributes over 2,000 copies of the State Directory of Business Licenses and Permits to the public schools, libraries, congressional, state legislative representatives and business resource partners in North Carolina. The usual publication cycle has been delayed this year in order to conserve the state's fiscal resources. The division annually publishes a how-to booklet and various quick reference guides for prospective business owners and business resource groups.
Consultations: From January 1, 2000 to December 31, 2000 the business license consultants have personally served over 18,421 business operators through one-on-one consultations and personalized information packets.
The Internet: The main Internet site for Business License Information received over 13,000 visits in January 2001, compared to just over 1,000 visits per month a year ago. The office strives to provide a single point of contact for all business information useful to prospective and existing small and large business operators in our state and all over the world.

How We Do It

The office has:

- Annual appropriations of $603,943 for FY 2000-01, and
- Thirteen budgeted positions, including a director, two support staff and ten business license consultant positions.

SECURITIES DIVISION
NORTH CAROLINA SECRETARY OF STATE

FUNCTIONS OF THE SECURITIES DIVISION

The North Carolina Securities Division exists to protect the investing public by regulating persons and firms doing business as stockbrokers and investment advisers.

This regulation includes the review and approval of applications for licenses from stockbrokers and investment advisers as well as analyses and clearance of securities offerings proposed to be sold in North Carolina.

The Division has an Enforcement Section that investigates allegations of securities fraud and which cooperates with local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies in preparing administrative enforcement actions and criminal prosecutions.

The Division also administers the Qualified Business Tax Credit Program, which offers tax credits to persons investing in certain types of businesses in North Carolina.

SECURITIES DIVISION'S STAFF

The Division currently has eighteen (18) full-time employees. They are:

1 Division Director
1 Stock Broker Firm/Salesman Examiner
2 Investment Advisor/Representative Examiners
2 Securities Examiners
1 Supervisor of Investigations
2 Securities Investigators
1 Enforcement Attorney
1 Investor Protection Specialist
2 Investment Adviser Auditors
1 Administrative Manager
4 Administrative Assistants

LEVELS OF ACTIVITY

During the last fiscal year, the Securities Division generated over $11 million in registration and filing fees. The following statistics quantify the performance of the Securities Division for the period stated:

I. ENFORCEMENT SECTION DATA

The Securities Division, Enforcement Section has experienced a dramatic increase in the number of complaints received and the number of cases opened in the past two years. During this same period of time, the Enforcement Section took on the added responsibility of performing compliance audits on all state registered investment advisers that have their principal offices in North Carolina, pursuant to the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996.

Below is enforcement data for recent fiscal years.

Time Period	'97-'98	'98-'99	'99-'00	Last 8 months
Complaints/Inquiries to Enforcement Section	1,214	1,377	1,748	2,190
Number of Investigations Opened	57	51	140	66
Number of Criminal Actions Initiated	3	10	5	1
Administrative Orders Issued	3	10	38	11

During the current fiscal year the Enforcement Section staff consisted of the following personnel:

Two (2) Securities Investigators (One added 10 days ago)
One (1) Supervisor of Investigations
One (1) Complaint Intake Specialist
Two (2) Investment Adviser Auditors
One (1) Enforcement Attorney

EXAMPLES OF ENFORCEMENT CASES:

NINE-MONTH PROMISSORY NOTES: The Division has investigated numerous cases that involved the sale of unregistered securities, in the form of nine-month promissory notes. These notes were most often sold by insurance agents. To date, the Division has issued in excess of twenty Cease & Desist Orders against the companies issuing the notes, as well as the agents who sold the notes. It is estimated that NC residents have lost in excess of $10 million as a result of investments in these notes. The Division continues to be an active participant in a national task force of State and Federal agencies that is investigating this problem.

DELMAR STACEY PENN: Penn portrayed himself to members of his church and community as a successful securities dealer. However, he was not a licensed stockbroker. Penn included scriptures and prayer instructions to investors to ensure a large return on investment. Over $1.5 million was raised from at least ninety-six (96) investors, the majority of whom are from Forsyth County. Penn lost in excess of $900,000.00 engaging in speculative options trading.

[Name Deleted] Case: Currently under investigation, this off-shore investment scam bilked over $6 million from more than 300 NC investors. This case has been under investigation for more than two years. The total number of victims exceeds 800 persons throughout the US and involves more than $18 million. This case is being worked jointly with the FBI and the US Attorney.

ETS PAYPHONES: This case involves the sale of unregistered securities in the form of an equipment lease-back program. The investor purchases a payphone and immediately leases it to another company. The leasing company guarantees to repurchase the payphone from the investor at the end of the lease period for the initial purchase price of the payphone. Investors paid $7,000.00 per payphone. According to records the Division uncovered, ETS sold in excess of $40 million worth of payphones to NC investors. The Division issued a Cease and Desist Order against ETS and its agents. Subsequently, ETS filed a bankruptcy petition. The matter is currently at the Office of Administrative Hearings.

II. LICENSING SECTION ACTIVITY

The Division issues occupational licenses to investment advisers, investment adviser representatives, securities dealers, and securities salesmen.

III. OFFERINGS OF SECURITIES REVIEWED (for period from 7/1/00--2/28/01)

The Division receives written notices of many types of securities offerings proposed to be offered and sold to the public in North Carolina. Some of these, the "registered offerings" and the "exempt offerings," are reviewed in detail by the Division's securities analysts prior to being approved for sale to the public. Other offerings, the "covered securities" regulated primarily under federal law, such as mutual funds and Rule 506 private placements, generate "notice filings" and notice filing fees" that must be summarized and accounted for on the Division's records. The following numbers of filings were received during the 8-month period from 7-1-00 through 2-28-01.

A. REGISTERED SECURITIES OFFERINGS:

48 registrations by Coordination
2 registrations by Qualification

B. EXEMPT OFFERINGS FILINGS:

63 exemption filings for issuers relying on G.S. 78A-16(9) (Not for profit issuers)

North Carolina Department of the Secretary of State
Certification & Filing Division
Notary Public Section

Notary Public Section Functions

The Notary Public Section commissions and regulates the almost 200,000 Notaries Public in North Carolina. The section evaluates and processes all notary public commission applications, maintains a database of commission information, coordinates and communicates daily with North Carolina's 100 Registers of Deeds offices (where commissions are sent before the applicant takes the oath of office), and responds to public inquiries. The section trains and certifies community college instructors to teach the statutorily required notary public education program. The section also investigates and acts upon alleged violations of the North Carolina Notary Public Act.

Notary Public Section Staff

The Notary Public Section is understaffed to adequately fulfill its statutory responsibilities, and additional staff continues to be sought. The Section budget funds the Certification & Filing Director (Administrative Officer III), three Processing Assistant IV positions, and a Notary Investigator position.

Notary Public Section Budget

2000-01 Appropriations: $216,633

Notary Public Section Key Facts

- In January 2000, North Carolina had approximately 160,000 commissioned notaries public. By February 16, 2001, that number had increased to 196,041 – an increase of approximately 36,000 notaries, or approximately 23%.
- In 1999-00 the Notary Public Section certified 97 persons as notary public education program instructors.
- In calendar year 2000, the Notary Public Section received 821 complaints alleging notary misconduct. 811 violations of the Notary Public Act were found, and disciplinary actions were taken ranging from requiring the notary correct the error, to suspending or revoking the notary's commission, to working with local law enforcement to bring criminal charges against the notary.
- In January-March 2001, the Notary Public Section has already received 502 complaints alleging notary misconduct. The Section has already issued 75 suspensions and 25 revocations in calendar 2001.
- The Notary Public Section routinely processes 1300-1500 transactions per week (initial and reappointment applications, amendments, oath returns, certificates, etc.)
- On average, the Section responds to approximately 300 telephone inquiries each day.

North Carolina Department of the Secretary of State
Land Records Management Program
Gayle P. Holder, Director

Division Functions

The Land Records Management Program is best defined as an advisory program, which encourages the modernization of land records systems at the county level. Some of the program's many functions include:

- Provide technical assistance to the counties
- Establish greater uniformity in local land record systems
  - Develops standards for indexing land records
  - Develops standards for uniform recording and indexing procedures for maps and condominiums
  - Develops standards for security and reproduction of land records
  - Develops mapping specifications
- Provides mapping and GIS (Geographic Information System) assistance
- Provides short-term consultant activities to registers of deeds and mapping offices
- Provides educational activities for registers of deeds and county mappers
- Conducts state property mappers' certification
- Receives/Records municipal annexation ordinances
- Receives/Records municipal charter amendments
- Receives/Records county boundary changes
- Represents department and county mapping agencies in mapping matters at state and federal level

Division Staff and Budget

- Currently the program staff consists of two positions: Land Record Manager, who works primarily with county mapping agencies, receives municipal annexation ordinances, maps and charter amendments.

- An Internal Systems Consultant works primarily with 100 county Registers of Deeds, consulting with them on document recording, internal procedures and training them on mandatory real property indexing standards.

- FY 2000-01 Appropriations: $136,749

Key Facts

- All 100 counties follow register of deeds indexing standards
- All 100 counties have current computerized indexes
- 70 counties have completed basic cadastral (property ownership) mapping
- 61 counties have cadastral data in digital form
- 35 counties have digital orthophotos (special aerial photographs)
- 57 counties have hardcopy orthophotos
- 66 counties have GIS (Geographic Information System)

North Carolina Department of the Secretary of State
Uniform Commercial Code Section
Frances Wells, Director

Section Functions

The Uniform Commercial Code ("UCC") Section serves as a vital source for "credit check" information used by banks and other lenders when a business or person in North Carolina wants to borrow money, for business or personal purchases. The UCC Section maintains hundreds of thousands of public filings regarding loans and federal tax liens, as part of a nationwide system of centralized filing of certain loan and tax lien information. Effective July 1, 2001, Revised Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code will centralize North Carolina's UCC filing system for the vast majority of such filings from currently 101 filing offices into one centralized office at the Department of the Secretary of State.

Section Staff, Budget, and Revenue

- The UCC staff is currently increasing from 29 to 70 budgeted employees, as result of the Revised Article 9 legislation in 2000, in order to provide adequate staffing to meet the increase in work volume resulting from centralization and related law changes.

- The additional 41 positions are being hired in phases, with various positions being authorized for addition in October 2000, January and April, 2001.

- UCC Section employees perform computer indexing and verification of transactions; certified debtor research involving computer-, microfilm-, and paper-based research; and respond to almost 20,000 other public inquiries we receive annually. Employees are cross-trained to perform all section functions.

- Budgeted appropriations for FY 2000-01 are $3,577,674.

UCC Workload

- A total of 132,580 UCC and federal tax lien filings were processed in calendar year 2000.

- The filing volume in the UCC Section is expected to increase from approximately 140,000 documents per year to approximately 320,000 filings per year with the implementation of the Revised Article 9 legislation.

North Carolina Department of the Secretary of State
Authentications Office
Charlene P. Dawkins, Director

Office Functions

The Authentications Office is responsible for signing and issuing certificates of authenticity for documents intended for use in foreign countries. The office authenticates a variety of documents from commercial organizations, private citizens, and governmental officials. Examples of such documents include: corporate bylaws, powers of attorney, academic transcripts, distributorship agreements, statements of marital status, employment certifications, real property deeds, assignments of interest, death certificates, patent applications, and adoption related papers. Depending upon the country of intended use for the document, the Authentication Office will issue either an Apostille or an Authentication.

Apostilles

An Apostille is a special kind of authentication. If the document is to be used in one of the signatory countries of the Convention de La Haye 5 Octobre 1961, it should be notarized, then certified by the Register of Deeds in the county in which the notary is commissioned. The final stage is presentment for authentication with an Apostille by the Secretary of State of North Carolina. The Apostille requires no authentication by the United States Department of State. It is ready to go directly to the country of intended use.

Authentications

Countries not party to the Convention de La Haye 5 Octobre 1961 still require that documents be authenticated. Those countries require that the document have the Great Seal of the State. Documents so authenticated by the Department of the Secretary of State of North Carolina are then transmitted to the Authentication Service of the United States Department of State for further action. Then they may be utilized in the country of intended use.

The staff for this section includes two (2) Processing Assistant V positions.

The budget is through the Administration Division.

North Carolina Department of the Secretary of State
Solicitation Licensing Section

Section Functions

License and regulate charitable solicitation and professional fundraising

- Protects the public and charities from fraudulent and deceptive charitable solicitation
- Requires full disclosure by persons who solicit contributions from the public
- Requires full disclosures of the purposes for which the contributions are solicited and how the contributions are actually used
- The Section has files regarding over 2,000 charitable organizations and sponsors, and 400 professional fundraisers. All this is public information.

Section Staff and Budget

- Four full-time positions:
  Section Chief
  Administrative Assistant Secretary
  Attorney
- The Section is 100% fee supported with an approval budget of $226,953 for fiscal year 2000-01
- During fiscal year 1999-00, the Section generated $416,685 in receipts.

N.C. Secretary of State Trademark Section

Section Functions

- Processes initial applications and renewal applications for trademark and service mark registration each year, which includes a review of the application and supporting specimens
- Performs legal research to determine the registrability of mark applications and writes correspondence and briefs to support decisions made by the Section
- Generates and mails out Five-year Affidavits of Use and Ten-year Applications for Renewal (approximately a total of 100 each month)
- Reviews and processes Five-year Affidavits of Use
- Enters data into the trademark database
- Generates and mails Certificates of Registration and Renewal for marks that are actually registered
- Processes assignments of marks from the original owner to other parties and records registrants' name changes
- Investigates and assists in the criminal prosecution of individuals who manufacture or sell counterfeit goods
- Conducts training for the law enforcement community within North Carolina to bring about greater awareness of what counterfeit goods are, their impact on consumers and the economic market, and how to properly investigate counterfeit trademark cases
- Distributes handbook entitled How To Register a Trademark or Service Mark in North Carolina

Why These Functions Are Important

- Protects the consuming public, as well as the business community
  - For consumers, registration of trademarks and service marks helps to prevent the purchase and consumption of inferior and often dangerous goods
  - For businesses, registration prevents others from the unauthorized association with legitimate manufacturers and also prevents the marketing of inferior and often dangerous goods under a registered mark.
- Nationwide, it is estimated that $200 billion are lost annually as a result of the marketing of counterfeit goods. That figure is up from $60 billion in 1988. Goods that have been counterfeited include clothing, jewelry, clothing accessories, baby formula, shampoo, over-the-counter medications, sound and video recordings, etc..

Division Function By Staff

- Total number of positions is three (3). All positions are currently filled.
  - Trademark Supervisor (Paralegal I - SG 65) - Responsible for supervision of the Trademark Specialist. This employee plans, organizes, and evaluates the organization of the Trademark Section; is responsible for procuring technological updates to the trademarks database; and ensures that current, helpful information is maintained on the Trademarks Section webpage.

- Trademark Specialist (AA II - SG 65) - Responsible for examining trademark applications and other documents submitted for filing in the Secretary of State's Office.

- Trademark Investigator (Admin. Officer II - SG 70) - Responsible for the detection, investigation and punishment of fraudulent and non-fraudulent violations of the various acts administered by the Department of the Secretary of State, including the Trademark Registration Act, Lobbyist Registration Act, Athlete Agent Registration Act, etc.. This position is also responsible for conducting training for law enforcement officers statewide on the topic of counterfeit trademark enforcement.

Total Budget: Budget is through the Administration Division.

Key Trademark Section Facts

- A mark registration is effective for ten (10) years; however, mark owners must verify their continued use of the mark at the expiration of five (5) years from the original date of registration by filing an Affidavit of Use, which is reviewed and approved by the Trademark Section.

- The Trademark Section reviews an average of nearly 700 applications for trademark and service mark registration each year. Of those applications reviewed, the Trademark Section registers about 575 of the marks for which registration is sought. Additionally, the Trademark Section reviews about 200 additional 10-year applications for renewal each year.

- During the most recently completed fiscal year, FY 99-00, the Trademark Section reviewed 646 initial applications for registration and issued 608 new registrations based upon those applications. It also reviewed 283 applications for renewal and, of those, issued 241 renewal registrations.

- In response to customer requests, the Trademark Section distributes an average of 1026 copies of our manual, How to Register a Trademark or Service Mark in North Carolina, each year. During FY 99-00, the number of manuals distributed dipped below the average to 788. The reason for the decline is unclear at this point, but it may be attributable to business practice changes in the state.

- In FY 99-00, the first full year of operation for the enforcement arm of the Trademark Section, twenty-three people were arrested and prosecuted for violations of the counterfeit trademark provisions of Chapter 80 of the North Carolina General Statutes. Additionally, a significant number of counterfeit items were seized by the Trademark Investigator, having a total dollar value of $1,050,674. Along with the seizure of those counterfeit goods, the Trademark Investigator seized other personal property used in the manufacture and sale of counterfeit items, including 121 silk screens and 7 vehicles.

North Carolina Department of the Secretary of State
Lobbyist Registration Office
Gayle P. Holder, Director

Office Functions

Publications Division Facts

- The Publications Division responded to 3,800 requests for information about state government in the 99-00 fiscal year. This is roughly a 19% increase over requests for information handled in the 98-99 fiscal year. Customers for this service include the general public, businesses, legislators, students and other state government agencies.

- The division's distribution of printed materials at the North Carolina State Fair rose 78% to 17,800 pieces in 00-01, up from 10,000 pieces in 99-00 and 5,000 in 98-99.

- The department's total book distribution was 19,000 in 00-01. Improved distribution of The Directory of State and County Officials to other state agencies and county governments has driven demand for the book higher. In past years, each edition usually had several hundred copies left over by the time the next edition arrived. Now, almost all copies are distributed within 4-6 weeks after they arrive from the publisher.

- Mail volume continues to increase in the mail center. Last year, the center handled roughly 580,000 pieces of mail. This year, the center will probably handle around 620,000 pieces – a 6.9% increase. At the same time, the mail center handles supply receiving and distribution for the entire department and is maintaining a supply room stocked with roughly 20,000 different items.

- The division established a copy center for the entire agency in 00-01. So far this fiscal year, the copy center has printed 361,000 individual copies for divisions throughout the agency.

- The division expanded its web site over the last year to provide a large amount of North Carolina-related material for secondary school students and adult visitors. Among this material were imaged samples of historic documents from the division's archives.

Secretary of State's Recommended Budget Changes

Based on the Governor's recommended budget for the next biennium (2001-03), the department can already be viewed as beginning with a $384,242 deficit, as explained below. This amount equates to a 4.4% reduction of the total budget ($8,760,901). The department has been asked to identify a 1% or 2% budget cut beyond the Governor's recommended budget. This additional cut (identified below) would further add to the budget shortfall for the Department of the Secretary of State. Senior management has carefully reviewed the department budget, and has determined that the department cannot sustain any additional cuts without reducing services and/or employees that would directly impact the ability to maintain the level of revenues currently being generated.

Details of the current deficit are as follows:

$162,100	Budgeted receipts in Corporations and UCC that will not be received from the sale of tapes due to lack of customer demand.
127,142	Difference in budgeted rent and actual lease amount for the new UCC facility.
95,000	Estimated cost to print the 2001-02 N. C. Manual.
$384,242	Current deficit

Regarding the additional requested cuts:

$ 87,609	Requested 1% cut. (A 2% cut in the overall budget would total $175,218.)
$ 471,851	Total Budget Shortfall

In light of the current deficit and the risk to service and revenue-generating capacity endangered by further cuts, the Department of the Secretary of State therefore recommends increasing fees in the following two areas. These small increases should generate an additional $700,000 - $900,000 in annual revenues:

1. Increase the fees for Certificates of Corporate Existence from the Corporations Division from $5.00 to $10.00. We currently generate approximately 20,000 such certificates per year; a $5 fee increase would thus result in an additional $100,000 annual revenue. A $5.00 increase would keep this fee in line with similar fees in surrounding states.

2. Increase the fee to obtain a Notary Public Commission from $30.00 to $50.00. There are approximately 30,000 - 40,000 commission applications annually. A $20 fee increase should thus generate increased annual revenue of $600,000 - $800,000. This fee increase would effectively cause a notary commission to cost $10 per year. Notaries may charge $3.00 per notarial act, so the proposed commission cost represents only 3 1/3 notarial acts per year.

The department recommends that if these fee proposals are adopted, the $384,242 deficit described above be reinstated into the departmental budget. This would still result in a net revenue increase to the General Fund of approximately $300,000 - $500,000.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 17, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Tuesday April 17, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, and Gene Wilson. Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism from the fiscal staff were also present.

Senator Ed Warren chaired the meeting. He introduced and welcomed the Pages. They are Heather Lambert from Representative J. Crawford's district and Ben Johnson from Senator Kinnaird's district.

Senator Warren introduced Joseph J. DeLuca with Rules Review Commission. Mr. DeLuca reviewed the handout. (attachment 1). The possible cuts are on page 5.

In answer to a question: Board Members receive the same compensation as other state boards and commissions when traveling.

In answer to a question: Generally there are only 12 meetings per year. The Rules Review Commission has budgeted for 13 meetings and hopeful will only have 12, the 13 meeting is for necessity only.

Out of state meetings are generally for National Secretaries of State/Administrative Codes and Registers. There is one conference a year about administrative rule making all over the country and they go to one conference a year. Generally 8 or 9 of the 10 commissioners attend the meeting.

The Rules Review Commission completed their review and the meeting moved on to the Office of Administrative Hearings.

Judge Julian Mann is the Director of the Office of Administrative Hearings. He opened by explaining that there are two functions that do not fall within the nomenclature of Administrative Hearings. They are publications (North Carolina Register and the North Carolina Administrative Code) and the Civil Rights Division is a fellow agency of the EEOC for claims of discrimination by state employees and state government that results in investigation.

Judge Mann reviewed the handout (attachment 2). He explained that a big part of the budget is the administrative travel that the judges have to do. He also said that they do not pay rent for the Lee house. He offered that cutting positions could net a 1% cut but that to offer a 2% cut would require the cutting of more positions. Judge Mann continued by reviewing in detail the list of vacancies on page 24. In answer to a question, he explained that frequently the people who leave do so for higher pay than they can make with state employment. The salaries of positions are set by Statute.

Judge Mann reviewed the Span of Control on page 21. They are trying to combine two positions in order to reduce budget. The budget reduction will be brought back on April 18 at 8:30.

The committee was adjourned. The next General Government meeting is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. on April 18, 2001.

Respectfully submitted

Senator Ed Warren, Chair

Delores Ledford, Committee Clerk

RULES REVIEW COMMISSION

NORTH CAROLINA RULES REVIEW COMMISSION

The N.C. Rules Review Commission's statutory duty is to review the rules (sometimes called administrative laws, administrative rules, or regulations) of most of the state agencies according to the standards set out in N.C.G.S. §150B-21.9. Those standards require that an agency act within the authority delegated to it by the General Assembly, that a rule be clear and unambiguous, and that a rule be reasonably necessary.

If the commission decides that a rule does not meet any of those standards, i.e., that the rule is not authorized, that it is not clear and unambiguous, or that it is not necessary, then it should object to the rule. The agency may then rewrite the rule to satisfy the commission's objection and have the rule approved.

The commission also may review a rule to be certain that the agency followed the statutory rulemaking process. If the agency did not, then the commission may return the rule to the agency to correct the deficiency and proceed with its rulemaking.

The other main function of the agency, although not set out as a statutory mandate, is to act as a resource center, helper, and adviser to state agencies and private individuals on the process of enacting administrative rules. The staff attorneys spend much time "pre-reviewing" proposed agency rules to ensure a smoother rulemaking process and to ensure that the rules as enacted are within the above requirements. This function has grown more important and more time consuming since the 1995 legislative changes enlarged the Rules Review Commission's authority.

Another aspect of this resource function is to act as an educator to members of the legislature and the general public. In the past few years the two attorneys on the staff have been spending more time giving lectures and continuing education classes on the role of the RRC and administrative rules.

General Government Appropriations Subcommittee

Attachment # 2

Office of Administrative Hearings
Mission Statement

To provide a forum for prompt and impartial resolution of disputes of administrative law involving state agencies, to investigate alleged acts of certain unlawful employment practices and to function as the state's codifier and publisher of all proposed and permanent administrative rules

Office of Administrative Hearings Goals

- Increase fairness and protect due process rights in the application of administrative law in contested case hearings.
- Reduce the incidence of discrimination in employment practices.
- Increase citizen awareness of the existence and value of administrative rules.

Office of Administrative Hearings
Key Funding Issues

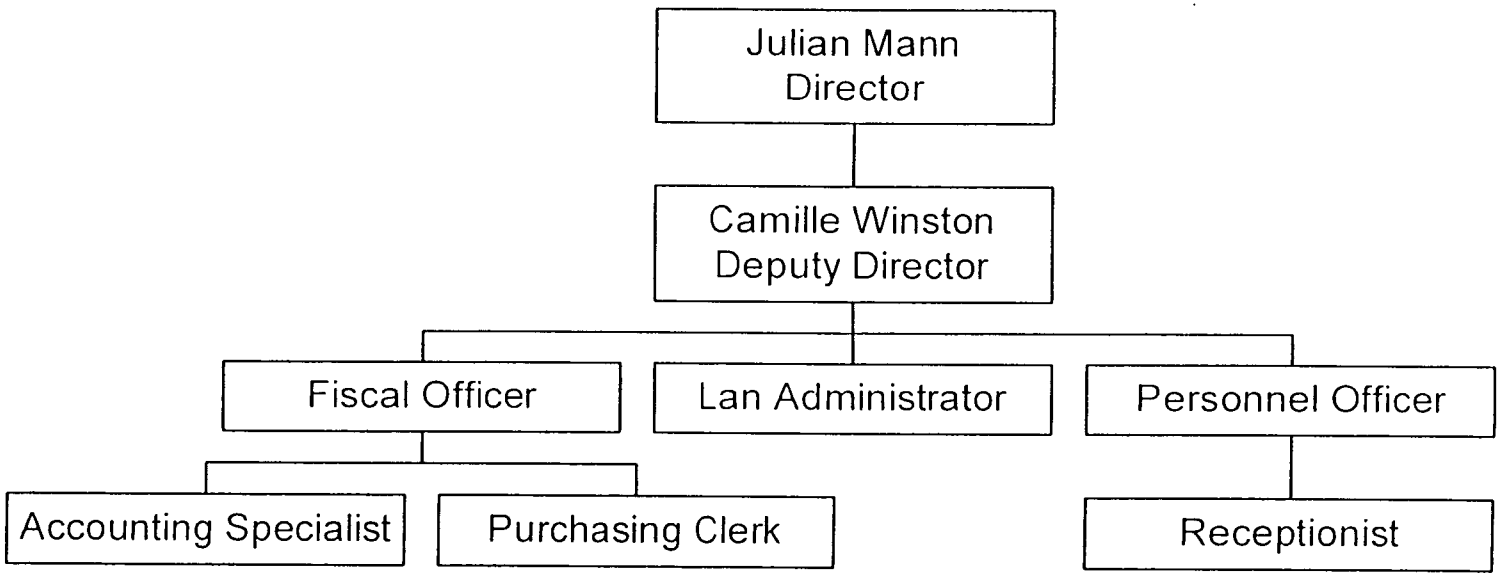
- Establish two positions that will address the Agency's critical needs in the areas of legal services and computer applications support and development.
- Funding to provide adequate work facilities for the Office of Administrative Hearings.
- Provide additional positions to allow OAH to adequately address the needs of the Civil Rights division.
- Funding to allow the Rules Division to develop the programs needed to provide Internet access to the NC Register and NC Administrative Code.
- Funding to allow the Hearings Division to complete the automated hearings program and to integrate electronic filing into the system.

Administrative Services Mission

- To provide administrative services support to the divisions of the Office of Administrative Hearings in the areas of:

  - Budget and Accounting
  - Personnel Services
  - Contract Administration
  - Communication Services
  - Local Area Network (LAN) Services
  - Facility and Equipment Services

Administrative Services Organization



There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

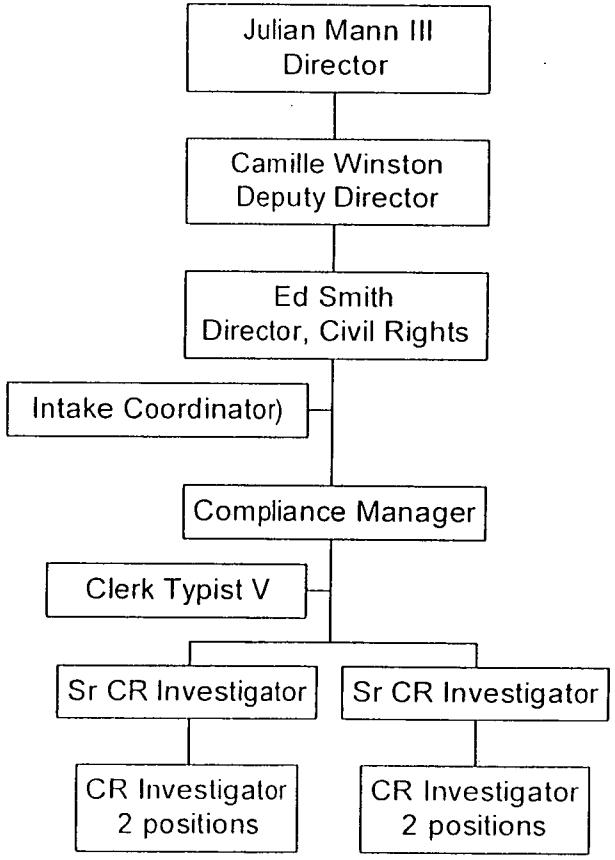
Administrative Services Issues

- OAH critically needs to establish two positions that will provide support to the entire Agency in the areas of legal services and computer applications support and development. The services of an Agency Legal Specialist are critically needed to provide counsel and interpretive advice. The Civil Rights division has the most critical need for this service as their work is based on legal requirements set out in federal and state statutes. Considering the often times conflicting and contradictory nature of these laws, it is necessary to have the services of in-house counsel in order that the Divisions' strategic goals are accomplished. Additionally, a computer applications support position is urgently needed to address the needs of the Agency in supporting current applications and in designing new applications that will enable OAH to operate more efficiently and meet current goals.
- OAH office facilities are inadequate for the effective and safe operation of the Agency. This causes problems in providing adequate support to all staff. A staff of only 44 employees is physically located in four different locations.

Civil Rights Division
Mission

- To serve as the State's 706 Deferral Agency for investigations of alleged discrimination by State employees on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin or disability in employment.
- To investigate charges alleging retaliation for opposition to such discrimination brought by previous and current state employees or applicants for employment.
- To investigate charges alleging political discrimination brought by previous and current state employees or applicants for employment.

Civil Rights Division Organization

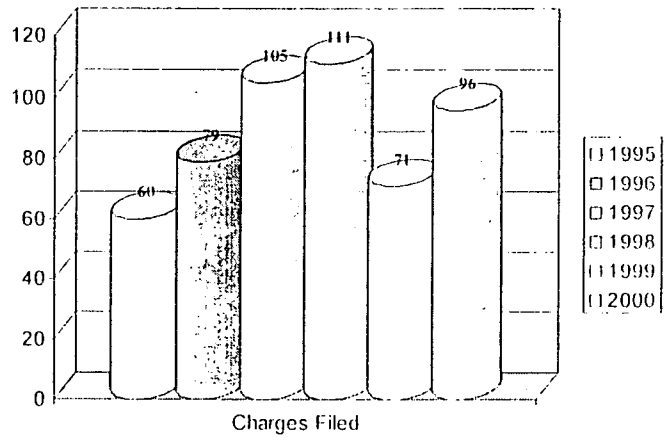


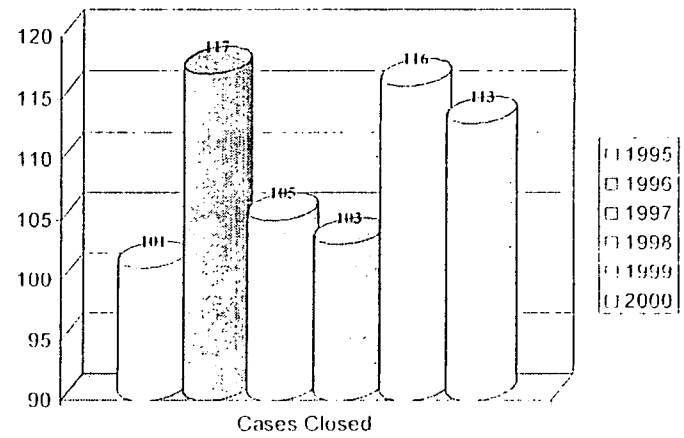
There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

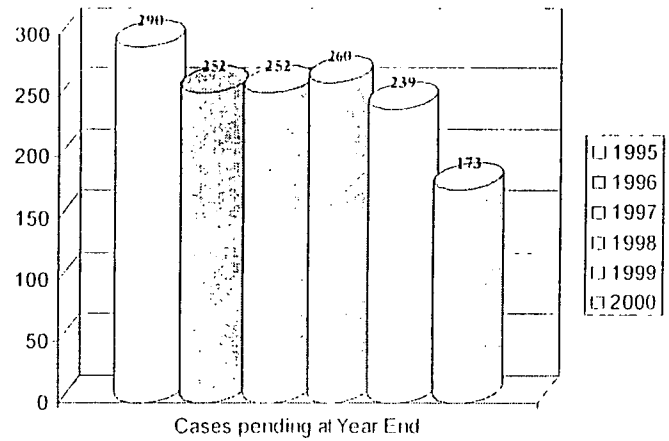
Civil Rights Issues

- The implementation of political discrimination cases has placed a burden on staff resources to resolve these cases within the statutorily mandated timeframe. Additionally, the investigation and resolution of EEOC cases has become more complex and time consuming due to legal requirements set out in federal and state statutes.
- Additional personnel resources are needed to adequately address the needs of the Civil Rights Division. Due to only marginal increases in staffing and additional responsibilities being assigned, it is becoming increasingly difficult to keep pace with acceptable case closure rates and carry out other oversight activities that have been assigned.

Civil Rights Division
Number of Investigations



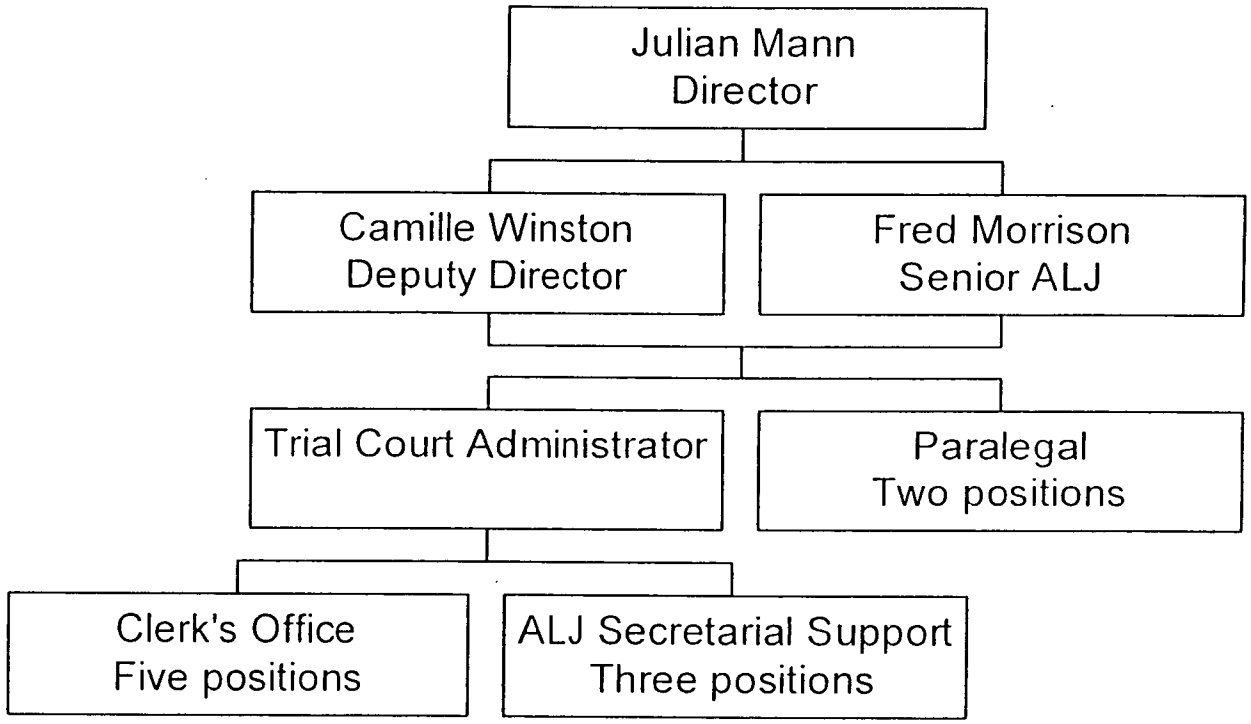




Hearings Division
Mission

- To receive and maintain all contested cases and petitions filed and to hear contested cases by persons aggrieved who file against state agencies and who believe they have been deprived of property; substantially prejudiced of rights; or required to pay a fine or civil penalty.

Hearings Division Organization

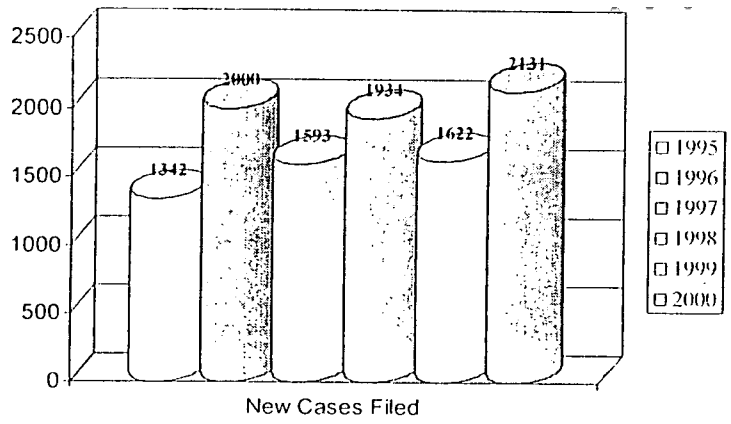


There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

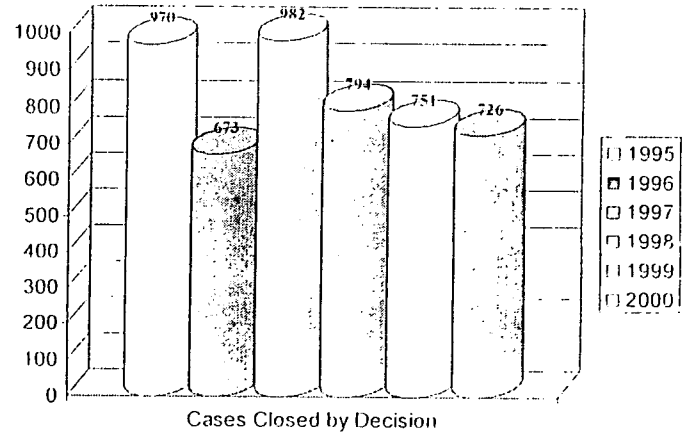
Hearings Division Issues

- Citizens' demand for government regulation (environment, day care, nursing homes, hog farms, etc.) adds extra burden on OAH to provide timely and competent hearings of contested cases.
- Growth in number and complexity of new cases increases the importance of a responsive OAH.
- Completion of our automated case tracking system will provide Hearings Division with improved efficiency and will provide OAH with on-line current case information and statistics. Additionally, OAH would like to expand this system to accommodate electronic filing of documents.

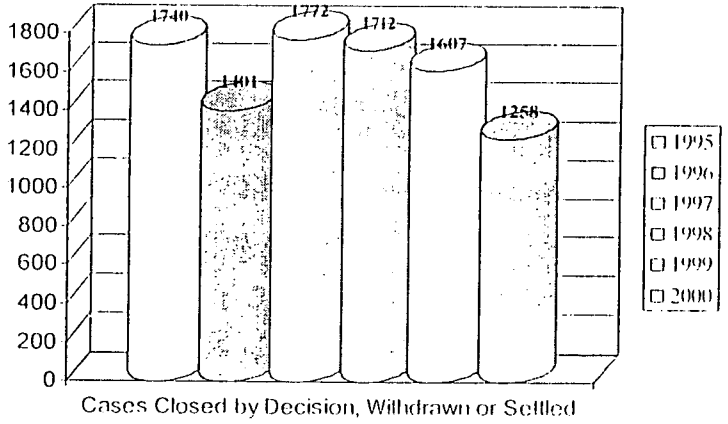
Hearings Division
Number of Cases



New Cases Filed



Cases Closed by Decision

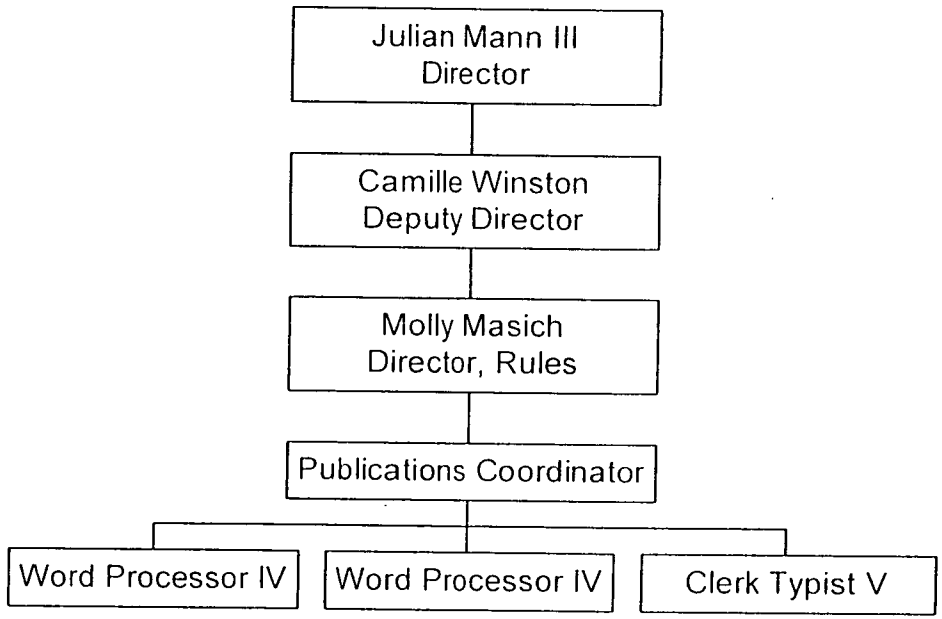


Cases Closed by Decision, Withdrawn or Settled

Rules Division
Mission

- To provide means for citizen and public input into the rule-making process through notice and public hearing.
- To assist state agencies in publishing proposed rules and rule-making hearings (as required by law) in the NC Register before adopting the rule.
- To publish and maintain the official codification of all of North Carolina's agency rules - NC Administrative Code.
- To review findings of need for temporary rules.
- This division serves a variety of users through these publications - the citizens of N.C., citizens and industries in other states, agencies of the State, the Rules Review Commission and the General Assembly .

Rules Division Organization



There have been no change in this organization chart since January 6, 2001

Rules Division
Issues

- The growing complexity of government operations results in more complex agency rules.
- The current mode of distribution (printed copies provided by subscription) allows limited public access to the NC Administrative Code and Register. Internet access would provide for more timely distribution of rules. This mode of publication would be more readily accessible to the users and would be provided free of charge. The information would be in a searchable form and would incorporate all actions by all bodies on proposed and permanent rules. The Agency proposes to incorporate a rule tracking system into the Internet application.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE ON GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Wednesday, April 18, 2001

8:30 A.M.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Wednesday, April 18, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. House members present were: Representatives Wilma Sherrill, Chair; Jeffus, Chair; Adams, Lucas, Barefoot and Wilson. There were four Senators present. Committee Counsel present: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. (Visitor Registration list is attached for the record.)

Representative Sherrill chaired the meeting. She called the meeting to order, welcomed those in attendance and introduced the pages.

Michele Nelson, Staff Counsel, explained the information on the sheet prepared by Tony Goldman, Director of Administration. This information was in answer to a question previously asked by Representative Sherrill about the unused member telephone and postage allowances remaining on December 31, 2000. The records indicated an unused balance per member of $1036.00. (Attachment I)

Representative Sherrill introduced Secretary of State, Elaine Marshall, who made opening remarks relative to the Department's fiscal year 2002 Budget Shortfall and Additional Requested Cuts. Mike Peeler of the Secretary of State's office explained the 1% and 2% cuts in the Department. (Attachment II)

Representative Sherrill asked what the positions were to be cut. Mr. Peeler replied that were in the Business License Section.

Senator Harris asked how do you plan to handle your current deficit. Secretary Marshall answered "We hope to get some help from the General assembly".

Senator Harris asked if it was truly a deficit or was there something you could do about it. Secretary Marshall said it was real.

Senator Harris asked if the Governor's budget included enough money for rent. Secretary Marshall said "no". She also added that the money for printing the North Carolina Manual was not in the Governor's budget. They are hoping the manual can be printed next year. Representative Barefoot said the North Carolina Manual had been printed for many years, even when we had other budget crisis. He said it was an excellent tool with information that you cannot obtain anywhere else. He said it would be a shame not to print this manual.

Representative Sherrill wanted to know what the total budget was for printing. And was there some things being printed which were not necessary. Staff will check into this and bring an answer back to the committee.

Representative Sherrill introduced Gwynn Swinson, Secretary of the Department of Administration who presented their mission to the committee. (Attachment III)

Representative Sherrill introduced Leila Tvedt, Executive Director of the Agency for Public Telecommunications, who explained the functions of this department.

Representative Sherrill asked if they had any federal grants. Ms. Tvedt answered that they had no federal grants at this time.

Rodney Helder, then explained the Division of Non-Public Education and Charles Smith, Assistant Secretary of Veterans Affairs, presented the functions of his department.

The Department of Administration will continue its presentation on Thursday morning, April 19, 2001 at 8:30 a.m.

The meeting adjourned at 9:50 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosa S. Kelley, Committee Assistant

Representative Wilma Sherrill, Chair

Subject: Member Telephone/Postage Allowance

Follow Up Flag: Follow up
Flag Status: Flagged

Rep. Sherrill asked about the unused member telephone and postage allowances remaining at 12/31/00. Our records indicate the following:

	Members Not Using Full Allowance	Remaining 12/31 Balance(End of Term)
Senate	41	$37,725
House	108	$116,647
Total	149	$154,372 (Avg unused Balance/member = $1,036)

All members, with the exception of the Speaker and the Pres. Pro Tem, receive an allowance. Any amount not used becomes part of the General Assembly reserve carry forward at fiscal year end.

Rep. Sherrill mentioned that computer access to the GA had reduced some of the need for members to be calling back to their office in Raleigh. Toll-free computer access costs for FY 99/00 was $77,220 or an average of $6,435 per month. This expense is not charged to member allowances, but unused allowance amounts can be used to off-set this expense.

If you have any questions about any of the information, give me a call.

AGENCY FOR PUBLIC TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Summary

The Agency for Public Telecommunications (APT) was founded in 1979 to provide telecommunications advice and production assistance to public agencies. APT's purpose is to increase public participation in government, to promote public access to government services, and to improve government efficiency through the best use of available telecommunications technologies. APT is supported by a combination of legislative appropriations and corporate, foundation, and federal grants, and by receipts for production services. An appointed Board of Telecommunications Commissioners, who meet quarterly, provides policy direction.

Accomplishments

APT offers a number of services to citizens and public agencies:

Live Programs: On its Open Public Events Network (OPEN), APT produces live, call-in programs on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. OPEN programs are distributed by satellite to cable systems which carry these prime-time programs as a public service to their subscribers and to homes equipped with satellite downlink receivers. Each program includes a discussion between viewers who call from their homes and public officials, policy makers and other panelists in our Raleigh studio who respond to viewers' questions and comments.

Media Services: In serving public agency clients, APT offers a full range of professional video production services ranging from conceptualization through project completion. Options include script writing, booking talent, studio and field shooting, post-production, and distribution of broadcast-quality audio and video according to the clients' needs and budgets. Our clients' productions have received numerous local and national awards for excellence.

Teleconferencing: Using KU-Band and leased C-Band, APT provides full-motion video teleconferencing to participants at community colleges, public schools and other locations across North Carolina and in other states. This one-way video, two-way audio service includes network development and studio production. Conferencing by phone and fiber optic cable is also available, depending on the client's deadlines and budget.

HUMAN RESOURCES MANAGEMENT

Summary

The Human Resources Management (HRM) Office provides a range of services for the Department of Administration. The HRM services encompass all major areas of personnel administration in accordance with the requirements of the State Personnel Act. The HRM Office is responsible for employee recruitment and selection, position management, salary administration, training and development, employee and management relations, EEO/affirmative action, safety and health, and health benefits administration. This Office also administers on a statewide basis the State Employees Incentive Bonus Program.

Accomplishments

State Employees Incentive Bonus Program (SEIBP)

The State Employees Incentive Bonus program is designed to provide a mechanism to recognize and reward the cost-saving and revenue-increasing initiatives and innovations of State employees. Since 1999, $398,000 in awards have been made to employees for state savings exceeding $2,000,000. A number of employees suggested quality improvements and were awarded certificates from the Governor with up to 3 days of leave with pay.

An accessible, user friendly and efficient SEIBP web site has been developed. Employees can access this web site to become better informed about SEIBP, to download a suggestion form, and to catch the latest money-saving idea winners.

A video entitled "Win Big with the State Employee Incentive Bonus Program" highlighted the winners of the 1999 awards. This video was mailed to all department coordinators, describes the program, encourages participation and is used by coordinators to educate employees.

A panel was aired on OpenNet to educate employees and citizens of the State regarding SEIBP and the employee management partnership which is providing state taxpayers value through increased savings.

Work/Family Life Program

To assist DOA employees with balancing work and family life, a Work Life program was developed in 1999. This program is designed to improve employee awareness of existing supportive benefits and policies and to offer support and resources regarding complex work life issues. A Work Life Resource Center is available for DOA employees and is located in the Human Resources Management Office. Lunchtime seminars have also been scheduled to provide support and information to employees faced with the demands and responsibilities of balancing their work and personal lives.

Safety and Health

The Department of Administration has offered Health and Wellness Fairs for several years. Employees from five departments have participated in the fair. The 2000 Health and Wellness Fair had 39 vendors to including audiologists, chiropractors, massage therapists, insurance companies (health, life, disability, and dental), financial institutions, and the American Red Cross.

For four consecutive years, the Department has received Certificates of Safety Achievement in recognition of outstanding accident prevention efforts. These initiatives have resulted in a substantial reduction of accidents and the promotion of safety working conditions from the NC Department of Labor.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Speakers have presented workshops and lunchtime presentations on topics such as Managing Diversity and Cross-Cultural Relations. To recognize the increase in the Spanish population in the workforce, the department began offering Spanish classes in 1999.

DIVISION OF NON-PUBLIC EDUCATION

Summary

The NC Division of Non-Public Education (DNPE) was originally established in 1961 as a regulatory agency within the NC Department of Public Instruction. In 1979, the NC General Assembly enacted legislation requiring the Governor to designate a "duly authorized representative of the State of North Carolina" to receive notices of intent to operate and also to terminate a private elementary/secondary school in North Carolina and to inspect certain records of those schools. Governor James B. Hunt Jr. subsequently assigned this responsibility to the Director of DNPE. DNPE operated as a monitoring agency under the direct jurisdiction of the Office of the Governor from October 1979 until July 1, 1998 when it was transferred to the Department of Administration.

DNPE is the only legislatively authorized state government agency which provides oversight to private elementary/secondary schools in this state. It derives its authority from G.S. 115C - 553, 561 and 563(b) of Article 39, Chapter 115C of the NC General Statutes. Article 39 sets forth a list of requirements to be met by such schools. DNPE has the legal responsibility to verify that all private elementary/secondary schools (both conventional and home) are meeting those requirements by periodically inspecting certain school records.

DNPE maintains limited current statistical data on each private elementary/secondary school including the school's name, address, telephone number, chief administrator and type of school. Information relating to the range of grades or ages taught and the number of students enrolled are also maintained. Conventional school information is published each September as the NC Directory of Non-Public Schools. Home school data is released each September. The DNPE web site posts this information annually.

During FY 99-00, there were 644 conventional and 16,623 home schools registered with the division and being monitored for legal compliance. Two staff members traveled a total of 16,430 miles and spent 37 overnights in inspecting the records of 335 conventional schools. Due to inadequate funding and staffing, no home school visits were conducted. However, 4,303 home schools voluntarily participated in the Home School Inspection By Mail Program -- whereby home school administrators mail to DNPE at the end of the school year a photocopy (keeping originals) of student attendance and nationally standardized achievement test results. The division staff handled an average of at least 2,991 incoming business telephone calls and at least 1,330 pieces of incoming business mail per month.

DNPE administers the non-public school student driving eligibility certificate program. It also serves as the State's government liaison office to the private elementary/secondary school community and the general public.

Accomplishments

Monitored 17,267 non-public schools for compliance to state laws governing them

Registered 6,262 new home schools

Registered 49 new conventional non-public schools

Mailed 13,211 student driving eligibility certificates to non-public schools requesting them

In response to requests, distributed at least 14,737 non-public school information packets to people considering starting a home or conventional non-public school

Conducted on site record inspection visits to 335 conventional non-public schools

Reviewed student attendance and nationally standardized test result records for 4,303 home schools through the Inspection By Mail Program

Focused our efforts on making the agency more efficient, cost effective and customer friendly

Greatly expanded and re-designed the division's web site -- much more information now available

PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICE

Summary

The Public Information Office (PIO) assisted the Department with a variety of communications efforts between 1999 through February 2001. They include the writing, formatting, editing and distribution of 164 press releases, more than 20 reports, 61 newsletters, and more than 200 brochures, flyers and other printed material. The office researched and wrote numerous speeches for the Secretary and assisted with 31 gubernatorial proclamations. The PIO also assisted with press events and responded to numerous media inquiries. In addition, the Office makes daily updates to the Department's Web site and coordinates all departmental submissions to the state's Web site, North Carolina @ Your Service. The PIO also compiled the state government telephone listings for the Raleigh BellSouth Telephone directory and prepared and distributed a listing of frequently called numbers in state government for telephone directories statewide.

Accomplishments

Some of the events that were promoted and/or received media coverage include the following:

VETERANS AFFAIRS

Summary

The Division of Veterans Affairs provides services to veterans, their dependents and survivors. The district and county veterans service offices received 461,997 requests for assistance in 1999 and 594,631 in 2000 from veterans, their dependents and survivors which resulted in new awards to clients in the amount of $3,684,600 in 1999 and $2,512,000 in 2000 from the US Department of Veterans Affairs. The federal government also paid $66.6 million and $71.2 million for 1999 and 2000 respectively in direct monthly payments to North Carolina's eligible beneficiaries. The new awards will improve the standard of living for the clients of the North Carolina offices.

Accomplishments

State Veterans Nursing Home Program

Construction on North Carolina's first State Veterans Nursing Home in Fayetteville was completed in 1999. The home, adjacent to the VA Medical Center, opened March 8, 1999. The 150-bed facility has served 277 veterans with health care needs in skilled and intermediate nursing care.

The home currently has 147 residents (85 private pay patients, 49 medicaid patients and 13 medicare patients). Since the first patient was admitted, we have received $2,733,140.49 in per diem payments from the US Department of Veterans Affairs.

The Division employs a contract firm to operate the facility, using only receipts to provide the long-term health care for our veterans. The State Veterans Nursing Home saves North Carolina approximately $500,000 in the state and local portion of medicaid expenditures each year.

The NC General Assembly appropriated $1 million for the establishment of a second State Veterans Nursing Home in Salisbury. An application was made to the US Department of Veterans Affairs for federal matching funds of $2.1 million, and the proposal has been approved. Construction plans are complete and the final approval will be received in the very near future. We plan to begin operations in Salisbury in March 2002 of that 100-bed facility.

State Cemeteries Program

Three state veterans cemeteries located in Black Mountain, Jacksonville and Spring Lake provide interments for veterans and eligible dependents. The three cemeteries provided 563 burials in 1999 and 604 burials in 2000.

State Scholarships for Children of North Carolina War Veterans

The North Carolina Veterans Affairs Commission awarded 334 scholarships in 1999 and 297 in 2000 to children of deceased and disabled war veterans.

North Carolina Board of Ethics

Number of Board Members: Seven appointed by the Governor

Purpose: The Board's overall mission is to protect the public interest and maintain the public trust by helping covered "Public Officials" avoid conflicts of interest and appearances of conflict of interest as they perform their public duties. Covered "Public Officials" include gubernatorial and legislative appointees to non-advisory boards and commissions within the Executive Branch of State Government, and exempt from the State Personnel Act employees in the Executive Branch including university officers as designated by the Board of Governors. The Board pursues it goals primarily through education, evaluation of statements of economic interest, advisory opinions, and complaint investigations.

Structure: The Board is supported by a staff of three: (1) an Executive Director, (2) an Administrative Officer, and (3) a Research Assistant.

Budget: Beginning July 1, 2000, the Board had a budget of $225,750 with which to oversee and assist approximately 250 boards and commissions and 2000 actual or prospective appointees and employees.

Report on Activities for 2000:

The Board had two meetings in 2000.

The Board investigated and resolved five formal complaints.

The Board issued 9 advisory opinions.[1]

The Board's Executive Director made ethics education and awareness presentations to 54 entities reaching over 2000 individuals.

Board staff handled numerous telephone inquiries concerning the Order and Statement of Economic Interest filing requirements and general conflict of interest/appearance of conflict issues.

The Board published four newsletters that were mailed to public officials subject to the Order, staff directors for boards subject to the Order, and other interested persons.

Board staff evaluated and made available for public inspection approximately 2,513 supplemental statements of economic interest and 275 new statements of economic interest. Our findings for the new statements of economic interest were as follows:

---

[1] Complaints and advisory opinions are initiated by third parties and thus their numbers are outside the Board's control.

No actual, potential, or appearance of conflict of interest	152
Potential for conflict of interest	122
Actual conflict of interest	0
Appearance of conflict of interest	1

North Carolina Board of Science and Technology

Summary

Under North Carolina General Statute, the Board has the following duties:

To identify, and to support and foster the identification of important research needs of both public and private agencies, institutions, and organizations in North Carolina;

To make recommendations concerning policies, procedures, organizational structures, and financial requirements that will promote effective use of scientific and technological resources in fulfilling the research needs identified;

To allocate funds available to the Board to support research projects, to purchase research equipment and supplies, to construct or modify research facilities, to employ consultants, and for other purposes necessary or appropriate in discharging the duties of the Board.

Accomplishments

Vision 2030

The Vision 2030 Project is a "real-options'" planning effort undertaken to strengthen the competitiveness of North Carolina's workforce and industry by taking advantage of science and technology-driven economic development opportunities in the areas of information technology, bioscience/biotechnology, and new materials sciences. The House and Senate Information Technology Committees joined the Board in sponsoring the Vision 2030 Project, as did the North Carolina Department of Commerce's Regional Economic Development Partnerships. Bench-marking reports, policy recommendations, and draft legislation were developed along with recommendations that would assure the potential for North Carolina to remain competitive in science and technology-based economic development. Legislative and budget recommendations will be considered by the Committees on Technology in the Senate and the House in the 2001 session.

Intellectual Property and Knowledge Management

The Board has been very involved with the National Task Force for Knowledge Management and Intellectual Property. This task force has been working with universities, industry and government to develop policies necessary to make the U.S. a leader in turning knowledge to net-worth. Projects include benchmarking corporate practices, surveying systems and tools used in KM and IP, and efforts to consider the establishment of a Knowledge Management Center of Excellence in North Carolina.

Universal Service--Presentations, Public Hearings, and Workshops on the Benefits of the Federal Telecommunications Act of 1996

The Board organized public hearings and interactive video presentations around the State regarding changes to the Universal Service Policy affected by the Telecom Act of 1996. It has played a leadership role in publicizing the E-rate and assisting in E-rate applications leading to more than $85 million for NC schools and public libraries over three years. The Board also has worked to publicize the federal Lifeline and LinkUp programs.

International Partnerships and Collaborations

The Board sponsors international collaborations in the fields of information technology, education, global spatial data information systems, digital communities, aquatic science, and innovation systems. The Board's efforts have led also to the development of a virtual university project between UNC Wilmington and the Japanese prefectures of Mie and Iwate. The North Carolina Israel Partnership (NCIP) has won several awards for its new model for state-based international relations effort

Additional projects include the participation with the BiNational Science Foundation in joint research projects between North Carolina and Israeli researchers, work with Germany and the Center for Geographical Analysis; and a new biotechnology and geospatial agreement between North Carolina and the state of NordRhine-Westphalia in Germany.

North Carolina Information Highway

The Board has played a major role in support of broadband infrastructure deployment to all areas of North Carolina. This project, called the North Carolina Information Highway (NCIH), has evolved into the backbone for the transport of data, video, and voice that emanates from the state network to schools, colleges, hospitals law enforcement, etc.

Connect NC

Connect NC was an educational campaign that enabled North Carolina public and private sector leaders in the 29 western counties to understand more about the issues of telecommunications, and connectivity and its importance to our economic competitiveness as a state. The Board made a recommendation to the NC Utilities Commission that it consider development of a Universal Service Fund.

North Carolina Global Partnership and Governor's Global Forum

In an effort to connect our citizens more closely to people and organizations around the world, the first Governor's Global Forum, was held in May, 1996. After the first Forum, the Board worked with international organizations in North Carolina to create the NC Global Partnership. The Partnership has grown to include 90 member organizations and the fifth Governor's Global Forum was held in October, 2000. During the Forum, members voted to seek 501(c)(3) status and this effort is underway at the UNC-Greensboro Bryan School of Business.

The Aquatic Science and Biotechnology Consortium -- Commercial Development of Fresh Water Aquaculture of Atlantic Flounder

The Board, NC Sea Grant, UNC CH Program in Molecular Biology & Biotechnology, the NC Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, NCSU College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Coastal Services Center convened a series of workshops on flounder aquaculture and stock enhancement in North Carolina. A number of policy recommendations are currently being considered. The Board of Science and Technology recommended that UNC-Wilmington take over the effort to create a sustainable coastal initiative.

At the Crossroads: North Carolina's Place in the 21st Century Knowledge Economy -- Research and Development Spending and Investment in North Carolina

A joint study conducted by the Board with the NC Alliance for Competitive Technologies (now Center for Entrepreneurship and Technology) to assess the impact of research and development spending and investment in North Carolina.

Virtual Collaboratories

The Board has led nationally in the effort to establish collaboratories (centers without walls) by teaming up with the National Research Council (NRC), the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, and the Office of the Undersecretary of Commerce for Technology. The Board co-hosted an interactive forum on bioscience collaboratories with the NRC leading to the publication of Improving Research Capabilities in Chemical and Biomedical Sciences.

Global Spatial Data Infrastructure Initiative (GSDI)

The Board of Science and Technology has been instrumental in the development and support of the World Steering Committee effort to create a Global Spatial Data Infrastructure Initiative. More than 40 countries have now signed on and a technical handbook on GSDI standards has been developed. Initiatives include tracking environmental sustainability, emergency management, and large-scale planning.

Grassroots Science Program for Water Quality Testing

The Board sponsored an innovative project through Grassroots Science, a non-profit affiliate of North Carolina's science museums, to engage fifth-grade students, through their science classes in water quality testing all over the State. The Board has also been successful in advocating additional funds for science museums in North Carolina.

Challenger Learning Center Project

The Board is working collaboratively with the Challenger Center for Space Science Education and the Centennial Campus of NCSU to create, on the Centennial Campus, an educational facility called the Challenger Learning Center.

NC Space Grant Consortium

The Board supports the effort of the NC Space Grant Consortium to promote and develop aeronautics and space-related science, engineering, and technology programs by forming partnerships with all levels of educational institutions, industries, and governments.

Great Web Search 2

In collaboration with Teacher Connect, funds from the Board have been used to expand the Teacher Connect web site to include more math and science links, particularly at high school levels.

Keep North Carolina Clean and Beautiful (KNCCB) Incentive Grants

KNCCB Incentive Grants provide teachers with resources to create excitement about science and the environment. These grants enhance and support ABC initiatives to stimulate student performance across disciplines and skill areas. Promoting these grants has been a joint effort between the Board and the NC Science Museums Collaborative.

Educational Technology Policy Survey of the Fifty States

The Board created this as a resource for North Carolina's government official and legislators to assess the current status of educational technology policy throughout the nation.

Chief Information Officers of the United States and Its Territories

The Board has compiled a listing of CIO's in the United States and U.S territories for three years to assist decision leaders in North Carolina in their investigative processes of defining the digital government issues for North Carolina.

NC ECONet

The Board has supported a program directed by the State Climatologist to create a consolidated weather and climate information network in North Carolina called the North Carolina Environment and Climate Observations Network.

Electronic Governance

The Board represents North Carolina on the Electronic Governance Project. The Alliance for Converging Technologies, now known as Digital4Sight, has been the focal point of this activity. North Carolina participated with Germany, Switzerland, Canada, England, and Singapore on this project.

National Commission for Technology and Adult Learning

This project sponsored by the National Governor's Association and the American Society for Training and Development will complete its work in April 2001. The commission is reviewing activities in the e-learning environment and will make recommendations to national policy makers.

OFFICE FOR HISTORICALLY UNDERUTILIZED BUSINESSES

Summary

The Office for Historically Underutilized Businesses (HUB) advocates and promotes the use of minority, women and disabled business enterprises in the state's procurement and contracting process. By an Executive Order signed by Governor James Hunt on April 20, 1999, the HUB Office was relocated from the Division of Purchase and Contract to the Secretary of Administration's Office to increase the visibility and awareness of the HUB Program. Executive Order 150 created a new position, Assistant to the Secretary for HUB Outreach, which was filled in May 1999. The Executive Order also established a HUB Advisory Council whose members are appointed by the Governor. This 26 member Council consists of state chief purchasing agents, HUB vendors and representatives from the HUB community and private and non-profit business sectors. Statewide entities that are to provide HUB reports to the state's HUB Office on its expenditures with historically underutilized businesses were also identified in the Executive Order. Namely, these entities are state agencies, community colleges, public school systems and state universities.

The HUB goals were previously established at 4% by Executive Order 77 under Governor Jim Martin's administration (1984-1992). However, with the signing of the Executive Order 150, Governor Hunt increased the HUB goals from 4% to 8% for FY 1999-2000 and to 10% for FY 2000-2001. During the first year the new HUB goals became effective, the State of North Carolina exceeded the 8% HUB goal for FY99-00 with 8.87% HUB participation. That represents over $384 million dollars that state agencies, community colleges, public schools and state universities spent with minority, women and disabled businesses during FY99-00. During the 1st and 2nd quarters of FY00-01, 9.5% or approximately $236 million dollars has been spent with historically underutilized businesses.

Accomplishments

During the first year (July 1999-June 2000) the new HUB goals became effective, the state exceeded the 8% HUB goal with 8.87% HUB participation. That represents over $384 million dollars that was spent with minority, women and disabled business firms during FY99-00.

For FY00-01, from July 2000 through December 2000, the 1st and 2nd Quarter HUB Reports indicate that 9.5 % or approximately $236 million dollars has been spent with historically underutilized businesses. The state reporting entities are well underway to achieving the 10% HUB that became effective July 1, 2000.

In August 1999, the HUB Office developed and implemented a more comprehensive reporting system. This system included a new computer program, which was developed by in-house staff, to compile and generate the report data for over 225 state reporting entities. The Quarterly HUB Reports include individual reports on Cabinet Department Agencies, Council of State Agencies, Support Agencies, Community Colleges, Public Schools, State Universities and State Construction. The HUB Office prepares the reports for the Governor's Office and provides copies to the Cabinet Secretaries and HUB Advisory Council. With the increase use and availability of technology, head officials of department agencies, community colleges, universities and public schools can be notified when each Quarterly HUB Report is posted to the HUB Office's web site. This will allow head officials to be informed and aware of their respective organization's historically underutilized business participation. The HUB Office provides training to purchasers on preparing and compiling the HUB reports.

The HUB Office utilizes the Internet to promote the HUB Program via its web page, which was set-up in September 1999. HUB vendors gain easier access to purchasing and contracting opportunities through the Division of Purchase & Contract's VENDOR LINK system. VENDOR LINK is an electronic vendor registration and notification system. HUB Certification is also initiated through this system. Currently, over 1400 vendors are currently certified as HUB vendors in the Vendor Link database.

From February 2000 through June 2000, the HUB Office conducted a series of ten (10) HUB Regional Training Conferences across the state to improve outreach efforts and provide training on ways to improve HUB participation in public contracting for universities, community colleges, agencies and public school systems. These HUB outreach efforts resulted in excellent participation with over 665 purchasers, HUB vendors and program participants attending the statewide HUB Regional Training Conferences. The state saved monies by utilizing state-owned facilities, when available, and partnering with universities and agencies to conduct the HUB Regional Training Conferences.

In December 2000, the Office for Historically Underutilized Businesses was featured on Inside NC, a cable television program operated by the NC Agency for Public Television. The live call-in segment highlighted the HUB Office and opportunities for Historically Underutilized Businesses with the State of North Carolina. Panel participants included Bridget Wall, HUB Director; Carlton Myrick, Deputy Secretary; Andrea Harris, HUB Advisory Co-chair & President of NC Institute for Minority Economic Development and Charles Wilson, President of Intellus (HUB vendor). Several live call-in calls were received as well as subsequent follow-up calls to the HUB Office in which callers indicated the program was very informative and provided insight needed for state contracting.

From March 1999 through January 2001, the HUB Office participated in over 117 conferences, workshops, seminars, trade-shows and/or presentations promoting the HUB Program & Executive Order 150. During this time, the HUB Office has an opportunity to address new audiences and organizations to promote the HUB Program. Some of these organizations include the North Carolina Bar Association, Commission on Indian Affairs, NC Indian Unity Conference, Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, North Carolina Public School Purchasers, University Capital Project Coordinators, NC Community College Adult Education Association, NC Association of Rehabilitative Facilities, State of North Carolina Construction Conferences, and the NC Association of Real Estate Brokers to name a few. The HUB Office has also conducted numerous training and outreach workshops for various state agencies such as the Departments of Correction, Health & Human Services and individual community colleges, public schools and state universities.

MAIL SERVICE CENTER

Summary

The Governor made the decision in October 1997 that cost savings could be realized by consolidating the various mailrooms in state government into one centralized operation, the Mail Service Center (MSC). As a result of the consolidation, 26 out of 39 state agency mailrooms were closed, and 35 of the 69 positions in those mailrooms were transferred to the MSC. Most of the employees not transferred remained in their respective agencies in other positions.

Savings were also realized in the number of postage meters being used, a reduction from 50 to 12. This decrease has resulted in savings of $30,000 annually in lease and maintenance costs. Also, a cost avoidance of $49,000 was established when the MSC began processing mail by automatic, not mechanical, postage meters.

A unique zip code established by the US Postal Service for MSC clients has further centralized mail service for state government and will remain permanent even in the event of a change in the agency's location. A well-designed Web site has established a successful communications link for MSC clients. This includes general information about the service and a list of the MSC addresses.

Accomplishments

Renovations for New Facility

In January 1999 renovation was started on a 28,000-sq. ft. section of the textbook warehouse at 3905 Reedy Creek Road to house the centralized facility. The State Courier Service was combined into this operation and became the Mail Service Center (MSC) Division. Renovations were completed in April 1999.

Postage Metering Machines

The postage metering machines mentioned above, as well as the employees, are utilized a full eight hours per day compared to a maximum of three hours a day before consolidation. The JetStar sorter, a high speed mail sorter, which has a specification rate of 36,000 pieces per hour, was being used by a single agency sorting approximately 30,000 pieces of mail per day. The Mail Service Center now utilizes this machine to sort an average of 1,500,000 pieces of mail monthly. The functions of this sorter is to sort properly addressed outgoing and incoming mail which saves man-hours and creates less manual sorting. The sorter is used to produce a $0.073 per piece savings on all outbound USPS mail when properly addressed.

Daily Processing

Daily, MSC processes and delivers three types of mail - USPS, interoffice mail within Wake County and courier mail daily between Raleigh and over 4,000 agencies in all counties. Drivers log over 140,000 miles monthly making mail deliveries. MSC reevaluated its fleet of vehicles and downsized five vehicles, realizing a cost saving of approximately $26,000 per year.

Currently most to the Governor's cabinet and one Council of State agency have taken advantage of the savings that can be realized through MSC.

In the first year of operation, July 1999 – June 2000, MSC processed and delivered over 27,000,000 pieces of mail. During the six-month period of July 2000 – December 2000 MSC has processed and delivered 16,000,000 pieces of mail. It is projected that by June 2001 MSC will have increased the processing and deliver by 20% over last year.

Savings

After the first year MSC has saved the taxpayers over $1 million, primarily through reduction in manpower. In addition, the State Courier Service of MSC continues to save taxpayers approximately $1.5 million annually by delivering mail to over 4,000 different addresses on 17 routes throughout all counties in North Carolina.

MOTOR FLEET MANAGEMENT

Summary

The Motor Fleet Management Division was created by the legislature in January 1982 as the central fleet agency for all of state government. The purpose of Motor Fleet Management is to serve North Carolina state employees by acquiring, maintaining, storing, repairing, replacing and supplying passenger vehicular transportation needed in the performance of official duties, in the most efficient and cost effective way. All state agencies, including universities -- except for the State Bureau of Investigation and the State Highway Patrol -- are required to utilize Motor Fleet Management for their passenger vehicle transportation needs.

As of June 30, 2000, Motor Fleet Management had 8,209 active vehicles in its fleet, an increase of 251 vehicles over the previous year. Over the past ten years, Motor Fleet Management has had an average vehicle increase of 310 units a year. Projecting at 310 vehicles per year, by the June 2001 there will be 8,519 active vehicles in the state fleet.

Motor Fleet Management charges agencies for the use of vehicles on a per mile basis. The largest group of vehicles (compact, sedan, four cylinders) are charged out at a 23 cents per mile rate. Mileage rates range as high as 38 cents per mile for a four-wheel drive Suburban. All rates include gas, oil, tires, repairs and insurance. Motor Fleet Management rates are very low when compared to the per mile driving costs, based on a composite national average of three domestically built cars: a subcompact, a mid-size and a full-size, issued by the American Automobile Association in for model year 2000 vehicles. According to the American Automobile Association, "motorists now spend an average of 61.7 cents per mile in vehicle related costs" (gasoline, oil maintenance, depreciation and insurance). When compared with Motor Fleet Management's average rate of 31.7 cents per mile for compact, mid-size and full-size vehicles, the Motor Fleet Management is providing passenger vehicles at approximately 49 per cent of the national average cost.

Accomplishments

Automobile Rebuild Program

Sixty 1993 to 1996 Chevrolet Caprices were rebuilt in a pilot project. The average cost of rebuilding each initial vehicle was $12,845. The rebuild is comprehensive and includes new engine, transmission, brakes, suspension, new seats, carpets, dash pads and other items. New vehicles (Ford Crown Victoria) would have cost $1,245,540 ($20,909 ea. for 60 vehicles). Savings of $474,860 in new vehicle purchase costs were realized.

Asheville Chevrolet is now under contract to rebuild vehicles. To date, 410 vehicles have been rebuilt by Asheville Chevrolet. For the first 410 vehicles rebuilt on the contract, the average cost of rebuilding has been $10,535. Under this contract, the average purchase cost savings per vehicle has been $10,374. The savings from not having to purchase new vehicles has been $4,319,350. The total cost saved by not having to purchase new vehicles has been $4,794,210 for the 470 rebuilt vehicles.

Alternative Fuel Vehicles

Motor Fleet Management (MFM) has 914 flexible-fuel vehicles that are capable of running on gasoline or E-85 (Ethanol at 85%) fuel. Additionally, we have another 15 vehicles that operate on other alternative fuels such as electricity, propane, or compressed natural gas (CNG). The 230 standard fleet sedans (Ford Taurus), located at the motor pool facilities on Peace Street, are E-85 flex-fueled vehicles. In addition, 8 mini-vans are E-85 mini-vans. There are also electric, propane and CNG vehicles available. MFM has ethanol dispensing facilities at the motor pool and uses E-85 fuel in motor pool vehicles. The Department of Transportation also has an ethanol fueling site on Beryl Road near the State Fairgrounds. To remind drivers to use E-85 fuel, MFM provides green electronic fueling keys for the E-85 powered vehicles instead of the more usual black keys. The current price for E-85 is $1.28 per gallon and gasoline is $0.96 per gallon.

For the 2000 vehicle model year, MFM purchased 130 Ford Explorers that were designated as low- emission vehicles. MFM has ordered an additional 230 2001 Ford Taurus sedans that are flex-fuel E-85 vehicles.

CNG, Electric, Propane, E-85 (Ethanol) Fueling Sites

The motor pool on Peace Street will soon have all the major alternative fuels available with plans underway to install a CNG fueling site in addition to propane, electric, E-85, and gasoline currently available. Electric power supply lines and gas lines are being installed, with the installed underground piping. Concrete pads have been put in place for the gas containers and the compressor. The Motor Fleet Management facility at 1915 Blue Ridge Road has E-85 and gasoline available.

Hybrid Vehicles

MFM has two Toyota and five Honda hybrid vehicles to dispatch from the motor pool, and one Honda Insight which is permanently assigned. The Toyota hybrid gasoline engine/electric motor vehicles are capable of achieving 52 mpg in the city and 45 mpg on the highway. The Honda hybrid gasoline engine/electric motor vehicles are capable of achieving 61 mpg in the city and 70 mpg on the highway

"Right Size" Vehicles

Motor Fleet Management has identified 256 permanently assigned vehicles that are being replaced by buying smaller cars. Whenever there is a possibility, the division replaces full-size cars with mid-size cars, full-size vans with mini-vans, and full-size, 4-wheel drives with compact, 4-wheel drives. Savings of $650,332 will be realized in decreased purchase costs and $102,768 will be saved in lifetime fuel costs.

DIVISION OF PURCHASE AND CONTRACT

Summary

The Division of Purchase and Contract (P&C) serves as the central purchasing authority for state government and certain other entities. Contracts are established for the purchase, lease, lease-purchase of the goods and services required by all state agencies, institutions, universities, community colleges, and city and county boards of education amounting to approximately $4.07 billion annually (7/1/2000). In addition, the Federal Surplus Property and State Surplus Property agencies manage the placement and disposition of surplus properties.

The primary mission of the agency is to provide effective and efficient acquisition and disposal services for the State of North Carolina. This mission equates to savings to taxpayers and good customer service relationships. Long-term strategies include improved accessibility to purchasing and materials management information, improved accountability, reduced costs, reduced processing time and enabling of employees. Short-term strategies include improved communications and increased use of technology to perform work.

Accomplishments

Hurricane Floyd Involvement

September 1999 and into 2000 – Provided dedicated purchasing support during the emergency created by Hurricane Floyd through critical purchases and contracts especially for securing mobile homes, travel trailers, equipment and supplies.

Year 2000 Project (Y2K)

Successfully led Supplier Chain Management through the Y2K project. At the Information Management Resource Commission (IRMC) meeting on February 1, 2000, Percy Richardson accepted a Resolution of Appreciation Certificate on behalf of the Division's outstanding contributions.

Vendor Link NC

Implemented Vendor Link NC on April 30, 1999. This web-based system works in conjunction with our Statewide Interactive Purchasing System (IPS). In twenty months, 15,000 vendors have registered and are receiving the benefits of this technology which includes on-line vendor registration, automatic e-mail notification of bidding opportunities, sophisticated search capabilities for location of vendors in many ways including small and HUB vendors for Agency quotes. Agencies can use the IPS Vendor Link NC system for electronically advertising their requirements for goods and services within their delegation.

Recycling and Sustainability

The Department of Administration expanded its efforts of promoting the purchase and use of reusable, refillable, repairable, more durable, and less toxic supplies and products to meet the State's 40 percent waste reduction goal by the year 2001.

Ninety-six (96) contracts were awarded that support environmental purchasing. These have included used equipment, packaging materials that contain post consumer recycled content, carpet, background on companies efforts to help protect the environment and others.

Laser printers with duplex capabilities were purchased, reinforcing the use of two-sided copying for items that are needed in hard copy. Reduced copies by 35%, or 11,000 sheets of paper.

The use of a web-based vendor registry and notification system allowed the elimination of a seven-page hard copy application form, registered 15,000 vendors and sent electronically over 1,000,000 messages to vendors.

Reusable items processed at State Surplus Property included plastic drums, oil and antifreeze, pallets and computer equipment. The computer recycling program at State Surplus refurbishes surplus computers for reuse by schools in North Carolina. Computers not refurbished are broken down into components that can be recycled.

P&C eliminated faxing and mailing fuel prices on a weekly basis to agencies and vendors.
The Carolina Recycling Association presented the Division a "Buy Recycled" award in 1999 for Excellence in Waste Reduction and Recycling.

P&C established a "new" Term Contracts team on April 1, 2000. The team was charged with researching agency needs, analyzing benefits and return on investment, and implementing appropriate new statewide term contracts. Five new contracts were established.

One purchasing position was redirected to a Staff Development & Training Specialist to lead our Statewide Training effort for public purchasing certification and enhancement of purchasing skills.

Computer recycling expanded in July 2000 to include a program at Harnett Correctional Facility where inmates receive hands-on job skills training in computer refurbishment.

A drug seizure program was transferred from the Dept. of Revenue to the State Surplus Property program to allow for a more centralized and consistent approach to auctioning surplus goods seized in drug raids and forfeited to the state.

The "Blue Bird Project" was successfully implemented in the summer of 2000 to build blue bird nesting boxes, involving 5th grade students in education, and providing focus to sustainability efforts in North Carolina.

QUALITY COORDINATOR

Summary

The Quality Coordinator is charged with providing technical assistance to leadership in leading, directing, and developing Continuous Improvement in the Department of Administration. Continuous Improvement is a structured effort designed to re-focus the Department's commitment to provide outstanding service to its customers through continually improving the way business is conducted. Under the Secretary's leadership, the Department is raising awareness of "customer service" throughout its ranks.

Accomplishments

Administered the second Workplace Assessment Survey and used the results for improvements within the divisions.

Developed a three hour Continuous Improvement Awareness Training class, provided 30 training sessions, and video taped presentation resulting in all DOA employees receiving the awareness training.

Developed a four-hour Strategic Continuous Improvement Planning Training class and provided the training to all division directors.

Trained 15 division directors to be team facilitators.

Compiled all improvements within the department in a Report of Improvements that was published in 1999 and 2000. This publication was shared with all divisions for benchmarking purposes.

Expanded the Quality Leadership Team from 10 to 13 thus including more senior leadership and division directors on the team.

Started shifting from a departmental emphasis on implementation to a division emphasis thus increasing the end user impact of the effort.

Increased the linkage between the Continuous Improvement and State Employee Incentive Bonus Program.

STATE-LOCAL RELATIONS

Summary

The State-Local Relations Section works with local governments, regional and multi-state organizations, the public, as well as state and federal agencies, in a variety of areas involving intergovernmental cooperation. The section manages the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) grant program, coordinates interagency project reviews required by the North Carolina and National Environmental Policy Acts, assists the Governor and his staff in issues involving local governments, and operates a project notification, review, and comment system to provide state and local agencies and the public with information about projects supported with public funds. Environmental and project notification processes are coordinated through this unit's Intergovernmental Review clearinghouse.

Accomplishments

Secured 50 Appalachian Regional Commission grants for North Carolina's ARC counties, directly benefiting 25 of the 29 eligible counties. Total ARC investment of funds was $8.3 million. The ARC dollars were part of projects that invested $26.8 million in the region and leveraged an additional $26 million from private sources. As a result of the ARC projects, the region will gain 866 new jobs and retain 3,445. Other benefits include 1800 at risk children received fluoride tooth varnishing applications; 450 residences were surveyed for straight piping/failing septic systems and 275 remedial systems were designed and permitted; model information technology training programs were established at a high school and at a community college; laptop computers were acquired for the lowest performing elementary schools in a Tier 1 county; a downtown revitalization revolving loan fund was established; and pilot projects to implement recommendations of the Rural Prosperity Task Force were initiated in broadband access, sustainable community development, and developmental venture capital.

Coordinated review of 659 notices by state and local entities of their intention to apply for federal grants and loans. The documents supported requests in excess of $1 billion. To enhance the functioning of this review system authorized by federal executive order, staff converted the State Clearinghouse form (CH-1, the intake document for notices of intent to apply for federal funding) to a digital document and began disseminating the form electronically.

Coordinated the review by state and local entities of 739 environmental documents prepared in compliance with state and national environmental policy acts. Information about the documents is contained in The North Carolina Environmental Bulletin which now is posted on the DOA web site so a broader audience can access the information and the information available is up to date.

Developed a standard format for state environmental assessments/findings of no significant impact (EA/FONSI) and posted the guidelines for the assessments on the department's web site.

Worked with other state agencies to facilitate environmental reviews for water and sewer bond funds, flood relief projects, and significant economic development projects (such as Nucor).

Developed special rules for handling environmental reviews during emergencies (including natural disasters).

Established DOA employee recognition awards for environmental sustainability.

Conducted a process to change a multi-county planning district boundary (only the second time in 30 years the boundaries have changed).

Aided in the development of the Emergency Congressional Appropriation Package for Floyd Recovery.

STATE CONSTRUCTION OFFICE

Summary

The responsibilities of the State Construction Office can be summarized by the overall coordination and management for implementation of the state's capital improvement program. Under the historical formation of the office, two primary statutes G.S. 143-31.1, the Executive Budget Act, and G.S. 143-341, the Department of Administration Act, serve as the basis to define the duties and the responsibilities of the office. Under the Executive Budget Act, the Governor is required to have performed a study and review of plans and specifications to determine whether buildings, repairs, alterations, additions or improvements to physical properties for which appropriations of state funds are made have been designed for the specific purposes for which such appropriations are made; and that such projects have been designed giving proper consideration to economy in first cost, in maintenance cost, in materials and type of construction; and that architectural features are selected which give proper consideration to economy in design.

The authority for design review and overall management responsibility is further defined under the Department of Administration Act. In addition to having the responsibility of examining and approving all plans and specifications, the State Construction Office assists all agencies in the preparation of requests for appropriations for the construction or renovation of all state buildings, and must issue a certification that the project is sufficiently defined in overall scope, building program, site development, detailed design, construction and equipment budgets and comprehensive project scheduling so as to reasonably ensure that it may be completed with the amount of funds requested. Further, the State Construction Office supervises the letting of all contracts for the design, construction or renovation of all state buildings and supervises and inspects all work done and materials used in the construction or renovation of all state buildings. No such work may be accepted by the state or by any state agency until it has been approved by the department. N.C.G.S. § 143-341(3)(d). In addition, the Facility Condition Assessment Program (FCAP) is administered by the State Construction Office. This program is responsible for identifying deficiencies in all state facilities over 3000 gross square feet.

A capital facilities project usually starts with the identification of a need by a state agency or institution. The concept of the need is further defined by the agency through a study of the program requirements that establishes a general scope of work, the size of the facility, nature of the improvements, infrastructure requirements (parking, water, sewer, steam, utilities, etc), any special requirements and schedule. The agency or institution submits this information and budget estimate to the State Construction Office for review and certification. Chapter 45 of the 1998 Session Laws requires the Department of Administration to certify the feasibility of state construction projects and makes that certification a prerequisite to funding by the General Assembly.

After the General Assembly appropriates or authorizes funding, by law the agency or institution has sixty days to select a design firm to provide design services for the project. Designers are selected in accordance with qualifications-based procedures adopted by the State Building Commission that requires advertisement and screening before three firms are submitted to the Commission for a final decision. The State Construction Office serves as staff to the State Building Commission. For University system projects, the selection of design firms is by the Boards of Trustees. A fixed fee, lump sum design agreement for execution by the agency or institution is negotiated by the State Construction Office for the design and general supervision of the construction work.

For most projects, the design progresses through three phases of development -schematic design, design development, and construction documents. Each phase of design is reviewed and the design does not proceed into the next phase until appropriate approvals have been obtained for previously submitted work. There are some 40 possible state reviews, permits and approvals that may be required on a project and the review process may involve up to 17 different state agencies. Of course, most projects do not require nearly that number of review agency approvals. To many outside of the construction industry, this may seem like a cumbersome and overextended process to get a project from design to active construction. However, each review requirement is based on legislative authority granted to the individual review agencies involved and are complementary to each other. Agency reviews are often very specific following statutory responsibility and occur concurrently so as not to delay the progress of the project.

The State Construction Office is the only agency that conducts a broad-based comprehensive review of the entire project to ensure value for the public funds committed for the project and enhance the success of the project through compliance with statutory requirements. The office deals with contractual issues such as budget, design and construction contracts, statutory and procedural issues for public work and the sufficiency of bid and contract documents. The State Construction Office essentially serves as a clearinghouse for review comments generated by other agencies and checks to see that comments and concerns are resolved prior to approval for receipt of bids. As of December 2000, the State Construction Office currently oversees on a statewide basis a total of 1030 projects in various stages of design or construction valued at approximately $2.1 billion dollars.

Accomplishments

Summary of Y2K Efforts

Beginning in the fall of 1998, and continuing into the year 2000, the State Construction Office (SCO) was instrumental in a program to ensure that the State's many building systems in its facilities in all State agencies and institutions were year 2000 compliant. This program, known as the Year 2000 Facilities Readiness Program, was coordinated through the Department of Commerce and its Year 2000 Statewide Project Office. It involved a multi-step process performed by staff from each agency and institution, beginning with an inventory of all critical building systems throughout all State-owned buildings. This inventory was originally proposed to be performed by the staff of an outside consultant at a cost of approximately $1.5 million, but that proposal was rejected by the SCO. It was instead performed by State forces within each agency and institution at a cost of only $50,000, in which a separate consultant was authorized to manage the State's inventory and assessment efforts, and to determine the compliance status of all critical building systems.

The SCO assumed the role of contacting and informing the management and physical plant directors of each agency and institution of the compliance status of their critical building systems. It was then the responsibility of each agency and institution to ensure that each of their non-compliant systems was either upgraded or replaced in order to be compliant, or that the system controls could be manually overridden. By the end of 1999, all critical systems were ensured to be compliant, and there were no reports of malfunctions or problems following the date change into the year 2000.

Temporary Housing Assistance in Eastern N.C. Due to Flooding from Hurricane Floyd

Since September 22, 1999 several State Construction Office employees have worked many long hours assisting FEMA and the Division of Emergency Management with planning and administering contracts for the design, construction, and site monitoring of eleven temporary housing sites in four Eastern NC counties. This effort has involved attending numerous meetings, contacting designers, contractors, and inspectors, making site visits, administering contracts, and approving invoices. Through early February of 2001, three of the eleven sites have been vacated. Contracts for those three sites are being developed for restoration to their original condition. To date, the State Construction Office has administered invoices totaling nearly $11.8 million for the design, construction, inspection and restoration of all temporary housing sites.

Sir Walter Raleigh Awards Community Appearance

The Department of Administration received two awards from the City of Raleigh Appearance Commission for projects under the supervision of the State Construction Office. The awards were for outstanding contribution toward enhancing the beauty of the City of Raleigh. The Museum of Natural Sciences received the award under the Institutional category and the Heck-Andrews House Renovation received an award under the Historic Preservation category.

In making the award to the Museum of Natural Sciences, the awards jury commented, "This wonderfully exciting facility could have been just another state building downtown, but instead it contributes both a creative and dignified presence to Jones Street." Regarding the Heck-Andrews House, the jury stated, "Bravo! Thanks to an exquisite restoration, this grand structure can now reclaim its place as one of the city's most eye-catching buildings. The dedication to quality renovation work shows throughout."

Special Fund for Energy Conservation Projects

A special appropriation of $1 million was made available in the year 2000 to the State Energy Office for funding a sampling of energy conservation projects within State-owned facilities. In order to determine which projects should be selected for this fund, the State Construction Office, in cooperation with the State Energy Office, contacted the Capital Project Coordinators and Facility Managers within state agencies and institutions to ask for a list of prioritized projects recommended as resulting in the greatest benefit through energy savings, if chosen for this program. Upon receiving that information, combined with a database of previously identified energy projects from the State Construction Office FCAP Section, a final list of seven projects was identified and approved for participation in this fund. These projects, which are located on four university campuses and three state agency sites, involve lighting retrofits, HVAC system upgrades, and chilled water system improvements. Upon completion, each of these projects is estimated to result in immediate cost-savings in operation costs, which also will result in a relatively short payback period. The State Construction Office will be reviewing the design, and monitoring the construction until those projects are complete.

STATE ENERGY OFFICE

Summary

The North Carolina Energy Division was created in 1973 under the Department of Military and Veteran Affairs to handle emergency energy issues, including oversight of the allocations of petroleum that occurred during the Arab Oil Embargo. Thereafter, the agency was transferred to the Department of Commerce where it operated until September 30, 2000. As a result of legislative action during the 2000 session of the General Assembly, the Energy Division was transferred to the Department of Administration on October 1, 2000. At this time, it was renamed as the State Energy Office (SEO). In addition to this transfer, the low-income weatherization programs were also moved to the Department of Health and Human Services.

The State Energy Office is primarily funded using Petroleum Violation Escrow funds that arose out of a series of federal court settlements involving petroleum companies in the 1970's and 1980's. The funds are returned to consumers and other affected groups by dividing them among the states for distribution through energy efficiency and renewable energy programs. The U.S. Department of Energy provides additional funding. Currently, no state-appropriated funds are provided to the State Energy Office.

The mission of the State Energy Office centers on three key elements:

Coordinating the state's response to energy-related emergencies (e.g. the energy aspects of floods, hurricanes, supply shortages and other disasters)

Working to make all aspects of North Carolina as energy efficient as possible to bolster the state's economy, protect its environment and lower energy costs; and

Developing the state's indigenous renewable resources---solar, wind, biomass and water----to create jobs and develop the state's economy, sustain its environment, and protect citizens from the impacts of supply disruptions and escalating energy prices.

To accomplish its work, the SEO uses both its internal resources and external contractors, such as the state's public universities and many nonprofit organizations, to provide energy-related services for industry, transportation, agriculture, utilities, local and state government agencies, schools and general consumers. These services include a wide variety of training programs, energy surveys and audits, demonstration projects, research and development support for technologies nearing commercialization, public awareness efforts, and loans for energy efficiency measures in business and industry.

Since joining the Department of Administration in October 2000, some of the recent activities and accomplishments of the State Energy Office include the following items:

Administrative

NC Energy Policy Council (EPC): The EPC is charged with overseeing the state's energy policies and providing recommendations for policy changes to the Governor and General Assembly. The EPC is composed of representatives from the General Assembly appointed by the Speaker of the House and Senate President Pro Tem, as well as cabinet Secretaries and Gubernatorial appointments for specific slots (e.g. alternative energy, industrial, environmental, etc.). The 18-member body has recently been reorganized and is expected to take on a much greater role in developing a comprehensive energy policy for the state.

DOE Grant Award: The Department of Energy awarded the SEO a new umbrella grant through June 30, 2005, under which most of its programs are undertaken and its administrative costs covered.

Selected Programs

Energy Management Diploma Series: State employees were provided with the opportunity to earn an energy management diploma by attending 14 days of intensive training provided by the SEO and NC State University's Office of Continuing and Professional Education.

Clean Cities: In November 2000, the Triangle region received notification that it had officially received designation as a member of the Clean Cities program. This important designation will be recognized in a special ceremony on March 19, 2001 in Raleigh. A direct benefit will be the expansion that numerous avenues for the funding of alternative fueled vehicles, fueling stations and related infrastructure in the Triangle region.

NC Solar Center: Operated by the College of Engineering at NC State University, the NC Solar Center has become one of the premier solar energy institutes in the nation, providing a multitude of training, information, demonstration and research programs centered around solar technologies. The Center has placed great emphasis in 2000 on support and expansion of the Million Solar Roofs Initiative, a major national effort to install one million solar systems on rooftops by 2010. Active programs are underway in Guilford, Watauga, Durham and Orange Counties with further expansion slated for 2001.

Center for Energy Research and Technology (CERT): Operated by NC A&T State University, CERT has a Manufactured Housing Initiative that resulted in the construction of two manufactured homes on campus, one being super energy efficient and the other of traditional design, that will be compared, tested and evaluated during the coming year. A special ceremony and ribbon cutting ceremony was held and attended by Secretary Dorsett and Deputy Secretary Myrick.

Swine and Poultry Waste: The SEO is funding multiple efforts to better develop methods to use swine and poultry waste as an energy source while reducing the environmental impacts of this waste. Included among these are the gasification and burning of turkey litter, the production of ethanol from swine waste, and the production of methane from animal waste for use in making electricity or providing heat for agricultural facilities.

Emergency Preparedness: The SEO has begun to revamp its emergency procedures for responding to energy crises and natural disasters, beginning with development of a new energy emergency plan for the State of North Carolina. Most of the existing plans are outdated and recent disasters, high energy prices and tight supplies have highlighted the need for new procedures to be put in place.

Energy Codes: The SEO and US Department of Energy have been working diligently to provide training to local building inspectors and utility officials on the latest energy code elements that have been upgraded and updated. Final discretion on interpretation and enforcement rests with local officials. Therefore, their knowledge and comfort with administering these new energy code provisions is critical to their use and acceptance in the field.

Hurricane Floyd Recovery Effort: As part of the Hurricane Floyd recovery effort, the SEO coordinated the construction of a model energy home in Kinston to demonstrate the energy efficiency and resulting cost savings that can accrue from "building back better." Workshops for contractors, community organizations, housing organizations and industry have been held throughout the eastern region, highlighting the demonstration home in Kinston. Three developments currently are planned to be energy efficient and borrow many of the practices demonstrated in the Kinston home. Partners in this effort include: Advanced Energy Corporation, NC Division of Emergency Management, NC Solar Center, Eastern NC Sustainable Development Center, and the City of Kinston.

Business Energy Improvement Program: The SEO is currently revamping its low-interest loan program for commercial and industrial firms. Recommendations will be presented to the General Assembly in the spring of 2001 that are expected to make the loan fund more attractive to customers and available to an expanded number of organizations, such as schools and local governments.

National Energy Education Development Program (NEED): The NEED program provides K-12 energy education in a number of participating public school systems around the state. Excellent teacher training and high levels of student participation are hallmarks of the program. Programs in Currituck and Wake Counties, as well as the statewide program, have won national honors.

Alternative Fuels: The SEO is active in several projects designed to advance the use of alternative fuels and alternative-fueled vehicles in NC. In addition to funding and strongly supporting the Clean Cities programs in the Triangle and Metrolina regions, the SEO serves as the coordinator of the State of North Carolina's AFV roundtable of agencies engaged in AFV activities (NCDOT, Motor Fleet, DENR, etc.). In this role, it also gathers data on the purchase of AFVs in NC for submission to the federal government as part of the state's responsibility under the National Energy Policy Act of 1992. In the summer or fall of 2001, the SEO has been asked by the US Department of Energy to hold a state ethanol conference to advance knowledge and use of that fuel. The SEO also sponsors the Electric Vehicle Challenge, a statewide program that works with public high schools to develop electric vehicle training and promotion programs.

Energy Management Program and Related Industrial Services: The SEO is the principal sponsor of one of the nation's most comprehensive training and technical assistance programs for industrial energy efficiency. Operated through the Industrial Extension Service at NC State University, the Energy Management Program has recently expanded to include commercial, local government and hospital facilities. Plant and facility surveys are conducted for nominal fees, and training programs are provided for plant and facility personnel.

Landfill Gas: Many of the landfills in local areas are flaring off and wasting the methane contained in those landfills that could otherwise be converted to useful renewable energy. The SEO is sponsoring the capture of methane gas from abandoned landfills in Yancey/Mitchell and Avery Counties, where the methane is used to heat food-producing greenhouses operated by Mayland Community College and utilized by local area high schools for training programs. The program appears to be highly replicable in other areas of the state. Methane gas from landfills has clearly become a valuable renewable energy resource that can be tapped for heat and electricity uses at very reasonable costs.

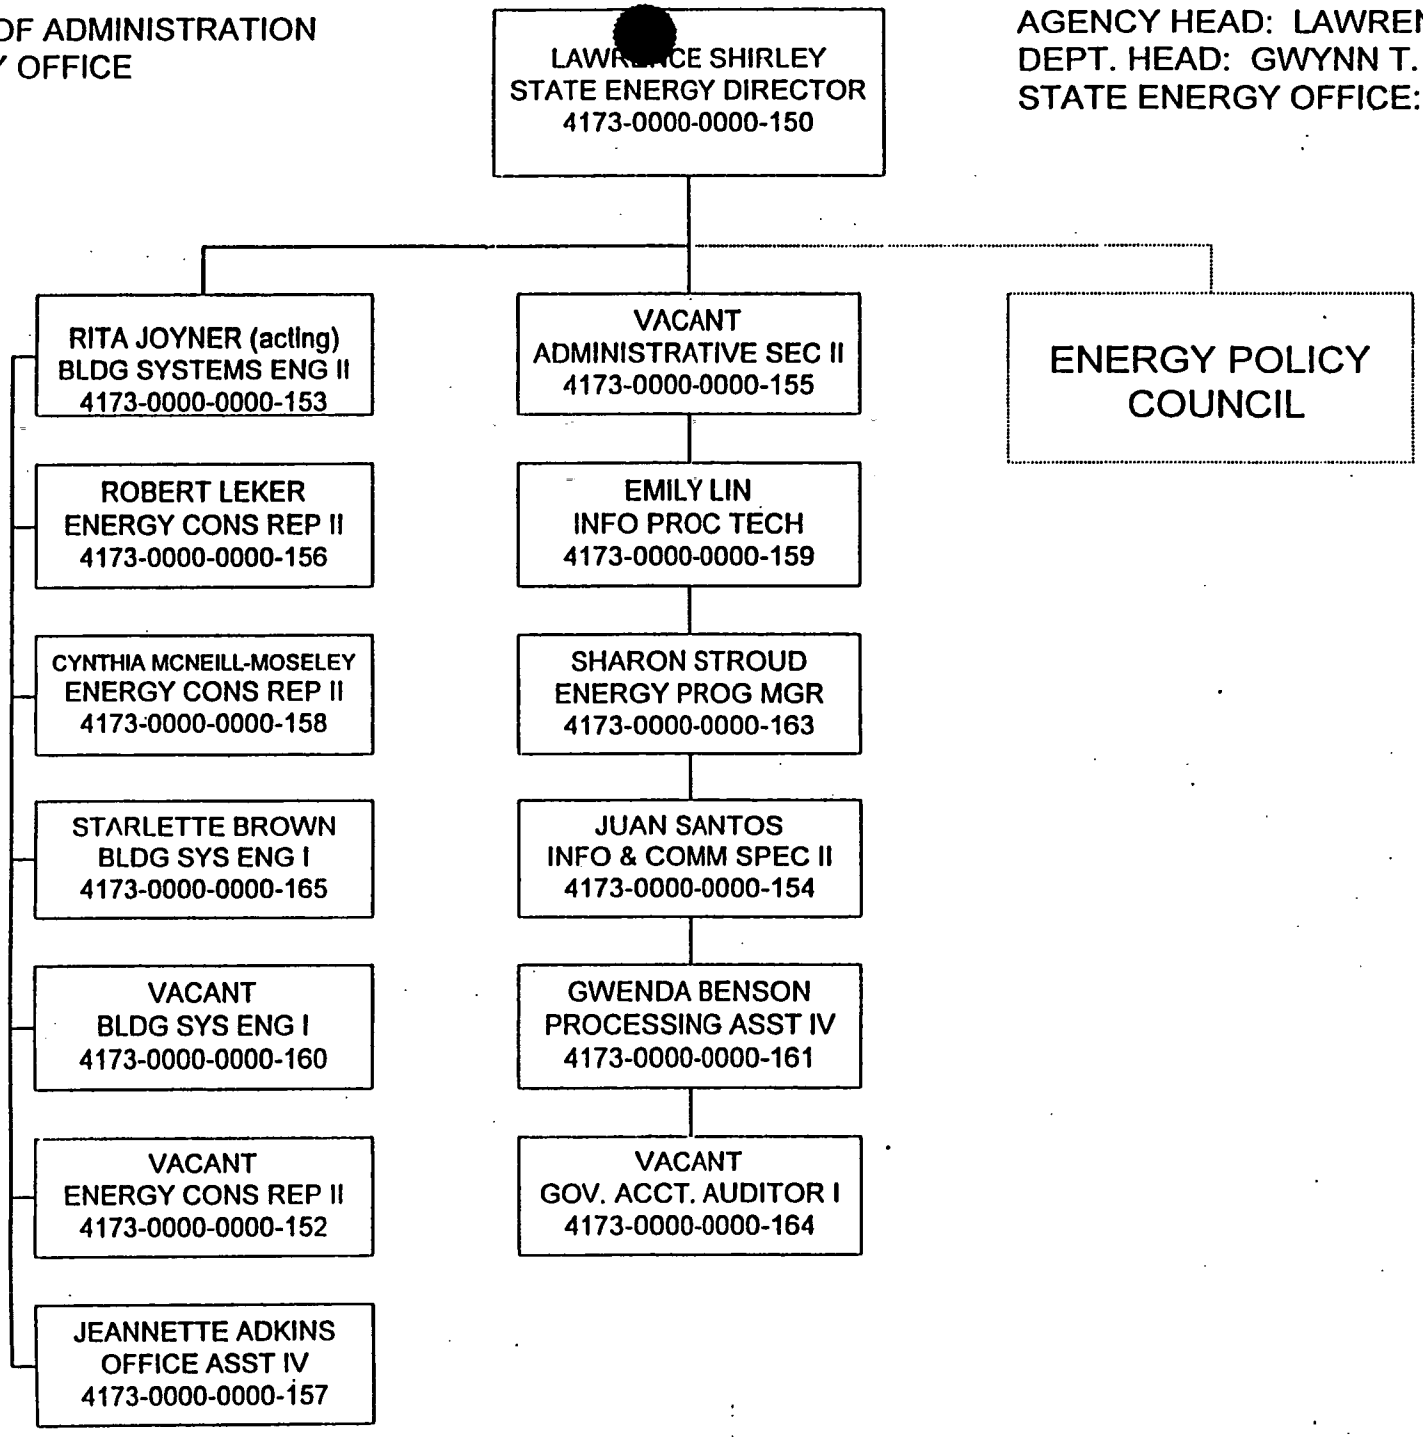
STATE ENERGY OFFICE:



STATE PROPERTY OFFICE

Summary

The State Property Office is the administering agency in state government for the acquisition and disposition of all state land or any interest therein in deed, lease, easement or allocation. It is responsible for administering the allocation and reallocation of land, buildings or space in buildings by and between agencies, institutions or departments of the state. It is responsible for maintaining a complete and accurate inventory of state lands and buildings. The Office is also responsible for the management of the state's submerged lands.

Accomplishments

Property Acquisitions (March 1, 1999- February 7, 2001)

Acquisition by Deed 176 total transactions

50,038 acres
$62,362,354 total acquisition cost
Includes 85 transactions for conservation purposes totaling 58,063 acres.

Acquisition by Easement 40 transactions
3,714 acres
$407,240 total acquisition cost
Includes 22 conservation easement transactions totaling 3,327 acres.

Other (acquisition by license, allocation, etc). 37 transactions
6,681 acres

Acquisition by Lease 30 transactions – land
18,125.85 acres
$269,424 rent

89 transactions – buildings
325,449 sq. ft.
$1,123,869 rent

495 transactions – office/warehouse space
1,602,290 sq. ft.
$16,723,543 annual rent

Technology Improvements

Transitioned from complex UNIX workstations to personal computers to improve staff efficiency and reduce hardware costs. (1999)

Implemented a project tracking system that enables staff to easily input/update project records due to automatic data integration. The system also allows for quick retrieval of information by management and staff and assists with monitoring and managing the project load. (2000)

Developed feature in website that allows client agencies to update the facilities inventory and produce reports. (1999)

Interfaced facilities inventory database with DOI to provide electronic updating and improve accuracy of inventory. (2000)

Developed an AutoCAD repository for floor plans of buildings maintained by DOA that is accessible by State Construction and Facility Management. (2000)

Delegation of Authority to Handle Certain Property Transactions

Delegated authority to DENR to enter into conservation easement agreements for the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) and the Confined Animal Operations Program (CAOP) within certain guidelines. This streamlines the acquisition process for the thousands of easements anticipated under these programs. (2000)

Collaboration with Non-Profit Organizations

Held round table discussions with land trust organizations and historic/preservation groups on ways to promote their involvement in State land acquisition projects. (1999-2000)

Developed procedures for state land acquisitions to be negotiated by non-profits. These procedures provide guidance and insure compliance with applicable statutes and policies. (2000)

Efficiency Improvements/Sustainability Initiatives

Added Lease Advertisements and Specifications to the website. Forms and documents needed to submit a proposal to lease have been added to the website and can be downloaded. (2000)

Added language to the lease specifications which encourages proposers to submit proposals for lease space having energy, conservation efficient and "green building" components, to provide recyclable bins, and to establish a temperature range in office space of 68 – 78 degrees. (1999-2000)

Developed an informational brochure about the office functions for distribution, upon request, to the general public and other government entities. (2000)

Converted to a high-density file system to accommodate more files in the same amount of space and for better organization and preservation of files. (2000)

Created four (4) time-limited real property agent positions funded by specific acquisition programs to address the increased volume of transactions in those programs (Wildlife Resources Commission, State Parks and Wetlands Restoration Program). (1999-2000)

Initiated changes in legislation to (a) increase advertisement benchmark for advertising for lease proposal; (b) clarify when property can be transferred to non-profit organizations at less than fair market value; and (c) allow an exemption to advertising leases requiring unique locations. Bill chaptered under G.S.146. (1999)

Hub Outreach/Activity

Developed a database of HUB vendors available for property appraisals, surveys and environmental assessments. (2000)

Revised the Request for Lease Proposal form to explain the HUB program classifications and to encourage HUB's to respond to the proposal requests. (2000)

Participated in the HUB Advisory Council and the Accountability Sub-Committee. Both groups are charged with the responsibility of increasing and tracking HUB participation in the state's procurement process. (1999-2000)

Hurricane Relief Effort

Located and leased sites for temporary housing for the victims of Hurricane Floyd and leased offices for the Disaster Recovery Centers (where victims apply for FEMA assistance). (1999-2000)

Policy Issues

In conjunction with the State Construction Office and the Office of State Budget and Management, developed a Cost- Benefit Analysis model for comparing the cost of constructing new state-owned facilities versus leasing space. (2000)

FACILITY MANAGEMENT DIVISION

Summary

Facility Management Division (FMD) provides maintenance and repair services to the state government complex and other facilities in outlying areas, such as the Highway Patrol and SBI complexes on Garner Road and the Museum of Art complex on Blue Ridge Road. Also, FMD maintains the James K. Polk Building in Charlotte and provides support to the three aquariums on the coast. Services include minor new construction, renovation, carpentry, painting, housekeeping, steam plant operation, HVAC, electrical, plumbing, welding, elevator maintenance, lock shop operation, fire and pest services. Maintenance to the Capitol complex parking facilities, which includes snow and ice removal in the winter, is included in the function of FMD.

Accomplishments

FMD is continuing its preventative maintenance program that has been in place since July 1, 1996. This program involves the maintenance and repair of 146 buildings and over 1950 pieces of equipment. Over the last five years there have been fewer breakdowns of equipment resulting in significant savings. In the Program Statistics report to State Budget, maintenance costs have been reduced as follows:

1996-97 . 41 cents per square foot
1997-98 . 35 cents per square foot
1998-99 . 30 cents per square foot
1999-00 . 40 cents per square foot
(cost increase attributed to replacing two chillers)
2000-01 . 25 cents per square foot (projection of cost this fiscal year)

Energy costs have been reduced as follows:

1996-97 1.55 cents per square foot
1997-98 1.68 cents per square foot
1998-99 1.53 cents per square foot
1999-00 1.41 cents per square foot
2000-01 1.39 cents per square foot
(projection of cost this fiscal year)

Energy costs can be further reduced through the reduction of lighting costs in buildings in the state government complex as well as through the installation of more energy efficient equipment.

MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Summary

The primary purpose of the Management Information Systems (MIS) Division is to support the 24 agencies within the Department of Administration in the use of mainframe and microcomputer applications, Local Area Networks (LAN) and microcomputers. MIS is responsible for devising creative solutions for the department's computing needs, developing or acquiring solutions, and implementing those solutions. Those solutions include the development and programming of client/server, PC and LAN based application when appropriate. MIS is responsible for training assessment, answering questions, trouble shooting, evaluating and recommending new/upgraded computer hardware and software. MIS is also charged with installing new/upgraded hardware and software, modifying current computer configurations to meet customer needs and coordinating the deployment of new technologies.

Accomplishments

Token Ring to Ethernet Conversion

Management Information Systems converted the Administration building from token ring to switched Ethernet in the spring of 1998. DOA has experienced multiple problems with our token ring local area network (LAN) within the Administration building for multiple years. As more computer devices were added to the network, technical problems increased and reliability decreased. The LAN was one large segment that was over its rated capacity. There was a need to break the LAN into smaller segments to eliminate most of the local network traffic from other floors. MIS also completed a similar conversion for Facility Management, Council for Women, and State Surplus, agencies outside the Administration Building.

Year 2000 Projects

Management Information Systems has corrected several DOA LAN-based accounts receivable systems and inventory tracking systems that were not year 2000 compliant. MIS has also implemented an asset management system from the ITS Year 2000 committee and is in the process of upgrading the system to provide better reporting and management of DOA IT assets.

Interactive Purchasing System

MIS has re-designed the functionality of the Interactive Purchasing System (IPS) for Purchasing and Contracts. MIS Staff has completed the application development of the new design with assistance from contract staff. This new system allows agencies to electronically track the status of bids with more detail information. Vendor registration (Vendor Link) is also a part of the re-design allowing the IPS system to automatically notify qualified vendors via e-mail when new bids are electronically posted. Vendors may then choose to download the bid document from the IPS Web server, print the bid, fill it out and mail it back to Purchasing and Contracts. This eliminates mass paper mailings to vendors that may not be interested in bidding. IPS and Vendor Link may interface with a new e-procurement system being planned for the State by ITS, the Office of the State Controller and Purchase and Contract.

State Surplus Bids

MIS has added additional functionality to the State Surplus System that automatically updates its web page with surplus information for public bids. The public can access items for bidding by downloading the system-generated PDF document, printing it out, and mailing it back to State Surplus. After bid openings, the bids are then tabulated and displayed on the Web site for the public viewing.

MIS is in the process of re-designing and developing a replacement for the existing dBase IV system at State Surplus with new web-based technology. The new system will streamline business processes, reduce time to bid, provide additional functionality, allow for growth, and save paper and postal costs. This new system may interface with an e-Auction system in the future.

STATE CAPITOL POLICE

Summary

The State Capitol Police Division (SCP), a law enforcement agency with police powers throughout Raleigh and state property in Wake County, provides security and property protection for state government facilities in Raleigh and other areas of Wake County. The division protects employees and visitors; secures state-owned property; provides security for demonstrations, inaugurations, prison executions, personnel hearings; assists visitors to state facilities; investigates crimes committed on state property; and monitors burglar and fire alarm systems statewide.

Accomplishments

Safety Assistance

SCP places an emphasis on assisting persons and motorists with armed special details. It investigates suspected unauthorized entries and suspicious persons throughout the state government complex and outlying facilities. Since July 1999, 20,101 calls have been received and addressed by SCP. The division monitors fire, burglar and mechanical alarms for government facilities throughout the state at no charge. Today, there are over 500 alarm accounts being monitored by State Capitol Police.

New Facility

In January 2000, SCP moved to a new facility at 417 N. Salisbury Street. This move has allowed the expansion of operations and provides a secure area for the Communications Center. Also, this new facility has increased visibility to customers and has had a positive effect on the morale among SCP employees, resulting in higher productivity.

New Safety Programs

Certified child car seat inspectors are now available to state employees through State Capitol Police. Officers can advise the employee if a car seat is secured properly and if it is in the safest place in a vehicle. State employees are encouraged to call SCP for an inspection. Also, officers are now certified through the Automated External Defibrillator (AED) Program, with the goal that all state buildings will have AEDs in case of emergencies involving heart attacks.

Electric Truck

In December 2000, SCP acquired an electric Chevy S-0 pickup truck. A grant from Carolina Power and Light Company funded State Capitol Police's electric vehicle charging station that is also available for use by other state-owned vehicles. The new truck is an official police vehicle easily recognizable with the State Capitol Police decal as well as the N.C. Project Green's "environmental sustainability" logo. The truck is used on the night shift by an officer who monitors state offices several miles from the downtown state government complex. When the shift is over, the truck is returned to headquarters where it is recharged and is available for regular patrol or other duties during the day. The procurement of this vehicle is not only cost effective but also environmentally sound.

STATE PARKING SYSTEMS

Summary

In March 1999 the State Parking Systems was created to establish a professional office to standardize, administer and improve parking operations and facilities. All Parking System revenues are generated through assessment of user fees in the visitor lots and the leasing of all remaining spaces.

The Division is responsible for directing and administrating the state governmental parking system (8200 spaces) and coordinating the state employees transportation and commuting programs in the downtown state government complex. The division is active in researching and planning for expansion and/or modifications to operating systems; developing and implementing improvements to processes; and developing, establishing and administering policies and procedures, fees assessment, collections and facility maintenance and enhancement. State Parking Systems manages three pay lot facilities located within the state complex.

Accomplishments

Accessible Parking

The division addressed, clarified and/or resolved handicap accessibility parking issues within the complex. The accessibility issues involved employees being assigned into spaces with signage designating public availability and employees not being given accessibility as required by the ADA. Excess accessible spaces that were unusable by visitors were converted to employee spaces, and other inconsistencies in designation signage were corrected. Additional public accessible handicapped parking spaces were provided at locations where a need was assessed.

Visitor Parking Facilities

The division eliminated the practice of allowing state employees housed outside of the complex to park free in visitor lots; developed a process for following up on vehicles parking in the lot and leaving after operational hours without rendering payment; developed a program to allow state-sponsored groups to park at a 50% discount rate; instituted a system for identifying Natural Science Museum volunteers who are provided free parking by the Administrative Code; and addressed operational security issues in operations as noted in a study performed by State Capitol Police.

Alternative Transportation Subsidy Programs

The division centralized the Capital Area Transit pass program fee collection and distribution processes into its operation; worked with Triangle Transit Authority (TTA) officials to refine paper process for TTA participation; and linked TTA officials with parking coordinators to assist them in conducting a survey of downtown commuters' transportation habits. This information will be utilized to develop effective alternative transportation options.

Computerized Parking Database System

The division completed on site inventory of the parking lots, verifying field reality to the parking system database and corrected discrepancies; restored integrity to financial database records through reentering and correcting payroll error data and reconciling individual account receivables; standardized invoice and payment for spaces allocated; and leased to outside groups such as UNC-TV, UNC General Administration and other media.

Sign Study

The office completed a study of parking-related signage within the complex through use of an outside consulting company with intent to replace all existing signs to improve aesthetics and the ability of visitors to navigate the state complex.

Space Management

The office identified spaces not leased for a period of two months or more and reallocated to agencies with waitlists, unless space was tied to a managerial level position or higher and documented in writing.

Facility Maintenance/Enhancement

The office developed and financed construction of a loading/unloading zone for the new Archaeology operations site; resurfaced ten parking lots; restriped and/or renumbered seven lots; completed phase I of bus parking lot expansion; began integrating parking lot designations to simplify and reduce the number of separate designations; reconfigured parking next to State Capitol Police to allow for installation of electrical vehicle charging stations; assessed and graded condition of all surface lots developing a priority plan for paving and painting; strategically mounted space locator signs within all parking decks.

Collaboration

Provided participation on Downtown Raleigh Alliance visitors' team, a forum to discuss ongoing visitors' issues in downtown Raleigh; joined the Carolina Parking Association and attended two conferences/vendor shows; and instituted regular meetings with departmental parking coordinators providing a forum for ongoing dialogue and problem resolution. With coordinators' input, a comprehensive parking system procedures manual was developed and distributed.

Strategic Planning

The office developed mission and vision statements, identified broad divisional goals and developed a long-term strategic plan for improving parking policies and operations, using an integrated team approach to managing day-to-day affairs of the Division.

Safety

The division addressed a variety of safety issues in parking facilities including adding outdoor carpet at all elevator access areas in two decks due to slippery tiled surfaces installed during original construction.

NC OFFICE ON THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

Summary

From January 1999 to November 2000, the NC Office on the ADA (ADA) responded to almost 1100 requests for information, referrals and/ or technical assistance and distributed over 700 pieces of literature in response to compliance issues. The office also served as a resource for federal, state, county and local government entities. The office provided technical assistance and consultation to the public university system, the Governor's Conference on Race Initiatives, the community college system, private colleges, businesses and local advocacy and special interest groups.

Accomplishments

ADA Training Sessions

The office obtained continued funding in September 1999 from the Southeastern Disability and Technical Assistance Center to expand outreach opportunities and to provide training on the ADA and related compliance issues. This grant allowed the office to increase training activities from 17 such activities in 1998 to over 50 between July 1999 and October 2000.

The training workshops were presented to more than 1000 participants including those in historically economically disadvantaged and isolated rural counties with large minority populations (the so called "double minorities" who are both disabled and members of a racial minority). Additional funding is anticipated for 2001-2002.

The list of entities to whom training was provided includes the following: the Raleigh Arts Council, NC Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, NCSU Department of Recreation, Human Relations offices in Wilson and Fayetteville, NC Assistive Technology Expo, NC Department of Public Instruction, the NC Association of Educators, NC Association of Museum Curators, NC Indian Unity Conference, Social Security offices, State Conference on Aging, and Mental Health Centers and consumers from a number of counties.

ADA Ninth and Tenth Anniversary Celebrations

The ADA Office promoted and assisted in 17 observances in 1999 and 20 ceremonies and observances across the state in 2000. The office distributed materials, gave interviews, presented speeches and provided publicity and assistance to the promoters of the National Torch Run in observance of the tenth anniversary of the ADA in July 2000.

Conferences

The ADA Office obtained funding, coordinated and staffed three very successful conferences (November 1999, May 2000 and October 2000) that brought together state and local officials, advocacy groups and consumers for compliance updates on the ADA. Interactive workshop topics included Emergency Preparedness, Electronic Access, Special Education Issues and current ADA Litigation issues. The attendance at the conferences rose from approximately 40 in 1998 to almost 170 in 2000, and the organizers were able to present the three conferences at no expense to the Department of Administration.

ADA Compliance

The ADA resumed compliance in September 2000 with Executive Order 15 that required an annual report to the Governor and a quarterly report to the Legislature on state agency efforts to accomplish or assure compliance with transition plan. The document has been completed and submitted for review.

NORTH CAROLINA COMMISSION OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

Summary

The mission of the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs (CIA) is to instill a positive vision for American Indians through preserving cultural identity by promoting and advocating the rights, beliefs and opportunities which impact quality of life. The Commission's goals for American Indians in North Carolina are as follows: to increase and maximize educational opportunities; to increase the economic self-sufficiency and maximize Indian economic development initiatives; to achieve parity in employment; to improve health status; to increase public awareness of American Indians; to provide for state and/or federal recognition of North Carolina Indian tribes; to promote recognition of and the right of Indians to pursue cultural and religious traditions considered by them to be sacred and meaningful; and to promote public understanding and appreciation of American Indian culture.

Accomplishments

Z. Smith Reynolds Grant

The commission received a $30,000 grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to develop capacity building of the commission membership, commission staff, and community Indian leaders for the N. C. Commission of Indian Affairs. The purpose of this project is to implement a strategic plan for the Year 2000. The plan requires the commission to establish a partnership with key non-Indian stakeholders in Indian communities, to bring additional resources and expertise to the commission in attempt to serve the future needs of North Carolina's American Indian communities.

American Indian License Plate

The legislature authorized the first American Indian Insignia license plate in 1999. In addition to generating new revenue, the plates bring a new sense of pride and recognition to American Indian citizens of North Carolina.

Culturally Responsive Care Initiative – American Indian Perspective on Key Issues

The Commission received $75,000 from the Division of Social Services (DSS) to implement a culturally responsive care initiative created and established by the Department of Health and Human Services. The Commission, in conjunction with Triangle Native American Society, was responsible for conducting a needs assessment of the American Indian communities statewide. The outcome of this initiative has been the production of a document which provides an overview and initial assessment of needs, accessibility and utilization of services, lack of accurate data, and identification of problems around public policies and practices that omit the state's American Indian community.

Legislation Requiring Consideration of Indian Child Welfare Act for American Indian Children

The Adoption and Safe Families Act was amended by the legislature requiring DSS to consider the Indian Child Welfare Act when placing Indian children into foster care or adoptive services.

NC Health Choice for Families

The Commission was instrumental in partnering with N. C. Health Choice for children in securing approximately $120,000 in outreach funds to encourage enrollment in the program by American Indian tribes and organizations.

Rural Development Initiative -- $1,000,000 in Funds

The Commission worked in partnership with the US Department of Agriculture and its Rural Development Program to develop a special set aside Home Loan Program for American Indian citizens in North Carolina. As a result of this effort, the Rural Development Program has set aside $1 million dollars in home loan funds for American Indian families living in rural North Carolina.

Strategic Plan

The Commission adopted a Strategic Plan. Priorities set forth include economic development, Indian education, Indian health and the establishment of an American Indian Scholarship Foundation.

Diabetes Project

The Commission received a contract in the amount of $20,000 from the Center for Disease Control for this Program. The project will fund diabetes screening efforts in Indian communities.

Indian Education Forum

The Commission staff participated in the National Indian Education Association's Regional Indian Education forum in cooperation with the US Department of Education to comply with President Clinton's Executive Order regarding Indian Education. The forum was held in Raleigh and was attended by about 40 representatives of tribes, Indian organizations and others associated with Indian Education. The NIEA will issue a final report that will include a summary of recommendations from the other Regional Forums held in the United States. The Forum held in North Carolina was the last of the regional forums to be held.

COUNCIL FOR WOMEN

Summary

The North Carolina Council for Women (CFW) is the only state agency that advocates exclusively on behalf of women. Its mission is to advise the governor, the North Carolina Legislature and the principal state departments on the special needs of women in North Carolina. CFW annually awards over $6,000,000 in grants to displaced homemaker programs, domestic violence and sexual assault agencies and rape prevention education programs.

Accomplishments

Displaced Homemakers

In July 2000, the thirtieth displaced homemaker program began, and the programs now serve over 30,000 men and women.

Domestic Violence

In 1999 and 2000, the General Assembly appropriated $1,000,000 in non-recurring funds for assisting domestic violence programs. These funds enabled the CFW (which administers state funds for these programs) to increase the amount of grants to each of 77 local programs and fund 16 additional counties with small grants to provide victim assistance.

Rape Prevention Education/Sexual Assault Programs

Since 1999, the council has been very active in establishing sexual assault protocols on college campuses and providing community rape prevention education. Currently 64 local sexual assault programs receive an annual grant ($14,000 for 2000-2001) to be used only for prevention and education in their areas of service.

Conference

The conference entitled "N.C. Women Coming Together for a Brighter Future" sponsored by the CFW was held in April 1999 with over 300 participants. The conference focused on women in business, councils and commissions, displaced homemakers, domestic violence, sexual assault and women's health issues.

Other Activities

The council has three annual activities that promote good will among the citizens of North Carolina and are primarily funded through corporate donations.

The Distinguished Women of North Carolina Awards banquet is held in March to coincide with National Women's History Month.

Leadership CONNECTIONS provides teenage girls from disadvantaged backgrounds mentoring assistance and an annual retreat on a college campus.

Luncheons entitled "Salutes to Women in the Military" honor women currently serving in the military and female veterans.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE COMMISSION

Summary

The Domestic Violence Commission is an outgrowth of a temporary Task Force convened by Governor Hunt in October 1998. The Commission was created by Executive Order #145 in February of 1999 and placed into the Department of Administration. In July of 1999, the General Assembly made the Commission permanent and granted it an appropriation. The Commission is comprised of 39 members and is staffed by an Executive Director and Administrative Secretary. In addition, the Commission has a federal grant to support the costs of a Training Director.

Policy Initiatives

Proposed statutory changes to clarify Full Faith and Credit provisions under the federal Violence Against Women Act (legislation passed).

Proposed DOA be given temporary rule-making authority governing the operation of abuser treatment programs, and, expand applicability of these rules to referrals from District as well as Criminal Courts (legislation passed).

In collaboration with the Office of State Personnel, focused on improving the state's response to workplace violence by redrafting current personnel policy (adopted 8/17/00); developed a 2-hour training module for supervisors on recognizing and responding to workplace violence, including domestic violence; and sponsored a statewide conference for state human resource professionals.

Proposed making a number of changes to criminal and civil statutes, including making violation of an out-of-state protective order a crime; adding domestic violence crimes to crimes for which warrantless arrest is allowable. Current proposals include two additional changes to enhance victim safety.

Proposed changes to Domestic Violence Protective Form, via the Administrative Office of the Courts, to increase victim safety.

Currently encouraging the adoption of written pro arrest policies for domestic violence by all law enforcement agencies in the state by working closely with law enforcement leadership, drafting models and providing training.

Currently encouraging private industry to adopt policies on domestic violence in the workplace to protect victims and hold perpetrators accountable by drafting materials and working with leadership.

Currently assessing adequacy and accessibility of services to victims across the state. Have recommended changes to data collection efforts that identify prevalence and establish a baseline to measure the success of our efforts to prevent domestic violence.

Currently drafting "best practices" for abuser treatment programs in the state.

Coordinating research conducted by the Governor's Crime Commission to provide information regarding court outcomes related to custody decisions made in the course of protective order hearings.

Currently collaborating with the Department of Public Instruction to develop school policies that address dating violence and sexual assault between students. Proposed the addition of a domestic violence specialist to the Safe Schools Committee.

Convening leaders to discuss the establishment of domestic violence fatality review teams, and to identify elements of an effective North Carolina-based model.

Training Initiatives

Redrafted training curriculum for School Resource Officers to include a chapter on dating violence and sexual assault. Currently assisting the Justice Academy in delivering that training.

Co-sponsored regional training for journalists on covering domestic violence and sexual assault.

Consulting with Division of Social Services on a variety of issues including training for CPS workers and Work First workers, and Child Support Enforcement on domestic violence.

Currently designing a statewide public awareness campaign.

Currently identifying training needs for a variety of professional areas, including the legal system, health care professionals, children's services, and others.

Currently consulting with the Division of Community Corrections to improve probation officer's knowledge of domestic violence and intervention programs for probationers, and develop ways to enhance the safety of victimized partners of probationers.

Will provide (3) 1-day training sessions to domestic violence service providers on the implementation of welfare reform in North Carolina as it relates to victims of domestic violence and the role of Departments of Social Services.

Services

Conducted needs assessment in 25 counties. As a result, expanded services so that 99 out of 100 counties provide direct services to victims.

Propose funding for domestic violence service providers (ongoing legislative agenda item).

Recommended earmarking of TANF dollars for services to domestic violence victims who are WorkFirst clients to address their ability to become self-sufficient.

Have conducted 3 statewide surveys to determine gaps in services to victims.

Currently collaborating with the DHHS section on substance abuse services on the service needs of substance-abusing victims of domestic violence as well as professional training needs of both communities.

GOVERNOR'S ADVOCACY COUNCIL FOR PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

Summary

The Governor's Advocacy Council for Persons with Disabilities (GACPD) is the state's Protection and Advocacy agency (P&A). It is a disability civil rights protection agency committed to serving North Carolina's citizens with disabilities and is part of a nationwide system of such agencies. It is guided by a Board of 21 volunteers appointed by the Governor, President Pro Tem of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives. GACPD is responsible for providing a statewide advocacy program in accordance with the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act, the Protection and Advocacy for Individuals with Mental Illness Act and the Protection and Advocacy for Individual Rights Act and is independent of any agency which provides services to individuals with disabilities. In accordance with those Acts, GACPD investigates complaints of discrimination and rights violations made by or on behalf of North Carolina citizens with disabilities; and has the authority and pursues legal, administrative, and other appropriate remedies to ensure the protection of the rights of persons with disabilities with particular attention to members of underserved, ethnic and racial minority groups. Further, GACPD reviews and recommends changes in all laws, rules, regulations, programs and policies of the state or any agency or subdivision which impacts the lives of citizens with disabilities.

GACPD is guided by a federally mandated three-year priority plan, which is reviewed each year. Key projects include enforcing the rights of persons with disabilities to live in an integrated community setting of their choice with appropriate supports and services; protecting birth through grade 12 students with disabilities from disability related exclusion from a free appropriate public education in the least restrictive environment; enforcing the rights of individuals to live in a safe environment, free from abuse/neglect/exploitation/death in public and private community settings; advocating for the rights of persons with disabilities in accessing electronic and information technology; and, protecting the rights of individuals with disabilities whose needs do not fall within the scope of the other four priorities with emphasis on accessibility and employment.

Accomplishments

Enforcement of right to receive services and supports which are free from abuse and neglect, and which provides access to due process, informed consent, confidentiality and privacy in 24 hour facilities

Investigated 475 cases of abuse and 193 cases of neglect in 24-hour residential facilities including state facilities with significant results of change in areas of substantiation.

Investigated the death of 71 individuals in 24-hour private and public facilities with significant results of change in areas of substantiation of abuse or neglect. In one of the deaths, a GACPD advocate appeared in an interview with Ed Bradley in April 1999 on the nationally televised program, 60 Minutes II.

Investigated additional 153 cases of alleged client rights violations and initiated change in substantiated areas.

Investigated the death of a nine-year-old at Grandfather Academy in Avery County. After the investigation, provided training to staff on client rights and how to set up a client rights committee, working closely with the Division of Social Services and the Division of Facility Services. Grandfather Academy was granted a provisional license contingent upon the home not reinstating use of the "basket " hold as a physical restraint technique.

Led effort in the passage of HB1520 that provides containment of the responsible use of patient restraints and emphatically devises a system of patient death reporting. GACPD has access to receiving notification of all deaths reported in state facilities.

Elimination of disability-based discrimination in education, transportation and employment

Represented 434 clients in education cases to ensure that North Carolina's children with disabilities receive a free appropriate education in the least restrictive environment.

Provided assistance to 117 persons with disabilities in employment cases in negotiating and mediating with employers, referring to appropriate state and federal agencies and empowering the individual with foundations of law and rights protections to act.

In April 1999, the final group of curb cuts promised by DOT in a 1997 agreement was completed. Through GACPD's efforts, 2,016 curb cuts were completed for the benefit of the citizens of North Carolina and installation became automatic in all future DOT paving contracts.

GACPD has worked with municipal transit authorities regarding the revision of policies to ensure that people with disabilities have access to the fixed route and paratransit services, including the provision of printed information in alternate formats upon request and web page access.

Enforcement of the rights of people with disabilities to choose where they live, work and recreate

Provided training to 1,917 persons with disabilities, family members and service providers on the rights of persons with disabilities including the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act and the Rehabilitation Act and particularly Section 504.

Mailed and otherwise distributed 144,250 brochures on rights of persons with disabilities and on the Governor's Advocacy Council for Persons with Disabilities. These posters and brochures were mailed to 1,658 adult care homes and 2,000 specialized foster care homes (supervised living facilities and therapeutic homes) throughout the State. Agency posters and brochures were also mailed to all 100 county health departments and all 440 public libraries throughout the state. In addition, literature and posters were sent to all 40 area mental health centers. The agency brochures were available in alternate formats and in Spanish. The agency posters were also available in Spanish. A method for contracting with a person fluent in Spanish was established to respond to inquiries.

Established an agency-staffed team dedicated to the implementation of rights established by the US Supreme Court case of Olmstead et.al. v. L.C. and E.W., a case brought under the community integration standards of Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act. The team has and continues to organize grassroots individuals and organizations for pro-active involvement in the establishment and monitoring of the State's compliance plan. It also is involved in the identification of and assistance to institutionalized persons as well as persons at risk of institutionalization who have the right to community services.

GACPD has taken the lead in electronic access for the state of North Carolina, playing a major role in bringing to the attention of state government the lack of and need for accessibility to technology for persons with disabilities. Following a presentation by GACPD in June 1999 before the state Information Resource Management Commission (IRMC), then Lt. Gov. Dennis Wicker appointed a task force. The task force, which included industry representatives, advocates for the disabled and state officials, developed standards for computers used both by state employees and the public to make sure the disabled can carry out their jobs or have access to government information. GACPD has requested introduction of legislation during the 2001-02 session in accordance with recommendations of the task force.

Wrote and actively pursued statutory changes to NCGS168-A, "Handicapped Persons Protection Act" – now "Persons with Disabilities Protection Act." It increases the statute of limitations on filing complaints of discrimination from 180 days to 2 years; adds "working" as example of major life activities; and replaces the term "handicapped" with "person(s) with a disability". GACPD has received a request from another state for a copy of this state legislation to be used as a guide when crafting rights protection legislation.

Actively pursued the passage of Health Care Personnel Registry legislation, which passed in October 1998 and May 1999. The registry is a listing of all hands-on health care workers in 24-hour facilities in the state who have had allegation of abuse, neglect or exploitation substantiated against them. This information is available to prospective employers through a 24-hour toll-free hotline. Changes advocated by GACPD strengthened the statute and will better protect the rights of clients in North Carolina. This legislation has also been requested by another state for assistance for writing legislation.

Provision of accurate and consistent intake, information and referral services and outreach services

Consolidated and centralized all intake, information and referral services. Toll free numbers are provided so any client or potential client can call and receive prompt and consistent service.

Provided information and referral services and technical assistance to 10,812 callers.

Conducted seven regional forums during this two-year period in Washington, Franklin, Lumberton, Reidsville, Manteo, Boone and Rockingham. Four of the public forums were held in small towns in isolated rural areas, one with a majority of Native American and African-American residents and two others with a high African-American population. The forums enabled the office to reach consumers who might not otherwise have contact.

HUMAN RELATIONS COMMISSION

Summary

The purpose of the North Carolina Human Relations Commission is to advocate, enforce, and promote equality of opportunity in the areas of housing, fair employment practices, public accommodations, education, justice and governmental services for all people in North Carolina. The division serves as a focal point for developing, maintaining and improving human relations by fostering communication and encouraging the establishment of local human relations councils. The division also provides crisis intervention in potentially disruptive situations and promotes the right of every person in the state to live and work in peace and to be free of violence and intimidation.

Accomplishments

Fair Housing Law Enforcement

The North Carolina Human Relations Commission is charged with the administration and enforcement of the fair housing law, including the investigation, mediation, and litigation of fair housing cases and the provision of fair housing education and training for the state. Since March 1999, the Commission received approximately 766 housing inquiries. One hundred fifty-nine cases alleging housing discrimination were dual-filed with the US Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Commission closed 122 cases. The Commission also successfully conciliated four cases in which a reasonable grounds determination had been made following investigation, enabling these to be settled. Currently, the Commission has 14 cases in litigation and approximately 38 under investigation.

Fair Housing Outreach

In an effort to increase the attention to the program of fair housing, the Commission conducted approximately 43 outreach seminars and upon requests distributed approximately 7,159 pieces of fair housing literature in English and Spanish. The Commission, in an outreach effort, maintained a web page making available the State Fair Housing Act in English and Spanish and allowing access to the complaint forms for use by the public. The Commission has also printed for distribution the State Fair Housing Act booklets, brochures, and posters in English and Spanish.

Police-Community Relations

The Commission has trained 1077 law enforcement officers in 56 training sessions since March 1999. The purpose of this training is to improve law enforcement officers' community relation skills and help them sharpen their skills needed in interacting with the public. With this training, these officers also learn to develop an appreciation for the cultural diversity of the residents of their communities.

Cultural Diversity Training

Since March 1999, the Commission has conducted 16 diversity training sessions with 307 participants. The objectives for these sessions are to increase multicultural/ethnic understanding and appreciation, reduce prejudice and stereotyping, discuss cause/effect-stimulus/response, and address problem-solving techniques.

Crisis Response Teams

The Commission received a grant of $40,0000 from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to develop crisis response teams throughout the state. The purpose of these teams will be to involve themselves in community situations that have the potential for civil disorder in order for the trained team members to quickly respond to crisis in their communities and work together across county lines. These team members will also be able to serve as mediators and help to normalize events as needed. To date, 104 people have participated in the initial three training sessions.

Hate Violence Reporting/Investigation

The Human Relations Commission established and trained 40 Hate Violence Information Network affiliates across North Carolina. These affiliates signed a memorandum of understanding stating that they would contact the Commission when a "hate incident" occurs in their community. One hundred-nine hate/violence incidents were reported and investigated since March 1999. "Hate incidents" refer to crimes, harassment or intimidation committed out of hatred of the victim because of his or her race, religion, ethnic or cultural background, etc.

Local Human Relations Commissions

The Human Relations Commission seeks to help establish and/or revitalize local human relations councils/commissions within every county. The goal for local human relations councils/commissions is to resolve community problems at the local level. Since March 1999, the Commission has helped to establish six new local commissions. The Commission has also developed orientation training sessions for new commissions and provides continuous assistance, advice and training to all local commissions.

Employment/Public Accommodations

Since March 1999, the Human Relations Commission has answered approximately 1521 telephone and written inquiries concerning employment and public accommodations concerns. When the Commission does not provide directs assistance, referrals are made to other agencies.

Martin Luther King, Jr. Commission

The purpose of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Commission is to provide assistance and advice to local governments and private organizations across the state with respect to the observance of the Martin Luther King holiday and year-round activities regarding the philosophy of Dr. King. The Commission promotes an awareness and appreciation for the life and work of Martin Luther King, Jr. and awards mini-grants to organizations that promote the philosophies of Dr. King.

Annual Bell Ringing Ceremony

Each year on the official Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday, the Commission sponsors a Bell Ringing Ceremony at the Bicentennial Plaza. Several hundred people observe the ceremony and public officials participate in the program each year.

Martin Luther King Mini-Grants

In December 1999, the Martin Luther King, Jr. Commission awarded $46,050 in mini-grants to 29 non-profit organizations. In December 2000, the Commission awarded $46,050 in mini-grants to 26 non-profit organizations. These mini-grant proposals are geared to organizing, promoting and implementing programs that reflect the philosophy of Dr. King throughout the year.

YOUTH ADVOCACY AND INVOLVEMENT OFFICE

Summary

The Youth Advocacy and Involvement Office (YAIO), under the leadership of four advisory councils and in cooperation with public and private agencies, serves as an advocate for the 2 million people in the state under the age of 18. YAIO seeks to enhance the quality of lives of children and youth through individual and class advocacy intervention and by offering opportunities for leadership development and experiential education.

The advocacy staff handled 196 new cases (and referred 78 additional ones) involving 64 counties and 13 states in the last year and one half. Staff has been involved in working on and researching issues such as infant protection, home schooling, child drownings, foster care and emancipation. A funding resource library/database for youth programs and services has been developed to offer assistance to both public and private agencies and individuals seeking resources to operate their programs.

Accomplishments

Youth Survey and Summit

Last year the office received a grant from Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation and the Civic Education Consortium to examine the impact of the hurricanes on students in the eastern part of the state. Over 12,000 surveys were sent to middle and high school students in the 25 counties most impacted. The results of the surveys were used to develop a videoconference, which was held with students and elected officials in Columbus, Duplin, Edgecombe, and Pitt Counties. A final report entitled "Youth Survey and Summit on Hurricane Disaster Relief and Recovery" was published and presented to local officials, legislators, and emergency management personnel outlining recommendations from the students.

Students Against Destructive Decisions

Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) supports chapters in over 300 middle and high schools in the state. Recent accomplishments include securing underage alcohol prevention grants to offset the cost of participation in both the 1999 and 2000 SADD conferences. Student participation increased in the conferences from 240 to 371 attendees during the last year. College-to-high school and high school-to-middle school mentoring projects are currently being promoted.

Youth Legislative Assembly

The 30TH session of the Youth Legislative Assembly (YLA) convened in March 2000 with approximately 225 youth legislators from across the state. The weekend mock assembly, patterned after the NC General Assembly, debated numerous issues, including mandating school uniform policies in all North Carolina public schools and limiting the number of days the NC General Assembly is in session.

Mini-Grant Program for Youth Organizations

The Mini-Grant Program received a record number of grant applications this past year. Fifty-five youth organizations sought funds to conduct youth inspired and driven projects in local communities around the state. An average of $450 was awarded to each of twenty-five projects to help support programs such as after school youth tutorials and drug prevention workshops.

State Youth Council

The State Youth Council (SYC) of North Carolina, whose intent it is to promote youth involvement in community affairs, conducted quarterly conferences throughout the state in the recent program year. Local youth councils, which comprise SYC, reviewed grant applications, conducted and planned major community projects and served as an advisory group to State Superintendent Mike Ward.

Publications

Thanks to a grant from the Governor's Crime Commission, 20,000 copies of two publications, Youth Rights and Responsibilities and You and the Juvenile Justice System were updated and printed. They are being distributed to schools, training schools, court counselors and teen courts across the state. With additional grant monies, these publications will be printed in Spanish this year. An office newsletter and SADD newsletter are also published periodically.

AmeriCorps Serving North Carolina Youth

Effective November 2000, the AmeriCorps Serving North Carolina Youth project was transferred from the Governor's Office to YAIO. This project is designed to strengthen the partnerships between schools, volunteer centers, and other community youth-serving agencies to ensure that all children that need a mentor or tutor gets one. AmeriCorps members are serving in 12 NC counties and have recruited, trained, and matched more than 400 volunteer mentors with at-risk youth.

State Government Internship Program

YAIO administers the State Government Internship Program for college students. Summer interns work 40-hour weeks for 10 weeks and are paid $6.75/hour. Since March 1999, 196 interns have been placed in state government jobs across the state.

APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE

ON

GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Minutes

April 19, 2001

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government met Thursday, April 19, 2001 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. Three of the Senate members were present. Representatives present were: Co-Chair Maggie Jeffus, Co-Chair Wilma Sherrill; and Alma Adams, Daniel Barefoot, Gene Wilson, and Marvin Lucas. Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism from the fiscal staff were also present.

In Senator Ed Warren's absence, Senator Oscar Harris chaired the meeting. Senator Harris introduced and welcomed the Pages; they are Ashma Aneeja from Senator Warren's district, Rachael Thomas from Representative Hurley's district, and Brooks Sheritt from Pasquotank, Representative Owen's district.

Senator Harris recognized Mr. McKinley Wooten to continue with the presentation from the Department of Administration that began on April 18. Mr.Wooten continued his review on page 31of the handout.

Norman Cohen, President and CEO of UNITEC, Inc. UNITEC is an international marketing company in the chemical specialty business. He also serves as Vice Chair of the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology. He will speak on behalf of the board's appropriation's request. He reviewed pages 33-33 and A-30. (Attachment 1). Senator Harris commented that this report represents quite an accomplishment and he certainly appreciates the effort that is made to raise venture capitol for the rural counties of North Carolina.

Representative Sherrill noted on page A-30 that there are three vacancies and asked if this is where the budget cuts are coming from? The Administrative Officer I position and the Deputy Director position will not be filled. An Executive Director will be appointed as soon as possible.

The meeting continued with Tony Jordan to address Facility Management found on pages 99-107 and B12 of the Department of Administration report. (Attachment 2). The facilities are managed with 210 employees. Mr. Jordan briefly reviewed the report.

A question arose concerning the travel budget found on page B12. Mr. Jordan explained that the travel has to do with the maintenance of the Polk Building in Charlotte on Trade Street. It houses state employees from Revenue, Labor, etc.

From the State Capitol Police, Mr. A.C. Wilson, Acting Chief of Police reviewed the report pages 115-118. Raleigh Police do not have the time, manpower and probably the inclination to provide the unique services provided by the State Capitol Police. Some samples of these unique services are shown in the following examples from the Statistics from June 2000 – April 2001: personnel hearings 43 times, security and personnel at the Governor's Mansion 379 times, investigated traffic accidents on state property 52 times, escorted State employees to deposit state funds 517 times, jump start vehicles 155 times, opening state buildings during off hours 1,658 times, issues permits to use state property to non state employees and officers are required to provide state security during these events resulting in 785 intrusions and made 693 arrest. The State Capitol Police are on duty 365 days a year.

A copy of the State Police Statistics Report will to be brought in later as requested.

Greg Cain, Director of State Parking Office continued the meeting with a review of the State Parking Systems. (attachment 3)

In answer to a question regarding the parking building lease rates: The lease rates were set in 1979 and there has some discussion to raise the rates in recent years, but it has not happened yet. An increase in rates would be used to help take care of needed maintenance.

The Office of Americans with Disabilities Act was next on the agenda with Coordinator Larry Jones presenting. Mr. Jones reviewed the report. (attachment 4). With regard to the Supreme Court decision that State Employees could not sue in Federal Court for monitory damages, but it does not preclude them from suing under any other act. Senate Bill 168, Short Title: HMO Cease and desist would include State employees under the state law.

The Governor's Advocacy Council for Persons with Disabilities is next on the agenda with Allen Perry, Director speaking. Mr. Perry reviewed the council report that begins on page 143. (attachment 5). In respect to the death and injury investigation that came to light last year, the relationship to the Justice Department is to investigate policy, procedure, or if abuse was present and to make recommendations.

In response to a question regarding funding Mr. Perry reported that the state funding is right at a half million dollars and all other funding is federal. The total budget is 2.3 million dollars.

In response to the question: are you familiar with the Mayor's Council for Americans with disabilities? Yes, we have worked with them in the past and during annual awards presentation. The board was concerned that there was a conflict of interest in giving out awards to people in the community many of which might be service providers or employers. Therefore, we have a working agreement with the vocational rehabilitation and they do most of that work with the Mayor's Committees and sometimes make referrals. We assist them as we need to and we do speeches from time to time and work with them. We are not as intimately involved as we used to be. Anytime anyone feels that they are being treated unfairly or indiscriminately because of their disability they are more than welcome to call the Governor's Advocacy Council for a person with Disabilities.

Next on the agenda is the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs with Greg Richardson speaking. Mr. Richardson reviewed the resource materials report beginning on page 129. (attachment 6). Federally recognized tribes are through the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington, D.C. The state of North Carolina has a similar process of recognition that is in no way as difficult at the Federal.

Because of cross over the committee will not meet on Monday. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday April 24, 2001 at 8:30 in room 425.

The meeting is adjourned.

Respectfully Submitted,

Senator Oscar Harris, Chair

Delores Ledford, Clerk

North Carolina Board of Ethics

Number of Board Members: Seven appointed by the Governor

Purpose: The Board's overall mission is to protect the public interest and maintain the public trust by helping covered "Public Officials" avoid conflicts of interest and appearances of conflict of interest as they perform their public duties. Covered "Public Officials" include gubernatorial and legislative appointees to non-advisory boards and commissions within the Executive Branch of State Government, and exempt from the State Personnel Act employees in the Executive Branch including university officers as designated by the Board of Governors. The Board pursues it goals primarily through education, evaluation of statements of economic interest, advisory opinions, and complaint investigations.

Structure: The Board is supported by a staff of three: (1) an Executive Director, (2) an Administrative Officer, and (3) a Research Assistant.

Budget: Beginning July 1, 2000, the Board had a budget of $225,750 with which to oversee and assist approximately 250 boards and commissions and 2000 actual or prospective appointees and employees.

Report on Activities for 2000:

The Board had two meetings in 2000.

The Board investigated and resolved five formal complaints.

The Board issued 9 advisory opinions.[1]

The Board's Executive Director made ethics education and awareness presentations to 54 entities reaching over 2000 individuals.

Board staff handled numerous telephone inquiries concerning the Order and Statement of Economic Interest filing requirements and general conflict of interest/appearance of conflict issues.

The Board published four newsletters that were mailed to public officials subject to the Order, staff directors for boards subject to the Order, and other interested persons.

Board staff evaluated and made available for public inspection approximately 2,513 supplemental statements of economic interest and 275 new statements of economic interest. Our findings for the new statements of economic interest were as follows:

---

[1] Complaints and advisory opinions are initiated by third parties and thus their numbers are outside the Board's control.

FACILITY MANAGEMENT DIVISION

Summary

Facility Management Division (FMD) provides maintenance and repair services to the state government complex and other facilities in outlying areas, such as the Highway Patrol and SBI complexes on Garner Road and the Museum of Art complex on Blue Ridge Road. Also, FMD maintains the James K. Polk Building in Charlotte and provides support to the three aquariums on the coast. Services include minor new construction, renovation, carpentry, painting, housekeeping, steam plant operation, HVAC, electrical, plumbing, welding, elevator maintenance, lock shop operation, fire and pest services. Maintenance to the Capitol complex parking facilities, which includes snow and ice removal in the winter, is included in the function of FMD.

Accomplishments

FMD is continuing its preventative maintenance program that has been in place since July 1, 1996. This program involves the maintenance and repair of 146 buildings and over 1950 pieces of equipment. Over the last five years there have been fewer breakdowns of equipment resulting in significant savings. In the Program Statistics report to State Budget, maintenance costs have been reduced as follows:

1996-97	. 41 cents per square foot
1997-98	. 35 cents per square foot
1998-99	. 30 cents per square foot
1999-00	. 40 cents per square foot
(cost increase attributed to replacing two chillers)
2000-01	. 25 cents per square foot (projection of cost this fiscal year)

Energy costs have been reduced as follows:

1996-97	1.55 cents per square foot
1997-98	1.68 cents per square foot
1998-99	1.53 cents per square foot
1999-00	1.41 cents per square foot
2000-01	1.39 cents per square foot
(projection of cost this fiscal year)

Energy costs can be further reduced through the reduction of lighting costs in buildings in the state government complex as well as through the installation of more energy efficient equipment.

STATE CAPITOL POLICE

Summary

The State Capitol Police Division (SCP), a law enforcement agency with police powers throughout Raleigh and state property in Wake County, provides security and property protection for state government facilities in Raleigh and other areas of Wake County. The division protects employees and visitors; secures state-owned property; provides security for demonstrations, inaugurations, prison executions, personnel hearings; assists visitors to state facilities; investigates crimes committed on state property; and monitors burglar and fire alarm systems statewide.

Accomplishments

Safety Assistance

SCP places an emphasis on assisting persons and motorists with armed special details. It investigates suspected unauthorized entries and suspicious persons throughout the state government complex and outlying facilities. Since July 1999, 20,101 calls have been received and addressed by SCP. The division monitors fire, burglar and mechanical alarms for government facilities throughout the state at no charge. Today, there are over 500 alarm accounts being monitored by State Capitol Police.

New Facility

In January 2000, SCP moved to a new facility at 417 N. Salisbury Street. This move has allowed the expansion of operations and provides a secure area for the Communications Center. Also, this new facility has increased visibility to customers and has had a positive effect on the morale among SCP employees, resulting in higher productivity.

New Safety Programs

Certified child car seat inspectors are now available to state employees through State Capitol Police. Officers can advise the employee if a car seat is secured properly and if it is in the safest place in a vehicle. State employees are encouraged to call SCP for an inspection. Also, officers are now certified through the Automated External Defibrillator (AED) Program, with the goal that all state buildings will have AEDs in case of emergencies involving heart attacks.

Electric Truck

In December 2000, SCP acquired an electric Chevy S-0 pickup truck. A grant from Carolina Power and Light Company funded State Capitol Police's electric vehicle charging station that is also available for use by other state-owned vehicles. The new truck is an official police vehicle easily recognizable with the State Capitol Police decal as well as the N.C. Project Green's "environmental sustainability" logo. The truck is used on the night shift by an officer who monitors state offices several miles from the downtown state government complex. When the shift is over, the truck is returned to headquarters where it is recharged and is available for regular patrol or other duties during the day. The procurement of this vehicle is not only cost effective but also environmentally sound.

NC OFFICE ON THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

Summary

From January 1999 to November 2000, the NC Office on the ADA (ADA) responded to almost 1100 requests for information, referrals and/ or technical assistance and distributed over 700 pieces of literature in response to compliance issues. The office also served as a resource for federal, state, county and local government entities. The office provided technical assistance and consultation to the public university system, the Governor's Conference on Race Initiatives, the community college system, private colleges, businesses and local advocacy and special interest groups.

Accomplishments

ADA Training Sessions

The office obtained continued funding in September 1999 from the Southeastern Disability and Technical Assistance Center to expand outreach opportunities and to provide training on the ADA and related compliance issues. This grant allowed the office to increase training activities from 17 such activities in 1998 to over 50 between July 1999 and October 2000.

The training workshops were presented to more than 1000 participants including those in historically economically disadvantaged and isolated rural counties with large minority populations (the so called "double minorities" who are both disabled and members of a racial minority). Additional funding is anticipated for 2001-2002.

The list of entities to whom training was provided includes the following: the Raleigh Arts Council, NC Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, NCSU Department of Recreation, Human Relations offices in Wilson and Fayetteville, NC Assistive Technology Expo, NC Department of Public Instruction, the NC Association of Educators, NC Association of Museum Curators, NC Indian Unity Conference, Social Security offices, State Conference on Aging, and Mental Health Centers and consumers from a number of counties.

ADA Ninth and Tenth Anniversary Celebrations

The ADA Office promoted and assisted in 17 observances in 1999 and 20 ceremonies and observances across the state in 2000. The office distributed materials, gave interviews, presented speeches and provided publicity and assistance to the promoters of the National Torch Run in observance of the tenth anniversary of the ADA in July 2000.

Conferences

The ADA Office obtained funding, coordinated and staffed three very successful conferences (November 1999, May 2000 and October 2000) that brought together state and local officials, advocacy groups and consumers for compliance updates on the ADA. Interactive workshop topics included Emergency Preparedness, Electronic Access, Special Education Issues and current ADA Litigation issues. The attendance at the conferences rose from approximately 40 in 1998 to almost 170 in 2000, and the organizers were able to present the three conferences at no expense to the Department of Administration.

ADA Compliance

The ADA resumed compliance in September 2000 with Executive Order 15 that required an annual report to the Governor and a quarterly report to the Legislature on state agency efforts to accomplish or assure compliance with transition plan. The document has been completed and submitted for review.

GOVERNOR'S ADVOCACY COUNCIL FOR PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

Summary

The Governor's Advocacy Council for Persons with Disabilities (GACPD) is the state's Protection and Advocacy agency (P&A). It is a disability civil rights protection agency committed to serving North Carolina's citizens with disabilities and is part of a nationwide system of such agencies. It is guided by a Board of 21 volunteers appointed by the Governor, President Pro Tem of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives. GACPD is responsible for providing a statewide advocacy program in accordance with the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act, the Protection and Advocacy for Individuals with Mental Illness Act and the Protection and Advocacy for Individual Rights Act and is independent of any agency which provides services to individuals with disabilities. In accordance with those Acts, GACPD investigates complaints of discrimination and rights violations made by or on behalf of North Carolina citizens with disabilities; and has the authority and pursues legal, administrative, and other appropriate remedies to ensure the protection of the rights of persons with disabilities with particular attention to members of underserved, ethnic and racial minority groups. Further, GACPD reviews and recommends changes in all laws, rules, regulations, programs and policies of the state or any agency or subdivision which impacts the lives of citizens with disabilities.

GACPD is guided by a federally mandated three-year priority plan, which is reviewed each year. Key projects include enforcing the rights of persons with disabilities to live in an integrated community setting of their choice with appropriate supports and services; protecting birth through grade 12 students with disabilities from disability related exclusion from a free appropriate public education in the least restrictive environment; enforcing the rights of individuals to live in a safe environment, free from abuse/neglect/exploitation/death in public and private community settings; advocating for the rights of persons with disabilities in accessing electronic and information technology; and, protecting the rights of individuals with disabilities whose needs do not fall within the scope of the other four priorities with emphasis on accessibility and employment.

Accomplishments

Enforcement of right to receive services and supports which are free from abuse and neglect, and which provides access to due process, informed consent, confidentiality and privacy in 24 hour facilities

Investigated 475 cases of abuse and 193 cases of neglect in 24-hour residential facilities including state facilities with significant results of change in areas of substantiation.

Investigated the death of 71 individuals in 24-hour private and public facilities with significant results of change in areas of substantiation of abuse or neglect. In one of the deaths, a GACPD advocate appeared in an interview with Ed Bradley in April 1999 on the nationally televised program, 60 Minutes II.

Investigated additional 153 cases of alleged client rights violations and initiated change in substantiated areas.

Investigated the death of a nine-year-old at Grandfather Academy in Avery County. After the investigation, provided training to staff on client rights and how to set up a client rights committee, working closely with the Division of Social Services and the Division of Facility Services. Grandfather Academy was granted a provisional license contingent upon the home not reinstating use of the "basket " hold as a physical restraint technique.

Led effort in the passage of HB1520 that provides containment of the responsible use of patient restraints and emphatically devises a system of patient death reporting. GACPD has access to receiving notification of all deaths reported in state facilities.

Elimination of disability-based discrimination in education, transportation and employment

Represented 434 clients in education cases to ensure that North Carolina's children with disabilities receive a free appropriate education in the least restrictive environment.

Provided assistance to 117 persons with disabilities in employment cases in negotiating and mediating with employers, referring to appropriate state and federal agencies and empowering the individual with foundations of law and rights protections to act.

In April 1999, the final group of curb cuts promised by DOT in a 1997 agreement was completed. Through GACPD's efforts, 2,016 curb cuts were completed for the benefit of the citizens of North Carolina and installation became automatic in all future DOT paving contracts.

GACPD has worked with municipal transit authorities regarding the revision of policies to ensure that people with disabilities have access to the fixed route and paratransit services, including the provision of printed information in alternate formats upon request and web page access.

Enforcement of the rights of people with disabilities to choose where they live, work and recreate

Provided training to 1,917 persons with disabilities, family members and service providers on the rights of persons with disabilities including the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act and the Rehabilitation Act and particularly Section 504.

Mailed and otherwise distributed 144,250 brochures on rights of persons with disabilities and on the Governor's Advocacy Council for Persons with Disabilities. These posters and brochures were mailed to 1,658 adult care homes and 2,000 specialized foster care homes (supervised living facilities and therapeutic homes) throughout the State. Agency posters and brochures were also mailed to all 100 county health departments and all 440 public libraries throughout the state. In addition, literature and posters were sent to all 40 area mental health centers. The agency brochures were available in alternate formats and in Spanish. The agency posters were also available in Spanish. A method for contracting with a person fluent in Spanish was established to respond to inquiries.

Established an agency-staffed team dedicated to the implementation of rights established by the US Supreme Court case of Olmstead et.al. v. L.C. and E.W., a case brought under the community integration standards of Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act. The team has and continues to organize grassroots individuals and organizations for pro-active involvement in the establishment and monitoring of the State's compliance plan. It also is involved in the identification of and assistance to institutionalized persons as well as persons at risk of institutionalization who have the right to community services.

GACPD has taken the lead in electronic access for the state of North Carolina, playing a major role in bringing to the attention of state government the lack of and need for accessibility to technology for persons with disabilities. Following a presentation by GACPD in June 1999 before the state Information Resource Management Commission (IRMC), then Lt. Gov. Dennis Wicker appointed a task force. The task force, which included industry representatives, advocates for the disabled and state officials, developed standards for computers used both by state employees and the public to make sure the disabled can carry out their jobs or have access to government information. GACPD has requested introduction of legislation during the 2001-02 session in accordance with recommendations of the task force.

Wrote and actively pursued statutory changes to NCGS168-A, "Handicapped Persons Protection Act" – now "Persons with Disabilities Protection Act." It increases the statute of limitations on filing complaints of discrimination from 180 days to 2 years; adds "working" as example of major life activities; and replaces the term "handicapped" with "person(s) with a disability". GACPD has received a request from another state for a copy of this state legislation to be used as a guide when crafting rights protection legislation.

Actively pursued the passage of Health Care Personnel Registry legislation, which passed in October 1998 and May 1999. The registry is a listing of all hands-on health care workers in 24-hour facilities in the state who have had allegation of abuse, neglect or exploitation substantiated against them. This information is available to prospective employers through a 24-hour toll-free hotline. Changes advocated by GACPD strengthened the statute and will better protect the rights of clients in North Carolina. This legislation has also been requested by another state for assistance for writing legislation.

Provision of accurate and consistent intake, information and referral services and outreach services

Consolidated and centralized all intake, information and referral services. Toll free numbers are provided so any client or potential client can call and receive prompt and consistent service.

Provided information and referral services and technical assistance to 10,812 callers.

Conducted seven regional forums during this two-year period in Washington, Franklin, Lumberton, Reidsville, Manteo, Boone and Rockingham. Four of the public forums were held in small towns in isolated rural areas, one with a majority of Native American and African-American residents and two others with a high African-American population. The forums enabled the office to reach consumers who might not otherwise have contact.

NORTH CAROLINA COMMISSION OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

Summary

The mission of the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs (CIA) is to instill a positive vision for American Indians through preserving cultural identity by promoting and advocating the rights, beliefs and opportunities which impact quality of life. The Commission's goals for American Indians in North Carolina are as follows: to increase and maximize educational opportunities; to increase the economic self-sufficiency and maximize Indian economic development initiatives; to achieve parity in employment; to improve health status; to increase public awareness of American Indians; to provide for state and/or federal recognition of North Carolina Indian tribes; to promote recognition of and the right of Indians to pursue cultural and religious traditions considered by them to be sacred and meaningful; and to promote public understanding and appreciation of American Indian culture.

Accomplishments

Z. Smith Reynolds Grant

The commission received a $30,000 grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to develop capacity building of the commission membership, commission staff, and community Indian leaders for the N. C. Commission of Indian Affairs. The purpose of this project is to implement a strategic plan for the Year 2000. The plan requires the commission to establish a partnership with key non-Indian stakeholders in Indian communities, to bring additional resources and expertise to the commission in attempt to serve the future needs of North Carolina's American Indian communities.

American Indian License Plate

The legislature authorized the first American Indian Insignia license plate in 1999. In addition to generating new revenue, the plates bring a new sense of pride and recognition to American Indian citizens of North Carolina.

Culturally Responsive Care Initiative – American Indian Perspective on Key Issues

The Commission received $75,000 from the Division of Social Services (DSS) to implement a culturally responsive care initiative created and established by the Department of Health and Human Services. The Commission, in conjunction with Triangle Native American Society, was responsible for conducting a needs assessment of the American Indian communities statewide. The outcome of this initiative has been the production of a document which provides an overview and initial assessment of needs, accessibility and utilization of services, lack of accurate data, and identification of problems around public policies and practices that omit the state's American Indian community.

Legislation Requiring Consideration of Indian Child Welfare Act for American Indian Children

The Adoption and Safe Families Act was amended by the legislature requiring DSS to consider the Indian Child Welfare Act when placing Indian children into foster care or adoptive services.

NC Health Choice for Families

The Commission was instrumental in partnering with N. C. Health Choice for children in securing approximately $120,000 in outreach funds to encourage enrollment in the program by American Indian tribes and organizations.

Rural Development Initiative -- $1,000,000 in Funds

The Commission worked in partnership with the US Department of Agriculture and its Rural Development Program to develop a special set aside Home Loan Program for American Indian citizens in North Carolina. As a result of this effort, the Rural Development Program has set aside $1 million dollars in home loan funds for American Indian families living in rural North Carolina.

Strategic Plan

The Commission adopted a Strategic Plan. Priorities set forth include economic development, Indian education, Indian health and the establishment of an American Indian Scholarship Foundation.

Diabetes Project

The Commission received a contract in the amount of $20,000 from the Center for Disease Control for this Program. The project will fund diabetes screening efforts in Indian communities.

Indian Education Forum

The Commission staff participated in the National Indian Education Association's Regional Indian Education forum in cooperation with the US Department of Education to comply with President Clinton's Executive Order regarding Indian Education. The forum was held in Raleigh and was attended by about 40 representatives of tribes, Indian organizations and others associated with Indian Education. The NIEA will issue a final report that will include a summary of recommendations from the other Regional Forums held in the United States. The Forum held in North Carolina was the last of the regional forums to be held.

JOINT APPROPRIATIONS SUBCOMMITTEE
ON
GENERAL GOVERNMENT

May 1, 2001
8:00 a.m.

The Joint APPROPRIATIONS Subcommittee on General Government met on Tuesday, May 1, 2001 at 8:00 a.m. in Room 425 of the Legislative Office Building. The following House members were present: Chairs Jeffus and Sherrill, Representatives Adams, Barefoot, Lucas, Setzer, and Wilson. There were three Senate members present. Committee Staff present were: Michele Nelson and Marilyn Chism. A Visitor Registration list is attached and made part of the minutes.

Representative Jeffus called the meeting to order and introduced the pages: Kelley Haven of Greenville sponsored by Senator Edward Warren, Jamie Watson of Robersonville sponsored by Senator Edward Warren, and Will Flowers of Franklinton sponsored by Representative Billy Creech.

Representative Jeffus continued the meeting by announcing that the committee would go forward with the Continuation Budget Review of the Department of Administration, Internal Services and Programs.

DEPARTMENT OF ADMINISTRATION
Internal Services and Programs

Council for Women (Attachment 1, Pages 133, A15-17, A23-24)

Ms. Peggy Alexander, Interim Executive Director, stated that she is the only state agency that advocates for women in North Carolina. They have a twenty-member board. The regional offices are located in Asheville, Charlotte, Greensboro, Raleigh, Greenville and New Bern.

Ms. Alexander stated that the Governor's budget recommends that the Domestic Violence Commission be consolidated with the Council For Women and that the director of the Domestic Violence Commission be moved over to the executive director's position for the Council For Women.

Representative Jeffus recognized Secretary Gwynn Swinson to present the proposed cost saving of Governor Easley' recommended consolidation of these two division. The cost saving amount would be $109,639 out of a total budgeted amount of $132,000.

Senator Warren about the grants and how you determine who receives those grants. Ms. Alexander stated that with the Domestic Violent Grants, the legislation has said that they are to be divided equally among the programs throughout the state. The same goes for Sexual Assault Grants. $315,000 of the state appropriated funds are competitive grants and a committee meets to make the selection. The remainder of the grants come from the divorce-filing fee and again is divided equally across the board. The divorce-filing fee is $20 per filing.

Senator Harris wanted to know how he would find out their presence in his district? He also inquired about where the members of the board were from in the state? Ms. Alexander will get him the information, contact person for his district, and a list of board members.

Senator Warren asked if they had considered raising the divorce fee to $25, $50 or $100? Ms. Alexander answered that they had not considered any increase but is certainly something that could be considered.

Representative Sherrill stated that the chart (page 135) shows two positions vacant and the Assistant Director, which she assumes, is Ms. Alexander's position. Ms. Alexander stated that the position of Human Services Coordinator II has not been filled due to the freeze. As the Public Health Coordinator, she is paid from Federal funds. They have been using those funds for temporary people and are going to see if they can get those funds transferred into Grant Funds.

Representative Jeffus recognized Secretary Swinson to briefly share with the committee her understanding of the governor's thinking in making this efficiency and budgetary recommendation that the two divisions would be consolidated. The two important divisions focus primarily on women who are victims and providers. They are working with overlapping population, particularly, the case with the domestic violence commission and funding of the domestic violence shelters, which go through the council. The policy is through the commission and the funding arm is through the council. The governor feels it would promote efficiency within state government. This would be a cost saving in addition to helping consolidate the efforts of working with overlapping population that is primarily women but some men are victims.

Representative Sherrill stated that she believes that the minutes will reflect that the commission voted against this proposal to consolidate.

Domestic Violence Commission (Attachment 1, Page 137, A25)

Ms. Leslie Starsoneck, Executive Director, was recognized to present her report for the Commission. In October 1998, Governor hunt created the Governor's Task Force on Domestic Violence to make recommendations to him about how to improve the state's response to domestic violence particularly in public awareness, the availability and accessibility of services across the state and also to review the victims' safety and perpetrators accountability.

The North Carolina General Assembly made the Commission permanent and granted it an appropriation in July 1999. The Commission consists of thirty-nine members and has an executive director and administrative secretary. The Commission has federal grant to support the costs of a training director.

Representative Adams had some concerns in consolidating the two, Domestic Violence Commission and the Council For Women. The Commission met on the consolidation of the two and their main concern was primarily about dedicated personnel and not interrupt the momentum that they have. There are some areas that overlap.

Representative Jeffus stated that she has received several calls expressing concerns about this area and about some of the changes that are being made. The area has a lot of interest.

Representative Jeffus introduced Mr. Eddie Lawrence, Director, to present his report.
