SENATE BILL 109:
Handgun Permit Renewal/Deployed Military

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: Senate Judiciary II
Date: February 21, 2005
Version: Proposed Committee Substitute S109-CSRC-1[v.1]

Introduced by: Senator Thomas
Summary by: Kory J. Goldsmith
Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 109 would allow military personnel on active duty and deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom up to 90 days after the end of their deployment to renew a concealed handgun permit that otherwise would have expired during the term of the deployment.

The Proposed Committee Substitute adds military personnel deployed in support of Operation Enduring Freedom or Operation Noble Eagle on or after September 11, 2001. It also clarifies that a permit that would expire during the 90 days after the end of deployment remains valid during that period of time.

The act would become effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: A concealed handgun permit is valid for four years unless revoked. In order to obtain a renewal of the permit, the permittee must file a renewal form with the sheriff, provide a notarized affidavit stating that the permittee remains qualified to hold the permit, submit to a newly administered full set of fingerprints[1], and pay the appropriate renewal fee. If the permittee applies to renew the permit at least 30 days prior to its expiration and meets all the eligibility requirements, the sheriff may waive the requirement of taking another firearms safety and training course and must renew the permit. If the permit expires, a permittee must go through the complete application process including completion of an approved firearms and safety training course and payment of the application fee.

BILL ANALYSIS: The Proposed Committee Substitute to Senate Bill 109 extends the deadline for renewing a concealed handgun permit for deployed military personnel. The permit remains valid during the period of deployment and for 90 days after the deployment. Deployed military personnel have 90 days following the end of their deployment to renew the permit that expired during their deployment or that would expire within 90 days from the end of their deployment. The term "deployed military personnel" includes a member of any of the following groups that are called to active duty in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom on or after January 1, 2003 or Operation Enduring Freedom or Operation Noble Eagle on or after September 11, 2001:

- Armed forces or armed forces reserves of the United States.
- North Carolina Army National Guard or the North Carolina Air National Guard.

A copy of the military member's orders specifying deployment is conclusive evidence of the member's deployment. The military member must provide proof of deployment when applying for renewal of the permit.

[1] No fingerprints are required for a renewal permit if the applicant's fingerprints were submitted to the SBI after June 30, 2001 under the Automated Fingerprinting Information System.

BACKGROUND: The General Assembly previously enacted legislation to waive deadlines, fees, and penalties associated with the expiration of drivers' licenses and the lapse of motor vehicle liability insurance and to provide additional time to list property for taxation and to pay property taxes for military personnel deployed in Operation Enduring Freedom and Noble Eagle (S.L. 2001-508) and Operation Iraqi Freedom (S.L. 2003-300).

§ 14-415.16. Renewal of permit.

The holder of a permit shall apply to renew the permit at least 30 days prior to its expiration date by filing with the sheriff of the county in which the person resides a renewal form provided by the sheriff's office, a notarized affidavit stating that the permittee remains qualified under the criteria provided in this Article, a newly administered full set of the permittee's fingerprints, and a renewal fee. Upon receipt of the completed renewal application, including the permittee's fingerprints, and the appropriate payment of fees, the sheriff shall determine if the permittee remains qualified to hold a permit in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 14-415.12. The permittee's criminal history shall be updated, and the sheriff may waive the requirement of taking another firearms safety and training course. If the permittee applies for a renewal of the permit within 30 days of its expiration date and if the permittee remains qualified to have a permit under G.S. 14-415.12, the sheriff shall renew the permit. No fingerprints shall be required for a renewal permit if the applicant's fingerprints were submitted to the State Bureau of Investigation after June 30, 2001, on the Automated Fingerprint Information System (AFIS) as prescribed by the State Bureau of Investigation.

§ 14-415.12. Criteria to qualify for the issuance of a permit.

(a) The sheriff shall issue a permit to an applicant if the applicant qualifies under the following criteria:
- (1) The applicant is a citizen of the United States and has been a resident of the State 30 days or longer immediately preceding the filing of the application.

- (3) The applicant does not suffer from a physical or mental infirmity that prevents the safe handling of a handgun.
- (4) The applicant has successfully completed an approved firearms safety and training course which involves the actual firing of handguns and instruction in the laws of this State governing the carrying of a concealed handgun and the use of deadly force. The North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission shall prepare and publish general guidelines for courses and qualifications of instructors which would satisfy the requirements of this subdivision. An approved course shall be any course which satisfies the requirements of this subdivision and is certified or sponsored by:

  - b. The National Rifle Association, or
  - c. A law enforcement agency, college, private or public institution or organization, or firearms training school, taught by instructors certified by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission or the National Rifle Association.

  Every instructor of an approved course shall file a copy of the firearms course description, outline, and proof of certification annually, or upon modification of the course if more frequently, with the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission.
- (5) The applicant is not disqualified under subsection (b) of this section.

(b) The sheriff shall deny a permit to an applicant who:
- (1) Is ineligible to own, possess, or receive a firearm under the provisions of State or federal law.
- (2) Is under indictment or against whom a finding of probable cause exists for a felony.
- (3) Has been adjudicated guilty in any court of a felony.
- (4) Is a fugitive from justice.
- (5) Is an unlawful user of, or addicted to marijuana, alcohol, or any depressant, stimulant, or narcotic drug, or any other controlled substance as defined in 21 U.S.C. § 802.
- (6) Is currently, or has been previously adjudicated by a court or administratively determined by a governmental agency whose decisions are subject to judicial review to be, lacking mental capacity or mentally ill. Receipt of previous consultative services or outpatient treatment alone shall not disqualify an applicant under this subdivision.

(8) Is or has been adjudicated guilty of or received a prayer for judgment continued or suspended sentence for one or more crimes of violence constituting a misdemeanor, including but not limited to, a violation of a misdemeanor under Article 8 of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes, or a violation of a misdemeanor under G.S. 14-225.2, 14-226.1, 14-258.1, 14-269.2, 14-269.3, 14-269.4, 14-269.6, 14-276.1, 14-277, 14-277.1, 14-277.2, 14-277.3, 14-281.1, 14-283, 14-288.2, 14-288.4(a)(1) or (2), 14-288.6, 14-288.9, 14-288.12, 14-288.13, 14-288.14, 14-318.2, or 14-415.21(b).

(9) Has had entry of a prayer for judgment continued for a criminal offense which would disqualify the person from obtaining a concealed handgun permit.

(10) Is free on bond or personal recognizance pending trial, appeal, or sentencing for a crime which would disqualify him from obtaining a concealed handgun permit.

(11) Has been convicted of an impaired driving offense under G.S. 20-138.1, 20-138.2, or 20-138.3 within three years prior to the date on which the application is submitted.

SENATE BILL 109:
Handgun Permit Renewal/Deployed Military

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: Senate Judiciary II
Date: March 3, 2005
Version: Proposed Committee Substitute S109-CSRC-1[v.10]

Introduced by: Senator Thomas
Summary by: Kory J. Goldsmith
Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 109 essentially provides that a concealed handgun permit held by deployed military personnel remains valid during the term of deployment and for 90 days after the deployment ends. Military personnel may either apply to extend the permit before it expires by providing the sheriff with proof of deployment, or they may carry their proof of deployment during the 90 days following the deployment and before the permit is renewed. The bill would apply to a person who holds a concealed handgun permit who is also a member of the armed forces of the United States, the armed forces reserves of the United States, the North Carolina Army National Guard, or the North Carolina National Guard.

The act would become effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: A concealed handgun permit is valid for five years unless revoked or suspended. In order to obtain a renewal of the permit, the permittee must file a renewal form with the sheriff, provide a notarized affidavit stating that the permittee remains qualified to hold the permit, submit to a newly administered full set of fingerprints[1], and pay the appropriate renewal fee. If the permittee meets all the eligibility requirements, the sheriff may waive the requirement of taking another firearms safety and training course and must renew the permit. If the permit expires, a permittee must go through the complete application process including completion of an approved firearms and safety training course and payment of the application fee.

A person who has a concealed handgun permit must carry the permit and other proper identification any time the person also carries a concealed handgun. The person must disclose to any law enforcement officer that the person holds a valid permit, is carrying a concealed handgun, and must present the permit and proper identification to the law enforcement office. A person who fails to carry the permit, or fails to disclose the required information to a law enforcement officer is guilty of an infraction for the first offense. Subsequent offenses for failing to carry a valid permit or failing to make the necessary disclosures are Class 2 misdemeanors. Punishment for a Class 2 misdemeanor ranges from 1-60 days of either community, intermediate or active punishment, depending upon the number of prior convictions.

A person who carries a concealed handgun and who does not hold a valid permit is guilty of a Class 2 misdemeanor for a first offense and a Class I felony for subsequent offenses. The minimum punishment for a Class I felony is 3 months community service and the maximum punishment is 1 year active punishment, depending upon the number of prior convictions.

BILL ANALYSIS: The Proposed Committee Substitute to Senate Bill 109 amends a number of statutes related to concealed handgun permits to extend the deadline for renewing a permit for members of the military whose permits would otherwise expire while they are deployed for military purposes. The permit remains valid during the period of deployment and for the 90 days after the deployment.

Section 1 creates several new definitions. A "military permittee" is a person who holds a concealed handgun permit and who is a member of the armed forces of the United States, the armed forces reserves of the United States, the North Carolina Army National Guard, or the North Carolina Air National Guard. "Deployed or deployment" means any military duty that removes a military permittee from the permittee's county of residence during which time the permittee's permit expires or will expire. "Proof of Deployment" means a copy of the permittee's deployment orders or other written notification from the permittee's command indicating the start and end date of the deployment and that orders the permittee to travel outside the permittee's county of residence.

Section 2 creates a new section in Article 54B of Chapter 14. It allows a military permittee two options regarding a permit that is going to expire during the permittee's term of deployment. The permittee (or the permittee's agent) may apply to the sheriff to have the permit extended by submitting proof of deployment. The sheriff would then extend the permit during the term of deployment and for 90 days following the end of the deployment. If the permittee does not apply for the extension, and the permit actually expires during the term of deployment, it would still be considered valid for the 90 days after the deployment ends during which time the permittee may apply to renew the permit.

Section 3 amends G.S. 14-415.11(a), which requires a person who holds a concealed handgun permit to carry the permit any time the person also carries a concealed handgun and also make certain disclosures to law enforcement officers when carrying a concealed handgun. In addition to these requirements, a military permittee who did not have his or her permit extended, but who wishes to carry a concealed handgun during the 90 day period following deployment, must also carry proof of deployment and display that proof to law enforcement officers. A permittee who has extended his or her permit would not need to carry proof of deployment because the concealed handgun permit database would reflect that the permit had been extended and is therefore still valid.

Sections 4 and 5 amend G.S. 14-269 to make it clear that it is not a crime to carry a concealed handgun if you are a military permittee whose permit expired during your term of deployment provided you make the required disclosures to a law enforcement officer and display to the officer your proof of deployment. It also creates a new affirmative defense that would allow a military permittee who is charged with carrying a concealed weapon without a valid permit to have the charges dropped by presenting proof of deployment to the court.

BACKGROUND: The General Assembly previously enacted legislation to waive deadlines, fees, and penalties associated with the expiration of drivers' licenses and the lapse of motor vehicle liability insurance and to provide additional time to list property for taxation and to pay property taxes for military personnel deployed in Operation Enduring Freedom and Noble Eagle (S.L. 2001-508) and Operation Iraqi Freedom (S.L. 2003-300).

§ 14-415.16. Renewal of permit.

The holder of a permit shall apply to renew the permit at least 30 days prior to its expiration date by filing with the sheriff of the county in which the person resides a renewal form provided by the sheriff's office, a notarized affidavit stating that the permittee remains qualified under the criteria provided in this Article, a newly administered full set of the permittee's fingerprints, and a renewal fee. Upon receipt of the completed renewal application, including the permittee's fingerprints, and the appropriate payment of fees, the sheriff shall determine if the permittee remains qualified to hold a permit in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 14-415.12. The permittee's criminal history shall be updated, and the sheriff may waive the requirement of taking another firearms safety and training course. If the permittee applies for a renewal of the permit within 30 days of its expiration date and if the permittee remains qualified to have a permit under G.S. 14-415.12, the sheriff shall renew the permit. No fingerprints shall be required for a renewal permit if the applicant's fingerprints were submitted to the State Bureau of Investigation after June 30, 2001, on the Automated Fingerprint Information System (AFIS) as prescribed by the State Bureau of Investigation.

§ 14-415.12. Criteria to qualify for the issuance of a permit.

(a) The sheriff shall issue a permit to an applicant if the applicant qualifies under the following criteria:
- (1) The applicant is a citizen of the United States and has been a resident of the State 30 days or longer immediately preceding the filing of the application.
- (2) The applicant is 21 years of age or older.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any person willfully and intentionally to carry concealed about his person any bowie knife, dirk, dagger, slung shot, loaded cane, metallic knuckles, razor, shurikin, stun gun, or other deadly weapon of like kind, except when the person is on the person's own premises.

(a1) It shall be unlawful for any person willfully and intentionally to carry concealed about his person any pistol or gun except in the following circumstances:

(1) The person is on the person's own premises.

(2) The deadly weapon is a handgun, and the person has a concealed handgun permit issued in accordance with Article 54B of this Chapter or considered valid under G.S. 14-415.24.

(b) This prohibition shall not apply to the following persons:

b. Such regulations specifically prohibit the carrying of concealed weapons while the officer is consuming or under the influence of alcoholic beverages.

(b1) It is a defense to a prosecution under this section that:

(1) The weapon was not a firearm;

(2) The defendant was engaged in, or on the way to or from, an activity in which he legitimately used the weapon;

(3) The defendant possessed the weapon for that legitimate use; and

(4) The defendant did not use or attempt to use the weapon for an illegal purpose.

The burden of proving this defense is on the defendant.

(c) Any person violating the provisions of subsection (a) of this section shall be guilty of a Class 2 misdemeanor. Any person violating the provisions of subsection (a1) of this section shall be guilty of a Class 2 misdemeanor for the first offense. A second or subsequent offense is punishable as a Class I felony.

(d) This section does not apply to an ordinary pocket knife carried in a closed position. As used in this section, "ordinary pocket knife" means a small knife, designed for carrying in a pocket or purse, that has its cutting edge and point entirely enclosed by its handle, and that may not be opened by a throwing, explosive, or spring action.

"(b2) It is a defense to a prosecution under this section that:

(1) The deadly weapon is a handgun;

(2) The defendant is a military permittee as defined under G.S. 14-415.10(2a); and

(3) The defendant provides to the court proof of deployment as defined under G.S. 14-415.10(3a)."

SENATE BILL 61:
Felony Death/Serious Injury by Vehicle

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Thomas
Date:	March 24, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 61 would create the new crime of felony serious injury by vehicle that would be a Class E felony. It would apply when a person unintentionally causes serious injury to another person while engaged in the offense of impaired driving and the impaired driving is the proximate cause of the serious injury. The bill would also increase the penalty for felony death by vehicle from a Class G to a Class D felony. This bill would become effective December 1, 2005 and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 20-141.4 contains two offenses: felony death by vehicle and misdemeanor death by vehicle.

The elements of felony death by vehicle are:

- The defendant causes the death
- Of another human being
- Unintentionally
- While engaged in the offense of impaired driving or impaired driving of a commercial vehicle; &
- The commission of impaired driving is the proximate cause of the death.

This is a Class G felony with a minimum sentence of 8 months intermediate or active punishment and a maximum sentence of 44 months active punishment.

The elements of misdemeanor death by vehicle are:

- The defendant causes the death
- Of another human being
- Unintentionally
- While committing a violation of any state law or local ordinance applying to the operation of a motor vehicle or the regulation of traffic, other than impaired driving; and
- The commission of that offense is the proximate cause of death.

This is a Class 1 misdemeanor with a minimum sentence of 1 day community punishment to 120 days community, intermediate to active punishment.

G.S. 20-138.1 is impaired driving. The elements are:

- The person drives
- A vehicle
- On a highway or public vehicular area

- While under the influence of an impairing substance, or
- After consuming a sufficient quantity of alcohol that the person has an alcohol concentration of 0.08 or more at any relevant time after the driving.

There are multiple levels of punishment, based upon the weight of certain aggravating and mitigating factors. The punishments range from a minimum imprisonment of 30 days to a maximum imprisonment of 60 days. Fines may range from $200 to $4,000.

G.S. 20-138.2 is impaired driving of a commercial vehicle. The elements are the same as impaired driving except the defendant was operating a commercial vehicle and the threshold alcohol concentration level is 0.04. The sentences are the same as impaired driving.

BILL ANALYSIS: The new offense of felony serious injury by vehicle would have the following elements:

- The defendant
- Unintentionally causes
- Serious injury
- To another person
- While engaged in the offense of impaired driving or impaired driving of a commercial vehicle; &
- The commission of that offense is the proximate cause of the serious injury.

What qualifies as serious injury is a question of fact, but it has been delineated somewhat by case law to include, "physical injury that causes great pain and suffering... or serious mental injury". It is a lesser standard than 'serious bodily injury', used elsewhere in the criminal statutes.

The offense would be a Class E felony with a minimum sentence of 15 months intermediate or active punishment and a maximum sentence of 98 months active punishment.

The bill also increases felony death by vehicle from a Class G felony to a Class D felony. A Class D felony has a minimum sentence of 38 months active punishment and a maximum sentence of 229 months active punishment.

BACKGROUND: The North Carolina Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission conducted an analysis of a prior version of this bill (Senate Bill 687) in April 2003. The language of Senate Bill 61 is identical to the previously proposed Senate Bill 687. The Sentencing Commission found the portion of the bill (§ 20-141.4(a3)) addressing Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle to call for a proposed offense class (Class E felony) consistent with the Commission's Offense Classification Criteria.

As a homicide offense, the portion of the bill addressing Felony Death by Vehicle was found to be of a class for which the Commission did not use Offense Classification Criteria. The Commission did state, however, that the proposed class change would shift this offense from a classification used in the event of serious property loss from the person (Class G felony) to a classification used in cases involving serious infringements on property interest also implicating physical safety concerns by use of a deadly weapon, or involving an occupied dwelling (Class D felony).

This summary is based in large part on prior work of Kory Goldsmith.

+Costs reflect only the impact of enhancing the penalty for Felony Death by Vehicle. There would be an indeterminate number of additional prison beds and costs to the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) and the Department of Correction (DOC) as a result of the new offense of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle. See Assumptions and Methodology for details.

This fiscal analysis is independent of the impact of other criminal penalty bills being considered by the General Assembly, which could also increase the projected prison population and thus the availability of prison beds in future years. The Fiscal Research Division is tracking the cumulative effect of all criminal penalty bills on the prison system as well as the Judicial Department.*

BILL SUMMARY: This bill amends G.S. 20-141.4 to raise the offense class of Felony Death by Vehicle from felony Class G to Class D and creates a new offense, Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle, punishable as a Class E felony. Both offenses require that the offender be engaged in the offense of Driving While Impaired.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

General

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares prison population projections for each criminal penalty bill. The Commission assumes for each bill that increasing criminal penalties does not have a deterrent or incapacitative effect on crime. Therefore, the Fiscal Research Division does not assume savings due to deterrent effects for this bill or any criminal penalty bill.

Offenders that could be convicted of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle due to this bill are eligible under current law to be convicted of Assault with a Deadly Weapon Inflicting Serious Injury, also a Class E felony. The Sentencing Commission does not have data reflecting the number of these convictions that involve the perpetration of a Driving While Impaired offense. To the extent that these offenders are already being charged and convicted of a Class E felony, the impact upon prison population and the courts due to this new offense would be reduced. However, an informal poll of district attorneys conducted by AOC in 2002 indicated that no charges other than DWI are currently being brought against these defendants.

Department of Transportation/Highway Fund

The State Automated Driver License System (SADLS) will require the following modifications to implement the new offense of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle:

- Logic for new conviction codes and business rules to enforce these new codes.
- New AOC code process logic.
- New suspension codes and the business rules to enforce these new codes.
- Changes to the correspondence system for new correspondence produced.
- Alcohol Restriction for new codes and business rules to enforce these new codes.

The Drivers License Section estimates 206 hours of programming, testing, and implementation at $80/hour for a total of $16,720, plus ITS charges totaling $1,668. Total nonrecurring expenditures for the Drivers License Section are estimated to be $18,388.

Department of Correction – Division of Prisons

This bill (S.B. 687) could increase the number of prison beds needed by three means: 1) raising the offense class of Felony Death by Vehicle from Class G to Class D; 2) creating the new offense of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle; and 3) inducing prosecutors to seek convictions for Felony Death by Vehicle in cases in which they presently seek a conviction for Involuntary Manslaughter (a Class F felony). Due to lack of historical data, the Sentencing Commission cannot estimate any impact on prison population resulting from the creation of a new offense or a change in prosecutorial behavior. Throughout this fiscal note, the + symbol is used to indicate the potential for additional, unquantifiable prison beds and expenditures resulting from those aspects of this bill.

1) Felony Death by Vehicle

This bill would increase the penalty for Felony Death by Vehicle from Class G to Class D, resulting in an increase in both sentence length and activation rate. While a judge may impose an intermediate sanction for a Class G felony, a Class D felony requires an active sentence. In FY 2003-04, there were 35 convictions for Felony Death by Vehicle. The Sentencing Commission projects that raising the offense classification to Class D would increase the number of prison beds needed each year, resulting in the need for 102 new beds by FY 2009-10.

2) Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle

The new offense of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle would be punishable as a Class E felony. Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) data indicates that there were 625 alcohol-related crashes that caused serious injury as defined by DMV in 2003, a continued decline from previous years. Although AOC has provided an estimate of the number of charges that could result from these accidents, it is not possible to estimate the number of convictions that might result from those charges. If, for example, there were two convictions for this offense per year, the combination of active sentences and probation revocations would result in the need for one additional prison bed in the first year and two additional beds in the second year. The statewide average annual operating cost for each additional prison bed in 2006-07 is projected to be $24,740.

3) Change in Prosecutorial Behavior

The bill would raise Felony Death by Vehicle to an offense class above Involuntary Manslaughter (G.S. 14-18), a Class F felony. It is possible that, as a result of this bill, some convictions for Involuntary Manslaughter would instead be for Felony Death by Vehicle, increasing sentence length and ensuring an active sentence. In FY 2003-04, there were 83 convictions for Involuntary Manslaughter. There is no data on the number of these convictions that involved the commission of a Driving While Impaired offense. As such, the Sentencing Commission cannot project the number of offenders that might be convicted of Felony Death by Vehicle if it were classified above Involuntary Manslaughter.

The chart on the next page compares the projected inmate population to available prison bed capacity system-wide and shows any population increases caused by a specific bill. Based on the most recent population projections and estimated available prison bed capacity, there are no surplus prison beds available for the five-year fiscal note horizon and beyond. That means the number of beds needed (row five) is always equal to the projected additional inmates due to a bill (row four).

Rows four and five in the chart show the impact of the increased penalty for Felony Death by Vehicle proposed by this bill. As shown in bold in the chart, the Sentencing Commission estimates that this specific legislation will add at least 102 inmates to the prison system by the end of FY 2009-10. There will be additional beds required by the creation of the new Class E offense of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle, but the number cannot be determined.

	June 30 2006	June 30 2007	June 30 2008	June 30 2009	June 30 2010
1. Projected No. Of Inmates Under Current Structured Sentencing Act[1]	38,106	39,021	39,864	40,750	41,668
2. Projected No. of Prison Beds (DOC Expanded Capacity)[2]	37,015	37,911	38,807	38,807	38,807

5. No. of Additional Beds Needed Each Fiscal Year Due to this Bill[3]	-	12+	41+	70+	102+

POSITIONS: It is anticipated that at least 41 positions would be needed to supervise the additional inmates housed under this bill by 2009-10. This position total includes security, program, and administrative personnel at a ratio of one employee for every 2.5 inmates. This ratio is the combined average of the last five prisons opened by DOC and two prisons under construction. Two of the prisons were medium custody and five were close custody.

FISCAL IMPACT BEYOND FIVE YEARS: Fiscal notes look at the impact of a bill through FY 2010. However, there is information available on the impact of this bill in later years. The chart below shows the additional inmates due to this bill, the projected available beds, and required beds due only to this bill each year.

New Beds Needed (minimum)*	-3,921	-4,847	-5,737	-6,674

* Only part of the impact is quantifiable.

[1] The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares inmate population projections annually. The projections used for incarceration fiscal notes are based on January 2005 projections. These projections are based on historical information on incarceration and release rates under Structured Sentencing, crime rate forecasts by a technical advisory group, probation and revocation rates, and the decline (parole and maxouts) of the stock prison population sentenced under previous sentencing acts.

[2] Projected number of prison beds is based on beds completed, under construction, or authorized for construction as of December 2004. The number of beds is based on DOC operating at Expanded Operating Capacity (EOC).

[3] Criminal penalty bills effective December 1, 2005 will not affect prison population and bed needs until FY 2006-07 due to the lag time between when an offense is committed and an offender is sentenced.

DISTRIBUTION OF BEDS: After analyzing the proposed legislation, the Department of Correction estimates the following distribution of beds as needed under this bill:

32% Close Custody
60% Medium Custody
8% Minimum Custody

CONSTRUCTION: Construction costs for new prison beds, as listed in the following chart, are based on estimated 2004-05 costs for each custody level as provided by the Office of State Construction and the Department of Correction. An inflation rate of five percent per year is applied to future years. The costs assume stand-alone facilities; single cells for close custody and dormitories for medium and minimum.

Custody Level	Minimum	Medium	Close
Construction Cost Per Bed 2004-05	$45,500	$73,500	$98,500

The cost to construct each bed required by this bill is shown in the Fiscal Impact Table on page one of this note. This cost is for 2006-07 and assumes that funds to construct prison beds should be budgeted three years in advance since building a prison typically requires three years for planning, design, and construction.

The total cost to construct new beds to accommodate the 102 inmates this bill is projected to add to the prison system by FY 2009-10 is estimated to be $8.87 million. DOC would need to begin construction of these beds in fiscal year 2006-07. By fiscal year 2013-14, 169 beds would be needed due to this legislation. The cost to construct the additional 67 beds beginning in year 2010-11 would be $7.08 million. These figures represent a 2004-05 average base cost per bed of $78,873 adjusted for inflation at a rate of five percent annually. This base cost per bed is a weighted average of the cost per bed for each of the three custody levels as shown above.

OPERATING: Operating costs are based on actual 2003-04 costs for each custody level as provided by the Department of Correction. These costs include security, inmate programs, inmate costs (food, medical etc.) and administrative overhead costs for the Department and the Division of Prisons. A three percent annual inflation rate will be added each year to the base costs for FY 2003-04 shown below and included in the recurring costs estimated in the Fiscal Impact Table on page one.

Daily Inmate Operating Cost 2003-04

Custody Level	Minimum	Medium	Close	Statewide Average
Daily Cost Per Inmate (2003-04)	$49.34	$65.59	$82.46	$62.03

Department of Correction – Division of Community Corrections

Offenders convicted of Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle (felony Class E) in Prior Record Levels I and II could receive an intermediate rather than active punishment. Probation officers in the Division of Community Correction supervise offenders with intermediate sanctions at an estimated cost of $10.94 per day for the first six months and $1.87 per day thereafter. This cost estimate is based on the average cost and duration of intensive probation, the most common intermediate sanction. In FY 2003-04, 51 percent of Class E felons received an intermediate punishment, and the average length of supervision was 36 months.

If, for example, there were two convictions for Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle, and the rate of intermediate sentences was the same as the overall rate for Class E in 2003-04, one offender would receive an intermediate punishment. Costs to the Division of Community Corrections (DCC) for that offender would be an estimated $2,338 in the first year, and $683 per year in the second and third years. As with active sentences, costs would begin in FY 2006-07 due to the lag time between charge and conviction.

As a Class G offense, individuals convicted of Felony Death by Vehicle can receive intermediate sanctions administered by DCC. Because Class D offenders cannot receive intermediate sanctions, there would be short-term cost savings to DCC if Felony Death by Vehicle were reclassified as a Class D offense. However, in the long term DCC would incur the cost of post-release supervision for Class D offenders. To the extent that offenders charged with Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle are presently being charged with a lesser offense with a higher non-active sentence rate, the same would hold true for that offense.

Judicial Branch

For most criminal penalty bills, AOC provides Fiscal Research with an analysis of the fiscal impact of the specific bill. For these bills, fiscal impact is typically based on the assumption that court time will increase due to an expected increase in trials and a corresponding increase in the hours of work for judges, clerks and prosecutors. This increased court time is also expected to result in greater expenditures for jury fees and indigent defense.

Felony Death by Vehicle

AOC estimates that it would cost the courts an additional $23,244 to process charges for Felony Death by Vehicle if it were reclassified as a Class D offense. According to AOC data, in calendar year 2004 a total of 65 defendants were charged with Felony Death by Vehicle. Of these charges, AOC estimates that four percent were settled by jury trials, sixty percent by guilty pleas, and the remaining charges were dismissed. Based on attorney preparation costs and time in court, AOC estimates the cost to dispose of these cases as Class G felonies at $20,458. The cost of indigent defense, based on an estimated indigency rate of 39 percent, would total an additional $4,077.

Using overall disposition rates for Class D felony cases in 2004, AOC estimates that, if 65 defendants were charged as Class D felons for Felony Death by Vehicle, seven percent would be disposed of by jury trial, 56 percent by plea, and the remaining charges would be dismissed. The cost to process these cases, based on attorney preparation time and time in court, would be $39,518. At an estimated indigency rate of 39 percent, costs of indigent defense would total an additional $8,261. The increase in cost to process Felony Death by Vehicle as a Class D offense reflects presumed increases in trial rates, trial length, attorney preparation time, and time to handle pleas. This figure does not include the cost of processing dismissals, any additional appeals that could result from the punishment enhancement, nor any increase in prosecution for violent habitual felony. The figures in the box on the front page reflect the difference in total cost ($23,244), inflated at a rate of three percent annually, and adjusted in fiscal year 2005-06 to reflect only the seven months for which the bill would be effective.

Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle

Based on the costs of time in court, attorney preparation, and indigent defense, the total cost to process an estimated 120 additional Class E charges as a result of this new felony would equal $54,721 per year. North Carolina Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) data reveals that in 2003 there were 354 alcohol-related crashes resulting in at least one fatality. During that same time period, AOC data shows that there were 68 charges for Felony Death by Vehicle, indicating that approximately 19.2 percent of alcohol-related fatal crashes in 2003 resulted in charges for Felony Death by Vehicle. According to DMV data, there were 625 alcohol-related crashes involving serious injury in 2003. If the same proportion of these 625 accidents were to result in charges for Felony Serious Injury by Vehicle, the court system could expect to handle approximately 120 charges of this new Class E felony. Using the average disposition rates of all Class E felonies, these 120 charges would result in 6 jury trials, 52 pleas, and 62 dismissals. The cost of attorney preparation time and time in court to process these charges would equal an estimated $45,814. At an indigency rate of 39 percent, additional costs for indigent defense would equal $8,907. Since no actual data exists regarding charges for this new offense and we do not know how these cases are currently charged, these figures are not included in the box on the front page.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 131F-3(10) reads as rewritten:

SENATE BILL 421:
Exempt REACT/Charitable Solicitations

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Jacumin
Date:	March 24, 2005	Summary by:	Kory J. Goldsmith KJG
Version:	1st Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 421 would exempt Radio Emergency Associated Communications Teams (REACT) from having to register with the Secretary of State in order to solicit donations, or have a third party solicit donations their behalf.

The act would become effective October 1, 2005.

CURRENT LAW: Chapter 131F governs the solicitation of contributions by or on behalf of charitable organizations in North Carolina. A charitable organization is any person who has or holds out as having a 501(c)(3) tax exempt status determination by the IRS and that operates for a charitable purpose, or a person who holds himself out or employs a charitable or civic appeal as the basis of a solicitation, or that employs an appeal that suggests there is a charitable or civic purpose for the appeal. A charitable organization includes a chapter, branch, or area office for a charitable organization with a principle office outside North Carolina.

Chapter 131F does not apply to:

- any person who solicits contributions for a religious institution;
- the solicitation of charitable contributions by the federal, State or local government;
- any person who receives less than $25,000 in contributions in any calendar year and does not provide compensation to any officer or solicitor;
- most colleges or schools;
- hospitals licensed under Chapters 131E or 122C of the General Statutes;
- noncommercial radio or television stations;
- a bona fide volunteer or bona fide employee or salaried officer of a charitable organization or sponsor;
- an attorney, investment counselor, or banker who advises a person to make a charitable contribution;
- a volunteer fire department, rescue squad, or emergency medical service;
- the YMCA or YWCA;
- a nonprofit continuing care facility; or
- tax exempt nonprofit fire or emergency medical service organizations involved in the sale of goods or services that do not ask for a donation.

Unless exempted from the statute, charitable organizations and their agents who intend to solicit funds or to have funds solicited on their behalf in North Carolina must first obtain a license from the Secretary of State. At least 5 days prior to beginning a solicitation campaign, a solicitor must file with the Secretary a notice that describes the solicitation event or campaign, each location and phone number from which the solicitation is to be conducted, the legal name of each person responsible for supervising the campaign, the account number where donations will be deposited, a description of the charitable program for which the solicitation campaign is being carried-out, the fund-raising methods to be used, and a copy of the contract between the solicitor and the charitable organization. Within 90 days after the campaign has ended, the solicitor must file with the Secretary a report that includes the gross revenue received and an itemization of all expenses incurred.

Federal law requires that tax-exempt organizations that have annual gross receipts normally in excess of $25,000 must file an annual information return (Form 990 or 990-EZ). A tax-exempt organization is required to provide copies of its three most recent information returns (i.e., Form 990 series), its exemption letter, and its approved application with supporting documentation, without charge (other than a reasonable fee for copying costs and actual mailing costs), to persons requesting copies, unless it has made these forms widely available by publishing them on the Internet in accordance with the regulations.

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would add REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Communications Teams) to the list of organizations that are exempt from the requirements of Chapter 131F.

BACKGROUND: REACT International, Inc. is a nonprofit corporation headquartered in Maryland and registered in Illinois. It is recognized by the IRS as a charity that is eligible to receive tax deductible donations, as are its subordinate units.

According to the REACT International web site (www.reactintl.org), the idea for using Citizen's Band (CB) radio in an organized way for emergency communications originated in Chicago during a snowstorm when CB radio was used to assist a family stuck on a freeway with a very sick child. In 1962, the first Radio Emergency Associated Communication Team was organized to use volunteers to monitor CB radio for emergency transmissions. In the early 1970's the Federal Communications Commission adopted channel 9 as the CB emergency channel, in part due to the efforts of REACT organizations. Over the years, the mission of REACT International has expanded and is currently stated as follows

> We will provide public service communications to individuals, organizations, and government agencies to save lives, prevent injuries, and give assistance wherever and whenever needed. We will strive to establish a monitoring network of trained volunteer citizen-based communicators using any and all available means to deliver the message.

REACT International is organized into regions that oversee REACT team and REACT council operations. There are REACT teams in 47 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign countries. North Carolina has 11 REACT teams.[1]

No REACT Teams are currently registered with the Secretary of State under Chapter 131F.

The General Statutes contain two references to REACT teams. G.S. 20-84(b)(7) allows the Division of Motor Vehicles to issue permanent license plates for a motor vehicle owned by an incorporated REACT Team. G.S 20-130.2 allows REACT vehicles to use an amber-colored flashing warning light on a vehicle.

SENATE BILL 462:
Charlotte Speed Camera Sunset Extended.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Sen. Dannelly
Date:	March 24, 2005	Summary by:	Robin Johnson
Version:	S462-CSRH-3[v.1]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 462 would extend the sunset from June 30, 2006, to September 30, 2007, so the City of Charlotte can continue to be authorized to use photographic speed-measuring systems in designated corridors. The bill would be effective when it becomes law.

The PCS makes a conforming change to the law that amended the original legislation.

BACKGROUND:

In 2003,[1] the General Assembly authorized the City of Charlotte to use photographic speed-measuring systems during a three-year pilot program in designated corridors in that city and to establish civil penalties for speed limit and school zone speed limit violations. A photographic speed-measuring system works in conjunction with a photographic, video, or electronic camera to automatically measure the speed and produce photographs, video or digital images of vehicles violating a speed limit or speed restriction. The systems must be calibrated according to standards adopted by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission and the Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety and must be monitored by a sworn law enforcement officer at all times that the system is actively in use. Any system installed or in use shall be identified by appropriate advance warning signs conspicuously posted not more than 1,000 feet from the location of the system.

The owner of a vehicle photographed is responsible for the violation unless the owner furnishes an affidavit within 30 days of notification of the violation that, at the time of the offense, the vehicle was under the care, custody or control of another person or that the vehicle had been stolen. The affidavit must be supported with supporting evidence, such as insurance or police report information. The owner is not responsible for the violation if notice of the violation is given to the registered owner more than 90 days after the date of the violation. A violation is not a crime, but includes a $50 civil penalty. No license or insurance points may be assessed. If the owner fails to provide evidence or pay the civil penalty, the owner waives the right to contest the responsibility and will be subject to an additional penalty not to exceed $50.

The city must institute a nonjudicial administrative hearing process to review objections to citations or penalties issued or assessed. The clear proceeds from the violations must be paid to the county school fund. Clear proceeds are defined as the funds remaining after paying for the lease, lease-purchase, or purchase of the photographic speed-measuring system; paying for operation of the system, either by the city or by a contractor; paying for a program to provide public awareness of the system; and paying any administrative costs incurred by the city related to the use of the system.

This law became effective July 1, 2003 and expires June 30, 2006.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Chapter 160A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 160A-300.4. Use of photographic speed-measuring systems.

(a) A photographic speed-measuring system is a speed-measuring system that works in conjunction with a photographic, video, or electronic camera to automatically measure the speed and produce photographs, video, or digital images of vehicles violating a speed limit or speed restriction.

(b) A photographic speed-measuring system shall be approved, calibrated, and tested for accuracy in accordance with G.S. 8-50.3.

(c) A photographic speed-measuring system shall be monitored by a sworn law enforcement officer at all times that the system is actively in use.

(d) Any photographic speed-measuring system installed or in use on a street or highway shall be identified by appropriate advance warning signs conspicuously posted not more than 1,000 feet from the location of a photographic speed-measuring system. All advance warning signs shall be consistent with a statewide standard adopted by the Department of Transportation.

(e) A municipality may adopt ordinances for the civil enforcement of G.S. 20-141 and G.S. 20-141.1 by means of a photographic speed-measuring system. Notwithstanding the provisions of G.S. 20-141, 20-141.1, and 20-176, in the event that a municipality adopts an ordinance pursuant to this section, a violation of G.S. 20-141 or G.S. 20-141.1 detected by a photographic speed-measuring system shall not be an infraction or misdemeanor. An ordinance authorized by this subsection shall provide that:

(1) The owner of a vehicle shall be responsible for a violation unless the owner can furnish evidence that the vehicle was, at the time of the violation, in the care, custody, or control of another person. The owner of the vehicle shall not be responsible for the violation if the owner of the vehicle furnishes, within 21 days of notification of the violation, to the officials or agents of the municipality that issued the citation either of the following:

a. The name and address of the person or company who leased, rented, or otherwise had the care, custody, or control of the vehicle.

b. An affidavit stating that the vehicle involved was, at the time of the violation, stolen or in the care, custody, or control of some person who did not have permission of the owner to use the vehicle.

(2) A violation detected by a photographic speed-measuring system shall be deemed a noncriminal violation for which a civil penalty of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall be assessed and for which no points authorized by G.S. 20-16(c) or G.S. 58-36-65 shall be assigned to the owner or driver of the vehicle.

(3) The owner of the vehicle shall be issued a citation, written in both English and Spanish, clearly stating the manner in which the violation may be challenged and containing both a street address within the municipality and a local or toll-free telephone number at which the owner may challenge the citation. The citation shall be processed by officials or agents of the municipality and shall be forwarded by personal service or certified mail to the address given on the motor vehicle registration. If the owner fails to pay the civil penalty or to respond to the citation within the time period specified on the citation, the owner shall have waived the right to contest responsibility for the violation and shall be subject to an additional penalty not to exceed fifty dollars ($50.00). The municipality may establish procedures for the collection of these penalties and may recover the penalties by civil action in the nature of debt.

(4) The municipality shall provide a nonjudicial administrative hearing process to review objections to citations or penalties issued or assessed under this section. The administrative hearing process shall include methods for challenging the violation or penalty either in person, at the street address provided on the citation, or through the telephone, at the telephone number provided on the citation. The municipality shall ensure that a Spanish-speaking person is available both at the street address and through the telephone number to assist Spanish-speaking persons. An administrative hearing decision shall be subject to review by the superior court by proceedings in the nature of certiorari. Any petition for review by the superior court shall be filed with the clerk of superior court within 30 days after the administrative hearing decision.

(5) The clear proceeds from the citations issued pursuant to the ordinance authorized by this section shall be paid to the county school fund. The clear proceeds from the citations shall mean the funds remaining after paying for the lease, lease-purchase, or purchase of the photographic speed-measuring system; paying for operation of the system, either by the municipality or by a contractor; paying for a program to provide public awareness of the system; and paying any administrative costs incurred by the municipality related to the use of the system."

SECTION 2. Chapter 8 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 8-50.3. Results of photographic speed-measuring instruments; admissibility.

(a) The results of the use of a photographic speed-measuring system as described in G.S. 160A-300.4 shall be admissible as evidence in a nonjudicial administrative hearing held pursuant to G.S. 160A-300.4(e)(4) for the purpose of establishing the speed of the vehicle detected.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, the results of a photographic speed-measuring system are not admissible unless all of the following are established:

(1) The photographic speed-measuring system employed was approved for use by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission and the Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety pursuant to G.S. 17C-6.

(2) The photographic speed-measuring system had been calibrated and tested for accuracy in accordance with the standards established by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission and the Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety for that particular system.

(3) At the time the results were obtained, the photographic speed-measuring system was being operated by a sworn law enforcement officer who has been certified by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission under G.S. 17-6(a).

(c) All photographic speed-measuring systems shall be calibrated and tested in accordance with standards established by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission and the Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety. A written certificate by a technician certified by the North Carolina Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission showing that a test was made within the required testing period and that the system was accurate shall be competent and prima facie evidence of those facts in a nonjudicial administrative hearing held pursuant to G.S. 160A-300.4(e)(4).

(d) In every nonjudicial administrative hearing held pursuant to G.S. 160A-300.4(e)(4), where the results of a photographic speed-measuring system are sought to be admitted, notice shall be taken of the rules approving the photographic speed-measuring system and the procedures for calibration or testing for accuracy of the system."

SECTION 3. G.S. 17C-6(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) In addition to powers conferred upon the Commission elsewhere in this Chapter, the Commission shall have the following powers, which shall be enforceable through its rules and regulations, certification procedures, or the provisions of G.S. 17C-10:

(13a) In conjunction with the Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety, approve use of specific models and types of photographic speed-measuring systems as described in G.S. 160A-300.4(a) and establish the standards for calibration and testing for accuracy of each approved system."

SECTION 4. Section 1 of this act applies to the City of Charlotte only, and the photographic speed-measuring systems may only be used in the following corridors:

(1) South Boulevard between Interstate 485 and Scaleybark.
(2) Independence between Briarcreek and Sardis Road North.
(3) East W.T. Harris between The Plaza and Idlewild.
(4) Tryon Street from 36th to Orr Road.
(5) Tryon Street between Mallard Creek Church Road and University City Boulevard.
(6) Eastway between Independence and Sugar Creek.
(7) West W.T. Harris between North Tryon Street and Technology Drive.
(8) Albemarle Road between Independence and Lawyers.
(9) Central between Albemarle and Briar Creek.
(10) Monroe Road between Sardis Road North and Wendover.
(11) Providence between McKee and Providence Country Club.
(12) Highway 51 between Park Road and Alexander Road.

(13) Sharon Amity between Lyttleton Drive and East W.T. Harris.

(14) Billy Graham Parkway between Interstate 85 and Woodlawn.

SECTION 5. This act becomes effective July 1, 2003, and expires June 30, 2006.

IMPOSING SENTENCES FOR FELONIES

The sentencing laws use a Felony Punishment Chart which classifies offenders based on the seriousness of their crime and on the extent and gravity of their prior record. Based on this classification, the chart then prescribes the types of sentences which may be imposed (active, intermediate or community punishments) and the range of minimum sentence lengths which may be selected. Following is a description of the steps required to impose felony sentences under the structured sentencing laws.

STEPS REQUIRED TO DETERMINE THE SENTENCE FOR FELONIES

1. DETERMINE THE OFFENSE CLASS FOR EACH FELONY CONVICTION

2. DETERMINE THE PRIOR RECORD LEVEL FOR THE OFFENDER

3. CONSIDER AGGRAVATING AND MITIGATING FACTORS

4. SELECT A MINIMUM SENTENCE FROM THE APPROPRIATE MINIMUM SENTENCE RANGE

5. DETERMINE THE MAXIMUM SENTENCE

6. DETERMINE THE SENTENCE DISPOSITION:

6A. IMPOSE AN ACTIVE PUNISHMENT	6B. IMPOSE AN INTERMEDIATE PUNISHMENT	6C. IMPOSE A COMMUNITY PUNISHMENT
1. Activate the minimum and maximum sentence	1. Suspend the minimum and maximum sentence 2. Impose supervised probation 3. Impose one or more intermediate punishments 4. Impose any appropriate community punishments	1. Suspend the minimum and maximum sentence 2. Impose probation and/or any other appropriate community punishment

(2) The trustee appoints a disinterested person who, in its sole discretion but acting in a fiduciary capacity, determines for the trustee (i) the percentage to be used to calculate the unitrust amount, (ii) the method to be used in determining the fair market value of the trust, and (iii) which assets, if any, are to be excluded in determining the unitrust amount;

(3) The trustee sends written notice of its intention to take the action, along with copies of the written policy and this Part, and the determinations of the disinterested person to (i) the grantor of the trust, if living, (ii) all the competent beneficiaries who are currently receiving or eligible to receive distributions of income of the trust, (iii) without regard to the exercise of a general power of appointment, all competent beneficiaries who would receive or be eligible to receive the distributions of income of the trust if the interests of the beneficiaries currently receiving or eligible to receive the income terminated at the time of the giving of the notice but the termination of those interests would not cause the trust to terminate, (iv) without regard to the exercise of any power of appointment, all the competent beneficiaries who would receive principal of the trust if the trust were to terminate at the time of the giving of the ~~notice (without regard to the exercise of any power of appointment)~~ notice, and ~~(iv)~~ (v) all persons acting as advisor or protector of the trust;

(1) Instead of sending written notice to the persons described in subsections (a)(2) and (3) of this section or subsections (b)(2) and (3) of this section, as the case may be, the trustee shall send such written notice to the named charity or charities then entitled to receive income of the trust and, if no named charity or charities are entitled to receive all of the income, to the Attorney General of this State;

(2) Subsection (a)(4) or subsection (b)(4) of this section, as the case may be, shall not apply to such action; and

(3) In each taxable year, the trustee shall distribute the greater of the unitrust amount and the amount required by section 4942 of the Code."

SECTION 4. G.S. 37A-1-104.4 reads as rewritten:

"§ 37A-1-104.4. Determination of unitrust amount.

(a) The fair market value of the trust shall be determined at least annually, using a valuation date selected by the trustee in its discretion. The trustee, in its discretion, may use an average of the fair market value on the same valuation date for the current fiscal year and not more than three preceding fiscal years, if the use of this average appears desirable to reduce the impact of fluctuations in market value on the unitrust amount. Assets for which a fair market value cannot be readily ascertained shall be valued using valuation methods as are considered reasonable and appropriate by the trustee. ~~These assets may be excluded from valuation, provided all income received with respect to these assets is distributed to the extent distributable in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument.~~ Assets used by the trust beneficiary, such as a residence or tangible personal property, may also be excluded from the fair market value for computing the unitrust amount.

(b) The percentage to be used in determining the unitrust amount shall be a reasonable current return from the trust, in any event not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%), taking into account the intentions of the grantor of the trust as expressed in the governing instrument, the needs of the beneficiaries, general economic conditions, projected current earnings and appreciation for the trust, and projected inflation and its impact on the trust.

~~(c) In the case of a trust (i) for which a marital deduction has been taken for federal tax purposes under section 2056 or section 2523 of the Code (during the lifetime of the spouse for whom the trust was created) or (ii) a trust to which the generation-skipping transfer tax due under section 2601 of the Code does not apply by reason of any effective date or transition rule, the unitrust amount in any taxable year shall not be less than the net income of the trust, determined without regard to subsection (d) of this section.~~

(d) Following the conversion of an income trust to a total return unitrust, the trustee:

~~(1) Shall treat the unitrust amount as if it were net income of the trust for purposes of determining the amount available, from time to time, for distribution from the trust; and~~

~~1222(5) of the Code for that year or portion of that year, but only to the extent that the amount allocated together with all other amounts allocated to trust income for that year or portion of that year does not exceed the unitrust amount for that year or portion of that year; and (ii) net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code for that year or portion of that year, but only to the extent that the amount allocated together with all other amounts, including amounts described in clause (i) above, allocated to trust income for that year or portion of that year does not exceed the unitrust amount for that year or portion of that year.~~

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustees discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as the discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)-3(b) of the Treasury Regulations, as amended from time to time; and

~~(4)~~ Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust."

"§ 37A-1-104.9. Applicability.

This Part shall apply to all trusts in existence on, or created after January 1, 2004, unless (i) the governing instrument contains a provision clearly expressing the grantor's intention that the current beneficiary or beneficiaries are to receive an amount other than a reasonable current return from the trust, (ii) the trust is a trust described in section 170(f)(2)(B), section 664(d), section 2702(a)(3), or section 2702(b) of the Code, (iii) ~~one or more persons to whom the trustee could distribute income has a power of withdrawal over the trust that is not subject to an ascertainable standard under section 2041 or section 2514 of the Code, or the power of withdrawal can be exercised to discharge a duty of support the person possesses, or~~ the trust is a trust pursuant to which any amount is, or has been in the past, permanently set aside for charitable purposes unless the income therefrom is also permanently devoted to charitable purposes, or (iv) the governing instrument expressly prohibits use of this Part by specific reference to this ~~Part.~~ Part, or expressly states the grantor's intent that net income not be calculated as a unitrust amount. A provision in the governing instrument that 'the provisions of Part 2 of Article 1 of Chapter 37A or any corresponding provision of future law, shall not be used in the administration of this trust.' or 'the trustee shall not determine the distributions to the income beneficiary as a unitrust amount.' or similar words reflecting such intent shall be sufficient to preclude the use of this Part."

SECTION 6. Chapter 37A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Part to read:

"§ 37A-1-104A.1. Definitions.

(a) An "express total return unitrust" means a trust which by its governing instrument requires the distribution at least annually of a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage of not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%) per year of the net fair market value of the trusts assets, valued at least annually.

(b) "Code" means the Internal Revenue Code as described in G.S. 37A-1-104.1(1).

(c) "Treasury Regulations" means the Treasury Regulations described in G.S. 37A-1-104.1(9a).

"§ 37A-1-104A.2. Determination of unitrust amount.

(a) The unitrust amount to be distributed by the express total return unitrust may be determined in the governing instrument by reference to the net fair market value of the trust's assets determined annually or averaged on a multiple year basis.

(b) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide that:

(1) Assets for which a fair market value cannot be readily ascertained shall be valued using valuation methods as are considered reasonable and appropriate by the trustee.

(2) Assets used by the trust beneficiary entitled to the unitrust amount, such as a residence property or tangible personal property, may be excluded from the net fair market value for computing the unitrust amount.

"§ 37A-1-104A.3. Effect of distribution of unitrust amount.

The distribution from an express total return unitrust of the fixed percentage of not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%) reasonably apportions between the income beneficiaries and remaindermen the total return of an express total return unitrust.

"§ 37A-1-104A.4. Change or conversion of unitrust amount.

(a) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide the method similar to the method provided under G.S. 37A-1-104.2(a) for changing the unitrust percentage or for converting from a unitrust to an income trust or for a reconversion of an income trust to a unitrust, or for all of these actions.

(b) If the terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust do not specifically or by reference to G.S. 37A-1-104.2 grant a power to the trustee to change the unitrust percentage or change to an income trust, the trustee shall have no such power.

"§ 37A-1-104A.5. Determination of character of unitrust amount.

Unless the terms of the governing instrument of the express total return unitrust specifically provide otherwise, the trustee:

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustee's discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as such discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)-3(b) of the Treasury Regulations; and

(4) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust.

"§ 37A-104A.6. Unitrust amount in excess of a five percent payout.

A trust that provides for a fixed percentage payout in excess of five percent (5%) per year shall be deemed to be an express total return unitrust that pays out a fixed percentage of five percent (5%) per year and pays out principal to the extent that the fixed percentage payout exceeds five percent (5%) per year."

SECTION 7. This act is effective when it becomes law, except that the amendment to G.S. 37A-1-104.9(iii) applies retroactively to October 1, 2004.

being administered as a total return unitrust, that future distributions from the trust will be net income as determined under this Chapter rather than unitrust amounts, or (iii) that the percentage used to calculate the unitrust amount or the method used to determine the fair market value of the trust will be changed as stated in the policy;

(2) The trustee appoints a disinterested person who, in its sole discretion but acting in a fiduciary capacity, determines for the trustee (i) the percentage to be used to calculate the unitrust amount, (ii) the method to be used in determining the fair market value of the trust, and (iii) which assets, if any, are to be excluded in determining the unitrust amount;

(3) The trustee sends written notice of its intention to take the action, along with copies of the written policy and this Part, and the determinations of the disinterested person to (i) the grantor of the trust, if living, (ii) all the competent beneficiaries who are currently receiving or eligible to receive distributions of income of the trust, (iii) without regard to the exercise of a general power of appointment, all competent beneficiaries who would receive or be eligible to receive the distributions of income of the trust if the interests of the beneficiaries currently receiving or eligible to receive the income terminated at the time of the giving of the notice but the termination of those interests would not cause the trust to terminate, (iv) without regard to the exercise of any power of appointment, all the competent beneficiaries who would receive principal of the trust if the trust were to terminate at the time of the giving of the ~~notice (without regard to the exercise of any power of appointment)~~ notice, and ~~(iv)~~ (v) all persons acting as advisor or protector of the trust;

(4) ~~There is at least one competent beneficiary who is currently receiving or eligible to receive distributions of income of the trust and there is at least one competent beneficiary who would receive principal of the trust if the trust were to terminate at the time of the giving of the notice;~~ There is at least one competent beneficiary described in subdivision (3)(ii) of this subsection or subdivision (3)(iii) of this subsection and one competent beneficiary described in subdivision (3)(iv) of this subsection; and

(5) No person receiving notice of the trustee's intention to take the proposed action of the trustee objects to the action or to the determination of the disinterested person within 60 days of receipt of the notice by written instrument delivered to the trustee.

(c) A trustee may act under subsection (a) or (b) of this section with respect to a trust for which both income and principal have been set aside permanently for charitable purposes under the governing instrument and for which a federal estate or gift tax deduction has been taken, provided that:

(1) Instead of sending written notice to the persons described in subdivisions (2) and (3) of subsection (a) of this section or subdivisions (2) and (3) of subsection (b) of this section, as the case may be, the trustee shall send written notice to the named charity or charities then entitled to receive income of the trust and, if no named charity or charities are entitled to receive all of the income, to the Attorney General of this State;

(2) Subdivision (4) of subsection (a) of this section or subdivision (4) of subsection (b) of this section, as the case may be, shall not apply to this action; and

(3) In each taxable year, the trustee shall distribute the greater of the unitrust amount or the amount required by section 4942 of the Code."

"§ 37A-1-104.4. Determination of unitrust amount.

(a) The fair market value of the trust shall be determined at least annually, using a valuation date selected by the trustee in its discretion. The trustee, in its discretion, may use an average of the fair market value on the same valuation date for the current fiscal year and not more than three preceding fiscal years, if the use of this average appears desirable to reduce the impact of fluctuations in market value on the unitrust amount. Assets for which a fair market value cannot be readily ascertained shall be valued using valuation methods as are considered reasonable and appropriate by the trustee. ~~These assets may be excluded from valuation, provided all income received with respect to these assets is distributed to the extent distributable in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument.~~ Assets, such as a residence or tangible personal property, used by the trust beneficiary also may be excluded from the fair market value for computing the unitrust amount.

(b) The percentage to be used in determining the unitrust amount shall be a reasonable current return from the trust, in any event not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%), taking into account the intentions of the grantor of the trust as expressed in the governing instrument, the needs of the beneficiaries, general economic conditions, projected current earnings and appreciation for the trust, and projected inflation and its impact on the trust.

~~(c) In the case of a trust (i) for which a marital deduction has been taken for federal tax purposes under section 2056 or section 2523 of the Code (during the lifetime of the spouse for whom the trust was created) or (ii) a trust to which the generation-skipping transfer tax due under section 2601 of the Code does not apply by reason of any effective date or transition rule, the unitrust amount in any taxable year shall not be less than the net income of the trust, determined without regard to subsection (d) of this section.~~

(d) Following the conversion of an income trust to a total return unitrust, the trustee:

~~(1) Shall treat the unitrust amount as if it were net income of the trust for purposes of determining the amount available, from time to time, for distribution from the trust; and~~

~~(2) May allocate to trust income for each taxable year of the trust (or portion of that year) (i) net short-term capital gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code for that year or portion of that year, but only to the extent that the amount allocated together with all other amounts allocated to trust income for that year or portion of that year does not exceed the unitrust amount for that year or portion of that year; and (ii) net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code for that year or portion of that year, but only to the extent that the amount allocated together with all other amounts, including amounts described in clause (i) above, allocated to trust income for that year or portion of that year does not exceed the unitrust amount for that year or portion of that year.~~

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustee's discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as the discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)- 3(b) of the Treasury Regulations, as amended from time to time; and

(4) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust."

"§ 37A-1-104.9. Applicability.

This Part shall apply to all trusts in existence on, or created after January 1, 2004, unless (i) the governing instrument contains a provision clearly expressing the grantor's intention that the current beneficiary or beneficiaries are to receive an amount other than a reasonable current return from the trust, (ii) the trust is a trust described in section 170(f)(2)(B), section 664(d), section 2702(a)(3), or section 2702(b) of the Code, (iii) ~~one or more persons to whom the trustee could distribute income has a power of withdrawal over the trust that is not subject to an ascertainable standard under section 2041 or section 2514 of the Code, or the power of withdrawal can be exercised to discharge a duty of support the person possesses, or~~ the trust is a trust under which any amount is, or has been in the past, set aside permanently for charitable purposes unless the income from the trust also is devoted permanently to charitable purposes, or (iv) the governing instrument expressly prohibits use of this Part by specific reference to this ~~Part.~~ Part, or expressly states the grantor's intent that net income not be calculated as a unitrust amount. A provision in the governing instrument that 'the provisions of Part 2 of Article 1 of Chapter 37A or any corresponding provision of future law, shall not be used in the administration of this trust.' or 'the trustee shall not determine the distributions to the income beneficiary as a unitrust amount.' or similar words reflecting that intent is sufficient to preclude the use of this Part."

SECTION 6. Chapter 37A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Part to read:

"Part 2A. Express Total Return Unitrusts.

"§ 37A-1-104A.1. Definitions.

(a) An "express total return unitrust" means a trust that has a governing instrument requiring the distribution at least annually of a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage of not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%) per year of the net fair market value of the trust's assets, valued at least annually.

(b) "Code" means the Internal Revenue Code as described in G.S. 37A-1-104.1(1).

(c) "Treasury Regulations" means the Treasury Regulations described in G.S. 37A-1-104.1(9a).

"§ 37A-1-104A.2. Determination of unitrust amount.

(a) The unitrust amount to be distributed by the express total return unitrust may be determined in the governing instrument by reference to the net fair market value of the trust's assets determined annually or averaged on a multiple year basis.

(b) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide that:

(1) Assets for which a fair market value cannot be readily ascertained shall be valued using valuation methods that the trustee considers reasonable and appropriate.

(2) Assets, such as a residence property or tangible personal property, used by the trust beneficiary entitled to the unitrust amount may be excluded from the net fair market value for computing the unitrust amount.

"§ 37A-1-104A.3. Effect of distribution of unitrust amount.

The distribution from an express total return unitrust of the fixed percentage of not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%) reasonably apportions between the income beneficiaries and remaindermen the total return of an express total return unitrust.

"§ 37A-1-104A.4. Change or conversion of unitrust amount.

(a) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide the method similar to the method provided under G.S. 37A-1-104.2(a) for changing the unitrust percentage or for converting from a unitrust to an income trust or for a reconversion of an income trust to a unitrust, or for all of these actions.

(b) If the terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust do not specifically or by reference to G.S. 37A-1-104.2 grant a power to the trustee to change the unitrust percentage or change to an income trust, the trustee shall not have that power.

"§ 37A-1-104A.5. Determination of character of unitrust amount.

Unless the terms of the governing instrument of the express total return unitrust specifically provide otherwise, the trustee:

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustee's discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as this discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)- 3(b) of the Treasury Regulations; and

(4) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust.

"§ 37A-104A.6. Unitrust amount in excess of a five percent payout.

A trust that provides for a fixed percentage payout in excess of five percent (5%) per year is considered an express total return unitrust that pays out a fixed percentage of five percent (5%) per year and pays out principal to the extent that the fixed percentage payout exceeds five percent (5%) per year."

SECTION 7. This act is effective when it becomes law, and applies to every trust or decedent's estate existing on that date or coming into existence after that date, except as otherwise expressly provided in the will or terms of the trust or in the provisions of Chapter 37A of the General Statutes. G.S. 37A-1-104.9(iii), as rewritten in Section 5 of this act, applies retroactively to October 1, 2004, and applies to every trust or decedent's estate existing on that date or coming into existence after that date, except as otherwise expressly provided in the will or terms of the trust or in the provisions of Chapter 37A of the General Statutes.

SENATE BILL 461:
Unitrust Amendments.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II Committee	Introduced by:	Senator Hartsell
Date:	March 29, 2005	Summary by:	Robin Johnson
Version:	First: S461-CSRH-4[v.3]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 461, recommended by the North Carolina Bar Association, would amend Chapter 37A of the General Statutes, entitled "Uniform Principal and Income Act." Except as noted below, the bill would become effective when it becomes law and apply to trusts and decedents' estates existing on that date, unless the instrument provides otherwise.

The PCS makes technical changes.

CURRENT LAW: Chapter 37A, based on the Uniform Principal and Income Act of 1997, provides procedures for trustees (administering trusts) and personal administrators (of a decedent's estate) in allocating property as principal and income. Generally, property that is considered principal is distributed to the persons who are entitled to receive the principal when the income interest ends. Assets considered income meet the requirements of income beneficiaries during the life of a trust or of beneficiaries who are paid out of the income derived during an estate's administration.

Chapter 37A allows trustees to convert an income trust to a total return unitrust, to reconvert a total return unitrust to an income trust, or to change the percentage used to calculate the unitrust amount or the method used to determine the fair market value of the trust. (The unitrust amount is an amount computed as a percentage of the fair market value of the trust.)

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill amends Part 2 of Article 1 of Chapter 37A ("Conversion to Unitrust") ands adds a new Part 2A of this Article ("Express Total Return Unitrusts") to conform to the section 643 Treasury Regulations (the "643 Regs."), which interpret the federal Internal Revenue Code. The bill also would make other clarifying changes. Some of the changes follow the recent amendments made in the Delaware statute upon which Part 2 was based.

Section 1.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.1(5) by clarifying the definition of "income trust."

Section 2.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.1 by adding a new definition of "Treasury Regulations."

Section 3.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.2 to include among the beneficiaries entitled to receive notice the next generation of income beneficiaries after the current income beneficiary.
- Also adds a new subsection (c) to this section authorizing a trustee to convert a wholly charitable trust to a unitrust under the statute.

Section 4.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.4 to provide that the value of the property, such as a residence or tangible personal property, used by a trust beneficiary does not have to be included in the computation of the unitrust distribution.
- Deletes G.S. 37A-1-104.4(c), applicable to trusts for which a marital has been taken or trusts to which the generation skipping transfer tax does not apply. This subsection is no longer required after the issuance of the 643 Regs.

- Provides for an ordering rule for the character of amounts constituting the unitrust amount, including a provision relating to net capital gains based on the 643 Regs.

Section 5.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.9 to clarify the types of trusts to which the statute applies, to delete a superfluous provision, and to make clarifying changes.

Section 6.

- Creates a new Part 2A of Chapter 37A ("Express Total Return Unitrusts") so that the 643 Regs. also apply to trusts that are drafted originally as unitrusts. An express total return unitrust is a trust that has a governing instrument requiring at least annual distributions equal to a fixed percentage of 3% to 5% per year of the net fair market value of the trust's assets, which must be valued at least annually. This new Part 2A would allow marital deduction trusts originally drafted as unitrusts to provide for the distribution of the unitrust amount only and not the greater of the unitrust amount or the income of the trusts.

Section 7.

- Effective when it becomes law and would apply to trusts and estates on or after that day, except as expressly provided in the will or trust. The new G.S. 37A-1-104.9(iii), as rewritten in Section 5 of the bill, would apply retroactively to October 1, 2004, and would apply to trusts and estates on or after that day, except as expressly provided in the will or trust.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROTECT CHILDREN FROM SEXUAL PREDATORS BY ALSO MAKING IT A FELONY CRIMINAL OFFENSE TO SOLICIT A PERSON THE PERPETRATOR BELIEVES TO BE A CHILD TO COMMIT UNLAWFUL SEX ACTS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 14-202.3 reads as rewritten:

"§ 14-202.3. Solicitation of child by computer to commit an unlawful sex act.

(a) Offense. – A person is guilty of solicitation of a child by a computer if the person is 16 years of age or older and the person knowingly, with the intent to commit an unlawful sex act, entices, advises, coerces, orders, or commands, by means of a computer, a child or a person the perpetrator believes to be a child who is less than 16 years of age and at least 3 years younger than the defendant, to meet with the defendant or any other person for the purpose of committing an unlawful sex act. Consent is not a defense to a charge under this section.

(b) Jurisdiction. – The offense is committed in the State for purposes of determining jurisdiction, if the transmission that constitutes the offense either originates in the State or is received in the State.

(c) Punishment. – A violation of this section is a Class I felony."

SECTION 2. This act becomes effective December 1, 2005, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

SENATE BILL 472:
Child Exploitation Prevention Act.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Thomas
Date:	March 29, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 472 would broaden the applicability of the current felony offense "Solicitation of a child by computer to commit an unlawful sex act[1]." The bill would allow for prosecution of individuals who, by means of a computer, entice, advise, coerce, order or command an individual that they believe to be a child less than 16 years of age to commit an unlawful sex act. The bill would also remove the possibility of the victim's consent being used as a defense to this charge. This act would become effective December 1, 2005 and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: A person is guilty of the Class I felony charge of "Solicitation of a child by computer to commit an unlawful sex act" if the person:

1) is 16 years of age or older, and

2) knowingly, with the intent to commit an unlawful sex act,

3) entices or advises or coerces or orders or commands

4) by means of a computer

5) a child less than 16 years of age, and

6) at least three years younger than the person

7) to meet with the person or any other person

8) For the purpose of committing and unlawful sex act[2].

BILL ANALYSIS: This bill would expand the reach of this offense by modifying element 5 (above) of the offense to include both children less than 16 years of age and any person the perpetrator believes to be less than 16 years of age.

The bill would also prohibit the use of consent as a defense to a charge under this section.

BACKGROUND: This shift would allow those instances where an individual solicits a law enforcement officer posing as a minor – currently a Class 1 misdemeanor offense, Attempted Child Solicitation by Computer – to be punished at the higher Class I felony level. Due to lack of data regarding the number of offenders convicted of Attempted Child Solicitation by Computer in the past, the Sentencing Commission is unable to estimate the impact this legislation would have on prison populations.

This fiscal analysis is independent of the impact of other criminal penalty bills being considered by the General Assembly, which could also increase the projected prison population and thus the availability of prison beds in future years. The Fiscal Research Division is tracking the cumulative effect of all criminal penalty bills on the prison system as well as the Judicial Department.*

BILL SUMMARY:

Under current G.S. 14-202.3, it is a Class I felony to solicit a child under the age of sixteen by computer for the purpose of committing an unlawful sex act. This bill would expand the scope of that offense to include any circumstance in which a person solicits an individual over the age of sixteen while believing that individual to be underage. The bill additionally specifies that consent is not a defense to a charge for this offense.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

General

This bill would have a fiscal impact due to additional felony Class I charges and convictions, some of which would be altogether new to the system, and others elevated from Class 1 misdemeanors. Under present law, an individual who solicits a law enforcement officer posing as a minor could be convicted of attempting to solicit a child by computer, a Class 1 misdemeanor. As a result of this bill, an attempt to solicit a child by computer would be punishable as a Class I felony. If offenders can be more easily charged and convicted of Attempted Solicitation of a Child by Computer than the actual offense of Child Solicitation by Computer, substantially more felony Class I charges and convictions could result from this bill.

Data regarding the number of charges and convictions for Solicitation or Attempted Solicitation of a Child by Computer in the past is unavailable because the Administrative Office of the Courts does not maintain a specific offense code for these violations. The State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) identified a total of 30 cases under its review that involved or included Solicitation or Attempted Solicitation of a Minor by Computer during 2004. This figure does not include cases under investigation by the FBI, U.S. Customs, or U.S. Postal Inspectors in conjunction with local law enforcement, or by local law enforcement alone.

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares prison population projections for each criminal penalty bill. The Commission assumes for each bill that increasing criminal penalties does not have a deterrent or incapacitative effect on crime. Therefore, the Fiscal Research Division does not assume savings due to deterrent effects for this bill or any criminal penalty bill.

Department of Correction

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares inmate population projections annually. The projections used for incarceration fiscal notes are based on January 2005 projections. These projections are based on historical information on incarceration and release rates under Structured Sentencing, crime rate forecasts by a technical advisory group, probation and revocation rates, and the decline (parole and maxouts) of the stock prison population sentenced under previous sentencing acts. Based on the most recent population projections and estimated available prison bed capacity, there are no surplus prison beds available for the five-year fiscal note horizon and beyond.

Due to the lack of data regarding the number of offenders convicted of Attempted Child Solicitation by Computer in the past, the Sentencing Commission is unable to estimate the impact that this legislation would have on prison population. The SBI has indicated that, currently, an attempt to solicit a child by computer may be used as reason for a search warrant. Evidence found in the search may result in the offender being charged with Second or Third Degree Sexual Exploitation of a Minor (Class F and I felonies, respectively). For those offenders convicted of both Attempted Solicitation of a Child by Computer and Second or Third Degree Sexual Exploitation of a Minor, and given sentences that run concurrently, there would be no impact on prison population.

Active Sentences: If, for example, ten new Class I convictions resulted from the expanded definition of this offense per year, the combination of active sentences and probation revocations would result in the need for one additional prison bed in the first year and three additional beds in the second year. Based on FY 2003-04 actual operating costs, the statewide average annual operating cost for one prison bed in FY 2006-07, adjusted for inflation at a rate of three percent annually, is estimated to be $24,740.

Non-Active Sentences: In FY 2003-04, 49 percent of Class I convictions resulted in community sanctions and 40 percent in intermediate sanctions. Probation officers in the Division of Community Corrections supervise offenders with intermediate sanctions and the community sanction of supervised probation. The estimated cost associated with an intermediate offender is $10.94 per day for the first six months and $1.87 per day thereafter (based on the average cost and duration of intensive probation). The estimated cost for a supervised community offender is $1.87 per day.

For most criminal penalty bills, the Administrative Office of the Courts provides Fiscal Research with an analysis of the fiscal impact of the specific bill. For these bills, fiscal impact is typically based on the assumption that court time will increase due to an expected increase in trials and a corresponding increase in the hours of work for judges, clerks, and prosecutors. This increased court time is also expected to result in greater expenditures for jury fees and indigent defense.

Because the Courts do not have data regarding the number of charges in the past for attempting to solicit a child by computer, AOC is unable to estimate the number of new Class I felony charges and the number of Class 1 misdemeanor charges that might instead be charged as Class I felonies due to this bill. Based on prior-year data, the majority of new Class I felony charges resulting from this bill that are not dismissed are likely to be settled by guilty plea.

- The estimated cost to process a single Class I felony charge is $330 per guilty plea and $5,835 per trial. The trial cost figure includes $3,904 for court and attorney costs and $1,931 for indigent defense.
- The estimated increase in cost to process one charge as a Class I felony rather than Class 1 misdemeanor is $46 per guilty plea and $2,611 per trial.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE LAW RELATING TO UNITRUSTS.

"§ 37A-1-104.4. Determination of unitrust amount.

(a) The fair market value of the trust shall be determined at least annually, using a valuation date selected by the trustee in its discretion. The trustee, in its discretion, may use an average of the fair market value on the same valuation date for the current fiscal year and not more than three preceding fiscal years, if the use of this average appears desirable to reduce the impact of fluctuations in market value on the unitrust amount. Assets for which a fair market value cannot be readily ascertained shall be valued using valuation methods as are considered reasonable and appropriate by the trustee. ~~These assets may be excluded from valuation, provided all income received with respect to these assets is distributed to the extent distributable in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument.~~ Assets used by the trust beneficiary, such as a residence or tangible personal property, may also be excluded from the fair market value for computing the unitrust amount.

(b) The percentage to be used in determining the unitrust amount shall be a reasonable current return from the trust, in any event not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%), taking into account the intentions of the grantor of the trust as expressed in the governing instrument, the needs of the beneficiaries, general economic conditions, projected current earnings and appreciation for the trust, and projected inflation and its impact on the trust.

~~(c) In the case of a trust (i) for which a marital deduction has been taken for federal tax purposes under section 2056 or section 2523 of the Code (during the lifetime of the spouse for whom the trust was created) or (ii) a trust to which the generation-skipping transfer tax due under section 2601 of the Code does not apply by reason of any effective date or transition rule, the unitrust amount in any taxable year shall not be less than the net income of the trust, determined without regard to subsection (d) of this section.~~

(d) Following the conversion of an income trust to a total return unitrust, the trustee:

~~(1) Shall treat the unitrust amount as if it were net income of the trust for purposes of determining the amount available, from time to time, for distribution from the trust; and~~

~~1222(5) of the Code for that year or portion of that year, but only to the extent that the amount allocated together with all other amounts allocated to trust income for that year or portion of that year does not exceed the unitrust amount for that year or portion of that year; and (ii) net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code for that year or portion of that year, but only to the extent that the amount allocated together with all other amounts, including amounts described in clause (i) above, allocated to trust income for that year or portion of that year does not exceed the unitrust amount for that year or portion of that year.~~

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustees discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as the discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)-3(b) of the Treasury Regulations, as amended from time to time; and

(4) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust."

"§ 37A-1-104.9. Applicability.

This Part shall apply to all trusts in existence on, or created after January 1, 2004, unless (i) the governing instrument contains a provision clearly expressing the grantor's intention that the current beneficiary or beneficiaries are to receive an amount other than a reasonable current return from the trust, (ii) the trust is a trust described in section 170(f)(2)(B), section 664(d), section 2702(a)(3), or section 2702(b) of the Code, (iii) ~~one or more persons to whom the trustee could distribute income has a power of withdrawal over the trust that is not subject to an ascertainable standard under section 2041 or section 2514 of the Code, or the power of withdrawal can be exercised to discharge a duty of support the person possesses, or~~ the trust is a trust pursuant to which any amount is, or has been in the past, permanently set aside for charitable purposes unless the income therefrom is also permanently devoted to charitable purposes, or (iv) the governing instrument expressly prohibits use of this Part by specific reference to this ~~Part.~~ Part, or expressly states the grantor's intent that net income not be calculated as a unitrust amount. A provision in the governing instrument that 'the provisions of Part 2 of Article 1 of Chapter 37A or any corresponding provision of future law, shall not be used in the administration of this trust.' or 'the trustee shall not determine the distributions to the income beneficiary as a unitrust amount.' or similar words reflecting such intent shall be sufficient to preclude the use of this Part."

SECTION 6. Chapter 37A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Part to read:

"Part 2A. Express Total Return Unitrusts.

"§ 37A-1-104A.1. Definitions.

(a) An "express total return unitrust" means a trust which by its governing instrument requires the distribution at least annually of a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage of not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%) per year of the net fair market value of the trusts assets, valued at least annually.

(b) "Code" means the Internal Revenue Code as described in G.S. 37A-1-104.1(1).

(c) "Treasury Regulations" means the Treasury Regulations described in G.S. 37A-1-104.1(9a).

"§ 37A-1-104A.2. Determination of unitrust amount.

(a) The unitrust amount to be distributed by the express total return unitrust may be determined in the governing instrument by reference to the net fair market value of the trust's assets determined annually or averaged on a multiple year basis.

(b) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide that:

(1) Assets for which a fair market value cannot be readily ascertained shall be valued using valuation methods as are considered reasonable and appropriate by the trustee.

(2) Assets used by the trust beneficiary entitled to the unitrust amount, such as a residence property or tangible personal property, may be excluded from the net fair market value for computing the unitrust amount.

"§ 37A-1-104A.3. Effect of distribution of unitrust amount.

The distribution from an express total return unitrust of the fixed percentage of not less than three percent (3%) nor more than five percent (5%) reasonably apportions between the income beneficiaries and remaindermen the total return of an express total return unitrust.

"§ 37A-1-104A.4. Change or conversion of unitrust amount.

(a) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide the method similar to the method provided under G.S. 37A-1-104.2(a) for changing the unitrust percentage or for converting from a unitrust to an income trust or for a reconversion of an income trust to a unitrust, or for all of these actions.

(b) If the terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust do not specifically or by reference to G.S. 37A-1-104.2 grant a power to the trustee to change the unitrust percentage or change to an income trust, the trustee shall have no such power.

"§ 37A-1-104A.5. Determination of character of unitrust amount.

Unless the terms of the governing instrument of the express total return unitrust specifically provide otherwise, the trustee:

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustee's discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as such discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)-3(b) of the Treasury Regulations; and

(4) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust.

"§ 37A-104A.6. Unitrust amount in excess of a five percent payout.

A trust that provides for a fixed percentage payout in excess of five percent (5%) per year shall be deemed to be an express total return unitrust that pays out a fixed percentage of five percent (5%) per year and pays out principal to the extent that the fixed percentage payout exceeds five percent (5%) per year."

SECTION 7. This act is effective when it becomes law, except that the amendment to G.S. 37A-1-104.9(iii) applies retroactively to October 1, 2004.

"§ 37A-1-104A.4. Change or conversion of unitrust amount.

(a) The terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust may provide the method similar to the method provided under G.S. 37A-1-104.2(a) for changing the unitrust percentage or for converting from a unitrust to an income trust or for a reconversion of an income trust to a unitrust, or for all of these actions.

(b) If the terms of the governing instrument of an express total return unitrust do not specifically or by reference to G.S. 37A-1-104.2 grant a power to the trustee to change the unitrust percentage or change to an income trust, the trustee shall not have that power.

"§ 37A-1-104A.5. Determination of character of unitrust amount.

Unless the terms of the governing instrument of the express total return unitrust specifically provide otherwise, the trustee:

(1) Shall consider the unitrust amount as paid from net accounting income determined as if the trust were not a unitrust;

(2) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as paid from ordinary income not allocable to net accounting income;

(3) May, in the trustee's discretion, consider the unitrust amount as paid from net short-term gain described in section 1222(5) of the Code and then from net long-term capital gain described in section 1222(7) of the Code so long as this discretionary power is exercised consistently and in a reasonable and impartial manner, but the amount so paid from net capital gains may not be greater than the excess of the unitrust amount over the amount of distributable net income as defined in section 643(a) of the Code without regard to section 1.643(a)- 3(b) of the Treasury Regulations; and

(4) Shall then consider the unitrust amount as coming from the principal of the trust.

"§ 37A-104A.6. Unitrust amount in excess of a five percent payout.

A trust that provides for a fixed percentage payout in excess of five percent (5%) per year is considered an express total return unitrust that pays out a fixed percentage of five percent (5%) per year and pays out principal to the extent that the fixed percentage payout exceeds five percent (5%) per year."

SECTION 7. This act is effective when it becomes law, and applies to every trust or decedent's estate existing on that date or coming into existence after that date, except as otherwise expressly provided in the will or terms of the trust or in the provisions of Chapter 37A of the General Statutes. G.S. 37A-1-104.9(iii), as rewritten in Section 5 of this act, applies retroactively to October 1, 2004, and applies to every trust or decedent's estate existing on that date or coming into existence after that date, except as otherwise expressly provided in the will or terms of the trust or in the provisions of Chapter 37A of the General Statutes.

SENATE BILL 461:
Unitrust Amendments.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II Committee	Introduced by:	Senator Hartsell
Date:	March 29, 2005	Summary by:	Robin Johnson
Version:	First: S461-CSRH-4[v.3]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 461, recommended by the North Carolina Bar Association, would amend Chapter 37A of the General Statutes, entitled "Uniform Principal and Income Act." Except as noted below, the bill would become effective when it becomes law and apply to trusts and decedents' estates existing on that date, unless the instrument provides otherwise.

The PCS makes technical changes.

CURRENT LAW: Chapter 37A, based on the Uniform Principal and Income Act of 1997, provides procedures for trustees (administering trusts) and personal administrators (of a decedent's estate) in allocating property as principal and income. Generally, property that is considered principal is distributed to the persons who are entitled to receive the principal when the income interest ends. Assets considered income meet the requirements of income beneficiaries during the life of a trust or of beneficiaries who are paid out of the income derived during an estate's administration.

Chapter 37A allows trustees to convert an income trust to a total return unitrust, to reconvert a total return unitrust to an income trust, or to change the percentage used to calculate the unitrust amount or the method used to determine the fair market value of the trust. (The unitrust amount is an amount computed as a percentage of the fair market value of the trust.)

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill amends Part 2 of Article 1 of Chapter 37A ("Conversion to Unitrust") ands adds a new Part 2A of this Article ("Express Total Return Unitrusts") to conform to the section 643 Treasury Regulations (the "643 Regs."), which interpret the federal Internal Revenue Code. The bill also would make other clarifying changes. Some of the changes follow the recent amendments made in the Delaware statute upon which Part 2 was based.

Section 1.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.1(5) by clarifying the definition of "income trust."

Section 2.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.1 by adding a new definition of "Treasury Regulations."

Section 3.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.2 to include among the beneficiaries entitled to receive notice the next generation of income beneficiaries after the current income beneficiary.
- Also adds a new subsection (c) to this section authorizing a trustee to convert a wholly charitable trust to a unitrust under the statute.

Section 4.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.4 to provide that the value of the property, such as a residence or tangible personal property, used by a trust beneficiary does not have to be included in the computation of the unitrust distribution.
- Deletes G.S. 37A-1-104.4(c), applicable to trusts for which a marital has been taken or trusts to which the generation skipping transfer tax does not apply. This subsection is no longer required after the issuance of the 643 Regs.

- Provides for an ordering rule for the character of amounts constituting the unitrust amount, including a provision relating to net capital gains based on the 643 Regs.

Section 5.

- Amends G.S. 37A-1-104.9 to clarify the types of trusts to which the statute applies, to delete a superfluous provision, and to make clarifying changes.

Section 6.

- Creates a new Part 2A of Chapter 37A ("Express Total Return Unitrusts") so that the 643 Regs. also apply to trusts that are drafted originally as unitrusts. An express total return unitrust is a trust that has a governing instrument requiring at least annual distributions equal to a fixed percentage of 3% to 5% per year of the net fair market value of the trust's assets, which must be valued at least annually. This new Part 2A would allow marital deduction trusts originally drafted as unitrusts to provide for the distribution of the unitrust amount only and not the greater of the unitrust amount or the income of the trusts.

Section 7.

- Effective when it becomes law and would apply to trusts and estates on or after that day, except as expressly provided in the will or trust. The new G.S. 37A-1-104.9(iii), as rewritten in Section 5 of the bill, would apply retroactively to October 1, 2004, and would apply to trusts and estates on or after that day, except as expressly provided in the will or trust.

"(d) Aggravating Factors. – The following are aggravating factors:

(6) The offense was committed against or proximately caused serious injury to a present or former law enforcement officer, employee of the Department of Correction, jailer, fireman, emergency medical technician, ambulance attendant, social worker, justice or judge, clerk or assistant or deputy clerk of court, magistrate, prosecutor, juror, or witness against the defendant, while engaged in the performance of that person's official duties or because of the exercise of that person's official duties."

SENATE BILL 507:
Aggravating Factor/Add Social Worker

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Dalton
Date:	March 31, 2005	Summary by:	Kory J. Goldsmith
Version:	1st Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: SB507 would make it an aggravating factor, for purposes of structured sentencing, if the underlying offense for which a defendant has been convicted was committed against or proximately caused serious injury to a social worker while the social worker was engaged in his or her official duties.

The act would become effective December 1, 2005, and apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: Structured sentencing became effective for offenses committed on or after October 1, 1994. A sentencing court essentially must take seven steps to determine the appropriate sentence for felonies under structured sentencing. These steps are:

- Determine the offense class.
- Determine the prior record level for the defendant.
- Consider aggravating and mitigating factors.
- Select a minimum sentences from the applicable minimum sentence range.
- Determine the maximum sentence.
- Determine the sentence disposition (active, intermediate, or community).
- Consider the appropriateness of restitution.

The sentencing grid contains three ranges of punishment for felonies: presumptive, aggravated, and mitigated. To determine the range in which to sentence a defendant, the court must consider any evidence of aggravating and mitigating factors. The statutory aggravating factors or set out in G.S 15A-1340.16(d). If the court finds that aggravating factors are present and outweigh any mitigating factors, it may depart from the presumptive range of punishment and impose a term of punishment from the aggravated range. Evidence necessary to prove an element of the offense can not be used to prove any factor in aggravation, and the same item of evidence can not be used to prove more than one factor in aggravation.

§ 15A-1340.16. Aggravated and mitigated sentences.

.....(d) Aggravating Factors. – The following are aggravating factors:

(1) The defendant induced others to participate in the commission of the offense or occupied a position of leadership or dominance of other participants.

(2) The defendant joined with more than one other person in committing the offense and was not charged with committing a conspiracy.

(2a) The offense was committed for the benefit of, or at the direction of, any criminal street gang, with the specific intent to promote, further, or assist in any criminal conduct by gang members, and the defendant was not charged with committing a conspiracy. A "criminal street gang" means any ongoing organization, association, or group of three or more persons, whether formal or informal, having as one of its primary activities the commission of felony or violent misdemeanor offenses, or delinquent acts that would be felonies or violent misdemeanors if committed by an adult, and having a common name or common identifying sign, colors, or symbols.

(3) The offense was committed for the purpose of avoiding or preventing a lawful arrest or effecting an escape from custody.

(4) The defendant was hired or paid to commit the offense.

(5) The offense was committed to disrupt or hinder the lawful exercise of any governmental function or the enforcement of laws.

(6) The offense was committed against or proximately caused serious injury to a present or former law enforcement officer, employee of the Department of Correction, jailer, fireman, emergency medical technician, ambulance attendant, justice or judge, clerk or assistant or deputy clerk of court, magistrate, prosecutor, juror, or witness against the defendant, while engaged in the performance of that person's official duties or because of the exercise of that person's official duties.

(7) The offense was especially heinous, atrocious, or cruel.

(8) The defendant knowingly created a great risk of death to more than one person by means of a weapon or device which would normally be hazardous to the lives of more than one person.

(9) The defendant held public office at the time of the offense and the offense related to the conduct of the office.

(10) The defendant was armed with or used a deadly weapon at the time of the crime.

(11) The victim was very young, or very old, or mentally or physically infirm, or handicapped.

(12) The defendant committed the offense while on pretrial release on another charge.

(13) The defendant involved a person under the age of 16 in the commission of the crime.

(14) The offense involved an attempted or actual taking of property of great monetary value or damage causing great monetary loss, or the offense involved an unusually large quantity of contraband.

(15) The defendant took advantage of a position of trust or confidence, including a domestic relationship, to commit the offense.

(16) The offense involved the sale or delivery of a controlled substance to a minor.

(16a) The offense is the manufacture of methamphetamine and was committed where a person under the age of 18 lives, was present, or was otherwise endangered by exposure to the drug, its ingredients, its by-products, or its waste.

(17) The offense for which the defendant stands convicted was committed against a victim because of the victim's race, color, religion, nationality, or country of origin.

(18) The defendant does not support the defendant's family.

(18a) The defendant has previously been adjudicated delinquent for an offense that would be a Class A, B1, B2, C, D, or E felony if committed by an adult.

(19) The serious injury inflicted upon the victim is permanent and debilitating.

(20) Any other aggravating factor reasonably related to the purposes of sentencing.

BILL SUMMARY: Under current G.S. 15A-1340.16(d)(6), it is an aggravating factor when sentencing felons if the offense was committed against or caused serious injury to any of a list of specified individuals involved in law enforcement, emergency services, custody of inmates, or judicial proceedings, because of the person's official duties or while the person was engaged in their official duties. This bill would add social workers to that list.
Source: Adapted from Bill Digest S.B. 507 (03/14/2005).

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

General

Under this bill, offenders would face an aggravated sentence for any felony committed against or proximately causing injury to a social worker while that person was engaged in his or her official duties or because of that person's official duties. As sentences in the aggravated range may be up to 25 percent longer than the maximum sentence in the presumptive range, this bill would lengthen the amount of time for which some offenders would be incarcerated and thus increase prison costs. The Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) also anticipates that costs to dispose of these cases would increase as a result of more vigorous defense and prosecution due to the potentially longer sentence for these crimes.

No data is available regarding the frequency with which the current aggravating factor provided by G.S. 15A-1340.16(d)(6) is applied or the number of offenses committed against social workers under these circumstances. However, based on the low rate at which aggravating factors are currently applied across all felony classes and the narrow expansion of the aggravating factor under G.S. 15A-1340.16(d)(6) provided by this bill, the costs associated with this legislation are not expected to be substantial.

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares prison population projections for each criminal penalty bill. The Commission assumes for each bill that increasing criminal penalties does not have a deterrent or incapacitative effect on crime. Therefore, the Fiscal Research Division does not assume savings due to deterrent effects for this bill or any criminal penalty bill.

Department of Correction

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares inmate population projections annually. The projections used for incarceration fiscal notes are based on January 2005 projections. These projections are based on historical information on incarceration and release rates under Structured Sentencing, crime rate forecasts by a technical advisory group, probation and revocation rates, and the decline (parole and maxouts) of the stock prison population sentenced under previous sentencing acts. Based on the most recent population projections and estimated available prison bed capacity, there are no surplus prison beds available for the five-year fiscal note horizon and beyond.

The impact on prison population due to this bill would depend on the number and the offense class of crimes committed against or proximately causing injury to a social worker while that person was engaged in official duties or because of that person's official duties. As the Administrative Office of the Courts' computerized Criminal Information System does not maintain data on the application of specific aggravating factors, no estimate is available in respect to the frequency with which the aggravating factor under G.S. 15A-1340.16(d)(6) is presently applied. Furthermore, because it is not known how often offenders are convicted of felonies in which the victim was a social worker, we cannot estimate the number of felons that might be sentenced in the aggravated range due to this bill. However, based on the relatively low rate of felony convictions in the aggravated range and the narrow expansion of the aggravating factor provided by this bill, the number of additional convictions with aggravated sentences due to this legislation is not expected to be substantial.

For most criminal penalty bills, the Administrative Office of the Courts provides Fiscal Research with an analysis of the fiscal impact of the specific bill. For these bills, fiscal impact is typically based on the assumption that court time will increase due to an expected increase in trials and a corresponding increase in the hours of work for judges, clerks and prosecutors. This increased court time is also expected to result in greater expenditures for jury fees and indigent defense.

AOC expects defense and prosecution would be more vigorous for felony charges in which the defendant would face an aggravated sentence if the victim was a social worker and the offense was committed because of that person's official duties or while that person was engaged in their official duties. As a result, AOC anticipates costs in superior court would increase in these cases due to increases in trial length, attorney preparation time, jury fees, and indigent defense costs.

Because no data is available on the number of felonies charged when the offense was committed against or proximately caused injury to a social worker, AOC is unable to estimate the potential cost to the Courts associated with this bill. Due to the narrow expansion of this aggravating factor and the relatively low rate at which aggravating factors are currently found in felony convictions, we do not expect the number of charges entailing increased costs because of this bill to be substantial.

Senator Fletcher Hartsell, Chairman, called the Senate Judiciary II Committee to order on April 5, 2005, with sixteen members present. He then introduced pages Darius Smith and Sarah Brown and thanked them for serving.

Senator Hartsell introduced Ms. Susan Katzenelson, Executive Director for the North Carolina Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission, to give the Committee an explanation of structured sentencing and its impact. Senators Webster and Kinnaird had questions that were answered by Senator Hartsell.

SB 486 (Rachel's Law) Senator Hartsell recognized Senator Allran to explain the bill. After his explanation, Senator Allran introduced James C. Gaither, Jr., District Attorney, and Eric R. Bellas, Chief Assistant District Attorney, both from the 25th Prosecutorial District, and invited them to speak on the bill. Senator Allran then introduced Mr. and Mrs. Lackey, grandparents of Rachel Sanchez for whom the bill was named. Mr. Lackey commented on the tragic circumstances and why he felt this bill was needed. Senator Hartsell noted changes that should possibly be made to the bill in regard to the questions from Senators Kinnaird, Forrester, Swindell and Dalton. The bill will be heard again at the April 7th meeting.

SB 588 (Expunge White-Collar Crim. Convictions.) Senator Weinstein was recognized to explain the bill. Senator Hartsell then invited Pete Powell, representing the Administrative Office of the Courts, to comment on the bill. The bill will be carried over to the April 7th meeting.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO INCREASE THE PENALTY FOR DISCHARGING CERTAIN WEAPONS INTO OCCUPIED PROPERTY IN CERTAIN CIRCUMSTANCES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 14-34.1 reads as rewritten:

(a) Any person who willfully or wantonly discharges or attempts to discharge:

(1) Any barreled weapon capable of discharging shot, bullets, pellets, or other missiles at a muzzle velocity of at least 600 feet per second; or

(2) A firearm into any building, structure, vehicle, aircraft, watercraft, or other conveyance, device, equipment, erection, or enclosure while it is occupied is guilty of a ~~Class E felony.~~felony punishable as provided by subsections (b), (c), and (d) of this section.

SENATE BILL 486:
Rachel's Law

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Sens. Allran and Snow
Date:	April 5, 2005	Summary by:	Kory J. Goldsmith
Version:	1st Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 486 would create two new criminal offenses. The first would be the offense of willfully or wantonly discharging a firearm or certain barreled weapons into an occupied dwelling, or an occupied vehicle, aircraft, watercraft or other conveyance that is being operated upon public streets, on waterways, or in any airspace. A violation of this offense would be a Class C felony. The second new offense would occur if serious injury to a person results from the commission of the discharge of the weapon under the preceding circumstances. A violation of the second offense would be a Class B2 felony.

The act becomes effective December 1, 2005 and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: A person is guilty of the crime "Discharging certain barreled weapons or a firearm into occupied property" (G.S. 14-34.1) if the following applies:

- The person willfully or wantonly discharges or attempts to discharge a firearm or a barreled weapon;
- Into property;
- That is occupied when the weapon is discharged.

North Carolina courts have held that the property is occupied if someone is actually present at the time of weapon is discharged. The person is guilty of the offense only if he or she knows, or has reasonable grounds to believe, that the property is occupied.

An act is done willfully when it is done intentionally and without an honest belief that there is an excuse or justification for it. An act is done wantonly when it is done with conscious and intentional disregard of and indifference to the rights and safety of others and without care for the consequences, even though the offender had not formed an intention to harm anyone.

Commission of this crime is a Class E felony. Assuming no prior convictions and in the absence of aggravating or mitigating factors, a Class E felony is punishable by a minimum of 20-25 months intermediate or active punishment.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 486 would create two new offenses having to do with the discharge of a firearm into certain occupied structures. It would be a Class C felony for a person to discharge a firearm into an occupied:

- dwelling; or
- vehicle, aircraft, watercraft, or other conveyance that is being operated upon a public street, highway, public vehicular area, waterway, or in any airspace.

Assuming no prior convictions and in the absence of aggravating or mitigating factors, a Class C felony is punishable by a minimum of 58 to 73 months of active punishment.

The second new crime would occur if serious injury resulted from the commission of the new crime described above. What qualifies as serious injury would be a question of fact, but it has been delineated somewhat by case law to include, "physical injury that causes great pain and suffering... or serious mental injury". It is a lesser standard than 'serious bodily injury', used elsewhere in the criminal statutes.

Assuming no prior convictions and in the absence of aggravating or mitigating factors, a Class B2 felony is punishable by a minimum of 125-157 months of active punishment.

BACKGROUND: Under current law, G.S. 14-34.1 does not provide for an increased penalty in situations where violation of the offense results in injury to another. While G.S. 14-32(a) (Assault with a Deadly Weapon with Intent to Kill Inflicting Serious Injury) is a Class C felony, it probably cannot be used in situations where the defendant discharged the weapon into occupied property, but did not have a specific intent to harm a particular person.

TECHNICAL CONSIDERATIONS:

The North Carolina Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission has reviewed the offense classifications for the 1st Edition of the bill and found both sections to be inconsistent with the offense classification criteria for the proposed classes.

Note: Of the 27,830 felony convictions in FY 2003/04, 2,914 convictions were excluded from this table. These convictions did not fit within the sentencing grid due to discrepant offense classes, prior record levels, or for other reasons (such as consecutive sentencing or extraordinary mitigation). Death and life without parole sentences were excluded from the calculation of the average minimum and maximum sentences.

BILL: Supporters say 'Rachel's Law' would send 'serious' message to shooters

Setzer is one of five sponsors of the bill. The bill is expected to be referred to a committee next week.

Under current state law, shooting into an occupied building or vehicle could lead to 20 to 25 months in prison for a defendant without a prior record and without aggravating or mitigating circumstances.

If the vehicle is on a public road, the bill would increase the penalty to between four years, 10 months and six years, one month. If the shooting further results in serious injury, the penalty would increase to between 10 years, five months and 13 years, one month.

The bill would not have affected Rachel's case because the shooter was a juvenile, but supporters said that it would send a message.

"If you're going to do this, it's a serious thing that you're doing," said Rep. Mark Hilton, R-Catawba, another sponsor. "If you shoot into a moving vehicle, it's hard to say, 'I didn't mean to harm anyone.'"

Besides vehicles on public roads, the bill would also apply to shooting into aircraft in the state's airspace or shooting into watercraft on any of the state's waterways.

The other three sponsors are Sen. Austin Allran, R-Catawba, Sen. John Snow, D-Cherokee, and Rep. Mark Hollo, R-Taylorsville.

Bill would stiffen penalties for shooting into cars

RALEIGH — The minimum penalty for shooting into an occupied vehicle on a public road and causing serious injury could grow from less than two years in prison to nearly 10 1/2, under a bill filed in the General Assembly on Thursday that was inspired by a 2003 shooting.

Sponsors of the bill, titled "Rachel's Law," said it's intended to deter incidents such as the February 2003 shooting of Rachel Sanchez while she and family members were traveling through Conover on Interstate 40.

Sanchez

Rachel, of Virginia, was 4 years old at the time and was visiting family. They were traveling down I-40 when a 15-year-old boy in a yard near the highway fired at their vehicle. The bullet went through a window and hit Rachel in the head, causing brain damage from which she may never fully recover.

The boy was sentenced to 12 months on probation.

"People were scared to death when that happened," said state Rep. Mitch Setzer, R-Catawba. "This is an attempt to keep it from happening to someone else."

(b) Whenever a person who has not previously been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States, the laws of this State, or any other state, pleads guilty to or is guilty of a white-collar criminal offense, the person may file a petition in the court where he or she was convicted for expunction of the white-collar criminal offense from the person's criminal record. The petition cannot be filed earlier than 10 years after the date of the conviction, any period of probation, any period of post-release supervision, or the completion of the person's sentence, whichever occurs later. The petition shall contain, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) An affidavit by the petitioner that he or she has been of good behavior for the 10-year period since the date of conviction of the white collar criminal offense in question or other later and appropriate time period as defined by this subsection and has not been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state.
(2) Verified affidavits of two persons who are not related to the petitioner or to each other by blood or marriage that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which the petitioner lives and that the person's character and reputation are good.
(3) A statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted.
(4) Affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, where appropriate, and sheriff of the county in which the petitioner was convicted and, if different, the county of which the petitioner is a resident, showing that the petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of this State at anytime prior to the conviction for the white-collar criminal offense in question or during the appropriate 10-year period as defined by this subsection following that conviction.
(5) An affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the court wherein the case was tried resulting in conviction. The district attorney shall have 10 days thereafter in which to file any objection thereto and shall be duly notified as to the date of the hearing of the petition.

The judge to whom the petition is presented may call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the 10-year period that the judge deems desirable.

(c) If the court, after hearing, finds that the petitioner had remained of good behavior and been free of conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, other than a traffic violation, for 10 years from the date of conviction of the white-collar criminal offense in question or other appropriate time period as defined by subsection (b) of this section and the petitioner has no outstanding restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner, then the court shall order that the petitioner be restored, in the contemplation of the law, to the status the petitioner occupied before the arrest or indictment or information for the white-collar criminal offense. No person as to whom such order has been entered shall be held thereafter under any provision of any laws to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his or her failure to recite or acknowledge such arrest, indictment, information, trial, or response to any inquiry made of the person for any purpose.

(d) The court shall also order that the conviction for the white-collar criminal offense be expunged from the records of the court and direct all law enforcement agencies bearing record of the same to expunge their records of the conviction. The clerk shall forward a certified copy of the order to the sheriff, chief of police, or other arresting agency. The sheriff, chief, or head of any other arresting agency shall then transmit the copy of the order with a form supplied by the State Bureau of Investigation to the State Bureau of Investigation, and the State Bureau of Investigation shall forward the order to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(e) Any person entitled to an expunction under this section may also apply to the court for an order expunging DNA records when the person's DNA record or profile has been included in the State DNA Database, and the person's DNA sample is stored in the State DNA Databank. A copy of the application for expunction of the DNA record or DNA sample shall be served on the district attorney for the judicial district in which the charges of the white-collar criminal offense were brought not less than 20 days prior to the date of the hearing on the application. If the application for expunction is granted, a certified copy of the court order issued under subsection (c) of this section shall be attached to an order of expunction. The order of expunction shall include the name and address of the defendant and the defendant's attorney and shall direct the SBI to send a letter documenting expunction as required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Upon receiving an order of expunction entered pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, the SBI shall purge the DNA record and all other identifying information from the State DNA Database and the DNA sample stored in the State DNA Databank covered by the order, except that the order shall not apply to other offenses committed by the individual that qualify for inclusion in the State DNA Database and the State DNA Databank. A letter documenting expunction of the DNA record and destruction of the DNA sample shall be sent by the SBI to the defendant and the defendant's attorney at the address specified by the court in the order of expunction.

(g) The clerk of superior court in each county in North Carolina shall, as soon as practicable after each term of court in his or her county, file with the Administrative Office of the Courts the name of those persons granted expunctions under the provisions of this section, and the Administrative Office of the Courts shall maintain a confidential file containing the name of persons granted expunctions. The information contained in the file shall be disclosed only to judges of the General Court of Justice of North Carolina for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person charged with an offense has been previously granted an expunction.

(h) A person who files a petition for expunction of a criminal record under this section must pay the clerk of superior court a fee of sixty-five dollars ($65.00) at the time the petition is filed. Fees collected under this subsection shall be deposited in the General Fund. This subsection does not apply to petitions filed by an indigent."

SECTION 2. This act becomes effective December 1, 2005.

SENATE BILL 588:
Expunge White-Collar Crim. Convictions.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Weinstein
Date:	April 5, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 588 would provide for the expunction of convictions for certain white-collar criminal offenses. The bill would require a waiting period of 10 years after the conviction; no prior or subsequent felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offenses; and an affidavit attesting to the petitioner's character. The act would become effective December 1, 2005

CURRENT LAW: Article 5 of the Criminal Procedure Act provides for the expunction of criminal records of certain criminal charges or convictions. Expunction is the process by which a record of criminal conviction is removed by order of the court, and the individual is restored to the status he or she occupied before the arrest or indictment. General Statute 15A-145 (Expunction of records for first offenders under the age of 18 at the time of conviction of misdemeanor; expunction of certain other misdemeanors) allows a person convicted of a misdemeanor to file a petition for expunction of the misdemeanor from his or her criminal record if the person was under 18 at the time of a conviction or, in the case of a misdemeanor alcohol possession charge, the person was under 21 at the time of conviction. The petition may not be filed sooner than 2 years after the conviction or completion of probation and must include the following [1]:

1) an affidavit of good behavior for the two years following conviction, stating that the petitioner has not been convicted of any felony or non-traffic misdemeanor charge;

2) two affidavits of good character from persons unrelated to the petitioner;

3) a statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted; and

4) affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, and sheriff of the county of the offense and where the petitioner resides showing that petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offense prior to or in the two years since the conviction in question.

If the court finds in favor of the petitioner the clerk of superior court and the appropriate law enforcement agencies must expunge the record of the conviction.

Other sections of Article 5 provide for "Expunction of records when charges are dismissed or there are finding of not guilty as a result of identity fraud"[2] and "Expunction of DNA records when charges are dismissed on appeal or pardon of innocence is granted."[3].

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would add a new section to Article 5 "Expunction of Records" of Chapter 15A "Criminal Procedure Act" of the General Statutes. The proposed G.S. 15A-149 – "Expunction of records for conviction of certain white-collar criminal offenses if there are no subsequent criminal convictions for at least 10 years" would apply to persons with no criminal record prior to the conviction

[1] G.S. 15A-145(a)(1) through (4).
[2] G.S. 15A-147.
[3] G.S. 15A-148.

for which expunction is sought. "White-collar criminal offense" would include the following Articles of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes:

- Article 5 – Counterfeiting and Issuing Monetary Substitutes;
- Article 16 – Larceny;
- Article 18 – Embezzlement;
- Article 19 – False Pretenses and Cheats;
- Article 19A – Obtaining Property by False or Fraudulent Use of Credit Device or Other Means;
- Article 19B – Financial Transaction Card Crime Act;
- Article 19C – Financial Identity Fraud;
- Article 20 – Frauds;
- Article 21 – Forgery;
- Article 56 – Debt Adjusting;
- Article 58 – Records, Tapes, and Other Recorded Devices; and
- Article 60 – Computer-Related Crime.

And the following offenses:

- Chapter 66 – Commerce and Business;
- General Statute 105-236 – Certain Tax Penalties

The procedure to be followed by the petitioner is modeled along the lines of the existing procedures for expunction of records, but with a waiting period of 10 years from the date of conviction or completion of probation (whichever is later). The petition would require at least the following:

1) an affidavit of good behavior for the 10 years following conviction, stating that the petitioner has not been convicted of any felony or non-traffic misdemeanor charge during that time;

2) two affidavits of good character from persons unrelated to petitioner;

3) a statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted;

4) affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, and sheriff of the county of the offense and where the petitioner resides showing that petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offense prior to or in the 10 years since the conviction in question; and

5) an affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

If the court finds in favor of the petitioner the clerk of superior court and the appropriate law enforcement agencies will expunge their records of the conviction and the petitioner will be entitled to apply to the court for an order expunging the petitioner's DNA record from the State DNA Database and the petitioner's DNA sample stored in the State DNA Databank.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE EXPUNCTION OF CONVICTIONS FOR CERTAIN NONVIOLENT CRIMINAL OFFENSES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 5 of Chapter 15A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 15A-149. Expunction of records for conviction of certain nonviolent criminal offenses if there are no subsequent criminal convictions for at least 15 years.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "nonviolent criminal offense" means a misdemeanor, Class H felony, or Class I felony; however, the term does not include any of the following:

(1) An offense that includes assault as an essential element of the offense.

(2) An offense for which the offender must register under Article 27A of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes.

(3) An offense that includes the possession or use of a firearm as an essential element of the offense.

(4) An offense for which the offender was armed with or used a firearm.

(5) An offense that is trafficking under G.S. 90-95(h).

(b) Whenever a person who has not previously been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States, the laws of this State, or any other state, pleads guilty to or is guilty of a nonviolent criminal offense, the person may file a petition in the court where he or she was convicted for expunction of the nonviolent criminal offense from the person's criminal record. The petition cannot be filed earlier than 15 years after the date of the conviction or any period of probation, whichever occurs later. The petition shall contain, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) An affidavit by the petitioner that he or she has been of good behavior for the 15-year period since the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and has not been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state.

(2) Verified affidavits of two persons who are not related to the petitioner or to each other by blood or marriage, that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which the petitioner lives and that the person's character and reputation are good.

(3) A statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted.

(4) Affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, where appropriate, and sheriff of the county in which the petitioner was convicted and, if different, the county of which the petitioner is a resident, showing that the petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of this State at any time prior to the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense in question or during the 15-year period following that conviction.

(5) An affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the court wherein the case was tried resulting in conviction. The district attorney shall have 10 days thereafter in which to file any objection thereto and shall be duly notified as to the date of the hearing of the petition.

The judge to whom the petition is presented may call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the 15-year period that the judge deems desirable.

(c) If the court, after hearing, finds that the petitioner had remained of good behavior and been free of conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, other than a traffic violation, for 15 years from the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and the petitioner has no outstanding restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner, then the court shall order that the petitioner be restored, in the contemplation of the law, to the status the petitioner occupied before the arrest or indictment or information for the nonviolent criminal offense. No person as to whom such order has been entered shall be held thereafter under any provision of any laws to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his or her failure to recite or acknowledge such arrest, indictment, information, trial, or response to any inquiry made of the person for any purpose.

(d) The court shall also order that the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense be expunged from the records of the court and direct all law enforcement agencies bearing record of the same to expunge their records of the conviction. The clerk shall forward a certified copy of the order to the sheriff, chief of police, or other arresting agency. The sheriff, chief, or head of any other arresting agency shall then transmit the copy of the order with a form supplied by the State Bureau of Investigation to the State Bureau of Investigation, and the State Bureau of Investigation shall forward the order to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(e) Any person entitled to an expunction under this section may also apply to the court for an order expunging DNA records when the person's DNA record or profile has been included in the State DNA Database, and the person's DNA sample is stored in the State DNA Databank. A copy of the application for expunction of the DNA record or DNA sample shall be served on the district attorney for the judicial district in which the charges of the nonviolent criminal offense were brought not less than 20 days prior to the date of the hearing on the application. The order of expunction shall include the name and address of the defendant and the defendant's attorney and shall direct the SBI to send a letter documenting expunction as required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Upon receiving an order of expunction entered pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, the SBI shall purge the DNA record and all other identifying information from the State DNA Database and the DNA sample stored in the State DNA Databank covered by the order, except that the order shall not apply to other offenses committed by the individual that qualify for inclusion in the State DNA Database and the State DNA Databank. A letter documenting expunction of the DNA record and destruction of the DNA sample shall be sent by the SBI to the defendant and the defendant's attorney at the address specified by the court in the order of expunction.

(g) The clerk of superior court in each county in North Carolina shall, as soon as practicable after each term of court in his or her county, file with the Administrative Office of the Courts, the name of those persons granted expunctions under the provisions of this section, and the Administrative Office of the Courts shall maintain a confidential file containing the name of persons granted expunctions. The information contained in the file shall be disclosed only to judges of the General Court of Justice of North Carolina for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person charged with an offense has been previously granted an expunction.

(h) A person who files a petition for expunction of a criminal record under this section must pay the clerk of superior court a fee of sixty-five dollars ($65.00) at the time the petition is filed. Fees collected under this subsection shall be deposited in the General Fund. This subsection does not apply to petitions filed by an indigent."

'No regard for human life'

Murder suspects face shooting charges for second time in a year.

By Michael Willard
O-N-E editor

When Erica Payne was shot and killed during a drive-by shooting in Sherrills Ford on Feb. 7, the incident stirred grim memories for another area family.

Then, as suspects in Payne's murder were announced, those disturbing memories turned to horror.

Rees

Reid

According to Catawba County Sheriff's Department investigators, Payne died after she was hit by a bullet that pierced the wall of a Sherrills Ford mobile home during a drive-by shooting. Shortly after the incident, police made several arrests in connection to the case including, Terrence Demario Williams, 20, of Troutman, Adam Robert Rees, 19, of Sherrills Ford, Bernie Deangelo Brunelle, 20, of Columbia, S.C., Robert Farmer, 27, of Sherrills Ford and Antione Reid, 19, of Catawba.

For one Sherrills Ford area family, some of those suspects now charged with murder are familiar. About a year ago, three of those suspects were allegedly involved in a shooting that injured their son and left a bullet in his chest for life.

In January 2004, Adam Christopher Hunt was at a party at Deangelo Brunelle's home in Sherrills Ford, where he was involved in an altercation with Rees and Reid. According to police reports from 2004 that altercation concluded when Hunt was shot in the chest and arm.

"Evidently he went to a party at the house and they had a confrontation, and he (Adam Hunt) accused them of stealing something," Hunt's father, John Hunt said, adding his son believed $20 and a marijuana bowl were stolen from him. "When he confronted them, they pulled a gun on him. When he started to leave, he got into my truck and took out a gun that belonged to me and held it in the window."

John Hunt displayed the gun, Reid and Rees began shooting, according to John Hunt.

"When he came home that Sunday morning, he [had been] shot through the arm and the chest and they shot the car up," John Hunt said, adding he believed one of the individuals was using an automatic pistol, while the other was using a revolver.

> "I am really concerned about putting somebody like this on the street. They already shot two people. They don't have concern for the life or well-being of another person."
> John Hunt

Following the 2004 incident, Rees was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill inflicting serious injury (AWDWIKISI), as well as discharging a weapon into occupied property.

Reid was charged with the same charges.

During ensuing investigation immediately following the 2004 shooting, police found about a half-pound of marijuana in the home of Brunelle, which led to drug distribution charges against both Rees and Reid.

According to Assistant District Attorney Sean McGinnis, Rees ultimately pleaded guilty to some of the charges in the case and received a probation sentence.

According to court records obtain by the O-N-E from the Catawba County clerk of court, Rees' AWDWIKISI charge was reduced to a misdemeanor charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The charge of discharging a firearm into occupied property was dismissed in the plea agreement. Meanwhile, a felony charge of possession with intent to sell or distribute marijuana was reduced to felony possession of marijuana, court records indicate. In the plea agreement, Rees was sentenced to 40 months of supervised probation.

Reid, McGinnis said, "exercised his right to a jury by his peers and was found not guilty." The result of that trial came about three weeks ago, McGinnis said.

The outcome of those cases left John Hunt appalled.

"Rees pleaded guilty and only got a few months probation ... I'm appalled that he just got probation after admitting his guilt," he said, adding he testified during Reid's trial, which didn't include evidence such as shell casings or firearms believed to be used in the incident. "The defense attorney for Antoine said, 'Since he (Rees) already confessed there is no evidence my client ever shot.' So he was acquitted."

John Hunt said he saw Rees during Reid's trial.

"He sat there at the trial and looked at me and just giggled, like 'Hey, you know what I did, and I didn't get anything for this,'" he said.

Following the result of cases against Reid and Rees, the pair was implicated in the murder of Payne, and John Hunt argues the 18-year-old girl's death could have been avoided.

"They let these guys out of jail and they turned around and shot in the house," John Hunt said. "It is totally uncalled for and if people aren't outraged, they should be."

Some people in the Sherrills Ford community are outraged, he said. Petitions present at restaurants and businesses and circulating throughout the southeastern Catawba County community ask that suspects in the case, including Reid, Rees and Brunelle, be kept in jail. Specifically it asks "justice authorities to fulfill their obligation to prevent these people from repeating such a heinous crime."

"I am really concerned about putting somebody like this on the street. They already shot two people. They don't have concern for the life or well-being of another person," John Hunt said. "That is why laws were enacted to protect the public. I think letting these guys loose would not be in the public's best interest."

Fur John Hunt and his son, the 2004 shooting led to a positive outcome.

"My Adam was heading in the wrong direction prior to getting shot," John Hunt said. "He really turned around after that. He is going to church and has settled down. He now understands that he is mortal, and he still has a bullet from where he was shot in his chest as a reminder of that night.

"It has been a positive thing for him, and it has turned his life around. I know he would never associate with those guys again," he continued. "It has been a Godsend for us. We prayed about it and we thanked Him and like to see him now headed in the right direction."

Still, John Hunt has concer for the rest of the community.

"It concerns me. As a parent, am concerned for other people children," he said. "We woul just like to see the law take it course. ... These guys have r regard whatsoever for huma

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Sens. Allran and Snow
Date:	April 7, 2005	Summary by:	Kory J. Goldsmith KJG
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute S486-CSRC-10[v.6]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 486 would create two new criminal offenses. The first would be the offense of willfully or wantonly discharging a firearm or certain barreled weapons into an occupied dwelling, or an occupied vehicle, aircraft, watercraft or other conveyance that is being operated upon public streets, on railroad tracks, on waterways, or in any airspace. A violation of this offense would be a Class C felony. The second new offense would occur if serious injury to a person results from the discharge or attempted discharge of a firearm or barreled weapon into any occupied building, structure, vehicle, watercraft or aircraft. A violation of the second new offense would be a Class B2 felony.

The Proposed Committee Substitute differs from the original bill by broadening the instances when the B2 felony might occur and by making the C felony applicable to trains operating on railroad tracks.

The act becomes effective December 1, 2005 and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: A person is guilty of the crime "Discharging certain barreled weapons or a firearm into occupied property" (G.S. 14-34.1) if the following applies:

- The person willfully or wantonly discharges or attempts to discharge a firearm or a barreled weapon;
- Into property;
- That is occupied when the weapon is discharged.

North Carolina courts have held that the property is occupied if someone is actually present at the time of weapon is discharged. The person is guilty of the offense only if he or she knows, or has reasonable grounds to believe, that the property is occupied.

An act is done willfully when it is done intentionally and without an honest belief that there is an excuse or justification for it. An act is done wantonly when it is done with conscious and intentional disregard of and indifference to the rights and safety of others and without care for the consequences, even though the offender had not formed an intention to harm anyone.

Commission of this crime is a Class E felony. Assuming no prior convictions and in the absence of aggravating or mitigating factors, a Class E felony is punishable by a minimum of 20-25 months intermediate or active punishment.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 486 would create two new offenses having to do with the discharge of a firearm into certain occupied structures. It would be a Class C felony for a person to discharge a firearm into an occupied:

- dwelling; or

- vehicle, aircraft, watercraft, or other conveyance that is being operated upon a public street, highway, public vehicular area, railroad track, waterway, or in any airspace.

Assuming no prior convictions and in the absence of aggravating or mitigating factors, a Class C felony is punishable by a minimum of 58 to 73 months of active punishment.

The second new crime would occur if:

- The person willfully or wantonly discharges or attempts to discharge a firearm or a barreled weapon;
- Into property;
- That is occupied when the weapon is discharged; and
- Causes serious injury.

What qualifies as a serious injury would be a question of fact, but it has been delineated somewhat by case law to include, "physical injury that causes great pain and suffering... or serious mental injury". It is a lesser standard than 'serious bodily injury', used elsewhere in the criminal statutes.

Assuming no prior convictions and in the absence of aggravating or mitigating factors, a Class B2 felony is punishable by a minimum of 125-157 months of active punishment.

The only other B2 felony is Second Degree Murder.

BACKGROUND: Under current law, G.S. 14-34.1 does not provide for an increased penalty in situations where violation of the offense results in injury to another. While G.S. 14-32(a) (Assault with a Deadly Weapon with Intent to Kill Inflicting Serious Injury) is a Class C felony, it probably cannot be used in situations where the defendant discharged the weapon into occupied property, but did not have a specific intent to harm a particular person.

TECHNICAL CONSIDERATIONS:

The North Carolina Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission has reviewed the offense classifications for the 1st Edition of the bill and found both sections to be inconsistent with the offense classification criteria for the proposed classes. The PCS uses the same offense classifications as the 1st edition of the bill.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE EXPUNCTION OF CONVICTIONS FOR CERTAIN NONVIOLENT CRIMINAL OFFENSES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 5 of Chapter 15A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 15A-149. Expunction of records for conviction of certain nonviolent criminal offenses if there are no subsequent criminal convictions for at least 15 years.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "nonviolent criminal offense" means a misdemeanor, Class H felony, or Class I felony; however, the term does not include any of the following:

(1) An offense that includes assault as an essential element of the offense.

(2) An offense for which the offender must register under Article 27A of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes.

(3) An offense that includes the possession or use of a firearm as an essential element of the offense.

(4) An offense for which the offender was armed with or used a firearm.

(5) An offense that is trafficking under G.S. 90-95(h).

(b) Whenever a person who has not previously been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States, the laws of this State, or any other state, pleads guilty to or is guilty of a nonviolent criminal offense, the person may file a petition in the court where he or she was convicted for expunction of the nonviolent criminal offense from the person's criminal record. The petition cannot be filed earlier than 15 years after the date of the conviction or any period of probation, whichever occurs later. The petition shall contain, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) An affidavit by the petitioner that he or she has been of good behavior for the 15-year period since the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and has not been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state.

(2) Verified affidavits of two persons who are not related to the petitioner or to each other by blood or marriage, that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which the petitioner lives and that the person's character and reputation are good.

(3) A statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted.

(4) Affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, where appropriate, and sheriff of the county in which the petitioner was convicted and, if different, the county of which the petitioner is a resident, showing that the petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of this State at any time prior to the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense in question or during the 15-year period following that conviction.

(5) An affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the court wherein the case was tried resulting in conviction. The district attorney shall have 10 days thereafter in which to file any objection thereto and shall be duly notified as to the date of the hearing of the petition.

The judge to whom the petition is presented may call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the 15-year period that the judge deems desirable.

(c) If the court, after hearing, finds that the petitioner had remained of good behavior and been free of conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, other than a traffic violation, for 15 years from the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and the petitioner has no outstanding restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner, then the court shall order that the petitioner be restored, in the contemplation of the law, to the status the petitioner occupied before the arrest or indictment or information for the nonviolent criminal offense. No person as to whom such order has been entered shall be held thereafter under any provision of any laws to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his or her failure to recite or acknowledge such arrest, indictment, information, trial, or response to any inquiry made of the person for any purpose.

(d) The court shall also order that the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense be expunged from the records of the court and direct all law enforcement agencies bearing record of the same to expunge their records of the conviction. The clerk shall forward a certified copy of the order to the sheriff, chief of police, or other arresting agency. The sheriff, chief, or head of any other arresting agency shall then transmit the copy of the order with a form supplied by the State Bureau of Investigation to the State Bureau of Investigation, and the State Bureau of Investigation shall forward the order to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(e) Any person entitled to an expunction under this section may also apply to the court for an order expunging DNA records when the person's DNA record or profile has been included in the State DNA Database, and the person's DNA sample is stored in the State DNA Databank. A copy of the application for expunction of the DNA record or DNA sample shall be served on the district attorney for the judicial district in which the charges of the nonviolent criminal offense were brought not less than 20 days prior to the date of the hearing on the application. The order of expunction shall include the name and address of the defendant and the defendant's attorney and shall direct the SBI to send a letter documenting expunction as required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Upon receiving an order of expunction entered pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, the SBI shall purge the DNA record and all other identifying information from the State DNA Database and the DNA sample stored in the State DNA Databank covered by the order, except that the order shall not apply to other offenses committed by the individual that qualify for inclusion in the State DNA Database and the State DNA Databank. A letter documenting expunction of the DNA record and destruction of the DNA sample shall be sent by the SBI to the defendant and the defendant's attorney at the address specified by the court in the order of expunction.

(g) The clerk of superior court in each county in North Carolina shall, as soon as practicable after each term of court in his or her county, file with the Administrative Office of the Courts, the name of those persons granted expunctions under the provisions of this section, and the Administrative Office of the Courts shall maintain a confidential file containing the name of persons granted expunctions. The information contained in the file shall be disclosed only to judges of the General Court of Justice of North Carolina for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person charged with an offense has been previously granted an expunction.

(h) A person who files a petition for expunction of a criminal record under this section must pay the clerk of superior court a fee of one hundred dollars ($100.00) at the time the petition is filed. Fifty dollars ($50.00) of the fee collected under this subsection shall be remitted to the North Carolina Department of Justice to pay the costs of the SBI purging records pursuant to receipt of an order of expunction. The remaining fifty dollars ($50.00) of the fee shall be remitted to the Administrative Office of the Courts to pay the costs associated with implementation of the provisions of this Article. This subsection does not apply to petitions filed by an indigent."

EXPUNCTION OF CRIMINAL RECORDS

This is a summary of North Carolina law concerning the expunction of criminal records. Expunction is the process by which a record of criminal conviction is removed by order of the court, and the individual is restored to the status he or she occupied before the arrest or indictment. The terms 'expunction' and 'expungement' are often used interchangeably, and both appear in the statutes. In very limited circumstances, North Carolina law permits the expunction of certain offenses from a person's criminal record. There are several requirements that must be met for expunction and each individual can generally be granted only one expungement in his or her lifetime. Any person seeking advice regarding a specific case should contact an attorney of his or her choice for more information.

Expunction When Charges Dismissed/Not Guilty

- Charges Dismissed Or Person Found Not Guilty - G.S. 15A-146 provides for the expunction of records when charges are dismissed or there is a finding of not guilty. A person charged with any crime, whether a misdemeanor or a felony, who is not convicted of that offense, can apply to have the charge expunged. Persons who have previously received an expungement under this or other specified provisions, or persons who have previously been convicted of a felony would not qualify under this provision.

- Charges Dismissed Or Person Found Not Guilty As A Result Of Identity Fraud - G.S. 15A-147 provides for the expunction of records when a charge is dismissed or there is a finding of not guilty in a case where a person is charged with a crime as a result of someone else using the person's identifying information to commit an infraction or crime. When the charge against the person is dismissed, a finding of not guilty is made, or the conviction is set aside, the person can apply to have the charge expunged. There is no limit to the number of times a person who is the victim of identity fraud can qualify for an expungement under this provision.

- Charges Dismissed Or Person Found Not Guilty Of Certain Drug-Related Offenses Committed While Under The Age Of 21 - G.S. 90-96(d) provides for the expunction of records when a person is charged with misdemeanor possession of a controlled substance or possession of less than 1 gram of cocaine, and the charges are subsequently dismissed or there is a finding of not guilty. An order of expunction must be entered if the court determines that the person was not over 21 at the time any of the proceedings occurred. A similar provision is contained in G.S. 113.14(d) with regard to misdemeanor possession of controlled substances in violation of the Toxic Vapors Act and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Expunction When The Offender Was Under A Specified Age At The Time Of The Offense or Conviction

- Juvenile Records - G.S. 7B-3200 provides for a person who has reached the age of 18 to petition for the expunction of records relating to the person's having been adjudicated delinquent or undisciplined while a minor. This provision does not allow the expunction of records relating to an offense that would have been a Class A-E felony if committed by an adult. The statute also provides for expunction of juvenile records when a juvenile petition was dismissed without adjudication

- Convictions of Misdemeanor While Under The Age Of 18 - G.S. 15A-145 provides for the expunction of records for first offenders under the age of 18 at the time of conviction of a misdemeanor. A person who is convicted of a misdemeanor prior to reaching the age of 18 may have that conviction expunged after 2 years, assuming there have been no other convictions within that time period.

- Misdemeanor Possession Of Alcohol While Under the Age of 21 - G.S. 15A-145 also provides for the expunction of records for first offenders under the age of 21 at the time of conviction of misdemeanor possession of alcohol. A person who is convicted of misdemeanor possession of alcohol while under the age of 21 may have that conviction expunged after 2 years, assuming there have been no other convictions in that time period.

Expunction Of Convictions For Certain Drug-Related Offenses

- Conditional Discharge And Expunction For First Offenders - G.S. 90-96 and G.S. 90-113.14 provide for the conditional discharge and expunction of records for first offenders, and apply to persons who have not previously been convicted of any offense under North Carolina's Controlled Substances Act, Toxic Vapors Act, or Drug Paraphernalia Act, or under corresponding federal law or the laws of another state. When such person pleads guilty to or is found guilty of misdemeanor drug possession, possession of less than one gram of cocaine, possessing drug paraphernalia, or inhaling or possessing any substance having the property of releasing toxic vapors or fumes, the court may, without entering a judgment of guilt and with the consent of such person, defer further proceedings and place the offender on probation. The probation, if imposed, must be for a period of at least one year and require, absent extenuating circumstances, that the defendant who was found guilty or pleads guilty enroll in and successfully complete, within 150 days of the date of the imposition of probation, the program of instruction at the drug education school approved by the Department of Health and Human Services. Upon fulfillment of the terms and conditions of probation, the person is discharged and the proceedings against him are dismissed. Discharge and dismissal under G.S. 90-96 and G.S. 90-113.14 may occur only once with respect to any person. Both G.S. 90-96(e) and 90-113.14(e) provide that, upon the discharge and dismissal of the proceedings, an offender who was not over 21 years of age at the time of the offense may apply to the court for an order of expunction. The court may, upon application of the person not sooner than 12 months after conviction, order cancellation of the judgment of conviction and expunction of the records.

SENATE BILL 559:
Expunction/Convictions of Nonviolent Crimes.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Kinnaird
Date:	April 5, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 559 would provide for the expunction of convictions for certain nonviolent criminal offenses. The bill would require a waiting period of 15 years after the conviction; no prior or subsequent felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offenses; and an affidavit attesting to the petitioner's character. The Proposed Committee Substitute would set the fee for filing an application for expunction at $100.00, to be divided equally between the Department of Justice and the Administrative Office of the Courts. The act would become effective December 1, 2005.

CURRENT LAW: Article 5 of the Criminal Procedure Act provides for the expunction of criminal records of certain criminal charges or convictions. Expunction is the process by which a record of criminal conviction is removed by order of the court, and the individual is restored to the status he or she occupied before the arrest or indictment. General Statute 15A-145 (Expunction of records for first offenders under the age of 18 at the time of conviction of misdemeanor; expunction of certain other misdemeanors) allows a person convicted of a misdemeanor to file a petition for expunction of the misdemeanor from his or her criminal record if the person was under 18 at the time of a conviction or, in the case of a misdemeanor alcohol possession charge, the person was under 21 at the time of conviction. The petition may not be filed sooner than 2 years after the conviction or completion of probation and must include the following [1]:

1) an affidavit of good behavior for the two years following conviction, stating that the petitioner has not been convicted of any felony or non-traffic misdemeanor charge;

2) two affidavits of good character from persons unrelated to the petitioner;

3) a statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted; and

4) affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, and sheriff of the county of the offense and where the petitioner resides showing that petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offense prior to or in the two years since the conviction in question.

If the court finds in favor of the petitioner the clerk of superior court and the appropriate law enforcement agencies must expunge the record of the conviction.

Other sections of Article 5 provide for "Expunction of records when charges are dismissed or there are finding of not guilty as a result of identity fraud"[2] and "Expunction of DNA records when charges are dismissed on appeal or pardon of innocence is granted."[3].

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would add a new section to Article 5 "Expunction of Records" of Chapter 15A "Criminal Procedure Act" of the General Statutes. The proposed G.S. 15A-149 – "Expunction of records for conviction of certain nonviolent criminal offenses if there are no subsequent criminal convictions for at least 15 years" would apply to persons with no criminal record prior to the conviction for which expunction is sought. "Nonviolent criminal offense" would include misdemeanors, Class H and Class I felonies, but would specifically exclude the following offenses:

[1] G.S. 15A-145(a)(1) through (4).
[2] G.S. 15A-147.
[3] G.S. 15A-148.

- an offense that includes assault as an essential element of the offense;
- an offense included in Article 27A "Sex Offender and Public Protection Registration Programs"[4];
- an offense involving a firearm;
- a drug trafficking offense[5].

The procedure to be followed by the petitioner is modeled along the lines of the existing procedures for expunction of records, but with a waiting period of 15 years from the date of conviction or completion of probation (whichever is later). The petition would require at least the following:

1) an affidavit of good behavior for the 15 years following conviction, stating that the petitioner has not been convicted of any felony or non-traffic misdemeanor charge during that time;

2) two affidavits of good character from persons unrelated to petitioner;

3) a statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted;

4) affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, and sheriff of the county of the offense and where the petitioner resides showing that petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offense prior to or in the 15 years since the conviction in question; and

5) an affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The bill would set the filing fee at $100.00, to be divided equally between the North Carolina Department of Justice and the Administrative Office of the Courts to cover costs associated with implementation of provisions of the bill.

If the court finds in favor of the petitioner the clerk of superior court and the appropriate law enforcement agencies will expunge their records of the conviction and the petitioner will be entitled to apply to the court for an order expunging the petitioner's DNA record from the State DNA Database and the petitioner's DNA sample stored in the State DNA Databank.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO ADD PSEUDOEPHEDRINE, A CRITICAL INGREDIENT IN THE MANUFACTURE OF THE ILLEGAL DRUG METHAMPHETAMINE, TO SCHEDULE V OF THE CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES LIST, TO APPROPRIATE FUNDS TO THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TO COMBAT THE MANUFACTURE OF METHAMPHETAMINE, TO MAKE THE MANUFACTURE OF METHAMPHETAMINE IN A DWELLING THAT IS ONE OF FOUR OR MORE CONTIGUOUS DWELLINGS AN AGGRAVATING FACTOR, AND TO AUTHORIZE THE LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMISSION TO STUDY THE ISSUES RELATING TO THE ABUSE OF METHAMPHETAMINE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 90-93 reads as rewritten:

"§ 90-93. Schedule V controlled substances.

(a) This schedule includes the controlled substances listed or to be listed by whatever official name, common or usual name, chemical name, or trade name designated. In determining that a substance comes within this schedule, the Commission shall find: a low potential for abuse relative to the substances listed in Schedule IV of this Article; currently accepted medical use in the United States; and limited physical or psychological dependence relative to the substances listed in Schedule IV of this Article. The following controlled substances are included in this schedule:

(1) Any compound, mixture or preparation containing any of the following limited quantities of narcotic drugs or salts thereof, which shall include one or more nonnarcotic active medicinal ingredients in sufficient proportion to confer upon the compound, mixture, or preparation valuable medicinal qualities other than those possessed by the narcotic alone:

a. Not more than 200 milligrams of codeine or any of its salts per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.

b. Not more than 100 milligrams of dihydrocodeine or any of its salts per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.

c. Not more than 100 milligrams of ethylmorphine or any of its salts per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.

d. Not more than 2.5 milligrams of diphenoxylate and not less than 25 micrograms of atropine sulfate per dosage unit.

e. Not more than 100 milligrams of opium per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.

f. Not more than 0.5 milligram of difenoxin and not less than 25 micrograms of atropine sulfate per dosage unit.

(2) Repealed by Session Laws 1985, c. 172, s. 9.

(3) Stimulants. – Unless specifically exempted or excluded or unless listed in another schedule, any material, compound, mixture, or preparation which contains any quantity of the following substances having a stimulant effect on the central nervous system, including its salts, isomers and salts of isomers:

a. Repealed by Session Laws 1993, c. 319, s. 7.

b. Pyrovalerone.

(4) Any compound, mixture, or preparation containing any detectable quantity of pseudoephedrine base, its salts or optical isomers, or salts of optical isomers; however, this does not include compounds, mixtures, or preparations that are in liquid, liquid capsule, or gel capsule form if pseudoephedrine is not the only active ingredient.

(b) A Schedule V substance may be sold at retail without a prescription only by a registered pharmacist and no other person, agent or employee may sell a Schedule V substance even if under the direct supervision of a pharmacist.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of G.S. 90-93(b), after the pharmacist has fulfilled the responsibilities required of him in this Article, the actual cash transaction, credit transaction, or delivery of a Schedule V substance, may be completed by a nonpharmacist. A pharmacist may refuse to sell a Schedule V substance until he is satisfied that the product is being obtained for medicinal purposes only.

(d) A Schedule V substance may be sold at retail without a prescription only to a person at least 18 years of age. The pharmacist must require every retail purchaser of a Schedule V substance to furnish suitable identification, including proof of age when appropriate, in order to purchase a Schedule V substance. If the Schedule V substance is pseudoephedrine, then the retail purchaser must provide a photo identification showing the date of birth of the person. The name and address obtained from such identification shall be entered in the record of disposition to consumers.

(e) No person shall purchase, receive, or otherwise acquire more than nine grams of any mixture, product, or preparation containing the controlled substance described in subdivision (a)(4) of this section within any 30-day period; however, this limit does not apply if the controlled substance is dispensed pursuant to a valid prescription.

(f) The Commission for Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities, and Substance Abuse Services, by rule, may exempt other products from this Schedule that the Commission finds are not used in the illegal manufacture of methamphetamine or other dangerous controlled substances. A manufacturer of a drug product may apply for removal of the product from this Schedule if the product is determined by the Commission to have been formulated in such a way as to effectively prevent the conversion of the active ingredient into methamphetamine."

SECTION 2. There is appropriated from the General Fund to the Department of Justice the sum of eight hundred thirty-six thousand six hundred dollars ($836,000) for the 2005-2006 fiscal year to combat the illegal manufacture of methamphetamine. The funds appropriated by this act shall be used to create 13 new positions in the State Bureau of Investigation to combat illegal methamphetamine lab operations in North Carolina. These new positions shall include the following: six SBI drug chemists, two drug chemistry technicians, four SBI field agents, and one special agent supervisor who would oversee a coordinated statewide methamphetamine elimination strategy. These new positions are established beginning January 1, 2006.

SECTION 3. G.S. 15A-1340.16(d) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(16b) The offense is the manufacture of methamphetamine and was committed in a dwelling that is one of four or more contiguous dwellings."

SECTION 4.(a) The Legislative Research Commission may study the issues regarding the abuse of methamphetamine precursors used to make methamphetamine and any other issues that are relevant to that topic. In conducting the study, the Commission shall also consider how to address the problems presented by the abuse of methamphetamine, including educational and training programs that focus on curbing the use of methamphetamine in North Carolina. The Commission may also consider any other issues relevant to the study.

Senate Bill 686: Meth. Lab Prevention Act

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 11, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Dalton	Summary by:	Robin Johnson Committee Counsel
Version:	First Edition S686-CSRH-7[v.4]

SUMMARY: The PCS would (i) add pseudoephedrine, an ingredient used to manufacture methamphetamine, to Schedule V of the Controlled Substance Act, (ii) make the manufacture of methamphetamine in a dwelling that is one of four or more contiguous dwellings an aggravating factor, (iii) exempt from liability a person in control of property after the property has been decontaminated, (iv) authorize the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) to study issues related to methamphetamine abuse, and (v) make technical changes.

The PCS adds Section 3, which would exempt from liability property owners and others in control of the property after the property has been decontaminated, and makes technical changes.

BILL ANALYSIS:

ADD PSEUDOEPHEDRINE TO SCHEDULE V OF THE CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE ACT (Section 1)

CURRENT LAW: The Controlled Substance Act[1] categorizes by Schedules the different types of controlled substances subject to the Act. Schedule I controlled substances are those that have (i) a high potential for abuse, (ii) no currently accepted medical use in the United States, or (iii) a lack of accepted safety for use in treatment under medical supervision. Schedule V controlled substances have (i) a low potential for abuse relative to those listed in Schedules I-IV, (ii) currently accepted medical use in the United States, and (iii) limited physical or psychological dependence relative to the substances listed in Schedules III or IV. Schedule V substances include narcotics and stimulants. (Methamphetamine is a Schedule II substance.)

Schedule V substances may be sold at retail without a prescription only by a registered pharmacist, only for a medical purpose, and only to someone at least 18 years old. A nonpharmacist may complete the actual cash transaction, credit transaction, or delivery of a Schedule V substance. The pharmacist must require every retail purchaser of a Schedule V substance to furnish suitable identification. The purchaser's name and address must be entered in the record of disposition to consumers. This is not a public record, but may be disclosed at the pharmacist's discretion.[2]

Currently sold retail without a prescription, pseudoephedrine is a decongestant that comes as a regular tablet and capsule, extended-release (long-acting) tablet and capsule, liquid, and drops for children to take by mouth. Pseudoephedrine may be used to manufacture methamphetamine.

Unlawful possession of a Schedule V substance is a Class 2 misdemeanor. Assuming no prior convictions, the presumptive minimum sentence for a person convicted of a Class 2 misdemeanor is 1-30 days community punishment.

[1] Article 5 of Chapter 90 of the General Statutes.
[2] G.S. 90-85.36(c).

To unlawfully manufacture, deliver, or possess with intent to manufacture, sell or deliver, a Class V substance is a Class I felony. Assuming no prior convictions, the presumptive minimum sentence for a person convicted of a Class I felony is 4-6 months community punishment.

To unlawfully sell a Schedule V substance is a Class H felony, punishable by an absolute minimum of four months community service and an absolute maximum of 30 months active, depending on the defendant's prior record.

ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would amend G.S. 90-93(a) to make the following changes:

- Add to the list of Schedule V substances pseudoephedrine when it is in the form of (i) a tablet or capsule or (ii) a liquid, liquid capsule, or gel capsule where it is the only active ingredient.
- Require the retail purchaser of pseudoephedrine to provide a photo identification showing the purchaser's birth date.
- Limit the purchase, receipt, or acquisition of pseudoephedrine without a prescription to nine grams within any 30-day period.
- Authorize the Commission for Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities, and Substance Abuse Services (Commission), by rule, to exempt other products from Schedule V that the Commission finds are not used in the illegal manufacture of methamphetamine or other dangerous controlled substances. Drug manufacturers may apply for removal of a product from this Schedule if the Commission determines it has been formulated so that the active ingredient cannot be converted into methamphetamine.

Section 1 would become effective December 1, 2005, and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

AGGRAVATING FACTOR AND CONTIGUOUS DWELLINGS (Section 2)

CURRENT LAW: A court must consider evidence of aggravating or mitigating factors in felony sentencing.[3] If the court finds that aggravating or mitigating factors exist, it may depart from the presumptive ranges of sentences specified in the felony sentencing chart. The State bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that an aggravating factor exists. The defense bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that a mitigating factor exists.

The unlawful manufacture of methamphetamine is a Class C felony. Assuming no prior convictions, the presumptive minimum sentence for a person convicted of a Class C felony is 58-73 months active punishment.

ANALYSIS: Section 2 of Senate Bill 686 would amend G.S. 15A-1340.16(d) by adding a new subdivision (16b) so that, in a case involving the manufacture of methamphetamine, if the offense was committed in a dwelling that is one of four or more contiguous dwellings, this would be an aggravating factor to be considered in sentencing.

Section 2 would become effective December 1, 2005, and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

EXEMPTION FROM LIABILITY FOLLOWING DECONTAMINATION (Section 3)

CURRENT LAW: In 2004, legislation was enacted to direct the Commission for Health Services to adopt rules establishing decontamination standards to ensure that a residence or place of business, or a structure appurtenant to the residence or place of business is reasonably safe for habitation. An owner, lessee, operator or other person in control of a residence (a private home, dwelling unit in a multiple family structure, hotel, motel, summer camp, labor work camp, manufactured home, institution or any other place where people reside), a place of business (a store, warehouse, manufacturing establishment, place of amusement or recreation, service station, office building or any other place where people work), or a structure appurtenant to the residence or business, would be required to comply with the rules.

ANALYSIS: Section 3 would amend G.S. 130A-284 to exempt from civil liability any owner, lessee, operator, or other person in control of property after the property is decontaminated under the standards adopted in the Commission's rules.

Section 3 would become effective October 1, 2005, and would apply to causes of action arising on or after that date.

LRC STUDY METHAMPHETAMINE ABUSE ISSUES (Section 4)

Section 4 of Senate Bill 686 would authorize the LRC to study issues concerning the abuse of methamphetamine precursors used to make methamphetamine. If the LRC opts to undertake this study, the committee would consist of 10 members, five appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and five appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The LRC would report to the 2006 or 2007 Session, or both.

This section would become effective July 1, 2005.

BACKGROUND: According to the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP), Methamphetamine is a growing threat to North Carolina. It. can be manufactured easily in clandestine laboratories (meth labs) using ingredients purchased in local stores. Over-the-counter cold medicines containing ephedrine or pseudoephedrine and other materials are "cooked" in meth labs to make methamphetamine.

Meth labs can be portable and so are easily dismantled, stored, or moved. This portability helps methamphetamine manufacturers avoid law enforcement authorities. Meth labs have been found in many different types of locations, including apartments, hotel rooms, rented storage spaces, and trucks. Methamphetamine labs have been known to be boobytrapped and lab operators are often well armed.

In 2004, 322 meth labs were found in North Carolina. (In 2001, only 34 were found.)

North Carolina Children Are The Victims of Meth Labs

The Growing Meth Problem is Hurting Our Children.

North Carolina law enforcement officers are finding children living in more than 20% of homes where meth is made. In 2004, 124 children were found living in meth labs in the state. Already this year, SBI agents have discovered 50 children in meth labs. Children in these homes are exposed to toxic chemicals and threatened by fire and explosions, and they're often neglected or abused.

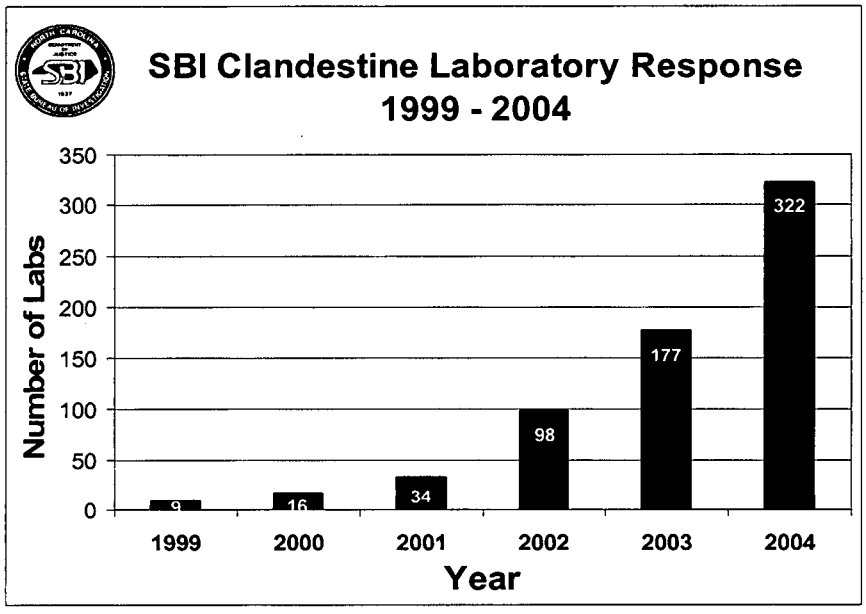
METHAMPHETAMINE: NORTH CAROLINA'S FASTEST-GROWING DRUG PROBLEM

Meth lab busts have increased dramatically since 1999. In 1999, the State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) busted only nine labs. In 2004, they discovered 322 meth labs – more than 35 times as many as the year before. [State Bureau of Investigation, December 2004]. As of April 6, the SBI has busted 117 labs so far this year. [SBI, April 2005].



The growing meth problem is hurting our children. North Carolina law enforcement officers are finding children living in more than 20 percent of homes where meth is made. In 2004, 124 children were found living in meth labs in the state. [SBI, December 2004]. Already this year, SBI agents have discovered 50 children in meth labs. [SBI, April 2005]. Children in these homes are exposed to toxic chemicals and threatened by fire and explosions, and they're often neglected or abused.

Tougher penalties are helping but we need to do more. Last year, Attorney General Roy Cooper and legislators pushed through tougher penalties against meth manufacturers. Local prosecutors are using the new law to put meth makers behind bars. Last month, a Chatham County woman was sentenced to five years of prison for using her two children to help make meth. "It was one of the first cases to take advantage of a new law which hands down tougher penalties for making meth." ["Chatham Woman Accused of Using Kids to Make Meth," WRAL.com, February 21, 2005].

Cold remedy limits dramatically reduce meth labs. Criminals can't make meth without pseudoephedrine or ephedrine, found in over-the-counter cold remedies. Oklahoma has seen a startling 80 percent reduction in meth lab busts since enacting its new law. [Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drug Control].

Cold remedies will still be available. The law won't change for gel cap and liquid cold remedies, which most children take. Tablets containing pseudoephedrine will still be widely available behind the counter in pharmacies with valid identification.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO REQUIRE AN UNAUTHORIZED INSURER AGAINST WHICH A SUMMARY CEASE AND DESIST ORDER HAS BEEN ISSUED TO PETITION THE DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE FOR A HEARING ON THE MATTER BEFORE PETITIONING THE SUPERIOR COURT OF WAKE COUNTY.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 58-28-25 reads as rewritten:

"§ 58-28-25. Judicial review of cease and desist ~~orders.~~orders; administrative review of summary cease and desist orders.

Any person required by an order of the Commissioner under G.S. 58-28-20(a) to cease and desist may seek judicial review pursuant to G.S. 58-2-75. If the Commissioner issues a summary cease and desist order pursuant to G.S. 58-28-20(d), the Commissioner shall promptly commence proceedings in accordance with G.S. 150B-3(c).

~~(a) Any person required by an order of the Commissioner under G.S. 58-28-20 to cease and desist may obtain a review of such order by filing in the Superior Court of Wake County, within 30 days from the date of the service of such order, a written petition praying that the order of the Commissioner be set aside. A copy of such petition shall be immediately served upon the Commissioner, and the Commissioner shall then immediately certify and file in the Court a transcript of the entire record in the proceeding, including all the evidence taken, and the order of the Commissioner. Upon such filing of the petition and transcript the Court has jurisdiction of the proceeding and of the question determined therein, shall determine whether the filing of such petition shall operate as a stay of such order of the Commissioner, and has the power to make and enter upon the pleadings, evidence, and proceedings set forth in such transcript a decree modifying, affirming, or reversing the order of the Commissioner, in whole or in part. The findings of the Commissioner as to the facts, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive.~~

~~(b) To the extent that the order of the Commissioner is affirmed, the Court shall thereupon issue its own order commanding obedience to the terms of such order of the Commissioner. If either party applies to the Court for leave to adduce additional evidence, and satisfies the Court that such additional evidence is material and that there were reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce such evidence in the proceeding before the Commissioner, the Court may order such additional evidence to be taken before the Commissioner and to be adduced upon the hearing in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as the Court considers proper. The Commissioner may modify his findings of fact, or make new findings by reason of the additional evidence so taken; and he shall file such modified or new findings which, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive; or shall file his recommendations, if any, for the modification or setting aside of his original order, with the return of such additional evidence.~~

~~(c) A cease and desist order issued by the Commissioner under G.S. 58-28-20 shall become final:~~

~~(1) Upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing a petition for review if no such petition has been duly filed within such time; except that the Commissioner may thereafter modify or set aside his order to the extent provided in G.S. 58-28-20(b); or~~

~~(2) Upon the final decision of the court if the court directs that the order of the Commissioner be affirmed or the petition for review dismissed.~~

~~(d) No order of the Commissioner under this Article or order of a court to enforce the same shall in any way relieve or absolve any person affected by such order from any liability under any other laws of this State.~~"

SECTION 2. G.S. 58-28-20(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Until the expiration of the time allowed under ~~G.S. 58-28-25(a)~~ G.S. 58-28-25 for filing a petition for review, if no such petition has been duly filed within such time; or if a petition for review has been filed within such time, then until the transcript of the record in the proceeding has been filed in the Court, the Commissioner may at any time, upon such notice and in such manner as he considers proper, modify or set aside in whole or in part any order issued by him under this section."

SECTION 3. This act becomes effective October 1, 2005, and applies to orders issued on or after that date.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 7, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Dalton	Summary by:	Kory Goldsmith
Version:	PCS for First Edition S552-CSRC-14[v.3]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 552 is an Agency bill that creates a hearing procedure in the event the Commissioner of Insurance issues an emergency cease and desist order against a person who is selling insurance without a license. The order may be issued prior to a hearing, but a hearing would have to be held according to the procedures specified under the Administrative Procedures Act (APA).

The Proposed Committee Substitute primarily makes conforming changes to existing law.

This act would become effective October 1, 2005, and would apply to orders issued on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 58-28-20 gives the Commissioner of Insurance the authority to issue a cease and desist order if a person is selling insurance or otherwise transacting insurance business without a license. G.S. 58-28-20(a) provides that the cease and desist order may be issued after the person has been given notice and an opportunity for a hearing. G.S. 58-28-20(d) authorizes the Commissioner to issue a cease and desist order without notice or a hearing if the Commissioner believes that the "interests of policyholders, creditors, or the public maybe irreparably harmed by delay." The statute does not provide a hearing procedure following the issuance of this type of cease and desist order, thereby making its enforceability susceptible to a due process challenge.

G.S. 58-28-25 provides a procedure for judicial review after a cease and desist order has been ordered. The procedure is identical to the one specified in G.S. 58-2-75.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 of the bill makes a number of changes to G.S. 58-28-20, although the changes in subsections (a) through (c) are primarily stylistic. Subsection (d) is the law that already authorizes the Commissioner to issue a cease and desist order without notice and a hearing. The changes to this subsection are as follows:

- Distinguishes these types of cease and desist orders by designating them as "emergency" orders.
- Makes the order effective either upon a date specified in the order, or when a certified copy of the order has been served on the person, which ever is later.
- Specifies that the emergency order must include a notice of hearing, that the Commissioner must proceed under the APA for contested cases (Article 3A of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes), and that the person ordered to cease and desist may request and shall be granted an expedited hearing.
- Specify that the emergency order remains in effect during the hearing process.

The act also creates a new subsection (e) that provides that a person who wants to seek judicial review of a cease and desist order may do so under G.S. 58-2-75.

Section 2 of the bill repeals G.S. 58-20-25 which contained the process for judicial review of a cease and desist order. The procedure in G.S. 58-20-25 is identical to that in G.S. 58-2-75 that has been substituted as the procedure in Section 1 of the bill. (See copy of G.S. 58-2-75 below)

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act would become effective October 1, 2005 and apply to orders issued on or after that date.

§ 58-2-75. Court review of orders and decisions.

(a) Any order or decision made, issued or executed by the Commissioner, except an order to make good an impairment of capital or surplus or a deficiency in the amount of admitted assets and except an order or decision that the premium rates charged or filed on all or any class of risks are excessive, inadequate, unreasonable, unfairly discriminatory or are otherwise not in the public interest or that a classification assignment is unwarranted, unreasonable, improper, unfairly discriminatory, or not in the public interest, shall be subject to review in the Superior Court of Wake County on petition by any person aggrieved filed within 30 days from the date of the delivery of a copy of the order or decision made by the Commissioner upon such person. A copy of such petition for review as filed with and certified to by the clerk of said court shall be served upon the Commissioner or in his absence upon someone in active charge of the Department within five days after the filing thereof. If such petition for review is not filed within the said 30 days, the parties aggrieved shall be deemed to have waived the right to have the merits of the order or decision reviewed and there shall be no trial of the merits thereof by any court to which application may be made by petition or otherwise, to enforce or restrain the enforcement of the same.

(b) The Commissioner shall within 30 days, unless the time be extended by order of court, after the service of the copy of the petition for review as provided in subsection (a) of this section, prepare and file with the clerk of the Superior Court of Wake County a complete transcript of the record of the hearing, if any, had before him, and a true copy of the order or decision duly certified. The order or decision of the Commissioner if supported by substantial evidence shall be presumed to be correct and proper. The court may change the place of hearing,

(1) Upon consent of the parties; or

(2) When the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change; or

(3) When the judge has at any time been interested as a party or counsel.

The cause shall be heard by the trial judge as a civil case upon transcript of the record for review of findings of fact and errors of law only. It shall be the duty of the trial judge to hear and determine such petition with all convenient speed and to this end the cause shall be placed on the calendar for the next succeeding term for hearing ahead of all other cases except those already given priority by law. If on the hearing before the trial judge it shall appear that the record filed by the Commissioner is incomplete, he may by appropriate order direct the Commissioner to certify any or all parts of the record so omitted.

(c) The trial judge shall have jurisdiction to affirm or to set aside the order or decision of the Commissioner and to restrain the enforcement thereof.

(d) Appeals from all final orders and judgments entered by the superior court in reviewing the orders and decisions of the Commissioner may be taken to the appellate division of the General Court of Justice by any party to the action as in other civil cases.

(e) The commencement of proceedings under this section shall not operate as a stay of the Commissioner's order or decision, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

SENATE BILL 574

Short Title:	Amend Post-Release Supervision Laws.	(Public)
Sponsors:	Senator Hartsell.
Referred to:	Judiciary II.

March 16, 2005

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE STRUCTURED SENTENCING LAWS WITH REGARD TO POST-RELEASE SUPERVISION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 15A-1340.11 is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(6a) Post-release supervision. – The time for which a sentenced prisoner is supervised in the community following the termination of the prisoner's maximum prison term, controlled by the rules and conditions of Article 84A of this Chapter."

SECTION 2. G.S. 15A-1340.13(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Procedure Generally; Requirements of Judgment; Kinds of Sentences. – Before imposing a sentence, the court shall determine the prior record level for the offender pursuant to G.S. 15A-1340.14. The sentence shall contain a sentence disposition specified for the class of offense and prior record level, and its minimum term of imprisonment shall be within the range specified for the class of offense and prior record level, unless applicable statutes require or authorize another minimum sentence of imprisonment. For Class B1, B2, C, D, and E felony offenses, the sentence shall include a period of post-release supervision pursuant to G.S. 15A-1340.18. The kinds of sentence dispositions are active punishment, intermediate punishment, and community punishment."

"§ 15A-1340.17. Punishment limits for each class of offense and prior record level.

(a) Offense Classification; Default Classifications. – The offense classification is as specified in the offense for which the sentence is being imposed. If the offense is a felony for which there is no classification, it is a Class I felony.

(b) Fines. – Any judgment that includes a sentence of imprisonment may also include a fine. If a community punishment is authorized, the judgment may consist of a fine only. Additionally, when the defendant is other than an individual, the judgment may consist of a fine only. Unless otherwise provided, the amount of the fine is in the discretion of the court.

(c) Punishments for Each Class of Offense and Prior Record Level; Punishment Chart Described. – The authorized punishment for each class of offense and prior record level is as specified in the chart ~~below.~~ below and under G.S. 15A-1340.18. Prior record levels are indicated by the Roman numerals placed horizontally on the top of the chart. Classes of offense are indicated by the letters placed vertically on the left side of the chart. Each cell on the chart contains the following components:

(1) A sentence disposition or dispositions: "C" indicates that a community punishment is authorized; "I" indicates that an intermediate punishment is authorized; "A" indicates that an active punishment is authorized; and "Life Imprisonment Without Parole" indicates that the defendant shall be imprisoned for the remainder of the prisoner's natural life.

(2) A presumptive range of minimum durations, if the sentence of imprisonment is neither aggravated or mitigated; any minimum term of imprisonment in that range is permitted unless the court finds pursuant to G.S. 15A-1340.16 that an aggravated or mitigated sentence is appropriate. The presumptive range is the middle of the three ranges in the cell.

(3) A mitigated range of minimum durations if the court finds pursuant to G.S. 15A-1340.16 that a mitigated sentence of imprisonment is justified; in such a case, any minimum term of imprisonment in the mitigated range is permitted. The mitigated range is the lower of the three ranges in the cell.

(4) An aggravated range of minimum durations if the court finds pursuant to G.S. 15A-1340.16 that an aggravated sentence of imprisonment is justified; in such a case, any minimum term of imprisonment in the aggravated range is permitted. The aggravated range is the higher of the three ranges in the cell.

(e1) Maximum Sentences Specified for Class B1 ~~through~~ through Class ~~E~~ I Felonies for Minimum Terms of ~~340~~347 Months or More. – Unless provided otherwise in a statute establishing a punishment for a specific crime, when the minimum sentence is ~~340~~347 months or more, the corresponding maximum term of imprisonment shall be equal to the sum of the minimum term of imprisonment and twenty percent (20%) of the minimum term of imprisonment, rounded to the next highest ~~month, plus nine additional months.~~ month."

SECTION 4. Article 81B of Chapter 15A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 15A-1340.18. Post-release supervision.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the court must also impose a period of post-release supervision to follow the term of imprisonment and an additional term of imprisonment to be served upon revocation of the period of post-release supervision on all offenders convicted of a Class B1, B2, C, D, or E felony offense. The period of supervision and the term of imprisonment are as follows:

(1) Period of supervision. – The period of post-release supervision shall be nine months, unless the offense is a Class B1 through E offense for which registration is required pursuant to Article 27A of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes. For offenses subject to the registration requirement of Article 27A of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes, the period of post-release supervision is five years.

(2) Term of imprisonment. – The term of imprisonment upon revocation of post-release supervision shall be for a minimum term of seven months and a maximum term of nine months.

(b) If an offender is convicted of a Class B1, B2, C, D, or E felony offense and receives a sentence of imprisonment, then the court may decline to impose post-release supervision if it makes a finding of facts which indicates post-release supervision would not be necessary in that case. If an offender is convicted of a Class B1 felony offense and receives a sentence of life imprisonment without parole, then post-release supervision shall not be imposed.

(c) If the court imposes an intermediate punishment on an offender who is required to receive post-release supervision under subsection (a) of this section, then the period of post-release supervision is suspended.

(d) Provisions of Article 84A of this Chapter apply to judgments entered pursuant to this section."

SECTION 5. G.S. 15A-1342(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Conditions; Suspended Sentence. – When the court places a convicted offender on probation, it must determine conditions of probation as provided in G.S. 15A-1343. In addition, it must impose a suspended sentence of imprisonment, determined as provided in Article 83, Imprisonment, which may be activated upon violation of conditions of probation. Suspension of a term of imprisonment also suspends any period of post-release supervision that may be imposed for that offense."

SECTION 6. G.S. 15A-1344(d) reads as rewritten:

"(d) Extension and Modification; Response to Violations. – At any time prior to the expiration or termination of the probation period, the court may after notice and hearing and for good cause shown extend the period of probation up to the maximum allowed under G.S. 15A-1342(a) and may modify the conditions of probation. The probation period shall be tolled if the probationer shall have pending against him criminal charges in any court of competent jurisdiction, which, upon conviction, could result in revocation proceedings against him for violation of the terms of this probation. The hearing may be held in the absence of the defendant, if he fails to appear for the hearing after a reasonable effort to notify him. If a convicted defendant violates a condition of probation at any time prior to the expiration or termination of the period of probation, the court, in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 15A-1345, may continue him on probation, with or without modifying the conditions, may place the defendant on special probation as provided in subsection (e), or, if continuation, modification, or special probation is not appropriate, may revoke the probation and activate the suspended sentence and any period of post-release supervision imposed at the time of initial sentencing, if any, or may order that charges as to which prosecution has been deferred be brought to trial; provided that probation may not be revoked solely for conviction of a Class 3 misdemeanor. The court, before activating a sentence to imprisonment established when the defendant was placed on probation, may reduce the sentence, but the reduction shall be consistent with subsection (d1) of this section. A sentence activated upon revocation of probation commences on the day probation is revoked and runs concurrently with any other period of probation, parole, or imprisonment to which the defendant is subject during that period unless the revoking judge specifies that it is to run consecutively with the other period."

"§ 15A-1354. Concurrent and consecutive terms of imprisonment.

(a) Authority of Court. – When multiple sentences of imprisonment are imposed on a person at the same time or when a term of imprisonment is imposed on a person who is already subject to an undischarged term of imprisonment, including a term of imprisonment in another jurisdiction, the sentences may run either concurrently or consecutively, as determined by the court. If not specified or not required by statute to run consecutively, sentences shall run concurrently.

(b) Effect of Consecutive Terms. – In determining the effect of consecutive sentences imposed under authority of this Article and the manner in which they will be served, the Department of Correction must treat the defendant as though he has been committed for a single term with the following incidents:

(1) The maximum prison sentence consists of the total of the maximum terms of the consecutive ~~sentences, less nine months for each of the second and subsequent sentences imposed for Class B through Class E felonies; and~~ sentences; and

(2) The minimum term consists of the total of the minimum terms of the consecutive sentences.

(c) Post-Release Supervision. – When multiple periods of post-release supervision are imposed on a person, either at the same time or in addition to existing

SENATE BILL 574:
Amend Post-Release Supervision Laws.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: Senate Judiciary II
Date: April 7, 2005
Version: First

Introduced by: Sen. Hartsell
Summary by: Robin Johnson*
Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 574 would amend the laws related to Post-Release Supervision (PRS). The bill would delete from the Structured Sentencing charts the nine months of PRS included within the maximum sentences and would create PRS as a sanction that may be imposed at the judge's discretion and that is separate from the prison term.

CURRENT LAW:

Structured Sentencing – The maximum sentences for Class B1 through Class E felonies include nine months of PRS. The purpose of PRS is to monitor and control the offender in the community, to assist the offender's reintegration into society, to collect restitution and indebtedness owed by the offender, and to continue the offender's treatment and education.

Post-Release Supervision - Individuals convicted of a Class B1 through Class E felony are released from prison nine months prior to the maximum sentence imposed, less any earned time awarded. PRS lasts for nine months, unless the individual is convicted of a sex offense that requires registration under the Sex Offender Registration Act, in which case the period of PRS is five years. It is possible for the period of PRS to be reduced by earned time during the period of supervision, but generally this does not happen.

PRS is conditional and subject to revocation. Violation of any condition may result is the modification or revocation of PRS. Upon a revocation of PRS, no matter when it occurs during the nine months, the supervisee is returned to prison to serve the remainder of the maximum sentence (nine months). This period may be reduced by earned time. Upon a second release, the prisoner is eligible for PRS under the same conditions as imposed the first time.

Certain Drug Trafficking Offenses – The maximum sentences for the following drug trafficking offenses include nine months of PRS: Marijuana (10,000 or more pounds); Methaqualone (10,000 or more dosage units); Cocaine (400 grams or more); Methamphetamine (200 grams or more); Opium or heroin (14 grams or more); LSD (1,000 or more dosage units); and MDA/MDMA (1,000 or more tablets).

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 would amend the definitions of Article 81B of Chapter 15A (Structured Sentencing) to include "Post-release supervision". It would be defined as the time a prisoner is supervised in the community following the termination of the prisoner's maximum prison term.

Section 2 would amend G.S. 15A-1340.13(b) to require that when a judge is imposing a sentence under structured sentencing, the judge shall also include a period of post-release supervision if the offense is a Class B1 through Class E felony.

Section 3 would amend G.S. 15A-1340.17 (the structured sentencing chart) to make PRS a separate punishment, and to create a single table for calculating the maximum sentences for Class B1 through Class I felonies where the minimum term is less than 347 months.

Section 4 would create a new section (G.S. 15A-1340.18) relating to PRS under structured sentencing. Any person convicted of a Class B1, B2, C, D, or E felony could be required to participate in PRS. The minimum period of PRS would be seven months and the maximum period would be nine months, unless the offense is subject to the registration requirements of Article 27A of Chapter 14 (Sex Offenders Registration Program). If the period of PRS is revoked, the term of re-imprisonment would be a minimum term of seven months and a maximum of nine months. A court may decline to impose PRS if it makes a finding of facts that indicate that PRS would not be necessary in that case. PRS would not be imposed for an offender convicted of a Class B1 felony offense who receives a life sentence.

Section 5 would amend G.S. 15A-1342(c) to provide that if a court places an offender on probation, the period of PRS is also suspended.

Section 6 would amend G.S. 15A-1344(d) to provide that if an offender violates a condition of probation under a suspended sentence, the Post-Release Supervision and Parole Commission ("Commission") may activate the offender's prison sentence and any period of PRS.

Section 7 would amend G.S. 15A-1354 to provide that where a court imposes consecutive terms, the periods of PRS are consolidated to run as a single period and run at the conclusion of the term of imprisonment.

Section 8 would amend the definitions in Article 84A (Post-Release Supervision) to reflect that PRS is the time an offender is supervised in the community after the termination of the maximum prison term.

Section 9 would amend G.S. 15A-1368.1 to reflect that it applies to certain drug trafficking offenses under G.S. 90-95.

Section 10 would amend G.S. 15A-1368.2 to provide that earned time is inapplicable to the period of PRS.

Section 11 would amend G.S. 15A-1368.3 to provide that a supervisee who violates a controlling condition of PRS (see page 11, line 34, through page 12, line 42), it would be revoked and the supervisee would return to prison for a minimum of seven months and a maximum of nine months. It also would prohibit the re-release of an offender into PRS once it has been revoked.

Section 12 would amend G.S. 15A-1368.4 to (i) remove the authority to revoke PRS for a repeated violation of a reintegrative condition (see page 11, lines 16-33); (ii) clarify that a supervisee may not receive earned time credit during PRS; and (iii) codify certain discretionary controlling conditions for sex offenders that currently are imposed under the Commission's general authority.

Section 13 would amend G.S. 90-95(h) regarding the sentences for certain drug trafficking offenses to remove the period of PRS from the maximum sentence and require that it be imposed as a separate sanction.

BACKGROUND: Post-Release Supervision was not developed as part of the original structured sentencing proposals of 1993. It was added to the structured sentencing legislation during the legislative process. The Structured Sentencing Commission has repeatedly recommended changes to PRS to make it more consistent with the way structured sentencing functions and to also clarify certain details regarding how PRS functions.

This act would become effective December 1, 2005 and apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

SENATE BILL 592:
Indigent Defense Technical Revisions.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Kinnaird
Date:	April 14, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 592 would make technical revisions to current law governing indigent defense and entitlement to counsel to correspond with current practices and to comply with the recent North Carolina Supreme Court Decision – State v. Webb. The act would be effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: Section 1: G.S. 7A-304(d)(1) does not specifically include attorney's fees in the types of funds to be disbursed by the clerk of superior court, though it is included in the payment priority list that follows[1]. Section 2: G.S. 7A-451(a)(12) and (a)(15) currently refer to sections of the statutes addressing termination of parental rights that have been repealed and recodified. Section 3: G.S. 7A-455.1 – Appointment fee in criminal cases, calls for a $50.00 fee to be paid by a defendant requesting appointed counsel at the time of appointment, regardless of the ultimate outcome of the case. The statute also calls for collection of a $50.00 fee for appellate appointments, though current practice by the Office of Indigent Services does not direct the courts to assess the fee in appellate or post-conviction proceedings. Section 4: G.S. 15A-1343 includes attorney's costs with court costs that are to be paid by the convicted defendant as a condition of probation. Section 5: G.S. 35A-1245(c) authorizes the clerk of superior court to appoint an attorney to represent the mentally ill or mentally retarded in cases involving sterilization.

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1: The bill would specifically include attorney's fees in the types of funds to be disbursed by the clerk of superior court in G.S. 7A-304(d)(1) to correspond with the payment priority list that follows[2]. Section 2: The bill would adjust the references in G.S. 7A-451(a)(12) and (a)(15) to correspond to the correct sections of the statutes as recodified. Section 3: The bill would comply with State v. Webb, which bars up-front collections of appointment fees. The bill would call for the $50.00 fee to come due after the defendant has been convicted, and only at the trial level (not appellate level). Currently, the Office of Indigent Services does not direct the courts to assess the fee in appellate or post-conviction proceedings; the bill would change statutory language to reflect this practice. Section 4: The bill would clarify that attorney's fees are considered to be separate from court costs. The bill could clarify that payment of attorney's fees may also be included as a condition of probation. Section 5: The bill would add language to correspond to other language addressing the appointment of counsel in cases under Article 36 of Chapter 7A – Entitlement of Indigent Persons.

SENATE BILL 593:
Copy Costs in Indigent Cases.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Kinnaird
Date:	April 14, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute - First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 593 would provide an exception to the collection of certain miscellaneous fees by the clerk of superior court. The clerk would not charge for preparing copies requested by counsel appointed to represent an indigent person at State expense so long as the request is made in connection with the appointed case and is during the period of appointment. The Proposed Committee Substitute makes a minor technical correction to the numbering of a section of the bill. The act would be effective on July 1, 2005 and would apply to fees charged on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: Article 28 – Uniform Costs and Fees, provides for the collection of miscellaneous fees and commissions by clerks of superior court and remittance of these fees to the State for support of the General Court of Justice.[1] Preparation of copies is listed among these fees at $2.00 for the first page and .25 for each additional page[2].

BILL ANALYSIS: This bill would add a section exempting copies made at the request of counsel appointed to represent an indigent person at State expense from those fees clerks are directed to collect. The bill would limit copies provided without charge to only those that are made at the request of appointed counsel in connection with the appointed case and during the duration of the appointment

BACKGROUND: Many clerk's offices currently waive the fee for preparing copies for counsel appointed in indigent cases. When the fee is charged, the cost is billed to the Office of Indigent Defense Services by the appointed counsel, for reimbursement from State funds. The money paid by appointed counsel is deposited by the clerks into the State financial management system for remittance to the State General Fund. Providing for appointed counsel working on indigent cases to be exempt from collection of copy costs would simplify the system and avoid any associated transaction costs.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE LAW GOVERNING RECOUPMENT FOR LEGAL SERVICES PROVIDED TO INDIGENT PERSONS WHO ARE FINANCIALLY ABLE TO PAY A PORTION OF THE VALUE OF THOSE SERVICES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 7A-455 reads as rewritten:

"§ 7A-455. Partial indigency; liens; acquittals.

(a) If, in the opinion of the court, an indigent person is financially able to pay a portion, but not all, of the value of the legal services rendered for ~~him~~the person by assigned counsel, the public defender, or the appellate defender, and other necessary expenses of representation, ~~he~~the court shall order the partially indigent person to pay such portion to the clerk of superior court for transmission to the State treasury.

(b) In all cases the court shall direct that a judgment be entered in the office of the clerk of superior court for the money value of services rendered by assigned counsel, the public defender, or the appellate defender, plus any sums allowed for other necessary expenses of representing the indigent person, including any fees and expenses that may have been allowed prior to final determination of the action to assigned counsel pursuant to G.S. 7A-458, which shall constitute a lien as prescribed by the general law of the State applicable to judgments. Any reimbursement to the State as provided in subsection (a) of this section or any funds collected by reason of such judgment shall be deposited in the State treasury and credited against the judgment. The value of services shall be determined in accordance with rules adopted by the Office of Indigent Defense Services. The money value of services rendered by the public defender and the appellate defender shall be based upon the factors normally involved in fixing the fees of private attorneys, such as the nature of the case, the time, effort, and responsibility involved, and the fee usually charged in similar cases. A district court judge shall direct entry of judgment for actions or proceedings finally determined in the district court and a superior court judge shall direct entry of judgment for actions or proceedings originating in, heard on appeal in, or appealed from the superior court.

Even if the trial, appeal, hearing, or other proceeding is never held, preparation therefor is nevertheless compensable.

(b1) In every case in which the State is entitled to a lien pursuant to this section, the public defender shall at the time of sentencing or other conclusion of the proceedings petition the court to enter judgment for the value of the legal services rendered by the public defender, and the appellate defender shall upon completion of the appeal petition or request the trial court to enter judgment for the value of the legal services rendered by the appellate defender.

(c) No order for partial payment under subsection (a) of this section and no judgment under subsection (b) of this section shall be entered unless the indigent person is convicted. If the indigent person is convicted, the order or judgment shall become effective and the judgment shall be docketed and indexed pursuant to G.S. 1-233 et seq., in the amount then owing, upon the later of (i) the date upon which the conviction becomes final if the indigent person is not ordered, as a condition of probation, to pay the State of North Carolina for the costs of his representation in the case or (ii) the date upon which the indigent person's probation is terminated or revoked if the indigent person is so ordered. No order for partial payment under subsection (a) of this section and no judgment under subsection (b) of this section shall be entered for the value of legal services rendered to perfect an appeal to the Appellate Division or in postconviction proceedings, if all of the matters that the person raised in the proceeding are vacated, reversed, or remanded for a new trial or resentencing.

(d) In all cases in which the entry of a judgment is authorized under G.S. 7A-450.1 through G.S. 7A-450.4 or under this section, the attorney, guardian ad litem, public defender, or appellate defender who rendered the services or incurred the expenses for which the judgment is to be entered shall obtain the social security number, if any, of each person against whom judgment is to be entered. This number, or a certificate that the person has no social security number, shall be included in each fee application submitted by an assigned attorney, guardian ad litem, public defender, or appellate defender, and no order for payment entered upon an application which does not include the required social security number or certification shall be valid to authorize payment to the applicant from the Indigent Persons' Attorney Fee Fund. Each judgment docketed against any person under this section or under G.S. 7A-450.3 shall include the social security number, if any, of the judgment debtor."

SECTION 2. G.S. 7B-603 reads as rewritten:

"§ 7B-603. Payment of court-appointed attorney or guardian ad litem.

(a) An attorney or guardian ad litem appointed pursuant to G.S. 7B-601 shall be paid a reasonable fee fixed by the court or by direct engagement for specialized guardian ad litem services through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(a1) The court may require payment of the fee for an attorney or guardian ad litem appointed pursuant to G.S. 7B-601 from a person other than the juvenile as provided in G.S. 7A-450.1, 7A-450.2, and 7A-450.3. In no event shall the parent or guardian be required to pay the fees for a court-appointed attorney or guardian ad litem in an abuse, neglect, or dependency proceeding unless the juvenile has been adjudicated to be abused, neglected, or dependent or, in a proceeding to terminate parental rights, unless the parent's rights have been terminated. If the party is ordered to reimburse the State for attorney or guardian ad litem fees and fails to comply within 90 days, the court shall file a judgment against the party for the amount due the State.

(b) An attorney appointed pursuant to G.S. 7B-602 or pursuant to any other provision of the Juvenile Code for which the Office of Indigent Defense Services is responsible for providing counsel shall be paid a reasonable fee in accordance with rules adopted by the Office of Indigent Defense Services.

(b1) The court may require payment of the fee for an attorney appointed pursuant to G.S. 7B-602 or G.S. 7B-1101 from the respondent. In no event shall the respondent be required to pay the fees for a court-appointed attorney in an abuse, neglect, or dependency proceeding unless the juvenile has been adjudicated to be abused, neglected, or dependent or, in a proceeding to terminate parental rights, unless the respondent's rights have been terminated. At the dispositional hearing or other appropriate hearing, the court shall make a determination whether the respondent should be held responsible for reimbursing the State for the respondent's attorneys' fees. This determination shall include the respondent's financial ability to pay.

If the court determines that the respondent is responsible for reimbursing the State for the respondent's attorneys' fees, the court shall so order. If the respondent does not comply with the order within 90 days, the court shall file a judgment against the respondent for the amount due the State.

~~(c) The court may require payment of the attorney or guardian ad litem fee from a person other than the juvenile as provided in G.S. 7A-450.1, 7A-450.2, and 7A-450.3. In no event shall the parent or guardian be required to pay the fees for a court-appointed attorney or guardian ad litem in an abuse, neglect, or dependency proceeding unless the juvenile has been adjudicated to be abused, neglected, or dependent, or, in a proceeding to terminate parental rights, unless the parent's rights have been terminated. A person who does not comply with the court's order of payment may be punished for contempt as provided in G.S. 5A-21.~~"

SECTION 3. This act is effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 594:
Recoupment by Court-Appointed Attorneys.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Kinnaird
Date:	April 14, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 594 would amend the law governing recoupment for legal services provided to indigent persons who are financially able to pay a portion of the value of the services provided. The bill would exempt indigent persons from paying for legal services rendered to perfect an appeal to the appellate division or in post-conviction proceedings if all of the matters raised are vacated, reversed or remanded for a new trial or resentencing. The bill would also allow the court to hold a parent responsible for payment of an attorney or guardian ad litem in cases where a juvenile has been adjudicated to be abused, neglected or dependent or where the parent's rights have been terminated. The act would be effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW:

Section 1: Current recoupment statutes appear to direct entry of judgment in criminal appeals whenever the defendant's conviction is upheld[1]. It is unclear whether current statutes direct entry of civil judgment when the only relief available in the appellate courts is a new sentencing hearing.

Section 2: Current statutes do not appear to authorize recoupment when counsel is provided to an adult in an abuse, neglect, or dependency, or termination of parental rights proceeding[2].

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1: The bill would revise G.S. 7A-455(c) to clarify that recoupment of fees for legal services rendered is not appropriate when the appellant prevailed on the issues raised on appeal.

Section 2: The bill would clarify that a parent may be held responsible for paying the fees of a court-appointed attorney or guardian ad litem in those cases where a juvenile has been adjudicated to be abused, neglected or dependent, or in cases where the parent's rights have been terminated. The bill would call for persons ordered to reimburse the State for attorney or guardian ad litem fees to do so within 90 days, or have a judgment against them filed by the court.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO ALLOW ATTORNEYS' FEES TO BE AWARDED TO THE PREVAILING PARTY IN AN ACTION TO ENFORCE PROVISIONS OF THE ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION, DECLARATION, BYLAWS, OR RULES OF A PLANNED COMMUNITY CREATED PRIOR TO JANUARY 1, 1999, IF RECOVERY OF ATTORNEYS' FEES IS ALLOWED IN THE DECLARATION, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE GENERAL STATUTES COMMISSION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 47F-1-102(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, G.S. 47F-3-102(1) through (6) and (11) through (17) (Powers of owners' association), G.S. 47F-3-107(a), (b), and (c) (Upkeep of planned community; responsibility and assessments for damages), G.S. 47F-3-115 (Assessments for common expenses), and G.S. 47F-3-116 (Lien for assessments), apply to all planned communities created in this State before January 1, 1999, unless the articles of incorporation or the declaration expressly provides to the ~~contrary.~~ contrary, and G.S. 47F-3-120 (Declaration limits on attorneys' fees) applies to all planned communities created in this State before January 1, 1999. These sections apply only with respect to events and circumstances occurring on or after January 1, 1999, and do not invalidate existing provisions of the declaration, bylaws, or plats and plans of those planned communities. G.S. 47F-1-103 (Definitions) also applies to all planned communities created in this State before January 1, 1999, to the extent necessary in construing any of the preceding sections."

SECTION 2. This act is effective when it becomes law.

Senate Bill 666:
Planned Community Act Amendment

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 13, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Hartsell	Summary by:	Kory Goldsmith
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 666 provides statutory authorization for provisions that allow a the prevailing party to collect attorneys' fees in actions to enforce the articles of incorporation, declaration, by-laws or rules of a planned community that was created before January 1, 1999 if those fees are allowed in the instrument that created the planned community.

The act would be effect with the bill becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: North Carolina courts have held that a prevailing party in a lawsuit may not collect their attorneys' fees unless there is specific statutory authorization to do so. The North Carolina Planned Community Act includes in it a specific authorization for the collection of attorneys' fees if the instrument that created the planned community (the "declaration") also allows for the collection of attorneys fees. See G.S. 47F-3-120 below.

In general, Chapter 47E (Planned Community Act) does not apply to planned communities that were created before January 1, 1999. This means that even if the declaration of a pre-1999 planned community allowed for the prevailing party to collect attorneys' fees, there was no statutory authorization to support that.

§ 47F-3-120. Declaration limits on attorneys' fees.

Except as provided in G.S. 47F-3-116, in an action to enforce provisions of the articles of incorporation, the declaration, bylaws, or duly adopted rules or regulations, the court may award reasonable attorneys' fees to the prevailing party if recovery of attorneys' fees is allowed in the declaration.

§ 47F-1-102. Applicability.

(a) This Chapter applies to all planned communities created within this State on or after January 1, 1999, except as otherwise provided in this section.

(b) This Chapter does not apply to a planned community created within this State on or after January 1, 1999:

(1) Which contains no more than 20 lots (including all lots which may be added or created by the exercise of development rights) unless the declaration provides or is amended to provide that this Chapter does apply to that planned community; or

(2) In which all lots are restricted exclusively to nonresidential purposes, unless the declaration provides or is amended to provide that this Chapter does apply to that planned community.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, G.S. 47F-3-102(1) through (6) and (11) through (17) (Powers of owners' association), G.S. 47F-3-107(a), (b), and (c) (Upkeep of planned community; responsibility and assessments for damages), G.S.

47F-3-115 (Assessments for common expenses), and G.S. 47F-3-116 (Lien for assessments), apply to all planned communities created in this State before January 1, 1999, unless the articles of incorporation or the declaration expressly provides to the contrary. These sections apply only with respect to events and circumstances occurring on or after January 1, 1999, and do not invalidate existing provisions of the declaration, bylaws, or plats and plans of those planned communities. G.S. 47F-1-103 (Definitions) also applies to all planned communities created in this State before January 1, 1999, to the extent necessary in construing any of the preceding sections.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (a) and (c) of this section, any planned community created prior to January 1, 1999, may elect to make the provisions of this Chapter applicable to it by amending its declaration to provide that this Chapter shall apply to that planned community. The amendment may be made by affirmative vote or written agreement signed by lot owners of lots to which at least sixty-seven percent (67%) of the votes in the association are allocated or any smaller majority the declaration specifies. To the extent the procedures and requirements for amendment in the declaration conflict with the provisions of this subsection, this subsection shall control with respect to any amendment to provide that this Chapter applies to that planned community.

(e) This Chapter does not apply to planned communities or lots located outside this State.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Senate Judiciary II Committee

FROM: General Statutes Commission

RE: Senate Bill 666 (Planned Community Act Amendment)

G.S. 47F-1-102(c) lists sections of the North Carolina Planned Community Act that apply to planned communities created within this State before January 1, 1999, the effective date of the Act. This bill adds to that list G.S. 47F-3-120, which allows a court to award attorneys' fees to the prevailing party in an action to enforce the articles of incorporation, declaration, bylaws, or rules of a planned community, if recovery of attorneys' fees is allowed in the declaration. The amendment thus provides statutory authority for the recovery of attorneys' fees in cases where a planned community was created before January 1, 1999, and its declaration expressly authorized the recovery of attorneys' fees. " As a general rule, a party cannot recover attorneys' fees 'unless the recovery is expressly authorized by statute.' " McGinnis Point Owners Association, Inc. v. Joyner, 135 N.C. App. 752, 756, 522 S.E.2d 317, 320 (1999) (quoting Stillwell Enterprises, Inc. v. Interstate Equipment Co., 300 N.C. 286, 289, 266 S.E.2d 812, 814 (1980)).

MEMORANDUM

TO: Senate Judiciary II Committee

FROM: General Statutes Commission

DATE: April 1, 2005

RE: Senate Bill 667 (Subordination Agreement/Registration Amendments)

This bill is recommended at the request of the North Carolina Bankers Association to validate certain subordination agreements and to clarify the law on the priority of instruments registered in the office of the register of deeds.

Section 1 amends G.S. 39-6.6, which provides that a subordination agreement shall be given effect in accordance with its terms and is not required to state any interest rate, principal amount secured, or other financial terms. In a subordination agreement, the holder of a lien on real property agrees to have the lien become junior in priority to a subsequent lien on the property. One example of a subordination agreement involves real property sold subject to a purchase money mortgage, in which the buyer is authorized to subject the property to a subsequent construction mortgage that will have priority over the purchase money mortgage. G.S. 39-6.6 was enacted in 2003 in response to Smith v. Martin, 124 N.C. App. 592, 478 S.E.2d 228 (1996), and MCB Limited v. McGowan, 86 N.C. App. 607, 359 S.E.2d 50 (1987) (opinions added requirement to state interest rate, etc.). The statute became effective October 1, 2003, and applies to subordination agreements filed or recorded on or after that date.

Section 1 extends the applicability of G.S. 39-6.6 to subordination agreements that were filed or recorded before October 1, 2003, to allow them to be enforced according to their terms, as long as they are not the subject of litigation pending on the effective date of the bill. The bill also makes minor stylistic and technical changes throughout G.S. 39-6.6.

Sections 2 and 3 make identical amendments to G.S. 47-18(a) and G.S. 47-20(a) to conform terminology by substituting " registered" and " registration" for " recorded" and " recordation," respectively, and to make other terminology and formatting changes.

Section 4 makes the bill effective when it becomes law.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO CLARIFY THAT THE CLERK OF SUPERIOR COURT IS RESPONSIBLE FOR PROVIDING COPIES OF THE TRIAL FILE TO APPOINTED APPELLATE COUNSEL IN INDIGENT CASES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 7A-452 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(e) In cases in which an indigent person has entered notice of appeal and appellate counsel has been appointed by the Office of Indigent Defense Services, the clerk of superior court shall make a copy of the complete trial division file in the case, make a copy of documentary exhibits upon request, and furnish those files and any requested exhibits to the appointed attorney."

SECTION 2. This act is effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 689:
Copies of Files/Appointed Appellate Attorneys.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Kinnaird
Date:	April 14, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 689 would clarify that the clerk of superior court is responsible for providing appointed appellate counsel in indigent cases with copies of the complete trial division file, including any requested documentary exhibits. The act would be effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: Upon notice of appeal by indigent criminal defendants, the court completes two forms that order the clerk of superior court to furnish the appellate defender with "...all documents on file in the case" upon counsel's request[1]. Most counties' clerks of court provide copies to the appointed appellate counsel as directed. Several counties, however, refuse to make copies for the appointed appellate counsel, requiring them instead to drive to the courthouse to make their own copies of the file.

BILL ANALYSIS: This bill would clarify that the responsibility for making copies of a complete trial division case file and all requested documentary exhibits for appointed appellate counsel rests with the clerks of court, not the appointed counsel.

BACKGROUND: In those counties where the clerk of superior court requires that appointed counsel comes to the courthouse to make their own copies, the Office of Indigent Defense Services is required to use State funds to pay the attorney for their time[2]. That rate is $65.00 per hour in non-capital cases and $85.00 per hour in capital cases.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Dannelly
Date:	April 19, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute - First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 488 would expand the reach of the existing criminal offense, "Domestic abuse, neglect, and exploitation of disabled or elder adults", by removing the requirement that the victim be residing in a domestic setting. The Proposed Committee Substitute would clarify that attorneys-in-fact for disabled or elder adults would be considered to be caretakers for the purposes of this offense. The act would become effective December 1, 2005 and would apply to offenses committed on and after that date.

CURRENT LAW: A person is guilty of this offense if the following elements exist[1]:

(1) the person is a caretaker of a

(2) disabled adult or elder adult

(3) who is residing in a domestic setting, and

(4) with malice, knowingly and willfully

(5) abuses, neglects, or exploits the victim[2], and

(6) as a result of the act, or failure to act, the victim suffers mental or physical injury from the abuse[3] or neglect[4]; or gives or loses possession or control of property or money[5].

Persons violating this statute are punished according to the following scheme:

Cases of abuse are punished as Class H felonies, rising to Class F felony if injury suffered is serious.

Cases of neglect are punished as Class I felonies, rising to Class G felony if injury suffered is serious.

Cases of exploitation are punished as Class 1 misdemeanors if the value of the loss of property or money is $1,000 or less; rising to Class H felony if the value is more than $1,000.

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would expand the applicability of current law by removing element three from the required elements (above), which requires the victim to be residing in a domestic setting. Abuse, neglect or exploitation of disabled or elder adults by their caretakers in any setting would now be prohibited by General Statute 14-32.3. An attorney-in-fact would be considered to be a caretaker for the purposes of this statute.

This fiscal analysis is independent of the impact of other criminal penalty bills being considered by the General Assembly, which could also increase the projected prison population and thus the availability of prison beds in future years. The Fiscal Research Division is tracking the cumulative effect of all criminal penalty bills on the prison system as well as the Judicial Department.*

BILL SUMMARY: This bill would amend G.S. 14-32.3(c) to eliminate as an element of the offense of exploitation of an elder or disabled adult that the victim must be residing in a domestic setting. As a result, any caretaker of an elder or disabled adult who intentionally deprives such person of property through false representation, abuse of trust, or coercion would be guilty of a Class H felony if the property is of a value greater than $1,000 and a Class 1 misdemeanor if the property is of a value equal to or less than $1,000.

General

Because this bill would make the offense of exploitation of an elder or disabled adult applicable to additional individuals, it would be expected to result in additional Class 1 misdemeanor and Class H felony charges and convictions and would consequently incur a fiscal impact. As the offense would apply to a new class of individuals, we have no historical data from which to estimate the exact number of additional charges and convictions that would result. However, due to the small number of charges and convictions for this offense under current G.S. 14-32.3(c), the numbers of additional charges and convictions resulting from the bill are not expected to be significant, and the cost associated with this legislation is not expected to be substantial.

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares prison population projections for each criminal penalty bill. The Commission assumes for each bill that increasing criminal penalties does not have a deterrent or incapacitative effect on crime. Therefore, the Fiscal Research Division does not assume savings due to deterrent effects for this bill or any criminal penalty bill.

Department of Correction

The Sentencing and Policy Advisory Commission prepares inmate population projections annually. The projections used for incarceration fiscal notes are based on January 2005 projections. These projections are based on historical information on incarceration and release rates under Structured Sentencing, crime rate forecasts by a technical advisory group, probation and revocation rates, and the decline (parole and maxouts) of the stock prison population sentenced under previous sentencing acts. Based on the most recent population projections and estimated available prison bed capacity, there are no surplus prison beds available for the five-year fiscal note horizon and beyond.

In FY 2003-04, there were three felony Class H and two misdemeanor Class 1 convictions under current G.S. 14-32.3(c) for exploitation of an elder or disabled adult. Because this bill would make this offense applicable to a new class of individuals, the Sentencing Commission has no historical data from which to estimate how the legislation would impact prison population.

Class 1 Misdemeanors: In FY 2003-04, 19 percent of Class 1 misdemeanants received active sentences, and the average estimated sentence length was 43 days. DOC reimburses the county for housing offenders sentenced to between thirty and ninety days at a rate of $18 per offender per day. Because active sentences of less than ninety days are served in county jails, Class 1 misdemeanor convictions resulting from this legislation are not expected to significantly impact prison population.

Class H Felonies: In FY 2003-04, 37 percent of Class H felony convictions resulted in active sentences. If, for example, there were three additional Class H convictions for this offense per year, the combination of active sentences and probation revocations would result in the need for one additional prison bed the first year and two additional prison beds the second year. The average annual operating cost for one prison bed in FY 2006-07 will be an estimated $24,740.

Non-Active Sentences: In FY 2003-04, 50 percent of Class H convictions resulted in intermediate sanctions and 13 percent in community sanctions; two percent of Class 1 misdemeanants received intermediate sanctions and 79 percent received community punishment. Probation officers in the Division of Community Correction (DCC) supervise offenders with intermediate sanctions at an estimated cost of $10.94 per day for the first six months and $1.87 per day thereafter. (This cost estimate is based on the average cost and duration of intensive probation, the most common intermediate sanction.) The estimated cost for a supervised community offender is $1.87 per day.

Judicial Branch

For most criminal penalty bills, the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) provides Fiscal Research with an analysis of the fiscal impact of the specific bill. For these bills, fiscal impact is typically based on the assumption that court time will increase due to an expected increase in trials and a corresponding increase in the hours of work for judges, clerks, and prosecutors. This increased court time is also expected to result in greater expenditures for jury fees and indigent defense.

For calendar year 2004, AOC data indicates that 13 defendants were charged with a Class H felony and 3 defendants were charged with a Class 1 misdemeanor for exploitation of an elder or disabled adult. As this bill would make this offense applicable to a new class of individuals, no data is available to estimate the number of additional charges that might result from this bill. For any new Class 1 misdemeanor or Class H felony charge due to this bill, there would be additional court and preparation time needed to process the charge, thus increasing district and superior court workload, respectively. AOC estimates the costs to process one Class 1 misdemeanor or one Class H felony charge as shown in Table 1 below. Based on prior-year data, the majority of charges that are not dismissed are likely to be settled via guilty plea.

Table 1: CY 2004 Estimated Per Charge Settlement Costs

	Settled via Trial			Settled via Guilty Plea
Offense Class	Court/Attorney Costs	Indigent Defense	Total	-
Class 1 Misdemeanor	$1,880	$1,333	$3,213	$284
Class H Felony	$4,096	$2,100	$6,196	$359

SECTION 1. Article 1 of Chapter 36A of the General Statutes is recodified as Article 6 of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes. G.S. 36A-63, G.S. 36A-66.1, and Article 6 of Chapter 36A are recodified in Article 15 of Chapter 53 of the General Statutes as G.S. 53-163.1 through G.S. 53-163.7. An organization exercises reasonable diligence if it maintains reasonable routines for communicating significant information to the employee having responsibility to act for the trust and there is reasonable compliance with the routines. Reasonable diligence does not require an employee of the organization to communicate information unless the communication is part of the employee's regular duties or the employee knows a matter involving the trust would be materially affected by the information.

"§ 36C-1-105. Default and mandatory rules.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, this Chapter governs the duties and powers of a trustee, relations among trustees, and the rights and interests of a beneficiary.

The common law of trusts and principles of equity supplement this Chapter, except to the extent modified by this Chapter or another statute of this State.

"§ 36C-1-107. Governing law.

The meaning and effect of the terms of a trust are determined by:

(1) The law of the jurisdiction designated in the terms unless the designation of that jurisdiction's law is contrary to a strong public policy of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue; or

(2) In the absence of a controlling designation in the terms of the trust, the law of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue.

"§ 36C-1-108. Principal place of administration.

(a) Without precluding other means for establishing a sufficient connection with the designated jurisdiction, terms of a trust designating the principal place of administration are valid and controlling if:

(1) A trustee's principal place of business is located in, or a trustee is a resident of, the designated jurisdiction; or

(2) All or part of the administration occurs in the designated jurisdiction.

(b) Without precluding the right of the court to order, approve, or disapprove a transfer, the trustee may transfer the trust's principal place of administration to another jurisdiction in accordance with the provisions of this subsection:

(1) If the trustee is transferring the trust's principal place of administration to another state, the trustee shall provide written notice of the proposed transfer to the qualified beneficiaries of the trust not less than 60 days before initiating the transfer. If no qualified beneficiary notifies the trustee of an objection to the proposed transfer on or before the date specified in the notice, the trustee may make the transfer. If a qualified beneficiary notifies the trustee of an objection to the proposed transfer on or before the date specified in the notice, the authority of the trustee to transfer the trust's principal place of administration in accordance with the provisions of this section terminates.

(2) If the trustee is transferring the trust's principal place of administration to a jurisdiction outside of the United States, the trustee shall provide written notice of the proposed transfer to the qualified beneficiaries of the trust and the transfer cannot be made until the written consent of all the qualified beneficiaries is obtained.

(c) Anytime a trustee is required to provide a qualified beneficiary with written notice of a proposed transfer of a trust's principal place of administration, the notice of proposed transfer must include:

(1) The name of the jurisdiction to which the principal place of administration is to be transferred;

(2) The address and telephone number at the new location at which the trustee can be contacted;

(3) An explanation of the reasons for the proposed transfer;
(4) The date on which the proposed transfer is anticipated to occur; and
(5) If the proposed transfer is to another state, the date, not less than 60 days after the giving of the notice, by which the qualified beneficiary must notify the trustee of an objection to the proposed transfer.

(d) In connection with a transfer of the trust's principal place of administration, the trustee may transfer some or all of the trust property to a successor trustee designated in the terms of the trust or appointed pursuant to G.S. 36C-7-704.

"§ 36C-1-109. Methods and waiver of notice.

(a) Notice to a person under this Chapter or the sending of a document to a person under this Chapter must be accomplished in a manner reasonably suitable under the circumstances and likely to result in receipt of the notice or document. Permissible methods of notice or for sending a document include first-class mail, personal delivery, delivery to the person's last known place of residence or place of business, or a properly directed electronic message.

(b) Notice otherwise required under this Chapter, or a document otherwise required to be sent under this Chapter, need not be provided to a person whose identity or location is unknown to and not reasonably ascertainable by the trustee.

(c) Notice under this Chapter, or the sending of a document under this Chapter, may be waived by the person to be notified or sent the document.

(d) Notice of a judicial proceeding must be given as provided in Article 2 of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-1-110. Others treated as qualified beneficiaries.

(a) A charitable organization expressly designated to receive distributions under the terms of a charitable trust has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this Chapter if the charitable organization, on the date the charitable organization's qualification is being determined:

(1) Is a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal;
(2) Would be a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal upon the termination of the interest of other distributees or permissible distributees then receiving or eligible to receive distributions, but the termination of those interests would not cause the trust to terminate; or
(3) Would be a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal if the trust terminated on that date.

(b) A person appointed to enforce a trust created for the care of an animal or another noncharitable purpose as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or G.S. 36C-4-409 has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this Chapter.

"§ 36C-1-111. Nonjudicial settlement agreements.

(a) For purposes of this section, "interested persons" means persons whose consent would be required in order to achieve a binding settlement were the settlement to be approved by the court.

(b) Interested persons may enter into a binding nonjudicial settlement agreement with respect to any of the following matters involving a trust:

(1) The approval of a trustee's report or accounting;

(2) Direction to a trustee to perform or refrain from performing a particular administrative act or the grant to a trustee of any necessary or desirable administrative power, including a power granted pursuant to G.S. 36C-8-816;

(3) The resignation or appointment of a trustee and the determination of a trustee's compensation;

(4) Transfer of a trust's principal place of administration; and

(5) Liability of a trustee for any action taken pursuant to subdivisions (1) through (4) of this subsection.

(c) A nonjudicial settlement agreement is valid only to the extent it does not violate a material purpose of the trust and includes terms and conditions that could be properly approved by the court under this Chapter or other applicable law.

(d) Any interested person may request the court to approve a nonjudicial settlement agreement, to determine whether the representation as provided in Article 3 of this Chapter was adequate, and to determine whether the agreement contains terms and conditions the court could have properly approved.

"§ 36C-1-112. Rules of construction.

The rules of construction that apply in this State to the interpretation of and disposition of property by will also apply as appropriate to the interpretation of the terms of a trust and the disposition of the trust property.

"Article 2.

"Judicial Proceedings.

"§ 36C-2-201. Role of court in administration of trust.

(a) The court may intervene in the administration of a trust to the extent its jurisdiction is invoked by a party or as provided by law.

(b) A trust is not subject to continuing judicial supervision, except as provided in G.S. 36C-2-208 and G.S. 36C-2-209, unless ordered by the court.

(c) A judicial proceeding involving a trust may relate to any matter involving the trust's administration, including a request for instructions and an action to declare rights.

"§ 36C-2-202. Jurisdiction over trustee and beneficiary.

(a) By accepting the trusteeship of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State, or by moving the principal place of administration to this State, the trustee submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust.

(b) With respect to their interests in the trust, the beneficiaries of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State are subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust. By accepting a distribution from such a trust, the recipient submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust.

(c) This section does not preclude other methods of obtaining jurisdiction over a trustee, beneficiary, or other person receiving property from the trust.

"§ 36C-2-203. Subject matter jurisdiction.

(a) The clerks of superior court of this State have original jurisdiction over all proceedings concerning the internal affairs of trusts. Except as provided in subdivision (9) of this subsection, the clerk of superior court's jurisdiction is exclusive. Proceedings concerning the internal affairs of the trust are those concerning the administration and distribution of trusts, the declaration of rights, and the determination of other matters involving trustees and trust beneficiaries, to the extent that those matters are not otherwise provided for in the governing instrument. These include proceedings:

(1) To appoint or remove a trustee;

(2) To permit a trustee to resign or renounce; however, unless the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, when the governing instrument names or provides a procedure to name a successor trustee, and the successor trustee is willing to serve, no trustee shall be required to initiate a proceeding to resign or renounce as trustee;

(3) To review trustees' fees pursuant to Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes and review and settle interim or final accounts;

(4) To (i) convert an income trust to a total return unitrust, (ii) reconvert a total return unitrust to an income trust, or (iii) change the percentage used to calculate the unitrust amount or the method used to determine the fair market value of the trust as provided in G.S. 37A-1-104.3;

(5) To transfer a trust's principal place of administration;

(6) To require a trustee to provide bond and determine the amount of the bond, excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties;

(7) To make such orders with respect to a trust for the care of animals as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

(8) To make such orders with respect to a noncharitable trust without an ascertainable beneficiary as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409; and

(9) To ascertain beneficiaries, to determine any question arising in the administration or distribution of any trust, including questions of construction of trust instruments, and to determine the existence or nonexistence of trusts created other than by will and the existence or nonexistence of any immunity, power, privilege, duty, or right. Upon motion of a party, the clerk of superior court may determine that a proceeding to determine an issue listed in this subdivision shall be originally heard by the superior court division of the General Court of Justice.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed (i) to confer upon the clerk of superior court any authority to regulate or supervise the actions of a trustee except to the extent that the trustee's actions are inconsistent with the provisions of the governing instrument or of State law; or (ii) to confer upon any party any additional right, remedy, or cause of action not otherwise conferred by law.

(c) Nothing in this section affects the right of a person to file an action for declaratory relief under the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes. In the event either the petitioner or respondent in a trust proceeding requests declaratory relief under the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes, either party may move for a transfer of the proceeding to the superior court division of the General Court of Justice as provided in Article 21 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes. In absence of removal to superior court, the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes shall apply to a trust proceeding to the extent not inconsistent with this Article.

(d) The clerk of superior court shall not, over the objection of a party, entertain proceedings under this section involving a trust having its principal place of administration in another state, except:

(1) When all appropriate parties could not be bound by litigation in the courts of the state in which the trust had its principal place of administration; or

(2) When the interests of justice otherwise would be seriously impaired.

The clerk of superior court may condition a stay or dismissal of a proceeding under this section on the consent of any party to jurisdiction of the state in which the trust has its principal place of administration, or the clerk of superior court may grant a continuance or enter any other appropriate order.

(e) Any party to a proceeding before the clerk of superior court may appeal from the decision of the clerk to a superior court judge as provided for estate matters in G.S. 1-301.3.

(f) Without otherwise limiting the jurisdiction of the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, proceedings concerning the internal affairs of trusts shall not include, and, therefore, the clerk of superior court shall not have jurisdiction under subsection (a) of the following:

(1) Actions to reform, terminate, or modify a trust as provided by G.S. 36C-4-410 through G.S. 36C-4-416;

(2) Actions by or against creditors or debtors of a trust;

(3) Actions involving claims for monetary damages, including claims for breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, and negligence;

(4) Actions to enforce a charitable trust under G.S. 36C-4-405A; and

(5) Actions to amend or reform a charitable trust under G.S. 36C-4A-1.

"§ 36C-2-204. Venue.

In any trust proceeding or action, whether brought before the clerk of superior court or the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, the following rules apply notwithstanding any other applicable Rule of Civil Procedure or provision of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes:

(1) If the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, then unless the terms of the governing instrument provide otherwise, venue for proceedings under G.S. 36C-2-203 involving trusts is the place where the accountings are filed.

(2) If the trustee is not required to account to the clerk of superior court, then unless the terms of the governing instrument provide otherwise, venue for proceedings under G.S. 36C-2-203 involving trusts is:

a. In the case of an inter vivos trust, in any county of this State in which the trust has its principal place of administration or where any beneficiary resides; or

b. In the case of a testamentary trust, in any county of this State in which the trust has its principal place of administration, where any beneficiary resides, or in which the testator's estate was administered.

(3) Unless otherwise designated in the governing instrument, the principal place of administration of the trust is the trustee's usual place of business where the records pertaining to the trust are kept, or at the trustee's residence if the trustee has no such place of business. In the case of co-trustees, the principal place of administration, if not otherwise designated in the governing instrument, is:

a. The usual place of business of the corporate trustee if there is but one corporate or co-trustee; or

b. The usual place of business or residence of any of the co-trustees.

(4) If a trust has no trustee, venue for a judicial proceeding for the appointment of a trustee is in any county of this State in which a beneficiary resides, in any county in which trust property is located, in the county of this State specified in the trust instrument, if any county is so specified, or if the trust is created by will, in the county in which the decedent's estate was or is being administered.

"§ 36C-2-205. Commencement of proceedings, pleadings, consolidation, and joinder.

(a) Contested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court brought against adverse parties shall be commenced as is prescribed for civil actions. Upon the filing of the petition or complaint, the clerk of superior court shall docket the cause as an estate matter. All parties not joined as petitioners shall be joined as respondents. The clerk of superior court shall issue the summons for the respondents.

The clerk of superior court may order that additional persons be joined as respondents and shall issue the summons for the additional persons. The summons shall notify the respondents to appear and answer the petition within 10 days after its service upon the respondents. The summons shall comply with the requirements set forth in G.S. 1-394 for a special proceeding summons except that the clerk of superior court shall indicate on the summons by appropriate words that the summons is issued in an estate matter and not in a special proceeding or in a civil action and shall be served upon the respondents in accordance with Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. After the time for responding to the petition or complaint has expired, any party or the clerk of superior court may give notice to all parties of a hearing.

(b) Uncontested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court in which all the parties join in the proceeding shall be commenced by the filing of a petition, setting forth the facts entitling the petitioners to relief and the nature of the relief demanded. In such proceedings, the clerk of superior court may hear and decide the petition summarily.

(c) Pleadings. – The petition or complaint filed in a trust proceeding before the clerk of superior court shall contain a short and plain statement of the claim which is sufficiently particular to give the court and the parties notice of the transactions, occurrences, or series of transactions, intended to be proved showing that the pleaders entitled to relief, and a demand for judgment for the relief to which the pleader is entitled. Each averment of a pleading should be simple, concise, and direct. No technical forms of pleadings or motions are required. A party may set forth two or more statements of a claim or defense alternatively or hypothetically. The signature of an attorney or party constitutes a certificate by that attorney or party that (i) the attorney or party has read the pleading, motion, or other paper; (ii) that to the best of the attorney's or party's knowledge, information, and belief formed after reasonable inquiry it is well grounded in fact and is warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law; and (iii) that it is not interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation. All pleadings shall be so construed as to do substantial justice.

(d) Extensions of Time. – The clerk of superior court, for cause shown at any time in the clerk's discretion, with or without motion or notice, may enter an order enlarging the period of time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, if the request is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed, but not to exceed 10 days, nor more than once. Upon motion made after the expiration of the specified period, the clerk of superior court may permit the act where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the parties to a proceeding may enter into binding stipulations, without approval of the clerk of superior court, enlarging the time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, not to exceed 30 days.

(e) Rules of Civil Procedure. – Unless the clerk of superior court otherwise directs, Rules 5, 6(a), 6(d), 6(e), 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, and 45 of the Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to trust proceedings. Upon motion of a party or the clerk of superior court, the clerk may further direct that the following Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply: 15, 16, 17, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, and 37; however, nothing in Rule 17 shall require the appointment of a guardian ad litem for a party represented except as provided under G.S. 36C-3-305. In applying these Rules to a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court, the term "judge" shall be construed as "clerk of superior court."

(f) Consolidation. – When a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court and a civil action pending before the superior court division of the General Court of Justice involve a common question of law or fact, upon the court's motion or motion of a party to either the trust proceeding or the civil action, a superior court judge may order a consolidation of the trust proceeding and civil action, and the judge may make such orders concerning proceedings therein as may tend to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Upon the entry of an order consolidating a trust proceeding and civil action, the jurisdiction for all matters pending in both the trust proceeding and the civil action shall be vested in the superior court.

(g) Joinder. – In any civil action pending before a superior court division of the General Court of Justice, a party asserting a claim for relief as an original claim, counterclaim, cross claim, or third-party claim, may join, either as independent or as alternate claims, as many claims, legal or equitable, as he has against an opposing party notwithstanding the fact that such claims may otherwise be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the clerk of superior court.

(h) Orders Upon Consolidation/Joinder. – Upon the consolidation of a trust proceeding and civil action or joinder of claims pursuant to subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of superior court or the judge may make such orders as appropriate to protect the interests of the parties and to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Notwithstanding the consolidation or joinder of claims pursuant to subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of court's exclusive jurisdiction as set forth in G.S. 36C-2-203(a) shall not be stayed unless so ordered by the court.

"§ 36C-2-206. Representation of parties.

In any trust proceeding or action, whether brought before the clerk of superior court or in the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, the following rules apply notwithstanding any other applicable Rule of Civil Procedure or provision of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes:

(1) Parties shall be represented as provided in Article 3 of this Chapter.

(2) In the case of any party represented by another as provided in subdivision (1) of this section, service of process shall be made by serving such representative.

"§ 36C-2-207. Waiver of notice.

A party, or the representative of the party as provided in G.S. 36C-2-206, may waive notice by a writing signed by the party, the representative, or the attorney of the party or the representative, and filed in the proceeding.

"§ 36C-2-208. Accounting to clerk.

(a) No trustee, including a trustee appointed by the clerk of superior court, shall be required to account to the clerk of superior court unless the trust instrument directs that the trustee shall be required to account to the clerk of superior court or unless the trustee is otherwise required by law to account to the clerk of superior court.

(b) If the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, the trustee shall not be permitted to resign as trustee until a final account of the trust estate is filed with the clerk of superior court and until the court shall be satisfied that the account is true and correct, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) of this section, pursuant to a proceeding brought under G.S. 36C-4-405A, the clerk of superior court may require a trustee of a charitable trust to account to the clerk of superior court.

"§ 36C-2-209. Qualification and accounting of trustee of a testamentary trust.

(a) For any testamentary trust created under a will of a decedent executed before January 1, 2004, the trustee shall first qualify under the laws applicable to executors, and shall file in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county where the will is probated inventories of the assets that come into the trustee's hands and annual and final accounts of the trust that are the same as required of executors and administrators. The power of the clerk of superior court to enforce the filing and the clerk's duties to audit and approve the trustee's inventories and accounts shall be the same as the clerk's powers and duties with respect to the inventories and accounts of executors and administrators. This subsection shall not apply to the extent that the will makes a different provision.

(b) For any testamentary trust created under a will of a decedent executed on or after January 1, 2004, the provisions of which direct the trustee to account to the clerk of superior court, the trustee shall first qualify under the laws applicable to executors and shall file in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county where the will is probated inventories of the assets that come into the trustee's hands and annual and final accounts of the trust that are the same as are required of executors and administrators. The power of the clerk of superior court to enforce the filing and the clerk's duties to audit and approve the trustee's inventories and accounts shall be the same as the clerk's powers and duties with respect to the inventories and accounts of executors and administrators. No trustee, including a trustee appointed by the clerk of superior court, shall be required to account to the clerk of superior court unless the will directs that the trustee shall be required to account to the clerk of superior court or unless otherwise required by law.

(c) The Administrative Office of the Courts may adopt rules regulating the registration or indexing of testamentary trusts.

"Article 3.

"Representation.

"§ 36C-3-301. Representation: basic effect.

(a) Notice to a person who may represent and bind another person under this Article has the same effect as if notice were given directly to the other person.

(b) The consent of a person who may represent and bind another person under this Article is binding on the person represented unless the person represented objects to the representation before the consent would otherwise have become effective.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-411 and G.S. 36C-6-602, a person who under this Article may represent a settlor who lacks capacity may receive notice and give a binding consent on the settlor's behalf.

(d) A settlor may not represent and bind a beneficiary under this Article with respect to the termination or modification of trust under G.S. 36C-4-411(a).

"§ 36C-3-302. Representation by holder of general testamentary power of appointment.

The sole holder or all coholders of a power of revocation or a presently exercisable general power of appointment, including one in the form of a power of amendment, shall represent other persons to the extent that their interests, as permissible appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power. To the extent there is no conflict of interest between the holder of a general testamentary power of appointment and the persons represented with respect to the particular question or dispute, the holder may represent and bind persons whose interests, as permissible appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power.

"§ 36C-3-303. Representation by fiduciaries, parents, and other persons.

To the extent that there is no conflict of interest between the representative and the person represented or among those being represented with respect to a particular question or dispute:

(1) A general guardian or a guardian of the estate may represent and bind the estate that the guardian controls.

(2) A guardian of the person may represent and bind the ward if a general guardian or guardian of the estate of the ward's estate has not been appointed.

If a disagreement arises between parents seeking to represent the same minor child, the parent who is a beneficiary of the trust which is the subject of the representation shall be entitled to represent the minor child or, if no parent is a beneficiary of the trust which is the subject of the representation, a parent who is a lineal descendant of the settlor shall be entitled to represent the minor child, or if no parent is a lineal descendant of the settlor, a guardian ad litem shall be appointed to represent the minor child.

(7) A person may represent and bind that person's unborn issue.

"§ 36C-3-304. Representation by person having substantially identical interest.

Unless otherwise represented under this Article, a minor, an incapacitated or unborn individual, or a person whose identity or location is unknown and not reasonably ascertainable, may be represented by and bound by another having a substantially identical interest with respect to the particular question or dispute, but only to the extent that there is no conflict of interest between the representative and the person represented.

"§ 36C-3-305. Appointment of representative; scope of representation.

(a) If the court determines that an interest is not represented under this Article, or that the otherwise available representation might be inadequate, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to receive notice, give consent, and otherwise represent, bind, and act on behalf of a minor, incapacitated or unborn individual, or a person whose identity or location is unknown. A guardian ad litem may be appointed to represent several persons or interests.

"Article 4.

"Creation, Validity, Modification, and Termination of Trust.

"§ 36C-4-401. Methods of creating trust.

A trust may be created by:

(1) Transfer of property by a settlor to a person as trustee during the settlor's lifetime or by will or other disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death;

(2) Declaration by the owner of property that the owner holds identifiable property as trustee unless the transfer of title of that property is otherwise required by law; or

(3) Exercise of a power of appointment in favor of a trustee.

"§ 36C-4-401A. Interest of trustee as beneficiary of life insurance or other death benefit sufficient to support inter vivos or testamentary trust.

(a) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured or any other person or persons reserves or has the right to exercise any one or more of the following rights or powers:

(1) To change the beneficiary;

(2) To surrender the policy and receive the cash surrender value;

(3) To borrow from the insurance company issuing the policy or elsewhere using the policy as collateral security;

(4) To assign the policy; or

(5) To exercise any other right in connection with the policy commonly known as an incident of ownership of that policy.

The term "life insurance policy" includes life, annuity, and endowment contracts, or any variation or combination of those contracts, and any agreement entered into by an insurance company in connection with life, annuity, or endowments contracts.

(b) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a death benefit under an employee benefit plan or group life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured, employer, insurer or administrator of the plan reserves or has the right to revoke or otherwise defeat the designation or assignment or to exercise any one or more of the rights or powers incident to employee benefit plans or group life insurance policies.

The term "employee benefit plan" includes pension, retirement, death benefit, deferred compensation, employment, agency, retirement annuity, stock bonus, profit-sharing or employees' savings contracts, plans, systems or trusts; and trusts, securities or accounts established or held pursuant to the federal Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962, the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, or similar legislation. The term "group life insurance policy" includes group life, industrial life, accident, and health insurance policies having death benefits.

(c) A testator having the right to designate the beneficiary under a life insurance policy, employee benefit plan, or group life insurance policy described in subsection (a) or (b) of this section may designate as that beneficiary a trustee named or to be named in the testator's will whether or not the will is in existence at the time of the designation. The proceeds received by the trustee shall be held and disposed of as part of the trust estate under the terms of the will as they exist at the death of the testator. If no trustee makes claim to the proceeds within six months after the death of the testator, payments shall be made to the personal representative of the estate of the testator unless it is otherwise provided by an alternative designation or by the policy or plan. The proceeds received by the trustee shall not be subject to claims against the estate of the testator to estate or inheritance taxes to any greater extent than if the proceeds were payable directly to the beneficiary or beneficiaries named in the trust. The proceeds may be commingled with any other assets that may properly become part of such trust, but the proceeds shall not become part of the testator's estate for purposes of trust administration unless the will expressly so provides.

"§ 36C-4-402. Requirements for creation.

(a) A trust is created only if:

(1) The settlor has capacity to create a trust;

(2) The settlor indicates an intention to create the trust;

(3) The trust has a definite beneficiary or is:

a. A charitable trust;

b. A trust for the care of an animal, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

c. A trust for a noncharitable purpose, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409;

(4) The trustee has duties to perform; and

(5) The same person is not the sole trustee and sole beneficiary.

(b) A beneficiary is definite if the beneficiary can be ascertained now or in the future, subject to any applicable rule against perpetuities.

(c) A power in a trustee to select a beneficiary from an indefinite class is valid. If the power is not exercised within a reasonable time, the power fails and the property subject to the power passes to the persons who would have taken the property had the power not been conferred.

"§ 36C-4-403. Trusts created in other jurisdictions.

A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complies with the law of the jurisdiction in which the trust instrument was executed, or the law of the jurisdiction in which, at the time of creation:

(1) The settlor was domiciled, had a place of abode, or was a national;

(2) A trustee was domiciled or had a place of business; or

(3) Any trust property was located.

"§ 36C-4-404. Trust purposes.

A trust may be created only to the extent that its purposes are lawful, not contrary to public policy, and possible to achieve. A trust and its terms must be for the benefit of its beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-4-405. Charitable purposes.

(a) A charitable trust may be created for the relief of poverty, the advancement of education or religion, the promotion of health, scientific, benevolent, literary, governmental, or municipal purposes, or other purposes the achievement of which is beneficial to the community.

(b) It is the policy of the State of North Carolina that gifts for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, are valid, notwithstanding the fact that the gift is made in general terms, and this section shall be construed liberally to effect this policy.

(c) No gift for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, is void or invalid because:

(1) The gift is in general terms or is uncertain as to the specific charitable purposes;

(2) When the gift is made in trust, the trustee is granted discretionary powers in the selection and designation of the beneficiaries of that charitable trust or in carrying out the purpose of that trust;

(3) The trustee or other recipient of the gift is given no specific instructions, powers, or duties as to the manner or means of carrying out those charitable purposes; or

(4) The gift contravenes any statute or rule against perpetuities.

(d) When any gift is made in general terms, the trustee or other recipient of the gift shall have the right and power:

(1) To select from time to time one or more specific charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which any trust or property or income shall be held and administered; and

(2) To determine the means to accomplish those charitable purposes, unless otherwise provided, including the creation of corporations or other legal entities for those purposes.

(e) For purposes of this section, the reference to a "gift" or "gifts" includes both inter vivos and testamentary gifts, grants, and other transfers.

"§ 36C-4-405A. Enforcement of charitable gift or trust.

(a) The settlor of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, the district attorney, a beneficiary, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce a charitable trust, including the following:

(1) A proceeding to require a trustee to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the trust was established, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405;

(2) A proceeding for breach of fiduciary duty if there is reason to believe that the trust property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud; and

(3) A proceeding for an accounting of the trustee's administration of the trust.

(b) The donor of a charitable gift, the Attorney General, the district attorney, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce the gift, including a proceeding to require the recipient of the gift to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the gift was intended, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405.

"§ 36C-4-406. Creation of trust induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

A trust is voidable to the extent that its creation was induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

"§ 36C-4-407. Evidence of oral trust.

Except as required by a statute other than this Chapter, a trust need not be evidenced by a trust instrument, but the creation of an oral trust and its terms may be established only by clear and convincing evidence.

"§ 36C-4-408. Trust for care of animal.

(a) Subject to the provisions of this section, a trust for the care of one or more designated domestic or pet animals alive at the time of creation of the trust is valid.

(b) Except as expressly provided otherwise in the trust instrument, no portion of the principal or income may be converted to the use of the trustee or to any use other than for the benefit of the designated animal or animals.

(c) The trust terminates at the death of the animal or last surviving animal. Upon termination, the trustee shall transfer the unexpended trust property in the following order:

(1) As directed in the trust instrument;

(2) If the trust was created in a preresiduary clause in the transferor's will or in a codicil to the transferor's will, under the residuary clause in the transferor's will;

(3) If no taker is produced by the application of subdivision (1) or (2) of this subsection, to the transferor or the transferor's heirs determined as of the date of the transferor's death under Chapter 29 of the General Statutes.

(d) The intended use of the principal or income can be enforced by a person designated for that purpose in the trust instrument or, if none, by a person appointed by the clerk of superior court having jurisdiction over the decedent's estate upon application to the clerk of superior court by a person.

(e) Except as ordered by the clerk of superior court or required by the trust instrument, no filing, report, registration, periodic accounting, separate maintenance of funds, appointment, bond, or fee is required by reason of the existence of the fiduciary relationship of the trustee.

(f) A governing instrument shall be liberally construed to bring the transfer within this section, to presume against the merely precatory or honorary nature of the disposition, and to carry out the general intent of the transferor. Extrinsic evidence is admissible in determining the transferor's intent.

(g) The clerk of superior court may reduce the amount of the property transferred, if the clerk of superior court determines that the amount substantially exceeds the amount required for the intended use. The amount of the reduction, if any, passes as unexpended trust property under subsection (c) of this section.

(h) If no trustee is designated or if no designated trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve, the clerk of superior court shall name a trustee. The clerk of superior court may order the transfer of the property to another trustee, if required to assure that the intended use is carried out and if no successor trustee is designated in the trust instrument or if no designated successor trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve. The clerk of superior court may also make such other orders and determinations as are advisable to carry out the intent of the transferor and the purpose of this section.

"§ 36C-4-409. Noncharitable trust without ascertainable beneficiary.

Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or by another statute, the following rules apply:

(1) A trust may be created for a noncharitable purpose without a definite or definitely ascertainable beneficiary or for a noncharitable but otherwise valid purpose to be selected by the trustee. The trust may not be enforced for more than 21 years.

(2) A trust authorized by this section may be enforced by a person appointed in the terms of the trust or, if no person is so appointed, by a person appointed by the court.

(3) Property of a trust authorized by this section may be applied only to its intended use, except to the extent that the court determines that the value of the trust property exceeds the amount required for the intended use. Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, property not required for the intended use must be distributed to the settlor, if then living, or otherwise to the settlor's successors in interest.

(4) Notwithstanding subdivisions (1) through (3) of this section, a trust, contract, or other arrangement to provide for the care of a cemetery lot, grave, crypt, niche, mausoleum, columbarium, grave marker, or monument is valid without regard to remoteness of vesting, duration of the arrangement, or lack of definite beneficiaries to enforce the trust, provided that the trust, contract, or other arrangement meets the requirements of G.S. 28A-19-10, Article 4 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, Article 9 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, or other applicable law. This section does not repeal or supersede G.S. 36C-4-413.

"§ 36C-4-410. Modification or termination of trust; proceedings for approval or disapproval.

(a) In addition to the methods of termination prescribed by G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-414, a trust terminates to the extent that the trust is revoked or expires pursuant to its terms, no purpose of the trust remains to be achieved, or the purposes of the trust have become unlawful, contrary to public policy, or impossible to achieve.

(b) A proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-416, or trust combination or division under G.S. 36C-4-417, may be commenced by a trustee or beneficiary, and a proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under

G.S. 36C-4-411 may be commenced by the settlor. The settlor of a charitable trust may maintain a proceeding to modify the trust under G.S. 36C-4-413. A trustee shall be a necessary party to any proceeding under this section.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-411. Modification or termination of noncharitable irrevocable trust by consent.

(a) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified or terminated upon consent of the settlor and all beneficiaries, even if the modification or termination is inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust. A settlor's power to consent to a trust's modification or termination may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the power of attorney or the terms of the trust; by the settlor's general guardian or the guardian of the estate with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized; or by the settlor's guardian of the person with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized and a general guardian or guardian of the estate has not been appointed.

(b) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be terminated upon consent of all of the beneficiaries if the court concludes that continuance of the trust is not necessary to achieve any material purpose of the trust. A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified upon consent of all of the beneficiaries, if the court concludes that modification is not inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust.

(c) Where the beneficiaries of an irrevocable trust seek to compel a termination of the trust and the continuance of the trust is necessary to carry out a material purpose of the trust, or where the beneficiaries seek to compel a modification of the trust in a manner that is inconsistent with its material purpose, the trust may be modified or terminated, in the discretion of the court, only if the court determines that the reason for modifying or terminating the trust under the circumstances substantially outweighs the interest in accomplishing a material purpose of the trust.

(d) If not all of the beneficiaries consent to a proposed modification or termination of the trust under subsection (a), (b) or (c) of this section, the modification or termination may be approved by the court if the court is satisfied that:

(1) If all of the beneficiaries had consented, the trust could have been modified or terminated under this section; and

(2) The interests of a beneficiary who does not consent will be adequately protected.

(e) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-412. Modification or termination because of unanticipated circumstances or inability to administer trust effectively.

(a) The court may modify the administrative or dispositive terms of a trust or terminate the trust if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the settlor, modification or termination will further the purposes of the trust. To the extent practicable, the modification must be made in accordance with the settlor's probable intention.

(b) The court may modify the administrative terms of a trust if continuation of the trust on its existing terms would be impracticable or wasteful or impair the trust's administration.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-413. Cy pres.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, if a charitable trust becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful:

(1) The trust does not fail, in whole or in part;

(2) The trust property does not revert to the settlor or the settlor's successors in interest; and

(3) The court may apply cy pres to modify or terminate the trust by directing that the trust property be applied or distributed, in whole or in part, in a manner consistent with the settlor's charitable purposes.

(b) The settlor or a trustee of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, a beneficiary or any other interested party may maintain a cy pres proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter.

(c) In every cy pres proceeding, the Attorney General shall be notified and given an opportunity to be heard.

(d) This section shall not be applicable if the settlor has provided, either directly or indirectly, for an alternative plan in the event that the charitable trust is or becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful. However, if the alternative plan is also a charitable trust and that trust fails, the intention shown in the original plan shall prevail in the application of this section.

"§ 36C-4-414. Modification or termination of uneconomic trust.

(a) After notice to the qualified beneficiaries, the trustee of a trust consisting of trust property having a total value of less than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) may terminate the trust if the trustee concludes that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration. The trustee may enter into an agreement or make other provisions that the trustee deems necessary or appropriate to protect the interests of the beneficiaries and to carry out the intent and purpose of the trust. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply where the instrument creating the trust, by specific reference to this section, or to former G.S. 36A-125.6, provides that it shall not apply. The trustee shall not be liable for that termination and distribution notwithstanding the existence or potential existence of other beneficiaries who are not sui juris. Any beneficiary receiving a distribution from a trust terminated under this section shall incur no liability and shall not be required to account to anyone for such distribution.

(b) The court may modify or terminate a trust or remove the trustee and appoint a different trustee if it determines that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration.

(c) This section does not apply to an easement for conservation or preservation.

(d) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-415. Reformation to correct mistakes.

The court may reform the terms of a trust, even if unambiguous, to conform the terms to the settlor's intention if it is proved by clear and convincing evidence that both the settlor's intent and the terms of the trust were affected by a mistake of fact or law, whether in expression or inducement. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-416. Modification to achieve settlor's tax objectives.

To achieve a settlor's tax objectives, the court may modify the terms of a trust in a manner that is not contrary to the settlor's probable intention. The court may provide that the modification has retroactive effect. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-417. Combination and division of trusts.

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the trust instrument, after notice to the qualified beneficiaries, a trustee may:

(1) Consolidate the assets of more than one trust and administer the assets as one trust under the terms of one of the trusts if the terms of the trusts are substantially similar and the beneficiaries of the trusts are identical; or

(2) Divide one trust into two or more separate trusts if the new trusts provide in the aggregate for the same succession of interests and beneficiaries as are provided in the original trust.

(b) In dividing a trust into two or more separate trusts, a trustee shall accomplish the division by severing the trusts on a fractional basis and funding the separate trusts either (i) with a pro rata portion of each asset held by the undivided trust; or (ii) on a non-pro rata basis based on either the fair market value of the assets on the date of funding or in a manner that fairly reflects the net appreciation or depreciation in the value of the assets measured from the valuation date to the date of funding.

(c) In any case where two separate identical trusts are created pursuant to this section, one of which is fully exempt from the federal generation-skipping transfer tax and one of which is fully subject to that tax, the trustee may thereafter, to the extent possible consistent with the terms of the trust, determine the value of any mandatory or discretionary distributions to trust beneficiaries on the basis of the combined value of both trusts, but may satisfy those distributions by a method other than pro rata from the separate trusts in a manner designed to minimize the current and potential generation-skipping transfer tax.

"§ 36C-4-418. Distribution upon termination of trust.

Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, the trustee shall distribute the trust property as agreed by the beneficiaries. Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-412 or G.S. 36C-4-414, the trustee shall distribute the trust property in a manner consistent with the purposes of the trust. If any trust property becomes distributable to a minor or incompetent under this Article it may be distributed:

(1) To the guardian of the estate or general guardian of the beneficiary;

(2) In accordance with the North Carolina Uniform Transfer to Minors Act, Chapter 33A of the General Statutes; or

(3) In accordance with the North Carolina Custodial Trust Act, Chapter 33B of the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-4-419. Effect of inalienable interest on modification or termination.

The court, in exercising its discretion to modify or terminate an irrevocable trust pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 36C-4-411, 36C-4-412 or 36C-4-413 shall consider provisions making the interest of a beneficiary inalienable, including those described in Article 5, but the court is not precluded from the exercise of that discretion solely because of such provisions.

"Article 4A.

"Tax Status of Charitable Trusts.

"§ 36C-4A-1. Prohibited transactions.

(a) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (b), the trust instrument of each trust which is a private foundation described in section 509 of the Internal Revenue Code (including each nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code which is treated as a private foundation) and the trust instrument of each nonexempt split-interest trust described in section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code (but only to the extent that section 508(e) of the Internal Revenue Code is applicable to such nonexempt split-interest trust under section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code) shall be deemed to contain the following provisions: "The trust shall make distributions at such time and in such manner as not to subject it to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not engage in any act of self-dealing which would subject it to tax under section 4941 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not retain any excess business holdings which would subject it to tax under section 4943 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not make any investments which would subject it to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code; and the trust shall not make any taxable expenditures which would subject it to tax under section 4945 of the Internal Revenue Code." With respect to any such trust created prior to January 1, 1970, this section shall apply only for its taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1972.

(b) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary, unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (a) of this section, the governing instrument of each trust that is a nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code shall be deemed to contain the following provisions:

(1) The trust shall be operated exclusively for charitable, educational, religious and scientific purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) and section 170(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(2) Upon any dissolution, winding up, or liquidation of the trust, its assets shall be distributed for one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or shall be distributed to the federal government, or a state or local government for a public purpose.

(c) The trustee of any trust described in this section may either:

(1) Without judicial proceedings, amend the trust to expressly exclude the application of this section by executing a written amendment to the trust instrument and filing a duplicate original of the amendment with the Attorney General. Upon filing of the amendment, this section shall not apply to that trust.

(2) Institute a proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter seeking reformation of the trust instrument.

"§ 36C-4A-2. Reformation of charitable remainder trust.

If a federal estate tax deduction is not allowable at the time of a decedent's death because of the failure of an interest in property that passes from the decedent under a will or trust to a person, or for a use, described in section 2055(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, to meet the requirements of subsections 2055(e)(2)(A) or (B) of the Internal Revenue Code, then in order that the deduction shall nevertheless be allowable under section 2055(e)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, the court may, on application of any trustee or interested party with either (i) the written consent of the qualified beneficiaries, or (ii) a finding that the interest of those beneficiaries is substantially preserved, order an amendment to the trust so that the remainder interest is in a trust that is a charitable remainder annuity trust, a charitable remainder unitrust (as those terms are described in section 664 of the Internal Revenue Code), or a pooled income fund (as that term is described in section 642(c)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code), or so that any other interest of a charitable beneficiary is in the form of a guaranteed annuity or is a fixed percentage distributed yearly of the fair market value of the property (to be determined yearly), in accordance with the provisions of section 2055(e)(2)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code. In every such proceeding, the Attorney General shall be notified, and given an opportunity to be heard.

"Article 4B.

"Charitable Remainder Trust Administration Act.

"§ 36C-4B-1. Short title.

This Article shall be known as the Charitable Remainder Administration Trust Act.

"§ 36C-4B-2. General rule.

Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instruments to the contrary, any charitable remainder annuity trust and any charitable remainder unitrust that cannot qualify for a deduction for federal tax purposes under section 2055 or section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code in the absence of this Article shall be administered in accordance with this Article.

"§ 36C-4B-3. Definitions.

The following definitions apply to this Article unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Charitable remainder trust" means a trust that provides for a specified distribution at least annually for either life or a term of years to one or more beneficiaries, at least one of which is not a charity (hereinafter referred to as "beneficiaries"), with an irrevocable remainder interest to be held for the benefit of, or paid over to, charity. For purposes of this Article, only a charitable remainder annuity trust or a charitable remainder unitrust is considered a charitable remainder trust.

(2) "Charitable remainder annuity trust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a sum certain (that is not less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of all property placed in trust) is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to and/or for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code or is to be retained by the trust for such a use.

(3) "Charitable remainder unitrust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a fixed percentage (that is not less than five percent (5%)) of the net fair market value of its assets, valued annually, is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be made subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to or for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, or is to be retained by the trust for such a use.

Notwithstanding the provisions of sub-subdivisions a. and b. of this subdivision, the trust instrument may provide that the trustee shall pay to the income beneficiary for any year (i) the amount of the trust income if that amount is less than the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, and (ii) any amount of the trust income that exceeds the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivisions a of this subdivision to the extent that (by reason of sub-subdivision a.) the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the required amounts.

(4) "Qualified contingency" means any provision of the governing instrument that provides that, upon the happening of a contingency, the payments made to an individual noncharitable beneficiary of a charitable remainder trust will terminate not later than those payments would otherwise terminate under the governing instrument.

"§ 36C-4B-4. Administrative provisions applicable to both charitable remainder annuity trusts and charitable remainder unit trusts.

(a) Creation of Remainder Interests in Charity. – Upon the termination of the noncharitable interests, the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiary or beneficiaries, to the designated charity or charities, or shall hold the property in trust for the designated charity or charities in accordance with the terms of the trust document.

(b) Selection of Alternate Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – If the designated charity is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at the time when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee shall distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the trust instrument. If the trust instrument does not provide for a method of selecting alternate charitable beneficiaries that are then qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee shall, in the trustee's sole discretion, select alternate trust beneficiaries that are qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(b1) Selection of Alternative Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(b)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, if the designated charity is, at the time of the creation of the trust, an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, and if the designated charity is not an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee shall distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument; however, in the event that the governing instrument does not provide a method of selecting alternative charitable beneficiaries that are then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee shall, in his sole discretion, select one or more alternative charitable beneficiaries that are described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and shall distribute the principal or income to the organization or organizations so selected in such shares as the trustee, in the trustee's sole discretion, shall determine.

(c) Prohibitions Governing Trustees. – Except for payment of the annuity amount or the unitrust amount to the beneficiaries, whichever is applicable, the trustee is prohibited from engaging in any act of self-dealing as defined in section 4941(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, retaining any excess business holdings as defined in section 4943(c) of the Internal Revenue Code that would subject the trust to tax under section 4943 of the Code, making any investments that would subject the trust to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code, and making any taxable expenditures as defined in section 4945(d) of the Code. The trustee shall make distributions at a time and in a manner as not to subject the trust to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(d) Distribution to Charity During Term of Noncharitable Interests and Distributions in Kind. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests, the trustee may pay to the designated charity the amounts specified in the governing instrument that exceed the annuity amount or the unitrust amount payable to any of the beneficiaries for the taxable year of the trust in which the income is earned. If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity in kind, the adjusted basis for federal income tax purposes of any trust property the trustee distributes in kind to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests must be fairly representative of the adjusted basis for those purposes of all trust property available for distribution on the date of distribution.

(e) Investment Restrictions on Trustee. – Nothing in the trust instrument shall be construed to restrict the trustee from investing the trust assets in a manner that could result in the annual realization of a reasonable amount of income or gain from the sale or disposition of trust assets.

(f) Distribution From Trust Used to Administer an Estate to Charitable Remainder Trust. – If the governing instrument of a revocable inter vivos trust provides that the revocable inter vivos trust will be used partially to administer the estate of the settlor or for some other purpose, and further provides the assets will then be distributed to another trust that is a charitable remainder trust, upon the death of the settlor, or upon the occurrence of any event that causes the trust to become irrevocable, then the trust shall become irrevocable, and the trustee of this trust shall perform any remaining duties or obligations provided for in the trust instrument and then transfer the property specified in the governing instrument to the trustee of the charitable remainder trust to be held, administered, and distributed in the manner and according to the terms and conditions provided by the charitable remainder trust.

(g) Payment of Taxes by Noncharitable Beneficiary. – In the case of any inter vivos charitable remainder trust that is liable to pay, from trust property, any federal estate, state inheritance, or other similar death taxes by reason of the death of the settlor of the trust, the interest of any noncharitable beneficiary of the trust shall terminate upon the death of the settlor unless the noncharitable beneficiary furnishes to the trust sufficient funds for payment of all those taxes attributable to the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary in the trust property, and the termination shall be deemed as the occurrence of a qualified contingency.

"§ 36C-4B-5. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder trusts only.

(a) Creation of Annuity Amount for Period of Years or Life. – The trustee shall pay the annuity amount designated in the trust instrument to the beneficiaries named in the trust instrument during their lives (or if the governing instrument so provides, for a period of 20 years or less) in each taxable year of the trust. The annuity amount shall be paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The annuity amount shall be paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the annuity amount shall be added to principal.

The total amount payable at least annually to a person or persons named in the trust document, at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, may not be less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the property placed in trust as finally determined for federal tax purposes, except as provided in subsection (g) of this section.

(b) Computation of Annuity Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the annuity amount on a daily basis.

(c) Prohibition of Additional Contributions. – No additional contributions shall be made to the trust after the initial contribution.

(d) Deferral of Annuity Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the annuity amount commences with the date of death of the settlor, but payment of the annuity amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any annuity amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The annuity amounts payable, determined under the method described in Section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended prior to August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts shall be computed using an interest rate at six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(e) Dollar Amount Annuity May Be Stated as Fraction or Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust states the amount of the annuity as a fraction or a percentage, the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives an annuity amount equal to a percentage (that percentage being stipulated in the governing instrument of the trust and, in any event, being five percent (5%) or greater) of the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust. In determining this amount, assets shall be valued at their values as finally determined for federal tax purposes. If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust, then, within a reasonable period after a final determination, the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation or shall receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the annuity amount properly payable and the annuity amount actually paid.

(f) Annuity Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the annuity trust amount may be allocated among a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee shall pay the annuity amount, which is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, in each taxable year of the trust, to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in an amount and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the entire annuity amount to one member of this class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner as the trustee from time to time deems advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, then the distribution shall be for a period of years not to exceed 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire annuity amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the annuity amount.

(g) Reduction of Annuity Amount If Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the annuity amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries, the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay a total annuity amount of at least five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the assets placed in trust. Upon the expiration of the term of years or the death of a beneficiary, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay, annually or in more frequent installments, to the survivors for their lives, an annuity amount that in each taxable year of the trust, bears the same ratio to five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the trust assets as the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the date of distribution, less the amount or percentage of trust assets distributed to the charity, bears to the net fair market value of the trust assets as of the date of distribution.

(h) Termination of Annuity Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the annuity amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee shall pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during the term of the noncharitable interest the annuity amount, defined in the trust document, in each taxable year of the trust. The obligation of the trustee to pay the annuity amount shall terminate with the payment preceding the death of the noncharitable beneficiary or other event that terminates the noncharitable interest.

(i) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust retains the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee shall pay to the settlor during his life the annuity amount, as defined in the governing instrument of the trust and, upon the death of the settlor, if the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor, the trustee shall pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during his life the annuity amount equal to the amount paid to the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if he effectively exercised his testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the settlor or noncharitable beneficiary, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee shall continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust shall be effective.

"§ 36C-4B-6. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder unitrusts only.

(a) Creation of Unitrust Amount for a Period of Years or Life. – The trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries named in the trust investment in each taxable year of the trust during their lives or, if the governing instrument so provides, for a period not exceeding 20 years, a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually on the date or by the method designated in the governing instrument of the trust or, if no date or method is specified, on the date or by the method selected by the trustee in his discretion, so long as the same valuation date or dates or valuation methods are used each year. The unitrust amount shall be paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The unitrust amount shall be paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the unitrust amount shall be added to principal. The fixed percentage to be paid at least annually to all beneficiaries cannot be less than five percent (5%).

(b) Unitrust Amount Expressed as the Lesser of Income or a Fixed Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the trustee shall pay, instead of a regular unitrust amount (the fixed percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets, determined annually), the amount of trust income for the taxable year to the extent that this amount is not greater than the amount required to be distributed as a regular unitrust amount for that taxable year or the amount of the trust income for the taxable year that exceeds the regular unitrust amount for that taxable year to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the regular unitrust amount for those prior years, then the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives, or for a period not exceeding 20 years if the trust agreement so provides, an amount equal to the lesser of (i) the trust income for the taxable year, as defined in section 643(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder, and (ii) the percentage, as stated in the governing instrument, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the taxable year decreased as elsewhere provided if the taxable year is a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interest terminates by death or otherwise, and increased as elsewhere provided if additional contributions are made in the taxable year.

If the governing instrument of the trust so provides and if the trust income for any taxable year exceeds the amount determined under (ii) above, the payment to beneficiaries shall also include the excess income to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid to beneficiaries in prior years is less than the percentage of the aggregate net fair market value of the trust assets, which percentage is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, for these years. Payments to beneficiaries shall be made annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. Any income of the trust in excess of these payments shall be added to principal.

(c) Adjustment for Incorrect Valuation. – If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the net fair market value of the trust assets for any taxable year, the trustee shall, within a reasonable period after the final determination of the correct value, pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation, or receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the unitrust amount properly payable and the unitrust amount actually paid.

(d) Computation of Unitrust Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the unitrust amount on a daily basis. If a trust provides for a valuation date other than the first day of the taxable year, and the valuation date does not occur in a taxable year of the trust because the taxable year is either a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interests terminate, the trust assets shall be valued as of the last day of the short taxable year or the day on which the noncharitable interests terminate, as appropriate.

(e) Additional Contributions. – If the governing instrument does not prohibit additional contributions and additional contributions are made to the trust after the initial contribution in the trust, the unitrust amount for the taxable year in which the additional contributions are made shall be a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the sum of (i) the net fair market value of trust assets, excluding the additional contributions and any income from or appreciation of these contributions and (ii) that proportion of the value of the additional contributions excluded under (i) which the number of days in the period beginning with the date of contribution and ending with the earlier of the last day of the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated bears to the number of days in the period beginning on the first day of the taxable year and ending with the earlier of the last day in the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated. If no valuation date occurs after the contributions are made, the assets so added shall be valued as of the time of contribution.

(f) Deferral of Unitrust Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the unitrust amount commences with the date of the settlor's death, but payment of the unitrust amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year of the trust in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any unitrust amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The unitrust amounts payable, determined under the method described in section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended prior to August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts shall be computed using an interest rate of six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(g) Unitrust Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the unitrust amount may be allocated to a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee shall pay, in each taxable year of the trust, the unitrust amount to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in amounts and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the unitrust amount to any one member of the class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner that the trustee shall from time to time deem advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, the distribution shall be for a period not exceeding 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire unitrust amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the unitrust amount.

(h) Reduction of Unitrust Amount if Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of a Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the unitrust amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay the total unitrust amount equal to a percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually, which shall not be less than five percent (5%). Upon expiration of the term of years or the death of a recipient, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay to the survivors for their lives a unitrust amount in each taxable year of the trust equal to at least five percent (5%) (the actual percentage being defined in the trust instrument) of the net fair market value of the remaining trust assets valued annually.

(i) Termination of Unitrust Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interests. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the unitrust amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee shall pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary in each taxable year of the trust during the term of the noncharitable interest. The obligation of the trustee to pay the unitrust amount terminates with the payment preceding the termination of the noncharitable interest by death or otherwise. The five percent (5%) requirement provided in subsection (a) of this section shall be met until the termination of all payments of the unitrust amount.

(j) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust shall retain the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee shall pay the unitrust amount to the settlor during his life and, upon the death of the settlor, shall pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary during his life, provided the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and the noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if the settlor effectively exercised the testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiaries, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee shall continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust shall be effective.

"§ 36C-4B-7. Interpretation.

This Article shall be interpreted and construed to effectuate its general purpose to cause all charitable remainder annuity trusts and all charitable remainder unitrusts to be administered in accordance with the provisions of section 2055 and section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under those sections.

"Article 5.

"Creditors' Claims; Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts.

"§ 36C-5-501. Rights of beneficiary's creditor or assignee.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the court may authorize a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment of present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary or other means. The court may limit the award to that relief as is appropriate under the circumstances.

(b) This section shall not apply and a trustee shall have no liability to any creditor of a beneficiary for any distributions made to or for the benefit of the beneficiary, to the extent that a beneficiary's interest:

(1) Is subject to a spendthrift provision;

(2) Is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2); or

(3) Is a protective trust interest as described in G.S. 36C-5-508.

"§ 36C-5-502. Spendthrift provision.

(a) A spendthrift provision is valid only if it restrains both voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary's interest.

(b) A term of a trust providing that the interest of a beneficiary is held subject to a "spendthrift trust", or words of similar import, is sufficient to restrain both voluntary and involuntary transfer of the beneficiary's interest.

(c) A beneficiary may not transfer an interest in a trust in violation of a valid spendthrift provision and, except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary may not reach the interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

"§ 36C-5-503. Exceptions to spendthrift provision.

(a) As used in this section, the term "child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(b) Even if a trust contains a spendthrift provision, or if the beneficiary's interest is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance may obtain from a court an order attaching present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary. The court may limit the award to such relief as is appropriate under the circumstances.

"§ 36C-5-504. Discretionary trusts; effect of standard.

(a) In this section:

(1) "Child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(2) "Discretionary trust interest" means an interest in a trust that is subject to the trustee's discretion, whether or not the discretion is expressed in the form of a standard of distribution. A discretionary trust interest shall include an interest in any one or any combination of the following:

a. A trust in which the amount to be received by the beneficiary, including whether or not the beneficiary, or a class of beneficiaries, is to receive anything at all, is within the discretion of the trustee.

b. A trust in which the trustee has no duty to pay or distribute any particular amount to the beneficiary, but has only a duty to pay or distribute to the beneficiary, or apply on behalf of the beneficiary, those sums that the trustee, in the trustee's discretion, determines are appropriate for the support, education, or maintenance of the beneficiary.

(b) A discretionary trust interest may not be transferred by the beneficiary and, except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may not reach such an interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a creditor of a beneficiary may not compel a distribution from a trust in which the beneficiary has a discretionary trust interest even if the trustee has abused the trustee's discretion.

(d) To the extent that a trustee has not complied with a standard of distribution or has abused a discretion:

(1) A distribution may be ordered by the court to satisfy a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance of the beneficiary's child; and

(2) The court shall direct the trustee to pay to the child such amount as is equitable under the circumstances but not more than the amount the trustee would have been required to distribute to or for the benefit of the beneficiary had the trustee complied with the standard or not abused the discretion.

(e) This section does not limit the right of a beneficiary to maintain a judicial proceeding against a trustee for an abuse of discretion or failure to comply with a standard for distribution.

(f) A creditor may not reach the interest of a beneficiary who is also a trustee or co-trustee, or otherwise compel a distribution, if the trustee's discretion to make distributions for the trustee's own benefit is limited by an ascertainable standard.

"§ 36C-5-505. Creditor's claim against settlor.

(a) Whether or not the terms of a trust contain a spendthrift provision or the interest in the trust is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, the following rules apply:

(1) During the lifetime of the settlor, the property of a revocable trust is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors.

(2) With respect to an irrevocable trust, a creditor or assignee of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that can be distributed to or for the settlor's benefit. If a trust has more than one settlor, the amount the creditor or assignee of a particular settlor may reach may not exceed the settlor's interest in the portion of the trust attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(3) After the death of a settlor, and subject to the settlor's right to direct the source from which liabilities will be paid, the property of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors, costs of administration of the settlor's estate, the expenses of the settlor's funeral and disposal of remains, and statutory allowances to a surviving spouse and children to the extent that the settlor's probate estate is inadequate to satisfy those claims, costs, expenses, and allowances, unless barred by G.S. 28A-19-3.

(b) The lapse, release, or waiver of a power of withdrawal shall not cause the holder to be treated as a settlor of the trust.

"§ 36C-5-506. Overdue distribution.

(a) In this section, "mandatory distribution" means a distribution of income or principal that the trustee is required to make to a beneficiary under the terms of the trust, including a distribution upon termination of the trust. The term excludes a distribution subject to the exercise of the trustee's discretion, regardless of whether the terms of the trust (i) include a support or other standard to guide the trustee in making distribution decisions; or (ii) provide that the trustee "may" or "shall" make discretionary distributions, including distributions pursuant to a support or other standard.

(b) Whether or not a trust contains a spendthrift provision, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may reach a mandatory distribution of income or principal, including a distribution upon termination of the trust, if the trustee has not made the distribution to the beneficiary within a reasonable time after the designated distribution date.

"§ 36C-5-507. Personal obligations of trustee.

Trust property is not subject to personal obligations of the trustee, even if the trustee becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"§ 36C-5-508. Protective trusts.

Except with respect to an interest retained by the settlor, a "protective trust interest" means an interest in a trust in which the terms of the trust provide that the interest shall terminate or become discretionary if:

(1) The beneficiary alienates or attempts to alienate that interest; or

(2) Any creditor attempts to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment, levy, or otherwise; or

(3) The beneficiary becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"Article 6.

"Revocable Trusts.

"§ 36C-6-601. Capacity of settlor of revocable trust.

The capacity required to create, amend, revoke, or add property to a revocable trust, or to direct the actions of the trustee of a revocable trust, is the same as that required to make a will.

"§ 36C-6-602. Revocation or amendment of revocable trust.

(a) Unless the terms of a trust expressly provide that the trust is irrevocable, the settlor may revoke or amend the trust without regard to the actual capacity of the settlor. This subsection does not apply to a trust created under an instrument executed before the effective date of this Chapter.

(b) If a revocable trust is created or funded by more than one settlor:

(1) To the extent the trust consists of community property, the trust may be revoked by either spouse acting alone but may be amended only by joint action of both spouses; and

(2) To the extent the trust consists of property other than community property, each settlor may revoke or amend the trust with regard the portion of the trust property attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(c) The settlor may revoke or amend a revocable trust:

(1) By substantial compliance with a method provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by:

a. A later will or codicil that expressly refers to the trust or specifically devises property that would otherwise have passed according to the terms of the trust; or

b. By oral statement to the trustee if the trust was created orally; or

c. Any other written method delivered to the trustee manifesting clear and convincing evidence of the settlor's intent.

(d) Upon revocation of a revocable trust, the trustee shall deliver the trust property as the settlor directs.

(e) A settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the terms of the trust or the power of attorney provided the exercise of the power of revocation or amendment does not alter the designation of beneficiaries to receive property on the settlor's death under the settlor's existing estate plan.

(f) A general guardian or a guardian of the estate of the settlor or, if no general guardian or guardian of the estate has been appointed, a guardian of the person of the settlor may exercise a settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property only with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship.

(g) A trustee who does not know that a trust has been revoked or amended is not liable to the settlor or settlor's successors in interest for distributions made and other actions taken on the assumption that the trust had not been amended or revoked.

"§ 36C-6-603. Settlor's powers; powers of withdrawal.

(a) While a trust is revocable, rights of the beneficiaries are subject to the control of, and the duties of the trustee are owed exclusively to, the settlor.

(b) If a revocable trust has more than one settlor, the duties of the trustee are owed to all of the settlors.

"§ 36C-6-604. Limitation on action contesting validity of revocable trust; distribution of trust property.

(a) A person may commence a judicial proceeding to contest the validity of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death within the earlier of:

(1) Three years after the settlor's death; or

(2) 120 days after the trustee sent the person a copy of the trust instrument and a notice informing the person of the trust's existence, of the trustee's name and address, and of the time allowed for commencing a proceeding.

(b) Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death, the trustee may proceed to distribute the trust property in accordance with the terms of the trust. The trustee is not subject to liability for doing so unless:

(1) The trustee knows of a pending judicial proceeding contesting the validity of the trust; or

(2) A potential contestant has notified the trustee of a possible judicial proceeding to contest the trust, and a judicial proceeding is commenced within 60 days after the contestant sent the notification.

(c) A beneficiary of a trust that is determined to have been invalid is liable to return any distribution received.

"Article 7.

"Office of Trustee.

"§ 36 C-7-701. Accepting or declining trusteeship.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section, a person designated as trustee accepts the trusteeship:

(1) By substantially complying with a method of acceptance provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by accepting delivery of the trust property, exercising powers or performing duties as trustee, or otherwise indicating acceptance of the trusteeship.

(b) A person designated as trustee who has not yet accepted the trusteeship may reject the trusteeship. A designated trustee who does not accept the trusteeship within a reasonable time, not to exceed 120 days, after receiving written notice of the trusteeship shall be deemed to have rejected the trusteeship.

(c) A person designated as trustee, without accepting the trusteeship, may:

(1) Act to preserve the trust property if, within a reasonable time after acting, the person sends a rejection of the trusteeship to the settlor or, if the settlor is dead or lacks capacity, to a qualified beneficiary; and

(2) Inspect or investigate trust property to determine potential liability under environmental or other law or for any other purpose.

"§ 36C-7-702. Trustee's bond.

(a) A trustee shall provide bond to secure the performance of the trustee's duties if:

(1) The trust instrument was executed before January 1, 2006, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise;

(2) The trust instrument was executed on or after January 1, 2006, but only if the terms of the trust instrument require the trustee to provide bond;

(3) A beneficiary requests the trustee to provide bond, and the court finds the request to be reasonable; or

(4) The court finds that it is necessary for the trustee to provide bond in order to protect the interests of beneficiaries who are not able to protect themselves and whose interests otherwise are not adequately represented.

However, in no event shall bond be required of a trustee if the governing instrument directs otherwise.

(b) If bond is required, it shall be in a sum of double the value of the personal property to come into the trustee's hands if bond is executed by a personal surety, and in an amount not less than one and one-fourth times the value of all personal property of the trust estate if the bond is secured by a suretyship bond executed by a corporate surety company authorized by the Commissioner of Insurance to do business in this State, provided that the court, when the value of the personal property exceeds one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), may accept bond in an amount equal to the value of the personal property plus ten percent (10%) of that value, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the trustee's duties and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive property that may come into the trustee's hands. All bonds executed under the provisions of this Article shall be filed with the clerk of superior court.

(c) On petition of the trustee or a qualified beneficiary, the court may excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of the bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties.

(d) As provided in G.S. 53-159 and G.S. 53-366(a)(10), banks and trust companies licensed to do trust business in this State need not give bond, even if required by the terms of the trust.

"§ 36C-7-703. Co-trustees.

(a) Co-trustees who are unable to reach a unanimous decision may act by majority decision if more than two are serving. Unanimity is required when only two co-trustees are serving.

(b) If a vacancy occurs in a co-trusteeship, the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust and exercise all trustee powers, except those powers that the remaining trustees are prohibited from exercising under the trust instrument or by law.

(c) A co-trustee must participate in the performance of a trustee's function unless the cotrustee is unavailable to perform the function because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, or the co-trustee has properly delegated the performance of the function to another trustee.

(d) If a co-trustee is unavailable to perform duties because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, and prompt action is necessary to achieve the purposes of the trust or to avoid injury to the trust property, the remaining co-trustee or a majority of the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust.

(e) A trustee may delegate to a co-trustee with the consent of the co-trustee the performance of any function other than those the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly. The following functions shall not be deemed to be those that the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly:

(1) Establish and maintain bank accounts for the trust and issue checks for the trust.

(2) Maintain inventories, accountings, and income and expense records of the trust.

(3) Enter any safety deposit box rented by the trust.

(4) Employ persons as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, including agents, attorneys, accountants, brokers, appraisers, and custodians.

(5) List trust property for taxes and prepare and file tax returns for the trust.

(6) Collect and give receipts for claims and debts of the trust.

(7) Pay debts, claims, costs of administration, and taxes of the trust.

(8) Compromise, adjust, or otherwise settle any claim by or against the trust and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust.

(9) Have custody of the trust property.

The list of functions contained in this subsection is not intended to be exclusive of others that may be delegated to a co-trustee in accordance with this subsection.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (g) of this section, a trustee who does not join in an action of another trustee is not liable for the action.

(g) Each trustee shall exercise reasonable care to:

(1) Avoid enabling a co-trustee to commit a serious breach of trust; and

(2) Compel a co-trustee to redress a serious breach of trust.

(h) Notwithstanding subsection (f) or (g) of this section, a trustee who has not joined in an action approved by a majority of the other trustees shall not be liable for the action, nor shall a dissenting trustee who joins in an action at the direction of the majority of the trustees but who notified in writing any co-trustee of the dissent at or before the time of the action be liable for the action, unless that trustee had knowledge that the action taken involved intentional misconduct or was taken with an intention to directly or indirectly provide an improper personal benefit to one or more trustees approving the action.

(i) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, if two or more trustees own shares of corporate stock or other securities, their acts with respect to voting shall have the following effect:

(1) If only one votes, in person or by proxy, the act binds all;

(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act binds all; and

(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

"§ 36C-7-704. Vacancy in trusteeship; appointment of successor.

(a) A vacancy in a trusteeship occurs if:

(1) A person designated as trustee rejects the trusteeship;

(2) A person designated as trustee cannot be identified or does not exist;

(3) A trustee resigns;

(4) A trustee is disqualified or removed;

(5) A trustee dies; or

(6) A general guardian, guardian of the estate, or guardian of the person is appointed for an individual serving as trustee.

(b) If one or more co-trustees remain in office, a vacancy in a trusteeship need not be filled. A vacancy in a trusteeship must be filled if the trust has no remaining trustee.

(c) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a noncharitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:

(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed pursuant to the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;
(2) By a person appointed by unanimous agreement of the qualified beneficiaries; or
(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(d) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a charitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:
(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed pursuant to the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;
(2) By a person selected by majority agreement of the charitable organizations expressly designated to receive distributions under the terms of the trust; or
(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(e) Whether or not a vacancy in a trusteeship exists or is required to be filled, the court may appoint an additional trustee or special fiduciary whenever the court considers the appointment necessary for the administration of the trust.

(f) A successor trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee, unless a contrary intent appears from the governing instrument or unless the order appointing the successor trustee provides otherwise.

"§ 36C-7-705. Resignation of trustee.

(a) A trustee may resign:
(1) Upon at least 30 days' notice in writing to the qualified beneficiaries, the settlor, if living, and all co-trustees; or
(2) With the approval of the court.

(b) In approving a resignation, the court may issue orders and impose conditions reasonably necessary for the protection of the trust property.

(c) Any liability of a resigning trustee or of any sureties on the trustee's bond for acts or omissions of the trustee is not discharged or affected by the trustee's resignation.

"§ 36C-7-706. Removal of trustee.

(a) For the reasons set forth in subsection (b) of this section, the settlor, a co-trustee, or a beneficiary of an irrevocable trust may request the court to remove a trustee, or a trustee may be removed by the court on its own initiative.

(b) The court may remove a trustee if:
(1) The trustee has committed a serious breach of trust;
(2) Lack of cooperation among co-trustees substantially impairs the administration of the trust;
(3) Because of unfitness, unwillingness, or persistent failure of the trustee to administer the trust effectively, the court determines that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of the beneficiaries; or
(4) There has been a substantial change of circumstances, the court finds that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of all of the beneficiaries and is not inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust, and a suitable co-trustee or successor trustee is available.

(c) Pending a final decision on a request to remove a trustee, or in lieu of or in addition to removing a trustee, the court may order appropriate relief under G.S. 36C-10-1001(b) as may be necessary to protect the trust property or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-7-707. Delivery of property by former trustee.

(a) Unless a co-trustee remains in office or the court otherwise orders, and until the trust property is delivered to a successor trustee or other person entitled to it, a trustee who has resigned or been removed has the duties of a trustee and the powers necessary to protect the trust property.

(b) A trustee who has resigned or been removed shall proceed expeditiously to deliver the trust property within the trustee's possession to the co-trustee, successor trustee, or other person entitled to it. A former trustee shall execute those documents transferring title to trust property as may be appropriate to facilitate administration of the trust, and in the event that the former trustee fails to do so, the clerk of superior court may order the former trustee to execute those documents, or the clerk of superior court may transfer title.

"§ 36C-7-708. Compensation of trustee.

(a) If the terms of a trust do not specify the trustee's compensation, a trustee is entitled to compensation determined in accordance with the provisions of Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes.

(b) If the terms of a trust specify the trustee's compensation, the trustee is entitled to be compensated as specified.

"§ 36C-7-709. Reimbursement of expenses.

A trustee is entitled to be reimbursed out of the trust property for expenses properly incurred in the administration of the trust as provided in G.S. 32-58.

"Article 8.

"Duties and Powers of Trustee.

"§ 36C-8-801. Duty to administer trust.

Upon acceptance of a trusteeship, a trustee shall administer the trust in good faith, in accordance with its terms and purposes and the interests of the beneficiaries, and in accordance with this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-802. Duty of loyalty.

(a) A trustee shall administer the trust solely in the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to the rights of persons dealing with or assisting the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-10-1012, a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property entered into by the trustee for the trustee's own personal account, or that is otherwise affected by a conflict between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, is voidable by a beneficiary affected by the transaction, without regard to whether the transaction is fair to the beneficiary, unless:

(1) The transaction was authorized by the terms of the trust;
(2) The transaction was approved by the court;
(3) The beneficiary did not commence a judicial proceeding within the time allowed by G.S. 36C-10-1005;
(4) The beneficiary consented to the trustee's conduct, ratified the transaction, or released the trustee in compliance with G.S. 36C-10-1009; or
(5) The transaction involves a contract entered into, or claim acquired by, the trustee before the person became or contemplated becoming trustee.

(c) In determining whether a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property is affected by a conflict of interest between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, the transaction is rebuttably presumed to be affected by such a conflict if the trustee enters into the transaction with:
(1) The trustee's spouse or a parent of the trustee's spouse;
(2) The trustee's descendants, siblings, ancestors, or their spouses;
(3) An agent, attorney, employee, officer, director, member, manager, or partner of the trustee, or an entity that controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the trustee; or
(4) Any other person or entity in which the trustee, or a person that owns a significant interest in the trust, has an interest or relationship that might affect the trustee's best judgment;

(d) A transaction between a trustee and a beneficiary that does not concern trust property, but that occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee retains significant influence over the beneficiary, and from which the trustee obtains an advantage, is voidable by the beneficiary unless the trustee establishes that the transaction was fair to the beneficiary.

(e) A transaction not concerning trust property in which the trustee engages in the trustee's individual capacity involves a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the transaction concerns an opportunity properly belonging to the trust.

(f) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of this section:
(1) An investment by a trustee in securities of an investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle in which the trustee has an investment, or to which the trustee, or its affiliate, provides services is not presumed to be affected by a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the investment otherwise complies with the prudent investor rule of Article 9 of this Chapter. The trustee may be compensated by the investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle for providing those services out of fees charged to the trust if the trustee at least annually notifies the persons entitled under G.S. 36C-8-813 to receive a copy of the trustee's annual report of the rate and method by which the compensation was determined; and

(2) Payment made by a trustee to an attorney, broker, accountant, or agent for services performed on behalf of the trust in the ordinary course of business shall not be deemed to be affected by a conflict between the trustee's personal and fiduciary interests if the payment is consistent with payments generally made in the community for the same or similar services.

(g) In voting shares of stock or in exercising powers of control over similar interests in other forms of enterprise, the trustee shall act in the best interests of the beneficiaries. If the trust is the sole owner of a corporation or other form of enterprise, the trustee shall elect to appoint directors or other managers who will manage the corporation or enterprise in the best interests of the beneficiaries.

(h) This section does not preclude the following transactions, if fair to the beneficiaries:

(1) An agreement between a trustee and a beneficiary relating to the appointment or compensation of the trustee;

(2) Payment of reasonable compensation to the trustee;

(3) A transaction between a trust and another trust, decedent's estate, or guardianship, or similar relationship of which the trustee is a fiduciary or in which a beneficiary has an interest;

(4) A deposit of trust money in a regulated financial-service institution operated by the trustee or an affiliate of the trustee; or

(5) An advance by the trustee of money for the protection of the trust.

(i) The court may appoint a special fiduciary to make a decision with respect to any proposed transaction that might violate this section if entered into by the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-803. Impartiality.

If a trust has two or more beneficiaries, the trustee shall act impartially in investing, managing, and distributing the trust property, giving due regard to the beneficiaries' respective interests.

"§ 36C-8-804. Prudent administration.

A trustee shall administer the trust as a prudent person would, by considering the purposes, terms, distributional requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

"§ 36C-8-805. Cost of administration.

In administering a trust, the trustee may incur only costs that are reasonable in relation to the trust property, the purposes of the trust, and the skills of the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-806. Trustee's skills.

A trustee who has special skills or expertise, or is named trustee in reliance upon the trustee's representation that the trustee has special skills or expertise, shall use those special skills or expertise.

"§ 36C-8-807. Delegation by trustee.

(a) A trustee may delegate duties and powers that a prudent trustee of comparable skills could properly delegate under the circumstances. The trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution in:

(1) Selecting an agent;

(2) Establishing the scope and terms of the delegation, consistent with the purposes and terms of the trust; and

(3) Periodically reviewing the agent's actions in order to monitor the agent's performance and compliance with the terms of the delegation.

(b) In performing a delegated function, an agent owes a duty to the trust to exercise reasonable care to comply with the terms of the delegation.

(c) A trustee who complies with subsection (a) of this section is not liable to the beneficiaries or to the trust for an action of the agent to whom the function was delegated.

(d) By accepting a delegation of powers or duties from the trustee of a trust that is subject to the law of this State, an agent submits to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

"§ 36C-8-808. Powers to direct.

(a) While a trust is revocable, the trustee may follow a direction of the settlor that is contrary to the terms of the trust.

(b) If the terms of a trust confer upon a person other than the settlor of a revocable trust power to direct certain actions of the trustee, the trustee shall act in accordance with an exercise of the power unless the attempted exercise is manifestly contrary to the terms of the trust, or the trustee knows the attempted exercise would constitute a serious breach of a fiduciary duty that the person holding the power owes to the beneficiaries of the trust.

(c) The terms of a trust may confer upon a trustee or other person a power to direct the modification or termination of the trust.

(d) A person, other than a beneficiary, who holds a power to direct is presumptively a fiduciary who, as such, is required to act in good faith with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. The holder of a power to direct is liable for any loss that results from breach of a fiduciary duty.

"§ 36C-8-809. Control and protection of trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to take control of and protect the trust property.

"§ 36C-8-810. Record keeping and identification of trust property.

(a) A trustee shall keep adequate records of the administration of the trust.

(b) A trustee shall keep trust property separate from the trustee's own property.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, a trustee shall cause the trust property to be designated so that the interest of the trust, to the extent feasible, appears in records maintained by a party other than a trustee or beneficiary.

(d) If the trustee maintains records clearly indicating the respective interests, a trustee may invest as a whole the property of two or more separate trusts.

"§ 36C-8-811. Enforcement and defense of claims.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to enforce claims of the trust and to defend claims against the trust.

"§ 36C-8-812. Collecting trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to compel a former trustee or other person to deliver trust property to the trustee, and to redress a breach of trust known to the trustee to have been committed by a former trustee.

"§ 36C-8-813. Duty to inform and report.

(a) The trustee is under a duty to a qualified beneficiary to give that beneficiary upon request and at reasonable times complete and accurate information as to the nature and amount of the trust property and to permit the beneficiary, or the beneficiary's representative, to inspect the subject matter of the trust and the accounts and other documents relating to the trust.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section:

(1) The duty of the trustee under subsection (a) of this section shall not include informing any beneficiary in advance of transactions relating to the trust property.

(2) A trustee shall be deemed to have discharged the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section as to a qualified beneficiary for matters disclosed by a report sent at least annually and at termination of the trust to the beneficiary that describes the trust property, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements, including the source and amount of the trustee's compensation, and lists the trust assets and their respective market values (including estimated values of assets with uncertain values). No presumption shall arise that a trustee who does not comply with the provisions of this subdivision failed to discharge the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section.

(c) A beneficiary may waive the right to a trustee's report or other information otherwise required to be furnished under this subsection. With respect to future reports and other information, a beneficiary may withdraw a waiver previously given.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section applies only to a trust created pursuant to a trust instrument executed on or after the effective date of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-814. Discretionary powers; tax savings.

(a) Notwithstanding the breadth of discretion granted to a trustee in the terms of the trust, including the use of terms such as "absolute", "sole", or "uncontrolled", a trustee abuses the trustee's discretion in exercising or failing to exercise a discretionary power if the trustee acts with bad faith, acts dishonestly, acts with an improper motive, even though not a dishonest motive, or if the trustee fails to use the trustee's judgment in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to subsection (d) of this section, and unless the terms of the trust expressly indicate that a rule in this subsection does not apply:

(1) A person other than a settlor who is a beneficiary and trustee of a trust that confers on the trustee a power that would, except for this subsection, constitute in whole or in part a general power of appointment may not exercise that power in favor of the trustee/beneficiary, the trustee/beneficiary's estate, the trustee/beneficiary's creditors, or the creditors of the trustee/beneficiary's estate.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (1) of this subsection, if the trust confers on the trustee the power to make discretionary distributions to or for the trustee's personal benefit, the trustee may exercise the power in accordance with an ascertainable standard.

(3) The trustee may not exercise a power to make discretionary distributions to satisfy a legal obligation of support that the trustee personally owes another person.

For purposes of this subsection, a "general power of appointment" means any power that would cause the income to be taxed to the trustee in his individual capacity under section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code and any power that would be a general power of appointment, in whole or in part, under section 2041(b)(1) or section 2514(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) A power whose exercise is limited or prohibited by subsection (b) of this section may be exercised by a majority of the remaining trustees whose exercise of the power is not so limited or prohibited. If the power of all trustees is so limited or prohibited, the court may appoint a special fiduciary with authority to exercise the power.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section does not apply to:

(1) A power held by the settlor's spouse who is the trustee of a trust for which a marital deduction, as defined in section 2056(b)(5) or section 2523(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, was previously allowed;

(2) Any trust during any period that the trust may be revoked or amended by its settlor; or

(3) A trust, if contributions to the trust qualify for the annual exclusion under section 2503(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(e) If a trust created under a will or trust instrument for the benefit of the spouse of the settlor of the trust, other than a trust that provides that upon the termination of the income interest that the entire remaining trust estate be paid to the estate of the spouse, requires that all the income of the trust be paid not less frequently than annually to the spouse and a federal estate or gift tax marital deduction is claimed with respect to the trust, then, unless the trust instrument specifically provides otherwise by reference to this section, any investment in or retention of unproductive property as an asset of the trust is subject to the power of the spouse to require either that the asset be made productive of income, or that it be converted to assets productive of income, within a reasonable period of time.

"§ 36C-8-815. General powers of trustee.

(a) A trustee, without authorization by the court, may exercise:

(1) Powers conferred by the terms of the trust; or

(2) Except as limited by the terms of the trust:

a. All powers over the trust property that an unmarried competent owner has over individually owned property;

b. Any other powers appropriate to achieve the proper investment, management, administration or distribution of the trust property; and

c. Any other powers conferred by this Chapter.

(b) The exercise of a power is subject to the fiduciary duties prescribed by this Article.

"§ 36C-8-816. Specific powers of trustee.

Without limiting the authority conferred by G.S. 36C-8-816, a trustee may:

(1) Collect and control trust property and accept or reject additions to the trust property from a settlor or any other person;

(2) Invest and reinvest trust property as the trustee deems advisable in accordance with the provisions of the trust, and to acquire or sell property, for cash or on credit, at public or private sale;

(7) With respect to stocks or other securities, exercise the rights of an absolute owner, including the right to:

a. Vote, or give general or limited proxies to vote, with or without power of substitution, or enter into or continue a voting trust agreement, or execute waivers, consents, or objections with respect to those securities;

b. Hold a security in the name of a nominee or in other form without disclosure of the trust so that title may pass by delivery;

c. Pay calls, assessments, and other sums chargeable or accruing against the securities, and sell or exercise stock subscription or conversion rights;

d. Deposit the securities with a depositary or other regulated financial-service institution; and

e. Consent, directly or through a committee or other agent, to the merger, consolidation, reorganization, readjustment of capital or financial structure, lease, sale, dissolution, or liquidation of a business enterprise, and elect whether to participate as a member of a class in any litigation involving the securities;

(8) With respect to an interest in real property, construct, or make ordinary or extraordinary repairs to, alterations to, or improvements in, buildings or other structures, demolish improvements, raze existing party walls or buildings or erect new party walls or buildings, subdivide or develop land, dedicate land to public use or grant public or private easements, and make or vacate plats and adjust boundaries, make contracts, licenses, leases, conveyances, or grants of every nature and kind with respect to crops, gravel, sand, oil, gas, timber and forest products, other usufructs or natural resources, and other benefits or incidents of the real property;

(9) Enter into a lease for any purpose as lessor or lessee, including a lease or other arrangement for exploration and removal of natural resources, with or without the option to purchase or renew, for a period within or extending beyond the duration of the trust;

(10) Grant an option involving a sale, lease, or other disposition of trust property or acquire an option for the acquisition of property, including an option exercisable beyond the duration of the trust, and exercise an option so acquired;

(11) Insure the property of the trust against damage or loss and insure the trustee, the trustee's agents, and beneficiaries against liability arising from the administration of the trust at the expense of the trust;

(12) Abandon, relinquish any or all rights to, or decline to administer property of no value or of insufficient benefit or value to the trust to justify its collection or continued administration;

(13) With respect to possible liability for violation of environmental law:
a. Inspect or investigate property the trustee holds or has been asked to hold, or property owned or operated by an organization in which the trustee holds or has been asked to hold an interest, for the purpose of determining the application of environmental law with respect to the property;
b. Take action to prevent, abate, or otherwise remedy any actual or potential violation of any environmental law affecting property held directly or indirectly by the trustee, whether taken before or after the assertion of a claim or the initiation of governmental enforcement;
c. Decline to accept property into trust or disclaim any power with respect to property that is or may be burdened with liability for violation of environmental law;
d. Compromise claims against the trust which may be asserted for an alleged violation of environmental law; and
e. Pay the expense of any inspection, review, abatement, or remedial action to comply with environmental law;
(14) Pay or contest any claim, compromise, adjust or otherwise settle a claim by or against the trust, and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust;
(15) Pay from the trust property taxes, assessments, compensation of the trustee and of employees and agents of the trust, and other expenses incurred in the administration of the trust and the protection of the trust property;
(16) Exercise elections with respect to federal, state, and local taxes;
(17) Select a mode of payment under any employee benefit or retirement plan, annuity, or life insurance payable to the trustee, exercise rights under such a plan, including exercise of the right to indemnification for expenses and against liabilities, and take appropriate action to collect the proceeds;
(18) Make loans out of trust property, including loans to a beneficiary on terms and conditions the trustee considers to be fair and reasonable under the circumstances, and acquire a lien on future distributions for repayment of those loans;
(19) Pledge trust property to guarantee loans made by others to a beneficiary;
(20) Appoint a trustee to act in another jurisdiction with respect to trust property located in the other jurisdiction, confer upon the appointed trustee all of the powers and duties of the appointing trustee, limit those powers the appointed trustee may exercise and the duties for which the appointed trustee is responsible, require that the appointed trustee furnish security, and remove any trustee so appointed;

(21) Pay an amount distributable to a beneficiary who is under a legal disability or who the trustee reasonably believes is incapacitated, by paying it directly to the beneficiary or applying it for the beneficiary's benefit, or by:

a. Paying it to the beneficiary's general guardian or the guardian of the beneficiary's estate or, if the beneficiary does not have a general guardian or guardian of the beneficiary's estate, the guardian of the beneficiary's person;

b. Paying it to a custodian under a uniform transfer to minors act or custodial trustee under a uniform custodial trust act and, for that purpose, creating a custodianship or custodial trust for the benefit of the beneficiary;

c. Paying it to an adult relative or other person having legal or physical care or custody of the beneficiary, to be expended on the beneficiary's behalf; or

d. Managing it as a separate fund on the beneficiary's behalf.

A trustee making payments under this subdivision does not have any duty to see to the application of the payments so made, if the trustee exercised due care in the selection of the person, including the minor or incompetent, to whom the payments were made, and the receipt of that person shall be full acquittance to the trustee;

(22) On distribution of trust property or the division or termination of a trust, make distributions in divided or undivided interests, allocate particular assets in proportionate or disproportionate shares without regard to the income tax basis or other special tax attributes of such assets, as the trustee finds to be most practicable and for the best interests of the distributees, value the trust property for those purposes, and adjust for resulting differences in valuation; and to distribute trust property in kind or in cash, or partially in kind and partially in cash, in divided or undivided interests;

(23) Resolve a dispute concerning the interpretation of the trust or its administration by mediation, arbitration, or other procedure for alternative dispute resolution;

(b) The prudent investor rule is a default rule and may be expanded, restricted, eliminated, or otherwise altered by the provisions of a trust which govern or direct investments in a manner inconsistent with this Article. permissible by law for investment of trust funds", "legal investments", "authorized investments", "using the judgment and care under the circumstances then prevailing that persons of prudence, discretion, and intelligence exercise in the management of their own affairs, not in regard to speculation but in regard to the permanent disposition of their funds, considering the probable income as well as the probable safety of their capital", "prudent man rule", "prudent trustee rule", "prudent person rule", and "prudent investor rule". (2) Trusts imposed or required under another chapter of the General Statutes or by rule in which the investment of the trust funds is regulated by the other chapter or by rule, unless a provision of the other chapter or the rule provides otherwise by a specific reference to this Article.

"§ 36C-9-902. Standard of care; portfolio strategy; risk and return objectives.

(a) A trustee shall invest and manage trust assets as a prudent investor would, by considering the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

(b) A trustee's investment and management decisions respecting individual assets must be evaluated not in isolation but in the context of the trust portfolio as a whole and as a part of an overall investment strategy having risk and return objectives reasonably suited to the trust.

(c) Among circumstances that a trustee shall consider in investing and managing trust assets are any of the following that are relevant to the trust or its beneficiaries:

(1) General economic conditions;

(2) The possible effect of inflation or deflation;

(4) The role that each investment or course of action plays within the overall trust portfolio, which may include financial assets, interests in closely held enterprises, tangible and intangible personal property, and real property;

(5) The expected total return from income and the appreciation of capital;
(6) Other resources of the beneficiaries known to the trustee;
(7) Needs for liquidity, regularity of income, and preservation or appreciation of capital; and
(8) An asset's special relationship or special value, if any, to the purposes of the trust or to one or more of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-9-905. Reviewing compliance.

Compliance with the prudent investor rule is determined in light of the facts and circumstances existing at the time of a trustee's decision or action and not by hindsight.

"§ 36C-9-906. Effect on charitable remainder trusts.

(7) Remove the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-7-706;
(8) Reduce or deny compensation to the trustee;
(9) Subject to G.S. 36C-10-1012, void an act of the trustee, impose a lien or a constructive trust on trust property, or trace trust property wrongfully disposed of and recover the property or its proceeds; or
(10) Order any other appropriate relief.

(c) The court may, for cause shown, relieve a trustee from liability for any breach of trust, or wholly or partly excuse a trustee who has acted honestly and reasonably from liability for a breach of trust.

"§ 36C-10-1002. Damages for breach of trust.

(a) A trustee who commits a breach of trust is liable for the greater of:
(1) The amount required to restore the value of the trust property and trust distributions to what they would have been had the breach not occurred; or
(2) The profit the trustee made by reason of the breach.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if more than one trustee is liable to the beneficiaries for a breach of trust, a trustee is entitled to contribution from the other trustee or trustees. A trustee is not entitled to contribution if the trustee was substantially more at fault than another trustee or if the trustee committed the breach of trust in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries. A trustee who received a benefit from the breach of trust is not entitled to contribution from another trustee to the extent of the benefit received.

"§ 36C-10-1003. Liability in absence of breach.

(a) A trustee is accountable for any profit made by the trustee arising from the administration of the trust, even absent a breach of trust. Nothing in this section limits a trustee's right to compensation under G.S. 36C-7-708 or payments allowed under G.S. 36C-8-802(f).

(b) Absent a breach of trust, a trustee is not liable for a loss or depreciation in the value of trust property or for not having made a profit.

"§ 36C-10-1004. Attorney's fees and costs.

In a judicial proceeding involving the administration of a trust, the court may award costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney fees, as provided in the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-10-1005. Limitation of action against trustee.

Limitation of actions on judicial proceedings involving trusts shall be governed by applicable provisions of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes, except that no proceeding against a trustee for breach of trust may be commenced more than five years after the first to occur of: (i) the removal, resignation, or death of the trustee; (ii) the termination of the beneficiary's interest in the trust; or (iii) the termination of the trust.

"§ 36C-10-1006. Reliance on trust instrument.

A trustee who acts in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust as expressed in a trust instrument is not liable for a breach of trust to the extent that the breach resulted from the reliance.

"§ 36C-10-1007. Event affecting administration or distribution.

If the happening of an event, including marriage, divorce, performance of educational requirements, or death, affects the administration or distribution of a trust, a trustee who has exercised reasonable care to ascertain the happening of the event is not liable for a loss resulting from the trustee's lack of knowledge.

"§ 36C-10-1008. Exculpation of trustee.

A term of a trust relieving a trustee of liability for breach of trust is unenforceable to the extent that it relieves the trustee of liability for breach of trust committed in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-10-1009. Beneficiary's consent, release, or ratification.

(a) A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary for breach of trust if the beneficiary consented to the conduct constituting the breach, released the trustee from liability for the breach, or ratified the transaction constituting the breach, unless:

(1) The consent, release, or ratification of the beneficiary was induced by improper conduct of the trustee; or

(2) At the time of the consent, release, or ratification, the beneficiary did not have knowledge of the beneficiary's rights or of the material facts relating to the breach.

(b) No consideration is required for the consent, release, or ratification to be valid.

"§ 36C-10-1010. Limitation on personal liability of trustee.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the contract, a trustee is not personally liable on a contract properly entered into in the trustee's fiduciary capacity in the course of administering the trust if the trustee in making the contract disclosed the fiduciary capacity. The addition of the phrases "trustee," or "as trustee," or similar designations to the signature of a trustee on a written contract shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee is personally liable for torts committed in the course of administering a trust, or for obligations arising from ownership or control of trust property, including liability for violation of environmental law, only if the trustee is personally at fault.

(c) A claim based on a contract entered into by a trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, on an obligation arising from ownership or control of trust property, or on a tort committed in the course of administering a trust, may be asserted in a judicial proceeding against the trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, whether or not the trustee is personally liable for the claim. Any judgment rendered in favor of a claimant in such a judicial proceeding against a trust may be recovered from the trust property, without proof that the trustee could have obtained reimbursement from the trust if the trustee had paid the claim.

(d) A trustee shall be entitled to indemnity from the trust for any claim, other than a breach of trust, for which the trustee is liable:

(1) If the claim arose from a common incident of activity in which the trustee was properly engaged for the trust;

(2) If the trustee was not personally at fault; or

(3) To the extent that the trustee's actions increased the value of trust property.

(e) A decision by a trustee not to inspect property, or to decline to accept property, shall not create any inference as to liability, under any environmental law, with respect to that property. A trustee shall have no liability for a decrease in value of property in a trust by reason of the trustee's compliance with any environmental law, including reporting requirements.

"§ 36C-10-1011. Interest as general partner.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section or unless personal liability is imposed in the contract, a trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner in a general or limited partnership is not personally liable on a contract entered into by the partnership if the fiduciary capacity was disclosed. The addition of the phrases "trustee", or "as trustee", or similar designations to the signature of a trustee on a written partnership document shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner is not personally liable for torts committed by the partnership or for obligations arising from ownership or control of the interest unless the trustee is personally at fault. This subsection does not apply to additional ownership interests of the trustee held in a nonfiduciary capacity.

(c) If the settlor transfers an existing general partnership interest to a revocable trust, the settlor remains personally liable for partnership obligations as if the settlor were a general partner.

"§ 36C-10-1012. Protection of person dealing with trustee.

(a) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a trustee, without knowledge that the trustee is exceeding or improperly exercising the trustee's powers, is protected from liability as if the trustee properly exercised the power.

(b) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith deals with a trustee is not required to inquire into the extent of the trustee's powers or the propriety of their exercise.

(c) A person who in good faith delivers assets to a trustee need not ensure their proper application.

(d) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a former trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a former trustee, without knowledge that the trusteeship has terminated is protected from liability as if the former trustee were still a trustee.

(e) Comparable protective provisions of other laws relating to commercial transactions or transfer of securities by fiduciaries prevail over the protection provided by this section.

(f) A person is not required to obtain a certification under G.S. 36C-10-1013 in order to be entitled to the protections of this section.

"§ 36C-10-1013. Certification of trust.

(a) Instead of furnishing a copy of the trust instrument to a person other than a beneficiary, the trustee may furnish to the person a certification of trust containing the following information:

(1) The existence of the trust and the date the trust instrument was executed;

(2) The identity of the settlor, unless withheld pursuant to a provision in the trust instrument;

(3) The identity and address of the currently acting trustee;

(4) The powers of the trustee;

(5) The revocability or irrevocability of the trust and the identity of any person holding a power to revoke the trust;

(6) The authority of co-trustees to sign or otherwise authenticate and whether all or less than all are required in order to exercise powers of the trustee;

(7) The trust's taxpayer identification number; and

(8) The manner of taking title to trust property.

(b) A certification of trust may be signed or otherwise authenticated by any trustee.

(c) A certification of trust must state that the trust has not been revoked, modified, or amended in any manner that would cause the representations contained in the certification of trust to be incorrect.

(d) A certification of trust need not contain the dispositive terms of a trust.

(e) A recipient of a certification of trust may require the trustee to furnish copies of those excerpts from the original trust instrument and later amendments which designate the trustee and confer upon the trustee the power to act in the pending transaction.

(f) A person who acts in reliance upon a certification of trust without knowledge that the representations contained in the certification are incorrect is not liable to any person for so acting and may assume without inquiry the existence of the facts contained in the certification. Knowledge of the terms of the trust may not be inferred solely from the fact that the person relying upon the certification holds a copy of all or part of the trust instrument.

(g) A person who in good faith enters into a transaction in reliance upon a certification of trust may enforce the transaction against the trust property as if the representations contained in the certification were correct.

(h) A person making a demand for the trust instrument in addition to a certification of trust or excerpts is liable for damages if the court determines that the person did not act in good faith in demanding the trust instrument.

(i) This section does not limit the right of a person to obtain a copy of the trust instrument in a judicial proceeding concerning the trust.

"Article 11.

"Miscellaneous Provisions.

"§ 36C-11-1101. Uniformity of application and construction.

In applying and construing this Chapter, consideration may be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it.

"§ 36C-11-1102. Electronic records and signatures.

The provisions of this Chapter governing the legal effect, validity, or enforceability of electronic records or electronic signatures, and of contracts formed or performed with the use of those records or signatures, conform to the requirements of Section 102 of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (15 U.S.C. § 7002) and supersede, modify, and limit the requirements of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act.

"§ 36C-11-1103. Severability clause.

If any provision of this Chapter or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of this Chapter that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this Chapter are severable."

SECTION 3. The General Statutes are amended by adding a new Chapter to read:

"Chapter 36D.

"North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities.

"§ 36D-1. Title; findings.

(a) This Article shall be known and may be cited as the "North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities Act".

(b) The General Assembly finds that it is in the public interest to encourage activities by voluntary associations and private citizens that will supplement and augment those services provided by local, State, and federal government agencies in discharge of their responsibilities toward individuals with severe chronic disabilities. The General Assembly further finds that, as a result of changing social, economic, and demographic trends, families of persons with severe chronic disabilities are increasingly aware of the need for a vehicle by which they can assure ongoing individualized personal concern for a severely disabled family member who may survive his parents or other family members, and provide for the efficient management of small legacies or trust funds to be used for the benefit of such a disabled person. In a number of other states voluntary associations have established foundations or trusts intended to be responsive to these concerns. Therefore, the General Assembly finds that North Carolina will benefit by the enactment of enabling legislation expressly authorizing the formation of community trusts in accordance with criteria set forth by statute and administered by the Secretary of State, pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. These community trusts permit the pooling of resources contributed by families or persons with philanthropic intent, along with the reservation of portions of these funds for the use and benefit of designated beneficiaries.

(c) This Article shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies, which are, among others, to:

(1) Encourage the orderly establishment of community trusts for the benefit of persons with severe chronic disabilities;

(2) Ensure that community trusts are administered properly and that the managing boards of the trusts are free from conflicts of interest;

(3) Facilitate sound administration of trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities by allowing family members and others to pool resources in order to make professional management investment more efficient;

(4) Provide parents of persons with severe chronic disabilities peace of mind in knowing that a means exists to ensure that the interests of their children who have severe chronic disabilities are properly looked after and managed after the parents die or become incapacitated;

(5) Help make guardians available for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member is available for this purpose;

(6) Encourage the availability of private resources to purchase for persons with severe chronic disabilities goods and services that are not available through any governmental or charitable program and to conserve these resources by limiting purchases to those that are not available from other sources;

(7) Encourage the inclusion, as beneficiaries of community trusts, of persons who lack resources and whose families are indigent, in a way that does not diminish the resources available to other beneficiaries whose families have contributed to the trust; and

(8) Remove the disincentives that discourage parents and others from setting aside funds for the future protection of persons with severe chronic disabilities by ensuring that the interest of beneficiaries in community trusts are not considered assets or income that would disqualify them from any governmental or charitable entitlement program with an economic means test.

"§ 36D-2. Definitions.

As used in this Article, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Beneficiary" means any person with a severe chronic disability who has qualified as a member of the community trust program and who has the right to receive those services and benefits vested with the management of the business and affairs of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, irrespective of the name by which the group is designated.

(2) "Community trust" means a nonprofit organization that offers the following services:

a. Administration of special trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities;

b. Follow along services;

c. Guardianship for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member or immediate friend is available for this purpose; and

d. Advice and counsel to persons who have been appointed as individual guardians of the persons or estates of persons with severe chronic disabilities.

(3) "Follow along services" means those services offered by community trusts that are designed to ensure that the needs of each beneficiary are being met for as long as may be required and may include periodic visits to the beneficiary and to the places where the beneficiary receives services, participation in the development of individualized plans being made by service providers for the beneficiary, and other similar services consistent with the purposes of this Article.

(4) "Severe chronic disability" means a physical or mental impairment that is expected to give rise to a long-term need for specialized health, social, and other services, and which makes the person with the disability dependent upon others for assistance to secure these services.

(5) "Trustee" means any member of the board of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, whether that member is designated as a trustee, director, manager, governor, or by any other title.

(6) "Surplus trust funds" means funds accumulated in the trust from contributions made on behalf of an individual beneficiary that, after the death of the beneficiary, are determined by the board to be in excess of the actual cost of providing services during the beneficiary's lifetime, including the beneficiary's share of administrative costs.

"§ 36D-3. Scope.

This Article applies to every community trust established in this State. In addition to meeting the other requirements of this Article, every board that administers a community trust shall incorporate as a nonprofit corporation pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, the provisions of Chapter 55A of the General Statutes apply to the community trusts.

"§ 36D-4. Administration; powers and duties.

(a) Every community trust shall be administered by a board. The board shall be comprised of no less than nine and no more than 21 members, at least one-third of whom shall be parents or relatives of persons with severe chronic disabilities. No board member shall be a provider of habilitative, health, social, or educational services to persons with severe chronic disabilities or an employee of such a service provider. The board may, however, allow service providers to serve on the board in an advisory capacity. Board members shall be selected, to the maximum extent possible, from geographic areas throughout the area served by the trust.

The certificate of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes shall, in addition to the requirements set forth in that Chapter, demonstrate that the requirements of this section have been met.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no trustee may be compensated for services provided as a member of the board of a community trust. No fees or commissions shall be paid to these trustees; however, a trustee may be paid for necessary expenses incurred by the trustee and may receive indemnification as permitted under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes.

(bl) For every community trust incorporated under this Article, the corporation itself shall be considered the trustee of any funds administered by it. No individual board member shall be considered to be trustee of any fund deposited on behalf of any individual beneficiary with severe chronic disabilities.

(c) The board shall adopt bylaws that shall include a declaration delineating the primary geographic area serviced by the trust and the principal services to be provided and shall file the bylaws with the Secretary of State.

(d) The board may retain paid staff as it considers necessary to provide follow along services to the extent required by each beneficiary. The community trust may authorize the expenditure of funds for any goods or services that, in its sole discretion, it determines will promote the well-being of any beneficiary, including recreational services. The community trust may pay for the burial of any beneficiary. The community trust, however, may not expend funds for any goods or services of comparable quality to those available to any particular beneficiary through any governmental or charitable program, insurance, or other sources. The community trust may expend funds to meet the reasonable costs of administering the community trust.

(e) The community trust is not required to provide services to a beneficiary who is a competent adult and who has refused to accept the services. Further, the community trust shall not provide services of a nature or in a manner that would be contrary to the public policy of this State at the time the services are to be provided. In either case, the community trust may offer alternate services that are consistent with the purposes of this Article and in keeping with the best interests of the beneficiary.

(f) The community trust may accept appointment as guardian of the person, guardian of the estate, or guardian of both on behalf of any beneficiary. If the community trust accepts appointment as guardian of the person of an individual, it shall assign a staff member to carry out its responsibilities as the guardian. The community trust may, upon request, offer consultative and professional assistance to an individual, private or public guardian of any of its beneficiaries.

(g) The community trust may accept contributions, bequests, and designations under life insurance policies to the community trust on behalf of individuals with severe chronic disabilities for the purpose of qualifying them as beneficiaries.

(h) At the time a contribution, bequest, or assignment of insurance proceeds is made, the trustor shall receive a written statement of the services to be provided to the beneficiary. The statement shall include a starting date for the delivery of services or the condition precedent, such as the death of the trustor, which shall determine the starting date. The statement shall describe the frequency with which services shall be provided and their duration, and the criteria or procedures for modifying the program of services from time to time in the best interests of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-5. Accountability.

Along with the annual report filed with the Secretary of State pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes, the community trust shall file an itemized statement that shows the funds collected for the year, income earned, salaries, other expenses incurred, and the opening and final trust balances. A copy of this statement shall be made available, upon request, to any beneficiary, trustor, or designee of the trustor. In addition, once annually, each trustor or the trustor's designee shall receive a detailed individual statement of the services provided to the trustor's beneficiary during the previous 12 months and the services to be provided during the following 12 months. The community trust shall make a copy of the individual statement available to any beneficiary, upon request.

"§ 36D-6. Gifts, surplus trust funds.

The community trust may accept gifts and use surplus trust funds for the purpose of qualifying as beneficiary any indigent person whose family members lack the resources to make a full contribution on that person's behalf. The extent and character of the services and selection of beneficiaries are at the discretion of the community trust. The community trust may not use surplus trust funds to make any charitable contribution on behalf of any beneficiary or any group or class of beneficiaries. The community trust may accept gifts to meet start-up costs, reduce the charges to the trust for the cost of administration, and for any other purpose that is consistent with this Article. Gifts made to the trust for an unspecified purpose shall be used by the community trust either to qualify indigent persons whose families lack the means to qualify them as beneficiaries of the trust or to meet any start-up costs that the trust incurs.

"§ 36D-7. Special requests on behalf of beneficiary.

The community trust may agree to fulfill any special requests made on behalf of a beneficiary as long as the requests are consistent with this Article and provided that an adequate contribution has been made for this purpose on behalf of a beneficiary. The community trust may agree to serve as trustee for any individual trust created on behalf of a beneficiary, regardless of whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable, has one or more remaindermen or contingent beneficiaries, or any other condition, so long as the individual trust is consistent with the purposes of this Article.

"§ 36D-8. Irrevocability; impossibility of fulfillment.

A community trust for persons with severe chronic disabilities is irrevocable, but the trustees in their sole discretion may provide compensation for any contribution to the trust to any trustor who, upon good cause, withdraws a beneficiary designated by the trustor from the trust, or if it becomes impossible to fulfill the conditions of the trust with regard to an individual beneficiary for reasons other than the death of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-9. Beneficiary's interest in trust not asset for income eligibility determination.

Notwithstanding any provisions of Chapter 108A of the General Statutes, the beneficiary's interest in any community trust shall not be deemed to be an asset for the purpose of determining income eligibility for any publicly operated program, nor shall that interest be reached in satisfaction of a claim for support and maintenance of the beneficiary. No agency shall reduce the benefits of services available to any individual because that person is the beneficiary of a community trust.

"§ 36D-10. Trust not subject to law against perpetuities; restraints on alienation.

A community trust shall not be subject to or held to be in violation of any principle of law against perpetuities or restraints on alienation or perpetual accumulations of trusts.

"§ 36D-11. Settlement; trustee limitations.

The community trust shall settle a community trust by filing a final accounting in the superior court. In addition, at anytime prior to the settlement of the final account, the community trust, the Secretary of State, or the Attorney General may bring an action for the dissolution of a nonprofit corporation in the superior court for the purpose of terminating the trust or merging it with another charitable trust.

No trustee or any private individual shall be entitled to share in the distribution of any of the trust assets upon dissolution, merger, or settlement of the community trust. Upon dissolution, merger, or settlement, the superior court shall distribute all of the remaining net assets of the community trust in a manner that is consistent with the purposes of this Article."

SECTION 4. G.S. 32-28 and G.S. 32-34 are repealed.

SECTION 5. G.S. 28A-13-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 28A-13-6. Exercise of powers of joint personal representatives by one or more than one.

~~(a) As used in this section, the term "personal representatives" includes testamentary trustees.~~

(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act of the majority so voting binds all;

(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

(e) Subject to the provisions of subsections (b), ~~(c)~~ (c1), and (d) of this section, all other acts and duties must be performed by both of the personal representatives if there are two, and by a majority of them if there are more than two. (f) No personal representative shall be relieved of liability on his bond or otherwise by entering into any agreement under this section."

Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, any rule of construction or presumption provided in Chapter 36C applies to trust instruments executed before the effective date of Section 2 of this act unless there is a clear indication of a contrary intent in the terms of the trust or unless application of that rule of construction or presumption would impair substantial rights of a beneficiary. Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, an act done before the effective date of Section 2 of this act is not affected by Chapter 36C. If a right is acquired, extinguished, or barred upon the expiration of a prescribed period that has commenced to run under any other statute before the effective date of Section 2 of this act, that statute continues to apply to the right even if it has been repealed or superseded.

SECTION 7.(b) Sections 1 through 5 of this act become effective January 1, 2006. The remainder of this act is effective when it becomes law.

"§ 36C-1-101. Short title.

This Chapter may be cited as the North Carolina Uniform Trust Code.

"§ 36C-1-102. Scope.

This Chapter applies to any express trust, private or charitable, with additions to the trust, wherever and however created. The term "express trust" includes both testamentary and inter vivos trusts, regardless of whether the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court. This Chapter also applies to any trust created for or determined by judgment or decree under which the trust is to be administered in the manner of an express trust. This Chapter does not apply to constructive trusts, resulting trusts, conservatorships, estates, trust accounts as defined in G.S. 53-146.2, 54-109.57, 54B-130, and 54C-166, trust funds subject to G.S. 90-210.61, custodial arrangements under G.S. 33A-1 through G.S. 33A-24 and G.S. 33B-1 through G.S. 33B-22, business trusts providing for certificates to be issued to beneficiaries, common trust funds, voting trusts, security arrangements, liquidation trusts, and trusts for the primary purpose of paying debts, dividends, interest, salaries, wages, profits, pensions, or employee benefits of any kind, or any arrangement under which a person is nominee or escrowee for another.

"§ 36C-1-103. Definitions.

In this Chapter:

(1) "Action", with respect to an act of a trustee, includes a failure to act.

(2) "Ascertainable standard" means a standard relating to an individual's health, education, support, or maintenance within the meaning of section 2041(b)(1)(A) or 2514(c)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(3) "Beneficiary" means a person who:

a. Has a present or future beneficial interest in a trust, vested or contingent, including the owner of an interest by assignment or transfer; or

These include proceedings:

In the case of co-trustees, the principal place of administration, if not otherwise designated in the governing instrument, is:

a. The usual place of business of the corporate trustee if there is but one corporate or co-trustee; or

b. The usual place of business or residence of any of the co-trustees.

(4) If a trust has no trustee, venue for a judicial proceeding for the appointment of a trustee is in any county of this State in which a beneficiary resides, in any county in which trust property is located, in the county of this State specified in the trust instrument, if any county is so specified, or if the trust is created by will, in the county in which the decedent's estate was or is being administered.

The clerk of superior court shall issue the summons for the respondents. The clerk of superior court may order that additional persons be joined as respondents and shall issue the summons for the additional persons. The summons shall notify the respondents to appear and answer the petition within 10 days after its service upon the respondents. The summons shall comply with the requirements set forth in G.S. 1-394 for a special proceeding summons except that the clerk of superior court shall indicate on the summons by appropriate words that the summons is issued in an estate matter and not in a special proceeding or in a civil action and shall be served upon the respondents in accordance with Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. After the time for responding to the petition or complaint has expired, any party or the clerk of superior court may give notice to all parties of a hearing.

(b) Uncontested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court in which all the parties join in the proceeding shall be commenced by the filing of a petition, setting forth the facts entitling the petitioners to relief and the nature of the relief demanded. In these proceedings, the clerk of superior court may hear and decide the petition summarily.

(c) Pleadings. – The petition or complaint filed in a trust proceeding before the clerk of superior court shall contain a short and plain statement of the claim which is sufficiently particular to give the court and the parties notice of the transactions, occurrences, or series of transactions, intended to be proved showing that the pleaders entitled to relief, and a demand for judgment for the relief to which the pleader is entitled. Each averment of a pleading should be simple, concise, and direct. No technical forms of pleadings or motions are required. A party may set forth two or more statements of a claim or defense alternatively or hypothetically. The signature of an attorney or party constitutes a certificate by that attorney or party that (i) the attorney or party has read the pleading, motion, or other paper; (ii) to the best of the attorney's or party's knowledge, information, and belief formed after reasonable inquiry, it is well grounded in fact and is warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law; and (iii) it is not interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation. All pleadings shall be so construed as to do substantial justice.

(d) Extensions of Time. – The clerk of superior court, for cause shown at any time in the clerk's discretion, with or without motion or notice, may enter an order enlarging the period of time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, if the request is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed, but not to exceed 10 days, nor more than once. Upon motion made after the expiration of the specified period, the clerk of superior court may permit the act where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the parties to a proceeding may enter into binding stipulations, without approval of the clerk of superior court, enlarging the time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, not to exceed 30 days.

(e) Rules of Civil Procedure. – Unless the clerk of superior court otherwise directs, Rules 5, 6(a), 6(d), 6(e), 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, and 45 of the Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to trust proceedings. Upon motion of a party or the clerk of superior court, the clerk may further direct that the following Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply: Rules 15, 16, 17, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, and 37; however, nothing in Rule 17 requires the appointment of a guardian ad litem for a party represented except as provided under G.S. 36C-3-305. In applying these Rules to a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court, the term "judge" shall be construed as "clerk of superior court."

(f) Consolidation. – When a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court and a civil action pending before the superior court division of the General Court of Justice involve a common question of law or fact, upon the court's motion or motion of a party to either the trust proceeding or the civil action, a superior court judge may order a consolidation of the trust proceeding and civil action, and the judge may make orders concerning proceedings therein as may tend to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Upon the entry of an order consolidating a trust proceeding and civil action, the jurisdiction for all matters pending in both the trust proceeding and the civil action shall be vested in the superior court.

(g) Joinder. – In any civil action pending before a superior court division of the General Court of Justice, a party asserting a claim for relief as an original claim, counterclaim, cross claim, or third-party claim, may join, either as independent or as alternate claims, as many claims, legal or equitable, as that party has against an opposing party notwithstanding the fact that the claims may otherwise be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the clerk of superior court.

(h) Orders Upon Consolidation/Joinder. – Upon the consolidation of a trust proceeding and civil action or joinder of claims under subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of superior court or the judge may make such orders as appropriate to protect the interests of the parties and to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Notwithstanding the consolidation or joinder of claims under subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of court's exclusive jurisdiction as set forth in G.S. 36C-2-203(a) shall not be stayed unless so ordered by the court.

"§ 36C-2-206. Representation of parties.

(5) A personal representative of a decedent's estate may represent and bind persons interested in the estate.

(6) A parent may represent and bind the parent's minor child if a general guardian, guardian of the estate, or guardian of the person for the child has not been appointed. If a disagreement arises between parents seeking to represent the same minor child, the parent who is a beneficiary of the trust that is the subject of the representation is entitled to represent the minor child or, if no parent is a beneficiary of the trust that is the subject of the representation, a parent who is a lineal descendant of the settlor is entitled to represent the minor child, or if no parent is a lineal descendant of the settlor, a guardian ad litem shall be appointed to represent the minor child.

(7) A person may represent and bind that person's unborn issue.

"§ 36C-3-304. Representation by person having substantially identical interest.

Unless otherwise represented under this Article, a minor, an incapacitated or unborn individual, or a person whose identity or location is unknown and not reasonably ascertainable, may be represented by and bound by another having a substantially identical interest with respect to the particular question or dispute, but only to the extent that there is no conflict of interest between the representative and the person represented.

"§ 36C-3-305. Appointment of representative; scope of representation.

(a) If the court determines that an interest is not represented under this Article, or that the otherwise available representation might be inadequate, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to receive notice, give consent, and otherwise represent, bind, and act on behalf of a minor, incapacitated or unborn individual, or a person whose identity or location is unknown. A guardian ad litem may be appointed to represent several persons or interests.

(b) Any representative under this Article may act on behalf of the individual represented with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter, whether or not a judicial proceeding concerning the trust is pending.

(c) In making decisions, a representative, including a guardian ad litem, may base a decision to consent to an action upon a finding that living members of the individual's family would generally benefit from that action.

"Article 4.

"Creation, Validity, Modification, and Termination of Trust.

"§ 36C-4-401. Methods of creating trust.

A trust may be created by:

(1) Transfer of property by a settlor to a person as trustee during the settlor's lifetime or by will or other disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death;

(2) Declaration by the owner of property that the owner holds identifiable property as trustee unless the transfer of title of that property is otherwise required by law; or

(3) Exercise of a power of appointment in favor of a trustee.

"§ 36C-4-401A. Interest of trustee as beneficiary of life insurance or other death benefit sufficient to support inter vivos or testamentary trust.

(a) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured or any other person or persons reserves or has the right to exercise any one or more of the following rights or powers:

(1) To change the beneficiary;

(2) To surrender the policy and receive the cash surrender value;

(3) To borrow from the insurance company issuing the policy or elsewhere using the policy as collateral security;

(4) To assign the policy; or

(5) To exercise any other right in connection with the policy commonly known as an incident of ownership of that policy.

The term "life insurance policy" includes life, annuity, and endowment contracts, or any variation or combination of those contracts, and any agreement entered into by an insurance company in connection with life, annuity, or endowments contracts.

(b) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a death benefit under an employee benefit plan or group life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured, employer, insurer or administrator of the plan reserves or has the right to revoke or otherwise defeat the designation or assignment or to exercise any one or more of the rights or powers incident to employee benefit plans or group life insurance policies.

The term "employee benefit plan" includes pension, retirement, death benefit, deferred compensation, employment, agency, retirement annuity, stock bonus, profit-sharing or employees' savings contracts, plans, systems or trusts; and trusts, securities or accounts established or held under the federal Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962, the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, or similar legislation. The term "group life insurance policy" includes group life, industrial life, accident, and health insurance policies having death benefits.

(c) A testator having the right to designate the beneficiary under a life insurance policy, employee benefit plan, or group life insurance policy described in subsection (a) or (b) of this section may designate as that beneficiary a trustee named or to be named in the testator's will whether or not the will is in existence at the time of the designation. The proceeds received by the trustee shall be held and disposed of as part of the trust estate under the terms of the will as they exist at the death of the testator. If no trustee makes claim to the proceeds within six months after the death of the testator, payments shall be made to the personal representative of the estate of the testator unless it is otherwise provided by an alternative designation or by the policy or plan. The proceeds received by the trustee is not subject to claims against the estate of the testator to estate or inheritance taxes to any greater extent than if the proceeds were payable directly to the beneficiary or beneficiaries named in the trust. The proceeds may be commingled with any other assets that may properly become part of the trust, but the proceeds shall not become part of the testator's estate for purposes of trust administration unless the will expressly so provides.

"§ 36C-4-402. Requirements for creation.

(a) A trust is created only if:

(1) The settlor has capacity to create a trust;

(2) The settlor indicates an intention to create the trust;

(3) The trust has a definite beneficiary or is:

a. A charitable trust;

b. A trust for the care of an animal, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

c. A trust for a noncharitable purpose, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409;

(4) The trustee has duties to perform; and

(5) The same person is not the sole trustee and sole beneficiary.

(b) A beneficiary is definite if the beneficiary can be ascertained now or in the future, subject to any applicable rule against perpetuities.

(c) A power in a trustee to select a beneficiary from an indefinite class is valid. If the power is not exercised within a reasonable time, the power fails and the property subject to the power passes to the persons who would have taken the property had the power not been conferred.

"§ 36C-4-403. Trusts created in other jurisdictions.

A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complies with the law of the jurisdiction in which the trust instrument was executed, or the law of the jurisdiction in which, at the time of creation:

(1) The settlor was domiciled, had a place of abode, or was a national;

(2) A trustee was domiciled or had a place of business; or

(3) Any trust property was located.

"§ 36C-4-404. Trust purposes.

A trust may be created only to the extent that its purposes are lawful, not contrary to public policy, and possible to achieve. A trust and its terms must be for the benefit of its beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-4-405. Charitable purposes.

(a) A charitable trust may be created for the relief of poverty, the advancement of education or religion, the promotion of health, scientific, benevolent, literary, governmental, or municipal purposes, or other purposes the achievement of which is beneficial to the community.

(b) It is the policy of the State that a gift for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, is valid, notwithstanding the fact that the gift is made in general terms, and this section shall be construed liberally to effect this policy.

(c) No gift for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, is void or invalid because:

(1) The gift is in general terms or is uncertain as to the specific charitable purposes;

(2) When the gift is made in trust, the trustee is granted discretionary powers in the selection and designation of the beneficiaries of that charitable trust or in carrying out the purpose of that trust;

(3) The trustee or other recipient of the gift is given no specific instructions, powers, or duties as to the manner or means of carrying out those charitable purposes; or

(4) The gift contravenes any statute or rule against perpetuities.

(d) When any gift is made in general terms, the trustee or other recipient of the gift may:

(1) Select from time to time one or more specific charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which any trust or property or income is held and administered; and

(2) Determine the means to accomplish those charitable purposes, unless otherwise provided, including the creation of corporations or other legal entities for those purposes.

(e) For purposes of this section, the reference to a "gift" includes both inter vivos and testamentary gifts, grants, and other transfers.

"§ 36C-4-405A. Enforcement of charitable gift or trust.

(a) The settlor of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, the district attorney, a beneficiary, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce a charitable trust, including the following:

(1) A proceeding to require a trustee to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the trust was established, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405;

(2) A proceeding for breach of fiduciary duty if there is reason to believe that the trust property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud; and

(3) A proceeding for an accounting of the trustee's administration of the trust.

(b) The donor of a charitable gift, the Attorney General, the district attorney, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce the gift, including a proceeding to require the recipient of the gift to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the gift was intended, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405.

"§ 36C-4-406. Creation of trust induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

A trust is voidable to the extent that its creation was induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

"§ 36C-4-407. Evidence of oral trust.

Except as required by a State statute other than this Chapter, a trust need not be evidenced by a trust instrument, but the creation of an oral trust and its terms may be established only by clear and convincing evidence.

"§ 36C-4-408. Trust for care of animal.

(a) Subject to this section, a trust for the care of one or more designated domestic or pet animals alive at the time of creation of the trust is valid.

(b) Except as expressly provided otherwise in the trust instrument, no portion of the principal or income may be converted to the use of the trustee or to any use other than for the benefit of the designated animal or animals.

(c) The trust terminates at the death of the animal or last surviving animal. Upon termination, the trustee shall transfer the unexpended trust property in the following order:

(1) As directed in the trust instrument;

(2) If the trust was created in a preresiduary clause in the transferor's will or in a codicil to the transferor's will, under the residuary clause in the transferor's will;

(3) If no taker is produced by the application of subdivision (1) or (2) of this subsection, to the transferor or the transferor's heirs determined as of the date of the transferor's death under Chapter 29 of the General Statutes.

(d) The intended use of the principal or income can be enforced by a person designated for that purpose in the trust instrument or, if none, by a person appointed by the clerk of superior court having jurisdiction over the decedent's estate upon application to the clerk of superior court by a person.

(e) Except as ordered by the clerk of superior court or required by the trust instrument, no filing, report, registration, periodic accounting, separate maintenance of funds, appointment, bond, or fee is required by reason of the existence of the fiduciary relationship of the trustee.

(f) A governing instrument shall be liberally construed to bring the transfer within this section, to presume against the merely precatory or honorary nature of the disposition, and to carry out the general intent of the transferor. Extrinsic evidence is admissible in determining the transferor's intent.

(g) The clerk of superior court may reduce the amount of the property transferred, if the clerk of superior court determines that the amount substantially exceeds the amount required for the intended use. The amount of the reduction, if any, passes as unexpended trust property under subsection (c) of this section.

(h) If no trustee is designated or if no designated trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve, the clerk of superior court must name a trustee. The clerk of superior court may order the transfer of the property to another trustee, if required to assure that the intended use is carried out and if no successor trustee is designated in the trust instrument or if no designated successor trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve. The clerk of superior court may also make other orders and determinations as are advisable to carry out the intent of the transferor and the purpose of this section.

"§ 36C-4-409. Noncharitable trust without ascertainable beneficiary.

Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or by another statute, the following rules apply:

(1) A trust may be created for a noncharitable purpose without a definite or definitely ascertainable beneficiary or for a noncharitable but otherwise valid purpose to be selected by the trustee. The trust may not be enforced for more than 21 years.

(2) A trust authorized by this section may be enforced by a person appointed in the terms of the trust or, if no person is so appointed, by a person appointed by the court.

(3) Property of a trust authorized by this section may be applied only to its intended use, except to the extent that the court determines that the value of the trust property exceeds the amount required for the intended use. Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, property not required for the intended use must be distributed to the settlor, if then living, or otherwise to the settlor's successors in interest.

(4) Notwithstanding subdivisions (1) through (3) of this section, a trust, contract, or other arrangement to provide for the care of a cemetery lot, grave, crypt, niche, mausoleum, columbarium, grave marker, or monument is valid without regard to remoteness of vesting, duration of the arrangement, or lack of definite beneficiaries to enforce the trust, provided that the trust, contract, or other arrangement meets the requirements of G.S. 28A-19-10, Article 4 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, Article 9 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, or other applicable law. This section does not repeal or supersede G.S. 36C-4-413.

"§ 36C-4-410. Modification or termination of trust; proceedings for approval or disapproval.

(a) In addition to the methods of termination prescribed by G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-414, a trust terminates to the extent that the trust is revoked or expires under its terms, no purpose of the trust remains to be achieved, or the purposes of the trust have become unlawful, contrary to public policy, or impossible to achieve.

(b) A trustee or beneficiary may commence a proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-416, or trust combination or division under G.S. 36C-4-417. A settler may commence a proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under G.S. 36C-4-411. The settlor of a charitable trust may maintain a proceeding to modify the trust under G.S. 36C-4-413. A trustee is a necessary party to any proceeding under this section.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section is as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-411. Modification or termination of noncharitable irrevocable trust by consent.

(a) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified or terminated upon consent of the settlor and all beneficiaries, even if the modification or termination is inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust. A settlor's power to consent to a trust's modification or termination may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the power of attorney or the terms of the trust; by the settlor's general guardian or the guardian of the estate with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized; or by the settlor's guardian of the person with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized and a general guardian or guardian of the estate has not been appointed.

(b) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be terminated upon consent of all of the beneficiaries if the court concludes that continuance of the trust is not necessary to achieve any material purpose of the trust. A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified upon consent of all of the beneficiaries, if the court concludes that modification is consistent with a material purpose of the trust.

(c) Where the beneficiaries of an irrevocable trust seek to compel a termination of the trust and the continuance of the trust is necessary to carry out a material purpose of the trust, or where the beneficiaries seek to compel a modification of the trust in a manner that is inconsistent with its material purpose, the trust may be modified or terminated, in the discretion of the court, only if the court determines that the reason for modifying or terminating the trust under the circumstances substantially outweighs the interest in accomplishing a material purpose of the trust.

(d) If not all of the beneficiaries consent to a proposed modification or termination of the trust under subsection (a), (b) or (c) of this section, the modification or termination may be approved by the court if the court is satisfied that:

(1) If all of the beneficiaries had consented, the trust could have been modified or terminated under this section; and

(2) The interests of a beneficiary who does not consent will be adequately protected.

(e) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-412. Modification or termination because of unanticipated circumstances or inability to administer trust effectively.

(a) The court may modify the administrative or dispositive terms of a trust or terminate the trust if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the settlor, modification or termination will further the purposes of the trust. To the extent practicable, the modification must be made in accordance with the settlor's probable intention.

(b) The court may modify the administrative terms of a trust if continuation of the trust on its existing terms would be impracticable or wasteful or impair the trust's administration.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-413. Cy pres.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, if a charitable trust becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful:

(1) The trust does not fail, in whole or in part;

(2) The trust property does not revert to the settlor or the settlor's successors in interest; and

(3) The court may apply cy pres to modify or terminate the trust by directing that the trust property be applied or distributed, in whole or in part, in a manner consistent with the settlor's charitable purposes.

(b) The settlor or a trustee of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, a beneficiary or any other interested party may maintain a cy pres proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter.

(c) In every cy pres proceeding, the Attorney General shall be notified and given an opportunity to be heard.

(d) This section is not applicable if the settlor has provided, either directly or indirectly, for an alternative plan in the event that the charitable trust is or becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful. However, if the alternative plan is also a charitable trust and that trust fails, the intention shown in the original plan shall prevail in the application of this section.

"§ 36C-4-414. Modification or termination of uneconomic trust.

(a) After notice to the qualified beneficiaries, the trustee of a trust consisting of trust property having a total value of less than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) may terminate the trust if the trustee concludes that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration. The trustee may enter into an agreement or make other provisions that the trustee deems necessary or appropriate to protect the interests of the beneficiaries and to carry out the intent and purpose of the trust. This subsection shall not apply where the instrument creating the trust, by specific reference to this section, or to former G.S. 36A-125.6, provides that it shall not apply. The trustee shall not be liable for that termination and distribution notwithstanding the existence or potential existence of other beneficiaries who are not sui juris. Any beneficiary receiving a distribution from a trust terminated under this section shall incur no liability and shall not be required to account to anyone for such distribution.

(b) The court may modify or terminate a trust or remove the trustee and appoint a different trustee if the court determines that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration.

(c) This section does not apply to an easement for conservation or preservation.

(d) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section is as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-415. Reformation to correct mistakes.

The court may reform the terms of a trust, even if unambiguous, to conform the terms to the settlor's intention if it is proved by clear and convincing evidence that both the settlor's intent and the terms of the trust were affected by a mistake of fact or law, whether in expression or inducement. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-416. Modification to achieve settlor's tax objectives.

To achieve a settlor's tax objectives, the court may modify the terms of a trust in a manner that is not contrary to the settlor's probable intention. The court may provide that the modification has retroactive effect. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-417. Combination and division of trusts.

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the trust instrument, after notice to the qualified beneficiaries, a trustee may:

(1) Consolidate the assets of more than one trust and administer the assets as one trust under the terms of one of the trusts if the terms of the trusts are substantially similar and the beneficiaries of the trusts are identical; or

(2) Divide one trust into two or more separate trusts if the new trusts provide in the aggregate for the same succession of interests and beneficiaries as are provided in the original trust.

(b) In dividing a trust into two or more separate trusts, a trustee shall accomplish the division by severing the trusts on a fractional basis and funding the separate trusts either (i) with a pro rata portion of each asset held by the undivided trust; or (ii) on a non-pro rata basis based on either the fair market value of the assets on the date of funding or in a manner that fairly reflects the net appreciation or depreciation in the value of the assets measured from the valuation date to the date of funding.

(c) In any case where two separate identical trusts are created under this section, one of which is fully exempt from the federal generation-skipping transfer tax and one of which is fully subject to that tax, the trustee may thereafter, to the extent possible consistent with the terms of the trust, determine the value of any mandatory or discretionary distributions to trust beneficiaries on the basis of the combined value of both trusts, but may satisfy those distributions by a method other than pro rata from the separate trusts in a manner designed to minimize the current and potential generation-skipping transfer tax.

"§ 36C-4-418. Distribution upon termination of trust.

Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, the trustee shall distribute the trust property as agreed by the beneficiaries. Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-412 or G.S. 36C-4-414, the trustee shall distribute the trust property in a manner consistent with the purposes of the trust. If any trust property becomes distributable to a minor or incompetent under this Article it may be distributed:

(1) To the guardian of the estate or general guardian of the beneficiary;

(2) In accordance with the North Carolina Uniform Transfer to Minors Act, Chapter 33A of the General Statutes; or

(3) In accordance with the North Carolina Custodial Trust Act, Chapter 33B of the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-4-419. Effect of inalienable interest on modification or termination.

The court, in exercising its discretion to modify or terminate an irrevocable trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, 36C-4-412 or 36C-4-413 shall consider provisions making the interest of a beneficiary inalienable, including those described in Article 5, but the court is not precluded from the exercise of that discretion solely because of such provisions.

"Article 4A.

"Tax Status of Charitable Trusts.

"§ 36C-4A-1. Prohibited transactions.

(a) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the trust instrument of each trust that is a private foundation described in section 509 of the Internal Revenue Code (including each nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code that is treated as a private foundation) and the trust instrument of each nonexempt split-interest trust described in section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code (but only to the extent that section 508(e) of the Internal Revenue Code is applicable to the nonexempt split-interest trust under section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code) is considered to contain the following provisions: "The trust shall make distributions at any time and in any manner as not to subject it to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not engage in any act of self-dealing which would subject it to tax under section 4941 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not retain any excess business holdings that would subject it to tax under section 4943 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not make any investments that would subject it to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code; and the trust shall not make any taxable expenditures that would subject it to tax under section 4945 of the Internal Revenue Code." With respect to any trust created before January 1, 1970, this section shall apply only for its taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1972.

(b) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary, unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (a) of this section, the governing instrument of each trust that is a nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code is considered to contain the following provisions:

(1) The trust shall be operated exclusively for charitable, educational, religious and scientific purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) and section 170(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(2) Upon any dissolution, winding up, or liquidation of the trust, its assets shall be distributed for one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or shall be distributed to the federal government, or a state or local government for a public purpose.

(c) The trustee of any trust described in this section may do one of the following:

(1) Without judicial proceedings, amend the trust to expressly exclude the application of this section by executing a written amendment to the trust instrument and filing a duplicate original of the amendment with the Attorney General. Upon filing of the amendment, this section shall not apply to that trust.

(2) Institute a proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter seeking reformation of the trust instrument.

"§ 36C-4A-2. Reformation of charitable remainder trust.

If a federal estate tax deduction is not allowable at the time of a decedent's death because of the failure of an interest in property that passes from the decedent under a will or trust to a person, or for a use, described in section 2055(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, to meet the requirements of subsections 2055(e)(2)(A) or (B) of the Internal Revenue Code, then in order that the deduction shall nevertheless be allowable under section 2055(e)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, the court may, on application of any trustee or interested party with either (i) the written consent of the qualified beneficiaries, or (ii) a finding that the interest of those beneficiaries is substantially preserved, order an amendment to the trust so that the remainder interest is in a trust that is a charitable remainder annuity trust, a charitable remainder unitrust (as those terms are described in section 664 of the Internal Revenue Code), or a pooled income fund (as that term is described in section 642(c)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code), or so that any other interest of a charitable beneficiary is in the form of a guaranteed annuity or is a fixed percentage distributed yearly of the fair market value of the property (to be determined yearly), in accordance with section 2055(e)(2)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code. In every proceeding under this section, the Attorney General shall be notified, and given an opportunity to be heard.

"Article 4B.

"Charitable Remainder Trust Administration Act.

"§ 36C-4B-1. Short title.

This Article shall be known as the Charitable Remainder Administration Trust Act.

"§ 36C-4B-2. General rule.

Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instruments to the contrary, any charitable remainder annuity trust and any charitable remainder unitrust that cannot qualify for a deduction for federal tax purposes under section 2055 or section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code in the absence of this Article shall be administered in accordance with this Article.

"§ 36C-4B-3. Definitions.

The following definitions apply to this Article unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Charitable remainder trust" means a trust that provides for a specified distribution at least annually for either life or a term of years to one or more beneficiaries, at least one of which is not a charity (hereinafter referred to as "beneficiaries"), with an irrevocable remainder interest to be held for the benefit of, or paid over to, charity. For purposes of this Article, only a charitable remainder annuity trust or a charitable remainder unitrust is considered a charitable remainder trust.

(2) "Charitable remainder annuity trust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a sum certain (that is not less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of all property placed in trust) is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to or for or both to and for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code or is to be retained by the trust for that use.

(3) "Charitable remainder unitrust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a fixed percentage (that is not less than five percent (5%)) of the net fair market value of its assets, valued annually, is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be made subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to or for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, or is to be retained by the trust for such a use.

Notwithstanding sub-subdivisions a. and b. of this subdivision, the trust instrument may provide that the trustee shall pay to the income beneficiary for any year (i) the amount of the trust income if that amount is less than the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, and (ii) any amount of the trust income that exceeds the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivision a of this subdivision to the extent that (by reason of sub-subdivision a.) the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the required amounts.

(4) "Qualified contingency" means any provision of the governing instrument that provides that, upon the happening of a contingency, the payments made to an individual noncharitable beneficiary of a charitable remainder trust will terminate not later than those payments would otherwise terminate under the governing instrument.

"§ 36C-4B-4. Administrative provisions applicable to both charitable remainder annuity trusts and charitable remainder unit trusts.

(a) Creation of Remainder Interests in Charity. – Upon the termination of the noncharitable interests, the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiary or beneficiaries, to the designated charity or charities, or shall hold the property in trust for the designated charity or charities in accordance with the terms of the trust document.

(b) Selection of Alternate Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – If the designated charity is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at the time when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee must distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the trust instrument. If the trust instrument does not provide for a method of selecting alternate charitable beneficiaries that are then qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee must, in the trustee's sole discretion, select alternate trust beneficiaries that are qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(bl) Selection of Alternative Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(b)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – Notwithstanding subsection (b) of this section, if the designated charity is, at the time of the creation of the trust, an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, and if the designated charity is not an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee must distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument; however, in the event that the governing instrument does not provide a method of selecting alternative charitable beneficiaries that are then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee shall, in his sole discretion, select one or more alternative charitable beneficiaries that are described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and must distribute the principal or income to the organization or organizations so selected in shares as the trustee, in the trustee's sole discretion, shall determine.

(c) Prohibitions Governing Trustees. – Except for payment of the annuity amount or the unitrust amount to the beneficiaries, whichever is applicable, the trustee is prohibited from engaging in any act of self-dealing as defined in section 4941(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, retaining any excess business holdings as defined in section 4943(c) of the Internal Revenue Code that would subject the trust to tax under section 4943 of the Code, making any investments that would subject the trust to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code, and making any taxable expenditures as defined in section 4945(d) of the Code. The trustee shall make distributions at a time and in a manner as not to subject the trust to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(d) Distribution to Charity During Term of Noncharitable Interests and Distributions in Kind. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests, the trustee may pay to the designated charity the amounts specified in the governing instrument that exceed the annuity amount or the unitrust amount payable to any of the beneficiaries for the taxable year of the trust in which the income is earned. If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity in kind, the adjusted basis for federal income tax purposes of any trust property the trustee distributes in kind to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests must be fairly representative of the adjusted basis for those purposes of all trust property available for distribution on the date of distribution.

(e) Investment Restrictions on Trustee. – Nothing in the trust instrument shall be construed to restrict the trustee from investing the trust assets in a manner that could result in the annual realization of a reasonable amount of income or gain from the sale or disposition of trust assets.

(f) Distribution From Trust Used to Administer an Estate to Charitable Remainder Trust. – If the governing instrument of a revocable inter vivos trust provides that the revocable inter vivos trust will be used partially to administer the estate of the settlor or for some other purpose, and further provides the assets will then be distributed to another trust that is a charitable remainder trust, upon the death of the settlor, or upon the occurrence of any event that causes the trust to become irrevocable, then the trust shall become irrevocable, and the trustee of this trust shall perform any remaining duties or obligations provided for in the trust instrument and then transfer the property specified in the governing instrument to the trustee of the charitable remainder trust to be held, administered, and distributed in the manner and according to the terms and conditions provided by the charitable remainder trust.

(g) Payment of Taxes by Noncharitable Beneficiary. – In the case of any inter vivos charitable remainder trust that is liable to pay, from trust property, any federal estate, state inheritance, or other similar death taxes by reason of the death of the settlor of the trust, the interest of any noncharitable beneficiary of the trust shall terminate upon the death of the settlor unless the noncharitable beneficiary furnishes to the trust sufficient funds for payment of all those taxes attributable to the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary in the trust property, and the termination shall be deemed as the occurrence of a qualified contingency.

"§ 36C-4B-5. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder trusts only.

(a) Creation of Annuity Amount for Period of Years or Life. – In each taxable year of the trust, the trustee shall pay the annuity amount designated in the trust instrument to the beneficiaries named in the trust instrument during their lives or, if the governing instrument so provides, for a period of 20 years or less. The annuity amount shall be paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The annuity amount shall be paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the annuity amount shall be added to principal.

The total amount payable at least annually to a person or persons named in the trust document, at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, may not be less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the property placed in trust as finally determined for federal tax purposes, except as provided in subsection (g) of this section.

(b) Computation of Annuity Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the annuity amount on a daily basis.

(c) Prohibition of Additional Contributions. – No additional contributions shall be made to the trust after the initial contribution.

(d) Deferral of Annuity Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the annuity amount commences with the date of death of the settlor, but payment of the annuity amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any annuity amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The annuity amounts payable, determined under the method described in Section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended before August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts must be computed using an interest rate at six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(e) Dollar Amount Annuity May Be Stated as Fraction or Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust states the amount of the annuity as a fraction or a percentage, the trustee must pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives an annuity amount equal to a percentage (that percentage being stipulated in the governing instrument of the trust and, in any event, being five percent (5%) or greater) of the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust. In determining this amount, assets shall be valued at their values as finally determined for federal tax purposes. If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust, then, within a reasonable period after a final determination, the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation or shall receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the annuity amount properly payable and the annuity amount actually paid.

(f) Annuity Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the annuity trust amount may be allocated among a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee must pay the annuity amount, which is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, in each taxable year of the trust, to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in an amount and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the entire annuity amount to one member of this class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner as the trustee from time to time considers advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, then the distribution must be for a period of years not to exceed 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire annuity amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the annuity amount.

(g) Reduction of Annuity Amount If Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the annuity amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries, the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay a total annuity amount of at least five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the assets placed in trust. Upon the expiration of the term of years or the death of a beneficiary, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay, annually or in more frequent installments, to the survivors for their lives, an annuity amount that in each taxable year of the trust, bears the same ratio to five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the trust assets as the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the date of distribution, less the amount or percentage of trust assets distributed to the charity, bears to the net fair market value of the trust assets as of the date of distribution.

(h) Termination of Annuity Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the annuity amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee must pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during the term of the noncharitable interest the annuity amount, defined in the trust document, in each taxable year of the trust. The obligation of the trustee to pay the annuity amount shall terminate with the payment preceding the death of the noncharitable beneficiary or other event that terminates the noncharitable interest.

(i) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust retains the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee shall pay to the settlor during the settlor's life the annuity amount, as defined in the governing instrument of the trust and, upon the death of the settlor, if the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor, the trustee must pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during that beneficiary's life the annuity amount equal to the amount paid to the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if the settler effectively exercised the settlor's testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee must distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the settlor or noncharitable beneficiary, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee must continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust is effective.

"§ 36C-4B-6. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder unitrusts only.

(a) Creation of Unitrust Amount for a Period of Years or Life. – The trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries named in the trust investment in each taxable year of the trust during their lives or, if the governing instrument so provides, for a period not exceeding 20 years, a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually on the date or by the method designated in the governing instrument of the trust or, if no date or method is specified, on the date or by the method selected by the trustee in the trustee's discretion, so long as the same valuation date or dates or valuation methods are used each year. The unitrust amount is paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The unitrust amount is paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the unitrust amount is added to principal. The fixed percentage to be paid at least annually to all beneficiaries cannot be less than five percent (5%).

(b) Unitrust Amount Expressed as the Lesser of Income or a Fixed Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the trustee shall pay, instead of a regular unitrust amount (the fixed percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets, determined annually), the amount of trust income for the taxable year to the extent that this amount is not greater than the amount required to be distributed as a regular unitrust amount for that taxable year or the amount of the trust income for the taxable year that exceeds the regular unitrust amount for that taxable year to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the regular unitrust amount for those prior years, then the trustee must pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives, or for a period not exceeding 20 years if the trust agreement so provides, an amount equal to the lesser of (i) the trust income for the taxable year, as defined in section 643(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under that section, and (ii) the percentage, as stated in the governing instrument, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the taxable year decreased as elsewhere provided if the taxable year is a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interest terminates by death or otherwise, and increased as elsewhere provided if additional contributions are made in the taxable year.

If the governing instrument of the trust so provides and if the trust income for any taxable year exceeds the amount determined under (ii) above, the payment to beneficiaries also must include the excess income to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid to beneficiaries in prior years is less than the percentage of the aggregate net fair market value of the trust assets, which percentage is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, for these years. Payments to beneficiaries must be made annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. Any income of the trust in excess of these payments must be added to principal.

(c) Adjustment for Incorrect Valuation. – If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the net fair market value of the trust assets for any taxable year, the trustee must, within a reasonable period after the final determination of the correct value, pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation, or receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the unitrust amount properly payable and the unitrust amount actually paid.

(d) Computation of Unitrust Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the unitrust amount on a daily basis. If a trust provides for a valuation date other than the first day of the taxable year, and the valuation date does not occur in a taxable year of the trust because the taxable year is either a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interests terminate, the trust assets must be valued as of the last day of the short taxable year or the day on which the noncharitable interests terminate, as appropriate.

(e) Additional Contributions. – If the governing instrument does not prohibit additional contributions and additional contributions are made to the trust after the initial contribution in the trust, the unitrust amount for the taxable year in which the additional contributions are made must be a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the sum of (i) the net fair market value of trust assets, excluding the additional contributions and any income from or appreciation of these contributions and (ii) that proportion of the value of the additional contributions excluded under (i) which the number of days in the period beginning with the date of contribution and ending with the earlier of the last day of the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated bears to the number of days in the period beginning on the first day of the taxable year and ending with the earlier of the last day in the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated. If no valuation date occurs after the contributions are made, the assets so added are valued as of the time of contribution.

(f) Deferral of Unitrust Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the unitrust amount commences with the date of the settlor's death, but payment of the unitrust amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year of the trust in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any unitrust amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The unitrust amounts payable, determined under the method described in section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended before August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts shall be computed using an interest rate of six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(g) Unitrust Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the unitrust amount may be allocated to a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee must pay, in each taxable year of the trust, the unitrust amount to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in amounts and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the unitrust amount to any one member of the class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner that the trustee shall from time to time consider advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, the distribution must be for a period not exceeding 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire unitrust amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the unitrust amount.

(h) Reduction of Unitrust Amount if Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of a Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the unitrust amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay the total unitrust amount equal to a percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually, which shall not be less than five percent (5%). Upon expiration of the term of years or the death of a recipient, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay to the survivors for their lives a unitrust amount in each taxable year of the trust equal to at least five percent (5%) (the actual percentage being defined in the trust instrument) of the net fair market value of the remaining trust assets valued annually.

(i) Termination of Unitrust Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interests. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the unitrust amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee must pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary in each taxable year of the trust during the term of the noncharitable interest. The obligation of the trustee to pay the unitrust amount terminates with the payment preceding the termination of the noncharitable interest by death or otherwise. The five percent (5%) requirement provided in subsection (a) of this section shall be met until the termination of all payments of the unitrust amount.

(j) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust shall retain the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee must pay the unitrust amount to the settlor during the settlor's life and, upon the death of the settlor, shall pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary during the charitable beneficiary's life, provided the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and the noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if the settlor effectively exercised the testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiaries, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee shall continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust is effective.

"§ 36C-4B-7. Interpretation.

This Article shall be interpreted and construed to effectuate its general purpose to cause all charitable remainder annuity trusts and all charitable remainder unitrusts to be administered in accordance with section 2055 and section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under those sections.

"Article 5.

"Creditors' Claims; Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts.

"§ 36C-5-501. Rights of beneficiary's creditor or assignee.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the court may authorize a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment of present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary or other means. The court may limit the award to that relief as is appropriate under the circumstances.

(b) This section shall not apply and a trustee shall have no liability to any creditor of a beneficiary for any distributions made to or for the benefit of the beneficiary, to the extent that a beneficiary's interest:

(1) Is subject to a spendthrift provision;

(2) Is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2); or

(3) Is a protective trust interest as described in G.S. 36C-5-508.

"§ 36C-5-502. Spendthrift provision.

(a) A spendthrift provision is valid only if it restrains both voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary's interest.

(b) A term of a trust providing that the interest of a beneficiary is held subject to a "spendthrift trust", or words of similar import, is sufficient to restrain both voluntary and involuntary transfer of the beneficiary's interest.

(c) A beneficiary may not transfer an interest in a trust in violation of a valid spendthrift provision and, except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary may not reach the interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

"§ 36C-5-503. Exceptions to spendthrift provision.

(a) As used in this section, the term "child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(b) Even if a trust contains a spendthrift provision, or if the beneficiary's interest is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance may obtain from a court an order attaching present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary. The court may limit the award to relief that is appropriate under the circumstances.

"§ 36C-5-504. Discretionary trusts; effect of standard.

(a) In this section:

(1) "Child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(2) "Discretionary trust interest" means an interest in a trust that is subject to the trustee's discretion, whether or not the discretion is expressed in the form of a standard of distribution. A discretionary trust interest shall include an interest in any one or any combination of the following:

a. A trust in which the amount to be received by the beneficiary, including whether or not the beneficiary, or a class of beneficiaries, is to receive anything at all, is within the discretion of the trustee.

b. A trust in which the trustee has no duty to pay or distribute any particular amount to the beneficiary, but has only a duty to pay or distribute to the beneficiary, or apply on behalf of the beneficiary, those sums that the trustee, in the trustee's discretion, determines are appropriate for the support, education, or maintenance of the beneficiary.

(b) The beneficiary may not transfer a discretionary trust interest. Except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may not reach a discretionary trust interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a creditor of a beneficiary may not compel a distribution from a trust in which the beneficiary has a discretionary trust interest even if the trustee has abused the trustee's discretion.

(d) To the extent that a trustee has not complied with a standard of distribution or has abused a discretion:

(1) A distribution may be ordered by the court to satisfy a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance of the beneficiary's child; and

(2) The court shall direct the trustee to pay to the child an amount that is equitable under the circumstances but not more than the amount the trustee would have been required to distribute to or for the benefit of the beneficiary had the trustee complied with the standard or not abused the discretion.

(e) This section does not limit the right of a beneficiary to maintain a judicial proceeding against a trustee for an abuse of discretion or failure to comply with a standard for distribution.

(f) A creditor may not reach the interest of a beneficiary who is also a trustee or co-trustee, or otherwise compel a distribution, if the trustee's discretion to make distributions for the trustee's own benefit is limited by an ascertainable standard.

"§ 36C-5-505. Creditor's claim against settlor.

(a) Whether or not the terms of a trust contain a spendthrift provision or the interest in the trust is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, the following rules apply:

(1) During the lifetime of the settlor, the property of a revocable trust is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors.

(2) With respect to an irrevocable trust, a creditor or assignee of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that can be distributed to or for the settlor's benefit. If a trust has more than one settlor, the amount the creditor or assignee of a particular settlor may reach may not exceed the settlor's interest in the portion of the trust attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(3) After the death of a settlor, and subject to the settlor's right to direct the source from which liabilities will be paid, the property of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors, costs of administration of the settlor's estate, the expenses of the settlor's funeral and disposal of remains, and statutory allowances to a surviving spouse and children to the extent that the settlor's probate estate is inadequate to satisfy those claims, costs, expenses, and allowances, unless barred by G.S. 28A-19-3.

(b) The lapse, release, or waiver of a power of withdrawal shall not cause the holder to be treated as a settlor of the trust.

"§ 36C-5-506. Overdue distribution.

(a) In this section, "mandatory distribution" means a distribution of income or principal that the trustee is required to make to a beneficiary under the terms of the trust, including a distribution upon termination of the trust. The term excludes a distribution subject to the exercise of the trustee's discretion, regardless of whether the terms of the trust (i) include a support or other standard to guide the trustee in making distribution decisions; or (ii) provide that the trustee "may" or "shall" make discretionary distributions, including distributions under a support or other standard.

(b) Whether or not a trust contains a spendthrift provision, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may reach a mandatory distribution of income or principal, including a distribution upon termination of the trust, if the trustee has not made the distribution to the beneficiary within a reasonable time after the designated distribution date.

"§ 36C-5-507. Personal obligations of trustee.

Trust property is not subject to personal obligations of the trustee, even if the trustee becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"§ 36C-5-508. Protective trusts.

Except with respect to an interest retained by the settlor, a "protective trust interest" means an interest in a trust in which the terms of the trust provide that the interest terminates or becomes discretionary if:

(1) The beneficiary alienates or attempts to alienate that interest; or

(2) Any creditor attempts to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment, levy, or otherwise; or

(3) The beneficiary becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"Revocable Trusts.

"§ 36C-6-601. Capacity of settlor of revocable trust.

The capacity required to create, amend, revoke, or add property to a revocable trust, or to direct the actions of the trustee of a revocable trust, is the same as that required to make a will.

"§ 36C-6-602. Revocation or amendment of revocable trust.

(a) Unless the terms of a trust expressly provide that the trust is irrevocable, the settlor may revoke or amend the trust without regard to the actual capacity of the settlor. This subsection does not apply to a trust created under an instrument executed before the effective date of this Chapter.

(b) If a revocable trust is created or funded by more than one settlor:

(1) To the extent the trust consists of community property, the trust may be revoked by either spouse acting alone but may be amended only by joint action of both spouses; and

(2) To the extent the trust consists of property other than community property, each settlor may revoke or amend the trust with regard the portion of the trust property attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(c) The settlor may revoke or amend a revocable trust:

(1) By substantial compliance with a method provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by:

a. A later will or codicil that expressly refers to the trust or specifically devises property that would otherwise have passed according to the terms of the trust; or

b. By oral statement to the trustee if the trust was created orally; or

c. Any other written method delivered to the trustee manifesting clear and convincing evidence of the settlor's intent.

(d) Upon revocation of a revocable trust, the trustee shall deliver the trust property as the settlor directs.

(e) A settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the terms of the trust or the power of attorney provided the exercise of the power of revocation or amendment does not alter the designation of beneficiaries to receive property on the settlor's death under the settlor's existing estate plan.

(f) A general guardian or a guardian of the estate of the settlor or, if no general guardian or guardian of the estate has been appointed, a guardian of the person of the settlor may exercise a settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property only with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship.

(g) A trustee who does not know that a trust has been revoked or amended is not liable to the settlor or settlor's successors in interest for distributions made and other actions taken on the assumption that the trust had not been amended or revoked.

"§ 36C-6-603. Settlor's powers; powers of withdrawal.

(a) While a trust is revocable, rights of the beneficiaries are subject to the control of, and the duties of the trustee are owed exclusively to, the settlor.

(b) If a revocable trust has more than one settlor, the duties of the trustee are owed to all of the settlors.

"§ 36C-6-604. Limitation on action contesting validity of revocable trust; distribution of trust property.

(a) A person may commence a judicial proceeding to contest the validity of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death within the earlier of:

(1) Three years after the settlor's death; or

(2) 120 days after the trustee sent the person a copy of the trust instrument and a notice informing the person of the trust's existence, of the trustee's name and address, and of the time allowed for commencing a proceeding.

(b) Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death, the trustee may proceed to distribute the trust property in accordance with the terms of the trust. The trustee is not subject to liability for doing so unless:

(1) The trustee knows of a pending judicial proceeding contesting the validity of the trust; or

(2) A potential contestant has notified the trustee of a possible judicial proceeding to contest the trust, and a judicial proceeding is commenced within 60 days after the contestant sent the notification.

(c) A beneficiary of a trust that is determined to have been invalid is liable to return any distribution received.

"Article 7.

"Office of Trustee.

"§ 36 C-7-701. Accepting or declining trusteeship.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section, a person designated as trustee accepts the trusteeship:

(1) By substantially complying with a method of acceptance provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by accepting delivery of the trust property, exercising powers or performing duties as trustee, or otherwise indicating acceptance of the trusteeship.

(b) A person designated as trustee who has not yet accepted the trusteeship may reject the trusteeship. A designated trustee who does not accept the trusteeship within a reasonable time, not to exceed 120 days, after receiving written notice of the trusteeship is considered to have rejected the trusteeship.

(c) A person designated as trustee, without accepting the trusteeship, may:

(1) Act to preserve the trust property if, within a reasonable time after acting, the person sends a rejection of the trusteeship to the settlor or, if the settlor is dead or lacks capacity, to a qualified beneficiary; and

(2) Inspect or investigate trust property to determine potential liability under environmental or other law or for any other purpose.

"§ 36C-7-702. Trustee's bond.

(a) A trustee shall provide bond to secure the performance of the trustee's duties if:

(1) The trust instrument was executed before January 1, 2006, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise;

(2) The trust instrument was executed on or after January 1, 2006, but only if the terms of the trust instrument require the trustee to provide bond;

(3) A beneficiary requests the trustee to provide bond, and the court finds the request to be reasonable; or

(4) The court finds that it is necessary for the trustee to provide bond in order to protect the interests of beneficiaries who are not able to protect themselves and whose interests otherwise are not adequately represented.

However, in no event shall bond be required of a trustee if the governing instrument directs otherwise.

(b) If bond is required, it shall be in a sum of double the value of the personal property to come into the trustee's hands if bond is executed by a personal surety, and in an amount not less than one and one-fourth times the value of all personal property of the trust estate if the bond is secured by a suretyship bond executed by a corporate surety company authorized by the Commissioner of Insurance to do business in this State, provided that the court, when the value of the personal property exceeds one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), may accept bond in an amount equal to the value of the personal property plus ten percent (10%) of that value, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the trustee's duties and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive property that may come into the trustee's hands. All bonds executed under this Article shall be filed with the clerk of superior court.

(c) On petition of the trustee or a qualified beneficiary, the court may excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of the bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties.

(d) As provided in G.S. 53-159 and G.S. 53-366(a)(10), banks and trust companies licensed to do trust business in this State need not give bond, even if required by the terms of the trust.

"§ 36C-7-703. Co-trustees.

(a) Co-trustees who are unable to reach a unanimous decision may act by majority decision if more than two are serving. Unanimity is required when only two co-trustees are serving.

(b) If a vacancy occurs in a co-trusteeship, the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust and exercise all trustee powers, except those powers that the remaining trustees are prohibited from exercising under the trust instrument or by law.

(c) A co-trustee must participate in the performance of a trustee's function unless the cotrustee is unavailable to perform the function because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, or the co-trustee has properly delegated the performance of the function to another trustee.

(d) If a co-trustee is unavailable to perform duties because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, and prompt action is necessary to achieve the purposes of the trust or to avoid injury to the trust property, the remaining co-trustee or a majority of the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust.

(e) A trustee may delegate to a co-trustee with the consent of the co-trustee the performance of any function other than those the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly. The following functions are not considered to be those that the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly:

(1) Establish and maintain bank accounts for the trust and issue checks for the trust.

(2) Maintain inventories, accountings, and income and expense records of the trust.

(3) Enter any safety deposit box rented by the trust.

(4) Employ persons as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, including agents, attorneys, accountants, brokers, appraisers, and custodians.

(5) List trust property for taxes and prepare and file tax returns for the trust.

(6) Collect and give receipts for claims and debts of the trust.

(7) Pay debts, claims, costs of administration, and taxes of the trust.

(8) Compromise, adjust, or otherwise settle any claim by or against the trust and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust.

(9) Have custody of the trust property.

The list of functions contained in this subsection is not intended to be exclusive of others that may be delegated to a co-trustee in accordance with this subsection.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (g) of this section, a trustee who does not join in an action of another trustee is not liable for the action.

(g) Each trustee shall exercise reasonable care to:

(1) Avoid enabling a co-trustee to commit a serious breach of trust; and

(2) Compel a co-trustee to redress a serious breach of trust.

(h) Notwithstanding subsection (f) or (g) of this section, a trustee who has not joined in an action approved by a majority of the other trustees is not liable for the action. Notwithstanding subsection (f) or (g) of this section, a dissenting trustee who joins in an action at the direction of the majority of the trustees but who notified in writing any co-trustee of the dissent at or before the time of the action is not liable for the action, unless that trustee had knowledge that the action taken involved intentional misconduct or was taken with an intention to directly or indirectly provide an improper personal benefit to one or more trustees approving the action.

(i) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, if two or more trustees own shares of corporate stock or other securities, their acts with respect to voting shall have the following effect:

(1) If only one votes, in person or by proxy, the act binds all;

(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act binds all; and

(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

"§ 36C-7-704. Vacancy in trusteeship; appointment of successor.

(a) A vacancy in a trusteeship occurs if:

(1) A person designated as trustee rejects the trusteeship;

(2) A person designated as trustee cannot be identified or does not exist;

(3) A trustee resigns;

(4) A trustee is disqualified or removed;

(5) A trustee dies; or

(6) A general guardian, guardian of the estate, or guardian of the person is appointed for an individual serving as trustee.

(b) If one or more co-trustees remain in office, a vacancy in a trusteeship need not be filled. A vacancy in a trusteeship must be filled if the trust has no remaining trustee.

(c) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a noncharitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:

(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed under the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;

(2) By a person appointed by unanimous agreement of the qualified beneficiaries; or

(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(d) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a charitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:

(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed under the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;

(2) By a person selected by majority agreement of the charitable organizations expressly designated to receive distributions under the terms of the trust; or

(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(e) Whether or not a vacancy in a trusteeship exists or is required to be filled, the court may appoint an additional trustee or special fiduciary whenever the court considers the appointment necessary for the administration of the trust.

(f) A successor trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and is subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee, unless a contrary intent appears from the governing instrument or unless the order appointing the successor trustee provides otherwise.

"§ 36C-7-705. Resignation of trustee.

(a) A trustee may resign:

(1) Upon at least 30 days' notice in writing to the qualified beneficiaries, the settlor, if living, and all co-trustees; or

(2) With the approval of the court.

(b) In approving a resignation, the court may issue orders and impose conditions reasonably necessary for the protection of the trust property.

(c) Any liability of a resigning trustee or of any sureties on the trustee's bond for acts or omissions of the trustee is not discharged or affected by the trustee's resignation.

"§ 36C-7-706. Removal of trustee.

(a) For the reasons set forth in subsection (b) of this section, the ~~settlor~~settler of an irrevocable trust, a co-trustee of an irrevocable trust, or a beneficiary of an irrevocable trust may request the court to remove a trustee, or a trustee may be removed by the court on its own initiative.

(b) The court may remove a trustee if:

(1) The trustee has committed a serious breach of trust;

(2) Lack of cooperation among co-trustees substantially impairs the administration of the trust;

(3) Because of unfitness, unwillingness, or persistent failure of the trustee to administer the trust effectively, the court determines that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of the beneficiaries; or

(4) There has been a substantial change of circumstances, the court finds that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of all of the beneficiaries and is consistent with a material purpose of the trust, and a suitable co-trustee or successor trustee is available.

(c) Pending a final decision on a request to remove a trustee, or in lieu of or in addition to removing a trustee, the court may order appropriate relief under G.S. 36C-10-1001(b) as may be necessary to protect the trust property or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-7-707. Delivery of property by former trustee.

(a) Unless a co-trustee remains in office or the court otherwise orders, and until the trust property is delivered to a successor trustee or other person entitled to it, a trustee who has resigned or been removed has the duties of a trustee and the powers necessary to protect the trust property.

(b) A trustee who has resigned or been removed shall proceed expeditiously to deliver the trust property within the trustee's possession to the co-trustee, successor trustee, or other person entitled to it. A former trustee shall execute those documents transferring title to trust property as may be appropriate to facilitate administration of the trust, and in the event that the former trustee fails to do so, the clerk of superior court may order the former trustee to execute those documents, or the clerk of superior court may transfer title.

"§ 36C-7-708. Compensation of trustee.

(a) If the terms of a trust do not specify the trustee's compensation, a trustee is entitled to compensation determined in accordance with Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes.

(b) If the terms of a trust specify the trustee's compensation, the trustee is entitled to be compensated as specified.

"§ 36C-7-709. Reimbursement of expenses.

A trustee is entitled to be reimbursed out of the trust property for expenses properly incurred in the administration of the trust as provided in G.S. 32-58.

"Article 8.

"Duties and Powers of Trustee.

"§ 36C-8-801. Duty to administer trust.

Upon acceptance of a trusteeship, a trustee shall administer the trust in good faith, in accordance with its terms and purposes and the interests of the beneficiaries, and in accordance with this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-802. Duty of loyalty.

(a) A trustee shall administer the trust solely in the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to the rights of persons dealing with or assisting the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-10-1012, a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property entered into by the trustee for the trustee's own personal account, or that is otherwise affected by a conflict between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, is voidable by a beneficiary affected by the transaction, without regard to whether the transaction is fair to the beneficiary, unless:

(1) The terms of the trust authorized the transaction;

(2) The court approved the transaction;

(3) The beneficiary did not commence a judicial proceeding within the time allowed by G.S. 36C-10-1005;

(4) The beneficiary consented to the trustee's conduct, ratified the transaction, or released the trustee in compliance with G.S. 36C-10-1009; or

(5) The transaction involves a contract entered into, or claim acquired by, the trustee before the person became or contemplated becoming trustee.

(c) In determining whether a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property is affected by a conflict of interest between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, the transaction is rebuttably presumed to be affected by a conflict of interest if the trustee enters into the transaction with:

(1) The trustee's spouse or a parent of the trustee's spouse;

(2) The trustee's descendants, siblings, ancestors, or their spouses;

(3) An agent, attorney, employee, officer, director, member, manager, or partner of the trustee, or an entity that controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the trustee; or

(4) Any other person or entity in which the trustee, or a person that owns a significant interest in the trust, has an interest or relationship that might affect the trustee's best judgment;

(d) A transaction between a trustee and a beneficiary that does not concern trust property, but that occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee retains significant influence over the beneficiary, and from which the trustee obtains an advantage, is voidable by the beneficiary unless the trustee establishes that the transaction was fair to the beneficiary.

(e) A transaction not concerning trust property in which the trustee engages in the trustee's individual capacity involves a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the transaction concerns an opportunity properly belonging to the trust.

(f) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of this section:

(1) An investment by a trustee in securities of an investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle in which the trustee has an investment, or to which the trustee, or its affiliate, provides services is not presumed to be affected by a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the investment otherwise complies with the prudent investor rule of Article 9 of this Chapter. The investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle may compensate the trustee for providing those services out of fees charged to the trust if the trustee at least annually notifies the persons entitled under G.S. 36C-8-813 to receive a copy of the trustee's annual report of the rate and method by which the compensation was determined; and

(2) Payment made by a trustee to an attorney, broker, accountant, or agent for services performed on behalf of the trust in the ordinary course of business is not considered to be affected by a conflict between the trustee's personal and fiduciary interests if the payment is consistent with payments generally made in the community for the same or similar services.

(g) In voting shares of stock or in exercising powers of control over similar interests in other forms of enterprise, the trustee shall act in the best interests of the beneficiaries. If the trust is the sole owner of a corporation or other form of enterprise, the trustee shall elect to appoint directors or other managers who will manage the corporation or enterprise in the best interests of the beneficiaries.

(h) This section does not preclude the following transactions, if fair to the beneficiaries:

(1) An agreement between a trustee and a beneficiary relating to the appointment or compensation of the trustee;

(2) Payment of reasonable compensation to the trustee;

(3) A transaction between a trust and another trust, decedent's estate, or guardianship, or similar relationship of which the trustee is a fiduciary or in which a beneficiary has an interest;

(4) A deposit of trust money in a regulated financial-service institution operated by the trustee or an affiliate of the trustee; or

(5) An advance by the trustee of money for the protection of the trust.

(i) The court may appoint a special fiduciary to make a decision with respect to any proposed transaction that might violate this section if entered into by the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-803. Impartiality.

If a trust has two or more beneficiaries, the trustee shall act impartially in investing, managing, and distributing the trust property, giving due regard to the beneficiaries' respective interests.

"§ 36C-8-804. Prudent administration.

A trustee shall administer the trust as a prudent person would, by considering the purposes, terms, distributional requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

"§ 36C-8-805. Cost of administration.

In administering a trust, the trustee may incur only costs that are reasonable in relation to the trust property, the purposes of the trust, and the skills of the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-806. Trustee's skills.

A trustee who has special skills or expertise, or is named trustee in reliance upon the trustee's representation that the trustee has special skills or expertise, shall use those special skills or expertise.

"§ 36C-8-807. Delegation by trustee.

(a) A trustee may delegate duties and powers that a prudent trustee of comparable skills could properly delegate under the circumstances. The trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution in:

(1) Selecting an agent;

(2) Establishing the scope and terms of the delegation, consistent with the purposes and terms of the trust; and

(3) Periodically reviewing the agent's actions in order to monitor the agent's performance and compliance with the terms of the delegation.

(b) In performing a delegated function, an agent owes a duty to the trust to exercise reasonable care to comply with the terms of the delegation.

(c) A trustee who complies with subsection (a) of this section is not liable to the beneficiaries or to the trust for an action of the agent to whom the function was delegated.

(d) By accepting a delegation of powers or duties from the trustee of a trust that is subject to the law of this State, an agent submits to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

"§ 36C-8-808. Powers to direct.

(a) While a trust is revocable, the trustee may follow a direction of the settlor that is contrary to the terms of the trust.

(b) If the terms of a trust confer upon a person other than the settlor of a revocable trust power to direct certain actions of the trustee, the trustee must act in accordance with an exercise of the power unless the attempted exercise is manifestly contrary to the terms of the trust, or the trustee knows the attempted exercise would constitute a serious breach of a fiduciary duty that the person holding the power owes to the beneficiaries of the trust.

(c) The terms of a trust may confer upon a trustee or other person a power to direct the modification or termination of the trust.

(d) A person, other than a beneficiary, who holds a power to direct is presumptively a fiduciary who, as such, is required to act in good faith with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. The holder of a power to direct is liable for any loss that results from breach of a fiduciary duty.

"§ 36C-8-809. Control and protection of trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to take control of and protect the trust property.

"§ 36C-8-810. Record keeping and identification of trust property.

(a) A trustee shall keep adequate records of the administration of the trust.

(b) A trustee shall keep trust property separate from the trustee's own property.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, a trustee shall cause the trust property to be designated so that the interest of the trust, to the extent feasible, appears in records maintained by a party other than a trustee or beneficiary.

(d) If the trustee maintains records clearly indicating the respective interests, a trustee may invest as a whole the property of two or more separate trusts.

"§ 36C-8-811. Enforcement and defense of claims.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to enforce claims of the trust and to defend claims against the trust.

"§ 36C-8-812. Collecting trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to compel a former trustee or other person to deliver trust property to the trustee, and to redress a breach of trust known to the trustee to have been committed by a former trustee.

"§ 36C-8-813. Duty to inform and report.

(a) The trustee is under a duty to a qualified beneficiary to give that beneficiary upon request and at reasonable times complete and accurate information as to the nature and amount of the trust property and to permit the beneficiary, or the beneficiary's representative, to inspect the subject matter of the trust and the accounts and other documents relating to the trust.

(b) Notwithstanding subsection (a) of this section:

(1) The duty of the trustee under subsection (a) of this section shall not include informing any beneficiary in advance of transactions relating to the trust property.

(2) A trustee is considered to have discharged the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section as to a qualified beneficiary for matters disclosed by a report sent at least annually and at termination of the trust to the beneficiary that describes the trust property, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements, including the source and amount of the trustee's compensation, and lists the trust assets and their respective market values, including estimated values of assets with uncertain values. No presumption shall arise that a trustee who does not comply with this subdivision failed to discharge the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section.

(c) A beneficiary may waive the right to a trustee's report or other information otherwise required to be furnished under this section. With respect to future reports and other information, a beneficiary may withdraw a waiver previously given.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section applies only to a trust created under a trust instrument executed on or after the effective date of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-814. Discretionary powers; tax savings.

(a) Notwithstanding the breadth of discretion granted to a trustee in the terms of the trust, including the use of terms such as "absolute", "sole", or "uncontrolled", a trustee abuses the trustee's discretion in exercising or failing to exercise a discretionary power if the trustee acts with bad faith, acts dishonestly, acts with an improper motive, even though not a dishonest motive, or if the trustee fails to use the trustee's judgment in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to subsection (d) of this section, and unless the terms of the trust expressly indicate that a rule in this subsection does not apply:

(1) A person other than a settlor who is a beneficiary and trustee of a trust that confers on the trustee a power that would, except for this subsection, constitute in whole or in part a general power of appointment may not exercise that power in favor of the trustee/beneficiary, the trustee/beneficiary's estate, the trustee/beneficiary's creditors, or the creditors of the trustee/beneficiary's estate.

(2) Notwithstanding subdivision (1) of this subsection, if the trust confers on the trustee the power to make discretionary distributions to or for the trustee's personal benefit, the trustee may exercise the power in accordance with an ascertainable standard.

(3) The trustee may not exercise a power to make discretionary distributions to satisfy a legal obligation of support that the trustee personally owes another person.

For purposes of this subsection, a "general power of appointment" means any power that would cause the income to be taxed to the trustee in his individual capacity under section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code and any power that would be a general power of appointment, in whole or in part, under section 2041(b)(1) or section 2514(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) A power whose exercise is limited or prohibited by subsection (b) of this section may be exercised by a majority of the remaining trustees whose exercise of the power is not so limited or prohibited. If the power of all trustees is so limited or prohibited, the court may appoint a special fiduciary with authority to exercise the power.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section does not apply to:

(1) A power held by the settlor's spouse who is the trustee of a trust for which a marital deduction, as defined in section 2056(b)(5) or section 2523(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, was previously allowed;

(2) Any trust during any period that the trust may be revoked or amended by its settlor; or

(3) A trust, if contributions to the trust qualify for the annual exclusion under section 2503(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(e) If a trust created under a will or trust instrument for the benefit of the spouse of the settlor of the trust, other than a trust that provides that upon the termination of the income interest that the entire remaining trust estate be paid to the estate of the spouse, requires that all the income of the trust be paid not less frequently than annually to the spouse and a federal estate or gift tax marital deduction is claimed with respect to the trust, then, unless the trust instrument specifically provides otherwise by reference to this section, any investment in or retention of unproductive property as an asset of the trust is subject to the power of the spouse to require either that the asset be made productive of income, or that it be converted to assets productive of income, within a reasonable period of time.

"§ 36C-8-815. General powers of trustee.

(a) A trustee, without authorization by the court, may exercise:

(1) Powers conferred by the terms of the trust; or

(2) Except as limited by the terms of the trust:

a. All powers over the trust property that an unmarried competent owner has over individually owned property;

b. Any other powers appropriate to achieve the proper investment, management, administration or distribution of the trust property; and

c. Any other powers conferred by this Chapter.

(b) The exercise of a power is subject to the fiduciary duties prescribed by this Article.

"§ 36C-8-816. Specific powers of trustee.

Without limiting the authority conferred by G.S. 36C-8-815, a trustee may:

(1) Collect and control trust property and accept or reject additions to the trust property from a settlor or any other person;

(2) Invest and reinvest trust property as the trustee considers advisable in accordance with the trust, and to acquire or sell property, for cash or on credit, at public or private sale;

(3) Exchange, partition, or otherwise change the character of trust property;

(4) Deposit trust money in an account in a regulated financial services institution, including an institution operated by the trustee or an affiliate of the trustee upon compliance with any applicable requirements for the deposit;

(5) Borrow money, with or without security, including from a corporate trustee's lending department, renew or modify loans, and mortgage or pledge trust property for a period within or extending beyond the duration of the trust;

(6) With respect to an interest in a proprietorship, partnership, limited liability company, business trust, corporation, venture, agricultural operation, or other form of business or enterprise, form and transfer, assign, and convey to that form of business or enterprise all or any part of the trust property in exchange for the stock, securities, or obligations of that form of business or enterprise, continue any business or other enterprise and take any action that may be taken by shareholders, members, or property owners, including merging, dissolving, or otherwise changing the form of business organization, or contributing additional capital;

(7) With respect to stocks or other securities, exercise the rights of an absolute owner, including the right to:

a. Vote, or give general or limited proxies to vote, with or without power of substitution, or enter into or continue a voting trust agreement, or execute waivers, consents, or objections with respect to those securities;

b. Hold a security in the name of a nominee or in other form without disclosure of the trust so that title may pass by delivery;

c. Pay calls, assessments, and other sums chargeable or accruing against the securities, and sell or exercise stock subscription or conversion rights;

d. Deposit the securities with a depositary or other regulated financial service institution; and

e. Consent, directly or through a committee or other agent, to the merger, consolidation, reorganization, readjustment of capital or financial structure, lease, sale, dissolution, or liquidation of a business enterprise, and elect whether to participate as a member of a class in any litigation involving the securities;

(8) With respect to an interest in real property, construct, or make ordinary or extraordinary repairs to, alterations to, or improvements in, buildings or other structures, demolish improvements, raze existing party walls or buildings or erect new party walls or buildings, subdivide or develop land, dedicate land to public use or grant public or private easements, and make or vacate plats and adjust boundaries, make contracts, licenses, leases, conveyances, or grants of every nature and kind with respect to crops, gravel, sand, oil, gas, timber and forest products, other usufructs or natural resources, and other benefits or incidents of the real property;

(9) Enter into a lease for any purpose as lessor or lessee, including a lease or other arrangement for exploration and removal of natural resources, with or without the option to purchase or renew, for a period within or extending beyond the duration of the trust;

(10) Grant an option involving a sale, lease, or other disposition of trust property or acquire an option for the acquisition of property, including an option exercisable beyond the duration of the trust, and exercise an option so acquired;

(11) Insure the property of the trust against damage or loss and insure the trustee, the trustee's agents, and beneficiaries against liability arising from the administration of the trust at the expense of the trust;

(12) Abandon, relinquish any or all rights to, or decline to administer property of no value or of insufficient benefit or value to the trust to justify its collection or continued administration;

(13) With respect to possible liability for violation of environmental law:

a. Inspect or investigate property the trustee holds or has been asked to hold, or property owned or operated by an organization in which the trustee holds or has been asked to hold an interest, for the purpose of determining the application of environmental law with respect to the property;

b. Take action to prevent, abate, or otherwise remedy any actual or potential violation of any environmental law affecting property held directly or indirectly by the trustee, whether taken before or after the assertion of a claim or the initiation of governmental enforcement;

c. Decline to accept property into trust or disclaim any power with respect to property that is or may be burdened with liability for violation of environmental law;

d. Compromise claims against the trust that may be asserted for an alleged violation of environmental law; and

e. Pay the expense of any inspection, review, abatement, or remedial action to comply with environmental law; under the circumstances, and acquire a lien on future distributions for repayment of those loans;

(19) Pledge trust property to guarantee loans made by others to a beneficiary;

(20) Appoint a trustee to act in another jurisdiction with respect to trust property located in the other jurisdiction, confer upon the appointed trustee all of the powers and duties of the appointing trustee, limit those powers the appointed trustee may exercise and the duties for which the appointed trustee is responsible, require that the appointed trustee furnish security, and remove any trustee so appointed;

(21) Pay an amount distributable to a beneficiary who is under a legal disability or who the trustee reasonably believes is incapacitated, by paying it directly to the beneficiary or applying it for the beneficiary's benefit, or by:

a. Paying it to the beneficiary's general guardian or the guardian of the beneficiary's estate or, if the beneficiary does not have a general guardian or guardian of the beneficiary's estate, the guardian of the beneficiary's person;

b. Paying it to a custodian under a uniform transfer to minors act or custodial trustee under a uniform custodial trust act and, for that purpose, creating a custodianship or custodial trust for the benefit of the beneficiary;

c. Paying it to an adult relative or other person having legal or physical care or custody of the beneficiary, to be expended on the beneficiary's behalf; or

d. Managing it as a separate fund on the beneficiary's behalf.

A trustee making payments under this subdivision does not have any duty to see to the application of the payments so made, if the trustee exercised due care in the selection of the person, including the minor or incompetent, to whom the payments were made, and the receipt of that person shall be full acquittance to the trustee;

(22) On distribution of trust property or the division or termination of a trust, make distributions in divided or undivided interests, allocate particular assets in proportionate or disproportionate shares without regard to the income tax basis or other special tax attributes of the assets, as the trustee finds to be most practicable and for the best interests of the distributees, value the trust property for those purposes, and adjust for resulting differences in valuation; and to distribute trust property in kind or in cash, or partially in kind and partially in cash, in divided or undivided interests;

(23) Resolve a dispute concerning the interpretation of the trust or its administration by mediation, arbitration, or other procedure for alternative dispute resolution;

(24) Prosecute or defend an action, claim, or judicial proceeding in any jurisdiction to protect trust property and the trustee in the performance of the trustee's duties;

(25) Make, execute, and deliver contracts and other instruments, including instruments under seal, that are useful to achieve or facilitate the exercise of the trustee's powers;

(26) On termination of the trust, exercise the powers appropriate to wind up the administration of the trust and distribute the trust property to the persons entitled to it;

(27) Employ as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, or delegate administrative duties in the manner provided in G.S. 36C-8-807, to persons, firms, and corporations, including agents, auditors, accountants, brokers, attorneys-at-law, attorneys-in-fact, investment advisors, appraisers, custodians, rental agents, realtors, and tax specialists;

"Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

"§ 36C-9-901. Prudent investor rule; applicability.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) of this section, a trustee who invests and manages trust assets owes a duty to the beneficiaries of the trust to comply with the prudent investor rule set forth in this Article.

(b) The prudent investor rule is a default rule and may be expanded, restricted, eliminated, or otherwise altered by the provisions of a trust that govern or direct investments in a manner inconsistent with this Article. A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary to the extent that the trustee acted in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust.

(c) The following terms or comparable language in a trust, unless otherwise limited or modified, authorize any investment or strategy permitted under this Article: "Chapter 36A", "investments in accordance with Article 15 of Chapter 36A", "investments in accordance with Article 9 of Chapter 36C", "investments permissible by law for investment of trust funds", "legal investments", "authorized investments", "using the judgment and care under the circumstances then prevailing that persons of prudence, discretion, and intelligence exercise in the management of their own affairs, not in regard to speculation but in regard to the permanent disposition of their funds, considering the probable income as well as the probable safety of their capital", "prudent man rule", "prudent trustee rule", "prudent person rule", and "prudent investor rule". This Article also applies where a trust contains no investment standard.

(d) This Article does not apply to:

(1) Unless the trust provides otherwise by specific reference to this Article:

a. Trusts under any federal employee retirement income security statute or other retirement or pension trusts;

b. Trusts that are created by legislative act;

c. Trusts that are created by or under premarital or postmarital agreements, divorce settlements, settlements of other proceedings or disputes;

d. Transfers under the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act;

e. Transfers under the Uniform Custodial Trust Act; or

f. Honorary trusts, trusts for pets, and trusts for cemetery lots.

(2) Trusts imposed or required under another chapter of the General Statutes or by rule in which the investment of the trust funds is regulated by the other chapter or by rule, unless a provision of the other chapter or the rule provides otherwise by a specific reference to this Article.

"§ 36C-9-902. Standard of care; portfolio strategy; risk and return objectives.

(a) A trustee shall invest and manage trust assets as a prudent investor would, by considering the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

(b) A trustee's investment and management decisions respecting individual assets must be evaluated not in isolation but in the context of the trust portfolio as a whole and as a part of an overall investment strategy having risk and return objectives reasonably suited to the trust.

(c) Among circumstances that a trustee shall consider in investing and managing trust assets are any of the following that are relevant to the trust or its beneficiaries:

(1) General economic conditions;

(2) The possible effect of inflation or deflation;

(3) The expected tax consequences of investment decisions or strategies;

(4) The role that each investment or course of action plays within the overall trust portfolio, which may include financial assets, interests in closely held enterprises, tangible and intangible personal property, and real property;

(5) The expected total return from income and the appreciation of capital;

(6) Other resources of the beneficiaries known to the trustee;

(7) Needs for liquidity, regularity of income, and preservation or appreciation of capital; and

(8) An asset's special relationship or special value, if any, to the purposes of the trust or to one or more of the beneficiaries.

(d) A trustee shall make a reasonable effort to verify facts relevant to the investment and management of trust assets.

(e) A trustee may invest in any kind of property or type of investment consistent with the standards of this Article.

"§ 36C-9-903. Diversification.

A trustee shall diversify the investments of the trust unless the trustee reasonably determines that, because of special circumstances, the purposes of the trust are better served without diversifying.

"§ 36C-9-904. Duties at inception of trusteeship.

Within a reasonable time after accepting a trusteeship or receiving trust assets, a trustee shall review the trust assets and make and implement decisions concerning the retention and disposition of assets in order to bring the trust portfolio into compliance with the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust, and with the requirements of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-9-905. Reviewing compliance.

Compliance with the prudent investor rule is determined in light of the facts and circumstances existing at the time of a trustee's decision or action and not by hindsight.

"§ 36C-9-906. Effect on charitable remainder trusts.

Nothing in this Article shall prevent the application of Article 4B of this Chapter to a "charitable remainder trust" as defined in G.S.36C-4B-3(1).

This Article may be cited as the "North Carolina Uniform Prudent Investor Act."

"Article 10.

"Liability of Trustees and Rights of Persons Dealing with Trustees.

"§ 36C-10-1001. Remedies for breach of trust.

(a) A violation by a trustee of a duty the trustee owes under a trust is a breach of trust.

(b) To remedy a breach of trust that has occurred or may occur, the court may:

(1) Compel the trustee to perform the trustee's duties;

(2) Enjoin the trustee from committing a breach of trust;

(3) Compel the trustee to redress a breach of trust by paying money, restoring property, or other means;

(4) Order a trustee to account;

(5) Appoint a special fiduciary to take possession of the trust property and administer the trust;

(6) Suspend the trustee;

(7) Remove the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-7-706;
(8) Reduce or deny compensation to the trustee;
(9) Subject to G.S. 36C-10-1012, void an act of the trustee, impose a lien or a constructive trust on trust property, or trace trust property wrongfully disposed of and recover the property or its proceeds; or
(10) Order any other appropriate relief.

(c) The court may, for cause shown, relieve a trustee from liability for any breach of trust, or wholly or partly excuse a trustee who has acted honestly and reasonably from liability for a breach of trust.

"§ 36C-10-1002. Damages for breach of trust.

(a) A trustee who commits a breach of trust is liable for the greater of:
(1) The amount required to restore the value of the trust property and trust distributions to what they would have been had the breach not occurred; or
(2) The profit the trustee made by reason of the breach.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if more than one trustee is liable to the beneficiaries for a breach of trust, a trustee is entitled to contribution from the other trustee or trustees. A trustee is not entitled to contribution if the trustee was substantially more at fault than another trustee or if the trustee committed the breach of trust in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries. A trustee who received a benefit from the breach of trust is not entitled to contribution from another trustee to the extent of the benefit received.

"§ 36C-10-1003. Liability in absence of breach.

(a) A trustee is accountable for any profit made by the trustee arising from the administration of the trust, even absent a breach of trust. Nothing in this section limits a trustee's right to compensation under G.S. 36C-7-708 or payments allowed under G.S. 36-8-802(f).

(b) Absent a breach of trust, a trustee is not liable for a loss or depreciation in the value of trust property or for not having made a profit.

"§ 36C-10-1004. Attorney's fees and costs.

In a judicial proceeding involving the administration of a trust, the court may award costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney fees, as provided in the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-10-1005. Limitation of action against trustee.

Applicable provisions of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes govern the limitation of actions on judicial proceedings involving trusts, except that no proceeding against a trustee for breach of trust may be commenced more than five years after the first to occur of: (i) the removal, resignation, or death of the trustee; (ii) the termination of the beneficiary's interest in the trust; or (iii) the termination of the trust.

"§ 36C-10-1006. Reliance on trust instrument.

A trustee who acts in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust as expressed in a trust instrument is not liable for a breach of trust to the extent that the breach resulted from the reliance.

"§ 36C-10-1007. Event affecting administration or distribution.

If the happening of an event, including marriage, divorce, performance of educational requirements, or death, affects the administration or distribution of a trust, a trustee who has exercised reasonable care to ascertain the happening of the event is not liable for a loss resulting from the trustee's lack of knowledge.

"§ 36C-10-1008. Exculpation of trustee.

A term of a trust relieving a trustee of liability for breach of trust is unenforceable to the extent that it relieves the trustee of liability for breach of trust committed in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-10-1009. Beneficiary's consent, release, or ratification.

(a) A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary for breach of trust if the beneficiary consented to the conduct constituting the breach, released the trustee from liability for the breach, or ratified the transaction constituting the breach, unless:

(1) The consent, release, or ratification of the beneficiary was induced by improper conduct of the trustee; or

(2) At the time of the consent, release, or ratification, the beneficiary did not have knowledge of the beneficiary's rights or of the material facts relating to the breach.

(b) No consideration is required for the consent, release, or ratification to be valid.

"§ 36C-10-1010. Limitation on personal liability of trustee.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the contract, a trustee is not personally liable on a contract properly entered into in the trustee's fiduciary capacity in the course of administering the trust if the trustee in making the contract disclosed the fiduciary capacity. The addition of the phrase "trustee," or "as trustee," or a similar designation to the signature of a trustee on a written contract is considered prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee is personally liable for torts committed in the course of administering a trust, or for obligations arising from ownership or control of trust property, including liability for violation of environmental law, only if the trustee is personally at fault.

(c) A claim based on a contract entered into by a trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, on an obligation arising from ownership or control of trust property, or on a tort committed in the course of administering a trust, may be asserted in a judicial proceeding against the trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, whether or not the trustee is personally liable for the claim. Any judgment rendered in favor of a claimant in such a judicial proceeding against a trust may be recovered from the trust property, without proof that the trustee could have obtained reimbursement from the trust if the trustee had paid the claim.

(d) A trustee is entitled to indemnity from the trust for any claim, other than a breach of trust, for which the trustee is liable:

(1) If the claim arose from a common incident of activity in which the trustee was properly engaged for the trust;

(2) If the trustee was not personally at fault; or

(3) To the extent that the trustee's actions increased the value of trust property.

(e) A decision by a trustee not to inspect property, or to decline to accept property, shall not create any inference as to liability, under any environmental law, with respect to that property. A trustee shall have no liability for a decrease in value of property in a trust by reason of the trustee's compliance with any environmental law, including reporting requirements.

"§ 36C-10-1011. Interest as general partner.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section or unless personal liability is imposed in the contract, a trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner in a general or limited partnership is not personally liable on a contract entered into by the partnership if the fiduciary capacity was disclosed. The addition of the phrase "trustee" or "as trustee" or a similar designation to the signature of a trustee on a written partnership document is considered prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner is not personally liable for torts committed by the partnership or for obligations arising from ownership or control of the interest unless the trustee is personally at fault. This subsection does not apply to additional ownership interests of the trustee held in a nonfiduciary capacity.

(c) If the settlor transfers an existing general partnership interest to a revocable trust, the settlor remains personally liable for partnership obligations as if the settlor were a general partner.

"§ 36C-10-1012. Protection of person dealing with trustee.

(a) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a trustee, without knowledge that the trustee is exceeding or improperly exercising the trustee's powers, is protected from liability as if the trustee properly exercised the power.

(b) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith deals with a trustee is not required to inquire into the extent of the trustee's powers or the propriety of their exercise.

(c) A person who in good faith delivers assets to a trustee need not ensure their proper application.

(d) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a former trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a former trustee, without knowledge that the trusteeship has terminated is protected from liability as if the former trustee were still a trustee.

(e) Comparable protective provisions of other laws relating to commercial transactions or transfer of securities by fiduciaries prevail over the protection provided by this section.

(f) A person is not required to obtain a certification under G.S. 36C-10-1013 in order to be entitled to the protections of this section.

"§ 36C-10-1013. Certification of trust.

(a) Instead of furnishing a copy of the trust instrument to a person other than a beneficiary, the trustee may furnish to the person a certification of trust containing the following information:

(1) The existence of the trust and the date the trust instrument was executed;

(2) The identity of the settlor, unless withheld under a provision in the trust instrument;

(3) The identity and address of the currently acting trustee;

(4) The powers of the trustee;

(5) The revocability or irrevocability of the trust and the identity of any person holding a power to revoke the trust;

(6) The authority of co-trustees to sign or otherwise authenticate and whether all or less than all are required in order to exercise powers of the trustee;

(7) The trust's taxpayer identification number; and

(8) The manner of taking title to trust property.

(b) Any trustee may sign or otherwise authenticate a certification of trust.

(c) A certification of trust must state that the trust has not been revoked, modified, or amended in any manner that would cause the representations contained in the certification of trust to be incorrect.

(d) A certification of trust need not contain the dispositive terms of a trust.

(e) A recipient of a certification of trust may require the trustee to furnish copies of those excerpts from the original trust instrument and later amendments that designate the trustee and confer upon the trustee the power to act in the pending transaction.

(f) A person who acts in reliance upon a certification of trust without knowledge that the representations contained in the certification are incorrect is not liable to any person for so acting and may assume without inquiry the existence of the facts contained in the certification. Knowledge of the terms of the trust may not be inferred solely from the fact that the person relying upon the certification holds a copy of all or part of the trust instrument.

(g) A person who in good faith enters into a transaction in reliance upon a certification of trust may enforce the transaction against the trust property as if the representations contained in the certification were correct.

(h) A person making a demand for the trust instrument in addition to a certification of trust or excerpts is liable for damages if the court determines that the person did not act in good faith in demanding the trust instrument.

(i) This section does not limit the right of a person to obtain a copy of the trust instrument in a judicial proceeding concerning the trust.

"Miscellaneous Provisions.

"§ 36C-11-1101. Uniformity of application and construction.

In applying and construing this Chapter, consideration may be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it.

"§ 36C-11-1102. Electronic records and signatures.

The provisions of this Chapter governing the legal effect, validity, or enforceability of electronic records or electronic signatures, and of contracts formed or performed with the use of those records or signatures, conform to the requirements of Section 102 of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (15 U.S.C. § 7002) and supersede, modify, and limit the requirements of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act.

SECTION 3. The General Statutes are amended by adding a new Chapter to read:

"Chapter 36D.

"North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities.

"§ 36D-1. Title; findings.

(a) This Article shall be known and may be cited as the "North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities Act".

(b) The General Assembly finds that it is in the public interest to encourage activities by voluntary associations and private citizens that will supplement and augment those services provided by local, State, and federal government agencies in discharge of their responsibilities toward individuals with severe chronic disabilities. The General Assembly further finds that, as a result of changing social, economic, and demographic trends, families of persons with severe chronic disabilities are increasingly aware of the need for a vehicle by which they can assure ongoing individualized personal concern for a severely disabled family member who may survive that disabled person's parents or other family members, and provide for the efficient management of small legacies or trust funds to be used for the benefit of that disabled person. In a number of other states, voluntary associations have established foundations or trusts intended to be responsive to these concerns. Therefore, the General Assembly finds that North Carolina will benefit by the enactment of enabling legislation expressly authorizing the formation of community trusts in accordance with criteria set forth by statute and administered by the Secretary of State, under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. These community trusts permit the pooling of resources contributed by families or persons with philanthropic intent, along with the reservation of portions of these funds for the use and benefit of designated beneficiaries.

(c) This Article shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies, which are, among others, to:

(1) Encourage the orderly establishment of community trusts for the benefit of persons with severe chronic disabilities;

(2) Ensure that community trusts are administered properly and that the managing boards of the trusts are free from conflicts of interest;

(3) Facilitate sound administration of trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities by allowing family members and others to pool resources in order to make professional management investment more efficient;

(4) Provide parents of persons with severe chronic disabilities peace of mind in knowing that a means exists to ensure that the interests of their children who have severe chronic disabilities are properly looked after and managed after the parents die or become incapacitated;

(5) Help make guardians available for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member is available for this purpose;

(6) Encourage the availability of private resources to purchase for persons with severe chronic disabilities goods and services that are not available through any governmental or charitable program and to conserve these resources by limiting purchases to those that are not available from other sources;

(7) Encourage the inclusion, as beneficiaries of community trusts, of persons who lack resources and whose families are indigent, in a way that does not diminish the resources available to other beneficiaries whose families have contributed to the trust; and

(8) Remove the disincentives that discourage parents and others from setting aside funds for the future protection of persons with severe chronic disabilities by ensuring that the interest of beneficiaries in community trusts are not considered assets or income that would disqualify them from any governmental or charitable entitlement program with an economic means test.

"§ 36D-2. Definitions.

As used in this Article, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Beneficiary" means any person with a severe chronic disability who has qualified as a member of the community trust program and who has the right to receive those services and benefits vested with the management of the business and affairs of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, irrespective of the name by which the group is designated.

(2) "Community trust" means a nonprofit organization that offers the following services:

a. Administration of special trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities;

b. Follow along services;

c. Guardianship for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member or immediate friend is available for this purpose; and

d. Advice and counsel to persons who have been appointed as individual guardians of the persons or estates of persons with severe chronic disabilities.

(3) "Follow along services" means (i) those services offered by community trusts that are designed to ensure that the needs of each beneficiary are being met for as long as may be required and may include periodic visits to the beneficiary and to the places where the beneficiary receives services, (ii) participation in the development of individualized plans being made by service providers for the beneficiary, and (iii) other similar services consistent with the purposes of this Article.

(4) "Severe chronic disability" means a physical or mental impairment that is expected to give rise to a long-term need for specialized health, social, and other services, and that makes the person with the disability dependent upon others for assistance to secure these services.

(5) "Trustee" means any member of the board of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, whether that member is designated as a trustee, director, manager, governor, or by any other title.

(6) "Surplus trust funds" means funds accumulated in the trust from contributions made on behalf of an individual beneficiary that, after the death of the beneficiary, are determined by the board to be in excess of the actual cost of providing services during the beneficiary's lifetime, including the beneficiary's share of administrative costs.

"§ 36D-3. Scope.

This Article applies to every community trust established in this State. In addition to meeting the other requirements of this Article, every board that administers a community trust shall incorporate as a nonprofit corporation under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, Chapter 55A of the General Statutes applies to community trusts.

"§ 36D-4. Administration; powers and duties.

(a) Every community trust shall be administered by a board. The board shall be comprised of no less than nine and no more than 21 members, at least one-third of whom are parents or relatives of persons with severe chronic disabilities. No board member shall be a provider of habilitative, health, social, or educational services to persons with severe chronic disabilities or an employee of such a service provider. The board may, however, allow service providers to serve on the board in an advisory capacity. Board members shall be selected, to the maximum extent possible, from geographic areas throughout the area served by the trust.

The certificate of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes shall, in addition to the requirements set forth in that Chapter, demonstrate that the requirements of this section have been met.

(b) Notwithstanding any other law, no trustee may be compensated for services provided as a member of the board of a community trust. No fees or commissions shall be paid to these trustees; however, a trustee may be paid for necessary expenses incurred by the trustee and may receive indemnification as permitted under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes.

(b1) For every community trust incorporated under this Article, the corporation itself is considered the trustee of any funds administered by it. No individual board member is considered to be trustee of any fund deposited on behalf of any individual beneficiary with severe chronic disabilities.

(c) The board shall adopt bylaws that include a declaration delineating the primary geographic area serviced by the trust and the principal services to be provided. The board shall file the bylaws with the Secretary of State.

(d) The board may retain paid staff as it considers necessary to provide follow along services to the extent required by each beneficiary. The community trust may authorize the expenditure of funds for any goods or services, including recreational services, which the board, in its sole discretion, determines will promote the well-being of any beneficiary. The community trust may pay for the burial of any beneficiary. The community trust, however, may not expend funds for any goods or services of comparable quality to those available to any particular beneficiary through any governmental or charitable program, insurance, or other sources. The community trust may expend funds to meet the reasonable costs of administering the community trust.

(e) The community trust is not required to provide services to a beneficiary who is a competent adult and who has refused to accept the services. Further, the community trust shall not provide services of a nature or in a manner that would be contrary to the public policy of this State at the time the services are to be provided. In either case, the community trust may offer alternate services that are consistent with the purposes of this Article and in keeping with the best interests of the beneficiary.

(f) The community trust may accept appointment as guardian of the person, guardian of the estate, or guardian of both on behalf of any beneficiary. If the community trust accepts appointment as guardian of the person of an individual, it shall assign a staff member to carry out its responsibilities as the guardian. The community trust may, upon request, offer consultative and professional assistance to an individual, private or public guardian of any of its beneficiaries.

(g) The community trust may accept contributions, bequests, and designations under life insurance policies to the community trust on behalf of individuals with severe chronic disabilities for the purpose of qualifying them as beneficiaries.

(h) At the time a contribution, bequest, or assignment of insurance proceeds is made, the trustor shall receive a written statement of the services to be provided to the beneficiary. The statement shall include a starting date for the delivery of services or the condition precedent, such as the death of the trustor, which shall determine the starting date. The statement shall describe the frequency with which services shall be provided and their duration, and the criteria or procedures for modifying the program of services from time to time in the best interests of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-5. Accountability.

Along with the annual report filed with the Secretary of State under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes, the community trust shall file an itemized statement that shows the funds collected for the year, income earned, salaries, other expenses incurred, and the opening and final trust balances. A copy of this statement shall be made available, upon request, to any beneficiary, trustor, or designee of the trustor. In addition, once annually, each trustor or the trustor's designee shall receive a detailed individual statement of the services provided to the trustor's beneficiary during the previous 12 months and the services to be provided during the following 12 months. The community trust shall make a copy of the individual statement available to any beneficiary, upon request.

"§ 36D-6. Gifts, surplus trust funds.

The community trust may accept gifts and use surplus trust funds for the purpose of qualifying as beneficiary any indigent person whose family members lack the resources to make a full contribution on that person's behalf. The extent and character of the services and selection of beneficiaries are at the discretion of the community trust. The community trust may not use surplus trust funds to make any charitable contribution on behalf of any beneficiary or any group or class of beneficiaries. The community trust may accept gifts to meet start-up costs, reduce the charges to the trust for the cost of administration, and for any other purpose that is consistent with this Article. Gifts made to the trust for an unspecified purpose shall be used by the community trust either to qualify indigent persons whose families lack the means to qualify them as beneficiaries of the trust or to meet any start-up costs that the trust incurs.

"§ 36D-7. Special requests on behalf of beneficiary.

The community trust may agree to fulfill any special requests made on behalf of a beneficiary as long as the requests are consistent with this Article and provided that an adequate contribution has been made for this purpose on behalf of a beneficiary. The community trust may agree to serve as trustee for any individual trust created on behalf of a beneficiary, regardless of whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable, has one or more remaindermen or contingent beneficiaries, or any other condition, so long as the individual trust is consistent with the purposes of this Article.

"§ 36D-8. Irrevocability; impossibility of fulfillment.

A community trust for persons with severe chronic disabilities is irrevocable, but the trustees in their sole discretion may provide compensation for any contribution to the trust to any trustor who, upon good cause, withdraws a beneficiary designated by the trustor from the trust, or if it becomes impossible to fulfill the conditions of the trust with regard to an individual beneficiary for reasons other than the death of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-9. Beneficiary's interest in trust not asset for income eligibility determination.

Notwithstanding any provisions of Chapter 108A of the General Statutes, the beneficiary's interest in any community trust is not considered to be an asset for the purpose of determining income eligibility for any publicly operated program, nor shall that interest be reached in satisfaction of a claim for support and maintenance of the beneficiary. No agency shall reduce the benefits of services available to any individual because that person is the beneficiary of a community trust.

"§ 36D-10. Trust not subject to law against perpetuities; restraints on alienation.

A community trust shall not be subject to or held to be in violation of any principle of law against perpetuities or restraints on alienation or perpetual accumulations of trusts.

"§ 36D-11. Settlement; trustee limitations.

The community trust shall settle a community trust by filing a final accounting in the superior court. In addition, at any time before the settlement of the final account, the community trust, the Secretary of State, or the Attorney General may bring an action for the dissolution of a nonprofit corporation in the superior court for the purpose of terminating the trust or merging it with another charitable trust.

No trustee or any private individual is entitled to share in the distribution of any of the trust assets upon dissolution, merger, or settlement of the community trust. Upon dissolution, merger, or settlement, the superior court shall distribute all of the remaining net assets of the community trust in a manner that is consistent with the purposes of this Article."

SECTION 4. G.S. 32-28 and G.S. 32-34 are repealed.

SECTION 5. G.S. 28A-13-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 28A-13-6. Exercise of powers of joint personal representatives by one or more than one.

~~(a) As used in this section, the term "personal representatives" includes testamentary trustees.~~

(b) If a will expressly makes provision for the execution of any of the powers of personal representatives by all of them or by any one or more of them, the provisions of the will govern.

~~(c) If there is no governing provision in the will, personal representatives may, by written agreement signed by all of them and filed with and approved by the clerk of superior court of the county in which such personal representatives qualified, provide that any one or more of the following powers of personal representatives may be exercised by any designated one or more of them:~~

~~(1) Open bank accounts and draw checks thereon;~~

~~(2) Subject to the provisions of G.S. 105-24, enter any safe deposit box of the deceased or any safe deposit box rented by the personal representative or representatives;~~

~~(3) Employ attorneys and accountants;~~

~~(4) List property for taxes and prepare and file State, municipal and county tax returns;~~

~~(5) Collect claims and debts due the estate and give receipts therefor;~~

~~(6) Pay claims against and debts of the estate;~~

~~(7) Compromise claims in favor of or against the estate;~~

~~(8) Have custody of property of the estate.~~

(c1) If there is no governing provision in the will, personal representatives may, by written agreement signed by all of them and filed with and approved by the clerk of superior court of the county in which the personal representatives qualified, provide that any designated one or more of the personal representatives may exercise one or more of the following powers:

(1) Establish and maintain bank accounts for the trust and issue checks for the trust.
(2) Maintain inventories, accountings, and income and expense records of the trust.
(3) Enter any safety deposit box rented by the trust.
(4) Employ persons as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, including agents, attorneys, accountants, brokers, appraisers and custodians.
(5) List trust property for taxes and prepare and file tax returns for the trust.
(6) Collect and give receipts for claims and debts of the trust.
(7) Pay debts, claims, costs of administration, and taxes of the trust.
(8) Compromise, adjust or otherwise settle any claim by or against the trust and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust.
(9) Have custody of the trust property.

(d) Subject to subsection (b) of this section, if two or more personal representatives own shares of corporate stock or other securities, their acts with respect to voting shall have the following effect:
(1) If only one votes, in person or by proxy, ~~his~~ that personal representative's act binds all;
(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act of the majority so voting binds all;
(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

(e) Subject to ~~the provisions of~~ subsections (b), ~~(c)~~ (c1), and (d) of this section, all other acts and duties must be performed by both of the personal representatives if there are two, and by a majority of them if there are more than two. No personal representative who has not joined in exercising a power shall be liable for the consequences of such exercise, nor shall a dissenting personal representative be liable for the consequences of an act in which ~~he~~ the personal representative joins at the direction of the majority of the personal representatives, if ~~he~~ that personal representative expressed his or her dissent in writing to any other personal representative at or before the time of such joinder.

(f) No personal representative shall be relieved of liability on his or her bond or otherwise by entering into any agreement under this section."

SECTION 6. The Revisor of Statutes shall cause to be printed along with this act all relevant portions of the Official Commentary to the Uniform Trust Code and all explanatory comments of the drafters of this act as the Revisor may deem appropriate.

SECTION 7.(a) Section 2 of this act becomes effective January 1, 2006, and except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, applies to (i) all trusts created before, on, or after that date; (ii) all judicial proceedings concerning trusts commenced on or after that date; and (iii) judicial proceedings concerning trusts commenced before that date unless the court finds that application of a particular provision of Chapter 36C of the General Statutes would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the judicial proceedings or prejudice the rights of the parties, in which case the particular provision of Chapter 36C of the General Statutes does not apply and the superseded law applies.

Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, any rule of construction or presumption provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes applies to trust instruments executed before the effective date of Section 2 of this act unless there is a clear indication of a contrary intent in the terms of the trust or unless application of that rule of construction or presumption would impair substantial rights of a beneficiary. Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, an act done before the effective date of Section 2 of this act is not affected by Chapter 36C of the General Statutes. If a right is acquired, extinguished, or barred upon the expiration of a prescribed period that has commenced to run under any other statute before the effective date of Section 2 of this act, that statute continues to apply to the right even if it has been repealed or superseded.

SECTION 7.(b) Sections 1 through 5 of this act become effective January 1, 2006. The remainder of this act is effective when it becomes law.

Summary of North Carolina Uniform Trust Code

Introduction

The Uniform Trust Code ("UTC") was promulgated by the Uniform Law Commissioners in 2000 as the first truly national codification of the law of trusts. The UTC draws from existing statutory and common law sources, including the Restatements of the Law of Trusts 2nd and 3rd. It also contains elements of reform to reflect modern needs. As of October 2004 at least ten states have enacted the UTC, and numerous groups in other states have the UTC under study.

Unlike some states, North Carolina does not have a substantial body of statutory trust law, and some of what we do have is in need of amendment. The Uniform Trust Act, enacted in 1939 as Article 6 of Chapter 36A and adopted by only a few states, was not a complete codification of trust law, and several of its provisions are outmoded in light of modern practices. The more recent Trust Administration Act, enacted in 2002 as Article 3 of Chapter 36A, was helpful in granting the clerks of superior court jurisdiction to deal with trust matters, but it has raised questions concerning the extent of that jurisdiction and the application of the rules of civil procedure.

The promulgation of the UTC presented an opportunity to codify, clarify and improve the North Carolina trust law. With this objective in mind, the Legislative Committee of the Estate Planning and Fiduciary Law Section of the North Carolina Bar Association began its study of the UTC in 2001. The proposed North Carolina Uniform Trust Code ("NCUTC"), a modified version of the UTC, is the product of the Legislative Committee's three-year study.

The NCUTC, which replaces Chapter 36A with a new Chapter 36C, should be very beneficial to lawyers and judges alike by filling any gaps that exist in our trust law, while at the same time providing a modern practice approach in dealing with trust issues. It makes a number of beneficial changes and additions in our existing law. For example,

- Jurisdictional and procedural issues in the Trust Administration Act have been clarified. The Trust Administration Act gave the clerk of superior court original jurisdiction over "internal affairs" of the trust. The NCUTC clarifies that certain actions, including actions for damages, do not constitute such "internal affairs." The NCUTC also clarifies the application of rules of civil procedure in proceedings before the clerk.

- The representation provisions that now exist in the Trust Administration Act for trust proceedings before the clerk are applicable to trust proceedings before a superior court judge.

- Article 11 of Chapter 36A contains provisions for the modification and termination of a trust which are similar to those in the NCUTC. However, the NCUTC adds rules to reform a trust because of mistakes of law or fact and to achieve tax objectives.

- The NCUTC contains special rules pertaining to revocable trusts which are added to our trust law. Where an instrument is silent, the instrument is deemed to be revocable. This reverses the presumption under our existing common law.

- The current provisions in Chapter 36A require court approval for the transfer of administration to another jurisdiction and for the resignation and appointment of a trustee where the governing instrument is silent. The NCUTC allows for the transfer, resignation and appointment of a trustee by consent of the beneficiaries.

- The provisions in Chapter 36A contain inflexible provisions in dealing with conflict of law issues. For example, trustees cannot sell or make loans to a related party without a court order. The NCUTC allows such transfers to occur with the consent of the beneficiaries.

Summary of Articles

In General

The NCUTC, like the UTC, is divided into 11 articles. The first and eleventh articles do not address substantive topics, but deal with general provisions like definitions and rules of statutory interpretation. The nine substantive articles are Article 2, Judicial Proceedings; Article 3, Representation; Article 4, Creation, Validity, Modification, and Termination of Trusts; Article 5, Creditor's Claims, Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts; Article 6, Revocable Trusts; Article 7, Office of Trustee; Article 8, Duties and Powers of Trustee; Article 9, The Uniform Prudent Investor Act (which recodifies provisions of Article 15 of Chapter 36A); and Article 10, Liability of Trustees and Rights of Persons Dealing with Trustee. It is not possible to provide a complete summary of the entire NCUTC, but what follows highlights central characteristics of this important code.

Article 1
General Provisions and Definitions

Article 1 sets forth the definitions and rules that govern application of the NCUTC.

G.S. 36C-1-101 states that Chapter 36C of the North Carolina General Statutes shall be known as the "North Carolina Uniform Trust Code."

G.S. 36C-1-102 specifies the scope of the NCUTC by describing the types of trusts to which it applies. The description of these trusts was based on the provisions of G.S. 36A-22.1 of the Trust Administration Act.

G.S. 36C-1-103 is one of the NCUTC's most important sections because it contains the definitions that apply throughout the entire NCUTC. Of specific importance are the following definitions:

- "Qualified beneficiary" – not all beneficiaries of a trust are qualified beneficiaries. Under the NCUTC, qualified beneficiaries receive more rights than normal beneficiaries. A qualified beneficiary is one of the following three types of beneficiaries: (i) a permissible distributee of income or principal, (ii) a beneficiary who would be a permissible distributee of income or principal if the current present interest in the trust terminated, or (iii) a beneficiary who would receive a distribution of trust assets if the trust terminated.

- "Settlor" – is not just the person who creates the trust. A settlor is any person who contributes assets to a trust unless another person has the power to revoke the trust or withdraw the assets contributed.

- "Terms of a trust" mean the actual provisions of the trust instrument and any provisions established through a judicial proceeding.

G.S. 36C-1-104 specifies when persons, particularly persons who work in organizations (e.g., corporate trustees), are deemed to have acquired knowledge of a fact.

G.S. 36C-1-105 states that the NCUTC is primarily a default statute the provisions of which can be overridden in the terms of a trust. The UTC contained fourteen items that could not be overridden. The NCUTC deletes the following four of these leaving the settlor free to provide what he wishes with respect to such matters:

- the power of the court under UTC Section 706 to require or dispense with a bond.

- the power of the court under UTC Section 708 to adjust a trustee's compensation specified in the instrument.

- the duty of the trustee under UTC Section 813(b)(2) and (3) to notify qualified beneficiaries of an irrevocable trust who have attained 25 years of age of the existence of the trust, of the identity of the trustee, and of their right to request trustee's reports. Note: G.S. 36C-8-813 has been re-written to delete this duty. Under G.S. 36C-8-813, a trustee's only duty is to give a qualified beneficiary "upon request and at reasonable times complete and accurate information as to the nature and amount of the trust property and to permit such beneficiary, or such beneficiary's representative, to inspect the subject matter of the trust and the accounts and other documents relating to the trust." This language is derived from the Restatement of the Law of Trust (2nd) which has been quoted with approval by our courts.

- the duty of the trustee under UTC Section 813(a) to respond to the request of a qualified beneficiary of an irrevocable trust for trustee's reports and other information reasonably related to the administration of a trust.

G.S. 36C-1-106 clarifies that the NCUTC is supplemented by the common law of trusts and principles of equity.

G.S. 36C-1-107 provides that the terms of a trust may set forth the jurisdiction or jurisdictions whose laws will govern the trust. The designation of jurisdiction in the terms of a trust will be binding unless designation of that jurisdiction's law is contrary to a strong public policy of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue. If a trust is silent as to which jurisdiction's laws will apply, the laws of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue will control.

G.S. 36C-1-108 allows a trustee to change a trust's principal place of administration without going to court if certain conditions are met. If the trustee seeks to change the trust's principal place of administration to a jurisdiction within the United States, the trustee must provide all qualified beneficiaries with sixty days advance notice. If no qualified beneficiary objects to the proposed transfer, the trustee may proceed with changing the principal place of administration of the trust. If a qualified beneficiary does object, the trustee would not be able to make the change without going to court and obtaining an order permitting the transfer. If the trustee seeks to change the trust's principal place of administration to a jurisdiction outside of the United States, the trustee cannot make the change without first securing the written consent of all qualified beneficiaries.

G.S. 36C-1-109 specifies the methods for giving notice and excludes from the NCUTC's notice requirements persons whose identity or location is unknown and not reasonably ascertainable. This section does not apply to judicial proceedings. Notice of a judicial proceeding must be given as provided in Article 2.

G.S. 36C-1-110 states when a charitable organization or person entitled to enforce a trust for animals or a noncharitable purpose may be treated as a qualified beneficiary.

G.S. 36C-1-111 allows "interested persons" (as that term is defined in this section) to enter into nonjudicial settlement agreements only in five instances dealing primarily with administrative matters. The virtual representation provisions of Article 3 apply in determining who are interested persons. A nonjudicial settlement agreement is valid only to the extent it does not violate a material purpose of the trust and includes terms and conditions that could be properly approved by the court.

G.S. 36C-1-112 provides that North Carolina's specific rules on construction of wills also apply to the construction of trusts.

Article 2
Judicial Proceedings

Article 2 deals with judicial proceedings concerning trusts. The Trust Administration Act provided the clerk of superior court with jurisdiction in certain trust proceedings. As discussed below, this Article clarifies the jurisdiction of the clerk of superior court and the superior court trial division.

G.S. 36C-2-201 states that a court may intervene in the administration of a trust to the extent that jurisdiction is properly invoked by a party or is provided by law. This section does not change existing law. It also reiterates existing law that a trust is not subject to judicial supervision, except as expressly provided in G.S. 36C-2-208 (relating to accountings to the clerk) and G.S. 36C-2-209 (relating to qualifications and accountings of trustees of testamentary trusts). As described below G.S. 36C-2-208 and G.S. 36C-2-209 are recodifications of existing law.

G.S. 36C-2-202 specifies that by accepting a trusteeship of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State or by moving the principal place of administration of a trust to this State, a trustee submits personally to the jurisdiction of this State in any matter involving the trust. Additionally, a beneficiary of a trust, by accepting a distribution from a trust, submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust. This section does not preclude other means of obtaining jurisdiction over a trust, beneficiary or other person receiving property from the trust. This section is consistent with existing law.

G.S. 36C-2-203 incorporates the former provisions of G.S.36A-23.1, 36A-25.1 and 36A-27 of the Trust Administration Act. The section has been revised to clarify the jurisdiction between the clerk of superior court and superior court trial division. Subsection (f) is new and provides a nonexclusive list of jurisdiction which, pursuant to existing case law, lies exclusively with the superior court division of the general court of justice, not the clerk of court. This section retains the provisions of the Trust Administration Act providing that nothing in the section affects the right of a person to file for declaratory relief under the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter. To prevent forum shopping between the clerk and superior court trial division, subsection (c) gives a party the right to remove a trust proceeding to superior court if relief under the declaratory judgment act is requested. Subsection (d) incorporates former G.S. 36A-25.1 (dealing with jurisdiction over foreign trusts). Subsection (e) incorporates former G.S. 36A-27 (appeal).

G.S. 36C-2-204 incorporates the venue provisions under the Trust Administration Act contained in G.S. 36A-24.1. Subsection (d) adds a provision of the UTC which provides that if a trust has no trustee, venue for a trust proceeding involving the appointment of a trustee is any county in this State in which a beneficiary resides, the trust is located, in the county as specified in the trust instrument or if the trust is created by will, in a county in which the decedent's estate was or is being administered.

G.S. 36C-2-205 is a revision of G.S. 36A-26.1 setting forth the manner in which a trust proceeding is commenced and other procedural requirements. As with G.S. 36A-26.1, this section incorporates the procedures for the pleading requirements that exist for special proceedings, but specifies that trust proceedings are to be docketed as an estate matter. Additionally, the rules of pleading have been clarified. This section does not allow a clerk to enter a default judgment in a trust proceeding. This section does allow for the consolidation of trust proceedings which are pending both before the clerk of superior court and a civil action pending before the superior court division of the general court of justice if they involve a common question of law or fact. To consolidate a matter, a motion must be made to the judge of the superior court trial division. Similarly, parties can join claims for relief in a civil action pending before a superior court division notwithstanding such joined claims may otherwise be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the clerk. Subsection (h) allows the clerk and superior court judge to make such orders as appropriate to protect the interest of the parties to avoid unnecessary cost or delay in connection with any motion for consolidation or joinder of claims. Until otherwise ordered by superior court judge, the clerk of superior court's exclusive jurisdiction as set forth in subsection (a) is not stayed notwithstanding a motion to consolidate or joinder of claims.

G.S. G.S. 36C-2-206 is consistent with G.S. 36A-26.3 dealing with representation of parties. However, this section does clarify that representation provisions apply to both trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court and in the trial division of the superior court. Under current law, apparently the representation provisions of G.S. 36A-26.3 applied only to trust proceedings before the clerk.

G.S. 36C-2-207 incorporates former G.S. 36A-26.2 by providing that any interested party or person representing an interested party may waive notice by writing signed by the person or the person's attorney and filed in the proceeding.

G.S. 36C-2-208 sets forth when accountings must be filed with the clerk of superior court. It incorporates current law contained in G.S. 36A-29.

G.S. 36C-2-209 incorporates the provisions of G.S. 36A-107 and 108 regarding the qualification and accounting requirements for trustees of testamentary trusts and rules relating to the registration or indexing of testamentary trusts.

Article 3
Representation

Article 3 deals with the rather complex issues of who may represent whom in transactions or proceedings relating to a trust. The representation provisions are similar to those existing in G.S. 36A-26.3 of the Trust Administration Act relating to proceedings before the clerk of superior court.

G.S. 36C-3-301 is the introductory section, laying out the scope of the article. The representation principles of this article have numerous applications under the NCUTC. They apply for purposes of settlement of disputes, whether by a court or nonjudicially. As noted above, the provisions change existing North Carolina law in that representation applies not only to proceedings before the clerk of the superior court but also to proceedings before the superior court division of the general court of justice. They apply for the giving of required notices and for the giving of consents to certain actions.

G.S. 36C-3-302 deals with representation by the holder of a general power of appointment (both presently exercisable and testamentary general powers of appointment).

G.S. 36C-3-303 deals with representation by a fiduciary, whether of an estate, trust, conservatorship, or guardianship. The section also allows a parent without a conflict of interest to represent and bind a minor or unborn child. If a disagreement arises between parents seeking to represent the same minor child, the parent who is either a beneficiary of or a lineal descendant of the settlor of the trust shall be entitled to represent the minor child. A person may also represent and bind such person's unborn issue.

G.S. 36C-3-304 is the virtual representation provision. It provides for representation of and the giving of a binding consent by another person having a substantially identical interest with respect to the particular issue. G.S. 36C-3-304 is broader than existing North Carolina law in that it permits a person with a substantially identical interest to represent not only minor and unborn or unascertained persons, but also incapacitated persons and persons whose identity or location is unknown.

G.S. 36C-3-305 authorizes the court to appoint a representative to represent the interests of unrepresented persons or persons for whom the court concludes the other available representation might be inadequate. This section is broader than existing North Carolina law in that a representative may be appointed to represent someone whose identity is known but cannot be located. In addition, this section authorizes the representative to act on behalf of a party without regard to whether or not a judicial proceeding is pending and to take into consideration benefits accruing generally to the party's family.

The provisions of Article 3 are subject to modification in the terms of the trust. Settlors are free to specify their own methods for providing substituted notice and obtaining substituted consent.

Article 4
Creation, Validity, Modification and Termination of a Trust

G.S. 36C-4-401 specifies the methods by which trusts are created, that is, by transfer of property, self-declaration, or exercise of a power of appointment. This section modifies the UTC and common law rule that transfer of title to property is not required where the owner of the property declares himself as trustee of the property. As modified, a valid declaration of trust may only be created by complying with state law provisions governing delivery of property by transfer of title.

G.S. 36C-4-401A recodifies G.S. 36A-100 expressly confirming that an unfunded trust is valid where the trust is the designated beneficiary of a life insurance policy, retirement benefits or a pourover provision in a will. This matter is dealt with by implication in G.S. 36C-401(1), which validates a trust by transfer of property through a disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death.

G.S. 36C-4-402 lists the requirements for creation of a trust. Whatever method to create the trust may have been employed, the settlor must have the capacity and indicate an intention to create a trust. In addition, there must be a definite beneficiary or the trust must be a charitable trust, a trust for animals (specially provided for as a kind of honorary trust), or a trust for a noncharitable purpose (also a kind of honorary trust).

G.S. 36C-4-403 addresses the validity in the enacting jurisdiction of trusts created in other jurisdictions. A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complied with the law of specified jurisdictions in which the settlor or trustee had a significant contact.

G.S. 36C-4-404 forbids trusts for illegal or impossible purposes, and requires that a trust and its terms must be for the benefit of its beneficiaries. This section recites the permitted purposes of a charitable trust. Subsections (b) through (e) of this section incorporate existing provisions in G.S. 36A-49 and G.S. 36A-52 validating gifts for charitable purposes even though expressed in general terms.

G.S. 36C-4-405A incorporates existing North Carolina statutory provisions for enforcement of charitable gifts and charitable trusts. This section provides that a trust induced by fraud, duress or undue influence may be invalidated. North Carolina courts have consistently recognized fraud, duress and undue influence as reasons to invalidate a will; but there are no cases extending the concept to the creation of a trust. This section makes a trust induced by fraud, duress or undue influence voidable rather than void so that either a trustee or a third party dealing with the trustee would not be at risk if the trust is later determined to have been invalid unless that trustee or third party had knowledge of the grounds for the invalidity.

G.S. 36C-4-407 codifies existing North Carolina common law validating oral trusts. North Carolina courts have repeatedly recognized oral trusts, including oral trusts for realty, where the "clear and convincing evidence" standard is met. The remaining sections address what are often referred to as "honorary" trusts, although such trusts are valid and enforceable under the NCUTC.

G.S. 36C-4-408 covers a trust for the care of a domestic or pet animal. This section is based on existing provisions in G.S. 36A-147, which is more limited than the UTC, which covers any animal living during the settlor's lifetime.

G.S. 36C-4-409 allows creation of a trust for another noncharitable purpose such as maintenance of a cemetery lot.

G.S. 36C-4-410 is substantially similar to existing North Carolina law in that it establishes a non-exclusive procedure for modification and termination of an irrevocable trust.

G.S. 36C-4-411(a) is similar to G.S. 36A-123.3 in providing for termination or modification upon beneficiary consent if the settlor concurs, but is broader than existing North Carolina law in that it permits the consent of a settlor to be given by an attorney-in-fact, a guardian of the estate or a guardian of the person of the settlor. Subsections (b) and (c) are consistent with G.S. 36A-125.4 in permitting the court to modify or terminate the trust if all beneficiaries consent where the circumstances outweigh the interests in accomplishing a material purpose of the trust.

G.S. 36C-4-412 authorizes the court to modify or terminate a trust in response to unanticipated circumstances or due to ineffective administrative terms.

G.S. 36C-4-413 codifies and at the same time modifies the doctrine of cy pres, at least as applied in most states. This section authorizes the court to apply cy pres not only if the original means becomes impossible or unlawful but also if the means become impracticable or wasteful. This section also creates a presumption of general charitable intent. Upon failure of the settlor's original plan, the court cannot divert the trust property to a noncharity unless the terms of the trust expressly so provide. Subsection (b) is based on existing North Carolina law authorizing the Attorney General to maintain a proceeding to enforce a charitable trust, but this subsection expands existing law in that it also authorizes a settlor, trustee, qualified beneficiary or other interested party to maintain such a proceeding.

G.S. 36C-4-414 authorizes the court to modify or terminate a trust if continued administration under the trust's existing terms would be uneconomical. This section also authorizes a trustee to terminate a trust valued at less than $50,000. These provisions are consistent with G.S. 36A-125.6.

G.S. 36C-4-415 authorizes the court to reform a trust to correct a mistake of law or fact. Reformation of inter vivos instruments as a remedy to correct a mistake of law or fact is well established. However, there is no comparable North Carolina statutory provision authorizing a court to reform an unambiguous trust to conform to the settlor's intent. G.S. 36C-4-415 would permit the introduction of parol evidence, even where contradicted by the plain meaning of the words in the instrument, to show the settlor's intent and the existence of a mistake of fact or law. However, the evidence must be clear and convincing to protect against the possibility of unreliable or fraudulent evidence.

G.S. 36A-4-416 authorizes the court to modify a trust to achieve the settlor's tax objectives.

G.S. 36A-4-417 authorizes a trustee to combine or divide a trust.

G.S. 36C-4-418 is based on G.S. 36A-125.10 which provides for trust property distributable to a minor upon termination of a trust to be distributed to the minor's guardian of the estate or general guardian, to a custodian for the benefit of the minor under the North Carolina Uniform Transfer to Minors Act, or to a trustee for the benefit of the minor under the North Carolina Custodial Trust Act.

G.S. 36C-4-419 requires the court in exercising its discretion to modify or terminate an irrevocable trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, G.S. 36C-4-412, and G.S. 36C-4-413 to consider provisions making the interest of a beneficiary inalienable, but the court is not precluded from the exercise of that discretion solely because of such provisions. This is consistent with G.S. 36A-125.8.

The requirements for a trust's creation, such as the necessary level of capacity and the requirement that a trust have a legal purpose, are controlled by statute and common law, not by the settlor. Nor may the settlor negate the court's ability to modify or terminate a trust as provided in G.S. 36C-4-410 through 416. However, a settlor is free to restrict or modify the trustee's power to terminate an uneconomic trust as provided in G.S. 36C-4-414, and the trustee's power to combine and divide trusts as provided in G.S. 36C-4-417.

Articles 4A
Tax Status of Charitable Trusts

Articles 4A recodifies G.S. 36A-54 and G.S. 36A-53(b) dealing with the tax status of charitable trusts that are intended to preserve the favorable tax treatment of gifts to such trusts.

Article 4B
Charitable Trust Administration Act

Article 4B recodifies the existing Charitable Trust Administration Act in Article 4A of Chapter 36A.

Article 5
Creditor's Claims, Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts

Article 5 deals with creditor claims against the interests of a beneficiary or a settlor. The NCUTC's version of Article 5 includes certain provisions to preserve current North Carolina law with regard to discretionary trusts.

G.S. 36C-5-501 provides that a spendthrift provision in a trust restricts a beneficiary's creditor from attaching the beneficiary's interest in the trust until there is a distribution to the beneficiary. The NCUTC adds additional protection for not only spendthrift trusts, but discretionary and protective trusts as well (as they are defined in later sections of Article 5). If there is no spendthrift, discretionary, or protective trust provision, a creditor of a beneficiary may attach a distribution interest before it is distributed. G.S. 36C-5-501(b) seeks to protect a trustee who makes distributions from a spendthrift, discretionary or protective trust to or for the benefit of a beneficiary from liability for the distribution.

G.S. 36C-5-502 states that a spendthrift provision is created simply by general reference to "spendthrift trust" in the trust instrument.

G.S. 36C-5-503 differs from the UTC which provides for three "exception" creditors – creditors who could attach a beneficiary's interest in a trust even if protected by a spendthrift provision. These exception creditors were: (1) child support orders; (2) spousal maintenance orders; and (3) a creditor for services provided to protect the beneficiary's interest in the trust. However, the only exception creditor to a spendthrift trust allowed in this section is for a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance.

G.S. 36C-5-504 seeks to preserve much of G.S. 36A-115 because of the concern of some practitioners that the UTC might eliminate the availability of discretionary trusts for asset protection and Medicaid planning. The definition of a "discretionary trust interest" in G.S. 36C-5-504(a) includes both the definition of a "discretionary" trust interest from G.S. 36A-115(b)(1), and the definition of a "support" trust from G.S. 36A-115(b)(2).

G.S. 36C-5-504(c) states clearly that a creditor of a beneficiary cannot compel a distribution from a discretionary trust even if the trustee has abused its discretion. As with spendthrift trusts, the only exception creditor will be a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance. However, a child's claim against a discretionary trust interest will be limited to those cases where a trustee has not complied with a standard of distribution or has abused its discretion. Under 36C-8-814(a), a trustee will abuse its discretion if the trustee acts with bad faith, acts dishonestly, acts with an improper even though not a dishonest motive, or if the trustee fails to use the trustee's judgment in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. This language, which differs significantly from the UTC, was taken from the opinion in Lineback v. Stout, 79 N.C. App. 292, 339 S.E. 2d 103 (1986).

G.S. 36C-5-505 provides that creditors of the settlor of a revocable trust may attach the corpus of the trust. In addition, a creditor may reach the maximum amount that may be distributed to the settlor in an irrevocable trust.

G.S. 36C-5-506 adds a definition of "mandatory distribution" to prevent this section from being interpreted to require distributions from discretionary trusts as defined in G.S. § 36C-5-504(a)(2).

G.S. 36C-5-507 provides that trust property is exempt from the personal obligations of the trustee.

G.S. 36C-5-508 adds to the UTC provisions regarding a protective trust, similar to G.S. 36A-115(b)(3), as an additional way to preserve assets from creditors.

Article 6
Revocable Trusts

G.S. 36C-6-601 provides that the capacity of a person to establish and fund a revocable trust is the same as that applicable to a will. North Carolina law has no present standard of capacity for trusts.

G.S. 36C-6-602 provides that all trusts are presumed revocable unless the instrument creating the trust expressly provides to the contrary. This reverses the present North Carolina common law rule. This section also states that the settlor's suitably authorized attorney-in-fact or guardian may amend the revocable trust but not in such a fashion as to change the settlor's existing estate plan.

G.S. 36C-6-603 provides that while the settlor of a revocable trust is living, the beneficiaries' rights are subject to the control of the settlor or the settlor's agents. With certain exceptions, however, persons with powers of withdrawal from a trust are deemed to have the authority of the settlor to the extent of that portion of the trust subject to the power.

G.S. 36C-6-604 states that the validity of the formerly revocable trust that becomes irrevocable when the settlor dies cannot be challenged upon the elapsing of three years after the decedent's death. This is similar to the present statute of limitations governing caveats to wills.

Article 7
Office of Trustee

Article 7 deals with acceptance of the trust by the trustee, bond for the trustee, decision-making by co-trustees, and like matters.

G.S. 36C-7-701 contains provisions regarding accepting or declining the trusteeship that are substantially the same as existing North Carolina law.

G.S. 36C-7-702 retains North Carolina's existing law regarding circumstances where a trustee shall be required to give bond. This differs from the UTC, which would allow the court to require a bond even where the governing instrument directs otherwise. In addition, North Carolina law, as incorporated in this section, gives more guidance regarding the amount of the bond, where one is required.

G.S. 36C-7-703 provides for general rules applicable to co-trustees that are similar to existing North Carolina law. However, this section goes further to protect a co-trustee who does not join in an action so long as there is no intentional misconduct or improper personal benefit to one or more of the trustees approving the action.

G.S. 36C-7-704 contains provisions regarding a vacancy in the trusteeship and appointment of a successor which are similar to existing North Carolina law. This section adds a provision that is consistent with existing North Carolina law clarifying the powers and duties of a successor trustee.

G.S. 36C-7-705, unlike existing North Carolina law, permits a trustee to resign without court approval by giving notice to qualified beneficiaries, even where the governing instrument does not address trustee resignation.

G.S. 36C-7-706 provides for removal of a trustee on several grounds based on malfeasance or on a change of circumstances if not inconsistent with a material purpose. This section did not adopt a UTC provision allowing removal at the request of beneficiaries.

G.S. 36C-7-707 offers an additional remedy not in the UTC in cases where the former trustee does not execute the proper documentation to transfer title to the trust property to the successor in that it gives the clerk of superior court authority to order the former trustee to execute such documents or to transfer title.

G.S. 36C-7-708 dealing with trustee's fees refers to the provisions of Article 5A of Chapter 32 for determination of fees of trustees where the fees are not specified in the instrument.

G.S. 36C-7-709 dealing with trustee expenses refers to Article 5A of Chapter 32 regarding reimbursement of a trustee's expenses out of trust property.

Article 8
Duties and Powers of Trustee

Article 8 articulates the basic fiduciary obligations of a trustee, except for those articulated in the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

Many of the sections in Article 8 reflect duties that are not seen as an extension of current North Carolina law because the duties are ones that have been applicable under common law, current statutes or the prudent person rule. In some cases, the North Carolina Uniform Prudent Investor Act made these duties specifically applicable to a trustee's investment and management duties and Article 8 clarifies that these duties apply to all activities of the trustee.

The sections referred to by the foregoing are: G.S. 36C-8-801 regarding the duty to administer the trust, G.S. 36C-8-803 regarding impartiality, G.S. 36C-8- 804 regarding prudent administration, G.S. 36C-8-805 regarding costs of administration, G.S. 36C-8- 806 regarding the trustee's skills, G.S. 36C-8-807 regarding delegation by trustee, G.S. 36C-8-809 regarding control and protection of trust property, G.S. 36C-8-810 regarding recordkeeping and identification of trust property, G.S. 36C-8-811 regarding enforcement and defense of claims, G.S. 36C-8- 812 regarding collecting trust property and G.S. 36C-8-817 regarding distribution upon termination.

G.S. 36C-8-802 speaks to the basic duty of loyalty that requires the trustee to manage the trust solely for the beneficiaries and to avoid conflicts of interest between trustee's interests and beneficiaries' interests. This section represents a modernization of the current North Carolina statutes dealing with the duty of loyalty and conflicts of interest. Under G.S. 36C-8-802, any conflict of interest is waivable by a beneficiary. This section also allows the application of virtual representation in obtaining consent from beneficiaries for a conflict of interest transaction.

G.S. 36C-8-808 introduces the concept of a trust protector or advisor being named with the power to direct the trustee in certain respects and naming a person who would have the power to modify or terminate the trust.

G.S. 36C-8-813 restates the common law duty to provide the beneficiaries with information regarding the trust and its property. Consistent with existing North Carolina law, a settlor may specifically limit what information is given to the beneficiaries.

G.S. 36C-8-814, as discussed in the summary of Article 5, sets out the standard for determining when a trustee has abused its discretion. This section also updates tax savings provisions of existing law precluding a trustee from exercising discretion to make distributions from a trust for his or her own benefit that are not limited to an ascertainable standard.

G.S. 36C-8-815 broadens the automatic powers that apply by default to every trustee when the instrument does not contain powers.

G.S. 36C-8-816 grants to all trustees specific powers similar to the powers listed in G.S. 36A-136 and that can currently be incorporated in an instrument under G.S. 32-27. The powers are broader than those listed in G.S. 36A-136 in that a trustee may sell real property without court order even though the power is not expressed in the trust instrument. In addition, the trustee can borrow funds for any purpose and not just to pay taxes and expenses.

Article 9
Uniform Prudent Investor Act

Article 9 reenacts the North Carolina Prudent Investor Act, Article 15 of Chapter 36A, as a part of the UTC.

G.S. 36C-9-901 recodifies former section 36A-161 regarding the applicability of the prudent investor rule recodifies.

G.S. 36C-9-902 recodifies former 36A-162 regarding the standard of care, portfolio strategy and risk and return objectives.

G.S. 36C-9-903 recodifies former section 36A-163 regarding diversification.

G.S. 36C-9-904 recodifies former section 36A-164 regarding duties at the inception of the trusteeship.

G.S. 36C-9-905 recodifies former section 36A-168 regarding compliance with the prudent investor rule.

G.S. 36C-9-906 recodifies former section 36A-170 regarding the effect on charitable remainder trusts.

G.S. 36C-9-907 recodifies former section 36A-172 referring to the short title

Other sections of the North Carolina Prudent Investor Act were repealed because, as noted in the summary of Article 8, Article 8 contains substantially similar provisions applicable to the administration of trusts in general and not just to investment duties. These provisions include G.S. 36C-8-802(a) regarding the duty of loyalty, G.S. 36C-8-803 regarding impartiality, G.S. 36C-8-805 regarding investment costs, and G.S. 36C-8-807 regarding delegation of management functions. Similarly G.S. 36C-11-1103 makes the language of former 36A-173 regarding severability applicable to any provision of the NCUTC, and G.S. 36C-11-1106 covers the effective date provisions formerly provided by 36A-171.

Article 10
Liability of Trustees and Rights of Persons Dealing with Trustee

Article 10 provides for remedies when there is breach of an obligation by the trustee, who and under what circumstances there is a right of action by anybody, and a trustee's immunity from personal liability when doing business with others on behalf of the trust.

G.S. 36C-10-1001 provides that a breach of duty to a beneficiary invokes a court's equity powers to compel performance, suspend the trustee, remove the trustee, and enter other orders to remedy a breach of trust. As provided under existing North Carolina law, the court also may relieve from liability, either prospectively or retrospectively, a trustee who acts honestly and reasonably.

G.S. 36C-10-1002 requires damages for breach of trust to restore the trust's position as if breach had not occurred, or to provide the trust with profits made from the breach if that amount is greater.

G.S. 36C-10-1003 provides that the trustee's is responsible to account for all profits, but does not insure that the trust will be profitable.

G.S. 36C-10-1004 dealing with attorneys' fees refers to existing North Carolina statutes governing the award of attorneys' fees.

G.S. 36C-10-1005 providing for limitations of actions against the trustee refers to existing North Carolina statutes governing limitation of actions, except that no action may be brought more than five years after (a) the removal, resignation, or death of trustee, (b) termination of the beneficiary's interest in the trust, or (c) termination of the trust.

G.S. 36C-10-1006 provides that a trustee is not liable for good faith reliance on a trust instrument.

G.S. 36C-10-1007 provides that a trustee is not liable for lack of knowledge of an event affecting trust administration if the trustee exercises reasonable care to learn of such events.

G.S. 36C-10-1008 precludes a trust instrument from exculpating the trustee for bad faith or reckless indifference.

G.S. 36C-10-1009 allows a beneficiary to consent or ratify a breach, or release trustee from liability for a breach, provided the trustee did not obtain the consent, ratification or release by improper conduct and the beneficiary is aware of the material facts.

G.S. 36C-10-1010 absolves a trustee from personal liability to third parties for contracts on behalf of the trust so long as the fiduciary status of the trustee is disclosed. A trustee is not liable for a tort action against the trust unless the trustee also has personal liability. A trustee is entitled to indemnity from the trust on an equitable basis.

G.S. 36C-10-1011 allows a trustee to hold an interest in a general partnership as trustee without personal liability.

G.S. 36C-10-1012 provides that a third party dealing with a trust is not liable for any breach of the trustee's obligations to the beneficiaries resulting from the transaction, unless the third party has knowledge of the actual breach by the trustee.

G.S. 36C-10-1013 permits a trustee to furnish a third party dealing with the trust a certification of its important provisions in lieu of the actual trust document.

Article 11
Miscellaneous Provisions

G.S. 36C-11-1101 states that in construing the provisions of the NCUTC consideration may be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact the UTC.

G.S. 36C-11-1102 provides for electronic records and signatures.

G.S. 36C-11-1103 contains a severability provision if any portion of the Code is held to be invalid.

G.S. 36C-11-1104 states that the NCUTC is to take effect on January 1, 2006.

G.S. 36C-11-1105 states existing relationships to which the NCUTC applies when it takes effect.

SECTION 1. G.S. 20-179.3(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Eligibility.

(1) A person convicted of the offense of impaired driving under G.S. 20-138.1 is eligible for a limited driving privilege if:

a. At the time of the offense he held either a valid driver's license or a license that had been expired for less than one year;

b. At the time of the offense he had not within the preceding seven years been convicted of an offense involving impaired driving;

c. Punishment Level Three, Four, or Five was imposed for the offense of impaired driving;

A person whose North Carolina driver's license is revoked because of a conviction in another jurisdiction substantially similar to impaired driving under G.S. 20-138.1 is eligible for a limited driving privilege if he would be eligible for it had the conviction occurred in North Carolina. Eligibility for a limited driving privilege following a revocation under G.S. 20-16.2(d) is governed by G.S. 20-16.2(e1).

(2) Any person whose licensing privileges are forfeited pursuant to G.S. 15A-1331A is eligible for a limited driving privilege if the court finds that at the time of the forfeiture, the person held either a valid drivers license or a drivers license that had been expired for less than one year and:

a. The person is supporting existing dependents or must have a drivers license to be gainfully employed; or

b. The person has an existing dependent who requires serious medical treatment and the defendant is the only person able to provide transportation to the dependent to the health care facility where the dependent can receive the needed medical treatment.

The limited driving privilege granted under this subdivision must restrict the person to essential driving related to the purposes listed above, and any driving that is not related to those purposes is unlawful even though done at times and upon routes that may be authorized by the privilege.

(3) Except where other conditions or restrictions are provided by law for a particular motor vehicle offense, any person whose licensing privileges have been revoked for a motor vehicle offense other than an impaired driving offense is eligible for a limited driving privilege if the court finds that the person is supporting existing dependents or must have a drivers license to be gainfully employed, and the court finds good cause for granting a limited driving privilege. The limited driving privilege granted under this section may, in the court's discretion, authorize the person to drive for essential purposes related to any of the activities in subsection (a) of this section."

SECTION 2. This act is effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 1087:
Limited Driving Privilege for DWLR

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 19, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Kerr	Summary by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Version:	First Edition S1087-CSRC-17[v.1]

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 1087 would allow a person whose drivers license has been revoked for a motor vehicle offense to obtain limited driving privileges if the court finds there is good cause and the person is supporting existing dependents or must have a drivers license to be gainfully employed. The limited privileges would not be available if the license had been revoked for an impaired driving offense or if a limited driving privilege was available under another provision of the law.

The Proposed Committee Substitute prohibits a person whose license was revoked for an impaired driving offense, who subsequently drives and is found guilty of driving while license revoked, from being eligible for limited driving privileges under this new provision.

The act would become effective October 1, 2005.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 20-16 lists a number of offenses for which the Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) may revoke a person's driver's license. These include the accumulation of 12 or more drivers license points in a three year period, fraudulent use of a license, any offense committed in another state that if committed in this State would be grounds for suspension or revocation, and certain speeding violations[1]. G.S. 20-17 lists a number of offenses for which the DMV is required to revoke a person's driver's license. These include manslaughter resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle, impaired driving under G.S. 20-138.1 or 138.2[2], failure to stop and render aid, two convictions of reckless driving is a 12 month period, and conviction of assault with a motor vehicle. G.S. 50-13.12 and G.S. 110-142.2 both authorize a court to revoke a driver's license of a person who is delinquent with their child support payments.

Unless otherwise provided by law, the period of revocation is for one year[3]. A person is convicted of driving while license revoked is guilty of a Class 1 misdemeanor and the license is revoked for an additional year. The license is revoked for 2 years upon a second offense, and permanently revoked upon conviction of a third offense.[4]

G.S. 20-16.1 provides a process by which a court may grant limited driving privileges to a person who has been convicted of certain speeding violations. G.S. 20-179.3 authorizes a court to grant limited driving privileges to a person who has been convicted of impaired driving and who at the time of the offense:

- Held a valid license or whose license had been expired for less than one year.
- Had not been convicted of an impaired driving offense within seven years of the current conviction.

[1] See also G.S. 20-16.1.
[2] G.S. 20-16.2 requires the revocation of a license for refusing to take a breath test.
[3] G.S. 20-19(f).
[4] G.S. 20-28(a).

- Received a Level Three, Four, or Five punishment.
- Had no charges of impaired driving after the offense.
- Obtains a substance abuse assessment.

The limited privilege may be used to drive to employment, maintain a household, obtain education, participate in court-ordered treatment or assessment, community service related to probation, and emergency medical care.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 1087 would allow a court to grant limited driving privileges to a person who has been convicted of a motor vehicle offense. The provision would not apply if the person's license had been revoked for an impaired driving offense or if another provision of law would allow for limited driving privileges. The bill does not define what a "motor vehicle offense" would be, and the term is not defined elsewhere in statute. However, it appears that at least the following offenses would be covered:

- Accumulation within a 3-year period of 12 or more drivers license points or eight or more points in the three-year period immediately following the reinstatement of a license which has been suspended or revoked because of a conviction for one or more traffic offenses.
- Unlawful or fraudulent use of such license or a learner's permit.
- Commission of an offense in another state, which if committed in this State would be grounds for suspension or revocation.
- Failure to stop and render aid in violation of G.S. 20-166(a) or (b).
- Perjury or the making of a false affidavit or statement under oath to the DMV relating to the ownership of motor vehicles.
- Conviction, within a period of 12 months, of (i) two charges of reckless driving, (ii) two charges of aggressive driving, or (iii) one or more charges of reckless driving and one or more charges of aggressive driving.
- Conviction upon one charge of aggressive driving or reckless driving while engaged in the illegal transportation of intoxicants for the purpose of sale.
- Conviction of using a false or fictitious name or giving a false or fictitious address in any application for a driver's license, or learner's permit, or any renewal or duplicate thereof.
- Death by vehicle as defined in G.S. 20-141.4.
- A second or subsequent conviction of transporting an open container of alcoholic beverage under G.S. 20-138.7.

The limited privilege could be granted at the discretion of the court for good cause and the person is supporting existing dependents or must have a driver's license to be gainfully employed. The privilege could be used to drive to employment, maintain a household, obtain education, participate in court-ordered treatment or assessment, community service related to probation, and emergency medical care.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act would become effective October 1, 2005

AN ACT TO ADD PSEUDOEPHEDRINE, A CRITICAL INGREDIENT IN THE MANUFACTURE OF THE ILLEGAL DRUG METHAMPHETAMINE, TO SCHEDULE V OF THE CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES LIST, TO APPROPRIATE FUNDS TO THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TO COMBAT THE MANUFACTURE OF METHAMPHETAMINE, TO MAKE THE MANUFACTURE OF METHAMPHETAMINE IN A DWELLING THAT IS ONE OF FOUR OR MORE CONTIGUOUS DWELLINGS AN AGGRAVATING FACTOR, AND TO AUTHORIZE THE LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMISSION TO STUDY THE ISSUES RELATING TO THE ABUSE OF METHAMPHETAMINE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 90-93 reads as rewritten:

"§ 90-93. Schedule V controlled substances.

(a) This schedule includes the controlled substances listed or to be listed by whatever official name, common or usual name, chemical name, or trade name designated. In determining that a substance comes within this schedule, the Commission shall find: a low potential for abuse relative to the substances listed in Schedule IV of this Article; currently accepted medical use in the United States; and limited physical or psychological dependence relative to the substances listed in Schedule IV of this Article. The following controlled substances are included in this schedule:

(1) Any compound, mixture or preparation containing any of the following limited quantities of narcotic drugs or salts thereof, which shall include one or more nonnarcotic active medicinal ingredients in sufficient proportion to confer upon the compound, mixture, or preparation valuable medicinal qualities other than those possessed by the narcotic alone:

a. Not more than 200 milligrams of codeine or any of its salts per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.
b. Not more than 100 milligrams of dihydrocodeine or any of its salts per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.
c. Not more than 100 milligrams of ethylmorphine or any of its salts per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.
d. Not more than 2.5 milligrams of diphenoxylate and not less than 25 micrograms of atropine sulfate per dosage unit.
e. Not more than 100 milligrams of opium per 100 milliliters or per 100 grams.
f. Not more than 0.5 milligram of difenoxin and not less than 25 micrograms of atropine sulfate per dosage unit.

(2) Repealed by Session Laws 1985, c. 172, s. 9.

(3) Stimulants. – Unless specifically exempted or excluded or unless listed in another schedule, any material, compound, mixture, or preparation which contains any quantity of the following substances having a stimulant effect on the central nervous system, including its salts, isomers and salts of isomers:

a. Repealed by Session Laws 1993, c. 319, s. 7.
b. Pyrovalerone.

(4) Any compound, mixture, or preparation containing any detectable quantity of pseudoephedrine base, its salts or optical isomers, or salts of optical isomers; however, this does not include compounds, mixtures, or preparations that are in liquid, liquid capsule, or gel capsule form if pseudoephedrine is not the only active ingredient.

(b) A Schedule V substance may be sold at retail without a prescription only by a registered pharmacist and no other person, agent or employee may sell a Schedule V substance even if under the direct supervision of a pharmacist.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of G.S. 90-93(b), after the pharmacist has fulfilled the responsibilities required of him in this Article, the actual cash transaction, credit transaction, or delivery of a Schedule V substance, may be completed by a nonpharmacist. A pharmacist may refuse to sell a Schedule V substance until he is satisfied that the product is being obtained for medicinal purposes only.

(d) A Schedule V substance may be sold at retail without a prescription only to a person at least 18 years of age. The pharmacist must require every retail purchaser of a Schedule V substance to furnish suitable identification, including proof of age when appropriate, in order to purchase a Schedule V substance. If the Schedule V substance is pseudoephedrine, then the retail purchaser must provide a photo identification showing the date of birth of the person. The name and address obtained from such identification shall be entered in the record of disposition to consumers.

(e) No person shall purchase, receive, or otherwise acquire more than nine grams of any mixture, product, or preparation containing the controlled substance described in subdivision (a)(4) of this section within any 30-day period; however, this limit does not apply if the controlled substance is dispensed pursuant to a valid prescription.

(f) The Commission for Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities, and Substance Abuse Services, by rule, may exempt other products from this Schedule that the Commission finds are not used in the illegal manufacture of methamphetamine or other dangerous controlled substances. A manufacturer of a drug product may apply for removal of the product from this Schedule if the product is determined by the Commission to have been formulated in such a way as to effectively prevent the conversion of the active ingredient into methamphetamine."

SECTION 2. There is appropriated from the General Fund to the Department of Justice the sum of eight hundred thirty-six thousand six hundred dollars ($836,000) for the 2005-2006 fiscal year to combat the illegal manufacture of methamphetamine. The funds appropriated by this act shall be used to create 13 new positions in the State Bureau of Investigation to combat illegal methamphetamine lab operations in North Carolina. These new positions shall include the following: six SBI drug chemists, two drug chemistry technicians, four SBI field agents, and one special agent supervisor who would oversee a coordinated statewide methamphetamine elimination strategy. These new positions are established beginning January 1, 2006.

SECTION 3. G.S. 15A-1340.16(d) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(16b) The offense is the manufacture of methamphetamine and was committed in a dwelling that is one of four or more contiguous dwellings."

SECTION 4.(a) The Legislative Research Commission may study the issues regarding the abuse of methamphetamine precursors used to make methamphetamine and any other issues that are relevant to that topic. In conducting the study, the Commission shall also consider how to address the problems presented by the abuse of methamphetamine, including educational and training programs that focus on curbing the use of methamphetamine in North Carolina. The Commission may also consider any other issues relevant to the study.

SECTION 4.(b) If the study authorized by this section is undertaken, the Legislative Research Commission shall appoint at a minimum the members to the study committee as provided by this subsection.

(1) The President Pro Tempore of the Senate shall appoint the following members:

(2) The Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint the following members:

a. One member of the House of Representatives.

b. One representative from the Office of the Governor.

c. One representative from the North Carolina Retail Merchants Association.

d. One representative from the District Attorney's Association of North Carolina.

e. One representative from the North Carolina Sheriffs' Association, Inc.

SECTION 4.(c) The Legislative Research Commission may make an interim report to the 2005 General Assembly, Regular Session 2006, and shall make its final report to the 2007 General Assembly.

SECTION 4.(d) The Legislative Services Officer shall allocate funds appropriated to the General Assembly for the expenditures of the Legislative Services Commission in conducting this study.

SECTION 5. Sections 1 and 3 of this act become effective December 1, 2005, and apply to offenses committed on or after that date. The remainder of this act becomes effective July 1, 2005.

Senate Bill 686:
Meth. Lab Prevention Act

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 21, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Dalton	Summary by:	Robin Johnson
Version:	First Edition S686-CSRH-8[v.2]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The PCS would (i) add pseudoephedrine, an ingredient used to manufacture methamphetamine, to Schedule V of the Controlled Substance Act, (ii) make the manufacture of methamphetamine in a dwelling that is one of four or more contiguous dwellings an aggravating factor, (iii) authorize the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) to study issues related to methamphetamine abuse, and (iv) make technical changes.

The PCS would allow multi-state, wholesale distributors to continue to warehouse or store pseudoephedrine in the manner they currently do. The PCS also makes technical changes.

BILL ANALYSIS:

ADD PSEUDOEPHEDRINE TO SCHEDULE V OF THE CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE ACT (Section 1)

CURRENT LAW: The Controlled Substance Act[1] categorizes by Schedules the different types of controlled substances subject to the Act. Schedule I controlled substances are those that have (i) a high potential for abuse, (ii) no currently accepted medical use in the United States, or (iii) a lack of accepted safety for use in treatment under medical supervision. Schedule V controlled substances have (i) a low potential for abuse relative to those listed in Schedules I-IV, (ii) currently accepted medical use in the United States, and (iii) limited physical or psychological dependence relative to the substances listed in Schedules III or IV. Schedule V substances include narcotics and stimulants. (Methamphetamine is a Schedule II substance.)

Schedule V substances may be sold at retail without a prescription only by a registered pharmacist, only for a medical purpose, and only to someone at least 18 years old. A nonpharmacist may complete the actual cash transaction, credit transaction, or delivery of a Schedule V substance. The pharmacist must require every retail purchaser of a Schedule V substance to furnish suitable identification. The purchaser's name and address must be entered in the record of disposition to consumers. This is not a public record, but may be disclosed at the pharmacist's discretion.[2]

Currently sold retail without a prescription, pseudoephedrine is a decongestant that comes as a regular tablet and capsule, extended-release (long-acting) tablet and capsule, liquid, and drops for children to take by mouth. Pseudoephedrine may be used to manufacture methamphetamine.

Unlawful possession of a Schedule V substance is a Class 2 misdemeanor. Assuming no prior convictions, the presumptive minimum sentence for a person convicted of a Class 2 misdemeanor is 1-30 days community punishment.

[1] Article 5 of Chapter 90 of the General Statutes.
[2] G.S. 90-85.36(c).

To unlawfully manufacture, deliver, or possess with intent to manufacture, sell or deliver, a Class V substance is a Class I felony. Assuming no prior convictions, the presumptive minimum sentence for a person convicted of a Class I felony is 4-6 months community punishment.

To unlawfully sell a Schedule V substance is a Class H felony, punishable by an absolute minimum of four months community service and an absolute maximum of 30 months active, depending on the defendant's prior record.

ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would amend G.S. 90-93(a) to make the following changes:

- Add to the list of Schedule V substances pseudoephedrine when it is in the form of (i) a tablet or capsule or (ii) a liquid, liquid capsule, or gel capsule where it is the only active ingredient.
- Require the retail purchaser of pseudoephedrine to provide a photo identification showing the purchaser's birth date.
- Limit the purchase, receipt, or acquisition of pseudoephedrine without a prescription to nine grams within any 30-day period.
- Allow multi-state wholesale distributors to continue to warehouse or store pseudoephedrine in the same manner as they currently do.
- Authorize the Commission for Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities, and Substance Abuse Services (Commission), by rule, to exempt other products from Schedule V that the Commission finds are not used in the illegal manufacture of methamphetamine or other dangerous controlled substances. Drug manufacturers may apply for removal of a product from this Schedule if the Commission determines it has been formulated so that the active ingredient cannot be converted into methamphetamine.

Section 1 would become effective December 1, 2005, and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

AGGRAVATING FACTOR AND CONTIGUOUS DWELLINGS (Section 2)

CURRENT LAW: A court must consider evidence of aggravating or mitigating factors in felony sentencing.[3] If the court finds that aggravating or mitigating factors exist, it may depart from the presumptive ranges of sentences specified in the felony sentencing chart. The State bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that an aggravating factor exists. The defense bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that a mitigating factor exists.

The unlawful manufacture of methamphetamine is a Class C felony. Assuming no prior convictions, the presumptive minimum sentence for a person convicted of a Class C felony is 58-73 months active punishment.

ANALYSIS: Section 2 of Senate Bill 686 would amend G.S. 15A-1340.16(d) by adding a new subdivision (16b) so that, in a case involving the manufacture of methamphetamine, if the offense was committed in a dwelling that is one of four or more contiguous dwellings, this would be an aggravating factor to be considered in sentencing.

Section 2 would become effective December 1, 2005, and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

[3] G.S. 15A-1340.16.

LRC STUDY METHAMPHETAMINE ABUSE ISSUES (Section 3)

Section 3 of Senate Bill 686 would authorize the LRC to study issues concerning the abuse of methamphetamine precursors used to make methamphetamine. If the LRC opts to undertake this study, the committee would consist of 10 members, five appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and five appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The LRC would report to the 2006 or 2007 Session, or both.

This section would become effective July 1, 2005.

BACKGROUND: According to the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP), Methamphetamine is a growing threat to North Carolina. It. can be manufactured easily in clandestine laboratories (meth labs) using ingredients purchased in local stores. Over-the-counter cold medicines containing ephedrine or pseudoephedrine and other materials are "cooked" in meth labs to make methamphetamine.

Meth labs can be portable and so are easily dismantled, stored, or moved. This portability helps methamphetamine manufacturers avoid law enforcement authorities. Meth labs have been found in many different types of locations, including apartments, hotel rooms, rented storage spaces, and trucks. Methamphetamine labs have been known to be boobytrapped and lab operators are often well armed.

In 2004, 322 meth labs were found in North Carolina. (In 2001, only 34 were found.)

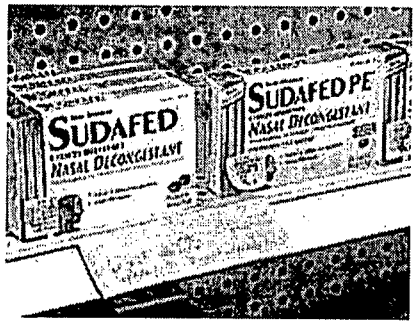
Target Stores To Restrict Cold Drugs To Tackle Meth

Company Says Changes Coming In 2-3 Months

POSTED: 12:48 pm EDT April 18, 2005

ST. PAUL, Minn. -- Target stores nationwide are going to pull cold medicines from regular shelves and sell them only from pharmacy counters.



The restrictions apply to products that contain pseudoephedrine, an active ingredient used to make methamphetamine.

The changes will take effect within two to three months. Stores that don't have pharmacies won't sell the cold medicine products.

According to a news release from the company, Target is the first national retailer to voluntarily decide to place pseudoephedrine-based cough, cold and allergy products behind the pharmacy counter.

A number of states have enacted or are considering restrictions on the sale of cold medicine. In Oklahoma, officials have said its law has helped reduce meth lab seizures more than 80 percent.

"As a national retailer, it is becoming increasingly difficult to meet the requirements of each individual city, county and state law," said Mary Kelly, a Target official, in a news release. "Our new policy will allow us to be more consistent and will serve the interests of the communities in which we operate by helping to prevent manufacturing of this debilitating substance."

Target operates 1,330 stores in 47 states.

SURVEY

To combat the production of methamphetamine, do you think it's a good idea for states to limit sales of cold medicine containing pseudoephedrine?

- Yes, it's a good way to curb the problem.
- No, the restrictions go too far.
- No, the restrictions won't work.
- I don't know.

Harris Interactive Survey of Nearly 3,000 U.S. Adults:

To Fight Meth Abuse, Consumers Can Live With Some Limits — But Don't Put My Cold Medicines Behind the Pharmacy Counter

First Poll of Its Kind Questions Limits Imposed or Considered by Congress, Many States

WASHINGTON, DC — April 4, 2005 — Putting the cough, cold and allergy products used to illegally make methamphetamine behind a pharmacy counter would create a hardship for more than four in 10 consumers (44 percent), according to a national survey conducted by Harris Interactive® released today. The survey of 2,900 U.S. adult consumers — the first to gauge their views on sales restrictions enacted or proposed in more than 30 states and Congress — was commissioned by the National Consumers League (NCL) and Food Marketing Institute (FMI).

Reinforcing this view, 62 percent do not believe restricting sales of these products to pharmacies is a reasonable measure to control meth production.

Consumers are far more receptive to less severe restrictions to combat the meth problem. Large majorities regard the following solutions as "somewhat" or "very reasonable":

- Putting such cough, cold and allergy products behind "a counter, not a pharmacy counter" — 71 percent.
- Putting them in a locked display case — 62 percent.
- Limiting the quantity of such products that people can buy — 84 percent.
- Restricting the age of purchasers — 74 percent.
- Requiring buyers to sign a log book and show a photo ID — 59 percent.

About 250 products on the market today contain the ingredient pseudoephedrine, which meth users cook down and extract to produce the illegal drug methamphetamine. According to law enforcement estimates, small-time abusers obtain such products from retailers to produce about 20 percent of the meth available in the U.S. The remaining 80 percent is made in large quantities by superlabs in Mexico, Canada and elsewhere.

To combat small-time production, Arkansas, Iowa, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Tennessee enacted laws restricting sales of some or all of these products to pharmacies, in some cases by classifying them as Schedule V drugs under the Controlled Substances Act. Oregon issued a regulation. Congress is considering the Combat Meth Act (S. 103, H.R. 314), which would place such products on Schedule V nationally, triggering a requirement in 17 states that these common over-the-counter drugs be dispensed only through a doctor's prescription.

"If sales of products containing pseudoephedrine must be restricted, the burden should not be borne by everyday consumers who depend on these products," said NCL President Linda Golodner. "This poll shows that many consumers are willing to live with some restrictions — but many also do not feel that restricting sales to pharmacies is reasonable. This may be because of pharmacies' limited hours and the fact they are not widely accessible in many low-income neighborhoods and rural areas."

"Many supermarkets are already helping law enforcement curb meth production by limiting sales of these products, by putting them behind counters or in glass cases," said FMI President and CEO Tim Hammonds. "We are training clerks to look out for suspicious purchases and to alert police, following the national Meth Watch program." (http://www.methwatch.com)

- more -

Both FMI and NCL support a federal law that would place the kinds of sales restrictions that most consumers support. Such a law would curb small-time meth production nationwide and free up law enforcement to focus on the superlabs and gangs that account for 80 percent of the problem. Both also believe that enforcement efforts and increased penalties should be aimed at stopping criminals, not law-abiding consumers.

Common Cough, Cold and Allergy Products Are Widely Used

The poll found that more than three-quarters of consumers (77 percent) have purchased such products in the past year. Greater proportions of those with children in the household (86 percent) and particularly mothers with children (90 percent) have purchased these drugs.

Among those who buy the products, half (50 percent) say it is "very important" to be able to do so "any time of the day." This figure increases in households with children (56 percent) and among mothers with children (61 percent).

Four-fifths of the respondents who purchase these drugs rely on them to relieve the symptoms of their colds and allergies, including 33 percent who rely on them "a lot."

Where Consumers Buy the Products

Consumers purchase the drugs at multiple outlets, led by discount stores (71 percent), drug stores (64 percent) and supermarkets (49 percent). Restricting sales to pharmacies would severely limit their availability in supermarkets since only 9,900 of the nation's 33,800 supermarkets have such departments.

Familiarity With the Meth Issue

Half the population (51 percent) is either very or somewhat familiar with the problem with meth abuse. Awareness is higher in the West (59 percent) and among families with children aged 13-17 (62 percent).

Methodology

The poll was conducted online from March 24-28. Based on responses by 2,906 U.S. adults, it has a sampling error of +/- 1.8 percent at the 95 percent confidence level. The data were weighted to be representative of the total U.S. adult population on the basis of region, age within gender, education, household income, race/ethnicity and propensity to be online.

The petition cannot be filed earlier than 15 years after the date of the conviction or any period of probation, whichever occurs later. The petition shall contain, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) An affidavit by the petitioner that he or she has been of good behavior for the 15-year period since the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and has not been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state.

(2) Verified affidavits of two persons who are not related to the petitioner or to each other by blood or marriage, that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which the petitioner lives and that the person's character and reputation are good.

(3) A statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted.

(4) Affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, where appropriate, and sheriff of the county in which the petitioner was convicted and, if different, the county of which the petitioner is a resident, showing that the petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of this State at any time prior to the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense in question or during the 15-year period following that conviction.

(5) An affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the court wherein the case was tried resulting in conviction. The district attorney shall have 10 days thereafter in which to file any objection thereto and shall be duly notified as to the date of the hearing of the petition.

The judge to whom the petition is presented may call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the 15-year period that the judge deems desirable.

(c) If the court, after hearing, finds that the petitioner had remained of good behavior and been free of conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, other than a traffic violation, for 15 years from the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and the petitioner has no outstanding restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner, then the court shall order that the petitioner be restored, in the contemplation of the law, to the status the petitioner occupied before the arrest or indictment or information for the nonviolent criminal offense. No person as to whom such order has been entered shall be held thereafter under any provision of any laws to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his or her failure to recite or acknowledge such arrest, indictment, information, trial, or response to any inquiry made of the person for any purpose.

(d) The court shall also order that the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense be expunged from the records of the court and direct all law enforcement agencies bearing record of the same to expunge their records of the conviction. The clerk shall forward a certified copy of the order to the sheriff, chief of police, or other arresting agency. The sheriff, chief, or head of any other arresting agency shall then transmit the copy of the order with a form supplied by the State Bureau of Investigation to the State Bureau of Investigation, and the State Bureau of Investigation shall forward the order to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(e) Any person entitled to an expunction under this section may also apply to the court for an order expunging DNA records when the person's DNA record or profile has been included in the State DNA Database, and the person's DNA sample is stored in the State DNA Databank. A copy of the application for expunction of the DNA record or DNA sample shall be served on the district attorney for the judicial district in which the charges of the nonviolent criminal offense were brought not less than 20 days prior to the date of the hearing on the application. The order of expunction shall include the name and address of the defendant and the defendant's attorney and shall direct the SBI to send a letter documenting expunction as required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Upon receiving an order of expunction entered pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, the SBI shall purge the DNA record and all other identifying information from the State DNA Database and the DNA sample stored in the State DNA Databank covered by the order, except that the order shall not apply to other offenses committed by the individual that qualify for inclusion in the State DNA Database and the State DNA Databank. A letter documenting expunction of the DNA record and destruction of the DNA sample shall be sent by the SBI to the defendant and the defendant's attorney at the address specified by the court in the order of expunction.

(g) The clerk of superior court in each county in North Carolina shall, as soon as practicable after each term of court in his or her county, file with the Administrative Office of the Courts, the name of those persons granted expunctions under the provisions of this section, and the Administrative Office of the Courts shall maintain a confidential file containing the name of persons granted expunctions. The information contained in the file shall be disclosed only to judges of the General Court of Justice of North Carolina for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person charged with an offense has been previously granted an expunction.

(h) A person who files a petition for expunction of a criminal record under this section must pay the clerk of superior court a fee of sixty-five dollars ($65.00) at the time the petition is filed. Fees collected under this subsection shall be deposited in the General Fund. This subsection does not apply to petitions filed by an indigent."

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE EXPUNCTION OF CONVICTIONS FOR CERTAIN NONVIOLENT CRIMINAL OFFENSES, TO MAKE CONFORMING CHANGES TO EXISTING EXPUNCTION STATUTES, AND TO REQUIRE STATE AND NATIONAL CRIMINAL RECORD CHECKS WHEN EXPUNGING RECORDS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 5 of Chapter 15A of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 15A-149. Expunction of records for conviction of certain nonviolent criminal offenses if there are no subsequent criminal convictions for at least 10 years.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term 'nonviolent criminal offense' means a misdemeanor, Class H felony, or Class I felony; however, the term does not include any of the following:

(1) An offense that includes assault as an essential element of the offense.

(2) An offense for which the offender must register under Article 27A of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes.

(3) An offense that includes the possession or use of a firearm as an essential element of the offense.

(4) An offense for which the offender was armed with or used a firearm.

(5) An offense that is trafficking under G.S. 90-95(h).

(b) Whenever a person who has not previously been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States, the laws of this State, or any other state, pleads guilty to or is guilty of a nonviolent criminal offense, the person may file a petition in the court where he or she was convicted for expunction of the nonviolent criminal offense from the person's criminal record. The petition cannot be filed earlier than 10 years after the date of the conviction or any period of probation, whichever occurs later. The petition shall contain, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) An affidavit by the petitioner that he or she has been of good behavior for the 10-year period since the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and has not been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state.

(2) Verified affidavits of two persons who are not related to the petitioner or to each other by blood or marriage, that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which the petitioner lives and that the person's character and reputation are good.

(3) A statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted.

(4) An application on a form approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts requesting and authorizing a State and national criminal record check by the Department of Justice using any information required by the Administrative Office of the Courts to identify the individual, and a search of the confidential record of expungements maintained by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The application shall be forwarded to the Department of Justice and to the Administrative Office of the Courts, which shall conduct the searches, and report their findings to the court.

(5) An affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the court where the case was tried resulting in conviction. The district attorney shall have 10 days to file any objection to the petition and shall be notified as to the date of the hearing of the petition.

The judge to whom the petition is presented may call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the 10-year period that the judge deems desirable.

(c) If the court, after hearing, finds that the petitioner had remained of good behavior and been free of conviction of any felony or misdemeanor, other than a traffic violation, for 10 years from the date of conviction of the nonviolent criminal offense in question and the petitioner has no outstanding restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner, then the court shall order that the petitioner be restored, in the contemplation of the law, to the status the petitioner occupied before the arrest, indictment, conviction or information for the nonviolent criminal offense. No person as to whom such order has been entered shall be held thereafter under any provision of any laws to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his or her failure to recite or acknowledge such arrest, indictment, conviction, information, trial, or response to any inquiry made of the person for any purpose.

(d) The court shall also order that the conviction for the nonviolent criminal offense be expunged from the records of the court and direct all law enforcement agencies bearing record of the same to expunge their records of the conviction. The clerk shall forward a certified copy of the order to the sheriff, chief of police, or other arresting agency. The sheriff, chief, or head of any other arresting agency shall then transmit the copy of the order with a form supplied by the State Bureau of Investigation to the State Bureau of Investigation, and the State Bureau of Investigation shall forward the order to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Expunction of records may occur only once with respect to any person.

(e) Any other applicable State or local government agency shall expunge from its records entries made as a result of the charge or conviction ordered expunged under this section. The agency shall also reverse any administrative actions taken against a person whose record is expunged under this section as a result of the charges or convictions expunged. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the normal fee for any reinstatement of a license or privilege resulting under this section shall be waived.

(f) The clerk of superior court in each county in North Carolina shall, as soon as practicable after each term of court in his or her county, file with the Administrative Office of the Courts, the names of those persons granted expunctions under the provisions of this section, and the Administrative Office of the Courts shall maintain a confidential file containing the names of persons granted expunctions. The information contained in the file shall be disclosed only to judges of the General Court of Justice of North Carolina for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person charged with an offense has been previously granted an expunction.

(g) A person who files a petition for expunction of a criminal record under this section must pay the clerk of superior court a fee of one hundred dollars ($100.00) at the time the petition is filed. Fifty dollars ($50.00) of the fee collected under this subsection shall be remitted to the North Carolina Department of Justice to pay the costs of the State Bureau of Investigation purging records pursuant to receipt of an order of expunction. The remaining fifty dollars ($50.00) of the fee shall be remitted to the Administrative Office of the Courts to pay the costs associated with implementation of the provisions of this section. This subsection does not apply to petitions filed by an indigent."

SECTION 2. G.S. 15A-145(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) Whenever any person who has (i) not yet attained the age of 18 years and has not previously been convicted of any felony, or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation, under the laws of the United States, the laws of this State or any other state, pleads guilty to or is guilty of a misdemeanor other than a traffic violation, or (ii) not yet attained the age of 21 years and has not previously been convicted of any felony, or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation, under the laws of the United States, the laws of this State or any other state, pleads guilty to or is guilty of a misdemeanor possession of alcohol pursuant to G.S. 18B-302(b)(1), he may file a petition in the court where he was convicted for expunction of the misdemeanor from his criminal record. The petition cannot be filed earlier than two years after the date of the conviction or any period of probation, whichever occurs later, and the petition shall contain, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) An affidavit by the petitioner that he has been of good behavior for the two-year period since the date of conviction of the misdemeanor in question and has not been convicted of any felony, or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation, under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state.

(2) Verified affidavits of two persons who are not related to the petitioner or to each other by blood or marriage, that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which he lives and that his character and reputation are good.

(3) A statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted.

~~(4) Affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, where appropriate, and sheriff of the county in which the petitioner was convicted and, if different, the county of which the petitioner is a resident, showing that the petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor other than a traffic violation under the laws of this State at any time prior to the conviction for the misdemeanor in question or during the two-year period following that conviction.~~

(4) An application on a form approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts requesting and authorizing a State and national criminal record check by the Department of Justice using any information required by the Administrative Office of the Courts to identify the individual, and a search of the confidential record of expungements maintained by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The application shall be forwarded to the Department of Justice and to the Administrative Office of the Courts, which shall conduct the searches, and report their findings to the court.

(5) An affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against him are outstanding.

The petition shall be served upon the district attorney of the court wherein the case was tried resulting in conviction. The district attorney shall have 10 days thereafter in which to file any objection thereto and shall be duly notified as to the date of the hearing of the petition.

The judge to whom the petition is presented is authorized to call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the two-year period that he deems desirable."

SECTION 3. G.S. 15A-145 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(c1) Any other applicable State or local government agency shall expunge from its records entries made as a result of the charge or conviction ordered expunged under this section. The agency shall also reverse any administrative actions taken against a person whose record is expunged under this section as a result of the charges or convictions expunged. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the normal fee for any reinstatement of a license or privilege resulting under this section shall be waived."

SECTION 4. G.S. 15A-146 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(b3) Any other applicable State or local government agency shall expunge from its records entries made as a result of the charge or conviction ordered expunged under this section. The agency shall also reverse any administrative actions taken against a person whose record is expunged under this section as a result of the charges or convictions expunged. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the normal fee for any reinstatement of a license or privilege resulting under this section shall be waived."

SECTION 5. G.S. 90-96(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Upon the dismissal of such person, and discharge of the proceedings against him under subsection (a) of this section, such person, if he were not over 21 years of age at the time of the offense, may apply to the court for an order to expunge from all official records (other than the confidential file to be retained by the Administrative Office of the Courts under subsection (c)) all recordation relating to his arrest, indictment or information, trial, finding of guilty, and dismissal and discharge pursuant to this section. The applicant shall attach to the application the following:

(1) An affidavit by the applicant that he has been of good behavior during the period of probation since the decision to defer further proceedings on the offense in question and has not been convicted of any felony, or misdemeanor, other than a traffic violation, under the laws of the United States or the laws of this State or any other state;

(2) Verified affidavits by two persons who are not related to the applicant or to each other by blood or marriage, that they know the character and reputation of the petitioner in the community in which he lives, and that his character and reputation are good;

(3) An application on a form approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts requesting and authorizing a State and national criminal record check by the Department of Justice using any information required by the Administrative Office of the Courts to identify the individual, and a search of the confidential record of expungements maintained by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The application shall be forwarded to the Department of Justice and to the Administrative Office of the Courts, which shall conduct the searches, and report their findings to the court.

The judge to whom the petition is presented is authorized to call upon a probation officer for any additional investigation or verification of the petitioner's conduct during the probationary period deemed desirable.

If the court determines, after hearing, that such person was dismissed and the proceedings against him discharged and that he was not over 21 years of age at the time of the offense, it shall enter such order. The effect of such order shall be to restore such person in the contemplation of the law to the status he occupied before such arrest or indictment or information. No person as to whom such order was entered shall be held thereafter under any provision of any law to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his failures to recite or acknowledge such arrest, or indictment or information, or trial in response to any inquiry made of him for any purpose.

The court shall also order that said conviction and the records relating thereto be expunged from the records of the court, and direct all law-enforcement agencies bearing records of the same to expunge their records of the conviction. SECTION 7. This act becomes effective December 1, 2005 and applies to applications for expunction of records made on or after that date.

SENATE BILL 559:
Expunction/Convictions of Nonviolent Crimes.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Introduced by:	Senator Kinnaird
Date:	April 19, 2005	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute [v.4]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 559 would provide for the expunction of convictions for certain nonviolent criminal offenses. The bill would require a waiting period of 10 years after the conviction; no prior or subsequent felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offenses; and an affidavit attesting to the petitioner's character. The PCS would set the fee for filing an application for expunction at $100.00, to be divided equally between the Department of Justice and the Administrative Office of the Courts. The PCS would also replace the use of multiple affidavits when applying for an expunction with one State and national criminal record check, and would correct an oversight in current law by inserting a section directing State and local agencies to expunge their records. The act would become effective December 1, 2005 and would apply to applications for expunction of records made on or after that date.

CURRENT LAW: Article 5 of the Criminal Procedure Act provides for the expunction of criminal records of certain criminal charges or convictions. Expunction is the process by which a record of criminal conviction is removed by order of the court, and the individual is restored to the status he or she occupied before the arrest or indictment. General Statute 15A-145 (Expunction of records for first offenders under the age of 18 at the time of conviction of misdemeanor; expunction of certain other misdemeanors) allows a person convicted of a misdemeanor to file a petition for expunction of the misdemeanor from his or her criminal record if the person was under 18 at the time of a conviction or, in the case of a misdemeanor alcohol possession charge, the person was under 21 at the time of conviction. The petition may not be filed sooner than 2 years after the conviction or completion of probation and must include the following [1]:

1) an affidavit of good behavior for the two years following conviction, stating that the petitioner has not been convicted of any felony or non-traffic misdemeanor charge;

2) two affidavits of good character from persons unrelated to the petitioner;

3) a statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted; and

4) affidavits of the clerk of superior court, chief of police, and sheriff of the county of the offense and where the petitioner resides showing that petitioner has not been convicted of a felony or non-traffic misdemeanor offense prior to or in the two years since the conviction in question.

If the court finds in favor of the petitioner the clerk of superior court and the appropriate law enforcement agencies must expunge the record of the conviction. Other sections of Article 5 provide for "Expunction of records when charges are dismissed or there are finding of not guilty as a result of identity fraud"[2] and "Expunction of DNA records when charges are dismissed on appeal or pardon of innocence is granted."[3]

[1] G.S. 15A-145(a)(1) through (4).
[2] G.S. 15A-147.
[3] G.S. 15A-148.

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would add a new section to Article 5 "Expunction of Records" of Chapter 15A "Criminal Procedure Act" of the General Statutes. The proposed G.S. 15A-149 – "Expunction of records for conviction of certain nonviolent criminal offenses if there are no subsequent criminal convictions for at least 10 years" would apply to persons with no criminal record prior to the conviction for which expunction is sought. "Nonviolent criminal offense" would include misdemeanors, Class H and Class I felonies, but would specifically exclude the following offenses:

- an offense that includes assault as an essential element of the offense;
- an offense included in Article 27A "Sex Offender and Public Protection Registration Programs"[4];
- an offense involving a firearm; and
- a drug trafficking offense[5].

The procedure to be followed by the petitioner is modeled along the lines of the existing procedures for expunction of records, but with a waiting period of 10 years from the date of conviction or completion of probation (whichever is later). The petition would require at least the following:

1) an affidavit of good behavior for the 10 years following conviction, stating that the petitioner has not been convicted of any felony or non-traffic misdemeanor charge during that time;

2) two affidavits of good character from persons unrelated to petitioner;

3) a statement that the petition is a motion in the cause in the case wherein the petitioner was convicted;

4) an application form authorizing the Administrative Office of the Courts and the Department of Justice to conduct a State and national criminal record check of the applicant and a search of the confidential record of expungements maintained by the Administrative Office of the Courts; and

5) an affidavit by the petitioner that no restitution orders or civil judgments representing amounts ordered for restitution entered against the petitioner are outstanding.

The bill would set the filing fee at $100.00, to be divided equally between the North Carolina Department of Justice and the Administrative Office of the Courts to cover costs associated with implementation of provisions of the bill.

If the court finds in favor of the petitioner the clerk of superior court and the appropriate law enforcement agencies will expunge their records of the conviction. The PCS also directs "any other applicable State or local government agency to expunge from its records entries made as a result of the charge or conviction ordered expunged...", and further directs the agency to reverse administrative actions taken against a person whose record is expunged, waiving fees normally charged for reinstatement of a license or privilege. The PCS makes conforming changes to existing expunction statutes[6], replacing the multiple affidavits showing no prior or subsequent criminal convictions with one State and national criminal record check conducted by the AOC and the DOJ, and adds a clause to Article 5 expunctions directing State and local agencies to expunge their records (in order to purge Department of Corrections records which is currently done only in G.S. 15A-147), in addition to court and law enforcement agency records.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 1 of Chapter 36A of the General Statutes is recodified as Article 6 of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes. G.S. 36A-63, G.S. 36A-66.1, and Article 6 of Chapter 36A are recodified in Article 15 of Chapter 53 of the General Statutes as G.S. 53-163.1 through G.S. 53-163.7. The remainder of Chapter 36A of the General Statutes is repealed.

SECTION 2. The General Statutes are amended by adding a new Chapter to read:

"Chapter 36C.

"North Carolina Uniform Trust Code.

"Article 1.

"General Provisions and Definitions.

"§ 36C-1-101. Short title.

This Chapter may be cited as the North Carolina Uniform Trust Code.

"§ 36C-1-102. Scope.

This Chapter applies to any express trust, private or charitable, with additions to the trust, wherever and however created. The term "express trust" includes both testamentary and inter vivos trusts, regardless of whether the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court. This Chapter also applies to any trust created for or determined by judgment or decree under which the trust is to be administered in the manner of an express trust. This Chapter does not apply to constructive trusts, resulting trusts, conservatorships, estates, trust accounts as defined in G.S. 53-146.2, 54-109.57, 54B-130, and 54C-166, trust funds subject to G.S. 90-210.61, custodial arrangements pursuant to G.S. 33A-1 through G.S. 33A-24 and G.S. 33B-1 through G.S. 33B-22, business trusts providing for certificates to be issued to beneficiaries, common trust funds, voting trusts, security arrangements, liquidation trusts, and trusts for the primary purpose of paying debts, dividends, interest, salaries, wages, profits, pensions, or employee benefits of any kind, or any arrangement under which a person is nominee or escrowee for another.

(b) An organization that conducts activities through employees has notice or knowledge of a fact involving a trust only from the time the information was received by an employee having responsibility to act for the trust, or would have been brought to the employee's attention if the organization had exercised reasonable diligence. An organization exercises reasonable diligence if it maintains reasonable routines for communicating significant information to the employee having responsibility to act for the trust and there is reasonable compliance with the routines. Reasonable diligence does not require an employee of the organization to communicate information unless the communication is part of the employee's regular duties or the employee knows a matter involving the trust would be materially affected by the information.

"§ 36C-1-105. Default and mandatory rules.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, this Chapter governs the duties and powers of a trustee, relations among trustees, and the rights and interests of a beneficiary.

(b) The terms of a trust prevail over any provision of this Chapter except:

(1) The requirements for creating a trust;

(2) The duty of a trustee to act in good faith and in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries;

(3) The requirement that a trust and its terms be for the benefit of its beneficiaries, and that the trust have a purpose that is lawful, not contrary to public policy, and possible to achieve;

"§ 36C-1-106. Common law of trusts; principles of equity.

The common law of trusts and principles of equity supplement this Chapter, except to the extent modified by this Chapter or another statute of this State.

"§ 36C-1-107. Governing law.

The meaning and effect of the terms of a trust are determined by:

(1) The law of the jurisdiction designated in the terms unless the designation of that jurisdiction's law is contrary to a strong public policy of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue; or

(2) In the absence of a controlling designation in the terms of the trust, the law of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue.

"§ 36C-1-108. Principal place of administration.

(a) Without precluding other means for establishing a sufficient connection with the designated jurisdiction, terms of a trust designating the principal place of administration are valid and controlling if:

(1) A trustee's principal place of business is located in, or a trustee is a resident of, the designated jurisdiction; or

(2) All or part of the administration occurs in the designated jurisdiction.

(b) Without precluding the right of the court to order, approve, or disapprove a transfer, the trustee may transfer the trust's principal place of administration to another jurisdiction in accordance with the provisions of this subsection:

(1) If the trustee is transferring the trust's principal place of administration to another state, the trustee shall provide written notice of the proposed transfer to the qualified beneficiaries of the trust not less than 60 days before initiating the transfer. If no qualified beneficiary notifies the trustee of an objection to the proposed transfer on or before the date specified in the notice, the trustee may make the transfer. If a qualified beneficiary notifies the trustee of an objection to the proposed transfer on or before the date specified in the notice, the authority of the trustee to transfer the trust's principal place of administration in accordance with the provisions of this section terminates.

(2) If the trustee is transferring the trust's principal place of administration to a jurisdiction outside of the United States, the trustee shall provide written notice of the proposed transfer to the qualified beneficiaries of the trust and the transfer cannot be made until the written consent of all the qualified beneficiaries is obtained.

(c) Anytime a trustee is required to provide a qualified beneficiary with written notice of a proposed transfer of a trust's principal place of administration, the notice of proposed transfer must include:

(1) The name of the jurisdiction to which the principal place of administration is to be transferred;

(2) The address and telephone number at the new location at which the trustee can be contacted;

(3) An explanation of the reasons for the proposed transfer;
(4) The date on which the proposed transfer is anticipated to occur; and
(5) If the proposed transfer is to another state, the date, not less than 60 days after the giving of the notice, by which the qualified beneficiary must notify the trustee of an objection to the proposed transfer.

(d) In connection with a transfer of the trust's principal place of administration, the trustee may transfer some or all of the trust property to a successor trustee designated in the terms of the trust or appointed pursuant to G.S. 36C-7-704.

"§ 36C-1-109. Methods and waiver of notice.

(a) Notice to a person under this Chapter or the sending of a document to a person under this Chapter must be accomplished in a manner reasonably suitable under the circumstances and likely to result in receipt of the notice or document. Permissible methods of notice or for sending a document include first-class mail, personal delivery, delivery to the person's last known place of residence or place of business, or a properly directed electronic message.

(b) Notice otherwise required under this Chapter, or a document otherwise required to be sent under this Chapter, need not be provided to a person whose identity or location is unknown to and not reasonably ascertainable by the trustee.

(c) Notice under this Chapter, or the sending of a document under this Chapter, may be waived by the person to be notified or sent the document.

(d) Notice of a judicial proceeding must be given as provided in Article 2 of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-1-110. Others treated as qualified beneficiaries.

(a) A charitable organization expressly designated to receive distributions under the terms of a charitable trust has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this Chapter if the charitable organization, on the date the charitable organization's qualification is being determined:

(1) Is a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal;
(2) Would be a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal upon the termination of the interest of other distributees or permissible distributees then receiving or eligible to receive distributions, but the termination of those interests would not cause the trust to terminate; or
(3) Would be a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal if the trust terminated on that date.

(b) A person appointed to enforce a trust created for the care of an animal or another noncharitable purpose as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or G.S. 36C-4-409 has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this Chapter.

"§ 36C-1-111. Nonjudicial settlement agreements.

(a) For purposes of this section, "interested persons" means persons whose consent would be required in order to achieve a binding settlement were the settlement to be approved by the court.

(b) Interested persons may enter into a binding nonjudicial settlement agreement with respect to any of the following matters involving a trust:

(1) The approval of a trustee's report or accounting;

(2) Direction to a trustee to perform or refrain from performing a particular administrative act or the grant to a trustee of any necessary or desirable administrative power, including a power granted pursuant to G.S. 36C-8-816;

(3) The resignation or appointment of a trustee and the determination of a trustee's compensation;

(4) Transfer of a trust's principal place of administration; and

(5) Liability of a trustee for any action taken pursuant to subdivisions (1) through (4) of this subsection.

(c) A nonjudicial settlement agreement is valid only to the extent it does not violate a material purpose of the trust and includes terms and conditions that could be properly approved by the court under this Chapter or other applicable law.

(d) Any interested person may request the court to approve a nonjudicial settlement agreement, to determine whether the representation as provided in Article 3 of this Chapter was adequate, and to determine whether the agreement contains terms and conditions the court could have properly approved.

"§ 36C-1-112. Rules of construction.

The rules of construction that apply in this State to the interpretation of and disposition of property by will also apply as appropriate to the interpretation of the terms of a trust and the disposition of the trust property.

"Article 2.

"Judicial Proceedings.

"§ 36C-2-201. Role of court in administration of trust.

(a) The court may intervene in the administration of a trust to the extent its jurisdiction is invoked by a party or as provided by law.

(b) A trust is not subject to continuing judicial supervision, except as provided in G.S. 36C-2-208 and G.S. 36C-2-209, unless ordered by the court.

(c) A judicial proceeding involving a trust may relate to any matter involving the trust's administration, including a request for instructions and an action to declare rights.

"§ 36C-2-202. Jurisdiction over trustee and beneficiary.

(a) By accepting the trusteeship of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State, or by moving the principal place of administration to this State, the trustee submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust.

(b) With respect to their interests in the trust, the beneficiaries of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State are subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust. By accepting a distribution from such a trust, the recipient submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust.

(c) This section does not preclude other methods of obtaining jurisdiction over a trustee, beneficiary, or other person receiving property from the trust.

"§ 36C-2-203. Subject matter jurisdiction.

(a) The clerks of superior court of this State have original jurisdiction over all proceedings concerning the internal affairs of trusts. Except as provided in subdivision (9) of this subsection, the clerk of superior court's jurisdiction is exclusive. Proceedings concerning the internal affairs of the trust are those concerning the administration and distribution of trusts, the declaration of rights, and the determination of other matters involving trustees and trust beneficiaries, to the extent that those matters are not otherwise provided for in the governing instrument. These include proceedings:

(1) To appoint or remove a trustee;

(2) To permit a trustee to resign or renounce; however, unless the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, when the governing instrument names or provides a procedure to name a successor trustee, and the successor trustee is willing to serve, no trustee shall be required to initiate a proceeding to resign or renounce as trustee;

(3) To review trustees' fees pursuant to Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes and review and settle interim or final accounts;

(4) To (i) convert an income trust to a total return unitrust, (ii) reconvert a total return unitrust to an income trust, or (iii) change the percentage used to calculate the unitrust amount or the method used to determine the fair market value of the trust as provided in G.S. 37A-1-104.3;

(5) To transfer a trust's principal place of administration;

(6) To require a trustee to provide bond and determine the amount of the bond, excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties;

(7) To make such orders with respect to a trust for the care of animals as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

(8) To make such orders with respect to a noncharitable trust without an ascertainable beneficiary as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409; and

(9) To ascertain beneficiaries, to determine any question arising in the administration or distribution of any trust, including questions of construction of trust instruments, and to determine the existence or nonexistence of trusts created other than by will and the existence or nonexistence of any immunity, power, privilege, duty, or right. Upon motion of a party, the clerk of superior court may determine that a proceeding to determine an issue listed in this subdivision shall be originally heard by the superior court division of the General Court of Justice.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed (i) to confer upon the clerk of superior court any authority to regulate or supervise the actions of a trustee except to the extent that the trustee's actions are inconsistent with the provisions of the governing instrument or of State law; or (ii) to confer upon any party any additional right, remedy, or cause of action not otherwise conferred by law.

(c) Nothing in this section affects the right of a person to file an action for declaratory relief under the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes. In the event either the petitioner or respondent in a trust proceeding requests declaratory relief under the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes, either party may move for a transfer of the proceeding to the superior court division of the General Court of Justice as provided in Article 21 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes. In absence of removal to superior court, the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes shall apply to a trust proceeding to the extent not inconsistent with this Article.

(d) The clerk of superior court shall not, over the objection of a party, entertain proceedings under this section involving a trust having its principal place of administration in another state, except:

(1) When all appropriate parties could not be bound by litigation in the courts of the state in which the trust had its principal place of administration; or

(2) When the interests of justice otherwise would be seriously impaired.

The clerk of superior court may condition a stay or dismissal of a proceeding under this section on the consent of any party to jurisdiction of the state in which the trust has its principal place of administration, or the clerk of superior court may grant a continuance or enter any other appropriate order.

(e) Any party to a proceeding before the clerk of superior court may appeal from the decision of the clerk to a superior court judge as provided for estate matters in G.S. 1-301.3.

(f) Without otherwise limiting the jurisdiction of the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, proceedings concerning the internal affairs of trusts shall not include, and, therefore, the clerk of superior court shall not have jurisdiction under subsection (a) of the following:

(1) Actions to reform, terminate, or modify a trust as provided by G.S. 36C-4-410 through G.S. 36C-4-416;

(2) Actions by or against creditors or debtors of a trust;

(3) Actions involving claims for monetary damages, including claims for breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, and negligence;

(4) Actions to enforce a charitable trust under G.S. 36C-4-405A; and

(5) Actions to amend or reform a charitable trust under G.S. 36C-4A-1.

"§ 36C-2-204. Venue.

In any trust proceeding or action, whether brought before the clerk of superior court or the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, the following rules apply notwithstanding any other applicable Rule of Civil Procedure or provision of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes:

(1) If the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, then unless the terms of the governing instrument provide otherwise, venue for proceedings under G.S. 36C-2-203 involving trusts is the place where the accountings are filed.

(2) If the trustee is not required to account to the clerk of superior court, then unless the terms of the governing instrument provide otherwise, venue for proceedings under G.S. 36C-2-203 involving trusts is:

a. In the case of an inter vivos trust, in any county of this State in which the trust has its principal place of administration or where any beneficiary resides; or

b. In the case of a testamentary trust, in any county of this State in which the trust has its principal place of administration, where any beneficiary resides, or in which the testator's estate was administered.

(3) Unless otherwise designated in the governing instrument, the principal place of administration of the trust is the trustee's usual place of business where the records pertaining to the trust are kept, or at the trustee's residence if the trustee has no such place of business. In the case of co-trustees, the principal place of administration, if not otherwise designated in the governing instrument, is:

a. The usual place of business of the corporate trustee if there is but one corporate or co-trustee; or

b. The usual place of business or residence of any of the co-trustees.

(4) If a trust has no trustee, venue for a judicial proceeding for the appointment of a trustee is in any county of this State in which a beneficiary resides, in any county in which trust property is located, in the county of this State specified in the trust instrument, if any county is so specified, or if the trust is created by will, in the county in which the decedent's estate was or is being administered.

"§ 36C-2-205. Commencement of proceedings, pleadings, consolidation, and joinder.

(a) Contested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court brought against adverse parties shall be commenced as is prescribed for civil actions. Upon the filing of the petition or complaint, the clerk of superior court shall docket the cause as an estate matter. All parties not joined as petitioners shall be joined as respondents. The clerk of superior court shall issue the summons for the respondents.

The clerk of superior court may order that additional persons be joined as respondents and shall issue the summons for the additional persons. The summons shall notify the respondents to appear and answer the petition within 10 days after its service upon the respondents. The summons shall comply with the requirements set forth in G.S. 1-394 for a special proceeding summons except that the clerk of superior court shall indicate on the summons by appropriate words that the summons is issued in an estate matter and not in a special proceeding or in a civil action and shall be served upon the respondents in accordance with Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. After the time for responding to the petition or complaint has expired, any party or the clerk of superior court may give notice to all parties of a hearing.

(b) Uncontested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court in which all the parties join in the proceeding shall be commenced by the filing of a petition, setting forth the facts entitling the petitioners to relief and the nature of the relief demanded. In such proceedings, the clerk of superior court may hear and decide the petition summarily.

(c) Pleadings. – The petition or complaint filed in a trust proceeding before the clerk of superior court shall contain a short and plain statement of the claim which is sufficiently particular to give the court and the parties notice of the transactions, occurrences, or series of transactions, intended to be proved showing that the pleaders entitled to relief, and a demand for judgment for the relief to which the pleader is entitled. Each averment of a pleading should be simple, concise, and direct. No technical forms of pleadings or motions are required. A party may set forth two or more statements of a claim or defense alternatively or hypothetically. The signature of an attorney or party constitutes a certificate by that attorney or party that (i) the attorney or party has read the pleading, motion, or other paper; (ii) that to the best of the attorney's or party's knowledge, information, and belief formed after reasonable inquiry it is well grounded in fact and is warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law; and (iii) that it is not interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation. All pleadings shall be so construed as to do substantial justice.

(d) Extensions of Time. – The clerk of superior court, for cause shown at any time in the clerk's discretion, with or without motion or notice, may enter an order enlarging the period of time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, if the request is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed, but not to exceed 10 days, nor more than once. Upon motion made after the expiration of the specified period, the clerk of superior court may permit the act where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the parties to a proceeding may enter into binding stipulations, without approval of the clerk of superior court, enlarging the time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, not to exceed 30 days.

(e) Rules of Civil Procedure. – Unless the clerk of superior court otherwise directs, Rules 5, 6(a), 6(d), 6(e), 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, and 45 of the Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to trust proceedings. Upon motion of a party or the clerk of superior court, the clerk may further direct that the following Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply: 15, 16, 17, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, and 37; however, nothing in Rule 17 shall require the appointment of a guardian ad litem for a party represented except as provided under G.S. 36C-3-305. In applying these Rules to a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court, the term "judge" shall be construed as "clerk of superior court."

(f) Consolidation. – When a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court and a civil action pending before the superior court division of the General Court of Justice involve a common question of law or fact, upon the court's motion or motion of a party to either the trust proceeding or the civil action, a superior court judge may order a consolidation of the trust proceeding and civil action, and the judge may make such orders concerning proceedings therein as may tend to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Upon the entry of an order consolidating a trust proceeding and civil action, the jurisdiction for all matters pending in both the trust proceeding and the civil action shall be vested in the superior court.

(g) Joinder. – In any civil action pending before a superior court division of the General Court of Justice, a party asserting a claim for relief as an original claim, counterclaim, cross claim, or third-party claim, may join, either as independent or as alternate claims, as many claims, legal or equitable, as he has against an opposing party notwithstanding the fact that such claims may otherwise be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the clerk of superior court.

(h) Orders Upon Consolidation/Joinder. – Upon the consolidation of a trust proceeding and civil action or joinder of claims pursuant to subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of superior court or the judge may make such orders as appropriate to protect the interests of the parties and to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Notwithstanding the consolidation or joinder of claims pursuant to subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of court's exclusive jurisdiction as set forth in G.S. 36C-2-203(a) shall not be stayed unless so ordered by the court.

"§ 36C-2-206. Representation of parties.

In any trust proceeding or action, whether brought before the clerk of superior court or in the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, the following rules apply notwithstanding any other applicable Rule of Civil Procedure or provision of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes:

(1) Parties shall be represented as provided in Article 3 of this Chapter.

(2) In the case of any party represented by another as provided in subdivision (1) of this section, service of process shall be made by serving such representative.

"§ 36C-2-207. Waiver of notice.

A party, or the representative of the party as provided in G.S. 36C-2-206, may waive notice by a writing signed by the party, the representative, or the attorney of the party or the representative, and filed in the proceeding.

"§ 36C-2-208. Accounting to clerk.

(a) No trustee, including a trustee appointed by the clerk of superior court, shall be required to account to the clerk of superior court unless the trust instrument directs that the trustee shall be required to account to the clerk of superior court or unless the trustee is otherwise required by law to account to the clerk of superior court.

(b) If the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, the trustee shall not be permitted to resign as trustee until a final account of the trust estate is filed with the clerk of superior court and until the court shall be satisfied that the account is true and correct, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) of this section, pursuant to a proceeding brought under G.S. 36C-4-405A, the clerk of superior court may require a trustee of a charitable trust to account to the clerk of superior court.

"§ 36C-2-209. Qualification and accounting of trustee of a testamentary trust.

(a) For any testamentary trust created under a will of a decedent executed before January 1, 2004, the trustee shall first qualify under the laws applicable to executors, and shall file in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county where the will is probated inventories of the assets that come into the trustee's hands and annual and final accounts of the trust that are the same as required of executors and administrators. "Article 3.

"Representation.

"§ 36C-3-301. Representation: basic effect.

(a) Notice to a person who may represent and bind another person under this Article has the same effect as if notice were given directly to the other person.

(b) The consent of a person who may represent and bind another person under this Article is binding on the person represented unless the person represented objects to the representation before the consent would otherwise have become effective.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-411 and G.S. 36C-6-602, a person who under this Article may represent a settlor who lacks capacity may receive notice and give a binding consent on the settlor's behalf.

(d) A settlor may not represent and bind a beneficiary under this Article with respect to the termination or modification of trust under G.S. 36C-4-411(a).

"§ 36C-3-302. Representation by holder of general testamentary power of appointment.

The sole holder or all coholders of a power of revocation or a presently exercisable general power of appointment, including one in the form of a power of amendment, shall represent other persons to the extent that their interests, as permissible appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power. To the extent there is no conflict of interest between the holder of a general testamentary power of appointment and the persons represented with respect to the particular question or dispute, the holder may represent and bind persons whose interests, as permissible appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power.

"§ 36C-3-303. Representation by fiduciaries, parents, and other persons.

"§ 36C-3-305. Appointment of representative; scope of representation.

(a) If the court determines that an interest is not represented under this Article, or that the otherwise available representation might be inadequate, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to receive notice, give consent, and otherwise represent, bind, and act on behalf of a minor, incapacitated or unborn individual, or a person whose identity or location is unknown. "Article 4.

"Creation, Validity, Modification, and Termination of Trust.

"§ 36C-4-401. Methods of creating trust.

A trust may be created by:

(1) Transfer of property by a settlor to a person as trustee during the settlor's lifetime or by will or other disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death;

(2) Declaration by the owner of property that the owner holds identifiable property as trustee unless the transfer of title of that property is otherwise required by law; or

(3) Exercise of a power of appointment in favor of a trustee.

"§ 36C-4-401A. Interest of trustee as beneficiary of life insurance or other death benefit sufficient to support inter vivos or testamentary trust.

(a) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured or any other person or persons reserves or has the right to exercise any one or more of the following rights or powers:

(1) To change the beneficiary;

(2) To surrender the policy and receive the cash surrender value;

(3) To borrow from the insurance company issuing the policy or elsewhere using the policy as collateral security;

(4) To assign the policy; or

(5) To exercise any other right in connection with the policy commonly known as an incident of ownership of that policy.

The term "life insurance policy" includes life, annuity, and endowment contracts, or any variation or combination of those contracts, and any agreement entered into by an insurance company in connection with life, annuity, or endowments contracts.

(b) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a death benefit under an employee benefit plan or group life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured, employer, insurer or administrator of the plan reserves or has the right to revoke or otherwise defeat the designation or assignment or to exercise any one or more of the rights or powers incident to employee benefit plans or group life insurance policies.

The term "employee benefit plan" includes pension, retirement, death benefit, deferred compensation, employment, agency, retirement annuity, stock bonus, profit-sharing or employees' savings contracts, plans, systems or trusts; and trusts, securities or accounts established or held pursuant to the federal Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962, the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, or similar legislation. The term "group life insurance policy" includes group life, industrial life, accident, and health insurance policies having death benefits.

(c) A testator having the right to designate the beneficiary under a life insurance policy, employee benefit plan, or group life insurance policy described in subsection (a) or (b) of this section may designate as that beneficiary a trustee named or to be named in the testator's will whether or not the will is in existence at the time of the designation. The proceeds received by the trustee shall be held and disposed of as part of the trust estate under the terms of the will as they exist at the death of the testator. If no trustee makes claim to the proceeds within six months after the death of the testator, payments shall be made to the personal representative of the estate of the testator unless it is otherwise provided by an alternative designation or by the policy or plan. The proceeds received by the trustee shall not be subject to claims against the estate of the testator to estate or inheritance taxes to any greater extent than if the proceeds were payable directly to the beneficiary or beneficiaries named in the trust. The proceeds may be commingled with any other assets that may properly become part of such trust, but the proceeds shall not become part of the testator's estate for purposes of trust administration unless the will expressly so provides.

"§ 36C-4-402. Requirements for creation.

(a) A trust is created only if:

(1) The settlor has capacity to create a trust;

(2) The settlor indicates an intention to create the trust;

(3) The trust has a definite beneficiary or is:

a. A charitable trust;

b. A trust for the care of an animal, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

c. A trust for a noncharitable purpose, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409;

(4) The trustee has duties to perform; and

(5) The same person is not the sole trustee and sole beneficiary.

(b) A beneficiary is definite if the beneficiary can be ascertained now or in the future, subject to any applicable rule against perpetuities.

(c) A power in a trustee to select a beneficiary from an indefinite class is valid. If the power is not exercised within a reasonable time, the power fails and the property subject to the power passes to the persons who would have taken the property had the power not been conferred.

"§ 36C-4-403. Trusts created in other jurisdictions.

A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complies with the law of the jurisdiction in which the trust instrument was executed, or the law of the jurisdiction in which, at the time of creation:

(1) The settlor was domiciled, had a place of abode, or was a national;

(2) A trustee was domiciled or had a place of business; or

(3) Any trust property was located.

"§ 36C-4-404. Trust purposes.

A trust may be created only to the extent that its purposes are lawful, not contrary to public policy, and possible to achieve. A trust and its terms must be for the benefit of its beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-4-405. Charitable purposes.

(a) A charitable trust may be created for the relief of poverty, the advancement of education or religion, the promotion of health, scientific, benevolent, literary, governmental, or municipal purposes, or other purposes the achievement of which is beneficial to the community.

(b) It is the policy of the State of North Carolina that gifts for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, are valid, notwithstanding the fact that the gift is made in general terms, and this section shall be construed liberally to effect this policy.

(c) No gift for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, is void or invalid because:

(1) The gift is in general terms or is uncertain as to the specific charitable purposes;

(2) When the gift is made in trust, the trustee is granted discretionary powers in the selection and designation of the beneficiaries of that charitable trust or in carrying out the purpose of that trust;

(3) The trustee or other recipient of the gift is given no specific instructions, powers, or duties as to the manner or means of carrying out those charitable purposes; or

(4) The gift contravenes any statute or rule against perpetuities.

(d) When any gift is made in general terms, the trustee or other recipient of the gift shall have the right and power:

(1) To select from time to time one or more specific charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which any trust or property or income shall be held and administered; and

(2) To determine the means to accomplish those charitable purposes, unless otherwise provided, including the creation of corporations or other legal entities for those purposes.

(e) For purposes of this section, the reference to a "gift" or "gifts" includes both inter vivos and testamentary gifts, grants, and other transfers.

"§ 36C-4-405A. Enforcement of charitable gift or trust.

(a) The settlor of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, the district attorney, a beneficiary, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce a charitable trust, including the following:

(1) A proceeding to require a trustee to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the trust was established, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405;

(2) A proceeding for breach of fiduciary duty if there is reason to believe that the trust property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud; and

(3) A proceeding for an accounting of the trustee's administration of the trust.

(b) The donor of a charitable gift, the Attorney General, the district attorney, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce the gift, including a proceeding to require the recipient of the gift to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the gift was intended, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405.

"§ 36C-4-406. Creation of trust induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

A trust is voidable to the extent that its creation was induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

"§ 36C-4-407. Evidence of oral trust.

Except as required by a statute other than this Chapter, a trust need not be evidenced by a trust instrument, but the creation of an oral trust and its terms may be established only by clear and convincing evidence.

"§ 36C-4-408. Trust for care of animal.

(a) Subject to the provisions of this section, a trust for the care of one or more designated domestic or pet animals alive at the time of creation of the trust is valid.

(b) Except as expressly provided otherwise in the trust instrument, no portion of the principal or income may be converted to the use of the trustee or to any use other than for the benefit of the designated animal or animals.

(c) The trust terminates at the death of the animal or last surviving animal. Upon termination, the trustee shall transfer the unexpended trust property in the following order:

(1) As directed in the trust instrument;

(2) If the trust was created in a preresiduary clause in the transferor's will or in a codicil to the transferor's will, under the residuary clause in the transferor's will;

(3) If no taker is produced by the application of subdivision (1) or (2) of this subsection, to the transferor or the transferor's heirs determined as of the date of the transferor's death under Chapter 29 of the General Statutes.

(d) The intended use of the principal or income can be enforced by a person designated for that purpose in the trust instrument or, if none, by a person appointed by the clerk of superior court having jurisdiction over the decedent's estate upon application to the clerk of superior court by a person.

(e) Except as ordered by the clerk of superior court or required by the trust instrument, no filing, report, registration, periodic accounting, separate maintenance of funds, appointment, bond, or fee is required by reason of the existence of the fiduciary relationship of the trustee.

(f) A governing instrument shall be liberally construed to bring the transfer within this section, to presume against the merely precatory or honorary nature of the disposition, and to carry out the general intent of the transferor. Extrinsic evidence is admissible in determining the transferor's intent.

(g) The clerk of superior court may reduce the amount of the property transferred, if the clerk of superior court determines that the amount substantially exceeds the amount required for the intended use. The amount of the reduction, if any, passes as unexpended trust property under subsection (c) of this section.

(h) If no trustee is designated or if no designated trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve, the clerk of superior court shall name a trustee. The clerk of superior court may order the transfer of the property to another trustee, if required to assure that the intended use is carried out and if no successor trustee is designated in the trust instrument or if no designated successor trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve. The clerk of superior court may also make such other orders and determinations as are advisable to carry out the intent of the transferor and the purpose of this section.

"§ 36C-4-409. Noncharitable trust without ascertainable beneficiary.

Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or by another statute, the following rules apply:

(1) A trust may be created for a noncharitable purpose without a definite or definitely ascertainable beneficiary or for a noncharitable but otherwise valid purpose to be selected by the trustee. The trust may not be enforced for more than 21 years.

(2) A trust authorized by this section may be enforced by a person appointed in the terms of the trust or, if no person is so appointed, by a person appointed by the court.

(3) Property of a trust authorized by this section may be applied only to its intended use, except to the extent that the court determines that the value of the trust property exceeds the amount required for the intended use. Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, property not required for the intended use must be distributed to the settlor, if then living, or otherwise to the settlor's successors in interest.

(4) Notwithstanding subdivisions (1) through (3) of this section, a trust, contract, or other arrangement to provide for the care of a cemetery lot, grave, crypt, niche, mausoleum, columbarium, grave marker, or monument is valid without regard to remoteness of vesting, duration of the arrangement, or lack of definite beneficiaries to enforce the trust, provided that the trust, contract, or other arrangement meets the requirements of G.S. 28A-19-10, Article 4 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, Article 9 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, or other applicable law. This section does not repeal or supersede G.S. 36C-4-413.

"§ 36C-4-410. Modification or termination of trust; proceedings for approval or disapproval.

(a) In addition to the methods of termination prescribed by G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-414, a trust terminates to the extent that the trust is revoked or expires pursuant to its terms, no purpose of the trust remains to be achieved, or the purposes of the trust have become unlawful, contrary to public policy, or impossible to achieve.

(b) A proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-416, or trust combination or division under G.S. 36C-4-417, may be commenced by a trustee or beneficiary, and a proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under

G.S. 36C-4-411 may be commenced by the settlor. The settlor of a charitable trust may maintain a proceeding to modify the trust under G.S. 36C-4-413. A trustee shall be a necessary party to any proceeding under this section.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-411. Modification or termination of noncharitable irrevocable trust by consent.

(a) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified or terminated upon consent of the settlor and all beneficiaries, even if the modification or termination is inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust. A settlor's power to consent to a trust's modification or termination may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the power of attorney or the terms of the trust; by the settlor's general guardian or the guardian of the estate with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized; or by the settlor's guardian of the person with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized and a general guardian or guardian of the estate has not been appointed.

(b) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be terminated upon consent of all of the beneficiaries if the court concludes that continuance of the trust is not necessary to achieve any material purpose of the trust. A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified upon consent of all of the beneficiaries, if the court concludes that modification is not inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust.

(c) Where the beneficiaries of an irrevocable trust seek to compel a termination of the trust and the continuance of the trust is necessary to carry out a material purpose of the trust, or where the beneficiaries seek to compel a modification of the trust in a manner that is inconsistent with its material purpose, the trust may be modified or terminated, in the discretion of the court, only if the court determines that the reason for modifying or terminating the trust under the circumstances substantially outweighs the interest in accomplishing a material purpose of the trust.

(d) If not all of the beneficiaries consent to a proposed modification or termination of the trust under subsection (a), (b) or (c) of this section, the modification or termination may be approved by the court if the court is satisfied that:

(1) If all of the beneficiaries had consented, the trust could have been modified or terminated under this section; and

(2) The interests of a beneficiary who does not consent will be adequately protected.

(e) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-412. Modification or termination because of unanticipated circumstances or inability to administer trust effectively.

(a) The court may modify the administrative or dispositive terms of a trust or terminate the trust if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the settlor, modification or termination will further the purposes of the trust. To the extent practicable, the modification must be made in accordance with the settlor's probable intention.

(b) The court may modify the administrative terms of a trust if continuation of the trust on its existing terms would be impracticable or wasteful or impair the trust's administration.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-413. Cy pres.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, if a charitable trust becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful:

(1) The trust does not fail, in whole or in part;

(2) The trust property does not revert to the settlor or the settlor's successors in interest; and

(3) The court may apply cy pres to modify or terminate the trust by directing that the trust property be applied or distributed, in whole or in part, in a manner consistent with the settlor's charitable purposes.

(b) The settlor or a trustee of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, a beneficiary or any other interested party may maintain a cy pres proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter.

(c) In every cy pres proceeding, the Attorney General shall be notified and given an opportunity to be heard.

(d) This section shall not be applicable if the settlor has provided, either directly or indirectly, for an alternative plan in the event that the charitable trust is or becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful. However, if the alternative plan is also a charitable trust and that trust fails, the intention shown in the original plan shall prevail in the application of this section.

"§ 36C-4-414. Modification or termination of uneconomic trust.

(a) After notice to the qualified beneficiaries, the trustee of a trust consisting of trust property having a total value of less than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) may terminate the trust if the trustee concludes that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration. The trustee may enter into an agreement or make other provisions that the trustee deems necessary or appropriate to protect the interests of the beneficiaries and to carry out the intent and purpose of the trust. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply where the instrument creating the trust, by specific reference to this section, or to former G.S. 36A-125.6, provides that it shall not apply. The trustee shall not be liable for that termination and distribution notwithstanding the existence or potential existence of other beneficiaries who are not sui juris. Any beneficiary receiving a distribution from a trust terminated under this section shall incur no liability and shall not be required to account to anyone for such distribution.

(b) The court may modify or terminate a trust or remove the trustee and appoint a different trustee if it determines that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration.

(c) This section does not apply to an easement for conservation or preservation.

(d) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-415. Reformation to correct mistakes.

The court may reform the terms of a trust, even if unambiguous, to conform the terms to the settlor's intention if it is proved by clear and convincing evidence that both the settlor's intent and the terms of the trust were affected by a mistake of fact or law, whether in expression or inducement. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-416. Modification to achieve settlor's tax objectives.

To achieve a settlor's tax objectives, the court may modify the terms of a trust in a manner that is not contrary to the settlor's probable intention. The court may provide that the modification has retroactive effect. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-417. Combination and division of trusts.

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the trust instrument, after notice to the qualified beneficiaries, a trustee may:

(1) Consolidate the assets of more than one trust and administer the assets as one trust under the terms of one of the trusts if the terms of the trusts are substantially similar and the beneficiaries of the trusts are identical; or

(2) Divide one trust into two or more separate trusts if the new trusts provide in the aggregate for the same succession of interests and beneficiaries as are provided in the original trust.

(b) In dividing a trust into two or more separate trusts, a trustee shall accomplish the division by severing the trusts on a fractional basis and funding the separate trusts either (i) with a pro rata portion of each asset held by the undivided trust; or (ii) on a non-pro rata basis based on either the fair market value of the assets on the date of funding or in a manner that fairly reflects the net appreciation or depreciation in the value of the assets measured from the valuation date to the date of funding.

(c) In any case where two separate identical trusts are created pursuant to this section, one of which is fully exempt from the federal generation-skipping transfer tax and one of which is fully subject to that tax, the trustee may thereafter, to the extent possible consistent with the terms of the trust, determine the value of any mandatory or discretionary distributions to trust beneficiaries on the basis of the combined value of both trusts, but may satisfy those distributions by a method other than pro rata from the separate trusts in a manner designed to minimize the current and potential generation-skipping transfer tax.

"§ 36C-4-418. Distribution upon termination of trust.

Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, the trustee shall distribute the trust property as agreed by the beneficiaries. Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-412 or G.S. 36C-4-414, the trustee shall distribute the trust property in a manner consistent with the purposes of the trust. If any trust property becomes distributable to a minor or incompetent under this Article it may be distributed:

(1) To the guardian of the estate or general guardian of the beneficiary;

(2) In accordance with the North Carolina Uniform Transfer to Minors Act, Chapter 33A of the General Statutes; or

(3) In accordance with the North Carolina Custodial Trust Act, Chapter 33B of the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-4-419. Effect of inalienable interest on modification or termination.

The court, in exercising its discretion to modify or terminate an irrevocable trust pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 36C-4-411, 36C-4-412 or 36C-4-413 shall consider provisions making the interest of a beneficiary inalienable, including those described in Article 5, but the court is not precluded from the exercise of that discretion solely because of such provisions.

"Article 4A.

"Tax Status of Charitable Trusts.

"§ 36C-4A-1. Prohibited transactions.

(a) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (b), the trust instrument of each trust which is a private foundation described in section 509 of the Internal Revenue Code (including each nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code which is treated as a private foundation) and the trust instrument of each nonexempt split-interest trust described in section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code (but only to the extent that section 508(e) of the Internal Revenue Code is applicable to such nonexempt split-interest trust under section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code) shall be deemed to contain the following provisions: "The trust shall make distributions at such time and in such manner as not to subject it to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not engage in any act of self-dealing which would subject it to tax under section 4941 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not retain any excess business holdings which would subject it to tax under section 4943 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not make any investments which would subject it to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code; and the trust shall not make any taxable expenditures which would subject it to tax under section 4945 of the Internal Revenue Code." With respect to any such trust created prior to January 1, 1970, this section shall apply only for its taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1972.

(b) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary, unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (a) of this section, the governing instrument of each trust that is a nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code shall be deemed to contain the following provisions:

(1) The trust shall be operated exclusively for charitable, educational, religious and scientific purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) and section 170(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(2) Upon any dissolution, winding up, or liquidation of the trust, its assets shall be distributed for one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or shall be distributed to the federal government, or a state or local government for a public purpose.

(c) The trustee of any trust described in this section may either:

(1) Without judicial proceedings, amend the trust to expressly exclude the application of this section by executing a written amendment to the trust instrument and filing a duplicate original of the amendment with the Attorney General. Upon filing of the amendment, this section shall not apply to that trust.

(2) Institute a proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter seeking reformation of the trust instrument.

"§ 36C-4A-2. Reformation of charitable remainder trust.

If a federal estate tax deduction is not allowable at the time of a decedent's death because of the failure of an interest in property that passes from the decedent under a will or trust to a person, or for a use, described in section 2055(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, to meet the requirements of subsections 2055(e)(2)(A) or (B) of the Internal Revenue Code, then in order that the deduction shall nevertheless be allowable under section 2055(e)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, the court may, on application of any trustee or interested party with either (i) the written consent of the qualified beneficiaries, or (ii) a finding that the interest of those beneficiaries is substantially preserved, order an amendment to the trust so that the remainder interest is in a trust that is a charitable remainder annuity trust, a charitable remainder unitrust (as those terms are described in section 664 of the Internal Revenue Code), or a pooled income fund (as that term is described in section 642(c)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code), or so that any other interest of a charitable beneficiary is in the form of a guaranteed annuity or is a fixed percentage distributed yearly of the fair market value of the property (to be determined yearly), in accordance with the provisions of section 2055(e)(2)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code. In every such proceeding, the Attorney General shall be notified, and given an opportunity to be heard.

"Article 4B.

"Charitable Remainder Trust Administration Act.

"§ 36C-4B-1. Short title.

This Article shall be known as the Charitable Remainder Administration Trust Act.

"§ 36C-4B-2. General rule.

Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instruments to the contrary, any charitable remainder annuity trust and any charitable remainder unitrust that cannot qualify for a deduction for federal tax purposes under section 2055 or section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code in the absence of this Article shall be administered in accordance with this Article.

"§ 36C-4B-3. Definitions.

The following definitions apply to this Article unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Charitable remainder trust" means a trust that provides for a specified distribution at least annually for either life or a term of years to one or more beneficiaries, at least one of which is not a charity (hereinafter referred to as "beneficiaries"), with an irrevocable remainder interest to be held for the benefit of, or paid over to, charity. For purposes of this Article, only a charitable remainder annuity trust or a charitable remainder unitrust is considered a charitable remainder trust.

(2) "Charitable remainder annuity trust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a sum certain (that is not less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of all property placed in trust) is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to and/or for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code or is to be retained by the trust for such a use.

(3) "Charitable remainder unitrust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a fixed percentage (that is not less than five percent (5%)) of the net fair market value of its assets, valued annually, is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be made subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to or for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, or is to be retained by the trust for such a use.

Notwithstanding the provisions of sub-subdivisions a. and b. of this subdivision, the trust instrument may provide that the trustee shall pay to the income beneficiary for any year (i) the amount of the trust income if that amount is less than the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, and (ii) any amount of the trust income that exceeds the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivisions a of this subdivision to the extent that (by reason of sub-subdivision a.) the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the required amounts.

(4) "Qualified contingency" means any provision of the governing instrument that provides that, upon the happening of a contingency, the payments made to an individual noncharitable beneficiary of a charitable remainder trust will terminate not later than those payments would otherwise terminate under the governing instrument.

"§ 36C-4B-4. Administrative provisions applicable to both charitable remainder annuity trusts and charitable remainder unit trusts.

(a) Creation of Remainder Interests in Charity. – Upon the termination of the noncharitable interests, the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiary or beneficiaries, to the designated charity or charities, or shall hold the property in trust for the designated charity or charities in accordance with the terms of the trust document.

(b) Selection of Alternate Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – If the designated charity is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at the time when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee shall distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the trust instrument. If the trust instrument does not provide for a method of selecting alternate charitable beneficiaries that are then qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee shall, in the trustee's sole discretion, select alternate trust beneficiaries that are qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(b1) Selection of Alternative Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(b)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, if the designated charity is, at the time of the creation of the trust, an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, and if the designated charity is not an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee shall distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument; however, in the event that the governing instrument does not provide a method of selecting alternative charitable beneficiaries that are then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee shall, in his sole discretion, select one or more alternative charitable beneficiaries that are described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and shall distribute the principal or income to the organization or organizations so selected in such shares as the trustee, in the trustee's sole discretion, shall determine.

(c) Prohibitions Governing Trustees. – Except for payment of the annuity amount or the unitrust amount to the beneficiaries, whichever is applicable, the trustee is prohibited from engaging in any act of self-dealing as defined in section 4941(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, retaining any excess business holdings as defined in section 4943(c) of the Internal Revenue Code that would subject the trust to tax under section 4943 of the Code, making any investments that would subject the trust to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code, and making any taxable expenditures as defined in section 4945(d) of the Code. The trustee shall make distributions at a time and in a manner as not to subject the trust to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(d) Distribution to Charity During Term of Noncharitable Interests and Distributions in Kind. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests, the trustee may pay to the designated charity the amounts specified in the governing instrument that exceed the annuity amount or the unitrust amount payable to any of the beneficiaries for the taxable year of the trust in which the income is earned. If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity in kind, the adjusted basis for federal income tax purposes of any trust property the trustee distributes in kind to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests must be fairly representative of the adjusted basis for those purposes of all trust property available for distribution on the date of distribution.

(e) Investment Restrictions on Trustee. – Nothing in the trust instrument shall be construed to restrict the trustee from investing the trust assets in a manner that could result in the annual realization of a reasonable amount of income or gain from the sale or disposition of trust assets.

(f) Distribution From Trust Used to Administer an Estate to Charitable Remainder Trust. – If the governing instrument of a revocable inter vivos trust provides that the revocable inter vivos trust will be used partially to administer the estate of the settlor or for some other purpose, and further provides the assets will then be distributed to another trust that is a charitable remainder trust, upon the death of the settlor, or upon the occurrence of any event that causes the trust to become irrevocable, then the trust shall become irrevocable, and the trustee of this trust shall perform any remaining duties or obligations provided for in the trust instrument and then transfer the property specified in the governing instrument to the trustee of the charitable remainder trust to be held, administered, and distributed in the manner and according to the terms and conditions provided by the charitable remainder trust.

(g) Payment of Taxes by Noncharitable Beneficiary. – In the case of any inter vivos charitable remainder trust that is liable to pay, from trust property, any federal estate, state inheritance, or other similar death taxes by reason of the death of the settlor of the trust, the interest of any noncharitable beneficiary of the trust shall terminate upon the death of the settlor unless the noncharitable beneficiary furnishes to the trust sufficient funds for payment of all those taxes attributable to the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary in the trust property, and the termination shall be deemed as the occurrence of a qualified contingency.

"§ 36C-4B-5. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder trusts only.

(a) Creation of Annuity Amount for Period of Years or Life. – The trustee shall pay the annuity amount designated in the trust instrument to the beneficiaries named in the trust instrument during their lives (or if the governing instrument so provides, for a period of 20 years or less) in each taxable year of the trust. The annuity amount shall be paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The annuity amount shall be paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the annuity amount shall be added to principal.

The total amount payable at least annually to a person or persons named in the trust document, at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, may not be less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the property placed in trust as finally determined for federal tax purposes, except as provided in subsection (g) of this section.

(b) Computation of Annuity Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the annuity amount on a daily basis.

(c) Prohibition of Additional Contributions. – No additional contributions shall be made to the trust after the initial contribution.

(d) Deferral of Annuity Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the annuity amount commences with the date of death of the settlor, but payment of the annuity amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any annuity amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The annuity amounts payable, determined under the method described in Section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended prior to August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts shall be computed using an interest rate at six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(e) Dollar Amount Annuity May Be Stated as Fraction or Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust states the amount of the annuity as a fraction or a percentage, the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives an annuity amount equal to a percentage (that percentage being stipulated in the governing instrument of the trust and, in any event, being five percent (5%) or greater) of the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust. In determining this amount, assets shall be valued at their values as finally determined for federal tax purposes. If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust, then, within a reasonable period after a final determination, the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation or shall receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the annuity amount properly payable and the annuity amount actually paid.

(f) Annuity Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the annuity trust amount may be allocated among a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee shall pay the annuity amount, which is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, in each taxable year of the trust, to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in an amount and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the entire annuity amount to one member of this class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner as the trustee from time to time deems advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, then the distribution shall be for a period of years not to exceed 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire annuity amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the annuity amount.

(g) Reduction of Annuity Amount If Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the annuity amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries, the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay a total annuity amount of at least five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the assets placed in trust. Upon the expiration of the term of years or the death of a beneficiary, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay, annually or in more frequent installments, to the survivors for their lives, an annuity amount that in each taxable year of the trust, bears the same ratio to five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the trust assets as the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the date of distribution, less the amount or percentage of trust assets distributed to the charity, bears to the net fair market value of the trust assets as of the date of distribution.

(h) Termination of Annuity Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the annuity amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee shall pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during the term of the noncharitable interest the annuity amount, defined in the trust document, in each taxable year of the trust. The obligation of the trustee to pay the annuity amount shall terminate with the payment preceding the death of the noncharitable beneficiary or other event that terminates the noncharitable interest.

(i) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust retains the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee shall pay to the settlor during his life the annuity amount, as defined in the governing instrument of the trust and, upon the death of the settlor, if the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor, the trustee shall pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during his life the annuity amount equal to the amount paid to the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if he effectively exercised his testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the settlor or noncharitable beneficiary, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee shall continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust shall be effective.

"§ 36C-4B-6. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder unitrusts only.

(a) Creation of Unitrust Amount for a Period of Years or Life. – The trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries named in the trust investment in each taxable year of the trust during their lives or, if the governing instrument so provides, for a period not exceeding 20 years, a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually on the date or by the method designated in the governing instrument of the trust or, if no date or method is specified, on the date or by the method selected by the trustee in his discretion, so long as the same valuation date or dates or valuation methods are used each year. The unitrust amount shall be paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The unitrust amount shall be paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the unitrust amount shall be added to principal. The fixed percentage to be paid at least annually to all beneficiaries cannot be less than five percent (5%).

(b) Unitrust Amount Expressed as the Lesser of Income or a Fixed Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the trustee shall pay, instead of a regular unitrust amount (the fixed percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets, determined annually), the amount of trust income for the taxable year to the extent that this amount is not greater than the amount required to be distributed as a regular unitrust amount for that taxable year or the amount of the trust income for the taxable year that exceeds the regular unitrust amount for that taxable year to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the regular unitrust amount for those prior years, then the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives, or for a period not exceeding 20 years if the trust agreement so provides, an amount equal to the lesser of (i) the trust income for the taxable year, as defined in section 643(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder, and (ii) the percentage, as stated in the governing instrument, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the taxable year decreased as elsewhere provided if the taxable year is a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interest terminates by death or otherwise, and increased as elsewhere provided if additional contributions are made in the taxable year.

If the governing instrument of the trust so provides and if the trust income for any taxable year exceeds the amount determined under (ii) above, the payment to beneficiaries shall also include the excess income to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid to beneficiaries in prior years is less than the percentage of the aggregate net fair market value of the trust assets, which percentage is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, for these years. Payments to beneficiaries shall be made annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. Any income of the trust in excess of these payments shall be added to principal.

(c) Adjustment for Incorrect Valuation. – If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the net fair market value of the trust assets for any taxable year, the trustee shall, within a reasonable period after the final determination of the correct value, pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation, or receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the unitrust amount properly payable and the unitrust amount actually paid.

(d) Computation of Unitrust Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the unitrust amount on a daily basis. If a trust provides for a valuation date other than the first day of the taxable year, and the valuation date does not occur in a taxable year of the trust because the taxable year is either a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interests terminate, the trust assets shall be valued as of the last day of the short taxable year or the day on which the noncharitable interests terminate, as appropriate.

(e) Additional Contributions. – If the governing instrument does not prohibit additional contributions and additional contributions are made to the trust after the initial contribution in the trust, the unitrust amount for the taxable year in which the additional contributions are made shall be a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the sum of (i) the net fair market value of trust assets, excluding the additional contributions and any income from or appreciation of these contributions and (ii) that proportion of the value of the additional contributions excluded under (i) which the number of days in the period beginning with the date of contribution and ending with the earlier of the last day of the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated bears to the number of days in the period beginning on the first day of the taxable year and ending with the earlier of the last day in the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated. If no valuation date occurs after the contributions are made, the assets so added shall be valued as of the time of contribution.

(f) Deferral of Unitrust Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the unitrust amount commences with the date of the settlor's death, but payment of the unitrust amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year of the trust in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any unitrust amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The unitrust amounts payable, determined under the method described in section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended prior to August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts shall be computed using an interest rate of six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(g) Unitrust Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the unitrust amount may be allocated to a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee shall pay, in each taxable year of the trust, the unitrust amount to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in amounts and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the unitrust amount to any one member of the class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner that the trustee shall from time to time deem advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, the distribution shall be for a period not exceeding 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire unitrust amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the unitrust amount.

(h) Reduction of Unitrust Amount if Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of a Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the unitrust amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay the total unitrust amount equal to a percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually, which shall not be less than five percent (5%). Upon expiration of the term of years or the death of a recipient, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay to the survivors for their lives a unitrust amount in each taxable year of the trust equal to at least five percent (5%) (the actual percentage being defined in the trust instrument) of the net fair market value of the remaining trust assets valued annually.

(i) Termination of Unitrust Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interests. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the unitrust amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee shall pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary in each taxable year of the trust during the term of the noncharitable interest. The obligation of the trustee to pay the unitrust amount terminates with the payment preceding the termination of the noncharitable interest by death or otherwise. The five percent (5%) requirement provided in subsection (a) of this section shall be met until the termination of all payments of the unitrust amount.

(j) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust shall retain the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee shall pay the unitrust amount to the settlor during his life and, upon the death of the settlor, shall pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary during his life, provided the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and the noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if the settlor effectively exercised the testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiaries, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee shall continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust shall be effective.

"§ 36C-4B-7. Interpretation.

This Article shall be interpreted and construed to effectuate its general purpose to cause all charitable remainder annuity trusts and all charitable remainder unitrusts to be administered in accordance with the provisions of section 2055 and section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under those sections.

"Article 5.

"Creditors' Claims; Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts.

"§ 36C-5-501. Rights of beneficiary's creditor or assignee.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the court may authorize a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment of present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary or other means. The court may limit the award to that relief as is appropriate under the circumstances.

(b) This section shall not apply and a trustee shall have no liability to any creditor of a beneficiary for any distributions made to or for the benefit of the beneficiary, to the extent that a beneficiary's interest:

(1) Is subject to a spendthrift provision;

(2) Is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2); or

(3) Is a protective trust interest as described in G.S. 36C-5-508.

"§ 36C-5-502. Spendthrift provision.

(a) A spendthrift provision is valid only if it restrains both voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary's interest.

(b) A term of a trust providing that the interest of a beneficiary is held subject to a "spendthrift trust", or words of similar import, is sufficient to restrain both voluntary and involuntary transfer of the beneficiary's interest.

(c) A beneficiary may not transfer an interest in a trust in violation of a valid spendthrift provision and, except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary may not reach the interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

"§ 36C-5-503. Exceptions to spendthrift provision.

(a) As used in this section, the term "child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(b) Even if a trust contains a spendthrift provision, or if the beneficiary's interest is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance may obtain from a court an order attaching present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary. The court may limit the award to such relief as is appropriate under the circumstances.

"§ 36C-5-504. Discretionary trusts; effect of standard.

(a) In this section:

(1) "Child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(2) "Discretionary trust interest" means an interest in a trust that is subject to the trustee's discretion, whether or not the discretion is expressed in the form of a standard of distribution. A discretionary trust interest shall include an interest in any one or any combination of the following:

a. A trust in which the amount to be received by the beneficiary, including whether or not the beneficiary, or a class of beneficiaries, is to receive anything at all, is within the discretion of the trustee.

b. A trust in which the trustee has no duty to pay or distribute any particular amount to the beneficiary, but has only a duty to pay or distribute to the beneficiary, or apply on behalf of the beneficiary, those sums that the trustee, in the trustee's discretion, determines are appropriate for the support, education, or maintenance of the beneficiary.

(b) A discretionary trust interest may not be transferred by the beneficiary and, except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may not reach such an interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a creditor of a beneficiary may not compel a distribution from a trust in which the beneficiary has a discretionary trust interest even if the trustee has abused the trustee's discretion.

(d) To the extent that a trustee has not complied with a standard of distribution or has abused a discretion:

(1) A distribution may be ordered by the court to satisfy a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance of the beneficiary's child; and

(2) The court shall direct the trustee to pay to the child such amount as is equitable under the circumstances but not more than the amount the trustee would have been required to distribute to or for the benefit of the beneficiary had the trustee complied with the standard or not abused the discretion.

(e) This section does not limit the right of a beneficiary to maintain a judicial proceeding against a trustee for an abuse of discretion or failure to comply with a standard for distribution.

(f) A creditor may not reach the interest of a beneficiary who is also a trustee or co-trustee, or otherwise compel a distribution, if the trustee's discretion to make distributions for the trustee's own benefit is limited by an ascertainable standard.

"§ 36C-5-505. Creditor's claim against settlor.

(a) Whether or not the terms of a trust contain a spendthrift provision or the interest in the trust is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, the following rules apply:

(1) During the lifetime of the settlor, the property of a revocable trust is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors.

(2) With respect to an irrevocable trust, a creditor or assignee of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that can be distributed to or for the settlor's benefit. If a trust has more than one settlor, the amount the creditor or assignee of a particular settlor may reach may not exceed the settlor's interest in the portion of the trust attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(3) After the death of a settlor, and subject to the settlor's right to direct the source from which liabilities will be paid, the property of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors, costs of administration of the settlor's estate, the expenses of the settlor's funeral and disposal of remains, and statutory allowances to a surviving spouse and children to the extent that the settlor's probate estate is inadequate to satisfy those claims, costs, expenses, and allowances, unless barred by G.S. 28A-19-3.

(b) The lapse, release, or waiver of a power of withdrawal shall not cause the holder to be treated as a settlor of the trust.

"§ 36C-5-506. Overdue distribution.

(a) In this section, "mandatory distribution" means a distribution of income or principal that the trustee is required to make to a beneficiary under the terms of the trust, including a distribution upon termination of the trust. The term excludes a distribution subject to the exercise of the trustee's discretion, regardless of whether the terms of the trust (i) include a support or other standard to guide the trustee in making distribution decisions; or (ii) provide that the trustee "may" or "shall" make discretionary distributions, including distributions pursuant to a support or other standard.

(b) Whether or not a trust contains a spendthrift provision, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may reach a mandatory distribution of income or principal, including a distribution upon termination of the trust, if the trustee has not made the distribution to the beneficiary within a reasonable time after the designated distribution date.

"§ 36C-5-507. Personal obligations of trustee.

Trust property is not subject to personal obligations of the trustee, even if the trustee becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"§ 36C-5-508. Protective trusts.

Except with respect to an interest retained by the settlor, a "protective trust interest" means an interest in a trust in which the terms of the trust provide that the interest shall terminate or become discretionary if:

(1) The beneficiary alienates or attempts to alienate that interest; or

(2) Any creditor attempts to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment, levy, or otherwise; or

(3) The beneficiary becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"Article 6.

"Revocable Trusts.

"§ 36C-6-601. Capacity of settlor of revocable trust.

The capacity required to create, amend, revoke, or add property to a revocable trust, or to direct the actions of the trustee of a revocable trust, is the same as that required to make a will.

"§ 36C-6-602. Revocation or amendment of revocable trust.

(a) Unless the terms of a trust expressly provide that the trust is irrevocable, the settlor may revoke or amend the trust without regard to the actual capacity of the settlor. This subsection does not apply to a trust created under an instrument executed before the effective date of this Chapter.

(b) If a revocable trust is created or funded by more than one settlor:

(1) To the extent the trust consists of community property, the trust may be revoked by either spouse acting alone but may be amended only by joint action of both spouses; and

(2) To the extent the trust consists of property other than community property, each settlor may revoke or amend the trust with regard the portion of the trust property attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(c) The settlor may revoke or amend a revocable trust:

(1) By substantial compliance with a method provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by:

a. A later will or codicil that expressly refers to the trust or specifically devises property that would otherwise have passed according to the terms of the trust; or

b. By oral statement to the trustee if the trust was created orally; or

c. Any other written method delivered to the trustee manifesting clear and convincing evidence of the settlor's intent.

(d) Upon revocation of a revocable trust, the trustee shall deliver the trust property as the settlor directs.

(e) A settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the terms of the trust or the power of attorney provided the exercise of the power of revocation or amendment does not alter the designation of beneficiaries to receive property on the settlor's death under the settlor's existing estate plan.

(f) A general guardian or a guardian of the estate of the settlor or, if no general guardian or guardian of the estate has been appointed, a guardian of the person of the settlor may exercise a settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property only with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship.

(g) A trustee who does not know that a trust has been revoked or amended is not liable to the settlor or settlor's successors in interest for distributions made and other actions taken on the assumption that the trust had not been amended or revoked.

"§ 36C-6-603. Settlor's powers; powers of withdrawal.

(a) While a trust is revocable, rights of the beneficiaries are subject to the control of, and the duties of the trustee are owed exclusively to, the settlor.

(b) If a revocable trust has more than one settlor, the duties of the trustee are owed to all of the settlors.

"§ 36C-6-604. Limitation on action contesting validity of revocable trust; distribution of trust property.

(a) A person may commence a judicial proceeding to contest the validity of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death within the earlier of:

(1) Three years after the settlor's death; or

(2) 120 days after the trustee sent the person a copy of the trust instrument and a notice informing the person of the trust's existence, of the trustee's name and address, and of the time allowed for commencing a proceeding.

(b) Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death, the trustee may proceed to distribute the trust property in accordance with the terms of the trust. The trustee is not subject to liability for doing so unless:

(1) The trustee knows of a pending judicial proceeding contesting the validity of the trust; or

(2) A potential contestant has notified the trustee of a possible judicial proceeding to contest the trust, and a judicial proceeding is commenced within 60 days after the contestant sent the notification.

(c) A beneficiary of a trust that is determined to have been invalid is liable to return any distribution received.

"Article 7.

"Office of Trustee.

"§ 36 C-7-701. Accepting or declining trusteeship.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section, a person designated as trustee accepts the trusteeship:

(1) By substantially complying with a method of acceptance provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by accepting delivery of the trust property, exercising powers or performing duties as trustee, or otherwise indicating acceptance of the trusteeship.

(b) A person designated as trustee who has not yet accepted the trusteeship may reject the trusteeship. A designated trustee who does not accept the trusteeship within a reasonable time, not to exceed 120 days, after receiving written notice of the trusteeship shall be deemed to have rejected the trusteeship.

(c) A person designated as trustee, without accepting the trusteeship, may:

(1) Act to preserve the trust property if, within a reasonable time after acting, the person sends a rejection of the trusteeship to the settlor or, if the settlor is dead or lacks capacity, to a qualified beneficiary; and

(2) Inspect or investigate trust property to determine potential liability under environmental or other law or for any other purpose.

"§ 36C-7-702. Trustee's bond.

(a) A trustee shall provide bond to secure the performance of the trustee's duties if:

(1) The trust instrument was executed before January 1, 2006, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise;

(2) The trust instrument was executed on or after January 1, 2006, but only if the terms of the trust instrument require the trustee to provide bond;

(3) A beneficiary requests the trustee to provide bond, and the court finds the request to be reasonable; or

(4) The court finds that it is necessary for the trustee to provide bond in order to protect the interests of beneficiaries who are not able to protect themselves and whose interests otherwise are not adequately represented.

However, in no event shall bond be required of a trustee if the governing instrument directs otherwise.

(b) If bond is required, it shall be in a sum of double the value of the personal property to come into the trustee's hands if bond is executed by a personal surety, and in an amount not less than one and one-fourth times the value of all personal property of the trust estate if the bond is secured by a suretyship bond executed by a corporate surety company authorized by the Commissioner of Insurance to do business in this State, provided that the court, when the value of the personal property exceeds one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), may accept bond in an amount equal to the value of the personal property plus ten percent (10%) of that value, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the trustee's duties and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive property that may come into the trustee's hands. All bonds executed under the provisions of this Article shall be filed with the clerk of superior court.

(c) On petition of the trustee or a qualified beneficiary, the court may excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of the bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties.

(d) As provided in G.S. 53-159 and G.S. 53-366(a)(10), banks and trust companies licensed to do trust business in this State need not give bond, even if required by the terms of the trust.

"§ 36C-7-703. Co-trustees.

(a) Co-trustees who are unable to reach a unanimous decision may act by majority decision if more than two are serving. Unanimity is required when only two co-trustees are serving.

(b) If a vacancy occurs in a co-trusteeship, the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust and exercise all trustee powers, except those powers that the remaining trustees are prohibited from exercising under the trust instrument or by law.

(c) A co-trustee must participate in the performance of a trustee's function unless the cotrustee is unavailable to perform the function because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, or the co-trustee has properly delegated the performance of the function to another trustee.

(d) If a co-trustee is unavailable to perform duties because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, and prompt action is necessary to achieve the purposes of the trust or to avoid injury to the trust property, the remaining co-trustee or a majority of the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust.

(e) A trustee may delegate to a co-trustee with the consent of the co-trustee the performance of any function other than those the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly. The following functions shall not be deemed to be those that the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly:

(1) Establish and maintain bank accounts for the trust and issue checks for the trust.

(2) Maintain inventories, accountings, and income and expense records of the trust.

(3) Enter any safety deposit box rented by the trust.

(4) Employ persons as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, including agents, attorneys, accountants, brokers, appraisers, and custodians.

(5) List trust property for taxes and prepare and file tax returns for the trust.

(6) Collect and give receipts for claims and debts of the trust.

(7) Pay debts, claims, costs of administration, and taxes of the trust.

(8) Compromise, adjust, or otherwise settle any claim by or against the trust and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust.

(9) Have custody of the trust property.

The list of functions contained in this subsection is not intended to be exclusive of others that may be delegated to a co-trustee in accordance with this subsection.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (g) of this section, a trustee who does not join in an action of another trustee is not liable for the action.

(g) Each trustee shall exercise reasonable care to:

(1) Avoid enabling a co-trustee to commit a serious breach of trust; and

(2) Compel a co-trustee to redress a serious breach of trust.

(h) Notwithstanding subsection (f) or (g) of this section, a trustee who has not joined in an action approved by a majority of the other trustees shall not be liable for the action, nor shall a dissenting trustee who joins in an action at the direction of the majority of the trustees but who notified in writing any co-trustee of the dissent at or before the time of the action be liable for the action, unless that trustee had knowledge that the action taken involved intentional misconduct or was taken with an intention to directly or indirectly provide an improper personal benefit to one or more trustees approving the action.

(i) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, if two or more trustees own shares of corporate stock or other securities, their acts with respect to voting shall have the following effect:

(1) If only one votes, in person or by proxy, the act binds all;

(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act binds all; and

(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

"§ 36C-7-704. Vacancy in trusteeship; appointment of successor.

(a) A vacancy in a trusteeship occurs if:

(1) A person designated as trustee rejects the trusteeship;

(2) A person designated as trustee cannot be identified or does not exist;

(3) A trustee resigns;

(4) A trustee is disqualified or removed;

(5) A trustee dies; or

(6) A general guardian, guardian of the estate, or guardian of the person is appointed for an individual serving as trustee.

(b) If one or more co-trustees remain in office, a vacancy in a trusteeship need not be filled. A vacancy in a trusteeship must be filled if the trust has no remaining trustee.

(c) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a noncharitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:

(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed pursuant to the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;
(2) By a person appointed by unanimous agreement of the qualified beneficiaries; or
(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(d) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a charitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:
(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed pursuant to the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;
(2) By a person selected by majority agreement of the charitable organizations expressly designated to receive distributions under the terms of the trust; or
(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(e) Whether or not a vacancy in a trusteeship exists or is required to be filled, the court may appoint an additional trustee or special fiduciary whenever the court considers the appointment necessary for the administration of the trust.

(f) A successor trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee, unless a contrary intent appears from the governing instrument or unless the order appointing the successor trustee provides otherwise.

"§ 36C-7-705. Resignation of trustee.

(a) A trustee may resign:
(1) Upon at least 30 days' notice in writing to the qualified beneficiaries, the settlor, if living, and all co-trustees; or
(2) With the approval of the court.

(b) In approving a resignation, the court may issue orders and impose conditions reasonably necessary for the protection of the trust property.

(c) Any liability of a resigning trustee or of any sureties on the trustee's bond for acts or omissions of the trustee is not discharged or affected by the trustee's resignation.

"§ 36C-7-706. Removal of trustee.

(a) For the reasons set forth in subsection (b) of this section, the settlor, a co-trustee, or a beneficiary of an irrevocable trust may request the court to remove a trustee, or a trustee may be removed by the court on its own initiative.

(b) The court may remove a trustee if:
(1) The trustee has committed a serious breach of trust;
(2) Lack of cooperation among co-trustees substantially impairs the administration of the trust;
(3) Because of unfitness, unwillingness, or persistent failure of the trustee to administer the trust effectively, the court determines that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of the beneficiaries; or
(4) There has been a substantial change of circumstances, the court finds that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of all of the beneficiaries and is not inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust, and a suitable co-trustee or successor trustee is available.

(c) Pending a final decision on a request to remove a trustee, or in lieu of or in addition to removing a trustee, the court may order appropriate relief under G.S. 36C-10-1001(b) as may be necessary to protect the trust property or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-7-707. Delivery of property by former trustee.

(a) Unless a co-trustee remains in office or the court otherwise orders, and until the trust property is delivered to a successor trustee or other person entitled to it, a trustee who has resigned or been removed has the duties of a trustee and the powers necessary to protect the trust property.

(b) A trustee who has resigned or been removed shall proceed expeditiously to deliver the trust property within the trustee's possession to the co-trustee, successor trustee, or other person entitled to it. A former trustee shall execute those documents transferring title to trust property as may be appropriate to facilitate administration of the trust, and in the event that the former trustee fails to do so, the clerk of superior court may order the former trustee to execute those documents, or the clerk of superior court may transfer title.

"§ 36C-7-708. Compensation of trustee.

(a) If the terms of a trust do not specify the trustee's compensation, a trustee is entitled to compensation determined in accordance with the provisions of Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes.

(b) If the terms of a trust specify the trustee's compensation, the trustee is entitled to be compensated as specified.

"§ 36C-7-709. Reimbursement of expenses.

A trustee is entitled to be reimbursed out of the trust property for expenses properly incurred in the administration of the trust as provided in G.S. 32-58.

"Article 8.

"Duties and Powers of Trustee.

"§ 36C-8-801. Duty to administer trust.

Upon acceptance of a trusteeship, a trustee shall administer the trust in good faith, in accordance with its terms and purposes and the interests of the beneficiaries, and in accordance with this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-802. Duty of loyalty.

(a) A trustee shall administer the trust solely in the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to the rights of persons dealing with or assisting the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-10-1012, a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property entered into by the trustee for the trustee's own personal account, or that is otherwise affected by a conflict between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, is voidable by a beneficiary affected by the transaction, without regard to whether the transaction is fair to the beneficiary, unless:

(1) The transaction was authorized by the terms of the trust;
(2) The transaction was approved by the court;
(3) The beneficiary did not commence a judicial proceeding within the time allowed by G.S. 36C-10-1005;
(4) The beneficiary consented to the trustee's conduct, ratified the transaction, or released the trustee in compliance with G.S. 36C-10-1009; or
(5) The transaction involves a contract entered into, or claim acquired by, the trustee before the person became or contemplated becoming trustee.

(c) In determining whether a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property is affected by a conflict of interest between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, the transaction is rebuttably presumed to be affected by such a conflict if the trustee enters into the transaction with:
(1) The trustee's spouse or a parent of the trustee's spouse;
(2) The trustee's descendants, siblings, ancestors, or their spouses;
(3) An agent, attorney, employee, officer, director, member, manager, or partner of the trustee, or an entity that controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the trustee; or
(4) Any other person or entity in which the trustee, or a person that owns a significant interest in the trust, has an interest or relationship that might affect the trustee's best judgment;

(d) A transaction between a trustee and a beneficiary that does not concern trust property, but that occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee retains significant influence over the beneficiary, and from which the trustee obtains an advantage, is voidable by the beneficiary unless the trustee establishes that the transaction was fair to the beneficiary.

(e) A transaction not concerning trust property in which the trustee engages in the trustee's individual capacity involves a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the transaction concerns an opportunity properly belonging to the trust.

(f) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of this section:
(1) An investment by a trustee in securities of an investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle in which the trustee has an investment, or to which the trustee, or its affiliate, provides services is not presumed to be affected by a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the investment otherwise complies with the prudent investor rule of Article 9 of this Chapter. The trustee may be compensated by the investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle for providing those services out of fees charged to the trust if the trustee at least annually notifies the persons entitled under G.S. 36C-8-813 to receive a copy of the trustee's annual report of the rate and method by which the compensation was determined; and

(2) Payment made by a trustee to an attorney, broker, accountant, or agent for services performed on behalf of the trust in the ordinary course of business shall not be deemed to be affected by a conflict between the trustee's personal and fiduciary interests if the payment is consistent with payments generally made in the community for the same or similar services.

(g) In voting shares of stock or in exercising powers of control over similar interests in other forms of enterprise, the trustee shall act in the best interests of the beneficiaries. If the trust is the sole owner of a corporation or other form of enterprise, the trustee shall elect to appoint directors or other managers who will manage the corporation or enterprise in the best interests of the beneficiaries.

(h) This section does not preclude the following transactions, if fair to the beneficiaries:

(1) An agreement between a trustee and a beneficiary relating to the appointment or compensation of the trustee;

(2) Payment of reasonable compensation to the trustee;

(3) A transaction between a trust and another trust, decedent's estate, or guardianship, or similar relationship of which the trustee is a fiduciary or in which a beneficiary has an interest;

(4) A deposit of trust money in a regulated financial-service institution operated by the trustee or an affiliate of the trustee; or

(5) An advance by the trustee of money for the protection of the trust.

(i) The court may appoint a special fiduciary to make a decision with respect to any proposed transaction that might violate this section if entered into by the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-803. Impartiality.

If a trust has two or more beneficiaries, the trustee shall act impartially in investing, managing, and distributing the trust property, giving due regard to the beneficiaries' respective interests.

"§ 36C-8-804. Prudent administration.

A trustee shall administer the trust as a prudent person would, by considering the purposes, terms, distributional requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

"§ 36C-8-805. Cost of administration.

In administering a trust, the trustee may incur only costs that are reasonable in relation to the trust property, the purposes of the trust, and the skills of the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-806. Trustee's skills.

A trustee who has special skills or expertise, or is named trustee in reliance upon the trustee's representation that the trustee has special skills or expertise, shall use those special skills or expertise.

"§ 36C-8-807. Delegation by trustee.

(a) A trustee may delegate duties and powers that a prudent trustee of comparable skills could properly delegate under the circumstances. The trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution in:

(1) Selecting an agent;

(2) Establishing the scope and terms of the delegation, consistent with the purposes and terms of the trust; and

(3) Periodically reviewing the agent's actions in order to monitor the agent's performance and compliance with the terms of the delegation.

(b) In performing a delegated function, an agent owes a duty to the trust to exercise reasonable care to comply with the terms of the delegation.

(c) A trustee who complies with subsection (a) of this section is not liable to the beneficiaries or to the trust for an action of the agent to whom the function was delegated.

(d) By accepting a delegation of powers or duties from the trustee of a trust that is subject to the law of this State, an agent submits to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

"§ 36C-8-808. Powers to direct.

(a) While a trust is revocable, the trustee may follow a direction of the settlor that is contrary to the terms of the trust.

(b) If the terms of a trust confer upon a person other than the settlor of a revocable trust power to direct certain actions of the trustee, the trustee shall act in accordance with an exercise of the power unless the attempted exercise is manifestly contrary to the terms of the trust, or the trustee knows the attempted exercise would constitute a serious breach of a fiduciary duty that the person holding the power owes to the beneficiaries of the trust.

(c) The terms of a trust may confer upon a trustee or other person a power to direct the modification or termination of the trust.

(d) A person, other than a beneficiary, who holds a power to direct is presumptively a fiduciary who, as such, is required to act in good faith with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. The holder of a power to direct is liable for any loss that results from breach of a fiduciary duty.

"§ 36C-8-809. Control and protection of trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to take control of and protect the trust property.

"§ 36C-8-810. Record keeping and identification of trust property.

(a) A trustee shall keep adequate records of the administration of the trust.

(b) A trustee shall keep trust property separate from the trustee's own property.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, a trustee shall cause the trust property to be designated so that the interest of the trust, to the extent feasible, appears in records maintained by a party other than a trustee or beneficiary.

(d) If the trustee maintains records clearly indicating the respective interests, a trustee may invest as a whole the property of two or more separate trusts.

"§ 36C-8-811. Enforcement and defense of claims.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to enforce claims of the trust and to defend claims against the trust.

"§ 36C-8-812. Collecting trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to compel a former trustee or other person to deliver trust property to the trustee, and to redress a breach of trust known to the trustee to have been committed by a former trustee.

"§ 36C-8-813. Duty to inform and report.

(a) The trustee is under a duty to a qualified beneficiary to give that beneficiary upon request and at reasonable times complete and accurate information as to the nature and amount of the trust property and to permit the beneficiary, or the beneficiary's representative, to inspect the subject matter of the trust and the accounts and other documents relating to the trust.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section:

(1) The duty of the trustee under subsection (a) of this section shall not include informing any beneficiary in advance of transactions relating to the trust property.

(2) A trustee shall be deemed to have discharged the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section as to a qualified beneficiary for matters disclosed by a report sent at least annually and at termination of the trust to the beneficiary that describes the trust property, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements, including the source and amount of the trustee's compensation, and lists the trust assets and their respective market values (including estimated values of assets with uncertain values). No presumption shall arise that a trustee who does not comply with the provisions of this subdivision failed to discharge the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section.

(c) A beneficiary may waive the right to a trustee's report or other information otherwise required to be furnished under this subsection. With respect to future reports and other information, a beneficiary may withdraw a waiver previously given.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section applies only to a trust created pursuant to a trust instrument executed on or after the effective date of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-814. Discretionary powers; tax savings.

(a) Notwithstanding the breadth of discretion granted to a trustee in the terms of the trust, including the use of terms such as "absolute", "sole", or "uncontrolled", a trustee abuses the trustee's discretion in exercising or failing to exercise a discretionary power if the trustee acts with bad faith, acts dishonestly, acts with an improper motive, even though not a dishonest motive, or if the trustee fails to use the trustee's judgment in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to subsection (d) of this section, and unless the terms of the trust expressly indicate that a rule in this subsection does not apply:

(1) A person other than a settlor who is a beneficiary and trustee of a trust that confers on the trustee a power that would, except for this subsection, constitute in whole or in part a general power of appointment may not exercise that power in favor of the trustee/beneficiary, the trustee/beneficiary's estate, the trustee/beneficiary's creditors, or the creditors of the trustee/beneficiary's estate.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (1) of this subsection, if the trust confers on the trustee the power to make discretionary distributions to or for the trustee's personal benefit, the trustee may exercise the power in accordance with an ascertainable standard.

(3) The trustee may not exercise a power to make discretionary distributions to satisfy a legal obligation of support that the trustee personally owes another person.

For purposes of this subsection, a "general power of appointment" means any power that would cause the income to be taxed to the trustee in his individual capacity under section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code and any power that would be a general power of appointment, in whole or in part, under section 2041(b)(1) or section 2514(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) A power whose exercise is limited or prohibited by subsection (b) of this section may be exercised by a majority of the remaining trustees whose exercise of the power is not so limited or prohibited. If the power of all trustees is so limited or prohibited, the court may appoint a special fiduciary with authority to exercise the power.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section does not apply to:

(1) A power held by the settlor's spouse who is the trustee of a trust for which a marital deduction, as defined in section 2056(b)(5) or section 2523(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, was previously allowed;

(2) Any trust during any period that the trust may be revoked or amended by its settlor; or

(3) A trust, if contributions to the trust qualify for the annual exclusion under section 2503(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(e) If a trust created under a will or trust instrument for the benefit of the spouse of the settlor of the trust, other than a trust that provides that upon the termination of the income interest that the entire remaining trust estate be paid to the estate of the spouse, requires that all the income of the trust be paid not less frequently than annually to the spouse and a federal estate or gift tax marital deduction is claimed with respect to the trust, then, unless the trust instrument specifically provides otherwise by reference to this section, any investment in or retention of unproductive property as an asset of the trust is subject to the power of the spouse to require either that the asset be made productive of income, or that it be converted to assets productive of income, within a reasonable period of time.

"§ 36C-8-815. General powers of trustee.

(a) A trustee, without authorization by the court, may exercise:

(1) Powers conferred by the terms of the trust; or

(2) Except as limited by the terms of the trust:

a. All powers over the trust property that an unmarried competent owner has over individually owned property;

b. Any other powers appropriate to achieve the proper investment, management, administration or distribution of the trust property; and

c. Any other powers conferred by this Chapter.

(b) The exercise of a power is subject to the fiduciary duties prescribed by this Article.

(7) With respect to stocks or other securities, exercise the rights of an absolute owner, including the right to:

a. Vote, or give general or limited proxies to vote, with or without power of substitution, or enter into or continue a voting trust agreement, or execute waivers, consents, or objections with respect to those securities;

b. Hold a security in the name of a nominee or in other form without disclosure of the trust so that title may pass by delivery;

c. Pay calls, assessments, and other sums chargeable or accruing against the securities, and sell or exercise stock subscription or conversion rights;

d. Deposit the securities with a depositary or other regulated financial-service institution; and

e. Consent, directly or through a committee or other agent, to the merger, consolidation, reorganization, readjustment of capital or financial structure, lease, sale, dissolution, or liquidation of a business enterprise, and elect whether to participate as a member of a class in any litigation involving the securities;

(11) Insure the property of the trust against damage or loss and insure the trustee, the trustee's agents, and beneficiaries against liability arising from the administration of the trust at the expense of the trust;

(12) Abandon, relinquish any or all rights to, or decline to administer property of no value or of insufficient benefit or value to the trust to justify its collection or continued administration;

(13) With respect to possible liability for violation of environmental law:
a. Inspect or investigate property the trustee holds or has been asked to hold, or property owned or operated by an organization in which the trustee holds or has been asked to hold an interest, for the purpose of determining the application of environmental law with respect to the property;
b. Take action to prevent, abate, or otherwise remedy any actual or potential violation of any environmental law affecting property held directly or indirectly by the trustee, whether taken before or after the assertion of a claim or the initiation of governmental enforcement;
c. Decline to accept property into trust or disclaim any power with respect to property that is or may be burdened with liability for violation of environmental law;
d. Compromise claims against the trust which may be asserted for an alleged violation of environmental law; and
e. Pay the expense of any inspection, review, abatement, or remedial action to comply with environmental law;

(16) Exercise elections with respect to federal, state, and local taxes;
(17) Select a mode of payment under any employee benefit or retirement plan, annuity, or life insurance payable to the trustee, exercise rights under such a plan, including exercise of the right to indemnification for expenses and against liabilities, and take appropriate action to collect the proceeds;
(18) Make loans out of trust property, including loans to a beneficiary on terms and conditions the trustee considers to be fair and reasonable under the circumstances, and acquire a lien on future distributions for repayment of those loans;
(19) Pledge trust property to guarantee loans made by others to a beneficiary;
(20) Appoint a trustee to act in another jurisdiction with respect to trust property located in the other jurisdiction, confer upon the appointed trustee all of the powers and duties of the appointing trustee, limit those powers the appointed trustee may exercise and the duties for which the appointed trustee is responsible, require that the appointed trustee furnish security, and remove any trustee so appointed;

(21) Pay an amount distributable to a beneficiary who is under a legal disability or who the trustee reasonably believes is incapacitated, by paying it directly to the beneficiary or applying it for the beneficiary's benefit, or by:

a. Paying it to the beneficiary's general guardian or the guardian of the beneficiary's estate or, if the beneficiary does not have a general guardian or guardian of the beneficiary's estate, the guardian of the beneficiary's person;

b. Paying it to a custodian under a uniform transfer to minors act or custodial trustee under a uniform custodial trust act and, for that purpose, creating a custodianship or custodial trust for the benefit of the beneficiary;

c. Paying it to an adult relative or other person having legal or physical care or custody of the beneficiary, to be expended on the beneficiary's behalf; or

d. Managing it as a separate fund on the beneficiary's behalf.

A trustee making payments under this subdivision does not have any duty to see to the application of the payments so made, if the trustee exercised due care in the selection of the person, including the minor or incompetent, to whom the payments were made, and the receipt of that person shall be full acquittance to the trustee;

(22) On distribution of trust property or the division or termination of a trust, make distributions in divided or undivided interests, allocate particular assets in proportionate or disproportionate shares without regard to the income tax basis or other special tax attributes of such assets, as the trustee finds to be most practicable and for the best interests of the distributees, value the trust property for those purposes, and adjust for resulting differences in valuation; and to distribute trust property in kind or in cash, or partially in kind and partially in cash, in divided or undivided interests;

(23) Resolve a dispute concerning the interpretation of the trust or its administration by mediation, arbitration, or other procedure for alternative dispute resolution;

(24) Prosecute or defend an action, claim, or judicial proceeding in any jurisdiction to protect trust property and the trustee in the performance of the trustee's duties;

(25) Make, execute, and deliver contracts and other instruments, including instruments under seal, that are useful to achieve or facilitate the exercise of the trustee's powers;

(26) On termination of the trust, exercise the powers appropriate to wind up the administration of the trust and distribute the trust property to the persons entitled to it;

(27) Employ as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, or delegate administrative duties in the manner provided in G.S. 36C-8-807, to persons, firms, and corporations, including agents, auditors, accountants, brokers, attorneys-at-law, attorneys-in-fact, investment advisors, appraisers, custodians, rental agents, realtors, and tax specialists;

(28) Bid on property at a foreclosure sale, or acquire property from a mortgagor or obligor without foreclosure, and to retain the property so bid on or taken over without foreclosure;

(29) Divide one trust into several trusts and make distributions from those trusts in the manner provided in G.S. 36C-4-417;

(30) Request an order from the court for the sale of real or personal property under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes, or for the exchange, partition, or other disposition or change in the character of, or for the grant of options or other rights in or to, such property; and

(31) Distribute the assets of an inoperative trust consistent with the authority granted under the provisions of G.S. 28A-22-10.

"§ 36C-8-817. Distribution upon termination.

Upon the occurrence of an event terminating or partially terminating a trust, the trustee shall proceed expeditiously to distribute the trust property to the persons entitled to it, subject to the right of the trustee to retain a reasonable reserve for the payment of debts, expenses, and taxes.

"Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

"§ 36C-9-901. Prudent investor rule; applicability.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) of this section, a trustee who invests and manages trust assets owes a duty to the beneficiaries of the trust to comply with the prudent investor rule set forth in this Article.

(b) The prudent investor rule is a default rule and may be expanded, restricted, eliminated, or otherwise altered by the provisions of a trust which govern or direct investments in a manner inconsistent with this Article. A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary to the extent that the trustee acted in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust.

(c) The following terms or comparable language in the provisions of a trust, unless otherwise limited or modified, authorize any investment or strategy permitted under this Article: "Chapter 36A", "investments in accordance with Article 15 of Chapter 36A", "investments in accordance with Article 9 of Chapter 36C", "investments permissible by law for investment of trust funds", "legal investments", "authorized investments", "using the judgment and care under the circumstances then prevailing that persons of prudence, discretion, and intelligence exercise in the management of their own affairs, not in regard to speculation but in regard to the permanent disposition of their funds, considering the probable income as well as the probable safety of their capital", "prudent man rule", "prudent trustee rule", "prudent person rule", and "prudent investor rule". This Article also applies where a trust contains no investment standard.

(d) This Article does not apply to:

(1) Unless the provisions of the trust provide otherwise by specific reference to this Article:

a. Trusts under any federal employee retirement income security statute or other retirement or pension trusts;

b. Trusts that are created by legislative act;

c. Trusts that are created by or pursuant to premarital or postmarital agreements, divorce settlements, settlements of other proceedings or disputes;

d. Transfers under the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act;

e. Transfers under the Uniform Custodial Trust Act; or

f. Honorary trusts, trusts for pets, and trusts for cemetery lots.

(2) Trusts imposed or required under another chapter of the General Statutes or by rule in which the investment of the trust funds is regulated by the other chapter or by rule, unless a provision of the other chapter or the rule provides otherwise by a specific reference to this Article.

"§ 36C-9-902. Standard of care; portfolio strategy; risk and return objectives.

(a) A trustee shall invest and manage trust assets as a prudent investor would, by considering the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

(b) A trustee's investment and management decisions respecting individual assets must be evaluated not in isolation but in the context of the trust portfolio as a whole and as a part of an overall investment strategy having risk and return objectives reasonably suited to the trust.

(c) Among circumstances that a trustee shall consider in investing and managing trust assets are any of the following that are relevant to the trust or its beneficiaries:

(1) General economic conditions;

(2) The possible effect of inflation or deflation;

(3) The expected tax consequences of investment decisions or strategies;

(4) The role that each investment or course of action plays within the overall trust portfolio, which may include financial assets, interests in closely held enterprises, tangible and intangible personal property, and real property;

(5) The expected total return from income and the appreciation of capital;
(6) Other resources of the beneficiaries known to the trustee;
(7) Needs for liquidity, regularity of income, and preservation or appreciation of capital; and
(8) An asset's special relationship or special value, if any, to the purposes of the trust or to one or more of the beneficiaries.

(d) A trustee shall make a reasonable effort to verify facts relevant to the investment and management of trust assets.

(e) A trustee may invest in any kind of property or type of investment consistent with the standards of this Article.

"§ 36C-9-903. Diversification.

A trustee shall diversify the investments of the trust unless the trustee reasonably determines that, because of special circumstances, the purposes of the trust are better served without diversifying.

"§ 36C-9-904. Duties at inception of trusteeship.

Within a reasonable time after accepting a trusteeship or receiving trust assets, a trustee shall review the trust assets and make and implement decisions concerning the retention and disposition of assets in order to bring the trust portfolio into compliance with the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust, and with the requirements of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-9-905. Reviewing compliance.

Compliance with the prudent investor rule is determined in light of the facts and circumstances existing at the time of a trustee's decision or action and not by hindsight.

"§ 36C-9-906. Effect on charitable remainder trusts.

Nothing in this Article shall prevent the application of Article 4B of this Chapter to a "charitable remainder trust" as defined in G.S.36C-4B-3(1).

"Article 10.

"Liability of Trustees and Rights of Persons Dealing with Trustees.

"§ 36C-10-1001. Remedies for breach of trust.

(a) A violation by a trustee of a duty the trustee owes under a trust is a breach of trust.

(b) To remedy a breach of trust that has occurred or may occur, the court may:
(1) Compel the trustee to perform the trustee's duties;
(2) Enjoin the trustee from committing a breach of trust;
(3) Compel the trustee to redress a breach of trust by paying money, restoring property, or other means;
(4) Order a trustee to account;
(5) Appoint a special fiduciary to take possession of the trust property and administer the trust;

(6) Suspend the trustee;
(7) Remove the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-7-706;
(8) Reduce or deny compensation to the trustee;
(9) Subject to G.S. 36C-10-1012, void an act of the trustee, impose a lien or a constructive trust on trust property, or trace trust property wrongfully disposed of and recover the property or its proceeds; or
(10) Order any other appropriate relief.

(c) The court may, for cause shown, relieve a trustee from liability for any breach of trust, or wholly or partly excuse a trustee who has acted honestly and reasonably from liability for a breach of trust.

"§ 36C-10-1002. Damages for breach of trust.

(a) A trustee who commits a breach of trust is liable for the greater of:
(1) The amount required to restore the value of the trust property and trust distributions to what they would have been had the breach not occurred; or
(2) The profit the trustee made by reason of the breach.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if more than one trustee is liable to the beneficiaries for a breach of trust, a trustee is entitled to contribution from the other trustee or trustees. A trustee is not entitled to contribution if the trustee was substantially more at fault than another trustee or if the trustee committed the breach of trust in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries. A trustee who received a benefit from the breach of trust is not entitled to contribution from another trustee to the extent of the benefit received.

"§ 36C-10-1003. Liability in absence of breach.

(a) A trustee is accountable for any profit made by the trustee arising from the administration of the trust, even absent a breach of trust. Nothing in this section limits a trustee's right to compensation under G.S. 36C-7-708 or payments allowed under G.S. 36C-8-802(f).

(b) Absent a breach of trust, a trustee is not liable for a loss or depreciation in the value of trust property or for not having made a profit.

"§ 36C-10-1004. Attorney's fees and costs.

In a judicial proceeding involving the administration of a trust, the court may award costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney fees, as provided in the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-10-1005. Limitation of action against trustee.

Limitation of actions on judicial proceedings involving trusts shall be governed by applicable provisions of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes, except that no proceeding against a trustee for breach of trust may be commenced more than five years after the first to occur of: (i) the removal, resignation, or death of the trustee; (ii) the termination of the beneficiary's interest in the trust; or (iii) the termination of the trust.

"§ 36C-10-1006. Reliance on trust instrument.

A trustee who acts in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust as expressed in a trust instrument is not liable for a breach of trust to the extent that the breach resulted from the reliance.

"§ 36C-10-1007. Event affecting administration or distribution.

If the happening of an event, including marriage, divorce, performance of educational requirements, or death, affects the administration or distribution of a trust, a trustee who has exercised reasonable care to ascertain the happening of the event is not liable for a loss resulting from the trustee's lack of knowledge.

"§ 36C-10-1008. Exculpation of trustee.

A term of a trust relieving a trustee of liability for breach of trust is unenforceable to the extent that it relieves the trustee of liability for breach of trust committed in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-10-1009. Beneficiary's consent, release, or ratification.

(a) A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary for breach of trust if the beneficiary consented to the conduct constituting the breach, released the trustee from liability for the breach, or ratified the transaction constituting the breach, unless:

(1) The consent, release, or ratification of the beneficiary was induced by improper conduct of the trustee; or

(2) At the time of the consent, release, or ratification, the beneficiary did not have knowledge of the beneficiary's rights or of the material facts relating to the breach.

(b) No consideration is required for the consent, release, or ratification to be valid.

"§ 36C-10-1010. Limitation on personal liability of trustee.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the contract, a trustee is not personally liable on a contract properly entered into in the trustee's fiduciary capacity in the course of administering the trust if the trustee in making the contract disclosed the fiduciary capacity. The addition of the phrases "trustee," or "as trustee," or similar designations to the signature of a trustee on a written contract shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee is personally liable for torts committed in the course of administering a trust, or for obligations arising from ownership or control of trust property, including liability for violation of environmental law, only if the trustee is personally at fault.

(c) A claim based on a contract entered into by a trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, on an obligation arising from ownership or control of trust property, or on a tort committed in the course of administering a trust, may be asserted in a judicial proceeding against the trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, whether or not the trustee is personally liable for the claim. Any judgment rendered in favor of a claimant in such a judicial proceeding against a trust may be recovered from the trust property, without proof that the trustee could have obtained reimbursement from the trust if the trustee had paid the claim.

(d) A trustee shall be entitled to indemnity from the trust for any claim, other than a breach of trust, for which the trustee is liable:

(1) If the claim arose from a common incident of activity in which the trustee was properly engaged for the trust;

(2) If the trustee was not personally at fault; or

(3) To the extent that the trustee's actions increased the value of trust property.

(e) A decision by a trustee not to inspect property, or to decline to accept property, shall not create any inference as to liability, under any environmental law, with respect to that property. A trustee shall have no liability for a decrease in value of property in a trust by reason of the trustee's compliance with any environmental law, including reporting requirements.

"§ 36C-10-1011. Interest as general partner.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section or unless personal liability is imposed in the contract, a trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner in a general or limited partnership is not personally liable on a contract entered into by the partnership if the fiduciary capacity was disclosed. The addition of the phrases "trustee", or "as trustee", or similar designations to the signature of a trustee on a written partnership document shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner is not personally liable for torts committed by the partnership or for obligations arising from ownership or control of the interest unless the trustee is personally at fault. This subsection does not apply to additional ownership interests of the trustee held in a nonfiduciary capacity.

(c) If the settlor transfers an existing general partnership interest to a revocable trust, the settlor remains personally liable for partnership obligations as if the settlor were a general partner.

"§ 36C-10-1012. Protection of person dealing with trustee.

(a) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a trustee, without knowledge that the trustee is exceeding or improperly exercising the trustee's powers, is protected from liability as if the trustee properly exercised the power.

(b) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith deals with a trustee is not required to inquire into the extent of the trustee's powers or the propriety of their exercise.

(c) A person who in good faith delivers assets to a trustee need not ensure their proper application.

(d) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a former trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a former trustee, without knowledge that the trusteeship has terminated is protected from liability as if the former trustee were still a trustee.

(e) Comparable protective provisions of other laws relating to commercial transactions or transfer of securities by fiduciaries prevail over the protection provided by this section.

(f) A person is not required to obtain a certification under G.S. 36C-10-1013 in order to be entitled to the protections of this section.

"§ 36C-10-1013. Certification of trust.

(a) Instead of furnishing a copy of the trust instrument to a person other than a beneficiary, the trustee may furnish to the person a certification of trust containing the following information:

(1) The existence of the trust and the date the trust instrument was executed;

(2) The identity of the settlor, unless withheld pursuant to a provision in the trust instrument;

(3) The identity and address of the currently acting trustee;

(4) The powers of the trustee;

(5) The revocability or irrevocability of the trust and the identity of any person holding a power to revoke the trust;

(6) The authority of co-trustees to sign or otherwise authenticate and whether all or less than all are required in order to exercise powers of the trustee;

(7) The trust's taxpayer identification number; and

(8) The manner of taking title to trust property.

(b) A certification of trust may be signed or otherwise authenticated by any trustee.

(c) A certification of trust must state that the trust has not been revoked, modified, or amended in any manner that would cause the representations contained in the certification of trust to be incorrect.

(d) A certification of trust need not contain the dispositive terms of a trust.

(e) A recipient of a certification of trust may require the trustee to furnish copies of those excerpts from the original trust instrument and later amendments which designate the trustee and confer upon the trustee the power to act in the pending transaction.

(f) A person who acts in reliance upon a certification of trust without knowledge that the representations contained in the certification are incorrect is not liable to any person for so acting and may assume without inquiry the existence of the facts contained in the certification. Knowledge of the terms of the trust may not be inferred solely from the fact that the person relying upon the certification holds a copy of all or part of the trust instrument.

(g) A person who in good faith enters into a transaction in reliance upon a certification of trust may enforce the transaction against the trust property as if the representations contained in the certification were correct.

(h) A person making a demand for the trust instrument in addition to a certification of trust or excerpts is liable for damages if the court determines that the person did not act in good faith in demanding the trust instrument.

(i) This section does not limit the right of a person to obtain a copy of the trust instrument in a judicial proceeding concerning the trust.

"Miscellaneous Provisions.

"§ 36C-11-1101. Uniformity of application and construction.

In applying and construing this Chapter, consideration may be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it.

"§ 36C-11-1102. Electronic records and signatures.

The provisions of this Chapter governing the legal effect, validity, or enforceability of electronic records or electronic signatures, and of contracts formed or performed with the use of those records or signatures, conform to the requirements of Section 102 of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (15 U.S.C. § 7002) and supersede, modify, and limit the requirements of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act.

"§ 36C-11-1103. Severability clause.

SECTION 3. The General Statutes are amended by adding a new Chapter to read:

"Chapter 36D.

"North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities.

"§ 36D-1. Title; findings.

(a) This Article shall be known and may be cited as the "North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities Act".

(b) The General Assembly finds that it is in the public interest to encourage activities by voluntary associations and private citizens that will supplement and augment those services provided by local, State, and federal government agencies in discharge of their responsibilities toward individuals with severe chronic disabilities. The General Assembly further finds that, as a result of changing social, economic, and demographic trends, families of persons with severe chronic disabilities are increasingly aware of the need for a vehicle by which they can assure ongoing individualized personal concern for a severely disabled family member who may survive his parents or other family members, and provide for the efficient management of small legacies or trust funds to be used for the benefit of such a disabled person. In a number of other states voluntary associations have established foundations or trusts intended to be responsive to these concerns. Therefore, the General Assembly finds that North Carolina will benefit by the enactment of enabling legislation expressly authorizing the formation of community trusts in accordance with criteria set forth by statute and administered by the Secretary of State, pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. These community trusts permit the pooling of resources contributed by families or persons with philanthropic intent, along with the reservation of portions of these funds for the use and benefit of designated beneficiaries.

(c) This Article shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies, which are, among others, to:

(1) Encourage the orderly establishment of community trusts for the benefit of persons with severe chronic disabilities;

(2) Ensure that community trusts are administered properly and that the managing boards of the trusts are free from conflicts of interest;

(3) Facilitate sound administration of trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities by allowing family members and others to pool resources in order to make professional management investment more efficient;

(4) Provide parents of persons with severe chronic disabilities peace of mind in knowing that a means exists to ensure that the interests of their children who have severe chronic disabilities are properly looked after and managed after the parents die or become incapacitated;

(5) Help make guardians available for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member is available for this purpose;

(6) Encourage the availability of private resources to purchase for persons with severe chronic disabilities goods and services that are not available through any governmental or charitable program and to conserve these resources by limiting purchases to those that are not available from other sources;

(7) Encourage the inclusion, as beneficiaries of community trusts, of persons who lack resources and whose families are indigent, in a way that does not diminish the resources available to other beneficiaries whose families have contributed to the trust; and

(8) Remove the disincentives that discourage parents and others from setting aside funds for the future protection of persons with severe chronic disabilities by ensuring that the interest of beneficiaries in community trusts are not considered assets or income that would disqualify them from any governmental or charitable entitlement program with an economic means test.

"§ 36D-2. Definitions.

As used in this Article, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Beneficiary" means any person with a severe chronic disability who has qualified as a member of the community trust program and who has the right to receive those services and benefits vested with the management of the business and affairs of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, irrespective of the name by which the group is designated.

(2) "Community trust" means a nonprofit organization that offers the following services:

a. Administration of special trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities;

b. Follow along services;

c. Guardianship for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member or immediate friend is available for this purpose; and

d. Advice and counsel to persons who have been appointed as individual guardians of the persons or estates of persons with severe chronic disabilities.

(3) "Follow along services" means those services offered by community trusts that are designed to ensure that the needs of each beneficiary are being met for as long as may be required and may include periodic visits to the beneficiary and to the places where the beneficiary receives services, participation in the development of individualized plans being made by service providers for the beneficiary, and other similar services consistent with the purposes of this Article.

(4) "Severe chronic disability" means a physical or mental impairment that is expected to give rise to a long-term need for specialized health, social, and other services, and which makes the person with the disability dependent upon others for assistance to secure these services.

(5) "Trustee" means any member of the board of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, whether that member is designated as a trustee, director, manager, governor, or by any other title.

(6) "Surplus trust funds" means funds accumulated in the trust from contributions made on behalf of an individual beneficiary that, after the death of the beneficiary, are determined by the board to be in excess of the actual cost of providing services during the beneficiary's lifetime, including the beneficiary's share of administrative costs.

"§ 36D-3. Scope.

This Article applies to every community trust established in this State. In addition to meeting the other requirements of this Article, every board that administers a community trust shall incorporate as a nonprofit corporation pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, the provisions of Chapter 55A of the General Statutes apply to the community trusts.

"§ 36D-4. Administration; powers and duties.

(a) Every community trust shall be administered by a board. The board shall be comprised of no less than nine and no more than 21 members, at least one-third of whom shall be parents or relatives of persons with severe chronic disabilities. No board member shall be a provider of habilitative, health, social, or educational services to persons with severe chronic disabilities or an employee of such a service provider. The board may, however, allow service providers to serve on the board in an advisory capacity. Board members shall be selected, to the maximum extent possible, from geographic areas throughout the area served by the trust.

The certificate of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes shall, in addition to the requirements set forth in that Chapter, demonstrate that the requirements of this section have been met.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no trustee may be compensated for services provided as a member of the board of a community trust. No fees or commissions shall be paid to these trustees; however, a trustee may be paid for necessary expenses incurred by the trustee and may receive indemnification as permitted under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes.

(bl) For every community trust incorporated under this Article, the corporation itself shall be considered the trustee of any funds administered by it. No individual board member shall be considered to be trustee of any fund deposited on behalf of any individual beneficiary with severe chronic disabilities.

(c) The board shall adopt bylaws that shall include a declaration delineating the primary geographic area serviced by the trust and the principal services to be provided and shall file the bylaws with the Secretary of State.

(d) The board may retain paid staff as it considers necessary to provide follow along services to the extent required by each beneficiary. The community trust may authorize the expenditure of funds for any goods or services that, in its sole discretion, it determines will promote the well-being of any beneficiary, including recreational services. The community trust may pay for the burial of any beneficiary. The community trust, however, may not expend funds for any goods or services of comparable quality to those available to any particular beneficiary through any governmental or charitable program, insurance, or other sources. The community trust may expend funds to meet the reasonable costs of administering the community trust.

(e) The community trust is not required to provide services to a beneficiary who is a competent adult and who has refused to accept the services. Further, the community trust shall not provide services of a nature or in a manner that would be contrary to the public policy of this State at the time the services are to be provided. In either case, the community trust may offer alternate services that are consistent with the purposes of this Article and in keeping with the best interests of the beneficiary.

(f) The community trust may accept appointment as guardian of the person, guardian of the estate, or guardian of both on behalf of any beneficiary. If the community trust accepts appointment as guardian of the person of an individual, it shall assign a staff member to carry out its responsibilities as the guardian. The community trust may, upon request, offer consultative and professional assistance to an individual, private or public guardian of any of its beneficiaries.

(g) The community trust may accept contributions, bequests, and designations under life insurance policies to the community trust on behalf of individuals with severe chronic disabilities for the purpose of qualifying them as beneficiaries.

(h) At the time a contribution, bequest, or assignment of insurance proceeds is made, the trustor shall receive a written statement of the services to be provided to the beneficiary. The statement shall include a starting date for the delivery of services or the condition precedent, such as the death of the trustor, which shall determine the starting date. The statement shall describe the frequency with which services shall be provided and their duration, and the criteria or procedures for modifying the program of services from time to time in the best interests of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-5. Accountability.

Along with the annual report filed with the Secretary of State pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes, the community trust shall file an itemized statement that shows the funds collected for the year, income earned, salaries, other expenses incurred, and the opening and final trust balances. A copy of this statement shall be made available, upon request, to any beneficiary, trustor, or designee of the trustor. In addition, once annually, each trustor or the trustor's designee shall receive a detailed individual statement of the services provided to the trustor's beneficiary during the previous 12 months and the services to be provided during the following 12 months. The community trust shall make a copy of the individual statement available to any beneficiary, upon request.

"§ 36D-6. Gifts, surplus trust funds.

The community trust may accept gifts and use surplus trust funds for the purpose of qualifying as beneficiary any indigent person whose family members lack the resources to make a full contribution on that person's behalf. The extent and character of the services and selection of beneficiaries are at the discretion of the community trust. The community trust may not use surplus trust funds to make any charitable contribution on behalf of any beneficiary or any group or class of beneficiaries. The community trust may accept gifts to meet start-up costs, reduce the charges to the trust for the cost of administration, and for any other purpose that is consistent with this Article. Gifts made to the trust for an unspecified purpose shall be used by the community trust either to qualify indigent persons whose families lack the means to qualify them as beneficiaries of the trust or to meet any start-up costs that the trust incurs.

"§ 36D-7. Special requests on behalf of beneficiary.

The community trust may agree to fulfill any special requests made on behalf of a beneficiary as long as the requests are consistent with this Article and provided that an adequate contribution has been made for this purpose on behalf of a beneficiary. The community trust may agree to serve as trustee for any individual trust created on behalf of a beneficiary, regardless of whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable, has one or more remaindermen or contingent beneficiaries, or any other condition, so long as the individual trust is consistent with the purposes of this Article.

"§ 36D-8. Irrevocability; impossibility of fulfillment.

A community trust for persons with severe chronic disabilities is irrevocable, but the trustees in their sole discretion may provide compensation for any contribution to the trust to any trustor who, upon good cause, withdraws a beneficiary designated by the trustor from the trust, or if it becomes impossible to fulfill the conditions of the trust with regard to an individual beneficiary for reasons other than the death of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-9. Beneficiary's interest in trust not asset for income eligibility determination.

Notwithstanding any provisions of Chapter 108A of the General Statutes, the beneficiary's interest in any community trust shall not be deemed to be an asset for the purpose of determining income eligibility for any publicly operated program, nor shall that interest be reached in satisfaction of a claim for support and maintenance of the beneficiary. No agency shall reduce the benefits of services available to any individual because that person is the beneficiary of a community trust.

"§ 36D-10. Trust not subject to law against perpetuities; restraints on alienation.

A community trust shall not be subject to or held to be in violation of any principle of law against perpetuities or restraints on alienation or perpetual accumulations of trusts.

"§ 36D-11. Settlement; trustee limitations.

The community trust shall settle a community trust by filing a final accounting in the superior court. In addition, at anytime prior to the settlement of the final account, the community trust, the Secretary of State, or the Attorney General may bring an action for the dissolution of a nonprofit corporation in the superior court for the purpose of terminating the trust or merging it with another charitable trust.

No trustee or any private individual shall be entitled to share in the distribution of any of the trust assets upon dissolution, merger, or settlement of the community trust. Upon dissolution, merger, or settlement, the superior court shall distribute all of the remaining net assets of the community trust in a manner that is consistent with the purposes of this Article."

SECTION 4. G.S. 32-28 and G.S. 32-34 are repealed.

SECTION 5. G.S. 28A-13-6 reads as rewritten:

The common law of trusts and principles of equity supplement this Chapter, except to the extent modified by this Chapter or another statute of this State.

"§ 36C-1-107. Governing law.

(2) Would be a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal upon the termination of the interest of other distributees or permissible distributees then receiving or eligible to receive distributions, but the termination of those interests would not cause the trust to terminate; or

(3) Would be a distributee or permissible distributee of trust income or principal if the trust terminated on that date.

(b) A person appointed to enforce a trust created for the care of an animal or another noncharitable purpose as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or G.S. 36C-4-409 has the rights of a qualified beneficiary under this Chapter.

(d) Any interested person may request the court to approve a nonjudicial settlement agreement, to determine whether the representation as provided in Article 3 of this Chapter was adequate, and to determine whether the agreement contains terms and conditions the court could have properly approved.

"§ 36C-1-112. Rules of construction.

The rules of construction that apply in this State to the interpretation of and disposition of property by will also apply as appropriate to the interpretation of the terms of a trust and the disposition of the trust property.

(b) With respect to their interests in the trust, the beneficiaries of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State are subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust. By accepting a distribution from such a trust, the recipient submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust.

(c) This section does not preclude other methods of obtaining jurisdiction over a trustee, beneficiary, or other person receiving property from the trust.

"§ 36C-2-203. Subject matter jurisdiction.

(a) The clerks of superior court of this State have original jurisdiction over all proceedings concerning the internal affairs of trusts. Proceedings concerning the internal affairs of the trust are those concerning the administration and distribution of trusts, the declaration of rights, and the determination of other matters involving trustees and trust beneficiaries, to the extent that those matters are not otherwise provided for in the governing instrument. These include proceedings:

(1) To appoint or remove a trustee;

(2) To permit a trustee to resign or renounce; however, unless the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, when the governing instrument names or provides a procedure to name a successor trustee, and the successor trustee is willing to serve, no trustee is required to initiate a proceeding to resign or renounce as trustee;

(3) To review trustees' fees under Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes and review and settle interim or final accounts;

(4) To (i) convert an income trust to a total return unitrust, (ii) reconvert a total return unitrust to an income trust, or (iii) change the percentage used to calculate the unitrust amount or the method used to determine the fair market value of the trust as provided in G.S. 37A-1-104.3;

(5) To transfer a trust's principal place of administration;

(6) To require a trustee to provide bond and determine the amount of the bond, excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties;

(7) To make orders with respect to a trust for the care of animals as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

(8) To make orders with respect to a noncharitable trust without an ascertainable beneficiary as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409; and

(9) To ascertain beneficiaries, to determine any question arising in the administration or distribution of any trust, including questions of construction of trust instruments, and to determine the existence or nonexistence of trusts created other than by will and the existence or nonexistence of any immunity, power, privilege, duty, or right. Upon motion of a party, the clerk of superior court may determine that a proceeding to determine an issue listed in this subdivision shall be originally heard by the superior court division of the General Court of Justice.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed (i) to confer upon the clerk of superior court any authority to regulate or supervise the actions of a trustee except to the extent that the trustee's actions are inconsistent with the governing instrument or of State law; or (ii) to confer upon any party any additional right, remedy, or cause of action not otherwise conferred by law.

(c) Nothing in this section affects the right of a person to file an action for declaratory relief under Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes. In the event either the petitioner or respondent in a trust proceeding requests declaratory relief under Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes, either party may move for a transfer of the proceeding to the superior court division of the General Court of Justice as provided in Article 21 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes. In absence of removal to superior court, Article 26 of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes shall apply to a trust proceeding to the extent consistent with this Article.

(d) The clerk of superior court shall not, over the objection of a party, entertain proceedings under this section involving a trust having its principal place of administration in another state, except:

(1) When all appropriate parties could not be bound by litigation in the courts of the state in which the trust had its principal place of administration; or

(2) When the interests of justice otherwise would be seriously impaired.

The clerk of superior court may condition a stay or dismissal of a proceeding under this section on the consent of any party to jurisdiction of the state in which the trust has its principal place of administration, or the clerk of superior court may grant a continuance or enter any other appropriate order.

(e) Any party to a proceeding before the clerk of superior court may appeal from the decision of the clerk to a superior court judge as provided for estate matters in G.S. 1-301.3.

(f) Without otherwise limiting the jurisdiction of the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, proceedings concerning the internal affairs of trusts shall not include, and, therefore, the clerk of superior court shall not have jurisdiction under subsection (a) of this section of the following:

(1) Actions to reform, terminate, or modify a trust as provided by G.S. 36C-4-410 through G.S. 36C-4-416;

(2) Actions by or against creditors or debtors of a trust;

(3) Actions involving claims for monetary damages, including claims for breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, and negligence;

(4) Actions to enforce a charitable trust under G.S. 36C-4-405A; and

(5) Actions to amend or reform a charitable trust under G.S. 36C-4A-1.

"§ 36C-2-204. Venue.

In any trust proceeding or action, whether brought before the clerk of superior court or the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, the following rules apply notwithstanding any other applicable Rule of Civil Procedure or provision of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes:

(1) If the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, then unless the terms of the governing instrument provide otherwise, venue for proceedings under G.S. 36C-2-203 involving trusts is the place where the accountings are filed.

(2) If the trustee is not required to account to the clerk of superior court, then unless the terms of the governing instrument provide otherwise, venue for proceedings under G.S. 36C-2-203 involving trusts is:

a. In the case of an inter vivos trust, in any county of this State in which the trust has its principal place of administration or where any beneficiary resides; or

b. In the case of a testamentary trust, in any county of this State in which the trust has its principal place of administration, where any beneficiary resides, or in which the testator's estate was administered.

(3) Unless otherwise designated in the governing instrument, the principal place of administration of the trust is the trustee's usual place of business where the records pertaining to the trust are kept, or at the trustee's residence if the trustee has no such place of business. In the case of co-trustees, the principal place of administration, if not otherwise designated in the governing instrument, is:

a. The usual place of business of the corporate trustee if there is but one corporate or co-trustee; or

b. The usual place of business or residence of any of the co-trustees.

(4) If a trust has no trustee, venue for a judicial proceeding for the appointment of a trustee is in any county of this State in which a beneficiary resides, in any county in which trust property is located, in the county of this State specified in the trust instrument, if any county is so specified, or if the trust is created by will, in the county in which the decedent's estate was or is being administered.

"§ 36C-2-205. Commencement of proceedings, pleadings, consolidation, and joinder.

(a) Contested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court brought against adverse parties shall be commenced as is prescribed for civil actions. Upon the filing of the petition or complaint, the clerk of superior court shall docket the cause as an estate matter. All parties not joined as petitioners shall be joined as respondents. The clerk of superior court shall issue the summons for the respondents. The clerk of superior court may order that additional persons be joined as respondents and shall issue the summons for the additional persons. The summons shall notify the respondents to appear and answer the petition within 10 days after its service upon the respondents. The summons shall comply with the requirements set forth in G.S. 1-394 for a special proceeding summons except that the clerk of superior court shall indicate on the summons by appropriate words that the summons is issued in an estate matter and not in a special proceeding or in a civil action and shall be served upon the respondents in accordance with Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. After the time for responding to the petition or complaint has expired, any party or the clerk of superior court may give notice to all parties of a hearing.

(b) Uncontested Proceedings. – Trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court in which all the parties join in the proceeding shall be commenced by the filing of a petition, setting forth the facts entitling the petitioners to relief and the nature of the relief demanded. In these proceedings, the clerk of superior court may hear and decide the petition summarily.

(c) Pleadings. – The petition or complaint filed in a trust proceeding before the clerk of superior court shall contain a short and plain statement of the claim which is sufficiently particular to give the court and the parties notice of the transactions, occurrences, or series of transactions, intended to be proved showing that the pleaders entitled to relief, and a demand for judgment for the relief to which the pleader is entitled. Each averment of a pleading should be simple, concise, and direct. No technical forms of pleadings or motions are required. A party may set forth two or more statements of a claim or defense alternatively or hypothetically. The signature of an attorney or party constitutes a certificate by that attorney or party that (i) the attorney or party has read the pleading, motion, or other paper; (ii) to the best of the attorney's or party's knowledge, information, and belief formed after reasonable inquiry, it is well grounded in fact and is warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law; and (iii) it is not interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation. All pleadings shall be so construed as to do substantial justice.

(d) Extensions of Time. – The clerk of superior court, for cause shown at any time in the clerk's discretion, with or without motion or notice, may enter an order enlarging the period of time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, if the request is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed, but not to exceed 10 days, nor more than once. Upon motion made after the expiration of the specified period, the clerk of superior court may permit the act where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the parties to a proceeding may enter into binding stipulations, without approval of the clerk of superior court, enlarging the time within which an act is required or permitted by this Article, by any applicable Rules of Civil Procedure or by order of the court, not to exceed 30 days.

(e) Rules of Civil Procedure. – Unless the clerk of superior court otherwise directs, Rules 5, 6(a), 6(d), 6(e), 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, and 45 of the Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to trust proceedings. Upon motion of a party or the clerk of superior court, the clerk may further direct that the following Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply: Rules 15, 16, 17, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, and 37; however, nothing in Rule 17 requires the appointment of a guardian ad litem for a party represented except as provided under G.S. 36C-3-305. In applying these Rules to a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court, the term "judge" shall be construed as "clerk of superior court."

(f) Consolidation. – When a trust proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court and a civil action pending before the superior court division of the General Court of Justice involve a common question of law or fact, upon the court's motion or motion of a party to either the trust proceeding or the civil action, a superior court judge may order a consolidation of the trust proceeding and civil action, and the judge may make orders concerning proceedings therein as may tend to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Upon the entry of an order consolidating a trust proceeding and civil action, the jurisdiction for all matters pending in both the trust proceeding and the civil action shall be vested in the superior court.

(g) Joinder. – In any civil action pending before a superior court division of the General Court of Justice, a party asserting a claim for relief as an original claim, counterclaim, cross claim, or third-party claim, may join, either as independent or as alternate claims, as many claims, legal or equitable, as that party has against an opposing party notwithstanding the fact that the claims may otherwise be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the clerk of superior court.

(h) Orders Upon Consolidation/Joinder. – Upon the consolidation of a trust proceeding and civil action or joinder of claims under subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of superior court or the judge may make such orders as appropriate to protect the interests of the parties and to avoid unnecessary costs or delay. Notwithstanding the consolidation or joinder of claims under subsection (f) or (g) of this section, the clerk of court's exclusive jurisdiction as set forth in G.S. 36C-2-203(a) shall not be stayed unless so ordered by the court.

"§ 36C-2-206. Representation of parties.

In any trust proceeding or action, whether brought before the clerk of superior court or in the superior court division of the General Court of Justice, the following rules apply notwithstanding any other applicable Rule of Civil Procedure or provision of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes:

(1) Parties shall be represented as provided in Article 3 of this Chapter.

(2) In the case of any party represented by another as provided in subdivision (1) of this section, service of process shall be made by serving such representative.

"§ 36C-2-207. Waiver of notice.

A party, or the representative of the party as provided in G.S. 36C-2-206, may waive notice by a writing signed by the party, the representative, or the attorney of the party or the representative, and filed in the proceeding.

"§ 36C-2-208. Accounting to clerk.

(a) No trustee, including a trustee appointed by the clerk of superior court, is required to account to the clerk of superior court unless the trust instrument directs that the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court or unless the trustee is otherwise required by law to account to the clerk of superior court.

(b) If the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court, the trustee shall not be permitted to resign as trustee until a final account of the trust estate is filed with the clerk of superior court and until the court is satisfied that the account is true and correct, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise.

(c) Notwithstanding subsections (a) and (b) of this section, under a proceeding brought under G.S. 36C-4-405A, the clerk of superior court may require a trustee of a charitable trust to account to the clerk of superior court.

"§ 36C-2-209. Qualification and accounting of trustee of a testamentary trust.

(a) For any testamentary trust created under a will of a decedent executed before January 1, 2004, the trustee shall first qualify under the laws applicable to executors, and shall file in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county where the will is probated inventories of the assets that come into the trustee's hands and annual and final accounts of the trust that are the same as required of executors and administrators. The power of the clerk of superior court to enforce the filing and the clerk's duties to audit and approve the trustee's inventories and accounts is the same as the clerk's powers and duties with respect to the inventories and accounts of executors and administrators. This subsection shall not apply to the extent that the will makes a different provision.

(b) For any testamentary trust created under a will of a decedent executed on or after January 1, 2004, that directs the trustee to account to the clerk of superior court, the trustee shall first qualify under the laws applicable to executors and shall file in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county where the will is probated inventories of the assets that come into the trustee's hands and annual and final accounts of the trust that are the same as are required of executors and administrators. The power of the clerk of superior court to enforce the filing and the clerk's duties to audit and approve the trustee's inventories and accounts is the same as the clerk's powers and duties with respect to the inventories and accounts of executors and administrators. No trustee, including a trustee appointed by the clerk of superior court, is required to account to the clerk of superior court unless the will directs that the trustee is required to account to the clerk of superior court or unless otherwise required by law.

(c) The Administrative Office of the Courts may adopt rules regulating the registration or indexing of testamentary trusts.

"Article 3.

"Representation.

"§ 36C-3-301. Representation: basic effect.

(a) Notice to a person who may represent and bind another person under this Article has the same effect as if notice were given directly to the other person.

(b) The consent of a person who may represent and bind another person under this Article is binding on the person represented unless the person represented objects to the representation before the consent would otherwise have become effective.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-411 and G.S. 36C-6-602, a person who under this Article may represent a settlor who lacks capacity may receive notice and give a binding consent on the settlor's behalf.

(d) A settlor may not represent and bind a beneficiary under this Article with respect to the termination or modification of trust under G.S. 36C-4-411(a).

"§ 36C-3-302. Representation by holder of general testamentary power of appointment.

The sole holder or all coholders of a power of revocation or a presently exercisable general power of appointment, including one in the form of a power of amendment, shall represent other persons to the extent that their interests, as permissible appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power. To the extent there is no conflict of interest between the holder of a general testamentary power of appointment and the persons represented with respect to the particular question or dispute, the holder may represent and bind persons whose interests, as permissible appointees, takers in default, or otherwise, are subject to the power.

"§ 36C-3-303. Representation by fiduciaries, parents, and other persons.

To the extent that there is no conflict of interest between the representative and the person represented or among those being represented with respect to a particular question or dispute:

(7) A person may represent and bind that person's unborn issue.

"§ 36C-3-304. Representation by person having substantially identical interest.

"§ 36C-3-305. Appointment of representative; scope of representation.

(a) If the court determines that an interest is not represented under this Article, or that the otherwise available representation might be inadequate, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to receive notice, give consent, and otherwise represent, bind, and act on behalf of a minor, incapacitated or unborn individual, or a person whose identity or location is unknown. A guardian ad litem may be appointed to represent several persons or interests.

"Article 4.

"Creation, Validity, Modification, and Termination of Trust.

"§ 36C-4-401. Methods of creating trust.

A trust may be created by:

(1) Transfer of property by a settlor to a person as trustee during the settlor's lifetime or by will or other disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death;
(2) Declaration by the owner of property that the owner holds identifiable property as trustee unless the transfer of title of that property is otherwise required by law; or
(3) Exercise of a power of appointment in favor of a trustee.

"§ 36C-4-401A. Interest of trustee as beneficiary of life insurance or other death benefit sufficient to support inter vivos or testamentary trust.

(a) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured or any other person or persons reserves or has the right to exercise any one or more of the following rights or powers:

(1) To change the beneficiary;
(2) To surrender the policy and receive the cash surrender value;
(3) To borrow from the insurance company issuing the policy or elsewhere using the policy as collateral security;
(4) To assign the policy; or
(5) To exercise any other right in connection with the policy commonly known as an incident of ownership of that policy.

The term "life insurance policy" includes life, annuity, and endowment contracts, or any variation or combination of those contracts, and any agreement entered into by an insurance company in connection with life, annuity, or endowments contracts.

(b) The interest of a trustee as the beneficiary of a death benefit under an employee benefit plan or group life insurance policy is a sufficient property interest or res to support the creation of an inter vivos or testamentary trust notwithstanding the fact that the insured, employer, insurer or administrator of the plan reserves or has the right to revoke or otherwise defeat the designation or assignment or to exercise any one or more of the rights or powers incident to employee benefit plans or group life insurance policies.

The term "employee benefit plan" includes pension, retirement, death benefit, deferred compensation, employment, agency, retirement annuity, stock bonus, profit-sharing or employees' savings contracts, plans, systems or trusts; and trusts, securities or accounts established or held under the federal Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962, the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, or similar legislation. The term "group life insurance policy" includes group life, industrial life, accident, and health insurance policies having death benefits.

(c) A testator having the right to designate the beneficiary under a life insurance policy, employee benefit plan, or group life insurance policy described in subsection (a) or (b) of this section may designate as that beneficiary a trustee named or to be named in the testator's will whether or not the will is in existence at the time of the designation. The proceeds received by the trustee shall be held and disposed of as part of the trust estate under the terms of the will as they exist at the death of the testator. If no trustee makes claim to the proceeds within six months after the death of the testator, payments shall be made to the personal representative of the estate of the testator unless it is otherwise provided by an alternative designation or by the policy or plan. The proceeds received by the trustee is not subject to claims against the estate of the testator to estate or inheritance taxes to any greater extent than if the proceeds were payable directly to the beneficiary or beneficiaries named in the trust. The proceeds may be commingled with any other assets that may properly become part of the trust, but the proceeds shall not become part of the testator's estate for purposes of trust administration unless the will expressly so provides.

"§ 36C-4-402. Requirements for creation.

(a) A trust is created only if:

(1) The settlor has capacity to create a trust;

(2) The settlor indicates an intention to create the trust;

(3) The trust has a definite beneficiary or is:

a. A charitable trust;

b. A trust for the care of an animal, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-408;

c. A trust for a noncharitable purpose, as provided in G.S. 36C-4-409;

(4) The trustee has duties to perform; and

(5) The same person is not the sole trustee and sole beneficiary.

(b) A beneficiary is definite if the beneficiary can be ascertained now or in the future, subject to any applicable rule against perpetuities.

(c) A power in a trustee to select a beneficiary from an indefinite class is valid. If the power is not exercised within a reasonable time, the power fails and the property subject to the power passes to the persons who would have taken the property had the power not been conferred.

"§ 36C-4-403. Trusts created in other jurisdictions.

A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complies with the law of the jurisdiction in which the trust instrument was executed, or the law of the jurisdiction in which, at the time of creation:

(1) The settlor was domiciled, had a place of abode, or was a national;

(2) A trustee was domiciled or had a place of business; or

(3) Any trust property was located.

"§ 36C-4-404. Trust purposes.

A trust may be created only to the extent that its purposes are lawful, not contrary to public policy, and possible to achieve. A trust and its terms must be for the benefit of its beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-4-405. Charitable purposes.

(a) A charitable trust may be created for the relief of poverty, the advancement of education or religion, the promotion of health, scientific, benevolent, literary, governmental, or municipal purposes, or other purposes the achievement of which is beneficial to the community.

(b) It is the policy of the State that a gift for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, is valid, notwithstanding the fact that the gift is made in general terms, and this section shall be construed liberally to effect this policy.

(c) No gift for charitable purposes, whether in trust or otherwise, is void or invalid because:

(1) The gift is in general terms or is uncertain as to the specific charitable purposes;

(2) When the gift is made in trust, the trustee is granted discretionary powers in the selection and designation of the beneficiaries of that charitable trust or in carrying out the purpose of that trust;

(3) The trustee or other recipient of the gift is given no specific instructions, powers, or duties as to the manner or means of carrying out those charitable purposes; or

(4) The gift contravenes any statute or rule against perpetuities.

(d) When any gift is made in general terms, the trustee or other recipient of the gift may:

(1) Select from time to time one or more specific charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which any trust or property or income is held and administered; and

(2) Determine the means to accomplish those charitable purposes, unless otherwise provided, including the creation of corporations or other legal entities for those purposes.

(e) For purposes of this section, the reference to a "gift" includes both inter vivos and testamentary gifts, grants, and other transfers.

"§ 36C-4-405A. Enforcement of charitable gift or trust.

(a) The settlor of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, the district attorney, a beneficiary, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce a charitable trust, including the following:

(1) A proceeding to require a trustee to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the trust was established, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405;

(2) A proceeding for breach of fiduciary duty if there is reason to believe that the trust property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud; and

(3) A proceeding for an accounting of the trustee's administration of the trust.

(b) The donor of a charitable gift, the Attorney General, the district attorney, or any other interested party may maintain a proceeding to enforce the gift, including a proceeding to require the recipient of the gift to make a selection as may be necessary to establish the charitable beneficiaries or purposes for which the gift was intended, as provided in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(2) of G.S. 36C-4-405.

"§ 36C-4-406. Creation of trust induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

A trust is voidable to the extent that its creation was induced by fraud, duress, or undue influence.

"§ 36C-4-407. Evidence of oral trust.

Except as required by a State statute other than this Chapter, a trust need not be evidenced by a trust instrument, but the creation of an oral trust and its terms may be established only by clear and convincing evidence.

"§ 36C-4-408. Trust for care of animal.

(a) Subject to this section, a trust for the care of one or more designated domestic or pet animals alive at the time of creation of the trust is valid.

(b) Except as expressly provided otherwise in the trust instrument, no portion of the principal or income may be converted to the use of the trustee or to any use other than for the benefit of the designated animal or animals.

(c) The trust terminates at the death of the animal or last surviving animal. Upon termination, the trustee shall transfer the unexpended trust property in the following order:

(1) As directed in the trust instrument;

(2) If the trust was created in a preresiduary clause in the transferor's will or in a codicil to the transferor's will, under the residuary clause in the transferor's will;

(3) If no taker is produced by the application of subdivision (1) or (2) of this subsection, to the transferor or the transferor's heirs determined as of the date of the transferor's death under Chapter 29 of the General Statutes.

(d) The intended use of the principal or income can be enforced by a person designated for that purpose in the trust instrument or, if none, by a person appointed by the clerk of superior court having jurisdiction over the decedent's estate upon application to the clerk of superior court by a person.

(e) Except as ordered by the clerk of superior court or required by the trust instrument, no filing, report, registration, periodic accounting, separate maintenance of funds, appointment, bond, or fee is required by reason of the existence of the fiduciary relationship of the trustee.

(f) A governing instrument shall be liberally construed to bring the transfer within this section, to presume against the merely precatory or honorary nature of the disposition, and to carry out the general intent of the transferor. Extrinsic evidence is admissible in determining the transferor's intent.

(g) The clerk of superior court may reduce the amount of the property transferred, if the clerk of superior court determines that the amount substantially exceeds the amount required for the intended use. The amount of the reduction, if any, passes as unexpended trust property under subsection (c) of this section.

(h) If no trustee is designated or if no designated trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve, the clerk of superior court must name a trustee. The clerk of superior court may order the transfer of the property to another trustee, if required to assure that the intended use is carried out and if no successor trustee is designated in the trust instrument or if no designated successor trustee agrees to serve or is able to serve. The clerk of superior court may also make other orders and determinations as are advisable to carry out the intent of the transferor and the purpose of this section.

"§ 36C-4-409. Noncharitable trust without ascertainable beneficiary.

Except as otherwise provided in G.S. 36C-4-408 or by another statute, the following rules apply:

(1) A trust may be created for a noncharitable purpose without a definite or definitely ascertainable beneficiary or for a noncharitable but otherwise valid purpose to be selected by the trustee. The trust may not be enforced for more than 21 years.

(2) A trust authorized by this section may be enforced by a person appointed in the terms of the trust or, if no person is so appointed, by a person appointed by the court.

(3) Property of a trust authorized by this section may be applied only to its intended use, except to the extent that the court determines that the value of the trust property exceeds the amount required for the intended use. Except as otherwise provided in the terms of the trust, property not required for the intended use must be distributed to the settlor, if then living, or otherwise to the settlor's successors in interest.

(4) Notwithstanding subdivisions (1) through (3) of this section, a trust, contract, or other arrangement to provide for the care of a cemetery lot, grave, crypt, niche, mausoleum, columbarium, grave marker, or monument is valid without regard to remoteness of vesting, duration of the arrangement, or lack of definite beneficiaries to enforce the trust, provided that the trust, contract, or other arrangement meets the requirements of G.S. 28A-19-10, Article 4 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, Article 9 of Chapter 65 of the General Statutes, or other applicable law. This section does not repeal or supersede G.S. 36C-4-413.

"§ 36C-4-410. Modification or termination of trust; proceedings for approval or disapproval.

(a) In addition to the methods of termination prescribed by G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-414, a trust terminates to the extent that the trust is revoked or expires under its terms, no purpose of the trust remains to be achieved, or the purposes of the trust have become unlawful, contrary to public policy, or impossible to achieve.

(b) A trustee or beneficiary may commence a proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under G.S. 36C-4-411 through G.S. 36C-4-416, or trust combination or division under G.S. 36C-4-417. A settler may commence a proceeding to approve or disapprove a proposed modification or termination under G.S. 36C-4-411. The settlor of a charitable trust may maintain a proceeding to modify the trust under G.S. 36C-4-413. A trustee is a necessary party to any proceeding under this section.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section is as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-411. Modification or termination of noncharitable irrevocable trust by consent.

(a) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified or terminated upon consent of the settlor and all beneficiaries, even if the modification or termination is inconsistent with a material purpose of the trust. A settlor's power to consent to a trust's modification or termination may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the power of attorney or the terms of the trust; by the settlor's general guardian or the guardian of the estate with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized; or by the settlor's guardian of the person with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship if an agent is not so authorized and a general guardian or guardian of the estate has not been appointed.

(b) A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be terminated upon consent of all of the beneficiaries if the court concludes that continuance of the trust is not necessary to achieve any material purpose of the trust. A noncharitable irrevocable trust may be modified upon consent of all of the beneficiaries, if the court concludes that modification is consistent with a material purpose of the trust.

(c) Where the beneficiaries of an irrevocable trust seek to compel a termination of the trust and the continuance of the trust is necessary to carry out a material purpose of the trust, or where the beneficiaries seek to compel a modification of the trust in a manner that is inconsistent with its material purpose, the trust may be modified or terminated, in the discretion of the court, only if the court determines that the reason for modifying or terminating the trust under the circumstances substantially outweighs the interest in accomplishing a material purpose of the trust.

(d) If not all of the beneficiaries consent to a proposed modification or termination of the trust under subsection (a), (b) or (c) of this section, the modification or termination may be approved by the court if the court is satisfied that:

(1) If all of the beneficiaries had consented, the trust could have been modified or terminated under this section; and

(2) The interests of a beneficiary who does not consent will be adequately protected.

(e) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-412. Modification or termination because of unanticipated circumstances or inability to administer trust effectively.

(a) The court may modify the administrative or dispositive terms of a trust or terminate the trust if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the settlor, modification or termination will further the purposes of the trust. To the extent practicable, the modification must be made in accordance with the settlor's probable intention.

(b) The court may modify the administrative terms of a trust if continuation of the trust on its existing terms would be impracticable or wasteful or impair the trust's administration.

(c) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-413. Cy pres.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, if a charitable trust becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful:

(1) The trust does not fail, in whole or in part;

(2) The trust property does not revert to the settlor or the settlor's successors in interest; and

(3) The court may apply cy pres to modify or terminate the trust by directing that the trust property be applied or distributed, in whole or in part, in a manner consistent with the settlor's charitable purposes.

(b) The settlor or a trustee of a charitable trust, the Attorney General, a beneficiary or any other interested party may maintain a cy pres proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter.

(c) In every cy pres proceeding, the Attorney General shall be notified and given an opportunity to be heard.

(d) This section is not applicable if the settlor has provided, either directly or indirectly, for an alternative plan in the event that the charitable trust is or becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible to achieve, or wasteful. However, if the alternative plan is also a charitable trust and that trust fails, the intention shown in the original plan shall prevail in the application of this section.

"§ 36C-4-414. Modification or termination of uneconomic trust.

(a) After notice to the qualified beneficiaries, the trustee of a trust consisting of trust property having a total value of less than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) may terminate the trust if the trustee concludes that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration. The trustee may enter into an agreement or make other provisions that the trustee deems necessary or appropriate to protect the interests of the beneficiaries and to carry out the intent and purpose of the trust. This subsection shall not apply where the instrument creating the trust, by specific reference to this section, or to former G.S. 36A-125.6, provides that it shall not apply. The trustee shall not be liable for that termination and distribution notwithstanding the existence or potential existence of other beneficiaries who are not sui juris. Any beneficiary receiving a distribution from a trust terminated under this section shall incur no liability and shall not be required to account to anyone for such distribution.

(b) The court may modify or terminate a trust or remove the trustee and appoint a different trustee if the court determines that the value of the trust property is insufficient to justify the cost of administration.

(c) This section does not apply to an easement for conservation or preservation.

(d) Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section is as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-415. Reformation to correct mistakes.

The court may reform the terms of a trust, even if unambiguous, to conform the terms to the settlor's intention if it is proved by clear and convincing evidence that both the settlor's intent and the terms of the trust were affected by a mistake of fact or law, whether in expression or inducement. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-416. Modification to achieve settlor's tax objectives.

To achieve a settlor's tax objectives, the court may modify the terms of a trust in a manner that is not contrary to the settlor's probable intention. The court may provide that the modification has retroactive effect. Jurisdiction of a proceeding brought under this section shall be as provided in G.S. 36C-2-203.

"§ 36C-4-417. Combination and division of trusts.

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the trust instrument, after notice to the qualified beneficiaries, a trustee may:

(1) Consolidate the assets of more than one trust and administer the assets as one trust under the terms of one of the trusts if the terms of the trusts are substantially similar and the beneficiaries of the trusts are identical; or

(2) Divide one trust into two or more separate trusts if the new trusts provide in the aggregate for the same succession of interests and beneficiaries as are provided in the original trust.

(b) In dividing a trust into two or more separate trusts, a trustee shall accomplish the division by severing the trusts on a fractional basis and funding the separate trusts either (i) with a pro rata portion of each asset held by the undivided trust; or (ii) on a non-pro rata basis based on either the fair market value of the assets on the date of funding or in a manner that fairly reflects the net appreciation or depreciation in the value of the assets measured from the valuation date to the date of funding.

(c) In any case where two separate identical trusts are created under this section, one of which is fully exempt from the federal generation-skipping transfer tax and one of which is fully subject to that tax, the trustee may thereafter, to the extent possible consistent with the terms of the trust, determine the value of any mandatory or discretionary distributions to trust beneficiaries on the basis of the combined value of both trusts, but may satisfy those distributions by a method other than pro rata from the separate trusts in a manner designed to minimize the current and potential generation-skipping transfer tax.

"§ 36C-4-418. Distribution upon termination of trust.

Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, the trustee shall distribute the trust property as agreed by the beneficiaries. Upon termination of a trust under G.S. 36C-4-412 or G.S. 36C-4-414, the trustee shall distribute the trust property in a manner consistent with the purposes of the trust. If any trust property becomes distributable to a minor or incompetent under this Article it may be distributed:

(1) To the guardian of the estate or general guardian of the beneficiary;

(2) In accordance with the North Carolina Uniform Transfer to Minors Act, Chapter 33A of the General Statutes; or

(3) In accordance with the North Carolina Custodial Trust Act, Chapter 33B of the General Statutes.

"§ 36C-4-419. Effect of inalienable interest on modification or termination.

The court, in exercising its discretion to modify or terminate an irrevocable trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, 36C-4-412 or 36C-4-413 shall consider provisions making the interest of a beneficiary inalienable, including those described in Article 5, but the court is not precluded from the exercise of that discretion solely because of such provisions.

"Article 4A.

"Tax Status of Charitable Trusts.

"§ 36C-4A-1. Prohibited transactions.

(a) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the trust instrument of each trust that is a private foundation described in section 509 of the Internal Revenue Code (including each nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code that is treated as a private foundation) and the trust instrument of each nonexempt split-interest trust described in section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code (but only to the extent that section 508(e) of the Internal Revenue Code is applicable to the nonexempt split-interest trust under section 4947(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code) is considered to contain the following provisions: "The trust shall make distributions at any time and in any manner as not to subject it to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not engage in any act of self-dealing which would subject it to tax under section 4941 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not retain any excess business holdings that would subject it to tax under section 4943 of the Internal Revenue Code; the trust shall not make any investments that would subject it to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code; and the trust shall not make any taxable expenditures that would subject it to tax under section 4945 of the Internal Revenue Code." With respect to any trust created before January 1, 1970, this section shall apply only for its taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1972.

(b) Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instrument to the contrary, unless otherwise decreed by a court of competent jurisdiction except as provided in subsection (a) of this section, the governing instrument of each trust that is a nonexempt charitable trust described in section 4947(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code is considered to contain the following provisions:

(1) The trust shall be operated exclusively for charitable, educational, religious and scientific purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) and section 170(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(2) Upon any dissolution, winding up, or liquidation of the trust, its assets shall be distributed for one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or shall be distributed to the federal government, or a state or local government for a public purpose.

(c) The trustee of any trust described in this section may do one of the following:

(1) Without judicial proceedings, amend the trust to expressly exclude the application of this section by executing a written amendment to the trust instrument and filing a duplicate original of the amendment with the Attorney General. Upon filing of the amendment, this section shall not apply to that trust.

(2) Institute a proceeding under Article 2 of this Chapter seeking reformation of the trust instrument.

"§ 36C-4A-2. Reformation of charitable remainder trust.

If a federal estate tax deduction is not allowable at the time of a decedent's death because of the failure of an interest in property that passes from the decedent under a will or trust to a person, or for a use, described in section 2055(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, to meet the requirements of subsections 2055(e)(2)(A) or (B) of the Internal Revenue Code, then in order that the deduction shall nevertheless be allowable under section 2055(e)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, the court may, on application of any trustee or interested party with either (i) the written consent of the qualified beneficiaries, or (ii) a finding that the interest of those beneficiaries is substantially preserved, order an amendment to the trust so that the remainder interest is in a trust that is a charitable remainder annuity trust, a charitable remainder unitrust (as those terms are described in section 664 of the Internal Revenue Code), or a pooled income fund (as that term is described in section 642(c)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code), or so that any other interest of a charitable beneficiary is in the form of a guaranteed annuity or is a fixed percentage distributed yearly of the fair market value of the property (to be determined yearly), in accordance with section 2055(e)(2)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code. In every proceeding under this section, the Attorney General shall be notified, and given an opportunity to be heard.

"Article 4B.

"Charitable Remainder Trust Administration Act.

"§ 36C-4B-1. Short title.

This Article shall be known as the Charitable Remainder Administration Trust Act.

"§ 36C-4B-2. General rule.

Notwithstanding any provisions in the laws of this State or in the governing instruments to the contrary, any charitable remainder annuity trust and any charitable remainder unitrust that cannot qualify for a deduction for federal tax purposes under section 2055 or section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code in the absence of this Article shall be administered in accordance with this Article.

"§ 36C-4B-3. Definitions.

The following definitions apply to this Article unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Charitable remainder trust" means a trust that provides for a specified distribution at least annually for either life or a term of years to one or more beneficiaries, at least one of which is not a charity (hereinafter referred to as "beneficiaries"), with an irrevocable remainder interest to be held for the benefit of, or paid over to, charity. For purposes of this Article, only a charitable remainder annuity trust or a charitable remainder unitrust is considered a charitable remainder trust.

(2) "Charitable remainder annuity trust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a sum certain (that is not less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of all property placed in trust) is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to or for or both to and for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code or is to be retained by the trust for that use.

(3) "Charitable remainder unitrust" means a charitable remainder trust:

a. From which a fixed percentage (that is not less than five percent (5%)) of the net fair market value of its assets, valued annually, is to be paid at least annually to one or more persons (at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and, in the case of individuals, only to an individual who was living at the time of the creation of the trust) for a term of years (not in excess of 20 years) or for the life or lives of that individual or those individuals; however, in the case of an individual, the amount to be paid to that individual may be made subject to a qualified contingency according to the terms of the governing instrument;

b. From which no amount other than the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision may be paid to or for the use of anyone other than an organization that is or was an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and

c. Following the termination of the payments described in sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, the remainder interest in the trust is to be transferred to, or for the use of, an organization that is or was described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, or is to be retained by the trust for such a use.

Notwithstanding sub-subdivisions a. and b. of this subdivision, the trust instrument may provide that the trustee shall pay to the income beneficiary for any year (i) the amount of the trust income if that amount is less than the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivision a. of this subdivision, and (ii) any amount of the trust income that exceeds the amount required to be distributed under sub-subdivision a of this subdivision to the extent that (by reason of sub-subdivision a.) the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the required amounts.

(4) "Qualified contingency" means any provision of the governing instrument that provides that, upon the happening of a contingency, the payments made to an individual noncharitable beneficiary of a charitable remainder trust will terminate not later than those payments would otherwise terminate under the governing instrument.

"§ 36C-4B-4. Administrative provisions applicable to both charitable remainder annuity trusts and charitable remainder unit trusts.

(a) Creation of Remainder Interests in Charity. – Upon the termination of the noncharitable interests, the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiary or beneficiaries, to the designated charity or charities, or shall hold the property in trust for the designated charity or charities in accordance with the terms of the trust document.

(b) Selection of Alternate Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – If the designated charity is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code at the time when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee must distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the trust instrument. If the trust instrument does not provide for a method of selecting alternate charitable beneficiaries that are then qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee must, in the trustee's sole discretion, select alternate trust beneficiaries that are qualified under section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(bl) Selection of Alternative Charitable Beneficiary if Remaindermen Do Not Qualify Under Section 170(b)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code at Time of Distribution. – Notwithstanding subsection (b) of this section, if the designated charity is, at the time of the creation of the trust, an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, and if the designated charity is not an organization described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code when any principal or income of the trust is to be distributed to it, the trustee must distribute the principal or income to one or more organizations then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code selected in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument; however, in the event that the governing instrument does not provide a method of selecting alternative charitable beneficiaries that are then described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, the trustee shall, in his sole discretion, select one or more alternative charitable beneficiaries that are described in both section 170(b)(1)(A) and section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and must distribute the principal or income to the organization or organizations so selected in shares as the trustee, in the trustee's sole discretion, shall determine.

(c) Prohibitions Governing Trustees. – Except for payment of the annuity amount or the unitrust amount to the beneficiaries, whichever is applicable, the trustee is prohibited from engaging in any act of self-dealing as defined in section 4941(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, retaining any excess business holdings as defined in section 4943(c) of the Internal Revenue Code that would subject the trust to tax under section 4943 of the Code, making any investments that would subject the trust to tax under section 4944 of the Internal Revenue Code, and making any taxable expenditures as defined in section 4945(d) of the Code. The trustee shall make distributions at a time and in a manner as not to subject the trust to tax under section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(d) Distribution to Charity During Term of Noncharitable Interests and Distributions in Kind. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests, the trustee may pay to the designated charity the amounts specified in the governing instrument that exceed the annuity amount or the unitrust amount payable to any of the beneficiaries for the taxable year of the trust in which the income is earned. If the governing instrument of the trust provides for distribution to charity in kind, the adjusted basis for federal income tax purposes of any trust property the trustee distributes in kind to charity during the term of the noncharitable interests must be fairly representative of the adjusted basis for those purposes of all trust property available for distribution on the date of distribution.

(e) Investment Restrictions on Trustee. – Nothing in the trust instrument shall be construed to restrict the trustee from investing the trust assets in a manner that could result in the annual realization of a reasonable amount of income or gain from the sale or disposition of trust assets.

(f) Distribution From Trust Used to Administer an Estate to Charitable Remainder Trust. – If the governing instrument of a revocable inter vivos trust provides that the revocable inter vivos trust will be used partially to administer the estate of the settlor or for some other purpose, and further provides the assets will then be distributed to another trust that is a charitable remainder trust, upon the death of the settlor, or upon the occurrence of any event that causes the trust to become irrevocable, then the trust shall become irrevocable, and the trustee of this trust shall perform any remaining duties or obligations provided for in the trust instrument and then transfer the property specified in the governing instrument to the trustee of the charitable remainder trust to be held, administered, and distributed in the manner and according to the terms and conditions provided by the charitable remainder trust.

(g) Payment of Taxes by Noncharitable Beneficiary. – In the case of any inter vivos charitable remainder trust that is liable to pay, from trust property, any federal estate, state inheritance, or other similar death taxes by reason of the death of the settlor of the trust, the interest of any noncharitable beneficiary of the trust shall terminate upon the death of the settlor unless the noncharitable beneficiary furnishes to the trust sufficient funds for payment of all those taxes attributable to the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary in the trust property, and the termination shall be deemed as the occurrence of a qualified contingency.

"§ 36C-4B-5. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder trusts only.

(a) Creation of Annuity Amount for Period of Years or Life. – In each taxable year of the trust, the trustee shall pay the annuity amount designated in the trust instrument to the beneficiaries named in the trust instrument during their lives or, if the governing instrument so provides, for a period of 20 years or less. The annuity amount shall be paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The annuity amount shall be paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the annuity amount shall be added to principal.

The total amount payable at least annually to a person or persons named in the trust document, at least one of which is not an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, may not be less than five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the property placed in trust as finally determined for federal tax purposes, except as provided in subsection (g) of this section.

(b) Computation of Annuity Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the annuity amount on a daily basis.

(c) Prohibition of Additional Contributions. – No additional contributions shall be made to the trust after the initial contribution.

(d) Deferral of Annuity Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the annuity amount commences with the date of death of the settlor, but payment of the annuity amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any annuity amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The annuity amounts payable, determined under the method described in Section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended before August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the annuity amounts must be computed using an interest rate at six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(e) Dollar Amount Annuity May Be Stated as Fraction or Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust states the amount of the annuity as a fraction or a percentage, the trustee must pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives an annuity amount equal to a percentage (that percentage being stipulated in the governing instrument of the trust and, in any event, being five percent (5%) or greater) of the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust. In determining this amount, assets shall be valued at their values as finally determined for federal tax purposes. If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the initial net fair market value of the assets constituting the trust, then, within a reasonable period after a final determination, the trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation or shall receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the annuity amount properly payable and the annuity amount actually paid.

(f) Annuity Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the annuity trust amount may be allocated among a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee must pay the annuity amount, which is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, in each taxable year of the trust, to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in an amount and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the entire annuity amount to one member of this class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner as the trustee from time to time considers advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, then the distribution must be for a period of years not to exceed 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire annuity amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the annuity amount.

(g) Reduction of Annuity Amount If Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the annuity amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries, the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay a total annuity amount of at least five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the assets placed in trust. Upon the expiration of the term of years or the death of a beneficiary, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay, annually or in more frequent installments, to the survivors for their lives, an annuity amount that in each taxable year of the trust, bears the same ratio to five percent (5%) of the initial net fair market value of the trust assets as the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the date of distribution, less the amount or percentage of trust assets distributed to the charity, bears to the net fair market value of the trust assets as of the date of distribution.

(h) Termination of Annuity Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the annuity amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee must pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during the term of the noncharitable interest the annuity amount, defined in the trust document, in each taxable year of the trust. The obligation of the trustee to pay the annuity amount shall terminate with the payment preceding the death of the noncharitable beneficiary or other event that terminates the noncharitable interest.

(i) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust retains the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee shall pay to the settlor during the settlor's life the annuity amount, as defined in the governing instrument of the trust and, upon the death of the settlor, if the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor, the trustee must pay to the noncharitable beneficiary during that beneficiary's life the annuity amount equal to the amount paid to the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if the settler effectively exercised the settlor's testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee must distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the settlor or noncharitable beneficiary, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee must continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust is effective.

"§ 36C-4B-6. Administrative provisions applicable to charitable remainder unitrusts only.

(a) Creation of Unitrust Amount for a Period of Years or Life. – The trustee shall pay to the beneficiaries named in the trust investment in each taxable year of the trust during their lives or, if the governing instrument so provides, for a period not exceeding 20 years, a unitrust amount equal to a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually on the date or by the method designated in the governing instrument of the trust or, if no date or method is specified, on the date or by the method selected by the trustee in the trustee's discretion, so long as the same valuation date or dates or valuation methods are used each year. The unitrust amount is paid annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. The unitrust amount is paid from income and, to the extent that income is not sufficient, from principal. Any income of the trust for a taxable year in excess of the unitrust amount is added to principal. The fixed percentage to be paid at least annually to all beneficiaries cannot be less than five percent (5%).

(b) Unitrust Amount Expressed as the Lesser of Income or a Fixed Percentage. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the trustee shall pay, instead of a regular unitrust amount (the fixed percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets, determined annually), the amount of trust income for the taxable year to the extent that this amount is not greater than the amount required to be distributed as a regular unitrust amount for that taxable year or the amount of the trust income for the taxable year that exceeds the regular unitrust amount for that taxable year to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid in prior years is less than the aggregate of the regular unitrust amount for those prior years, then the trustee must pay to the beneficiaries in each taxable year of the trust during their lives, or for a period not exceeding 20 years if the trust agreement so provides, an amount equal to the lesser of (i) the trust income for the taxable year, as defined in section 643(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under that section, and (ii) the percentage, as stated in the governing instrument, of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued as of the taxable year decreased as elsewhere provided if the taxable year is a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interest terminates by death or otherwise, and increased as elsewhere provided if additional contributions are made in the taxable year.

If the governing instrument of the trust so provides and if the trust income for any taxable year exceeds the amount determined under (ii) above, the payment to beneficiaries also must include the excess income to the extent that the aggregate of the amounts paid to beneficiaries in prior years is less than the percentage of the aggregate net fair market value of the trust assets, which percentage is defined in the governing instrument of the trust, for these years. Payments to beneficiaries must be made annually or in more frequent equal or unequal installments if the governing instrument so provides. Any income of the trust in excess of these payments must be added to principal.

(c) Adjustment for Incorrect Valuation. – If the fiduciary incorrectly determines the net fair market value of the trust assets for any taxable year, the trustee must, within a reasonable period after the final determination of the correct value, pay to the beneficiaries, in the case of an undervaluation, or receive from the beneficiaries, in the case of an overvaluation, an amount equal to the difference between the unitrust amount properly payable and the unitrust amount actually paid.

(d) Computation of Unitrust Amount in Short and Final Taxable Years. – For a short taxable year and for the taxable year in which the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminates by death or otherwise, the trustee shall prorate the unitrust amount on a daily basis. If a trust provides for a valuation date other than the first day of the taxable year, and the valuation date does not occur in a taxable year of the trust because the taxable year is either a short taxable year or is the taxable year in which the noncharitable interests terminate, the trust assets must be valued as of the last day of the short taxable year or the day on which the noncharitable interests terminate, as appropriate.

(e) Additional Contributions. – If the governing instrument does not prohibit additional contributions and additional contributions are made to the trust after the initial contribution in the trust, the unitrust amount for the taxable year in which the additional contributions are made must be a fixed percentage, as stated in the governing instrument of the trust, of the sum of (i) the net fair market value of trust assets, excluding the additional contributions and any income from or appreciation of these contributions and (ii) that proportion of the value of the additional contributions excluded under (i) which the number of days in the period beginning with the date of contribution and ending with the earlier of the last day of the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated bears to the number of days in the period beginning on the first day of the taxable year and ending with the earlier of the last day in the taxable year or the day the noncharitable beneficiary's interest terminated. If no valuation date occurs after the contributions are made, the assets so added are valued as of the time of contribution.

(f) Deferral of Unitrust Amount During Period of Administration or Settlement. – When property passes to the trust at the death of the settlor, the obligation to pay the unitrust amount commences with the date of the settlor's death, but payment of the unitrust amount may be deferred from the date of the settlor's death to the end of the taxable year of the trust in which complete funding of the trust occurs. Within a reasonable time after the end of the taxable year in which the complete funding of the trust occurs, the trustee must pay to the beneficiary, in the case of an underpayment, or must receive from the beneficiary, in the case of an overpayment, the difference between:

(1) Any unitrust amounts actually paid, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually; and

(2) The unitrust amounts payable, determined under the method described in section 1.664-1(a)(5) of the federal income tax regulations, plus interest on those amounts computed at ten percent (10%) a year, compounded annually.

Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in computing any underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts, if the governing instrument was executed or last amended before August 9, 1984, and if the governing instrument does not specify that a ten percent (10%) rate of interest shall be used, the underpayment or overpayment of the unitrust amounts shall be computed using an interest rate of six percent (6%) a year, compounded annually.

(g) Unitrust Amount May Be Allocated Among Class of Noncharitable Beneficiaries in Discretion of Trustee. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the unitrust amount may be allocated to a class of noncharitable beneficiaries in the discretion of the trustee, then the trustee must pay, in each taxable year of the trust, the unitrust amount to the member or members of the class of noncharitable beneficiaries in amounts and proportions as the trustee in the trustee's absolute discretion shall from time to time determine until the last of the noncharitable beneficiaries dies. The trustee may pay the unitrust amount to any one member of the class or may apportion it among the various members in a manner that the trustee shall from time to time consider advisable as long as the power to allocate does not cause any person to be treated as the owner of any part of the trust under the rules of section 671 through section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is open, the distribution must be for a period not exceeding 20 years, notwithstanding a provision to the contrary in the trust instrument. If the class provided for in the governing instrument is closed at the creation of the trust, and all members of the class are ascertainable, the distribution may be for the lives of the members of the class or for a period not exceeding 20 years. The trustee shall pay the entire unitrust amount for each taxable year annually and may not delay payment of the unitrust amount.

(h) Reduction of Unitrust Amount if Part of Corpus Is Paid to Charity at Expiration of Term of Years or on Death of a Recipient. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides for the reduction of the unitrust amount if part of the corpus is paid to charity at the expiration of a term of years or upon the death of a recipient, then during the term of years or during the joint lives of the noncharitable beneficiaries the trustee shall, in each taxable year of the trust, pay the total unitrust amount equal to a percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets valued annually, which shall not be less than five percent (5%). Upon expiration of the term of years or the death of a recipient, the trustee shall distribute an amount or percentage of the trust assets, as provided in the governing instrument of the trust, to the charity named in the governing instrument, and thereafter the trustee shall pay to the survivors for their lives a unitrust amount in each taxable year of the trust equal to at least five percent (5%) (the actual percentage being defined in the trust instrument) of the net fair market value of the remaining trust assets valued annually.

(i) Termination of Unitrust Amount on Payment Date Preceding Termination of Noncharitable Interests. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that payment of the unitrust amount may terminate with the regular payment preceding the termination of all noncharitable interests, then the trustee must pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary in each taxable year of the trust during the term of the noncharitable interest. The obligation of the trustee to pay the unitrust amount terminates with the payment preceding the termination of the noncharitable interest by death or otherwise. The five percent (5%) requirement provided in subsection (a) of this section shall be met until the termination of all payments of the unitrust amount.

(j) Retention of Testamentary Power to Revoke Noncharitable Interest. – If the governing instrument of the trust provides that the settlor of the trust shall retain the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke or terminate the interest of any recipient other than an organization described in section 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, then the trustee must pay the unitrust amount to the settlor during the settlor's life and, upon the death of the settlor, shall pay the unitrust amount to the noncharitable beneficiary during the charitable beneficiary's life, provided the noncharitable beneficiary survives the settlor. The settlor shall have the power, exercisable only by will, to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary under the trust. Upon the first to occur of (i) the death of the survivor of the settlor and the noncharitable beneficiary; or (ii) the death of the settlor if the settlor effectively exercised the testamentary power to revoke and terminate the interest of the noncharitable beneficiary; the trustee shall distribute all of the then principal and income of the trust, other than any amount due the noncharitable beneficiaries, to the charity named in the trust document or, if the governing instrument so provides, the trustee shall continue to hold the principal and income in trust for the charity or for the charitable purposes specified in the trust. No other retained power to terminate an interest in the trust is effective.

"§ 36C-4B-7. Interpretation.

This Article shall be interpreted and construed to effectuate its general purpose to cause all charitable remainder annuity trusts and all charitable remainder unitrusts to be administered in accordance with section 2055 and section 2522 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under those sections.

"Article 5.

"Creditors' Claims; Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts.

"§ 36C-5-501. Rights of beneficiary's creditor or assignee.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, the court may authorize a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment of present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary or other means. The court may limit the award to that relief as is appropriate under the circumstances.

(b) This section shall not apply and a trustee shall have no liability to any creditor of a beneficiary for any distributions made to or for the benefit of the beneficiary, to the extent that a beneficiary's interest:

(1) Is subject to a spendthrift provision;

(2) Is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2); or

(3) Is a protective trust interest as described in G.S. 36C-5-508.

"§ 36C-5-502. Spendthrift provision.

(a) A spendthrift provision is valid only if it restrains both voluntary and involuntary transfer of a beneficiary's interest.

(b) A term of a trust providing that the interest of a beneficiary is held subject to a "spendthrift trust", or words of similar import, is sufficient to restrain both voluntary and involuntary transfer of the beneficiary's interest.

(c) A beneficiary may not transfer an interest in a trust in violation of a valid spendthrift provision and, except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of the beneficiary may not reach the interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

"§ 36C-5-503. Exceptions to spendthrift provision.

(a) As used in this section, the term "child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(b) Even if a trust contains a spendthrift provision, or if the beneficiary's interest is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance may obtain from a court an order attaching present or future distributions to or for the benefit of the beneficiary. The court may limit the award to relief that is appropriate under the circumstances.

"§ 36C-5-504. Discretionary trusts; effect of standard.

(a) In this section:

(1) "Child" includes any person for whom an order or judgment for child support has been entered in this or another state.

(2) "Discretionary trust interest" means an interest in a trust that is subject to the trustee's discretion, whether or not the discretion is expressed in the form of a standard of distribution. A discretionary trust interest shall include an interest in any one or any combination of the following:

a. A trust in which the amount to be received by the beneficiary, including whether or not the beneficiary, or a class of beneficiaries, is to receive anything at all, is within the discretion of the trustee.

b. A trust in which the trustee has no duty to pay or distribute any particular amount to the beneficiary, but has only a duty to pay or distribute to the beneficiary, or apply on behalf of the beneficiary, those sums that the trustee, in the trustee's discretion, determines are appropriate for the support, education, or maintenance of the beneficiary.

(b) The beneficiary may not transfer a discretionary trust interest. Except as otherwise provided in this Article, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may not reach a discretionary trust interest or a distribution by the trustee before its receipt by the beneficiary.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a creditor of a beneficiary may not compel a distribution from a trust in which the beneficiary has a discretionary trust interest even if the trustee has abused the trustee's discretion.

(d) To the extent that a trustee has not complied with a standard of distribution or has abused a discretion:

(1) A distribution may be ordered by the court to satisfy a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance of the beneficiary's child; and

(2) The court shall direct the trustee to pay to the child an amount that is equitable under the circumstances but not more than the amount the trustee would have been required to distribute to or for the benefit of the beneficiary had the trustee complied with the standard or not abused the discretion.

(e) This section does not limit the right of a beneficiary to maintain a judicial proceeding against a trustee for an abuse of discretion or failure to comply with a standard for distribution.

(f) A creditor may not reach the interest of a beneficiary who is also a trustee or co-trustee, or otherwise compel a distribution, if the trustee's discretion to make distributions for the trustee's own benefit is limited by an ascertainable standard.

"§ 36C-5-505. Creditor's claim against settlor.

(a) Whether or not the terms of a trust contain a spendthrift provision or the interest in the trust is a discretionary trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-504(a)(2) or a protective trust interest as defined in G.S. 36C-5-508, the following rules apply:

(1) During the lifetime of the settlor, the property of a revocable trust is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors.

(2) With respect to an irrevocable trust, a creditor or assignee of the settlor may reach the maximum amount that can be distributed to or for the settlor's benefit. If a trust has more than one settlor, the amount the creditor or assignee of a particular settlor may reach may not exceed the settlor's interest in the portion of the trust attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(3) After the death of a settlor, and subject to the settlor's right to direct the source from which liabilities will be paid, the property of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death is subject to claims of the settlor's creditors, costs of administration of the settlor's estate, the expenses of the settlor's funeral and disposal of remains, and statutory allowances to a surviving spouse and children to the extent that the settlor's probate estate is inadequate to satisfy those claims, costs, expenses, and allowances, unless barred by G.S. 28A-19-3.

(b) The lapse, release, or waiver of a power of withdrawal shall not cause the holder to be treated as a settlor of the trust.

"§ 36C-5-506. Overdue distribution.

(a) In this section, "mandatory distribution" means a distribution of income or principal that the trustee is required to make to a beneficiary under the terms of the trust, including a distribution upon termination of the trust. The term excludes a distribution subject to the exercise of the trustee's discretion, regardless of whether the terms of the trust (i) include a support or other standard to guide the trustee in making distribution decisions; or (ii) provide that the trustee "may" or "shall" make discretionary distributions, including distributions under a support or other standard.

(b) Whether or not a trust contains a spendthrift provision, a creditor or assignee of a beneficiary may reach a mandatory distribution of income or principal, including a distribution upon termination of the trust, if the trustee has not made the distribution to the beneficiary within a reasonable time after the designated distribution date.

"§ 36C-5-507. Personal obligations of trustee.

Trust property is not subject to personal obligations of the trustee, even if the trustee becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"§ 36C-5-508. Protective trusts.

Except with respect to an interest retained by the settlor, a "protective trust interest" means an interest in a trust in which the terms of the trust provide that the interest terminates or becomes discretionary if:

(1) The beneficiary alienates or attempts to alienate that interest; or

(2) Any creditor attempts to reach the beneficiary's interest by attachment, levy, or otherwise; or

(3) The beneficiary becomes insolvent or bankrupt.

"Article 6.

"Revocable Trusts.

"§ 36C-6-601. Capacity of settlor of revocable trust.

The capacity required to create, amend, revoke, or add property to a revocable trust, or to direct the actions of the trustee of a revocable trust, is the same as that required to make a will.

"§ 36C-6-602. Revocation or amendment of revocable trust.

(a) Unless the terms of a trust expressly provide that the trust is irrevocable, the settlor may revoke or amend the trust without regard to the actual capacity of the settlor. This subsection does not apply to a trust created under an instrument executed before the effective date of this Chapter.

(b) If a revocable trust is created or funded by more than one settlor:

(1) To the extent the trust consists of community property, the trust may be revoked by either spouse acting alone but may be amended only by joint action of both spouses; and

(2) To the extent the trust consists of property other than community property, each settlor may revoke or amend the trust with regard the portion of the trust property attributable to that settlor's contribution.

(c) The settlor may revoke or amend a revocable trust:

(1) By substantial compliance with a method provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by:

a. A later will or codicil that expressly refers to the trust or specifically devises property that would otherwise have passed according to the terms of the trust; or

b. By oral statement to the trustee if the trust was created orally; or

c. Any other written method delivered to the trustee manifesting clear and convincing evidence of the settlor's intent.

(d) Upon revocation of a revocable trust, the trustee shall deliver the trust property as the settlor directs.

(e) A settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property may be exercised by an agent under a power of attorney only to the extent expressly authorized by the terms of the trust or the power of attorney provided the exercise of the power of revocation or amendment does not alter the designation of beneficiaries to receive property on the settlor's death under the settlor's existing estate plan.

(f) A general guardian or a guardian of the estate of the settlor or, if no general guardian or guardian of the estate has been appointed, a guardian of the person of the settlor may exercise a settlor's powers with respect to revocation, amendment, or distribution of trust property only with the approval of the court supervising the guardianship.

(g) A trustee who does not know that a trust has been revoked or amended is not liable to the settlor or settlor's successors in interest for distributions made and other actions taken on the assumption that the trust had not been amended or revoked.

"§ 36C-6-603. Settlor's powers; powers of withdrawal.

(a) While a trust is revocable, rights of the beneficiaries are subject to the control of, and the duties of the trustee are owed exclusively to, the settlor.

(b) If a revocable trust has more than one settlor, the duties of the trustee are owed to all of the settlors.

"§ 36C-6-604. Limitation on action contesting validity of revocable trust; distribution of trust property.

(a) A person may commence a judicial proceeding to contest the validity of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death within the earlier of:

(1) Three years after the settlor's death; or

(2) 120 days after the trustee sent the person a copy of the trust instrument and a notice informing the person of the trust's existence, of the trustee's name and address, and of the time allowed for commencing a proceeding.

(b) Upon the death of the settlor of a trust that was revocable at the settlor's death, the trustee may proceed to distribute the trust property in accordance with the terms of the trust. The trustee is not subject to liability for doing so unless:

(1) The trustee knows of a pending judicial proceeding contesting the validity of the trust; or

(2) A potential contestant has notified the trustee of a possible judicial proceeding to contest the trust, and a judicial proceeding is commenced within 60 days after the contestant sent the notification.

(c) A beneficiary of a trust that is determined to have been invalid is liable to return any distribution received.

"Article 7.

"Office of Trustee.

"§ 36 C-7-701. Accepting or declining trusteeship.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section, a person designated as trustee accepts the trusteeship:

(1) By substantially complying with a method of acceptance provided in the terms of the trust; or

(2) If the terms of the trust do not provide a method or the method provided in the terms is not expressly made exclusive, by accepting delivery of the trust property, exercising powers or performing duties as trustee, or otherwise indicating acceptance of the trusteeship.

(b) A person designated as trustee who has not yet accepted the trusteeship may reject the trusteeship. A designated trustee who does not accept the trusteeship within a reasonable time, not to exceed 120 days, after receiving written notice of the trusteeship is considered to have rejected the trusteeship.

(c) A person designated as trustee, without accepting the trusteeship, may:

(1) Act to preserve the trust property if, within a reasonable time after acting, the person sends a rejection of the trusteeship to the settlor or, if the settlor is dead or lacks capacity, to a qualified beneficiary; and

(2) Inspect or investigate trust property to determine potential liability under environmental or other law or for any other purpose.

"§ 36C-7-702. Trustee's bond.

(a) A trustee shall provide bond to secure the performance of the trustee's duties if:

(1) The trust instrument was executed before January 1, 2006, unless the terms of the trust instrument provide otherwise;

(2) The trust instrument was executed on or after January 1, 2006, but only if the terms of the trust instrument require the trustee to provide bond;

(3) A beneficiary requests the trustee to provide bond, and the court finds the request to be reasonable; or

(4) The court finds that it is necessary for the trustee to provide bond in order to protect the interests of beneficiaries who are not able to protect themselves and whose interests otherwise are not adequately represented.

However, in no event shall bond be required of a trustee if the governing instrument directs otherwise.

(b) If bond is required, it shall be in a sum of double the value of the personal property to come into the trustee's hands if bond is executed by a personal surety, and in an amount not less than one and one-fourth times the value of all personal property of the trust estate if the bond is secured by a suretyship bond executed by a corporate surety company authorized by the Commissioner of Insurance to do business in this State, provided that the court, when the value of the personal property exceeds one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), may accept bond in an amount equal to the value of the personal property plus ten percent (10%) of that value, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the trustee's duties and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive property that may come into the trustee's hands. All bonds executed under this Article shall be filed with the clerk of superior court.

(c) On petition of the trustee or a qualified beneficiary, the court may excuse a requirement of bond, reduce the amount of the bond, release the surety, or permit the substitution of another bond with the same or different sureties.

(d) As provided in G.S. 53-159 and G.S. 53-366(a)(10), banks and trust companies licensed to do trust business in this State need not give bond, even if required by the terms of the trust.

"§ 36C-7-703. Co-trustees.

(a) Co-trustees who are unable to reach a unanimous decision may act by majority decision if more than two are serving. Unanimity is required when only two co-trustees are serving.

(b) If a vacancy occurs in a co-trusteeship, the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust and exercise all trustee powers, except those powers that the remaining trustees are prohibited from exercising under the trust instrument or by law.

(c) A co-trustee must participate in the performance of a trustee's function unless the cotrustee is unavailable to perform the function because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, or the co-trustee has properly delegated the performance of the function to another trustee.

(d) If a co-trustee is unavailable to perform duties because of absence, illness, disqualification under other law, or other temporary incapacity, and prompt action is necessary to achieve the purposes of the trust or to avoid injury to the trust property, the remaining co-trustee or a majority of the remaining co-trustees may act for the trust.

(e) A trustee may delegate to a co-trustee with the consent of the co-trustee the performance of any function other than those the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly. The following functions are not considered to be those that the settlor reasonably expected the trustees to perform jointly:

(1) Establish and maintain bank accounts for the trust and issue checks for the trust.

(2) Maintain inventories, accountings, and income and expense records of the trust.

(3) Enter any safety deposit box rented by the trust.

(4) Employ persons as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, including agents, attorneys, accountants, brokers, appraisers, and custodians.

(5) List trust property for taxes and prepare and file tax returns for the trust.

(6) Collect and give receipts for claims and debts of the trust.

(7) Pay debts, claims, costs of administration, and taxes of the trust.

(8) Compromise, adjust, or otherwise settle any claim by or against the trust and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust.

(9) Have custody of the trust property.

The list of functions contained in this subsection is not intended to be exclusive of others that may be delegated to a co-trustee in accordance with this subsection.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (g) of this section, a trustee who does not join in an action of another trustee is not liable for the action.

(g) Each trustee shall exercise reasonable care to:

(1) Avoid enabling a co-trustee to commit a serious breach of trust; and

(2) Compel a co-trustee to redress a serious breach of trust.

(h) Notwithstanding subsection (f) or (g) of this section, a trustee who has not joined in an action approved by a majority of the other trustees is not liable for the action. Notwithstanding subsection (f) or (g) of this section, a dissenting trustee who joins in an action at the direction of the majority of the trustees but who notified in writing any co-trustee of the dissent at or before the time of the action is not liable for the action, unless that trustee had knowledge that the action taken involved intentional misconduct or was taken with an intention to directly or indirectly provide an improper personal benefit to one or more trustees approving the action.

(i) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, if two or more trustees own shares of corporate stock or other securities, their acts with respect to voting shall have the following effect:

(1) If only one votes, in person or by proxy, the act binds all;

(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act binds all; and

(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

"§ 36C-7-704. Vacancy in trusteeship; appointment of successor.

(a) A vacancy in a trusteeship occurs if:

(1) A person designated as trustee rejects the trusteeship;

(2) A person designated as trustee cannot be identified or does not exist;

(3) A trustee resigns;

(4) A trustee is disqualified or removed;

(5) A trustee dies; or

(6) A general guardian, guardian of the estate, or guardian of the person is appointed for an individual serving as trustee.

(b) If one or more co-trustees remain in office, a vacancy in a trusteeship need not be filled. A vacancy in a trusteeship must be filled if the trust has no remaining trustee.

(c) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a noncharitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:

(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed under the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;

(2) By a person appointed by unanimous agreement of the qualified beneficiaries; or

(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(d) A vacancy in a trusteeship of a charitable trust that is required to be filled must be filled in the following order of priority:

(1) By a person designated in the terms of the trust or appointed under the terms of the trust to act as successor trustee;

(2) By a person selected by majority agreement of the charitable organizations expressly designated to receive distributions under the terms of the trust; or

(3) By a person appointed by the court.

(e) Whether or not a vacancy in a trusteeship exists or is required to be filled, the court may appoint an additional trustee or special fiduciary whenever the court considers the appointment necessary for the administration of the trust.

(f) A successor trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and is subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee, unless a contrary intent appears from the governing instrument or unless the order appointing the successor trustee provides otherwise.

"§ 36C-7-705. Resignation of trustee.

(a) A trustee may resign:

(1) Upon at least 30 days' notice in writing to the qualified beneficiaries, the settlor, if living, and all co-trustees; or

(2) With the approval of the court.

(b) In approving a resignation, the court may issue orders and impose conditions reasonably necessary for the protection of the trust property.

(c) Any liability of a resigning trustee or of any sureties on the trustee's bond for acts or omissions of the trustee is not discharged or affected by the trustee's resignation.

"§ 36C-7-706. Removal of trustee.

(a) For the reasons set forth in subsection (b) of this section, the ~~settlor~~settler of an irrevocable trust, a co-trustee of an irrevocable trust, or a beneficiary of an irrevocable trust may request the court to remove a trustee, or a trustee may be removed by the court on its own initiative.

(b) The court may remove a trustee if:

(1) The trustee has committed a serious breach of trust;

(2) Lack of cooperation among co-trustees substantially impairs the administration of the trust;

(3) Because of unfitness, unwillingness, or persistent failure of the trustee to administer the trust effectively, the court determines that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of the beneficiaries; or

(4) There has been a substantial change of circumstances, the court finds that removal of the trustee best serves the interests of all of the beneficiaries and is consistent with a material purpose of the trust, and a suitable co-trustee or successor trustee is available.

(c) Pending a final decision on a request to remove a trustee, or in lieu of or in addition to removing a trustee, the court may order appropriate relief under G.S. 36C-10-1001(b) as may be necessary to protect the trust property or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-7-707. Delivery of property by former trustee.

(a) Unless a co-trustee remains in office or the court otherwise orders, and until the trust property is delivered to a successor trustee or other person entitled to it, a trustee who has resigned or been removed has the duties of a trustee and the powers necessary to protect the trust property.

(b) A trustee who has resigned or been removed shall proceed expeditiously to deliver the trust property within the trustee's possession to the co-trustee, successor trustee, or other person entitled to it. A former trustee shall execute those documents transferring title to trust property as may be appropriate to facilitate administration of the trust, and in the event that the former trustee fails to do so, the clerk of superior court may order the former trustee to execute those documents, or the clerk of superior court may transfer title.

"§ 36C-7-708. Compensation of trustee.

(a) If the terms of a trust do not specify the trustee's compensation, a trustee is entitled to compensation determined in accordance with Article 5A of Chapter 32 of the General Statutes.

(b) If the terms of a trust specify the trustee's compensation, the trustee is entitled to be compensated as specified.

"§ 36C-7-709. Reimbursement of expenses.

A trustee is entitled to be reimbursed out of the trust property for expenses properly incurred in the administration of the trust as provided in G.S. 32-58.

"Article 8.

"Duties and Powers of Trustee.

"§ 36C-8-801. Duty to administer trust.

Upon acceptance of a trusteeship, a trustee shall administer the trust in good faith, in accordance with its terms and purposes and the interests of the beneficiaries, and in accordance with this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-802. Duty of loyalty.

(a) A trustee shall administer the trust solely in the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to the rights of persons dealing with or assisting the trustee as provided in G.S. 36C-10-1012, a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property entered into by the trustee for the trustee's own personal account, or that is otherwise affected by a conflict between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, is voidable by a beneficiary affected by the transaction, without regard to whether the transaction is fair to the beneficiary, unless:

(1) The terms of the trust authorized the transaction;

(2) The court approved the transaction;

(3) The beneficiary did not commence a judicial proceeding within the time allowed by G.S. 36C-10-1005;

(4) The beneficiary consented to the trustee's conduct, ratified the transaction, or released the trustee in compliance with G.S. 36C-10-1009; or

(5) The transaction involves a contract entered into, or claim acquired by, the trustee before the person became or contemplated becoming trustee.

(c) In determining whether a sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the investment or management of trust property is affected by a conflict of interest between the trustee's fiduciary and personal interests, the transaction is rebuttably presumed to be affected by a conflict of interest if the trustee enters into the transaction with:

(1) The trustee's spouse or a parent of the trustee's spouse;

(2) The trustee's descendants, siblings, ancestors, or their spouses;

(3) An agent, attorney, employee, officer, director, member, manager, or partner of the trustee, or an entity that controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the trustee; or

(4) Any other person or entity in which the trustee, or a person that owns a significant interest in the trust, has an interest or relationship that might affect the trustee's best judgment;

(d) A transaction between a trustee and a beneficiary that does not concern trust property, but that occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee retains significant influence over the beneficiary, and from which the trustee obtains an advantage, is voidable by the beneficiary unless the trustee establishes that the transaction was fair to the beneficiary.

(e) A transaction not concerning trust property in which the trustee engages in the trustee's individual capacity involves a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the transaction concerns an opportunity properly belonging to the trust.

(f) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of this section:

(1) An investment by a trustee in securities of an investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle in which the trustee has an investment, or to which the trustee, or its affiliate, provides services is not presumed to be affected by a conflict between personal and fiduciary interests if the investment otherwise complies with the prudent investor rule of Article 9 of this Chapter. The investment company, investment trust, or pooled investment vehicle may compensate the trustee for providing those services out of fees charged to the trust if the trustee at least annually notifies the persons entitled under G.S. 36C-8-813 to receive a copy of the trustee's annual report of the rate and method by which the compensation was determined; and

(2) Payment made by a trustee to an attorney, broker, accountant, or agent for services performed on behalf of the trust in the ordinary course of business is not considered to be affected by a conflict between the trustee's personal and fiduciary interests if the payment is consistent with payments generally made in the community for the same or similar services.

(g) In voting shares of stock or in exercising powers of control over similar interests in other forms of enterprise, the trustee shall act in the best interests of the beneficiaries. If the trust is the sole owner of a corporation or other form of enterprise, the trustee shall elect to appoint directors or other managers who will manage the corporation or enterprise in the best interests of the beneficiaries.

(h) This section does not preclude the following transactions, if fair to the beneficiaries:

(1) An agreement between a trustee and a beneficiary relating to the appointment or compensation of the trustee;

(2) Payment of reasonable compensation to the trustee;

(3) A transaction between a trust and another trust, decedent's estate, or guardianship, or similar relationship of which the trustee is a fiduciary or in which a beneficiary has an interest;

(4) A deposit of trust money in a regulated financial-service institution operated by the trustee or an affiliate of the trustee; or

(5) An advance by the trustee of money for the protection of the trust.

(i) The court may appoint a special fiduciary to make a decision with respect to any proposed transaction that might violate this section if entered into by the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-803. Impartiality.

If a trust has two or more beneficiaries, the trustee shall act impartially in investing, managing, and distributing the trust property, giving due regard to the beneficiaries' respective interests.

"§ 36C-8-804. Prudent administration.

A trustee shall administer the trust as a prudent person would, by considering the purposes, terms, distributional requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

"§ 36C-8-805. Cost of administration.

In administering a trust, the trustee may incur only costs that are reasonable in relation to the trust property, the purposes of the trust, and the skills of the trustee.

"§ 36C-8-806. Trustee's skills.

A trustee who has special skills or expertise, or is named trustee in reliance upon the trustee's representation that the trustee has special skills or expertise, shall use those special skills or expertise.

"§ 36C-8-807. Delegation by trustee.

(a) A trustee may delegate duties and powers that a prudent trustee of comparable skills could properly delegate under the circumstances. The trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution in:

(1) Selecting an agent;

(2) Establishing the scope and terms of the delegation, consistent with the purposes and terms of the trust; and

(3) Periodically reviewing the agent's actions in order to monitor the agent's performance and compliance with the terms of the delegation.

(b) In performing a delegated function, an agent owes a duty to the trust to exercise reasonable care to comply with the terms of the delegation.

(c) A trustee who complies with subsection (a) of this section is not liable to the beneficiaries or to the trust for an action of the agent to whom the function was delegated.

(d) By accepting a delegation of powers or duties from the trustee of a trust that is subject to the law of this State, an agent submits to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

"§ 36C-8-808. Powers to direct.

(a) While a trust is revocable, the trustee may follow a direction of the settlor that is contrary to the terms of the trust.

(b) If the terms of a trust confer upon a person other than the settlor of a revocable trust power to direct certain actions of the trustee, the trustee must act in accordance with an exercise of the power unless the attempted exercise is manifestly contrary to the terms of the trust, or the trustee knows the attempted exercise would constitute a serious breach of a fiduciary duty that the person holding the power owes to the beneficiaries of the trust.

(c) The terms of a trust may confer upon a trustee or other person a power to direct the modification or termination of the trust.

(d) A person, other than a beneficiary, who holds a power to direct is presumptively a fiduciary who, as such, is required to act in good faith with regard to the purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. The holder of a power to direct is liable for any loss that results from breach of a fiduciary duty.

"§ 36C-8-809. Control and protection of trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to take control of and protect the trust property.

"§ 36C-8-810. Record keeping and identification of trust property.

(a) A trustee shall keep adequate records of the administration of the trust.

(b) A trustee shall keep trust property separate from the trustee's own property.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d) of this section, a trustee shall cause the trust property to be designated so that the interest of the trust, to the extent feasible, appears in records maintained by a party other than a trustee or beneficiary.

(d) If the trustee maintains records clearly indicating the respective interests, a trustee may invest as a whole the property of two or more separate trusts.

"§ 36C-8-811. Enforcement and defense of claims.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to enforce claims of the trust and to defend claims against the trust.

"§ 36C-8-812. Collecting trust property.

A trustee shall take reasonable steps to compel a former trustee or other person to deliver trust property to the trustee, and to redress a breach of trust known to the trustee to have been committed by a former trustee.

"§ 36C-8-813. Duty to inform and report.

(a) The trustee is under a duty to a qualified beneficiary to give that beneficiary upon request and at reasonable times complete and accurate information as to the nature and amount of the trust property and to permit the beneficiary, or the beneficiary's representative, to inspect the subject matter of the trust and the accounts and other documents relating to the trust.

(b) Notwithstanding subsection (a) of this section:

(1) The duty of the trustee under subsection (a) of this section shall not include informing any beneficiary in advance of transactions relating to the trust property.

(2) A trustee is considered to have discharged the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section as to a qualified beneficiary for matters disclosed by a report sent at least annually and at termination of the trust to the beneficiary that describes the trust property, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements, including the source and amount of the trustee's compensation, and lists the trust assets and their respective market values, including estimated values of assets with uncertain values. No presumption shall arise that a trustee who does not comply with this subdivision failed to discharge the trustee's duty under subsection (a) of this section.

(c) A beneficiary may waive the right to a trustee's report or other information otherwise required to be furnished under this section. With respect to future reports and other information, a beneficiary may withdraw a waiver previously given.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section applies only to a trust created under a trust instrument executed on or after the effective date of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-8-814. Discretionary powers; tax savings.

(a) Notwithstanding the breadth of discretion granted to a trustee in the terms of the trust, including the use of terms such as "absolute", "sole", or "uncontrolled", a trustee abuses the trustee's discretion in exercising or failing to exercise a discretionary power if the trustee acts with bad faith, acts dishonestly, acts with an improper motive, even though not a dishonest motive, or if the trustee fails to use the trustee's judgment in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries.

(b) Subject to subsection (d) of this section, and unless the terms of the trust expressly indicate that a rule in this subsection does not apply:

(1) A person other than a settlor who is a beneficiary and trustee of a trust that confers on the trustee a power that would, except for this subsection, constitute in whole or in part a general power of appointment may not exercise that power in favor of the trustee/beneficiary, the trustee/beneficiary's estate, the trustee/beneficiary's creditors, or the creditors of the trustee/beneficiary's estate.

(2) Notwithstanding subdivision (1) of this subsection, if the trust confers on the trustee the power to make discretionary distributions to or for the trustee's personal benefit, the trustee may exercise the power in accordance with an ascertainable standard.

(3) The trustee may not exercise a power to make discretionary distributions to satisfy a legal obligation of support that the trustee personally owes another person.

For purposes of this subsection, a "general power of appointment" means any power that would cause the income to be taxed to the trustee in his individual capacity under section 678 of the Internal Revenue Code and any power that would be a general power of appointment, in whole or in part, under section 2041(b)(1) or section 2514(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) A power whose exercise is limited or prohibited by subsection (b) of this section may be exercised by a majority of the remaining trustees whose exercise of the power is not so limited or prohibited. If the power of all trustees is so limited or prohibited, the court may appoint a special fiduciary with authority to exercise the power.

(d) Subsection (b) of this section does not apply to:

(1) A power held by the settlor's spouse who is the trustee of a trust for which a marital deduction, as defined in section 2056(b)(5) or section 2523(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, was previously allowed;
(2) Any trust during any period that the trust may be revoked or amended by its settlor; or
(3) A trust, if contributions to the trust qualify for the annual exclusion under section 2503(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(e) If a trust created under a will or trust instrument for the benefit of the spouse of the settlor of the trust, other than a trust that provides that upon the termination of the income interest that the entire remaining trust estate be paid to the estate of the spouse, requires that all the income of the trust be paid not less frequently than annually to the spouse and a federal estate or gift tax marital deduction is claimed with respect to the trust, then, unless the trust instrument specifically provides otherwise by reference to this section, any investment in or retention of unproductive property as an asset of the trust is subject to the power of the spouse to require either that the asset be made productive of income, or that it be converted to assets productive of income, within a reasonable period of time.

"§ 36C-8-815. General powers of trustee.

(a) A trustee, without authorization by the court, may exercise:
(1) Powers conferred by the terms of the trust; or
(2) Except as limited by the terms of the trust:
a. All powers over the trust property that an unmarried competent owner has over individually owned property;
b. Any other powers appropriate to achieve the proper investment, management, administration or distribution of the trust property; and
c. Any other powers conferred by this Chapter.

(b) The exercise of a power is subject to the fiduciary duties prescribed by this Article.

"§ 36C-8-816. Specific powers of trustee.

(1) Collect and control trust property and accept or reject additions to the trust property from a settlor or any other person;

(7) With respect to stocks or other securities, exercise the rights of an absolute owner, including the right to:

a. Vote, or give general or limited proxies to vote, with or without power of substitution, or enter into or continue a voting trust agreement, or execute waivers, consents, or objections with respect to those securities;

Consent, directly or through a committee or other agent, to the merger, consolidation, reorganization, readjustment of capital or financial structure, lease, sale, dissolution, or liquidation of a business enterprise, and elect whether to participate as a member of a class in any litigation involving the securities;

(9) Enter into a lease for any purpose as lessor or lessee, including a lease or other arrangement for exploration and removal of natural resources, with or without the option to purchase or renew, for a period within or extending beyond the duration of the trust;

(10) Grant an option involving a sale, lease, or other disposition of trust property or acquire an option for the acquisition of property, including an option exercisable beyond the duration of the trust, and exercise an option so acquired;

(11) Insure the property of the trust against damage or loss and insure the trustee, the trustee's agents, and beneficiaries against liability arising from the administration of the trust at the expense of the trust;

(12) Abandon, relinquish any or all rights to, or decline to administer property of no value or of insufficient benefit or value to the trust to justify its collection or continued administration;

(13) With respect to possible liability for violation of environmental law:

a. Inspect or investigate property the trustee holds or has been asked to hold, or property owned or operated by an organization in which the trustee holds or has been asked to hold an interest, for the purpose of determining the application of environmental law with respect to the property;

b. Take action to prevent, abate, or otherwise remedy any actual or potential violation of any environmental law affecting property held directly or indirectly by the trustee, whether taken before or after the assertion of a claim or the initiation of governmental enforcement;

c. Decline to accept property into trust or disclaim any power with respect to property that is or may be burdened with liability for violation of environmental law;

d. Compromise claims against the trust that may be asserted for an alleged violation of environmental law; and

e. Pay the expense of any inspection, review, abatement, or remedial action to comply with environmental law;

(14) Pay or contest any claim, compromise, adjust or otherwise settle a claim by or against the trust, and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust;

(15) Pay from the trust property taxes, assessments, compensation of the trustee and of employees and agents of the trust, and other expenses incurred in the administration of the trust and the protection of the trust property;

(16) Exercise elections with respect to federal, state, and local taxes;

(17) Select a mode of payment under any employee benefit or retirement plan, annuity, or life insurance payable to the trustee, exercise rights under that plan, annuity, or life insurance, including exercise of the right to indemnification for expenses and against liabilities, and take appropriate action to collect the proceeds;

(18) Make loans out of trust property, including loans to a beneficiary on terms and conditions the trustee considers to be fair and reasonable under the circumstances, and acquire a lien on future distributions for repayment of those loans;

(19) Pledge trust property to guarantee loans made by others to a beneficiary;

(20) Appoint a trustee to act in another jurisdiction with respect to trust property located in the other jurisdiction, confer upon the appointed trustee all of the powers and duties of the appointing trustee, limit those powers the appointed trustee may exercise and the duties for which the appointed trustee is responsible, require that the appointed trustee furnish security, and remove any trustee so appointed;

(21) Pay an amount distributable to a beneficiary who is under a legal disability or who the trustee reasonably believes is incapacitated, by paying it directly to the beneficiary or applying it for the beneficiary's benefit, or by:

a. Paying it to the beneficiary's general guardian or the guardian of the beneficiary's estate or, if the beneficiary does not have a general guardian or guardian of the beneficiary's estate, the guardian of the beneficiary's person;

b. Paying it to a custodian under a uniform transfer to minors act or custodial trustee under a uniform custodial trust act and, for that purpose, creating a custodianship or custodial trust for the benefit of the beneficiary;

c. Paying it to an adult relative or other person having legal or physical care or custody of the beneficiary, to be expended on the beneficiary's behalf; or

d. Managing it as a separate fund on the beneficiary's behalf.

A trustee making payments under this subdivision does not have any duty to see to the application of the payments so made, if the trustee exercised due care in the selection of the person, including the minor or incompetent, to whom the payments were made, and the receipt of that person shall be full acquittance to the trustee;

(22) On distribution of trust property or the division or termination of a trust, make distributions in divided or undivided interests, allocate particular assets in proportionate or disproportionate shares without regard to the income tax basis or other special tax attributes of the assets, as the trustee finds to be most practicable and for the best interests of the distributees, value the trust property for those purposes, and adjust for resulting differences in valuation; and to distribute trust property in kind or in cash, or partially in kind and partially in cash, in divided or undivided interests;

(23) Resolve a dispute concerning the interpretation of the trust or its administration by mediation, arbitration, or other procedure for alternative dispute resolution;

"Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

"§ 36C-9-901. Prudent investor rule; applicability.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) of this section, a trustee who invests and manages trust assets owes a duty to the beneficiaries of the trust to comply with the prudent investor rule set forth in this Article.

(b) The prudent investor rule is a default rule and may be expanded, restricted, eliminated, or otherwise altered by the provisions of a trust that govern or direct investments in a manner inconsistent with this Article. A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary to the extent that the trustee acted in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust.

(c) The following terms or comparable language in a trust, unless otherwise limited or modified, authorize any investment or strategy permitted under this Article: "Chapter 36A", "investments in accordance with Article 15 of Chapter 36A", "investments in accordance with Article 9 of Chapter 36C", "investments permissible by law for investment of trust funds", "legal investments", "authorized investments", "using the judgment and care under the circumstances then prevailing that persons of prudence, discretion, and intelligence exercise in the management of their own affairs, not in regard to speculation but in regard to the permanent disposition of their funds, considering the probable income as well as the probable safety of their capital", "prudent man rule", "prudent trustee rule", "prudent person rule", and "prudent investor rule". This Article also applies where a trust contains no investment standard.

(d) This Article does not apply to:

(1) Unless the trust provides otherwise by specific reference to this Article:

a. Trusts under any federal employee retirement income security statute or other retirement or pension trusts;

b. Trusts that are created by legislative act;

c. Trusts that are created by or under premarital or postmarital agreements, divorce settlements, settlements of other proceedings or disputes;

d. Transfers under the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act;

e. Transfers under the Uniform Custodial Trust Act; or

f. Honorary trusts, trusts for pets, and trusts for cemetery lots.

(2) Trusts imposed or required under another chapter of the General Statutes or by rule in which the investment of the trust funds is regulated by the other chapter or by rule, unless a provision of the other chapter or the rule provides otherwise by a specific reference to this Article.

"§ 36C-9-902. Standard of care; portfolio strategy; risk and return objectives.

(a) A trustee shall invest and manage trust assets as a prudent investor would, by considering the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust. In satisfying this standard, the trustee shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution.

(b) A trustee's investment and management decisions respecting individual assets must be evaluated not in isolation but in the context of the trust portfolio as a whole and as a part of an overall investment strategy having risk and return objectives reasonably suited to the trust.

(c) Among circumstances that a trustee shall consider in investing and managing trust assets are any of the following that are relevant to the trust or its beneficiaries:

(1) General economic conditions;

(2) The possible effect of inflation or deflation;

(3) The expected tax consequences of investment decisions or strategies;

(4) The role that each investment or course of action plays within the overall trust portfolio, which may include financial assets, interests in closely held enterprises, tangible and intangible personal property, and real property;

(5) The expected total return from income and the appreciation of capital;

(6) Other resources of the beneficiaries known to the trustee;

(7) Needs for liquidity, regularity of income, and preservation or appreciation of capital; and

(8) An asset's special relationship or special value, if any, to the purposes of the trust or to one or more of the beneficiaries.

(d) A trustee shall make a reasonable effort to verify facts relevant to the investment and management of trust assets.

(e) A trustee may invest in any kind of property or type of investment consistent with the standards of this Article.

"§ 36C-9-904. Duties at inception of trusteeship.

Within a reasonable time after accepting a trusteeship or receiving trust assets, a trustee shall review the trust assets and make and implement decisions concerning the retention and disposition of assets in order to bring the trust portfolio into compliance with the purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other circumstances of the trust, and with the requirements of this Chapter.

"§ 36C-9-905. Reviewing compliance.

Compliance with the prudent investor rule is determined in light of the facts and circumstances existing at the time of a trustee's decision or action and not by hindsight.

"§ 36C-9-906. Effect on charitable remainder trusts.

Nothing in this Article shall prevent the application of Article 4B of this Chapter to a "charitable remainder trust" as defined in G.S.36C-4B-3(1).

(10) Order any other appropriate relief.

(c) The court may, for cause shown, relieve a trustee from liability for any breach of trust, or wholly or partly excuse a trustee who has acted honestly and reasonably from liability for a breach of trust.

"§ 36C-10-1002. Damages for breach of trust.

(a) A trustee who commits a breach of trust is liable for the greater of:
(1) The amount required to restore the value of the trust property and trust distributions to what they would have been had the breach not occurred; or
(2) The profit the trustee made by reason of the breach.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if more than one trustee is liable to the beneficiaries for a breach of trust, a trustee is entitled to contribution from the other trustee or trustees. A trustee is not entitled to contribution if the trustee was substantially more at fault than another trustee or if the trustee committed the breach of trust in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries. A trustee who received a benefit from the breach of trust is not entitled to contribution from another trustee to the extent of the benefit received.

"§ 36C-10-1003. Liability in absence of breach.

(a) A trustee is accountable for any profit made by the trustee arising from the administration of the trust, even absent a breach of trust. Nothing in this section limits a trustee's right to compensation under G.S. 36C-7-708 or payments allowed under G.S. 36-8-802(f).

(b) Absent a breach of trust, a trustee is not liable for a loss or depreciation in the value of trust property or for not having made a profit.

"§ 36C-10-1006. Reliance on trust instrument.

A trustee who acts in reasonable reliance on the terms of the trust as expressed in a trust instrument is not liable for a breach of trust to the extent that the breach resulted from the reliance.

"§ 36C-10-1007. Event affecting administration or distribution.

If the happening of an event, including marriage, divorce, performance of educational requirements, or death, affects the administration or distribution of a trust, a trustee who has exercised reasonable care to ascertain the happening of the event is not liable for a loss resulting from the trustee's lack of knowledge.

"§ 36C-10-1008. Exculpation of trustee.

A term of a trust relieving a trustee of liability for breach of trust is unenforceable to the extent that it relieves the trustee of liability for breach of trust committed in bad faith or with reckless indifference to the purposes of the trust or the interests of the beneficiaries.

"§ 36C-10-1009. Beneficiary's consent, release, or ratification.

(a) A trustee is not liable to a beneficiary for breach of trust if the beneficiary consented to the conduct constituting the breach, released the trustee from liability for the breach, or ratified the transaction constituting the breach, unless:

(1) The consent, release, or ratification of the beneficiary was induced by improper conduct of the trustee; or

(2) At the time of the consent, release, or ratification, the beneficiary did not have knowledge of the beneficiary's rights or of the material facts relating to the breach.

(b) No consideration is required for the consent, release, or ratification to be valid.

"§ 36C-10-1010. Limitation on personal liability of trustee.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the contract, a trustee is not personally liable on a contract properly entered into in the trustee's fiduciary capacity in the course of administering the trust if the trustee in making the contract disclosed the fiduciary capacity. The addition of the phrase "trustee," or "as trustee," or a similar designation to the signature of a trustee on a written contract is considered prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee is personally liable for torts committed in the course of administering a trust, or for obligations arising from ownership or control of trust property, including liability for violation of environmental law, only if the trustee is personally at fault.

(c) A claim based on a contract entered into by a trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, on an obligation arising from ownership or control of trust property, or on a tort committed in the course of administering a trust, may be asserted in a judicial proceeding against the trustee in the trustee's fiduciary capacity, whether or not the trustee is personally liable for the claim. Any judgment rendered in favor of a claimant in such a judicial proceeding against a trust may be recovered from the trust property, without proof that the trustee could have obtained reimbursement from the trust if the trustee had paid the claim.

(d) A trustee is entitled to indemnity from the trust for any claim, other than a breach of trust, for which the trustee is liable:

(1) If the claim arose from a common incident of activity in which the trustee was properly engaged for the trust;

(2) If the trustee was not personally at fault; or

(3) To the extent that the trustee's actions increased the value of trust property.

(e) A decision by a trustee not to inspect property, or to decline to accept property, shall not create any inference as to liability, under any environmental law, with respect to that property. A trustee shall have no liability for a decrease in value of property in a trust by reason of the trustee's compliance with any environmental law, including reporting requirements.

"§ 36C-10-1011. Interest as general partner.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (c) of this section or unless personal liability is imposed in the contract, a trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner in a general or limited partnership is not personally liable on a contract entered into by the partnership if the fiduciary capacity was disclosed. The addition of the phrase "trustee" or "as trustee" or a similar designation to the signature of a trustee on a written partnership document is considered prima facie evidence of a disclosure of fiduciary capacity.

(b) A trustee who holds, in a fiduciary capacity, an interest as a general partner is not personally liable for torts committed by the partnership or for obligations arising from ownership or control of the interest unless the trustee is personally at fault. This subsection does not apply to additional ownership interests of the trustee held in a nonfiduciary capacity.

(c) If the settlor transfers an existing general partnership interest to a revocable trust, the settlor remains personally liable for partnership obligations as if the settlor were a general partner.

"§ 36C-10-1012. Protection of person dealing with trustee.

(a) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a trustee, without knowledge that the trustee is exceeding or improperly exercising the trustee's powers, is protected from liability as if the trustee properly exercised the power.

(b) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith deals with a trustee is not required to inquire into the extent of the trustee's powers or the propriety of their exercise.

(c) A person who in good faith delivers assets to a trustee need not ensure their proper application.

(d) A person other than a beneficiary who in good faith assists a former trustee, or who in good faith and for value deals with a former trustee, without knowledge that the trusteeship has terminated is protected from liability as if the former trustee were still a trustee.

(e) Comparable protective provisions of other laws relating to commercial transactions or transfer of securities by fiduciaries prevail over the protection provided by this section.

(f) A person is not required to obtain a certification under G.S. 36C-10-1013 in order to be entitled to the protections of this section.

"§ 36C-10-1013. Certification of trust.

(a) Instead of furnishing a copy of the trust instrument to a person other than a beneficiary, the trustee may furnish to the person a certification of trust containing the following information:

(1) The existence of the trust and the date the trust instrument was executed;

(2) The identity of the settlor, unless withheld under a provision in the trust instrument;

(3) The identity and address of the currently acting trustee;

(4) The powers of the trustee;

(5) The revocability or irrevocability of the trust and the identity of any person holding a power to revoke the trust;

(6) The authority of co-trustees to sign or otherwise authenticate and whether all or less than all are required in order to exercise powers of the trustee;

(7) The trust's taxpayer identification number; and

(8) The manner of taking title to trust property.

(b) Any trustee may sign or otherwise authenticate a certification of trust.

(c) A certification of trust must state that the trust has not been revoked, modified, or amended in any manner that would cause the representations contained in the certification of trust to be incorrect.

(d) A certification of trust need not contain the dispositive terms of a trust.

(e) A recipient of a certification of trust may require the trustee to furnish copies of those excerpts from the original trust instrument and later amendments that designate the trustee and confer upon the trustee the power to act in the pending transaction.

(f) A person who acts in reliance upon a certification of trust without knowledge that the representations contained in the certification are incorrect is not liable to any person for so acting and may assume without inquiry the existence of the facts contained in the certification. Knowledge of the terms of the trust may not be inferred solely from the fact that the person relying upon the certification holds a copy of all or part of the trust instrument.

(g) A person who in good faith enters into a transaction in reliance upon a certification of trust may enforce the transaction against the trust property as if the representations contained in the certification were correct.

(h) A person making a demand for the trust instrument in addition to a certification of trust or excerpts is liable for damages if the court determines that the person did not act in good faith in demanding the trust instrument.

(i) This section does not limit the right of a person to obtain a copy of the trust instrument in a judicial proceeding concerning the trust.

"Article 11.

"Miscellaneous Provisions.

"§ 36C-11-1101. Uniformity of application and construction.

In applying and construing this Chapter, consideration may be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it.

"§ 36C-11-1102. Electronic records and signatures.

The provisions of this Chapter governing the legal effect, validity, or enforceability of electronic records or electronic signatures, and of contracts formed or performed with the use of those records or signatures, conform to the requirements of Section 102 of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (15 U.S.C. § 7002) and supersede, modify, and limit the requirements of the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act.

"§ 36C-11-1103. Severability clause.

If any provision of this Chapter or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of this Chapter that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this Chapter are severable."

SECTION 3. The General Statutes are amended by adding a new Chapter to read:

"Chapter 36D.

"North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities.

"§ 36D-1. Title; findings.

(a) This Article shall be known and may be cited as the "North Carolina Community Trust for Persons with Severe Chronic Disabilities Act".

(b) The General Assembly finds that it is in the public interest to encourage activities by voluntary associations and private citizens that will supplement and augment those services provided by local, State, and federal government agencies in discharge of their responsibilities toward individuals with severe chronic disabilities. The General Assembly further finds that, as a result of changing social, economic, and demographic trends, families of persons with severe chronic disabilities are increasingly aware of the need for a vehicle by which they can assure ongoing individualized personal concern for a severely disabled family member who may survive that disabled person's parents or other family members, and provide for the efficient management of small legacies or trust funds to be used for the benefit of that disabled person. In a number of other states, voluntary associations have established foundations or trusts intended to be responsive to these concerns. Therefore, the General Assembly finds that North Carolina will benefit by the enactment of enabling legislation expressly authorizing the formation of community trusts in accordance with criteria set forth by statute and administered by the Secretary of State, under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. These community trusts permit the pooling of resources contributed by families or persons with philanthropic intent, along with the reservation of portions of these funds for the use and benefit of designated beneficiaries.

(c) This Article shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies, which are, among others, to:

(1) Encourage the orderly establishment of community trusts for the benefit of persons with severe chronic disabilities;

(2) Ensure that community trusts are administered properly and that the managing boards of the trusts are free from conflicts of interest;

(3) Facilitate sound administration of trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities by allowing family members and others to pool resources in order to make professional management investment more efficient;

(4) Provide parents of persons with severe chronic disabilities peace of mind in knowing that a means exists to ensure that the interests of their children who have severe chronic disabilities are properly looked after and managed after the parents die or become incapacitated;

(5) Help make guardians available for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member is available for this purpose;

(6) Encourage the availability of private resources to purchase for persons with severe chronic disabilities goods and services that are not available through any governmental or charitable program and to conserve these resources by limiting purchases to those that are not available from other sources;

(7) Encourage the inclusion, as beneficiaries of community trusts, of persons who lack resources and whose families are indigent, in a way that does not diminish the resources available to other beneficiaries whose families have contributed to the trust; and

(8) Remove the disincentives that discourage parents and others from setting aside funds for the future protection of persons with severe chronic disabilities by ensuring that the interest of beneficiaries in community trusts are not considered assets or income that would disqualify them from any governmental or charitable entitlement program with an economic means test.

"§ 36D-2. Definitions.

As used in this Article, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(1) "Beneficiary" means any person with a severe chronic disability who has qualified as a member of the community trust program and who has the right to receive those services and benefits vested with the management of the business and affairs of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, irrespective of the name by which the group is designated.

(2) "Community trust" means a nonprofit organization that offers the following services:

a. Administration of special trust funds for persons with severe chronic disabilities;

b. Follow along services;

c. Guardianship for persons with severe chronic disabilities who are incompetent, when no other family member or immediate friend is available for this purpose; and

d. Advice and counsel to persons who have been appointed as individual guardians of the persons or estates of persons with severe chronic disabilities.

(3) "Follow along services" means (i) those services offered by community trusts that are designed to ensure that the needs of each beneficiary are being met for as long as may be required and may include periodic visits to the beneficiary and to the places where the beneficiary receives services, (ii) participation in the development of individualized plans being made by service providers for the beneficiary, and (iii) other similar services consistent with the purposes of this Article.

(4) "Severe chronic disability" means a physical or mental impairment that is expected to give rise to a long-term need for specialized health, social, and other services, and that makes the person with the disability dependent upon others for assistance to secure these services.

(5) "Trustee" means any member of the board of a corporation, formed for the purpose of managing a community trust, whether that member is designated as a trustee, director, manager, governor, or by any other title.

(6) "Surplus trust funds" means funds accumulated in the trust from contributions made on behalf of an individual beneficiary that, after the death of the beneficiary, are determined by the board to be in excess of the actual cost of providing services during the beneficiary's lifetime, including the beneficiary's share of administrative costs.

"§ 36D-3. Scope.

This Article applies to every community trust established in this State. In addition to meeting the other requirements of this Article, every board that administers a community trust shall incorporate as a nonprofit corporation under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, Chapter 55A of the General Statutes applies to community trusts.

"§ 36D-4. Administration; powers and duties.

(a) Every community trust shall be administered by a board. The board shall be comprised of no less than nine and no more than 21 members, at least one-third of whom are parents or relatives of persons with severe chronic disabilities. No board member shall be a provider of habilitative, health, social, or educational services to persons with severe chronic disabilities or an employee of such a service provider. The board may, however, allow service providers to serve on the board in an advisory capacity. Board members shall be selected, to the maximum extent possible, from geographic areas throughout the area served by the trust.

The certificate of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes shall, in addition to the requirements set forth in that Chapter, demonstrate that the requirements of this section have been met.

(b) Notwithstanding any other law, no trustee may be compensated for services provided as a member of the board of a community trust. No fees or commissions shall be paid to these trustees; however, a trustee may be paid for necessary expenses incurred by the trustee and may receive indemnification as permitted under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes.

(b1) For every community trust incorporated under this Article, the corporation itself is considered the trustee of any funds administered by it. No individual board member is considered to be trustee of any fund deposited on behalf of any individual beneficiary with severe chronic disabilities.

(c) The board shall adopt bylaws that include a declaration delineating the primary geographic area serviced by the trust and the principal services to be provided. The board shall file the bylaws with the Secretary of State.

(d) The board may retain paid staff as it considers necessary to provide follow along services to the extent required by each beneficiary. The community trust may authorize the expenditure of funds for any goods or services, including recreational services, which the board, in its sole discretion, determines will promote the well-being of any beneficiary. The community trust may pay for the burial of any beneficiary. The community trust, however, may not expend funds for any goods or services of comparable quality to those available to any particular beneficiary through any governmental or charitable program, insurance, or other sources. The community trust may expend funds to meet the reasonable costs of administering the community trust.

(e) The community trust is not required to provide services to a beneficiary who is a competent adult and who has refused to accept the services. Further, the community trust shall not provide services of a nature or in a manner that would be contrary to the public policy of this State at the time the services are to be provided. In either case, the community trust may offer alternate services that are consistent with the purposes of this Article and in keeping with the best interests of the beneficiary.

(f) The community trust may accept appointment as guardian of the person, guardian of the estate, or guardian of both on behalf of any beneficiary. If the community trust accepts appointment as guardian of the person of an individual, it shall assign a staff member to carry out its responsibilities as the guardian. The community trust may, upon request, offer consultative and professional assistance to an individual, private or public guardian of any of its beneficiaries.

(g) The community trust may accept contributions, bequests, and designations under life insurance policies to the community trust on behalf of individuals with severe chronic disabilities for the purpose of qualifying them as beneficiaries.

(h) At the time a contribution, bequest, or assignment of insurance proceeds is made, the trustor shall receive a written statement of the services to be provided to the beneficiary. The statement shall include a starting date for the delivery of services or the condition precedent, such as the death of the trustor, which shall determine the starting date. The statement shall describe the frequency with which services shall be provided and their duration, and the criteria or procedures for modifying the program of services from time to time in the best interests of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-5. Accountability.

Along with the annual report filed with the Secretary of State under Chapter 55A of the General Statutes, the community trust shall file an itemized statement that shows the funds collected for the year, income earned, salaries, other expenses incurred, and the opening and final trust balances. A copy of this statement shall be made available, upon request, to any beneficiary, trustor, or designee of the trustor. In addition, once annually, each trustor or the trustor's designee shall receive a detailed individual statement of the services provided to the trustor's beneficiary during the previous 12 months and the services to be provided during the following 12 months. The community trust shall make a copy of the individual statement available to any beneficiary, upon request.

"§ 36D-6. Gifts, surplus trust funds.

The community trust may accept gifts and use surplus trust funds for the purpose of qualifying as beneficiary any indigent person whose family members lack the resources to make a full contribution on that person's behalf. The extent and character of the services and selection of beneficiaries are at the discretion of the community trust. The community trust may not use surplus trust funds to make any charitable contribution on behalf of any beneficiary or any group or class of beneficiaries. The community trust may accept gifts to meet start-up costs, reduce the charges to the trust for the cost of administration, and for any other purpose that is consistent with this Article. Gifts made to the trust for an unspecified purpose shall be used by the community trust either to qualify indigent persons whose families lack the means to qualify them as beneficiaries of the trust or to meet any start-up costs that the trust incurs.

"§ 36D-7. Special requests on behalf of beneficiary.

The community trust may agree to fulfill any special requests made on behalf of a beneficiary as long as the requests are consistent with this Article and provided that an adequate contribution has been made for this purpose on behalf of a beneficiary. The community trust may agree to serve as trustee for any individual trust created on behalf of a beneficiary, regardless of whether the trust is revocable or irrevocable, has one or more remaindermen or contingent beneficiaries, or any other condition, so long as the individual trust is consistent with the purposes of this Article.

"§ 36D-8. Irrevocability; impossibility of fulfillment.

A community trust for persons with severe chronic disabilities is irrevocable, but the trustees in their sole discretion may provide compensation for any contribution to the trust to any trustor who, upon good cause, withdraws a beneficiary designated by the trustor from the trust, or if it becomes impossible to fulfill the conditions of the trust with regard to an individual beneficiary for reasons other than the death of the beneficiary.

"§ 36D-9. Beneficiary's interest in trust not asset for income eligibility determination.

Notwithstanding any provisions of Chapter 108A of the General Statutes, the beneficiary's interest in any community trust is not considered to be an asset for the purpose of determining income eligibility for any publicly operated program, nor shall that interest be reached in satisfaction of a claim for support and maintenance of the beneficiary. No agency shall reduce the benefits of services available to any individual because that person is the beneficiary of a community trust.

"§ 36D-10. Trust not subject to law against perpetuities; restraints on alienation.

A community trust shall not be subject to or held to be in violation of any principle of law against perpetuities or restraints on alienation or perpetual accumulations of trusts.

"§ 36D-11. Settlement; trustee limitations.

The community trust shall settle a community trust by filing a final accounting in the superior court. In addition, at any time before the settlement of the final account, the community trust, the Secretary of State, or the Attorney General may bring an action for the dissolution of a nonprofit corporation in the superior court for the purpose of terminating the trust or merging it with another charitable trust.

No trustee or any private individual is entitled to share in the distribution of any of the trust assets upon dissolution, merger, or settlement of the community trust. Upon dissolution, merger, or settlement, the superior court shall distribute all of the remaining net assets of the community trust in a manner that is consistent with the purposes of this Article."

SECTION 4. G.S. 32-28 and G.S. 32-34 are repealed.

SECTION 5. G.S. 28A-13-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 28A-13-6. Exercise of powers of joint personal representatives by one or more than one.

~~(a) As used in this section, the term "personal representatives" includes testamentary trustees.~~

(b) If a will expressly makes provision for the execution of any of the powers of personal representatives by all of them or by any one or more of them, the provisions of the will govern.

~~(c) If there is no governing provision in the will, personal representatives may, by written agreement signed by all of them and filed with and approved by the clerk of superior court of the county in which such personal representatives qualified, provide that any one or more of the following powers of personal representatives may be exercised by any designated one or more of them:~~

~~(1) Open bank accounts and draw checks thereon;~~

~~(2) Subject to the provisions of G.S. 105-24, enter any safe deposit box of the deceased or any safe deposit box rented by the personal representative or representatives;~~

~~(3) Employ attorneys and accountants;~~

~~(4) List property for taxes and prepare and file State, municipal and county tax returns;~~

~~(5) Collect claims and debts due the estate and give receipts therefor;~~

~~(6) Pay claims against and debts of the estate;~~

~~(7) Compromise claims in favor of or against the estate;~~

~~(8) Have custody of property of the estate.~~

(c1) If there is no governing provision in the will, personal representatives may, by written agreement signed by all of them and filed with and approved by the clerk of superior court of the county in which the personal representatives qualified, provide that any designated one or more of the personal representatives may exercise one or more of the following powers:

(1) Establish and maintain bank accounts for the trust and issue checks for the trust.
(2) Maintain inventories, accountings, and income and expense records of the trust.
(3) Enter any safety deposit box rented by the trust.
(4) Employ persons as advisors or assistants in the performance of administrative duties, including agents, attorneys, accountants, brokers, appraisers and custodians.
(5) List trust property for taxes and prepare and file tax returns for the trust.
(6) Collect and give receipts for claims and debts of the trust.
(7) Pay debts, claims, costs of administration, and taxes of the trust.
(8) Compromise, adjust or otherwise settle any claim by or against the trust and release, in whole or in part, a claim belonging to the trust.
(9) Have custody of the trust property.

(d) Subject to subsection (b) of this section, if two or more personal representatives own shares of corporate stock or other securities, their acts with respect to voting shall have the following effect:
(1) If only one votes, in person or by proxy, ~~his~~ that personal representative's act binds all;
(2) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, the act of the majority so voting binds all;
(3) If more than one vote, in person or by proxy, but the vote is evenly split on any particular matter, each faction is entitled to vote the stock or other securities in question proportionately.

(e) Subject to ~~the provisions of~~ subsections (b), ~~(c)~~ (c1), and (d) of this section, all other acts and duties must be performed by both of the personal representatives if there are two, and by a majority of them if there are more than two. No personal representative who has not joined in exercising a power shall be liable for the consequences of such exercise, nor shall a dissenting personal representative be liable for the consequences of an act in which ~~he~~ the personal representative joins at the direction of the majority of the personal representatives, if ~~he~~ that personal representative expressed his or her dissent in writing to any other personal representative at or before the time of such joinder.

(f) No personal representative shall be relieved of liability on his or her bond or otherwise by entering into any agreement under this section."

SECTION 6. The Revisor of Statutes shall cause to be printed along with this act all relevant portions of the Official Commentary to the Uniform Trust Code and all explanatory comments of the drafters of this act as the Revisor may deem appropriate.

SECTION 7.(a) Section 2 of this act becomes effective January 1, 2006, and except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, applies to (i) all trusts created before, on, or after that date; (ii) all judicial proceedings concerning trusts commenced on or after that date; and (iii) judicial proceedings concerning trusts commenced before that date unless the court finds that application of a particular provision of Chapter 36C of the General Statutes would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the judicial proceedings or prejudice the rights of the parties, in which case the particular provision of Chapter 36C of the General Statutes does not apply and the superseded law applies.

Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, any rule of construction or presumption provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes applies to trust instruments executed before the effective date of Section 2 of this act unless there is a clear indication of a contrary intent in the terms of the trust or unless application of that rule of construction or presumption would impair substantial rights of a beneficiary. Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 36C of the General Statutes, as enacted by Section 2 of this act, an act done before the effective date of Section 2 of this act is not affected by Chapter 36C of the General Statutes. If a right is acquired, extinguished, or barred upon the expiration of a prescribed period that has commenced to run under any other statute before the effective date of Section 2 of this act, that statute continues to apply to the right even if it has been repealed or superseded.

SECTION 7.(b) Sections 1 through 5 of this act become effective January 1, 2006. The remainder of this act is effective when it becomes law.

Summary of North Carolina Uniform Trust Code

Introduction

The Uniform Trust Code ("UTC") was promulgated by the Uniform Law Commissioners in 2000 as the first truly national codification of the law of trusts. The UTC draws from existing statutory and common law sources, including the Restatements of the Law of Trusts 2nd and 3rd. It also contains elements of reform to reflect modern needs. As of October 2004 at least ten states have enacted the UTC, and numerous groups in other states have the UTC under study.

Unlike some states, North Carolina does not have a substantial body of statutory trust law, and some of what we do have is in need of amendment. The Uniform Trust Act, enacted in 1939 as Article 6 of Chapter 36A and adopted by only a few states, was not a complete codification of trust law, and several of its provisions are outmoded in light of modern practices. The more recent Trust Administration Act, enacted in 2002 as Article 3 of Chapter 36A, was helpful in granting the clerks of superior court jurisdiction to deal with trust matters, but it has raised questions concerning the extent of that jurisdiction and the application of the rules of civil procedure.

The promulgation of the UTC presented an opportunity to codify, clarify and improve the North Carolina trust law. With this objective in mind, the Legislative Committee of the Estate Planning and Fiduciary Law Section of the North Carolina Bar Association began its study of the UTC in 2001. The proposed North Carolina Uniform Trust Code ("NCUTC"), a modified version of the UTC, is the product of the Legislative Committee's three-year study.

The NCUTC, which replaces Chapter 36A with a new Chapter 36C, should be very beneficial to lawyers and judges alike by filling any gaps that exist in our trust law, while at the same time providing a modern practice approach in dealing with trust issues. It makes a number of beneficial changes and additions in our existing law. For example,

- Jurisdictional and procedural issues in the Trust Administration Act have been clarified. The Trust Administration Act gave the clerk of superior court original jurisdiction over "internal affairs" of the trust. The NCUTC clarifies that certain actions, including actions for damages, do not constitute such "internal affairs." The NCUTC also clarifies the application of rules of civil procedure in proceedings before the clerk.

- The representation provisions that now exist in the Trust Administration Act for trust proceedings before the clerk are applicable to trust proceedings before a superior court judge.

- Article 11 of Chapter 36A contains provisions for the modification and termination of a trust which are similar to those in the NCUTC. However, the NCUTC adds rules to reform a trust because of mistakes of law or fact and to achieve tax objectives.

- The NCUTC contains special rules pertaining to revocable trusts which are added to our trust law. Where an instrument is silent, the instrument is deemed to be revocable. This reverses the presumption under our existing common law.

- The current provisions in Chapter 36A require court approval for the transfer of administration to another jurisdiction and for the resignation and appointment of a trustee where the governing instrument is silent. The NCUTC allows for the transfer, resignation and appointment of a trustee by consent of the beneficiaries.

- The provisions in Chapter 36A contain inflexible provisions in dealing with conflict of law issues. For example, trustees cannot sell or make loans to a related party without a court order. The NCUTC allows such transfers to occur with the consent of the beneficiaries.

Summary of Articles

In General

The NCUTC, like the UTC, is divided into 11 articles. The first and eleventh articles do not address substantive topics, but deal with general provisions like definitions and rules of statutory interpretation. The nine substantive articles are Article 2, Judicial Proceedings; Article 3, Representation; Article 4, Creation, Validity, Modification, and Termination of Trusts; Article 5, Creditor's Claims, Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts; Article 6, Revocable Trusts; Article 7, Office of Trustee; Article 8, Duties and Powers of Trustee; Article 9, The Uniform Prudent Investor Act (which recodifies provisions of Article 15 of Chapter 36A); and Article 10, Liability of Trustees and Rights of Persons Dealing with Trustee. It is not possible to provide a complete summary of the entire NCUTC, but what follows highlights central characteristics of this important code.

Article 1
General Provisions and Definitions

Article 1 sets forth the definitions and rules that govern application of the NCUTC.

G.S. 36C-1-101 states that Chapter 36C of the North Carolina General Statutes shall be known as the "North Carolina Uniform Trust Code."

G.S. 36C-1-102 specifies the scope of the NCUTC by describing the types of trusts to which it applies. The description of these trusts was based on the provisions of G.S. 36A-22.1 of the Trust Administration Act.

G.S. 36C-1-103 is one of the NCUTC's most important sections because it contains the definitions that apply throughout the entire NCUTC. Of specific importance are the following definitions:

- "Qualified beneficiary" – not all beneficiaries of a trust are qualified beneficiaries. Under the NCUTC, qualified beneficiaries receive more rights than normal beneficiaries. A qualified beneficiary is one of the following three types of beneficiaries: (i) a permissible distributee of income or principal, (ii) a beneficiary who would be a permissible distributee of income or principal if the current present interest in the trust terminated, or (iii) a beneficiary who would receive a distribution of trust assets if the trust terminated.

- "Settlor" – is not just the person who creates the trust. A settlor is any person who contributes assets to a trust unless another person has the power to revoke the trust or withdraw the assets contributed.

- "Terms of a trust" mean the actual provisions of the trust instrument and any provisions established through a judicial proceeding.

G.S. 36C-1-104 specifies when persons, particularly persons who work in organizations (e.g., corporate trustees), are deemed to have acquired knowledge of a fact.

G.S. 36C-1-105 states that the NCUTC is primarily a default statute the provisions of which can be overridden in the terms of a trust. The UTC contained fourteen items that could not be overridden. The NCUTC deletes the following four of these leaving the settlor free to provide what he wishes with respect to such matters:

- the power of the court under UTC Section 706 to require or dispense with a bond.

- the power of the court under UTC Section 708 to adjust a trustee's compensation specified in the instrument.

- the duty of the trustee under UTC Section 813(b)(2) and (3) to notify qualified beneficiaries of an irrevocable trust who have attained 25 years of age of the existence of the trust, of the identity of the trustee, and of their right to request trustee's reports. Note: G.S. 36C-8-813 has been re-written to delete this duty. Under G.S. 36C-8-813, a trustee's only duty is to give a qualified beneficiary "upon request and at reasonable times complete and accurate information as to the nature and amount of the trust property and to permit such beneficiary, or such beneficiary's representative, to inspect the subject matter of the trust and the accounts and other documents relating to the trust." This language is derived from the Restatement of the Law of Trust (2nd) which has been quoted with approval by our courts.

- the duty of the trustee under UTC Section 813(a) to respond to the request of a qualified beneficiary of an irrevocable trust for trustee's reports and other information reasonably related to the administration of a trust.

G.S. 36C-1-106 clarifies that the NCUTC is supplemented by the common law of trusts and principles of equity.

G.S. 36C-1-107 provides that the terms of a trust may set forth the jurisdiction or jurisdictions whose laws will govern the trust. The designation of jurisdiction in the terms of a trust will be binding unless designation of that jurisdiction's law is contrary to a strong public policy of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue. If a trust is silent as to which jurisdiction's laws will apply, the laws of the jurisdiction having the most significant relationship to the matter at issue will control.

G.S. 36C-1-108 allows a trustee to change a trust's principal place of administration without going to court if certain conditions are met. If the trustee seeks to change the trust's principal place of administration to a jurisdiction within the United States, the trustee must provide all qualified beneficiaries with sixty days advance notice. If no qualified beneficiary objects to the proposed transfer, the trustee may proceed with changing the principal place of administration of the trust. If a qualified beneficiary does object, the trustee would not be able to make the change without going to court and obtaining an order permitting the transfer. If the trustee seeks to change the trust's principal place of administration to a jurisdiction outside of the United States, the trustee cannot make the change without first securing the written consent of all qualified beneficiaries.

G.S. 36C-1-109 specifies the methods for giving notice and excludes from the NCUTC's notice requirements persons whose identity or location is unknown and not reasonably ascertainable. This section does not apply to judicial proceedings. Notice of a judicial proceeding must be given as provided in Article 2.

G.S. 36C-1-110 states when a charitable organization or person entitled to enforce a trust for animals or a noncharitable purpose may be treated as a qualified beneficiary.

G.S. 36C-1-111 allows "interested persons" (as that term is defined in this section) to enter into nonjudicial settlement agreements only in five instances dealing primarily with administrative matters. The virtual representation provisions of Article 3 apply in determining who are interested persons. A nonjudicial settlement agreement is valid only to the extent it does not violate a material purpose of the trust and includes terms and conditions that could be properly approved by the court.

G.S. 36C-1-112 provides that North Carolina's specific rules on construction of wills also apply to the construction of trusts.

Article 2
Judicial Proceedings

Article 2 deals with judicial proceedings concerning trusts. The Trust Administration Act provided the clerk of superior court with jurisdiction in certain trust proceedings. As discussed below, this Article clarifies the jurisdiction of the clerk of superior court and the superior court trial division.

G.S. 36C-2-201 states that a court may intervene in the administration of a trust to the extent that jurisdiction is properly invoked by a party or is provided by law. This section does not change existing law. It also reiterates existing law that a trust is not subject to judicial supervision, except as expressly provided in G.S. 36C-2-208 (relating to accountings to the clerk) and G.S. 36C-2-209 (relating to qualifications and accountings of trustees of testamentary trusts). As described below G.S. 36C-2-208 and G.S. 36C-2-209 are recodifications of existing law.

G.S. 36C-2-202 specifies that by accepting a trusteeship of a trust having its principal place of administration in this State or by moving the principal place of administration of a trust to this State, a trustee submits personally to the jurisdiction of this State in any matter involving the trust. Additionally, a beneficiary of a trust, by accepting a distribution from a trust, submits personally to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State regarding any matter involving the trust. This section does not preclude other means of obtaining jurisdiction over a trust, beneficiary or other person receiving property from the trust. This section is consistent with existing law.

G.S. 36C-2-203 incorporates the former provisions of G.S.36A-23.1, 36A-25.1 and 36A-27 of the Trust Administration Act. The section has been revised to clarify the jurisdiction between the clerk of superior court and superior court trial division. Subsection (f) is new and provides a nonexclusive list of jurisdiction which, pursuant to existing case law, lies exclusively with the superior court division of the general court of justice, not the clerk of court. This section retains the provisions of the Trust Administration Act providing that nothing in the section affects the right of a person to file for declaratory relief under the provisions of Article 26 of Chapter. To prevent forum shopping between the clerk and superior court trial division, subsection (c) gives a party the right to remove a trust proceeding to superior court if relief under the declaratory judgment act is requested. Subsection (d) incorporates former G.S. 36A-25.1 (dealing with jurisdiction over foreign trusts). Subsection (e) incorporates former G.S. 36A-27 (appeal).

G.S. 36C-2-204 incorporates the venue provisions under the Trust Administration Act contained in G.S. 36A-24.1. Subsection (d) adds a provision of the UTC which provides that if a trust has no trustee, venue for a trust proceeding involving the appointment of a trustee is any county in this State in which a beneficiary resides, the trust is located, in the county as specified in the trust instrument or if the trust is created by will, in a county in which the decedent's estate was or is being administered.

G.S. 36C-2-205 is a revision of G.S. 36A-26.1 setting forth the manner in which a trust proceeding is commenced and other procedural requirements. As with G.S. 36A-26.1, this section incorporates the procedures for the pleading requirements that exist for special proceedings, but specifies that trust proceedings are to be docketed as an estate matter. Additionally, the rules of pleading have been clarified. This section does not allow a clerk to enter a default judgment in a trust proceeding. This section does allow for the consolidation of trust proceedings which are pending both before the clerk of superior court and a civil action pending before the superior court division of the general court of justice if they involve a common question of law or fact. To consolidate a matter, a motion must be made to the judge of the superior court trial division. Similarly, parties can join claims for relief in a civil action pending before a superior court division notwithstanding such joined claims may otherwise be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the clerk. Subsection (h) allows the clerk and superior court judge to make such orders as appropriate to protect the interest of the parties to avoid unnecessary cost or delay in connection with any motion for consolidation or joinder of claims. Until otherwise ordered by superior court judge, the clerk of superior court's exclusive jurisdiction as set forth in subsection (a) is not stayed notwithstanding a motion to consolidate or joinder of claims.

G.S. G.S. 36C-2-206 is consistent with G.S. 36A-26.3 dealing with representation of parties. However, this section does clarify that representation provisions apply to both trust proceedings before the clerk of superior court and in the trial division of the superior court. Under current law, apparently the representation provisions of G.S. 36A-26.3 applied only to trust proceedings before the clerk.

G.S. 36C-2-207 incorporates former G.S. 36A-26.2 by providing that any interested party or person representing an interested party may waive notice by writing signed by the person or the person's attorney and filed in the proceeding.

G.S. 36C-2-208 sets forth when accountings must be filed with the clerk of superior court. It incorporates current law contained in G.S. 36A-29.

G.S. 36C-2-209 incorporates the provisions of G.S. 36A-107 and 108 regarding the qualification and accounting requirements for trustees of testamentary trusts and rules relating to the registration or indexing of testamentary trusts.

Article 3
Representation

Article 3 deals with the rather complex issues of who may represent whom in transactions or proceedings relating to a trust. The representation provisions are similar to those existing in G.S. 36A-26.3 of the Trust Administration Act relating to proceedings before the clerk of superior court.

G.S. 36C-3-301 is the introductory section, laying out the scope of the article. The representation principles of this article have numerous applications under the NCUTC. They apply for purposes of settlement of disputes, whether by a court or nonjudicially. As noted above, the provisions change existing North Carolina law in that representation applies not only to proceedings before the clerk of the superior court but also to proceedings before the superior court division of the general court of justice. They apply for the giving of required notices and for the giving of consents to certain actions.

G.S. 36C-3-302 deals with representation by the holder of a general power of appointment (both presently exercisable and testamentary general powers of appointment).

G.S. 36C-3-303 deals with representation by a fiduciary, whether of an estate, trust, conservatorship, or guardianship. The section also allows a parent without a conflict of interest to represent and bind a minor or unborn child. If a disagreement arises between parents seeking to represent the same minor child, the parent who is either a beneficiary of or a lineal descendant of the settlor of the trust shall be entitled to represent the minor child. A person may also represent and bind such person's unborn issue.

G.S. 36C-3-304 is the virtual representation provision. It provides for representation of and the giving of a binding consent by another person having a substantially identical interest with respect to the particular issue. G.S. 36C-3-304 is broader than existing North Carolina law in that it permits a person with a substantially identical interest to represent not only minor and unborn or unascertained persons, but also incapacitated persons and persons whose identity or location is unknown.

G.S. 36C-3-305 authorizes the court to appoint a representative to represent the interests of unrepresented persons or persons for whom the court concludes the other available representation might be inadequate. This section is broader than existing North Carolina law in that a representative may be appointed to represent someone whose identity is known but cannot be located. In addition, this section authorizes the representative to act on behalf of a party without regard to whether or not a judicial proceeding is pending and to take into consideration benefits accruing generally to the party's family.

The provisions of Article 3 are subject to modification in the terms of the trust. Settlors are free to specify their own methods for providing substituted notice and obtaining substituted consent.

Article 4
Creation, Validity, Modification and Termination of a Trust

G.S. 36C-4-401 specifies the methods by which trusts are created, that is, by transfer of property, self-declaration, or exercise of a power of appointment. This section modifies the UTC and common law rule that transfer of title to property is not required where the owner of the property declares himself as trustee of the property. As modified, a valid declaration of trust may only be created by complying with state law provisions governing delivery of property by transfer of title.

G.S. 36C-4-401A recodifies G.S. 36A-100 expressly confirming that an unfunded trust is valid where the trust is the designated beneficiary of a life insurance policy, retirement benefits or a pourover provision in a will. This matter is dealt with by implication in G.S. 36C-401(1), which validates a trust by transfer of property through a disposition taking effect upon the settlor's death.

G.S. 36C-4-402 lists the requirements for creation of a trust. Whatever method to create the trust may have been employed, the settlor must have the capacity and indicate an intention to create a trust. In addition, there must be a definite beneficiary or the trust must be a charitable trust, a trust for animals (specially provided for as a kind of honorary trust), or a trust for a noncharitable purpose (also a kind of honorary trust).

G.S. 36C-4-403 addresses the validity in the enacting jurisdiction of trusts created in other jurisdictions. A trust not created by will is validly created if its creation complied with the law of specified jurisdictions in which the settlor or trustee had a significant contact.

G.S. 36C-4-404 forbids trusts for illegal or impossible purposes, and requires that a trust and its terms must be for the benefit of its beneficiaries. This section recites the permitted purposes of a charitable trust. Subsections (b) through (e) of this section incorporate existing provisions in G.S. 36A-49 and G.S. 36A-52 validating gifts for charitable purposes even though expressed in general terms.

G.S. 36C-4-405A incorporates existing North Carolina statutory provisions for enforcement of charitable gifts and charitable trusts. This section provides that a trust induced by fraud, duress or undue influence may be invalidated. North Carolina courts have consistently recognized fraud, duress and undue influence as reasons to invalidate a will; but there are no cases extending the concept to the creation of a trust. This section makes a trust induced by fraud, duress or undue influence voidable rather than void so that either a trustee or a third party dealing with the trustee would not be at risk if the trust is later determined to have been invalid unless that trustee or third party had knowledge of the grounds for the invalidity.

G.S. 36C-4-407 codifies existing North Carolina common law validating oral trusts. North Carolina courts have repeatedly recognized oral trusts, including oral trusts for realty, where the "clear and convincing evidence" standard is met. The remaining sections address what are often referred to as "honorary" trusts, although such trusts are valid and enforceable under the NCUTC.

G.S. 36C-4-408 covers a trust for the care of a domestic or pet animal. This section is based on existing provisions in G.S. 36A-147, which is more limited than the UTC, which covers any animal living during the settlor's lifetime.

G.S. 36C-4-409 allows creation of a trust for another noncharitable purpose such as maintenance of a cemetery lot.

G.S. 36C-4-410 is substantially similar to existing North Carolina law in that it establishes a non-exclusive procedure for modification and termination of an irrevocable trust.

G.S. 36C-4-411(a) is similar to G.S. 36A-123.3 in providing for termination or modification upon beneficiary consent if the settlor concurs, but is broader than existing North Carolina law in that it permits the consent of a settlor to be given by an attorney-in-fact, a guardian of the estate or a guardian of the person of the settlor. Subsections (b) and (c) are consistent with G.S. 36A-125.4 in permitting the court to modify or terminate the trust if all beneficiaries consent where the circumstances outweigh the interests in accomplishing a material purpose of the trust.

G.S. 36C-4-412 authorizes the court to modify or terminate a trust in response to unanticipated circumstances or due to ineffective administrative terms.

G.S. 36C-4-413 codifies and at the same time modifies the doctrine of cy pres, at least as applied in most states. This section authorizes the court to apply cy pres not only if the original means becomes impossible or unlawful but also if the means become impracticable or wasteful. This section also creates a presumption of general charitable intent. Upon failure of the settlor's original plan, the court cannot divert the trust property to a noncharity unless the terms of the trust expressly so provide. Subsection (b) is based on existing North Carolina law authorizing the Attorney General to maintain a proceeding to enforce a charitable trust, but this subsection expands existing law in that it also authorizes a settlor, trustee, qualified beneficiary or other interested party to maintain such a proceeding.

G.S. 36C-4-414 authorizes the court to modify or terminate a trust if continued administration under the trust's existing terms would be uneconomical. This section also authorizes a trustee to terminate a trust valued at less than $50,000. These provisions are consistent with G.S. 36A-125.6.

G.S. 36C-4-415 authorizes the court to reform a trust to correct a mistake of law or fact. Reformation of inter vivos instruments as a remedy to correct a mistake of law or fact is well established. However, there is no comparable North Carolina statutory provision authorizing a court to reform an unambiguous trust to conform to the settlor's intent. G.S. 36C-4-415 would permit the introduction of parol evidence, even where contradicted by the plain meaning of the words in the instrument, to show the settlor's intent and the existence of a mistake of fact or law. However, the evidence must be clear and convincing to protect against the possibility of unreliable or fraudulent evidence.

G.S. 36A-4-416 authorizes the court to modify a trust to achieve the settlor's tax objectives.

G.S. 36A-4-417 authorizes a trustee to combine or divide a trust.

G.S. 36C-4-418 is based on G.S. 36A-125.10 which provides for trust property distributable to a minor upon termination of a trust to be distributed to the minor's guardian of the estate or general guardian, to a custodian for the benefit of the minor under the North Carolina Uniform Transfer to Minors Act, or to a trustee for the benefit of the minor under the North Carolina Custodial Trust Act.

G.S. 36C-4-419 requires the court in exercising its discretion to modify or terminate an irrevocable trust under G.S. 36C-4-411, G.S. 36C-4-412, and G.S. 36C-4-413 to consider provisions making the interest of a beneficiary inalienable, but the court is not precluded from the exercise of that discretion solely because of such provisions. This is consistent with G.S. 36A-125.8.

The requirements for a trust's creation, such as the necessary level of capacity and the requirement that a trust have a legal purpose, are controlled by statute and common law, not by the settlor. Nor may the settlor negate the court's ability to modify or terminate a trust as provided in G.S. 36C-4-410 through 416. However, a settlor is free to restrict or modify the trustee's power to terminate an uneconomic trust as provided in G.S. 36C-4-414, and the trustee's power to combine and divide trusts as provided in G.S. 36C-4-417.

Articles 4A
Tax Status of Charitable Trusts

Articles 4A recodifies G.S. 36A-54 and G.S. 36A-53(b) dealing with the tax status of charitable trusts that are intended to preserve the favorable tax treatment of gifts to such trusts.

Article 4B
Charitable Trust Administration Act

Article 4B recodifies the existing Charitable Trust Administration Act in Article 4A of Chapter 36A.

Article 5
Creditor's Claims, Spendthrift and Discretionary Trusts

Article 5 deals with creditor claims against the interests of a beneficiary or a settlor. The NCUTC's version of Article 5 includes certain provisions to preserve current North Carolina law with regard to discretionary trusts.

G.S. 36C-5-501 provides that a spendthrift provision in a trust restricts a beneficiary's creditor from attaching the beneficiary's interest in the trust until there is a distribution to the beneficiary. The NCUTC adds additional protection for not only spendthrift trusts, but discretionary and protective trusts as well (as they are defined in later sections of Article 5). If there is no spendthrift, discretionary, or protective trust provision, a creditor of a beneficiary may attach a distribution interest before it is distributed. G.S. 36C-5-501(b) seeks to protect a trustee who makes distributions from a spendthrift, discretionary or protective trust to or for the benefit of a beneficiary from liability for the distribution.

G.S. 36C-5-502 states that a spendthrift provision is created simply by general reference to "spendthrift trust" in the trust instrument.

G.S. 36C-5-503 differs from the UTC which provides for three "exception" creditors – creditors who could attach a beneficiary's interest in a trust even if protected by a spendthrift provision. These exception creditors were: (1) child support orders; (2) spousal maintenance orders; and (3) a creditor for services provided to protect the beneficiary's interest in the trust. However, the only exception creditor to a spendthrift trust allowed in this section is for a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance.

G.S. 36C-5-504 seeks to preserve much of G.S. 36A-115 because of the concern of some practitioners that the UTC might eliminate the availability of discretionary trusts for asset protection and Medicaid planning. The definition of a "discretionary trust interest" in G.S. 36C-5-504(a) includes both the definition of a "discretionary" trust interest from G.S. 36A-115(b)(1), and the definition of a "support" trust from G.S. 36A-115(b)(2).

G.S. 36C-5-504(c) states clearly that a creditor of a beneficiary cannot compel a distribution from a discretionary trust even if the trustee has abused its discretion. As with spendthrift trusts, the only exception creditor will be a beneficiary's child who has a judgment or court order against the beneficiary for support or maintenance. However, a child's claim against a discretionary trust interest will be limited to those cases where a trustee has not complied with a standard of distribution or has abused its discretion. Under 36C-8-814(a), a trustee will abuse its discretion if the trustee acts with bad faith, acts dishonestly, acts with an improper even though not a dishonest motive, or if the trustee fails to use the trustee's judgment in accordance with the terms and purposes of the trust and the interests of the beneficiaries. This language, which differs significantly from the UTC, was taken from the opinion in Lineback v. Stout, 79 N.C. App. 292, 339 S.E. 2d 103 (1986).

G.S. 36C-5-505 provides that creditors of the settlor of a revocable trust may attach the corpus of the trust. In addition, a creditor may reach the maximum amount that may be distributed to the settlor in an irrevocable trust.

G.S. 36C-5-506 adds a definition of "mandatory distribution" to prevent this section from being interpreted to require distributions from discretionary trusts as defined in G.S. § 36C-5-504(a)(2).

G.S. 36C-5-507 provides that trust property is exempt from the personal obligations of the trustee.

G.S. 36C-5-508 adds to the UTC provisions regarding a protective trust, similar to G.S. 36A-115(b)(3), as an additional way to preserve assets from creditors.

Article 6
Revocable Trusts

G.S. 36C-6-601 provides that the capacity of a person to establish and fund a revocable trust is the same as that applicable to a will. North Carolina law has no present standard of capacity for trusts.

G.S. 36C-6-602 provides that all trusts are presumed revocable unless the instrument creating the trust expressly provides to the contrary. This reverses the present North Carolina common law rule. This section also states that the settlor's suitably authorized attorney-in-fact or guardian may amend the revocable trust but not in such a fashion as to change the settlor's existing estate plan.

G.S. 36C-6-603 provides that while the settlor of a revocable trust is living, the beneficiaries' rights are subject to the control of the settlor or the settlor's agents. With certain exceptions, however, persons with powers of withdrawal from a trust are deemed to have the authority of the settlor to the extent of that portion of the trust subject to the power.

G.S. 36C-6-604 states that the validity of the formerly revocable trust that becomes irrevocable when the settlor dies cannot be challenged upon the elapsing of three years after the decedent's death. This is similar to the present statute of limitations governing caveats to wills.

Article 7
Office of Trustee

Article 7 deals with acceptance of the trust by the trustee, bond for the trustee, decision-making by co-trustees, and like matters.

G.S. 36C-7-701 contains provisions regarding accepting or declining the trusteeship that are substantially the same as existing North Carolina law.

G.S. 36C-7-702 retains North Carolina's existing law regarding circumstances where a trustee shall be required to give bond. This differs from the UTC, which would allow the court to require a bond even where the governing instrument directs otherwise. In addition, North Carolina law, as incorporated in this section, gives more guidance regarding the amount of the bond, where one is required.

G.S. 36C-7-703 provides for general rules applicable to co-trustees that are similar to existing North Carolina law. However, this section goes further to protect a co-trustee who does not join in an action so long as there is no intentional misconduct or improper personal benefit to one or more of the trustees approving the action.

G.S. 36C-7-704 contains provisions regarding a vacancy in the trusteeship and appointment of a successor which are similar to existing North Carolina law. This section adds a provision that is consistent with existing North Carolina law clarifying the powers and duties of a successor trustee.

G.S. 36C-7-705, unlike existing North Carolina law, permits a trustee to resign without court approval by giving notice to qualified beneficiaries, even where the governing instrument does not address trustee resignation.

G.S. 36C-7-706 provides for removal of a trustee on several grounds based on malfeasance or on a change of circumstances if not inconsistent with a material purpose. This section did not adopt a UTC provision allowing removal at the request of beneficiaries.

G.S. 36C-7-707 offers an additional remedy not in the UTC in cases where the former trustee does not execute the proper documentation to transfer title to the trust property to the successor in that it gives the clerk of superior court authority to order the former trustee to execute such documents or to transfer title.

G.S. 36C-7-708 dealing with trustee's fees refers to the provisions of Article 5A of Chapter 32 for determination of fees of trustees where the fees are not specified in the instrument.

G.S. 36C-7-709 dealing with trustee expenses refers to Article 5A of Chapter 32 regarding reimbursement of a trustee's expenses out of trust property.

Article 8
Duties and Powers of Trustee

Article 8 articulates the basic fiduciary obligations of a trustee, except for those articulated in the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

Many of the sections in Article 8 reflect duties that are not seen as an extension of current North Carolina law because the duties are ones that have been applicable under common law, current statutes or the prudent person rule. In some cases, the North Carolina Uniform Prudent Investor Act made these duties specifically applicable to a trustee's investment and management duties and Article 8 clarifies that these duties apply to all activities of the trustee.

The sections referred to by the foregoing are: G.S. 36C-8-801 regarding the duty to administer the trust, G.S. 36C-8-803 regarding impartiality, G.S. 36C-8- 804 regarding prudent administration, G.S. 36C-8-805 regarding costs of administration, G.S. 36C-8- 806 regarding the trustee's skills, G.S. 36C-8-807 regarding delegation by trustee, G.S. 36C-8-809 regarding control and protection of trust property, G.S. 36C-8-810 regarding recordkeeping and identification of trust property, G.S. 36C-8-811 regarding enforcement and defense of claims, G.S. 36C-8- 812 regarding collecting trust property and G.S. 36C-8-817 regarding distribution upon termination.

G.S. 36C-8-802 speaks to the basic duty of loyalty that requires the trustee to manage the trust solely for the beneficiaries and to avoid conflicts of interest between trustee's interests and beneficiaries' interests. This section represents a modernization of the current North Carolina statutes dealing with the duty of loyalty and conflicts of interest. Under G.S. 36C-8-802, any conflict of interest is waivable by a beneficiary. This section also allows the application of virtual representation in obtaining consent from beneficiaries for a conflict of interest transaction.

G.S. 36C-8-808 introduces the concept of a trust protector or advisor being named with the power to direct the trustee in certain respects and naming a person who would have the power to modify or terminate the trust.

G.S. 36C-8-813 restates the common law duty to provide the beneficiaries with information regarding the trust and its property. Consistent with existing North Carolina law, a settlor may specifically limit what information is given to the beneficiaries.

G.S. 36C-8-814, as discussed in the summary of Article 5, sets out the standard for determining when a trustee has abused its discretion. This section also updates tax savings provisions of existing law precluding a trustee from exercising discretion to make distributions from a trust for his or her own benefit that are not limited to an ascertainable standard.

G.S. 36C-8-815 broadens the automatic powers that apply by default to every trustee when the instrument does not contain powers.

G.S. 36C-8-816 grants to all trustees specific powers similar to the powers listed in G.S. 36A-136 and that can currently be incorporated in an instrument under G.S. 32-27. The powers are broader than those listed in G.S. 36A-136 in that a trustee may sell real property without court order even though the power is not expressed in the trust instrument. In addition, the trustee can borrow funds for any purpose and not just to pay taxes and expenses.

Article 9
Uniform Prudent Investor Act

Article 9 reenacts the North Carolina Prudent Investor Act, Article 15 of Chapter 36A, as a part of the UTC.

G.S. 36C-9-901 recodifies former section 36A-161 regarding the applicability of the prudent investor rule recodifies.

G.S. 36C-9-902 recodifies former 36A-162 regarding the standard of care, portfolio strategy and risk and return objectives.

G.S. 36C-9-903 recodifies former section 36A-163 regarding diversification.

G.S. 36C-9-904 recodifies former section 36A-164 regarding duties at the inception of the trusteeship.

G.S. 36C-9-905 recodifies former section 36A-168 regarding compliance with the prudent investor rule.

G.S. 36C-9-906 recodifies former section 36A-170 regarding the effect on charitable remainder trusts.

G.S. 36C-9-907 recodifies former section 36A-172 referring to the short title

Other sections of the North Carolina Prudent Investor Act were repealed because, as noted in the summary of Article 8, Article 8 contains substantially similar provisions applicable to the administration of trusts in general and not just to investment duties. These provisions include G.S. 36C-8-802(a) regarding the duty of loyalty, G.S. 36C-8-803 regarding impartiality, G.S. 36C-8-805 regarding investment costs, and G.S. 36C-8-807 regarding delegation of management functions. Similarly G.S. 36C-11-1103 makes the language of former 36A-173 regarding severability applicable to any provision of the NCUTC, and G.S. 36C-11-1106 covers the effective date provisions formerly provided by 36A-171.

Article 10
Liability of Trustees and Rights of Persons Dealing with Trustee

Article 10 provides for remedies when there is breach of an obligation by the trustee, who and under what circumstances there is a right of action by anybody, and a trustee's immunity from personal liability when doing business with others on behalf of the trust.

G.S. 36C-10-1001 provides that a breach of duty to a beneficiary invokes a court's equity powers to compel performance, suspend the trustee, remove the trustee, and enter other orders to remedy a breach of trust. As provided under existing North Carolina law, the court also may relieve from liability, either prospectively or retrospectively, a trustee who acts honestly and reasonably.

G.S. 36C-10-1002 requires damages for breach of trust to restore the trust's position as if breach had not occurred, or to provide the trust with profits made from the breach if that amount is greater.

G.S. 36C-10-1003 provides that the trustee's is responsible to account for all profits, but does not insure that the trust will be profitable.

G.S. 36C-10-1004 dealing with attorneys' fees refers to existing North Carolina statutes governing the award of attorneys' fees.

G.S. 36C-10-1005 providing for limitations of actions against the trustee refers to existing North Carolina statutes governing limitation of actions, except that no action may be brought more than five years after (a) the removal, resignation, or death of trustee, (b) termination of the beneficiary's interest in the trust, or (c) termination of the trust.

G.S. 36C-10-1006 provides that a trustee is not liable for good faith reliance on a trust instrument.

G.S. 36C-10-1007 provides that a trustee is not liable for lack of knowledge of an event affecting trust administration if the trustee exercises reasonable care to learn of such events.

G.S. 36C-10-1008 precludes a trust instrument from exculpating the trustee for bad faith or reckless indifference.

G.S. 36C-10-1009 allows a beneficiary to consent or ratify a breach, or release trustee from liability for a breach, provided the trustee did not obtain the consent, ratification or release by improper conduct and the beneficiary is aware of the material facts.

G.S. 36C-10-1010 absolves a trustee from personal liability to third parties for contracts on behalf of the trust so long as the fiduciary status of the trustee is disclosed. A trustee is not liable for a tort action against the trust unless the trustee also has personal liability. A trustee is entitled to indemnity from the trust on an equitable basis.

G.S. 36C-10-1011 allows a trustee to hold an interest in a general partnership as trustee without personal liability.

G.S. 36C-10-1012 provides that a third party dealing with a trust is not liable for any breach of the trustee's obligations to the beneficiaries resulting from the transaction, unless the third party has knowledge of the actual breach by the trustee.

G.S. 36C-10-1013 permits a trustee to furnish a third party dealing with the trust a certification of its important provisions in lieu of the actual trust document.

Article 11
Miscellaneous Provisions

G.S. 36C-11-1101 states that in construing the provisions of the NCUTC consideration may be given to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact the UTC.

G.S. 36C-11-1102 provides for electronic records and signatures.

G.S. 36C-11-1103 contains a severability provision if any portion of the Code is held to be invalid.

G.S. 36C-11-1104 states that the NCUTC is to take effect on January 1, 2006.

G.S. 36C-11-1105 states existing relationships to which the NCUTC applies when it takes effect.

A vacancy on the Council shall be filled in the same manner in which the original appointment was made, and the term shall be for the balance of the unexpired term.

(d) Council Meetings and Officers. – The Secretary of State shall call the first meeting of the Council. At the first meeting and biennially thereafter, the Council shall elect from its membership a chair and a vice-chair to serve two-year terms. Putting it all Together:

A Look at Electronic Recording

Rich Bowlin Attorney at Law

An Overview of e-Recording

Statutes that will make real property electronic recording possible:

- URPERA: Senate Bill 671
- Electronic Notary: Senate Bill 934

Is e-Recording Mandatory?

- No!
- Local Registers of Deeds may offer e-recording - but not required
- Lending Institutions are not required to provide e-Closings
- Attorneys are not required to record any documents electronically

How will it Work?

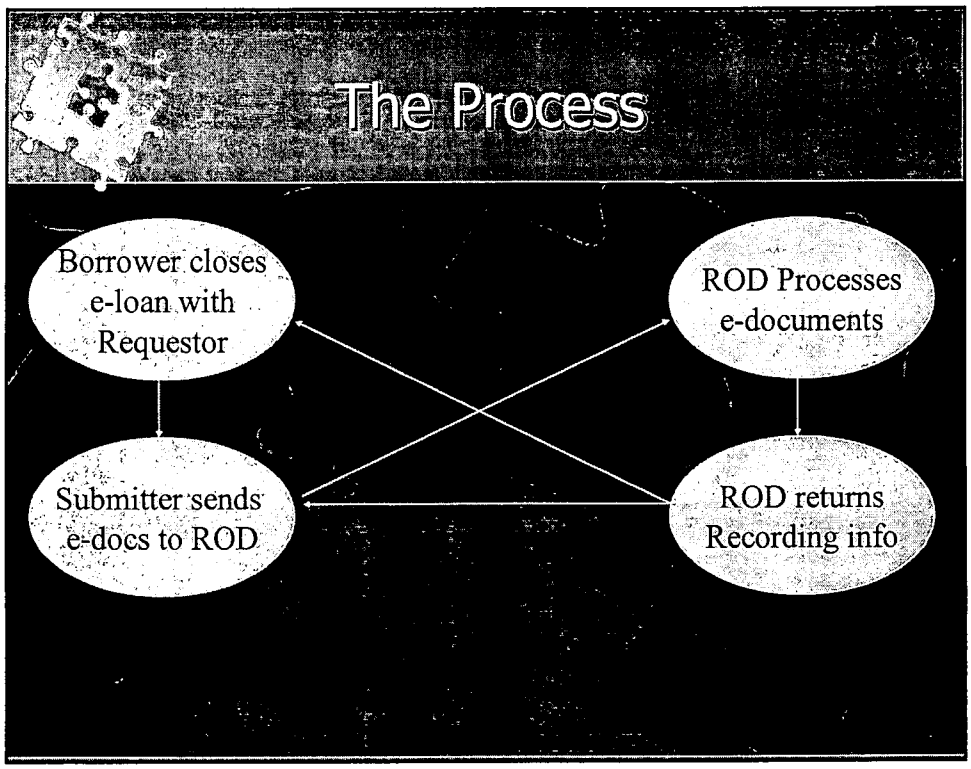
- Who are the Parties to an e-closing?
  - Borrower
  - Requestor (bank)
  - Submitter (attorney)
  - Register of Deeds

How do you sign an e-document?

- URPERA defines signature as:
  - An electronic symbol or process attached to or logically associated with a document and executed or adopted by a person with the intent to sign the document.
- Examples:
  - Holographic (signature pad)
  - Digital Signature

Digital Signature Defined

A digital code that can be attached to an electronically transmitted message that uniquely identifies the sender. Like a written signature, the purpose of a digital signature is to guarantee that the individual sending the message really is who he or she claims to be.



Is the Public Safe?

- YES!
- What about "hackers"?
  - Process protected by encryption
  - Process protected by Hashing

Will URPERA Promote e-Business in NC?

- YES!
- Currently Wachovia sends e-cancellations from Virginia
- Wells Fargo sends e-cancellations from South Carolina

Considerations

- Making NC a leading state in e-commerce
- Keeping e-transactions secure and reliable
- Keeping major lenders within NC
- Fostering emerging business entities

RE: Senate Bill 671 (Real Property Electronic Recording)

General Comments

This bill enacts a North Carolina version of the Uniform Electronic Recording Act (URPERA), which was adopted in 2004 by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL). URPERA expressly authorizes registers of deeds to receive, record, and retrieve real property documents and information in electronic form and provides that a document in electronic form and an electronic signature satisfy, respectively, State law requirements that a real property document be an original, on paper, or in writing and that the document contain a signature. It also requires a register of deeds who implements electronic recording to comply with uniform statewide standards, and it establishes a method for adopting these standards.

Limited experiments with recording electronic documents have already been initiated in this State under S.L. 2002-115, as amended by S.L. 2003-326, a local act authorizing the electronic recording of documents in Mecklenburg, Cabarrus, Durham, Harnett, Moore, New Hanover, and Randolph Counties. The Register of Deeds of Mecklenburg County has implemented an electronic recordation system and has been accepting deed of trust cancellations electronically. Other registers of deeds are interested in following her example. Section 6.1 of Part VI of Session Law 2004-161 (Studies Act of 2004) required the General Statutes Commission (Commission) to study methods for establishing uniform legal standards for electronic recording (specifically, receipt, recordation, authentication, preservation, and retrieval of electronic documents). The study charge included a review of URPERA, the main goal of which is to provide for the acceptance and processing of electronic land records in accordance with uniform standards.

The Commission conducted its review and concluded that, based on the information before it, URPERA was an effective means of establishing electronic recordation of land records in this State. The Commission's review and conclusions are set out in its report to the 2005 General Assembly and its supplement to that report.

Specific Comments

Section 1 enacts a version of URPERA as Article 1A of Chapter 47 of the General Statutes.

Proposed § 47-16.1 ("Short title") contains the article title (the "Uniform Real Property Electronic Recording Act").

Proposed § 47-16.2 ("Definitions") contains key definitions that were taken from the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act (UETA), which this State adopted as Article 40 of Chapter 66 of the General Statutes. The definitions of "electronic" and "electronic signature" are the same as UETA's, and the definitions of "document" and "electronic document" are based on UETA's definitions of "record" and "electronic record."

Proposed § 47-16.3 ("Validity of electronic documents") overlaps UETA. Although nothing in UETA prevents it from applying to electronic real property documents, which are apparently valid and enforceable as between the parties under UETA, there is no broad agreement nationwide that these documents can be recorded. Proposed § 47-16.3 eliminates such doubts by providing in essence that electronic documents and electronic signatures are acceptable. The section also eliminates any requirement that a notary's electronic stamp or seal be an actual image.

Proposed § 47-16.4 ("Recording of documents") expressly authorizes registers of deeds to accept electronic documents for recordation but requires conformity with standards adopted by the Secretary of State to implement URPERA. It does not compel a register of deeds to implement electronic recording. The section contains a list of specifically authorized functions that are related to electronic filing. It does not itself, however, contain any requirements related to security or authentication.

Proposed § 47-16.5 ("Administration and standards") adopts a standard-setting approach that is different from the Uniform Act. URPERA contains two alternatives for a standard-setting entity: a new independent commission with a majority of registers of deeds or an existing State agency. The approach taken in this bill blends URPERA's alternatives, due to various factors described in the supplement to the Commission's report.

Proposed § 47-16.5 authorizes the Secretary of State to adopt standards to implement URPERA on the recommendation of a new advisory body, the Electronic Recording Council (Council). The Council is responsible for developing and recommending to the Secretary of State initial standards to implement URPERA and, on an ongoing basis, any changes to the standards that may be needed. The Council is required to meet at least once a year and to make an annual report to the Secretary. If the Secretary deems any portion of the Council's recommended standards inadequate or inappropriate, the Secretary may direct the Council to revise that portion.

The Council has 13 members and is located within the Department of Secretary of State for organizational, budgetary, and administrative purposes. Of its members, 12 are appointed as follows: seven by the North Carolina Association of Registers of Deeds, one by the North Carolina Bar Association, one by the North Carolina Society of Land Surveyors, one by the North Carolina Bankers Association, one by the North Carolina Land Title Association, and one by the North Carolina Association of Assessing Officers. These members serve staggered four-year terms. The remaining member is the Secretary of Cultural Resources or the Secretary's designee. The fact that a majority of the members are registers of deeds is consistent with URPERA's first alternative.

Because the Council must be a working body, a group small in size is important. In discussing the Council's composition, the Commission recognized that all groups that could be affected or might make a contribution could not be directly represented on the Council without creating a body of 25 to 30 members, which would be unworkable. The Commission attempted to include the groups most affected on the Council and provide a vehicle for contribution from others through consultation requirements and the option for additional committees to advise the Council.

The Commission recommends direct appointments to the Council, rather than nominations with appointments by some other authority, to reduce the time required for the Council to begin operating, being of the opinion that direct appointments can be appropriate for an advisory body. Speed in implementing URPERA was a concern expressed by different groups who spoke to the Commission.

In the interest of national uniformity, proposed § 47-16.5 also requires both the Council and the Secretary of State to consider a list of factors in adopting standards for this State, including standards set by national bodies and by other jurisdictions.

Proposed § 47-16.6 ("Uniformity of application and construction") establishes uniformity of interpretation as a goal among states enacting URPERA.

Proposed § 47-16.7 ("Relation to Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act") covers the relationship between URPERA and the federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (E-Sign).

Section 2 authorizes the Revisor of Statutes to print official and drafters' comments.

Section 3 provides that the act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 508:
Allow Name Change Where Divorce Granted

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 27, 2005
Introduced by:	Rep. Haire	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 508 would allow a person who has gotten a divorce to apply for a name change from the clerk of court in the county where the divorce was granted.

CURRENT LAW: There are several ways to effect a name change in North Carolina.

Resumption of premarriage name. G.S. 50-12 allows a woman who has received an absolute divorce to apply to the clerk of court in the county where she resides to change her name to:

- Her maiden name;
- The surname of a prior deceased husband; or
- The surname of a prior living husband if she has children with that name.

G.S. 50-12 also allows a man who has received a divorce to apply to the clerk of court where he resides to change his name to his premarriage surname.

Requests for these name changes may also be included as part of a complaint or counterclaim for divorce, and the court may include the name change in the divorce decree.

For good cause shown. Chapter 101 of the General Statutes provides a process by which a person can apply for a name change for good cause. Applications must be filed with the clerk of court in the county in which the person lives, along with proof of good character. A person may only change his or her name once through this procedure.

Use. According to common law, a person may assume and use any name he or she chooses, without resorting to any sort of legal procedure, as long as it is not done for fraudulent or illegal purposes.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 508 would amend G.S. 50-12, which provides for name changes following a divorce. The bill would allow a person to apply for a name change in the county in which the divorce was granted, in addition to the county in which the person resides.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would be effective when it becomes law and would apply to petitions filed 90 days after that date.

Wendy Graf Ray, House Judiciary III Committee Counsel, contributed substantially to this summary.

SENATE BILL 774:
Seat Belt Use Enhancements

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Ref to Judiciary II. If fav, re-ref to Finance	Date:	April 27, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Purcell	Summary by:	Robin Johnson
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 774, a recommendation of the Executive Committee for Highway Safety, would require all vehicle occupants to wear a seatbelt while the vehicle is in forward motion and increase the penalty and points related to a violation. The bill also would require vehicle safety inspections to include the inspection of seat belts.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 20-135.2A (attached) requires front seat passengers who are under 18 and drivers of passenger motor vehicles to wear a seat belt when the vehicle is moving forward on a street or highway. Violation is an infraction, punishable by a penalty of $25.00 plus court costs of $50.00. No insurance surcharges or drivers license points may be assessed.

The Division of Motor Vehicles may suspend a drivers license when a person accumulates 12 or more drivers license points within a three-year period or 8 or more of these points during a three-year period immediately following the reinstatement of a license that had been suspended or revoked.

Motor vehicles are subject to annual safety inspections of specified equipment. The equipment does not include seat belts. G.S. 20-183.8 (attached) provides that operating a motor vehicle that has not been inspected, as evidenced by a vehicle's lack of a current sticker, is an infraction with a penalty of up to $50.00.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 774 would require all occupants of a passenger motor vehicle to wear a seat belt when the vehicle is in forward motion.

The penalty for a violation would be increased from $25.00 to $50.00 plus court costs of $50.00. The driver would be subject to this penalty when the unbelted passenger is under 16. However, if there are multiple violations arising out of one incident, the driver would be subject to only one penalty. (In the case of a person operating a commercial motor vehicle, the penalty may be doubled.[1])

Senate Bill 774 also would require one drivers license point to be assessed for a violation involving the driver or a passenger under 16, or both. Only the driver may be assessed this point.

Section 5 of the bill would add seat belts to the list of equipment that must be inspected during an annual safety inspection.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act would become effective December 1, 2005, and would apply to offenses occurring on or after that date.

Safety Belt Data

THE PROBLEM

- Safety belt use rate in N.C. remains steady at 86.1 percent, however, it needs to be understood that this compliance rate is obtained from observational studies monitoring only front seat occupants of vehicles.
- Unbelted motorists continue to account for a large percentage of our highway fatalities each year.
- Seat Belt Usage is not mandatory for all seating positions in a vehicle.
- Current exemptions for farm and commercial motor vehicles create lower usage rates among these two categories of vehicles.
- Present fines of $25 for non-compliance with the existing safety belt laws have been instrumental in getting N.C. to the 86.1% compliance. However, the remaining 13.9% who still do not utilize their safety belts account for 43% of motor vehicle fatalities. Due to inflation and other factors, the economic impact of a $25 fine has diminished.

THE SPECIFICS

- North Carolina's fatality rate is at 1.66 fatalities/100 million vehicle miles traveled (MVMT)
- 1,552 fatalities on our highways in 2003, broken down by:

	Total	Unbelted
Driver Fatalities:	913	380	(42%)
Passenger Fatalities (front seat):	224	102	(46%)
Passenger Fatalities (back seat):	164	72	(44%)
Total Vehicle Occupants:	1,301	554	(43%)
Pedestrians	140	N/A
Motorcyclist	97	N/A
Bicyclist	14	N/A
Total Fatalities:	1,552

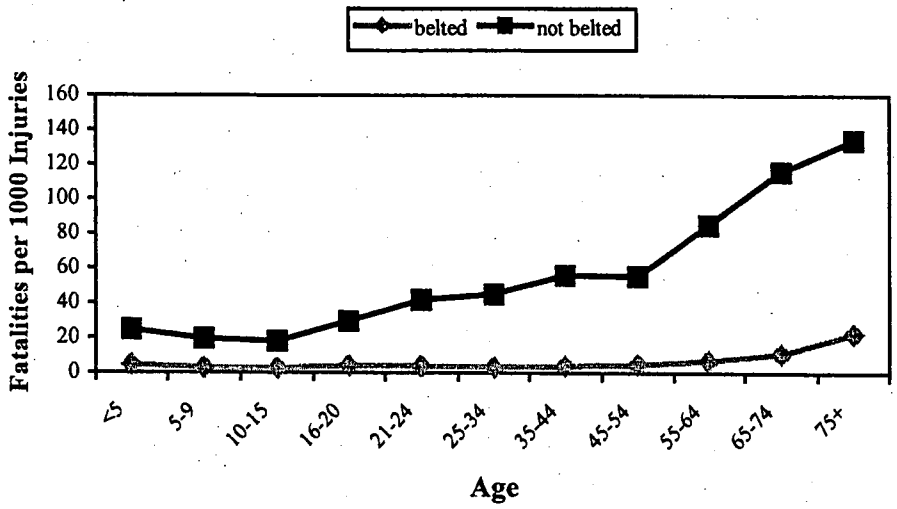
- 43% (554) of vehicle occupant fatalities were unbelted.
- Unbelted motorists are 10 times more likely to suffer a severe injury in a crash.
- Unbelted motorists are 20 times more likely to be fatally injured in a crash.
- Belt usage tends to be lower among younger drivers/occupants.
- Unbelted occupants account for 68% of all lane departure related fatalities.
- Unbelted occupants account for 70% of all speed related fatalities.

- A recent 2004 survey found that North Carolina's pickup truck and van safety belt usage rates lag far behind. These two vehicle types include many vehicles that are licensed as either Farm or Commercial vehicles (which presently are exempt from current safety belt laws.) Statewide safety belt surveys reveal that usage by drivers and occupants of pickup trucks is only 78.5% and that of full size vans is only 68.0 %. These rates compare to cars, minivans and sport utility vehicles, which are all above 90%.

- Although older drivers typically tend to have higher belt usage rates, they tend to suffer more fatalities per 1,000 injuries when unbelted (see graph; Source: Wagner and Gotschall, 2002).



AIR BAGS AS AN ALTERNATIVE

- Many people tend to think they do not need to wear safety belts since their vehicle is equipped with an air bag. However, driver air bags offer relatively little benefit in vehicle crashes when used without a safety belt. Researchers have only found an 8% reduction in the risk of death, when air bags were the only form of occupant protection. Using a seat belt, reduces the risk of death by 65%, according to a study of over 50,000 driver-passenger car crashes and seat belts in combination with an air bag give a 68% reduction in the risk of death. (British Medical Journal May 11, 2002;324:1119-1122)

REAR SEAT OCCUPANTS

- A study by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety found that only 38% of respondents said they always use seatbelts when riding in the rear seat of a car.

- A study conducted at the University of Tokyo examined 100,000 collisions involving front and rear passengers. The study found that drivers who are buckled up have five times the risk of dying in a collision if their rear seat passengers are not buckled up. The injuries to the driver and front seat passenger are caused when the people in the back who are not buckled up catapult to the front. The force of this human body flying into the front seat is calculated to be 3.5 tons for a 30-mile per hour crash. The study found that 80% of the deaths from the crashes could have been eliminated if the rear seat occupants had been buckled up. The study results were recently published in The Lancet.

IN GENERAL

- Wearing a seat belt reduces the risk of death in a head-on crash by an average of more than 50%, and the risk of death in a roll-over crash by 74-80%. (National Highway Traffic Safety Administration)

- Crash victims who don't wear seat belts have medical bills that are 50% higher than those who buckle up. Society bears 74% of those costs through increased insurance premiums, taxes and health care costs. (National Highway Traffic Safety Administration)

- Traffic crashes are the leading cause of traumatic brain injury. (Brain Injury Association of America)

- When drivers buckle up, children in their vehicles are buckled up 87% of the time. But when drivers don't wear their seat belts, kids in the vehicle are restrained only 25% of the time. In focus group studies, teens said the one of the most important factors in whether or not they buckle up is whether or not their parents buckle up. (American Academy of Pediatrics)

- Traffic crashes are the number one cause of worker deaths and a significant cause of work-related disabilities. (Bureau of Labor Statistics)

- On and off the job, traffic crashes resulted in 3 million lost work days in 2000. (Network of Employers for Traffic Safety)

- A single traffic crash with an unbelted driver, can cost a company $29,000 in insurance costs, lost production and workers compensation costs. (Network of Employers for Traffic Safety)

- Seat belt use reduces the risk of serious injury and death by 40-60% (National Highway Traffic Safety Administration)

EXPELLING THE MYTHS

- IT'S MY RIGHT
  The fact is, injuries are a burden on your family and all of society who end up paying in terms of increased health care, insurance and social costs. No individual has the right to make others pay.

- IT'S SAFER TO BE THROWN CLEAR
  The fact is, you are three times more likely to die if ejected out of the vehicle than if you remain inside.

- I'VE GOT AN AIRBAG
  The fact is, seat belts increase your chances of surviving a collision by up to 65 per cent (depending on the crash type), while airbags only give you an extra five per cent survivability in frontal collisions. Airbags are not effective in side, rear or rollover situations, however and they are designed to work with your seat belt.

- THE KIDS AND I ARE JUST POPPING INTO TOWN, NOTHING WILL HAPPEN
  The fact is, most collisions occur on short trips within 15 miles of home. You can't predict when it will happen so be prepared. Make sure everyone is buckled up, every time.

- I'M THE ONLY ONE THAT GETS HURT
  The fact is, you may the one injured or killed, but think of what you are leaving behind. Think how hurt your mother, father, siblings, children, spouse or friends will be. If you think you are the only one getting hurt, think again.

Resolution for Strengthening North Carolina's Safety Belt Law

WHEREAS, in 2003, there were 231,247 reported motor vehicle collisions on North Carolina's highways that resulted in 1,552 fatalities and 134,472 persons injured;

WHEREAS, North Carolina's safety belt use rate is currently at 86.1%;

WHEREAS, unbelted occupants still accounted for 554 or 43% of all motor vehicle related fatalities (380 drivers and 174 passengers) in 2003;

WHEREAS, studies indicate that a person who is unrestrained is ten (10) times more likely to suffer a Class A or severe injury and twenty (20) times more likely to suffer a fatal injury when compared with people who are belted;

WHEREAS, North Carolina motorists who refuse to fasten their safety belts, have continued to drive up the cost of the crash tax (crash cost per person) to over $1,100 per person in North Carolina;

WHEREAS, recent increases in fines for front seat occupants not using their safety belts has had little to no effect on the compliance rates;

WHEREAS, a 2004 survey found that North Carolina's pickup truck and van safety belt usage rates lag far behind the overall compliance rates in large because these two vehicle types include vehicles that are licensed as either Farm or Commercial vehicles and are presently are exempt from current safety belt laws; and

WHEREAS, strengthening current North Carolina safety belt laws is consistent with the mission of the Executive Committee for Highway Safety; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that the Executive Committee for Highway Safety unanimously and strongly supports revising North Carolina General Statute §20-135.2A to include: 1) Mandating safety belt usage for all vehicles except those exempted by Federal Standards, 2) Mandating safety belt usage for all seating positions in a vehicle, 3) Increasing fines for non-compliance from $25 per violation to $50 per violation and 4) Assessing one driver's license point to the operator's license for non-compliance of the driver.

On April 1, 2005, the U.S. Department of Transportation Secretary Norman Y. Mineta announced a new national education safety belt campaign message aimed at truck drivers, BE READY. BE BUCKLED.

The Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Belt Partnership was created by Secretary Mineta to combat low safety belt use among the nation's commercial motor vehicle drivers. Over the past year, the Partnership has increased to include additional representatives from the motor carrier safety community. The announcement was prompted by a new national study released by the Secretary that found only 48 percent of all commercial vehicle drivers wear safety belts.

Nationally, 80 percent of passenger vehicle drivers wear safety belts. In comparison, the low number of truck drivers buckling up has taken a severe toll. In 2003, of the 620 commercial drivers killed in crashes, almost half (309) were not wearing safety belts. Of the 171 drivers who were ejected from their trucks, almost 80 percent of them were not wearing safety belts.

In 2003:

457,000 large trucks were involved in crashes in the United States, 4,986 people died and 122,000 were injured in those crashes at an estimated cost to the nation of $26 billion.

- More than 80% of all fatal truck crashes involved at least one other vehicle, usually a passenger car, pick-up, sport utility vehicle or van.

In fatalities resulting from crashes involving large trucks, 78% were occupants of another vehicle, 8% were non-occupants, and 15% were occupants of a large truck.

- In injuries resulting from crashes involving large trucks, 75% were occupants of another vehicle, 3% were non-occupants, and 22% were occupants of a large truck.

- In 2003, the majority of large truck crashes occurred in good weather (85%), on dry roads (81%), during the daytime (66%), and on weekdays (84%).

MEMORANDUM

TO: Senate Judiciary II Committee

FROM: General Statutes Commission

DATE: April 1, 2005

RE: Senate Bill 671 (Real Property Electronic Recording)

General Comments

This bill enacts a North Carolina version of the Uniform Electronic Recording Act (URPERA), which was adopted in 2004 by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL). URPERA expressly authorizes registers of deeds to receive, record, and retrieve real property documents and information in electronic form and provides that a document in electronic form and an electronic signature satisfy, respectively, State law requirements that a real property document be an original, on paper, or in writing and that the document contain a signature. It also requires a register of deeds who implements electronic recording to comply with uniform statewide standards, and it establishes a method for adopting these standards.

Limited experiments with recording electronic documents have already been initiated in this State under S.L. 2002-115, as amended by S.L. 2003-326, a local act authorizing the electronic recording of documents in Mecklenburg, Cabarrus, Durham, Harnett, Moore, New Hanover, and Randolph Counties. The Register of Deeds of Mecklenburg County has implemented an electronic recordation system and has been accepting deed of trust cancellations electronically. Other registers of deeds are interested in following her example. Section 6.1 of Part VI of Session Law 2004-161 (Studies Act of 2004) required the General Statutes Commission (Commission) to study methods for establishing uniform legal standards for electronic recording (specifically, receipt, recordation, authentication, preservation, and retrieval of electronic documents). The study charge included a review of URPERA, the main goal of which is to provide for the acceptance and processing of electronic land records in accordance with uniform standards.

The Commission conducted its review and concluded that, based on the information before it, URPERA was an effective means of establishing electronic recordation of land records in this State. The Commission's review and conclusions are set out in its report to the 2005 General Assembly and its supplement to that report.

Specific Comments

Section 1 enacts a version of URPERA as Article 1A of Chapter 47 of the General Statutes.

Proposed § 47-16.1 ("Short title") contains the article title (the "Uniform Real Property Electronic Recording Act").

Proposed § 47-16.2 ("Definitions") contains key definitions that were taken from the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act (UETA), which this State adopted as Article 40 of Chapter 66 of the General Statutes. The definitions of "electronic" and "electronic signature" are the same as UETA's, and the definitions of "document" and "electronic document" are based on UETA's definitions of "record" and "electronic record."

Proposed § 47-16.3 ("Validity of electronic documents") overlaps UETA. Although nothing in UETA prevents it from applying to electronic real property documents, which are apparently valid and enforceable as between the parties under UETA, there is no broad agreement nationwide that these documents can be recorded. Proposed § 47-16.3 eliminates such doubts by providing in essence that electronic documents and electronic signatures are acceptable. The section also eliminates any requirement that a notary's electronic stamp or seal be an actual image.

Proposed § 47-16.4 ("Recording of documents") expressly authorizes registers of deeds to accept electronic documents for recordation but requires conformity with standards adopted by the Secretary of State to implement URPERA. It does not compel a register of deeds to implement electronic recording. The section contains a list of specifically authorized functions that are related to electronic filing. It does not itself, however, contain any requirements related to security or authentication.

Proposed § 47-16.5 ("Administration and standards") adopts a standard-setting approach that is different from the Uniform Act. URPERA contains two alternatives for a standard-setting entity: a new independent commission with a majority of registers of deeds or an existing State agency. The approach taken in this bill blends URPERA's alternatives, due to various factors described in the supplement to the Commission's report.

Proposed § 47-16.5 authorizes the Secretary of State to adopt standards to implement URPERA on the recommendation of a new advisory body, the Electronic Recording Council (Council). The Council is responsible for developing and recommending to the Secretary of State initial standards to implement URPERA and, on an ongoing basis, any changes to the standards that may be needed. The Council is required to meet at least once a year and to make an annual report to the Secretary. If the Secretary deems any portion of the Council's recommended standards inadequate or inappropriate, the Secretary may direct the Council to revise that portion.

The Council has 13 members and is located within the Department of Secretary of State for organizational, budgetary, and administrative purposes. Of its members, 12 are appointed as follows: seven by the North Carolina Association of Registers of Deeds, one by the North Carolina Bar Association, one by the North Carolina Society of Land Surveyors, one by the North Carolina Bankers Association, one by the North Carolina Land Title Association, and one by the North Carolina Association of Assessing Officers. These members serve staggered four-year terms. The remaining member is the Secretary of Cultural Resources or the Secretary's designee. The fact that a majority of the members are registers of deeds is consistent with URPERA's first alternative.

Because the Council must be a working body, a group small in size is important. In discussing the Council's composition, the Commission recognized that all groups that could be affected or might make a contribution could not be directly represented on the Council without creating a body of 25 to 30 members, which would be unworkable. The Commission attempted to include the groups most affected on the Council and provide a vehicle for contribution from others through consultation requirements and the option for additional committees to advise the Council.

The Commission recommends direct appointments to the Council, rather than nominations with appointments by some other authority, to reduce the time required for the Council to begin operating, being of the opinion that direct appointments can be appropriate for an advisory body. Speed in implementing URPERA was a concern expressed by different groups who spoke to the Commission.

In the interest of national uniformity, proposed § 47-16.5 also requires both the Council and the Secretary of State to consider a list of factors in adopting standards for this State, including standards set by national bodies and by other jurisdictions.

Proposed § 47-16.6 ("Uniformity of application and construction") establishes uniformity of interpretation as a goal among states enacting URPERA.

Proposed § 47-16.7 ("Relation to Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act") covers the relationship between URPERA and the federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (E-Sign).

Section 2 authorizes the Revisor of Statutes to print official and drafters' comments.

Section 3 provides that the act is effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 934:
Notary Public Act.-AB

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	April 25, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Hartsell	Summary by:	Kory Goldsmith
Version:	First Edition S934-CSRC-22		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 934 is an agency bill that repeals the current laws related to the qualification and commissioning of notaries public and enacts a more extensive Chapter related to the same. It also includes new provisions related to electronic notarizations.

The Proposed Committee Substitute contains technical changes, removes certain provisions contained in the original bill requiring electronic notary journals, postpones for 18 months after the effective date of the act the Secretary's rulemaking authority regarding additional security measures for electronic notarial acts, and removes a provision that would have disqualified a notary from performing a notarial act if the notary is the spouse, domestic partner, or relative by blood or marriage within two degrees of the principal.

The act would become effective December 1, 2005 and would apply to applications for commissions and recommissions made on or after that date, and to offenses committed on or after that date. Commissions granted under Chapter 10A would remain effective until they expire are provided under that law.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 repeals Chapter 10A of the General Statutes, which contains the laws, related to the regulation of notaries public.

Section 2 creates a new Chapter 10B and divides it into 3 different Articles. The new statutes are outlined below to the extent they differ from existing law.

G.S. 10B-1 and 2 do not contain any substantive changes.

G.S. 10B-3 contains a number of new definitions including "Affirmation", "Credible Witness", "Jurat", "Moral Turpitude", "Nickname", "Notarial Certificate", "Personal Appearance", "Principal", "Record", "Regular Place of Business", "Seal", "Signature", and "Subscribing Witness". Most, if not all of these definitions come from National Notary Association's Model Draft Act.

G.S. 10B-4 outlines the qualifications a person must meet in order to be eligible to become a notary. The new statutory qualifications include that the person be literate in the English language (a requirement previously imposed by the North Carolina Courts), possess a high school diploma or its equivalent, and be legally emancipated unless at least 18 years of age. Would prohibit the Secretary from issuing a commission for a person within 5 years of the person completing all the conditions of any disciplinary order of a licensing agency.

G.S. 10B-5 sets-out specifically the information that must be included in an application for commission. These requirements were not previously included in the statutes.

G.S. 10B-6 requires the application for commission include a statement of certain personal qualifications. This requirement was not previously included in the statutes.

G.S. 10B-7 requires an applicant to complete a course of study, unless the applicant is a licensed member of the North Carolina State Bar, and to take and pass a written examination. The written examination requirement does not apply to members of the State Bar who are applying for recommission

G.S.10B-9 reflects changes recommended by several registers of deeds.

G.S. 10B-10 requires that a "Declaration of Applicant" be attached to any application for commission. The declaration is a sworn statement that the information provided by the applicant is true, complete and correct, and that the applicant understands the duties and responsibilities of a Notary Public.

G.S.10B-13 relates to the requirements to become a certified notary public instructor.

G.S. 10B-14 sets-out the acts a notary is allowed to perform and those that a notary is disqualified from performing. It includes new language that would prohibit a notary from performing a notarial act if the principal shows a demeanor that causes the notary to have a compelling doubt about whether the principal knows the consequences of the transaction requiring a notarial act, or if in the notary's judgment, the principal is not acting of his or her own free will. The statute would prohibit a notary from determining the proper type of notarial act or certificate to be used in a situation where the certificate language is not provided in the record.

G.S. 10B-16 prohibits a notary from executing a false certificate, or a certificate the notary believes to be false. It also prohibits the notary from executing a certificate that is not in the English language.

G.S. 10B-17 prohibits a notary from executing a certificate that is incomplete or blank, or that is a photograph.

G.S. 10B-18 prohibits a notary from using the notary's official title in a manner intended to endorse a political candidate, or a product or service.

G.S. 10B-19 prohibits a notary from charging a fee that is not authorized by statutes. It also increases the fee a notary may charge from $3 to $5.

G.S. 10B-22 requires a notary to sign any notarial act personally, using ink and the name that appears on the notary's seal. It prohibits a notary from using a facsimile stamp or electronic or other printing record.

G.S. 10B-23 imposes various requirements on a notary regarding keeping the notary seal secure and not allowing any other person to possess it or use it, and to inform the Secretary of the seal is lost, damaged or stolen. The seal must be delivered to the Secretary when the commission expires and is not renewed, or when the notary dies.

G.S. 10B-25 through 29 provide various new certificate forms.

G.S. 10B-31 through 36 provide the procedures a notary must use if the notary changes his or her name, changes his or her county of residence, resigns the commission or dies.

G.S. 10B-37 contains new criminal penalties. It would be a Class I felony for a notary to perform certain notarial acts the notary knows are false or fraudulent, or that are being perpetrated with the intent to commit fraud. It would be a Class I felony for one to hold themselves out as a notary if not commissioned, or to perform a notarial act when not commissioned. It would also be a class I felony to obtain use, conceal, deface or destroy the seal or notarial records of a notary. The presumptive minimum sentence for a Class I felony for a person with no prior convictions is 4-6 months of community punishment.

G.S. 10B-40 through G.S. 10B-59 contain provisions that allow electronic notarial acts and grant to the Secretary of State the authority to regulate these. It defines an electronic notary signature as those forms of electronic signature, which have been approved by the Secretary as an acceptable means for an electronic notary to affix the notary's official signature to an electronic records that is being notarized. The provisions would allow acknowledgements, jurats, verifications and proofs, and oath or affirmations to be performed electronically. It would be a Class G felony to knowingly create, manufacture, or distribute software for the purpose of allowing a person to act as an electronic notary without being commission. It would be a Class I felony for a person to wrongfully obtain, conceal, damage, or destroy the software that allows an electronic notary to affix an electronic seal to an official electronic signature. The presumptive minimum sentence for a Class G felony for a person with no prior convictions is 10-13 months of intermediate or active punishment. The presumptive minimum penalties for Class I felonies are outlined above.

G.S. 10B-60 creates the Notary Public Special Fund where fees for taking the notary public examination would be deposited. The Fund would be non-reverting, and the moneys would be appropriated annually to cover the cost of administration of the act.

Section 3 through 6 make conforming changes.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	May 3, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Hartsell	Summary by:	Kory Goldsmith KG
Version:	PCS to First Edition S934-CSRC-22		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 934 is an agency bill that repeals the current laws related to the qualification and commissioning of notaries public and enacts a more extensive Chapter related to the same. It also includes new provisions related to electronic notarizations.

The Proposed Committee Substitute contains technical changes, removes certain provisions contained in the original bill requiring electronic notary journals, postpones for 18 months after the effective date of the act the Secretary's rulemaking authority regarding additional security measures for electronic notarial acts, and removes a provision that would have disqualified a notary from performing a notarial act if the notary is the spouse, domestic partner, or relative by blood or marriage within two degrees of the principal. It also include a number of new criminal offenses.

The act would become effective December 1, 2005 and would apply to applications for commissions and recommissions made on or after that date. The criminal provisions would apply to offenses committed on or after December 1, 2005 regardless of whether the notary's commission was issued under Chapter 10A or 10B. Commissions granted under Chapter 10A would remain effective until they expire are provided under that law.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 repeals Chapter 10A of the General Statutes, which contains the laws, related to the regulation of notaries public.

Section 2 creates a new Chapter 10B and divides it into 3 different Articles. The new statutes are outlined below to the extent they differ from existing law.

G.S. 10B-1 and 2 do not contain any substantive changes.

G.S. 10B-3 contains a number of new definitions including "Affirmation", "Credible Witness", "Jurat", "Moral Turpitude", "Nickname", "Notarial Certificate", "Personal Appearance", "Principal", "Record", "Regular Place of Business", "Seal", "Signature", and "Subscribing Witness". Most, if not all of these definitions come from National Notary Association's Model Draft Act.

G.S. 10B-4 outlines the qualifications a person must meet in order to be eligible to become a notary. The new statutory qualifications include that the person be literate in the English language (a requirement previously imposed by the North Carolina Courts), possess a high school diploma or its equivalent, and be legally emancipated unless at least 18 years of age. Would prohibit the Secretary from issuing a commission for a person within 5 years of the person completing all the conditions of any disciplinary order of a licensing agency.

G.S. 10B-5 sets-out specifically the information that must be included in an application for commission. These requirements were not previously included in the statutes.

G.S. 10B-6 requires the application for commission include a statement of certain personal qualifications. This requirement was not previously included in the statutes.

G.S. 10B-7 requires an applicant to complete a course of study, and to take and pass a written examination. These requirements do not apply to members of the State Bar.

G.S.10B-9 reflects changes recommended by several registers of deeds.

G.S. 10B-10 requires that a "Declaration of Applicant" be attached to any application for commission. The declaration is a sworn statement that the information provided by the applicant is true, complete and correct, and that the applicant understands the duties and responsibilities of a Notary Public.

G.S.10B-13 relates to the requirements to become a certified notary public instructor.

G.S. 10B-14 sets-out the acts a notary is allowed to perform and those that a notary is disqualified from performing. It includes new language that would prohibit a notary from performing a notarial act if the principal shows a demeanor that causes the notary to have a compelling doubt about whether the principal knows the consequences of the transaction requiring a notarial act, or if in the notary's judgment, the principal is not acting of his or her own free will. The statute would prohibit a notary from determining the proper type of notarial act or certificate to be used in a situation where the certificate language is not provided in the record.

G.S. 10B-16 prohibits a notary from executing a false certificate, or a certificate the notary believes to be false. It also prohibits the notary from executing a certificate that is not in the English language.

G.S. 10B-17 prohibits a notary from executing a certificate that is incomplete or blank, or that is a photograph.

G.S. 10B-18 prohibits a notary from using the notary's official title in a manner intended to endorse a political candidate, or a product or service.

G.S. 10B-19 prohibits a notary from charging a fee that is not authorized by statutes. It also increases the fee a notary may charge from $3 to $5.

G.S. 10B-22 requires a notary to sign any notarial act personally, using ink and the name that appears on the notary's seal. It prohibits a notary from using a facsimile stamp or electronic or other printing record.

G.S. 10B-23 imposes various requirements on a notary regarding keeping the notary seal secure and not allowing any other person to possess it or use it, and to inform the Secretary of the seal is lost, damaged or stolen. The seal must be delivered to the Secretary when the commission expires and is not renewed, or when the notary dies.

G.S. 10B-25 through 29 provide various new certificate forms.

G.S. 10B-31 through 36 provide the procedures a notary must use if the notary changes his or her name, changes his or her county of residence, resigns the commission or dies.

G.S. 10B-37 contains new criminal penalties. It would be a Class I felony for a notary to perform certain notarial acts the notary knows are false or fraudulent, or that are being perpetrated with the intent to commit fraud. It would be a Class I felony for a person to perform a notarial act when the person know he or she is not commissioned. It would also be a class I felony to obtain use, conceal, deface or destroy the seal or notarial records of a notary. The presumptive minimum sentence for a Class I felony for a person with no prior convictions is 4-6 months of community punishment.

G.S. 10B-40 through G.S. 10B-59 contain provisions that allow electronic notarial acts and grant to the Secretary of State the authority to regulate these. It defines an electronic notary signature as those forms of electronic signature, which have been approved by the Secretary as an acceptable means for an electronic notary to affix the notary's official signature to an electronic records that is being notarized. The provisions would allow acknowledgements, jurats, verifications and proofs, and oath or affirmations to be performed electronically. It would be a Class G felony to knowingly create, manufacture, or distribute software for the purpose of allowing a person to act as an electronic notary without being commission. It would be a Class I felony for a person to wrongfully obtain, conceal, damage, or destroy the software that allows an electronic notary to affix an electronic seal to an official electronic signature. The presumptive minimum sentence for a Class G felony for a person with no prior convictions is 10-13 months of intermediate or active punishment. The presumptive minimum penalties for Class I felonies are outlined above.

G.S. 10B-60 creates the Notary Public Special Fund where fees for taking the notary public examination would be deposited. The Fund would be non-reverting, and the moneys would be appropriated annually to cover the cost of administration of the act.

Section 3 through 6 make conforming changes.

The Proposed Committee Substitute would clarify that the bill applies to all occupants of motor vehicles manufactured with seat belts, excluding vehicles with farm plates. The PCS also would delete the additional $25.00 penalty and would increase court costs by $25.00. Finally, the PCS would eliminate the requirement that vehicle safety inspections include the inspection of seat belts.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 20-135.2A requires front seat passengers who are under 18 and drivers of passenger motor vehicles to wear a seat belt when the vehicle is moving forward on a street or highway. Certain vehicles, including licensed property-carrying vehicles being used for farm or agricultural purposes, are exempt from this requirement. Violation is an infraction, punishable by a penalty of $25.00 plus court costs of $50.00. No insurance surcharges or drivers license points may be assessed.

The Division of Motor Vehicles may suspend a drivers license when a person accumulates 12 or more drivers license points within a three-year period or 8 or more of these points during a three-year period immediately following the reinstatement of a license that has been suspended or revoked.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 774 would require all occupants of a motor vehicle manufactured with seat belts to wear a seat belt when the vehicle is in forward motion. This would extend to commercial vehicles, but not to property-carrying vehicles licensed for agricultural use.

Court costs would be increased from $50.00 to $75.00. However, the penalty for a violation would not be increased from $25.00. (In the case of a person operating a commercial motor vehicle, the penalty may be doubled.[1])

Senate Bill 774 also would require one drivers license point to be assessed against a driver who is convicted for failure to wear a seat belt.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act would become effective December 1, 2005, and would apply to offenses occurring on or after that date.

S0774e1-SMRH-CSRH-18v2

[1] § 20-16.01. Double penalties for offenses committed while operating a commercial motor vehicle.
Any person who commits an offense for which points may be assessed pursuant to the Schedule of Point Values for Violations While Operating a Commercial Motor Vehicle as provided in G.S. 20-16(c) may be assessed double the amount of any fine or penalty authorized by statute.

SENATE BILL 776:
Amend Indecent Exposure Law

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	May 2, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Snow	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	PCS to First Edition S776-CSSS		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 776 would amend General Statute 14-190.9 'Indecent Exposure' to expand its application to include certain instances of same sex exposure and to increase the penalty for offenses involving a victim of less than 16 years of age.

CURRENT LAW: A person is guilty of the Class 2 misdemeanor of Indecent Exposure when their actions satisfy the following essential elements:

1. A person willfully exposes, or aids and abets, or procures another to expose, the private parts of his or her body;
2. in a public place; and
3. in the presence of a person of the opposite sex.

Knowingly permitting one's land to be used for indecent exposure is also a violation of this statute[1].

Current law provides an exception to this offense to allow for the exposure of a mother's breast during or incidental to breast feeding.

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would amend the current law by removing the gender-specific language requiring the victim be of the opposite sex, modifying element 3 of the offense above to read as follows:

3. in the presence of any other person or persons.

The bill provides an exception to this offense to allow for same sex exposure when it occurs in a place designated for a public purpose where the same sex exposure is incidental to a necessary activity (such as when changing clothing in a locker room).

The bill adds a new subsection to create a Class H felony offense consisting of the following elements:

1. A person at least 18 years of age;
2. willfully exposes his or her private parts;
3. in any public place;
4. in the presence of any other person less than 16 years of age; and
5. for the purpose of arousing or gratifying sexual desire.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act would become effective on December 1, 2005.

BACKGROUND: An instance in which an individual exposed himself in a public place (inside a department store) to a young member of the same sex was deemed offensive but did not constitute a criminal offense as currently defined by the General Statutes.

SENATE BILL 806:
Mediation Amendments

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	May 4, 2005
Introduced by:	Sen. Hartsell	Summary by:	Ben Popkin
Version:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 806 would act upon the recommendations of the North Carolina Dispute Resolution Commission to make a series of changes to the practices of mediated settlement conferences in Superior Court, the practices of mediation in District Court domestic cases, and the regulation of mediators.

CURRENT LAW: The North Carolina Dispute Resolution Commission was established in October of 1995, pursuant to N.C. General Statute 7A-38.2. The Commission is charged primarily with certifying mediators who serve North Carolina's statewide superior court Mediated Settlement Conference and district court Family Financial Settlement Programs. The Commission is also charged with regulating mediator conduct. In addition, the Commission recommends policy, rules, and rule revisions to the Dispute Resolution Committee of the State Judicial Council, serves as a clearinghouse for information about the Mediated Settlement Conference and Family Financial Settlement Programs, provides technical and other support to State agencies interested in dispute resolution. The Commission also certifies mediator training programs and monitors the activities of trainers who have been approved. Mediators certified by the Commission are appointed by the courts or selected by the parties to mediate pending cases.

Mediated Settlement Conferences – Pursuant to General Statute 7A-38.1 and the North Carolina Supreme Court's Rules Implementing Mediated Settlement Conferences (MSC Rules), a Senior Resident Superior Court Judge in any district may order parties in any civil action to attend a pre-trial mediated settlement conference or, with the parties' consent, one of the other settlement procedures provided for in MSC Rules. The only cases excluded are actions in which a party is seeking the issuance of an extraordinary writ or is appealing the revocation of a motor vehicle operator's license.

Family Financial Settlement Programs – General Statute 7A-38.4A provides that the Chief District Court Judge in any district may order a mediated settlement conference or other settlement procedure as provided for in the statute in actions involving equitable distribution, child support, alimony, post-separation support, or claims arising out of contracts between the parties under G.S. 50-20(d), 52-10, 52-10.1 or 52B. The Supreme Court's Rules Implementing Settlement Procedures in Equitable Distribution and Other Family Financial Cases provide that once such an order is entered, the parties and their attorneys must attend.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 806 would make a wide range of changes to the statutes addressing the current practices of mediated settlement conferences in Superior Court, mediation in District Court domestic cases, and the regulation of mediators and other 'neutrals' who are certified or otherwise qualified or participating in proceedings pursuant to G.S. 7A-38.1, 7A-38.3, or 7A-38.4A. The changes would include revisions to the statutory language to achieve the following ends:

- Clarify the inadmissibility in civil actions of statements made during settlement conferences and other mediation proceedings;
- Clarify the role of the Dispute Resolution Commission in certifying and training mediators;

- Increase the membership in the Commission to a total of 15 members, by adding a clerk of superior court to be appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court;
- Authorize the chair of the Commission to employ staff as necessary to carry out Commission duties;
- Allow the Committee to employ counsel or assistance from the Attorney General's office in conducting hearings;
- Authorize the chair of the Commission to administer oaths, sign and issue subpoenas, and apply to the Superior Court Division of the General Court of Justice for "any order necessary to enforce the power conferred by the section addressing the regulation of mediators and other neutrals;
- Require that information collected relating to mediator certification or qualification be kept confidential; and
- Require that final determinations of the Commission relating certification or disciplinary actions taken be filed with the Wake County clerk of court.

Evidence of statements made by any person present at a mediated settlement conference or other settlement proceeding under G.S. 7A-38.1 would be made inadmissible, and the exception would be enlarged to allow discovery when in disciplinary proceedings or juvenile or elder abuse cases.

The Supreme Court would be authorized to adopt standards for all 'neutrals' qualified or participating in proceedings pursuant to G.S. 7A-38.1, 7A-38.3, or 7A-38.4A. The Commission would still operate according to rules and regulations adopted by the Supreme Court but would operate independently of the Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts except in matters relating to personnel and budgeting.

Additional powers would be granted the Commission to conduct investigations or hearings, "pursuant to an application for certification or qualification of any mediator, other neutral, or training program, or conducted pursuant to any disciplinary matter."

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would be effective when it becomes law.
