(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and
(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and
(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and
(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2),~~ this section, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 5. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 1112:
Amend Birth Registration Requirements

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 16, 2009
Introduced by:	Representative Goodwin	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson
Analysis of:	PCS to Fourth Edition H1112-CSSB-51 [v.4]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute for House Bill 1112 would amend the law governing birth registration to allow a child's putative father to be entered on the birth certificate under certain circumstances.

CURRENT LAW:

Generally, under current law, if a mother was married at the time of either conception or birth, or between conception and birth, the name of the mother's husband must be entered on the birth certificate as the father. An exception is made, however, if a court has determined paternity in someone other than the mother's husband. In this case, the name of the father, as determined by the court, will be entered on the birth certificate.

BILL ANALYSIS:

The Proposed Committee Substitute for House Bill 1112 (PCS) would create a new exception to the requirement that the husband's name be entered on the birth certificate. The PCS would provide that the name of the putative father will be entered on the birth certificate if the mother, mother's husband, and putative father complete an affidavit acknowledging paternity that contains all of the following:

- A sworn statement by the mother consenting to and declaring that the putative father is the child's natural father.
- A sworn statement by the putative father declaring that he believes he is the natural father.
- A sworn statement by the husband consenting to the assertion of paternity by the putative father.
- Information explaining the effect of signing the affidavit, including a statement of parental rights and responsibilities and acknowledging receipt of the information.
- The social security numbers of all of the parties.
- The results of a DNA test that has confirmed the paternity of the putative father.

The PCS would also require an unmarried mother to include in an affidavit acknowledging the paternity of the father a statement that she was unmarried at all times from conception through birth.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The PCS would become effective when it becomes and apply to the birth certificates of children born on or after that date.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 146-27 reads as rewritten:

"§ 146-29. Procedure for sale, lease, or rental.

(a) If, after investigation, the Department of Administration determines that it is in the best interest of the State that land be sold, leased, or rented, the Department shall proceed with its sale, lease, or rental, as the case may be, subject to the provisions of this section in accordance with rules adopted by the Governor and approved by the Council of State. (b) If the sale under this section is of land with an appraised value of at least twenty-five thousand ($25,000), the sale shall be by public auction, subject to upset bids. If no acceptable bids are offered at sale by public auction, the sale may be by private sale subject to upset bids."

HOUSE BILL 1377:
Taxpayer Optimization Act

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 15, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Folwell, McElraft, Brown, Moore	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter
Analysis of:	PCS to Second Edition H1377-CSRV-49		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: This proposed committee substitute for House Bill 1377 would require sale of State-owned real property by public auction subject to upset bids if the real property has a value of at least $25,000. If no acceptable bids are offered at sale by public auction, the property may be sold by private sale subject to upset bids.

CURRENT LAW: The sale or transfer of State-owned land is made by the Department of Administration and approved by the Governor and Council of State. G.S. 146-29 provides that when the Department of Administration determines that it is in the best interest of the State that land be sold, the Department can proceed with the sale in accordance with rules adopted by the Governor and approved by the Council of State. If an agreement of sale is reached, the proposed transaction is submitted to the Governor and Council of State for approval or disapproval. If the land has an appraised value of at least $25,000, the Council of State is required to consult with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before making a final decision.

BILL ANALYSIS: This proposed committee substitute for House Bill 1377 would add a new provision to the law concerning the procedure for the sale, lease, or rental of State property. The bill would require that any sale of State-owned real property with an appraised value of at least $25,000 be by public auction, subject to upset bids. If no acceptable bids are offered at public auction, the sale may then be held by private sale, subject to upset bids. Any sale of State land would be subject to provisions enacted in the bill and in accordance with rules adopted by the Governor and the Council of State.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009.

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 16, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Sutton	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter
Analysis of:	Fourth Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 630 would amend the law regarding service of summons in a summary ejectment to require that if the officer does not otherwise effectuate service to the defendant, the officer must make a visit to the defendant's place of residence at least two days prior to the day the defendant is required to appear to answer the complaint, excluding legal holidays.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 42-28 requires that, upon filing of a complaint by a landlord asking "...to be put in possession of the leased premises, the clerk of superior court shall issue a summons requiring the defendant to appear at a certain time and place not to exceed seven days from the issuance of the summons, excluding weekends and legal holidays, to answer the complaint." G.S. 42-29 requires that if the officer receiving the summons does not attempt to telephone a defendant or if the attempt is unsuccessful or does not result in service to the defendant, the officer must make at least one visit to the defendant's place of residence within five days of the issuance of the summons, at a time reasonably calculated to find the defendant at the place of abode to attempt personal delivery of service

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 630 would amend G.S. 42-29 (service of summons in a summary ejectment) to require that the visit to the defendant's place of residence take place at least two days prior to the day the defendant is required to appear to answer the complaint, excluding legal holidays.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009 and apply to actions filed on or after that date.

Short Title: Targeted Picketing. (Public)

March 31, 2009

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROHIBIT PERSONS FROM PICKETING DIRECTED AT A SINGLE RESIDENCE IN A MANNER THAT WOULD CAUSE FEAR OR SUBSTANTIAL EMOTIONAL DISTRESS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 35 of Chapter 14 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 14-277.4A Targeted picketing of a residence.

(a) Definitions. – As used in this section:

(1) "Residence" means any single-family or multifamily dwelling unit that is not being used as a targeted occupant's sole place of business or as a place of public meeting.

(2) "Targeted picketing" means picketing, with or without signs, that is specifically directed toward a residence, or one or more occupants of the residence, and that takes place on that portion of a sidewalk or street in front of the residence, in front of an adjoining residence, or on either side of the residence.

(b) It shall be unlawful for a person to engage in targeted picketing when the person knows or should know that the manner in which they are picketing would cause in a reasonable person any of the following:

(1) Fear for the person's safety or the safety of the person's immediate family or close personal associates.

(2) Substantial emotional distress. For the purposes of this subdivision, "substantial emotional distress" is defined as in G.S. 14-277.3A(b)(4).

(c) Any person who commits the offense defined in this section is guilty of a Class 2 misdemeanor.

(d) Any person aggrieved under this section may seek injunctive relief in a court of competent jurisdiction to prevent threatened or further violations of this section. Any violation of an injunction obtained pursuant to this section constitutes criminal contempt and shall be punishable by a term of imprisonment of not less than 30 days and no more than 12 months.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit general picketing that proceeds through residential neighborhoods or that proceeds past residences."

SECTION 2. This act becomes effective December 1, 2009, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 885: Targeted Picketing

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 18, 2009
Introduced by:	Representative Ross	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson
Analysis of:	Third Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 885 would make it unlawful to engage in the targeted picketing of a residence in a manner that would cause fear or substantial emotional distress.

BILL ANALYSIS:

House Bill 885 would make it unlawful to engage in targeted picketing when the picketer knows or should know that the manner of picketing would cause a reasonable person: (i) to fear for the person's safety or the safety of the person's immediate family or close personal associates or (ii) substantial emotional distress.

For purposes of the new criminal prohibition:

- "Residence" means any single family or multifamily dwelling unit that is not being used as a targeted occupant's sole place of business or as a place of public meeting.
- "Targeted picketing" means picketing, with or without signs, that is specifically directed toward a residence, or one or more occupants of the residence, and that takes place on that portion of a sidewalk or street in front of the residence, in front of an adjoining residence, or on either side of the residence. The bill specifically provides that general picketing that proceeds through residential neighborhoods or past residences is not prohibited.
- "Substantial emotional distress" means significant mental suffering or distress that may, but does not necessarily require, medical or other professional treatment or counseling. This is the definition of "substantial emotional distress" used in the existing stalking statute.

A violation of the criminal prohibition of targeted picketing would be a Class 2 misdemeanor[1]. A person aggrieved by targeted picketing may seek injunctive relief to prevent further or future violations. A violation of such an injunction would constitute criminal contempt, punishable by a minimum of 30 days to a maximum of one year of confinement.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act would become effective December 1, 2009, and apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

[1] Assuming no prior convictions, a Class 2 misdemeanor is punishable by 1 to 30 days of community punishment and a fine not to exceed $1,000.

April 7, 2009

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO CLARIFY LAWS PERTAINING TO CIVIL ACTIONS ON BEHALF OF AN INCOMPETENT SPOUSE AS RELATED TO DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 50-22 reads as rewritten:

"§ 50-22. Action on behalf of an incompetent.

A ~~general guardian for an incompetent spouse may commence, defend or maintain any action authorized by this Chapter; however, the court shall not enter a decree of absolute divorce in such an action filed by the guardian on behalf of the incompetent spouse. As an exception to G.S. 50-21, the court may order equitable distribution on behalf of an incompetent spouse without entering a decree of divorce after the parties have lived separate and apart for a period of one year. Provided, however, that the competent spouse may seek and obtain a divorce from the incompetent spouse upon showing basis for the same.~~duly appointed attorney-in-fact who has the power to sue and defend civil actions on behalf of an incompetent spouse and who has been appointed pursuant to a durable power of attorney executed in accordance with Chapter 32A of the General Statutes, a guardian appointed in accordance with Chapter 35A of the General Statutes, or a guardian ad litem appointed in accordance with G.S. 1A-1, Rules 17 and 25(b), may commence, defend, maintain, arbitrate, mediate, or settle any action authorized by this Chapter on behalf of an incompetent spouse. However, only a competent spouse may commence an action for absolute divorce."

SECTION 2. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1091:
Clarify Action for Divorce/Incompetent Spouse

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 16, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Rhyne	Prepared by:	Jennifer McGinnis Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	First Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1091 would expand the list of who can engage in various actions under Chapter 50, Divorce and Alimony, on behalf of an incompetent spouse to include an attorney-in-fact and a guardian ad litem. It would also clarify that only a competent spouse can file an action for an absolute divorce.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 50-22 provides that a general guardian for an incompetent spouse can commence, defend, or maintain any action authorized by Chapter 50 (Divorce and Alimony), but the court cannot enter a decree of absolute divorce if the action is filed by the general guardian on behalf of the incompetent spouse. The court can order equitable distribution on behalf of an incompetent spouse without entering a divorce decree once the parties have lived separate and apart for one year.

The competent spouse can obtain a divorce from the incompetent spouse.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1091 would allow the following to commence, defend, maintain, arbitrate, mediate, or settle any action authorized by Chapter 50 on behalf of an incompetent spouse:

- A duly appointed attorney-in-fact who has the power to sue and defend civil actions on behalf of the incompetent spouse and who has been appointed pursuant to a durable power of attorney under Chapter 32A of the General Statutes;
- A guardian appointed in accordance with Chapter 35A of the General Statutes; or
- A guardian ad litem appointed in accordance with G.S. 1A-1, Rules 17 and 25(b).

The bill would provide that only a competent spouse can commence an action for absolute divorce.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective when it becomes law.

BACKGROUND: The treatise, North Carolina Family Law Practice by Lloyd T. Kelso (2008), offers that G.S. 50-22 in its current form has created some confusion by using the term "general guardian". According to the treatise, by using the term "general guardian", the statute appears to limit who can engage in actions for incompetent spouses to general guardians who are appointed as guardian of the person and estate of an incompetent under Chapter 35A and there is some question as to whether a court could appoint a guardian ad litem. North Carolina Family Law Practice § 19:8. This would also conflict with Rule 17 of the Rules of Civil Procedure which authorizes a court to appoint a guardian ad litem even if there is a general guardian. Id. Furthermore, the treatise states that the current statute is unclear as to whether an attorney-in-fact can engage in the actions on behalf of the incompetent person even though the attorney-in-fact was specifically granted the right to sue or defend actions under a durable power of attorney under Chapter 32A since individuals with mental illnesses often execute durable powers of attorneys while competent to avoid guardianship proceedings. Id.

The treatise provides that there is some confusion as to whether G.S. 50-22 allows the competent spouse to obtain an absolute divorce or a divorce from bed and board since it only states that the competent spouse can obtain a divorce. Id.

Drupti Chauhan, Committee Counsel to House Judiciary II, substantially contributed to this summary.

PARTITIONS – THE CURRENT LAW

Joint Ownership:

- When people own real property together, they are called tenants in common or co-tenants.
- Tenancy in Common can be created # ways, e.g. divorce, inheritance.
- If one or more want out, they can agree to buy one another out or sell to a 3rd party.
- This is by agreement of the parties, and without court involvement.
- If there is a suit, the parties can settle at any time.
- When parties cannot agree, one or more can a special proceeding.

Starting the Process:

- A summons and petition for partition must be filed and served on all owners.
- As with all civil cases, if a party cannot be served, the petitioner must demonstrate due diligence in attempting actual service before resorting to publication. (Rule 4)
- If there are unknown or unlocatable parties, the court must appoint a guardian ad litem.

Is Actual Partition Possible?

- Step 1 - determine whether actual partition is possible without causing substantial injury.
- Law favors actual partition, so whenever possible, do a division.
- There may be a hearing, at which the clerk takes expert testimony or other evidence, or the situation may be clear, or commissioners may be appointed who then report special circumstances.
- In some cases, the matter clearly involves a single family residence, or perhaps a ½ acre lot with 10 co-tenants, and thus, actual division is not possible.
- Despite the number of properties in urban counties that are primarily single family residences, over 70% of all partitions involve actual division.
- Although difficult to apply from a fairness and tract selection view point, the court may order sale of a portion of the property with the remainder still held as tenants in common. (Partial partition)

The Substantial Injury Test

- Will actual partition result in the material impairment of a co-tenant's rights, such that the fair market value of each share would be materially less than the value of each share if the property were sold as a whole? - G.S. 46-22
- Case law directs the CSC to consider the totality of the circumstances, including the following factors:
    - The nature, character, extent, condition and location of the land.
    - The respective ownership interests of ant he number of owners.
    - The possibility of dividing the property according to value.
    - Any economic waste that may be caused by division.

  See Duke v. Hill, 68 NC App. 261 (wetland).

See also Brown v. Boger, 263 NC 248 – "Substantial Injury" means substantial injustice, and that it would be unconscionable to require an actual partition ($280K vs. $278K).

Transfer or Appeal

- While most special proceedings can be transferred to superior court, the issue of whether an actual division is possible must be decided before the clerk. G.S. 1-301.2.
- That decision is appealable for a de novo hearing in superior court.

Actual Division – The Process

- The court appoints 3 disinterested commissioners. Where possible these are usually land use professionals, surveyors or realtors.
- Their job is to recommend a plan for the division of the land into tracts with as equal a value as possible.
- The presence of creeks, roads or other factors may make absolute equality impossible, and money (Owelty) may be ordered paid toward one tract or the other to even up the values.
- The Comm'rs may hire a surveyor to map each share. The cost is paid by the parties, and we suggest this be collected in advance.

The Report – Objection, Confirmation and Appeal

- The Comm'rs must file the report within 60 days, but the CSC may extend the time for an additional 60 days.
- The parties have 10 days to object to the report. If no one objects, the report is confirmed.
- If an objection is filed, the Clerk may
  - Confirm the report
  - Recommit the matter to the Comm'rs for further consideration.
  - Vacate the report and direct the Comm'rs to do a reappraisal.
  - Vacate the report, discharge the Comm'rs and appoint new ones.
- If the CSC confirms the sale, any party may appeal to Superior Court
- The Superior Court Judge has the same authority to confirm, recommit or vacate the report.

The Sale Process

- If an actual division is not possible and a sale is ordered, the statutory process is the same for all judicial sales (Article 29A- of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes) with a few extras.
- The sale can be as a whole or in parts, or both, with the understanding that whichever method yields the highest price controls.
- The CSC can order a public auction or a private sale, whichever is deemed advantageous, or may order a time within which to try a private sale before resorting to an auction. If timber is involved, the sale may be by sealed bid.
- If a private sale is ordered, an appraisal is normally required to verify value.

- The CSC appoints one or more commissioners to conduct the sale and account to the court.

Notice of Sale

- A Notice of Sale must be prepared setting forth the time, date and place of the sale, describing the property, and setting out the terms of the sale and any deposit required.
- The Notice of Sale must be posted at the courthouse for at least 20 days before the sale, and a copy mailed to all parties at least 20 days in advance.
- The Notice of Sale must be published in the newspaper at least once a week for two successive weeks prior to the sale.

The Upset Bid Period

- Public and private sales are subject to a 10 day upset bid period.
- Each upset bid starts a new 10 day period.

The Confirmation Process

- The sale must be confirmed by the CSC or by the judge ordering the sale
- If a minor or incompetent is involved, the sale must be confirmed by both the CSC and the judge.

The Revocation Process

- After confirmation, any party has 15 days to petition of revocation of the confirmation. IN other words, the confirmation is not final for 15 days.
- The grounds for revocation by an owner are improper or inadequate notice or inadequate or inequitable price.
- The purchaser may petition for revocation due to undisclosed or unsatisfied liens.
- The court can revoke the confirmation, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer and the return of the deposit. If revocation is ordered, the court must order a resale.
- At the end of the revocation period, the confirmation becomes final.

Closing

- The bidder tenders the purchase price in return for a deed to the property.
- The commissioner files a final report and account with the clerk.
- All fees and commissions must be approved or set by the court.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE NOTICE OF RIGHT TO SEEK LEGAL COUNSEL AND CLARIFY NOTICE REQUIRED TO PARTIES WHO MAY BE UNKNOWN OR UNLOCATABLE IN A PARTITION PROCEEDING; TO CODIFY THE CURRENT PRACTICE OF GRANTING OWNERS CREDIT FOR THEIR EXISTING INTEREST IN LAND WHEN BIDDING ON A PARTITION SALE; TO PERMIT A COURT TO ORDER AN INDEPENDENT APPRAISAL IF REQUESTED AND PAID FOR BY A PARTY TO THE PARTITION WHO CHALLENGES THE AMOUNT BID IN A PARTITION SALE, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE PARTITION SALES STUDY COMMITTEE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 1 of Chapter 46 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 46-2.1. Summons; notice.

(a) In partition proceedings initiated under this Chapter, the period of time for answering a summons is provided in G.S. 1-394.

(b) Written notice shall be included in the petition in a manner reasonably calculated to make the respondent aware of the following:

(1) That the respondent has the right to seek the advice of an attorney and that free legal services may be available to the respondent by contacting Legal Aid of North Carolina or other legal services organizations.

(2) That pursuant to G.S. 6-21 the court has the authority, in its discretion, to order reasonable attorneys' fees to be paid as a part of the costs of the proceeding."

SECTION 2. G.S. 46-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-6. Unknown or unlocatable parties; ~~summons and~~ summons, notice, and representation.

(a) If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. The notice by publication shall include a description of the property which includes the street address, if any, or other common designation for the property, if any, and may include the legal description of the property.

(b) ~~If~~ Before or after such general notice by publication if any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall ~~in its discretion~~ appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown or unlocatable and unrepresented."

SECTION 3. G.S. 46-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28. Sale procedure.

(a) The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General ~~Statutes.~~ Statutes, except as provided herein.

(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and
(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and
(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and
(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2),~~ this section, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 5. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 578:
Partition Sales/Commrs., Sellers, Buyers

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 23, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Bryant, Michaux, Allen, Harrison	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Third Edition

SUMMARY: This proposed committee substitute for House Bill 578 would require that respondents in a partition proceeding be notified of their right to seek legal counsel, and would clarify the requirements for providing notice to unknown or unlocatable parties in a partition proceeding. The bill would grant owners credit for their existing interest in the land when bidding on it in a partition sale, and would require the court to order an independent appraisal if requested and paid for by a party who challenges the amount bid in a partition sale. The bill contains recommendations from the Partition Sales Study Committee.

CURRENT LAW: To legally "partition" property means to bring a proceeding in court to force the physical division or sale of real property and in the event of sale to have the property or proceeds from sale of the property divided among co-owners of the property. Under the laws governing the partition of real property (Chapter 46 of the General Statutes), one or more persons claiming joint ownership in real property may petition the superior court for partition of the property.

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would enact a new provision specifying that the period of time for answering a summons in a partition proceeding is governed by G.S. 1-394, which pertains to contested special proceedings. It would increase the time from 10 to 30 days. It also would require that a written notice be attached to the summons making respondents aware of the right to seek legal advice, that free legal services may be available by contacting legal services organizations, and that the court has the authority to order payment of attorneys fees as part of the costs of the proceeding.

Section 2 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the notification of unknown parties to a partition proceeding. Under existing law, when the court determines that there are persons with an interest in the property whose names are unknown and cannot be ascertained by the petitioner, the court can order that notice be made by publication in a newspaper. The bill would require that notice by publication include a full description of the property, and require the court to appoint someone to represent any unknown or unlocatable parties.

Section 3 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the sale procedure for partition sales, to provide that any cotenant making an offer to purchase the entire parcel would receive credit for the value of his or her share and received a corresponding reduction in the amount owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale. The bill would allow two or more cotenants to aggregate the credit for their interests.

Section 4 of the bill would amend the law pertaining to a petition for revocation of an order confirming the partition sale of real property by making a technical change, and by adding a new provision that would require the court to order an independent appraisal of the property upon request of the petitioner. If, based on the appraisal and other evidence, the court finds the sale price to be inadequate the court may revoke the order confirming the sale. The cost of the appraisal would be apportioned to all parties requesting it, and the court could require the parties to pay all or part of that cost prior to the appraisal.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009 and apply to partition actions filed on or after that date.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE VENUE RULES AND THE AUTHORITY OF MAGISTRATES FOR MUNICIPALITIES LYING IN FOUR OR MORE COUNTIES, EACH OF WHICH IS IN A DIFFERENT JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 7A-199(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) A district court judge sitting at a seat of court described in this section may, in criminal cases, conduct preliminary hearings and try misdemeanors arising within the corporate limits of the municipality plus the territory embraced within a distance of one mile in all directions therefrom.

If the corporate limits of the municipality extend into two or more counties, each of which is in a separate district court district, a district court judge assigned to sit at the seat of court has the same authority over criminal cases arising in the municipality and the territory embraced within a distance of one mile in all directions that he would have if the corporate limits of the municipality were solely located in a single district court district. Judges assigned to sit in such a municipality shall be assigned by the chief district court judge serving the district in which a majority of the voters of the municipality reside, but offenses arising in ~~the~~ a portion of the municipality in which ~~the~~ a minority of the voters reside shall not be disposed of in the municipality unless the chief district court judge for that district consents in writing to the disposition of criminal cases in the municipality. However, for charges brought by municipal law enforcement officers only, if the corporate limits of the municipality extend into four or more counties, each of which is in a separate district court district, offenses arising in a portion of the municipality in which a minority of the voters reside shall be disposed of in the portion of the municipality in which a majority of the voters reside without obtaining the consent of the chief district court judge for the district in which the offense occurred."

SECTION 2. G.S. 7A-293 reads as rewritten:

"§ 7A-293. Special authority of a magistrate assigned to a municipality located in more than one county of a district court district.

A magistrate assigned to an incorporated municipality, the boundaries of which lie in more than one county of a district court district, may, in criminal matters, exercise the powers granted by G.S. 7A-273 as if the corporate limits plus the territory embraced within a distance of one mile in all directions therefrom were located wholly within the magistrate's county of residence. Appeals from a magistrate exercising the authority granted by this section shall be taken in the district court in the county in which the offense was committed. A magistrate exercising the special authority granted by this section shall transmit all records, reports, and monies collected to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the offense was committed. In addition, if a magistrate is assigned to an incorporated municipality, the boundaries of which lie in two or more district court districts, the magistrate may exercise the powers described in this section as if ~~both~~ the counties were in the same district court district, if the clerks of superior court and the chief district court judges serving ~~both~~the districts in which the municipality is located agree in writing that the exercise of this special authority would promote the administration of justice in the municipality and in ~~both~~the districts. However, if a magistrate is assigned to an incorporated municipality, the boundaries of which lie in four or more counties, each of which is in a separate district court district, the magistrate may exercise the powers described in this section as if all the counties were in the same district court district, without the necessity of such an agreement between the clerks and judges of the affected counties, and the records, reports, and monies collected in connection with the exercise of that authority shall be transmitted to the clerk of the superior court district for which the municipality is a seat of court."

SECTION 3. G.S. 15A-131(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, venue for probable cause hearings and trial proceedings in cases within the original jurisdiction of the superior court lies in the county where the charged offense occurred. ~~If~~ Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if the alleged offense is committed within the corporate limits of a municipality which is the seat of superior court and is located in more than one county, venue lies in the superior court which sits within that municipality, but upon timely objection of the defendant or the district attorney in the county in which the alleged offense occurred the case must be transferred to the county in which the alleged offense occurred. However, for charges brought by municipal law enforcement officers only, if the alleged offense is committed within the corporate limits of a municipality that extends into four or more counties, each of which is in a separate superior court district, offenses committed within the corporate limits of the municipality but in a superior court district other than the one for which the municipality is the seat of superior court shall be disposed of in the municipality with no allowance for objections by the defendant or the district attorney."

SECTION 4. This act becomes effective December 1, 2009, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 1077:
Venue/Municipalities in Multiple Districts

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 25, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Wiley, Jones	Prepared by:	Jennifer McGinnis
Analysis of:	Second Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1077 amends the venue rules and the authority of magistrates for municipalities lying in four or more counties, each of which is in a different judicial district.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to S854, as introduced by Sen. Vaughan, which is currently in Senate Judiciary II.]

CURRENT LAW: North Carolina law currently makes provisions for the handling of criminal cases that occur in a municipality that is located in two counties which are in two different judicial districts by allowing the cases to be handled in the judicial district that has the majority of the voters in the municipality, with the written consent of the appropriate counterpart in the other judicial district. This is generally handled by standing agreements between the two judicial districts.

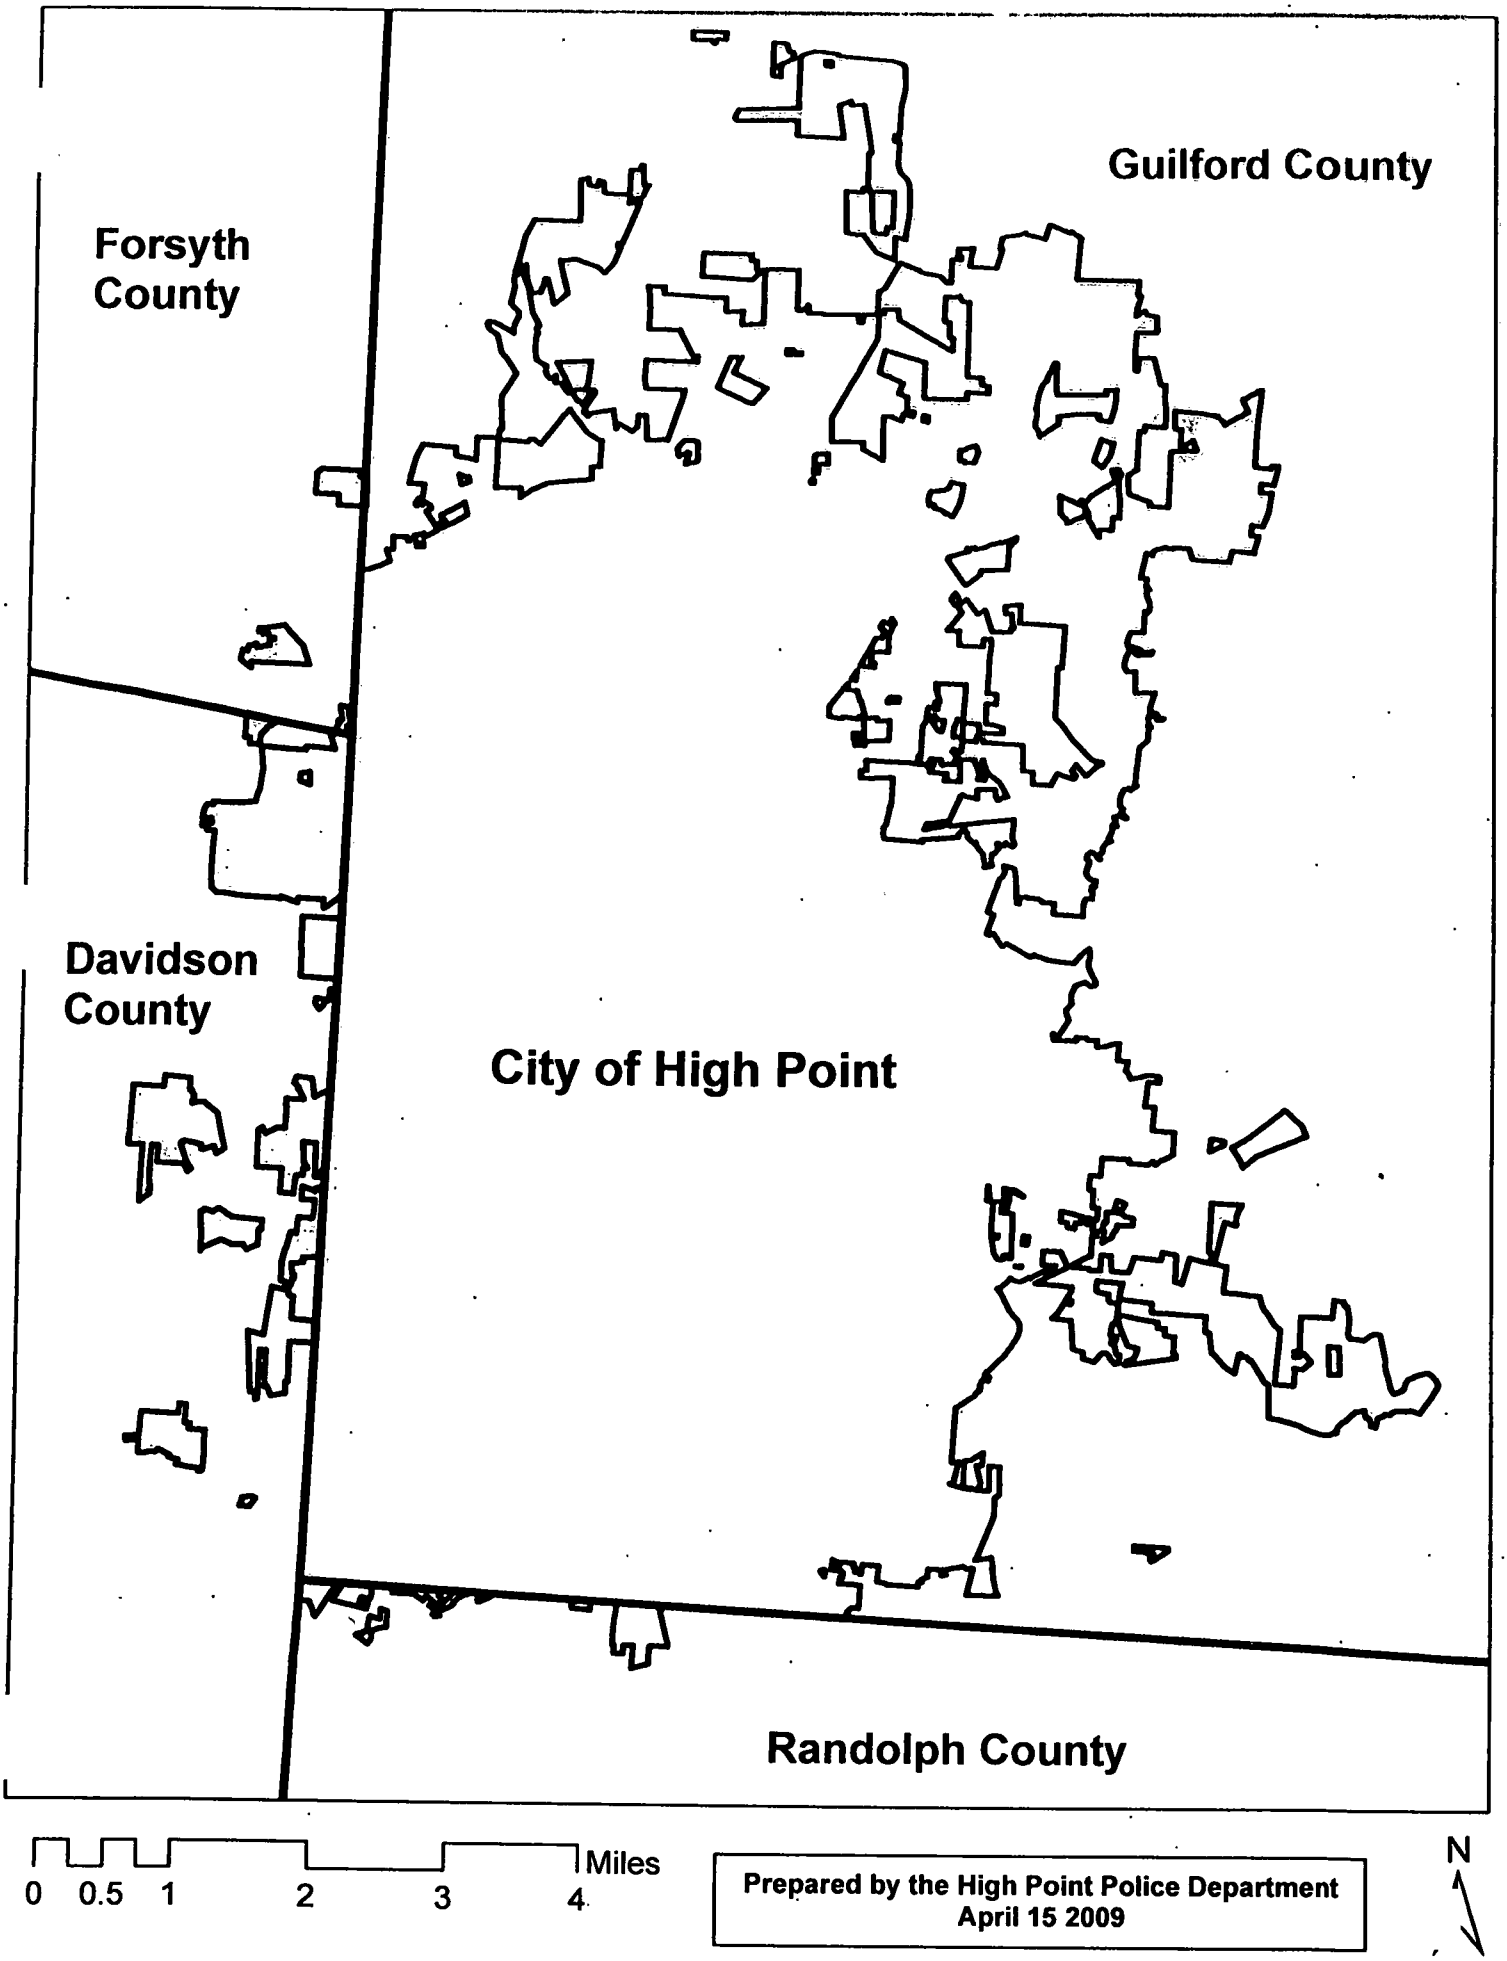
BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1077 amends the statutes relating to venue and the authorities of magistrates that currently apply to criminal cases within municipalities located in two counties and two judicial districts. The current law remains the same in its application to those municipalities located in two counties and two judicial districts.

House Bill 1077 adds language to the current law to make provisions for the handling of criminal cases in a municipality that is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different judicial districts.

Section 1 provides that with regard to venue for criminal matters in district court, the conduct of preliminary hearings and trial of misdemeanors, if a municipality is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different district court districts, criminal cases arising in the portions of the municipality where a minority of the voters reside shall be handled in the district court district where the majority of the voters in the municipality reside without obtaining the consent of the chief district court judge for the district in which the offense occurred.

Section 2 provides that if a municipality is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different district court districts, an assigned magistrate may exercise authority as if all the counties were in the same court district (an agreement between the clerks and judges of the affected counties to grant this special authority would not be necessary). The records, reports, and monies collected in connection with the magistrate's exercise of authority shall be transmitted to the clerk of the superior court district for which the municipality is a seat of court.

Section 3 provides that with regard to venue for probable cause hearings and trial proceedings in cases within the original jurisdiction of the superior court, if a municipality is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different superior court districts, criminal cases arising in the portions of the municipality where a minority of the voters reside may be handled in the superior court district where the majority of the voters in the municipality reside with no allowance for objections by the defendant or the district attorney.



EFFECTIVE DATE: This act becomes effective December 1, 2009, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

BACKGROUND: Currently, the only municipality this Act would apply to is High Point.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE CHIEF COURT COUNSELOR IN EACH DISTRICT TO DELEGATE CERTAIN RESPONSIBILITIES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 143B-535 reads as rewritten:

"§ 143B-535. Duties and powers of chief court counselors.

The chief court counselor in each district appointed under G.S. 143B-516(b)(15) may:

(1) Appoint juvenile court counselors, secretaries, and other personnel authorized by the Department in accordance with the personnel policies adopted by the Department.

(2) Supervise and direct the program of juvenile intake, protective supervision, probation, and post-release supervision within the district.

(3) Provide in-service training for staff as required by the Department.

(4) Keep any records and make any reports requested by the Secretary in order to provide statewide data and information about juvenile needs and services.

(5) Delegate to a juvenile court counselor the authority to carry out specified responsibilities of the chief court counselor to facilitate the effective operation of the district.

(6) Designate a juvenile court counselor in the district as acting chief court counselor, to act during the absence or disability of the chief court counselor."

SECTION 2. This act becomes effective July 1, 2009.

HOUSE BILL 1347:
Chief Court Counselor Delegation

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 24, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Mobley	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter
Analysis of:	First Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1347 authorizes the chief court counselor appointed by the Secretary of the Department of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention in each district to delegate certain responsibilities or designate an acting chief court counselor.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 143B-516 authorizes the Secretary of the Department of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (DJJDP) to appoint a chief court counselor in each judicial district upon the recommendation of the chief district court judge of that district. The duties and powers of chief court counselors are set out in G.S. 143B-535, including the authority to appoint court counselors and other personnel, and to supervise and direct the program of juvenile intake, protective supervision, probation, and post-release supervision within the district. Current law does not authorize any person other than the chief court counselor to carry out the statutory responsibilities of the office.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1347 would amend G.S. 143B-535 concerning the duties and powers of chief court counselors appointed by the Secretary of the Department of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

Section 1 of the bill would do the following:

- Make a technical correction by inserting the word "juvenile" before "court counselor" in the statute.
- Allow the appointed chief court counselor in each district to delegate to a juvenile court counselor the authority to carry out specified responsibilities.
- Allow the appointed chief court counselor, in the case of absence or disability, to designate a juvenile court counselor in the district to serve as acting chief court counselor.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective July 1, 2009.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR A PILOT PROGRAM TO DETERMINE THE EFFECTIVENESS OF USING VIDEOCONFERENCE TECHNOLOGY TO CONDUCT COURT PROCEEDINGS, OTHER THAN TRIALS, INVOLVING PERSONS IN THE CUSTODY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION AND IN LOCAL CONFINEMENT FACILITIES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. The Administrative Office of the Courts, in consultation with the Department of Correction, shall conduct a pilot program to test the feasibility of using videoconference or similar technology to conduct court proceedings involving defendants in the custody of the Department of Correction, instead of requiring live appearances in court for those defendants. The Administrative Office of the Courts shall designate two counties to participate in the pilot, and the Department of Correction shall designate one prison facility. The Administrative Office of the Courts may also designate one or more counties to participate in a pilot program involving persons in the custody of local confinement facilities to test the feasibility of using videoconferencing equipment to conduct proceedings authorized by this act but not otherwise authorized by law.

SECTION 2. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the courts participating in the pilot program authorized by this act may conduct proceedings required under G.S. 15A-511, Article 26 of Chapter 15A of the General Statutes, G.S. 15A-601, and G.S. 15A-941 by videoconference without the consent of the defendant. If a defendant voluntarily and knowingly waives his or her right to appear in person, the court may also accept guilty pleas and impose sentences in cases in which the plea is taken by videoconference, conduct hearings on motions, and conduct probation modification or revocation proceedings. The waiver may be taken by videoconference. In the jurisdictions participating in the pilot programs, no proceeding in which a person is charged with a capital felony may be conducted using videoconferencing equipment, but nothing in this act shall be construed to limit the use of testimony at a trial taken by videoconferencing equipment when the testimony is otherwise allowed by law to be taken in that manner.

SECTION 3. The equipment used in conducting the videoconference proceedings authorized by this act shall be used in a manner that ensures that the judicial official conducting the proceeding and the defendant can see and hear each other and that ensures that the defendant and his or her attorney may communicate during the proceeding in a manner that preserves the defendant's right to confidential communication with counsel.

SECTION 4. The North Carolina Rural Courts Commission, in cooperation with the Department of Correction, shall study the effectiveness of the use of videoconferences for these proceedings and report its findings and recommendations for expansion or modification to the Chief Justice, the Secretary of Correction, the Chairs of the Senate and House Appropriations Subcommittees on Justice and Public Safety, and the Chairs of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees. The study shall address the costs of implementing videoconferencing on a statewide basis for these purposes, as well as the cost savings obtained through the use of such equipment, the quality of the transmissions, the frequency of use, and any other relevant information the Commission deems appropriate. The report shall be submitted no later than May 1, 2010. The Administrative Office of the Courts and the Department of Correction may seek grant funds to offset any costs associated with the study that cannot be provided by appropriations to those agencies.

SECTION 5. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1438:
Videoconference Tech. in Court Proceedings

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 25, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Spear, R. Warren, Sutton, Randleman	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	First Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1438 would provide for a pilot program to determine the effectiveness of utilizing audio/visual technology to conduct specified criminal proceedings instead of live appearances by the defendant.

CURRENT LAW: Statutes authorize the use of audio and video transmission between the judicial official and the defendant in various stages of a noncapital criminal case, including initial appearance, first appearance, arraignment, and bail determinations. Requirements include that the parties be able to see and hear each other and that defendant be allowed to communicate fully and confidentially with his or her attorney during the proceeding. Prior to the use of audio and video transmission, the procedures and type of equipment for audio and video transmission must be approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

BILL ANALYSIS:

- The Administrative Office of the Courts, in consultation with the Department of Correction, would be required to conduct a pilot program to test the feasibility of using videoconference or similar technology to conduct court proceedings involving defendants in the Department's custody.
- The pilot would involve two counties and one prison facility.
- The AOC would be authorized to also designate one or more counties to participate in using videoconferencing equipment to conduct proceedings authorized by the act involving local confinement facility prisoners.
- The act specifically provides that the courts may utilize the teleconferencing procedures in the pilot program without the consent of the defendant.
- If a defendant voluntarily waives his or her right of appearance, the act would expand the types of proceedings where teleconferencing may be used, to include guilty pleas, motion hearings, and probation revocation proceedings.
- Capital proceedings would be excluded from any videoconferencing.
- The judicial official conducting the proceeding and the defendant must be able to see and hear each other, and the defendant must be able to communicate confidentially with counsel.
- The North Carolina Rural Courts Commission, in cooperation with the Department of Correction, would report its findings and recommendations on the effectiveness of the use of videoconferences to the Chief Justice, the Secretary of Correction, the Chairs of the Senate and House Appropriations Subcommittees on Justice and Public Safety, and the Chairs of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees. The report shall be submitted no later than May 1, 2010.

- The study must address the costs of implementing videoconferencing on a statewide basis, as well as the (i) cost savings obtained through the use of such equipment, (ii) the quality of the transmissions, (iii) the frequency of use, and (iv) any other relevant information the Commission deems appropriate.
- The Administrative Office of the Courts and the Department of Correction are authorized to seek grant funds to offset any study costs not covered by appropriations.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law.

SUMMARY: House Bill 581 extends the deadline for the commissioners in a partition action to report back to the court on their proposed division of the land, and extends the deadline for responding to a summons in a partition action from ten days to thirty days, as recommended by the Partition Sales Study Committee. BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 extends (from 60 to 90 days) the deadline for the commissioners in a partition action to report back to the court on their proposed division of the land.

Section 2 extends (from 10 to 30 days) the deadline for responding to a summons in a partition action.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to a., b., or c. of subsection (a)(2), the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes.

(f) An order confirming the partition sale of real property becomes final and effective 15 days after entry of the order of confirmation or when the clerk denies a petition for revocation, whichever occurs later. A party may appeal an order confirming the partition of sale of real property within 10 days of the order becoming final and effective."

"Elective Share.

"§ 30-3.1. Right of elective share.

(a) Elective Share. – The surviving spouse of a decedent who dies domiciled in this State has a right to claim an "elective share", which means an amount equal to (i) the applicable share of the Total Net Assets, as defined in G.S. 30-3.2(4), less (ii) the value of Net Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, as defined in ~~G.S. 30-3.3(a).~~G.S. 30-3.2(2b). The applicable share of the Total Net Assets is as follows:

(2) If the decedent is survived by one child, or lineal descendants of one deceased child, one-half of the Total Net Assets.

(3) If the decedent is survived by two or more children, or by one or more children and the lineal descendants of one or more deceased children, or by the lineal descendants of two or more deceased children, one-third of the Total Net Assets.

(b) Reduction of Applicable Share. – In those cases in which the surviving spouse is a second or successive spouse, and the decedent has one or more lineal descendants ~~surviving by a prior marriage~~ surviving who are not lineal descendants of the decedent's marriage to the surviving spouse but there are no lineal descendants surviving by the surviving spouse, the applicable share as determined in subsection (a) of this section shall be reduced by one-half.

~~(c) Death Taxes. Death taxes shall be taken into account as a claim against the estate in determining Total Net Assets only to the extent that the assets received by the surviving spouse do not qualify for the federal estate tax marital deduction pursuant to section 2056 of the Code or similar provisions under the laws of any other applicable taxing jurisdiction. The amount of such claims shall equal the difference between the amount of such death taxes as finally determined and the amount such death taxes would have been if all assets received by the surviving spouse had qualified for the federal estate tax marital deduction pursuant to section 2056 of the Code and similar provisions under the laws of any other applicable taxing jurisdictions.~~

~~(1) One half of the value of any interest in property held by the decedent and the surviving spouse as tenants by the entirety or as joint tenants with rights of survivorship;~~

~~(2) The value of any interest in property (outright or in trust, including any interest subject to a general power of appointment held by the surviving spouse, as defined in section 2041 of the Code) devised by the decedent to the surviving spouse, or which passes to the surviving spouse by intestacy, or by beneficiary designation, or by exercise of or in default of the exercise of the decedent's testamentary general or limited power of appointment, or by operation of law or otherwise by reason of the decedent's death, excluding any benefits under the federal social security system;~~

~~(3) Any year's allowance awarded to the surviving spouse;~~
~~(4) The value of any property renounced by the surviving spouse;~~
~~(5) The value of the surviving spouse's interest, outright or in trust, in any life insurance proceeds on the life of the decedent;~~
~~(6) The value of any interest in property, outright or in trust, transferred from the decedent to the surviving spouse during the lifetime of decedent for which (i) a gift tax return is timely filed reporting such gift, or (ii) the surviving spouse signs a statement acknowledging such a gift. For purposes of this subdivision, any gift to the surviving spouse by the decedent of the decedent's interest in any property held by the decedent and the surviving spouse as tenants by the entirety or as joint tenants with right of survivorship shall be valued at one half of the entire value of that interest in property at the time the gift is made;~~
~~(7) Notwithstanding any other provision of law related to valuing a partial interest in property, the entire fair market value of any property held in trust for the exclusive benefit of the surviving spouse during the surviving spouse's lifetime, if the terms of the trust meet the following requirements:~~
~~a. During the lifetime of the surviving spouse, the trust is controlled by one or more Nonadverse Trustees;~~
~~b. The trustee is required to distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse either (i) the entire net income of the trust at least annually; or (ii) the income of the trust in such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse;~~
~~c. The trustee is required to distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse out of the principal of the trust such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse; and~~

~~(8) The net value of the marital estate awarded to the surviving spouse pursuant to G.S. 50-20 subsequent to the death of the decedent.~~

~~(b) Death Taxes. The value of Property Passing to Surviving Spouse shall be reduced by any death taxes that are a charge against or apportioned against the surviving spouse on property interests included in Property Passing to Surviving Spouse.~~

~~(c) No Duplication. In case of overlapping application of the same property under more than one provision, the property shall be included only once, under the provision yielding the greatest value.~~

"§ 30-3.3A. Valuation of property.

(a) Basic Principles. – Unless otherwise expressly stated to the contrary in this section, the value of property shall be that property's fair market value, taking into consideration any applicable discounts. The value shall be determined as of the date of death, except for (i) property transferred to persons other than the surviving spouse described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)g. and (ii) property transferred to the surviving spouse described in G.S. 30-3.2(3c)e. that is not held in trust, that is not life insurance, and that is not held as tenants by the entirety or some other form of ownership that passes to the surviving spouse by reason of survivorship. The value of gift property described in clauses (i) and (ii) shall be determined as the value on the date of transfer; but if the donee proves to the satisfaction of the clerk that the value on the date of disposal of the asset prior to the decedent's death is less than on the original date of transfer or that the value on the date of death is less than on the original date of transfer, then the lesser value shall be used.

(b) Certain Joint Property. – In valuing a partial interest in jointly owned property with rights of survivorship, there shall be no discount taken to reflect the decedent's partial interest including, but not limited to, discounts for lack of control, ownership of a fractional interest, or lack of marketability.

(c) Certain Powers of Appointment. – In valuing property over which the decedent held a presently exercisable general power of appointment, the value includes only the property subject to the power that passes at the decedent's death, whether by exercise, release, lapse, default, or otherwise.

(d) Certain Transfers With Retained Interests. – In valuing property transferred by the decedent with a retained right of possession or enjoyment or the right to income described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)e., only the fraction of the property to which the decedent retained a right shall be included. In valuing property in which the decedent created a power as described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)f., the value includes, with respect to a power, the value of the property subject to the power, and the amount included in the valuation with respect to a power over the income is the value of the property that produces or produced the income; provided, however, if the power is a power over both income and property and the foregoing produces different amounts, the amount included in the valuation is the greater amount.

(e) Partial or Contingent Interest Property. – The valuation of partial and contingent property interests, outright or in trust, which are limited to commence or terminate upon the death of one or more persons, upon the expiration of a period of time, or upon the occurrence of one or more contingencies, shall be determined by computations based upon the mortality and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, and by using a presumed rate of return of six percent (6%) of the value of the underlying property in which those interests are limited. However, in valuing partial and contingent interests passing to the surviving spouse, the following special rules apply:

(1) The value of the beneficial interest of a spouse shall be the entire fair market value of any property held in trust if the decedent was the settlor of the trust, if the trust is held for the exclusive benefit of the surviving spouse during the surviving spouse's lifetime, and if the terms of the trust meet the following requirements:

a. During the lifetime of the surviving spouse, the trust is controlled by one or more nonadverse trustees.

b. The trustee shall distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse either (i) the entire net income of the trust at least annually or (ii) the income of the trust in such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse.

c. The trustee shall distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse out of the principal of the trust such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse.

d. In exercising discretion, the trustee may be authorized or required to take into consideration all other income assets and other means of support available to the surviving spouse.

(2) To the extent that the partial or contingent interest is dependent upon the occurrence of any contingency that is not subject to the control of the surviving spouse and that is not subject to valuation by reference to the mortality and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, the contingency will be conclusively presumed to result in the lowest possible value passing to the surviving spouse. However, a life estate or income interest that will terminate upon the surviving spouse's death or remarriage will be valued without regard to the possibility of termination upon remarriage.

(3) To the extent that the valuation of a partial or contingent interest is dependent upon the life expectancy of the surviving spouse, that life expectancy shall be conclusively presumed to be no less than 10 years, regardless of the actual attained age of the surviving spouse at the decedent's death.

(f) Method for Determining Value. – Unless otherwise stated in this Article, the value of property shall be determined as follows:

(1) The value of property passing by intestacy described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)a. and Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, other than property held in a trust, shall be established by the good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and the personal representative, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is the personal representative or (ii) the clerk determines that the personal representative may not be able to represent the estate adversely to the surviving spouse, in which cases the value of such property shall be determined pursuant to subdivision (4) of this subsection.

(2) The value of property constituting an interest in a trust shall be established by good faith agreement of the surviving spouse, the personal representative, and the trustee, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is both the personal representative and the trustee or (ii) the clerk determines that the trustee or the personal representative may not be able to represent the trust or the estate, respectively, adversely to the surviving spouse, in which cases the value of such property shall be determined pursuant to subdivision (4) of this subsection.

(3) The value of all other property shall be established by the good faith agreement of the surviving spouse, the personal representative, and the responsible person that received, held, or controlled such property on the date used to determine the value of such property for purposes of determining total assets, unless the clerk determines that valuation under subdivision (4) of this subsection is more appropriate.

(4) If the value of any property is not established by agreement as provided above, the parties may present evidence regarding value, which may include expert testimony, and the clerk may appoint one or more qualified and disinterested persons to help determine the value of such property. After hearing, the clerk shall make a finding of fact of the value of each asset.

"§ 30-3.4. Procedure for determining the elective share.

(a) Exercisable Only During Lifetime. – The right of the surviving spouse to file a claim for an elective share must be exercised during the lifetime of the surviving spouse, by the surviving spouse, by the surviving spouse's ~~agent under a~~ attorney-in-fact if the surviving spouse's power of ~~attorney,~~ attorney expressly authorizes the attorney-in-fact to do so or to generally engage in estate transactions, ~~or~~ or, with approval of court, by the guardian of the surviving spouse's ~~estate.~~ estate or general guardian. If a surviving spouse dies before the claim for an elective share has been settled, the surviving spouse's personal representative shall succeed to the surviving spouse's rights to an elective share.

(b) Time Limitations. – A claim for an elective share must be made within six months after the issuance of letters testamentary or letters of administration in connection with the will or intestate proceeding with respect to which the surviving spouse claims the elective share by (i) filing a petition with the clerk of superior court of the county in which the primary administration of the decedent's estate lies, and (ii) mailing or delivering a copy of that petition to the personal representative of the decedent's estate. A surviving spouse's incapacity shall not toll the six-month period of limitations.

(c) Time for Hearing. – Unless waived by the personal representative and the surviving spouse, the clerk shall set the matter for hearing no earlier than two months and no later than six months after the filing of the petition. However, the clerk may extend the time of hearing as the clerk sees fit. The surviving spouse shall give notice of the hearing to the personal representative, and to any person described in G.S. 30-3.5 who may be required to contribute toward the satisfaction of the elective share.

~~(d) Preparation of Tax Form. – In every case in which a petition to determine an elective share has been filed, and within two months of the filing of the petition, the personal representative shall prepare and submit to the clerk a proposed Form 706, federal estate tax return, for the estate, regardless of whether that form is required to be filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The clerk may extend the time for submission of the proposed Form 706 as the clerk sees fit.~~

~~(e) Valuation. – The valuation of interests in property for purposes of G.S. 30-3.2 and G.S. 30-3.3 shall be determined as follows:~~

~~(1) Basic principles. – Each interest shall be valued at its fair market value, reduced by all liens, claims, or encumbrances against the interest. For interests passing at the decedent's death, valuation shall be as of the date of death, and for interests transferred during the decedent's lifetime, valuation shall be as of the date of transfer.~~

~~(2) Valuation of partial and contingent interests in property. – The valuation of interests in property, outright or in trust, which are limited to commence or terminate upon the death of one or more persons, upon the expiration of a period of time, or upon the occurrence of one or more contingencies, shall be determined by computations based upon the mortuary and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, and upon the basis of six percent (6%) of the gross value of the underlying property in which those interests are limited. However, in valuing interests passing to the surviving spouse, the following special rules apply:~~

~~b. To the extent that the interest is dependent upon the occurrence of any contingency that is not subject to the control of the surviving spouse and that is not subject to valuation by reference to the mortuary and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, the contingency will be conclusively presumed to result in the lowest possible value passing to the surviving spouse. However, a life estate or income interest that will terminate only upon the earlier of the surviving spouse's death or remarriage will be valued without regard to the possibility of termination upon remarriage; and~~

~~c. To the extent that the valuation of an interest is dependent upon the life expectancy of the surviving spouse, that life expectancy shall be conclusively presumed to be no less than 10 years, regardless of the actual attained age of the surviving spouse at the decedent's death.~~

~~(3) Determination of fair market value. – The fair market value of each asset comprising Total Net Assets shall be determined as follows:~~

~~a. Probate assets and assets passing to spouse. – The value of each probate asset and Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, other than~~

~~assets held in trust, shall be established by the good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and the personal representative, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is the personal representative, or (ii) the clerk determines that the personal representative may not be able to represent the estate adversely to the surviving spouse.~~

~~b. Trust assets. The value of each trust asset shall be established by good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and the trustee, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is the trustee, or (ii) the clerk determines that the trustee may not be able to represent the trust adversely to the surviving spouse.~~

~~c. Other assets. The value of any other asset shall be established by the good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and each person described in G.S. 30-3.5 who may be required to contribute toward the satisfaction of the elective share because of that person's interest in the asset, unless the clerk determines that valuation under sub-subdivision d. of this subdivision is more appropriate.~~

~~d. Use of disinterested persons. If the value of any asset is not established by agreement, the clerk shall appoint one or more qualified and disinterested persons to determine a value of each asset. That determination of the value of an asset shall be final for the exclusive purposes of this Article.~~

(d1) Mediation. – The clerk may order mediation as described in G.S. 7A-38.3B of any disputes in connection with an elective share proceeding.

(e1) Procedure. – An elective share proceeding shall be an estate matter and may be appealed pursuant to G.S. 1-301.3.

(e2) Information About Total Net Assets. – In order to assist the clerk in determining whether a surviving spouse is entitled to an elective share, and, if so, the amount thereof, the following provisions apply:

(1) Submission within two months. – In every case in which a petition to determine an elective share has been filed, within two months of the filing of the petition, the personal representative shall submit sufficient information about the total assets for the clerk to determine the elective share. To fulfill its obligation to provide information, the personal representative may prepare and submit to the clerk a proposed Form 706, United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return, for the estate, regardless of whether that form is required to be filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The clerk may extend the time for submission of the proposed Form 706 or other information as the clerk sees fit.

(2) Examination regarding assets. – If the personal representative, the surviving spouse, or a responsible person has reasonable grounds to believe that any person has a claim or has in its possession assets included in Total Net Assets, then the personal representative, surviving spouse, or responsible person may use the procedures set out in G.S. 28A-15-12 to cause the clerk to examine the person believed to have a claim or to possess assets included in Total Net Assets.

(f) Findings and Conclusions. – After notice and hearing, the clerk shall determine whether or not the surviving spouse is entitled to an elective share, and if so, the clerk shall then determine the elective share and shall order the personal representative to transfer that amount to the surviving spouse. The clerk's order shall recite specific findings of fact and conclusions of law in arriving at the decedent's Total Net Assets, Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, and the elective share.

~~(g) Appeals. Any party in interest may appeal from the decision of the clerk to the superior court. If an appeal is taken from the decision of the clerk, that appeal shall have the effect of staying the judgment and order of the clerk until the cause is heard and determined by the superior court upon the appeal taken. Upon an appeal taken from the clerk to the superior court, the judge may review the findings of fact by the clerk and may find the facts or take other evidence, but the facts found by the judge shall be final and conclusive upon any appeal to the Appellate Division.~~

(h) Expenses. – The expenses (including attorneys' fees) reasonably incurred by the personal representative, other responsible persons, and the surviving spouse in connection with elective share proceedings shall be equitably apportioned by the clerk of court in the clerk's discretion among the personal representative, other responsible persons, and the surviving spouse. Each responsible person shall pay its apportioned expenses to the personal representative in cash.

"§ 30-3.5. ~~Recovery of assets by personal representative.~~ Satisfaction of elective share.

~~(a) Recovery of Assets. The personal representative is entitled to recover proportionately from all persons, other than the surviving spouse, receiving or in possession of any of the decedent's Total Net Assets a sufficient amount to enable the personal representative to pay the elective share. The apportionment shall be made in the proportion that the value of the interest of each person receiving or in possession of any of Total Net Assets bears to Total Net Assets, excluding any Property Passing to Surviving Spouse. The only persons subject to contribution to make up the elective share are (i) original recipients of property comprising the decedent's Total Net Assets, and subsequent gratuitous inter vivos donees or persons claiming by testate or intestate succession to the extent those persons have the property or its proceeds on or after the date of decedent's death, and (ii) a fiduciary, as to the property under the fiduciary's control at or after the time a fiduciary receives notice that a surviving spouse has claimed an elective share. A fiduciary shall not be considered to have notice until it receives notice at its address as shown in the decedent's estate papers in the clerk's office or, if there are no such papers or no such address is shown in those papers, at the fiduciary's residence or the office of its registered agent.~~

~~The personal representative may withhold from any property of the decedent in his possession, distributable to any person subject to apportionment, the amount of the elective share apportioned to such person. If the property in possession of the personal representative and distributable to any person subject to apportionment is insufficient to satisfy the proportionate amount of the elective share determined to be due from that person, the personal representative may recover the deficiency from that person. If the property is not in possession of the personal representative, the personal representative may recover from the person the amount of the elective share apportioned to that person in accordance with this Article. If the personal representative cannot reasonably collect from any person subject to apportionment the amount of the elective share apportioned to that person, the amount not reasonably recoverable shall, with the approval of the clerk, be apportioned among the other persons who are subject to apportionment. The apportionment shall be made in the proportion that the value of the interest of each remaining person bears to the total value of the interests of all remaining persons.~~

(a1) Apportionment. – The personal representative shall determine each responsible person's liability to the surviving spouse by multiplying the value of the elective share by a fraction, the numerator of which is the value of the responsible person's nonspousal assets and the denominator of which is the total value of all of the nonspousal assets included in Total Net Assets.

(a2) Recovery From Responsible Persons. – As a responsible person, the personal representative shall satisfy its liability for payment of the elective share out of the decedent's estate's nonspousal assets using first the nonspousal assets in the decedent's residuary estate. If the nonspousal assets in the residuary estate are not sufficient, the personal representative shall reduce each other responsible person's share of the nonspousal assets proportionately based on the values used in determining the Total Net Assets. The personal representative shall recover from each other responsible person the responsible person's liability for the payment of the elective share. Each responsible person, including the decedent's personal representative, may elect to satisfy its liability in full by any of the following methods:

(1) Conveyance of that portion of the responsible person's nonspousal assets (or identical substitute assets), valued on the date of conveyance, sufficient to satisfy the responsible person's liability; or, if the value of the responsible person's nonspousal assets on the date of conveyance is less than the responsible person's liability, conveyance of all of the responsible person's nonspousal assets (or identical substitute assets).

(2) Payment of the liability in cash.

(3) Payment of the liability in other property upon written agreement of the surviving spouse at values agreed by the surviving spouse for purposes of determining the extent of the liability satisfied.

(4) Any combination of the payment methods set forth under subdivisions (2) through (4) of this subsection, provided that the total value of assets conveyed by the responsible person equals such responsible person's liability.

(a3) Inability or Refusal to Pay. – The personal representative shall be entitled to petition the clerk of court for an order requiring any responsible person to satisfy its liability. Upon refusal of a responsible person to obey such an order, the personal representative shall be entitled to a judgment against such responsible person in the amount of the liability and to any other remedies the clerk deems appropriate. Although the responsible person shall remain primarily liable for such responsible person's liability for the elective share, the following rules apply:

(1) If the responsible person makes a gratuitous transfer, whether inter vivos or by testate or intestate succession, of all or any part of the responsible person's nonspousal assets or the proceeds thereof after the decedent's death, then the gratuitous transferee shall be liable for the amount transferred, and the personal representative shall be entitled to recover that amount from the transferee as if the transferee were the responsible person.

(2) If the responsible person is a fiduciary and makes a distribution of all or any part of the responsible person's nonspousal assets or the proceeds thereof after the decedent's death, then the distributee shall be liable for the amount transferred, and the personal representative shall be entitled to recover that amount from the distributee as if the distributee were the responsible person.

If, after exhausting all other remedies in this section, the personal representative cannot reasonably recover a responsible person's liability, then, with the approval of the clerk, the defaulting responsible person's liability shall be apportioned on a pro rata basis among the responsible persons who have not defaulted. Each nondefaulting other responsible person shall be liable for the amount of the liability apportioned to it in the same manner and to the same extent as its original liability for the elective share; provided, that each responsible person's liability shall not exceed the responsible person's proportionate share of the value of the nonspousal assets based on the values used in determining Total Net Assets. Each nondefaulting other responsible person shall be entitled to a proportionate share of any judgment against or subsequent recovery of the liability from the defaulting responsible person.

(b) Standstill Order. – After the filing of the petition demanding an elective share, ~~either the personal representative or surviving spouse~~ the personal representative, surviving spouse, or any responsible person may request the clerk to issue an order that any ~~recipients~~ responsible person not dispose of ~~any~~ all or a portion of the decedent's Total Net Assets or the proceeds thereof pending the ~~hearing.~~ payment of the elective share. The decision to issue such an order shall be in the discretion of the clerk. A person who violates the standstill order may be held in civil contempt of court pursuant to Article 5A of Chapter 2 of the General Statutes. The clerk shall enter an order terminating the standstill order upon the clerk's determination that the standstill order is no longer necessary or desirable.

~~(c) Satisfaction of Liability. A person receiving or in possession of any of the decedent's Total Net Assets may pay his proportionate elective share liability with respect to that property by any of the following methods:~~

~~(1) Conveyance of the property included in the decedent's Total Net Assets;~~

~~(2) Payment of the value of his liability in cash or, upon agreement of the surviving spouse, other property; or~~

~~(3) Partial conveyance and partial payment under subdivisions (1) and (2) of this subsection, provided the value conveyed and paid is equal to his liability.~~

~~(d) Expenses. The expenses reasonably incurred by the personal representative in connection with the appraisal or recovery of assets shall be apportioned as provided for the elective share under this Article. If the personal representative finds that it is inequitable to apportion the expenses because those expenses were incurred because of the fault of one or more persons subject to apportionment, the personal representative may direct other more equitable apportionment, with the approval of the clerk.~~

(e) Bond. – ~~If property held by the personal representative is distributed~~ If a responsible person distributes or disposes of nonspousal assets prior to final apportionment of the elective ~~share,~~ share and expenses, the personal representative may require the ~~distributee~~ responsible person or the transferee to provide a bond or other security for the ~~apportionment~~ responsible person's liability for payment of the elective share and apportioned expenses in the form and amount prescribed by the personal representative, with the approval of the clerk.

"§ 30-3.6. Waiver of rights.

(a) The right of a surviving spouse to claim an elective share may be waived, wholly or partially, before or after marriage, with or without consideration, by a written waiver signed by the surviving ~~spouse.~~ spouse, by the surviving spouse's attorney-in-fact if the surviving spouse's power of attorney expressly authorizes the attorney-in-fact to do so or to generally engage in estate transactions, or, with approval of court, by the guardian of the surviving spouse's estate or general guardian.

(b) A waiver is not enforceable if the surviving spouse proves that:

(1) The waiver was not executed voluntarily; or

(2) The surviving spouse or the surviving spouse's representative making the waiver was not provided a fair and reasonable disclosure of the property and financial obligations of the decedent, unless the surviving spouse waived, in writing, the right to that disclosure.

(c) A written waiver that would have been effective to waive a spouse's right to dissent in estates of decedents dying on or before December 31, 2000, under Article 1 of Chapter 30 of the General Statutes is effective to waive that spouse's right of elective share under this Article for estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 2001."

SECTION 2. This act is effective when it becomes law and applies to decedents dying on or after October 1, 2009.

HOUSE BILL 765:
Revise Elective Share Statutes

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 8, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Stam	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Second Edition H765-PCS80458

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute for House Bill 765 rewrites Article 1A of Chapter 30 of the General Statutes governing a surviving spouse's elective share.

The bill is a recommendation of the Estate Planning Section of the North Carolina State Bar.

BACKGROUND: Under North Carolina law, a surviving spouse is entitled to a minimum share of their deceased spouse's estate regardless of the provisions, if any, of the deceased spouse's will. The minimum share is one-half of the surviving spouse's net assets if the decedent is survived by no lineal descendants or no more than one lineal descendants and one-third of the assets if decedent is survived by two or more children. The purpose of the elective share is to prevent a spouse from disinheriting a surviving spouse.

BILL ANALYSIS: The Proposed Committee Substitute makes changes to each section of Article 1A. An overview of the changes to each section is set out below.

G.S. 30-3.1. Right to Elective Share

Subsection (b) is changed to allow for the consideration of lineal descendants whether or not those descendants are the children of a prior marriage.

In addition to technical changes, subsection (c) governing the treatment and computation of death taxes is deleted. This language is now included in the definition section in the new definition of claims.

G.S. 30-3.2. Definitions

This section was changed to include computational language or calculations where appropriate, leaving primarily procedural language in the other sections.

New definitions include:

- "Claims" -- The current definition of "total net assets" (p.6, line 38) provides for the payment of funeral expenses, debts and other claims. The new definition of claims clarifies what is considered a claim against a decedent's estate and exempts from claims the following: (1) a claim for equitable distribution awarded subsequent to the decedent's death; (2) death taxes; and (3) claims not supported by adequate consideration, all of which are exempted under current law.
- "General Power of Appointment" -- This term is referenced in the new definition of "total assets" (p.3, line 48). The purpose of the new definition, coupled with the definition of total assets, is to include in total assets that property or interest over which the decedent retains control by a general power of appointment.
- "Net Property Passing to Surviving Spouse" – This term is added to include in the definitions the calculation under existing language as intended in the current G.S. 30-3.3 which is repealed by the bill (page 6, line 40).

- "Nonspousal Assets" – This term is used in new language in G.S. 30-3.5 (p. 12, line 44). The personal representative may recover non-spousal assets from a responsible person if the property is part of the decedent's total net assets.
- "Property Passing to the Surviving Spouse" – This definition is added and is substantially the same as language currently in G.S. 30-3.3 which is repealed by the bill. Again, the language is primarily used to compute the elective share and, as such, is being placed in the definitions.
- "Responsible person" and "Responsible Person's Non-spousal Assets" – These terms are used in new language in G.S. 30-3.5. Non-spousal assets may be recovered from responsible persons if the property is a part of the decedent's total net assets.
- "Total Assets" – This term is added and the definition is primarily based on language originally found in the definition of "Total Net Assets" included in a decedent's estate (p. 5, line 47) which is deleted by the bill. Again, the language is primarily a calculation or computation to determine the elective share. The language is expanded from the original language to provide clarification and divides property into the following categories:
    1. Property that would pass by intestate succession. (sub-subdivision a)
    2. Property over which the decedent held a general power of appointment including property held in revocable trusts, or a trust in which the decedent had the power to withdraw property, bank accounts, and stocks. (sub-subdivision b)
    3. Property held by joint tenancy. (sub-subdivision c)
    4. Beneficiary property including life insurance (not specified under current law), death benefits, annuities, IRAs, pensions, and retirement plans. (sub-subdivision d)
    5. Irrevocable transfers to the extent the decedent retained possession or enjoyment or income from the property. (sub-subdivision e)
    6. Property transferred with and to the extent of a power that could be exercised by the decedent with someone else. (sub-subdivision f)
    7. Gifts made one year preceding death (currently 6 months) (sub-subdivision g)

    For 5, 6, and 7 above, property transferred for full and adequate consideration or with the written consent of the surviving spouse are not include in total assets. In addition, for 5 and 6 above, transfers which are irrevocable and made before the decedent's marriage to the surviving spouse are not included. This language is new. Also, for 7 above, gifts that qualify for exclusion from gift tax ($13,000 or less) are not included.
- "Total Net Assets" – This definition is new and is based on total assets less funeral expenses, administration expenses, and claims.

G.S. 30-3.3. Property passing to surviving spouse.

This section is repealed. Provisions governing property passing to surviving spouse are now included in the definition in G.S. 30-3.2(3c) (p. 3, line 11).

G.S. 30-3.3A Valuation of Property. (new section added)

The valuation of property is currently addressed in G.S. 30-3.4(e) (p. 10, line 16) which is repealed by the bill.

Subsection (a) is based on the current language and provides that the value of the property shall be the fair market value at the time of death except for: (1) gifts made to person other than the surviving spouse and (2) gifts made to the surviving spouse that is not held in trust, not life insurance, or other form of ownership that passes to the surviving spouse on the decedent's death. For these transfers, the value is determined as of the date of transfer, unless the property is disposed of and the donee proves that the value prior to death is less than the value on the date of transfer.

Other provisions include the following:

- For joint property with right of survivorship, there shall be no discount taken to reflect the decedent's partial interest (subsection (b)).
- For property subject to power of appointment, value shall be only for the property subject to the power (subsection (c)).
- For transfers with a sole or shared retained right of possession or enjoyment, values shall be only for the property subject to the power (subsection (d)).
- For partial or contingent property interests commencing or terminating on the death of one or more persons, value is based on the statutory mortality and annuity tables. (subsection (e)). Special rules under the current law for contingent interests passing to the surviving spouse are included in this subsection. (repealed under current law on p. 7, line 16).

Subsection (f) provides that the method for determining fair market value can be by good faith agreement of, as applicable: (1) the surviving spouse and the personal representative for property passing by intestacy; (2) in the case of a trust, the personal representative, surviving spouse, and trustee; (3) the personal representative, surviving spouse, and the responsible person, for property held by a responsible person. If an agreement cannot be reached, the parties may present evidence to the clerk who shall determine the fair market value. This language is based on language deleted from the current G.S. 30-3.4(e)(3) (p. 10, line 17).

Subsection (f) adds new language requiring the clerk to make findings of fact from which the parties may appeal to the superior court.

G.S. 30-3.4. Procedure for determining the elective share

Subsection (a) adds language to (1) require a power of attorney to specifically authorize the attorney-in-fact to exercise the right to file for an elective share or to engage in estate transactions and (2) to require a general guardian or guardian of the estate to obtain court approval before filing for an elective share.

Subsection (d) requiring the preparation of a tax return within two months of filing a petition for elective share is repealed. This language is deleted because some estates or property within the estate aren't taxable. Under new language set out in subsection (e2)(1) of this section, the personal representative may file a return to assist the clerk in determining whether the spouse is entitled to an elective share.

Subsection (e) governing valuation is deleted in light of new language included in G.S. 30-3.3 discussed above.

Subsection (d1) is new and adds language authorizing the clerk to order mediation of disputes in connection with elective share claims.

Subsection (e1) is new and adds language authorizing appeal of an elective share claim as an estate matter under G.S.1-301.3. Under G.S. 1-301.3, a superior court judge may only consider whether the

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO REVISE THE EXISTING ELECTIVE SHARE STATUTES.

SECTION 1. Article 1A of Chapter 30 of the General Statutes reads as rewritten:

"Article 1A.

"Elective Share.

"§ 30-3.1. Right of elective share.

(a) Elective Share. – The surviving spouse of a decedent who dies domiciled in this State has a right to claim an "elective share", which means an amount equal to (i) the applicable share of the Total Net Assets, as defined in G.S. 30-3.2(4), less (ii) the value of Net Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, as defined in ~~G.S. 30-3.3(a).~~G.S. 30-3.2(2c). The applicable share of the Total Net Assets is as follows:

(1) If the decedent is not survived by any lineal descendants, one-half of the Total Net Assets.

(2) If the decedent is survived by one child, or lineal descendants of one deceased child, one-half of the Total Net Assets.

(3) If the decedent is survived by two or more children, or by one or more children and the lineal descendants of one or more deceased children, or by the lineal descendants of two or more deceased children, one-third of the Total Net Assets.

(b) Reduction of Applicable Share. – In those cases in which the surviving spouse is a second or successive spouse, and the decedent has one or more lineal descendants ~~surviving by a prior marriage~~ surviving who are not lineal descendants of the decedent's marriage to the surviving spouse but there are no lineal descendants surviving by the surviving spouse, the applicable share as determined in subsection (a) of this section shall be reduced by one-half.

~~(c) Death Taxes. Death taxes shall be taken into account as a claim against the estate in determining Total Net Assets only to the extent that the assets received by the surviving spouse do not qualify for the federal estate tax marital deduction pursuant to section 2056 of the Code or similar provisions under the laws of any other applicable taxing jurisdiction. The amount of such claims shall equal the difference between the amount of such death taxes as finally determined and the amount such death taxes would have been if all assets received by the surviving spouse had qualified for the federal estate tax marital deduction pursuant to~~

~~section 2056 of the Code and similar provisions under the laws of any other applicable taxing jurisdictions.~~

"§ 30-3.2. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

a. A claim for equitable distribution of property pursuant to G.S. 50-20 awarded subsequent to the death of the decedent.

b. Death taxes, except for those death taxes attributable to Property Passing to the Surviving Spouse. "Death taxes attributable to Property Passing to the Surviving Spouse" equals the amount of decedent's death taxes as finally determined, less the amount such death taxes would have been if all Property Passing to the Surviving Spouse had qualified for the federal estate tax marital deduction pursuant to section 2056 of the Code or had qualified for a similar provision under the laws of another applicable taxing jurisdiction.

c. A claim founded on a promise or agreement of the decedent, to the extent such claim is not arm's length or is not supported by full or adequate consideration in money or money's worth.

d. Expenses apportioned by the clerk of court under G.S. 30-3.4(h).

In no event shall a power held by the decedent as attorney-in-fact under a power of attorney be considered a general power of appointment.

f. Property awarded to the surviving spouse, subsequent to the death of the decedent, pursuant to an equitable distribution claim under G.S. 50-20.

Property over which the decedent, immediately before death, held a presently exercisable general power of appointment, except for (i) property held jointly with right of survivorship, which is includable in total assets only to the extent provided in sub-subdivision c. of this subdivision and (ii) life insurance, which is includable in Total Assets only to the extent provided in sub-subdivision d. of this subdivision. Includes, without limitation:
   1. Property held in a trust that the decedent could revoke.
   2. Property held in a trust to the extent that the decedent had an unrestricted power to withdraw the property.
   3. Property held in a depository account owned by the decedent in a financial institution payable or transferable at decedent's death to a beneficiary designated by the decedent.
   4. Securities owned by the decedent in an account or in certificated form that are payable or transferable at decedent's death to a beneficiary designated by the decedent.

c. Property held as tenants by the entirety or jointly with right of survivorship as follows:
   1. One-half of any property held by the decedent and the surviving spouse as tenants by the entirety or as joint tenants with right of survivorship is included, without regard to who contributed the property.
   2. Property held by the decedent and one or more other persons other than the surviving spouse as joint tenants with right of survivorship is included to the following extent:
      I. All property attributable to the decedent's contribution.
      II. The decedent's pro rata share of property not attributable to the decedent's contribution, except to the extent of property attributable to contributions by a surviving joint tenant.

      The decedent is presumed to have contributed the jointly owned property unless contribution by another is proven by clear and convincing evidence.

d. Benefits payable by reason of the decedent's death under any policy, plan, contract, or other arrangement, either owned by the decedent or over which the decedent had a general power of appointment or had the power to designate the surviving spouse as beneficiary, including, without limitation:
   1. Insurance on the life of the decedent.
   2. Accidental death benefits.
   3. Annuities.
   4. Employee benefits or similar arrangements.
   5. Individual retirement accounts.
   6. Pension or profit sharing plans.
   7. Deferred compensation.
   8. Any private or governmental retirement plan.

e. Property irrevocably transferred by the decedent to the extent the decedent retained the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to income from, the property for life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to the decedent's death or for any period that does not in fact end before the decedent's death, except:

1. Property transferred for full and adequate consideration.
2. Transfers to that the surviving spouse consented in writing by signing a deed, an income or gift tax return that reports the gift, or other writing.
3. Transfers that became irrevocable before the decedent's marriage to the surviving spouse.

The property included in total assets is that fraction of the transferred property to which the decedent retained the right.

f. Property transferred by the decedent to the extent the decedent created a power over the property or the income from the property, which, immediately prior to death, could be exercised by the decedent in conjunction with any other person, or which could be exercised by a person who does not have a substantial interest that would be adversely affected by the exercise or nonexercise of the power, for the benefit of the decedent, the decedent's estate, the decedent's creditors, or the creditors of the decedent's estate, except:

1. Property transferred for full and adequate consideration.
2. Transfers to which the surviving spouse consented in writing by signing a deed, an income or gift tax return that reports the gift, or other writing.
3. Transfers which became irrevocable before the decedent's marriage to the surviving spouse.

The property included in total assets with respect to a power over property is that fraction of the property to which the power related.

g. Property transferred by the decedent to persons other than the surviving spouse if such transfer was made both during the one-year period immediately preceding the decedent's death and during the decedent's marriage to the surviving spouse, except:

1. Property transferred for full and adequate consideration.
2. Transfers to which the surviving spouse consented in writing by signing a deed, an income or gift tax return that reports such gift, or other writing.
3. That part of any property transferred to any one transferee that qualified for exclusion from gift tax under section 2503 of the Code.

For purposes of this sub-subdivision, the termination of a right or interest in, or power over, property that would have been included in the total assets under sub-subdivisions b., e., or f. of this subdivision if the right, interest, or power had not terminated until the decedent's death shall be deemed to be a transfer of such property. Termination occurs when, with respect to a right or interest in property, the decedent transfers or relinquishes the right or interest; with respect to a power over property, the power terminates by exercise or release, but not by lapse or default.

If property falls under more than one sub-subdivision of this subdivision, then the property shall be included only once, but under the sub-subdivision yielding the greatest value of the property.

"~~§ 30-3.3. Property passing to surviving spouse.~~

~~(a) Property Passing to Surviving Spouse. For purposes of this Article, "Property Passing to Surviving Spouse" means the sum of the following:~~

~~(1) One-half of the value of any interest in property held by the decedent and the surviving spouse as tenants by the entirety or as joint tenants with rights of survivorship;~~

~~(2) The value of any interest in property (outright or in trust, including any interest subject to a general power of appointment held by the surviving spouse, as defined in section 2041 of the Code) devised by the decedent to the surviving spouse, or which passes to the surviving spouse by intestacy, or by beneficiary designation, or by exercise of or in default of the exercise of the decedent's testamentary general or limited power of appointment, or~~

~~by operation of law or otherwise by reason of the decedent's death, excluding any benefits under the federal social security system;~~

~~(3) Any year's allowance awarded to the surviving spouse;~~

~~(4) The value of any property renounced by the surviving spouse;~~

~~(5) The value of the surviving spouse's interest, outright or in trust, in any life insurance proceeds on the life of the decedent;~~

~~(6) The value of any interest in property, outright or in trust, transferred from the decedent to the surviving spouse during the lifetime of decedent for which (i) a gift tax return is timely filed reporting such gift, or (ii) the surviving spouse signs a statement acknowledging such a gift. For purposes of this subdivision, any gift to the surviving spouse by the decedent of the decedent's interest in any property held by the decedent and the surviving spouse as tenants by the entirety or as joint tenants with right of survivorship shall be valued at one-half of the entire value of that interest in property at the time the gift is made;~~

~~(7) Notwithstanding any other provision of law related to valuing a partial interest in property, the entire fair market value of any property held in trust for the exclusive benefit of the surviving spouse during the surviving spouse's lifetime, if the terms of the trust meet the following requirements:~~

~~a. During the lifetime of the surviving spouse, the trust is controlled by one or more Nonadverse Trustees;~~

~~b. The trustee is required to distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse either (i) the entire net income of the trust at least annually; or (ii) the income of the trust in such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse;~~

~~c. The trustee is required to distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse out of the principal of the trust such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse; and~~

~~In exercising discretion, the trustee may be authorized or required to take into consideration all other income, assets, and other means of support as are available to the surviving spouse; and~~

~~(8) The net value of the marital estate awarded to the surviving spouse pursuant to G.S. 50-20 subsequent to the death of the decedent.~~

~~(b) Death Taxes. The value of Property Passing to Surviving Spouse shall be reduced by any death taxes that are a charge against or apportioned against the surviving spouse on property interests included in Property Passing to Surviving Spouse.~~

~~(c) No Duplication. In case of overlapping application of the same property under more than one provision, the property shall be included only once, under the provision yielding the greatest value.~~

"§ 30-3.3A. Valuation of property.

(a) Basic Principles. – Unless otherwise expressly stated to the contrary in this section, the value of property shall be that property's fair market value, taking into consideration any applicable discounts. The value shall be determined as of the date of death, except for (i) property transferred to persons other than the surviving spouse described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)g. and (ii) property transferred to the surviving spouse described in G.S. 30-3.2(3c)e. that is not held in trust, that is not life insurance, and that is not held as tenants by the entirety or some other form of ownership that passes to the surviving spouse by reason of survivorship. The value of gift property described in clauses (i) and (ii) shall be determined as the value on the date of transfer; but if the donee proves to the satisfaction of the clerk that the value on the date of disposal of the asset prior to the decedent's death is less than on the original date of transfer or that the value on the date of death is less than on the original date of transfer, then the lesser value shall be used.

(b) Certain Joint Property. – In valuing a partial interest in jointly owned property with right of survivorship, there shall be no discount taken to reflect the decedent's partial interest including, but not limited to, discounts for lack of control, ownership of a fractional interest, or lack of marketability.

(c) Certain Powers of Appointment. – In valuing property over which the decedent held a presently exercisable general power of appointment, the value includes only the property subject to the power that passes at the decedent's death, whether by exercise, release, lapse, default, or otherwise.

(d) Certain Transfers With Retained Interests. – In valuing property transferred by the decedent with a retained right of possession or enjoyment or the right to income described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)e., only the fraction of the property to which the decedent retained a right shall be included. In valuing property in which the decedent created a power as described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)f., the value includes, with respect to a power, the value of the property subject to the power, and the amount included in the valuation with respect to a power over the income is the value of the property that produces or produced the income; provided, however, if the power is a power over both income and property and the foregoing produces different amounts, the amount included in the valuation is the greater amount.

(e) Partial or Contingent Interest Property. – The valuation of partial and contingent property interests, outright or in trust, which are limited to commence or terminate upon the death of one or more persons, upon the expiration of a period of time, or upon the occurrence of one or more contingencies, shall be determined by computations based upon the mortality and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, and by using a presumed rate of return of six percent (6%) of the value of the underlying property in which those interests are limited. However, in valuing partial and contingent interests passing to the surviving spouse, the following special rules apply:

(1) The value of the beneficial interest of a spouse shall be the entire fair market value of any property held in trust if the decedent was the settlor of the trust, if the trust is held for the exclusive benefit of the surviving spouse during the surviving spouse's lifetime, and if the terms of the trust meet the following requirements:

a. During the lifetime of the surviving spouse, the trust is controlled by one or more nonadverse trustees.

b. The trustee shall distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse either (i) the entire net income of the trust at least annually or (ii) the income of the trust in such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse.

c. The trustee shall distribute to or for the benefit of the surviving spouse out of the principal of the trust such amounts and at such times as the trustee, in its discretion, determines necessary for the health, maintenance, and support of the surviving spouse.

d. In exercising discretion, the trustee may be authorized or required to take into consideration all other income assets and other means of support available to the surviving spouse.

(2) To the extent that the partial or contingent interest is dependent upon the occurrence of any contingency that is not subject to the control of the surviving spouse and that is not subject to valuation by reference to the mortality and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, the contingency will be conclusively presumed to result in the lowest possible value passing to the surviving spouse. However, a life estate or income interest that will terminate upon the surviving spouse's death or remarriage will be valued without regard to the possibility of termination upon remarriage.

(3) To the extent that the valuation of a partial or contingent interest is dependent upon the life expectancy of the surviving spouse, that life expectancy shall be conclusively presumed to be no less than 10 years, regardless of the actual attained age of the surviving spouse at the decedent's death.

(f) Method for Determining Value. – Unless otherwise stated in this Article, the value of property shall be determined as follows:

(1) The value of property passing by intestacy described in G.S. 30-3.2(3f)a. and Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, other than property held in a trust, shall be established by the good-faith agreement of the surviving spouse and the personal representative, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is the personal representative or (ii) the clerk determines that the personal representative may not be able to represent the estate adversely to the surviving spouse, in which cases the value of such property shall be determined pursuant to subdivision (4) of this subsection.

(2) The value of property constituting an interest in a trust shall be established by good-faith agreement of the surviving spouse, the personal representative, and the trustee, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is both the personal representative and the trustee or (ii) the clerk determines that the trustee or the personal representative may not be able to represent the trust or the estate, respectively, adversely to the surviving spouse, in which cases the value of such property shall be determined pursuant to subdivision (4) of this subsection.

(3) The value of all other property shall be established by the good-faith agreement of the surviving spouse, the personal representative, and the responsible person that received, held, or controlled such property on the date used to determine the value of such property for purposes of determining total assets, unless the clerk determines that valuation under subdivision (4) of this subsection is more appropriate.

(4) If the value of any property is not established by agreement as provided above, the parties may present evidence regarding value, which may include expert testimony, and the clerk may appoint one or more qualified and disinterested persons to help determine the value of such property. After hearing, the clerk shall make a finding of fact of the value of each asset.

"§ 30-3.4. Procedure for determining the elective share.

(a) Exercisable Only During Lifetime. – The right of the surviving spouse to file a claim for an elective share must be exercised during the lifetime of the surviving spouse, by the surviving spouse, by the surviving spouse's ~~agent under a~~ attorney-in-fact if the surviving spouse's power of ~~attorney,~~ attorney expressly authorizes the attorney-in-fact to do so or to generally engage in estate transactions, ~~or~~ or, with approval of court, by the guardian of the surviving spouse's ~~estate.~~ estate or general guardian. If a surviving spouse dies before the claim for an elective share has been settled, the surviving spouse's personal representative shall succeed to the surviving spouse's rights to an elective share.

(b) Time Limitations. – A claim for an elective share must be made within six months after the issuance of letters testamentary or letters of administration in connection with the will or intestate proceeding with respect to which the surviving spouse claims the elective share by

(i) filing a petition with the clerk of superior court of the county in which the primary administration of the decedent's estate lies, and (ii) mailing or delivering a copy of that petition to the personal representative of the decedent's estate. A surviving spouse's incapacity shall not toll the six-month period of limitations.

(c) Time for Hearing. – Unless waived by the personal representative and the surviving spouse, the clerk shall set the matter for hearing no earlier than two months and no later than six months after the filing of the petition. However, the clerk may extend the time of hearing as the clerk sees fit. The surviving spouse shall give notice of the hearing to the personal representative, and to any person described in G.S. 30-3.5 who may be required to contribute toward the satisfaction of the elective share.

~~(d) Preparation of Tax Form. – In every case in which a petition to determine an elective share has been filed, and within two months of the filing of the petition, the personal representative shall prepare and submit to the clerk a proposed Form 706, federal estate tax return, for the estate, regardless of whether that form is required to be filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The clerk may extend the time for submission of the proposed Form 706 as the clerk sees fit.~~

~~(e) Valuation. – The valuation of interests in property for purposes of G.S. 30-3.2 and G.S. 30-3.3 shall be determined as follows:~~

~~(1) Basic principles. – Each interest shall be valued at its fair market value, reduced by all liens, claims, or encumbrances against the interest. For interests passing at the decedent's death, valuation shall be as of the date of death, and for interests transferred during the decedent's lifetime, valuation shall be as of the date of transfer.~~

~~(2) Valuation of partial and contingent interests in property. – The valuation of interests in property, outright or in trust, which are limited to commence or terminate upon the death of one or more persons, upon the expiration of a period of time, or upon the occurrence of one or more contingencies, shall be determined by computations based upon the mortuary and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, and upon the basis of six percent (6%) of the gross value of the underlying property in which those interests are limited. However, in valuing interests passing to the surviving spouse, the following special rules apply:~~

~~b. To the extent that the interest is dependent upon the occurrence of any contingency that is not subject to the control of the surviving spouse and that is not subject to valuation by reference to the mortuary and annuity tables set forth in G.S. 8-46 and G.S. 8-47, the contingency will be conclusively presumed to result in the lowest possible value passing to the surviving spouse. However, a life estate or income interest that will terminate only upon the earlier of the surviving spouse's death or remarriage will be valued without regard to the possibility of termination upon remarriage; and~~

~~c. To the extent that the valuation of an interest is dependent upon the life expectancy of the surviving spouse, that life expectancy shall be conclusively presumed to be no less than 10 years, regardless of the actual attained age of the surviving spouse at the decedent's death.~~

~~a. Probate assets and assets passing to spouse. The value of each probate asset and Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, other than assets held in trust, shall be established by the good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and the personal representative, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is the personal representative, or (ii) the clerk determines that the personal representative may not be able to represent the estate adversely to the surviving spouse.~~

~~b. Trust assets. The value of each trust asset shall be established by good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and the trustee, unless either (i) the surviving spouse is the trustee, or (ii) the clerk determines that the trustee may not be able to represent the trust adversely to the surviving spouse.~~

~~c. Other assets. The value of any other asset shall be established by the good faith agreement of the surviving spouse and each person described in G.S. 30-3.5 who may be required to contribute toward the satisfaction of the elective share because of that person's interest in the asset, unless the clerk determines that valuation under sub-subdivision d. of this subdivision is more appropriate.~~

~~d. Use of disinterested persons. If the value of any asset is not established by agreement, the clerk shall appoint one or more qualified and disinterested persons to determine a value of each asset. That determination of the value of an asset shall be final for the exclusive purposes of this Article.~~

(d1) Mediation. – The clerk may order mediation as described in G.S. 7A-38.3B of any disputes in connection with an elective share proceeding.

(e1) Procedure. – An elective share proceeding shall be an estate matter and may be appealed pursuant to G.S. 1-301.3.

(e2) Information About Total Net Assets. – In order to assist the clerk in determining whether a surviving spouse is entitled to an elective share, and, if so, the amount thereof, the following provisions apply:

(1) Submission within two months. – In every case in which a petition to determine an elective share has been filed, within two months of the filing of the petition, the personal representative shall submit sufficient information about the total assets for the clerk to determine the elective share. To fulfill its obligation to provide information, the personal representative may prepare and submit to the clerk a proposed Form 706, United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return, for the estate, regardless of whether that form is required to be filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The clerk may extend the time for submission of the proposed Form 706 or other information as the clerk sees fit.

(2) Examination regarding assets. – If the personal representative, the surviving spouse, or a responsible person has reasonable grounds to believe that any person has a claim or has in its possession assets included in Total Net Assets, then the personal representative, surviving spouse, or responsible person may use the procedures set out in G.S. 28A-15-12 to cause the clerk to examine the person believed to have a claim or to possess assets included in Total Net Assets.

(f) Findings and Conclusions. – After notice and hearing, the clerk shall determine whether or not the surviving spouse is entitled to an elective share, and if so, the clerk shall then determine the elective share and shall order the personal representative to transfer that amount to the surviving spouse. The clerk's order shall recite specific findings of fact and conclusions of law in arriving at the decedent's Total Net Assets, Property Passing to Surviving Spouse, and the elective share.

~~(g) Appeals. – Any party in interest may appeal from the decision of the clerk to the superior court. If an appeal is taken from the decision of the clerk, that appeal shall have the effect of staying the judgment and order of the clerk until the cause is heard and determined by the superior court upon the appeal taken. Upon an appeal taken from the clerk to the superior court, the judge may review the findings of fact by the clerk and may find the facts or take other evidence, but the facts found by the judge shall be final and conclusive upon any appeal to the Appellate Division.~~

(h) Expenses. – The expenses (including attorneys' fees) reasonably incurred by the personal representative, other responsible persons, and the surviving spouse in connection with elective share proceedings shall be equitably apportioned by the clerk of court in the clerk's discretion among the personal representative, other responsible persons, and the surviving spouse.

"§ 30-3.5. ~~Recovery of assets by personal representative.~~ Satisfaction of elective share.

~~(a) Recovery of Assets. – The personal representative is entitled to recover proportionately from all persons, other than the surviving spouse, receiving or in possession of any of the decedent's Total Net Assets a sufficient amount to enable the personal representative to pay the elective share. The apportionment shall be made in the proportion that the value of the interest of each person receiving or in possession of any of Total Net Assets bears to Total Net Assets, excluding any Property Passing to Surviving Spouse. The only persons subject to contribution to make up the elective share are (i) original recipients of property comprising the decedent's Total Net Assets, and subsequent gratuitous inter vivos donees or persons claiming by testate or intestate succession to the extent those persons have the property or its proceeds on or after the date of decedent's death, and (ii) a fiduciary, as to the property under the fiduciary's control at or after the time a fiduciary receives notice that a surviving spouse has claimed an elective share. A fiduciary shall not be considered to have notice until it receives notice at its address as shown in the decedent's estate papers in the clerk's office or, if there are no such papers or no such address is shown in those papers, at the fiduciary's residence or the office of its registered agent.~~

~~The personal representative may withhold from any property of the decedent in his possession, distributable to any person subject to apportionment, the amount of the elective share apportioned to such person. If the property in possession of the personal representative and distributable to any person subject to apportionment is insufficient to satisfy the proportionate amount of the elective share determined to be due from that person, the personal representative may recover the deficiency from that person. If the property is not in possession of the personal representative, the personal representative may recover from the person the amount of the elective share apportioned to that person in accordance with this Article. If the personal representative cannot reasonably collect from any person subject to apportionment the amount of the elective share apportioned to that person, the amount not reasonably recoverable shall, with the approval of the clerk, be apportioned among the other persons who are subject to apportionment. The apportionment shall be made in the proportion that the value of the interest of each remaining person bears to the total value of the interests of all remaining persons.~~

(a1) Apportionment. – The personal representative shall apportion the liability to the surviving spouse for the amount of the elective share among all responsible persons as follows:

(1) The net value of each nonspousal asset shall be determined by calculating the value of the nonspousal asset under G.S. 30-3.3A and reducing such value by that portion of the claims (including year's allowances to persons other than the surviving spouse) payable out of, charged against, or otherwise properly allocable to the nonspousal asset.

(2) Using the net value of each nonspousal asset as determined under subdivision (1) of this subsection, the personal representative shall determine each responsible person's liability to the surviving spouse by multiplying the amount of the elective share by a fraction, the numerator of which is the net value of the responsible person's nonspousal assets and the denominator of which is the net value of all of the nonspousal assets.

(a2) Recovery From Responsible Persons. – In recovering assets from responsible persons, the following rules apply:

(1) To the extent the personal representative is a responsible person, the personal representative shall satisfy its liability to the surviving spouse out of its nonspousal assets according to the following order of priority:

a. The personal representative shall satisfy its liability out of the net value of the nonspousal assets passing by intestate succession by allocating the liability proportionately among each intestate heir based on the fraction of the net value of the nonspousal assets passing by intestate succession that each intestate heir is entitled to receive.

b. If the net value of the nonspousal assets passing by intestate succession is not sufficient to satisfy the personal representative's liability in full, the personal representative shall satisfy its remaining liability out of the net value of the nonspousal assets passing as part of the decedent's residuary estate by allocating the liability proportionately among each beneficiary of the decedent's residuary estate based on the fraction of the net value of the nonspousal assets passing as part of the decedent's residuary estate that each residuary beneficiary is entitled to receive.

c. If the net value of the nonspousal assets in the residuary estate is not sufficient to satisfy the personal representative's liability in full, the personal representative shall satisfy its remaining liability by allocating the remaining liability proportionately among each other beneficiary of the decedent's will based on the fraction of the net value of the remaining nonspousal assets each other beneficiary is entitled to receive.

(2) The personal representative shall recover from each other responsible person the responsible person's liability to the surviving spouse.

(3) Each responsible person, including the personal representative in its capacity as a responsible person, may elect to satisfy its liability in full by any of the following methods:

a. Conveyance of that portion of the responsible person's nonspousal assets (or identical substitute assets), valued on the date of conveyance, sufficient to satisfy the responsible person's liability; or, if the value of the responsible person's nonspousal assets on the date of conveyance is less than the responsible person's liability, conveyance of all of the responsible person's nonspousal assets (or identical substitute assets).

b. Payment of the liability in cash.

c. Payment of the liability in other property upon written agreement of the surviving spouse at values agreed by the surviving spouse for purposes of determining the extent of the liability satisfied.

d. Any combination of the payment methods set forth under sub-subdivision a. through d. of this subdivision, provided that the total value of assets conveyed by the responsible person equals such responsible person's liability.

(a3) Inability or Refusal to Pay. – The personal representative shall be entitled to petition the clerk of court for an order requiring any responsible person to satisfy its liability. Upon refusal of a responsible person to obey such an order, the personal representative shall be entitled to a judgment against such responsible person in the amount of the liability and to any other remedies the clerk deems appropriate. Although the responsible person shall remain primarily liable for such responsible person's liability for the elective share, the following rules apply:

(1) If the responsible person makes a gratuitous transfer, whether inter vivos or by testate or intestate succession, of all or any part of the responsible person's nonspousal assets or the proceeds thereof after the decedent's death, then the gratuitous transferee shall be liable for the amount transferred, and the personal representative shall be entitled to recover that amount from the transferee as if the transferee were the responsible person.

(2) If the responsible person is a fiduciary and makes a distribution of all or any part of the responsible person's nonspousal assets or the proceeds thereof after the decedent's death, then the distributee shall be liable for the amount transferred, and the personal representative shall be entitled to recover that amount from the distributee as if the distributee were the responsible person.

If, after exhausting all other remedies in this section, the personal representative cannot reasonably recover a responsible person's liability, then, with the approval of the clerk, the defaulting responsible person's liability shall be apportioned on a pro rata basis among the responsible persons who have not defaulted. Each nondefaulting other responsible person shall be liable for the amount of the liability apportioned to it in the same manner and to the same extent as its original liability for the elective share; provided, that each responsible person's liability shall not exceed the responsible person's proportionate share of the value of the nonspousal assets based on the values used in determining Total Net Assets. Each nondefaulting other responsible person shall be entitled to a proportionate share of any judgment against or subsequent recovery of the liability from the defaulting responsible person.

(b) Standstill Order. – After the filing of the petition demanding an elective share, ~~either the personal representative or surviving spouse~~ the personal representative, surviving spouse, or any responsible person may request the clerk to issue an order that any ~~recipients~~ responsible person not dispose of ~~any~~ all or a portion of the decedent's Total Net Assets or the proceeds thereof pending the ~~hearing.~~ payment of the elective share. The decision to issue such an order shall be in the discretion of the clerk. A person who violates the standstill order may be held in civil contempt of court pursuant to Article 5A of Chapter 2 of the General Statutes. The clerk shall enter an order terminating the standstill order upon the clerk's determination that the standstill order is no longer necessary or desirable.

SECTION 1. G.S. 7B-302 reads as rewritten:

"§ 7B-302. Assessment by director; access to confidential information; notification of person making the report.

(a) When a report of abuse, neglect, or dependency is received, the director of the department of social services shall make a prompt and thorough assessment, using either a family assessment response or an investigative assessment response, in order to ascertain the facts of the case, the extent of the abuse or neglect, and the risk of harm to the juvenile, in order to determine whether protective services should be provided or the complaint filed as a petition. When the report alleges abuse, the director shall immediately, but no later than 24 hours after receipt of the report, initiate the assessment. When the report alleges neglect or dependency, the director shall initiate the assessment within 72 hours following receipt of the report. When the report alleges abandonment, the director shall immediately initiate an assessment, take appropriate steps to assume temporary custody of the juvenile, and take appropriate steps to secure an order for nonsecure custody of the juvenile. The assessment and evaluation shall include a visit to the place where the juvenile resides, except when the report alleges abuse or neglect in a child care facility as defined in Article 7 of Chapter 110 of the General Statutes. When a report alleges abuse or neglect in a child care facility as defined in Article 7 of Chapter 110 of the General Statutes, a visit to the place where the juvenile resides is not required. When the report alleges abandonment, the assessment shall include a request from the director to law enforcement officials to investigate through the North Carolina Center for Missing Persons and other national and State resources whether the juvenile is a missing child. ~~All information received by the department of social services, including the identity of the reporter, shall be held in strictest confidence by the department. However, the department of social services shall disclose confidential information to any federal, State, or local governmental entity or its agent needing confidential information to protect a juvenile from abuse and neglect. Any confidential information disclosed to any federal, State, or local governmental entity, or its agent, under this subsection shall remain confidential with the other governmental entity, or its agent, and shall only be redisclosed by the governmental entity or its agent for purposes directly connected with carrying out the governmental entity's or agent's mandated responsibilities.~~

(a1) All information received by the department of social services, including the identity of the reporter, shall be held in strictest confidence by the department, except that:

(1) The department shall disclose confidential information to any federal, State, or local government entity or its agent in order to protect a juvenile from abuse or neglect. Any confidential information disclosed to any federal,

State, or local government entity or its agent under this subsection shall remain confidential with the other government entity or its agent and shall only be redisclosed for purposes directly connected with carrying out that entity's mandated responsibilities.

(2) The information may be examined upon request by the juvenile's guardian ad litem or the juvenile, including a juvenile who has reached age 18 or been emancipated.

(3) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a civil matter in which the department of social services is not a party may order the department to release confidential information, after providing the department with reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard and then determining that the information is relevant and necessary to the trial of the matter before the court and unavailable from any other source. This subdivision shall not be construed to relieve any court of its duty to conduct hearings and make findings required under relevant federal law, before ordering the release of any private medical or mental health information or records related to substance abuse or HIV status or treatment. The department of social services may surrender the requested records to the court, for in camera review, if the surrender is necessary to make the required determinations.

(4) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a criminal or delinquency matter shall conduct an in camera review prior to releasing to the defendant or juvenile any confidential records maintained by the department of social services, except those records the defendant or juvenile is entitled to pursuant to subdivision (2) of this subsection.

(5) The department may disclose confidential information to a parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker in accordance with G.S. 7B-700 of this Subchapter.

(a2) If the director, at any time after receiving a report that a juvenile may be abused, neglected, or dependent, determines that the juvenile's legal residence is in another county, the director shall promptly notify the director in the county of the juvenile's residence, and the two directors shall coordinate efforts to ensure that appropriate actions are taken.

(b) When a report of a juvenile's death as a result of suspected maltreatment or a report of suspected abuse, neglect, or dependency of a juvenile in a noninstitutional setting is received, the director of the department of social services shall immediately ascertain if other juveniles live in the home, and, if so, initiate an assessment in order to determine whether they require protective services or whether immediate removal of the juveniles from the home is necessary for their protection. When a report of a juvenile's death as a result of maltreatment or a report of suspected abuse, neglect, or dependency of a juvenile in an institutional setting such as a residential child care facility or residential educational facility is received, the director of the department of social services shall immediately ascertain if other juveniles remain in the facility subject to the alleged perpetrator's care or supervision, and, if so, assess the circumstances of those juveniles in order to determine whether they require protective services or whether immediate removal of those juveniles from the facility is necessary for their protection.

(c) If the assessment indicates that abuse, neglect, or dependency has occurred, the director shall decide whether immediate removal of the juvenile or any other juveniles in the home is necessary for their protection. If immediate removal does not seem necessary, the director shall immediately provide or arrange for protective services. If the parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker refuses to accept the protective services provided or arranged by the director, the director shall sign a ~~complaint~~ petition seeking to invoke the jurisdiction of the court for the protection of the juvenile or juveniles.

(d) If immediate removal seems necessary for the protection of the juvenile or other juveniles in the home, the director shall sign a ~~complaint~~ petition that alleges the applicable facts to invoke the jurisdiction of the court. Where the assessment shows that it is warranted, a protective services worker may assume temporary custody of the juvenile for the juvenile's protection pursuant to Article 5 of this Chapter.

(d1) Whenever a juvenile is removed from the home of a parent, guardian, custodian, stepparent, or adult relative entrusted with the juvenile's care due to physical abuse, the director shall conduct a thorough review of the background of the alleged abuser or abusers. This review shall include a criminal history check and a review of any available mental health records. If the review reveals that the alleged abuser or abusers have a history of violent behavior against people, the director shall petition the court to order the alleged abuser or abusers to submit to a complete mental health evaluation by a licensed psychologist or psychiatrist.

(e) In performing any duties related to the assessment of the report or the provision or arrangement for protective services, the director may consult with any public or private agencies or individuals, including the available State or local law enforcement officers who shall assist in the assessment and evaluation of the seriousness of any report of abuse, neglect, or dependency when requested by the director. The director or the director's representative may make a written demand for any information or reports, whether or not confidential, that may in the director's opinion be relevant to the assessment or provision of protective services. Upon the director's or the director's representative's request and unless protected by the attorney-client privilege, any public or private agency or individual shall provide access to and copies of this confidential information and these records to the extent permitted by federal law and regulations. If a custodian of criminal investigative information or records believes that release of the information will jeopardize the right of the State to prosecute a defendant or the right of a defendant to receive a fair trial or will undermine an ongoing or future investigation, it may seek an order from a court of competent jurisdiction to prevent disclosure of the information. In such an action, the custodian of the records shall have the burden of showing by a preponderance of the evidence that disclosure of the information in question will jeopardize the right of the State to prosecute a defendant or the right of a defendant to receive a fair trial or will undermine an ongoing or future investigation. Actions brought pursuant to this paragraph shall be set down for immediate hearing, and subsequent proceedings in the actions shall be accorded priority by the trial and appellate courts.

(f) Within five working days after receipt of the report of abuse, neglect, or dependency, the director shall give written notice to the person making the report, unless requested by that person not to give notice, as to whether the report was accepted for assessment and whether the report was referred to the appropriate State or local law enforcement agency.

(g) Within five working days after completion of the protective services assessment, the director shall give subsequent written notice to the person making the report, unless requested by that person not to give notice, as to whether there is a finding of abuse, neglect, or dependency, whether the county department of social services is taking action to protect the juvenile, and what action it is taking, including whether or not a petition was filed. The person making the report shall be informed of procedures necessary to request a review by the prosecutor of the director's decision not to file a petition. A request for review by the prosecutor shall be made within five working days of receipt of the second notification. The second notification shall include notice that, if the person making the report is not satisfied with the director's decision, the person may request review of the decision by the prosecutor within five working days of receipt. The person making the report may waive the person's right to this notification, and no notification is required if the person making the report does not identify himself to the director.

(h) The director or the director's representative may not enter a private residence for assessment purposes without at least one of the following:

(1) The reasonable belief that a juvenile is in imminent danger of death or serious physical injury.

(2) The permission of the parent or person responsible for the juvenile's care.

SECTION 7. G.S. 7B-907(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) In any case where custody is removed from a parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker, the judge shall conduct a review hearing designated as a permanency planning hearing within 12 months after the date of the initial order removing custody, and the hearing may be combined, if appropriate, with a review hearing required by G.S. 7B-906. The court may consider any evidence, including hearsay evidence as defined in G.S. 8C-1, Rule 801, that the court finds to be relevant, reliable, and necessary to determine the needs of the juvenile and the most appropriate disposition.

An order placing a juvenile in the custody or placement responsibility of a county department of social services shall contain a finding that the juvenile's continuation in the juvenile's own home would be contrary to the juvenile's best interest. This placement shall be reviewed in accordance with G.S. 7B-906. The director may, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, arrange for, provide, or consent to, needed routine or emergency medical or surgical care or treatment. In the case where the parent is unknown, unavailable, or unable to act on behalf of the juvenile or juveniles, the director may, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, arrange for, provide, or consent to any psychiatric, psychological, educational, or other remedial evaluations or treatment for the juvenile placed by a judge or his designee in the custody or physical custody of a county department of social services under the authority of this or any other Chapter of the General Statutes. Prior to exercising this authority, the director shall make reasonable efforts to obtain consent from a parent, guardian, or custodian of the affected juvenile. If the director cannot obtain consent, the director shall promptly notify the parent, guardian, or custodian that care or treatment has been provided and shall give the parent, guardian, or custodian frequent status reports on the circumstances of the juvenile. (1) The juvenile's guardian ad litem or the juvenile, including a juvenile who has reached age 18 or been emancipated, may examine the records.

(2) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a civil matter in which the department is not a party may order the department to release confidential information, after providing the department with reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard and then determining that the information is relevant and necessary to the trial of the matter before the court and unavailable from any other source. This subsection shall not be construed to relieve any court of its duty to conduct hearings and make findings required under relevant federal law before ordering the release of any private medical or mental health information or records related to substance abuse or HIV status or treatment. The department may surrender the requested records to the court, for in camera review, if surrender is necessary to make the required determinations.

(3) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a criminal or delinquency matter shall conduct an in camera review before releasing to the defendant or juvenile any confidential records maintained by the department of social services, except those records the defendant or juvenile is entitled to pursuant to subdivision (1) of this subsection.

(4) The department may disclose confidential information to a parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker in accordance with G.S. 7B-700."

HOUSE BILL 1098:
Kill Search and Rescue Animal

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 2, 2009
Introduced by:	Representatives Frye and Jones	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson
Analysis of:	Second Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1098 would add search and rescue animals to statutes that protect law enforcement animals and animals that assist persons with disabilities.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 14-163.1 provides the following offenses related to killing, harming, or obstructing a law enforcement agency animal or an animal that assists the disabled:

Willfully killing – Any person who knows or has reason to know that an animal is a law enforcement agency animal or an assistance animal and who willfully kills the animal is guilty of a Class H felony.

Willfully causing or attempting to cause serious harm – Any person who knows or has reason to know that an animal is a law enforcement agency animal or an assistance animal and who willfully causes or attempts to cause serious harm to the animal is guilty of a Class I felony.

Willfully causing or attempting to cause harm – Any person who knows or has reason to know that an animal is a law enforcement agency animal or an assistance animal and who willfully causes or attempts to cause harm to the animal is guilty of a Class 1 misdemeanor.

Willfully taunting, teasing, obstructing the animal – Any person who knows or has reason to know that an animal is a law enforcement agency animal or an assistance animal and who willfully taunts, teases, harasses, delays, obstructs, or attempts to delay or obstruct the animal in the performance of its duty as a law enforcement agency animal or assistance animal is guilty of a Class 2 misdemeanor.

Restitution – A defendant who violates the above provisions must make restitution to the person with a disability or the law enforcement agency who owns or is responsible for the care of the animal.

Aggravating factor – For felony convictions, there are three ranges of imprisonment: presumptive, aggravated, and mitigated. In many instances, the court will sentence a defendant in the presumptive range. If aggravating factors outweigh mitigating factors, a court may impose a term from the aggravated range, which is longer than a term from the presumptive range. G.S. 15A-1340.16(d) lists aggravating factors.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1098 would add search and rescue animals to law enforcement agency animals and assistance animals under the offense and restitution provisions of G.S. 14-163.1.

Further, the bill would add search and rescue animals to law enforcement agency animals and assistance animals in G.S. 15A-1340.16(d)(6a), which makes committing an offense against or proximately causing serious harm or death to these animals while engaged in the performance of the animal's official duties an aggravating factor for sentencing purposes.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act would become effective December 1, 2009, and apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

Ben Popkin, counsel to House Judiciary III, substantially contributed to this summary.

This subdivision shall not be construed to relieve any court of its duty to conduct hearings and make findings required under relevant federal law, before ordering the release of any private medical or mental health information or records related to substance abuse or HIV status or treatment. The department of social services may surrender the requested records to the court, for in camera review, if the surrender is necessary to make the required determinations.

(4) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a criminal or delinquency matter shall conduct an in camera review prior to releasing to the defendant or juvenile any confidential records maintained by the department of social services, except those records the defendant or juvenile is entitled to pursuant to subdivision (2) of this subsection.

(a2) If the director, at any time after receiving a report that a juvenile may be abused, neglected, or dependent, determines that the juvenile's legal residence is in another county, the director shall promptly notify the director in the county of the juvenile's residence, and the two directors shall coordinate efforts to ensure that appropriate actions are taken.

(b) When a report of a juvenile's death as a result of suspected maltreatment or a report of suspected abuse, neglect, or dependency of a juvenile in a noninstitutional setting is received, the director of the department of social services shall immediately ascertain if other juveniles live in the home, and, if so, initiate an assessment in order to determine whether they require protective services or whether immediate removal of the juveniles from the home is necessary for their protection. When a report of a juvenile's death as a result of maltreatment or a report of suspected abuse, neglect, or dependency of a juvenile in an institutional setting such as a residential child care facility or residential educational facility is received, the director of the department of social services shall immediately ascertain if other juveniles remain in the facility subject to the alleged perpetrator's care or supervision, and, if so, assess the circumstances of those juveniles in order to determine whether they require protective services or whether immediate removal of those juveniles from the facility is necessary for their protection.

(c) If the assessment indicates that abuse, neglect, or dependency has occurred, the director shall decide whether immediate removal of the juvenile or any other juveniles in the home is necessary for their protection. If immediate removal does not seem necessary, the director shall immediately provide or arrange for protective services. If the parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker refuses to accept the protective services provided or arranged by the director, the director shall sign a ~~complaint~~ petition seeking to invoke the jurisdiction of the court for the protection of the juvenile or juveniles.

If the review reveals that the alleged abuser or abusers have a history of violent behavior against people, the director shall petition the court to order the alleged abuser or abusers to submit to a complete mental health evaluation by a licensed psychologist or psychiatrist.

(e) In performing any duties related to the assessment of the report or the provision or arrangement for protective services, the director may consult with any public or private agencies or individuals, including the available State or local law enforcement officers who shall assist in the assessment and evaluation of the seriousness of any report of abuse, neglect, or dependency when requested by the director. The director or the director's representative may make a written demand for any information or reports, whether or not confidential, that may in the director's opinion be relevant to the assessment or provision of protective services. Upon the director's or the director's representative's request and unless protected by the attorney-client privilege, any public or private agency or individual shall provide access to and copies of this confidential information and these records to the extent permitted by federal law and regulations. If a custodian of criminal investigative information or records believes that release of the information will jeopardize the right of the State to prosecute a defendant or the right of a defendant to receive a fair trial or will undermine an ongoing or future investigation, it may seek an order from a court of competent jurisdiction to prevent disclosure of the information. In such an action, the custodian of the records shall have the burden of showing by a preponderance of the evidence that disclosure of the information in question will jeopardize the right of the State to prosecute a defendant or the right of a defendant to receive a fair trial or will undermine an ongoing or future investigation. Actions brought pursuant to this paragraph shall be set down for immediate hearing, and subsequent proceedings in the actions shall be accorded priority by the trial and appellate courts.

The person making the report shall be informed of procedures necessary to request a review by the prosecutor of the director's decision not to file a petition. A request for review by the prosecutor shall be made within five working days of receipt of the second notification. The second notification shall include notice that, if the person making the report is not satisfied with the director's decision, the person may request review of the decision by the prosecutor within five working days of receipt. The person making the report may waive the person's right to this notification, and no notification is required if the person making the report does not identify himself to the director.

"§ 7B-1108.1. Pretrial hearing.

(a) The court shall conduct a pretrial hearing. However, the court may combine the pretrial hearing with the adjudicatory hearing on termination in which case no separate pretrial hearing order is required. At the pretrial hearing, the court shall consider the following:

(1) Retention or release of provisional counsel.

(2) Whether a guardian ad litem should be appointed for the juvenile, if not previously appointed.

(3) Whether all summons, service of process, and notice requirements have been met.

(4) Any pretrial motions.

(5) Any issues raised by any responsive pleading, including any affirmative defenses.

(6) Any other issue which can be properly addressed as a preliminary matter.

(b) Written notice of the pretrial hearing shall be in accordance with G.S. 7B-1106 and G.S. 7B-1106.1."

SECTION 14. Article 17 of Chapter 7B of the General Statutes is amended by adding the following new section to read:

"§ 7B-1700.1. Duty to report abuse, neglect, dependency.

Any time a juvenile court counselor or any person has cause to suspect that a juvenile is abused, neglected, or dependent, or has died as the result of maltreatment, the juvenile court counselor or the person shall make a report to the county department of social services as required by G.S. 7B-301."

SECTION 15. G.S. 7B-1904 reads as rewritten:

"§ 7B-1904. Order for secure or nonsecure custody.

The custody order shall be in writing and shall direct a law enforcement officer or other authorized person to assume custody of the juvenile and to make due return on the order. The official executing the order shall give a copy of the order to the juvenile's parent, guardian, or custodian. If the order is for nonsecure custody, the official executing the order shall also give a copy of the petition and order to the person or agency with whom the juvenile is being placed. If the order is for secure custody, copies of the petition and custody order shall accompany the juvenile to the detention facility or holdover facility of the jail. A message of the Division of Criminal Information, State Bureau of Investigation, stating that a juvenile petition and secure custody order relating to a specified juvenile are on file in a particular county shall be authority to detain the juvenile in secure custody until a copy of the juvenile petition and secure custody order can be forwarded to the juvenile detention facility. The copies of the juvenile petition and secure custody order shall be transmitted to the detention facility no later than 72 hours after the initial detention of the juvenile.

An officer receiving an order for custody which is complete and regular on its face may execute it in accordance with its terms and need not inquire into its regularity or continued validity, nor does the officer incur criminal or civil liability for its execution."

SECTION 16. G.S. 7B-2503(1)c. reads as rewritten:

"(1) In the case of any juvenile who needs more adequate care or supervision or who needs placement, the judge may:

c. ~~Place~~ If the director of the department of social services has received notice and an opportunity to be heard, place the juvenile in the custody of a department of social services in the county of the juvenile's residence, or in the case of a juvenile who has legal residence outside the State, in the physical custody of a department of social services in the county where the juvenile is found so that agency may return the juvenile to the responsible authorities in the juvenile's home state. An order placing a juvenile in the custody or placement responsibility of a county department of social services shall contain a finding that the juvenile's continuation in the juvenile's own home would be contrary to the juvenile's best interest. This placement shall be reviewed in accordance with G.S. 7B-906. The director may, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, arrange for, provide, or consent to, needed routine or emergency medical or surgical care or treatment. In the case where the parent is unknown, unavailable, or unable to act on behalf of the juvenile or juveniles, the director may, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, arrange for, provide or consent to any psychiatric, psychological, educational, or other remedial evaluations or treatment for the juvenile placed by a judge or the judge's designee in the custody or physical custody of a county department of social services under the authority of this or any other Chapter of the General Statutes. Prior to exercising this authority, the director shall make reasonable efforts to obtain consent from a parent, guardian, or custodian of the affected juvenile. If the director cannot obtain consent, the director shall promptly notify the parent, guardian, or custodian that care or treatment has been provided and shall give the parent, guardian, or custodian frequent status reports on the circumstances of the juvenile. Upon request of a parent, guardian, or custodian of the affected juvenile, the results or records of the aforementioned evaluations, findings, or treatment shall be made available to the parent, guardian, or custodian by the director unless prohibited by G.S. 122C-53(d)."

SECTION 17. G.S. 7B-2506(1)c. reads as rewritten:

"(1) In the case of any juvenile who needs more adequate care or supervision or who needs placement, the judge may:

c. ~~Place~~ If the director of the county department of social services has received notice and an opportunity to be heard, place the juvenile in the custody of the department of social services in the county of his residence, or in the case of a juvenile who has legal residence outside the State, in the physical custody of a department of social services in the county where the juvenile is found so that agency may return the juvenile to the responsible authorities in the juvenile's home state. An order placing a juvenile in the custody or placement responsibility of a county department of social services shall contain a finding that the juvenile's continuation in the juvenile's own home would be contrary to the juvenile's best interest. This placement shall be reviewed in accordance with G.S. 7B-906. The director may, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, arrange for, provide, or consent to, needed routine or emergency medical or surgical care or treatment. In the case where the parent is unknown, unavailable, or unable to act on behalf of the juvenile or juveniles, the director may, unless otherwise ordered by the judge, arrange for, provide, or consent to any psychiatric, psychological, educational, or other remedial evaluations or treatment for the juvenile placed by a judge or his designee in the custody or physical custody of a county department of social services under the authority of this or any other Chapter of the General Statutes. Prior to exercising this authority, the director shall make reasonable efforts to obtain consent from a parent, guardian, or custodian of the affected juvenile. If the director cannot obtain consent, the director shall promptly notify the parent, guardian, or custodian that care or treatment has been provided and shall give the parent, guardian, or custodian frequent status reports on the circumstances of the juvenile. Upon request of a parent, guardian, or custodian of the affected juvenile, the results or records of the aforementioned evaluations, findings, or treatment shall be made available to the parent, guardian, or custodian by the director unless prohibited by G.S. 122C-53(d)."

SECTION 18. G.S. 7B-2901(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) The Director of the Department of Social Services shall maintain a record of the cases of juveniles under protective custody by the Department or under placement by the court, which shall include family background information; reports of social, medical, psychiatric, or psychological information concerning a juvenile or the juvenile's family; interviews with the juvenile's family; or other information which the court finds should be protected from public inspection in the best interests of the juvenile. The records maintained pursuant to this subsection may be examined only ~~by order of the court except that the guardian ad litem, or juvenile, shall have the right to examine them.~~in the following circumstances:

(1) The juvenile's guardian ad litem or the juvenile, including a juvenile who has reached age 18 or been emancipated, may examine the records.

(2) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a civil matter in which the department is not a party may order the department to release confidential information, after providing the department with reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard and then determining that the information is relevant and necessary to the trial of the matter before the court and unavailable from any other source. This subsection shall not be construed to relieve any court of its duty to conduct hearings and make findings required under relevant federal law before ordering the release of any private medical or mental health information or records related to substance abuse or HIV status or treatment. The department may surrender the requested records to the court, for in camera review, if surrender is necessary to make the required determinations.

(3) A district or superior court judge of this State presiding over a criminal or delinquency matter shall conduct an in camera review before releasing to the defendant or juvenile any confidential records maintained by the department of social services, except those records the defendant or juvenile is entitled to pursuant to subdivision (1) of this subsection.

(4) The department may disclose confidential information to a parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker in accordance with G.S. 7B-700."

SECTION 19. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009.

HOUSE BILL 1449:
Juvenile Code Revisions

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 29, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Weiss, Moore, Goodwin, Glazier	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Second Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1449 makes various changes to the Juvenile Code.

CURRENT LAW: The North Carolina Juvenile Code, set out in Chapter 7B of the General Statutes, contains provisions relating to the abuse, neglect, and dependency of juveniles as well as provisions relating to undisciplined and delinquent juveniles. Chapter 7B is divided into five subchapters, as follows:

I. Abuse, Neglect, Dependency
II. Undisciplined and Delinquent Juveniles
III. Juvenile Records
IV. Parental Authority; Emancipation
V. Placement of Juveniles

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1449 makes various changes to the Juvenile Code, as follows:

Abuse, Neglect & Dependency

Section 1 of the bill rewrites G.S. 7B-302, concerning assess to confidential information, to provide that:

- Confidential information relating to a child protective services assessment may be examined by the juvenile's guardian ad litem or the juvenile, even if the juvenile is 18 or older.
- A NC judge in any civil action to which the department of social services (DSS) is not a party may order DSS to release confidential information after giving DSS notice and a chance to be heard and determining, through in camera inspection if necessary, that the information is relevant and necessary to the action and not available elsewhere.
- A NC judge in a criminal or delinquency matter must conduct an in camera review before releasing to the defendant or juvenile any confidential DSS records to which that person is not already entitled.
- DSS may disclose confidential information to a parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker but cannot disclose the identity of the reporter of abuse or neglect or the identity of any other person if the disclosure would likely endanger the life or safety of the person.
- If a DSS director receives a report of abuse, neglect, or dependency regarding a juvenile whose legal residence is in another county, the director must promptly notify the director in the county of the juvenile's residence, and the two directors must coordinate efforts to ensure appropriate action.

Section 2 rewrites G.S. 7B-400, concerning venue, to conform to new G.S. 7B-900.1 created in Section 5 of the bill.

Section 3 adds a new G.S. 7B-402(d) to require a DSS director who files a petition in a county other than the county of the juvenile's residence to provide a copy of the petition and notices of hearings to the director in the county of the juvenile's residence.

Section 4 rewrites GS 7B-700, relating to discovery, to:

- Authorize DSS to share with other parties confidential information other than the identify of the reporter or any person whose life or safety would be endangered by disclosure.
- Authorize the chief district judge, through local rules or administrative order, to address information sharing among parties and use of discovery.
- Set out criteria for discovery motions and protective orders.
- State that information obtained in discovery or through sharing of information cannot be redisclosed if the redisclosure is prohibited by State or federal law.
- Provide that unless local rules provide otherwise, these provisions do not apply to information or reports held by the child's guardian ad litem, except that reports and records must be shared with all parties before being submitted to the court.

Section 5 adds a new GS 7B-900.1, relating to venue, to allow a change of venue after an adjudication of abuse, neglect, or dependency, and provide standards and procedures for changes of venue after adjudication. The bill requires the court, before ordering a post-adjudication venue change to do all of the following:

- Determine that the change is in the juvenile's best interest and not prejudicial to the parties
- Determine that the two DSS directors either are in agreement or have obtained a determination from the state Division of Social Services about the counties' respective responsibilities for financial support and services relating to the juvenile
- Join or substitute as a party the DSS director in the transferee county and place the juvenile in that county DSS's custody, after giving that director notice and a chance to be heard
- Communicate with the chief district judge or judge presiding in juvenile court in the transferee county and, if that judge makes a timely objection to the transfer, order the case transferred only after making findings and concluding that the juvenile's best interests required the transfer
- Consider other relevant factors such as the current residence of the juvenile; reunification plan, and nature and location of services.

This section also specifies the duties of the clerk of court in each county when a case is transferred.

Sections 6, 7 & 8 rewrite G.S. 7B-906, 7B-907, and 7B-908, relating to review hearings, to require DSS to either provide the clerk with the name and address of any foster parent, relative, or preadoptive parent caring for the child or file written documentation with the clerk that the child's care provider was sent notice of the hearing. Additionally, Section 8 of the bill requires that if the juvenile is the subject of an adoption decree prior to the date scheduled for the review DSS must, within 10 days of receiving notice that the adoption decree has been entered, file notice of the entry with the court and serve the notice on any guardian ad litem for the juvenile. Within 10 days of receiving an adoption petition, DSS must file the petition with the court and serve notice on any guardian ad litem that the petition has been filed. The guardian ad litem then has 10 days to file in the adoption proceeding any motion alleging an abuse of discretion. That motion requires the clerk to transfer the adoption proceeding to district court.

Section 9 rewrites G.S. 7B-1101.1, concerning parent's right to counsel, to provide that in actions to terminate parental rights, when a petition is filed, provisional counsel must be appointed for any parent who is not already represented by counsel. The court can reconsider a parent's eligibility and desire for appointed counsel at any stage of the proceeding.

Section 10 rewrites G.S. 7B-1106(b) concerning the issuance of summons in the termination of parental rights, to make conforming changes and to require notice that previously appointed counsel still representing the parent in an abuse, neglect, or dependency case must continue to represent the parent in the termination unless the court orders otherwise, and that the parent is entitled to appointed counsel if the parent is indigent and not already represented by appointed counsel.

Section 11 makes conforming changes in the notice provisions for termination of parental rights.

Sections 12 & 13 rewrite G.S. 7B-1108 to delete provisions relating to a "special hearing" in parental rights termination cases and add a new G.S. 7B-1108.1 requiring the court to conduct a pretrial hearing either before or with the adjudicatory hearing on termination. The pretrial hearing is for the court to consider the retention or release of provisional counsel; whether a guardian ad litem should be appointed for the juvenile; whether procedural requirements have been met; and other issues that can be addressed as preliminary matters.

Undisciplined and Delinquent Juveniles

Section 14 adds a new G.S. 7B-1700.1, providing that a juvenile court counselor or any other person with cause to suspect that a juvenile is abused, neglected, or dependent or has died as a result of maltreatment, must make a report to DSS.

Section 15 amends G.S. 7B-1904 to require that a copy of a nonsecure custody order and a copy of the petition be given to the person or agency with whom the juvenile is being placed. (Nonsecure custody includes temporary residential placement in a licensed foster home, a facility operated by the department of social services, or other home or facility approved by the court.)

Sections 16 & 17 rewrite G.S. 7B-2503 and G.S. 7B-2506 to allow the court, at disposition in the case of a delinquent or undisciplined juvenile, to place the juvenile in the custody of DSS only if the director has received notice and a chance to be heard.

Juvenile Records

Section 18 amends G.S. 7B-2901(b) concerning a DSS director's responsibilities with regard to juvenile records, to conform to the changes made in Section 1 of the bill.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT REQUIRING PHYSICIANS OR ELIGIBLE PSYCHOLOGISTS CONDUCTING EXAMINATIONS TO INFORM THE LOCAL MANAGEMENT ENTITY THAT AN INDIVIDUAL HAS BEEN SCHEDULED FOR AN APPOINTMENT WITH AN OUTPATIENT TREATMENT PHYSICIAN OR CENTER; TO ALLOW FIRST COMMITMENTS TO BE CONDUCTED VIA TELEMEDICINE; AND PERTAINING TO SECURITY FORCES AT CERTAIN MENTAL HEALTH, DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES, AND SUBSTANCE ABUSE SERVICES FACILITIES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 122C-261(d) reads as rewritten:

"(d) If the affiant is a physician or eligible psychologist, the affiant may execute the affidavit before any official authorized to administer oaths. This affiant is not required to appear before the clerk or magistrate for this purpose. This affiant shall file the affidavit with the clerk or magistrate by delivering to the clerk or magistrate the original affidavit or a copy in paper form that is printed through the facsimile transmission of the affidavit. If the affidavit is filed through facsimile transmission, the affiant shall mail the original affidavit no later than five days after the facsimile transmission of the affidavit to the clerk or magistrate to be filed by the clerk or magistrate with the facsimile copy of the affidavit. This affiant's examination shall comply with the requirements of the initial examination as provided in G.S. 122C-263(c). If the physician or eligible psychologist recommends outpatient commitment and the clerk or magistrate finds probable cause to believe that the respondent meets the criteria for outpatient commitment, the clerk or magistrate shall issue an order that a hearing before a district court judge be held to determine whether the respondent will be involuntarily committed. The physician or eligible psychologist shall provide the respondent with written notice of any scheduled appointment and the name, address, and telephone number of the proposed outpatient treatment physician or center. The physician or eligible psychologist shall contact the local management entity that serves the county where the respondent resides or the local management entity that coordinated services for the respondent to inform the local management entity that the respondent has been scheduled for an appointment with an outpatient treatment physician or center. If the physician or eligible psychologist recommends inpatient commitment and the clerk or magistrate finds probable cause to believe that the respondent meets the criteria for inpatient commitment, the clerk or magistrate shall issue an order for transportation to or custody at a 24-hour facility described in G.S. 122C-252. However, if the clerk or magistrate finds probable cause to believe that the respondent, in addition to being mentally ill, is also mentally retarded, the clerk or magistrate shall contact the area authority before issuing the order and the area authority shall designate the facility to which the respondent is to be transported. If a physician or eligible psychologist executes an affidavit for inpatient commitment of a respondent, a second physician shall be required to perform the examination required by G.S. 122C-266."

SECTION 2. G.S. 122C-263(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) The physician or eligible psychologist described in subsection (a) of this section shall examine the respondent as soon as possible, and in any event within 24 hours, after the respondent is presented for examination. When the examination set forth in subsection (a) of this section is performed by a physician or eligible psychologist the respondent may either be in the physical face-to-face presence of the physician or eligible psychologist or may be examined utilizing telemedicine equipment and procedures. A physician or eligible psychologist who examines a respondent by means of telemedicine must be satisfied to a reasonable medical certainty that the determinations made in accordance with subsection (d) of this section would not be different if the examination had been done in the physical presence of the physician or eligible psychologist. A physician or eligible psychologist who is not so satisfied must note that the examination was not satisfactorily accomplished, and the respondent must be taken for a face-to-face examination in the physical presence of a person authorized to perform examinations under this section. As used in this subsection, "telemedicine" is the use of two-way real-time interactive audio and video between places of lesser and greater medical capability or expertise to provide and support health care when distance separates participants who are in different geographical locations. A recipient is referred by one provider to receive the services of another provider via telemedicine.

The examination shall include but is not limited to an assessment of the respondent's:

(1) Current and previous mental illness and mental retardation including, if available, previous treatment history;

(2) Dangerousness to self, as defined in G.S. 122C-3(11)a. or others, as defined in G.S. 122C-3(11)b.;

(3) Ability to survive safely without inpatient commitment, including the availability of supervision from family, friends or others; and

(4) Capacity to make an informed decision concerning treatment."

SECTION 3. Article 6 of Chapter 122C of the General Statues is amended by adding the following new Part to read:

"Part 2D. Long Leaf Neuro-Medical Treatment Center and Eastern North Carolina School for the Deaf Joint Security Force.

"§ 122C-430.30. Joint security force.

The Secretary may designate one or more special police officers who shall make up a joint security force to enforce the law of North Carolina and any ordinance or regulation adopted pursuant to G.S. 143-116.6 or G.S. 143-116.7 or pursuant to the authority granted the Department by any other law on the territory of the Long Leaf Neuro-Medical Treatment Center and the Eastern North Carolina School for the Deaf in Wilson County. After taking the oath of office for law enforcement officers as set out in G.S. 11-11, these special police officers have the same powers as peace officers now vested in sheriffs within the territory embraced by the named facilities. These special police officers may arrest persons outside the territory of the named institutions but within the confines of Wilson County when the person arrested has committed a criminal offense within that territory for which the officers could have arrested the person within that territory, and the arrest is made during the person's immediate and continuous flight from that territory."

SECTION 4. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1189:
DHHS/Tracking Outpatient Commitments.-AB

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 6, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Insko, Earle, M. Alexander, England	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Second Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1189 requires a physician or eligible psychologist, when determining that an individual meets the criteria for outpatient commitment for mental illness, to inform the Local Management Entity (LME) serving the county where the individual resides or the LME that coordinated services, that the individual has been scheduled for an appointment with an outpatient treatment center. The bill also allows first examinations for involuntary commitment for mental illness to be conducted by telemedicine. Finally, the bill provides for special police to be designated to provide a security force for the Long Leaf Neuro-Medical Treatment Center and the Eastern North Carolina School for the Deaf in Wilson County. The act is effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 122C-261(d) provides that if the physician or eligible psychologist conducting a first examination to determine whether an individual is mentally ill and a threat to himself or others recommends outpatient treatment, and the clerk or magistrate finds reasonable cause to believe the respondent meets the criteria for outpatient commitment, the magistrate or clerk shall issue an order for a hearing to determine whether the respondent should be involuntarily committed to outpatient treatment. The physician or psychologist is required to provide the respondent with written notice of any scheduled appointment and name address, and telephone number of the proposed outpatient treatment center or physician.

G.S. 122C-263(c) requires that a respondent's first examination to determine whether the respondent is mentally ill and a danger to self and others shall occur within 24 hours after the respondent is presented for examination. This statute has been interpreted as requiring the physician or eligible psychologist to be physically present in order to conduct the first examination.

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 of House Bill 1189 requires a physician or eligible psychologist recommending outpatient commitment after performing a first examination to contact the LME serving the county where a respondent resides or the LME that coordinated services for the respondent to inform the LME that the respondent has been scheduled for an appointment with an outpatient treatment center.

Section 2 of the bill allows the first examination of a respondent to be conducted using telemedicine. "Telemedicine" is defined as the use of 2 way real time interactive audio and video between places of greater and lesser medical capability or expertise to provide support health care when the participants are in different geographical locations. The physician or eligible psychologist using telemedicine must be satisfied that the determinations that are made would not be different if the exam were done face to face. If not satisfied, the respondent must be taken for a face to face evaluation.

Section 3 allows the Secretary of DHHS to designate one or more special police officers to constitute a joint security force to enforce NC law and any ordinance or regulation adopted by DHHS for State owned institutions under DHHS jurisdiction, including traffic rules and regulations for the use of buildings and grounds, on the territory of the Long Leaf Neuro-Medical Treatment Center and the Eastern North Carolina School for the Deaf in Wilson County. The special police will have arrest authority outside the territory in cases where the offense was committed within their territory and the arrest is made in hot pursuit of the offender.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT AMENDING THE LAWS PERTAINING TO CUSTODY OF A MINOR CHILD BY DEFINING VISITATION TO INCLUDE VISITATION BY ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 50-13.2 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(e) An order for custody of a minor child may provide for visitation rights by electronic communication. In granting visitation by electronic communication, the court shall consider the following:

(1) Whether electronic communication is in the best interest of the minor child.

(2) Whether equipment to communicate by electronic means is available, accessible, and affordable to the parents of the minor child.

(3) Any other factor the court deems appropriate in determining whether to grant visitation by electronic communication.

The court may set guidelines for electronic communication, including the hours in which the communication may be made, the allocation of costs between the parents in implementing electronic communication with the child, and the furnishing of access information between parents necessary to facilitate electronic communication. Electronic communication with a minor child may be used to supplement visitation with the child. Electronic communication may not be used as a replacement or substitution for custody or visitation. The amount of time electronic communication is used shall not be a factor in calculating child support or be used to justify or support relocation by the custodial parent out of the immediate area or the State. Electronic communication between the minor child and the parent may be subject to supervision as ordered by the court. As used in this subsection, 'electronic communication' means contact, other than face-to-face contact, facilitated by electronic means, such as by telephone, electronic mail, instant messaging, video teleconferencing, wired or wireless technologies by Internet, or other medium of communication."

SECTION 2. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1299:
Virtual Visitation/Family Law

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 6, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Rapp, M. Alexander, Glazier	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Second Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1299 would amend the laws pertaining to custody of a minor child by authorizing the court to provide for visitation rights by electronic communication. Electronic communication, which includes telephone, e-mail, instant messaging, video teleconferencing and other mediums, could be used to supplement visitation but could not be used as a replacement or substitution for custody or visitation.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 50-13.2 provides that any order for custody shall include such terms, including visitation, as will best promote the interest and welfare of the child. A copy of G.S. 50-13.2 is set forth on the reverse side of this summary.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1299 would provide for visitation rights by electronic communication. Electronic communication is defined under the bill as contact other than face-to-face contact, facilitated by electronic means including telephone, e-mail, instant messaging, video teleconferencing, wired or wireless Internet technologies or other mediums. In granting this type of visitation, the court would be required to consider the following:

- Whether electronic communication is in the best interest of the child.
- Whether the necessary equipment is available and affordable to the parents of the child.
- Any other appropriate factors.

The bill would authorize the court to set guidelines, including the hours in which the communication is made, the allocation of costs between the parents, and the furnishing of access information between the parents. Electronic communication may be used to supplement regular visitation, but may not be used as a replacement for custody or visitation or to justify relocation by a custodial parent out of the area. Electronic communication would also not be a factor in calculating child support.

EFFECTIVE DATE: House Bill 1299 would be effective when it becomes law.

§ 50-13.2. Who entitled to custody; terms of custody; visitation rights of grandparents; taking child out of State.

(a) An order for custody of a minor child entered pursuant to this section shall award the custody of such child to such person, agency, organization or institution as will best promote the interest and welfare of the child. In making the determination, the court shall consider all relevant factors including acts of domestic violence between the parties, the safety of the child, and the safety of either party from domestic violence by the other party and shall make findings accordingly. An order for custody must include findings of fact which support the determination of what is in the best interest of the child. Between the mother and father, whether natural or adoptive, no presumption shall apply as to who will better promote the interest and welfare of the child. Joint custody to the parents shall be considered upon the request of either parent.

(b) An order for custody of a minor child may grant joint custody to the parents, exclusive custody to one person, agency, organization, or institution, or grant custody to two or more persons, agencies, organizations, or institutions. Any order for custody shall include such terms, including visitation, as will best promote the interest and welfare of the child. If the court finds that domestic violence has occurred, the court shall enter such orders that best protect the children and party who were the victims of domestic violence, in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 50B-3(a1)(1), (2), and (3). If a party is absent or relocates with or without the children because of an act of domestic violence, the absence or relocation shall not be a factor that weighs against the party in determining custody or visitation. Absent an order of the court to the contrary, each parent shall have equal access to the records of the minor child involving the health, education, and welfare of the child.

(b1) An order for custody of a minor child may provide visitation rights for any grandparent of the child as the court, in its discretion, deems appropriate. As used in this subsection, "grandparent" includes a biological grandparent of a child adopted by a stepparent or a relative of the child where a substantial relationship exists between the grandparent and the child. Under no circumstances shall a biological grandparent of a child adopted by adoptive parents, neither of whom is related to the child and where parental rights of both biological parents have been terminated, be entitled to visitation rights.

(c) An order for custody of a minor child may provide for such child to be taken outside of the State, but if the order contemplates the return of the child to this State, the judge may require the person, agency, organization or institution having custody out of this State to give bond or other security conditioned upon the return of the child to this State in accordance with the order of the court.

(d) If, within a reasonable time, one parent fails to consent to adoption pursuant to Chapter 48 of the General Statutes or parental rights have not been terminated, the consent of the other consenting parent shall not be effective in an action for custody of the child.

HOUSE BILL 1463:
Expand Access/Confidential Intermediaries

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 6, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Dickson, Wilkins, Harrell, Farmer-Butterfield	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Second Edition H1463-CSRV-57

SUMMARY: House Bill 1463 would allow adult full and half siblings of adult adoptees, and adult family members of deceased adoptees or deceased biological parents, to have access to confidential intermediary services from an adoption agency for facilitation of contact or to obtain identifying adoption information. The bill would also allow an agency acting as a confidential intermediary to obtain a copy of a death certificate of the person who is the subject of the search and deliver it to the person requesting services. This proposed committee substitute makes technical changes.

CURRENT LAW: Currently, NC adoption records are closed. The law provides that, with certain exceptions, no one may release a record that would lead directly to the identity of an adoptee, an adoptive parent of an adoptee, an adoptee's parent at birth, or an adoptee's birth sibling or grandparent. Exceptions are available through a court order, through voluntary consent, or through the services of a confidential intermediary. A confidential intermediary must be a staff person of a licensed adoption agency. The confidential intermediary may facilitate contact, release nonidentifying medical information, or release identifying information without a court order to any of the following:

- Adult adoptees.
- Adult lineal descendants of deceased adoptees.
- Biological parents.

To facilitate contact or share the information, the confidential intermediary must have written consent of all parties.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 – Definition of "confidential intermediary." This section would amend the definition of "confidential intermediary" to define the term as an agency (licensed child placing agency or a county department of social services) that may act as a third party to facilitate the sharing of information authorized by G.S. 48-9-104 (which is rewritten in Section 3 of the bill). This section of the bill would also delete the definition of "lineal descendant of a deceased adoptee".

Section 2 – Definition of "adult." This section would delete the provision that defined "adult" as someone 21 or older for purposes of the provisions relating to the use of confidential intermediaries. The would mean that the general definition of "adult" in G.S. 48-1-101 would apply, which says an adult is 18 or older, or a person under 18 who is either married or legally emancipated.

Section 3 – New Categories of People Added. This section would amend the list of people authorized to use confidential intermediary services to include the following:

- An adult biological sibling of an adult adoptee.
- An adult biological half sibling of an adult adoptee.
- An adult family member of a deceased biological parent.

- An adult family member of a deceased adoptee.

For purposes of this section, "family member" would mean spouse, child, stepchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, or grandchild.

If the biological parent is living, written consent of the biological parent is required before contact with or sharing of identifying information between any other parties.

If a confidential intermediary determines that the person who is the subject of the search is deceased, the agency may obtain a copy of the death certificate and deliver it to the person who requested the services.

Section 4 – Access to Death Certificate. This section would amend the statute related to access to vital records to authorize agencies providing confidential intermediary services to obtain a copy of the death certificate.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009.

BACKGROUND: House Bill 1463 is a combination of two bills recommended by the House Select Committee on Adoptee Birth Certificates in its interim report to the 2008 Short Session. A similar bill passed the House in 2008, but did not reach the floor of the Senate for a vote.

Looking Ellen Teruko Cunningham or her children

I am looking for my adopted sons mother ..He was born Sept.19,1981 and his mother is Ellen Teruko Cunningham..She was married to Larry Cunningham and divorced in 1983...She is Japanese. anyone knowing of her or her children please contact me.....cwhitley@northstate.net

ISO female adoptee born in 1963 or 1964 in Charlotte NC

Birth mom was around 16 yrs. old at time of birth. Birth mom's DOB is July/1947. Birth mom was a ward of the state and lived in an orphanage called "Jr. Order Home" in Lexington, NC until she became pregnant and was sent to a home for unwed mothers in Charlotte NC. Birth Moms name is Linda May but may have used the name Babs Murphy while at the maternity home. She gave birth and was able to keep baby in room with her over night and baby was taken away the next day. She may have named the girl Melinda. This was the name on a baby braclet she had with her. Adoption is believed to have been handled by DSS but unsure and the Social workers name believed to be Ms. Pully. Both birth parents were from the Granville and Franklin County area. Birth father was also around 16-17 at time of birth. It is believed that the adoptive parents sent pictures of the girl for a few years in the beginning so it is possible the adoptive parents know the birth moms name.

♡ISO Half-brother born 3-15-71 in Durham NC

My mother gave up a baby boy(my half brother) for adoption in 1971. Birth date of 3-15-71, she named him Michael Eugene and as I understand it, there was a stipulation that his middle name NOT be changed. As far as I know there was no last name on the BC, but if there were it would most likely have been her maiden name of Davenport. She lived with her parents in Fayetteville prior to the birth, but moved to the Salvation Army Maternity Home in Durham for the last 6 weeks of her pregnancy, and gave birth in Durham, most likely at Duke Hospital.

However, because of her place of permanent residency, Cumberland County DSS handled the adoption. The DSS gave a 30 reversal period for if she changed her mind on giving him up for adoption. I do not know the birthfather's name, but both of them were originally from Roanoke Rapids, NC., a very small north eastern NC mill town where I grew up. They were not married. My mother was 16 at the time of birth and the birthfather was in his 20s.

I really want to find my brother! If this sounds like a match, please contact me. I have not been able to find a search angel that can help in this area.

Honorable Senators and Representatives,

I am a Concerned Citizen of the great state of North Carolina. With so many complex issues before us, we should consider the words of wisdom written anonymously on behalf of people who were adopted.

As a voter, I've listened to your debates, and seen the progress brought forth by those who have the courage, compassion and insight to do the right thing.
Yet, I also hear a great deal of misinformation being spread by those whose interests may or may not reflect the adult adoptees of NC.

Please listen to this short and simple declaration - known as the "The Adoptees Bill of Rights". Please open your mind and your heart, and you will see our nation was founded on these very same principles.

I am 42 years old, and I was adopted in North Carolina in 1967. I have lived all of my life without having access to that most basic of identifying documents, my original birth certificate. I lived the first 41 years of my life without updated, accurate family health history. Time and again in doctors' offices, when the question of family history was addressed, all I had to say was "I don't know, I'm adopted," and suddenly the same information that seemed so vital only moments earlier was simply x-d off the page. My chances of living a full and healthy life were habitually being compromised by laws that made it impossible for me to know my genetic disease risks. Through the CI program, I was able to locate both of my biological families, and the health information I've learned may well save my life and the life of my son. At 42 years of age, healthy and active, I was not what you would consider at high risk for colon cancer. But during my first conversation with my biological father's family, I learned of a strong family history of early-onset colon cancer, in one case ending in the death of my up-until-then healthy and active uncle at the age of 50. My colonoscopy came back negative, and armed with what I know now, I'll be very proactive in terms of regular testing, and my 14-year-old son will never know the frustration of not having updated health history from both sides of his family.

The CI program as it currently stands has been a good first step. HB1463 (Expand Access/Confidential Intermediaries) will make it a little bit easier for the type of information sharing from which I have benefited to help others. I implore you to vote "yes" on HB1463.

Thank you.

Hello Senator Bingham,

I am writing to ask for your support for HB1463.I am 60 years old and was adopted at seven weeks old by parents that I would not trade for any others.For that I am thankful.They have been gone for several years.I started realizing some years ago that when I would have Dr.visits I always had to answer "I don't know,I was ɗopted" when asked about my family health history.I have 3 sons and several grandchildren now that could enefit from any knowledge of a family health history.
ıı would be wonderful to be allowed contact to siblings and have access to records of any known health issues in the biological family.
I owe it to my family to be able to supply any information that could be useful in management of any future health issues.
I ask that you please consider how much the benefit of this bill out ways any negatives.

I thank you for listening and hope you have a great 4th Holiday.
Best Regards,

James Alan Priddy

Honorable Senators

After speaking with Senator Goodall, I only wish I could be with you all today. However I have asked Roberta MacDonald to please speak to you on my behalf.

I speak to you first of all as Susan Self (Birth mother)
During the reunion with my daughter, one of the first questions I was asked "Do I have Grandparents alive?" Are their other living relatives? When can I meet them?

My daughter was willing to make a special trip to see her Grandmother and now also wants to attend our family reunion. I can tell you after this reunion, that branch relatives are very important to those who grew up with no blood relatives near them. It is extremely important and they should be able to connect with this lost side of blood family.

Second I speak to all of you as Susan Self (Aunt)
Recently, I have lived through my worst nightmare. My only nephew has lost custody of his children to the foster care system. This is due to drug and alcohol problems of both parents. However during this process, I soon came to realize that even as a blood relative, I have no rights. Even though I have been like a grandparent to these children, as my sister is deceased.

I realize after one year these children could go up for adoption, and if that is not bad enough upon the finalization of the adoption the records would be sealed. And the way the current law is should the parents become deceased all contact with these children could be lost forever to their blood relatives. These blood family members would be cut off with no future of ever seeing them again.

All too often the kids who land in the adoption system are taken away from parents who could not do the right thing in the beginning. But it cannot be the right, or fair thing for our State to do, in severing family ties forever. Especially after the bonds with family members these children have already made.

These children in the end will end up feeling like nobody cared about them or wanted to save them. The State steps in and must approve of your home, and if you have a medical condition, you can just about forget about trying to help or save the children you care so much about from being adopted into families of strangers, with no guarantee of them being adopted and kept together. Unfortunately to our State, love is not enough to help keep children with their own blood relatives.

HOUSE BILL 1058:
Increase Statutory Homestead Exemption

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Ref to Judiciary II. If fav, re-ref to Finance	Date:	July 14, 2009
Introduced by:	Representatives Blue and Weiss	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Proposed Committee Substitute H1058-CSSB-65 [v.1] for the Third Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1058 would increase the amount of the statutory homestead exemption, which protects a certain amount of a debtor's property from the debtor's creditors.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to S883, as introduced by Sen. Hartsell, which is currently in Senate Finance.]

CURRENT LAW: Current law provides that debtors may retain certain property free from the enforcement of creditors. One such statutory protection is the "homestead exemption", which protects the debtor's total interest in real property or personal property that the debtor uses as a residence, up to $18,500 in value. The statutory homestead exemption was originally established in 1981 in the amount of $7,500. It was increased to $10,000 in 1991 and $18,500 in 2005.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1058 would make the following changes to the homestead exemption statute:

- Increase from $18,500 to $35,000 the amount a debtor may retain free of the enforcement of claims of creditors of an interest in real property or personal property that the debtor or a dependent of the debtor uses as a residence.
- Increase from $37,000 to $60,000 the amount that an unmarried debtor who is 65 years of age or older may retain in an aggregate interest in the property so long as the property was previously owned by the debtor as a tenant by the entireties or as a joint tenant with rights of survivorship and the former co-owner of the property is deceased.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act would become effective October 1, 2009.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE VENUE RULES AND THE AUTHORITY OF MAGISTRATES FOR MUNICIPALITIES LYING IN FOUR OR MORE COUNTIES, EACH OF WHICH IS IN A DIFFERENT JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 7A-199(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) A district court judge sitting at a seat of court described in this section may, in criminal cases, conduct preliminary hearings and try misdemeanors arising within the corporate limits of the municipality plus the territory embraced within a distance of one mile in all directions therefrom.

If the corporate limits of the municipality extend into two or more counties, each of which is in a separate district court district, a district court judge assigned to sit at the seat of court has the same authority over criminal cases arising in the municipality and the territory embraced within a distance of one mile in all directions that he would have if the corporate limits of the municipality were solely located in a single district court district. Judges assigned to sit in such a municipality shall be assigned by the chief district court judge serving the district in which a majority of the voters of the municipality reside, but offenses arising in ~~the~~ a portion of the municipality in which ~~the~~ a minority of the voters reside shall not be disposed of in the municipality unless the chief district court judge for that district consents in writing to the disposition of criminal cases in the municipality. However, for charges brought by municipal law enforcement officers only, if the corporate limits of the municipality extend into four or more counties, each of which is in a separate district court district, offenses arising in a portion of the municipality in which a minority of the voters reside shall be disposed of in the portion of the municipality in which a majority of the voters reside without obtaining the consent of the chief district court judge for the district in which the offense occurred."

SECTION 2. G.S. 7A-293 reads as rewritten:

"§ 7A-293. Special authority of a magistrate assigned to a municipality located in more than one county of a district court district.

A magistrate assigned to an incorporated municipality, the boundaries of which lie in more than one county of a district court district, may, in criminal matters, exercise the powers granted by G.S. 7A-273 as if the corporate limits plus the territory embraced within a distance of one mile in all directions therefrom were located wholly within the magistrate's county of residence. Appeals from a magistrate exercising the authority granted by this section shall be taken in the district court in the county in which the offense was committed. A magistrate exercising the special authority granted by this section shall transmit all records, reports, and monies collected to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the offense was committed. In addition, if a magistrate is assigned to an incorporated municipality, the boundaries of which lie in two or more district court districts, the magistrate may exercise the powers described in this section as if ~~both~~ the counties were in the same district court district, if the clerks of superior court and the chief district court judges serving ~~both~~the districts in which the municipality is located agree in writing that the exercise of this special authority would promote the administration of justice in the municipality and in ~~both~~the districts. However, if a magistrate is assigned to an incorporated municipality, the boundaries of which lie in four or more counties, each of which is in a separate district court district, the magistrate may exercise the powers described in this section as if all the counties were in the same district court district, without the necessity of such an agreement between the clerks and judges of the affected counties, and the records, reports, and monies collected in connection with the exercise of that authority shall be transmitted to the clerk of the superior court district for which the municipality is a seat of court."

SECTION 3. G.S. 15A-131(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, venue for probable cause hearings and trial proceedings in cases within the original jurisdiction of the superior court lies in the county where the charged offense occurred. ~~If~~ Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if the alleged offense is committed within the corporate limits of a municipality which is the seat of superior court and is located in more than one county, venue lies in the superior court which sits within that municipality, but upon timely objection of the defendant or the district attorney in the county in which the alleged offense occurred the case must be transferred to the county in which the alleged offense occurred. However, for charges brought by municipal law enforcement officers only, if the alleged offense is committed within the corporate limits of a municipality that extends into four or more counties, each of which is in a separate superior court district, offenses committed within the corporate limits of the municipality but in a superior court district other than the one for which the municipality is the seat of superior court shall be disposed of in the municipality with no allowance for objections by the defendant or the district attorney."

HOUSE BILL 1077:
Venue/Municipalities in Multiple Districts

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 14, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Wiley, Jones	Prepared by:	Jennifer McGinnis
Analysis of:	PCS to Second Edition H1077-CSRI-39		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1077 amends the venue rules and the authority of magistrates for municipalities lying in four or more counties, each of which is in a different judicial district.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to S854, as introduced by Sen. Vaughan, which is currently in Senate Judiciary II.]

CHANGE MADE BY PCS: Modifies Section 2 to provide that the records, reports, and monies collected in connection with the magistrate's exercise of authority shall be transmitted to the clerk of the superior court district for the county in which the offense was committed (the previous edition of the bill provided that the records, reports, and monies would be transmitted to the clerk of the superior court district for which the municipality is a seat of court).

CURRENT LAW: North Carolina law currently makes provisions for the handling of criminal cases that occur in a municipality that is located in two counties which are in two different judicial districts by allowing the cases to be handled in the judicial district that has the majority of the voters in the municipality, with the written consent of the appropriate counterpart in the other judicial district. This is generally handled by standing agreements between the two judicial districts.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1077 amends the statutes relating to venue and the authorities of magistrates that currently apply to criminal cases within municipalities located in two counties and two judicial districts. The current law remains the same in its application to those municipalities located in two counties and two judicial districts.

House Bill 1077 adds language to the current law to make provisions for the handling of criminal cases in a municipality that is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different judicial districts.

Section 1 provides that with regard to venue for criminal matters in district court, the conduct of preliminary hearings and trial of misdemeanors, if a municipality is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different district court districts, criminal cases arising in the portions of the municipality where a minority of the voters reside shall be handled in the district court district where the majority of the voters in the municipality reside without obtaining the consent of the chief district court judge for the district in which the offense occurred.

Section 2 provides that if a municipality is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different district court districts, an assigned magistrate may exercise authority as if all the counties were in the same court district (an agreement between the clerks and judges of the affected counties to grant this special authority would not be necessary). The records, reports, and monies collected in connection with the magistrate's exercise of authority shall be transmitted to the clerk of the superior court district for the county in which the offense was committed.

Section 3 provides that with regard to venue for probable cause hearings and trial proceedings in cases within the original jurisdiction of the superior court, if a municipality is located in four or more counties, all of which are in different superior court districts, criminal cases arising in the portions of the municipality where a minority of the voters reside may be handled in the superior court district where the majority of the voters in the municipality reside with no allowance for objections by the defendant or the district attorney.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act becomes effective December 1, 2009, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.

BACKGROUND: Currently, the only municipality this Act would apply to is High Point.

Susan Sitze, Committee Counsel for House Ways and Means/Broadband Connectivity, and Steven Rose, Committee Counsel to House Judiciary III, substantially contributed to this summary.

HOUSE BILL 1261:
Protect Our Kids/Cyber Bullying Misdemeanor

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 13, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Mackey, Parmon	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter
Analysis of:	PCS to First Edition H1261-CSRV-58		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: This proposed committee substitute for House Bill 1261 contains the recommendations of a subcommittee appointed to consider the bill. The substitute bill would amend the State's cyberstalking law, making it unlawful to electronically mail or electronically communicate certain information or images pertaining to a minor with the intent to abuse, annoy, threaten, terrify, or harass a minor or a minor's parents. Violation would be a Class 1 misdemeanor if the perpetrator is over the age of 18, and the victim is a minor under the age of 16; otherwise the offense would be a Class 2 misdemeanor. The bill would provide for the conditional discharge and expunction of records of persons who commit the offense while under the age of 18.

CURRENT LAW: The offense of Cyberstalking is a Class 2 misdemeanor under G.S. 14-196.3, it is currently unlawful to do any of the following:

- use any words or language in electronic communication threatening to inflict bodily harm to any person, or to extort money or anything of value from another person
- electronically communicate with another repeatedly, for the purpose of abusing, annoying, threatening, harassing, or embarrassing any person
- electronically communicate to another and knowingly make any false statement concerning death, injury, illness, disfigurement, indecent conduct, or criminal conduct of the person electronically mailed or of any member of the person's family or household with the intent to abuse, annoy, threaten, terrify, harass, or embarrass.

BILL ANALYSIS: This proposed committee substitute for House Bill 1261 would amend the statute pertaining to cyberstalking, making it a Class 2 misdemeanor to do any of the following for the purpose of abusing, annoying, threatening, or harassing a minor, or the minor's parent or guardian:

- electronically mail or post a real or doctored image of a minor on the Internet
- electronically mail, post, or encourage others to post on the Internet private, personal, or sexual information pertaining to a minor
- electronically mail, post, or encourage others to post on the Internet an unauthorized copy of any data pertaining to a minor

The bill would provide that if the offender is over the age of 18, and the targeted victim is under the age of 16, violation of the statute would constitute cyberbullying and would be punishable as a Class 1 misdemeanor. The bill would also provide for the conditional discharge and expunction of records of persons who commit the offense of cyberstalking or cyberbullying while under the age of 18. The bill would amend the existing law on cyberstalking to eliminate behavior intended to "embarrass" a victim.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective December 1, 2009 and apply to offenses occurring on or after that date.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE NOTICE OF RIGHT TO SEEK LEGAL COUNSEL AND CLARIFY NOTICE REQUIRED TO PARTIES WHO MAY BE UNKNOWN OR UNLOCATABLE IN A PARTITION PROCEEDING; TO CODIFY THE CURRENT PRACTICE OF GRANTING OWNERS CREDIT FOR THEIR EXISTING INTEREST IN LAND WHEN BIDDING ON A PARTITION SALE; TO PERMIT A COURT TO ORDER AN INDEPENDENT APPRAISAL IF REQUESTED AND PAID FOR BY A PARTY TO THE PARTITION WHO CHALLENGES THE AMOUNT BID IN A PARTITION SALE, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE PARTITION SALES STUDY COMMITTEE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 1 of Chapter 46 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 46-2.1. Summons; notice.

(a) In partition proceedings initiated under this Chapter, the period of time for answering a summons is provided in G.S. 1-394.

(b) Written notice shall be included in the petition in a manner reasonably calculated to make the respondent aware of the following:

(1) That the respondent has the right to seek the advice of an attorney and that free legal services may be available to the respondent by contacting Legal Aid of North Carolina or other legal services organizations.

(2) That pursuant to G.S. 6-21 the court has the authority, in its discretion, to order reasonable attorneys' fees to be paid as a part of the costs of the proceeding."

SECTION 2. G.S. 46-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-6. Unknown or unlocatable parties; ~~summons and~~ summons, notice, and representation.

(a) If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. The notice by publication shall include a description of the property which includes the street address, if any, or other common designation for the property, if any, and may include the legal description of the property.

(b) ~~If~~ Before or after such general notice by publication if any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall ~~in its discretion~~ appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown or unlocatable and unrepresented."

SECTION 3. G.S. 46-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28. Sale procedure.

(a) The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General ~~Statutes.~~ Statutes, except as provided herein.

(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and
(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and
(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and
(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2),~~ this section, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 5. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO CLARIFY NOTICE REQUIRED TO PARTIES WHO MAY BE UNKNOWN OR UNLOCATABLE IN A PARTITION PROCEEDING; TO CODIFY THE CURRENT PRACTICE OF GRANTING OWNERS CREDIT FOR THEIR EXISTING INTEREST IN LAND WHEN BIDDING ON A PARTITION SALE; TO PERMIT A COURT TO ORDER AN INDEPENDENT APPRAISAL IF REQUESTED AND PAID FOR BY A PARTY TO THE PARTITION WHO CHALLENGES THE AMOUNT BID IN A PARTITION SALE, TO REVISE THE STANDARD FOR DETERMINING WHAT CONSTITUTES "SUBSTANTIAL INJURY" WITH REGARDS TO A PETITION FOR A SALE OF THE PROPERTY, AND TO PROVIDE FOR MEDIATION OF PARTITION DISPUTES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 46-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-6. Unknown or unlocatable parties; ~~summons and~~ summons, notice, and representation.

(a) If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. The notice by publication shall include a description of the property which includes the street address, if any, or other common designation for the property, if any, and may include the legal description of the property.

(b) ~~If~~ Before or after such general notice by publication if any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall ~~in its discretion~~ appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown or unlocatable and unrepresented."

SECTION 2. G.S. 46-22 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-22. Sale in lieu of partition.

(a) Subject to G.S. 46-22.1(b), the ~~The~~ court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or of any part, only if it finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without substantial injury to ~~any of~~ the interested ~~parties.~~parties taking into account the totality of the circumstances.

~~(b) "Substantial injury" means the fair market value of each share in an in-kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, and if an in-kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenant's rights.~~

(b1) In determining whether a partition in kind of all the property or some of the property cannot be made without substantial injury, the court shall consider the following factors:

(1) Whether the property is able to be fairly and equitably divided, in whole or in part, between the party or parties seeking a partition by sale and those seeking to remain tenants in common;

(2) Whether a partition in-kind would apportion the property in such a way that the fair market value of the parcels resulting from the division would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, based upon a valuation that takes into account the type of sale conditions under which the court-ordered sale would occur;

(3) Evidence of long-standing ownership by any individual owner as supplemented by the length of time of ownership within the chain of title of any person or persons to whom such a cotenant is or was related to by blood, marriage, or adoption;

(4) The use being made of the property by any of the owners and the degree to which this owner or owners would be harmed if they could not continue to use the property for these purposes;

(5) The degree to which the owners have contributed their pro rata share of the property taxes, insurance, and other carrying charges associated with maintaining ownership of the real property as well as the degree to which the owners have contributed to the physical improvement or the upkeep of the property, including any upkeep related to protecting the interests of the owners against any person who has no legal claim to the property but who attempts to use the property without the consent of the owners;

(6) Whether the substantial injury from an actual division to the parties requesting a sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale; and

(7) Any other economic or noneconomic factors that the court finds appropriate to consider.

(b2) The court shall use the remedy of owelty where such remedy can aid in making a partition in kind occur without substantial injury to the parties.

(c) The court shall specifically find the facts supporting an order of sale of the property.

(d) The party seeking a sale of the property shall have the burden of proving substantial injury under the provisions of this section."

SECTION 3. Article 2 of Chapter 46 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 46-22.1 Mediation.

(a) Persons interested in the premises may agree at any time to mediation of a partition. A list of mediators certified by the Dispute Resolution Commission may be obtained from the clerk or from the Commission through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(b) When a partition sale is requested, the court or the clerk may order mediation before considering whether to order a sale. The provisions of G.S. 7A-38.1 and G.S. 7A-38.3B shall apply."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28. Sale procedure.

(a) The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General ~~Statutes.~~ Statutes, except as provided herein.

(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 5. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and
(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and
(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and
(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2),~~ this section, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 6. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 578:
Partition Sales/Commrs., Sellers, Buyers

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 21, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Bryant, Michaux, Allen, Harrison	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Third Edition H578-CSRC-43

SUMMARY: House Bill 578 would require that respondents in a partition proceeding be notified of their right to seek legal counsel, and would clarify the requirements for providing notice to unknown or unlocatable parties in a partition proceeding. It would also grant owners credit for their existing interest in the land when bidding on it in a partition sale, and would require the court to order an independent appraisal if requested and paid for by a party who challenges the amount bid in a partition sale. The PCS also amends the circumstances when a court must order a sale. It also amends the definition of "substantial injury" to include non-economic factors such as evidence of long-standing ownership by one or more individual owners and whether the substantial injury to the individuals requesting the sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale.

CURRENT LAW: To legally "partition" property means to bring a proceeding in court to force the physical division or sale of real property and in the event of sale to have the property or proceeds from sale of the property divided among co-owners of the property. Under the laws governing the partition of real property (Chapter 46 of the General Statutes), one or more persons claiming joint ownership in real property may petition the superior court for partition of the property. The court must order a sale of the property if it finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the actual partition of the property cannot be made without substantial injury to any of the interested parties. "Substantial injury" is defined as "the fair market value of each share in an in kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, and if the in kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenant's rights." G.S. 46-22(b).

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the notification of unknown parties to a partition proceeding. Under existing law, when the court determines that there are persons with an interest in the property whose names are unknown and cannot be ascertained by the petitioner, the court can order that notice be made by publication in a newspaper. The bill would require that notice by publication include a full description of the property, and require the court to appoint someone to represent any unknown or unlocatable parties.

Section 2 amends the definition of "substantial injury" (the standard a court must apply when deciding whether to order a sale). The court would order a sale if an in kind partition cannot be made without substantial injury to the interested parties (as opposed to "any of the interested parties") taking into account the totality of the circumstances. A court would consider the following when determining whether an in kind partition would cause substantial injury:

- Whether the property can be fairly and equitably divided between those seeking a sale and those seeking to remain tenants in common.
- Whether a partition in kind would cause the fair market value of the parcels to be materially less than the money equivalent from a sale, taking into consideration a court-ordered sale.

- Evidence of long-standing ownership by any individual owner as supplemented by the length of time of ownership within the chain of title of any person to whom the cotenant is related by blood, marriage or adoption.
- The use of the property by any owner and the harm to that owner caused by the loss of the use of the property.
- The degree to which the owners have contributed their pro rata share of the property taxes, insurance, and other charges related to the property.
- Whether the substantial injury from an actual division to the parties requesting the sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale.
- Any other factor the courts finds appropriate to consider.

Section 3 states that the interested parties may enter into mediation to resolve the dispute prior to filing an action and that the clerk or the court may require the parties to attempt to mediate a settlement prior to ordering a sale.

Section 4 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the sale procedure for partition sales, to provide that any cotenant making an offer to purchase the entire parcel would receive credit for the value of his or her share and received a corresponding reduction in the amount owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale. The bill would allow two or more cotenants to aggregate the credit for their interests.

Section 5 of the bill would amend the law pertaining to a petition for revocation of an order confirming the partition sale of real property by making a technical change, and by adding a new provision that would require the court to order an independent appraisal of the property upon request of the petitioner. If, based on the appraisal and other evidence, the court finds the sale price to be inadequate the court may revoke the order confirming the sale. The cost of the appraisal would be apportioned to all parties requesting it, and the court could require the parties to pay all or part of that cost prior to the appraisal.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009 and apply to partition actions filed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 1057:
Abolish Certain Deficiency Judgments

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 14, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Blue	Prepared by:	Jennifer McGinnis
Analysis of:	PCS to Third Edition H1057-CSRI-44		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute (PCS) for House Bill 1057 would abolish the ability of a mortgagee to obtain a deficiency judgment after foreclosure and sale of real property against the mortgagor in certain cases where the mortgage is secured by a primary residence.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to S819, as introduced by Sen. Hartsell, which is currently in Senate Judiciary II.]

CHANGES MADE BY PCS:

- Reformatting of provisions.
- Several definitions clarified.
- New language added providing that a court, in its discretion, may award reasonable attorneys' fees to a borrower that successfully defends against a deficiency judgment brought in violation of the bill's provisions.
- New exemptions from applicability included for: (1) loans secured by a subordinate lien on the borrower's principal residence, unless that loan was made contemporaneously with a rate spread home loan or nontraditional mortgage loan; and (2) reverse mortgages.
- Other technical, clarifying, and conforming changes.

CURRENT LAW:

Under current law, a mortgagee creditor may recover a deficiency judgment against the mortgagor for the unpaid balance due on the mortgage debt after applying the amount realized at a foreclosure sale. The right of a mortgagee to obtain a deficiency judgment is subject to a number of exceptions, including the following: there may be a contract between the parties under which the mortgagee has waived the right to a deficiency judgment; an applicable statute of limitations time period might have expired, or the anti-deficiency statute [G.S. 45-21.38[1]] might be applicable.[2]

BILL ANALYSIS:

The PCS for House Bill 1057 would abolish the ability of a mortgagee or trustee to obtain a deficiency judgment in the sale of real property secured by a borrower's primary residence, if the defaulted mortgage loan was a rate spread home loan or a nontraditional mortgage loan.

A rate spread home loan is a residential mortgage loan with an annual percentage rate that is at least 3% greater than a U.S. Treasury security with a comparable maturity or at least 1.75% greater than the conventional mortgage rate on a first mortgage.

A nontraditional mortgage loan means a loan that allows a consumer to select a payment deferring satisfaction of principal or interest and that allows for negative amortization of the loan balance -- a loan that allows payments that do not cover the full amount of the interest due, and where the unpaid interest is added to the principal balance of the loan. In such loans, rather than the principal balance decreasing as with standard amortization loans, the principal balance increases.

[1]G.S. 45-21.38 provides that a seller of real property who takes a purchase money mortgage to secure the balance of the purchase price of the property is prohibited from obtaining a deficiency judgment on account of the mortgage.
[2]Webster's Real Estate Law in North Carolina, 5th Edition, §13-45.

The PCS also provides: (i) that, a court, in its discretion, may award reasonable attorneys' fees to a borrower that successfully defends against a deficiency judgment brought in violation of the bill's provisions; and (ii) exemptions from applicability for several types of loans.

For mortgages or deed of trusts recorded before January 1, 2010, the new G.S. 45-21.38A(d)(1) would abolish deficiency judgments in foreclosures of a borrower's principal dwelling commenced under a power of sale clause contained in the mortgage or deed of trust.

For mortgages or deed of trusts recorded on or after January 1, 2010, the new G.S. 45-21.38A(d)(2) would abolish deficiency judgments in foreclosures of a borrower's principal dwelling commenced under a power of sale clause contained in the mortgage or deed of trust, as well to judicial foreclosures.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law, and applies to actions filed on or after that date.

Referred to:	Judiciary I, if favorable, Commerce, Small Business, and Entrepreneurship.

February 25, 2009

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO REWRITE THE LAW CONCERNING THE RECOGNITION OF FOREIGN MONEY JUDGMENTS, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE GENERAL STATUTES COMMISSION .

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 18 of Chapter 1C of the General Statutes is repealed.

SECTION 2. Chapter 1C of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Article to read:

"Article 20.

"North Carolina Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act.

"§ 1C-1850. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the North Carolina Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act.

"§ 1C-1851. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Foreign country. – A government other than:

a. The United States;

b. A state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession of the United States; or

c. Any other government with regard to which the decision in this State as to whether to recognize a judgment of that government's courts is initially subject to determination under the Full Faith and Credit Clause of the United States Constitution.

(2) Foreign-country judgment. – A judgment of a court of a foreign country.

"§ 1C-1852. Applicability; saving clause.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) of this section, this Article applies to a foreign-country judgment to the extent that the judgment:

(1) Grants or denies recovery of a sum of money; and

(2) Under the law of the foreign country where rendered, is final, conclusive, and enforceable.

(b) This Article does not apply to a foreign-country judgment, even if the judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, to the extent that the judgment is:

(1) A judgment for taxes;

(2) A fine or other penalty; or

(3) A judgment for alimony, support, or maintenance in matrimonial or family matters.

(c) A party seeking recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that this Article applies to the foreign-country judgment.

(d) This Article does not prevent the recognition under principles of comity or otherwise of a foreign-country judgment to which this Article does not apply.

"§ 1C-1853. Standards for recognition and nonrecognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, a court of this State shall recognize a foreign-country judgment to which this Article applies.

(b) A court of this State shall not recognize a foreign-country judgment if:

(1) The judgment was rendered under a judicial system that, taken as a whole, does not provide impartial tribunals or procedures compatible with the requirements of due process of law;

(2) The foreign court did not have personal jurisdiction over the defendant; or

(3) The foreign court did not have jurisdiction over the subject matter.

(c) If a court of this State finds that any of the following exist with respect to a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought, recognition of the judgment shall be denied unless the court determines, as a matter of law, that recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances:

(1) The defendant in the proceeding in the foreign court did not receive notice of the proceeding in sufficient time to enable the defendant to defend.

(2) The judgment was obtained by fraud that deprived the losing party of an adequate opportunity to present its case.

(3) The judgment, or the cause of action or claim for relief on which the judgment is based, is repugnant to the public policy of this State or of the United States.

(4) Reserved for future codification.

(5) The proceeding in the foreign court was contrary to an agreement between the parties under which the dispute in question was to be determined otherwise than by proceedings in that foreign court.

(6) In the case of jurisdiction based only on personal service, the foreign court was a seriously inconvenient forum for the trial of the action.

(7) The judgment was rendered in circumstances that raise substantial doubt about the integrity of the rendering court with respect to the judgment.

(8) The specific proceeding in the foreign court leading to the judgment was fundamentally unfair.

(d) If a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought is otherwise entitled to recognition under this Article but conflicts with a prior final and conclusive judgment, a court of this State shall recognize the judgment for which recognition is sought unless the court determines that nonrecognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(e) If a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought is otherwise entitled to recognition under this Article but conflicts with a subsequent final and conclusive judgment, a court of this State shall deny recognition of the judgment for which recognition is sought unless the court determines that recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(f) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition stated in subsection (b) of this section exists.

(g) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition stated in subsection (c) of this section exists. The party seeking recognition of the judgment has the burden of establishing that, as a matter of law, recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(h) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment under subsection (d) or (e) of this section has the burden of establishing that another final and conclusive judgment exists and that the other judgment conflicts with the judgment for which recognition is sought. Under subsection (d) of this section, the party resisting recognition also has the burden of establishing that nonrecognition of the judgment for which recognition is sought would be reasonable under the circumstances. Under subsection (e) of this section, the party seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that recognition would be reasonable under the circumstances.

(i) When a court of this State rules on recognition of a foreign-country judgment, the court shall state the facts specially and state separately its conclusions of law.

"§ 1C-1854. Personal jurisdiction.

(a) A foreign-country judgment shall not be refused recognition for lack of personal jurisdiction if any of the following exist:

(1) The defendant was served with process personally in the foreign country.

(2) The defendant voluntarily appeared in the proceeding, other than for the purpose of protecting property seized or threatened with seizure in the proceeding or of contesting the jurisdiction of the court over the defendant.

(3) The defendant, before the commencement of the proceeding, had agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of the foreign court with respect to the subject matter involved.

(4) The defendant was domiciled in the foreign country when the proceeding was instituted or was a corporation or other form of business organization that had its principal place of business in, or was organized under the laws of, the foreign country.

(5) The defendant had a business office in the foreign country and the proceeding in the foreign court involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of business done by the defendant through that office in the foreign country.

(6) The defendant operated a motor vehicle or airplane in the foreign country and the proceeding involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of that operation.

(7) There was any other basis for personal jurisdiction that would be consistent with the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

(b) The list of bases for personal jurisdiction in subsection (a) of this section is not exclusive. The courts of this State may recognize reasonable bases of personal jurisdiction other than those listed in subsection (a) of this section as sufficient to support a foreign-country judgment.

"§ 1C-1855. Procedure for recognition and nonrecognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) If recognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought as an original matter, the issue of recognition shall be raised by filing an action seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment.

(b) If recognition or nonrecognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought in some other action, the issue of recognition may be raised by complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim, or affirmative defense.

"§ 1C-1856. Effect of recognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) If the court in a proceeding under G.S. 1C-1855 finds that the foreign-country judgment is entitled to recognition under this Article then, to the extent that the foreign-country judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, the foreign-country judgment is:

(1) Conclusive between the parties to the same extent as the judgment of a sister state entitled to full faith and credit in this State would be conclusive; and

(2) Enforceable in the same manner and to the same extent as a judgment rendered in this State.

(b) Article 17 of this Chapter does not apply to the enforcement of foreign-country judgments recognized under this Article.

"§ 1C-1857. Stay of proceedings pending appeal of foreign-country judgment.

If a party establishes that an appeal from a foreign-country judgment is pending or will be taken, the court may stay any proceedings with regard to the foreign-country judgment until the appeal is concluded, the time for appeal expires without an appeal being taken, or the appellant has had sufficient time to prosecute the appeal and has failed to do so.

"§ 1C-1858. Statute of limitations.

An action to recognize a foreign-country judgment must be commenced within the earlier of the time during which the foreign-country judgment is effective in the foreign country or 10 years from the date that the foreign-country judgment became effective in the foreign country.

"§ 1C-1859. Uniformity of interpretation.

In applying and construing this Article, consideration may be given to promoting uniformity of interpretation with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it."

SECTION 3. The Revisor of Statutes shall cause to be printed along with this act all relevant portions of the official comments to the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act and all explanatory comments of the drafters of this act as the Revisor deems appropriate.

SECTION 4. This act is effective October 1, 2009, and applies to all actions commenced on or after that date in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO CLARIFY NOTICE REQUIRED TO PARTIES WHO MAY BE UNKNOWN OR UNLOCATABLE IN A PARTITION PROCEEDING; TO CODIFY THE CURRENT PRACTICE OF GRANTING OWNERS CREDIT FOR THEIR EXISTING INTEREST IN LAND WHEN BIDDING ON A PARTITION SALE; TO PERMIT A COURT TO ORDER AN INDEPENDENT APPRAISAL IF REQUESTED AND PAID FOR BY A PARTY TO THE PARTITION WHO CHALLENGES THE AMOUNT BID IN A PARTITION SALE; TO REVISE THE STANDARD FOR DETERMINING WHAT CONSTITUTES "SUBSTANTIAL INJURY" WITH REGARDS TO A PETITION FOR A SALE OF THE PROPERTY; AND TO PROVIDE FOR MEDIATION OF PARTITION DISPUTES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 46-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-6. Unknown or unlocatable parties; ~~summons and~~ summons, notice, and representation.

(a) If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. The notice by publication shall include a description of the property which includes the street address, if any, or other common designation for the property, if any, and may include the legal description of the property.

(b) ~~If~~ Before or after such general notice by publication if any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall ~~in its discretion~~ appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown or unlocatable and unrepresented."

SECTION 2. G.S. 46-22 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-22. Sale in lieu of partition.

(a) Subject to G.S. 46-22.1(b), the ~~The~~ court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or of any part, only if it finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without substantial injury to ~~any of~~ the interested ~~parties.~~parties taking into account the totality of the circumstances.

~~(b) "Substantial injury" means the fair market value of each share in an in-kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be~~

~~obtained from the sale of the whole, and if an in-kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenant's rights.~~

(b1) In determining whether a partition in-kind of all the property or some of the property cannot be made without substantial injury, the court shall consider the following factors:

(1) Whether the property is able to be fairly and equitably divided, in whole or in part, between the party or parties seeking a partition by sale and those seeking to remain tenants in common;

(2) Whether a partition in-kind would apportion the property in such a way that the fair market value of the parcels resulting from the division would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, based upon a valuation that takes into account the type of sale conditions under which the court-ordered sale would occur;

(3) Evidence of long-standing ownership by any individual owner as supplemented by the length of time of ownership within the chain of title of any person or persons to whom such a cotenant is or was related to by blood, marriage, or adoption;

(4) The use being made of the property by any of the owners and the degree to which this owner or owners would be harmed if they could not continue to use the property for these purposes;

(5) The degree to which the owners have contributed their pro rata share of the property taxes, insurance, and other carrying charges associated with maintaining ownership of the real property, as well as the degree to which the owners have contributed to the physical improvement or the upkeep of the property, including any upkeep related to protecting the interests of the owners against any person who has no legal claim to the property but who attempts to use the property without the consent of the owners;

(6) Whether the substantial injury from an actual division to the parties requesting a sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale; and

(7) Any other economic or noneconomic factors that the court finds appropriate to consider.

(b2) The court shall use the remedy of owelty where such remedy can aid in making a partition in-kind occur without substantial injury to the parties.

(c) The court shall specifically find the facts supporting an order of sale of the property.

(d) The party seeking a sale of the property shall have the burden of proving substantial injury under the provisions of this section."

SECTION 3. Article 2 of Chapter 46 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 46-22.1 Mediation.

(a) Persons interested in the premises may agree at anytime to mediation of a partition. A list of mediators certified by the Dispute Resolution Commission may be obtained from the clerk or from the Commission through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(b) When a partition sale is requested, the court or the clerk may order mediation before considering whether to order a sale. The provisions of G.S. 7A-38.1 and G.S. 7A-38.3B shall apply."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28. Sale procedure.

(a) The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General ~~Statutes.~~ Statutes, except as provided herein.

(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 5. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and
(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and
(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and
(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2),~~ this section, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 6. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

(a) If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. The notice by publication shall include a description of the property which includes the street address, if any, or other common designation for the property, if any, and may include the legal description of the property.

(b) ~~If~~ Before or after such general notice by publication if any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall ~~in its discretion~~ appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown or unlocatable and unrepresented."

SECTION 2. G.S. 46-22 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-22. Sale in lieu of partition.

(a) ~~The~~ Subject to G.S. 46-22.1(b), the court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or of any part, only if it finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without substantial injury to any of the interested parties.

(b) In determining ~~"Substantial~~ "substantial injury" the court shall consider all of the following:

(1) Whether ~~means~~ the fair market value of each share in an in-kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the ~~whole;~~whole.

(2) Whether a sale or ~~and if~~ an in-kind division would result in material impairment of the ~~cotenant's~~ cotenants' rights.

(3) Whether the substantial injury to the parties requesting the sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties requesting an in-kind division or to remain tenants in common.

(b1) The court shall use the remedy of owelty where such remedy can aid in making a partition in-kind occur without substantial injury to the parties.

(c) The court shall specifically find the facts supporting an order of sale of the property.

(d) The party seeking a sale of the property shall have the burden of proving substantial injury under the provisions of this section."

SECTION 3. Article 2 of Chapter 46 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 46-22.1 Mediation.

(a) Persons interested in the premises may agree at anytime to mediation of a partition. A list of mediators certified by the Dispute Resolution Commission may be obtained from the clerk or from the Commission through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(b) When a partition sale is requested, the court or the clerk may order mediation before considering whether to order a sale. The provisions of G.S. 7A-38.1 and G.S. 7A-38.3B shall apply."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28. Sale procedure.

(a) The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General ~~Statutes.~~ Statutes, except as provided herein.

(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 5. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and

(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and

(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and

(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2),~~ this section, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 6. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 578:
Partition Sales/Commrs., Sellers, Buyers

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 27, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Bryant, Michaux, Allen, Harrison	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Fourth Edition H578-CSRC-60

SUMMARY: House Bill 578 would require that respondents in a partition proceeding be notified of their right to seek legal counsel, and would clarify the requirements for providing notice to unknown or unlocatable parties in a partition proceeding. It would also grant owners credit for their existing interest in the land when bidding on it in a partition sale, and would require the court to order an independent appraisal if requested and paid for by a party who challenges the amount bid in a partition sale. The PCS amends the circumstances when a court must order a sale. The additional factor is whether the substantial injury of an in-kind partition to the individuals requesting the sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale.

CURRENT LAW: To legally "partition" property means to bring a proceeding in court to force the physical division or sale of real property and in the event of sale to have the property or proceeds from sale of the property divided among co-owners of the property. Under the laws governing the partition of real property (Chapter 46 of the General Statutes), one or more persons claiming joint ownership in real property may petition the superior court for partition of the property. The court must order a sale of the property if it finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the actual partition of the property cannot be made without substantial injury to any of the interested parties. "Substantial injury" is defined as "the fair market value of each share in an in kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, and if the in kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenant's rights." G.S. 46-22(b).

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the notification of unknown parties to a partition proceeding. Under existing law, when the court determines that there are persons with an interest in the property whose names are unknown and cannot be ascertained by the petitioner, the court can order that notice be made by publication in a newspaper. The bill would require that notice by publication include a full description of the property, and require the court to appoint someone to represent any unknown or unlocatable parties.

Section 2 amends the definition of "substantial injury" (the standard a court must apply when deciding whether to order a sale). The court would order a sale if an in-kind partition cannot be made without substantial injury to any of the interested parties. A court would consider the following when determining whether an in kind partition would cause substantial injury:

- Whether the fair market value of each share in an in-kind partition would be materially less than the money equivalent from a sale of the whole.
- Whether a sale or an in-kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenants' rights.
- Whether the substantial injury to the individuals requesting the sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale.

Section 3 states that the interested parties may enter into mediation to resolve the dispute prior to filing an action and that the clerk or the court may require the parties to attempt to mediate a settlement prior to ordering a sale.

Section 4 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the sale procedure for partition sales, to provide that any cotenant making an offer to purchase the entire parcel would receive credit for the value of his or her share and received a corresponding reduction in the amount owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale. The bill would allow two or more cotenants to aggregate the credit for their interests.

Section 5 of the bill would amend the law pertaining to a petition for revocation of an order confirming the partition sale of real property by making a technical change, and by adding a new provision that would require the court to order an independent appraisal of the property upon request of the petitioner. If, based on the appraisal and other evidence, the court finds the sale price to be inadequate the court may revoke the order confirming the sale. The cost of the appraisal would be apportioned to all parties requesting it, and the court could require the parties to pay all or part of that cost prior to the appraisal.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009 and apply to partition actions filed on or after that date.

"Rule 616. Alternative testimony of children and developmentally disabled.

(a) Closed Circuit Testimony Permitted. – When a witness is either (i) under the age of 16 or (ii) developmentally disabled or mentally retarded, the court may, on its own motion or at the request of a party, order that witness's testimony be taken by closed circuit television in any action, whether civil or criminal in nature.

(b) Finding of Emotional Harm Required in Criminal Actions. – Closed circuit testimony may be permitted in criminal actions only if the court finds that there is a substantial likelihood that the witness will suffer emotional harm such that the witness could not reasonably communicate with the finder of fact if required to testify in open court. Such a finding shall be based upon clear and convincing evidence, which may include expert testimony.

(c) Finding of Best Interests of Witness in Civil Actions. – Closed circuit testimony may be permitted in civil actions only if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that permitting the witness to testify by closed circuit television is necessary to serve the best interests of the witness or enable the witness to communicate with the finder of fact. In making this finding, the court shall consider:

(1) The nature of the proceeding;

(2) The age and maturity of the witness;

(3) The relationship of the witness to the parties in the proceeding;

(4) The nature and degree of emotional trauma that the witness may suffer in testifying; and

(5) Any other relevant factor.

(d) Definitions. – The following definitions apply in this section:

(2) Developmentally disabled. – A person with a severe, chronic disability which:

a. Is attributable to a mental or physical impairment or combination of mental and physical impairments, including cerebral palsy, epilepsy, autism, or other neurological conditions;

c. Is likely to continue indefinitely;

d. Results in substantial functional limitations in three or more of the following areas of major life activity: self-care, receptive and expressive language, capacity for independent living, learning, mobility, self-direction and economic self-sufficiency; and

e. Reflects the person's need for a combination and sequence of special interdisciplinary or generic care, treatment, or other services which are of a lifelong or extended duration and are individually planned and coordinated; or

f. When applied to children from birth through four years of age, may be evidenced as a developmental delay.

(3) Mentally retarded. – A person with significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning existing concurrently with deficits in adaptive behavior and manifested before age 22."

"Rule 616. Alternative testimony of witnesses with developmental disabilities or mental retardation in civil cases and special proceedings.

(a) Definitions. – The following definitions apply to this section:

(1) The definitions set out in G.S. 122C-3.

(2) "Remote testimony" means a method by which a witness testifies outside of an open forum and outside of the physical presence of a party or parties.

(b) Remote Testimony Authorized. – A person with a developmental disability or a person with mental retardation who is competent to testify may testify by remote testimony in a civil proceeding or special proceeding if the court determines by clear and convincing evidence that the witness would suffer serious emotional distress from testifying in the presence of a named party or parties or from testifying in an open forum and that the ability of the witness to communicate with the trier of fact would be impaired by testifying in the presence of a named party or parties or from testifying in an open forum.

(c) Hearing Procedure. – Upon motion of a party or the court's own motion, and for good cause shown, the court shall hold an evidentiary hearing to determine whether to allow remote testimony. The hearing shall be recorded unless recordation is waived by all parties. The presence of the witness is not required at the hearing unless so ordered by the presiding judge.

(d) Order. – An order allowing or disallowing the use of remote testimony shall state the findings and conclusions of law that support the court's determination. An order allowing the use of remote testimony shall also do all of the following:

(1) State the method by which the witness is to testify.

(2) List any individual or category of individuals allowed to be in or required to be excluded from the presence of the witness during testimony.

A party may waive the right to have counsel physically present where the witness testifies.

(f) Nonexclusive Procedure and Standard. – Nothing in this section shall prohibit the use or application of any other method or procedure authorized or required by law for the introduction into evidence of statements or testimony of a person with a developmental disability or a person with mental retardation."

(c) Hearing Procedure. – Upon motion of a party or the court's own motion, and for good cause shown, the court shall hold an evidentiary hearing to determine whether to allow remote testimony. The hearing shall be recorded unless recordation is waived by all parties. The presence of the witness is not required at the hearing unless so ordered by the presiding judge.

(d) Order. – An order allowing or disallowing the use of remote testimony shall state the findings and conclusions of law that support the court's determination. An order allowing the use of remote testimony shall also do all of the following:

HOUSE BILL 775:
Alt. Testimony/Children and Adults with Disab

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 28 2009
Introduced by:	Representatives England, M. Alexander, and Parmon	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Proposed Committee Substitute H775-CSSB-74 [v.5] to the First Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 775 would provide alternative procedures for taking the testimony of persons with developmental disabilities and persons with mental retardation. This bill is a recommendation of the Joint Study Committee on Autism Spectrum Disorder and Public Safety.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to S241, as introduced by Sen. Purcell, which is currently in Senate Judiciary I.]

BACKGROUND:

The Confrontation Clause of the Sixth Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that "in all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right...to be confronted with the witnesses against him." A similar right is set out in Article 1, Section 23 of the NC Constitution, which provides that "In all criminal prosecutions, every person charged with crime has the right...to confront the accusers and witnesses with other testimony." In 1990, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that testimony by closed circuit television would not necessarily violate that right under certain conditions. In Maryland v. Craig, 497 U.S. 836 (1990), the United States Supreme Court upheld a Maryland statute permitting the use of one-way closed circuit testimony for a child witness alleged to be the victim of child abuse when the trial court had determined that the testimony by the child victim in the courtroom would result in the child suffering emotional distress such that the child could not reasonably communicate.

North Carolina courts have addressed the issue of remote child testimony in the case of State v. Stradford, 119 N.C. App 654 (1995), holding that such testimony was allowable under certain circumstances. In Stradford, two minor children, the alleged victims of sexual abuse, were permitted to testify via closed circuit television due to the children's probable inability to communicate if forced to testify in defendant's presence. The Court of Appeals held that such testimony was permissible and did not violate the Confrontation Clause because the remote testimony preserved the essence of effective communication, as the child witnesses (1) testified under oath (2) were subject to full cross-examination, and (3) were able to be observed by the judge and defendant as they testified.

Nine states provide statutorily for alternative testimony by adults with disabilities under certain circumstances.

CURRENT LAW:

In North Carolina, certain proceedings in criminal matters may be conducted by audio and video transmission in which the parties can see and hear each other, including:

A hearing to determine the need to continue custody of a juvenile.

- Showing of probable cause through the oral testimony under oath or affirmation presented by a sworn law enforcement officer to the issuing official.

- A proceeding for initial appearance in a noncapital case, between the magistrate or other authorized judicial official and the defendant.
- First appearance before a district court judge.
- A proceeding to determine, modify, or revoke conditions of pretrial release in a noncapital case.
- Arraignment in a noncapital case.

BILL ANALYSIS:

House Bill 775 would amend the North Carolina Rules of Evidence, which govern proceedings in the courts of this State. The bill would authorize the court to permit remote testimony in any civil or criminal action when the witness is a person with a developmental disability or a person with mental retardation. The definitions of "developmental disability" and "mental retardation" are the same as those set out in Chapter 122C of the General Statutes (Mental Health). For a person with a developmental disability or a person with mental retardation, testimony would be taken remotely (generally by closed circuit television), which enables the defendant to observe and view the testimony, and which provides the defendant's right to assistance of counsel.

Criminal Actions – Remote testimony would be permitted in criminal actions only if the court finds, based on clear and convincing evidence, that the ability of the witness to communicate with the trier of fact would be impaired and the witness would suffer serious emotional distress from testifying in the presence of the defendant. The "clear and convincing evidence" requirement means that the evidence must be sufficient to prove that it is highly probable or probably certain that the witness would suffer emotional harm from testifying in open court.

Civil Actions – Remote testimony would be permitted in civil actions if the court determines by clear and convincing evidence that the ability of the witness to communicate with the trier of fact would be impaired and the witness would suffer serious emotional distress from testifying in the presence of a named party or parties or from testifying in an open forum. The "clear and convincing evidence" requirement means that the evidence must be sufficient to prove that it is highly probable or probably certain that the witness would suffer emotional harm from testifying in open court.

EFFECTIVE DATE:

The bill would become effective December 1, 2009 and apply to hearings or trials held on or after that date.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO REWRITE THE LAW CONCERNING THE RECOGNITION OF FOREIGN MONEY JUDGMENTS, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE GENERAL STATUTES COMMISSION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 18 of Chapter 1C of the General Statutes is repealed.

SECTION 2. Chapter 1C of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Article to read:

"Article 20.

"North Carolina Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act.

"§ 1C-1850. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the North Carolina Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act.

"§ 1C-1851. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Foreign country. – A government other than:

a. The United States;

b. A state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession of the United States; or

c. Any other government with regard to which the decision in this State as to whether to recognize a judgment of that government's courts is initially subject to determination under the Full Faith and Credit Clause of the United States Constitution.

(2) Foreign-country judgment. – A judgment of a court of a foreign country.

"§ 1C-1852. Applicability; saving clause.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) of this section, this Article applies to a foreign-country judgment to the extent that the judgment:

(1) Grants or denies recovery of a sum of money; and

(2) Under the law of the foreign country where rendered, is final, conclusive, and enforceable.

(b) This Article does not apply to a foreign-country judgment, even if the judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, to the extent that the judgment is:

(1) A judgment for taxes;

(2) A fine or other penalty; or

(3) A judgment for alimony, support, or maintenance in matrimonial or family matters.

(c) A party seeking recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that this Article applies to the foreign-country judgment.

(d) This Article does not prevent the recognition under principles of comity or otherwise of a foreign-country judgment to which this Article does not apply.

"§ 1C-1853. Standards for recognition and nonrecognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, a court of this State shall recognize a foreign-country judgment to which this Article applies.

(b) A court of this State shall not recognize a foreign-country judgment if:

(1) The judgment was rendered under a judicial system that, taken as a whole, does not provide impartial tribunals or procedures compatible with the requirements of due process of law;

(2) The foreign court did not have personal jurisdiction over the defendant; or

(3) The foreign court did not have jurisdiction over the subject matter.

(c) If a court of this State finds that any of the following exist with respect to a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought, recognition of the judgment shall be denied unless the court determines, as a matter of law, that recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances:

(1) The defendant in the proceeding in the foreign court did not receive notice of the proceeding in sufficient time to enable the defendant to defend.

(2) The judgment was obtained by fraud that deprived the losing party of an adequate opportunity to present its case.

(3) The judgment, or the cause of action or claim for relief on which the judgment is based, is repugnant to the public policy of this State or of the United States.

(4) Reserved for future codification.

(5) The proceeding in the foreign court was contrary to an agreement between the parties under which the dispute in question was to be determined otherwise than by proceedings in that foreign court.

(6) In the case of jurisdiction based only on personal service, the foreign court was a seriously inconvenient forum for the trial of the action.

(7) The judgment was rendered in circumstances that raise substantial doubt about the integrity of the rendering court with respect to the judgment.

(8) The specific proceeding in the foreign court leading to the judgment was fundamentally unfair.

(d) If a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought is otherwise entitled to recognition under this Article but conflicts with a prior final and conclusive judgment, a court of this State shall recognize the judgment for which recognition is sought unless the court determines that nonrecognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(e) If a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought is otherwise entitled to recognition under this Article but conflicts with a subsequent final and conclusive judgment, a court of this State shall deny recognition of the judgment for which recognition is sought unless the court determines that recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(f) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition stated in subsection (b) of this section exists.

(g) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition stated in subsection (c) of this section exists. The party seeking recognition of the judgment has the burden of establishing that, as a matter of law, recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(h) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment under subsection (d) or (e) of this section has the burden of establishing that another final and conclusive judgment

exists and that the other judgment conflicts with the judgment for which recognition is sought. Under subsection (d) of this section, the party resisting recognition also has the burden of establishing that nonrecognition of the judgment for which recognition is sought would be reasonable under the circumstances. Under subsection (e) of this section, the party seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that recognition would be reasonable under the circumstances.

(i) When a court of this State rules on recognition of a foreign-country judgment, the court shall state the facts specially and state separately its conclusions of law.

"§ 1C-1854. Personal jurisdiction.

(a) A foreign-country judgment shall not be refused recognition for lack of personal jurisdiction if any of the following exist:

(1) The defendant was served with process personally in the foreign country.

(2) The defendant voluntarily appeared in the proceeding, other than for the purpose of protecting property seized or threatened with seizure in the proceeding or of contesting the jurisdiction of the court over the defendant.

(3) The defendant, before the commencement of the proceeding, had agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of the foreign court with respect to the subject matter involved.

(4) The defendant was domiciled in the foreign country when the proceeding was instituted or was a corporation or other form of business organization that had its principal place of business in, or was organized under the laws of, the foreign country.

(5) The defendant had a business office in the foreign country and the proceeding in the foreign court involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of business done by the defendant through that office in the foreign country.

(6) The defendant operated a motor vehicle or airplane in the foreign country and the proceeding involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of that operation.

(7) There was any other basis for personal jurisdiction that would be consistent with the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

(b) The list of bases for personal jurisdiction in subsection (a) of this section is not exclusive. The courts of this State may recognize reasonable bases of personal jurisdiction other than those listed in subsection (a) of this section as sufficient to support a foreign-country judgment.

"§ 1C-1855. Procedure for recognition and nonrecognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) If recognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought as an original matter, the issue of recognition shall be raised by filing an action seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment.

(b) If recognition or nonrecognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought in some other action, the issue of recognition may be raised by complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim, or affirmative defense.

"§ 1C-1856. Effect of recognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) If the court in a proceeding under G.S. 1C-1855 finds that the foreign-country judgment is entitled to recognition under this Article then, to the extent that the foreign-country judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, the foreign-country judgment is:

(1) Conclusive between the parties to the same extent as the judgment of a sister state entitled to full faith and credit in this State would be conclusive; and

(2) Enforceable in the same manner and to the same extent as a judgment rendered in this State.

(b) Article 17 of this Chapter does not apply to the enforcement of foreign-country judgments recognized under this Article.

"§ 1C-1857. Stay of proceedings pending appeal of foreign-country judgment.

If a party establishes that an appeal from a foreign-country judgment is pending or will be taken, the court may stay any proceedings with regard to the foreign-country judgment until the appeal is concluded, the time for appeal expires without an appeal being taken, or the appellant has had sufficient time to prosecute the appeal and has failed to do so.

"§ 1C-1858. Statute of limitations.

An action to recognize a foreign-country judgment must be commenced within the earlier of the time during which the foreign-country judgment is effective in the foreign country or 10 years from the date that the foreign-country judgment became effective in the foreign country.

"§ 1C-1859. Uniformity of interpretation.

In applying and construing this Article, consideration may be given to promoting uniformity of interpretation with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it."

SECTION 3. The Revisor of Statutes shall cause to be printed along with this act all relevant portions of the official comments to the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act and all explanatory comments of the drafters of this act as the Revisor deems appropriate.

SECTION 4. This act is effective October 1, 2009, and applies to all actions commenced on or after that date in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO CLARIFY NOTICE REQUIRED TO PARTIES WHO MAY BE UNKNOWN OR UNLOCATABLE IN A PARTITION PROCEEDING; TO CODIFY THE CURRENT PRACTICE OF GRANTING OWNERS CREDIT FOR THEIR EXISTING INTEREST IN LAND WHEN BIDDING ON A PARTITION SALE; TO PERMIT A COURT TO ORDER AN INDEPENDENT APPRAISAL IF REQUESTED AND PAID FOR BY A PARTY TO THE PARTITION WHO CHALLENGES THE AMOUNT BID IN A PARTITION SALE; TO REVISE THE STANDARD FOR DETERMINING WHAT CONSTITUTES "SUBSTANTIAL INJURY" WITH REGARDS TO A PETITION FOR A SALE OF THE PROPERTY; AND TO PROVIDE FOR MEDIATION OF PARTITION DISPUTES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 46-6 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-6. Unknown or unlocatable parties; ~~summons and~~ summons, notice, and representation.

(a) If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. The notice by publication shall include a description of the property which includes the street address, if any, or other common designation for the property, if any, and may include the legal description of the property.

(b) ~~If~~ Before or after such general notice by publication if any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall ~~in its discretion~~ appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown or unlocatable and unrepresented."

SECTION 2. G.S. 46-22 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-22. Sale in lieu of partition.

(a) Subject to G.S. 46-22.1(b), the ~~The~~ court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or of any part, only if it finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without substantial injury to ~~any of~~ the interested ~~parties.~~parties taking into account the totality of the circumstances.

~~(b) "Substantial injury" means the fair market value of each share in an in-kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be~~

~~obtained from the sale of the whole, and if an in-kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenant's rights.~~

(b1) In determining whether a partition in-kind of all the property or some of the property cannot be made without substantial injury, the court shall consider the following factors:

(1) Whether the property is able to be fairly and equitably divided, in whole or in part, between the party or parties seeking a partition by sale and those seeking to remain tenants in common;

(2) Whether a partition in-kind would apportion the property in such a way that the fair market value of the parcels resulting from the division would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, based upon a valuation that takes into account the type of sale conditions under which the court-ordered sale would occur;

(3) Evidence of long-standing ownership by any individual owner as supplemented by the length of time of ownership within the chain of title of any person or persons to whom such a cotenant is or was related to by blood, marriage, or adoption;

(4) The use being made of the property by any of the owners and the degree to which this owner or owners would be harmed if they could not continue to use the property for these purposes;

(5) The degree to which the owners have contributed their pro rata share of the property taxes, insurance, and other carrying charges associated with maintaining ownership of the real property, as well as the degree to which the owners have contributed to the physical improvement or the upkeep of the property, including any upkeep related to protecting the interests of the owners against any person who has no legal claim to the property but who attempts to use the property without the consent of the owners;

(6) Whether the substantial injury from an actual division to the parties requesting a sale outweighs the substantial injury to the parties opposing the sale; and

(7) Any other economic or noneconomic factors that the court finds appropriate to consider.

(b2) The court shall use the remedy of owelty where such remedy can aid in making a partition in-kind occur without substantial injury to the parties.

(c) The court shall specifically find the facts supporting an order of sale of the property.

(d) The party seeking a sale of the property shall have the burden of proving substantial injury under the provisions of this section."

SECTION 3. Article 2 of Chapter 46 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 46-22.1 Mediation.

(a) Persons interested in the premises may agree at anytime to mediation of a partition. A list of mediators certified by the Dispute Resolution Commission may be obtained from the clerk or from the Commission through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(b) When a partition sale is requested, the court or the clerk may order mediation before considering whether to order a sale. The provisions of G.S. 7A-38.1 and G.S. 7A-38.3B shall apply."

SECTION 4. G.S. 46-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28. Sale procedure.

(a) The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General ~~Statutes.~~ Statutes, except as provided herein.

(b) The commissioners shall certify to the court that at least 20 days prior to sale a copy of the notice of sale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all petitioners and respondents who previously were served by personal delivery or by registered or certified mail. The commissioners shall also certify to the court that at least ten days prior to any resale pursuant to G.S. 46-28.1(e) a copy of the notice of resale was sent by first class mail to the last known address of all parties to the partition proceeding who have filed a written request with the court that they be given notice of any resale. An affidavit from the commissioners that copies of the notice of sale and resale were mailed to all parties entitled to notice in accordance with this section shall satisfy the certification requirement and shall also be deemed prima facie true. If after hearing it is proven that a party seeking to revoke the order of confirmation of a sale or subsequent resale was mailed notice as required by this section prior to the date of the sale or subsequent resale, then that party shall not prevail under the provisions of G.S. 46-28.1(a)(2)a. and b.

(c) Any cotenant who enters the high bid or offer at any sale of one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in any parcel of real property shall receive a credit for the undivided interest the cotenant already owns therein and shall receive a corresponding reduction in the amount of the total purchase price owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale and apportioning the costs and fees associated with the sale in accordance with the orders of the court. The high bid or offer shall be for one hundred percent (100%) of the undivided interests in the parcel of real property sold, and the credit and reduction shall be applied at the time of the closing of the cotenant's purchase of the real property. When jointly making the high bid or offer at the sale, two or more cotenants may receive at the closing an aggregate credit and reduction in the amount of the total purchase price representing the total of such cotenants' undivided interests in the real property. Any credits and reductions allowed by this subsection shall be further adjusted to reflect any court-ordered adjustments to the share(s) of the net sale proceeds of each of the cotenants entering the high bid or offer, including, but not limited to, equitable adjustments to the share(s) of the net sales proceeds due to a court finding of the lack of contribution of one or more cotenants to the payment of expenses of the real property."

SECTION 5. G.S. 46-28.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 46-28.1. Petition for revocation of confirmation order.

(a) Notwithstanding G.S. 46-28 or any other provision of law, an order confirming the partition sale of real property shall not become final and effective until 15 days after entered. At any time before the confirmation order becomes final and effective, any party to the partition proceeding or the purchaser may petition the court to revoke its order of confirmation and to order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer to purchase the property upon the following grounds:

(1) In the case of a purchaser, a lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed.

(2) In the case of any party to the partition proceeding:

a. Notice of the partition was not served on the petitioner for revocation as required by Rule 4 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

b. Notice of the sale was not mailed to the petitioner for revocation as required by G.S. 46-28(b); or

c. The amount bid or price offered is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owners of the real property.

In no event shall the confirmation order become final or effective during the pendency of a petition under this section. No upset bid shall be permitted after the entry of the confirmation order.

(b) The party petitioning for revocation shall deliver a copy of the petition to all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1, and the officer or person designated to make such sale in the manner provided for service of process in Rule 4(j) of G.S. 1A-1. The court shall schedule a hearing on the petition within a reasonable time and shall cause a notice of the hearing to be served on the petitioner, the officer or person designated to make such a sale and all parties required to be served under Rule 5 of G.S. 1A-1.

(c) In the case of a petition brought under this section by a purchaser claiming the existence of an unsatisfied lien on the property to be conveyed, if the purchaser proves by a preponderance of the evidence that:

(1) A lien remains unsatisfied on the property to be conveyed; and
(2) The purchaser has not agreed in writing to assume the lien; and
(3) The lien will not be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale; and
(4) The existence of the lien was not disclosed in the notice of sale of the property, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

The order of the court in revoking an order of confirmation under this section may not be introduced in any other proceeding to establish or deny the existence of a lien.

(d) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to this section by a party to the partition proceeding, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that petitioner has proven a case pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)a., b., or c. of ~~subsection (a)(2), this section,~~ the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's offer, and order the return of any money or security to the purchaser tendered pursuant to the offer.

(d1) In the case of a petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, and when an independent appraisal of the property being sold has not been previously entered into evidence in the action, and upon the request of any party, the court may order an independent appraisal prepared by a real estate appraiser currently licensed by the North Carolina Appraisal Board and prepared in accordance with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. The cost of an independent appraisal shall be borne by one or more of the parties requesting the appraisal in such proportions as they may agree. Before ruling on the petition brought pursuant to sub-subdivision (a)(2)c. of this section, the court may in its discretion require written evidence from the appraiser that the appraiser has been paid in full for the appraisal. If based on the appraisal and all of the evidence presented, the court finds the amount bid or price offered to be inadequate, inequitable, and resulting in irreparable damage to the owners, the court may revoke the order confirming the sale, order the withdrawal of the purchaser's high bid or offer, and order the return to such purchaser of any money or security tendered by the purchaser pursuant to the high bid or offer.

(e) If the court revokes its order of confirmation under this section, the court shall order a resale. The procedure for a resale is the same as is provided for an original public sale under Article 29A of Chapter 1 of the General Statutes."

SECTION 6. This act becomes effective October 1, 2009, and applies to partition actions filed on or after that date.

HOUSE BILL 578:
Partition Sales/Commrs., Sellers, Buyers

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 29, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Bryant, Michaux, Allen, Harrison	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Fourth Edition H578-CSRC-62

SUMMARY: House Bill 578 would require that respondents in a partition proceeding be notified of their right to seek legal counsel, and would clarify the requirements for providing notice to unknown or unlocatable parties in a partition proceeding. It would also grant owners credit for their existing interest in the land when bidding on it in a partition sale, and would require the court to order an independent appraisal if requested and paid for by a party who challenges the amount bid in a partition sale. The PCS clarifies when a court must order a sale instead of an actual partition.

CURRENT LAW: To legally "partition" property means to bring a proceeding in court to force the physical division or sale of real property and in the event of sale to have the property or proceeds from sale of the property divided among co-owners of the property. Under the laws governing the partition of real property (Chapter 46 of the General Statutes), one or more persons claiming joint ownership in real property may petition the superior court for partition of the property. The court must order a sale of the property if it finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the actual partition of the property cannot be made without substantial injury to any of the interested parties. "Substantial injury" is defined as "the fair market value of each share in an in kind partition would be materially less than the share of each cotenant in the money equivalent that would be obtained from the sale of the whole, and if the in kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenant's rights." G.S. 46-22(b).

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the notification of unknown parties to a partition proceeding. Under existing law, when the court determines that there are persons with an interest in the property whose names are unknown and cannot be ascertained by the petitioner, the court can order that notice be made by publication in a newspaper. The bill would require that notice by publication include a full description of the property, and require the court to appoint someone to represent any unknown or unlocatable parties.

Section 2 slightly modifies G.S. 46-22(b) regarding the circumstances when a court may order a sale. In determining whether "substantial injury" would occur, the court shall consider:

- Whether the fair market value of each cotenant's share in an actual division of the property would be materially less than the amount each cotenant would receive from a sale of the whole.
- Whether a sale or an in-kind division would result in material impairment of the cotenants' rights.

The court may, in its discretion, consider the remedy of owelty if it would aid in making an in-kind partition without substantial injury to the parties.

Section 3 states that the interested parties may enter into mediation to resolve the dispute prior to filing an action and that the clerk or the court may require the parties to attempt to mediate a settlement prior to ordering a sale.

Section 4 of the bill would amend the statute concerning the sale procedure for partition sales, to provide that any cotenant making an offer to purchase the entire parcel would receive credit for the value of his or her share and received a corresponding reduction in the amount owed after deducting the costs and fees associated with the sale. The bill would allow two or more cotenants to aggregate the credit for their interests.

Section 5 of the bill would amend the law pertaining to a petition for revocation of an order confirming the partition sale of real property by making a technical change, and by adding a new provision that would require the court to order an independent appraisal of the property upon request of the petitioner. If, based on the appraisal and other evidence, the court finds the sale price to be inadequate the court may revoke the order confirming the sale. The cost of the appraisal would be apportioned to all parties requesting it, and the court could require the parties to pay all or part of that cost prior to the appraisal.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009 and apply to partition actions filed on or after that date.

ECONOMIC FACTORS & NON-ECONOMIC FACTORS – A STATE SUMMARY

HOUSE BILL 274*

Short Title:	Rewrite Foreign Money Judgments Laws.	(Public)
Sponsors:	Representatives Ross; and Lucas.
Referred to:	Judiciary I, if favorable, Commerce, Small Business, and Entrepreneurship.

February 25, 2009

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO REWRITE THE LAW CONCERNING THE RECOGNITION OF FOREIGN MONEY JUDGMENTS, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE GENERAL STATUTES COMMISSION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. Article 18 of Chapter 1C of the General Statutes is repealed.

SECTION 2. Chapter 1C of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Article to read:

"Article 20.

"North Carolina Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act.

"§ 1C-1850. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the North Carolina Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act.

"§ 1C-1851. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Foreign country. – A government other than:

a. The United States;

b. A state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession of the United States; or

c. Any other government with regard to which the decision in this State as to whether to recognize a judgment of that government's courts is initially subject to determination under the Full Faith and Credit Clause of the United States Constitution.

(2) Foreign-country judgment. – A judgment of a court of a foreign country.

"§ 1C-1852. Applicability; saving clause.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) of this section, this Article applies to a foreign-country judgment to the extent that the judgment:

(1) Grants or denies recovery of a sum of money; and

(2) Under the law of the foreign country where rendered, is final, conclusive, and enforceable.

(b) This Article does not apply to a foreign-country judgment, even if the judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, to the extent that the judgment is:

(1) A judgment for taxes;

(2) A fine or other penalty; or

(3) A judgment for alimony, support, or maintenance in matrimonial or family matters.

(c) A party seeking recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that this Article applies to the foreign-country judgment.

(d) This Article does not prevent the recognition under principles of comity or otherwise of a foreign-country judgment to which this Article does not apply.

"§ 1C-1853. Standards for recognition and nonrecognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, a court of this State shall recognize a foreign-country judgment to which this Article applies.

(b) A court of this State shall not recognize a foreign-country judgment if:

(1) The judgment was rendered under a judicial system that, taken as a whole, does not provide impartial tribunals or procedures compatible with the requirements of due process of law;

(2) The foreign court did not have personal jurisdiction over the defendant; or

(3) The foreign court did not have jurisdiction over the subject matter.

(c) If a court of this State finds that any of the following exist with respect to a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought, recognition of the judgment shall be denied unless the court determines, as a matter of law, that recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances:

(1) The defendant in the proceeding in the foreign court did not receive notice of the proceeding in sufficient time to enable the defendant to defend.

(2) The judgment was obtained by fraud that deprived the losing party of an adequate opportunity to present its case.

(3) The judgment, or the cause of action or claim for relief on which the judgment is based, is repugnant to the public policy of this State or of the United States.

(4) Reserved for future codification.

(5) The proceeding in the foreign court was contrary to an agreement between the parties under which the dispute in question was to be determined otherwise than by proceedings in that foreign court.

(6) In the case of jurisdiction based only on personal service, the foreign court was a seriously inconvenient forum for the trial of the action.

(7) The judgment was rendered in circumstances that raise substantial doubt about the integrity of the rendering court with respect to the judgment.

(8) The specific proceeding in the foreign court leading to the judgment was fundamentally unfair.

(d) If a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought is otherwise entitled to recognition under this Article but conflicts with a prior final and conclusive judgment, a court of this State shall recognize the judgment for which recognition is sought unless the court determines that nonrecognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(e) If a foreign-country judgment for which recognition is sought is otherwise entitled to recognition under this Article but conflicts with a subsequent final and conclusive judgment, a court of this State shall deny recognition of the judgment for which recognition is sought unless the court determines that recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(f) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition stated in subsection (b) of this section exists.

(g) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition stated in subsection (c) of this section exists. The party seeking recognition of the judgment has the burden of establishing that, as a matter of law, recognition would nevertheless be reasonable under the circumstances.

(h) A party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment under subsection (d) or (e) of this section has the burden of establishing that another final and conclusive judgment

exists and that the other judgment conflicts with the judgment for which recognition is sought. Under subsection (d) of this section, the party resisting recognition also has the burden of establishing that nonrecognition of the judgment for which recognition is sought would be reasonable under the circumstances. Under subsection (e) of this section, the party seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that recognition would be reasonable under the circumstances.

(i) When a court of this State rules on recognition of a foreign-country judgment, the court shall state the facts specially and state separately its conclusions of law.

"§ 1C-1854. Personal jurisdiction.

(a) A foreign-country judgment shall not be refused recognition for lack of personal jurisdiction if any of the following exist:

(1) The defendant was served with process personally in the foreign country.

(2) The defendant voluntarily appeared in the proceeding, other than for the purpose of protecting property seized or threatened with seizure in the proceeding or of contesting the jurisdiction of the court over the defendant.

(3) The defendant, before the commencement of the proceeding, had agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of the foreign court with respect to the subject matter involved.

(4) The defendant was domiciled in the foreign country when the proceeding was instituted or was a corporation or other form of business organization that had its principal place of business in, or was organized under the laws of, the foreign country.

(5) The defendant had a business office in the foreign country and the proceeding in the foreign court involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of business done by the defendant through that office in the foreign country.

(6) The defendant operated a motor vehicle or airplane in the foreign country and the proceeding involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of that operation.

(7) There was any other basis for personal jurisdiction that would be consistent with the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

(b) The list of bases for personal jurisdiction in subsection (a) of this section is not exclusive. The courts of this State may recognize reasonable bases of personal jurisdiction other than those listed in subsection (a) of this section as sufficient to support a foreign-country judgment.

"§ 1C-1855. Procedure for recognition and nonrecognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) If recognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought as an original matter, the issue of recognition shall be raised by filing an action seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment.

(b) If recognition or nonrecognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought in some other action, the issue of recognition may be raised by complaint, counterclaim, cross-claim, or affirmative defense.

"§ 1C-1856. Effect of recognition of foreign-country judgment.

(a) If the court in a proceeding under G.S. 1C-1855 finds that the foreign-country judgment is entitled to recognition under this Article then, to the extent that the foreign-country judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, the foreign-country judgment is:

(1) Conclusive between the parties to the same extent as the judgment of a sister state entitled to full faith and credit in this State would be conclusive; and

(2) Enforceable in the same manner and to the same extent as a judgment rendered in this State.

(b) Article 17 of this Chapter does not apply to the enforcement of foreign-country judgments recognized under this Article.

"§ 1C-1857. Stay of proceedings pending appeal of foreign-country judgment.

If a party establishes that an appeal from a foreign-country judgment is pending or will be taken, the court may stay any proceedings with regard to the foreign-country judgment until the appeal is concluded, the time for appeal expires without an appeal being taken, or the appellant has had sufficient time to prosecute the appeal and has failed to do so.

"§ 1C-1858. Statute of limitations.

An action to recognize a foreign-country judgment must be commenced within the earlier of the time during which the foreign-country judgment is effective in the foreign country or 10 years from the date that the foreign-country judgment became effective in the foreign country.

"§ 1C-1859. Uniformity of interpretation.

In applying and construing this Article, consideration may be given to promoting uniformity of interpretation with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it."

SECTION 3. The Revisor of Statutes shall cause to be printed along with this act all relevant portions of the official comments to the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act and all explanatory comments of the drafters of this act as the Revisor deems appropriate.

SECTION 4. This act is effective October 1, 2009, and applies to all actions commenced on or after that date in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised.

HOUSE BILL 1117:
Sex Offender Can't Drive Bus with Children

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	House Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation	Date:	July 30, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Tucker	Prepared by:	Ryan Blackledge Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	First Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1117 would prohibit a registered sex offender[1] from obtaining or renewing a commercial drivers license with a P or S endorsement[2], and would make it a Class F felony[3] to operate a commercial passenger vehicle or school bus without a commercial drivers license with a P or S endorsement because the person is a registered sex offender.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1117 would prohibit sex offenders from operating commercial passenger vehicles or school buses by amending the law as follows:

- Effective December 1, 2009, DMV would be prohibited from issuing or renewing a CDL, or issuing a commercial learner's permit, with a P or S endorsement to a person registered under the sex offender and public protection registry.
- Effective December 1, 2009, anyone convicted of a registerable offense would be disqualified from driving a commercial motor vehicle that requires a CDL with a P or S endorsement for as long as that person is required to be registered.
- Any person who is on the registry and who has a valid CDL with a P or S endorsement on December 1, 2009, would not be disqualified until the license expires, as long as the person does not commit a subsequent registerable offense.
- DMV would be required to revoke the CDL with P or S endorsement of any person convicted of a registerable offense on or after December 1, 2009. The person would be able to apply for a new CDL but would continue to be disqualified from obtaining a P or S endorsement.
- Any person who operates a commercial passenger vehicle or school bus and does not have a CDL with P or S endorsement because of a conviction of a registerable offense would be guilty of a Class F felony.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act would be effective December 1, 2009, and would apply to persons registering under the sex offender and public protection registry on or after that date and persons who were registered before that date and continue to be registered on or after that date. The criminal penalties enacted under this act would apply to offenses occurring on or after December 1, 2009.

HOUSE BILL 1463:
Expand Access/Confidential Intermediaries

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 6, 2009
Introduced by:	Reps. Dickson, Wilkins, Harrell, Farmer-Butterfield	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Second Edition H1463-CSRV-57

SUMMARY: House Bill 1463 would allow adult full and half siblings of adult adoptees, and adult family members of deceased adoptees or deceased biological parents, to have access to confidential intermediary services from an adoption agency for facilitation of contact or to obtain identifying adoption information. The bill would also allow an agency acting as a confidential intermediary to obtain a copy of a death certificate of the person who is the subject of the search and deliver it to the person requesting services. This proposed committee substitute makes technical changes.

CURRENT LAW: Currently, NC adoption records are closed. The law provides that, with certain exceptions, no one may release a record that would lead directly to the identity of an adoptee, an adoptive parent of an adoptee, an adoptee's parent at birth, or an adoptee's birth sibling or grandparent. Exceptions are available through a court order, through voluntary consent, or through the services of a confidential intermediary. A confidential intermediary must be a staff person of a licensed adoption agency. The confidential intermediary may facilitate contact, release nonidentifying medical information, or release identifying information without a court order to any of the following:

- Adult adoptees.
- Adult lineal descendants of deceased adoptees.
- Biological parents.

To facilitate contact or share the information, the confidential intermediary must have written consent of all parties.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 – Definition of "confidential intermediary." This section would amend the definition of "confidential intermediary" to define the term as an agency (licensed child placing agency or a county department of social services) that may act as a third party to facilitate the sharing of information authorized by G.S. 48-9-104 (which is rewritten in Section 3 of the bill). This section of the bill would also delete the definition of "lineal descendant of a deceased adoptee".

Section 2 – Definition of "adult." This section would delete the provision that defined "adult" as someone 21 or older for purposes of the provisions relating to the use of confidential intermediaries. The would mean that the general definition of "adult" in G.S. 48-1-101 would apply, which says an adult is 18 or older, or a person under 18 who is either married or legally emancipated.

Section 3 – New Categories of People Added. This section would amend the list of people authorized to use confidential intermediary services to include the following:

- An adult biological sibling of an adult adoptee.
- An adult biological half sibling of an adult adoptee.
- An adult family member of a deceased biological parent.

- An adult family member of a deceased adoptee.

For purposes of this section, "family member" would mean spouse, child, stepchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, or grandchild.

If the biological parent is living, written consent of the biological parent is required before contact with or sharing of identifying information between any other parties.

If a confidential intermediary determines that the person who is the subject of the search is deceased, the agency may obtain a copy of the death certificate and deliver it to the person who requested the services.

Section 4 – Access to Death Certificate. This section would amend the statute related to access to vital records to authorize agencies providing confidential intermediary services to obtain a copy of the death certificate.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would become effective October 1, 2009.

BACKGROUND: House Bill 1463 is a combination of two bills recommended by the House Select Committee on Adoptee Birth Certificates in its interim report to the 2008 Short Session. A similar bill passed the House in 2008, but did not reach the floor of the Senate for a vote.

Susan Sitze and William Gilkeson, Staff Attorneys in the Research Division, contributed significantly to this summary.

H1463-SMRV-110(CSRV-57) v3

My name is Rob and I am an adoptee who recently used the Confidential Intermediary Program with much success. I regret that I cannot testify before you in person. For personal and private reasons, I have not informed my adoptive family of my participation in the program, and therefore wish to remain anonymous.

Though I am now well into adulthood, I have known my whole life that I am adopted. My adoptive parents made sure that I knew as much as possible about the circumstances regarding my birth parents and how I came to be with my family. However, there was not much information available. As a result of being raised in a loving and wonderful home, being adopted was no big deal to me and I never developed a burning desire to find out more.

Over the years, a natural curiosity about my birth parents did begin to emerge, and with the advent of the Internet, I was able to do occasional web searches from time to time to try and learn more. At the time, North Carolina's laws were some of the most restrictive in the nation, and I resigned myself to never knowing the full truth about my birth parents and my genealogy.

One day in the fall of 2008, my curiosity once again reared its head and this time, I learned about North Carolina's new Confidential Intermediary Program via a simple web search.

A few phone calls and forms later, I had officially started the process to authorize my county social services office to open my sealed records and try to locate and contact my birth parents on my behalf.

I was very fortunate in that both birth parents were found, and both agreed to swap contact information with me. A mere three weeks passed between filing my notarized paperwork and actually meeting my birth mother in person. A few weeks after that, I repeated the process with my birth father.

My mantra throughout the process was – "be open to anything, but expect nothing." It served me well through a very exciting time. For the first time ever, I had the opportunity to see who I really look like. I had the chance to learn about my extended genealogy. And I had a front-row seat for the nature versus nuture debate. So many of my traits, habits and even sayings, are things that I share with my birth parents.

I was also fortunate that both birth parents are still alive, doing well, and are people that I can basically relate to and build a relationship with. I've been careful to not assume intimacy just because we share genes. However, I can honestly say that we are all growing together and enjoy each other's company.

My birth mother lives in my hometown and we see each other a couple of times per month for lunch. My birth father is from my hometown, but moved out of state several years ago. I have visited his home and have welcomed him as a guest in my home.

I do not know that any of us will ultimately consider ourselves as "family" per se – but thanks to the Confidential Intermediary Program, I have been able to answer several questions about my roots and make two very good friends in my birth parents.

I would like to urge the Committee to continue support for this vital and important program. The genius of it all is the fact that a perfect compromise is reached that guarantees the privacy of all parties, while giving adoptees an avenue to try and have many of life's basic questions answered.

Hopefully, future state budgets in better economic times can include more funding to help counties publicize the program. A lucky web search wound up providing me with the answers I sought. However, not everyone is as fortunate as I am. The Confidential Intermediary Program is a vital resource that the public needs to know more about.

Thank you!

Brothers Reunited After 70 Years

(Aug. 4) - Two brothers separated as infants have been reunited after 70 years — thanks to Facebook.

John Mellinger, of Spokane, Wash., had known since boyhood that he was adopted. When he was in his 40s, he tried to trace his birth parents. He was able to track down an aunt — who told him that he had a brother. But then his search stalled.

Around 30 years later, Mellinger told The Spokesman-Review newspaper, he got an e-mail through Facebook from "a fella named Dan Newburn. It says, 'John, I think I might be your older brother.'"

Mellinger, now 70, and Newburn, 71, from Las Vegas, were just 9 months and 20 months old when their teenage mother gave them up for adoption. Their father had left the family. The little boys were placed in the Children's Home Society in Boise, Idaho, and adopted separately.

During his search, Mellinger had asked the Children's Home Society for information, but officials would not give him any information on siblings. But he left a note in his file, leaving his contact information just in case anyone tried to reach him.

Newburn told the newspaper he only started to look for information about his birth family recently because he was curious about medical history. The Idaho state records office put him in touch with the Children's Home Society — where Mellinger had left his information.

Newburn did an Internet search, found Mellinger on Facebook and sent him an e-mail.

"I went on Facebook and saw his picture, and oh, boy, there was no doubt about it," Mellinger told The Spokesman-Review. "He was my brother."

The two men began talking through the Internet and in July, Newburn traveled to Spokane to see his little brother for the first time in seven decades.

"I'm absolutely convinced this was a God thing," Newburn told the newspaper. "In three days I found out I had ... a younger brother, I talked to him, saw him on the Internet. It was just kind of like — wow."

After 70 years, brothers find each other online

For nearly 30 years, John Mellinger Jr. knew that he had a brother. He just didn't know who – or where – he was. Then, in the space of two weeks, that changed. First came the e-mail, Mellinger said, from "a fella named Dan Newburn. It says, 'John, I think I might be your older brother.' "

They became friends on Facebook. They started talking daily using the Internet phone service Skype. They noted the family resemblance, the similar noses. They sorted out the family history.

Finally, on Wednesday, Mellinger and Newburn met face to face in Mellinger's Spokane home – a reunion some 70 years in the making.

"How very cool," Newburn said as he walked up to embrace his brother on the front step of Mellinger's north Spokane home. "Hi, little brother."

It was the first time the brothers were together since 1939, when, at 9 months and 20 months old, they were placed in the Children's Home Society in Boise by their teenage mother. Later adopted by separate families, the brothers' lives diverged.

Mellinger, 70, worked for years as a police officer in Baltimore, then changed course and moved back to the Northwest, where he ran a barbershop in Hillyard until his retirement.

Newburn, 71, worked as a pastor, journalist and photographer in Las Vegas, where he still keeps busy with various projects.

The men plan to spend the next couple of days together, visiting, going out to dinner and catching up.

"I'm excited, but I don't think it's really sunk in yet," Mellinger said, telling Newburn, "I recognize you and accept you as my brother, but it hasn't really snapped in."

Newburn said that for most of his life, he wasn't overly curious about his biological roots – unlike Mellinger, who tried to investigate his background in 1980 with limited success. But now that Newburn has found Mellinger, along with a half-brother and two half-sisters, he said it has enriched his life.

"All of a sudden, I had a sense of being connected like I never had before," he said. "I found a kinship."

A dead end

The men's mother was 17 when she had Newburn; their father was 32. He was a salesman and she was a waitress, and their marriage was brief, Newburn said. Their dad left them, though many of the details are murky.

"It sounded like our father, when he drank, he was a mean drunk," Newburn said. "I felt like she didn't want to put us in harm's way."

The boys went into the Children's Home Society, a Boise orphanage that has become a children's services agency.

Mellinger was adopted by a Boise family. His father was an administrator with the Social Security Administration, and the family moved to Baltimore in 1954. He had known he was adopted since he was 9. In his 40s, he decided to seek out information about his birth parents, driven partly by the desire to know more about his medical history.

When Mellinger approached the Children's Home Society, he found the names of his parents, but nothing about a brother. Later, he found an aunt in Pocatello, Idaho, who told him he had a brother. But when he went back to the home society, they would tell him nothing.

He left a note in his file, saying if anyone inquired about him, they could get in touch with him.

"So I let that go," he said.

Facebook friends

Newburn, meanwhile, had spent his childhood with a family in southern Idaho, later moving to California, where they lived in Los Angeles and Vista.

He hadn't been particularly driven to learn about his birth parents, he said. Like Mellinger, he'd had a happy experience with his adoptive family, and curiosity about his medical history pressed him to investigate his past.

That was two weeks ago. He called an official with the Idaho state records office, and soon was connected with the Children's Home Society. Within a day, he heard back.

"She said, 'I've opened your file. You have a brother named John Forrest Mellinger Jr. who's been trying to get ahold of you,' " Newburn said.

Newburn got online and searched for Mellinger, whose Facebook account popped up. Newburn also has an account on the social networking site, so he sent his brother a message and a friend request.

Back in Spokane, Mellinger found an e-mail alerting him to the request.

"I went on Facebook and saw his picture, and oh, boy, there was no doubt about it," Mellinger said. "He was my brother."

Finally face to face

For a couple of guys in their 70s, the brothers are pretty tech-savvy. They immediately began talking daily over the Internet, planning their face-to-face reunion. While Newburn was flying into Spokane Wednesday morning, Mellinger checked the progress of his flight.

When the plane landed, Mellinger sent him a text message: "Welcome to Spokane."

Mellinger and his wife, Linda, were waiting on the concrete front step of their home when Newburn pulled up in a rental car with his wife, Liz. The two men embraced and then went inside, where they sat down and began chatting about their lives.

"I'm absolutely convinced this was a God thing," Newburn said. "In three days I found out I had ... a younger brother, I talked to him, saw him on the Internet. It was just kind of like – wow."

RE: Expansion of Confidential Intermediary Bill

My name is Rebecca Nagaishi and I have been employed for Family Services, Inc., 1200 S. Broad Street, Winston-Salem, NC for 31 years, working in the area of adoption. I am a NC Licensed Clinical Social Worker and a NC Licensed Marital and Family Therapist and have worked with adoptive parents, birth parents, and adopted individuals of all ages since 1978. The majority of my work at this time is with families around post-adoption issues, including Confidential Intermediary Services.

Family Services, Inc. was established in 1905 and has been working with adoption since the 1940's. The agency is a NC licensed private child-placing agency and was one of the founding members of the Coalition of Licensed Private Adoption Agencies (COLPAA).

Because Family Services has been working in adoption for over 70 years, I have had the privilege of working with numerous birth families and adopted adults who are seeking to know more about their birth family members. I have also experienced the changes that have come to our work with birth parents as the laws have changed to allow more openness in the adoption process. One of the arguments against open records has been that birth parents would opt for an abortion if they knew that their child would one day be able to contact them. I have found the opposite to be true. As I work with pregnant women who are considering their options, the reality of having a child and never knowing anything about their future turns many women away from the thought of adoption at all. Thinking about an abortion is easier as they would not "wonder" all their life about their child out there somewhere. The Evan Donaldson Institute's research also states that "the reality is, in states with open records laws, there are fewer abortions, not more, and the number of adoptions increase. For example, in Oregon -- one of six states that has re-established access to birth records for adopted people since 1996 -- abortions have declined since the law went into effect, at a rate similar to that in England and Wales when adoption records were opened, the study found. Adoption rates also increased in Oregon. In Kansas and Alaska, which have always provided people with access to original birth certificates, the abortion rate is lower than the national rate, and the adoption rate is also higher than it is nationally, the study noted."

I understand that a contact veto is being considered for birth parents to sign at either the time of placement or as they are contacted as adults. One of my concerns about a contact veto is the pure mechanics of what agency would track these vetoes and who will fund that. In adoptions today, birth parents currently complete the DSS 5102 which asks if they want contact in the future. Every birth parent that Family Services works with checks yes to that item. How they will feel 21 years from now, however, will be impacted by their life experiences and how their adoption decision is handled by those important in their life. Since January, 2008, when the Confidential Intermediary law went into effect, I have worked with over 50 adopted adults and birth parents hoping for contact with each other. I have contacted birth mothers and birth fathers, ages ranging from 50's to early 90's, and although at times caught by surprise with my call, all but two have responded favorably to the request for updated medical information and some form of contact. The times that we have found that a birth parent was deceased have been heartbreaking for those searching. I have a number of adopted adults currently going through the court process asking for the agency to be able to contact another relative, however depending on the County, this can be a cumbersome process. The Assistant Clerk of Court, who often rules on these petitions, has no specialized training about adoption. They usually make their decision based on the recommendation of the agency. The Confidential Intermediary law recognized the special expertise of licensed adoption agency staff when it delegated responsibility for this process to those agencies. It makes sense to allow agencies to use their knowledge and expertise to continue that process with other relatives, should a birth mother be deceased.

More than anything, I would like for the committee members to understand that the Confidential Intermediary law has given us the ability to assist women and men in healing from decisions made decades ago, in a different time and place.

Thank you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON HB 1463

Q-1 What is a confidential intermediary?

A-1 A confidential intermediary is a licensed adoption agency or county department of social services that may without a court order:

1. contact an adult adoptee on behalf of a biological parent, or
2. contact a biological parent on behalf of an adult adoptee or a lineal descendant of an adult adoptee.

Q-2 How would HB 1463 change the confidential intermediary law?

A-2 There would be 6 changes. The bill would:

1. add members of the adoptee's biological family who could use confidential intermediary services;
2. add members of a deceased adoptee's family who could use confidential intermediary services;
3. require the adoptee's biological parent's written permission for any confidential intermediary contact between the biological family and adoptive family;
4. require that "an agency providing confidential intermediary services shall contact individuals in a manner reasonably calculated to prevent incidental disclosure of confidential information";
5. allow contact between the biological family and the adoptee through the confidential intermediary program if the biological parent is deceased.
6. allow a confidential intermediary to obtain and deliver a copy of the death certificate of a deceased biological parent to a person entitled to use confidential intermediary services.

Q-3 Who would the proposed changes benefit?

A-3 The changes would primarily benefit persons who were adopted as infants through agencies and whose biological parents have since died.

Q-4 What about the biological mother's privacy?

A-4 So long as the biological mother is alive, there will not be any confidential intermediary contact between her family and the adoptee or the adoptee's adopted family without her written permission.

Q-5 What about the biological mother's privacy after she dies?

Q-5 The bill places the needs of the living adoptee and his or her living biological and adopted family members ahead of the privacy interests of deceased persons.

Q-6 What about a biological mother's unadopted children who may not have been told that the biological mother had a child whom she placed for adoption before they were born?

A-6 Contact with unadopted children is subject to the confidential intermediary obtaining the biological mother's written permission as long as the biological mother is alive. If she is no longer living, then it is likely that the adoptee will be in his or her 50's or 60's or older and any unadopted biological siblings will be in their 40's or 50's or older. The contact would be made by a professional social worker who can help the unadopted sibling deal with discovering both a new biological sibling and a previously unknown chapter in their mutual biological parent's early life.

Q-7 What if the adoptee was the product of rape or incest?

A-7 That information would be part of the non-identifying information to which the adoptee is entitled under present law. The number of agency adoptions of infants who were the product of rape incest, and in which the fact of the rape or incest was disclosed to the agency but remained undisclosed within the biological family, and in which the biological parent has died, and in which the adoptee is not discouraged from contacting the surviving members of the biological family by the circumstances of his or her conception, is likely to be very small. Under the guidance of the confidential intermediary, the adoptee would not necessarily choose to inform the biological family of any allegation of rape or incest (although keeping the secret of rape or incest after the death of the biological mother only serves to protect the perpetrator from his own crime).

Q-8 Would a pregnant mother be more likely to choose abortion over adoption if the bill were passed?

A-8 No. Her decision will be driven by concerns much more immediate than the possibility that a hypothetical later child of a hypothetical later marriage might learn about the adoptee sometime after her death.

HOUSE BILL 274:
Clarifying Changes to State Law

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	August 6, 2009
Introduced by:	Rep. Ross	Prepared by:	Shawn Parker
Analysis of:	PCS to First Edition H274-CSSQ-79		Legislative Analyst

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1: G.S. 15A-544.4 currently requires notice of forfeiture of bail bonds to be mailed no later than 30 days after the day forfeiture is entered. Section 1 would amend subsection (e) of G.S. 15A-544.4 by requiring that notice of the forfeiture be mailed no later than the 30th day after the date on which the defendant failed to appear as required and a call and fail is ordered.

Section 2: S.L. 2009-81 provides exemptions related to titling and taxes for State agencies facilitating the transfer of vehicles provided by the Department of Defense to emergency response units, local law enforcement, and fire departments. Section 2.(b) would clarify the exemption from titling requirements for State agencies facilitating such transfers. Sections 2.(a), (c), and (d) would exempt State agencies facilitating such transfers from the requirements to disclose damage to a vehicle under G.S. 20-71.4, liability for transportation damages and damage/repair disclosure required by G.S. 20-305.1(d) and (e), and mileage disclosure requirements required by G.S. 20-347(d). Section 2.(e) would add a new subsection providing that, for purposes of the highway use tax, the retail value of a motor vehicle transferred under this program is the sales price paid by the State agency, unit of local government, volunteer fire department, or volunteer rescue squad.

Section 3 would create an exception to the prohibition on blue lights on non-law enforcement vehicles to permit the use of inoperable blue lights on specially constructed vehicles not used for general daily transportation.

Section 3.1 would change the time period in which the Division of Motor Vehicles must hold an administrative hearing for a violation of the motor vehicle inspection program statutes by an emissions inspection station license holder from three to ten days after receiving the request.

Section 3.2 would clarify that the qualifications for operation and limitations on speed while operating a school bus or school activity bus apply if the bus is occupied by one child, or multiple children.

Section 4 would clarify that an owner must provide proof of financial responsibility for the operation of a motor vehicle at the time of registration.

Section 5 would delete the term "removal" from G.S. 75-63(g1)(2)g. so the after business hours exception applies to all requests relating to security freezes governed by the subsection, not just a specific request for removal.

Section 5.1 would expand the definition of a nonprofit arts organization for tax exemption purposes by requiring that the primary purpose of the organization include creating, producing, presenting, or supporting music, dance, theatre, literature, or visual arts.

Section 6(a) would replace the term "and" with the term "or" to clarify that a restaurant would not have to be both a food establishment and a lodging establishment to fall under the provisions of Article 23 of Chapter 130A.

Section 6(b) would authorize the Commission for Public Health to adopt rules to implement Article 23 of Chapter 130A so long as the rules are not effective prior to January 2, 2010.

Section 7 would amend the membership of the North Carolina Travel and Tourism Board to provide that the Chairperson of the Travel and Tourism Coalition may appoint a designee to serve on the Board in place of the Chairperson.

Section 8(a)&(b) would expand the membership of the General Statutes Commission from 12 to 14 members by adding an appointment by the dean of Elon University School of Law in even-numbered years, and an appointment by the dean of the Charlotte School of Law (NC), Inc. in odd-numbered years. Currently, the dean of each of the 5 other laws schools in North Carolina (UNC, Duke, Wake Forest, N.C. Central, and Campbell) appoints one member to the Commission.

Section 9: Section 5 of S.L. 2007-532 directed the transfer of five million dollars from the Health and Wellness Trust Fund to the State Controller to support appropriations made for operations and claims of the North Carolina High Risk Pool. Section 9 would direct the transfer to be allocated directly to the North Carolina High Risk Pool and corrects a incorrect cross reference.

Section 10 would delay the effective dates applicable to provisions enacted in 2007 and 2008 that require manufacturers of computer equipment and televisions to collect and recycle these items until July 1, 2010. Most of these provisions are currently scheduled to come into effect on January 1, 2010.

Section 11 Except as otherwise provided, the act is effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 1130: Ashe Fox Trapping

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 3, 2010
Introduced by:	Senator Goss	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson
Analysis of:	PCS to First Edition S1130-CSSB-90 [v.1]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 1120 would extend the season for fox trapping in Ashe County from November 7 through February 12 of each year to November 1 through February 28 of each year; remove specific requirements for traps that could be used to take foxes in Ashe County; and remove the sunset on the law that established the fox trapping season for Ashe County.

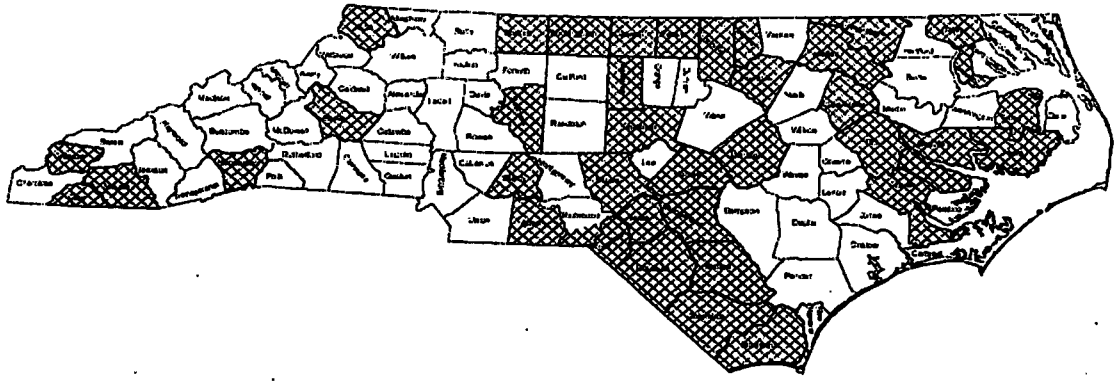
CURRENT LAW: Under current law, there is an open season for taking foxes by trapping in Ashe County from November 7 through February 12 of each year. The current law applicable to Ashe County also provides specific requirements for traps that could be used to take foxes, establishes a season bag limit of 10 foxes, and directs the Wildlife Resources Commission to provide for the sale of foxes taken during the season. This law is scheduled to expire September 30, 2010.



The trapping season in Ashe County for animals other than foxes and beaver is November 1 through February 28. The types of traps that may be used to take foxes and other fur-bearing animals is generally regulated by G.S. 113-291.6.

BILL ANALYSIS: The Proposed Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 1120 (PCS) would extend the fox trapping season in Ashe County to November 1 through February 28. It would also remove specific requirements on traps that could be used to take foxes and remove the sunset from the session law establishing the Ashe County fox trapping season.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law.

BACKGROUND: More information on fox trapping seasons for different counties, including the map below, can be found at: http://www.ncwildlife.org/Regs/documents/fox_seasons_dates.pdf

MEMORANDUM
June 1, 2010

TO: Senate Judiciary II Committee
FROM: General Statutes Commission
RE: Senate Bill 1164 (Extend GSC Study/Refs. to Military Org.)

Section 2 of Session Law 2009-281 (House Bill 632, Capitalize National Guard/GSC Study) directs the General Statutes Commission to study and recommend to the 2010 regular session of the 2009 General Assembly ways to ensure that the General Statutes properly and uniformly refer to federal and State military organizations. The Commission has determined that more time is needed to conduct the study because there are many more references, including unclear references, to military organizations in the General Statutes than had been anticipated. Therefore, this bill allows the Commission to make its recommendations to the 2011 regular session of the 2011 General Assembly rather than the current session of the General Assembly. The bill is effective when it becomes law.

MEMORANDUM
June 1, 2010

TO: Senate Judiciary II Committee
FROM: General Statutes Commission
RE: Senate Bill 1180 (Implement Gender Neutral Terms)

General Comments

Session Law 2009-273, among other things, requires the General Statutes Commission to study and recommend to the General Assembly changes needed to make the General Statutes gender neutral. Although the Commission believes the main concern was the use of the third person singular masculine pronoun as a universal pronoun, the study charge is broad enough to include identifying and replacing terms such as "workman," etc. The Commission turned to the list in the General Assembly's drafting manual to identify terms of this type.

This bill identifies places in the statutes where the following terms from the drafting manual's list appear and replaces these terms with gender neutral alternatives suggested in the drafting manual as follows:

Old Term	New Term
businessman	business person
crewman	crew member enlisted man	enlisted person
policeman	police officer
workman	worker

The bill also deals with two other terms in the drafting manual's list, although the treatment differs from that suggested in the drafting manual:

- For "man," the bill substitutes "humans," "human," "human beings," or "people" in places where "man" is used to refer to human beings generally and not to a male individual.
- The term "per man" appears only once in an obsolete statute, and the bill repeals the statute rather than amending it to make it gender neutral.

As of the date of this memorandum, the Commission is still reviewing statutes that contain other terms in the drafting manual's list.

The bill also makes other gender neutral, technical, and stylistic amendments, where appropriate, as noted below, in the statutes being amended.

Specific Comments

Section 1. Subsections (a) and (b) amend G.S. 54B-66(c) and G.S. 54C-79(c), respectively, to replace "businessman" with "business person."

Section 2. This section amends G.S. 105-113.81(b) to replace "crewmen" with "crew members."

Section 3. This section amends G.S. 127A-152 to replace "enlisted man" with "enlisted person" and to replace a reference to "he" with the actual antecedent noun, "the officer."

Section 4. This section repeals G.S. 113-28, which has become obsolete. It allowed the State to reimburse the federal government at the rate of $ 1 "per man" per day, under conditions and limits described in the statute, for work done under "an act of Congress entitled, 'An act for the relief of unemployment through the performance of useful public work, and for other purposes' approved March 31, 1933." All parts of the federal act cited have been repealed.

Section 5. Subsections 5(a) through (l) amend various sections of the General Statutes to substitute an alternative term for references to "man" when used as a general term for all humans. In most of these instances, the proposed alternative term is "humans" rather than the drafting manual's suggested alternatives, "person" and "individual," because the drafting manual's suggested alternatives did not fit the context of these statutes.

Specifically, Subsections 5(a), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (i), (j), and (l) replace references to "man" with "humans" in G.S. 106-65.24(1) and (7), 106-121(5), (6), and (8), 106-134.1(a), 106-193, 106-305, 106-338, 106-707, 106-708(1) and (2), and 143-444, respectively.

In addition, Subsection 5(c) corrects the form of a citation in G.S. 106-121(6). Subsections 5(d) and 5(j) correct pronouns ("which" to "that") in G.S. 106-134.1(a) and G.S. 106-708(2), respectively, and Subsection 5(j) adds a comma after the next-to-last term in a list in G.S. 106-708(2) in keeping with current style. Subsection 5(e) makes various additional gender-neutral changes to G.S. 106-193. In the first sentence, Subsection 5(e) replaces "his" with "that person's" in the phrase "Any person . . . which, in his judgment . . . ." In the second sentence, Subsection 5(e) deletes the "his" in "performance of his official duties" and replaces "he" (two instances) with "that person" (first instance) and "the person" (second instance) (the antecedent is "[a]ny person"). Subsection 5(f) replaces "his" with "a" in the phrase "the Governor to issue his proclamation" in the first sentence of G.S. 106-305. Subsection 5(g) replaces "the State Veterinarian . . . his instructions" with "the State Veterinarian . . . the State Veterinarian's instructions" in G.S. 106-338 and also makes a stylistic update to eliminate "said" by changing "said animal" to "the animal" and, in two places, "said animals" to "the affected animals."

Subsection 5(b) amends G.S. 106-65.45 to replace "beneficial to man and/or his environment" with "beneficial to people and/or their environment."

Subsection 5(h) amends G.S. 106-549.81(1) to replace "man" with "a human." "[H]uman" in the singular was used here to parallel "member."

Subsection 5(k) amends G.S. 113A-3 to replace "influence of man's activity" with "influence of human activity" and "under which man and nature" with "under which human beings and nature."

Section 6. Subsections 6(a) through (e) amend various sections of the General Statutes to replace "policeman" and "policemen" with "police officer" and "police officers," respectively.

The statutes amended are: G.S. 113-315.34, 143B-461, 160A-285, 160A-286, 20-125, 20-130.1, 105-367, 120-32.2, 160A-281, and 160A-284.

Subsection 6(a) also amends G.S. 113-315.34(d) to make an additional gender neutral change by replacing "he" with "the Secretary" where the reference is to the Secretary of Commerce. Subsection 6(b) similarly amends G.S. 143B-461(d) to replace "he" with "the Executive Director." Subsection 6(c) amends G.S. 160A-285 to replace "He . . . to him", when referring to "a police officer", with "The police officer . . . to that officer." Subsection 6(d) amends G.S. 160A-286 to change "Any officer . . . he . . ." to "Any police officer . . . the officer."

Section 7. Subsections 7(a) through (c) amend G.S. 23-10(2), 95-110.3(n), and 163-278.6(12), respectively, to replace "workmen" with "workers."

In addition, Subsection 7(a) replaces "salesmen" with "salespersons" in G.S. 23-10(2). Although "salesman" is not in the drafting manual's list, the Commission noted that "salesman" is also a term that tends to be replaced with a gender neutral equivalent in modern writing. Subsection 7(b) makes two additional changes in G.S. 95-110.3. It replaces "his" with "the Commissioner's" in the phrase "the North Carolina Commissioner of Labor or his authorized representative" in G.S. 95-110.3(a), and in G.S. 95-110.3(f) and (g), it replaces "physically disabled person" with "person who is physically disabled" pursuant to another study the Commission was directed to make (by S.L. 2009-264 (People First)). The Commission noted the term "manlift" in G.S. 95-110.3(h) but, since this term appears to be a technical term, decided not to suggest a replacement at this time. In G.S. 163-278.6(12), Subsection 7(c) adds the phrase "of the General Statutes" to follow the reference to "Chapter 95" to clarify which Chapter 95 was intended.

Section 8. This section provides that the bill becomes effective when it becomes law.

SECTION ___. G.S. 113-28 reads as rewritten:

"§ 113-28. Reimbursement of government for expense of emergency conservation work.

Upon completion of the sale, the Department is hereby authorized to settle with the proper federal authority an account fixing the amount due the United States government and to pay over to it the amount so fixed. The unexpended remainder, if any, of such one-half part of such profit or proceeds shall then be paid over or applied by said Department as now authorized and directed by law. A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO MAKE CHANGES TO THE STATUTES CONCERNING BEQUESTS OR DEVISES IN A WILL TO THE ATTORNEY WHO DRAFTED THE WILL, AND TO MAKE REVISIONS TO THE UNIFORM PRINCIPAL AND INCOME ACT.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 31-4.1 is repealed.

SECTION 2. G.S. 31-4.2 is repealed.

SECTION 3. G.S. 37A-4-409 reads as rewritten:

"§ 37A-4-409. Deferred compensation, annuities, and similar payments.

(a) In this ~~section, "payment"~~ section:

(1) "Payment" means a payment that a trustee may receive over a fixed number of years or during the life of one or more individuals because of services rendered or property transferred to the payer in exchange for future payments. The term includes a payment made in money or property from the payer's general assets or from a separate fund created by the ~~payer, including a private or commercial annuity, an individual retirement account, and a pension, profit-sharing, stock-bonus, or stock-ownership plan.~~ payer. For purposes of subsections (d), (d1), (d2), and (d3) of this section, the term also includes any payment from any separate fund, regardless of the reason for the payment.

(2) "Separate fund" includes a private or commercial annuity, an individual retirement account, and a pension, profit-sharing, stock-bonus, or stock-ownership plan.

(b) To the extent that a payment is characterized as ~~interest or a dividend~~ interest, a dividend, or a payment made in lieu of interest or a dividend, a trustee shall allocate ~~it~~ the payment to income. The trustee shall allocate to principal the balance of the payment and any other payment received in the same accounting period that is not characterized as interest, a dividend, or an equivalent payment.

(c) If no part of a payment is characterized as interest, a dividend, or an equivalent payment, and all or part of the payment is required to be made, a trustee shall allocate to income ten percent (10%) of the part that is required to be made during the accounting period and the balance to principal. If no part of a payment is required to be made or the payment received is the entire amount to which the trustee is entitled, the trustee shall allocate the entire payment to principal. For purposes of this subsection, a payment is not "required to be made" to the extent that it is made because the trustee exercises a right of withdrawal.

(d) ~~If, to obtain an estate tax marital deduction for a trust, a trustee shall allocate more of a payment to income than provided for by this section, the trustee shall allocate to income the additional amount necessary to obtain the marital deduction.~~ Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d1) of this section, subsections (d2) and (d3) of this section apply, and subsections (b) and (c) of this section do not apply, in determining the allocation of a payment from a separate fund to:

(1) A trust to which an election to qualify for a marital deduction under section 2056(b)(7) of the Internal Revenue Code has been made, or

(2) A trust that qualifies for the marital deduction under section 2056(b)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(d1) Subsections (d), (d2) and (d3) of this section do not apply if and to the extent that the series of payments would, without the application of subsection (d) of this section, qualify for the marital deduction under section 2056(b)(7)(C) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(d2) A trustee shall determine the internal income of each separate fund for the accounting period as if the separate fund were a trust subject to this section. Upon request of the surviving spouse, the trustee shall demand that the person administering the separate fund distribute the internal income to the trust. The trustee shall allocate a payment from the separate fund to income to the extent of the internal income of the separate fund and distribute that amount to the surviving spouse. The trustee shall allocate the balance of the payment to principal. Upon request of the surviving spouse, the trustee shall allocate principal to income to the extent that the internal income of the separate fund exceeds payments made from the separate fund to the trust during the accounting period.

(d3) If a trustee cannot determine the internal income of a separate fund but can determine the value of the separate fund, the internal income of the separate fund is deemed to equal four percent (4%) of the fund's value, according to the most recent statement of value preceding the beginning of the accounting period. If the trustee can determine neither the internal income of the separate fund nor the fund's value, the internal income of the fund is deemed to equal the product of the interest rate and the present value of the expected future payments, as determined under section 7520 of the Internal Revenue Code for the month preceding the accounting period for which the computation is made.

(e) This section does not apply to payments to which G.S. 37A-4-410 applies."

SECTION 4. G.S. 37A-5-505 reads as rewritten:

"§ 37A-5-505. Income taxes.

(a) A tax required to be paid by a trustee based on receipts allocated to income shall be paid from income.

(b) A tax required to be paid by a trustee based on receipts allocated to principal shall be paid from principal, even if the tax is called an income tax by the taxing authority.

(c) A tax required to be paid by a trustee on the trust's share of an entity's taxable income shall be ~~paid proportionately:~~paid:

(1) From income to the extent that receipts from the entity are only allocated to income; ~~and~~

(2) From principal to the extent ~~that:~~

~~a.~~ ~~Receipts~~ receipts from the entity are only allocated to ~~principal; and~~

~~b. The trust's share of the entity's taxable income exceeds the total receipts described in subdivision (1) and sub-subdivision (2)a. of this subsection.~~principal;

(3) Proportionately from principal and income to the extent that receipts from the entity are allocated to both income and principal; and

(4) From principal to the extent that the tax exceeds the total receipts from the entity.

(d) ~~For purposes of this section, receipts allocated to principal or income shall be reduced by the amount distributed to a beneficiary from principal or income for which the trust receives a deduction in calculating the tax~~ After applying subsections (a) through (c) of this section, the trustee shall adjust income or principal receipts to the extent that the trust's taxes are reduced because the trust receives a deduction for payments made to a beneficiary."

SECTION 5. Sections 1, 2, and 5 of this act are effective July 1, 2010. The failure of an attorney to comply with either the affidavit requirement under G.S. 31-4.1 or the drafting disclosure requirement of G.S. 31-4.2 does not invalidate a will or a codicil. The remainder of the act becomes effective January 1, 2011.

HOUSE BILL 620:
Will/Unif. Principal and Income Act Changes

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 7, 2010
Introduced by:	Reps. Ross, Wiley	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to First Edition H620-CSRC-67

SUMMARY: Sections 1 and 2 of the Proposed Committee Substitute to HB620 repeal provisions enacted in 2009 that: (1) prohibit an attorney from drafting a will that makes the attorney a beneficiary under the will, unless the attorney is related to the testator, (2) require an attorney to attach an affidavit to the will certifying the attorney is in compliance with the section, and (3) require an attorney who drafted the will to include the attorney's name and business on the will.

Section 3 of the PCS makes changes to the Uniform Principal and Income Act so that it will be consistent with recent IRS rulings and so that North Carolina's law does not invalidate the marital deduction for a spousal trust.

Section 4 allows a trustee to pay the trust's income taxes from the trust's principal in instances where the tax exceeds the total receipts paid to the trust.

CURRENT LAW:

G.S. 31-4.1 prohibits an attorney who drafts an attested written will, or a codicil to an attested written will, from being a beneficiary under that will, regardless of whether the attorney receives compensation for preparing the will. There is an exception for attorneys who are relatives of the testator within five degrees of kinship, a present or former spouse of the testator, or a parent, sibling, or child of the testator's present or former spouse. An attorney who drafts a will or codicil in which the attorney is a beneficiary must attach an affidavit certifying that the attorney is in compliance with the law. Any bequest or devise to an attorney in violation of the law is void.

G.S. 31-4.2 provides that an attorney who drafts an attested written will, or a codicil to an attested written will to place his or her name and business address on the instrument, as drafter.

G.S. 37A-4-409(c) and (d) provide that if a martial trust receives a payment from a retirement account that cannot be characterized as income or principal, the trustee is to allocate 10 percent to income and the remainder to principal. If necessary to obtain an estate tax marital deduction, a trustee should allocate an additional amount to income. In Rev. Rul. 2006-26, the IRS invalidated the savings language and found that it would not guarantee that the trust would qualify for the marital deduction.

G.S. 37A-5-505 provides that when a trust must pay income taxes on the trust's share of another entity's taxable income, the trust must pay taxes from income to the extent the receipts are from income and from principal to the extent the receipts are from principal. The statute is silent regarding situations where the taxes owed exceed the actual receipts.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Sections 1 and 2 repeal G.S. 31-4.1 and 31-4.2

ection 3 amends G.S. 37A-4-409 to provide that the 10% rule will not apply to any trust that elects to qualify for the marital deduction if the trust would not qualify for the marital deduction if the other provisions of G.S. 37A-4-409 were applicable and then sets out the rules for determining how to allocate income.

Section 4 amends G.S. 37A-5-505 to allow a trustee to pay income taxes from principal when the tax exceeds the total receipts to the trust.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Sections 1 and 2 would become effective July 1, 2010, but no will or codicil would be invalid due to the lack of an affidavit or the disclosure of the drafting attorney's name and business address. Sections 3 and 4 become effective January 1, 2011.

BACKGROUND: The North Carolina State Bar Rules of Professional Conduct [Rule 1.8(c)] provide that:

"A lawyer shall not solicit any substantial gift from a client, including a testamentary gift, or prepare on behalf of a client an instrument giving the lawyer or a person related to the lawyer any substantial gift unless the lawyer or other recipient of the gift is related to the client. For purposes of this paragraph, related persons include a spouse, child, grandchild, parent, grandparent or other relative or individual with whom the lawyer or the client maintains a close, familial relationship."

SENATE BILL 567:
Responsible Individuals List/Abuse & Neglect

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 8, 2010
Introduced by:	Senator Hartsell	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	Fourth Edition

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 567 would require that an individual be given an opportunity for notice and judicial review prior to being placed on the responsible individuals list, a list of individuals determined to be responsible for the abuse or serious neglect of children. The bill is in response to a recent N.C. Court of Appeals decision that declared the current process for placement on and expunction from the list to be unconstitutional.

Senate Bill 567 has come back to the Senate for Concurrence.

CURRENT LAW AND BACKGROUND:

In 2005, the General Assembly enacted a law to require the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) to maintain a list of individuals determined to be responsible for the abuse or serious neglect of children, the responsible individuals list (RIL). DHHS is permitted to provide information from the RIL to child care institutions, child placing agencies, group home facilities, and other providers of foster care, child ---e, or adoption services that need to determine the fitness of individuals to care for or adopt children.

individual may be placed on the RIL after an investigative assessment results in a determination of abuse or serious neglect. The investigative assessment doesn't provide for notice to or an opportunity to be heard by the individual. After placement on the list, the individual may request that the individual's name be expunged from the RIL.

In the case of In re W.B.M., 690 S.E.2d 41 (N.C. App. 2010), the North Carolina Court of Appeals considered a challenge to the procedure for placing an individual on the RIL. The Court held that "an individual has a right to notice and an opportunity to be heard before being placed on the RIL," and held that the current statutory RIL procedures were "unconstitutional under Article I, Section 19 of the North Carolina Constitution because they violated the individual's due process rights by listing the individual on the RIL prior to a hearing." Id. at 52. The Court also held that "due process requires the State to substantiate a report of child abuse or neglect by a preponderance of the evidence before an individual's name can be included in and disseminated from the RIL," and that "at the constitutionally necessary pre-deprivation hearing in the district court, the director shall have the burden of proving abuse or serious neglect and identifying the responsible individual by a preponderance of the evidence." Id.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Senate Bill 567 would eliminate the current expunction process for individuals placed on the RIL, and instead would create a process for judicial review prior to the individual being placing on the RIL, as follows:

- An individual identified as a responsible individual may be placed on the RIL only after one of the following:
    1. The individual was properly notified of the determination and failed to file a petition for judicial review in a timely manner.

2. The court determines that the individual is a responsible individual as a result of a hearin either on the individual's petition for judicial review, or on a juvenile petition that alleges and seeks a determination that the individual is a responsible person.
3. The individual is criminally convicted as a result of the same incident.

- Require notice to the identified individual that unless the individual petitions for judicial review, the individual's name will be placed on the RIL.
- Require the individual to file for judicial review within 15 days of receipt of the director's determination. The standard of review for the hearing would be a preponderance of the evidence of abuse or serious neglect and of the identification of the individual. The director, upon receipt of a notice of hearing for judicial review, may review the information and, if after the review determines there is not sufficient evidence, may prepare a written statement and give notice to the individual and the court, cancelling the hearing.
- Define serious neglect as conduct, behavior, or inaction of the juvenile's parent, guardian, custodian, or caretaker that evidences a disregard of consequences of such magnitude that the conduct, behavior, or inaction constitutes an unequivocal danger to the juvenile's health, welfare, or safety, but does not constitute abuse.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Senate Bill 567 becomes effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 1213:
Amend State Purchases & Contracts Laws

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 10, 2010
Introduced by:	Sen. Clodfelter	Prepared by:	Jennifer McGinnis
Analysis of:	PCS to First Edition S1213-CSRI-64		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 1213 would: (i) require all State agencies and institutions exempt from Article 3 (Purchases and Contracts) of Chapter 143 (State Departments, Institutions, and Commissions) to comply with certain requirements regarding the review and award of contracts; (ii) require all State entities to submit contracts to the Attorney General for review and that the Attorney General (or designee or approved attorney) review the contracts; (iii) prohibit the use of cost plus percentage cost contracts. The bill was a recommendation of the Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to H1851, as introduced by Reps. Cole, Crawford, which is currently in House State Government/State Personnel, if favorable, Judiciary II.]

BACKGROUND: As noted, the bill was a recommendation of the Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee. The issue of State purchasing and contracting was discussed at a meeting of the Committee on August 3, 2009. Minutes and proceedings of that meeting are attached to this summary, as are a report from the Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee on the issue, and a summary of the bill prepared by staff to the Committee.

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would require various State agencies, departments, commissions, boards, and authorities, which are currently exempt from the State purchase and contracts requirements, to: (i) submit proposed agreements or contracts to the Attorney General or the Attorney General's designee for review; and (ii) to include a standard clause in all agreements or contracts to be awarded which provides that the State Auditor and internal auditors of the relevant entity may audit the records of the contractor during the term of the agreement or contract to verify accounts and data affecting fees and performance. These entities include:

- State Lottery Commission;
- Commissioner of Banks (supervisory contracts, conservator contracts);
- Commissioner of Insurance (various service contracts);
- Global Transpark Authority (special user and airport projects);
- State Bar Council;
- Board for Licensing of Geologists;
- Board for Licensing of Soil Scientists;
- Department of Health and Human Services (Medical Assistance program (Medicaid) for fiscal intermediary, capitation or prepaid health services contracts);

- Applied Textile Technology Center;
- Executive Administrator and Board of Trustees of the State Health Plan for Teachers and State Employees;
- North Carolina Turnpike Authority;
- Departments of Transportation and Correction (road construction by employees and/or inmates);
- North Carolina Code Officials Qualification Board (course development and administration);
- Roanoke Island Commission; and
- State Auditor (system security assessment).

The bill also:

- Prohibits the entities listed above from awarding a cost plus percentage of cost agreement or contract for any purpose (contracts under which the contractor receives payment for indeterminate costs plus a stated percentage or amount of profit based upon such costs).
- Requires all State entities to submit contracts to the Attorney General (or designee) for review (required review will differ depending on amount of contract, see next two bullets).
- Requires the Attorney General or a designee to review all Statewide term contracts for supplies, materials, printing, equipment, and contractual services and all proposed agency term contractual services contracts that exceed $1,000,000 for form, required clauses, sufficient monitoring and performance penalties, and accomplishment of intended purpose.
- Requires the Attorney General or a designee, which may be an attorney approved by the Attorney General, to review all State contracts for form, required clauses, and sufficient monitoring and performance penalties (but not accomplishment of intended purpose)..
- Expands existing responsibilities of the Attorney General to assist the Secretary of Administration with contracting responsibilities. Requires the Secretary of Administration to, among other things, include specific provisions in all contracts, monitor all Statewide term contracts, and develop rules to implement the provisions of this bill.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This bill would become effective October 1, 2010, and apply to all contracts proposed or awarded on or after that date.

The Committee approved the Minutes of the July 6, 2009 meeting as presented.

HEARING ON STATE PURCHASING AND CONTRACTING

Co-Chair Fletcher Hartsell stated that the purpose of the meeting was to receive agency suggestions for legislation or other policy changes to correct problems about state personal property and service contracting as reported to this committee by the State Auditor on July 6, 2009.

Don Teeter, Special Deputy Attorney General, Division of Property Control of the Department of Justice

Senator Hartsell recognized Mr. Don Teeter, Special Deputy Attorney General of the Property Control Division of the Department of Justice to make a statement and respond to questions.

Mr. Teeter said that the Secretary of Administration is required by N.C. Gen. Stat. § 143-49 (3) to ask for assistance from the Attorney General's Office in negotiating with prospective contractors for contractual services contracts exceeding a cost of $100,000 and to maintain files for three years. The greatest portion of service contracts are performed competitively and do not require negotiations. Teeter described his experience when he was with the Attorney General's Office in the late 1980's negotiating with EDS for a medical database contract. Relative to the State Health Plan contract at issue, Mr. Teeter said that the State Health Plan prepared the contract with Blue Cross and that the Attorney General's Office was not involved in negotiating or preparing the contract. The State Health Plan handled the negotiations independently and Teeter suggested that the State Health Plan obtained any legal advice elsewhere. Teeter opined that there is a certain critical mass of lawyers needed during negotiations and that exceeding that critical mass means that "nothing is going to happen." The policy person, usually the agency head determines the need for legal advice and if the agency head asks for advice from Teeter or his attorneys, they give that advice. Teeter said, "The current administration has done a superb job in asking for legal services when they need them." Teeter has one staff member dedicated to serving the current administration. Teeter said his office could make improvements and with more staff that his staff could provide services that are more thoroughgoing on contracts and in smaller increments.

Representative Nelson Cole asked why the Attorney General's Office refused to respond in writing to the Program Evaluation Division's questions for background prior to today's hearing. Mr. Teeter said that the written response was an issue "above (Teeter's) pay grade" but that he understood that the Attorney General's Office had informed the "Chief of Staff" (Director of the Program Evaluation Division) that the office respectively declined to make a written response. Representative Cole asked again if this meant that the Joint Committee had asked for a written response and that the Attorney General had refused to respond. Teeter said that was correct. Representative Cole said that the refusal was an insult. He said that he did not have any questions of Teeter because the office had refused to provide written answers.

Senator Daniel Clodfelter asked how many lawyers worked in the Office of Property Control. Mr. Teeter said five lawyers plus himself. Senator Clodfelter asked if the statutes required any agency or offices other than the Secretary of Administration to consult with Teeter and his attorneys about contracting. Senator Clodfelter asked if his understanding of the N.C. Gen. Stat. § 143-49 (3) was correct that the attorneys under Mr. Teeter's supervision reviewed only contracts let by the Department of Administration. Mr. Teeter responded that this was correct and that his staff responded to numerous issues on a daily basis affecting the Department of Administration on personal property procurement, construction, and real property procurement.

Senator Clodfelter asked if Property Control attorneys had veto authority over those contracts submitted for review analogous to the Senator's local government experience that the City Council could not approve a contract unless counsel had approved the contract, i.e. counsel had veto power. Teeter responded that some of the construction contracts come to them for approval "as to form," which means, "It is written on white paper in reasonably dark ink and signed by pretty much the right people. We do not approve as to substance and content." His office "did a great deal of work with all of the divisions of the Department (of Administration) with respect to questions about how to do things and how not to do things, questions about bidding and questions about the law."

Senator Clodfelter asked if the Property Control Office had reviewed the Division of Medical Assistance contract that Teeter mentioned earlier. Teeter said the Property Control Office had not reviewed the contract but that another office in the Department of Justice may have.

Representative Bruce Goforth asked if the laws protected the interests of North Carolina businesses when competing for state agency business and gave an example of a large contract involving recent federal stimulus going to an out-of-state company, which generated many complaints from his House district. He asked what latitude the General Assembly had to make the purchasing laws work in favor of North Carolina companies. Teeter said that the state could consider "price, time to delivery plus two or three but a very limited number of other things," but that in general "unless you can hook it (the bid award) to price, you may be getting off the edge of the map." However, with federal stimulus money, the state could assure that funds benefited the North Carolina economy, unless an action changes who wins the award in a close case. There are potential federal constitutional equal protection issues with legislation that gives preference to in-state bidders. There is also very little way to pass a statute without starting a "border war" that could have a retaliatory effect on North Carolina businesses doing business in other states. Teeter likened the situation to "ripples in a pond." Teeter said that the "black letter law" relative to public procurement is "not there for the care and feeding of contractors," but to protect the public and to get the "best bang for the buck for the taxpayers." The General Assembly can and should strike a balance between protecting local employers and North Carolina businesses and the interests of the taxpayer.

Representative Goforth reported that he knew of out-of-state architects hired for state construction projects who wrote building material requirements to favor businesses in the architects' states, which resulted in both lost business to North Carolina as well as higher prices and which is a huge problem in universities.

Senator Clodfelter noted that N.C. Gen. Stat. § 143-49 (3) appeared to limit Property Control attorneys authority to provide advice only on contractual services and not on purchases of supplies and equipment. Senator Clodfelter asked if those attorneys reviewed the office supplies contract at issue. Mr. Teeter responded that one of the lawyers in his office was involved in the formation of the RFP for the contract. There were two contracts "back to back" and litigation with one of the losing bidders for three months. The great number of products covered by that contract and the E-procurement system, which allowed ordering products over the web without purchase orders, were new experiences for the Department of Administration involving a great number of products. The web system provided a cost savings in reduced paperwork processing. Teeter suggested that the General Assembly might determine what agencies should do to order and receive products more quickly. He said that he "could not swear to this" but that he believed that the Department of Administration Purchase and Contract Division requested Teeter's advice on potential pricing problems with the contractor before the State Auditor identified those problems. Teeter advised the Division to turn the matter over to the State Bureau of Investigation, as the statute requires, and to continue reviewing the pricing problem internally. Teeter said that the State Bureau of Investigation did not detect criminal activity. The Purchase and Contracts Division continued to "get after" the vendor about pricing and recovered money paid for overcharges and stopped Office Depot from recovering for a "substantially larger amount of money that Office Depot had undercharged." Teeter agreed with the current and previous State Auditors criticism "that this was no way to do business," but noted that oversight of the online price charts was an unfamiliar area for the Division of Purchase and Contract and that the Division wanted to simplify the process of getting these goods "in the door." Teeter said that the Department of Administration decided instead of litigating to terminate the contract at the first opportunity after its remaining one year of commitment and then rebid the contract.

Senator Clodfelter said that he agreed with concerns expressed earlier (about the Attorney General's refusal to provide written answers before this hearing). Senator Clodfelter noted in addition to the three contracts criticized by the Auditor that this joint committee had received a report about a fourth contract earlier this year as part of an "absolute fiasco" with Administrative Office of the Courts technology contracts, which are currently exempt by statute from oversight by the Department of Administration. The General Assembly may wish to review that exemption. He commented that a critical mass of attorneys has to be something in excess of zero. The four contracting issues resulted from an absence of anyone "blowing the whistle," questioning and then halting contracts before they went into effect. There are many other examples within state government not represented by the four in question. Senator Clodfelter expressed concern that the Attorney General as the state's legal representative had not provided suggestions to this joint committee for legislation within the resources and realm of possibilities for addressing problems and therefore had left the joint committee adrift, which was not a satisfactory situation.

Teeter said that he "would certainly carry that message back."

Senator Hartsell said that he recalled a body of federal law and statute that allowed renegotiation of procurements and contracts primarily in the military area. Senator Hartsell asked Mr. Teeter if North Carolina had a similar provision permitting or requiring the renegotiation of procurement contracts under certain circumstances.

Mr. Teeter said that the Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR) permit the agency contracting officer to invite two or three of the best bidders to propose a "best and final offer" (BAFO). North Carolina does not allow this. State government follows a policy of "tell them what you want, take their bids, and buy at the lowest price." The toughest decisions are when agencies may allow a bidder to clarify bids. The "holy grail of that is" that one bidder may explain features of the product and to negotiate items of better quality, but the bidder will not be allowed to bid a different price during clarification. North Carolina law generally does not allow negotiations with bidders particularly on personal property acquisitions after receiving bids. The law does provide more leeway for construction contracts, which the State Building Commission regulates and statutes address. Mr. Teeter suggested that some of the procedures allowed for purchases during construction including ability to use "single prime, multi-prime and construction manager at risk" types of construction delivery with Building Commission approval and allowable for local governments might be welcome, beneficial and save money on personal property acquisitions if the law allowed.

Without further questions or comments from the committee, Chairman Hartsell excused Mr. Teeter.

Dr. Jack Walker, Executive Administrator, State Health Plan for Teachers and State Employees

Co Chair Fletcher Hartsell recognized Dr. Jack Walker, Executive Administrator of the State Health Plan for Teachers and State Employees to make an opening statement and respond to questions.

Walker said that the State Health Plan (SHP) has about 665,000 members including active employees, retirees, and their dependents. The former Executive Administrator of the SHP entered into the Blue Cross Blue Shield (BCBS) administrative contract criticized by the State Auditor on February 2006 as a "cost plus" contract, had no caps, no reasons for any cost savings initiatives, and lacked any requirements for reporting BCBS costs. It was a cost plus contract with not many requirements for reporting costs. As pointed out by the Auditor, the contract had weak provisions for auditing. Questions received have included "Are bonuses allowed?" "Can marketing expenses of BCBS be charged to the plan?" "How is overhead to be allocated?" A host of things should have been done that were untouched during the negotiations of this contract. In addition, the contract provided that certain portions of administration were to be charged to claims expense, which resulted in understatement of administrative expenses in reports to the General Assembly and others because BCBS took part of the administrative expenses and put them "in the medical claims bucket." As a result, it "looked like administrative expenses were at one level, when in fact they were significantly higher than that." It specifically says in the agreement that a certain portion of administration was to be included in claims expense.

Dr. Walker referred to the written responses to questions posed by the Program Evaluation Division and to a handout distributed during the meeting. In 2005, the administrators of SHP obtained approval from its Board of Trustees to create a PPO option on a sole source basis. This contract cost in excess of $100,000,000 per year. It was not bid. Two people from the State Health Plan were involved in negotiations—the Deputy Administrator and Chief Operating Officer and the Network Administrator. The Attorney General's Office was not involved. The Division of Purchasing and Contracts was not involved. "As far as I can tell" no outside attorney was involved. "But they followed the law." They had to advise the General Assembly and they did. They had to get the consent of the board and they did. "So, from what we can gather, there was no non-following of the law." Very few of the SHP staff were involved, "So it was a very tight knit operation." "I don't know how many on the Blue Cross side were involved." The former Executive Administrator signed the contract on Feb. 28, 2006. In addition there was a comprehensive major medical plan still in existence and the PPO was offered in addition to that and that contract was due to expire. The previous administration went to the board and said they wanted to extend this comprehensive major medical contract for three years. The board approved. The SHP also notified the General Assembly. So that contract was also extended. Again, no bid, "Just extended, I presume under the same terms and conditions."

As to actions taken as a result of the State Auditor's criticisms, Walker said after 2006, the SHP administration decided that they needed to control contracts administration better and it did create a contracting administration department, developed a policy and procedure manual, which is in effect today with revisions and will be revised again. All of this was done after SHP signed the current BCBS contract.

Walker said the SHP is now seeking advice on all contracts where appropriate from the State Auditor. The SHP is doing what Walker termed the "5-G RFP," which was in Senate Bill 287 calling for an extensive audit of SHP contracts and has worked with Program Evaluation, Purchase and Contract, and an Attorney General's Office attorney dedicated to SHP who is consulted on all contracts. SHP also has an in-house attorney. Walker commented that he did not know as the committee discussed earlier in this meeting whether SHP having two attorneys approached a "critical mass." SHP will continue training staff on contract administration.

Walker said that SHP eliminated the "shared savings" component, which was in the current BCBS contract because it incorporated some of the administrative costs. The rate is now a quarterly per member per month rate for administrative costs and then BCBS adjusts from that. The SHP is now getting a monthly report of charges. Previously BCBS sent a bill for a lump sum amount BCBS said was owed for the month—no detail, "just this is how much was owed for the month of...." Today, SHP is receiving a bill, which is broken down into charges for categories of service, for every major administrative duty required of BCBS.

Walker said that the audit provision stated that BCBS had the right to approve any outside auditor, "to read the audit report, and the right to tell the SHP what it should know." The State Auditor reported that this was "kind of weak." We amended that contract August 17 and the outside auditor works for "us" (the SHP). The auditor will report to SHP "without censorship" what they find. There are more things that SHP wants "to work on" relative to the claims processing contractor. The SHP is getting very good cooperation out of BCBS today as well as very good detailed records and has discussed improvements with BCBS. SHP has done some cost reduction strategies with BCBS. They have been cooperative—someone simply "needed to knock on their door and say 'This is what we want.'"

Walker said that SHP is working on final details of an engagement with a local CPA firm Thomas and Gibbs for auditing administrative expenses and do some limited operational and efficiency work. SHP is focusing the "5-G RFP" to obtain a firm for a full efficiency and operational audit and hope to have the RFP finished by August 15, select a vendor by September 15, and report results to the General Assembly and Blue Ribbon task force as findings emerge from that audit.

Walker said the current contract with BCBS ends June 30, 2013. SHP intends to begin writing an RFP thirty months out around the first of 2011 to bid the next contract. The RFP development will be extensive. The contract will be a fixed price contract, not a cost plus.

Walker explained the SHP written response to the Program Evaluation Division that it did "not have any legislative corrections at this time." The SHP suggests instead of offering preliminary and tentative recommendations better recommendations will result from the Blue Ribbon Task Force review of the claims and efficiency audits.

Walker said that his concern is governance of the SHP. The Executive Administrator has sole authority without much oversight over many major areas affecting the plan. The General Assembly needs to examine this authority carefully and specify the authority of the Executive Administrator. Walker gave an example. Until the General Assembly passed legislation very recently, the Executive Administrator with only some concurrence by the board could change dependent rates, which could have had major cost implications. The examination should include the extent of authority over the administrator by part time board members that meet only quarterly and can be easily swayed. SHP pays the part time members only $100 per meeting.

Representative Holliman asked if SHP could realistically expect a number of claims administrators to handle the number of claims handled by SHP. Walker said that he wished that he could say that there were several, however BCBS is "very strong in this state" and that there could possibly be one other that may be only marginally qualified. The rest "would not be able to give a 100% provider network."

Representative Holliman asked if it was not true that the SHP benefits because the administrator has a statewide provider network. Walker responded that BCBS pricing is "excellent" because SHP benefits from services provided at a discount to BCBS by its network. Representative Holliman asked if the SHP were to change, that SHP would have to adjust to a newly formed network. Walker said that the SHP anticipated that issue by planning to issue the RFP in 2011 to provide a good bidder a year to prepare.

Representative Harrell asked Walker to clarify what he had verbally consulted Mark Trogdon of the Fiscal Research Division about earlier relative to recent legislation addressing the SHP Executive Administrator's authority to raise dependent rates. Walker said that he knew the legislation passed the Senate but was not sure it passed the House.

Mr. Trogdon said that HB 1274 up for third reading that night has a provision requiring that the General Assembly approve dependent rates. The law currently provides that the Executive Administrator and SHP Board can actually set all rates unless otherwise set by the appropriations act. Historically the General Assembly has set the employee rates in the appropriations act and subsequently the Executive Administrator and SHP board have set the dependent rate. Mr. Trogdon said that Walker has recommended the General Assembly set all rates.

Representative Goforth asked Walker what percentage bonuses paid to BCBS employees represented of the overhead charged to the SHP. Walker responded that the SHP will know that answer sometime between August and December. Representative Goforth asked if BCBS included advertising. Walker said that too would be forthcoming between August and December. Representative Goforth said that we apparently have an unknown cost plus percentage basis. Walker said the SHP "had whatever cost the administrator (BCBS) decided to put into overhead." Representative Goforth said, "That is scary."

Representative Cole asked who appointed the SHP Board of Trustees and if there a corporate structure or nonprofit structure allowing for that method of appointment and board responsibilities as well as board member qualifications. Walker said that three each are appointed by the Governor, Speaker and Pro Tempore and within that it is specified one must be a teacher, another a state employee and the other a retiree. However, other than that, there are no other qualifications. They have fiduciary responsibilities and the Executive Administrator "runs approximately 140 things past them during the year, which is nearly impossible" because they meet only four times a year with occasional teleconferences. Representative Cole requested that Walker provide the joint committee and PED staff the names of those trustees. Walker said that he would furnish the names to PED staff.

Without further questions or comments from the committee, Chairman Hartsell excused Walker.

James Staton, State Purchasing Officer, Department of Administration Purchase and Contract Division (P&C)

Co Chair Fletcher Hartsell recognized Mr. James Staton, State Purchasing Officer from the Department of Administration Purchase and Contract Division to give opening statements and then respond to questions.

Mr. Staton reviewed responsibilities, functions performed, and scope of work under N.C. Gen. Stat. § 143. He said that the division has 42 employees including 17 procurement specialists, 3 compliance officers, 2 trainers and educators, 3 engineers, 5 managers, and 9 support personnel. Mr. Staton noted that Walker had responded to questions about the SHP. He said that recommendations made by the State Auditor have been implemented. The division issued a new office supply contract, awarded to four contractors, and established control of product pricing and ID numbers. He does not anticipate further problems. Two of the four contractors are "women only" companies. The contract included penalties for failure to perform. Staton said that even though the Auditor recommended automated contract monitoring, he believed that the current contract achieves the intended results until resources are available for others to develop software to monitor contracts on a statewide basis. He added that the process he reviewed represented efforts to improve from lessons learned. Office Depot credited contract overcharges back to the users.

Representative Holliman asked if P&C is able to keep up with contracts on a timely basis with the current number of employees. Staton said that he did not have metrics on the average processing time. In addition to the number of contracts, the dollar or volume of the contract would be factors in workload. P&C considers 30 days to complete all steps of an acquisition a success, but the time needed depends upon the nature of the contract. Even with a very large staff, turnaround depends upon the magnitude of the contract.

Representative Holliman asked if agencies gave P&C sufficient lead time or do agencies ask for approval on short notice. Staton said that this did happen occasionally and his staff works with agency staff to prevent this by asking agencies to let P&C know of work in process toward a contract submission. Staton said that P&C review including his reading of contracts did not constitute a bottleneck.

Representative Cole asked whom Mr. Staton considered the customer of P&C. Mr. Staton said that customers or stakeholders included state agencies, suppliers, and taxpayers. Representative Cole requested Mr. Staton to prioritize the three and name the most important. Staton said that meeting the needs of the state agencies is the top priority and then state vendors. Representative Cole commented that he considered state residents the customer and that P&C should do so as well. Staton said that he did not disagree.

Without further questions or comments from the committee, Chairman Hartsell excused Staton.

Dan Stewart, CPA, Assistant Secretary for Finance and Business Operations, DHHS

Co Chair Fletcher Hartsell recognized Mr. Dan Stewart, Assistant Secretary for Finance and Business Operations, Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) to respond to questions following an opening statement.

Mr. Stewart said that his response would cover questions raised by the State Auditor about the Value Options contract: The DHHS Division of Medical Assistance (DMA), which handles Medicaid, had overall responsibility for the Value Options contract with the DMA contracts section exercising primary responsibility. The contracts section currently handles 86 active contracts with some of the contracts over 1,000 pages in length. The section is also responsible for 10 current requests for proposals (RFP) as well as development of proposed contracts. The section consists of 3 people working on contracting and another 3 who are monitors. Contracts collectively represent a value of $230 million. Not only are the contracts very large, there are often many amendments. For example, the EDS fiscal agent contract has 76 amendments and is now up to 2,000 pages in length.

Stewart said that in addition to actions taken in response to the State Auditor report, the DMA contracts section has done several things to improve documentation for contract monitoring:

- Identified appropriate documentation, which is maintained on an on-going basis to reflect the original projected costs of the contract per year along with the actual reviews provided and the costs incurred
- Began using RAT STAT software (also used by the OIG on the federal level) in the Fall of 2008 with the assistance of the DHHS Internal Auditors to sample reviews identified as duplicates in the monthly invoices and data received from Value Options
- Developed a database in the winter of 2008 to handle over 60,000 lines of data received each month by DMA from Value Options in support of their monthly invoice, which comprises about 1,200 pages each month, to ensure the invoice and data support each other. Additionally, logic has been built into the database to identify duplicate billings. This logic was based on discussions with Value Options and DMA Clinical Policy staff. There is documentation for the database as well as a checklist by which these monthly reviews of the Value Options invoice and billing data are reviewed. On-going discussions are conducted between DMA and Value Options.
- Developed more in-depth review processes of the monthly performance reports.

DMA has gradually diminished the amount withheld before payment to Value Options. DMA imposed the "withhold" until DMA and Value Options cleared up billing problems. DMA has gradually reduced the "withhold" to 3% currently. Any adjustments DMA finds are handled through the monthly invoice process.

Representative Harrell asked how many duplicate bills have been submitted by Value Options.

Stewart said that the issue was not duplicate billings, but a single request for services resulting in duplicate entries. When a request for service comes in for prior approval sometimes there may be follow-up activity with the client or with the provider. Initially with the follow-up, there were additional billings. The billing process is involved and complicated. Stewart said that he is a CPA and that half his career has been in auditing and half in administration. With this background, Stewart suggested that the committee could "take his assessment of the process to the bank as being very involved and complicated."

Representative Luebke commented that the issue that has been in the media and before this committee several times was what Value Options was billing for—that is low risk services and that services for higher risk consumers were not offered that often. Thus, Value Options was billing mostly for low risk services or certainly low priority services from the perspective of Representative Luebke and others concerned about the nature of mental health services. Rep. Luebke asked if Stewart's office was involved with this services issue.

Stewart said that his office was not. He said that Value Options performed a prior approval processes and is an agent of the State as is EDS. The providers of services would send requests in to Value Options for a particular service for prior approval. Based upon that information Value Options would question the provider about that service and approve or deny services to a recipient and of course the provider.

Representative Holliman asked if it was correct that at one time Value Options was approving every service requested.

Steward said that was correct. Early on requests for support program services inundated Value Options. There was a lot of provider abuse. The volume of claims was more than anyone had imagined. The problem was getting a sufficient number of staff "up to speed" to handle those requests to assure that those who needed services got those services. Yes, early on Value Options was approving almost every request. As Value Options staffed up and could contact providers for additional information the approval rate dropped and dropped again.

Representative Justice said that she served on the Mental Health Oversight Committee when the committee first considered the Value Options issue and that there was "much gnashing of teeth" and reluctance to proceed out of concern that there would be too many problems with the transition. Then the problems occurred as many had predicted. She asked Stewart if the problems would be solved a year from now if an assessment were done at that time.

Steward responded that Value Options was making improvements all along, that the issues in the audit report would largely be solved by then, and that most have been solved as of now although there is always room for improvement. The volume of transactions going through the DMA contracts section exceeded the capacity of staff available. An individual reviewer has limits to the number of transactions that can be handled to the degree of depth required.

Stewart said that PED asked DHHS what legislation that DHHS would request.. He said that the issue was not a need for legislation, but a need for manpower resources. The General Assembly has passed legislation that had assisted in this area. However, the workers available had difficulty handling the claims volume from 50,000 providers. The DMA appeals process resulted in a backlog of 7,000 appeals and claims that could not be processed earlier. Appeals require claims staff to stop processing to attend appeals proceedings.

Representative Justice commented that she was glad to hear that DMA had introduced logic into the system and that government needed to introduce logic nationwide.

Senator Clodfelter commented that we needed to know what happened in the past to be able to craft a solution for the future. He reported confusion as to what actually happened from the answers to some of the earlier questions about Value Options suddenly approving all of the requests for authorizations. Clodfelter said that he thought that the DMA had simply switched off the interface function, which was not the same as Value Options approving all requests. He said that he understood that DMA said, "Don't worry with authorizations for now."

Stewart responded DMA recognized early on that there needed to be a prior approval process. The initial claims volume exceeded anticipated volume. Value Options does a number of prior approval services for DHHS.

Senator Clodfelter asked if the failure was Value Options authorizing services that it should not have authorized or if it was DMA saying that it could not handle the approval process.

Stewart responded that the problem was that the volume exceeded Value Options capacity and that the waiting process would have resulted in people needing services not receiving those services. Then the opening up of prior approvals also resulted in people not needing services receiving services.

Clodfelter asked Stewart if it was true that the people who should not have received services received them not because Value Options granted prior authorization for those not in need, i.e. the error was not a Value Options error.

Stewart said "Yes."

Senator Hartsell recognized State Auditor Beth Wood for a comment.

Wood said that one of the audit findings was that DHHS did not do enough work up front before entering into the Value Options contract. Value Options software could not communicate with DMA software system. The DMA system rejected many of the claims for which Value Options had issued prior approvals. Because of the high rate of DMA rejections of claims previously approved by Value Options, DMA turned off the DMA system edits that rejected claims. The result was that the State paid Value Options for a prior approval system that could not "talk" with the DMA system so the State turned off the State system.

Senator Clodfelter asked Stewart if the State Auditor's explanation was correct.

Steward said that the State Auditor's explanation was correct. He added that EDS handled the DMA system. The system has over 4,300 audits and edits of which some were original and some added later as patches during the system's 30-year history. The EDS system was denying too many valid claims because some of those EDS system edits added over time were not working properly. So DMA turned off all edits until DMA could fix the EDS system.

Representative Holliman asked what the State did wrong in contracting with Value Options without any idea about the volume.

Stewart said that his personal opinion was that what started the problem was when the US Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) said that they were not going to allow certain services for the mentally ill. DHHS put in a new service definition to "pick up the slack" and people would not "slip through the cracks." DHHS wrote the definition broadly to cover people who were losing services and cover them under the new definition. Some abusive providers took gross advantage of everyone involved. The US CMS approved the definition. Another issue was that CMS would not allow DHHS to phase in from the former service to the new service. Stewart did not remember the date, but on a midnight, DHHS had to switch from one service to another. That led to some of the issues that Stewart explained earlier about Value Options approving services. There was not enough time to get everyone through the system. At that midnight, DHHS had to take everyone in the state who was receiving services and move them to another service.. DHHS had asked CMS for a phase in and CMS denied the request.

Representative Luebke asked why there were no cost controls or a system to identify how much money DHHS spent on these low-level services as opposed to services to more needy clients.

Stewart responded that one could identify a number of areas, but one of the primary areas is that DHHS is behind in technology. There are always limited funds to create a dashboard to flag problems early instead of identifying those up to five months later. This could occur in any area of the department such as Medicaid or another section. DHHS is trying to fast track a particular element under the new Medicaid system. It will be a software system or an analytical tool that will identify these cost overruns as they happen and enable management daily to identify anything out of kilter with the budget. Because DHHS is participating in the Medicaid Management Information System (MMIS) project, the federal government will finance ninety percent. DHHS will have resources available above what are normally available. If management identifies a problem, however, management cannot simply throw a switch to stop it. If DHHS has an approved service definition, changes have to flow through CMS through the Atlanta regional office and ultimately to Baltimore. CMS has a "ninety-day clock" to stop things any time they have questions. Sometimes it takes CMS a long time to approve state plan amendments. It took CMS on one occasion three years to approve a plan amendment. In the meantime, DHHS is spending money, even if DHHS is aware of a needed change, because of federal approval requirements.

Representative Luebke asked why someone in DHHS did not "blow the whistle" on how much money was going into the low-level services. He noted the chart in the Program Evaluation Division briefing showing the spike in spending after only one month. He asked if Stewart was saying that DHHS had no technology that would have identified the sharply increasing expenditures.

Stewart said that the North Carolina Medicaid program is a $10 Billion program. After sixty days, the DMA director brought the spending escalation to the attention of the DHHS Secretary. The Secretary's office started reviewing the matter and started the process of tightening the definition for CMS approval, which is very lengthy. Meanwhile, there were the abusive providers sending in requests "by the boatload." That affected the Value Options contract. When Value Options would turn down services, providers and recipients would file appeals to the DMA appeals section. The section had a backlog of 7,000 pending appeals. Assembling people in from several DHHS sections, Value Options and DMA appeals staff was a "virtual nightmare." There are no options with services— because of federal regulations services DHHS cannot stop services suddenly. DHHS was spending money while the mandatory of appeals process was backlogged. It is not a "flip a switch" type situation unfortunately. There has been a lot of money wasted as a result.

Representative Luebke commented that what happened was unacceptable. He repeated that Stewart earlier had said that lack of technology was the cause of the problem. He asked Stewart that if in a year DHHS would have the necessary technology.

Stewart said that DHHS has pieces of technology. For example, the interface between EDS and Value Options is working. The contract-monitoring piece is in place. Many other pieces are in development that hopefully will be under contract shortly. Stewart said that he was hopeful that a dashboard would be available by January 2010 covering the entire Medicaid program that will allow DHHS to identify any exceptional usage of a particular service early on. Stewart said that he could not promise that the situation would never happen again. However, DHHS would be able to identify such situations sooner. The things that DHHS does not control such as CMS approval of state plan amendments that may take from ninety days to three years. DHHS has no control over the number of provider and recipient appeals and services and DHHS has to continue services until that appeal is completed. DHHS only has six hearing officers handling appeals. DHHS hopes to have identification of such problems much earlier than in the past.

Representative Luebke commented that Stewart should have a direct line to the Secretary. In spite of the delays and appeals mentioned, the state still experienced huge amounts of money wasted on low intensity services. Representative Luebke expects Stewart to have a direct line to the Secretary for an immediate alert when problems are first identified. He asked if Stewart was saying that Stewart did not have that power now.

Stewart said that the Secretary does not have that power.

Representative Luebke asked if that meant the Secretary did not have the power to end the Value Options "mess."

Steward responded that Value Options "was approval." The Secretary did not have the power to make necessary changes to community support services that CMS had approved in the state plan amendment.

Representative Holliman asked if DHHS wrote the original service definition.

Stewart said yes the department wrote the definition, which CMS approved. He added that there is considerable interchange and a negotiation process between DHHS and CMS involving the initial state proposal with the Atlanta CMS office responding with comments and requests to make changes. DHHS proposed a ninety-day phase in to avoid the midnight flipping of a switch, but CMS did not approve the phasing. There were many negotiations before DHHS had a final definition.

Without further questions or comments from the committee, Chairman Hartsell excused Stewart.

Beth Wood, CPA, State Auditor

Senator Hartsell recognized State Auditor Beth Wood.

Wood stated that she wanted to clarify some items that Mr. Teeter from the Office of the Attorney General said relative to the Office Depot contract. Office Depot, the vendor, found that they were overcharging the State of North Carolina. Office Depot said that they undercharged hundreds of thousands of dollars and "in the goodness of their heart," they were going to pay the state what they overcharged the state and forget about what they undercharged the state. The state auditors requested proof of undercharges, but could not verify that information from the first CD furnished. Then auditors received another CD, but again could not determine that there were any undercharges. She said that she wanted the committee to understand that the auditors did consider the undercharge issue, but could not find any proof that Office Depot undercharged the state.

As to Representative Holliman's question about how the state gets into these situations, Wood said that there were projections on the front end of contracts such as Blue Cross and DMA. There are numbers as to how the contractor will render services and costs. If the projections are flawed, then obviously contractor performance will also be a problem. The key is monitoring after the projections. There is another audit report she will be reviewing for her approval this week. Monitoring is an issue. The agencies involved say that it was the Department of Administration's responsibility to monitor these contracts. Wood said that she knew of no statutory provision as to who has the responsibility for monitoring. If legislation is considered, it should establish who is responsible and even if there were bad projections, monitoring should detect these during the first month that a contract fails to perform as expected.

Representative Goforth asked Wood how the auditor could audit a state contract if there were nothing in writing specifying the percentages and amounts that a contractor could charge for administration and overhead.

Wood said that her office did not. Here office examined the performance of the contract and the projections versus actual. The audit found that the actuary who made the projections of cost of the SHP could not access Blue Cross actual numbers as to what Blue Cross was charging. Her office also could not access that information. Those numbers are not available to anyone.

Representative Luebke expressed concern about Wood's observation that there was no statutory obligation for agencies to monitor costs, to look for exceptions and to flag them.

Wood said that Luebke is correct in assuming that agencies should do this for good stewardship and good resource management. This is obviously an implied obligation. However, as she said earlier, when responding to a pending audit an agency that signed a contract said it was not responsible for monitoring that contract.

Representative Cole asked if in her role as guardian of the purse, had she been denied access by any of the state suppliers to needed information.

Wood said that Blue Cross Blue Shield did.

Representative Cole asked why.

Wood said that the contract states that her office would not be allowed to look at those numbers.

Representative Cole stated that this was inconceivable. He asked if auditors were denied access to information to determine if the millions were spent properly and if they were not that the state does not know.

Wood said that she had an issue with another contract that her office was asked to examine and auditors were not allowed to examine the numbers.

Representative Cole said that was the pharmaceutical supplier. Wood responded yes. Representative Cole said that the supplier was Medco.

Senator Clodfelter stated that his chuckle earlier was not directed at her but at the circumstances she was describing. He said that he had looked at both contracts as a member of the oversight committee and found out after some resistance that he was entitled to look at them. He said that a first year law student during the first day of law school could have done a better job on those contracts.

Representative Cole observed that the discussions kept raising other questions. He asked Wood who in these agencies is authorized to negotiate a contract and sign it wherein the state would have no oversight and affirmed Senator Clodfelter's opinion.

Wood said that she was not certain, but she assumed that the person who signed the contract was authorized to sign. However, she said that she could not say if that was specified by a statute or their job description.

Representative Cole asked if anyone present from Purchasing and Contract (P&C) who could respond.

Don Teeter from the Office of Attorney General said that most contracts that go through P&C are contracts that are let by the agency under the supervision of P&C. That supervision is aimed more at the competitive procurement aspect than the content of the contract. Obviously as P&C considers contracts, many changes are made to most every contract. Because the agency spends appropriated money for contracts—that is an agency responsibility. The agency head signs contracts. Contracts such as Office Depot are "term contracts," which apply to all state agencies and school systems. The Department of Administration lets term contracts. The State Purchasing Officer, Mr. Staton, signs the term contracts. When contracts go through P&C, P&C has teams organized by industry or disciplinary lines, e.g. high tech, services, commodities, etc. The teams are the real level of expertise as to what the industry will bear. That is not elementary learning. The person who has signs is not always the person with the expertise in the industry or area of the economy involved.

Co-Chair Hartsell asked if state contracts have a provision such as that which local governments have requiring a pre-audit provision affixed to the contract to make them enforceable against the entity.

Teeter said that if there is a pre-audit provision, he did not know of it. If there were, it would be for an individual agency where the General Assembly has authorized. When agencies request a contract or a contract form for P&C signature or send out for competition, P&C does not check to see if there is an appropriation or ability to pay. There are agencies that are exempt from the P&C process and some that are not in the executive branch. Some of those that are exempt ask P&C or Construction for assistance. State ports are apart because they are receipt supported.

Committee Discussion

Co-Chair Hartsell asked for committee discussion about proposals for legislation or any follow up with regard to the hearing.

Representative Holliman said that he agreed with Senator Hartsell's suggestion for a pre-audit provision similar to that applicable to local government. In addition, he could support any measure to improve efficiency or to make the process more professional.

Senator Clodfelter suggested that staff make suggestions for legislation and then the committee could debate those.

Representative Langdon said that the contract system should protect the taxpayers and what the state has, apparently does not do that. He suggested that the committee needs legislation that fixes contracting. He told the committee that as a Johnston County official hiring a county attorney that he had the attorney review every contract for potential defects that would hamper performance and that appeared to be what the state needed to do in some way. He observed that he was not an attorney, but that any of the committee members could do better than what others described today.

Representative Cole suggested that staff survey other states for best practices.

Adjournment

With no further business before the committee, the committee adjourned.

- Requires the Attorney General or his/her designee to review proposed statewide term and agency term contracts over $1,000,000. Legal review will include whether the proposed contracts are in proper legal form, contain required clauses, provide for sufficient monitoring, provide sufficient performance penalties, and accomplish the intended purposes of the proposed contract.
- Requires the Attorney General or an attorney approved by the Attorney General to review all state contracts. Legal review will include whether the proposed contracts are in proper legal form, contain required clauses, provide for sufficient monitoring, and provide sufficient performance penalties. (The intent of (b) is to allow the Attorney General to authorize state agency counsel to review smaller contracts and prevent excessive workload on the Attorney General.)
- Requires state agencies to submit contracts to the Attorney General for legal review as specified by the act
- Prohibits cost plus percentage of cost contracts
- Conforms statutes, which currently exempt certain state agencies from state purchasing laws or make compliance voluntary, to the specified contract review process and prohibits cost plus percentage of cost contracts
- Requires all state contracts to contain a clause specifying that the State Auditor and agency internal auditors shall have access to contractor records when needed to verify rates or costs

PROGRAM EVALUATION DIVISION
NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Options for Legislation to Improve State Agency Purchasing and Contracting

Background

July 6, 2009 - Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee (JLPEOC) meeting—State Auditor presented findings relative to contracts by the State Health Plan (Blue Cross Blue Shield of NC); Division of Purchasing and Contract (Office Depot); and Division of Mental Health (Utilization Review)

State Auditor's Recommendations

a. A contract attorney or other contract professional should be required to review all contracts before signing to ensure that contract terms and conditions are in the best interest of the State
b. The State should ensure that all contracts are transparent and allow for auditing and verifying contractor cost data
c. The General Assembly should consider enacting legislation that prohibits all state agencies from using cost-plus-a-percentage-of-cost contracts

August 3, 2009 - Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee (JLPEOC) hearing

a. Don Teeter, Special Deputy Attorney General, Division of Property Control of the Department of Justice
   i. Explained Attorney General's refusal to submit written answers and refusal to offer legislative recommendations to JLPEOC
   ii. Reviewed extent of and limitations of his office's assistance to agencies and Department of Administration per N.C. Gen. Stat. §143-49 (3) but that his office did a substantial amount of consulting work on RFP drafting and bidding procedures
   iii. Stated that his contract review process was limited to form, "which means it is written on white paper in reasonably dark ink and signed by pretty much the right people."
   iv. Explained that a division attorney from his office handled the statewide term contract with Office Depot and provided legal advice during subsequent contract problems
   v. Noted how state was constrained in favoring in-state vendors
   vi. Said that DOA had identified pricing problems with Office Depot before State Auditor and that Office Depot had agreed to refund overcharges and absorb undercharges to the state
   vii. Discussed "best and final offer" and other alternative bidding and contracting processes viii. (Following State Auditor's subsequent presentation) responded to a question about who has authority to sign state contracts: agency heads for agency contracts and the State Purchasing Officer for state term contracts and that P&C is more concerned with procurement procedures with agency contracts with the agency responsible for the "content of the contract"

b. Jack Walker, Executive Administrator, State Health Plan for Teachers and State Employees (SHP)
   i. Provided history of sole source contract with Blue Cross Blue Shield
   ii. Said that the contract is a $100,000,000 annual cost plus agreement expiring 2013, with few requirements for reporting costs
   iii. Related lack of clarity in the contract as to what BCBS could charged in administrative expenses and overhead

iv. Explained that the proposed contract in 2006 was negotiated by two former SHP managers; it was not reviewed by the Attorney General nor by any outside attorney; and the Department of Administration Division of Purchase and Contract was not involved in any way
v. Stated that BCBS was probably one of a very few vendors capable of handling SHP claim volume plus a "100% provider network"
vi. Noted the previous lack of detail in BCBS billings, but that SHP was now receiving a categorized bill by service provided
vii. Reported that the SHP was working on an RFP for a management consulting review of BCBS viii. Noted weak state audit provisions in the BCBS contract
ix. Reported his concerns about weak SHP governance
x. Stated that the SHP had no legislative corrections to recommend

c. James Staton, State Purchasing Officer, Department of Administration Purchase and Contract Division (P&C)
i. Reviewed responsibilities and activities of P&C
ii. Stated that State Auditor's recommendations relative to Office Depot and state term contracts had been implemented and a new office supply contract awarded to four contractors
iii. Stated that there was no "bottleneck" at P&C delaying approval of state agency procurements
iv. Responded that P&C customers were state agencies, suppliers, and taxpayers, which Staton prioritized as (1) agencies, (2) vendors and (after a follow up question) (3) taxpayers as well

d. Dan Stewart, CPA, Assistant Secretary for Finance and Business Operations (DHHS)
i. Responded to State Auditor's findings about Value Options contract
ii. Said that DHHS Division of Medical Assistance (DMA) contracts section has 3 contracting staff and 3 contract monitors; supervised 86 active contracts, some over 1,000 pages in length, contract amendments, plus active RFP's, and contracts under development
iii. Listed four major improvements in response to the State Auditor's report on Value Options, specifically to improve documentation for contract monitoring, audit sampling, and in-depth review of performance reports
iv. Repeated points made in the DHHS response to a previous PED report on transitioning to Enhanced Community Support services and that claims volume and appeals had exceeded his staff capacity leading to excessive vendor claims
v. Reported that DHHS is behind in technology and is trying to fast track a dashboard system to signal alerts before problems worsen
vi. Explained that many of the problems with Value Options were caused by delays by the US Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) in approving state plan amendments and service definitions, which stymied DHHS

e. Honorable Beth Wood, CPA, State Auditor
i. Corrected Don Teeter's assertion that Office Depot had discovered the overcharges and undercharges—Wood said that her auditors could find no documentation to support any undercharges to the state and had reviewed all data available from Office Depot
ii. Observed that agencies are not monitoring contractors to assuring how closely contracts are tracking with projections made to define contract requirements—that a determination of projection accuracy should be made the first month of the contract
iii. Noted that statutes are not clear as to whether DOA P&C or agencies are responsible for monitoring contractor performance relative to projections
iv. Responded that the State Auditor could not audit a state contract if there were no written provisions specifying percentages and amounts that a contractor could charge for administration and overhead
v. Said that the SHP actuary could not access BCBS actual numbers to verify accuracy of actuarial cost projections affecting the state's cost for the health plan
vi. Responded that the State Auditor had been denied access by BCBS and Medco (pharmaceutical supplier) to needed information because the SHP/BCBS contract would not allow her office to examine the numbers

After the hearing, the committee directed staff to develop a list of options for committee consideration at a future meeting. (See next section, p. 3)

Options for Legislation

1. Require the Attorney General to review and sign off on all proposed statewide term contracts for services or personal property, and all other service contracts over $1,000,000 opining that the proposed contract is in proper legal form, contains required clauses, provides for sufficient monitoring and performance penalties, and should accomplish the contract's intended purposes

2. Require all state agencies, without exception, to obtain review by the Attorney General or by an attorney approved by the Attorney General of proposed contracts for proper legal form, inclusion of required clauses and provision for sufficient monitoring and performance penalties

3. Amend § 143-49 (3) to expand Attorney General's existing authority and responsibility over contracts over $100,000 to include:
   a. negotiated and non-negotiated contracts
   b. statewide-term and agency-term contracts for commodities and equipment

4. Require a standard clause in all state contracts specifying that the State Auditor and agency internal auditors may audit contractor records to verify accounts and data affecting fees or performance

5. Prohibit "cost plus percentage of cost" contracts

6. Specify that the Department of Administration is responsible for monitoring and enforcing statewide term contracts and may not delegate this authority

7. Require that Department of Administration regulations specify how state agencies will monitor and enforce all non-term and agency-term state contracts

8. Require the Office of State Personnel (OSP) to create a Contracting Specialist career path

9. Require OSP, P&C, and UNC School of Government to develop a rigorous contract management training and certification program for state employees administered by OSP

10. Require the School of Government to study and recommend improvements to state procurement laws including the feasibility of conforming laws to the American Bar Association Model Procurement Code

11. Require the Department of Administration to implement a quality management system equivalent to ISO 9001: 2008 to assure meeting taxpayer and agency customer requirements, and to report progress to General Assembly by 2012

SENATE BILL 1213:
Amend State Purchases & Contracts Laws

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 15, 2010
Introduced by:	Sen. Clodfelter	Prepared by:	Jennifer McGinnis
Analysis of:	PCS to First Edition S1213-CSRI-64[v.8]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute(PCS) for Senate Bill 1213 would: (i) require State agencies and institutions exempt from Article 3 (Purchases and Contracts) of Chapter 143 (State Departments, Institutions, and Commissions) to comply with certain requirements regarding the review and award of contracts; (ii) require all State entities (except constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina (UNC)) to submit statewide and agency term contracts over $1,000,000 to the Attorney General for review, and that the Attorney General (or designee or approved attorney) review the contracts. Such contracts of constituent institutions of UNC would need to be reviewed by the institution's General Counsel (or designee); (iii) and generally prohibit the use of cost plus percentage cost contracts. The bill was a recommendation of the Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to H1851, as introduced by Reps. Cole, Crawford, which is currently in House State Government/State Personnel, if favorable, Judiciary II.]

BACKGROUND: As noted, the bill was a recommendation of the Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee. The issue of State purchasing and contracting was discussed at a meeting of the Committee on August 3, 2009. Minutes and proceedings of that meeting are attached to this summary, as are a report from the Joint Legislative Program Evaluation Oversight Committee on the issue, and a summary of the bill prepared by staff to the Committee.

BILL ANALYSIS: The PCS would require various State agencies, departments, commissions, boards, and authorities, which are currently exempt from the State purchase and contracts requirements, to: (i) submit proposed statewide or agency term agreements or contracts over $1,000,000 to the Attorney General or the Attorney General's designee for review; and (ii) to include a standard clause in all agreements or contracts to be awarded which provides that the State Auditor and internal auditors of the relevant entity may audit the records of the contractor during the term of the agreement or contract to verify accounts and data affecting fees and performance. These entities include:

- State Lottery Commission;
- Commissioner of Banks (supervisory contracts, conservator contracts);
- Commissioner of Insurance (various service contracts);
- Global Transpark Authority (special user and airport projects);
- State Bar Council;
- Board for Licensing of Geologists;
- Board for Licensing of Soil Scientists;

- Department of Health and Human Services (Medical Assistance program (Medicaid) for fiscal intermediary, capitation or prepaid health services contracts);
- Applied Textile Technology Center;
- Executive Administrator and Board of Trustees of the State Health Plan for Teachers and State Employees;
- North Carolina Turnpike Authority;
- Departments of Transportation and Correction (road construction by employees and/or inmates);
- North Carolina Code Officials Qualification Board (course development and administration);
- Roanoke Island Commission; and
- State Auditor (system security assessment).

The PCS also:

- Prohibits the entities listed above (except the State Lottery Commission) from awarding a cost plus percentage of cost agreement or contract for any purpose (contracts under which the contractor receives payment for indeterminate costs plus a stated percentage or amount of profit based upon such costs).
- With the exception of the constituent institutions of UNC, requires State entities to submit proposed statewide and agency term contracts for supplies, materials, printing, equipment, and contractual services that exceed $1,000,000 to the Attorney General (or designee) for review.
- Requires the Attorney General or a designee to review all proposed statewide and agency term contracts for supplies, materials, printing, equipment, and contractual services that exceed $1,000,000 to ensure that proposed contracts are in proper legal form, contain all clauses required by law, are legally enforceable, and accomplish the intended purposes of the proposed contract. Such contracts of constituent institutions of UNC would need to be reviewed by the institution's General Counsel (or designee).
- Expands existing responsibilities of the Attorney General to assist the Secretary of Administration with contracting responsibilities. Requires the Secretary of Administration to, among other things, include specific provisions in all contracts, monitor all Statewide term contracts, and develop rules to implement the provisions of this bill.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This PCS would become effective October 1, 2010, and apply to all contracts proposed or awarded on or after that date.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 1, 2010

BILL SUMMARY:

The Proposed Committee Substitute (PCS) for Senate Bill 1213 would require State agencies and institutions exempt from Article 3 of Chapter 143 to comply with certain requirements regarding the review and award of contracts. Excluding constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina, the PCS requires State entities to submit statewide and agency term contracts over $1,000,000 to the Attorney General for review, and that the Attorney General (or designee) review the contracts. Such contracts of constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina would need to be reviewed by the institution's General Counsel (or designee). Also, the PCS prohibits the use of cost plus percentage cost contracts.

Attorney General Review Responsibility

The PCS enacts new GS 114-8.3 directing the Attorney General (AG) or any attorney approved by the AG to review all proposed statewide term contracts for supplies, materials, printing, equipment, and contractual services that exceed $1,000,000. For the constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina, the General Counsel of each institution or the General Counsel's designee shall review all proposed statewide and agency term contracts for supplies, materials, printing, equipment, and contractual services that exceed $1,000,000.

Review of the specified contracts is to ensure the following: 1) they are in proper legal form; 2) they contain all clauses required by law; 3) they provide for sufficient monitoring; 4) they provide for sufficient performance penalties; and 5) they accomplish the intended purposes.

Obligation to Seek Attorney General Review

The PCS amends the following sections of the General Statutes to require the contracting authority to submit proposed contracts that exceed $1,000,000 to the Attorney General for review and to require that contracts contain a standard clause providing that the State Auditor and internal auditors of the agency may audit the records of the contractor during the term of the contract to verify accounts and data affecting fees and performance:

GS 18C-150 (State Lottery Commission);
GS 53-320, 53-391, 53-326, and 53-401 (Commissioner of Banks);
GS 58-2-69, 58-33-30, 58-33-125, 58-33-130, 58-71-40 (Commissioner of Insurance);
GS 63A-24 (Global Transpark Authority);
GS 84-23 (State Bar Council);
GS 89E-5 (Board for Licensing of Geologists);
GS 89F-5 (Board for Licensing of Soil Scientists);
GS 108A-55 [Department of Health and Human Services--Medical Assistance program (Medicaid) for fiscal intermediary, capitation or prepaid health services contracts];
GS 115D-67.4 (Applied Textile Technology Center);
GS 135-43 (Executive Administrator and Board of Trustees of the State Health Plan for Teachers and State Employees);
GS 136-28.1 (Department of Transportation);
GS 136-89.194 (North Carolina Turnpike Authority);
GS 143-49 (Secretary of Administration)
GS 143-134 (Departments of Transportation and Commerce);
GS 143-151.16 (North Carolina Code Officials Qualification Board); GS 143-131.2 (Roanoke Island Commission); and GS 147-64.6 (State Auditor).

The contracting authority is prohibited from awarding a cost plus percentage of cost agreement or contract for any purpose in each of these instances except for the State Lottery Commission.

Obligations of the Secretary of Administration

The PCS expands existing responsibilities of the Attorney General to assist the Secretary of Administration with contracting responsibilities. The PCS also requires the Secretary to include a standard clause in all contracts providing that the State Auditor and internal auditors of the agency may audit the records of the contractor during the term of the contract. The bill also requires the Secretary to monitor and enforce the terms and conditions of statewide contracts and develop rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

The PCS requires the Secretary to work with the Office of State Personnel (OSP) to create a Contracting Specialist career path. The bill directs the Secretary to work in conjunction with OSP and the University of North Carolina School of Government to develop a contract management training and certification program for State employees. The program shall be administered by the OSP. Further, the bill requires the Secretary to work with the University of North School of Government to study and recommend improvements to State procurement laws.

The effective date of the PCS is October 1, 2010; the bill applies to all contracts proposed or awarded on or after that date.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

Although required by SB 1213 to submit proposed contracts to the Attorney General for review, Fiscal Research estimates that the bill will have no fiscal impact on the following institutions:

- State Lottery Commission
- State Banking Commission
- Roanoke Island Commission
- Executive Administrator & Board of Trustees of the State Health Plan
- Department of Insurance
- State Bar Council
- Board for Licensing of Geologists
- Board for Licensing of Soil Scientists

Office of State Auditor

Due to a lack of information, Fiscal Research does not know what impact this proposed legislation will have on the Office of State Auditor at this time.

Department of Health and Human Services

Sections 15 amends G.S. 108A-55 and 20.1 amends G.S. 143-48.1 to require that the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) submit certain term agreements or contracts that exceed $1,000,000 to the Attorney General or the Attorney General's designee for review as provided in G.S. 114-8.3. It also prohibits DHHS from awarding a cost plus percentage of cost agreement or contract for any purpose.

Fiscal Research estimates that the PCS will have a fiscal impact resulting from the contract reviews to be conducted by Attorney General attorneys for DHHS. This law will require additional Staff Attorneys to review all contracts submitted by DHHS to the Attorney General; however, no estimate is available at this time on the number of FTE's necessary to complete the requirements. The additional Staff Attorneys would be assigned and budgeted within DHHS but are administratively managed by Department of Justice.

Department of Justice

According to the Department of Justice (DOJ), the proposed legislation includes a minimum $1,000,000 threshold for legal review and other substantive changes that will lesson the fiscal impact on the Department. However, DOJ anticipates that the volume and complexity of the work submitted to the DOJ Legal Division will increase and necessitate additional resources in order to provide client agencies with high quality timely legal services related to contract management and oversight. At a minimum, DOJ estimates a need for two additional attorneys and two paralegals to effectively carry out the demands described in the act.

The chart below shows the total cost estimate for DOJ to implement the proposed legislation:

TABLE 1. Department of Justice Estimated Costs to Administer SB 1213

Description	Estimated Costs FY 2010-11	Estimated Costs FY 2011-12	Estimated Costs FY 2012-13	Estimated Costs FY 2013-14	Estimated Costs FY 2014-15

*Benefits include Social Security, Retirement, and Health Insurance.

Applied Textile Technology Center

Section 17 amends G.S. 115D-67.5 to require that the Applied Textile Technology Center (the Textile Center), located at Gaston College, submit certain term agreements or contracts that exceed $1,000,000 to the Attorney General or the Attorney General's designee for review as provided in G.S. 114-8.3. It also prohibits the Center from awarding a cost plus percentage of cost agreement or contract for any purpose.

This bill would have minimal to no fiscal impact on the Textile Center. According to the NC Community College System Office, the college reports that they do not have any contracts that are being supported by the retained Textile fees and therefore, the number of contracts falling under this review would be minimal, if not zero. Retained fees are currently being used to purchase equipment and supplies, primarily through the E-procurement System.

Department of Transportation

Section 24 amends G.S. 143-134 to require that the Department of Transportation (DOT) submit certain term agreements or contracts that exceed $1,000,000 to the Attorney General or the Attorney General's designee for review as provided in G.S. 114-8.3. It also prohibits DOT from awarding a cost plus percentage of cost agreement or contract for any purpose.

Fiscal Research estimates that the PCS will have a fiscal impact resulting from the contract reviews to be conducted by Attorney General attorneys for DOT. This law will require additional Staff Attorneys to review all contracts submitted by DOT to the Attorney General; however, no estimate is available at this time on the number of FTE's necessary to complete the requirements. The additional Staff Attorneys would be assigned and budgeted within DOT but are administratively managed by Department of Justice.

Department of Administration

Section 21 amends G.S. 143-49 to increase the authority of the Secretary of Administration to provide oversight of the review and award of contracts. The Department of Administration (DOA) indicates that its current staff will not be able to absorb the additional workload required in order to administer SB 1213. DOA anticipates that it will need 4 Compliance Monitors, 2 Procurement Training Specialists, 1 Compliance Manager, and 1 Procurement Standards position to fulfill the requirements of this legislation.

DOA estimates that it will need 6 Compliance Monitors after FY 2010-11. DOA currently has 2 time-limited FTEs handling compliance for AARA responsibilities and DOA anticipates that these 2 FTEs could absorb some of the work during FY 2010-11. After the 2 time-limited positions are removed, DOA anticipates that it will need the full complement of compliance monitors to meet the compliance expectation provided by the bill.

In total, DOA estimates that it will need $818,272 for the 8 FTEs in FY 2010-11 (a breakdown of these expenses is provided in Table 2 on page 7).

Office of State Personnel

Section 21 amends G.S. 143-49 to require the Office of State Personnel (OSP) to work with DOA and the University School of Government to develop a contract management training and certification program for State employees. OSP estimates that the bill would require $51,256 for one Human Resource Consultant position to run this program.[1] OSP also anticipates that the bill would require $37,500 for the following administrative supplies:

[1] The proposed legislation is not effective until October 1, 2010. The FTE is prorated for FY 2010-11, but 1.0 FTE will be needed for subsequent years.

- Virtual classroom for training and telephone minutes for participants to connect virtually
- Written materials including copies, binders, and CDs
- An Electronic Learning Authoring Tool to develop and maintain the course
- Possible purchase of third party material to enhance certification process

In total, OSP estimates that it will need $88,756 to administer the bill in FY 2010-11. Fiscal Research concurs with these estimates.

University of North Carolina System

Section 16 amends G.S. 114-8.3 to require that the constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina to submit certain term agreements or contracts that exceed $1,000,000 to the institution's General Counsel (or designee). The constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina (UNC) do not anticipate any fiscal impact regarding submitting contracts to the Attorney General or designee.

Section 21 amends G.S. 143-49 to require the UNC School of Government to work with DOA and OSP to develop a contract management training and certification program for State employees. With respect to the School of Government's role, if the School of Government were assisting, there would likely be minimal impact. If the School of Government were actually conducting and leading the projects, then there could be an undetermined amount of fiscal impact.

AN ACT TO MODERNIZE THE NORTH CAROLINA ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE CONTROL SYSTEM, AS RECOMMENDED BY THE JOINT STUDY COMMITTEE ON ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE CONTROL.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 18B-101 reads as rewritten:

SECTION 2. G.S. 18B-203(a) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"§ 18B-203. Powers and duties of the Commission.

(a) Powers. – The Commission shall have authority to:

(20) Promulgate rules to establish performance standards for local boards. Performance standards established pursuant to this subdivision shall include, but not be limited to, standards that address enforcement of ABC laws, store appearance, operating efficiency, and customer service.

(21) Promulgate rules to establish mandatory training requirements for local board members, managers, and employees."

SECTION 3. G.S. 18B-501 reads as rewritten:

"§ 18B-501. Local ABC officers.

(a) Appointment. – Except as provided in subsection (f), each local board shall hire one or more ABC enforcement officers. Local ABC enforcement officers shall be designated as "ABC Officers". The local board may designate one officer as the chief ABC officer for that board.

(b) Subject Matter Jurisdiction. – After taking the oath prescribed for a peace officer, a local ABC officer may arrest and take other investigatory and enforcement actions for any criminal offense; however, the primary responsibility of a local ABC officer is enforcement of the ABC laws and Article 5 of Chapter 90 (The Controlled Substances Act).

(c) Territorial Jurisdiction. – A local ABC officer has jurisdiction anywhere in the county in which he is employed except that a city ABC officer's territorial jurisdiction is subject to any limitation included in any local act governing that city ABC system. A local ABC officer may pursue outside his normal territorial jurisdiction anyone who commits an offense within that jurisdiction, as provided in G.S. 15A-402(d).

(d) Assisting Other Local Agencies. – The local ABC officers employed by a local board shall constitute a "law-enforcement agency" for purposes of G.S. 160A-288, and a local board shall have the same authority as a city or county governing body to approve cooperation between law-enforcement agencies under that section.

(e) Assisting State and Federal Enforcement. – A local ABC officer may assist State and federal law-enforcement agencies in the investigation of criminal offenses in North Carolina, under the following conditions:

(1) The local board employing the officer has adopted a resolution approving such assistance and stating the conditions under which it may be provided;

(2) The State or federal agency has made a written request for assistance from that local board, either for a particular investigation or for any investigation that might require assistance within a certain period of time;

(3) The local ABC officer is supervised by someone in the requesting agency; and

(4) As soon as practical after the assistance begins, an acknowledgement of the action is placed in the records of the local board.

A local ABC officer shall have territorial jurisdiction throughout North Carolina while assisting a State or federal agency under this section. While providing that assistance the officer shall continue to be considered an employee of the local board for purposes of salary, worker's compensation, and other benefits, unless a different arrangement is negotiated between the local board and the requesting agency.

(f) Contracts with Other Agencies. – Instead ~~of~~ of, or in addition to, hiring local ABC officers, a local board may contract ~~to pay its enforcement funds to~~with a sheriff's department, city police department, or other local law-enforcement agency for enforcement of the ABC laws within the law-enforcement agency's territorial jurisdiction. Enforcement agreements may be made with more than one agency at the same time. When such a contract for enforcement exists, ~~the~~ those officers of the contracting law-enforcement agency who have been designated by the agency head shall have the same authority to inspect under G.S. 18B-502 that an ABC officer employed by that local board would ~~have.~~have once the designated officers of the contracting law enforcement agency have been certified by the chief ABC officer as having been trained. In order to be certified, the designated officers shall receive the same training in the enforcement of ABC laws as is provided to local ABC officers. If a city located in two or more counties approves the sale of some type of alcoholic beverage pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 18B-600(e4), and there are no local ABC boards established in the city and one of the counties in which the city is located, the local ABC board of any county in which the city is located may enter into an enforcement agreement with the city's police department for enforcement of the ABC laws within the entire city, including that portion of the city located in the county of the ABC board entering into the enforcement agreement.

(f1) ABC Enforcement in Absence of Contract. – In those cities and counties in which no contract exists between the local board and a local law enforcement agency for enforcement of ABC laws, officers of a local law enforcement agency shall have the same authority to inspect under G.S. 18B-502 that an ABC officer employed by that board would have, provided:

(1) The local law enforcement agency head or sheriff has designated one or more officers of the agency to conduct inspections under G.S. 18B-502.

(2) The designated officers of the law enforcement agency have been certified by the chief ABC officer as having been trained.

(3) The designated officers have received the same training in the enforcement of ABC laws as that provided to local ABC officers.

(f2) Accountability; Enforcement Reports. – To ensure accountability to the appointing authority and the Commission, every local board's ABC officers and those law enforcement agencies subject to an enforcement agreement entered into pursuant to subsection (f1) of this section shall report to the local board, by the fifth business day of each month, on a form developed by the Commission, the following:

(1) The number of arrests made for ABC law, Controlled Substance Act, or other violations, by category, at ABC permitted outlets.

(2) The number of arrests made for ABC law, Controlled Substance Act, or other violations, by category, at other locations.

(3) The number of agencies assisted with ABC law or controlled substance related matters.

(4) The number of alcohol education and responsible server programs presented.

The local board shall submit a copy of the enforcement report to the appointing authority and the Commission not later than five business days after receipt of the enforcement report by the local board. The Commission shall publish this information, by local board and enforcement agency, on a public Internet Web site maintained by the Commission.

(g) Discharge. – Local ABC officers and officers of agencies which contract with local boards for enforcement of the ABC laws are subject to the discharge provisions of G.S. 18B-202."

SECTION 4. G.S. 18B-600(e) reads as rewritten:

"(e) City Mixed Beverage Elections. – A city may hold a mixed beverage election ~~only if:~~if the city has at least 500 registered voters.

~~(1) The city has at least 500 registered voters; and~~

~~(2) Either:~~

~~a. The city already operates a city ABC store; or~~

~~b. A city ABC store election is to be held at the same time as the mixed beverage election; or~~

~~c. The city does not operate a city ABC store but:~~

~~1. The county operates an ABC store;~~

~~2. The county has already held a mixed beverage election; and~~

~~3. The vote in the last county election was against the sale of mixed beverages.~~"

SECTION 5. G.S. 18B-700 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(a1) Mission. – The mission of local ABC boards and their employees shall be to responsibly serve their localities by controlling the sale of spirituous liquor and promoting customer-friendly, modern, and efficient stores."

SECTION 6. G.S. 18B-700(g) reads as rewritten:

"(g) ~~Salary.~~Compensation of Board Members. – A local board member ~~may be compensated as determined by the appointing authority.~~shall receive compensation in an amount not to exceed one hundred fifty dollars ($150.00) per board meeting unless a different level of monetary compensation is approved by the appointing authority. If a different level is approved by the appointing authority, the appointing authority shall notify the Commission of the approved level of compensation in writing. No local board member shall receive any nonmonetary compensation or benefits unless specifically authorized by this section."

SECTION 7. G.S. 18B-700 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(g1) Compensation of General Managers of Local Boards. – The salary authorized for the general manager of a local board shall not exceed the salary authorized by the General Assembly for the clerk of superior court of the county in which the appointing authority was originally incorporated unless such compensation is otherwise approved by the appointing authority. The local board shall provide the appointing authority's written confirmation of such approval to the Commission. The general manager of a local board may receive any other benefits to which all employees of the local board are entitled. The salary authorized for other employees of a local board may not exceed that of the general manager."

SECTION 8. G.S. 18B-700 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(g2) Travel Allowance and Per Diem Rates. – Approved travel on official business by the members and employees of local boards shall be reimbursed pursuant to G.S. 138-6 unless the local board adopts a travel policy that conforms to the travel policy of the appointing authority and such policy is approved by the appointing authority. The local board shall provide the appointing authority's written confirmation of such approval to the Commission."

SECTION 9. G.S. 18B-700(i) reads as rewritten:

"(i) Bond. – Each local board member and the employees designated as the general manager or finance officer of the local board shall be bonded in an amount not less than ~~five thousand dollars ($5,000),~~one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) secured by a corporate surety, for the faithful performance of his duties. A public employees' blanket position bond in the required amount satisfies the requirements of this subsection. The bond shall be payable to the local board and shall be approved by the appointing authority for the local board. The appointing authority may ~~exempt from this bond requirement any board member who does not handle board funds, and it may also~~ increase the amount of the bond required for any member or employee who ~~does handle~~handles board funds."

SECTION 10. G.S. 18B-700 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(k) Nepotism. – Members of an immediate family shall not be employed within the local board if such employment will result in one member of the immediate family supervising another member of the immediate family, or if one member of the immediate family will occupy a position which has influence over another member's employment, promotion, salary administration, or other related management or personnel considerations. This subsection applies to local board members and employees.

For the purpose of this subsection, the term immediate family includes wife, husband, mother, father, brother, sister, son, daughter, grandmother, grandfather, grandson, and granddaughter. Also included are the step-, half-, and in-law relationships. It also includes other people living in the same household, who share a relationship comparable to immediate family members, if either occupies a position which requires influence over the other's employment, promotion, salary administration, or other related management or personnel considerations."

SECTION 11. G.S. 18B-700 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(l) Local Acts. – Notwithstanding the provisions of any local act, this section applies to all local boards."

SECTION 12. G.S. 18B-701 reads as rewritten:

"§ 18B-701. Powers and duties of local ABC boards.

(a) Powers. – A local board shall have authority to:

(1) Buy, sell, transport, and possess alcoholic beverages as necessary for the operation of its ABC stores;
(2) Adopt rules for its ABC system, subject to the approval of the Commission;
(3) Hire and fire employees for the ABC system;
(4) Designate one employee as manager of the ABC system and determine his responsibilities;
(5) Require bonds of employees as provided in the rules of the Commission;
(6) Operate ABC stores as provided in Article 8;
(7) Issue purchase-transportation permits as provided in Article 4;
(8) Employ local ABC officers or make other provision for enforcement of ABC laws as provided in Article 5;
(9) Borrow money as provided in G.S. 18B-702;
(10) Buy and lease real and personal property, and receive property bequeathed or given, as necessary for the operation of the ABC system;
(11) Invest surplus funds as provided in G.S. 18B-702;
(12) Dispose of property in the same manner as a city council may under Article 12 of Chapter 160A of the General Statutes; and
(13) Perform any other activity authorized or required by the ABC law.

(b) Duties. – A local board shall have the duty to comply with all rules adopted by the Commission pursuant to G.S. 18B and meet all standards for performance and training established by the Commission pursuant to G.S. 18B-203(a)(20) and (21). Failure to comply with Commission rules shall be cause for removal."

SECTION 13. G.S. 18B-702 reads as rewritten:

"§ 18B-702. Financial operations of local boards.

(a) Generally. – A local board may transact business as a corporate body, except as limited by this section. A local board shall not be considered a public authority under G.S. 159-7(b)(10).

(b) Budget Officer. – The general manager of the local board shall be the budget officer for the local board. In the absence of a general manager, a local board may impose the duties of budget officer on the chairman or any member of the local board or any other employee of the board.

(c) Annual Balanced Budget. – Each local board shall operate under an annual balanced budget administered in accordance with this section. A budget is balanced when the sum of estimated gross revenues and both restricted and unrestricted funds are equal to appropriations. Expenditures shall not exceed the amount of funds received or in reserve for the purpose to which the funds are appropriated. It is the intent of this section that all monies received and expended by a local board should be included in the budget. Therefore, notwithstanding any other provision of law, no local board may expend any monies, regardless of their source except in accordance with a budget adopted under this section. The budget of a local board shall cover a fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30.

(d) Preparation and Submission of Budget and Budget Message. – Upon receipt of the budget requests and revenue estimates and the financial information supplied by the finance officer, the budget officer shall prepare a budget for consideration by the local board in such form and detail as may have been prescribed by the budget officer or the local board. The budget, together with a budget message, shall be submitted to the local board, the appointing authority, and the Commission not later than June 1. The budget and budget message should, but need not, be submitted at a formal meeting of the board. The budget message should contain a concise explanation of the goals fixed by the budget for the budget year, should explain important features of the activities anticipated in the budget, should set forth the reasons for stated changes from the previous year in appropriation levels and should explain any major changes in fiscal policy.

(e) Filing and Publication of the Budget. – On the same day the budget officer submits the budget to the local board, the budget officer shall make a copy for public inspection, and it shall remain available for public inspection until the budget is adopted. The budget officer shall make a copy of the budget available to all news media in the county. The budget officer shall also publish a statement that the budget has been submitted to the local board and is available for public inspection in the office of the general manager of the local board. The statement shall also give notice of the time and place of the budget hearing required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Budget Hearings. – Before adopting the budget, the board shall hold a public hearing at which time any persons who wish to be heard on the budget may appear.

(g) Adoption of Budget. – Not earlier than 10 days after the day the budget is presented to the board and not later than July 1, the local board shall adopt a budget making appropriations for the budget year in such sums as the board may consider sufficient and proper, whether greater or less than the sums recommended in the budget. The budget shall authorize all financial transactions of the local board. The budget may be in any form that the board considers most efficient in enabling it to make the fiscal policy decisions embodied therein, but it shall make appropriations by department, function, or project and show revenues by major source. The following directions and limitations shall bind the local board in adopting the budget:

(1) The full amount estimated by the finance officer to be required for debt service during the budget year shall be appropriated.

(2) The full amount of any deficit in each fund shall be appropriated.

(3) Working capital funds set aside pursuant to G.S. 18B-805 shall be no less than two weeks' average gross sales of the latest fiscal year or greater than two months' average gross sales of the latest fiscal year. "Working capital" means the total of cash, investments, and inventory less all unsecured liabilities. Gross sales means gross receipts from the sale of alcoholic beverages less distributions as defined in G.S. 18B-805(b)(2), (3), (4), and (5). Any expenditure to be charged against working capital funds shall be authorized by resolution of the local board, which resolution shall be deemed an amendment to the budget setting up an appropriation for the object of expenditure authorized. The local board may authorize the budget officer to authorize expenditures from working capital funds subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such expenditure shall be deemed an amendment and reported to the board at its next regular meeting and recorded in the minutes.

(4) Estimated revenues shall include only those revenues reasonably expected to be realized in the budget year.

(5) Sufficient funds to meet the amounts to be paid during the fiscal year under continuing contracts previously entered into shall be appropriated unless such contract reserves to the local board the right to limit or not to make such appropriation.

(6) The sum of estimated net revenues and appropriated fund balance in each fund shall be equal to appropriations in that fund. Appropriated fund balance in a fund shall not exceed the sum of cash and investments minus the sum of liabilities, encumbrances, and deferred revenues arising from cash receipts, as those figures stand at the close of the fiscal year next preceding the budget year.

The budget shall be entered in the minutes of the local board and within five days after adoption, and copies thereof shall be filed with the finance officer, the budget officer, the appointing authority, and the Commission.

(h) Amendments to the Budget. – Except as otherwise restricted by law, the local board may amend the budget at any time after adoption, in any manner, so long as the budget, as amended, continues to satisfy the requirements of this section. The local board by appropriate resolution may authorize the budget officer to transfer monies from one appropriation to another within the same fund subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such transfers shall be reported to the local board at its next regular meeting and shall be entered in the minutes. Amendments to the adopted budget shall also be provided to the appointing authority and the Commission.

(i) Interim Budget. – In case the adoption of the budget is delayed until after July 1, the local board shall make interim appropriations for the purpose of paying salaries, debt service payments, and the usual ordinary expenses of the local board for the interval between the beginning of the budget year and the adoption of the budget. Interim appropriations so made shall be charged to the proper appropriations in the adopted budget.

(j) Finance Officer. – The local board shall designate an employee of the board, other than the general manager, to be the finance officer for the local board. The Commission, for good cause shown, may allow the general manager of a board to also be the finance officer.

(k) Duties and Powers of the Finance Officer. – The finance officer for a local board shall:

(1) Keep the accounts of the local board in accordance with generally accepted principles of governmental accounting and the rules and regulations of the Commission.

(2) Disburse all funds of the local board in strict compliance with this Chapter, the budget, and preaudit obligations, and disbursements as required by this section.

(3) As often as may be requested by the local board or the general manager, prepare and file with the board a statement of the financial condition of the local board.

(4) Receive and deposit all monies accruing to the local board, or supervise the receipt and deposit of money by other duly authorized employees.

(5) Maintain all records concerning the debt and other obligations of the local board, determine the amount of money that will be required for debt service or the payment of other obligations during each fiscal year, and maintain all funds.

(6) Supervise the investment of idle funds of the local board pursuant to subsection (t) of this section.

The finance officer shall perform such other duties as may be assigned by law, by the general manager, budget officer, or local board, or by rules and regulations of the Commission.

(l) Accounting System. – Each local board shall establish and maintain an accounting system designed to show in detail its assets, liabilities, equities, revenues, and expenditures. The system shall also be designed to show appropriations and estimated revenues as established in the budget originally adopted and subsequently amended.

(m) Incurring Obligations. – No obligation may be incurred in a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget unless the budget includes an appropriation authorizing the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay in the current fiscal year the sums obligated by the transaction for the current fiscal year. No obligation may be incurred for a capital project unless the budget authorizing the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the sums obligated by the transaction. If an obligation is evidenced by a contract or agreement requiring the payment of money or by a purchase order for supplies and materials, the contract, agreement, or purchase order shall include on its face a certificate stating that the instrument has been preaudited to assure compliance with this subsection. The certificate, which shall be signed by the finance officer or any deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board, shall take substantially the following form:

"This instrument has been preaudited in the manner required by G.S. 18B-702.

(Signature of finance officer)."

An obligation incurred in violation of this subsection is invalid and may not be enforced. The finance officer shall establish procedures to assure compliance with this subsection.

(n) Disbursements. – When a bill, invoice, or other claim against a local board is presented, the finance officer shall either approve or disapprove the necessary disbursement. If the claim involves a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget or a capital project or a grant project authorized by the budget, the finance officer may approve the claim only if:

(1) The finance officer determines the amount to be payable; and

(2) The budget includes an appropriation authorizing the expenditure and either (i) an encumbrance has been previously created for the transaction or (ii) an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the amount to be disbursed.

A bill, invoice, or other claim may not be paid unless it has been approved by the finance officer or, under subsection (o) of this section, by the local board. The finance officer shall establish procedures to assure compliance with this subsection.

(o) Local Board Approval of Bills, Invoices, or Claims. – The local board may, as permitted by this subsection, approve a bill, invoice, or other claim against the local board that has been disapproved by the finance officer. It may not approve a claim for which no appropriation appears in the budget, or for which the appropriation contains no encumbrance and the unencumbered balance is less than the amount to be paid. The local board shall approve payment by formal resolution stating the board's reasons for allowing the bill, invoice, or other claim. The resolution shall be entered in the minutes together with the names of those voting in the affirmative. The chairman of the board or some other member designated for this purpose shall sign the certificate on the check or draft given in payment of the bill, invoice, or other claim. If payment results in a violation of law, each member of the board voting to allow payment is jointly and severally liable for the full amount of the check or draft given in payment.

(p) Checks or Drafts Signed by Finance Officer. – Except as otherwise provided by law, all checks or drafts on an official depository shall be signed by the finance officer or a properly designated deputy finance officer. The chairman of the local board or general manager of the local board shall countersign these checks and drafts. The Commission may waive the requirements of this subsection if the board determines that the internal control procedures of the unit or authority will be satisfactory in the absence of dual signatures.

(q) Payment of a Bill, Invoice, Salary, or Claim. – A local board may not pay a bill, invoice, salary, or other claim except by a check or draft on an official depository or by a bank wire transfer from an official depository. Except as provided in this subsection, each check or draft on an official depository shall bear on its face a certificate signed by the finance officer or a deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board (or signed by the chairman or some other member of the board pursuant to subsection (o) of this section). The certificate shall take substantially the following form:

"This disbursement has been approved in the manner required by G.S. 18B-702.

(Signature of finance officer)."

No certificate is required on payroll checks or drafts on an imprest account in an official depository if the check or draft depositing the funds in the imprest account carried a signed certificate. No certificate is required for expenditures of fifty dollars ($50.00) or less from a petty cash fund provided the expenditure is accounted for by a receipt for the expended item.

~~(b)~~(r) Borrowing Money. – A local board may borrow money only for the purchase of land, buildings, equipment and stock needed for the operation of its ABC system. A local board may pledge a security interest in any real or personal property it owns other than alcoholic beverages. A city or county whose governing body appoints a local board shall not in any way be held responsible for the debts of that board.

~~(c)~~(s) Audits. – A local board shall submit to the appointing authority and Commission an annual independent audit of its operations, performed in accordance with generally accepted accounting standards and in compliance with a chart of accounts prescribed by the Commission. The audit report shall contain a summary of the requirements of this Chapter, or of any local act applicable to that local board, concerning the distribution of profits of that board and a description of how those distributions have been made, including the names of recipients of the profits and the activities for which the funds were distributed. A local board shall also submit to any other audits and submit any reports demanded by the appointing authority or the Commission.

~~(d)~~(t) Deposits and Investments. – A local board may deposit ~~moneys~~monies at interest in any bank or trust company in this State in the form of savings accounts or certificates of deposit. Investment deposits shall be secured as provided in G.S. 159-31(b) and the reports required by G.S. 159-33 shall be submitted. A local board may invest all or part of the cash balance of any fund as provided in G.S. 159-30(c) and (d), and may deposit any portion of those funds for investment with the State Treasurer in the same manner as State boards and commissions under G.S. 147-69.3.

~~(e)~~(u) Compliance with Commission Rules. – The Commission shall adopt, and each local board shall comply with, fiscal control rules concerning the borrowing of money, maintenance of working capital, investments, appointment of a budget officer, appointment of a financial officer, daily deposit of funds, bonding of employees, auditing of operations, and the schedule, manner and other procedures for distribution of profits. The Commission may also adopt any other rules concerning the financial operations of local boards which are needed to assure the proper accountability of public funds. The Commission may vary these rules and regulations according to any other criteria reasonably related to the purpose or complexity of the financial operations involved. The Commission has the authority to inquire into and investigate the internal control procedures of a local board, and may require any modifications in internal control procedures which, in the opinion of the Commission, are necessary or desirable to prevent embezzlements or mishandling of public monies.

(v) Penalties. – If a board member or employee of a local board incurs an obligation or pays out or causes to be paid out any funds in violation of this section, the member or employee and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums so committed or disbursed. If the finance officer or any properly designated deputy finance officer gives a false certificate to any contract, agreement, purchase order, check, draft, or other document, the finance officer and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums illegally committed or disbursed thereby.

~~(f)~~(w) Applicability of Criminal Statutes. – The provisions of G.S. 14-90 and G.S. 14-254 shall apply to any person appointed to or employed by a local board, and any person convicted of a violation of G.S. 14-90 or G.S. 14-254 shall be punished as a Class H felon.

(x) Local Acts. – Notwithstanding the provisions of any local act, this section applies to all local boards."

SECTION 14. Chapter 18B of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 18B-704. Removal of local board members and employees.

(a) Improper Influence. – Neither the Commission nor its individual members shall attempt to coerce any appointing authority to appoint a particular person as a member of a local board or attempt to coerce a local board to employ any particular applicant.

(b) Purpose. – This section is intended to provide a uniform system of removal for appointing authorities and the Commission.

(c) Cause for Removal. – Disqualification of a local board member or employee under the law, a violation of the ABC laws, failure to complete training required by this Chapter or the Commission, or engaging in any conduct constituting moral turpitude or which brings the local board or the ABC system into disrepute is cause for the Commission to remove any member or employee of a local board. The employment or retention of any employee who is known to be disqualified under the law to hold a position with a local board is cause for the Commission to remove the board members involved.

(d) Removal Process. – The Commission or appointing authority shall provide, in writing, to the local board member or employee the findings of fact upon which the decision for removal is based. The Commission or appointing authority shall also provide the local board member or employee with notice of the availability of a hearing before the Commission to review the removal.

(e) Removal Hearing. – Any local board member or employee removed from office or discharged by the Commission or the appointing authority may request a hearing before the Commission. Such a request operates to stay the action of the Commission or the appointing authority with regard to the matter until after the hearing, unless the Commission finds that the public interest requires immediate action. At the hearing, the employee or his counsel may examine all evidence used against him and present evidence in his own behalf. A removal hearing is not subject to the provisions of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. All hearings shall be conducted informally and in such manner as to preserve the substantial rights of the parties.

(f) Hearing Procedure. – The Commission shall hold the hearing required by subsection (e) of this section within 15 days of the member's or employee's request for a hearing. The standard of review by the Commission is de novo. The Commission or appointing authority shall be represented by a Commission hearing officer. The Commission shall discharge the member or employee if two-thirds of the Commission's members vote for removal. The Commission shall make findings of fact. The Commission may adopt the findings of fact of the Commission or the appointing authority, may add new findings of fact to the original findings of fact, or may substitute new findings of fact for the original findings of fact. The Commission shall make conclusions of law and shall issue a written decision to the member or employee of the local board, and to the appointing authority, within 15 days of the hearing.

(g) Commission Authority. – The Commission shall have the sole power, in its discretion, to determine if cause exists for removal of a local board member or employee who has requested a hearing before the Commission. The Commission's decision in a removal hearing is final.

(h) Appeal. – A local board member or employee may appeal the Commission's final decision to the Court of Appeals. The standard of review shall be abuse of discretion. The sole remedy for a local board member or employee shall be the reinstatement of the board member or employee to the local board with back pay. All awards for back pay shall be paid by the local board from which the board member or employee was removed.

(i) Removal Hearing Not a Substitute for Termination of Employee. – Nothing in this section replaces or is intended to replace a local board's policy regarding the termination of an employee for personnel reasons. The removal process under this section is reserved solely for the appointing authority or the Commission to remove a board member or employee for cause.

(j) Local Acts. – Notwithstanding the provisions of any local act, this section applies to all local boards."

SECTION 15. Chapter 18B of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 18B-705. Compliance with performance standards; remedies.

(a) Local Board Compliance. – The Commission shall establish performance standards pursuant to G.S. 18B-203(a)(20). The Commission shall ensure that all local boards comply with established performance standards by conducting regular or special audits, conducting performance evaluations, monitoring ABC law enforcement efforts, or taking other measures which may include inspections by Commission auditors or alcohol law enforcement agents.

(b) Performance Improvement Plans. – The Commission, upon determining that a local board is failing to meet performance standards established pursuant to G.S. 18B-203(a)(20), shall meet with the chair of the local board and the appointing authority and issue a statement of findings. The appointing authority, in consultation with the Commission, shall develop for and deliver a performance improvement plan to the local board within 30 days of the meeting with the Commission. The performance improvement plan shall include, but not be limited to, recommendations for improved performance based on the performance standards established by the Commission. The plan shall also state a period of time in which the performance improvements are to occur and what action will be taken by the Commission if performance standards are not met within the given time limits. The appointing authority shall allow up to, but no more than, six months' time to the local board to implement and show improvement under the performance improvement plan. The local appointing authority, in consultation with the Commission and upon good cause shown, may allow up to an additional six-month period of time for the local board to meet all requirements in the performance improvement plan and to establish that the performance standards established by the Commission are met.

(c) Remedies. – If the Commission determines that the local board has not implemented the recommendations for improved performance in a timely manner and the local board is not meeting the performance standards or is failing to make all distributions required by G.S. 18B-805(b), the Commission shall notify the local board and the appointing authority and may make additional recommendations to the local board and appointing authority, including closing a store or stores, relocating store locations, merging the local board with another local board, or entering into an agreement for joint store operations, or abolishing the local board.

(d) Local Acts. – Notwithstanding the provisions of any local act, this section applies to all local boards."

(b) Each member of a local board shall receive a minimum of two hours of ethics education within 12 months after initial appointment to the office and again within 12 months after each subsequent appointment to the office. The ethics education shall cover laws and principles that govern conflicts of interest and ethical standards of conduct for local ABC boards. The education may be provided by the Commission or other qualified source approved by the Commission. The local board shall maintain a record verifying receipt of the ethics education by each member of the board. (6) Take any other reasonable steps to promote an orderly closing of the system.

In lieu of closing an insolvent system, the Commission may, in acting as appointed receiver for the local board, enter into a voluntary agreement to merge the local board with another local board pursuant to G.S. 18B-703, or may enter into a voluntary agreement with one or more local boards to jointly operate one or more stores pursuant to G.S. 18B-703(h)."

Editorial: ABC system revisions target abuses

Friday, June 11, 2010
(Updated 3:00 am)

The state's Alcohol Beverage Control system, which has been around since 1937, is in need of a tune-up, not an overhaul. A bill pending in the General Assembly is a commendable move in that direction.

It preserves what works well while addressing shortcomings. Local boards and communities still will exercise hands-on control and receive much-needed tax revenue, but the state ABC Commission gets a larger role.

Egregious examples of lax accountability and wrongdoing at several local boards, nepotism and allegations of payoffs from distributors led to a special legislative commission study.

It recommended tougher ethics standards and called for more efficiency in the overall system operation. The bill bans local board members from accepting vendor gifts, sets pay guidelines for general managers and prohibits an employee from directly supervising a family member.

The state ABC Commission also would have a greater say in local issues, including closing under-performing stores and merging them with neighboring competitors.

However, counties won't be limited to just one system, which would have unfairly penalized larger ones like Guilford, where several operate successfully and at a profit.

Despite a few glitches, the state's liquor sales monopoly has enjoyed an enviable reputation. Per-bottle revenue is among the highest in the nation and per-capita consumption remains comparatively low.

Both state and local governments benefit handsomely from the tax flow that liquor sales generate. And law-enforcement agencies receive substantial funding for educational programs that address excessive consumption.

Yet an update of the system has been long overdue. Granting the state board more oversight while maintaining a high level of local autonomy is a realistic compromise.

(4) When an action affects or would affect the local ABC board member's compensation as a local ABC board member.

(5) Before the local ABC board member participated in the action, the board member requested and received from the ABC Commission a written advisory opinion that authorized the participation. (6) When action is ministerial only and does not require the exercise of discretion.

(7) When the local ABC board records in its minutes that it cannot obtain a quorum in order to take the action because the local ABC board member is disqualified from acting, the local ABC board member may be counted for purposes of a quorum but shall otherwise abstain from taking any further action.

"§ 18B-702. Financial operations of local boards.

(a) Generally. – A local board may transact business as a corporate body, except as limited by this section. A local board shall not be considered a public authority under G.S. 159-7(b)(10).

(b) Budget Officer. – The general manager of the local board shall be the budget officer for the local board. In the absence of a general manager, a local board may impose the duties of budget officer on the chairman or any member of the local board or any other employee of the board.

(c) Annual Balanced Budget. – Each local board shall operate under an annual balanced budget administered in accordance with this section. A budget is balanced when the sum of estimated gross revenues and both restricted and unrestricted funds are equal to appropriations. Expenditures shall not exceed the amount of funds received or in reserve for the purpose to which the funds are appropriated. It is the intent of this section that all monies received and expended by a local board should be included in the budget. Therefore, notwithstanding any other provision of law, no local board may expend any monies, regardless of their source, except in accordance with a budget adopted under this section. The budget of a local board shall cover a fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30.

(d) Preparation and Submission of Budget and Budget Message. – Upon receipt of the budget requests and revenue estimates and the financial information supplied by the finance officer, the budget officer shall prepare a budget for consideration by the local board in such form and detail as may have been prescribed by the budget officer or the local board. The budget, together with a budget message, shall be submitted to the local board, the appointing authority, and the Commission not later than June 1. The budget and budget message should, but need not, be submitted at a formal meeting of the board. The budget message should contain a concise explanation of the goals fixed by the budget for the budget year, should explain important features of the activities anticipated in the budget, should set forth the reasons for stated changes from the previous year in appropriation levels, and should explain any major changes in fiscal policy.

(e) Filing and Publication of the Budget. – On the same day the budget officer submits the budget to the local board, the budget officer shall make a copy for public inspection, and it shall remain available for public inspection until the budget is adopted. The budget officer shall make a copy of the budget available to all news media in the county. The budget officer shall also publish a statement that the budget has been submitted to the local board and is available for public inspection in the office of the general manager of the local board. The statement shall also give notice of the time and place of the budget hearing required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Budget Hearings. – Before adopting the budget, the board shall hold a public hearing at which time any persons who wish to be heard on the budget may appear.

(g) Adoption of Budget. – Not earlier than 10 days after the day the budget is presented to the board and not later than July 1, the local board shall adopt a budget making appropriations for the budget year in such sums as the board may consider sufficient and proper, whether greater or less than the sums recommended in the budget. The budget shall authorize all financial transactions of the local board. The budget may be in any form that the board considers most efficient in enabling it to make the fiscal policy decisions embodied therein, but it shall make appropriations by department, function, or project and show revenues by major source. The following directions and limitations shall bind the local board in adopting the budget:

(1) The full amount estimated by the finance officer to be required for debt service during the budget year shall be appropriated.

(2) The full amount of any deficit in each fund shall be appropriated.

(3) Working capital funds set aside pursuant to G.S. 18B-805 shall be established by rule of the Commission. "Working capital" means the total of cash, investments, and inventory less all unsecured liabilities. Gross sales means gross receipts from the sale of alcoholic beverages less distributions as defined in G.S. 18B-805(b)(2), (3), (4), and (5). Any expenditure to be charged against working capital funds shall be authorized by resolution of the local board, which resolution shall be deemed an amendment to the budget setting up an appropriation for the object of expenditure authorized. The local board may authorize the budget officer to authorize expenditures from working capital funds subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such expenditure shall be deemed an amendment and reported to the board at its next regular meeting and recorded in the minutes.

(4) Estimated revenues shall include only those revenues reasonably expected to be realized in the budget year.

(5) Sufficient funds to meet the amounts to be paid during the fiscal year under continuing contracts previously entered into shall be appropriated unless such contract reserves to the local board the right to limit or not to make such appropriation.

(6) The sum of estimated net revenues and appropriated fund balance in each fund shall be equal to appropriations in that fund. Appropriated fund balance in a fund shall not exceed the sum of cash and investments minus the sum of liabilities, encumbrances, and deferred revenues arising from cash receipts, as those figures stand at the close of the fiscal year next preceding the budget year.

The budget shall be entered in the minutes of the local board and within five days after adoption, and copies thereof shall be filed with the finance officer, the budget officer, the appointing authority, and the Commission.

(h) Amendments to the Budget. – Except as otherwise restricted by law, the local board may amend the budget at any time after adoption, in any manner; so long as the budget, as amended, continues to satisfy the requirements of this section. The local board by appropriate resolution may authorize the budget officer to transfer monies from one appropriation to another within the same fund subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such transfers shall be reported to the local board at its next regular meeting and shall be entered in the minutes. Amendments to the adopted budget shall also be provided to the appointing authority and the Commission.

(i) Interim Budget. – In case the adoption of the budget is delayed until after July 1, the local board shall make interim appropriations for the purpose of paying salaries, debt service payments, and the usual ordinary expenses of the local board for the interval between the beginning of the budget year and the adoption of the budget. Interim appropriations so made shall be charged to the proper appropriations in the adopted budget.

(j) Finance Officer. – The local board shall designate (i) a part-time or full-time employee of the board other than the general manager or (ii) the finance officer of the appointing authority with consent of the appointing authority to be the finance officer for the local board. The Commission, for good cause shown, may allow the general manager of a board to also be the finance officer. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, the fact that the board operates no more than two stores, and any approval for the general manager to also be the finance officer shall apply until the board operates more than two stores; in any event, the approval shall be effective for 36 months.

(k) Duties and Powers of the Finance Officer. – The finance officer for a local board shall:

(1) Keep the accounts of the local board in accordance with generally accepted principles of governmental accounting and the rules and regulations of the Commission.

(2) Disburse all funds of the local board in strict compliance with this Chapter, the budget, and preaudit obligations, and disbursements as required by this section.

(3) As often as may be requested by the local board or the general manager, prepare and file with the board a statement of the financial condition of the local board.

(4) Receive and deposit all monies accruing to the local board, or supervise the receipt and deposit of money by other duly authorized employees.

(5) Maintain all records concerning the debt and other obligations of the local board, determine the amount of money that will be required for debt service or the payment of other obligations during each fiscal year, and maintain all funds.

(6) Supervise the investment of idle funds of the local board pursuant to subsection (t) of this section.

The finance officer shall perform such other duties as may be assigned by law, by the general manager, budget officer, or local board, or by rules and regulations of the Commission.

(l) Accounting System.– Each local board shall establish and maintain an accounting system designed to show in detail its assets, liabilities, equities, revenues, and expenditures. The system shall also be designed to show appropriations and estimated revenues as established in the budget originally adopted and subsequently amended.

(m) Incurring Obligations. – No obligation may be incurred in a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget unless the budget includes an appropriation authorizing the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay in the current fiscal year the sums obligated by the transaction for the current fiscal year. No obligation may be incurred for a capital project unless the budget authorizing the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the sums obligated by the transaction. If an obligation is evidenced by a contract or agreement requiring the payment of money or by a purchase order for supplies and materials, the contract, agreement, or purchase order shall include on its face a certificate stating that the instrument has been preaudited to assure compliance with this subsection. The certificate, which shall be signed by the finance officer or any deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board, shall take substantially the following form:

"This instrument has been preaudited in the manner required by G.S. 18B-702.

(Signature of finance officer)."

An obligation incurred in violation of this subsection is invalid and may not be enforced. The finance officer shall establish procedures to assure compliance with this subsection.

(n) Disbursements. – When a bill, invoice, or other claim against a local board is presented, the finance officer shall either approve or disapprove the necessary disbursement. If the claim involves a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget or a capital project or a grant project authorized by the budget, the finance officer may approve the claim only if:

(1) The finance officer determines the amount to be payable; and
(2) The budget includes an appropriation authorizing the expenditure and either (i) an encumbrance has been previously created for the transaction or (ii) an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the amount to be disbursed.

A bill, invoice, or other claim may not be paid unless it has been approved by the finance officer or, under subsection (o) of this section, by the local board. The finance officer shall establish procedures to assure compliance with this subsection.

(o) Local Board Approval of Bills, Invoices, or Claims. – The local board may, as permitted by this subsection, approve a bill, invoice, or other claim against the local board that has been disapproved by the finance officer. It may not approve a claim for which no appropriation appears in the budget, or for which the appropriation contains no encumbrance and the unencumbered balance is less than the amount to be paid. The local board shall approve payment by formal resolution stating the board's reasons for allowing the bill, invoice, or other claim. The resolution shall be entered in the minutes together with the names of those voting in the affirmative. The chairman of the board or some other member designated for this purpose shall sign the certificate on the check or draft given in payment of the bill, invoice, or other claim. If payment results in a violation of law, each member of the board voting to allow payment is jointly and severally liable for the full amount of the check or draft given in payment.

(p) Checks or Drafts Signed by Finance Officer. – Except as otherwise provided by law, all checks or drafts on an official depository shall be signed by the finance officer or a properly designated deputy finance officer. The chairman of the local board or general manager of the local board shall countersign these checks and drafts. The Commission may waive the requirements of this subsection if the board determines that the internal control procedures of the unit or authority will be satisfactory in the absence of dual signatures.

(q) Payment of a Bill, Invoice, Salary, or Claim. – A local board may not pay a bill, invoice, salary, or other claim except by a check or draft on an official depository or by a bank wire transfer from an official depository. Except as provided in this subsection, each check or draft on an official depository shall bear on its face a certificate signed by the finance officer or a deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board (or signed by the chairman or some other member of the board pursuant to subsection (o) of this section). The certificate shall take substantially the following form:

"This disbursement has been approved in the manner required by G.S. 18B-702.

(Signature of finance officer)."

No certificate is required on payroll checks or drafts on an imprest account in an official depository if the check or draft depositing the funds in the imprest account carried a signed certificate. No certificate is required for expenditures of fifty dollars ($50.00) or less from a petty cash fund, provided the expenditure is accounted for by a receipt for the expended item.

~~(b)~~(r) Borrowing Money. – A local board may borrow money only for the purchase of land, buildings, equipment and stock needed for the operation of its ABC system. A local board may pledge a security interest in any real or personal property it owns other than alcoholic beverages. A city or county whose governing body appoints a local board shall not in any way be held responsible for the debts of that board.

~~(c)~~(s) Audits. – A local board shall submit to the appointing authority and Commission an annual independent audit of its operations, performed in accordance with generally accepted accounting standards and in compliance with a chart of accounts prescribed by the Commission. The audit report shall contain a summary of the requirements of this Chapter, or of any local act applicable to that local board, concerning the distribution of profits of that board and a description of how those distributions have been made, including the names of recipients of the profits and the activities for which the funds were distributed. A local board shall also submit to any other audits and submit any reports demanded by the appointing authority or the Commission.

~~(d)~~(t) Deposits and Investments. – A local board may deposit ~~moneys~~monies at interest in any bank or trust company in this State in the form of savings accounts or certificates of deposit. Investment deposits shall be secured as provided in G.S. 159-31(b) and the reports required by G.S. 159-33 shall be submitted. A local board may invest all or part of the cash balance of any fund as provided in G.S. 159-30(c) and (d), and may deposit any portion of those funds for investment with the State Treasurer in the same manner as State boards and commissions under G.S. 147-69.3.

~~(e)~~(u) Compliance with Commission Rules. – The Commission shall adopt, and each local board shall comply with, fiscal control rules concerning the borrowing of money, maintenance of working capital, investments, appointment of a budget officer, appointment of a financial officer, daily deposit of funds, bonding of employees, auditing of operations, and the schedule, manner and other procedures for distribution of profits. The Commission may also adopt any other rules concerning the financial operations of local boards which are needed to assure the proper accountability of public funds. The Commission may vary these rules and regulations according to any other criteria reasonably related to the purpose or complexity of the financial operations involved. The Commission has the authority to inquire into and investigate the internal control procedures of a local board and may require any modifications in internal control procedures which, in the opinion of the Commission, are necessary or desirable to prevent embezzlements or mishandling of public monies.

(v) Penalties. – If a board member or employee of a local board incurs an obligation or pays out or causes to be paid out any funds in violation of this section, the member or employee and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums so committed or disbursed. If the finance officer or any properly designated deputy finance officer gives a false certificate to any contract, agreement, purchase order, check, draft, or other document, the finance officer and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums illegally committed or disbursed thereby.

~~(f)~~(w) Applicability of Criminal Statutes. – The provisions of G.S. 14-90 and G.S. 14-254 shall apply to any person appointed to or employed by a local board, and any person convicted of a violation of G.S. 14-90 or G.S. 14-254 shall be punished as a Class H felon.

(b) Purpose. – This section is intended to provide a uniform system of removal for appointing authorities and the Commission.

(c) Cause for Removal. – Disqualification of a local board member or employee under the law, a violation of the ABC laws, failure to complete training required by this Chapter or the Commission, or engaging in any conduct constituting moral turpitude or which brings the local board or the ABC system into disrepute is cause for the Commission to remove any member or employee of a local board. The employment or retention of any employee who is known to be disqualified under the law to hold a position with a local board is cause for the Commission to remove the board members involved.

(d) Removal Process. – The Commission or appointing authority shall provide, in writing, to the local board member or employee the findings of fact upon which the decision for removal is based. The Commission or appointing authority shall also provide the local board member or employee with notice of the availability of a hearing before the Commission to review the removal.

(e) Removal Hearing. – Any local board member or employee removed from office or discharged by the Commission or the appointing authority may request a hearing before the Commission. Such a request operates to stay the action of the Commission or the appointing authority with regard to the matter until after the hearing, unless the Commission finds that the public interest requires immediate action. At the hearing, the employee or the employee's counsel may examine all evidence used against the employee and present evidence in the employee's own behalf. A removal hearing is not subject to the provisions of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. All hearings shall be conducted informally and in such manner as to preserve the substantial rights of the parties.

The Commission may adopt the findings of fact of the Commission or the appointing authority, may add new findings of fact to the original findings of fact, or may substitute new findings of fact for the original findings of fact. The Commission shall make conclusions of law and shall issue a written decision to the member or employee of the local board, and to the appointing authority, within 15 days of the hearing.

(g) Commission Authority. – The Commission shall have the sole power, in its discretion, to determine if cause exists for removal of a local board member or employee who has requested a hearing before the Commission. The Commission's decision in a removal hearing is final.

(h) Appeal. – A local board member or employee may appeal the Commission's final decision to the Court of Appeals. The standard of review for an appeal shall be abuse of discretion. The sole remedy for a local board member or employee shall be the reinstatement of the board member or employee to the local board with back pay. All awards for back pay shall be paid by the local board from which the board member or employee was removed.

(i) Removal Hearing Not a Substitute for Termination of Employee. – Nothing in this section replaces or is intended to replace a local board's policy regarding the termination of an employee for personnel reasons. The removal process under this section is reserved solely for the appointing authority or the Commission to remove a board member or employee for cause.

(j) Local Acts. – Notwithstanding the provisions of any local act, this section applies to all local boards."

SECTION 19. Chapter 18B of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 18B-705. Compliance with performance standards; remedies.

(a) Local Board Compliance. – The Commission shall establish performance standards pursuant to G.S. 18B-203(a)(20). The Commission shall ensure that all local boards comply with established performance standards by conducting regular or special audits, conducting performance evaluations, monitoring ABC law enforcement efforts, or taking other measures, which may include inspections by Commission auditors or alcohol law enforcement agents.

(b) Performance Improvement Plans. – The Commission, upon determining that a local board is failing to meet performance standards established pursuant to G.S. 18B-203(a)(20), shall meet with the chair of the local board and the appointing authority and issue a statement of findings. The appointing authority, in consultation with the Commission and the local board, shall develop for and deliver a performance improvement plan to the local board within 60 days of the meeting with the Commission. The performance improvement plan shall include, but not be limited to, recommendations for improved performance based on the performance standards established by the Commission. The plan shall also state a period of time in which the performance improvements are to occur and what action will be taken by the Commission if performance standards are not met within the given time limits. The appointing authority shall allow up to, but no more than, 12 months' time to the local board to implement and show improvement under the performance improvement plan. The local appointing authority, in consultation with the Commission and upon good cause shown, may allow up to an additional six-month period of time for the local board to meet all requirements in the performance improvement plan and to establish that the performance standards established by the Commission are met.

(c) Remedies. – If the Commission determines that the established performance standards identified in the statement of findings cannot be met after a performance improvement plan has been implemented and adequate time has been given, but in no case less than 12 months, the Commission shall take appropriate action to avoid insolvency. This action may include closing the board pursuant to G.S. 18B-801(d), closing a store or multiple stores, or merging the local board with another local board in order to maintain solvency. The Commission may also seize the assets of the local board and liquidate any assets necessary to satisfy any debt in order to maintain the solvency of the local board. Prior to taking action pursuant to this subsection, the Commission shall issue a notice of intent to take such action to the appointing authority and the local board.

(d) Local Acts. – Notwithstanding the provisions of any local act, this section applies to all local boards."

SECTION 20. Chapter 18B of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 18B-706. Ethics requirements for local boards.

(a) Each local board shall adopt a policy containing a code of ethics, consistent with the provisions of G.S. 18B-201, to guide actions by the local board members and employees of the local board in the performance of their official duties. The policy shall address at least all of the following:

(1) The need to obey all applicable laws regarding official actions taken as a local board member or employee.

(2) The need to uphold the integrity and independence of the local board member or employee's position.

(3) The need to avoid impropriety in the exercise of official duties.

(4) The need to faithfully perform the duties of the position.

(5) The need to conduct the affairs of the board in an open and public manner, including complying with all applicable laws governing open meetings and public records.

(b) Each member of a local board shall receive a minimum of two hours of ethics education within 12 months after initial appointment to the office and again within 12 months after each subsequent appointment to the office. The ethics education shall cover laws and principles that govern conflicts of interest and ethical standards of conduct for local ABC boards. The education may be provided by the Commission or other qualified source approved by the Commission. The local board shall maintain a record verifying receipt of the ethics education by each member of the local board. The local board may require appropriate ethics training and education for employees of the local ABC board.

(c) The Commission shall develop a model ethics policy that local ABC boards may adopt to be in compliance with this section."

SECTION 21. G.S. 18B-801(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Location of Stores. – A local board may choose the location of the ABC stores within its jurisdiction, subject to the approval of the Commission. In making its decision on a location, the Commission may consider:

(1) Whether the health, safety, or general welfare of the community will be adversely ~~affected; and~~affected.
(2) Whether the citizens of the community or city in which the proposed store is to be located voted for or against ABC stores in the last election on the question.

SECTION 21.1. G.S. 18B-801(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Closing of Stores. – Subject to the provisions of ~~subsection (a),~~ subsection (a) of this section, a local board may ~~close,~~ close a store, or the Commission may order a local board to ~~close,~~ close any store when the local board or the Commission determines that:

The appointing authority may increase the amount of bond required for store managers under this subsection.

(c) Bonding of Other Employees. – A local board or the appointing authority may require any of its other employees who handle funds to obtain bonds. The amount and form of those bonds shall be determined by the local board.

SENATE BILL 1112:
Modernization of the State ABC System

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 14, 2010
Introduced by:	Sen. Vaughan	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter
Analysis of:	S1112-CSRV-65[v.1]		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: This proposed committee substitute for Senate Bill 1112 makes a number of changes to the State's ABC laws, many of which were recommended by a joint legislative study committee on Alcoholic Beverage Control issues.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to H1717, as introduced by Reps. R. Warren, Bell, Lucas, which is currently in House State Government/State Personnel.]

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 of the bill would provide definitions for the finance officer and the general manager of local ABC boards. The finance officer is the person responsible for keeping the accounts of the local board, including receiving and depositing receipts and disbursing funds. The general manager is the person responsible for the oversight of daily operations of the ABC system. (Note: Section 17 of the bill requires the local board to designate an employee other than the general manager to be the finance officer of the local board. For good cause, the Commission may allow the board's general manager to also be the finance officer.)

Section 2 of the bill would amend the law pertaining to conflicts of interest and gifts. Current law prohibits a person who has a financial interest in a commercial ABC enterprise from being appointed to or employed by the State ABC Commission, a local board, or the Alcohol Law Enforcement (ALE) Division, and current criminal prohibitions against public officers or employees benefiting from public contracts apply to the ABC Commission and local ABC boards. The bill would apply the provisions of G.S. 133-32 to the ABC Commission and local ABC boards, making it unlawful for contractors or suppliers who have or seek to have a contract with the Commission or local board to make gifts or to give favors to any Commission or local board officers or employees; it would also be unlawful for an officer or employee to accept such gifts. The bill would make the ABC Commission subject to the Ethical Standards of the State Ethics Acts, which prohibits the use of public position for private gain, prohibits certain gifts and other compensation, prohibits the use of information for private gain, and sets other rules of conduct for public servants. The bill would provide specific guidelines pertaining to conflicts of interest for local ABC boards, prohibiting a local board member from knowingly using his or her position in a manner that would result in financial benefit to the local board member, to his or her spouse or near relative, or to any business with which the local board member is associated. The bill would prohibit a local board member from improperly using or disclosing any confidential information, and would impose an affirmative duty on every local board member to promptly disclose in writing to the local board any actual or potential conflict of interest.

Section 3 of the bill would amend the law concerning judicial authority to remove from office or discharge from employment any Commission or local board member or employee, or any ALE agent who violates the State's alcohol laws or commits any felony. The bill would make the discharge provision applicable to local law enforcement officers who serve as the designated officer of an agency which holds a contract to enforce the ABC laws for a local board, giving the judge authority to prohibit the officer from being designated as an officer that enforces the ABC law, for a period up to 3 years.

Section 4 of the bill would give the ABC Commission authority to adopt rules to establish performance standards for local boards, including standards that address enforcement of ABC laws, store appearance, operating efficiency, solvency, and customer service. The Commission would also have authority to adopt rules setting mandatory training requirements for local board members, finance officers, and general managers.

Section 5 of the bill would limit the number of officers that a contracting law enforcement agency may designate to conduct inspections of ABC-licensed premises. Under current law, instead of hiring local ABC officers a local board may contract to pay its enforcement funds to a local law enforcement agency for enforcement of the ABC laws within the agency's territorial jurisdiction. Officers of contracting law enforcement agencies have the same authority to inspect that an ABC officer employed by that local board would have, including viewing the entire premises and examining the books and records of the permittee. The bill would require that a contracting law enforcement agency designate not more than five officers to conduct ABC inspections.

Section 6 of the bill would require local board ABC officers and law enforcement agencies subject to enforcement agreements with a local board to provide monthly reports to the local board, including information on the number of arrests made for ABC law and controlled substance violations and other violations at ABC-permitted outlets and other locations, the number of agencies assisted with ABC law or controlled substance related matters, and the number of alcohol education and responsible server programs presented. The local board would be required to submit a copy of the report to its appointing authority and to the ABC Commission; and the ABC Commission would be required to publish the information on a public Internet website. This section would become effective January 1, 2011.

Section 7 of the bill would make a conforming change to the statute pertaining to local ABC officers, making it clear that designated officers of agencies that contract with local boards for enforcement of the ABC laws are subject to statutory provisions concerning discharge from those duties.

Section 8 of the bill would allow any city that has at least 500 registered voters to hold a mixed beverage election. It would eliminate the current requirement that the city already operate a city ABC store in order to hold the mixed beverage election or if not, the county either operates an ABC store or has already held a mixed beverage election and the vote was against the sale of mixed beverages.

Section 9 of the bill would define the mission of local ABC boards and their employees: controlling the sale of spirituous liquor and promoting customer-friendly, modern, and efficient stores.

Section 10 of the bill would limit the compensation of local ABC board members to not more than $150 per meeting, unless a different level of monetary compensation is approved by the board's appointing authority. If a different level of compensation is approved, the appointing authority would be required to provide written notice to the ABC Commission.

Section 11 of the bill would limit the compensation of general managers of local ABC boards. The salary authorized for the board's general manager could not exceed the salary authorized by the General Assembly for the clerk of superior court of the county in which the appointing authority was originally incorporated. Under G.S. 7A-101, the salaries of clerks of superior court are based on the population of the county, according to the following schedule:

Population	Annual Salary
Less than 100,000	$ 82,401
100,000 to 149,999	92,468
150,000 to 249,999	102,536
250,000 and above	112,607

The bill provides that a different level of monetary compensation may be approved by the board's appointing authority. If a different level of compensation is approved, the appointing authority would be required to provide written notice to the ABC Commission. The bill provides that no employee of a local board may receive a salary in excess of the amount authorized for the salary of the general manager. This section would become effective October 1, 2010 and apply to general managers and employees hired on or after that date.

Section 12 of the bill provides for members and employees of local ABC boards to be reimbursed for travel on official business in accordance with the statutory travel allowances of State officers and employees. With approval of the appointing authority, a local board may adopt a travel policy that conforms to the travel policy of the appointing authority. The local board would be required to annually provide to the Commission a copy of its travel policy along with the appointing authority's written confirmation of its approval. Excess expenses not covered by the local board's travel policy would be paid only with written authorization of the appointing authority's finance officer, and the local board would be required to submit a copy of the authorization to the ABC Commission within 30 days of approval.

Section 13 of the bill would increase the minimum amount of the bond required for local ABC board members and for the employees designated as the general manager or finance officer of the local board, raising it from $5,000 to $50,000. No board member would be exempt from the requirement, and the appointing authority could require a higher bond amount for any board member or employee who handles board funds

Section 14 of the bill would prohibit members of an immediate family or members of the same household from being employed within a local board if the employment would result in one family or household member supervising another, or if one family or household member would occupy a position that has influence over the employment, promotion, or salary administration of another. The provision would apply to local board members and employees. This section would become effective October 1, 2010 and apply to employees hired on or after that date.

Section 15 of the bill would make the provisions of G.S. 18B-700 regarding the appointment and organization of local ABC boards applicable to all local ABC boards, notwithstanding any local acts that may provide otherwise. This section would become effective October 1, 2011.

Section 16 of the bill would require a local ABC board to comply with all rules adopted by the ABC Commission pursuant to its authority under the State's ABC laws, and to meet all standards set by the Commission for performance and training. Failure to comply with Commission rules would be grounds for removal.

Section 17 of the bill would amend the statute pertaining to the financial operations of local boards. A local board would be required to operate under an annual balanced budget in accordance with provisions in the bill. All monies received and expended by a local board would be included in the budget, and no local board could expend any monies except in accordance with the budget. The general manager of the local board, as budget officer, would prepare a budget for consideration by the local board. The proposed budget would be submitted to the local board, its appointing authority, and the ABC Commission by June 1; and a copy would be made available for public inspection. Before adopting the budget, the board would be required to hold a public hearing. This section of the bill would establish specific directions and limitations that a local board must comply with in adopting its budget. Once the budget is adopted, it must be filed with the board's finance officer and budget officer, the board's appointing authority, and the ABC Commission. The bill provides for amendments to an adopted budget and for an interim budget in case adoption of the budget is delayed until after the start of the fiscal year. The bill requires the local board to designate an employee other than the general manager to be the finance officer of the local board, and sets out the duties and powers of the finance officer. For good cause, the Commission may allow the board's general manager to also be the finance officer. Each local board would be required to establish and maintain an accounting system designed to show in detail its assets, liabilities, revenues, and expenditures. The bill contains specific provisions relative to incurring obligations, disbursements, and local board approval of bills, invoices, or claims. All checks or drafts must be signed by the finance officer or a properly designated deputy finance officer, and countersigned by the chair of the local board or the general manager, except where the requirement for dual signatures is waived by the Commission. Audits and reports currently required to be submitted to the ABC Commission must also be submitted to the local board's appointing authority. The bill would give the ABC Commission specific authority to inquire into and investigate the internal control procedures of a local board, and to require any modifications necessary or desirable to prevent the embezzlement or mishandling of public monies. The finance officer and sureties on the official bond would be liable for any sums committed or disbursed in violation of the law. The provisions pertaining to financial operations of local boards would apply to all local boards, notwithstanding any local acts. This section would become effective May 1, 2011 and apply to local board fiscal years beginning July 1, 2011. The ABC Commission would be required to offer training and education to assist local boards in complying with this section.

Section 18 of the bill would prohibit the ABC Commission or its individual members from attempting to coerce any appointing authority to appoint a particular person as a member of a local board, or attempting to coerce a local board to employ a particular applicant. It would give the ABC Commission authority to remove any member or employee of a local board for disqualification under the law, violation of the ABC laws, failure to complete required training, or engaging in conduct constituting moral turpitude or which brings the local board of the ABC system into disrepute. The bill sets out a removal process that requires written findings of fact upon which the decision for removal is based, and provides for an informal removal hearing before the ABC Commission. The Commission would have authority to discharge the board member or employee if two-thirds of the Commission's members vote for removal. The Commission would have the sole power, in its discretion, to determine if cause exists for removal of a local board member or employee who has requested a hearing before the Commission, and the Commission's decision would be final. The local board member or employee could appeal the Commission's final decision to the Court of Appeals. The standard of review is abuse of discretion, and the sole remedy would be reinstatement with back pay. Awards for back pay would be paid by the local board from which the board member or employee was removed. These provisions would apply to all local boards.

Section 19 of the bill would require the ABC Commission to establish performance standards, and to ensure that all local boards comply with those standards by conducting regular or special audits, performance evaluations, monitoring ABC law enforcement efforts, or taking other measures including inspections by Commission auditors or alcohol law enforcement agents. When a local board fails to meet established performance standards, the Commission would be required to meet with the chair of the local board and the appointing authority and issue a statement of findings. The appointing authority would, in consultation with the Commission, develop and deliver a performance improvement plan to the local board. The plan would include recommendations for improved performance, and state a period of time in which improvements are to occur and what actions will be taken by the Commission if performance standards are not met within the prescribed time limits. The appointing authority may allow no more than 12 months for the local board to implement and show improvement under the plan; however, upon a showing of good cause and in consultation with the ABC Commission, the appointing authority may allow up to an additional 6 month period of time for the local board to meet all requirements in the improvement plan and to establish that performance standards are met. If the Commission determines that the established performance standards cannot be met after a performance improvement plan has been implemented and adequate time has been given, the Commission would be required to take appropriate action to avoid insolvency. The Commission would have authority to close the local board or one or more of its stores, or to merge the local board with another local board in order to maintain solvency. The Commission would also have authority to seize the assets of the local board and liquidate assets necessary to satisfy debt and maintain solvency of the local board.

Section 20 of the bill would require each local ABC board to adopt a policy containing a code of ethics consistent with statutory provisions concerning conflicts of interests and gifts. (See Section 2 of the bill.)

Each member of a local board would be required to receive a minimum of 2 hours of ethics education within 12 months after initial appointment to the board, and again within 12 months after each subsequent appointment to the office. The education may be provided by the ABC Commission or by some other qualified source approved by the Commission. A local board may require appropriate ethics training and education for its employees. The ABC Commission is required to develop a model ethic polity that local ABC boards may adopt in compliance with the requirements of the bill.

Section 21 of the bill would authorize the ABC Commission to consider the proximity of a new ABC store location to existing ABC stores when making its decision regarding approval of the new location.

Section 21.1 of the bill would amend the law with regard to the closing of ABC stores, eliminating specific authority of a local ABC board or the ABC Commission to close a store when the Commission determines that the store is not sufficiently profitable to justify its continuation.

Section 22 of the bill would increase the minimum amount of the bond required for ABC store managers, raising it from $5,000 to $50,000. An appointing authority may require a bond that exceeds the minimum amount.

Section 23 of the bill would amend G.S. 18B-1213 concerning the obligations of the purchaser of a winery, making it clear that the purchaser as well as any successor to the rights of a winery is obligated to all the terms and conditions of an agreement in effect on the date of the purchase or other acquisition of the right to distribute a brand. This section would be effective when it becomes law and apply to all existing franchise agreements. A supplier's shipment of wine to a wholesaler in this State following the effective date would constitute acceptance by the supplier of the terms of the bill and be incorporated into the agreement between the supplier and wholesaler.

Section 24 of the bill would create an exception to the law that prohibits occupational licensing boards from requiring that an individual be more than 18 years of age as a requirement for receiving a license. The exception would apply to certifications issued by the Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission and the North Carolina Sheriff's Education and Training Standards Commission. This section would be effective when it becomes law.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Except as otherwise specified, the bill would become effective October 1, 2010.

HOUSE BILL 1463:
Expand Access/Confidential Intermediaries

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 14, 2010
Introduced by:	Reps. Dickson, Wilkins, Harrell, Farmer-Butterfield	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Third Edition H1463-CSRV-66

SUMMARY: House Bill 1463 would allow adult full and half siblings of adult adoptees, and adult family members of deceased adoptees or deceased biological parents, to have access to confidential intermediary services from an adoption agency for facilitation of contact or to obtain identifying adoption information. The bill would also allow an agency acting as a confidential intermediary to obtain a copy of a death certificate of the person who is the subject of the search and deliver it to the person requesting services. This proposed committee substitute corrects the effective date.

CURRENT LAW: Currently, NC adoption records are closed. The law provides that, with certain exceptions, no one may release a record that would lead directly to the identity of an adoptee, an adoptive parent of an adoptee, an adoptee's parent at birth, or an adoptee's birth sibling or grandparent. Exceptions are available through a court order, through voluntary consent, or through the services of a confidential intermediary. A confidential intermediary is a licensed adoption agency staff person authorized to act as a 3rd party to facilitate contact between an adult adoptee or the adult lineal descendant of a deceased adoptee and the biological parent. To facilitate contact or share the information, the confidential intermediary must have the written consent of all parties.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 – Definition of "confidential intermediary." This section would amend the definition of "confidential intermediary" to define the term as an agency (licensed child placing agency or a county department of social services) that may act as a third party to facilitate the sharing of information authorized by G.S. 48-9-104 (which is rewritten in Section 3 of the bill). This section of the bill would also delete the definition of "lineal descendant of a deceased adoptee".

Section 2 – Definition of "adult." This section would delete the provision that defined "adult" as someone 21 or older for purposes of the provisions relating to the use of confidential intermediaries. This means that the general definition of "adult" in G.S. 48-1-101 would apply, which says an adult is 18 or older, or a person under 18 who is either married or legally emancipated.

Section 3 – New Categories of People Added. This section of the bill would amend the list of people authorized to use confidential intermediary services to include the following:

- An adult biological sibling of an adult adoptee.
- An adult biological half sibling of an adult adoptee.
- An adult family member of a deceased biological parent.
- An adult family member of a deceased adoptee.

For purposes of this section, "family member" would mean spouse, child, stepchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, or grandchild.

If the biological parent is living, written consent of the biological parent is required before contact with or sharing of identifying information between any of the other specified parties. The bill would also allow an agency to act as a confidential intermediary for the guardian of a minor adoptee.

If a confidential intermediary determines that the person who is the subject of the search is deceased, the agency may obtain a copy of the death certificate and deliver it to the person who requested the services.

Section 4 – Access to Death Certificate. This section would amend the statute relating to access to vital records to authorize agencies providing confidential intermediary services to obtain a copy of the death certificate when the agency determines that the person who is the object of its search is deceased.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The PCS corrects the effective date, making the bill effective October 1, 2010.

BACKGROUND: This bill was favorably reported by this Committee just prior to adjournment in August, 2009. It was withdrawn from the calendar on the opening day of the 2010 Regular Session, and re-referred to this Committee.

Susan Sitze and William Gilkeson, Staff Attorneys in the Research Division, contributed significantly to this summary.

SENATOR TOM APODACA
48TH DISTRICT

June 21, 2010

Fellow Senators:

Last year in committee when we discussed this bill, I spoke in favor of this bill and I still support the legislation. Each adoptee comes from different circumstances. I was blessed to be raised by my mother and step-father (who adopted me). Later in life I developed a relationship with my father and eventually took back his name. Nonetheless, I cannot imagine not knowing or having relationships with my half-siblings on either side. They bring happiness to me each day and some consternation.

I respect the rights of the living but furthermore I respect the rights of the surviving children whom may be fortunate enough to meet and develop relationships with their siblings.

Please support Senator Dickson.

Sincerely,

Tom Apodaca

P.S. I would rather be with you instead of rehab with my arm.

An only child finds his big family

Harold Cogdell always wondered if he had other relatives. A recent state law helped him find them.

By David Perlmutt

Posted: Sunday, Mar. 07, 2010

Growing up, a suspicion constantly gnawed at Harold Cogdell Jr. He'd never heard his mother, Jeanette, talk about her pregnancy, or how much he weighed at birth - like his friends' mothers did.

She and his father, Harold Sr., were older than his friends' parents in Kinston, where Harold Jr. was raised an only child 70 miles southeast of Raleigh. They were reserved; he was outgoing.

hey didn't share the same physical features. Harold Jr.'s friends often kidded that he looked like he came Ahoskie, a town in northeast North Carolina known for its large Native American community.

His parents were African-American.

"Kinston lacked diversity; it was black or white," Harold Jr. said. "I didn't fit squarely into either one. There were times when I felt out of place."

He suspected he might be adopted. Yet he never brought it up to his parents.

"I didn't want it to affect our relationship," he said. "I knew my parents loved me and I loved them. So I never confronted them."

Until he launched a search to fill the hole in 1993. He was a first semester law student at N.C. Central University in Durham, researching adoption laws. Suddenly, he needed to know the truth.

Driving home to Kinston for the weekend, he thought about his parents. He admired Harold Sr.'s strength: He was Kinston's first black police officer (and sergeant) and later its first black probation officer. He treasured Jeanette's elegance: She taught piano.

Adopted or not, the truth wouldn't come between them.

night, he sat with Harold Sr., mustering the courage:

"Pop, there's something that's not making sense," he recalls saying. "You and Mom have loved me, done everything possible for me. I am so thankful. But I feel there's some part of the story that I'm missing.

"I need to know: Was I adopted?"

d Sr. said nothing. He got up and nervously walked to the back - returning with Jeanette.

They'd been expecting that question all Harold Jr.'s life.

Yes, they did adopt him. He was slightly older than a year, living in a foster home in Durham. His name was only "Owen."

"I took one look at you and knew I had to have you," Jeanette told him.

When Harold Jr. was 6, they tried to tell him. His father read him a book about a baby alligator who'd been adopted. Story over, the boy threw the book across the room, and ran out crying and screaming: "I never want to hear that book again!"

The Cogdells dropped it.

Now, their son a grown man, they told him what little they knew about his birth mother: She'd been a college student in Durham - too young to care for a baby.

A baby born to a teenager

In fall 1968, Rene Melton Strickland was an 18-year-old student at a Durham business college. There, she met a young law student named Frank Turner.

dated briefly. But at the end of Frank's first semester of law school - at N.C. Central - he left school to work in Washington, D.C.

Weeks later, Rene discovered something she'd keep from much of her family, including her two sons, for four decades.

In late 1968, she was pregnant.

Abortion was out. So, too, was raising the baby - she felt she was too young. Her parents worked hard and had her four siblings to raise in Ahoskie, where her family descended from the Meherrin Indian tribe of Hertford County.

"I was not prepared to look after my baby; I knew I couldn't provide for him," Rene said. "I didn't want my parents to have to do it. They had enough on their hands. Back then, we didn't talk about these things. I felt it was best the baby go to a home that could provide for it."

Her decision was firm: She'd turn the baby over to Durham County Social Services to place for adoption.

At first, Rene told only her parents and a sister. She didn't try to find Frank.

On Aug. 13, 1969, Rene had a boy. She'd instructed nurses not to show her the baby, concerned it would make her decision harder. One nurse didn't get the message: "Here, I've brought your son so you can feed mother, Dorothy, tried to see the baby. But he was gone.

Rene cried for an hour.

A new family in New York

After her son was born, Rene moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., to live with an aunt.

Soon, a young NYPD cop named Claudie Strickland began coming around. He, too, was Native American and had grown up in Clinton, N.C., 40 miles east of Fayetteville.

The attraction was instant. At Christmas 1969, Claudie drove Rene home to Ahoskie. Before leaving for Clinton, he asked Rene's father for permission to marry her.

"My mother asked if Claudie knew (about the baby)," Rene said. "I assured her that he did. She said, 'OK, then everything will be fine.'"

They married in January 1970. Three years later, son Billy was born, and in 1976, they had a second son, Jason.

They settled on Staten Island, as Claudie became an intelligence detective assigned to guard New York mayors.

stayed at home with their sons. She often thought about the son she gave up and prayed he was with a good family that loved him.

In 1990, son Billy spent his high school senior year in Charlotte with an aunt and uncle. He graduated from Queens College (now University) of Charlotte in 1996.

Four years earlier, Rene, Claudie and Jason had also moved to Charlotte. Claudie had retired. Rene had finished nursing school and began working as a nurse.

All along, neither son knew they had a half-brother.

Finding his birth mother

Harold Jr. had grown closer to Harold Sr. and Jeanette since their revelation, but somewhere he had another mother and father.

After law school in 1996, he took a job as an assistant district attorney in Charlotte. Two years later, he started his own criminal law practice. He got involved in politics and was elected to the Charlotte City Council in 2001, but left after one term to look after his practice. He's been a Mecklenburg County commissioner (he's now vice chair) since 2008.

07, he read that N.C. legislators had eased restrictions on adopted adults finding birth parents, using ion agencies as a go-between.

Harold Jr. applied through Durham County Social Services, and was assigned a "confidential intermediary" from an adoption agency. The law took effect in January 2008. A year later, the intermediary called: She'd found Harold's birth mother.

Her name is Rene.

By law, the intermediary wrote Rene Strickland in Charlotte that the son she'd given up in 1969 wanted to meet her. Was she willing? In early May, Rene and Claudie returned from vacation in California and found the letter in a stack of mail.

That evening, the intermediary called. I am so relieved, Rene told her. Of course I want to meet him. But not until I've told my other two sons.

On Mother's Day 2009, Rene sat Billy and Jason down. Two months earlier, she'd reacted strangely to Billy's news that he and his wife, Tracy, were adopting a baby. Now Rene was crying: "I don't want you to be shocked. Before Dad and I got married, I had a son who I gave up for adoption. I never thought it was important to tell you unless he found us.

"He's found us."

A new brother

Billy and Jason were stunned and excited; they had another brother. But where?

In a letter Harold Jr. was permitted to write and give to the intermediary, they only knew his first name. That he was a lawyer in Charlotte and "involved in the political arena."

At home, Billy Googled: "Harold, lawyer and Charlotte." Among Charlotte lawyers named Harold was Harold Cogdell Jr. Billy opened the Web site for Harold Jr.'s law office and saw his photo.

"Of course," he recalled saying. "He's definitely family."

Billy called Rene, his mother, with the Web site address. "Rene, that's your boy," Claudie told his wife.

Rene agreed: "If I'd ever seen him on the street, I'd have asked him where he was from. He really does look like family."

Billy contacted Harold Jr. by Facebook. He told him he and his family were all in Charlotte. They agreed to meet the next Saturday, May 16, at Tavern on the Tracks, a pub near Harold Jr.'s office. Billy knew the place well. For years, he worked for a title insurance company in a building across South Boulevard from Harold Jr.'s office.

Billy arrived first, then Harold Jr. They embraced. After an hour, Billy asked if it'd be OK for Jason to stop by.

Of course, Harold Jr. said. I'd love to meet him.

Jason arrived, Billy said: Harold, I don't want to pile on, but would you like to meet our mother?

Oh, yes, of course - absolutely, he said, beaming.

Well, she's at my house now, Billy said. The whole family's there. They all want to meet you.

:hree caravanned to Billy's house near Park Road Shopping Center. Harold Jr. swept Rene into a bear They cried, and couldn't stop staring at each other.

They started catching up. She asked Harold Jr. where he lived. On The Plaza. Goodness, she said, she'd been riding by his house for years on her way to work at a pulmonary doctor's office near Presbyterian Hospital.

Jason and his girlfriend, Ronda Ridout, had lived two blocks away.

Soon, Harold Jr. asked Rene: I don't want you to feel uncomfortable. But do you know anything about my father?

Rene said they'd had a brief relationship. He was a law student and left Durham. His name was Frank Turner.

I always remembered his name, she said. Because I hoped that one day you would come looking for it.

A father and 4 more brothers

That night, Harold Jr. Googled: "Frank Turner NCCU and law."

He read that Frank, too, was a politician, a veteran member of the Maryland House of Delegates from Columbia and a college professor at Morgan State University. And he read this: Two months earlier, Frank ıeen in intensive care with blood clots after kidney stone surgery.

"I couldn't let this chance pass," Harold Jr. said. "If my father didn't want to meet me or have a relationship, that's OK. I had to try. I wasn't looking for anything from him - just trying to discover who I am."

Four days after he met his birth mother and the rest of the Stricklands, Harold Jr. drove to Maryland. He found Frank in his front yard pulling weeds on his knees.

Harold Jr. introduced himself and told Frank he had something important to tell him. Frank invited him up to the front porch.

"Does the name Rene Melton mean anything to you?" he recalled asking.

Initially, it didn't.

"Well, I was adopted and I just learned that she's my birth mother. I was born in 1969 in Durham, North Carolina. And she tells me you're my birth father," Harold Jr. said.

Frank pulled on his chin, then quietly said: "I didn't know ..." He paused, and continued: "You know, I've always wanted a basketball team."

Harold Jr. looked at him, befuddled. "I've already got four sons," Frank explained. "Now I've got five."

..., who'd been raised in Raleigh and finished his law degree at N.C. Central, told him he'd written the Maryland law that loosened restrictions on adult adoptees finding birth parents. He'd sent it to law school buddies in the N.C. legislature. Harold Jr. wondered to himself: So I could find you?

idn't know Frank had been adopted, too. Frank had tried to find his own birth parents, but there were too r obstacles.

Welcomed into the family

On Christmas Day, Harold Sr. died at age 85.

Throughout Harold Jr.'s search, his parents had supported him. Rene and Claudie visited the Cogdells, thanking them for raising a fine son.

Frank agreed: "They obviously did a great job raising Harold. That's what you want: Regardless of who raised him, the main thing is he turned out to be a good person, a good citizen."

On the day of Harold Sr.'s funeral, Rene, Claudie and the rest of the Stricklands drove up for the noon service at Kinston's St. Augustus AME Zion Church. A simple family tree had suddenly sprouted many branches - Harold Jr., who'd grown up an only child, had two mothers, his birth father, six brothers, a stepfather and stepmother.

"His parents welcomed us all into their family. They are lovely people," Rene said. "I am so happy Harold found us.

"Deep in my heart, I knew that one day I'd look up and he'd be at the door."

amily comes together

It was a crystallizing moment for Harold Jr. He'd been able to lean on the Stricklands' support during Harold Sr.'s illness. But at the funeral, he was deeply touched when he saw all of them sitting in the church - family helping him and his adoptive mother, Jeanette, through their most trying moment.

Reflecting on the months since he found Rene and Frank and their families, Harold Jr. said he's the same man with a "broader perspective on the world."

He cherishes his African-American family and traditions - and now his Native American heritage as well.

"I don't think I ever longed to change the way I saw the world. ... It was more of a desire to connect to biological parents - people who shared the same bloodline and had the same mannerisms and physical features. ... It gives me some real interesting perspectives on who I am.

"I do know this: The Christmas present list just got longer."

HOUSE BILL 1753:
School Bus Railroad Crossing Exception

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 21, 2010
Introduced by:	Reps. Underhill, Wainwright	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	First Edition

SUMMARY: House Bill 1753 is a local bill that would allow school buses and activity buses in Craven County to cross certain railroad crossings without first stopping, provided the crossings meet specific criteria.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to S1377, as introduced by Sen. Preston, which is currently in Senate Education/Higher Education.]

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 20-142.3(b) requires that school buses and activity buses must stop at:

- Railroad tracks used exclusively for industrial switching purposes within a business district
- Railroad grade crossings where a police officer or crossing flagman directs traffic to proceed
- Railroad grade crossings protected by a gate or flashing signal when the signal does not indicate an approaching train
- Abandoned railroad crossings marked with a sign
- An industrial or spur line railroad grade crossing marked with a sign reading "Exempt" erected by or with the consent of the appropriate State or local authority.

A violation of this section is an infraction with a penalty of not more than $100.

BILL ANALYSIS: The bill would allow a school bus or activity bus to cross a railroad grade crossing without first stopping if (1) the crossing is marked with an "Exempt" sign erected by or with the consent of a State or local authority and (2) the railroad tracks leading to and from the railroad grade crossing are gated closed at all times when a train is not passing over the crossing.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would be effective when it becomes law and applies only to Craven County.

BACKGROUND: The only gated railroad crossing marked "Exempt" in Craven County is located on U.S. Highway 70 in James City, just southeast of the interchange of U.S. Highway 70 and U.S. Highway 17. The Craven County Board of Commissioners, the Craven County Board of Education, and the Highway Patrol are in support of the proposed legislation.

Note: railroad spur line parallels W Maple Street on west side of US 70 and crosses Plum Street on east side of US 70

The possibility of a train/bus collision at this gated and locked spur line crossing is almost impossible. Train personnel leave the train and unlock and open the west side gate then cross US 70 (seven lines of traffic) to unlock and open the east side gates.

NC DOT has been very cooperative in trying to make motorists "aware of the school/activity bus exception" to the "exempt" status of this railroad crossing. This area is so congested with merging and exiting traffic that some motorists fail to realize a school/activity bus is stopped in the flow of three plus lanes of traffic. NOTE: I do not think that flashing lights on a sign will stop an inattentive motorist or a motorist attempting to change lanes in order to avoid being behind a school/activity bus.

HOUSE BILL 144:
No Set Fee/Noncovered Dental Srvcs

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 28, 2010
Introduced by:	Reps. Farmer-Butterfield, Pierce, Bordsen, Mobley	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Third Edition H144-CSRC-75

SUMMARY: House Bill 144 would prohibit agreements between a dentist and an insurer or an entity that writes stand alone dental insurance that limit fees for dental services unless the services are reimbursed as covered services under the contract. The Proposed Committee Substitute adds a definition of 'covered services'.

The act is effective when it becomes law and applies to contracts between dentists and plans delivered, amended or renewed on or after that date.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 would enact G.S. 58-50-290 to prohibit fee limitations in agreements between a dentist and an insurer or between a dentist and an entity that writes stand alone dental insurance for the provision of dental services on a preferred or in-network basis unless the service in question is covered service under the contract.

A "covered service" is defined as services for which reimbursement is available under an insurer's policy, without regard to contractual limitations by a deductible, co-payment or other limitation.

Section 2 provides that the prohibition contained in new G.S. 58-50-290 applies to dental service corporations.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law and applies to contracts between dentists and health benefit plans or insurers delivered, amended, or renewed on or after that date.

March 30, 2009

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE LAWS GOVERNING THE CONDITIONS OF PROBATION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 15A-1343(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Regular Conditions. – As regular conditions of probation, a defendant must:

(1) Commit no criminal offense in any jurisdiction.

(2) Remain within the jurisdiction of the court unless granted written permission to leave by the court or his probation officer.

(3) Report as directed by the court or his probation officer to the officer at reasonable times and places and in a reasonable manner, permit the officer to visit him at reasonable times, answer all reasonable inquiries by the officer and obtain prior approval from the officer for, and notify the officer of, any change in address or employment.

(4) Satisfy child support and other family obligations as required by the court. If the court requires the payment of child support, the amount of the payments shall be determined as provided in G.S. 50-13.4(c).

(5) Possess no firearm, explosive device or other deadly weapon listed in G.S. 14-269 without the written permission of the court.

(6) Pay a supervision fee as specified in subsection (c1).

(7) Remain gainfully and suitably employed or faithfully pursue a course of study or of vocational training that will equip him for suitable employment. A defendant pursuing a course of study or of vocational training shall abide by all of the rules of the institution providing the education or training, and the probation officer shall forward a copy of the probation judgment to that institution and request to be notified of any violations of institutional rules by the defendant.

(8) Notify the probation officer if he fails to obtain or retain satisfactory employment.

(9) Pay the costs of court, any fine ordered by the court, and make restitution or reparation as provided in subsection (d).

(10) Pay the State of North Carolina for the costs of appointed counsel, public defender, or appellate defender to represent him in the case(s) for which he was placed on probation.

~~(11) At a time to be designated by his probation officer, visit with his probation officer a facility maintained by the Division of Prisons.~~

(12) Attend and complete an abuser treatment program if (i) the court finds the defendant is responsible for acts of domestic violence and (ii) there is a program, approved by the Domestic Violence Commission, reasonably available to the defendant, unless the court finds that such would not be in the best interests of justice.

(13) Submit at reasonable times to warrantless searches by a probation officer of his or her person and of his or her vehicle and premises while the probationer is present, for purposes specified by the court and reasonably related to his or her probation supervision, but the probationer may not be required to submit to any other search that would otherwise be unlawful. Whenever the warrantless search consists of testing for the presence of illegal drugs, the probationer may also be required to reimburse the Department of Correction for the actual cost of drug screening and drug testing, if the results are positive.

(14) Not use, possess, or control any illegal drug or controlled substance unless it has been prescribed for him or her by a licensed physician and is in the original container with the prescription number affixed on it; not knowingly associate with any known or previously convicted users, possessors, or sellers of any such illegal drugs or controlled substances; and not knowingly be present at or frequent any place where such illegal drugs or controlled substances are sold, kept, or used.

A defendant shall not pay costs associated with a substance abuse monitoring program or any other special condition of probation in lieu of, or prior to, the payments required by this subsection.

In addition to these regular conditions of probation, a defendant required to serve an active term of imprisonment as a condition of special probation pursuant to G.S. 15A-1344(e) or G.S. 15A-1351(a) shall, as additional regular conditions of probation, obey the rules and regulations of the Department of Correction governing the conduct of inmates while imprisoned and report to a probation officer in the State of North Carolina within 72 hours of his discharge from the active term of imprisonment.

Regular conditions of probation apply to each defendant placed on supervised probation unless the presiding judge specifically exempts the defendant from one or more of the conditions in open court and in the judgment of the court. It is not necessary for the presiding judge to state each regular condition of probation in open court, but the conditions must be set forth in the judgment of the court.

Defendants placed on unsupervised probation are subject to the provisions of this subsection, except that defendants placed on unsupervised probation are not subject to the regular conditions contained in subdivisions (2), (3), (6), (8), and (11)."

SECTION 2. G.S. 15A-1343(b1) reads as rewritten:

"(b1) Special Conditions. – In addition to the regular conditions of probation specified in subsection (b), the court may, as a condition of probation, require that during the probation the defendant comply with one or more of the following special conditions:

(1) Undergo available medical or psychiatric treatment and remain in a specified institution if required for that purpose.

(2) Attend or reside in a facility providing rehabilitation, counseling, treatment, social skills, or employment training, instruction, recreation, or residence for persons on probation.

(2a) Repealed by Session Laws 2002, ch. 126, s. 17.18, effective August 15, 2002.

(2b) Participate in and successfully complete a Drug Treatment Court Program pursuant to Article 62 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes.

(3) Submit to imprisonment required for special probation under G.S. 15A-1351(a) or G.S. 15A-1344(e).

(3a) Repealed by Session Laws 1997-57, s. 3.

(a) Financial Interests Restricted. – No person shall be appointed to or employed by the Commission, a local board, or the ALE Division if that person or a member of that person's family related to that person by blood or marriage to the first degree has or controls, directly or indirectly, a financial interest in any commercial alcoholic beverage enterprise, including any business required to have an ABC permit. The Commission may exempt from this provision any person, other than a Commission member, when the financial interest in question is so insignificant or remote that it is unlikely to affect the person's official actions in any way. Exemptions may be granted only to individuals, not to groups or classes of people, and each exemption shall be in writing, be available for public inspection, and contain a statement of the financial interest in question.

(b) Self-dealing. – The provisions of G.S. 14-234 shall apply to the Commission and local boards.

(c) Dealing for Family Members. – Neither the Commission nor any local board shall contract or otherwise deal in any business matter so that a member, member's spouse or any person related to ~~him~~ the member by blood to a degree of first cousin or closer in any way financially benefits, directly or indirectly, from the transaction unless:

(1) The member who financially benefits from the transaction or whose spouse or relative financially benefits from the transaction abstains from participating in any way, including voting, in the decision;

(3) The next annual audit of the Commission or local board specifically notes the member and the amount involved in each transaction occurring during the year covered by the audit; and

(4) If the transaction is by a local board, the Commission is notified at least two weeks before final board approval of the transaction.

(d) Gifts Generally. – The provisions of G.S. 133-32 shall apply to the Commission and local boards.

(e) Conflicts of Interest for the Commission. – The provisions of Article 4 of Chapter 138A of the General Statutes shall apply to the Commission.

(f) Conflicts of Interest for Local Boards. – Except as permitted under subsection (h) of this section, a local ABC board member shall not knowingly use the local ABC board member's position on the board in any way that will result in financial benefit to the local ABC board member, the local ABC board member's spouse, any person related to the local ABC board member by blood to a degree of first cousin or closer, or any business with which the local ABC board member is associated.

(g) For purposes of subsection (f) of this section, 'business with which associated' shall have the same meaning as in G.S. 138A-3(3). For purposes of this section, 'financial benefit' shall mean a direct pecuniary gain or loss, or a direct pecuniary loss to a business competitor.

(h) Notwithstanding subsection (f) of this section, a local ABC board member may participate in an action of the local ABC board under any of the following circumstances except as specifically limited:

(1) The financial benefit that accrues to the local ABC board member, the local ABC board member's spouse or any person related to the local ABC board member by blood to a degree of first cousin or closer, or a business with which the local ABC board member is associated is one that is accrued as a member of a profession, occupation, or general class and is no greater than that which could reasonably be foreseen to accrue to all members of that profession, occupation, or general class.

(2) The financial benefit derived by a local ABC board member, the local ABC board member's spouse or any person related to the local ABC board member by blood to a degree of first cousin or closer, or a business with which the local ABC board member is associated is one that would be enjoyed to an extent no greater than that which other citizens of the State would or could enjoy.

(3) The financial benefit derived by a local ABC board member, the local ABC board member's spouse or any person related to the local ABC board member by blood to a degree of first cousin or closer, or a business with which the local ABC board member is so remote, tenuous, insignificant, or speculative that a reasonable person would conclude under the circumstances that the local ABC board member's ability to protect the public interest and perform the local ABC board member's duties would not be compromised.

(4) When an action affects or would affect the local ABC board member's compensation as a local ABC board member.

(5) Before the local ABC board member participated in the action, the board member requested and received from the ABC Commission a written advisory opinion that authorized the participation. In authorizing the participation under this subdivision, the ABC Commission shall consider the need for the local ABC board member's particular contribution, such as special knowledge of the subject matter and the effective functioning of the local ABC board.

(6) When action is ministerial only and does not require the exercise of discretion.

(7) When the local ABC board records in its minutes that it cannot obtain a quorum in order to take the action because the local ABC board member is disqualified from acting, the local ABC board member may be counted for purposes of a quorum but shall otherwise abstain from taking any further action.

Conviction of a crime under this Chapter or of any felony shall also be grounds for the Commission to remove from office or discharge from employment any local board member or employee. In addition to imposing any other penalty authorized by law, a judge may prohibit an individual convicted of a violation of this Chapter, or of any felony, from participating in any contract to enforce the ABC laws for a local board if that individual is a designated officer of an agency which holds a contract to enforce the ABC laws for a local board. A judge may also prohibit an individual convicted of a violation of this Chapter, or of any felony, from being designated as an officer that enforces the ABC law under a contract with any local board for a period of not longer than three years."

An agency contracted to provide ABC law enforcement shall designate no more than five officers to conduct inspections pursuant to this section and G.S. 18B-502. If a city located in two or more counties approves the sale of some type of alcoholic beverage pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 18B-600(e4), and there are no local ABC boards established in the city and one of the counties in which the city is located, the local ABC board of any county in which the city is located may enter into an enforcement agreement with the city's police department for enforcement of the ABC laws within the entire city, including that portion of the city located in the county of the ABC board entering into the enforcement agreement."

"§ 18B-702. Financial operations of local boards.

(a) Generally. – A local board may transact business as a corporate body, except as limited by this section. A local board shall not be considered a public authority under G.S. 159-7(b)(10).

(b) Budget Officer. – The general manager of the local board shall be the budget officer for the local board. In the absence of a general manager, a local board may impose the duties of budget officer on the chairman or any member of the local board or any other employee of the board.

(c) Annual Balanced Budget. – Each local board shall operate under an annual balanced budget administered in accordance with this section. A budget is balanced when the sum of estimated gross revenues and both restricted and unrestricted funds are equal to appropriations. Expenditures shall not exceed the amount of funds received or in reserve for the purpose to which the funds are appropriated. It is the intent of this section that all monies received and expended by a local board should be included in the budget. Therefore, notwithstanding any other provision of law, no local board may expend any monies, regardless of their source, except in accordance with a budget adopted under this section. The budget of a local board shall cover a fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30.

(d) Preparation and Submission of Budget and Budget Message. – Upon receipt of the budget requests and revenue estimates and the financial information supplied by the finance officer, the budget officer shall prepare a budget for consideration by the local board in such form and detail as may have been prescribed by the budget officer or the local board. The budget, together with a budget message, shall be submitted to the local board, the appointing authority, and the Commission not later than June 1. The budget and budget message should, but need not, be submitted at a formal meeting of the board. The budget message should contain a concise explanation of the goals fixed by the budget for the budget year, explain important features of the activities anticipated in the budget, set forth the reasons for stated changes from the previous year in appropriation levels, and explain any major changes in fiscal policy.

(e) Filing and Publication of the Budget. – On the same day the budget officer submits the budget to the local board, the budget officer shall make a copy for public inspection, and it shall remain available for public inspection until the budget is adopted. The budget officer shall make a copy of the budget available to all news media in the county. The budget officer shall also publish a statement that the budget has been submitted to the local board and is available for public inspection in the office of the general manager of the local board. The statement shall also give notice of the time and place of the budget hearing required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Budget Hearings. – Before adopting the budget, the board shall hold a public hearing at which time any persons who wish to be heard on the budget may appear.

(g) Adoption of Budget. – Not earlier than 10 days after the day the budget is presented to the board and not later than July 1, the local board shall adopt a budget making appropriations for the budget year in such sums as the board may consider sufficient and proper, whether greater or less than the sums recommended in the budget. The budget shall authorize all financial transactions of the local board. The budget may be in any form that the board considers most efficient in enabling it to make the fiscal policy decisions embodied therein, but it shall make appropriations by department, function, or project and show revenues by major source. The following directions and limitations shall bind the local board in adopting the budget:

(1) The full amount estimated by the finance officer to be required for debt service during the budget year shall be appropriated.

(2) The full amount of any deficit in each fund shall be appropriated.

(3) Working capital funds set aside pursuant to G.S. 18B-805 shall be established by rule of the Commission. "Working capital" means the total of cash, investments, and inventory less all unsecured liabilities. Gross sales means gross receipts from the sale of alcoholic beverages less distributions as defined in G.S. 18B-805(b)(2), (3), (4), and (5). Any expenditure to be charged against working capital funds shall be authorized by resolution of the local board, which resolution shall be deemed an amendment to the budget setting up an appropriation for the object of expenditure authorized. The local board may authorize the budget officer to authorize expenditures from working capital funds subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such expenditure shall be deemed an amendment and reported to the board at its next regular meeting and recorded in the minutes.

(4) Estimated revenues shall include only those revenues reasonably expected to be realized in the budget year.

(5) Sufficient funds to meet the amounts to be paid during the fiscal year under continuing contracts previously entered into shall be appropriated unless such contract reserves to the local board the right to limit or not to make such appropriation.

(6) The sum of estimated net revenues and appropriated fund balance in each fund shall be equal to appropriations in that fund. Appropriated fund balance in a fund shall not exceed the sum of cash and investments minus the sum of liabilities, encumbrances, and deferred revenues arising from cash receipts, as those figures stand at the close of the fiscal year next preceding the budget year.

The budget shall be entered in the minutes of the local board and within five days after adoption, and copies thereof shall be filed with the finance officer, the budget officer, the appointing authority, and the Commission.

(h) Amendments to the Budget. – Except as otherwise restricted by law, the local board may amend the budget at any time after adoption, in any manner, so long as the budget, as amended, continues to satisfy the requirements of this section. The local board by appropriate resolution may authorize the budget officer to transfer monies from one appropriation to another within the same fund subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such transfers shall be reported to the local board at its next regular meeting and shall be entered in the minutes. Amendments to the adopted budget shall also be provided to the appointing authority and the Commission.

(i) Interim Budget. – In case the adoption of the budget is delayed until after July 1, the local board shall make interim appropriations for the purpose of paying salaries, debt service payments, and the usual ordinary expenses of the local board for the interval between the beginning of the budget year and the adoption of the budget. Interim appropriations so made shall be charged to the proper appropriations in the adopted budget.

(j) Finance Officer. – Except as otherwise provided, the local board shall designate (i) a part-time or full-time employee of the board other than the general manager or (ii) the finance officer of the appointing authority with consent of the appointing authority to be the finance officer for the local board. The Commission, for good cause shown, may allow the general manager of a board also to be the finance officer. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, the fact that the board operates no more than two stores, and any approval for the general manager also to be the finance officer shall apply until the board operates more than two stores; in any event, the approval shall be effective for 36 months.

(k) Duties and Powers of the Finance Officer. – The finance officer for a local board shall:

(1) Keep the accounts of the local board in accordance with generally accepted principles of governmental accounting and the rules and regulations of the Commission.

(2) Disburse all funds of the local board in strict compliance with this Chapter, the budget, and preaudit obligations, and disbursements as required by this section.

(3) As often as may be requested by the local board or the general manager, prepare and file with the board a statement of the financial condition of the local board.

The system shall also be designed to show appropriations and estimated revenues as established in the budget originally adopted and subsequently amended.

(m) Incurring Obligations. – No obligation may be incurred in a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget unless the budget includes an appropriation authorizing the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay in the current fiscal year the sums obligated by the transaction for the current fiscal year. No obligation may be incurred for a capital project unless the budget authorizes the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the sums obligated by the transaction. If an obligation is evidenced by a contract or agreement requiring the payment of money or by a purchase order for supplies and materials, the contract, agreement, or purchase order shall include on its face a certificate stating that the instrument has been preaudited to assure compliance with this subsection. The certificate, which shall be signed by the finance officer or any deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board, shall take substantially the following form:

The local board shall approve payment by formal resolution stating the board's reasons for allowing the bill, invoice, or other claim. The resolution shall be entered in the minutes together with the names of those voting in the affirmative. The chairman of the board or some other member designated for this purpose shall sign the certificate on the check or draft given in payment of the bill, invoice, or other claim. If payment results in a violation of law, each member of the board voting to allow payment is jointly and severally liable for the full amount of the check or draft given in payment.

The Commission may also adopt any other rules concerning the financial operations of local boards which are needed to assure the proper accountability of public funds. The Commission may vary these rules and regulations according to any other criteria reasonably related to the purpose or complexity of the financial operations involved. The Commission has the authority to inquire into and investigate the internal control procedures of a local board and may require any modifications in internal control procedures which, in the opinion of the Commission, are necessary or desirable to prevent embezzlements or mishandling of public monies.

(v) Penalties. – If a board member or employee of a local board incurs an obligation or pays out or causes to be paid out any funds in violation of this section, the member or employee and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums so committed or disbursed. (c) Cause for Removal. – (i) Disqualification of a local board member or employee under the law, (ii) a violation of the ABC laws, (iii) failure to complete training required by this Chapter or the Commission, or (iv) engaging in any conduct constituting moral turpitude or which brings the local board or the ABC system into disrepute is cause for the Commission to remove any member or employee of a local board. At the hearing, the employee or the employee's counsel may examine all evidence used against the employee and present evidence in the employee's own behalf. A removal hearing is not subject to the provisions of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. All hearings shall be conducted informally and in such manner as to preserve the substantial rights of the parties.

The sole remedy for a local board member or employee shall be the reinstatement of the board member or employee to the local board with back pay. All awards for back pay shall be paid by the local board from which the board member or employee was removed.

(i) Removal Hearing Not a Substitute for Termination of Employee. – Nothing in this section replaces or is intended to replace a local board's policy regarding the termination of an employee for personnel reasons. The local appointing authority, in consultation with the Commission and upon good cause shown, may allow up to an additional six-month period of time for the local board to meet all requirements in the performance improvement plan and to establish that the performance standards established by the Commission are met.

(c) Remedies. – If the Commission determines that the established performance standards identified in the statement of findings cannot be met after a performance improvement plan has been implemented and adequate time has been given, but in no case less than 12 months, the Commission shall take appropriate action to avoid insolvency. This action may include closing the board pursuant to G.S. 18B-801(d), closing a store or multiple stores, or merging the local board with another local board in order to maintain solvency. The Commission may also seize the assets of the local board and liquidate any assets necessary to satisfy any debt in order to maintain the solvency of the local board. Prior to taking action

(e) Conflicts of Interest for the Commission. – The provisions of Article 4 of Chapter 138A of the General Statutes shall apply to the Commission.

(4) When an action affects or would affect the local ABC board member's compensation as a local ABC board member.

(5) Before the local ABC board member participated in the action, the board member requested and received from the ABC Commission a written advisory opinion that authorized the participation. In authorizing the participation under this subdivision, the ABC Commission shall consider the need for the local ABC board member's particular contribution, such as special knowledge of the subject matter and the effective functioning of the local ABC board.

(a) Generally. – A local board may transact business as a corporate body, except as limited by this section. A local board shall not be considered a public authority under G.S. 159-7(b)(10).

(b) Budget Officer. – The general manager of the local board shall be the budget officer for the local board. In the absence of a general manager, a local board may impose the duties of budget officer on the chairman or any member of the local board or any other employee of the board.

(c) Annual Balanced Budget. – Each local board shall operate under an annual balanced budget administered in accordance with this section. A budget is balanced when the sum of estimated gross revenues and both restricted and unrestricted funds are equal to appropriations. Expenditures shall not exceed the amount of funds received or in reserve for the purpose to which the funds are appropriated. It is the intent of this section that all monies received and expended by a local board should be included in the budget. Therefore, notwithstanding any other provision of law, no local board may expend any monies, regardless of their source, except in accordance with a budget adopted under this section. The budget of a local board shall cover a fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30.

(d) Preparation and Submission of Budget and Budget Message. – Upon receipt of the budget requests and revenue estimates and the financial information supplied by the finance officer, the budget officer shall prepare a budget for consideration by the local board in such form and detail as may have been prescribed by the budget officer or the local board. The budget, together with a budget message, shall be submitted to the local board, the appointing authority, and the Commission not later than June 1. The budget and budget message should, but need not, be submitted at a formal meeting of the board. The budget message should contain a concise explanation of the goals fixed by the budget for the budget year, explain important features of the activities anticipated in the budget, set forth the reasons for stated changes from the previous year in appropriation levels, and explain any major changes in fiscal policy.

(e) Filing and Publication of the Budget. – On the same day the budget officer submits the budget to the local board, the budget officer shall make a copy for public inspection, and it shall remain available for public inspection until the budget is adopted. The budget officer shall make a copy of the budget available to all news media in the county. The budget officer shall also publish a statement that the budget has been submitted to the local board and is available for public inspection in the office of the general manager of the local board. The statement shall also give notice of the time and place of the budget hearing required by subsection (f) of this section.

(f) Budget Hearings. – Before adopting the budget, the board shall hold a public hearing at which time any persons who wish to be heard on the budget may appear.

(g) Adoption of Budget. – Not earlier than 10 days after the day the budget is presented to the board and not later than July 1, the local board shall adopt a budget making appropriations for the budget year in such sums as the board may consider sufficient and proper, whether greater or less than the sums recommended in the budget. The budget shall authorize all financial transactions of the local board. The budget may be in any form that the board considers most efficient in enabling it to make the fiscal policy decisions embodied therein, but it shall make appropriations by department, function, or project and show revenues by major source. The following directions and limitations shall bind the local board in adopting the budget:

(1) The full amount estimated by the finance officer to be required for debt service during the budget year shall be appropriated.

(2) The full amount of any deficit in each fund shall be appropriated.

(3) Working capital funds set aside pursuant to G.S. 18B-805 shall be established by rule of the Commission. Gross sales means gross receipts from the sale of alcoholic beverages less distributions as defined in G.S. 18B-805(b)(2), (3), (4), and (5). Any expenditure to be charged against working capital funds shall be authorized by resolution of the local board, which resolution shall be deemed an amendment to the budget setting up an appropriation for the object of expenditure authorized. The local board may authorize the budget officer to authorize expenditures from working capital funds subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such expenditure shall be deemed an amendment and reported to the board at its next regular meeting and recorded in the minutes.

(4) Estimated revenues shall include only those revenues reasonably expected to be realized in the budget year.

(5) Sufficient funds to meet the amounts to be paid during the fiscal year under continuing contracts previously entered into shall be appropriated unless such contract reserves to the local board the right to limit or not to make such appropriation.

(6) The sum of estimated net revenues and appropriated fund balance in each fund shall be equal to appropriations in that fund. Appropriated fund balance in a fund shall not exceed the sum of cash and investments minus the sum of liabilities, encumbrances, and deferred revenues arising from cash receipts, as those figures stand at the close of the fiscal year next preceding the budget year.

The budget shall be entered in the minutes of the local board and within five days after adoption, and copies thereof shall be filed with the finance officer, the budget officer, the appointing authority, and the Commission.

(h) Amendments to the Budget. – Except as otherwise restricted by law, the local board may amend the budget at any time after adoption, in any manner, so long as the budget, as amended, continues to satisfy the requirements of this section. The local board by appropriate resolution may authorize the budget officer to transfer monies from one appropriation to another within the same fund subject to such limitations and procedures as it may prescribe. Any such transfers shall be reported to the local board at its next regular meeting and shall be entered in the minutes. Amendments to the adopted budget shall also be provided to the appointing authority and the Commission.

(i) Interim Budget. – In case the adoption of the budget is delayed until after July 1, the local board shall make interim appropriations for the purpose of paying salaries, debt service payments, and the usual ordinary expenses of the local board for the interval between the beginning of the budget year and the adoption of the budget. Interim appropriations so made shall be charged to the proper appropriations in the adopted budget.

(j) Finance Officer. – Except as otherwise provided, the local board shall designate (i) a part-time or full-time employee of the board other than the general manager or (ii) the finance officer of the appointing authority with consent of the appointing authority to be the finance officer for the local board. The Commission, for good cause shown, may allow the general manager of a board also to be the finance officer. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, the fact that the board operates no more than two stores, and any approval for the general manager also to be the finance officer shall apply until the board operates more than two stores; in any event, the approval shall be effective for 36 months.

(k) Duties and Powers of the Finance Officer. – The finance officer for a local board shall:

(1) Keep the accounts of the local board in accordance with generally accepted principles of governmental accounting and the rules and regulations of the Commission.

(2) Disburse all funds of the local board in strict compliance with this Chapter, the budget, and preaudit obligations, and disbursements as required by this section.

(3) As often as may be requested by the local board or the general manager, prepare and file with the board a statement of the financial condition of the local board.

The finance officer shall perform such other duties as may be assigned by law, by the general manager, budget officer, or local board, or by rules and regulations of the Commission.

(l) Accounting System. – Each local board shall establish and maintain an accounting system designed to show in detail its assets, liabilities, equities, revenues, and expenditures. The system shall also be designed to show appropriations and estimated revenues as established in the budget originally adopted and subsequently amended.

(m) Incurring Obligations. – No obligation may be incurred in a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget unless the budget includes an appropriation authorizing the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay in the current fiscal year the sums obligated by the transaction for the current fiscal year. No obligation may be incurred for a capital project unless the budget authorizes the obligation and an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the sums obligated by the transaction. If an obligation is evidenced by a contract or agreement requiring the payment of money or by a purchase order for supplies and materials, the contract, agreement, or purchase order shall include on its face a certificate stating that the instrument has been preaudited to assure compliance with this subsection. The certificate, which shall be signed by the finance officer or any deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board, shall take substantially the following form:

"This instrument has been preaudited in the manner required by G.S. 18B-702.

(Signature of finance officer)."

An obligation incurred in violation of this subsection is invalid and may not be enforced. The finance officer shall establish procedures to assure compliance with this subsection.

(n) Disbursements. – When a bill, invoice, or other claim against a local board is presented, the finance officer shall either approve or disapprove the necessary disbursement. If the claim involves a program, function, or activity accounted for in a fund included in the budget or a capital project or a grant project authorized by the budget, the finance officer may approve the claim only if:

(1) The finance officer determines the amount to be payable; and

(2) The budget includes an appropriation authorizing the expenditure and either (i) an encumbrance has been previously created for the transaction or (ii) an unencumbered balance remains in the appropriation sufficient to pay the amount to be disbursed.

A bill, invoice, or other claim may not be paid unless it has been approved by the finance officer or, under subsection (o) of this section, by the local board. The finance officer shall establish procedures to assure compliance with this subsection.

(o) Local Board Approval of Bills, Invoices, or Claims. – The local board may, as permitted by this subsection, approve a bill, invoice, or other claim against the local board that has been disapproved by the finance officer. It may not approve a claim for which no appropriation appears in the budget, or for which the appropriation contains no encumbrance and the unencumbered balance is less than the amount to be paid. The local board shall approve payment by formal resolution stating the board's reasons for allowing the bill, invoice, or other claim. The resolution shall be entered in the minutes together with the names of those voting in the affirmative. The chairman of the board or some other member designated for this purpose shall sign the certificate on the check or draft given in payment of the bill, invoice, or other claim. If payment results in a violation of law, each member of the board voting to allow payment is jointly and severally liable for the full amount of the check or draft given in payment.

(p) Checks or Drafts Signed by Finance Officer. – Except as otherwise provided by law, all checks or drafts on an official depository shall be signed by the finance officer or a properly designated deputy finance officer. The chairman of the local board or general manager of the local board shall countersign these checks and drafts. The Commission may waive the requirements of this subsection if the board determines that the internal control procedures of the unit or authority will be satisfactory in the absence of dual signatures.

(q) Payment of a Bill, Invoice, Salary, or Claim. – A local board may not pay a bill, invoice, salary, or other claim except by a check or draft on an official depository or by a bank wire transfer from an official depository. Except as provided in this subsection, each check or draft on an official depository shall bear on its face a certificate signed by the finance officer or a deputy finance officer approved for this purpose by the local board (or signed by the chairman or some other member of the board pursuant to subsection (o) of this section). The certificate shall take substantially the following form:

"This disbursement has been approved in the manner required by G.S. 18B-702.

(Signature of finance officer)."

No certificate is required on payroll checks or drafts on an imprest account in an official depository if the check or draft depositing the funds in the imprest account carried a signed certificate. No certificate is required for expenditures of fifty dollars ($50.00) or less from a petty cash fund, provided the expenditure is accounted for by a receipt for the expended item.

~~(b)~~(r) Borrowing Money. – A local board may borrow money only for the purchase of land, buildings, equipment and stock needed for the operation of its ABC system. A local board may pledge a security interest in any real or personal property it owns other than alcoholic beverages. A city or county whose governing body appoints a local board shall not in any way be held responsible for the debts of that board.

~~(c)~~(s) Audits. – A local board shall submit to the appointing authority and Commission an annual independent audit of its operations, performed in accordance with generally accepted accounting standards and in compliance with a chart of accounts prescribed by the Commission. The audit report shall contain a summary of the requirements of this Chapter, or of any local act applicable to that local board, concerning the distribution of profits of that board and a description of how those distributions have been made, including the names of recipients of the profits and the activities for which the funds were distributed. A local board may invest all or part of the cash balance of any fund as provided in G.S. 159-30(c) and (d), and may deposit any portion of those funds for investment with the State Treasurer in the same manner as State boards and commissions under G.S. 147-69.3.

of working capital, investments, appointment of a budget officer, appointment of a financial officer, daily deposit of funds, bonding of employees, auditing of operations, and the schedule, manner and other procedures for distribution of profits. The Commission may also adopt any other rules concerning the financial operations of local boards which are needed to assure the proper accountability of public funds. The Commission may vary these rules and regulations according to any other criteria reasonably related to the purpose or complexity of the financial operations involved. The Commission has the authority to inquire into and investigate the internal control procedures of a local board and may require any modifications in internal control procedures which, in the opinion of the Commission, are necessary or desirable to prevent embezzlements or mishandling of public monies.

(v) Penalties. – If a board member or employee of a local board incurs an obligation or pays out or causes to be paid out any funds in violation of this section, the member or employee and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums so committed or disbursed. If the finance officer or any properly designated deputy finance officer gives a false certificate to any contract, agreement, purchase order, check, draft, or other document, the finance officer and the sureties on the official bond are liable for any sums illegally committed or disbursed thereby.

At the hearing, the employee or the employee's counsel may examine all evidence used against the employee and present evidence in the employee's own behalf. A removal hearing is not subject to the provisions of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. All hearings shall be conducted informally and in such manner as to preserve the substantial rights of the parties.

(h) Appeal. – A local board member or employee may appeal the Commission's final decision to the Court of Appeals. The standard of review for an appeal shall be abuse of discretion. The sole remedy for a local board member or employee shall be the reinstatement of the board member or employee to the local board with back pay. All awards for back pay shall be paid by the local board from which the board member or employee was removed.

(i) Removal Hearing Not a Substitute for Termination of Employee. – Nothing in this section replaces or is intended to replace a local board's policy regarding the termination of an employee for personnel reasons. The appointing authority shall allow up to, but no more than, 12 months' time to the local board to implement and show improvement under the performance improvement plan. The local appointing authority, in consultation with the Commission and upon good cause shown, may allow up to an additional six-month period of time for the local board to meet all requirements in the performance improvement plan and to establish that the performance standards established by the Commission are met.

(c) Remedies. – If the Commission determines that the established performance standards identified in the statement of findings cannot be met after a performance improvement plan has been implemented and adequate time has been given, but in no case less than 12 months, the Commission shall take appropriate action to avoid insolvency. This action may include closing the board pursuant to G.S. 18B-801(d), closing a store or multiple stores, or merging the local board with another local board in order to maintain solvency. Introduced by:	Sen. Hoyle	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith

Analysis of:	Second Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 866 as passed by the House authorizes the retirement by fire of an official flag of the State that is no longer fit for display.

The bill has been referred to Senate Judiciary II Committee for a recommendation on concurrence.

CURRENT LAW: Chapter 144 of the General Statutes establishes the official State flag of North Carolina and requirements for its display in certain public buildings and institutions.

BILL ANALYSIS: The PCS for Senate Bill 866 provides that an official flag of the State that is no longer a fitting emblem for display because it is worn, tattered, or otherwise damaged may be respectfully retired by fire.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The PCS is effective when it becomes law.

BACKGROUND: With regard to the official Flag of the United States of America, 4 U.S.C. § 8(k) (2006) provides that "the flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning." A number of different organizations, including the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Boy Scouts of America, and the Girl Scouts of the USA conduct flag retirement ceremonies.

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 25, 2010
Introduced by:	Sen. Preston	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	PCS to Second Edition S1115-CSRC-74

SUMMARY: SB 1115 is a local act that would authorize principals and their designees in Carteret County public schools to administer oaths or affirmations for student admission. Unless otherwise authorized by law, principals and designees may not administer other oaths.

The PCS corrects a typographical error.

[As introduced, this bill was identical to H1728, as introduced by Rep. McElraft, which is currently in House Judiciary III.]

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 115C-366 addresses the assignment of students to particular schools. That statute requires a parent, guardian, or legal custodian to sign an affidavit or provide a statement made under oath or affirmation under the following circumstances.

Admission of Non-Domiciled Student

Generally, a student must be domiciled in a local school administrative unit (LEA) to attend its public schools, free of tuition. The statute creates certain exceptions permitting a student to attend the public schools of an LEA where the student is not domiciled if a number of conditions apply:

- The student must reside with an adult who is a domiciliary of that unit as a result of one of seven situations related to the parent or legal guardian (i.e. death, illness, incarceration, abandonment, abuse or neglect, physical or mental condition of parent or legal guardian, relinquishment of custody, loss of home, or specified military duty of parent or legal guardian).
- The student must not be under a term of suspension or expulsion that could have led to suspension or expulsion from the LEA.
- The caregiver adult and the student's parent, guardian, or legal custodian must complete and sign separate affidavits that do all of the following:
  - Confirm the qualifications establishing the student's residency.
  - Attest that the student's claim of residency is not primarily related to attendance at a particular school.
  - Attest that the caregiver adult has been given and accepts responsibility for educational decisions for the student.

If the student's parent, guardian, or legal custodian is unable or refuses to sign the affidavit, then the caregiver adult shall attest to that fact in the affidavit.

Upon receipt of the affidavits, the local board shall assign the student to an appropriate school as soon as practicable and pending the verification of eligibility. If the information contained in either or both affidavits is false, then the local board may remove the student from school unless the student is otherwise eligible for school attendance under other laws or local board policy.

If a person willfully and knowingly provided false information in the affidavit, the maker of the affidavit will be guilty of a Class 1 misdemeanor and will pay to the local board an amount equal to the cost of educating the student during the period of enrollment. The affidavits must include, in large print, the penalty for providing false information.

Student Transfer

When a student transfers into the public schools of a local school administrative unit, that local board must require the student's parent, guardian, or legal custodian to provide a statement made under oath or affirmation before a qualified official. The statement indicates whether the student is, at the time, (1) under suspension or expulsion from attendance at a private or public school in any state or (2) has been convicted of a felony in any state. This provision does not apply to the enrollment of a student who has never been enrolled in or attended a private or public school in any state.

Perjury is a Class F felony under G.S. 14-209.

BILL ANALYSIS: SB 1115 authorizes principals and their designees to administer oaths to those persons giving affidavits, statements made under oath, or affirmations under G.S. 115C-366. It also provides that each statement made under oath or affirmation to a principal or the principal's designee must be made under the penalty of perjury. This act applies only to the Carteret County School System.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law.

BACKGROUND: Carteret County has 16 schools. Several of these schools do not have a notary public on staff. On March 3, 2010, the Carteret County Board of Education passed a resolution petitioning the North Carolina General Assembly to allow principals or their designees to administer oaths, statements made under oath, or affirmations in connection with the assignment of students.

Judiciary II Committee Meeting

June 30, 2010

Evening Meeting

The Senate Judiciary II Committee met on the afternoon of June 30, 2010, at 5:30 pm in room 1124 of the Legislative Building with thirteen members of the committee present. Senator Fletcher L. Hartsell, Jr., Chairman, presided.

Senator Hartsell called the meeting to order and explained the purpose.

Senator Hartsell: "This Committee, last year heard a bill entitled The Yadkin River Trust. That bill has actually passed the Senate twice. We have had some problems on the House side, no questions about it. Based upon, in some cases, in my judgment and I think the judgment of anybody who has looked at this, some relatively significant disinformation that has been distributed. Between the long and short Session, some interviews and activities have taken place, largely associated with ascertaining primarily the environmental harm that has been generated in this particular area.. There were other issues associated with it too. It started out as a brief piece, I think and I have not seen it. There have been something like thirty to forty folks interviewed including the lady who you may have heard about whose husband passed away. They have been able to identify PCBs. There are congeners in PCBs. There are 214 different congeners of PCBs all together. There are a number of them which have been specifically identified arising from a plant at Badin. There were some, very specifically identified, in high concentration in this one gentleman. This lady's husband died about a year and a half ago. There is evidence of other significant problems. These interviews relate to all of that. We have been attempting to, frankly, to get this information published. That is not to say that there have not been some efforts but there have been some problems with doing that. As a result, in order to get the public to know, what ever it is, we don't know. I'll be the first to tell you, I don't know what it is. But it has been put together and Ms. Vajda has been very candid about what we know is there. Yesterday, for instance, Erin Brovkovich spoke here in Raleigh in large part about this matter, and that's "kinda" affiliated with some of this. But be that as it may, what this is, the Committee under GS120-19.2 has the opportunity to invite but also authorize the issuance of subpoenas. We hope that we will not need to use the subpoena, but we may, and we have a certain period of time in which to do it. Ms. Vajda is aware that we are seeking to subpoena this information. In order for us to see this documentary evidence at our meeting on Tuesday, it is important for us to authorize the issuance of this today. Hopefully, we can get this voluntarily, to be honest with you. We are not sure we can, because other folks have made efforts to get it and it hasn't been available. The statute says what it says. I defer to Ms. Goldsmith. This has been done on rare occasions before, but it is essential that the Committee, in doing so, there are certain things that we have to do by the numbers and let me defer to Ms. Goldsmith. I might add, ironically, of course, another member of our staff, Ms. McGinnis, staffs the Environmental Committee, chaired by Senator Atwater, and that is her file on this. If you saw my file on this, it's two file drawers long."

Ms. Goldsmith: "Members of the Committee, I did provide to you a copy of the statute referenced by Senator Hartsell, which grants to standing committees of the General Assembly the authority to invite witnesses to appear and testify and subpoena them and if necessary, also to subpoena documents and materials. It does require a majority vote of the Committee. We have eighteen members of the Committee so it would require ten to have a majority. We would record it. We would have a roll call vote so that we could record that having been done. Even though the Committee authorizes the issuance of a subpoena, it would have to be signed either by the President Pro Tem of the Senate or the President of the Senate. So, Senator Basnight or the Lt. Governor would have to sign it before the subpoena itself could be issued. The subpoena can be delivered or served by the General Assembly police and there is a requirement of five days notice to the witness unless waived by the witness."

Senator Hartsell: "I might add that this has already been reviewed with Senator Basnight."

Senator Snow asked if a motion was needed. Senator Hartsell noted that we would need a motion read in each case and we would have to take a roll call vote on each.

Senator Snow was recognized and read the motion to subpoena Eszter Vajda, Journalist with UNC-TV and then read the motion to subpoena Tom Howe, Director and General Manager of UNC-TV.

Senator Hartsell noted that the Committee would have to take separate votes, but first questions of the Committee.

DISCUSSION:

Senator Forrester asked if PCBs had been found in any of the wells around the Alcoa area? Senator Hartsell answered that his awareness was that PCBs had been found in the sediments of Badin Lake. Senator Forrester than asked if the water in Badin Lake is used by people who drink well water? He noted that people swim in it. Senator Hartsell responded that there is presently a fish warning existing on Badin Lake. It was issued by the Department of Environment and Natural Resources ("DENR") a year and a half ago – the Division of Water Quality ("DWQ").

Senator Allran noted that he had served in the General Assembly for thirty years and he didn't remember ever doing this before. His opinion was that instead of making a motion and voting for this, the Committee should take this really seriously. He opined that subpoenaing people is the type of stuff that they do in Washington and that it bothered him. He had never known this to be done before. He thought that if they needed to come in and speak, that the Committee should just ask them or let them and maybe the Committee wouldn't have to subpoena them. His opinion was that this action was a heavy handed, Washingtonian type of thing where we branch out into other things and start investigating people and then have cameras and press in and it will be a big blown up thing and he thought it was not very good.

Senator Berger: As he was late getting to the meeting, he asked that the purpose be summarized again. Senator Hartsell replied that we were simply seeking to get released information that we know exists but had not been able to be released at this point. He also noted that Ms. Vajda is aware of this and frankly wants to release it.

Senator Allran then asked, "why doesn't she?"

Senator Apodaca noted that he had dealt with something similar before and the press needed cover in order to cover certain things.

Senator Berger asked if there was a journalist privilege in North Carolina? Senator Hartsell stated that he was not aware of one.

Senator Allran stated that he thought this should be taken very, very seriously because this sets a precedent and if it is done now it can be done later. He didn't think the members were sent here to subpoena people and do investigations. Senator Hartsell noted that we had also made a request under GS 120-19 for this information and if it was secured then that was fine. That was a separate request. The problem was timing issues and other matters.

Senator Berger asked if folks had observed something on the program and were interested in knowing how UNC-TV got that information? Was there something that had actually been seen in the documentary that would lead to believing that Ms. Vajda had a confidential informant tell her something? Senator Hartsell was unaware of anything of that sort and thought that it was a documentary in the truest sense and that it was interviews, documents discovered, and background information. He knew of no confidential informants involved. He also stated that he had not seen it nor has anyone seen it. It was just known to exist. It has not been shown. Senator Berger asked why and Senator Hartsell noted that was the reason for the Subpoena unless it could be gotten otherwise.

Senator Jones stated that he was in favor of proceeding with this but wanted to know what would happen when it was received. Who would be allowed to see and hear it. Senator Hartsell noted that it was anticipated that it would be shown at our committee meeting on Tuesday, July 6, 2010, in room 643. Senator Hartsell agreed that the proceedings were a serious matter.

Senator Berger posed a scenario of another documentary being available that might sway public opinion in opposition to Alcoa -- Alcoa threatening to sue the TV station if they aired the program -- The committee learns that UNC-TV had the program that Alcoa was threatening a law suit on so the committee comes in with a subpoena so that Alcoa can't sue the station because they had not shown it on the air and the only reason it was being shown was because of the subpoenas. Senator Berger wondered if that was what might be going on. Senator Hartsell noted that it was difficult to prove a negative. He stated that he did not know the rationale. Senator Berger wanted to know if we knew if Alcoa had threatened to sue the station if they aired the documentary? Senator Hartsell stated that he did not know that. He did know that there were snippets that might be available on TV, perhaps, next week; but there would be only portions of it, not all of it.

Senator Jones asked if it would be open to the public or just the members. Senator Hartsell answered that it would be a public meeting.

Senator Dorsett asked if it would be possible to control this and determine whether or not there was a possibility of doing without this. Senator Hartsell stated that was the intent.

Senator Forrester asked what would happen if it couldn't be done next week or couldn't get them here? Senator Hartsell noted that if we had authorization that it could be done next week.

Senator Allran hoped that this would be a last resort type of strategy. He questioned why UNC-TV had not aired a serious documentary on a serious subject and stated that he would like to ask that question of them. Senator Snow thought they could answer that question when they appeared before the committee. Senator Hartsell thought that the committee could do that. Senator Allran wanted to know why we didn't ask them the question first. Senator Hartsell stated that we had. Senator Bingham agreed that they had been asked many, many times. Senator Allran asked if UNC-TV would not give an answer? Senator Hartsell noted that if he answered Senator Allran's question, it would be hearsay. Senator Berger noted that if they were being threatened by Alcoa with a law suit, then the subpoena would give them the same protection as a court order.

Senator Forrester asked if the Lt. Governor and President Pro Tempore were supportive of the subpoenas. Senator Hartsell answered that they were. He also noted that we had had communication with the greater University and their counsel.

Senator Jones asked why, since the General Assembly funds UNC-TV, that the committee couldn't get them here? Senator Hartsell thought that was an extraordinarily interesting and logical question.

Senator Berger stated that Senator Hartsell and others had passionately worked on this issue. Senator Hartsell and the Governor had tried to be protective and had taken on a very powerful engine. Also, Senator Hartsell has been here a very, very long time and he (Senator Berger) would trust the judgment of Senator Hartsell. Therefore, he would support the issue.

Senator Dorsett noted that Senator Hartsell had had strong support from Commerce Secretary Keith Crisco.

Senator Allran noted that he appreciated all of the discussion.

Senator Hartsell then asked if there were any other questions from the committee or audience. There being none he felt that the committee was ready to vote.

ROLL CALL VOTE:

Senator Hartsell noted that Senator Snow had read and moved to issue the subpoenas and that we would take them separately. The first motion was to subpoena Eszter Vajda. The Committee Assistant, Mrs. Johnson, was asked to call the roll. The members were instructed to vote aye or nae. The roll was called and the vote was thirteen ayes and zero naes. (Exhibit I – Tally Sheet) All voted and the motion passed.

SENATE BILL 12:
Ban Mobile Phone Use While Driving

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 30, 2010
Introduced by:	Sen. Dannelly	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter
Analysis of:	S12-CSRV-62 PCS to 1st Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The Proposed Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 12 would prohibit a person from using a handheld mobile phone while operating a motor vehicle. Exceptions would apply allowing use of a hands-free mobile phone, use in an emergency situation, and use by law enforcement, fire department, or ambulance operator, while performing official duties. Unless a different penalty applies, violation would be an infraction punishable by a fine of $100 and the cost of court. No drivers license or insurance points would be assessed.

CURRENT LAW: North Carolina law currently prohibits the use of a mobile telephone by a person under the age of 18 while operating a motor vehicle (G.S. 20-137.3), or by a person operating a school bus (G.S. 20-137.4), with certain exceptions. [See chart on reverse side for additional details.]

"Mobile telephone" is a device used by subscribers and other users of wireless telephone service to access the service, and includes hand held and hands-free devices.

BILL ANALYSIS: The Proposed Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 12 would prohibit the use of a handheld mobile telephone by a person operating a motor vehicle while the vehicle is in motion. "Mobile telephone" would be defined as it is in current law pertaining to mobile phone use by school bus drivers and persons under the age of 18. The bill would include the following exceptions to the prohibition on handheld mobile telephone use:

- Use in an emergency situation to communicate with an emergency response operator; a hospital, physician's office, or health clinic; an ambulance service; fire department or law enforcement agency.
- Use in the performance of official duties by a law enforcement officer, a member of a fire department, or the operator of an ambulance in the performance of official duties.
- Use of a hands-free device.

A violation of this prohibition would be an infraction punishable by a fine of $100 and court costs, unless a different punishment applies under the laws applicable to school bus drivers and drivers under 18. No drivers license points or insurance surcharge would be assessed.

The bill contains an appropriation of $10,000 to the Division of Motor Vehicles, effective July 1, 2010.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would be effective December 1, 2010, and would apply to offenses committed on or after that date.

Dear Friend:

Last year, the General Assembly and Governor Perdue showed tremendous leadership and wisdom in prohibiting texting and driving in North Carolina. Your action, which is already saving lives, underscored the fact that no text message is so urgent as to be worth the risk of death or serious injury.

However, habits can be slow to change. That is why, to support your efforts, and those of your colleagues in other states, AT&T has launched a national public safety campaign called Texting & Driving–It Can Wait. Developed in cooperation with the wireless industry and the National Safety Council, the campaign emphasizes true stories of individuals who encountered tragedy due to texting and driving. The enclosed package contains some of the campaign materials, including print advertising and teen-teen and parent-teen pledges. Other materials, including television commercials, are available online at www.att.com/txtngcanwait.

In North Carolina, we kicked off this initiaitve with a special Texting & Driving–It Can Wait Awareness Day on April 16, 2010. On a single day, in events at three high schools and two universities, from Asheville to Wilmington, thousands of our state's young people were reminded that texting & driving is not only dangerous but against the law. At the events, many young people signed pledges to refrain from texting and driving and to hold each other accountable. Subsequent news coverage reached thousands more teens and adults.

Today we are beginning the second phase of our North Carolina plan to deliver this important public safety message, which we are calling Texting & Driving–It Can Wait Awareness Week. Working in conjunction with Secretary of Public Instruction June Atkinson, we have provided each high school in the state with promotional materials and asked the principals to join us in urging students to commit to using their wireless devices wisely and safely in the months and miles ahead.

A centerpeice of this effort is the enclosed window decal, which can be placed inside a vehicle as an ongoing reminder for drivers. I already have one in each of my cars and my teen-agers have signed the pledge.

If you should have any questions, or suggestions on how we can maximize the effectiveness of the Texting & Driving–It Can Wait campaign, please do not hesitate to call me or Herb Crenshaw, who can be reached at 919-835-1448.

Thank you again for your commitment to North Carolina. We appreciate the opportunity to work with you and all our state's leaders to help make a difference in communities, lives and futures from Murphy to Manteo.

Sincerely,

Cynt

WINSTON-SALEM

Five words spoken by a father whose two sons suffered fatal injuries in a car wreck this month should be a clarion call to action for state legislators: "This didn't have to happen."

Police say Jayne Perkins of Arkansas was talking on a cell phone May 9 in Greensboro when her tractor-trailer plowed into the back of a car carrying Daryl Reynolds' two sons, 15-year-old Daryl Baucom and 11-year-old Isaiah Reynolds, both of Winston-Salem. Their mother and stepbrother were also injured in the crash.

Daryl Reynolds and his brother are calling on legislators to ban cell-phone use entirely while driving, especially in commercial vehicles. They will hold a June 5 march in Winston-Salem to raise public awareness of their cause.

Before more lives are lost, the legislature should finally enact laws banning the use of hand-held phones while driving, and making phone use while driving an aggravating factor in setting punishments for those who cause serious accidents while talking on their phones. These would be good steps toward eventually banning all phone use while driving – including the use of hands-free devices, which studies have shown are just as dangerous.

And state officials should develop an advertising campaign warning North Carolinians of the dangers of using phones while driving.

No conversation, save for placing a 911 call, is worth taking the chance that you'll kill or maim another driver and their passengers. But many of us continue to talk on our phones while driving.

An estimated 28 percent of all traffic accidents nationally are caused by cell-phone use. A Utah study found that driving while talking on the phone causes drivers to be as impaired as drunk drivers. And God save us from drunk drivers talking on cell phones.

Americans have been slow to put down their phones. Hand-held phone talking while driving is banned in only six states and Washington, D.C., for all drivers. North Carolina should show that it really is a progressive state by joining them.

Our legislature has already banned the practice for school-bus drivers and those under 18. But bills banning the use of hand-held phones by drivers have stalled in the legislature. Perhaps legislators don't want to put down their own phones. Perhaps they're worried that a ban would cost them votes. Perhaps they're worried that there are business interests that would object to a ban.

Perhaps they're worried that a ban would be hard to enforce. What's to stop drivers from cutting on their speaker-phone and holding the device below their windows? And the state's ban on texting while driving has only resulted in about 220 citations and 40 convictions since it took effect in December.

But the legislature has to start somewhere.

That needs to happen as a result of the wreck that took the lives of Daryl Baucom and Isaiah Reynolds. They were in the back seat when Perkins' big rig slammed into their car at 50 mph. "I looked up and all I saw were brake lights," Perkins told investigators.

She faces two counts of misdemeanor death by vehicle. All because of a cell-phone chat. It didn't have to

MEMORANDUM

TO: Senate Judiciary II Committee

FROM: General Statutes Commission

DATE: June 28, 2010 [REVISED]

RE: Senate Bill 1165 (General Statutes Comm. Technical Corrections)

General Comments

Sections 1 through 22 of this bill contain corrections of a technical nature to the General Statutes that are recommended by the General Statutes Commission. These amendments include updating and correcting citations, correcting typographical, grammatical, redlining, and other obvious drafting errors, making conforming changes, correcting terminology, deleting obsolete provisions, conforming a catchline to match the G.S. section's actual content, making a reference to the Governor gender neutral, authorizing the relocation of statutes that, as a result of subsequent amendments, no longer fit their current location, and providing specific authorization for the printing of drafters comments.

Specific Comments

Section 1. This section amends G.S. 7A-809 to make a citation more precise. G.S. 7A-809 was enacted as S.L. 2009-355, s. 4, and was codified at the direction of the Revisor of Statutes. As enacted, it required the Conference of Clerks of Superior Court, together with the registers of deeds, to study annually and report on their implementation of "this act." In the context of a session law, "this act" normally means the entire session law, so in codifying the provision, the reference to "this act" was changed to a citation to the session law. However, clerks of court and registers of deeds were only given duties under a new subsection (f1) that was added to G.S. 132-1.10 by Section 3 of S.L. 2009-355 (this new subsection (f1) allows clerks of court and registers of deeds to remove on their own initiative social security and drivers license numbers from the web-site version of the records filed with them). In addition, citing to session laws in codified statutes is disfavored. This section accordingly replaces the citation to the session law with a citation to the specific G.S. reference.

Section 2. This section updates a citation in G.S. 15-203. When Chapter 15A of the General Statutes was enacted, former G.S. 15-77 was repealed and reenacted as G.S. 15A-743. In addition, the section makes references to the Secretary of Correction gender neutral.

Section 3. This section updates a citation in G.S. 15A-534(h)(3). Former G.S. 15A-544, which dealt with forfeiture of bail bonds, was repealed by S.L. 2000-133 and replaced by Part 2 of Article 26 of Chapter 15A of the General Statutes (G.S. 15A-544.1 et seq.). The equivalent citation to former G.S. 15A-544(b) in the new Part 2 is G.S. 15A-544.3.

Section 4. This section amends G.S. 15A-1230(b) to update a citation. Former G.S. 84-14 was recodified as G.S. 7A-97 by 1995 Sess. Laws, c. 431, s. 7.

Section 5. This section amends G.S. 15A-1342(e) to update a citation. Former G.S. 148-65.1 has been repealed. Its subject matter is now contained in different sections of Article 4B of Chapter 148 of the General Statutes.

Section 6. This section amends G.S. 15A-1383(d) to delete an obsolete reference. Former Article 6C of Chapter 120 of the General Statutes created a standing legislative committee to review administrative rules in a manner somewhat similar to the review done by the Rules Review Commission. The former Article included a definitions section (former G.S. 120-30.24) with a definition of "rule." Article 6C was repealed when the Governor's Administrative Rules Review Commission was created. That commission has in turn been replaced with the current Rules Review Commission, whose enabling statutes (G.S. 143B-30.1 et seq.) do not contain any definition of "rule." The only replacement reference would be to Chapter 150B of the General Statutes, which is already referenced. The obsolete reference to former Article 6C can simply be deleted.

Section 7. This section makes a conforming amendment to G.S. 20-183.7(f). S.L. 2009-364 ("An Act to Increase the Period of Time Allowed for Reinspection After Failing a Motor Vehicle Inspection . . . .") amended G.S. 20-183.3(c) and G.S. 20-183.7(a) to extend from 30 to 60 days the time within which a motor vehicle that failed an emissions inspection can be reinspected without additional fee. G.S. 20-183.7(f) requires inspection stations to post a sign with specified information about inspection fees. This section amends G.S. 20-183(f)(5) so that the contents of the information sign will reflect the change from 30 to 60 days.

Section 8. This section amends the catchline of G.S. 36C-3-302, which was amended last year by S.L. 2009-222, s. 2, to conform the catchline to the current content of the body of the statute.

Section 9. This section amends G.S. 41-2(b) to make a terminology correction by changing "act" to "subsection." G.S. 41-2 was amended last year by S.L. 2009-268 to add subsection (b). The new subsection ends with the phrase "on the basis of this act." In a codified statute, however, a reference to "this act" lacks context unless the statute, or the unit it is part of,

has a short title with "Act" in the short title. That is not the case with G.S. 41-2. From context, the intended reference is to the new subsection (b).

Section 10. This section amends G.S. 58-71-75(b)(2) to correct an obvious error. That provision refers to the "annual renewal fee as provided in subsection (c) of this section." The renewal fee is, however, in subsection (d).

Section 11. This section amends the introductory language of G.S. 58-89A-106(a) to correct a typographical error in a citation. The first sentence of subsection (a) refers to "entities specified in subsection (a) of G.S. 58-89A-109." There is no G.S. 58-89A-109, however. The intended reference was to G.S. 58-89A-105.

Section 12. This section repeals G.S. 113-28, which has become obsolete. G.S. 113-28 allowed the State to reimburse the federal government at the rate of $ 1 per man per day, under conditions and limits described in the statute, for work done under "an act of Congress entitled, 'An act for the relief of unemployment through the performance of useful public work, and for other purposes' approved March 31, 1933." All parts of the federal act cited have been repealed, and there was no replacement.

Section 13. This section amends G.S. 115C-102.6B to delete "garbage language." G.S. 115C-102.6B(b) was amended last year by both S.L. 2009-451, s. 7.31, and S.L. 2009-571, s. 37. S.L. 2009-571, s. 37, made a citation update in a sentence in the first paragraph of subsection (b) that was deleted by the other session law, resulting in "garbage language."

Section 14. This section makes a grammatical conforming amendment to G.S. 115D-5.1(f1). S.L. 2009-570, s. 41, amended G.S. 115D-5.1(f1) to delete a previously existing reference to a second program, so that the subsection now covers only one program. The phrase "funds appropriated for those programs" should have been changed at the time to "funds appropriated for that program." This section makes that change.

Section 15. This section amends G.S. 120-29.1 in two places to eliminate the word "his" in references to the Governor's signature on a bill and the Governor's objections to a vetoed bill. The word "his" is not necessary to the meaning in this context, and our current Governor is a woman.

Section 16. This section amends G.S. 143B-499.8 to correct a drafting error.

G.S. 143B-499.8 was enacted by S.L. 2007, s. 5. The statute allows the issuance of an alert, called a "silver alert," for "missing persons" believed to be suffering from dementia or other cognitive impairment. The statute is located in Part 5A of Article 11 of Chapter 143B, which has a definitions section, G.S. 143B-496, that defines "missing person" as "any individual who is 18 years of age or older, whose temporary or permanent residence is in North Carolina, or is believed to be in North Carolina, whose location has not been determined, and who has been reported as missing to a law-enforcement agency" (emphasis added). As enacted, a silver alert could only be issued under G.S. 143B-499.8 for a person 18 years or over.

In 2008, the General Assembly enacted S.L. 2008-83, which was entitled in part "An Act to Authorize a Silver Alert to Be Issued for a Person of Any Age . . . ." Section 1 of the 2008 act amended G.S. 143B-499.8 by deleting a phrase in subsection (b) where, in one place, there was a reference to a person who was 18 years of age or older. S.L. 2008-83 did not, however, do anything to address the effect of the age limitation in the definition of "missing person."

In 2009, the General Assembly enacted 2009-143, entitled "An Act to Clarify a Silver Alert May Be Issued for a Person of Any Age Who Is Believed to Be Suffering from Dementia or Other Cognitive Impairment." This act amended G.S. 143B-499.8 to change a reference to "missing adult" in subsection (d) to "missing person." Like the 2008 act, however, the 2009 act did not address the age limitation in the definition of "missing person."

G.S. 143B-496 also contains a definition of "missing child," and Part 5A of Article 11 of Chapter 143B has numerous references to "missing person or missing child," "missing child or missing person," "missing persons or missing children," etc., in places where the Part applies to missing individuals whatever their age. "Missing child" is defined as "a juvenile as defined in G.S. 7B-101 whose location has not been determined, who has been reported as missing to a law-enforcement agency, and whose parent's, spouse's, guardian's or legal custodian's temporary or permanent residence is in North Carolina or is believed to be in North Carolina."

To deal with the problem caused in G.S. 143B-499.8 by the definition of "missing person" in light of the General Assembly's intent as stated the titles of S.L. 2008-83 and S.L. 2009-143, while conforming to the style of the remainder of Part 5A of Article 11 of Chapter 143B, this section inserts references to "missing children" or "missing child," as appropriate, throughout G.S. 143B-499.8.

Section 17. This section amends G.S. 143C-8-6 to correct the style of an internal citation in subsection (c) and to correct a citation in subsection (e). Both subsections (c) and (e) contain internal citations to "143C-8-6" without the "G.S." designation. Although adding the "G.S." designation would correct that problem, the more usual style for internal citations in the General Statutes is to refer to "this section," or "subsection ___ of this section," etc. The amendment to subsection (c) simply conforms the citation style. The internal citation in subsection (e), however, has an additional, typographical, error in the internal citation; the citation should be to subsection (d), not subsection (c). The amendment to subsection (e) corrects that typographical error and also conforms the citation style.

Section 18. This section amends G.S. 163-85(c) to add the missing conjunction "or" at the end of subdivisions (7a) and (9).

Section 19. This section amends G.S. 163-182 to update a citation in the introductory language. Article 13A of Chapter 163 was recodified as Article 14A by S.L. 2009-159, s. 21(h).

Section 20. This section amends the amendatory language of Section 1 of S.L. 2009-129 to correct a typographical error in the identification of the G.S. section that was being amended. G.S. 120-29, the citation that is cited in the session law, deals with the journals of the General Assembly. The definition that was being amended is actually in G.S. 120-129.

Section 21. This section authorizes the Revisor of Statutes to move Part 3 of Article 36 of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes to a more suitable location in the General Statutes. That Part is currently located in an article that deals only with the Department of Administration. The Department of Administration originally performed the duties prescribed under Part 3, but S.L. 2009-446, s. 1, transferred these to the Department of Commerce. As a result, Part 3 is now awkwardly located and should be recodified.

Section 22. This section authorizes the printing of drafters comments to the amendments to Chapter 36C of the General Statutes that were enacted last year in S.L. 2009-222, 2009-267, and 2009-318, which were all recommendations of the North Carolina Bar Association. Authorization to print these comments was inadvertently omitted from those acts.

Section 23. This section makes the bill effective when it becomes law.

Short Title: Amend Conditions of Probation. (Public)

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AMEND THE LAWS GOVERNING THE CONDITIONS OF PROBATION.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. G.S. 15A-1343(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) Regular Conditions. – As regular conditions of probation, a defendant must:

(1) Commit no criminal offense in any jurisdiction.

(2) Remain within the jurisdiction of the court unless granted written permission to leave by the court or his probation officer.

(3) Report as directed by the court or his probation officer to the officer at reasonable times and places and in a reasonable manner, permit the officer to visit him at reasonable times, answer all reasonable inquiries by the officer and obtain prior approval from the officer for, and notify the officer of, any change in address or employment.

(4) Satisfy child support and other family obligations as required by the court. If the court requires the payment of child support, the amount of the payments shall be determined as provided in G.S. 50-13.4(c).

(5) Possess no firearm, explosive device or other deadly weapon listed in G.S. 14-269 without the written permission of the court.

(6) Pay a supervision fee as specified in subsection (c1).

(7) Remain gainfully and suitably employed or faithfully pursue a course of study or of vocational training that will equip him for suitable employment. A defendant pursuing a course of study or of vocational training shall abide by all of the rules of the institution providing the education or training, and the probation officer shall forward a copy of the probation judgment to that institution and request to be notified of any violations of institutional rules by the defendant.

(8) Notify the probation officer if he fails to obtain or retain satisfactory employment.

(9) Pay the costs of court, any fine ordered by the court, and make restitution or reparation as provided in subsection (d).

(10) Pay the State of North Carolina for the costs of appointed counsel, public defender, or appellate defender to represent him in the case(s) for which he was placed on probation.

~~(11) At a time to be designated by his probation officer, visit with his probation officer a facility maintained by the Division of Prisons.~~

(12) Attend and complete an abuser treatment program if (i) the court finds the defendant is responsible for acts of domestic violence and (ii) there is a program, approved by the Domestic Violence Commission, reasonably available to the defendant, unless the court finds that such would not be in the best interests of justice.

(13) Submit at reasonable times to warrantless searches by a probation officer of his or her person and of his or her vehicle and premises while the probationer is present, for purposes specified by the court and reasonably related to his or her probation supervision, but the probationer may not be required to submit to any other search that would otherwise be unlawful. Whenever the warrantless search consists of testing for the presence of illegal drugs, the probationer may also be required to reimburse the Department of Correction for the actual cost of drug screening and drug testing, if the results are positive.

(14) Not use, possess, or control any illegal drug or controlled substance unless it has been prescribed for him or her by a licensed physician and is in the original container with the prescription number affixed on it; not knowingly associate with any known or previously convicted users, possessors, or sellers of any such illegal drugs or controlled substances; and not knowingly be present at or frequent any place where such illegal drugs or controlled substances are sold, kept, or used.

A defendant shall not pay costs associated with a substance abuse monitoring program or any other special condition of probation in lieu of, or prior to, the payments required by this subsection.

In addition to these regular conditions of probation, a defendant required to serve an active term of imprisonment as a condition of special probation pursuant to G.S. 15A-1344(e) or G.S. 15A-1351(a) shall, as additional regular conditions of probation, obey the rules and regulations of the Department of Correction governing the conduct of inmates while imprisoned and report to a probation officer in the State of North Carolina within 72 hours of his discharge from the active term of imprisonment.

Regular conditions of probation apply to each defendant placed on supervised probation unless the presiding judge specifically exempts the defendant from one or more of the conditions in open court and in the judgment of the court. It is not necessary for the presiding judge to state each regular condition of probation in open court, but the conditions must be set forth in the judgment of the court.

Defendants placed on unsupervised probation are subject to the provisions of this subsection, except that defendants placed on unsupervised probation are not subject to the regular conditions contained in subdivisions (2), (3), (6), (8), and (11)."

SECTION 2. G.S. 15A-1343(b1) reads as rewritten:

"(b1) Special Conditions. – In addition to the regular conditions of probation specified in subsection (b), the court may, as a condition of probation, require that during the probation the defendant comply with one or more of the following special conditions:

(1) Undergo available medical or psychiatric treatment and remain in a specified institution if required for that purpose.

(2) Attend or reside in a facility providing rehabilitation, counseling, treatment, social skills, or employment training, instruction, recreation, or residence for persons on probation.

(2a) Repealed by Session Laws 2002, ch. 126, s. 17.18, effective August 15, 2002.

(2b) Participate in and successfully complete a Drug Treatment Court Program pursuant to Article 62 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes.

(3) Submit to imprisonment required for special probation under G.S. 15A-1351(a) or G.S. 15A-1344(e).

(3a) Repealed by Session Laws 1997-57, s. 3.

(3b) Submit to supervision by officers assigned to the Intensive Supervision Program established pursuant to G.S. 143B-262(c), and abide by the rules adopted for that Program. Unless otherwise ordered by the court, intensive supervision also requires multiple contacts by a probation officer per week, a specific period each day during which the offender must be at his or her residence, and that the offender remain gainfully and suitably employed or faithfully pursue a course of study or of vocational training that will equip the offender for suitable employment.

(3c) Remain at his or her residence unless the court or the probation officer authorizes the offender to leave for the purpose of employment, counseling, a course of study, or vocational training. The offender shall be required to wear a device which permits the supervising agency to monitor the offender's compliance with the condition electronically and to pay a fee for the device as specified in subsection (c2) of this section.

(4) Surrender his or her driver's license to the clerk of superior court, and not operate a motor vehicle for a period specified by the court.

(5) Compensate the Department of Environment and Natural Resources or the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, as the case may be, for the replacement costs of any marine and estuarine resources or any wildlife resources which were taken, injured, removed, harmfully altered, damaged or destroyed as a result of a criminal offense of which the defendant was convicted. If any investigation is required by officers or agents of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources or the Wildlife Resources Commission in determining the extent of the destruction of resources involved, the court may include compensation of the agency for investigative costs as a condition of probation. This subdivision does not apply in any case governed by G.S. 143-215.3(a)(7).

(6) Perform community or reparation service and pay any fee required by law or ordered by the court for participation in the community or reparation service program.

~~(7) Submit at reasonable times to warrantless searches by a probation officer of his or her person and of his or her vehicle and premises while the probationer is present, for purposes specified by the court and reasonably related to his or her probation supervision, but the probationer may not be required to submit to any other search that would otherwise be unlawful. Whenever the warrantless search consists of testing for the presence of illegal drugs, the probationer may also be required to reimburse the Department of Correction for the actual cost of drug screening and drug testing, if the results are positive.~~

~~(8) Not use, possess, or control any illegal drug or controlled substance unless it has been prescribed for him or her by a licensed physician and is in the original container with the prescription number affixed on it; not knowingly associate with any known or previously convicted users, possessors or sellers of any such illegal drugs or controlled substances; and not knowingly be present at or frequent any place where such illegal drugs or controlled substances are sold, kept, or used.~~

(8a) Purchase the least expensive annual statewide license or combination of licenses to hunt, trap, or fish listed in G.S. 113-270.2, 113-270.3, 113-270.5, 113-271, 113-272, and 113-272.2 that would be required to engage lawfully in the specific activity or activities in which the defendant was engaged and which constitute the basis of the offense or offenses of which he was convicted.

(9) If the offense is one in which there is evidence of physical, mental or sexual abuse of a minor, the court should encourage the minor and the minor's parents or custodians to participate in rehabilitative treatment and may order the defendant to pay the cost of such treatment.

(9a) Repealed by Session Laws 2004-186, s. 1.1, effective December 1, 2004, and applicable to offenses committed on or after that date.

(10) Satisfy any other conditions determined by the court to be reasonably related to his rehabilitation."

SECTION 3. This act becomes effective December 1, 2009, and applies to persons sentenced to probation on or after that date.

a. Immediately before retirement, the individual met firearms training standards of the Department of Correction and was authorized by the Department of Correction to carry a handgun in the course of duty.

HOUSE BILL 859:
Amend Conditions of Probation

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 28, 2010
Introduced by:	Reps. Guice, Spear, R. Warren, Faison	Prepared by:	Brenda J. Carter Committee Counsel
Analysis of:	H859-CSLH-32 PCS to 2nd Edition

SUMMARY: This proposed committee substitute for House Bill 859 would exempt certain retired probation and parole officers from the firearm safety and training course for purposes of obtaining a concealed handgun permit. It would also provide that the prohibition against carrying a concealed weapon does not apply to off-duty probation or parole certified officers.

CURRENT LAW: Under G.S. 14-415.12, an applicant for a concealed handgun permit must successfully complete an approved firearms safety and training course which involves the actual firing of handguns and instruction in State laws governing the carrying of a concealed handgun and the use of deadly force. G.S. 14-415.12A provides an exemption for qualified sworn law enforcement officers; qualified former sworn law enforcement officers; and certain persons licensed or registered by the North Carolina Private Protective Services Board as armed security guards

G.S. 14-269 makes it unlawful to carry a concealed weapon, except as specifically provided. One exception applies to sworn law enforcement officers when off-duty, provided the officer does not carry a concealed weapon while consuming alcohol or an unlawful controlled substance or while alcohol or an unlawful controlled substance remains in the officer's body.

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 defines 'qualified retired probation or parole certified officer' as a person who has been retired as a probation or parole certified officer for not more than 2 years and who meets all of the following criteria:

- Immediately before retirement, met Department of Correction (DOC) firearms training standards and was authorized by DOC to carry a handgun in the course of duty.
- Retired in good standing and was never the subject of a disciplinary action that would have prevented the carrying of a handgun.
- Has a vested right to State retirement benefits.
- Is not prohibited by State or federal law from receiving a firearm.

Section 2 amends the law concerning firearms safety and training for purposes of obtaining a concealed handgun permit, to provide an exemption for qualified retired probation or parole certified officers as defined in Section 1 of the bill. The retired officers would be deemed to have satisfied the requirement to successfully complete the course.

Section 3 amends the law prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons, to allow off-duty probation or parole certified officers to carry concealed weapons so long as they are not consuming alcohol or unlawful controlled substances and there is not alcohol or unlawful controlled substance remaining in he officer's body.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The bill would be effective December 1, 2010 and apply to officers who retired before, on, or after that date.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE CITY OF LOCUST AND THE TOWNS OF NEW LONDON AND STANFIELD TO ATTACH PERSONAL PROPERTY, GARNISH WAGES, AND PLACE LIENS ON CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY TO COLLECT UNPAID FEES FOR SEWER SERVICES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

SECTION 1. A city may adopt an ordinance providing that a fee charged by the city for sewer services and remaining unpaid for a period of 90 days may be collected in any manner by which delinquent personal or real property taxes can be collected. If the ordinance states that delinquent fees may be collected in the same manner as delinquent real property taxes, the delinquent fees are a lien on the real property owned by the person contracting with the city for the service, and the ordinance shall provide for an appeals process. If a lien is placed on real property, the lien shall be valid from the time of filing in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county in which the service was provided and shall include a statement containing the name and address of the person against whom the lien is claimed, the name of the city claiming the lien, the specific service that was provided, the amount of the unpaid charge for that service, and the date and place of furnishing that service. A lien on real property is not effective against an interest in real property conveyed after the fees become delinquent if the interest is recorded in the office of the register of deeds prior to the filing of the lien for delinquent water or sewer services. No lien under this act shall be valid unless filed in accordance with this section after 90 days of the date of the failure to pay for the service or availability fees and within 180 days of the date of the failure to pay for the service or fees. The lien may be discharged as provided in G.S. 44-48.

The city shall adopt an appeals process providing notice and an opportunity to be heard in protest of the imposition of such liens. The county tax office, once notified of the city's lien, shall include the lien amount on any tax bills printed subsequent to the notification. The county tax office shall add or remove liens from the tax bill at the request of the city (such as in the case of an appeal where the city decides to cancel the lien).

SECTION 2. This act applies to the City of Locust and to the Towns of New London and Stanfield.

SECTION 3. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1736:
Local Delinquent Sewer Fees

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	June 30, 2010
Introduced by:	Rep. Burr	Prepared by:	Kory Goldsmith
Analysis of:	Third Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1736 authorizes the City of Locust and the Towns of New London and Stanfield, which are located in Stanly County, to collect delinquent fees for sewer services in the same manner that property taxes are collected.

CURRENT LAW: Municipalities are authorized to acquire, construct, establish, maintain, own, operate, and contract for the operation of a "public enterprise," which includes wastewater collection, treatment, and disposal systems of all types, including septic tank systems or other on-site collection or disposal facilities. [G.S. 160A-311-312]. Municipalities are also authorized to establish a schedule of rates and fees for the use of or the services furnished by any pubic enterprise. [G.S. 160A-314]. A city has the authority to collect delinquent accounts by any remedy provided by law for collecting and enforcing private debts. [G.S. 160A-314(b)]. A city may also discontinue service to any customer whose account remains delinquent for more than 10 days. [G.S. 160A-314(b)]. There are also other statutory provisions that address the collection of fees for government services, including:

- Ambulance Services – G.S. 44-51.4 allows a local government to collect an account 90 days delinquent through the use of attachment and garnishment proceedings set forth for the collection of property taxes. G.S. 44-55.1 also allows the placement of a lien on real property for unpaid ambulance fees.
- Solid Waste Fees – G.S. 153A-293 authorizes a county to enact an ordinance providing that a solid waste fee may be billed and collected as a property tax.

Property taxes may be collected in the following ways:

- Placement of a lien on real and personal property, which is superior to all other liens.
- Sale of real or personal property.
- Attachment and garnishment of wages and bank accounts.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1736 would authorize the City of Locust and the Towns of New London and Stanfield to adopt an ordinance providing that the city or town may collect any fee for sewer service that is 90 days past due as if it were a property tax. For liens placed on real property, the lien is valid from the time of filing. The lien must be filed with the clerk of superior court in the county in which the service was provided and must provide a statement of the name and address of the person against whom the lien is claimed, the name of the city claiming the lien, the specific service provided for which the fee is delinquent, the amount of the unpaid charge, and the date and place of the service provided. The lien must be filed after the charge is 90 days past due and within 180 days of the failure to pay the charge. The ordinance must include an appeals process. The county tax office must include the lien on any tax bills printed subsequent to its notification, and remove the lien from the bill at the request of the City.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law.

BACKGROUND: The following local legislation regarding delinquent water and sewer fees has been enacted:

- S.L. 1993-768: Authorizes City of Durham to collect delinquent water and sewer fees resulting from leaking or broken pipes of the real property owner in the same manner as property taxes.
- S.L. 2003-270: Authorizes Columbus[1], Davie, Duplin, and Lenoir Counties, the municipalities in these counties, and water and wastewater authorities in these counties to collect delinquent water and sewer fees in the same manner as delinquent property taxes.
- S.L. 2009-402 Authorizes Montgomery County to collect delinquent water and sewer fees in the same manner as delinquent property taxes.

Giles Perry, counsel to House Local Government I, Trina Griffin, counsel to House Finance, and Cindy Avrette, counsel to Senate Finance substantially contributed to this summary.

[1] The authority for Columbus County was removed in 2004. However, the municipalities within Columbus County maintain the authority.

MINUTES

The Senate Judiciary II Committee met at 9:00 AM on July 6, 2010, in Room 643 of the Legislative Office Building with thirteen members of the committee present. Senator Fletcher L. Hartsell, Jr., Chairman, presided.

Senator Hartsell recognized pages Izzy-Vaughan-Jones, Courtney Jennings, David Torres, Nick Hall, Tayte Kean, Jenny Summer, Dixon Holland and Katie McDonnell and thanked them for their service.

Senator Hartsell noted that Senate Bill 836 would not be heard at this meeting.

HB 1377 - Taxpayer Optimization Act. - Senator Jacumin moved to adopt the Proposed Committee Substitute for purposes of discussion. All voted and the motion carried. Representative Folwell explained the bill. Ms. Kory Goldsmith, Staff Attorney, gave additional explanation. Questions from Senators Jones, Dannelly, and Queen were answered by Ms. Goldsmith, and Ms. Margaret Foreman, North Carolina Association of Educators. Senator Swindell moved for a favorable report to the Proposed Committee Substitute, unfavorable to the original bill. All voted and the motion carried.

The meeting was recessed for ten minutes.

Senator Hartsell noted that UNC-TV had been subpoenaed for information related to the Yadkin River in and near Stanly County. Due to technical problems the meeting was then recessed until fifteen minutes after Session.

Evening Meeting:

Senator Hartsell called the meeting to order at 6:07 pm and gave an explanation for the meeting.

In recapping the agenda he noted that on the previous Thursday the Committee had unanimously voted to authorize the issuance of subpoenas to UNC-TV and to Eszter Vajda. The Committee sought copies of all footage in their possession regarding the Alcoa Corporation's activities in Stanly County, North Carolina near the Yadkin River. UNC-TV voluntarily delivered the requested materials on Monday, June 5, 2010. He noted that although he had not reviewed all the materials, he understood that they consisted of thirteen DVDs, and a rough inventory of the raw footage. He also noted that Ms. Vajda, who was in attendance, had been served with a subpoena on July 1, 2010. Each member had a copy of GS120-19.2 and a copy of an affidavit executed by Ms. Vajda which he then read. – (Exhibit I.) Senator Jones moved to accept the sworn statement in lieu of sworn testimony. All voted and the motion carried. Senator Hartsell then explained that there were technical problems with the operating systems that caused a delay in the morning's proceedings. Senator Hartsell noted that he had received a request from Mr. Chuck Neely, Attorney representing Alcoa, asking that representatives from Alcoa be given the opportunity to speak. He agreed to hear them at the conclusion of the viewing of the DVD.

The Committee then viewed the DVD that was delivered by Ms. Vadja. (Exhibit II.) An electronic copy of this may be accessed from the North Carolina Legislative Librarian.

Mr. Chuck Neely was recognized and he deferred to Mr. William J. O'Rourke, Vice-President of Environmental Health and Safety, for Alcoa Corporation. Mr. O'Rourke made a statement on behalf of Alcoa and then along with Mr. Gene Ellis, Consultant for Alcoa, answered questions from Senators Vaughan, Berger, Jones, Atwater, Apodaca, Queen, Allran, Snow and Hartsell.

Senator Hartsell adjourned the meeting at 8:07 pm.

SECTION 4. The Department of Crime Control and Public Safety shall immediately review the potential impacts of oil leaking from the British Petroleum Deepwater Horizon offshore drilling rig on the North Carolina coast and shall update the Oil Spill Contingency Plan, required by G.S. 143-215.94HH, as necessary to ensure the State's preparedness in the event the oil leaking from the British Petroleum Deepwater Horizon offshore drilling rig is transported by currents or other mechanisms to the North Carolina coast or the State's waters. In updating the plan, the Department shall assess the actions that are being implemented to manage and mitigate economic and environmental impacts resulting from the spill, determine which solutions have proven successful, identify the best management practices available to address the impacts, and identify the resources necessary to carry out the Oil Spill Contingency Plan.

SECTION 5. The Department of Environment and Natural Resources shall review the limitations on recovery by the State for damage to public resources and for the cost of oil or other hazardous substance cleanup established pursuant to G.S. 143-215.89. The Department shall report the results of its review, including any recommendations for changes to the limitations, to the Environmental Review Commission on or before December 1, 2010.

SECTION 6. This act is effective when it becomes law. Sections 1(a), 1(b), 1(c), and 1(d) of this act apply to any damages, as defined in G.S. 143-215.94BB, incurred on or after that date.

The committee may submit questions in writing to the witness in advance of his appearance. Witnesses may be permitted, in the discretion of the committee, to submit written, sworn statements in addition to or in lieu of sworn oral testimony before the committee.

(b) Hearings and examinations of witnesses concerning pending legislation or other appropriate matter may be conducted during sessions of the General Assembly, during recesses, and in the interim period between sessions, at such times as committees are authorized to convene.

A subpoena for the purpose of obtaining the testimony of a witness before a joint committee of the House and Senate may be issued by the joint action of the cochairmen of the joint committee, upon authorization of one of the above officers from each house and by majority vote of the joint committee. The subpoena shall be signed by the committee chairman and either the Speaker of the House, the President of the Senate, the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker pro tempore of the House and shall be directed to the witness, and state the name of the witness, and a description of any papers, documents, or records that he is required to bring with him; and the subpoena shall state the subject matter of the hearing before the committee, the name of the committee, and the name and address of the committee chairman; and the subpoena shall also clearly designate the date, time, and place at which the witness's presence is required.

(d) Any witness shall have five days' notice of hearing, unless waived by the witness, and subpoenas may be served by a member of the State Bureau of Investigation, the State Highway Patrol, or within their respective jurisdiction by any sheriff or deputy, or any municipal police officer or other law-enforcement officer. In addition, a subpoena may be served in the manner provided for service of subpoenas under the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(f) Return of the subpoena shall be to the Legislative Services Officer, where a permanent record shall be maintained for five years, and one copy of the subpoena shall be immediately filed with the committee chairman and one copy transmitted to the Speaker of the House, the President of the Senate, the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker pro tempore of the House, as the case may be. (1973, c. 543.)

Exhibit 1

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

WAKE COUNTY

AFFIDAVIT

The undersigned affiant, ESZTER VAJDA, being first duly sworn, hereby deposes and says:

1. I am over the age of eighteen, suffer no legal disabilities, have personal knowledge of the facts set forth below, and am competent to testify.

2. I am employed as a Senior Legislative Correspondent for UNC-TV. While on assignment for UNC-TV on a matter of public interest, I conducted a journalistic investigation of Alcoa Corporation's activities in Stanly County, North Carolina, in and near the Yadkin River. That investigation resulted in more than 200 hours of raw interview footage of more than two dozen individuals. It was my hope that as part of my job I would one day be able to tell the story of my investigation by way of a documentary.

3. On July 1, 2010, I was served with a subpoena issued by the Senate Judiciary II Committee (the "Committee") directing me to appear before the Committee in Raleigh, North Carolina, on the 6th day of July, 2010, at 9:00 a.m., in Room 643 of the Legislative Office Building, 300 N. Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. A separate letter from Senator Fletcher L. Hartsell, Jr. ("Senator Hartsell") issued pursuant to G.S. 120-19, directed me to deliver to him on July 5, 2010, a copy of all footage in my possession regarding Alcoa Corporation's activities in Stanly County, North Carolina, in and near the Yadkin River.

4. On July 2, 2010, at the request of my employer, I delivered to UNC-TV the more than 200 hours of raw interview footage referenced in paragraph 2 of this Affidavit. Upon information and belief, it is my understanding that on July 5, 2010, in response to a separate letter and at his request, UNC-TV delivered a copy of these same materials to Senator Hartsell.

5. I understood from my managers at UNC-TV that the station lacked the resources to produce and air a documentary of the story that I had researched and that is referenced in Paragrah 2. Because I believe in the story and because I continued to hope that one day the station might have the resources to produce it as a documentary, I have worked over the past four months with the raw footage, on my own equipment, to develop a program ("the Program") that might become that documentary. Mindful of the station's limited resources, I produced the Program on my own time. The Program is approximately one hour in length and as of today is still not final.

6. I believe that because I am a journalist, the law of North Carolina provides me with a qualified privilege against the forced disclosure of confidential or nonconfidential information that I obtained or prepared in formulating my work. I believe, after consulting with independent counsel, that this law applies to the proceedings of the Committee for which I have received subpoenas.

7. I believe very strongly in the fundamental constitutional right of freedom of the press, and therefore have approached this matter with caution and considerable thought.

8. I understand that my journalist's privilege can be overcome if this committee meets three requirements set out in the statute, N.C.G.S. 8-53.11. In this situation I believe that the Committee, as a representative body of the people of North Carolina, has met the test set forth in the statute.

9. Without waiving the right to exercise my journalist's privilege should I ever again be subpoenaed by the Committee or any other judicial or quasi-judical body, I have delivered the Program pursuant to the subpoena and pursuant to the letter by copying the Program file from my hard drive to a hard drive under the use and control of the General Assembly.

10. Pursuant to G.S. 120-19.2(a), I request that the Committee permit me to submit this sworn statement in lieu of sworn oral testimony.

This the 6th day of July, 2010.

Subject: CHINESE CONTROL OF THE YADKIN?

If Alcoa receives a 50-year license to control the Yadkin River, it can sell that license to any other company, even one controlled by a foreign government. Based on the press release below, it is not farfetched to think that if Alcoa sells the license to its business partner, the Governor of North Carolina would have to ask the Chinese Government for permission to use our own water. We need your help to make sure this doesn't happen. Please vote "YES" on SB 967.

Alcoa Inc. and Aluminum Corporation of China ("Chinalco") to Explore Strategic Ventures

Chinalco and Alcoa jointly announced today that the two companies intend to explore opportunities to expand their commercial relationship by identifying strategic ventures that will benefit from the companies' complementary strengths in bauxite, alumina, aluminum and fabricated products.

"Alcoa is a respected leader in our industry and a valuable friend. We intend to grow our friendship and find ways to complement each other's business on a global basis," said Mr. Xiao Yaqing, President of Chinalco. "Alcoa is the founder of the modern aluminum industry, and Chinalco is one of the fastest-growing companies in the industry. As partners we will have many opportunities to prosper and revitalize the market."

Klaus Kleinfeld, CEO and President of Alcoa, highlighted some of those opportunities for a strategic relationship: "As governments stimulate their economies during the downturn, particularly infrastructure stimulus programs in China and the United States, the demand for high quality, high performing aluminum technologies will grow dramatically. And when the global economy recovers, the pent-up consumer and industrial demand will create a broad array of opportunities in both developed and developing regions for Chinalco and Alcoa."

Stressing the advantages of aluminum to address the current megatrends of population growth, urbanization and climate change, Kleinfeld said: "Because aluminum is a very strong, but lightweight, material that is fully recyclable it is increasingly vital in the construction industry's shift towards "green buildings" in the modern urban environment and it satisfies the quest by the transportation industry for lightweight, fuel efficient vehicles. We estimate global aluminum demand will increase 6% CAGR over the next decade, with the highest growth in Asia."

Mr. Xiao highlighted his confidence that an expanded commercial relationship between Alcoa and Chinalco will have significant benefits for the two companies. "The cooperation between Chinalco and Alcoa began in 2001 when Chinalco completed the initial public offering of one of its subsidiaries, Chalco, in Hong Kong and New York. We strengthened our relationship in 2008 with the formation of Shining Prospect Pte. Ltd. We have appreciated Alcoa's valuable support and cooperation to date, and we continue to do so. We look forward to exploring opportunities for future cooperation in respect of business ventures where both Alcoa and Chinalco can combine their respective strengths and expertise. Looking to the future we see many such opportunities to build on, and deepen, that strong base of collaboration and cooperation."

In connection with these matters, Alcoa and Chinalco have also entered into an agreement by which Chinalco will redeem the convertible note issued by Shining Prospect Pte. Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Chinalco, to Alcoa last year for the funding of Shining Prospect's purchase of ordinary shares in the London-listed Rio Tinto plc. The original principal amount of the note would have been payable on February 1, 2011. Under the terms of the agreement entered into today, the note will be redeemed by Chinalco for a total of US$1.021 billion payable to Alcoa in three installments (over a period ending on July 31, 2009), and Alcoa's lien on and indirect interest in Rio Tinto shares held by Shining Prospect will end. The total redemption amount represents the discounted net present value of the principal amount of the note (and the total redemption amount will be further discounted if any installment payment is made earlier than contemplated by the agreement). The agreement also provides that Alcoa's pro rata portion of the dividends paid by Rio Tinto to date since the issuance of the note as and when recovered by Shining Prospect will be paid to Alcoa.

Senate JII Committee | Draft Remarks
July 6, 2010

Mr. Chairman and Committee Members:

Thank you for the opportunity to appear today.

What we just saw is not an accurate picture of Alcoa's long history in North Carolina. It doesn't tell you the truth about our company or our environmental record.

Let me share with you a few important points you need to know:

Alcoa is a company that has a history of doing the right thing. We have been named one of the most sustainable and environmentally responsible companies in the world – and we are proud of that reputation. Environmental responsibility and the health and safety of our employees are core values at Alcoa – and we do not take those responsibilities lightly.

My job __

When we started our operations in North Carolina – nearly 100 years ago – it was long before there were any environmental regulations and long before anyone understood all of the environmental impacts that we know about today.

1) When Alcoa started to learn about the environmental impacts of our operations, we stepped up and started working together with state and federal officials to identify and address these issues in a responsible manner. Since then, we have spent more than $10 million on remediation efforts at the Badin site. We are fully compliant with North Carolina and federal environmental laws and are proud of our collaboration with state regulatory authorities.

2) As part of our commitment to protect the environment, we studied the sediments in Badin Lake near our plant. And when we found low levels of PCBs in the sediments during a 1997 study, we immediately notified the State and the local community. The State determined that the sediments – which were already similar to post-cleanup levels recommended by the EPA – did not pose a risk.

Since then, we have continued to monitor the sediments to make sure they do not spread. And they have not. That is one reason why state health officials suggested looking upstream for sources of PCB contamination following the Badin Lake fish study.

Our opponents have claimed that the PCBs in Badin Lake can be directly tied back to Alcoa's operations. But Dr. John Rodgers, the Clemson professor who supposedly made that connection, backed off his claims when under oath.

In a deposition, Dr. Rodgers admitted that the work in his July 27, 2009 study was not a "definitive fingerprint" that could link the PCBs in the fish to Alcoa's operation. Dr. Rodgers went on to say that there was data inconsistent with a relationship between PCBs from Alcoa's plant and the fish in Badin Lake ... and said there could be other sources of PCBs responsible for the PCBs in the fish.

The NC Division of Waste Management went even further in a February 25, 2009 memo about the Badin Lake fish study. That memo said the source of the PCBs could not be determined with any certainty and noted that:

- The small pocket of PCBs in sediments near Alcoa's plant were analyzed and "did not pose a significant health risk."

- The Southwest region of Badin Lake, where the Alcoa facility is located, found only one fish tissue sample that was above the standard for PCBs."

- Numerous congeners not used at the Alcoa facility were detected in the fish tissue samples collected in Badin Lake

It is important to recognize that there are more than 4,500 square miles that drain into the Yadkin Project – and the State has already found similar concentrations of PCBs in fish upstream of Badin Lake, near Mocksville.

The bottom line: Alcoa complies with North Carolina's environmental laws and we've gone above and beyond many regulatory requirements.

3) Throughout the relicensing process, we worked with state agencies, environmental groups and others to craft an agreement that will improve water quality in the Yadkin River, provide for long-term conservation of land and protect the environment. We conducted more than 20 technical studies and spent considerable time addressing these issues. We spent over $20 million dollars on these environmental tests on the Yadkin Project and on the relicensing process.

We committed to spend $240 million to upgrade the Project, $80 million of which is solely to increase dissolved oxygen in the Yadkin. We have already expended over $40 million on this upgrade effort.

4)Environmental points from video.

5) Thanks. Happy to take questions.

Senator Basnight and Senator Hartsell:

This letter is on behalf of Capitolbeat, the national association of statehouse reporters and editors. We are profoundly concerned about the orders and subpoenas you recently issued to UNC-TV and Senior Legislative Correspondent Eszter Vajda, a member of our Board, in reference to her investigative report on Alcoa's Yadkin River Dam.

We understand that this specific circumstance is complex and involves issues beyond those surrounding press freedoms. We also take note that UNC-TV is a state agency, and could therefore be construed to be subject to the same legislative reporting laws that apply to other agencies. However, we strongly disagree with that interpretation. Even though the station is part of state government, its journalists and its work products are still entitled to not only First Amendment protections, but the protection of the state's shield law as well.

Whatever the larger circumstances of the case may be, we must object to the legislative use of a subpoena to compel a journalist to testify and produce her work. Such action is counter to our nation's tradition of press freedoms, and noxious to the idea of a free press. Furthermore, it sets a dangerous precedent. Journalists should never be compelled to serve as the investigative arm of a government agency.

As your subpoenas indicate, North Carolina G.S. 120-19 gives the General Assembly the right to demand information from state agencies. If you truly believe UNC-TV to be subject to that law, then the subpoenas are superfluous. But we believe that the shield law, G.S. 8-53.11, clearly supersedes both the orders and the subpoenas.

Senator Hartsell, you helped draft the shield law in 1999, and both of you supported the legislation when the General Assembly passed it. We ask that you withdraw your orders and subpoenas immediately.

Respectfully,

Laura Leslie,
President, Capitolbeat

Quick Facts Alcoa FERC Lease

- 1958 Carolina Aluminum (now Alcoa) promised 1,000 jobs for the Badin Aluminum Smelting Works which allowed them to receive a 50-year license from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). Aloca now employs around 20 people to generate power and minimally maintain the property.

- Carolina Aluminum agreed in 1958 to allow FERC to recapture the land in order to receive the license agreeing to a "net investment price" that is in Alcoa's 2006 FERC application at $24.16 million

- The Federal Power Act (FPA) provides that upon the expiration of the license the transfer price is not to exceed fair value. The tax value on Alcoa property at Badin Lake as of January 1, 2010 was $198, 979,950.

- If Alcoa's FERC relicensing is denied, the federal government, NOT THE STATE, will deal with the Alcoa on the value and require the new licensee to compensate Alcoa.

- Estimated Net Annual Revenue from power generation for Alcoa in 2001 was $25MM to $35MM and many experts believe that is on the very conservative side

- Please vote to simply establish a trust so that the General Assembly has proper input in the future should Alcoa not receive relicensing from FERC

May 19, 2009

TO: NORTH CAROLINA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

LOBBYISTS FOR STANLY COUNTY

RE: ALCOA AND BADIN LAKE FISH CONSUMPTION ADVISORY

The North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services ordered a fish consumption advisory on February 11, 2009, after finding elevated levels of PCBs in Badin Lake which is one of the reservoirs that make up the Yadkin Hydroelectric Project controlled by Alcoa. For years, Alcoa manufactured aluminum at the Badin Works which is located on the shores of Badin Lake.

A "fish tissue study" conducted by the state revealed that there are human and ecological health concerns in Badin Lake. The proper response to these concerns is to post notice to the citizens of the dangers associated with the consumption of fish from the lake. Instead, Alcoa chose to challenge and undercut the state's findings by filing an appeal of the advisory and demanding that no signs warning the public be posted at the lake.

Fortunately, the North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services stood up to Alcoa and has prepared the attached advisory which will be printed onto signs and posted at Badin Lake. The advisory clearly states that "elevated levels of . . . PCBs have been found in some catfish and largemouth bass."

It is important for you to keep Alcoa's response to this problem in mind when you consider SB 967 (Creation of Yadkin River Trust). When Alcoa had an opportunity to warn our citizens of a potential health threat, it chose instead to delay the posting of a warning that may save someone's life.

PROCEEDINGS (Approximately 6:00 p.m.)

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: First let me welcome you back again to apologize for the situation this morning. I want to explain it to everybody.

Let's go back to the agenda item entitled "Receipt and Consideration of Information related to the Yadkin River in or near Stanly County." As I'm sure you'll remember, last Thursday, a majority of the Committee voted to authorize, in fact, the Committee unanimously voted to authorize the issuance of subpoenas to UNC TV and to Eszter Vajda. The Committee sought copies of all footage in their possession regarding the Alcoa Corporation activities in a Stanly County, North Carolina, near the Yadkin River.

I want to report again that UNC TV voluntarily delivered the requested materials yesterday, early yesterday morning, July 5th 2010. Although I still have not reviewed these materials, I understand they consist of 13 DVDs and a rough inventory of the raw footage.

With regard to Ms. Vajda, who is here, she was served with a subpoena, and I might add at the same time there was subpoenas that sent, we sent, actually what are in effect public records request, two each, so it's kind of an ironic situation. However, Ms. Vajda was served with a subpoena on July the 1st.

Before we proceed with this further, I would like to direct you to the attention -- you have on your desk a copy of GS 120 19.2. If you look at Subsection A, this provision allows committees to require attendance of witnesses by subpoena. In the last sentence it provides that committees may allow sworn statements in lieu of oral testimony.

In addition to your copy of 120 19.2, you should also have a copy of an affidavit executed by Ms. Vajda. Just -- I'm a little hesitant to read things, but I think I'll do that just for the record:

(Chairman reads affidavit of Ms. Eszter Vajda.)

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Now, I think it is incumbent upon me to explain what happened this morning for which I apologize. There's a long explanation and there's a short one; I will give you the long one first and then I will give you the short one.

Apparently, there were issues relating to the size and the format of the files, which caused unexpected difficulties that took some time to resolve. Once we received the file, it could not be played until we obtained the appropriate hardware.

The short answer we had to go from a Windows or an Apple to a Windows operating system and that's what took place.

Okay. Since we do not need to hold a hearing or take sworn testimony, we will proceed with the remainder of the Committee by hearing the program and then taking any Committee members' questions following that.

And I will acknowledge to the Committee that last evening I received a request from Mr. Neely asking that representatives from Alcoa be given the opportunity to speak and we will do so at the conclusion of the -- that opportunity will be given in like manner just as we would in any other committee meeting.

Okay. I think we are prepared to begin. I want to ask my instructor have I done everything I need to do?

UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: I believe the Committee is ready to view the video.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: I would like to thank Mr. Ross for his invaluable assistance in making this technology work. Thank you.

(Video played.)

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Thank you Chuck?

MR. NEELY: Thank you very much. (Alcoa.) (Indiscernible comments of introduction of Mr. O'Rourke.)

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Okay. Mr. O'Rourke, if you would identify yourself as a spokesman for Alcoa?

MR. O'ROURKE: My name is Bill O'Rourke, I'm a Vice President of Environment Health and Safety for Alcoa Corporation.

Mr. Chairman and Committee Members, I want to thank you for the opportunity to be here. I really appreciate the opportunity to view this movie with you for the first time.

I clearly heard the insinuations of the environment, health and safety irresponsibility and cover-up. What we just saw is not an accurate picture of Alcoa nor Alcoa's long history with the State of North Carolina. It doesn't tell you the truth about our company or our environmental record.

I would like to share with you a few important points about Alcoa.

Alcoa is a company with a very rich history of doing what's right. We've been named one of the most sustainable and environmentally responsible corporations in the world.

Most of you are familiar with the Dow Jones Sustainability Index, it's a very reputable index that's global in nature, and Alcoa has been on it every year since its inception seven years ago.

On June 25th, we filed our application to be considered again for the eighth consecutive year. I read that application and will tell you at the end of it I'm rather proud of what we're able to do as a corporation on a global nature.

Environment, health and safety is an articulated corporate value in Alcoa. We have seven articulated corporate values, and I understand so do many other corporations. What does distinguish us though is we do actually articulate environment, health and safety as one of our values.

Those values for some corporations are just words written on a piece of paper. I do believe in my heart that we do taken seriously in Alcoa, especially the environment, health and safety value. We are proud of our record. Sure, we're not perfect, but we're improving all the time, and we take every allegation and every complaint seriously and address it completely.

Let me talk about North Carolina. When we started our operations in North Carolina nearly a hundred years ago, it was long before there were any environmental laws and certainly no environmental laws on PCBs because they weren't even invented. Not all of us understood the implications of the environmental laws or the impacts of them, which we do know today.

When Alcoa started to learn about value impacts of our operations, we stepped up and started working together with state and federal officials. That's our process. It's the government regulations which are in place which are required to have us in compliance, and we take that seriously.

We worked with the officials to identify and address any issues that were raised in a very responsible manner.

Since then, we've spent more than $10 million on remediation efforts at the Badin Plant, and we believe we have cleaned it up. We are fully compliant with North Carolina and federal environmental laws. I think it's important that I say that again. We are fully compliant with North Carolina and federal environmental laws.

We are proud of our collaboration with the state and federal authorities to be in that position. We're proud of our cleanup record.

The statement of compliance is rather inconsistent with some of the items that I've heard in that movie, and I urge you to look closer at Alcoa's record and Alcoa's situation.

As part of our commitment to protect the environment, we studied the sentiments in Badin Lake. This was near our plant. We found low levels of PCBs in the sediments in a 1977 study. Immediately, we let the state officials know what we found, we let the community know what we found. That's the Alcoa I know. When you find something wrong, you disclose it and then you deal with it.

The state dealt with it. The State determined that the sentiments, which are already similar to post cleanup levels in most lakes in the region, they did not pose a risk. That was a state determination.

Since we found the low levels of PCB in 1977, we continued to monitor, we monitored those sediments to make sure they don't spread and they are not spreading. That's one reason why the state health officials even suggested that we look upstream for sources of PCB contamination following the Badin Lake Fish Study.

The movie claimed that the PCBs in Badin Lake can be directly tied back to Alcoa's operations. But Dr. John Rodgers, the Clemson professor who was cited and quoted in the movie who supposedly made that connection, backed off from his claims when he was under oath.

In a deposition, Dr. Rodgers admitted that the work in his July 27th 2009, study was not a definitive fingerprint, it couldn't link the PCBs in the fish back to Alcoa's operation.

Dr. Rodgers went on to say that there was data inconsistent with the relationship between the PCBs from Alcoa's plant and the fish in Badin Lake. And he said there could be other sources of PCB which are responsible for the PCB levels in the fish in that lake.

The North Carolina Division of Waste Management went even further. In a February 25th 2009 memo about Badin Lake Fish Study, that memo said the source of PCBs could not be determined with any certainty and they noted that there's a small pocket of PCBs in sediments near Alcoa's plant that will analyzed and did not pose a significant health risk.

The Southwest region of Badin Lake where the Alcoa facility is located found only one fish tissue sample, one, that was above the standard for PCBs.

Numerous congeners not used at the Alcoa facility were detected in the fish tissue samples collected in Badin Lake. It's important to recognize that there are 4,500 square miles that drain into the Yadkin Project, and the state has already found similar concentrations of PCBs in fish upstream of Badin Lake near Mocksville.

The bottom line is Alcoa complies with North Carolina environmental laws. We've gone beyond the regulatory requirements. Still opponents seem to be focusing attention away from a real issue of relicensing.

Throughout the relicensing process, we have worked with state agencies, environmental groups and others to craft an agreement that will improve water quality in the Yadkin River, provide for long-term conservation of land, and protect the environment. We've conducted more than 20 technical studies and spent considerable time addressing these issues.

We've spent over $20 million on these environmental tests on the Yadkin project and relicensing. That's in addition to the 10 million of cleanup efforts at the Badin Plant.

We are committed to spend $240 million to operate the project, the dam project, 80 million of which is solely to increase the dissolved oxygen in the Yadkin, and 40 million of that has already been spent.

I want to address just a couple of issues that I saw in the movie.

We were accused of some OSHA violations and citations. I did a quick look at how many OSHA citations Alcoa has received since July 5th of 2005, that's a six-year period up to today.

In the whole United States, we have received 60 citations, that's about ten per year. That's in the nation.

In North Carolina, we have received three. These are public records, you can check.

Look at the primary metals industry of North Carolina. In that industry alone, there have been 335 OSHA citations or North Carolina Department of Labor citations, they sometimes inspect together or have the inspections together.

So that means that Alcoa has less than one percent of the citations in North Carolina in the last six years. That's pretty low and a little different than we heard insinuated in the movie.

Alcoa was lost workday rate, for those who know or are familiar with that, is 0.07 through this year as of this date. Our total reportable rate is 1.2. That's how many injuries you have per hundred workers or 200,000 man hours per year. That's a rather stellar record.

Still, we've had fatalities and we need to clean those up, and we are focusing on those. But are lost workday rate, total reportable rate, is something to be proud of.

At many of our plants it's more dangerous to drive to work than it is to work there.

This is a stellar record that has been in place since 1987 and has improved every year since then, and I'm rather proud of it.

Let me mention something else that was referenced in the movie.

Some of the litigation. People have the right to bring claims. Of course they have the right to bring claims, we know that, in all of the states.

I checked on one of the cases that we had recently. It is Pryor et al. versus Alcoa it was seven named defendants [sic] in Blount County, Tennessee. They asked for relief. A class action relief declared and medical surveillance be made available to employees and retirees.

In this case seven named plaintiffs were in the case, but six had to be excluded because they weren't residents of the district where the case was brought, so that left the case with Mr. Pryor. In Mr. Pryor's case, his only allegation, since they dismissed the class, was that he wanted medical surveillance.

Alcoa has been providing medical surveillance for decades to active employees and retirees. When some of the recent cases were raised, we sent letters to 27,000 retirees around the country requesting them to get the medical surveillance that they were entitled to get.

Mr. Pryor, who brought this action against us, chose not to get the medical surveillance. So, we advised them that we were going to move for dismissal, so they asked us if we would settle the case instead by each of as being half of the attorneys' fees, which turned out to be $600 for each side. That settlement is sitting on the desk of the Blount

County District Court Judge.

There was an allegation that the Mohawks near Messina, New York, got a decision against Alcoa. There is no such decision yet. It's called the St. Regis Mohawk Tribe. We are dealing with them on a regular basis. We are working with the EPA. The EPA continues to collect data and information, they've been collecting this data and information for 20 years now because they want to get this decision right.

There are PCBs in that river as there is in Badin Lake, as there is, by the way, everywhere, these things are ubiquitous. If you remember, in the early 1950's corporations were encouraged to use PCBs, it's a flame retardant. It was considered a safety measure in plants, so everybody started to use them in their operations.

It was in 1977 that the health risks were identified, so companies like Alcoa discontinued immediately.

What we did in Badin was to stop the point source. There were still PCBs in the plant that could find their way into the lake, we stopped that immediately, and that's why we didn't have a continued run-up.

In some of our other operations, we were a little slow and had more cleanup to do. But in Badin Lake, we were able to do that as a first step, and the next step is to do the testing and the analysis that has to be done.

I also want to mention that we do have what I consider to be a world-renowned health and industrial hygiene program in the company. In the 1990's, we went to Yale University's Medical School an said, "Would you be our corporate medical director?" Within a week they said they would like to do that, and they put five -- one full-time and four part-time M.D.'s on our health account. We have since had one of those M.D.'s move to Stanford University. We call it our Stanford-Yale partnership, and they have data and information that watches all of these pieces of information that you saw in the video. We watch for arsenic and hydrogen fluoride, polyaromatichydrocarbons. We don't want them, either. We have a respiratory program for our employees, we don't want them breathing those fumes, that's inappropriate, and we know that, and we do conduct the tests.

I'm very proud of being at Alcoa, I am probably in my last job in Alcoa, and I've held quite a number of them, including corporate auditor in which we conduct environmental audits and health and safety audits at all of our locations around the world. We check for compliance with the law, respirator-fit tests, health and safety programs.

And now I'm now probably in my last job in Alcoa, and I'm very proud to be in this one because this is the right one. This is a values job in Alcoa and I'm proud to be here.

Again, Mr. Chairman, Committee, I appreciate the opportunity to be here, it's very gracious of you. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Questions of the Committee? Senator Vaughan?

SENATOR VAUGHAN: It looks like you conducted a number of studies. In any of your studies, has there been a connection between the PCBs produced by Alcoa at Badin Lake and any cancer or any other diseases?

MR. O'ROURKE: We have had no definitive analysis of that.

Again, as I said, if people believe that that's happening, then they need to raise that issue. And it's been done. Alcoa faces that periodically, I'd say once or twice a decade we have people that are around locations where we exist, and they'll say there is a higher incidence of pituitary adenoma in Evansville, Indiana, for example.

We immediately take that allegation and hand it off to our medical department, which is now Yale University and Stanford University. They have to form a team of experts that are outside. They need a peer review team of outsiders, and they need to conduct that study and report their results. The whole study gets reported and that comes out, yes.

SENATOR VAUGHAN: Follow-up Mr. Chairman?

Would you provide those to this Committee?

MR. O'ROURKE: Of course.

SENATOR VAUGHAN: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Berger?

SENATOR BERGER: I have a series of questions about worker injury claims. You chose to identify one that I assume was publicly disclosed, the outcome, in Tennessee. Can you share with this Committee how many worker injury lawsuits you have settled in the State of North Carolina?

MR. O'ROURKE: I -- I don't have that information, no, but I would be very surprised if it's out of the norm of other corporations or industries just because of the incident record that we've had at Badin.

SENATOR BERGER: Follow-up?

MR. O'ROURKE: I would be glad to share that with you though.

SENATOR BERGER: Follow-up?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR BERGER: Well, will you be in a position to share with this Committee how many suits have been settled? And the reason I ask that question is I was a Judge at the Industrial Commission for ten years, and I can tell you that I know from direct knowledge from the agency that Alcoa had a high number of lawsuits filed against it. Is that something you can provide to this Committee?

MR. O'ROURKE: Yes, sir.

SENATOR BERGER: Follow-up?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR BERGER: Can you also share with this Committee what the average amount that you settled those lawsuits for? I mean, you gave a an example to this Committee that somebody essentially filed a frivolous lawsuit and you had to pay $600. Can you tell us what your average payout is in these lawsuits, as well?

MR. O'ROURKE: I don't know that, I can go back to the office ---

SENATOR BERGER: Okay. Will you make that information available to this Committee?

MR. O'ROURKE: (Certainly.)

SENATOR BERGER: One more follow-up.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR BERGER: Now, I understand when you do settlement ---

MR. O'ROURKE: Some of that may be confidential.

SENATOR BERGER: Well, that's my next question.

MR. O'ROURKE: I'm not a lawyer.

SENATOR BERGER: I understand in an individual case where you would not want to know how an individual worker got paid out. But, aside from that, would you be willing to release all of the attorneys that have entered into settlements with your company to disclose the facts and evidence that they gathered in those cases for public review as long as the actual amount that any particular worker got remained confidential with Alcoa in the interest of openness and full disclosure so that the public can fully see what's going on here? Would you release all of those attorneys from those? Would Alcoa be willing to release all those attorneys from those confidentiality agreements?

MR. O'ROURKE: These would be cases that are pertinent to the relicensing issue?

SENATOR BERGER: Well, I think the issue for us and I think the thrust of this program is if you're going to be entrusted as the protector of this water, then your record and history will have a full bearing on whether you should be able to have that responsibility. So, I'm talking about lawsuits, worker injury lawsuits.

It's my understanding you all -- you -- you opened up and the only lawsuit you shared with this Committee was a lawsuit in which you said, "We only had to pay out $600." Your point was to say, "These lawsuits are frivolous."

Well, why don't you tell people how many lawsuits you've had what the average settlement is and let them see what the facts were in those cases as long as the amount that any individual worker negotiated is kept secret?

MR. O'ROURKE: We will respect the confidentiality and get you that information, the collective information; yes.

SENATOR BERGER: Will you release the lawyers to be able to disclose the evidence that they got against you in their cases for public consumption? Are you going to hold them to those confidentiality agreements?.

MR. O'ROURKE: I won't do that today, I can't do that today because I don't know what the lawyers have negotiated. I also don't know if there is health and safety information or medical information or other information to be kept confidential for other reasons.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Okay. I think I saw Senator Jones's hand.

SENATOR JONES: Thank you for coming, I appreciate your coming today.

In your three citations that were issued, would any of those cause health risks to anyone, the cause of those violations would it cause damage to anyone?

MR. O'ROURKE: One was an allegation or a citation against an extrusion plant that wasn't even in a the Badin Plant.

Second was you may recall that there was a contract diver that died around the Falls Dam, I believe. There is always an investigation after that and that was the second citation, and along with it was a fine of $6,300.

The third I'm not aware of, but I don't believe it was a health claim. I believe it was a worker safety issue.

SENATOR JONES: All right. Thank you. One follow up.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR JONES: I know with all my testing fish, does it cost a great deal of money to test fish to find out how much PCBs are in it? I know we've got an issue here about what's in that lake and how often and who's going to test these fish. Is it a huge cost in that?

MR. O'ROURKE: The whole fish study has to be identified of how you're going to do, how you're are going to conduct the tests. Sometimes you take the fish and you make sure they stay in the same region. You conduct some of them that are kept inside of a cage for a period of time and then test again in another period of time. You have to locate the areas where you're going to do it.

We have already spent $20 million on fish testing and other licensing issues that are there, and that's why we have been resistant.

If the State would come in or the Federal Licensing Board would come in and say we need these additional tests for these reasons, that would be fine. The actual cost for the test is probably not that large.

However, let me make another comment. My understanding is under the law of the State of North Carolina you need a certain number of fish to be tested and they need to have a certain level of contaminants that are found in that test.

The current fish advisory that we have on Badin Lake was not based on that number of fish but on less fish. So why would you want to conduct another series of tests if, indeed, we're not going to follow the requirements of how many fish have to have the contaminant levels in them to determine if there is a fish advisory or not? We are reluctant to do that.

SENATOR JONES: All right. And my follow-up to that would be who selects the number of fish to test? I mean, if you want to do it correctly, I guess, and I've got a hundred fish, I want to make sure I've got a hundred in there to do it with. But who ---

MR. O'ROURKE: We deal with the State authorities and they determine. We come up with a program and go back and forth on how many, which species, how often, what time, and location. And after all that is approved, then you launch the fish study, which usually takes a period of time.

SENATOR JONES: And my last question.

I have never been to Badin, I just know about where it's located. The plant and there, I you said it's going to be closed, it's closed at this time, and that will not be reopening I don't guess.

So we have a dam there that was built, I think it says, about 50 years ago and was built with the intention of hiring about 900 people, but they only got up to about 370, so I guess someone, I don't know whether it's the state, someone violated part of that somewhere on the intent of the number of jobs that was going to be created by the plant.

Now we have a dam there that was built because of the plant, is that correct?

MR. O'ROURKE: The dam was built in 1917. The plant was built shortly thereafter. The electricity from the dam was used in part for running of the operation, that's correct.

More dams were built, the series of four, with the last one being built in 1963 and the licensing starting in about 1958.

We in Alcoa like to consider our power to be a separate business from our operations. In fact, we have now about 63 percent of our power is hydropower for the smelting operations around the world. We operate hydro assets in Iceland, are part owner of three dams in Brazil, and really believe in clean, renewable energy coming from these dams.

SENATOR JONES: But when you built the dams, did you have in mind the process you are using now for this power to go elsewhere?

MR. O'ROURKE: We have operations elsewhere. It was insinuated in the movie that you can take that power and put it on the grid it, and we can run it down to Mount Holly, South Carolina, and run the smelter there from that power. We have other operations that are around; yes, we can move that power around and, in effect, run our facilities with that power. That's why we have the Energy Department.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Vaughan again?

SENATOR VAUGHAN: In your opinion based on all your research, is it safe to drink the water in Badin Lake now?

MR. O'ROURKE: Yes, it's safe to drink the water in Badin Lake, it's safe to swim in Badin Lake.

If I could elaborate? Thank you.

The amount of PCBs in Badin Lake right now is lower than the targeted clean level at most lakes and the Great Lakes and the Saint Lawrence River and the Hudson River, it's the targeted cleanup level.

If you go to your grocery store, take some fish out of the freezer and have that analyzed, you're going to find PCBs.

If you find a polar bear in the polar ice caps and do an autopsy on it, you're going to find PCBs. These things are ubiquitous.

At the level in a Badin Lake as has been determined by the State is at a safe level, yes.

SENATOR VAUGHAN: And it's safe to work at your plant?

MR. O'ROURKE: Indeed, indeed. It might be safer to work at that plant than to drive to work. I believe that.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Okay. Go back to Senator Berger, and then we'll come over here.

SENATOR BERGER: You discussed the testimony or a quote from the film with regard to Dr. Rodgers and his opinion that there was a relationship between the PCBs being released by the Alcoa plant and the PCBs being found in the fish in this lake, I think it's Badin Lake.

You used the phrase -- you quoted this doctor as not agreeing that there was a definitive fingerprint. Can you -- can you tell me what evidence you think has to exist to be able to show a relationship between the PCB, PCBs, being released from the company and the PCBs being found in the lake?

MR. O'ROURKE: There are certain congeners that are sort of fingerprints that are inside the PCBs that can be conducted in tests. And even in his test he said under oath, that certain of those congeners did not link directly back to the Badin Lake or the Badin plant.

Now we did use PCBs in the plant and we released PCBs into Badin Lake, it was legal at the time that we did it. But we did it around the outfall, was the place where they went. And around there that's where we've done most of our testing to make sure that that's clean and not moving.

SENATOR BERGER: Follow-up?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR BERGER: Is it your testimony here today that ultimately in the deposition testimony Dr. Rodgers gave that he went through his opinion that there was a causal relationship between the PCB in the Alcoa Plant and the PCB in the lake? Is that what you're saying, or are you just pointing out concessions he made a to your lawyer on cross-examination?

MR. O'ROURKE: I'm pointing out statements that he made while he was under oath. The statements under oath were a lot more qualified than they were when he was talking not under -- under oath.

SENATOR BERGER: Follow up.

I mean, I have not read his deposition, but I will just ask this question. I mean, isn't it true that he still stood by his professional expert opinion that there was a causal relationship between the PCBs being released by the Alcoa Plant and Badin Lake?

MR. O'ROURKE: I haven't read his entire testimony, either, I was given these statements. And I would say if he stuck to his guns that's pretty inconsistent with these statements.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Okay. Senator Atwater?

SENATOR ATWATER: Mr. O'Rourke, I, too, want to thank you for your presence here today. And I -- it piqued my interest when you were speaking about Stanford University and Yale University. I have some experience in another life, administrative experience, about occupational health studies with universities and union and corporate people.

And I wanted to ask you in those studies that you -- you have requested occupational health assessment studies, environmental health studies, from those universities about your plants?

MR. O'ROURKE: Definitely. Definitely.

SENATOR ATWATER: And in those studies, is the research team comprised of M.D.'s, Ph. D.'s, Ph.D. epidemiologists, M.D. epidemiologists, bio-statisticians, environmental scientists, industrial hygienists and so on?

MR. O'ROURKE: Our staff at Yale includes Dr. Mark Cullen, who runs the environmental and health program at Yale. He has an epidemiologist on his staff, an internist and a statistician.

And now we are linking it with Stanford University, and they're bringing their background into that as well.

I can give you an example of what they recommended recently. There's a belief now that for small particulate matter, smaller than two and a half microns, pm 2.5, is causing cardiovascular disease. Not respiratory, cardiovascular. Well, that would be really significant if that's the case because we have small particulate in our plants.

So we now have a research study that's been designed by the Ph.D.'s and M.D.'s and epidemiologists and statisticians, but they're sending our industrial hygienists off to plants in the United States to conduct samples. So they're hanging samples [sic] on employees now, taking tests and then feeding that information back to Yale statisticians to be able to look at the information and find out is there a causal effect here or not.

If there is, we better find a better respirator or make sure more people are wearing their respirators, and the dust situation. If there isn't, it would be nice to know that, too, that there isn't causation.

Now, the reason they want us to conduct the study is that our database includes information about people who have treatable diseases like diabetes and hypertension, people who are obese and people are smokers, they cause cardio-vascular deceases as well. We can take that database and actually exclude those effects from the pm 2.5 and really isolate that as a cause or not.

So this is the kind of Alcoa that I know, this is proactive. We want to find out if our employees are being hurt by breathing something that's inappropriate; and if they are, let's fix that right away.

SENATOR JONES: One follow-up.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow-up.

SENATOR ATWATER: Thank you.

Additionally, would you share with us some of the medical occupational exposure studies that they've been able to determine, you know, what's at risk in terms of health versus relative to exposure?

MR. O'ROURKE: Sure. I had mentioned our lost workday rate, total reportable rate, they are -- the are stellar, but still we want to have zero incidents in our operations. So, we've gone to them and said, "What can we do to lower the incidence even more?"

And they're able to take a lot of our data and information and come back and give us reports.

For example, people with hypertension and diabetes are being hurt about one-third more often than people without at our locations. And they are suggesting that we must not have the environment where these people can take care of their disease the right way and they must get out of balance. So, we've been able to put programs in place to address that.

They've looked at overturn issues, and we found out that people that work more than twelve and a half hours of overtime a day [sic] or 60 hours a week were getting hurt 25 percent more than the rest of the population. So there's something you can act, too.

So, now to work more than that requires the business union's president's signature that says, "I authorize the overtime, I understand the risk and I authorize the overtime for this period of time."

But that's helpful. They have been able to look at smokers and obesity as well in the workplace and find higher incidents of worker safety and worker health issues based on the condition of our employees. So we've launched wellness programs at 60 percent of our locations, smoke cessation programs at about half of our locations, trying to get these people to deal with the cause and the root cause of their symptoms and their problems.

SENATOR ATWATER: One final?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Atwater?

SENATOR: One brief follow-up question. Thank you, sir.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Sure.

SENATOR ATWATER: Do your studies have a component of looking longitudinally at your employees at relative to deaths, researching their death certificates, specific maladies, cancer sites and so on and statistically relating that to the exposure, environmental exposures, they've had in your plant?

MR. O'ROURKE: We are doing that now, and the database is only 20 years old, but that's almost a generation of workers. And we probably have an elaborate database, which in ten years will probably be the best and we'll be able to track morbidity and mortality all the way through the workforce, yes.

SENATOR ATWATER: Again, thank you.

MR. O'ROURKE: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Apodaca?

SENATOR APODACA: Thank you,

Mr. Chairman. A quick inquiry of the Chair. Is it permissible to ask questions other than on the health issues dealing with this?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Certainly.

SENATOR APODACA: Thank you.

And I, too, want to thank you for showing up today. We're somewhat tired of seeing Mr. Neely, it's good to see a new face.

My question is how many other facilities does Alcoa, and I mean dams, currently own in the U.S. or operate in the U.S. that do not have production facilities tied to them at this time?

MR. O'ROURKE: In the United States, we only have the series of dams run along the -- there's the four that are associated with the project, and then there's two on the edge of Tennessee. So that's six that are pretty much close together. And that would be it.

SENATOR APODACA: Follow-up question.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow-up.

SENATOR APODACA: Yes. On the ones in Tennessee, where are they in the licensing process or are they in the middle of a contract, do you know?

MR. O'ROURKE: I would have to defer, but I can probably do it quickly.

In 2005, the license was received for those four dams.

SENATOR APODACA: Another follow-up?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR APODACA: When did you close that facility prior to the licensing?

MR. O'ROURKE: The Tennessee facility?

It still manufactures (can sheath) in our Knoxville, Tennessee, facility. We have curtailed the smelter for now because this economic crisis hit Alcoa and the aluminum industry harder than most; so when we curtailed production, we curtailed that. Hopefully, business can turn around and business conditions and that can start again .

SENATOR APODACA: One last question.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Certainly.

SENATOR APODACA: Is it now Alcoa's policy or corporate policy to move all new facilities outside the United States?

MR. O'ROURKE: I would say no and the answer to that is a lot of the growth in the markets are here in this country. We are currently looking -- well, we announced the sales agreement for an aluminum window manufacturer that's located in Pennsylvania. That, if it gets all of its approvals, will go into our building and construction business in September.

We're looking very closely to the U.S. car manufacturers now. They have the new (Cap A) regulations that are going to require them to light-weight of their vehicles. And when they do that, the quickest way to do it is to switch to aluminum. So we are hoping to get aluminum-intensive vehicles in this country.

Right now, the biggest aluminum-intensive vehicles are the Audi A-8. But we need it on production cars, the Fords and General Motors and Chryslers here.

So where the market is that's where we will be.

SENATOR APODACA: Follow up?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Certainly.

SENATOR APODACA: The last 30 facilities Alcoa has built, where were they?

MR. O'ROURKE: I would say half are outside of the United States.

SENATOR APODACA: (Indiscernible.)

MR. O'ROURKE: Right.

SENATOR APODACA: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Queen?

SENATOR QUEEN: Yes.

I just had a question concerning the filming and the work done on this documentary. It was done at our public TV station by an employee of the public TV station and it hasn't really gone forward in a public way, this is I think the first public showing of it.

Was anybody at Alcoa involved in putting pressure on keeping this documentary from going forward in any way?

MR. O'ROURKE: To my knowledge that answer is no. Going forward, I think you would mean -- by "going forward," if you meant it goes through the appropriate editorial process, the solicitation of opinions from other people, the correction of any distortion or misstatement of facts, such as Alcoa is a multi-trillion dollar organization, which I wish wee were, that process I would hope would have been followed.

SENATOR QUEEN: Was there any -- I guess I just dealing in the vernacular here, I'm an architect not a lawyer here. But was there efforts on behalf of Alcoa in discussions to our public TV stations about what sort of documentary they were doing and any relationship or support you may have or threats of any kind. legally or otherwise, if such and such is not done to your satisfaction? Do you know of any such discussions?

MR. O'ROURKE: I know of none. I know there were discussions that went on and they talked about it. But threats, I know of none.

SENATOR QUEEN: Do you think folks involved could perceive those as threats, those sorts of discussions that you say you've had?

MR. O'ROURKE: I don't think I could put myself in their shoes and perceive that.

SENATOR QUEEN: Okay.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Allran?

SENATOR ALLRAN: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I'll mention this to you, sir, since you are here--maybe we should get this information some other way--but as I watched the information about Badin Lake, I just wondered about how the water in the other lakes in North Carolina compares.

I know that -- I live on Lake Hickory, and we're not exactly known for having the purest water in the world.

I know that there was an admission that your arsenic levels were higher, but there was a reason given. And then there was the mention of the PCBs.

I would be interested to know how the other lakes in North Carolina compare for purposes of toxins.

MR. O'ROURKE: I would encourage you to investigate that question and I think what you will find is that the PCB level and concentration in Badin Lake is equivalent to that of most of the other lakes in North Carolina.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up?

SENATOR ALLRAN: I think we need to find that out so that we can get a comparison with other lakes, not just talking about one lake.

But my other question, and I might be asking the wrong person to ask you this, but since the primary purpose of Alcoa is to produce aluminum not to manage hydroelectric, now that you're not producing aluminum anymore on the lake, it seems to me sort of misplaced to be issuing the relicensure to you since you're not doing the purpose for which it was issued in the first place.

MR. O'ROURKE: If you read our corporate charter, it says, "Alcoa is in business to make money and a profit for the shareholders, to respect its employees and the communities where we operate."

We make money in areas outside of aluminum. We also have diverted on periods of our life, 122-year life, we've gone into plastics, we've gone into wiring harnesses for automobiles and trucks, we've gone into other areas.

We've now decided that power is a big business and power is a business that we should be in. We've named a new president of our power organization, and he runs those assets on a global basis. So it does fit the broader purpose of Alcoa.

SENATOR ALLRAN: Another question. Well, like I just said, I figured you weren't the right person to ask that question to.

But Duke Power is a utility, Progress Energy is a utility. Are you a utility?

MR. O'ROURKE: Alcoa as a corporate ---

SENATOR ALLRAN: Right.

MR. O'ROURKE: No.

SENATOR ALLRAN: Well, well Walmart might want to run that also, and so might Ford. I mean, there are a lot of corporations that might want to run a water company, but they don't get too, only utilities do, normally.

It was said in the documentary that your investment had been recouped through amortization; is that true?

MR. O'ROURKE: Our investment had been recouped ---

SENATOR ALLRAN: --- through amortization.

MR. O'ROURKE: --- through amortization of the investment?

SENATOR ALLRAN: Correct. That's what was said in the documentary. Is that true?

MR. O'ROURKE: Have we recovered our investment that we made in the dams along the river?

SENATOR ALLRAN: Correct.

MR. O'ROURKE: I would say over the long period that we've been there, I would sure hope so, I sure hope we're still not running at a loss. We are planning to spend $240 million more on these dams, which will put us in a non profit situation for about a five-year period. But, after that, we hope to be able to make money.

SENATOR ALLRAN: So then if you were not to be relicensed because to a large extent you are an anomaly because you are not a utility and you're anomalous relative to the other people running these hydroelectrics, then it would be true to say that you would not be losing any money because you recouped it and more over the period of time that you have been licensed?

MR. O'ROURKE: I would look at it going forward. I would look at it from here to what is your return on your investment that you're making today. So, today we want to make an investment in those dams, $240 million. As we mentioned before, we get revenue on electricity from the dams of about $44 million, and of that we get a profit of about eight. So it's going to take a few years to recoup the investment that we put into the dams.

SENATOR ALLRAN: Why though if you were originally licensed to do the project with those four dams and to manage the hydroelectric -- if the purpose was to produce aluminum and you are not doing that anymore, why should you be satisfied if a different type of corporation than everybody else who might want to do that when normally and regularly hydroelectric is managed by utilities, which are highly regulated on behalf of the people?

MR. O'ROURKE: We have been following the regulations on that dam for the 50-year term of the license and since then under the annual renewals, and we believe that we have been doing that properly.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Okay. Senator Snow hasn't asked a question, so let me ---

SENATOR SNOW: I was looking in 2009 the Department of Health and Human Services in North Carolina ordered a fish consumption advisory for the lake saying the had found elevated levels of PCBs in the water and in smallmouth bass and in catfish. Is that right?

MR. O'ROURKE: I believe there was one fish that had a PCB level that was above the safe limit.

SENATOR SNOW: The Department of Health and Human Services, that was what they found though, wasn't it? They did find elevated PCBs in fish?

MR. O'ROURKE: Yes.

SENATOR SNOW: And is it true that after that finding that you resisted by appealing any posting of signs warning the public about those findings?

MR. O'ROURKE: I would say that that is an inaccurate portrayal. What Alcoa did was when the -- when the authorities came to us and said, "We're going to post a fish advisory," our concern was let's make that advisory be accurate, let's make sure that we let the community know exactly what was found, exactly where the advisory ought to be posted, et cetera. We worked with the authorities to come up with a common language which we eventually agreed upon. And within I believe it was two weeks after agreement of that language the signs were made, the signs were posted where we agreed they should be posted, and it had the language that we have a common agreement on.

So to construe that as us fighting it I think is the opposite of what we actually did, we wanted it to be accurate and complete.

SENATOR SNOW: But the department did, in fact, put the signs up eventually, is that right?

MR. O'ROURKE: And then we agreed with the wording that was on it and the location of it, yes.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Jones? We going to try to close out.

SENATOR JONES: All right. This will be my final question. There may be two parts to this.

But I know that you are an intelligent individual. You're not seen that by no means that no one at the plant at Badin has ever -- did not die from cancer caused by the plant? Is (that) what you're saying?

MR. O'ROURKE: I don't know that. I wouldn't say that nobody died from cancer at the plant. I wouldn't say that the causation between cancer and an individual employee at that plant has been found. That's what I would say. Correct.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Berger?

SENATOR BERGER: Follow-up?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up.

SENATOR BERGER: So, the things that generate the aluminum there at the plant would not have caused cancer?

MR. O'ROURKE: There are some known carcinogens that are in the process. We've identified them, we want to know about them, and then we want to protect our employees from them. So we identified the employees that work in these areas, we explained to them the need to wear respirators, and then we actually tested them to make sure they're wearing the respirators the right way. And then they have continuous monitoring so the medical department can determine that they aren't having any symptoms or cases or causes, that's correct.

SENATOR BERGER: This is the last one.

So, therefore, before they put the respirators on, and some of these people 34 years old, some were 50, whatever, about the time the plant got started, could they have contracted anything during that time that might have caused death later?

MR. O'ROURKE: Of course. I had grandparents who worked in steel mills before any of the health and safety regulations were in place; and during those days, God only knows what they were wearing or breathing or how they were protected. When the laws came into place they not only required certain respirators on others, they required monitoring on a regular basis.

So even the employees that had been there for years and years were requested to get into the medical department and get tested to find out if you had this disease or that disease or another disease and if it can be treated.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Berger?

SENATOR BERGER: I what to get a sense of the level of proof you think has to exist for this Committee to believe there's a causal relationship between exposures to harmful substances and contracting a disease.

Now, I've heard you say. "Well, there has not been a finding that a worker has been exposed to a particular chemical and contracted cancer." I've heard you say there has been nobody -- there has been no definitive fingerprint to show that there is a relationship between exposure to PCBs released by your plant and any cancers.

But I did hear you say, "But we can explain the relationship between arsenic, the high level of arsenic in Stanly County, we can explain that, we can tell you, and it has to do with other substance."

So, can you give us some understanding of how you can know that that is the cause of the high rate of arsenic in Stanly County? Because I think that would give us a sense of what it is you believe the level of proof you have. So, tell us what evidence you had to draw that conclusion and put that out there as the explanation for why Stanly County has this much higher rate of arsenic than the general population here in North Carolina.

MR. O'ROURKE: I can say that we conduct our water monitoring samples on a regular basis. That sampling gets reviewed by the state and other authorities on a regular basis. If they find that contamination that's in the groundwater or other areas of the plant, that gets reported.

And the reason we can't find a direct causation is because people have not been able to find that in those reports.

SENATOR BERGER: Follow up? (If nobody needs to ask a question, I'll waive.)

Your CEO on this documentary said he had an explanation for why Stanly County has a high rate of arsenic showing up relative to everybody else and he attributed it to some other substance, pyrite. So what is -- tell us how you all drew that conclusion that you can prove that the pyrite is the reason that there is the high rate.

MR. O'ROURKE: I don't think he pointed to pyrite as the culprit. He pointed to it as a possible other reason for that being the case. He did say that we have done the studies and the sampling of our groundwater and our emissions at our plant and we haven't found it there. And if we haven't found it there, it must be somewhere else.

MR. ELLIS: I would just have to make the clarification, Mr. Chairman, that was not our CEO in the video.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Mr. Ellis?

MR. ELLIS: (Unless I got a real promotion.)

The information that I conveyed in the video is directly from a geologist who works for the State of North Carolina in a meeting of September, I think it was, 2007.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Follow up only.

SENATOR BERGER: Again, what was it that made you believe that geologist versus other witnesses, such as Dr. Rodgers who -- I mean, he was dealing with PCB. But what was it that made you know that the geologist was correct as opposed to those that would argue it's from your plant?

MR. ELLIS: He's certainly has the expertise in that area, and my recollection was that maybe 20 years with the State working on these kinds of issues. His follow-up statement was that he would be hard-pressed to attribute that level of arsenic to Alcoa.

SENATOR BERGER: Well, what was this geologist's name?

MR. ELLIS: I can't remember right offhand, but I can get that for you.

SENATOR BERGER: Can you get that information for us?

MR. ELLIS: I can, sir.

UNKNOWN SPEAKER: I feel compelled to mention that (?) gold mines where this was located were in Rowan and Cabarrus Counties, and we don't have those levels. I felt compelled to mention that.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: I feel we have had a lot of discussion. I need to ask just a couple.

Do you have groundwater monitoring wells surrounding the plant in Badin?

MR. O'ROURKE: We monitor groundwater on a regular basis, yes.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: How long have they been in existence?

MR. O'ROURKE: I can't answer that question.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: How many of them are there?

MR. O'ROURKE: I can't answer that question, either. I can get that for you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Have the results of testing the groundwater monitoring wells for however long they have existed been provided to the State or otherwise?

MR. O'ROURKE: Yes. As required.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: As required?

MR. O'ROURKE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Two, do you have the epidemiological documents showing a high incidence of kidney and/or bladder cancer in the employees at the Badin Works compared to the population as a whole?

MR. O'ROURKE: We do not.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: And are you aware of the testimony in deposition in the Washington State case where Mr. Ellis testified that the environmental cleanup cost would be 50 Million as opposed to the 10 million which you identified?

MR. O'ROURKE: That was an investment of potential liability for remedial actions at the plant. If you go to our Annual Report in the management summary, you'll see a discussion of our current remediation issues. The largest at that time would have been the Messina operation, that is the largest estimate, that still hasn't been decided.

The Point Comfort operation, which was a mercury release which has been decided, has been cleaned and has gotten a release from the EPA.

And a third was Badin, which was estimated at 50 and we've spent 20 on the relicensing, ten at the plant. But, again, at that time, it was an estimate.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: But the 20 on relicensing wasn't on environmental cleanup, was it?

MR. O'ROURKE: Some of it was associated with the testing that was done in the lake, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: So there's a difference in that deposition testimony and the facts just like there may have been an element of a difference in deposition a testimony from Dr. Rodgers and what you consider to be the facts. Is that a fair statement?

SENATOR BERGER: There could be a factual difference.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: I'm just saying your conclusions drawn are little different, are they not, in terms of the relative testimony?

MR. O'ROURKE: I think the statement that was made at the time that there was a $50 million estimate of cleanup on the remediation costs at Badin was an accurate forecast of what that could have been at the time.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Senator Allran, one question.

SENATOR ALLRAN: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Could I ask a question of staff or pose it to you, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Sure.

SENATOR ALLRAN: Could we ask the staff just to go to DENR and get for us the various levels of these toxins in all the lakes so that we can compare Badin Lake to the other lakes with regard to the what we've been talking about, PCBs and arsenic, whatever these things are that ---

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: To the extent they are available, we'll be glad to do that.

SENATOR ALLRAN: I would think we would have ---

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Our Committee staff also staffs the Environment Committee chaired by Senator Atwater.

UNKNOWN SPEAKER: We will be happy to request that information from the Department.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: Okay. Folks, Mr. O'Rourke, I will say again thank you so much for coming. Chuck, thank you for bringing him.

MR. O'ROURKE: Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the time and the professionalism of you and your Committee. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN HARTSELL: With that, we are adjourned.

Honorable Fletcher L. Hartsell, Jr.
Chairman, Judiciary II Committee
North Carolina General Assembly
Room 518, Legislative Office Building
Raleigh, NC 27603

Dear Senator Hartsell:

Over the past several weeks, Alcoa has reviewed the video, questions and testimony from the July 6,2010 Senate Judiciary II Committee meeting in an effort to provide information that was requested by the Committee members. Alcoa has been a good corporate citizen for more than 120 years, including nearly 100 years in North Carolina, is proud of both its environmental and worker safety records and wants to ensure there is a fair exposition of the matters discussed by your Committee. We appreciate this opportunity to do that.

Alcoa's Environmental Leadership

Alcoa is recognized as a national and global leader on sustainability issues and has invested hundreds of millions of dollars in the generation of clean, renewable energy. Alcoa was named a founding member of the Dow Jones Sustainability Index, has been recognized as one of the "100 Most Sustainable Corporations in the World" and is ranked #1 by FORTUNE for "Social Responsibility" in the Metals industry. Alcoa is also a founding member of the US Climate Action Partnership, which supports reductions of greenhouse gas emissions, and is leading by example. Alcoa has voluntarily reduced greenhouses gas emissions by 44% (compared to 1990 levels) despite continuous growth. Alcoa is a major supporter of recycling initiatives across the country and has partnered with the Aluminum Association to increase the recycling rate of aluminum cans to 75% by 2015. Alcoa encourages employees to take an active role in protecting the environment. In 1998, Alcoa challenged employees to personally plant 1 million trees by 2010. We reached that goal in two years, and then started the "10 Million Trees" program. Alcoa employees remain on track to personally plant 10 million trees by 2020. For the past eight years, Alcoa has published a sustainability report, transparently reporting on its environmental, social and business performance. A copy can be viewed at www.alcoa.com.

Alcoa's Environmental Record at Badin Works

The Badin Works smelter began operations in 1917. During the ensuing decades, Alcoa's operation of the Badin smelter and Alcoa Power Generating Inc.'s operation of the Yadkin hydro project have provided many benefits to local communities and the state. During the smelting years, Alcoa's manufacturing operations had waste discharges and releases that we later realized would require investigation, analysis and, in some cases, remediation. Alcoa has worked closely with state and federal officials for more than 20 years to identify, investigate, and remediate old waste sites on its property in Stanly County. The company has already spent more than $10 million to remediate old waste sites that were identified through the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), a federal program implemented by the State of North Carolina to regulate the management of industrial and hazardous waste and managed under the supervision of the NC Department of Environment and Natural Resources, Division of Waste Management (DWM).

During its RCRA investigation and under DWM oversight, Alcoa hired an independent consultant to test the groundwater on its property for a variety of contaminants. The results demonstrated that there is no imminent threat to human health or the environment associated with these sites, a conclusion with which DWM agrees. Alcoa is proactively working with the State of North Carolina to evaluate potential remedial options, if needed, for groundwater to meet applicable North Carolina standards.

In accordance with the RCRA process, Alcoa is working with DWM on a Corrective Measures Study that will specify any needed additional remedial measures and ongoing monitoring the company will perform beyond what has already been completed. Alcoa submitted a work plan to DWM outlining the conduct of the study. The plan involves additional sampling that will be conducted and the analysis used to evaluate additional remediation measures for six Badin plant waste sites. DWM recently approved that plan and Alcoa is now in the process of implementing it.

Finally, Alcoa, at Stanly County's request, has investigated additional sites reported by the County to be Alcoa waste sites. Those investigations were conducted with full transparency to the State and the County. Of these, one site was identified for further Alcoa action. Testing shows that chemicals found at the site are contained, have not impacted soil, groundwater or surface water and are unlikely to pose risk to human health or the environment. There are no suspected waste sites that have not been addressed through the RCRA program or North Carolina's Inactive Sites program.

Worker Safety and Health

With respect to our employees, Alcoa has a stellar worker safety and health record in North Carolina and throughout the United States and the world. Alcoa has been honored for its outstanding safety performance by N. C. Department of Labor for 37 consecutive years.

Senate Judiciary II Committee Meeting on J 6,2010

Alcoa has noted, as it has sought to understand the intentions of the committee, that the only official action taken by the committee pertaining to Alcoa was the issuance of subpoenas to UNC-TV and one of its employees, Eszter Vajda, for an unaired, unedited video attacking our company. Recent news articles have called into question the objectivity of the video and the motivations of its producer. Others opposed to APGI's relicensing (including private interests, members of the General Assembly as well as the executive branch) appear to have been directly involved with her efforts. A panel of journalism professors at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill who reviewed Ms. Vajda's work concluded that "the result was a series of stories proffering an apparent point of view unsupported by the facts" and that the report "not only tarnished the reputation of a valued state resource, UNC-TV, but, more importantly, presented an unbalanced and slanted view of this important public issue."

The issuance of the subpoena came about as you and certain state officials and private interests pursue a government takeover of Alcoa Power Generating Inc.'s private property and business. The committee meeting provided a forum for the proponents of a takeover to attempt to further their cause by using a now discredited video.

Further, having reflected on the prominent role in the video played by a plaintiffs personal injury attorney and the multiple questions pertaining to workers compensation and related litigation, all of which have nothing to do with the relicensing of the Yadkin project, it appears that this video and some of the related committee questions were driven by agendas other than relicensing. We understand that the public nature of this written response means that others outside of the committee will have access to any and all information that Alcoa provides. As the UNC journalism professors' review demonstrates, to an objective eye the heavy hand of an attorney actively engaged in litigation against Alcoa greatly influenced the video production. The release of partial records by UNC-TV has shown that many others, outside the journalism process, were actively involved in its production. As such, we respectfully decline to provide any information we believe is inappropriate to provide outside of privilege or that is part of or may potentially be part of a litigation process.

Responses to Committee Questions

With respect to questions raised by the committee members and information contained in this response, for ease of understanding we have categorized the documents and information as follows:

1. Alcoa Health Studies. Several questions were directed to health studies that Alcoa has commissioned. Of particular interest to the Committee were studies that Alcoa commissioned concerning potential kidney or bladder cancer effects of Alcoa's operations, specifically at our Badin smelter facility. These studies are:

    - Proportionate Mortality Study of Alcoa Workers (1980-1987), Rockette, H. E. and Arena, V.C., March 1990.
    - Case-Control Study of Kidney Cancer and Hydrocarbon Exposure in the Aluminum Industry, Rockette, H.E, and Arena, V.C., August 1993.
    - Re-Analysis of Kidney Cancer Case-Control Study Following Data Corrections, Checkoway, H, Alexander, B.H and Cullen, M.R., May 1996.

    All three studies were communicated to the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Copies of those studies are attached to this letter.

2. Information Related to Workers' Compensation Claims in North Carolina:

Much of the information requested with respect to worker injury claims is confidential. In particular, Alcoa is not authorized to supply information about amounts of any settlements. Additionally, a significant issue in occupational disease claims is in the conflicting science, or lack of science, to address what causes illness and disease--especially where personal habits and family history may also play a causative role. In other words, the number of claims filed and any settlements, individually or in aggregate, are not an accurate indication of worker safety or the precautions put in place by the company to protect its workers, and Alcoa does not agree that settlement of these often highly disputed claims constitutes an acceptance that the claim was compensable or that the employee developed any work-related disease at Alcoa.

3. Fish Study and Posting of Fish Consumption Advisory:

There are small amounts of PCBs in the sediment in Badin Lake adjacent to the Badin Works plant. When Alcoa initially made this discovery in 1997, we immediately notified the appropriate officials within Stanly County and DENR. The PCBs levels are already similar to post-cleanup levels typically recommended by the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Alcoa has continued to monitor these sediments and recent testing (December 2008) confirms that the contaminated sediments remain isolated and are not migrating.
In 2009, APGI filed a petition for contested case hearing concerning the Fish Consumption Advisory issued by the N.C. Department of Health and Human Services, acting through its Division of Public Health, for Badin Lake. The advisory recommended limits on the amount of largemouth bass and catfish the public should eat from the lake.

APGI respects the DPH's responsibilities and duty to protect public health and inform the public of risks. However, APGI appealed the advisory because the State changed its own stated evaluation criteria, but only after the study was completed, and held Badin Lake to a different standard than other lakes and rivers in North Carolina.

Specifically, the State had never before issued a fish advisory based on the findings in a single fish with slightly elevated levels - and from a location far from the Badin plant outfall. And, even though the State had monitored similar levels of chemicals in fish caught in other waterways in North Carolina, it had not issued a fish advisory in those instances. The failure to use consistent evaluation criteria and apply fish advisories consistently across all waterways called into question the confidence the public will place in fish advisories issued by the State.

Importantly, APGI never vrotested or appealed the posting of signs. In fact, after working with DHHS on appropriate wording for the fish consumption advisory APGI worked with the appropriate agencies to post the signs on Badin Lake.

The presence of PCBs in fish is not an isolated issue affecting Badin Lake. In fact, the N.C. Division of Water Quality website indicates that fish in many other lakes and rivers across the state — including the Yadkin River near Mocksville, upstream of Badin Lake — have been found to have similar levels of PCBs. Health officials have suggested looking for upstream sources of contamination since a majority of fish with elevated PCB levels were caught in the northwest part of the lake, upstream of the Badin Works plant. There are more than 4,500 square miles that drain into the Yadkin Project, including discharges of approximately 100 outfalls from other industries or municipalities permitted by the State of North Carolina.

4. Naturally Occurring Arsenic in Stanly County:

Beyond an onsite landfill at the Badin site, there is no arsenic contamination in Stanly County attributable to Alcoa's operations. The arsenic identified in groundwater at the facility is more likely related to natural background conditions of the soils in the area than smelter operations. That arsenic associated with groundwater at Alcoa's Badin smelter is contained to the area of an onsite landfill. There simply is no plausible way that elevated arsenic levels in well water across Stanly County could be associated with the smelter. Moreover, studies show no impact from Alcoa's Badin operations on water in Badin Lake or the groundwater in other parts of the County.

Arsenic naturally occurs in soils and can become more prevalent in groundwater if certain soil conditions are present. In fact, during a joint meeting between APGI and Stanly County that was held on September 19,2007, Vance Jackson, a State geologist pointed out that Stanly County soil contains high levels of arsenopyrite (a form of fools gold with which arsenic is associated) which is a natural explanation for the high levels of arsenic. Mr. Jackson told representatives from Stanly County that it is "unlucky" to be located in an area with large amounts of naturally-occurring arsenic. Mr. Jackson said a geological study would show that large natural concentration and that anyone would be hard-pressed to directly attribute it to a particular source - such as the Alcoa plant. (This meeting was attended not only by County and Alcoa officials, but also by representatives of several agencies of the state government and the General Assembly.)

Alcoa also tested the water in Badin Lake and Little Mountain Creek for elevated arsenic levels. These are the only bodies of water near the Badin Works site that could be affected by the groundwater at the onsite landfill. Arsenic was not detected. In addition, Alcoa tested the groundwater at other waste sites for elevated arsenic levels. Alcoa has conducted extensive testing of ground water at the Badin smelter site. Arsenic was detected in groundwater in a localized area, near the boundaries of two Badin plant landfills. These levels appear to be the result of naturally occurring soil arsenic levels that are made soluble by relatively higher pH and reducing chemistry conditions at the landfill/soil interface and do not persist very far from the landfill boundary. In particular, our sampling data demonstrates that the groundwater is not transporting arsenic off site to rivers or the lake.

5. Groundwater Monitors at the Badin Plant:

Alcoa has placed nearly 80 groundwater monitoring wells on the Badin site and taken approximately 270 discrete samples from them in the course of preparing its RCRA Facility Investigation report that was submitted to the state and EPA. Many of those wells still exist and others are being installed in preparation for the Corrective Measures Study. That study will provide for the long term management of existing identified waste sites. Again, this interaction with DENR is a transparent process.

Because the site groundwater has been found by the State to be stable and contaminants are not moving and do not pose a risk to human health or the environment, routine monitoring is not currently necessary, according to DENR.

6. Alcoa's Business Model

During the Committee's questions, one of the members observed that since Alcoa no longer operates the smelter at Badin, APGI it should no longer own and operate the Yadkin hydro facility and suggested that only regulated public utilities own and operate facilities that produce electricity which is sold onto the grid. Quite to the contrary, there are many private owners and operators of hydro-electric facilities and other electric generating facilities throughout the United States, including in North Carolina. These private owners generate and sell electricity at wholesale to utilities and provide an indispensible part of the nation's electric supply. The member also suggested that APGI had "recouped" its investment and would not suffer a loss if the new license were not approved. APG1's existing project investment must continue to earn a return, whatever the past returns might have been, as is the case with any capital investment. Going forward, APGI's $240 million investment in the hydro-project for modernization of equipment and other upgrades will continue over ten years. That new investment creates a negative cash flow for the project during these years with a resulting need to borrow money to sustain operations. This investment also increases depreciation expense significantly, with potentially lower profitability dependant on power prices and water availability. It is investment in a business with probable long-term gains for which a long-term license is appropriate to ensure success.

Closing

We appreciated the opportunity for Alcoa to be heard before the J II Committee and to provide this supplemental information.

Sincerely,

William J. O'Rourke

Background

This study provides an evaluation of the mortality patterns of workers in the aluminum industry that can be used with the information from the previously reported Tripartite Study to help assess potential health problems in the aluminum industry. The Tripartite Study was initiated in May 1978 and a report of study findings was made in November 1981. Progress of the study was reported quarterly throughout the duration of the contract period to a Tripartite Committee consisting of representatives of labor, management and government. The study population consisted of 21,829 men employed at least five years in a reduction operation in one of the 14 plants between January 1, 1946 and December 31, 1973 (1). Vital Status determination as of December 31, 1977 was made on 99.3% of the cohort and death certificates were obtained for 97.6% of the men believed to be deceased. The priorities which directed the analysis of the Tripartite data were as follows:

(1) Mortality patterns of workers in the potroom and/or carbon departments were given the most attention in the analysis.

(2) Respiratory cancer was to be investigated thoroughly and was the disease category given the highest priority.

(3) Lymphopoietic cancers were to be investigated and were second only to respiratory cancer as a disease category to be given special attention.

(4) For diseases other than respiratory cancer and lymphopoietic cancer, enough preliminary analysis was done to identify any excess mortality that was associated with a particular plant or process.

(5) Causes of death associated with the aluminum reduction process in other studies were reinvestigated using the Tripartite data.

In order to satisfy these objectives, the mortality patterns of employees in the fourteen reduction plants was compared to the total U.S. male population for 59 selected causes of death. Analysis was done by plant, process, calendar time period, time since first employment and selected exposure measurements. Industrial hygiene measurements were available for total particulates, benzene solubles, benzo(a)pyrene, particulate polycyclic organic matter, sulfur dioxide and total fluorides. Based on these analyses and the previous research literature on mortality of reduction plant workers, some categories of disease were selected for more detailed investigation.

The major findings of the Tripartite Study were as follows:

(1) There were no strong associations of lung cancer mortality and work in the reduction plant. Overall the lung cancer SMR of the total cohort based on 272 observed deaths was 96.4. Formal tests of a dose-response relationship to cumulative years employment in the potroom and carbon departments, cumulative pears of employment in the reduction plant, and cumulative exposure to benzene solubles, particulate polycyclic organic matter, benzo(a)pyrene, total particulates, total fluorides and sulfur dioxide showed no statistically significant relationship.

There were two exceptions to the lack of an excess for lung cancer mortality. One plant, a horizontal Soderberg, had an SMR of 162.0 (pC0.05) for white males. However, the region in which the plant was located has a high lung cancer rate in the general population and when the data was reanalyzed using local rates, the SMR was below 100. The second excess was in the baked carbon department of one of the plants where there was an SMR of 266.8 ($p<0.05$) based on eight observed deaths. However, this excess was not observed in the baked carbon departments of the remainder of the prebake plants.

(2) The SMR for leukemia was 124.9 based on 43 observed deaths. This excess was not statistically significant. The SMR for the prebake process was 123.5 and for the Soderberg process was 130.2. The SMR for potroom workers in the Soderberg process was 169.1 and for potroom workers in the prebake process was 124.6. Analysis by duration of employment was not consistent by process with men in the prebake showing more excess with longer term employment and men in the Soderberg process showing greater excess with short term employment.

(3) The SMR for pancreatic cancer was 122.3 and was not statistically significant. However, there was a significant excess for men with more than 15 years employment in the potroom department in both the Soderberg (SMR=271.3, $p<0.05$) and prebake process (SMR=222.2, $p<0.05$).

(4) The SMR for kidney cancer in the prebakc process was 144.9. The excess was greater in men with less than 20 years employment and greater in men employed outside the carbon and potroom departments.

(5) Although the number of observed deaths was small there was an excess of bladder cancer in men employed 5 or more years in the potroom or carbon department of the Soderberg process.

(6) The only cause of death which was statistically elevated for an entire process was benign and unspecified neoplasms. For the prebake process the SMR for this cause was 193.5 ($p<0.05$) based on 14 observed deaths. The estimated risk was greater for men employed twenty-five or more years, and was higher outside the potroom and carbon departments.

(7) There was an excess of emphysema in the potroom and carbon departments of the Soderberg process (SMR=216.5, $p<0.05$; SMR=258.9, $p<0.05$). Although the excess in the prebake process was elevated, it was not statistically significant. The emphysema risk may have been understated in the prebake process because of a tendency to code many death certificates to "chronic obstructive lung disease" after 1970. If these cases were considered to be emphysema there would be a statistically significant excess in the prebake process. For men with more than 20 years employment in the prebake process there was an SMR of 260.2, ($p<0.01$) for asthma.

The present study is a PMR Study without detailed work histories and without exposure measurements available. Thus, the conclusions that can be drawn from this study are more limited than those that could be obtained from the Tripartite Study. Nevertheless, this study provides us with an independent data base on which to confirm the interpretation of some of the findings in the Tripartite Study and also provides a means of obtaining a preliminary evaluation of mortality patterns of nonreduction plant workers. Specifically, the primary objectives of the present study are as follows:

(1) To obtain mortality data from aluminum reduction plants independent of the Tripartite cohort that can be used to further clarify the relationship of employment in aluminum reduction plants to excess mortality from cancer. Because the majority of ALCOA workers were employed in the prebake process, it is for workers in this process that we expect the most information to be obtained. The mortality patterns in the PMR study will be contrasted with those obtained from the Tripartite Study.

(2) To obtain a profile of the mortality experience of nonreduction plant workers. Little information is available on the mortality experience of nonreduction plant workers since most studies have focussed on exposure in the potroom and carbon departments. This part of the investigation is limited because of the lack of detailed coding within the nonreduction plants. However, by investigating the consistency of any excess among plants with similar processes we may identify potential associations for future investigation.

(3) On the basis of this PMR study, the Tripartite Study and a review of the literature of potential health hazards in the aluminum industry, we will make specific recommendations of studies we feel are necessary in order to determine the association of disease with exposure in the aluminum industry. Such studies will be primarily hypotheges testing as opposed to hypothesis generating.

Methods

The study population assembled by ALCOA consisted of all deaths known to the company as determined by insurance claims during the time period 1/1/80 through 12/31/87 in one of the 37 study plants. Any former employee whose beneficiary had either filed a claim or was receiving death benefits from the company was included in the study population. The initial list supplied by ALCOA was reviewed for duplicates and incomplete or inconsistent names. The resultant study population contains 6433 workers. Death certificates were obtained for all but 60 (0.9%) of the study population. These deaths were coded by a nosologist according to the ninth revision ICD and it is these 6373 death certificates on which the analyses in the present report are based. The frequencies of deaths for each cause are given in the Appendix.

Detailed work histories were not coded and analyzed for this study, since to provide such coding for such a large variety of plants and processes would have required considerable effort. For this report an employee was classified in the plant where he was last employed. Using this method of classification, 2777 workers were coded to one of the eight reduction plants. For these eight reduction plants we further coded whether they had ever worked in the potroom or carbon department as well as the department they spent the majority of time. Nine employees could not be included in this analysis because we did not have work histories. The departments in the reduction process used to classify majority of time were potroom, carbon, ingot, mechanical maintenance, electrical maintenance, and power. A total of 1320 employees in the eight reduction plants spent the majority of their time in a nonreduction process. We have done analysis separately for the 3596 employees in nonreduction plants, the 1320 employees in a nonreduction process of a reduction plant and the 1448 employees in the reduction process.

The proportionate mortality ratio was the primary summary index of risk. The analysis was done using the computer program OCMAP (2) and five year average annual age, race and sex-specific U.S. rates for the control group. As a secondary analysis we used a proportionate cancer mortality index (PCMR) (3). This index uses "all cancer mortality" as the base on which to base proportionate mortality rather than "all cause" mortality and is believed by many investigators to be less subject to the healthy worker effect.

Both the PMR and PCMR were adjusted for age, sex, race and calendar time. To meet the primary objectives of this study we completed the following analyses:

(1) The PMR and PCMRs were computed for 62 selected causes of death by race, sex, and race-sex combinations for the total cohort, for nonreduction plants, and for plants with a reduction process (reduction plants).

(2) For plants with a reduction process PMRs and PCMRs were computed for employees with a majority of their time in each of the following: a) nonreduction process, b) potroom department, c) carbon department, d) ingot department, e) mechanical maintenance, f) electrical maintenance, and g) power. Mortality indices were also computed for employees "ever employed in the potroom department" and employees "ever employed in the carbon department".

(3) PMRs and PCMRs were computed for each plant for all 62 selected causes of death.

Because of the large number of comparisons we expect some statistically significant excesses as well as deficits. When interpreting our data we will give emphasis to the excesses, but when interpreting excesses we will take into consideration the consistency of the result with the Tripartite Study as well as the consistency with other plants that have a similar process. In most cases we have required that either the observed or expected number of deaths be 5 before we attempt to interpret results for a specific cause of death.

Population Characteristics

A total of 6373 death certificates was obtained and coded for the years 1980 to 1987 in the 37 study plants. A total of 6112 (95.9%) death certificates were for males and 5816 (91.3%) were for whites. Table 1 summarizes the distribution of deaths by year. The number of deaths were approximately equal for each of the seven years of the study. The age at death is summarized in Table 2. Fifty-one percent of the deaths occurred at ages 65-79.

The distribution of deaths for the 37 study plants is shown in Table 3. The eight plants with a reduction process contributed 44% of the total deaths and 28% of the total deaths were for employees who at one time were in a reduction process evaluated in the Tripartite Study. Of the 2777 workers in one of the eight plants.with a reduction process, all but 9 had employment histories. Of the 2768 workers with employment histories, 1320 spent the majority of their .time in a nonreduction process. The distribution of the number of employees spending the majority of their time in a specific reduction department is given in Table 4. Of the 1448 employees with the majority of time in one of the reduction departments, 556 (36%) had the majority of their time in the potroom. The second largest group was mechanical maintenance which accounted for 433 (29.9%) of the deaths.

Results

A. Mortality for Total Cohort

The cause-specific mortality for 62 selected causes of death is shown in Table 5. The PMR for the category "all malignant neoplasms" is 103.7 based on 1605 observed deaths. Five causes of death are significantly elevated. These are cancer of the kidney (PMR=158.1, $p<0.01$), all other malignant neoplasms (PMR=134.3, $p<0.01$), benign and unspecified neoplasm (PMR=195.6, $p<0.01$), nephritis and nephrosis (PMR=242.2, $p<0.01$) and cerebral vascular disease (PMR=111.4, $p<0.05$). Since males comprise 91% of the cohort, it is not surprising that when we restrict our analysis to the population of males (Table 6) the same causes of death show a significant excess. For females (Table 7), all other malignant neoplasms (PMR=240.2, $p<0.01$), benign neoplasms (PMR=600.5, $p<0.01$) and all other causes of death (PMR=135.1, $p<0.05$) show a statistically significant excess.

investigated by race, the white population shows a similar mortality pattern to that observed for the total cohort (Table 8). For nonwhites, causes of death (Table 9) for which there were five observed or expected deaths and where there was a statistically significant excess were all malignant neoplasms (PMR=118.6, $p<0.05$), cancer of the stomach (PMR=175.5, $p<0.05$), cancer of the liver (PMR=205.1, $p<0.05$), cancer of the kidney (PMR=254.5, $p<0.05$), cancer of the lymphatic and haematopoietic tissue (PMR=169.2, $p<0.05$); diabetes mellitus (PMR=176.1, $p<0.05$), and nephritis and nephrosis (PMR=192.1, $p<0.05$).

B. Nonreduction Process

A total of 3596 employees worked in a plant that had no reduction process (Table 10). The overall PMR for these employees was 105.2. The only excess within the category of neoplasms was for "all other malignant neoplasms" where the PMR was 145.9 ($p<0.01$). Other causes of death showing a statistically significant excess were benign and unspecified neoplasms with a PMR of 227.3 ($p<0.01$), "all other heart disease" with a PMR of 117.2 ($p<0.01$), and "nephritis and nephrosis" with a PMR of 293.8 ($p<0.01$). Investigation separately for males and females indicated no causes of death other than those identified in excess for the total cohort. When we evaluated mortality patterns separately for race, in addition to the four causes of death in excess for the total group of nonreduction plant workers we found for whites a PMR of 122.8 ($p<0.05$) for cancer of the large intestine and a PMR of 135.4 ($p<0.01$) for chronic endocarditis and other myocardial insufficiency. For nonwhites, we found that the excess of stomach cancer, liver cancer, lymphatic cancer and nephritis reported in the nonwhite population comprising the total cohort occurred in these nonreduction plants. The PMR for all malignancies for nonwhites in the nonreduction plants was 128.0 ($p<0.01$).

Of the 2777 workers in the 8 plants with a reduction process, 1320 spent the majority of their time in a nonreduction process. For this group of workers the PMR for all malignant neoplasms was 93.6. There were statistically significant excesses of cancer of the lymphatic and haematopoietic tissue (PMR=140.1, $p<0.05$), cerebrovascular disease (PMR=126.9, $p<0.05$), hypertension without heart disease (PMR=230.2, $p<0.05$) and nephritis and nephrosis (PMR=196.8, $p<0.01$). We also note the excess for asthma (PMR=331.0, $p<0.05$) based on only four observed deaths. There were only 56 females in this group of workers so the mortality pattern of the total group is essentially the same as that observed for males. For whites, the excesses were the same as that observed for the total group of 1320 workers. For nonwhites, excesses occurred in hypertension with heart disease (PMR=239.2, $p<0.05$) and "all other causes of death" (PMR=202.9, $p<0.01$).

C. Mortality for the Reduction Process

There were 1866 workers who had some employment in the reduction process. The overall PMR for cancer was 106.6 which was not statistically significant (Table 12). The PMR for lung cancer was 117.8 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (103.1, 134.5). Cancer of the kidney was also elevated with a PMR of 200.1 and a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (131.7, 303.8). The only nonmalignant cause of death with a statistically significant excess was cerebral vascular disease with a PMR of 135.3 and a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (116.0, 157.7). The PMR for the category ischemic heart disease was low [PMR=87.2 with corresponding confidence interval of (81.6, 93.2)]. Since only 6 women were employed in the reduction process, the mortality patterns in Table 12 are essentially the same for males. When analysis was done by race, some additional causes were in excess. For whites, in addition to respiratory and kidney cancer, there was an excess in cancer of the lymphatic and haematopoietic tissue (PMR=132.2, $p<0.05$). For nonwhites, the only excess was for diabetes where the PMR was 389.5 ($p<0.01$).

When the 62 causes of death were re-evaluated for men spending the majority of their time in the reduction process, the mortality patterns were similar to those "ever employed in the reduction process" but tended to be slightly increased for many of the malignancies (Table 13). The PMR for the category all malignant neoplasms increased from 106.6 to 109.5 ($p<0.05$). Similarly, the PMRs for cancer of the lung and kidney were increased slightly (PMR=124.3 and 209.7, respectively). The remainder category "all other malignant neoplasms" is also significant with a PMR of 139.3 ($p<0.05$).

Since the primary departments of interest in the Tripartite Study were the potroom and carbon departments, we investigated mortality patterns separately for these two departments. There were 943 employees with some experience in the potroom department. The PMR for all malignancies was 106.8 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (96.1, 118.6) (Table 14). The PMR for cancer of the lung was 111.9 with a corresponding confidence interval of (92.6, 135.2). The only malignancy with five or more observed deaths and a statistically significant elevation was kidney cancer with a PMR of 297.9 and a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (187.1, 474.2). There was also an excess of ulcer of the stomach and duodenum based on six observed deaths and 2.69 expected (PMR=223.0, $p<0.05$). For employees with a majority of time in the potroom the PMR for all malignant neoplasms was 114.8 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (100.7, 130.9) (Table 15). Of those causes with more than 5 observed or expected deaths, cancer of the kidney and ulcer of the stomach were elevated (PMR=285.8, $p<0.01$ and PMR=317.2, $p<0.05$, respectively). Ischemic heart disease was significantly low (PMR=80.6, $p<0.01$).

The carbon department had fewer workers than the potroom department. For the 489 employees with some employment in the carbon department, the PMR for all malignancies was 105.8 (Table 16). Both cancer of the kidney (PMR=250.7, $p<0.01$) and cerebrovascular disease (PMR=136.2, $p<0.05$) were significantly elevated. There were only 140 men spending the majority of their time in the carbon department (Table 17). Thus the statistical power to a true excess is limited. The only cause of death with a statistically significant excess is cerebrovascular disease with a PMR of 195.3 and corresponding 95% confidence interval of (124.6, 306.3).

The PMRs were also computed for the employees spending the majority of their time in mechanical maintenance, electrical maintenance, ingot and power. For most of these departments the number of employees was not sufficient to evaluate many of the specific cancer sites. Table 18 summarizes the observed and expected deaths and PMRs for all malignant neoplasms for employees with the majority of their time in each of the departments in the reduction plant. Those workers with the majority of time in the potrooms show an elevated PMR of 114.8 ($p<0.05$). The site-specific PMRs for cancer have already been discussed for the potroom and carbon departments. For the other four departments the only significant excess was for lung cancer in mechanical maintenance. The PMR was 138.3 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (107.2, 176.4).

D, Selected Causes of Death

For those causes of death that were in excess or for which we have particular interest because of the Tripartite Study, we now present more detailed analysis.

(1) Kidney cancer - The PMR for kidney cancer for the total cohort is 158.1 based on 53 observed deaths and 33.52 expected. All cases of kidney cancer were in males and both white males and nonwhite males had an excess (PMR=157.5 and 257.8, respectively. Of the 53 employees with kidney cancer as a cause of death, 49 had more than 20 years employment. For those employees ever employed in the reduction process, the PMR is 200.1 based on 21 cbserved'deaths and 10.5 expected and a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (131.7, 303.8). This compares to a PMR of 136.5 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (92.5, 201.4) for workers in nonreduction plants.

Further investigation within the reduction process indicates that there is no particular area that appears to have a concentration of excess deaths (Table 19). The excess is not much affected when a PCMR is used instead of a PMR (Table 20). The investigation of kidney cancer by individual plant indicated no pattern for the excess although the distribution of only 53 observed deaths among 37 plants results in numbers too small to conclude that no clustering exists.

(2) All other cancers - The PMR for the category "all other cancers" was 134.3 ($p<0.01$) with 164 observed deaths and 122.1 expected. The excess did not appear to be restricted to any particular race or sex. Of these, 138 were cancer of an unspecified site, 14 were cancer of multiple sites, and 12 were cancer of soft or connective tissue.

(3) Benign and unspecified neoplasms - The PMR for benign and unspecified neoplasms was 195.6 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (136.9, 279.5). The PMR was higher in the nonreduction plants than in the reduction plants (PMR=227.3, $p<0.01$) and PMR=154.7, respectively. The cases did not appear confined to any specific race or sex. The median age at death for the 29 workers with this cause of death was 70.9. Of the 29 observed deaths, 2 were benign brain tumors and 10 were brain tumors of unspecified nature.

(4) Nephritis and nephrosis - The PMR for nephritis and nephrosis was 242.2 based on 85 observed deaths and 35.09 expected. The excess appeared in reduction as well as nonreduction processes and was not restricted to a specific sex or race group. This ICD classification is often a result of insufficient coding of the death certificate and a review of individual death certificates indicated "renal failure" as a frequent cause of death designated on the death certificates with this cause. Investigation of individual plants indicates that five plants accounted for 52 observed deaths when 13.95 were expected. These plants were both reduction and nonreduction plants.

(5) Cerebral vascular disease - The total cohort had approximately an 11% excess in cerebrovascular disease. This excess appeared restricted to white males where the PMR was 115.2 ($p<0.01$) based on 403 observed deaths and.349.8 expected and was higher in plants with a reduction process where the PMR was 135.3 ($p<0.01$) based on 151 observed deaths compared to a PMR of 98.9 for the remainder of the white male population. For reduction plant workers this represents 30 observed deaths in excess which is approximately the same as the deficit observed tor the category "all heart disease". Although the excess occurs in reduction plants it is not confined to the reduction process. The white males who spent the majority of their time in a nonreduction process had a PMR of 132.1 ($p<0.01$) compared to 138.8 ($p<0.01$) for the white males spending the majority of their time in a reduction process.

(6) Respiratory cancer - The primary hypothesis in the Tripartite Study was to determine if there was an excess of lung cancer in the potroom and carbon departments of the reduction process. The overall SMR for lung cancer in that study was 96.4 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (83.2, 105.9). The corresponding SMR of the plants in the Tripartite Study which have been included in this study is 91.7 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (78.4, 106.5).

For this study the PMR for lung cancer shows a slight excess. The PMR for lung cancer for employees in the reduction process is 124.3 with a corresponding confidence interval of (107.3, 144.0). This compares to a PMR of 108.9 for workers in plants with no reduction process and a PMR of 81.3 ($p<0.05$) for workers in a reduction plant that spent the majority of their time in a nonreduction process. Further investigation was conducted by department within the reduction process (Table 21). Workers spending the majority of their time in the potroom, carbon or ingot department all have excesses of 20%-30% that are not statistically significant. Workers spending the majority of time in mechanical maintenance have a significantly elevated PMR of 136.3 ($p<0.05$).

When the risk is estimated using a proportionate cancer mortality ratio ,(Table 22), the risk is slightly increased for employees in the nonreduction process of the reduction plant (PCMR=87.9) and decreased for employees in the reduction process (PCMR=111.9). Neither of these is significantly different from 100. The only significant excess using the PCMR occurs for maintenance workers where the PCMR is 125.7 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (101.6, 155.6).

(7) Cancer of the Lymphatic and Haematopoietic Cancer - The PMR for the total cohort for lymphatic and haematopoietic cancer was 113.6 with a 95% confidence interval of (96.8, 133.2). The PMR for workers in nonreduction plants was 100.2 compared to a PMR of 130.2 ($p<0.05$) for workers in reduction plants. Within the reduction plants, those workers spending the majority of their time in a nonreduction process had a higher PMR than those in a reduction process [PMR=140.1, $p<0.05$ and PMR=122.1 (not significant), respectively]. The PCMR was 146.7 ($p<0.05$) for workers in the nonreduction process and 111.3 for workers in the reduction process. Analysis based on majority of time in individual departments yielded no statistically significant results. Potroom workers had a PMR of 144.9 with a 95% confidence interval of (90.8, 231.3) and electrical maintenance workers had a PMR of 217.3 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (93.3, 506.3). The only individual plant with a significant excess was Tennessee which had a PMR of 172.1 ($p<0.01$. The PMR for leukemia in the total cohort was 102.0. The PMR for those in reduction plants was 117.4 compared to 89.8 for those in nonreduction plants. The number of deaths was small on which to do an analysis by department. However, 8 of the 15 deaths occurred in the potroom with a subsequent PMR of 168.3 based on 8 observed deaths and 4.75 expected with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (85.1, 333.0). The only individual plant with a significant excess was Edgewater with a PMR of 260.7 ($p<0.05$).

(8) Pancreatic cancer - In this study, the PMRs for pancreatic cancer did not show a significant excess for either reduction plant workers or workers spending the majority of their time in the potrooms (PMR=103.2 and 87.2). This compares to an SMR of 134.8 for workers in the potrooms of the Tripartite Study. The significant finding of the Tripartite Study was for potroom workers with more than 15 years employment, where the excess was more than twofold. With the data available in the present study a risk for longterm employees could not be obtained.

E. Analysis by Plant

Mortality for each of the 62 selected causes of death was done for each of the 37 study plants. Such analysis must be interpreted with caution since by random chance alone some plants would be expected to deviate from the average value. In addition, many of the plants did not have sufficient numbers for an individual analysis. Because of these limitations, we view the results as preliminary and any plants that are identified should be given consideration for a more detailed study (if feasible) in a second phase.

Table 24 summarizes the observed, expected deaths and Proportionate Mortality Ratios by plant. Of the 29 plants with sufficient sample size to compute a PMR, 14 had a PMR less than 100 and 15 had a PMR greater than 100. Four plants had a statistically significant excess, but one was based on only 5 observed deaths. One plant had a borderline excess of PMR=130.5 with a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (99.9, 170.4).

Numbers were often too small to do an analysis of individual plants for many of the specific cancers. Nevertheless, in reviewing the results from those plants we note the following

Summary

Conclusions from this study must be drawn more cautiously than was necessary for the Tripartite Study because of the inherent limitations of the PMR study design as well as the less specific job classification used in the present study. Furthermore, the large number of estimates of risk that were computed will result in a larger number of false positive findings than can be inferred from the p-values. Conversely, the small number of workers available for many of the estimates of risk precludes any strong statements in regard to those findings that were negative. With these limitations stated, we now summarize the findings we feel are most important. Consistent with the study objectives, we have given most attention in our summary to malignant neoplasms..

The PMR for malignant neoplasms for the total study population was 103.7 and was not significantly different from the total U.S. population. The only specific cancer site.which was significantly elevated was kidney cancer with a PMR of 158.1 and a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (121.2, 206.3). The nonspecific disease categories of benign and unspecified neoplasms, nephritis and nephrosis and "all other malignant neoplasms" were elevated and appeared to result from lack of complete specification of cause of death on the certificate. The only other disease category that was elevated for the total cohort was cerebral vascular disease with a PMR of 111.4 ($p<0.05$) and this was accompanied by a deficit in ischemic heart disease (PMR=85.2, $p<0.01$).

The analysis by work area yielded the following:

(1) For the combined group of workers in nonreduction plants the PMR for all malignant neoplasms was 105.2. The only statistically significant excesses occurred for nonspecific disease categories (i [illegible], nephritis, benign and unspecified neoplasms, all other cancers). Analysis by race indicated that whites had an excess of colon cancer and nonwhites had an excess of stomach, liver and lymphatic cancer.

(2) For the 1320 workers in a reduction plant who spent the majority of their time in a nonreduction process, the PMR for all malignant neoplasms was 93.6. The only specific neoplastic site with a significant elevation was cancer of the lymphatic and haematopoietic tissue (PMR=140, $p<0.05$).

(3) Workers with the majority of their employment in the reduction process had a PMR of 109.5 ($p<0.05$) for all malignant neoplasms. These workers had a PMR of 124.3 for lung cancer ($p<0.01$) and a PMR of 209.2 for kidney cancer ($p<0.01$). When a PCMR was computed, the estimate of risk for lung cancer was a nonsignificant 111.9 but remained significant for kidney cancer (PCMR=188.6, $p<0.01$). The workers spending the majority of their time in the reduction process had a significant excess for two of the study plants. Neither of these plants had an excess in the Tripartite Study. Workers spending the majority of their time in mechanical maintenance also had an excess of lung cancer.

(4) Although workers in reduction plants had a significantly elevated PMR of 130.2 ($p<0.05$), for cancer of the lymphatic and haematopoietic tissue it was greater in workers in the reduction plant spending the majority of their time in a nonreduction process (PMR=140.1, $p<0.05$). No individual department had a statistically significant excess, although the small number of observed deaths when analyzed by department makes the results inconclusive.

(5) Analysis by plant is limited by small numbers and a further increase in the expected false positives due to the larger number of estimates of risk. Overall, 14 plants had a PMR for "all malignant neoplasms" below 100, 15 plants were above, and 8 had less than 5 observed deaths from neoplasms. Of plants with greater than 5 observed deaths for "all malignant neoplasms", three had a statistically significant excess and one had borderline significance. Eight of the plants had at least one specific site that showed a statistically significant excess. We could identify no consistent pattern in site-specific cancers among plants with similar processes, although such inferences are clearly limited by small numbers and lack of more detailed job classifications in plants with multiple processes.

Summary

In March, 1990, a Proportionate Mortality Study was completed of 6373 deaths occurring in one of 37 Alcoa plants from 1980-1987. One of the goals of the original study was to provide a general assessment of mortality across all Alcoa plants and to identify potential problems requiring further research. Although the proportion of cancer deaths was not significantly greater than the proportion observed in the total U.S. population, the mortality from kidney cancer was 58% higher than expected. The present study is a follow-up to this previously reported Proportionate Mortality Study and its purpose was to investigate whether the excess was due to occupational exposure. One hypothesized cause of an excess of kidney cancer was exposure to some form of hydrocarbon. The primary purpose of the present study was to test the hypothesis of an association of kidney cancer and hydrocarbon exposure. The analysis was based on 71 observed kidney cancer deaths for workers in 26 plants in the aluminum industry from 1980 through 1990. These were matched to a control group consisting of individuals whose cause of death was not cancer or chronic nephritis.

We obtained a relative risk of 2.55 for those with high exposure to hydrocarbons as compared to those without high exposure ($p < .05$). Those with jobs classified as low or medium exposure did not have a significant excess risk. A significantly elevated risk remained after adjustment for nonoccupational factors such as smoking, analgesic use and obesity. Given the suggestion of a relationship of hydrocarbon exposure and kidney cancer in several other occupationally exposed groups we conclude that some of the excess of kidney cancer previously observed in this population of aluminum workers is likely due to hydrocarbon exposure. The number of jobs rated as high hydrocarbon exposure was small and many are no longer in existence. Estimates of risk were elevated for both high aliphatic and high aromatic exposure. However, since many employees had exposure to both types of hydrocarbons it is difficult to separate the effects of these two specific types of exposure,

It should be noted that the analysis and conclusions are based on the data for exposure groupings which we had as of August 18, 1993. On August 19, we became aware of some errors in the exposure classification given to us by Alcoa. This could have a major impact on the results, but there was insufficient time to incorporate these changes in classification into the report.

Introduction

In 1990, a Proportionate Mortality Study [1] was completed of all deaths known to Alcoa that occurred from 1980 through 1987 in one of 37 study plants. Any former employee whose beneficiary had either filed a claim or was receiving death benefits from the company was included in the study population. The resultant study population contained 6433 deaths and death certificates were obtained for all but 60 (0.9%) subjects. All but nine workers had employment histories. Detailed work histories were not coded and analyzed for this study, since coding for such a large variety of plants and processes was beyond the scope of the original proposal. Therefore, most of the analysis was presented by study plant. Employees were classified into the plant where they were last employed. One of the goals of the PMR study was to provide a general assessment of mortality across all Alcoa plants in order to identify potential problem areas. Previous mortality studies in the aluminum industry had focused primarily on workers in reduction plants.

The PMR study summarized the mortality experience for 62 causes of death for the total group and for selected subgroups based on race, sex, and a general characterization of job history. The only cancer-specific site which was significantly elevated for the total study population was kidney cancer with a PMR of 158.1 and a 95% confidence interval of (121.2, 206.3). Of the 6373 total deaths in the cohort, 2777 were for workers in one of the eight aluminum reduction plants. The PMR for kidney cancer for reduction plant workers was 184.2 ($p < .01$) based on 28 observed deaths with a 95% confidence interval of (128.1, 265.0). The corresponding PMR in nonreduction plants was 136.5 based on 25 observed deaths and a corresponding 95% confidence interval of (92.5, 201.4).

Based on these findings, a review of the literature, and discussions with industrial hygienists, it was determined that some type of hydrocarbon exposure might be a cause of an excess kidney cancer risk. Two general classes of hydrocarbon exposure are aromatics and aliphatics. Polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons are formed during the combustion of organic matter and the high temperature processing of crude oil, coke, coal and a variety of other industrial carbon compounds. Some of the members of this group of compounds have long been recognized as being carcinogenic. Occupational groups with exposure to aromatic hydrocarbons that demonstrate an excess cancer risk include workers in gas generation [2,3], coke oven workers [4,5], roofers [6,7] and aluminum reduction plant workers [8,9]. Excess lung cancer in coke oven workers had provided much of the motivation for the conduct of mortality studies of aluminum reduction plant workers. It is less well recognized that coke oven workers also have an excess kidney cancer risk [5].

Although in the aluminum industry investigations of hydrocarbon exposure have focused primarily on exposure to coal tar pitch volatiles in the potroom and carbon departments of reduction plants, there have been suggestions of a kidney cancer risk in other areas. The Tripartite Study [10] found a kidney cancer excess in prebake plants that was not confined to the potroom and carbon departments. The recently conducted PMR study [1], which included both reduction and nonreduction plants, also showed some excess for kidney cancer in nonreduction plants. Solvents, a class of organic substances that includes members of both the aromatic and aliphatic group of compounds, have been considered as a possible carcinogen in several epidemiological studies. Occupational groups with solvent exposure for which an excess cancer risk has been reported include dry cleaners [11], commercial pressman [12] and painters [13]. Gasoline has been suggested as a possible kidney carcinogen [14]. Several cohorts of oil refinery workers, where there is exposure to both aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbons have shown an excess of cancer [15-17], although in general estimates of cancer risks for this occupational group have been inconsistent [18].

Another source of aliphatic exposure in the aluminum industry are rolling and lubricating oils. The association of cancer of the skin with mineral oils was established in early epidemiological studies [19,20]. More recent studies have focussed on oil mists. Several investigators have shown a relationship of machining oils or mists to cancer [21-26]. Because of the evidence that hydrocarbons in the work environment that are not included in the class of aromatic compounds may be carcinogenic it was decided that the assessment of hydrocarbon exposure would include estimation of exposure to aliphatic as well as aromatic compounds.

Research Objectives

The current project is a case-control study of 71 cases and 283 controls. This study tests the association of hydrocarbon exposure with kidney cancer risk. Jobs were classified in regard to exposure to both aromatic hydrocarbons and aliphatic hydrocarbons. Information on nonoccupational factors which may be related to kidney cancer was obtained and investigated as possible causes of the excess risk of kidney cancer in this population.

Research Methods

Methods

The cases included 53 kidney cancer deaths occurring in the PMR Study and an additional 20 kidney cancer deaths identified in the time interval 1988 through 1990. The two kidney cancer cases from the Detroit plant were excluded from the study because information on the employment histories did not identify the work areas or job titles held by the workers. Therefore, 71 cases were available for the analyses. For each kidney cancer case, four controls were randomly selected that were matched on race, sex, year of death and birth year (matched within five years). The control group excluded all deaths from other malignancies since employment in aluminum reduction plants has been associated with a variety of cancer sites including cancers of the lung, bladder, digestive system and haemolymphopoietic tissues. In addition, deaths attributed to non-malignant kidney disease were excluded. Subsequent to the selection of the 284 controls, one subject was found to have died of cause of death which made them ineligible as a control and was removed from the study. The distribution of the study population by cause of death is given in Appendix A.

The 354 study participants had a total of 9673 job entries. These were reviewed by industrial hygiene personnel at Alcoa and classified into 1931 potentially different categories of job exposure. Subsequently each of these was classified into one of the four categories; none, low, medium and high for both aromatic hydrocarbon exposure and for aliphatic hydrocarbon exposure. This resulted in identifying 649 jobs with exposure to either aliphatic or aromatic hydrocarbons, and, 1282 jobs considered to have insignificant exposures to these compounds. It was plann'ed that ,if sufficient industrial hygiene data were available, an assignment would be made of an appropriate quantitative aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbon exposure for each of these 649 jobs. Otherwise, analysis would be based on the low, medium and high classification.

Conditional logistic regression was used to test the hypothesis of an association of hydrocarbon exposure and kidney cancer. Employing this analytical approach serves a twofold purpose. First, it preserves the matching used in the sampling of controls and leads to analyses with statistically more power. Second, the logistic regression is a multivariate technique and can incorporate adjustment for other covariates. Specifically, the effect of hydrocarbon exposure can be evaluated while simultaneously adjusting for potential confounders which were not matched during the sampling of the controls. Information on potential confounders was obtained from a questionnaire administered to a surrogate by telephone (Appendix B). Potential confounders for kidney cancer include weight, smoking patterns and use of analgesics. Responses to the questionnaire were obtained for 301 (85.0%) of the 354 study participants. The response rates for the cases and the controls was 83.1% and 85.5%, respectively. The individual responding to the questionnaire was a spouse 63.8% of time and a child 27.9% of the time. There was no difference between the cases and controls in regard to the distribution of the relationship of the person responding for the study participant. The primary analysis will relate hydrocarbon exposure to kidney cancer for the total study group. Several exposure measures were used to investigate the primary hypothesis. These included estimation of risks: 1) for those ever exposed to hydrocarbons; 2) for those ever exposed to high levels of hydrocarbons; 3) by cumulative years of hydrocarbon exposure; and 4) by cumulative years of high hydrocarbon exposure. As a secondary analysis, we estimated risk separately for aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbon exposure. To determine if exposure is related to disease outcome, the likelihood ratio test was used to determine whether the beta coefficient for exposure in the logistic model is equal to zero. A reanalysis, adjusting for potential confounders, was done for the subgroup responding to the questionnaire.

The .sample size estimates in the design of this study assumed a Type I error of .05, a proportion of exposed controls equal to 0.30 and a matching ratio of 1:4. Assuming a conditional logistic regression model, the sample size required for selected values of relative risk and statistical power are summarized in Table 1. We had planned to have reasonable power to detect a relative risk, of 2 to 2.5. At the time we initiated the study we were unsure as to the exact number of kidney cancer cases since the number of kidney cancer deaths in 1988-1990 was unknown.

The actual number of kidney cancer cases was 71 which was in the expected range. However, the percentage of individuals with some exposure to hydrocarbons was 77%. This was because many of the workers in alurninum plants have at least low exposure to hydrocarbons, particularly aliphatics. With 71 cases and an exposure proportion of .77 there is 68% power of detecting a 2.5 relative risk and power of 80% of detecting a risk of 3.0. Overall, eleven percent of the workers were classified as having high exposure to hydrocarbons. High hydrocarbon exposure among the controls was nine percent. Assuming a conditional logistic regression model, the statistical power for relative risks of 2.5 and 3.0 were 68% and 85%, respectively [27].

Description of the Data Base

Of the 354 study participants, 349 (98.6%) were males and 329 (92.9%) were white. These characteristics as well as birth year and year of death were considered in the design by matching to assure comparability of cases and controls. Figure 1 shows the frequency distribution of year of birth for the study participants. The largest number of births occurred between 1911 and 1920, with very few births occurring before 1900 or after 1930. Year of death (Figure 2) was fairly evenly distributed among the 11 years of the study, and differences can be attributed to chance variation. The average age at death was 69.0 for cases and controls combined. Figure 3 shows the frequency distribution of the average age at death for cases and controls. More than half (62%) of the deaths occurred between the ages of 60 and 75.

For the 85% of the study participants for whom there was a response to the questionnaire there was also information on smoking, weight, use of diuretics and use of analgesics. A comparison of the smoking patterns of cases and controls is shown in Table 2. Eighty-five percent of the study population were smokers or ex-smokers and 78% had smoked cigarettes. As expected, more detailed information on the amount and duration of past smoking was less complete. There is reasonably good agreement in the smoking patterns of the two groups. Although this might be considered surprising because smoking is a risk factor for kidney cancer, some of the causes of death in the control group are also associated with excess risk from cigarette smoking and would be expected to have an increased number of smokers.

A comparison of other selected characteristics is shown in Table 3. The proportion of patients using diuretics is higher in the control group. Information on the reason for usage was not available for most of the patients, but in those that did give a reason, blood pressure (46.3%) and heart disease (26.8%) were the most common reason. Since the control group contains a large number of deaths from cardiovascular disease it is not surprising that there would be a higher number of patients in the control group taking diuretics for a hypertensive or cardiovascular condition. Although the average weight is similar in the two groups the percentage of individuals classified by the surrogate as overweight throughout most of their adult life is higher in the control group ($p < .05$). There is a tendency for a preference for aspirin rather than aspirin free products in the control group but the results are not statistically significant. The response on the duration and brand name of products used was not sufficiently complete to be useful in the analysis.

Work Environment

The study consists of 354 workers from 28 plants. Of this number, 56.2% are workers in aluminum reduction plants and 29.9% are from Alcoa, Tennessee (Table 4). Alcoa provided all of the information on exposure classification and was responsible for the coordination of this effort. Review of the jobs appearing on the work histories by Alcoa industrial hygienists resulted in a classification into 1931 potentially different categories of job exposure. Then blinded as to whether the job category was present on the work history of a case or a control, the 1931 job classifications were identified by company industrial hygienists as: a) none/insignificant; b) low; c) medium; and d) high for both aromatic and aliphatic exposure. This assessment was done through interviews with current industrial hygienists and process engineers with experience at the specific plants. For aromatic exposure the plant industrial hygienists were asked if specific jobs had exposure to coal tar pitch volatiles such as those in reduction operations, roofing or floor coatings; solvents containing chemicals such as benzene, xylene, toluene or other aromatic hydrocarbon; or paints or coatings containing aromatic hydrocarbons. For aliphatic hydrocarbon exposure the plant industrial hygienists were asked whether the specific jobs had exposure to diesel or gasoline fumes, solvents containing aliphatic hydrocarbons, perchlorethylene, oil mists, or paints or coatings containing aliphatic hydrocarbons.

Pertinent industrial hygiene files were reviewed by Alcoa for the individual locations and when quantitative exposure assessments were available they were considered in the determination of the appropriate qualitative classification of job exposure. Table 5 summarizes the 1931 jobs cross-classified by aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbon exposure. In the classification of aliphatics, six jobs were classified in an intermediate category of "low to medium" exposure. In analysis where the low and medium categories were distinguished these job categories were considered to have medium exposure. The cross-classification in Table 5 indicates that approximately 20% of the job categories with exposure have both an aliphatic and an aromatic component. However, since workers have been employed in multiple job categories the percentage of individuals with exposure to both aliphatics and aromatics is higher.

Table 6 summarizes the percentage of workers who had ever worked a job with some exposure to aliphatics or aromatics and those with at least one job at higher exposure levels. It is clear from Table 6 that the majority of workers have had some exposure to aliphatics. It is also clear that many workers have been exposed to both types of hydrocarbon exposure. All of the workers with exposure to aromatics also had some exposure to aliphatics. Forty-seven percent of the workers with exposure to aliphatics had exposure to aromatics and sixty percent of the workers with high exposure to aliphatics had some exposure to aromatics.

The occurrence of both aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbon exposure in the same individuals means it may not be possible to separate the effects of exposure to aliphatic and aromatic exposure. Therefore, as a first analysis we estimated risk associated with hydrocarbon exposure without regard to type. As a secondary analysis we will estimate risks separately for aromatic and aliphatic exposure.

We also considered the possibility of using industrial hygiene measurements in place of the qualitative classification. Unfortunately, since some operations either had substantial changes in exposure or were no longer in existence, we felt the data was too incomplete to attempt to link a numerical value with each specific job category. However, the data were useful in providing an indication of the average quantitative value associated with the qualitative categories and in providing an indication of the validity of the qualitative assessment. For aliphatics, measurements were taken on 161 exposure categories. For each of these categories we had quantitative estimates of exposure for aliphatic chains from length five to twenty (C_5 - C_{20}). The lowest quartile of quantitative exposure measures were all for job categories classified in the low or insignificant exposure category and for the second quartile 95% of the measurements were for jobs in the low exposure category. In the third quartile (second highest quartile), 38% of the measurements were classified as medium exposure and the rest were classified as low or insignificant. The highest quartile based for the quantitative IH values contained all five of the jobs classified as high exposure and a majority of the remaining jobs were classified as medium exposure. For aliphatic exposure there appeared to be reasonably good agreement between the quantitative measurement and the qualitative category.

For aromatic exposure a comparison between the qualitative categories and quantitative values was more problematic. First, the industrial hygienists did not consider any single quantitative measure for aromatic hydrocarbon exposure to be an adequate representation of the qualitative index since aromatic exposure includes both "pitch" and "non-pitch" exposure. Pitch exposure occurs primarily in the reduction plants and is primarily aromatics of three rings or higher. Solvents are one of the primary sources of "non-pitch" hydrocarbon exposure and consist primarily of the one ringed aromatics (benzene, toluene and xylene) and some two and three ringed aromatics. An individual ranking was not done of "pitch" and "non-pitch" hydrocarbon exposure so an appropriate comparison of qualitative and quantitative values could not be done. Second, the amount of quantitative data was limited. There were only 8 quantitative measurements available for jobs with exposure to only "nonpitch' aromatics.

Although there is more data for jobs associated with pitch, the range of values for present day operations is limited. Of the 152 jobs with an IH measure that had no exposure to 'nonpitch", aromatic hydrocarbons 130 (85.5%) were less than 30% below the PEL. This is a reflection of the improvements in levels of coal tar pitch in present day reduction plants but it provides little information for comparison to the qualitative categories where the assignment of "medium" and "high" often were based on exposure representing historical conditions. In fact, there were no measurements taken for jobs classified as having high aromatic exposure since no comparable environments were available in current operations.

On August 18, we became aware of some errors in the exposure data given to us by Alcoa. These errors could impact on the results and conclusions of this report. However, there was not enough time to incorporate any changes which would result from a reanalysis of the data into this document.

Risk Associated with Hydrocarbon Exposure

The results of fitting a conditional logistic model with hydrocarbon exposure as an independent variable is summarized in Table 7. The estimated risk for those with some hydrocarbon exposure to those with no hydrocarbon exposure is 1.04. Those with low or medium exposure show no greater risk than those with no hydrocarbon exposure.. However, for those with high hydrocarbon exposure the estimated risk is 2.55 ($p = .02$). When a term for low to medium exposure and a term for high exposure are included in the model (Model 4) and compared to those with no hydrocarbon exposure, the association of kidney cancer and hydrocarbon exposure remains significant ($p = .05$). The risk is only evident for those with high hydrocarbon exposure and those with low to medium exposure actually have a risk that is slightly below the baseline group. Although high exposure is associated with kidney cancer risk there does not appear to be a relationship with duration of exposure. There is no relationship of kidney cancer mortality with either cumulative years of hydrocarbon exposure (Model 5) or cumulative years of high hydrocarbon exposure (Model 6).

The same models summarized in Table 7 were fit to the data using aromatic hydrocarbon exposure as the independent variable (Table 8) and aliphatic hydrocarbon exposure as the independent variable (Table 9). Again, it is the high exposure categories that show the greatest risks for kidney cancer. For aromatic exposure, the relative risk of those ever exposed to high levels of aromatics to those never exposed to high levels was 1.61 ($p = .38$). When a term for low to medium exposure is added to the model (Model 4) the high exposure category has a risk of 1.67 compared to those never exposed and the p-value associated with the joint aromatic hydrocarbon coefficient remains nonsignificant. For aliphatics [Table 9) the relationship with kidney cancer is also strongest for those with high exposure ($RR = 4.10$, $p < .01$). There remains no association with length of time with aliphatic exposure (Model 5) or length of time with high aliphatic exposure (Model 6). Although the high aliphatic exposure category had increased risk, there appeared no increase with low or medium exposure.

When a dose-response relationship was tested using the relative weights of 0, 1, 2, 3 for none, low, medium and high exposure, respectively, neither aliphatic or aromatic hydrocarbon exposure showed a statistically significant excess. A reanalysis for aliphatics was done by selecting weights corresponding to mean values of the industrial hygiene measurements in the various exposure categories. This corresponded to 3, 9, and 26 mg/m^3 for low, medium and high exposures, respectively. There was no significant trend of kidney cancer and exposure.

Adjustment for Nonoccupational Factors

Survey information was available for 59 cases and 242 controls. The primary purpose of the questionnaire was to control for potential confounding variables that may distort the relationship of exposure and risk of kidney cancer. A copy of the questionnaire appears as Appendix B. When the variables from the questionnaire are included in the analysis it must be done on the subset of patients with information available. The risk of kidney cancer due to high hydrocarbon exposure in the subgroup of patients responding to the questionnaire was 3.24, $p = .01$, which is similar to the estimated risk for the entire population (RR =.2.55, $p = .02$). A formal test was conducted to determine whether the risk'of kidney cancer for those with high hydrocarbon exposure differed for those with a survey and those without a survey. The model used to test this hypothesis included a variable indicating whether a survey was done, a variable indicating high hydrocarbon exposure, and a variable measuring the interaction for these two factors. The variable for interaction was not significant, indicating there is no statistically significant difference in the risk of kidney cancer associated with high hydrocarbon exposure between those responding to the questionnaire and those not responding.

Logistic regression was used to test whether high hydrocarbon exposure was related to kidney cancer after adjusting for potential confounders. Potential confounders obtained from the questionnaire include smoking history, use of diuretics, use of aspirin analgesics, use of aspirin free analgesics and obesity. We measured obesity using the index weight/(height)^2 where weight was in kilograms and height was measured in meters. The model used a binary variable to characterize individuals that were overweight ($\geq$ 30.0 kg/m^2). In addition, adjustment for possible geographic variability was made by including an extra term in the model which controlled for plant location. This variable grouped together those plants which had jobs with high hydrocarbon exposure. Table 10 summarizes the effect of adjusting the risk of kidney cancer from high hydrocarbon exposure for various models. The estimated risk ranges from 2.74 to 3.37 when adjusted by single factors and in all cases the risk due to high hydrocarbon exposure remains statistically significant (Models 2 through 8). The results remain unchanged when simultaneously adjusting by several factors. All of the models adjusting for multiple confounders have an estimated risk of high hydrocarbon exposure of at least 2.99 and all indicate the hydrocarbon effect is statistical significant. Model 13, which includes all the potential confounders, has an estimated relative risk of 4.28 ($p = .014$) for high hydrocarbon exposure. The corresponding 95% confidence interval is (1.31, 13.99). Both smoking and the use of aspirin-free analgesics also show increased risk of kidney cancer but including them in the model does not eliminate the risk due to hydrocarbon exposure. The inverse relationships of kidney cancer risk with diuretics usage and obesity probably occurs because these factors have a stronger relationship with cardiovascular disease, a condition that is prevalent in the control group.

Table 11 summarizes the results of incorporating potential confounders in the model when the measure of exposure is high aromatic exposure. The estimates of kidney cancer risk associated with high aromatic exposure increase when adjustment is made for potential confounders. The estimated risk after adjustment for all potential confounders (Model 13) is 4.12 ($p = .08$). The corresponding 95% confidence interval is (.80, 21.94).

Table 12 summarizes these same models applied to the exposure variable indicating high aliphatic exposure. The estimated risk of kidney cancer for those with high aliphatic exposure remains consistently above 3.0. When all potential confounders are included in the model (Model 13) the estimated risk for kidney cancer is 4.27 from high exposure to aliphatics ($p = .048$). The corresponding 95% confidence interval is (1.01, 18.15).

Of the 22 workers with high exposure to aromatics, six (27%) died from kidney cancer. All were white males with an age at death ranging from 62-82 years. Several of the workers were in a high exposure area for only a short period of time, but all had long periods of time with hydrocarbon exposure (minimum 12 years). Three of the workers had at least 28 years of exposure to jobs with medium or high levels of aromatic hydrocarbon exposure. All of the jobs classified as having high exposure to aromatics had exposure to coal tar pitch volatiles that occurred in older reduction plant operations.

Of the 20 workers with high exposure to aliphatics 9 (45%) died from kidney cancer. All of the workers were white males with an age at death that ranged between 62 and 72. Five of the nine deaths were for workers at Massena. Only one of the workers had high exposure to aromatics and three were classified as having no aromatic exposure. The median length of time to aliphatic exposure was 19 years. Eight of these nine workers had employment in jobs with high aliphatic exposure in the wire, rod and bar or tube mills.

Discussion

The suggestion that there is a risk of kidney cancer from hydrocarbon exposure, is not a new one. Animal studies have shown a relationship of exposure to hydrocarbons and kidney cancer [28,29]. In addition, several epidemiological studies have demonstrated a risk of kidney cancer with hydrocarbon exposure identified as a possible causative factor. In a cohort study of coke oven workers, there was a relative risk of 7.49 based on 8 observed deaths [5,30]. Coke oven workers are exposed to aromatic hydrocarbons and much of the original concern with cancer in aluminum reduction workers is related to exposure to aromatic hydrocarbons. McLaughlin et al. [31] reported a relative risk of 1.6 for workers exposed to petroleum, tar and pitch products in a population based case-control study of renal carcinoma with 495 cases and 697 controls. In a population based case-control study with 210 cases and 210 matched controls, Kadamani et al. [32] reported a relative risk of 1.6 in males exposed to hydrocarbons but no excess in females. Exposure was assessed by two industrial hygienists who assigned a subjective score of 0 to 5 for each job in the work history. Each individual then had a cumulative exposure score.

Cohort studies of aluminum workers have also identified excesses in kidney cancer although the results were not always statistically significant. Rockette and Arena [10] found an excess of kidney cancer in prebake plants (SMR = 151.3). However, excesses did not appear to be associated with potroom or carbon department jobs. In a large cohort of Norwegian reduction plant workers [33] there was an excess risk of kidney cancer of 20%..Two different studies of Canadian aluminum reduction plant workers [34,35] show excesses of 46% and 36%, respectively. Thus, there appears to be a consistent, although small, excess of kidney cancer in reduction plant workers. This consistent excess in kidney cancer was noted by Doll in a previous review of mortality patterns in aluminum reductionplant workers [36].

Although these studies as well as other have found excess cancer risk that may be due to hydrocarbon exposure, the investigators of some occupational groups with hydrocarbon exposure have produced inconsistent estimates of cancer risk. In particular, Harrington [18] considers 'the studies of exposure to gasoline to be inconsistent in regard to estimates of cancer risk. Savitz and Moure [37] attribute the inconsistent results in studies of oil refinery workers to methodological shortcomings. In particular, exposure is often not assessed, latency periods are not considered in many of the analyses, and there is often no attempt to adjust for potential confounding variables. In summary there have been many studies assessing the association of hydrocarbon exposure and cancer risk, many of which have been positive and some of which have identified an excess of kidney cancer. However, a number of negative studies as well as methodological shortcomings in some of the studies which were conducted have prevented any general conclusions that a wide range of hydrocarbons result in an excess kidney cancer risk.

In regard to the excess kidney cancer risk found in the present study, there is always a possibility of bias in a case-control study. However, efforts were made to control bias. We matched on the factors age, race, sex, year of birth and death year to avoid possible confounding by these factors. The industrial hygienists were blinded in regard to whether the job entry was taken from the work history of a case or a control when making the exposure assessment. Therefore, misclassification errors were likely to be nondifferential between cases and controls. Errors of this type tend to lessen the chance of an association of outcome with exposure.

An attempt to control for nonoccupational confounders was done using questionnaire data. Several issues arise when incorporating data obtained from questionnaires, Information on confounders is usually difficult to obtain and there is usually a loss in statistical power due to exclusion of subjects from the analysis of those not responding. There is also the possibility that the subset of those who respond is not representative of the entire group. In this study, non-responders had a slight tendency to die in earlier years, however, there was not a sufficient difference to affect risk estimates. Furthermore, the estimates of risk from high hydrocarbon exposure were not significantly different in the group of responders and the group of nonresponders. Smoking [38] has been associated with kidney cancer. The validity of smoking information obtained from surrogates has been discussed in the literature. For adults, Pickle et al. [38] report that the most complete information is collected when the subject's spouse or offspring is interviewed and when the data is consolidated into broad categories. In the present study, 91.7% of the respondents were a spouse or offspring of the decedent. An attempt was made not to have questions that were too specific in the interview because of the problems associated with surrogates providing detailed information on smoking habits. Age started smoking was categorized to the appropriate decade of life and estimates of the number of cigarettes per day were grouped into broad categories. Over ninety percent of those responding to the questionnaire indicated an age when the subject first started smoking and the amount of cigarettes smoked per day. Although the reliability of surrogate information is always an issue, Rojot and Redi [40] found that smoking information from next.of kin was more reliable when deaths occurred recently. Telephone interviewing of the surrogates occurred within five years of the subjects death for 52% of the deaths in this study. None of the deaths occurred more than ten years prior to the interviews.

Even if one questions the validity of the smoking data, it is unlikely given the large number of smokers or ex-smokers and the magnitude of the estimated risk, that the risk for hydrocarbon exposure could be entirely due to confounding. Assuming the average risk of kidney cancer in a mixed population of smokers and ex-smokers is 3:0, and 85% of the controls are smokers or ex-smokers then even if 100% of the cases were smokers or ex-smokers the increase in risk estimate due to confounding would result in an estimate of 1.15 [41], which is far below our estimates of risk due to hydrocarbon exposure.

Other nonoccupational risk factors for kidney cancer are less well established. Several investigators have suggested an association of obesity with an increased risk of kidney cancer [42-46]. Animal and human studies have shown a positive association between the ingredients found in diuretics and renal carcinoma [46,47]. Other studies have indicated an increase of kidney cancer in patients using certain based analgesic compounds [48-52]. Use of aspirin-free analgesics in the present study had an associated risk of kidney cancer of 1.96 (p.= .22) but there was no imbalance among cases and controls that would alter the elevated risk of those exposed to high levels of hydrocarbons. When aspirin-free analgesic usage was included in the model, the adjusted estimate of risk for high exposure to hydrocarbons remained significant.

When the risk for hydrocarbon exposure is adjusted for multiple factors the hydrocarbon risk remains statistically significant. Smoking and aspirin free analgesics are associated with excess risk of kidney cancer which is consistent with the literature. Weight and diuretic are inversely related to kidney cancer risk. This latter observation may be an artifact since these two factors would also be expected to be higher in individuals dying from cardiovascular disease. Cardiovascular deaths comprise a majority of the control group.

In addition to bias, excess risk sometimes occurs due to random variability. Over reliance on the p-value can lead to overemphasis of high relative risks in occupational mortality studies that test a large number of hypotheses. Due in part to the Healthy Worker Effect, the effect of multiple comparisons on the probability of a false positive finding is greater in proportionate mortality studies [53]. This was a potential problem in the originally conducted PMR study [1]. However, in the present study which could be considered the "hypothesis testing" phase rather than "hypothesis generating" phase the probability of a false positive finding is more accurately reflected by the significance level associated with the risk

Although the present study indicates that individuals with high exposure to hydrocarbons are at excess risk from kidney cancer several limitations of the study should be noted. First, all studies of this type require estimates of exposure in some situations where actual measurements are presently unavailable. This is because operations and exposures have changed over time and present exposures may not be an adequate representation of historical ones. In the present study approximately 25.0% of the jobs had actual measurements taken. For those with measures there was reasonably good agreement between the a priori estimate of aliphatic exposure (classified as low, medium and high) and the quantitative measure. However, such estimates of exposure must always be viewed as an approximation. If the misclassification is nondifferential then the effect of poor estimates will make it harder to identify a dose-response. For aromatic exposure, there was more difficulty in comparing quantitative and qualitative values. Historically the reduction jobs had higher levels of aromatic exposures than current operations. Also, there is a possibility that some job classifications may not have adequately considered the lower ringed compounds since historically the aluminum industry has given emphasis to the higher ringed compounds. Some of the hydrocarbon exposure included solvents. Exposure to solvents is particularly difficult to assess [54]. There may be large variations in an individual's exposure during the workday and there can be considerable variability among individuals even when performing the same task. It is common to use solvents in mixtures and exposure to specific ,solvents or even classes of compounds are often difficult to assess.

A second issue relates to delineating the risk for aromatic and aliphatic exposure. For many jobs both exposures are present and distinguishing risk is difficult. In the multivariate model both aliphatics and aromatics have an excess risk but only for aliphatics is the result statistically significant. Because of the confounding exposure occurring in the same job and because workers often held jobs with varying types of hydrocarbon exposure, it is difficult to separate the effects of risk of the aliphatic and aromatic compounds.

Even within the categories of aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbons there can be considerable variability in job exposure. In this study the aromatic exposure was primarily coal tar pitch and the high category of coal tar pitch was assigned to jobs in the Soderberg process. Nonpitch aromatic exposure was 'due primarily to solvents. Since all the high e'xposure jobs were due to pitch the kidney cancer excess in the high aromatic category is probably due to pitch exposure.

In this study the higher categories of aliphatic exposure were primarily due to rolling and lubricating oils. There is increasing evidence that machining oils or oil mists [21-24,26,55] can cause cancer although the most frequently identified causes are cancer of the skin and digestive cancer. In this regard cancer of the kidney has not been established as associated with machining oils and further investigation is needed.

Finally, there does not appear to be a dose-response relationship. Low and medium exposures show no excess risk. This could be due to a threshold or a result of some misclassification at the lower dose levels. Similarly, some of the workers with high hydrocarbon exposure had short exposure at these high intensities. Although it may be that high intensity is more important than cumulative dose, this is difficult to evaluate because those with high intensity hydrocarbon exposure tended to have long term aliphatic or aromatic exposure at lower levels.

In summary, epidemiological studies are always subject to limitations and investigations of hydrocarbon exposure are even more difficult because of the difficulties in measuring exposure. However, the conclusion that the high kidney cancer risk in the present study is related to high hydrocarbon exposure is strengthened by the following factors:

1) The magnitude of the risk is relatively high making it less likely to be induced by unknown confounders.

2) The risk remains significant even after controlling for potential nonoccupational confounders.

3) The quality of the exposure assessment is good compared to most previous studies of hydrocarbon exposure. The categorization was done blinded as to case or control status so errors are unlikely to introduce bias.

The foregoing analysis and conclusions is based on data we had available as of August 18, 1993. On August 19, we received information from Alcoa that there were some errors in the classification. Although the percentage of jobs misclassified is small, these errors could have an impact on the results and conclusions. In the short amount of time available, we could not assess the magnitude of the impact.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In 1993, researchers from the University of Pittsburgh Department of Biostatistics reported findings from a case-control study of kidney cancer among Alcoa workers from 26 U.S. plants. The study was prompted by a proportionate mortality ratio analysis in which an excess of kidney cancer mortality was observed. The case-control study findings suggested risk elevations related to the highest exposures to hydrocarbons, especially aliphatic hydrocarbons. A weaker, but still elevated risk was found with the highest exposures to aromatic hydrocarbons. At the conclusion of the study, some inadvertent data errors were found which called into question the validity of the results. These errors were the result of miscoding of some potroom jobs at one reduction facility. Uncertainty regarding the type of smelting technology, Soderberg or pre-bake, was the main cause of the coding errors.

Following discovery of these errors, the Alcoa industrial hygiene staff obtained corrected information for most of the data errors. We obtained from the University of Pittsburgh researchers the data from their case-control study, and performed analyses on the corrected data to determine whether the associations with hydrocarbon exposures persisted. Our re-analysis included data for all 71 kidney cancer deaths (cases) and the 283 deaths from other causes, excluding cancer and chronic kidney disease (controls). Data on non-occupational risk factors for kidney cancer, smoking, medication use, and obesity, that might have confounded the observed relations with hydrocarbon exposures were incorporated into the re-analysis. This information had been obtained previously by the University of Pittsburgh investigators from questionnaires administered to study subjects' next-of kin.

Our re-analysis confirmed the observed association with aliphatic hydrocarbons. Workers who had ever been exposed to the highest levels of aliphatic hydrocarbons had roughly 4 times the risk of kidney cancer mortality as workers who had never been exposed to these chemicals. The association with aliphatic hydrocarbons was diminished somewhat, but remained elevated (2.5 times), when exposure was defined as at least 1 year rather than ever. In contrast, no association was detected with aromatic hydrocarbons after analysis of the corrected data. Confounding by smoking, medication use, or obesity was not a likely explanation for the observed association with aliphatic hydrocarbons.

The study had some notable limitations. The control group was not necessarily representative of the Alcoa workforce insofar is it was composed of roughly 75 percent of workers who had died from circulatory system diseases. Another significant limitation that hinders a clear interpretation of findings is the absence of quantitative data for specific chemicals, especially aliphatic hydrocarbons. The results of the re-analysis cannot confirm or refute specific causal hypotheses, but do offer some guidance for future assessments of kidney cancer in the aluminum industry.

BACKGROUND

In 1991, Alcoa commissioned researchers from the University of Pittsburgh Department of Biostatistics to conduct a case-control study of occupational risk factors for kidney cancer. The motivation for this new initiative was a finding by Rockette and Arena (1990) of a kidney cancer mortality elevation, of approximately 60 percent greater than national rates, among the Alcoa production workforce during the years 1980-87. This finding was based on proportionate mortality ratio (PMR) analysis which compared the percentage distribution of deaths, by cause, in the Alcoa workforce with the corresponding percentage distribution among U.S. males. Kidney cancer excesses have been found in some other aluminum industry worker studies (Rockette and Arena, 1983; Spinelli et al., 1991), although no excesses have been reported from others (Ronneberg and Anderson, 1995). The 1990 PMR kidney cancer results were considered to be suggestive of a consistent trend for Alcoa that was first noted in the Tripartite Study (Rockette and Arena, 1983).

The goal of the case-control study was to determine whether exposures to aromatic or aliphatic hydrocarbons during employment at Alcoa facilities were related to kidney cancer, while taking into consideration known or strongly suspected non-occupational risks factors (e.g., cigarette smoking). As stated in the original protocol for this case-control study (Rockette and Arena, 1990-91), aromatic hydrocarbons were of greater prior interest than aliphatics. This emphasis apparently evolved from earlier findings of a kidney cancer excess among reduction plant workers in the Tripartite Study, and the known associations of various polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons with kidney cancer. Aliphatic hydrocarbons had been linked inconsistently with kidney cancer risk mainly from studies of workers exposed to gasoline and solvents.

Details of the study, including the study design, methods of data collection and analysis, original results, and discussion are provided in a report by Rockette and Arena (1993) from the University of Pittsburgh. This report is henceforth referred to as the "original report." At the time of its submission in August; 1993, all parties agreed that it should appropriately be regarded as a preliminary report, in view of the changes that would likely ensue following data corrections. The findings from the original report indicated elevated kidney cancer risks related to hydrocarbon exposures; a relative risk of 2.55 was noted for high exposures. This association was mainly due to an apparent excess risk concentrated among workers with the highest exposures to aliphatic hydrocarbons, for which the relative risk was 4.10. The association with high aromatic hydrocarbon exposures (relative risk of 1.61) was considerably weaker.

Upon submission of their report to Alcoa in August, 1993, Drs. Rockette and Arena noted inconsistencies in some of the job assignment codings that may have resulted in erroneous classifications, and hence incorrect epidemiologic findings. The original report was therefore considered as a preliminary report, and the conclusions were disavowed by the investigators until errors could be corrected. Alcoa explored with researchers from another university the feasibility of having a new, more detailed exposure assessment for specific hydrocarbons and other workplace agents; however, this proved not to be feasible because of the enormous effort and resources that would have been required to locate and synthesize data relevant to historical exposures spanning back as far as the 1930s.

We agreed to oversee the Alcoa industrial hygienists' efforts to make corrections to the work history and exposure data sets, and to analyze the corrected case-control data following the same approaches taken by Rockette and Arena (1993). Drs. Rockette and Arena assisted us by providing data that they had analyzed in the original report, and by performing confirmatory data analyses that took into account possible effects of non-occupational risk factors (i.e., potential confounders, such as smoking).

METHODS

Original Study

Descriptions of the research design and study subjects are contained in the original report (Rockette and Arena, 1993). Thus, only a brief synopsis will be provided here. We will, however, provide details on the procedures that we followed in this re-analysis.

The case group included 71 of the 73 kidney cancer deaths (ie., cases) that occurred during 1980-90 among Alcoa workers from 26 plants. The 73 cases were 53 kidney cancer deaths included previously in the PMR study and 20 deaths identified during 1988-90. Two (2) of the 73 kidney cancer deaths were not included because their employment history records did not identify their past work areas and jobs (Rockette and Arena, 1993). Controls were a sample of deaths whose causes of death were attributed to diseases other than cancer or chronic nephritis during the same 1980-90 time period. Controls were individually matched to cases on race, gender, year of death and year of birth within 5 years. Rockette and Arena selected 283 controls who met these criteria According to Rockette and Arena (1993), deaths from cancers of sites other than the kidney were not eligible because of the possibility that some of the same exposures that may relate to kidney cancer might be associated with other cancers. Thus, the study included a large proportion of deaths (74%)from cardiovascularand other circulatory system diseases.

Cases' and controls' work history records were obtained and computerized for linkage with exposure information. Jobs held by cases and controls were classified according to separate exposure rating schemes for aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbons. Jobs were classified as entailing "none," "low," "medium," or "high" exposures to either aromatic or aliphatic hydrocarbons. The exposure ratings for cases' and controls' jobs were provided by Alcoa industrial hygienists. Historical exposure information, industrial hygiene monitoring data from surveys performed during recent years, and industrial hygiene judgments formed the basis of the exposure ratings. The ratings were conducted without knowledge of where cases and controls had worked, i.e., blindly.

In order to address the concern that non-occupational risk factors (e.g., smoking) might confound observed associations detected with hydrocarbons, Rockette and Arena administered a telephone questionnaire to surrogate respondents (next-of-kin) of study subjects. Data were elicited for a history of smoking, obesity, and use of diuretics and analgesics.

Relative risk estimates (RR) were derived from logistic regression analyses for case-control data. RRs were estimated for any exposure to hydrocarbons, as well as for ordered levels of exposure: 'none, low/medium, high. Analyses were also performed separately for aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbons.

Correction of Job/Exposure ClassificationErrors

The erroneous job and exposure coding assignments were identified as having resulted from ambiguities in the types of potroom technology that had been operated at one Alcoa facility. In particular, some potroom assignments during the 1930s-1950s had been erroneously classified as Soderberg potroom jobs when in fact they had been in pre-bake potrooms. These errors and the ensuing hydrocarbon exposure re-classifications were made by Alcoa hygienists. As before, the exposure classifications were made without knowledge of case or control status of the affected work history records.

In addition, there remained 23 potroom jobs held by 16 workers at this facility for which there was insufficient information to determine whether they were in Soderberg or pre-bake technologies. As will be described subsequently, we performed two sets of analyses in which these indeterminate potroom jobs were alternately classified as Soderberg and pre-bake.

Re-analysis of Case-Control Data

The first step in our re-analysis was to verify the results from the uncorrected data presented in the original report. Drs. Rockette and Arena provided us with a computer file of these data. Our analysis followed the procedures described in the original report, and we were able to replicate the earlier findings on the uncorrected data. Next, we received from the Alcoa industrial hygiene staff a list of corrected job/exposure assignments. The corrected list included new exposure codes for aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbons (none, low, medium, high) for jobs where it was clear that pre-bake potroom jobs had been erroneously classified as Soderberg potroom jobs. Potroom jobs that could not be identified unambiguously as pre-bake or Soderberg were given alternative sets of aliphatic and aromatic hydrocarbon exposure ratings, one assuming that all of these were in a pre-bake potroom, and the other assuming all were in the Soderberg technology.

We analyzed the corrected data to generate relative risk estimates for hydrocarbon exposures, following the procedures of Rockette and Arena. Data on smoking, obesity, and medications (i.e., "confounders") were obtained from subjects' next-of-kin with the understanding that this information, that could potentially be linked to individual workers; would not be shared with parties outside of the University of Pittsburgh. In order to assess possible confounding by these non-occupational factors, we provided the corrected data set to Drs. Rockette and Arena for analyses that included these potential confounders. Their approach for statistical control of confounders (conditional logistic regression modeling) was identical to the methods used in their original report. Thus, we were able to estimate relative risks related to ever exposure to varying levels of hydrocarbon exposures that included control for the potential confounders.

The designation of "exposed" used in the original analysis by Rockette and Arena was made without reference to duration of exposure. Thus for example, ever exposed to high hydrocarbons included any duration of employment in a job classified as high exposure.

We performed an additional set of analyses in which "exposure" was defined as greater than 1 year. The purpose of this additional analysis was to evaluate possible dose-response relations in somewhat more depth than had been done previously.

RESULTS

The original and corrected exposure classifications for all, aliphatic, and aromatic hydrocarbons are shown in Table 1. There are two sets of reclassifications: Reclassification 1 placed the indetexminate potroom jobs in the Soderberg technology, and Reclassification 2 placed these jobs in pre-bake technology. Table 2 displays the corrected and uncorrected exposure classifications based on a minimum of 1 year exposure. The re-classification of aliphatic exposures, especially in the 'high' exposure group were minimally affected by data corrections. High aromatic exposures, however, were changed more profoundly. Based on the original classification, the percentages of cases and controls with high aromatic hydrocarbon exposures of any duration were 8.5 and 5.7, respectively, whereas the corresponding percentages under Reclassifications 1 and 2 were: 8.5 and 11.3; and 5.6 and 6.7 (Table 1). The classifications of high aromatic exposures under a 1 year minimum exposure duration criterion (Table 2) changed slightly as well, although a higher prevalence of exposure among controls than cases persisted throughout. It should be appreciated that high aromatic hydrocarbon exposures involved only a small number of cases and controls; thus, the overall classification of hydrocarbon exposures remained largely unaltered.

The relative risk estimates [odds ratios (OR)] associated with levels and types of hydrocarbons are given in Table 3, based on the original exposure classification and on Reclassifications 1 and 2. Following either exposure reclassification, there is no longer an excess apparent for the high compared to no aromatic hydrocarbon exposure; the OR was reduced from 1.76 to 0.79 or 0.89, depending on the classification of generic potroom jobs. The explanation for this change is that, following Reclassification 1, the cases' high exposure classifications were not changed, but 16 (5.7%) controls previously classified as having had low/medium aromatic hydrocarbon exposure were re-classified into the high category (Table 1). Following Reclassification 2, 2 (2.8%) cases were moved from high to low/medium aromatic hydrocarbon exposure, and 3 (1.1%) controls changed from the low/medium to high category. In contrast, re-classification had very little effect on the ORs for high aliphatic hydrocarbon exposure. The reduction of OR for the combined high hydrocarbon category (from an original value of 2.34 to 1.40 or 1.76) was due to the change in the risk estimate for high aromatic hydrocarbon exposures.

The possible bias caused by confounding from non-occupational exposures was examined by computing adjusted relative risk estimates, and comparing these with unadjusted values. The results for the OR. associated with high hydrocarbon exposures, high aliphatic exposures, and high aromatic exposures, with and without adjustment for potential confounders, are summarized in Table 4. The adjusted analyses involved statistical control for ever cigarette smoking, use of diuretics, use of aspirin- and non-aspirin analgesics, and obesity (Model 14 from the original report). With several isolated exceptions, the adjusted and unadjusted ORs were reasonably close, which suggests that there was little evidence for important confounding by these factors. It is noteworthy that there were no instances where the direction of association changed from positive (OR>1.0) to negative (OR<1.0), or vice versa, after control for potential confounders.

When 1 year was set as the minimum duration of exposure, the ORs for high aliphatic hydrocarbon exposure were reduced somewhat from those based on an ever exposed classification, although the relative risk estimates remained elevated (Table 5). Thus in the corrected data set, we estimated an OR of 2.52 for high aliphatic exposure of 1 year or longer (Table 5), as contrasted with an OR of 3.70 for ever exposed (Table 3). The results based on the corrected data for aromatic hydrocarbons did not change materially when the 1 year minimum was imposed.

Review of the high aliphatic exposure jobs held by the cases and controls revealed that these jobs occurred at three plant locations, Cressona, Massena, and New Kensington, during the years 1934-1971. The jobs involved work in Merchant and Blooming Mills at Massena, and in the Tube Mills at Cressona and New Kensington Characterization of the highest aliphatic exposures to a small number of plant locations and specific jobs suggests that any elevation of kidney cancer risk related to aliphatic hydrocarbons, if one did indeed exist, was not widespread throughout the industry. It is also noteworthy that the high aliphatic exposures terminated in the early 1970s on cases' and controls' work history records. This may be due to the requirement of a prolonged latency interval for disease manifestation; alternatively, it may reflect exposure reductions that have taken place during the past 30 years. More detailed historical exposure data would be needed to evaluate the likelihood of the second explanation.

DISCUSSION

Findings from our re-analysis of the corrected data suggest that there remains a statistical association of hydrocarbons with kidney cancer risk (Rockette and Arena, 1993). The association pertains to aliphatic hydrocarbons rather than aromatic hydrocarbons. The original report indicated apparent elevated risks with both classes of hydrocarbons, but with a more prominent association for the aliphatics. The seeming disappearance of the relation with aromatic hydrocarbons, following data corrections, is not especially surprising because the original result was numerically dependent on only 6 cases and 16 control in the high exposed category (see Table 1). The findings for aliphatic hydrocarbons were and remain more numerically stable, and were thus altered only minimally after data corrections were made. However, evidence for a dose-response gradient with aliphatic hydrocarbon exposure and kidney cancer was weakened somewhat when a 1 year minimum exposure duration was imposed instead of an ever/never classification. Confounding from non-occupational risk factors, including cigarette smoking, use of diuretics or analgesics, and obesity, is very unlikely to be a meaningful explanation of the observed association with aliphatic hydrocarbons.

Interpreting the findings from this study should be made with due consideration given to some notable limitations of study design and quality of information. The most suitable control group would have been workers, either living or dead, from the same plants as the cases, who were free of kidney cancer at the times when the cases deaths occurred. Because it was not possible to enumerate the cohort that would have been necessary for this type of control selection scheme, Rockette and Arena (1993) selected controls from among other deaths that occurred at the same plants where the cases worked. The decision to eliminate cancer deaths, and to a lesser extent, chronic renal disease deaths, from the pool of eligible controls resulted in a large majority of circulatory system disease deaths in the controls (nearly 75%). This imbalance in the control group may have produced a bias if mortality from cardiovascular or other circulatory diseases was related to particular workplace agents or specific jobs in the smelter. For example, it cannot be determined whether the observed association with high aliphatic hydrocarbon exposures reflects a truly causal effect, or whether this is merely an artifact of unmeasured associations of aliphatics with cardiovascular diseases. In fact, Ronneberg (1995) reported increasing risk gradients for atherosclerotic disease mortality with cumulative exposure to tar and for cerebrovascular disease mortality with tar and pot emissions in a prebake smelter. In any event, the potential effect of such bias on the findings cannot be evaluated because associations of occupational exposures in Alcoa facilities with circulatory system disease mortality have not been investigated previously.

Another important limitation of this study is the absence of quantitative exposure estimates for specific agents. This problem, while certainly not unique to this epidemiologic study, restricts the type of inference that can be drawn from the findings. Aliphatic hydrocarbons encompass many agents, ranging from solvents to machining fluids. Determining specificity and quantification of these exposures was especially complex in this study because the cases' and controls' relevant periods of exposure extended back as far as 50-60 years into the past and may have varied from plant to plant. Chemical usage by type and amount, and the extent of contamination with potential carcinogens, including some aromatic hydrocarbons (e.g., polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons), undoubtedly have changed greatly in the 26 plants during this time interval. Documentation describing most of these changes, unfortunately, was not readily available to the investigators. As a result of these information shortcomings, exposure classification relied chiefly on industrial hygiene judgments regarding the potential and relative magnitude of exposure. to the non-specific groupings of aromatic and aliphatic hydrocarbon.

As reviewed recently by Smith and Liu (1995), there are many unresolved questions regarding etiologic associations between hydrocarbons and human kidney cancer. Much of the evidence from animal studies is conflicting, and more significantly, no consistent patterns of risk related to either broad categories or specific hydrocarbons have emerged from epidemiologic research. Taken in this context, the results from the present study neither support nor refute any previous epidemiologic associations with hydrocarbons. Our re-analysis of the data revealed that the observed association with presumably the highest aliphatic hydrocarbon exposures persisted after data corrections and control for potential confounders. This finding is consistent with a suspected occupational association with kidney cancer, and thus should provide some direction to further epidemiologic assessments of kidney cancer risks in the aluminum industry.

SENATE BILL 836:
Oil Spill Liability, Response, & Preparedness

2009-2010 General Assembly

Committee:	Senate Judiciary II	Date:	July 6, 2010
Introduced by:	Senator Albertson	Prepared by:	Jeff Hudson
Analysis of:	Fifth Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 836 would clarify liability for damages caused by the discharge of natural gas, oil, or drilling wastes into coastal fishing waters or offshore waters; provide for review of information related to the permitting of offshore fossil fuel facilities, and direct State agencies to review State policies and plans related to offshore energy exploration and discharges of oil.

BILL SUMMARY AND ANALYSIS:

Section 1.(a): Cap for Total Recovery of Oil or Hazardous Substances Discharges

S836 would clarify that the limits on recovery by the State under the statutes that govern the discharge of oil and other hazardous substances do not apply to offshore oil spills.

Section 1.(b): Definition of Exploration

S836 would amend the definition of "exploration," as it pertains to offshore oil and gas activities, to include other techniques employed to assess and evaluate the presence of subterranean oil and natural gas deposits beyond undersea boring, drilling, and soil sampling.

S836 would clarify that the term "offshore waters"[1] encompasses state and federal waters off the Atlantic coast, including the Gulf of Mexico.

Section 1.(c): Liability and Exceptions

Under current law, a responsible person is strictly liable for all cleanup and removal costs and all direct or indirect damages that arise out of the discharge[2] or leaking of natural gas, oil, or drilling waste into coastal fishing waters[3] or offshore waters from facilities located offshore.
S836 would clarify that strict liability may apply regardless of the location of the source of the discharge. S836 would also clarify that damages would include damages caused by cleanup techniques or methods such as chemical dispersants.

[1] As currently defined by G.S. 143-215.94BB(7), the term "offshore waters" includes both the territorial sea extending seaward from the coastline of North Carolina to the State and federal boundary, and United States jurisdictional waters of the Atlantic Ocean adjacent to the territorial sea of the State.

[2] As defined by G.S. 143-215.77, "discharge" means any emission, spillage, leakage, pumping, pouring, emptying, or dumping of oil or other hazardous substances into waters of the State or into waters outside the territorial limits of the State which affect lands, waters or uses related thereto within the territorial limits of the State, or upon land in such proximity to waters that oil or other hazardous substances is reasonably likely to reach the waters . . . .

[3] As defined by G.S. 113-129(4), "coastal fishing waters" means the Atlantic Ocean; the various coastal sounds; and estuarine waters up to the dividing line between coastal fishing waters and inland fishing waters . . . .

Under current law, damages that arise out of the discharge or leaking of natural gas, oil, or drilling waste are not recoverable if the damages are caused by a discharge authorized by a State or federal permit or the damages could have been mitigated by the injured party.
S836 would clarify that the defense to liability for any damages that result from a discharge authorized by a State or federal permit only applies when the discharge is in compliance with the permit. S836 would also provide that mitigation required of an injured party be reasonable.

Section 2: Review of Information Required for a Proposed Offshore Fossil Fuel Facility

S836 would provide for review of information pertaining to an offshore fossil fuel facility located in coastal fishing waters necessary to determine consistency[4] with State guidelines for public and private use of land and water areas within the coastal area. "Offshore fossil fuel facility" would be those facilities, which because of their size, magnitude, or scope of impacts, have the potential to affect any land or water use or natural resource of the coastal area. Offshore fossil fuel facilities would include:

- Any equipment, including but not limited, to pipelines and vessels, that are used to carry, transport, or transfer oil, natural gas, liquid natural gas, liquid propane gas, or synthetic gas.
- Structures, including drillships and floating platforms and structures relocated from other states or countries, located in coastal fishing waters for the purposes of exploration for, or development or production of, oil or natural gas.
- Onshore support or staging facilities related to exploration for, or development or production of, oil or natural gas.

The following information would be required for the review of an offshore fossil fuel facility:

- All information required to be included in an Exploration Plan required pursuant to Subpart B of Part 250 of 30 C.F.R. (July 1, 2009 edition).
- All information required to be included in an Oil-Spill Response Plan required pursuant to Subpart B of Part 254 of 30 C.F.R. (July 1, 2009 edition).
- Assessment of alternatives to the proposed facility that would minimize the likelihood of an unauthorized discharge.
- An assessment of the potential for the discharge to cause temporary or permanent violations of State and federal water quality standards.
- Any other information that the Coastal Resources Commission determines necessary for consistency review.

Section 3: Review Existing Laws and Rules Pertaining to Offshore Exploration and Production

S836 would direct the Coastal Resources Commission to review existing laws and regulations that pertain to offshore energy exploration and production in light of the explosion, sinking, and subsequent oil releases from the Deepwater Horizon and make recommendations, if any, to the Environmental Review Commission on or before April 1, 2011.

[4] The term "consistency" refers to federal consistency review and determination as required pursuant to Section 307 of 16 U.S.C. § 1456 wherein each federal agency activity or activity that requires federal permits, licensing, or authorization within or outside the coastal zone that affects any land or water use or natural resource of the coastal zone is to be carried out in a manner which is consistent to the maximum extent practicable with the enforceable policies of approved State management programs.

Section 4: Review and Update the State Oil Spill Contingency Plan

S836 would direct the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety to immediately review the potential impacts of oil leaking from the Deepwater Horizon on the North Carolina Coast and update the State's Oil Spill Contingency Plan accordingly to ensure the State's preparedness in the event the oil leaking from the Deepwater Horizon makes it to North Carolina's coast or waters.

Section 5: Review of Liability Caps

S836 would direct the Department of Environment and Natural Resources to review and make recommendations on current liability caps related to the discharge of oil and other hazardous substances.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act would become effective when it becomes law. Sections 1.(a), 1.(b), 1.(c), and 1.(d) would apply to any damages incurred on or after that date.
