Section has no application in the absence of a claim for its special priorities: Odom v. Clark, 146-544.

Merchant gets nothing when tenant abandons crop before maturity: Beacom v. Boing, 126-136; Thigpen v. Leigh, 93-48.

Registration of mortgage not essential to validity of lien as between parties thereto: Reese v. Cole, 93-87. Quere, whether compliance with other requirements contained in section necessary between parties: Ibid.

As to parol evidence to show that supplies furnished after execution of lien, see Meekins v. Walker, 119-46.

Restrictive provisions of section are for security of creditors and others dealing with debtor: Nichols v. Speller, 120-79; Reese v. Cole, 93-87.

THE AGREEMENT; FORM AND SUFFICIENCY OF. No particular form necessary: Townsend v. McKinnon, 98-103. Agreement must be in writing: Patapsco v. Magee, 86-350—and strictly conform to statute, Ibid.; Rawlings v. Hunt, 90-270; Townsend v. McKinnon, 98-103—and must be executed before advances are made or supplies furnished, Patapsco v. Magee, 86-350; Knight v. Rountree, 99-389; Meekins v. Walker, 119-46; Clark v. Farrar, 74-686; Harris v. Jones, 83-317; but see Reese v. Cole, 93-87. It must be for advances of money or supplies, made to the person engaged or about to engage in cultivation of soil for the cultivation of the crop of that year: Clark v. Farrar, 74-686; Loftin v. Hines, 107-360; Wooten v. Hill, 98-48; Woodlief v. Harris, 95-211. Where agreement, in form of chattel mortgage, held sufficient as an agricultural lien for advancements: Townsend v. McKinnon, 98-103. Agricultural lien will not be allowed to operate as a mortgage in certain cases: Clark v. Farrar, 74-686; Patapsco v. Magee, 86-350—but where instrument intended by parties to operate as agricultural lien, but it fails to set out some essential matter, it will be given effect as a common-law mortgage, if in form sufficient, Spivey v. Grant, 96-214. Instrument may be so framed as to operate in one part as a mortgage and in another part as an agricultural lien: Rawlings v. Hunt, 90-270. Agricultural lien and mortgage may be created by same instrument: Wooten v. Hill, 98-48. For cases on question as to sufficiency of description of land on which crop to be grown, see Perry v. Bragg, 109-303; Weil v. Flowers, 109-212; Brown v. Miller, 108-395; Gwathney v. Etheridge, 99-571; Hurley v. Ray, 160-376.

Where land fully described, and in same instrument it says "and upon any other land I may cultivate in county," the lien is good as to land described, but not as to any other: Gwathney v. Etheridge, 99-571; Perry v. Bragg, 109-303; Weil v. Flowers, 109-212; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142. Land on which crop to be grown must be identified at time lien created: Gwathney v. Etheridge, 99-571; Hurley v. Ray, 160-376. Power of sale upon default in paying advances inserted in instrument giving lien upon crops, does not invalidate instrument: Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142.

Instrument which gives lien on crop for supplies to be furnished in making a crop and also conveys personal property as additional security, with ordinary powers of sale, is valid both as a chattel mortgage and as an agricultural lien: Nichols v. Speller, 120-75.

Where words of grant in an instrument are that grantor "conveys a lien upon each and every of said crop," to be made upon certain land, such words will constitute valid mortgage upon crops, although not planted at time when such instrument is executed and registered: Harris v. Jones, 83-317.

WHAT ARE ADVANCES HEREUNDER. See under section 2355. As to whether a mule is an advancement, see Branch v. Galloway, 105-193. Person who gives mortgage on crops to obtain supplies under section estopped from asserting that articles which he received as compliance with contract are not "supplies" within meaning of section: Womble v. Leach, 83-84—and a second mortgagee who acquires an interest in crop after such advances made is also bound by such admission, Ibid. Supplies necessary to make and save crop are such articles as are in good faith furnished to and received by tenant for that purpose: Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276.

NATURE, VALIDITY AND EXTENT OF LIEN. The lien only extends to the crop of the year for which advances made: Clark v. Farrar, 74-686. Between parties, in absence of fraud and compulsion, lien attaches for dry goods, shoes, tobacco, powders, snuff and candy, without showing that such articles were actually used in making crop: Nichols v. Speller, 120-75.

Validity of lien not affected by fact that land upon which crop planted was, while crop growing, recovered from person giving lien: Brown v. Miller, 108-375.

Section intended to give lien a "preference to all other liens existing or otherwise" to extent of such advance: Nichols v. Speller, 120-78—and section should be strictly construed when rights of other creditors intervene, Ibid. Mortgage on crop not expressed to be for advances to be made, and not recorded in thirty days after its execution, has no rights as agricultural lien under section: Cooper v. Kimball, 123-120. Where agricultural lien made by vendee who has paid only portion of purchase money, of which vendor has notice, but makes no objection, his assent to lien presumed: Dail v. Freeman, 92-351.

Agreement purporting on its face to be agricultural lien, only for future advances, cannot be supported as a mortgage as against purchaser for a different purpose and founded on consideration not expressed, but concealed or disguised in instrument: Clark v. Farrar, 74-686. Crop lien to secure agricultural advances under section valid inter partes, though not registered within thirty days as required by section: Gay v. Nash, 78-100. One who advances money or supplies on agricultural lien for making a crop not bound to see that same are used on farm: Nichols v. Speller, 120-75.

PRIORITY BETWEEN LIENS. As to landlord's lien for rent and advances being prior to agricultural lien hereunder, see section 2356. As to crop liens given by mortgagors or trustees in possession taking priority over mortgage and deed in trust, see section 2481.

When landlord releases his lien on a part of the crop, the next lien for advancements applies as against the rights of third persons: White v. Winslow, 163-40.

Where mortgage given on crop and agricultural lien thereafter executed which recites that lienor is to pay certain amount out of crops, lienee holds crop subject to mortgage debt: Brasfield v. Powell, 117-140. Subsequent mortgage on same property given to secure advancements of supplies, there being nothing to show for what purpose supplies furnished, does not create prior lien: Brown v. Miller, 108-395. Where two mortgages on crop of cotton, and first mortgagee advanced money in order to save crop and prepare it for market, in excess of amount secured by mortgage, not entitled to same to exclusion of second mortgagee: Weathersbee v. Farrar, 97-106.

Agricultural lien duly executed and registered takes precedence of mortgage of prior date and registration upon "crop" therein subjected to extent of advances made: Wooten v. Hill, 98-48. Where tenant makes agricultural lien and afterwards land is sold under execution as property of landlord, owner of lien has right to crop superior to purchaser at execution sale: Dail v. Freeman, 92-351. Lien of laborer has precedence over agricultural liens made subsequent to his contract, but before crop harvested: Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229. Mortgage given by tenant to third person on his crop produced on certain farm does not give lien on rents paid by sub-tenant of portion of farm, where such rents assigned before execution of mortgage: Norfleet v. Baker, 131-99.

As to priority of landlord's lien over lien given by section, see Ford v. Green, 121-70; Spruill v. Arrington, 109-192; Fleming v. Davenport, 116-153; Ballard v. Johnson, 114-141; Thigpen v. Maget, 107-39; Branch v. Galloway, 105-193; Brewer v. Chappell, 101-251; Wooten v. Hill, 98-48; Thigpen v. Leigh, 93-47; Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276; Harrison v. Ricks, 71-9.

2481. Contract for advances by mortgagor in possession. The preceding section shall apply to all contracts made for the advancement of money and supplies, or either, for the purposes herein specified by mortgagors or trustors who may be in possession of the lands mortgaged or conveyed in trust at the time of the making of the contract for such advancement of money or supplies, either in case the debts secured in said mortgage or deed of trust be due or not.

Where mortgagor in possession has given lien on crops for advances to aid in cultivating same, such lien superior to that of mortgagee of land: Hinton v. Walston, 115-7; Carr v. Dail, 114-284; McNair v. Pope, 104-350; Killebrew v. Hines, 104-182—even though lien improperly registered, Carr v. Dail, 114-284; Killebrew v. Hines, 104-182; but see Brewer v. Chappell, 101-251.

2482. Price to be charged for articles advanced limited. In order to be entitled to the benefits of the lien on crops in favor of landlords and other persons advancing supplies under the article, Agricultural Tenancies, of the chapter, Landlord and Tenant, and under the present article, or on a chattel mortgage on crops, such landlord or person shall charge for such supplies a price or prices of not more than ten per cent over the retail cash price or prices of the article or articles advanced, and the said ten per cent shall be in lieu of interest on the debt for such advances. If more than ten per cent over the retail cash price is charged on any advances made under the lien or mortgage given on the crop, then the lien or mortgage shall be null and void as to the article or articles upon which such overcharge is made. At the time of each sale there shall be delivered to the purchaser a memorandum showing the cash prices of the articles advanced.

2483. "Cash prices" defined and determined. In the case of retail merchants, the retail cash price or prices shall be the regular cash price or prices charged by the same merchant to cash customers for the same article or articles in like quantities at the same time. In the case of advances of supplies by landlords or other persons not engaged in business as retail merchants, or by retail merchants who have no regular cash prices, if the prices charged are called into question by the purchaser the retail cash price or prices of the supplies advanced may be determined by taking the average between the cash price or prices for the same class or classes of goods of two neighboring merchants, one selected by the landlord or other person making the advance and the other by the one to whom the advance is made.

2484. Person advanced not estopped by agreement. No agreement or understanding between the parties as to the price or prices to be charged shall work an estoppel against the person to whom supplies have been advanced from showing that the price or prices charged were in fact more than ten per cent over the average retail cash price or prices in that locality at the time the advance or advances were made. If the price or prices charged by the merchants or landlord were in fact more than ten per cent, then the lien shall be null and void as to the article or articles upon which such overcharge is made.

2485. Commission in lieu of interest, where advance in money. Any person, firm, or corporation, including any bank or credit union, making any advancement in money to any person for the purpose of enabling such person to cultivate a crop, and taking as sole security for the advance so made a lien or mortgage on the crops to be cultivated and the personal property of the person to whom the advances are made, may charge, in lieu of interest, a commission of not more than ten per cent of the amount of money actually advanced: Provided, that money advanced under the provisions of this section shall be advanced in installments agreed upon at the time of the contract, and the ten per cent commission herein allowed shall not be deducted, but shall be added to the amount of money agreed to be advanced.

2486. Disposition of commission, where advanced by credit union. In case the money is advanced by a credit union, the funds derived from the ten per cent commission allowed in the preceding section shall be used to pay such interest as the union may pay for the money borrowed by it for the benefit of its members, and to cover losses sustained by the union on account of loans made to members, and to further cover any reasonable expenses incurred by the union in connection with the loans made to members, and the balance of said fund shall be returned to the borrowers at the end of each year.

2487. Purchasers for value protected. All liens or mortgages made under the provisions of this article shall be valid for their face value in the hands of purchasers for value and before maturity, even though the charges made are in excess of those allowed herein; but in such cases the party to whom the advances are made has the right to recover from the party making the advances any sum he may be compelled to pay a third party in excess of the charges allowed by this article.

2488. Crop seized and sold to preserve lien. If the person making such advances makes an affidavit before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such crops are, that the amount secured by said lien for such advances, or any part thereof, is due and unpaid, that the person to whom such advances have been made, or any other person having the said crop in his possession, is about to sell or dispose of his crop, or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinbefore provided for, accompanied with a statement of the amount then due, it is lawful for him to issue his warrant, directed to any of the sheriffs of this state, requiring them to seize the said crop, and, after due notice, sell the same for cash and pay over the net proceeds thereof, or so much thereof as may be necessary in the extinguishment of the amount then due. This proceeding shall not affect the rights of landlords or laborers.

Rev., s. 2054; Code, s. 1800; 1893, c. 9; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 2; 1872-3, c. 133, s. 2; 1883, c. 88.

Clerk superior court has power to revoke and supersede warrant issued under section, where same improvidently granted: Cottingham v. McKay, 86-241. Where, in proceeding under section, money arising from the sale of crop paid into court and proceeding dismissed, court has the power to order a return of the money to the defendant, although the plaintiff has instituted another action and files an affidavit that defendant is insolvent: Ibid. Where defendant denies that there is anything due for advances and there is a general verdict for plaintiff, it is error in court to refuse judgment because jury failed to assess damages: Gay v. Nash, 84-333. Not necessary to regularity of proceeding under section to enforce lien that summons should be issued to defendant: Thomas v. Campbell, 74-787.

Section merely referred to in Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-146; Foundry Co. v. Howland, 111-627; Harrison v. Rieks, 71-9.

Rev., s. 2054; Code, s. 1800; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 2; 1872-3, c. 133, s. 2; 1883, c. 88; 1893, c. 9.

2490. Local: Short form of liens. For the purpose of creating a valid agricultural lien under the preceding sections for supplies to be advanced, and also to constitute a valid chattel mortgage as additional security thereto, and to secure a preëxisting debt, the following or a substantially similar form shall be deemed sufficient, and for those purposes legally effective, in the counties of Alamance, Alleghany, Anson, Ashe, Beaufort, Bladen, Brunswick, Buncombe, Burke, Cabarrus, Carteret, Caswell, Catawba, Chowan, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Davie, Davidson, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Gaston, Gates, Granville, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hyde, Iredell, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Martin, McDowell, Mecklenburg, Moore, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Onslow, Pender, Pamlico, Person, Pitt, Polk, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Transylvania, Tyrrell, Union, Vance, Wake, Watauga, Washington, Wayne and Wilson:

No particular form is required; the instrument is construed to effectuate the intention: Jones v. McCormick, 174-82.

2491. Local: Rights on lienee's failure to cultivate. If any person in the counties mentioned in the preceding section, after executing a lien as aforesaid for advances, fails to cultivate the lands described therein, or does any other act calculated to impair the security therein given, then the person to whom the lien was executed is relieved from any further obligation to furnish supplies, and the debts and advances theretofore made become due and collectible at once, and the person to whom the instrument was executed may proceed to take possession of, cultivate and harvest said crops, and to sell the other property described therein. It is not necessary to incorporate such power in the instrument, but this section is sufficient authority for the same. The sale of any property described in any instrument executed under the provisions of this chapter may be made at any place in the county where such property is situated after ten days notice published at the courthouse door and three other public places in said county.

Rev., s. 2081; Code, s. 1812; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 3; 1908, c. 47; 1909, c. 704, s. 2; 1909, c. 897.

No such thing as marriage simply by consent (so-called common-law marriage) in this state; history of marriage laws stated: State v. Wilson, 121-650.

Section only prescribes what constitutes valid marriage: State v. Brown, 119-827.

As to sham marriages, see State v. Wilson, 121-650; State v. Brown, 119-825. As to evidence of marriage, see Jones v. Reddick, 79-290; State v. Robbins, 28-23; Weaver v. Cryer, 12-337. As to marriage celebrated by ordained minister, who depends for his support upon some other occupation than minister, see In re Cunninggim, 60-397.

Marriage by law is complete when parties, able and willing to contract, have actually contracted to be man and wife in form and with the solemnities required by law: State v. Patterson, 24-346—and consummation by carnal knowledge not necessary to its validity, Ibid. Cohabitation between an indian man and woman, according to ancient customs of their tribe, which leave parties free to dissolve the connection at pleasure, is not marriage: State v. Tacha-na-tah, 64-614—for there is but one law of marriage for all residents of this state, Ibid. While consent is essential to marriage in this state, it must also be acknowledged in manner and before person prescribed by section: State v. Wilson, 121-650.

Marriage brought about by threats of wife's father and by false representations of pregnancy is valid: Bryant v. Bryant, 171-746.

Elder in colored Methodist church is an ordained minister of the gospel within meaning of section, and as such can celebrate rites of matrimony: State v. Parker, 106-711.

Validity of statutes curing marriages void for nonobservance of statutory formality: Cooke v. Cooke, 61-583.

For case under former enactment, see State v. Bray, 35-289.

2494. Capacity to marry. All unmarried male persons of sixteen years, or upwards, of age, and all unmarried females of fourteen years, or upwards, of age, may lawfully marry, except as hereinafter forbidden.

Female at fourteen may lawfully marry: Whitaker v. Hamilton, 126-466. Male, being of marriageable age at eighteen, may be indicted for seduction under promise of marriage: State v. Creed, 171-837.

2495. Want of capacity; void and voidable marriages. All marriages between a white person and a negro or indian, or between a white person and person of negro or indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between a Cherokee indian of Robeson county and a negro, or between a Cherokee indian of Robeson county and a person of negro descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between any two persons nearer of kin than first cousins, or between a male person under sixteen years of age and any female, or between a female person under fourteen years of age and any male, or between persons either of whom has a husband or wife living at the time of such marriage, or between persons either of whom is at the time physically impotent, or is incapable of contracting from want of will or understanding, shall be void: Provided, double first cousins may not marry; and Provided further, that no marriage followed by cohabitation and the birth of issue shall be declared void after the death of either of the parties for any of the causes stated in this section, except for that one of the parties was a white person and the other a negro or indian, or of negro or indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, and for bigamy.

Rev., s. 2083; Code, s. 1810; R. C., c. 68, ss. 7, 8, 9; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 2; 1887, c. 245; 1911, c. 215, s. 2; 1913, c. 123; 1917, c. 135.

The persons now known as Cherokee Indians of Robeson County were formerly known as Croatan indians. See chapter Indians, s. 6257.

For suits to nullify marriages contracted contrary to the provisions of this section, see section 1658 and annotations thereunder.

Action to nullify marriage is not technically action for divorce, though placed under chapter "Divorce," and although alimony pendente lite may be allowed: Taylor v. White, 160-38 (discussing Lea v. Lea, 104-603).

Marriage between white person and negro is void: Hare v. Board of Education, 113-9; Woodward v. Blue, 103-114; State v. Kennedy, 76-251—approved in State v. Cutshall, 110-552; State v. Hairston, 63-451; State v. Ross, 76-242; State v. Rheinhardt, 63-547; State v. Melton, 44-49; State v. Hooper, 27-201; State v. Fore, 23-378; State v. Watters, 25-455—meaning of "to third generation inclusive": Ferrall v. Ferrall, 153-174. Bigamous marriages void: Irby v. Wilson, 21-512. But only marriages prohibited between races and bigamous marriages are absolutely void; all other marriages prohibited hereunder must be declared void by the court, that is, are voidable: Watters v. Watters, 168-411.

Marriage of an insane person is voidable, on behalf of the insane person: Watters v. Watters, 168-411 (discussing Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91; Johnson v. Kincaid, 37-470).

Marriage between persons nearer of kin than first cousins, followed by cohabitation and birth of issue, cannot be declared void after death of either party, for court's power to declare void in such case confined to time when parties living: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293.

Marriage where one person under legal age is not void, but voidable: State v. Parker, 106-711—and ratified where parties continue as husband and wife after legal age reached, Koonce v. Wallace, 52-194. Court will not decree nullity where marriage followed by twenty years cohabitation as husband and wife: State v. Parker, 106-711.

To bring case of unlawful marriage within proviso to section it must be shown not only that one of parties dead, but that cohabitation and birth of issue followed unlawful marriage: Ward v. Bailey, 118-55.

Marriage between white person and negro in another state is valid in this state: State v. Ross, 76-242; State v. Schlachter, 61-520—but where they leave this state for purpose of celebrating such marriage and then of returning, such marriage void, State v. Cutshall, 110-552; State v. Kennedy, 76-251. Provisions of section prohibiting marriage between races are not in conflict with state constitution or amendments to federal constitution: State v. Hairston, 63-451.

It is competent for legislature to impose, and therefore to remove, conditions in respect to marriage relation: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293—but legislature cannot validate marriage which is nullity, as for want of consent, Cooke v. Cooke, 61-583.

Section to be considered with sections 2500 and 2503 in determining the inquiry to be made before issuing license: Joyner v. Harris, 157-296.

For case prior to enactment of section as to impotency of one of parties, see Smith v. Morehead, 59-360. Section referred to in Hopkins v. Bowers, 111-177.

As to Cherokee Indians of Robeson County, see section 6257.

2496. Prohibited degrees of kinship. When the degree of kinship is estimated with a view to ascertain the right of kinspeople to marry, the half-blood shall be counted as the whole-blood: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to invalidate any marriage heretofore contracted in case where by counting the half-blood as the whole-blood the persons contracting such marriage would be nearer of kin than first cousins; but in every such case the kinship shall be ascertained by counting relations of the half-blood as being only half so near kin as those of the same degree of the whole-blood.

Section referred to: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-296.

2497. Marriages between slaves validated. Persons, both or one of whom were formerly slaves, who have complied with the provisions of section five, chapter forty, of the acts of the general assembly, ratified March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, shall be deemed to have been lawfully married.

Rev., s. 2085; Code, s. 1842; 1866, c. 40, s. 5.

Section valid: Bettis v. Avery, 140-186; Baity v. Cranfill, 91-298. Necessary consent to marriage is supplied by continuing cohabitation: Bettis v. Avery, 140-186—and such continued cohabitation, after passage of section, is conclusive evidence of party's consent to contract, Long v. Barnes, 87-329; State v. Whitford, 86-636—nor can such marriage be avoided by failure to have acknowledgment of same entered of record, Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628; State v. Whitford, 86-636; State v. Adams, 65-538. Relation of man and wife existing between former slaves, if continued until passage of act, culminated into valid marriage and is legalized by section: Nelson v. Hunter, 140-598; Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628; Bettis v. Avery, 140-186; State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Harris, 63-1.

This section has retroactive effect so as to legalize relation from beginning of it, thereby legitimatizing all offsprings of cohabitation born during entire period, and conduct of parents after passage of act could not render offspring of union illegitimate: Nelson v. Hunter, 140-598. Section intended for benefit of those who occupied such relations to each other exclusively, and not to others at same time: Branch v. Walker, 102-34.

As bearing upon section, see State v. Adams, 65-537. For case prior to enactment of section, see State v. Samuel, 19-177. Section merely referred to: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-178.

ART. 2. MARRIAGE LICENSE

2498. Solemnization without license unlawful. No minister or officer shall perform a ceremony of marriage between any two persons, or shall declare them to be man and wife, until there is delivered to him a license for the marriage of the said persons, signed by the register of deeds of the county in which the marriage is intended to take place, or by his lawful deputy.

Rev., s. 2086; Code, s. 1813; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 4.

Marriage not invalid because solemnized without a license: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71; State v. Parker, 106-711; State v. Robbins, 28-23—or under an illegal license, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

2499. Penalty for solemnizing without license. Every minister or officer who marries any couple without a license being first delivered to him, as required by law, or after the expiration of such license, or who fails to return such license to the register of deeds within two months after any marriage celebrated by virtue thereof, with the certificate appended thereto duly filled up and signed, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who sues therefor, and he shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2087, 3372; Code, s. 1817; R. C., c. 68, ss. 6, 13; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 8.

Marriage not invalid because solemnized without license: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71; State v. Parker, 106-711; State v. Robbins, 28-23—or under illegal license, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71—and the only effect of marrying a couple without legal license is to subject officer or minister to penalty of $200, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-74; State v. Parker, 106-713; State v. Robbins, 28-23.

Personating minister and solemnizing marriage with consent of parties not a criminal offense: State v. Brown, 119-825.

Section cited: Norman v. Dunbar, 53-319; State v. Parker, 106-713; Maggett v. Roberts, 112-74.

2500. License issued by register of deeds. Every register of deeds shall, upon application, issue a license for the marriage of any two persons, if it appears to him probable that there is no legal impediment to such marriage. Where either party to the proposed marriage is under eighteen years of age, and resides with the father, or mother, or uncle, or aunt, or brother, or elder sister, or resides at a school, or is an orphan and resides with a guardian, the register shall not issue a license for such marriage until the consent in writing of the relation with whom such infant resides, or, if he or she resides at a school, of the person by whom said infant was placed at school, and under whose custody and control he or she is, is delivered to him, and such written consent shall be filed and preserved by the register. When it appears to the register of deeds that it is probable there is a legal impediment to the marriage of any person for whom a license is applied, he has power to administer to the person so applying an oath touching the legal capacity of said parties to contract a marriage.

The written consent of parents is the condition precedent to issue of license to one under eighteen years: Coley v. Lewis, 91-21. Written consent of mother sufficient, though stepfather dissents: Owens v. Munden, 168-266—but mother's consent insufficient where child living with father, Littleton v. Haar, 158-566.

Duty of register of deeds to be cautious and scrutinize application under peril of incurring penalty imposed by section 2503: Agent v. Willis, 124-29; Laney v. Mackey, 144-633—to make reasonable inquiry, Julian v. Daniels, 175-549; Gray v. Lentz, 173-346; Savage v. Moore, 167-383; Joyner v. Harris, 157-296; Williams v. Hodges, 101-302; Laney v. Mackey, 144-633; Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398—but he need not examine witnesses under oath, though section empowers him to do so, Furr v. Johnson, 140-157. See annotations under section 2503.

This section and section 2503, being in pari materia, should be construed together: Williams v. Hodges, 101-302; Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398. As to inquiry to be made, section 2495 also to be considered: Joyner v. Harris, 157-296.

Section merely referred to: Hareum v. Marsh, 130-158; Wilkinson v. Dellinger, 126-462; Joyner v. Roberts, 112-111; Maggett v. Roberts, 112-73; Walker v. Adams, 109-483; State v. Snuggs, 85-541.

2501. Obtaining license by false representation misdemeanor. If any person shall obtain a marriage license for the marriage of persons under the age of eighteen years by misrepresentation or false pretenses, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3371; 1885, c. 346.

As to false pretenses generally, see section 4277.

2502. Form of license. License shall be in the following or some equivalent form :

To any ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or to any justice of the peace for _____ county: A. B. having applied to me for a license for the marriage of C. D. (the name of the man to be written in full) of (here state his residence), aged ____ years (race, as the case may be), the son of (here state the father and mother, if known; state whether they are living or dead, and their residence, if known; if any of these facts are not known, so state), and E. F. (write the name of the woman in full) of (here state her residence), aged ____ years (race, as the case may be), the daughter of (here state names and residences of the parents, if known, as is required above with respect to the man). (If either of the parties is under eighteen years of age, the license shall here contain the following:) And the written consent of G. H., father (or mother, etc., as the case may be) to the proposed marriage having been filed with me, and there being no legal impediment to such marriage known to me, you are hereby authorized, at any time within sixty days from the date hereof, to celebrate the proposed marriage at any place within the said county. You are required, within sixty days after you shall have celebrated such marriage, to return this license to me at my office with your signature subscribed to the certificate under this license, and with the blanks therein filled according to the facts, under penalty of forfeiting two hundred dollars to the use of any person who shall sue for the same.

Issued this ____ day of _____, 19____ L. M.,
Register of Deeds of _____ County.

Every register of deeds shall designate in every marriage license issued the race of the persons proposing to marry by inserting in the blank after the word "race" the words "white," "colored" or "indian," as the case may be. The certificate shall be filled up and signed by the minister or officer celebrating the marriage, and also be signed by one or more witnesses present at the marriage, who shall add to their names their place of residence, as follows:

I, N. O., an ordained or authorized minister of (here state to what religious denomination, or justice of the peace, as the case may be), united in matrimony (here name the parties), the parties licensed above, on the ____ day of _____, 19____, at the house of P. R., in (here name the town, if any, the township and county), according to law.

Witness present at the marriage: _____ N. O.
S. T., of (here give residence).

Rev., s. 2089; Code, s. 1815; 1899, c. 541, ss. 1, 2; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 6; 1909, c. 704, s. 3; 1917, c. 38.

A blank marriage license, though signed by the register of deeds, is not issued until filled up and handed to person who is to be married, or to some one for him; and if, at the time of such issuance, register has become functus officio, failure to record it does not render him liable to penalty imposed by sections 2504 and 2505 for failure to record substance of each marriage license issued: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

2503. Penalty for issuing license unlawfully. Every register of deeds who knowingly or without reasonable inquiry, personally or by deputy, issues a license for the marriage of any two persons to which there is any lawful impediment, or where either of the persons is under the age of eighteen years, without the consent required by law, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any parent, guardian, or other person standing in loco parentis, who sues for the same.

Rev., s. 2090; Code, s. 1816; 1895, c. 387; 1901, c. 722; R. C., c. 68, s. 13; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 7.

Legal definition of "penalty": Bd. of Ed. v. Henderson, 126-689. Register liable when he issues license to those under eighteen years without consent: Laney v. Mackey, 144-630.

When application made for license, register must be cautious and scrutinize application: Agent v. Willis, 124-29—to make reasonable inquiry whether there is any legal impediment to marriage, Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398—and where he is without knowledge of parties, it must appear probable to him upon reasonable inquiry that license may and ought to issue, Agent v. Willis, 124-29. The inquiry necessary to be made to relieve him from liability cannot be delegated to a deputy, but conducted by register himself: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71; Cole v. Laws, 108-185—for the trust is personal to the register, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

This section and section 2495 are in pari materia and are to be construed together: Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398; Joyner v. Harris, 157-296.

Where register delivers license complete in form to person with instructions not to give same to parties until written consent of mother obtained, and same delivered without such consent, register liable for penalty: Coley v. Lewis, 91-21.

Issuing of license by register in violation of section not indictable offense: State v. Snuggs, 85-541—but penalty of $200 is prescribed to person aggrieved who shall sue therefor, Ibid.—and this mode of proceeding excludes that by indictment, unless illegal act be done mala fide, Ibid.

What is "reasonable inquiry": Julian v. Daniels, 175-549; Gray v. Lentz, 173-346; Savage v. Moore, 167-383; Joyner v. Harris, 157-296; Furr v. Johnson, 140-157; Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398. As to when "reasonable inquiry" hereunder is question for court or jury, see Furr v. Johnson, 140-157; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133-312; Harcum v. Marsh, 130-154; Joyner v. Roberts, 114-389. As to burden of proof in actions hereunder, see Furr v. Johnson, 140-157. As to abatement of action by death of register, see Wallace v. McPherson, 139-297. As to power of legislature to relieve officer from penalty given by section by an act passed after bringing of action therefor, see Bray v. Williams, 137-387. For cases in which inquiry held to be reasonable, see Furr v. Johnson, 140-157; Harcum v. Marsh, 130-154; Joyner v. Roberts, 114-380; Walker v. Adams, 109-481; Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398. For cases in which inquiry held not to be reasonable, see Laney v. Mackey, 144-631; Morrison v. Teague, 143-186; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133-312; Cole v. Laws, 104-651; Williams v. Hodges, 101-300.

Sufficiency of written consent, see under section 2500.

Venue of action hereunder is in county in which cause of action arises: Dixon v. Haar, 158-341.

As to complaint in action hereunder, see Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174.

As to proper name under which to prosecute action, see Ibid.; see Norman v. Dunbar, 53-320.

Section merely referred to: Wilkinson v. Dellinger, 126-462.

2504. Record of licenses and returns; originals filed. Every register of deeds shall keep a book (which shall be furnished on demand by the board of county commissioners of his county) on the first page of which shall be written or printed:

Record of marriage licenses and of returns thereto, for the county of _____, from the _____ day of _____, 19____, to the _____ day of _____, 19____, both inclusive.

In said book shall be entered alphabetically, according to the names of the proposed husbands, the substance of each marriage license and the return thereupon, as follows: The book shall be divided by lines with columns which shall be properly headed, and in the first of these, beginning on the left, shall be put the date of issue of the license; in the second, the name in full of the intended husband, with his residence; in the third, his age; in the fourth, his race and color; in the fifth, the name in full of the intended wife, with her residence; in the sixth, her age; in the seventh, her race and color; in the eighth, the name and title of the minister or officer who celebrated the marriage; in the ninth, the day of the celebration; in the tenth, the place of the celebration; in the eleventh, the names of all or at least three of the witnesses who signed the return as present at the celebration. The original license and return thereto shall be filed and preserved.

As bearing upon section, see Bray v. Williams, 137-387.

Section merely referred to: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

2505. Penalty for failure to record. Any register of deeds who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any marriage license issued by him, or who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any return made thereon, within ten days after such return made, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who sues for the same.

Rev., s. 2092; Code, s. 1819; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 10.

Penalty given by section is as applicable to failure to record license or its substance, when issued, as to failure to record return thereof: Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174. Where at time of issuance of license register becomes functus officio, failure to record it does not render him liable to penalty: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

As to name in which action for penalty should be prosecuted, see Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174. As to jurisdiction of action for penalty hereunder, see Ibid. As to constitutionality of act of legislature relieving register from penalty hereunder, passed after action brought for recovery thereof, see Bray v. Williams, 137-387.

2506. Property of married woman secured to her. The real and personal property of any female in this state, acquired before marriage, and all property, real and personal, to which she may, after marriage, become in any manner entitled, shall be and remain the sole and separate estate and property of such female, and shall not be liable for any debts, obligations or engagements of her husband, and may be devised and bequeathed, and, with the written assent of her husband, conveyed by her as if she were unmarried.

Rev., s. 2093; Const., Art. X, s. 6.

For purchase-money mortgage executed by husband alone, see Widows, s. 4101.

This section is identical with const., art. 10, s. 6, and reference is made to annotations thereunder. For other statutes affecting married women, see especially:

Chapter Widows, passim.

Index, under heading, Married Women.

Sections of this chapter and cross-references thereunder.

MARRIED WOMEN'S RIGHTS UNDER CONSTITUTION AND STATUTES: GENERAL PROGRESS. Estate conferred on married women by const., art. 10, s. 6, was early held not to include as incidents either absolute power of disposal or general power to control; her "sole and separate estate" thereunder was assimilated to her separate equitable property; in the absence of additional legislation she was subject to the disabilities established with reference to her separate equitable estate by courts of equity; but unless prohibited by this provision, the legislature might remove all a married woman's incapacities and give her full power to contract: Pippen v. Wesson, 74-437.

The views thus laid down long controlled legislature and courts, but later decisions express the view that the constitutional provision by its own words gives the married woman complete control over her own property, except that husband's assent is required to her conveyance: See Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, and cases cited; also this chapter passim, especially sections 2510, 2515.

Whether present statutes are regarded as needed supplements to the constitutional provision, or as stating consequences implicitly contained therein, as result of enactments in this chapter, married women are fully emancipated as to property rights, except that they must have husband's consent to conveyance: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434.

And they are absolutely emancipated as to all contracts, except those with their husbands, as to which requirements of section 2515 control: Everett v. Ballard, 174-16; and see section 2507.

The history of legislation affecting married women up to 1905 is given, with references to the cases, in Ball v. Paquin, 140-83. For history and present state of law as to married women's contracts, see under section 2507.

WHEN PROVISION TOOK EFFECT. Const., art. 10, s. 6, took effect for purposes of domestic policy upon its adoption by the state in April, 1868, and not when congress approved it: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434.

When marriage occurred before 1868, husband's vested rights in wife's property previously acquired (e. g., to reduce her choses in action to possession) were not affected; but wife's property acquired after 1868 became her separate property, though marriage was before that date: Morris v. Morris, 94-613. When land acquired and marriage occurred before 1868, husband can make good title without wife's joinder; otherwise if land acquired or marriage took place after such date: Castlebury v. Maynard, 95-281. Deed between husband and wife made before 1868 governed by law then existing: Walton v. Parish, 95-259. In action by wife to recover land, marriage since 1868 presumed: Lloyd v. Lloyd, 113-186.

Where marriage since 1868, husband taking title to land bought with wife's money holds as trustee for her: Kirkpatrick v. Holmes, 108-206; Ray v. Long, 128-90; Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413; Gidney v. Moore, 86-485; Cunningham v. Bell, 63-328; Lyon v. Akin, 78-258; see Vance v. Vance, 118-864.

Fact that husband, by mistake and ignorance, without wife's knowledge, takes notes and mortgage for wife's land to himself does not affect her title thereto or render securities subject to his debts: Rodman v. Harvey, 102-1.

DISPOSITION, NOT ACQUISITION, REGULATED. Constitutional and statutory provisions regulate married women's powers of disposition, not of acquisition, of property: Osborne v. Wilkes, 108-651, 667, and cases cited.

STATUTE LIMITATIONS AGAINST MARRIED WOMEN. Since by const., art. 10, s. 6, wife's property is her own and beyond control of husband, and wife may sue husband in regard thereto (s. 454), and coverture not a disability to prevent running of statute of limitations, a claim which wife has against husband will be barred as in other cases: Graves v. Howard, 159-594.

TRANSFERS INTER VIVOS AND BY WILL. Word "conveyed" in constitutional provision has reference only to transfers and alienations of real estate: Vann v. Edwards, 135-661—and married woman may dispose of her personality as fully and freely as though unmarried, Vann v. Edwards, 135-661; Ball v. Paquin, 140-83; Rea v. Rea, 156-529.

Married woman may devise and bequeath her property as if unmarried, and her devise or bequest defeats her husband's claim as tenant by curtesy consummate: See section 2511.

Under const., art. 10, s. 6, and C. S., s. 2434, under chapter Liens, taken together, lien is given on property of married women for debts contracted for work and labor thereon: Ball v. Paquin, 140-83—for ruling that lien did not exist in the absence of valid contract, see Weathers v. Borders, 121-387; s. e., 124-610.

SEPARATE PROPERTY TRUSTS FOR MARRIED WOMEN SINCE CONSTITUTION. Deeds executed before 1868, creating separate property trusts for married women, were construed as creating active trusts, and were unexecuted by statute of uses, though no active duties imposed on trustee; but since 1868, to be saved from the operation of statute, active duties must be thrown on trustee, or there must be contingent estates to be preserved: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, following Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-154.

In deed in trust for sole and separate use of married woman, with restraint on anticipation, the restraint is void after husband's death (deed since 1868): Lee v. Oates, 171-717.

As to the power of married woman over her equitable separate estate under such a trust, see Hardy v. Holly, 84-661; Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244; Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

2507. Capacity to contract. Subject to the provisions of section 2515 of this chapter, regulating contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate, every married woman is authorized to contract and deal so as to affect her real and personal property in the same manner and with the same effect as if she were unmarried, but no conveyance of her real estate shall be valid unless made with the written assent of her husband as provided by section six of article ten of the constitution, and her privy examination as to the execution of the same taken and certified as now required by law.

Rev., s. 2094; Code, s. 1826; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 17; 1911, c. 109.

INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT. This section, the Martin act, passed March 6, 1911, has revolutionized the law as to married women's contracts. It repealed the statute which for forty years had controlled the subject, and rendered obsolete the mass of decisions construing the old law. This note contains the constructions of the section, and does not attempt to reproduce the obsolete cases interpreting the repealed statute. After the decisions on the statute, however, are given some references as to the former law.

General discussion of scope of statute and its bearing on married women's rights in Rea v. Rea, 156-529.

CONSTRUCTIONS OF SECTION. Section came before the court in a case involving the validity of a transfer or gift of corporate stock by a wife to her husband, made by filling out the blank endorsement on the stock certificate, without the formalities and private examination required by section 2515, and such transfer was upheld: Rea v. Rea, 156-529.

Section is prospective and not applicable to contracts made before its passage: Stephens v. Hicks, 156-239.

Section practically constitutes married women free traders as to all their ordinary dealings: Price v. Electric Co., 160-450, per Hoke, J.; McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463.

Married woman is liable upon her contract for the price of goods sold and delivered; for under section she may contract without husband's consent as freely as if unmarried, and husband need not be joined in suit on the contract: Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508.

Section does not, in absence of wife's contract to pay for necessaries or funeral expenses, impose a liability upon her estate therefor, both being proper charges against husband's estate: Bowen v. Daugherty, 168-242.

Contract by wife as surety for husband is valid without formalities required by section 2515, and wife is suable thereon alone: Royal v. Southerland, 168-405.

Married woman's contract to convey land, without privy examination, renders her liable in damages for its breach; but to render such contract enforceable specifically there must be joinder of husband and her privy examination: Warren v. Dail, 170-406. Wife liable in damages for breach of contract to convey lands, though contract made without husband's consent: Everett v. Ballard, 174-16.

Married woman, under section, liable upon her contracts as though unmarried; personal judgment may be recovered against her thereon, and upon execution issued, her property, real and personal, may be sold as though she were single, although the debt was not charged upon her property: Thrash v. Ould, 172-728. Married woman liable on her contracts, whether as individual or as partner: Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177-298.

Section cited: Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182.

LAW BEFORE ENACTMENT OF SECTION. Before the Martin act (this section), married woman's power to contract was greatly restricted. Indeed, she could make no personal contract, but following, as suggested in Pippen v. Wesson, 74-437, equitable doctrines as to her equitable separate estate, she could bind her separate statutory estate by "an engagement in the nature of an executory contract," which could be enforced against her property in a court having equity powers. The suit on such engagement resulted in a decree against the property charged, not in a judgment against her. See Thompson v. Coats, 174-193; Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296.

The validity and extent of such charge depended upon the consent of her husband, the nature of the debt or liability for which the charge was created, and the manner in which the charge was created or evidenced: Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296; Loan Assn. v. Black, 119-323, summary of Avery, J., pp. 326, 327; Ball v. Paquin, 140-83; Bank v. Benbow, 150-781.

The former law has been carefully worked out in an elaborate table with numerous citations by Dean S. F. Mordecai, which is inserted in full in Vann v. Edwards, 128-425, and again, with the author's permission, in Pell's Revisal as a part of the note to Rev., s. 2094. It has been referred to by the court or judges in opinions, see Everett v. Ballard, 174-16.

A reference to some leading cases, of special importance in the development of the law on this subject, follows:

Harris v. Johnson, 72-183 (1875). Married woman's bond without husband's consent void. Pippen v. Wesson, 74-437 (1876). Pioneer case laying down principles which have had the widest effect. See under section 2506.

Dougherty v. Sprinkle, 88-300 (1883). No personal judgment against married woman on promise; no jurisdiction in justice of the peace, since suit is equitable.

Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296 (1889). Discussion of married woman's contracts by Shepherd, J.; necessity of husband's consent; method of charging real and personal property; note held express charge, although consideration not for wife's benefit.

Farthing v. Shields, 106-289 (1890). Married woman's power to charge her separate real property measured by her power to dispose of it, and therefore to require deed and privy examination.

Loan Assn. v. Black, 119-323 (1896). Useful summary by Avery, J., on pp. 326, 327.

Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352 (1903). Note of husband and wife, charging her separate estate, binds her personal property, but not her realty in absence of privy examination; obligation enforceable only in superior court, not before justice of peace. Discussion in opinion of court and in dissenting opinion.

Vann v. Edwards, 135-661 (1904). Married woman may sell and transfer her personal property as feme sole, without husband's consent. See section 2506 and notes.

Ball v. Paquin, 140-83 (1905). Contracts for labor and material on wife's land, which is described, bind her real property without express charge, if executed by husband and wife with privy examination. Full discussion of married women's contracts, with history and legislation to date, by Connor, J., and Clark, C. J.

Bank v. Benbow, 150-781 (1909). Summary by Brown, J., with references.

Thompson v. Coats, 174-193 (1917). Summary of old law by Brown, J.

Where a married woman domiciled in this state made a contract in another state, valid where it was made, it will not be enforced in this state unless it complies with the law here: Armstrong v. Best, 112-59 (1893); Bank v. Howell, 118-271—otherwise as to contract of non-resident, Bank v. Granite Co., 155-43.

RECENT CASES INVOLVING LAW BEFORE MARTIN ACT: Bank v. Benbow, 150-781; Bushnell v. Bertolett, 153-564; Bank v. Granite Co., 155-43 (nonresident married woman's contract, enforceable here according to its validity by lex loci contractus); Smathers v. Bank, 155-283 (liability of married women as stockholders in banks); Robinson v. Jarrett, 159-165 (justice of peace had jurisdiction of married woman's contract for necessary expenses, before Martin act); Gann v. Spencer, 167-429; Thompson v. Coats, 174-193.

2508. Capacity to draw checks. Bank deposits made by or in the name of a married woman shall be paid only to her or on her order, and her check, receipt or acquittance shall be valid in law to fully discharge the bank from any and all liability on account thereof.

Rev., s. 2095; 1891, c. 221, s. 30; 1893, c. 344.

Section cited by Clark, C. J., concurring, in Warren v. Dail, 170-406.

2509. Conveyance or lease of wife's land requires husband's joinder. No lease or agreement for a lease or sublease or assignment by any married woman, not a free trader, of her lands or tenements, or chattels real, to run for more than three years, or to begin in possession more than six months after its execution, or any conveyance of any freehold estate in her real property, shall be valid, unless the same be executed by her and her husband, and proved or acknowledged by them, and her free consent thereto appear on her examination separate from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert.

As to requirements and formalities for married women's conveyances, see section 997.

Husband's written assent to wife's conveyance is necessary: Stallings v. Walker, 176-321; Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182; Walton v. Bristol, 125-419; Loan Assn. v. Black, 119-323; Farthing v. Shields, 106-289; Wood v. Wheeler, 106-512; Harris v. Jenkins, 72-183—and his assent is expressed by signing and acknowledging with the wife, Jackson v. Beard, 162-105; Council v. Pridgen, 153-443; Jennings v. Hinton, 126-51; Brinkley v. Ballance, 126-397; Bank v. Ireland, 122-571; Green v. Bennett, 120-394; Jones v. Craigmiles, 114-613; Farthing v. Shields, 106-289; Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296; Harris v. Jenkins, 72-186. Husband's written assent endorsed on the deed does not validate it: Council v. Pridgen, 153-443. Wife's privy examination necessary: Jackson v. Beard, 162-105; Council v. Pridgen, 153-443. And see section 997. Not necessary that married woman be privately examined as to execution of instrument made while she was unmarried, but not acknowledged until after her marriage: Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107-437.

Property having once become separate property of married woman, as by descent from ancestor as one of his heirs, her estate can only be conveyed by deed with formal legal requirements: Spears v. Woodhouse, 162-66; Sprinkle v. Spainhour, 149-223. See, also, as to estates by entireties, section 1735.

Conveyance of land in this state by a nonresident feme covert must comply with the law of this state: Wood v. Wheeler, 111-231; Smith v. Ingram, 130-100.

2510. Husband cannot convey, etc., wife's land without her consent; not liable for his debts. No real estate belonging at the time of marriage to females, married since the third Monday of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, nor any real estate by them subsequently acquired, nor any real estate acquired on and since the first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, by femes covert, who were such on the said third Monday of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, shall be subject to be sold or leased by the husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife first had and obtained, to be ascertained and effectuated by deed and privy examination, according to the rules required by law for the sale of lands belonging to femes covert. And no interest of the husband whatever in such real estate shall be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him; and every such sale is hereby declared null and void.

Sole purpose of section (act of 1848) in then state of law "was to provide for her (wife) a home of which she could not be deprived either by the husband or by his creditors"; but neither this section nor constitution of 1868 destroyed tenancy by curtesy initiate: Houston v. Brown, 52-161; Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134; Cobb v. Raspberry, 116-137; Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549. Section prevented husband as tenant by curtesy initiate from selling or leasing wife's lands without her consent, evidenced by privy examination: McCaskill v. McCormac, 99-548—and prevented sale under execution against him, Cobb v. Raspberry, 116-137; Bruce v. Nicholson, 109-202.

Where marriage took place and issue born before constitution of 1868, section did not impair husband's right, as tenant by curtesy initiate, to rents and profits of wife's land: Cobb v. Raspberry, 116-137; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508, and cases cited. Where marriage was in 1867, but first child not born until ratification of constitution of 1868, husband has no vested rights to be impaired by const., art. 10, s. 6: Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549.

Since enactment of section husband may surrender his estate by curtesy initiate and let it merge in wife's reversion, and wife may, with husband's assent, sell same and receive all the purchase money: Teague v. Downs, 69-280.

Written lease of wife's land for five years, made by husband and wife subsequent to section, without her privy examination as required by section, is void as to wife and passes no interest of husband in rents and profits: Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549.

Tenancy by curtesy consummate remains as at common law: Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508.

CURTESY INITIATE SINCE CONSTITUTION OF 1868. By this section and const., art. 10, s. 6, tenancy by curtesy initiate is stripped of its common-law attributes until there remains only husband's right of occupancy with wife, with right of ingress and egress; by curtesy initiate husband still has freehold interest, but shorn of right to take rents and of power to lease: Walker v. Long, 109-510. See, also, discussion, with cases cited, in Sipe v. Herman, 161-107, and in opinion of court and of dissenting justices in Jackson v. Beard, 162-105. Wife now entitled to management and control of her separate estate and to receive rents and profits: Nelson v. Neison, 176-191.

Tenant by curtesy initiate, being freeholder, is eligible as juror in cases where being freeholder is requisite: Hodgin v. R. R., 143-93; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; State v. Mills, 91-581.

Tenant by curtesy initiate has not such interest or estate in wife's land as will put in operation statute of limitations against either husband or wife in favor of one claiming title by adverse possession: Jones v. Coffey, 109-515.

As to curtesy generally, see section 2519.

2511. Capacity to make will. Every married woman has power to devise and bequeath her real and personal estate as if she were a feme sole; and her will shall be proved as is required of other wills.

Rev., s. 2098; Code, s. 1839; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 31.

The wife can dispose of her property acquired since 1868 by will, and thereby bar her husband's right of tenancy by the curtesy: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434; Watts v. Griffin, 137-572; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132-947; Ex parte Watts, 130-237; Tiddy v. Graves, 126-620, 127-502. Married woman may devise legal and equitable separate estate, whether the trust is active or passive: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434.

2512. May insure husband's life. Any feme covert in her own name, or in the name of a trustee with his assent, may cause to be insured for any definite time the life of her husband, for her sole and separate use, and she may dispose of the interest in the same by will, notwithstanding her coverture.

Rev., s. 2099.

2513. Earning and damages from personal injury are wife's property. The earnings of a married woman by virtue of any contract for her personal service, and any damages for personal injuries, or other tort sustained by her, can be recovered by her suing alone, and such earnings or recovery shall be her sole and separate property as fully as if she had remained unmarried.

Married woman may sue for damages for personal injuries without joinder of husband, and her diminished earning capacity may be considered as an element of damages: Kirkpatrick v. Crutchfield, 178-348.

Former rule was that earnings of wife belonged to husband, but he might confer on her the rights thereto, and they were then regarded as her separate property, which she could recover by action in her own name: Syme v. R. R., 88-463; Hairston v. Glenn, 120-341; Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413; Price v. R. R., 160-450; Patterson v. Franklin, 168-75; McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463.

Section said to be result of Price v. R. R., 160-450; Patterson v. Franklin, 168-75, in concurring opinion; McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463, in concurring opinion.

Section cited and distinguished: Floyd v. R. R., 167-55.

2514. Savings from separate property; liability of husband for income. The savings from the income of the separate estate of the wife are her separate property. But no husband who, during the coverture (the wife not being a free trader under this chapter), has received, without objection from his wife, the income of her separate estate, shall be liable to account for such receipt for any greater time than the year next preceding the date of a summons issued against him in an action for such income, or next preceding her death.

Rev., s. 2100; Code, s. 1837; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 29.

Wife entitled to recover and hold to her own use her separate property and income therefrom, and agents managing same for her, including her husband, must account with her for sums received therefrom: Manning v. Manning, 79-300; Nelson v. Nelson, 176-191; State v. Lanier, 89-517. Income of separate estate belongs to wife, and husband liable to account for it, but not for more than a year: Faireloth v. Borden, 130-263; Wells v. Batts, 112-283—unless by special contract, Battle v. Mayo, 102-413.

When husband works wife's land, in the absence of any contract, he has no interest in the crop, but supplies furnished with wife's consent may be chargeable to her: Guano Co. v. Colwell, 177-218.

Only positive and unequivocal assent of wife to disposition by husband of crops grown on her land, and not mere silence, estops her to assert title to same: Branch v. Ward, 114-148.

2515. Contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate. No contract between a husband and wife made during coverture shall be valid to affect or change any part of the real estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, or to impair or change the body or capital of the personal estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, unless such contract is in writing, and is duly proved as is required for conveyances of land; and upon the examination of the wife separate and apart from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such officer that the wife freely executed such contract, and freely consented thereto at the time of her separate examination, and that the same is not unreasonable or injurious to her. The certificate of the officer shall state his conclusions, and shall be conclusive of the facts therein stated. But the same may be impeached for fraud as other judgments may be.

Rev., s. 2107; Code, s. 1835; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 27.

For married woman's power to contract as limited by this section, see section 2507. As to fraudulent conveyances and contracts between husband and wife, see sections 1005-1007. As to conveyances of married woman, see section 997.

Section does not apply to gift by married woman to her husband of her personal property: Rea v. Rea, 156-529, discussed and explained in Singleton v. Cherry, 168-402; Butler v. Butler, 169-584; Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182.

The statutes do not limit married woman's acquisition of property, but merely restrict her disposition thereof: Osborne v. Wilkes, 108-651, and cases cited.

Deed from wife to husband not executed and probated as required by section is void: Wallin v. Rice, 170-417; Singleton v. Cherry, 168-402; Long v. Rankin, 108-333. Covenant of warranty in deed not so executed will not make it an estoppel: Wallin v. Rice, 170-417. Required certificate cannot be added after probate: Butler v. Butler, 169-584. Deed not complying with section is color of title: Norwood v. Totten, 166-648. Possession of husband under deed of wife not in compliance with section is adverse only after wife's death: Kornegay v. Price, 178-441.

Where land is bought with the wife's money and title is taken in the name of the husband, or of the husband and wife, this is in effect a conveyance of realty by her, and invalid unless executed in conformity with this section: Deese v. Deese, 176-527; Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182. So of investments by the husband of wife's property in personalty which would impair the body of the capital of her personal estate: Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182; Gooch v. Bank, 176-213. Separation agreement fixing the property rights of husband and wife must be executed in conformity with section: Archbell v. Archbell, 158-409. Wife may appoint husband as her agent in ordinary way except where land is the subject of agency, and then this section must be complied with: Stout v. Perry, 152-312.

Section merely referred to: Bailey v. Bailey, 127-474; Walton v. Bristol, 125-419.

2516. Contracts between husband and wife generally; releases. Rev., s. 2108; Code, s. 1836; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 28.

shall incur any liability for any debts owing, or contracts made, or for wrongs done by his wife before the marriage.

Rev., ss. 2101, 2106; Code, ss. 1822, 1823; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 13, 14.

Rev., s. 2102; Code, s. 1838; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 30.

Requisites and attributes of tenancy by curtesy at common law: Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549; Cobb v. Rasberry, 116-137; Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134; Morris v. Morris, 94-613; Long v. Graeber, 64-431; Houston v. Brown, 52-161. Consideration of birth alive as requisite: Fleming v. Sexton, 172-250.

Tenancy by curtesy initiate is now, by constitution and statutes, stripped of common-law features and reduced to bare right of occupancy; but tenant by curtesy initiate still technically a freeholder: See section 2510—and regarded as having an interest in wife's land, Jackson v. Beard, 162-105; McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215. But compare Sipe v. Herman, 161-107, and dissenting opinions in Jackson v. Beard, 162-105.

Estate of husband as tenant by curtesy consummate remains as at common law, and is liable to sale under execution: Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; McCaskill v. McCormac, 99-548.

Husband must join in wife's deed to pass his interest in her land as tenant by curtesy initiate: McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215—and his act in joining is so far contractual that if he is infant at the time he may subsequently disaffirm the deed in apt time, Jackson v. Beard, 162-105. Husband as tenant by curtesy initiate is necessary party to suit respecting wife's land: McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215.

Where deed to wife, who bought and paid for land, was lost without registration, and after her death her husband procured a deed to be executed to himself, he held the land, by implication of law, as trustee for their children, subject to his life estate by the curtesy: Norcum v. Savage, 140-472.

LANDS SUBJECT TO CURTESY. For husband to have curtesy, wife must have had seizin in deed at common law: Nixon v. Williams, 95-103; In re Dixon, 156-26—exception as to wild lands, Pierce v. Wannett, 32-446. Where descent from ancestor in actual seizin is cast on married woman, actual entry is not necessary to entitle husband to curtesy: Childers v. Bumgarner, 53-297.

Seizin in wife subject to outstanding life estate does not give husband curtesy: Jones v. Whichard, 163-241; In re Dixon, 156-26; Carter v. Williams, 43-177. But outstanding term of years does not prevent curtesy: Carter v. Williams, 43-177. Husband entitled to curtesy in wife's equitable "estates": Sentill v. Robeson, 55-510; Hunt v. Satterwhite, 85-73. But not of lands held by the wife as trustee: Norton v. McDevit, 122-755. Seizin of wife as tenant in common is sufficient: Childers v. Bumgarner, 53-297; Hunt v. Satterwhite, 85-73—or as joint tenant since survivorship abolished, Ibid.

Where wife has life estate with power of appointment in fee at her death, husband not entitled to curtesy if she fails to appoint: Graves v. Trueblood, 96-495.

Where wife's lands are mortgaged for husband's debt, and mortgage is foreclosed after her death, surplus goes to heirs, charged with husband's curtesy: Harrington v. Rawls, 136-65.

Wife's devise of lands acquired since 1868 defeats husband's curtesy: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, and see section 2511.

2520. In actions against wife, husband served and may defend. In all actions brought against a married woman, who is not a free trader (as hereinafter provided for), the summons shall be served upon the husband also, and on motion to the court in which the action is pending, he may be allowed, with her consent, to defend the same in her name and behalf, but no judgment shall be given against him upon any liability claimed against her arising before the marriage or upon any contract made by her alone after her marriage.

Rev., s. 2103; Code, s. 1824; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 15.

See generally, for cases where married woman may sue or be sued alone and when with her husband, section 454.

Since enactment of Martin act, section 2507, it is not necessary to join husband as defendant with the wife in an action on her contracts: Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508. Compare rule before act: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352. The effect of section 2507, as interpreted in Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508, is far-reaching and should be kept in mind in considering the cases cited hereunder.

A feme covert and her husband must be joined in action to recover property fraudulently conveyed to wife: Pender v. Mallett, 123-57. She may be sued alone in tort when husband abandons her: Heath v. Morgan, 117-504—in ejectment, when her husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned her, Finley v. Saunders, 98-462. A married woman, being a free trader, may consent to judgment fixing no personal liability upon her, without husband being joined: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494.

A husband, tenant by the curtesy initiate, has an interest in wife's land and is a necessary party to a suit respecting it, and if he refuses to become a coplaintiff in an action by wife to assert her right to property, he should be made party defendant; but where action concerns her separate property or is between herself and her husband, she may sue alone: McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215, and see section 454.

Where husband and wife are jointly sued for wrong of the wife and the wife die, the action abates: Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86-136.

Where husband is a nonresident or fugitive from justice this section does not apply: Heath v. Morgan, 117-504. Where husband is an alien and never lived in or visited the United States, this section does not apply: Levi v. Marsha, 122-565.

Acceptance of service of summons by a married woman gives jurisdiction: Nicholson v. Cox, 83-44.

Where husband and wife are sued together on joint obligation, it is duty of husband to defend for both and to set up wife's inability in a proper case, and if he fail to do so, wife cannot have judgment against her set aside on ground of her incompetency to contract: Vick v. Pope, 81-22.

Judgment against married woman appearing in suit by counsel of husband's selection is as binding as one against any other person unless it be obtained by the fraudulent combination of husband with adverse litigant: Ibid.

No judgment can be rendered against a husband who is joined with his wife in an action under section 454: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352; Nicholson v. Cox, 83-48; Vick v. Pope, 81-22.

In all actions whose object is to bind real estate belonging to a feme covert, service of summons must be made personally upon her as well as upon her husband: Rowland v. Perry, 64-578—and where it is not so done a judgment by default against wife must be vacated, Ibid.

A power of attorney, given by a married woman, to dismiss an action concerning her land need not be registered to give it validity: Hollingsworth v. Harman, 83-153.

Where feme covert, sued with husband as surety, accepts service of summons at husband's instance, relying upon him to employ counsel and defend suit, and he does not, and judgment goes by default, judgment will be set aside at her instance on ground of excusable neglect: Nicholson v. Cox, 83-48.

Where a feme covert was sued with her husband, whom she instructed to make a proper defense to the action, which he failed to do, it is no ground for injunction to restrain collection of judgment in absence of fraud: Neville v. Pope, 95-346.

2521. Discharge of husband from defense; liability for costs. When a husband is allowed to defend for his wife, he may be ordered to pay costs for any misconduct, and may be discharged from the conduct of her defense, if it shall appear to the court that his defense is not bona fide in her interest.

Rev., s. 2104; Code, s. 1825; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 16.

ART. 2. ACTS BARRING RECIPROCAL PROPERTY RIGHTS OF HUSBAND AND WIFE

2522. Divorce a vinculo and felonious slaying a bar. When a marriage is dissolved a vinculo, the parties respectively, or when either party is convicted of the felonious slaying of the other or of being accessory before the fact of such felonious slaying, the party so convicted, shall thereby lose all his or her right to an estate by the curtesy, or dower, and all right to any year's provision or distributive share in the personal property of the other, and all right to administer on the estate of the other, and every right and estate in the real or personal estate of the other party, which by settlement before or after marriage was settled upon such party in consideration of the marriage only.

Where a wife who had resided here, bona fide removed to Illinois, and instituted an action for divorce in one of the courts of that state, and the husband in this state appeared by attorney and defended the action there: Held, that he was bound by a decree for divorce on a verdict rendered in that action, and that his property rights in her estate here were terminate from its date: Arrington v. Arrington, 102-491.

Personal choses in action which belong to the wife reduced into possession by the husband, in the words of a recent author, remain his, but as to rights dependent on marriage, and not actually vested, a full divorce or the legal annihilation ends them: Arrington v. Arrington, 102-514.

For annotations upon the subject of divorce and alimony generally, see chapter Divorce and Alimony, sections 1655-1668.

For effect of divorce upon right to administer upon the estate of husband or wife, as the case may be, see section 10. For effect of divorce upon right of dower, see section 4099.

2523. Wife's elopement or divorce a mensa at husband's suit a bar. If a married woman elopes with an adulterer, or willfully and without just cause abandons her husband and refuses to live with him, and is not living with her husband at his death, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband, and also all right to a year's provision, and to a distributive share from the personal property of her husband, and all right to administration on his estate, and also all right and estate in the property of her husband, settled upon her upon the sole consideration of the marriage, before or after marriage; and such elopement may be pleaded in bar of any action, or proceeding, for the recovery of such rights and estates; and in case of such elopement, abandonment, or divorce, the husband may sell and convey his real estate as if he were unmarried, and the wife shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right of dower therein.

Wife who commits adultery and is not living with husband at his death is thereby deprived of her dower: Phillips v. Wiseman, 131-402.

2524. Husband's living in adultery, etc., or divorce a mensa at wife's suit a bar. If a husband separates from his wife and lives in adultery, or willfully and without just cause abandons his wife and refuses to live with her, and such conduct on his part is not condoned by her, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the wife, he shall thereby lose all right to curtesy in the real property of the wife, and also all right and estate of whatever character in and to her personal property, as administrator, or otherwise; and also any right and estate in the property of the wife which may have been settled upon him solely in consideration of the marriage by any settlement before or after marriage, and in case of such adultery and abandonment or divorce, the wife may sell and convey her real property as if she were unmarried, and the husband, if there has been no condonation at the time of the conveyance, shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right to curtesy in such real property.

See section 12 and chapter Divorce and Alimony. Section referred to: Joyner v. Joyner, 151-181.

ART. 3. FREE TRADERS

2525. Requisites of writing to make her free trader. Every married woman of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, with the consent of her husband, may become a free trader in the manner following:

1. By antenuptial contract, proved and registered, as hereinafter required; or,
2. By her and her husband signing a writing in the following or some equivalent form:

A. B., of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, wife of C. D., of _____ county, with his consent, testified by his signature hereto, enters herself as a free trader from the date of the registration hereof.

(Signed)

A. B.
C. D.

Witness: E. F.

Registered this _____ day of _____, 19____

The said writing may be proved by the subscribing witness or acknowledged by the parties before any officer authorized to take the probate of deeds, and shall be filed and registered in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which the woman proposes to have her principal or only place of business.

Rev., s. 2112; Code, s. 1827; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 18, 19.

“The Martin act, s. 2507, practically constituted married women free traders as to all their ordinary dealings”: Patterson v. Franklin, 168-75, per Hoke, J., for court.

There is no constitutional inhibition on the power of the legislature to declare where and how the wife may become a free trader, const., art. 10, s. 6, being intended to protect instead of disable her: Hall v. Walker, 118-377.

By proper construction of section 2514, where wife is not a free trader, the husband's liability is limited, but where she is a free trader his liability to account for her income received by him is unlimited except by the general law applicable to agents and other persons: Manning v. Manning, 79-302.

Being entered as a free trader does not enable a married woman to convey her land as if she were single: Council v. Pridgen, 153-443.

Section merely referred to: Finger v. Hunter, 130-531; Bazemore v. Mountain, 126-318; Williams v. Walker, 111-604; Weir v. Page, 109-223; Clark v. Hay, 98-425.

2526. Writing effective from registration. From the time of the registration of the writing mentioned in the preceding section, the married woman therein mentioned shall be a free trader, and authorized to contract and deal as if she were a feme sole.

Rev., s. 2113; Code, s. 1828; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 20.

The words “free trader,” “contract,” and “deal” herein refer to contracts in some business enterprise, and do not refer to conveyances of her realty by married woman: Council v. Pridgen, 153-443.

The following decisions were before enactment of section 2507: Where a married woman is a free trader and consents to a judgment which fixes no personal liability upon her, the husband need not be a party to the proceeding: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494. A feme covert may be sued in a court of a justice of the peace for a debt due by her, or on a contract made by her, before marriage, or for a debt contracted by her as a free trader: Neville v. Pope, 95-346; Hodges v. Hill, 105-130. Section merely referred to: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-357; Moore v. Wolfe, 122-715; Sanderlin v. Sanderlin, 122-1; Wilcox v. Arnold, 116-711; Green v. Ballard, 116-144; Weir v. Page, 109-223; Farthing v. Shields, 106-295; Flaum v. Wallace, 103-304.

2527. Certified copy as evidence. A copy of such writing, duly proved and registered and certified by the register of the county in which the same is registered, is admissible in evidence as certified copies of registered deeds are or may be allowed to be.

Where it was averred and not denied that a married feme defendant was a free trader, and the judgment fastened no personal liability on her, held she was bound by judgment: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494—but per Montgomery, J., dissenting, the fact of free-tradership only provable by registered writing or certified copy. See Williams v. Walker, 111-604.

2528. Revocation by entry on record and publication. The right of a married woman to act as a free trader may be ended at any time by an entry by her, or by her attorney, in the margin of the registration of the writing above mentioned, to the effect that from the date of such marginal entry she ceases so to act, and by publication to that effect weekly for three weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which she had her principal or only place of business, or if there is none so published, then in any other convenient newspaper. But such entry and publication shall not impair any liabilities incurred previously thereto, nor prevent such married woman from becoming liable afterwards to any person whom she may fraudulently induce to deal with her as a free trader.

Section referred to: Ball v. Paquin, 140-83.

2529. Separation by divorce or deed; husband non compos. Every woman who is living separate from her husband, either under a judgment of divorce by a competent court or under a deed of separation executed by said husband and wife and registered in the county in which she resides, or whose husband has been declared an idiot or a lunatic, shall be deemed and held, from the docketing of such judgment, or from the registration of such deed, or from the date of such idiocy or lunacy and during its continuance, a free trader, and may convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband.

Rev., s. 2116; Code, s. 1831; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 23; 1880, c. 35.

See section 2507.

Section recognizes validity of separation deed: Archbell v. Archbell, 158-409.

For married woman to be free trader on ground of husband's idiocy or lunacy, he should have been declared idiot or lunatic: Abbott v. Hancock, 123-99. Where husband idiot or lunatic, wife may convey under this section or proceed under section 2293: Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178-22.

Married woman whose husband is alien, who was never in United States, is personally liable on her contracts: Levi v. Marsha, 122-565.

Section merely referred to: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162; Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352; Sanderlin v. Sanderlin, 122-1; Moore v. Wolfe, 122-715; Farthing v. Shields, 106-295; Hodges v. Hill, 105-130; Flaum v. Wallace, 103-304; Sparks v. Sparks, 94-527.

2530. Abandonment by husband. Every woman whose husband abandons her, or maliciously turns her out of doors, shall be deemed a free trader, so far as to be competent to contract and be contracted with, and to bind her separate property, but the liability of her husband for her reasonable support shall not thereby be impaired. She may also convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband.

Rev., s. 2117; Code, s. 1832; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 24.

See section 2507, as modifying some decisions hereunder.

Section is constitutional: Hall v. Walker, 118-377; Finger v. Hunter, 130-529; Brown v. Brown, 121-8. What constitutes abandonment hereunder: Vandiford v. Humphrey, 139-65. Married woman abandoned by husband may make valid deed, without joinder of husband: Bachelor v. Norris, 166-506; Pardon v. Paschal, 142-538.

Where husband is a nonresident and a fugitive from justice he is not a necessary party in an action against a married woman: Heath v. Morgan, 117-504. An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a married woman alone whose husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned his wife: Finley v. Saunders, 98-462. A wife abandoned by her husband may maintain an action for tort in her own name against a third person: Brown v. Brown, 121-8.

Right of abandoned married woman to contract in regard to her separate property as free trader discussed: Vandiford v. Humphrey, 139-65.

ART. 1. PUBLIC MILLS

2531. Public mills defined. Every water grist-mill, steam mill, or wind-mill, that grinds for toll, is a public mill.

“Mill-seat” defined in State v. Sutton, 139-574. “Grist-mill” held sufficient description of public mill in petition for damages: Little v. Stanback, 63-285; State v. Jaynes, 78-508; Hyatt v. Myers, 73-240. This section merely referred to in Mizell v. McGowan, 120-136.

2532. Miller to grind according to turn; tolls regulated. All millers of public mills shall grind according to turn, and shall well and sufficiently grind the grain brought to their mills, if the water will permit, and shall take no more toll for grinding than one-eighth part of the indian corn and wheat, and one-fourteenth part for chopping grain of any kind; and every miller and keeper of a mill making default therein shall, for each offense, forfeit and pay five dollars to the party injured: Provided, that the owner may grind his own grain at any time.

Rev., s. 2120; Code, s. 1847; R. C., c. 71, s. 6; 1777, c. 122, s. 10; 1793, c. 402; 1905, c. 694; 1907, c. 367.

2533. Measures to be kept; tolls by weight or measure. All millers shall keep in their mills the following measures, namely, a half-bushel and peck of full measure, and also proper toll-dishes for each measure; but the toll allowed by law may be taken by weight or measure at the option of the miller and customer.

Rev., s. 2121; Code, s. 1848; 1885, c. 202; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11.

2534. Keeping false toll-dishes misdemeanor. If any owner, by himself or servant, keeping any mill, shall keep any false toll-dishes, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3679; Code, s. 1848; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11.

See generally: State v. Perry, 50-252. Not necessary in indictment to aver the capacity of the false toll-dish: Ibid. Sufficiency of evidence hereunder: Ibid.—insufficiency, State v. Nixon, 50-257. Section cited in Hyatt v. Myers, 73-240.

ART. 2. CONDEMNATION FOR MILL BY OWNER OF ONE BANK OF STREAM

2535. Special proceedings; parties; summons. Any person wishing to build a water mill, who has land on only one side of a stream, shall issue a summons returnable to the superior court of the county in which the land sought to be condemned, or some part of it, lies, against the persons in possession and the owners of the land on the opposite side of the stream, and against such others as have an interest in the controversy, and the procedure shall be as is provided in other special proceedings, except so far as the same may be modified by this chapter.

Twenty years possession of an easement raises the presumption of a grant: Benbow v. Robbins, 71-338; Geer v. Water Co., 127-354; Gerenger v. Summers, 24-229; Rogers v. Mabe, 15-180.

The ground on which is presumed a grant of the privilege of ponding water on another's land for the purpose of a mill is that it has been enjoyed by the person claiming and those with whom he connects himself twenty years or more in the state or to the extent to which he claims: Gerenger v. Summers, 24-229—and it is no answer to this presumption that the height of the water had been sometimes lowered by a drought, or that the water had been occasionally let off for the purpose of repairing the mill and only for the period required for such purpose, Ibid.

A parol license granted to one to build a dam upon grantor's land, either voluntary or supported by a valuable consideration, may be revoked by the owner without incurring liability in damages, where notice is given and reasonable opportunity afforded to remove improvements put up thereunder: Kivett v. McKeithan, 90-106. The builder of the dam should have taken a conveyance of the easement, or pursued the remedy pointed out for the condemnation of land for mill purposes: Ibid.

An injunction will not be granted to restrain the erection of a dam whereby the mill wheel of the plaintiff is flooded, so as to become useless: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

A parol license ceases at death of licensor: Bridges v. Purcell, 18-492.

Section referred to in Gwaltney v. Timber and Land Co., 111-564; Bass v. Navigation Co., 111-454.

2536. Commissioners to be appointed. If no just cause is shown against the building of such mill, the court shall appoint three freeholders, one of whom shall be chosen by the plaintiff, another by the defendants, and the third by the court, or if the plaintiff or defendants refuse or fail, or unreasonably delay to name a commissioner, the court shall name one in lieu of such delinquent party. These commissioners may be changed from time to time by permission of the court for just cause shown.

Rev., s. 2123; Code, s. 1850; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 2.

2537. Meeting to be appointed and commissioners notified; witnesses examined.

The third commissioner shall cause the others to be notified of the time and place of meeting, and shall preside at their meetings. They may, if necessary, summon and examine witnesses, who shall be sworn by the presiding commissioner. Any commissioner named by or for either of the parties who, without just cause, fails to attend any meeting notified by the president, shall forfeit and pay to the opposite party fifty dollars; and if the president, in like manner, unreasonably delays to notify the other commissioners of a meeting, or fails to attend one that is appointed, he shall forfeit and pay to the plaintiff fifty dollars, and to the defendant a like sum.

2538. Oath and duty of commissioners. The commissioners shall be sworn by some officer qualified to administer an oath to act impartially between the parties, and to perform the duties herein imposed on them honestly and to the best of their ability. They shall view the premises where the mill is proposed to be built, and shall lay off and value a portion of the land of the plaintiff, not to exceed one acre in area, and an equal area of the land of the defendants opposite thereto, and report their proceedings to the court within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days.

Rev., s. 2125; Code, s. 1852; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 4.

Majority signing report is sufficient: Austin v. Helms, 65-560.

2539. Contents of commissioners' report. The report of the commissioners shall set forth:

1. The location, quantities and value of the several areas laid off by them.
2. Whether either of them includes houses, gardens, orchards or other immediate conveniences.
3. Whether the proposed mill will overflow another mill or create a nuisance in the neighborhood.
4. Any other matter upon which they have been directed by the court to report, or which they may think necessary to the doing of full justice between the parties.

Rev., s. 2126; Code, s. 1853; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 5.

Proper for commissioners to report whether proposed mill will overflow another or create a nuisance: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334. Commissioners forbidden to include houses, etc., in survey; the valuation must be confined to the naked land: Burgess v. Clark, 35-109. Not necessary that all commissioners should sign report, a majority being sufficient: Austin v. Helms, 65-560.

2540. When building not to be allowed. If the area laid off on the land of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards, or other immediate conveniences; or if the mill proposed will overflow another mill, or will create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the proposed mill to be built.

Commissioners are not authorized to include in the valuation any houses found on the condemned area, even though erected there by petitioner before proceedings were commenced; valuation must be confined to naked land: Burgess v. Clark, 35-109. Commissioner must report whether proposed mill will overflow another mill, or will create a nuisance in the neighborhood: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

Where mill would be a public benefit, on principle that private advantage must yield to public benefit, no injunction will lie: Daughtry v. Warren, 85-136. No injunction lies where damages not irreparable: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

2541. Power of court on return of report. If the report is in favor of building the proposed mill, and is confirmed, then the court may, in its discretion, allow either the plaintiff or defendant to erect such mill at the place proposed, and shall order the costs, and the value of the opposite area, to be paid by the party to whom such leave is granted; and upon such payment, the party to whom such leave is granted shall be vested with title in fee to the opposite area. Such payment may be made into court for the use of the parties entitled thereto.

For costs, see section 1245.

2542. Time for beginning and building mill; to be kept up. The person to whom leave is granted shall, within one year, begin to build such water mill, and shall finish the same within three years; and thereafter keep it up for the use and ease of its customers, or such as shall be customers to it; otherwise, the said land shall return to the person from whom it was taken, or to such other person as shall have his right, unless the time for finishing the mill, for reasons approved by the court, be enlarged.

Rev., s. 2129; Code, s. 1856; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 8.

2543. Rebuilding mill after destruction. If a water mill belonging to a married woman, or a minor, a person of unsound mind, or imprisoned, falls, burns, or is otherwise destroyed, such person and his heirs shall have three years to rebuild and repair the same, and any person under any disability aforesaid shall have three years from the removal of the disability.

Rev., s. 2130; Code, s. 1857; 1903, c. 74, ss. 1, 2; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 9.

ART. 3. CONDEMNATION FOR RACES, WATERWAYS, ETC., BY OWNER OF MILL OR MILLSITE

2544. Special proceedings; summons. Any person who has land on one or both sides of a stream and wishes to build a water mill, or has a water mill already built and may find it necessary for the better operation of said mill or the building of the said mill to convey water either to or from his mill by ditch, waterway, drain, mill-race or tail-race, or in any other manner, over the lands of any other person, or erect a dam to pond said water over the lands of any other person, or raise any dam already built, may make application by petition in writing to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said lands to be affected, or a greater part thereof, are situated, for the right to so convey the said water or pond the same by the erection of a dam or the raising of any dam already built; and the procedure shall be as in other special proceedings.

Rev., s. 2131; 1905, c. 534, s. 1a, k.

2545. Contents of petition. The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of said lands, and the character of the ditch, race, waterway or drain or pond intended to be made, and said owner or owners shall be made parties defendant. The petition shall state the distance desired to be condemned on each side of the ditch, waterway or drain to be constructed or erected, and not more than thirty feet from each bank can be condemned.

2546. Commissioners to be appointed. Upon the hearing of the petition, if the prayer thereof be granted, the clerk shall appoint three disinterested persons qualified to act as jurors, and not connected either by blood or marriage with the parties, appraisers to assess the damage, if any, that will accrue to the said lands by the contemplated work, and shall issue a notice to them to meet upon the premises on a day specified, not to exceed ten days from the date of said notice.

Rev., s. 2133; 1905, c. 534, s. 1c.

2547. Oath and duty of commissioners. The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by the said work and assess the damage thereto and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued, who shall have power to confirm the same.

Rev., s. 2134; 1905, c. 534, s. 1d.

2548. Assessment of damages. In determining the amount of such compensation to be paid to the owners of the said lands and assessing the damages thereto by reason of the erection or construction of such waterway, ditch, drain or dam, they shall make an allowance or deduction on account of any benefits which the parties in interest may derive from the construction or erection of such waterway, ditch, drain or dam, and shall ascertain the damages, as near as may be, to the extent it may damage each acre of land so appropriated or occupied by the said mill-owner. The damage assessed by the appraisers under this article shall include all damages that the owners shall thereafter suffer or be entitled to by reason of the construction of the said waterways, races, ditches or dams.

Rev., s. 2135; 1905, c. 534, s. 1e, m.

2549. When commissioners' report not to be affirmed. If the area laid off on the lands of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards or immediate conveniences, or if the mill proposed or erected will overflow another mill or pond water within two hundred feet of another mill, or will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of a person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction, or if the mill create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the report of the appraisers to be affirmed.

Rev., s. 2136; 1905, c. 534, s. 1g.

2550. When petitioner may enter on lands. After the return of the appraisers and the confirmation thereof the petitioner shall have full right and power to enter upon said lands and make such ditches, waterways, drains, races or other necessary works and construct such dams: Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damage assessed as above to the owner of such lands or his known or recognized agent in this state. If the owner is a nonresident and has no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner: Provided further, that the mill-owner shall not be compelled to pay said damages so assessed unless he shall enter upon such lands and make ditches, drains or other works or erect such dam.

Rev., s. 2137; 1905, c. 534, s. 11.

2551. Owner of mills and millsites protected. No other person shall have the right to erect or maintain any dam, ditch, waterway, drain or race that will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of any person or body corporate who shall have erected a mill, dam, ditch, drain or race under the provisions of this chapter, or of any millsite owned by any person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction. When any person violates the provisions of this section the owner of said mill or millsite shall have a right of action against said person to tear down said dam or other works so built or erected to the extent herein forbidden and to abate the same as prescribed by law for the abatement of nuisances.

Rev., s. 2138; 1905, c. 534, s. 1h.

2552. Report to be registered. The petitioner, or any other person interested, may have the said assessment registered upon the certificate of the clerk, and shall pay the register the usual legal fees for registering such instruments in his office.

Rev., s. 2139; 1905, c. 534, s. 1i.

3553. Fees of appraisers. Each appraiser shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for each day actually employed in making said assessment, to be paid by the petitioner.

Rev., s. 2140; 1905, c. 534, s. 1j.

2554. Obstructing mill races or dams a misdemeanor. Any person who shall obstruct any drain, ditch or dam constructed under this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., 3381; 1905, c. 534, s. 1l.

ART. 4. RECOVERY OF DAMAGES FOR ERECTION OF MILL

2555. Action in superior court; procedure. Any person conceiving himself injured by the erection of any grist-mill, or mill for other useful purposes, may issue his summons returnable before the judge of the superior court of the county where the damaged land or any part thereof lies, against the persons authorized to be made parties defendant. In his complaint he shall set forth in what respect and to what extent he is injured, together with such other matters as may be necessary to entitle him to the relief demanded. The court shall then proceed to hear and determine all the questions of law and issues of fact arising on the pleadings as in other civil actions.

Rev., s. 2141; Code, s. 1858; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 1.

Possession alone is sufficient to support a petition for damage for ponding water hereunder: Pace v. Freeman, 32-103; Yeargain v. Johnston, 1-180; but see Waddy v. Johnson, 27-333—and plaintiff need not prove his title, Yeargain v. Johnston, 1-180.

General history of the law with respect to actions for ponding water reviewed in Hester v. Broach, 84-253.

An executor or administrator has a right to pursue the remedy provided for damages for the overflowing by a millpond of his testator's or intestate's land in the lifetime of such testator or intestate: Howcott v. Warren, 29-20—and one whose land is overflowed by a millpond may have an action against the executor or administrator of the person who erected the mill and dam, Howcott v. Coffield, 29-24. Heir cannot be sued for ancestor's erecting mill or dam which causes overflow of land: Fellow v. Fulgham, 7-254.

One is not obliged to wait until the expiration of a year before he files his petition hereunder: Cochran v. Wood, 28-194. Plaintiff must state in his petition in what respect he was injured, and his proofs cannot go beyond his allegations: Bridgers v. Purcell, 23-232. When suit is brought within the year damages are necessarily limited to the time injury has existed: Ibid.

Injury arising to adjacent land by the overflowing of the waters of a millpond is a tort; although the statute has given a new remedy for it, it has not altered its nature: Wilson v. Myers, 11-73.

Where erection of a mill on a stream causes water to overflow land or mill of another only when stream is swollen, that circumstance will not excuse party from damage altogether, but will only diminish the quantum: Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50.

It is not competent as defense to show that the effect of the backing of water on the lands of adjoining owners was beneficial: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95. It is competent to show the condition of the banks of the stream above and below the dam in order to show that this condition was not caused by erection of dam: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95. The mere raising of a stream within its banks, although it is not thrown out of them, is an injury to land through which it runs: Little v. Stanback, 63-285. It is competent to show, in an action for ponding water by increase in the height of defendant's dam, that, by direction of defendant, dam was built so as not to pond water above old water-marks. To sustain the action plaintiff must show affirmatively that alleged increased volume of water was occasioned by increased size of dam: Godfrey v. Maberry, 84-255.

As to whether the injury for which damage can be claimed refers only to the physical injury of the land, or includes injury to health, etc., see Gillett v. Jones, 18-339; Waddy v. Johnson, 27-333; Bridgers v. Purcell, 23-232; Purcell v. McCallum, 18-221.

Damages may be recovered for injury to land resulting proximately from the maintenance by defendant of a dam, though such injury was aggravated by other causes not within defendant's control: Cline v. Baker, 118-780. Where sole issue was whether defendant's dam injured plaintiff's land, through which a creek passed before emptying into the pond above the dam, it was not error to instruct the jury that if the injury resulted from filling up creek with sand between plaintiff's land and the pond, by washing of hillsides, falling of leaves and branches, and failure to clean out channel, plaintiff could not recover, provided those obstructions did not result from the maintenance of dam: Ibid.

If plaintiff's land be overflowed by water on account of defendant's dam, he is entitled to nominal damages: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-103; McGee v. Fox, 107-769; Wright v. Stowe, 49-516. Plaintiff has right to have question submitted to jury whether overflow was injurious; and any former benefits the land may have received from such overflow has nothing to do with the question: Kimel v. Kimel, 49-121; McGee v. Fox, 107-766.

As to relative rights of owners of land through which nonnavigable streams flow with reference to use of the water thereof, see Durham v. Cotton Mills; 141-615; Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50. Conveyance made to defeat, hinder, or delay a party injured by the erection of a mill in his recovery of damages is fraudulent and void as to such party, and the owner of such mill remains liable for damages: Purcell v. McCallum, 18-221. The remedy under this article does not apply to an action for damages for trespass committed on plaintiff's land: Henley v. Wilson, 77-216.

Sale of mill property held to pass as appurtenant an easement to pond water above mill to extent that it was done at time of the conveyance: Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285—but not to pass as appurtenant thereto an easement in another tract in which vendor had an interest under a resulting trust, when no easement actually existed, Ibid.

Where one pays for certain property which he has another purchase in his own name, the mere fact that the one paying for the property intended at some future time to raise a dam on his own property so as to back water upon the other does not ipso facto create an easement in the other property: Latta v. Power Co., 146-285. A covenant in a deed held expressly confined to dams which might be placed in a river on lands within the boundaries mentioned: Ibid.

Dam erected below a steam mill for purpose of floating timber to mill and not for purpose of driving machinery of mill, by which water is ponded back upon land of another, does not come within meaning of section: Bryan v. Burnett, 47-305.

Where milldam so obstructs water as to prevent land from being drained, the owner is entitled to damages: Johnson v. Roane, 48-523; Wilhelm v. Burleyson, 106-381; Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

Under this chapter it is no objection that some who did the injury were mere temporary owners; if their interest was limited, it should have been offered when the five years judgment was about to be entered up: Wilson v. Myers, 11-73.

Evidence admissible to show that defendant had been warned against shutting down his flood-gates and had been told of the custom of a former owner of the dam in raising the flood-gates: Hardin v. Ledbetter, 103-90.

Other decisions upon subject of ponding water and the diverting of water upon land of another not caused by building mill, see Clark v. Guano Co., 144-64; Greenwood v. R. R., 144-446; Craft v. R. R., 136-49; Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95; Candler v. Electric Co., 135-12; Rice v. R. R., 130-375; Mullen v. Canal Co., 130-496; Lassiter v. R. R., 126-509; Mizzell v. McGowan, 125-439; Hocutt v. R. R., 124-214; Parker v. R. R., 123-71; Harrell v. R. R., 122-822; Nichols v. R. R., 120-495; Parker v. R. R., 119-677; Fleming v. R. R., 115-676; Ward v. R. R., 112-168; Adams v. R. R., 110-325; Staton v. R. R., 109-337, 111-278; Knight v. R. R., 111-80.

HOW JURY MUST ASSESS DAMAGES. An issue involving amount of annual damage done by ponding water is the proper one to be submitted to the jury: Hester v. Broach, 84-251. Jury has no right to go back farther than one year in assessing damages, but if they do, the error may be corrected in the judgment: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207; Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50. In assessing damages jury are not bound to give damages at an average for five years, but may assess sums for different periods during that time: Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50. It is error to charge the jury that to entitle plaintiff to nominal damages he must show damages capable of being estimated, perceptible, as an appreciable quantity: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95; McGee v. Fox, 107-769; Wright v. Stowe, 49-516. Verdict of jury in cases hereunder and judgment of court thereon are conclusive as to assessment of damages up to time judgment rendered: Beatty v. Conner, 34-341; Burnett v. Nicholson, 86-99. Where jury finds damages are different for different years, they should assess them separately for each year: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207. By this section damages are to be assessed for five years as they were prior to 1877: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207.

Where defendant erected another mill and dam lower down the stream which ponded water on plaintiff's mill, the measure of damage is the injury actually sustained up to time of trial, and in estimating same, decrease of custom (in the matter of tolls) cannot be considered: Burnett v. Nicholson, 86-99—and evidence to show how much it will cost plaintiff to raise his dam and water wheel to escape injury complained of was properly excluded: Ibid.

Where a second action is brought hereunder damages should be assessed for the time between the commencement of the first action and the commencement of the second: Bradley v. Amis, 3-399; Moore v. Love, 48-215.

Damages to plaintiff's land can be estimated by comparing its productiveness before and after flooding or sobbing: Spilman v. Navigation Co., 74-675.

For assessment of damages where mill overflowed by backing water thereon, see Hardin v. Ledbetter, 103-90.

2556. When dams abated as nuisances. When damages are recovered in final judgment in such civil actions, and execution issues and is returned unsatisfied, and the plaintiff is not able to collect the same either because of the insolvency of the defendant or by reason of the exemptions allowed to defendant, the judge shall, on the facts being made to appear before him by affidavit or other evidence, order that the dam, or portion of the dam, or other cause creating the injury, shall be abated as a nuisance, and he shall have power to make all necessary orders to effect this purpose.

Rev., s. 2142; Code, s. 1859; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 3.

An injunction will not be granted to restrain erection of dam whereby mill wheel of plaintiff is flooded so as to become useless: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334—because for such injury damage will adequately compensate, and should annual damage exceed twenty dollars, plaintiff is remitted to his common-law action and can compel abatement of nuisance, Ibid.

No injunction issues to restrain the rebuilding of a mill when it is for the public benefit that it be rebuilt: Daughtry v. Warren, 85-136.

Case where party indicted for keeping up nuisance created by ponding water not strictly within scope of this section: State v. Holman, 104-861.

As to injunctions against erection of dams, etc., on ground that they are nuisances, see Eason v. Perkins, 17-38; Daughtry v. Warren, 85-136; Dorsey v. Allen, 85-358; Brown v. R. R., 83-128; Hyatt v. Myers, 73-232; Privett v. Whitaker, 73-554; Clark v. Lawrence, 59-83; Atty.-Gen. v. Lea, 38-301; Atty.-Gen. v. Hunter, 16-12; Bell v. Blount, 11-384.

2557. Judgment for annual sum as damages. A judgment giving to the plaintiff an annual sum by way of damages shall be binding between the parties for five years from the issuing of the summons, if the mill is kept up during that time, unless the damages are increased by raising the water or otherwise.

In all cases where the final judgment of the court assesses the yearly damage of the plaintiff as high as twenty dollars, nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, from suing as heretofore, and in such case the final judgment aforesaid shall be binding only for the year's damage preceding the issuing of the summons.

Rev., ss. 2143, 2144; Code, ss. 1860, 1861; 1868-9, c. 158, ss. 12, 14.

If, at the trial, five years have elapsed since the filing of the petition, a peremptory judgment for annual damages for five years is proper, whether such annual damage be above or below twenty dollars: Gillett v. Jones, 18-339.

Owners of land granted license to other persons "to build a mill and back water on us, so they don't back on our bottoms": Held, that the license is exceeded when the dam is raised to such height that water is ponded back so as to subvert the "bottoms" and render drainage impossible, and make them unfit for cultivation, although they are not actually overflowed: Cagle v. Parker, 97-271.

Easement obtained by twenty years possession does not protect owner of dam from liability on account of new injury: Powell v. Lash, 64-456.

Where annual damages are assessed at less than twenty dollars per annum, judgment is for five years including year preceding the filing of petition, for each year's damages so assessed, with a cessat executio for each year after the first year: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207.

Owner of land injured by erection of mill, who has proceeded by petition, under which annual damage assessed is as high as twenty dollars, and who has taken judgment for and received damage for the whole five years, cannot maintain an action on the case, brought after expiration of five years, without having again ascertained the annual damage by proceeding under a second petition: Gilliam v. Canady, 33-106.

Judgment for permanent damages for a certain time for ponding water does not estop subsequent action to recover permanent damages since that time: Candler v. Electric Co., 135-12.

Where damages assessed at as much as twenty dollars a year, judgment was the same as when assessed at less than twenty dollars, except that plaintiff had his election to take judgment for five years, or only for one year preceding filing of petition, in which case he is at liberty to bring his action at common law; but if action was continued for more than five years, judgment was for entire amount, and plaintiff was barred of his election: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207.

Where jury found that land was damaged $80 per year, and his honor gave judgment for a sum in gross, and not for each year's damage, held no error: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-211; Gillett v. Jones, 18-339.

2558. Final judgment; costs and execution. If the final judgment of the court is that the plaintiff has sustained no damage, he shall pay the costs of his proceeding; but if the final judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, he shall have execution against the defendant for one year's damage, preceding the issuing of the summons, and for all costs: Provided, that if the damage adjudged does not amount to five dollars, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages. And if the defendant does not annually pay the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, before it falls due, the sum adjudged as the damages for that year, the plaintiff may sue out execution for the amount of the last year's damage, or any part thereof which may remain unpaid.

Rev., s. 2145; Code, s. 1862; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 15.

Jury having assessed in this case but one dollar damages, the court did right in giving plaintiff no more costs than damages under the act of 1833: Bridges v. Purell, 23-232.

1913, c. 41, s. 1.

The general purpose of the act of 1907, c. 218, which has been supplanted by this chapter, was to prevent the formation of trusts and combinations which might buy out or crush out competition: Wooten v. Harris, 153-43.

An agreement by milk dealers to raise the price of milk is an indictable offense at common law and also under this chapter: State v. Craft, 168-208. See section 2563.

2560. Any restraint in violation of common law included. Any act, contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce which violates the principles of the common law is hereby declared to be in violation of the preceding section of this chapter.

1913, c. 41, s. 2.

The sale of an established business, including good will, with an agreement not to engage in competition, is not a violation of this chapter: Sea Food Co. v. Way, 169-679; Wooten v. Harris, 153-43. See cases under section 2563.

2561. Burden of proof as to reasonableness on defendant. All contracts, combinations in the form of trust, and conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce prohibited in the two preceding sections of this chapter are hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, unless the persons entering into such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce can show affirmatively upon an indictment or civil action for violation of the preceding sections of this chapter that such contract, combination in the form of trust, conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce does not injure the business of any competitor, or prevent any one from becoming a competitor because his or its business will be unfairly injured by reason of such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce.

Section referred to in Shute v. Shute, 176-462.

2562. Contracts to be in writing. No contract or agreement hereafter made, limiting the rights of any person to do business anywhere in the state of North Carolina shall be enforceable unless such agreement is in writing duly signed by the party who agrees not to enter into any such business within such territory: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to legalize any contract or agreement not to enter into business in the state of North Carolina, or at any point in the state of North Carolina, which contract is now illegal, or which contract is made illegal by any other section of this chapter.

See contracts requiring writing, ch. 19.

2563. Particular acts defined. In addition to the matters and things hereinbefore declared to be illegal, the following acts are declared to be unlawful, that is, for any person, firm, corporation, or association directly or indirectly to do or to have any contract, express or knowingly implied, to do any of the acts or things specified in any of the subsections of this section.

1. To agree or conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association to put down or keep down the price of any article produced in this state by the labor of others, which article the person, firm, corporation or association intends, plans or desires to buy.

2. To make a sale of any goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value whatsoever in North Carolina, whether directly or indirectly, or through any agent or employee, upon the condition that the purchaser thereof shall not deal in the goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value of a competitor or rival in the business of the person, firm, corporation or association making such sales.

A contract to sell patterns of a certain kind for a dealer and not to sell other patterns in competition is in violation of this subsection: Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165-453.

3. To willfully destroy or injure, or undertake to destroy or injure, the business of any opponent or business rival in the state of North Carolina with the purpose or intention of attempting to fix the price of anything of value when the competition is removed.

Attempting to injure or destroy the business of a competitor in the sale of ice: Smith v. Ice Co., 159-151.

4. Who directly or indirectly buys or sells within the state, through himself or itself, or through any agent of any kind or as agent or principal, or together with or through any allied, subsidiary or dependent person, firm, corporation or association, any article or thing of value which is sold or bought in the state to injure or destroy or undertake to injure or destroy the business of any rival or opponent, by lowering the price of any article or thing of value sold, so low, or by raising the price of any article or thing of value bought, so high as to leave an unreasonable or inadequate profit for a time, with the purpose of increasing the profit on the business when such rival or opponent is driven out of business, or his or its business is injured.

5. Who deals in any thing of value within the state of North Carolina, to give away or sell, at a place where there is competition, such thing of value at a price lower than is charged by such person, firm, corporation or association for the same thing at another place, where there is not good and sufficient reason, on account of transportation or the expense of doing business, for charging less at the one place than at the other, with the view of injuring the business of another.

6. Who is engaged in buying or selling any thing of value in North Carolina, to make or have any agreement or understanding, express or implied, with any other person, firm, corporation or association, not to buy or sell such things of value within certain territorial limits within the state, with intention of preventing competition in selling or to fix the price or prevent competition in buying of such things of value within these limits: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent an agent from representing more than one principal. But nothing in this proviso shall be construed to authorize two or more principals to employ a common agent for the purpose of suppressing competition or lowering prices: Provided further, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a person, firm or corporation from selling his or its business and good will to a competitor, and agreeing in writing not to enter the business in competition with the purchaser in a limited territory, as is now allowed under the common law: Provided, such agreement shall not violate the principles of the common law against trusts and shall not violate the provisions of this chapter.

An agreement to prevent competition in ginning cotton within a certain territory is invalid: Shute v. Shute, 176-462. An agreement to prevent competition in the sale of flour is invalid: Culp v. Love, 127-457. An agreement to fix or raise the price of milk is illegal: State v. Craft, 168-208. Agreements interfering with competition are subject to the construction of the court as to reasonableness: Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176-330.

The sale of an established business and good will, with an agreement not to enter into competition, is valid if it is in reasonable restraint of trade, that is, where the restraint is such as to afford a fair protection to the rights of the purchaser and not unreasonably interfere with the rights of the other party and the public: Sea Food Co. v. Way, 169-679. An agreement not to enter into competition in the sale of fish: Ibid.—not to engage in the business of a barber, Bradshaw v. Millikin, 173-432; Faust v. Rohr, 166-187—not to engage in grocery business, Finch v. Michael, 167-322—not to engage in sale of liquor, Disosway v. Edwards, 134-254; Jolly v. Brady, 127-142—not to engage in practice of medicine, Teague v. Schaub, 133-458; Hauser v. Harding, 126-295—not to engage in manufacture of lumber and ginning cotton, Shute v. Heath, 131-281—not to engage in mercantile business, Wooten v. Harris, 153-43—not to engage in livery business, Anders v. Gardner, 151-604; King v. Fountain, 126-196—not to engage in milling business, Kramer v. Old, 119-1—not to engage in running newspaper, Cowan v. Fairbrother, 118-406—not to engage in business of druggist, Reeves v. Sprague, 114-647; Baker v. Cordon, 86-116—not to engage in business of photographer, Baumgarten v. Broadway, 77-8.

2564. Violation a misdemeanor; punishment. Any corporation, either as agent or principal, violating any of the provisions of preceding section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall upon conviction be fined not less than one thousand dollars for each and every offense, and any person, whether acting for himself or as officer of any corporation or as agent of any corporation or person violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

See State v. Craft, 168-208.

2565. Persons encouraging violation guilty. Any person, being either within or without the state, who encourages or willfully allows or permits any agent or associates in business in this state to violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in the preceding section.

1913, c. 41, s. 6.

2566. Continuous violations separate offenses. Where the things prohibited in this chapter are continuous, then in such event, after the first violation of any of the provisions hereof, each week that the violation of such provision shall continue shall be a separate offense.

1913, c. 41, s. 7.

2567. Duty of attorney-general to investigate. The attorney-general of the state of North Carolina shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to investigate, from time to time, the affairs of all corporations doing business in this state, which are or may be embraced within the meaning of the statutes of this state defining and denouncing trusts and combinations against trade and commerce, or which he shall be of opinion are so embraced, and all other corporations in North Carolina doing business in violation of law; and all other corporations of every character engaged in this state in the business of transporting property or passengers, or transmitting messages, and all other public-service corporations of any kind or nature whatever which are doing business in the state for hire. Such investigation shall be with a view of ascertaining whether the law or any rule of the North Carolina corporation commission is being or has been violated by any such corporation, officers or agents or employees thereof, and if so, in what respect, with the purpose of acquiring such information as may be necessary to enable him to prosecute any such corporation, its agents, officers and employees for crime, or prosecute civil actions against them if he discovers they are liable and should be prosecuted.

2568. Power to compel examination. In performing the duty required in the preceding section, the attorney-general shall have power, at any and all times, to require the officers, agents or employees of any such corporation, and all other persons having knowledge with respect to the matters and affairs of such corporations, to submit themselves to examination by him, and produce for his inspection any of the books and papers of any such corporations, or which are in any way connected with the business thereof; and the attorney-general is hereby given the right to administer oath to any person whom he may desire to examine. He shall also, if it may become necessary, have a right to apply to any judge of the supreme or superior court, after five days notice of such application, for an order on any such person or corporation he may desire to examine to appear and subject himself or itself to such examination, and disobedience of such order shall constitute contempt, and shall be punishable as in other cases of disobedience of a proper order of such judge.

2569. Person examined exempt from prosecution. No person examined, as provided in the preceding section, shall be subject to indictment, prosecution, punishment or penalty by reason or on account of anything disclosed by him upon such examination, and full immunity from prosecution and punishment by reason or on account of anything so disclosed is hereby extended to all persons so examined.

1913, c. 41, s. 9.

2570. Refusal to furnish information; false swearing. Any corporation unlawfully refusing or willfully neglecting to furnish the information required by this chapter, when it is demanded as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one thousand dollars: Provided, that if any corporation shall in writing notify the attorney-general that it objects to the time or place designated by him for the examination or inspection provided for in this chapter, it shall be his duty to apply to a judge of the supreme or superior court, who shall fix an appropriate time and place for such examination or inspection, and such corporation shall, in such event, be guilty under this section only in the event of its failure, refusal or neglect to appear at the time and place so fixed by the judge and furnish the information required by this chapter. False swearing by any person examined under the provisions of this chapter shall constitute perjury, and the person guilty of it shall be punishable as in other cases of perjury.

2571. Criminal prosecution; solicitors to assist; expenses. The attorney-general in carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall have a right to send bills of indictment before any grand jury in any county in which it is alleged this chapter has been violated or in any adjoining county, and may take charge of and prosecute all cases coming within the purview of this chapter, and shall have the power to call to his assistance in the performance of any of these duties of his office which he may assign to them any of the solicitors in the state, who shall, upon being required to do so by the attorney-general, send bills of indictment and assist him in the performance of the duties of his office: Provided, that the state shall pay the actual and necessary expenses of the solicitor incurred while performing such duties and not over one hundred dollars as an extra fee when the expense account is approved by the attorney-general and governor and duly audited, and the amount of the fee is fixed by them.

The necessary expenses incident to carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall, when approved by the governor and audited, be paid out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

2572. Remedy by civil action. If it shall become necessary to do so, the attorney-general may prosecute civil actions in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general to obtain a mandatory order to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the venue shall be in any county as selected by the attorney-general.

1913, c. 41, s. 11.

2573. In what name civil action prosecuted. It shall be the duty of the attorney-general, upon his ascertaining that the laws have been violated by any trust or public-service corporation, so as to render it liable to prosecution in a civil action, to prosecute such action in the name of the state, or any officer or department thereof, as provided by law, or in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general, and to prosecute all officers or agents or employees of such corporations, whenever in his opinion the interests of the public require it.

2574. Civil action by person injured; treble damages. If the business of any person, firm or corporation shall be broken up, destroyed or injured by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of the provisions of this chapter, such person, firm or corporation so injured shall have a right of action on account of such injury done, and if damages are assessed by a jury in such case judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for treble the amount fixed by the verdict.

Under act of 1907, c. 218, plaintiff could recover actual and punitive damages: Smith v. Ice Co., 159-151.

I, _____, of the county of _____ in the state of North Carolina, am indebted to _____, of _____ county, in said state, in the sum of _____ dollars, for which he holds my note to be due the _____ of _____, A. D. 19____, and to secure the payment of the same, I do hereby convey to him these articles of personal property, to wit: _____ but on this special trust, that if I fail to pay said debt and interest on or before the _____ day of _____, A. Given under my hand and seal this _____ day of _____, A. D. 19____

Rev., s. 1039; Code, s. 1273; 1870-1, c. 277; 1911, c. 69, s. 1.

No particular form essential to validity of chattel mortgage; it is sufficient if words employed express, in terms or by just implication, purpose to convey property as security for debt: Noland v. Osborne, 177-14; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321; Strouse v. Cohen, 113-349; Comron v. Standland, 103-207. For instrument held to be sufficient as chattel mortgage: Ibid.; Weil v. Flowers, 109-212; Nichols v. Speller, 120-75; Millhiser v. Pleasants, 118-237;

Brown v. Dail, 117-41; Harris v. Jones, 83-317; Cotten v. Willoughby, 83-75; Robinson v. Ezzell, 72-231. For instrument held insufficient as chattel mortgage, see Britt v. Harrell, 105-10; Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123; Atkinson v. Graves, 91-99.

Mere informality will not vitiate a chattel mortgage: Comron v. Standland, 103-207—and no seal is necessary, Ibid.; also, Foundry Co. v. Waltman, 114-178—neither is a power of sale necessary, Comron v. Standland, 103-207. Valid chattel mortgage may be made by owner of land of crop sown thereon but not yet growing: Cotten v. Willoughby, 83-75; Harris v. Jones, 83-317; Robinson v. Ezzell, 72-231; Atkinson v. Graves, 91-101; Gwathney v. Etheridge, 99-571.

As bearing upon section, see Brown v. Miller, 108-395; Harris v. Woodard, 96-232.

2576. Registration. Chattel mortgages substantially in the form provided in the last section are good to all intents and purposes when the same are duly registered according to law.

Rev., s. 1040; Code, ss. 1273, 1274; 1870-1, c. 277, ss. 1, 2.

For registration of chattel mortgages, see further, Probate and Registration, s. 3311.

For fees for probate and registration, see sections 3903, 3904, 3906, 3907. For joinder of chattel mortgage and lien bond, see section 2490. See, also, section 3311. Mortgages good inter partes without registration: Williams v. Jones, 95-504; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-363; Leggett v. Bullock, 44-283; Pike v. Armistead, 16-111. Mortgage may be registered after death of mortgagor: Williams v. Jones, 95-504. Registration of mortgage after commission in bankruptcy is good against assignee: Ibid. Where husband mortgaged horse, but not registered until after his death, and prior to registration horse assigned to widow as part of year's support, widow took property subject to mortgage lien: Williams v. Jones, 95-504.

Assignment of chattel mortgage need not be registered under section: Hodges v. Wilkinson, 111-56. Mortgages are, as between parties thereto, when registered, effectual from their delivery: Brem v. Lockhart, 93-191. Delivering mortgage to register outside of office is not a filing for registration until it is taken to the office and duly noted: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694. If two mortgages are filed and registered at the same time, the older mortgage has priority: Ibid.

As to where mortgages to be registered, see under section 3311; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321.

As bearing upon section, see Thomas v. Cooksey, 130-151; Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123.

2577. Mortgage of household and kitchen furniture. All conveyances of household and kitchen furniture by a married man, made to secure the payment of money or other thing of value, are void, unless the wife joins therein and her privy examination is taken in the manner prescribed by law in conveyances of real estate.

Rev., s. 1041; 1891, c. 91.

This is a valid exercise of police power and is constitutional: Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173-329. A piano is included in household and kitchen furniture: Ibid.

Section not applicable to note signed by husband and wife binding her separate personal property: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352—and not applicable to absolute sale of such property, Kelly v. Fleming, 113-133—but only to conveyance by chattel mortgage or by deed of trust or conditional sale, Ibid. As to sufficiency of instrument to convey property under section, see Kelly v. Fleming, 113-133.

ART. 2. RIGHT TO FORECLOSE OR SELL UNDER POWER

2578. Representative succeeds on death of mortgagee or trustee in deeds of trust; parties to action. When the mortgagee in a mortgage, or the trustee in a deed in trust, executed for the purpose of securing a debt, containing a power of sale, dies before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage or deed in trust, all the title, rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee or trustee pass to and devolve upon the executor or administrator of such mortgagee or trustee, including the right to bring an action of foreclosure in any of the courts of this state as prescribed for trustees or mortgagees, and in such action it is unnecessary to make the heirs at law of such deceased mortgagee or trustee parties thereto.

Rev., s. 1031; 1901, c. 186; 1887, c. 147; 1895, c. 431; 1905, c. 425.

When power of sale in mortgage is given to mortgagee and his executor, etc., and mortgagee dies leaving will under which executor qualifies, the power of sale upon default vests in executor by virtue of this section and also by virtue of the mortgage: Scott v. Lumber Co., 144-44—and if power had not been conferred upon executors by instrument they could still have exercised same under this section, Ibid. Section intended to confer power of sale upon executor or administrator of deceased mortgagee where power not given in instrument: Yount v. Morrison, 109-520. Where stipulated that vendor or lawful representatives might sell land and apply proceeds to payment of sum due, held that "lawful representatives" meant executors or administrators of vendor, and conferred upon them not only power to sell, but power to convey: Overman v. Jackson, 104-4.

Cases under section rendered inapplicable by amendment of same: Eason v. Dortch, 136-291; Hughes v. Gay, 132-50.

2579. Foreclosures by representatives validated. In all actions which were brought or prosecuted prior to the fourth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and five, for the foreclosure of any mortgage or deed in trust by any executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee where the heirs of the mortgagee were duly made parties and regular and orderly decrees of foreclosure entered by the court and sale had by a commissioner appointed by the court for that purpose and deed made after confirmation, the title so conveyed to purchaser at such judicial sale shall be deemed and held to be vested in such purchaser, whether the heir of such deceased mortgagee or trustee was a party to such foreclosure proceeding or not, and such heir of any deceased mortgagee is estopped to bring or prosecute any further action against such purchaser for the recovery of such property or foreclosure of such mortgage or deed in trust.

Rev., s. 1032; 1905, c. 425, s. 2.

2580. Renunciation by representative; clerk appoints trustee. The executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust heretofore or hereafter executed may renounce in writing, before the clerk of the superior court before whom he qualifies, the trust under the mortgage or deed of trust at the time he qualifies as executor or administrator, or at any time thereafter before he intermeddles with or exercises any of the duties under said mortgage or deed of trust, except to preserve the property until a trustee can be appointed. In every such case of renunciation the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein the said mortgage or deed of trust is registered has power and authority, upon proper proceedings instituted before him, as in other cases of special proceedings, to appoint some person to act as trustee and execute said mortgage or deed of trust. The clerk, in addition to recording his proceedings in his book of orders and decrees, shall enter the name of the substituted trustee or mortgagee on the margin of the deed in trust or the mortgage in the book of the office of the register of deeds of said county.

Rev., s. 1038; 1905, c. 128.

See annotations under section 2583.

2581. Agent to sell under power may be appointed by parol. All sales of property, real or personal, under a power of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust to secure the payment of money, by any mortgagee or trustee, through an agent or attorney for that purpose, by such mortgagee or trustee, appointed orally or in writing, whether such writing has been or shall be registered or not, shall be valid, whether or not such mortgagee or trustee was or shall be present at such sale.

2582. Survivorship among donees of power of sale. In all mortgages and deeds of trust wherein two or more persons, as trustees or otherwise, are given power to sell the property therein conveyed or embraced, and one or more of such persons dies, any one of the persons surviving having such power may make sale of such property in the manner directed in such deed, and execute such assurances of title as are proper and lawful under the power so given; and the act of such person, in pursuance of said power, shall be as valid and binding as if the same had been done by all the persons on whom the power was conferred.

Rev., s. 1033; 1885, c. 327, s. 2.

Where one of trustees in power of sale contained in mortgage dies, survivor may execute trust: Cawfield v. Owens, 129-286.

2583. Clerk appoints successor to incompetent trustee. When the sole or last surviving trustee named in a will or deed of trust dies, removes from the county where the will was probated or deed executed and from the state, or in any way becomes incompetent to execute the said trust, or is a nonresident of this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the will was probated or deed of trust was executed is authorized and empowered, in proceedings to which all persons interested shall be made parties, to appoint some discreet and competent person to act as trustee and execute the trust according to its true intent and meaning, and as fully as if originally appointed: Provided, that in all actions or proceedings had under this section prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred, before the clerks of the superior court in which any trustee was appointed to execute a deed of trust where any trustee of a deed of trust has died, removed from the county where the deed was executed and from the state, or in any way become incompetent to execute the said trust, whether such appointment of such trustee by order or decree, or otherwise, was made upon the application or petition of any person or persons ex parte, or whether made in proceedings where all the proper parties were made, are in all things confirmed and made valid so far as regards the parties to said actions and proceedings to the same extent as if all proper parties had originally been made in such actions or proceedings.

See sections 172, 2579. Trustee dying or becoming incompetent to act, clerk empowered to appoint another: McAfee v. Green, 143-411; Wright v. Fort, 126-615—who, when decree appointing is signed, succeeds to legal title upon same trusts as original trustee, Ibid.—and he can bring action for recovery of trust estate, Warren v. Howard, 99-190. All persons interested must be made parties, and application for appointment of trustee cannot be ex parte: Guion v. Melvin, 69-243. Where clerk dismisses proceeding for want of jurisdiction, on appeal superior court can appoint: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494. Upon death of last survivor of board of trustees named in deed for property to be used as “Baptist church and for education of youths of colored race” their successors will be appointed by clerk of court under this section: Thornton v. Harris, 140-498. Not necessary in substituting trustee to require bond of substituted trustee, it being in court’s discretion: Strayhorn v. Green, 92-119. Where executor is by will also appointed trustee, and renounces or dies, administrator c. t. a. succeeds to trusteeship, and hence appointment hereunder void: Clark v. Peebles, 120-31. Where power to be exercised entirely at discretion of donee of powers, courts of equity have no jurisdiction to force him to act, and, if he has died without exercising power, cannot confer it upon trustee appointed by court: Young v. Young, 97-132.

Section merely referred to in Eason v. Dortch, 136-291; Etheridge v. Vernoy, 71-184.

2584. Mortgage to guardian; powers pass to succeeding guardian. When a guardian to whom a mortgage has been extended dies or is removed or resigns before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage, all the rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee shall devolve upon the succeeding guardian.

ART. 3. MORTGAGE SALES

2585. Personal property; notice and place of sale. All personal property sold under the terms of any mortgage or other contract, expressed or implied, whether advertised in some newspaper or otherwise, shall be advertised by posting a notice at some conspicuous place at the courthouse door in the county where the property is situated, such notice to be posted for at least twenty days before the sale, unless a shorter time be expressed in the contract.

Rev., s. 1042; 1889, c. 70; 1909, c. 49, s. 1.

For advertisement of execution sales of personal property, see Civil Procedure, art. 28.

For sale of land under mortgage, see section 687.

Mortgagee cannot buy at his own sale, and the same rule applies to the assignee of the mortgage: Owens v. Mfg. Co., 168-397.

Failure to advertise according to the terms of the power of sale in a mortgage is an irregularity, which might cause the sale to be set aside as to the immediate purchaser, but not as against a remote purchaser without notice: Hinton v. Hall, 166-477. The time and place of sale must be designated with certainty: Hayes v. Pace, 162-288. Notice of mortgage sales must be in compliance with the statute and the stipulations in the mortgage, but a postponement of the sale only requires reasonable notice to be given: Ferebee v. Sawyer, 167-199.

Where the bidder at a mortgage sale fails to comply, a resale may be made at once, if the bidders have not dispersed; otherwise a new advertisement must be made: Love v. Harris, 156-88. Power of sale in a mortgage must comply strictly with the terms: Jenkins v. Griffin, 175-184; Eubanks v. Becton, 158-230.

For notice of sale, see additional annotations under sections 687, 695. Presumption is that sale properly advertised: Cawfield v. Owens, 129-288. Parties may affix such terms and conditions to mortgage as they see fit, provided creditors or others interested at time not affected thereby: McIver v. Smith, 118-73.

Expense of advertising charged as cost against the property: Turner v. Boger, 126-300.

2586. Charges for legal advertising. The publication of all advertising required by law to be made in newspapers in this state shall be paid for at not to exceed the local commercial rate of the newspaper selected. Any public or municipal officer or board created by or existing under the laws of this state that is now or may hereafter be authorized by law to enter into contracts for the publication of legal advertisements is hereby authorized to pay therefor prices not exceeding said rates. Nothing herein shall apply to contracts or agreements for legal advertising in this state existing at the time this section takes effect.

No newspaper in this state shall accept or print any legal advertising until said newspaper shall have first filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which it is published a sworn statement of its current commercial rate for the several classes of advertising regularly carried by said publication, and any owner or manager of a newspaper violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The cost of advertising is limited to $3 except by special agreement, and a charge of $69 for advertising for thirty days in a daily paper will not be allowed: Banking Co. v. Leach, 169-706 (under former law).

2587. Foreclosure of conditional sales. In all sales of personal property wherein the title is retained by the seller to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, and no power of sale is conferred, and default is made in the payment of said obligation by the purchaser, then in all such cases it is lawful for the owner of such debt thereby secured, without an order of court, to sell such property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay off said indebtedness, at public auction for cash, after first giving twenty days notice at three or more public places in the county wherein the sale is to be made, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt, interest on the same, and costs of foreclosure, and pay any surplus to the person legally entitled thereto. Before making any such sale, in addition to the advertisement above required, the owner of said debt shall, at least ten days before the day of sale, mail a copy of the notice of sale to the last known postoffice address of the original purchaser or his assigns.

See section 3312.

2588. Real property; notice of sale must describe premises. In sales of real estate under deeds of trust or mortgages it is the duty of the trustee or mortgagee making such sale to fully describe the premises in the notice required by law substantially as the same is described in the deed of authority under which said trustee or mortgagee makes such sale.

Rev., s. 1043; 1895, c. 294.

The parties may designate in the mortgage the time and place of sale. If the land lies in a county which is afterwards divided, a sale in the original county is valid: Palmer v. Latham, 173-60.

2589. Real property; power of sale barred when foreclosure barred. The power of sale of real property contained in any mortgage or deed of trust for the benefit of creditors shall become inoperative, and no person shall execute any such power, when an action to foreclose such mortgage or deed of trust for the benefit of creditors would be barred by the statute of limitations.

Rev., s. 1044.

This applies to debts existing at the time it was passed: Graves v. Howard, 159-594.

Statute of limitations does not begin to run against principal of mortgage of land until due, and power of sale contained in mortgage may be exercised within ten years after maturity of principal: Scott v. Lumber Co., 144-44—and statute does not begin to run upon default in payment of annual interest upon principal, when power of sale in mortgage is optional with mortgagee upon default of either interest or principal of debt, Ibid. Section changes law as laid down in Menzel v. Hinton, 132-660; Cone v. Hyatt, 132-810. Where debt payable in two installments, payable at different times, creditor may wait until second installment due, and statute of limitations will not begin to run until that time: Cone v. Hyatt, 132-810; see, also, Capehart v. Dettrick, 91-344. Power of sale in mortgage not affected by mortgagor's death, and may be exercised without notice to heirs: Carter v. Slocomb, 122-475. Power of sale not barred for ten years after last payment: Jenkins v. Griffin, 175-184. Sale is void where the power of sale is barred: Ferrell v. Hinton, 161-348.

2590. Land lying in two or more counties; place of sale. When a mortgage or deed in trust conveying lands lying partly in two or more counties confers upon the mortgagee or mortgagees, trustee or trustees, therein named, any power for the sale of such lands, without naming the place of sale, or conferring upon such mortgagee or mortgagees, trustee or trustees, the right to select the same, in the exercise of such power, any sale thereunder may be made at the courthouse door of any one of the counties in which such lands are situate, and at no other place except as hereinafter provided; but when such lands consist of two or more detached parcels, lying wholly within the limits of different counties, the sale of each and every one of such parcels shall be made at the courthouse door of the county in which the same is situate.

See Palmer v. Latham, 173-60.

2591. Reopening judicial sales, etc., on advanced bid. In the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust on real estate, or in the case of the public sale of real estate by an executor, administrator, or administrator with the will annexed, or by any person by virtue of the power contained in a will, the sale shall not be deemed to be closed under ten days. If in ten days from the date of the sale, the sale price is increased ten per cent where the price does not exceed five hundred dollars, and five per cent where the price exceeds five hundred dollars, and the same is paid to the clerk of the superior court, the mortgagee, trustee, executor, or person offering the real estate for sale shall reopen the sale of said property and advertise the same in the same manner as in the first instance. The clerk may, in his discretion, require the person making such advance bid to execute a good and sufficient bond in a sufficient amount to guarantee compliance with the terms of sale should the person offering the advance bid be declared the purchaser at the resale. Where the bid or offer is raised as prescribed herein, and the amount paid to the clerk, he shall issue an order to the mortgagee or other person and require him to advertise and resell said real estate. It shall only be required to give fifteen days notice of a resale. Resales may be had as often as the bid may be raised in compliance with this section. Upon the final sale of the real estate, the clerk shall issue his order to the mortgagee or other person, and require him to make title to the purchaser. The clerk shall make all such orders as may be just and necessary to safeguard the interest of all parties, and he shall keep a record which will show in detail the amount of each bid, the purchase price, and the final settlement between parties. This section shall not apply to the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust executed prior to April first, nineteen hundred and fifteen.

Power of court to order a resale in a judicial sale and under power in a mortgage or deed of trust discussed: Sutton v. Craddock, 174-274; Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145; Uzzle v. Weil, 151-132.

2592. Surplus after sale to be paid to clerk, in certain cases. It is competent for any trustee or mortgagee who sells any real, personal or mixed property under the power of sale contained in any deed of trust or mortgage of any kind and who has in his hands any surplus money, after paying the debt or debts secured by such deed of trust or mortgage and costs and expenses of such sale, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the sale was had, any surplus moneys in his hands as aforesaid in all cases where the grantor in such deed of trust or mortgage is dead and there is no executor or administrator of his estate, and in all other cases where such trustee or mortgagee is, for any cause, in doubt as to who is the proper party or parties to whom to pay such surplus moneys. Such payment to the clerk shall have the effect to discharge such trustee or mortgagee from all liability to the extent of the amount so paid. The clerk shall receive such money from such trustee or mortgagee and execute a receipt for the same under the seal of his office. The failure of any clerk, however, to place his seal upon such receipt shall not invalidate the receipt if it bears the genuine signature of the clerk. The official bond of such clerk shall be responsible for the safe keeping of such moneys until the same shall be paid to the party or parties entitled thereto, or be paid out under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

2593. Special proceedings to determine ownership of surplus. Special proceedings may be instituted before the clerk of the superior court to determine who is the rightful party to whom any fund paid into his office under the preceding section shall be paid. All persons claiming an interest in such funds shall be made parties, and if an answer is filed raising issues as to the ownership of said moneys, the case shall be transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court for trial. Any party in interest may appeal to the judge of the superior court from any order made by the clerk. The clerk may require bond of parties when action is transferred to civil issue docket, as in other civil actions. The court may, in its discretion, order the costs and a reasonable attorney's fee to be paid out of the funds in controversy.

1913, c. 15, s. 3; 1919, c. 111, ss. 1, 2.

ART. 4. DISCHARGE AND RELEASE

2594. Discharge of record of mortgages and deeds of trust. Any deed of trust or mortgage registered as required by law may be discharged and released in the following manner:

1. The trustee or mortgagee or his or her legal representative, or the duly authorized agent or attorney of such trustee, mortgagee or legal representative, may, in the presence of the register of deeds or his deputy, acknowledge the satisfaction of the provisions of such deed of trust or mortgage, whereupon the register or his deputy shall forthwith make upon the margin of the record of such deed of trust or mortgage an entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction, which shall be signed by the trustee, mortgagee, legal representative or attorney, and witnessed by the register or his deputy, who shall also affix his name thereto.

2. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money, accompanied with the bond or note, to the register of deeds or his deputy, where the same is registered, with the endorsement of payment and satisfaction appearing thereon by the payee, mortgagee, trustee, or assignee of the same, or by any chartered active banking institution in the state of North Carolina, when so endorsed in the name of the bank by an officer thereof, the register or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of "satisfaction" on the margin of the record; and the person so claiming to have satisfied the debt may retain possession of the bond or mortgage or other instrument. But if the register or his deputy requires it, he shall file a receipt to him showing by whose authority the mortgage or other instrument was canceled.

3. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money by the grantor or mortgagor, his agent or attorney, together with the notes or bonds secured thereby, to the register of deeds or his deputy of the county where the same is registered, the deed of trust, mortgage, notes or bonds being at the time of said exhibition more than ten years old, counting from the date of maturity of the last note or bond, the register or his deputy shall make proper entry of cancellation and satisfaction of said instrument on the margin of the record where the same is recorded, whether there be any such entries on the original papers or not.

4. Every such entry thus made by the register of deeds or his deputy, and every such entry thus acknowledged and witnessed, shall operate and have the same effect to release and discharge all the interest of such trustee, mortgagee or representative in such deed or mortgage as if a deed of release or reconveyance thereof had been duly executed and recorded.

Rev., s. 1046; Code, s. 1271; 1870-1, c. 217; 1891, c. 180; 1893, c. 36; 1901, c. 46; 1917, c. 49, s. 1; 1917, c. 50, s. 1.

The entry of satisfaction of a mortgage by the proper person is conclusive of the fact of the discharge: Smith v. Fuller, 152-7.

Attorney cannot cancel or discharge mortgage unless authorized by client: Christian v. Yarborough, 124-72—but if client, after being informed, retains benefit from the unauthorized action of his attorney, it is a ratification, Ibid.

Trustee has no power hereunder to release portion of premises from an unsatisfied trust: Woodcock v. Merrimon, 122-731; Brown v. Davis, 109-23—but if he is authorized to do so, he should state his authority, the consideration for the release, and the name of the grantee, Ibid.

Entry of satisfaction of a mortgage on margin of registry, witnessed by register of deeds, is competent evidence of payment of debt secured thereby: Robinson v. Sampson, 121-99. Purchaser at sale made in pursuance of mortgage, without notice of unrecorded release of timber rights in land, obtains good title: Barber v. Wadsworth, 115-29; Lumber Co. v. Dail, 111-120. Mortgage can only be released so as to affect purchasers at sale by cancellation hereunder, or by reconveyance duly recorded: Barber v. Wadsworth, 115-32. Where decree adjudges deed void, no marginal cancellation, as in case of mortgages and deeds of trust, is required, but same is commendable practice: Smith v. King, 107-273. When mortgage debt has been satisfied, mortgage is no longer operative, though not marked satisfied of record: Blake v. Broughton, 107-220; Walker v. Mebane, 90-259. Release of debt secured by mortgage need not be under seal: Adams v. Battle, 125-158.

Section merely referred to in Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-305.

2595. Register to enter satisfaction on index. When satisfaction of the provisions of any deed of trust or mortgage is acknowledged and entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction is made upon the margin of the record of said deed of trust or mortgage, or when the register of deeds or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of satisfaction, then the register of deeds or his deputy shall enter upon the alphabetical indexes kept by him, as required by law, and opposite the names of the grantor and grantee and on a line with the names of said grantor and grantee, the words "satisfied mortgage," if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a mortgage, and the words "satisfied deed of trust," if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a deed of trust.

2596. Recorded deed of release of mortgagee's representative. The personal representative of any mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore or which may hereafter be registered in the manner required by the laws of this state may discharge and release the same and all property thereby conveyed by deed of quitclaim, release or conveyance executed, acknowledged and recorded as is now prescribed by law for the execution, acknowledgment and registration of deeds and mortgages in this state.

2597. Release of corporate mortgages by corporate officers. All mortgages and deeds in trust executed to a corporation may be satisfied and so marked of record, as by law provided for the satisfaction of mortgages and deeds in trust, by the president, cashier, secretary or treasurer of such corporation signing the name of such corporation by him as such officer. Where mortgages or deeds in trust were marked "satisfied" on the records before the twenty-third day of February, nineteen hundred and nine, by any president, secretary, treasurer or cashier of any corporation by such officer writing his own name and affixing thereto the title of his office in such corporation, such satisfaction is validated, and is as effective to all intents and purposes as if a deed of release duly executed by such corporation had been made, acknowledged and recorded: Provided, however, this validating provision shall not apply to any suits pending in the courts of the state on February 23, 1909.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

2598. Terms defined. The term and words "motor vehicles" used in this chapter shall be construed to mean all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power, except traction engines, road rollers, fire wagons, engines, police patrol wagons, ambulances, and such vehicles as run only upon rails or tracks. The term "owner" shall include any person, firm, association, or corporation owning a motor vehicle or renting a motor vehicle, or having the exclusive use thereof under a lease or otherwise. The term "public highway" or "highways" shall be construed to mean any public highway, township, county or state road, or any country road, any public street, alley, park, parkway, drive or public place in any city, village, or town. The term and words "business portion of any city or village" shall be construed to mean the territory of a city or incorporated village contiguous to a public highway which is at that point either wholly or partially built up with structures devoted to business.

For definition of automobile, see Motor Co. v. Flynt, 178-399. The general use of automobiles for business or for pleasure makes garages or supply stations a necessity, and the establishment of such stations in a residential section is not a nuisance per se: Hanes v. Carolina Cadillac Co., 176-350.

2599. Violation a misdemeanor. Any person violating any provision of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

The act of 1904, c. 445, by imposing a punishment by "fine not exceeding $50, or imprisonment not exceeding twenty days, or both," placed this beyond the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace: State v. McAden, 162-575. This is changed in this section.

A person driving an automobile in violation of law, and thereby causing the injury or death of another person, may be criminally liable: State v. Gash, 177-595 (manslaughter); State v. McIver, 175-761 (manslaughter).

2600. Duty of officer; manner of enforcement. For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this chapter it is hereby made the duty of every police officer, every marshal, deputy marshal, or watchman of any incorporated city or village, and every sheriff, deputy sheriff, and all other lawful officers of any county, and every constable of any township, to arrest, within the limits of their jurisdiction, any person known personally to any such officer, or upon the sworn information of a credible witness, to have violated any of the provisions of this chapter, and to immediately bring such offender before any justice of the peace or officer having jurisdiction; and any such person so arrested shall have the right of immediate trial, and all other rights given to any person arrested for having committed a misdemeanor. Every officer herein named who shall neglect or refuse to carry out the duties imposed by this chapter shall be liable on his official bond for such neglect or refusal as provided by law in like cases.

2601. No municipal ordinance in conflict. No governing board of any city or town shall pass or have in effect or in force any ordinance contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

ART. 2. REGISTRATION OF VEHICLES

2602. Application for registration. Every owner of a motor vehicle which shall be operated or driven upon the public highways of this state either by himself, his chauffeur, or another by his authority, shall, for each motor vehicle owned, except as herein otherwise expressly provided, cause to be filed in the office of the secretary of state an application for registration on a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for that purpose, containing a brief description of the motor vehicle to be registered, including the name, maker's or manufacturer's serial number, style of machine, and horsepower, the name and address of the owner, and such other information as the secretary of state may deem necessary.

2603. Registered by secretary of state. Upon receipt of an application for registration of a motor vehicle as provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall file such application in his office and register such motor vehicle, with the name and residence of the owner, together with the facts stated in such application, in a book or index to be kept for that purpose, under the distinctive number assigned to such motor vehicle by the secretary of state, which book or index shall be open to inspection during reasonable business hours.

2604. Registration lists. The secretary of state shall have printed as soon as practicable after the beginning of each automobile registration year a list of the automobile registrations in this state, and supplementary lists from time to time thereafter, showing license number, name, and address of party to whom issued, and name of machine registered. Five hundred copies or more, within the discretion of the secretary of state, of such directory shall be printed, to be paid for from the revenue derived from the registration of automobiles, by warrant of the auditor on the state treasurer.

2605. Number and certificate given; expiration of certificate. Upon the filing of such application and the payment of fees provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall assign to such motor vehicle a distinctive number, and, without expense to the applicant, issue and deliver to the owner a certificate of registration in such form as the secretary of state may determine, and shall also furnish to such applicant one display number as hereinafter provided for. All certificates of registration shall expire on June thirtieth, following the date of issue.

2606. Dealers to report sales. The secretary of state shall require from each wholesale and retail dealer in automobiles in the state once each month a list of all retail sales, and it shall be the duty of each of the aforesaid dealers to furnish this information to the secretary of state within the first ten days of each month of such sales made during the preceding month.

2607. Cancellation and transfer of certificate. Upon the sale of a motor vehicle registered under the provisions of this chapter, the registered owner shall within ten days from the date of such sale return to the secretary of state his certificate of registration furnished him as hereinbefore provided for, which certificate of registration shall be canceled: Provided, that such registered owner may, at the time of returning such certificate, upon proper application for transfer filed in the office of the secretary of state and the payment of a transfer fee of fifty cents, have a new certificate of registration issued to him, containing the original registration number, for a motor vehicle owned by him of not greater tax horsepower, such certificate to remain in force until June thirtieth following date of issue. In case the machine for which a transfer license is desired is of greater tax horsepower, the difference between the amount paid for the original license and the annual fee for the machine for which transfer license is desired shall be paid at the time such application for transfer is filed, but nothing herein contained shall be construed as authorizing the secretary of state to make a rebate in case the transfer license is issued for a machine of less tax horsepower than the one originally registered. A license cannot be transferred from one person to another.

2608. Display numbers required. In addition to the certificate of registration, the secretary of state shall furnish to each registered owner two display numbers, which shall at all times be conspicuously displayed by such owner, one on the front and one on the rear of the registered motor vehicle for which the display numbers are issued. The display numbers shall be rigidly fastened in a horizontal position, and the lower edges thereof shall be at least fifteen inches from the ground, and during the times when a motor vehicle is required to display lights the rear registered number shall be so illuminated as to be legible at a distance of fifty feet. In case of the loss or destruction of a display number, the secretary of state, upon proper proof thereof filed with him, and the payment of one dollar, shall secure for such owner a duplicate number, and the secretary of state may in his discretion authorize the applicant for duplicate number to have prepared for use a temporary number until the duplicate can be made and furnished. It shall be deemed a violation of this chapter for any person to display a fictitious number or more than two display numbers on any motor vehicle operated on the highways of this state. From and after July 1, 1920, the secretary of state shall furnish but one display number with certificate of registration, and the one display number issued shall be conspicuously displayed on the rear of the registered motor vehicle for which it was issued.

2609. Nature of display numbers. The display numbers shall be made of suitable metal, in such size and form as the secretary of state may prescribe, and shall be of a distinctive different color or shade each year.

2610. Special numbers to dealers. Every person, firm, association, or corporation manufacturing or dealing in motor vehicles handled for purposes of sale only may, instead of registering such motor vehicles so manufactured or dealt in, make a verified application upon a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for a general distinctive number for all motor vehicles owned or controlled by such manufacturer or dealer, such application to contain such information as to name, style and class of cars manufactured or dealt in by such person, firm, association, or corporation as the secretary of state may require; and upon the payment of an annual registration fee of twenty-five dollars, such person, firm, association or corporation shall be assigned a distinctive number, to be used by them in the operation of all motor vehicles used for demonstration purposes on the public highways, and the secretary of state shall furnish to such dealer as many duplicate pairs of such display number as they may desire, upon application to him and the payment of five dollars for each pair: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to a motor vehicle operated by any manufacturer or dealer for hire.

2611. Nonresident owners of vehicles. Nonresident owners or operators of motor vehicles shall be subject to the same requirements and laws as resident owners or operators: Provided, that the nonresident owner of a motor vehicle which is properly registered under the laws of another state, district, or territory shall be exempt from the registration provisions of this chapter for the same period that a properly registered owner of this state is exempt from the registration provisions of the state in which such nonresident resides, not exceeding sixty days: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt any motor vehicles used for hire by a nonresident.

ART. 3. LICENSE FEES

2612. Amount of license fees. A license or registration fee shall be charged and collected annually on motor vehicles registered under the provisions of this chapter on each motor vehicle, except motor trucks, motor vehicles for the carriage of passengers for hire, and motorcycles, as follows: On each motor vehicle having a rating of twenty-six horsepower or less, a registration license fee of ten dollars; on each motor vehicle having a rating of more than twenty-six horsepower but not more than thirty horsepower, a registration or license fee of fifteen dollars; on each motor vehicle having a rating of more than thirty horsepower, a registration or license fee of twenty dollars; that each motor vehicle used for the carriage of passengers for hire shall carry a special "service" license to be furnished by the secretary of state, for which the license fee shall be twice the amount fixed for like motor vehicles for private use. The annual license or registration fee for a motorcycle shall be five dollars. The annual registration or license fee for motor trucks shall be as follows: On each motor truck with a carrying capacity of not more than one ton, twelve dollars and fifty cents; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than one ton but not more than two tons, twenty-five dollars; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than two tons but not more than three tons, forty dollars; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than three tons but not more than four tons, sixty-five dollars; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than four tons but not more than five and one-half tons, one hundred dollars; on each trailer, ten dollars for the first ton carrying capacity, and twenty dollars for each additional ton. The method of computing the horsepower of motor vehicles shall be the formula adopted by the society of automobile engineers: Provided, that—

1. Any applicant for the registration of any motor vehicle on or after the first day of March of each year shall be required to pay for said registration a license fee for the balance of the year ending June thirtieth only one-half of the fee levied in this section.

2. No county, city or town shall charge any license or registration fee on motor vehicles in excess of one dollar per annum.

3. No motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than five and one-half tons nor any motor truck with steel tires shall be licensed or allowed to be used upon the state highway system.

4. All necessary expenses of collecting the said license or registration fees, including clerical assistance, the cost of purchasing number plates and mailing same, and for such blanks, books, and other supplies as cannot be furnished by the state printer, shall be paid for monthly from the revenue derived from said fees by warrant of the auditor on the state treasurer; and said expenses shall be approved by the governor and council of state, and shall not in the aggregate exceed ten per cent of the total amount collected by the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter.

2613. Application of funds by state highway commission. All funds collected by the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter, or amendments thereto, shall be paid to the state treasurer monthly, to be kept as a separate fund to be known as the "state highway fund," which shall be drawn upon and expended as directed by the state highway commission for the construction and maintenance of a system of state highways as authorized by article 1, entitled State Highway Commission and State Highway Fund, of the chapter Roads and Highways, or by this chapter. Nothing in this chapter shall prevent the state highway commission and the local road authorities to make agreements as to the method or the amount required for the maintenance of roads and bridges to be maintained under the provisions of this chapter.

ART. 4. OPERATION OF VEHICLES

2614. By incompetent person; racing. No person shall operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state who is under the age of sixteen years and who is not competent physically and mentally, and no person shall operate a motor vehicle when intoxicated, or in a race, or on a bet or wager, or for the purpose of making a speed record: Provided, nothing herein contained shall prevent racing on private race courses or tracks.

Person under age of 16 driving an automobile is negligence per se, but there is no civil liability unless such negligence is the proximate cause of an injury: Taylor v. Stewart, 172-203; s. c., 175-199.

The owner of an automobile is not liable for the injury caused by the negligence of one in charge of the machine, merely from the fact of ownership: Linville v. Nissen, 162-96—nor would the relation of father and son make the owner liable, Ibid.

But the owner is liable when he authorizes such use, or the person so using the machine is his agent and within the scope of his employment: Linville v. Nissen, 162-96; Cates v. Hall, 171-360; Taylor v. Stewart, 172-203; s. c., 175-199; Williams v. May, 173-78; Clark v. Sweaney, 175-280; s. c., 176-529; Wilson v. Polk, 175-490.

The fact that the person injured was at the time violating the law will not prevent a recovery, unless such violation in some way contributed to the injury: Zageir v. Express Co., 171-692.

2615. Brakes, horns, and lights required. Every motor vehicle operated or driven upon the public highways of this state shall be provided with adequate brakes in good working order and sufficient to control such vehicle at all times, when same is in use, and a suitable and adequate bell, horn, or other device for signaling, and shall during the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, display at least two lighted lamps on the front, and shall also display a red light visible from the rear, which may be in combination with the light illuminating the display number on the rear. as heretofore provided in this chapter: Provided, that the lamps on such vehicle need not be lighted when the vehicle is standing under the rays of a light and can be plainly seen, and that one light displayed on the front of a motorcycle shall be deemed a compliance with this section. A motor vehicle of any kind operated on the public highways of the state shall not use any lighting device equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so designed, deflected, or arranged that no portion of the beam or reflected light, when measured seventy-five feet or more ahead of the lamps, shall rise above forty-two inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands under all conditions of load.

Running an automobile at night without sufficient headlight: Wilson v. Polk, 175-490.

2616. Driving regulations; frightened animals; crossings. A person operating or driving a motor vehicle shall, on signal by raising the hand, from a person riding, leading, or driving a horse or horses or other draft animals, bring such motor vehicle immediately to a stop, and, if traveling in the opposite direction, remain stationary so long as may be reasonable to allow such horse or other animal to pass, and, if traveling in the same direction, use reasonable caution in thereafter passing such horse or other animal: Provided, that in case such horse or other animal appears badly frightened, and the person operating such motor vehicle is so signaled to do, such person shall cause the motor of the motor vehicle to cease running so long as shall be reasonably necessary to prevent accident and insure the safety of others; and it shall also be the duty of any male chauffeur or driver of any motor vehicle and other male occupants thereof over the age of sixteen years while passing any horse, horses or other draft animals which appear frightened, upon the request of the person in charge thereof and driving such horse or horses or other draft animals, to give such assistance as would be reasonable to insure the safety of all persons concerned and to prevent accident. In approaching or passing a car of a street railway which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight or embark, the operator of every motor vehicle shall slow down, and shall bring said vehicle to a full stop when going in the same direction as the street car. Upon approaching a pedestrian who is upon the traveled part of any highway, and not upon a sidewalk, and upon approaching an intersecting highway or a curve, or a corner in a highway where the operator's view is obstructed, every person operating a motor vehicle shall slow down and give a timely signal with his bell, horn, or other device for signaling. Upon approaching an intersecting highway, a bridge, dam, sharp curve, or deep descent, and also in traversing such intersecting highway, bridge, dam, curve, or descent, a person operating a motor vehicle shall have it under control and operate it at such speed, not to exceed ten miles an hour, having regard to the traffic then on such highway and the safety of the public.

It is the duty of the operator of an automobile on the highway or public streets to use reasonable precaution to avoid injury, and he is required to take into consideration the tendency of the machine to frighten horses: Tudor v. Bowen, 152-441; Gaskins v. Hancock, 156-56; Curry v. Fleer, 157-16; Long v. Warlick, 148-32.

Regulations to be observed in approaching an intersecting highway: Manly v. Abernathy, 167-220—an "intersecting" highway means one that touches or joins another without necessarily crossing it, Ibid. This includes a railroad: Hinton v. R. R., 172-587; Shepard v. R. R., 169-239. But a violation of such regulation by the person injured will not prevent a recovery if such negligence is not the proximate cause of the injury: Hinton v. R. R., 172-587; Shepard v. R. R., 169-239; s. c., 166-539; Clark v. Wright, 167-646.

A violation of the statute in regard to crossings, resulting in the death of a person, may make the offender criminally liable: State v. Gash, 177-595; State v. McIver, 175-761.

2617. Rule of the road in passing. Whenever a person operating a motor vehicle shall meet on the public highway any other person riding or driving a horse or horses or other draft animals, or any other vehicle, the person so operating such motor vehicle and the person so riding or driving a horse, horses, or other draft animals, shall reasonably turn the same to the right of the center of such highway so as to pass without interference. Any person so operating a motor vehicle shall, on overtaking any such horse, draft animal, or other vehicle, pass on the left side thereof, and the rider or driver of such horse, draft animal, or other vehicle shall, as soon as practicable, turn to the right so as to allow free passage on the left. Any person so operating a motor vehicle shall, at the intersection of a public highway, keep to the right of the intersection of the center of such highway when turning to the right and pass to the right of such intersection when turning to the left, and shall signal with the outstretched hand the direction in which turn is to be made.

Failure to turn to the right, as required by the statute, is negligence and renders the person liable if it is the proximate cause of injury to another: Goodrich v. Matthews, 177-198—but not if the violation was caused by the wrongful act of the person injured, Ledbetter v. English, 166-125; Cook v. Jerome, 172-626.

2618. Speed regulations; mufflers. No person shall operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state recklessly, or at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the width, traffic, and use of the highway, or so as to endanger the property or the life or limb of any person: Provided, that a rate of speed in excess of eighteen miles per hour in the residence portion of any city, town, or village, and a rate of speed in excess of ten miles per hour in the business portion of any city, town, or village, and a rate of speed in excess of twenty-five miles per hour on any public highway outside of the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town, shall be deemed a violation of this section: Provided further, that no person shall operate upon the public highways inside the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town of this state a motor vehicle with muffler cut-out open.

Violation of speed regulations is negligence, and in case of injury or death of another person it may render the offender criminally liable: State v. Gash, 177-595; State v. McIver, 175-761.

Liability for damages caused by exceeding the speed limit: Clark v. Sweaney, 175-280; s. e., 176-529; Linville v. Nissen, 162-96; Clark v. Wright, 167-646.

2619. Obstructions in road. No person shall throw, place or deposit any glass or other sharp or cutting substance or any injurious obstruction in or upon any of the public highways of this state.

1917, c. 140, s. 18.

2620. Stopping motors; standing near fire plug. No person shall permit the motor of a motor vehicle to remain running when such motor vehicle is unoccupied on the public highways of this state for a longer period than five minutes: Provided, that no motor vehicle shall be left standing within fifteen feet of a fire plug upon the public highways of this state unless in charge of a person who can immediately move such vehicle in case of necessity.

2621. Use of vehicle without owner's consent. No person shall use or operate any motor vehicle owned by another without the knowledge or consent, expressed or implied, of such owner, on any public highway or elsewhere in this state: Provided, this section shall not be construed to repeal or in any way affect any law making the unlawful taking of such vehicle for temporary use a criminal offense.

See Crimes, Larceny.

Owner is not liable for injury caused by his machine in the hands of another without his consent: Linville v. Nissen, 162-96. See annotations under section 2614.

SUBCHAPTER I. REGULATIONS INDEPENDENT OF ACT OF 1917

ART. 1. GENERAL POWERS

2622. Body politic. Every incorporated city or town is a body politic and corporate, and shall have the powers prescribed by statute, and those necessarily implied by law, and no other.

Rev., s. 2915; Code, s. 702.

Creation of private corporations and public corporations distinguished: Mills v. Williams, 33-558.

The term "municipal corporation," in a broad sense, includes public corporations or public quasi-corporations, such as counties, townships, and other governmental agencies, while in the generally restricted sense it applies only to incorporated cities and towns: Smith v. Trustees, 141-143. Distinction between towns and counties in their corporate powers and liabilities: White v. Comrs., 90-437; McCormac v. Comrs., 90-441; Dare v. Currituck, 95-189; Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9; Prichard v. Comrs., 126-908.

Drainage districts are not municipal corporations, but quasi-public corporations or governmental agencies: Comrs. v. Webb, 160-594; Sanderlin v. Luken, 152-743. A corporation with capital stock and organized for business purposes is not a municipal corporation, although it may be authorized to exercise certain governmental powers: Southern Assembly v. Palmer, 166-75.

Municipal corporations, in the absence of constitutional restrictions, are the creatures of legislative will, and are subject to its control: Lutterloh v. Fayetteville, 149-65; Manly v. Raleigh, 57-372. For constitutional restriction as to creation by general laws instead of by special charter, see const., art. 8, sec. 4, and subchapter 2 of this chapter.

Municipal corporations are but instrumentalities of the state for the administration of local government, and their powers may be enlarged, abridged, or entirely withdrawn, at the pleasure of the legislature: Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402; Burgin v. Smith, 151-561; Wharton v. Greensboro, 146-356; Jones v. Comrs., 137-592; Lilly v. Taylor, 88-490; State v. Thomas, 118-1221; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227; State v. Beacham, 125-652.

Legislature may submit question of acceptance of charter to a vote of the people: Henderson v. Davis, 106-88—may confer upon governor the power to appoint aldermen, Harris v. Wright, 121-172—may change boundaries, Comrs. v. Thorn, 117-211; Lutterloh v. Fayetteville, 149-65—may abolish and recreate with different limits, Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121-1.

Municipal corporation can exercise only such powers as (1) are granted in express words; (2) necessarily or fairly implied from the charter, and (3) essential to the declared objects and purposes of the corporation; not such as are simply convenient, but those which are indispensable: State v. Webber, 107-962; Elizabeth City v. Banks, 150-407; Mayo v. Comrs., 122-5; Smith v. New Bern, 70-18.

The municipal powers are governmental and proprietary or private; the former are under the control of the legislature, and the latter are within the discretion of the officers: Asbury v. Albemarle, 162-247; Sewerage Co. v. Monroe, 162-275; Hines v. Rocky Mount, 162-409; State v. Prevo, 178-740.

A municipal corporation is exempt from liability for any injury resulting from a failure to exercise its governmental powers, or for their improper or negligent exercise, but it is amenable to an action for injury caused by its neglect to perform its ministerial functions or by an improper or unskillful performance of them: Smith v. Comrs., 176-466; Price v. Trustees, 172-84; Snider v. High Point, 168-608; Hobbs v. Washington, 168-293; Nichols v. Fountain, 165-166; Donnell v. Greensboro, 164-330; Howland v. Asheville, 174-749; Hull v. Roxboro, 142-453; Williams v. Greenville, 130-93; Fisher v. Newbern, 140-506; Levin v. Burlington, 129-184; McIlhenny v. Wilmington, 127-146; Prichard v. Commissioners, 126-908; Downs v. High Point, 115-182; Coley v. Statesville, 121-301; Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-237; Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352; Bunch v. Edenton, 90-431; Lewis v. Raleigh, 77-229; Hill v. Charlotte, 72-55; Moser v. Burlington, 162-141; Hines v. Rocky Mount, 162-409; Harrington v. Greenville, 159-632; Woodie v. North Wilkesboro, 159-353; Terrell v. Washington, 158-282.

Debts due from municipal corporation are not extinguished by repeal of its charter, and still exist notwithstanding that repeal: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478; Wilson v. Leary, 120-

90 (overruling Fox v. Horah, 36-358; Wallace v. Trustees, 84-164)—and remedies for enforcement of them existing when contract was made must be left unimpaired by legislature unless a substantial equivalent is provided, Ibid.

2623. Corporate powers. A city or town is authorized:

1. To sue and be sued in its corporate name.

The corporation of Hickory having been chartered under the name of "The City of Hickory," a summons is properly directed against "the city of Hickory" and served upon the mayor and the secretary of board of aldermen: Loughran v. Hickory, 129-281.

A municipality is a proper party to institute an action to prevent a public nuisance by proposed enlargement of a freight depot in the city: Hickory v. Railroad, 141-716.

Cities and towns must be sued in county in which they are located, and if suit is brought in another county, they have the right to have it removed: Jones v. Statesville, 97-86.

Demand must be made that governing body sue to enforce its contracts before citizen has right to do so: Merrimon v. Paving Co., 142-539. See section 3206.

Where charter of a city requires notice within specified time of a claim before action can be brought, a claimant must allege and prove that notice was given: Cresler v. Asheville, 134-311.

Notice to agent is notice to principal; and this rule of law is applicable to municipal corporations, but notice to certain petty officials does not bring a case within the rules: Shields v. Durham, 118-450; see Hawley v. Comrs., 82-22.

The law requiring that claims against municipal corporations shall be presented to proper authorities and demand for payment as prerequisites to an action to enforce such claims, applies only to demands arising ex contractu and not to those arising ex delicto: Shields v. Durham, 118-450; see section 1330; R. R. v. Brunswick, 178-254. Failure to present claim may be excused by showing that claimant was not in condition to give the notice: Hartsell v. Asheville, 164-193; s. c., 166-633; Terrell v. Washington, 158-282.

2. Out of any funds on hand, and without creating any debt, to purchase and hold real estate for the use of its inhabitants.

Municipal corporation may acquire title to land by adverse possession: Raleigh v. Durfey, 163-154.

3. To purchase and hold land, within or without its limits, not exceeding fifty acres, for the purpose of a cemetery, and to prohibit burial of persons at any other place in the town, and to regulate the manner of burial in such cemetery. All municipal corporations purchasing real property at any trustee's, mortgagee's, or commissioner's sale or execution or tax sale shall be entitled to a conveyance therefor from the trustee, mortgagee or other person or officer conducting such sale, and deeds to such municipal corporations or their assigns shall have the same force and effect as conveyances to private purchasers. The provisions of this subsection shall apply to such sales and conveyances as may have been heretofore made by the persons and officers herein mentioned.

Right acquired by any person, under a deed or contract, to bury dead bodies in any particular spot, or to erect and maintain vaults for that purpose, whether construed as an easement or license, is subject to police power of government, in the exercise of which not only future interments may be prohibited, but the remains of persons theretofore buried may be removed: Humphrey v. Church, 109-132; Wardens v. Washington, 109-21.

4. To make such contracts, and purchase and hold such personal property as may be necessary to the exercise of its powers.

It is questionable whether a town could engage in a business enterprise for the profit that might be made, or that it would be sustained, although sanctioned by act of legislature and a majority of town voters: Slocomb v. Fayetteville, 125-362.

5. To make such orders for the disposition or use of its property as the interest of the town requires.

See section 2688.

6. To grant upon reasonable terms franchises for public utilities, such grants not to exceed the period of sixty years, unless renewed at the end of the period granted; also to sell or lease any waterworks, lighting plants, gas or electric, or any other public utility which may be owned by any city or town: Provided, that in the event of such sale or lease it shall be approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such city or town; and also to make contracts, for a period not exceeding thirty years, for the supply of light, water or other public commodity. But this subsection shall not apply to Cumberland county.

“Public utilities” include railroads, both steam and street, telegraphs, telephones, waterworks, gas works, and electric light plants: Turner v. Public-Service Co., 170-172.

The right given to a gas company to place gas-pipes and mains in public streets to distribute gas for public and private use is a franchise and not a license: Elizabeth City v. Banks, 150-407—and before the adoption of this subsection in 1905 a municipal corporation could not grant such franchise, Ibid.

City authorities are empowered to issue license for laying down a street railway track upon streets of city, and for operation of railway: Atkinson v. Railway Co., 113-581. License granted to lay a track upon and to that extent use streets, in the absence of an express power in charter to do so, such license cannot be construed into a grant of a permanent easement: State v. R. R., 141-736—and a contract to allow a railroad to exercise such privilege is made subject to the police power vested in the city, Ibid.

Where a city granted a street railway company right to construct branch road over certain street, it cannot, by subsequent ordinance, arbitrarily annul its license; and when, under such latter ordinance, it attempts by force to prevent completion of road then in process of construction, injunction will issue restraining city from such interference: R. R. v. Asheville, 109-688. Injunctions which encourage enterprise and facilitate public convenience will be dissolved only in clear cases: Ibid.

While a town has right to grant a franchise to a water company, and the water company has the power to stipulate that it will not charge in excess of the maximum rates named in ordinance granting the franchise, yet, if such maximum rates are discriminating or unreasonable, they are not binding upon consumers, whom the courts will protect against unreasonable charges: Griffin v. Water Co., 122-206; see Gorrell v. Water Supply Co., 124-334.

Acceptance of franchise by water company carries with it the duty of supplying water to all persons along the lines of its mains without discrimination and at uniform rates: Griffin v. Water Co., 122-206; Gorrell v. Water Supply Co., 124-334; Solomon v. Sewerage Co., 133-150. And also to furnish water to schools free, where the contract so provides: Water Co. v. Trustees, 151-171.

Quere, whether legislature can authorize town authorities to grant exclusive franchises: R. R. v. R. R., 114-725; but see Thrift v. Elizabeth City, 122-31.

The power of municipal corporation to grant a franchise to a public utility to use the streets is subject to the right of the abutting property-owners to demand compensation for any additional servitude: Staton v. R. R., 147-428; Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533; but see Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

Where railroad company entered upon and constructed its road upon a street, thereby reducing width of latter, and it does not appear that it entered under any statutory authority, but only by license of city, abutting property-owner who is endamaged thereby may maintain a common-law action for damages: White v. Railroad, 113-610; compare Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533.

By act of 1911, c. 86, municipal corporations were authorized to establish public utilities: Murphy v. Webb, 156-402—and they might exercise the power of eminent domain for that purpose, Eppley v. Bryson City, 157-487. This act was repealed except as to Cherokee, see note following this section. For general power to acquire public utilities, see sections 2787 (3), 2807, 2832.

7. To provide for the municipal government of its inhabitants in the manner required by law.

8. To levy and collect such taxes as are authorized by law.

Bill incorporating town is valid even if not read and passed on three several days according to constitutional requirement, but such town's governing body cannot levy a tax under it: Cotton Mills v. Waxhaw, 130-293. Power to tax must be strictly construed: Plymouth v. Cooper, 135-5—and is determined by charter, Winston v. Beeson, 135-271; see sections 2677, 2678, 2813.

9. To do and perform all other duties and powers authorized by law.

For an enumeration of powers under municipal act of 1917, see section 2787.

Power may be granted to condemn land outside of corporate limits for waterworks: Asheville v. Weaver, 148-56.

Legislature may authorize municipal corporations to apply their revenue and credit to any legitimate public purpose within the scope of its organization, unless prohibited by the constitution, and such purpose as tends to the general good of the community, although the advantage does not reach every individual taxpayer residing there, is such public purpose: Wood v. Oxford, 97-227—but it cannot authorize any subscription or donation to a private purpose, Ibid.

Powers are granted to municipal corporations to be used for public purposes exclusively; any act for private benefit, with incidental public benefit, is void: Fisher v. New Bern, 140-506; Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127.

City cannot authorize obstruction of street by railroad and manufacturing company for private advantage of the latter: Butler v. Tobacco Co., 152-416.

Municipal corporation has only such police power as is expressly granted or reasonably implied: State v. Dannenberg, 150-799.

Resident taxpayer has sufficient interest in subject to invoke courts to prevent an illegal disposition of public funds, or illegal creation of a public debt, or to prevent the misuse of corporate power: Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127; Merrimon v. Paving Co., 142-539—but the citizen cannot call upon courts to interfere with control of corporate property or performance of corporate contracts until he has first applied to corporation or governing body to take action, and they have refused, and he has exhausted all means within his reach to obtain redress within corporation, unless there is fraud or the threatened action is ultra vires: Merrimon v. Paving Co., 142-538.

Board could not make contract for legal services binding for an unlimited time and irrevocable by their successors: Wilmington v. Bryan, 141-666.

Rev., s. 2916; Code, ss. 704, 3817; 1901, c. 283; 1905, c. 526; 1907, c. 978; P. L. 1917, c. 223.

Approval by majority of qualified voters in case of sale or lease of public utilities, not required in the town of Reidsville. Pr. 1917, c. 28.

Reformatories for women established by county and city. See Reformatories, Art. 3.

In Alamance county towns may condemn land for cemetery. 1907, c. 172.

Act 1911, c. 86, allowing municipalities to establish public utilities, repealed except as to Cherokee. 1913, c. 179.

May become members of memorial associations. See Monuments, Memorials, and Parks, s. 6938.

2624. How corporate powers exercised. The corporate powers can be exercised only by the board of commissioners, or in pursuance of resolutions adopted by them, unless otherwise specially provided by law.

Rev., s. 2917; Code, ss. 703.

The power to remove officers is vested in the commissioners and not in the people: Burke v. Jenkins, 148-25; but see provision for recall of officers, under section 2885.

In the absence of statutory regulation, a majority of a quorum may pass any ordinance or order: LeRoy v. Elizabeth City, 166-93.

For exercise of powers by governing body under municipal act of 1917, see article 16 of this chapter.

2625. Application and meaning of terms. This subchapter shall apply to all incorporated cities and towns where the same shall not be inconsistent with special acts of incorporation, or special laws in reference thereto, and the word "commissioners" shall also be construed to mean "aldermen," or other governing municipal authorities. The sections relating to municipal or town elections shall apply to all cities and towns not expressly excepted by law.

Section referred to: Markham v. Simpson, 175-135. See sections 2778, 2786.

ART. 2. MUNICIPAL OFFICERS

Part 1. Commissioners

2626. Number and election. The board of commissioners of each town shall consist of not less than three nor more than seven commissioners, who shall be biennially elected by the qualified voters of the town, at the time and in the manner prescribed by law.

Rev., ss. 2917, 2919; Code, s. 3787; R. C., c. 111, s. 1.

As to who are qualified voters, see sections 2654, 2691. For number of commissioners under municipal act of 1917, see sections 2782, 2861, 2868, 2889.

2627. Number may be changed. After the first election the voters of any town may, whenever and as often as they choose, at the time of electing commissioners, and after due notice given thereof by the commissioners then in authority, by a majority of all the votes cast, alter the number of commissioners, so that the number be not more than seven nor less than three; and thenceforth the number of commissioners agreed on shall be chosen.

Rev., s. 2922; Code, s. 3791; R. C., c. 111, s. 7.

2628. Oath of office. The commissioners shall take and subscribe an oath before some person authorized by law to administer oaths that they will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of their office, and such oath shall be filed with the mayor of such town and entered in a book kept for that purpose.

Rev., s. 2920; Code, s. 3799; R. C., c. 111, s. 12.

2629. Vacancies filled. In case of a vacancy after election in the office of commissioner the others may fill it until the next election.

Rev., s. 2921; Code, s. 3793; R. C., c. 111, s. 9.

2630. Commissioners appoint other officers and fix salaries. The board of commissioners may appoint a town constable, and such other officers and agents as may be necessary to enforce their ordinances and regulations, keep their records, and conduct their affairs; may determine the amount of their salaries or compensation; and also the compensation or salary of the mayor; may impose oaths of office upon them, and require bonds from them payable to the state, in proper penalties for the faithful discharge of their duties.

For municipal health officer, see Public Health.

When a member of the board has resigned or accepted another office, his vote as a member is void: Whitehead v. Pittman, 165-89.

In the absence of statute or special agreement, an officer of a municipal corporation cannot recover compensation for his services: Borden v. Goldsboro, 173-661.

Part 2. Mayor

2631. How elected; vacancy. At the same time when commissioners are elected, the voters may by ballot, under the inspection of the same persons and under the same rules and regulations, elect a mayor of the town; and the person having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. In case of a vacancy in the office, the commissioners may fill the same.

Rev., s. 2931; Code, s. 3794; R. C., c. 111, s. 10.

The qualifications for voting are the same as in general elections, and the claimant must be elected by a sufficient number of qualified voters: Echerd v. Viele, 164-122. The mayor pro tem. may exercise the powers of the office in the absence of the mayor: State v. Thomas, 141-791.

2632. Oath of office. The mayor, before some justice of the peace, or other person authorized by law to administer oaths, shall take and subscribe the oaths prescribed for public officers, and an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties imposed upon him by law, which said oath shall be filed with the records of the town and be entered on the same book with the oaths of the commissioners.

2633. Presides at commissioners' meeting; mayor pro tem. The mayor shall preside at the meetings of the commissioners, but shall have no vote except in case of a tie; and in the event of his absence or sickness, the board of commissioners may appoint one of their number pro tempore, to exercise his duties.

Mayor pro tem. exercises duties of mayor in his absence: State v. Thomas, 141-791.

The right of the mayor to cast the deciding vote in case of a tie applies to all municipal corporations unless otherwise provided: Markham v. Simpson, 175-135.

For veto power of mayor, see sections 2865, 2872.

2634. Mayor's jurisdiction as a court. The mayor of every city or incorporated town is hereby constituted an inferior court, and as such court such mayor shall be a magistrate and conservator of the peace, and within the corporate limits of his city or town shall have the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in all criminal matters arising under the laws of the state, or under the ordinances of such city or town. The rules of law regulating proceedings before a justice of the peace shall be applicable to proceedings before such mayor, and he shall be entitled to the same fees which are allowed to justices of the peace.

Rev., s. 2934; Code, s. 3818; 1871-2, c. 195; 1876-7, c. 243.

Mayor has jurisdiction to punish for contempt: In re Deaton, 105-59.

Mayors of towns and cities have jurisdiction of the offense of violating town or city ordinances: State v. Wilson, 106-718.

Act giving police court concurrent original jurisdiction of offenses cognizable by justice of the peace is valid: State v. Lytle, 138-738. Jurisdiction may be given to municipal courts over offenses committed beyond the corporate limits: State v. Brown, 159-467. Jurisdiction may also be conferred over all offenses less than felony: State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Shine, 149-480.

2635. Enforce ordinances and penalties. As such court the mayor shall have authority to hear and determine all cases that may arise upon the ordinances of the city or town; to enforce penalties by issuing execution upon any adjudged violation thereof, and to execute the laws and rules that may be made and provided by the board of commissioners of the city or town for the government and regulation of the city or town; but in all cases any person dissatisfied with the judgment of the mayor may appeal to the superior court as in case of a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace.

Rev., s. 2935; Code, s. 3819; 1876-7, c. 243, s. 2.

It is a misdemeanor to violate an ordinance of a municipal corporation, but it must be a valid ordinance: State v. Prevo, 178-740; State v. Irvin, 126-989; State v. Crenshaw, 94-877; see section 4174. As to valid and invalid ordinances, see section 2673.

The municipal corporation has no power to create criminal offenses, but it may pass valid ordinances, and as a means of enforcement the statute makes the violation of the ordinance a criminal offense: School Directors v. Asheville, 137-503; Board of Education v. Henderson, 126-689; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789.

A chief officer of a city or town has same criminal jurisdiction within corporate limits as is given to justices of the peace; but statutory requisites which confer final jurisdiction must be complied with: Greensboro v. Shields, 78-417.

A justice of the peace has concurrent jurisdiction with mayor of city or town of violations of town ordinances, which are made misdemeanors, and the punishment of which cannot exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days: State v. Cainan, 94-880.

In a prosecution for violation of town ordinance before a mayor, defendant is not entitled to removal: State v. Joyner, 127-541.

Power conferred upon a mayor pro tem. "to exercise the duties" of mayor during his absence includes that of issuing warrant in criminal actions: State v. Thomas, 141-791.

An act of general assembly establishing special courts in cities and towns is constitutional: Washington v. Hammond, 76-33.

Superior court has no original jurisdiction to try indictments for violation of town ordinances: State v. White, 76-15.

Where one is indicted for violating city ordinance, the terms of the ordinance and the particular breach alleged should be set forth: State v. Edens, 85-522; State v. Cainan, 94-880—but not necessary to aver the authority to pass the ordinance, State v. Merritt, 83-677.

Defendant's rights guaranteed by constitution are preserved to him when an unrestricted appeal from mayor of town is given him by the act and trial in superior court is de novo; alleged errors in mayor's court may be disregarded on appeal to supreme court: State v. Brittain, 143-668; State v. Whitaker, 114-819; see State v. Powell, 97-417.

A conviction of violating a city ordinance punishing the disturbance of the good order and quiet of town by fighting is not a bar to a prosecution by the state for an assault: State v. Taylor, 133-755.

The constitution, art. 9, sec. 5, appropriates all fines for violation of the criminal laws of the state for establishing and maintaining free public schools in the several counties, whether the fines are for violation of town ordinances, made misdemeanor by section 4174, or other criminal statutes: Board of Education v. Henderson, 126-689.

The shifting of cars in a street in making up a train constitutes a violation of an ordinance providing that no engine or train shall be stopped on any street except at the foot of same for the reception and delivery of freight: State v. Railroad, 141-736.

WARRANTS. Warrant charging creation of disturbance without specifying how it was done is fatally defective: State v. Hettrick, 126-977.

Warrant joining two defendants charged with violation of town ordinance by being drunk in public place is fatally defective: State v. Deaton, 92-788.

Not necessary to set out ordinance alleged as having been violated; it is sufficient to refer to it by such indicia as point it out with sufficient certainty: State v. Cainan, 94-880; State v. Merritt, 83-677—but breach of such ordinance must also be alleged, State v. Edens, 85-522.

2636. May sentence to work on streets. In all cases where judgments may be entered up against any person for fines, according to the laws and ordinances of any incorporated town, and the person against whom the same is so adjudged refuses or is unable to pay such judgment, the mayor before whom such judgment is entered may order and require such person, so convicted, to work on the streets or other public works until, at fair rates of wages, such person shall have worked out the full amount of the judgment and costs of the prosecution; and all sums received for such fines shall be paid into the treasury. No woman shall be worked on the streets.

A fine or penalty imposed by a municipal ordinance is treated as a debt, and under article 1, section 16, of the constitution, a person from whom it is attempted to be collected is exempt from arrest, but he may be indicted and punished for the criminal offense of violation of the ordinance for which it is imposed, under the statute: State v. Earnhardt, 107-789.

2637. Mayor certifies ordinances on appeal. In all cases of appeal from a mayor's court to the superior or other court of appeal, when the offense charged is the violation of a town ordinance the mayor shall send with the papers in the case a true copy of the ordinance alleged to have been violated, and shall certify under his hand and seal that said ordinance was in force at the time of the alleged violation of the same.

Rev., s. 2936; 1899, c. 277.

The records of the proceedings of the board of aldermen, kept by the town clerk, are competent evidence of town ordinances: State v. Irvin, 126-989.

Part 3. Constable and Policemen

2638. Constable to take oath of office. The town constable shall, before some person authorized to administer oaths, take and subscribe to the oaths prescribed for public officers, and an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of his office according to law, which said oath shall be filed with the mayor and entered in a book with the oaths of the commissioners.

For appointment of special constable, see Constables, s. 974.

2639. Power and duties of constable. As a peace officer, the constable shall have within the town all the powers of a constable in the county; and as a ministerial officer, he shall have power to serve all civil and criminal process that may be directed to him by any court within his county, under the same regulations and penalties as prescribed by law in the case of other constables, and to enforce the ordinances and regulations of the board of commissioners as the board may direct. Whenever any process or other notice is so directed as to authorize a township constable to execute the same a town constable in that county may execute the same without any more specific direction: Provided, such town constable shall be required to give bond for performance of his duties such as is required of township constables who execute civil process.

Rev., s. 2939; Code, ss. 3808, 3810; R. C., c. 111, s. 20; 1879, c. 266; 1897, c. 519; 1899, c. 168; 1907, c. 52, s. 1.

As to powers of constables generally, see section 976. See, also, annotations under section 2642.

Where town constable arrested a person who was intoxicated, without warrant, and imprisoned him in the "lock-up" until he became sober, when constable released him, having never carried him before a magistrate or other person to have the charge investigated, he was guilty of an assault and battery: State v. Parker, 75-249.

In respect to arrests without warrant, constable's authority is limited to territory embraced within corporate boundaries; but when constable is acting under valid warrant from mayor of municipality, or other duly authorized officer, he may make arrests at any place within county in which such city or town is situated: State v. Sigman, 106-728; Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

Constable is not liable on his official bond for the release of a prisoner arrested by him on void process: Appomattox Co. v. Buffalo, 121-37.

No authority to serve beyond limits of his town or city process directed to "constable or other lawful officer of county." To authorize him to make such service, process must be directed to him, not necessarily in his individual name as such officer, but in the name of office he holds: Appomattox Co. v. Buffalo, 121-37; Baker v. Brem, 126-367; Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

No authority to serve any papers for the superior court except process; an appellant's case on appeal from the superior court is not process; hence, service of a case on appeal by a town constable is a nullity: Forte v. Boone, 114-176. A writ of attachment issued out of superior court must be addressed to the sheriff instead of a constable: Carson v. Woodrow, 160-144.

Town constable cannot serve a notice to take deposition in an action pending in superior court: Cullen v. Absher, 119-441; Brown v. Myers, 150-441.

2640. Constable as tax collector. The constable shall have the same power to collect the taxes imposed by the commissioners as sheriffs have to collect the taxes imposed by the county commissioners, and he may be required by the commissioners to give bond, with sufficient surety, payable to the state of North Carolina, in such sum as the commissioners may prescribe, to account for the same; upon which suit may be brought by the commissioners as upon the bonds of other officers. The bond of the constable shall be duly proved, before the mayor and commissioners, and registered in the office of the register of deeds.

Rev., s. 2940; Code, 3809; R. C., c. 111, s. 21.

Whenever authorities of town shall be commanded to levy and collect taxes to pay judgment rendered against it, they may appoint a special tax collector to collect same. But this power to appoint such collector is additional and does not abridge their right to require the collection to be made by the regular officer appointed for that purpose: Webb v. Beaufort, 88-496.

2641. Policemen appointed. The board of commissioners may appoint town watch or police, to be regulated by such rules as the board may prescribe.

Rev., s. 2926; Code, s. 3803; R. C., c. 111, s. 16.

Office of chief of police is such an office that a quo warranto proceeding may be brought to try the title to it: Foard v. Hall, 111-369—and the board of aldermen are not necessary parties defendants, Ibid. Not necessary to allege that relator is entitled to office or has any interest therein: Ibid.

2642. Policemen execute criminal process. A policeman shall have the same authority to make arrests and to execute criminal process, within the town limits, as is vested by law in a sheriff.

Rev., s. 2927; Code, s. 3811.

When an officer arrests without warrant, he is not liable if the circumstances show that he acted under reasonable belief, but the burden is upon the officer: Sigmon v. Shell, 165-582.

The right of a police officer to arrest when he has no warrant is confined necessarily by statute to limits of town: Martin v. Houck, 141-317—and when he makes such an arrest outside of limits he is guilty of assault, Sossamon v. Cruse, 133-470.

Where a person is fleeing from arrest, charged with a misdemeanor, and is out of control of officer, such officer is guilty of an assault if he shoots at said person: Sossamon v. Cruse, 133-470; State v. Sigman, 106-728.

If an officer is resisted in making an arrest he may use that degree of force which is necessary to proper performance of his duty; and, after accused person is arrested, officer is justified in the use of such force as may be necessary, even to taking of life, to prevent his escape, whether offense charged is a felony or misdemeanor: State v. Sigman, 106-728.

An officer is authorized to take such precaution for safe custody of his prisoner, such as tying or handcuffing, as in his judgment may be necessary, provided he acts in good faith and without malice: State v. Sigman, 106-728.

Violation of town ordinances, even in presence of policeman, does not necessarily give him a right to arrest offender: State v. Belk, 76-10.

Where town charter provides for appointment of a chief of police or marshal and authorizes him to execute all process directed to him by mayor or others, and declares that, in execution of such process, he shall have same power, etc., which sheriffs and constables have, service by such officer of a summons directed to "the sheriff of W. county or town constable of W. town" is valid: Lowe v. Harris, 121-287, distinguishing Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

In action for false imprisonment and unlawful arrest, defendants cannot justify on ground that they were summoned by their codefendant, the chief of police, where it appears that arrest was made outside of the limits of the town, without warrant, and there was no evidence tending to show that a felony had been committed: Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

A municipality is not liable in damages for negligence or mistake of its policemen who arrest, without warrant, persons engaged in violating its ordinances: Coley v. Statesville, 121-301; McIlhenny v. Wilmington, 127-146.

It is competent for a town to appropriate a reasonable amount of its funds to employ counsel to defend its police officers in actions for false imprisonment: Roper v. Laurinburg, 90-427.

A city is not liable to one arrested on ground of having been exposed to smallpox, where officers act without malice: Levin v. Burlington, 129-184.

Part 4. Planning Boards

2643. Creation and duties. Every city and town in the state is authorized to create a board to be known as the Planning Board, whose duty it shall be to make careful study of the resources, possibilities and needs of the city or town, particularly with respect to the conditions which may be injurious to the public welfare or otherwise injurious, and to make plans for the development of the municipality. The governing body of such city or town desiring to establish such local planning board shall appoint not less than three nor more than five on said board.

2644. Board to make reports. The board shall make a report at least annually to the governing body of the city or town, giving information regarding the condition of the city or town, and any plans or proposals for the development of the city or town and estimates of the cost thereof.

1919, c. 23, s. 2.

2645. Expenses provided for. The governing body of such city or town may appropriate to such local planning board such amount as they may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of its creation, and for the improvement of the municipality, and shall provide what sums, if any, shall be paid to said board as compensation.

1919, c. 23, s. 3.

Part 5. General Qualification of Officers

2646. Must be voters in town or city. No person shall be mayor, commissioner, intendant of police, alderman or other chief officer of any city or town unless he shall be a qualified voter therein.

Rev., s. 2941; Code, s. 3796; 1870-1, c. 24, s. 3.

Under the general statute only qualified voters of towns and cities are eligible to offices therein: Foard v. Hall, 111-369.

Municipal body cannot deprive one of its members of his place for causes affecting his ineligibility that existed at time of election: Ellison v. Raleigh, 89-125.

Charter of a town requiring the officers to be elected, persons cannot claim to be de facto officers of that town who have never been elected, but they are mere usurpers, and the corporation is not liable for contracts made by them in the name of the town: Keeler v. Newbern, 61-505.

Power to remove an officer is vested in the town commissioners, to be exercised for cause and upon notice: Burke v. Jenkins, 148-25. For recall of elective officers, see section 2885. Power of mayor to remove officers, see sections 2864, 2870.

2647. Refusal to qualify and act. Every person elected or appointed commissioner, mayor, or town constable, who, after being duly notified, shall neglect or refuse to qualify and perform the duties of his office or appointment, shall pay twenty-five dollars, one-half to the use of the town and the other half to the use of any person who will sue for the same.

2648. Hold office until successor qualified. Whenever the day of election shall be altered, the officers of the corporation elected or appointed before that day shall hold their places till the day of election, and until other officers shall be elected or appointed and qualified. And they shall hold their offices in like manner when there is any failure to make the annual election.

Rev., s. 2943; Code, s. 3792; R. C., c. 111, s. 8.

ART. 3. ELECTIONS REGULATED

2649. Application of law, and exceptions. All elections held in any city or town shall be held under the following rules and regulations, except in the cities of Charlotte, Fayetteville and Greensboro, and in the town of Shelby, and in the towns in the counties of Bertie, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Catawba, Chowan, Columbus, Davidson, Edgecombe, Gaston, Lenoir, Mitchell, Nash, Pitt, Robeson, Stokes, Surry, Vance, Wayne and Wilson.

Rev., s. 2944; 1901, c. 750, ss. 1, 21; 1903, cc. 184, 218, 626, 769, 777; 1907, c. 165; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 63; 1909, c. 365.

Section cited: Hardee v. Henderson, 170-572; Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

2650. When election held. In all cities and towns an election shall be held on Tuesday after the first Monday of May, one thousand nine hundred and five, and biennially thereafter: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed so as to change, alter or amend any clause or provision in any charter of any town or city in Harnett county providing for an annual election of the officers of such town or city.

Rev., s. 2945; 1901, c. 750, s. 19; 1907, c. 165.

2651. Polling places. There shall be at least one polling place in each ward in the town or city, if the said town or city is divided into wards; and if not divided into wards, then there shall be as many polling places as may be established by the governing body of said town or city.

Rev., s. 2946; 1901, c. 750, s. 2.

Fixing and advertising polling places is material part in municipal election: Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

2652. Registrars appointed. The board of commissioners shall select, at least thirty days before any city or town election, one person for each election preinct, who shall act as registrar of voters for such precinct; and shall make publication of the names of the persons so selected, and of the time of the election, at the town or city hall, or at the usual place of holding the mayor's court, immediately after such appointment, and shall cause a notice to be served upon the registrars by the sheriff of the county or the township constable. If any registrar shall die or neglect to perform his duties, said governing body may appoint another in his place.

Rev., s. 2947; 1901, c. 750, s. 5; 1903, c. 613.

2653. Registrars take oath of office. Before entering upon the duties of his office each registrar shall take an oath before some person authorized by law to administer oaths to faithfully perform the duties of his office as registrar.

Rev., s. 2948; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.

Registrar is not required to be a freeholder: Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

2654. Registration of voters. It shall be the duty of the board of commissioners of every city and town to cause a registration to be made of all the qualified voters residing therein, under the rules and regulations prescribed for the registration of voters for general elections. And where there has been a registration of voters, the board of commissioners may, in its discretion, order a new registration of voters; and unless such new registration shall be ordered, the election shall be held under the existing registration, with such revision as is herein provided.

General registration of all the voters required under this section: Hardee v. Henderson, 170-572.

Notice of election is signed by the clerk under order of the board; and an irregularity in publishing a notice which does not prevent any voter from registering and voting will not invalidate the election: Briggs v. Raleigh, 166-149. The qualifications for voting are the same as in the general election: Echerd v. Viele, 164-122. Payment of the general state and county poll tax is required: Ibid.

2655. Notice of new registration. In the event a new registration is ordered the board of commissioners shall give thirty days notice thereof by advertisement in some newspaper, if there be one published in the town or city, and if there be none so published, then in three public places in the city or town.

2656. Registration books revised. Each registrar shall be furnished with registration books, and it shall be his duty to revise the registration book of his precinct in such manner that said books shall show an accurate list of the electors previously registered in such ward or precinct and still residing therein, without requiring such electors to be registered anew.

Rev., s. 2951; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.

2657. Time for registration. Each registrar shall, between the hours of nine o'clock a.m. and five o'clock p.m. on each day (Sunday excepted) for seven days preceding the day for closing the registration books, as hereinafter provided, keep open said books for the registration of any new electors residing in the precinct, and entitled to register, whose names have never before been registered in such precinct, or do not appear in the revised list. Such books shall be open until nine o'clock p.m. of each Saturday during such registration period and shall be closed for registration on the second Saturday before each election.

Rev., s. 2952; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.

This is for registration of new voters, and not the general registration of all the voters: Hardee v. Henderson, 170-572.

2658. Registration on election day. No registration shall be allowed on the day of election, but if any person shall give satisfactory evidence to the registrar and judges of election that he has become of the age of twenty-one years or otherwise has become qualified to register and vote since the registration books were closed for registration, he shall be allowed to register and vote.

Rev., s. 2953; 1901, c. 750, s. 8.

2659. Books open for challenge. On the second Saturday before the election the registration books shall be kept open at the polling place in the precinct for the inspection of the electors of the precinct, and any of such electors shall be allowed to object to the name of any person appearing on said books.

Rev., s. 2955; 1901, c. 750, s. 7.

2660. Practice in challenges. When a person is challenged the registrar shall enter upon his books opposite the name of the person objected to the word "challenged," and the registrar shall appoint a time and place, on or before the Monday immediately preceding election day, when he, together with the judges of election, shall hear and decide the objection, giving personal notice to the voter so objected to; and if for any cause personal notice cannot be given, then it shall be sufficient to leave a copy thereof at his residence. If any person challenged shall be found not duly qualified, the registrar shall erase his name from the books. They shall hear and determine the cause of challenge under the rules and regulations prescribed by the general law regulating elections for members of the general assembly.

Rev., s. 2956; 1901, c. 750, ss. 7, 9.

2661. Judges of election. The board of commissioners shall appoint, at least thirty days before any city or town election, two judges of election, who shall be of different political parties where possible, and shall be men of good character, able to read and write, at each place of holding election in said city or town, who, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, shall take an oath, before some person authorized by law to administer oaths, to conduct the election fairly and impartially, according to the constitution and laws of the state.

Rev., s. 2958; 1901, c. 750, s. 7.

Section referred to in Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

2662. Vacancies on election day. If any vacancy shall occur on the day of election in the office of registrar, the same shall be filled by the judges of election, and if any vacancy shall occur on that day in the office of judge the same shall be filled by the registrar; vacancies occurring at any other time shall be filled by the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 2954; 1901, c. 750, s. 20.

2663. Judges superintend election. The judges of election shall open the polls and superintend the same until the close of election; they shall keep poll books in which shall be entered the name of every person who shall vote, and at the close of the election they shall certify the same over their proper signatures and deposit them with the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 2959; 1901, c. 750, s. 7.

2664. When polls open and close. The polls shall be open on the day of election from eight o'clock a.m. till sunset, and no longer; and each person whose name may be registered shall be entitled to vote.

Rev., s. 2960; 1901, c. 750, s. 10.

2665. Who may vote. All qualified electors, who shall have resided for four months immediately preceding an election within the limits of any voting precinct of a city or town, and not otherwise, shall have the right to vote in such precinct for mayor and other city or town officers.

Rev., s. 2961; 1901, c. 750, s. 9.

The same qualifications are required for voters as in general elections: Echerd v. Viele, 164-122. See annotations under section 2691.

Rev., s. 2962; 1901, c. 750, s. 12; 1903, c. 613, s. 2.

2667. Ballots counted. When the election shall be finished the registrar and judges of election shall open the boxes and count the ballots, reading aloud the names of the persons which shall appear on each ballot; and if there shall be two or more ballots rolled up together, or any ballot shall contain the names of more persons than the elector has the right to vote for, or shall have a device or ornament upon it, in either of these cases such ballots shall not be numbered in taking the ballots, but shall be void; and the counting of votes shall be continued without adjournment until completed, and the result thereof declared.

Rev., s. 2963; 1901, c. 750, s. 13.

2668. Registration books, where deposited. Immediately after any election the registrars shall deposit the registration books for the respective precincts with the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 2957; 1901, c. 750, s. 11.

2669. Board of canvassers. The registrar and judges of election in each voting precinct shall appoint one of their number to attend the meeting of the board of canvassers as a member thereof, and shall deliver to the member who shall have been so appointed the original returns of the result of the election in such precinct; and the members of the board of canvassers who shall have been so appointed shall attend the meeting of the board of canvassers, and shall constitute the board of town canvassers for such election, and a majority of them shall constitute a quorum. In towns where there is only one voting precinct, the registrar and judges of election shall, at the close of the election, declare the result thereof.

Rev., s. 2964; 1901, c. 750, ss. 13, 14.

2670. Meeting of board of canvassers. The board of canvassers shall meet on the next day after the election at twelve o'clock m., at the mayor's office, and they shall each take the oath prescribed in the general law governing elections for members of the board of county canvassers.

Rev., s. 2965; 1901, c. 750, s. 15.

2671. Board determines result; tie vote. The board of canvassers shall, at their meeting, in the presence of such electors as choose to attend, open, canvass and judicially determine the result, and shall make abstracts, stating the number of legal ballots cast in each precinct for each office, the name of each person voted for and the number of votes given to each person for each different office, and shall sign the same. It shall have power and authority to pass upon judicially all the votes relative to the election and judicially determine and declare the result of the same, and shall have power and authority to send for papers and persons and examine the latter upon oath; and in case of a tie between two opposing candidates, the result shall be determined by lot. In all other respects all elections held in any town or city shall be conducted as prescribed for the election of members of the general assembly.

Rev., s. 2966; 1901, c. 750, ss. 16, 17.

In case of a tie the result is determined by lot; in county election it is for the board of elections to determine: Bray v. Baxter, 171-6. See section 5991.

2672. Notice of special election. No special election shall be held for any purpose in any county, township, city or town unless at least thirty days notice shall have been given of the same by advertisement in some newspaper published in said county, city or town, or by advertisement posted at the courthouse of the county and four other public places in such county, city or town.

Rev., s. 2967; 1901, c. 750, s. 24.

ART. 4. ORDINANCES AND REGULATIONS

2673. General power to make ordinances. The board of commissioners shall have power to make ordinances, rules and regulations for the better government of the town, not inconsistent with this chapter and the law of the land, as they may deem necessary; and may enforce them by imposing penalties on such as violate them; and may compel the performance of the duties imposed upon others, by suitable penalties.

Rev., s. 2923; Code, ss. 3799, 3804; R. C., c. 111, ss. 12, 17.

For proof of ordinances on appeal, see Evidence, s. 1750.

Legislature may transfer to municipal bodies created by it the duty and responsibility of exercising a portion of its own police power in such manner as commissioners may deem necessary: State v. Austin, 114-855; Humphrey v. Church, 109-132. Town authorities have power to execute police laws adopted for the government thereof: State v. White, 76-15.

Municipal ordinances and by-laws must be in harmony with the general laws of the state, and whenever they come in conflict with such general laws must give way: Washington v. Hammond, 76-33; State v. Langston, 88-692.

Municipal corporation is not liable for failure to pass or enforce an ordinance: Goodwin v. Reidsville, 160-411.

An ordinance must be reasonable and lawful, and not oppressive or discriminating. Whether it is reasonable or not is a question of law upon the facts found to exist: Barger v. Smith, 156-323; s. c., 160-205; Small v. Edenton, 146-527.

The words "entire board" in charter mean all members of board in existence and not all those provided for by charter; and where seven commissioners were elected and one resigned, passage of ordinance by vote of five members was sufficient: Comrs. v. Trust Co., 143-110.

Municipal corporations may enforce their ordinances by suitable penalties, but cannot create a criminal offense; the general statute makes the violation of a valid ordinance a misdemeanor: State v. Crenshaw, 94-877; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789; State v. Irvin, 126-989.

The penalty for violation of municipal ordinance should be definitely fixed, and not left to the discretion of the court; nor can the ordinance punish that which is already punishable under the state law: State v. Irvin, 126-989; State v. Rice, 97-421; State v. Worth, 95-615; State v. Crenshaw, 94-877; State v. Cainan, 94-883; State v. Dannenberg, 150-799; State v. Black, 150-866.

City ordinance which takes from the citizen a natural and necessary right without apparent necessity, and substitutes nothing adequate to take its place, is neither reasonable in its provisions nor just in its results: State v. Hill, 126-1139.

VALID AND INVALID ORDINANCES. Town ordinance is not void for discriminating which prohibits a citizen from keeping hog-pens within 100 yards of the residence of another, but does not prohibit him from keeping them within like distance from his own: State v. Hord, 122-1092. But an ordinance prohibiting the building of a stable nearer to the residence of another than it is to the owner's residence is invalid as having no uniform standard: State v. Bass, 171-780.

Commissioners of a town have not power to enact an ordinance declaring it to be "unlawful for any person to abuse or insult any officer of the town, or member of the police, while in discharge of his duty," and imposing a fine of $25 upon one convicted thereunder: State v. Clay, 118-1234.

An ordinance of a town requiring stores to be closed after 7:30 in the evening is invalid: State v. Ray, 131-814—so is an ordinance forbidding one who sells liquor to occupy his own premises between certain hours, State v. Thomas, 118-1221.

Where a town charter allows regulation and sale of spirituous liquors, an ordinance allowing revocation of license upon breach of certain ordinances regulating the sale, the licensee agreeing thereto upon receiving his license, is valid: Paul v. Washington, 134-363.

City ordinance punishing, by fine, loud and boisterous cursing and swearing in any street, house, or elsewhere in city, is valid: State v. Cainan, 94-880; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789; State v. Warren, 113-683; State v. Debnam, 98-712—and, in an indictment under this ordinance, it is not necessary to set out the words used by defendant: State v. Cainan, 94-880; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789; State v. Warren, 113-683; State v. Debnam, 98-712. Ordinance prohibiting "profane language in town" not valid: State v. Horne, 115-739.

Ordinance imposing a fine or penalty for selling liquor without license does not conflict with general laws of state prohibiting sale of liquor without license, and is therefore valid: State v. Stevens, 114-873.

Ordinance prohibiting an unmarried minor, except when acting as agent of his parent or guardian, from entering any barroom or room where spirituous, vinous or malt liquors are kept for sale, is valid, being reasonable and consistent with the laws of the state: State v. Austin, 114-855.

Ordinance appointing cotton weigher and prescribing that part of his fee be paid by buyer and other part by seller, and prescribing penalty forbidding all sales unless cotton weighed by him, is valid: State v. Tyson, 111-687. But when cotton is brought to a cotton weigher to be weighed under a town ordinance, neither the officer nor the town is liable for the loss of the cotton: Cotton Co. v. Wilson, 159-141.

Under a general power in a charter to suppress houses of ill-fame, a city may pass an ordinance forbidding owners to rent houses for purpose of being used as bawdy houses, or with knowledge that they will be so used by the lessee; but its authorities are not thereby empowered to define what is a house of ill-fame, or declare a given house to be a bawdy house: State v. Webber, 107-962—nor to establish a rule of evidence, Ibid. If part of ordinance is void, all other clauses with which the invalid part is necessarily connected or which are dependent on it are also void: Ibid.

Town commissioners passed an ordinance requiring all male citizens, between ages of eighteen and forty-five years, to work certain number of days on the streets, and imposing fine or imprisonment for wilful refusal so to do: Held, that such ordinance is valid, and violation of it was a misdemeanor: State v. Smith, 103-403.

Ordinance prohibiting gambling is void, it being already prohibited by statute: State v. McCoy, 116-1059; State v. Keith, 94-933. Ordinance prohibiting disorderly conduct is valid: State v. Sherrard, 117-717. Ordinance prohibiting sale of second-hand clothes is void: State v. Taft, 118-1190—but one regulating its sale is valid, Rosenbaum v. Newbern, 118-83. An ordinance prohibiting the sale of nonintoxicating drinks is invalid, when not authorized in the charter: State v. Dannenberg, 150-799.

Ordinance prohibiting cattle and hogs from running at large valid: Aydlett v. Eliz. City, 121-4; State v. Tweedy, 115-704; Jones v. Duncan, 127-118; Owen v. Williamston, 171-57. Ordinance charging residents higher than nonresidents for impounding stock is valid: Jones v. Duncan, 127-118. By legislative authority an ordinance may prohibit the keeping of hogs within a fourth of a mile of the corporate limits of the town: State v. Rice, 158-635. May authorize policeman to kill unmuzzled dogs: State v. Clifton, 152-800.

An ordinance regulating or prohibiting the use of awnings, signs, etc., over the sidewalk is valid; its reasonableness is a question of law and not for the jury: Small v. Edenton, 146-527, overruling State v. Higgs, 126-1014. An ordinance may regulate the use of billboards: State v. Staples, 157-637; State v. Whitlock, 149-542.

An ordinance prohibiting sale of fish outside of market-house, except fish caught in county streams, is valid: State v. Perry, 151-661.

A municipal corporation may by ordinance regulate fire limits within the corporation: State v. Lawing, 164-492—regulate trading on Sunday, State v. Burbage, 172-876; State v. Davis, 171-809; State v. Medlin, 170-682—prohibit the erection of hospitals within certain limits, Lawrence v. Nissen, 173-359—regulate the grade of railroad tracks crossing streets, and the use of the streets in shifting cars, R. R. v. Goldsboro, 155-356—regulate location of telegraph and telephone lines on the street, R. R. v. Morehead City, 167-118.

An ordinance requiring the segregation of the races as to residence districts is invalid: State v. Darnell, 166-300.

The validity of an ordinance cannot be tested by an injunction: Paul v. Washington, 134-363. Where license is refused under an ordinance, the remedy is by mandamus, or in a proper case by payment of fees and an action to recover the money: State v. Snipes, 161-243.

Where authority to make certain ordinances is vested in a board of health, an ordinance passed by commissioners is invalid: State v. Beacham, 125-654.

2674. Power to establish and regulate markets. The board of commissioners may establish and regulate their markets, and prescribe at what place, within the corporation, shall be sold marketable things; in what manner, whether by weight or measure, may be sold grain, meal or flour (if flour be not packed in barrels), fodder, hay, or oats in straw; may erect scales for the purpose of weighing the same, appoint a weigher, fix his fees, and direct by whom they shall be paid. But it shall not be lawful for the commissioners or other authorities of any town to impose any tax whatever on wagons or carts selling farm products, garden truck, fish and oysters on the public streets thereof.

See section 2794. The exercise of authority in establishing markets will not be interfered with by the court where the discretion is not arbitrary: McIntyre v. Murphy, 177-300. Markets being a public necessity, a town has implied power to establish and regulate them: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457. It is a police power and does not of itself confer right to levy taxes: State v. Bean, 91-554. The town may prohibit the sale of fresh meats within the corporate limits outside of the market-house: State v. Pendergrass, 106-664—may prohibit sale of fish outside of market-house, State v. Perry, 151-661.

Town ordinance providing that all licenses to occupy stalls in a market-house may be revoked at will is in force until repealed, and may be summarily enforced at discretion of authorities: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457.

Persons occupying stalls in a town market-house, under license from town, are not tenants, but licensees merely. They do not acquire rights of tenants from year to year by being permitted to hold over after period covered by their license has expired, and may be summarily ejected at discretion of proper authorities: Ibid.

Obstructing a street in keeping a market cart standing in the street for an hour and a half is not a nuisance per se: State v. Edens, 85-522.

2675. Repair streets and bridges. The board of commissioners shall provide for keeping in proper repair the streets and bridges in the town, in the manner and to the extent they may deem best; may cause such improvements in the town to be made as may be necessary, and may apportion the same equally among the inhabitants, by assessments of labor or otherwise, and the citizens shall not be liable to work on the public roads without the limits of the town. When they determine to repair or improve by labor, they may appoint an overseer and compel such persons as are liable to perform duty on the public roads to work on the streets, in the manner and under the penalties provided in the general law for the reparation of the public roads.

Municipal corporations have the right to open public streets and to locate and construct necessary bridges over them, but the municipal authorities are the sole judges of the necessity or expediency: Comrs. v. Raeford, 178-337; Waynesville v. Satterthwait, 136-225; Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127. Streets and public highways distinguished: Waynesville v. Satterthwait, 136-225.

The municipal authorities are charged with the duty of keeping the streets, sidewalks, drains, culverts, etc., in a reasonably safe condition, to the extent that this can be done by exercising proper and reasonable care and supervision: Sehorn v. Charlotte, 171-540; Foster v. Tryon, 169-182; Smith v. Winston, 162-50; Bailey v. Winston, 157-253; Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140-110; Russell v. Monroe, 116-720; Bunch v. Edenton, 90-131. In the discharge of this duty they are the judges of the necessity and exercise a wide discretion; and the courts will not interfere unless there is a manifest abuse of discretion: Crotts v. Winston-Salem, 170-24; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490; Smith v. Hendersonville, 152-617; Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392; Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127; Durham v. Riggsbee, 141-128; Spruill v. Columbia, 153-46.

This power over streets can be delegated to a committee of the board: Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392.

The authorities of municipal corporations must provide the means and employ the agencies to perform the duties imposed upon them, and for neglect to do so may be liable in damages; but they are not required to perform such duties by their own labor: Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352.

Duty and power of municipal authorities to prevent and abate nuisances and obstructions in public streets are ample and complete, and they may be held liable to party injured in consequence of their dereliction: Dillon v. Raleigh, 124-184.

Where commissioners are empowered and required to let out repairing of streets of such town to lowest undertaker, and are authorized to lay a tax for repairing streets, and inhabitants of the town are, by same act, exempted from working on streets, it is not discretionary with such commissioners whether they will let out the streets and lay the tax, but they are indictable for failure to do so: State v. Comrs., 48-399.

Where an act of a general assembly expressly authorizes the laying out a certain street across certain lands, owner of land cannot be heard to complain that street is not necessary for public purposes: Call v. Town of Wilkesboro, 115-337. An act authorizing the laying out of a certain street is not affected by a prior judgment of the superior court that such street is not a public necessity: Ibid. General assembly provided that a certain street should be located under the law providing for same in charter of town: Held, that this was not intended to restrict town to powers existing under its charter, but to regulate procedure in ascertaining most practical way of laying out street: Ibid.

FAILING TO PERFORM DUTY, LIABLE TO INDICTMENT. City authorities are liable to indictment for failing to keep streets in good repair: State v. Dickson, 124-871.

An indictment against commissioners of a town for failing to do their duty as such, during a certain space of time therein set out, must aver the tenure and duration of their office: State v. Comrs., 48-399.

An indictment against mayor and aldermen of a city for neglect of official duty in failing to remove obstructions from a street and to keep same in repair, is fatally defective if it fails to point out the particular public duty neglected, or to refer to the statute imposing it: State v. Fishplate, 83-654.

CITY'S LIABILITY FOR DEFECTIVE STREETS, ETC.; FOR OBSTRUCTIONS IN STREET. The municipal corporation is liable for injury caused by its failure to exercise reasonable care to keep the streets and sidewalks in a reasonably safe condition: Sehorn v. Charlotte, 171-540; Seagraves v. Winston, 170-618; Alexander v. Statesville, 165-527; Smith v. Winston, 162-50; Bailey v. Winston, 157-253; Willis v. New Bern, 118-132; Bunch v. Edenton, 90-431; Brown v. Durham, 141-249.

Town is only responsible for negligent breach of duty, and to establish such responsibility it is not sufficient to show that a defect existed and an injury caused thereby. It must be further shown that officers "knew or by ordinary diligence might have discovered the defect, and its character was such that injuries to travelers therefrom might reasonably be anticipated": Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140-110; Johnson v. Raleigh, 156-269; Seagraves v. Winston, 167-206; s. c., 170-618; Foster v. Tryon, 169-182; Dowell v. Raleigh, 173-197; Revis v. Raleigh, 150-348. The question of notice is generally one for the jury: Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140-110; Kinsey v. Kinston, 145-106; Foster v. Tryon, 169-182.

The fact that a third person is responsible for the defect does not relieve the city of liability if it has failed to exercise reasonable care: Ridge v. High Point, 176-421; Hardy v. Construction Co., 174-320; Gregg v. Wilmington, 155-18; Comrs. v. Indemnity Co., 155-219; Styron v. R. R., 161-78; Guthrie v. Durham, 168-573; Conway v. Ice Co., 169-577; Raleigh v. R. R., 129-265; Foy v. Winston, 126-381; Brown v. Louisburg, 126-701; Dillon v. Raleigh, 124-184. In the event of recovery against town for damages for one falling into excavation on sidewalk, it could hold the property owner responsible, as they are not joint tort feasons, and a release, for valuable consideration, to the party primarily liable, operates to discharge of the town: Brown v. Louisburg, 126-701. See, also, Gregg v. Wilmington, 155-18; Guthrie v. Durham, 168-573.

The fact that plaintiff knew of the defect is not negligence per se so as to prevent a recovery: Duke v. Belhaven, 174-95; Darden v. Plymouth, 166-492; Neal v. Marion, 129-345; Russell v. Monroe, 116-720.

Burden of showing defects and dangers in the public streets, causing injury, and also notice thereof, express or implied, rests upon the plaintiff: Jones v. Greensboro, 124-310—burden of proving contributory negligence is on the defendant, Russell v. Monroe, 116-720.

A town or city is not liable in damages for an injury caused through the slipping of person on its sidewalk on account of ice formed there at season of the year when such formation of ice might be reasonably anticipated: Cresler v. Asheville, 134-311. An ordinance requiring the owner of property to remove ice and snow from the sidewalk does not impose any civil liability for injury: Hartsell v. Asheville, 164-193.

Step projecting out into the sidewalk is an obstruction, and length of time of such usage will not prevent liability: White v. New Bern, 146-447; but see Edwards v. Raleigh, 150-276. Permitting overhanging dead limbs to remain so as to fall on passers-by is negligence: Jones v. Greensboro, 124-310. Permitting brick to be piled in street, without light, but with sufficient passway, is negligence: Pinnix v. Durham, 130-360.

As to action for negligence in having a defective bridge, see Brewster v. Eliz. City, 142-9—for permitting broken electric wires (where town owns lighting plant) to remain suspended in dangerous manner, Fisher v. Newbern, 140-506—for damages caused by drain being stopped up and allowed to remain until land overflowed, Williams v. Greenville, 130-93—for failure to protect pedestrians against sink holes made in course of improving streets, Willis v. Newbern, 118-132—for damages caused by fireworks display ordered by town authorities, Love v. Raleigh, 116-216.

In action against town for injury sustained by falling into an unguarded excavation, facts held to show that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence, precluding recovery: Austin v. Charlotte, 146-336; Myers v. Asheville, 165-703.

A town is required to keep a bridge suitable for such transit as may reasonably be expected: Carter v. Leaksville, 174-561. A bridge and embankment so constructed as to cause a large volume of water to collect in the street, causing the death of a child by drowning, renders the city liable: Bell v. Greensboro, 170-179.

Placing a hydrant on the edge of the sidewalk is not such an obstruction as to render the city liable for injury: Rollins v. Winston-Salem, 176-411. The falling of a "grandstand" erected on a town common for the convenience of the public in witnessing a parade does not render the town liable for the injury, such structure being erected with the consent but not under the direction of the town authorities: Morgan v. Tarboro, 174-104. A town is not liable for injury caused by persons using the street, as for playing baseball: Goodwin v. Reidsville, 160-411.

CHANGE OF GRADE OF STREETS. Raising or lowering the grade of a street is within the discretion of the municipal authorities, and there is no liability for injury to the adjoining property unless there is negligence: Keener v. Asheville, 177-1; Bennett v. R. R., 170-389; Wood v. Land Co., 165-367; Hoyle v. Hickory, 164-79; s. c., 167-619; Harper v. Lenoir, 152-723; Dorsey v. Henderson, 148-423, and cases cited. But the city cannot authorize a third person to make the change: Bennett v. R. R., 170-389—for effect of ratification by the city, see Wolfe v. Pearson, 114-621.

A city is liable for the wrongful diversion of water from the street: Yowmans v. Hendersonville, 175-574.

STREET OBTAINED UNDER EMINENT DOMAIN. A municipal corporation has no right of eminent domain except as conferred by its charter or the general law: Lloyd v. Venable, 168-531—and where land is taken for a street, without such authority, the town is liable in damages, Ibid.; Quantz v. Concord, 150-539. For general power of condemnation, see section 2792.

No notice to landowner is necessary of commissioners' intended action as to the laying out of street, but when compensation is fixed, landowner is entitled to notice and a hearing: State v. Jones, 139-613; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490.

As soon as commissioners, in exercise of powers delegated to them, appropriated the land to a public street, they had the right to enter and open it without awaiting the payment of damages: Ibid.

A street commissioner of a city has no power to appropriate and take charge of land for a sidewalk for the city: Cannady v. Durham, 137-72.

Condemnation of land for streets where land belonged to one for life and to others by contingent remainder: Miller v. Asheville, 112-759.

Right acquired by city by condemnation of street and sidewalk is confined to public necessity and to uses for which property is taken or burdened with easement, and for any additional burden placed upon servient tenement compensation must be made: Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533. The opening of the street must be for public benefit: Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127.

Where the statute intends the aldermen shall have time for proper deliberation, and therefore the report of a jury was postponed for one week, city did not thereby lose its right of appeal: Sondley v. Asheville, 110-84. Requirement in town charter that report of appraisers shall lie in the mayor's office for ten days for purposes of investigation and appeal, and that unless an appeal is taken from such report "the land so appraised shall stand condemned for the use of the town and the price fixed shall be paid," etc., applies only to the procedure for fixing price to be paid, and means that if no appeal is taken from appraised value land shall stand condemned at such value, and appeal does not postpone the right of entry: State v. Jones, 139-613. Provision in town charter that one appraiser shall be appointed by commissioners and landowner may appoint one and those two shall select a third, with a right of appeal to superior court, is valid, though it omits to provide for appointment of an appraiser if landowner refuses, and though all the appraisers are freeholders of town: Ibid.

In action for damages to buildings removed from land condemned for public use, special benefits from the improvements cannot be used as a set-off to such damages if such benefits were used as a set-off in the condemnation proceedings: Lamb v. Elizabeth City, 131-240.

The right of eminent domain can be exercised only in the manner provided by the statute conferring it, and if there is a special provision in the charter it is to be followed: Clinton v. Johnson, 174-286; Stiles v. Franklin, 173-651; Eppley v. Bryson City, 157-487.

TITLE TO STREETS; DEDICATION. For a city to establish an easement in land for a street it must show that it acquired such easement in some recognized manner, as by condemnation, dedication and acceptance, estoppel, or adverse possession for twenty years: New Bern v. Wadsworth, 151-309. For what amounts to a dedication, see Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374; Moore v. Meroney, 154-158.

Where municipal corporation conveys land, bounded by established streets or alleys, and the grantee enters upon and improves it, subsequent conveyance by corporation of land covered by such streets or alleys, whereby easement of appurtenant owner is interfered with, is void: Moose v. Carson, 104-431. Owners of town lots, under grant of town, cannot be deprived of their easement appurtenant in the streets adjacent for the benefit of the town, nor can general assembly give such power: Ibid.

When lots are sold with reference to a map or plat representing streets, parks, lots, etc., there is an irrevocable dedication of the streets, and the purchasers have the right to have them kept open: Wheeler v. Construction Co., 170-427; Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169-385; Green v. Miller, 161-24; Bailliere v. Shingle Co., 150-627; Davis v. Morris, 132-435; Conrad v. Land Co., 126-776; Collins v. Land Co., 128-563; Moose v. Carson, 104-431. Acceptance by the town is not required to protect the purchasers: Hughes v. Clark, 134-457. And the town may accept at any time: Bailliere v. Shingle Co., 150-627; State v. Fisher, 117-733. Purchasers without notice of such dedication will be protected: Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169-385; Green v. Miller, 161-24.

The same rule applies where lots are sold with reference to a park, court or square: Conrad v. Land Co., 126-776. But where one of lots on the map is designated as "hotel site," it is not such a dedication as prevents its use for some other purpose: Hanes v. Land Co., 129-311.

A municipal corporation cannot, even with authority from the legislature, sell a street and deprive the property owner of his right therein: Moose v. Carson, 104-431; Southport v. Stanly, 125-464; Turner v. Hillsboro, 127-153; Church v. Dula, 148-262; Moore v. Meroney, 154-158; but see Raleigh v. Durfey, 163-154 (sale of land used as a sidewalk). An alley is not necessarily a street, and the public have not necessarily a right to its use: Milliken v. Denny, 135-19.

Before the act of 1891, title to a street could be acquired against a municipal corporation by adverse possession, but not since that act: Threadgill v. Wadesboro, 170-641, and cases cited. See, also, section 435 and annotations.

A municipal corporation cannot vacate a street without compensation to the property owners who have purchased with reference to it: Moore v. Meroney, 154-158; Moose v. Carson, 104-431; but see Crowell v. Monroe, 152-399.

In an action against a municipality for damages for appropriation of plaintiff's land for a street, defendant denied plaintiff's title: Held, that the burden of proving his ownership is upon the plaintiff: Fuller v. Elizabeth City, 118-25.

ABUTTING OWNERS. In absence of evidence as to ownership of fee in a street of a city, presumption is that city has an easement only, and that fee remains in abutting owner: White v. Railroad, 113-610. City has same rights in a street which it controls by dedication as in one which has been granted or condemned; and the rights of the abutting proprietor are no greater in such street than if it had been granted or condemned: Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392— and the easement of the public is only to use the land as a street: White v. R. R., 113-610. Rights, powers and liability of a municipality extend equally to sidewalk as to the roadway, for both are parts of the street, and the abutting proprietor has no more right in the sidewalk than in the roadway: Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

The owner of the land on which a street is located has every right and advantage in that part of it which is not required for public use: White v. R. R., 113-610. He has a right to compensation for any additional burden placed on the land: Ibid.; Staton v. R. R., 147-428.

The owner of a lot adjoining the street, who has acquired a right therein by reason of purchase with reference to the street, has an easement therein which cannot be interfered with without compensation: White v. R. R., 113-610.

The abutting owner, who never owned the street nor acquired a right therein by contract, has a property right therein by reason of ownership of adjoining property, and is entitled to reasonable ingress and egress, light and air, and to compensation for any interference with this right: White v. R. R., 113-610; Staton v. R. R., 147-428; Butler v. Tobacco Co., 152-416; Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

Abutting owner has property in shade trees standing along sidewalk which the law will protect, and they may not be removed except where their removal is necessary for use of street as a public highway: Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533; Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392; Wheeler v. Telephone Co., 172-9; Munday v. Newton, 167-656; Moore v. Power Co., 163-300; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490; Rosenthal v. Goldsboro, 149-128.

An electric hoist 12 feet above the street is an obstruction which cannot be authorized by the municipal authorities: Guano Co. v. Lumber Co., 168-337. Liability of owner for moving a house in the street and interfering with telephone wires: Weeks v. Telephone Co., 168-468.

The use of a street for laying pipes, etc., in furnishing water, lights, etc., does not impose any additional servitude beyond those reasonably included in the dedication of all streets: Smith v. Goldsboro, 121-350. A street railway is not an additional burden: Turner v. Public-Service Corp., 174-522; Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

A steam railway along a street is an additional burden: Caveness v. R. R., 172-305; Staton v. R. R., 147-428; White v. R. R., 113-610. An interurban railroad run by electricity is an additional burden: Kirkpatrick v. Traction Co., 170-477. Telegraph and telephone lines are additional burdens: Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533; Hodges v. Telegraph Co., 133-225; Phillips v. Telegraph Co., 130-513; Wheeler v. Telephone Co., 172-9.

ASSESSMENT FOR IMPROVEMENTS. Power to levy special assessments is derived solely from legislature, acting either directly or through its local instrumentalities, and courts will not interfere with exercise of discretion vested in legislature as to necessity for or manner of making such assessments, unless there is want of power, or the method adopted for assessment of benefits is so clearly inequitable as to offend some constitutional principle: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112-359; Tarboro v. Staton, 156-504.

Special assessments are constitutional, and are founded upon the principle that the adjoining land has received special benefit from the improvement: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Marion v. Pilot Mountain, 170-118. It is considered as a branch of the taxing power: Ibid.

It is not essential that the legislature should fix minute details in the exercise of the power, but a definite method should be fixed to estimate the assessments, with an opportunity to the property owner to contest the amount: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32—and the method prescribed must be observed, Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112-359.

The statute may require a taxing district to be fixed, and the expense to be estimated and apportioned: Asheville v. Trust Co., 143-360—may require application by a majority of the property owners subject to assessment, Schank v. Asheville, 154-40—popular vote is not required, Lewis v. Pilot Mountain, 170-109. The assessment may be determined by actual appraisal or by the front-foot rule: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Hilliard v. Asheville, 118-845; Kinston v. Loftin, 149-255. If, in applying any of the rules prescribed, it should appear to be manifestly unequal and oppressive, the courts may interfere: Kinston v. Wooten, 150-295. The law may limit the assessment to a certain per cent of the tax valuation: Charlotte v. Brown, 165-435. The property owner may waive the limitation: Charlotte v. Alexander, 173-515.

Assessments may be levied for sewers: Justice v. Asheville, 161-62—for pipe lines for water, Felnet v. Canton, 177-52.

When part of the street paving has been charged to a street railway, this should be deducted before making assessments: Morris v. Hendersonville, 168-400.

Reasonable notice should be given to enable the property owner to appear and contest the assessment: Tarboro v. Staton, 156-504; Kinston v. Loftin, 149-255.

The assessment and levy have the effect of a judgment and lien, and cannot be attacked collaterally; there should be objection in apt time and an appeal: Schank v. Asheville, 154-40. It is not a personal judgment against the owner, but a charge upon the property: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32.

The roadbed and right of way of a railroad are liable to assessment for local improvements: Comrs. v. R. R., 133-216.

For statutory regulations as to assessments by municipal corporations, see sections 2710 et seq., and subchapter 3, Municipal Finance Act.

2676. May abate nuisances. The board of commissioners may pass laws for abating or preventing nuisances of any kind, and for preserving the health of the citizens.

Require contractors to give bond. See chapter Liens, s. 2445.

May establish public hospital. See chapter Public Hospitals.

An ordinance prohibiting bawdy houses as nuisances cannot declare what shall constitute a bawdy house nor the evidence to show violation: State v. Webber, 107-962. An ordinance prohibiting steam sawmills in a town does not make them nuisances, and will not be enforced unless they actually become nuisances: Barger v. Smith, 156-323; s. c., 160-205. Dealing in second-hand clothing not necessarily a nuisance: State v. Taft, 118-1190. Ordinance may prohibit the keeping of hog-pens within certain limits: State v. Hord, 122-1092; State v. Rice, 158-635—or permitting hogs to run at large in the town, Owen v. Williamston, 171-57. Stables in a town not nuisance per se, but an ordinance may regulate their location: State v. Bass, 171-780.

Where by private acts a board of health is instituted in whom is vested authority to make regulations and ordinances for preservation of health to be enforced by town commissioners, the commissioners must enforce these ordinances, and are without authority to enact similar ordinances of their own: State v. Beacham, 125-652.

Ordinance prohibiting the swinging of gates to open on the sidewalk is valid: Knight v. Foster, 163-329. The municipal authorities may prohibit immoral exhibitions: Brewer v. Wynne, 163-319. Duty and powers of authorities to abate nuisances are ample: Dillon v. Raleigh, 124-184.

If a citizen is injured by erection and maintenance of a nuisance on private premises in violation of an ordinance, he has, in addition to right of criminal prosecution, a remedy either preventive by injunction or remedial by abatement: Hull v. Roxboro, 142-453. A municipal corporation is not liable in damages for failure to abate a nuisance, as where a building endangers other buildings from fire: Harrington v. Greenville, 159-632. For injuries caused by a nuisance wrongfully created in the exercise of governmental functions, a municipal corporation is liable for the diminished value of property affected thereby, but not for personal injuries: Hines v. Rocky Mount, 162-409, overruling Downs v. High Point, 115-182. See, also, Metz v. Asheville, 150-748; Williams v. Greenville, 130-93.

ART. 5. MUNICIPAL TAXATION

2677. Commissioners may levy taxes. The board of commissioners may annually levy and cause to be collected for municipal purposes a tax not exceeding fifty cents on the hundred dollars, and one dollar and fifty cents on each poll, on all persons and property within the corporation, which may be liable to taxation for state and county purposes; and may annually lay a tax on all trades, professions and franchises carried on or enjoyed within the city, unless otherwise provided by law; and may lay a tax on all such shows and exhibitions for reward as are taxed by the general assembly; and on all dogs, and on swine, horses and cattle, running at large within the town.

See subchapter III, Municipal Finance Act, s. 2963.

PROPERTY AND POLL TAX. The right of taxation or assessment is a grant of sovereign power, and can only be exercised for public good, and not private benefits or for corporate gain, unless such gain be incident to public benefit: Hutton v. Webb, 124-749. A town has no right to impose any tax but such as is expressly authorized by its charter for purposes of revenue: State v. Bean, 91-554; Winston v. Taylor, 99-210; Winston v. Beeson, 135-271—and it is bound by the limitations therein, Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75-1.

Towns and cities are required to base their levies upon the assessment made for state and county purposes: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134; State v. Irvin, 126-989.

The limitations of this section do not apply to tax levy for necessary expense of water and sewer system: Underwood v. Ashboro, 152-641.

A tax list made up by one who is not a member of the taxing body, but who acts under its direction and as its agent, is not thereby made invalid: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134.

There is no restriction upon municipal taxation except that which the legislature imposes; the equation between property and poll does not apply: Swinson v. Mt. Olive, 147-611; Wingate v. Parker, 136-369. See annotations under section 2678.

Where the town levied a tax in excess of amount allowed in the original charter, an amendment or the general law might validate the levy: Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107-317. Levy of taxes is presumed to be regular and sufficient: Ibid. Act authorizing levy of a tax by a city on a particular date will be construed as authorizing levy on that date or within a reasonable time thereafter: State v. Worth, 116-1007.

As to situs of personalty and realty for taxation, see Winston v. Salem, 131-404. For property subject to municipal taxation, see Hall v. Fayetteville, 115-281; Wiley v. Comrs., 111-397; Wood v. Edenton, 106-151; Redmond v. Comrs., 106-122.

Where a municipality has power to create a municipal debt, it has right, by necessary implication, to levy the necessary taxes to pay it. The right to create a debt carries with it the duty to pay the same: Slocomb v. Fayetteville, 125-362; Charlotte v. Shepard, 122-602.

Remedy for error in imposing taxes should be first sought by application to taxing body, upon whom ample powers are conferred for this purpose: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134. Creditor is entitled to a peremptory mandamus requiring proper city authorities to levy and collect taxes upon property and polls within the city with which to pay his claim: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478. It is not error in court below, in an action instituted against a municipal corporation for purpose of restraining such corporation from collecting an illegal tax, to allow all citizens, other than original plaintiff, to be made parties plaintiff: Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75-1. Taxpayer may enjoin taxation to pay for opening street for benefit of individuals and not the public: Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127.

LICENSE OR PRIVILEGE TAXES. Tax on property and tax on privileges are distinct taxes, and both may be levied by towns under this section; and exemption from one of these taxes does not exempt from the other: Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-68.

A license fee or tax as a revenue measure must be in accordance with the statute authorizing it; as a police regulation, it must be reasonable in amount: State v. Bean, 91-554.

Municipality authorized to tax trades, professions, franchises and incomes is not bound to tax them uniformly as to amount: State v. Worth, 116-1007; State v. Powell, 100-525; Rosenbaum v. Newbern, 118-83. But reasonable classification may be made, and there must be no discrimination among persons in each class: State v. Williams, 158-611. Where several occupations conducted by one party, privilege tax on one does not prevent similar tax on another: Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-68. Brokers and pawnbrokers constitute distinct classes, and entirely different license taxes may be assessed upon them: Schau v. Charlotte, 118-733. Word "trade" when used in defining power to tax, includes any employment or business for gain or profit: State v. Worth, 116-1007.

Instances of licenses on trades and professions levied under different charters: Practicing attorneys, Wilmington v. Macks, 86-88; Holland v. Isler, 77-1—dealers in leaf tobacco, Winston v. Taylor, 99-210—manufacture and sale of ice, State v. Worth, 116-1007—selling and delivering pictures, State v. Caldwell, 127-521—tobacco buyers, State v. Irvin, 126-989—tax on railroads, R. R. v. Reidsville, 101-404.

The drummers' section of the revenue act gives party licensed the right to sell commodities mentioned in any county of the state, without being liable to county or municipal tax: Latta v. Williams, 87-126.

Under the charter of the city of Winston, dealers in trading stamps do not come within the provision of an ordinance taxing "gift enterprises": Winston v. Beeson, 135-271; Winston v. Hudson, 135-286.

An ordinance requiring a license of liverymen, and providing that it shall include any persons making contract for hire in town, "or carry any person with a vehicle out of the town for hire," is not only void as being unreasonable, but is unlawful as well: Plymouth v. Cooper, 135-1.

An ordinance imposing a tax on fertilizer agents or dealers is valid: Guano Co. v. New Bern, 158-354—on persons selling beef from wagons on the street, State v. Smith, 173-772—a tax upon soda fountains, Drug Co. v. Lenoir, 160-571—tax on restaurants, State v. Snipes, 161-243—a tax of one dollar on each cow as a tax on dairymen, Asheville v. Nettles, 164-315.

2678. Taxes must be uniform and ad valorem. All taxes levied by any county, city, town, or township, shall be uniform and ad valorem upon all property in the same, except property exempted by the constitution.

Rev., s. 2968; Const., Art. VII, s. 9.

The constitution provides that all taxes, whether levied for state, county, town or township purposes, shall be uniform, and allows no discrimination in favor of any class, person or interest, but requires that all things possessing value and subject of ownership shall be taxed equally, and by uniform rule: Puitt v. Comrs., 94-709; Edwards v. Cobb, 75-1; Jones v. Comrs., 107-248.

Provisions of constitution requiring taxes to be uniform apply to levying and payment of taxes, and not to the distribution of the revenue arising therefrom: Holton v. Comrs., 93-430.

The provision in state constitution requiring a proportional poll and property tax does not apply to municipal corporations: Wingate v. Parker, 136-369.

Uniformity is not violated by a reasonable classification of those persons engaged in business and imposing the same tax upon all in each class: State v. Williams, 158-611; Rosenbaum v. New Bern, 118-83; State v. Worth, 116-1007; State v. Powell, 100-525—as by classifying merchants according to annual sales, Mercantile Co. v. Mt. Olive, 161-121.

2679. Poll tax limitation. The equation of taxation described in the constitution applying only to taxation levied for the ordinary purposes of the state and county, no poll tax shall be levied or collected by any city or town, except as hereinafter provided, in excess of two dollars for any or all purposes combined, and all acts levying or authorizing the levy of taxes for special purposes which contain authority to levy a poll tax in excess of two dollars in the aggregate for all purposes are hereby repealed or modified so as to restrict and provide that the poll tax for general purposes and special taxes combined shall never exceed two dollars: Provided, this section shall not be construed to affect and shall not affect the district or other special school taxes and road taxes on the poll where they are now required to be levied by law: Provided further, that this section shall not affect any special act for the sale of bonds by municipalities where said bonds have been sold or voted for or authorized on or prior to the eleventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and seven. This section shall not apply to the counties of Halifax, Beaufort, Cleveland, New Hanover, Burke, Catawba, Union, Randolph, Orange, Edgecombe, Pasquotank, and Rowan.

2680. Tax lists taken. The mayor, or other suitable person, shall, by order of the commissioners, take the list of taxables in the town, in such manner and at such time as the commissioners shall prescribe. If any person fail to list his taxables within the time prescribed by the commissioners, he shall be liable to a double tax.

Rev., s. 2969; Code, s. 3807; R. C., c. 111, s. 19.

Tax list made up by one who is not a member of the taxing body, but who acts under its direction and as its agent, is not thereby made invalid: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134.

Tax list in hands of officer to whom it has been delivered for collection of taxes has the force of a judgment and execution: Wilmington v. Sprunt, 114-310. Right to add property to tax list: Smith v. Dunn, 160-174. Municipal corporations take the valuation made by the county authorities: Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172-258.

2681. Tax lists corrected. All tax lists, either county or municipal, which may be placed in the hands of any sheriff or tax collector, shall be at all times under the control of the authorities imposing the tax, and subject to be corrected or altered by them, and shall be open for inspection by the public, and upon demand by the authorities imposing the tax, or their successors in office, shall be surrendered to the lawful authorities for such inspection or correction.

2682. Taxation of municipal bonds. All laws and clauses of laws heretofore passed exempting bonds issued by any municipal corporation of the state of North Carolina from state, county or municipal taxation are hereby repealed: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a municipality from exempting its bonds from its own taxation.

Rev., s. 2976; 1905, c. 532.

2683. Dog tax. If any person residing in a town shall have therein any dog, and shall not return it for taxation, and shall fail to pay the tax according to law, the commissioners, at their option, may collect from the person so failing double the tax, or may treat such dog as a nuisance, and order its destruction.

Rev., s. 2971; Code, s. 3815; R. C., c. 111, s. 24.

For general dog tax, see Dogs.

Statute empowering town authorities to require payment of a tax on dogs is constitutional. It is not an ad valorem but a specific tax for the privilege of keeping a dog within town, and if not paid by owner, dog may be treated as a nuisance and killed: Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175; Newell v. Green, 169-462.

2684. Monthly settlements by tax collector. Each town and city constable, or any other officer authorized by any town or city to collect taxes, fines or penalties, shall make a monthly settlement of all moneys coming into his hands, with the town treasurer or other officer authorized to receive the same.

Rev., s. 2972; Code, s. 3813; 1879, c. 194.

Tax collector, having accepted and acted under such levy, cannot be heard to impeach its sufficiency: Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107-317.

2685. Punishment for failing to pay over taxes monthly. If any constable or collector of taxes for any town or city, or any other officer, shall fail to make settlement and full return of all moneys, penalties and fines coming into his hands each month with the town or city treasurer, or other officer authorized to receive the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section cited in Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-68.

2686. Annual statement of taxes. The commissioners shall annually publish an accurate statement of the taxes, levied and collected in the town, together with a statement of the amount expended by them, and for what purpose. And any board of commissioners failing to comply with this section shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars to any person who will sue for the same.

Rev., s. 2973; Code, s. 3816; R. C., c. 111, s. 25.

Where a board of town commissioners has failed to comply with this section, their failure subjects them to penalty, from which they will not be relieved by their successors supplying the omission: Roberts v. Southern Pines, 125-172.

2687. Publication of receipts and disbursements. Statements showing the receipts and disbursements of public money by municipal corporations, quasi-municipal corporations, and administrative boards of limited territorial jurisdiction, under grant of power from the state, shall be regularly published, as follows:

1. The board of aldermen or other governing body of incorporated cities and towns having a population of three thousand or over shall cause to be published monthly or quarterly statements of all municipal receipts and disbursements, which shall be itemized and show from what source received and to whom and on what account paid, and shall likewise cause to be published annually, at the end of each fiscal year, condensed and classified statements of such municipal receipts and disbursements, showing the source from which received and the account on which expended.

2. The boards of commissioners of all incorporated towns having a population of less than three thousand; boards of graded school trustees and other governing and administrative bodies of public school districts created by special act of the general assembly; county boards of education; boards of road commissioners and fence commissioners charged with the supervision, maintenance and repair of public roads and fences; the governing bodies of all other quasi-municipal corporations; all other administrative boards of limited territorial jurisdiction under grant of power from the state, charged with the receipt and disbursement of public money, and for the publication of whose receipts and disbursements no other provision is made by law, shall cause to be published annually, at the end of each fiscal year, statements of all receipts and disbursements of public money collected and expended. The statements shall be itemized in the manner provided for itemizing the monthly and quarterly statements of municipal receipts and disbursements, and shall further contain a classified summary of such receipts and disbursements, showing the source from which received and the account on which expended.

3. The statements above provided for shall be published in some newspaper having its place of publication, or which is of general circulation, in the city or town in which such public moneys are collected and expended. The cost of such publication shall not exceed one-half of one cent per word; but if no newspaper, as herein provided, will publish the statements at the rate named, the board of commissioners or other governing body shall, in their discretion, publish the statements by posting as notices at the courthouse door in the county and two other public places in the city, town, or district in which the money is collected and expended.

ART. 6. SALE OF MUNICIPAL PROPERTY

2688. Public sale by mayor and commissioners. The mayor and commissioners of any town shall have power at all times to sell at public outcry, after thirty days notice, to the highest bidder, any property, real or personal, belonging to any such town, and apply the proceeds as they may think best.

Rev., s. 2978; Code, s. 3824; 1872-3, c. 112.

This section does not extend to sale or lease of real estate which by terms of act of incorporation is to be held in trust for use of town, or to such real estate as is devoted to governmental purposes, as city hall, market-house, etc. A special act is necessary in such case: Southport v. Stanly, 125-464; Turner v. Comrs., 127-154.

Legislature could not authorize sale of streets in reference to which bordering property owners had located improvements: Southport v. Stanly, 125-464; Moose v. Carson, 104-431; Church v. Dula, 148-262; Moore v. Meroney, 154-158.

2689. Sale by county commissioners. In any town where there is no mayor or commissioners, the board of county commissioners shall have the power given in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 2979; Code, s. 3825; 1872-3, c. 112, s. 2.

2690. Title made by mayor. The mayor of any town, or the chairman of any board of commissioners of any town or county, is fully authorized to make title to the purchaser of any property sold under this chapter.

Rev., s. 2980; Code, s. 3826; 1872-3, c. 112, s. 3.

ART. 7. GENERAL MUNICIPAL DEBTS

2691. Popular vote required, except for necessary expense. No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith, or loan its credit, nor shall any tax be levied, or collected by any officer of the same, except for the necessary expenses thereof, unless by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters therein.

Rev., s. 2974; Const., Art. VII, s. 7.

CONSTITUTIONAL REQUIREMENTS. To enable municipal corporation to borrow money or loan its credit for any purpose, except for its necessary expenses, there must be an act of assembly passed and ratified, as required by constitution, authorizing it to submit proposition to the people, followed by an actual submission to and ratification by a majority of the qualified voters: Mayo v. Comrs., 122-5. The constitution does not prohibit the appropriation of funds in the treasury of a municipal corporation to the necessary expenses thereof—this prohibition is confined to the contracting of debts for objects there forbidden without the sanction of a majority of qualified voters: Gardner v. New Bern, 98-228.

It was competent for legislature by provision in railroad charter to authorize town to hold election upon issue of bonds, without in terms amending the town charter for that purpose: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; Jones v. Comrs., 107-265; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227.

An act annexing territory but containing no tax or debt features need not be passed according to constitutional requirement: Lutterloh v. Fayetteville, 149-65.

Where commissioners of a town are authorized to fund its bonded indebtedness at higher rate of interest than original bonds bore, the portion of act authorizing increased rate of interest without a vote of the electors is void as contrary to art. 7, sec. 7, of the constitution, and only the principal of the bonds and interest from maturity of bonds can be recovered: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 128-529.

When municipal corporation, by a valid act of general assembly and an affirmative vote of approval by a majority of its qualified voters, has acquired right to create a debt and issue bonds therefor (section 14, article 2, of the constitution), such authority carries with it the power to levy taxes necessary to pay such bonds and the accruing interest thereon: Charlotte v. Shepard, 122-602, overruling Charlotte v. Shepard, 120-411.

Where legislature authorized city to issue bonds for necessary expenses, upon a vote of the people, and directed that they be sold for not less than par, and popular vote was had, but bonds could not be floated at par, and a subsequent act authorized city to "issue, sell and dispose of said issue of bonds," and to pay a commission brokerage of not more than 6 per cent, their issuance created a valid indebtedness without a popular vote: Greensboro v. Scott, 138-180.

If an amendment in a material matter is made to bill levying tax, amended bill should be read over again three times in each house, with yea and nay vote on second and third readings entered on journals: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730; Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Claywell v. Comrs., 173-657; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94. If the amendments do not materially change the amount nor the tax required, the bonds are valid: Wagstaff v. Highway Com., 177-354, and cases cited.

The usual certificate of ratification of a bill levying a tax is conclusive only of the fact of ratification, but not of a compliance with article 2, section 14, of the constitution: Smathers v. Comrs., 125-480.

There is no difference between making a contract binding a municipality for a long period of years, requiring the payment of a large yearly sum, and the issuing of bonds of the municipality to run a like period: Thrift v. Elizabeth City, 122-31.

The legislature has the power to impose restrictions upon the contract powers of a municipal corporation, and these must be complied with: Highway Com. v. Webb, 152-710; Burgin v. Smith, 151-561.

NECESSARY EXPENSES. The term is not limited to expenses incurred for purposes absolutely necessary to the existence of the municipality: Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1. Waterworks and electric lights are necessary expense: Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1; Bain v. Goldsboro, 164-102; Davis v. Fremont, 135-538; Fawcett v. Mt. Airy, 134-125, overruling Edgerton v. Water Co., 126-93; Thrift v. Elizabeth City, 122-31; Mayo v. Washington, 122-5; Charlotte v. Shepard, 120-411. Waterworks and sewerage system: Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137; Underwood v. Ashboro, 152-641; Bradshaw v. High Point, 151-517; Greensboro v. Scott, 138-181; Water Co. v. Trustees, 151-171. Cost of maintaining the streets: Jones v. New Bern, 152-64; Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35; Comrs. v. Webb, 148-120; Tucker v. Raleigh, 75-271; Wilson v. Charlotte, 74-748. Roads and bridges: Herring v. Dixon, 122-420; Tate v. Comrs., 122-812; but compare Comrs. v. DeRossett, 129-275.

A municipal building is a necessary expense: Hightower v. Raleigh, 150-569. A market-house: LeRoy v. Elizabeth City, 166-93; Swinson v. Mt. Olive, 147-611; Smith v. New Bern, 70-14. Guard-house or jail: McLin v. New Bern, 70-12. Paying officers, etc.: Gardner v. New Bern, 98-228.

School buildings, support of public schools, etc., are not necessary expense for county or municipal corporation: Snider v. Jackson, 175-590; Stephens v. Charlotte, 172-564; Moran v. Comrs., 168-289; Sprague v. Comrs., 165-603; Gastonia v. Bank, 165-507; Ellis v. Trustees, 156-10; Hollowell v. Borden, 148-255; Smith v. School Trustees, 141-143; Rodman v. Washington, 122-39. School orders not a necessary expense: Bear v. Comrs., 124-204. A building committee for a courthouse is not a necessary expense: Black v. Comrs., 129-122. Fireworks for public celebration not a necessary expense: Love v. Raleigh, 116-296.

What is a necessary expense is a question of law for the court; whether it will be incurred and the reasonable cost is for the municipal authorities: Hightower v. Raleigh, 150-569. See annotations under section 1325.

POPULAR VOTE REQUIRED. The popular vote is required for all purposes not within the class of necessary expense, and the legislature cannot provide otherwise: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; Riggsbee v. Durham, 98-81; s. c., 99-341; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227.

Popular vote is not required for necessary expense, but the legislature may impose the restriction that the vote shall be taken: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Davis v. Lenoir, 178-668; Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1; Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Bramham v. Durham, 171-196; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94; Warsaw v. Malone, 159-573; Charlotte v. Trust Co., 159-388; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402; Ellison v. Williamston, 152-147; Jones v. New Bern, 152-64; Robinson v. Goldsboro, 135-382; Asheville v. Webb, 134-72; Wadsworth v. Concord, 133-587; Black v. Comrs., 129-121.

The method of voting is within the power of the legislature, but in the absence of express direction the voter should be allowed to vote on a single proposition: Winston v. Bank, 158-512. An amendment to the city charter in two particulars may be voted on as one proposition: Taylor v. Greensboro, 175-423. It is no defect to submit an issue of bonds for several purposes as one proposition, when the whole is for necessary expense: Briggs v. Raleigh, 166-149; Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137. But when the question presented embodies two or more distinct and unrelated propositions, the voter should be given an opportunity to express his decision as to each: Winston v. Bank, 158-512—and the different questions may be voted on in the same box, Smith v. Belhaven, 150-156.

It is the duty of the municipal authorities to issue the call and give notice of the election: Tyson v. Salisbury, 151-468. An irregularity in giving notice or in conducting the election, which does not deprive the voter of his privilege or materially affect the result, will not invalidate the election: Hardee v. Henderson, 170-572; Hill v. Skinner, 169-405; Briggs v. Raleigh, 166-149; Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

It must appear that a majority of those who were qualified to vote voted for the proposition, unless it is a necessary expense: Sprague v. Comrs., 165-603, and cases cited above.

“MAJORITY OF QUALIFIED VOTERS.” Registration list is prima facie evidence of who are qualified voters: Young v. Hendersonville, 129-422; Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. A qualified voter is one who is entitled to register as a voter, and who is also qualified to vote after such registration: Railroad v. Caldwell, 72-492, 493—a registered voter being one who has lawfully registered and paid his poll tax, Pace v. Raleigh, 140-65. Voter must register anew, when so required, in order to be a qualified voter: Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. Other cases on the subject are: Harris v. Scarborough, 110-232; Riggsbee v. Durham, 99-341; Smith v. Wilmington, 98-343; Wood v. Oxford, 97-233; McDowell v. Construction Co., 96-514; Markham v. Manning, 96-132; Duke v. Brown, 96-127; Southerland v. Goldsboro, 96-49; Norment v. Charlotte, 85-387.

It is sufficient if a majority of the qualified voters actually voted for the proposition, though the legislature required only a majority of the votes cast: Riggsbee v. Durham, 99-341; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227. Those who are authorized to hold the election and ascertain the result should examine the registration books and eliminate the names of all who are not entitled to vote: Ibid. The result of the election as declared by the proper officers is prima facie correct, but the courts may, upon proper action brought, ascertain and declare the true result: Ibid.

Words "majority of the members-elect," or "majority of the qualified voters," are used in constitutions and laws to take the exercise of a particular power out of general rule, and make assent of majority of whole number necessary: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678.

If it is for a necessary expense, the legislature may require only a majority of the votes cast, or may not require a vote to be taken: Davis v. Lenoir, 178-668, and cases cited.

MUNICIPAL BONDS. As to conditions precedent to issuing of bonds; action by purchaser for value; injunction by taxpayer; retrospective statute, see Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

Bonds may be issued for necessary expense without popular vote: Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1; Warsaw v. Malone, 159-573; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402. A succeeding board may revoke an order to issue bonds, if rights of third persons are not affected: Lucas v. Belhaven, 175-124.

An issue of bonds by town is valid as to the interest rate when town commissioners were vested with power to fix rate of interest, not exceeding six per cent, and records show that rate was fixed at five and one-half per cent, in discretion of commissioners: Lumberton v. Nuveen, 144-303; Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137. Date of maturity of bonds may be left to discretion of commissioners within certain periods: Ibid. Coupons are part of the bonds and partake of their nature: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478.

That the rate of taxation is insufficient does not invalidate the bonds: Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137. That the county is to supplement school bonds, and there is no authority to do so, does not render bond issue void: Moran v. Comrs., 168-289. Failure to provide a sinking fund does not affect validity of bonds: Jones v. New Bern, 152-64.

When bonds were to be issued for a railroad, and not to be delivered, but to become void, unless the road was completed within three years, there was no authority to extend the time: McCracken v. R. R., 168-62.

Legislature may cure an irregularity in issuing bonds: Kinston v. Trust Co., 169-207. But where the constitutional authority does not exist, no act of the municipal authorities will operate as an estoppel: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730; Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Bank v. Comrs., 119-214; s. c., 116-339; R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159.

It is incumbent upon purchasers of state, county and municipal bonds to ascertain whether authority to issue them has been granted according to requirements of constitution: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339, and cases therein cited.

Purchaser of municipal bonds for railroad subscription is not required, when inquiring into the election, to go further than to find, from certificate of registrar, that a majority of qualified voters of municipality had voted for subscription: Claybrook v. Comrs., 117-456.

Purchaser of municipal bonds which, upon their face, refer to statute under which they are issued, is bound to take notice of statute and all its requirements: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; Lumberton v. Nuveen, 144-303; Highway Com. v. Malone, 166-1—and where there is an inherent constitutional defect in statute authorizing issue of bonds or in proceedings under which they are issued, a purchaser takes with notice, and there can be no such thing as an innocent holder, Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Repeal of town charter and reincorporation does not invalidate bonds of town; time between not counted on plea of statute of limitations: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478.

For municipal bond issues generally, see subchapter 3, Municipal Finance Act.

2692. Debts paid out of tax funds. Debts contracted by a municipal corporation in pursuance of authority vested in it shall not be levied out of any property belonging to such corporation and used by it in the discharge and execution of its corporate duties and trusts, nor out of the property or estate of any individual who may be a member of such corporation or may have property within the limits thereof. But all such debts shall be paid alone by taxation upon subjects properly taxable by such corporation: Provided, that whenever any individual, by his contract, shall become bound for such debt, or any person may become liable therefor by reason of fraud, such person may be subjected to pay said debt.

See Winslow v. Comrs., 64-218; Hughes v. Comrs., 107-605, and cases cited; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34; Ellis v. Trustees, 156-10.

2693. Debts limited to ten per cent of assessed values. It shall be unlawful for any city or town to contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit for the construction of railroads, the support or maintenance of internal improvements or for any special purpose whatsoever, to an extent exceeding in the aggregate ten per cent of the assessed valuation of the real and personal property situated in such city or town. And the levy of any tax to pay any such indebtedness in excess of this limitation shall be void and of no effect.

See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, s. 2943 (2).

This section is constitutional: Wharton v. Greensboro, 146-356. The limitation does not apply to debts for necessary expense: Ibid.; s. c., 149-62; Underwood v. Ashboro, 152-641; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402. Section referred to: Hollowell v. Borden, 148-255; Cottrell v. Lenoir, 148-137; Bain v. Goldsboro, 164-102.

ART. 8. PUBLIC LIBRARIES

2694. Libraries established upon petition and popular vote. The governing body of any incorporated city or town, upon the petition of twenty-five per cent of the registered voters thereof, shall submit the question of the establishment of a free public library to the voters at the next municipal election. If a majority of votes cast on said question be in the affirmative, the board of aldermen or town commissioners shall establish the library or reading-room and levy and cause to be collected as other general taxes are collected a special tax of not more than ten cents on the hundred dollars of the assessed value of the taxable property of such city or town and not more than thirty cents on the poll. The fund so provided shall constitute the library fund, and shall be kept separate from the other funds of the city or town, to be expended exclusively upon such library.

2695. Library trustees appointed. For the government of such library there shall be a board of six trustees appointed by the governing body of the city or town, chosen from the citizens at large with reference to their fitness for such office; and not more than one member of the board of aldermen or town commissioners shall be at any one time a member of said board. Such trustees shall hold their office for six years from their appointment, and until their successors are appointed and qualified: Provided, that upon their first appointment under this article two members shall be appointed for two years, two for four years, and two for six years, and at all subsequent appointments, made every two years, two members shall be appointed for six years. All vacancies shall be immediately reported by the trustees to the governing body and be filled by appointment in like manner, and, if in an unexpired term, for the residue of the term only. The governing body may remove any trustee for incapacity, unfitness, misconduct, or for neglect of duty. No compensation shall be allowed any trustee.

2696. Powers and duties of trustees. Immediately after appointment, such board of trustees shall organize by electing one of its members as president and one as secretary-treasurer, and such other officers as it may deem necessary. The secretary-treasurer before entering upon his duties shall give bond to the municipality in an amount fixed by the board of trustees, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his official duties. The board shall adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for its own guidance and for the government of the library as may be expedient and conformable to law. It shall have exclusive control of the expenditure of all moneys collected for or placed to the credit of the library fund, and of the supervision, care, and custody of the rooms or buildings constructed, leased, or set apart for library purposes. But all money received for such library shall be paid into the city treasury, be credited to the library fund, be kept separate from other moneys, and be paid out to the secretary-treasurer upon the authenticated requisition of the board of trustees through its proper officers. With the consent of the governing body of the city or town, it may lease and occupy, or purchase, or erect upon ground secured through gift or purchase, an appropriate building: Provided, that of the income for any one year not more than one-half may be employed for the purpose of making such lease or purchase or for erecting such building. It may appoint a librarian, assistants, and other employees, and prescribe rules for their conduct, and fix their compensation, and shall also have power to remove such appointees. It may also extend the privileges and use of such library to nonresidents upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe.

2697. Annual report of trustees. On or before the thirty-first day of December of each year the board of trustees shall make a report to the governing body of the city or town, stating the condition of their trust, the various sums of money received from the library fund and all other sources, and how much money has been expended; the number of books and periodicals on hand, the number added during the year, the number lost or missing, the number of books loaned out, and the general character of such books; the number of registered users of such library, with such other statistics, information, and suggestions as it may deem of general interest.

2698. Power to take property by gift or devise. With the consent of the governing body of the city or town, expressed by ordinance or resolution, and within the limitations of this article as to the rate of taxation, the library board may accept any gift, grant, devise, or bequest made or offered by any person for library purposes, and may carry out the conditions of such donations. And the city or town in all such cases is authorized to acquire a site, levy a tax, and pledge itself by ordinance or resolution to a perpetual compliance with all the terms and conditions of the gift, grant, devise, or bequest so accepted.

2699. Title to property vested in the city or town. All property given, granted, conveyed, donated, devised, or bequeathed to, or otherwise acquired by, any city or town for a library shall vest in and be held in the name of such city or town, and any conveyance, grant, donation, devise, bequest, or gift to or in the name of any public library board shall be deemed to have been made directly to such city or town.

1911, c. 83, s. 4.

2700. Library free. Every library established under this article shall be forever free to the use of the inhabitants of the city or town, subject to such reasonable regulations as the board of trustees may adopt.

1911, c. 83, s. 6.

2701. Ordinances for protection of library. The governing body of such city or town shall have power to pass ordinances imposing suitable penalties for the punishment of persons committing injury upon such library or the grounds or other property thereof, or for any injury to or for failure to return any book, plate, picture, engraving, map, magazine, pamphlet, or manuscript belonging to such library.

2702. Contract with existing libraries. The governing body of any city or town, when deemed best for the interest of the city or town, may, in lieu of supporting and maintaining a public library, enter into a contract with and make continuing appropriations of money to such library, associations or corporations as shall maintain a library or libraries, whose books shall be available without charge to the residents of such city or town, under such rules and regulations of said library associations or corporations as shall be approved by the governing body of such city or town. All money paid to such society or corporation under such contract shall be expended solely for the maintenance of such library, and for no other purpose. No city or town shall appropriate under this section in any year a total greater than one-fortieth of one per cent of the taxable value of such city or town according to the assessment of the previous year.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to abolish or abridge any power or duty conferred upon any public library established by virtue of any city or town charter or other special act, or to affect any existing local laws allowing or providing municipal aid to libraries.

1911, c. 83, ss. 9, 10; 1917, c. 215.

ART. 9. LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

2703. Explanation of terms. In this article the term "municipality" means any city or town in the state of North Carolina now or hereafter incorporated.

"Governing body" includes the board of aldermen, board of commissioners, council, or other chief legislative body of a municipality.

“Street improvement” includes the grading, regrading, paving, repaving, macadamizing and remacadamizing of public streets and alleys, and the construction, reconstruction and altering of curbs, gutters and drains in public streets and alleys.

“Sidewalk improvement” includes the grading, construction, reconstruction and altering of sidewalks in public streets or alleys, and may include curbing and gutters.

“Local improvement” means any work undertaken under the provisions of this article, the cost of which is to be specially assessed, in whole or in part, upon property abutting directly on the work.

“Frontage” when used in reference to a lot or parcel of land abutting directly on a local improvement, means that side or limit of the lot or parcel of land which abuts directly on the improvement.

1915, c. 56, s. 1.

2704. Application and effect. This article shall apply to all municipalities. It shall not, however, repeal any special or local law or affect any proceedings under any special or local law for the making of street, sidewalk or other improvements hereby authorized, or for the raising of funds therefor, but shall be deemed to be additional and independent legislation for such purposes and to provide an alternative method of procedure for such purposes, and to be a complete act, not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other public or private law or laws, except as herein otherwise provided.

General effect of statute explained: Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138. A special act will control which limits the power of a municipal corporation and is inconsistent with this statute: Bramham v. Durham, 171-196.

See subchapter 3, Municipal Finance Act.

2705. Publication of resolution or notice. Every resolution passed pursuant to this article shall be passed in the manner prescribed by other laws for the passage of resolutions. Whenever a resolution or notice is required by this article to be published, it shall be published at least once in a newspaper published in the municipality concerned, or, if there be no such newspaper, such resolution or notice shall be posted in three public places in the municipality for at least five days.

2706. When petition required. Every municipality shall have power, by resolution of its governing body, upon petition made as provided in the next succeeding section, to cause local improvements to be made and to defray the expense of such improvements by local assessment, by general taxation, and by borrowing, as herein provided. No petition shall be necessary, however, for the ordering or making of private water, sewer and gas connections as hereinafter provided. Nor shall a petition be necessary for the making of sidewalk improvements in those municipalities in which by other law or laws sidewalk improvements are authorized to be made without petition.

2707. What petition shall contain. The petition for a local improvement shall be signed by at least a majority in number of the owners, who must represent at least a majority of all the lineal feet of frontage of the lands (a majority in interest of owners of undivided interests in any piece of property to be deemed and treated as one person for the purpose of the petition) abutting upon the street or streets or part of a street or streets proposed to be improved. The petition shall cite this article and shall designate by a general description the local improvement to be undertaken and the street or streets or part thereof whereon the work is to be effected. The petition shall be lodged with the clerk of the municipality, who shall investigate the sufficiency thereof, submit the petition to the governing body, and certify the result of his investigation. The determination of the governing body upon the sufficiency of the petition shall be final and conclusive.

2708. What resolution shall contain:

1. Designate improvements. The preliminary resolution determining to make a local improvement shall, after its passage, be published. Such resolution shall designate by a general description the improvement to be made, and the street or streets or part or parts thereof whereon the work is to be effected, and the proportion of the cost thereof to be assessed upon abutting property and the terms and manner of the payment.

2. Sidewalk improvements. If such resolution shall provide for a sidewalk improvement, it may, in those municipalities in which the owners of the abutting property are required to make payment of the entire cost thereof, without petition direct that the owners of the property abutting on the improvement shall make such sidewalk improvement, and that unless the same shall be made by such owners on or before a day specified in the resolution, the governing body may cause such sidewalk improvement to be made.

3. Affecting railroads. If the resolution shall provide for a street improvement, it shall direct that any street railway company or other railroad company having tracks on the street or streets or part thereof to be improved shall make such street improvement, with such material and of such a character as may be approved by the governing body, in that part of such street or streets or part thereof which the governing body may prescribe, not to exceed, however, the space between the tracks, the rails of the tracks, and eighteen inches in width outside of the tracks of such company, and that unless such improvement shall be made on or before a day specified in such resolution, the governing body will cause such improvement to be made: Provided, however, that where any such company shall occupy such street or streets under a franchise or contract which otherwise provided, such franchise or contract shall not be affected by this section, except in so far as may be consistent with the provisions of such franchise or contract.

4. Water, gas and sewer connections. If the resolution shall provide for a street or sidewalk improvement, it may, but need not, direct that the owners of all property abutting on the improvement shall connect their several premises with water mains, gas and sewer pipes located in the street adjacent to their several premises in the manner prescribed in such resolution, and that unless such owners shall cause connection to be made on or before a day specified in such resolution, the governing body will cause the same to be made.

2709. Character of work and material. The governing body shall have power to determine character and type of construction and of material to be used in making a local improvement, and whether the work, where not done by owners of abutting property or by a street or other railroad company, shall be done by the forces of the municipality or by contract: Provided, that for the purposes of securing uniformity in the work the governing body shall always have the power to have all street paving done by the forces of the municipality or by contract under the provisions of this article.

2710. Assessments levied:

1. One-half on abutting property. One-half of the total cost of a street or sidewalk improvement made by a municipality, exclusive of so much of the cost as is incurred at street intersections and the share of railroads or street railways, shall be specially assessed upon the lots and parcels of land abutting directly on the improvements, according to the extent of their respective frontage thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage, unless the petition for such street or sidewalk improvement shall request that a larger proportion of such cost, specified in the petition, be so assessed, in which case such larger proportion shall be so assessed, and the remainder of such cost shall be borne by the municipality at large; but no assessment for streets and sidewalks shall be made against abutting property on any such street or sidewalk until said street or sidewalk has been definitely laid out and the boundaries of the same definitely fixed.

2. Upon railroads. The cost of that part of a street improvement required to be borne by a railroad or street railway company, and made by the municipality after default by a railroad or street railway company in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed against such company, and shall be collected in the same manner as assessments are collected from abutting property owners, and such assessment shall be a lien on all of the franchises and property of such railroad or street railway company.

3. For sidewalks. The entire cost of a sidewalk improvement required to be made by owners of property abutting thereon, and made by the municipality after default by such property owners in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed against the lots and parcels of land abutting on that side of the street upon which the improvement is made and directly on the improvement, according to their respective frontages thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage.

4. Water, gas and sewer connections. The entire cost of each water, gas and sewer connection, required to be made by the owner of the property for or in connection with which such connection was made, but made by the municipality after default by such property owner in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be specially assessed against the particular lot or parcel of land for or in connection with which it was made. No lands in the municipality shall be exempt from local assessment.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2711. Amount of assessment ascertained. Upon the completion of any local improvement the governing body shall compute and ascertain the total cost thereof. In the total cost shall be included the interest paid or to be paid on notes or certificates of indebtedness issued by the municipality to pay the expense of such improvement pursuant to the provisions of this article and incident to the improvement and assessment therefor. The governing body must thereupon make an assessment of such total cost pursuant to the provisions of the preceding section, and for that purpose must make out an assessment roll in which must be entered the names of the persons assessed as far as they can ascertain the same, and the amount assessed against them, respectively, with a brief description of the lots or parcels of land assessed.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2712. Assessment roll filed; notice of hearing. Immediately after such assessment roll has been completed, the governing body shall cause it to be deposited in the office of the clerk of the municipality for inspection by parties interested, and shall cause to be published a notice of the completion of the assessment roll, setting forth a description in general terms of the local improvement, and the time fixed for the meeting of the governing body for the hearing of allegations and objections in respect of the special assessment, such meeting not to be earlier than ten days from the first publication or posting of said notice. Any number of assessment rolls may be included in one notice.

2713. Hearing and confirmation; assessment lien. At the time appointed for that purpose, or at some other time to which it may adjourn, the governing body, or a committee thereof, must hear the allegations and objections of all persons interested, who appear and may make proof in relation thereto. The governing body may thereupon correct such assessment roll, and either confirm the same or may set it aside, and provide for a new assessment. Whenever the governing body shall confirm an assessment for a local improvement, the clerk of the municipality shall enter on the minutes of the governing body the date, hour, and minute of such confirmation, and from the time of such confirmation the assessments embraced in the assessment roll shall be a lien on the real property against which the same are assessed, superior to all other liens and encumbrances. After the roll is confirmed a copy of the same must be delivered to the tax collector or other officer charged with the duty of collecting taxes.

1915, c. 56, s. 9.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2714. Appeal to the superior court. If a person assessed is dissatisfied with the amount of the charge, he may give notice within ten days after such confirmation that he takes an appeal to the next term of the superior court of the county in which the municipality is located, and shall within five days thereafter serve a statement of facts upon which he bases his appeal, but the appeal shall not delay or stop the improvements. The appeal shall be tried at the term of court as other actions at law.

2715. Power to adjust assessments. The governing body may correct, cancel or remit any assessment for a local improvement, and may remit, cancel or adjust the interest or penalties on any such assessment. The governing body has the power, when in its judgment there is any irregularity, omission, error or lack of jurisdiction in any of the proceedings relating thereto, to set aside the whole of the local assessment made by it, and thereupon to make a reassessment. In such case there shall be included, as a part of the costs of the public improvement involved, all interest paid or accrued on notes or certificates of indebtedness, or assessment bonds issued by the municipality to pay the expenses of such improvement. The proceeding shall be in all respects as in case of local assessments, and the reassessment shall have the same force as if it had originally been properly made.

2716. Payment of assessment in cash or by installments. The property owner or railroad or street railway company hereinbefore mentioned shall have the option and privilege of paying for the improvements hereinbefore provided for in cash, or if they should so elect and give notice of the fact in writing to the municipality within thirty days after the notice mentioned in next succeeding section, they shall have the option and privilege of paying the assessments in not less than five nor more than ten equal annual installments as may have been determined by the governing body in the original resolution authorizing such improvement. Such installments shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll, and in case of the failure or neglect of any property owner or railroad or street railway company to pay any installment when the same shall become due and payable, then and in that event all of the installments remaining unpaid shall at once become due and payable and such property and franchises shall be sold by the municipality under the same rules, regulations, rights of redemption and savings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for unpaid taxes. The whole assessment may be paid at the time of paying any installment by payment of the principal and all interest accrued to that date.

2717. Payment of assessments enforced. After the expiration of twenty days from the confirmation of an assessment roll the tax collector or such other officer of the municipality as the governing body may direct so to do shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in the municipality, or if there be no such newspaper, shall cause to be posted in at least three public places therein, a notice that any assessment contained in the assessment roll, naming and describing it, may be paid to him at any time before the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of the notice without any addition. In the event the assessment be not paid within such time the same shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll and shall become due and payable on the date on which taxes are payable: Provided, that where an assessment is divided into installments one installment shall become due and payable each year on the date on which taxes are due and payable.

If any assessment or installment thereof is not paid when due, it shall be subject to the same penalties as are now prescribed for unpaid taxes, in addition to the interest herein provided for.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2718. Assessments in case of tenant for life or years. Whenever any real estate is in the possession or enjoyment of a tenant for life, or a tenant for a term of years, and an assessment is laid or levied on said property by any city, town, county, township, municipal district, or the state, to cover the cost of permanent improvements ordered put thereon by the law or the ordinances of such city or town, township, or municipal district, such as paving streets and sidewalks, laying sewer and water lines, draining lowlands, and permanent improvements of a like character, which constitute a lien upon such property, the amount so assessed for such purposes shall be paid by the tenant for life or for years, and the remaindermen after the life estate, or the owner in fee after the expiration of tenancy for a term of years, pro rata their respective interests in said real estate.

2719. Interests of parties ascertained. In calculating the respective interests of a tenant for life and the remainderman in fee, the duration of the life tenancy should be ascertained and the expectation of life of the tenant as is provided by law by the mortuary table, as near as may be justly and fairly done.

1911, c. 7, s. 2.

2720. Lien of party making payment. If the assessment, after same shall be laid or levied, shall all be paid by either the tenant for life or the tenant for a term of years, or by the remainderman, or the owner in fee, the party paying more than his pro rata share of the same shall have the right to maintain an action in the nature of a suit for contribution against the delinquent party to recover from him his pro rata share of such assessment, with interest thereon from the date of such payment, and be subrogated to the right of the city, town, township, municipal district, county, or the state, to a lien on such property for the same.

2721. Money borrowed to be paid out of assessment. At any time before the cost of any local improvement shall be computed and ascertained as provided in this article, the governing body may from time to time by resolution authorize the treasurer to borrow money to the extent required to pay the cost of any such improvement or to repay any money borrowed under this section with interest thereon. The resolution authorizing any such loan or loans may provide for the issue of notes or certificates of indebtedness of the municipality, or both, payable either on demand or at a fixed time, not more than six months from the date thereof, and bearing interest not exceeding six per centum per annum. Said notes or certificates may be sold at public or private sale, or pledged as security for temporary loans, as the governing body may by such resolution direct. Any temporary indebtedness incurred under the authority of this section, with the interest thereon, may be paid out of moneys raised by the issue and sale of "local improvement bonds" or "assessment bonds," or both, to be issued and sold as hereinafter provided, or may be included in the annual tax levy.

See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, ss. 2934, 2935.

2722. Assessment books prepared. After the governing body of the municipality has levied the assessment against the property abutting upon the street or streets, the city clerk or person designated shall prepare from such assessment roll and deliver to the tax collector or person designated a well bound book styled Special Assessment Book, which shall be so ruled as to conveniently show:

1. Name of owner of such property.
2. The number of lot or part of lot and the plan thereof if there be a plan.
3. The frontage of said lot.
4. The amount that has been assessed against such lot.
5. The amount of such installments and the day on which installments shall become due.

Such book shall be indexed according to the names of the owners of the property, and entries of all payments or partial payments shall be immediately entered upon said book when made, and said book shall be open to the inspection of any citizen of the municipality.

2723. Local improvement bonds issued. Whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been confirmed, the governing body may by resolution direct that the amount and proportion of the expense of such improvement which shall be borne by the municipality at large shall be raised by the issuance of bonds of the municipality to be known as "local improvement bonds." Such bonds shall be payable at such time or times, not exceeding thirty years from their date, as the governing body shall determine. There shall be raised annually by tax upon all the taxable property of the municipality, after the issuance of any such bonds, a sum sufficient to meet and pay the interest thereon as the same becomes due, and a sum to be paid into a sinking fund which will, together with the accumulations thereof, provide a fund sufficient to meet and pay the principal of said bonds at maturity: Provided, however, that if such bonds be made payable in annual installments substantially equal in amount, the first of which installments shall be payable within two years from the date of such bonds and the last within twenty years of such date, the governing body authorizing such bonds, in lieu of providing for a sinking fund to meet the principal of such bonds, shall cause to be raised by taxation in each year in which an installment of principal shall be payable, or in the next preceding year, an amount sufficient to meet said installment, in addition to the annual tax during the life of the bonds to provide for the payment of the interest accruing thereon. The municipality's share of two or more improvements may be included in a single issue of local improvement bonds.

1915, c. 56, s. 14.

See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, ss. 2939, 2940, 2941, 2959.

The fact that this indebtedness may ultimately be paid by the sale or collection of assessment bonds does not change its character as an indebtedness of the municipal corporation: Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Charlotte v. Trust Co., 159-388.

2724. Assessment bonds issued. Whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been confirmed, and twenty days have elapsed since the first publication of notice of such confirmation, the governing body may by resolution direct that the amount and proportion of the expense of such improvement which has been assessed upon the abutting property, or any part of such expense, shall be raised by the municipality by the issuance of its bonds, to be known as "assessment bonds." Such bonds shall be made payable in not less than five and not more than ten substantially equal annual installments, the last of which shall become due not less than five nor more than ten years after the issuance of the bonds. All moneys derived from the collection of assessments upon which assessment bonds are predicated, collected after the passage of the resolution authorizing such bonds, shall be placed in a special fund, to be used only for the payment of the principal and interest of assessment bonds issued under this section, and if at the time of the annual tax levy for any year in such municipality it shall appear that such fund will be for any cause insufficient to meet the principal and interest of such bonds maturing in such year, the amount of the deficiency shall be included in such tax levy. The amount of the assessments for two or more improvements may be included in a single issue of assessment bonds.

See Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Charlotte v. Trust Co., 159-388.

2725. Form of bonds; sale. Bonds authorized to be issued by this article shall be of such denomination, bear such rate of interest, not exceeding six per centum per annum, and be payable at such places, and be in such form as the governing body may by resolution provide. Such bonds shall be signed by the mayor or other chief executive officer, and the clerk of the municipality issuing them, and shall bear the seal of such municipality. Coupons attached to such bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of one or more of said officers. Such bonds may be either coupon bonds or registered bonds, or coupon bonds with the privilege of registration as to principal only, or of conversion into bonds registered as to both principal and interest. They may be sold at public or private sale, but for not less than their par value. They shall recite that they are issued pursuant to the authority of this article and of the resolution authorizing the issuance thereof, which shall be conclusive evidence of their validity and of the regularity of their issuance.

See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, ss. 2954, 2955.

2726. Power to provide for payment. The full faith and credit of a municipality shall be pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of all of its local improvement bonds, assessment bonds, notes and other obligations issued under this article. For the purpose of paying such principal and interest the governing body shall have power to levy sufficient taxes upon all the taxable property in the municipality and to borrow money temporarily upon notes of the municipality in anticipation of taxes of the same or the succeeding fiscal year.

1915, c. 56, s. 17.

See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, s. 2959.

2727. Bonds issued without popular vote validated. All bonds heretofore issued or proceedings taken by any city or town in substantial compliance with the provisions of this article are hereby validated, notwithstanding that the question of issuing bonds was not submitted to the voters of such city or town, and every such city or town is authorized to continue such proceedings to issue bonds or other obligations, as provided in this article, without submitting to the voters or taxpayers of such city or town the question of issuing such bonds.

See annotations under section 2691, "municipal bonds."

2728. Popular vote not required in certain cases. Notwithstanding anything contained in any law heretofore enacted, whether general, special, private, or local, it shall be lawful for any city or town to borrow money, contract debts, and issue bonds or other evidence of indebtedness for necessary expenses without the assent of the voters or taxpayers of such city or town, in all cases where the whole or at least one-fourth of the cost of the improvements or properties for which the money is borrowed, debt incurred, or bonds or other evidences of indebtedness issued, has heretofore been or is hereafter to be specially assessed upon abutting property or other property deemed benefited by the making of such improvement or the acquisition of such properties.

For general regulations as to issuing bonds, see subchapter III. Municipal Finance Act, and as affecting this article, see s. 2966.

See annotations under section 2691, "municipal bonds."

ART. 10. INSPECTION OF METERS

2729. Inspectors appointed. In every city or town in the state of North Carolina where is furnished, for pay, electricity, gas or water by meter measure, the governing body of the city or town may appoint some competent person to act as inspector of meters, whose duty it shall be to inspect and test such meters and to carry out the provisions of this article as herein provided.

2730. Time of appointment; oath, bond, and compensation. Such appointment, if made, shall be made at the first meeting in May of each year of such governing body, subject to the power of such city or town authorities to remove such appointee in the manner provided for the removal of its other appointees and to fill the vacancy caused by such removal. The compensation of such inspector shall be fixed and shall be paid by the city or town so appointing him, and such inspector shall upon his appointment take oath before the mayor of said city or town that he will faithfully perform the duties herein imposed upon him, and the governing body of the city or town may require the inspector to give bond in such sum as they may fix for the faithful discharge of his duties.

2731. Apparatus for testing meters provided. Every person, firm, corporation or municipality furnishing for pay electricity, gas or water by meter measure in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, shall provide and keep a suitable and proper apparatus for testing and proving the accuracy of the meters to be so furnished for use, by which apparatus all such meters shall be tested at their rated capacity.

For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2732. Meters tested before installed. No person, firm, or corporation or municipality furnishing for pay electricity, gas or water by meter measure shall hereafter furnish, install and put in use any such meter in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, until such meter shall first have been inspected and found correct by such inspector, and it shall be the duty of such inspector to test the same upon the written request of such proposed furnisher. No meter now in service shall be required to be taken out for test, except where there is doubt as to its accuracy and upon the written request of the consumer, as herein provided.

For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2733. Inspection made upon complaint. When any consumer, by meter, of electricity, gas or water in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, doubts the accuracy of such meter and desires to have the same tested, such consumer may file with the inspector of meters a written complaint of the meter and request that the same be tested, and shall at the same time deposit with the furnisher the sum of one dollar to cover the expense of taking out and replacing such meter, and thereupon it shall be the duty of such inspector as soon as practicable to accurately test said meter in the presence of and jointly with the authorized agent of the furnisher, and also in the presence of the complainant, if he so desires, and shall give to both the complainant and to the furnisher a written report of such test and the result thereof.

For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2734. Repayment of deposit. If upon such test the meter is found to be incorrect, in that it registers more than two and one-half per cent too fast—that is, more than two and one-half per cent more electricity, gas or water than it should, then and in that event the furnisher shall return to the complainant the one dollar deposit and shall promptly properly adjust and repair the meter or furnish a correctly adjusted meter; but if upon such test the meter shall not register more than two and one-half per cent too fast—that is, more than two and one-half per cent more than it ought to—the one dollar deposit shall be retained by the furnisher to cover the expense of taking out and replacing the meter.

For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2735. Adjustment of charges. If upon such test the meter shall register more than two and one-half per cent too fast, as above defined, the furnisher shall reimburse the complainant at the rate at which the meter registers too fast for a period of one month back; but if upon such test the meter shall be found to be incorrect, in that it registers more than two and one-half per cent too slow—that is, more than two and one-half per cent less electricity, gas or water than it should—then and in that event the complainant shall, in addition to the amount already charged him, pay at once to the furnisher at the rate at which the meter is too slow for a period of one month back, and the furnisher shall have the same rights for collecting such additional sum as is provided for the collecting of the past due and unpaid bills for electricity, gas or water, as the case may be.

Gas and electric light bills must show reading of meters, see Commerce and Business in State, s. 5082.

Ordinance authorizing city as owner of water system to use meters or flat rate charges: Richardson v. Greensboro, 174-540.

2736. Standard of accuracy. Any such meter having been tested and found to be not more than two and one-half per cent too slow nor more than two and one-half per cent too fast, as above defined, shall be considered correct, and such inspector shall so mark or stamp such meter and report the same to the governing body of the city or town.

2737. Free access to meters. Nothing in this article shall be so construed as to prevent any furnisher of electricity, gas or water from having free access to the meters.

1909, c. 150, s. 9.

ART. 11. REGULATION OF BUILDINGS

2738. Chief of fire department. There is hereby created in the incorporated cities and towns of the state, where not already established by their charters, the office of chief of fire department.

Rev., s. 4815; 1901, c. 677, s. 1.

2739. Election and compensation. The governing body of every incorporated city and town, when no provision is made in their charters for such office, shall elect a chief of fire department, fix his term of office, prescribe his duties and obligations, and see that he is reasonably remunerated by the city or town for the services required of him by law. They may change his duties and compensation from time to time, not inconsistent with the duties prescribed in this article. Where the governing body fails or neglects to perform such duty, the insurance commissioner shall call it to their attention and if necessary bring the matter before the proper court. Nothing herein may prevent any person elected hereunder from holding some other position in the government of the city or town.

Rev., ss. 2981, 4816; 1901, c. 677, s. 2; 1905, c. 506, s. 4; 1915, c. 192, s. 1.

This is a governmental function, and a failure on the part of the city to exercise it does not render it liable in damages: Harrington v. Greenville, 159-632.

2740. Duties of chief of fire department. The chief of the fire department shall perform the duties required of him by this article; where such duties are not prescribed by the charters or governing body of incorporated cities and towns, it shall be his duty to preserve and care for the fire apparatus, have charge of the fighting and putting out of all fires, make annual reports to the city municipal governments, seek out and have corrected all places and conditions dangerous to the safety of the municipality from fire, look after buildings being erected with a view to their safety from fires, and do and perform the other duties prescribed by the governing boards of the several municipalities.

Rev., ss. 4815, 4817; 1901, c. 677, ss. 1, 3.

2741. Local inspector of buildings. The chiefs of fire departments hereinbefore provided for shall also be local inspectors of buildings for the cities or towns for which they are appointed and shall perform the duties required herein and shall make all reports required by the insurance commissioner, and shall make all inspections and perform such duties as may be required by the state law or city or town ordinance or by the said insurance commissioner: Provided, however, that any city or town may appoint and reasonably remunerate a local inspector of buildings, in which case the chief of fire department shall be relieved of the duties herein imposed.

Rev., s. 2982; 1905, c. 506, s. 6; 1915, c. 192, s. 2.

2742. Town aldermen failing to appoint inspectors. If the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall fail or refuse to appoint a chief of the fire department, or shall fail or refuse to reasonably remunerate him, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town, where such city or town is by law exempt from the law regulating and controlling the erection and inspection of buildings.

Rev., s. 3607; 1905, c. 506, s. 4.

2743. Town officers; inspection of buildings. If any chief of any fire department or local inspector of buildings shall fail to perform the duties required of him by law or shall give a certificate of inspection without first making the inspection required by law, or shall improperly give a certificate of inspection, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3610; 1905, c. 506, s. 5; 1915, c. 192, s. 17.

2744. Electrical inspectors. The governing body of any incorporated city or town may in their discretion appoint an electrical inspector in addition to the building inspector, and when said electrical inspector is so appointed he shall do and perform all things herein set out for the building inspector to do and perform in regard to electrical wiring and certificates for same, and in such cases the building inspector shall be relieved of such duties.

Rev., s. 2983; 1905, c. 506, s. 33.

2745. Deputy inspectors. All duties imposed by this article upon the building inspector may be performed by a deputy appointed by such inspector.

Rev., s. 2984; 1905, c. 506, s. 32.

2746. Fire limits established. The governing body of all incorporated cities and towns shall pass ordinances establishing and defining fire limits, which shall include the principal business portion of the cities and towns.

Rev., s. 2985; 1905, c. 506, s. 7.

Towns by express grant of authority or under general welfare clause may impose fire limits: State v. Johnson, 114-846; State v. Lawing, 164-492; State v. Shannonhouse, 166-241.

2747. Punishment for failing to establish fire limits. If the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall fail or refuse to establish and define the fire limits for such town according to law, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to aldermen or commissioners of those towns which are exempt from the law governing the inspection of buildings.

Rev., s. 3608; 1905, c. 506, s. 7.

2748. Building permits. Before a building is begun the owner of the property shall apply to the inspector for a permit to build. This permit shall be given in writing and shall contain a provision that the building shall be constructed according to the requirements of the building law, a copy of which shall accompany the permit. As the building progresses the inspector shall make as many inspections as may be necessary to satisfy him that the building is being constructed according to the provisions of this law. As soon as the building is completed the owner shall notify the inspector, who shall proceed at once to inspect the said building and determine whether or not the flues and the building are properly constructed in accordance with the building law. If the building meets the requirements of the building law the inspector shall then issue to the owner of the building a certificate which shall state that he has complied with the requirements of the building law as to that particular building, giving description and locality and street number if numbered. The inspector shall keep his record so that it will show readily by reference all such buildings as are approved. The inspector shall report to the insurance commissioner every person neglecting to secure such permit and certificate, and also bring the matter before the mayor, recorder or municipal court for their attention and action.

Rev., s. 2986; 1905, c. 506, s. 26; 1915, c. 192, s. 3.

Reasonable regulations as to permits may be enforced: State v. Tenant, 110-609. Inspector may grant permits to repair: State v. Eubanks, 154-628. Mandamus may issue for granting a building permit, but the city is not liable in damages: Clinard v. Winston-Salem, 173-356.

2749. Material used in construction of walls. The walls of all buildings in cities or towns where this article applies, other than frame or wooden buildings, shall be constructed of brick, iron or other hard, incombustible material. All rules, regulations and requirements contained in the building law, or set out in this article in regard to the erection of buildings, or any part thereof, shall apply also where any building or walls, or any part thereof, is proposed to be raised, altered, repaired or added to, in order that the objects of the law may be accomplished and deficiencies and menaces to the safety of the city or town may not be made or perpetuated.

2750. Frame buildings within fire limits. Within the fire limits of cities and towns where this article applies, as established and defined, no frame or wooden building shall be hereafter erected, altered, repaired, or moved except upon the permit of the building inspector, approved by the insurance commissioner.

Rev., s. 2988; 1905, c. 506, s. 8; 1915, c. 192, s. 5.

See section 2748.

2751. Thickness of walls. The walls of warehouses, stores, factories, livery-stables, hotels or other brick or stone buildings for business purposes in cities or towns where this article applies, except fireproof buildings where the framework is of steel, shall conform to the following schedules:

HEIGHT OF BUILDING.	MINIMUM THICKNESS IN INCHES OF WALL.
	1st	2d	3d	4th	5th
One-story building -----	13	--	--	--	--
Two-story building -----	17	13	--	--	--

All top story walls must extend through and eighteen inches above the roof in parapets not less than thirteen inches thick and coped with terra-cotta, stone, cast-iron or cement. Upon written application approved by the building inspector the insurance commissioner may, where he deems it advisable, allow decreased thickness in walls of concrete, or in brick walls where such thickness is compensated for by pilasters. The roofs of all buildings named in this section shall be of metal, slate or tile or gravel or other standard fireproof roofing.

Rev., s. 2989; 1905, c. 506, s. 10; 1915, c. 192, s. 6.

No opening or doorway shall be cut through a party or fire wall of a brick or stone building without a permit from the inspector, and every such door or opening shall have top, bottom and sides of stone, brick or iron, shall be closed by two sets of standard metal-covered doors (separated by the thickness of the wall) hung to rabbeted iron frames or to iron hinges in brick or stone rabbets, shall not exceed ten feet in height by eight feet in width, and every opening other than a doorway shall be protected in a manner satisfactory to the inspector.

Rev., s. 2990; 1905, c. 506, s. 11.

2753. Metallic stand-pipes required. All business buildings being more than fifty-six feet high, covering an area of more than five thousand superficial feet, also all buildings exceeding eighty feet in height, shall have a four-inch or larger metallic stand-pipe within or near the front wall extending above the roof and arranged so that engine hose can be attached from the street, such riser to have two and one-half inch hose coupling on each floor. The building inspector may, with the approval of the insurance commissioner, allow two or more stand-pipes of smaller size and proper hose coupling, provided they are of such sizes and number as to be at least equivalent in service to the large stand-pipes required. All hose coupling shall conform to the size and pattern adopted by the fire department.

Rev., s. 2991; 1905, c. 506, s. 12; 1915, c. 192, s. 7.

2754. Construction of joists. The ends of joists or beams entering a brick wall shall be cut not less than three-inch bevel so as not to disturb the brickwork by any deflection or breaking of the joists or beams. All such joists or timbers entering a party or division wall from opposite sides shall have at least four inches of solid brickwork between the ends of such timbers or joists.

Rev., s. 2992; 1905, c. 506, s. 13.

2755. Chimneys and flues. All fireplaces and chimneys in stone or brick walls in any building hereafter erected and any chimneys or flues hereafter altered or repaired shall have the joints struck smooth on the inside, and the firebacks of all fireplaces hereafter erected shall be not less than eight inches in thickness of solid masonry, the chimney walls to be not less than four inches thick, the top of the chimney to extend not less than five feet above the roof for flat roofs and two feet above the ridge of any pitched roof. No woodwork or timber shall be placed under any fireplace or under the brickwork of any chimney. All floor beams, joists and headers shall be kept at least two inches clear of any wall enclosing a fire flue or chimney breast.

Rev., s. 2993; 1905, c. 506, s. 14.

2756. Chimneys not built on wood. No chimney shall be started or built upon a beam of wood or floor, the brickwork in all cases to start from the ground with proper foundation. In no case shall a chimney be corbeled out more than three inches from the wall, and in all cases corbeling shall consist of at least five courses of brick, the corbeling to start at least three feet below the bottom of the flue.

Rev., s. 2994; 1905, c. 506, s. 16.

2757. Construction of flues. All flues shall extend at least three feet above the roof and always above the comb of the roof, and shall be coped with well-burnt terra-cotta, stone, cast-iron or cement. In all buildings hereafter erected the stone or brickwork of all flues and the chimney shafts of all furnaces, boilers, bakers' ovens, large cooking ranges, and laundry stoves, and all flues used for similar purposes shall be at least eight inches in thickness, with the exception of smoke flues, which are lined with fire-clay lining or cast-iron. These may be four inches in thickness, but this shall not apply to metal stacks of boiler-houses where properly constructed and arranged at a safe distance from wood or other inflammable material. All buildings hereafter erected shall have smoke flues constructed either in walls of eight inches thickness or with smoke flues lined with cast-iron or fire-clay lining, the walls of which may be four inches in thickness, the lining to commence at the bottom of the flue or at the throat of the fireplace and be carried up continuously the entire height of the flue. All joints shall be closely fitted and the lining shall be built in as the flue or flues are carried up. All chimneys which shall be dangerous in any manner whatever shall be repaired and made safe or taken down.

This does not change the provisions of existing charters so as to empower the commissioners to increase their own salaries: Kendall v. Stafford, 178-461.

2789. Enumeration of powers not exclusive. The enumeration of particular powers by this act shall not be held or deemed to be exclusive; but in addition to the powers enumerated or implied therein, or appropriate to the exercise thereof, the city shall have and may exercise all other powers which under the constitution and laws of North Carolina now are or hereafter may be granted to cities. Powers proper to be exercised, and not specially enumerated herein, shall be exercised and enforced in the manner prescribed by this act; or when not prescribed herein, in such manner as shall be provided by ordinance or resolution of the governing body.

2790. Police power extended to outside territory. All ordinances, rules, and regulations of the city now in force, or that may hereafter be enacted by the governing body in the exercise of the police powers given to it for sanitary purposes, or for the protection of the property of the city, unless otherwise provided by the governing body, shall, in addition to applying to the territory within the city limits, apply with equal force to the territory outside of the city limits within one mile in all directions of same, and to the rights of way of all water, sewer, and electric light lines of the city without the corporate limits, and to the rights of way, without the city limits, of any street railway company, or extension thereof, operating under a franchise granted by the city, and upon all property and rights of way of the city outside the corporate limits and the above mentioned territorial limits, wheresoever the same may be located.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 2.

Police power may be extended beyond the corporate limits: State v. Rice, 158-635.

Part 2. Power to Acquire Property

2791. Acquisition by purchase. When in the opinion of the governing body of any city, or other board, commission, or department of the government of such city having and exercising or desiring to have and exercise the management and control of the streets, water, electric light, power, gas, sewerage or drainage systems, or other public utilities, parks, playgrounds, cemeteries, wharves, or markets, open-air or enclosed, which are or may by law be owned and operated or hereafter acquired by such city or by a separate association, corporation, or other organization on behalf and for the benefit of such city, any land, right of way, water right, privilege, or easement, either within or outside the city, shall be necessary for the purpose of opening, establishing, building, widening, extending, enlarging, maintaining, or operating any such streets, parks, playgrounds, cemetery, water, electric light, power, gas, sewerage or drainage systems, wharves, or other public utility so owned, operated, and maintained by or on behalf of any such city, such governing body, board, commission, or department of government of such city may purchase such land, right of way, water right, privilege, or easement from the owner or owners thereof and pay such compensation therefor as may be agreed upon.

See section 2623.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 4, s. 1; 1919, c. 262.

The method of procedure prescribed in the charter must be followed: Clinton v. Johnson, 174-286.

Part 3. Streets and Sidewalks

See section 2675 and annotations thereunder.

2794. Establish and control markets. The governing body of the city shall have power to provide for the establishment, maintenance, and regulation of open-air or enclosed markets and slaughter places; may prescribe the time and place of sale of fresh meats, fish, and other marketable products therein; may rent the stalls in such manner and at such prices as it may deem best; may appoint a keeper of the market or other persons, who may summarily condemn all unsound products offered for sale in the city for food, and cause the same to be removed at the expense of the person offering it for sale.

Part 5. Protection of Public Health

See sections 7067, 7068, 7069, 7070, 7071.

All expenses incurred by the city in disinfecting or caring for any person or persons, by authority of this section, may be recovered by it from the person, persons, or property cared for; and when expense is incurred in caring for property, the same shall become a lien on such property. Any person who shall attempt by force, or by threat of violence, to prevent his removal or that of any other persons to the pesthouse, house of detention, or hospital, or who shall in any way interfere with any officer while performing any of the duties allowed by this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

For exercise of such police power before enactment of this section, see Levin v. Burlington, 129-184; Prichard v. Comrs., 126-908; State v. Hay, 126-999; Hutchins v. Durham, 137-68.

The town is not liable for expenses paid by the county under the county quarantine officer: Comrs. v. Henderson, 163-114.

2797. Elect health officer. The governing body of any city may elect a health officer and create such other offices and employments as to them may seem right and proper, and fill the same and fix their compensation.

Town is not liable for injury to child caused by employee burning trash: Snider v. High Point, 168-608.

2800. Abate or remedy menaces to health. The governing body, or officer or officers who may be designated for this purpose by the governing body, shall have power summarily to remove, abate, or remedy, or cause to be removed, abated, or remedied, everything in the city limits, or within a mile of such limits, which is dangerous or prejudicial to the public health; and the expense of such action shall be paid by the person in default, and, if not paid, shall be a lien upon the land or premises where the trouble arose, and shall be collected as unpaid taxes.

See section 2676. Improper exercise of police power: Prichard v. Comrs., 126-908. An ordinance making expense for cleaning surface closets a charge upon the property is valid: Ratchford v. Gastonia, 177-375.

This is a governmental function, and the city is not liable for injury caused by defective appliance: Peterson v. Wilmington, 130-76. Where the city furnishes water for fire protection and no charge is made, the city is not liable for failure to furnish sufficient water pressure in case of fire: Howland v. Asheville, 174-749.

2802. Establish fire limits. The governing body may establish and maintain fire limits in the city, in which it shall be unlawful to erect, alter, and repair wooden buildings or structures or additions thereto; it may also prohibit the removal of wooden buildings or structures of any kind into such limits, or from one place to another within the limits, and make such other regulations as may be deemed best for the prevention and extinguishment of fires.

See section 2746.

2803. Regulate buildings. The governing body may make rules and regulations governing the erection and construction of buildings in the city so as to make them as safe as possible from fire.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 3.

City is not liable in damages for failure to have a building removed as a fire menace: Harrington v. Greenville, 159-632.

2804. Fire protection for property outside city limits. The governing body may provide, install, and maintain water mains, pipes, hydrants, and buildings and equipment, either inside or outside of the city limits, for protection against fire of property outside of the city limits, and within such area as the governing body may determine, not exceeding a boundary of two miles from the city limits, under such terms and conditions as the governing body may prescribe.

See section 4502.

Part 7. Sewerage

2805. Establish and maintain sewerage system. 1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 1.

In establishing a free public sewer system, the city is not liable for injury caused thereby except to property: Metz v. Asheville, 150-748; Little v. Lenoir, 151-415; Moser v. Burlington, 162-141; Donnell v. Greensboro, 164-330; Rhodes v. Durham, 165-679.

Part 8. Water and Lights

2807. Establish and maintain water and light plants. The city may own and maintain its own light and waterworks system to furnish water for fire and other purposes, and light to the city and its citizens, but shall in no case be liable for damages for a failure to furnish a sufficient supply of either water or light. And the governing body shall have power to acquire and hold rights of way, water rights, and other property, within and without the city limits.

See section 2691. No liability for failure to furnish sufficient pressure: Howland v. Asheville, 174-749.

2808. Fix and enforce rates. The governing body or such board or body which has the management and control of the waterworks system in charge shall fix such uniform rates for water as is deemed best. Such body shall fix the times when the water rents shall become due and payable, and in case such rent is not paid within ten days after it becomes due and payable, the same may at any time thereafter be collected either by suit in the name of the city or by the collector of taxes for the city. Upon the failure of the owner of property for which water is furnished under the rules and regulations of such body to pay the water rents when due, then the body, or its agents or employees, may cut off the water from such property; and when so cut off it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, other than the body or its agents or employees, to turn on the water to such property, or to use the same in connection with the property, without first having paid the water rent and obtained permission to turn on the water.

2809. Separate accounts for water system. It shall be the duty of the governing body to keep a separate statement and account of the money received by the city from the waterworks system, and it shall be the duty of the said body to give preference to the waterworks system over the other departments of the city in such funds, and to provide for the proper upkeep of the waterworks system and an amount necessary for the enlargement of the waterworks system before turning over to the other departments the money so received.

Part 9. Care of Cemeteries

2810. Care fund established. The governing body is authorized to create a fund to be known as the perpetual care fund for the cemeteries, for the purpose of perpetually caring for and beautifying the cemeteries, and such fund shall be kept by the city as is provided for bequests and gifts for cemetery purposes; and the governing body may make contracts with lot or space owners in the cemeteries, obligating the city to keep up and maintain said lots or spaces in perpetuity upon payment of such sum as may be fixed by the governing body; and the governing body is further authorized and empowered to accept gifts and bequests for such purposes, or upon such other trusts as the donors may prescribe; and the governing body is authorized to set aside for such perpetual care fund an amount not exceeding twenty-five per cent of the proceeds of sale of cemetery lots.

2811. Application of fund. The principal of the funds appropriated by the governing body for caring for the cemeteries shall be held by the governing body for caring for and beautifying the cemeteries and improving the same. The income from the fund heretofore or hereafter made shall be used for the purpose of carrying out contracts with the individual or space owners for the perpetual care of individual plats and spaces. Any gifts heretofore or hereafter made to and received by the city or any of its officers shall be held and used as a sacred trust fund for the purposes and upon the conditions named in such gifts or bequests, and all such funds shall be kept and invested separately and shall not be used for any other purpose, or by the city in its affairs.

2812. Separate accounts kept. The city treasurer shall keep a separate account of the cemetery funds, and a still further separate account of all special gifts or bequests made by persons for and in connection with the cemeteries and particular lots therein. The governing body has the power to make rules and regulations and adopt ordinances for the carrying out of the duties imposed by this and the two preceding sections in regard to the care of cemeteries.

Part 10. Municipal Taxes

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 2.

See, also, Taxation, Art. 6, Part 3.

See sections 2677-2682.

2814. Unlisted taxables entered. The officer who has charge of the collection of taxes in any city shall, after the most diligent inquiry, and by comparing his book with the county tax books, make out a list of all persons liable for poll tax, or for taxes on property, who have failed to return a list in the manner and in the time prescribed, together with the estimated value of all the property not listed, and shall enter such persons in a separate part of his book.

See sections 7923-7925.

2815. Lien of taxes. The lien for taxes levied for any and all purposes in each year shall attach to all the real estate of the taxpayers within the city on the first day of May annually, and shall continue until such taxes, with any penalty and costs which shall accrue thereon, shall be paid. But there shall be no lien for taxes on the personal property of the taxpayer but from a levy thereon.

See sections 7986-7991.

2816. Power and duties of tax collector. The officer who has charge of the collection of taxes in any city shall, in the collection of taxes, be vested with the same power and authority as is given by the state to sheriffs for like purpose, and shall be subject to the same fines and penalties on failure or neglect of duty.

It shall be his duty to collect all taxes levied by the governing body, and he shall be charged with the sums appearing on the tax list as due for city taxes. He shall at no time retain in his hands over three hundred dollars for a longer time than seven days, under a penalty of ten per cent per month to be paid to the city upon all sums so unlawfully retained.

See Taxation, art. 13, sec. 7992 et seq.

2817. Settlement with tax collector. In settlement with the city the tax collector shall be credited with all poll taxes and taxes on personal property which the governing body shall declare to be insolvent and uncollectible, and with such amounts as may be involved in suit by appeal from the ruling of the board, and he shall be charged with and shall pay over all other sums appearing on the tax list. After the accounts of the tax collector shall be audited and settled, the same shall be reported to the governing body, and when approved by it the same shall be recorded in the minute book of such body, and shall be prima facie evidence of correctness, and impeachable only for fraud or specified error.

2818. Bond of tax collector and other officers. The governing body of the city shall require of the tax collector of the city, and any and all officers and employees, such bonds as it may deem necessary, and may pay the expenses of providing such bonds, including the bond of the mayor.

He shall have such powers and perform such duties as the governing body may from time to time prescribe in addition to such duties as may be prescribed by law. He shall keep the records of the meetings. The person holding the office of city clerk at the time when any of

2. Departments may be abolished. In all cities except those which have adopted Plan C or Plan D, hereafter set forth, before the governing body shall have control or management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation, the governing body of the city, by two-thirds vote taken at two separate regular meetings of such governing body, shall pass an ordinance to the effect that the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation, or either of them, shall be abolished and the control and management shall be under the governing body of the city.

4. Same procedure in other cases. There shall be the same procedure with reference to the library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system by the governing body of all cities which shall have adopted Plan C or Plan D before such control and title shall become vested as hereinbefore stated.

5. Popular vote required. In all cities, except those which have adopted Plan C or Plan D, hereafter set forth, before the foregoing provisions of this section shall become effective, such changes in the control and management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage, etc., shall first be approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such municipality at any regular or special election held under the provisions of this act.

2835. Additional property acquired. The governing body of any city shall have power to acquire such additional property as it may deem necessary for a better system of waterworks, electric light, sewerage, library, park or parks, or other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city. Upon the adoption by the governing body of any city of any one of the plans of government provided for in this act, the laws now in force in reference to the waterworks, electric light, sewerage, parks, libraries, or other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city, shall not be repealed by this act, but shall be construed with this act and only repealed in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

Part 6. Effect Upon Existing Regulations

2836. Existing rights and obligations not affected. All official bonds, recognizances, obligations, contracts, and all other instruments entered into or executed by or to the city before this act takes effect in any city, and all taxes, special assessments, fines, penalties, forfeitures incurred or imposed, due or owing to the city, shall be enforced and collected, and all writs, prosecutions, actions and causes of action, except as is herein otherwise provided, shall continue without abatement and remain unaffected by this act; and no legal act done by or in favor of the city shall be rendered invalid by its adoption of any plan of government provided for by this act.

In all respects, as far as the nature of the city's business permits, the accounting systems maintained shall conform to those employed by progressive business concerns and approved by the best usage. 2841. Coöperation through board of control. The board of municipal control shall investigate what amount of cost will be required to employ expert accountants to devise proper uniform accounting systems for municipalities, and shall submit to each city a statement of the cost thereof and attempt to obtain coöperation among as many of the cities of the state as possible in the payment of the cost of such systems; and in case a satisfactory arrangement can be made by such cities for the payment of such costs, then the board of municipal control shall employ such expert accountants for such purpose, and the governing body of each of the cities in the state shall have power to pay its proportion of the cost thereof and install such system.

Part 2. Manner of Adoption

2848. Form of petition. The petition shall be in substantially the following form:

To the County Board of Elections of _____ County:

We, the undersigned qualified voters of the city, respectfully petition your honorable body to cause to be submitted to a vote of the voters of the city of _____ the following question: "Shall the city of _____ adopt the form of government defined as Plan (A, B, C, or D), as it is desired by petitioners and consisting of (describe plan briefly, as government by a mayor and councilors elected at large, or government by a mayor and councilors elected partly at large and partly from wards or districts, or government by three commissioners, one of whom shall be the mayor, or government by a mayor and four councilors with a city manager), according to the provisions of the chapter, Municipal Corporations, in the Consolidated Statutes, articles nineteen to twenty-three, inclusive.

Or, in case it shall be desired by such petitioners that two of such plans shall be submitted, then the question may be stated as follows:

Shall the city of _____ adopt the form of government defined as Plan _____ or _____ (naming two of such plans as stated above), or remain under the present form of government?

The petition may be in the form of separate sheets, each sheet containing at the top thereof the heading above set forth, and when attached together and offered for filing the several papers shall be deemed to constitute one petition, and there shall be endorsed thereon the name and address of the person presenting the same for filing.

2849. Election held. Within five days after the petition has been filed with the county board of elections, if the petition shall contain twenty-five per cent of the qualified voters as before set forth, the board of elections shall call an election in accordance with such petition. The board of elections shall cause notice of such election to be given at least once a week for four weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the election is to be held, or at the courthouse door of the county in which the city is situated or at the door of the city or town hall, and the date of such election shall be fixed by the board not later than forty days from the receipt of such petition. The notice shall be signed by the chairman of the county board of elections, and the cost of publication thereof paid by the city. The election shall be held under, and governed and controlled by, the laws in force at the time of such election governing regular elections of such city.

2850. Petitions for more than one plan. Separate petitions for the submission of more than one of such plans may be filed in the form and manner hereinbefore provided, but if petitions for the submission of more than two of such plans shall be submitted at such election, those two plans shall be submitted at the election, petitions for which shall be first filed with the county board of elections.

2851. What the ballots shall contain. All ballots used in elections held upon the adoption of the plans of government herein set forth shall contain the name of the plan submitted, as Plan A, B, C, or D, or any two of such plans submitted, as the case may be, with a brief description of each plan submitted, as described in the petition, and shall also contain the existing form of government under the name "present form of government." The names of the plans and forms shall be so printed that in appropriate squares the voter may designate by a cross (X) mark only the plan or form of government for which he casts his vote; if there shall be only one plan submitted, the letter and description of such plan and the "present form of government" only shall appear, and the voter shall express his preference between such plan and the "present form of government." If there shall be two plans submitted, then each of the plans shall be denominated and described on the ballot as herein set forth, and the "present form of government" shall also appear upon the ballot, and the ballot shall be so printed that in appropriate squares the voter may designate by a cross (X) mark only the plan or form of his first choice and the plan and form of his second choice.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 10.

2852. Form of ballots. Except that the crosses here shown shall be omitted, the ballots shall be printed substantially as follows:

(Form of ballot when two plans are submitted:)

SPECIAL MUNICIPAL ELECTION

To vote for any plan or form of government, make a cross in the appropriate square to the right of the name of such plan or form.

Note your first choice in the first column.
 Note your second choice in the second column.

	First Choice.	Second Choice.
PLAN _____ (with brief description).	X
PLAN _____ (with brief description).		X
PRESENT FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

2853. Series of ballots. The plans and forms on all ballots shall be printed in rotation as follows: The ballots shall be printed in as many series as there are plans or forms. The whole number of ballots to be printed shall be divided by number of series and the quotient so obtained shall be the number of ballots in each series. In printing the first series of ballots the names of each plan or form shall be arranged in the alphabetical order of the letters of the plans submitted, followed by the "present form of government." After printing the first series, the first plan or form shall be placed last and the next series printed, and the process shall be so repeated until each plan shall have been printed first an equal number of times. The ballots so printed shall be then combined in tablets or packages so as to have the fewest possible ballots having the same order of plans or forms printed thereon together in the same tablet or package.

2854. How choice determined:

1. One plan submitted. If only one of the plans herein set forth and the "present form of government" are submitted, the plan or form of government receiving a majority of the votes cast shall be declared the plan or form selected.

2. More than one plan submitted. If two of the plans herein set forth and the "present form of government" are submitted, the plan or form receiving a majority of first choice votes equal to a majority of all the ballots cast shall be declared the plan or form selected. If no plan or form shall receive such a majority, then the second choice votes received for each plan or form shall be added to its first choice votes, and the plan or form receiving the highest total of first and second choice votes equal to a majority of all ballots cast shall be declared the plan or form selected.

3. How ballots are counted. In counting the ballots, if two plans and the "present form of government" are submitted, the precinct officers shall enter the total number of ballots on a tally-sheet printed therefor. They shall also carefully enter on such sheet the number of first choice and second choice votes for each plan or form of government. Only one vote shall be counted for any one plan or form on any one ballot. If two votes are cast for the same plan or form, the higher choice only shall be counted. If but one choice is voted on a ballot, it shall be counted as a first choice. If more than one cross appears in the same choice column on any ballot, they shall be counted as choices with priority as between each other in the order in which they appear in the choice column. Ballots marked with more than two crosses shall be declared void. A tie between two or more plans or forms shall be decided in favor of the one having the largest number of first choice votes.

Part 3. Result of Adoption

2855. Plan to continue for two years. The oath may be administered by the city clerk or by any justice of the peace, and a certificate that such oath has been taken shall be entered on the journal of the city council. a. Pass such ordinance without alteration within twenty days after attachment of the clerk's certificate to the accompanying petition, or

b. After the clerk shall attach to the petition accompanying such ordinance his certificate of sufficiency, the board of commissioners shall forthwith submit the question to the qualified voters at a special election called for that purpose, or to a general election occurring within ninety days after the date of the clerk's certificate. If the petition is signed by not less than ten and less than twenty-five per cent of the electors as above defined, then the board of commissioners shall within twenty days pass such ordinance without change or submit the same at the next general city election.

3. Popular vote taken. The ballots used when voting upon such ordinance shall contain these words: "For the Ordinance" (stating the nature of the proposed ordinance) and "Against the Ordinance" (stating the nature of the proposed ordinance). If the majority of the qualified electors voting on the proposed ordinance shall vote in favor thereof, such ordinance shall thereupon become a valid and binding ordinance of the city; and any ordinance proposed by petition, or which shall be adopted by a vote of the people, cannot be repealed or amended except by a vote of the people. Any number of proposed ordinances may be voted upon at the same election, in accordance with the provisions of this section, but there shall not be more than one special election in any period of six months for such purpose.

4. Proposition for repeal. The board of commissioners may submit a proposition for the repeal of any such ordinance, or for amendments thereto, to be voted upon at any succeeding general election; and should any such proposition so submitted receive a majority of the votes cast thereon at such election, such ordinance shall thereby be repealed or amended accordingly.

2. How primaries held. The primary election for such nominations shall be held on the second Monday preceding all general municipal elections. The judges and other officers of election appointed for the general municipal election shall, whenever practicable, be the judges of the primary election, and it shall be held at the same place and in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations and subject to the same conditions, and the polls to be opened and closed at the same hours, as are required for the general election.

5. Ballots prepared. The clerk shall thereupon cause the primary ballots to be printed, authenticated with a facsimile of his signature. Upon the ballot the names of the candidates for mayor, arranged alphabetically, shall be placed, with a square at the left of each name, and immediately below the words, "vote for one." Following the names, likewise arranged in alphabetical order, shall appear the names of the candidates for the commissioners of the two other departments, respectively, with a square at the left of each name, and below the names of such candidates for each of the departments shall appear the words, "vote for one." Like provision shall be made for the names of candidates for each other elective office provided by law. The ballots shall be printed upon plain, substantial white paper, and shall be headed: "Candidates for nomination for mayor and commissioners of two other offices (naming them), of the city of -----, North Carolina, at the primary election," but shall have no party designation or mark whatever.

8. Who entitled to vote. The persons who are qualified to vote at the succeeding municipal election shall be qualified to vote at such primary election, and shall be subject to challenge made by any resident of the city, under such rules as may be prescribed by the board of commissioners, and such challenge shall be passed upon by the judges of election and registrars: Provided, however, that the law applicable to challenge at a general municipal election shall be applicable to challenge made at such primary election.

9. Ballots counted. Judges of election shall, immediately upon the closing of the polls, count the ballots and ascertain the number of votes cast in such precincts for each of the candidates, and make return thereof to the city clerk, upon blanks to be furnished by the clerk, within six hours of the closing of the polls.

10. Returns canvassed. On the day following the primary election the city clerk, under the supervision and direction of the mayor, shall canvass such returns so received from all the polling precincts, and shall make and publish in some newspaper of general circulation in the city, at least once, the result thereof. The canvass by the city clerk shall be publicly made.

11. Who to be candidates. The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for mayor, and the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for commissioners for each of the respective departments, and the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for any other elective office, shall be the candidates, and the only candidates whose names shall be placed upon the ballot for mayor, commissioners, and other elective offices at the next succeeding general municipal election.

2885. Recall of officials by the people:

1. Who may be removed. The holder of any elective office may be removed at any time by the electors qualified to vote for a successor of such incumbent.

2. Petition filed and verified. The procedure to effect the removal of an incumbent of an elective office shall be as follows: A petition signed by electors entitled to vote for a successor to the incumbent sought to be removed, equal in number to at least twenty-five per centum of the entire vote for all candidates for the office of mayor cast at the last preceding general municipal election, demanding an election of a successor of the person sought to be removed, shall be filed with the clerk, which petition shall contain a general statement of the ground for which the removal is sought. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number. One of the signers of each such paper shall make oath before an officer competent to administer oaths that the statements therein made are true, as he believes, and that each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

3. Clerk to examine and certify sufficiency. Within ten days from the date of filing such petition the city clerk shall examine and from the voters' register ascertain whether or not the petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, and he shall attach to the petition his certificate, showing the result of such examination. If by the clerk's certificate the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be amended within ten days from the date of the certificate. The clerk shall, within ten days after such amendment, make like examination of the amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficient, it shall be returned to the person filing the same; without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be deemed to be sufficient, the clerk shall submit the same to the board of commissioners without delay.

4. Board to order primary. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the board of commissioners shall order and fix a date for holding a primary, as provided in cases preceding regular elections, the primary to be held not less than ten days or more than twenty days from the date of the clerk's certificate to the board of commissioners that a sufficient petition is filed. If in the primary election any candidate receives a majority of all the votes cast, he shall be declared to be elected to fill out the remainder of the term of the officer who is sought to be recalled. If there be more than two candidates in such primary and no one received a majority of all the votes cast therein, then there shall be an election held within twenty days from the date of the primary, at which election the two candidates receiving the highest vote in the primary shall be voted for. Candidates' names shall be placed on the ticket in the primary and election held, and the results canvassed, under the same rules, conditions, and regulations as are prescribed for the primaries preceding regular elections. The board of commissioners shall make or cause to be made publication for ten days of notice and all arrangements for holding such election, and the same shall be conducted, returned, and the results thereof declared in all respects as other city elections.

5. Candidate elected succeeds to office. The successor of any officer so removed shall hold office during the unexpired term of his predecessor. Any person sought to be removed may be a candidate to succeed himself, and unless he requests otherwise in writing, the clerk shall place his name on the official ballot without nomination. At such election, if some other person than the incumbent is elected, the incumbent shall thereupon be deemed removed from the office upon qualification of his successor.

6. Vacancy filled. In case the party elected should fail to qualify within ten days after receiving notification of election, the office shall be deemed vacant, and in that event the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the board, but the commissioner removed shall not be eligible to election by the board, and the person so elected by the board shall be subject to recall as other commissioners. If the incumbent receives a majority of votes in the primary election he shall continue his office.

7. Application of method of removal. Such method of removal shall be cumulative and additional to any other method provided by law. In the event any officer is recalled and any person is elected as his successor, the right of recall of such successor so elected shall be as in case of an officer originally elected.

2886. Salaries of officers. The mayor and commissioners shall have offices at the city hall. The number of inhabitants shall be determined by the last United States government census or estimate. Every other officer, agent, employee, and assistant of the city government shall receive such salary or compensation as the board of commissioners shall by ordinance provide, payable in equal monthly installments, unless the board shall order payments to be made at nonpayment intervals.

The petition shall contain a request to the governing body of the municipality to submit to the qualified electors thereof the amendment, repeal, or adoption as therein stated, either at a regular election or at a special election to be called for that purpose. It shall thereupon be the duty of the clerk of such municipality to examine the petition for the purpose of ascertaining whether the same has been signed by the required number of qualified electors of the municipality, and the clerk shall certify to the governing body the result of his investigation.

2. Submitted to vote. Upon such certificate, it shall be the duty of the governing body to provide for submission to a vote of the amendment, repeal, or adoption proposed in the petition, either at a regular election or at a special election to be called for that purpose, and if the amendment, repeal, or adoption shall be approved by a majority of the votes cast, as hereinbefore provided, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall become effective.

Such loans shall be paid not later than the tenth day of October in the next succeeding fiscal year. Provision shall be made in the annual budget and annual appropriation ordinance of each fiscal year for the payment of all unpaid loans predicated upon the taxes and revenues of the previous fiscal year.

Such loans shall be paid not later than the end of such next succeeding fiscal year. In the event, however, that a judgment against a municipality amounts to more than two cents per hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of taxable property of the municipality for the year in which taxes were last levied before the recovery of the judgment, a loan to pay the judgment may be made payable in not more than five substantially equal annual installments, beginning within one year after the loan is made.

At any time after a bond ordinance has taken effect as provided in article 26 herein, a municipality may borrow money for the purposes for which the bonds are to be issued, in anticipation of the receipt of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, and within the maximum authorized amount of the bond issue. Such loans shall be paid not later than three years after the time of taking effect of the ordinance authorizing the bonds upon which they are predicated. The governing body may, in its discretion, retire any such loans by means of current revenues, special assessments, or other funds, in lieu of retiring them by means of bonds: Provided, however, that the governing body, before the actual retirement of any such loan by any means other than the issuance of bonds under the bond ordinance upon which such loan is predicated, shall amend or repeal such ordinance so as to reduce the authorized amount of the bond issue by the amount of the loan to be so retired. Such an amendatory or repealing ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and need not be published.

2935. Notes issued for temporary loans. Notes shall be issued for all moneys borrowed under the last two sections. Such notes may be renewed from time to time, but all such renewal notes shall mature within the time limited by said sections for the payment of the original loan. They may be disposed of by public or private negotiations. No money shall be borrowed under said sections at a rate of interest exceeding six per centum per annum. The issuance of such notes shall be authorized by resolution of the governing body, which shall fix the actual or maximum face amount of the notes and the actual or maximum rate of interest to be paid upon the amount borrowed. The governing body may delegate to the financial officer or to the chief executive officer the power to fix said face amount and rate of interest within the limitations prescribed by said resolution, and the power to dispose of said notes. All such notes shall be executed in the manner provided in section 2954 of this subchapter in relation to bonds. They shall be submitted to and approved by the attorney for the municipality before they are issued, and his written approval endorsed on the notes.

ART. 26. PERMANENT FINANCING

2936. Not applied to temporary loans. The provisions of this article shall not apply to temporary loans made under article twenty-five.

1917, c. 138, s. 15; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (15).

2937. For what purposes bonds may be issued. A municipality may issue its bonds for any one or more of the following purposes:

1. To pay for any public improvement or property which it may lawfully make or acquire, or for the making or acquisition of which it may lawfully pay money, except current expenses.

2. To fund or refund a debt of the municipality incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, which is payable at the time of passage of the ordinance authorizing bonds to fund or refund such debt, or to become payable within one year thereafter, or which, though payable more than one year thereafter, is to be canceled prior to its maturity and simultaneously with the issuance of the bonds to fund or refund such debt.

3. For any other purpose which it may lawfully undertake or for which it is authorized by law to raise money, except the payment of current expenses.

2938. Ordinance for bond issue:

1. Ordinance required. All bonds of a municipality shall be authorized by an ordinance passed by the governing body.

2. What ordinance must show. The ordinance shall state:

a. In brief and general terms the purpose for which the bonds are to be issued;

b. The maximum aggregate principal amount of the bonds;

c. That a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds shall be annually levied and collected;

d. That a statement of the debt of the municipality has been filed with the clerk pursuant to this act and is open to public inspection;

e. The average assessed valuation of property subject to taxation by the municipality for the three fiscal years in which taxes were last levied, as shown by said statement;

f. The amount of the net debt of the municipality outstanding, authorized or to be authorized, as shown by said statement;

g. One of the following provisions:

(1) If the bonds are for funding or refunding debts incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, or for local improvements of which at least one-fourth of the cost, exclusive of the cost of paving at street intersections, has been or is to be specially assessed, that the ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and shall not be submitted to the voters; or,

(2) If the bonds are for a purpose other than the payment of necessary expenses, or if the governing body, although not required to obtain the assent of the voters before issuing the bonds, deems it advisable to obtain such assent, that the ordinance shall take effect when approved by the voters of the municipality at an election as provided in this act; or,

(3) In any other cases, that the ordinance shall take effect thirty days after its first publication (or posting), unless in the meantime a petition for its submission to the voters is filed under this act, and that in such event it shall take effect when approved by the voters of the municipality at an election as provided in this act.

3. When the ordinance takes effect. A bond ordinance shall take effect at the time and upon the conditions indicated therein. If the ordinance provides that it shall take effect upon its passage, no vote of the people shall be necessary for the issuance of the bonds.

4. Need not specify location of improvement. In stating the purpose of a bond issue, a bond ordinance need not specify the location of any improvement or property, or the kind of pavement or other material to be used in the construction or reconstruction of streets, highways, sidewalks, curbs, or gutters, or the kind of construction or reconstruction to be adopted for any building for which the bonds are to be issued. A description in a bond ordinance of a property or improvement, substantially in the language employed in section 2942 of this subchapter to describe such a property or improvement, shall be a sufficiently definite statement of the purpose for which the bonds authorized by the ordinance are to be issued.

2940. Bonds may be divided into two classes and separate issues. In the case of bonds for local improvements, the governing body may, in its discretion, divide the bonds into two classes, and into two or more separate issues, one of which classes of bonds shall be designated local improvement bonds, or by some other suitable name, and treated as being for the purpose of paying the municipality's actual or estimated share of the cost of the local improvements, and the other class shall be designated assessment bonds, or by some other suitable name, and treated as being for the purpose of paying the actual or estimated share of such cost which has been or is to be specially assessed, in anticipation of the collection of special assessments: Provided, however, that all such bonds shall be general and unconditional obligations of the municipality, payable primarily by general taxes. In any event, in the case of bonds for local improvements, the governing body shall, either in the bond ordinance or in a subsequent resolution passed before any of the bonds are issued, determine the amount of the bonds which are to be treated as being for the purpose of paying that portion, actual or estimated, of the cost of the improvements which has been or is to be assessed, or, in other words, shall determine the amount of the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection of special assessments. Whenever it is practicable so to do, local improvements should be financed in the first instance by means of temporary loans contracted in anticipation of the issuance of bonds, and the bonds should not be issued until the amount of the special assessments is definitely known and the property owners have had an opportunity to pay their assessments. The provisions of the last sentence are directory, and not mandatory.

2941. Ordinance and bond issue, when petition required. In cases where a petition of property owners is required by law for the making of local improvements, a bond ordinance authorizing bonds for such local improvements may be passed before any such petition is made, but no bonds for the local improvements in respect of which such petitions are required shall be issued under the ordinance, nor shall any temporary loan be contracted in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds, unless and until such petitions are made, and then only up to the actual or estimated amount of the cost of the work petitioned for. The determination of the governing body as to the actual or estimated cost of work so petitioned for shall be conclusive in any action involving the validity of bonds or notes or other indebtedness. The bond ordinance may be made to take effect upon its passage, notwithstanding that the necessary petitions for the local improvements have not been filed: Provided, that it appears upon the face of the ordinance that one-fourth or some greater proportion of the cost, exclusive of the cost of work at street intersections, has been or is to be assessed.

1919, c. 178, s. 3 (17).

2942. Determining periods for bonds to run:

1. How periods estimated. Either in the bond ordinance or in a resolution passed after the bond ordinance, but before any bonds are issued thereunder, the governing body shall, within the limits prescribed by subsection 3 of this section, determine and declare—

a. The probable period of usefulness of the improvement or property or class of improvements or properties for which the bonds are to be issued; or,

b. If the bonds are to be issued in anticipation of the collection of special assessments, the probable period at the end of which the last installment of the assessments will have been in arrears for two years, but not exceeding a period of fifteen years; or,

c. If the bonds are to be issued for funding or refunding a debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, either the shortest period in which the debt can be finally paid without making it unduly burdensome upon the taxpayers of the municipality or, at the option of the governing body, the probable unexpired period of usefulness of the improvement or property for which the debt was incurred; or,

d. In the case of a consolidated bond issue comprising bonds authorized by different ordinances for different purposes, and in the case of a bond issue covering both the municipality's share and the property owners' share of the cost of a local improvement, the governing body, besides determining the several periods required to be determined as aforesaid, shall determine the average of the different periods so determined, taking into consideration the amount of bonds to be issued on account of each purpose or item in respect of which a period is determined.

The period required to be determined as aforesaid shall be computed from a date not more than one year after the time of passage of any bond ordinance authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The determination of any such period by the governing body shall be conclusive.

2. Maturity of bonds. The bonds must mature within the period determined as aforesaid, or, if several different periods are so determined, then within said average period.

3. Periods of usefulness. In determining, for the purpose of this section, the probable period of the usefulness of an improvement or property, the governing body shall not deem said period to exceed the following periods for the following improvements and properties, respectively, viz.:

- a. Sewer systems (either sanitary or surface drainage), forty years.
- b. Water supply systems, or combined water and electric light systems, or combined water, electric light, and power systems, forty years.
- c. Gas systems, thirty years.
- d. Electric light and power systems, separate or combined, thirty years.
- e. Plants for the incineration or disposal of ashes, or garbage, or refuse (other than sewage), fifteen years.
- f. Public parks (including or not including a playground as a part thereof), fifty years.
- g. Playgrounds, thirty years.

h. Buildings for purposes not stated in this section, if they are—

(1) Of frame construction, that is, a building of which the exterior walls or a portion thereof shall be constructed of wood; or a building sheathed with boards and partially or entirely covered with four inches or less of masonry or with metal sheets, twenty years;

(2) Of nonfireproof construction, that is, a building the outer walls of which are constructed of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, but which in any other respect differs from a fireproof building as defined in this section, thirty years;

(3) Of fireproof construction, that is, a building the walls of which are constructed of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, and in which there are no wood beams or lintels, and in which the floors, roofs, stair-halls, and public halls are built entirely of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, and in which no woodwork or other inflammable material is used in any of the partitions, floorings, or ceiling (but the building shall be deemed to be of fireproof construction notwithstanding that elsewhere than in the stair-halls and entrance halls there is wooden flooring on top of the fireproof floor, and that wooden sleepers are used, and that it contains wooden handrails and treads, made of hardwood, not less than two inches thick), forty years.

i. Bridges (including retaining walls and approaches), thirty years, or, in case of wooden bridges, ten years.

j. Lands for purposes not stated in this section, forty years.

k. Constructing or reconstructing the surface of roads, streets, or highways, whether including or not including contemporaneous constructing or reconstructing of sidewalks, curbs, or gutters, or drains, or grading, if such surface—

(1) Is constructed of sand and gravel, five years;

(2) Is of water-bound macadam or penetration process, ten years;

(3) Is of bricks, blocks, sheet asphalt, bitulithic, or bituminous concrete, laid on a solid foundation, or is of concrete, twenty years.

l. Land for roads, streets, highways, or sidewalks, or grading, or constructing or reconstructing culverts, or retaining walls, or surface or subsurface drains, thirty years.

m. Constructing sidewalks, curbs, or gutters, of brick, stone, concrete or other material of similar lasting character, twenty years.

n. Installing fire or police alarms, telegraph or telephone service, or other system of communication for municipal use, thirty years.

o. Fire engines, fire trucks, hose carts, ambulances, patrol wagons, or any vehicles for use in any department of the municipality, or for the use of municipal officials, ten years.

p. Land for cemeteries, or the improvement thereof, thirty years.

q. Constructing sewer, water, gas, or other service connections, from the service main in the street to the curb or property line, when the work is done by the municipality in connection with any permanent improvement of or in any street, ten years.

r. The elimination of any grade crossing or crossings and improvements incident thereto, twenty years.

s. Equipment, apparatus, or furnishing not included in clause t or other clauses of this subsection, ten years.

t. Any improvement or property not included in other clauses of this subsection, forty years.

4. Improvements and properties defined. Each of the improvements and properties mentioned in clauses numbered from a to i, both inclusive, of subsection 3 above, shall be deemed to include the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, or enlargement thereof, or of any part thereof, or of buildings, lands, or rights in lands therefor, or of original furnishings, equipment, machinery, or apparatus therefor, or of the original improvement thereof. Bonds for any or all improvements or properties included in any one clause of subsection 3 above may for the purposes of this section be deemed by the governing body to be for but one improvement or property.

5. Kind of construction determined. If the bonds are for a building referred to in clause h of subsection 3 above, and the bond ordinance does not state the kind of construction of the building, or if the bonds are for street improvements mentioned in clause k of subsection 3 above, and the bond ordinance does not state the kind or kinds of pavement or other material to be used, then the kind of construction, or the kind or kinds of pavement or other material, as the case may be, shall be determined by resolution before any of the bonds are issued.

6. Shortest period of payment. In determining, for the purpose of this section, the shortest period in which a debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, can be finally paid without making it unduly burdensome upon the taxpayers of the municipality, the governing body shall not deem said period to be greater than the following periods in the following cases, respectively :

a. Ten years, if funding bonds are to be issued.

b. Thirty years, if refunding bonds are to be issued, and the net debt of the municipality, as stated in the debt statement filed pursuant to section 2943, is not more than eight per centum of the average assessed valuation set forth in said statement.

c. Forty years, if refunding bonds are to be issued, and said net debt is more than eight but not more than ten per centum of said average assessed valuation.

d. Fifty years, if refunding bonds are to be issued, and said net debt is more than ten per centum of said average assessed valuation.

2943. Sworn statement of indebtedness:

1. What shall be shown. After the introduction and before the final passage of a bond ordinance the financial officer shall make and file with the clerk a sworn statement of the debt of the municipality, showing in such detail as he may deem advisable—

a. The total amount (hereinafter referred to as the gross debt) of the outstanding floating debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, the bonded debt outstanding, and the bonded debt to be incurred under ordinances or other proceedings passed, taken, or pending, exclusive of debt incurred or to be incurred in anticipation of the collection of taxes or in anticipation of the sale of bonds.

b. The total of the following amounts (hereinafter referred to as the deductions), viz.:

(1) The amount of unissued funding or refunding bonds included in the gross debt;

(2) The amount of sinking funds or other funds held for the payment of any part of the gross debt other than existing debt incurred for revenue-producing enterprises and deducted as provided in this clause;

(3) The amount (actual or estimated) of uncollected special assessments levied or to be levied on account of local improvements for which any part of the gross debt was or is to be incurred, and applicable to the payment of any part of the gross debt;

(4) The amount of bonded debt included in the gross debt and incurred within five years prior to date of said statement, or to be incurred, for water, gas, electric light or power purposes, or two or more of said purposes;

(5) The amount of bonded debt (other than bonded debt included in subdivision (4) of this clause "b") included in the gross debt and incurred for any revenue-producing enterprise owned by the municipality, which during the fiscal year immediately preceding the date of the statement, or during any period of twelve consecutive months ending not more than ninety days before said date, yielded to the municipality current net revenue, after making any necessary allowance for repairs and maintenance, in excess of the interest payable on the debt in that year or period and of the annual installment necessary to be raised in that year or period for the amortization of the debt; or, if such debt was not entirely provided for as aforesaid, it shall be stated as a deduction proportionately to the extent to which said net revenue (after making said allowance) met said interest and amortization installment during said year or period.

c. The amount (hereinafter referred to as the net debt) of the difference between the gross debt and the deductions.

d. The assessed valuation of property subject to taxation by the municipality for each of the three years in which taxes were last levied, and the average thereof.

e. The percentage that the net debt bears to said average assessed valuation.

The statement may, at the option of the financial officer, further show—

f. The total amount (hereinafter referred to as the net increase) of all bonds issued on or before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (including those which have been paid), or to be issued under ordinances or other proceedings passed, taken, or pending, exclusive of bonds for the payment of the portion of the cost of an improvement that has been or is to be assessed upon property benefited and exclusive of funding and refunding bonds.

g. The percentage that the net increase bears to said average assessed valuation.

2. Limitation of ordinance. The ordinance shall not be passed unless it appears from said statement either that the net debt does not exceed twelve and one-half per centum, in case said average assessed valuation is not more than four million dollars, or ten per centum in any other case, of said average assessed valuation, or that the net increase does not exceed three per centum of said average assessed valuation, or unless the bonds to be issued under the ordinance are for water, gas, electric light or power purposes, or two or more of said purposes, or for funding or refunding a debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and for no other purpose.

3. Statement filed for inspection. Such statement shall remain on file with the clerk and be open to public inspection. In any action or proceeding in any court involving the validity of bonds said statement shall be deemed to be true and to comply with the provisions of this act unless it appears (in an action or proceeding commenced within the time limited by section 2945 for the commencement thereof), first, that the representations contained therein could not by any reasonable method of computation be true, and second, that a true statement would show that the ordinance authorizing the bonds could not be passed.

4. Annual installments estimated. In determining, for the purpose of clause b of subsection 1 of this section, the annual installment necessary to be raised in any year for the amortization of an outstanding debt for a revenue-producing enterprise, the financial officer shall, in case the debt is not payable in annual installments, deem said annual installment to be an amount which, if thereafter annually contributed to a sinking fund for the amortization of the debt (which shall be the then existing sinking fund for said purpose, if there is one), would, with the fund and with the accumulations of interest thereon and upon the contribution thereto, such accumulation being computed at the rate of four per centum per annum, produce at the date of maturity the amount of the debt.

2944. Publication of bond ordinance. A bond ordinance shall be published once in each of four successive weeks after its final passage, unless the ordinance provides that it shall take effect upon its passage, in which case it shall be published once. A notice substantially in the following form (the blanks being first properly filled in), with the printed or written signature of the clerk appended thereto, shall be published with the ordinance:

The foregoing ordinance was passed on the _____ day of _____, 19____, and was first published (or posted) on the _____ day of _____, 19____.

Any action or proceeding questioning the validity of said ordinance must be commenced within thirty days after its first publication (or posting).

Clerk (or Secretary).

2945. Limitation of action to set aside ordinance. Any action or proceeding in any court to set aside a bond ordinance, or to obtain any other relief upon the ground that the ordinance is invalid, must be commenced within thirty days after the first publication of the notice aforesaid and the ordinance or supposed ordinance referred to in the notice. After the expiration of such period of limitation, no right of action or defense founded upon the invalidity of the ordinance shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of the ordinance be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within such period.

For limitation as to indebtedness, see Crayton v. Charlotte, 175-17.

2946. Certain bond ordinances validated. No ordinance passed before the seventeenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, authorizing bond issues for necessary expenses under chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, known as the Municipal Finance Act, nor any bond issued or to be issued under such ordinance, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the ordinance provides that it shall take effect thirty days after its first publication; and this section shall be construed as applying in all respects to existing bond ordinances so providing, as well as to future ordinances.

2947. Ordinance requiring popular vote:

1. When vote required. If a bond ordinance provides that it shall take effect thirty days after its first publication unless a petition for its submission to the voters shall be filed in the meantime, the ordinance shall be inoperative without the approval of the voters of the municipality at an election if a petition shall be filed as provided in this section.

2. Petition filed. A petition demanding that the ordinance be submitted to the voters may be filed with the clerk within thirty days after the first publication of the ordinance. The petition shall be in writing and signed by voters of the municipality equal in number to at least thirty-three and one-third per centum of the total number of registered voters in the municipality as shown by the registration books for the last preceding election therein. The residence address of each signer shall be written after his signature. Each signature to the petition shall be verified by a statement (which may relate to a specified number of signatures) made by some adult resident freeholder of the municipality under oath before an officer competent to administer oaths, to the effect that the signature was made in his presence and is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be. The petition need not contain the text of the ordinance to which it refers. The petition need not be all on one sheet, and if on more than one sheet, it shall be verified as to each sheet.

3. Sufficiency of petition. The clerk shall investigate the sufficiency of the petition and present it to the governing body with a certificate stating the result of his investigation. The governing body shall thereupon determine the sufficiency of the petition, and the determination of the governing body shall be conclusive.

2948. Elections on bond issue:

1. What majority required. If a bond ordinance provides for the issuance of bonds for a purpose other than the payment of necessary expenses of the municipality, the approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the municipality, as required by the constitution of North Carolina, shall be necessary in order to make the ordinance operative. If, however, the bonds are to be issued for necessary expenses, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voters voting on the bond ordinance shall be sufficient to make it operative, in all cases where the ordinance is required by this act to be submitted to the voters.

2. When election held. Whenever the taking effect of an ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds is dependent upon the approval of the ordinance by the voters of a municipality, the governing body may submit the ordinance to the voters at an election to be held not more than six months after the passage of the ordinance. The governing body may call a special election for that purpose or may submit the ordinance to the voters at the regular municipal election next succeeding the passage of the ordinance, but no such special election shall be held within two months before or after a regular election. Several ordinances or other matters may be voted upon at the same election.

3. New registration. The governing body of the city or town in which such election is held may, in their discretion, order a new registration of the voters for such election.

4. Notice of election, and law governing. A notice of the election, setting forth in full the ordinance to be voted upon, shall be published at least once not more than sixty days nor less than twenty days before the election. The provisions of law in force at the time of such election governing the registration of voters for regular municipal elections in the municipality and the conducting and canvassing of such regular municipal elections shall apply to elections required or provided for by this act.

5. Form of ballots. The title or a statement of the nature of each ordinance to be voted upon shall be printed on a ballot, which shall be separate from the ballot for candidates for office. Below the title or statement of the nature of each ordinance there shall be printed on two separate lines the words "for the ordinance" and "against the ordinance," respectively, with a square enclosed in ruled lines at the left of each of the two lines. At the top of the ballot there shall be printed the following words: "Notice to voters: For a vote for any ordinance submitted upon this ballot, make a X mark in the square opposite the words 'for the ordinance.' For a negative vote, make a similar mark in the square opposite the words 'against the ordinance.'"

6. Method of voting. If a voter makes a X mark in the square opposite the words "for the ordinance," it shall be counted as a vote approving the ordinance and the issuance of the bonds and the levying of the tax provided for by the ordinance. If a voter makes a X mark in the square opposite the words "against the ordinance," it shall be counted as a vote against the ordinance, bonds, and tax.

7. Returns canvassed. The officers appointed to hold the election, in making return of the result thereof, shall incorporate therein not only the number of votes cast for and against each ordinance submitted, but also the number of voters registered and qualified to vote in the election. The board authorized to canvass the votes cast shall also canvass the number of voters registered and qualified to vote in the election, and shall judicially determine and declare the result of the election.

8. Statement of result. The board shall prepare a statement showing the number of votes cast for and against each ordinance submitted, and the number of voters qualified to vote in the election, and declaring the result of the election, which statement shall be signed by a majority of the members of the board and delivered to the clerk of the municipality, who shall record it in the book of ordinances of the municipality, file the original in his office, and publish it once.

9. Limitation as to actions. No right of action or defense founded upon the invalidity of the election shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of the election be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within twenty days after the publication of such statement.

See annotations under section 2691.

2949. Preparation for issuing bonds. At any time after the passage of a bond ordinance all steps preliminary to the actual issuance of bonds under the ordinance may be taken, but the bonds shall not be actually issued unless and until the ordinance takes effect.

1917, c. 138, s. 23; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (23).

2950. Within what time bonds issued. After a bond ordinance takes effect, bonds may be issued in conformity with its provisions at any time within three years after the ordinance takes effect.

2951. Amount and nature of bonds determined. The aggregate amount of bonds to be issued under a bond ordinance, the rate or rates of interest they shall bear, not exceeding six per centum per annum payable semiannually, and the times and place or places of payment of the principal and interest of the bonds, shall be fixed by resolution or resolutions of the governing body. The bonds may be issued either all at one time or from time to time in blocks, and different provisions may be made for different blocks.

2952. Bonded debt payable in installments. Each bond issue made under this act shall mature in annual installments or series, the first of which shall be made payable not more than three years after the date of the first issued bonds of such issue, and the last within the period determined and declared pursuant to subsection 3 of section 2942 of this subchapter. No such installment or series shall be more than two and one-half times as great in amount as the smallest prior installment or series of the same bond issue. If all of the bonds of an issue are not issued at the same time, the bonds at any one time outstanding shall mature as aforesaid.

2953. Medium and place of payment. The bonds may be made payable in such kinds of money and at such place or places within or without the state of North Carolina as the governing body may by resolution provide.

2954. Formal execution of bonds. The bonds shall be issued in such form as the officers who execute them shall adopt, except as otherwise provided by the governing body. They shall be signed by two or more officers designated by the governing body, or, if the governing body makes no such designation, then by the mayor or other chief executive officer and by the financial officer of the municipality, and the corporate seal of the municipality shall be affixed to the bonds and attested by the clerk. The bonds may have coupons attached for the interest to be paid thereon, which coupons shall bear a facsimile signature of the financial officer in office at the date of the bonds or at the date of delivery thereof. The delivery of bonds so executed shall be valid notwithstanding any change in the officers or in the seal of the municipality occurring after the signing and sealing of the bonds.

2955. Registration and transfer of bonds:

1. Bonds payable to bearer. Bonds issued under this act shall be payable to the bearer unless they are registered as provided in this section; and each coupon appertaining to a bond shall be payable to the bearer of the coupon.

2. Registration and effect. A municipality may keep in the office of its financial officer or in the office of a bank or trust company appointed by the governing board as bond registrar or transfer agent, a register or registers for the registration and transfer of its bonds, in which it may register any bond at the time of its issue or, at the request of the holder, thereafter. After such registration the principal and interest of the bond shall be payable to the person in whose name it is registered except in the case of a coupon bond registered as to principal only, in which case the principal shall be payable to such person, unless the bond shall be discharged from registry by being registered as payable to bearer. After registration a bond may be transferred on such register by the registered owner in person or by attorney, upon presentation to the bond registrar, accompanied by delivery of a written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the bond registrar, executed by the registered owner.

3. Registration and transfer noted on bond. Upon the registration or transfer of a bond as aforesaid, the bond registrar shall note such registration or transfer on the back of the bond. Upon the registration of a coupon bond as to both principal and interest he shall also cut off and cancel the coupons.

4. Agreement for registration. within thirty days after failure to receive any legally acceptable bid in response to a public offering made as provided in this section.

Whenever bonds are to be sold pursuant to advertisement there shall be published, at least once, a notice containing a description of the bonds to be sold, the place of sale, and the time of sale, or time limited for the receipt of proposals, which shall be not less than ten days after the first publication of the notice. The notice shall state that bidders must deposit with the financial officer before making their bids, or present with their bids, a certified check payable to the order of the municipality or the financial officer upon an incorporated bank or trust company, or a sum of money, for or in an amount equal to two per centum of the face amount of bonds bid for, to secure the municipality against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid.

Proposals submitted pursuant to such notices shall be opened in public, and the bonds shall be awarded to the highest bidder, unless all bids are rejected. The municipality shall have the right to reject all bids. The governing body may delegate the power to sell bonds to a committee thereof, or any two officers, one of whom shall be the financial officer; but every private sale of bonds shall be made or confirmed by the governing body. Bonds of the municipality sold out of a sinking fund of the municipality shall be sold as provided in this section, except that such bonds may be sold for less than par.

So much of the net revenue derived by the municipality in any fiscal year from the operation of any revenue-producing enterprise owned by the municipality after paying all expenses of operating, managing, maintaining, repairing, enlarging, and extending such enterprise, shall be applied, first, to the payment of the interest payable in the next succeeding year on bonds issued for such enterprise, and, next, to the payment of the amount necessary to be raised by tax in such succeeding year for the payment of the principal of said bonds. All moneys derived from the collection of special assessments upon which assessment bonds or other bonds or notes are predicated, shall be placed in a special fund, and used only for the payment of such bonds or notes.

Every municipality shall have the power to levy taxes ad valorem upon all taxable property therein for the purpose of paying the principal of or the interest on any bonds or notes for the payment of which the municipality is liable, issued under any act other than this act, or for the purpose of providing a sinking fund for the payment of said principal, or for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on any notes issued under this act.

The powers stated in this section in respect of the levy of taxes for the payment of the principal and interest of bonds and notes shall not be subject to any limitation prescribed by law upon the amount or rate of taxes which a municipality may levy. Taxes levied under this section shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected upon property in the municipality.

Enter into any contract involving the expenditure of money unless a sufficient appropriation shall have been made therefor, except a continuing contract to be performed in whole or in part in an ensuing fiscal year, in which case an appropriation shall be made sufficient to meet the amount to be paid in the fiscal year in which the contract is made.

The superior court of the county or district in which the municipality is situated shall have jurisdiction to enforce by mandamus, injunction, or other appropriate remedy the provisions of this act and of said laws. 2977. Person primarily liable on instrument. The person primarily liable on an instrument is the person who by the terms of the instrument is absolutely required to pay the same. All other parties are secondarily liable.

Rev., s. 2342; 1899, c. 733, s. 192.

Under this section liability of surety to instrument is primary: Rouse v. Wooten, 140-557—but liability of guarantor is collateral and secondary, Ibid., and other cases cited on page 559. Joint makers of a note are primarily liable, and have the burden of proving any matter as a release: Roberson v. Spain, 173-23. See, also, Lilly v. Baker, 88-154.

2978. What constitutes reasonable time. In determining what is reasonable time or an unreasonable time regard is to be had to the nature of the instrument, the usage of trade or business (if any) with respect to such instruments, and the facts of the particular case.

Rev., s. 2343; 1899, c. 733, s. 193.

In determining what is reasonable time, regard must be had to the nature of instrument and facts of particular case: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102; Yancey v. Littlejohn, 9-525—and where check on bank in this state negotiated to party in neighboring state within five days after obtaining same, such negotiation is within reasonable time, Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102. As to time in which check drawn on bank should be presented, where drawer, payee and drawee all residents of same place, see Bank v. Alexander, 84-30.

2979. When law merchant governs. In any case not provided for in this chapter the rules of the law merchant shall govern.

Rev., s. 2344; 1899, c. 733, s. 196.

2980. Acts to be done on Sunday or holiday. Where the day, or the last day, for doing any act herein required or permitted to be done falls on Sunday, or on a holiday, the act may be done on the next succeeding secular or business day.

Rev., s. 2839; 1899, c. 733, s. 194.

See Sundays and Holidays.

2981. Application of chapter. The provisions of this chapter do not apply to negotiable instruments made and delivered prior to the eighth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

Rev., s. 2345; 1899, c. 733, s. 195.

See Barden v. Hornthal, 151-8.

The annotations to this chapter include many of the important decisions prior to its enactment as an aid to its interpretation. Great care should be exercised in citing these cases as authorities where this chapter changed the law.

ART. 2. FORM AND INTERPRETATION

2982. Form of negotiable instrument. An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements: (1) It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer; (2) must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money; (3) must be payable on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time; (4) must be payable to the order of a specified person or to bearer; and (5) where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named, or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty.

Rev., s. 2151; 1899, c. 733, s. 1.

Instruments to be negotiable must be certain as to time of payment and amount to be paid: Bank v. Bynum, 84-24—must be payable in money, Johnson v. Henderson, 76-227—should not be dependent upon contingency, Goodloe v. Taylor, 10-458. A note payable "subject to the conditions" of a certain deed is not negotiable: Pope v. Lumber Co., 162-206. To be negotiable a note must be payable to order or bearer: Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47. Certificate of deposit is negotiable when expressed in negotiable words: Johnson v. Henderson, 76-227. An instrument is negotiable though it expresses a consideration for which it is given: Bank v. Michael, 96-53. See, also, Myers v. Petty, 153-462.

County and school orders are not negotiable: Wright v. Kinney, 123-621; Bank v. Warlick, 125-594. As to drafts with bills of lading attached, see Finch v. Gregg, 126-176, overruled in Mason v. Cotton Co., 148-496.

Cases prior to this enactment holding instrument not negotiable when payable in specific articles: Thompson v. Gaylard, 3-150; Tindall v. Johnston, 2-372; Campbell v. Mumford, 2-398; Wofford v. Greenlee, 1-301—in money and specific article, or performance of specific act, Knight v. R. R., 46-357; Jamieson v. Farr, 2-182—in bank stock, Alexander v. Oaks, 19-513—in "current bank notes," State v. Corpening, 32-58—in "current bank money," Lacky v. Miller, 61-26—in "current notes of state of North Carolina," Warren v. Brown, 64-381. See section 2987, as to payment in current money.

2983. What constitutes certainty as to sum. The sum payable is a sum certain within the meaning of this chapter, although it is to be paid (1) with interest; or (2) by stated installments; or (3) by stated installments with a provision that upon default in payment of any installment the whole shall become due; or (4) with exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or (5) with costs of collection or an attorney's fee in case payment shall not be made at maturity. But a provision incorporated in the instrument to pay counsel fees for collection is not enforceable, but does not affect the other terms of the instrument or the negotiability thereof.

Validity of provision for attorney's fees in instrument executed and payable in another state must be determined by laws of this state: Bank v. Land and Lumber Co., 128-193—and such provision in instrument will not be enforced here, Ibid.; Brisco v. Norris, 112-671; Tinsley v. Hoskins, 111-340. As to provision in instrument for attorney's fees with reference to jurisdiction of justice of the peace, see Bank v. Land and Lumber Co., 128-193.

Section apparently nullifies old law as laid down in Bank v. Bynum, 84-24. As bearing upon section, see Turner v. Boger, 126-302; Williams v. Rich, 117-240.

2984. When promise is unconditional. An unqualified order or promise to pay is unconditional within the meaning of this chapter, though coupled with (1) an indication of a particular fund out of which reimbursement is to be made, or a particular account to be debited with the amount; or (2) a statement of the transaction which gives rise to the instrument. But an order or promise to pay out of a particular fund is not unconditional.

Rev., s. 2153; 1899, c. 733, s. 3.

As between original parties, a condition can be added at the time of its execution as to its payment: Aden v. Doub, 146-10; Evans v. Freeman, 142-61. Bonds are negotiable though a special fund may be provided for their payment: Commissioners v. Bank, 157-191. A statement of the transaction giving rise to the instrument does not make it conditional: Masen v. Cotton Co., 148-492; Bank v. Hatcher, 151-359 (overruling on this point Howard v. Kimball, 65-175).

2985. What constitutes determinable future time. An instrument is payable at a determinable future time, within the meaning of this chapter, which is expressed to be payable (1) at a fixed period after date or sight; or (2) on or before a fixed or determinable future time specified therein; or (3) on or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event which is certain to happen, though the time of happening be uncertain. An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect.

Provision that upon failure to pay interest, principal shall become due and payable is valid: Trust Co. v. Duffy, 153-62. Waiver of forfeiture for extension of time does not prevent payee from demanding payment of principal if interest is not paid, Ibid.

2986. Additional provisions as affecting negotiability. An instrument which contains an order or promise to do any act in addition to the payment of money is not negotiable. But the negotiable character of an instrument otherwise negotiable is not affected by a provision which (1) authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity; or (2) authorizes a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or (3) waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of obligor; or (4) gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money. But nothing in this section shall validate any provision or stipulation otherwise illegal, nor authorize the enforcement of an authorization to confess judgment or a waiver of homestead and personal property exemptions.

For provision as to counsel fees, see above, s. 2983.

Instrument containing promise to pay money and also to clothe slave not negotiable: Sutton v. Owen, 65-123; Knight v. R. R., 46-357. Waiver of homestead exemption is invalid: Beavan v. Speed, 74-544. Validity of provision waiving homestead exemption in instrument executed and payable in another state must be determined by the laws of this state: Bank v. Land and Lumber Co., 128-193.

2987. Effect of omissions; seal; designation of particular money. The validity and negotiable character of an instrument are not affected by the fact that (1) it is not dated; or (2) does not specify the value given, or that any value has been given therefor; or (3) does not specify the place where it is drawn or the place where it is payable; or (4) bears a seal; or (5) designates a particular kind of current money in which payment is to be made. But nothing in this section shall alter or repeal any statute requiring in certain cases the nature of the consideration to be stated in the instrument.

Instrument in form of negotiable note not vitiated by reason of being under seal: Pate v. Brown, 85-166. Decision prior to this enactment seeming adverse to statute: Johnson v. Henderson, 76-227.

2988. When payable on demand. An instrument is payable on demand (1) when it is expressed to be payable on demand, or at sight or on presentation; or (2) in which no time for payment is expressed. Where an instrument is issued, accepted or indorsed when overdue, it is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting or indorsing it, payable on demand.

Rev., s. 2157; 1899, c. 733, s. 7.

Instrument payable on demand is due immediately: Caldwell v. Rodman, 50-139.

2989. When payable to order. The instrument is payable to order when it is drawn payable to the order of a specified person, or to him or his order. It may be drawn payable to the order of (1) a payee who is not maker, drawer or drawee; or (2) the drawer or maker; or (3) the drawee; or (4) two or more payees jointly; or (5) one or some of several payees; or (6) the holder of an office for the time being. When the instrument is payable to order, the payee must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty.

Rev., s. 2158; 1899, c. 733, s. 8.

Section cited in Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47.

2990. When payable to bearer. The instrument is payable to bearer (1) when it is expressed to be so payable; or (2) when it is payable to a person named therein or to bearer; or (3) when it is payable to the order of a fictitious or non-existing person, and such fact was known to the person making it so payable; or (4) when the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or (5) when the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank.

Rev., s. 2159; 1899, c. 733, s. 9.

An indorsement in blank does not make an instrument negotiable which was not negotiable before: Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47; Newland v. Moore, 173-728.

2991. No formal language required. The negotiable instrument need not follow the language of this chapter, but any terms are sufficient which clearly indicate an intention to conform to the requirements hereof.

Rev., s. 2160; 1899, c. 733, s. 10.

2992. Presumption as to date. Where the instrument or an acceptance or any indorsement thereon is dated, such date is deemed prima facie to be the true date of the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement, as the case may be.

Rev., s. 2161; 1899, c. 733, s. 11.

2993. Antedated and postdated. The instrument is not invalid for the reason only that it is antedated or postdated, provided that this is not done for an illegal or fraudulent purpose. The person to whom an instrument so dated is delivered acquires the title thereto as of the date of delivery.

Rev., s. 2162; 1899, c. 733, s. 12.

2994. When date may be inserted. When an instrument expressed to be payable at a fixed period after date is issued undated, or where the acceptance of an instrument payable at a fixed period after sight is undated, any holder may insert therein the true date of issue or acceptance, and the instrument shall be payable accordingly. The insertion of a wrong date does not avoid the instrument in the hands of a subsequent holder in due course; but as to him the date so inserted is to be regarded as the true date.

Rev., s. 2163; 1899, c. 733, s. 13.

2995. When blanks may be filled. Where the instrument is wanting in any material particular, the person in possession thereof has a prima facie authority to complete it by filling up the blanks therein. And a signature on a blank paper delivered by the person making the signature in order that the paper may be converted into a negotiable instrument operates as a prima facie authority to fill it up as such for any amount. In order, however, that any such instrument when completed may be enforced against any person who became a party thereto prior to its completion, it must be filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. But if any such instrument after completion be negotiated to a holder in due course, it is valid and effectual for all purposes in his hands, and he may enforce it as if it had been filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time.

Where a person signs an instrument in blank and delivers it to another to be filled out and negotiated, maker is bound by such instrument in the hands of a bona fide holder: Phillips v. Hensley, 175-23; Humphreys v. Finch, 97-303; McArthur v. McLeod, 51-476; see Wester v. Bailey, 118-193—and bona fide holder of instrument has right to fill up blank left for payee's name with that of indorser, Lawrence v. Mabry, 13-473.

A person dealing with a negotiable instrument has the right to act on it as it appears on the face of it: Citizens Nat. Bank v. Burch, 145-316.

2996. Incomplete instrument not delivered. Where an incomplete instrument has not been delivered it will not, if completed and negotiated without authority, be a valid contract in the hands of any holder as against any person whose signature was placed thereon before delivery.

Rev., s. 2165; 1899, c. 733, s. 15.

Where maker of instrument, blank as to payee's name, acknowledges same to be his after insertion of such name, he is liable thereon: Wester v. Bailey, 118-193.

2997. Delivery necessary; when effectual; when presumed. Every contract on a negotiable instrument is incomplete and revocable until delivery of the instrument for the purpose of giving effect thereto. As between immediate parties, and as regards a remote party other than a holder in due course, the delivery in order to be effectual must be made either by or under the authority of the party making, drawing or indorsing, as the case may be; and in such case the delivery may be shown to have been conditional or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring the property in the instrument. But where the instrument is in the hands of a holder in due course a valid delivery thereof by all parties prior to him, so as to make them liable to him, is conclusively presumed. And where the instrument is no longer in possession of a party whose signature appears thereon, a valid and intentional delivery by him is presumed until the contrary is proved.

Rev., s. 2166; 1899, c. 733, s. 16.

Parol evidence is admissible between immediate parties to show the note was executed on a contingency, and failure of consideration: Farrington v. McNeill, 174-420—but parol evidence is not admissible to show that it is payable at a date later than the date specified in the instrument: Cherokee Co. v. Meroney, 173-653.

2998. Construction, where instrument is ambiguous. Where the language of the instrument is ambiguous or there are omissions therein, the following rules of construction apply:

1. Where the sum payable is expressed in words and also in figures and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the sum payable; but if the words are ambiguous or uncertain, reference may be had to the figures to fix the amount.

2. Where the instrument provides for the payment of interest, without specifying the date from which interest is to run, the interest runs from the date of the instrument, and if the instrument is undated, from the issue thereof.

Owens v. Ins. Co., 173-373. A note payable "with legal interest" bears interest from its date: Gholson v. King, 79-162. A bond or contract due at a certain time, "without interest," bears interest from maturity: Dowd v. R. R., 70-468. A note is negotiable where a blank is left for the rate of interest: Bank v. Roberts Bros., 168-473.

3. Where the instrument is not dated it will be considered to be dated as of the time it was issued.

4. Where there is conflict between the written and printed provisions of the instrument the written provisions prevail.

5. Where the instrument is so ambiguous that there is doubt whether it is a bill or a note the holder may treat it as either at his election.

6. Where a signature is so placed upon the instrument that it is not clear in what capacity the person making the same intended to sign, he is to be deemed an indorser.

See sections 3044, 3045.

7. Where an instrument containing the words "I promise to pay" is signed by two or more persons, they are deemed to be jointly and severally liable thereon.

Rev., ss. 1952, 2341; 1899, c. 733, s. 17.

2999. Signature must appear; trade or assumed name. No person is liable on the instrument whose signature does not appear thereon, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. But one who signs in a trade or assumed name will be liable to the same extent as if he had signed in his own name.

Rev., s. 2167; 1899, c. 733, s. 18.

Persons subscribing as obligors to bond are bound by the stipulations of same, whether their names are inserted in body of instrument or not: Howell v. Parsons, 89-230. One who signs in form and appearance as a principal and maker of note is bound as such to all persons who subsequently deal with the paper without knowledge of his true relation to it: Citizens Nat. Bank v. Burch, 145-316.

3000. Signature by agent; how authority shown. The signature of any party may be made by a duly authorized agent. No particular form of appointment is necessary for this purpose, and the authority of the agent may be established as in other cases of agency.

Indorsement may be by agent: Midgette v. Basnight, 173-18. Authority of agent to draw, accept or indorse bills, notes and checks must ordinarily be expressly conferred: Bank v. Hay, 143-326—but may be implied if execution of paper is necessary incident to business, Ibid.

3001. Liability of person signing as agent. Where the instrument contains, or a person adds to his signature, words indicating that he signed for or on behalf of the principal or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument if he was duly authorized; but the mere addition of words describing him as an agent or as filling a representative character, without disclosing his principal, does not exempt him from personal liability.

Rev., s. 2169; 1899, c. 733, s. 20.

3002. Effect of signature by procuration. A signature by procuration operates as notice that the agent has but a limited authority to sign, and the principal is bound only in case the agent so signing acted within the actual limits of his authority.

Rev., s. 2170; 1899, c. 733, s. 21.

Attorney to whom instrument sent for collection has, prima facie, no authority to indorse it in name of client, and purchaser thereof should inquire as to extent of attorney's authority: Sherrill v. Clothing Co., 114-436.

3003. Effect of forged signature. When a signature is forged or made without the authority of the person whose signature it purports to be, it is wholly inoperative, and no right to retain the instrument or to give a discharge therefor or to enforce payment thereof against any party thereto can be acquired through or under such signature, unless the party against whom it is sought to enforce such right is precluded from setting up the forgery or want of authority.

Rev., s. 2171; 1899, c. 733, s. 23.

Bank cannot hold depositor liable on a forged check: Yarborough v. Trust Co., 142-377.

ART. 3. CONSIDERATION

3004. Presumption of consideration. Every negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to have been issued for a valuable consideration, and every person whose signature appears thereon to have become a party thereto for value.

Rev., s. 2172; 1899, c. 733, s. 24.

Instrument imports prima facie that it is founded on consideration: Piner v. Brittain, 165-401; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Campbell v. McCormac, 90-491; McArthur v. McLeod, 51-476—but if defendant rebuts presumption, burden is upon plaintiff to show that there was consideration, Campbell v. McCormac, 90-491. See, also, Columbian Conservatory v. Dickinson, 158-207. Sealed instrument need not express consideration: Wester v. Bailey, 118-193.

3005. What constitutes consideration. Value is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or preëxisting debt constitutes value, and is deemed such whether the instrument is payable on demand or at a future time.

Rev., s. 2173; 1899, c. 733, s. 25.

Antecedent or preëxisting debt is sufficient consideration to constitute person a holder for value: Smathers v. Hotel Co., 168-69; Bank v. Seagroves, 166-608; Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-718; Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102; Brooks v. Sullivan, 129-190; Reddick v. Jones, 28-107—and release of dower by wife is valuable consideration for instrument executed by husband to her, Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135-303. See, also, Johnson v. Rodeger, 119-446.

3006. What constitutes a holder for value. Where value has at any time been given for the instrument the holder is deemed a holder for value in respect to all parties who became such prior to that time.

Rev., s. 2174; 1899, c. 733, s. 26.

Where plaintiff bank rediscounted note of defendant for another bank, and placed proceeds to credit of such bank, and before notice of equity of defendant, paid checks of said bank to one-half value of discount, plaintiff was purchaser for value: Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133-638; Bank v. McNair, 114-335—though fact that bank has given depositor credit for amount of negotiable instrument deposited in bank for collection does not constitute bank a purchaser for value, Packing Co. v. Davis, 118-555, and cases cited; Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172-335; Bank v. Exum, 163-199; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Reid v. Bank, 159-99. When a bank is a purchaser for value of a draft transferred to it by a depositor: Latham v. Spragins, 162-404.

3007. When lien on instrument constitutes holder for value. Where the holder has a lien on the instrument arising either from contract or by implication of law he is deemed a holder for value to the extent of his lien.

Rev., s. 2175; 1899, c. 733, s. 27.

Where instrument negotiated before maturity to secure preëxisting debt transferee is bona fide holder to extent of debt: Brooks v. Sullivan, 129-190. Section cited in Smathers v. Hotel Co., 162-346.

3008. Effect of want of consideration. Absence or failure of consideration is matter of defense as against any person not a holder in due course, and partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto, whether the failure is an ascertained and liquidated amount or otherwise.

Rev., s. 2176; 1899, c. 733, s. 28.

Failure of consideration is defense as between original parties to instrument: Piner v. Britain, 165-401; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Washburn v. Picot, 14-390. Absence of consideration not a defense against a holder in due course: Hardy v. Mitchell, 156-76.

3009. Liability of accommodation party. An accommodation party is one who has signed the instrument as maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser without receiving value therefor, and for the purpose of lending his name to some other person. Such a person is liable on the instrument to a holder for value, notwithstanding such holder at the time of taking the instrument knew him to be only an accommodation party.

Rev., s. 2177; 1899, c. 733, s. 29.

Where draft is an accommodation paper, drawer is primarily liable upon same: Bank v. Bradley, 117-526.

An accommodation indorser is discharged from liability where instrument held as collateral security is released without his knowledge, and without placing credit therefor upon accommodation paper: Bank v. Nimocks, 124-352. Likewise where creditor surrenders property held as security: Carriage Co. v. Dowd, 155-307.

If accommodation paper is a bond, which obligee refuses to accept, it is void in the hands of a third person for want of delivery, though he is a purchaser for value: Parker v. McDowell, 95-219.

Agreement between maker and accommodation indorser that instrument should be negotiated at bank does not affect purchaser for value and before maturity: Parker v. Sutton, 103-191—although he had notice of agreement at time of taking the instrument, Ibid.

Where an instrument is made for the purpose of enabling the maker to raise money, and is indorsed by him for that purpose, the indorsee may recover upon it, not only against the payee and indorser, but against all others who may have signed it: Bank v. Griffin, 107-173.

Instrument executed by partner to third person, who as surety and for accommodation of maker indorses it and receives no benefit therefrom, cannot be subject of action by firm against indorser: Patton v. Carr, 117-176—nor in case of death of maker of note can surviving partner maintain such action against accommodation indorser, unless firm be insolvent, Ibid.

Owner of a note indorsed by payees for maker's accommodation may sue any one of several indorsers without joining maker or any other indorser: Bank v. Carr, 121-113. See, as incidentally bearing upon section, Lilly v. Baker, 88-151.

ART. 4. NEGOTIATION

3010. What constitutes negotiation. An instrument is negotiated when it is transferred from one person to another in such manner as to constitute the transferee the holder thereof. If payable to bearer, it is negotiated by delivery; if payable to order, it is negotiated by the indorsement of the holder, and completed by delivery.

Rev., s. 2178; 1899, c. 733, s. 30.

Word "indorsement" defined: Davidson v. Powell, 114-578. Instrument payable to bearer is negotiated by delivery, and no indorsement is required: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69—but instrument payable to order must be indorsed by payee, Ibid.; Bank v. McEachern, 163-333; Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153-293; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Woods v. Finley, 153-497; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640; Applegarth v. Tillery, 105-410—and also prior indorsees, if any, or at least in blank to constitute transferee a bona fide holder, Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69. Signature of indorser, where indorsement required, must be proved: Ibid.; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Woods v. Finley, 153-497. Indorsement made by authorized agent with rubber stamp and with intent to indorse is a valid indorsement: Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640—but does not prove itself, Ibid.

If the note payable to order is transferred without indorsement the holder becomes the equitable owner and takes it subject to equities of the maker: Woods v. Finley, 153-497; Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153-293.

Indorsement of instrument to deceased person is nullity: Valentine v. Holloman, 63-475.

Distinction between assignment and indorsement pointed out in Tyson v. Joyner, 139-72; Miller v. Tharel, 75-152; Lindsay v. Wilson, 22-88.

As bearing upon section, see Fairly v. McLean, 33-158.

3011. How indorsement made. The indorsement must be written on the instrument itself or upon a paper attached thereto. The signature of the indorser, without additional words, is a sufficient indorsement.

Rev., s. 2179; 1899, c. 733, s. 31.

Indorsement must be upon the instrument or upon a paper attached thereto: Security Co. v. Pharmacy, 174-655; Midgette v. Basnight, 173-18. Indorsement of instrument may be explained as between immediate parties: Coffin v. Smith, 128-252. Indorsement by rubber stamp is sufficient if authorized, but it does not prove itself: Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640. As bearing upon subject-matter of section: Drew v. Jacocks, 6-138.

3012. Effect of indorsement by infant or corporation. The indorsement or assignment of the instrument by a corporation, an infant, or married woman passes the property therein, notwithstanding that from want of capacity the corporation, infant, or married woman may incur no liability thereon.

Rev., s. 2180; 1899, c. 733, s. 22.

Decisions as to indorsement by married women of instrument prior to passage of above section: Vann v. Edwards, 130-70; Coffin v. Smith, 128-252. Constitutionality of right of married woman to transfer negotiable instrument without husband's assent discussed in concurring opinion of Clark, C. J., in Vann v. Edwards, 128-427.

As to binding the separate property of a married woman, see section 2507 and annotations thereunder.

3013. Indorsement must be of entire instrument. An indorsement must be an indorsement of the entire instrument. An indorsement which purports to transfer to the indorsee a part only of the amount payable or which purports to transfer the instrument to two or more indorsees severally, does not operate as a negotiation of the instrument. But where the instrument has been paid in part it may be indorsed as to the residue.

Rev., s. 2181; 1899, c. 733, s. 32.

Assignment of note, to enable the assignee to sue thereon, must be made by the payee and must be for whole amount, and not for portion of note: Martin v. Hayes, 44-423.

3014. Kinds of indorsement. An indorsement may be either in blank or special, and it may also be either restrictive or qualified or conditional.

Rev., s. 2182; 1899, c. 733, s. 33.

Effect of indorsement in blank discussed in Lilly v. Baker, 88-151. As bearing upon conditional indorsement, see Johnson v. Olive, 60-213.

3015. Special indorsement; indorsement in blank. A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order the instrument is to be payable; and the indorsement of such indorsee is necessary to the further negotiation of the instrument. An indorsement in blank specifies no indorsee, and an instrument so indorsed is payable to bearer and may be negotiated by delivery.

Rev., s. 2183; 1899, c. 733, s. 34.

As to special indorsement, see French v. Barney, 23-219; Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69. Instrument indorsed in blank becomes payable to bearer against acceptor, drawer and prior indorsers: Ibid. Indorsement in blank by payee of instrument presumed to have been intended as transfer thereof: Coffin v. Smith, 128-255; Davis v. Morgan, 64-570. Parol evidence is admissible to control effect of blank indorsement as between immediate parties thereto: Bank v. Pegram, 118-671; Hoffman v. Moore, 82-313; Davis v. Morgan, 64-570.

Burden of proof is upon him who seeks to avoid by parol evidence the ordinary legal effect of blank indorsement: Hoffman v. Moore, 82-313. As between indorser in blank and remote parties without notice such parol evidence is inadmissible, and contract implied by law stands absolute: Bank v. Pegram, 118-671.

Where instrument, indorsed in blank, is delivered to attorney for collection, and it is transferred by him to bona fide holder without notice, transferee takes same free of equities: Bradford v. Williams, 91-7. Instrument payable to bearer is negotiated by delivery and no indorsement required: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69. Whether a note with blank indorsement followed by special indorsement is payable to bearer, see French v. Barney, 23-219; section 2990.

3016. How blank indorsement changed to special indorsement. The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement.

Rev., s. 2184; 1899, c. 733, s. 35.

Where instrument indorsed in blank, holder may make it payable to himself or any other person by filling up blank over signature: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69; Lilly v. Baker, 88-153; Hubbard v. Williamson, 26-266—and this may be done at or before trial, Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69; Johnson v. Hooker, 47-30; Hubbard v. Williamson, 26-266—but holder cannot write over indorsement words which may change indorser's liability, Lilly v. Baker, 88-153—or which is inconsistent with agreement under which indorsement made, Ibid. If blank indorsement not filled up, instrument considered payable to bearer: Hubbard v. Williamson, 26-266. Indorsement of instrument in blank before indorsement of payee is made regular by subsequent indorsement of payee: Johnson v. Hooker, 47-30.

3017. When indorsement restrictive. An indorsement is restrictive which either (1) prohibits the further negotiation of the instrument; or (2) constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser; or (3) vests the title in the indorsee in trust for, or to the use of, some other person. But the mere absence of words implying power to negotiate does not make an indorsement restrictive.

Rev., s. 2185; 1899, c. 733, s. 36.

Restrictive indorsement, such as "for collection for account of," etc., prevents transfer of title to bank to which sent for collection: Bank v. Bank, 119-307; Boykin v. Bank, 118-566; Packing Co. v. Davis, 118-548. Bill transferred to bank "for deposit" or "for collection" constitutes the bank an agent for the indorser: Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-718. A purchaser for value and without notice of a restrictive agreement will be protected: Ibid.

Burden upon indorser to show agreement by which liability restricted: Davidson v. Powell, 114-575.

See, as bearing upon section, Drew v. Jacocks, 6-138; Smith v. St. Lawrence, 2-174.

3018. Effect of restrictive indorsement; rights of indorsee. A restrictive indorsement confers upon the indorsee the right (1) to receive payment of the instrument; (2) to bring any action thereon that the indorser could bring; (3) to transfer his rights as such indorsee, where the form of the indorsement authorizes him to do so. But all subsequent indorsees acquire only the title of the first indorsee under the restrictive indorsement.

Rev., s. 2186; 1899, c. 733, s. 37.

Restrictive indorsement, such as "for collection of account of," etc., prevents transfer of title to bank to which sent for collection: Bank v. Bank, 119-307; Boykin v. Bank, 118-566; Packing Co. v. Davis, 118-548—and such indorsement is notice to bank collecting instrument that correspondent bank by whom sent to them is mere agent of holder, Boykin v. Bank, 118-566. A negotiable instrument indorsed "for collection" is the property of the indorser, and action thereon must be in the name of the indorser: Bank v. Exum, 163-200; Martin v. Mask, 158-436; Bank v. Boykin, 118-566; Abrams v. Cureton, 74-523.

3019. Qualified indorsement. A qualified indorsement constitutes the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the instrument. It may be made by adding to the indorser's signature the words "without recourse" or any words of similar import. Such an indorsement does not impair the negotiable character of the instrument.

Rev., s. 2187; 1899, c. 733, s. 38.

Qualified indorsement does not affect negotiability: Evans v. Freeman, 142-61; Bank v. Hatcher, 151-359. A transfer of "all right, title and interest" does not affect negotiable character of note: Ibid.

Where indorser intends to transfer title only, he should use words "without recourse" or other phrase of similar import: Davidson v. Powell, 114-575. "Without recourse" does not throw suspicion on the paper nor affect negotiability, but may be a circumstance to show that value was not received by the indorser: Bank v. Branson, 165-344.

3020. Conditional indorsement. Where an indorsement is conditional, a party required to pay the instrument may disregard the condition and make payment to the indorsee or his transferee, whether the condition has been fulfilled or not. But any person to whom an instrument so indorsed is negotiated will hold the same or the proceeds thereof subject to the rights of the person indorsing conditionally.

Rev., s. 2188; 1899, c. 733, s. 39.

As bearing upon subject-matter of section, see Johnson v. Olive, 60-213.

3021. Indorsement of instrument payable to bearer. Where an instrument payable to bearer is indorsed specially, it may nevertheless be further negotiated by delivery; but the person indorsing specially is liable as indorser to only such holders as make title through his indorsement.

Rev., s. 2189; 1899, c. 733, s. 40.

Instrument once indorsed in blank becomes payable to bearer against acceptor, drawer and prior indorsers: French v. Barney, 23-219. See section 2990.

3022. Indorsement of instrument payable to two or more persons. Where an instrument is payable to the order of two or more payees or indorsees who are not partners, all must indorse unless the one indorsing has authority to indorse for the others.

Rev., s. 2190; 1899, c. 733, s. 41.

Surviving partner has no power, after dissolution, to renew or indorse in name of firm an instrument executed by the partnership: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

3023. Effect of instrument drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier. Where an instrument is drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier or other fiscal officer of a bank or corporation it is deemed prima facie to be payable to the bank or corporation of which he is such officer, and may be negotiated by either the indorsement of the bank or corporation or the indorsement of the officer.

Rev., s. 2191; 1899, c. 733, s. 42.

3024. Indorsement, where payee's name misspelled. Where the name of a payee or indorsee is wrongly designated or misspelled he may indorse the instrument as there described, adding, if he think fit, his proper signature.

Rev., s. 2192; 1899, c. 733, s. 43.

3025. Indorsement in representative capacity. Where any person is under obligation to indorse in a representative capacity he may indorse in such terms as to negative personal liability.

Rev., s. 2193; 1899, c. 733, s. 44.

See, as bearing incidentally upon subject-matter of section, Banking Co. v. Morehead, 116-413.

3026. Presumption as to time of indorsement. Except where an indorsement bears date after the maturity of the instrument, every negotiation is deemed prima facie to have been effected before the instrument was overdue.

Rev., s. 2194; 1899, c. 733, s. 45.

The law presumes that an undated indorsement of instrument was made at date of note; Southerland v. Fremont, 107-565; Tredwell v. Blount, 86-33.

3027. Presumption as to place of indorsement. Except where the contrary appears, every indorsement is presumed prima facie to have been made at the place where the instrument is dated.

Rev., s. 2195; 1899, c. 733, s. 46.

3028. Continuation of negotiable character. An instrument negotiable in its origin continues to be negotiable until it has been restrictively indorsed or discharged by payment or otherwise.

Rev., s. 2196; 1899, c. 733, s. 47.

3029. Striking out indorsement. The holder may at any time strike out any indorsement which is not necessary to his title. The indorser whose indorsement is struck out and all indorsers subsequent to him are thereby relieved from liability on the instrument.

Rev., s. 2197; 1899, c. 733, s. 48.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Smith v. Lawrence, 2-174.

3030. Effect of transfer without indorsement. Where the holder of an instrument payable to his order transfers it for value without indorsing it, the transfer vests in the transferee such title as the transferrer had therein, and the transferee acquires in addition the right to have the indorsement of the transferrer. But for the purpose of determining whether the transferee is a holder in due course, the negotiation takes effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made.

Rev., s. 2198; 1899, c. 733, s. 49.

Delivery of undorsed instrument, where indorsement necessary, passes only equitable title: Jenkins v. Wilkinson, 113-532; Carpenter v. Tucker, 98-316.

Holder producing such instrument and testifying that same was discounted by him before maturity, for value and without notice, is only equitable owner, in absence of proof that instrument had been indorsed, and holds same subject to any valid defenses open to maker: Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640; Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153-293; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Bank v. McEachern, 163-333.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Baggarly v. Gaither, 55-80; Lackay v. Curtis, 41-199; Miller v. Tharel, 75-148.

3031. When prior party may negotiate instrument. Where an instrument is negotiated back to a prior party, such party may, subject to the provisions of this chapter, reissue and further negotiate the same. But he is not entitled to enforce payment thereof against any intervening party to whom he was personally liable.

Rev., s. 2199; 1899, c. 733, s. 50.

Person obtaining possession of negotiable paper after indorsing it is restored to his original position, and cannot hold intermediate parties who could look to him: Adrian v. McCaskill, 103-182—and persons obtaining possession of paper from him with notice of this fact cannot hold intermediate indorsers liable, Ibid.

ART. 5. RIGHTS OF HOLDER

3032. Right of holder to sue; payment. The holder of a negotiable instrument may sue thereon in his own name, and payment to him in due course discharges the instrument.

Rev., s. 2200; 1899, c. 733, s. 51.

As to who is a "holder," see definition in section 2976; also, see Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-643.

As to the rights of equitable owners to bring actions under section 446, being the real party in interest, see Tyson v. Joyner, 139-73; Bresee v. Crumpton, 121-122; Carpenter v. Tucker, 98-316; Kiff v. Weaver, 94-274; Holly v. Holly, 94-673; Jackson v. Love, 82-405; Andrews v. McDaniel, 68-385.

As to the presumption that the holder of a negotiable instrument is holder in due course, see Evans v. Freeman, 142-61, and cases cited under section 3040.

As to indorser, after payment refused to indorsee, bringing action, see Smith v. St. Lawrence, 2-174; Strong v. Spear, 2-214.

Donee causa mortis of bills, bonds and promissory notes payable to order, and not indorsed, may sue in his own name under section 400: Kiff v. Weaver, 94-274.

The possession of a negotiable paper by an indorsee, whether past due or not, raises the prima facie presumption that he is the true owner and for value: Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; but see Loftin v. Hill, 131-109, which seems to differ slightly; see, also, Bank v. Burgwyn, 108-62; Ballinger v. Cureton, 104-474; Holly v. Holly, 94-670.

3033. What constitutes holder in due course. A holder in due course is a holder who has taken the instrument under the following conditions: (1) That the instrument is complete and regular upon its face; (2) that he became the holder of it before it was overdue and without notice that it has been previously dishonored, if such was the fact; (3) that he took it for good faith and value; (4) that at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it.

What constitutes a holder in due course: Steel Co. v. Ford, 173-195; Bank v. Clark, 172-268; Cochran v. Smith, 171-369; Smathers v. Hotel Co., 168-69; Bank v. Branson, 165-344; Bank

v. Walser, 162-54; Hardy v. Mitchell, 161-351; s. c., 156-76; Park v. Exum, 156-228; Bank v. Fountain, 148-590—what constitutes a holder in due course, when bank takes a draft with bill of lading attached, Lumber Co. v. Childerhose, 167-34. One holding an indorsed note as collateral security may be a holder in due course: Bank v. Hill, 169-235. Indorsement without recourse does not prevent a holder from being a holder in due course: Bank v. Hatcher, 151-359.

Every holder is deemed to be a holder in due course, see section 3040 and cases cited thereunder.

A blank where the rate of interest should be does not render the instrument incomplete, nor affect negotiability: Bank v. Roberts, 168-473.

Indorsement before maturity is necessary to constitute a holder in due course: Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640. Unless the instrument is payable to bearer it must be indorsed: Security Co. v. Pharmacy, 174-655. A person taking a note payable to order without indorsement is equitable owner, but not a holder in due course: Woods v. Finley, 153-497. When it is said that there is a prima facie presumption of law that a holder is the owner, that he took it for value and before dishonor in the regular course of business, reference is made to a holder by indorsement or to an instrument which was not required to be indorsed, but was negotiable by delivery: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-73. Signature of indorser must be proven before holder deemed a holder in due course: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640.

Bank taking draft for collection, or giving drawer credit with the understanding that if dishonored it will be charged back, is not a holder in due course; otherwise, where it is a sale of the draft and the maker is credited: Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172-335; s. c., 173-711; Moon v. Simpson, 172-576; s. c., 170-335; Sternberg v. Crohow, 172-731; Markham-Stephens Co. v. Richmond Co., 177-364. Section cited: Yount v. Setzer, 155-213.

Cashiers' checks are classed hereunder with bills of exchange payable on demand, and if negotiated by indorsement for value and without notice and within a reasonable time the holder is a holder in due course: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102.

Decisions of interest rendered prior to this enactment: Bank v. McNair, 116-550; Burroughs v. Bank, 70-283.

As to what amounts to notice of infirmity in instrument, see section 3037.

3034. When person not deemed holder in due course. Where an instrument payable on demand is negotiated an unreasonable length of time after its issue, the holder is not deemed a holder in due course.

Rev., s. 2202; 1899, c. 733, s. 53.

As to what is a reasonable or unreasonable time, see section 2978. Where check negotiated to party residing within another state within five days after execution of same, such negotiation was within reasonable time: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-103.

3035. Notice before full amount paid. Where the transferee has received notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same before he has paid the full amount agreed to be paid therefor, he will be deemed a holder in due course only to the extent of the amount theretofore paid by him.

As to what amounts to notice of infirmity, see section 3037. Where original consideration of instrument illegal or fraudulent, or same taken as collateral security, right of recovery by indorsee restricted to consideration paid by him before notice of fraud or amount of debt for which it is collateral: Bank v. McNair, 116-554. Section referred to: Bank v. Walser, 162-53.

3036. When title defective. The title of a person who negotiates an instrument is defective within the meaning of this chapter when he obtained the instrument, or any signature thereto, by fraud, duress or force and fear or other unlawful means, or for an illegal consideration, or when he negotiates it in breach of faith or under such circumstances as amount to a fraud.

Rev., s. 2204; 1899, c. 733, s. 55.

The title is defective if instrument obtained through fraud or other unlawful means: Moon v. Simpson, 170-335; s. c., 172-576. Where a note is declared void by statute it is void into whosoever hands it may come: Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Glenn v. Bank, 70-191; Henderson v. Shannon, 12-147—but when statute merely declares it illegal the note is good in the hands of an innocent holder: Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Glenn v. Bank, 70-191. (Note that these decisions were rendered prior to enactment).

Indorsee for value before maturity and without notice takes clear of all equities, excepting when by statute the paper is void in whole or in part from its inception, or when the original consideration of the paper is illegal or fraudulent: Bank v. McNair, 116-550—but exception does not extend to notes executed without consideration, Bank v. McNair, 116-555.

When maker is not at liberty to object to the want of consideration against an indorsee, neither is he at liberty to object against him the illegality of consideration: Henderson v. Shannon, 12-148.

A note embracing usurious interest is void in the hands of innocent purchaser for value before maturity: Faison v. Grandy, 128-438, 126-827; Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Collier v. Nevill, 14-30; Ruffin v. Armstrong, 9-419—to the extent to which the contract is usurious, Ward v. Sugg, 113-489—but if note valid in its inception, a subsequent usurious agreement does not avoid it, Collier v. Nevill, 14-30. A note to secure payment of money won at cards is void: Calvert v. Williams, 64-168. An old case holding that note secured by fraud and duress should be cancelled: Meadows v. Smith, 42-7.

Decisions as to pleadings and burden of proof in actions where this section pleaded: Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172-335; Campbell v. Patton, 113-481; Loftin v. Hill, 131-105; Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267, 108-62; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; see, also, section 3040.

3037. What constitutes notice of defect. To constitute a notice of an infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith.

Actual knowledge or circumstances indicating bad faith necessary to constitute notice of defect: Bank v. Branson, 165-344; Smathers v. Hotel Co., 162-346; s. c., 167-469; s. c., 168-69; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Bank v. Hatcher, 151-359—mentioning the transaction out of which the debt arose is not sufficient notice: Ibid.

Where purchaser of instrument has knowledge of facts and circumstances tending to show fraud on part of assignor it is his duty to inquire into character of instrument: Loftin v. Hill, 131-110; Hulbert v. Douglas, 94-122—and this being true, he is affected with knowledge of all that inquiry would disclose, Ibid.; Hulbert v. Douglas, 94-122; Bunting v. Rieks, 22-130—but knowledge by bona fide assignee of instrument of crookedness in business matters of assignor does not defeat title of assignee, or make it his duty to inquire relative to same, Setzer v. Deal, 135-428.

The fact that maker of instrument does business near assignee is immaterial on question as to whether assignee a bona fide holder, Ibid.

Where a note was due the president of bank, and he negotiated it before maturity to the bank, he and the cashier acting as discount committee, held that his knowledge of an infirmity in the instrument was knowledge of the bank: LeDue v. Moore, 111-516; but see Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267.

Where the note is payable in five years, with interest payable annually, whether the failure to pay such annual interest is a dishonor of the note, quere; but such failure together with other circumstances may be considered as evidence to prove notice to holder: Trust Co. v. Whitehead, 165-74.

The fact that negotiator of note was a stranger and offered note for considerably less than face value, and that note was made payable at a factory of which purchaser had never heard, held not sufficient to put purchaser on his inquiry: Farthing v. Dark, 111-243.

As to the effect of the knowledge of agents or attorneys of infirmities in instruments upon their principals, see Hulbert v. Douglas, 94-122; Dupree v. Ins. Co., 92-417.

Where plaintiff has become holder of the note before maturity, and for value, defendant who sets up defect in plaintiff's title must show plaintiff's actual knowledge of the defect: Bank v. Brown, 160-23. Burden of proving notice or bad faith hereunder is upon the maker: Loftin v. Hill, 131-105; see section 3040.

Some decisions prior to enactment of statute as to sufficiency of notice: Bank v. Bank, 116-815; Bradford v. Williams, 91-7.

A person dealing with a negotiable instrument has a right to act on it as it appears on the face of it: Bank v. Burch, 145-316.

3038. Rights of holder in due course. A holder in due course holds the instrument free from any defect of title of prior parties, and free from defenses available to prior parties among themselves, and may enforce payment of the instrument for the full amount thereof against all parties liable thereon.

Rev., s. 2206; 1899, c. 733, s. 57.

Bona fide holder of instrument, for value, before maturity and without notice of infirmity takes same discharged of all equities and defenses existing between antecedent parties: Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Bank v. Griffin, 153-72; Tyson v. Joyner, 139-72; Toms v. Jones, 127-464; Bank v. McNair, 116-550; Davidson v. Powell, 114-575; Parker v. Sutton, 103-191; Lewis v. Long, 102-206; Bank v. Michael, 96-53; Spence v. Tapscott, 93-246; Bradford v. Williams, 91-7; Tredwell v. Blount, 86-33; Blackmer v. Phillips, 67-340; Baucom v. Smith, 66-538; Calvert v. Williams, 64-168; Little v. Dunlap, 44-40; Myers v. Beeman, 31-117; Turner v. Beggarly, 33-331; Reddick v. Jones, 28-107; Henderson v. Shannon, 12-149; Guy v. McLean, 12-46; Black v. Bird, 2-273—except where note void as treated of under section 3036.

Where defect in title is shown it is necessary for holder to show not only that he purchased for value and before maturity, but also without notice: Smathers v. Hotel Co., 168-69.

In action on instrument mere introduction of same raises presumption that holder is only equitable owner, and same subject to equities or other defenses of maker against prior holders: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69—and in order to render purchaser of instrument payable to order bona fide holder of title good against prior equities instrument must be specially indorsed to him by payee and prior indorsees, if any, or at least indorsed in blank, Ibid. Section cited: Yount v. Setzer, 155-213.

3039. When subject to original defenses. In the hands of any holder other than a holder in due course a negotiable instrument is subject to the same defenses as if it were nonnegotiable. But a holder who derives his title through a holder in due course and who is not himself a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument has all the rights of such former holder in respect of all parties prior to the latter.

Rev., s. 2207; 1899, c. 733, s. 58.

Purchaser of instrument after maturity takes same subject to all defenses available against it in hands of payee: Causey v. Snow, 122-326; Griffin v. Hasty, 94-438; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; Burroughs v. Bank, 70-283; Little v. Dunlap, 44-40; Moody v. Sitton, 37-382; Turner v. Beggarly, 33-331; Haywood v. McNair, 19-283, 14-231; Shannon v. Henderson, 12-149; Black v. Bird, 2-273.

Instruments past due, lodged with bank to secure indebtedness, are taken subject to all proper defenses by makers against original payee: Bank v. Loughran, 126-814.

Transferee of unindorsed instrument, unless same payable to bearer, takes instrument subject to all equities which maker has against payee: Bresee v. Crumpton, 121-122.

3040. Who deemed holder in due course. Every holder is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course. But the last mentioned rule does not apply in favor of a party who became bound on the instrument prior to the acquisition of such defective title.

Rev., s. 2208; 1899, c. 733, s. 59.

Upon the execution of the instrument being proven, every holder is deemed prima facie to be holder in due course: Steel Co. v. Ford, 173-195; Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172-335; Moon v. Simpson, 170-335; Smathers v. Hotel Co., 167-469; Trust Co. v. Bank, 167-260; Bank v. Brown, 160-23; Bank v. Fountain, 148-590; Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-109; Evans v. Freeman, 142-61; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-643; Loftin v. Hill, 131-109; Causey v. Snow, 120-279; Threadgill v. Comrs., 116-616; Triplett v. Foster, 115-335; Bank v. Burgwyn, 108-62; Deloatch v. Vinson, 108-147; Applegarth v. Tillery, 105-407; Lewis v. Long, 102-206; Bank v. Bridgers, 98-72; Kiff v. Weaver, 94-274; Tredwell v. Blount, 86-33; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; Pate v. Brown, 85-166; Jackson v. Love, 82-405; Meadows v. Cozart, 76-450—though presumption rebuttable, Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-642; Loftin v. Hill, 131-109.

Where agent is furnished money to buy up negotiable claims against principal, and does buy them, his possession does not raise a presumption of ownership: Threadgill v. Comrs., 116-616. It is unnecessary for holder to make allegation of ownership in complaint: Deloatch v. Vinson, 108-147. An issue, "Are defendants indebted to plaintiff, and if so, in what amount?" is sufficient to enable question of ownership of note to be passed on by jury: Causey v. Snow, 120-279.

THE BURDEN OF PROOF. The above section only enacts the law as it has always existed, as far as the burden of proof is concerned: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-109. The burden is first upon the defendant to show title defective: Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Evans v. Freeman, 142-67; Threadgill v. Comrs., 116-616; Triplett v. Foster, 115-335; Bank v. Burgwyn, 108-62; Balinger v. Cureton, 104-474; Holly v. Holly, 94-670; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40. The defendant must allege and prove fraud before the burden changes to the holder: Bank v. Seagroves, 166-608. Upon proof of fraud or illegality being offered burden is shifted to holder, and he must show that he received instrument bona fide and for value: Discount Co. v. Baker, 176-546; Moon v. Simpson, 170-335; Wilson v. Lewis, 170-47; Smathers v. Hotel Co., 168-69; Bank v. Branson, 165-344; Bank v. Drug Co., 166-99; Trust Co. v. Whitehead, 165-74; Trust Co. v. Ellen, 163-45; Bank v. Exum, 163-199; Hardy v. Mitchell, 161-381; s. c., 156-76; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267, 108-62; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; Meadows v. Cozart, 76-450—but when he has shown it his prima facie case is restored, Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267—unless circumstances under which he took instrument are shown by defendant to be such as to amount to notice of defect in same, Ibid. The same burden rests upon an intervener, when fraud is shown: Latham v. Rogers, 170-239. The prima facie case of holder is not rebutted by defendant's denial of ownership in answer: Causey v. Snow, 120-279.

Issues submitted should cover the allegations on the defect in the instrument, and the burden is upon the maker to sustain this; then it is upon the holder to prove want of notice, etc.: Bank v. Clark, 172-268.

Possession of unindorsed instrument raises presumption as between holder and payer that holder is owner: Holly v. Holly, 94-670; Robertson v. Dunn, 87-191—but presumption does not arise between holder and payee, who has legal title, Ibid.

In attachment proceedings, intervener having introduced bill of lading for property with draft attached properly indorsed, presumption is that he is purchaser for value without notice: Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133-631.

Possession of instrument by indorsee of married woman prima facie evidence of ownership, instrument having been in possession of husband after indorsement: Vann v. Edwards, 130-70 (note that action was upon instrument executed prior to enactment of section). Where evidence establishes that title of party who negotiated check to defendant was defective, burden is on defendant, claiming to be bona fide purchaser for value and without notice, to make good claim by greater weight of evidence: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-103—and in action upon instrument payable to order, mere introduction of same without proof of indorsement raises presumption that holder merely equitable owner, Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640; Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69—and same subject to equities or other defenses of maker against prior holders, Ibid.—also, where complaint in action by indorsee of instrument does not state that he is holder in due course, and defendant alleges that execution of instrument procured by fraud of payee, burden is on indorsee to show that he is holder in due course, Campbell v. Patton, 113-481.

ART. 6. LIABILITIES OF PARTIES

3041. Liability of maker. The maker of a negotiable instrument by making it engages that he will pay it according to its tenor, and admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse.

Rev., s. 2209; 1899, c. 733, s. 60.

3042. Liability of drawer. The drawer by drawing the instrument admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse, and engages that on due presentment the instrument will be accepted or paid, or both, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. But the drawer may insert in the instrument an express stipulation negating or limiting his own liability to the holder.

Rev., s. 2210; 1899, c. 733, s. 61.

The drawer may, by terms in the instrument or by collateral agreement, reserve the right to arrest payment: Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-718—but a purchaser for value without notice of the instrument will be protected, Ibid.

3043. Liability of acceptor. The acceptor by accepting the instrument engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance; and admits (1) existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature and his capacity and authority to draw the instrument; and (2) the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse.

Rev., s. 2211; 1899, c. 733, s. 62.

Instrument having been accepted, drawee becomes primarily liable: Bank v. Bradley, 117-526. The drawee bank cannot recover from the indorser the money paid on a forged check, since bank is presumed to know signature of drawer: Bank v. Trust Co., 168-605; Woodward v. Trust Co., 178-184; Yarborough v. Trust Co., 142-377. But if payee, who is also the indorser, knows of circumstances of signature, he is liable: Woodward v. Trust Co., 178-184.

3044. When person deemed indorser. A person placing his signature upon an instrument otherwise than as maker, drawer or acceptor is deemed to be an indorser, unless he clearly indicates by appropriate words his intention to be bound in some other capacity.

Rev., s. 2212; 1899, c. 733, s. 63.

A person placing his name on the back of a note is deemed an indorser unless otherwise indicated: Meyers v. Battle, 170-168; Bank v. Johnston, 169-526; Houser v. Fayssoux, 168-1; Perry v. Taylor, 148-362—and is entitled to notice of dishonor, unless waived, Bank v. Johnston, 169-526. Parol evidence to change such liability is not admissible: Meyers v. Battle, 170-168; Bank v. Wilson, 168-557 (semble).

Prior to the adoption of this act, the liability of an anomalous indorser depended upon the intention of the parties: Barden v. Hornthal, 151-8; Bank v. Wilson, 168-557. Where instrument indorsed by payee and then the name of another person appears upon it, such person deemed to be indorser: Lilly v. Baker, 88-151—but if party indorses note when executed, indorser ought to be held as original promisor, Ibid., page 154.

3045. Liability of irregular indorser. Where a person not otherwise a party to an instrument places thereon his signature in blank before delivery he is liable as indorser in accordance with the following rules: (1) If the instrument is payable to the order of a third person he is liable to the payee and to all subsequent parties; (2) if the instrument is payable to the order of the maker or drawer, or is payable to bearer, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the maker or drawer; (3) if he signs for the accommodation of the payee he is liable to all parties subsequent to the payee.

Rev., s. 2213; 1899, c. 733, s. 64.

Placing signature in blank before delivery makes one an indorser: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, annotations under section 3044; Lilly v. Baker, 88-154; Hoffman v. Moore, 82-313. Section merely referred to in Rouse v. Wooten, 140-558; Bank v. Wilson, 168-557.

3046. Warranty, where negotiation by delivery. Every person negotiating an instrument by delivery or by a qualified indorsement warrants (1) that the instrument is genuine and in all respects what it purports to be; (2) that he has a good title to it; (3) that all prior parties had capacity to contract; (4) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the instrument or render it valueless. But when the negotiation is by delivery only the warranty extends in favor of no holder other than the immediate transferee. The provisions of subdivision three of this section do not apply to persons negotiating public or corporate securities other than bills and notes.

What the indorser warrants by his indorsement: Smith v. Godwin, 145-242.

3047. Liability of general indorser. Every indorser who indorses without qualification warrants to all subsequent holders in due course (1) the matters and things mentioned in subdivisions one, two and three of the next preceding section; and (2) that the instrument is at the time of his indorsement valid and subsisting. And in addition he engages that on due presentment it shall be accepted or paid, or both, as the case may be, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it.

Rev., s. 2215; 1899, c. 733, s. 66.

Where payee, whether original or by previous indorsement, transfers instrument by indorsement he becomes simply an indorser: Davidson v. Powell, 114-575—unless by terms of indorsement he limits his liability, Ibid.

What the indorsers warrant by indorsement: Smith v. Godwin, 145-242. These warranties refer to legal transactions, and are not intended to withdraw contracts from the operation of usury laws: Sedbury v. Duffy, 158-431. An indorser in blank may show by parol the agreement under which such indorsement was made, as against his indorsee and others not holders in due course: Sykes v. Everett, 167-600. Decision prior to enactment reviewing warranties: Henderson v. Lemly, 79-170. See, as incidentally bearing upon subject-matter of section, Hill v. Shields, 81-253.

3048. Liability of indorser, where paper negotiable by delivery. Where a person places his indorsement on an instrument negotiable by delivery he incurs all the liabilities of an indorser.

Rev., s. 2216; 1899, c. 733, s. 67.

3049. Order in which indorsers are liable. As respects one another, indorsers are liable prima facie in the order in which they indorse; but evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves they have agreed otherwise. Joint payees or joint indorsees who indorse are deemed to indorse jointly and severally.

Rev., s. 2217; 1899, c. 733, s. 68.

An indorser who pays the debt cannot recover from a subsequent indorser: Lynch v. Loftin, 153-270. Person obtaining possession of instrument after indorsing same is restored to original position and cannot hold liable intermediate parties who could look to him: Adrian v. McCaskill, 103-182—and person deriving possession of paper from him with notice of this fact is in same position, Ibid.

Remote indorsee of instrument not affected by agreement between payee and immediate indorsee: Hill v. Shields, 81-250.

3050. Liability of agent or broker. Where a broker or other agent negotiates an instrument without indorsement he incurs all the liabilities prescribed by section three thousand and forty-six, unless he discloses the name of his principal and the fact that he is acting only as agent.

Rev., s. 2218; 1899, c. 733, s. 69.

ART. 7. PRESENTMENT FOR PAYMENT

3051. Effect of want of demand on principal debtor. Presentment for payment is not necessary in order to charge the person primarily liable on the instrument; but if the instrument is by its terms payable at a special place, and he is able and willing to pay it there at maturity, such ability and willingness are equivalent to a tender of payment upon his part. But, except as herein otherwise provided, presentment for payment is necessary in order to charge the drawer and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2219; 1899, c. 733, s. 70.

Liability of surety is primary: Rouse v. Wooten, 140-557—though that of guarantor is collateral and secondary, Ibid. Where drawer has funds in hands of drawee he has a right to expect the instrument to be honored, and drawer is entitled to presentment of instrument in reasonable time: Cedar Falls v. Wallace, 83-225.

Where draft on third person given in settlement of antecedent debt it is the duty of the holder to present it and give notice of its dishonor, if not paid, and failure to do so discharges debt: Mauney v. Coit, 80-300.

Instrument must be presented to drawee for acceptance or payment and due notice must be given to indorser of its nonacceptance or nonpayment before action can be sustained against him: Long v. Stephenson, 72-569. Presentment for payment is necessary in order to bind an anomalous indorser: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. Delay in presentment of certificate of deposit: Bank v. Trust Co., 159-85.

If instrument be payable at particular time and place, demand at such time and place need not be averred or proven in action by holder against maker: Nichols v. Pool, 47-23—for failure to make such demand can only be used in defense if money was ready at time and place named, Ibid.

3052. Presentment, where the instrument is not payable on demand. Where the instrument is not payable on demand, presentment must be made on the day it falls due. Where it is payable on demand, presentment must be made within a reasonable time after its issue, except that in the case of a bill of exchange presentment for payment will be sufficient if made within a reasonable time after the last negotiation thereof.

Rev., s. 2220; 1899, c. 733, s. 71.

3053. What constitutes a sufficient presentment. Presentment for payment to be sufficient must be made (1) by the holder or by some person authorized to receive payment on his behalf; (2) at a reasonable hour on a business day; (3) at a proper place as herein defined; (4) to the person primarily liable on the instrument, or, if he is absent or inaccessible, to any person found at the place where the presentment is made.

Rev., s. 2221; 1899, c. 733, s. 72.

Presentment of instrument must be made to drawee or acceptor, or to an authorized agent: Burrus v. Ins. Co., 124-12.

3054. Place of presentment. Presentment for payment is made at the proper place (1) where a place of payment is specified in the instrument and it is there presented; (2) where no place of payment is specified, but the address of the person to make the payment is given in the instrument, and it is there presented; (3) where no place of payment is specified and no address is given and the instrument is presented at the usual place of business or residence of the person to make payment; (4) in any other case if presented to the person to make payment wherever he can be found, or if presented at his last known place of business or residence.

Rev., s. 2222; 1899, c. 733, s. 73.

Maker of instrument made payable on demand at a particular place is not bound to pay it until it is presented at such place: Bank v. Bank, 35-75—but wherever instrument made payable at specific place, presentment at such place sufficient, Sullivan v. Mitchell, 4-93—and presentment of instrument sufficient where it is made at residence or usual place of business of drawee, where no place is specified: Burrus v. Ins. Co., 124-12.

Presentation of a draft for payment at the place of its date is sufficient demand to charge the drawer or acceptor after notice of protest, where place at which it was payable is not stated in the writing and no proof made that any particular place was agreed upon: Wittkowski v. Smith, 84-671.

3055. Instrument must be exhibited. The instrument must be exhibited to the person from whom payment is demanded, and, when it is paid, must be delivered up to the party paying it.

Rev., s. 2223; 1899, c. 733, s. 74.

3056. Presentment where instrument payable at bank. Where the instrument is payable at a bank presentment for payment must be made during banking hours, unless the person to make payment has no funds there to meet it at any time during the day, in which case presentment at any hour before the bank is closed on that day is sufficient.

Rev., s. 2224; 1899, c. 733, s. 75.

Whenever instrument payable at particular bank, presentment must be made at such bank: Sullivan v. Mitchell, 4-93.

3057. Presentment where principal debtor is dead. Where the person primarily liable on the instrument is dead, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment must be made to his personal representative, if such there be, and if with the exercise of reasonable diligence he can be found.

Rev., s. 2225; 1899, c. 733, s. 76.

3058. Presentment to persons liable as partners. Where the persons primarily liable on the instrument are liable as partners and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment may be made to any one of them, even though there has been a dissolution of the firm.

Rev., s. 2226; 1899, c. 733, s. 77.

Where instrument drawn on firm, presentment to one of its members is sufficient: Elliott v. White, 51-98.

3059. Presentment to joint debtors. Where there are several persons not parties primarily liable on the instrument and no place of payment is specified, presentment must be made to them all.

Rev., s. 2227; 1899, c. 733, s. 78.

3060. When presentment not required to charge the drawer. Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge the drawer where he has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will pay the instrument.

Rev., s. 2228; 1899, c. 733, s. 79.

Generally, if drawer of bill had no reasonable grounds to expect it to be honored, holder is not bound to strict presentment, but if drawer has funds in hands of drawee he has right to expect his bill to be honored, and drawer is entitled to presentment of his bill in reasonable time, and strict notice, if dishonored, although he knew or had reason to believe when he drew the bill that drawee was insolvent: Cedar Falls v. Wallace, 83-225.

3061. When presentment not required to charge the indorser. Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge an indorser where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation, and he has no reason to expect that the instrument will be paid if presented.

Rev., s. 2229; 1899, c. 733, s. 80.

When a note is payable at a bank and the maker has no funds there to meet it, presentment is not necessary: Meyers v. Battle, 170-168.

3062. When delay in presentment is excused. Delay in making presentment for payment is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate presentment must be made with reasonable diligence.

Rev., s. 2230; 1899, c. 733, s. 81.

3063. When presentment may be dispensed with. Presentment for payment is dispensed with (1) where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment as required by this chapter cannot be made; (2) where the drawee is a fictitious person; (3) by waiver of presentment, express or implied.

Rev., s. 2231; 1899, c. 733, s. 82.

Waiver of presentment: Caldwell County v. George, 176-602. See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Moore v. Coffield, 12-247.

3064. When instrument dishonored by nonpayment. The instrument is dishonored by nonpayment when (1) it is duly presented for payment and payment is refused or cannot be obtained; or (2) presentment is excused and the instrument is overdue and unpaid.

Rev., s. 2232; 1899, c. 733, s. 83.

3065. Liability of persons secondarily liable when instrument dishonored. Subject to the provisions of this chapter, when the instrument is dishonored by nonpayment, an immediate right of recourse to all parties secondarily liable thereon accrues to the holder.

Rev., s. 2233; 1899, c. 733, s. 84.

3066. Time of maturity. Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace, except as allowed by the succeeding section. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday or a holiday the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day.

Rev., s. 2234; 1899, c. 733, s. 85; 1907, c. 897; 1909, c. 800, s. 1.

3067. When days of grace allowed. All bills of exchange payable within the state, at sight, in which there is an express stipulation to that effect and not otherwise, shall be entitled to days of grace as the same are allowed by the custom of merchants on foreign bills of exchange payable at the expiration of a certain period after date or sight, but no days of grace shall be allowed on any bill of exchange, promissory note, or draft payable on demand.

Rev., s. 2235; Code, s. 43; 1905, c. 327; 1907, c. 861.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Jarvis v. McMain and Simmons, 10-10; Fields v. Mallett, 10-465.

3068. How time is computed. Where the instrument is payable at a fixed period after date, after sight, or after the happening of a specified event, the time of payment is determined by excluding the day from which the time is to begin to run and by including the date of payment.

Rev., s. 2236; 1899, c. 733, s. 86.

3069. Rule where instrument is payable at bank. Where the instrument is made payable at a bank it is equivalent to an order to the bank to pay the same for the account of the principal debtor thereon.

Rev., s. 2237; 1899, c. 733, s. 87.

Note payable at bank is an order on the bank, and where the maker by express indorsement directs the bank to charge it to his account, the bank is liable, if the maker had the money in bank: Peaslee v. Dixon, 172-411. Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3070. What constitutes payment in due course. Payment is made in due course when it is made at or after the maturity of the instrument to the holder thereof in good faith and without notice that his title is defective.

Rev., s. 2238; 1899, c. 733, s. 88.

ART. 8. NOTICE OF DISHONOR

3071. To whom notice of dishonor must be given. Except as herein otherwise provided, when a negotiable instrument has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment, notice of dishonor must be given to the drawer and to each indorser, and any drawer or indorser to whom such notice is not given is discharged.

Rev., s. 2239; 1899, c. 733, s. 89.

Where instrument dishonored, notice must be given to all who are secondarily liable as drawer and indorser: Horton v. Wilson, 175-533; Barber v. Absher, 175-602; Bank v. Bradley, 117-526; Mauney v. Coit, 80-300; Long v. Stephenson, 72-569; Lilly v. Pettaway, 73-361; Yancey v. Littlejohn, 9-525; Austin v. Rodman, 8-194. Notice of dishonor must be given to an anomalous indorser: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. Notice of dishonor must be given without regard to the solvency of the drawer or maker: Bank v. Trust Co., 177-254—and indorsers must have notice of dishonor even though at time of indorsement of instrument they had reason to believe and did believe that the instrument would not be paid by maker, Denny v. Palmer, 27-610—but surety upon instrument not discharged from liability by reason of fact that he was not given notice of its dishonor, Rouse v. Wooten, 140-557. Section cited: Bank v. Johnson, 169-526.

As to whether a party who indorses a note in blank at time the note is made is primarily or secondarily liable, see Lilly v. Baker, 88-154. As bearing upon section, see Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134; Spear v. Atkinson, 23-262; Bissell v. Bozman, 17-154.

3072. By whom notice given. The notice may be given by or on behalf of the holder or by or on behalf of any party to the instrument who might be compelled to pay to the holder, and who upon taking it up would have a right to reimbursement from the party to whom notice is given.

Rev., s. 2240; 1899, c. 733, s. 90.

Any person through whose hands instrument may have passed may give notice to drawer or prior indorser of dishonor of same: Bank v. Seawell, 9-560—although instrument may not at that time have been taken up by him, Ibid.

3073. Notice given by agent. Notice of dishonor may be given by an agent either in his own name or in the name of any party entitled to give notice, whether that party be his principal or not.

Rev., s. 2241; 1899, c. 733, s. 91.

3074. Effect of notice given on behalf of holder. Where notice is given by or on behalf of the holder, it inures to the benefit of all subsequent holders and all prior parties who have a right of recourse against the party to whom it is given.

Rev., s. 2242; 1899, c. 733, s. 92.

3075. Effect, where notice is given by party entitled thereto. Where notice is given by or on behalf of a party entitled to give notice it inures to the benefit of the holder and all parties subsequent to the party by whom notice is given.

Rev., s. 2243; 1899, c. 733, s. 93.

Rev., s. 2244; 1899, c. 733, s. 94.

3077. When notice sufficient. A written notice need not be signed and an insufficient written notice may be supplemented and validated by verbal communication. A misdescription of the instrument does not vitiate it unless the party to whom the notice is given is in fact misled thereby.

Rev., s. 2245; 1899, c. 733, s. 95.

Notice may be signed or unsigned: Bank v. Seawell, 9-560—and need not be in any particular form, Ibid.

Rev., s. 2246; 1899, c. 733, s. 96.

Notice is good if it be sufficient to put indorser upon inquiry: Bank v. Seawell, 9-560—and no particular form is required, as it may be oral or written or in print, Ibid.

3079. To whom notice may be given. Notice of dishonor may be given either to the party himself or to his agent in that behalf.

Rev., s. 2247; 1899, c. 733, s. 97.

3080. Notice when party is dead. When any party is dead and his death is known to the party giving notice, the notice must be given to a personal representative if there be one, and if with reasonable diligence he can be found. If there is no personal representative, notice may be sent to the last residence or last place of business of the deceased.

Rev., s. 2248; 1899, c. 733, s. 98.

3081. Notice to partners. When the parties to be notified are partners, notice to any one partner is notice to the firm, even though there has been a dissolution.

Rev., s. 2249; 1899, c. 733, s. 99.

3082. Notice to persons jointly liable. Notice to joint parties who are not partners must be given to each of them unless one of them has authority to receive such notice for the others.

Rev., s. 2250; 1899, c. 733, s. 100.

3083. Notice to bankrupt. Where a party has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, notice may be given either to the party himself or to his trustee or assignee.

Rev., s. 2251; 1899, c. 733, s. 101.

3084. Time within which notice must be given. Notice may be given as soon as the instrument is dishonored, and, unless delay is excused as hereinafter provided, must be given within the times fixed by this chapter.

Rev., s. 2252; 1899, c. 733, s. 102.

See sections 3085, 3086.

3085. Notice where parties reside in the same place. When the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in same place notice must be given within the following times: (1) If given at the place of business of the person to receive notice it must be given before the close of business hours on the day following; (2) if given at his residence it must be given before the usual hours of rest on the day following; (3) if sent by mail it must be deposited in the postoffice in time to reach him in the usual course on the day following.

Rev., s. 2253; 1899, c. 733, s. 103.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, State Bank v. Smith, 7-70.

3086. Notice where parties reside in different places. Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in different places the notice must be given within the following times: (1) If sent by mail it must be deposited in the postoffice in time to go by mail the day following the day of dishonor, or if there be no mail at a convenient hour on that day, by the next mail thereafter; (2) if given otherwise than through the postoffice, then within the time that notice would have been received in due course of mail if it had been deposited in the postoffice within the time specified in the last subdivision.

Rev., s. 2254; 1899, c. 733, s. 104.

Where parties live in different places, holder must give notice of nonacceptance or nonpayment on next day: Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134—or by next post after day of dishonor, Bank v.

Bradley, 117-526; Denny v. Palmer, 27-610; Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134. Contents of notice of dishonor may be proved by parol without notice to produce original: Faribault v. Ely, 13-67.

3087. When sender deemed to have given due notice. Where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the postoffice the sender is deemed to have given due notice, notwithstanding any miscarriage in the mails.

Rev., s. 2255; 1899, c. 733, s. 105.

See Faribault v. Ely, 13-70.

3088. What constitutes deposit in postoffice. Notice is deemed to have been deposited in the postoffice when deposited in any branch postoffice or in any letter-box under the control of the postoffice department.

Rev., s. 2256; 1899, c. 733, s. 106.

3089. Time of notice to antecedent parties. Where a party receives notice of dishonor he has, after the receipt of such notice, the same time for giving notice to antecedent parties that the holder has after the dishonor.

Rev., s. 2257; 1899, c. 733, s. 107.

3090. Where notice must be sent. Where a party has added an address to his signature, notice of dishonor must be sent to that address; but if he has not given such address, then the notice must be sent as follows: (1) Either to the postoffice nearest to his place of residence or to the postoffice where he is accustomed to receive his letters; or (2) if he lives in one place and has his place of business in another, notice may be sent to either place; or (3) if he be sojourning in another place notice may be sent to the place where he is sojourning. But where the notice is actually received by the party within the time specified in this chapter it will be sufficient, though not sent in accordance with requirements of this section.

Rev., s. 2258; 1899, c. 733, s. 108.

Notice of dishonor should be sent to postoffice nearest to party's address: Bank of U. S. v. Lane, 10-453—or to place of his residence, Denny v. Palmer, 27-610—but where drawer of instrument dates it at a particular place, notice of dishonor of instrument may generally be directed to him at that place, Ibid. See, as bearing upon section, Runyon v. Montfort, 44-371.

3091. Waiver of notice. Notice of dishonor may be waived either before the time of giving notice has arrived or after the omission to give due notice, and the waiver may be express or implied.

By indorsing a note which contains an express waiver as to extension of time, the indorser waives the right of notice of dishonor: Bank v. Johnston, 169-526. Although protest not necessary on inland bills, yet its waiver in such cases is construed to signify as much as when applied to foreign bills: Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535—and where protest waived on inland bill and no notice given of nonacceptance and nonpayment to indorsers, held that such notice was waived by waiver of protest, Ibid. Where indorsee neglects to give notice, drawer or indorser will still be liable if with knowledge of all facts he promises to pay instrument: Lilly v. Pette-way, 73-358; Moore v. Tucker, 25-347.

For waiver of notice by conduct, see Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535.

3092. Who affected by waiver. Where the waiver is embodied in the instrument itself it is binding upon all parties, but where it is written above the signature of an indorser it binds him only.

Rev., s. 2260; 1899, c. 733, s. 110.

Section cited: Bank v. Johnston, 169-526.

3093. Waiver of protest. A waiver of protest, whether in the case of a foreign bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, is deemed to be a waiver not only of a formal protest, but also of a presentment and notice of dishonor.

Rev., s. 2261; 1899, c. 733, s. 111.

Where protest waived on foreign bill, presentment and notice deemed to be waived also: Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535—and notice of dishonor on inland bill is waived by waiver of protest, Ibid.—but where settling partner, after dissolution of firm, gives instrument in payment of partnership debt, he cannot waive protest so as to bind former copartner, Mauney v. Coit, 80-300—especially where latter has been a dormant member, Ibid. Protest only necessary in case of foreign bills: Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535, and cases under section 3134.

Section cited: Bank v. Johnston, 169-526.

3094. When notice is dispensed with. Notice of dishonor is dispensed with when, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, it cannot be given to or does not reach the parties sought to be charged.

Rev., s. 2262; 1899, c. 733, s. 112.

As bearing upon subject-matter of section, see Runyon v. Montfort, 44-371.

3095. Delay in giving notice. Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, notice must be given with reasonable diligence.

Rev., s. 2263; 1899, c. 733, s. 113.

3096. When notice need not be given to drawer. Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to the drawer in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawer and the drawee are the same person; (2) where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract; (3) where the drawer is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; (4) where the drawer has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will honor the instrument; (5) where the drawer has countermanded payment.

Rev., s. 2264; 1899, c. 733, s. 114.

Generally, if drawer of instrument has no reasonable grounds to expect it to be honored, holder is not bound to give notice of dishonor, but if drawer has funds in hands of drawee he has right to expect instrument to be honored, and drawer is entitled to strict notice of instrument dishonored, although drawer knew, or had reason to believe, when instrument was drawn, that drawer was insolvent: Cedar Falls v. Wallace, 83-225.

3097. When notice need not be given to indorser. Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to an indorser in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, and the indorser was aware of the fact at the time he indorsed the instrument; (2) where the indorser is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; (3) where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation.

Rev., s. 2265; 1899, c. 733, s. 115.

Although, at time of indorsement, indorser believed that instrument would not be paid by maker, such circumstance does not dispense with necessity of due notice: Denny v. Palmer, 27-610.

As to whether party to be treated as indorser or as one primarily liable when he indorses paper at time of its execution, see Lilly v. Baker, 88-154; section 3044.

3098. Notice of nonpayment where acceptance refused. Where due notice of dishonor by nonacceptance has been given, notice of a subsequent dishonor by nonpayment is not necessary unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted.

Rev., s. 2266; 1899, c. 733, s. 116.

3099. Effect of omission to give notice of nonacceptance. An omission to give notice of dishonor by nonacceptance does not prejudice the rights of a holder in due course subsequent to the omission.

Rev., s. 2267; 1899, c. 733, s. 117.

3100. When protest need not be made; when it must be made. Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for nonacceptance or nonpayment as the case may be, but protest is not required except in the case of foreign bills of exchange.

Rev., s. 2268; 1899, c. 733, s. 118.

Protest not necessary to fix drawer and indorsers of inland bills with liability: Bank v. Bradley, 117-526; Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535; Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134—though it is necessary in case of foreign bills, Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535.

ART. 9. DISCHARGE

3101. How instrument discharged. A negotiable instrument is discharged (1) by payment in due course by or on behalf of the principal debtor; (2) by payment in due course by the party accommodated, where the instrument is made or accepted for accommodation; (3) by the intentional cancellation thereof by the holder; (4) by any other act which will discharge a simple contract for the payment of money; (5) when the principal debtor becomes the holder of the instrument at or after maturity in his own right.

Rev., s. 2269; 1899, c. 733, s. 119.

3102. Discharge of person secondarily liable. A person secondarily liable on the instrument is discharged (1) by any act which discharges the instrument; (2) by the intentional cancellation of his signature by the holder; (3) by the discharge of a prior party; (4) by a valid tender of payment made by a prior party; (5) by a release of the principal debtor, unless the holder's right of recourse against the party secondarily liable is expressly reserved; (6) by any agreement binding upon the holder to extend the time of payment or to postpone the holder's right to enforce the instrument, unless made with the assent of the party secondarily liable or unless the right of recourse against such party is expressly reserved.

Rev., s. 2270; 1899, c. 733, s. 120.

An agreement to extend the time: Roberson v. Spain, 173-23. Extension of time may be expressly waived in the note, and it applies to makers and indorsers: Bank v. Johnston, 169-526.

3103. Right of party paying instrument. When the instrument is paid by a party secondarily liable thereon it is not discharged; but the party so paying it is remitted to his former rights as regards all prior parties, and he may strike out his own and all subsequent indorsements, and again negotiate the instrument, except (1) where it is payable to the order of the third person and has been paid by the drawer; and (2) where it was made or accepted for accommodation and has been paid by the party accommodated.

Rev., s. 2271; 1899, c. 733, s. 121.

Person secondarily liable may pay note and sue principal, or give notice to holder to sue: Roberson v. Spain, 173-23. Indorser who pays instrument of principal can only recover from latter amount actually paid: Pace v. Robertson, 65-550. Where instrument payable to order of third person is protested and taken up by drawer, latter cannot again put it into circulation: Price v. Sharp, 24-417.

3104. Renunciation by holder. The holder may expressly renounce his rights against any party to the instrument before, at or after its maturity. An absolute and unconditional renunciation of his rights against the principal debtor made at or after the maturity of the instrument discharges the instrument. But a renunciation does not affect the rights of a holder in due course without notice. A renunciation must be in writing, unless the instrument is delivered up to the person primarily liable thereon.

3105. Unintentional cancellation; burden of proof. A cancellation made unintentionally or under a mistake or without the authority of the holder is inoperative, but where an instrument or any signature thereon appears to have been canceled the burden of proof lies on the party who alleges that the cancellation was made unintentionally or under a mistake or without authority.

Rev., s. 2273; 1899, c. 733, s. 123.

3106. Effect of alteration of instrument. Where a negotiable instrument is materially altered without the assent of all parties liable thereon, it is avoided except as against a party who has himself made, authorized or assented to the alteration, and subsequent indorsers. But when an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder in due course not a party to the alteration he may enforce payment thereof according to its original tenor.

Rev., s. 2274; 1899, c. 733, s. 124.

Material alteration vacates a bill or note except as between parties consenting thereto: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424—and such alteration by principal without knowledge or consent of surety discharges such surety from instrument: Darwin v. Rippey, 63-318.

3107. What constitutes a material alteration. Any alteration which changes (1) the date; (2) the sum payable either for principal or interest; (3) the time or place of payment; (4) the number or the relation of the parties; (5) the medium or currency in which payment is to be made; or which adds a place of payment where no place of payment is specified, or any other change or addition which alters the effect of the instrument in any respect, is a material alteration.

Rev., s. 2275; 1899, c. 733, s. 125.

Cutting off name of maker of instrument and substituting another is material alteration: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424—as is addition of words “in specie” after word “dollars” in sealed instrument, Darwin v. Rippey, 63-318—but held that prefixing of words “Pleasant Valley, S. C.,” to instrument was not material alteration, Houston v. Potts, 64-33.

ART. 10. BILLS OF EXCHANGE

3108. Bill of exchange defined. A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing, addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer.

Rev., s. 2276; 1899, c. 733, s. 126.

An "acceptance" is a bill of exchange: Sherrill v. Trust Co., 176-591. Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112; Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47.

For "acceptance" by banks and trust companies, see section 222.

3109. Bill not an assignment of funds in hands of drawee. A bill of itself does not operate as an assignment of the funds in the hands of the drawee available for the payment thereof, and the drawee is not liable on the bill unless and until he accepts the same.

Rev., s. 2277; 1899, c. 733, s. 127.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112. See annotations under section 3171.

3110. Bill addressed to more than one drawee. A bill may be addressed to two or more drawees jointly, whether they are partners or not, but not to two or more drawees in the alternative or in succession.

Rev., s. 2278; 1899, c. 733, s. 128.

3111. Inland and foreign bills of exchange. An inland bill of exchange is a bill which is or on its face purports to be both drawn and payable within this state. Any other bill is a foreign bill. Unless the contrary appears on the face of the bill the holder may treat it as an inland bill.

Rev., s. 2279; 1899, c. 733, s. 129.

When check drawn on bank is an inland bill of exchange: Sherrill v. Trust Co., 176-591.

3112. When bill may be treated as promissory note. Where in a bill drawer and drawee are the same person, or where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, the holder may treat the instrument, at his option, either as a bill of exchange or a promissory note.

Rev., s. 2280; 1899, c. 733, s. 130.

When drawer and drawee are the same person, holder may treat the instrument as a bill of exchange or a note: Sherrill v. Trust Co., 176-591.

3113. Referee in case of need. The drawer of a bill and any indorser may insert thereon the name of a person to whom the holder may resort in case of need: that is to say, in case the bill is dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. Such person is called the referee in case of need. It is in the option of the holder to resort to the referee in case of need or not, as he may see fit.

Rev., s. 2281; 1899, c. 733, s. 131.

ART. 11. ACCEPTANCE

3114. Acceptance defined; how made. The acceptance of a bill is the signification by the drawee of his assent to the order of the drawer. The acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawee. It must not express that the drawee will perform his promise by any other means than the payment of money.

Rev., s. 2282; 1899, c. 733, s. 132.

Authority to accept instruments must ordinarily be expressly conferred upon agent: Bank v. Hay, 143-326—but may be implied if the execution of the paper is necessary incident to business, Ibid.

3115. Holder entitled to acceptance on face of bill. The holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill, and if such request is refused, may treat the bill as dishonored.

Rev., s. 2283; 1899, c. 733, s. 133.

3116. Acceptance by separate instrument. Where an acceptance is written on a paper other than the bill itself it does not bind the acceptor except in favor of a person to whom it is shown and who, on the faith thereof, receives the bill for value.

Rev., s. 2284; 1899, c. 733, s. 134.

Letter written within reasonable time before or after date of instrument, describing it in terms not to be mistaken and promising to accept it, if shown to person who afterwards takes instrument on credit of the letter, is an acceptance of same: Bank v. Hay, 143-326; Nimocks v. Woody, 97-5.

3117. When promise to accept equivalent to acceptance. An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of every person who, upon the faith thereof, receives the bill for value.

Rev., s. 2285; 1899, c. 733, s. 135.

Letter as an acceptance: Bank v. Hay, 143-326; Nimocks v. Woody, 97-5, under preceding section.

3118. Time allowed drawee to accept. The drawee is allowed twenty-four hours after presentment in which to decide whether or not he will accept the bill, but the acceptance, if given, dates as of the day of presentation.

Rev., s. 2286; 1899, c. 733, s. 136.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3119. Liability of drawee retaining or destroying bill. Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or nonaccepted to the holder, he will be deemed to have accepted the same.

Rev., s. 2287; 1899, c. 733, s. 137.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3120. Acceptance of incomplete bill. A bill may be accepted before it has been signed by the drawer or while otherwise incomplete, or when it is overdue, or after it has been dishonored by a previous refusal to accept, or by nonpayment. But when a bill payable after sight is dishonored by nonacceptance and the drawee subsequently accepts it, the holder, in the absence of any different agreement, is entitled to have the bill accepted as of the date of the first presentment.

Rev., s. 2288; 1899, c. 733, s. 138.

3121. Kinds of acceptances. An acceptance is either general or qualified. A general acceptance assents without qualification to the order of the drawer. A qualified acceptance in express terms varies the effect of the bill as drawn.

Rev., s. 2289; 1899, c. 733, s. 139.

For qualified acceptance, see Wallace v. Douglass, 116-659.

3122. What constitutes a general acceptance. An acceptance to pay at a particular place is a general acceptance unless it expressly states that the bill is to be paid there only, and not elsewhere.

Rev., s. 2290; 1899, c. 733, s. 140.

3123. What constitutes a qualified acceptance. An acceptance is qualified which is (1) conditional; that is to say, which makes payment by the acceptor dependent on the fulfillment of a condition therein stated; (2) partial; that is to say, an acceptance to pay part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn; (3) local; that is to say, an acceptance to pay only at a particular place; (4) qualified as to time; (5) the acceptance of some one or more of the drawees, but not of all.

Rev., s. 2291; 1899, c. 733, s. 141.

Where person accepts instrument drawn on him "payable when I receive funds to use of drawer" he becomes liable when moneys are placed to his credit, though he had not taken manual possession thereof: Wallace v. Douglass, 116-659.

3124. Rights of parties as to qualified acceptance. The holder may refuse to take a qualified acceptance, and if he does not obtain an unqualified acceptance he may treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance. When a qualified acceptance is taken the drawer and indorsers are discharged from liability on the bill unless they have expressly or impliedly authorized the holder to take a qualified acceptance or subsequently assent thereto. When the drawer or an indorser receives notice of a qualified acceptance he must, within a reasonable time, express his dissent to the holder or he will be deemed to have assented thereto.

Rev., s. 2292; 1899, c. 733, s. 142.

ART. 12. PRESENTMENT FOR ACCEPTANCE

3125. When presentment for acceptance must be made. Presentment for acceptance must be made (1) where the bill is payable after sight, or in any other case where presentment for acceptance is necessary in order to fix the maturity of the instrument; or (2) where the bill expressly stipulates that it shall be presented for acceptance; or (3) where the bill is drawn payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee. In no other case is presentment for acceptance necessary in order to render any party to the bill liable.

Rev., s. 2293; 1899, c. 733, s. 143.

Rev., s. 2294; 1899, c. 733, s. 144.

3127. How presentment made. Presentment for acceptance must be made by or on behalf of the holder, at a reasonable hour on a business day and before the bill is overdue, to the drawee or some person authorized to accept or refuse acceptance on his behalf; and (1) where a bill is addressed to two or more drawees who are not partners, presentment must be made to them all, unless one has authority to accept or refuse acceptance for all, in which case presentment may be made to him only; (2) where the drawee is dead, presentment may be made to his personal representative; (3) where the drawee has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, presentment may be made to him or to his trustee or assignee.

Rev., s. 2295; 1899, c. 733, s. 145.

Instrument payable at no particular place in city or town must be presented at maker's residence or place of business: Bank v. Lutterloh, 95-495; Wittkowski v. Smith, 84-671.

3128. On what days presentment may be made. A bill may be presented for acceptance on any day on which negotiable instruments may be presented for payment under the provisions of this chapter.

Rev., s. 2296; 1899, c. 733, s. 146; 1909, c. 800, s. 1.

3129. Presentment where time is insufficient. Where the holder of a bill drawn payable elsewhere than at the place of business or the residence of the drawee has not time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to present the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment on the day that it falls due, the delay caused by presenting the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment is excused and does not discharge the drawers and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2297; 1899, c. 733, s. 147.

3130. Where presentment is excused. Presentment for acceptance is excused and a bill may be treated as dishonored by nonacceptance in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawee is dead or has absconded or is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract by bill; (2) where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment cannot be made; (3) where, although presentment has been irregular, acceptance has been refused on some ground.

Rev., s. 2298; 1899, c. 733, s. 148.

3131. When dishonored by nonacceptance. A bill is dishonored by nonacceptance (1) when it is duly presented for acceptance and such an acceptance as is prescribed in this chapter is refused or cannot be obtained; or (2) when a presentment for acceptance is executed and the bill is not accepted.

Rev., s. 2299; 1899, c. 733, s. 149.

3132. Duty of holder, where bill not accepted. Where a bill is duly presented for acceptance and is not accepted within the prescribed time, the person presenting it must treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance or he loses the right of recourse against the drawer and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2300; 1899, c. 733, s. 150.

3133. Rights of holder, where bill not accepted. When a bill is dishonored by nonacceptance an immediate right of recourse against the drawers and indorsers accrues to the holder, and no presentment for payment is necessary.

Rev., s. 2301; 1899, c. 733, s. 151.

ART. 13. PROTEST

3134. In what cases protest necessary. Where a foreign bill appearing on its face to be such is dishonored by nonacceptance, it must be duly protested for nonacceptance; and where such a bill which had not previously been dishonored by nonacceptance is dishonored by nonpayment, it must be duly protested for nonpayment. If it is not so protested the drawer and indorsers are discharged. Where a bill does not appear on its face to be a foreign bill, protest in case of dishonor is unnecessary.

Rev., s. 2302; 1899, c. 733, s. 152.

Protest necessary in case of foreign bills: Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535—though not necessary on inland bills, Bank v. Bradley, 117-526; Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535; Bank v. Lutterloh, 95-495; Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134.

Note executed in another state need not be protested before owner can sue indorser, such protest not being necessary in this state, and there being no evidence that protest required in state where note executed: Bank v. Carr, 130-479—for that common law presumed to prevail in other state, and required no protest on this note, Ibid.; Gooch v. Faucett, 122-270; Moody v. Johnson, 112-801.

By the law merchant protest of bill by notary public is in itself evidence: Gordon v. Price, 32-385.

Rev., s. 2303; 1899, c. 733, s. 153.

Decision prior to enactment of statute as to sufficiency of protest: Bank v. Lutterloh, 95-495.

3136. By whom protest made. Protest may be made by (1) a notary public; or (2) by any respectable resident of the place where the bill is dishonored, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses.

Rev., s. 2304; 1899, c. 733, s. 154.

3137. When protest to be made. When a bill is protested, such protest must be made on the day of its dishonor, unless delay is excused as herein provided. When a bill has been duly noted the protest may be subsequently extended as of the date of the noting.

Rev., s. 2305; 1899, c. 733, s. 155.

3138. Where protest made. A bill must be protested at the place where it is dishonored, except that when a bill drawn payable at the place of business or residence of some person other than the drawee has been dishonored by nonacceptance it must be protested for nonpayment at the place where it is expressed to be payable, and no further presentment for payment to or demand on the drawee is necessary.

Rev., s. 2306; 1899, c. 733, s. 156.

3139. Protest both for nonacceptance and nonpayment. A bill which has been protested for nonacceptance may be subsequently protested for nonpayment.

Rev., s. 2307; 1899, c. 733, s. 157.

3140. Protest before maturity, where acceptor insolvent. Where the acceptor has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors before the bill matures, the holder may cause the bill to be protested for better security against the drawer and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2308; 1899, c. 733, s. 158.

3141. When protest dispensed with. Protest is dispensed with by any circumstances which would dispense with notice of dishonor. Delay in noting or protesting is excused when delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, the bill must be noted or protested with reasonable diligence.

Rev., s. 2309; 1899, c. 733, s. 159.

3142. Protest where bill is lost. Where a bill is lost or destroyed or is wrongly detained from the person entitled to hold it, protest may be made on a copy or written particulars thereof.

Rev., s. 2310; 1899, c. 733, s. 160.

ART. 14. ACCEPTANCE FOR HONOR

3143. When a bill may be accepted for honor. Where a bill of exchange has been protested for dishonor by nonacceptance or protested for better security, and is not overdue, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, intervene and accept the bill supra protest for the honor of any party liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account the bill is drawn. The acceptance for honor may be part only of the sum for which the bill is drawn, and where there has been an acceptance for honor for one party there may be a further acceptance by a different person for the honor of another party.

Rev., s. 2311; 1899, c. 733, s. 161.

3144. How acceptance for honor made. An acceptance for honor supra protest must be in writing and indicate that it is an acceptance for honor, and must be signed by the acceptor for honor.

Rev., s. 2312; 1899, c. 733, s. 162.

3145. When deemed an acceptance for honor of drawer. Where an acceptance for honor does not expressly state for whose honor it is made, it is deemed to be an acceptance for the honor of the drawer.

Rev., s. 2313; 1899, c. 733, s. 163.

3146. Liability of acceptor for honor. The acceptor for honor is liable to the holder and to all parties to the bill subsequent to the party for whose honor he has accepted.

Rev., s. 2314; 1899, c. 733, s. 164.

3147. Agreement of acceptor for honor. The acceptor for honor by such acceptance engages that he will on due presentment pay the bill according to the terms of his acceptance, provided it shall not have been paid by the drawee; and provided, also, that it shall have been duly presented for payment and protested for nonpayment and notice of dishonor given to him.

Rev., s. 2315; 1899, c. 733, s. 165.

3148. Maturity of bill payable after sight accepted for honor. Where a bill payable after sight is accepted for honor its maturity is calculated from the date of the noting for nonacceptance and not from the date of the acceptance for honor.

Rev., s. 2316; 1899, c. 733, s. 166.

3149. Protest of bill accepted for honor. Where a dishonored bill has been accepted for honor supra protest or contains a reference in case of need, it must be protested for nonpayment before it is presented for payment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need.

Rev., s. 2317; 1899, c. 733, s. 167.

Rev., s. 2318; 1899, c. 733, s. 168.

3151. When delay in making presentment excused. The provisions of section 3062 apply where there is delay in making presentment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need.

Rev., s. 2319; 1899, c. 733, s. 169.

3152. Dishonor of bill by acceptor for honor. When the bill is dishonored by the acceptor for honor it must be protested for nonpayment by him.

Rev., s. 2320; 1899, c. 733, s. 170.

ART. 15. PAYMENT FOR HONOR

3153. Who may make payment for honor. Where a bill has been protested for nonpayment any person may intervene and pay it supra protest for the honor of any person liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account it was drawn.

Rev., s. 2321; 1899, c. 733, s. 171.

3154. How payment for honor must be made. The payment for honor supra protest in order to operate as such and not as a mere voluntary payment must be attested by a notarial act of honor, which may be appended to the protest or form an extension to it.

Rev., s. 2322; 1899, c. 733, s. 172.

3155. Declaration before payment for honor. The notarial act of honor must be founded on a declaration made by the payer for honor or by his agent in that behalf declaring his intention to pay the bill for honor and for whose honor he pays.

Rev., s. 2323; 1899, c. 733, s. 173.

3156. Preference of parties offering to pay for honor. Where two or more persons offer to pay a bill for the honor of different parties the person whose payment will discharge most parties to the bill is to be given the preference.

Rev., s. 2324; 1899, c. 733, s. 174.

3157. Effect on subsequent parties, where bill is paid for honor. Where a bill has been paid for honor all parties subsequent to the party for whose honor it is paid are discharged, but the payer for honor is subrogated for and succeeds to both the rights and duties of the holder as regards the party for whose honor he pays and all parties liable to the latter.

Rev., s. 2325; 1899, c. 733, s. 175.

3158. Where holder refuses to receive payment supra protest. Where the holder of a bill refuses to receive payment supra protest he loses his right of recourse against any party who would have been discharged by such payment.

Rev., s. 2326; 1899, c. 733, s. 176.

3159. Rights of payer for honor. The payer for honor on paying to the holder the amount of the bill and the notarial expenses incidental to its dishonor is entitled to receive both the bill itself and the protest.

Rev., s. 2327; 1899, c. 733, s. 177.

ART. 16. BILLS IN A SET

3160. Bills in a set constitute one bill. Where a bill is drawn in a set, each part of the set being numbered and containing a reference to the other parts, the whole of the parts constitute one bill.

Rev., s. 2328; 1899, c. 733, s. 178.

3161. Rights of holders, where different parts are negotiated. Where two or more parts of a set are negotiated to different holders in due course the holder whose title first accrues is, as between such holders, the true owner of the bill. But nothing in this section affects the rights of a person who in due course accepts or pays the part first presented to him.

Rev., s. 2329; 1899, c. 733, s. 179.

3162. Liability of holder who indorses two or more parts of a set to different persons. Where the holder of a set indorses two or more parts to different persons he is liable on every such part, and every indorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself indorsed as if such parts were separate bills.

Rev., s. 2330; 1899, c. 733, s. 180.

3163. Acceptance of bills drawn in sets. The acceptance may be written on any part, and it must be written on one part only. If the drawee accepts more than one part, and such accepted parts are negotiated to different holders in due course, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill.

Rev., s. 2331; 1899, c. 733, s. 181.

3164. Payment by acceptor of bills drawn in sets. When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a holder in due course, he is liable to the holder thereon.

Rev., s. 2332; 1899, c. 733, s. 182.

3165. Effect of discharging one of a set. Except as herein otherwise provided where any one part of a bill drawn in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise the whole bill is discharged.

Rev., s. 2333; 1899, c. 733, s. 183.

ART. 17. PROMISSORY NOTES AND CHECKS

3166. Negotiable promissory note defined. A negotiable promissory note within the meaning of this chapter is an unconditional promise in writing made by one person to another, signed by the maker, engaging to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. Where a note is drawn to the maker's own order it is not complete until indorsed by him.

Rev., s. 2334; 1899, c. 733, s. 184.

Definition of promissory note: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. To be negotiable the note must be payable to order or bearer: Newland v. Moore, 173-728; Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47. Note is not rendered nonnegotiable by reason of the fact that it is under seal: Christian v. Parrott, 114-215; Bank v. Michael, 96-53. Validity of note not affected because it sets out consideration for which given: Bank v. Michael, 96-53. To render a note nonnegotiable it must show upon its face that promise to pay is conditional, or the amount to be paid is uncertain: Ibid.; see, also, sections 2982-2987.

3167. Check defined. A check is a bill of exchange drawn on a bank payable on demand. Except as herein otherwise provided the provisions of this chapter that are applicable to a bill of exchange payable on demand apply to a check.

Rev., s. 2335; 1899, c. 733, s. 185.

Cashier's checks, whether certified or otherwise, are classed with bills of exchange payable on demand: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102—and stipulation stamped upon face of check that it will positively not be paid to a certain company or its agents, is valid stipulation and binding upon holder, Bank v. Bank, 118-783.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3168. Within what time a check must be presented. A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay.

Rev., s. 2336; 1899, c. 733, s. 186.

If check negotiated by indorsement for value without notice and within reasonable time, holder can maintain position of holder in due course: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102.

Holder of check upon bank, drawn before but presented after bank's assignment for benefit of creditors, is not entitled to amount thereof as against assignee: Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-196.

Holder of check upon bank located in town of residence may present same for payment on day after it is drawn, unless holder had information of its precarious condition: Bank v. Alexander, 84-30.

For discussion of rights of holder as against bank, drawer of check and assignee of bank, see Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-196; see, also, section 3171.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3169. Effect of certification of check. Where a check is certified by the bank on which it is drawn the certification is equivalent to an acceptance.

Rev., s. 2337; 1899, c. 733, s. 187.

Certification of a check is an acceptance by the bank: Drewry v. Davis, 151-295. Holder of check cannot maintain action against bank upon which check drawn until after its acceptance by bank: Bank v. Bank, 118-783; Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-202.

3170. Effect, where holder of check procures it to be certified. Where the holder of a check procures it to be accepted or certified the drawer and all indorsers are discharged from liability thereon.

Rev., s. 2338; 1899, c. 733, s. 188.

Having a check certified is an acceptance by the holder: Drewry v. Davis, 151-295.

3171. Check not assignment of funds. A check of itself does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder unless and until it accepts or certifies the check.

Rev., s. 2339; 1899, c. 733, s. 189.

Depositor is creditor of bank, his deposit becoming part of general fund, the property of bank, and subject to assignment by bank: Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-196—and though holder of check is, to the extent of his check, assignee of depositor's debt due him by bank, yet he has no lien upon deposit for amount of check, though payee or holder of check has an interest in deposit as against drawer, subject to bank's right to pay outstanding checks before notice, Ibid.

Giving of check upon bank is not, unless it is accepted by bank, an assignment of claim of depositor, and passes no title, legal or equitable, to his money on deposit in such bank: Perry v. Bank, 131-117. Action cannot be sustained against bank by payee of check unless check is accepted or certified by bank: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112; Perry v. Bank, 131-119; Bank v. Bank, 118-783; Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-202—though drawer has funds on deposit sufficient for its payment against which bank has no claim, Perry v. Bank, 131-117.

- 3187. Attorney's fees may be taxed as costs.

3180. What are nuisances under this chapter. Whoever shall erect, establish, continue, maintain, use, own, or lease any building, erection, or place used for the purpose of lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of whiskey is guilty of nuisance, and the building, erection, or place, or the ground itself, in or upon which such lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of liquor is conducted, permitted, or carried on, continued, or exists, and the furniture, fixtures, musical instruments and contents, are also declared a nuisance, and shall be enjoined and abated as hereinafter provided.

See State v. Webber, 107-962; Godwin v. Telephone Co., 136-258; State v. Boyd, 175-791; State v. Price, 175-804. See section 4347.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1919, c. 761, s. 26.

3182. When triable; evidence; dismissal of complaint. The action when brought shall be triable at the first term of court after service of the summons has been made, and in such action evidence of the general reputation of the place shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the existence of said nuisance. If the complaint is filed by a citizen, it shall not be dismissed except upon a sworn statement made by the complainant and his attorney, setting forth the reason why the action should be dismissed, and the dismissal approved by the city prosecuting attorney, or solicitor, in writing or in open court. If the court is of the opinion that the action ought not to be dismissed, he may direct the city prosecuting attorney, or the solicitor, to prosecute said action to judgment; and if the action continued more than one term of court, any citizen of the county, or the county attorney, may be substituted for the complaining party and prosecute said action to judgment. If the action is brought by a citizen, and the court finds there was no reasonable ground or cause of said action, the costs may be taxed to such citizen.

Evidence admissible in such cases, see section 4347.

3183. Violation of injunction; punishment. In case of the violation of any injunction granted under the provisions of this chapter, the court, or, in vacation, a judge thereof, may summarily try and punish the offender. A party found guilty of contempt under the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred or more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three or more than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 28.

3184. Order abating nuisance; what it shall contain. If the existence of the nuisance be established in an action as provided in this chapter, or in a criminal proceeding, an order of abatement shall be entered as a part of the judgment in the cause, which order shall direct the removal from the building or place of all fixtures, furniture, musical instruments, or movable property used in conducting the nuisance, and shall direct the sale thereof in the manner provided for the sale of chattels under execution, and the effectual closing of the building or place against its use for any purpose, and so keeping it closed for a period of one year, unless sooner released. If any person shall break and enter, or use said building, erection, or place so directed to be closed, he shall be punished as for contempt, as provided in the preceding section. For moving and selling the movable property, the officer shall be entitled to charge and receive the same fees as he would for levying upon and selling like property on execution; and for closing the premises and keeping them closed, a reasonable sum shall be allowed by the court.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 29.

For forfeiture of property for violation of statutes, see Daniels v. Homer, 139-219; Skinner v. Thomas, 171-98.

3185. Application of proceeds of sale. The proceeds of the sale of the personal property as provided in the preceding section shall be applied in the payment of the costs of the action and abatement, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the defendant.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 30.

3186. How order of abatement may be canceled. If the owner appears and pays all cost of the proceeding and files a bond, with sureties to be approved by the clerk, in the full value of the property, to be ascertained by the court, or, in vacation, by the clerk of the superior court, conditioned that he will immediately abate said nuisance, and prevent the same from being established or kept within a period of one year thereafter, the court may, if satisfied of his good faith, order the premises closed under the order of abatement to be delivered to said owner, and said order of abatement canceled so far as same may relate to said property; and if the proceeding be a civil action, and said bond be given and costs therein paid before judgment and order of abatement, the action shall be thereby abated as to said building only. The release of the property under the provisions of this section shall not release it from any judgment, lien, penalty, or liability to which it may be subject by law.

3187. Attorney's fees may be taxed as costs. The court shall tax as part of the cost in any action brought hereunder such fee for the attorney prosecuting the action or proceedings as may in the court's discretion be reasonable remuneration for the services performed by such attorney.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 32.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3188. Oaths to be administered with solemnity. Whereas, lawful oaths for the discovery of truth and establishing right are necessary and highly conducive to the important end of good government; and being most solemn appeals to Almighty God, as the omniscient witness of truth and the just and omnipotent avenger of falsehood, such oaths, therefore, ought to be taken and administered with the utmost solemnity.

Rev., s. 2353; R. C., c. 76, s. 1; 1777, c. 108, s. 2.

This section applies to manner of taking and administering oath, as well as to substance: Pearre v. Folb, 123-239; State v. Davis, 69-383.

One who believes in the existence of a Supreme Being and that God will punish in this world for every sin committed, though he does not believe in punishment after death, is competent to be sworn: Shaw v. Moore, 49-25. For further discussion as to competency of witness to take the oath, see State v. Pitt, 166-268. The ruling of the judge as to competency of witness to take the oath is conclusive: Ibid.

An oath administered to a juror in the manner prescribed by statute is sufficient; the juror need not repeat the words, "So help me, God": State v. Paylor, 89-539.

The taking of an oath of office is a mere incident and constitutes no part of the office, and the office may exist without it: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-662; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59.

An oath to support the constitution of the state and of the United States is required of officers, but not of placemen: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

No objection after verdict to manner of juror's oath: State v. Council, 129-517—or to failure to swear a witness, State v. Gee, 92-756—or to swearing of an atheist, State v. Davis, 80-412.

3189. Administration of oath upon the Gospels. Judges and justices of the peace, and other persons who may be empowered to administer oaths, shall (except in the cases in this chapter excepted) require the party sworn to lay his hand upon the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, in token of his engagement to speak the truth, as he hopes to be saved in the way and method of salvation pointed out in that blessed volume; and in further token that, if he should swerve from the truth, he may be justly deprived of all the blessings of the Gospel, and made liable to that vengeance which he has imprecated on his own head; and he shall kiss the Holy Gospel, as a seal of confirmation to the said engagements.

The manner of swearing is the form adapted to the religious belief of the general mass of citizens for the sake of convenience and uniformity: State v. Pitt, 166-268, citing Shaw v. Moore, 49-25.

Statute must be strictly followed: Pearre v. Folb, 123-239; State v. Owen, 72-612; State v. Davis, 69-383. The administration of an oath to a witness is an official act of the court, and it being shown affirmatively that an oath was administered to the defendant in open court on the Bible, it is presumed that it is rightly done: State v. Mace, 86-668. The administration of an oath is a ministerial act, and may be done by any one in the presence and by the direction of the court, but is the act of the court: State v. Knight, 84-789; State v. Mace, 86-668; Rowland v. Thompson, 65-110. The coroner, and not a justice of the peace, is the one authorized to administer oaths in a coroner's inquest: State v. Knight, 84-389. Irregular for deputy sheriff to swear appraisers of homestead: Oates v. Munday, 127-444. Deputy clerk may take affidavit in claim and delivery proceedings: Jackson v. Buchanan, 89-74. Where words "you swear" were omitted by clerk, which was reprehensible, under the circumstances of this case it did not vitiate the oath: State v. Owen, 72-605.

As to cases excepted in above section, see sections 3190, 3191.

3190. Administration of oath with uplifted hand. When the person to be sworn shall be conscientiously scrupulous of taking a book oath in manner aforesaid, he shall be excused from laying hands upon, or touching the Holy Gospel; and the oath required shall be administered in the following manner, namely: He shall stand with his right hand lifted up towards heaven, in token of his solemn appeal to the Supreme God, and also in token that if he should swerve from the truth he would draw down the vengeance of heaven upon his head, and shall introduce the intended oath with these words, namely:

I, A. B., do appeal to God, as a witness of the truth and the avenger of falsehood, as I shall answer the same at the great day of judgment, when the secrets of all hearts shall be known (etc., as the words of the oath may be).

If usual form of oath upon Holy Evangelists is dispensed with, and an appeal or affirmation is substituted, it must appear that the person who affirmed had conscientious scruples, else the appeal or affirmation is invalid: State v. Davis, 69-385.

As to the validity of the oath administered to an elector by the registrar where elector only affirms by uplifted hand, see DeBerry v. Nicholson, 102-465; see, also, section 5940.

When a witness comes before a tribunal to be sworn it is to be presumed that he has settled the point with himself in what manner he will be sworn, and he should make it known to the officer of the court; and should he be sworn with uplifted hand, though not conscientiously scrupulous of swearing on the Gospels, and depose falsely, he subjects himself to the pains and penalties of perjury: State v. Whisenhurst, 9-458; see sections 4264-4267.

For interpretation of word "oath" to mean "affirmation," see section 3939.

3191. Affirmation of Quakers and others. The solemn affirmation of Quakers, Moravians, Dunkers and Mennonites, made in the manner heretofore used and accustomed, shall be admitted as evidence in all civil and criminal actions; and in all cases where they are required to take an oath to support the constitution of the state, or of the United States, or an oath of office, they shall make their solemn affirmation in the words of the oath beginning after the word "swear"; which affirmation shall be effectual to all intents and purposes.

Rev., s. 2356; Code, s. 3311; R. C., c. 76, s. 3; 1777, c. 108, s. 4; 1777, c. 115, s. 42; 1819, c. 1019; 1821, c. 1112.

3192. Oaths of corporations. In all cases where a corporation is appointed administrator, executor, collector, or to any other fiduciary position, of which fiduciary an oath is required by law, such oath may be taken by such corporation by and through any officer or agent of said corporation who is authorized by law to verify pleadings in behalf of such corporation; and any oath so taken shall be valid as the oath of such corporation. Any oath heretofore taken in the manner aforesaid in behalf of a corporation as such fiduciary is hereby validated as the oath of such corporation.

3193. Oath to support constitution of United States; all officers take. All members of the general assembly, and all officers who shall be elected or appointed to any office of trust or profit within the state, shall, agreeably to act of congress, take the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the constitution of the United States; so help me, God.

Which oath shall be taken before they enter upon the execution of the duties of the office.

Public officers who have not taken the required oaths of office are not entitled to the salaries attached to such offices: Wiley v. Worth, 61-171. The taking of an oath of office is a mere incident and constitutes no part of the office, and the office may exist without it: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-662; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59. An oath to support the constitution of the state and of the United States is required of officers, but not of placemen: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

As to what is an office or place of trust or profit hereunder, see Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136; Ellison v. Raleigh, 89-125; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-495; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59.

3194. Oath or affirmation to support state constitution; all officers to take. Every member of the general assembly, and every person who shall be chosen or appointed to hold any office of trust or profit in the state, shall, before taking his seat or entering upon the execution of the office, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely swear (or affirm) that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the state of North Carolina, and to the constitutional powers and authorities which are or may be established for the government thereof; and that I will endeavor to support, maintain and defend the constitution of said state, not inconsistent with the constitution of the United States, to the best of my knowledge and ability; so help me, God.

Where such person shall be of the people called Quakers, Moravians, Mennonites or Dunkers, he shall take and subscribe the following affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely declare and affirm that I will truly and faithfully demean myself as a peaceful citizen of North Carolina; that I will be subject to the powers and authorities that are or may be established for the good government thereof, not inconsistent with the constitution of the state and constitution of the United States, either by yielding an active or passive obedience thereto, and that I will not abet or join the enemies of the state, by any means, in any conspiracy whatever, against the state; that I will disclose and make known to the legislative, executive or judicial powers of the state all treasonable conspiracies which I shall know to be made or intended against the state.

See annotations under section 3193.

3195. When deputies may administer. In all cases where any civil officer, in the discharge of his duties, is permitted by the law to administer an oath, the deputy of such officer, when discharging such duties, shall have authority to administer it, provided he is a sworn officer; and the oath thus administered by the deputy shall be as obligatory as if administered by the principal officer, and shall be attended with the same penalties in case of false swearing.

3196. Administration by certain officers. The chairman of the board of county commissioners and the chairman of the board of education of the several counties may administer oaths in any matter or hearing before their respective boards.

Rev., s. 2362; 1899, c. 89; 1889, c. 529.

For power of sheriff to administer oath in homestead allotment, see section 730. For power of register of deeds to administer oaths, see section 2500.

3197. When county surveyors may administer oaths. The county surveyors of the several counties are empowered to administer oaths to all such persons as are required by law to be sworn in making partition of real estate, in laying off widows' dower, in establishing boundaries and in surveying vacant lands under warrants.

Rev., s. 2361; Code, s. 3314; 1881, c. 144.

3198. Certain oaths validated. All oaths and affidavits made prior to the first day of March, nineteen hundred and fifteen, administered by authorized officers to persons with uplifted hands be and the same are hereby validated and made as legal and binding as if administered to persons laying hands on and kissing the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, whether said oaths and affidavits were made by persons conscientiously scrupulous of taking a "book oath" or not, and whether such oaths and affidavits were made in other respects in strict compliance with section 3189 of this chapter: Provided, that this section shall not affect the rights of the parties in actions now pending nor in any manner affect prosecutions for perjury claimed to have been heretofore committed.

Rev., s. 2363; 1899, c. 50; 1915, c. 3.

- 3210. Petition filed with clerk; what it shall contain; answer.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3200. No person shall hold more than one office. No person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this state, or under any other state or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this state, or be eligible to a seat in either house of the general assembly; Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, justices of the peace, commissioners of public charities, or commissioners for special purposes.

Rev., s. 2364; Const., Art. XIV, s. 7.

One man may not hold two offices: Downtin v. Beardsley, 126-119.

Legislature may attach additional duties to an existing office and it may afterwards lop off those duties and assign them to a new office, leaving the original office as it was before the additional duties were attached to it, and original officer must not claim both offices: Ibid.

But adding new duties to an office already in existence is not creating a new office: McCullers v. Comrs., 158-75. And for the judge to appoint an attorney, who is federal officer, to prosecute temporarily for the solicitor is not holding two offices: State v. Wood, 175-809.

Acceptance of a second office by one already holding a public office operates ipso facto to vacate the first. While the officer has right to elect which he will retain, his election is deemed made when he accepts and qualifies for the second: Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-493; Midgett v. Gray, 158-133; s. c., 159-443; Whitehead v. Pittman, 165-89.

The question of holding two public offices at the same time does not depend as at common law upon incompatibility alone, but upon the constitution: Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-493.

A public office is not property; and this applies both to constitutional and statutory offices. The reason the legislature cannot abolish constitutional as well as statutory offices lies in the fact that the constitution itself has made provision for them, and not because there is any property in them: Mial v. Ellington, 134-138, overruling Hoke v. Henderson, 15-1, and cases based upon its ruling on these points.

“OFFICE OR PLACE OF TRUST OR PROFIT” INTERPRETED. As to the difference between “offices or places of trust or profit” and mere administrative agencies, see Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Groves v. Barden, 169-8; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-495; Ellison v. Raleigh, 89-125.

Under this section the "office or place of trust or profit" referred to means a public position involving a delegation to the individual of some part of the sovereign functions of the government to be exercised for the public benefit: Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136.

The true test of a public office is that it is a parcel of the administration of government, civil or military, or is itself created directly by the lawmaking power: Eliason v. Coleman, 86-236.

A public office is an agency of the state, and the person whose duty it is to perform this agency is a public officer: Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Day's case, 124-362.

An employment by the state not connected with government, and not requiring any action as agent for the state, is not an office: Nichols v. McKee, 68-429; Welker v. Bledsoe, 68-457.

The distinction between officers and placemen is that the former is required to take an oath to support the constitutions of the state and the United States, while the latter are not: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

A public office is a public trust, and public officers are merely the agents of the people: State v. Godwin, 123-697; Basket v. Moss, 115-457.

Where a statute imposes certain duties to be performed by an officer after expiration of term of office, their performance does not constitute a place or office of trust or profit so as to disqualify the former officer from holding another office at the same time: McNeill v. Somers, 96-467.

The following have been held to be offices: A director of a state institution, Nichols v. McKee, 68-429; Welker v. Bledsoe, 68-457—a policeman, McIlhenny v. Wilmington, 127-146—a county commissioner, Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-493—a member of county board of education, Ibid.—a county surveyor, Dowtin v. Beardsley, 126-119—county superintendent of roads, Ibid.—clerk superior court, White v. Murray, 126-156—chief of police, Foard v. Hall, 111-369—member of school committee, Midgett v. Gray, 159-443—commissioner of sinking fund in a municipal corporation, Borden v. Goldsboro, 173-661—deputy clerk of superior court, Bank v. Redwine, 171-559—a notary public, State v. Knight, 169-333—rural mail carrier, Groves v. Barden, 169-8.

A justice of the peace is an officer, but he is not excluded from holding another office: State v. Lord, 145-479.

A public administrator is not one holding an office within the meaning of this section: Wooten v. Smith, 145-476—nor is a deputy sheriff, Railroad v. Fisher, 109-1—nor is a member of a special investigating committee of the legislature a public officer such as would, under this section, oust him as member of the general assembly, Bank v. Worth, 117-152—nor a night watchman of a public building, Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136—nor a mail contractor, or carrier for such contractor, State v. Boone, 132-1107.

3201. Holding office contrary to the constitution; penalty. If any person presumes to hold any office, or place of trust or profit, or is elected to a seat in either house of the general assembly, contrary to the seventh section of the fourteenth article of the constitution of the state, he shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who will sue for the same.

Rev., s. 2365; Code, s. 1870; R. C., c. 77, s. 1; 1790, c. 319; 1792, c. 366; 1793, c. 393; 1796, c. 450; 1811, c. 811.

See Groves v. Barden, 169-8.

3202. Bargains for office void. All bargains, bonds and assurances made or given for the purchase or sale of any office whatsoever, the sale of which is contrary to law, shall be void.

Rev., s. 2366; Code, s. 1871; R. C., c. 77, s. 2; 5 and 6 Edw. VI, c. 16, s. 3.

Contracts to procure appointment to office are void, or to resign office in another's favor, traffic in public offices being against good morals and contrary to public policy: Basket v. Moss, 115-448.

Section 3959 prohibits a sheriff from letting to farm, in any manner, his county or part of it: Cansler v. Penland, 126-793, 125-578.

3203. Oath required before acting; penalty. Every officer and other person required to take an oath of office, or an oath for the faithful discharge of any duty imposed on him, and also the oath appointed for such as hold any office of trust or profit in the state, shall take all said oaths before entering on the duties of the office, or the duties imposed on such person, on pain of forfeiting five hundred dollars to the use of the poor of the county in or for which the office is to be used, and of being ejected from his office or place by proper proceedings for that purpose.

Rev., s. 2367; Code, s. 1873; R. C., c. 77, s. 4.

The taking of the oath of office is not indispensable, for the office may exist without it; it is a mere incident and constitutes no part of the office: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-662; Midgett v. Gray, 159-443; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59—and this is true also as to the salary or fees, Ibid.

Rev., s. 2368; Code, s. 1872; R. C., c. 77, s. 3; 1844, c. 38, s. 2; 1848, c. 64, s. 1; Const., Art. IV, s. 25.

For penalty for acting as officer without giving bond, see Bonds, s. 325.

For quo warranto proceedings to test the title to a public office, see sections 869-887. One who professes to be the incumbent of an office and performs the duties of the same is estopped from denying the legality of his appointment: State v. Long, 76-254. A provision for an appointment to office "biennially" ex vi termini implies a two years term of office: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-651.

Legislature may, within reasonable limits, change the duties and diminish the emoluments of a constitutional office if the public welfare requires it to be done, and to this the incumbent must submit: Fortune v. Comrs., 140-331, and cases therein cited.

An officer appointed for a definite time to a legislative office has no vested property therein or contract right thereto of which the legislature cannot deprive him: Mial v. Ellington, 134-131 (overruling Hoke v. Henderson, 15-1); see "office-holding cases" annotated under section 870.

A de jure officer is one who is in or entitled to the office as a right, while a de facto officer is one who discharges the duties of the office under color of title: State ex rel. Norfleet v. Staton, 73-546. De facto officer distinguished from a mere usurper: Whitehead v. Pittman, 165-89. There must be a legal office before one is a de facto officer: State v. Shuford, 128-591. Acts of de facto officers who exercise their office for considerable length of time are as effectual when they concern rights of third persons as if they were officers de jure: Hughes v. Long, 119-52; DeBerry v. Nicholson, 102-475; State v. Davis, 109-782; State v. Lewis, 107-967.

To constitute one an officer de facto there must be an actual exercise of the office and acquiescence of public authority long enough to cause, in the mind of a citizen, a strong presumption that officer was duly appointed: Hughes v. Long, 119-52. When it appears or is admitted that an act was not done by an officer de jure, it is incumbent upon the party relying upon the validity of his act to show that he was an officer de facto: Ibid.

Where an appointment is made by a de facto officer, holding an office to which is annexed the appointing power, such an appointee holds a title to the office against the appointee of a de jure officer subsequently made: Baker v. Hobgood, 126-149; St. George v. Hardie, 147-88.

Where there are two rival boards, both de facto and both exercising as far as possible the duties of the office, and each makes an appointment the same day to the same place, in such case the appointee of the de facto board which is subsequently adjudged to be the de jure board clearly has the title: Baker v. Hobgood, 126-149. When both officers are acting and claiming to be de facto, possession by the de jure officer excludes the consideration of any other claim: Ibid.

A clerk who held over from the day of general election, to wit, the first Thursday in August, until the first Monday in the ensuing September, when his successor was installed, was at least clerk de facto, and his acts cannot be collaterally impeached, and are valid as between third parties: Threadgill v. R. R., 73-178.

3205. Officer to hold until successor qualified. All officers shall continue in their respective offices until their successors are elected or appointed, and duly qualified.

Unless otherwise provided, an officer duly appointed to fill a vacancy holds only until his successor is duly appointed or elected and qualifies: Markham v. Simpson, 175-135; Salisbury v. Croom, 167-223.

Where vacancy occurred in the office of superior court clerk, the appointee of the judge holds only until the next election at which members of the general assembly are chosen: Rodwell v. Rowland, 137-617, overruling Deloatch v. Rogers, 86-357.

3206. Citizen to recover funds of county or town retained by delinquent official. When an official of a county, city or town is liable upon his bond for unlawfully and wrongfully retaining by virtue of his office a fund, or a part thereof, to which the county, city or town is entitled, any citizen and taxpayer may, in his own name for the benefit of the county, city or town, institute suit and recover from the delinquent official the fund so retained. Any county commissioners, aldermen, councilmen or governing board who fraudulently, wrongfully and unlawfully permit an official so to retain funds shall be personally liable therefor; any citizen and taxpayer may, in his own name for the benefit of the county, city or town, institute suit and recover from such county commissioners, aldermen, councilmen or governing board, the fund so retained. Before instituting suit under this section, the citizen and taxpayer shall file a statement before the county commissioners, treasurer, or other officers authorized by law to institute the suit, setting forth the fund alleged to be retained or permitted to be retained, and demanding that suit be instituted by the authorities authorized to sue within sixty days. The citizen and taxpayer so suing shall receive one-third part, up to the sum of five hundred dollars, of the amount recovered, to indemnify him for his services, but the amount received by the taxpayer and citizen as indemnity shall in no case exceed five hundred dollars.

This applies to money collected before the act was passed; and without such statute a taxpayer may, in a proper case, maintain an action to recover public funds: Waddill v. Masten, 172-582.

3207. Local: Officers compensated from fees to render statement; penalty; proceeds to school fund. Every clerk of the superior court, register of deeds, sheriff, coroner, surveyor, or other county officer, whose compensation for services performed shall be derived from fees, shall render to the board of county commissioners of their respective counties, on the first Monday in December of each year, a statement, verified under oath, showing: first, the total gross amount of all fees collected during the preceding fiscal year; second, the total amount paid out during the preceding fiscal year for clerical or office assistance. Any county officer, subject to this section, who refuses or fails to file such report as above provided, on or before the first Monday in December, shall be subject to a fine of twenty-five dollars and ten dollars additional for each day or fraction of a day such failure shall continue. The board of county commissioners shall assess and collect the penalty above provided for, and apply same to the general school fund of the county. The first report under this section shall be for the fiscal year beginning December twelfth, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

This section applies only to the counties of Anson, Bertie, Bladen, Carteret, Chowan, Currituck, Duplin, Halifax, Harnett, Haywood, Hertford, Johnston, Jones, Moore, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Randolph, Richmond, Rowan, Scotland, Union, Vance, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Wilson.

1913, c. 97; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 10.

Action by taxpayer to enforce the payment of fees collected: Waddill v. Masten, 172-584. Where sheriff's office was placed on a salary basis by special act, and fees and commissions were to be paid over to treasurer, this applied to uncollected taxes in the hands of the sheriff upon reelection: Mills v. Deaton, 170-386—but where such an act takes effect from the expiration of the terms of present incumbents, it will not apply to taxes in the hands of retiring sheriff, Comrs. v. Bain, 173-377.

ART. 2. REMOVAL OF UNFIT OFFICERS

3208. Officers subject to removal; for what offenses. Any city prosecuting attorney, any sheriff, police officer, or constable, shall be removed from office by the judge of the superior court upon charges made in writing, and hearing thereunder, for the following cause:

First. For willful or habitual neglect or refusal to perform the duties of his office.

Second. For willful misconduct or maladministration in office.

Third. For corruption.

Fourth. For extortion.

Fifth. Upon conviction of a felony.

Sixth. For intoxication, or upon conviction of being intoxicated.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 20.

3209. Petition for removal; county attorney to prosecute. The complaint or petition shall be entitled in the name of the state of North Carolina, and may be filed upon the relation of any five qualified electors of the county in which the person charged is an officer, upon the approval of the county attorney of such county, or the solicitor of the district, or by any such officer upon his own motion. It shall be the duty of the county attorney or solicitor to appear and prosecute this proceeding.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 21.

3210. Petition filed with clerk; what it shall contain; answer. The accused shall be named as defendant, and the petition shall be signed by some elector, or by such officer. The petition shall state the charges against the accused, and may be amended, and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the person charged is an officer. The accused may at any time prior to the time fixed for hearing file in the office of the clerk of the superior court his answer, which shall be verified.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 22.

3211. Suspension pending hearing; how vacancy filled. Upon the filing of the petition in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and the presentation of the same to the judge, the judge may suspend the accused from office if in his judgment sufficient cause appear from the petition and affidavit, or affidavits, which may be presented in support of the charges contained therein. In case of suspension, as herein provided, the temporary vacancy shall be filled in the manner provided by law for filling of the vacancies in such office.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 23.

3212. Precedence on calendar; costs. In the trial of the cause in the superior court the cause shall be advanced and take precedence over all other causes upon the court calendar, and shall be heard at the next term after the petition is filed, provided the proceedings are filed in said court in time for said action to be heard. The superior court shall fix the time of hearing. If the final termination of such proceedings be favorable to any accused officer, said officer shall be allowed the reasonable and necessary expense, including a reasonable attorney fee, to be fixed by the judge, he has incurred in making his defense, by the county, if he be a county officer, or by the city or town in which he holds office, if he be a city officer. If the action is instituted upon the complaint of citizens as herein provided, and it appears to the court that there was no reasonable cause for filing the complaint, the costs may be taxed against the complaining parties.

ART. 4. PARTITION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

- 3253. Personal property may be partitioned; commissioners appointed.
- 3254. Report of commissioners.
- 3255. Sale of personal property on partition; report of officer.
- 3256. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer.
- 3257. Notice of sale of personal property.

ART. 1. PARTITION OF REAL PROPERTY

3213. Partition is a special proceeding. Partition under this chapter shall be by special proceeding, and the procedure shall be the same in all respects as prescribed by law in special proceedings, except as modified herein.

Rev., s. 2485; Code, s. 1923; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 33.

Procedure same as in other special proceedings, see Skinner v. Carter, 108-106; Capps v. Capps, 85-408.

This chapter does not apply to case where tenants in common have by contract agreed upon terms as to manner and extent of partition: Keener v. Den, 73-132.

Cases where partition by consent: Harrison v. Ray, 108-215; Carson v. Carson, 122-645; Camp Mfg. Co. v. Liverman, 123-7; Fort v. Allen, 110-183—or where land partitioned according to provision of will, Midgett v. Midgett, 117-8; McClure v. Taylor, 109-641; Hays v. Davis, 105-482; Cheatham v. Crews, 83-313.

3214. Venue in partition. The proceedings for partition, actual or by sale, must be instituted in the county where the land lies. If the land to be partitioned lies in more than one county, the proceedings may be instituted in either of the counties.

Rev., s. 2486; Code, s. 1898; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 7.

3215. Petition by cotenant. One or more persons claiming real estate as joint tenants or tenants in common may have partition by petition to the superior court.

Rev., s. 2487; Code, s. 1892; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 1.

WHO ARE PROPER PARTIES. Persons having reversionary interest in land are necessary parties in proceeding hereunder, as well as life tenant: Bell v. Adams, 81-118. Every tenant in common must be made party, as the whole tract shall be partitioned or sold—though shares may be allotted to some of the tenants, while a sale may be decreed as to others: Brooks v. Austin, 95-474. Contingent remaindermen, not represented either by guardian or by attorney, and not named in the process, pleadings or decree, are not bound by proceedings for partition instituted by the other remaindermen and life tenant: Whitesides v. Cooper, 115-570. Mother and only living children cannot represent as a class a child en ventre sa mere in partition proceedings of lands of which father died seized, so as to pass inheritance of unborn child to purchaser: Deal v. Sexton, 144-157. Widow entitled to dower in land, and administratrix of tenant in common are necessary parties to petition for partition: Gregory v. Gregory, 69-522. Where there are contingent interests to be affected by partition proceedings, partition will be decreed if there is some one before the court to represent such interests: Overman v. Tate, 114-571. A proceeding in partition does not bind an infant who is not made a party nor properly represented: Vick v. Tripp, 153-90—but he may ratify by dealing with property after coming of age, Vick v. Wooten, 171-121.

Where petition alleges tenancy in common as to one tract and the answer alleges that the tenancy in common also extends to another tract, the court will direct partition as to both; but not when third persons are also interested in one tract and not in the other: Luther v. Luther, 157-499.

AS TO THE PETITION. Allegation of possession not vitally essential to petition for partition: Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-796; overruling Alsbrook v. Reid, 89-151; but see Wood v. Sugg, 91-93—nor is averment of title, Graves v. Barrett, 126-267. It is not necessary to verify a petition: Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189. Allegation in petition hereunder that defendant has an estate in certain number of acres of said land is insufficient: Baum v. Shooting Club, 96-310. Petition for partition which asks division of several separate and distinct tracts of land not held by same tenants in common is multifarious: Simpson v. Wallace, 83-477. While petition for partition is defective which does not set forth that petitioners are tenants in common and in possession of land, yet omission of allegation does not deprive clerk of jurisdiction hereunder: Godwin v. Early, 114-11; McGill v. Buie, 106-242; Alsbrook v. Reid, 89-151. As to sufficiency of demurrer to petition, see McGill v. Buie, 106-242.

WHERE PLEA OF "SOLE SEIZIN" ENTERED. In petition hereunder title not in issue unless defendant pleads sole seizin: Graves v. Barrett, 126-267. Effect of plea of sole seizin hereunder is practically to convert proceeding into action of ejectment and to bring into operation rules of proof and estoppel applicable to that action: Ditmore v. Rexford, 165-620; Sipe v. Herman, 161-107; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-796; Honeycutt v. Brooks, 116-788; Hatcher v. Hatcher, 127-201; Shannon v. Lamb, 126-47; Cox v. Lumber Co., 124-80. One pleading sole seizin must have defense bond: Gill v. Porter, 174-569; Copper v. Warlick, 109-672. If the plea of "sole seizin" is not put in before the order of partition is made, it will be considered as waived, and the parties to the proceeding will be taken to be tenants in common: Wright v. McCormick, 69-14. What amounts to a plea of "sole seizin": Gregory v. Pinnix, 158-147. Under a plea of sole seizin the plaintiff has the burden of proof to make out a prima facie case of tenancy in common: Lester v. Harward, 173-83.

GENERALLY. Where plea of sole seizin not set up, parties, for purpose of proceedings, are to be taken as tenants in common, and only inquiry is as to interest owned: Graves v. Barrett, 126-267.

Where petitioner merely alleged ownership of five-eighths, evidence tending to show mutual mistake in deed under which defendant claimed was properly excluded: Buchanan v. Harrington, 141-39—but petitioner might have alleged mutual mistake by amendment in the superior court after case had been transferred, Ibid.

Tenants in common are entitled to partition as of right: Holmes v. Holmes, 55-334. Deed conveying a tract of land (describing it) upon which there was a mineral spring, to several persons "one-eighth share of said mineral waters" each, and containing a provision that one of the vendees and his "heirs and assigns are to have free access to said springs," creates a simple estate in common, of which partition may be made: Foreman v. Hough, 98-388.

Order appointing commissioners is interlocutory and not appealable: Navigation Co. v. Worrell, 133-93. Ruling of trial court affirming clerk's order for actual partition of land is not reviewable: Navigation Co. v. Worrell, 133-93.

Effect of allotment between four out of six tenants in common: Carson v. R. R., 128-98.

Where defendant in partition fails to ask for jury trial until after clerk has ordered partition he thereby waives the right thereto: Navigation Co. v. Worrell, 133-93.

For annotations on statute of limitations barring tenants in common of land, see section 430.

Where there has been ouster, or where defendant controverts plaintiff's title, cotenant may bring action for partition to term instead of before clerk: Harris v. Wright, 118-422; Jones v. Cohen, 82-75; Withrow v. Biggerstaff, 82-82.

No legal partition can be made between tenants in common without deed or writing: Rhea v. Craig, 141-602—nor where married women and infants are interested, Camp Mfg. Co. v. Liverman, 123-7.

Where it appears to court in proceeding hereunder that it may become necessary to sell lands for assets, it should stay partition until personal representative can have reasonable opportunity to apply for license: Garrison v. Cox, 99-478—but personal representative cannot apply for sale in partition proceeding, Ibid.

Where land of ancestor partitioned within two years after letters of administration, same continues liable to payment of ancestor's debts: McArtan v. McLaughlin, 88-391; see Hinton v. Whitehurst, 75-178, 73-157, 71-66.

Court will not adjudicate in proceeding for partition conflicting claim of title set up by defendant, so as to exclude him by estoppel: Simpson v. Wallace, 83-477.

Where property is held by trustees elected by several churches, and duly incorporated, one or more of such churches not entitled to a partition of the property: Church v. Trustees, 158-119. The plaintiff cannot take a nonsuit in partition proceeding without the consent of the other parties: Haddock v. Stocks, 167-70. Where the will provided for a partition of the land by the executors between two tenants in common for life, with remainder to their children, a parol partition in which the parties hold their shares for 20 years will be sustained: Collier v. Paper Corporation, 172-74. Plaintiff cannot maintain a suit for partition when he has no vested interest: Makely v. Shore, 175-121.

3216. Surface and minerals in separate owners; partitions distinct. When the title to the mineral interests in any land has become separated from the surface in ownership, the tenants in common or joint tenants of such mineral interests may have partition of the same, distinct from the surface, and without joining as parties the owner or owners of the surface; and the tenants in common or joint tenants of the surface may have partition of the same, in manner provided by law, distinct from the mineral interests and without joining as parties the owner or owners of the mineral interests. In all instances where the mineral interests and surface interests have thus become separated in ownership, the owner or owners of the mineral interests shall not be compelled to join in a partition of the surface interests, nor shall the owner or owners of the surface interests be compelled to join in a partition of the mineral interests, nor shall the rights of either owner be prejudiced by a partition of the other interests.

Rev., s. 2488; 1905, c. 90.

3217. Petition by judgment creditor of cotenant; assignment of homestead. When any person owns a judgment duly docketed in the superior court of a county wherein the judgment debtor owns an undivided interest in fee in land as a tenant in common, or joint tenant, and the judgment creditor desires to lay off the homestead of the judgment debtor in the land and sell the excess, if any, to satisfy his judgment, the judgment creditor may institute before the clerk of the court of the county wherein the land lies a special proceeding for partition of the land between the tenants in common, making the judgment debtor, the other tenants in common and all other interested persons parties to the proceeding by summons. The proceeding shall then be in all other respects conducted as other special proceedings for the partition of land between tenants in common. Upon the actual partition of the land the judgment creditor may sue out execution on his judgment, as allowed by law, and have the homestead of the judgment debtor allotted to him and sell the excess, as in other cases where the homestead is allotted under execution. The remedy provided for in this section shall not deprive the judgment creditor of any other remedy in law or in equity which he may have for the enforcement of his judgment lien.

Rev., s. 2489; 1905, c. 429.

Allotment of homestead in land held as tenant in common, before this section enacted: Kelly v. McLeod, 165-382.

Rev., s. 2490; 1887, c. 284.

It is within the discretion of the court to appoint some one to represent the interest of unknown persons: Lawrence v. Hardy, 151-123. The proceeding being quasi in rem, the court acquires jurisdiction by publication, and when the proceedings are regular an innocent purchaser acquires a good title: Ibid. Practice where unknown parties are interested: Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145. Unknown parties may be brought into the proceeding as provided in this section: Ryder v. Oates, 173-569—and if contingent interests are to be sold, a proceeding before the clerk carried by appeal to the judge at term gives the power to proceed as under section 1744, Ibid. This section is not a violation of the "due process" clause of the constitution: Lawrence v. Hardy, 151-123.

3219. Commissioners appointed. The superior court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners to divide and apportion such real estate, or so much thereof as the court may deem best, among the several tenants in common, or joint tenants.

See cases cited under section 3215, ante.

3220. Oath of commissioners. The commissioners shall be sworn by a justice of the peace, or other person authorized to administer oaths, to do justice among the tenants in common, in respect to such partition, according to their best skill and ability.

Rev., s. 2492; Code, s. 1893; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 2.

3221. Delay or neglect of commissioner penalized. If, after accepting the trust, any of the commissioners unreasonably delay or neglect to execute the same, every such delinquent commissioner shall be liable for contempt and may be removed, and shall be further liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the petitioner.

Rev., s. 2498; Code, s. 1901; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 10.

Rev., s. 2491; Code, s. 1894; 1887, c. 284, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 3.

Partition is made according to value and not the acreage: Lee v. Montague, 173-226.

Clerk should not be commissioner: Evans v. Cullens, 122-55; see section 3242. Where three commissioners are appointed to partition land, the action of any two of them is valid: Thompson v. Shemwell, 93-222. Where one tenant in common has improved part of land in good faith, he is entitled to have it allowed to him at a valuation made without regard to improvement: Holt v. Couch, 125-456; Pipkin v. Pipkin, 120-161; Collett v. Henderson, 80-337; Pope v. Whitehead, 68-191.

Where two of three commissioners appointed to make partition met on the premises and in the presence of both parties to the action proceeded to fill vacancy occasioned by absence of third commissioner, neither party making objection thereto: Held, that it is too late to except on that account after commissioners have partitioned land and filed report: Simmons v. Fosue, 81-86.

OWELTY OF PARTITION ALLOWED. In partition of land equality must be had by compensation in money for the deficiency, according to the value of the land at the time of the division. The right to such compensation arises out of an implied warranty attaching to each share from all the others: Cheatham v. Crews, 88-38. It is a general rule that where a cotenant claims an equality of benefit, he must submit to an equality of burden, fairly incurred in good faith: Holt v. Couch, 125-456. The sum charged upon one share in favor of another share of less value, for equality in the division, is a charge in rem, and if not paid, subjects the land charged to sale, whether in the hands of the owner or of his heirs, to whom it descends cum onere: Powell v. Weathington, 124-40. Owelty is not a mere debt secured by lien; debtor is tenant in common with holder of share in whose favor decree is entered to extent of charge, until same be satisfied: In re Walker, 107-340. Discharge in bankruptcy does not cancel charge of owelty against land of bankrupt: In re Walker, 107-340. Owelty of partition is not discharged by the execution of a note for the same; the land remains the primary debtor: Dobbin v. Rex, 106-444. Party acquiring land on which a charge rests for equality of partition takes same cum onere, and statute of limitations cannot avail him as against purchasers at sale made under a venditioni exponas duly ordered in partition proceedings: Ibid.

If a parol sale of an expectancy followed by partition is afterwards set aside at suit of vendor, his share should be charged with the purchase money received, and also with its proportion of the enhanced value by reason of the betterments placed thereon: Tucker v. Markland, 101-422.

Where one lot is charged with the payment of owelty, payment is not suspended except in case of infants: Turpin v. Kelly, 85-399.

Equity is effected among tenants in common either by assigning the improved part to him who improves it, at its value before improvements are made, or, if that cannot be done, then by a reasonable allowance for enhanced value of the property: Holt v. Couch, 125-456. If property is not susceptible of being divided, court will order an account before partition of proceeds of sale is made, and provide for a suitable compensation for improvements: Ibid.

Charges upon land for equality of partition follow the land into the hands of all persons to whom it may come, and they are held to be affected by constructive notice: Ruffin v. Cox, 71-253.

OWELTY OF PARTITION ENFORCED. Proper remedy for enforcing owelty is by execution, formerly by venditioni exponas: Smith, ex parte, 134-499; Newsome v. Harrell, 168-295—and by civil action when partition is by agreement, Ibid. Execution will not be allowed to issue to satisfy owelty of partition until the confirmation of commissioner's report: In re Ausborn, 122-42. On motion for execution for owelty, plea of payment and counterclaim are issues, not questions of fact: Goode v. Rogers, 126-62.

A party to a proceeding in which a venditioni exponas is issued to sell land to pay a charge resting on it for equality of partition cannot contest the validity of a sale made under such ven. ex.: Dobbin v. Rex, 106-444. In an action to collect owelty, defendant may set up as counterclaim any damage he may have sustained by having been evicted from a part of his share in the land by a superior title: Huntley v. Cline, 93-458.

A proceeding for leave to issue execution on a judgment charging land with owelty in partition is an "action" within the meaning of the statute of limitations: Smith, ex parte, 134-495. The issuing of an execution on a decree charging owelty in partition is barred within ten years: Ibid.; Newsome v. Harrell, 168-295. The statute of presumptions barred in ten years claims for owelty charged prior to 1868: Herman v. Watts, 107-646.

It is not admissible for the creditor to obtain a personal judgment against debtor for the sum charged as owelty in partition: Halso v. Cole, 82-161; Waring v. Wadsworth, 80-345. Where land is sold under several executions, some for personal debts and others to enforce owelty of partition, latter claims have priority in distribution of proceeds: Thompson v. Peebles, 85-418.

The widow of the party upon whose land the charge is placed is not necessary party to an action brought to recover the sum charged: Ruffin v. Cox, 71-253. The dower in the land charged with the payment of a certain sum cannot be called upon until it is ascertained that the remaining two-thirds and the reversion in the one-third assigned for dower is insufficient to pay off the encumbrance of owelty: Ibid. The existence of a life estate does not prevent bringing action for enforcement of charge: Newsome v. Harrell, 168-295.

3223. Owelty to bear interest. The sums of money due from the more valuable dividends shall bear interest until paid.

Rev.. s. 2496; Code, s. 1899; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 8.

For annotations as to owelty of partition and how to enforce payment, see sections 3215, 3222. See Turpin v. Kelly, 85-399.

3224. Owelty from infant's share due at majority. When a minor to whom a more valuable dividend shall fall is charged with the payment of any sum, the money shall not be payable until such minor arrives at the age of twenty-one years, but the general guardian, if there be one, must pay such sum whenever assets shall come into his hands, and in case the general guardian has assets which he did not so apply, he shall pay out of his own proper estate any interest that may have accrued in consequence of such failure.

Rev., s. 2497; Code, s. 1900; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 9.

Section postpones collection of owelty only where parties to proceedings are infants; it does not apply where share, after division, descends to infant heirs of owner: Powell v. Weatherington, 124-40.

Section referred to in Jones v. Cameron, 81-154; Turpin v. Kelly, 85-399.

3225. Partition where shareowners unknown or title disputed. If there are any of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, whose names are not known or whose title is in dispute, the share or shares of such persons shall be set off together as one parcel. If, in any partition proceeding, two or more appear as defendants claiming the same share of the premises to be divided, or if any part of the share claimed by the petitioner is disputed by any defendant or defendants, it shall not be necessary to decide on their respective claims before the court shall order the partition or sale to be made, but the partition or sale shall be made, and the controversy between the contesting parties may be afterwards decided either in the same or an independent proceeding.

Rev., ss. 2491, 2511; Code, s. 1894; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 3; 1887, c. 284, ss. 2, 4.

See cases under section 3222 ante.

3226. Dower claims settled on partition; dower valued. When there is dower or right of dower on any land, petitioned to be sold or divided in severalty by actual partition, the woman entitled to dower or right of dower therein may join in the petition. The land to be divided in severalty shall be allotted to the tenants in common, or joint tenants, subject to the dower right or dower, and either may be asked and assigned at the same time that partition thereof is made and by same commissioners. On a decree of sale, the interest of one-third of the proceeds shall be secured and paid to her annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of an annuity of six per cent on such third, during her probable life, shall be ascertained and paid to her absolutely out of the proceeds.

Rev., s. 2517; Code, s. 1909; 1893, c. 341; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 18.

Where there is a petition to sell land for partition, and one of the defendants is a widow entitled to dower and the other defendants are infants, the dower should be assigned before the land is sold: Seaman v. Seaman, 129-293.

Practice in partition where widow entitled to dower in the land: Winstead and Pass, ex parte, 92-703; Dudley v. Tyson, 167-67.

Widow entitled to dower in land and administratrix of tenant in common are necessary parties to petition for partition: Gregory v. Gregory, 69-522.

In partition, dower may be assigned in the land partitioned: Baggett v. Jackson, 160-26. The proceeding for dower cannot be attacked collaterally in a partition proceeding: Ibid., citing Tyson v. Beleher, 102-112, and Coffin v. Cook, 106-376.

3227. Partial partition; balance sold or left in common. In all proceedings under this chapter actual partition may be made of a part of the land sought to be partitioned and a sale of the remainder, or a part only, of any land held by tenants in common, or joint tenants, may be partitioned and the remainder held in cotenancy.

Rev., s. 2506; 1887, c. 214, s. 1.

Part of land may be sold for partition and part divided: Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6.

This does not authorize a sale of a fractional part of the land, leaving the rest to be held in common: Patillo v. Lytle, 158-92.

3228. Report of commissioners; contents; filing. The commissioners, within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days after the notification of their appointment, shall make a full and ample report of their proceedings, under the hands of any two of them, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust and describing particularly the land or parcels of land divided, and the share allotted to each tenant in severalty, with the sum or sums charged on the more valuable dividends to be paid to those of inferior value. The report shall be filed in the office of the superior court clerk.

Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5.

Two commissioners signing the report is sufficient: Thompson v. Shemwell, 93-224; Simmons v. Foscue, 81-86. When commissioners to partition land make and file their report their duties are ended, and they are functi officio, unless they act under a new order of the court: Clinard v. Brummell, 130-547.

Clerk has jurisdiction to correct mistakes in partition proceedings where no equitable ingredient involved: Wahab v. Smith, 82-229. As to remedy for the correction of a mistake in running a dividing line after final judgment in partition has been entered, see Thomson v. Shemwell, 89-283.

As to owelty of partition, see section 3222.

EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT; HEARING AND CONFIRMATION. Exceptions to report of commissioners appointed to make partition of land must be filed within twenty days after report is filed: Floyd v. Rook, 128-10.

Exceptions to commissioner's report, backed by affidavits of inequality in division upon which a motion for redivision is based, do not raise issues of fact for trial by jury, but questions of fact to be determined by court: McMillan v. McMillan, 123-577; Beekwith, ex parte, 124-111.

Where commissioners appointed were ordered to report evidence taken before them and their findings of fact, and failed to do so, it was error to confirm their report as to division of lands in the face of an exception thereto on the ground that they ignored order of court: Pipkin v. Pipkin, 120-161. The omission by the commissioners to state affirmatively that allotments in their opinion, were equal in value, affects the substantial rights of the parties; and clerk or judge may set it aside with directions either that commissioners make a reallocation or that others be appointed to do so: Skinner v. Carter, 108-106.

On hearing exceptions to report of commissioners, court should hear evidence impeaching fairness of partition, and set same aside if evidence sufficient: Simmons v. Foscue, 81-86. Refusal of court to hear affidavits upon motion to confirm report is a matter of discretion and not reviewable: Skinner v. Carter, 108-106. And appeal from an order setting aside report will not be dismissed as premature: Skinner v. Carter, 108-106. From an order of clerk setting aside report and ordering redivision, an appeal lies to the judge, and if no error in law is committed, decision of judge cannot be reversed: McMillan v. McMillan, 123-577; Simmons v. Foscue, 81-86.

Case where claimed wrong land was divided: Wright v. McCormick, 69-14.

ATTACKING THE PROCEEDINGS. As to attacking partition proceedings for irregularity, see Rose v. Davis, 140-269.

Where infant defendants are served with summons in proceedings for partition and guardian ad litem is appointed, judgment affirming sale cannot be set aside in collateral proceeding for alleged fraud or irregularity: Smith v. Gray, 116-311.

In an action to set aside partition proceedings where no fraud was alleged to have taken place and the facts alleged as ground for setting aside should have been known at time of proceedings, plaintiffs are estopped, and equity will not aid them, although some of present plaintiffs, at time of partition, were under disability: Grantham v. Kennedy, 91-148.

Decrees set aside for inequality at instance of defendant served by publication: Rhodes v. Rhodes, 125-191.

Where proceedings had been begun and guardian ad litem appointed for infants, and all steps had been taken except the signing of the final decree, the infants, having come of age in the meantime, could not reopen the cause: Williams v. Williams, 94-732.

A direct proceeding to attack a judgment in partition for fraud can be brought by a motion in the cause: Murray v. Southerland, 125-177; Rhodes v. Rhodes, 125-193; Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484; Turner v. Davis, 163-38.

A decree in partition proceedings reciting that it was rendered on the merits will not be construed to be a judgment of nonsuit because it orders that petition be dismissed: Weeks v. McPhail, 129-73.

The clerk may correct a mistake in making a premature order of partition by revoking the order and docketing the case in superior court: Little v. Duncan, 149-84.

3229. Map embodying survey to accompany report. The commissioners are authorized to employ the county surveyor or, in his absence or if he be connected with the parties, some other surveyor, who shall make out a map of the premises showing the quantity, courses and distances of each share, which map shall accompany and form a part of the report of the commissioners.

Rev., s. 2493; Code, s. 1895; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 4.

3230. Confirmation and impeachment of report. If no exception to the report of the commissioners is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party after confirmation may impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby.

Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5.

See cases under section 3228.

3231. Report and confirmation enrolled and registered; effect. Such report, when confirmed, together with the decree of confirmation, shall be enrolled and certified to the register of deeds and registered in the office of the county where such real estate is situated, and shall be binding among and between the claimants, their heirs and assigns.

Rev., s. 2495; Code, s. 1897; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 6.

A decree in partition operates as an estoppel upon parties and privies: Nobles v. Nobles, 177-243; Olds v. Cedar Works, 173-161; Propst v. Caldwell, 172-594; Weston v. Lumber Co., 162-165; s. e., 169-398; Buchanan v. Harrington, 152-333; Weeks v. McPhail, 129-73. It is binding on parties thereto as against an after-acquired title: Carter v. White, 134-466—but not as to matters not adjudicated in the proceeding, Gillam v. Edmonson, 154-127.

One who joins an infant in a petition for partition is bound by the judgment, though it is not approved by the judge: Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189. The proceedings are admissible in evidence though not properly recorded: Ibid. Record of partition is color of title: Ibid.

No title passes by the decree, only unity of possession is dissolved and title vests in severalty: Carter v. White, 131-16; Harrington v. Rawls, 131-39; Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189. A deed in partition conveys no title, but only severs the unity of possession: Stallings v. Walker, 176-321; Weston v. Lumber Co., 162-165.

When land is incorporated in a petition and assigned in partition, with the knowledge and consent of parties, an administrator of one of the parties is estopped to deny that the land was so included: Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189.

When there has been a partition of land among the heirs of ancestor, as tenants in common, they hold by descent and not by purchase: Carson v. Carson, 122-645; Harrison v. Ray, 108-215.

When the report of commissioners is filed, confirmed and registered, they cannot change it without order of court: Clinard v. Brummel, 130-547.

When the report is registered and the record is destroyed and it is registered again under section 366, a certified copy is color of title: Hill v. Lane, 149-267.

A decree in partition reciting that it was rendered on the merits will not be construed as a judgment of nonsuit because it orders that petition be dismissed: Weeks v. McPhail, 129-73.

3232. Clerk to docket owelty charges; no release of land and no lien. In case owelty of partition is charged in favor of certain parts of said land and against certain other parts, the clerk shall enter on the judgment docket the said owelty charges in like manner as judgments are entered on said docket, persons to whom parts are allotted in favor of which owelty is charged being marked plaintiffs on the judgment docket, and persons to whom parts are allotted against which owelty is charged being marked defendants on said docket; that said entry on said docket shall contain the title of the special proceeding in which the land was partitioned, and shall refer to the book and page in which the said special proceeding is recorded; that when said owelty charges are paid, said entry upon the judgment docket shall be marked satisfied in like manner as judgments are canceled and marked satisfied; and the clerk shall be entitled to the same fees for entering such judgment of owelty as he is entitled to for docketing other judgments: Provided, that the docketing of said owelty charges as hereinbefore set out shall not have the effect of releasing the land from the owelty charged in said special proceeding: Provided, any judgment docketed under this section shall not be a lien on any property whatever, except that upon which said owelty is made a specific charge.

1911, c. 9, s. 1.

ART. 2. PARTITION SALES OF REAL PROPERTY

3233. Sale in lieu of partition. Whenever it appears by satisfactory proof that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without injury to some or all of the parties interested, the court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or any part thereof.

Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.

Right to actual partition exists where a division can be made without injury to the interests of the parties: Gillespie v. Allison, 115-548—if division cannot be made without such injury, the court should order a sale, Holt v. Couch, 125-456; Bragg v. Lyon, 93-153; Trull v. Rice, 85-327; Gregory v. Gregory, 69-522.

Whether there should be actual partition or a sale is a question of fact to be decided by the court: Vanderbilt v. Roberts, 162-273; Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6; Ledbetter v. Pinner, 120-455. On appeal to the judge, he may render judgment or remand the case to the clerk for proper order: Ledbetter v. Pinner, 120-456.

In a petition for sale, if one of defendants is a widow entitled to dower and other defendants are infants, dower should be assigned before sale: Seaman v. Seaman, 129-293.

A petition to sell land for assets amounts to notice to a purchaser under a proceeding by heirs for sale for partition: Harris v. Davenport, 132-697.

3234. Remainder or reversion sold for partition; outstanding life estate. The existence of a life estate in any land shall not be a bar to a sale for partition of the remainder or reversion thereof, and for the purposes of partition the tenants in common or joint tenants shall be deemed seized and possessed as if no life estate existed. But this shall not interfere with the possession of the life tenant during the existence of his estate.

Rev., s. 2508; 1887, c. 214, s. 2.

Under this section a remainderman or reversioner after a life estate may have partition either by actual division or by sale: Baggett v. Jackson, 160-26; Gillespie v. Allison, 115-542. But this does not apply to contingent remainders or other future conditional interests unless all persons who may by any possibility be interested unite in asking for the decree: Aydlett v. Pendleton, 111-28; see section 1744.

This applies to vested interests: Vinson v. Wise, 159-653—but not when it appears that life tenant has right to control, Makely v. Shore, 175-121.

Where land subject to estate during widowhood was sold for partition, the proceeds could not be divided between widow and remaindermen, against the will of remaindermen, but would remain as real estate until the termination of estate during widowhood: Gillespie v. Allison, 117-512.

3235. Life tenant as party; valuation of life estate. In all proceedings for partition of land whereon there is a life estate, the life tenant may join in the proceeding and on a sale the interest on the value of the share of the life tenant shall be received and paid to such life tenant annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of such share during the probable life of such life tenant shall be ascertained and paid out of the proceeds to such life tenant absolutely.

Rev., s. 2509; 1887, c. 214, s. 3.

See section 3226. This section does not apply to an estate during widowhood: Gillespie v. Allison, 117-512. That one of tenants is seized of estate for life and the others are seized in fee is no bar to action for partition: McEachern v. Gilchrist, 75-196.

Where land is held in trust to allow the daughter to occupy and enjoy rents for life, with power of sale for reinvestment, with remainder over, upon a sale made the daughter is not entitled to have the life estate valued and paid over in money: Braddy v. Dail, 156-30.

3236. Sale of standing timber on partition; valuation of life estate. When two or more persons own, as tenants in common, joint tenants, or copartners, a tract of land, either in possession, or in remainder or reversion, subject to a life estate, on which there may be standing timber trees, a sale of said timber trees, separate from the land, may be had upon the petition of one or more of said owners, or the life tenant, for partition among the owners thereof, including the life tenant, upon such terms as the court may order, and under like proceedings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for partition: Provided, that when the land is subject to a life estate, the life tenant shall be made a party to the proceedings, and shall be entitled to receive his portion of the net proceeds of sales, to be ascertained under the mortuary tables established by law.

3237. Sale of mineral interests on partition. In case of the partition of mineral interests, in all instances where it is made to appear to the court that it would be for the best interests of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, of such interests to have the same sold, or if actual partition of the same cannot be had without injury to some or all of such tenants (in common), then it is lawful for and the duty of the court to order a sale of such mineral interests and a division of the proceeds as the interests of the parties may appear.

Rev., s. 2507; 1905, c. 90, s. 2.

3238. Sale of land required for public use on cotenant's petition. When the lands of joint tenants or tenants in common are required for public purposes, one or more of such tenants, or their guardian for them, may file a petition verified by oath, in the superior court of the county where the lands or any part of them lie, setting forth therein that the lands are required for public purposes, and that their interests would be promoted by a sale thereof. Whereupon the court, all proper parties being before it, and the facts alleged in the petition being ascertained to be true, shall order a sale of such lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in the manner and on the terms it deems expedient. The expenses, fees and costs of this proceeding shall be paid in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 2518; Code, s. 1907; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 16.

3239. Manner and terms of partition sale. The sale shall be made by some person appointed by the court, on such terms as to size of lots, place or manner of sale, time of credit and security for payment of purchase money, as may be most advantageous to the parties concerned.

Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.

The court has power to order a private sale under proper circumstances: Ryder v. Oates, 173-569; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145—and this may be by first directing a sale and authorizing a private bid, or by recognizing a bid already made: Wooten v. Cunningham, 171-123.

3240. Notice of partition sale. The notice of sale, under this proceeding, shall be the same as required by law on sales of real estate by sheriff under execution.

See section 687 et seq.

3241. Title made to purchaser; effect of deed. On the coming in of the report of sale, and confirmation thereof, and payment of the purchase money, the title shall be made to the purchaser or purchasers at such time and by such person as the court may direct, and in all cases where the persons in possession have been made parties to the proceeding, the court may grant an order for possession. And the deed of the officer or person designated to make such sale shall convey to the purchaser such title and estate in the property as tenants in common, or joint tenants, had.

Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.

Until confirmation is made no title vests in purchaser, though deed is executed: Patillo v. Lytle, 158-92; Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6. A commissioner's deed in a sale for partition conveys only such title as the tenants in common had: Jordan v. Faulkner, 168-466.

When a nonresident minor is a party, represented by guardian, and the proceedings are regular, the purchaser at partition sale gets a good title: Credle v. Baugham, 152-18.

When commissioner is ordered to make deed to purchaser upon payment of purchase money, it means when the money is actually paid: Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6; Macay, ex parte, 84-59. The absence of the word "commissioner" after the signature to a deed does not affect its validity: McLean v. Patterson, 84-429.

When land is ordered to be sold at judicial sale, it is under control of court until title is made to purchaser under order of court: Kemp v. Kemp, 85-491; Lord v. Meroney, 79-14. A payment made by purchaser to the guardian of one of the tenants in common is proper: Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75.

An innocent purchaser will be protected if it appears that the court had jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter: Rackley v. Roberts, 147-201.

Where purchaser complied with terms of sale and deed was made to his wife and registered, though bid was not assigned, creditors cannot have wife declared a trustee for husband, in absence of fraud or preëxisting debts: Evans v. Cullens, 122-55.

3242. Who appointed to sell. The court may authorize any officer thereof, or any other competent person, to be designated in the decree of sale, to sell the real estate under this proceeding; but no clerk of any court shall appoint himself or his deputy to make sale of real property or other property in any proceeding before him.

Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15; 1899, c. 161.

Clerk should not appoint himself commissioner to sell: Evans v. Cullens, 122-55.

3243. Report of sale; filing; confirmation and impeachment. Such officer or person shall file his report of sale, giving full particulars thereof, within ten days after the sale, in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and if no exception thereto is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after the confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby.

Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1899, c. 161; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15.

Until there has been a final decree of confirmation, the court may in a proper case make an order for partition or sale: Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6.

The court may set aside a sale for partition where it appears that the commissioner failed to comply with order of court as to terms, and where there was a mistake as to the area of the land: Blue v. Blue, 79-69.

No notice to the parties is required for confirmation, but the sale is confirmed unless objection is made or advanced bid filed within twenty days: Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88.

A resale will be ordered when the first sale is made under circumstances calculated to arouse suspicion: Camp Mfg. Co. v. Liverman, 123-7. A tenant in common in control of premises, if appointed commissioner to sell, cannot purchase directly or indirectly at such sale: Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484.

That next friend of an infant has an adverse interest will not be sufficient to disturb the decree, unless fraud is shown: Ivey v. McKinnon, 84-651. An infant, after coming of age, may ratify an irregular sale by accepting the benefits: Smith v. Gray, 116-311. It is not improper for a guardian to purchase at partition sale of ward's land when he is a cotenant and it is necessary to protect his interest: Credle v. Baugham, 152-18.

It is within the discretion of the court to order a resale upon an advanced bid of ten per cent: Sutton v. Craddock, 174-274; Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145; Uzzle v. Weil, 151-131. See section 2591.

The time required for filing objections applies to public and private sales ordered by the court: Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145—and this does not interfere with the power of the court to set aside the sale and order a resale upon an advanced bid, Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88; Ex parte Garrett, 174-343.

An unregistered deed made by some of the tenants in common is not good as against a deed by the same parties and for the same interest, subsequently made and registered, after decree of sale but before confirmation: McLean v. Leitch, 152-266.

Proceedings hereunder cannot be attacked collaterally, but it must be by petition or motion in the cause: Patillo v. Lytle, 158-92; Campbell v. Farley, 158-42; Bailey v. Hopkins, 152-748; Hargrave v. Wilson, 148-439; Rackley v. Roberts, 147-201; Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484; Rhodes v. Rhodes, 125-193; Murray v. Southerland, 125-175; Smith v. Gray, 116-311; Wilson v. Chichester, 107-386.

Judgment on purchase-money note may be had by motion in the cause: Lord v. Beard, 79-5.

3244. Shares in proceeds to cotenants secured. Upon confirmation of the report, the court shall secure to each tenant in common, or joint tenant, his ratable share in severalty of the proceeds of sale.

Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 31.

3245. Shares to persons unknown or not sui juris secured. When a sale is made under this chapter, and any party to the proceedings be an infant, a married woman, non compos mentis, imprisoned, or beyond the limits of the state, or when the name of any tenant in common is not known, it is the duty of the court to decree the share of such party, in the proceeds of sale, to be so invested or settled that the same may be secured to such party or his real representative.

Rev., s. 2516; Code, s. 1908; 1887, c. 284, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 17.

Administrator of a deceased ward is not entitled to recover, in an action against the administrator of the deceased guardian, moneys which came into the guardian's hands as proceeds of real estate belonging to ward sold under a decree of court for partition: Allison v. Robinson, 78-222.

Purchaser for value without notice is not affected by failure of court to retain and invest funds to protect right of unknown persons: Lawrence v. Hardy, 151-123.

In case of persons under disability the conversion from realty to personalty by sale for partition does not take effect until the parties entitled can exercise their right of election: McLean v. Leitch, 152-266; Hall v. Short, 81-273—as to others not under disability the conversion takes effect from confirmation of the sale, Ibid.

ART. 3. PARTITION OF LANDS IN TWO STATES

3246. Petition to partition lands in two states descended or devised. Whenever on the death of any person his lands in this state, and in another state, descend or are devised to several persons, who, by the law of this and the other state, hold in the lands undivided estates as tenants in common, or by any other undivided tenancy, and such heirs or devisees cannot, without suit, have partition for want of consent, or because of inability in any of the cotenants, then, if such deceased person was at the time of his death a resident of the state, or not then a resident of any of the states in which his lands lie, and in the last case the most valuable part of such lands lie in this state, such heir or devisee, or any person claiming under him, may file a petition in the superior court for the county where the deceased resided at his death, or where any part of the land lies in this state, setting forth all the lands in which the plaintiff has an undivided estate, without and within the state, described by their names and boundaries, or by the adjoining tracts, and also the estate the deceased had in them, and the supposed value of the lands in each state, and the share, in severalty, to which the plaintiff and each of his cotenants is entitled under the laws of the several states, and praying for partition to be made of all the tracts, according to their respective interests. The material facts set forth in the petition shall be verified by the affidavit of the plaintiff or his guardian, or other person, at the discretion of the court; and all persons concerned in interest in the lands shall be made parties, according to the practice of the superior court in this state.

Rev., s. 2499; Code, s. 1911; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 20.

3247. Court may decree partition. On the hearing of the petition, the court may decree a partition; and shall allot in severalty to each tenant his just share of the lands, according to the value of his interest in the same, by the laws of the several states in which they are situated.

Rev., s. 2500; Code, s. 1912; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 21.

3248. Commissioners appointed; how partition made; report and confirmation. The court making such decree shall issue a commission to three respectable freeholders in this or any other state where any part of the land may lie, unconnected by blood or interest with the parties, directing them or a majority of them to make partition between the cotenants, plaintiffs and defendants in said petition, and to assign each his respective share in the value, in severalty, in any tract or tracts, in any or all the states. Before making the allotment the commissioners shall make a valuation of all the lands held by the cotenants in all the said states; and where they cannot, without injury to the value of some shares, make an exact division of the lands, they shall charge the more valuable dividends with money to be paid to the tenants of a less valuable dividend to make equality of partition. They shall report their proceedings as they may be directed, and the report shall contain a valuation of all the estate in this and the other states, and the division among the cotenants according to such valuation. The court may confirm such report, or on sufficient cause shown may correct and alter, or set it aside and order a new commission.

3249. Provisions as to owelty. Where any sum is charged on a more valuable dividend, it shall be a charge on the land into whose hands soever it may come, although it may be taken without notice, and shall bear interest at a rate not greater than allowed in this state. The tenant of the larger dividend may discharge himself from accruing interest by paying the whole amount due at any time. The court may direct, if the tenant taking such a dividend is an infant, that the sum charged shall not be paid till a future day.

Rev., s. 2501; Code, s. 1913; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 22.

3250. Final decree; enrollment and registry; service on parties; effect. The court shall, upon the confirmation of any report of the commissioners, make a final decree. And where all the parties are within the jurisdiction of this court, the court shall, by the usual proceedings, direct and compel the parties to execute and deliver deeds and assurances, sufficient, by the laws of this state and the other states, to give the partition full force and validity in all the states; and in case any of the parties are under such disabilities that they cannot execute such assurances, or are without the jurisdiction of the court, then the court, upon receiving evidence from the plaintiff that, by a law of the other state in which lie the parts of the lands described in the petition to be without this state, the decree can have effect thereon, shall direct the decree to be enrolled, and a copy of it shall be registered in the register's office of all the counties within this state where any of the lands lie; and a copy shall also be furnished to the plaintiff or other party interested, duly certified, to the end that, as to the lands without this state, it may be carried into effect in the state in which the said lands may be, in such manner as said state may direct; and on satisfactory evidence being made to the court in this state that the decree may have full effect by the law of such other state, the court in this state shall by its decree declare the partition in the land in this state to be final and conclusive. The decree shall be firm and irreversible, as hereinafter provided; and shall, on registration as aforesaid, pass to the tenants the title in severalty to the lands in this state in the same manner as if all the land mentioned in the decree were situate within this state.

Rev., s. 2501; Code, s. 1913; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 22.

3251. Effectuating decree of sister state; enrollment; registry and confirmation; effect. Where real estate may be partly in this state and partly in another state, and the deceased person from whom it was derived by descent or devise was, at the time of his death, a resident of some other state, or was a resident of none of the states in which he held lands, and in this last case the lands of which he was seized in this state were of less value than the lands of which he was seized in any other state, the courts of the state in which such deceased person had his residence at his death, or in which he held lands of greater value than those he held in this state, shall have full power and authority, under any law passed by the legislature of such state substantially in accordance with the provisions herein made on this subject, to decree partition of the lands in this state, together with those within such other state, in the same manner as if the whole real estate were within the jurisdiction of such court, and in the same manner as the courts in this state are directed and authorized to do by the preceding section, as to the lands of deceased persons resident here at their death, or leaving lands of greater value here than in any other state. In case any person having an interest in the final decree, made as aforesaid in another state, as to lands in this state, shall, within twelve months after the same may be entered up in the courts of said state, produce the records and proceedings of such courts of record duly certified to a superior court of any county in this state where any of the lands of this state lie, the court, on petition ex parte in such case, shall order such proceedings to be entered of record in the court of this state, and order that the said decree shall be of the same force and validity as if it had been a decree of the court in this state in which the petition is filed, upon a petition and regular proceedings had thereon, and the decree of the court of such other state, and the proceedings on it by petition in the superior court in this state confirming it and giving it validity, being enrolled in the said court of this state and registered in all the counties where the lands lie in this state, shall pass the lands in this state, according to the decree, and shall vest estates in severalty therein declared, as to said lands, in the same manner and with the same effect in law as if the lands in this state had been so allotted on a petition for partition, according to the provisions of the former sections of this chapter.

3252. When court may decide whether statute passed in another state. Where a copy of a decree and proceedings of a suit in any other state are produced, as in the preceding section, and also when it is necessary for a superior court to be certified that its decree of a partition of lands without this state and within the territory of another state can have effect herein, it is competent for the judge of the superior court before which the existence of a law in such other state is to be proved, to decide whether any act of the legislature of such state has been passed.

Rev., s. 2503; Code, s. 1915; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 24.

ART. 4. PARTITION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

3253. Personal property may be partitioned; commissioners appointed. When any persons entitled as tenants in common, or joint tenants, of personal property desire to have a division of the same, they, or either of them, may file a petition in the superior court for that purpose; and the court, if it think the petitioners entitled to relief, shall appoint three disinterested commissioners, who, being first duly sworn, shall proceed within twenty days after notice of their appointment to divide such property as nearly equal as possible among the tenants in common, or joint tenants.

Rev., s. 2504; Code, s. 1917; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 27.

Remedy of a tenant in common to recover his interest in specific goods is by partition: Powell v. Hill, 64-169; Grim v. Wicker, 80-344.

One tenant in common or joint owner of personal property cannot maintain action against other tenant or owner to recover exclusive possession of property: Thompson v. Silverthorne, 142-13, and cases cited.

If, pending a proceeding for partition of personalty, defendant threatens destruction or removal of property, court on application might enjoin him or appoint receiver: Ibid.

3254. Report of commissioners. The commissioners shall report their proceedings under the hands of any two of them, and shall file their report in the office of the clerk of the superior court within five days after the partition was made.

Rev., s. 2505; Code, s. 1918; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 28.

Section referred to in Best v. Dunn, 126-560; Clement v. Ireland, 129-222.

3255. Sale of personal property on partition; report of officer. If a division of personal property owned by any persons as tenants in common, or joint tenants, cannot be had without injury to some of the parties interested, and a sale thereof is deemed necessary, the court shall order a sale to be made by some officer of the court or other competent person, who shall file his report of sale in the office of the clerk of the court within ten days after sale.

Rev., s. 2519; Code, s. 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 29.

3256. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer. If no exception to the report of the commissioners making partition, or to the report of the officer making sale, as the case may be, is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby.

Rev., ss. 2505, 2519; Code, ss. 1918, 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 28, 29.

ART. 1. LIMITED PARTNERSHIP

3258. Purposes for which formed. Limited partnerships for the transaction of any mercantile, manufacturing or mechanical business within the state may be formed by two or more persons, upon the terms and with the rights and powers and subject to the conditions and liabilities in this chapter; but its provisions shall not be construed to authorize any such partnership for the conducting of a banking or insurance business, other than writing or soliciting insurance.

Rev., s. 2521; Code, s. 3088; 1860-1, c. 28.

See Johnson v. Bernheim, 76-139, 86-339.

Where liability of defendant, sued in a justice's court as a general partner of a partnership indebted to plaintiff, depended upon legal sufficiency of articles of limited partnership and matters connected with their registration and publication, and there being no equities to adjust, justice had jurisdiction: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

Section referred to in Supply Co. v. Lyon, 173-445.

3259. General and special partners; liability. Such partnerships may consist of one or more persons, who are general partners, and are jointly and severally responsible as partners are now by law, and of one or more persons, who contribute in actual cash payments a specific sum as capital to the common stock, who are called special partners, and who are not liable for the debts of the partnership beyond the funds so contributed to the capital.

Rev., s. 2522; Code, s. 3089; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 2.

3260. Certificate filed; contents. The persons desirous of forming such partnership must make and severally sign a certificate containing: First, the name or firm under which such partnership is to be conducted; second, the general nature of the business to be transacted; third, the names of all the general and special partners interested therein, distinguishing which are general and which are special partners, and their respective places of residence; fourth, the amount of capital which each special partner has contributed to the common stock; fifth, the period at which such partnership is to commence and terminate.

Rev., s. 2523; Code, s. 3090; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 3.

3261. Certificate proved and registered. The certificate must be acknowledged or proved before some one competent to take the probate of deeds and ordered registered in the same manner as provided for deeds, and must be registered in the county in which the principal place of business of such partnership is situated. If the partnership has places of business in different counties, a transcript of the certificate and acknowledgment certified by the register must be registered and filed in the register's office of each of such counties.

Rev., s. 2524; Code, ss. 3091, 3092; 1860-1, c. 28, ss. 4, 5.

3262. Affidavit as to cash payment. At the time the certificate is ordered to be registered an affidavit of one or more of the general partners shall be made before the officer taking such acknowledgment, stating that the sums specified in the certificate to have been contributed by each of the special partners to the common stock have been actually in good faith paid in cash, and the affidavit so made shall be registered with the original certificate.

Rev., s. 2525; Code, s. 3093; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 6.

3263. Probate and registration necessary. No such partnership shall be deemed to have been formed until such certificate and affidavit have been made, acknowledged, or proved, and registered as required in the preceding sections.

Rev., s. 2526; Code, s. 3094; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 7.

3264. Effect of false statement. If any false statement is made in such certificate or affidavit, all the persons interested in such partnership shall be liable as general partners.

Rev., s. 2527; Code, s. 3095; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 8.

3265. Terms of partnership published. The terms of the partnership must be published immediately after its formation for six successive weeks, in at least one newspaper in the same county or near the place of said partnership business, and if such publication be not made, the partnership shall be deemed general.

Rev., s. 2528; Code, s. 3096; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 9.

Publication of terms of partnership in a newspaper is indispensable in order to constitute a limited partnership; if such publication be omitted the partnership is general: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84. See, also, Supply Co. v. Lyon, 173-445.

3266. Proof of publication. Affidavits of such publication, made by the proprietor of such newspaper in which the same is published, may be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such business is conducted, and shall be evidence of the fact.

Rev., s. 2529; Code, s. 3097; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 10.

3267. Requirements for renewals and continuances. Every renewal or continuance of such partnership beyond the time originally fixed for its duration must be certified, acknowledged and registered, and an affidavit of a general partner made and filed, and notice given by publication as required for its original formation, and every such partnership which is otherwise continued must be deemed a general partnership: Provided, the affidavit herein required may state that the amount of cash therein specified had been originally paid in good faith, and that it is represented by goods or merchandise then on hand, and has not been impaired in the course of trade.

Rev., s. 2530; Code, s. 3098; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 11.

3268. Alteration deemed a dissolution. Every alteration which is made in the names of the partners, in the nature of the business, in the capital or shares thereof or in any other matter specified in the original certificate must be deemed a dissolution of the partnership; and any such partnership which is in any manner carried on after such alteration has been made must be deemed a general partnership, unless renewed as a special partnership, according to the preceding sections.

Rev., s. 2531; Code, s. 3099; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 12.

3269. Name of firm. The business of the partnership must be conducted under a firm, in which the names of the general partners only are inserted, without the addition of the word "company" or any other general term, except the word "limited"; and if the name of any special partner is used in the firm with his privity, he shall be deemed a general partner.

Rev., s. 2532; Code, s. 3100; 1899, c. 75; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 13.

3270. Actions as in general partnership. Suits in relation to the business of the partnership may be brought and conducted by and against the general partner in the same manner as if there was no special partner.

Rev., s. 2533; Code, s. 3101; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 14.

3271. Special stock not withdrawn nor reduced. No part of the sum which any special partner has contributed to the capital stock must be withdrawn by or paid to him in the shape of dividends, profits or otherwise, at any time during the continuance of the partnership; but any partner may annually receive lawful interest on the sum so contributed by him, if the payment of such interest does not reduce the original amount of such capital; and if, after the payment of such interest, any profit remain to be divided, he may receive his portion of such profits.

Rev., s. 2534; Code, s. 3102; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 15.

3272. Depleted capital restored. If it appears by the payment of interest or profits to any special partner that the original capital has been reduced, the partner receiving the same is bound to restore the amount necessary to make good his share of the capital without interest.

Rev., s. 2535; Code, s. 3103; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 16.

3273. Rights of special partner. A special partner may from time to time examine into the state and progress of the partnership concern; he may advise as to its management and act as attorney at law, but must not transact any other of the partnership business, nor be employed for that purpose as agent or otherwise; and if he interfere contrary to this section he is deemed a general partner.

Rev., s. 2536; Code, s. 3104; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 17.

3274. Accounting inter se. The general partners are liable to account to each other, and to the special partners, for their management of the partnership, as other partners.

Rev., s. 2537; Code, s. 3105; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 18.

3275. Special partner as a creditor in insolvency. In case of the bankruptcy or insolvency of the partnership, no special partner, under any circumstances, is to be allowed to claim as a creditor until the claims of all the other creditors of the partnership are satisfied.

Rev., s. 2538; Code, s. 3107; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 20.

3276. Notice of dissolution. No dissolution of such partnership by the acts of the parties must take place before the time specified in the certificate of its formation, or in the certificate of its renewal, until a notice of its dissolution has been registered in the register's office in which the original certificate was registered, and published once a week for four successive weeks in the nearest newspaper to each of the places where the partnership transacts its business.

Rev., s. 2539; Code, s. 3108; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 21.

ART. 2. SURVIVING PARTNERS

3277. Surviving partner to give bond. Upon the death of any member of a partnership, the surviving partner shall, within thirty days, execute before the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership business was conducted, a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, with sufficient surety conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties in the settlement of the partnership affairs. The amount of such bond shall be fixed by the clerk of the court; and the settlement of the estate and the liability of the bond shall be the same as under the law governing administrators and their bonds.

3278. Effect of failure to give bond. Upon the failure of the surviving partner to execute the bond provided for in the preceding section, the clerk of the superior court shall, upon application of any person interested in the estate of the deceased partner, appoint a collector of the partnership, who shall be governed by the same law governing an administrator of a deceased person.

3279. Surviving partner and personal representative make inventory. When a member of any partnership dies the surviving partner, within sixty days after the death of the deceased partner, together with the personal representative of the deceased partner, shall make out a full and complete inventory of the assets of the partnership, including real estate, if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, a copy of which inventory and schedule shall be retained by the surviving partner, and a copy thereof shall be furnished to the personal representative of the deceased partner.

Rev., s. 2540; 1901, c. 640.

This section is not retroactive: Bank v. Hodgin, 129-247.

Death of a partner, in absence of any stipulation in an agreement to the contrary, works an immediate dissolution, and title to assets vests in surviving partner, impressed with a trust to close up partnership business, pay debts, and turn over to his personal representative the share of deceased partner: Walker v. Miller, 139-448; Sherrod v. Mayo, 156-144; Weisel v. Cobb, 114-22.

After dissolution of firm by death of one of the partners, it is the duty of the surviving partner to settle up the joint estate in the manner most conducive to the interest of all concerned: Calvert v. Miller, 94-600; Hodgin v. Bank, 128-110.

An arrangement between distributees and legatees to permit their property, with consent and coöperation of personal representatives of deceased partners, to remain in common and to be used for their joint benefit, adopting name of old firm, constitutes a partnership: Walker v. Miller, 139-448.

Surviving partner who assigns partnership property of insolvent firm to pay his own debts pro rata with those of firm cannot be allowed to testify that he did not thereby intend to defraud firm creditors: Commission Co. v. Porter, 122-692.

Where one of the members of a firm was constituted as general managing agent by the articles of partnership, and upon the death of one partner, his executor consented to a continuance of the business: Held, that manager became agent of the executor, as well as of the other surviving members: Patterson v. Lilly, 90-82.

In an action for goods sold to a firm, the testimony of one partner, who admitted his liability by failing to answer, that the goods were furnished by the plaintiff on the order of the firm, is not competent as against the executor of the deceased partner or as against the firm: Moore v. Palmer, 132-969; Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643.

Notice of dissolution is not necessary to prevent liability for future contracts attaching to estate of deceased or surviving partner: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

Where an administrator of one alleged to have been a partner in a certain concern is sued upon a partnership obligation, the surviving partner is incompetent to testify that defendant's intestate was a partner: Moore v. Palmer, 132-969; Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643, 123-656; Lion v. Pender, 118-147; Sykes v. Parker, 95-232.

3280. When personal representative may take inventory; receiver. If the surviving partner neglect or refuse to have such inventory made, the personal representative of the deceased partner may have the same made in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section. Should any surviving partner fail to take such an inventory or refuse to allow the personal representative of the deceased partner's estate to do so, such personal representative of the deceased partner's estate may forthwith apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver for such partnership, who shall thereupon proceed to wind up the same and dispose of the assets thereof in accordance with law.

An assignment by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm for an indefinite term, assignee to have right to employ servants and to replenish stock and out of proceeds to pay firm debts and also to pay individual debts of survivor pro rata, is fraudulent as against creditors: Commission Co. v. Porter, 122-692—a receiver might be appointed to administer partnership assets, though deed was not set aside, Ibid.

Where surviving partner conveyed assets to assignee to settle estate, it was duty of assignee, notwithstanding a contrary custom in the town where the business had been conducted, to charge and collect interest on all good overdue accounts from the end of a year after dissolution of partnership, and is liable to surviving partner for his failure to do so: Weisel v. Cobb, 118-11. Assignee is chargeable with interest on moneys of a partnership collected by him for the surviving partner and kept after twelve months from the time he assumed the trust until he disbursed it: Ibid. Compensation of assignee of a surviving partner appointed to settle partnership: Ibid.

In case of danger of misapplication by surviving partner of partnership funds, courts may, in behalf of representatives of a deceased partner, restrain by injunction surviving partner from such acts or grant other proper relief: Hodgin v. Bank, 128-111.

Where surviving partner is appointed receiver of firm, he cannot maintain an action against one who, as surety and for accommodation of deceased partner, endorsed latter's note, which was discounted by the firm, if it appear that the assets of the partnership are sufficient to pay its debts and leave a surplus, against deceased partner's share of which the note can be charged: Patton v. Carr, 117-176.

3281. Notice to creditors. Every surviving partner, within thirty days after the death of the deceased partner, shall notify all persons having claims against the partnership which were in existence at the time of the death of the deceased partner, to exhibit the same to the surviving partner within twelve months from the date of first publication of such notice. The notice shall be published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper (if there be any) published in the county where the partnership existed. If there should be no newspaper published in the county, then the notice shall be posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county.

3282. Debts paid pro rata; liens. All debts and demands against a copartnership, where one partner has died, shall be paid pro rata, except debts which are a specific lien on property belonging to the partnership.

Rev., s. 2543; 1901, c. 640, s. 4.

Claim of surviving partner upon proceeds of sale of deceased partner's half of real estate (here mill property) to reimburse him to the amount of half the expenditures incurred in the conduct of joint business and improvements put upon the property, constitute a prior encumbrance, and must be paid to the postponement of creditors of the deceased partner: Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84-646.

Creditors advancing money to surviving partner, in good faith, to enable him to finish work and use up raw material, are entitled to pay out of partnership assets: Calvert v. Miller, 94-600; see Howell v. Mfg. Co., 116-806.

Surety of a deceased partner on a debt due to the partnership has the right to compel the application of such deceased partner's share of assets in the hands of surviving partner to payment of debt in exoneration of such surety's liability: Patton v. Carr, 117-176.

While a surviving partner cannot enter into contracts or create liabilities which will bind estate of deceased partner, yet he is not bound to sacrifice the interest of the firm, and if he contract debts, bona fide, for the interest of the common property, he may pay them out of the common fund: Calvert v. Miller, 94-600.

In a suit by a surviving partner for a firm debt, a personal debt of such survivor may be pleaded as a set-off: Hogg v. Ashe, 2-471; Norment v. Johnston, 32-90—but a debt of the deceased partner cannot be so pleaded, Norment v. Johnston, 32-89.

A bank cannot apply deposit standing in name of surviving partner to the payment of partnership debts: Hodgin v. Bank, 125-503.

Note executed by a member of a partnership to a third party who, as surety and for the accommodation of the maker, endorses it and receives no benefit from it, cannot be subject of an action at law against indorser by the firm, nor, in case of death of maker of note, can surviving partner maintain an action on note against accommodation indorser unless firm be insolvent: Patton v. Carr, 117-176.

A surviving partner who, more than two years after dissolution of firm, indorsed a note in firm name for renewal of notes outstanding similarly indorsed, was individually liable on such indorsement, though it did not bind firm: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

3283. Effect of failure to present claim in twelve months. In an action brought on a claim which was not presented within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, the surviving partner shall not be chargeable for any assets that he may have paid in satisfaction of any debts before such action was commenced, nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the surviving partner.

3284. Procedure for purchase by surviving partner:

1. Appraisal of property. The surviving partner may, if he so desire, make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership existed, after first giving notice to the executor or administrator of the time of the hearing of such application, for the appointment of three judicious, disinterested appraisers, one of whom may be named by the surviving partner, one by the representative of the deceased partner's estate, and the third named by the two appraisers selected, whose duty it shall be to make out under oath a full and complete inventory and appraisal of the entire assets of the partnership, including real estate if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, and to deliver the same to the surviving partner; they shall also deliver a copy to the executor or administrator, and file a copy with the clerk of the court.

2. Surviving partner may purchase. The surviving partner may, with the consent of the executor or administrator of the deceased partner and the approval of the clerk of the superior court by whom such executor or administrator was appointed, purchase the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets at the appraised value thereof, including the good will of the business, first deducting therefrom the debts and liabilities of the partnership, for cash or upon giving to the executor or administrator his promissory note or notes, with good approved security, and satisfactory to the executor or administrator, for the payment of the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets.

3. Surviving partner to give bond. In case the surviving partner shall avail himself of the privilege of purchasing such interest as provided for in this section, he shall give bond to the executor or administrator with surety for the payment of the debts and liabilities of the partnership, and for the performance of all contracts for which the partnership is liable.

4. Sale of real estate. In case of such sale of the real estate belonging to the partnership, the title to the real estate so purchased shall not pass until the sale thereof has been reported to and confirmed by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership was located, in a special proceeding to which the widow and heirs at law or devisees of the deceased partner are duly made parties.

3285. Surviving partner to account and settle. In case the surviving partner shall not avail himself of the privilege of purchasing the interest of the deceased partner, he shall, within twelve months from the death of the deceased partner, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership was located, an account, under oath, stating his action as surviving partner, and shall come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court shall have power, upon good cause shown, to extend the time within which said final settlement shall be made. The surviving partner for his services in settling the partnership estate shall receive commissions to be allowed by the court, and in no case to exceed five per cent out of the share of the deceased partner.

Rev., s. 2546; 1901, c. 640, s. 7.

In the absence of evidence to the contrary, each partner is presumed to be equally interested in the joint business: Worthy v. Brower, 93-344; Taylor v. Taylor, 6-70.

Where the surviving partner acts in good faith in his fiduciary character he cannot be charged with loss: Thompson v. Rogers, 69-357.

In stating an account between an executor and surviving partner of testator, it is not error to charge surviving partner with the value of a note, due testator of plaintiff individually, if such note arose from or grew out of the business of the copartnership: Royster v. Johnson, 73-474.

A surviving partner has no power, after dissolution, to renew or endorse a firm note in the name of the firm: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

Surviving partner of insolvent firm is not entitled to have his personal property exemption paid out of partnership assets: Commission Co. v. Porter, 122-692.

3286. Accounting compelled. In case any surviving partner fails to come to a settlement with the executor or admintsrator of the deceased partner within the time prescribed by law, the clerk of the superior court may, at the instance of such executor, administrator or other person interested in such deceased partnership estate, cite the surviving partners to a final settlement as provided for by law in the case of executors and administrators.

Rev., s. 2547; 1901, c. 640, s. 8.

3287. Settlement otherwise provided for. When the original articles of partnership in force at the death of any partner or the will of a deceased partner make provision for the settlement of the deceased partner's interest in the partnership, and for a disposition thereof different from that provided for in this chapter, the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership shall be settled and disposed of in accordance with the provisions of such articles of partnership or of such will.

Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6.

ART. 3. BUSINESS UNDER ASSUMED NAME REGULATED

3288. Certificate filed; contents. No person shall hereafter carry on, conduct or transact business in this state under assumed name, or under any designation, name or style other than the real name of the individual owning, conducting or transacting such business, unless such person shall file in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such person owns, conducts or transacts, or intends to own, conduct or transact such business, or maintain an office or place of business, a certificate setting forth the name under which such business owned is or is to be conducted or transacted, and the true or real full name of the person owning, conducting or transacting the same, with the home and postoffice address of such person. The certificate shall be executed and duly acknowledged by the person so owning, conducting or intending to conduct such business: Provided, that the selling of goods by sample or through traveling agents or traveling salesmen, or by means of orders forwarded by the purchaser through the mails, shall not be construed for the purpose of this section as conducting or transacting business so as to require the filing of such certificates.

This section, being highly penal in its nature, is to be strictly construed: Jennette v. Copper-smith, 176-82; Price v. Edwards, 178-493. It was intended to protect third persons in dealing with such partnerships, and does not apply to dealings between the partners themselves: Price v. Edwards, 178-493.

Where the title of the business containing the surname of the proprietors is such as to afford a reasonable guide to a correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, it is not an "assumed name" within this section: Befarah v. Spell, 176-193; Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176-82.

3289. Index of certificates kept by clerk. The several clerks of the superior court of this state shall keep an alphabetical index of all persons filing certificates provided for herein, and for the indexing and filing of such certificates they shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. A copy of such certificates duly certified to by the clerk in whose office the same shall be filed shall be presumptive evidence in all courts of law in this state of the facts therein contained.

3290. Corporations and limited partnerships not affected. This article shall in no way affect or apply to any corporation created and organized under the laws of this state, or to any corporation organized under the laws of any other state and lawfully doing business in this state, nor shall it in any manner affect the right of any persons to form limited partnerships as provided by the laws of this state.

1913, c. 77, s. 3.

3291. Violation of article misdemeanor. Any person owning, carrying on or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, who shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not exceeding thirty days: Provided, however, that the failure of any person or persons owning, carrying on, or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, to comply with the provisions of this article shall not prevent a recovery by said person or persons in any civil action brought in any of the courts of this state.

Violation of the provisions as to business under assumed name would prevent a recovery upon a contract: Courtney v. Parker, 173-479—changed by act of 1919, c. 2.

3292. Person trading as "company" or "agent" to disclose real parties; married woman not disclosing, a free trader. If any person shall transact business as trader or merchant, with the addition of the words "factor," "agent," "& Company" or "& Co.," or shall conduct such business under any name or style other than his own, except in case of a corporation, and fail to disclose the name of his principal or partner by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted; or if any married woman conducts such business through her husband or any other agent, or if a husband or agent of any married woman conducts such business for her without displaying the Christian name of such married woman, and the fact that she is a feme covert, by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted, then all the property, stock of goods and merchandise, and choses in action purchased, used and contracted in the course of such business shall, as to creditors, be liable for the debts contracted in the course of such business by the person in charge of same. A married woman conducting such business as aforesaid without complying with the provisions of this section shall for all purposes be deemed and treated, as to all debts contracted in the course of such business, as a free trader as fully as if she had in all respects complied with the provisions of law for a registered free trader: Provided, this section shall not apply to any person transacting business under license as an auctioneer, broker, or commission merchant; in all actions under this section it is incumbent on such trader, merchant or married woman to prove compliance with the same.

Section is constitutional: Scott v. Ferguson, 152-346. The purpose of the section is to prevent a married woman from conducting business by her husband or other agent in such a way as to mislead creditors: Weld v. Shop Co., 147-588.

Stock of goods belonging to the wife and in the hands of her husband as agent is liable for debts for goods sold to the husband: Scott v. Ferguson, 152-346—and an action may be brought in a justice's court, Ibid. This section applies to a married woman as a member of a firm, the name of which does not disclose the fact of coverture: Stone Co. v. McLamb, 153-378—and a mortgage executed by the manager of such firm is valid, Ibid.

This section does not apply where goods were sold to the wife, not a free trader, by agent of creditors who knew the husband and was by him referred to the wife: Weld v. Shop Co., 147-588.

The husband is not liable under this section when the wife's name is disclosed by proper sign, unless he has been guilty of fraud: Morse v. Schultz, 156-165. Failing to comply with this section does not deprive the married woman of her right to exemptions: Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177-298.

ART. 1. PROBATE

3293. Officials of state authorized to take probate. The execution of all deeds of conveyance, contracts to buy, sell or convey lands, mortgages, deeds of trust, assignments, powers of attorney, covenants to stand seized to the use of another, leases for more than three years, releases and any and all instruments and writings of whatsoever nature and kind which are required or allowed by law to be registered in the office of the register of deeds or which may hereafter be required or allowed by law to be so registered, may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of this state: the several justices of the supreme court, the several judges of the superior court, commissioners of affidavits appointed by the governor of this state, the clerk of the supreme court, the several clerks of the superior court, the deputy clerks of the superior court, the several clerks of the criminal courts, notaries public, and the several justices of the peace.

Rev., s. 989; Code, s. 1246; 1899, c. 235; 1895, c. 161, ss. 1, 3; 1897, c. 87.

For powers of commissioners of affidavits, see section 967—of clerks of courts of other states, see section 968. For forms of acknowledgment and proof, see sections 3322-3328.

The taking of acknowledgment of a deed by a justice of the peace, commissioner, or notary public is a judicial, or at least a quasi-judicial, act: Long v. Crews, 113-256; Piland v. Taylor, 113-1; Paul v. Carpenter, 70-502; State v. Knight, 169-333. Registration upon an acknowledgment before an officer not authorized to take it is not even notice to creditors and subsequent purchasers: Long v. Crews, 113-256, and cases cited. Commissioner of deeds of this state is not required to affix seal to certificate acknowledging execution of deed conveying land in this state: Johnson v. Duvall, 135-642—nor is it necessary for seal to be affixed to certificate by any officer unless at the time the statute required it, Westfelt v. Adams, 131-379; but see section 3297.

Cases of interest hereunder where acknowledgment or proof of execution taken before judge of superior court: Wright v. Player, 72-94—before commissioner of affidavits, Johnson v. Duvall, 135-642; Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712; Buggy Co. v. Pegram, 102-540; Simmons v. Gholson, 50-401—before clerk of superior court, Trenwith v. Smallwood, 111-132; Ferebee v. Hinton, 102-99; see section 3299—before clerk of county court, Strickland v. Draughan, 88-315; Starke v. Etheridge, 71-240; Johnson v. Pendergrass, 49-479—before deputy clerk of county court, Piland v. Taylor, 113-1; Coltrane v. Lamb, 109-209—before justice of the peace, Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202; Hatcher v. Hatcher, 127-200; Gaskins v. Allen, 137-426; Williams v. Kerr, 113-309—before notary public, Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Long v. Crews, 113-256; Hughes v. Long, 119-52—before old court of pleas and quarter sessions or county court, Coltrane v. Lamb, 109-209; Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13;

Robbins v. Harris, 96-557—before provost marshal of New Bern while city under federal authority, Paul v. Carpenter, 70-502—before commissioner authorized by old county court, Skinner v. Fletcher, 23-313; Fenner v. Jasper, 18-34.

It is not required that the justice of the peace subscribe the probate; it is sufficient if his name appears in the body of it: Brown v. Hutcheson, 155-205. Probate taken by a de facto officer is valid: Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202.

Certificate of probate by proper officer must be accepted as true when comes up collaterally, and recitals cannot be disproved nor omissions supplied by extraneous proof: Wynne v. Small, 102-133. Distinction between probates by clerks of courts and commissioners of affidavits pointed out in Evans v. Etheridge, 99-43. Justice of peace cannot correct certificate to deed after term of office has expired: Cook v. Pittman, 144-530—nor can probate officer afterwards change the certificate except to show what was done at the time, Butler v. Butler, 169-584.

Proceeding to establish and declare probate of deed where probate had been lost or destroyed: Mills v. McDaniel, 161-112; s. c., 155-249.

AS TO DISQUALIFICATIONS TO TAKE ACKNOWLEDGMENT OR PROOF. An officer interested in a deed, either as party, trustee or cestui que trust, is disqualified to take acknowledgment of its execution: Long v. Crews, 113-256; Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Joines v. Johnson, 133-487; McAllister v. Purcell, 124-262; Blanton v. Bostic, 126-421; Land Co. v. Jennett, 128-3; Freeman v. Person, 106-251; but see Trenwith v. Smallwood, 111-132. The probate is valid if the incapacity does not appear in the record: Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202. The fact that officer taking acknowledgment or proof is employed by grantee does not invalidate unless such officer has an interest in it himself: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Bank v. Ireland, 122-571. The interest to disqualify a probate officer must be a pecuniary interest, and not a mere relationship to the parties: Hinton v. Hall, 166-477; Holmes v. Carr, 163-122. Clerk of court cannot take proofs outside of state: Ferree v. Hinton, 102-99; see section 3298. Deputy clerks of superior court could not take proof of execution, or make orders concerning registration of instruments prior to enactment of chapter 161, acts of 1895: Tatom v. White, 95-453. A probate taken by a woman as a notary or a deputy clerk is invalid: Bank v. Redwine, 171-559; State v. Knight, 169-333; but see Nicholson v. Lumber Co., 160-33. A probate taken by a commissioner of deeds of another state, not authorized by law of this state, is invalid: Wood v. Lewey, 153-401; Shingle Mills v. Lumber Co., 171-410.

3294. Officials of the United States, foreign countries, and sister states. The execution of all such instruments and writings as are permitted or required by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of the United States, of the District of Columbia, of the several states and territories of the United States, of countries under the dominion of the United States and of foreign countries: Any judge of a court of record, any clerk of a court of record, any notary public, any commissioner of deeds, any mayor or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, any ambassador, minister, consul, vice consul, consul general, vice consul general, or commercial agent of the United States, any justice of the peace of any state or territory of the United States. If the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of an instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any state of the United States other than this state or of any territory of the United States, the certificate of such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by a certificate of the clerk of some court of record of the county in which such justice of the peace resides, which certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal, to the effect that such justice of the peace was at the time the certificate of such justice bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county and state or territory and that the genuine signature of such justice of the peace is set to such certificate.

Rev., s. 990; 1899, c. 235, s. 5; 1905, c. 451; 1913, c. 39, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 72, s. 1.

See sections 963, 967, 968, 3175, 3176.

A clerical error in designating the officer taking the probate will not invalidate it: Powers v. Baker, 152-718. It must appear that the officer is one authorized by the law of this state to take probate: Shingle Mills v. Lumber Co., 171-410; Wood v. Lewey, 153-402—but probate taken in another state before a notary who is a woman is valid: Nicholson v. Lumber Co., 160-33. For form of probate by notary in another state, see Kleybolte v. Timber Co., 151-635; Deans v. Pate, 114-194.

3295. Commissioner appointed by clerk for nonresident maker. When it appears to the clerk of the superior court of any county that any person nonresident of this state desires to acknowledge a power of attorney, deed or other conveyance touching any real estate situated in the county of said clerk, he shall issue a commission to a commissioner for receiving such acknowledgment, or taking such proof, and said commissioner may likewise take the acknowledgment and privy examination of a married woman separate and apart from her husband, touching her assent to any power of attorney, deeds or other conveyances, touching real estate in said county. The commissioner shall make certificate of the acknowledgments or proof and privy examination made by him, and shall return the same to the clerk of the superior court, whereupon he shall adjudge that such conveyance, power of attorney or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved, and that such examination is in due form, and shall order the same to be registered.

Rev., s. 991; Code, s. 1258; 1869-70, c. 185.

3296. By justice of peace of other than registering county. If the proof of acknowledgment of any instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any county other than the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the certificate of proof or acknowledgment made by such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said justice of the peace resides, that such justice of the peace was at the time his certificate bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county, and that such justice's genuine signature is set to his certificate. The certificate of the clerk of the superior court herein provided for shall be under his hand and official seal.

Rev., s. 992; 1899, c. 235, s. 4.

Consult Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104-506.

3297. When seal of officer necessary to probate. When proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument by any maker of such instrument, whether a married woman or other person or corporation, is had before any official authorized by law to take such proof and acknowledgment, and such official has an official seal, he shall set his official seal to his certificate. If the official before whom the instrument is proved or acknowledged has no official seal he shall certify under his hand, and his private seal shall not be essential. When the instrument is proved or acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is to be registered, the official seal shall not be necessary.

Rev., s. 993; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.

Omission by justice to attach seal to certificate of proof of execution of deed and of privy examination of wife will not invalidate his action otherwise regular: Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104-506. Certificate of probate need not have seal if same not required by statute at date of execution or registration of deed: Westfelt v. Adams, 131-379. Seal of justice of the peace not essential to validity of assignment for creditors: Friedenwald Co. v. Sparger, 128-446. Seal of commissioner of affidavit not essential to valid probate in the instance referred to in Johnson v. Duvall, 135-642. Where the certificate recites that it is given under seal, but no seal appears to be indicated on the record, it will be presumed that the original certificate was under seal: Johnson v. Lumber Co., 147-249.

3298. Officials may act although land or maker's residence elsewhere. The execution of all instruments required or permitted by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any of the officials authorized by law to take probates, regardless of the county in this state in which the subject-matter of the instrument may be situated and regardless of the domicile, residence or citizenship of the person who executes such instrument, or of the domicile, residence or citizenship of the person to whom or for whose benefit such instrument may be made.

Consult the following decisions prior to this enactment: Dixon v. Robbins, 114-102; Lewis v. Roper, 109-19; Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107-437; Davis v. Higgins, 91-382.

3299. Probate where clerk is a party. All instruments required or permitted by law to be registered to which clerks of the superior court are parties or in which such clerks are interested may be proved or acknowledged and privy examination of any married woman, when necessary, taken before any justice of the peace of the county of said clerk, which clerk may then, under his hand and official seal, certify to the genuineness thereof, or before any judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, and the instrument probated and ordered to be registered by such judge or justice of the peace in like manner as is provided by law for probates by clerks of the superior court in other cases.

Rev., s. 995; 1891, c. 102; 1893, c. 3; 1913, c. 148, s. 1.

See sections 3305, 3343. Probate of deed by officer who is party thereto or interested therein is a nullity: Land Co. v. Jennett, 128-3; Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Long v. Crews, 113-256; Freeman v. Person, 106-251; McAllister v. Purecell, 124-262; Blanton v. Bostic, 126-421; Joines v. Johnson, 133-487; Gregory v. Ellis, 82-225—but probate and private examination taken before officer not invalid simply because he is related to one of the parties, Hinton v. Hall, 166-478; Holmes v. Carr, 163-122; McAllister v. Purecell, 124-262—or is subscribing witness to deed, Trenwith v. Smallwood, 111-132.

Decisions prior to enactment of section which are not now the law: White v. Connelly, 105-65; Turner v. Connelly, 105-72.

3300. Attorney in action not to probate papers therein. No practicing attorney at law has power to administer any oath to a person to any paper writing to be used in any legal proceeding in which he appears as attorney.

Rev., s. 2350; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 105, s. 2.

See section 3175.

3301. Probates before stockholders in building and loan associations. No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including the privy examination of any married woman, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any building and loan association shall hereafter be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, is a stockholder in said building and loan association. This section does not authorize any officer or director of a building and loan association to take acknowledgments, proofs and privy examinations.

3302. Subpœnas to maker and subscribing witnesses. The grantee or other party to an instrument required or allowed by law to be registered may at his own expense obtain from the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is required to be registered a subpœna for any or all of the makers of or subscribing witnesses to such instrument, commanding such maker or subscribing witness to appear before such clerk at his office at a certain time to give evidence concerning the execution of the instrument. The subpœna shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the person upon whom it is to be served resides. If any person refuses to obey such subpœna he is liable to a fine of forty dollars or to be attached for contempt by the clerk, upon its being made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk that such disobedience was intentional, under the same rules of law as are prescribed in the cases of other defaulting witnesses.

Rev., s. 996; Code, s. 1268; 1899, c. 235, s. 16; 1897, c. 28.

Where there is subscribing witness to deed, its execution may be proved by such witness without the acknowledgment of maker: Shaffer v. Hahn, 111-1. Law attaches peculiar importance to testimony of subscribing witnesses: Smith v. Smith, 108-365. See section 3303.

3303. Proof of attested writing. If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has a subscribing witness and such witness is dead or out of the state, or of unsound mind, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of such subscribing witness or of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not be proof of the execution of instruments by married women.

Consult the following decisions prior to enactment of section: Simpson v. Simpson, 93-373; Howell v. Ray, 92-510; Davis v. Higgins, 91-382; Black v. Justice, 86-504; Miller v. Hahn, 84-226; Burnett v. Thompson, 35-379.

As to how to prove handwriting hereunder and as to who is competent to prove it, see Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-425; Bivings v. Gosnell, 141-341; Abernethy v. Yount, 138-337; State v. DeGraff, 113-688; Anderson v. Logan, 99-474; Tuttle v. Rainey, 98-513; Hussey v. Kirkman, 95-63; Angier v. Howard, 94-27; Howell v. Ray, 92-510; State v. Gay, 94-814; Davis v. Higgins, 91-382; Black v. Justice, 86-504; Yates v. Yates, 76-142; Barwick v. Wood, 48-306; McKonkey v. Gaylord, 46-94; Carrier v. Hampton, 33-307; Black v. Wright, 31-447; Pope v. Askew, 23-16; Beverly v. Williams, 20-378; State v. Allen, 8-6. See sections 1782, 1784.

3304. Proof of unattested writing. If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has no subscribing witness, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not apply to proof of execution of instruments by married women.

Rev., s. 998; 1899, c. 235, s. 11.

As to proving handwriting, see cases cited under section 3303. Where parties to instrument having no subscribing witness are nonresidents except one, instrument may be probated upon proof of handwriting of nonresident by resident party: Leroy v. Jacobosky, 136-443. Consult following decisions prior to this enactment: Love v. Harbin, 87-249; Black v. Justice, 86-504.

3305. Clerk to pass on certificate and order registration. When the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument, required or permitted by law to be registered, is had before any other official than the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration shall, before the same is registered, examine the certificate or certificates of proof or acknowledgment appearing upon the instrument, and if it appears that the instrument has been duly proved or acknowledged and the certificate or certificates to that effect are in due form, he shall so adjudge, and shall order the instrument to be registered, together with the certificates. If the clerk of the superior court is a party to or interested in such instrument such adjudication and order of registration shall be made by his deputy or by the clerk of the superior court of some other county of this state, or by some justice of the supreme court of this state or some judge of the superior court of this state. The acknowledgment of such instruments may also be made before a justice of the peace of said county, and the adjudication of the sufficiency of the certificate of said justice may be made by said clerk or his deputy.

For proper registration where probate is taken before another officer, the clerk should pass upon the certificate of probate and order registration: Buchanan v. Hedden, 169-222—but order of registration does not seem to be required when the probate is taken by the clerk, Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158-251. In the following cases it was held that the provision that the clerk should pass upon the certificate of probate and order registration was directory only: Heath v. Lane, 176-119; Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107-437; Ferrabee v. Hinton, 102-99; Young v. Jackson, 92-144; Holmes v. Marshall, 72-37.

A substantial compliance with this section is required: Kleybolte v. Timber Co., 151-635. In a conveyance by a married woman the clerk should adjudge and certify that the certificate of the probate officer is in due form and according to law: Johnson v. Lumber Co., 147-249—it is sufficient to adjudge that the probate is correct, Cozad v. McAden, 150-206. Form of clerk's adjudication when probate is taken by commissioner of deeds: Ibid. Registration of instrument upon probate by commissioner of affidavits, without the clerk's adjudication, is invalid as against creditors and purchasers for value: Evans v. Etheridge, 99-43.

Adjudication of clerk that certificate of probate is correct and sufficient is presumed to be true, but it may be rebutted by competent evidence: Hughes v. Long, 119-52. It is not necessary that the certificate of probate within the state should be registered, unless the statute so requires: Perry v. Bragg, 111-159.

For decisions prior to enactment of section, see White v. Connelly, 105-65; Turner v. Connelly, 105-72; Tatom v. White, 95-453.

3306. Probate of husband's deed where wife insane. When a deed executed by a married man whose wife is insane or a lunatic, and whose homestead has been allotted, together with the certificate of the clerk of the superior court or with the certificate of the superintendent of the insane institution of the state where the wife is confined in conformity to section 1004 under the chapter Conveyances, is offered for probate before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land conveyed is situated, and the execution of such deed is acknowledged or proved, the clerk shall adjudge whether the certificate of the superintendent or the clerk is in due form, and if adjudged to be in due form he shall order the registration of the deed and certificate.

Rev., s. 1000; 1905, c. 138, s. 2; 1919, c. 20.

3307. Probate of corporate deeds, where corporation has ceased to exist. It is competent for the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state, on proof before him upon the oath and examination of the subscribing witness to any contract or instrument required to be registered under the laws of this state, to adjudge and order that such contract or instrument be registered as by law provided, when such contract or instrument is signed by any corporation in its corporate name by its president, and when such corporation has been out of existence for more than ten years when the said contract or instrument is offered for probate and registration, and when the grantee and those claiming under any such grantee have been in the uninterrupted possession of the property described in said contract or instrument since the date of its execution; and said contract or instrument so probated and registered shall be as effective to all intents and purposes as if signed, sealed, and acknowledged, or proven, as provided under the existing laws of this state.

ART. 2. REGISTRATION

3308. Probate and registration sufficient without livery. All deeds, contracts or leases, before registration, except those executed prior to January first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, shall be acknowledged by the grantor, lessor or the person executing the same, or their signature proven on oath by one or more witnesses in the manner prescribed by law, and all deeds executed and registered according to law shall be valid, and pass title and estates without livery of seizin, attornment or other ceremony.

Rev., s. 979; Code, s. 1245; 1885, c. 147, s. 3; 29 Ch. II, c. 3; R. C., c. 37, s. 1; 1715, c. 7; 1756, c. 58, s. 3; 1838-9, c. 33; 1905, c. 277.

Section not applicable to grants: Richards v. Lumber Co., 158-54; Janney v. Blackwell, 138-440; Wyman v. Taylor, 124-426; Ray v. Stewart, 105-472; see section 7579.

Necessity of acknowledgment or proof of execution before registration of instrument set forth in Duke v. Markham, 105-137, and cases cited; Todd v. Outlaw, 79-237, and cases cited; Williams v. Griffin, 49-31; King v. McRackan, 168-621, and cases cited.

Proper probate and registration of deed necessary to pass legal title: Respass v. Jones, 102-5; Anderson v. Logan, 99-474; Southerland v. Hunter, 93-310; Phifer v. Barnhart, 88-333; Triplett v. Witherspoon, 74-475; Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209—and this without livery of seizin, attornment or other ceremony, Jones v. Jones, 164-320; Rowland v. Rowland, 93-221; Hinton v. Moore, 139-47; Edwards v. Dickinson, 102-522; Savage v. Lee, 90-320; Mayo v. Jones, 78-404; Hogan v. Strayhorn, 65-283; Ivey v. Granberry, 66-223.

It is necessary that instrument be probated and registered in order that it may be competent as evidence: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205, and cases cited; Avent v. Arrington, 105-389; Jennings v. Reeves, 101-450; White v. Holly, 91-68; Phifer v. Barnhart, 88-333; Triplett v. Witherspoon, 74-476; Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209; Walker v. Coltraine, 41-79—but this does not apply to use of deeds in evidence to show color of title, Janney v. Robbins, 141-403; Collins v. Davis, 132-111; Allen v. Burch, 142-528; Avent v. Arrington, 105-377; Hunter v. Kelly, 92-285. As to when unregistered deed is color of title, see annotations under section 428.

The registration of a deed is presumed to be correct: Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386. From the fact of registration it is presumed that delivery of deed was made and that maker meant to part with title: Belk v. Belk, 175-69; Smithwick v. Moore, 145-110; Wetherington v. Williams, 134-276; Helms v. Austin, 116-751; Avent v. Arrington, 105-377—also presumed that deed was probated, Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386—and that the probate was regular, Ibid. Where first probate is not sufficient to identify the grantors, the defect may be cured by a second probate: Hutton v. Horton, 178-548.

Unregistered deed passes only equitable title, which may be converted into legal title by registration: Phillips v. Hodges, 109-248; Austin v. King, 91-286; Davis v. Inscoe, 84-403.

Title of grantor is divested from time of delivery of deed which is subsequently registered: Gadsby v. Dyer, 91-311; Phifer v. Barnhart, 88-333—the registration relating back to the delivery, Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209; King v. Portis, 81-384; Isler v. Foy, 66-551; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

Section merely referred to: Haire v. Haire, 141-89; Jordan v. Furnace Co., 126-143; Presnell v. Garrison, 122-597; Linker v. Long, 64-298.

3309. Conveyances, contracts to convey, and leases of land. No conveyance of land, or contract to convey, or lease of land for more than three years shall be valid to pass any property, as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration, from the donor, bargainor or lessor, but from the registration thereof within the county where the land lies: Provided, the provisions of this section shall not apply to contracts, leases or deeds executed prior to March first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, until the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six; and no purchase from any such donor, bargainor or lessor shall avail or pass title as against any unregistered deed executed prior to the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, when the person holding or claiming under such unregistered deed shall be in the actual possession and enjoyment of such land, either in person or by his tenant, at the time of the execution of such second deed, or when the person claiming under or taking such second deed had at the time of taking or purchasing under such deed actual or constructive notice of such unregistered deed, or the claim of the person holding or claiming thereunder.

Rev., s. 980; Code, s. 1245; 1885, c. 147, s. 1.

PURPOSE OF STATUTE. This section, known as the "Connor act, of 1885," was intended to place deeds and contracts to convey upon the same footing, as to registration, as mortgages and deeds of trust under section 3311: Wood v. Tinsley, 138-507; Hinton v. Moore, 139-43; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Hooker v. Nichols, 116-187; Allen v. Bolen, 114-560; Long v. Crews, 113-256.

This section and section 1006 were both intended to prevent fraud, and must be construed together with that view: Austin v. Staten, 126-783. Section will be construed in accordance with principles adopted in construction of sections 3311, 3312: Francis v. Herren, 101-497.

"Unregistered deed" is used in the broad sense of conveyance: McNeill v. Allen, 146-283. This section did not apply to deeds executed before December 1, 1885, until January 1, 1886: Ibid.; Cowen v. Withrow, 116-771; Cozad v. McAden, 148-10; Phillips v. Hodges, 109-248.

EFFECT OF REGISTRATION. Conveyances and contracts to convey are valid between the parties without registration: Proffitt v. Ins. Co., 176-680; Plaster Co. v. Plaster Co., 156-455; Combes v. Adams, 150-64; Morton v. Lumber Co., 144-31; Hinton v. Moore, 139-46; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Leggett v. Bullock, 44-283—and same principle applies to unregistered assignment of mortgages, Morton v. Lumber Co., 144-31. Section does not apply to deeds without valuable consideration: Buchanan v. Clark, 164-56; Thompson v. Thomas, 163-500; Tyner v. Barnes, 142-110—nor to registration of grants, Wyman v. Taylor, 124-426; and sections 7578, 7579. This section does not apply to wills: Harris v. Lumber Co., 147-631.

Registration is intended to protect the rights of creditors and purchasers: Weston v. Lumber Co., 160-263. Conveyances and contracts hereunder good as against creditors and purchasers for value from date of their registration: Bell v. Couch, 132-350; Collins v. Davis, 132-109; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 130-485; Weaver v. Chunn, 99-433; Ijames v. Gaither, 93-361; Blevins v. Barker, 75-436; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-358. Where plaintiff is purchaser for value under registered conveyance, his title cannot be defeated by proof of prior conveyance lost before registration: Hinton v. Moore, 139-44—and parol evidence of such unregistered conveyance inadmissible, Ibid. Section applicable where grantee in deed fails to have same recorded until after probate of will of grantor devising same lands and the registration of deed for same land from devisee to purchaser for value: Bell v. Couch, 132-346. Sheriff's deed for land duly registered takes precedence of similar deed which, though dated first and made in pursuance of prior sale, was registered later: Hooker v. Nichols, 116-157; Cowen v. Withrow, 109-636. Unregistered release of timber interest in land by mortgagee is invalid as against registered deed of purchaser at mortgage sale: Barber v. Wadsworth, 115-30.

When conveyance or contract to convey is not registered until after docketing of judgment against grantor, though executed prior to same, grantee takes subject to lien of judgment: Tarboro v. Micks, 118-162; Bostic v. Young, 116-766; Francis v. Herren, 101-507; Trust Co. v. Sterchie, 169-21; Realty Co. v. Carter, 170-5. Deed executed prior to passage of section, but not registered until after registration of mortgage from same grantor, competent evidence to show title in grantee, he being in possession before passage of section: Laton v. Crowell, 136-377. Decree in suit for specific performance directing conveyance and reciting that its effect should be to convey title need not be recorded under this section: Skinner v. Terry, 134-305. Under amendment of 1910 to the Bankruptcy act, the trustee's title has priority over an unregistered deed: Lynch v. Johnson, 170-110; s. c., 171-611. For effect of section upon parol trusts, equitable right to correction, and other equities, see Pritchard v. Williams, 175-319; Sills v. Ford, 171-733; Wood v. Tinsley, 138-507. Failure to register a deed does not invalidate it, but it is postponed or subordinated to the rights of creditors acquiring liens by proper proceedings and the rights of purchasers for value: Tyner v. Barnes, 142-110; Francis v. Herren, 101-497. Where man executed and delivered deed to tract of land prior to marriage, which was not recorded until after his death, his widow not entitled to dower: Haire v. Haire, 141-88. Of two deeds from a common source of title, the first registered has priority: Mintz v. Russ, 161-538.

An unregistered deed is not color of title where both parties claim under the same grantor, nor against a subsequent deed for valuable consideration which has been registered first; but in other cases it is color of title: King v. McRackan, 168-621; Moore v. Johnson, 162-266; Gore v. McPherson, 161-638; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Janney v. Robbins, 141-400; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Austin v. Staten, 126-783; Utley v. R. R., 119-720; Avent v. Arrington, 105-377. See section 428 and annotations. Contracts to convey land may be read in evidence without registration: Hargrove v. Adcock, 111-166; but see Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205, and cases cited under section 3308.

There is no limitation as to time within which a deed is to be registered: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 130-482; Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13. Deed must be registered in the county where the land is situated: Weston v. Lumber Co., 160-263.

Where acknowledgment of deed void, registration thereof also void: Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Long v. Crews, 113-256; Southerland v. Hunter, 93-310—as is registration upon unauthorized or essentially defective probate, King v. McRackan, 168-621; Withrell v. Murphy, 154-82; Allen v. Burch, 142-524; Barrett v. Barrett, 120-129; Anderson v. Logan, 99-474. Where proof of execution of deed or other instrument requiring registration has been duly made in this state, not necessary that fact of probate should be registered, unless statute so directs: Perry v. Bragg, 111-159. Not necessary that there should be an imitation of seal in registration: Power Co. v. Power Co., 168-219. Indexing and cross-indexing necessary for registration: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Ely v. Norman, 175-294; overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279, but having only prospective effect. Where probate and registration of deed under which defendant's claim was defective, reprobate and reregistration after plaintiff's title accrued, and after institution of action, can have no effect: Bernhardt v. Brown, 122-587.

Filing in register's office is sufficient: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694; Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-428; Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279; Parker v. Scott, 64-118; McKinnon v. McLean, 19-79; Metts v. Bright, 20-311. What effect the necessity for indexing and cross-indexing will have, see cases in preceding paragraph. A paper is filed when it is delivered to the officer and received by him for the purpose of registration: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668—but delivery to register outside of his office is not a filing: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694.

NOTICE. Only registration is sufficient notice: Allen v. R. R., 171-339. No notice, however full and formal, can take the place of registration under this section: Fertilizer Co. v. Lane, 173-184; Lynch v. Johnson, 170-110; Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169-385; Burwell v. Chapman, 159-209; Wood v. Lewey, 153-401; Harris v. Lumber Co., 147-631; Tremaine v. Williams, 144-114; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Blalock v. Strain, 122-283; Patterson v. Mills, 121-267, and cases cited; Hinton v. Leigh, 102-28; Blevins v. Barker, 75-436. Recorded option on lands given by duly empowered executors is notice of its terms only, and time within which should be exercised: Trogden v. Williams, 144-192—and unregistered waiver of time limit by executors in consenting to execute deed thereafter is inoperative against purchaser for value under sufficiently and subsequently registered conveyance made by proper persons, Trogden v. Williams, 144-192. Provisions of section that no purchase from bargainor or lessor shall pass title as against unregistered deed executed before December 1, 1885, of which purchaser had actual or constructive notice, applies to purchase at sale under execution: Cowen v. Withrow, 116-771, 112-736, 111-306, 109-636. One who goes into possession of land under parol contract to convey cannot hold land until repaid purchase money and for improvements as against purchaser for value from vendor, holding under duly registered conveyance, although purchaser had notice of contract: Wood v. Tinsley, 138-507.

Registration of deed showing probate, including private examination of wife, and order of registration, and names of grantors, but omitting copy of signatures at end of instrument, is sufficient notice under section: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47—as is also case where seal not recorded, Power Co. v. Power Co., 168-219; Heath v. Cotton Mills, 115-202. Filing for registration is in law the registration and is sufficient notice: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694, and other cases cited supra under “effect of registration.”

In absence of fraud, actual notice of prior unregistered mortgage or contract to convey executed since December 1, 1885, cannot affect the rights of subsequent purchaser for value whose deed or mortgage duly registered: Maddox v. Arp, 114-585; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584; Collins v. Davis, 132-106. Actual notice to agent of unregistered deed executed prior to December 1, 1885, is actual notice to principal: Cowan v. Withrow, 111-306. Registration of prior voluntary deed is notice to subsequent purchaser: Taylor v. Eatman, 92-601.

Possession of land is not sufficient if unregistered deed executed after December 1, 1885: Lanier v. Lumber Co., 177-200; Smith v. Fuller, 152-7; Tremaine v. Williams, 144-114; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Allen v. Bolen, 114-560. For law prior to this section, see Bost v. Setzer, 87-187.

Section merely referred to: Janney v. Blackwell, 138-440; Wainwright v. Bobbitt, 127-274; Fortescue v. Crawford, 105-30.

3310. Unregistered deeds prior to January, 1885, registered on affidavit. Any person holding any unregistered deed or claiming title thereunder, executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, may have the same registered without proof of the execution thereof by making an affidavit, before the officer having jurisdiction to take probate of such deed, that the grantor, bargainor or maker of such deed, and the witnesses thereto, are dead or cannot be found, that he cannot make proof of their handwriting, and that affiant believes such deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by the grantor therein named. This section shall not interfere with vested rights nor shall a deed so admitted to record be used as evidence in any action now pending. Said affidavit shall be written upon or attached to such deed, and the same, together with such deed, shall be entitled to registration in the same manner and with the same effect as if proved in the manner prescribed by law for other deeds.

Rev., s. 981; 1885, c. 147, s. 2; 1905, c. 277; 1913, c. 116; 1915, cc. 13, 90.

Probate of deed dated prior to January 1, 1870, defective where does not appear by affidavit that affiant believes such deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by grantor named therein: Allen v. Burch, 142-524.

3311. Deeds of trust and mortgages, real and personal. No deed of trust or mortgage for real or personal estate shall be valid at law to pass any property as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the donor, bargainor or mortgagor, but from the registration of such deed of trust or mortgage in the county where the land lies; or in case of personal estate, where the donor, bargainor or mortgagor resides; or in case the donor, bargainor or mortgagor resides out of the state, then in the county where the said personal estate, or some part of the same, is situated; or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagee resides. For the purposes mentioned in this section the principal place of business of a domestic corporation is its residence.

REGISTRATION OF MORTGAGES. Registration of a mortgage is to protect the mortgagee and not the mortgagor: Smith v. Fuller, 152-7. As between the parties, a mortgage is valid without registration: McBrayer v. Harrill, 152-712; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Deal v. Palmer, 72-582; Leggett v. Bullock, 44-283.

Words "at law" defined in Hooker v. Nichols, 116-157; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584. Deeds of trust and mortgages are of no validity as against purchasers for value and creditors unless registered; and have effect only from registration: Freeman v. Croom, 172-524; Dew v. Pyke, 145-303; Bostic v. Young, 116-770; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-358; McCoy v. Lassiter, 95-88; Deal v. Palmer, 72-582; Dukes v. Jones, 51-14; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584; Cowan v. Green, 9-384. Registration of mortgage upon proper probate is notice to the world of existence thereof and of nature and extent of charge created by it: Harper v. Edwards, 115-246; Woody v. Jones, 113-253; Ijames v. Gaither, 93-358; Weathersbee v. Farrar, 97-106; Parker v. Banks, 79-480—and no notice, however full and formal, will dispense with such notice by registration, Fertilizer Co. v. Lane, 173-184; Blalock v. Strain, 122-283; Hooker v. Nichols, 116-160; Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114-145; Killebrew v. Hines, 104-182; Hinton v. Leigh, 102-28; Blevins v. Barker, 75-436; Dewey v. Littlejohn, 37-495; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584.

Mortgage or trust deed duly proven and registered is good against a prior mortgage not registered: Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114-145; Allen v. Bolen, 114-565; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Hinton v. Leigh, 102-28; Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298; Moore v. Ragland, 74-343; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-358; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584—even though second mortgagee knew of existence of first mortgage, Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298; Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114-145—unless, however, second mortgagee prevented by fraud the registration of first mortgage, Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584. Where mortgage registered before prior trust deed securing purchase money recites the prior encumbrance, such purchase money must be paid by mortgagee from proceeds of land: Bank v. Vass, 130-590; Hinton v. Leigh, 102-28. A deed for land and a mortgage to secure the purchase money constitute one act, and such mortgage executed and registered at the same time with the deed will have priority over the purchaser's second mortgage, though registered first: Hinton v. Hicks, 156-24.

A registry of mortgage is not void because of clerical mistakes made by register in transcribing which do not affect sense and provision as to amount secured, description of property, etc., or obscure meaning of instrument: Royster v. Lane, 118-156. A reference in a mortgage to note secured by it, without specifying its contents, is sufficient to put subsequent purchasers upon inquiry and to charge them with notice: Harper v. Edwards, 115-246. Duly registered mortgage passes legal title to mortgagee, and levy and sale of property for taxes due by mortgagor do not carry title to purchaser divested of lien of mortgage: Woody v. Jones, 113-253.

Deed of trust by a corporation, duly registered, is a prior lien to that of a subsequently docketed judgment in an action on contract: Clement v. King, 152-456. For priority of other judgment liens, see sections 1138, 1140. A mortgage by a corporation is not invalid because register failed to indicate the seal on the record: Edwards v. Supply Co., 150-171.

Mortgagees of property to secure preëxisting debts are purchasers for value under this section and will be protected by prior registration: Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Bank v. Cox, 171-76. Canceled mortgages as against creditors are inoperative and creditor secured thereby can claim no liens or priorities thereunder: Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298. Deeds in trust and mortgages are, as between parties thereto, when registered, effectual from their delivery: Brem v. Lockhart, 93-191. Conveyance of chose in action in trust to pay debt is within section: Smith v. Washington, 16-318. As to sufficiency of instrument as a mortgage under this section, see Skinner v. Cox, 15-59; Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123; Harris v. Jones, 83-317.

Section embraces only those deeds of trust which are intended as securities for debts: Saunders v. Ferrell, 23-96—and not deeds of settlement between husband and wife in which property is conveyed to trustee in trust for wife, such instruments being embraced under section 3314: Ibid.; also, Green v. Kornegay, 49-66. In contest between trustee under deed and creditor of maker in attachment proceedings, lien of former begins from time at which deed delivered to register, that of latter from time when summons personally served upon debtor: Parker v. Scott, 64-118. Deed in trust duly executed by husband, but not registered until after death, operates to defeat widow's claim of dower: Norwood v. Marrow, 20-578—for widow in respect to such claim is neither creditor nor purchaser for value under section, Ibid.

Registration deemed to be done on day of delivery to register, as noted by him on deed: McKinnon v. McLean, 19-79—deemed to be complete from time when register commences same, Metts v. Bright, 20-311. Where deed in trust delivered to register, who immediately commenced registration of same, and justice's execution obtained two hours later, trust deed has priority over levy under execution: Metts v. Bright, 20-311. But a mortgage delivered to register out of his office is not properly filed for registration until taken to the office and marked for registration: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694. Indexing and cross-indexing are held to be necessary, and it seems that the mortgagee must see that this is done: Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279.

Mortgage deed conveying land which is not registered in county where land lies is not valid against creditors or purchasers: King v. Portis, 77-25—and where purchaser at foreclosure sale obtains deed for tract of land lying in two counties, and mortgage under which sold was registered only in one, such deed conveys no title as against creditors or purchasers for value as to part of land lying in other county, Ibid.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES. Agreement between parties to chattel mortgage for substitution of other property for that conveyed in mortgage, while good as between parties, is not mortgage so as to give lien in preference to creditors and purchasers for value: Blalock v. Strain, 122-283. Contract creating lien upon stock and prospective products of business to secure capital for operation of business is valid chattel mortgage: Brown v. Dail, 117-41. No particular words of conveyance necessary to the execution of mortgage of personal property: Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321; Frick v. Hilliard, 95-117—for at common law mortgages of personal property were not required to be reduced to writing, Butts v. Screws, 95-215—an oral chattel mortgage is valid between the parties: Odom v. Clark, 146-544—and section only requires them to be reduced to writing and registered as affecting creditors and purchasers for value, Ibid.—but same are good inter partes without registration, Williams v. Jones, 95-504. Sufficient form to constitute chattel mortgage: Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Harris v. Allen, 104-86. A recital in a chattel mortgage that there is no encumbrance except a certain amount due a piano company is not sufficient notice to take the place of registration: Piano Co. v. Spruill, 150-168.

Mortgage on personalty must be registered in the county where the mortgagor resides, unless he is nonresident, then in the county where the property is situated: Foy v. Hurley, 172-575; Sloan Bros. v. Sawyer-Felder Co., 175-657; Weaver v. Chunn, 99-431. It is not notice if registered in wrong county: Bank v. Cox, 171-76; Weaver v. Chunn, 99-431. Where mortgage upon personalty was registered in county in which mortgagor resided, not necessary, in case of his removal to another, to register mortgage in such other county: Harris v. Allen, 104-86. Mortgage upon crop registered in county in which land lies and to which mortgagor contemplated removing, and subsequently removed after registration of instrument, is properly registered: Harris v. Jones, 83-317.

No particular book is designated for the registration, and it is sufficient if the instrument is properly indexed and cross-indexed: Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321.

Mortgage both of land and personal property may be registered after death of mortgagor: Williams v. Jones, 95-504.

Where duly enrolled, a vessel used entirely in the state was mortgaged and recorded as required by act of congress, but was not registered as required by section, such recording is valid: Lawrence v. Hodges, 92-672.

Pledge of personal property not included within words or meaning of section: Doak v. Bank of State, 28-309. Distinction between pledge and mortgage of personal property pointed out in Doak v. Bank, 28-309; McCoy v. Lassiter, 95-88.

For fertilizer contract held not to be within section, see Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123. Where two mortgages on personalty, and first mortgagee advances money in excess of mortgage to save property and prepares same for market, he is not entitled to amount of such excess against second mortgagee: Weathersbee v. Farrar, 97-106. Right to retain or retake property which is included in an unregistered mortgage: Springs v. Cole, 171-418; Taylor v. Mills, 148-415. For a general discussion of the section, see Wood v. Tinsley, 138-509; Collins v. Davis, 132-107; McKinnon v. McLean, 19-79.

Section merely referred to: Hinton v. Moore, 139-47; Lance v. Tainter, 137-250; Barrington v. Skinner, 117-52; Love v. Crews, 113-258; Harrell v. Godwin, 102-351; Francis v. Herren, 101-497; Evans v. Etheridge, 99-46; Brem v. Loekhart, 93-193; Todd v. Outlaw, 79-235; Barrett v. Cole, 49-41; McCoy v. Wood, 70-128; Edwards v. Thompson, 71-181; Starke v. Etheridge, 71-244; Womble v. Battle, 38-190.

3312. Conditional sales of personal property. All conditional sales of personal property in which the title is retained by the bargainor shall be reduced to writing and registered in the same manner, for the same fees and with the same legal effect as is provided for chattel mortgages, in the county where the purchaser resides, or, in case the purchaser shall reside out of the state, then in the county where the personal estate or some part thereof is situated, or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagee resides.

For power of sale, see section 2587.

WHAT IS A CONDITIONAL SALE. A conditional sale is a sale upon condition, in which purchaser sustains relation of mortgagor and seller the relation of mortgagee: Mfg. Co. v. Gray, 121-170. As to whether contract a conditional sale or lease depends upon purpose of parties as expressed in instrument: Hamilton v. Highlands, 144-279; Empire Drill Co. v. Allison, 94-548. Where firm agrees to sell goods for part of profits, it is not a conditional sale: Lance v. Butler, 135-419. Contract for lease of personal property, upon payment of rent, property to belong to lessee upon last payment of rent, is conditional sale: Clark v. Hill, 117-11; Mfg. Co. v. Gray, 121-170; Barrington v. Skinner, 117-47; Puffer v. Lucas, 112-377. In order to constitute conditional sale, essential that title to property should remain in vendor: Frick v. Hilliard, 95-117. Where title to property retained until purchase money paid, no title to property passes, although description of chattel in instrument is wrong: Harris v. Woodard, 96-232.

For contracts construed to be conditional sales, see Whitlock v. Lumber Co., 145-120; Hamilton v. Highlands, 144-279; Wilcox v. Cherry, 123-82, overruling Foreman v. Drake, 98-311; Blalock v. Strain, 122-283; Block v. Dowd, 120-402; Tufts v. Griffin, 107-49; Vasser v. Buxton, 86-335; Clayton v. Hester, 80-275; Parris v. Roberts, 34-268; Ellison v. Jones, 26-48. Where transaction doubtful as to whether parties intended mortgage or conditional sale, courts will construe same as mortgage: Watkins v. Williams, 123-170; Poindexter v. McCannon, 16-373. For contracts held not to be conditional sales, see Lance v. Butler, 135-419; Frick v. Hilliard, 95-117; Millbiser v. Erdman, 98-292; Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED. A conditional sale is valid against creditors and purchasers for value only from registration: Observer Co. v. Little, 175-42; Fulp v. Power Co., 157-157; Clark v. Hill, 117-11; Blalock v. Strain, 122-283; Glasecock v. Hazell, 109-148; Foreman v. Drake, 98-311; Butts v. Screws, 95-215; Brem v. Lockhart, 93-191. This means creditors who have taken some steps to reach the property: Observer Co. v. Little, 175-42. Section places conditional sales on same footing as chattel mortgages, and only protects creditors and purchasers: Thomas v. Cooksey, 130-151; Butts v. Screws, 95-215. As between the parties to the contract a conditional sale is valid without registration, and the contract may be oral: Kornegay v. Kornegay, 109-188; Butts v. Screws, 95-215.

Where personalty is sold under conditional sale and the same is not registered, a prior registered mortgage covering after-acquired property will not have priority: Dry Kiln Co. v. Ellington, 172-481; Cox v. Lighting Co., 151-62; Lumber Co. v. Lumber Co., 150-282. An unregistered conditional sale is invalid as against an assignment for the benefit of creditors duly registered: Starr v. Wharton, 177-323—and also as against the rights of trustee in bankruptcy since amendment of 1910, Hinton v. Williams, 170-115. In a conditional sale of a cotton gin, attaching the gin to the land does not change it from personalty to realty: Lancaster v. Ins. Co., 153-285. Conditional sale was not required to be registered at common law, and the court will presume that the common law is in force in another state: Carriage Co. v. Dowd, 155-307. Conditional sale of personal property made to husband, registered after his death, takes precedence over allotment of year's allowance to widow which included such property, made after registration: Hinkle v. Green, 125-489. Where contract put in shape of lease for purpose of evading registration laws, or with other unlawful intention, same will not be upheld as such to prejudice of innocent purchasers: Wilcox v. Cherry, 123-79, overruling upon this point Foreman v. Drake, 98-311.

A conditional sale of personal property is properly registered in county where purchaser resides: Barrington v. Skinner, 117-47—and if he remove to another county with the property it need not be recorded in latter county, Ibid.

3313. Conditional sales or leases of railroad property. When any railroad equipment and rolling stock is sold, leased or loaned on the condition that the title to the same, notwithstanding the possession and use of the same by the vendee, lessee, or bailee, shall remain in the vendor, lessor or bailor until the terms of the contract, as to the payment of the installments, amounts or rentals payable, or the performance of other obligations thereunder, shall have been fully complied with, such contract shall be invalid as to any subsequent judgment creditor, or any subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice, unless—

1. The same is evidenced by writing duly acknowledged before some person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.

2. Such writing is registered as mortgages are registered, in the office of the register of deeds in at least one county in which such vendee, lessee or bailee does business.

3. Each locomotive or car so sold, leased or loaned has the name of the vendor, lessor, or bailor, or the assignee of such vendor, lessor or bailor plainly marked upon both sides thereof, followed by the word owner, lessor, bailor or assignee, as the case may be.

This section shall not apply to or invalidate any contract made before the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three.

Rev., s. 984; Code, s. 2006; 1883, c. 416; 1907, c. 150, s. 1.

3314. Marriage settlements. All marriage settlements and other marriage contracts, whereby any money or other estate is secured to the wife or husband, shall be proved or acknowledged and registered in the same manner as deeds for lands, and shall be valid against creditors and purchasers for value only from registration.

Rev., s. 985; Code, ss. 1269, 1270, 1281; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, ss. 24, 25; 1785, c. 238; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 12.

As to what is a marriage settlement, see Sullivan v. Powers, 100-27; Walton v. Parish, 95-259; Teague v. Downs, 69-287. Deeds of settlement in trust for wife and children, proved and registered three years after execution, valid only as against creditors whose debts contracted after such registration: Johnston v. Malcolm, 59-120. Registration of marriage settlement, embracing personal property of married woman, properly made in county where such woman resided and the property was at time of execution of instrument: Latham v. Bowen, 52-337. Antenuptial contract between husband domiciled in this state and wife domiciled in another state, securing property in such state to wife, and there duly recorded, is good against creditors of husband, although property subsequently removed to this state: Hicks v. Skinner, 71-539.

As bearing upon section, see Smith v. Garey, 22-46. Section merely referred to: Dew v. Pyke, 145-303; Credle v. Carrawan, 64-425.

3315. Deeds of gift. All deeds of gift of any estate of any nature shall within two years after the making thereof be proved in due form and registered, or otherwise shall be void, and shall be good against creditors and purchasers for value only from the time of registration.

Rev., s. 986; Code, s. 1252; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, s. 18; 1789, c. 315, s. 2.

Registration of prior voluntary deed is notice to subsequent purchaser: Taylor v. Eatman, 92-601. For discussion of section, see Dew v. Pyke, 145-303. Case under an old section: Hancock v. Hovey, 1-152.

3316. Deeds of easements. All persons, firms, or corporations now owning or hereafter acquiring any deed or agreement for rights of way and easements of any character whatsoever shall record such deeds and agreements in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated. Where such deeds and agreements may have been acquired, but no use has been made thereof, the person, firm, or corporation holding such instrument, or any assignment thereof, shall not be required to record them until within ninety days after the beginning of the use of the easements granted thereby. If after ninety days from the beginning of the easement granted by such deeds and agreements the person, firm, or corporation holding such deeds or agreements has not recorded the same in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated, then the grantor in the said deed or agreement may, after ten days notice in writing served and returned by the sheriff or other officer of the county upon the said person, firm, or corporation holding such lease or agreement, file a copy of the said lease or agreement for registration in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the original should have been recorded, but such copy of the lease or agreement shall have attached thereto the written notice above referred to, showing the service and return of the sheriff or other officer. 3. It shall not apply to decrees of a competent court awarding condemnation or confirming reports of commissioners, when such decrees are on record in such courts.

4. It shall not apply to local telephone companies, operating exclusively within the state, or to agreements about alley-ways.

Every power of attorney, wherever made or concerning whatsoever matter, may, on acknowledgment or proof of the same before any competent official, be registered in the county wherein the property or estate which it concerns is situate, if such power of attorney relate to the conveyance thereof; if it does not relate to the conveyance of any estate or property, then in the county in which the attorney resides or the business is to be transacted.

Rev., s. 987; Code, s. 1249; 1899, c. 235, s. 15.

As to sufficiency of power of attorney to convey realty, see Caddell v. Allen, 99-542. Power of attorney given by feme covert to dismiss action concerning her land need not be registered to give it validity: Hollingworth v. Harman, 83-153.

3318. Plats and subdivisions. Any person, firm, or corporation, owning land in this state, who may desire to subdivide the same into smaller tracts or lots for the purpose of sale or other purpose, may have a plat or subdivision of such land recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such land or any part thereof is situated, upon proof upon oath by the surveyor making such plat or subdivision that the same is in all respects correct and was prepared from an actual survey by him made, giving the date of such survey and the variation of the magnetic needle. Such plats or subdivisions when so proven, and probated as deeds and other conveyances, shall be recorded either by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records, or in a book to be designated the Book of Plats; and when so recorded shall be duly indexed.

Rev., s. 988; Code, s. 1253; 1858-9, c. 18, s. 2.

For records of court to prove deed, see sections 376, 377.

Certified copy of deed is evidence of its probate and registration: Strickland v. Draughan, 88-315; Love v. Harbin, 87-249—but same may be rebutted by evidence to contrary, Love v. Harbin, 87-249. Copy of the record of a grant is admissible in evidence without accounting for original: Lumber Co. v. Lumber Co., 169-80.

Conveyances cannot be introduced in evidence until proved and registered: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Jennings v. Reeves, 101-450; Avent v. Arrington, 105-389; White v. Holly, 91-68; Phifer v. Barnhardt, 88-333; Triplett v. Witherspoon, 74-475; Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209; Walker v. Coltraine, 41-79. As to contracts to convey, see Hargrove v. Adeock, 111-166. When certificate of probate is not sufficient to entitle instrument to registration, if one make it part of his pleadings, he waives question of admissibility: Avent v. Arrington, 105-377.

Fact that deed has been three times probated and registered does not affect its competency as evidence: Bell v. Couch, 132-346.

Deed improperly proven and registered was, on trial, attempted to be proven as at common law, but could not be so proven unless deed was in court: Hatcher v. Hatcher, 127-201.

3320. Register to fill in deeds on blank forms with lines. Registers of deeds shall, in registering deeds and other instruments, where printed skeletons or forms are used by the register, fill all spaces left blank in such skeletons or forms by drawing or stamping a line or lines in ink through such blank spaces.

1911, c. 6, s. 1.

3321. Errors in registration corrected on petition to clerk. Every person who discovers that there is an error in the registration of his grant, conveyance, bill of sale or other instrument of writing, may prefer a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said writing is registered, in the same manner as is directed for petitioners to correct errors in grants or patents, and if on hearing the same before said clerk it appears that errors have been committed, the clerk shall order the register of the county to correct such errors and make the record conformable to the original. The petitioner must notify his grantor and every person claiming title to or having lands adjoining those mentioned in the petition, thirty days previous to preferring the same. Any person dissatisfied with the judgment may appeal to the superior court as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1008; Code, s. 1266; R. C., c. 37, s. 28; 1790, c. 326, ss. 2, 3, 4.

Section provides for correction of errors in registration by petition and proceeding wherein interested persons and adjoining landowners are made parties, and in such cases statutory proceeding is exclusive: Hopper v. Justice, 111-418. Register of deeds has power and it is his duty to correct any error he may have made in registration of deed either by inserting any omitted matter or by registration of entire instrument: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205. Where by mistake or oversight of makers of deed same incorrectly written, grantors have no equity to call upon grantee to correct mistake on books of register, as they have ample remedy under this section: Oldham v. Bank, 85-240.

ART. 3. FORMS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT, PROBATE AND ORDER OF REGISTRATION

3322. Adjudication and order of registration. The form of adjudication and order of registration required by section 3305 shall be substantially as follows:

Rev., ss. 1001, 1010; 1899, c. 235, s. 7; 1905, c. 344.

See annotations under section 3305. Where proof of execution of instrument duly made within the state, not necessary that certificate or fact of probate should be registered, unless statute at that time otherwise directed: Perry v. Bragg, 111-159; Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386; Freeman v. Hatley, 48-115; Love v. Harbin, 87-253; Starke v. Etheridge, 71-243. The word "jurat" means proved, and is sufficient evidence of probate: Moore v. Quickle, 159-129.

3323. Acknowledgment by grantor. Where the instrument is acknowledged by the grantor or maker, the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, _____ County.

I (here give the name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give the name of the grantor or maker) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing instrument. Witness my hand and (where an official seal is required by law) official seal this the _____ day of _____ (year).

(Official seal.) _____

Rev., s. 1002.

As to probating officer affixing seal, see section 3297. The name of the justice of the peace in the body of certificate instead of subscribed is sufficient: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

3324. Private examination of wife. When an instrument purports to be signed by a married woman, the form of certificate of her acknowledgment and private examination before any officer authorized to take the same shall be in substance as follows:

I (here give name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give name of the married woman who executed the instrument), wife of (here give husband's name), personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing (or annexed) instrument; and the said (here give married woman's name), being by me privately examined, separate and apart from her said husband, touching her voluntary execution of the same, doth state that she signed the same freely and voluntarily, without fear or compulsion of her said husband or any other person, and that she doth still voluntarily assent thereto.

Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this ---- (day of month), A. D. ----- (year).

Rev., s. 1003; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 637.

See under section 997. Private examination of married woman which sets out that she signed deed of her own free will and accord, and without any compulsion of her husband, is sufficient without adding words "and doth voluntarily assent thereto": Robbins v. Harris, 96-557.

3325. Husband's acknowledgment and wife's examination before same officer.

Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this---- (day of month), A. D. ----- (year).

Rev., s. 1004; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 299.

See cases under section 997. Omission of justice to attach seal to certificate of proof of execution of deed and privy examination of wife will not invalidate his action otherwise regular, the section requiring him to attach seal being directory only: Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104-506. Statute does not require clerk to order registration except when probate is taken by another officer: Buchanan v. Hedden, 169-222; Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158-251—and this is held to be only directory in Heath v. Lane, 176-119; Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107-437. See sections 3305, 3332.

3326. Corporate conveyances. North Carolina, ----- County.

This ---- day of -----, A. D. -----, personally came before me (here give the name and official title of the officer who signs this certificate). A. B. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this ____ day of _____ (year).

(Official seal.) _____

North Carolina, _____ County.

This is to certify that on the ____ day of _____, 19____, before me personally came _____ (president, vice-president, secretary or assistant secretary, as the case may be), with whom I am personally acquainted, who, being by me duly sworn, says that _____ is the president (or vice-president), and _____ is the secretary (or assistant secretary) of the _____, the corporation described in and which executed the foregoing instrument; that he knows the common seal of said corporation; that the seal affixed to the foregoing instrument is said common seal, and the name of the corporation was subscribed thereto by the said president (or vice-president), and that said president (or vice-president) and secretary (or assistant secretary) subscribed their names thereto, and said common seal was affixed, all by order of the board of directors of said corporation, and that the said instrument is the act and deed of said corporation. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this the ____ day of _____ (year).

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the signature of the president, presiding member or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal and attested by its secretary, the following form of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

This ____ day of _____, A. D. _____, personally came before me (here give name and official title of the officer who signs the certificate) A. B., who, being by me duly sworn, says that he is president (presiding member or trustee) of the _____ Company, and that the seal affixed to the foregoing (or annexed) instrument in writing is the corporate seal of the company, and that said writing was signed and sealed by him in behalf of said corporation by its authority duly given. And the said A. B. acknowledged the said writing to be the act and deed of said corporation.

 (Signature of officer.)

If the officer before whom the same is proven be the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration, he shall add to the foregoing certificate the following: "Let the instrument with the certificate be registered."

Rev., s. 1005; 1899, c. 235, s. 17; 1901, c. 2, s. 110; 1905, c. 114; 1907, c. 927, s. 1.

For validation of corporate probates, see sections 3352-3356. Probate of deed of corporation by acknowledgment of individuals instead of its officers is void: Bernhardt v. Brown, 122-587. The forms given indicate that it must appear by oath that the seal affixed is the corporate seal, and that it was affixed by an officer of the corporation; mere acknowledgment of signatures by the officers is insufficient: Withrell v. Murphy, 154-82. A substantial compliance with this section is sufficient: Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202. Sufficient probate of corporation deed by subscribing witness: Power Co. v. Power Co., 168-219.

This section seems to imply the power of board of directors to mortgage the corporate property: Wall v. Rothrock, 171-388.

As bearing on section: Clark v. Hodge, 116-761; Heath v. Cotton Mills, 115-202; Duke v. Markham, 105-131; Clayton v. Clagle, 97-302.

3327. Clerk's certificate upon probate by justice of peace. When the proof or acknowledgment of any instrument is had before a justice of the peace of some other state or territory of the United States, or before a justice of the peace of this state, but of a county different from that in which the instrument is offered for registration, the form of certificate as to his official position and signature shall be substantially as follows:

North Carolina, ----- County.

I, A. B. (here give name and official title of a clerk of a court of record), do hereby certify that C. D. (here give the name of the justice of the peace taking the proof, etc.), was at the time of signing the foregoing (or annexed) certificate an acting justice of the peace in and for the county of ----- and state (or territory) of -----, and that his signature thereto is in his own proper handwriting.

In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and official seal, this ---- day of-----

A. D. -----

Rev., s. 1006; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.

3328. Clerk's certificate upon probate by nonresident official without seal. When the proof or acknowledgment of any instrument is had before any official of some other state, territory or country and such official has no official seal, then the certificate of such official shall be accompanied by the certificate of a clerk of a court of record of the state, territory or country in which the official taking the proof or acknowledgment resides, of the official position and signature of such official; such certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal and shall be in substance as follows:

-----County.

I, A. B. (here give name and official title of the clerk of a court of record as provided herein), do hereby certify that C. D. (here give name of the official taking the proof, etc.) was at the time of signing the foregoing (or annexed) certificate a (here give the official title of the officer taking proof, etc.) in and for the county of ----- and state of ----- (or other political division of the state, territory or country, as the case may be), and that his signature thereto is in his own proper handwriting.

In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and official seal, this ---- day of-----

A. D. -----

ART. 4. CURATIVE STATUTES; ACKNOWLEDGMENTS; PROBATES;
REGISTRATION

3329. Defective order of registration; "same" for "this instrument." Where instruments were admitted to registration prior to March 2, 1905, and the clerk's order for the registration used the word "same" in place of "this instrument," the said registrations are good and valid.

Rev., s. 1010; 1905, c. 344.

3330. Clerk's certificate failing to pass on all prior certificates. When it appears that the clerk of the superior court or other officer having the power to probate deeds, in passing upon deeds or other instruments, and the certificates thereto, having more than one certificate of the same or a prior date, by other officer or officers taking acknowledgment or probating the same, has in his certificate or order mentioned only one or more of the preceding or foregoing certificates or orders, but not all of them, but has admitted the same deed or other instrument to probate, it shall be conclusively presumed that he has passed upon all the certificates of said deed or instrument necessary to the admission of the same to probate, and the certificate of said clerk or other probating officer shall be deemed sufficient and the probate and registration of said deed or instrument is hereby made and declared valid for all intents and purposes.

3331. Defective certification or adjudication of clerk, etc., admitting to registration. In all cases where, prior to January first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, instruments by law required or authorized to be registered, with certificates showing the acknowledgment or proof of execution thereof as required by the laws of the state of North Carolina, have been ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court or other officer qualified to pass upon probates and admit instruments to registration, and actually put upon the books in the office of the register of deeds as if properly proven and ordered to be registered, all such probates and registrations are hereby validated and made as good and sufficient as though such instruments had been in all respects properly proved and recorded, notwithstanding the failure of clerks or other officers qualified to pass upon the proofs or acknowledgments of instruments and to admit such instruments to registration to adjudge or certify that said instruments were duly proven, and notwithstanding the failure of such officers to adjudge or certify that the certificates of proof or acknowledgment of said instruments were correct or in due form. This act shall not affect any suit, action, or proceeding pending in the courts of this state March 10, 1919, and shall not impair vested rights.

3332. Order of registration omitted. In every case where it appears from the records of the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that the execution of a deed of conveyance was duly acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of such county and the certificate of such officer taking the acknowledgment was made complete except that the order of registration was omitted, and such deed, with the certificate of such officer, was duly registered without any order of registration, any and all such probates and registrations are hereby validated, and the records of such deeds of conveyance may be read in evidence upon the trial or hearing of any cause with the same force and effect as if the same had been duly ordered registered. This section only applies to deeds so acknowledged and registered prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. Suits pending October 13, 1913, are not affected by this section.

1911, c. 91; 1911, c. 166; 1913, c. 61; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 73; 1915, c. 179, s. 1.

3333. Official deeds omitting seals. All deeds executed prior to January first, nineteen hundred and ten, by any sheriff, commissioner, or other officer authorized to execute a deed, by virtue of his office or appointment, wherein the officer has omitted to affix a seal after his signature, shall be good and valid nevertheless. The provisions of this section apply to acknowledgments, private examinations, or proofs taken prior to March 11, 1907, before a notary whose term had expired. This section does not apply to litigation pending February 16, 1915.

Rev., s. 1012; 1907, cc. 213, 665, 971; 1911, c. 4; 1915, c. 36.

3335. Registrations by register's clerks or deputies. All registration of deeds and other instruments heretofore made by the several registers of deeds of the several counties of the state by their deputies and clerks, and signed in the name of the register of deeds by a deputy or clerk, and when said registration is in all other respects regular, are hereby validated and declared of the same force and effect as if signed in the name of the register and not by a deputy or clerk. This section does not affect litigation pending March 8, 1911, in any state or federal court or any suit in substantial renewal of any pending litigation.

form, but appears to have been certified by the officer in some capacity other than that in which such officer was authorized to act, or appears to have been made out of the county or district authorized by law, but within the state, and where the instrument with such certificate has been recorded in the proper county, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded, and to be valid. This section does not affect actions pending March 11, 1913.

Statute validates irregular probates as between parties, and as to third persons from passage of same: Williams v. Kerr, 113-310; Barrett v. Barrett, 120-127; Gordon v. Collett, 107-362—but does not validate such probates as to third persons whose rights had already accrued prior to enactment of section, Williams v. Kerr, 113-310; Barrett v. Barrett, 120-127.

3337. Before justices of peace, where clerk's certificate or order or registration defective. In every case where it appears from the record of the office of any register of deeds in this state that a justice of the peace in this state has taken and certified the proof of any instrument required by law to be registered, or the privy examination of a married woman thereto, and the deed and certificate have been registered, prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and seven, in the county where the lands described in the instrument are located, without or with a defective certificate of the clerk of the official character of the justice, or as to the genuineness of his signature, or without the order of registration of the clerk, or his adjudication of due probate, or with a defective adjudication thereof, such proofs, certificates and registration are validated; but as against creditors or purchasers from donor, bargainor or lessor, only from February first, nineteen hundred and seven.

3339. Before judges supreme or superior courts or clerks before 1889. Rev., s. 1009; Code, s. 1260; 1871-2, c. 200, s. 1; 1889, c. 252; 1891, c. 484.

Section validates probates of deeds and privy examination taken before deputy clerk of superior court prior to January 1, 1889, and it is immaterial whether deputy clerk, in making probate, signed as deputy clerk or merely signed name of clerk thereto: Gordon v. Collett, 107-362.

Section constitutional and valid if rights of third persons have not accrued, but it would not divest title of party acquired by subsequent deed from same grantor which is registered prior to enactment of curative statute: Gordon v. Collett, 107-362; Barrett v. Barrett, 120-127; Williams v. Kerr, 113-310; White v. Connelly, 105-65; Tatom v. White, 95-453.

Section does not validate probate of deed taken by clerk of superior court who is grantee in same: Freeman v. Person, 106-251; White v. Connelly, 105-71. This section validates probate taken by court of pleas and quarter sessions in wrong county: Weston v. Lumber Co., 160-263.

Original section before amendment validated all probates of deeds before officers named therein prior to February 12, 1872, and registration made in pursuance of such probates are embraced within operation of same, although made after that date, but before enactment of Code of 1883: Tatom v. White, 95-453.

3362. Before commissioners of deeds. Any deed or other instrument permitted by law to be registered, and which has prior to the third day of March, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, been proved or acknowledged before a commissioner of deeds, is validated; and its registration is authorized and validated. All probates, acknowledgments, and private examinations of deeds and conveyances of land heretofore taken before masters in equity or masters in chancery in any other state are declared to be valid, and all registrations of such deeds or conveyances upon such probates, acknowledgments and private examinations, or any of them, are hereby declared to be sufficient. All such deeds and conveyances and registration thereof, and all certified copies of such registrations, shall be received in evidence or otherwise used in the same manner and with the same force and effect as other deeds and conveyances with probates, acknowledgments, or private examinations made in accordance with provisions of statutes of this state in force at the time and as registrations thereof and certified copies of such registrations. This section does not apply to any suit pending in the courts of this state or of the United States on February 15, 1911. 3367. Unlawful to manufacture or sell. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to manufacture or in any manner make, or sell, or otherwise dispose of, for gain, any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the state of North Carolina: Provided, that wines and ciders may be manufactured or made from grapes, berries or fruits, and wine sold at the place of manufacture only, and only in sealed or crated packages containing not less than two and one-half gallons per package; but no wine, when sold, shall be drunk upon the premises where sold, nor shall the package containing the same be opened on the premises: Provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the sale of cider, in any quantity, by the manufacturer from fruits grown on his lands within the state of North Carolina; nor to prevent the sale of wine to any minister of religion or other officer of a church to be used for religious or sacramental purposes.

Rev., ss. 2058, 2058 (b), 2061; 1908, c. 71, ss. 1, 5; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.

Legislature may pass laws prohibiting sale of liquor within any designated locality: State v. Piner, 141-760, and cases cited on page 762; Guy v. Comrs., 122-471—no one having a vested right in such traffic, Guy v. Comrs., 122-471.

When the liquid, by common knowledge and observation, is intoxicating, the court may so declare; but if it is doubtful whether or not it be so, then the question of fact is raised for the jury: State v. Piner, 141-763; State v. Parker, 139-588, and cases cited; State v. Packer, 80-439; State v. Lowry, 74-121.

Sale of cider made from fruits grown on owner's premises not prohibited: State v. Williams, 172-973.

What amounts to a sale, discussion of Wilson act and the Webb-Kenyon act: State v. Cardwell, 166-309—in case of liquors furnished for club, State v. Colonial Club, 154-177—aiding and abetting in the sale of liquor, State v. Denton, 154-641; State v. Winner, 153-602. Sale by allowing customers to wait on themselves: State v. Potect, 86-612; State v. McMinn, 83-668—to members of a club by having steward take care of liquors and dispense them, State v. Neis, 108-787; State v. Lockyear, 95-633—by agents, State v. Kittelle, 110-560; State v. Neal, 133-689; State v. Taylor, 89-577; State v. Smith, 117-809; State v. McNeeley, 60-234. Exchange of liquor is a sale: State v. Mitchell, 156-659. Defendant is guilty where he sold to one employed by the officer: State v. Smith, 152-798.

Where distiller outside of territory sold to party inside of territory and delivered it, guilty: State v. Sykes, 104-694. Where drug clerk sells liquor without knowledge and against orders of owner, the owner is not guilty: State v. Neal, 133-689. Law presumes the unlawful intent from the selling; and it is no defense that defendant did not in fact intend to violate the law: State v. Piner, 141-760; State v. Downs, 116-1064—but defendant may show that in good faith he did not know the drink to be intoxicating, State v. Powell, 141-780. Case under statute against selling "drinks containing alcohol," State v. Parker, 139-586. Receipt of order by one within prohibition territory and filling same by delivering to depot, also within said territory, guilty: State v. Groves, 121-632. Delivering liquor and receiving the price within prohibited territory: State v. Johnston, 139-640.

It is not a sale simply to order liquor for another from a liquor house at his request: State v. Bailey, 168-168; State v. Cardwell, 166-309; State v. Wilkerson, 164-431; State v. Watkins, 164-425; State v. Allen, 161-226; State v. Whisenant, 149-515.

A contract for the sale of intoxicating drinks is illegal and will not be enforced: Pfeifer v. Drug Co., 171-214; Bluthenthal v. Kennedy, 165-372; Pfeifer v. Israel, 161-409; Vinegar Co. v. Hawn, 149-355.

Legislature has power to change rules of evidence and declare that certain facts or conditions when shown shall constitute prima facie evidence of guilt: State v. Wilkerson, 164-431; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Barrett, 138-630; State v. Dowdy, 145-432—therefore a statute making the keeping of a certain quantity of liquor prima facie evidence of keeping it with intent to sell is valid, Ibid.; State v. Dowdy, 145-432; State v. Tisdale, 145-422; State v. McIntyre, 139-601; State v. Williams, 146-618—but statute does not operate when indictment does not specify name of person to whom sold, State v. Tisdale, 145-422. Such statute does not violate the provision of the federal constitution prohibiting the denial to any person the equal protection of the law: State v. Barrett, 138-630—quere: Whether it is within the power of the legislature to make the mere ownership or possession of whiskey in itself a crime: State v. McIntyre, 139-599. See section 3379.

3368. Intoxicating liquors defined. All liquors or mixtures thereof, by whatever name called, that will produce intoxication shall be construed and held to be intoxicating liquors within the meaning of this article: Provided, that medicinal preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopœia and National Formulary which contain no more alcohol than is necessary to extract the medicinal properties of the drugs contained in such preparations, and no more alcohol than is necessary to hold the medicinal agents in solution, and which are manufactured and sold as medicines and not as beverages, shall not be held or construed to be or to come within the meaning or provisions of this article.

Wine is an intoxicating liquor: State v. Piner, 141-763; State v. Packer, 80-439; State v. Scott, 116-1012; State v. Giersch, 98-720—as are also brandy peaches under certain circumstances, State v. Scott, 116-1012—also what is known as “singlings,” State v. Summey, 60-496—also lager beer and all other liquors, whether produced by fermentation or distillation, which by their free use produce intoxication, State v. Giersch, 98-720—and also drinks containing such an amount of alcohol as would make a man drunk if freely used, State v. Parker, 139-587.

3369. Place of delivery place of sale. The place where delivery of any intoxicating liquors is made in the state of North Carolina shall be construed and held to be the place of sale thereof, and any station or other place within the state to which any person shall ship or convey any intoxicating liquors for the purpose of delivering or carrying the same to a purchaser shall be construed to be the place of sale.

Rev., s. 2080; 1908, c. 71, s. 4; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.

Legislature had power to enact this section: State v. Herring, 145-418; State v. Patterson, 134-612. An indictment at the place of delivery of liquor is not prohibited by the sixth amendment to the constitution of the United States: State v. Patterson, 134-612. Delivery of liquors by club manager to members of club is not a sale: State v. Colonial Club, 154-177. This section does not apply to sale fully consummated in another state and subject to interstate commerce regulation: State v. Allen, 161-226 (before Webb-Kenyon law); see State v. R. R., 169-295.

3370. Unlawful to solicit orders for liquor. It is unlawful for any person, for himself or as agent or traveling salesman for any person, firm or corporation, to solicit orders or proposals of purchase of intoxicating liquors by the jug or bottle or otherwise within the state of North Carolina.

Section cited in Pfeifer v. Israel, 161-409; State v. Cardwell, 166-309.

3371. Unlawful sale through agents. If any person unlawfully and illegally procures and delivers any spirituous or malt liquors to another, he shall be deemed and held in law to be the agent of the person selling said spirituous and malt liquors, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. When the solicitor of any judicial district has good reason to believe that liquor has been manufactured or sold contrary to law within any county in his district, and believes that any person has knowledge of the existence and establishment of any illicit distillery, or that any person has sold liquor illegally, then it is lawful for the solicitor to apply to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the offense is supposed to have been committed to issue subpoenas for the person so having knowledge of said offenses to appear before the next grand jury drawn for the county, there to testify upon oath what he may know touching the existence, establishment and whereabouts of said distillery or persons who have sold intoxicating liquors contrary to law, and shall give the names and personal description of the keepers thereof, and such evidence, when so obtained, shall be considered and held in law as an information on oath upon which the grand jury shall make presentment, as provided by law, in other cases. If any officer shall fail or refuse to use due diligence in the execution of the provisions of this section, he shall be guilty of laches in office and such failure be cause for removal from office.

One buying for another in unprohibited territory and delivering in prohibited territory is guilty: State v. Johnson, 139-640; State v. Bailey, 168-168. It is not a sale when club manager simply holds liquor in deposit for club members: State v. Colonial Club, 154-177. This section contemplates an illegal sale, and defendant must be agent of seller in such sale: State v. Wilkerson, 164-432; State v. Burchfield, 149-537; State v. Whisenant, 149-515; State v. Allen, 161-226.

3372. Social clubs using liquors. No corporation, club, association, or person shall directly or indirectly keep or maintain, alone or by association with others, or by any other means, or shall in any manner aid, assist, or abet others in keeping or maintaining a clubroom or other place where intoxicating liquors are received, kept, or stored for barter, sale, exchange, distribution, or division among the members of any such club or association or aggregation of persons, or to or among any other persons by any means whatever, or shall act as agents in ordering, procuring, buying, storing, or keeping intoxicating liquors for any such purpose: Provided, this section shall not apply to churches using wines for sacramental purposes, or to hospitals or asylums keeping intoxicating liquors for medical purposes.

Section changes rule in State v. Colonial Club, 154-177.

ART. 2. SALE OF NEAR-BEER AND OTHER SPECIFIED DRINKS

3373. Unlawful to sell near-beer and other mixed drinks. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell or dispose of, for gain, near-beer, beerine, or other spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors, or mixtures of any kind, and under whatsoever name called, that shall contain alcohol, or cocaine, or morphine, or other opium derivative, except as herein provided.

1911, c. 35, s. 1.

3374. Must allow package to be taken away. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, who is engaged in the sale of any kind of drinks, to refuse to allow any person to carry away from the place where such drinks are being sold or offered for sale, any package or quantity of any size of the drink which has been bought and paid for; and if any person, firm or corporation shall refuse to allow the package or quantity of such drink to be carried away from the place of sale, it shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this article.

3375. Construction of article. This article shall not be construed to forbid the sale of cocaine or morphine or other opium derivative to any registered pharmacist, or to forbid the sale of cocaine, morphine, or other opium derivative by a licensed pharmacist upon a written prescription by a regularly licensed physician or surgeon. This article shall not apply to the sale of domestic wines when sold in quantity of not less than two and one-half gallons in sealed packages or crated, on the premises where manufactured, or to the sale of cider in any quantity by the manufacturer from fruits grown on his land within the state of North Carolina, or to the sale of wine to any minister of religion or other officer of a church when such wine is bought for religious or sacramental purposes, or to the sale of flavoring extracts or essences when sold as such, or to the sale of medical preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopœia and National Formulary which contain no more alcohol than is necessary to extract the medical properties of the drug contained in such preparations, and no more alcohol than is necessary to hold the medical agents in solution, and which are manufactured and sold as medicines and not as beverages, or to the sale of any medical preparation which is manufactured, sold, and used as a medicine and not as a beverage, or to the sale of carbonated drinks that contain no more than one-tenth of one per cent of alcohol, and in which drinks a flavoring agent is used, in the manufacture of which flavoring agent alcohol is used to dissolve and hold in solution or to extract from the crude material the flavoring agent.

1911, c. 35, s. 3; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.

For regulation of sale of cocaine, etc., see Medicine and Allied Occupations.

For the sale of wines and ciders under this section, see State v. Hicks, 174-802; State v. Williams, 172-973. Invalid town ordinance as to sale of "near-beer": State v. Dannenberg, 150-799.

ART. 3. MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF MALT

3377. Transportation companies to keep record. All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies, doing business in this state, are required to keep a separate record of all shipments of such malt, in which shall be entered, immediately upon receipt thereof, the name of the person to whom shipped, the amount of each shipment, the date when received and the date when delivered, and by whom delivered and to whom delivered, which record shall be open for the inspection of any officer of the state, county or municipality any time during business hours of the company.

1915, c. 91, s. 2.

ART. 4. SEARCH AND SEIZURE LAW

3378. Handling liquor for gain. It is unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association, by whatever name called, to engage in the business of selling, exchanging, bartering, giving away for the purpose of direct or indirect gain, or otherwise handling spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in the state of North Carolina.

1913, c. 44, s. 1.

See annotations under section 3367. The original act contained an exception in favor of druggists, but it was not necessary for the indictment to negative this exception: State v. Moore, 166-284.

3379. Keeping liquor for sale; evidence. It is unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, by whatever name called, to have or keep in possession, for the purpose of sale, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and proof of any one of the following facts shall constitute prima facie evidence of the violation of this section:

1. The possession of a license from the government of the United States to sell or manufacture intoxicating liquors; or
2. The possession of more than one gallon of spirituous liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or
3. The possession of more than three gallons of vinous liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or

1913, c. 44, s. 2; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.

This section is constitutional: State v. Cathey, 170-794; State v. Randall, 170-757; State v. Denton, 164-531; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Wilkerson, 164-431.

Lee*, 164-533. The having in possession for the purpose of sale is the offense: State v. Davis, 168-144; State v. Blauntia, 170-749; State v. Wilkerson, 164-431.

The existence of any of the facts mentioned in section is prima facie evidence, but this does not shift the burden of proof to the defendant: State v. Wilkerson, 164-431; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Denton, 164-530; State v. Blauntia, 170-749; State v. Randall, 170-757; State v. Bean, 175-748.

spirituous or vinous liquors or more than five gallons of malt liquors for the purpose of sale, a warrant shall be issued commanding the officer to whom it is directed to search the place or places described in such complaint or information, and if more than one gallon of spirituous or vinous liquors or more than five gallons of malt liquors be found in any such place or places, to seize and take into his custody all such intoxicating liquors described in the complaint or information, and seize and take into his custody all glasses, bottles, kegs, pumps, bars or other equipment used in the business of selling intoxicating liquors which may be found at such place or places, and safely keep the same subject to the orders of the court. The complaint or information shall describe the place or places to be searched with sufficient particularity to identify the same, and shall describe the intoxicating liquors or other property alleged to be used in carrying on the business of selling intoxicating liquors as particularly as practicable, and any description, however general, that will enable the officer executing the warrant to identify the property seized shall be deemed sufficient. All spirituous, vinous or malt liquors seized under this section shall be held and upon acquittal of the person so charged shall be returned to such person, and upon conviction, or upon default of appearance, shall be destroyed.

See annotations under section 3379.

3381. Unlawful to handle draft connected with receipt for liquor. It is unlawful for any bank incorporated under the laws of this state, or national bank, or any individual, firm or association, to present, collect or in any wise handle any draft, bill of exchange or order to pay money, to which draft, bill of exchange or order to pay money is attached a bill of lading, or order, or receipt for intoxicating liquors, or which draft is enclosed with, connected with, or in any way related to, directly or indirectly, any bill of lading, order or receipt for intoxicating liquors.

3382. Transportation companies to keep record. All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies doing business in this state are required hereby to keep a separate book in which shall be entered immediately upon receipt thereof the name of the person to whom the liquor is shipped, the amount and kind received, and the date when received, the date when delivered, by whom delivered, and to whom delivered, after which record shall be a blank space, in which the consignee shall be required to sign his name, or if he cannot write, shall make his mark in the presence of a witness, before such liquor is delivered to such consignee, and which book shall be open for inspection to any officer or citizen of the state, county, or municipality any time during business hours of the company, and such book shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein and will be admissible in any of the courts of this state. Any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company or any employee or agent of any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, upon the filing of a certificate signed by a reputable physician or two reputable citizens that the consignee is unable, by reason of sickness or infirmities of age, to appear in person, then the company is authorized to deliver any package to the agent of the consignee, and the agent shall sign the name of the consignee and his own name, and the certificate shall be filed of record.

1913, c. 44, s. 5.

Right of any citizen to inspect the books of common carrier for this purpose: State v. R. R., 169-295.

3383. Indictment and proof. In indictments for violating the first section of this article, it shall not be necessary to allege a sale to a particular person, and the violation of law may be proved by circumstantial evidence as well as by direct evidence.

1913, c. 44, s. 6.

It is not necessary to allege a sale to a particular person: State v. Brown, 170-714. Section is constitutional: Ibid. Before this act it was necessary to allege a sale to a particular person or to some person unknown to the jurors: State v. Tisdale, 145-422; State v. Dowdy, 145-432—and to prove such allegation, State v. Watkins, 164-425. For evidence, see annotations under section 3380.

ART. 5. DELIVERY AND RECEIVING REGULATED

3384. Amount delivered restricted. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or any agent, officer or employee thereof, to ship, transport, carry or deliver, in any manner or by any means whatsoever, for hire or otherwise, in any one package or at any one time from a point within or without this state to any person, firm or corporation in this state any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity greater than one quart, or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons; and it is unlawful for any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters so shipped, transported, carried or delivered in any one package to be contained in more than one receptacle.

This section is constitutional: State v. Little, 171-805; State v. Carpenter, 173-767; State v. Poythress, 174-809—and creates two offenses, one for transporting more than one quart in one package or at one time, and the other for transporting in any quantity where the packages are in more than one receptacle, that is, each package shall be carried for its owner as a separate parcel, Ibid.

One who brings into the state four quarts of liquor, in separate vessels, each for a separate person, and not for sale, does not violate this section: State v. Little, 171-805—nor when one transports his own liquor, not for the purpose of sale, and gives another a drink, State v. Coleman, 178-757.

Effect of Webb-Kenyon law explained: State v. R. R., 169-295; Glenn v. Express Co., 170-286.

Common carrier is not required to accept for shipment more than one quart for one person: Glenn v. Express Co., 170-286.

A local statute prohibiting the delivery of any intoxicating beverages within a certain territory is valid: State v. Express Co., 173-753.

3385. Amount received restricted. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation at any one time, or in any one package, to receive at a point within the state of North Carolina for his use or for the use of any person, firm or corporation, or for any other purpose, any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity greater than one quart or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons.

See annotations under section 3384.

3386. Fifteen days between receipts. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, during the space of fifteen consecutive days, to receive any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity or quantities totaling more than one quart, or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons: Provided, that the provisions of this and the two preceding sections shall not apply to the receipt by a common carrier for transportation to a point in another state where delivery is not forbidden by the laws of such state.

Common carrier not required to deliver more than one quart to one person in fifteen days: Glenn v. Express Co., 170-286.

3387. Malt liquors defined. The words "malt liquors" as used in this article shall be construed to include only such malt liquors as contain not to exceed five per centum of alcohol, and any malt liquors containing more than five per centum of alcohol shall be held to be "spirituous liquors" within the meaning of this article.

3388. No order in fictitious name or in name of another. It is unlawful for any person to order in a fictitious name or in the name of another any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters or to receive for himself any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters so ordered or shipped.

1915, c. 97, s. 5.

3389. To allow use of name forbidden. It is unlawful for any person to allow or in any way permit the use of his name in the ordering for another or the delivery to another of any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters.

1915, c. 97, s. 6.

3390. To serve liquors with meals forbidden. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to serve with meals, or otherwise, any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters where any charge is made for such meal or service.

1915, c. 97, s. 7.

Where a person has been convicted under this section and the liquors have been seized and ordered to be destroyed, he cannot maintain claim and delivery to recover them: Felia v. Belton, 170-112.

3391. Sale by druggists prohibited. All laws authorizing or allowing the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters by any medical depository, druggist or pharmacist are hereby repealed, and it shall be unlawful for any medical depository, druggist or pharmacist to sell or otherwise dispose of for gain any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters.

3392. Application of provisions of this article. The provisions of this article shall not apply to grain alcohol received by duly licensed physicians, druggists, dental surgeons, college, university and state laboratories, and manufacturers of medicine, when intended to be used in compounding, mixing, or pre-servicing medicines or medical preparations, or for surgical purposes, when obtained as hereinafter provided: Provided, however, that nothing contained in this article shall prohibit the importation into the state of North Carolina and the delivery and possession in the state for use in industry, manufactures, and arts of any denatured alcohol or other denatured spirits, which are compounded and made in accordance with the formulæ prescribed by acts of congress of the United States and regulations made under authority thereof by the treasury department of the United States and the commissioner of internal revenue thereof, and which are not now subject to internal revenue tax levied by the government of the United States: Provided further, that this article shall not apply to wines and liquors required and used by hospitals or sanatoria bona fide established and maintained for the treatment of patients addicted to the use of liquor, morphine, opium, cocaine, or other deleterious drugs, when the same are administered to patients actually in such hospitals or sanatoria for treatment, and when the same are administered as an essential part of the particular system or method of treatment and exclusively by or under the direction of a duly licensed and registered physician of good moral character and standing.

3393. Vinous liquors for sacramental purposes. It shall be lawful for any duly ordained minister of the gospel who is in charge of a church and at the head of a congregation in this state, to receive in the space of ninety consecutive days a quantity of vinous liquors not greater than three gallons for use in sacramental purposes only, and it shall be lawful for him to receive same in one or more packages or one or more receptacles.

3394. Permit to obtain alcohol for certain purposes. Manufacturers of medicine, duly licensed physicians, hospitals, dental surgeons, college, university, and state laboratories and druggists may make written application to the clerk of the superior court of the county for a permit to receive by transportation by a common carrier grain alcohol intended to be used for surgical purposes and in compounding, mixing, or preserving medicines and medical preparations. Such permit shall then be granted by the clerk or his duly appointed deputy, who shall affix the seal of his office thereto, and the permit shall contain the name of the applicant to whom the shipment is to be delivered, the place from which the shipment is to be made, the amount to be shipped, and the date of the granting of the permit. The permit shall be executed in duplicate. The original shall be delivered to the applicant to be sent by him to the shipper, to be pasted on the outside of the package containing alcohol.

1915, c. 97, s. 10.

3395. Permit attached to package. A permit, issued as above, when attached to and plainly affixed in a conspicuous place to any package or parcel containing grain alcohol transported within this state, shall authorize any common carrier within the state to transport the package or parcel to which such permit is attached or affixed, containing only alcohol mentioned in the permit, and to deliver the same to the person, firm or corporation to which such permit was issued.

1915, c. 97, s. 11.

3396. Duplicate permit filed with clerk. The duplicate copy of the permit, together with the application therefor, as hereinbefore provided, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court chronologically and alphabetically with regard to the name of the applicant, and the application and permit shall at all times be subject to the inspection of any citizen or officer of the state, county, or municipality; and for his services the clerk of the superior court shall be entitled to a fee of fifty cents, to be paid by the applicant.

3397. Construction of article. Nothing in this article shall be construed to impair or repeal any laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors or any laws making the place of delivery the place of sale, nor shall it be construed to repeal any laws prohibiting the transportation, delivery, or receipt of intoxicating liquors in any county or counties in this state.

1915, c. 97, s. 14.

This does not repeal local laws prohibiting the sale of liquor: State v. Russell, 164-482— but does repeal a local law permitting the sale in violation of the general law, State v. Johnson, 170-685.

ART. 6. SEIZURE AND FORFEITURE OF PROPERTY

3398. Duty of sheriff to seize distilleries. It is the duty of the sheriff of each county in the state and of the police of each incorporated town or city in the state to search for and seize any distillery or apparatus used for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in violation of the laws of North Carolina, and to deliver the same, with any materials used for making such liquors found on the premises, to the board of county commissioners, who shall confiscate the same and shall cause the distillery to be cut up and destroyed, in their presence or in the presence of a committee of the board, and who may dispose of the material, including the copper or other material from the destroyed still or apparatus, in such manner as they may deem proper.

Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, s. 2; 1907, c. 807, s. 1.

3399. Duty of officers to destroy liquor and arrest offenders. It is the duty of the sheriff and other officers mentioned in the preceding section to seize and then and there destroy any and all liquors which may be found at any distillery for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in violation of law, and to arrest and hold for trial all persons found on the premises engaged in distilling or aiding or abetting in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors.

Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, ss. 4, 5; 1909, c. 807, s. 2.

3400. Officer failing to discharge duty removed from office. If any officer mentioned in the two preceding sections shall fail or refuse to use due diligence in the execution of the provisions of such sections, after being informed of violation thereof, he shall be guilty of laches in office and such failure be cause for removal therefrom.

Rev., s. 3526; 1905, c. 498, s. 8.

3401. Fee for seizure. For every distillery seized under this article the sheriff or other police officer shall receive the sum of twenty dollars, which shall be allowed by the commissioners of the county in which the seizure was made:

Provided, that the commissioners shall not pay this amount if they are satisfied, after due investigation, that the seizure of the distillery was not bona fide made.

3402. Claimant may sue for fee. The person making the seizure may institute an action before the proper court for the amount claimed under and by virtue of the seizure; then the matter may be inquired into on its merits and judgment rendered accordingly.

1911, c. 45, s. 2.

3403. Seizure of vehicle used in conveying liquor. If any person, firm or corporation shall have or keep in possession any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in violation of law, the sheriff or other officer of any county, city or town, who shall seize such liquors by any authority provided by law, is hereby authorized and required to seize and take into his custody any vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or things used in conveying, concealing or removing such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and safely keep the same until the guilt or innocence of the defendant has been determined upon his trial for the violation of any such law making it unlawful to so keep in possession any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and upon conviction of a violation of the law, the defendant shall forfeit and lose all right, title and interest in and to the property so seized; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff having in possession the vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or things so used in conveying, concealing or removing such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, to advertise and sell same under the laws governing the sale of personal property under execution.

This is a valid exercise of police power, but it will not affect the rights of innocent third persons in the property seized: Skinner v. Thomas, 171-98.

3404. Notice to owner to claim property. In the event the sheriff or other officer shall, at the time of seizing spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, fail to capture or arrest the owner or party in possession and so using the vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or thing to convey, conceal or remove such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, he shall advertise for the owner to come forward and institute the proper proceeding to secure possession of the property, and upon the failure of any person to so come forward and surrender himself to the sheriff to the end that the question of whether the property was used as set out in this article, and upon the failure of such person to come forward, if an individual, in person, and make such claim within thirty days after such notice shall have appeared in at least one issue of some newspaper published in the county where such seizure was made, and after such notice and time the sheriff shall advertise such property so seized for sale and sell as provided in the preceding section.

An appeal from an order directing sheriff to hold the property until the case is tried is premature: Richardson v. Hobgood, 170-37.

3405. Proceeds of sale applied to school fund. The proceeds derived from the sale of such property, after paying for the reasonable expense of such sale, shall be paid by the sheriff to the county treasurer, and be applied by the treasurer to the credit of the public school fund of the county.

ART. 7. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3406. No witness privileged. No person shall be excused from testifying on any prosecution for violating any law against the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors, but no discovery made by such person shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned for the offense done or participated in by him.

1913, c. 44, s. 7.

3407. Allowing distillery to be operated on land. If any person shall knowingly permit or allow any distillery or other apparatus for the making or distilling of spirituous liquors to be set up for operation or to be operated on lands in his possession or control, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, s. 2.

Defendant is guilty if he furnishes the place, or allows his premises to be used, for carrying on the distilling: State v. Jones, 175-709—or if he allows liquor to be sold on his premises he is guilty of aiding and abetting, State v. Denton, 154-641.

3408. Federal license as evidence. The possession of a license or the issuance to any person of a license to manufacture, rectify or sell, at wholesale or retail, spirituous or malt liquors by the United States government or any officer thereof in any county, city or town where the manufacture, sale or rectification of spirituous or malt liquors is forbidden by the laws of this state shall be prima facie evidence that the person having such license, or to whom the same was issued, is guilty of doing the act permitted by such license in violation of the laws of this state. On the trial of any person charged with the violation of any such laws, it shall be competent to prove that such a license is in the possession of or has been issued to such person, by the testimony of any witness who has personally examined the records of the government office where the official record of such licenses is kept.

This is a valid exercise of the power of the legislature to change rules of evidence: State v. Boynton, 155-456; State v. Dowdy, 145-432—but this will not cure a defect in the bill which makes the charge too indefinite, State v. Tisdale, 145-422.

3409. Manufacturing liquor a felony. It is unlawful for any person to distil, manufacture, or in any manner make, or for any person to aid, assist, or abet any such person in distilling, manufacturing, or in any manner making any spirituous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the state of North Carolina; but this shall not be understood as prohibiting the manufacture of wines and cider in the manner and under the conditions which are now or may hereafter be provided by law. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall, for the first conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction or confession of guilt, punished in the discretion of the court; for the second or any subsequent conviction said person or persons shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction or confession in open court, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year and not exceeding five years, in the discretion of the court.

Sufficient evidence to convict of engaging in distilling, or aiding and abetting in the same: State v. Killian, 178-753; State v. Ogleston, 177-541; State v. Jones, 175-709; State v. Horner, 174-788.

Local act making a sale of liquor a felony does not affect prior sales: State v. Mull, 178-748.

3410. Other violations a misdemeanor. Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter, except as specified in the preceding section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

1908, c. 71, s. 8; 1908, c. 118, s. 2; 1911, c. 35, s. 3; 1911, c. 133, s. 1; 1913, c. 44, ss. 1, 4; 1915, c. 91, s. 3; 1915, c. 97, s. 13.

For what constitutes the violations, see the various sections supra.

INDICTMENT. Should charge sale as made "wilfully and unlawfully": State v. Powell, 141-780. Need not specify the kind of "intoxicating liquors": State v. Parker, 80-439; State v. Downs, 116-1064. Must negative possession of a license: State v. Holder, 133-709. Need not negative, in this case, the fact that liquors were manufactured from fruits raised on land of defendant: State v. Burton, 138-575. Need not specify statutes under which brought: State v. Wallace, 94-827; State v. Snow, 117-778; State v. Downs, 116-1064—nor negative the fact that it comes within an exception to the statute, Ibid.—and where it refers to a wrong statute it is mere surplusage, State v. Snow, 117-778. Must aver a sale to a particular person, or to a person to jurors unknown: State v. Tisdale, 145-422; State v. Stamey, 71-202; State v. Faucett, 20-108; see State v. Tucker, 127-539—but see State v. Brown, 170-714, and section 3383. The warrant or bill should charge the particular ordinance or law violated: State v. Lunsford, 150-862.

When two counts on the bill of indictment allege "an unlawful sale to person or persons to jurors unknown," it is sufficient to support general verdict of guilty, though coupled with a third count which may be defective: State v. Dowdy, 145-432. Other cases of interest: State v. Parker, 91-652; State v. Chambers, 93-600.

3411. Local laws not repealed. Nothing in this chapter shall operate to repeal any of the local or special acts of the general assembly of North Carolina prohibiting the manufacture or sale or other disposition of any of the liquors mentioned in this chapter, or any laws for the enforcement of the same, but all such acts shall continue in full force and effect and in concurrence herewith, and indictment or prosecution may be had either under this chapter or under any special or local act relating to the same subject.

Repeals by implication or construction are not favored, and they should not be extended so as to include cases not within the intention of the legislature: State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Sutton, 100-474. The repeal in any case will be measured by the extent of the conflict or the inconsistency between the acts, and if any part of the earlier act can stand as not superseded or affected by the later one, it will not be repealed: State v. Perkins, 141-797. If the legislature enacts a law in the terms of a former one, and at the same time repeals the former, this amounts to a reaffirmance and not a repeal of the former law: State v. Sutton, 100-474. An act making it unlawful to sell any drink containing alcohol is not repealed by an act which prohibits the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or other intoxicating drinks and repeals all previous statutes in conflict: State v. Parker, 139-586.

By express provision, local acts prohibiting manufacture, sale or disposition of liquor were not repealed: State v. Herring, 145-418; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Johnson, 170-685. But a prior local law, so far as it permits the sale of liquor in violation of the general law, is repealed: State v. Johnson, 170-685.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3412. Application to existing railroads; special charters. All existing railroad corporations within this state shall respectively have and possess all the powers and privileges contained in this chapter; and they shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities and provisions of this chapter not inconsistent with their charters. This chapter shall govern and control, anything in any special act of assembly creating a railroad corporation to the contrary notwithstanding, unless in the act of the general assembly creating the corporation the section or sections of this chapter intended to be repealed shall be specially referred to by number and, as such, specially repealed.

Rev., s. 2566; Code, ss. 701, 1982; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 45.

This section is construed not to affect subsequent legislation in conflict with it: Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; R. R. v. Ferguson, 169-70.

It is the policy of the legislature that the provisions of this chapter shall not in any material particular be repealed by implication; therefore the charter of a railroad company using such words as "this company shall be allowed to condemn land under the same rules and regulations as the N. C. Railroad Co." does not alter the effect of this section: R. R. v. R. R., 106-16; Livermon v. R. R., 109-52.

Case referring to, but not construing, section: Rumbough v. Imp. Co., 106-461.

3413. Roads not to be established unless authorized by law. If any person or corporation, not being expressly authorized thereto, shall make or establish any canal, turnpike, tramroad, railroad or plankroad, with the intent that the same shall be used to transport passengers other than such persons, or the members of such corporation, or to transport any productions, fabrics or manufactures other than their own, the person or corporation so offending, and using the same for any such purpose, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for every person and article of produce so transported.

This section shall not apply to any narrow-gauge railroad, tramroad or toll road made and established and maintained solely by the owner of the lands upon which said road may be, the principal business of which is the transportation of logs, lumber and articles for the owners of such railroad or tramroad: Provided, that the corporation commission shall have power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by said commission.

Rev., s. 2598; Code, s. 1717; R. C., c. 61, s. 37; 1874-5, c. 83; 1901, c. 282; 1907, c. 531; 1911, c. 160; 1915, c. 6.

In a contract for purchase of timber at a reduced price under a promise to build a railroad, the purchasers not having authority to build the road will not prevent a recovery for the value of the timber: Herring v. Lumber Co., 159-382.

It seems that where a corporation is authorized to cut and haul lumber to market it may incidentally haul the goods of another: Gruber v. R. R., 92-1.

3414. Conductor and certain other employees to wear badges. Every conductor, baggagemaster, engineer, brakeman or other servant of any railroad corporation employed on a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat or cap a badge which shall indicate his office and the initial letters of the title of the corporation by which he is employed. No conductor or collector without such badge shall be entitled to demand or receive from any passenger any fare or ticket, or to exercise any of the powers of his office; and no officer or servant without such badge shall have authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger, his baggage or property.

Rev., s. 2604; Code, s. 1958; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 30.

3415. Actions for penalties to be in name of state. All penalties imposed by this chapter may, unless otherwise provided, be sued for in the name of the state.

Rev., s. 2647; Code, s. 1976; 1885, c. 221.

An action for penalty under section 3516 is not brought in the name of the state; and if this were required the name of the state could be added by amendment: Robertson v. R. R., 148-323.

3416. Discrimination in charges misdemeanor. If any common carrier shall directly or indirectly by special rate, rebate, drawback, or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of law than it charges, demands or collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions; or shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever; or shall subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever, such person or corporation shall be upon conviction thereof fined not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars for each and every offense.

Rev., s. 3749; 1899, c. 164, s. 13.

This section is to be construed with section 3417.

Railroad company is indictable for placing an embargo on its customer to discriminate against him or those dealing with him: Garrison v. R. R., 150-575. A railroad in the hands of a receiver is not criminally liable for the acts of the receiver: State v. R. R., 152-785.

See generally: Lumber Co. v. R. R., 136-479, 141-171. Compare with decisions under a similar statute: McGowan v. R. R., 95-417; McLean v. R. R., 96-1.

3417. Discrimination by rebate or reduced charges, misdemeanor. Any railroad company doing business in the state, or officer or agent thereof, who shall give to any person or shipper any advantage over another person or shipper under like circumstances, by way of any rebate or reduced rate not authorized by law or by the North Carolina corporation commission, or which shall make charges for shipments of freight in violation of the law as to railroad freight rates, contained in article 5 of the chapter Corporation Commission, or shall willfully discriminate in the matter of service in favor of one person or corporation against another in like circumstances, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred dollars and such officer or agent shall be fined or imprisoned or both, in the discretion of the court; and any shipper or consignee of any freight in the state of North Carolina who shall knowingly accept any rebate or other consideration or service from any railroad company which is not allowed or given other shippers or consignees under like or similar circumstances, and which is not allowed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Railroad in hands of receiver is not criminally liable for acts of receiver: State v. R. R., 152-785.

3418. Discrimination against connecting lines and violation of certain rules of the corporation commission misdemeanor. If any common carrier shall not afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between its respective lines and for the forwarding and delivering of passengers and freights to and from its several lines and those connecting therewith, or shall discriminate in its rates and charges against such connecting lines, or if any connecting line shall not make as close connection as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public, or shall not obey all rules and regulations made by the corporation commission relating to trackage, it shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor exceeding five thousand dollars for each and every offense.

Rev., s. 3751; 1899, c. 164, s. 21.

3419. Discrimination against the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad misdemeanor; venue. If any railroad in North Carolina shall discriminate against the freights received from the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, or shall make rates by which, either directly or indirectly, by rebates or otherwise, freights may be delivered at less rates when received from other points than from points along the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad in proportion to distance hauled, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars for each and every violation thereof. An indictment for the misdemeanor may be found and tried in the courts where the goods were either shipped or delivered, but the court in which the indictment for the offense is first found shall have exclusive jurisdiction.

Rev., s. 3750; 1889, c. 358.

ART. 2. INCORPORATION, OFFICERS, AND STOCK OF RAILROADS

3420. Articles of association; contents; signature; filing. Any number of persons, not less than six, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, may form a company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad for public use in the conveyance of persons and property, or for the purpose of maintaining and operating any unincorporated railroad already constructed for the like public use; and for that purpose may make and sign articles of association, in which shall be stated the name of the company, the number of years the same is to continue, the places from and to which the road is to be constructed or maintained and operated, the length of such road as near as may be, and the name of each county in this state through or into which it is made or intended to be made, the amount of the capital stock of the company, which shall not be less than five thousand dollars for every mile of road constructed or proposed to be constructed, and the number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, and the names and places of residence of six directors of the company, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, upon whom legal process may be served, who shall manage its affairs for the first year, or until others are chosen in their places. Each subscriber to such articles of association shall subscribe thereto his name, place of residence, and the number of shares of stock he agrees to take in the company. On compliance with the provisions of the succeeding section, such articles of association may be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall indorse thereon the day they are filed, and record the same in a book to be provided by him for that purpose; and thereupon the persons who have so subscribed such articles of association, and all persons who shall become stockholders in such company, shall be a corporation by the name specified in such articles of association, and shall possess the powers and privileges granted to railroad corporations by this chapter.

Rev., s. 2548; Code, s. 1932; 1871-2, c. 138; 1905, c. 187; 1907, c. 472, ss. 1, 2.

As to formation and powers of private corporations, see chapter Corporations.

Existence of railroad corporation cannot be attacked collaterally or questioned in action brought by it to condemn land: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 114-690—but where articles of incorporation are, upon their face, void, trial court will so declare: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413. Filing and recording by secretary of state of articles of association of proposed railroad company, if not such as required by law, is a nullity: Ibid.

Letters of incorporation are evidence, but not the only evidence, to prove fact of incorporation: Carolina Iron Co. v. Abernathy, 94-545; Marshall v. Bank, 108-639; see section 3422.

Railroad corporations can only be created by compliance with statutory provisions, but sections 3420-3422 do not apply to method of continuing their existence: Bradley v. R. R., 119-927 (Appendix).

Articles of association must show compliance with provisions of statute as to amount of capital stock subscribed and paid in: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

Persons associated shall be corporation from time of filing certificate in office of secretary of state: Street Rwy. v. R. R., 142-433.

3421. Prerequisites of filing; stock subscription; affidavit of directors; payment of fees. Such articles of association shall not be filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state until at least one thousand dollars of stock for every mile of railroad proposed to be made is subscribed thereto, and five per cent paid thereon in good faith, and in cash, to the directors named in the articles of association; nor until there is indorsed thereon or annexed thereto an affidavit made by at least three of the directors named in such articles, that the amount of stock required by this section has been in good faith subscribed and five per cent paid in cash thereon as aforesaid, and that it is intended in good faith to construct or to maintain and operate the road mentioned in such articles of association, which affidavit shall be recorded with the articles of association, as aforesaid; nor until said directors shall pay the taxes and fees provided for under the chapter Corporations, Article 11, entitled Taxes and Fees.

Rev., s. 2549; Code, s. 1933; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 2; 1905, c. 168.

Filing and recording articles of association by secretary of state not in compliance with this section is a nullity: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

3422. Copy of articles evidence of incorporation. A copy of any articles of association filed and recorded in pursuance of this article and of the record thereof, with a copy of the affidavit aforesaid indorsed thereon or annexed thereto, and certified to be a copy by the secretary of state, shall be presumptive evidence of the incorporation of such company, and of the facts therein stated.

Rev., s. 2550; Code, s. 1934; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 3.

Records themselves are also competent evidence: Iron Co. v. Abernathy, 94-545. Certified copy of letter of incorporation prima facie evidence of incorporation and organization: Marshall v. Bank, 108-639. Charter of foreign corporation, how proved: Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712.

3423. Opening of subscription books. When such articles of association and affidavit are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, the directors named in such articles of association may, in case the whole of the capital stock is not before subscribed, open books of subscription to fill up the capital stock of the company in such places and after giving such notice as they may deem expedient, and may continue to receive subscriptions until the whole of the capital stock is subscribed.

3424. How stock paid for; forfeiture for nonpayment. The directors may require the subscribers to the capital stock of the company to pay the amounts by them respectively subscribed in such manner and in such installments as they may deem proper. If any stockholder shall neglect to pay any installment as required by a resolution of the board of directors, the said board shall be authorized to declare his stock and all previous payments thereon forfeited for the use of the company, but they shall not declare it so forfeited until they shall have caused a notice in writing to be served on him personally, or the same to be deposited in the postoffice, properly directed to him at the postoffice nearest his usual place of residence, stating that he is required to make such payment at the time and place specified in such notice, and that if he fails to make the same, his stock and all previous payments thereon will be forfeited for the use of the company, which notice shall be served as aforesaid at least sixty days previous to the day on which payment is required to be made.

See section 1159. Subscription must be paid in money or money's worth: Hobgood v. Ehlen, 141-352; Foundry Co. v. Killian, 99-506.

3425. Increase of capital stock. In case the capital stock of any railroad company is found to be insufficient for constructing and operating its road, such company may, with the concurrence of two-thirds in amount of all its stockholders, increase its capital stock from time to time to any amount required for the purposes aforesaid. Such increase must be sanctioned by a vote in person or by proxy of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of the company, at a meeting of such stockholders called by the directors of the company for that purpose, by a notice in writing to each stockholder, to be served on him personally or by depositing the same, properly folded and directed to him at the post-office nearest his usual place of residence, in the postoffice at least twenty days prior to such meeting. Such notice must state the time and place of the meeting and its object and the amount to which it is proposed to increase the capital stock. The proceedings of such meeting must be entered on the minutes of the proceedings of the company, and thereupon the capital stock of the company may be increased to the amount sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of the company aforesaid.

Rev., s. 2555; Code, s. 1939; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 9.

3426. Liability for unpaid stock to laborers; notice to stockholder. Each stockholder of any such company shall be individually liable to the creditors of such company to an amount equal to the amount unpaid on the stock held by him, for all the debts and liabilities of such company until the whole amount of the capital stock so held by him shall have been paid to the company, and all the stockholders of any such company shall be jointly and severally liable for the debts due or owing to any of its laborers and servants, other than contractors, for personal services for thirty days service performed for such company, but shall not be liable to an action therefor before an execution shall be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part against the corporation, and the amount due on such execution shall be the amount recoverable with costs against such stockholder. Before such laborer or servant shall charge such stockholders for such thirty days service he shall give them notice in writing within twenty days after the performance of such service that he intends to hold them liable, and shall commence such action therefor within thirty days after the return of such execution unsatisfied as above mentioned; and every such stockholder, against whom any such recovery by such laborer or servant shall have been had, shall have a right to recover the same of the other stockholders in such corporation in ratable proportion to the amount of the stock they shall respectively hold with himself.

Rev., s. 2556; Code, s. 1940; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 10.

3427. Liability of trustees and other fiduciaries holding stock. No person holding stock in any such company as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and no person holding such stock as collateral security, shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company. The estates in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the same stock in his own name, and a person pledging such stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly.

Rev., s. 2557; Code, s. 1941; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 11.

3428. Directors and presidents. There shall be a board of six directors, one of whom shall be elected president, of every corporation formed under this article, to manage its affairs. The directors shall be chosen annually by a majority of the votes of the stockholders voting at such election, in such manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws of the corporation, and they may and shall continue in office until others are elected in their places. In the election of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote personally or by proxy on every share held by him thirty days previous to any such election, and vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation. The inspectors of the first election of directors shall be appointed by the board of directors named in the articles of association. No person shall be a director or president unless he shall be a stockholder owning stock absolutely in his own right and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen; and at every election of directors the books and papers of such company shall be exhibited to the meeting, if a majority of the stockholders present shall require it.

Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5.

For annotations as to powers and duties of directors of corporations generally, see section 1144.

For organization upon sale of road, see section 3462.

3429. Appointment of officers and agents. The president and directors shall appoint a treasurer and secretary and such other officers and agents as shall be prescribed by the by-laws.

Rev., s. 2553; Code, s. 1937; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 6.

3430. Officials to account to successors. The president and directors of the several railroads, and all persons acting under them, are hereby required upon demand to account with the president and directors elected or appointed to succeed them, and shall transfer to them forthwith all the money, books, papers, choses in action, property and effects of every kind and description belonging to such company.

Rev., s. 2648; Code, s. 2001; 1870-1, c. 72, ss. 1, 3.

ART. 3. COUNTY SUBSCRIPTIONS IN AID OF RAILROADS

3431. Counties may subscribe stock. The boards of commissioners of the several counties shall have power to subscribe stock to any railroad company when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad in which the citizens of the county may have an interest.

Rev., s. 2558; Code, s. 1996; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 1.

For issuance of bonds by cities and towns, see chapter Municipal Corporations.

For election on issuance of bonds, see sections 3432, 3433.

For collection of taxes with which to pay bonds, see section 3435.

Act of general assembly authorizing county to take stock in railroad, and to determine question by popular vote, and tax themselves to pay for it, is constitutional: Hill v. Comrs., 67-367; Alexander v. Comrs., 67-332; Caldwell v. Justices, 57-323.

Adoption of new constitution, with restrictions as to issue of municipal bonds, annulled all special powers remaining unexecuted and not granted in strict conformity with its requirements: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308.

An act of the general assembly authorizing levy of requisite taxes to pay municipal bonds and in force when bonds are issued, enters into and becomes part of contract under which bonds are delivered and taken, and cannot be annulled by subsequent legislation: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

Stock owned by county not subject to execution to satisfy debt of an individual: Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598.

Competent for legislature, by a retrospective statute, to validate an irregular or defective execution of a power by the authorities of a municipal corporation acting under a former statute, where no contract is impaired and the rights of third persons are not injuriously affected: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

Words "majority of the members elect" or "majority of the qualified voters" are used in constitutions and laws to take the exercise of a particular power out of general rule, and make assent of majority of whole number necessary: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678.

The people, and not the legislature, have power to contract a debt to aid in the construction of a railroad: Galloway v. Jenkins, 63-147; University R. R. Co. v. Holden, 63-410.

Taxpayer, for sufficient cause, can intervene, in apt time, and enjoin the issuing of municipal bonds, but this must be done before bonds are issued and negotiated and pass into circulation as commercial securities: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

An act "authorizing and empowering" county commissioners to issue bonds is mandatory: Jones v. Comrs., 137-579, overruling Jones v. Comrs., 135-218; Bank v. Comrs., 135-230.

When authority to issue municipal bonds upon the performance of certain conditions precedent is conferred by statute upon a particular tribunal, such tribunal has the sole power to determine if the conditions have been performed: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

VALIDITY OF BONDS. For constitutional provisions, see state constitution, article 2, section 14; article 7, section 7.

Legislation authorizing creation of county indebtedness must conform to constitutional requirement: Graves v. Comrs., 135-49; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; Rodman v. Washington, 122-39; Charlotte v. Shepard, 120-411, 122-602; Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394; Bank v. Comrs., 119-214.

If amendment in a material matter is made to bill, amended bill should be read over again three times in each house, with yea and nay vote on second and third readings entered on journals: Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730. Every act of general assembly levying a tax shall state special object to which it is to be applied: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

Journals of general assembly may be introduced in evidence to show whether or not constitutional requirements have been met, and these are conclusive as against printed statute and enrolled act: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394 (following Bank v. Comrs., 119-214, and distinguishing Carr v. Coke, 116-223).

Where recitals in railroad bonds are that they were issued under a particular act of the legislature, burden of validating them is on party alleging their validity: Graves v. Comrs., 135-49.

It is essential to validity of bonds issued in aid of railroads, or other similar enterprises, by counties, townships and other municipal organizations, that proposition shall have first had assent of majority of qualified voters in territory affected, to be duly ascertained by election regularly held for that purpose: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159; Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; see annotations under section 3432.

Records showing that proposition to issue bonds was submitted after thirty days notice, and that a majority of qualified registered electors voted in the affirmative, are conclusive evidence that will of majority was so expressed: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339.

It is not valid defense that county issued its own bonds to pay subscription to railroad stock instead of negotiating a loan, as empowered to do by the act: Street v. Comrs., 70-644.

A general act authorizing counties to issue bonds for railroad purposes would be invalid, especially when it is necessary to exceed constitutional limitation to pay interest or principal: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432. If bonds issued were invalid, new bonds in renewal are equally invalid: Ibid.

County has no power to issue bonds and levy a tax for their payment in aid of a railroad not begun before adoption of constitution of 1868: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394—they being limited to “aid in the completion of any railroad,” etc., Ibid.; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; but see Comrs. v. Coler, 190 U. S., 437 (note the present section refers to “construction” in place of “completion”).

Although contracts made, based upon subscription, validity of election can be contested: Goforth v. Construction Co., 96-535.

Where legislature authorized issue of bonds in aid of railroad, and provided for payment by taxation, but did not provide for election, and election was held in conformity to existing election laws relating to borrowing of money by municipalities, bonds issued pursuant to such election are valid in hands of bona fide owner: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339.

As to whether funding bonds can be issued without a vote of the people, see Asheville v. Webb, 134-72; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

For discussion of validity of county railroad bonds, see Wilkes v. Coler, 190 U. S., 107; Stanly Comrs. v. Coler, 190 U. S., 437.

PURCHASER OF BONDS. It is incumbent upon purchasers of state, county and municipal bonds to ascertain whether authority to issue them has been granted according to requirements of constitution: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339, and cases therein cited. If the bonds refer to statute under which they are issued, purchaser is bound to take notice of statute and all its requirements: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308—and where there is an inherent constitutional defect in statute authorizing issue of bonds or in proceedings under which they are issued, a purchaser takes with notice, and cannot be an innocent holder: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453. Purchaser may rely upon certificate of registrar and the finding of commissioners as to the result of the popular vote: Ibid.

TOWNSHIP BONDS. County commissioners are not authorized to issue bonds on credit of a township for construction of a railroad: Graves v. Comrs., 135-49.

General assembly may empower a township, with sanction of its qualified voters, to aid in construction of railroad by levying taxes and contracting debt to raise money for that purpose: Brown v. Comrs., 100-92.

Act of assembly directing that county taxes, which might be levied upon property and franchise of railroad company in certain township, should be applied, as far as necessary, to payment of interest on bonds issued by such township in aid of railroad, is constitutional: Brown v. Comrs., 100-92—as is also act requiring county commissioners to set apart the taxes derived from such railroad property to be used in building roads, bridges, etc., in such township (bonds being paid off) until township is repaid amount it has expended, Jones v. Comrs., 143-59.

Action to declare void an election held to allow certain townships to subscribe stock to a railroad company, on account of irregularities, could be brought, being equitable in its nature, even though no remedy was given by statute; and while no statute of limitation is applicable, still such action should be brought within reasonable time, and before rights of innocent third parties have intervened: Jones v. Comrs., 107-248.

Where township has voted bonds in aid of a railroad to be constructed on a designated line, and subsequently legislature enacts that company “may” change its route, and that, upon petition by taxpayers of township, an election shall be held on question whether or not bonds previously issued shall be used in aid of the construction of new route, county commissioners will be enjoined from ordering such election where it appears that company has contracted for construction of road upon original route and is pushing work to completion: R. R. v. Comrs., 108-56.

Where upon vote taken the township issued bonds in support of railroad, but bonds were to be held by county commissioners and to be canceled if road was not completed and in operation within three years, the county commissioners had no authority to deliver the bonds nor to extend the time: McCracken v. R. R., 168-62.

ESTOPPEL. Payment of interest from year to year on bonds is not an estoppel, and does not validate them: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730.

That the county, township or other municipal organization, in which a void election was held, appointed an agent, who made a subscription of stock on behalf of his principal, that organization acted and was recognized as a stockholder in corporation in aid of which bonds were to be issued, and that latter made contracts with third parties, relying upon validity of transaction, will not operate as an estoppel, such acts being ultra vires: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159.

A town is estopped by the compromise of a valid liability for a smaller sum; but not when the original obligation was not authorized in the manner provided by the constitution: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; s. c., 119-214.

Fact that action to impeach validity of bonds on ground of irregularity in election was brought and failed is no estoppel to a second action to impeach their validity on ground that act authorizing election was not properly passed: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730.

In action by bona fide purchaser for value against county, upon a bond issued by former county court, under an act of legislature, records of such court are conclusive upon county and constitute an estoppel in pais: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

County bond stating on its face the act under which it is issued is notice to holder, and estops him from controverting statement: Comrs. v. Call, 123-308.

3432. Election on question of county aid. The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock in any railroad company shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property, and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held on a notice of not less than thirty days, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount of stock agreed on by the board of county commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the county shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners, through their chairman, shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them and submitted to the people, subject to all the rules, regulations and restrictions of other stockholders in such company: Provided, that the counties, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as they may think proper.

Rev., s. 2559; Code, s. 1997; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 2.

The fact that petitioners styled themselves "voters and taxpayers," while special act required a petition by "resident taxpayers," was immaterial: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Where legislature provides no election machinery for town bond election under special act, general laws relating to such elections are applicable: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339.

Where question of subscription to two different railway corporations is to be submitted to a vote, it is improper and irregular to submit them as a single proposition at same election and on same ballot: Goforth v. Construction Co., 96-535.

For discussion of proper method of conducting election and declaring result under laws of 1887, ch. 87, to incorporate Roanoke and Southern Rwy., see Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453, 117-456—of conducting election under laws of 1887, ch. 89, see R. R. v. Comrs., 116-563.

Where law declared that those in favor should vote "Subscription" and those opposed "No subscription," it is immaterial that electors voted "For subscription" and "Against subscription": Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453. Fact that county commissioners canvassed returns of election second day thereafter instead of third, as provided by statute, is immaterial: Ibid. Election is not vitiated by fact that, through mistake, another date for it was copied in minutes of county commissioners: Ibid.

Where returns of such election ascertained only that "a majority of votes cast was in favor of subscription," and declaration to that effect was made by county commissioners, constitutional requirement had not been observed: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159; Glenn v. Wray, 126-734, and cases cited.

Statement by county commissioners that "after due canvass, the foregoing returns of election are correct, and said board hereby approve said returns," is not a declaration that a majority of qualified voters favored the subscription: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Where power is conferred to open, conduct and declare result of an election, action of those charged therewith in that respect is final and conclusive until it is reversed by some proper action brought to impeach it, and courts will not interfere by injunction to prevent them from ascertaining and promulgating result: Bynum v. Comrs., 101-412; see Norment v. Charlotte, 85-387; Simpson v. Comrs., 84-158.

WHO ARE "QUALIFIED VOTERS" HEREUNDER. Registration list is prima facie evidence of who are qualified voters: Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. A qualified voter is one who is entitled to register as a voter, and who is also qualified to vote after such registration: R. R. v. Caldwell, 72-492, 493—a registered voter being one who has lawfully registered and paid his poll tax, Pace v. Raleigh, 140-65. Voter must register anew, when so required, in order to be a qualified voter: Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. Other cases on the subject: Harris v. Scarborough, 110-232; Smith v. Wilmington, 98-343; Wood v. Oxford, 97-233; McDowell v. Construction Co., 96-514; Markham v. Manning, 96-132; Duke v. Brown, 96-127; Southerland v. Goldsboro, 96-49.

3433. Conduct of election. All elections ordered under the preceding section shall be held by the sheriff under the laws and regulations provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes shall be compared by the boards of county commissioners, who shall make a record of the same.

Rev., s. 2561; Code, s. 1999; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 4.

Action to enjoin payment of interest on county bonds by treasurer, complaint defective: Comrs. v. Williams, 135-660. Payment of interest from year to year on bonds is not an estoppel and does not validate them: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730.

Cases referring to, but not construing, section: Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-395. See, also, annotations under section 3431.

3435. Collection and disposition of taxes authorized. The taxes authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest or principal shall be collected by the sheriff in like manner as other state taxes, and be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of county commissioners as directed by this article.

Rev., s. 2562; Code, s. 2000; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 5.

Taxpayer, for himself and other taxpayers, can enjoin collection of an unconstitutional tax: Galloway v. Jenkins, 63-147; London v. Wilmington, 78-109; Graves v. Comrs., 135-49. And an innocent holder of the invalid bonds cannot enforce reimbursement: Graves v. Comrs., 135-49.

A county, when it contracts a debt, pledges its faith, or loans its credit, must levy taxes necessary to raise revenue for such purposes upon all property in the same, except such property as is exempted from taxation: Jones v. Comrs., 107-248—but the equation and limitation of taxation established by constitution applies only to taxes levied for ordinary purposes of state and counties, and as to levies of taxes for such purposes, it must be observed, Ibid.

Where neither declaration of result of election by commissioners nor recitals in bonds show that a majority of voters of town voted in favor of subscription, purchasers of bonds, though bona fide and for value, will not be protected in a suit by taxpayers to restrain collection of taxes to pay same, unless jury shall find that question is affirmative: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Validity of a special railroad tax cannot be questioned, in action on sheriff's bond for failure to account for it, especially when it has been collected. If statute authorizing tax were unconstitutional, or otherwise invalid, sheriff could not be permitted to retain money illegally collected under color of his office: McGuire v. Williams, 123-349.

Cases referring to, but not construing, section: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-395; Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308.

ART. 4. TOWNSHIP SUBSCRIPTIONS IN AID OF RAILROADS

3436. Townships may subscribe stock. The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to subscribe stock for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad, which is now or may be hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state, in which the citizens of such county may have an interest.

This statute confers the power which did not exist in Graves v. Comrs., 135-49. The county commissioners are agents for the townships: McCracken v. R. R., 168-62.

3437. Election on question of township aid. The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock, for the use and benefit of any township, as mentioned in the preceding section, shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed for such township, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, and for what township, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property; and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held upon a notice of not less than thirty days, in each and every township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount agreed on by the board of commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners through their chairman shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them, and submitted to the voters, for the use and benefit of such township, subject to all the rules, regulations, and restrictions of other stockholders in such railroad company: Provided, that the township, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as it may think proper.

3438. Conduct of election; canvass of votes. All elections ordered under the preceding section shall be held by the sheriff of the county in which such township is located, under such laws and regulations as are now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes of each township for whose use and benefit subscription under this article is proposed to be made shall be compared and the results of such election determined by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, who shall make a record of the same.

3439. Bond issue; special tax. In case the township shall authorize, at the election herein provided for, a subscription of the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal of such bonds shall be payable, and at what place, and shall also fix the time and place for paying interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same. The board of commissioners shall, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued by this article, compute and levy each year at the time of levying the county and state taxes a sufficient tax upon the property in any township authorizing the issuing of bonds under this article to pay the interest on the bonds issued on account of and for the use and benefit of such township, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes.

3440. Levy, collection, and disposition of tax. The tax authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest and principal shall be levied by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, at such times as is now or hereafter may be fixed for levying state and other county taxes, against the taxable property located in such township, in addition to the regular state and county taxes assessable against such property. The tax shall be collected by the sheriff or tax collector or other collecting officer of the county in which such township is located in like manner as state taxes are collected, and shall be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of commissioners as directed by this article.

3441. Tax to be kept separate. The taxes levied and collected under the provisions of this article shall be kept separate and apart from all other state and county taxes levied and collected in the county in which such township shall be located.

1917, c. 64, s. 6.

Tax levied and collected for a special purpose is to be applied only to such purpose: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

3442. Townships may subscribe to purchase of railroad corporations. The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to make subscriptions, for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, for the purpose of purchasing or aiding in the purchase of any railroad corporation now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state which shall be dissolved or whose property and franchises are proposed to be sold privately or under execution, judicial decree, deed in trust, mortgage, or other conveyance, and all the provisions of this article shall apply as fully and as well to such subscriptions as they do to subscriptions to stock to aid in the construction of railroads.

3443. Election on question of purchase; proxies to represent stock. The county commissioners shall, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township mentioned in the preceding section, order an election and submit the question of such subscription according to the terms of the petition. At such election five persons shall be chosen as proxies to represent such stock, if the vote shall be in favor of the subscription, in all respects as fully as if private promoters, corporators or holders of such stock. They shall be eligible to the position of director or other office in the corporation. They shall hold office until the first Monday in December following the next general election and until their successors chosen at such general election shall qualify. Such proxies shall be chosen at the general election every two years as township officers are. They shall have authority, alone, if sole purchasers, and with the proxies from other townships and others participating in the purchase, if not acting alone, to purchase such railroad property and franchise, and shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law as in other cases of a dissolution and sale of railroad property and franchise.

ART. 5. POWERS AND LIABILITIES

3444. Powers of railroad corporations enumerated. Every railroad corporation shall have power:

1. To survey and enter on land. To cause such examination and surveys for its proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route; and for such purpose, by its officers or agents and servants, to enter upon the lands or waters of any person, but subject to responsibility for all damages which shall be done thereto.

As between two companies, the first location belongs to the first one which defines and marks its route and adopts same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action: Street Rwy. v. R. R., 142-430, and cases cited.

For right of entry upon land, see section 1707.

2. To condemn land under eminent domain. To appropriate land and rights therein by condemnation, as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

See section 1706 et seq.

3. To take property by grant. To take and hold such voluntary grants of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction, maintenance and accommodation of its railroad; but the real estate received by voluntary grant shall be held and used for the purposes of such grant only.

Railroads can acquire real estate only by statutory authority, and they are not authorized to acquire land by entry and grant: Wallace v. Moore, 178-114.

4. To purchase and hold property. To purchase and hold and use all such real estate and other property as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its railroad and the stations and other accommodations necessary to accomplish the object of its incorporation.

Cannot acquire land by entry and grant: Wallace v. Moore, 178-114.

5. To grade and construct road. To lay out its road, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, and to construct the same; to take, for the purpose of cuttings and embankments, as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling on the road, making compensation therefor as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Railroad company can change grade of its roadbed or can remove it to any point on its right of way: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654—and may extend its use of the right of way as the necessities of the company require it, Tighe v. R. R., 176-239; R. R. v. Bunting, 168-579; Hendrix v. R. R., 162-9; R. R. v. Olive, 142-257.

6. To intersect with highways and waterways. To construct its road across, along or upon any stream of water, water-course, street, highway, plankroad, turnpike, railroad or canal which the route of its road shall intersect or touch; but the company shall restore the stream or water-course, street, highway, plankroad or turnpike road, thus intersected or touched, to its former state or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness. Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the erection of any bridge or any other obstruction across, in or over any stream or lake navigated by steam or sail boats, at the place where any bridge or other obstructions may be proposed to be placed, nor to authorize the construction of any railroad not already located in, upon or across any streets in any city without the assent of the corporation of such city.

For duty of railroad to construct bridges and maintain same which it has necessitated building, see section 3797—to construct and maintain draws in bridges, see section 3800—to provide new highways when old one interfered with, see sections 3448, 3449—to provide cattle-guards, see section 3454.

Penalty for failure to maintain crossing, see section 3454—to keep up certain bridges, see section 3797.

Municipal authorities may grant the right to a railroad to use the streets for legitimate railroad purposes: Griffin v. R. R., 150-312.

One railroad may acquire right of way over another railroad: R. R. v. R. R., 161-531; s. c., 165-425.

Railroad must make crossing as safe and convenient as if railroad had not been built: Raper v. R. R., 126-563—may make change in county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness, Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

“Highways” might include any road used by the public as a mill or church road and in going to town: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570; Herndon v. R. R., 161-650; Tate v. R. R., 168-523.

If railroad crossing over neighborhood road is kept in dangerous condition, causing mule to fall and injure plaintiff, he is entitled to recover: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570.

7. To intersect with other railroads. To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed, at any point on its route, and upon the grounds of such other company, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches and other conveniences in furtherance of the object of its connections. Every company whose railroad is or shall be hereafter intersected by any new railroad shall unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections and grant the facilities aforesaid, and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points and manner of such crossings and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners to be appointed by the court as is provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Where railroad empowered to connect with another railroad at a certain city, the word “at” does not necessarily mean “in” the city: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100.

One road cannot enter on right of way of another for purpose of connecting therewith without previous agreement or condemnation proceedings: R. R. v. R. R., 104-658; R. R. v. R. R., 161-531; s. c., 165-425. Parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on right of way of another, for purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at will of licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel although licensee has entered and made valuable improvements: R. R. v. R. R., 104-658.

8. To transport persons and property. To take and convey persons and property on its railroad by the power or force of steam, electricity or animals, or by any mechanical power, and to receive compensation therefor.

Charter of company conferring right to transport passengers and freight, and giving power to “farm out” right of transportation, authorizes company to execute valid lease of its property and franchises to another railroad company: Hill v. R. R., 143-539.

9. To erect stations and other buildings. To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, fixtures and machinery for the accommodation and use of its passengers, freight and business.

10. To borrow money, issue bonds and execute mortgages. From time to time to borrow such sums of money as may be necessary for completing and finishing or operating its railroad, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property and franchises and to secure the payment of any debt contracted by the company for the purposes aforesaid, and the directors of the company may confer on any holder of any bond issued for money borrowed, as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of such company at any time under such regulations as the directors may see fit to adopt.

Railroad corporation has power to contract debts, and every corporation possessing such power must also have power to acknowledge its indebtedness under its corporate seal, that is, to make and issue its bonds: Comrs. v. R. R., 77-289. As to interest, usury, see Ibid.; also, chapter Interest.

11. To lease rails. To lease iron rails to any person or corporation for such time and upon such terms as may be agreed on by the contracting parties, and upon the termination of the lease by expiration, forfeiture or surrender, to take possession of and remove the rails so leased as if they had never been laid.

12. To establish hotels and eating houses. To purchase, lease, hold, operate or maintain eating-houses, hotels and restaurants for the accommodation of the traveling public along the line of its road.

Rev., ss. 2567, 2575; Code, s. 1957; 1887, c. 341; 1889, c. 518; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 29.

3445. Power to aid in construction of connecting and branch lines. Any railroad or other transportation company shall have the right to aid in the construction of any railroad or branch railroad in this or an adjoining state connected with it directly or indirectly, if the construction of such railroad or branch railroad is authorized by law.

Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 12; 1885, c. 108, s. 1.

3446. Power to seize fuel. If any railroad or other transportation company finds it necessary, in order to prevent delays in the transportation of freight or passengers, to take possession of coal, wood, or other fuel not its own property and convert it to its own use without an agreement with the owner thereof, it shall notify such owner within three days of such taking that his property has been appropriated, giving the date thereof, and shall, within a period of thirty days, pay for such coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent. Should the transportation company fail to notify the consignee or owner within such three days or pay for the coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent as above provided, within thirty days after converting the same to its own use, it shall in addition forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day of failure to notify such consignee of the appropriation of the fuel, or its failure to pay for the same, and five dollars for each day thereafter in which it shall fail to notify such consignee or pay for the same.

Rev., s. 2617; 1903, c. 590, s. 4; 1907, c. 467.

3447. Agreements for through freight and travel. The directors representing the stock held in the various railroad corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into such agreements and terms with each other as to secure through freight and travel without the expense of transfer of freight, or breaking the bulk thereof, at different points along the lines, and for this purpose may use the road or roads and the rolling stock of such corporations or companies on such terms as may be agreed upon by them.

Rev., s. 2640; Code, s. 1995; 1866-7, c. 105.

3448. Intersection with highways. Whenever the track of a railroad shall cross a highway, turnpike or plankroad, such highway, turnpike or plankroad may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient; and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such highway, turnpike or plankroad desirable, then such corporation may take such additional lands for the construction of the road, highway, turnpike or plankroad on such new line as may be deemed requisite by the directors. Unless the land so taken shall be purchased for the purposes aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the chapter Eminent Domain, and duly made by such corporation to the owners and persons interested in such land. The same when so taken shall become a part of such intersecting highway, turnpike or plankroad in such manner and by such tenure as the adjacent parts of the same highway, turnpike or plankroad may be held for highway purposes.

Rev., s. 2568; Code, s. 1954; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 26.

For liability of railroad, etc., to keep up bridges and crossings, see sections 3797, 3800.

“Highways” might include any road used by the public as a mill and church road and in going to town: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570; Herndon v. R. R., 161-650; Tate v. R. R., 168-523.

By negligent construction is meant such an improper construction of crossing, whether arising from negligence, indifference or motives of economy, as unnecessarily increases danger of using public highway: Edwards v. R. R., 129-79; Raper v. R. R., 126-563. Railroad company may make a change in a county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

Crossing which the public have been habitually permitted to use is treated as a public highway crossing, and it is competent to prove the custom of defendant and the public in using it: Bradley v. R. R., 126-735.

One is warranted in assuming that railroad company has discharged its duty to the public by keeping crossing in safe condition: Tankard v. R. R., 117-560; Denmark v. R. R., 107-185; McAdoo v. R. R., 105-140; Scott v. R. R., 96-428.

If railroad crossing over neighborhood road is kept in dangerous condition, causing mule to fall and injure plaintiff, he is entitled to recover: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570.

3449. Obstructing highways; defective crossings; failure to repair after notice misdemeanor. Whenever, in their construction, the works of any railroad corporation shall cross established roads or ways, the corporation shall so construct its works as not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property along the same. If any railroad corporation shall so construct its crossings with public streets, thoroughfares or highways, or keep, allow or permit the same at any time to remain in such condition as to impede, obstruct or endanger the passage or transportation of persons or property along, over or across the same, the governing body of the county, city, town, township or road district having charge, control or oversight of such roads, streets or thoroughfares may give to such railroad notice, in writing, directing it to place any such crossing in good condition, so that persons may cross and property be safely transported across the same. If the railroad corporation shall fail to put such crossing in a safe condition for the passage of persons and property within thirty days from and after the service of the notice, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. Each calendar month which shall elapse after the giving of the notice and before the placing of such crossing in repair shall be a separate offense. This section shall in no wise be construed to abrogate, repeal or otherwise affect any existing law now applicable to railroad corporations with respect to highway and street crossings; but the duty imposed and the remedy given by this section shall be in addition to other duties and remedies now prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 2569; Code, s. 1710; R. C., c. 61, s. 30; 1874-5, c. 83; 1915, c. 250, ss. 1, 2.

Cases referring to, but not construing, section: State v. Lumber Co., 109-860; Bass v. Navigation Co., 111-455; Tighe v. R. R., 176-239.

3450. Service of notice of defective crossings. The notice required by the preceding section may be served upon the agent of the offending railroad located nearest to the defective or dangerous crossing about which the notice is given, or it may be served upon the section master whose section includes such crossing. Such notice may be served by delivering a copy to such agent or section master, or by letter properly stamped, registered and addressed to either of such persons.

3451. Change in location of highways. In order to prevent the frequent crossing of such road or ways, or in cases where it may be necessary to occupy the same, the corporation may change the roads and ways so as to avoid such crossing and occupation, and to such points as may be deemed expedient.

Rev., s. 2570; Code, s. 1711; R. C., c. 61, s. 31; 1874-5, c. 83.

Railroad company may make change in a county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

3452. Damages due to change in location. For any injury done to the lands of persons by taking them under the preceding section, the value thereof shall be assessed in like manner as is provided for assessing damages to real estate for taking lands under the chapter Eminent Domain.

Rev., s. 2571; Code, s. 1712; R. C., c. 61, s. 32; 1874-5, c. 83.

3453. Old road not to be impeded until new road is made. Before any part of an established road or way shall be impeded by any railroad corporation, the new road or way shall be prepared and made equally good with the portion proposed to be discontinued; and then the same shall be deemed a part of the original road or way, and shall be kept up and repaired as before the change.

Rev., s. 2572; Code, s. 1713; R. C., c. 61, s. 33; 1874-5, c. 83.

3454. Cattle-guards and private crossings; failure to erect and maintain misdemeanor. Every incorporated company owning, operating or constructing, or which shall hereafter own, operate or construct, or any company which shall hereafter be incorporated and shall own, operate or construct any railroad passing through and over the land of any person now enclosed, or which may hereafter become enclosed, shall, at its own expense, construct and constantly maintain, in good and safe condition, good and sufficient cattle-guards at the points of entrance upon and exit from such enclosed land, and shall also make and keep in constant repair crossings to any plantation road thereupon. Every railroad corporation which shall fail to erect and constantly maintain the cattle-guards and crossings provided for by this section shall be liable to an action for damages to any party aggrieved, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined in the discretion of the court.

So far as this section relates to cattle-guards, the corporation commission is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to adopt such good and sufficient make of cattle-guard now upon the market as is best suited for turning stock. When such guard is selected, approved and authorized by the commission any company operating in this state which shall procure, install and maintain and keep in good and safe condition on its line of road such guard so selected by the commission shall be deemed and held in all suits, actions or proceedings in all the courts of this state to have complied with the conditions of this section in installing a good and sufficient cattle-guard: Provided, that any railroad company operating in this state may make application to the commission to adopt for its road any particular brand or make of cattle-guard, and if the commission shall approve and authorize the use of such guard, it shall, if kept and maintained in good and sufficient condition at all times by such railroad company, be deemed and held in all actions, suits or proceedings in any court of this state a good and sufficient cattle-guard.

Rev., ss. 2601, 3753; Code, s. 1975; 1883, c. 394, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1915, c. 127.

When a railroad obtains a deed to right of way with parol agreement to construct cattle-guards, the statute of frauds will not be a defense: Herndon v. R. R., 161-650.

See annotations under section 3448. Railroad companies must maintain a safe and convenient crossing at roads and streets, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient to the public as it would have been had railroad not been built: Raper v. R. R., 126-563. See State v. Lumber Co., 109-860. Section cited in Allen v. R. R., 102-389; Hodges v. R. R., 105-172; Allen v. R. R., 106-526; Hinkle v. R. R., 109-481; Carter v. R. R., 126-443; Tate v. R. R., 168-523.

3455. Change of route of railroad. The directors of any railroad corporation may by a vote of two-thirds of their whole number at any time alter or change the route, or any part of the route, of their road, if it shall appear to them that the line can be improved thereby, and they shall have the same right and power to acquire title to any lands required for the purposes of the company in such altered or changed route, as if the road had been located there in the first instance; but no such alteration shall be made in any city or town after the road shall have been constructed, unless the same is sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the corporate authorities of such city or town. In case of any alteration made in the route of any railroad after the company has commenced grading, compensation shall be made to all persons for injury so done to any lands that may have been donated to the company. When any route or line is abandoned in the exercise of the power herein granted, full compensation shall be made by the company for all money, labor, bonds or material contributed to the construction of the road-bed or its superstructure by those so interested by their contributions in the abandoned route or line. All the provisions of this chapter relative to the first location and to acquiring title to land shall apply to every such new or altered portion of the route.

Rev., s. 2573; Code, s. 1953; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 25; 1889, c. 391; 1893, c. 396, s. 3.

Variations in route do not affect identity of the corporate body, and right to exemption from taxation is retained: R. R. v. Comrs., 88-519.

Vote of two-thirds of corporate authorities is not required when change of route ordered by corporation commission: Dewey v. R. R., 142-392. Right to change route of railroad need not be given in charter; it may be given by special enactment or by the general railroad law: Ibid.

A railroad company has a right to change grade of its roadbed or to remove it to any point on its right of way: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

For changing route to go to union depot, see section 1042.

3456. Forfeiture for failure to begin or complete railroad. If any railroad corporation shall not within three years after its articles of association are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, or the passage of its charter, begin the construction of its road and expend thereon ten per cent of the amount of its capital, or shall not finish the road and put it in operation in ten years from the time of filing its articles of association or passage of its charter as aforesaid, its corporate existence and powers shall cease.

Rev., s. 2564; Code, s. 1980; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 142.

See annotations under sections 1185, 1187.

What amounts to an abandonment and how the question may be raised: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668.

Failure of railroad company to organize under act of incorporation within two years prescribed does not prevent valid organization thereafter, unless forfeiture has been declared in proceedings instituted by state: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257.

If legislature, with knowledge of grounds of forfeiture, by act remits penalty and continues its existence or deals with corporation as lawfully existing, such conduct is waiver of forfeiture: Atty.-Gen. v. R. R., 28-469.

Attorney-general cannot of his own motion bring action to vacate charter: Atty.-Gen. v. R. R., 134-481.

Existence of railroad corporation cannot be attacked collaterally or questioned in action brought by it to condemn land: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 114-690—but where articles of incorporation are upon their face void, trial court will so declare, R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

3457. Secretary of state may extend time to begin railroad in certain cases. In all cases where railroad companies have been chartered by the act of the general assembly during or subsequent to the session of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, but where construction work has not begun in accordance with the provisions of preceding section, it shall be lawful for and the duty of the secretary of state, upon application of any such railroad company and the payment to the state of the same fees as provided in section 1218 of the Consolidated Statutes, to extend from time to time for periods of two years the time within which to begin construction work as required by the preceding section; and the fact of extending the time by the secretary of state, as herein provided, shall, for the period of such extension, fully and to all intents and purposes, renew corporate existence and corporate powers as fully as the same are conferred in the original charter.

3458. Forfeiture for preferences to shippers. In the event of any contract having been entered into by any railroad company in this state with any person or company, whereby preferences or exclusive rights of transportation, either in priority or in arrangements, are given to such person or company, the attorney-general is hereby instructed to institute proceedings against such railroad company for a forfeiture of its charter.

Rev., s. 2563; Code, s. 1969; 1865-6, resolution ratified December 14, 1865.

For actions by the attorney-general to forfeit charters of corporations, see chapter Corporations, s. 1187.

ART. 6. LEASE, SALE, AND REORGANIZATION

3459. Lessee of noncompeting railroad may acquire its stock; merger of lessor. Any railroad corporation or its successors, being the lessee of the road of any other noncompeting railroad corporation, may take a surrender or transfer of the capital stock of the stockholders, or any of them, in the corporation whose road is held under lease, and issue in exchange therefor the like additional amount of its own capital stock at par, or on such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the two corporations; and whenever the greater part of the capital stock of any such corporation shall have been so surrendered or transferred, the directors of the corporation taking such surrender or transfer shall thereafter, on a resolution electing so to do, to be entered on their minutes, become ex officio the directors of the corporation whose road is so held under lease, and shall manage and conduct the affairs thereof as provided by law; and whenever the whole of such capital stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred, and a certificate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state under the common seal of the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, the estate, property, rights, privileges and franchises of the corporation whose stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred shall thereupon vest in and be held and enjoyed by the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, and as fully and entirely, without charge or diminution, as the same were before held and enjoyed, and be managed and controlled by the board of directors of the corporation to whom the surrender or transfer of such stock shall have been made in the corporate name of such corporation. But the property, rights, franchises and profits of every corporation so surrendered, transferred or leased shall hereafter always be liable to taxation, and shall never be exempt therefrom. The rights of any stockholder not so surrendering or transferring his stock shall not be in any way affected thereby, nor shall existing liabilities or the rights of creditors of the corporation where stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred be in any way affected or impaired by this section.

Rev., s. 2574; Code, s. 1994; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 57; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, s. 2.

Law forming new corporation out of two existing corporations governs and controls its corporate functions and rights: R. R. v. Comrs., 88-519. Act authorizing consolidation of railroad companies upon vote of majority of stockholders, allowing actual value for stock in lieu of stock in consolidated company, is valid: Spencer v. R. R., 137-107. Under act 1901, ch. 168, authorizing consolidation of certain railroads, the rights and powers of the several companies vested in the consolidated corporation: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257; Thomason v. R. R., 142-318.

For discussion of right of railroad to lease property, regulation of meetings for that purpose and rights of stockholders, see Hill v. R. R., 143-539; see, also, section 3461.

Act of 1913, c. 516, authorizing merger of certain railroads construed: Reid v. R. R., 162-355.

3460. Lease or merger of competing carrier declared a misdemeanor. No railroad or other transportation company or its officers, now or hereafter doing business in this state, shall purchase, lease, absorb, take over, buy stock in, merge with or in any way secure an interest in a competing line of railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers enter into any contract, agreement or understanding with a competing line of railroad or other transportation company calculated to defeat or which may defeat or lessen competition in this state. All such contracts, purchases or sales shall be void. Any violation of this section shall make the corporation or person so offending guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction the offender shall be fined in the discretion of the court. This section shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, ss. 2, 3.

3461. Acquisition of interest in or lease of noncompeting branch or connecting lines. Any railroad or other transportation company may acquire and hold or guarantee, or endorse the bonds or stocks of, or may lease any railroad or branch railroad, or other transportation line in this or adjoining state connecting with it directly or indirectly. But no railroad or other transportation company or its officers shall acquire, hold or guarantee the bonds or stock of, or lease or be leased to, or purchase or buy or consolidate with or be merged into, any parallel or competing railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers sell any of its stock or bonds to any holding or voting company or its officers, whereby such consolidation or merger may be effected, and any such purchase, contract, merger or sale shall be void. This provision shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property.

Rev. s. 2567, subsec. 13; 1885, c. 108, s. 2; 1908, c. 119, ss. 1, 3.

Where lessor railroad company is sued jointly with lessee company for damages caused by alleged negligence of lessee, and after verdict lessor moves for judgment upon verdict, but makes no motion for new trial, and both motions are refused, and both defendants appeal from judgment rendered against them, granting new trial to lessee vacates judgment as to both defendants: Tillett v. R. R., 115-662.

Where lease of property of railroad company extends beyond time fixed by charter for corporate existence of lessor, such lease is valid for period of corporate life of lessor, and will extend beyond that period if charter is renewed, and lessor's corporate existence is thereby extended, and by this process it may endure for the full term: Hill v. R. R., 143-539.

3462. Purchaser at mortgage or execution sale of railroads may incorporate. Whenever the purchaser of the real estate, track and fixtures of any railroad corporation which has heretofore been sold, or may hereafter be sold, by virtue of any mortgage executed by such corporation or execution issued upon any judgment or decree of any court, shall acquire title to the same in the manner prescribed by law, such purchaser may associate with him any number of persons, and make and acknowledge and file articles of association as prescribed in this chapter. Such purchaser and his associates shall thereupon be a new corporation, with all the powers, privileges and franchises and subject to all of the provisions of this chapter.

Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5.

See section 3428.

Railroad is not in all respects a public highway, but it is the subject of private property, and in that character is liable to be sold unless sale be forbidden by legislature; not franchise, but land itself constituting the road: State v. Rives, 27-297.

On foreclosure of mortgage given by railroad company, purchaser takes rights that company had acquired in relation to its rights of way under its charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214.

Railroad corporation is not dissolved by sale of its road: State v. Rives, 27-297.

Another corporation must be provided before sale shall have effect of dissolution: James v. R. R., 121-523. Purchase of Western North Carolina Railroad by Southern did not result in dissolution of former road: Ibid.

See Julian v. Trust Co., 193 U. S., 93.

3463. On dissolution or sale of railroads purchaser becomes a corporation. When any railroad corporation shall be dissolved, or its property sold and conveyed under any execution, deed of trust, mortgage or other conveyance, the owner or purchaser shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law.

Rev., s. 2565; Code, s. 2005.

For reorganization after judicial sale, etc., see section 1221 et seq.

For effect of sale prior to enactment, see State v. Rives, 27-297.

Corporate property and franchise must be sold together: James v. R. R., 121-527; Bradley v. R. R., 119-927 (Appx.); Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Howland, 111-625; Gooch v. McGee, 83-59. Sale of railroad under second mortgage, and conveyance thereunder subject to first mortgage, does not extinguish corporate existence of company: James v. R. R., 121-523—nor release corporation from liability to public for manner in which railroad operated, Ibid.—and in order that sale should work dissolution, another corporation must take the place and assume obligations of old corporation, Ibid.—though, when this is done, corporation will be domestic corporation, Ibid. See, also, Julian v. Trust Co., 193 U. S., 93. Upon foreclosure of mortgage of railroad, purchaser takes rights acquired by company in relation to right of way under charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214; Hendrick v. R. R., 101-617.

Effect of sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company franchises and property under second mortgage, subject to first mortgage which was assumed by purchaser, was to place purchaser (the Southern Railway Company) in place of mortgagor in its relation to trustee of first mortgage, with right to run and operate road as agent of mortgagor; but old corporation was not extinguished, but is still in existence and liable for damages caused by maladministration of agent, which liability can be enforced against property which it allows the "Southern" to use: James v. R. R., 121-523. Sale and conveyance of property and franchises of Western North Carolina Railroad Company made by a special master to Southern Railway Company, a foreign corporation, under decree of foreclosure of second mortgage, subject to an existing first mortgage, did not ipso facto make the purchaser a domestic corporation, nor did such sale and purchase make Western North Carolina Railroad an integral part of the Southern Railway corporation: Ibid.

ART. 7. LIABILITY OF RAILROADS FOR INJURIES TO EMPLOYEES

3464. Common carrier defined. The term "common carrier," as used in this article, shall include the receiver or receivers, or other persons or corporations charged with the duty of the management of the business of a common carrier.

1913, c. 6, s. 5.

3465. Fellow-servant rule abrogated; defective machinery. Any servant or employee of any railroad company operating in this state who shall suffer injury to his person, or the personal representative of any such servant or employee who shall have suffered death in the course of his services or employment with such company, by the negligence, carelessness or incompetence of any other servant, employee or agent of the company, or by any defect in the machinery, ways or appliances of the company, shall be entitled to maintain an action against such company. Any contract or agreement, expressed or implied, made by any employee of such company to waive the benefit of this section shall be null and void.

Rev., s. 2646; 1897 (Pr.), c. 56; 1915, c. 256.

APPLICATION OF STATUTE. This section, known as the "Fellow-Servant Act," enacted in 1897, is an unconditional abrogation of the doctrines of fellow-servant and assumption of risk as applied to railroads: Coley v. R. R., 129-407; Bloxham v. Timber Corp., 172-37. As a result of the ruling in Hobbs v. R. R., 107-1, this section was enacted: Nicholson v. R. R., 138-516.

The section is constitutional: Nicholson v. R. R., 138-517; Coley v. R. R., 128-534, 129-407; Kinney v. R. R., 122-961; Wright v. R. R., 123-280; Hancock v. R. R., 124-222. Court will take notice of this section without being pleaded: Hancock v. R. R., 124-222.

It applies to all railroads in operation, whether run by steam or electricity: Goodman v. Power Co., 174-661; Nicholson v. R. R., 138-516. When a railroad is in operation for the statute to apply: McDonald v. R. R., 165-622. It applies to lumber or logging roads: Hemp-hill v. Lumber Co., 141-487; Liles v. Lumber Co., 142-39; Bird v. Leather Co., 143-283; Wright v. R. R., 151-529; Bissell v. Lumber Co., 152-123; Goodman v. Power Co., 174-661—to a street railway, Brookshire v. Electric Co., 152-669.

It does not apply to a railroad in course of construction: Nicholson v. R. R., 138-516; O'Neal v. R. R., 152-404; Bailey v. Meadows Co., 152-603—and it applies only to railroads, Wade v. Contracting Co., 149-177; Hipp v. Fiber Co., 152-745. It does not apply to injuries sustained by servant of an independent contractor of a railroad company by reason of negligence of a fellow-servant: Avery v. R. R., 137-130.

This section is applicable to employee of "any railroad operating in this state," and is not limited to injuries received in this state: Williams v. R. R., 128-286. It will not be presumed that doctrine of nonliability for acts of fellow-servants obtains in another state: Ibid.

This section has the effect of making all coemployees of railroad companies agents and vice-principals of the company so far as fixing the company with responsibility for their negligence is concerned: Fitzgerald v. R. R., 141-534. Fellow-servant law applies to all railroad employees, whether injured while running trains or rendering any other service: Sigman v. R. R., 135-181.

Under Fellow-Servant Act, which operates on all employees of railroad companies, whether in superior, equal or subordinate positions, if plaintiff, a hostler of defendant, was injured as proximate cause of negligence of his helpers in shoveling coal from a car into a tender, defendant is responsible: Fitzgerald v. R. R., 141-530.

By contract of service made in North Carolina, the provisions of the Fellow-Servant Act must be read into the contract, and there being no evidence that service was to be performed altogether in another state, it would seem that relative rights and liabilities of parties are fixed by terms of contract: Miller v. R. R., 141-49.

The contention that Fellow-Servant Act applies to defendant in this case cannot be determined where its answer denied that it owned or operated the logging railroad, and no appropriate issues were submitted: Tanner v. Lumber Co., 140-475.

This section applies to an injury suffered by any employee in any department of work of a railroad which is being operated, but does not apply to an employee engaged in building a trestle for extension of railroad, at a point some miles from track on which trains are being operated: Nicholson v. R. R., 138-516—nor to one engaged in work at lumber yard and not connected with the work of transportation, Twiddy v. Lumber Co., 154-237.

In an action against a railroad company for wrongfully causing death of engineer, question whether it and another road were partners in operating part of road on which deceased was killed was properly submitted to jury: Harrill v. R. R., 135-601.

Where a person is agent or servant of two roads, and through his negligence another servant is injured, either or both roads would be liable: Moore v. R. R., 165-439. Person employed by railroad company to load express hauled by company is not a fellow-servant of an employee of express company: Hopper v. Express Co., 133-375.

DEFECTIVE APPLIANCES, ETC. Failure to furnish suitable appliances is continuing negligence which excludes the defense of contributory negligence, such failure being the proximate cause of the injury: Troxler v. R. R., 124-189. Railroad must furnish appliances which are approved and in general use: Hines v. Lumber Co., 174-294. Instances: Automatic coupler, Montgomery v. R. R., 163-597; defective ladder, Mincey v. R. R., 161-467; safe crossing for removing crossties, Wells v. R. R., 161-368; detached car on steep grade, Mumpower v. R. R., 174-742; tree falling on train, Bloxham v. Timber Corp., 172-37; defective step to engine, Urquhart v. R. R., 156-582; defective engine, Biles v. R. R., 139-528; defective sand-dryer, Walker v. R. R., 135-738; "kicking cars" or "flying switch," Kenney v. R. R., 165-99; Worley v. R. R., 169-105; allowing ice to accumulate around pump, Renn v. R. R., 170-128. The term "ways" refers to roadways and objective conditions: Pigford v. R. R., 160-93.

The rule of care is not so strict in case of ordinary tools and everyday conditions requiring no special preparation or foresight, and where there is no reason to suppose an injury would result: Bunn v. R. R., 169-648; Mercer v. R. R., 154-399; Dunn v. R. R., 151-313; Lynch v. R. R., 164-249—as in case of cross-piece to hold lumber loaded on car, Wallace v. R. R., 141-646. When employee directed to make repairs uses defective implement in such a way as to cause injury, employer is not liable: Mathis v. R. R., 144-162.

The railroad is not liable for accidental injury: Morris v. R. R., 171-533; Lloyd v. R. R., 168-646; Simpson v. R. R., 154-51; Lassiter v. R. R., 150-483, and cases cited.

ASSUMPTION OF RISK AND CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE. The two principles distinguished: Coley v. R. R., 129-407; Pigford v. R. R., 160-93; Horton v. R. R., 162-424. Assumption of risk is not a defense under this section: Urquhart v. R. R., 156-582; Biles v. R. R., 143-78; Mott v. R. R., 131-234; Thomas v. R. R., 129-392; Cogdell v. R. R., 129-398; Coley v. R. R., 128-534; s. c., 129-407. Contributory negligence is a valid defense: Pigford v. R. R., 160-93; Fry v. R. R., 159-357; Coley v. R. R., 129-407. It must be pleaded, and the burden is on the defendant, see section 523.

Where defendant failed to furnish a safe appliance it was negligence per se, continuing up to the time of the injury, and neither assumption of risk nor contributory negligence would be a defense: Greenlee v. R. R., 122-977; Troxler v. R. R., 124-189; Hairston v. Leather Co., 143-512. Continuing to work under such conditions is not assumption of risk nor contributory negligence unless it is so obviously dangerous that no prudent man would subject himself to the risk: Coley v. R. R., 129-407; Hamilton v. Lumber Co., 156-520; Pigford v. R. R., 160-93; Horton v. R. R., 162-424. When jury finds there was no contributory negligence, it is immaterial what fellow-servant caused the injury: Kinney v. R. R., 122-961. See annotations under sections 3467, 3468.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES. An action may be brought in the state court against a railroad in the hands of a federal receiver or against the purchaser of such road: Lassiter v. R. R., 163-19.

The rule for estimating damages is to give the present worth of the difference in plaintiff's earning capacity caused by the injury: Fry v. R. R., 159-357, and cases cited. For effect of relief department, see section 3469. For damages for wrongful death, see sections 160, 161.

3466. Injuries through fellow-servants or defective appliances. Every common carrier by railroad shall be liable in damages to any person suffering injury while he is employed by such carrier, or in the case of the death of such employee, to his or her personal representative, for such injury or death resulting in whole or in part from the negligence of any of the officers, agents or employees of such carrier, or by reason of any defect or insufficiency, due to its negligence, in its cars, engine, appliances, machinery, track, road-bed, works, boats, wharves, or other equipment.

The act of 1913 is substantially the same as the Federal Employer's Liability Act: Sears v. R. R., 169-446. For annotations on negligence, appliances, etc., see section 3465.

The federal statute supersedes the state statute in cases involving interstate commerce: Jones v. R. R., 176-260; Renn v. R. R., 170-128. The federal and state courts have concurrent jurisdiction, and which statute will apply depends upon whether the train or employee was engaged in interstate commerce: West v. R. R., 174-125; Renn v. R. R., 170-128. When the train or employee is engaged in interstate commerce: Capps v. R. R., 178-558; Sears v. R. R., 169-446; Saunders v. R. R., 167-375; Lloyd v. R. R., 166-24; Zachary v. R. R., 156-496, reversed in 232 U. S., 248.

The statutes are not the same in the beneficiaries in case of death: Horton v. R. R., 175-472; Kenney v. R. R., 167-14; Raines v. R. R., 169-189; Dooley v. R. R., 163-454—nor in the manner of estimating damages, Ibid.; Irvin v. R. R., 164-5; Ferebee v. R. R., 167-290. See sections 160, 161.

Time within which action is to be brought: King v. R. R., 176-301; Belch v. R. R., 176-22; Burnett v. R. R., 163-186.

3467. Contributory negligence no bar, but mitigates damages. In all actions hereafter brought against any common carrier by railroad to recover damages for personal injury to an employee, or where such injuries have resulted in his death, the fact that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar a recovery, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee: Provided, however, that no such employee who may be injured or killed shall be held to have been guilty of contributory negligence in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee.

This abolishes contributory negligence as an absolute defense and adopts the doctrine of comparative negligence, reducing the damage: Davis v. R. R., 175-648; Parks v. Tanning Co., 175-29; Williams v. R. R., 168-360; Sears v. R. R., 169-446; Ingle v. R. R., 167-636. It applies only to common carriers by railroad and not to roads engaged only in hauling lumber or timber: Williams v. Mfg. Co., 175-226.

Contributory negligence should be pleaded: Fleming v. R. R., 160-197—but a separate issue is not required, Gray v. R. R., 167-433; Lloyd v. R. R., 166-24—nor does it change the rule of last clear chance, Gray v. R. R., 167-433.

Manner of estimating damages: Davis v. R. R., 175-648; Tilghman v. R. R., 167-163, 237 U. S., 500.

3468. Assumption of risk as defense. In any action brought against any common carrier under or by virtue of any of the provisions of this article to recover damages for injuries to, or the death of, any of its employees, such employee shall not be held to have assumed the risk of his employment in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee, or the death or injury was caused by negligence.

See annotations under section 3465. Assumption of risk and contributory negligence explained: Horton v. R. R., 175-472; Jones v. R. R., 176-260; King v. R. R., 176-301; Wallace v. Power Co., 176-558; Gaddy v. R. R., 175-515; Horton v. R. R., 169-108, 162-424, 157-146, 233 U. S., 492. In case of injury caused by street car failing to provide a suitable fender, neither assumption of risk nor contributory negligence is a defense: Smith v. Electric Co., 173-489.

3469. Contracts and rules exempting from liability void; set-off. Any contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, the purpose and intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier by railroad to exempt itself from any liability created by this article, shall to that extent be void: Provided, that in any action brought against such common carrier, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this article, such common carrier may set off therein any sum it has contributed or paid to any insurance or relief benefit, or indemnity that may have been paid to the injured employee, or the person entitled thereto, on account of the injury or death for which such action was brought.

1913, c. 6, s. 4.

Acceptance of benefits under relief department does not prevent a recovery: Barden v. R. R., 152-318; Wacksmith v. R. R., 157-34; King v. R. R., 157-44; Burnett v. R. R., 163-186; Herring v. R. R., 168-555.

1919, c. 275.

Cases decided before enactment of section, showing application to logging roads: Bissell v. Lumber Co., 152-123; Roberson v. Lumber Co., 154-328; Twiddy v. Lumber Co., 154-237; Hamilton v. Lumber Co., 156-519; Jackson v. Lumber Co., 158-317; Bloxham v. Timber Corp., 172-37.

ART. 8. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF RAILROADS

3471. Map of route to be served with summons for condemnation. Whenever it shall become necessary to condemn any land for the purposes of a railroad, at the time that the summons for such condemnation is served there shall also be served by the railroad company a map showing how the line of the road is located on the land sought to be condemned, and a profile showing the depth of the cuts and the height of the embankments on the land so sought to be condemned, and at what points on such land such cuts and embankments are located. This section shall not apply to street railways.

Rev., s. 2599; Code, s. 1952; 1893, c. 396, s. 2; 1901, c. 6, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 24.

Failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings may be cured by amendment: State v. Wells, 142-590.

3472. Map of railroad to be made and filed. Every railroad corporation shall, within a reasonable time after its road shall be constructed, cause to be made a map and profile thereof, and of the land taken or obtained for the use thereof, and shall file the same in the office of the corporation commission. Every such map shall be drawn on a scale and on paper to be designated by the corporation commission, and shall be certified and signed by the president or engineer of such corporation.

Rev., s. 2600; Code, s. 1977; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 41.

The filing of a map and profile of route of railroad and of land condemned for its use with corporation commission is for information of that body, and is not required as part of a correct and completed location: Fayetteville Street Rwy. v. R. R., 142-423. Where line of railroad is clearly defined by existence of old roadbed which is entered on and staked out by agents of company, and route so marked is approved and adopted by directors as its permanent location, a survey by engineer is not essential: Ibid.

Profile required to be filed must show whether there will be any "fills" or "cuts" on the land sought to be condemned: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413. Where railroad was completed through locus in quo prior to act of 1872, it was not necessary to validity of location that map of route should be filed: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100.

3473. Joint construction by railroads having same location. Whenever two railroad companies shall, for a portion of their respective lines, embrace the same location of line, they may by agreement provide for the construction of so much of said line as is common to both of them, by one of the companies, and for the manner and terms upon which the business thereon shall be performed. Upon the making of such an agreement, the company that is not to construct the part of the line which is common to both may terminate its line at the point of intersection, and may reduce its capital to a sum of not less than five thousand dollars for each mile of the road proposed to be constructed.

3474. Construction of part of line in another state. Whenever after due examination it shall be ascertained by the directors of any railroad company that a part of the line of railroad proposed to be made between any two points in this state ought to be located and constructed in an adjoining state, it may be so located and constructed by a vote of two-thirds of all the directors. The sections of such railroad within this state shall be considered a connected line, and the directors may reduce the capital specified to such amount as may be deemed proper, but not less than the amount required by law for the number of miles of railroad to be actually constructed in this state.

Rev., s. 2603; Code, s. 1984; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 47.

3475. Carriage must be according to public schedule. Every railroad corporation shall start and run their cars for the transportation of passengers and property at regular times to be fixed by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodation for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, be offered for transportation at the place of starting and the junction of other railroads and at usual stopping places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freights for that train, and shall take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such places, on the due payment of the freight or fare legally authorized therefor, and shall be liable to the party aggrieved, in an action for damages, for any neglect or refusal in the premises.

Rev., s. 2611; Code, s. 1963; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 35.

REGULATIONS FOR PASSENGER TRAINS. Railroad company has a right, and it is its duty, to establish and enforce reasonable rules for government and direction of trains; and of such, passenger must inform himself and conform thereto: Britton v. R. R., 88-536; McRae v. R. R., 88-526. Corporation commission may require railroad to have train arrive at certain station on road at certain schedule time so as to connect with train of another company: Corporation Com. v. R. R., 137-1. Defendant company is liable for consequences of mismanagement of train in charge of employees of another company using its track with defendant's knowledge and consent: Ayeock v. R. R., 89-321.

Railroad company is liable for injury resulting from failure to provide a reasonably safe place and opportunity for passengers to get on and off trains: Browne v. R. R., 108-34; Smith v. R. R., 147-448; Wagner v. R. R., 147-315; Roberts v. R. R., 155-79; Kearney v. R. R., 158-522; Leggett v. R. R., 168-366; Thomas v. R. R., 173-494—conductor should warn passengers of danger, Penny v. R. R., 153-296—and allow reasonable time for getting on and off, Browne v. R. R., 108-34; Tillett v. R. R., 118-1031, 116-937, 115-662; Cable v. R. R., 122-892. Passenger getting on or off moving train may be guilty of contributory negligence: Ibid.

Railroads have reasonable control over their waiting-rooms and right to establish regulations for opening and closing of same; they are not lodging places: Phillips v. R. R., 124-123. A regulation which requires the opening of waiting-rooms not less than thirty minutes before arrival of trains, and their closing after departure of trains, is a reasonable regulation for accommodation of passengers; the case of delayed trains and through passengers might form exceptions to rule: Ibid.

Regulation that person purchasing tickets for an excursion shall travel upon train provided for that special purpose, and not upon a regular train, is reasonable regulation: McRae v. R. R., 88-526.

Where defendant undertook to furnish plaintiff transportation on its log train to and from "quarters," it was its duty to see that such transportation was rendered as reasonably safe as character of it would admit: Tanner v. Lumber Co., 140-475.

In case of a trespasser on the train, the railroad company is liable for the wrongful acts of its servants: Pierce v. R. R., 124-83.

Reasonable regulations and reasonable care for safety of passengers applies to street railways: Brown v. Power Co., 171-555.

WHO ARE PASSENGERS. Contract of carriage by common carrier begins when passenger comes upon carrier's premises or conveyance with purpose of buying ticket within reasonable time, or after having purchased ticket, and relation once constituted continues until journey contracted for is concluded, and passenger has left or has had reasonable time to leave such premises: Hansley v. R. R., 115-602; Tillett v. R. R., 115-662; s. c., 118-1031; Phillips v. R. R., 124-123; Seawell v. R. R., 132-856; s. c., 133-515.

A section master, riding from his place of work to his home, is not a passenger: Wright v. R. R., 122-852.

A person in charge of cattle on a car is a passenger: Osborne v. R. R., 175-594.

A passenger leaving a train temporarily for a lawful purpose at an intermediate station does not lose his rights as a passenger: Wallace v. R. R., 174-171. A purchaser of a ticket who takes the wrong train by reason of information from the porter is a passenger: Bullock v. R. R., 152-66.

PASSENGER ENTITLED TO PROTECTION. A carrier of passengers is not an insurer, as is a carrier of goods. His liability is based on negligence, and not on a warranty of passenger's freedom from all accidents and vicissitudes of journey: Marable v. R. R., 142-557. Arm struck by mail pouch: McCord v. R. R., 134-53—passenger shot while leaving car, Penny v. R. R., 133-221—passenger struck by valise of another passenger, Fritz v. R. R., 132-829.

Conduct of employee of carrier inflicting violence on passenger, though act be outside of scope of his authority, or even wilful and malicious, subjects carrier to liability in damages just as fully as if carrier had encouraged commission of act: Williams v. Gill, 122-967; Strother v. R. R., 123-197; Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-123. Rotten eggs thrown at passenger, company liable: Seawell v. R. R., 132-856, 133-515.

Company owes to every passenger duty of protecting him from violence and assaults of his fellow passengers or intruders, and will be held responsible for its own or its servants' neglect in the premises, when same might have been foreseen and prevented by exercise of proper care: Britton v. R. R., 88-536; Bedsale v. R. R., 151-152; Penny v. R. R., 153-296; Berry v. R. R., 155-287; Pride v. R. R., 176-594. A railroad company is liable for failure to have sufficient police force on excursion train to protect passengers: Stanley v. R. R., 160-323.

A pullman car is not a common carrier in every respect, but it owes the duty of protecting its passengers: Garrett v. R. R., 172-737.

When passenger's weak or helpless condition is known to conductor, or assistance is requested, carrier is liable for failure to render assistance: Graham v. R. R., 174-1. For wrongful ejection from train, see section 3507.

FAILURE TO STOP FOR PASSENGERS. Where plaintiff purchased ticket at regular station before time advertised for arrival and departure of trains at that place, and was in readiness to get aboard, but train ran by, making no effort to stop, although it had room in its cars for plaintiff, he would be entitled to punitive damages, in absence of sufficient excuse shown by defendant: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414.

Common carrier of passengers is under no obligation to delay departure of trains, or to look after safety of persons who attempt to enter them, when they have been stopped long enough to allow passengers to embark and disembark; but it may be liable for injuries incurred by one who, by invitation or command of persons in charge of trains, attempts to get on or off while cars are in motion: Browne v. R. R., 108-34.

Carrier is liable for failure to stop for passenger at flag station when proper signal is given: Brown v. R. R., 174-694; Thomas v. R. R., 122-1005.

Carrier is liable for failure to stop for passenger to get off at station to which he has bought a ticket: Elliott v. R. R., 166-481—even when train is not scheduled to stop, if passenger gets on train through fault of carrier, Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-123.

When conductor fails to stop train, but directs passenger to get off while train is moving, the question of contributory negligence is for the jury: Owens v. R. R., 152-439; Browne v. R. R., 108-34.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES. Person who has sustained injuries by reason of failure of railroad company to furnish proper means of transportation or operate its trains as required by statute may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of statute: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414; Puett v. R. R., 141-332; Peanut Co. v. R. R., 155-148.

When passenger is delayed or carried contrary to agreement, so as to lead to failure to accomplish object of trip, he is entitled to recover sum paid for ticket, with interest thereon, together with compensation for time lost in trip and, in some instances, reasonable cost of reaching his destination by means of some other conveyance: Hansley v. R. R., 115-602. Amount recoverable for breach of contract of carriage is limited to damage supposed to have been in contemplation of parties and actually caused by such breach, and measure of damage is ordinarily not materially different whether defendant fails to comply with contract through inability or wilfully disregards it: Ibid. See, also, Peanut Co. v. R. R., 155-148.

When the refusal to take on or discharge a passenger, where he is entitled to be received or discharged, is reckless and wanton, punitive damages may be recovered: Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-127; Purcell v. R. R., 108-417; Hansley v. R. R., 117-570; Coleman v. R. R., 138-355— or for insult or mistreatment of passenger by employee, Strother v. R. R., 123-197; Williams v. Gill, 122-967. Punitive damages will not be awarded against a railroad company where, by reason of defective equipments, it failed to carry a person, to whom it had sold excursion ticket, back to his starting point, when only injuries complained of were inconveniences, delay and disappointment, and there was no proof of bad motive on part of defendant: Hansley v. R. R., 115-602, overruling Purcell v. R. R., 108-414, on that point.

3476. Arrangement of cars in passenger trains. In forming a passenger train, baggage, freight, merchandise or lumber cars shall not be placed in rear of the passenger cars, except in case of accident, or when the cars are provided with automatic couplers or brakes. If any officer or agent of a railroad company, in forming a passenger train, shall direct or knowingly suffer an arrangement of the cars different from the one herein provided for, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, the criminal liability hereby imposed shall not apply to officers and agents of the Wilmington sea-coast railroad company.

Rev., ss. 2612, 3747; Code, s. 1971: 1871-2, c. 138; 1893, c. 331; 1895, c. 212.

3477. Unauthorized manufacture or sale of switch-lock keys misdemeanor. It shall be unlawful for any person to make, manufacture, sell or give away to any other person any duplicate key to any lock used by any railroad company in this state on its switches or switch tracks, except upon the written order of that officer of such railroad company whose duty it is to distribute and issue switch-lock keys to the employees of such railroad company. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

3478. Willful injury to railroad property misdemeanor. If any person shall willfully do or cause to be done any act or acts whatever whereby any building, construction or work of any railroad corporation, or any engine, machine or structure or any matter or thing appertaining to the same shall be stopped, obstructed, impaired, weakened, injured or destroyed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3756; Code, s. 1974: 1871-2, c. 138, s. 39.

3479. Headlights on locomotives on main lines. Every company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver owning or operating a railroad in this state is hereby required to equip and maintain and use upon every locomotive in operation in railroad service on main lines in this state an electric or power headlight of at least one thousand five hundred candlepower, measured without the aid of a reflector. This section shall not apply to locomotive engines regularly used in switching cars or trains, to locomotive engines used exclusively between sunup and sundown, and to locomotive engines going to and returning from repair shops when ordered in for repairs; neither shall this section apply to independently owned and operated railroad companies in this state whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred and twenty-five miles or less, nor to railroad companies having only lines extending into this state, no one of which is one hundred miles in length in this state. The corporation commission may relieve from the operation of this section such locomotives and roads, or parts or sections or branches of roads, upon which the said corporation commission may deem electric or power headlights not advisable. Should an engine start on a trip with the headlight in good working condition, and from some unavoidable cause such headlight becomes disabled and cannot be repaired on the line of the road on which such run is being made, there shall be nothing in this section to prevent such engine from continuing on its trip, and the railroad company shall not be liable for prosecution on account of such failure to repair. Any company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Running a train without headlight is negligence: Horne v. R. R., 170-645; Barnes v. R. R., 168-512; McNeill v. R. R., 167-390; Griffin v. R. R., 166-624; Powers v. R. R., 166-599—and it is also a misdemeanor, Ibid.

3480. Operation of trains on Sunday misdemeanor; exceptions. No railroad company shall permit the loading or unloading of any freight car on Sunday; nor shall it permit any car, train of cars or locomotive to be run on Sunday on any railroad, save in case of accident, except such as may be run for the purpose of transporting the United States mails, passengers with their baggage and ordinary express freight in express cars exclusively, and except such as may be run for the purpose of transporting fruits, vegetables, livestock and perishable freights. Where there are not sufficient cars of livestock or other perishable freights to make a complete train, or section of a train, the company may add other cars to complete the same. Solid trains, made up of through freight cars, reaching on Sunday any point upon any railroad in North Carolina and destined for some point or points beyond the limits of the state of North Carolina, may be continued as a solid through freight train along the line of such railroad through the state of North Carolina, without stopping the train for other purposes than to take on fuel and receive necessary running orders. The word Sunday in this section shall be construed to embrace only that portion of the day between sunrise and sunset. Trains in transitu, having started on Saturday, may, in order to reach the terminus or shops, run until nine o'clock a.m. on Sunday, but not later, nor for any other purpose than to reach the terminus or shops. Any railroad company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in each county in which such car, train of cars, or locomotive shall run, or in which any such freight car shall be loaded or unloaded, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars for each offense.

Rev., ss. 2613, 3844; Code, s. 1973; 1879, cc. 97, 203; 1885, c. 92; 1897, c. 126; 1901, c. 444; 1909, c. 285.

This section is constitutional, and does not interfere with interstate commerce in the absence of federal legislation: State v. R. R., 119-814. Sufficient evidence to show violation: Ibid.; State v. R. R., 149-470.

That train was running in violation of this section does not render carrier liable for injury, unless otherwise liable: Davis v. R. R., 170-582. When running trains or shifting cars near a church may become a nuisance: Taylor v. R. R., 145-400.

Railroads are not entitled to exclude Sunday, on account of this section, in the calculation of the number of days delay of transportation of freight: Davis v. R. R., 145-207; Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Keeter v. R. R., 86-346; but see Wall v. R. R., 147-407.

3481. Operation of fast mail trains. The corporation commission is hereby empowered, whenever it shall appear wise and proper to do so, to authorize any railroad company to run one or more fast mail trains over its road, which shall stop only at such stations on the line of the road as may be designated by the company: Provided, that in addition to such fast mail train such railroad company shall run at least one passenger train in each direction over its road on every day except Sunday, which shall stop at every station on the road at which passengers may wish to be taken up or put off: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing the running of local passenger trains on Sunday.

Rev., s. 2614; 1893, c. 97.

It is a reasonable regulation of defendant that certain trains shall not stop at all stations, provided there are enough to serve purposes of local travel: Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-123.

3482. Negligence presumed from killing livestock. When any cattle or other livestock shall be killed or injured by the engine or cars running upon any railroad, it shall be prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of the railroad company in any action for damages against such company: Provided, that no person shall be allowed the benefit of this section unless he shall bring his action within six months after his cause of action shall have accrued.

Rev., s. 2645; Code, s. 2326; 1856-7, c. 7.

APPLICATION OF SECTION. Section applies to killing animals in town as well as in the country, and in stock-law and nonstock-law territory: Shepard v. R. R., 140-391; Roberts v. R. R., 88-560; Farmer v. R. R., 88-564—whether animal hitched to wagon or not, Borden v. R. R., 175-177; Hanford v. R. R., 167-277; Randall v. R. R., 107-748; s. c., 104-410. Does not apply to killing geese: James v. R. R., 166-572—nor turkeys, Lewis v. R. R., 163-33.

Presumption of negligence arises only when action is brought within six months of killing: Borden v. R. R., 175-177; Fleming v. R. R., 168-248; Bethea v. R. R., 106-279; Carlton v. R. R., 104-365; Randall v. R. R., 104-410, 107-748; Mesic v. R. R., 120-489; Wilson v. R. R., 90-69; Pippen v. R. R., 75-54—and burden of proving it is not upon plaintiff: Carlton v. R. R., 104-365.

PRESUMPTION MAY BE REBUTTED. This presumption may be rebutted by showing that in fact there was no negligence: Hanford v. R. R., 167-277; Bethea v. R. R., 106-279; Battle v. R. R., 66-343; Pippen v. R. R., 75-54. Whether or not there is negligence is generally a question for the jury: Borden v. R. R., 175-177; Briley v. R. R., 174-785; Davis v. R. R., 134-300. When facts are fully disclosed and there is no controversy as to them, court must decide whether they make out case of negligence, and when they fail to do so, defendant cannot be held liable: Doggett v. R. R., 81-459; Durham v. R. R., 82-352; Mesic v. R. R., 120-489; Randall v. R. R., 104-410; Hardison v. R. R., 120-492. Where killing of stock by railroad is admitted or proven, trial judge may instruct jury that a certain state of facts, if believed by them, would rebut presumption of negligence, but not that certain evidence, though uncontradicted, would do so: Baker v. R. R., 133-31.

Negligence may be rebutted by showing that defendant kept a proper lookout upon the track, and that after discovering the animal every reasonable effort was made to prevent the injury: Seawell v. R. R., 106-272; Carlton v. R. R., 104-365; Snowden v. R. R., 95-93; Winston v. R. R., 90-66; Doggett v. R. R., 81-459; Proctor v. R. R., 72-579; Jones v. R. R., 70-626; Battle v. R. R., 66-343; Montgomery v. R. R., 51-464.

Proof that plaintiff's cow was seen near defendant company's railway track, with one of its legs broken, about time that two trains had passed over road, is some evidence in support of plaintiff's claim for damages: Boing v. R. R., 87-360.

OWNER'S CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE. If owner of cattle permit them to stray off and get upon track of railroad and they are killed or hurt, railroad company is not liable unless train was being carelessly run, or by exercise of proper care after animals were discovered injury could have been avoided or prevented: Doggett v. R. R., 81-459. Where plaintiff permitted animal to wander upon defendant's track, he is not guilty of contributory negligence: Bethea v. R. R., 106-279; Farmer v. R. R., 88-564. And that animal was within stock-law territory and at large is no excuse for killing: Roberts v. R. R., 88-560.

ART. 9. RAILROAD POLICE

3483. Railway conductors and station agents declared special police. All passenger conductors of railroad trains and station or depot agents are hereby declared to be special police of the state of North Carolina, with full power and authority to make arrests for offenses committed in their presence or view, or for felony, or on sworn complaint for misdemeanor, except that the conductors shall have such power only on board of their respective trains or their railroad right of way, and the agents at their respective stations; and such conductors and agents may cause any person so arrested by them to be detained and delivered to the proper authority for trial as soon as possible. Nothing contained in the provisions of this section shall have the effect to relieve any such railroad company from any civil liability now existing by statute or under the common law for the act or acts of such conductors, station or depot agents, in unlawfully exercising or attempting to exercise the powers herein conferred.

1907, c. 470, ss. 3, 4.

Conductors and employees on trains must wear badges, see s. 3414.

Section referred to in Brown v. R. R., 161-573.

3484. Governor may appoint and commission railroad police. Any corporation operating a railroad on which steam or electricity is used as the motive power or any electric or waterpower company or construction company may apply to the governor to commission such persons as the corporation or company may designate to act as policemen for it. The governor upon such application may appoint such persons or so many of them as he may deem proper to be such policemen, and shall issue to the persons so appointed a commission to act as such policemen.

Rev., ss. 2605, 2606; Code, ss. 1988, 1989; 1871-2, c. 138, ss. 51, 52; 1907, c. 128, s. 1.

Section referred to in Stanley v. R. R., 160-323.

3485. Oath, bond, and powers of railroad police. Every policeman so appointed shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the usual oath. Such oath, with a copy of the commission, shall be filed with the corporation commission and a certificate thereof by its clerk shall be filed with the clerk of each county through or into which the railroad for which such policeman is appointed may run or in which the company may be engaged in work, and in which it is intended he shall act, and such policemen shall severally possess within the limits of the county all the powers of policemen in the several towns, cities and villages in which they shall be so authorized to act as aforesaid: Provided, that every policeman appointed under this and the preceding section shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into bond in the sum of five hundred dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, with good and sufficient surety, to be passed upon and accepted by and filed with the corporation commission.

Rev., s. 2607; Code, s. 1990; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 53; 1907, c. 128, s. 2; 1907, c. 462.

3486. Railroad police to wear badges. Such railroad police shall, when on duty, severally wear a metallic shield with the words "Railway Police" and the name of the corporation for which appointed inscribed thereon, and this shield shall always be worn in plain view except when such police are employed as detectives.

Rev., s. 2608; Code, s. 1991; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 54.

3487. Compensation of railroad police. The compensation of such police shall be paid by the companies for which the policemen are respectively appointed, as may be agreed on between them.

Rev., s. 2609; Code, s. 1992; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 55.

3488. Police powers cease on company's filing notice. Whenever any company shall no longer require the services of any policeman so appointed as aforesaid, it may file a notice to that effect in the several offices in which notice of such appointment was originally filed, and thereupon the power of such officer shall cease and be determined.

Rev., s. 2610; Code, s. 1993; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 56.

ART. 10. CARRIAGE OF PASSENGERS

3489. Railroad passenger rates established. No railroad company doing business as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina shall, except as herein provided, charge, demand or receive for transporting any passenger and his or her baggage, not exceeding in weight two hundred pounds, from any station on its railroad in North Carolina to any other station on its road in North Carolina, a rate in excess of two and one-half cents per mile; and for transporting children under twelve years and over five years old, one-half of the rate above prescribed. For transporting children under five years old, accompanied by any person paying fare, no charge whatever shall be made. Where the amount of the ticket at the prescribed rate would amount to any figure between two multiples of five, the price of the ticket shall be the multiple of five which is nearest the price of the ticket at the rate above mentioned; or, in the event that the amount is equidistant between the multiples of five, the price charged for the ticket shall be on the basis of the higher of those two multiples of five. No charge less than ten cents shall be required. Independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina, whose mileage of road in the state is one hundred miles or less, may charge a rate not exceeding three cents per mile; and independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina, whose mileage of road in the state is ten miles or less, may charge the same rate which is now in existence on such roads. This provision shall not extend to branch lines of railroad companies controlling over one hundred miles of road, whether chartered in or out of the state. Newly constructed railroads, or the portion of railroad which may be newly constructed, shall be exempt from the operation of this section for two years after completion, to the extent that they may charge a rate in no case to exceed three cents per mile. A charge of fifteen cents may be added to the fare of any passenger when the same is paid on the train, if the ticket might have been procured within a reasonable time before the departure of the train.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 1.

As to who is a passenger, and what are his rights, see section 3475. For passenger rate case under act of 1907, c. 216, see State v. R. R., 145-495.

When a person, having paid his fare, is on a train with a child whose fare is not paid, conductor cannot put such person off with the child without returning his ticket or compensation for unused part: Lankford v. R. R., 165-653.

For the passenger to have the right to transportation of baggage free of charge, and to hold carrier liable for same, it is necessary that the baggage be on the same train, unless prevented by default or negligence of carrier: Perry v. R. R., 171-158. For further annotations as to liability for baggage, see sections 3510, 3523.

3490. Rates on leased or controlled lines. In the case that any railroad company operating as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina is owned, controlled or operated by lease or other agreement by any other railroad company doing business in the state, the rate for carrying passengers thereon shall be determined for such railroad company by the rate prescribed by the preceding section for the railroad company which owns, controls or operates the same.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 2.

3491. Violations of passenger rates misdemeanor. Any railroad company violating any of the provisions of the two preceding sections, or counseling, ordering or directing any employee, agent or servant to violate any of such provisions, by charging, demanding or receiving any rate greater than that fixed by such section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars; and any agent, servant or employee of any railroad company who shall violate either of the two preceding sections shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 3.

See s. 3519 of this chapter for a similar provision relative to excessive freight rates.

For decision under act of 1907, c. 216, see State v. R. R., 145-495.

3492. Accepting or giving free transportation illegally misdemeanor. Any persons, except those permitted by law, who accept free transportation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court; and any railroad, or its employees or agents, giving free transportation of any kind whatsoever, except that permitted by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars for each offense.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 4.

For cases prior to enactment of this section, see State v. R. R., 122-1052; McNeill v. R. R., 135-682, 132-510.

3493. Powers of corporation commission over rates limited. The corporation commission shall have no power to change, alter, modify or in any way affect the enforcement or operation of any of the provisions of the preceding sections of this article, except as the same shall be therein specifically authorized, or the enforcement of any penalties for violating the provisions thereof.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 7.

3494. Separate accommodations for different races. All railroad and steamboat companies engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire, other than street railways, shall provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting-rooms, and also on all trains and steamboats carrying passengers. Such accommodations may be furnished by railroad companies either by separate passenger cars or by compartments in passenger cars, which shall be provided by the railroads under the supervision and direction of the corporation commission: Provided, that this shall not apply to relief trains in cases of accident, to Pullman or sleeping cars, or through express trains that do not stop at all stations and are not used ordinarily for traveling from station to station, to negro servants in attendance on their employers, to officers or guards transporting prisoners, nor to prisoners so transported.

Rev., s. 2619; 1899, c. 384; 1901, c. 213.

Right of railroad company to assign white and colored passengers to separate, though not unequal, accommodations is recognized by courts: Britton v. R. R., 88-536. Company cannot relieve itself of responsibility for injuries received by passenger where it was shown that such rules were not enforced, but their observance left discretionary with passenger: Ibid.

It is not a violation of this section, if separate cars are furnished, but conductor directs some white passengers to go into colored car: Merritt v. R. R., 152-281. Section does not apply in case of officer in charge of a prisoner: Huff v. R. R., 171-203.

Liability for failure to provide comfortable waiting-room and separate rooms for the races: Hipps v. R. R., 177-472.

3495. Certain carriers may be exempted from requirement. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to exempt from the provisions of the preceding section steamboats, branch lines and narrow-gauge railroads and mixed trains carrying both freight and passengers, if in its judgment the enforcement of the same be unnecessary to secure the comfort of passengers by reason of the light volume of passenger traffic, or the small number of colored passenger travelers on such steamboats, narrow-gauge railroads, branch lines or mixed trains.

Rev., s. 2620; 1899, c. 384, s. 2; 1901, c. 213.

3496. Use of same coach in emergencies. When any coach or compartment car for either race shall be completely filled at a station where no extra coach or car can be had, and the increased number of passengers could not be foreseen, the conductor in charge of such train may assign and set apart a portion of a car or compartment assigned for passengers of one race to passengers of the other race.

Rev., s. 2621; 1899, c. 384, s. 3.

3497. Penalty for failing to provide separate coaches. Any railroad or steamboat company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of the three preceding sections shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day, to be recovered in an action brought against such company by any passenger on any train or boat of any railroad or steamboat company which is required by this chapter to furnish separate accommodations to the races, who has been furnished accommodations on such railroad train or steamboat only in a car or compartment with a person of a different race in violation of law.

Rev., s. 2622; 1899, c. 384, s. 5.

Railroad is not liable to penalty where separate cars are furnished, but conductor directs some white passengers to go into colored car; Merritt v. R. R., 152-281.

3498. Facilities for exchange of mileage required. All railroad companies of one hundred miles or more in length doing business in whole or in part in the state of North Carolina are hereby required to provide and keep at all depots in cities or towns of two thousand and over in population, as fixed by the United States census of the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, two windows opening in the waiting-room for passengers of the race using the greatest amount of mileage or coupon books, for the sale or exchange of fares on all passenger trains in North Carolina. One of such windows shall be used for the sale of cash fares exclusively, and the other for the sale and exchange of mileage or coupon books. Each window is to be attended by an agent whose duty it shall be to wait upon the traveling public, during the hours now prescribed, for the sale of cash-fare tickets and the sale and exchange of mileage or coupon books. Over each such window shall be kept a sign, painted in plain letters, "Mileage Exchange" and "Cash Fares," respectively: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any railroad company in North Carolina, as aforesaid, selling mileage or coupon books at a rate of not more than two cents per mile and pulling or taking the same on the train: Provided further, that all the provisions of this section shall apply to the following railroad junctions in this state, irrespective of population, namely: Dunn, Selma, Maxton, Hamlet, Norlina, and Sanford.

The railroad must furnish reasonable opportunity for holder of mileage book to make exchange for ticket: Harvey v. R. R., 153-567; Dorsett v. R. R., 156-439; Mason v. R. R., 159-183; McNairy v. R. R., 172-505.

3499. Application of requirement for exchange of mileage. The corporation commission shall upon complaint, and in its discretion, apply the provisions of the preceding section to railroad junctions not named in the second proviso of that section and to depots in cities and towns of less than two thousand population. The commission may in like manner exempt, in its discretion, depots in cities and towns of over two thousand population from the operation of that section. When the requirements of the preceding section are so applied by the commission, then all of the provisions of this article having to do with the sale and use of mileage-books shall extend to and include all railroad companies thereby affected, and such companies shall be subject to all of the penalties prescribed for a failure to comply with such provisions.

1911, c. 41, s. 2.

3500. Penalty for failure to provide mileage-exchange facilities. Any railroad company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars per day for each city or town where such failure occurs that is covered by the provisions of those sections, or taken in by the corporation commission as therein provided, to be recovered by any passenger demanding cash-fare or mileage tickets at any depot in any such city or town in an action brought by such passenger.

3501. Right to check baggage on mileage books. Any legal holder of a mileage book shall be privileged to have his baggage checked before the exchange of mileage for a ticket entitling such holder to transportation upon the surrender of the baggage slip forming a part of such mileage-book for the requisite number of miles and the payment of all proper excess-baggage charges.

3502. Corporation commission may regulate the checking of baggage on mileage tickets. The corporation commission is hereby empowered and directed to take into consideration the provisions of the preceding section and promulgate such rules and regulations, with regard to checking baggage on mileage tickets, as, in the opinion of the commission, shall be necessary and proper to safeguard and protect both the convenience of passengers and the rights of railroad companies; and such rules and regulations of the commission, when so promulgated, shall have the same force and effect as if they were a part of such section.

3503. Unused tickets to be redeemed. When any round-trip ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, it shall be the duty of such company to redeem the unused portion of said ticket by allowing to the holder thereof the difference between the cost thereof and the price of a one-way ticket between the stations for which such round-trip ticket was sold. Whenever any one-way or regular ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, and not used by the purchaser, it shall be the duty of the company selling the ticket to redeem it at the price paid for it. All railroad and other transportation companies shall redeem in money all mileage tickets known as five-hundred, thousand and two-thousand mile tickets, sold by them, if presented within a year from the date of the sale, when as much as fifty per centum of such ticket has been used by the purchaser, by paying the same price per mile paid for it, or shall allow the original holder to ride it out.

Rev., s. 2627; 1891, c. 290; 1893, c. 249; 1895, c. 83, ss. 2, 3; 1897, c. 418.

3504. Ticket may be refused intoxicated person; prohibited entry misdemeanor. The ticket agent of any railroad, steamboat or other transportation company shall at all times have power to refuse to sell a ticket to any person applying for the same who may at the time be intoxicated. The conductor, captain or other person in charge of any railroad car, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public shall at all times have power to prevent any intoxicated person from entering such car, boat or other conveyance. If any intoxicated person, after being forbidden by the conductor, captain or other person having charge of any such railroad train, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public, shall enter such train, boat or other conveyance, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2625, 2626, 3757; 1885, c. 358, ss. 1, 2, 3.

Refusal to allow person with ticket to board train because he was intoxicated subjects railroad company to exemplary damages, if such refusal was made with malice, undue force, or insult: Story v. R. R., 133-59.

3505. Entering cars after being forbidden misdemeanor. No person shall enter any railroad passenger car, baggage car, mail car or caboose car, or go upon the platform of such cars, after being forbidden so to do by the conductor, his assistants, the baggage-master or other person in charge of such cars, unless the person enter such cars or go upon such platforms as a passenger or in some official capacity authorized by law, or on business with a passenger or some official or employee of the railroad, or for some other like purpose. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars.

Rev., s. 3752; Code, s. 1979; 1883, c. 351.

3506. Riding in first-class cabin with second-class ticket misdemeanor. If any passenger purchasing or holding a second-class ticket, after being requested or directed by any captain or other officer in charge of any steamboat in this state, riding in any first-class cabin, refuses to pay the difference between a first-class and a second-class fare or rate, or refuses to go into the second-class cabin, when there shall be a comfortable second-class cabin on such steamboat, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any justice of the peace in the county where such offense is committed shall have jurisdiction of the offense, upon sworn complaint of any officer of such steamboat company.

Rev., s. 3761; 1903, c. 795.

3507. Passenger refusing to pay fare and violating rules may be ejected. If any passenger shall refuse to pay his fare, or violate the rules of a railroad corporation, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train and the servants of the corporation to put him and his baggage out of the cars, using no unnecessary force, at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling-house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train.

Rev., s. 2629; Code, s. 1962; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 34.

Regulation of carrier is reasonable which requires passengers to procure tickets before entering car, and where this requirement is duly made known and reasonable opportunities are afforded for complying with it, it may be enforced either by expulsion from train or by requiring payment of higher rate than ticket fare: Ammons v. R. R., 138-555; Herbst v. Power Co., 161-457.

If, without having afforded reasonable opportunity to passenger to provide himself with ticket, carrier should eject him upon his refusal to pay additional charge for carriage without ticket, when he is ready and offers to pay his fare at ticket rate, his expulsion will be illegal, and he may recover damages for trespass, and his right of recovery cannot be made to depend upon conductor's knowledge or ignorance of fact that agent had no tickets for sale: Ammons v. R. R., 138-555—and he may recover punitive damages if his expulsion is attended with circumstances of rudeness, insult, or such treatment as tends to humiliate him; Ibid.; Tomlinson v. R. R., 107-327; Allen v. R. R., 119-710; McNairy v. R. R., 172-505.

Conductor of railroad train is authorized to expel without using unnecessary force one who refuses to pay regular fare, provided that ejected person is not wilfully and wantonly exposed to danger of life and limb: Roseman v. R. R., 112-709—and carrier is not liable if the person ejected was intoxicated and conductor had reasonable ground to believe he could take care of himself, Ibid.

One who boarded a train, and upon offering ticket to station at which train was not scheduled to stop and refusing to pay fare to next station at which train would stop, was ejected from train, cannot recover punitive damages where ejection was done without insolence or undue force: Allen v. R. R., 119-710.

The purchaser of a ticket has a right to rely upon the statement of the railroad agent as to trains, connections, etc., and if agent is mistaken and the passenger is ejected, the railroad is liable: Creech v. R. R., 174-61; Hallman v. R. R., 169-127; Norman v. R. R., 161-330; Mace v. R. R., 151-404; Bullock v. R. R., 152-66.

A mileage book is a contract and the holder must comply with the terms, if reasonable opportunity is given, or he may be ejected: McNairy v. R. R., 172-505; Mason v. R. R., 159-183; Dorsett v. R. R., 156-439; Harvey v. R. R., 153-567.

Where conductor failed to return ticket to passenger to be used on another train, and the passenger was ejected for want of ticket, the railroad is liable: Sawyer v. R. R., 171-13.

Where a person who has paid his fare is on a train with a child whose fare is not paid, conductor cannot put such person off with the child without returning ticket or compensation for unused part: Lankford v. R. R., 165-653.

Where plaintiff shipped horses by express, with agreement that he should ride in same car, he cannot ride in passenger coach without paying his fare: Teeter v. Express Co., 172-616—person riding in a baggage car, with a ticket which he has not presented, may be ejected, McGraw v. R. R., 135-264.

Where a person who has ridden some distance without a ticket gets off at a regular station and purchases a ticket, it seems that conductor cannot accept ticket and then put him off for failure to pay for the distance traveled: Mott v. R. R., 164-367; Pickens v. R. R., 104-312.

Conductor may refuse to accept fare after he has been put to trouble of stopping train for failure to pay: Pickens v. R. R., 104-312—and passenger is not required to pay the fare wrongfully demanded in order to avoid being ejected, Sawyer v. R. R., 171-13; McNairy v. R. R., 172-505; Harvey v. R. R., 153-567.

Railroad is liable if conductor ejects a person from train in an improper manner, even when fare is not paid: Lee v. R. R., 176-95—or if he puts him off at an improper place, not at a regular station or near a dwelling-house, Mott v. R. R., 164-367; Bullock v. R. R., 152-66.

3508. Beating way on trains misdemeanor; venue. If any person, other than a railroad employee in the discharge of his duty, without authority from the conductor of the train or by permission of the engineer, and with the intention of being transported free and without paying the usual fare for such transportation, rides or attempts to ride on top of any car, coach, engine or tender, on any railroad in this state, or on the draw-heads between cars, or under cars, on truss rods, or trucks, or in any freight car, or on a platform of any baggage car, express car or mail car on any train, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Any person charged with a violation of this section may be tried in any county in this state through which such train may pass carrying such person, or in any county in which such violation may have occurred or may be discovered.

Rev., s. 3748; 1899, c. 625; 1905, c. 32.

3509. Injury while on platform or in other prohibited places. In case any passenger on any railroad shall be injured while on the platform of a car or on any baggage, wood or freight car, in violation of the printed regulations of the company posted up at the time in a conspicuous place inside its passenger cars then in the train, such company shall not be liable for the injury: Provided, such company at the time furnish room inside its passenger cars sufficient for the proper accommodation of its passengers.

By virtue of this section, a rule of railroad company prohibiting passengers from going on platform while train in motion is given, when statute complied with, the force and effect of law of state: Shaw v. R. R., 143-312. That plaintiff was on the platform of the car will not prevent a recovery unless that was the proximate cause of the injury: Kearney v. R. R., 158-522; Bane v. R. R., 176-247. See, also, Wagner v. R. R., 147-315; Smith v. R. R., 147-448.

3510. Checking baggage; liability for loss. A check shall be affixed to every parcel of baggage when taken for transportation by the agent or servant of any railroad corporation, if there is a handle, loop or fixture so that the same can be attached upon the parcel or baggage so offered for transportation, and a duplicate thereof given to the passenger or person delivering the same on his behalf; and if such check be refused on demand, the corporation shall pay to such passenger the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered in a civil action; and further, no fare or toll shall be collected or received from such passenger, and if such passenger shall have paid his fare the same shall be refunded by the conductor in charge of the train, and on producing the check, if his baggage shall not be delivered to him, he may, by an action, recover the value of such trunk or baggage.

See section 3523.

3511. Cars and toilets to be kept clean. Every person or railroad company, whether incorporated or not, engaged in the regular business of carrying passengers on his or its railroad cars in this state, shall have such cars cleaned, brushed, dusted and the windows washed, if needed, at least once each day, and shall in each car, in which male and female passengers are carried, have therein a toilet-room for each sex, and have the same kept clean and decent. Any person or corporation engaged in the business aforesaid who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to give orders to his or its agent in charge of such cars to comply with the requirements of this section, shall forfeit twenty dollars for each day of such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any person suing therefor.

3512. Evidence of failure to order cleaning of cars; violation of orders misdemeanor. The willful or negligent refusal or the failure on the part of the conductor or manager of any passenger car named in the preceding section to comply with such section shall be received as evidence of failure or refusal of such person or railroad company to give the orders therein provided for. Moreover, such conductor or manager shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if he fail or refuse to carry out such orders of the persons or company mentioned in the preceding section.

1907, c. 474, s. 3.

ART. 11. CARRIAGE OF FREIGHT

3513. Freight rates to be posted. It shall be the duty of every railroad or other transportation company to keep posted in a conspicuous place in its depots or other places where freight is received for shipment a list of its charges for carrying freight, specifying name of place, class of freight and charge for carrying the same. Such charges shall not be increased without giving fifteen days notice. Any company represented by an agent who refuses to comply with this section shall be liable to a penalty of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 2630; Code, s. 1965; 1879, c. 182, s. 2.

See chapter Corporation Commission, s. 1074, where provision is made for the publication by the corporation commission of both freight and passenger rates.

Publication and posting of rates under interstate act, and effect of charging more than published rate: Hardware Co. v. R. R., 170-395; Peanut Co. v. R. R., 166-62. Railroad is entitled to rate fixed for freight, notwithstanding any agreement for a different rate: R. R. v. Latham, 176-417.

3514. No charge in excess of printed tariffs; refunding overcharge; penalty. No railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company engaged in the carriage of freight and no telegraph company or telephone company shall demand, collect or receive for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of property or transmission of messages more than the rates appearing in the printed tariff of such company in force at the time such service is rendered, or more than is allowed by law. In case of any overcharge, contrary to the provisions of this section, the person aggrieved may file with any agent of the company collecting or receiving greater compensation than the amount allowed a written demand, supported by a paid freight bill and an original bill of lading or duplicate thereof for refund of overcharge, and a maximum period of sixty days shall be allowed such company to pay claims filed under this section. Any company failing to refund such overcharge within the time allowed shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day and five dollars per day for each day's delay thereafter until said overcharge is paid, together with all costs incurred by the party aggrieved: Provided, the total forfeiture shall not exceed one hundred dollars.

OVERCHARGE. Legislature has power to impose regulations upon public-service corporations, and this section applies to all persons or corporations engaged in transportation of freight as common carriers: Efland v. R. R., 146-135. Presumption is that common carriers obey the law, and make and observe the lists of charges thus required to be made, while they continue current and unchanged: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434.

Carrying freight to different destination without direction of owner does not entitle the carrier to additional charge: Hall v. R. R., 173-108. The railroad is required to collect the fixed rate, and consignee cannot avoid payment by refusing to take goods: R. R. v. Iron Works, 172-188. Collecting full charge upon "short" delivery is an overcharge: Cottrell v. R. R., 141-383.

DEMAND FOR REFUND. This section does not apply to interstate commerce: Hardware Co. v. R. R., 170-395.

What is a sufficient demand: Tilley v. R. R., 172-363; Efland v. R. R., 146-129.

PENALTY. This section is constitutional: Iron Works v. R. R., 148-469; Morris v. Express Co., 146-167—and it must be strictly construed, Cox v. R. R., 148-459.

This is a valid regulation, and not an interference with interstate commerce: Hardware Co. v. R. R., 170-395; Supply Co. v. R. R., 166-82; Thurston v. R. R., 165-598.

Consignee, having paid the freight, is proper party to sue for penalty: Tilley v. R. R., 172-363. The amount of recovery on claim for damages does not affect liability for penalty, since this is given to enforce performance of carrier's duty: Tilley v. R. R., 172-363; Supply Co.

v. R. R., 166-82; Efand v. R. R., 146-129, 135. Action lies after payment to recover the overcharge: Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 106-207.

Evidence to prove overcharge: Scull v. R. R., 144-180; Pump Co. v. R. R., 138-300. Liability of connecting lines: Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 106-207; Pump Co. v. R. R., 138-300.

3515. Penalty for failure to receive and forward freight tendered. Agents or other officers of railroads and other transportation companies whose duty it is to receive freights shall receive all articles of the nature and kind received by such company for transportation whenever tendered at a regular depot, station, wharf or boat landing, and every loaded car tendered at a sidetrack, or any warehouse connected with the railroad by a siding, and shall forward the same by the route selected by the person tendering the freight under existing laws; and the transportation company represented by any person refusing to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for each day such company refuses to receive such shipment of freight, and all damages actually sustained by reason of the refusal to receive freight. If such loaded car be tendered at any siding or warehouse at which there is no agent, notice shall be given to an agent at the nearest regular station at which there is an agent that such car is loaded and ready for shipment.

TENDER AND REFUSAL. What is a sufficient tender to give rise to penalty: Olive v. R. R., 152-279; Cotton Mills v. R. R., 150-608; Garrison v. R. R., 150-575; Cox v. R. R., 148-459. There must be a tender, actual or constructive, on each day, and each day's refusal is a separate offense: Bane v. R. R., 171-328; Lumber Co. v. R. R., 152-70; Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Currie v. R. R., 135-535.

Words "whenever tendered" can only be qualified by supplying the ellipsis, "within the usual hours adopted by the public for the transaction of such business at the place where tender is made": Alsop v. Express Co., 104-278—and it does not depend upon a private regulation of the carrier, Ibid. The goods must be in a condition for shipment, and a railroad is not liable for failure to accept and transport unbaled hay: Tilley v. R. R., 162-37.

When goods are delivered to carrier for shipment, presumption is that they are received for shipment and not for storage, and burden is upon company to show that it received goods as a warehouseman and not as carrier: Berry v. R. R., 122-1002.

Failure to issue a bill of lading is a refusal to receive the goods: Tilley v. R. R., 162-37; Twitty v. R. R., 141-355.

The terms "a regular depot" or "station," in this section, contemplate fixed and established places on line of railroad or other transportation company equipped with suitable buildings and furnished with necessary officers and servants for the regular transaction of business, for the receipt and delivery of freights, and the comfort and convenience of passengers: Land v. R. R., 104-48. Stopping for mails or passengers, but not at regular station and not having an agent's office or regular agent in charge, would not constitute the place a regular depot or station: Ibid.; Kellogg v. R. R., 100-158.

LIABILITY FOR PENALTY. Being a penalty statute, it must be strictly construed: Cox v. R. R., 148-459.

In an action for damages caused by delay in shipment of goods it is immaterial whether action is brought in assumpsit, upon breach of contract, or in case for violation of a common-law duty, or on a tort based on a contract: Parker v. R. R., 131-335.

When article refused to be received and forwarded as freight is cattle, a separate penalty of $50 for each head may be recovered, and if the aggregate of penalties exceeds $200, superior court has jurisdiction: Carter v. R. R., 126-437. Each day's delay is a separate offense: Bane v. R. R., 171-328; Lumber Co. v. R. R., 152-70; Currie v. R. R., 135-535.

The shipper or owner is the party aggrieved and entitled to sue for the penalty: Lumber Co. v. R. R., 152-70; McRaekan v. R. R., 150-331; Reid v. R. R., 149-423. The defendant may set up as a defense that unavoidable conditions prevented transportation: Hardware Co. v. R. R., 150-703; Garrison v. R. R., 150-575—but an embargo against consignee will not be a defense, Ibid.; Cotton Mills v. R. R., 150-612.

In Reid v. R. R., 149-423, and s. c., 153-490, citing numerous cases, it was held that this was not an interference with interstate commerce, and that penalty applied to an interstate shipment. This was reversed in same case in 222 U. S., 424.

3516. Penalty for failure to transport within reasonable time. It shall be unlawful for any railroad company, steamboat company, express company or other transportation company doing business in this state to omit or neglect to transport within a reasonable time any goods, merchandise or other articles of value received by it for shipment and billed to or from any place in the state of North Carolina, unless otherwise agreed upon between the company and the shipper, or unless the same be burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed, or unless otherwise provided by the North Carolina corporation commission

Any company violating any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of fifteen dollars for the first day and two dollars for each succeeding day of such unlawful detention or neglect where such shipment is made in carload lots, and in less quantities there shall be a forfeiture in like manner of ten dollars for the first day and one dollar for each succeeding day, but the forfeiture shall not be collected for a period exceeding thirty days.

In reckoning what is a reasonable time for such transportation, it shall be considered that such transportation company has transported freight within a reasonable time if it has done so in the ordinary time required for transporting such articles of freight between the receiving and shipping stations. A delay of two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each hundred miles of distance or fraction thereof over which such freight is to be transported shall not be charged against the transportation company as unreasonable and shall be held to be prima facie reasonable, and a failure to transport within such time shall be held prima facie unreasonable. This section shall be construed to refer not only to delay in starting the freight from the station where it is received, but to require the delivery at its destination within the time specified: Provided, that if such delay shall be due to causes which could not in the exercise of ordinary care have been foreseen, and which were unavoidable, then upon the establishment of these facts to the satisfaction of the justice of the peace or jury trying the cause, the defendant transportation company shall be relieved from any penalty for delay in the transportation of freight, but it shall not be relieved from the costs of such action. In all actions to recover penalties against a transportation company under this section, the burden of proof shall be upon the transportation company to show where the delay, if any, occurred.

Rev., s. 2632; 1903, c. 590, s. 3; 1905, c. 545; 1907, cc. 217, 461.

History and purpose of statutes prescribing penalties for delay in transporting freight: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-398. Statute constitutional and valid: Owens v. Hines, 178-325; Wall v. R. R., 147-407; Davis v. R. R., 147-68; Rollins v. R. R., 146-153; Cardwell v. R. R., 146-218; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Walker v. R. R., 137-163; Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688; Branch v. R. R., 77-347. Penalty imposed is solely to enforce a common-law and admitted duty, and is within legislative authority: Stone v. R. R., 144-220. Penalty statutes must be strictly construed: Alexander v. R. R., 144-93; Cox v. R. R., 148-459. This section is declaratory of the common law, and does not exclude any defense as to delay in transportation that could properly be made thereunder: Stone v. R. R., 144-220. Rigid rule of common law relative to liability of common carriers should not be applied to a case involving violation of a penal statute: Whitehead v. R. R., 87-256. Rule of law that common carriers are bound as insurers does not extend to time of delivery: Boner v. Steamboat Co., 46-211.

Bill of lading is prima facie evidence of receipt of shipment, but not when entire shipment is under control of shipper: Peele v. R. R., 149-390—clause in bill of lading for shipment “at convenience of company'' will not excuse delay, Branch v. R. R., 88-573—a mismarking three packages is not excuse for failing to ship a fourth, Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396. Goods must be offered for shipment within a reasonable time: Shaw v. Express Co., 171-216.

Cases before adoption of section or amendments thereto: Walker v. R. R., 137-163; McGowan v. R. R., 95-417; Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688.

DUTY OF CARRIER AS TO SHIPMENT OF FREIGHT. It is duty of common carrier to provide sufficient means of transportation for all freight and passengers which its business naturally brings to it, and an unusual occasion by which a greater demand upon it is temporarily made will not relieve it of obligation if, by use of reasonable foresight, it could have been provided for: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414; Keeter v. R. R., 86-346; Branch v. R. R., 77-347.

The only duty assumed by a carrier of freight under a bill of lading is to transport articles to destination within a reasonable time if on its own line, and if not, to transport and deliver to next connecting carrier: Watson v. R. R., 145-236; McGowan v. R. R., 95-417.

The carrier's liability ceases when the goods arrive at their destination, notice is given to consignee, and a reasonable time for delivery; then the liability is that of warehouseman: Wall v. R. R., 147-407; Poythress v. R. R., 148-391; Bank v. R. R., 153-346—but delivery must be at a place reasonably accessible, Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 152-665.

ACTION FOR DELAY. An action for the penalty may be joined with an action for lost shipment: Robertson v. R. R., 148-323. Action for penalty is ex contractu: Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688; Doughty v. R. R., 78-22—in shipment of cattle, each animal involves a separate penalty, Carter v. R. R., 129-213.

The complaint should state the facts giving rise to the penalty: Stone v. R. R., 144-220. The questions of delay and amount of recovery are for the jury upon proper issues submitted: Ice Co. v. R. R., 147-61, 66; Hamrick v. R. R., 146-185; Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178; Wall v. R. R., 147-407; Alexander v. R. R., 144-93. Practice in justice's court in case of penalty against foreign corporation: Allen-Fleming Co. v. R. R., 145-37.

PARTY AGGRIEVED. This section allowing party aggrieved to recover a penalty for unreasonable delay in the transportation of goods is constitutional as a valid exercise of police power: Rollins v. R. R., 146-153; Cardwell v. R. R., 146-218.

Action should be brought in the name of the party aggrieved, and not in the name of the state: Robertson v. R. R., 148-323. The party aggrieved is one whose legal right is denied, and the penalty is enforceable independent of pecuniary injury: Summers v. R. R., 138-295.

In an ordinary delivery of goods to the carrier upon an open bill of lading it is considered a delivery to the consignee, and he is the only party to sue: Buggy Co. v. R. R., 152-119; Gaskins v. R. R., 151-18; Stone v. R. R., 144-220; Hunter v. Randolph, 128-91. But when the bill is in the name of the consignor, or other circumstances show that he retained control over the property, he is the proper party to sue: Trading Co. v. R. R., 178-175; Aydlett v. R. R., 172-47; Withrow v. R. R., 159-222; Elliott v. R. R., 155-235; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 149-261; Robertson v. R. R., 148-323; Davis v. R. R., 147-68; Cardwell v. R. R., 146-218; Rollins v. R. R., 146-153; Summers v. R. R., 138-295.

BURDEN OF PROOF. One suing a carrier for the penalty imposed has the burden of proving the issue of failure to transport within the ordinary time required: Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178; Hamrick v. R. R., 146-185; Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Alexander v. R. R., 144-93.

Burden of proof is upon defendant to show reasonableness in delays beyond ordinary or reasonable time prescribed: Stone v. R. R., 144-220—or an agreement excusing delay, Whitehead v. R. R., 87-256—or when shipped "subject to delay," the exercise of reasonable diligence to avoid delay, Parker v. R. R., 133-335—or that goods were destroyed without carrier's fault, Robertson v. R. R., 148-323.

Burden of proof in case of connecting carriers: Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Furn. Co. v. Express Co., 144-639.

"ORDINARY" AND "REASONABLE" TIME. This section simply changes the rule of evidence as to proof of "reasonable time": Stone v. R. R., 144-220. The words "ordinary time" mean the regular customary time within which, by the facilities in general use for the performance of the duty of carrying goods, the carriage should be completed: Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178. This section makes failure to transport within ordinary time prima facie unreasonable, and where transportation is not within ordinary time, carrier is liable for the penalty imposed, less two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each one hundred miles; but the two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at each intermediate point are not the standards by which reasonable time is measured: Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178.

The question of ordinary time and of reasonable time is for the jury, to be determined from the circumstances presented: Wall v. R. R., 147-407; Alexander v. R. R., 144-93; Robertson v. R. R., 148-323; Rollins v. R. R., 146-153. Fourteen days to transport goods 277 miles, unreasonable: Meredith v. R. R., 137-478—21 days for 58 miles, Watson v. R. R., 145-236—12 days for 25 miles, Rollins v. R. R., 146-153—14 days from Erie, Pa., to Lenoir, N. C., Furn. Co. v. Express Co., 144-639. Where delay is at initial point, the question of ordinary time for transportation is immaterial: Rollins v. R. R., 146-153.

“Five days” means five full running days exclusive of the day of delivery and the day of shipment: Branch v. R. R., 88-571 (number of days changed by amendment).

“INTERMEDIATE POINTS.” This section does not authorize carrier to hold freight at each intermediate point the extreme limit, without any necessity for detaining it at all: Meredith v. R. R., 137-478.

The 48 hours allowance to a carrier for delay at intermediate points is for change of cars if necessary, and for unloading and reloading: Watson v. R. R., 145-236.

A station of defendant's railroad which was terminus of two other railroads was not an intermediate point with reference to freight not transferred to the other lines, but shipped through on defendant's line to points beyond: Davis & Hooks v. R. R., 145-207.

Right of railroad to time allowed when not taken for purposes specified, discussed by Clark, C. J., in Davis v. R. R., 145-207; Watson v. R. R., 145-236. In less than carload shipments, point of transfer from one car to another is an “intermediate point”: Collection Agency v. R. R., 147-593.

A point at which a car is transferred from main line of defendant's system to a branch line is an “intermediate point”: Wall v. R. R., 147-407.

SUNDAY NOT EXCLUDED. Sundays and holidays are not excluded in ascertaining the number of days delay: Wall v. R. R., 147-407.

Where one of the two days next after the delivery of freight to a carrier for transportation was Sunday, such day was properly deducted in ascertaining whether the freight was transported within a reasonable time, not as Sunday, but as one of the two initial days of nonaction which carrier was entitled to before it was required to begin transportation: Collection Agency v. R. R., 147-593; Davis & Hooks v. R. R., 145-207; Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Keeter v. R. R., 86-346.

INTRASTATE SHIPMENTS. This section applies only to intrastate shipments: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414; Marble Co. v. R. R., 147-53. What is an intrastate shipment as between two points within the state: Ibid.; Ice Co. v. R. R., 147-61; Hockfield v. R. R., 150-419. See, also, Bagg v. R. R., 109-279.

In a shipment from one point in the state to another point in the state, through an adjoining state, the company is liable for loss through negligence, but not for the penalty: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414. A contract limiting the carrier's liability for negligence would not be valid under the Cummins amendment: Ibid.

POWER OF CORPORATION COMMISSION. This section gives the commission right to fix time allowed as free time for intermediate points and to make reasonable regulations as to time of transit: Summers v. R. R., 138-295. Corporation commission has no power to change time allowed as free time at point of shipment, nor to alter penalties fixed by this section: Ibid.

3517. Flume companies exercising right of eminent domain become common carriers. All flume companies availing themselves of the right of eminent domain under the provisions of the chapter Eminent Domain shall become public carriers of freight, for the purposes for which they are adapted, and shall be under the direction, control and supervision of the corporation commission in the same manner and for the same purposes as is by law provided for other public carriers of freight.

The provisions of this section are applicable in Duplin county to standard-gauge and narrow-gauge roads, logging or otherwise, more than five miles in length, in operation for five years prior to March 8, 1911. See 1911, c. 214.

3518. Freight charges to be at legal rates; penalty for failure to deliver to consignee on tender of same. All common carriers doing business in this state shall settle their freight charges according to the rate stipulated in the bill of lading, provided the rate therein stipulated be in conformity with the classifications and rates made and filed with the interstate commerce commission in case of shipments from without the state and with those of the corporation commission of this state in case of shipments wholly within this state, by which classifications and rates all consignees shall in all cases be entitled to settle freight charges with such carriers; and it shall be the duty of such common carriers to inform any consignee of the correct amount due for freight according to such classification and rates. Upon payment or tender of the amount due on any shipment which has arrived at its destination according to such classification and rates, such common carrier shall deliver the freight in question to the consignee. Any failure or refusal to comply with the provisions hereof shall subject such carrier so failing or refusing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved by any suit in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Rev., s. 2633; 1905. c. 330.

Section is constitutional: Iron Works v. R. R., 148-469; Harrill v. R. R., 144-532—and it must be strictly construed, Cox v. R. R., 148-459. Common carrier may demand prepayment of freight charges before shipment to any station, and from one shipper, though not required of others: Randall v. R. R., 108-612; Allen v. R. R., 100-397.

Where railroad corporation chartered by another state leases railroad chartered by this state, it is bound to observe and obey all laws of this state regulating business of transportation: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434.

Section imposes only one penalty for refusal of railroad company to deliver freight upon demand and tender of charges, and it is not cumulative upon more than one demand for same offense: Harrill v. R. R., 144-532.

It is no defense for defendant company to show its agent did not know correct amount of the charges because of failure to file its schedule of rates, under requirement of interstate commerce act, or that bill of lading showing such charges had not been received with goods at their destination, in usual course of its business: Harrill v. R. R., 144-532.

When plaintiff ordered one car, and company furnished two or more smaller cars, the rate must be same for shipment: Furniture Co. v. R. R., 162-138. Carrier is liable for loss caused by failure to furnish suitable car: Forrester v. R. R., 147-553.

BILL OF LADING. Bill of lading is both a contract and receipt; as a contract to carry and deliver goods upon terms and conditions specified in instrument, it cannot be explained by parol testimony so as to alter its legal effect, in absence of fraud or mistake, but as a receipt or acknowledgment of quantity, character or condition of articles, it may be explained, varied or contradicted like any other receipt: Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 121-514.

Bill of lading only determines conditions upon which freight is to be transported after it passes under its control, and it does not abrogate or annul any contract made by common carrier before it was issued in regard to receiving and forwarding freight: Hamilton v. R. R., 96-398.

Delivery of bill of lading is not necessary to make carrier liable as such for goods sent to it for shipment: Berry v. R. R., 122-1002; Smith v. R. R., 163-143; McConnell v. R. R., 163-504; Davis v. R. R., 172-209; McRary v. R. R., 174-563. Under Carmack amendment the carrier is required to issue a bill of lading, and the terms are uniform: Bryan v. R. R., 174-177. See, also, Uniform Bills of Lading, section 280 et seq.

While railroad has the right to demand the bill of lading, the burden is on railroad to show failure to deliver for want of bill of lading: Jeans v. R. R., 164-224. A bill of lading requiring order of third person must have proper order or indorsement for delivery of goods: Killingsworth v. R. R., 171-47. Upon a bill of lading "order notify," the consignor may claim the goods, if carried to wrong place: Hall v. R. R., 173-108.

Carrier is not liable on bill of lading issued when goods were not received: Bank v. R. R., 175-415; but see Bills of Lading Act, section 304.

STIPULATIONS AS TO VALUE. Bill of lading is prima facie evidence of actual value of property therein named: Gardner v. R. R., 127-293. Common carrier can make a valid agreement, fixing value of shipments, in case of loss by its negligence, if such agreements be reasonable or based on valuable consideration, and it must clearly appear that such was the intention of parties, and burden to prove it is on the carrier: Ibid.

Common carrier cannot by contract restrict liability for negligence, and limiting the value of property in a bill of lading will not prevent a recovery of the actual value: Gardner v. R. R., 127-293; Everett v. R. R., 138-68; Stringfield v. R. R., 152-125; Breeding Assn. v. R. R., 152-345; Kissenger v. Fitzgerald, 152-247; Harden v. R. R., 157-238; Stehli v. Express Co., 160-493; Kime v. R. R., 160-457; s. c., 156-451; Cooper v. R. R., 161-400; Horse Exchange v. R. R., 171-65; Pendergraph v. Express Co., 178-344; Mule Co. v. R. R., 160-215, overruling Jones v. R. R., 148-449, and Winslow v. R. R., 151-250.

The same rule was held to apply to interstate shipments in Mule Co. v. R. R., 160-215; Stehli v. Express Co., 160-493; but this was reversed in the first case in 238 U. S., 605, and the limitation recognized, Horse Exchange v. R. R., 171-65. The common-law rule was restored by Cummins amendment: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414.

Other stipulations held to be invalid: "Subject to delay," Parker v. R. R., 133-335—"at company's convenience," Whitehead v. R. R., 87-255—"goods numbered or marked with initials," McGowan v. R. R., 95-417. See Bills of Lading Act, section 303.

STIPULATIONS AS TO NOTICE, ETC. Stipulation that notice of claim should be presented within thirty days was held to be unreasonable and invalid: Watch Case Co. v. Express Co., 120-351; Cigar Co. v. Express Co., 120-348; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 128-280; Deans v. R. R., 152-171—but sixty days is reasonable, Ibid.—four months is reasonable, Forney v. R. R., 167-641; Culbreth v. R. R., 169-723.

When the notice is reasonable, the plaintiff must show compliance: Smith v. R. R., 174-111—but such notice may be waived upon proof of actual knowledge, Kime v. R. R., 153-398, 156-451, 160-464; Baldwin v. R. R., 170-12; Mewborn v. R. R., 170-205; Horse Exchange v. R. R., 171-65; Schloss v. R. R., 171-350; Reynolds v. Express Co., 172-487. The amount of loss need not be specified in the notice: McRary v. R. R., 174-563.

Under Cummins amendment to Carmack Act, in interstate shipments, notice is not necessary to a recovery when the loss occurs through negligence in transportation: Mann v. Transportation Co., 176-104, changing the rule given in Bryan v. R. R., 174-177; Taft v. R. R., 174-211; McRary v. R. R., 174-563.

Stipulation that any claim for damage shall be adjusted before removal from station, and claim therefor made in thirty days to "trace agent" of the carrier, is unreasonable: Capehart v. R. R., 81-438. But in shipment of livestock, a stipulation that written notice of claim for damage shall be given to carrier before property is removed is reasonable: Duvall v. R. R., 167-24.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES AND PENALTY. Action for penalty and for injury or loss of property may be joined; and payment of loss does not discharge the penalty: Stationery Co. v. Express Co., 152-342; Rabon v. R. R., 149-59; Albritton v. R. R., 148-485; Robertson v. R. R., 148-323.

When consignor and when consignee may sue as the party aggrieved: Myers v. R. R., 171-190; Bank v. R. R., 153-346; Buggy Co. v. R. R., 152-119; Gaskins v. R. R., 151-18; Box Factory v. R. R., 148-421.

The plaintiff makes out a prima facie case by proof of shipment and loss or injury, and the carrier must show that it is not liable: Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236; Hinkle v. R. R., 126-932.

The penalty is not an interference with interstate commerce: Jeans v. R. R., 164-224; Hockfield v. R. R., 150-419. Penalty cannot be enforced for nondelivery of an illegal shipment: Smith v. Express Co., 166-155.

3519. Charging unreasonable freight rates misdemeanor. If any railroad company doing business in this state shall charge, collect, demand or receive more than a fair and reasonable rate of toll or compensation for the transportation of freight of any description, or for the use and transportation of any railroad car upon its track or any of the branches thereof or upon any railroad in this state which has the right, license or permission to use, operate or control the same, it shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 3768; 1899, c. 164, s. 12.

See s. 3491 of this chapter for a similar provision relative to excessive passenger rates.

3520. Allowing or accepting rebates or pooling freights misdemeanor. If any person shall be concerned in pooling freights or shall directly or indirectly allow or accept rebates on freights he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not less than twelve months.

Rev., s. 3762; Code, s. 1968; 1879, c. 237, s. 2.

Section cited in Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-445.

3521. Partial charges for partial deliveries. Whenever any freight of any kind shall be received by any common carrier in this state to be delivered to any consignee in this state, and a portion of the same shall not have been received at the place of destination, it shall not be lawful for the carrier to demand any part of the charges for freight or transportation due for such portion of the shipment as shall not have reached the place of destination. The carrier shall be required to deliver to the consignee such portion of the consignment as shall have been received upon the payment or tender of the freight charges due upon such portion. But nothing in this section shall be construed as interfering with, or depriving a consignor, or other person having authority, of his rights of stoppage in transitu.

Rev., s. 2641; 1893, c. 495.

3522. Placing cars for loading. Whenever any person, firm or corporation intending to ship freight makes a written application to any railroad company for cars to be loaded in carload lots with any kind of freight embraced in the tariffs of the company, stating in the application the character of the freight, the number of cars wanted, the station, depot, siding, wharf or boat-landing on the line of the company whence the shipment is to be moved, and its final destination, the railroad company shall furnish the cars within four days from seven o'clock a.m., the day following such application. The application must be delivered to the agent of the railroad company at the station at or nearest the point of shipment. Any railroad company failing to furnish the cars named in such written application shall be subject to a penalty of five dollars per car per day for each car not furnished, to be recovered by the person, firm or corporation making application: Provided, that the railroad company, before furnishing the cars upon such application, may require the person, firm or corporation applying for the same to deposit five dollars for each car so demanded at the time the application is made, which deposit of five dollars for each car may be retained by the said railroad company as a forfeit for trackage in case the car or cars are not loaded within forty-eight hours after notice of the placement of car or cars in accordance with demand: Provided, that the corporation commission may excuse from the penalties imposed by this section independent lines not owned, operated, or controlled by any other line or system when trackage is less than one hundred miles.

Carrier is entitled to reasonable notice when cars are to be placed for shipments: Futch v. R. R., 178-282. A written application by a shipper to a carrier for a freight car to be furnished within two days is not a compliance with rule 9 of the corporation commission: McDuffie v. R. R., 145-397. Failure to make the application does not prevent liability for damages, but only for penalty: Bell v. R. R., 163-180.

A railroad company must furnish suitable cars for perishable goods accepted for shipment: McConnell v. R. R., 144-87; Forrester v. R. R., 147-553.

Damages for failure to furnish cars for interstate shipment may be recovered in state court: Smart v. R. R., 173-650.

3523. Baggage and freight to be carefully handled. All railroad and steamboat companies shall handle with care all baggage and freights placed with them for transportation, and they shall be liable in damages for any and all injuries to the baggage or freight of persons from whom they have collected fare or charged freight, while the same is under their control. Upon proof of injury to baggage or freight in the possession or under the control of any such company it shall be presumed that the injury was caused by the negligence of the company.

Rev., s. 2624; 1897, c. 46.

Common carrier cannot contract with passenger against loss of baggage by its negligence: Thomas v. R. R., 131-590; Cooper v. R. R., 161-400.

Baggage is delivered and accepted when it is taken to the place where it is the custom to receive baggage, and notice is given to the person apparently in charge for the carrier: Williams v. R. R., 155-260. Purchasing a ticket is not always necessary: Ibid.

While obligation of carrier of passengers is limited to ordinary baggage, yet if it knowingly permits passenger, either with or without payment of extra charge, to take articles as baggage which are not properly such, it will be liable for their loss or for damage to them, though it may have been without any fault: Trouser Co. v. R. R., 139-392. When baggage has arrived at destination and has been deposited at customary place of delivery and kept there sufficient time for passenger to claim and remove same, company's liability as common carrier ceases, and it is thereafter liable only as warehouseman, and bound to use of ordinary care: Ibid.

The carrier's liability as insurer for baggage applies only when it is carried on same train with owner, unless the failure to carry it on such train is due to the fault of carrier; otherwise the carrier is liable only as gratuitous bailee: Perry v. R. R., 171-158; Kindley v. R. R., 151-207.

3524. Claims for loss of or damage to goods; filing and adjustment. Every claim for loss of or damage to property while in possession of a common carrier, including every express company, firm or corporation doing an express business within the state, shall be adjusted and paid within ninety days in case of shipments wholly within the state, and within four months in case of shipments from without the state, after the filing of such claim with the agent of such carrier at the point of destination of such shipment, or point of delivery to another common carrier, by the consignee, or at the point of origin by the consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the shipment: Provided, that no such claim shall be filed until after the arrival of the shipment, or some part thereof, at the point of destination, or until after the lapse of a reasonable time for the arrival thereof.

In every case such common carrier shall be liable for the amount of such loss or damage, together with interest thereon from the date of the filing of the claim therefor until the payment thereof. Failure to adjust and pay such claim within the periods respectively herein prescribed shall subject each common carrier so failing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every such failure, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved (or consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the property at the time of shipment and at the time of suit, and is, therefore, the party aggrieved), in any court of competent jurisdiction: Provided, that unless such consignee or consignor recover in such action the full amount claimed, no penalty shall be recovered, but only the actual amount of the loss or damage, with interest as aforesaid; and that no penalty shall be recoverable under the provisions of this section where claims have been filed by both the consignor and consignee, unless the time herein provided has elapsed after the withdrawal of one of the claims.

Causes of action for the recovery of the possession of the property shipped, for loss or damage thereto, and for the penalties herein provided for, may be united in the same complaint.

Rev., s. 2634; 1907, c. 983; 1911, c. 139.

FILING CLAIM. The purpose is to give the carrier notice of loss: Hinkle v. R. R., 126-932. Demand for damages must be in writing: Thompson v. Express Co., 147-343—and must be filed within the time required, if that is reasonable, Phillips v. R. R., 172-86; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 170-241; Currie v. R. R., 156-432. It is sufficient if notice of claim is given to carrier causing loss: Aydlett v. R. R., 172-47—or to initial carrier, Gillikin v. R. R., 174-137. Burden is on defendant to show that claim was not filed or that it was excessive: Rabon v. R. R., 149-59.

PROOF OF LOSS. By proving delivery to carrier for transportation and a loss or injury of the property the owner makes a prima facie case of negligence: Osborne v. R. R., 175-594; Everett v. R. R., 138-68; Hinkle v. R. R., 126-932; Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236—burden is then upon the carrier to show that liability does not exist, Ibid.; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 121-514.

CONNECTING CARRIERS. Where carrier accepts goods for transportation, in absence of a special contract, it assumes duty of safely carrying, within a reasonable time, the goods to the end of its line, and delivering them in like condition to connecting carrier: Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Knott v. R. R., 98-73; Lindley v. R. R., 88-547.

Among connecting lines of railway, that one in whose hands goods are found damaged is presumed to have caused the damage, and burden is upon it to rebut presumption: Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 128-280; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 121-514; Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Everett v. R. R., 138-68; Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236; Boss v. R. R., 156-70. Upon proof that any carrier on the route received the goods in good condition, the burden is upon such carrier to show delivery in same condition to the next carrier or to consignee: Lyon v. R. R., 165-143; Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236; Beville v. R. R., 159-227. Liability of initial and connecting carriers for failure to furnish suitable cars: Lucas v. R. R., 165-264; Kime v. R. R., 160-457.

What is sufficient evidence in case of connecting carriers, see Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 128-280; Knott v. R. R., 98-73.

Where two or more common carriers unite in forming an association creating a through line for transportation of freight, with through bills of lading, freight charges to be divided according to the respective mileage of the companies, they become copartnership and each line is liable for any damage resulting on any part of through line, notwithstanding a provision in the bill of lading that each company shall be liable only for loss or damage occurring on its own line: Rocky Mount Mills v. R. R., 119-693.

Liability of initial and connecting carriers in interstate shipments: Trading Co. v. R. R., 178-175; Paper Box Co. v. R. R., 177-351; Price v. R. R., 173-394; Aydlett v. R. R., 172-47; Mewborn v. R. R., 170-205; Brinson v. R. R., 169-425.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES AND PENALTY. Under usual conditions, the owner must receive the goods in the damaged condition, unless it amounts to a total loss, and hold the carrier liable for the loss: Wilkins v. R. R., 160-54. The penalty is not dependent upon the value of property lost: Sumrell v. R. R., 152-269.

Penalty may be recovered by the real owner, though shipment was in name of his agent: Horton v. R. R., 170-383. The assignee of the consignee may be entitled to damages for loss, but not to the penalty: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 170-241.

Penalty under this section cannot apply to interstate shipments: Morphis v. Express Co., 167-139; Jeans v. R. R., 164-224.

3525. Existing remedies to continue. The preceding section shall not deprive any consignee of any rights or remedies now existing against common carriers in regard to freight charges or claims for loss or damage to freight, but shall be deemed and held as creating an additional liability upon such common carriers.

Rev., s. 2635; 1905, c. 330, s. 5.

Common-law remedies against common carriers exist in addition to that given in sections 3524, 3516: Parker v. R. R., 133-335; Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Bell v. R. R., 163-180.

Person who has sustained injuries by reason of failure of railroad company to provide proper means of transportation or operate its trains as required by statute may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of statute: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414; Peanut Co. v. R. R., 155-148.

Liability of carrier as insurer continues unless restricted by special contract: McConnell v. R. R., 163-504. Action for damages for loss of potatoes by freezing: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414—for injury to shipment of livestock, Teeter v. Express Co., 172-616—for failure to provide proper means for loading and unloading livestock, Meeder v. R. R., 173-70—for delay in shipment, Bell v. R. R., 163-180; Branch v. R. R., 88-570; Foard v. R. R., 53-235.

Consignee cannot refuse to accept goods and sue for value, unless there is a total loss: Whittington v. R. R., 172-501; Holloman v. R. R., 172-372; Wilkins v. R. R., 160-54.

Liability of carrier changes to that of warehouseman when goods arrive, notice is given to consignee, and a reasonable time allowed to take them away: Poythress v. R. R., 148-391.

3526. Carrier's right against prior carrier. Any common carrier, upon complying with the provisions of the two preceding sections, shall have all the rights and remedies herein provided for against a common carrier from which it receives the freight in question.

Rev., s. 2636; 1905, c. 330, s. 3.

3527. Regulation of demurrage. No railroad or other transportation company doing business in the state shall make any charge on account of demurrage while a car, whether the same be a refrigerator car or not, is being loaded for shipment, until it has remained at the place of loading for forty-eight hours from the time it has been so placed; but the corporation commission may change this provision, if it considers it unreasonable, under the power vested in it under the chapter Corporation Commission, to make regulations as to demurrage and the loading of cars.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 55.

3528. Shipment of livestock on Scuppernong river regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor. If any transportation company or common carrier shall receive livestock for shipment at any of the landings or shipping points on Scuppernong river, Columbia excepted, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, or shall during the time any livestock may be held for shipment at any landing or shipping point on such river, Columbia excepted, fail to keep the same in a covered pound or inclosure, supplied with necessary food and drinking water, and at all times in full view of the public, such transportation company, common carrier, or the agent of either, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3675; 1903, c. 283.

See State v. R. R., 141-846.

3529. Carload shipments of watermelons regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor. It shall be the duty of all common carriers to furnish the weights of all carload shipments of watermelons originating within the state to the shippers thereof within forty-eight hours after receipt of the same. Any common carrier violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction be fined ten dollars for each offense.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 68.

3530. Express companies to settle promptly for cash-on-delivery shipments; penalty. Every express company which shall fail to make settlement with the consignor of a cash-on-delivery shipment, either by payment of the moneys stipulated to be collected upon the delivery of the articles so shipped or by the return to such consignor of the article so shipped, within twenty days after demand made by the consignor and payment or tender of payment by him of the lawful charges for transportation, shall forfeit and pay to such consignor a penalty of twenty-five dollars, where the value of the shipment is twenty-five dollars or less, and, where the value of the shipment is over twenty-five dollars, a penalty equal to the value of the shipment; the penalty not to exceed fifty dollars in any case: Provided, no penalty shall be collectible where the shipments, through no act of negligence of the company, is burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed: Provided further, that the penalties here named shall not be in derogation of any right the consignor may now have to recover of the company damages for the loss of any cash-on-delivery shipment or for negligent delay in handling the same.

3531. Failure to place name on produce shipped misdemeanor. Any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale or consignment any barrel, crate, box, case, package or other receptacle containing any berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce of any kind whatsoever, to be shipped to any point within or without the state of North Carolina, without the true name of the grower or packer either written, printed, stamped or otherwise placed thereon in distinct and legible characters, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to railroads, express companies and other transportation companies selling or offering for sale, for transportation or storage charges or any other charges accruing to such railroads, express companies or other transportation companies, any barrel, crate, box, case, package, or other receptacle containing berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce.

3532. Unclaimed freight to be sold. Every railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company which shall have had unclaimed freight, not perishable, in its possession for a period of six months, may proceed to sell the same at public auction, and out of the proceeds may retain the charges of transportation and storage of such freight and the expenses of the advertisement and sale thereof; but no such sale shall be made until the expiration of four weeks from the first publication of notice of such sale in a state paper and also in a newspaper published at or nearest the place at which such freight was directed to be left, and also at the place where such sale is to take place. The expenses incurred for advertising shall be a lien upon such freight in a ratable proportion according to the value of each article, package or parcel, if more than one.

Rev., s. 2637; Code, s. 1985; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 48.

Since this remedy is provided, the carrier may charge storage only for such time as may be reasonably necessary to proceed under this section: R. R. v. Iron Works, 172-188. It applies to interstate and intrastate shipments: Ibid. Storage charges are allowed for service rendered in taking care of the goods, and carrier may retain the goods to enforce payment: Holloman v. R. R., 172-372.

3533. Sale of unclaimed perishable freight. In case such unclaimed freight shall in its nature be perishable, then the same may be sold as soon as it can be, on giving the notice required in the preceding section, after its receipt at the place where it was directed to be left.

Rev., s. 2638; Code, s. 1986; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 49.

3534. Funds from unclaimed freight to be paid to state university. Such railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company shall make an entry of the balance of the proceeds of the sale, if any, of each parcel of freight owned by or consigned to the same person, as near as can be ascertained, and at any time within five years thereafter shall refund any surplus so retained to the owner of such freight, his heirs or assigns, on satisfactory proof of such ownership; if no person shall claim the surplus within five years, such surplus shall be paid to the state university.

Rev., s. 2639; Code, s. 1987; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 50.

ART. 12. STREET AND INTERURBAN RAILWAYS

3535. May build and maintain water-power plants. Where any street or interurban railway company owns lands on one or both sides of a stream which can be used in developing a water-power, and desires to erect and maintain a water-power plant for the purpose of generating electricity to be used in operating such railway, then such railway company shall have the power to erect, maintain and operate such water-power plant for such purpose, and may build, maintain and operate any and all dams, ponds, canals, bridges, ferries, aqueducts, flumes, water-ways, wasteways, reservoirs, and all works, machinery, houses, shops and buildings necessary for the use and operation of a water-power plant for generating electricity. Whenever such company shall not own the entire water-front, or all of the lands, water rights, or other easements necessary to be used in fully developing such water-power, it shall have the power to acquire any other lands, water rights or easements which may be needed to fully develop such water-power; and if the company cannot agree with the owners for the purchase of such lands, water rights or other easements, the same may be condemned by the railway company for that purpose, and the procedure shall be the same as that provided for the condemnation of lands for railroads: Provided, that no dwelling-house, yard, garden, orchard or burial-ground shall be condemned for such purpose: Provided further, that such company shall not have the power to condemn any water-power, right or property of any person, firm or corporation engaged in the actual service of the general public, where such power, right or property is being used or held to be used or to be developed for use in connection with or in addition to any power actually used by such person, firm or corporation serving the general public. Any surplus electric power generated by any plant erected under the provisions of this section may be sold by such company upon reasonable terms.

For construction of section, see R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; R. R. v. Light and Power Co., 169-471; s. c., 171-314.

3536. Separate accommodations for different races; failure to provide misdemeanor. All street, interurban and suburban railway companies, engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire in the state of North Carolina, shall provide and set apart so much of the front portion of each car operated by them as shall be necessary, for occupation by the white passengers therein, and shall likewise provide and set apart so much of the rear part of such car as shall be necessary, for occupation by the colored passengers therein, and shall require as far as practicable the white and colored passengers to occupy the respective parts of such car so set apart for each of them. The provisions of this section shall not apply to nurses or attendants of children or of the sick or infirm of a different race, while in attendance upon such children or such sick or infirm persons. Any officer, agent or other employee of any street railway company who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

3537. Passengers to take certain seats; violation of requirement misdemeanor. Any white person entering a street-car for the purpose of becoming a passenger therein shall, if necessary to carry out the purposes of the preceding section, occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space in the aisle nearest the front of the car, and any colored person entering such car for a like purpose shall occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space in the aisle nearest the rear end of the car: Provided, however, that no contiguous seats on the same bench shall be occupied by white and colored passengers at the same time unless or until all of the other seats in the car shall be occupied. Any person willfully violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section.

3538. No liability for mistake in assigning passenger to wrong seat. No street, suburban or interurban railway company, its agents, servants or employees, shall be liable to any person on account of any mistake in the designation of any passenger to a seat or part of a car set apart for passengers of the other race.

1907, c. 850, s. 8.

3539. Misconduct on car; riding on front platform misdemeanor. It shall be unlawful for any passenger to expectorate upon the floor or any other part of any street-car, or to use, while thereon, any loud, profane or indecent language, or to make any insulting or disparaging remark to or about any other passenger or person thereon within his or her hearing. It shall likewise be unlawful for any passenger to stand willfully upon the front platform, fender, bumper, running-board or steps of such car while the same is in motion, whether such passenger has or has not paid the usual fare for riding on such car. Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section.

3540. Passenger riding on rear platform assumes risk; copies of section to be posted. Any passenger who shall ride upon the rear platform of any street-car in motion, when there is room for such passenger either to sit or stand inside the car, shall be deemed to have assumed all the risks of being injured while so riding, as the result of any act of the street-car company: Provided, that such company shall make it appear that such passenger would not have been injured had he been on the inside of said car: Provided further, that before any street, interurban or suburban railway shall be allowed to invoke the provisions of this section it shall have copies thereof printed and framed and one copy hung in each end of all cars operated on its lines, and shall further have a placard hung in a conspicuous place on the rear of such cars, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on this platform," and a placard hung on each side of open cars in a conspicuous place, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on the running-board."

1907, c. 850, s. 4.

3541. Street-cars to have vestibule fronts; failure to provide them misdemeanor. All street passenger railway companies shall use vestibule fronts, of frontage not less than four feet, on all passenger cars run by them on their lines during the latter half of the month of November and during the months of December, January, February and March of each year: Provided, that such companies shall not be required to close the sides of the vestibules: Provided further, that such companies may use cars without vestibule fronts in cases of temporary emergency in suitable weather, not to exceed four days in any one month within the period herein prescribed for the use of vestibule fronts. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure.

Rev., ss. 2615, 3800; 1901, c. 743.

Street cars must use every reasonable precaution to protect passengers in getting on and off the cars: Wood v. Public Corp., 174-697. A violation of this section does not render the carrier liable unless some causal connection with the injury is shown: Rich v. Electric Co., 152-689.

3542. Street-cars to have fenders; failure to provide them misdemeanor. All street passenger railway companies shall use practical fenders in front of all passenger cars run by them. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure.

Rev., ss. 2616, 3801; 1901, c. 743, s. 2.

Failure to provide fenders, as required by this section, is negligence: Smith v. Electric Co., 173-489; Ingle v. Power Co., 172-751; Smith v. R. R., 162-30; Henderson v. Traction Co., 132-779.

In an action for killing of dog by street car, it is not competent to show condition of fenders on particular cars other than the one by which dog was killed, it being shown that fenders were different on different cars: Moore v. Electric Co., 136-554.

A statute which requires all street railway companies to put fenders in front of cars and provides that corporation commission may "make exemptions" does not authorize an exemption of all street railway companies, as this amounts to a suspension of statute: Henderson v. Traction Co., 132-779.

The office of register of deeds is constitutional, but the duties are statutory, and the legislature may, within reasonable limits, change the duties and diminish the emoluments of the office, if the public welfare requires it: Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322.

Rev., s. 301; Code, s. 3648; 1868, c. 35, s. 3; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5; 1899, c. 54, s. 52.

For actions on official bonds generally, see sections 354 and 356.

3546. Vacancy in office. When a vacancy occurs from any cause in the office of register of deeds, the board of county commissioners shall fill such vacancy by the appointment of a successor for the unexpired term, who shall qualify and give bond as required by law.

Rev., s. 2651; Code, s. 3649; 1868, c. 35, s. 4.

See, also, section 1297.

3547. Deputies may be appointed. The registers of deeds of the several counties in this state are hereby authorized and empowered to appoint deputies, whose acts as such shall be valid and for which the registers of deeds shall officially be responsible. They shall file the certificate of the appointment of the deputy in the office of the clerk of the superior court, who shall record the same.

1909, c. 628, s. 1.

For special acts for the appointment of deputies in certain counties, see Dare, 1907, c. 393; Durham, 1909, c. 91; Person, 1909, c. 546.

3548. Office at courthouse. The register shall keep his office at the courthouse unless the board of county commissioners shall deem it impracticable.

Rev., s. 2653; Code, s. 3650; 1868, c. 35, s. 5.

3549. Attendance at office. The board of county commissioners may fix by order, to be entered on their records, what days of each week, and at what hours of each day, the register of deeds shall attend at his office in person or by deputy, and he shall give his attendance accordingly.

Rev., s. 2654; Code, s. 3651; 1868, c. 35, s. 6.

3550. Official seal. The office of register of deeds for every county in the state shall have and use an official seal, which seal shall be provided by the county commissioners of the several counties, and shall be of the same size and design as the seals now used by the clerk of the superior court, with the words "Office of Register of Deeds," the name of the county and the letters "North Carolina" surrounding the figures.

Rev., s. 2649; 1893, c. 119, s. 1.

ART. 2. THE DUTIES

3551. Apply to clerk for instruments for registration. The register of deeds shall at least once a week apply to the clerk of the superior court of his county for all instruments of writing admitted to probate, and then remaining in the office of such clerk for registration, and also for all fees for registration due thereon; which fees the clerk of the superior court shall receive for the register.

Rev., s. 2655; Code, s. 3652; 1868, c. 35, s. 7.

3552. Failure of clerk to deliver papers. In case the clerk fails to deliver such instruments of writing, and pay over such fees as are prescribed in the preceding section, on application of the register, the clerk shall forfeit and pay to the register one hundred dollars for every such failure; for which sum judgment may be entered at any time by the judge of the superior court, on motion in behalf of the register, on a notice of ten days thereof to the clerk.

Rev., s. 2656; Code, s. 3653; 1868, c. 35, s. 8.

3553. Registration of instruments. The register of deeds shall register all instruments in writing delivered to him for registration within twenty days after such delivery, except mortgages and deeds in trust, or other instruments made to secure the payment of money, which he shall register forthwith after delivery to him. He shall indorse on each deed in trust and mortgage the day on which it is presented to him for registration, and such indorsement shall be entered on his books and form a part of the registration, and he shall register such deeds in trust and mortgages in the order of time in which they are presented to him.

Rev., s. 2658; Code, s. 3654; R. C. c. 37, s. 23; 1868, c. 35, s. 9.

As to registration of deeds, contracts to convey, and leases of land, see sections 3308, 3309—of mortgages and deeds of trust, see section 3311—of conditional sales of personal property, see section 3312—of conditional sales of railroad property, see section 3313—of marriage settlements and other marriage contracts, see section 3314—of deeds of gift, see section 3315—of powers of attorney, see section 3317—of certified copies of any deed or writing which is required or allowed to be registered, see section 3319. For registration of deeds as notice to the world, see annotations under section 3309.

The reason for the enactment of this section was the insufficiency of the old law: Moore v. Ragland, 74-348.

A deed may be registered at any time after probate and order made for registration: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13—there being no limitation as to time: Hallyburton v. Slagle, 130-484; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

Certificates of registration made by registers of deeds are prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13.

Registration hereunder means a registration complete and perfect, so that it may serve all the purposes of the law in protecting the rights of parties directly interested and give notice truly to the public: Kivett v. Young, 106-570. A register of deeds has the power and it is his duty to correct any error he may have made in the registration of a deed, either by inserting any omitted matter or by a reregistration of the entire instrument: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

The filing of a deed for registration has the effect of registration: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Davis v. Whitaker, 114-280; Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-428, and cases cited on page 429. See below as to indexing. A paper is filed for registration when it is delivered to the register and received by him for that purpose: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668—but a delivery to the register outside of his office is not sufficient until he returns and makes proper entry in his office, McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694. Register need not mark deed filed for registration until his fees are paid: Cunninggim v. Peterson, 109-33—and where he holds instrument until such fees are paid and on the day they are paid marks it filed as of the day it was first handed to him, it only operates as notice from the day the fees were paid and the endorsement actually made, Ibid. Such endorsement is not essential to registration, and when made is not conclusive but only prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited: Ibid.

Where register received a deed of trust and, without noting the time of filing thereon, forthwith began registering same, and two hours afterward an execution was levied upon the property conveyed: Held, that the time of filing could be proved by parol, and it had priority over the levy: Metts v. Bright, 20-311.

Where deed was delivered to register at 10 o'clock a. m., December 20, 1866, and was actually registered January 28, 1867, and the summons for the garnishee was left at his residence at 8 o'clock a. m., December 20, 1866, but not actually received by him until the evening of that day: Held, that the lien under the deed had priority: Parker v. Scott, 64-118.

Indexing and cross-indexing are essential to the registration of a deed: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Ely v. Norman, 175-294, overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114-280, that filing for registration is sufficient. Register is liable for failure to index and cross-index an instrument: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609.

ERRORS IN REGISTRATION HELD NOT TO INVALIDATE. Registration in which names of the parties were wrongly recorded in premises and in description of property, but otherwise regular, was held good: Royster v. Lane, 118-156. A registry is not void because of clerical mistake made in transcribing, which does not affect the sense and the provision as to amount secured, description of property, etc., or obscure the meaning of the instrument: Ibid.

Where, in the registration, no signatures to the instrument were copied by the register, but names of the parties appeared in the body of the instrument and in the acknowledgment as copied, registration is valid: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47.

Where register failed to copy the seal attached to the signature to the instrument it does not invalidate the registry, if the fact that a seal was affixed appears in the body thereof: Broadwell v. Morgan, 142-475; Heath v. Cotton Mills, 115-202; Power Co. v. Power Co., 168-219; Edwards v. Supply Co., 150-173.

3554. Certify and register copies. When a deed, mortgage, or other conveyance conveying real estate situate in two or more counties is presented for registration duly probated and a copy thereof is presented with the same, the register shall compare the copy with the original, and if it be a true copy thereof he shall certify the same, and thereupon the register shall endorse the original deed or conveyance as duly registered in his county, designating the book in which the same is registered, and deliver the original deed to the party entitled thereto and register the same from the certified copy thereof to be retained by him for that purpose.

3555. Liability for failure to register. In case of his failure to register any deed or other instrument within the time and in the manner required by the preceding section, the register shall be liable, in an action on his official bond, to the party injured by such delay.

Rev., s. 2659; Code, s. 3660; 1868, c. 35, s. 10.

For bond and liabilities thereon, see section 3545. The registration of a deed is presumed to be correct: Cochran v. Improvement Co., 127-386. Liability for wrongly recording amount in a mortgage: Kivett v. Young, 106-567.

Under section 461, an action for a penalty against a register of deeds and the surety on his official bond abates by the death of the officer: Wallace v. McPherson, 139-297.

3556. Papers filed alphabetically. The register shall keep in files alphabetically labeled all original instruments delivered to him for registration, and on application for such originals by any person entitled to their custody, he shall deliver the same.

Rev., s. 2660; Code, s. 3661; 1868, c. 35, s. 11.

3557. Transcribe and index books. The board of county commissioners, when they deem it necessary, may direct the register of deeds to transcribe and index such of the books in the register's office as from decay or other cause may require to be transcribed and indexed. They may allow him such compensation at the expense of the county for this work as they think just. The books when so transcribed and approved by the board shall be public records as the original books, and copies therefrom may be certified accordingly.

Rev., s. 2661; Code, s. 3662; 1868, c. 35, s. 12.

3558. Number of survey in grants registered. The register of deeds in each county in this state, when grants have been registered without the number of tract or survey, shall place in the registration of the grants the number of the tract or survey, when the same shall be furnished him by the grantee or other person; and in registering any grant he shall register the number of the tract or survey.

Rev., s. 2662; 1889, c. 522, s. 2.

For requirement to register surveys, see State Lands, s. 7570.

3559. Certificate of survey registered. It shall be the duty of the register of deeds in each county, when any grant is presented for registration with a certificate of survey attached, to register such certificate of survey, together with all indorsements thereon, together with said grant, and a record of any certificate of survey so made shall be read in evidence in any action or proceeding: Provided, the failure to register such certificate of survey shall not invalidate the registration of the grant.

Rev., s. 2663; 1905, c. 243.

3560. General index kept. The board of county commissioners, at the expense of the county, shall cause to be made and consolidated into one book a general index of all the deeds and other documents in the register's office, and the register shall afterwards keep up such index without any additional compensation.

Rev., s. 2664; Code, s. 3663; 1868, c. 35, s. 13.

3561. Index and cross-index of registered instruments. The register of deeds shall provide and keep in his office full and complete alphabetical indexes of the names of the parties to all liens, grants, deeds, mortgages, bonds and other instruments of writing required or authorized to be registered; such indexes to be kept in well-bound books, and shall state in full the names of all the parties, whether grantors, grantees, vendors, vendees, obligors or obligees, and shall be indexed and cross-indexed, within twenty-four hours after registering any instrument, so as to show the name of each party under the appropriate letter of the alphabet; and reference shall be made, opposite each name, to the page, title or number of the book in which is registered any instrument. A violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2665, 3600; Code, s. 3664; 1899, c. 501; 1876-7, c. 93, s. 1.

The register is liable on his bond for failure to index and cross-index an instrument: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; Daniel v. Grizzard, 117-105—but such failure must be the proximate cause of loss to the claimant: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609.

Section construed in Davis v. Whitaker, 114-280, which has been overruled in Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609. Surveys to be indexed, see section 7570.

3562. Clerk to board of commissioners. The register of deeds is ex officio clerk of the board of county commissioners, and as such shall perform the duties imposed by law or by order of the said board.

Rev., s. 2666; Code, s. 3656; 1868, c. 35, s. 15; Const., Art. VII, s. 2.

For duty in regard to official reports, see section 957. For general duty as clerk of board, see sections 1309-1311.

This is not a separate office, but a part of the duties of the register: State v. George, 157-602. See sections 7930-7932.

3563. Notices to certain officers served by mail. The register of deeds shall serve by mail all notices issued by the board of county commissioners to justices of the peace, road overseers and school committeemen, in lieu of the service by the sheriff, and shall receive as his compensation his actual expenses for mailing, and nothing more.

Rev., s. 2667; Code, s. 3657; 1879, c. 328, ss. 1, 3.

3564. Make out tax lists. The register shall make out the tax lists as directed by law, under the supervision of the board of county commissioners.

Rev., s. 2668; Code, s. 3658; 1868, c. 35, s. 16.

See sections 7930-7932.

3565. Keep list of statutes authorizing special tax. The register of deeds in each county, or the auditor in those counties having county auditors, must keep on file and subject to inspection by the public a list of the statutes authorizing a special tax levy in their respective counties, showing the year in which such special tax levy was authorized by the general assembly of North Carolina and the chapter of the public laws containing the authority for such special levy. Upon payment of a fee of one dollar the register of deeds or county auditor shall furnish to any one making application therefor a certified copy of said list of statutes.

3566. Duties unperformed at expiration of term. Whenever, upon the termination for any cause of the term of office of the register of deeds, it appears that he has failed to perform any of the duties of his office, the board of commissioners shall cause the same to be performed by another person or the successor of any such defaulting register. Such person or successor shall receive for his compensation the fees allowed for such services, and if any portion of the compensation has been paid to such defaulting register, the same may be recovered by the board of county commissioners, by suit on his official bond, for the benefit of the county or person injured thereby.

Rev., s. 2669; Code, s. 3655; 1868, c. 35, s. 14.

3567. Register of deeds failing to discharge duties; penalty. If any register of deeds fails to perform any of the duties imposed or authorized by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and besides other punishments at the discretion of the court, he shall be removed from office.

Rev., s. 3599; Code, s. 3659; 1868, c. 35, s. 18.

Register is not liable under this section for issuing marriage license when one of parties is under eighteen: State v. Snuggs, 85-541. Compare Holt v. McLean, 75-347.

For duty of register of deeds to issue license to threshers of wheat, to require reports therefrom, and to make reports to commissioner of agriculture, see Commerce and Business in the State, Art. 2.

Failure to perform duty a misdemeanor, section 4384. Entry-taker ex officio, section 7553. Duty as to strays, section 3951 et seq. Duties in regard to marriage license, sections 2503-2505. Duty in regard to mortgage given by clerk of superior court in lieu of bond, section 349.

CHAPTER 69

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES

- 3568. Trustees may be appointed and removed.
- 3569. Trustees may hold property.
- 3570. Title to lands vested in trustees, or in societies.
- 3571. Trustees may convey property.
- 3572. House on vacant land vests title.

3568. Trustees may be appointed and removed. The conference, synod, convention or other ecclesiastical body representing any church or religious denomination within the state, as also the religious societies and congregations within the state, may from time to time and at any time appoint in such manner as such body, society or congregation may deem proper, a suitable number of persons as trustees for such church, denomination, religious society, or congregation. The body appointing may remove such trustees or any of them, and fill all vacancies caused by death or otherwise.

Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 2; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76.

The provisions of this chapter apply only to church property and not to property held in trust for a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of colored race": Thornton v. Harris, 140-498—does not apply to educational institutions, only to religious societies, Allen v. Baskerville, 123-126. There is no provision in our laws for donations to be employed in any general system of diffusing knowledge of Christianity throughout the earth: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26.

A religious society may appoint trustees and remove them at will, or appoint additional trustees: Conference v. Allen, 156-524; Nash v. Sutton, 117-231.

An individual member or a duly appointed trustee of a religious society may maintain an action for removal of faithless trustees who have deprived society of property held by them in trust: Nash v. Sutton, 117-231. Judgment may be so framed as to appoint plaintiff trustee instead of trustees so removed, and to direct conveyance of legal title of property to him to be held in trust for use and benefit of society and to convey it as such society may direct: Ibid. It is a misjoinder for a trustee of religious society in a special proceeding to demand judgment that certain other trustees should be removed, and that a lost deed should be set up and a trust therein declared: Ibid.

CONTESTS BETWEEN RIVAL BOARDS AND CONGREGATIONS. The place of meeting for worship and for transaction of business is not material, when congregation is not required by its laws to meet in any particular house or place, except that members thereof shall reside, and meetings thereof shall be held, in the city of Raleigh: Perry v. Tupper, 74-722.

In a contest between two committees, each claiming to be the rightful board of trustees, to hold same title in trust for same beneficial owner, title does not come in controversy: Thornton v. Harris, 140-498.

What amounts to voluntary withdrawal of members from religious association is question of law: Perry v. Tupper, 74-722.

Contests between churches of somewhat similar names over question of ownership of devise or conveyance: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612; Tilley v. Ellis, 119-233; Simmons v. Allison, 118-763.

Devise to a diocese, which was divided, is also divided: Diocese v. Diocese, 102-442.

3569. Trustees may hold property. The trustees and their successors have power to receive donations, and to purchase, take and hold property, real and personal, in trust for such church or denomination, religious society or congregation; and they may sue or be sued in all proper actions, for or on account of the donations and property so held or claimed by them, and for and on account of any matters relating thereto. They shall be accountable to the churches, denominations, societies and congregations for the use and management of such property, and shall surrender it to any person authorized to demand it.

Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796. c. 457, ss. 1, 3; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76.

The trustees appointed by a religious society are only agents, and have no property interest as against the society: Conference v. Allen, 156-524—they represent a quasi-corporation and are accountable to congregation for use and management of church property: Lord v. Hardie, 82-241.

A congregation taking possession of church cannot contest validity of mortgage given by trustees for purchase money on ground that it was ultra vires: Rountree v. Blount, 129-25.

Pastor of church recovered judgment against trustees of said church for salary, and execution was levied upon communion service: Held, it was not liable to seizure and sale under execution: Lord v. Hardie, 82-241.

Building committee of church not liable individually for injury to one engaged in building it: Wilson v. Clark, 110-364.

Trustees are liable for goods ordered by one of their number and used by them in building church, even though order was not authorized: Tull v. Trustees, 75-424.

ACTIONS BY TRUSTEES OR BY MEMBERS. Where testator provides for building a fence around a certain chapel cemetery, the trustees of the chapel are the proper parties to require of executor performance of provision to build such fence: Cabe v. Banhook, 127-424.

Title is vested in trustees individually, and they may recover at law, though in writ and declaration they style themselves "trustees": Walker v. Fawcett, 29-44.

It is only when suit is brought by persons who claim as "successors" that question arises whether original bargainees were duly chosen trustees of a religious congregation, and whether persons suing were also duly chosen trustees, so as to give them legally the character of "successors" to former, and thereby vest in them title to property, which is necessary to support an action: Ibid.

Where conveyance is made to A, B, and C, for a certain tract of land, as trustees for the Methodist Episcopal Church, they may bring trespass against wrongdoers, though they may not have been appointed trustees according to law: Ibid.

In absence of trustees and a governing body authorized to appoint, any member of a religious society has such a beneficial interest as will enable him, in behalf of fellow members, to maintain such action as may be necessary to protect their common interest: Nash v. Sutton, 109-550.

Trustees of a religious society cannot recover, in action for alleged nuisance near premises used as place of worship and residence of pastor, for any physical suffering by pastor or members of congregation: Taylor v. R. R., 145-400.

For construction of trusts, see section 3570.

3570. Title to lands vested in trustees, or in societies. All glebes, lands and tenements, heretofore purchased, given, or devised for the support of any particular ministry, or mode of worship, and all churches and other houses built for the purpose of public worship, and all lands and donations of any kind of property or estate that have been or may be given, granted or devised to any church or religious denomination, religious society or congregation within the state for their respective use, shall be and remain forever to the use and occupancy of that church or denomination, society or congregation for which the glebes, lands, tenements, property and estate were so purchased, given, granted or devised, or for which such churches, chapels or other houses of public worship were built; and the estate therein shall be deemed and held to be absolutely vested, as between the parties thereto, in the trustees respectively of such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, for their several use, according to the intent expressed in the conveyance, gift, grant or will; and in case there shall be no trustees, then in such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, respectively, according to such intent.

Rev., s. 2672; Code, s. 3665; R. C., c. 97, s. 1; 1776, c. 107; 1796, c. 457, s. 4.

By act of 1796, religious societies or their trustees have not a general capacity of acquisition; they can only take for the use of the society: Trustees v. Dickenson, 12-189. Even if a deed is insufficient to convey title, a religious society may acquire title by adverse possession: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612.

Where a testator bequeathed property in trust for support of minister of associate seceding party, "who shall preach at the seceding congregation meeting-house called Gilead," and a majority of that congregation, being of a different denomination, refused to permit such minister to officiate in their church, a trust resulted, although associate seceding party offered to build another church near one mentioned by testator: McAuley v. Wilson, 16-276.

Recital in a deed conveying land to vestry and wardens of church, that it was made "for purpose of aiding in establishment of home for indigent widows or orphans, or in promotion of any other charitable or religious objects to which property may be appropriated" by grantee, creates no trust, and grantee can convey perfect title: St. James v. Bagley, 138-384. A grantor can impose conditions and make title dependent upon performance; but if he makes no condition, but expresses motive which induces him to execute deed, legal effect of granting words cannot be controlled by language indicating grantor's motive: Ibid. When it is doubtful whether language in a grant operates as declaration of trust, court will examine entire deed, relation of parties, etc., to enable it to gather intention of grantor: Ibid. In order to create a trust it must appear that the words were intended to be imperative; and when the property is given absolutely and without restriction, a trust is not to be lightly imposed upon mere words of recommendation and confidence: Ibid.

A provision in a will that church is to be built from certain funds will not fail because there is not sufficient amount to build church as large as directed: Paine v. Forney, 128-237. A specific trust will not be superimposed upon a title conveyed to a religious congregation, authorizing courts to interfere and control their management and disposition of property, unless this is clear intent of grantor expressed in language which should be construed as imperative: Hayes v. Franklin, 141-599. A bequest for religious charity must, in this state, be to some definite purpose, and to some body or association or persons having a legal existence and with capacity to take; or at least must be to some such body on which the legislature shall, within a reasonable time, confer a capacity to take: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26.

The doctrine of execution cy pres does not prevail in this state: McAuley v. Wilson, 16-276; Holland v. Peck, 37-255; Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26; White v. University, 39-19.

Cases of interest hereunder in which devises, bequests and other conveyances for religious, charitable, or educational purposes are construed, or where doctrines as to such trust estates generally treated: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612; In re Murray's Will, 141-589; Hayes v. Franklin, 141-599; Witherington v. Herring, 140-495; Thornton v. Harris, 140-498; Allen v. Baskerville, 123-126; Keith v. Scales, 124-497; St. James v. Bagley, 138-384; Freeman v. Freeman, 141-97; Bond v. Mfg. Co., 140-381; Paine v. Forney, 128-237; Baptist University v. Borden, 132-476; Brewer v. University, 110-26; United Brethren v. Comrs., 115-489; Tilley v. Ellis, 119-233; Simmons v. Allison, 118-763; Diocese v. Diocese, 102-442; Holland v. Peck, 37-255; University v. Gatling, 81-508; McKethan v. Ray, 71-166; Miller v. Atkinson, 63-537; Taylor v. Bible Society, 42-201; Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26; Hester v. Hester, 37-330; Stanley v. McGowen, 37-9; Wardens of the Poor v. Gerard, 37-210; White v. University, 39-19; McAuley v. Wilson, 16-276; Trustees v. Dickenson, 12-189.

3571. Trustees may convey property. The trustees of any religious body may mortgage or sell and convey in fee simple any land owned by such body, when directed so to do by such church, congregation, society or denomination, or its committee, board or body having charge of its finances, and all such conveyances so made or heretofore made, or hereafter to be made, shall be effective to pass the land in fee simple to the purchaser or to the mortgagee for the purposes in such conveyances or mortgage expressed; and they may sell or mortgage its personal property.

Rev., s. 2673; 1855, c. 384; 1889, c. 484.

Where land was conveyed to officers and members of church for purpose of keeping and maintaining a church for worship, and all privileges and appurtenances thereto belonging, court will not restrain officers of church from leasing small portion of lot for term of years for erecting a store, the rent payable to said officers, on ground that officers are committing a breach of trust and acting contrary to terms of deed: Hayes v. Franklin, 141-599.

A religious society owning land may sell and convey under this section: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612. A devise of land for the purpose of providing a rectory construed to permit a sale to effectuate the purpose; but if not, the court in the exercise of equity powers may order a sale: Church v. Ange, 161-315.

Other cases of interest: St. James v. Bagley, 138-384; Nash v. Sutton, 109-550; College v. Riddle, 165-211.

3572. House on vacant land vests title. All houses and edifices erected for public religious worship on vacant lands, or on lands of the state not for other purposes intended or appropriated, together with two acres adjoining the same, shall hereafter be held and kept sacred for divine worship, to and for the use of the society by which the same was originally established.

Rev., s. 2674; Code, s. 3666; R. C., c. 97, s. 2; 1778, c. 132, s. 6.

For the purpose of constructing and maintaining a system of state highways and post-roads, the funds collected by the state as a license tax on automobiles, motor cars, motorcycles, motor trucks or other vehicles from which the state does now or may hereafter collect a license tax, shall, after the expense of collecting has been deducted as herein provided, be paid to the state treasurer, and by him kept as a special fund to be known as the "State Highway Fund," for the construction and maintenance of a system of state highways, which shall be constructed so as to form a system of modern highways acceptable to the United States government, connecting by the most practicable routes the various county-seats and other principal towns of every county in the state.

3591. Convict labor on state highway system. All convicts, either state or county, that can be arranged for by agreement with the state prison board or between the various county authorities and state highway commission, as the case may be, may be worked on this system of state highways and on the production of material for said highways. The care and discipline of such prisoners shall be as provided by the prison laws of the state.

1919, c. 189, s. 2.

3592. Location, construction, and cost of state highways. The location, construction and maintenance of the highways which are to be constructed by the state highway commission under this article are to be determined upon and the work done by the state highway commission, and all surveys, plans, specifications, and estimates shall be made by the highway commission. Whenever any one or more of the counties of the state shall agree to furnish one-fourth the cost of the construction of that portion of the state highway system contemplated by this article, which will be in or run through such county or counties, preference shall be given by the state highway commission in beginning the construction of the highway or highways in or running through such county or counties; and whenever any county shall notify the state highway commission that it will and is prepared to furnish one-fourth the cost of construction of that portion of the state highway system which will be in or run through such county or counties, it shall be the duty of the state highway commission to proceed to such county or counties as early as practicable and determine upon the location of the highway or highways in or running through such county or counties which will be a part of the state highway system and make the necessary surveys, plans, specifications, and estimates, and, if this be accepted by the proper county authorities, proceed with the construction of the highway or highways as soon as necessary funds are available; the one-fourth to be paid by such county or counties, to be held by the road authorities, subject to the order of the state highway commission, to be paid as the work progresses. Under this arrangement one-fourth the cost will be paid by the county or counties, one-fourth from the state highway fund, and one-half from the federal aid fund. In constructing the highway or highways the state highway commission may make and enter into contracts for such construction work with any county or counties of the state, or with contractors, or have the work done under its supervision, endeavoring to have the same done as cheaply as possible. The said construction work and labor shall be done under the direct supervision of the state highway commission, subject to the inspection and approval of the secretary of agriculture of the United States or his authorized representative and in accordance with the rules and regulations made pursuant to the Federal Aid Road Law. The state highway commission may, in its discretion, from time to time apply for and secure federal aid and make payments on said construction as the same progresses in the pro rata part of the value of the labor and material which have been actually put into such construction in compliance with said plans and specifications. The state highway commission shall cooperate with the counties in obtaining material and labor to be used on any project under the provisions of this article.

3593. Counties, etc., may use available road funds. The several counties, townships, and road districts, in order to provide their one-fourth of the cost of constructing said system of state highways, as contemplated by this article, within their respective territories, may in their discretion use such road funds as they may have available or may provide same under and pursuant to any law now in force or hereafter enacted, and the construction and improvement of the said system of state highways is hereby declared to be a necessary public expense of the several counties, townships, and road districts as to such portion of same as may be located within their respective bounds, under the provisions of this article. And the financial cooperation of the respective counties, townships, and road districts shall be under agreement entered into between the local county, township, or road district officials and the state highway commission, which agreements shall conform with the requirements of the federal government and the provisions of this article not inconsistent with the federal requirements.

3594. Counties may use unexpended motor taxes. The funds heretofore collected to be expended in the several counties of the state under the provisions of chapter one hundred and forty, public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, being the law regulating motor vehicles, now remaining unexpended, shall be paid by the state highway commission to the counties to which such funds belong under the provisions of said chapter, to be by the county road authorities used as a county fund under the provisions of this article for the construction and maintenance of the state highway or highways in said counties as herein provided, which use shall be subject to any of the agreements and contracts now in force between the federal government or the various counties and the state highway commission.

1919, c. 189, s. 7.

Laws of 1917, c. 140, s. 7, provides that at least seventy per cent of the amount of automobile fees collected in any county should be expended in the county from which the fees were collected.

3595. All funds of state highway commission converted into road fund; apportionment. All funds collected under the provisions of this article or hereafter collected under the provisions of the chapter of the Consolidated Statutes entitled Motor Vehicles, and all property and funds of the state highway commission, except as provided in preceding section, shall be converted into the state highway fund and apportioned by the state highway commission under the provisions of this article.

3596. Short-term loans authorized to supplement road fund. If the state highway fund provided by this article shall be insufficient to enable the state, in coöperation with the counties and subdivisions thereof, to advantageously avail itself of the federal aid to the fullest extent, then the state treasurer, upon the advice of the governor and council of state, shall from time to time negotiate and secure a short-term loan for such amount as may be necessary to meet the available federal aid, and no more, upon the best terms obtainable, and execute the note or notes of the state therefor, and place the money so obtained to the credit of the said state highway fund, to be apportioned by the state highway commission as other moneys in said fund and as herein provided.

3597. Ten per cent of fund held for administrative purposes. So much, not to exceed ten per centum, of the state highway fund, as provided in this article for any registration year as the state highway commission may estimate to be necessary for administering the provisions of this article, shall be deducted for that purpose, available until expended. Within sixty days after the close of each registration year the state highway commission shall determine what part, if any, of the sums theretofore deducted for administering the provisions of this article will not be needed for that purpose, and said sum shall be returned to the state highway fund.

3598. Rights of way to be furnished by counties, etc. The rights of way for the construction of the system of state highways provided for in this article shall be furnished by the counties, townships, or road districts in which same are located, without cost to the state, and the cost of engineering shall be paid for by the state out of the highway fund.

1919, c. 189, s. 11.

3599. Roadside trees provided for. The state highway commission and the state forester may coöperate with the county, township, or district road authorities in the proper selection, planting and protection of roadside trees, and the state highway commission is hereby empowered to make all necessary rules and regulations for the protection of the state highways and the roadside trees herein provided for.

1919, c. 189, s. 12.

ART. 2. STATE FUND FOR COUNTY ROAD LOANS

dollars, to be used by the several counties of the state for permanent road improvement upon the terms herein prescribed, the state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to issue bonds of the state of North Carolina, payable forty-one years after date of issue, which bonds shall be issued semiannually on the first days of January and July of each year. On the first day of July following the ratification of this article the state treasurer shall issue bonds to an amount not to exceed four hundred thousand dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding four per cent per annum from date of issue until paid, which interest shall be payable semiannually on the first days of January and July of each year so long as any portion of said bonds shall remain due and unpaid.

1917, c. 6, s. 1; 1919, c. 115.

The purpose of this article is to enable the state to aid in road building in different localities by an exchange of bonds: Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174-141.

3601. Loans to counties. The proceeds received by the state treasurer from the sale of said bonds shall be loaned to the several counties of the state, as hereinafter provided, to be used by said counties in the construction of macadam, sand-clay, or other surfaced roads.

1917, c. 6, s. 2; 1919, c. 115.

3602. Counties pay interest to treasurer; how such interest used. Said counties shall pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest per annum on the amount so loaned, to be paid semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year, for a period of forty-one years, or for such time thereafter as may hereinafter be required. From the five per cent interest received on such county bonds the state treasurer shall pay the four per cent interest on the state bonds issued for this purpose, and the surplus shall become a part of the semi-annual road fund herein provided for.

3603. Second bond issue; disposition of surplus. On January first following the first issue of bonds under this article the state treasurer shall issue like bonds to an amount sufficient, when added to said surplus, to make an available fund of four hundred thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to meet the demands made for loans, which said sum shall be loaned in the same manner as the proceeds arising from the first sale of bonds. Said bonds shall be the same in all respects as those first issued, and shall run for a period of forty-one years from date of issue, and bear interest at a like rate, which interest shall be payable on the first days of January and July of each year. If sufficient applications for loans to counties shall not be made under the provisions of this article to take up the surplus at any time, the state treasurer is authorized to loan such remaining surplus, in such manner as he may deem best, at a rate of not less than five per cent per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of December and June of each year.

3604. Successive issues and loans. Each six months thereafter, for a period of forty-one years, the state treasurer shall issue bonds of the same class, to run for a period of forty-one years from date of issue, to an amount sufficient, when added to said surplus, to create a fund of four hundred thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be demanded, which amounts shall be loaned to the counties applying therefor under the conditions herein imposed.

1917, c. 6, s. 5; 1919, c. 115.

3605. Payment and retirement of bonds provided for. At the expiration of said period of forty-one years the state treasurer shall retire all of said bonds, as they mature, from the surplus remaining each six months after paying the semiannual interest on the bonds outstanding.

1917, c. 6, s. 6; 1919, c. 115.

3606. Formal requirements as to bonds and coupons; sales. The bonds authorized and directed to be issued by this article shall be coupon bonds, and of the denominations of one hundred dollars, five hundred dollars, and one thousand dollars each, as may be determined by the said state treasurer, and shall be signed by the governor and the state treasurer, and sealed with the great seal of the state, and shall be known as "North Carolina Highway Bonds." The coupons thereon may be signed by the State Treasurer alone, or may have a facsimile of his signature printed, engraved, or lithographed thereon; and the said bonds shall in all other respects be in such form as the state treasurer may direct, and the coupons thereon shall, after maturity, be received in payment of all taxes, debts, dues, licenses, funds, and demands due the state of North Carolina of any kind whatsoever which shall be expressed on the face of said bonds. Before selling the bonds herein authorized to be issued, the treasurer shall advertise the sale and invite sealed bids in such a manner as in his judgment may seem to be most effectual to secure the best price. He is authorized to accept bids for the entire issue or any part thereof, and where the advantages are equal, he shall give the preference of purchase to the citizens of North Carolina; and he is authorized to sell the bonds herein authorized in such manner as in his judgment will produce the best price. Any premium received by the state treasurer from the sale of the bonds shall become a part of the surplus or sinking fund herein provided for.

1917, c. 6, s. 7; 1919, c. 115.

3607. Exemption from taxation. The said bonds and coupons shall be exempt from all state, county, or municipal taxation or assessment, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for purpose of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest thereon shall not be subject to taxation as for income nor shall said bond and coupons be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus or capital stock of any bank, trust company, or other corporation, but when constituting a part of such surplus or capital stock shall be deducted from the total assets in order to ascertain the taxable value of such shares.

1917, c. 6, s. 8; 1919, c. 115.

See Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174-141.

3608. County election on question of state aid. When as many as twenty-five per centum of the voters registered at the preceding general election in any county of the state shall sign and present a petition to the board of commissioners of such county, requesting said board to call an election for the purpose of securing state aid for the construction of highways in such county, under the provisions of this article, specifying in such petition the amount to be so borrowed and asking that the special tax necessary to meet the payments herein provided for be levied and collected and used for said purpose, if a majority of the votes cast shall favor such loan, said board shall call an election for that purpose, which shall be held on the second Tuesday in April or the second Tuesday in October of that year. A special registration of voters shall be required before any such election is held. Such registration and election shall be conducted under the provisions of the general election law. When calling said election, the board of commissioners shall specify in such call the amount to be voted upon, accompanied by a statement to the effect that a favorable vote thereon shall carry the power and duty on the part of such board of commissioners to levy and collect the special tax herein required for the purposes herein named, and such election shall be conducted in the same manner, as near as may be, as elections for members of the general assembly. At such election those qualified voters who are in favor of securing state aid for road building shall vote a ballot upon which is written or printed the words "For good roads," and those who oppose such state aid shall vote a ballot upon which is written or printed the words "Against good roads." The result of said election shall be certified by the returning board to the board of county commissioners.

See Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174-141.

3609. County to give bond to state for amount voted; discharge of bond. If a majority of the votes cast shall be "For good roads," the board of commissioners of such county shall execute a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, in form to be approved by the state treasurer and attorney-general, for the amount so voted, which bond shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and countersigned by the register of deeds, and sealed with the seal of the county, and shall be immediately delivered to the state treasurer. Said bond shall obligate said county to pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest per annum on the amount thus loaned, payable semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year for a period of forty-one years. At the expiration of forty-one years said county bond shall be returned by the state treasurer, and said county shall be discharged from further liability on said bond: Provided, that if upon the maturity of any series of state bonds issued in pursuance of this article the state shall not have sufficient funds to retire the same derived from the difference in interest herein provided, owing to its inability to keep such difference in interest continually invested, or on account of expenses or delay incident to its investment, then and in that event any such deficiency shall be made good by the counties participating in the original proceeds of any such state bonds in proportion to the amount of such proceeds received by any such county.

1917, c. 6, s. 11; 1919, c. 115.

See Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174-141.

3610. Interest due from county; special tax; penalties for delinquency. Said interest shall constitute a special state tax, which shall be collected and accounted for under the same penalties as other state taxes, except that the state treasurer shall also be required to collect, in addition to said five per cent to be paid semi-annually, a penalty of one-half of one per cent of the interest due for each day the same shall remain unpaid after the first days of December and June of each year. One-half of such penalty shall be paid by the county and one-half by the sheriff of such delinquent county. If any county which has obtained money from the state under the provisions of this article shall fail or refuse to pay the interest due on such loan or loans for a period of thirty days, the amount due by such county, together with the penalty, shall at once become due and payable, and the state treasurer is authorized to proceed to collect the same from such delinquent county.

3611. County files estimates and accounts with treasurer. At the time of filing said bond with the state treasurer said board of commissioners shall also file an estimate of the amount of money which will be actually needed for the following six months; and semiannually thereafter, on the first days of May and November, they shall file with said treasurer an estimate of the amount needed for the ensuing six months until said loan has been exhausted. Each six months after securing a state loan the board of county commissioners shall publish a sworn statement showing in detail all receipts and expenditures, to whom paid and for what purpose, during the preceding six months, which shall also be filed with the state treasurer.

3612. Adjustment of aggregate of loans to amount of semiannual fund. If the aggregate of the estimates by the several boards of commissioners which vote for state aid under this article shall exceed the sum of four hundred thousand dollars, the state treasurer shall reduce all loans pro rata for the following six months. If such estimates shall not amount to four hundred thousand dollars, then the bonds to be issued and sold for that period shall be reduced accordingly.

3613. Times when loans made; limit of aggregate loans. From the first to the thirtieth days of January and July of each year, and at no other time, the state treasurer shall loan to the several counties which have complied with the provisions of this act the amounts asked for by each: Provided, that interest shall be charged and collected from the first day of the month: Provided further, that the aggregate of such loans shall not exceed four hundred thousand dollars; and each six months thereafter, at the time herein prescribed, for a period of forty-one years and as long thereafter as the amount so loaned is unpaid, said counties shall pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest on the amount so loaned.

1917, c. 6, s. 15; 1919, c. 115.

3614. Additional loans. Additional loans may be made to counties within the limit prescribed by this article if another election shall have been held therefor as is herein provided, and if a majority of the votes cast shall have been "For good roads."

1917, c. 6, s. 16; 1919, c. 115.

3615. Second election when first unfavorable. If a majority of the votes cast at any such election shall be "Against good roads," no loan shall be made to that county: Provided, however, that said board of commissioners shall order another election for the same purpose after the lapse of one year upon having presented to it a petition signed by twenty-five per cent of the voters as herein provided.

3616. County "Road Loan Tax"; maintenance tax. There shall be levied by the proper authorities in each county accepting a loan, as provided for in this article, at the same time other taxes are levied, a special annual tax for a period of forty-one years, to be known as the "Road Loan Tax," which shall be sufficient to pay, and which shall be collected by the sheriff and be used in paying, the semiannual interest on said loan or loans at five per centum per annum. Said tax shall be sufficient to cover the cost of collection and disbursement and the penalty herein provided for, in case such penalty should be incurred, in addition to the five per centum per annum, which shall be paid to the state treasurer by the sheriff of the county semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year. And a vote authorizing the issuance of bonds under this article shall be understood and construed to authorize and empower a levy of said tax. There shall also be annually levied by said board of county commissioners at the times herein specified a separate special tax for the maintenance of the roads built from moneys procured under the provisions of this article, which special tax shall be sufficient, after paying the costs of collection and disbursement, to equal each year, for the first four years after such loan is made, four per centum of the amount so borrowed; each year for the next four years, eight per centum of the amount so borrowed; and thereafter, each year, ten per centum of the amount so borrowed, so long as any of said loan remains due and unpaid to the state. If any board of county commissioners whose duty it is to levy any tax or taxes under the provisions of this article shall fail or refuse to make such levy, or to make such rate of levy as is required by this article, they and each of the members thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined personally and severally not less than two hundred dollars each, nor more than one thousand dollars each, or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, in the discretion of the court.

3617. County loan limited by its indebtedness. No county shall be allowed to borrow money under the provisions of this article to an amount which, added to the other bonded indebtedness, exceeds six per cent of the assessed valuation of the property of the county.

3618. Article available to townships and road districts; conditions. Townships, and road districts created by special act of the general assembly, may avail themselves of the benefits of this article upon compliance with the requirements herein set out: Provided, that the bond or undertaking filed with the state treasurer shall be executed by the board or boards of county commissioners of the county or counties in which such township or road district is situated. Such bond or undertaking shall specify that it is given on behalf of such township or road district only. It shall not be a liability in any wise against the county; and the special taxes shall be levied and collected out of the township or road district named, and not out of the county. It shall be the duty of such commissioners to levy, and the duty of the sheriff to collect, such special taxes and make payment thereof in the manner and under the penalty set out in this article.

This section, as originally written, was held to be unconstitutional in that it required bonds of the county to be issued for road expense in the township: Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174-141—so where township bonds were to have the guaranty of the county commissioners, Comrs. v. Boring, 175-105. This was amended as above by act of 1919.

County commissioners may act as agents for townships in issuing bonds: Comrs. v. Boring, 175-105.

ART. 3. ROAD IMPROVEMENT WITH FEDERAL COÖPERATION

3619. County bonds for road improvement with federal coöperation. The board of county commissioners of every county in this state is hereby authorized, upon the conditions and subject to the limitations and restrictions hereinafter set forth, to issue bonds of the county from time to time for the purpose of paying the county's share of the cost of constructing or improving public roads in the county at the joint expense of the federal government and the county, or at the joint expense of the federal government, the state, and the county, under agreement between the secretary of agriculture of the United States and the state highway commission of North Carolina.

1919, c. 312, s. 1.

Section referred to in Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3620. Annual tax to pay bonds and interest authorized. The board of county commissioners of every county in this state is hereby authorized to levy annually a special tax ad valorem upon all taxable property in the county for the special purpose of paying the principal and interest of all bonds issued by the county under this article, as such principal and interest become due, which tax shall be in an amount sufficient for said purpose and in addition to all other taxes authorized to be levied by said board.

1919, c. 312, s. 2.

See Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3621. Bonds to mature serially within thirty years. Each issue of bonds made by a county under the provisions of this article shall so mature that the aggregate principal amount of the issue shall be payable in annual installments, beginning not more than three years after the date of the bonds of such issue and ending not more than thirty years after such date. No such installment shall be more than two and one-half times as great in amount as the smallest prior installment of the same bond issue. If all bonds of any one issue are not delivered simultaneously, the bonds of such issue outstanding at any one time shall mature as aforesaid.

3622. Form of bonds and coupons; interest limit; delivery. Said bonds shall be issued in such form and denominations, and with such provisions as to time, place, and medium of payment of principal and interest, as the board of county commissioners of the county issuing the bonds may determine, subject to the limitations and restrictions of this article. The bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually. They may be either coupon bonds or registered bonds; and, if issued in coupon form, may be made registerable as to principal or as to both principal and interest. They shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners of the county issuing them, and the county seal shall be affixed to the bonds and attested by the clerk of said board; and the coupons of such bonds shall bear the printed, or lithographed, or engraved facsimile signature of the chairman of said board of county commissioners who is in office at the date of the bonds. The delivery of bonds signed as aforesaid by officers in office at the time of such signing shall be valid notwithstanding any changes in officers occurring after such signing.

3623. Sale of bonds. Said bonds shall be sold in the manner provided in the Municipal Finance Act for the sale of bonds of cities and towns. They shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest.

1919, c. 312, s. 5.

The Municipal Finance Act is subchapter III of Municipal Corporations.

3624. Proceeds of sale a separate fund. The proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be placed in a separate fund and used only for the purposes for which the bonds were issued.

1919, c. 312, s. 6.

3625. Highway commission certifies county's share of cost for bonds. Whenever a board of county commissioners proposes to issue any bonds under this article said board shall obtain from the state highway commission of North Carolina a certificate stating the amount of the county's share of the cost of the road improvements for which the bonds are to be issued, as such share is estimated by said commission, and no bonds shall be issued under this article in an amount exceeding such share as estimated by said commission. For the purposes of this article, the cost of acquiring rights of way for roads for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued and the amount of any incidental damages to adjoining property, due to construction work, shall be treated as a part of the county's share of the cost of constructing the roads and may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of such bonds.

1919, c. 312, s. 7.

3626. "Road" includes bridges and culverts. The term "road," as used in this article, shall include bridges and culverts in all cases where bridges and culverts are to be constructed or improved as a part of a road for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued and the federal government is to bear a part of the expense of constructing or improving such bridges or culverts.

1919, c. 312, s. 7.

See Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3627. Temporary notes of county in anticipation of bonds. Whenever a board of county commissioners shall have obtained from the state highway commission a certificate showing the amount of bonds which may be issued by the county as provided in this article, it shall be lawful for the board of county commissioners to issue notes of the county in anticipation of the issuance of bonds under this article. Such notes may run for periods of not exceeding one year, and may be renewed from time to time by the issuance of new notes: Provided, however, that no such notes shall continue to be issued more than two years after the date of the highway commission's certificate upon which they are predicated. The board of county commissioners may, if it deems it advisable, retire such notes or any of them by means of taxation or any available funds of the county, and the board of county commissioners is hereby authorized to levy in any year a special tax ad valorem on all taxable property in the county, for the special purpose of paying such notes. In case any such notes are retired by any means other than the issuance of bonds under this article, the amount of bonds which may be issued shall be reduced by the amount of notes so retired.

3628. Special county tax for maintaining federal-aided roads. The board of county commissioners of every county is hereby authorized to levy annually a special tax ad valorem upon all taxable property of the county for the special purpose of maintaining any public road constructed or improved with the aid of the federal government under an agreement between the secretary of agriculture of the United States and the state highway commission of North Carolina, which tax may be in an amount sufficient for said purpose and in addition to all other taxes authorized to be levied by such board of county commissioners.

3629. Proceeds of other county road bonds made available. The board of county commissioners of every county is hereby authorized to use, for the same purposes for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued, the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of the county issued for road purposes under any act other than this article, and also any other funds of the county which may lawfully be used for constructing or improving public roads of the county.

3630. Road authorities of county may contract with highway commission. The board or body in any county having charge and control of the county roads in the county (whether such board or body be the board of county commissioners or a road commission or other separate body) may enter into agreements with the state highway commission of North Carolina to cause the county to issue bonds or levy taxes under this article. If such an agreement is made by a board or body other than the board of county commissioners, the board of county commissioners may carry out the provisions of the agreement.

1919, c. 312, s. 11.

3631. Provision for use of bonds of townships, etc. The board or body having charge and control of the public roads of any county is hereby authorized, by agreement with the state highway commission of North Carolina, to use the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of any road district or township in the county, issued for road purposes, for the same purposes for which county bonds are hereby authorized to be issued: Provided, the road commissioners or other authorities issuing such road district or township bonds join in or consent to such an agreement, which they are hereby authorized to do; and Provided, the road to be constructed or improved by means of said moneys is situated within such road district or township.

1919, c. 312, s. 12.

3632. Construction of article and powers granted. The powers granted by this article are granted in addition to and not in substitution for existing powers of counties, and are not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other law: Provided, however, that this article shall be construed as a supplement to any other act passed at the present session of the general assembly providing a plan for meeting any offer on the part of the federal government to provide funds for the construction or improvement of roads in this state, and all provisions of any such other act relating to the expenditure of moneys for road purposes shall apply to the expenditure of moneys raised under the provisions of this article or authorized by it to be used for the purposes herein stated. This section shall not be construed as authorizing the issuance of the road district or township bonds herein referred to, nor shall section 3631 of this article be construed as authorizing the issuance of any bonds other than bonds of a county, payable by general tax upon the county at large. This section deals only with the application of the proceeds of the sale of road district and township bonds, the issuance of which is authorized by some other law.

3633. In certain counties article applicable only if adopted at special election. In the counties of Alexander, Anson, Ashe, Avery, Bladen, Catawba, Cherokee, Clay, Cumberland, Franklin, Gates, Graham, Halifax, Haywood, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Macon, Mitchell, Orange, Pitt, Polk, Rowan, Rutherford, Stanly, Surry, Swain, Transylvania, Tyrrell, Warren, and Washington the provisions of this article, in so far as they authorize the issuance of county bonds or notes, or the levying of a special tax for paying county bonds or notes, or the levying of a special tax for maintaining roads, shall not be in force unless and until the question of adopting the provisions of this article shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the county at an election, and a majority of the qualified voters of the county voting on said question shall vote in favor of adopting the provisions of this article.

The board of county commissioners of any of said counties may cause a special election to be held for said purpose at such time as may be designated by said board. Said board shall cause a notice of said election to be posted at the courthouse door of the county at least thirty days before the election, and to be published once in each of the four successive weeks immediately preceding the election. The board of county commissioners shall name the registrars and judges of election for the voting precincts of the county for said election, and shall cause to be printed a sufficient number of ballots for use at the election. At said election the voters who are in favor of the adoption of the provisions of this act shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed, "For the adoption of the Federal Aid Act"; and the voters who are opposed to the adoption of the provisions of this act shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words, "Against the adoption of the Federal Aid Act." At the close of the election the votes shall be counted and returns thereof made to the board of county commissioners, for which purpose said board shall cause blank abstracts to be printed and furnished to the registrars and judges of election.

On the first Thursday following the election said board of county commissioners shall meet as a canvassing board, shall receive the returns of said election, shall judicially pass upon the returns, and shall judicially determine and declare the result of said election, all of which shall be recorded in the records of said board. The returns shall be executed in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the board of county commissioners as aforesaid, and the other filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county. In all respects other than those herein mentioned said special election shall be held and conducted and the qualifications of voters at said election determined, as nearly as may be practicable, in accordance with the general law relating to the holding and conducting of elections for members of the general assembly and the determination of the qualifications of voters at such elections. The expense of holding said special election shall be paid out of the general funds of the county.

The board of county commissioners shall cause a notice containing a brief statement of the result of said election as determined by the board to be published at least once in a newspaper published in the county. No right of action or defense founded upon any invalidity of said election shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of said election be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within thirty days after the first publication of said notice: Provided, however, that a copy of this sentence shall be incorporated in said notice. The board of county commissioners may, in its discretion, order a new registration for said special election, but such new registration shall not be necessary unless ordered by the board. Upon the determination, made as aforesaid, by the board of county commissioners, that a majority of the qualified voters voting upon said question voted in favor of adopting the provisions of this article, then all of the provisions of this article shall be in force in the county so adopting them.

Sections 3629, 3631, and 3632 of this article shall be operative in all counties of this state from and after the 11th day of March, 1919.

1919, c. 312, s. 13a.

ART. 4. GENERAL ROAD IMPROVEMENT; ROAD COMMISSIONS; BONDS AND TAXES

Part 1. Bond Issues, Special Taxes and Funds

3634. County issue of road bonds; petition and election; approved by state commission; bond limit. Bonds may and shall be issued by the board of county commissioners of any county for the purpose of laying out and opening, altering, or improving the public roads and bridges of county under the conditions and provisions hereinafter provided. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of the county petitioning for an election for a bond issue, shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for such purpose. The petition must include the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue and the approximate number of miles of road that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued will be sufficient to construct or reconstruct, alter or improve approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved, reconstructed, or altered, as set out in the petition.

1917, c. 284, s. 1; 1919, c. 12, s. 1; 1919, c. 68.

The act of 1917, c. 284 (included in this article), is prospective in its nature and does not modify or repeal local acts: Rankin v. Gaston County, 173-683.

The bond issue provided for, being for a necessary expense, does not require the popular vote except when specially provided for, and the vote on bond issue is sufficient to authorize the levy of a tax: Parvin v. Comrs., 177-508.

This section does not violate the constitution, article 2, section 29, since it is a general law for the establishment of roads, etc., for the whole county: Ibid. See, also, Brown v. Comrs., 173-598; Mills v. Comrs., 175-215; Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3635. Powers vested in road commission. Whenever it is stated in the petition to the board of county commissioners praying for a bond issue for road work, as is authorized in the preceding section, that the bonds thus authorized shall be issued and sold by the county road commission hereinafter created by this article, or the existing road commission of the county in which the petition for road bonds is made, then the said county road commission or other road commission or board having charge of the road work in said county is hereby vested with all the power, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners of said county for issuing and selling the road bonds, as authorized in the petition, and said county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work in the county shall proceed to issue and sell bonds called for in the petition as hereinafter provided.

3636. Apportionment by townships of funds from bond sale. Whenever it is stated in the petition to the board of county commissioners praying for a bond issue for road work that the funds derived from the sale of such bonds shall be expended by the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work of said county in the various townships composing the county, in proportion to the assessed tax valuation of each township, then whenever bonds are issued by the board of county commissioners or county road commission, as provided, the county road commission shall apportion the funds arising from the sale of said bonds and use same in the several townships of the county issuing said bonds, as nearly as may be in proportion to the assessed tax valuation of said township, the intention being that each township shall receive and have expended on roads within its borders, or on roads built for its benefit, a fair and equitable proportion of the money arising from the bond issue authorized by this article. The purchasers of said bonds shall not be required to see to the application of such funds.

3637. Special road tax; petition and election; tax limit; approval of state commission. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of said county petitioning the board of county commissioners to levy a special road tax for carrying on the road work of said county, shall make an order requiring an election to be held at the time of election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question whether the board of county commissioners shall levy a tax for such purpose. The petition for such election must state the maximum rate for which such special road tax is to be levied, which rate shall not exceed fifty cents on the hundred dollars worth of property according to the last tax list and one dollar and fifty cents on the poll, observing at all times the constitutional equation: Provided, the petition also states approximately the number of miles of road to be improved by such special road tax and the length of time for which such special road tax shall be levied. The board of county commissioners, before calling such election, must be notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of money to be raised annually by the special road tax proposed will be sufficient to maintain and operate with economy a construction force suitable for the work proposed or will be sufficient to secure for the county reasonable contract prices for the work to be done, and that within the time named and for the amount thus to be raised the approximate number of miles of road can be built that is named in the petition.

This tax is for a special purpose, and the special approval of the legislature is found in this general statute: Parvin v. Comrs., 177-508, distinguishing R. R. v. Cherokee County, 177-86. The constitutional limitation of taxation may be exceeded for the special purpose designated: Ibid.; Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3638. When bond issues by townships authorized. At the end of three months after the seventh of March, nineteen hundred and seventeen, in any county that has not taken advantage of the provisions of this article and issued bonds as provided in section 3634 of this chapter, or levied a special tax as provided in the preceding section, then any township may proceed to take advantage of the provisions hereinafter set forth.

3639. Petition from township; election; approval of commission; bond limit. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of twenty-five freeholders of said township of said county for a bond issue for the construction or reconstruction of the public roads and bridges of said township, shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the township on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for such township for the purpose stated in the petition. The petition must state the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue and the approximate number of miles of road that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued will be sufficient to construct or reconstruct, alter or improve, approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be constructed, reconstructed, or altered as set out in the petition.

1917, c. 284, s. 6; 1919, c. 68; 1919, c. 12, s. 2.

The county commissioners may act as agents of the townships in issuing bonds: Comrs. v. Boring, 175-105; Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

3640. Special road tax for townships; tax limit; approval of commission. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of twenty-five freeholders of any township of any county petitioning the board of county commissioners to levy a special road tax for carrying on the road work of the township, shall make an order requiring an election to be held at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the township on the question whether the board of county commissioners shall levy a tax for such purposes. The petition for such election must state the maximum rate for which such special road tax is to be levied, which rate shall not exceed fifty cents on the one hundred dollars worth of property, according to the last tax list, and one dollar and fifty cents on the poll, observing at all times the constitutional equation. The petition must also state approximately the number of miles of road to be improved by said special road tax and the length of time for which such special road tax shall be levied. The board of county commissioners, before calling such election, must be notified by the state highway commission, in writing, that the amount of money to be raised annually by the special road tax proposed will be sufficient to maintain and operate with economy a construction force suitable for the work proposed, or will be sufficient to secure for the county reasonable contract prices for the work to be done, and that within the time named, and for the amount thus to be raised, the approximate number of miles of road can be built that is named in this petition.

3641. Bond issues in counties having township bond issues. The board of county commissioners of any county in which township bonds have been issued and sold for the construction of roads shall, upon petition of one hundred freeholders of said county petitioning for an election for a bond issue for road construction, make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for the purpose of providing funds for taking over the township bonds already issued for road purposes and of providing an additional amount with which to construct additional roads in such county. Such petition must state the amount of bonds which it is proposed to issue in excess of the amount required to cover the township bond issue, and also the approximate number of miles that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued for road construction work will be sufficient to construct, reconstruct, or alter approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved by said bond issue. The maximum amount of bonds issued under this article in such county, together with all the bonds previously issued and remaining unpaid by such county, shall in no case exceed an amount equal to ten per cent of the total assessed valuation of the county. The township in which the bonds have been issued and which are taken over by the county shall not be subject to any additional tax on account of the county bonds issued to refund or buy in said township bonds, but shall be liable for its pro rata portion of the county bonds.

3642. Bonds and taxes by road districts. Whenever there has been established in any county or counties of this state a road district, composed of one or more townships in one or more counties, or parts of one or more townships in one or more counties, such road district is herewith granted the same rights and privileges in regard to the issuing of bonds or levying of special road tax as is given to townships under the provisions of this article.

3643. Petition and election for county road commission. Upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of any county petitioning for the creation of a county road commission, the board of county commissioners of said county shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of said order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether there shall be created in said county a county road commission. In the event that the majority of votes cast shall be for the creation of a county road commission at any election herein provided for, after the result has been declared and recorded as herein provided for there shall be and there is herewith created in said county a county road commission as provided hereinafter.

3644. Qualified voters defined; law governing elections; registration; ballots; returns. The qualified voters at any special election held under the provisions of this article, until otherwise provided by general law, shall be those qualified to vote at the preceding regular November election and those who may have become of age and qualified since the preceding regular November election, except those who by commission of crimes or by removal from the district or county or for other legal causes have disqualified themselves to vote. Any election held under the provisions of this article shall be conducted in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by law for holding elections for the members of the general assembly, except as herein provided. The said board of county commissioners shall appoint the registrars of election, the judges or inspectors, and any other election officers, and registration and challenge of voters shall be conducted in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly; and said county commissioners may or may not order a new registration for any or all of said elections.

At any special election held under the provisions of this article for a bond issue, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For road bond issue" or "Against road bond issue," and all electors who favor the issuing of said bonds shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For road bond issue," and those opposed to the issuing of the bonds shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against road bond issue"; and at any special election held under the provisions of this article, providing for a special road tax, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For special road tax" or "Against special road tax," and all electors who favor the levying of said special road tax shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For special road tax" and those opposed to levying the special road tax shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against special road tax"; and at any special election held under the provisions of this article, providing for the creation of a county road commission, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For county road commission" or "Against county road commission"; and all electors who favor the creating of a county road commission shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For county road commission," and those opposed to creating a county road commission shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against county road commission."

The vote shall be counted at the close of the polls and returned to the board of county commissioners or clerk of the board on the Thursday next following the election, and the board shall tabulate and declare the result of the election not later than its next regular meeting following the return of the vote of the election, all of which shall be recorded in the minutes of the board of county commissioners, and no other recording and declaring of the result of the election shall be necessary. The result of the vote shall be counted, declared, and reported to the board of county commissioners as prescribed by law in the election of the members of the general assembly.

3645. When bonds to be issued. In the event that the majority of the votes cast shall be "For road bond issue" at any election herein provided for, after the result has been declared and recorded as aforesaid the board of county commissioners or county road commission, as authorized, of the county at its next regular meeting shall proceed to carry out the wishes of the voters as expressed at such election, as hereinafter provided in this article.

3646. Levy of special road tax. In the event that the majority of the votes cast shall be "For special road tax" at any election herein provided for, after the result has been declared and recorded as aforesaid the board of county commissioners of the county at its next regular meeting shall proceed to carry out the wishes of the voters as expressed at such election, as hereinafter provided for in this article.

In making sale of the bonds authorized by this article, advertisement of same shall be made in a recognized financial paper of the country, or a newspaper of state-wide circulation, as well as in a local paper, for at least thirty days prior to receiving of bids by the board of county commissioners or county road commission. The advertisement shall state the date, the time and the place for the opening of bids, and the advertisement shall also state that all bids must be accompanied by certified check properly vouched for by a local bank, if any, of the county in which sale is to be consummated and for which bonds are issued; but if there is no bank in said county, then by any solvent bank in a neighboring county, and the amount of said check to be determined by the board of county commissioners or county road commission of the county proposing to issue the bonds. The state highway commission must be notified by the board of county commissioners or county road commission of the date, place, and time of sale of bonds authorized to be sold under this article, in order that the state highway commission, if it so desires, may have a representative present who shall act in an advisory capacity with the board of county commissioners in the sale of the bonds. The noncompliance with the conditions herein required shall not be construed to invalidate the bonds issued which may have passed into the hands of innocent purchasers for value and without notice. No bonds shall be sold for less than their par value.

3649. State or federal aid. If any act shall be passed at this or any subsequent session of the general assembly authorizing the state to loan money to the counties to aid in the building or improving of public roads, taking county bonds as collateral for said loan, or if any provision shall be made for the federal government to loan money to the county for the purpose as stated above, then the board of county commissioners or county road commission is hereby authorized and empowered to avail themselves of the privileges and benefits of any such act.

3650. No fees allowed officers. In selling the bonds and in handling the funds derived from the sale of the bonds, and in turning same over to the bank or banks of the county hereinafter authorized to be the depository of such funds, the board of county commissioners, the county road commission, or the treasurer of the county shall not be allowed any fees for handling such funds.

3651. Levy of tax for interest on bonds; misappropriation punished. When any bonds are issued under the provisions of this article, the board of county commissioners shall levy annually the first Monday in May, or at such time as county taxes are levied, a special tax for the county, township, or road district, of such an amount on the one hundred dollars of property and on the poll as will provide a sufficient sum with which to pay the interest due on the bonds issued and pay whatever part of the principal of the bond issue may become due that year, and also to set aside the amount necessary to provide an adequate sinking fund with which to redeem or buy in the bonds. The taxes so levied shall be collected as other taxes and shall be kept as a separate fund, to be applied for the purposes as stated above, and it shall be a misdemeanor for the members of the board of county commissioners to use such fund for any other purpose.

3652. Levy of special road tax. The board of county commissioners of any county which is authorized to levy a special road tax for county, township, or road district road work under the provisions of this article shall, beginning with the first Monday in May after the election authorizing such levy, proceed to levy each year, on the first Monday in May or at such time as county taxes are levied, the special road tax authorized by the election and for the number of years stated in the petition calling for the election.

3653. Emergency fund or bonds provided for; limit. Wherever in any county, township, or road district a condition exists in connection with the location, construction, reconstruction, maintenance, or repair of the roads of said county or township or road district such that in the judgment of the county road commission or any other similar road commission or board having charge of the roads and bridges of the county, township, or road district, the fund available for such condition is insufficient for the work demanded, then, on application of the county road commission or any other similar road commission or board of the county, township, or road district, the board of county commissioners shall appropriate from the general fund of the county, or shall issue short-time notes or bonds in sufficient amount for the work required. The amounts of such fund or bonds issued shall not in any one year exceed one per cent of the taxable valuation, both real and personal, of the county, township, or road district.

3654. Fund for maintenance of roads. Whenever the board of county commissioners or county road commission of any county under the provisions of this article has issued and sold bonds or has levied a special road tax, it shall levy an additional special maintenance tax sufficient to raise an amount equal to not less than one or more than four per cent of the par value of said bonds issued for the road work of the county, township, or road district, or the amount that has been raised by the said special road tax, to be used for the purpose of maintaining the roads built through the expenditure of the funds raised from such bond issue or from such special road tax. The money thus raised shall be deposited by the sheriff to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for in said bank or banks authorized to receive funds under the provisions of this article. This money shall be deposited as a maintenance fund, to be expended only for the maintenance of the roads constructed under the authority of this article.

3655. Depository for road funds. All moneys derived from the sale of bonds authorized and sold under the provisions of this article or from the levy of the special road tax authorized under the provisions of this article shall be deposited by the board of county commissioners in such solvent bank or banks, if any, of said county, or if there is no bank in said county, then in any solvent bank in a neighboring county as will pay the highest rate of interest on daily balances as may be determined by the board of county commissioners; said moneys to be deposited in said bank or banks to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for, and to be drawn upon by said commission as hereinafter directed.

3656. Other funds deposited. Any other moneys, in whatever way collected or appropriated, which are designed to be used for the construction or maintenance of the roads of any county, township, or road district in which bonds for road work within such county, township, or road district have been issued and sold or in which special road tax for road improvement has been levied under the provisions of this article, shall be deposited in the same bank or banks as heretofore provided in which the moneys obtained from the bond issue or special road tax are deposited, and these moneys shall be deposited to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for, and shall be drawn upon by said commission as hereinafter directed.

1917, c. 284, s. 23; 1919, c. 68.

The bank or banks in which the said road moneys designated in this article are deposited shall prepare monthly statements showing the amounts paid, to whom paid, and for what purposes, and submit same to the said county road commission, and the said road commission shall have said monthly statement posted at the courthouse door of such county.

Part 2. County Road Commission and Road Management

3658. County road commission. Whenever a bond issue or a levy of a special road tax or the appointment of a county road commission is authorized as hereinbefore provided in this article, there shall be and there is herewith created in such county, except as hereinafter provided, a county road commission to be composed of either three or five members, one of whom shall be at all times a member of the minority political party of the county, and who shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners. Should the board of county commissioners decide to appoint three men, in making the first appointments one member shall be appointed for two years, one for four years, and one for six years. Should the board decide to appoint five men, in making the first appointments one member shall be appointed for two years, two for four years, and two for six years. Thereafter all appointments shall be for six years. Nothing in this law shall be so construed as to prevent the reappointment of a member of this commission at the expiration of his term. Each member of the county road commission shall take and subscribe an oath before the clerk of the court of his county for the faithful performance of his duties as a member of the said commission: Provided, however, that when in any petition authorized by this article it is stated that the board of county commissioners or road commission or board already existing in such county shall have charge of the road work of such county, township, or road district, then the board of county commissioners shall not appoint a new county road commission as set forth in this section, but the said commission or board mentioned in the said petition shall become the county road commission for carrying out the purpose of this article.

Under P. L. 1913, c. 441, it was held that the requirement that members of the commission be of different political parties was directory and did not affect the right to the office: Cole v. Sanders, 174-112. The legislature may create special road commission and confer upon it powers formerly exercised by the county commissioners: Comrs. v. Comrs., 165-632; Hargrave v. Comrs., 168-626.

3659. County commissioners appoint township road commissioners in certain cases. Whenever a bond issue or a levy of a special road tax is authorized or has been authorized, as hereinbefore provided in this article, for any township in any county where one or more townships have heretofore voted bonds for the working of the public roads under special acts or under acts other than this article, and the working of the roads of said township is under the charge of a township commission, and no county road commission is in existence or has been appointed under this article, in such case the county commissioners may appoint a township road commission for such township, to be composed of three members, one of whom shall be at all times a member of the minority political party of the township. Township commissioners so appointed shall be appointed for the same term and in the same manner as is hereinbefore provided for the appointment of the county road commission, and such township commission shall have in said township, and for the purpose of working the roads of said township, all the rights, powers and privileges in this article given, granted and conferred upon the county road commission.

The requirement that members of commission should be of different political parties held to be directory: Cole v. Sanders, 174-112. Legislature may establish special road commission for townships and road districts: Trustees v. Webb, 155-379; Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377.

3660. Extension of jurisdiction of commission. Wherever a township or road district has taken advantage of the provisions of this article, so that a county commission has been created and appointed and has charge of the road work of such township or road district, and there should be in the same county in which such township or road district is located another or other townships which avail themselves of the privileges of this article, there shall be no additional county road commission appointed by the board of county commissioners as provided for herein, but the county road commission already appointed shall have charge of the road work in the additional township or townships or road district or districts of said county that may come under the provisions of this article.

3661. Corporate powers; use of road funds. The county road commission and its successors in office are and they are hereby constituted a body corporate under and by virtue of the laws of North Carolina and by this article, under the name and style of County Road Commission, and shall have all powers and authority granted to corporations of like nature by the laws of North Carolina, and by that name may sue and be sued, make contracts, acquire real and personal property by gift or devise, hold, exchange, and sell the same, and exercise such other rights and privileges as are incident to other municipal corporations of like nature, such as the condemnation of land for the construction, widening or changing of any roads in the county, and such other powers as are necessary to carry out any and all the provisions of this article. The said county road commission shall use the funds derived from the sale of bonds or by levy of special tax, or whatever way derived, as authorized by this article, to locate, construct, reconstruct, surface, repair, improve, and maintain the public highways and bridges in the county, township, or road district under their jurisdiction; shall purchase such materials and purchase and hold, or contract for the use of, such tools, machinery, implements, and teams as they may deem necessary for carrying on the road work of said county or township, and perform such other duties as are hereinafter provided for by this article.

3662. Duties and powers of county road commissions. It shall be the duty of the said county road commission to take charge of laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of any and all roads of said county, or of such roads as may be stated in the petition, authorizing the issuing of bonds or of levying special road tax or the formation of a county road commission, that are now maintained or may be maintained by the county as public roads; and it is hereby vested with all powers, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners and other commissions or boards or other road officials of said county for the general supervision of such roads of said county, and for the construction and repair thereof, by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed best: Provided, that if the bonds issued or the special road tax levied under the provisions of this article applies only to a township or road district, then the duties of the county road commission shall only apply to said township or road district.

3663. Organization of road commissions; compensation of commissioners. The county road commission shall biennially from the date of its organization elect a chairman and a secretary, who shall hold office for two years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. All moneys expended by said commission shall be by draft upon the bank or banks which are depositories for the said road fund, and said drafts shall be signed by the secretary and countersigned by the chairman, and shall show upon their face the purpose for which the money is expended. The members of the said county road commission shall receive pay only when acting jointly as a road commission, and such compensation shall be the same as paid to the members of the board of county commissioners of said county.

3664. Vacancies filled. In case of any vacancy caused by death, resignation or otherwise, of any member of the county road commission, such vacancy shall be filled by the board of county commissioners for the unexpired term, as provided above for regular appointments.

3665. Continuation of existing road management. Those counties or townships or road districts, coming under the provisions of this article, which already have a road commission, or other commission or board which has charge of the road work, or in which the board of county commissioners have charge of the road work, and desire to retain such commission or board to have charge of the road work of said county, township, or road district, then such desire shall be stated in the petition praying for a bond election or special road tax; and if the bond election or special road tax is passed, then said board of county commissioners, or other board or commission stated in the petition, shall become the county road commission for all the purposes of this article, and shall be required to perform the duties that the county road commission created by this article is authorized to perform; if, however, no desire is stated in the petition praying for a bond election or special road tax that an existing road commission or board or the board of county commissioners shall retain charge of or have charge of the road work in such county, township, or road district, then in that event the county road commission authorized by this article shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners, and such appointment shall abolish the said county, township, or district road commission or board; but all the rights and authority conferred upon such commission or board herewith abolished are hereby conferred upon the county road commission herein enacted.

3666. Road engineer to keep books and accounts. The county road commission is authorized to employ an expert road engineer at such compensation as may be fixed by said county road commission. The county road engineer, however appointed, may request, at any time, the advice of the state highway engineer in solving any problem that may arise, either technical, economical, or otherwise, that may be deemed by him to be of benefit to the county, and such advice shall be without any expense to the county or township. It shall be the duty of the engineer of the county, township, or road district coming under the provisions of this article to keep or have kept the necessary books and accounts showing in detail the expenditure for all work done through money derived by bonds issued or special road tax levied for road work in such county, township, or road district. The engineer shall keep or have kept in suitable way a cost accounting system showing the unit cost of various items entering into the construction of the roads, showing when and where the various elements of cost entering into the said work were used, giving the name of the road and the nearest station number to culverts, bridges, etc. It shall be his duty to keep approximate yardage costs, and approximate classification of the materials moved in all excavations made for the purpose of building such roads.

3667. Assessments of damages and benefits. In opening new highways, widening and straightening old roads and repairing same, the county road commission created by this article, or any other road commission or board, or the board of county commissioners, having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, is hereby authorized through its agents to enter upon any land and locate and build such highways. If the said commission or board and the owner or owners of said land cannot agree as to the damages, if any, the said commission or board shall, after sixty days after said highway is completed, cause to be summoned three disinterested freeholders of said county, who shall go upon the land and assess the damages and benefits under the general law as it now exists. Before entering upon lands as authorized by this section it shall be the duty of the said commission or board to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that the highway is to be located upon said land under authority of this article. In assessing the damages sustained by any landowner, the jury shall take into consideration the special benefits, if any, accruing to the landowner, and in determining such benefits consideration shall be given to the benefits the landowner has derived from the fact that any old road right of way has reverted back to said landowner by reason of the relocation and construction of the new road; and if such benefits shall exceed the damages, then the amount of such excess of benefits shall be assessed against the landowner and shall constitute a lien upon the land adjoining the road, and shall be collected by the sheriff in the same way as public taxes. No suit shall be instituted by the landowner for damages on account of location of the road under this article or the taking of timber or material until after sixty days after the completion of the road across the lands of such landowner, and no suit shall be brought by any landowner unless the same is commenced within six months after the completion of the road by or across the lands of the claimant. Either party may appeal to the superior court for the assessment of damages and benefits, where the matter shall be heard by the court and jury de novo. No cost shall be awarded against any county or township upon appeals when the recovery awarded through such appeal is not more favorable to appellant than the award of the referees.

The individual commissioners are not liable, and the owner must seek compensation in the manner provided in the statute: Marshall v. Hastings, 174-480 (decision under special act). See section 3763.

3668. Entry on land for material; obstruction of drains or ditches. The county road commission created by this article, or any other road commission or board, or the board of county commissioners, having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, is hereby authorized through its agents to enter upon any land in said county, to cut and carry away any timber except trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament, dig or cause to be dug and carry away any gravel, sand, clay, dirt, or stone which may be necessary for the proper repair and construction of roads in said county, and make or cause to be made such drains or ditches upon any land adjoining or lying near any road in said county that the said commission or board may deem necessary for the better condition of the road; and the drains and ditches so made shall not be obstructed by the occupants of such lands or any other person; and any person obstructing such drains or ditches shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Before entering upon land as authorized by this section, it shall be the duty of the said commission or board, through its representatives, to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that certain material authorized to be taken by this section is required for the road work.

The county is not liable for the wrongful act of the officers in taking stone from a quarry: Keenan v. Comrs., 167-356. See sections 3817, 3818.

3669. Cutting timber shading roads. The county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, through its agents is hereby authorized to enter upon any land adjoining or bordering on any county road and cut the trees on such land for a distance in width of not over thirty feet from the edge of the right of way of said road; but such cutting must be necessary for the maintenance of the road, and trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament shall not be cut. Due compensation shall be made for any damage sustained by the landowner, to be ascertained under the rules and regulations provided in the second section preceding.

3670. Claims for timber or material. The owner of any land from which any timber or other material has been removed may present to the authorities his claim therefor in writing, and upon such presentment it shall be the duty of the said authorities to set a day not later than thirty days thereafter for the purpose of hearing and determining such claim. Upon the hearing and determination thereof, the claimant may appeal to the superior court of said county to have his cause tried as in other civil cases.

See sections 3817, 3818.

3671. Width, alignment, and grade of highways. The highways in any county, township, or road district constructed or improved under this article shall have a right of way of not less than forty feet, except where the road authorities or state highway commission deem it impracticable to acquire such width, and in such cases the width shall be as determined by said authorities. The alignment of the road shall be as straight as practicable and with no grade over four and one-half per cent, except as such grade is considered impracticable by the road engineer.

3672. Deposit of money; transfer of equipment. Any moneys on hand in any county treasury or in the hands of any county treasurer or in any township or road district treasury, or in the hands of any township treasurer, to the credit of the road funds of such county or township or road district at the time the location, construction, repair, and maintenance of the public roads in said county, township, or road district comes under the provisions of this article, shall be turned over to the bank or banks designated as the depository for the road fund of said county or township or road district by the board of county commissioners, or other authorities having charge of such funds, and shall become part of said road fund and shall be expended for the construction of the roads in said county, township, or road district as provided in this article. Whenever the construction of the roads of any county or township or road district comes under the provisions of this article, any teams, material, machinery, tools, supplies, or any property whatsoever belonging to the county or township or road district, shall be turned over to the county road commission herein provided for, to be used by them for and in whatever way they deem best in constructing or improving the roads of said county or township or road district: Provided, that when the bonds issued or special road tax levied only applies to a township or road district, then only such teams, materials, machinery, tools, supplies, or other property as belong to said township or road district shall be turned over to the county road commission.

3673. County-line roads. When the proper location of any public road is such as to cause it to run along the dividing line between two counties or to traverse first a part of one county and then a part of the other county, thus making the road a "county-line road," then a representative or representatives of the county road commission of each county, or, in case the county has no road commission, then of the board of county commissioners, shall, together with representative of the state highway commission, meet on the first Wednesday in March or as soon thereafter as practicable of each year and determine the amount necessary to maintain for the succeeding year the said "county-line road" in a proper manner, and also determine the best method of expending such sum in the most economical manner to accomplish the desired result; and each county commission shall then provide from the road funds at its disposal an amount equal to one-half of that previously determined as necessary to maintain said road in a proper manner, and shall use such sum in the maintenance of said road in such manner as is determined by the representatives of said commissions. In case the county commission desires and requests in writing that the state highway commission supervise and take charge of the maintenance of said "county-line road," then the said sum provided for the maintenance of said road by the said county commissions shall be placed by the said commissions at the disposal of the state highway commission, to be used for the maintenance of the road.

3674. Construction by one county of county-line roads. When the survey for the location of a road is completed and it is found that the road when constructed will follow the dividing line between two counties or traverse first a part of one county and then a part of the other county, and thus making such a road a "county-line road," and satisfactory arrangements cannot be made between the road officials of the two interested counties for the construction of said "county-line road," then the road officials of the county desiring the construction of said road are hereby authorized to build said road, including that portion wholly within the other county, and pay for same out of the road funds of their county, and the road thus constructed shall become a public road of both counties and shall be maintained as provided in the preceding section for "county-line roads."

1917, c. 284, s. 40; 1919, c. 68.

3675. Extension of work to adjoining counties. When the county road commission or any other commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county has built a road to a county line of an adjoining county, which does not contain any connecting road, or if such connecting road is one that is in poor condition, and thus, there is a gap between the said county line to a good road in the adjoining county, and satisfactory arrangements cannot be made between the road officials of the two interested counties for the construction of a road connecting the two roads mentioned above, then the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work of the county desiring the construction of said road in order to make said connection, and when necessary the board of county commissioners, are herewith authorized to build said connecting road in the adjoining county and pay the cost of such construction out of the road or other funds of the county desiring the construction of said road, and the road thus constructed shall become a public road of the county in which it is located, and shall be maintained by said county in which it is located in a manner to be approved by the state highway commission.

3676. Work by county commission in municipalities. The county road commission provided for in this article, and any other commission or board having in charge the road work in any county or township of said county, or in any road district, is herewith authorized to expend a portion of the funds available for road work in said county, township, or road district upon the public roads of any incorporated town within said county, township, or road district having a population, as shown by the latest available federal census, of less than twenty-five hundred, and that portion of any street or road in an incorporated city or town having a population of twenty-five hundred or more, along which the houses average more than two hundred feet apart, whenever in their judgment the construction of such road within said incorporated city or town is to the interest of the county, township, or road district: Provided, that the board of aldermen or other governing body of said city or town agrees that the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work for the county, township, or road district, have full charge of the road work in said city or town as authorized by this section.

3677. Free labor required on roads. In those counties where the able-bodied men are required to work a certain number of days on the public roads of the county or township of such county, the labor of such men shall be under the jurisdiction and supervision of the county road commission, and the men shall be worked at such time and in such manner as said road commission may direct, in conformity with the county or township law governing such labor, except in so far as the following provisions amend such laws:

1. All able-bodied men of any county or township that are subject to work on the public roads of said county or township may be called out by the county road commission to work on such roads any time during the year for three consecutive days until the required number of days are worked out, and the work-year shall begin with the first day of January.

2. No man shall be called upon for more days work than is prescribed in the act authorizing such labor in said county or township.

3. Any able-bodied man required to work on the roads may, in lieu thereof, pay to the chairman of the county road commission a sum equal to seventy-five cents per day for the number of days he may be required to work; and in such case he shall be relieved from all labor on the roads.

4. Such sum is paid to the county road commission prior to the time he is called upon to work the roads.

5. Any able-bodied man subject to work on the road who fails to report for work at the time called upon by the county road commission, or refuses to work as required by the county road commission, and has not paid to the county road commission the required sum in lieu of such labor, unless prevented from reporting for such duty by illness or other cause beyond his control, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five dollars or more than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned not less than five or more than ten days.

1917, c. 284, s. 43; 1919, c. 68.

3678. Prisoners on roads. Any person in any county that has a county road commission appointed under the provisions of this article, who shall be convicted in any of the courts of said county, superior, justice's or mayor's courts, and sentenced to work on the public roads, shall be assigned into the custody and control of the county road commission by the board of county commissioners, when said board is so requested by the county road commission. Said prisoners while in the custody and under the control of the said county road commission shall be employed on such road work as may be deemed best by the county road commission, and the expense of maintaining and guarding said convicts while so employed may be paid by the board of county commissioners out of the general fund of the county upon vouchers approved by the chairman and secretary of the county road commission. All prisoners' camps shall be maintained in a sanitary manner approved by the state board of health. The county road commission is also authorized, in their care and working of convicts, to divide the prisoners into classes or groups according to the character of the prisoner, and work any and all such prisoners as they deem best without guards and without stripes. Prisoners worked in this manner, without guards and stripes, shall be known as "honor prisoners," and shall be entitled to receive a reduction of at least twenty-five per cent and not more than fifty per cent of the time they are sentenced for satisfactory work and good behavior.

3679. Road statistics. As it is necessary for the state highway commission to know as accurately as possible the number of miles and type of construction of the roads in each county in order to enable the state highway commission to supply the secretary of agriculture of the United States with the information he desires in connection with the operation of the Federal Aid Road Act, and to enable the state highway commission to carry on its work most efficiently and effectively, the chairman of the county road commission, or the chairman of whatever board or commission that has charge of the road work in such county or township of each and all the counties and townships of the state, is herewith authorized and directed to furnish to the state highway commission, upon blanks to be provided by said state highway commission, the number of miles of each type of road constructed, number of bonds issued, and amount of tax levied, and such other information and statistics regarding the road work of the county or township under his jurisdiction as the state highway commission may deem necessary.

3680. Guard railings. The county road commission of any county, or whatever board has charge of the roads and road work of any county or township or road district in said county, are herewith authorized and directed to provide suitable means to insure the safety of the public traveling over the roads of such county, township, or road district, by erecting, whenever it is considered necessary, substantial railings, walls, or other suitable structures for this purpose. If road officials of said county or township or road district fail to provide such satisfactory measures of insuring the safety of those traveling the roads of such county, township, or road district, then upon petition of twenty freeholders of the county, township, or road district who are frequent patrons of the road in question, the said county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, township, or road district, shall, within ten days after receipt of said petition, begin erecting such satisfactory railing, wall, or other suitable structure for this purpose: Provided, that if in the judgment of the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, such railings, walls, or other suitable structures are not needed, then they shall advise with the state highway commission, and if such commission deems such railings, walls, or other suitable structure necessary for the protection of the patrons of the said road, the county road commission or other said commission or board shall erect such railings, walls, or other suitable structures as called for in the petition.

Part 3. Road Institutes

3681. Road institutes. The members of the county road commission of any county, or the members of whatever commission or board who have charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, are herewith authorized to attend the road institute held annually at the University of North Carolina, and the county road commission of any county, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, are herewith authorized to detail any and all persons employed by said county in connection with the road work of said county, township, or road district to attend said institute, when in their judgment such attendance will inure to the benefit of the road work of said county, township, or road district; and the said road commission, or other commission or board, is herewith authorized to pay the expenses of the members of said county road commission or board, and other persons detailed to attend said road institute, out of the funds of the said county, township, or road district.

1917, c. 284, s. 47; 1919, c. 68.

Part 4. Road Districts

3682. Creation of road districts. Whenever it is desired to create a road district in any county, and provide funds for the location, construction, reconstruction, or maintenance of roads within such district, such road district may be created in the following manner: Upon petition of twenty-five freeholders living within the area of a proposed road district, which petition shall give the boundaries of the proposed district, together with the amount of bonds it is desired to issue for the district, or the amount of special tax it is desired to levy upon the proposed district, and when said petition is presented to the board of county commissioners it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of any county, upon receipt of such petition, to provide for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters living within the boundaries of the proposed road district on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of said county in which the proposed road district is located shall issue the bonds called for in the petition, or levy the special tax called for in the petition, provided that there is included in the petition the approximate number of miles of road it is proposed to improve by such bond issue or special tax; but no election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued or special road tax proposed to be levied will be sufficient to construct, alter, or improve approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved: Provided, that the approximate amount of bonds proposed to be issued as called for in the petition, together with all bonds previously issued and remaining unpaid by said county for which the property of the road district is liable, shall in no case exceed an amount equal to ten per cent of the total assessed valuation of the area included within the proposed road district.

In case the petition for a road district calls for an election, the board of county commissioners shall proceed to call, hold, and report the election as hereinbefore provided for in the election in townships; and in case the result of the election is in favor of road bond issue or special road tax, then the said board of county commissioners shall declare the road district created, and proceed to carry out the wishes of the people of the district in regard to the issuing of bonds or the levying of special tax heretofore provided for townships or road districts.

The legislature may, by special act, create a special road district, which may include a municipal corporation, and may place the election machinery for such special district in the hands of the municipal corporation: Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377. It may create such special district even for one road: Ibid.—and determine the manner of issuing and selling bonds, Ibid.

Who are to be considered freeholders in a petition for special tax, see section 1746.

3683. Special road district; apportionment of assessments. A county road commission of any county, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall have authority and power as hereinafter provided to cause to be relocated, constructed, reconstructed, or improved any public road of the county, or any part of such road, upon petition signed by the owners of sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereinafter provided for; and the board of county commissioners are authorized and directed as hereinafter provided to levy and cause to be collected an assessment upon all lots, tracts, and parcels of land specially benefited by such improvement, for paying two-thirds of the cost and expense thereof, as hereinafter provided, which assessment shall become a first lien upon all property liable therefor prior and superior to all other liens and encumbrances, and to provide for the payment of such assessment either on the immediate payment plan or by installments, and to issue local road district warrants or bonds for such installments.

3684. Petition for improvement of adjoining roads. The owners of sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereafter provided for adjoining such county road or part thereof sought to be improved in any county in this state may present to the county road commission or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county, a petition setting forth that the petitioners are such owners, and that they desire such road or part thereof to be improved under the provisions of this article, the particular road or portion thereof sought to be improved, the kind and nature of the improvement desired, and the mode of payment of the assessments to be levied for defraying the cost and expenses of such improvement, and the maximum cost of the proposed improvement.

3685. Procedure upon petition for special road district, or road improvement. Upon the presentation of a petition as provided in the two preceding sections, the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall forthwith proceed to carry out the wishes of the petitioners: Provided, that before the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall act upon said petition the register of deeds shall certify to the commission that the petition represents at least sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereinafter provided for adjoining the county road proposed to be improved; and that the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall, through its engineer, examine and survey and make plans and specifications and estimate of the cost of such construction and improvement as is desired by the petitioners; and if two-thirds of the estimated cost of such improvement is greater than the amount stated in the petition, then the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall reject such petition, except that they are authorized to do the work petitioned for. The total assessment charged against the property owners shall not be greater than the amount named in the petition.

The engineer shall examine and determine the lands that will be specially benefited by such improvement and which should be included within the local district to be assessed to defray the cost and expense of such improvement and to prepare the estimate rolls as hereinafter provided; the engineer shall also determine the cost of right of way, if any, for that portion of the road that it is necessary to relocate. As soon as the engineer has completed his report he shall present same to the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of such county, at their next meeting.

3686. Local road districts constituted; apportionment of assessment. Such local road districts shall be constituted and the boundaries thereof fixed as follows: The road or portion thereof to be improved, coterminous with the improvement, shall be the central line through the district, and the bordering lands on each side, and within a distance of half a mile from the margin of said road and coterminous with the construction work or improvement, shall be included in and constitute the body of the local road district, and shall be subject to assessment to the extent above provided.

For the purpose of making an equitable apportionment of the assessment, such local road district shall be divided longitudinally into three parts, as follows: All land on both sides of said road, or portion thereof, to be improved, and within a distance of eight hundred and eighty feet from the margins thereof, shall constitute the first subdivision; all the land outside of the first subdivision and within eight hundred and eighty feet from the exterior margins thereof shall constitute the second subdivision; and all the land outside of said second subdivision and within eight hundred and eighty feet from the exterior margins thereof shall constitute the third subdivision. Each separate tract or parcel of land in said first subdivision shall be assessed and be subject to a charge for a proportional part of forty-five per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost of the construction work or improvement of said road, including said incidental expenses, and it shall be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid; each separate tract or parcel of land in said second subdivision shall be assessed and subject to a charge for a proportional part of thirty-five per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost and expense of said construction work or improvement, and be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid; each tract or parcel of land in said third subdivision shall be assessed and subject to a charge for a proportional part of twenty per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost and expense of said construction work or improvement, and be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid.

The charge upon the several separate tracts or parcels of land in each subdivision shall be assessed ratably according to the front foot plan, that is to say, one foot of longitude measured along the road constituting the center of such improvement district and extending latitudinally across the subdivision shall be taken as the unit by which to determine the proportion of the assessment, so that a unit in each subdivision will be eight hundred and eighty square feet of superficial area. If the areas of said subdivisions are not equal to each other, the rates fixed for each subdivision shall be fixed on the basis that the benefit conferred on eight hundred and eighty square feet of land in subdivisions first, second, and third are related to each other as are the numbers forty-five, thirty-five, and twenty, respectively. This section is to imply that the property on each side of said road shall bear one-third of the cost and the county one-third.

3687. Report of engineer; creation of district. The county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall at their next meeting after the completion of the engineer's report relating to local road districts, consider such report, and if it shall appear from said report that the whole amount of the cost and expense of said construction or improvement, and, together with any cost for right of way chargeable as a lien against the property specially benefited within such local road district, comes within the amount specified in the petition, the said county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall make and enter upon their records an order that the said improvement be made, and creating such local road district for the payment of said cost and expenses of making said improvement, by special assessment of the property in said district specially benefited according to said engineer's report, be known and designated Local Road District, No. ---, in ----- County, North Carolina, and such report shall be kept on file in the office of the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county.

3688. Work undertaken. After the making of such order and directing the making of such improvement and establishing such local road district, the county road commission, or other commission or board having charge of the road work of said county, shall proceed to do the work under the same provisions and conditions as they are authorized to carry on road work for townships and counties. 1917, c. 284, s. 54; 1919, c. 68.

3689. Apportionment of expense; assessment roll, etc. When the final order for said improvement in the local road district shall have been made, the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, through its engineer or other representative shall proceed to apportion the estimated cost and expenses of said improvement upon the land embraced in said local road district according to the benefits to be derived therefrom, and not more than thirty days after the beginning of work on said improvement report to and file with the board of county commissioners an assessment roll in duplicate, which shall contain a description of each lot or parcel of land or part thereof to be assessed; the amount to be charged, levied, or assessed against each lot or parcel of land or part thereof, in proportion to the special benefits to be derived by each such lot or parcel or part thereof from such improvement, and the name of the owner of each such lot or parcel of land or part thereof, if known; but in no case shall a mistake in the name of the owner be fatal when the description of the property is correct.

As soon as said assessment roll shall have been so reported and filed, the board of county commissioners shall cause notice to be published for three consecutive weeks, which notice shall be published in a newspaper of the county, or, in case there is no newspaper in the county in which the local road district is located, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, notifying all persons interested that said assessment roll has been filed, and requiring them to appear at the office of the board of county commissioners, at the county courthouse, at a time not less than fifteen days from the date of the last issue of said publication of said notice, and make objections thereto, if any they have. At the time fixed the board of county commissioners shall meet, and, if no objections have been filed to said assessment roll, they shall make and enter an order confirming the same; but if objections in writing have been filed by any of the landowners affected thereby the board of county commissioners shall proceed to hear such objections, and for that purpose shall hear any testimony that shall be offered by any party interested, and either one of the board of county commissioners shall be authorized to administer oaths to witnesses. After such hearing they shall make such corrections and changes, if any, as to them shall appear just and requisite to apportion the assessment to the benefits to be received from such improvement, and shall then make and enter an order approving and certifying such assessment roll, and levying and assuming the amounts thereof against each and all of the lots and parcels of land, or parts thereof, respectively, included in said roll as approved, and the same shall become a first lien thereon: Provided, that any landowner may appeal to the superior court from the decision of said board, on giving an appeal bond in the sum of one hundred dollars, but such appeal shall not hinder or delay the carrying out of the provisions of this article.

The cost and expenses of survey and of all preliminary proceedings and all other expenses included in organization of the local road district, and for the preparation, issuance, and disposal of the bonds or warrants for the payment of cost and expense of such improvements, and for the cost of the improvements for the construction and reconstruction of the roads in said local district shall be paid out of the road fund and the general fund of the county in a ratio one to two; that is, one-third of all cost and expenses mentioned above shall be paid out of the road fund of the county by the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of said county; and the other two-thirds out of the general fund of the county; this latter being repaid in the assessments collected from the owners of the land jointly, under this article, in the local road district.

3690. Maintenance. All roads laid out, constructed, or reconstructed or improved under the provisions of this article shall, after their construction, be maintained by the county road commission, or other commission or board having charge of the public roads of said county.

3691. Methods of payment and collection of assessments. There shall be two methods of making payment of the special assessment chargeable against the several tracts and parcels of land included in the local road district authorized under this article, namely, that of "immediate payment" and that of "payment by bonds or warrants"; the method to be adopted and the period not exceeding ten years over which such bonds or warrants shall be made payable shall be that petitioned for as authorized herein. In case the payment of such assessments in local road districts is to be by the method of "immediate payment" the board of county commissioners shall, as soon as such assessment roll has been approved and certified, deliver the same to the sheriff of the county for the collection of such assessments. The sheriff shall give notice by publication for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper in the county, or, in case there is no paper in the county in which the local road district is located, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, and shall mail a copy of such notice to the owner of the property assessed when the name of such owner and his postoffice address is known; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be fatal when publication thereof is made; which said notice shall state that such assessment roll has been certified to him for collection, and that unless payment is made within thirty days from date of such notice such assessment will become delinquent and shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum; and if not paid before such assessment shall have become delinquent, a penalty of five per cent shall be added, and the sums delinquent shall be added on the annual tax roll for the current year against each lot, tract, and parcel so delinquent, and, with the interest and penalty, collected as other taxes, separate account being kept thereof; and if not paid within the time fixed for the payment of general county taxes, shall be collected as such taxes are collected, together with such additional charges and penalties as are authorized to be charged and collected on other delinquent taxes; and each lot, tract, or parcel so delinquent shall be sold for the amount of such assessment, with interest, penalty, and costs, at the time and in the manner and by the same authority and process as lands and lots are sold for general county taxes.

3692. Payment by bonds or warrants. In case the method of payment is to be "payment by bonds or warrants," the board of county commissioners, after the assessment roll has been approved and certified as hereinbefore provided, shall, at the time of levying said assessment and in their order making such levy, provide and declare that the sum charged thereby against each of such tracts or parcels of land in said local road district may be paid in equal annual installments, with interest upon the whole sum so charged at the rate fixed in said order, specifying the number of such installments, which shall be equal to the number of years which the bonds or warrants issued to pay for the improvement may run before payment of the same may be demanded by the holder thereof; and each year thereafter the sheriff shall collect one of said installments, together with the interest due thereon, and all installments thereafter to become due in the same manner and with the same added penalty and interest, in case of delinquents, and by means of the same proceedings to enforce such payments by the sale of the land, and as hereinbefore provided for the collection of said assessment by the method of "immediate payment."

1917, c. 284, s. 58; 1919, c. 68.

3693. Issuance of bonds of district; payable from general fund. The board of county commissioners shall make and enter an order authorizing and directing the issuance of such warrants or bonds of the local road district that has been authorized by the petition for the improved road work in said district, which by their terms shall be made payable on or before a date not to exceed ten years from and after the date of their issue, which latter date may be fixed by the order, and payment of which shall not be demanded by the holder thereof until the end of said period, and they shall bear such interest as shall insure their being disposed of at par and as may be provided for in said order, not exceeding six per cent per annum, which interest shall be payable annually, and each warrant or bond shall have attached thereto interest coupons for each interest payment. Such warrants or bonds shall bear the date of issue and be made payable to bearer. The warrants or bonds and each coupon shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, and shall be attested by the clerk of said board, and the seal of such board shall be affixed to each warrant or bond, but not to the coupon: Provided, that each coupon may be signed by facsimile signature of said officers. Such warrant or bond shall be printed, engraved, or lithographed on good bond paper, and state on its face that it is issued in accordance and compliance with the act of 1917, chapter 284, designating the same by title and date of approval. Such warrants or bonds shall be in denominations of not less than one hundred or more than one thousand dollars, and they shall refer to the improvement to pay for which the same shall be issued, and to the order and record thereof authorizing the same, and shall bear upon its face the designation of the local road district, thus: Local Road District, Number --- in ----- County, North Carolina. The principal sum named in the warrant or bond, and the interest thereon, shall be payable out of the general fund of the county, the same to be reimbursed as the assessments are collected by the sheriff from the assessment on the lands in the local road district. Such warrants or bonds shall not be issued in excess of the amount named in the petition requesting organization of the local road district.

3694. Notice of issuance of bonds; payment of assessments. In case the payment of the assessments provided for in the previous sections is by such special warrants or bonds, then the sheriff shall give notice by publication for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of the county, or in case there is no newspaper published in said county, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, and shall mail a copy of such notice to the owner of the property assessed, when the name of such owner and the postoffice address is given; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be fatal when publication thereof is made; which said notice shall state that such assessment roll has been certified to the sheriff for collection, and that unless payment of the whole amount of such assessment is made within thirty days from the date of such notice special warrants or bonds will be issued against said property for the payment of said assessments, and thereafter the same will be payable in annual installments, with interest thereon at the rate provided for in said warrants or bonds. At any time within such thirty days any owner of lands within such local improvement district may pay the said assessment chargeable against said owner's lands, and release and discharge the same therefrom and from the operation and effect of such warrants or bonds; and no warrants or bonds shall be issued until twenty days after the expiration of such thirty days, nor for any amounts of such assessment so paid in full within such thirty days. The owner of any such lands may redeem the same from all liability for such assessment at any time after said thirty days by paying the entire installments of said assessment remaining unpaid and charged against such lands at the time of such payment, with interest and all charges thereon to the date of the maturity of the installment next falling due. In all cases where any assessment or any installment thereof is paid as herein provided, the same shall be paid to the sheriff, and such funds shall be paid over by the sheriff into the general fund of the county.

1917, c. 284, s. 60; 1919, c. 68.

Part 5. Definition; Validating Clause

3695. Definition of terms; validation of bonds and elections. When provision is made by any section of this article for some other commission to have charge of the road work of any county, township, or road district, as provided for in this article, then such commission shall for the purposes of this article be considered as the county road commission of such county, township, or road district, and all the duties and authorities conferred upon the county road commission authorized by this article are herewith conferred upon such commission acting as the county road commission; and wherever the words "county road commission" are used in this article they shall be construed to mean such other commission as has been conferred with the authority and duties of the county road commission as authorized by this article. Whenever the word "owner" is used in this article, it shall be construed to mean owner or owners, guardian of infants, idiots, lunatics, or inebriates owning lands, or agents for nonresident owners of land in this state, or other persons whose property rights may be materially affected. All bonds issued and elections heretofore held under the provisions of this article are validated.

1917, c. 284, s. 61; 1919, c. 68.

ART. 5. TOWNSHIP ROAD BONDS AND ROAD COMMISSIONS

3696. Road bonds by townships authorized; bond limit. For the purpose of laying out, establishing, altering, repairing, grading, constructing and improving in any way the public roads in various townships of the state, and for purchasing machinery, tools, etc., necessary for such improvements, the boards of county commissioners of any county are authorized, empowered and directed to issue coupon bonds bearing interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable semiannually at the office of the treasurer of the county issuing such bonds, or at such other place as the board of county commissioners may determine, to an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars for any one township in any county, in the manner and under the restrictions hereinafter provided, and the bonds so issued by the commissioners of the county shall be paid by the township for which they are issued, and shall not be chargeable against any property or polls outside of such township. The board of county commissioners in performing the duties of issuing, selling and purchasing bonds or doing any other thing under this article shall be deemed the agent of any township acting under this article. If bonds hereunder have been voted at an election authorizing an issue of five per cent bonds, but not issued before March 8, 1919, the issuance of six per cent bonds in such case is authorized.

1913, c. 122, s. 1; 1915, c. 237, s. 1; 1919, c. 188, s. 1.

Legislature may create township road districts, regulate their management, and provide for issuing bonds: Highway Com. v. Construction Co., 170-513; Highway Com. v. Malone, 166-1.

The county commissioners are acting as agents for the townships under this section, and the court will not interfere with their exercise of power, unless they are abusing their discretion: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

The county commissioners will not be restrained from building a township road under this section, at the suit of a taxpayer, because notice was not given to the landowners as required in sections 3762, 3763: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

3697. Election to determine issuance; return of election; issue and sale of bonds. Upon presentation of a petition in writing signed by not less than one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township, to the board of county commissioners of their county, requesting them to submit to the qualified voters of the township where such petitioners reside a proposition to issue bonds for the purposes named in the preceding section for a definite amount at a maximum rate of interest and to run for a period not to exceed fifty years, all to be named in said petition, the board of county commissioners shall within thirty days order an election to be held in such township and submit to the qualified voters therein the question of issuing bonds to the amount, at the rate of interest, and to run for a period specified in said petition, at which election all those qualified to vote who are in favor of said proposition shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words "For road bonds," and those opposed to the proposition shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words "Against road bonds," and the election for this purpose shall be conducted in the same manner and subject to the same rules and regulations as are or may be provided for the election of township officers by the general election laws of this state, unless in any manner otherwise provided for in this article.

The board of county commissioners shall at the time of ordering any election under this article appoint one registrar and two judges of election in each precinct in said township to hold said election. The books shall be kept open for the registration of voters for twenty days preceding the day of election. For the purpose of registration the books used in the general election shall be delivered to and revised by the registrar, and the commissioners may order a new registration by giving thirty days notice of such registration. Such election shall be held after thirty days notice thereof, specifying the amount of the proposed bond issue, rate of interest and period for which bonds shall run, shall have been posted at the courthouse and at every polling place in the township where said election shall take place, and published in four issues of some newspaper published in the county, if the board of county commissioners so order, and the returns thereof shall be made to the board of county commissioners, and returns recorded and result declared by said board as they may determine.

If a majority of the votes cast be "For road bonds," then the board of county commissioners shall issue coupon bonds to the amount, at the rate of interest, and to run for a period specified in the said petition and order of election, and the bonds shall upon their face indicate on account of what township they are issued. They may, at the option of the county commissioners, be issued so as to mature serially or in annual installments, the last payment of which shall be due within the maximum period authorized. They shall be in denominations of not less than one hundred dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars each. They shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and attested by the official seal and signature of the register of deeds of said county. The chairman of the board of county commissioners, under the direction of said board, shall sell the bonds so issued at not less than par value and for as much above par value as possible: Provided, that said bonds shall be issued and sold only as the funds are needed in the township for the purposes indicated herein: Provided further, elections may be ordered and held upon petitions under the provisions of this article not oftener than every twelve months, in any township, until the full amount of bonds authorized by this article shall have been issued for such township.

1913, c. 122, s. 2; 1919, cc. 188, 339.

3698. Tax for interest and sinking fund. - Section 3681. (Road institutes.)
- Section 3690. (Maintenance.)

1919, c. 232, ss. 15, 17, 21, 22, 24, 25, 28, 29, 30, 31, 33, 34, 35, 36.

3746. Cutting trees along road. The county road commission shall have the power as to cutting trees on land adjoining the road conferred on county road commissioners under section 3669 of this chapter under the limitations contained in said section, but commissioners created under this chapter shall not cut trees in any grove or yard left around or near any house left or used for a grove or shade trees.

3747. Prisoners on road. The provisions of section 3678 as to the duties of county road commissioners in reference to persons sentenced to work on the public roads shall be applicable to county road commissioners created by this article, except that the clause of said section is inapplicable which provides that the expense of maintaining and guarding said convicts while employed on the public roads may be paid by the county commissioners out of the general fund of the county.

Where any county or township is working convicts on its public roads under any local, special or private act, such township, upon the demand of the county road commission, shall turn over such convicts to the county road commission, which may proceed to work them on the public roads of the county, or the road commission, if it shall find that working convicts is unprofitable, shall turn such convicts over to counties from which they were received and discontinue convict labor on the public roads.

3748. Counties excepted from article. This article shall not apply to Alamance, Alexander, Anson, Ashe, Beaufort, Bertie, Buncombe, Cabarrus, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Cherokee, Chowan, Clay, Cleveland, Columbus, Dare, Davidson, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Gates, Graham, Granville, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hoke, Hyde, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Lenoir, Lincoln, Macon, Mecklenburg, Moore, Montgomery, Nash, Northampton, Orange, Pasquotank, Person, Pitt, Polk, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Stanly, Surry, Tyrrell, Warren, Washington, Watauga, Wilkes, Wilson, Yadkin, and Yancey counties.

1919, c. 232, s. 39a.

3749. Repealing clause. All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with this article are hereby repealed in those counties which may ratify this article.

1919, c. 232, s. 40.

ART. 8. ROAD OFFICIALS

3750. Public roads designated; authority of supervisors and county commissioners. All roads and ferries that have been laid out or appointed by virtue of any act of assembly, or any order of court, are hereby declared to be public roads and ferries; and the justices of the peace in each township shall have the supervision and control of the public roads in their respective townships. They shall, with respect to this work, constitute and be styled the board of supervisors of public roads of such township, and under that name, for the purposes aforesaid, they are hereby incorporated the board of supervisors of public roads, and the board of county commissioners, as hereafter in this chapter set forth, shall have full power and authority within their respective counties to appoint and settle ferries, to order the laying out of public roads where necessary, to appoint where bridges shall be made, to discontinue such roads and ferries as shall be found useless, and to alter roads so as to make them more useful. But upon the adoption of road commissions by counties or townships, as provided in this chapter, the powers and authority conferred or exercised under this section are transferred to such road commissions within such counties or townships.

Rev., s. 2681; Code, s. 2014; 1887, c. 73; 1889, c. 543; 1893, c. 141; R. C., c. 101, s. 1; 1784, c. 227, s. 1; 1868, c. 20, ss. 11, 16, 17, 18; 1868-9, c. 185, s. 14; 1879, c. 82, s. 1.

For road commissioners, see sections 3643, 3658, 3705, 3726. For annotations as to establishing public roads, see section 3761.

LEGISLATIVE CONTROL OVER ROADS, BRIDGES, ETC. Article 8, section 2, of the constitution, giving to commissioners a general supervision and control over roads, bridges, ferries, etc., does not deprive legislature of power over these subjects: Barrington v. Ferry Co., 69-165; In re Spease Ferry, 138-219.

Legislature may prescribe by what method roads shall be worked and kept in repair, either by labor, by taxation of property, or by license taxes, or by a mixture of two or more of these methods, and this may vary in different counties and localities: State v. Holloman, 139-642.

The question, what is a public use? is always one of law. Deference will be paid to the legislative judgment as expressed in enactments providing for appropriation of property, but it will not be conclusive: Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283.

Legislature can provide special road law and method of working public roads for a county, or several counties, or a township or other locality, and make the adoption of such systems depend upon acceptance or rejection thereof by people or landholders, or by official board of such county, township, or locality: State v. Holloman, 139-642. Legislature has complete power to regulate highways in state and may prescribe what vehicles may be used on them, with a view to the safety of passengers over them and preservation of roads, and this power may be conferred upon local governing agencies, and its being put into effect can be made dependent upon action of board of supervisors: Ibid.

WHAT IS A PUBLIC HIGHWAY. A public highway is one established and kept in order by public authority, or one used and controlled by the public for twenty years, so that a dedication is presumed: State v. Norris, 174-808; Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374; Stewart v. Frink, 94-487; State v. Purifoy, 86-682; State v. McDaniel, 53-284; Boyden v. Achenbach, 79-539; Kennedy v. Williams, 87-6; State v. Johnson, 61-140—or one arising from a dedication by owner and acceptance by public, or persons in a position to act for them: Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374; Collins v. Patterson, 119-602—but a neighborhood road not dedicated to public, but used by public under permission or license of owner of land, is not a public road within meaning of this section: Ibid.

An overseer is not essential to the existence of a highway. A public square in a city or town, within which is situated the courthouse, is a public highway: State v. Eastman, 109-785.

There may be a public road de facto, and the only person who can question right to such road is owner of land, but owner can only be bound by proceeding against him according to law of land, or by user of twenty years, from which such proceedings will ordinarily be presumed: State v. Marble, 26-318.

WHAT AMOUNTS TO HIGHWAY BY DEDICATION OR BY PRESCRIPTION. Dedication of a public way may be in express terms, or implied from owner's conduct, and, while intent to dedicate is usually required, conduct of owner may, under certain conditions, work a dedication on his part, even in the absence of an intent to dedicate: Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374.

Where road has been used by public as public highway for twenty years, and there is no evidence how this user commenced, a presumption of law arises that this road has been laid off and established as a public road by due course of law; but a possession or user by public for a less time will not raise this presumption: State v. Marble, 26-318; Woolard v. McCullough, 23-432; State v. Hunter, 27-369; Stewart v. Frink, 94-487; Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374. It is more the intention of owner than the length of time of user which must determine fact of dedication: State v. Marble, 26-318.

FERRIES; ESTABLISHMENT; EXCLUSIVE PRIVILEGES. The power to establish ferries is one of the attributes of sovereignty which is to be exercised by legislature itself, or by any agent whom that body may authorize to act for it: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219.

The essential element of a ferry franchise is exclusive right to transport persons, with horses and vehicles and such personal goods as accompany them, from one shore to other: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675. The essential idea in a ferry is the crossing of a stream or other body of water from shore to shore: Ibid.

Franchise of keeping a public ferry is so incident to riparian ownership that it can be granted to none but those who own the land at one of the termini, unless such proprietors refuse to exercise it, when it may be granted to another, upon his making compensation to owner, and this is so even when termini are public roads: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675; Pipkin v. Wynns, 13-402. Legislature has power to grant franchise of ferry to any one, and to authorize condemnation of land of riparian owner as a landing place: Barrington v. Ferry Co., 69-165.

An order of the commissioners to lay out a ferry amounts to the establishment thereof: Robinson v. Lamb, 129-16. Article 7, section 2, of the constitution, giving supervision and control of roads, bridges, etc., to county commissioners, does not deprive general assembly of power to authorize establishment of public ferry at certain point for term of 30 years and providing that it shall be unlawful for any person to establish any other ferry within 1½ miles of said ferry: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219—and it must be construed as a restriction upon the general powers of the commissioners “to appoint and settle ferries,” In re Spease Ferry, 138-219. An order of the county court granting to one tenant in common exclusive right of keeping a ferry and receiving tolls, without default in the others, and without notice to them, is void: Pipkin v. Wynns, 13-402.

While county commissioners control public bridges and ferries, it is by virtue of their duties, imposed by law, in regard to public roads; and they are not to be established or assumed or maintained as county charges unless as parts thereof, in actual existence or in contemplation: Greenleaf v. Comrs., 123-30. The discretionary power of the county commissioners to establish ferries and public roads is subject to review by superior court on appeal: Robinson v. Lamb, 126-498. An order of the commissioners establishing a ferry gives a vested right, and is not vacated by an appeal to the superior court: Robinson v. Lamb, 129-16.

Where a river lies wholly within a county, commissioners of an adjoining county have no jurisdiction to establish ferry across such river: Robinson v. Lamb, 131-229.

General assembly granting to a company privilege of establishing ferry within two miles of another which has been used for over forty years did not divest any vested right belonging to owner of such old ferry: Barrington v. Neuse River Ferry Co., 69-165. Public ferries are not monopolies, but franchises granted in consideration of public services. They may be exclusive, but are simply licenses, revocable at will: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219.

Public ferry is protected by statute from all interference with proper enjoyment and use of franchise by erection of another ferry: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675. Where statute prohibits establishment of ferry within certain limits, it does not affect license for ferry already granted: Robinson v. Lamb, 129-16.

Where plaintiff granted a ferry franchise from two points, opposite each other, on a large stream, it was held that he could not enjoin and recover damages from a party who used stream as a highway in conveying freight from points up the river, although one of these points was within statutory distance of five miles: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675.

Every subtraction from the profits of a ferry, by conveying its customers over the stream, with or without charge, is an injury for which an action will lie: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675—and in such case it is the diminution in number of customers who would use ferry, and consequent reduction of tolls, which is measure of damages recoverable, Ibid.

The distance of five miles prescribed in reference to ferries is five miles in a direct straight line from ferry first established: Toll-Bridge Co. v. Flowers, 110-381.

No one, in absence of special authority from legislature or board of county commissioners, has the right to erect and maintain a bridge or ferry within such a distance of a duly authorized toll-bridge as will divert from latter custom which, in ordinary course of travel, would pass over it, whether that distance be greater or less than five miles: Toll-Bridge Co. v. Flowers, 110-381. For discontinuance of ferries, see under section 3762.

EXERCISE OF AUTHORITY. The power of the county commissioners over roads and bridges will not be interfered with by the courts unless such power is abused: Cobb v. R. R., 172-58; Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448; Scott v. Comrs., 170-327; Supervisors v. Comrs., 169-548; Brodnax v. Groom, 64-244.

This section constitutes the justices of the peace a board of supervisors, and refers only to those who are qualified and acting: Ford v. Manning, 152-151.

Section referred to in Tate v. R. R., 168-523.

3751. Local: County commissioners to regulate roads and bridges. The board of county commissioners shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to make rules and ordinances, not inconsistent with the acts of the general assembly, to regulate the use of the public roads, highways and bridges of their respective counties. They shall have power to make rules and ordinances to regulate the weight of loads permitted to be hauled on the public roads and highways, and as to the width of tires permitted to be used; and may prohibit the carrying thereon of such loads and the use of such tires or vehicles as they may deem needlessly injurious or destructive to such roads or bridges. In making such ordinances, they may have regard to the conditions of the various roads or parts thereof, and the conditions of traffic thereon, and make different rules and ordinances applicable thereto. Any person who shall needlessly violate an ordinance made in pursuance of the authority herein given, or who shall aid, abet or assist in such violation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

This section shall apply only to the counties of Alamance, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Brunswick, Camden, Cabarrus, Cherokee, Columbus, Cumberland, Davidson, Duplin, Durham, Franklin, Gaston, Granville, Guilford, Hertford, Hoke, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Madison, McDowell, Macon, Montgomery, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Pitt, Pasquotank, Randolph, Richmond, Sampson, Tyrrell, Union, Washington, Yancey.

The legislature may regulate the highways and prescribe what vehicles may be used upon them, with a view to the safety of passengers and the preservation of the roads; and this power may be conferred upon local governing agencies: Dalton v. Brown, 159-175 (hauling lumber); State v. Holloman, 139-642 (hauling lumber); State v. Yopp, 97-477 (bicycles).

3752. Meetings of supervisors prescribed. The board of supervisors shall meet at some place in their respective townships to be agreed upon by themselves, or, in the absence of such agreement, to be named by their chairman, on the first Saturday of February and August, for the purpose of consulting on the subject of the condition of the roads in their township, and may hold special meetings at other times, upon ten days written notice by the chairman to each member of the board, stating the time and place of such meeting. They shall once in each year, during the week of their meeting in August, go over and personally examine all the roads in their township. They shall annually at their meeting in February elect some one of their number chairman. Where the board is composed of more than three members it shall take three members to constitute a quorum of said board for the transaction of business.

Rev., s. 2712; 1909, c. 364, ss. 2, 3; Code, s. 2015; 1879, c. 82, s. 2; 1880, c. 30, s. 1.

The supervisors are not confined to these public meetings for the purpose of considering cartways: Ford v. Manning, 152-151.

Supervisors are not liable for injury caused by defective highway unless negligence is corrupt or malicious: Ruffin v. Garrett, 174-134.

3753. Supervisors appoint overseers, designate workers and allot hands. The board of supervisors shall, annually at the meeting in August, divide the roads of their townships into sections and appoint overseers for such sections at said meeting. They shall at the same time allot the hands to the overseers, and shall also designate the boundaries or points to which each resident shall be liable to work on each section, and shall within five days after such meeting certify to each overseer written notice of his appointment, with a list of the hands assigned to his section. The board of supervisors may at any time alter the sections or allotment, but shall give notice thereof to the overseer. Such overseer shall serve, and be liable as such for neglect of duty, until he shall be relieved by the board, which shall be done only upon his showing that his road is in good condition as prescribed by law. The overseer may resign after the expiration of twelve months, provided his road shall be in good repair and the board of supervisors shall so find; and any overseer so resigning, and whose resignation has been accepted by the board, shall not without his consent be again appointed overseer until after the expiration of two years from the date of his resignation. When a public road shall be a dividing line between townships, the board of commissioners of the county shall determine as to how said road shall be divided, with notice as to the working of said road. The hands may be allotted to a road by allotting all who live or shall live within certain boundaries to be fixed by the board of supervisors, in which event a list of the hands by name need not be given, but the list shall specify the hands living in the prescribed territory.

Rev., s. 2715; Code, s. 2016; 1879, c. 82, ss. 3, 7; 1880, c. 30, s. 1; 1887, c. 93, s. 1.

Assignment of one liable to road duty to any particular road rests with board of supervisors of township: State v. Gillikin, 114-832. An order issued by township board appointing a person overseer of road is proper evidence of such appointment and admissible: State v. Cauble, 70-62.

An overseer cannot free himself from the duty imposed by law by surrendering his order of appointment to clerk of the board of township trustees: State v. Long, 81-563.

An overseer of a public road can require no hands to work on his road unless they live within a district which has been designated for him by county court, or unless they have been specially assigned by court to work on his road: Woolard v. McCullough, 23-432.

3754. To have orders appointing overseers served within thirty days; penalties. The board of supervisors of the township, within ten days after the rise of the board, shall furnish the constable with two copies of each order appointing overseers of roads that may have been made during the sitting of the board. And the constable shall apply at the office of the board, within ten days after the rise of every meeting of the board, for such orders, and, on receiving them, shall, within twenty days, serve each overseer of roads with a copy of the order, or leave the same at his usual habitation; and the other copy shall be returned to the next meeting of the board of supervisors, with the date of its reception by him and the date of the service indorsed thereon, or the date when it was left at the residence of the said overseer. And if either the board or constable shall fail to perform any duty enjoined by this section, he shall forfeit ten dollars to the county, to be recovered at any time, by notice to show cause at the instance of the solicitor, who shall prosecute the same in the name of the state: Provided, the delivery to the overseer of the order appointing him made by the board of supervisors of the township, or any one of them, shall be deemed and held to be a legal service of the same.

Rev., s. 2714; Code, s. 2043; 1891, c. 519; R. C., c. 101, s. 8; 1812, c. 845, ss. 1, 2; 1813, c. 859, ss. 1, 2.

3755. Supervisors annually report to superior court. The board of supervisors shall annually make report to the first term of the superior court of their county after the first Monday in August of the condition of the roads of their township, and if the meetings provided for in this chapter have been held by said board, the judge holding such term of the superior court shall, after his charge to the grand jury and before they shall retire to their room, call upon the clerk of the court for such reports, and they shall then and there be delivered to the foreman of the grand jury.

Rev., s. 2713; Code, s. 2024; 1879, c. 82, s. 10.

3756. Supervisors neglecting duties punished. If any board of supervisors shall fail to make any report required by law, or to discharge any duty imposed by law, the members thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The indictment may be against the board jointly, or against the justices composing said board, or any one or more of them severally.

Rev., s. 3770; Code, s. 2024; 1879, c. 82, s. 10.

To put and keep public roads in order is not one of the duties of the supervisors, but a duty of the overseer, and an indictment hereunder for such failure should be quashed: State v. Britt, 118-1255.

Section cited in State v. Godwin, 123-699.

3757. Overseers to report on state of road and work done; result when delinquency appears. Every overseer shall at each and every meeting of the board of supervisors of his township make report to them of the present condition of his road, of the number of days worked on his section since last meeting, of the number of hands who attended and worked each day, of the number and names of hands who failed to attend and work; whether or not they were legally summoned, and whether or not they have paid the one dollar as provided. In all cases the report provided for in this section must state either that the overseer has worked the hands allotted to his section of road the full limit of time allowed by law, or that his section of road of which he is overseer is not in need of any further work at the time such oath is made and subscribed to by the overseer. The said overseer shall, before some person authorized to administer an oath, make written affidavit that the report is true and correct. Upon this report sworn to as aforesaid, if it shall appear that any of the hands, after being legally summoned, have failed to attend and work on said road, and that they did not pay the one dollar, then it shall be the duty of the said supervisors, or any one of them, to issue a warrant for the arrest of any such hand, and shall put him upon trial for the offense: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the overseer of the road from prosecuting, at any time after the offense has been committed, any hand for failure to work on the road, and such cases of prosecution shall be stated in his report to the board of supervisors, that they may not prefer another prosecution for the same offense.

Rev., s. 2716; Code, s. 2021; 1879, c. 82, s. 7; 1880, c. 30, s. 4; 1909, c. 110, s. 1.

3758. Overseers to report on collections and expenditures of money. The said overseers shall, at the meeting of the supervisors in August, make a report of all moneys collected by them from parties excused from work on the road for the preceding year, with a statement as to how the same was expended. In case of failure of any overseer to make any report to the board of supervisors of public roads of his township, as provided in this chapter, it shall be the duty of the chairman of such board immediately upon such failure to make a sworn statement of the fact before some justice of the peace of an adjoining township, who shall immediately issue his warrant for the arrest of the said overseer, and proceed to try him for the offense.

Rev., s. 2717; Code, s. 2022; 1879, c. 82, s. 8.

3759. Officials of road district to report financial condition annually. The board of road commissioners or other officials in charge of the roads of any county, township, or road district are and they are hereby required and directed to make out an annual itemized statement of the receipts and disbursements and of the financial condition of such road district for the calendar year, and shall, on or before the first day of February of each year, post a copy of the statement for the previous year at the courthouse door of the county, and shall file a copy of the same with the register of deeds, who shall produce such copy, on request, for the inspection of any taxpayer of such road district. And if any person or persons shall fail to perform the duties required of him by this section, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

3760. Overseer neglecting duties punished. If any overseer of a road shall willfully neglect any of the duties imposed on him by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days.

Rev., s. 3785; Code, s. 1054; 1889, c. 504; R. C., c. 34, s. 39; 1786, c. 256, s. 4.

Overseer of road cannot relieve himself from liability voluntarily; his road must be in the condition required by law: State v. Long, 81-563.

Should be excused when the weather makes work impossible or unavailing: State v. Small, 33-571.

Indictment must charge that defendant "wilfully neglected," etc.: State v. Miller, 100-543—not necessary to charge that "it became and was the duty" of the overseer to repair the road, Ibid.

The order appointing a person overseer is proper evidence of such appointment: State v. Cauble, 70-62. Not necessary to show appointment when party indicted acted as and performed the duties of overseer, he is estopped to deny his appointment: State v. Long, 76-254, 81-563.

ART. 9. CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF ROADS AND BRIDGES

Part 1. Procedure

3761. County commissioners to establish or discontinue; no more than five jurors required. The board of commissioners of the county only shall have the right to lay out and establish and discontinue public roads. In laying out and establishing roads, and for the purpose of assessing damage to property by reason of the same, no greater number of jurors than five shall be summoned or be required.

Rev., s. 2683.

As to laying out and discontinuing cartways, see sections 3836, 3837.

County commissioners are vested by statute with power to lay out or discontinue public roads, and from their action an appeal lies to superior courts in term, where issues of fact are to be tried by jury, and from that court an appeal lies to supreme court, as in other cases: King v. Blackwell, 96-322; Blair v. Coakley, 136-405; Lambe v. Love, 109-305; McDowell v. Insane Asylum, 101-656; see section 3764.

Order in which work upon public highways is to be performed is within sound discretion of commissioners, and a finding by court that they have exercised this discretion honestly and in a manner which they conceived to be for the best interests of people of county excludes any interference by the courts: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-413.

A board of county commissioners denied and dismissed a petition for public road, and at subsequent meeting dismissed a similar petition for same road without going into merits of cause, and then, at a later meeting, upon petition by and against the same party as the first, allowed public highway to be constructed: Held, former judgments and proceedings of commissioners were not res judicata so as to prevent establishment of such highway: Warlick v. Lowman, 111-532.

The main question to be determined as to propriety of laying out public road is whether it is necessary for public good and convenience: King v. Blackwell, 96-322. Land cannot be taken for road by public authorities in promotion of private enterprise: Cobb v. R. R., 172-58.

Order of county commissioners laying out road is competent evidence to show establishment of such road, and such judgment cannot be collaterally attacked: State v. Yoder, 132-1111.

A petition for laying off a public road presented to county commissioners, and definitely describing terminal points of road prayed for, is sufficient to support action of board establishing road, although such petition is addressed to "Board of Supervisors of Public Roads": State v. Smith, 100-550.

A county court cannot dedicate or appoint a public road in any other manner than as authorized by law: State v. Marble, 26-318. County court has full power to order laying out of public roads; but none to lay them out: Welch v. Piercy, 29-365. Court has the power to decide whether public convenience requires laying out of road and to order a jury for purpose of laying it out: Ibid.

Where road is opened by order of county court, according to law in every respect, except that no damages were assessed by jury to owners of land, none but those owners can impeach order for that cause: Woolard v. McCullough, 23-432.

Where charter has been granted for turnpike road and road opened, county court has no right to convert it into public road unless charter has been duly surrendered, or from a nonuser for twenty years a dedication to public may be presumed: State v. Johnson, 33-647—and even in such case road can only be made public road in manner prescribed; the mere appointment of an overseer will not be sufficient for that purpose: Ibid.

When a road has been laid off by order of county court upon report of a jury, confirmed by court, and an appeal is taken to superior court, it is too late to take exceptions to jury. Objection should have been made in court below, upon return of jury, by a motion to quash proceedings of jury: Piercy v. Morris, 24-168.

Mere appointment of overseer and assignment of hands to a supposed road are not per se a judicial determination that a public road be laid out where none before existed: Baker v. Wilson, 25-168.

3762. Petition for public road or ferry; contents; notice required. The board of county commissioners shall not establish any ferry, or order the laying out of any public road, or discontinue or alter such road or ferry, unless upon petition in writing. Unless it appear to the board that every person over whose lands the said road may pass, or whose ferry shall be within two miles of the place at which another ferry is prayed to be established, shall have had twenty days notice of the intention to file such petition, the same shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board until the succeeding meeting of the board, and notice thereof be posted during the same period at the courthouse door; at which meeting the board shall hear the allegations set forth in the petition, and if sufficient reason be shown, the board shall appoint and settle or discontinue the ferry, or order the laying out, or discontinue or alter the road, as the case may be.

By adoption of road commissions the powers of county commissioners under this section are superseded, see this chapter, s. 3750.

For annotations as to roads and ferries, see section 3750.

This section and section 3763 are intended to protect the property owner and not to restrict the power of the commissioners in determining the necessity for the road: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

The law does not intend that establishment of necessary road should be impeded for want of twenty days notice if, before an order is made for laying off road, ample notice is given to owner: Little v. May, 10-599.

DISCONTINUANCE OF ROADS AND FERRIES. County court has no authority to discontinue public road but upon petition of one or more persons, filed in court, and other necessary proceedings prescribed by law, and any order for discontinuing a public road made otherwise is void: State v. Shuford, 28-162.

Where proceedings to change a road show no road as having been prepared nor describe where altered road is to run, except that it is to be brought nearer a particular house, and the prayer is only that an order may be "made for turning the road," and then an entry appears that "said report was confirmed and duly entered of record," there is no sufficient judgment for establishing the road as altered: State v. Spainhour, 19-547.

In determining upon propriety of discontinuing public road, evidence as to original object in opening road is not pertinent to inquiry, as its utility is not dependent upon intentions of those at whose instance it was first laid out, but upon wants of community and its tendency to promote public interest: Ashcraft v. Lee, 81-135. Evidence as to number of families to be benefited by continuing road is pertinent and important: Ibid. Evidence that road hands in a certain township are in number insufficient to keep up all roads in that township has no tendency, unless connected with other facts, to show that any particular road should be discontinued: Ibid.

Merely referring to section: Russell v. Leatherwood, 114-683.

3763. Public road laid out by three freeholders under oath; damages assessed a county charge. All public roads shall be laid out by a jury of three freeholders, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet at one of the termini of the proposed road, and, being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall lay out the road to the greatest advantage of the inhabitants, and with as little prejudice as may be to lands and enclosures. The jury shall also on oath assess such damage as private persons may sustain, and all damages assessed by them shall be deemed a county charge.

Rev., s. 2685; Code, s. 2040; 1885, c. 65; R. C., c. 101, s. 4; 1872-3, c. 189, s. 3; 1879, c. 82, s. 9.

Court has no power, except as to termini, to direct jury or any one else how road shall run, that being exclusive province of jury, their verdict being, of course, subject to judgment of court, whether it shall be received or not: Welch v. Piercy, 29-365.

Owner of property must seek compensation for land taken for a highway in manner pointed out by statute: Hitch v. Comrs., 132-573.

Under acts 1899, chapter 581, providing for assessment of damages for taking land for road purposes, a petition to county commissioners is proper procedure, and not an action in superior court: Jones v. Comrs., 130-451.

If commissioners take land for a highway without authority of law they are liable therefor individually: Hitch v. Comrs., 132-573.

An appeal lies from action of board of county commissioners confirming report of a jury laying out road, notwithstanding there was no appeal from original order allowing road and appointing jury to locate it: Lambe v. Love, 109-305.

Special benefits to the owner may be set off against damages sustained: Phifer v. Comrs., 157-150.

Damages for laying out road are not a county charge under a special township road law: Wells v. Comrs., 152-663.

3764. Appeal from commissioners to court; bond; trial de novo. Any person may appeal to the superior court at term time from the determination of the board of county commissioners, and if any person shall appeal from the board on a petition, he shall give bond to the opposing party as provided in other cases of appeal, and the superior court at term shall hear the whole matter anew; and where any proceeding is instituted to lay out, establish, alter or discontinue public roads or to appoint and settle ferries, and the said proceeding is carried to the superior court in term time by appeal or otherwise, the parties to said proceeding shall be entitled to have every issue of fact joined in said proceeding tried in the superior court in term time by jury, and from the judgment of the superior court either party may appeal to the supreme court as is provided by law for other appeals.

Rev., s. 2690; Code, s. 2039; R. C., c. 101, s. 3; 1813, c. 862, s. 1; 1879, c. 258.

The superior court has jurisdiction to review the action of commissioners in establishing public roads: Dickson v. Perkins, 172-359; Robinson v. Lamb, 126-492. Appeal lies from order laying out or discontinuing public roads: King v. Blackwell, 96-322; McDowell v. Insane Asylum, 101-656—from order altering public road, Blair v. Coakley, 136-405—from order establishing ferries, Robinson v. Lamb, 126-492—from confirmation of report of jury laying out a road, notwithstanding there was no appeal from original order, Lambe v. Love, 109-305. In construction of special act it was held that an appeal lies only upon the question of compensation: Luther v. Comrs., 164-241. Appeal must be taken to and docketed at the next term of superior court: Blair v. Coakley, 136-405; Brown v. Plott, 129-272—bond is required, Sutphin v. Sparger, 150-517—a trial de novo is had, State v. Davis, 159-455; Keaton v. Godfrey, 152-16—a petitioner is disqualified as a juror, Ibid.

The appeal vacates the former order pending the appeal: State v. Davis, 159-455. The jurisdiction on appeal is only derivative, and the court cannot change a petition for a cartway to one for a public road: Holmes v. Bullock, 178-376. From the superior court an appeal lies to supreme court: King v. Blackwell, 96-322; Ashcraft v. Lee, 81-135.

When a party appeals from decision of county court laying off a road over his lands, and superior court lays it off as appellant wishes, appellant shall not pay costs: Harris v. Coltraine, 10-312. Superior court can only determine on the merits: Piercy v. Morris, 24-168.

3765. Petition for discontinuance; condition for maintenance of new road; duties of commissioners; when old road closed. Whenever, upon petition of any person, a road shall be changed and, as a condition thereof, it shall be required by the board that he put the proposed road in good condition, he may, at any time thereafter, tender the same to the overseer, who shall receive it, if it be in such condition as is required for highways; and if not, he shall reject it; and in either case he shall report and certify the fact to said board, where the same may be considered; and said board shall hear all persons interested in the matter of receiving or rejecting the road; and the decision of the board shall be conclusive as to the condition of the road; but the old road shall not be closed until it be discontinued by order of the board.

Rev., s. 2692; Code, s. 2041; R. C., c. 101, s. 5; 1784, c. 227, s. 13; 1813, c. 862, s. 1.

Discontinuance of roads and ferries, see annotations under section 3762. Cartways, see section 3837. Appeals, see section 3764.

In a petition to turn or change a public road it must be alleged that new road is necessary or would be more useful to public; otherwise petition will be dismissed: Leath v. Summers, 25-108.

Public roads are laid out for public convenience, and therefore should not be altered but when interest of public requires it: Kenedy v. Erwin, 44-387.

3766. How landowner may change location on his own land. In addition to the mode prescribed in the preceding section for turning roads, the following method may be observed by any one who desires to change a road from one part of his land to another part, namely: Such person shall lay out the same, and after putting it in such good condition as highways are directed to be, shall apply to a justice of the peace, who thereupon shall notify the overseer of the road, and summon two freeholders to meet on the premises at a given day; and the said freeholders, being duly sworn, shall, with the justice, view and examine carefully the road which is proposed in place of the other, and all matters and facts tending to show whether the change should be allowed. They shall report, in writing subscribed by them, the result of their consideration to the next meeting of the board of supervisors, which may confirm or reject their report: Provided, that such justice and freeholders shall be disinterested in the land, and not of kin or affinity to the applicant.

Rev.. s. 2693; Code, s. 2042; R. C., c. 101, s. 6; 1834, c. 22.

Part 2. Bonds and Taxes for Roads and Bridges in the State

3767. Erection and maintenance of roads and bridges; county-line bridges.

Whenever in the opinion of the board of county or road commissioners or other road governing body of any county in the state it shall become necessary to build, rebuild, or repair any of the public roads or bridges in such county, and the same cannot be done with the labor and funds at their command or in their hands, then such board or body are hereby fully authorized and empowered in their discretion to build, rebuild, repair, alter or construct any of the roads and bridges in the county in such manner as to them may seem practicable.

Whenever it shall become necessary to build, rebuild, or repair any highway bridge over any stream which divides one county from another the road governing boards or authorities of the two counties may join in an agreement for building, rebuilding, or repairing the same, and the cost thereof shall be defrayed by the two counties in proportion to the number of taxable polls in each, unless otherwise agreed upon between the said boards or authorities of such counties: Provided, however, that the cost of any bridge erected across a stream dividing one county from another shall not exceed two per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in each of the said counties.

Rev., s. 2696; 1917, c. 103, ss. 1, 2; 1919, c. 185, s. 1.

COUNTY BRIDGES. County commissioners (or other governing body) alone have power to determine upon necessity for construction or repair of bridges and to contract for same, and such power cannot be delegated: McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330. Public bridges and ferries are incidentals of public roads and are not to be established or assumed or maintained as county charges unless as parts thereof in actual existence or in contemplation: Greenleaf v. Comrs., 123-30. The power conferred to build and keep up bridges refers exclusively to public bridges: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-421.

A citizen cannot restrain commissioners from erecting bridge across a river at certain point, though there is no public highway leading to such point, where court finds that board has in contemplation the opening of public road to such point, and that arrangements have been made for that purpose: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412.

County commissioners ordinarily contract on the part of the county for the construction and repair of bridges: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-694—but board cannot contract with citizen to perpetually maintain bridge, Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412.

It is not the duty of the commissioners to take initial steps for repairing bridges; it is only when their coöperation becomes necessary in a movement started by township board of supervisors of public roads for such repairs: State v. Selby, 83-617.

Where repairs have been made on a bridge, and work has been accepted by county, contractor may recover therefor on a quantum meruit for reasonable and just value of work and labor done and material furnished, though action was brought on special contract for repairs made with supervisors, who had no authority to make contract: McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330.

Where citizen, at his own expense, constructed bridge and opened up public roads over his lands leading to bridge on both sides of river, and commissioners accepted said bridge as public bridge and have kept it in repair ever since, fact that commissioners paid him only part of cost of its construction did not change its character as part of public highway, subject to control of commissioners, as all other bridges in county: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412. Plaintiff in this case is not entitled to a mandamus commanding commissioners to repair bridge: Ibid.

No one, in the absence of special authority from the legislature or the board of county commissioners, has the right to erect and maintain a bridge or ferry within such a distance of a duly authorized toll-bridge as will divert from latter the custom which, in the ordinary course of travel, would pass over it, whether that distance be greater or less than five miles: Toll-Bridge Co. v. Flowers, 110-381.

County commissioners under their general powers may bring an action to restrain the use of a nonfloatable stream for floatage of logs, causing damage to a county bridge over such stream: Comrs. v. Lumber Co., 115-590—or to restrain interference with a draw in a bridge, Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-357.

Where the county commissioners built two bridges within the corporate limits of a town they cannot recover from the town the cost of construction: Comrs. v. Raeford, 178-337.

Where contract to build bridge had been entered into by defendants without concurrence of majority of justices of the peace as required in this county: Held, there is no liability imposed on county: Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 111-317.

County is not liable for an injury to plaintiff occasioned by a defective bridge forming a part of the highway across a stream, in absence of any statutory provision: White v. Comrs., 90-437—nor are the individual commissioners liable, Hipp v. Farrell, 173-167; s. c., 169-552.

COUNTY-LINE BRIDGES. Application of section in estimating expense of bridge over a stream between two counties: Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 151-215.

The legislature may authorize two counties to issue bonds and build a bridge and necessary approaches over a dividing stream, although the bridge and principal part of the work may be in only one county: Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26. What is meant by a dividing stream: Ibid.; Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 151-215; McPeeters v. Blankenship, 123-651. See section 1297 (22).

3768. Bonds for bridges; terms and denomination; no sale below par. For the purpose of raising funds with which to defray the cost of building or rebuilding any roads or bridges as provided in the last section the boards of commissioners of the respective counties shall each have full power and authority, subject to the foregoing limitations, to issue bonds of said respective counties or borrow money and issue notes therefor to an amount not to exceed the actual cost of such roads or bridges. Such bonds shall be in denominations of one thousand dollars, or less, with interest coupons attached, payable semiannually, at such time and place as may be directed by such boards, and to be in such form and tenor, and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and at such place or places as such board may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value; and the same may be disposed of at public or private sale, as the board of commissioners may determine.

See Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3769. Special tax to provide for bonds. The county commissioners or other county authorities who are legally authorized and empowered to levy taxes shall, in order to provide for payment of the bonds or notes to be issued hereunder, and interest thereon, compute and levy each year at the time of levying other county taxes a sufficient tax upon all real and personal property in said county to pay the interest on the said bonds and notes, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds and notes at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes.

See Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3770. Record of bonds. The county commissioners of any county so issuing bonds shall provide a record which shall be kept by their clerk, in which shall be entered the name of every purchaser of a bond, the number of the bond purchased, the date of issue, when due, rate of interest, and the amount received for said bond. They shall also cause to be kept a record of all proceedings, as well as a record of the bonds redeemed annually, and the bonds when redeemed and recorded shall be destroyed by fire in the presence of the board of commissioners, and that fact recorded.

3771. Investment of excess funds from tax; provisions as to redemption; conditions expressed on bond. The fund raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, shall be safely invested by the board of county commissioners, and the county commissioners are authorized to purchase any of said bonds to amount of such excess annually, and after ten years they may purchase at not exceeding their par value one twenty-fifth of the bonds issued for any county; and if no holder of said bonds shall offer to sell such amount, then the said county commissioners are authorized to designate such bonds as they may desire to purchase, and after the designation of such bonds and the notice thereof given to a newspaper published in the county, if the holder of the bonds neglects or refuses to surrender the same and receive their par value, with interest accrued thereon at the time of such notice, then the holders shall not receive any interest subsequently accruing: Provided, the said bonds designated shall express such conditions on their face.

3772. Statutes under which such bonds may issue. County boards of commissioners or other bridge-governing body in any county may operate under the foregoing provisions or under the provisions of any special act in force in said county, or under provisions of any general act relating to bridges hereafter passed by the general assembly.

1917, c. 103, s. 3.

Part 3. Bonds and Taxes for State-line Bridges

3773. Construction and maintenance of interstate bridges. The board of commissioners of any county in the state of North Carolina bordering on any county in the state of South Carolina, Virginia, or Tennessee, is hereby authorized and empowered to cooperate with the authorities of any adjoining county in either of the above mentioned states in the construction and maintenance of any public road- or highway-bridge over any stream which divides any county in North Carolina from any other county in any of the above mentioned states, the cost of the construction and maintenance of which public road- or highway-bridge shall be defrayed and borne by the two adjoining counties in proportion to the number of inhabitants of each according to the last federal census, unless otherwise agreed upon between the board of commissioners or other proper authorities of the respective counties which such bridge shall connect.

1919, c. 103, s. 1.

3774. When interstate bridge deemed necessary. The construction and maintenance of any bridge authorized by the preceding section shall be deemed necessary in all cases where public roads or highways shall have been regularly laid off, according to law, in each of said counties to be so connected by such bridge to the banks of any stream dividing one county from another, if there is no passable ford across said stream at said point. The total cost of any bridge constructed pursuant to the provisions of this part of this article shall not exceed one-fourth of one per cent of the total assessed value of all taxable real and personal property in the two counties engaged in the construction of such bridge.

3775. Bonds for state-line bridges. For the purpose of raising the funds with which to defray its share of the cost of building or rebuilding any bridge authorized by this part of this article, the board of commissioners of any county in this state in which such bridge is to be built shall have full power and authority, subject to the foregoing limitations, to issue bonds of said county to an amount not to exceed said county's share of the actual cost of said bridge. Said bonds to be in denominations of one thousand dollars, or less, with interest coupons attached, payable semiannually at such time or times and place as may be directed by said board, and to be in such form and tenor and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding twenty years from the date thereof, and at such place or places as such board may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value.

3776. Tax to provide for bonds; records of bonds. The said commissioners or other county authorities empowered to levy taxes shall levy taxes to provide a fund for the payment of the interest of such bonds and a sinking fund for the payment of the bonds in the same manner and subject to the limitations and conditions specified in section 3769, and they shall keep, or cause to be kept, records of such bonds as provided in section 3770.

1919, c. 103, ss. 4, 5.

3777. Use of excess funds from tax. The fund raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, on said bonds shall be safely invested by the board of commissioners of such county, and such board is authorized to purchase any of said bonds to an amount of such excess annually at not exceeding their par value and accrued interest.

1919, c. 103, s. 6.

3778. Exercise of powers, where county commissioners superseded. The powers conferred and the duties imposed on the board of commissioners by this article shall be exercised and performed by the board of road commissioners or the board of highway commissioners or other bridge-governing board, by whatever name known, in counties where the powers and duties of boards of county commissioners in respect to roads and bridges have been transferred or given by law to such board of road commissioners or highway commissioners or other bridge-governing board.

1917, c. 103, s. 2; 1919, c. 103, s. 7.

ART. 10. REGULATIONS FOR ROADS AND BRIDGES

Part 1. Roads

3779. Width of roads. All roads, except such as are causewayed or through cuts, shall be not less than eighteen feet wide, clear of trees, logs and other obstructions to the passage of ordinary vehicles, and there shall be ten feet in width in the center of the roadway clear of stumps and runners. Where, by the overseers, it may be deemed expedient to make or repair causeways on the same, they shall be at least fourteen feet wide; and earth, necessary to raise or cover them, shall be taken from either hand, so as to form a drain on each side of the causeway; and they shall make, of the same width, necessary bridges through swamps and over small streams of water: Provided, this section shall not apply to the roads in those counties where there is by law a classification of the widths of the roads.

Rev., s. 2682; Code, s. 2025; R. C., c. 101, s. 14; 1784, c. 227, s. 2; 1880, c. 30, s. 6.

3780. Guide-posts at forks and crossings. The board of county commissioners shall cause to be erected and maintained at the various crossings and forks of the public highways of each county guide-posts with proper inscriptions and devices thereon indicating the direction to and distance from the most important town or vicinity within ten miles of such guide-posts. Such post shall be of substantial timber and the lettering thereon shall be not less than two inches in height and of legible character. The cost of the erection of such guide-posts shall be paid from the county road fund. In those counties in which road commissions have been established the duty of the erection of such guide-posts shall devolve upon the road commissions instead of the board of county commissioners. Any person who shall willfully deface or destroy any such guide-post shall, upon conviction therefor, be fined not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars.

3781. Overseers' duty as to signs at crossings. Overseers shall cause to be set up, at the forks of their respective roads, a post or posts, with arms pointing the way of each road, with plain and durable directions to the most public places to which they lead, and with the number of miles from that place as near as can be computed; and every overseer who shall, for ten days after notice of his appointment, neglect to do so and to keep the same in repair, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect ten dollars.

Rev., s. 2722; Code, s. 2030; R. C., c. 101, s. 18; 1784, c. 227, s. 11; 1812, c. 846.

Overseer of a road is subject to indictment if he neglects to keep signboards: State v. Nicholson, 6-135.

3782. High-water marks at fords; overseers liable. If any overseer of roads shall fail to establish high-water marks or signals on both sides of any river, creek or stream which is used as a ford for a public highway, and to permanently fix the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3782; 1889, c. 517.

3783. Mile-posts to be maintained; overseers liable. Every overseer of a road shall cause the same to be exactly measured, where it has not already been done, and at the end of each mile shall mark in a plain, legible, and durable manner the number of miles, beginning, continuing, and marking the numbers in such manner and form as the board of supervisors shall direct; and every overseer shall keep up and repair such marks and number of his road. If an overseer shall neglect any of the duties prescribed in this section, for the space of thirty days after his appointment to office, he shall forfeit and pay four dollars, and the like sum for every thirty days thereafter the said marking may be neglected.

3784. Injuring signs and mile-posts misdemeanor. If any person shall needlessly remove, knock down or deface any public sign-post, arms, or any mile-mark, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3783; Code, s. 2031; R. C., c. 101, s. 19; 1784, c. 227, s. 11; 1812, c. 846.

3785. Footways at streams, etc.; ten years maintenance establishes right. Every overseer of the road, when the township board of supervisors may so direct, shall cause to be made and kept in repair, for the convenience of travelers on foot, good and sufficient footways over all swamps and streams of water that may cross that part of the road allotted to him; and, when the board shall so direct, shall also erect and keep hand-rails on each side of all hollow bridges situate on such part of the road: Provided, that at all places where footways and hand-rails, at hollow bridges or over swamps and streams of water, shall have been commonly used, for the space of ten years next preceding any period within three years before presentment made or indictment found for want of such footways or hand-rails, the same shall be conclusive evidence of an order theretofore made by the board, that they shall be erected and kept up, subject to be rebutted only by producing an order dispensing with them made within three years next before such presentment.

Rev., s. 2695; Code, s. 2029; R. C., c. 101, s. 17; 1817, c. 940, ss. 1, 2.

3786. Gates across highways may be allowed on petition. Any person desiring to erect a gate across a public road may file his petition before the board of supervisors of the township where the road lies; whereupon publication shall be made at the courthouse and on the land of the person so applying and at three public places in said township until the next succeeding meeting, of such application, specifying the road, the place for the gate and name of the petitioner; and all persons interested in the convenient traveling or transportation on said road shall have leave to appear and defend, demur, or plead to said petition; and if, at that meeting, it shall appear that such publication has been made, the supervisors may, at their discretion, authorize the petitioner, at his cost, to erect a gate as prayed for.

Rev., s. 2711; Code, s. 2058; R. C., c. 101, s. 39; 1834, c. 16, ss. 2, 3, 4; 1905, c. 88.

In exercise of their powers over public roads commissioners may grant to a party over whose land any new road ordered by them to be laid out may pass, right to erect gates across such road: Andrews v. Beam, 97-315.

No presumption of a legal authority to erect a gate across a public road can arise in less time than twenty years from actual erection of gate: State v. Marble, 26-318.

Jurisdiction to license erection of gate across public road is conferred on board of supervisors; this applies to roads already established: Andrews v. Beam, 97-315.

That a cartway was not established according to law is a matter of defense to an indictment for breaking down a gate across it: State v. Combs, 120-607.

By chapter 77, acts of 1885, this section does not apply to stock-law territory: Edwards v. Supervisors, 127-63.

3787. Leaving gates open; penalty. If any person shall leave open, break down or otherwise injure any gate lawfully across any public road, he shall forfeit and pay for every such offense ten dollars to the person erecting the same or his assigns of the land; and if the offense shall be maliciously or wantonly done, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3781; Code, s. 2058; 1885, c. 45.

As to sufficiency of indictment for breaking down gate across cartway, see State v. Combs, 120-607. Section cited in Andrews v. Beam, 97-318; Edwards v. Supervisors, 127-63.

3788. Fords across boundaries to be kept in order. Any person or persons failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

1917, c. 251, s. 1.

3789. Obstructing highways and roads misdemeanor. If any person shall hinder or in any manner interfere with the making of any road or cartway laid off according to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

INDICTMENT. Sufficient to give terminal of road and description substantially as in the order of county commissioners establishing it: State v. Smith, 100-550. Describing a public square as "a certain public square and common public highway" and giving boundaries is sufficient: State v. Eastman, 109-785. Following the statute is sufficient: State v. Lucas, 124-804. Indictment defective which charges obstruction by use of a plank and not the manner of using the plank: State v. Lumber Co., 109-860.

EVIDENCE. Sufficiency of, of obstructing a public highway: State v. McIver, 88-686. It is essential in the absence of proof of an actual dedication or laying out of the road by public authority to show a user of 20 years, and it must have been worked and kept in order by public authority: State v. Lucas, 124-804.

3790. Obstructing highways by dirt or water; liability. Any person throwing a bank of dirt in the main road shall be compelled to spread the same. When any ditch or drain is cut in such a way as to turn water into any public road the person cutting the ditch or drain shall be compelled to cut another ditch or drain as may be necessary to take the water from said road.

License tax provided for in laws 1905, chapter 259, is simply a mode of regulating use of public roads and requiring that those desirous of using them for extraordinary purposes, as hauling heavy lumber and logs over roads in unusually heavy vehicles, shall not do so without taking out a license for such unusual and extraordinary and injurious use of the public highway, and paying a license tax for the privilege: State v. Holloman, 139-642.

3793. Injuring roads by hauling logs; damage and penalty. If any person, company or corporation shall damage any public road, bridge or causeway by hauling logs or sawmill timber thereon, and shall not repair the damage done thereto within five days after being notified of said damage by the overseer of said road, or by any member of the board of supervisors of the township in which said damaged road is situated, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, if any person shall pay the damage as assessed by the board of supervisors for injury to such road, the payment of such damages shall be a complete bar to any criminal prosecution under this section, and if any criminal prosecution shall have been commenced prior to the payment of said damages, all further proceedings in said criminal prosecution may be ended by the defendant paying the cost necessarily incurred in said criminal prosecution and satisfying the court that said damages and all proper costs have been paid.

See section 3751; State v. Holloman, 139-642.

3794. Local: Settlement of damages from hauling logs in certain counties. If any of the public roads in Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Clay, Columbus, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Halifax, Lenoir, Macon, Pasquotank, Pitt, Rutherford, Stokes, Swain, Tyrrell and Yancey counties shall be used by any person engaged in hauling logs or wood, whether such hauling be by the employees or agents of any other person, company or corporation, or by contractors for any other person, company or corporation, and the public roads shall become damaged by such use, upon complaint made to the chairman of the board of supervisors of the public roads of the township in which such damaged road is situated, he shall summon the person, company or corporation, or the manager of such person, company or corporation, alleged by such complainant to have damaged such road, before a called or regular meeting of the board of road supervisors of such township in which such alleged damaged road is situated, within ten days after complaint is made to him, and said board of road supervisors shall investigate by visiting and inspecting such damaged road, and they shall hear evidence on oath as to the condition of such damaged road and the cause of its bad condition, and the damage done to such road by the hauling of logs over such road by such person, company or corporation; and if the board of supervisors shall find such road or any part thereof damaged by the hauling of logs over the same, the person, company or corporation, or their agents, employees or contractors, alleged in the complaint to have damaged such road or any part thereof, they shall assess against such person, company, or corporation an amount of money sufficient to repair such road. And the board of road supervisors shall return to the clerk of the superior court the amount of such assessment as a judgment of the board of township road supervisors, and the clerk shall docket this transcript and it shall thereupon become a judgment of the superior court, and the clerk shall issue execution against such delinquent person or corporation for the assessed damages as other executions and the sheriff shall pay the proceeds of said judgment to the clerk of the superior court, to be applied by the board of township supervisors to the repair of such damaged road.

See section 3751; State v. Holloman, 139-642.

Part 2. Bridges

3795. Duty as to bridges of millowners on, or persons ditching or enlarging ditches across, highways. It shall be the duty of every owner of a water-mill which is situate on any public road, and also of every person who, for the purpose of draining his lands, or for any other purpose, shall construct any ditch, drain or canal across a public road, respectively, to keep at his own expense in good and sufficient repair all bridges that are or may be erected or attached to his milldam, immediately over which a public road may run; and also to erect and keep in repair all necessary bridges over such ditch, drain or canal on the highway, so long as they may be needed by reason of the continuance of said mill, or milldam, ditch, drain or canal. Nothing herein shall be construed to extend to any mill which was erected before the laying off of such road, unless the road was laid off by the request of the owner of the mill. The duty hereby imposed on the owner of the mill, and on the person cutting the drain or canal, shall continue on all subsequent owners of the mill, or other property, for the benefit of which the said ditch, drain or canal was cut. When any ditch or drain originally constructed across any public road, and bridged for the convenience and safety of the traveling public, has been or may hereafter be enlarged by the owner of adjacent lands to drain his lands, it shall be the duty of such owner to keep up and in repair all bridges crossing such ditch, drain or canal, and such charge shall be imposed upon all subsequent owners of the lands so drained.

Rev., s. 2697; Code, s. 2036; 1887, c. 261; R. C., c. 101, s. 24; 1817, c. 941, s. 1; 1846, c. 95, s. 1; 1881, c. 290.

In an action for failing to keep a sufficient bridge over a canal cut across a public road, plaintiff need not allege that road was laid off before mill was erected in order to negative proviso in statute: Wadsworth v. Stewart, 97-116.

When public road is made after landowner has cut his ditches for draining, he is not required to keep bridges in repair that are subsequently placed over them: State v. Davis, 143-611.

When proprietor of lands who, for purpose of draining, constructs a ditch, drain or canal across public road, he shall build a bridge over ditch, canal or drain and keep same in repair: Nobles v. Langly, 66-287—and overseer not liable if some one injured by reason of it being out of repair, Ibid.

A hand regularly assigned to work a certain road, and who has been properly summoned, cannot excuse himself from aiding to repair bridge over a ditch across road upon ground that it is duty of person who cut ditch to make bridge over it and keep same in repair: State v. James, 74-393.

3796. Liability for failure to maintain bridges; penalty and damages. If any owner of a water-mill situated on any public road, or any other person whose duty it is under this chapter to keep up and repair bridges built across any public road or across any ditch, drain, or canal, shall refuse or neglect to keep up and repair, or shall suffer to remain out of repair for the space of ten days, unless repair was prevented by unavoidable circumstances, any bridges which by law he may be required to keep up and repair, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be liable for such damages as may be sustained.

Rev., ss. 2703, 3772, 3773; Code, ss. 1086, 2037; R. C., c. 34, s. 40, c. 101, s. 25; 1817, c. 941, ss. 2, 3; 1876-7, cc. 90, 211.

Where the public road is made after the landowner has cut ditches for draining he is not required to keep in repair bridges subsequently put over such ditches: State v. Davis, 143-611.

Liability of proprietor and lessee: State v. Yarrell, 34-130. Liability for damages by present proprietor and former proprietor: Mulholland v. Brownrigg, 9-349.

Indictment must state how the defendant became subject to the duty of making repairs: State v. King, 25-411.

3797. Railroad and turnpike companies to maintain bridges which they make necessary. All railroad, plankroad and turnpike companies shall keep up, at their own expense, any bridge on or over county or incorporated roads, when the building of such bridge was made necessary in establishing their respective roads; and on failure to do so, shall forfeit and pay twenty-five dollars to any person who may sue for the same, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2700, 3775; Code, s. 2054; R. C., c. 101, s. 35; 1838, c. 5, ss. 1-4.

Compare State v. R. R., 74-143. See, also, section 3448 et seq. A road used as a mill road may, because of its location, be also such a "plantation road" as will impose upon a railroad company the burden of keeping it in repair: Hinkle v. R. R., 109-472.

3798. Counties to provide draws for vessels. The county or counties which may erect bridges shall, by their boards of commissioners, provide and keep up draws in all such bridges, where the same may be necessary to allow the convenient passage of vessels. When any such draw shall be necessary to be erected for the passage of timber-rafts, said draw may not exceed twenty feet in width.

Rev., s. 2698; Code, s. 2053; 1891, c. 168; R. C., c. 101, s. 34.

It is within the discretion of the commissioners as to whether the draws in the bridges should turn both ways: Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-358.

3799. Owner of bridge to provide draws on notice. Owners of steamboats or other craft, who may intend to navigate any river or creek over which any person may have a bridge, may give three months notice of such intention in one of the public journals of the state, published nearest the river or creek intended to be navigated, and to the owner of the bridge, to construct a draw of sufficient width to allow the passage of the boat which is to be used; and if the owner of the bridge shall not, within three months from the date of the notice, construct the required draw, he shall forfeit and pay the person so notifying, if he be thereby prevented from navigating the watercourse, fifty dollars; and shall be further subject to the like penalty, under like circumstances, for every three months default thereafter.

Rev., s. 2699; Code, s. 2052; R. C., c. 101, s. 32; 1846, c. 51, ss. 1, 2; 1838-9, c. 5.

Power to control management of drawbridge over navigable river after its construction, by requiring draw to be kept open at all proper times, the removal of rafts or debris, and in all other respects in which public welfare, interest and safety is involved, is ample in both federal and state governments: Pedrick v. R. R., 143-485. Control of its navigable waters is with the state, authority of general government being only cumulative protection from interference with commerce: Ibid.

The public have right to use of navigable streams, which are used as highways, in passing up and down it, from one point to another: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675. The obstruction or interference with navigation being a public nuisance, no private citizen may sue therefor, unless he suffers some damage which is not common to public: Pedrick v. R. R., 143-485; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 117-579.

3800. Railroad and turnpike companies to provide draws. Railroad, plank-road and turnpike companies, erecting bridges across watercourses, shall attach and keep up good and sufficient draws, by which vessels may be allowed conveniently to pass.

Rev., s. 2701; Code, s. 2051; R. C., c. 101, s. 32; 1846, c. 51, ss. 1, 2.

A citizen who owns and operates a sawmill on the banks of a navigable river and procures logs for mill in rafts, coming down the river both above and below a proposed bridge, is, in that sense, an abutting owner, and is entitled to maintain an action to enjoin construction and maintenance of a railroad drawbridge across river below his mill as an alleged public nuisance; but a citizen who owns and runs sailboats on river has no right to sue: Pedrick v. R. R., 143-485.

3801. Solicitor to prosecute for injury to bridges. The solicitors of the superior court are authorized and directed to institute suits in the name of the state, in the counties wherein the injuries may be done, for the recovery of damages, against all persons who shall willfully or negligently injure any public bridge belonging to or situate in any county or counties, by forcibly running any decked vessel, boat or raft against the same; by cutting trees or timber in the rivers or creeks above such bridges, or by any other manner or means whatsoever. In case the injury is done to two counties, the action may be brought in either for the entire damage; and the damages which may be recovered shall be for the use of the county or counties injured; and if the plaintiff fail, the costs shall be paid by the county or counties for whose use the suit is brought, and in the same proportion in which the recovery would be divided.

Rev., s. 2705; Code, s. 2055; R. C., c. 101, s. 36; 1846, c. 11, ss. 1, 2.

For the recovery of damages for injury to county bridges, a remedy is given by this section: Comrs. v. Lumber Co., 115-590.

Rev., s. 2702; Code, s. 2035; 1887, c. 370, s. 2; R. C., c. 101, s. 23; 1784, c. 227, s. 6.

3803. Expenses of bridges borne by counties. The expense of building and keeping up public bridges in the several counties shall be borne by the whole people of each, and not by the people of the township separately, in which such bridges may be situated; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners to adjust this burden equally among the people of their respective counties, and they shall exercise a due supervision over the action of the respective boards of supervisors of the townships, so as to prevent the board of any township from establishing any unnecessary number of bridges in its respective township.

Rev., s. 2704; Code, s. 2060; 1869-70, c. 219.

3804. Fastening vessels to bridges misdemeanor. If any person shall fasten any decked vessel or steamer to any bridge that crosses a navigable stream, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in the case of a bridge that crosses a county line, may be prosecuted in either county.

Rev., s. 3774; Code, s. 2050; 1887, c. 93, s. 3; R. C., c. 101, s. 31; R. S., c. 104; 1858-9, c. 58, s. 1.

3805. Fast driving over bridges misdemeanor. If any person shall ride or drive over any public bridge at a rate of speed faster than a walk, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to any bridge unless the county commissioners shall keep posted at each end of such bridge a notice forbidding the riding or driving over such bridge at a rate of speed faster than a walk.

Rev., s. 3780.

ART. 11. ROAD LABOR AND MATERIAL

Part 1. In General

3806. All able-bodied males to work on roads. All able-bodied male persons between the ages of eighteen years and forty-five years (between twenty-one years and forty-five years in Columbus and Tyrrell counties) shall be required under the provisions of this chapter to work on the public roads, except the members of the board of supervisors of public roads; but no person shall be compelled to work more than six days in any one year, except in case of damage resulting from a storm: Provided, that ten days instead of six days shall be the limit as to the counties west of the Blue Ridge.

Rev., s. 2725; Code, s. 2017; 1879, c. 82, s. 4; 1880, c. 30, s. 2; 1826, c. 26; 1905, c. 136.

For system of working and maintaining roads under the road commission plan, see this chapter, art. 4, part 2.

Legislature can prescribe method of working roads, whether by labor or taxation or by a mixture of two or more methods: State v. Holloman, 139-642.

This section is constitutional: State v. Taylor, 170-693; State v. Wheeler, 141-773.

Statutory requirement to work public roads is not a tax, but a duty, and inability to perform it, through sickness, is a full defense: State v. Covington, 125-641; State v. Craig, 81-590; State v. Sharp, 125-628; State v. Wheeler, 141-773; State v. Taylor, 170-693.

This section exempts only supervisors: State v. Craig, 81-590. For other exemptions, see section 3807.

That a person was summoned to work a public road three consecutive days, the law providing that hands shall not be required to work continuously for longer than two days at any one time, is no defense for failing to work the first two days: State v. Yoder, 132-1111.

Any inhabitant assigned, when sued for penalty incurred for refusing to work on road, and the overseer indicted for not having the road in order, may show that in fact there is no such public road: Baker v. Wilson, 25-168.

A hand regularly assigned to work a certain road, and who has been properly summoned, cannot excuse himself from aiding to repair bridge over a ditch across road, upon ground that it is duty of person who cut ditch to make bridge over it, and keep same in repair: State v. James, 74-393.

Where township trustees had failed under a special county road law to lay off new road districts according to strict intention of the act, but had adopted those laid off under general law: Held, that as there was sufficient certainty in location of such districts to fix liability of defendant subject to road duty, he could not, after conviction on an indictment for not working road, take advantage of such failure and irregularity by a motion in arrest of judgment: State v. Baker, 108-799.

3807. Exemptions from duty to work. No person between the ages prescribed shall be exempted from working upon the public roads, except such as shall be exempted by the general assembly, or by the board of supervisors of the township, on account of personal infirmity, of which the said board shall be the sole judge. No male student attending any school, college, academy or other institution of learning shall be compelled to perform any road duty or to work on any street or road, or to furnish a person to work in his place, or to pay any sum of money in lieu of such work, on the roads or streets in the county, city, town or township in which such institution of learning is located; but this exemption shall not extend to any male person subject to road duty who before becoming a student within the exemption was a bona fide and legally qualified resident of the district: Provided, that all boys in this state under twenty-one years of age are exempt from working the public roads during the time they may be attending school.

Rev., s. 2726; Code, s. 2018; R. C., c. 101, s. 12; 1784, c. 227, ss. 8, 9; 1826, c. 26, ss. 1, 2; 1907, c. 945; 1919, c. 263.

As to whether general statute as to who liable to road duty repeals special statute exempting certain persons, see State v. Womble, 112-862.

Where an able-bodied male person between 18 and 45 years of age resides in this state, and pursues a vocation for his income for an indefinite period, he is liable to road duty, although he is a citizen of another state to which he intends to return when he finishes his present employment: State v. Johnston, 118-1188.

Section hands employed on railroads at regular wages are not thereby excused from working on public highways of county: State v. Cauble, 70-62—nor are bar pilots unless employed on same day: State v. Craig, 81-588.

Where a person resides in another state during greater part of year, but has domicile in this state in which he also resides three or four months of year, during which he keeps slaves here, he is liable during time he resides in this state to requisition of overseer for services of those hands: Cantrell v. Pinkney, 30-436—but persons passing through state, or visiting it for purposes of profit or pleasure, and remaining for days, weeks, or even months without having any fixed home, are not persons whom overseer of roads are authorized to summon as being within their districts: Ibid.

3808. Overseers summon to work; notice; amount and conduct of work; substitutions allowed. The overseer of the road shall, as often as the road shall require, not more than six days in any one year, summon the hands of his section to work on the road, but the said hands shall not be required to work continuously for a longer time at any one time than two days, and at least fifteen days shall intervene between workings, except in case of special damage to the road, resulting from a storm. The notice shall be at least three days before the day named for the work, and shall state the hour and the place for the meeting of the hands, and what implement the hand shall bring with him. Every person liable to work on the road who has been so summoned shall appear at the time and place named, and with the implement directed, and shall work on the road under the direction of the overseer until discharged by him: Provided, that no hand shall be required to work for a less time than seven hours nor a longer time than ten hours in any one day.

Any person summoned as aforesaid who shall, by twelve o'clock of the day preceding the one appointed for work on the road, pay to the overseer the sum of one dollar shall be relieved from working on the road for one day. The money thus collected by the overseer shall be by him applied on the working and repairing of the road.

Any person who shall furnish one able-bodied hand as a substitute, with the implement directed, shall be held to have complied with this chapter.

Rev., s. 2721; Code, s. 2019; 1879, c. 82, s. 5; 1880, c. 30, s. 3.

A summons to a person liable to road duty need not be in writing: State v. Telfair, 130-645. A notice by the supervisor to a person subject to road duty directing him to meet supervisor at time and place designated "to work the road," the place of meeting being a branch crossing road to be worked, is sufficient; especially where it further appeared that such person had under previous notice worked same road: State v. Baker, 108-799.

An overseer of a public road has no right, at his discretion, to widen road: Small v. Eason, 33-94.

3809. Overseers allot tasks to workers. The overseer, if requested by a majority of the hands on the road assigned him, may, in his discretion, lay off the road in equal portions for the convenience of the laborers, who shall finish his or their part in a time agreed on between him and each person, and on default of any agreeing party, the overseer shall cause such part to be finished by the labor of other persons, and by warrant may recover the value thereof to his own use: Provided, that the time agreed on shall not exceed six days, and that nothing in this section shall be a defense to the overseer, when prosecuted for default concerning the condition of the road.

Rev., s. 2718; Code, s. 2026; R. C., c. 101, s. 13; 1784, c. 227, s. 10.

3810. Notice to work on road, how served. When an overseer shall not be able to personally notify the hands three days before the day appointed for working the road, he shall leave at the house of each hand a written summons, specifying the day on which they are required to attend, the place of the road to be worked, and the kind of tools to be brought or used; and the said written summons, left as aforesaid, shall be deemed sufficient notice to the hands required to be notified; and all penalties recovered by an overseer for default of working on the road shall be applied by him to the repair of the road of which he is or may have been overseer.

Personal service of summons to work hands means service on him personally, and not service by overseer personally: State v. Covington, 125-641.

Rev., s. 3779; Code, s. 2020; 1885, c. 392; R. C., c. 101, s. 11; 1817, c. 935, s. 2; 1825, c. 1287; 1879, c. 82, s. 6.

As to who is liable to road duty, see sections 3806, 3807. See generally: State v. Pool, 106-698; State v. Yoder, 132-1111. Statutes requiring working of public road by labor constitutional: State v. Wheeler, 141-773; State v. Taylor, 170-693.

Work hereunder is a duty, not a tax, and sickness is an excuse for one failing to work: State v. Wheeler, 141-773; State v. Sharp, 125-628; State v. Covington, 125-641.

Where county commissioners order the construction of a public road, hands assigned for work upon it are liable hereunder for default: State v. Joyce, 121-610; State v. Yoder, 132-1111—but not while an appeal is pending in the proceeding to establish the road, State v. Davis, 159-455.

No defense that hand has been assigned to work another road: State v. Yoder, 132-1111—or that defendant had no occasion to use the road, State v. Gillikin, 114-832. A hand properly summoned to work the road cannot excuse himself from repairing a bridge because it is the duty of some one else to keep said bridge in repair: State v. James, 74-393.

A "bar pilot" is not excused from working roads, but if he was acting as pilot on the day summoned it would be a good defense: State v. Craig, 81-588. Section hands employed by railroad not excused from working roads: State v. Cauble, 70-62. A citizen of another state who is pursuing his vocation here for an indefinite term is liable to road duty: State v. Johnston, 118-1188.

Justices of the peace have exclusive original jurisdiction hereunder: State v. Clayton, 146-599; State v. Craig, 82-668—and superior court on appeal, State v. Clayton, 146-599.

INDICTMENT AND WARRANT. Sufficiency and insufficiency of generally: State v. Thomas, 168-146; State v. Pool, 106-698; State v. Yoder, 132-1111. Must negative payment of $1: State v. Yoder, 132-1111; State v. Neal, 109-859; State v. Pool, 106-698. Unnecessary to charge the failure as "unlawful and wilful": State v. Covington, 125-641. Defective when it fails to allege that defendant has been duly assigned and is liable to work on that particular road, and has been properly summoned: State v. Smith, 98-747; State v. Pool, 106-698. Superior court can amend warrant of justice making state plaintiff instead of the road overseer: State v. Cauble, 70-62—and can amend warrant in form or substance, but not so as to change the nature of the offense, State v. Vaughan, 91-532; State v. Smith, 98-747.

Part 2. Convict Labor

3812. Application for convicts. Any county or township or good roads district that desires to use convict labor in the construction or improvement of its highways shall apply first to the geological and economic survey to lay out and make plans for said work or to approve plans already made. The said county, township or "good roads district shall then apply to the board or state prison directors for the number of convicts desired for the work, this number in no case to be less than forty.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, ss. 1, 2.

3813. Duty of directors of state prison. The board of directors, as soon as possible after the receipt of the application and the approval of the council of state, shall furnish the labor requested and proceed to construct or improve the highway under the direction of the state geological and economic survey. All applications from counties, townships or good roads districts for convict labor shall be honored in turn, according to the date of their receipt, except that no county, township or good roads district may use at any time more than one hundred convicts if an application from another county is pending and no labor is available for it.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, ss. 3, 4.

3814. Compensation paid to state; how expense divided. Counties, townships, or good roads districts using convict labor shall pay to the state therefor the sum of not less than one dollar per day for each laborer; shall furnish quarters, to be approved by the board of prison directors, for prisoners and employees; it shall also provide pure drinking water and necessary firewood for camp use, and shall furnish overseers to direct the work. All other expenses of every kind whatever shall be borne by the board of prison directors.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 5.

3815. Certain existing contracts not affected. This article shall not interfere with or apply to the agreements now existing and in force between the authorized authorities of the state and the Elkin and Alleghany railroad company, the Statesville Air Line railroad company, the public road in Madison county, under chapter four hundred and sixty-four, public-local laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen; the Watauga and Yadkin Valley railroad company and the Hickorynut Gap dirt road now being constructed by the state and leading across the Blue Ridge mountains through the county of Henderson. Should the said railroad companies at any time fail to carry out the provisions of the agreement existing between them and the authorities of the state, then the state shall be under no further obligation to furnish convict labor, and may at once withdraw such labor from the railroad company failing to carry out its agreement.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 6.

3816. Convicts on state farm to be reserved. The state farm or penitentiary authorities or council of state shall at all times reserve a sufficient number of convicts to properly cultivate and conduct the state farm.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 7.

Part 3. Material

3817. Appropriation of earth and timber for roads. Overseers may lawfully cut poles and other necessary timber, for repairing and making bridges and causeways. And whenever earth shall be needed on a public road, and it cannot be conveniently procured on either side of the causeway, the overseer may lawfully take the earth from any adjoining land.

Rev., s. 2719; Code, s. 2027; R. C., c. 101, s. 18; 1785, c. 256, s. 1; 1818, c. 976, s. 1.

Soil not to be taken from cultivated field, under act of 1899, c. 581, and injunction will issue to restrain this: Combs v. Comrs., 170-87. The right to cut poles, etc., is not confined to land immediately adjoining spot where work is to be done: Collins v. Creecy, 53-333.

3818. Compensation for earth and timber taken for roads. The owner of any land or timber used for building or repairing public roads may file his petition before the board of commissioners of the county wherein the injury is done; and, for damages sustained thereby, the board shall make the petitioner adequate compensation: Provided, that this and the preceding section shall not apply to the lands adjoining or contiguous to the causeway, or great road leading across Eagle's island to Wilmington.

The county is not liable for the wrongful act of the officers in taking stone from a quarry: Keenan v. Comrs., 167-356.

ART. 12. FERRIES AND TOLL-BRIDGES

Part 1. General Provisions

3819. Commissioners may establish toll-bridges. Whenever, from the rapidity or width of any stream, it may be too burdensome to build and keep up a bridge across the same, at the expense of those who are taxable for that purpose, the board of commissioners of the county, or counties, chargeable therewith may jointly and severally (as the case may be) contract for the building thereof, by allowing the builder to take tolls, at such rate and for such time, on all persons, horses, carriages and other things passing over the bridge, as may be agreed on between the board of commissioners and the builder; which tolls shall be common to all persons. And such bridges shall be built in the manner the board or boards may direct, and shall be kept in good repair by the builder, his heirs and assigns, during the time the tolls are to be enjoyed.

Rev., s. 2706; Code, s. 2045; R. C., c. 101, s. 26; 1784, c. 227, s. 7; 1817, c. 939, s. 2; 1817, c. 940, s. 3.

Quere: Whether owner of a toll-bridge who claims a penalty for "setting over" persons and property does not have to aver that he was able and ready to carry all persons, etc., offering themselves, with reasonable promptness and safety: McRee v. R. R., 47-186.

3820. Condemnation of ferry sites. Wherever a public ferry has been or may hereafter be established, the board of county commissioners of the county in which any such ferry is or may be located shall have power to condemn land, not exceeding one acre for each public ferry, adjacent or convenient to said ferry, upon which to erect necessary buildings for the use and convenience of ferrymen and the traveling public, under the same rules and regulations as are provided by law for condemning land for public roads; and upon the payment or offer of payment, to the owner of said land, of the amount awarded to him therefor, title to the same shall vest in the county in which said land is situate. Nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive the owner of land so condemned of the right of appeal to the superior court.

Rev., s. 2691; 1889, c. 447.

3821. Commissioners to regulate ferriage. The board of commissioners of each county shall, once a year, or oftener if necessary, at the meeting to be held next after the first day of January, rate the prices of such ferries as shall be kept within their respective counties; and ferries lying between two counties shall be rated at a joint meeting of the commissioners of the two counties, to be held at such time and place as may be agreed upon by the commissioners of the two counties, and any ferry keeper who shall ask, demand, or receive a greater price for ferriage than shall be rated by the board or boards of commissioners shall forfeit and pay five dollars for every offense to the party aggrieved. Every person who owns a public ferry, and refuses to keep it up at the rates allowed by the board, shall for every such offense forfeit five dollars.

Rev., s. 2707; 1907, c. 221, s. 1; Code, s. 2046; R. C., c. 101, s. 27; 1779, c. 160, s. 2.

Tolls are not regulated by joint boards of commissioners in the counties of Camden, Catawba, Gaston, Halifax, Iredell, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Northampton, Onslow, Pasquotank and Surry. See 1907, c. 221, s. 1.

A franchise for a toll-bridge is not violated by a railroad company who carried passengers along their road and, as a part of the road, over their bridge: McRee v. R. R., 47-186.

3822. Owner of ferry may substitute toll-bridge. In all cases where the proprietor of a ferry shall prefer building a good and substantial bridge over any water-course instead of keeping a ferry, he may do so; and may claim and hold such bridge under the same rights, and in the same manner, by which the ferry is claimed and held, and under the same rules, regulations, restrictions and penalties as other toll-bridges: Provided, that no more toll shall be demanded for passing any such bridge than is granted by law for the ferriage, unless by agreement with the board of commissioners: Provided further, that in all such bridges the proprietor shall erect a draw where the free navigation of the stream may require it.

Rev., s. 2708; Code, s. 2047; R. C., c. 101, s. 28; 1806, c. 706.

This section requires of owner of toll-bridge not only to erect and keep in good repair a draw sufficient for the purposes of a free navigation of the stream, but also to provide means of raising it, and to have it raised whenever steamboats and other vessels are passing it: Davis v. Jenkins, 50-291.

3823. Owners of toll-bridges and ferries to give bond; actions on bond. The board of commissioners of each county shall compel every person that may own a toll-bridge, or keep a public ferry, within the county, to give bond with good surety in the sum of one thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned that he will constantly keep such bridge in good repair, or, as the case may be, provide and keep good and sufficient boats, or other proper craft, always to be well attended, for the passing of travelers or other persons, their horses, carriages and effects, and will indemnify and save harmless every person who may be endamaged by reason of any default in his undertaking. And if any person shall receive damage, because such ferryman or keeper of a toll-bridge shall not have complied with the conditions of his bond, he may bring suit thereon in the name of the state, and recover his damages.

Rev., s. 2709; Code, s. 2048; R. C., c. 101, s. 29; 1784, c. 227, s. 15.

3824. Right of action of person detained at ferry. If any person shall be detained at any public ferry by reason of the ferryman not having sufficient boats or other proper crafts at hand, or by his neglecting to do his duty in any other respect, he may recover before a justice of the peace, against such ferryman, the sum of ten dollars, as a penalty for every such default or neglect.

Rev., s. 2709; Code, s. 2448; R. C., c. 101, s. 29; R. S., c. 101, s. 29.

3825. Penalty on unauthorized ferry. If any unauthorized person shall pretend to keep a ferry or to transport for pay any person or his effects, within five miles of any ferry on the same river or water which theretofore may have been appointed, he shall forfeit and pay two dollars for every such offense, to the nearest ferryman: Provided, that any person who may contract for carrying the mail may keep a boat for the sole purpose of transporting the same, and such passengers as may travel in the coach therewith, across any ferry; but such contractor shall not transport across such ferry any other passengers than such as travel by the coach.

Rev., s. 2710; Code, s. 2049; R. C., c. 101, s. 30; 1764, c. 72, s. 1; 1787, c. 273; 1883, c. 381.

See annotations under section 3750.

Part 2. County-line Ferries

3826. Counties may purchase ferries on county-line streams; division of cost. Wherever in this state there are now operated ferries with causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, which lie partly within one county and partly within another county, the boards of commissioners of the respective counties are authorized to purchase all real and personal property, rights, and franchises incident and necessary to the said ferries, including any causeways, roads, and bridges leading thereto. The proportion of the purchase price to be paid by the said counties shall be determined and agreed upon at a joint meeting of the board of commissioners of said counties, and the amount of said purchase price so agreed upon and determined shall be paid by the respective counties to the owners of the same by proper warrant of the respective counties.

1919, c. 138, s. 1.

3827. Right of eminent domain conferred. If the said counties and the owners of the property the purchase of which is authorized in the preceding section cannot agree upon the purchase price, then the boards of commissioners of said counties are authorized, should they deem it necessary and for the best interests of the counties, to condemn the same, and for that purpose they are empowered to institute condemnation proceedings in either county in which said property, ferry, causeway, road, or bridges, or any part of the same, lie, and conduct the same in accordance with the chapter entitled Eminent Domain in the Consolidated Statutes.

3828. Joint operation and maintenance; joint committee. After the purchase or condemnation aforesaid, the said ferry, with the causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, shall become a part of the public highway and roads of the said counties, and it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to operate and maintain the same jointly as a part of such public highways and roads, and the expense of maintenance, improvement, and operation of the said property jointly acquired shall be borne by the said counties upon such terms and in such proportions as shall be agreed upon by the board of commissioners of the same in joint meeting. The said boards of commissioners may vest the control and management of the said ferry and roads, causeways, and bridges, and equipment used in connection therewith, in a committee or committees from said boards, to be selected and determined by said boards in meeting assembled, and said commissioners are authorized to employ agents and servants, provide for the operation and to prescribe reasonable rules and regulations in reference to use and operation of said ferry, roads, causeways, bridges, and the property and equipment used in connection therewith.

3829. Expenses of equipment and maintenance; bond issue. The said boards of commissioners, after the purchase or condemnation of the ferries and roads, causeways, and bridges as aforesaid, shall provide all necessary equipment for the ferry and to improve and repair the causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, and thereafter shall keep the same in good condition to the end that the best possible service may be rendered to the public. In order to raise funds for the purchase or condemnation of said ferries, roads, causeways, bridges, rights, and property, and for the improvement and repair of the causeways, roads, and bridges, and the purchase of the necessary equipment for said ferry or ferries, the said boards of commissioners of the respective counties are hereby authorized and empowered to have prepared and issued at such time or times and in such amounts as they deem best, bonds of their respective counties to an amount not exceeding the cost of the ferries and other property so acquired, the repair and improvement of same, and the purchase of necessary equipment, said bonds to draw interest at such rate as may be determined by said respective counties, to be evidenced by coupons attached, payable semiannually, and to be in such form and tenor and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and at such places as such respective boards may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value.

1919, c. 138, s. 4.

3830. Tax for interest and sinking fund. The commissioners of the respective counties, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds to be issued hereunder and interest thereon, shall compute and levy each year at the time of levying other county taxes a sufficient tax upon all real and personal property in their respective counties to pay the interest on the said bonds, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of said bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes.

3831. Toll rates; basis of adjustment. In order to defray the expense of operating, improving and maintaining said ferry or ferries, causeways, roads, and bridges and all property used in connection therewith, the boards of commissioners of the said respective counties shall prescribe passage rates from time to time and authorize such tolls for the use of said ferry or ferries, roads, causeways, and bridges, and other equipment used in connection therewith, in their discretion, as may be reasonable, just, and proper to provide the operating expenses and reasonable upkeep of the said property, but said boards shall not consider the cost of the same or the amount expended in the first instance in improving, repairing and purchasing the necessary equipment as aforesaid in fixing the amount of toll to be charged and paid by the public for the use thereof: Provided, such rates, charges, or tolls shall be uniform on all citizens alike.

3832. Tax to supplement tolls. If the tolls collected under the last section shall not be sufficient to pay the expenses of operating, repairing, and maintaining such property, the said boards of commissioners of such respective counties are authorized to levy a tax upon the real and personal property of their respective counties sufficient to pay the proportionate loss occasioned by the operation as aforesaid. Said tax shall be levied at the same time as other taxes are levied and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other county taxes; and if it shall become necessary to pay said loss for any one year or part thereof from the general fund of the counties, or in the event it becomes necessary to borrow money to provide for said loss, the said boards of commissioners may, from taxes so collected in any succeeding year, reimburse the general fund of their counties to the extent of the amount so advanced or the amount so borrowed to provide for said deficit; and may provide a contingent fund to meet such event.

1919, c. 138, s. 7.

3833. Compensation of committee for ferry control. If the boards of commissioners should elect to place the control, operation, and management of said ferries and property used in connection therewith, and the road, causeway, and bridges, in a committee or committees from the joint bodies, as is provided above, said committee or committees shall receive the same pay and mileage for holding meetings in connection with all necessary business of said operation and management as is allowed by law to the members of the boards of commissioners of said respective counties for attending meetings of the board in said respective counties.

3834. When counties may sell or lease ferries. If the operation and management of the ferries and property provided for hereunder, and the roads, causeways, and bridges connected therewith, as provided in this article, shall prove too costly to said counties or shall fail to give adequate and satisfactory service to the general public, or if the public interests would be better subserved by a sale, the boards of commissioners of the respective counties are authorized to sell said ferries and property upon such terms as they see fit, or the said boards of commissioners may rent and lease the same to such person, firm, or corporation as they may see fit, and subject to such rules and regulations as they may prescribe: Provided, however, that in the event of a sale or lease as aforesaid, the purchase price or lease price, as the case may be, shall be divided between the respective counties in proportion to the price paid in the first instance by the respective counties for such ferries and property.

1919, c. 138, s. 9.

ART. 13. CARTWAYS, CHURCH ROADS, AND THE LIKE

3835. Road supervisors establish or discontinue cartways; number of jurors; appeal. The board of supervisors shall have the right to lay out and discontinue cartways. In laying out and establishing roads and cartways, and for the purpose of assessing damage to property by reason of the same, no greater number of jurors than five shall be summoned or be required. Either party may appeal from the decision of the board of supervisors to the board of commissioners of the county.

Rev., s. 2683; Code, s. 2023; 1879, c. 82, s. 9.

3836. Cartways and tramways laid out; procedure; cartways to be open to public; appeal. If any person be settled upon or cultivating any land, or shall own any standing timber, or be working any mines or minerals to which there is leading no public road, or which is not convenient to water, and it shall appear necessary, reasonable and just that such person shall have a private way to a public road or water-course or railroad over the lands of other persons, he may file his petition before the board of supervisors of the township at a regular or special meeting praying for a cartway, tram or railway to be kept open across such other persons' lands, leading to some public road, ferry, bridge, public landing or water-course or railroad; and upon his making it appear to the board that the adverse party has had ten days notice of his intention, the board shall hear the allegations of the petitioner and the objections of the adverse party or parties, and if sufficient reason be shown, shall order the constable to summon a jury of five freeholders to view the premises and lay off a cartway, tram or railway, not less than fourteen feet wide, and assess the damages the owner of such land may sustain thereby; which, with the expense of making the way, shall be paid by the petitioner. The cartways established under this section shall be kept open for the free passage of all persons on foot or horseback, and all carts and wagons, and the petitioner and others who use said road may from time to time grade or repair said road as they may desire without doing any injury to the adjoining lands. If the notice aforesaid shall not have been given, the board shall cause such petition to be filed with their chairman until their next meeting, when they shall proceed to hear and determine the same, and the petitioner or the adverse party may appeal from the order of the supervisors to the board of commissioners of the county, and from the order of the board of commissioners to the superior court at term, when the issues of fact shall be tried by a jury, and from the judgment of the superior court to the supreme court, as in other cases of appeal.

Rev., s. 2686; Code, s. 2056; 1917, c. 282, s. 1; 1917, c. 187, s. 1; 1909, c. 364, s. 1; 1903, c. 102; 1887, c. 46; R. C., c. 101, s. 37; 1798, c. 508, s. 1; 1822, c. 1139, s. 1; 1879, c. 258.

As to cartways by prescription and dedication, see annotations under section 3750.

This section is in derogation of the rights of landowners, and must be strictly construed: Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122. Form of the petition, and proper methods of procedure under this section, pointed out in Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122; see, also, Barber v. Griffin, 158-348. The proceeding may be heard by the supervisors at a called meeting, after notice to the parties: Ford v. Manning, 152-151.

A cartway is a way established by law for a person who has not the benefit of a public highway, and for that reason alone: State v. Purifoy, 86-682. If plaintiff can have a practicable cartway on his own land it should not be constructed on land of another: Mayo v. Thigpen, 107-63.

To be entitled to cartway petitioner must show that it is a necessity; that his demand is reasonable and just: Gorham v. R. R., 158-504; Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122, 104-403—or that he has no other means of egress and ingress, Burwell v. Sneed, 104-118; State v. Purifoy, 86-682—or that his lands are connected with public road but by an impassable tract, Mayo v. Thigpen, 107-63. "Sufficient reason" for its establishment under a private act, discussed in Cook v. Vickers, 144-312.

Petitioner not entitled to cartway simply because one would be more convenient to him: Burwell v. Sneed, 104-118; Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122; Lea v. Johnson, 31-15—or because it would give him a shorter and better outlet to public road, Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122.

When jury find cartway applied for is a necessity, because there is no other, then evidence of length and nature of route proposed, as compared with other, is competent to show that demand is reasonable and just: Warlick v. Lowman, 104-403; see Cook v. Vickers, 144-312.

Owner of a tract who does not reside on same, nor has cultivated, fenced, or in any wise improved any part of it, but has only used it as range for cattle, is not entitled to private way over adjoining land: Caroon v. Doxey, 48-23.

Courts have no authority to have lands of citizens taken for a cartway without consent of owner except in instance provided for by statute: Lea v. Johnson, 31-15.

Amendment made to law regarding cartways, etc., in so far as it authorizes owners of timber lands to condemn a right of way for tramways or railways over the lands of other owners for the exclusive use of the owners of the timber, is unconstitutional, in that private property can only be taken for a public use: Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283; Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132-171—but a way ex necessitate may be acquired, Ibid.

Action of township supervisors in ordering establishment of cartway is such a final determination of matter as will support an appeal to board of commissioners, and hence through superior to supreme court, although order may not have been executed: Warlick v. Lowman, 101-548.

Upon trial of an issue whether proposed cartway was necessary and reasonable, opinions of witnesses are not competent, question not being one of science, peculiar skill, or professional knowledge: Burwell v. Sneed, 104-118.

When a cartway has not been laid out under this section or acquired by adverse user, it is not indictable to obstruct it: State v. Norris, 174-808.

Section referred to in Lumber Co. v. Cedar Works, 158-161.

3837. Discontinuance of cartways, etc.; gates and stockguards; duration of right. Cartways, tramways or railways laid off according to the provisions of this chapter may be changed or discontinued upon application by any person concerned, under the same rules of proceeding as they may be first laid off, and upon such terms as to the board of supervisors shall seem equitable and just. Cartways, tramways or railways for the removal of timber shall continue for a period not longer than five years, and in entering cultivated land shall protect the same by sufficient stockguards. And any person through whose land a cartway may pass may erect gates across the same, which shall be kept in good repair.

Rev., s. 2694; Code, s. 2057; 1887, c. 46, s. 2; R. C., c. 101, s. 38; 1798, c. 508, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1834, c. 16, s. 1; 1887, c. 266.

A petitioner who has acquired a right by order of court to have cartway over land of another, and who has afterwards obtained title to servient tenement, has right to obstruct and discontinue such cartway: Jacoeks v. Newby, 49-266.

3838. Church roads laid out on petition; procedure. The board of supervisors in each township is authorized to order the laying out of necessary roads to any church or other place of public worship in the township, to discontinue such roads when they may be found useless, and to alter the same so as to make them more useful. The right of way herein provided for shall terminate whenever the church or place of worship shall cease to be used as such. The board of supervisors shall not order the laying out of any such road or discontinue or alter the same except upon petition, in writing, nor shall they hear such petition, unless it is made to appear that every person over whose lands the road may pass shall have had ten days notice of the intention to file such petition, by personal service of notice in writing, or if the owner is unknown or there is no owner, agent or attorney of such owner resident in this state, then by notice thereof posted up at the courthouse door of the county in which the township is situated and at two public places in the township for the space of ten days. Upon the hearing of the petition, if sufficient reason is shown, the board of supervisors shall order the laying out, or shall discontinue or alter the road, as the case may be, and from their determination any party dissatisfied may appeal as is provided with reference to the laying off of cartways. Such road shall be laid out to the greatest advantage of the inhabitants and with as little prejudice as may be to lands and enclosures, within twenty days from the notification of their appointment by three disinterested freeholders, to be appointed by the board of supervisors; and such damage as any individuals may sustain shall be ascertained by such freeholders, and a report thereof with the proceedings had by them shall be made to the board of supervisors. All damages so assessed by the freeholders shall be paid by the petitioners, and until paid there shall be no confirmation of the report of the freeholders, and the laying out shall be of no effect.

Rev., ss. 2687, 2689; Code, ss. 2062, 2064; 1872-3, c. 189, ss. 1-3, 5.

As to obstructing cartways, church roads, etc., see this chapter, s. 3789; Crimes, s. 4354.

ART. 14. CENTRAL HIGHWAY

For every conviction under an indictment charging a capital crime, whether by plea or verdict, twenty-five dollars.

For perjury, forgery, counterfeiting, passing or attempting to pass or sell any forged or counterfeited paper or evidence of debt; maliciously injuring or attempting to injure any railroad or railroad car, or any person traveling on such railroad car; stealing or obliterating records; stealing, concealing, destroying or obliterating any will; maliciously burning or attempting to burn houses or bridges, seduction, slander of an innocent woman, and embezzlement; breaking into houses otherwise than burglariously; misdemeanors of accessories after the fact to felonies; in each of the above cases, fifteen dollars.

For larceny, receiving stolen goods, frauds, maims, deceits and escapes, eight dollars.

For all other offenses, five dollars.

The fees in all the above cases are to be taxed in the costs against the party convicted; but where the party convicted is insolvent, the solicitor's fees shall be one-half, to be paid by the county in which the indictment was found, except that for convictions under an indictment charging a capital crime, whether by plea or verdict, forgery, perjury, conspiracy, seduction, slander of an innocent woman, embezzlement, breaking into houses otherwise than burglariously, and when defendants are convicted and assigned to work on the public roads of any county in this state, they shall receive full fees: Provided, that no larger fee than ten dollars shall be taxed for the solicitor in an indictment against the justices of the peace of any county, as justices, when there are more than three justices who are found guilty.

The solicitors of the several judicial districts and criminal courts shall prosecute all penalties and forfeited recognizances entered in their courts respectively, and as compensation for their services shall receive a sum to be fixed by the court, not more than five per centum of the amount collected upon such penalty or forfeited recognizance.

Under this section, solicitor is not entitled to fee upon a judgment nisi of four dollars, or any other amount, when at a subsequent term defendant is produced by his surety, court suspends judgment upon payment of cost of sci. fa., and remits penalty upon appearance bond: State v. King, 143-677—distinguishing State v. Whisenhunt, 5-287.

Under section 4588, solicitor has no vested right to his fee under an absolute judgment upon a forfeited recognizance which was subsequently set aside by court in exercise of its discretionary power: Ibid.

Upon indictment for murder in first degree and a prosecution and conviction for second degree, the solicitor is entitled to half fees: State v. Mayhew, 155-477.

An act allowing solicitor $600 in lieu of fees in Pitt county is construed to mean all fees, and not merely those for which the county is liable: Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631.

Where, upon application of defendant to retax, solicitor's fee is reduced from $10 to $4, solicitor has no right to appeal, state having no interest in result: State v. Tyler, 85-569.

As to solicitor's fees where insolvent defendant sentenced to chain-gang, see State v. Saunders, 146-597.

3892. Fees of jurors. For jurors at inquests, see section 1022; for jurors in ascertaining value of dividing fence, see section 1836.

3893. Fees and mileage of witnesses. The fees of witnesses, whether attending at a term of court or before the clerk, or a referee, or commissioner, or arbitrator, shall be one dollar per day. They shall also receive mileage, to be fixed by the county commissioners of their respective counties, at a rate not to exceed five cents per mile for every mile necessarily traveled from their respective homes in going to and returning from the place of examination by the ordinary route, and ferriage and toll paid in going and returning. If attending out of their counties, they shall receive one dollar per day and five cents per mile going and returning by the ordinary route, and toll and ferriage expenses: Provided, that witnesses before courts of justices of the peace shall receive fifty cents per day in civil cases, and in criminal actions of which justices of the peace have final jurisdiction, witnesses attending the courts of justices of the peace, under subpoena, shall receive fifty cents per day, and in hearings before coroners witnesses shall receive fifty cents per day and no mileage; but the party cast shall not pay for more than two witnesses subpoenaed to prove any one material fact, and no prosecutor or complainant shall pay any costs, unless the justice shall find that the prosecution was malicious and frivolous: Provided further, that experts, when compelled to attend and testify, shall be allowed such compensation and mileage as the court may in its discretion order. All witnesses subpoenaed to attend courts of justices of the peace in Franklin county in the trial of civil or criminal cases in any township other than their resident townships shall be paid the same per diem and mileage that is now paid witnesses attending the superior courts.

Rev., s. 2803; Code, ss. 2860, 3756; 1891, c. 147; 1905, cc. 279, 522; P. L. 1911, c. 402.

For mileage of witnesses before legislative committee, see General Assembly.

For where county pays half fees, see Costs.

For collection of witnesses' fees, see Costs.

For special statute for Cherokee county, see 1907, c. 156.

A witness not subpoenaed cannot charge the losing party: Stern v. Herren, 101-516; Thompson v. Hodges, 10-318—nor can witness who is a nonresident, though subpoenaed, charge mileage even if he attends, Ibid.—and witnesses subpoenaed cannot be charged against losing party unless examined or sworn and tendered, Chadwick v. Ins. Co., 158-380; Moore v. Guano Co., 136-248; Sutton v. Lumber Co., 135-540; Cureton v. Garrison, 111-271; but see Herring v. R. R., 144-208; Loftis v. Baxter, 66-340—except when nonsuit taken, Henderson v. Williams, 120-339. Only two witnesses to a material point can be charged losing party: State v. Wheeler, 141-777; Ex parte Beckwith, 124-115; State v. Massey, 104-881—except in action of slander, where more can prove in court's discretion, Holmes v. Johnson, 33-55—also except where "value" is to be proven, Ex parte Beckwith, 124-111. The court may fix the compensation of experts: Chadwick v. Ins. Co., 158-380; see, also, State v. Parker, 66-624.

All witnesses may recover from the party who subpoenaed them: Sutton v. Lumber Co., 135-540; Cureton v. Garrison, 111-271; Office v. Lockman, 12-146—but they must prove their attendance before the clerk and get a ticket each term, Thompson v. Hodges, 10-318; see Moore v. Islar, 1-81—which ticket is sufficient evidence in court upon which to recover judgment against party cast or against party who subpoenaed witness, if party cast is insolvent, the statute making it presumptive evidence of the attendance, for whom, how long, for how much, and miles traveled, Deaver v. Comrs., 80-116; Belden v. Snead, 84-243.

Witness is not at liberty after final judgment to withdraw his witness ticket and sue upon it. His fees for attendance should be taxed and collected with other costs against party adjudged to pay, if solvent, and if not, then the party who summoned and required his testimony is responsible: Belden v. Snead, 84-243; Carter v. Wood, 33-22.

One cannot recover for attendance of an incompetent witness: Keith v. Goodwin, 51-398. Witnesses for the losing party receive no pay unless he is solvent, and witnesses for state in criminal actions where convicted party is insolvent receive only half pay: State v. Wheeler, 141-777. Where a nolle prosequi is entered on an indictment for homicide as to murder in the first degree, witnesses for state subsequently attending trial are entitled to only half fees: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299.

There is no provision of law for payment of witnesses summoned to appear and testify generally before grand jury "in certain matters then and there to be inquired of"; and there is no authority of law to issue such summons: Lewis v. Comrs., 74-194. Witnesses are entitled to compensation where a bill is prepared and sent to grand jury with names of those summoned endorsed as sworn and sent: Lewis v. Comrs., 74-194. A witness in a criminal action has no claim upon county until liability of county for costs is passed upon by court: Young v. Comrs., 76-316.

Witness for state being entitled to only half fees may recover in full amount paid for proving ticket: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299. When witnesses in civil cases are refused payment of their fees they need not attend court but one day: State v. Massey, 104-881; see, also, Carter v. Wood, 33-22.

ART. 6. COMMISSIONERS IN VARIOUS COURT PROCEEDINGS

3894. Condemnation commissioners. The commissioners appointed, under any order of court, to condemn any land, for any railroad or other company or corporation in proceedings to condemn land under and by virtue of any right of eminent domain, shall each receive three dollars per day for each day they are engaged in the performance of their duties.

Rev., s. 2790; Code, s. 1946.

3895. Commissioners to make partition. The commissioners appointed by any court to make partition of any land, timber or real estate of any kind, or any personal property, shall each receive per diem for his services the sum of not exceeding three dollars, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 2791; Code, ss. 1901, 1922; 1913, c. 18; 1919, c. 10.

3896. Commissioners to make sale in partition. In sales of real estate or personalty for partition the allowance to the commissioner for making such sale, and for all services therewith, and for making title, shall be as follows: For sales of five hundred dollars or less, not more than ten dollars; for sales of over five hundred dollars, two per centum, up to a compensation of forty dollars, and when the allowance shall amount to forty dollars, any additional compensation shall not exceed the rate of one per centum on the excess over two thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 2792; Code, s. 1910.

Compensation to commissioner for making partition sale being fixed by this section, no additional allowance can be made on account of extra trouble or expense: Ray v. Banks, 120-389; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321.

3897. Commissioners to divide land lying in this and another state. The commissioners appointed to divide lands lying in this and another state shall be entitled to three dollars per day for their services; which, with all fees, expenses and costs, shall be paid as the court may direct.

Rev., s. 2793; Code, s. 1916; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 26.

3898. Commissioners to assess damages for mills. Every commissioner appointed in any proceeding to assess the damages arising from the location of any mill, as provided for in the chapter on Mills, shall be entitled to receive two dollars per day.

Rev., s. 2794; Code, s. 1863.

3899. Commissioners in drainage proceedings. Each commissioner appointed in proceedings under the chapter on drainage shall be entitled to receive one dollar and fifty cents per day.

Rev., s. 2795.

3900. Person allotting widow's year's allowance. Any person appointed by any court or justice of the peace or summoned by any sheriff to allot or set apart to any widow a year's allowance under the statute, and who shall serve, shall be paid the sum of one dollar per day or fraction of the day engaged, and the same shall be taxed as a part of the bill of costs of the proceeding.

1907, c. 223; 1913, c. 18.

3901. Person allotting dower. Any person designated to allot or assign to any widow dower in her husband's land, and who shall serve, shall be paid not exceeding three dollars per day in the discretion of the court, and the same shall be taxed as a part of the bill of costs of the proceeding.

1913, c. 18; 1919, c. 10.

3902. Receivers; selling as commissioners. Receivers of property appointed by any order of court, in any proceedings or action, shall be allowed such commissions as may be fixed by the court appointing them, not exceeding five per cent on the amount received and disbursed by them.

Rev., s. 2797; 1901, c. 2, s. 88; Code, s. 379, subsec. 4.

For compensation of surviving partner settling partnership estate, see chapter Partnership.

Allowance of commissions and counsel fees to receiver by superior court prima facie correct, and supreme court will alter same only when clearly inadequate or excessive: Graham v. Carr, 133-449. An order allowing commissions is a final judgment in respect to the matter decided, and is properly appealable: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Caution to judges not to appoint more receivers than are necessary, and to avoid making excessive allowances: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Allowances to receivers as well as to administrators and executors are reviewable when made on a wrong principle, or when clearly inadequate or excessive: Bank v. Bank, 126-531.

Not exceeding 5 per cent on receipts and disbursements seems to be statutory limit for receivers: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Stipulation in a deed of trust, among other charges, "including an attorney's fee of 5 per cent," will not be sustained: Turner v. Boger, 126-300. Trustees and commissioners to sell land under judicial order (other than in partition proceedings) are not allowed commissions, either by statute or common law, but only such just compensation for time, labor, services and expenses as the circumstances of each case warrant: Smith v. Frazier, 119-157; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321. See, also, Hannah v. Hyatt, 170-634.

It was error in this case to allow five per cent commissions to commissioners to sell land in foreclosure, and decree making such allowance will be modified so as to provide for reasonable compensation for time, services and expenses of commissioners: Smith v. Frazier, 119-157. Where deed of trust provided that, in case of sale thereunder, trustee should receive 5 per cent commission on the sale as a compensation for making the sale, and also that, if grantor should discharge debt before sale, land should be reconveyed to him, and trustee advertised sale, but before sale day trustor, with knowledge and consent of trustee, paid off debt and interest, and the expense of advertisement, and demanded his bond and trust deed: Held, that debt having been paid, trustee was not entitled to commissions: Pass v. Brooks, 118-397.

Where deed of trust provides for payment of "expenses" of trust, including "5 per cent commissions" to trustee, latter, after default in payment of debt and advertisement of sale, is entitled to his commissions: Cannon v. McCape, 114-580.

Debtor is only liable for debt, interest, actual expenses of sale, as advertising, and the like, and a reasonable compensation to trustee for his time and trouble in making sale, say not to exceed 2 per cent. Trustee pays his own attorney: Turner v. Boger, 126-300.

For justices' fees in Caswell, Forsyth, Gaston, Guilford, and Rockingham, see P. L. 1919, c. 129. As for Rowan, see P. L. 1919, c. 154; for Guilford, see P. L. 1919, c. 129.

One who is both recorder of a city recorder's court and a justice of the peace is presumed, in hearing a warrant made returnable before him by another justice and in binding over the accused, to have acted as a justice, and so to be entitled to his fees: State v. Lord, 145-479.

ART. 9. COMMISSIONERS OF AFFIDAVITS

3924. Commissioners of affidavits. Commissioners of affidavits, and those who are authorized by law to act as such, shall receive the following fees, and no other, namely: for an affidavit taken and certified, forty cents; affixing his official seal, twenty-five cents.

Rev., s. 2796; Code, s. 3741.

For notaries' fees, see Notaries, c. 59, s. 3177.

For fees of harbor masters, see section 6962.

For fees of pilots, see sections 6974, 6977, 6979, 6991-6993.

ART. 1. THE OFFICE

3925. Election and term of office. In each county a sheriff shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, as is prescribed for members of the general assembly, and shall hold his office for two years.

Rev., s. 2808; Const., Art. IV, s. 24.

There is a contract between sheriff and the state that he will discharge duties of the office, and it cannot be abrogated or impaired except by the consent of both parties: King v. Hunter, 65-603; see office-holding cases under section 870.

3926. Disqualifications for the office. No person shall be eligible to the office of sheriff who is not of the age of twenty-one years, and has not resided in the county in which he is chosen for one year immediately preceding his election, or who is a member of the general assembly, or practicing attorney, or who theretofore has been sheriff of such county and has failed to settle with and fully pay up to every officer the taxes which were due from him.

Rev., s. 2809; Code, ss. 2067, 2068, 2069; R. C., c. 105, ss. 5, 6, 7; 1777, c. 118, ss. 2, 4; 1806, c. 699, s. 2; 1829, c. 5, s. 6; 1830, c. 25, ss. 2, 3.

As to presenting receipts for taxes collected by him as former sheriff, see under section 3931.

3927. Sheriff may resign. Every sheriff may vacate his office by resigning the same to the board of county commissioners of his county; and thereupon the board may proceed to elect another sheriff.

Rev., s. 2810; Code, s. 2077; R. C., c. 105, s. 15; 1777, c. 118, s. 1; 1808, c. 752.

3928. Removal for misdemeanor in office. If any sheriff shall be convicted of a misdemeanor in office, the court may at its discretion, as a part of his punishment, remove him from office.

Rev., s. 2811; Code, s. 2071; R. C., c. 105, s. 11; R. S., c. 109, s. 11; 1829, c. 5, s. 8.

Removal of sheriff for other causes, see Art. 2, under Offices and Public Officers.

3929. Vacancy filled; duties performed by coroner. If any vacancy occurs in the office of sheriff, the coroner of the county shall execute all process directed to the sheriff until the first meeting of the county commissioners next succeeding such vacancy, when the board shall elect a sheriff to supply the vacancy for the residue of the term, who shall possess the same qualifications, enter into the same bonds, and be subject to removal, as the sheriff regularly elected. If the board should fail to fill such vacancy, the coroner shall continue to discharge the duties of sheriff until it shall be filled.

Rev., s. 2811; Code, s. 2071; R. C., c. 105, s. 11; R. S., c. 109, s. 11; 1829, c. 5, s. 8.

Vacancy filled in Polk county by governor, see 1909, c. 594. See section 1297 and annotations thereunder; also see section 1021.

When sheriff's office is vacant, commissioners may appoint for residue of term only: Worley v. Smith, 81-304.

County commissioners may declare office vacant, upon insanity of sheriff, but their failure to do so merely authorizes coroner to perform duties of sheriff proper, but does not cast upon him right to collect taxes: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582.

An act authorizing board of commissioners to appoint tax collector for county where there is a sheriff is unconstitutional: King v. Hunter, 65-603—but an official ascertainment of the insanity of a sheriff suspends him from office, and terminates agency of his deputies: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582—his sureties, in that event, have merely same right which they would have in event of sheriff's death, that is, to collect current tax list then in his hands; and county commissioners on first Monday in September following are vested with power of electing tax collector for ensuing year, unless and until sheriff should be restored to reason, Ibid.

Vacancy in office declared, when elected sheriff fails, upon applying to be again inducted into office, to show receipts for money collected by him formerly: People v. Green, 75-329—or fails to appear and justify or renew bonds, Ibid.

ART. 2. SHERIFF'S BONDS

3930. Sheriff to execute three bonds. The sheriff shall execute three several bonds, payable to the state of North Carolina, as follows:

One conditioned for the collection and settlement of state taxes according to law, a sum not exceeding the amount of the taxes assessed upon the county for state purposes in the previous year.

One conditioned for the collection and settlement of county and other local taxes according to law, a sum not exceeding the amount of such county and other local taxes for the previous year.

The third bond, for the due execution and return of process, payment of fees and moneys collected, and the faithful execution of his office as sheriff, shall be not more than five thousand dollars, in the discretion of the board of county commissioners, and shall be conditioned as follows:

The condition of the above obligation is such that, whereas the above bounden _____ is elected and appointed sheriff of _____ County; if, therefore, he shall well and truly execute and due return make of all process and precepts to him directed, and pay and satisfy all fees and sums of money by him received or levied by virtue of any process into the proper office into which the same, by the tenor thereof, ought to be paid, or to the person to whom the same shall be due, his executors, administrators, attorneys, or agents; and in all other things well and truly and faithfully execute the said office of sheriff during his continuance therein, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and effect.

Rev., s. 298; Code, s. 2073; R. C., c. 105, s. 13; 1777, c. 118, s. 1; 1823, c. 1223; 1879, c. 109; 1895, c. 270, ss. 1, 2; 1899, c. 207, s. 2; 1903, c. 12; 1899, c. 54, s. 52.

BOND REQUIRED. Local provision for sheriff's bond in Craven county, see Rev., s. 298; 1899, c. 207. Must be given before inducted into office: Colvard v. Comrs., 95-515; but see Worley v. Smith, 81-304. The legislature's power to extend time for settlement of taxes enters into the terms of every bond, and sureties must take notice: Worth v. Cox, 89-44. County bond covers school taxes: Comrs. v. Sutton, 120-298; Tillery v. Candler, 118-888; Lindsay v. Dozier, 44-275. County commissioners no power to release sureties: Fidelity Co. v. Fleming, 132-332. Bond for collection of taxes of one year cannot be construed to mean another year: Prince v. McNeill, 77-398. Ceremony of acknowledgment in open court and registration not essential: McLean v. Buchanan, 53-444. All bonds taken during term are cumulative: Fidelity Co. v. Fleming, 132-332; Dixon v. Comrs., 80-118; Pickens v. Miller, 83-543; Moore v. Boudinot, 64-190; Bell v. Jasper, 37-597; Poole v. Cox, 31-69; Oats v. Bryan, 14-451. Sureties on bond have no right to tax books, when: Somers v. Comrs., 123-584.

LIABILITY ON BOND. See generally under sections 354, 356, 359. Liable for seizing property not subject to process: Martin v. Buffalo, 128-305; Leavering v. Smith, 115-385; Draper v. Buxton, 90-182—for taxes, Williamson v. Jones, 127-178; Comrs. v. White, 123-534; McGuire v. Williams, 123-349; Comrs. v. Wall, 117-377; Liles v. Rogers, 113-197; Worth v. Cox, 89-44; Vann v. Pipkin, 77-408; Comrs. v. Clarke, 73-255—for failing to lay off personal property exemptions, Scott v. Kenan, 94-296—only for some breach of duty specifically described in bond, Eaton v. Kelly, 72-110; but see State v. Bradshaw, 32-229; also, under section 354—for costs collected and not paid to clerk, Jackson v. Maultsby, 78-174—for failure to pay over money collected on execution, Walters v. Moore, 90-41; Fagan v. Williamson, 53-433; Brooks v. Gibbs, 47-326; Ellis v. Long, 30-513—for sale of exempt property, Hobbs v. Barefoot, 104-224—for failure to collect money on execution, Erwin v. Lowrance, 64-483—for failure to arrest defendant in arrest and bail, Jenkins v. Troutman, 52-169; Houser and Wilson v. Hampton, 29-333—for amercements, Hobbs v. Barefoot, 104-224; see, also, sections 3934, 3936—for allowing debtor to escape, Mabry v. Turrentine, 30-201; Willey v. Eure, 53-320—for failure to apply money to proper execution, Titman v. Rhyne, 89-64—for failure to take proper bail bond, Evans v. Blalock, 47-377. Bond not liable for money paid sheriff on judgment when he had no execution, Mills v. Allen, 52-564—nor unless duty alleged to be unperformed is set out as a condition therein, Eaton v. Kelly, 72-110.

PROCEDURE IN ACTION ON. For summary remedy on bond, see section 356. For action on official bonds generally, see section 354. Sheriff's audited account is prima facie correct and burden is on plaintiff to show otherwise: Williamson v. Jones, 127-178; Comrs. v. White, 123-534; Davenport v. McKee, 98-500. County commissioners proper relator in action for school taxes: Comrs. v. Sutton, 120-298; see, also, section 354. Demand on sheriff before suit for taxes not necessary: McGuire v. Williams, 123-349; State v. McIntosh, 31-307. Copy of bond certified by clerk competent evidence: Erwin v. Lowrance, 64-483. Where sheriff pleads in action to recover taxes that he has not received proper credits: Williamson v. Jones, 127-178—that tax was invalid, McGuire v. Williams, 123-349—that he is entitled to credit for insolvents, Comrs. v. Wall, 117-377—that his creditors have attached books, Ibid. Who relator in action on bond, see section 354. Where plaintiff in execution can sue on official or indemnity bond: Martin v. Buffalo, 128-305. What amounts to plea in bar necessary to be decided before reference: Comrs. v. White, 123-534. Where sureties plead that amercement was fraudulently obtained: State v. Woodside, 29-296—that taxes covered by their bond were used to pay tax covered by other bond, Liles v. Rogers, 113-197—that time for sheriff to settle was extended without their consent, Worth v. Cox, 89-44—that office was really vacant, sheriff having failed to make settlement and renew bond, Vann v. Pipkin, 77-408—that bond was never accepted and registered, Jenkins v. Howell, 65-61—that they are not liable for trespass of sheriff under color of office, State v. Brown, 33-141; State v. Long, 30-415.

3931. County commissioners to take and approve bonds. The board of county commissioners in every county shall take and approve the official bonds of the sheriffs, which they shall cause to be registered and the originals deposited with the clerk of the superior court for safe-keeping. The bonds shall be taken on the first Monday of December next after the election of sheriffs, but no board shall permit any former sheriff to give bonds for, or reënter upon the duties of the office, until he has produced before the board the receipt in full of every such officer for taxes which he has or should have collected.

Rev., s. 2812; Code, ss. 2066, 2068; 1868, c. 20, s. 32; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5; R. C., c. 105, s. 6; 1806, c. 699, s. 2; 1830, c. 2830, c. 25, s. 2.

The purpose of this section is to protect the public revenue and to insure its honest collection: Hudson v. McArthur, 152-445. Commissioners cannot wantonly refuse tax bond and appoint tax collector: King v. Hunter, 65-603.

While it was irregular to induct defendant into office without his giving all three required bonds, yet defect was cured when they were subsequently tendered and accepted: Worley v. Smith, 81-304.

Board of county commissioners being required to take and approve official bonds of sheriffs, and being liable in damages if they knowingly accept insufficient bonds, the approval of such bonds is within their discretion, and courts cannot compel them to approve and receive bonds which they find to be insolvent or insufficient: Harrington v. King, 117-117; Burke v. Comrs., 148-46.

When sheriff presented to commissioners his proper certificate of election, and showed to them that he had accounted as former sheriff for public moneys, wherewith he was charged, as required by law, it at once became their duty to induct him into office according to law: Hampton v. Waldrop, 104-457; Roberts v. Calvert, 98-580; Hannon v. Grizzard, 96-293.

This section imposes no additional qualification upon eligibility to office of such sheriff-elect other than those required by constitution, article 6, section 1, but only prescribes an assurance for faithful discharge of duties of office. General assembly has authority to prescribe such assurances as general welfare demands, and therefore act is not unconstitutional: Lee v. Dunn, 73-595.

Former sheriff must exhibit to commissioners receipt of proper officers for all public funds which he received, or ought to have received, during his preceding official term, before he will be permitted to reënter upon a new term: Colvard v. Comrs., 95-515—and the fact that he was able, ready and willing at time of tendering his bond to make settlement and payment of any liability on account of funds so received does not dispense with requirement, Ibid.

Sheriff-elect is not entitled to be inducted into office until he tenders three bonds required, notwithstanding fact that at beginning of his term there is a tax collector in that county: Colvard v. Comrs., 95-515.

Mandamus lies on refusal to induct sheriff into office when bonds are sufficient and other requirements fulfilled: Comrs. v. Sikes, 72-34.

Ceremony of acknowledgment in open court and registration are not essential: McLean v. Buchanan, 53-444; Jenkins v. Howell, 65-61.

Clerk is proper depository of sheriff's bonds, and copy certified by him is competent evidence: Erwin v. Lowrance, 64-483.

3932. Duty of commissioners when bonds insufficient. It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners whenever they shall be of opinion that the bonds of the sheriff of their county are insufficient, to notify the sheriff in writing to appear within ten days and give other and better sureties, or justify the sureties on his bonds; and in case such sheriff shall fail to appear on notice, or fail to give sufficient bonds, or to justify his bonds, it shall be the duty of the board to elect forthwith some suitable person in the county as sheriff for the unexpired term, who shall give proper and lawful bonds and be subject to like obligations and penalties.

Rev., s. 2813; Code, s. 2074; 1879, c. 109, s. 2.

See sections 326-328.

Under article 7, section 2, of constitution, county commissioners have power to summon sheriff to justify or renew official bond, whenever in fact, or in their opinion, sureties have become or are liable to become insolvent. And it is not only the right, but duty, of commissioners to declare office of sheriff vacant, and appoint some one for unexpired term, whenever incumbent thereof is found to be, on a reelection, in arrears in his settlement of public taxes, or when he takes no notice whatever of summons by commissioners to appear before them on day certain and justify or renew official bond: People v. Green, 75-329.

Where statute requires bond from an officer for faithful discharge of duty, and new duty is attached to office by statute, such bond, given subsequently to latter statute, embraces new duty, and is a security for its performance, unless where, when new duty is attached, bond is required to be given specifically for its performance: State v. Bradshaw, 32-229.

3933. Liability of commissioners. If any board of county commissioners shall fail to comply in good faith with the provisions of this article, they shall be liable for all loss sustained in the collection of taxes, on motion to be made by the solicitor of the district.

Rev., s. 2814; Code, s. 2075; 1868-9, c. 245, s. 3.

Statute requiring sheriff to renew annually his official bonds and, in addition, to produce receipts for public moneys collected by him, and in default thereof it to be the duty of county commissioners to declare office vacant, are intended to effectuate same purpose, and, therefore, a member of the board of county commissioners is liable for only one penalty for failure to perform his duty in that connection: Bray v. Barnard, 109-44.

Commissioners being liable in damages if they knowingly accept insufficient bonds, approval of such bonds is within their discretion, and courts cannot compel them to approve and receive bonds which they find to be insolvent and insufficient: Harrington v. King, 117-117; Burke v. Comrs., 148-46.

The failure of the commissioners to require the sheriff to produce receipts for taxes does not render them liable to the sureties on his bond: Hudson v. McArthur, 152-445.

3934. Liability of sureties. The sureties to a sheriff's bond shall be liable for all fines and amercements imposed on him, in the same manner as they are liable for other defaults in his official duty.

Rev., s. 2815; Code, s. 2076; R. C., c. 105, s. 14; 1829, c. 33.

See annotations under section 3930.

Records of proceedings against sheriff for an amercement imposed upon him are not evidence against sureties to prove his default; but they are admissible against them to prove fact of existence of amercement itself: Governor v. Montford, 23-155.

A judgment of an amercement against a sheriff is not conclusive against sureties on his bond. They may show that judgment was either fraudulently or improperly obtained against their principal: State v. Woodside, 29-296.

Officer cannot be heard to deny or contradict his return; as to him, it is conclusive, and he and the sureties on his bond are liable to plaintiff in execution for sums so endorsed: Walters v. Moore, 90-41.

Sureties to a sheriff's bond, with a condition in ordinary form, are liable for an amercement of sheriff for a default committed during his official term, though final judgment for amercement may not have been rendered until after expiration of it: Governor v. Montford, 23-155.

ART. 3. DUTIES OF SHERIFF

3935. To receipt for process. Every sheriff, coroner or constable shall, when requested, give his receipt for all original and mesne process placed in his hands for execution, to the party suing out the same, his agent or attorney; and such receipt shall be admissible as evidence of the facts therein stated, against such officer and his sureties, in any suit between the party taking the receipt and such officer and his sureties.

Rev., s. 2816; Code, s. 2081; R. C., c. 105, s. 18; 1848, c. 97.

For duty to indorse date of receiving process, see section 951.

3936. Execute process; penalty for false return. Every sheriff, by himself or his lawful deputies, shall execute and make due return of all writs and other process to him legally issued and directed, within his county or upon any river, bay or creek adjoining thereto, or in any other place where he may lawfully execute the same. He shall be subject to the penalty of forfeiting one hundred dollars for each neglect, where such process shall be delivered to him twenty days before the sitting of the court to which the same is returnable, to be paid to the party aggrieved by order of court, upon motion and proof of such delivery, unless the sheriff can show sufficient cause to the court at the next succeeding term after the order.

For every false return, the sheriff shall forfeit and pay five hundred dollars, one moiety thereof to the party aggrieved and the other to him that will sue for the same, and moreover be further liable to the action of the party aggrieved, for damages.

Every sheriff and his deputies, and every constable, shall execute all writs and other process to him legally issued and directed from a justice's court and make due return thereof, under penalty of forfeiting one hundred dollars for each neglect or refusal, where such process shall be delivered to him ten days before the return day thereof, to be paid to the party aggrieved by order of such court, upon motion and proof of such delivery, unless the sheriff or constable can show sufficient cause to the court at a day within three months from the date of the entry of the judgment nisi, of which the officer shall be duly notified.

Rev., s. 2817; Code, s. 2079; 1899, c. 25; R. C., c. 105, s. 17; 1777, c. 218, s. 5; 1821, c. 1110; 1874, c. 33.

See annotations under section 3930. For penalty for failure to enter date of receipt of process, see section 951.

For procedure in motion for judgment nisi hereunder, see annotations under section 3937.

SHERIFF'S AND CONSTABLE'S DUTY TO EXECUTE AND RETURN PROCESS. What constitutes service of process and whether upon a given state of facts service has been duly made, is a question for court; return of sheriff is prima facie service, subject to be overcome by proof of facts: Williamson v. Cocks, 124-585; see, also, section 921.

Where writ from court of competent jurisdiction is delivered to sheriff he is bound to execute it, according to exigency of writ, without inquiring into regularity of proceedings on which writ is grounded: Cody v. Quinn, 28-191—but he must determine, at his peril, whether he who issued it had jurisdiction of matter, State v. McDonald, 14-468.

Sheriff is not obliged to summon power of county upon mesne process: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333.

Constable cannot serve process addressed to sheriff, nor can sheriff serve process addressed to constable: McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126-681. Execution from justice's court must be directed to "any constable or other lawful officer of the county," and if it comes into hands of sheriff he must obey it: Ibid. Constable is bound to same degree of diligence in execution of process, where he takes it out himself, as where it is taken out by creditor or his agent and put into his hands: Hearn v. Parker, 52-150.

An officer, notified of necessity of prompt measures for execution of process placed in his hands for arrest of a party, owes the duty, quitting everything else, to make an effort to make the arrest: Wasson v. Linster, 83-575.

Officer cannot break open door of house and enter therein, without consent of owner, for purpose of executing civil process, except when acting under a requisition in claim and delivery where property has been concealed: State v. Whitaker, 107-802; State v. Armfield, 9-246.

Amercement of a sheriff is a penalty imposed by law for neglect to serve process, when no sufficient cause is shown for his failure to discharge an official duty: Swain v. Phelps, 125-43.

Sheriff, who fails to make a due return, is liable to fine for not making due return of process placed in his hands: Buckley v. Hampton, 23-322; see paragraph under this section headed "Due return," etc.

Sheriff must execute writs issued and directed to him from a superior or justice's court under penalty of $100 for neglecting to make return: McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126-681; Lindsay's Exrs. v. Armfield, 10-548.

A sheriff is bound to return every process which comes to his hand, not void, with a statement of his action under it, and if he has not completely obeyed it, with a lawful reason for his omission: Bryan v. Hubbs, 69-423. Law requires that a writ shall be returned to court and not to clerk: Hamlin v. March, 31-35—yet clerk is officer of court to receive writ, and whatever may be raised upon it, as his office is place where records of court are kept and preserved, Ibid. If clerk will not receive return when rendered, officer to discharge his duty must return precept and money, if he has made it, to court. Court will, upon proper presentation, make such order as case may require, and, in a proper case, direct officer to receive process: Hamlin v. March, 31-35.

Until sheriff receives notice that execution has been superseded he is to obey it according to its tenor. On receiving such notice, it is his duty to stop proceeding and to return writ with a statement of his action under it and reason for his ceasing to act: Bryan v. Hubbs, 69-423. A sheriff is not bound to collect execution, and pay amount to plaintiff, before return day of writ: Patten v. Mann, 35-444.

Where sheriff returns that he has applied the proceeds of one execution in his hands in satisfaction of another he is liable to amercement: Smith v. McMillan, 84-593.

Sheriff may be amerced for not returning process at a term subsequent to that to which return should have been made: Halcombe v. Rowland, 30-240.

THE RETURN ITSELF; USED AS EVIDENCE. The term "return" means that process must be brought back and produced in court whence it issued, with such endorsements as law requires: Watson v. Mitchell, 108-364.

Recitals in a sheriff's return of process are prima facie evidence of truth of the statements therein: Miller v. Powers, 117-218; Simpson v. Hiatt, 35-470; Patterson v. Britt, 33-383; see section 921. But it cannot be impeached collaterally: Comrs. v. Spencer, 174-36; Edwards v. Tipton, 77-222—nor contradicted by a single witness, Burlingham v. Canady, 156-177. Return of a levy endorsed upon an execution is neither conclusive nor prima facie evidence that there was an actual seizure of the property: Bland v. Whitfield, 46-122. Officer cannot be heard to deny or contradict his return; as to him it is conclusive: Walters v. Moore, 90-41. If an interlineation appears on face of officer's return, and there is no evidence to show when it was done, court will presume that it was done before return was made, when officer had authority to alter his return: Sloan v. Stanley, 33-627. A certified copy of execution, when returned, is evidence: Pigot v. Davis, 10-25.

DUE RETURN. "Due return" of process means a proper return, made in proper time. What is a proper return, in form and substance, is a question of law, to be decided by the court; but whether it was made in proper time is a question of fact to be decided by jury: Waugh v. Brittain, 49-470. What constitutes service of process and whether upon a given state of facts service has been duly made, is a question for court; return of sheriff is prima facie service, subject to be overcome by proof of facts: Williamson v. Cocke, 124-585; see, also, section 921.

Sheriff to whom writ has been delivered, but who goes out of office before return day of writ, has no power to make return on it, and therefore is not liable to amercement for not doing so: State v. Woodside, 29-296; McLin v. Hardie, 25-407. A return of sheriff to a fi. fa., that "he had made a levy on personal property and taken a forthcoming bond, but had not sold it; that obligors did not deliver property on day, and that, after day, it was too late to make a sale," is not such a "due return" of process as will exempt sheriff from amercement: Frost v. Rowland, 27-385.

A sheriff is not bound, like a constable, to any particularity in his return of a levy on a fi. fa.: Judge v. Houston, 34-108. Upon a fi. fa. issuing with a venditioni exponas upon the return of a former fi. fa. levied on property which was not sold, it is sufficient to return "No property except what heretofore has been levied on and sent to your office": McDowell v. Robison, 48-535. Proof that a writ was directed by clerk to sheriff of another county, and mailed in due time to reach him in regular course of mail, was held to be sufficient evidence to authorize entering of judgment for an amercement, nisi, if there be no return of process: State v. Latham, 51-233. Where a sheriff returned an execution endorsed "Enjoined": Held, sufficient: Patton v. Marr, 44-377. Where levy upon land was made in December, 1867, and upon a ven. ex. issued in 1869 sheriff returned "No goods, chattels, lands or tenements to be found in my county over the homestead": Held, that he was liable to be amerced for insufficient return: McKeithan v. Terry, 64-25. Return to execution, "Wholly unsatisfied," is not a sufficient return, as it does not conclusively appear thereby that no goods of testator were to be found. After an absolute judgment against executors, the proper return to an execution issuing thereon is "No goods or chattels of testator to be found": McDowell v. Clark, 68-117. Return by sheriff on a fieri facias that "he has levied on goods subject to older executions," without saying whether he had sold property seized or still had it in his hands, or if latter, why he had not sold, whether for want of bidders or of time, or other sufficient excuse, is not a "due return" because it does not answer the writ: Buckley v. Hampton, 23-322.

Sheriff is not liable to amercement for failure to have in court amount of execution issued upon a judgment for debt contracted prior to 1868, when judgment debtor has no property, real or personal, in excess of his exemptions under article 10 of the constitution: Richardson v. Wicker, 80-172.

Sheriff is allowed all the days of term to return an execution, unless he be ruled, upon motion and cause shown, to return it on some intermediate day: Person v. Newsom, 87-142; Ledbetter v. Arledge, 53-475. Where summons sent by mail did not reach officer until six days before sitting of court to which it was returnable, and he served it in two days thereafter: Held, not liable to amercement: Yeargin v. Wood, 84-326. Sheriff who fails to make return of process before adjournment of court to which returnable is liable to penalty prescribed by statute: Boyd v. Teague, 111-246; Turner v. Page, 111-291. Sheriff cannot be amerced if he return an execution within time prescribed by law, though he fail to return the money collected thereon into court or pay it to party or his attorney: Cockerham v. Baker, 52-288; Davis v. Lancaster, 5-255. Former sheriff has no authority to act under a writ directed to his successor, and therefore a writing purporting to be a return by former sheriff, made upon such writ, is not in law a return, and of course not a part of record in that suit: Spruill v. Bateman, 20-627.

EXECUTION FOR FAILURE TO MAKE "DUE RETURN." An execution to which a sheriff of a county is a party, either plaintiff or defendant, directed to such sheriff, is null and void; and sheriff is not bound to make any return thereon, and cannot be amerced for neglecting or refusing to do so: Bowen v. Jones, 35-25.

Where scire facias has been sued out upon judgment, and while it is in sheriff's hands parties agreed that collection of money should be suspended so as to enable them to make full settlement, yet sheriff is not thereby excused from returning process, but is liable to amercement if he fails to do so: Morrow v. Allison, 33-217. Death of clerk during term time is no excuse for not making return: Hamlin v. March, 31-35.

Where a sheriff mailed an execution in time, by ordinary course of mails, to have come to hands of clerk, to whom it was directed, before sitting of court to which it was returnable, it was held he was not guilty of a breach of duty: Cockerham v. Baker, 52-288. A sheriff indorsed upon execution "Debt and interest due to sheriff, costs paid into office," and upon another "Satisfied," without stating what disposition he had made of fund; returns are sufficient in law to relieve sheriff from amercement for not making "due return": Person v. Newsom, 87-142. What is excuse to sheriff for not making arrest is matter of law, after facts are ascertained: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333. Rescue is a good return in excuse, and sheriff may return that he did not take body because he was kept off by force of arms: Ibid.

For facts not sufficient to excuse, see Bell v. Wycoff, 131-245; Turner v. Page, 111-291.

FALSE RETURN. To render sheriff liable to amercement for false return it must appear that return is false in point of fact and not false merely as importing, from facts truly stated, a wrong legal conclusion: Lemit v. Mooring, 30-312; see Albright v. Tapscott, 53-473; Harrell v. Warren, 100-259.

When sheriff returns that a writ came to his hands "too late to execute," writ having been delivered to him more than ten but less than twenty days before term of court, he is liable to penalty for making a false return: Lemit v. Freeman, 29-317—but not liable when only five days intervened, Hassell v. Latham, 52-465.

Where defendant in writ is openly at large in county, "non est inventus" is a false return; and if he cannot be taken elsewhere, statute requires that sheriff shall go to his place of residence before he makes that return: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333. Return of "not to be found" on a capias is not true, because of defendant's being out of state at time return is made, if officer had an opportunity of making arrest previously while process was in his hands:

Martin v. Martin, 50-349. A sheriff, having in hand an order of arrest against B, told B that he "had better come and go with him to Jackson and fix the matter there"; B refused to go with him, and sheriff left without taking any further action; what passed did not constitute an arrest of B, and sheriff was not liable for a false return, in that he returned on the order of arrest "Not served": Lawrence v. Buxton, 102-129.

A sheriff who returns on an execution that he has collected and paid over amount thereof, when in fact money was not collected until some ten days thereafter, is liable for penalty of $500 for making false return: Peebles v. Newsom, 74-473. Where sheriff returns upon a fi. fa. two credits for money received thereon at different times, and suppressing a third credit, returns "Not satisfied," it was held that such return was false, and subjected him to penalty of $500: Martin v. Martin, 50-346.

Failure to mention payment of $2.50 made on execution in his return made return defective, but such an omission does not render sheriff liable to penalty imposed for false return: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259. Mere general report that debtor has no property will not justify a return of nulla bona if debtor in fact has property subject to be levied on: Parks v. Alexander, 29-412.

EXCUSE FOR FALSE RETURN. Ignorance of sheriff's deputy, who makes a false return, does not excuse sheriff from penalty: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333.

A sheriff who endorses upon execution an application of proceeds of sale different from actual application is not excused from penalty for false return, although actual application was proper and false entry made by mistake or inadvertence: Finley v. Hayes, 81-368. Mistake of fact as to date of sale endorsed upon execution by sheriff will not excuse or free him from liability for penalty for false return: Finley v. Hayes, 81-368.

If a sheriff, who has mesne process, finds defendant and really endeavors to arrest him, and is prevented by any sufficient cause, or if, after arrest, defendant is rescued, he should return facts in excuse for not taking body, and not return generally non est inventus, contrary to fact: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333.

DEPUTY SHERIFF'S FAILURE TO EXECUTE AND RETURN PROPERLY. Ignorance of sheriff's deputy, who makes a false return, does not excuse sheriff from penalty: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333.

Sheriff cannot be made responsible for acts of constable, who sometimes acted as his deputy, but never without a special deputation, unless it can be shown that he was expressly authorized: Patterson v. Britt, 33-383—nor when constable returns the attachment levied by him as constable, although by an order of court the return is permitted to be amended by stating the levy to have been made by sheriff by constable as deputy, sheriff's office having then expired and order of amendment having been appealed from, Ibid.

Sheriff may recover on deputy's bond for loss suffered by reason of false return made by deputy; but not if the sheriff ratified the act or was himself the cause of the wrongful act: Wasson v. Linster, 83-575.

AMENDMENT OF RETURN. Court has no power to allow sheriff's return of a levy on land to be amended by inserting a particular description of the premises required by statute, the original return being defective, and so of the like cases: Phillippe v. Higdon, 44-380.

Power of judge to allow amendments in process, etc., is broad, and is to be exercised, in meritorious cases, in his sound discretion: Swain v. Burden, 124-16. Sheriff may, on motion, be allowed to amend his return of process so as to make it speak the truth: Swain v. Burden, 124-16; Swain v. Phelps, 125-43; Stealman v. Greenwood, 113-355; Williams v. Weaver, 101-1—and this is so even after suit brought for penalty imposed for false return, and such amendment defeats plaintiff's right to recover such penalty: Stealman v. Greenwood, 113-355. An officer has not, "as a matter of law," right to amend return in order to correct error, but it is within discretion of presiding judge to permit such amendment in meritorious cases: Campbell v. Smith, 115-498; Williams v. Weaver, 101-1.

If return be erroneous, officer may have same corrected upon direct application to court for that purpose: Walters v. Moore, 90-41. When, in action against sheriff for false return, court permits return to be amended, plaintiff should note his exception, and, unless amended return is admitted to be true, proceed to try the issue. An appeal before final judgment on such admission, or a verdict, is premature and will be dismissed: Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105-74.

Where summons has been properly served, return may be amended to show that deputy officer making service had been duly appointed by sheriff; and defendant cannot be prejudiced by such amendment: Manning v. R. R., 122-824. Sheriff should not be permitted to amend return to the injury of strangers to record, and this especially after lapse of sixteen years: Davidson v. Cowan, 12-304; see Williams v. Sharpe, 70-582; Bank v. Williamson, 24-147.

Where summons was properly served and sheriff's return was unsigned, though indorsed in proper form, judge at trial did not exceed his powers in permitting sheriff to sign return nunc pro tunc: Luttrell v. Martin, 112-593; Grady v. R. R., 116-952.

LIABILITY OF SHERIFF. The sheriff is liable for failure to return process or for a false return: Comrs. v. Spencer, 174-36.

Formerly the penalty of $100 imposed for false return to criminal process was restricted to constables. Under section 4396 it is extended to sheriffs and other officers, state or municipal, and was held to apply only to criminal process: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259—but it was extended to apply to civil cases in State v. Berry, 169-371.

Penalty of $500 imposed for false return under this section is restricted to sheriffs, and false returns by them made to civil process: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259; Martin v. Martin, 50-349. Action for penalty brought in name of person suing, without alleging that any one else is interested: Ibid.

Where sheriff acts under execution regular in form and issued by court of competent jurisdiction he incurs no liability to judgment debtor for seizure and sale of his property, although judgment on which execution issued may have been invalid: O'Briant v. Wilkerson, 122-304; Farley v. Lea, 20-310; but at his peril, he must see that court had jurisdiction of the matter: State v. McDonald, 14-468.

A delay to execute a fi. fa. for eight days, where officer lived within ten miles of debtor, was such a want of diligence as would subject him in damages to creditor: Hearn v. Parker, 52-150. If sheriff forbears, at request of plaintiff, to collect money on an execution, he is not responsible therefor; but if he forbears of his own accord, he will be liable for the damages plaintiff may sustain thereby: McRae v. Evans, 18-243.

Sheriff having an execution in his hands is not indictable for levying upon property in the possession of and belonging to a son of the defendant in the execution, when he acts bona fide under a bond of indemnity. He is liable civilly, but not criminally: State v. Tatom, 69-35; see Stein v. Cozart, 122-280.

Reputation of insolvency of defendant in execution will not excuse officer from liability for neglect in not endeavoring to ascertain whether there is property subject to execution: State v. Edwards, 32-342. A sheriff has no right to return "nulla bona" on an execution without making an effort to find property at residence of defendant in execution, or making demand of payment or inquiry for property: Parks v. Alexander, 29-412.

It is no answer for sheriff to say, when sued for negligence in not executing process against debtor, that debtor, even after being imprisoned under a ca. sa., might pay, or secure to be paid by assignment, other bona fide debts to disappointment of judgment creditor: Sherrill v. Shuford, 32-200—true inquiry being, Has the sheriff, by his negligence, deprived plaintiff of any legal means of securing payment of his debt? If he has, and debtor had property, which might by due process have been subject to it, sheriff shall be liable to amount of debt which might have been thus secured, Ibid.

Where execution is about to be levied, debtor, if he has personal property, must show it, and if he does not, officer commits no wrong by levying on land in first instance: Sloan v. Stanley, 33-627—if it does not appear that the officer knew of the existence of the personal property he is justifiable in levying on real estate: Ibid.

When owner of land does not petition for homestead, it is duty of sheriff or other officer who has execution to have it laid off at expense of creditor, and if he refuse to pay or tender fees of officer, he will be justified in refusing to execute process: Lute v. Reilly, 65-20; Taylor v. Rhyne, 65-530.

Where sheriff had levied on personal property alleged to belong to judgment debtor and, upon its being claimed by third person, released levy and took bond to indemnify him in case he should be amerced, such bond of indemnity is void: Griffin v. Hasty, 94-438.

It is not necessary, in action against sheriff for misconduct of one who acted as his deputy, to show written deputation; it being sufficient to show that he acted generally as deputy, without going back to his appointment: State v. Allen, 27-36. Admissions or declarations of sheriff's deputy are evidence against sheriff when they accompany official acts of deputy or tend to charge him, he being real party in interest, for he is agent of sheriff: State v. Allen, 27-36.

Measure of damages against a collecting agent is amount which he collected or which he might have collected and did not, and same is lost by his negligence. For simply failing to return an insolvent debt the damage is nominal: Brumble v. Brown, 73-476.

The law charges deputy with no duty to creditor, and if he makes default in serving an execution he cannot be sued for it, but his principal only. In such a case deputy is not a bailee as to possession, but is merely a servant of his superior, and holds for him, and therefore has no action himself: Hampton v. Brown, 35-18.

When sureties of sheriff have had to pay money for default of deputy in not taking bail bond from defendant in writ, they have right to be substituted to rights of sheriff against deputy: Blalock v. Peake, 56-323.

Where money collected by deputy sheriff by virtue of office and not turned over, sheriff liable in damages: Lyle v. Wilson, 26-226.

Sheriff is liable where he or his deputy seized the property of A under execution against B: Satterwhite v. Carson, 25-549; Burgin v. Burgin, 23-453—or where he seized and sold property of a third person in attachment proceedings: Stein v. Cozart, 122-280.

3937. Sufficient notice in case of amercement. In all cases where any sheriff or other officer shall be amerced for failure to make due return of any execution or other process placed in his hands, or for any default whatsoever in office, and judgment nisi or otherwise for the penalty or forfeiture in such case made and provided shall be entered, it shall be sufficient to give such sheriff notice, according to law, under the hand of the clerk and seal of the court where such judgment may be entered, of a motion for a judgment absolute, or for execution, as the case may be; and no other notice, summons or suit shall be necessary to enforce the same; and such proceedings shall be deemed and held in aid of a suit or other proceedings already instituted in court.

See section 3936. Where a prima facie case is made, either upon affidavit or other sufficient proof, a rule nisi is granted as of course: Ex parte Schenck, 63-601. Where judgment nisi for $100 is rendered against sheriff for failure to make due return of process, and no sufficient reason is shown for failure, judgment should be made absolute: Graham v. Sturgill, 123-384.

On trial of an action for penalty for false return on execution when defendant sheriff offered to introduce in evidence true return of proceeds of sale endorsed upon certain other executions, evidence was immaterial and properly excluded: Finley v. Hayes, 81-368.

Sheriff may be amerced at a subsequent term to that at which the process was returnable, for not having made his return at a previous term: Hyatt v. Allison, 48-533.

Amercement, and not a civil action, is remedy given against a sheriff for not making "due and proper" return of process: Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105-74.

Courts have no dispensing power to relieve from penalty prescribed by law: Swain v. Phelps, 125-43.

A justice of the peace has no power to amerce sheriff of county other than that in which he holds his court for failure to make due return to process issued by such justice; he can only amerce sheriff of his county when he fails to perform duties: Boggs v. Davis, 82-27.

The return or certificate of a ministerial officer, as to what he has done out of court, is only to be taken as prima facie true, and is not conclusive: Smith v. Low, 27-197.

Action against sheriff of county other than that from which process issued, for making false return, is properly brought in courts of county to which that process returnable: Watson v. Mitchell, 108-364.

Any person may sue for penalty imposed upon sheriff for a false return, and he need not mention in his complaint the other party to whom the statute gives one-half of the recovery: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259.

In a proceeding to enforce statutory penalty against sheriff for failure to make due return of process, it is not error to set aside judgment absolute where it appeared that he had no notice of rule upon him to show cause: Yeargin v. Wood, 84-326.

On motion to set aside judgment against defendant sheriff for alleged failure to make due return of process, facts of this case entitle him to relief under section 600: Francks v. Sutton, 86-78.

Duties and liabilities of sheriff in relation to execution of process are nearly same under C. C. P. as under old system, but procedure for enforcing judgment nisi against him is changed from a scire facias to a civil action, and summons must be in same court as judgment, and must be returned to regular term thereof: Jones v. Gupton, 65-48.

3938. Execute summons, order or judgment. Whenever the sheriff may be required to serve or execute any summons, order or judgment, or to do any other act, he shall be bound to do so in like manner as upon process issued to him, and shall be equally liable in all respects for neglect of duty; and if the sheriff be a party, the coroner shall be bound to perform the service, as he is now bound to execute process where the sheriff is a party; and this chapter relating to sheriffs shall apply to coroners when the sheriff is a party. Sheriffs and coroners may return process by mail. Their liabilities in respect to the execution of process shall be as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 2819; Code, s. 598; C. C. P., s. 354.

For duties with reference to service of process, and penalties for failure to make due return, etc., see section 3936.

In action wherein sheriff is party defendant, it is proper that summons issued against a co-defendant should be addressed to and served by coroner: Battle v. Baird, 118-854.

County commissioners may declare the office vacant, upon insanity of sheriff, but their failure to do so merely authorizes coroner to perform duties of sheriff proper, but does not cast upon him right to collect taxes: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582.

A city or town constable has no authority to serve beyond limits of his own town process directed to "constable or other lawful officer of county"; to authorize him to make such service, process must be directed to him, not necessarily in his individual name as such officer, but in name of office he holds: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84; Carson v. Woodrow, 160-144.

If court issuing process has a general jurisdiction to issue such process, and the want of jurisdiction does not appear upon the face of the paper, a sheriff and his assistants may justify under it: State v. Ferguson, 67-219.

Constable cannot serve process addressed to sheriff, nor can sheriff serve process addressed to constable: McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126-681.

As to coroner's acting as sheriff, see section 1021.

3939. Liability of outgoing sheriff for unexecuted process. Any sheriff who shall have received a precept, and shall go out of office before the return day thereof, without having executed the same, shall forfeit and pay to the party at whose instance it was issued the sum of one hundred dollars, if such precept shall have remained in his hands for such length of time wherein it might have been well executed by him; unless the same shall have been thereafter executed by the successor of such sheriff and returned at the day and place commanded therein; or unless it shall have been delivered over to the succeeding sheriff time enough to have allowed of its being executed by him; and the penalty aforesaid shall be recoverable by notice against such outgoing sheriff and his sureties.

Rev., s. 2820; Code, s. 2088; R. C., c. 105, s. 25.

It is duty of sheriff going out of office to deliver all process remaining in his hands to his successor: State v. Woodside, 29-296.

3940. Payment of money collected on execution. In all cases where a sheriff has collected money upon an execution placed in his hands, if there be no bona fide contest over the application thereof, he shall immediately pay the same to the plaintiff, or into the office of the clerk of the court from which the execution issued, and upon his failure to make such payment upon demand, he shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be collected as other penalties.

Rev., s. 2821; Code, s. 2080.

3941. Deposit county tax money with treasurer. Every sheriff shall deposit the county and other local taxes, by him collected, with the county treasurer, if there be a county treasurer, as often as he shall collect or have in his possession at any one time of such county or local taxes a sum equal to five hundred dollars. Rev., s. 298; Code, s. 2073.

3942. Publish list of delinquent taxpayers. Whenever any sheriff or tax collector shall be credited on settlement with any tax or taxes by him returned as insolvent, dead or removed, he shall forthwith make publication at the courthouse door, and at least one public place in each and every township in his county, of a complete list of the names of such insolvent, dead or removed delinquents, with the amount of the tax due from each, and the sum total so credited. Such list, by order of the board of commissioners, may also be published in any newspaper printed in the county; in which case, the expense of the advertisement, for such time as may be directed, shall be paid by the county. Any sheriff or tax collector failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Rev., ss. 2826, 3587; Code, s. 2092; 1876-7. c. 78, ss. 1, 2, 3.
Section cited in Williamson v. Jones, 127-180.

3943. Liability for escape under civil process. When any sheriff shall take or receive and have in keeping the body of any debtor in execution, or upon attachment, for not performing a judgment for the payment of any sum of money, and shall willfully or negligently suffer such debtor to escape, the person suing out such execution or attachment, his executors or administrators, shall have and maintain an action for the debt against such sheriff and the sureties on his official bond, and in case of his death, against his executors or administrators, for the recovery of all such sums of money as are mentioned in the execution or attachment, and damages for detaining the same.

Rev., s. 2823; Code, s. 2083; R. C., c. 105, s. 20; 13 Edw. I, c. 11; 1777, c. 118, ss. 10, 11.

AS TO WHAT IS AN ESCAPE. There are only two kinds of escape known to our law of a prisoner confined for debt, one voluntary and the other negligent, except where prisoner has escaped by act of God or of public enemy: Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147.

It is not an escape in a sheriff to permit a debtor committed under a ca. sa. to remain in prison with the door of the prison open, unless such debtor passes out of prison: Currie v. Worthy, 47-104. Sheriff, having permitted one arrested under mesne process in a civil action to get into an adjoining room, from which he escaped, is guilty of an escape: Winborne v. Mitchell, 111-13.

A paper-writing, upon which a constable arrests a debtor and imprisons him, not running in name of state, nor being directed to any ministerial officer, nor purporting to be signed by a justice of the peace, cannot be deemed a judicial process; and sheriff is not guilty of an escape in permitting debtor thus imprisoned to go at large: Ellis v. Gee, 5-445.

WHEN SHERIFF LIABLE AND WHEN NOT LIABLE. Where defendant has been arrested upon mesne process and gives bail, and, after judgment, bail surrenders him to sheriff out of term time, no execution having been issued on judgment nor any committitur prayed by plaintiff, if sheriff releases him upon bond to appear at court and take benefit of insolvent law, sheriff is liable for an escape: State v. Ellison, 31-261.

Only difference as to liability of officer, between the two kinds of escape, is that in case of voluntary escape he is liable absolutely; in the case of negligent escape, he has a right to retake prisoner, and if he does retake him upon fresh pursuit, he is not liable to an action of debt brought after such recapture, and when he has prisoner in custody: Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147.

Nothing can excuse sheriff for escape of a debtor committed to his custody but the act of God or the public enemy: Rainey v. Dunning, 6-386; Mabry v. Turrentine, 30-201; Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147.

A sheriff is not liable as special bail, after he has committed a defendant on mesne process, though such defendant be permitted by him to go at large: Buffalow v. Hussey, 44-237.

Where scire facias issued against sheriff to charge him as special bail for person sued at the instance of plaintiff, and who had been, for want of bail, committed to jail in the sheriff's county, and afterwards discharged as an insolvent by two magistrates, sheriff was not liable as special bail: Buffalow v. Hussey, 44-237.

The words "executed P. R. T., D. Sheriff" endorsed on a capias which, duly issued, came to hands of sheriff, are such legal return as to make sheriff liable as special bail, on failure of him or his deputy to take bail bond: Washington v. Vinson, 49-380.

To render sheriff liable for escape of insolvent surrendered in court, it is necessary to show that such insolvent was committed to sheriff's custody by order of court. A mere prayer to that effect will not be sufficient: Siler v. McKee, 47-379.

Where one has been arrested under a capias ad respondendum, escaped from sheriff, and latter by his return negatived any idea that he intended to become special bail for the party escaped, sheriff and his sureties were liable upon his official bond for such escape, and measure of damages was not the debt and interest, but such actual damages as plaintiff had sustained: Lusk v. Falls, 63-188.

If sheriff fails to take bail, plaintiff need not file exceptions nor give notice to fix him as bail: Adams v. Jones, 60-198—and sheriff is said to fail to take bail when bond is so defective and imperfect as to be adjudged not to be such, Ibid.

After surrender, if creditor, upon reasonable notice, will not charge party in execution, either a habeas corpus or a supersedeas would be issued by court: State v. Ellison, 31-261.

In action of debt on sheriff's bond for escape of debtor imprisoned under a ca. sa., jury are not bound to give whole sum due from such debtor, but should give damages really sustained by escape: Willey v. Eure, 53-320; Robertson v. Matlock, 8-425.

Where sheriff arrested a man on a ca. sa. and committed him to jail, in custody of jailer, and prisoner escaped: Held that, without bond of indemnity, jailer was only bound to sheriff for want of fidelity or due care in discharge of duty: Turrentine v. Faucett, 33-652.

In an action for escape, if defendant wishes to except as to venue upon ground of its being a penal action, he must make objection by plea in abatement: Whicker v. Roberts, 32-485.

Meaning of term "negligent escape" in our statute is same that was given to that term at common law: Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147. Insolvency of principal is no defense to action against bail; nor can sheriff, when sued as bail, show in mitigation of damages such insolvency: Winborne v. Mitchell, 111-13. Sheriff must be proceeded against by sci. fa., as bail for not taking bail upon a capias in equity; and an action on the case will not lie against him for such failure or neglect: Troy v. Williamson, 18-252.

Plaintiff is entitled to interest on a recovery in debt for an escape against the sheriff in the same way he would be entitled against the debtor: Currie v. Worthy, 48-315.

Where sheriff executes a writ and permits defendant to go at large under promise to give bail to deputy, latter is not liable to sheriff for escape: Dowell v. Vannoy, 14-23.

When judgment is obtained against two or more, and no bail bond has been taken from either, and sheriff, who has thus become bail for all, after rendition of judgment and issuing of ca. sa., is directed by plaintiff not to serve ca. sa. on one of defendants, he is still liable as bail for not surrendering other defendant: Jackson v. Hampton, 32-579.

A writ commanding to "take the body and safely keep, etc., until the sheriff makes a sum of money, and to have that money in court at return day," is not a ca. sa. and not sufficient to charge bail: Finley v. Smith, 15-95. Without a proper ca. sa. a precept will not authorize detention of defendant nor make sheriff liable for his escape: Walker v. Vick, 19-99.

In all cases of escape, after debtor is committed to jail, sheriff is liable, however innocent he may be, unless escape has been occasioned by act of God or public enemy: Rainey v. Dunning, 6-386.

PURSUIT AND RECAPTURE AS A DEFENSE. Where prisoner, confined for debt, escapes, officer, in an action against him for escape, can only excuse himself by showing that he has not only made fresh pursuit, but also that he has actually recaptured prisoner before suit brought. Without this, fresh pursuit will not excuse officer, even though prisoner die before officer has it in his power by due diligence to recapture him: Whicker v. Roberts, 32-485. In this state, defense of fresh pursuit and recapture need not be by plea, but may be made on the general issue: Ibid.

3944. Custody of jail. The sheriff shall have the care and custody of the jail in his county; and shall be, or appoint, the keeper thereof.

Rev., s. 2824; Code, s. 2085; R. C., c. 105, s. 22.

A sheriff has a right to take bond from jailer to indemnify him for all losses to which he may be subjected by escape of prisoner while in custody of jailer: Turrentine v. Faucett, 33-652.

3945. Prevent entering jail for lynching; county liable. When the sheriff of any county has good reason to believe that the jail of his county is in danger of being broken or entered for the purpose of killing or injuring a prisoner placed by the law in his custody, it shall be his duty at once to call on the commissioners of the county, or some one of them, for a sufficient guard for the jail, and in such case, if the commissioner or commissioners fail to authorize the employment of necessary guards to protect the jail, and by reason of such failure the jail is entered and a prisoner killed, the county wherein whose jail the prisoner is confined shall be responsible in damages, to be recovered by the personal representatives of the prisoner thus killed, by action begun and prosecuted before the superior court of any county in this state.

Rev., s. 2825; 1893, c. 461, s. 7.

3946. Not to farm office. No sheriff shall let to farm in any manner, his county, or any part of it, under pain of forfeiting five hundred dollars, one-half to the use of the county and the other half to the person suing for the same.

Rev., s. 2828; Code, s. 2084; R. C., c. 105, s. 21; 23 Hen. VI, c. 10.

This section prohibits sheriff from letting to farm, in any manner, his county, or any part of it: Cansler v. Penland, 125-578. Plaintiff, appointed tax collector for county, turned over to defendant entire lists, absolutely, to collect and account for, and reserving no control of tax lists; this constituted a clear case of farming out public office prohibited by statute: Ibid.

An agreement to compensate or to pay expenses for attempting to secure appointment to office is void: Basket v. Moss, 115-448. Traffic in public offices is against good morals and contrary to public policy: Ibid.

3947. Obligation taken by sheriff, payable to himself. The sheriff or his deputy shall take no obligation of or from any person in his custody for or concerning any matter or thing relating to his office otherwise payable than to himself as sheriff and dischargeable upon the prisoner's appearance and rendering himself at the day and place required in the writ (whereupon he was or shall be taken or arrested), and his sureties discharging themselves therefrom as special bail of such prisoner or such person keeping within the limits and rules of any prison; and every other obligation taken by any sheriff in any other manner or form, by color of his office, shall be void, except in any special case and other obligation shall be, by law, particularly and expressly directed; and no sheriff shall demand, exact, take or receive any greater fee or reward whatsoever, nor shall have any allowance, reward or satisfaction from the public, for any service by him done, other than such sum as the court shall allow for ex officio services and the allowance given and provided by law.

CHAPTER 73

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION

- 3948. Repeal of statute not to affect actions.
- 3949. Rules for construction of statutes.
- 3950. Construction of amended statute.

3948. Repeal of statute not to affect actions. The repeal of a statute shall not affect any action brought before the repeal, for any forfeitures incurred, or for the recovery of any rights accruing under such statute.

Rev., s. 2830; Code, s. 3764; R. C., c. 108, s. 1; 1830, c. 4; 1879, c. 163; 1881, c. 48.

When a statute creates a cause of action and is repealed before action is brought, the cause of action is destroyed: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396. When the action is pending at the time of such repeal, the right of action continues: Smith v. Ice Co., 159-151; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Wilmington v. Stolter, 122-395; Wilmington v. Cronly, 122-388; Epps v. Smith, 121-157; State v. Williams, 97-455. By express enactment the cause of action may be taken away: R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; Bray v. Williams, 137-387; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Dyer v. Ellington, 126-941. When a judgment has been obtained before the repeal, it is a vested right and will not be affected: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Dunham v. Anders, 128-207.

When the cause of action is founded upon the common law, the repeal of a statute affecting it will not destroy the right: Williams v. R. R., 153-360.

When county officers had been ordered by the court to build a certain fence, and while appeal was pending the act authorizing the building was repealed, the action abated: Brinson v. Duplin, 173-137.

When a part of two counties had been included in a graded school district and the act including a part of one county was repealed, it would not prevent the collection of taxes due at the time: Mann v. Allen, 171-219; Marsh v. Early, 169-465.

When a penal statute upon which an indictment is founded is repealed pending the indictment, defendant is entitled to an acquittal: State v. Williams, 97-455; State v. Long, 78-571; State v. Wise, 66-120, 67-281; State v. Nutt, 61-20; State v. Cress, 49-421—and judgment may even be arrested after conviction: State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Cress, 49-421; State v. Williams, 97-455; State v. Long, 78-571.

When a criminal statute, or any part of it essential to sustain an indictment, is repealed or stricken out, offense committed under older statute cannot be punished unless contrary intent appear from express saving clause or by necessary implication: State v. Massey, 103-356.

Statutes which change mode of procedure may apply to suits pending: Sumner v. Miller, 64-688.

AS TO CONSTRUING RETROACTIVELY. A statute is to be construed prospectively, unless the contrary intention be clearly expressed therein: Waddill v. Masten, 172-582; State v. Haynie, 169-277; Elizabeth City v. Comrs., 146-539; Woodley v. Bond, 66-396; State v. Littlefield, 93-614; Greer v. Asheville, 114-678. Presumption is against retroactive operation: Lowe v. Harris, 112-472; Morrison v. McDonald, 113-327.

A statute which repeals a statute containing penalty against usury does not have the retroactive effect to make the contract for usury lawful: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137. Act changing law of evidence will not be construed retroactive so as to injure existing rights: Lowe v. Harris, 112-472. Time of statute of limitations cannot be changed as to existing suits: Nichols v. R. R., 120-495. Increase of punishment cannot be retroactive: State v. Ramsour, 113-642.

Where, pending an appeal, subject-matter of the action is destroyed or a statute giving the cause of action is repealed, this court will not go into consideration of the abstract question as to which party ought to have prevailed, in order to adjudicate costs, but judgment below as to costs will be allowed to stand: Wikel v. Comrs., 120-451; Reid v. R. R., 162-355.

A retrospective law taxing business of citizens during whole of current year in which such law is passed is not constitutional: State v. Bell, 61-76.

3949. Rules for construction of statutes. In the construction of all statutes the following rules shall be observed, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the manifest intent of the general assembly, or repugnant to the context of the same statute, that is to say:

Rev. s. 2831; R. C., c. 108, s. 2.

LEGISLATIVE INTENT. The general purpose of construction is to arrive at the legislative intent, and when that is clear the court can only enforce it: State v. Carpenter, 173-767; Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631; Roberts v. Mfg. Co., 169-27; Comrs. v. Henderson, 163-114; School Comrs. v. Aldermen, 158-191; Kearney v. Vann, 154-311; Spencer v. R. R., 137-107; Comrs. v. Packing Co., 135-62; Randall v. R. R., 107-748; State v. Eaves, 106-752. To ascertain the intent, effect must be given to all clauses and provisions: Nance v. R. R., 149-366; McLeod v. Comrs., 148-77; Grocery Co. v. Bag Co., 142-174; Comrs. v. Stedman, 141-448; Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322; Bd. of Ed. v. Comrs., 137-310.

Words are to be taken in their ordinary meaning, and technical words in their usual technical sense: Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631; Asbury v. Albemarle, 162-247; Rives v. Guthrie, 46-84; Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147; State v. Gupton, 30-271; Kitchen v. Tyson, 7-314; State v. Jernigan, 7-12—and words which have been construed in a particular sense will receive the same construction, Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244; Bridgers v. Taylor, 102-86.

The court cannot supply words to make the statute operative, but clerical omissions may be supplied: Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322; State v. Monds, 130-697; Russell v. Leatherwood, 114-683. A mistake in a name or description will not defeat the statute if there is enough left to show the meaning: Toomey v. Lumber Co., 171-178; Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322. In the use of specific words and general terms the former will restrict the meaning of the latter: State v. Craig, 176-740.

In ascertaining the meaning, consideration should be given to the law as it existed before, to general public policy of the state, the purpose of the act, and the effect of a particular construction: Kendall v. Stafford, 178-461; Bank v. Loven, 172-666; Seward v. R. R., 159-241.

In determining whether a statute is mandatory or directory, no definite rule can be applied, but the legislative intent must govern, to be ascertained from the wording, the nature, purpose and consequences: Spruill v. Davenport, 178-364.

A change of construction by the court will not affect vested rights: Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Ely v. Norman, 175-299. The court will not attribute to the legislature the intention of requiring the doing of an impossible thing: Garrison v. R. R., 150-575.

If a statute is too vague to convey any definite meaning it is void: State v. Partlow, 91-550—and no extrinsic evidence is admissible to show the legislative intent, Goins v. Training School, 169-736; Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631; State v. R. R., 122-1052; State v. Partlow, 91-550.

Rule, in the construction of statutes, that a proviso is to be considered as a limitation upon the general words preceding, or an exception therefrom, is not absolute, and the meaning of proviso must generally be ascertained from its language: Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298. If the proviso is in conflict with the purview of the statute, the proviso will control: Supply Co. v. Eastern Star Home, 163-514.

The maxim, "the reason ceasing, the law ceases also," has no application to the construction of statutes: State v. Eaves, 106-752.

When act declaratory of intent of previous act will not control court in construction: Rodwell v. Harrison, 132-45.

RELATED STATUTES. All statutes about the same subject-matter are in pari materia and should be construed together: Allen v. Reidsville, 178-513; Latham v. Latham, 178-12; Bank v. Loven, 172-666; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Abbott v. Beddingfield, 125-256; State v. Melton, 46-49; State v. Grove, 1-63—and this applies whether the statutes were enacted at the same session or not, Wilson v. Jordan, 124-683.

Two statutes apparently in conflict must be reconciled, if possible, and if not, that meaning should be adopted which appears to have been the legislative intention: Bd. of Agriculture v. Drainage Dist., 177-222; Bramham v. Durham, 171-196; Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; State v. Johnson, 170-685; Board v. Comrs., 137-63; Arendell v. Worth, 125-111; Winslow v. Morton, 118-486; State v. Custer, 65-339; State v. Jones, 67-210; McAden v. Jenkins, 64-796.

Original statute and amendment should be construed together: Road Com. v. Comrs., 178-61; Hamlin v. Carlson, 178-431; Keith v. Lockhart, 171-451. When laws have been codified the original statutes may be referred to as an aid to construction: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378.

STRICT CONSTRUCTION. Statutes in derogation of common law or common right will be strictly construed: Swift v. Tempelos, 178-487; Price v. Edwards, 178-493; Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176-82; Nance v. R. R., 149-366; Arendell v. Worth, 125-111; Board v. Comrs., 137-64; Winslow v. Morton, 118-486. Statutes limiting the power to contract: Marriner v. Roper, 112-164. Attachment laws: Leak v. Moorman, 61-168; Bank v. Hinton, 12-397. Statutes conferring powers upon municipal corporations: Plymouth v. Cooper, 135-1. Statute depriving court of acquired jurisdiction: State v. Sullivan, 110-513.

Penalty statutes are strictly construed: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 170-241; State v. R. R., 168-103; Alexander v. R. R., 144-93; State v. Hicks, 143-689; Sears v. Whitaker, 136-37; Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434; Coble v. Shoffner, 75-42; Smithwick v. Williams, 30-268. Statute construed strictly against a forfeiture: Skinner v. Thomas, 171-98. Criminal statutes strictly construed: State v. R. R., 122-1052; State v. Godfrey, 97-507.

Remedial statutes are liberally construed: Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167-63; insolvent debtor's law liberally construed, Dean v. King, 35-20.

CONSTRUING WITH REFERENCE TO CONSTITUTION. Every presumption is in favor of the validity of an act of the legislature and all doubts are resolved in support of the act: Lowery v. School Trustees, 140-33; White v. Murray, 126-158; Brooks v. Tripp, 135-160; Sutton v. Phillips, 116-502; State v. Lewis, 107-967; State v. Moore, 104-714; Holton v. Comrs., 93-430; Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-428; Malloy v. Fayetteville, 122-483; State v. Pool, 74-402; Sedberry v. Comrs., 66-486.

Part of a statute may be constitutional and other parts unconstitutional, and the valid parts sustained: Archer v. Joyner, 173-75; Lowery v. School Trustees, 140-33; Garsed v. Greensboro, 126-162; Rodman v. Washington, 122-41; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34; Gamble v. McCrady, 75-509; Johnson v. Winslow, 63-552—but not when invalid part would enlarge the operation of the law, Keith v. Lockhart, 171-451—or the parts are interdependent, State v. Godwin, 123-697; Tate v. Comrs., 122-661.

An act is unconstitutional from its effect, and not from legislative intention: Jacobs v. Smallwood, 63-112.

REPEAL OF STATUTE. The repeal of a statute repealing a former statute leaves the latter in force: Brinkley v. Swicegood, 65-626; State v. Goulding, 131-716; State v. Edwards, 134-638.

The repeal of an act of the assembly giving a forfeiture for an offense is a repeal of all forfeitures incurred under the act repealed, unless there be a special exception to the contrary: Governor v. Howard, 5-465.

Private act may not be repealed by section in general law: State v. Womble, 112-862.

Adoption of stock law does not abrogate a general statute or rule of law: Shepard v. R. R., 140-391.

These rules of law for construction of statutes are well established: (1) The law does not favor repeal of an older statute by a later one by mere implication. (2) The implication which will work repeal of a statute must be necessary, and if it arises out of repugnancy between the two acts, later act abrogates older only to the extent that it is inconsistent and irreconcilable with it. A law will not be deemed repealed because some of its provisions are repeated in a subsequent statute. (3) Where a later or revising statute clearly covers whole subject-matter of antecedent acts, and it plainly appears to have been purpose of the legislature to merge into it the whole law on the subject, a repeal by necessary implication is effected: Winslow v. Morton, 118-486. For various applications of these rules, see Sanatorium v. State Treas., 173-810; Bunch v. Comrs., 159-335; State v. Broadway, 157-598; State v. Perkins, 141-797; College v. Lacy, 130-364; McNeill v. McDuffie, 119-336; Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279; Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112-359; State v. Massey, 103-356; State v. Monger, 111-675; State v. Sutton, 100-474; Jones v. Ins. Co., 88-499; State v. Cunningham, 72-469.

General election law repeals provision in city charter: Rodwell v. Harrison, 132-45.

Where a statute makes that which was a felony merely a misdemeanor it will be construed as repealing, by implication, the old law: State v. Upchurch, 31-454.

CERTAIN WORDS CONSTRUED. "Authorize and empower," in act conferring power upon county to issue bonds, construed to be mandatory: Jones v. Comrs., 137-579.

"Deed" in a statute means instrument under seal: Patterson v. Galliher, 122-512.

When a statute directs the performance of an act for the promotion of justice or the public good, if it is necessary to secure these objects, the word "may" will be construed to mean "shall": Johnston v. Pate, 95-68. Local and special laws defined: State v. Johnson, 170-685. "Merchandise" in bulk sales law: Swift v. Tempelos, 178-487. "Assumed name" under statute: Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176-82. "Levy" means assessment as applied to taxes: Mann v. Allen, 171-219.

TITLE AS AID TO CONSTRUCTION. Where the meaning of statute is doubtful, title may be resorted to to aid in its construction: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434—but it cannot control when the meaning is clear, In re Chisholm's Will, 176-211; Blue v. McDuffie, 44-131. Title of act competent to show that date of act amended is erroneously stated: State v. Woolard, 119-779. Headings to sections of the Code cannot be considered in construing: Cram v. Cram, 116-288. Title to statute is no part thereof: State v. Welsh, 10-404.

1. Singular and plural number, masculine gender, etc. Every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things, as well as to one person or thing; and every word importing the plural number only shall extend and be applied to one person or thing, as well as to several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to females as well as to males, unless the context clearly shows to the contrary.

2. Authority to three or more exercised by majority. All words purporting to give a joint authority to three or more public officers or other persons shall be construed as giving such authority to a majority of such officers or other persons, unless it shall be otherwise expressly declared in the law giving the authority.

Referred to in Ryder v. Oates, 173-569.

3. "Month" and "year." The word "month" shall be construed to mean a calendar month, unless otherwise expressed; and the word "year," a calendar year, unless otherwise expressed; and the word "year" alone shall be equivalent to the expression "year of our Lord."

The words of limitation to an action of slander are to be taken as lunar and not calendar months: Rives v. Guthrie, 46-84.

"Thirty days" as used in article 4 of the constitution is not synonymous with "one month"; it may be more or less: State v. Upchurch, 72-146.

The words "twelve months," in the absence of any legislative definition of the word month and the word "year," will be interpreted to mean twelve calendar months: Muse v. Assurance Co., 108-240.

4. Leap-year, how counted. In every leap-year, the increasing day and the day before, in all legal proceedings, shall be counted as one day.

R. C., c. 31, s. 108; R. S., c. 31, s. 113; 21 Hen. III.

5. "Oath" and "sworn." The word "oath" shall be construed to include "affirmation," in all cases where by law an affirmation may be substituted for an oath, and in like cases the word "sworn" shall be construed to include the word "affirmed."

6. "Person" and "property." The word "person" shall extend and be applied to bodies politic and corporate, as well as to individuals, unless the context clearly shows to the contrary. The words "real property" shall be coextensive with lands, tenements and hereditaments. The words "personal property" shall include moneys, goods, chattels, choses in action and evidences of debt, including all things capable of ownership, not descendible to the heirs at law. The word "property" shall include all property, both real and personal.

While the word "property" in its legal sense ordinarily includes money, yet where it can be seen from other parts of a will in which it is used that it was not so intended, that interpretation will be given it by the courts with which the testator had evidently employed it: Patterson v. Wilson, 101-584.

A chose in action is property: Winfree v. Bagley, 102-515; Worth v. Trust Co., 151-191.

Word "estate" has a broader meaning than the word "property." The latter word would not include choses in action, unless there be something in the context which would require it to receive this interpretation, except by force of the definition contained in this section: Vaughn v. Murfreesboro, 96-317.

This provision could not affect the meaning of terms employed in the constitution; indeed, it purports to apply only to statutes, and to them when the meaning is manifestly otherwise than as therein provided and defined: Redmond v. Comrs., 106-144.

7. "Preceding" and "following." The words "preceding" and "following," when used by way of reference to any section of a statute, shall be construed to mean the section next preceding or next following that in which such reference is made; unless when some other section is expressly designated in such reference.

8. "Seal." In all cases in which the seal of any court or public office shall be required by law to be affixed to any paper issuing from such court or office, the word "seal" shall be construed to include an impression of such official seal, made upon the paper alone, as well as an impression made by means of a wafer or of wax affixed thereto.

9. "Will." The term "will" shall be construed to include codicils as well as wills.

10. "Written" and "in writing." The words "written" and "in writing" may be construed to include printing, engraving, lithographing, and any other mode of representing words and letters: Provided, that in all cases where a written signature is required by law, the same shall be in a proper handwriting, or in a proper mark.

11. "State" and "United States." The word "state," when applied to the different parts of the United States, shall be construed to extend to and include the District of Columbia and the several territories, so called; and the words "United States" shall be construed to include the said district and territories and all dependencies.

12. "Imprisonment for one month," how construed. The words "imprisonment for one month," wherever used in any of the statutes, shall be construed to mean "imprisonment for thirty days."

Rev., s. 2831; Code, s. 3765; R. C., c. 108.

3950. Construction of amended statute. Where a part of a statute is amended it is not to be considered as having been repealed and reenacted in the amended form; but the portions which are not altered are to be considered as having been the law since their enactment, and the new provisions as having been enacted at the time of the amendment.

Rev., s. 2832; Code, s. 3766; 1868-9, c. 270, s. 22; 1870-1, c. 111.

An amendment to a statute is construed as incorporated into the original statute with the same effect as if it had been a part of the original statute: State v. Moon, 178-715; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94.

Amendment to a statute operates from its enactment, leaving in force the portions which are not altered: Nichols v. Edenton, 125-13.

An amending statute does not repeal the former statute, but merely applies to subsequent offenses: State v. Broadway, 157-598; State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Massey, 97-465.

Reënactment by legislature of a law in the terms of a former law at the same time it repeals the former law is not, in contemplation of law, a repeal, but is a reaffirmance of the former law, whose provisions are thus continued without any intermission: Wood v. Bellamy, 120-212; Lusk v. Sawyer, 120-225; Person v. Southerland, 120-225; State v. Williams, 117-753; Robinson v. Goldsboro, 122-211; Kesler v. Smith, 66-154; State v. Sutton, 100-474—but not where the corporation is substantially different, Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121-1.

CHAPTER 74

STRAYS

3951. Notice to owner of stray, or to register of deeds.

3952. Owner may reclaim.

3953. When and how strays sold.

3954. Failure to comply with stray law misdemeanor.

3951. Notice to owner of stray, or to register of deeds. Any person who shall take up any stray horse, mare, colt, mule, ass or jennet, neat cattle, hog or sheep, shall within ten days after taking up such stray inform the owner, if to him known, if not, he shall inform the register of deeds of the supposed age, marks, brands and color of the stray, and that the same was taken up at his plantation or place of abode; whereupon the register of deeds shall record such information in a book kept by him for that purpose, for which service the taker-up of the stray shall pay a fee of twenty-five cents, except for hogs and sheep, for which the fee shall be ten cents. The register of deeds shall at once publish a notice of the taking up of such stray, by posting the same at the courthouse door, and if the cost does not exceed two dollars, then in some newspaper published in the county. Such notices shall be published for thirty days, and shall contain a full and complete description of the stray and of all marks or brands on the same, and when and where the same was taken up. The fees for publishing such notices shall be paid by the party taking up the stray.

Rev., s. 2833; Code, s. 3768; 1874-5, c. 258, s. 2.

3952. Owner may reclaim. When any stray has been taken up, the owner may at any time before a sale reclaim such stray by proving his ownership and paying to the party capturing the same the actual costs paid the register of deeds as provided in the preceding section, together with the actual costs of keeping such stray, as fixed by the county commissioners. The board of commissioners of the several counties shall fix a scale of costs for keeping strays.

Rev., s. 2834.

3953. When and how strays sold. If the owner of any stray shall fail to claim the same within thirty days after the publication of the notice required by law, the person taking up the stray shall cause the stray to be appraised by the nearest magistrate and two freeholders, none of whom shall receive any fees for such services. Such appraisement shall give a full and accurate description of such stray and shall by the magistrate be returned to the register of deeds, and by him recorded in his book for strays; and the register of deeds shall issue an order to the sheriff directing him to sell such stray, and the sheriff shall sell such stray at public auction after ten days public advertisement as for sales of personal property under execution; and out of the proceeds he shall pay the cost of publishing the notices as to strays, the costs of keeping and the costs of sale, and shall pay the surplus to the county treasurer for the benefit of the public school fund of the county. The county board of education shall, at any time within twelve months after such funds have been paid to the county treasurer, upon due proof of ownership, issue an order commanding the county treasurer to pay to the owner of the stray the net amount paid the county treasurer as the proceeds of the sale of the stray.

Rev., s. 2835.

For stock running at large, see Fences and Stock Law.

3954. Failure to comply with stray law misdemeanor. If any person shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of law as to strays, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3306.

CHAPTER 75

SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS

- 3955. Work in ordinary calling on Sunday forbidden.
- 3956. Hunting or going armed on Sunday.
- 3957. Local: Sale of articles on Sunday in Forsyth.
- 3958. What process executed on Sunday.
- 3959. Dates of public holidays.
- 3960. Acts to be done on Sunday or holidays.

3955. Work in ordinary calling on Sunday forbidden. On the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, no tradesman, artificer, planter, laborer, or other person shall, upon land or water, do or exercise any labor, business or work, of his ordinary calling, works of necessity and charity alone excepted, nor employ himself in hunting, fishing or fowling, nor use any game, sport or play, upon pain that every person so offending, being of the age of fourteen years and upwards, shall forfeit and pay one dollar.

Rev., s. 2836; Code, s. 3782; R. C., c. 115; 1741, c. 30, s. 2.

For history of Sunday laws, see Rodman v. Robinson, 134-503. Every act may lawfully be done on Sunday which may lawfully be done on any other day, unless there is some statute forbidding it: Ibid.; State v. Ricketts, 74-192.

This section does not prevent a town ordinance regulating Sunday trade: State v. Burbage, 172-876; State v. Davis, 171-809; State v. Medlin, 170-682.

The legislature has power to prohibit labor on Sunday on the ground of public decency, but such regulation is confined to such acts as have a tendency to disturb the public; but when it prohibits labor which is done in private, the power is exceeded: Melvin v. Easley, 52-356.

Selling a horse on Sunday is not forbidden, where dealing in horses is not the ordinary calling: Melvin v. Easley, 52-356. A contract for conveyance of land entered into on Sunday is valid: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-503. Giving a check for automobile repairs on Sunday is not a violation of this section: Auto Co. v. Rudd, 176-497.

Keeping open shop and selling goods on Sunday is not indictable: State v. Williams, 26-400; State v. Brooksbank, 28-73; Melvin v. Easley, 52-356; State v. Ricketts, 74-187.

Section referred to in Davis v. R. R., 145-207.

3956. Hunting or going armed on Sunday. If any person shall, except in defense of his own property, hunt on Sunday with a dog, or shall be found off his premises on Sunday, having with him a shotgun, rifle or pistol, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3842; Code, s. 3783; 1868-9, c. 18, ss. 1, 2.

Section creates two offenses: (1) hunting on the Sabbath with a dog; (2) being found off one's premises on Sunday having a shotgun, rifle, or pistol: State v. Howard, 67-24.

INDICTMENT. Must charge the act was done on Sunday, and after such a charge no exception can be taken to a reference to the Sunday by an erroneous day of the month: State v. Drake, 64-589. It is immaterial that the word "Sabbath" is used instead of the word "Sunday": State v. Drake, 64-589. Charging that a person was "found off his premises on the Sabbath day, having with him a shotgun," is sufficient: State v. Howard, 67-24. Charging a man with being a common Sabbath-breaker is too vague: State v. Brown, 7-224.

Section cited in State v. Moore, 104-748.

3957. Local: Sale of articles on Sunday in Forsyth. No person, firm or corporation in Forsyth county shall expose for sale, sell or offer for sale on Sunday any goods, wares or merchandise within one mile of the corporate limits of any incorporated town or city; and no store, shop, or other place of business in which goods, wares or merchandise of any kind are kept for sale shall keep open doors from twelve o'clock Saturday night until twelve o'clock Sunday night: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to apply to hotels or boarding-houses, or to restaurants or cafés furnishing meals to actual guests, where the same are not otherwise prohibited by law from keeping open on Sunday: Provided further, that drug stores, with licensed pharmacists, may be kept open for the sale of goods to be used for medical or surgical purposes, and for the sale of cigars and tobacco; and cigar stands and news stands may sell cigars, tobacco and newspapers: Provided further, that ice dealers and dairies may remain open for the sale and delivery of ice and dairy products. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit livery stables or garages from operating on Sunday or to prohibit publication and sale of newspapers. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

3958. What process executed on Sunday. It shall not be lawful for any sheriff, constable, or other officer to execute any summons, capias, or other process on Sunday, unless the same be issued for treason, felony or misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2837; Code, s. 928; R. C., c. 31, s. 54; 1777, c. 118, s. 6.

It is unlawful for an officer to execute any writ or other process on Sunday: Devries v. Summit, 86-126. A levy of an execution on Sunday is void: Bland v. Whitfield, 46-122.

Notice to take a deposition on Sunday is not good, and a deposition taken on such notice must be rejected: Sloan v. Williford, 25-307.

Sheriff may proceed on Sunday by distress to enforce penalty authorized by revenue act of legislature for peddling without license: Cowles v. Brittain, 9-204.

COURTS MAY SIT ON SUNDAY, WHEN. In special cases, ex necessitate, a court may sit on Sunday: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-507; Taylor v. Erwin, 119-274; State v. Howard, 82-626; State v. McGimsey, 80-377; State v. Ricketts, 74-187.

Holding a court on the Sabbath is not forbidden by the common law or any statute in this state, but it has been the long-settled practice of our courts, when a term continues so long that a Sunday intervenes, to adjourn over until Monday: State v. Howard, 82-623. Sunday is not a juridical day, hence an adjournment of the court from Saturday night to Monday morning during progress of a trial for murder is not in violation of the act requiring adjournment to be "from day to day": Ibid.

A verdict rendered in open court on Sunday during a term is valid: Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484; Taylor v. Erwin, 119-274; State v. Penley, 107-808.

When a term is set by statute to begin on a certain Monday, and to last for one, two or three weeks, as the case may be, it embraces the Sunday of each week: Taylor v. Erwin, 119-274. There being no inhibition of a verdict rendered on Sunday, either at common law or by statute, a judgment entered on that day (by virtue of the statute that it shall be entered up at once on the verdict) is valid: Ibid.

3959. Dates of public holidays. The first day of January, the nineteenth day of January, the twenty-second day of February, the twelfth day of April, the tenth day of May, the twentieth day of May, the fourth day of July, the first Monday in September, the eleventh day of November, Tuesday after the first Monday in November when a general election is held, the day appointed by the governor as a thanksgiving day, and the twenty-fifth day of December of each and every year, are declared to be public holidays; and whenever any such holiday shall fall upon Sunday, the Monday following shall be a public holiday.

Rev., s. 2838; Code, s. 3784; 1891, c. 58; 1899, c. 410; 1901, c. 25; 1881, c. 294; 1907, c. 996; 1909, c. 888; 1919, c. 287.

Statute declaring certain days public holidays does not prohibit the pursuit of the usual avocations of citizens, nor public officers, or the courts from exercising their respective functions on those days. While it might be the attendance of jurors, witnesses and suitors will not be enforced, and the courts will not sue out or enforce process on such days, yet courts may lawfully proceed with the business before them: State v. Moore, 104-743.

Notice of opening depositions is not void because time set for opening them is on a legal holiday: Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285. Whatever the statute does not prohibit from being done on a legal holiday may be done, and the legality of such acts cannot be measured by the legal status of Sunday: Ibid.

3960. Acts to be done on Sunday or holidays. Where the day or the last day for doing an act required or permitted by law to be done falls on Sunday or on a holiday the act may be done on the next succeeding secular or business day.

Rev., s. 2839; Code, ss. 3784, 3785, 3786; 1899, c. 733, s. 194.

Arrest on Sunday in civil action, section 768. Computing time, Sunday not counted, section 922. Fishing on Sunday, section 1970. Hunting on Sunday, section 2122. Negotiable instrument maturing on Sunday or holiday, section 3066. Trains running on Sunday, section 3480.

CHAPTER 76

SURETYSHIP

- 3961. Surety and principal distinguished in judgment and execution.
- 3962. Principal liable on execution before surety.
- 3963. Summary remedy of surety against principal.
- 3964. Subrogation of surety paying debt of deceased principal.
- 3965. Contribution among sureties.
- 3966. Dissenting surety not liable to surety on stay of execution.
- 3967. Surety may notify creditor to sue.
- 3968. How notice served.
- 3969. Failure of creditor to sue discharges surety; exceptions.
- 3970. Cancellation of contract of suretyship in case of common carrier and employee.

3961. Surety and principal distinguished in judgment and execution. In the trial of actions upon contracts either of the defendants may show in evidence that he is surety, and if it be satisfactorily shown, the jury in their verdict, or the justice of the peace in his judgment, shall distinguish the principal and surety, which shall be indorsed on the execution by the clerk or justice of the peace issuing it.

Rev., s. 2840; Code, s. 2100; R. C., c. 31, s. 124; 1826, c. 31, s. 1.

As to sureties on official and fiduciary bonds, see chapter Bonds.

Parol evidence is admissible to show that one apparently a principal on a note is, in fact, a surety: Smith v. Carr, 128-152; Lockhart v. Ballard, 113-292; Cole v. Fox, 83-463; Williams v. Lewis, 158-571, and cases cited—but to obtain protection, surety must show that his relation was known to creditor: Coffey v. Reinhardt, 114-509; Torrence v. Alexander, 85-143; Goodman v. Litaker, 84-8; Forbes v. Sheppard, 93-111; Williams v. Glenn, 92-253; Welfare v. Thompson, 83-276; Capell v. Long, 84-17; Lewis v. Long, 102-206.

Where negotiable instrument was signed by three persons other than principal obligor, and it appeared, from a writing executed some time thereafter by one to indemnify other two, that they (other two) "signed as cosureties" of third, character of suretyship in which all three signed was sufficiently established: Southerland v. Fremont, 107-565.

Order in which parties to a security are liable at law is the order in which, independently of contract, they will be held bound in equity: Smith v. Smith, 16-173. Where suit is brought against two persons, a finding of jury that one defendant is principal and other surety, if binding at all between parties, does not in equity establish relation of suretyship: Lowder v. Noding, 43-208. Case where question arose as to whether endorsers were cosureties or whether one was a supplementary surety to the other: Parrish v. Graham, 129-230.

Liability of guarantor or surety is not to be enlarged by construction: Shoe Co. v. Peacock, 150-545.

A surety signing a note with the understanding, known to the payee, that another was to sign as cosurety, is not bound without such signature: Bank v. Jones, 147-419.

All defendants in judgments for payment of money are, as to judgment creditor, principal debtors, and creditor may proceed to enforce judgment by execution against one or all, unless verdict or judgment shows that relation of surety existed, and this is indorsed upon execution. In that event officer must first proceed against principal: Gatewood v. Burns, 99-357; Fleming v. Halcomb, 26-269. The magistrate is not bound to make discrimination between principal and surety, except upon the application of and due proof by surety: Ibid.

Where execution against two does not distinguish which is principal and which surety, sheriff has right to collect from either; and one from whom it is collected has no cause of action against sheriff, though he claimed to be only a surety and though plaintiff in execution directed sheriff to collect it from the other: Shuford v. Cline, 35-463.

3962. Principal liable on execution before surety. When an execution, indorsed as aforesaid, shall come to the hands of any officer for collection, he shall levy on all the property of the principal, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the execution, and, for want of sufficient property of the principal, also on the property of the surety, and make sale of all the property of the principal levied on before that of the surety.

Creditor having obtained judgment against principal and sureties to debt, and there being some real property of principal in excess of homestead, after same was allotted, neglect of creditor to proceed to sell such excess, though orally requested so to do by sureties, does not exonerate sureties to amount land would have brought if sold: Bank v. Homesley, 99-531.

3963. Summary remedy of surety against principal. Any person who may have paid money for and on account of those for whom he became surety, upon producing to the superior court, or any justice of the peace having jurisdiction of the same, a receipt, and showing that an execution has issued, and he has satisfied the same, and making it appear by sufficient testimony that he has laid out and expended any sum of money as the surety of such person, may move the court or justice of the peace, as the case may be, for judgment against his principal for the amount which he has actually paid; a citation having previously issued against the principal to show cause why execution should not be awarded; and should the principal not show sufficient cause, the court or justice shall award execution against the estate of the principal.

This section is constitutional: Bank v. Hotel Co., 147-594. Notice that surety has paid debt of principal is not required to be given before bringing suit for money paid: Sikes v. Quick, 52-19. Reasonable notice to show cause should be given: Bank v. Hotel Co., 147-594. "Court" in this section means clerk of superior court: Ibid.

To enable a surety to recover for money paid to the use of his principal he must prove an actual payment in satisfaction of the debt: Hodges v. Armstrong, 14-253; Ponder v. Carter, 34-242.

Surety who has paid money for his principal cannot sue him in an action of tort: Ledbetter v. Torney, 33-294.

Where a surety pays a judgment against his principal he may recover any funds wrongfully converted or misapplied by the principal: Fidelity Co. v. Jerdan, 134-236.

Where one endorsed a note at request of member of firm for purpose of obtaining money for use of firm, and proceeds were so used, the indorser, upon payment of note, can recover therefor against firm, though no member of such firm signed note: Springs v. McCoy, 122-628.

Where principal debtor borrowed a sum of money, which he deposited in a bank which soon afterwards became insolvent, and surety had to pay debt, surety has no equity to enjoin principal debtor from collecting dividends from insolvent bank until he can recover a judgment: Carlton v. Simonton, 94-401.

Where writ is issued against two copartners for partnership debt, and one is arrested and gives bail, such bail, upon being afterwards compelled by due course of law to pay debt, has no remedy except against individual for whom he became bail. He has no claim upon other partner: Foley v. Robards, 25-177.

Obligation of a bond for the forthcoming of property is only that property shall be delivered to officer at time designated, and not that execution shall be satisfied; and, therefore, if a surety to forthcoming bond before it is forfeited discharges execution without request of principal, such surety cannot maintain an action against his principal for money expended for latter's use, although by payment of money in satisfaction of execution the bond was discharged: Gray v. Bowls, 18-437.

A surety who has to pay debt has no equity to follow specific property which principal debtor purchased with borrowed money: Carlton v. Simonton, 94-401.

SUBROGATION. Doctrine of subrogation explained: Publishing Co. v. Barber, 165-478. It may be legal subrogation, which is based upon payment, and exists where one who has an interest to protect or is secondarily liable makes payment; or conventional subrogation, which is based upon agreement of the parties: Ibid.; Joyner v. Reflector Co., 176-274; Bank v. Bank, 158-238. Subrogation is substitution of another person in place of creditor so that former can succeed to rights of latter in relation to debt, and to entitle one to such equitable relief he must have paid money upon request or as surety or under some compulsion made necessary by inadequate protection of his own rights: Liles v. Rogers, 113-197; Caviness v. Fidelity Co., 140-58; Grainger v. Lindsay, 123-216; Moring v. Privott, 146-558.

An endorser or surety who pays the indebtedness is subrogated to the rights of the creditor as against the property of the debtor: Pittinger, ex parte, 142-85—and as against all specific liens and securities which creditor has against principal debtor, Carlton v. Simonton, 94-401—and to all the rights of the creditor, against a cosurety as well as against principal, and this includes the right to have a judgment, which he has paid, assigned to a trustee for his benefit, so as to compel his cosurety to pay his pro rata part: Peebles v. Gay, 115-38.

Surety called upon to pay a devastavit committed by principal, an administrator, is entitled to be subrogated to rights of creditor against party who received the money with knowledge of its wrongful appropriation, and his rights are exactly those of the creditor: Caviness v. Fidelity Co., 140-58. Surety to an administration bond who paid one-half of a debt recovered against insolvent administrator is not subrogated to rights of creditor whose debt he paid, but to rights of administrator for whom he paid it: Clark v. Williams, 70-679. Right of subrogation of creditors of estate out of bond to indemnify sureties on administration bond: Hooker v. Yellowley, 128-297.

Where land is held in trust for the payment of a debt, a third person, who is compelled by law to pay it, is subrogated to the rights of the creditor and may collect the amount so paid from the land: Holden v. Strickland, 116-185. It was correctly held that surety, omitted in the deed of trust, was entitled to be subrogated to the rights of his cosureties pro tanto, if he had paid the debts, and the payees in the notes had a superior equitable right of subrogation to the benefit of any security given by principal debtor to his sureties: Blanton v. Bostic, 126-421; I James v. Gaither, 93-362; Sherrod v. Dixon, 120-63; Harrison v. Styres, 74-290; Wiswall v. Potts, 58-189—and this is so whether they knew of it or not, Matthews v. Joyce, 85-266.

The equity of a surety for subrogation is superior to that of a subsequent mortgagee of the equity of redemption: Williams v. Lewis, 158-571.

For application of doctrine in favor of mortgagee against purchaser from mortgagor, see Baber v. Hanie, 163-588—in insurance contract, Powell v. Water Co., 171-290.

Sureties on different bonds of sheriff are not entitled to subrogation: Liles v. Rogers, 113-197.

SURETY, UPON PAYING DEBT, MUST HAVE ASSIGNMENT TO TRUSTEES. If surety desires to preserve for his benefit an existing security for the debt which he is called upon to discharge, the debt and security (which follows debt) must be assigned to trustee, otherwise payment will be in satisfaction and cancellation of debt and a release of security, leaving surety a simple contract creditor: Fowle v. McLean, 168-537; Tripp v. Harris, 154-296; Bank v. Hotel Co., 147-594; Burnett v. Sledge, 129-120; Browning v. Porter, 116-62; Peebles v. Gay, 115-38; Tiddy v. Harris, 101-589; Briley v. Sugg, 21-366; Sherwood v. Collier, 14-380; Hodges v. Armstrong, 14-253.

A surety who pays amount recovered against him and his principal or cosureties may have judgment assigned to another in trust for his use, and it will continue in force for his benefit; and he may, upon motion in cause, have satisfaction of judgment entered, even against consent of assignee: Rice v. Hearn, 109-150.

A transfer to the surety himself upon payment is a satisfaction: Liverman v. Cahoon, 156-187; Sherwood v. Collier, 14-380. But a surety is subrogated to the rights of the creditor in a mortgage held as collateral, without an assignment to a trustee: Tripp v. Harris, 154-296; Burnett v. Sledge, 129-114.

Where judgment against principal and sureties on a note is paid by sureties, and an assignment thereof is made to a trustee for benefit of sureties, but by mistake payment is entered on judgment record, which is afterwards corrected by entry thereon of assignment, a person taking mortgage on property of judgment debtor, after assignment entered on record, takes with notice of assignment: Patton v. Cooper, 132-791.

If an assignment of the security is taken, surety may have his redress upon it immediately in name of creditor: Hodges v. Armstrong, 14-253.

Where surety paid and satisfaction was entered as to one-half of a judgment against himself, his principal and a cosurety, and procured judgment as to other half to be assigned to a trustee for his benefit, it was, in effect, same as if he had procured the whole judgment to be so assigned: Peebles v. Gay, 115-38.

3964. Subrogation of surety paying debt of deceased principal. Whenever a surety, or his representative, shall pay the debt of his deceased principal, the claim thus accruing shall have such priority in the administration of the assets of the principal as had the debt before its payment.

Rev., s. 2843; Code, s. 2096; R. C., c. 110, s. 4; 1829, c. 23.

This section applies to any claim, whether surety pays it before or after death of principal: Drake v. Coltrane, 44-300.

When a plaintiff, a cosurety, discharged the bond debt, for payment of which defendant's intestate was equally bound, he becomes a bond creditor as to assets of intestate; and when, pending action for contribution, administrator paid off bonds voluntarily, of equal dignity with surety debt, having previously paid an open account, he committed a devastavit to extent of plaintiff's claim for contribution, such claim being for smaller sum than bonds so preferred and open account: Howell v. Reams, 73-391.

3965. Contribution among sureties. Where there are two or more sureties for the performance of a contract, and one or more of them may have been compelled to perform and satisfy the same, or any part thereof, and the principal shall be insolvent, or out of the state, such surety may have and maintain an action against every other surety for a just and ratable proportion of the sum which may have been paid as aforesaid, whether of principal, interest or cost.

Rev., s. 2844; Code, s. 2094; R. C., c. 110, s. 2; 1807, c. 722.

RIGHT OF CONTRIBUTION. The right of contribution exists between cosureties when principal is insolvent, and that, whether they are so by separate instruments or by same instruments: Bell v. Jasper, 37-597; Moore v. Isley, 22-372. Right of a surety to have contribution from cosurety is not founded upon any principle of contract, but is result of natural justice: Allen v. Wood, 38-386.

The cosurety, who is in this state, will have to make contribution, without regard to share of contribution which absent cosurety would have had to pay had he been within reach of process of our courts: Jones v. Blanton, 41-115.

A surety has no right to call upon his cosurety in equity for contribution without showing that he could not obtain satisfaction for the amount he has paid from their common principal: Rainey v. Yarborough, 37-249.

The right of contribution exists for one surety against other sureties who are solvent: Fowle v. McLean, 168-537—but not against indorsers, since they are not in the same class, Edwards v. Ins. Co., 173-614.

Surety upon a bond who voluntarily pays a balance due upon the same after he has obtained his discharge in bankruptcy is entitled to contribution from a cosurety: Craven v. Freeman, 82-361.

Whether surety who pays a debt (not due by specialty) after action of creditor is barred by act of 1715, can maintain an action against a cosurety for contribution, quere: Reeves v. Bell, 47-254.

Act of 1807, giving right to one surety to recover at law his ratable proportion of debt of principal, does not enlarge rights of surety, who pays debt, nor deprive cosurety of any just grounds of defense which would before have been available to him in equity: Hall v. Robinson, 30-56.

Surety who seeks to recover from a cosurety a ratable part of money paid must take care to do no act which will prevent cosurety from having recourse against principal. If, therefore, he release principal, it is a discharge of the cosurety: Draughan v. Bunting, 31-10.

If note, discounted at bank for benefit of principal, with three sureties, be discharged at maturity by proceeds of another note, discounted with only two of the sureties, third having died before first note fell due, estate of latter will not be liable to contribute, upon insolvency of principal, and payment of renewal note by sureties thereto, although when they executed it they supposed estate of deceased would be liable upon it: Hutchins v. McCauley, 22-399.

Where A, as surety, signed the note of B, payable to C, and it was indorsed by C, at the request and for the accommodation of B, there being no contract between A and C whereby they agreed to become cosureties of B, it was held that A had no right to contribution from C: Smith v. Smith, 16-173.

Where two sureties on a note to a bank agreed, after insolvency of their principal, to employ a broker to buy notes of bank to an amount sufficient to pay debt, and one of them paid broker for notes purchased by him, and discharged debt, he could maintain an action against his cosurety for contribution: DeRossett v. Bradley, 63-17.

Where a surety upon a bond pays a balance due upon same with knowledge of existence of a covenant upon part of obligee to a cosurety not to sue him, he is not entitled to contribution from such cosurety: Craven v. Freeman, 82-361.

It is not necessary, to entitle a surety to maintain an action for contribution, that amount of his liability which was paid by him should be fixed by a judgment: Bright v. Lennon, 83-183. Waiver or withdrawal of plea of statute of limitations by a surety in an action against him does not affect his right afterwards to maintain an action for contribution: Ibid.

Where one signed as surety a note signed by two persons, without knowledge of the fact that one of the signers was a surety, he could not be held a cosurety with such signer: Bank v. Burch, 145-316. It is competent for one to become surety for other sureties, or to limit the extent of his liability with respect to other sureties: Ibid.

Coprincipals and cosureties are presumed to assume equal liability, but this presumption may be rebutted by parol evidence: Smith v. Carr, 128-150.

Where A indorsed a note for the maker and subsequently, but before it was discounted, F indorsed it, and A paid the note, F was a cosurety, and the doctrine of contribution applies for A's benefit: Atwater v. Farthing, 118-388.

Where a guardian gives several successive bonds for faithful discharge of trust, sureties on each bond stand in relation of cosureties to sureties on every other bond; the only qualification to rule being that sureties are bound to contribution only according to amount of penalty of bond, in which each class is bound: Jones v. Hays, 38-502. The fact that the sureties on an official bond justify to different amounts does not affect the right of contribution: Comrs. v. Dorsett, 151-307.

There was a judgment against principal and two sureties, and execution levied on property of one of sureties. A bought this property from his surety, pending levy, and afterwards obtained an assignment of judgment, to enable him to have whole amount satisfied out of property of cosurety, and issued an execution for that purpose; court will restrain him from collecting out of cosurety more than fair proportion which latter owed, whether A had actual notice of lien of execution or not: Dobson v. Prather, 41-31.

No right of contribution between sureties on different tax collector's bonds: McGuire v. Williams, 123-357.

RIGHT OF COSURETIES WHEN ONE SURETY SECURES PROPERTY OF PRINCIPAL OR GAINS AN ADVANTAGE. Among cosureties "equality is equity"; it is a well-settled principle that if one surety by any means gets a fund belonging to the principal he is not at liberty to take the entire benefit, but must share with his cosureties: Parham v. Green, 64-436; Leary v. Cheshire, 56-172; Barnes v. Pearson, 41-482; Allison v. Davidson, 17-79; Moore v. Isley, 22-372; Mast v. Raper, 81-335.

Where principal placed property in hands of surety sufficient to satisfy debt, and then left state, third person, also bound for debt as surety, having been compelled to pay it, may recover its amount from person who has received property, without making a previous demand: Parham v. Green, 64-436.

A having a judgment against B as principal and C as surety, C, without the consent of A, has an execution issued and levied upon B's property. A has right to withdraw execution and discharge levy, without making herself liable to C: Forbes v. Smith, 40-369.

One, when he is about becoming a surety with others, may stipulate for separate indemnity from principal to himself, and cosureties would only be entitled to a surplus after his reimbursement: Comrs. v. Nichols, 131-505; Long v. Barnett, 38-631. Where two persons engage in a common risk as sureties for a third, and one of them subsequently takes an indemnity from the principal debtor, it inures to the benefit of both: Gregory v. Murrell, 37-233; Hall v.

Robinson, 30-56; Pool v. Williams, 30-286. The indemnity taken by one surety can be reached by the other only in two cases, either when it was taken in fraud or for the benefit of the other: Moore v. Moore, 11-358.

Where money is advanced by principal to one of sureties to discharge debt before debt is actually discharged, cosurety may file his bill in equity for an account and for relief: Allen v. Wood, 38-386—but if money is paid by principal, after debt has been discharged by sureties, to one of two sureties, to reimburse both, then cosurety has his remedy against surety receiving the money by an action at law for money had and received, and therefore cannot support a suit in equity, Ibid.

Where surety merely had a deed of trust for certain property, as an indemnity, executed by principal, and neglected to have it registered, so that property was sold by other creditors, cosurety is not entitled, on account of his laches, to make him responsible for the value of the property: Pool v. Williams, 30-286.

Where A and B were cosureties on an administration bond, and B, who had administered on estate of principal, had, by mistake of law and in good faith, erroneously given up assets of principal to another claim which would have saved them both from loss by this suretyship, A could not sustain a bill to throw whole loss on B, there being no evidence that B had concealed from A the fact of having thus parted with assets and not making any allegation of fraud or imposition on part of B: Brandon v. Medley, 54-313.

CONTRIBUTION FROM COSURETIES ENFORCED. To a bill brought by one surety against his cosurety for contribution, their common principal, or if he be dead, his executor or administrator, should be made a party defendant: Rainey v. Yarborough, 37-249.

Surety, who has been compelled to pay a debt of his principal, must make all his cosureties parties to a bill for contribution, if they are in this state and solvent. But where one is out of the jurisdiction of the court and others are within it, plaintiff, by stating the fact in his bill, is at liberty to proceed against the latter alone: Jones v. Blanton, 41-115.

When a surety files his bill against a cosurety for contribution, and latter sets up an agreement, which is a bar to the former's claim, that agreement must be proved at the hearing, it cannot be the subject of reference to the master: Long v. Barnett, 38-631.

When one surety brings a bill for contribution against a cosurety he should at least allege that principal is insolvent, so that he can have no redress against him: Allen v. Wood, 38-386.

In an action against an alleged cosurety to recover money paid in settlement of their joint liability, the amount received by plaintiff as interest on collaterals deposited should be deducted from the amount paid by plaintiff: Carr v. Smith, 129-232. Where one of two sureties claims to be a supplemental surety by agreement, the burden is upon him to show the agreement: Ibid.

A surety seeking contribution from a cosurety can offer evidence of general reputation for insolvency of their principal, even after direct evidence of such insolvency, such as unsatisfied executions against him, etc.: Leak v. Covington, 99-559. Statute giving an action to a surety who has paid debt against a cosurety, when the principal shall be insolvent or out of state, has reference to time when action is brought, and not to time of payment by surety: Ibid.; Shufford v. Cook, 164-46.

In action by surety of insolvent guardian for contribution against other sureties it is proper to include in sum adjudged to be raised by contribution costs which were paid by plaintiff in an action against him as condition for leave to plead statute of limitations: Bright v. Lennon, 83-183.

Where it appeared on the face of a note that certain parties thereto were sureties, in an action for contribution parol evidence is admissible to show that they were really principals: Williams v. Glenn, 92-253.

In action for contribution by surety against four different guardian bonds, with different penalties and different sureties, some solvent and some otherwise, it is not necessary that notice should be given before action is brought: Bright v. Lennon, 83-183.

Surety who pays money for his principal may maintain an action against his cosurety for his ratable part, without first making a demand, and statute of limitations begins to run from the time of payment of the money: Sherrod v. Woodard, 15-360; Leak v. Covington, 99-559.

Record in a suit upon an administration bond against a surety and personal representatives of another surety in which a nol. pros. was entered as to them, and judgment rendered against their intestate's cosurety, is evidence and prima facie proof, in a suit by him for contribution against personal representatives, as to damages: Leak v. Covington, 99-559.

Adjustment of all rights between sureties where some have counterclaims and others not, permitted in one action: Davis v. Mfg. Co., 114-321.

Where surety brings an action of assumpsit for money paid for the use and at request of defendant, against his cosurety, to obtain contribution, it is not sufficient for him to show that he has given his note for debt due by principal, and that same has been accepted by creditor as a payment and discharge of the debt, but he must show payment of the debt: Brisendine v. Martin, 23-286.

Where complaint in an action by surety for contribution joined principals as parties, and alleged by contract of suretyship payment by plaintiff and demand of cosureties "for their contributive shares," and asked judgment against all, but did not allege insolvency of the principals except by the averment that plaintiff was compelled to pay debt: Held, that though proper relief was not asked, and insolvency of principals was imperfectly alleged, cause of action will be construed, on demurrer, as equitable rather than legal in order to confer jurisdiction below: Adams v. Hayes, 120-383; Hudson v. Aman, 158-429.

One of three joint solvent sureties cannot sustain a bill against either of his cosureties for contribution out of fund alleged to have been received by that surety for his indemnity from the estate of an insolvent cosurety, without making the other a party: Moore v. Isley, 22-372.

AGREEMENT BY COSURETIES TO WAIVE CONTRIBUTION. After two persons have become sureties for a common principal they may, by agreement between themselves, renounce their right to take benefit from any securities they may respectively obtain, and each undertake to look out for himself, exclusively, for an indemnity from the principal or for contribution from another cosurety: Long v. Barnett, 38-631.

After relation of joint sureties has been severed by an agreement among sureties, each of them has his distinct and several claim to prosecute, because of what he has paid for his principal, or for an insolvent joint surety; and others have no right to demand participation in what his diligence may enable him to procure, while thus prosecuting his several claims: Moore v. Isley, 22-372. If, by any agreement between sureties, one of them is released by creditor, upon his securing payment of a certain part of the debt, he shall not afterwards be called upon to contribute to one or more of the remaining sureties for a loss arising from the deficiency of another of them: Ibid.

3966. Dissenting surety not liable to surety on stay of execution. Whenever any judgment shall be obtained before a justice against a principal and his surety, and the principal debtor shall desire to stay the execution thereon, but the surety is unwilling that such stay shall be had, the surety may cause his dissent thereto to be entered by the justice, which shall absolve him from all liability to the surety who may stay the same. And the constable or other officer, who may have the collection of the debt, shall make the money out of the property of the principal debtor, and that of the surety for the stay of execution, if he can, before he shall sell the property of the surety before judgment.

Rev., s. 2845; Code, s. 2095; R. C., c. 110, s. 3; 1829, c. 6, ss. 1, 2.

3967. Surety may notify creditor to sue. In all cases where any surety or indorser on any note, bill, bond, or other written obligation shall consider himself in danger of loss in consequence of his contingent liability, either from the insolvency or misconduct of the principal, in the note, bill, bond, or other written obligation, or from the negligence of the payee or holder of any such instrument, it shall be lawful for such surety or indorser, at any time after such note, bill, bond, or other written obligation becomes due and payable, to cause written notice to be given to the payee or holder of any such paper or obligation, requiring him to bring suit on such obligation, and to use all reasonable diligence to save harmless such surety or indorser: Provided, nothing herein contained shall apply to official bonds, or bonds given by any person acting in a fiduciary capacity.

Rev., s. 2846; Code, s. 2097; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 1.

To get benefit provided for sureties by this section they must give creditor notice in writing to bring suit, etc., and only he who gives notice can claim benefit when there are more than one: Bank v. Homesley, 99-531.

While creditor is not bound to exercise diligence to enforce collection of a demand upon which he has surety, he has no right to release any other security which he has acquired and which might be available in satisfaction of debt, and if he does so it will discharge surety: Bell v. Howerton, 111-69.

Section applied to indorser of a nonnegotiable note: Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47.

Section referred to in Moore v. Goodwin, 109-219; Roberson v. Spain, 173-23.

3968. How notice served. Such notice shall be served by the sheriff or his deputy, who shall return it to the party for whose benefit the notice was issued, which shall be evidence of the fact in all courts.

Rev., s. 2848; Code, s. 2099; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 3.

3969. Failure of creditor to sue discharges surety; exceptions. Should the payee or holder of any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation refuse or fail, within thirty days from the service of such notice, to bring suit in the appropriate court in an effort to save harmless such surety or indorser, such refusal or failure to sue shall operate as a discharge of such surety or indorser, from all liability whatever, on any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation: Provided, that this notice shall not have the effect to discharge from liability any cosurety who does not join in such notice, or who has not given a separate notice: Provided further, that this and the preceding section shall not apply to holders of such note, bond, bill, or obligation, who hold the same as collateral security or in trust.

Rev., s. 2847; Code, s. 2098; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 2.

If a creditor agree with his principal debtor in such manner that he is bound by the agreement to postpone day of payment, surety is thereby discharged from all liability: Smith v. Parker, 131-471; Revell v. Thrash, 132-803; Scott v. Harris, 76-205; see Jenkins v. Daniels, 125-161; Fleming v. Barden, 126-450, 127-214; Bank v. Swink, 129-255; Benedict v. Jones, 129-475; Hedrick v. Byerly, 119-420; Bank v. Sumner, 119-591; Smith v. Loan Assn., 119-257; Sutton v. Waters, 118-496; Lumber Co. v. Christenbury, 155-257; Poster v. Davis, 175-541.

Plaintiff creditor made parol contract with principal to extend time of payment of bond beyond date of commencement of suit thereon, without knowledge or consent of surety; such contract suspends plaintiff's right of action and exonerates surety from liability: Carter v. Duncan, 84-676.

Exoneration grows out of agreement to forbear, and is not affected by creditor's breach of it: Forbes v. Sheppard, 98-111. An agreement with a principal, on a sufficient consideration, to forbear to sue for a fixed period, without reserving right to proceed against surety, and made without his assent, will exonerate him from liability: Ibid.

3970. Cancellation of contract of suretyship in case of common carrier and employee. Whenever an employee of a common carrier authorized to do business in this state is required to give a bond or undertaking of any nature whatever with a bonding company or companies, as surety thereon, any such employee who shall have given such bond or undertaking shall, upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof by the other party or parties thereto, have the power to cancel the same by giving the surety or sureties thereon, for the benefit of whom same shall have been made, at least ten days notice in writing, setting out in full the reason for canceling the same. Any such notice to a company, corporation or association may be served by leaving the same with any person upon whom service of legal process upon such company, corporation or association may be had. Any surety on any such bond or undertaking shall, upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof by the common carrier employee for whom same shall have been made, have power to cancel the same by giving such employee at least ten days notice in writing, and, upon demand, set out in full the reasons for canceling same, the notice to be signed by an agent or manager of such surety. Nothing herein shall affect any right of action accruing to any person upon the breach of a contract; nor shall any bonding company furnishing the information which causes it to withdraw from the bond be liable in any action at the instance of the party aggrieved for damages, nor be required to disclose to the party aggrieved the sources of information that caused it to withdraw from the bond. But any bonding company may be required to give evidence in any action brought by the party aggrieved against the party or person furnishing the information causing the company to withdraw as surety.

Any person, officer or manager, company, corporation, association or firm who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.

1913, c. 17.

For sureties on administration bonds, see sections 33-44. For evidence against principal as against surety, see section 358.

ART. 1. TRADEMARKS

3971. Adoption and filing for registry. It shall be lawful for any person to adopt for his protection and file for registry, as in this chapter provided, any label, trademark, term or design that has been used or is intended to be used for the purpose of designating, making known or distinguishing any goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor that have been or may be wholly or partly made, manufactured, produced, prepared, packed or put on sale by any such person, or to or upon which any work or labor has been applied or expended by any such person, or by any member of any corporation that has adopted and filed for registry any such label, trademark, term or design as aforesaid, or announcing or indicating that the same have been made in whole or in part by any such person or corporation, or by any member thereof.

Rev., s. 3012; 1903, c. 271.

It seems that the name of a town or locality cannot be exclusively appropriated as a trademark: Blackwell v. McElwee, 94-425.

As a rule a trademark cannot be taken in a surname: Bingham School v. Gray, 122-699.

Legislature cannot establish a monopoly in a family name or confer a patent right in its use: Bingham School v. Gray, 122-699.

But a person may, by contract, bind himself not to use his own name in business, in the sale of an established business: Zagier v. Zagier, 167-616.

3972. Property rights protected by filing for registry. Whenever any person shall adopt and file for registry any label, trademark, term or design pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the property, privileges, rights, remedies and interests in and to any such label, trademark, term or design, and in and to the use of same, provided or given by this chapter to, or otherwise conferred upon or enjoyed by, the person filing the same for the registry, shall be fully and completely secured, preserved and protected as the property of those entitled to the same before any such label, trademark, term or design has been actually applied to any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor, and put upon the market for sale or otherwise, and before any use or appropriation of any such label, trademark, term or design has been made in connection with any such goods, wares, merchandise or product of labor, as well as after the same has been used or applied to designate, make known or distinguish any such goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor and they have been put upon the market.

Rev., s. 3013; 1903, c. 271, s. 2.

See cases prior to enactment: Blackwell v. McElwee, 94-425; Tobacco Co. v. McElwee, 100-150; McElwee v. Blackwell, 94-261.

3973. Filing to be with secretary of state; contents of affidavits; fees. Any person who has heretofore adopted and used, or shall hereafter adopt and use any label, trademark, term or design, as in this chapter provided, may file the same for registry in the office of the secretary of state, by leaving two copies, facsimiles or counterparts thereof, with the said secretary, and filing therewith a statement in the form of an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by any such person, or by any officer, agent or attorney, if a corporation, specifying the person by whom any such label, trademark, term or design is filed, and the class or character of the goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor to which the same has been or is intended to be appropriated or applied, and that the person so filing the same has the right to the use of the said label, trademark, term or design, and that no other person, firm or corporation has the right to such use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, without the permission or authority of the person filing the same, and that the copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same; and there shall be paid for such registry a fee of one dollar to the secretary of state for the use of the state, and the same recording fees required by law for recording certificate of organization of corporations.

3974. Registration; certified copies evidence; fees. The secretary of state, upon the filing of any such label, trademark, term or design that is not in conflict with section 3976, shall register the same, and shall deliver to the person filing the same as many certified copies thereof, with his certificate of such registry, as any such person may request, and for every such copy and certificate there shall be paid to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, a fee of one dollar; and any such certified copy and certificate shall be admissible in evidence and competent and sufficient proof of the adoption, filing and registry of any such label, trademark, term or design, by any such person in any action or judicial proceeding in any of the courts of this state, and of due compliance with the provisions of this chapter.

ART. 2. REMOVAL OF TRUST FUNDS FROM STATE

4020. Proceeding to remove trust funds of nonresidents. When any personal estate in this state is vested in a trustee resident therein, and those having the beneficial interest in the said estate are nonresidents of this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said trustee resides may, on a petition filed for that purpose, order him or his personal representative to pay, transfer, and deliver the said estate, or any part of it, to a nonresident trustee appointed by some court of record in the state in which the said beneficiary or beneficiaries reside. No such order of any clerk shall be valid and in force until approved by the resident judge of said judicial district, or the judge holding court in such district.

4021. Removal ordered on notice; bond of nonresident trustee. No such order shall be made, in the case of a petition, until notice of the application shall have been given to all persons interested in such trust estate, as now required by law in other special proceedings, nor until the court shall be satisfied by authentic documentary evidence that the nonresident trustee, appointed as aforesaid, has given bond, with sufficient surety, for the faithful execution of the trust, nor until it is satisfied that the payment and removal of such estate out of the state will not prejudice the right of any person interested or to become interested therein.

4022. Order of removal discharges resident trustee. When any guardian or committee, trustee or other person in this state, shall pay over, transfer, or deliver any estate in his hands or vested in him, under any order or decree made in pursuance of this article, he shall be discharged from all responsibility therefor.

1911, c. 161, s. 3.

ART. 3. RESIGNATION OF TRUSTEE

4023. Clerk's power to accept resignations. The clerks of the superior courts of this state have power and jurisdiction to accept the resignation of executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, and other fiduciaries and to appoint their successors in the manner provided by this article.

1911, c. 39, s. 1.

4024. Petition; contents and verification. When any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary desires to resign his trust, he shall file his petition in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he qualified or in which the instrument under which he claims is registered. The petition shall set forth all the facts in connection with the appointment and qualification of the applicant as such fiduciary, with a copy of the instrument under which he acts; shall state the names, ages, and residences of all the cestuis que trustent and other parties interested in the trust estate; shall contain a full and complete statement of all debts or liabilities due by the estate, and a full and complete statement of all assets belonging to said estate, and a full and complete statement of all moneys, securities, or assets in the hands of the fiduciary and due the estate, together with a full statement of the reasons why the applicant should be permitted to resign his trust. The petition shall be verified by the oath of the applicant.

4025. Parties; hearing; successor appointed. Upon the filing of the petition, the clerk shall docket the cause as a special proceeding, with the fiduciary as plaintiff and the cestuis que trustent as defendants, and shall issue summons for the defendants, and the procedure shall be the same as in other special proceedings. If any of the defendants be nonresidents, summons may be served by publication; and if any be infants, a guardian ad litem must be appointed by the court to represent their interests in the manner now provided by law. The cestuis que trustent, creditors, or any other person interested in the trust estate, have the right to answer said petition or traverse the same and to offer evidence why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. The clerk shall then proceed to hear and determine the matter, and if it appears to the court that the best interests of the creditors and the cestuis que trustent demand that the resignation of the fiduciary be accepted, or if it appears to the court that sufficient reasons exist for allowing the resignation, and that the resignation can be allowed without prejudice to the rights of creditors or the cestuis que trustent, the clerk may, in the exercise of his discretion, allow the applicant to resign; and in such case the clerk shall proceed to appoint the successor of the petitioner in the manner provided in this article.

4026. Resignation allowed; costs; judge's approval. In making an order allowing the fiduciary to resign the clerk shall make such order concerning the costs of the proceedings and commissions to the fiduciary as may be just. If there is no appeal from the decision and order of the clerk within the time prescribed by law, the proceedings shall be submitted to the judge of the superior court and approved by him before the same become effective.

1911, c. 39, s. 3.

4027. Appeal; stay effected by appeal. Any party in interest may appeal from the decision of the clerk to the judge at chambers, and in such event the procedure shall be the same as in other special proceedings as now provided by law. If the clerk allows the resignation, and an appeal is taken from his decision, such appeal shall have the effect to stay the judgment and order of the clerk until the cause is heard and determined by the judge upon the appeal taken.

1911, c. 39, s. 4.

4028. On appeal judge determines facts. Upon an appeal taken from the clerk to the judge, the judge shall have the power to review the findings of fact made by the clerk and to find the facts or to take other evidence, but the facts found by the judge shall be final and conclusive upon any appeal to the supreme court.

1911, c. 39, s. 5.

4029. Final accounting before resignation. No executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary shall be allowed or permitted to resign his trust until he shall first file with the court his final account of the trust estate, and until the court shall be satisfied that the said account is true and correct.

1911, c. 39, s. 6.

4030. Resignation effective on settlement with successor. In case the resignation of the fiduciary is accepted by the court, the same shall not go into effect, or release or discharge the fiduciary from liability, until he shall have accounted to his successor in full for all moneys, securities, property or other assets or things of value in his possession or under his control or which should be in his possession or under his control belonging to the trust estate.

1911, c. 39, s. 6.

4031. Court to appoint successor; bond required. If the court shall allow any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary to resign his trust upon compliance with the provisions of this article, it shall be the duty of the court to proceed to appoint some fit and suitable person as the successor of such executor, administrator, guardian, trustee or other fiduciary; and the court shall require the person so appointed to give bond with sufficient surety, approved by the court, in a sum double the value of the property to come into his hands, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties as such fiduciary and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive the same of all moneys, assets, or other things of value which may come into his hands. All bonds executed under the provisions of this article shall be filed with the clerk, and shall be recorded in his office in a book kept for that purpose.

1911, c. 39, s. 7.

4032. Rights and duties devolve on successor. Upon the acceptance by the court of the resignation of any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary, and upon the appointment by the court of his successor in the manner provided by this article, the substituted trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee.

1911, c. 39, s. 8.

ART. 4. CHARITABLE TRUSTS

Rev., s. 3922; Code, s. 2342; R. C., c. 18, s. 1; 1832, c. 14, s. 1; 43 Eliz., c. 4.

Norwood*, 45-65; Kirkpatrick v. Rogers, 41-130; White v. University, 39-19; Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26; Holland v. Peck, 37-255; State ex rel. v. Gerard, 37-210; Stanly v. McGowen, 37-9; Cameron v. Comrs., 36-436; Griffin v. Graham, 8-96.

Gifts to charity are liberally construed: Paine v. Forney, 128-237.

As to what is necessary to create a charitable trust, see St. James v. Bagley, 138-384; McLeod v. Jones, 159-74.

Where funds bequeathed are not sufficient to build a church of the size named, a church of smaller size should be built: Paine v. Forney, 128-237.

As to liability of property held by church for charitable purposes, see United Brethren v. Comrs., 115-489.

Bequest for charitable purposes must be definite or it cannot be enforced: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26; Barnes v. Simms, 40-392.

Doctrine of cy pres does not obtain in this state: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26; Faribault v. Taylor, 58-219; Trustees v. Chambers, 56-253; Institution v. Norwood, 45-65; Taylor v. Bible Society, 42-201; Lemmond v. Peoples, 41-137; White v. University, 39-19; Hester v. Hester, 37-330.

To sustain a gift in trust by a testator, the trust itself must be valid: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26—and it must be granted for a definite purpose to some body or association of persons having capacity to take, or to be chartered by the legislature for that purpose, Ibid.

A devise in perpetuity for charitable purposes will be sustained: Stanly v. McGowen, 37-9; State ex rel. v. Gerard, 37-210.

For further annotations, see chapter Religious Societies.

4034. Action for account; court to enforce trust. If the preceding section be not complied with, or there is reason to believe that the property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to give notice thereof to the attorney-general or solicitor who represents the state in the superior court for that county; and it shall be his duty to bring an action in the name of the state against the grantees, executors, or trustees of the charitable fund, calling on them to render a full and minute account of their proceedings in relation to the administration of the fund and the execution of the trust. The attorney-general or solicitor may also, at the suggestion of two reputable citizens, commence an action as aforesaid; and, in either case, the court may make such order and decree as shall seem best calculated to enforce the performance of the trust.

For cotton warehouse system, see sections 4907-4925. For public warehouses, see sections 5118-5123. For leaf tobacco warehouses, see sections 5124-5126.

4037. Terms defined. In this act, unless the context or subject-matter otherwise requires—

“Action” includes counterclaim, set-off, and suit in equity.

“Delivery” means voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another.

“Fungible goods” means goods of which any unit is, from its nature or by mercantile custom, treated as the equivalent of any other unit.

“Goods” means chattels or merchandise in storage, or which has been or is about to be stored.

“Holder” of a receipt means a person who has both actual possession of such receipt and a right of property therein.

“Order” means an order by indorsement on the receipt.

“Person” includes a corporation or partnership of two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To “purchase” includes to take as mortgagee or as pledgee.

“Purchaser” includes mortgagee and pledgee.

“Receipt” means a warehouse receipt.

“Value” is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or preëxisting obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a receipt is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

“Warehouseman” means a person lawfully engaged in the business of storing goods for profit.

1917, c. 37, s. 57.

4039. General law applied. In any case not provided for in this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall govern.

1917, c. 37, s. 56.

4040. Prior receipts not affected. The provisions of this act do not apply to receipts made and delivered prior to the taking effect of this act, March 1, 1917. 1917, c. 37, s. 59.

ART. 2. ISSUE OF WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS

4041. Who may issue receipts. Warehouse receipts may be issued by any warehouseman. 1917, c. 37, s. 1.

4042. What receipt must contain. Warehouse receipts need not be in any particular form, but every such receipt must embody within its written or printed terms—

1. The location of the warehouse where the goods are stored.
2. The date of issue of the receipt.
3. The consecutive number of the receipt.
4. A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order.
5. The rate of storage charges.
6. A description of the goods or of the packages containing them.
7. The signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent.

8. If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and

9. A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is at the time of the issue of the receipt unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred, and the purpose thereof, is sufficient. A warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby, for all damage caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required.

Rev., s. 3032; 1917, c. 37, s. 2.

4043. Other terms inserted; exceptions. A warehouseman may insert in a receipt issued by him any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—

1. Be contrary to the provisions of this act.

4044. Nonnegotiable receipts. A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a nonnegotiable receipt.

1917, c. 37, s. 4.

4045. Nonnegotiable receipts marked. A nonnegotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it “nonnegotiable,” or “not negotiable.” In case of the warehouseman’s failure so to do, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value supposing it to be negotiable may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable. This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgments of an informal character.

Rev., s. 3032; 1917, c. 37, s. 7.

4046. Negotiable receipts. A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt, is a negotiable receipt. No provisions shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is nonnegotiable. Such provision, if inserted, shall be void.

Rev., s. 3032; 1917, c. 37, s. 5.

4047. Duplicate negotiable receipts. When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to any one who purchased the subsequent receipt for value supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt.

1917, c. 37, s. 6.

ART. 3. OBLIGATIONS AND RIGHTS OF WAREHOUSEMEN ON RECEIPTS

4048. Delivery of goods on proper demand. A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by this act, is bound to deliver the goods upon a demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with—

1. An offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien;
2. An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsements as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt; and
3. A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman. In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal.

1917, c. 37, s. 8.

4049. To whom goods may be delivered. A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is—

1. The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or his agent;
2. A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a non-negotiable receipt issued for the goods or who has written authority from the person so entitled, either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper; or
3. A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee.

1917, c. 37, s. 9.

4050. Liability for wrong delivery. Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (2) and (3) of the preceding section, and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions, he shall be so liable if prior to such delivery he had either—

1. Been requested, by or on behalf of the person lawfully entitled to a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or

2. Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods.

1917, c. 37, s. 10.

4051. Liability on receipt not taken up on delivery. Except as hereafter provided in this article, when the goods may have been sold to satisfy warehouseman's charges or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value and in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver the goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman.

4052. Liability on receipt for partial delivery. Except when goods may have been sold to satisfy warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, as hereafter provided in this article, where a warehouseman delivers a part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel the receipt or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered, he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman.

1917, c. 37, s. 12.

4053. Effect of alteration of receipt. The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was—

1. Immaterial,

2. Authorized, or

3. Made without fraudulent intent.

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase.

1917, c. 37, s. 13.

4054. Delivery in case of lost receipt. Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the court, to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also, in its discretion, order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs. The delivery of the goods under an order of the court as provided in this section shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods.

1917, c. 37, s. 14.

4055. Effect of issuing duplicate receipt. A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncanceled at the date of the issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability.

1917, c. 37, s. 15.

4056. Claim of title no defense for nondelivery; exceptions. No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt.

1917, c. 37, s. 16.

4057. Interpleader in conflicting claims. If more than one person claims the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for nondelivery of the goods or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead.

1917, c. 37, s. 17.
