Justice allowed ten days to send up papers after service of notice of appeal: Sondley v. Asheville, 110-89—and if he fail to do so, may be compelled to make return by attachment, Hawks v. Hall, 139-176. Statement of testimony heard by justice is not properly part of the return to notice of appeal: Vinson v. Knight, 137-408. Failure of justice to sign return does not vitiate proceedings where appellant gave notice and paid fee, and appellee made no motion to dismiss, but entered general appearance: Hawks v. Hall, 139-176. Motion to dismiss appeal not docketed within ten days properly refused where delay due to counsel of appellee: Jerman v. Gulledge, 129-242. Superior court is not bound to recognize supplemental return to notice of appeal, where same voluntarily made by justice: Beville v. Cox, 109-265. After justice transmits appeal and papers to superior court, he has no power to grant motion to set aside judgment for want of jurisdiction: Forbes v. McGuire, 116-449.

Where there were two cases between the same parties, and upon appeal from judgment in each case the justice consolidated them and sent up one transcript, the appeal should be dismissed: Drainage Comrs. v. Kirby, 172-415. Where defendant appealed and appeal was duly docketed, but defendant failed to appear, there should be a trial of the case and not a dismissal of appeal: Barnes v. R. R., 133-130.

For further regulations as to appeals, see sections 660, 661. Section referred to in West v. Reynolds, 94-335; Phelps v. Worthington, 92-271; Poston v. Rose, 87-281; Ledbetter v. Osborne, 66-380.

1533. Defective return amended. If the return be defective, the judge or clerk of the appellate court may direct a further or amended return as often as may be necessary, and may compel a compliance with the order by attachment.

Rev., s. 1494; Code, s. 879.

If return defective, judge may direct further or amended return: Hawks v. Hall, 139-176; State v. Currie, 161-276.

1534. Restitution ordered upon reversal of judgment. If the judgment appealed from, or any part thereof, be paid or collected, and the judgment be afterwards reversed, the appellate court shall order the amount paid or collected to be restored, with interest from the time of such payment or collection. The order may be obtained on proof of the facts made at or after the hearing of the appeal, on a previous notice of six days. If the order be obtained before the judgment of reversal is entered, the amount may be included in the judgment.

Rev., s. 1495; Code, s. 886.

Section only applicable where payments made involuntarily: Cowell v. Gregory, 130-81—for defendant by voluntarily paying judgment before justice waives right of appeal, Cowell v. Gregory, 130-80.

Art. 17. Forms

1535. Forms to be used in justice’s court. The following forms, or substantially similar ones, shall be sufficient in all cases of proceedings in civil actions, provided for in this article:

Juror need not repeat words "so help me, God": State v. Paylor, 89-539. See section 1516.

FORM OF OATH TO CONSTABLE IN CHARGE OF THE JURY

You swear that you will, to the utmost of your ability, keep the persons sworn as jurors on this trial together in some private and convenient place, without any meat or drink, except such as may be ordered by the court; that you will not suffer any communication, orally or otherwise, to be made to them, and that you will not communicate with them yourself, orally or otherwise, unless by order of the court. So help you, God.

SUMMONS AGAINST DEFAULTING JUROR TO SHOW CAUSE

State of North Carolina, to any constable or other lawful officer of _________ County—

Greeting:

We command you to summon R. S. to appear before G. W. H., Esq., a justice of the peace for your county, at his office in said county, on the _________ day of _________, 19_____, to show cause why he, the said R. S., should not be fined according to law for his nonattendance as a juror before our said justice at his office in said county on the _________ day of _________, 19_____, in a certain cause then and there pending, in which A. B. was plaintiff and C. D. was defendant; and have you then and there this precept, with the date and manner of your service thereof.

Witness, our said justice, this _________ day of _________, 19_____

G. W. H.____________
Justice of the Peace.

DEMURRER TO COMPLAINT

(The title as in No. 1)

The defendant demurs to the complaint in this action, for that the said complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action (or, for that the said complaint is not sufficiently explicit to enable this defendant to understand it).

See section 1500, rule 4.
[No. 36]

DEMURRER TO ANSWER

(Title as in No. 1 or No. 5)

The plaintiff demurs to the answer of the defendant, for that the facts stated in the answer are not legally sufficient to constitute a defense to this action (or, for that the said answer is not sufficiently explicit to make this plaintiff understand it).

(Signature of plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney.)

See section 1500, rule 4.

[No. 37]

JUDGMENT UPON DEMURRER

NOTE.—If the justice thinks the objection raised by the demurrer to the pleadings is well founded, he will make this entry on his docket:

Demurrer to the complaint (or to the answer) filed, heard and sustained; and whereupon it is ordered that the said pleading be amended without cost (or upon payment of costs, as the case may be).

This order to amend the defective pleading is a matter of course, and is the only judgment which the justice can render upon demurrer. He cannot give a final judgment in the cause at this stage, for the party may choose to amend his pleadings and try the case on the facts. If, however, the party refuse to amend the defective pleading, the justice will disregard the same, and proceed to render final judgment, as follows:

The plaintiff (or defendant) having refused to amend his complaint (or his answer) demurred to, it is adjudged that the defendant go without day and recover of the plaintiff the sum of __________ dollars, costs of this action (or that the plaintiff recover of the defendant the sum of __________ dollars, damages, and the further sum of __________ dollars, costs of this action.)

If the justice deem the objection, raised by the demurrer, not well founded, he will enter in his docket as follows:

Demurrer to the complaint (or to the answer) filed, heard and overruled, and he will then proceed to the evidence in the cause.

NOTE.—The following is offered as a general precedent of the manner in which the justice will make the entries in his docket:

As to allowing amendment to pleadings when demurrer sustained, see sections 545-547, 1500, rules 5, 12, 13.

Said summons was, on the return day thereof, returned before me at my office; and at the same time and place the parties personally appeared.

B. refused so to do, but on the contrary did publicly declare and with loud voice (state whatever offensive words were used); and whereas, when immediately called upon by me to answer for the said contempt said M. REv. s. 1496; Code, s. 900.

NOTE. For criminal procedure and jurisdiction, see Criminal Procedure.
1536 In what cities and towns established; court of record. In each city and town in the state, which has acquired a population of five thousand or over by the last federal census, a recorder's court for such municipality may be established, which shall be a court of record and shall be maintained pursuant to the provisions of this subchapter.

For discontinuing the court, see s. 1582.

[Prior to the adoption of this subchapter inferior courts had been created in different localities under different names, and the cases cited in the annotations were decided under such special statutes.]

1537. Recorder's election and qualification; term of office and salary. The court shall be presided over by a recorder, who may be a licensed attorney at law, and who shall be of good moral character and, at the time of his appointment or election, a qualified elector of the municipality. The first recorder, upon the establishment of such court, shall be elected by the governing body of the municipality, either at the time of the establishment of the court or within thirty days thereafter, and he shall hold office until the next municipal election and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. If a vacancy occur in the office at any time, the same shall be filled by the election of a successor for the unexpired term by the governing body of the municipality, at the regular or special meeting called for that purpose. After the first elected recorder each succeeding recorder shall be nominated and elected in the municipality in the same manner and at the same time as is now provided by law for the elective officers of the municipality, and in the general election for such officers. Before entering upon the duties of his office the recorder shall take and subscribe an oath of office, as is now provided by law for a justice of the peace, and shall file the same with the clerk of the board of the city or town. The salary of the recorder shall be determined and fixed in advance by the governing body of the city or town, and shall not be increased or decreased during the term of his office, and shall be paid out of the funds of the municipality.

1919, c. 277, s. 2.

Where a court was created by special statute for a municipal corporation, a mandamus will issue to compel the authorities to elect a recorder: Battle v. Rocky Mount, 156-330.

The requirement that the recorder must be "a licensed attorney at law" is unconstitutional: State ex rel. Spruill v. Bateman, 162-588.

1538. Time and place of holding court. The court shall be opened for the trial of criminal cases at least one day of each week, to be fixed by the governing body of the municipality, and shall continue its session from day to day until all business is legally disposed of. The court shall be held in the city or town hall, or other place provided therefor, and other sessions of the court may be called by the recorder, as necessity may require.
1919, c. 277, s. 3.

1539. No subsequent change of judgment. When a case has been finally disposed of and judgment pronounced therein, it shall not thereafter be reopened or the judgment or sentence rendered therein be modified, changed or stricken out by the recorder after the adjournment of the regular weekly term or after the adjournment of any special term called by the recorder.
1919, c. 277, s. 3.

1540. Procedure in the court. The recorder shall preside over the court and try and determine all criminal actions coming before him, the jurisdiction of which is conferred by this article, and the proceedings of the court shall be the same as are now prescribed for courts of justices of the peace and for the superior court so far as the same may reasonably apply.
1919, c. 277, s. 9.

1541. Criminal jurisdiction. The court shall have the following jurisdiction within the following named territory:

1. Original, exclusive, and concurrent jurisdiction, as the case may be, of all offenses committed within the corporate limits of the municipality which are now or may hereafter be given to justices of the peace under the constitution and general laws of the state, including all offenses of which the mayor or other municipal court now has jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction may be exclusive as to offenses within the corporate limits: State v.
Baskerville, 141-811.

2. Original and concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace of all offenses committed outside the corporate limits of the municipality and within a radius of two miles thereof, which is now or may hereafter be given to justices of the peace under the constitution and general laws of the state.

Concurrent jurisdiction may be given: State v. Brown, 159-467; State v. Rice, 158-635;

3. Exclusive, original jurisdiction of all other criminal offenses committed within the corporate limits of such municipality and outside, but within a radius of two miles thereof, which are below the grade of a felony as now defined by law, and the same are hereby declared to be petty misdemeanors.

Jurisdiction over petty misdemeanors: State v. Freeman, 172-925; State v. Denton, 164-530;
State v. Hyman, 164-411; State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Lytle, 138-738; and such jurisdiction may be exclusive—State v. Collins, 151-648; State v. Alston, 151-650; State v. Shine, 149-480. Provision in special statute to transfer case to superior

4. Concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace to hear and bind over to the superior court all persons charged with any crime committed within the territory above mentioned, of which the recorder's court is not herein given final jurisdiction.

5. All jurisdiction given by the general laws of the state to justices of the peace, or to the superior court, to punish for contempt, to issue writs ad testificandum, and other process to require the attendance of witnesses and to enforce the orders and judgments of the court.
1919, c. 277, s. 4.

1542. Jurisdiction to recover penalties. The recorder's court shall also have jurisdiction to try all actions for the recovery of penalties imposed by law, or by any ordinance of the municipality in which the court is located, for any offense committed within the corporate limits of the municipality or outside thereof within two miles of the corporate limits, and all such penalties shall be recovered in the name of the municipality.
1919, c. 277, s. 10.

1543. Disposition of cases when jurisdiction not final. In all cases heard by the recorder against any person for any offense whereof the court has not final jurisdiction and in which probable cause of guilt is found, such person shall be bound in a bond or recognizance with sufficient surety to appear at the next succeeding term of the superior court of the county for the trial of criminal cases, and in default of such bond or recognizance he shall be committed to the common jail of the county to await trial; but in all capital cases such person shall be committed to the common jail of the county without bail.

1544. Disposition of cases when jurisdiction final. All persons pleading guilty or convicted in the court of any offense of which the court has final jurisdiction shall be fined or imprisoned, according to law, and any person entering a plea of guilty, or who may be convicted of any such offense, shall also pay the costs of the prosecution.
1919, c. 277, s. 7.

Proceedings must be in open court, and not before recorder in his private office: State v. Burnette, 173-734.

1545. Sentences to be imposed. When any person is convicted, or pleads guilty, of any offense of which the court has final jurisdiction, the recorder may sentence him to the common jail of the county in which the court is held, and assign him to work on the public roads of the county as provided by law; or when such person is a woman or an infant of immature years, the recorder may sentence him or her to the city or county workhouse or state reformatory, or other penal institution provided by law for such purposes. If there is no chain-gang in the county in which the court is held, the recorder may sentence the person to work upon the public roads of any other county provided with a chain-gang for the working of public roads, as authorized by the general laws of the state.

1546. Appeal to superior court. Any person convicted of any offense of which the recorder has final jurisdiction may appeal to the superior court of the county from any judgment or sentence of the recorder, in the same manner as is now provided for appeals from courts of justices of the peace. Upon such appeal the defendant shall be required to give bond or recognizance with sufficient surety for his appearance at the next term of the superior court; and in default thereof the recorder shall commit him to the common jail of the county until he shall give bond or be otherwise discharged by law.
Appeals must be to superior court: State v. Lytle, 138-738; State v. Ray, 122-1097; Pate v. R. R., 122-877; Tate v. Comrs., 122-661; Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650. And if no appeal is provided, there may be a review by certiorari or recordari: Taylor v. Johnson, 171-84; State v. Tripp, 168-150; State v. Ray, 122-1097; Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650.

The right of appeal preserves defendant's right to a jury trial: State v. Tate, 169-373; State v. Hyman, 164-411; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Brittain, 143-668; State v. Lytle, 138-738.

A bill of indictment by a grand jury may be dispensed with in petty misdemeanors: State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Jones, 145-460; State v. Lytle, 138-738—but not if the offense charged is a felony, State v. Hyman, 164-411.

No trial de novo under special statutes referred to: State v. Hinson, 123-755; State v. Davidson, 124-839; State v. Bost, 125-707.

1547. Costs paid to the municipality. All costs incurred in issuing warrants and serving the same in cases where the recorder has not final jurisdiction, and for the service of process arising in such cases when the process is served by the officer of the municipality, except as hereinafter provided, shall be paid to the municipality; and officers serving process issued from said court shall be allowed the same fees as are now allowed sheriffs in like cases, the same, when collected, to be paid over as herein provided. Where such officer is not an officer of a municipality such costs shall be dealt with as is now provided by law.

1548. Seal of court. The recorder's court shall have a seal with the impression, "The Recorder's Court of the City of ____________," which seal shall be used in the attestation of writs, warrants, or other process, acts, judgments, or decrees of the court, in the same manner and to the same effect as the seal of other courts in the state; but no process issuing from the court, to be executed within the county in which court is held, shall require attestation by seal.

1549. Issuance and service of process. The recorder may issue process to the chief of police of the municipality in which the court is held, or to the sheriff, constable, or other lawful officer of the county in which the municipality is located, or to any other county in the state; and such process, when attested by the seal of the court, shall run anywhere in the state, and shall be executed by all public officers authorized to execute process, and be returned by them according to law.

The summons, warrant of arrest, and every other writ, process, or precept issuing from a recorder's court or other court inferior to the superior court, except justices of the peace, may be signed by the recorder, vice recorder, or presiding justice of the court, or by the clerk of the court or deputy clerk, where the court has a clerk or deputy.

For civil process, see section 1591.

1550. Vice recorder; election and duties. The governing body of the municipality shall, at the same time and in the same manner as is provided herein for the election of the first recorder, elect a vice recorder, who shall have the jurisdiction and authority conferred upon the recorder when the recorder shall be prevented from attending to his duties on account of sickness or other temporary disability or by reason of his temporary absence. The vice recorder shall receive the compensation allowed to the recorder for such services for the time that he may render such service, the compensation of the vice recorder to be deducted from the salary of the recorder, and the vice recorder shall be thereafter elected by the governing body of the municipality for the same term as the recorder is elected, and any vacancy occurring in the office of vice recorder shall be filled in the same manner as is provided for the filling of vacancies in the office of recorder.
1919, c. 277, s. 13.

1551. Clerk of court; election and duties; removal. The clerk of the recorder’s court shall be elected by the governing body of the city or town at the same time and for the same term as the vice recorder, and all vacancies in the office of the clerk of the court shall be filled in the manner provided for filling vacancies in the office of vice recorder. Before entering upon the duties of his office, the clerk shall enter into a bond, with sufficient surety, in a sum to be fixed by the governing body of the municipality, not to exceed five thousand dollars, payable to the state, conditioned upon the true and faithful performance of his duties as such clerk and for the faithful accounting for and paying over of all money which may come into his hands by virtue of his office. The bond shall be approved by the governing body and shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county. The clerk shall make monthly settlements with the county and city treasurers for all money which has come into his hands belonging to either. The clerk of the governing body of the municipality shall ex officio discharge the duties of the clerk of the court, unless the governing body shall elect some other person to discharge the duties. The governing body of the municipality shall have the right to remove the clerk of the court, either for incapacity or for neglect of the duties of his office; and in case of a vacancy for any cause the office shall be filled in the manner hereinbefore provided.
1919, c. 277, ss. 15, 18.

punishments by the court imposed, and the record shall show the name and residence of the offender, the nature of the offense, the date of the hearing of the trial, and the punishment imposed, which record shall at all times be open to inspection by any of the city authorities, or other person having business relating to the court. The clerk shall keep a permanent docket for recording all the processes issued by the court, which shall conform to the dockets kept by the clerk of the superior court. He shall also keep in proper files, to be provided by the city, a record of all cases which shall be disposed of in the court and the disposition made thereof.

and authority now conferred upon justices of the peace to issue warrants for the arrest of all persons charged with the commission of offenses within the territory hereinbefore fixed, which warrants, however, shall be made returnable before the recorder of said court at the next sitting thereof, and shall be issued only upon affidavit made as now required by law to support warrants issued by justices of the peace. The clerk shall also have all power and authority of justices of the peace or clerk of the superior court to issue subpenas or other process, to run anywhere within the state; and when such subpenas or other process shall run beyond the county in which the court is located the same shall be attested by the seal of the court, and shall also be signed by the recorder.

1554. Prosecuting attorney; duties and salary. There shall be a prosecuting attorney in the court, who shall appear for the prosecution in all cases therein and, when specially requested by the governing body of the municipality and the recorder, shall assist in the prosecution of all cases which may be bound over or appealed from the court to the superior court; for his services he shall be paid such amount per annum as may be fixed by the governing body, at the same time and in the same manner as is provided for fixing the salary of the recorder. 1919, c. 277, s. 16.

1555. Jury trial, as in justice’s court. In all trials in the court, upon demand for a jury by the defendant or the prosecuting attorney representing the state, the recorder shall try the same as is now provided in actions before justices of the peace wherein a jury is demanded, and the same procedure as is now provided by law for jury trials before justices of the peace shall apply: Provided, however, that the compensation allowed jurors in all cases wherein the superior court has heretofore had final jurisdiction shall be the same as is allowed jurors in the superior court of the county in which the recorder’s court is established.

See section 1501 et seq.

1556. Continuances, recognizances, and transcripts. The recorder’s court shall have the same authority to grant continuances, take bonds and recognizances, and render judgments on forfeited bonds and recognizances, as is now vested by law in the superior courts, and the procedure regulating the issuing and service of notices against defendants and their sureties upon bonds and recognizances, and all other proceedings by taking and enforcing judgments in such cases, shall be the same as in the superior court in like cases. Transcripts of any judgments rendered may be docketed in the superior court of the county in which such court is held, in the same manner and with the same effect as judgments of other courts docketed as provided by law.

As to docketing judgments, see sections 613, 614, 1517.

1557. Officers’ fees; fines and penalties paid. In each case disposed of by the recorder where the defendant is convicted or pleads guilty, there shall, in addition to other lawful costs, be allowed the following fees, to be taxed as a part of the costs against the defendant, viz.: For recorder, one dollar in each case involving the breach of a municipal ordinance and any crime or offense of which a justice of the peace has final jurisdiction, and a fee of two dollars in all other cases; for the prosecuting attorney, one dollar in all cases of violation of municipal ordinances and of any crime or offense of which a justice of the peace has final jurisdiction, and in all other cases a fee as now provided by law for solicitors prosecuting in the superior court; and for the clerk of such court the same fees as are now allowed to clerks of the superior court in similar cases; but in all cases of the breach of municipal ordinances and cases of which a justice of the peace has final jurisdiction and in which the defendant pleads guilty, the fee herein allowed a prosecuting attorney may be remitted by the recorder in his discretion. All costs recovered and collected in the court, except as herein otherwise provided, shall belong to the municipality and be paid into the treasury thereof. All fines and penalties collected shall be paid by the clerk of the court to the county treasury as provided by law, and all fees allowed by law for an arrest or serving other process in a criminal action, when the same shall have been made by the chief of police or other officer who shall be on a salary, shall be paid over to the treasurer of the municipality for the use of the same, and to reimburse it for the expense of maintaining and supporting the court.

1558. County to pay for offenders' work on roads. Whenever, under any judgment of the court, any defendant is sentenced to work upon the public roads or other public work in the county, or to pay a fine and the costs of the prosecution, or costs only, and the defendant shall in fact work out the sentence or fine and costs, or either, upon the public roads or other public works, as aforesaid, then the county shall be liable for and shall pay to the treasurer of the municipality one-half the amount of the costs taxed in the cause: Provided, the sentence imposed shall be of sufficient length to reimburse the county for one-half of such costs.

1559. Prosecutor may be taxed with costs. The recorder shall have full power, in any case in which he shall adjudge that the prosecution was not required by the public interests, to tax the prosecutor with the costs of such action; and in the event the recorder shall adjudge that prosecution is frivolous or malicious, he may imprison the prosecutor for the nonpayment of such costs, as provided by law for similar cases in other courts. When the costs are paid, they shall belong to the city.

See sections 1271, 1272, 1280.

In case any justice of the peace residing within the territory above mentioned shall bind any person over for any offense committed within said territory, of which the justice has committing, but not final, jurisdiction, but of which the recorder's court has final jurisdiction, then such justice of the peace, instead of binding the defendant over to the superior court of the county, shall bind him to appear at the recorder's court on the day succeeding the trial before the justice, at ten o'clock a.m. The justice of the peace shall at once turn over the case to the clerk of said court, and the clerk shall, upon receipt of the same, enter the case upon the docket of the court, and the recorder shall try such person either upon the original warrant under which he was bound over or upon a new warrant to be issued by him for such offense. In all cases the recorder shall have the right to amend any warrant issued by him or by the clerk of the court, or sent up by any justice of the peace as hereinbefore provided, in the same manner and to the same extent as justices of the peace are now authorized by law to make amendments to warrants in justices' courts.

1919, c. 277, s. 22.

Appeals from justice of the peace must be taken to superior court: State v. Ray, 122:1097.

1561. Transfer of certain cases to recorder's court. All cases which shall be pending in any recorder's, police, mayor's, or other municipal court in the counties where the courts herein provided for shall be established shall, after the election and qualification of recorder and other officers authorized and required by this article, be transferred to the recorders' courts of the respective municipalities, to be tried in the manner and in accordance with the procedure provided; but no case pending in the superior court of any county at the time this article takes effect shall be transferred to the recorder's court, except by order of the presiding judge thereof. No cause shall be removed from the recorder's court as is now provided for the removal of cases from one justice of the peace to another.

Cases pending in superior court cannot be transferred: Tate v. Comrs., 122-661.

1562. Jurisdiction of justice of the peace after three months delay. If any criminal offense committed within the jurisdiction of any recorder's court, of which said court is given original, exclusive and final jurisdiction, is not prosecuted to a final termination within three months after the commission of the offense, any justice of the peace within the territory shall acquire jurisdiction to issue his warrant, apprehend the offender, and dispose of such warrant as is now provided by law.

Art. 19. County Recorders' Courts

1563. Established by county commissioners. In any county in which a municipal recorder's court may not be established under the provisions of this subchapter, or in which such court has in fact not been established in the county-seat, the board of commissioners may, in their discretion, establish, in the manner provided by this article, a recorder's court for the entire county, which shall be a court of record and shall be held at the county-seat.

1919, c. 277, s. 25.

See annotations under section 1536.

The first recorder shall be elected by the board of commissioners of the county, either at the time of the establishment of the court or within thirty days thereafter, and shall hold the office until the next regular election wherein county officers are elected, and until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified; and should a vacancy occur in said office at any time, the same shall be filled by the election of a successor with the qualifications herein provided, for the unexpired term, by the board of county commissioners at a regular or special meeting called for that purpose. The successor of the first recorder herein provided for and each succeeding recorder shall be nominated and elected in the county in the same manner and at the same time as is now provided by law for the nomination and election of the elective officers of the county and in the general election for such elective officers. Before entering upon the duties of his office the recorder shall take and subscribe an oath of office as is now provided by law for justices of the peace, and shall file the same with the clerk of the superior court of the county, who shall duly record the same in a book kept for that purpose. The recorder’s salary shall be fixed in advance by the board of commissioners, and paid out of the county funds upon vouchers, and shall not be increased or decreased during his term.
1919, c. 277, s. 25.
See annotations under section 1537.

1565. Time and place for holding court. The court shall be open for the trial of all criminal causes of which it has jurisdiction at least one day of each week, to be fixed by the board of county commissioners, and shall continue its session from day to day until all business is transacted by trial, continuance, or otherwise.
The session of the court shall be held in the county courthouse or other place within the county provided by the board of commissioners for that purpose.
Special sessions of the court may be called by the recorder as the necessities may require.
1919, c. 277, s. 26.

1566. No subsequent change of judgment. When any case has been finally disposed of by the recorder and judgment pronounced therein, the case shall not thereafter be reopened or the judgment or sentence rendered therein changed, modified or stricken out by the recorder after the adjournment of the regular weekly term of court or after the adjournment of any special term of court by the recorder.
1919, c. 277, s. 26.
See section 1539.

1567. Criminal jurisdiction. The court shall have jurisdiction in all criminal cases arising in the county which are now or may hereafter be given to a justice of the peace, and, in addition to the jurisdiction conferred by this section, shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all other criminal offenses committed in the county below the grade of a felony as now defined by law, and the same are hereby declared to be petty misdemeanors: Provided, however, that where a special court or recorder’s court shall legally exist within such county by virtue of a special act of the legislature passed before the amendments to the constitution in reference thereto, then the county recorder’s court, as herein established, shall not have jurisdiction of criminal cases within the territory of such existing recorder’s court, so as to interfere with or conflict with the existing recorder’s court, but shall have concurrent jurisdiction where the jurisdiction of the two courts covers the same causes or the same subject-matter. This article and the establishment of any court thereunder shall not be construed to repeal, modify or in any wise affect any existing special court or recorder’s court by virtue of such former special acts herein referred to.
1919, c. 277, s. 27.
See annotations under section 1541.
1568. Jurisdiction and powers as in municipal court. The recorders of county courts herein provided for shall be vested with all the jurisdiction and authority conferred upon recorders of municipal courts, in like manner and to the same extent as if such jurisdiction and authority had been specifically in this section set forth, in so far as such jurisdiction and authority are applicable to such courts, and the provisions of this subchapter relative to municipal recorders' courts shall in all things apply to the county recorders' courts where same are not inconsistent and in so far as same are practically applicable: Provided, this section shall not take away the jurisdiction of a mayor to try breaches of ordinances when such city has no other municipal court.

1569. Removal of cases from justices' courts. When, upon affidavit made before entering on the trial of any cause before any justice of the peace, it shall appear proper for the cause to be removed for trial to some other justice, as is now provided by law, the cause may be removed for trial to the recorder's court of the county.

In either event such warrant shall be issued upon affidavit duly made and subscribed, setting forth the complaint against the defendant.

The warrant should charge the offense with sufficient certainty to enable the court to proceed to judgment: State v. Lunsford, 150-862.

1572. Jury trial as in municipal court. In all trials in county recorders' courts, upon demand for a jury by the defendant or the prosecuting attorney representing the state, a jury shall be had in the same manner and under the same provisions as are set forth in this subchapter in reference to municipal courts, so far as the same may be practically applicable to a county court.

1573. Sentence imposed; fines and costs paid. Whenever any person shall be convicted or plead guilty of any offense of which the court has final jurisdiction the recorder may sentence him to the common jail of the county in which the court shall be held, and assign him to work on the public roads of the county where provision has been made therefore; but if no provision has been made for working convicts upon the public roads in the county, then the recorder may sentence such person to be worked upon the public roads of any other county within the judicial district which has made such provision: Provided, that in case the person so convicted or pleading guilty shall be a woman or an infant of immature years, then the recorder may assign him or her to the county workhouse, reformatory, or other penal institution located in the county; or if there be none, any similar institution that may be located outside of the county to which judges of the superior court are authorized to sentence such person under the general laws of the state. All fines imposed by the court shall be collected by the clerk of such court or the deputy clerk thereof in the same manner as the clerk of the superior court collects fines imposed by the superior court; and, where a defendant is convicted and fails to pay the costs of such conviction, the county shall pay such costs as is allowed by law in similar cases before the superior court.

1574. Appeals to superior court.

Any person convicted of any offense of which the county recorder has final jurisdiction may appeal to the superior court from any judgment or sentence of the court in the same manner as is now provided for appeals from the courts of justices of the peace; and any person tried before the recorder for any offense of which the court has not final jurisdiction shall, upon the recorder’s finding probable cause of guilt, be bound over to the superior court in the same manner as is provided by law in similar cases before justices of the peace.

The board of commissioners may require and fix the official bond of the deputy clerk for the faithful performance of his duties and fix his salary, which salary shall be fixed before he enters upon his duties and shall not be raised or the clerk of superior court, and which shall be in compensation for the services rendered by him as clerk of the county recorder's court. Such compensation of which oaths shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court, under the general law in addition to the duties set forth in this article.

If any such court shall be so discontinued, the action or resolution must be taken or adopted at least six months prior to the next general election, and shall not go into effect until the term of office of the recorder shall expire. The governing body of any municipality shall have the same power, to be exercised in the same manner, subject to the same limitations, to abolish municipal recorders’ courts.

Transcripts of such judgments may be docketed in the superior court, as now provided for judgments of justices of the peace; and the judgment, when docketed, shall in all respects be a judgment of the superior court as if rendered by such court, and shall be subject to the same statute of limitations and the statutes relating to revival of executions.

For stay of execution, see section 650. For issuing executions, see section 663 et seq. For docketing judgment, see sections 613, 614, 1517. Statute of limitations, section 437. Dormant judgment revived, section 668.

1606. Municipal courts with jurisdiction over the entire county. The courts provided for in article twenty of this subchapter shall be established in the following manner: The governing body of the city and the board of county commissioners of the county, at a joint meeting, shall pass a joint resolution calling an election submitting to the voters of the entire county the question of the establishment of said court. Rev., s. 967; 1893, c. 453; 1909, c. 918, s. 1.

Where an insolvent debtor makes a transfer of the whole or a greater part of his property for the benefit of preexisting creditors, and there are other existing creditors, it is in effect an assignment: Bank v. Gilmer, 116-684; s. c., 117-416; Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Powell v. Lumber Co., 153-52; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321; Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604; Teague v. Grocery Co., 175-195. An assignment for the benefit of creditors omitting creditors is invalid as a preference: Taylor v. Lauer, 127-157.

Note of assignor, with sureties, not yet due becomes due upon assignment being executed, and sureties are bound to pay at once: Pritchard v. Mitchell, 139-54.

As to what is a preference, see section 1611.

As to how to file the schedule, see Friedenwald v. Sparger, 128-446; Hall v. Cottingham, 124-402; Brown v. Nimocks, 124-417. The five days for filing is computed from the actual filing of the deed for registration and not from actual registration: Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-427.

When schedule of preferred debts affirmed to before justice of peace, who is one of the trustees in deed of assignment, assignment void: Martin v. Buffaloe, 128-305, and cases cited.

1610. Trustee to file schedule of debts. Upon the execution of such deed of trust, the trustee, whether named therein or appointed as hereafter provided for, shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said deed of trust is registered, within ten days after the registration thereof, an inventory under oath, giving a complete, full and perfect account of all property that has come into his hands or to the hands of any person for him, by virtue of such deed of trust, and when further property of any kind not included in any previous return comes to the hands or knowledge of such trustee he shall return the same as hereinbefore prescribed within ten days after the possession or discovery thereof.

This section was held to be mandatory in Powell v. Lumber Co., 153-52; Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Bank v. Gilmer, 116-684; s. c., 117-416.

1611. Trustee to recover property conveyed fraudulently or in preference. It is the duty of the trustee to recover, for the benefit of the estate, property which was conveyed by the grantor or assignor in fraud of his creditors, or which was conveyed or transferred by the grantor or assignor for the purpose of giving a preference. A preference, under this section, shall be deemed to have been given when property has been transferred or conveyed within four months next preceding the registration of the deed of trust or deed of assignment in consideration of the payment of a preëxisting debt, when the grantee or transferee of such property knows or has reasonable ground to believe that the grantor or assignor was insolvent at the time of making such conveyance or transfer.

Meaning of preference as given in this section applied: Teague v. Grocery Co., 175-195; Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604. As distinguished from preference under Bankruptcy Act, see Wilson v. Taylor, 154-211; Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604. The notice or knowledge of insolvency must exist at the time of the transfer: Teague v. Grocery Co., 175-195. The four months time must be counted from the execution of the transfer and not from its registration: Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

In the absence of statute preventing it, a debtor may make a preference: Guggenheimer v. Brookfield, 90-232. For former law preventing preference by mortgage, see Farthing v. Carrington, 116-315.

Meaning of insolvency, that debtor has not property sufficient to meet his liabilities: Mining Co. v. Smelting Co., 119-417.

1612. Substitute for incompetent trustee appointed in special proceeding. When a trustee named in a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors has died or resigned or has in any way become incompetent to execute the trust, the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein said deed of assignment has been registered is authorized and empowered, in a special proceeding in which all persons interested have been made parties, to appoint some discreet and competent person to act as such trustee and to execute all the trusts created in the original deed of assignment, according to its true intent and as fully as if originally appointed trustee therein.

See section 2583.

1613. Insolvent trustee removed unless bond given; substitute appointed. Upon the complaint of any creditor of the assignor or trustee in such deed of trust, alleging under oath that the trustee named therein is insolvent, and asking that he be required to give bond or be removed, it is the duty of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such deed of trust is registered, upon a notice of not more than ten days to such trustee, to hear the complaint. If upon such hearing the clerk is satisfied that such trustee is insolvent, he shall remove such trustee and appoint some competent person to execute the provisions of such deed of trust, unless such insolvent trustee shall file with the clerk a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by him, in a sum double the value of the property in the deed of trust, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned that such trustee shall faithfully execute and carry into effect the provisions of said deed of trust.

Rev., s. 969; 1893, c. 453, s. 3.

1614. Trustee removed on petition of creditors; substitute appointed. Upon the written petition of one-fourth of the number of the creditors of the grantor or assignor whose claims aggregate more than fifty per cent of the total indebtedness of said grantor or assignor, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said deed of trust or deed of assignment is registered, upon a notice of not more than ten days to said trustee of said petition, shall remove said trustee and appoint some competent person to execute the provisions of such deed of trust or deed of assignment.

Section cited in Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.
1615. Substituted trustee to give bond. Upon the removal or resignation of any trustee it is the duty of the clerk to require the person appointed to execute the provisions of such deed of trust, before entering upon his duties, to file with the clerk a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by him in a sum double the value of the property in said deed of trust, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned that such person shall faithfully execute and carry into effect the provisions of said deed of trust.

Section cited in Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

1616. Only perishable property sold within ten days of registration. It is unlawful for any trustee, whether named in such deed of trust or appointed by a clerk of the superior court, to sell any part of the property described in such deed of trust within ten days from the registration thereof, unless such property or some part thereof be perishable, in which case he may sell such property as is perishable, according to the powers conferred upon him in said deed of trust.

Rey., s. 971; 1893, c. 453, s. 4.

1617. Creditors to file verified claims with clerk; false swearing misdemeanor. All creditors of the maker of such deed of trust shall, before receiving payment of any amount from the said trustee, file with the clerk of the superior court a statement under oath that the amount claimed by him is justly due, after allowing all credits and offsets, to the best of his knowledge and belief. Any creditor who shall knowingly swear falsely in such statement shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 972, 3617; 1893, c. 453, ss. 6, 7.

Creditors who claim under deed of trust, and file claim to share in proceeds of sale, cannot be heard to impeach its provisions: Chard v. Warren, 122-75.

1618. Priority of payments by trustee. The trustee, after paying the necessary costs of the administration of the trust, shall pay as speedily as possible (1) all debts which are a lien upon any of the trust property in his hands, to the extent of the net proceeds of the property upon which such debt is a lien; (2) wages due to workmen, clerks, traveling or city salesmen, or servants, which have been earned within three months before registration of said deed of trust or deed of assignment, and (3) all other debts equally ratable.

Except as to the two classes mentioned, there can be no discrimination among creditors: Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

1619. Trustee to account quarterly; final account in twelve months. The trustee, whether named in the deed of trust or appointed by a clerk of a superior court, shall within three months from the registration of such deed of trust, and at each succeeding period of three months, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the same is registered an account under oath, stating in detail his receipts and disbursements and his action as trustee, and within twelve months he shall file his final account of his administration of his trust. The clerk may upon good cause shown extend the time within which the quarterly and final accounts herein provided for are to be filed.

Rev., s. 973; 1893, c. 453, s. 5.
1620. Trustee violating duties guilty of misdemeanor. If any trustee in a deed of trust for the benefit of creditors shall fail to file his inventory as required by law, or shall knowingly make any false statement in such inventory, or shall knowingly fail to include any property therein, or shall sell any part of the property described in the deed of trust within ten days unless such property so sold be perishable, or shall fail to file either of the quarterly accounts or the final accounts as required by law, or shall knowingly make any false statement in such quarterly or final account, or shall knowingly fail to include any property, money or disbursement in such quarterly or final account, he shall, in either case, be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rey., s. 8689; 1893, c. 453, s. 8.

ART. 2. PETITION OF INSOLVENT FOR ASSIGNMENT FOR CREDITORS

1621. Petition; schedule; inventory; affidavit. Every insolvent debtor may present a petition in the superior court, praying that his estate may be assigned for the benefit of all his creditors, and that his person may thereafter be exempt from arrest or imprisonment on account of any judgment previously rendered or of any debts previously contracted. On presenting such petition, every insolvent shall deliver therewith a schedule containing an account of his creditors and an inventory of his estate, which inventory shall contain—

1. A full and true account of his creditors, with the place of residence of each, if known, and the sum owing to each creditor, whether on written security, on account, or otherwise.

2. A full and true inventory of his estate, real and personal, with the encumbrances existing thereon, and all books, vouchers and securities relating thereto.

3. A full and true inventory of all property, real and personal, claimed by him as exempt from sale under execution.

He shall annex to his petition and schedule the following affidavit, which must be taken and subscribed by him before the clerk of the superior court, and must be certified by such officer:

I, -------------- , do swear (or affirm) that the account of my creditors, with the places of their residence, and the inventory of my estate, which are herewith delivered, are in all respects just and true; that I have not at any time or in any manner disposed of or made over any part of my estate for the future benefit of myself or my family, or in order to defraud any of my creditors; and that I have not paid, secured to be paid, or in any way compounded with any of my creditors, with a view that they, or any of them, should abstain or desist from opposing my discharge: so help me. God.

Rev., s. 1930; Code, ss. 2942, 2943, 2944; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 1, 2, 3.

A petitioner not under arrest must comply with this section and obtain an order of discharge: Howie v. Spittle, 156-180. Section merely referred to in Preiss v. Cohen, 117-60; State v. Parsons, 115-730; Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-491; Wingo v. Hooper, 98-485. For case prior to enactment of section, see Ballard v. Waller, 52-84.

1622. Clerk to give notice of petition. On receiving the petition, schedule and affidavit, the clerk of the superior court shall make an order requiring all the creditors of such insolvent to show cause before said officer, within thirty days after publication of the order, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and shall post a notice of the contents of the order at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county where the application is made.
for four successive weeks; or, in lieu thereof, shall publish the same for three successive weeks in any newspaper published in said county, or in an adjoining county.

Rev., s. 1931; Code, ss. 2945, 2946; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 4, 5.

1623. Order of discharge and appointment of trustee. If no creditor oppose the discharge of the insolvent, the clerk of the superior court before whom the hearing of the petition is had shall enter an order of discharge and appoint a trustee of all the estate of such insolvent.

Rev., s. 1932; Code, s. 2947; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 6.

Section referred to in State v. Parsons, 115-733.

1624. Terms and effect of order of discharge. The order of discharge shall declare that the person of such insolvent shall forever thereafter be exempted from arrest or imprisonment on account of any judgment, or by reason of any debt due at the time of such order, or contracted for before that time, though payable afterwards. But no debt, demand, judgment or decree against any insolvent, discharged under this chapter, shall be affected or impaired by such discharge, but the same shall remain valid and effectual against all the property of such insolvent acquired after his discharge and the appointment of a trustee; and the lien of any judgment or decree upon the property of such insolvent shall not be in any manner affected by such discharge.

Rev., s. 1934; Code, s. 2950; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 9.

Debtor who has surrendered property is protected from future arrest or imprisonment on account of any judgment previously rendered or any debts previously contracted, though after-acquired property may be subject to execution and sale in proper cases: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489; see, also, Brown v. Long, 22-138.

For case prior to enactment of section, see Griffin v. Simmons, 50-145.

1625. Suggestion of fraud by opposing creditor. Every creditor opposing the discharge of the insolvent may suggest fraud and set forth the particulars thereof in writing, verified by his oath; but the insolvent shall not be compelled to answer the suggestions of fraud in more than one case, though as many creditors as choose may make themselves parties to the issues in such cases.

Rev., s. 1935; Code, s. 2948; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 7.

The creditor suggesting fraud must state the particulars constituting the fraud, which may raise an issue of fact or a question of law: Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712.

Mother of bastard child, to whom allowance directed to be paid, becomes creditor of defendant, and can suggest fraud under section and contest defendant's right to a discharge, as insolvent, from its payment: State v. Ostwalt, 118-1210; Church v. Parsons, 115-730—but mother has right to suggest fraud only as to allowance, State v. Parsons, 115-730—for only the state can suggest fraud as to fine and costs, Ibid.

Where debtor arrested under different ca. sa.'s at instance of several creditors, and fraud suggested by creditors, he may require that all creditors he may notify shall join in trial of the one issue: Williams v. Floyd, 27-619—but debtor may waive privilege by joining issue with each creditor, in which case verdict in his favor in one action will not discharge him from responsibility in case of another creditor, Ibid.

Art. 3. Trustee for Estate of Debtor Imprisoned for Crime

1626. Persons who may apply for trustee for imprisoned debtor. When any debtor is imprisoned in the penitentiary for any term, or in a county jail for any term more than twelve months, application by petition may be made by any creditor, the debtor, or by his wife, or any of his relatives, for the appointment of a trustee to take charge of the estate of such debtor.

Rev., s. 1943; Code, s. 2974; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 40.
Section referred to in State v. Burton, 113-655.

Rev., s. 1944; Code, s. 2975; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 41, 42.

1628. Duties of trustee; accounting; oath. The trustee of the imprisoned debtor shall pay his debts pro rata. After paying such debts, the trustee shall apply the surplus, from time to time, to the support of the wife and children of the debtor, under the direction of the superior court. When the imprisoned debtor is lawfully discharged from his imprisonment, the trustee shall deliver to him all the estate, real and personal, of such debtor, after retaining a sufficient sum to satisfy the expenses incurred in the execution of the trust and lawful commissions therefor. The trustee shall make his returns and have his accounts audited and settled by the clerk of the superior court of the county where the proceeding was had, in like manner as provided for personal representatives. Before proceeding to the discharge of his duty, the trustee shall take and subscribe an oath, well and truly to execute his trust according to his best skill and understanding. The oath must be filed with the clerk of the superior court.

Rev., ss. 1945, 1946, 1947; Code, ss. 2976, 2978, 2979; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 43, 45, 46.

1629. Court may appoint several trustees. The court has power, when deemed necessary, to appoint more than one person trustee under this chapter; but in reference to the rights, authorities and duties conferred herein, all such trustees shall be deemed one person in law.

Rev., s. 1948; Code, s. 2980; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 47.
Section referred to in Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489.

1630. Court may remove trustee and appoint successor. In case of the death, removal, resignation or other disability of a trustee, the court making the appointment may from time to time supply the vacancy; and all proceedings may be continued by the successor in office in like manner as in the first instance.

Rev., s. 1949; Code, s. 2981; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 48.
Section referred to in Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489.

ART. 4. DISCHARGE OF INSOLVENT DEBTORS

1631. Insolvent debtor's oath. Prisoners in order to be entitled to discharge from imprisonment under the provisions of this article shall take the following oath:

I, ________________, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have not the worth of fifty dollars in any worldly substance, in debts, money or otherwise whatsoever, and that I have not at any time since my imprisonment or before, directly or indirectly, sold or assigned, or otherwise disposed of, or made over in trust for myself or my family, any part of my real or personal estate, whereby to have or expect any benefit, or to defraud any of my creditors: so help me, God.

Rev., s. 1918a; Code, s. 2972; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, c. 797, c. 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 31;
1881, c. 76.

This does not contravene constitutional provision in regard to homestead and personal property exemptions: State v. Williams, 97-415—as prisoner has election to discharge himself by complying with judgment of court or by complying with statutory provisions and taking oath

Section merely referred to in State v. Morgan, 141-728; State v. White, 125-678; State v.
Parsons, 115-735; Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470; State v. Burton, 113-655; State v.
Bryan, 83-612; State v. Davis, 82-610.

1632. Persons imprisoned for nonpayment of maintenance in bastardy or of costs in criminal cases. The following persons may be discharged from imprisonment upon complying with this article:

1. Every putative father of a bastard committed for a failure to give bond, or to pay any sum of money ordered to be paid for its maintenance.

2. Every person committed for the fine and costs of any criminal prosecution.

Rev., s. 1915; Code, s. 2967; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1850, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 26.

This section does not repeal sections 1356 and 1359, but latter sections modify it: State v.
Morgan, 141-729—and all three sections must be construed together, Ibid.

Where there are three indictments against prisoner, to one of which he pleaded guilty and judgment was suspended upon payment of costs, and he was found guilty on other two, on one of which he was sentenced to imprisonment for ten days, after remaining in jail for such time and twenty days additional, and taking statutory oath, held that he was entitled to discharge in all three cases: State v. McNeely, 92-829.

Prisoner entitled to be discharged from imprisonment for nonpayment of fine and costs upon complying with statutory provisions: State v. Williams, 97-414; State v. Davis, 82-610—and this is so although workhouse has been established by county commissioners in accordance with provisions of section 1365, State v. Williams, 97-414.

Imprisonment of putative father for failure to obey order of maintenance, or to give bond, is a matter of legislative discretion, and is not imprisonment for debt: State v. Morgan, 141-726—and he may be discharged from imprisonment by complying with provisions of section, State v. White, 125-674; State v. Parsons, 115-730. Placing one in custody of sheriff until fine, costs and allowance in bastardy are paid is by implication an order to imprison upon failure to pay, and prisoner can be discharged hereunder: State v. Burton, 113-655.

1633. Petition; before whom; notice; service. Every such person, having remained in prison for twenty days, may apply by petition to the court where the judgment against him was entered, praying to be brought before such court at a time and place to be named in the petition, and to be discharged upon taking the oath hereinbefore prescribed. The applicant shall cause ten days notice of the time and place of filing the petition to be served on the sheriff or other officer by whom he was committed. In cases of conviction before a justice of the peace the clerk of the superior court of the county where the convicted person confined for costs is, may administer the oath and discharge the prisoner.

Application of insolvent, confined for nonpayment of costs, is a proceeding in the cause in which he was convicted, and should be made by petition to court wherein judgment against him was entered: State v. Miller, 97-451—but if clerk should refuse to allow prisoner to take oath, remedy is by appeal to judge holding courts of that district, and it is intimated that it 1634. Warrant issued for prisoner. The clerk of the superior court, or justice of the peace, before whom such petition is presented shall forthwith issue a warrant to the sheriff, or keeper of the prison, requiring him to bring the prisoner before the court, at the time and place named for the hearing of the case, which warrant every such sheriff or keeper shall obey.

Rev., s. 1917; Code, s. 2970; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 29.

1635. Proceeding on application. At the hearing of the petition, if the prisoner has no visible estate, and takes and subscribes the oath or affirmation prescribed in this article, the clerk of the superior court, or justice of the peace, before whom he is brought, shall administer the oath or affirmation to him, and discharge him from imprisonment; of which an entry shall be made in the docket of the court, and, where the proceeding is before a justice of the peace, the justice shall return the petition and orders thereon into the office of the clerk of the superior court to be filed.

Rev., s. 1918; Code, s. 2971; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 30.

Where debtor arrested and imprisoned for fraud did not tender oath required by section 1631, nor surrender exemptions, nor file petition or give notice required by section 1633, he was improperly discharged upon affidavit that he had made an assignment for benefit of creditors, and that he was insolvent and not worth more than exemptions allowed by law: Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470.

Prisoner entitled to be discharged from imprisonment for nonpayment of fine and costs upon complying with statutory provisions: State v. Williams, 97-414; State v. Davis, 82-610—and this is so, although workhouse has been established by county commissioners under provisions of section 1365: State v. Williams, 97-414.

One who has been found to be father of bastard child, and committed for nonpayment of fines, costs and allowance is entitled to be discharged from prison upon filing petition and complying with statutory requirements: State v. Parsons, 115-730.

1636. Suggestion of fraud. The chairman of the board of commissioners, and every officer interested in the fee bill taxed against such prisoner, may oppose his taking the insolvent debtor's oath above prescribed, and file particulars of the suggestion in writing, in the court where the same shall stand for trial as prescribed in this chapter in other cases of fraud or concealment.

Rev., s. 1919; Code, s. 2973; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 32.

1637. Persons taken in arrest and bail proceedings, or in execution. The following persons also are entitled to the benefit of this article as hereinafter provided:

1. Every person taken or charged on any order of arrest for default or bail, or on surrender of bail in any action.
2. Every person taken or charged in execution of arrest for any debt or damages rendered in any action whatever.

Defendant taken in arrest and bail or under execution can be discharged by taking insolvent’s oath and surrendering all his property, including exemptions, over $50: Oakley v. Lasater, 172-96; Howie v. Spittle, 156-180; Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712; Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470; Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-459. This applies to nonresidents as well as to residents: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-459. The remedies under this section are in addition to those given in sections 775 and 777: Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712.

1638. When petition may be filed. Every person taken or charged as in the preceding section specified may, at any time after his arrest or imprisonment, petition the court from which the process issued on which he is arrested or imprisoned, for his discharge therefrom, on his compliance with this chapter.

Rev., s. 1921; Code, s. 2952; R. C., c. 59, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 11.

Section embraces every person taken or charged as in preceding section specified: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-493.

1639. Petition; contents; verification. The petition shall set forth the cause of the imprisonment, with the writ or process and complaint on which the same is founded, and shall have annexed to it a just and true account of all his estate, real and personal, and of all charges affecting such estate, as they exist at the time of filing his petition, together with all deeds, securities, books or writings whatever relating to the estate and the charges thereon; and also what property, real and personal, the petitioner claims as exempt from sale under execution, and shall have annexed to it an oath or affirmation, subscribed by the petitioner and taken before any person authorized by law to administer oaths, to the effect following:

I, _____________, the within named petitioner, do swear (or affirm) that the within petition and account of my estate, and of the charges thereon, are, in all respects, just and true; and that I have not at any time or in any manner disposed of or made over any part of my property, with a view to the future benefit of myself or my family, or with an intent to injure or defraud any of my creditors: so help me, God.

Rev., s. 1922; Code, ss. 2953, 2954; R. C., c. 59, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 12, 13.

Section referred to in Purvis v. Robinson, 49-96.

1640. Notice; length of notice and to whom given. Twenty days notice of the time and place at which the petition will be filed, together with a copy of such petition and the account annexed thereto, shall be personally served by such debtor on the creditor or creditors at whose suit he is arrested or imprisoned, and such other creditors as the debtor may choose, or their personal representatives or attorneys. If the person to be notified reside out of the state, and has no agent or attorney in the state, the notice may be served on the officer having the claim to collect, or by two weekly publications in any newspaper in the state.

Rev., s. 1923; Code, s. 2955; R. C., c. 59, ss. 3, 20; 1773, c. 100, s. 8; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 14.

Party arrested and seeking relief must notify creditor or plaintiff at whose suit arrested: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-492—but may or may not notify other creditors of his application to surrender his property and be discharged from arrest. Only such creditors as may be so notified will be affected by his discharge: Ibid.

1641. Who may suggest fraud. Every creditor upon whom the notice directed in the preceding section is served may suggest fraud upon the hearing of the petition, and the issues made up respecting the fraud shall stand for trial as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1924; Code, s. 2956; R. C., c. 59, s. 13; 1822, c. 1131, s. 4; 1835, c. 12; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 15.
1642. Where no suggestion of fraud, discharge granted. If no creditor suggests fraud or opposes the discharge of the debtor, the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court before whom the petition is heard shall forthwith discharge the debtor, and, if he surrenders any estate for the benefit of his creditors, shall appoint a trustee of such estate. The order of discharge and appointment shall be entered in the docket of the court, and if granted by a justice of the peace a copy thereof shall be certified by him to the clerk of the superior court, where the same shall be recorded, and filed.

1643. Continuance granted for cause. When it appears to the court that any debtor, who may have given bond for his appearance under this chapter, is prevented from attending court by sickness or other sufficient cause, the case shall be continued to another day, or to the next term, when the same proceedings shall be had as if the debtor had appeared according to the condition of his bond, and in the event of his death in the meantime, his bond shall be discharged.

1644. Where fraud in issue, discharge only after trial. After an issue of fraud or concealment is made up, the debtor shall not discharge himself as to the creditors in that issue, except by trial and verdict in the same, or by a discharge by consent.

1645. If fraud found, debtor imprisoned. If, on the trial, the jury finds that there is any fraud or concealment, the judgment shall be that the debtor be imprisoned until a full and fair disclosure and account of all his money, property or effects be made by the debtor.

1646. Effect of order of discharge. The order of discharge under the last four articles of this chapter, whether granted upon a nonsuggestion of fraud, upon the finding of a jury in favor of the debtor, or otherwise, shall be in like terms and have like effect as prescribed in section 1624; except that the body of such debtor shall be free from arrest or imprisonment at the suit of every creditor, and as to him only, to whom the notice required may have been given; and the notices, or copies thereof, shall in all cases be filed in the office of the superior court clerk.

Rev., s. 1929; Code, s. 2960; R. C., c. 59, s. 11; 1522, c. 1131, s. 4; 1835, c. 12; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 19.

Art. 5. General Provisions Under Articles 2, 3, and 4

1647. Superior court tries issue of fraud. In every case where an issue of fraud is made up as provided in this chapter, the case shall be entered in the trial docket of the superior court, and stand for trial as other causes; and upon a finding by the jury in favor of the petitioner the judge shall discharge the debtor; if the finding is against the petitioner he shall be committed to jail until he makes full disclosure.

Rev., s. 1935; Code, s. 2949; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 8.

Upon suggestion of fraud, issue is raised which should be entered upon trial docket of superior court, and stand for trial as other causes: State v. Parsons, 115-730. Where debtor sets out in schedule that he has made deed in trust of certain property, and surrenders all his interest in such property, still competent for creditor to have issue made up as to whether deed not fraudulent: Adams v. Alexander, 23-501; Hutton v. Self, 28-285— and, if found fraudulent by a jury, to cause debtor to be imprisoned until he surrenders property itself, Ibid. See, as bearing upon section, Adams v. Beaman, 48-140.

1648. Insolvent released on giving bond. Every debtor entitled under the provisions of this chapter to discharge as an insolvent may, at the time of filing his application for a discharge or at any time afterwards, tender to the sheriff or other officer having his body in charge, a bond, with sufficient surety, in double the amount of the sum due any creditor or creditors at whose suit he was taken or charged, conditioned for the appearance of such debtor before the court where his petition is filed, at the hearing thereof, and to stand to and abide by the final order or decree of the court in the case. If such bond be satisfactory to the sheriff, he shall forthwith release such debtor from custody.

The petitioner may give bond during the pendency of the proceedings: Howie v. Spittle, 156-180. Bond given for appearance of insolvent at court is good if it is for double the original debt, exclusive of interest and costs: Williams v. Yarborough, 13-12. Condition in bond "to appear and claim benefit of act, etc., and not depart without leave" is substantial compliance with section: Mooring v. James, 13-254. Defendant in bond bound to attend at every term until cause finally disposed of: Arrington v. Bass, 14-95. Debtor who has given bond for his appearance cannot object to informality of same, and pray discharge on account thereof: Page v. Winningham, 18-113.

Where bond states date at which court is to be held, which date is erroneous and court held at a different place, there is no default of appearance according to bond: Winslow v. Anderson, 20-1. Quere: Whether duty of officer or the defendant to prepare bond to be given for debtor's appearance: Ibid. Return day in bond must be certain: Ibid. For old cases under section prior to amendment, see Wall v. Jarrott, 25-42; Williams v. Bryan, 33-613.
1649. Surety in bond may surrender principal. The surety in any bond conditioned for the appearance of any person under this chapter may surrender the principal, or such principal may surrender himself, in discharge of the bond, to the sheriff, or other officer of any court where such principal is bound to appear, in the manner provided in the chapter entitled Civil Procedure, article Arrest and Bail.

Rev., s. 1937; Code, s. 2963; R. C., c. 59, s. 23; 1793, c. 100, s. 7; 1793, c. 380, s. 1; 1822, c. 1131, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 22.

See sections 791-793. Where principal obligor in bond was regularly called and failed to appear, and judgment was rendered against him and his surety, surety has no right, ex debito justitie, to have judgment set aside to allow him to make surrender of principal: Reynolds v. Boyd, 23-106.

To protect sureties they must surrender principal in court to which ca. sa. returnable, or to the sheriff of that county, and, where writ issues to another county, a surrender to sheriff of that county is a nullity: Mooring v. James, 13-254.

1650. Creditor liable for jail fees. When any debtor is actually confined within the walls of a prison, on an order of arrest in default of bail or otherwise, the jailer must furnish him with necessary food during his confinement, if the prisoner requires it, for which the jailer shall have the same fees as for keeping other prisoners. If the debtor is unable to discharge such fees, the jailer may recover them from the party at whose instance the debtor was confined. And at any time after the arrest, the sheriff or jailer may give notice thereof to the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, and demand security of him for the prison fees that accrue after such notice, and if the plaintiff fails to give such security then the sheriff may discharge the debtor out of custody.

Rev., s. 1938; Code, s. 2965; R. C., c. 69, s. 5; 1773, c. 100, ss. 8, 9; 1821, c. 1103; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 24.

Where debtor has given bond for appearance and case continued from court to court, sureties surrendering him from time to time, and issue decided against him and he committed to prison in all cases, at instance of creditor, such creditor responsible to jailer for fees or allowance for food furnished to prisoner during whole time confined in jail: Veal v. Flake, 32-417.

When debtor committed to prison and permitted to take prison bounds, jailer under no obligation, while he continues in bounds, to furnish him with provisions for his support: Phillips v. Allen, 35-10—nor can creditor, at whose suit he is confined, be compelled to reimburse jailer for any sum so expended, ibid.

Where debtor, imprisoned at instance of creditor, has no property in this state out of which prison fees, provisions and support can be satisfied, jailer may recover amount from creditor, notwithstanding debtor may have sufficient property in another state: Faucett v. Adams, 35-235.

Action against creditor for jail fees of insolvent debtor, given by section to jailer, cannot be maintained by sheriff as jailer’s principal: Bunting v. Mclhenny, 61-579.

1651. False swearing; penalty. If any insolvent or imprisoned debtor takes any oath prescribed in this chapter falsely and corruptly, and upon indictment for perjury is convicted thereof, he shall suffer all the pains of perjury, and he shall never after have any of the benefits of this chapter, but may be sued and imprisoned as though he had never been discharged.

Rev., ss. 1940, 3614; Code, s. 2964; R. C., c. 59, s. 25; 1793, c. 100, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 23.

For additional penalty, see section 4364.
1652. Powers of trustees hereunder. Any trustee appointed under the last four articles of this chapter, as therein contemplated, is hereby declared a trustee of the estate of the debtor, in respect to whose property such trustee is appointed for the benefit of creditors, and is invested from the time of appointment with all the powers and authority, and subject to the control, obligations and responsibilities prescribed by law in relation to personal representatives over the estates of deceased persons; but all debts shall be paid by the trustees pro rata.

Rev., s. 1941; Code, s. 2977; R. C., c. 59, ss. 21, 22; 1773, c. 100, ss. 5, 6; 1827, c. 44; 1830, c. 26, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 44.

1653. Jail bounds. Any imprisoned debtor may take the benefit of the prison bounds by giving security, as required by law, except as follows:

1. A debtor against whom an issue of fraud is found.
2. Any debtor who, for other cause, is adjudged to be imprisoned until he make a full and fair disclosure or account of his property.

Rev., s. 1942; Code, s. 2966; R. C., c. 59, s. 27; 1818, c. 964; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 25.

For regulation as to prison bounds, see section 1321.
CHAPTER 29

DESCENTS

Rule 1. Lineal descent.
Rule 2. Females inherit with males, younger with older children; advancements.
Rule 3. Lineal descendant represents ancestor.
Rule 4. Collateral descent of estate derived from ancestor.
Rule 5. Collateral descent of estate not derived from ancestor.
Rule 6. Half blood inherits with whole; parents from child.
Rule 7. Unborn infant may be heir.
Rule 8. Widow may take as heir.
Rule 11. Estate for life of another not devised deemed inheritance.
Rule 12. Seizin defined.
Rule 13. Issue of certain colored persons to inherit.

1654. Rules of descent. When any person dies seized of any inheritance, or of any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, not having devised the same, it shall descend under the following rules:

Descents in this state are regulated by statute and not by the common law: University v. Markham, 174-338; Edwards v. Yearby, 168-663. Upon death of ancestor intestate, title to his estate descends and vests at once in his heirs; title cannot in such circumstances stand in abeyance and vest in future: Harris v. Russell, 124-547. As to “seized” in this sentence, see rule 12 of this section and Harly vy. Early, 134-258 at 266. For general discussion of canons of descent, see Clement v. Cauble, 55-86.

Rule 1, Lineal descent. Every inheritance shall lineally descend forever to the issue of the person who died last seized, entitled or having any interest therein, but shall not lineally ascend, except as hereinafter provided.

Descents in this state are regulated by statute and not by the common law: University v. Markham, 174-338; Edwards v. Yearby, 168-663. Upon death of ancestor intestate, title to his estate descends and vests at once in his heirs; title cannot in such circumstances stand in abeyance and vest in future: Harris v. Russell, 124-547. As to “seized” in this sentence, see rule 12 of this section and Harly vy. Early, 134-258 at 266. For general discussion of canons of descent, see Clement v. Cauble, 55-86.

Rule 2, Females inherit with males, younger with older children; advancements. Females shall inherit equally with males, and younger with older children: Provided, that when a parent dies intestate, having in his or her lifetime settled upon or advanced to any of his or her children any real or personal estate, such child so advanced in real estate shall be utterly excluded from any share in the real estate descended from such parent, except so much thereof as will, when added to the real estate advanced, make the share of him who is so advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And any child so advanced in personal estate shall be utterly excluded from any share in the personal estate of which the parent died possessed, except so much thereof as will, when added to the personal estate advanced, make the share of him who is advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And in case any one of the children has been advanced in real estate of greater value than an equal share thereof which may come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the distribution of the personal estate of such deceased parent with the excess in value of such real estate so advanced as aforesaid, over and above an equal share as aforesaid. And in case any of the children has been advanced in personal estate of greater value than an equal share thereof which shall come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the division of the real estate, if there be any, with the excess in value, which he may have received as aforesaid, over and above an equal distributive share of the personal estate.

Rey., s. 1556; Code, s. 1251; R. C., c. 38, s. 1, Rule 2; 1784, c. 204, s. 2; 1808, c. 739; 1844, c. 51, ss. 1, 2.

This rule abolishes preference of male over female line and places males and females on perfect equality both as to collateral and lineal descent: Bell v. Dozier, 12-334.

Rule 3, Lineal descendant represents ancestor. The lineal descendants of any person deceased shall represent their ancestor, and stand in the same place as the person himself would have done had he been living.

Rey., s. 1556; Code, s. 1251; R. C., c. 38, Rule 3; 1808, c. 739.

Representation under the rule is indefinite as well among collateral as among lineal kindred: Johnston v. Chesson, 59-147. So heirs of deceased collaterals represent their ancestor, and take what he, if living, would have taken: Draper v. Bradley, 126-72.

In descent of real property, principle of representation is applied whether heirs in equal or unequal degree, and heirs take per stirpes and not per capita in either case: Crump v. Faucett, 70-345; Cromartie v. Kemp, 66-382; Haynes v. Johnson, 58-124; Clement v. Cagle, 55-82. But in distribution of personal property, under section 126, representation is resorted to only when claimants in equal degree, and not among those in unequal degree: Ellis v. Harrison, 140-444.

Heirs of naked trustee who joined in mortgage take no interest, legal or equitable: Fleming v. Barden, 126-450.

Rule 4, Collateral descent of estate derived from ancestor. On failure of lineal descendants, and where the inheritance has been transmitted by descent from an ancestor, or has been derived by gift, devise or settlement from an ancestor, to whom the person thus advanced would, in the event of such ancestor's death, have been the heir or one of the heirs, the inheritance shall descend to the next collateral relations, capable of inheriting, of the person last seized, who were of the blood of such ancestor, subject to the two preceding rules.

Rey., s. 1556; Code, s. 1251; R. C., c. 38, Rule 4; 1808, c. 739.

Under this rule descended estates and certain purchased estates (derived by gift, devise, or settlement from an ancestor) descend to the nearest relatives of the blood of the ancestor or person from whom the estate moved: Burgwyn v. Devereux, 23-586. See Bell v. Dozier, 12-333; Watson v. Sullivan, 153-246. Where through a series of descents and settlements an estate goes to a person who dies without issue, it reverts back to those of his collateral relations who would be heirs of the ancestor from whom it originally descended or by whom it was originally settled: Poisson v. Pettaway, 159-650; Wilkerson v. Bracken, 24-315; Felton v. 731

This rule to be construed with rule 6 of this section: Noble v. Williams, 167-112; Paul v. Carter, 153-26. Where estate vests in surviving mother or father under rule 6, immaterial whether such parent be of blood of purchasing ancestor: McMichael v. Moore, 56-471.

This rule applies only when there is no disposition of the land by will which would interfere with prescribed course of descent: Kirkman v. Smith, 174-603.

When land is devised to one who could not be an heir of devisor (as to grandson who died intestate during his father’s life), upon the death of devisee such land descends not under this rule, but as acquired lands under rules 5 and 6: Osborne v. Widenhouse, 56-238; see Burglyn v. Devereux, 23-586.

When will provided for conversion of land into personalty upon future contingency which never happened, until such contingency happened land descended as ancestral realty under this rule: Elliott v. Loftin, 160-361.

Cases under obsolete statutes superseded by this rule: Seville v. Whedbee, 12-160; Ham v. Martin, 8-423; Doe v. Sheppard, 7-334.

Rule 5, Collateral descent of estate not derived from ancestor. On failure of lineal descendants, and where the inheritance has not been transmitted by descent or derived as aforesaid from an ancestor, or where, if so transmitted or derived, the blood of such ancestor is extinct, the inheritance shall descend to the next collateral relation, capable of inheriting, of the person last seized, whether of the paternal or maternal line, subject to the second and third rules. Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 5; 1808, c. 739.

In descent of acquired estates the only qualification necessary for collateral heir is that he be nearest relation of person last seized: Bell v. Dozier, 12-333.

Where estate had been transmitted by descent, and blood of acquiring ancestor is extinct, upon death of person last seized intestate and without issue, estate descended to his nearest collateral relations: University v. Brown, 23-387.

For cases under old act of 1784, superseded by this rule, see Ross v. Toms, 9-9; Pritchard v. Turner, 9-333.

Rule 6, Half blood inherits with whole; parents from child. Collateral relations of the half blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood, and the degrees of relationship shall be computed according to the rules which prevail in descents at common law: Provided, that in all cases where the person last seized leaves no issue capable of inheriting, nor brother, nor sister, nor issue of such, the inheritance shall vest in the father and mother, as tenants in common if both are living, and if only one of them is living, then in such survivor. Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 6; 1808, c. 739; 1915, c. 9, s. 1.

Moore, 56-473—though in such case, where father dead, estate vests in mother, Early v. Early, 134-266. Where person died seized of lands descended through mother from her father, and left no issue, nor brother nor sister, except half-sister not of mother's blood, the father surviving took inheritance: Little v. Buie, 55-10. Where person dies without issue or sisters or brothers or issue of same, the father or mother will take inheritance regardless of whether he or she is of blood of purchasing ancestor: McMichal v. Moore, 56-471.

Proviso in rule applies to cases where surviving brother or sister cannot inherit, as well as to cases where none survive descendants: Watson v. Sullivan, 153-246; Bell v. Dozier, 12-333.

In cases of adoption, the natural father inherits from the child to the exclusion of the adopted father: Edwards v. Yearby, 168-663.

Proviso in rule applies to cases where surviving brother or sister cannot inherit, as well as to cases where none survive descendants: Watson v. Sullivan, 153-246; Bell v. Dozier, 12-333.

In cases of adoption, the natural father inherits from the child to the exclusion of the adopted father: Edwards v. Yearby, 168-663.

For cases under old act of 1784, superseded by this rule, see Ross v. Toms, 9-9; Pritchard v. Turner, 9-435; Doe v. Sheppard, 7-334.

For decision prior to amendment of rule 1, and passage of rule 12, which changed law, see Lawrence v. Pitt, 46-344, as explained in Sears v. McBride, 70-152.

As bearing upon rule, see Dozier v. Grandy, 66-484; McKay v. Hendon, 7-209.

Rule 7, Unborn infant may be heir. No inheritance shall descend to any person, as heir of the person last seized, unless such person shall be in life at the death of the person last seized, or shall be born within ten lunar months after the death of the person last seized.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 7; 1801, c. 575, s. 1.

Widow is heir only when there is no one who can claim as heir of the decedent: Powers v. Kite, 83-156; University v. Markham, 174-338. This rule applies only as to property undevised by the husband: Grantham v. Jinnette, 177-229.

Rule 9, Illegitimate children inherit from mother. Every illegitimate child of the mother and the descendants of any such child deceased shall be considered an heir: Provided, however, that where the mother leaves legitimate and illegitimate children such illegitimate child or children shall not be capable of inheriting of such mother any land or interest therein which was conveyed or devised to such mother by the father of the legitimate child or children; but such illegitimate child or descendant shall not be allowed to claim, as representing such mother, any part of the estate of her kindred, either lineal or collateral.

Rev., s. 1556, Rule 9; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 10; 1799, c. 522; 1913, c. 71.

This rule relates to descents from mother to her illegitimate children and their descendants, and allows illegitimates and their descendants to inherit from their mother, in default of legitimate issue, but excludes the right to inherit any part of estate of mother's kindred, lineal or collateral—connection is broken in ascending line at the mother: University v. Markham, 174-338; Bettis v. Avery, 140-184; Flintham v. Holder, 16-347.

When land devised to daughter with limitation over on her dying "without leaving a lawful heir," and she dies leaving an illegitimate child, such child is, under this rule, a lawful heir: Harrell v. Hagan, 147-111. See Fairly v. Priest, 56-383.

See, further, as to rights of illegitimates, under rule 10 of this section.
Rule 10, Heirs of illegitimate. Illegitimate children shall be considered legitimate as between themselves and their representatives, and their estates shall descend accordingly in the same manner as if they had been born in wedlock. And in case of the death of any such child or his issue, without leaving issue, his estate shall descend to such person as would inherit if all such children had been born in wedlock: Provided, that when any illegitimate child dies without issue, his inheritance shall vest in the mother in the same manner as is provided in rule six of this chapter.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 11.

Illegitimate children of same mother may inherit from each other: Powers v. Kite, 83-156; McBride v. Patterson, 78-412 (discussing history of statute and earlier cases); Flintham v. Holder, 16-345. See University v. Markham, 174-338—without regard to the status or color of father: Ashe v. Mfg. Co., 154-241.

Legitimate brothers and sisters share in the inheritance of deceased illegitimate brother, all having same mother: McBride v. Patterson, 78-412.

This rule applies to illegitimate children, and is intended to affect only inheritances as between them and their representatives; it is not applicable to the case of a legitimate child of illegitimate father who claims as heir to the illegitimate child of such father's illegitimate sister: Bettis v. Avery, 140-184.

In determining mother's right to inherit, under proviso to this rule, rules 6 and 10 are construed together, and mother must survive illegitimate child to be within proviso: University v. Markham, 174-338.

Persons born in slavery of slave parents, who were not legitimated by marriage of parents subsequent to war, have rights of illegitimates as between themselves; hence where there are two brothers coming under this description, and one dies leaving no issue or brother or sister, other brother inherits: Tucker v. Tucker, 108-235.

Rule 11, Estate for life of another, not devised, deemed inheritance. Every estate for the life of another, not devised, shall be deemed an inheritance of the deceased owner, within the meaning and operation of this chapter.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 12.

Rule 12, Seizin defined. Every person, in whom a seizin is required by any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be deemed to have been seized, if he may have had any right, title or interest in the inheritance.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 13.

All that is required by rule for creation of new stock of inheritance is that person from whom descent claimed should have had, at time of descent cast, some right, title or interest in inheritance, whether same vested in possession or not: Early v. Early, 154-387—for, under rule, neither actual nor legal seizin necessary to make stock in the devolution of estates, Sears v. McBride, 70-182. See, also, under rule 1 of this section.

Rule 13, Issue of certain colored persons to inherit. The children of colored parents born at any time before the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, of persons living together as man and wife, are declared legitimate children of such parents or either one of them, with all the rights of heirs at law and next of kin, with respect to the estate or estates of any such parents, or either one of them. If such children be dead, their issue shall represent them with all the rights of heirs at law and next of kin provided by this section for their deceased parents or either of them if they had been living; and the provision of this section shall apply to the estates of such children as are now deceased or otherwise.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; 1897, c. 153; 1879, c. 73.

For distribution of personal property, see Administration, s. 137.

Rule is valid as to descents after its passage: Woodward v. Blue, 103-109—and renders legitimate the children of all colored parents living together as man and wife born before January 1, 1868, Ibid. Children of woman of mixed blood, whose mother was white woman, who lived with slave as wife at time of their birth, are rendered legitimate: Ibid. Operation of rule does not extend beyond those persons occupying relation of parent and child: Tucker v. Bellamy, 98-31. Where former slave died in 1880, seized of lands, without issue, but leaving surviving her children of brother, who died in 1860, a slave, such children incapable of taking lands by descent: Ibid. Persons born in slavery, of slave parents, who were not legitimized by parents marrying subsequent to war, not legitimized by rule, except to extent of inheriting from parents: Tucker v. Tucker, 108-235. Rule intended to apply to colored persons cohabiting as man and wife, who occupied such relations to each other exclusively: Branch v. Walker, 102-34—and not where slave cohabited with several women, also slaves, at same time, Ibid. Rule operates only prospectively, and could not divest any estate theretofore acquired: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-178; Tucker v. Bellamy, 98-33.

Rule legitimates child of colored parents born before January 1, 1868, and merely extends child’s right of inheritance to estate of father, which, before this enactment, was restricted to estate of mother: Bettis v. Avery, 140-184—but does not transmit any title to such person claiming land as heir of illegitimate first cousin, Ibid. Children of slave parents, born prior to January 1, 1868, whose marriage was duly legitimized as provided by section 2497, are legitimate, and can inherit lands of which father died seized: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-178—and are also entitled to inherit lands of which mother died seized, to exclusion of children born during cohabitation of mother with another slave, which relation ceased prior to emancipation, Ibid. Fact of cohabitation raises presumption that child is issue of persons cohabiting as man and wife: Erwin v. Bailey, 123-635; Woodward v. Blue, 107-407, 103-109—but such presumption may be rebutted, and evidence to repel inference of paternity not subject to stringent rules which apply in cases of established legal marriage, Woodward v. Blue, 107-407, 103-109.
CHAPTER 30

DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

1655. Jurisdiction. The superior court shall have jurisdiction of complaints for divorce and alimony, or either.

Rev., s. 1557; Code, s. 1282; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 45.

"Alimony" defined: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418. Superior court in term time alone has jurisdiction of divorce: Barringer v. Barringer, 69-179—and of suits to annul marriage, see under section 1658.

FOREIGN DIVORCES. Where in prosecution for bigamy against resident of this state, divorce obtained in another state is set up as defense, failure of defendant (plaintiff in divorce action) to obtain bona fide residence in state granting decree may be shown without violating full faith and credit clause of federal constitution: State v. Herron, 175-754. Status here of divorces obtained in other states examined in light of decisions in this state and of cases in United States supreme court: 1bid.

1656. Bond for costs unnecessary. It shall not be necessary for either party to a proceeding for divorce or alimony to give any undertaking to the other party to secure such costs as such other party may recover.

Rev., s. 1558; Code, s. 1294; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 41.
Section referred to: Broom v. Broom, 130-562.

1657. Venue. In all proceedings for divorce, the summons shall be returnable to the court of the county in which either the plaintiff or defendant resides.

Rev., s. 1559; Code, s. 1289; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 40; 1915, c. 229, s. 1.

1658. What marriages may be declared void on application of either party.
The superior court in term time, on application made as by law provided, by either party to a marriage contracted contrary to the prohibitions contained in the chapter entitled Marriage, or declared void by said chapter, may declare such marriage void from the beginning, subject, nevertheless, to the proviso contained in said chapter.

Rev., s. 1560; Code, s. 1283; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 33.

As to capacity to enter into marriage contract, see section 2495.

Court has jurisdiction, in proper cases, to declare marriages void ab initio, yet they are not so ipso facto, but must be declared void by a decree of court, for only in the cases embraced in second proviso to section 2495 can they be treated as void in collateral proceedings:
Only marriages absolutely void are those forbidden because of difference of race and bigamous marriages: Watters v. Watters, 168-411. Judgment declaring marriage void ab initio will not bastardize issue: Taylor v. White, 160-38; Setzer v. Setzer, 97-252. But nullity has been decree after death of parties for want of mutual capacity, though issue not bastardized: Sims v. Sims, 121-297, citing Gathings v. Williams, 27-487. Question whether marriage void ab initio must be tried between parties and cannot be raised collaterally in suit to share in property after party’s death: Setzer v. Setzer, 97-252.

To annul, because of negro blood, marriage of person who claims to be white, ancestor within third generation must have been of pure negro blood: Ferrall v. Ferrall, 153-174.

Marriage with declared lunatic is void ab initio: Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91; Gathings v. Williams, 27-487—and for lack of mental capacity at time of marriage, though party not adjudged lunatic, court may declare nullity, Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Johnson v. Kineade, 37-470. When fact of lunacy established, court must declare nullity, and has no discretion in matter: Crump v. Morgan, 38-91. Marriage void for lunacy cannot be cured by cohabitation after restoration: Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91—being a nullity, can only be remedied by proceedings to set aside inquisition of lunacy or by new marriage, Sims v. Sims, 121-297. Court will declare nullity on ground of insanity only at instance of party entitled to the relief by reason of the fraud of the other party: Watters v. Watters, 168-411. Where suit for nullity is brought in behalf of the lunatic it must be in the name of the lunatic by her guardian or in name of guardian: Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91.

Marriage entered into by person under legal age for marriage is not void ipso facto, but may be declared void ab initio by court in direct proceeding for that purpose; may be validated by cohabitation after reaching legal age: State v. Parker, 106-711; Koonce v. Wallace, 52-194. See Watters v. Watters, 168-411; Sims v. Sims, 121-297.

Marriage between persons nearer of kin than first cousins, if followed by cohabitation and birth of issue, will be declared void only while parties alive: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293.

Actions for nullity under this section not dismissed for want of affidavit required by section 1661: Taylor v. White, 160-38. Nor are they technically actions for divorces, though they come under that heading to extent that alimony pendente lite may be allowed: Ibid. See further, Lea v. Lea, 104-603; Johnson v. Johnson, 141-91, Clark, J., concurring.

As to constitutionality of acts as above, see Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293.

1659. Grounds for absolute divorce. Marriages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony, on application of the party injured, made as by law provided, in the following cases:

Divorce can only be granted upon application of person injured: House v. House, 131-142; Tew v. Tew, 80-316—husband not injured where he is cause of wife’s misconduct, Ibid. Defendant may ask for divorce in the nature of cross-action, but not required to do so, and may bring another action: Cook v. Cook, 159-47.

1. If the husband or wife commits adultery.

Issue of adultery must be established; and the finding in another issue that, if committed, it was condoned, is insufficient without the first finding: McKenzie v. McKenzie, 153-242.

Where wife commits adultery and husband afterwards lives with her after learning it, and keeps up connubial relations, divorce will not be granted him: Sparks v. Sparks, 94-527; see Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-123; Gordon v. Gordon, 88-45.

To establish defense of recrimination, plaintiff must have committed acts which would constitute ground for divorce in action by defendant against plaintiff: House v. House, 131-140. Consequently, so long as statute required fornication and adultery of husband to entitle wife to divorce, it was no ground for recrimination that husband had twice committed adultery: Ibid. Husband who has wrongfully abandoned wife held entitled to divorce for her adultery committed after his abandonment: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162, overruling Tew v. Tew, 80-316. See, also, Moss v. Moss, 24-55; Wood v. Wood, 27-674; Foy v. Foy, 35-90. Where husband sues wife for divorce a vinculo on ground of abandonment under acts of 1895 and 1899 (since repealed) adultery by him after abandonment is not defense: Setzer v. Setzer, 128-170, and cases cited. Action for divorce dismissed where both parties guilty of adultery and no condonation proved: Horne v. Horne, 72-530.
Petition for divorce because of defendant’s adultery need not allege that petitioner has not been guilty of adultery: Steele v. Steele, 104-631; Edwards v. Edwards, 61-534. As to evidence of physical condition of person with whom adultery alleged to have been committed, see Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41. Respondent not compelled to answer if he had had intercourse with wife: Smith v. Smith, 116-386. Husband and wife both incompetent to prove adultery in action for divorce on that ground: Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; see, also, section 1801—also their admissions are incompetent, Steele v. Steele, 104-631; Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41. In addressing the jury it is incompetent for counsel to exhibit baby of defendant to jury and state that if divorce granted it would disgrace and bastardize it: Hopkins v. Hopkins, 132-25. Mere neighborhood rumor of improper relations between defendant and paramour are incompetent: Ibid. That alleged adulterous wife offered to pay cost of criminal prosecution of paramour is competent: Toole v. Toole, 112-152. Cases merely referring to section: Prendergrast v. Prendergrast, 146-225; Morris v. Morris, 75-169.

UNDER FORMER STATUTE REQUIRING FORNICATION AND ADULTERY BY HUSBAND. “Fornication and adultery” held to have same meaning in divorce statute as in criminal statute: Prendergrast v. Prendergrast, 146-225, and see section 4343. The sexes were put upon equality, so that only adultery required, by 1917, c. 25.

2. If either party at the time of the marriage was and still is naturally impotent.

3. If the wife at the time of the marriage is pregnant, and the husband is ignorant of the fact of such pregnancy and is not the father of the child with which the wife was pregnant at the time of the marriage.

Unknown illicit intercourse, even though incestuous, prior to marriage no ground for divorce unless pregnancy resulted: Steele v. Steele, 104-631.

That wife falsely represented to husband that she was pregnant before marriage from intercourse with him, and thereby induced him to marry her, is no ground for divorce: Bryant v. Bryant, 171-746.

4. If there has been a separation of husband and wife, and they have lived separate and apart for ten successive years, and the plaintiff in the suit for divorce has resided in this state for that period.

Rev., s. 1561; Code, s. 1285; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 35; 1879, c. 152; 1887, c. 100; 1889, c. 442; 1899, c. 29; 1903, c. 400; 1905, c. 499; 1907, c. 89; 1911, c. 117; 1913, c. 165; 1917, cc. 25, 57.

Former decree of divorce a mensa is no bar to action for absolute divorce hereunder, nor is it required that application be made only by injured party: Cook v. Cook, 164-272, 159-47.

1660. Grounds for divorce from bed and board. The superior court may grant divorces from bed and board on application of the party injured, made as by law provided, in the following cases:

As to rights of husband in wife’s land, where she has obtained divorce a mensa, see Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134. See, also, under sections 2519 and 2524.

If wife guilty of conduct to provoke misconduct of husband, she is not entitled to relief: Page v. Page, 161-170; s. c., 167-346. See, also, notes to section 1659, subdivision 1. Condona-tion is forgiveness upon condition that party forgiven abstain from like offense afterward. If condition violated, original offense is revived: Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-129; Gordon v. Gordon, 88-45. See, also, notes to section 1659. Pendency of action by husband for divorce a vinculo is not necessarily valid defense to action by wife for divorce a mensa: Cook v. Cook, 159-47. Complaint must allege statutory grounds and that plaintiff did not contribute to wrong complained of: Garsed v. Garsed, 170-672; Dowdy v. Dowdy, 154-556; Page v. Page, 161-170.

1. If either party abandons his or her family.

Where husband made wife leave him, or so failed to provide for her that she was compelled to leave, it amounts to abandonment of her: High v. Bailey, 107-70; Setzer v. Setzer, 128-170. To constitute abandonment, it is not necessary to leave state: Witty v. Barham, 147-479. Separation by consent is not abandonment, but subsequent acts may constitute it: Ibid. Application by wife under this subsection will not be sustained after adverse ruling as to alimony under section 1667; Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529.

As to sufficiency of complaint under subsection, see Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433. When complaint filed for divorce a mensa hereunder, but, pending action, new statute passed giving divorce a vinculo for same offense, and plaintiff is allowed to amend complaint so as to get divorce a vinculo, failure to file affidavit with amended complaint renders it inoperative: Holloman v. Holloman, 127-15.

2. Maliciously turns the other out of doors.

Where no evidence of turning feme plaintiff out of doors at any time more than six months before action, issue as to such fact properly excluded: Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139. Application for divorce by wife hereunder not sustained after adverse ruling as to alimony under section 1667; Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529. As to sufficiency of complaint under subsection, see Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; Little v. Little, 63-22.

3. By cruel or barbarous treatment endangers the life of the other.

Divorce will not be granted for cruel and barbarous treatment where it appears that acts complained of were committed more than ten years prior to commencement of action, and in meantime parties had continued to live together: O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139. That husband communicated infectious disease to wife is not ground for divorce under subsection: Long v. Long, 9-192—but where drunken husband cursed wife and drove her from house, and by demonstrations of violence caused her to leave bedside of dying child and seek safety at distance of several miles, she is entitled to divorce, Seoggins v. Seoggins, 85-347. As to contents of complaint under subsection, see Martin v. Martin, 130-27; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139; Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113.

4. Offers such indignities to the person of the other as to render his or her condition intolerable and life burdensome.

What indignities are grounds for divorce have not been particularized by legislature, but matter is left under general words, leaving it to the courts to deal with each case upon its own peculiar circumstances, having regard to station in life, temperament, health, habits and feelings of different persons: Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229; Taylor v. Taylor, 76-436; Coble v. Coble, 55-305. What constitutes indignity held question of law, not of fact: Harrison v. Harrison, 29-490. To entitle wife to divorce under subsection, indignity offered by husband must be such as may be expected seriously to annoy woman of ordinary good sense and temper, and must be repeated or continued in, so that it may appear to have been done willfully and intentionally, or at least consciously by husband to annoyance of wife: Miller v. Miller, 78-102, overruling Everton v. Everton, 50-202. Not necessary that indignities complained of should be striking or even touching body, but foul and injurious accusations, often repeated, with withdrawal of all intercourse, refusing to bed with wife, and denial that she is wife, with threats against her life, are sufficient to entitle her to divorce: Green v. Green, 131-533; Coble v. Coble, 55-392—but husband communicating infectious disease to wife is not ground for divorce under subsection, Long v. Long, 9-192. Where drunken husband cursed wife and drove her from the house, and by demonstrations of violence caused her to leave bedside of dying child and seek safety at distance of several miles, she is entitled to divorce, Seoggins v. Seoggins, 85-347—also, where defendant had repeatedly threatened to beat wife, and boasted of having done so, etc., she is entitled to divorce, Taylor v. Taylor, 76-433.

For defense of condonation, see first note to this section.

Subsection merely referred to: McQueen v. McQueen, 82-471; Erwin v. Erwin, 57-83.

5. Becomes an habitual drunkard.

Rey., s. 1562; Code, s. 1286; 1871-2, c. 198, s. 36.

1661. Affidavit to be filed with complaint; affidavit of intention to file complaint. The plaintiff in a complaint seeking either divorce or alimony, or both, shall file with his or her complaint an affidavit that the facts set forth in the complaint are true to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief, and that the said complaint is not made out of levity or by collusion between husband and wife; and if for divorce, not for the mere purpose of being freed and separated from each other, but in sincerity and truth for the causes mentioned in the complaint. The plaintiff shall also set forth in such affidavit, either that the facts set forth in the complaint, as grounds for divorce, have existed to his or her knowledge at least six months prior to the filing of the complaint, and that complainant has been a resident of the state for two years next preceding the filing of the complaint, and that complainant has been a resident of the state for two years next preceding the filing of the complaint; or, if the wife be the plaintiff, that the husband is removing, or about to remove, his property and effects from the state, whereby she may be disappointed in her alimony. If any wife files in the office of the superior court clerk of the county where she resides an affidavit, setting forth the fact that she intends to file a petition or bring an action for divorce against her husband, and that she has not had knowledge of the facts upon which the petition or action will be based for six months, she may reside separate and apart from her husband, and may secure for her own use the wages of her own labor during the time she remains separate and apart from him. If she fails to file her petition or bring her action for divorce within ninety days after the six months have expired since her knowledge of the facts upon which she intends to file her said petition or bring her said action, then she shall not be entitled any longer to the benefit of this section.

When defendant asks for divorce, answer must have the affidavit: Cook v. Cook, 159-47; s. c., 164-272.

Usual verification of complaint in civil actions is insufficient affidavit as required by this section: Hopkins v. Hopkins, 132-22; Martin v. Martin, 130-28. Whenever alleged that husband is removing or about to remove property from state, section allows wife to file complaint without regard to time when facts alleged as cause of divorce may have occurred: Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-319; Gaylord v. Gaylord, 57-74.

Residence required by section must be actual residence: Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-221, 55-567; see, however, Moore v. Moore, 130-335; Harris v. Harris, 115-587; Smith v. Morehead, 59-360—and it is not divested by wife temporarily leaving state without intention of residing elsewhere, Moore v. Moore, 130-333. Where wife sues who is resident of another state, legal maxim that ‘her domicile is that of her husband’ will not avail instead of actual residence:

Where wife alleging sufficient facts for divorce a mensa and to obtain alimony makes necessary affidavit in reference to husband’s removal of property from state, not necessary to file another complaint six months after facts alleged to have occurred, Scoggins v. Scoggins, 85-347.

Objection that affidavit is defective may be first taken in supreme court: Nichols v. Nichols, 128-108.

THE AFFIDAVIT ITSELF. Must state that action was not brought within six months from time plaintiff first acquired knowledge of facts therein: Clark v. Clark, 133-28; Dickinson v. Dickinson, 7-327—except in cases where husband about to dispose of property or remove same from state, when wife need not so aver, Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-320; Gaylord v.
Gaylord, 57-74; Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229.

Statement, as basis for divorce, as to knowledge of the facts for six months prior to the action, must be in affidavit, but need not be in complaint: Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-320; Gaylord v.
Gaylord, 57-74; Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229.

Objection that affidavit is defective may be first taken in supreme court: Nichols v. Nichols, 128-108.

In action for divorce, verdict by eleven jurors consented to by both parties is valid if for defendant, but invalid for plaintiff: Hall v. Hall, 131-185.

Provision of section that allegations of complaint are deemed to be denied applies only to trial upon merits, since facts must be found by jury: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432.

Facts are to be proved only by preponderance of evidence: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162.

In trial for divorce on ground of alleged adultery, neither husband nor wife is competent witness to prove same: Toole v. Toole, 112-155; Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; Hooper v. Hooper, 165-605; see section 1801—nor shall admissions of either party to each other, or in pleadings, be received in evidence to prove fact, Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; Steele v. Steele, 104-631; Hooper v.
Hooper, 165-605. Declarations of alleged paramour made to or in presence of feme defendant indicating that improper familiarities had been or were about to be indulged in between them, and her reply to such declarations, are competent evidence, Toole v. Toole, 112-155—and wife, sued for divorce on ground of adultery, competent to deny evidence of witnesses that she was guilty of adultery with them, Broom v. Broom, 130-562. Competency of husband and wife to give evidence for and against each other, except as to adultery:
Taylor v. Taylor, 76-433.

An issue as to a specific act of adultery is proper if raised by the pleadings: Kinney v.
Kinney, 149-321. Evidence as to act of adultery between defendant and corespondent at time different from that alleged held competent: Ibid.

Abandonment as defense must be pleaded; plaintiff need not allege and plead that he has

For procedure where defendant becomes insane pending action, see Stratford v. Stratford, 92-297.

1663. Effects of absolute divorce. After a judgment of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, all rights arising out of the marriage shall cease and determine, and either party may marry again unless otherwise provided by law: Provided, that no judgment of divorce shall render illegitimate any children in esse, or begotten of the body of the wife during coverture; and, Provided further, that a decree of absolute divorce upon the ground of separation for ten successive years as provided in section 1659 shall not impair or destroy the right of the wife to receive alimony under any judgment or decree of the court rendered before the commencement of the proceeding for absolute divorce.

Rev., s. 1569; Code, s. 1295; 1871-2, c. 198, s. 43; 1919, c. 204.

Upon granting absolute divorce, except as provided herein, all rights arising out of marriage cease and determine: Duffy v. Duffy, 120-346—hence court has no power to allow permanent alimony in such cases, Ibid.

Where wife, domiciled in another state, obtained decree for divorce a vinculo therein, husband appearing by attorney, he is bound by judgment rendered, and his property rights in her estate here terminated from date thereof: Arrington v. Arrington, 102-491.

For effect of absolute divorce on right to administer, see sections 10, 11, 12—on property rights, see section 2522.

1664. Custody of children in divorce. After the filing of a complaint in any action for divorce, whether from the bonds of matrimony or from bed and board, both before and after final judgment therein, it is lawful for the judge of the court in which such application is or was pending to make such orders respecting the care, custody, tuition and maintenance of the minor children of the marriage as may be proper, and from time to time to modify or vacate such orders, and may commit their custody and tuition to the father or mother, as may be thought best; or the court may commit the custody and tuition of such infant children, in the first place, to one parent for a limited time, and after the expiration of that time, then to the other parent; and so alternately: Provided, that no order respecting the children shall be made on the application of either party without five days notice to the other party, unless it shall appear that the party having the possession or control of such children has removed or is about to remove the children, or himself, beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

For effect of abandonment on custody of children, see section 189. For right of appeal in habeas corpus as to custody of children, see section 2242.

In divorce proceedings, under this section, the question of the custody of minor children is to be determined by the court in its discretion: Setzer v. Setzer, 129-296; Page v. Page, 167-346, 166-90, 161-170, 167-350—and court may modify its order as to custody from time to time as exigencies may require, Setzer v. Setzer, 129-296; Page v. Page, 161-170. Where custody of child left open in divorce decree, court may subsequently at suit of father order its production and award custody, and may award damages against mother for concealing child or sending it out of state: Howell v. Howell, 162-282. May charge father with support, though custody awarded to mother, making support charge on his land: Sanders v. Sanders, 167-317, 157-229. Care to be exercised in awarding custody to nonresident parent: Harris v. Harris, 115-387. See, further, as to custody, under section 2241.

1665. Alimony on divorce from bed and board. When any court adjudges any two married persons divorced from bed and board, it may also decree to the party upon whose application such judgment was rendered such alimony as the circumstances of the several parties may render necessary; which, however, shall not in any case exceed the one-third part of the net annual income from the estate, occupation or labor of the party against whom the judgment shall be rendered.

For alimony pendente lite, see section 1666.

Alimony is that part of husband's estate which is allotted to wife for her support during period of judicial separation: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418. One-third of husband's estate may be assigned to wife when she obtains divorce a mensa: Davis v. Davis, 68-180—and whether wife entitled to it is question of law upon facts found, Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Morris v. Morris, 89-109; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-215.

Where alimony allotted to wife in specific property of husband, title to such property remains in him, and will revert at death of wife: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418; Rogers v. Vines, 28-293—or upon reconciliation, Ibid.—and may be reduced or enlarged at any time in discretion of court, Ibid.—but where decree in divorce a mensa, obtained by wife, directed that husband pay sum in gross and be discharged from all further support of wife, she is nevertheless entitled to dower in his lands after his death, Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418.

Judgment for alimony provable against estate of bankrupt, hence discharge of bankrupt constitutes discharge of judgment: Arrington v. Arrington, 131-143; but see Bankruptcy Act, s. 17, changing this.

Where trial judge finds that party in contempt for failure to pay alimony could pay part of amount ordered, error to imprison him until he should pay whole amount: Green v. Green, 130-578.

For contempt proceedings where defendant fails to comply with order of court awarding alimony, see Green v. Green, 143-406; see, also, section 978 et seq.

As bearing incidentally upon section, see Cooper v. Cooper, 127-490; Hodges v. Hodges, 82-124.

1666. Alimony pendente lite; notice to husband. If any married woman applies to a court for a divorce from the bonds of matrimony, or from bed and board, with her husband, and sets forth in her complaint such facts, which upon application for alimony shall be found by the judge to be true and to entitle her to the relief demanded in the complaint, and it appears to the judge of such court, either in or out of term, by the affidavit of the complainant, or other proof, that she has not sufficient means whereon to subsist during the prosecution of the suit, and to defray the necessary and proper expenses thereof, the judge may order the husband to pay her such alimony during the pendency of the suit as appears to him just and proper, having regard to the circumstances of the parties; and such order may be modified or vacated at any time, on the application of either party or of any one interested: Provided, that no order allowing alimony pendente lite shall be made unless the husband shall have had five days notice thereof, and in all cases of application for alimony pendente lite under this or the succeeding section, whether in or out of term, it shall be admissible for the husband to be heard by affidavit in reply or answer to the allegations of the complaint: Provided further, that if the husband has abandoned his wife and left the state, or is in parts unknown, or is about to remove or dispose of his property for the purpose of defeating the claim of his wife, no notice is necessary.

Rev., s. 1566; Code, s. 1291; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 38; 1883, c. 67.

Purpose of section is to afford wife present pecuniary relief pending progress of action: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Morris v. Morris, 89-111.

CASES IN WHICH COURT MAY AWARD UNDER STATUTE AND AT COMMON LAW. Section is cumulative and declaratory of common law as administered in English ecclesiasti-Alimony pendente lite granted to feme defendant setting up cross-demand for divorce: Webber v. Webber, 79-572; Barker v. Barker, 136-316. "Expense money" allowed feme defendant as incident of husband's suit against her for absolute divorce, although in the action alimony pendente lite properly denied to her on her cross-demand for divorce a mensa, where she had previously had judgment against her in independent suit for alimony: Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529. Temporary alimony grantable in suit for annulment: Lea v. Lea, 104-603, and see under section 1658.

PLAINTIFF'S RIGHT TO ALIMONY—COMPLAINT, ETC. Complaint must allege ground for divorce to entitle plaintiff to alimony pendente lite: Garsed v. Garsed, 170-672. But ground alleged may be for divorce a vinculo or a mensa: Little v. Little, 63-22; Hodges v. Hodges, 82-122. Failure of plaintiff to obtain relief prayed for does not necessarily affect order for alimony pendente lite: Wood v. Wood, 61-538. Mutual releases of interests in each other's property by husband and wife do not bar wife in subsequent suit for divorce from claiming alimony pendente lite: Bailey v. Bailey, 127-474.

INSUFFICIENCY OF WIFE'S MEANS. Wife entitled to alimony when income from her separate estate not sufficient for her support and to defray necessary expenses in prosecute suit: Miller v. Miller, 75-70—for she need not resort to corpus or capital of her separate estate before calling on that of husband, Ibid.—and where defendant denies having any property, but admits he is an able-bodied man, court may decree alimony pendente lite without inquiring into value of his property, Muse v. Muse, 84-35. Where in petition for divorce from bed and board cruelty was alleged, and also an estimate of value of defendant's estate, held to be sufficient evidence to decree alimony and fix amount: Pain v. Pain, 80-322.

MOTION FOR ALIMONY. Application for alimony pendente lite may be made by motion in the cause: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Reeves v. Reeves, 82-348—motion may be made after complaint filed before return term, Moore v. Moore, 130-333—motion may be heard in or out of term, Moore v. Moore, 130-337

NOTICE OF MOTION. Five days notice of motion must be given adverse party when heard out of term: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Jones v. Jones, 173-270—but notice of motion not necessary where alleged and court finds as fact that husband has abandoned wife and is out of state, Barker v. Barker, 136-316. Fact that notice of motion for alimony pendente lite duly served upon defendant did not specify time of hearing, will not invalidate the order allowing same, it having been heard at term at which cause stood regularly for trial: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432—for application for alimony pendente lite can be made by motion in cause, Ibid.; Reeves v. Reeves, 82-348—and defendant fixed with notice thereof, Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432—for it is only where motion made out of term that notice necessary, Ibid. Order of court continuing motion for alimony to future term of court, made in presence of counsel for both parties, is sufficient notice of such motion: Lea v. Lea, 104-603.

Where defendant asks alimony, sufficient that court finds facts as alleged in answer and supporting affidavits: Barker v. Barker, 136-316. If facts found by judge would if found by jury warrant divorce, they constitute per se sufficient ground for order for alimony: Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-129. Finding that feme plaintiff has made out "prima facie case" held insufficient: Easeley v. Easeley, 173-530. But compare Sparks v. Sparks, 69-319.
WHAT CONSIDERED IN FINDING FACTS. In finding the facts, judge may consider counter affidavits or answer of defendant: Easeley v. Easeley, 173-530; Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Lea v. Lea, 104-603; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; Morris v. Morris, 89-109. But before amendment of 1883, judge confined to complaint and facts therein stated: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-321; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-215. Facts occurring within six months may be considered when it appears by affidavit or supplementary affidavit that husband about to remove his property from the state, etc.: Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229; Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-321.

Motion to reduce alimony pendente lite may be made anywhere in district in which action is pending: Moore v. Moore, 131-371, 130-333. Resident judge holding court in another district cannot hear motion to reduce alimony pendente lite in suit pending in district in which he resides: Moore v. Moore, 131-371. Where motion to reduce alimony pendente lite disallowed, another motion for same purpose should not be heard unless different state of facts shown and receipt exhibited for reasonable proportion of allowance made at former hearing: Ibid.

OBSOLETE HOLDINGS AND STATUTES. Alimony pendente lite once held to exist only under this statute: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Earp v. Earp, 54-118; Wilson v. Wilson, 19-377; Everton v. Everton, 50-206. But see supra this note and Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529. For cases under original section before amendment of same, see Simmons v. Simmons, 62-63; Shearin v. Shearin, 58-233; Gaylord v. Gaylord, 57-74; Earp v. Earp, 54-118; Taylor v. Taylor, 46-528.

1667. Alimony without divorce. If any husband shall separate himself from his wife and fail to provide her and the children of the marriage with the necessary subsistence according to his means and condition in life, or if he shall be a drunkard or spendthrift, or be guilty of any misconduct or acts that would be or constitute cause for divorce, either absolute or from bed and board, the wife may institute an action in the superior court of the county in which the cause of action arose to have a reasonable subsistence allotted and paid or secured to her from the estate or earnings of her husband. Pending the trial and final determination of the issues involved in such action, and also after they are determined, if finally determined, in favor of the wife, such wife may make application to the resident judge of the superior court, or the judge holding the superior courts of the district in which the action is brought, for an allowance for such subsistence, and it shall be lawful for such judge to cause the husband to secure so much of his estate or to pay so much of his earnings, or both, according to his condition and circumstances, for the benefit of his said wife and the children of the marriage, having regard also to the separate estate of the wife. Such application may be heard in or out of term, orally or upon affidavit, or either or both. No order for such allowance shall be made unless the husband shall have had five days notice thereof; but if the husband shall have abandoned his wife and left the state, or shall be in parts unknown, or shall be about to remove or dispose of his property for the purpose of defeating the claim of his wife, no notice shall be necessary. The order of allowance herein provided for may be modified or vacated at any time, on the application of either party or of any one interested. In actions brought under this section, the wife shall not be required to file the affidavit provided in section 1661, but shall verify her complaint as prescribed in the case of ordinary civil actions.

Rev., s. 1567; Code, s. 1292; 1919, c. 24; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 39.

Wife who has been deserted by husband and left unprovided for may, under this section, sue him for support without asking for divorce: Cram v. Cram, 116-288.

Fact that summons in proceeding hereunder, of which judge has jurisdiction, was made returnable at term, does not affect jurisdiction of judge to hear and determine matter: Ibid.

Vague and indefinite charges of infidelity of wife made by husband in answer to complaint will not affect question of his liability under section: Ibid.

Where, in agreement for separation of husband and wife, former agreed to pay certain allowance to wife, and after paying several installments discontinued same, he cannot set up agreement in bar of her action for support: Ibid.—even though he discontinued payments because wife demanded that allowance be increased, Ibid.

In action under section the only questions are whether marriage relation existed at time of institution of proceedings: Bidwell v. Bidwell, 139-409; Skittletharpe v. Skittletharpe, 130-72; Hooper v. Hooper, 164-1—and whether husband separated himself from wife, Skittletharpe v. Skittletharpe, 130-72.

Judgment may direct monthly payments from husband's estate, which includes his income from property and his labor, considering his capacity to work: Crews v. Crews, 175-168, overruling on this point Skittletharpe v. Skittletharpe, 130-72.

Judgment in such cases is not final in sense that it is always enforceable, and such judgments subject to modification: Crews v. Crews, 175-168.

Issues of fact raised in this proceeding should be submitted to jury: Ibid.

In proceedings under section, it is province and duty of judge to determine what is reasonable subsistence for wife: Cram v. Cram, 116-288—either by hearing testimony himself or by reference to referee to ascertain facts as to income of husband, etc., Ibid.

Where application for alimony alone, it cannot be decreased before final hearing: Hodges v. Hodges, 82-122—for alimony pendente lite cannot be allowed under this section, Ibid.

Amount or specific property to be assigned is left to discretion of court, regard being had to husband's condition, and his means, wherever situated, in determining its value: Ibid.; Cram v. Cram, 116-295.

In action for support under section, judgment of nonsuit proper where court of state having jurisdiction of cause and parties had adjudged that status of parties was not husband and wife: Bidwell v. Bidwell, 139-402.

Section merely cited: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162; Clark v. Clark, 133-28; Reeves v. Reeves, 82-352; McKinnon v. McDonald, 57-2.

1668. Alimony in real estate, writ of possession issued. In all cases in which the court grants alimony by the assignment of real estate, the court has power to issue a writ of possession when necessary in the judgment of the court to do so.

Rev., s. 1568; Code, s. 1293; 1868-9, c. 123, s. 1.

Where alimony allotted to wife in specific property of husband, title to such property remains in him, and will revert at death of wife or upon reconciliation: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418.
CHAPTER 31

DOGS

Art. 1. Owner’s Liability.
1669. Liability for injury to livestock or fowls. If any dog, not being at the time on the premises of the owner or person having charge thereof, shall kill or injure any livestock or fowls, the owner or person having such dog in charge shall be liable for damages sustained by the injury, killing, or maiming of any livestock, and costs of suit.

1911, c. 3, s. 1.

When owner liable for injury caused by his dog: Harris v. Fisher, 115-318; Perry v. Phipps, State v. Smith, 156-628; Beasley v. Byrum, 163-3; Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175; State v.
Latham, 35-33; Dodson v. Mock, 20-282; Perry v. Phipps, 32-259. Dog is property, and an action may be brought for possession: Meekins v. Simpson, 176-130.

1670. Permitting bitch at large. If any person owning or having any bitch shall knowingly permit her to run at large during the erotic stage of copulation he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

747 1671. Sheep-killing dogs to be killed. If any person owning or having any dog that kills sheep or other domestic animal, upon satisfactory evidence of the same being made before any justice of the peace of the county, and the owner duly notified thereof, shall refuse to kill it, and shall permit such dog to go at liberty, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, and the dog may be killed by any one if found going at large.

Rev., s. 3304; Code, s. 2500; 1862-3, c. 41, s. 1; 1874-5, c. 108, s. 2.

Sheep-killing dog may be killed: Parrott v. Hartsfield, 20-242; see, also, Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175; Daniels v. Homer, 139-252, and sections 1682, 1693.

1672. Failing to kill mad dog. If the owner of any dog shall know, or have good reason to believe, that his dog, or any dog belonging to any person under his control, has been bitten by a mad dog, and shall neglect or refuse immediately to kill the same, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars to him who will sue therefor; and the offender shall be liable to pay all damages which may be sustained by any one, in his property or person, by the bite of any such dog, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 8305; Code, s. 2499; R. C., c. 67.

For statutes forbidding bird dogs at large at certain seasons, see Game Laws.

ART. 2. LICENSE TAXES ON DOGS

1673. Amount of tax. Any person owning or keeping about him any open female dog of the age of six months or older shall pay annually a license or privilege tax of two dollars. Any person owning or keeping any male dog, or female dog other than an open female dog of the age of six months or older, shall pay annually on each dog so owned or kept a license or privilege tax of one dollar.

1674. License tags; optional with county commissioners. To every person paying the license or privilege tax prescribed in the preceding section there shall be issued by the sheriff a metal tag bearing county name, a serial number, and expiration date, which shall be attached by owner to a collar to always be worn by any dog when not on premises of the owner or when engaged in hunting. The commissioner of agriculture shall at all times keep on hand a supply of tags to be furnished the sheriffs of the several counties: Provided, that the county commissioners of each county shall, by order duly made in regular session, make an order determining whether the collar and tag shall be applied to that county.

1675. Dogs to be listed; penalty for failure to list. It shall be the duty of every owner or keeper of a dog to list the same for taxes at the same time and place that other personal property is listed, and the various tax listers in the state shall have proper abstracts furnished them for listing dogs for taxation, and any person failing or refusing to list such dog or dogs shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. The owner of the home or lessee of such owner shall be responsible for listing of any dog belonging to any member of his family.
1919, c. 116, s. 3.

1676. When tax due; penalty for failure to pay. The license or privilege tax herein imposed shall be due and payable on the first day of October of each and every year, and all persons after December first thereafter who own or keep a dog or dogs upon which the license or privilege tax is not paid, whether said dog or dogs have been listed or not, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days.
1919, c. 116, s. 3.

1677. Receipt for tax a license. Upon the payment to the sheriff or tax collector of the license or privilege tax aforesaid, such sheriff or tax collector shall give the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs a receipt for the same, which shall constitute a license under the provisions of this article.
1919, c. 116, s. 3.

1678. Tax listers to make inquiry, compile reports; compensation. The tax listers for each township, town, and city in this state shall annually, at the time of listing property as required by law, make diligent inquiry as to the number of dogs owned, harbored, or kept by any person subject to taxation. The list-takers shall, on or before the first day of July in each year, make a complete report to the sheriff or tax collector on a blank form furnished them by the proper authority, setting forth the name of every owner of any dog or dogs, how many of each and the sex owned or kept by such person. The county commissioners may pay the tax listers for such services such amounts as may be just out of the money arising under this article.
1919, c. 116, ss. 4, 6.

1679. Purchasers to ascertain listing. Any person coming in possession of any dog or dogs after listing time shall immediately ascertain whether such dog or dogs have been listed for taxes or not, and if not so listed, it is hereby made the duty of such owner or keeper of such dog or dogs to go to the sheriff or tax collector of his county and list such dog or dogs for taxes, and it is made the duty of the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs to pay the privilege or license tax as is herein provided for in other cases.
1919, c. 116, s. 4.

1680. Permitting dogs to run at large at night; penalty; liability for damage.
No person shall allow his dog over six months old to run at large in the night time unaccompanied by the owner or by some member of the owner’s family, or some other person by the owner’s permission. Any person intentionally, knowingly, and willfully violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, and shall also be liable in damages to any person injured or suffering loss to his property or chattels.
1919, c. 116, s. 5.

A town ordinance against permitting dogs to run at large unmuzzled is valid: State v.
Clifton, 152-800.
1681. Proceeds of tax to school fund; proviso, payment of damages; reimbursement by owner. The money arising under the provisions of this article shall be applied to the school funds of the county in which said tax is collected: Provided, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, upon complaint made to them of injury to person or injury to or destruction of property by any dog, upon satisfactory proof of such injury or destruction, to appoint three freeholders to ascertain the amount of damages done, including necessary treatment, if any, and all reasonable expenses incurred, and upon the coming in of the report of such jury of the damage as aforesaid, the said county commissioners shall order the same paid out of any moneys arising from the tax on dogs as provided for in this article. And in cases where the owner of such dog or dogs is known or can be ascertained, he shall reimburse the county to the amount paid out for such injury or destruction. To enforce collection of this amount the county commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to sue for the same.

The disposition of the proceeds of dog tax is a matter of legislative discretion: Newell v. Green, 169-462.

1682. Mad dogs, dogs killing sheep, etc., may be killed. Any person may kill any mad dog, and also any dog if he is killing sheep, cattle, hogs, goats, or poultry.

time to time to submit the question of "special dog tax" or "no special dog tax" to the qualified voters of said county; and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast shall be in favor of said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect over the whole of said county, and the special dog tax hereinafter provided for shall be levied and collected in said county; but if a majority of the votes cast at such election shall be against said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall not apply to any part of said county.

1917, c. 206, s. 6.

The legislature may authorize municipal corporation to levy dog tax: Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175.

CHAPTER 32

ELECTRIC, TELEGRAPH, AND POWER COMPANIES

ART. 1. ACQUISITION AND CONDEMNATION OF PROPERTY.

1695. Use of public highways. Any duly incorporated company possessing the power to construct telegraph or telephone lines, lines for the conveying of electric power or for lights, either or all, has the right to construct, maintain and operate such lines along any railroad or other public highway, but such lines shall be so constructed and maintained as not to obstruct or hinder the usual travel on such railroad or other highway.

Rev., s. 1571; Code, s. 2007; 1899, c. 64, s. 1; 1903, c. 562; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 2.

1696. Electric and hydro-electric power companies may appropriate highways; conditions. Every electric power or hydro-electric power corporation which may exercise the right of eminent domain under the chapter Eminent Domain, where in the development of electric or hydro-electric power it shall become necessary to use or occupy any public highway, or any part of the same, after obtaining the consent of the board of county commissioners of the county in which such public highway is situate, shall have power to appropriate said public highway for the development of electric or hydro-electric power: Provided, that said electric power or hydro-electric power corporation shall construct an equally good public highway, by a route to be selected by and subject to the approval and satisfaction of the board of county commissioners of the county in which said public highway is situated: Provided further, that said company shall pay all damages to be assessed as provided by law, by the damming of water, the discontinuance of the road, and for the laying out of said new road.

1697. Acquisition of right of way by contract. Such telegraph, telephone, or electric power or lighting company has power to contract with any person or corporation, the owner of any lands or of any franchise or easement therein, over which its lines are proposed to be erected, for the right of way for planting, repairing and preservation of its poles or other property, and for the erection and occupation of offices at suitable distances for the public accommodation. This section shall not be construed as requiring electric power or lighting companies to erect offices for public accommodation.

Rev., s. 1572; Code, s. 2008; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562, ss. 1, 2; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 3.

A railroad company cannot grant easement over its right of way to telegraph company; this can be done only by owner of soil: Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; Narron v. R. R., 122-856. Adverse user for twenty years may give the easement: Teeter v. Tel. Co., 172-783. Section cited in Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

1698. Grant of eminent domain; exception as to mills and water-powers. Such telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting company shall be entitled, upon making just compensation therefor, to the right of way over the lands, privileges and easements of other persons and corporations, and to the right to erect poles, to establish offices, and to take such lands as may be necessary for the establishment of their reservoirs, ponds, dams, works, or power-houses, with the right to divert the water from such ponds or reservoirs and conduct the same by flume, ditch, conduit, waterway or pipe line, or in any other manner, to the point of use for the generation of power at its said power-houses, returning said water to its proper channel after being so used.

Nothing in this section authorizes interference with any mill or power-plant actually in process of construction or in operation; or the taking of water-powers, developed or undeveloped, with the land adjacent thereto necessary for their development. Any provisions in conflict with this chapter in any special charters granted before January thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seven, in respect to the exercise of the right of eminent domain are repealed.

Rev., s. 1573; Code, s. 2009; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 4; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562; 1907, c. 74.

These are public-service corporations and are required to begin business within two years, but only the state can take advantage of failure: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668; s. c., 171-248.

In conflicting rights to acquire land under eminent domain, priority is given to the company which first defines and locates its route: Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; s. c., 175-668. What will amount to abandonment: Ibid. Granting the power to one corporation and not to all is not a violation of the constitution: Ibid. Special power may be given to condemn water-powers: Ibid. But the general power is limited by this section: R. R. v. Light and Power Co., 169-471; R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; Power Co. v. Whitney, 150-31.

1699. Residences, etc., may be taken under certain cases. Residence property or vacant lots adjacent thereto in towns or cities, or other residences, gardens, orchards, graveyards or cemeteries, may be taken under the preceding section only when the company alleges, and upon the proceedings to condemn makes it appear to the satisfaction of the court, that it owns or otherwise controls not less than seventy-five per cent of the fall of the river or stream on which it proposes to erect its works, from the location of its proposed dam to the head of its pond or reservoir; or when the corporation commission, upon the petition filed by the company, shall, after due inquiry, so authorize. Nothing in this section repeals any part or feature of any private charter, but any firm or corporation acting under a private charter may operate under or adopt any feature of this section.

For condemnation of water-power, see annotations under section 1698.

1700. Condemnation on petition; parties' interests only taken; no survey required. When such telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting company fails on application therefor to secure by contract or agreement such right of way for the purposes aforesaid over the lands, privilege or easement of another person or corporation, it is lawful for such company, first giving security for costs, to file its petition before the superior court for the county in which said lands are situate, or into or through which such easement, privilege or franchise extends, setting forth and describing the parcels of land, privilege or easement over which the way, privilege or right of use is claimed, the owners of the land, easement or privilege, and their place of residence, if known, and if not known that fact shall be stated, and such petition shall set forth the use, easement, privilege or other right claimed, and must be sworn to, and if the use or right sought be over or upon an easement or right of way, it shall be sufficient to give jurisdiction if the person or corporation owning the easement or right of way be made a party defendant.

Only the interest of such parties as are brought before the court shall be condemned in any such proceedings, and if the right of way of a railroad or railway company sought to be condemned extends into or through more counties than one, the whole right and controversy may be heard and determined in one county into or through which such right of way extends.

It is not necessary for the petitioner to make any survey of or over the right of way, nor to file any map or survey thereof, nor to file any certificate of the location of its line by its board of directors.

Rev., s. 1574; Code, s. 2010; 1899, c. 64, s. 2; 1903, c. 562; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 5.

The act of congress of July 24, 1860, does not give authority to enter private property without consent of owner, but provides that where consent obtained, no state shall prevent use of such postroads for telegraph purposes by such corporations as avail themselves of its privileges: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513.

The right of eminent domain may be extended to include trees near the right of way which would interfere with the lines: Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

That telegraph and telephone lines are an additional servitude, see cases cited under section 1695. Where power company built a dam and backed water on railroad right of way to injury of land, the owner is entitled to compensation: Brown v. Power Co., 140-347.
Construction of street car track is not any additional servitude upon property fronting on street: Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Merrick v. Street Rwy., 118-1081—provided the track is so constructed as not to shut abutter out or off with embankments, Merrick v. Street Rwy., 118-1081.

The running of street cars over a railroad bridge imposes an additional servitude, for which street car company must render compensation: Railroad v. Street Rwy., 120-520.

Where proceedings to condemn portion of railroad right of way for telegraph poles, etc., landowner must be made party: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513. Landowner is not given the right hereunder to file petition for damage; he must sue in trespass: Ibid. Purchaser of land subsequent to the taking and erection thereon of a telegraph line may recover permanent damages, and in suit therefor telegraph company may acquire easement: Ibid.

1701. Copy of petition to be served. A copy of such petition, with a notice of the time and place the same will be presented to the superior court, must be served on the persons whose interests are to be affected by the proceeding at least ten days prior to the presentation of the same to the said court.

1702. Proceedings as under Eminent Domain. The proceedings for the condemnation of lands, or any easement or interest therein, for the use of telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting companies, the appraisal of the lands, or interest therein, the duty of the commissioners of appraisal, the right of either party to file exceptions, the report of commissioners, the mode and manner of appeal, the power and authority of the court or judge, the final judgment, and the manner of its entry and enforcement, and the rights of the company pending the appeal, shall be as prescribed in Article 2, entitled "Condemnation Proceedings," of the chapter Eminent Domain.

1703. Commissioners to inspect premises. In considering the question of damages when the interest sought is over an easement, privilege or right of way, the commissioners may inspect the premises or rest their finding on such testimony as to them may be satisfactory.

1704. Penalty for nondelivery of intrastate telegraph message. Any telegraph company doing business in this state that shall fail to transmit and deliver any intrastate message within a reasonable time shall forfeit and pay to any one who may sue for same a penalty of twenty-five dollars. Such penalty shall be in addition to any right of action that any person may have for the recovery of damages. Proof of the sending of any message from one point in this state to another point in this state shall be prima facie evidence that it is an intrastate message.

The action may be in tort or in contract: LeHue v. Tel. Co., 174-332; Penn v. Tel. Co., 159-306, and cases cited.

Since the act of congress, 1910, the federal rule applies in interstate messages, and restrictions of liability are recognized and mental anguish is not allowed: Johnson v. Tel. Co., 175-588; s. c., 177-31; Askew v. Tel. Co., 174-261; Norris v. Tel. Co., 174-92; Meadows v. Tel. Co., 173-240.

CHAPTER 33

EMINENT DOMAIN

Art. 1. Right of Eminent Domain.

1705. Corporation in this chapter defined. For the purposes of this chapter, unless the context clearly indicates the contrary, the word "corporation" includes the bodies politic and natural persons, enumerated in the following section, which possess the power of eminent domain.

1706. By whom right may be exercised. The right of eminent domain may, under the provisions of this chapter, be exercised for the purpose of constructing their roads, canals, lines of wires, or other works, which are authorized by law and which involve a public use or benefit, by the bodies politic, corporations, or persons following:

1. Railroad, street railroad, plankroad, tramroad, turnpike, canal, telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting, public water supply, flume, or incorporated bridge companies.

2. Municipalities operating water systems and sewer systems and all water companies operating under charter from the state or license from municipalities, which may maintain public water supplies, for the purpose of acquiring and maintaining such supplies.
3. Persons operating or desiring to operate electric light plants, for the purpose of constructing and erecting wires or other necessary things.

4. Public institutions of the state for the purpose of providing water supplies, or for other necessary purposes of such institutions.

5. School committees of public school districts, public school committees of townships, county boards of education, boards of trustees or of directors of any corporation holding title to real estate upon which any public school, private school, high school, academy, university or college is situated, in order to obtain a pure and adequate water supply for such school, college or university.

Rev., s. 2575; Code, s. 1608; R. C. c. 61, s. 9; 1852, c. 92, s. 1; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, cc. 39, 458, 783; 1911, c. 62, ss. 25, 26, 27; 1917, cc. 51, 32.

For power of municipalities to acquire property by eminent domain, see Municipal Corporations, ss. 2791, 2792.

For condemnation for water supply, see Public Health, ss. 7119, 7120.

For the right of eminent domain and the exercise of the right by electrical companies, see Electric, Telegraph and Power Companies.

For condemnation for street railroads operating by electricity, and owning one side of a stream, of land on the other side for a dam, see Railroads, s. 3535.

For power of municipal hospital to condemn land, see Public Hospitals, s. 7265.

For condemnation of land for roads, see Roads and Highways.

For condemnation for mill by owner of one bank of stream, see Mills, Art. 2.

Condemnation for mills, see sections 2535, 2536.

Condemnation for canals, see sections 5261-5264, 5269, 5301.

The provision of this section giving eminent domain to public institutions of the state supersedes older more limited provisions omitted.

Although there is no clause in state constitution which prohibits taking private property for public use without compensation, and although clause to that effect in constitution of United States applies only to acts by United States, yet principle is so grounded in natural equity that it has never been denied to be a part of the law of North Carolina: Johnston v. Rankin, 70-550; State v. Glen, 52-321; Cornelius v. Glen, 52-512; Railroad v. Davis, 19-451; Cozard v. Hardware Co., 139-283; Lloyd v. Venable, 168-531.

Right of state to take private property under power of eminent domain rests upon ground that there is a public necessity for such taking, and can only be exercised when law provides means of giving adequate compensation to owner: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490; Cozard v. Hardware Co., 139-283.

Title to a right of way can only be acquired by condemnation and compensation in manner provided by law or by formal deed of conveyance from owner; or by performance of some act or payment of some consideration by virtue of an executory agreement enforceable in equity; or by completing road over lands, and thereby exposing corporation to liability for compensation, when such right and liability are provided by statute: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Due process of law as applied to judicial proceedings, instituted for purpose of taking private property for public use, means such process as recognizes right of owner to just compensation for property taken, whether taken directly or indirectly: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; Dargan v. R. R., 113-596; Staton v. R. R., 111-278—and such compensation must be full, measured by its actual market value, Brown v. Power Co., 140-333.

Interest of landowner is preserved by payment into court of full assessed value of strip of land condemned, which is required before corporation can enter upon premises: Railroad v. Newton, 153-133.

LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY. Method of taking land for public use is within exclusive control of legislature limited by organic law, and courts cannot help injured landowner, where statute has been strictly followed, until question of compensation is reached: Durham v. Rigsbee, 141-128; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490.
The question, what is a public use, is always one of law. Deference will be paid to legislative judgment as expressed in enactments providing for appropriation of property, but it will not be conclusive: Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283.

Whenever a power is given by statute, everything necessary to make it effective or requisite to attain the end is inferred: Dewey v. R. R., 142-392.

In taking private property for use of public, as for public highway, legislature is not restricted to a mere easement in the property, but may take entire interest of individual if, in the opinion of legislature, public exigency requires it: R. R. v. Davis, 10-451. Legislature can authorize taking, levying assessment and payment of compensation to be made subsequently: Ibid.

Legislature may transfer land acquired for one public purpose to another public purpose, e.g., from waterworks to a park: Torrence v. Charlotte, 163-562.

TO WHOM GRANTED. While legislature has no power to authorize condemnation of private property for use of purely private corporations, nevertheless, where corporations, otherwise private, are clothed with powers and charged with duties which are in their nature public, they become quasi-public corporations, and may, with legislative permission, exercise right of eminent domain: Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; Land Co. v. Traction Co., 162-314; Bass v. Navigation Co., 111-439; R. R. v. C. C. R. R., 83-489; R. R. v. Davis, 10-451.

Corporation organized for the transaction of business except railroad business, and empowered by its charter to build and operate "tramways or other roads, not meaning railway," has no power to build or operate a railroad, and has no capacity to take and use an easement for that purpose: Beasley v. R. R., 145-272.

Powers conferred upon railroad company by its charter must be exercised "in a lawful way," that is, in respect to those who suffer damage, with due regard for their rights: Thomason v. R. R., 142-300.

Railroad company has no right to enter on land for purpose of constructing its road until it has acquired right to do so by agreement with owner or by paying into court amount awarded by commissioners in condemnation proceedings duly had: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423.

Right may be used to acquire land for public school: School Trustees v. Hinton, 165-12. See section 5416.

CORPORATIONS ENJOYING RIGHT, SUBJECT TO CONTROL. Where corporation has benefit of right of eminent domain, it is affected with a public use and must, to extent of public interest therein, submit to be controlled by public: Griffin v. Water Co., 122-206.

Though railroad companies fall within classification of private corporations, they are quasi-public and have no more authority to rid themselves of responsibility for performance of duties imposed upon them as inseparable from the privileges given them than they have to sell any property which is necessary for corporate purposes: Logan v. R. R., 116-940.

Where a railroad holds right of way under specific grant, it cannot extend this except by condemnation: Tighe v. R. R., 176-230. Party granting right of way to railroad upon consideration of benefits, with provision that if failure or neglect for five years to construct line, it should revert to grantor, right of defendant is restricted to time fixed: McDowell v. R. R., 144-721; Thomas v. R. R., 144-729—and where time limit has expired, defendant is confined to condemnation proceedings under statute, McDowell v. R. R., 144-721. Right of way granted in consideration of establishing a flag station, how enforced: Parrott v. R. R., 165-295. Contract in this case does not convey an easement, but, at most, only constitutes an executory contract to convey an easement whenever road should be located on and completed through lands, provided that result was produced within reasonable time: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Grant of easement does not preclude grantor from such use of his land himself or permitting same to others, which is not in conflict therewith: Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros., 126-254.

Any use by owner of land condemned for right of way is subject to the necessity of the use of the land by company for purposes granted under charter: Dargan v. R. R., 131-623; Thomason v. R. R., 142-318; Tighe v. R. R., 176-239; Earnhardt v. R. R., 157-358; Coit v. 760 Owenby, 166-136; R. R. v. Bunting, 168-579. And the company may make such subsequent use of the land as may be necessary for the proper operation of the road: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257; Thomason v. R. R., 142-318. Allowing right of way to be used as street does not prevent the use of it by the railroad: Muse v. R. R., 149-444.

Acquisition of right of way does not carry with it privilege of throwing stones or other material, by blasting, to a distance of two hundred yards or more on lands of adjacent proprietor, whereby family of latter is exposed to danger while engaged in domestic duties: Blackwell v. R. R., 111-151.

Where railroad company constructed its road upon a street only by license of city, abutting property owner who is endangered thereby may maintain a common-law action for damages, to be assessed up to time of trial, or may sue for permanent damages inflicted by location and construction of road and, by so doing, confer upon defendant an easement to occupy street, as far as such abutter is concerned: White v. R. R., 113-610. Where public-service corporation is authorized to take over a street with the consent of the city, compensation is due the city for the right: R. R. v. Wilmington, 154-331.

Railroad corporation having right to use land, or right of way over land, may maintain an action for its possession: R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

A railroad company which has constructed its road over the land of another cannot be ousted or stayed in operating its road, when acting under authority in its charter or the general law: Bassley v. R. R., 147-399.

On foreclosure of mortgage given by railroad company, purchaser takes right that company had acquired in relation to its rights of way under its charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214.

Title of railroad to right of way once acquired cannot be lost by occupancy as to any part of it by lapse of time: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100; Railroad v. McCaskill, 94-746. See section 434.

While mere nonuser of easement may not defeat or impair claim of railroad company to right of way for an unfinished line, yet, when such nonuser is accompanied by such acts of dominion for a long period by owner of servient lands as are inconsistent with nature of easement, and as indicate an intention to abandon it, easement will be lost and owner of fee will regain title: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Where railroad company allows the public to use its right of way for other purposes, it does not lose control, and a person entering upon the right of way, not for the company's business, is a licensee: Muse v. R. R., 149-443.

GRANT OF EASEMENT PRESUMED. Railroad cannot acquire title to easement by prescription: Narron v. R. R., 122-856. Where railroad company enters upon and constructs its track on land and owner does not institute an action therefor within two years, railroad will be presumed to have acquired an easement: Earnhardt v. R. R., 137-538; Barker v. R. R., 137-214; R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225; R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Presumption of grant to railroad raised by its charter cannot apply where deed from owner to railroad is executed within two years after location of road: Hickory v. R. R., 137-189. Under statute raising presumption of grant to railroad two years after location of its track, burden of showing when track was located is upon defendant: Ibid.

When charter provides that, in absence of any contract, corporation acquires title to 100 feet on each side of track, and if no claim for damages is brought in two years from completion of that part of road it is barred, the corporation has a valid title to right of way as its track is completed: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100; Railroad v. McCaskill, 94-746—but when corporation took deed for less than 100 feet within two years after its completion, this prevented limitation in charter from applying, and corporation got no title to land lying outside of deed, but within 100 feet of track, by lapse of two years: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596.

BURDEN ADDITIONAL TO ORIGINAL EASEMENT, OWNER COMPENSATED. Condemnation for the purpose of building and operating a railroad does not deprive owner of use of land except to extent that it was necessary for operation of road. For any additional burden he is entitled to compensation, to be measured with reference to limited easement of railroad: Brown v. Power Co., 140-333, and cases cited on page 347.

Telegraph line along railroad and on right of way thereof is an additional burden upon land, for which landowner is entitled to just compensation: Query v. Tel. Co., 178-639; Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513—and evidence that it was necessary to the operation of road is immaterial, Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225. See annotations under section 1695.
A railroad company, owning an easement for trackage and similar purposes over plaintiff's lot, leased its entire road to defendant. Defendant had four other roads meeting at G, the town where plaintiff's lot was located: Held, that defendant was not entitled to use its easement for trackage or warehouse purposes for any traffic in which the lessor road had no part or interest without making compensation to plaintiff as for an additional burden on his land, but that additional traffic over lessor road, though originating on defendant's other roads, was not a subject of compensation: McCulloch v. R. R., 146-316.

Running of street cars over a bridge already constructed by railroad company within city limits and sufficient for ordinary uses of public imposes an additional servitude upon bridge for which street railway company must render compensation by contributing to expense of maintenance and by providing necessary conveniences at intersection, as required by law: Railroad v. Street R. R., 120-520.

Construction of street car track does not impose any additional servitude upon property fronting on street so occupied so as to necessitate condemnation proceedings against the owners: Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Merrick v. Street R. R., 118-1081—provided the railway track is so constructed as not to shut abutter out or off with embankment, Merrick v. Street R. R., 118-1081. A steam railroad on a street is an additional burden: Caveness v. R. R., 172-305, and cases cited.

PRIORITY AS BETWEEN COMPANIES SEEKING SAME LOCATION. Property which has been appropriated to public use, railroad or other, may, under lawful authority and procedure, be condemned and so appropriated to another public use. But if such second appropriation is entirely inconsistent with first, or practically destroys it, such power can only be exercised by reason of legislative authority given in express terms or by necessary implication: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423; R. R. v. R. R., 83-489. One railroad may condemn a right of way across another railroad: R. R. v. R. R., 161-531; s. c., 165-425; R. R. v. R. R., 104-658. See section 3444.

Parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on right of way of another, for purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at will of licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel, although licensee has entered and made valuable improvement: R. R. v. R. B., 104-658.

In conflicting rights of railroads as to right of way under grant or condemnation, in absence of statutory regulations to contrary, first location belongs to company which first defines and marks its route and adopts same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423. Where priority of right has been secured by priority of location, it cannot be defeated by rival company agreeing with owners and purchasing property: Ibid. Making a preliminary survey by an engineer of railroad company, not reported to company or acted upon, will not, prevent another company from locating on same line: Ibid. For conflicting rights under eminent domain in case of electric power companies, see Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; s. c., 175-668.

Water-power not subject to condemnation if used or held to be used or developed for public purpose: R. R. v. Light and Power Co., 169-471; R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; R. R. v. Power Co., 171-314.

INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AGAINST INTERFERENCE WITH RIGHT OF WAY. A railroad company is entitled to injunctive relief against interference with right of way, without regard to solvency of persons interfering therewith: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257. It must show clearly that it has a right of way over lands in controversy, the extent of such right, and that defendants are obstructing or threaten to obstruct its use: Ibid. Court will in this case protect plaintiff's right to exclusive use of roadbed, by injunctive relief, as against defendant's claim to appropriate it for its own right of way: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423.

Fact that one railroad occupies land which is claimed by another road as its right of way is not in itself an irreparable tort which will justify restraining defendant from using land until question of title can be tried, especially when it is not alleged that defendant is insolvent, and where it appears that there is room on disputed territory for construction of both roads: R. R. v. Mining Co., 112-661. See annotations under section 843.

1707. Right to enter on and purchase lands. Such bodies politic, corporation, or persons, may at any time enter upon the lands through which they may desire to conduct the roads or works authorized under the preceding section and lay out the same, and they may also enter upon such contiguous land along the route as may be necessary for depots, warehouses, engine sheds, workshops, water stations, tool-houses, and other buildings necessary for the accommodation of their officers, servants and agents, horses, mules and other cattle, and for the protection of their property; and shall pay to the proprietors of the land so entered on such sum as may be agreed on between them.

Rev., s. 2575; Code, s. 1698; R. C., c. 61, s. 9; 1852, c. 92; s. 1; 1874-5, c. 83.

Right of entry granted railroad company under this section is only for purpose of marking out route and designating building sites to end that parties may come to an intelligent agreement as to price: State v. Wells, 142-590. A railroad company having the power of eminent domain, entering upon and occupying land for building its track, is not a trespasser: Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97.

Electric company may acquire the right to cut trees on or near the right of way: Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

1708. Power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, double-tracking, etc. Any railroad company operating a line of railroad in North Carolina whenever it shall find it necessary to occupy any land for the purpose of getting to a union depot which has been ordered by the corporation commission, or for the purpose of maintaining, operating, improving, or of straightening its line, or of altering its location, or of constructing double tracks, or of enlarging its yard or terminal facilities, or of connecting two of its lines already in operation not more than six miles apart, shall have the power to condemn all lands needed for such purpose under the provisions of this chapter. More than two acres may be condemned for yard or terminal facilities if required for due operation of the railroad. No lands in any incorporated towns shall be condemned under this section until approved by the corporation commission, nor shall any yard, garden or dwelling-house be condemned, unless the corporation commission, upon petition filed by the railroad seeking to condemn, shall, after due inquiry, find that the railroad company cannot make the desired improvement without condemning the yard, garden or dwelling-house, except at an excessive cost. The power to condemn land under this section shall be enforceable and matters arising in regard thereto shall be tried only in the courts created by or under the constitution of this state. No rights granted or acquired under the provisions of this section shall in any way destroy or abridge the rights of the state to regulate or control such railroad company or to exclude foreign corporations from doing business in this state.

Union depot statute (section 1042) was intended to apply to all cities and towns in state where, in legal discretion of commissioners, the move is practicable, etc.: Dewey v. R. R., 142-392. It confers on railroads the incidental right to make such changes in their line and route as are necessary to accomplish purpose designed and to make depot available and accessible to traveling public as contemplated by act: Ibid.

Where corporation commission selects union depot site, railroads will not be enjoined, at instance of citizens and property owners, from erecting depot, either on ground that city is being sidetracked or that their property will be damaged by proposed change: Ibid.

Giving to railroads, subject to order of corporation commission to build union depot, the express power to condemn lands is a valid exercise of legislative power: Ibid.
1709. Condemning land for industrial sidings. Any railroad company doing business in this state, whether such railroad be a domestic or foreign corporation, which has been or shall be ordered by the corporation commission to construct an industrial siding as provided in chapter 21, section 1044, is empowered to exercise the right of eminent domain for such purpose, to condemn property as provided in this chapter, and to acquire such right of way as may be necessary to carry out the orders of the corporation commission. Whenever it is necessary for any railroad company doing business in this state to cross the street or streets in a town or city in order to carry out the orders of the corporation commission, to construct an industrial siding, the power is hereby conferred upon such railroad company to occupy such street or streets of any such town or city within the state: Provided, license so to do be first obtained from the board of aldermen, board of commissioners, or other governing authorities of such town or city.

1710. Condemnation by schools for water supply. If the school authorities mentioned in subsection 5 of section 1706 shall be unable to agree with the owners of any lands which, or the use of which, it is necessary to appropriate in obtaining a pure and adequate water supply for the school, they shall file a petition for the condemnation of such lands in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. In addition to the particulars required to be set out in section 1716, the petition shall state whether the water supply is desired to be obtained from a spring, from a stream, or by digging artesian wells. The proceedings for such condemnation shall conform to the requirements of this chapter. No greater amount of land in area or width shall be condemned under this section than is necessary to obtain a pure and adequate water supply.

Any person holding title to land upon which any school, public or private, is located is empowered to obtain water supplies from the springs, streams or artesian wells the use of which is acquired under this section by building intakes, reservoirs, digging ditches, laying pipes or doing such other things as may be needful to obtain the water supply.

1711. Condemnation for steamboat wharves and warehouses. Upon the order of the corporation commission that any steamboat company provide wharf and warehouse facilities as may be deemed reasonable and just, at any particular point, such company shall have power to condemn land for such purpose in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

1712. May take material from adjacent lands. For the purpose of constructing and operating its works and necessary appurtenances thereto, or of repairing them after they shall have been made, or of enlarging or otherwise altering them, the corporation entitled to exercise the powers of eminent domain may, at any time, enter on any adjacent lands, and cut, dig, and take therefrom any wood, stone, gravel, water or earth, which may be deemed necessary: Provided, that they shall not, without the consent of the owner, destroy or injure any ornamental or fruit trees.
In constructing crossing, railroad company might use plank, timber, earth, etc., to make same such as statute allows and intends, and as public ease, convenience and safety require, and in forming and securing incline on each side of railroad track, so as to provide an easy and safe passway across it: State v. Lumber Co., 109-862.

Owner of land is entitled to compensatory damages for cutting of crossties on land not included in right of way, and negligent filling of ditches, instead of building bridges over them, in constructing roads necessary to remove timber, and for breaking down fences: Waters v. Lumber Co., 115-648.

Fact that railroad company supervised cutting of timber and issued orders which contractor was bound to obey showed affirmatively a state of subjection on contractor's part that made him, in law, servant of railroad: Waters v. Lumber Co., 115-649.

In the case of electric companies this power may be extended to the cutting of trees near the right of way upon proper proceedings for condemnation: Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

1713. How material paid for. If for the value of the damages done to the owner by reason of the acts in the preceding section mentioned the parties may be unable to agree, the same shall be valued in the manner hereinafter provided.

Rev., s. 2577; Code, s. 1703; R. C., c. 61, s. 23; 1874-5, c. 83.

1714. Dwelling-houses and burial grounds cannot be condemned. No such corporation shall be allowed to have condemned to its use, without the consent of the owner, his dwelling-house, yard, kitchen, garden or burial ground, unless condemnation of such property is expressly authorized in its charter or by some provision of the Consolidated Statutes.

Rev., s. 2578.

For power of electric companies to take dwellings, etc., see Electric Companies, s. 1099.

In Ashe, Watauga, and Yancey counties, yards, gardens and orchards may be condemned when necessary by railroad companies proceeding in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. P. L. 1911, c. 534.

"Dwelling-house" means the dwelling or home of the owner, and does not include tenant houses: R. R. v. Mfg. Co., 166-168.

Charter of Western N. C. Railroad Company does not give it right to enter upon and appropriate a yard, garden or dwelling-house for purposes of road; and when such entry or appropriation is made, owner may maintain civil action for trespass, and is not compelled to resort to statutory remedy provided for condemnation of lands; nor will a recovery in such action vest in the corporation any easement or property in the premises: Fore v. R. R., 101-526.

When provision in charter or deed granting right of way prohibited it from entering upon yard, garden, burial ground, etc., of defendants, but no portion of right of way was so used at date of acquisition, right of company would not be interfered with by fact that it has been appropriated to such use since: Railroad v. Olive, 142-257; Dargan v. Railroad, 131-625.

Art. 2. CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS

1715. Proceedings when parties cannot agree. If any corporation, enumerated in section 1706 of this chapter, possessing by law the right of eminent domain in this state, is unable to agree for the purchase of any real estate required for purposes of its incorporation or for the purposes specified in this chapter, it shall have the right to acquire title to the same in the manner and by the special proceedings herein prescribed.

Rev., s. 2579; Code, ss. 1943, 2009; 1885, c. 168; 1893, c. 63; 1901, cc. 6, 41, s. 2; 1899, c. 64; 1903, cc. 562, 159, s. 16; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 13.

That this proceeding has taken the place of the common-law remedy for trespass, and the owner of the land must have his damages assessed in the manner herein prescribed, see McIntire v. R. R., 67-278; Holloway v. R. R., 85-452; R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746; Allen v. R. R., 102-381; Jones v. Comrs., 130-452; Dargan v. R. R., 131-623.

More recent cases hold that the statutory remedy is not exclusive, but the owner may proceed by petition under this section or by civil action for permanent damages: Fleming v. Congleton, 177-186; Keener v. Asheville, 177-1; Mason v. Durham, 175-638; Caveness v. R. R., 172-305; McMahan v. R. R., 170-456; Porter v. R. R., 148-563.

Statutory method of condemning right of way can be exercised only when parties are unable to agree upon terms of acquirement: Allen v. R. R., 102-381. In case parties cannot agree, then company may proceed to condemn land, and company does not acquire the right to enter for purpose of constructing road until amount of appraisement has been paid into court: State v. Wells, 142-590; Railroad v. Newton, 133-133.

Where charter of railroad contains provision as to manner of condemning land for right of way, method pointed out by such provision, and not that prescribed by general law, must be followed: R. R. v. Ely, 95-77.

Railroad company may dispense with assessment of damages by commissioners for passing over land of proprietor, by promising to settle and to pay it without assessment, and landowner may recover upon special promise: Plott v. R. R., 65-74.

Where land was conveyed to trustee for separate use of married woman, latter and her husband cannot convey to railroad company right of way over land: Narron v. R. R., 122-856. No one can grant an easement in land who cannot convey fee simple: Ibid.

A covenant to grant a right of way does not entitle the covenantee to a conveyance of the land: Mills v. Lumber Co., 150-114.

DECISIONS OF INTEREST UNDER SPECIAL ACTS. Statutory provision allowing private property to be taken under right of eminent domain must be strictly pursued, and right of owner to obtain compensation depends on whether corporation has obtained a vested right: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596.

Stipulation in charter of railroad that all claims for damages for land taken by corporation must be made within two years is a positive statute of limitations, and bars all claims not made within that time, when parties are sui juris: R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Where corporation, having alone power to institute proceedings for assessment of damages and benefits resulting from its exercise of eminent domain, fails and refuses, on demand of owner, to do so, owner may treat corporation as a trespasser and sue in ejectment, if he elect to do so; otherwise appropriate remedy is by mandamus to compel corporation to assess damages as provided by its charter: McDowell v. Asheville, 112-747.

Railroad company has right to enter upon and take possession of land before payment to owner, which is needed in building of its road, when it is authorized by its charter to do so: R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Action against telegraph company for erection of poles on land of plaintiff, if brought within three years of trespass, is not barred by limitation: Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225.

An interest in entire right of way does not vest in corporation unless it takes actual possession in exercise of privilege granted it; but it seems that, where corporation enters, its constructive possession extends to boundary of right of way given in charter: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596.

Section limiting actions for damages for occupation of land by railroad company to five years and exempting from its operation companies chartered prior to 1868, is not in violation of fourteenth amendment of constitution of United States, prohibiting any state from denying to any person the equal protection of the laws: Narron v. R. R., 122-856.

Where a company has constructed railroad between termini named in its charter and amendments thereto, fact that it is building sidetracks does not prevent bar of landowner’s claim: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257.

Where enjoyment of easement by railroad in land has effect of injuring adjoining lands of owner, damages are recoverable for such injury: Liverman v. R. R., 114-692.

Permanent damages may be awarded a landowner who is injured by putting of telegraph poles on his land: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513.

Fact that method prescribed for assessing damage caused by taking land for construction of sewage plant was illegal is not ground for restraining construction of plant: Vickers v. Durham, 132-880.

Provisions of general railroad act are applicable to Durham and Northern railroad company, notwithstanding its charter prescribes that it shall have power to condemn land under the “same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the North Carolina railroad company”: R. R. v. R. R., 106-16.
1716. Petition filed; contains what; copy served. For the purpose of acquiring such title the corporation, or the owner of the land sought to be condemned, may present a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the real estate described in the petition is situated, praying for the appointment of commissioners of appraisal. Such petition shall be signed and verified according to the rules and practice of such court; and if filed by the corporation it must contain a description of the real estate which the corporation seeks to acquire; and it must, in effect, state that the corporation is duly incorporated, and that it is its intention in good faith to conduct and carry on the public business authorized by its charter, stating in detail the nature of such public business, and the specific use of such land; that the land described in the petition is required for the purpose of conducting the proposed business, and that the corporation has not been able to acquire title thereto, and the reason of such inability. The petition, whether filed by the corporation or the owner of the land, must also state the names and places of residence of the parties, so far as the same can by reasonable diligence be ascertained, who own or have, or claim to own or have, estates or interests in the said real estate; and if any such persons are infants, their ages, as near as may be, must be stated; and if any such persons are idiots or persons of unsound mind or are unknown, that fact must be stated, together with such other allegations and statements of liens or encumbrances on said real estate as the corporation or the owner may see fit to make. A summons as in other cases of special proceedings, together with a copy of the petition, must be served on all persons whose interests are to be affected by the proceedings, at least ten days prior to the hearing of the same by the court.

Rey., s. 2580; Code, s. 1944; 1893, c. 396; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 14; 1907, c. 783, s. 3.

For map and profile, see section 3471.

Petition, whether filed by owner or by company, should state names of all persons interested, and all should be in court before commissioners are appointed: Hill v. Mining Co., 113-259.

Petitioner must allege that it has "surveyed the line or route of its proposed road, and made a map or survey thereof, by which such route or line is designated, and that it has located its said road according to such survey, and filed certificates of such localities signed by a majority of its directors, in the clerk's office," etc., as required by this section; otherwise proceeding will be dismissed: R. R. v. R. R., 106-16.

Allegations as to good faith and inability to acquire title are necessary, but when denied they are not issues of fact, but preliminary questions of fact to be determined by the court: R. R. v. Galahgan, 161-190; R. R. v. R. R., 148-64; Durham v. Riggsbee, 141-128. Findings of clerk as to the preliminary facts are subject to review: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59. Burden of showing that company intended in good faith to construct road and had complied with requirements prescribed by law for condemnation of rights of way, is on the petitioner: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 132-644.

The court may allow an amendment to the complaint by the introduction of a better profile: R. R. v. Newton, 133-132.

Where one railroad obtains a final order giving possession and ejecting defendant railroad, it cannot then take a nonsuit: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Not necessary that petition filed by landowner shall state that petitioners and company have failed to come to an agreement as to sum to be paid, such averment being necessary only when railroad company is actor in such proceedings: Hill v. Mining Co., 113-259; Allen v. R. R., 102-381.

Fact that cotenant of land has granted right of way to railroad company will not prevent another owner from instituting proceedings for assessment of damages sustained by him, nor will such fact prevent cotenant, who has made such grant, from becoming party to proceeding, and having his rights adjusted thereunder: Hill v. Mining Co., 113-259.

Where petition in proceeding for assessment of damages for right of way of railroad enumerates various owners of land, and such owners voluntarily made themselves parties, a demurrer by defendant company that there was defect of parties when petition was first filed is untenable: Ibid.

1717. How process served. The summons and a copy of the petition shall be served in the same manner as in special proceedings.

Rev., s. 2581; Code, s. 1944; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 14.

Failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings as required by section 3471 may be cured by amendment: State v. Wells, 142-590.

1718. Service where parties unknown. If the person on whom such service of summons and petition is to be made is unknown, or his residence is unknown and cannot by reasonable diligence be ascertained, then such service may be made under the direction of the court, by publishing a notice, stating the time and place within which such person must appear and plead, the object thereof, with a description of the land to be affected by the proceedings, in a paper, if there be one, printed in the county where the land is situate, once in each week, for four weeks previous to the time fixed by the court, and if there be no paper printed in such county, then in a newspaper printed in the city of Raleigh.

Rev., s. 2582; Code, s. 1944, subsec. 5.

1719. When court may direct how papers to be served. In all cases not herein otherwise provided for, service of orders, notices, and other papers in the special proceedings authorized by this chapter may be made as in other special proceedings.

Rev., s. 2583; Code, s. 1944, subsec. 7.

1720. Answer to petition; hearing; commissioners appointed. On presenting such petition to the superior court, with proof of service of a copy thereof, and of the summons, all or any of the persons whose estates or interests are to be affected by the proceedings may answer such petition and show cause against granting the prayer of the same, and may disprove any of the facts alleged in it. The court shall hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and if no sufficient cause is shown against granting the prayer of the petition, it shall make an order for the appointment of three disinterested and competent freeholders who reside in the county where the premises are to be appraised, for the purposes of the company, and shall fix the time and place for the first meeting of the commissioners.

Rev., s. 2584; Code, s. 1945; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 15.

Petitioning railroad must show the preliminary facts required, and a denial of the right of eminent domain in the answer does not relieve it of this burden: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Judge of court may appoint appraisers either in term or vacation, while clerk can do so only in vacation, and then only as representing court: Click v. R. R., 98-390.

A writ of prohibition will not be granted to prevent clerk of court from hearing application for condemnation of right of way for railroad: R. R. v. Newton, 133-136.

Where articles of incorporation of railroad company are upon their face void, trial court will so declare in proceeding to condemn land by right of eminent domain claimed thereunder: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

Exceptions to order of clerk appointing commissioners may be general: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

In fixing question of compensation to landowner for right of way condemned to use of railroad, commissioners do not invade province that, under the ancient law, belonged exclusively and peculiarly to jury: R. R. v. Parker, 105-246; State v. Jones, 139-613; R. R. v. Davis, 19-451.

As to trial by jury of issues raised before clerk, where same demanded before commissioners appointed, see R. R. v. Parker, 105-246; R. R. v. Newton, 133-133. See, also, section 1724.

1721. Powers and duties of commissioners. The commissioners, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, shall take and subscribe an oath that they will fairly and impartially appraise the lands mentioned in the petition. Any one of them may issue subpoenas, administer oaths to witnesses, and any two of them may adjourn the proceedings before them from time to time, in their discretion. Whenever they meet, except by the appointment of the court or pursuant to adjournment, they shall cause ten days notice of such meeting to be given to the parties who are to be affected by their proceedings, or their attorney or agent. They shall view the premises described in the petition, hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and reduce the testimony, if any is taken by them, to writing; and after the testimony is closed in each case, and without any unnecessary delay, and before proceeding to the examination of any other claim, a majority of them all being present and acting, shall ascertain and determine the compensation which ought justly to be made by the corporation to the party or parties owning or interested in the real estate appraised by them. They shall report the same to the court within ten days.

Rev., s. 2585; Code, s. 1946; 1871-2, c. 138, ss. 16-18; 1891, c. 160.

Meaning of market value: Brown v. Power Co., 140-333. All the capabilities of property and all the uses to which it may be applied or for which it is adapted may be considered, and not merely condition it is in at time and the use to which it is then applied by owner: Ibid. Water-power on the river must be considered as an element of value: Ibid. If a tract of which whole or part is taken for public use possesses a special value to owner, which can be measured by money, he is entitled to have that value considered: Ibid.

In considering benefits to be deducted, the owner is to have the advantages common to others, and only special benefits are to be deducted: R. R. v. Platt Land, 133-266; Haislip v. R. R., 102-376; R. R. v. Smith, 99-131; R. R. v. Wicker, 74-220. No recovery for benefits, Landowner will be entitled to have included in his assessment damages for injuries to lands adjoining those upon which railroad is constructed: Hendrick v. R. R., 101-617. Owner is entitled to recover for expense of additional fencing of cultivated lands made necessary by reason of construction of road; but, as he is not required by law to fence uncleared or uncultivated land, and expense of fencing such, should it at any future time be cleared or cultivated, is too remote and uncertain to be estimated, same should not be taken into consideration: R. R. v. Wicker, 74-520.

Damages to land caused by erection of waterway by railroad company, if skillfully constructed, are included in compensation for, and pass by grant of, easement, but grantee of easement shall not inflict unnecessary injury upon servient owner: Adams v. R. R., 110-525.

As to how damages to church property assessed in condemnation proceedings, see R. R. v. Church, 104-525.

Evidence to show value of land by its location and surroundings is admissible: R. R. v. Land Co., 137-330.

An injunction will not lie to restrain railroad company from entering upon land before appraisement of damages and payment thereof: R. R. v. Newton, 133-132.

This section has no reference to trespasses committed outside of the right of way in building the road, and for such trespasses the corporations are liable in civil action for damages: Bridgers v. Dill, 97-222.

In condemnation proceedings there can be no recovery of damages incident to entry, such as for destruction of crops and the like, nor for use and occupation before plaintiff acquired title: Liverman v. R. R., 114-692; Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; but see Haislip v. R. R., 102-376. Damages caused by diversion of water are not covered by statute providing for acquirement of right of way by railroad companies: Ward v. R. R., 112-168.

Where land is taken under section 3444, commissioners are not only to fix amount of compensation, but they must determine, in event of disagreement, 'the points and manner' of physical connection which is sought to be made: R. R. v. R. R., 104-665; R. R. v. Love, 81-434.

1722. Form of commissioners' report. When the commissioners shall have assessed the damages, they shall forthwith make and subscribe a written report of their proceedings, in substance as follows:

To the Clerk of the Superior Court of ____________ County:

We, _______________, commissioners appointed by the court to assess the damages that have been and will be sustained by _______________, the owner of certain land lying in the county of ________________ (for the day to which we were regularly adjourned), and, having first been duly sworn, we visited the premises of the owner, and after taking into full consideration the quality and quantity of the land aforesaid, the additional fencing likely to be occasioned by the work of the corporation, and all other inconveniences likely to result to the owner, we have estimated and do assess the damages aforesaid at the sum of $____________.

We have estimated the special benefits which the said owner will receive from the construction of said works to be the sum of $____________.

Given under our hands, the __________ day of ________________, A. D. 19____.

Rev., s. 2586; Code, s. 1700; R. C., c. 61, s. 17; 1874-5, c. 83.

Not necessary that commissioners appointed to assess benefits and damages should set forth in their award particulars in which they consisted: R. R. v. Smith, 99-131.

Report of commissioners is not invalid because it does not contain description of land, as that can be ascertained by reference to location of roadbed and right of way: Hanes v. R. R., 109-490; but see R. R. v. Land Co., 137-336.

1723. Exceptions to report; hearing; appeal; when title vests; restitution. Within twenty days after filing the report the corporation or any person interested in the said land may file exceptions to said report, and upon the determination of the same by the court, either party to the proceedings may appeal to the court at term, and thence, after judgment, to the supreme court. The court or judge on the hearing may direct a new appraisal, modify or confirm the report, or make such order in the premises as to him shall seem right and proper. If the said corporation, at the time of the appraisal, shall pay into court the sum appraised by the commissioners, then and in that event the said corporation may enter, take possession of, and hold said lands, notwithstanding the pendency of the appeal, and until the final judgment rendered on said appeal. And if there shall be no appeal, or if the final judgment rendered upon said petition and proceedings shall be in favor of the corporation, and upon the payment by said corporation of the sum adjudged, together with the costs and counsel fees allowed by the court, into the office of the clerk of the superior court, then and in that event all persons who have been made parties to the proceedings shall be divested and barred of all right, estate and interest in such easement in such real estate during the corporate existence of the corporation aforesaid. A certified copy of such judgment under the seal of the court shall be registered in the county where the land is situated, and a copy of the same, or the original certified, may be given in evidence in all actions and proceedings as deeds for land are now allowed to be read in evidence. All real estate acquired by any corporation under and pursuant to the provisions of this chapter for its purposes shall be deemed to be acquired for the public use. But if the court shall refuse to condemn the land, or any portion thereof, to the use of such corporation, then, and in that event, the money paid into court, or so much thereof as shall be adjudged, shall be refunded to the corporation. And the corporation shall have no right to hold said land not condemned, but shall surrender the possession of the same, on demand, to the owner or owners, or his or their agent or attorney. And the court or judge shall have full power and authority to make such orders, judgments and decrees, and issue such executions and other process as may be necessary to carry into effect the final judgment rendered in such proceedings. If the amount adjudged to be paid the owner of any property condemned under this chapter shall not be paid within one year after final judgment in the proceeding, the right under the judgment to take the property or rights condemned shall ipso facto cease and determine, but the claimant under the judgment shall still remain liable for all amounts adjudged against him except the consideration for the property.

Rev., s. 2587; Code, s. 1946; 1893, c. 148; 1915, c. 207.

The appeal from clerk carries the whole record up for review upon questions of fact, and no jury trial is allowed until the report of commissioners has been received and confirmed: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59. No appeal to the judge at chambers: R. R. v. Stewart, 132-248.

Finding of commissioners that land taken for railroad purposes received no special benefit is conclusive: R. R. v. Platt Land, 133-266.

Nothing to contrary appearing, it will be presumed that commissioners acted upon proper rules in estimating assessments: R. R. v. Smith, 99-131.

Where report excepted to and clerk sets aside appraisement it seems that he may fix the compensation: Durham v. Rigsbee, 141-128.

Motion to file exceptions to report nunc pro tunc may be allowed in discretion of court: R. R. v. King, 125-454—and an order allowing such motion is interlocutory, and an appeal is premature, Ibid.

On removal of proceeding before clerk to superior court, objections may be raised on trial in superior court that were not raised before clerk: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

While judge cannot, upon exceptions filed to report of commissioners appointed to assess damages caused by location and construction of railway, alter report by inserting different amount as damages, or annul order appointing commissioners and submit matter to a jury, yet he has discretionary power to confirm or set aside such report, and may recommit question to same or other commissioners, and in aid of this power he may hear affidavits: Hanes v. R. R., 109-490; but see Durham v. Rigsbee, 141-128.

Railroad company acquires, with lands condemned for purposes of construction and operation of road, all rights and privileges which appertain to it at time of condemnation: Willey v. R. R., 98-263.

Counsel fees provided for herein include only counsel for unknown parties as required under section 1728: Durham v. Davis, 171-305.

A railroad company having obtained an order for possession and ejecting another railroad company, cannot then take a nonsuit: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Legislature has power to provide that neither party shall appeal from award of commissioners appointed under charter to assess damages to land for right of way, and if charter does provide for an appeal, it must be taken within time and in manner therein provided: R. R. v. Ely, 95-77.

Appeal in this case carries up only question of compensation, and defendant can go forward with improvements: Johnston v. Rankin, 70-550.

On appeal to supreme court the findings of fact by the lower court are conclusive, if supported by evidence: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Formerly payment of the compensation was not required before entry. Code, section 1946, changed this as to railroads, by requiring the company to pay into court sum assessed before entry on the right of way: R. R. v. Newton, 133-133; State v. Wells, 142-590. By special statute a railroad company may be authorized to enter upon lands before instituting condemnation proceedings: State v. Jones, 170-753; R. R. v. Ferguson, 169-70.

Indictment for wilful trespass will lie against employee of railroad company for entry after being forbidden on land which company is seeking to condemn, entry being for purpose of constructing road and before an appraisement has been made, although restraining order against such trespass would be refused: State v. Wells, 142-590.

1724. Provision for jury trial on exceptions to report. In any action or proceeding by any railroad or other corporation to acquire rights of way or real estate for the use of such railroad or corporation, and in any action or proceeding by any city or town to acquire rights of way for streets, any person interested in the land, or the city, town, railroad or other corporation shall be entitled to have the amount of damages assessed by the commissioners or jurors heard and determined upon appeal before a jury of the superior court in term, if upon the hearing of such appeal a trial by a jury be demanded.

1725. When benefits exceed damage, corporation pays costs. In any case where the benefits to the land caused by the erection of the railroad, street railway, telephone, telegraph, water supply, bridge, or electric power or lighting plant or other structure, are ascertained to exceed the damages to the land, then the corporation acquiring the same by right of eminent domain shall pay the costs of the proceeding except as provided by law, and shall not have a judgment for the excess of benefits over the damage.

Rev., s. 2589; 1891, c. 160.

For costs in such proceedings, see Costs, Art. 3.

1726. Title of infants, persons non compos, and trustees without power of sale, acquired. In case any title or interest in real estate required by any corporation for its purposes shall be vested in any trustee not authorized to sell, release and convey the same, or in any infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind, the superior court shall have power, by a special proceeding, on petition, to authorize and empower such trustee or the general guardian or committee of such infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind, to sell and convey the same to such corporation, on such terms as may be just; and in case any such infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind has no general guardian or committee, the said court may appoint a special guardian or committee for the purpose of making such sale, release or conveyance, and may require such security from such general or special guardian or committee as said court may deem proper. But before any conveyance or release authorized by this section shall be executed, the terms on which the same is to be executed shall be reported to the court on oath; and if the court is satisfied that such terms are just to the party interested in such real estate, the court shall confirm the report and direct the proper conveyance or release to be executed, which shall have the same effect as if executed by an owner of said land having legal power to sell and convey the same.

See, also, sections 2180, 2182, 3238.

1727. Rights of claimants of fund determined. If there are adverse and conflicting claimants to the money, or any part of it, to be paid as compensation for the real estate taken, the court may direct the money to be paid into the said court by the corporation, and may determine who is entitled to the same and direct to whom the same shall be paid, and may in its discretion order a reference to ascertain the facts on which such determination and order are to be made.

Rev., s. 2591; Code, s. 1947; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 19.
Where proceedings are infra vires, condemnation and appropriation to public use must stand, and the question as to who is entitled to damages awarded cannot be raised in an action for land itself: Harkins v. Asheville, 123-636.

1728. Attorney for unknown parties appointed; pleadings amended; new commissioners appointed. The court shall appoint some competent attorney to appear for and protect the rights of any party in interest who is unknown or whose residence is unknown, and who has not appeared in the proceedings by an attorney or agent, and shall make an allowance to said attorney for his services, which shall be taxed in the bill of costs. The court shall also have power at any time to amend any defect or informality in any of the special proceedings authorized by this chapter as may be necessary, or to cause new parties to be added, and to direct such further notices to be given to any party in interest as it deems proper; and also to appoint other commissioners in place of any who shall die, refuse or neglect to serve or be incapable of serving.

Counsel fees to be taxed as costs include only fees of counsel for unknown parties: Durham v. Davis, 171-305; R. v. v. Goodwin, 110-175.

1729. Court may make rules of procedure in. In all cases of appraisal under this chapter where the mode or manner of conducting all or any of the proceedings to the appraisal and the proceedings consequent thereon are not expressly provided for by the statute, the courts before whom such proceedings may be pending shall have the power to make all the necessary orders and give the proper directions to carry into effect the object and intent of this chapter, and the practice in such cases shall conform as near as may be to the ordinary practice in such courts.

Rev., s. 2503; Code, s. 1949; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 21.
Section referred to in Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97.

1730. Change of ownership pending proceeding. When any proceedings of appraisal shall have been commenced, no change of ownership by voluntary conveyance or transfer of the real estate or other subject-matter of the appraisal, or any interest therein, shall in any manner affect such proceeding, but the same may be carried on and perfected as if no such conveyance or transfer had been made or attempted to be made.

Rev., s. 2594; Code, s. 1950; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 22.

Conveyance made after proceeding commenced does not affect it: Caveness v. R. R., 172-305; Abernathy v. R. R., 159-340. A purchaser of land subsequent to taking as right of way may recover permanent damages for easement taken, and company thereby acquires easement and right to maintain its line thereon: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; Beal v. R. R., 196-298.

Until a purchase or condemnation, corporation's occupation is without title, and conveyance of land will pass to vendee right to compensation for damages: Livermon v. R. R., 109-52. Damages incident to act of an unlawful entry upon land by a railway corporation are personal to owner of land and do not pass by his subsequent conveyance of premises: Ibid. Purchaser, at mortgage sale, of land over which railway has secured right of entry from mortgagor in possession, while not entitled to damages incident to act of entry, might recover compensation for land appropriated to use of company: Ibid.

If purchaser takes the land without notice of an executory contract by the vendor to convey right of way, or under circumstances indicating an abandonment of the right, the fact that grading had been done on the land would not preclude him from claiming damages when the grading is completed: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Where plaintiff owns lot subject to right of way conveyed to railroad company by plaintiff's grantor, railroad company holds only right to use so much of right of way as is necessary for its purpose, and, though company or its lessee cannot be barred by statute of limitations in case it should become necessary to occupy more of right of way for purposes incident to use of road, statute is no protection in occupying more land, though within limits of right of way, for trackage, etc., for other purposes: McCulloch v. R. R., 146-316; s. c., 149-305.

1731. Defective title; how cured. If at any time after an attempt to acquire title by appraisal of damages or otherwise it shall be found that the title thereby attempted to be acquired is defective, the corporation may proceed anew to acquire or perfect such title in the same manner as if no appraisal had been made, and at any stage of such new proceedings the court may authorize the corporation, if in possession, to continue in possession, and if not in possession, to take possession and use such real estate during the pendency and until the final conclusion of such new proceedings, and may stay all actions or proceedings against the corporation on account thereof, on such corporation paying into court a sufficient sum or giving security as the court may direct to pay the compensation therefor when finally ascertained, and in every such case the party interested in such real estate may conduct the proceedings to a conclusion if the corporation delays or omits to prosecute the same.

1732. Title to state lands acquired. The secretary of state shall have power to grant to any railroad company any land belonging to the people of this state which may be required for the purposes of its road, on such terms as may be agreed on by them, or such company may acquire title thereto by appraisal, as in the case of lands owned by individuals; and if any land belonging to a county or town is required by any company for the purposes of the road, the county or town officers having the charge of such land may grant such land to such company for such compensation as may be agreed upon.

Rev. s. 2596; Code, s. 1955; 1871-2. c. 138, s. 27.

For condemnation for water supplies, see sections 7522, 7523.

1733. Quantity which may be condemned for certain purposes:

1. Right of way of railroad. The width of the land condemned for any railroad shall not be less than eighty feet nor more than one hundred, except where the road may run through a town, when it may be of less width; or where there may be deep cuts or high embankments, when it may be of greater width.

2. Plankroads, etc. No greater width of land than sixty feet shall be condemned for the use of any plankroad, tramroad, canal, street railway or turnpike; or greater width than sixteen feet for the use of any flume.

3. Depot or station. No greater quantity of land than two acres, contiguous to any railroad, plankroad, tramroad, turnpike, flume, or canal, shall be condemned at one place for a depot or station.

Rev. s. 2597; Code, ss. 1707. 1708, 1709; R. C. c. 61, ss. 27, 28, 29; 1852, c. 92; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, c. 39.

For the condemnation by a railroad of more than two acres for yard or terminal facilities, see this chapter, s. 1708.

Grant of easement does not preclude grantor from such use of his land himself or permitting same to others which is not in conflict therewith: Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros., 126-254, and cases supra.

Right of way of specified width must be located and constructed in order to be exclusive: Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros., 126-254.

Railroad company is not negligent in failing to cut down bushes or weeds on right of way beyond portion over which it is exercising actual control for corporate purposes; but it is required to keep right of way clear of such growth to outside of side ditches on either side of tracks: Ward v. R. R., 109-358.

While land included in right of way of railroad company, not necessary for purposes of company, may be cultivated by servient owner, crop must not be of such inflammable or combustible nature, when matured or maturing, as to endanger safety of company’s passengers or cause injury to adjoining lands in case of ignition of such crops by sparks from company’s engines, for, in such case, company will have right to enter and remove such crops: R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225.

Where complaint in ejectment by railroad to recover right of way fails to allege that necessity for it exists, action should be dismissed: R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225; see R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Under charter of Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company, upon payment of damages assessed for right of way, land covered by road, and sixty-five feet from base of road on each side, becomes vested in company in fee simple: Haislip v. R. R., 102-376.

Negligence to permit inflammable material to remain near company’s track and liable to ignite from emitted sparks: Aycock v. R. R., 89-321.
CHAPTER 34

ESTATES

1734. Fee tail converted into fee simple. Every person seized of an estate in tail shall be deemed to be seized of the same in fee simple; and all sales and conveyances, made bona fide and for valuable consideration, since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, by any tenant in tail in actual possession of any real estate where such estate has been conveyed in fee simple, shall be good and effectual in law to bar any tenant in tail and in remainder of and from all claim, action, and right of entry whatsoever, of, in, and to such entailed estate, against any purchaser, his heirs, or assigns, now in actual possession of such estate, in the same manner as if such tenant in tail had possessed the same in fee simple.

A fee tail converted into an estate in fee simple by this section: Parrish v. Hodge, 178-133; Sharpe v. Brown, 177-296; Cohoon v. Upton, 174-88; Keziah v. Medlin, 173-237; Blake v. Shields, 172-628; Revis v. Murphy, 172-579; Harrington v. Grimes, 163-76; Jones v. Ragsdale, 141-220; Sessions v. Sessions, 144-121; Marsh v. Griffin, 136-333; Whitfield v. Garris, 134-29, and cases cited; Leathers v. Gray, 101-165, and cases cited; Smith v. Brisson, 90-284; Ward v. Jones, 40-405; Folk v. Whitley, 30-133; Ross v. Toms, 15-376; Sanders v. Hyatt, 8-247—but section confirmed only such alienations in fee as had been made by tenants in possession since 1777, Minge v. Gilmour, 2-279; Wells v. Newbolt, 1-538—and when tenant in tail had sold in fee simple before enactment of section and purchaser actually in possession of land at time of passage of same, he is entitled to fee simple, Ibid.; also Moore v. Bradley, 3-142.

This section will bar remainder dependent upon estate tail in possession of tenant in tail at time of passage of section: Lane v. Davis, 2-277.

This act of 1784, which subsequently converted estate tail into fee simple, did not change original form of the acquisition, which still continued to be by purchase: Ballard v. Griffin, 4-237.

Section does not affect principle of law decided in Shelley’s case: Dawson v. Quinnerly, 118-188.

1735. Survivorship in joint tenancy abolished; proviso as to partnership. In all estates, real or personal, held in joint tenancy, the part or share of any tenant dying shall not descend or go to the surviving tenant, but shall descend or be vested in the heirs, executors, or administrators, or assigns, respectively, of the tenant so dying, in the same manner as estates held by tenancy in common:
Provided, that estates held in joint tenancy for the purpose of carrying on and promoting trade and commerce, or any useful work or manufacture, established and pursued with a view of profit to the parties therein concerned, are vested in the surviving partner, in order to enable him to settle and adjust the partners-ship business, or pay off the debts which may have been contracted in pursuit of the joint business; but as soon as the same is effected, the survivor shall account with, and pay, and deliver to the heirs, executors, administrators and assigns respectively of such deceased partner all such part, share, and sums of money as he may be entitled to by virtue of the original agreement, if any, or according to his share or part in the joint concern, in the same manner as partnership stock is usually settled between joint merchants and the representatives of their deceased partners.

Rev., s. 1579; Code, s. 1326; R. C., c. 43, s. 2; 1784, c. 204, s. 6.

Section does not abolish joint tenancies: Rowland v. Rowland, 93-214, and cases cited—but only takes away right of survivorship from joint tenancies in fee, Ibid.; Blair v. Osborne, 84-417; Powell v. Morisse, 84-421—and has no application to joint tenancies for life, Ibid.;
Powell v. Allen, 75-450.

Section does not prohibit contracts making rights of parties dependent upon survivorship:
Taylor v. Smith, 116-531.

Word "estates," as used in section, defined: Bond v. Hilton, 51-180.

TENANCY OF HUSBAND AND WIFE. A conveyance to husband and wife does not create a joint tenancy, but an estate by entireties: Morton v. Lumber Co., 154-278; Spruill 87-329; Woodford v. Higly, 60-234; Todd v. Zachary, 45-286—and survivorship in such estates is not abolished, West v. R. R., 140-321; Gray v. Bailey, 117-439; Phillips v. Hodges, 109-250; Woodford v. Higly, 60-234—but, husband and wife being in law but one person, they have each the whole estate as one person, and on the death of either, the whole estate continues in survivor, Ray v. Long, 132-891; Phillips v. Hodges, 109-250, quoting from Long
v. Barnes, 87-329; Simonton v. Cornelius, 98-433; Harrison v. Ray, 108-216; Motley v. White-more, 19-537; Woodford v. Higly, 60-234; Todd v. Zachary, 45-286.

General nature of estate by entireties explained: Moore v. Trust Co., 178-118; Freeman v.
Belfer, 173-581. That it does not apply to personality, see Gooch v. Bank, 176-213. Where husband and wife paid for the land, they will hold it by entireties: Ray v. Long, 132-891—and where deed was made to husband he will be declared a trustee for the wife, Murchison
v. Fogelman, 165-397. Where father made conveyance of land to son in consideration of comfortable support of himself and wife during their natural lives, in default of which grantee covenanted to reconvey: Held, that grantor and wife had right to demand reconveyance, on breach of covenant, in entirety, with right of survivorship: Stamper v. Stamper, 121-251.

A conveyance of land to husband and wife may create a tenancy in common instead of an estate by entireties, if the intention so appears: White v. Goodwin, 174-723; Holloway v.
Green, 167-91; Eason v. Eason, 159-539; Highsmith v. Page, 158-226; s. c., 161-356; Staleup
v. Staleup, 137-305; Isley v. Sellers, 153-374. Where one of two tenants in common makes a conveyance to wife of cotenant, such cotenant and wife hold as tenants in common: Isley

Where a deed is made to husband and wife for partition of land owned by wife, an estate by entireties is not created, and the wife's title is not changed: Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182; Speas v. Woodhouse, 162-66; Sprinkle v. Spainhour, 149-223; Harrington v. Rawls,

In an estate by entireties neither party can convey or encumber the estate without the assent of the other, nor is it subject to a lien or to be taken for the debt of either party without the assent of the other: Bank v. McEwen, 160-414; Hood v. Moreer, 150-699; Bruce
v. Nicholson, 109-202. But a lease by the husband without joinder of wife is valid during coverture: Bank v. Gornto, 161-341; Dorsey v. Kirkland, 177-520. Neither party is entitled to partition: Jones v. Smith & Co., 149-318.

TENANCY OF COPARTNERS. Land purchased with partnership funds is held by partners in joint tenancy: Baird v. Baird Heirs, 21-524—and if, upon death of one partner and the winding up of the partnership, all the proceeds from sale of land is not needed to pay debts, the amount that would have gone to deceased partner descends to heir as real estate, Summey v. Patton, 60-601; Stroud v. Stroud, 61-526—and, accordingly, the widow is entitled to dower in such interest of deceased partner in partnership land not needed to pay partnership debts, Patton v. Patton, 60-572; Stroud v. Stroud, 61-526; see Sparger v. Moore, 117-449. Claims of surviving partner upon proceeds of sale of deceased partner's half of real estate, to reimburse him to amount of one-half on expenditures incurred in conduct of firm business and improvements put upon property, constitute encumbrance prior to claims of creditors of deceased partner: Mendenhall v. Beabow, 84-646. Equitable right of partnership under contract to convey land to firm, upon death of one of partners, vests in surviving partner in order to enable him to wind up partnership and pay its debts: McCaskill v. Lancashire, 83-396.

1736. Survivorship among trustees. In all cases where only a naked trust not coupled with a beneficial interest has been created or exists, or shall be created, and the conveyance is to two or more trustees, the right to perform the trust and make estates under the same shall be exercised by any one of such trustees, in the event of the death of his cotrustee or cotrustees or the refusal or inability of the cotrustee or cotrustees to perform the trust; and in cases of trusts herein named the trustees shall hold as joint tenants, and in all respects as joint tenants held before the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four.

As to statute of limitations, see section 419.

Executors and administrators hold as joint tenants, see section 172. Under provision of section that trustees shall hold as joint tenants in all respects as joint tenants held before 1784, where limitation had barred entry of one trustee, entry of cotrustees also barred: Webb v. Borden, 145-188; Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

Trustees are seized as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, Webb v. Borden, 145-188; Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

As to survivor of two or more mortgagees or trustees executing the power of sale in mortgage or deed of trust, see section 2582.

1737. Limitations on failure of issue. Every contingent limitation in any deed or will, made to depend upon the dying of any person without heir or heirs of the body, or without issue or issues of the body, or without children, or offspring, or descendant, or other relative, shall be held and interpreted a limitation to take effect when such person dies not having such heir, or issue, or child, or offspring, or descendant, or other relative (as the case may be) living at the time of his death, or born to him within ten lunar months thereafter, unless the intention of such limitation be otherwise, and expressly and plainly declared in the face of the deed or will creating it: Provided, that the rule of construction contained in this section shall not extend to any deed or will made and executed before the fifteenth of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-eight.

It is the policy of the law to favor the early vesting of estates: McDonald v. Howe, 178-257; Radford v. Rose, 178-288. This section fixes a definite time when the estate of the first taker becomes absolute: Bell v. Keesler, 175-525. It applies only to instruments executed since January 15, 1828: Sain v. Baker, 178-257; Weeks v. Weeks, 40-111. For the old rule of construction, see Hilliard v. Kearney, 45-221; Patterson v. McCormick, 177-448.

"Dying without heirs or issue," upon which a limitation over takes effect, is referable to the death of the first taker of the fee without issue living at the time of his death, and not to the death of any other person or to any intermediate period, unless it is clearly indicated otherwise in the instrument creating the estate: Patterson v. McCormick, 177-448 (discussing the rule and collecting the cases); Sharpe v. Brown, 177-294; Williams v. Blizzard, 176-146; Smith v. Parks, 176-406; Robertson v. Andrews, 175-492; Bank v. Murray, 175-69; Whitfield v. Douglass, 175-46; Kirkman v. Smith, 174-603; s. c., 175-579; Bowden v. Lynch, 173-203; O’Neal v. Borders, 170-483; Hobgood v. Hobgood, 169-485; Burden v. Lipsitz, 166-523; Rees v. Williams, 164-128; s. c., 165-201; Smith v. Lumber Co., 155-389; Perrett v. Bird, 152-220; Sessoms v. Sessoms, 144-121; Sain v. Baker, 128-259; Kornegay v. Morris, 122-202; Buchanan v. Buchanan, 99-308; Smith v. Brisson, 100-284; Hathaway v. Harris, 84-98.

An estate to grantee for life, with remainder to the heirs of grantor, is construed to be an estate to the children of grantor: Thompson v. Batts, 168-333. The term "children" construed not to include "grandchildren": s. c., 168-530. "Bodily heirs" and "lawful heirs of her body" construed to mean children: Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209; Albright v. Albright, 172-351.

A devise to a child "and the lawful heirs of his body lawfully begotten," and a further provision that upon the death of either of testator's children his share should go to the survivor, with other contingent limitations: Held, that the two items should be construed together, and constituted a defeasible fee: Perrett v. Bird, 152-220.

Section does not change application of doctrine of shifting uses and executory devises in determining nature and extent of precedent estate: Sessoms v. Sessoms, 144-121. Section does not interfere with application of rule in Shelley's case in determining nature and extent of precedent estate: King v. Utley, 85-61.

For limitations held good under section, see Sanderlin v. Deford, 47-75; Garland v. Watt, 26-287; Moore v. Barrow, 24-436; Tillman v. Sinclair, 23-183.

1738. Unborn infant may take by deed or writing. An infant unborn, but in esse, shall be deemed a person capable of taking by deed or other writing any estate whatever in the same manner as if he were born.

Rev., s. 1552; Code, s. 1528; R. C., c. 43, s. 4.

Child en ventre sa mere at time of execution of deed to heirs of a living person takes as tenant in common with living children: Powell v. Powell, 168-561; Campbell v. Everhart, 139-503; Graves v. Barrett, 126-267—so also where deed made to a woman "and her children," Heath v. Heath, 114-547—but child born more than a year after execution of instrument will not take, ibid.

An estate to A. for life, remainder to his children in fee, will include those in existence at the time and those born afterward during the continuance of the particular estate: Powell v. Powell, 168-561.

For interesting case prior to enactment of section, see Dupree v. Dupree, 45-164.

Section merely referred to in Deal v. Sexton, 144-159.

1739. "Heirs" construed "children" in certain limitations. A limitation by deed, will, or other writing, to the heirs of a living person, shall be construed to be to the children of such person, unless a contrary intention appear by the deed or will.

Deed to heirs of living person construed to be limitation to children of such person, and includes after-born children: Graves v. Barrett, 126-267; Campbell v. Everhart, 139-503—applies to all who fill the description at the time the particular precedent estate terminates, Cooley v. Lee, 170-18—but where estate settled on one for life, with power of appointment in fee, by writing, to take effect after her death, and in case of a failure to appoint, then to heirs of donee for life, word "heirs" does not come within section so as to be interpreted "children," Graves v. Trueblood, 96-495.

Words "and lawful heirs of her body" in instrument to be taken as implying children, nothing to contrary appearing: Jarvis v. Davis, 99-40; see, also, Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209; Albright v. Albright, 172-351.

Where bequest immediate, not dependent upon preceding limited estate, to heirs of living person, and children of such person are illegitimate, they are entitled to take under section: Howell v. Tyler, 91-207; see Smith v. Brisson, 90-284.

An estate granted to A. for life and then to the heirs of C., who is living, section applies: Conidor v. Secrest, 149-201.

Where there is a conveyance to a living person, with a limitation to his heirs, section does not apply: Thompson v. Batts, 168-333; Jones v. Ragsdale, 141-200; Marsh v. Griffin, 136-334. This would come under the rule in Shelley's case, which is not abolished by this section: Nichols v. Gladden, 117-499; Starnes v. Hill, 112-1; Chamblee v. Broughton, 120-170; but see Howell v. Knight, 100-254; Jenkins v. Jenkins, 96-254.

Cases in which the rule in Shelley's case did not apply: Smith v. Moore, 178-370; Radford v. Rose, 178-288; Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209.

1740. Possession transferred to use in certain conveyances. By deed of bargain and sale, or by deeds of lease and release, or by covenant to stand seized to use, or deed operating by way of covenant to stand seized to use, or otherwise, by any manner or means whatsoever it be, the possession of the bargainor, releasor, or covenanter shall be deemed to be transferred to the bargainee, releasee, or person entitled to the use, for the estate or interest which such person shall have in the use, as perfectly as if the bargainee, releasee or person entitled to the use had been enfeoffed at common law with livery of seizin of the land intended to be conveyed by such deed or covenant.

Rev., s. 1584; Code, s. 1330; R. C., c. 43, s. 6; 27 Hen. VIII, c. 10.

Estate of freehold to commence in futuro can be conveyed by deed of bargain and sale operating under section: Savage v. Lee, 90-320.

As to necessity of consideration and effect of lack of consideration in conveyance to use, see Pittman v. Pittman, 107-163; Ivey v. Granberry, 66-227; Springs v. Hawks, 27-30. A fee simple may be limited after a fee simple either by deed or will by operation of statute of uses; if by deed, it is a conditional limitation; if by will, it is an executory devise: Smith v. Brisson, 90-284. As to whether a use can be executed upon a use, see Rowland v. Rowland, 93-221; Jones v. Jones, 164-320.

Where estate conveyed to trustee to preserve contingent remainders, this section will not execute the use: Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

In case of a passive trust the statute vests the estate in the cestui que trust: Lee v. Oates, 171-717; Springs v. Hopkins, 171-486; McKenzie v. Kirby, 114-425—the cestui que trust can call for legal title, and a court of equity will force trustee to convey it to him, Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-154; McKenzie v. Sumner, 114-425; Jasper v. Maxwell, 16-357; Turnage v. 780
Greene, 53-63; see, however, Wilder v. Ireland, 53-85; Kirby v. Boyette, 118-263—when there will be a merger of the legal and equitable estates, Odom v. Morgan, 177-367.

The words "for the sole and separate use," or equivalent language, qualifying estate of trustee for a married woman, must be construed as manifesting intent on part of grantor to limit her right of alienation to mode and manner expressly provided in instrument by which estate created: Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244.

Where one devised in 1828 to trustee to use and benefit of a woman for her life, remainder to use of all her children: Held, that by force of this section the legal estate for life was executed in woman, and that legal estate in remainder passed to children she had at time of devise, subject to participation of such as she might thereafter have: Wilder v. Ireland, 53-85.

A trust for the separate use of a married woman is a passive trust, if created since the constitution of 1868, unless there are active duties to be performed by the trustee: Freeman vy. Lide, 176-434, citing Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-154, and distinguishing Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244, and Hardy v. Holley, 84-669.

A deed in trust to allow the daughter to enjoy the rents and profits during her life, with remainder over, conveys equitable life estate, but not the right to have the value of such life estate in money upon sale of the property: Braddy v. Dail, 156-30.

1741. Collateral warranties abolished; warranties by life tenants deemed covenants. All collateral warranties are abolished; and all warranties made by any tenant for life of lands, tenements or hereditaments, the same descending or coming to any person in reversion or remainder, shall be void; and all such warranties, as aforesaid, shall be deemed covenants only, and bind the covenanter in like manner as other obligations.

Rev., s. 1557; Code, s. 1334; R. C., c. 43, s. 10; 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 21; 1852, c. 16.

Title by estoppel and by rebutter explained: Olds v. Cedar Works, 173-161; Weeks v. Wilkins, 139-215.

Warranty has the effect of a personal covenant: Hauser v. Craft, 134-319; Smith v. Ingram, 130-102; see, also, Wiggins v. Pender, 132-628.

Where a father, having a life estate only, makes deed in fee for land, with warranty, his heir, with or without assets, is rebutted by warranty, except in cases where rule of common law changed by statute or where the heir can connect himself with outstanding remainder or reversion: Southerland v. Stout, 68-446. The warranty in the deed of the life tenant cannot defeat the remainder of the heirs by way of rebutter: Starnes v. Hill, 112-13, citing Moore v. Parker, 34-129. Where tenant by curtesy conveys land belonging to wife, in fee with general warranty, right of heirs of wife to land not rebutted by warranty: Johnson v. Bradley, 31-362. Where land devised to person for life and at death of life tenant to children thereof, such children not estopped by deed with covenant of warranty executed by life tenant: Hauser v. Craft, 134-319; Starnes v. Hill, 112-13; Brown v. Ward, 103-173; Southerland v. Stout, 68-446; Moore v. Parker, 34-129.

Section merely referred to in Whitesides v. Cooper, 115-577.

1742. Spendthrift trusts. It is lawful for any person by deed or will to convey any property, which does not yield at the time of the conveyance a clear annual income exceeding five hundred dollars, to any other person in trust to receive and pay the profits annually or oftener for the support and maintenance of any child, grandchild or other relation of the grantor, for the life of such child, grandchild or other relation, with remainder as the grantor shall provide; and the property so conveyed shall not be liable for or subject to be seized or taken in any manner for the debts of such child, grandchild or other relation, whether the same be contracted or incurred before or after the grant.

Rev., s. 1558; Code, s. 1335; 1871-2, c. 294, s. 1.

Provisions of section should be at least substantially complied with to create trust with incidents contemplated by same: Gray v. Hawkins, 133-1—and where no declaration of trust in deed, nor any limitation of estate to life of child or grandchild, such deed inoperative under section, Ibid.; see, also, Vaughan v. Wise, 152-51.

This is an active trust, and no part of the income is vested in the beneficiary, but is only to be used for his benefit: Fowler v. Webster, 173-442.

1743. Titles quieted. An action may be brought by any person against another who claims an estate or interest in real property adverse to him for the purpose of determining such adverse claims; and by any man or woman against his or her wife or husband or alleged wife or husband who have not lived together as man and wife within the two years preceding, and who at the death of such plaintiff might have or claim to have an interest in his or her estate, and a decree for the plaintiff shall debar all claims of the defendant in the property of the plaintiff then owned or afterwards acquired: Provided, that no such relief shall be granted against such husband or wife or alleged wife or husband, except in case the summons in said action is personally served on such defendant.

If the defendant in such action disclaim in his answer any interest or estate in the property, or suffer judgment to be taken against him without answer, the plaintiff cannot recover costs. In any case in which judgment has been or shall be docketed, whether such judgment is in favor of or against the person bringing such action, or is claimed by him, or affects real estate claimed by him, or whether such judgment is in favor of or against the person against whom such action may be brought, or is claimed by him, or affects real estate claimed by him, the lien of said judgment shall be such claim of an estate or interest in real estate as is contemplated by this section.

Steps leading to the adoption of section explained: Crockett v. Bray, 151-615. It is in the nature of the equitable remedy to remove a cloud upon title, and is to be liberally construed: Nobles v. Nobles, 177-243; Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668; s. e., 171-248; Satterwhite v. Gallagher, 173-525; Christman v. Hilliard, 167-4; Campbell v. Cronly, 150-457.

Plaintiff need not be in possession to bring the action: Speas v. Woodhouse, 162-66; Swindell v. Smaw, 156-1; Land Co. v. Lange, 150-26; McLean v. Shaw, 125-492; Daniels v. Fowler, 120-14—and plaintiff can maintain such action without showing that defendant is an occupant or any more than claimant of land in controversy, Burgess v. Burgess, 117-447. Action to determine conflicting claims to land may be treated as action of ejectment, when complaint alleges ownership in plaintiff and possession in defendant: Hines v. Myre, 125-8; Kerncl v. Cottage Co., 123-394. Where plaintiff is in possession of lands, and court finds defendant's claim to be invalid, action should not be dismissed: Rumbo v. Mfg. Co., 129-9—but decree should be entered removing the cloud from title, Ibid.

The action may be maintained to remove tax deed as cloud upon title: Rexford v. Phillips, 159-213; Beck v. Meroney, 135-532; Edwards v. Lyman, 122-741—to remove attachment lien, Crockett v. Bray, 151-615—by married woman to determine validity of contract, Satterwhite v. Gallagher, 173-525—by devisee to determine interest conveyed in a devise, Nobles v. Nobles, 177-243; Smith v. Smith, 173-134—to restrain the enforcement of a judgment for the sale of land, Little v. Efrid, 170-187—to have the record of will executed in another state and recorded here, removed, McEwan v. Brown, 176-249—to determine the validity of restrictive covenants in a deed, Guilford v. Porter, 167-366—by the grantor in a deed held in escrow, Board of Ed. v. Development Co., 159-162—between parties claiming under the same deed, Byrd v. Byrd, 176-115—to remove a registered mortgage which appears to be valid, McArthur v. Griffith, 147-545—to correct a deed to convey a fee instead of a life estate, McLamb v. McPhail, 126-218—to have a deed under execution sale declared void as against a married woman, Rutherford v. Ray, 147-253.

Defendant may ask for affirmative relief under this section, and plaintiff cannot take nonsuit: McLean v. McDonald, 173-429.

Should purchaser at execution sale delay to commence suit for possession, claimant to title, whether in or out of possession, could proceed under section against such purchaser: McLean 1744. Remainders to uncertain persons; procedure for sale; proceeds secured.

In all cases where there is a vested interest in real estate, and a contingent remainder over to persons who are not in being, or when the contingency has not yet happened which will determine who the remaindermen are, there may be a sale of the property by a proceeding in the superior court at term time, which proceeding shall be conducted in the manner pointed out in this section. Such proceedings may be commenced by summons by any person having a vested interest in the land, and all persons in esse who are interested in said land shall be made parties defendant and served with summons as in other civil actions, and upon nonresidents or persons whose names and residences are unknown, by publication as now required by law or such service in lieu of publication as now provided by law. In cases where the remainder will or may go to minors or persons under other disabilities, or to persons not in being, or whose names and residences are not known, or who may in any contingency become interested in said land, but because of such contingency cannot be ascertained, the judge of the superior court shall, after due inquiry of persons who are in no way interested in or connected with such proceeding, designate and appoint some discreet person as guardian ad litem to represent such remaindermen, upon whom summons shall be served as provided by law for other guardians ad litem, and it shall be the duty of such guardian ad litem to defend such actions, and when counsel is needed to represent him, to make this known to the judge, who shall by an order give instructions as to the employment of counsel and the payment of fees.

The court shall, if the interest of all parties require or would be materially enhanced by it, order a sale of such property or any part thereof for reinvestment, either in purchasing or in improving real estate, less expense allowed by the court for the proceeding and sale, and such newly acquired or improved real estate shall be held upon the same contingencies and in like manner as was the property ordered to be sold. The court may authorize the loaning of such money subject to its approval until such time when it can be reinvested in real estate.

The court may authorize the temporary reinvestment, pending final investment in real estate, of funds derived from such sale in coupon bonds of the United States of America (commonly called Liberty Bonds) issued incident to the late war between the United States and the Imperial German Government; but in the event of such reinvestment, the commissioners, trustees or other officers appointed by the court to hold such funds shall hold the bonds in their possession and shall pay to the life tenant and owner of the vested interest in the lands sold only the interest accruing on and evidenced by the coupons attached to the bonds, and the principal of the bonds shall be held subject to final reinvestment and to such expense only as is provided in this section. Temporary reinvestments, as aforesaid, in liberty bonds heretofore made with the approval of the court of all or a part of the funds derived from such sales are ratified and declared valid.

Rev., s. 1590; 1903, c. 99; 1905, c. 548; 1907, cc. 956, 950; 1919, c. 17.

See, also, sections 3235, 3245. This section is constitutional; it also applies to estates created prior to its enactment: Springs v. Scott, 132-548; Anderson v. Wilkins, 142-159; Smith v. Miller, 151-620.

Court has power hereunder where there is a vested interest in real estate and contingent remainder over to persons not in being, or when contingency has not happened which will determine who remaindermen are, to order sale by conforming to procedure prescribed by section: Springs v. Scott, 132-548; Dunn v. Hines, 164-113; Vinson v. Wise, 159-653.

Decree should provide for investment of fund in such way as court may deem best for protection of all persons who have or may have remote or contingent interests: Springs v. Scott, 132-548; Thompson v. Rosspigliosi, 162-145; Pendleton v. Williams, 175-248; Dawson v. Wood, 177-158; McLean v. Caldwell, 178-424. The purchaser is not required to see to proper application of the funds: McLean v. Caldwell, 178-424.

Clerk of court has no jurisdiction of action to sell property for reinvestment, etc., under section: Smith v. Witter, 174-616; Smith v. Gudger, 133-627—though where case carried to superior court on appeal same will be retained for hearing, Ibid.

In action for sale of land for reinvestment in which are contingent interests, it is sufficient to make parties those who would, by happening of contingency, have estate therein at time of commencing action: Bullock v. Oil Co., 165-63; O'Hagan v. Johnson, 163-197; Hodges v. Lipscomb, 133-199—and persons not in being, who may have interest in property invested, not necessary parties in action for sale thereof and reinvestment, Smith v. Gudger, 133-627—though where remainder may go to minors, or persons not in esse, or unknown, court may appoint guardian ad litem to represent such parties, Hodges v. Lipscomb, 133-199.

Contingent remaindermen, not represented either by guardian or attorney, and not named in process, pleadings or decree, not bound by proceedings for partition instituted by other remaindermen and life tenant: Whitesides v. Cooper, 115-570.

As to assignments of contingent remainders, see Kornegay v. Miller, 137-659.

For cases prior to enactment of section, see Hodges v. Lipscomb, 128-57; Marsh v. Dellingier, 127-360; Hutchinson v. Hutchison, 126-67; Yancey's case, 124-151; Smith v. Smith, 118-735; Overman v. Tate, 114-571; Aydlett v. Pendleton, 111-28; Young v. Young, 97-132; Justice v. Guion, 76-442.

1745. Sales of contingent remainders validated. In all cases where property has been conveyed by deed, or devised by will, upon contingent remainder, executory devise, or other limitation, where a judgment of a superior court has been rendered authorizing the sale of such property discharged of such contingent remainder, executory devise or other limitation in actions or special proceedings where all persons in being who would have taken such property if the contingency had then happened were parties, such judgment shall be valid and binding upon the parties thereto and upon all other persons not then in being: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair or destroy any vested right or estate.

Rev., s. 1591; 1905, c. 93.

For deeds of revocation of future interests made to persons not in esse, see Conveyances, Art. 1, s. 906.

The enactment of this section was a valid exercise of legislative power: Anderson v. Wilkins, 142-154; Dunn v. Hines, 164-113; Bullock v. Oil Co., 165-63.
1746. Freeholders in petition for special taxes defined. In all cases where a petition by a specific number of freeholders is required as a condition precedent to ordering an election to provide for the assessment or levy of taxes upon realty, all residents of legal age owning realty for life or longer term, irrespective of sex, shall be deemed freeholders within the meaning of such requirement.

1915, c. 22.

The term "freeholders" in a petition for election under Revisal, sec. 4115 (now section 5526), was held not to include women: Gill v. Comrs., 160-176. But women are included under the term for special purpose in this section: Chitty v. Parker, 172-126.

Moore, 50-130; State v. Jackson, 13-563; Moore v. Gwynn, 27-187. Semble, that unless pleaded and proven, presumption is that statutory law of another state same as this state: Lassiter v. R. Certificate of secretary of state as to statutes of another state, given in pursuance of section, is evidence in criminal as well as civil cases: State v. Patterson, 24-346. Section substantially complied with by certificate under hand and private seal of secretary of state, accompanied by certificate of governor, under seal of state, as to official character of secretary of state: State v. Any person claiming to know common or unwritten laws of another state or foreign country may testify to and explain them before courts and juries: State v. Behrman, 114-797; Temple v. Tel. Co., 142-163.

When the law of another state has been proved, its construction is for the court: Keesler v. Ins. Co., 177-394; Harrison v. R. R., 168-382; s. c., 171-751; Hooper v. Moore, 50-130; Moore v. Gwynn, 27-187.

A certificate of an act of South Carolina reciting the title of a prior act not sufficient as evidence of such prior act: State v. Welsh, 10-404.

Lunsford, 20-142. But see section 1752.

In all trials where the title of either plaintiff or defendant shall be derived from Henry Eustace McCulloch, or Henry McCulloch, out of their tracts number one and three, it shall not be required of such party to produce, in support of his title, either the original grant from the crown to the proprietors, or a registered copy thereof; but in all such cases the grant or deed executed by such reputed proprietors, or by his or their lawful attorney, or a certified copy thereof, shall be deemed and held sufficient proof of the title of such proprietors, in the same manner as though the original grants were produced in evidence.

Rev., s. 1598; Code, s. 1251; 1803, c. 119, s. 2; R. C., c. 37, s. 16; 1846, c. 68, s. 1.

Record of registered deed competent evidence without producing original, where no rule of court for production of original issued: Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-425—as is also certified copies of such registered deeds, Hughes v. Debnam, 53-127—and duly authenticated copy of record of bond to make title, under which deed made, is within spirit and meaning of section, and admissible without accounting for absence of original, Bohanan v. Shelton, 46-370—also, as register required to keep bond of clerk superior court, duly certified copy of record of such bond competent evidence of its provisions, Battle v. Baird, 118-854; Short v. Currie, 53-42.

Harbin, 87-249. Copy of grant from register's office, which affirmatively shows that same issued under great seal of state, admissible in evidence, though registry does not show impress of seal or scroll to indicate same: Aycock v. R. R., 89-321. Where the record recites a private seal, but no seal is indicated with the name, a presumption arises that instrument was under seal: Hopkins v. Lumber Co., 162-533; Edwards v. Supply Co., 150-176; Strain v. Fitzgerald, 130-601; Heath v. Cotton Mills, 115-202. When the deed recites the names of the grantors and the probate recites their acknowledgment and signatures, but the names were omitted in recording, the record is sufficient: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-48.

The original may be used to show that the defect which appears upon the record did or did not exist: Brown v. Hutchison, 155-205; Patterson v. Gallihier, 122-511; Strain v. Fitzgerald, 128-396.

The copy of the record is not any better evidence than the original: Richards v. Lumber Co., 158-54. If the instrument is not properly admitted to probate and registration, a copy of the record is not sufficient evidence: Buchanan v. Hedden, 169-222. Copy of abstract of grant dated in 1799, bearing signature of governor and certified by register, admissible in evidence to show land granted: Strickland v. Dranghan, 88-315. Not proper to correct by parol testimony certified copy of deed, as recorded, by showing that original, which was lost, had different description: Hopper v. Justice, 111-418.

Party against whom registry of instrument, or copy thereof, introduced in evidence cannot then raise objection that there is variance between such registry, or copy, and original instrument: Devereux v. McMahon, 108-134—but if he desired to avail himself of the objection, he should have required the production of the original in manner provided by section, Ibid.; Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-427.

For case prior to amendment of section (Acts 1893, c. 119, s. 2), providing seal for register of deeds, see Thompson v. Justice, 88-269.

1764. Common survey of contiguous tracts evidence. Whenever any person owns several tracts of land which are contiguous or adjoining, but held under different deeds and different surveys, it may be lawful for any such person to have all such bodies of land included in one common survey by running around the lines of the outer tracts, and thereupon the possession of any part of said land covered by such common survey shall be deemed and held in law as a possession of the whole and every part thereof: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the rights or claims of persons which have already acquired to any part of said land. In all cases where such common surveys are made as directed by this section, the same may be recorded and registered as in cases of deeds, and shall be evidence in like manner.

Rev., s. 1505; Code, s. 1277; 1869-70, c. 34, ss. 1, 2.

By recording survey of outer lines of contiguous tracts, so as to exhibit outer boundaries, as if the whole had been covered by one tract, possession at any point on any one of the tracts will amount to possession of all the tracts: McNamee v. Alexander, 109-244. Surveyor's testimony that the map is correct is sufficient to make it competent: Greenleaf v. Bartlett, 146-495.

1765. Certified copies registered in another county and used in evidence. A copy from the office of the register of deeds of any county of the record of any deed, mortgage, power of attorney or other instrument required or allowed to be registered, duly authenticated by the certificate and official seal of the register of deeds of such county, may, upon presentation to the register of deeds of any other county, be registered without further proof, and the record thereof, or a duly certified copy of the same, may be given in evidence in any court in the state where the original of such copy would be admitted as evidence, although the party offering the same shall be entitled to the possession of the original, and shall not account for the nonproduction thereof, unless by a rule or order of the court, made upon affidavit suggesting some material variance from the original in such registry or other sufficient grounds, such party shall have been previously required to produce the original, in which case the same shall be produced or its absence duly accounted for according to the course and practice of the court.

Rev., s. 1599; Code, s. 1253; 1893, c. 119, s. 3; R. C., c. 37, s. 16; 1846, c. 68.

See section 3319. For record of surveys as evidence, see section 7572. For registration of certificate of survey as evidence, see section 3559. Party against whom the registry of a deed or other instrument, or copy thereof, has been introduced in evidence cannot then raise objection that there is a variance between such registry, or copy, and the original instrument; if he desired to avail himself of such objection he should have required production of original in the way provided: Devereux v. McMahon, 108-134; Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-427. Section 1766. Deeds and records thereof lost, presumed to be in due form. Whenever it is shown in any judicial proceeding that a deed or conveyance of real estate has been lost or destroyed, and that the same had been registered, and that the register's book containing the copy has been destroyed by fire or other accident, so that a copy thereof cannot be had, it shall be presumed and held, unless the contents be shown to have been otherwise, that such deed or conveyance transferred an estate in fee simple, if the grantor was entitled to such an estate at the time of conveyance, and that it was made upon sufficient consideration.

Rev., s. 1602; Code, s. 1348; R. C., c. 44, s. 14; 1854, c. 17.

Rev., s. 1603; Code, s. 2175; R. C., e. 119, s. 21; 1784, c. 225, s. 6.

A copy of will made in another state, with its probate certified by judge of court in which proved, and accompanied by testimonials of governor of that state that person who gave certificate was proper officer to take such probate and certify same, is sufficient authentication to admit it in evidence: Knight v. Wall, 19-125.

Copies of wills filed or recorded in the office of the secretary of state, attested by the secretary, may be given in evidence in any court, and shall be taken as sufficient proof of the devise of real estate, and are declared good and effectual to pass the estate therein devised: Provided, that no such will may be given in evidence in any court nor taken as sufficient proof of the devise unless a certificate of probate appear thereon.

Rev., s. 1607; Code, s. 2181; R. C., e. 44, s. 12; 1852, e. 172; 1856-7, e. 22.

For case prior to amendment of 1856-57, see Stephens v. French, 48-390.

1775. Copies of wills recorded in wrong county. Whereas, by reason of the uncertainty of the boundary lines of many of the counties of the state, wills have been proved, recorded and registered in the wrong county, whereby titles are insecure; for remedy whereof: The registry or duly certified copy of the record of any will, duly recorded, may be given in evidence in any of the courts of this state.

Rev., s. 1608; Code, s. 2182; 1858-9, c. 18.
1776. Copy of will proved and lost before recorded. Rev., s. 1619; Code, s. 1344; R. C. c. 44, s. 9: 1802, c. 623.

See, also, sections 4148, 4149. Will proved in another state which bears certificate of clerk of court where probate had as to oath of attesting witnesses, but no other authentication, inadmissible in evidence: Hunter v. Kelly, 92-285—but copy of will made in another state, with probate certified by judge of court in which proved, accompanied by certificate of governor of state that person so certifying was proper officer to take probate and certify same, sufficient under section: Knight v. Wall, 19-125.

The certificate must be according to act of congress or by the proper officer of the state or territory: Riley v. Carter, 158-484; Smathers v. Jennings, 170-601. See section 4153.

As to authentication of records of other states generally, see Kinseley v. Rumbough, 96-193; see, also, in Appendix, Vol. 2, under Authentication of Records.

Rev., s. 1611; 1895, c. 415; 1903, c. 65.

Ramsay, 92-152—and pamphlet purporting to contain regulations of United States department of agriculture, not certified by any officer of department, with no seal attached, and not purporting to have been issued or published by authority thereof, not admissible as evidence, State v. R. R., 141-846.

As to records of state of the weather made by one who is appointed for that purpose by or of the letters testamentary, and a copy of an inventory or return of the either according to the act of congress or by the proper officer of such state or territory, shall be allowed as evidence.

Such copies are competent evidence when properly certified: Riley v. Carter, 158-484.

ART. 4. OTHER WRITINGS IN EVIDENCE

1782. Proof by attesting witness not required. It is not necessary to prove by the attesting witness instruments to the validity of which the attestation is not requisite, and such instruments may be proved by admission or otherwise as if there had been no attesting witness thereto: Provided, that this section shall not affect the method and manner of proving instruments for registration.

Rev., s. 1604; 1905, c. 204.

For proving instruments for registration, see section 3203 et seq.; as to execution of wills,
For a statement of attesting witness rule, see Bright v. Marcom, 121-86.

1783. Parol evidence to identify land described. In all actions for the possession of or title to any real estate parol testimony may be introduced to identify the land sued for, and fit it to the description contained in the paper-writing offered as evidence of title or of the right of possession, and if from this evidence the jury is satisfied that the land in question is the identical land intended to be conveyed by the parties to such paper-writing, then such paper-writing shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient in law to pass such title to or interest in such land as it purports to pass: Provided, that such paper-writing is in all other respects sufficient to pass such title or interest.

Rev., s. 1605; 1801, c. 465, s. 1.

For vagueness of description in a deed, see Conveyances, s. 992.

Cases in which description was sufficiently definite to identify the land by parol evidence:
Stoeckard v. Warren, 175-283; Alston v. Savage, 173-213; Patton v. Shuler, 167-500; Speed
v. Perry, 167-122; Hawes v. Lumber Co., 166-101; Lumber Co. v. Pearce, 166-588; Pate v.
161-569; Fulwood v. Fulwood, 161-601; Broadwell v. Morgan, 142-475; Janney v. Robbins, 141-400; Gugler v. White, 141-507; Moore v. Fowle, 139-51; Sherman v. Simpson, 121-129; Wilkins v. Jones, 119-95; Walker v. Moses, 113-597; Perry v. Scott, 109-374 (overruling in part Blow v. Vaughan, 105-198; Wilson v. Johnson, 105-211); Allen v. Sallinger, 108-159; Ennis v. McAdams, 108-507; Grubb v. Foust, 99-286; Edwards v. Bowden, 90-80; McGlaw-
798

While parol evidence competent to fit description to land intended to be conveyed by deed, yet it cannot add to or enlarge its scope: Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410; Harrison v. Hahn, 95-28—and where descriptive words in deed so indefinite that in order to give it effect something must be added, conveyance inoperative, Ibid.

It is a question for court to decide as one of law what was the boundary and for jury to determine where it is actually located: Gudger v. White, 141-507, and cases cited on page 519 of case; Scull v. Pruden, 92-168; Echerd v. Johnson, 126-409.

Description by name, where lands have a known name, is sufficient, and a tract can be then located by its name by parol proof: Moore v. Fowle, 139-51; Euliss v. McAdams, 108-507; Scull v. Pruden, 92-168. Descriptive words in a deed must, with the aid of the evidence aliunde, to which they point, identify the boundaries of land conveyed: Blow v. Vaughan, 105-198. This section applies only where there is a description which can be aided by parol, but not when there is no description: Harris v. Woodard, 130-581, and cases there cited; Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410—a deed which fails to describe land being as void now as it was before enactment of this section, Moore v. Fowle, 139-53. Parol evidence will be admitted to find a corner, but not to make a corner: Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410. A description calling for a point or stake as a beginning, and course and distance for all the rest of the description of boundaries, will not permit parol evidence to locate: Archibald v. Davis, 50-322; Mann v. Taylor, 49-272; Massey v. Belisle, 24-170.

As bearing upon subject-matter of section, see Fry v. Currie, 91-436; Hinchney v. Nichols, 72-66; Waters v. Simmons, 52-541; Lofton v. Heath, 3-347.

1784. Proof of handwriting by comparison. In all trials in this state, when it may otherwise be competent and relevant to compare handwritings, a comparison of a disputed writing with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the judge to be genuine, shall be permitted to be made by witnesses, and such writings and the evidence of witnesses respecting the same may be submitted to the court and jury as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise of the writing in dispute: Provided, this shall not apply to actions pending on March 5, 1913.

1785. Bills of lading in evidence. In all actions by or against common carriers in which it shall be thought necessary to introduce in evidence any bills of lading issued by said common carrier or by a connecting carrier, it shall be competent to introduce in evidence any paper-writing purporting to be the original bill of lading, or a duplicate thereof, upon proof that such paper purporting to be such bill of lading or duplicate was received in due course of mail from consignor or agent of said carrier or connecting carrier, or delivered by said common carrier to the consignee or other person entitled to the possession of the property for which said paper purports to be the bill of lading: Provided, that such purported bill of lading shall not be declared to be the bill of lading unless the said purported bill of lading is first exhibited by the plaintiff or his agent or attorney to the defendant or its attorney, or its agent upon whom process may be served, ten days before the trial where the point of shipment is in the state, and twenty days when the point of shipment is without the state. Upon such proof and introduction of the bill of lading, the due execution thereof shall be prima facie established.

1786. Book accounts under sixty dollars. When any person shall bring an action upon a contract, or shall plead, or give notice of, a setoff or counterclaim for goods, wares and merchandise by him sold and delivered, or for work done and performed, he shall file his account with his complaint, or with his plea or notice of setoff or counterclaim, and if upon the trial of the issue, or executing a writ of inquiry of damages in such action, he shall declare upon his oath that the matter in dispute is a book account, and that he hath no means to prove the delivery of any of the articles which he then shall propose to prove by himself but by this book, in that case such book may be given in evidence, if he shall make out by his own oath that it doth contain a true account of all the dealings, or the last settlement of accounts between himself and the opposing party, and that all the articles therein contained, and by him so proved, were bona fide delivered, and that he hath given the opposing party all just credits; and such book and oath shall be received as evidence for the several articles so proved to be delivered within two years next before the commencement of the action, but not for any article of a longer standing, nor for any greater amount than sixty dollars.

Rev., s. 1622; Code, s. 591; R. C., c. 15, s. 1; 1756, c. 57, ss. 2, 6, 7; C. C. P., s. 343a.

Plaintiff may prove by own oath balance due him of sixty dollars or under, although account produced was for more than that amount, but reduced by credits below same: McWilliams v. Cosby, 26-110.

Competent for party to swear to price as well as to delivery of articles in account: Colbert v. Piercy, 25-77—but book and oath only evidence of articles delivered within two years, Alexander v. Smoot, 35-461—and not evidence that book contains all credits and full and true account of all dealings between such parties so as to show that nothing due to other party, and to disprove all his claim except such items as stated in book, Ibid.

Plaintiff under section may prove work and labor done by his slaves: Mitchell v. Clarke, 1-29—also goods sold and delivered for use of defendant by sundry persons and paid for by plaintiff, Ibid. Words ‘make out by own oath’ construed: Kitchen v. Tyson, 7-314.

Plaintiff cannot remit certain items to give justice jurisdiction and prove account under this section, since oath must show that statement contains all dealings between the parties: Waldo v. Jolly, 49-173.

In action on contract for sawing timber, not necessary to set out items in pleading, as section only applicable to actions brought under book-debt law: McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298.

To entitle party to recover, he must swear not only that he sold, but also actually delivered, articles for price of which suit brought: Adkinson v. Simmons, 33-416.

1787. Book accounts proved by personal representative. In all actions where executors and administrators are parties, such book account for all articles delivered within two years previous to the death of the deceased may be proved under the like circumstances, rules and conditions; and in such case, the executor or administrator may prove by himself that he found the account so stated on the books of the deceased; that there are no witnesses, to his knowledge, capable of proving the delivery of the articles which he shall propose to prove by said book, and that he believes the same to be just, and doth not know of any other or further credit to be given than what is therein mentioned: Provided, that if two years shall not have elapsed previous to the death of the deceased, the executor or administrator may prove the said book account, if the suit shall be commenced within three years from the delivery of the articles: Provided further, that whenever by the aforesaid proviso the time of proving a book account in manner aforesaid is enlarged as to the one party, to the same extent shall be enlarged the time as to the other party.

Rev., s. 1623; Code, s. 592; R. C., c. 15, s. 2; 1756, c. 57, s. 2; 1796, c. 465; C. C. P., s. 343b.

Admissible for personal representative to offer book of accounts of decedent, containing charges against third persons made by deceased, up to amount of sixty dollars: Bland v. Warren, 65-372; Charlton v. Lawry, 1-30. Where administrator takes book-debt oath and swears that original entry is in handwriting of person who has not been heard of in seven years, and that he knows of no one who can prove such handwriting: held, account sufficiently proved: Stevelie v. Greenlee, 12-317.

1788. Copies of book accounts in evidence. A copy from the book of accounts proved in manner above directed may be given in evidence in any such action or setoff as aforesaid, and shall be as available as if such book had been produced, unless the party opposing such proof shall give notice to the adverse party or his attorney, at the joining of the issue, or ten days before the trial, that he will require the book to be produced at the trial; and in that case no such copy shall be admitted as evidence.

Rev., s. 1624; Code, s. 593; R. C., c. 15, s. 3; 1756, c. 57, s. 3; C. C. P., s. 343c.

Duty of person to produce original account, when notice to that effect given him by other party: Coxe v. Skeen, 25-443—and voluntary destruction of original will not authorize introduction of copy, Ibid.

1789. Itemized and verified accounts. In any actions instituted in any court of this state upon an account for goods sold and delivered, for services rendered, or labor performed, or upon any oral contract for money loaned, a verified itemized statement of such account shall be received in evidence, and shall be deemed prima facie evidence of its correctness.

Account, to be prima facie evidence of its correctness, must be properly verified, and so itemized and stated as to show indebtedness: Knight v. Taylor, 131-84—and must also show relation of debtor and creditor, Ibid. For account held to be sufficient under section, see Claus v. Lee, 140-552; Worthington v. Jolly, 174-266.

Itemized account under this section makes a prima facie case: Machine Co. v. Morrow, 174-198; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508; Carr v. Alexander, 169-665. But the account must be verified by one who swears of his own knowledge, and who is not excluded by section 1795: Nall v. Kelly, 169-717.

Section applied only to accounts for goods sold and delivered until amended by act of 1917, c. 32: Hospital Assn. v. Hobbs, 153-188; University v. Ogburn, 174-427.

ART. 5. LIFE TABLES

1791. Present worth of annuities
Whenever it is necessary to establish the present worth or cash value of an annuity to a person, payable annually during his life, such present worth or cash value may be ascertained by the use of the following table in connection with the mortuary tables established by law, the first column representing the number of years the annuity is to run and the second column representing the present cash value of an annuity of one dollar for such number of years, respectively:
The present cash value of the annuity for a fraction of a year may be ascertained as follows: Multiply the difference between the cash value of the annuities for the preceding and succeeding full years by the fraction of the year in decimals and add the sum to the present cash value for the preceding full year. When a person is entitled to the use of a sum of money for life, or for a given time, the interest thereon for one year may be considered as an annuity and the present cash value be ascertained as herein provided.

Art. 7. Attendance of Witness

1803. Issue and service of subpoena. In obtaining the testimony of witnesses in causes depending in the superior, criminal and inferior courts, the following rules shall be observed in practice, to wit:

In suits where witnesses are to appear at any court, the clerk at the instance of a party shall issue a subpoena, directed to the sheriff or other officer of the county where such witnesses reside, naming the time and place for their appearance, the names of the parties to the suit wherein the testimony is to be given, and the party at whose instance they are summoned. Every subpoena made returnable immediately shall be issued only in term time, and shall be personally served on the witness therein named. A copy of every subpoena issued by the clerk in vacation, in case any witness therein named is not to be found, may be left at his usual place of residence; and such copy certified by the sheriff or other officer, and left as aforesaid, shall be deemed a legal summons, and the person therein named shall be bound to appear in the same manner as if personally summoned.

Rev., s. 1639; Code, s. 1355; R. C., c. 31, s. 59; 1777, c. 115, s. 36.
For subpoena issued by party or attorney, see Civil Procedure, s. 919.

1804. Attendance before referee or commissioners. In all cases not otherwise provided for, when witnesses are required to attend any court, commission, referee, order of survey, or jury of view, a summons shall be issued by the clerk of the court, at the request of either party, naming the day and place when and where they are to appear, the names of the parties to the suit, and in whose behalf summoned.

Rev., s. 1640; Code, s. 1366; R. C., c. 31, s. 65; 1805, c. 685, ss. 1, 2.

1805. Subpoena duces tecum issued. In all causes depending in any court, in which the production of an original paper, lodged in any of the public offices of the state, or in any office of any court, shall become necessary, the court may issue the process of subpoena duces tecum, requiring such persons who hold said offices to attend the court with such original paper, in like manner and under the same penalties as witnesses are required in cases of subpoena to testify.

Rev., s. 1641; Code, s. 1372; R. C., c. 31, s. 81; 1797, c. 476.

1806. Subpoenas and depositions upon removal of cause. When any cause shall be removed from the superior court of one county to that of another, after the order of removal, depositions may be taken in the cause, and subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and commissions to take depositions may issue from either of the said courts, under the same rules as if the cause had been originally commenced in the court from which the subpoenas or commissions issued.

Rev., s. 1642; Code, s. 1371; R. C., c. 31, s. 72; 1810, c. 787; 1832, c. 8.

Upon removal of cause, jurisdiction of court from which removed ceased, unless otherwise provided in order of removal, or by consent of parties in writing duly filed: Fisher v. Mining Co., 105-124—but section makes exception to rule by provision that after removal subpoenas for witnesses and commissions to take depositions may issue from either court, Ibid.—and pending removal of cause from one county to another, and before deposit of transcript, competent for clerk of former county to take examination of parties, Comrs. v. Lemly, 85-341.

1807. Witnesses attend until discharged; effect of nonattendance. Every witness, being summoned to appear in any of the said courts, in manner before directed, shall appear accordingly, and continue to attend from term to term until discharged, when summoned in a civil action or special proceeding, by the court or the party at whose instance such witness shall be summoned, or, when summoned in a criminal prosecution, until discharged by the court, the prosecuting officer, or the party at whose instance he was summoned; and in default thereof shall forfeit and pay, in civil actions or special proceedings, to the party at whose instance the subpoena issued, the sum of forty dollars, to be recovered by motion in the cause, and shall be further liable to his action for the full damages which may be sustained for the want of such witness's testimony; or if summoned in a criminal prosecution shall forfeit and pay eighty dollars for the use of the state, or the party summoning him. If the civil action or special proceeding shall, in the vacation, be compromised and settled between the parties, and the party at whose instance such witness was summoned should omit to discharge him from further attendance, and for want of such discharge he shall attend the next term, in that case the witness, upon oath made of the facts, shall be entitled to a ticket from the clerk in the same manner as other witnesses, and shall recover from the party at whose instance he was summoned the allowance which is given to witnesses for their attendance, with costs.

No execution shall issue against any defaulting witness for the forfeiture aforesaid but after notice made known to him to show cause against the issuing thereof; and if sufficient cause be shown of his incapacity to attend, execution shall not issue, and the witness shall be discharged of the forfeiture without costs; but otherwise the court shall, on motion, award execution for the forfeiture against the defaulting witness.

Rev., s. 1648; Code, s. 1856; R. C., c. 31, ss. 60, 61, 62; 1777, c. 115, ss. 37, 38, 43; 1799, c. 528; 1801, c. 501.

When subpoena has been served on witness, he is required to attend from term to term until discharged: State v. Gwynn, 61-446; Sweany v. Hunter, 5-182.

Where two subpoenas served upon witness requiring attendance on same day at different places distant from each other, he may make election between them: Icelour v. Martin, 44-478—for he is not compelled to obey subpoena first served, Ibid.

Witness summoned in this state while casually here, but who resides in another state, cannot be amerced for nonattendance where he has returned to own state and was there at time when presence required as witness: Kinzey v. King, 28-76.

If witness allege that he was unable to attend court, such inability must be decided with reference to mode of travel which is in use in community: Eler v. Roberts, 25-11—and if practicable modes of conveyance to court exist, and it is not shown by witness that same was not within his power, nonattendance cannot be attributed to inability, Ibid. An attorney at law is not exempt from liability for failure to attend as a witness: In re Pierce, 163-247.

Issue in bastardy is not “criminal prosecution” so as to subject defaulting witness to fine of eighty dollars prescribed by section: Ward v. Bell, 52-79; see State v. Giles, 134-735.

For fees of witnesses, see section 3893. For right to demand and recover fees, see sections 1273, 1274.

Section referred to in Fite v. Lander, 52-249.

1808. Witnesses exempt from civil arrest. Every witness shall be exempt from arrest in civil actions or special proceedings during his attendance at any court, or before a commissioner, arbitrator, referee or other person authorized to command the attendance of such witness, and during the time such witness is going to and returning from the place of such attendance, allowing one day for every thirty miles such witness has to travel to and from his place of residence.

Rev., s. 1644; Code, s. 1367; R. C., c. 31, s. 70; 1777, c. 115, s. 44.

Citizen of another state voluntarily attending court here as witness is privileged from arrest in civil cases, though no subpoena served upon him: Ballinger v. Elliott, 72-596; Fentress v. Brown, 61-374.

Section does not repeal by implication the common-law privilege of exemption of nonresidents from service of civil process while attending as suitor or witness in this state: Cooper v. Wyman, 122-784; Hammerskold v. Rose, 52-629; see, also, Greenleaf v. Bank, 133-292. Exemption of witnesses from arrest not applicable to persons arrested in criminal proceedings: White v. Underwood, 125-25. How privilege may be claimed: School v. Pierce, 163-424. How far this privilege extended to attorneys at law: Greenleaf v. Bank, 133-292.

ART. 8. DEPOSITIONS

1809. Manner of taking depositions in civil actions. Any party in a civil action or special proceeding, upon giving notice to the adverse party or his attorney as provided by law, may take the depositions of persons whose evidence he may desire to use, without any special order therefor, unless the witness shall be beyond the limits of the United States.

Depositions shall be taken on commission, issuing from the court and under the seal thereof, by one or more commissioners, who shall be of kin to neither party, and shall be appointed by the clerk; or depositions may be taken by a notary public of this state or of any other state or foreign country, without a commission issuing from the court.

Depositions shall be subscribed and sealed up by the commissioners or notary public, and returned to the court, the clerk whereof or the judge holding the court, if the clerk is a party to the action, shall open and pass upon the same, after having first given the parties or their attorneys not less than one day's notice; and all such depositions, when passed upon and allowed by the clerk, without appeal, or by the judge upon appeal from the clerk's order, or by the judge holding the court, when the clerk is a party to the action, shall be deemed legal evidence, if the witness be competent.

Rey., s. 1652; Code, s. 1357; 1911, c. 158; R. C., c. 31, s. 63; 1893, c. 360; 1881, c. 279.

Discretionary with trial judge whether or not answers to leading questions shall be stricken out of deposition: Bank v. Carr, 130-479.

Depositions are admissible in evidence on trial of issue in bastardy as in other civil cases: Tidline v. Hickerson, 72-421.

Error to permit deposition taken out of state on Monday of term at which cause tried to be read in evidence: Taylor v. Gooch, 50-404.

Part of deposition cannot be offered to contradict witness: Barton v. Morphis, 15-240.

Irrelevant facts in deposition are incompetent: Downey v. Murphy, 18-82.

Failure to take in time for trial, where laches, no ground for continuance: Duncan v. Hill, 19-291.

Plaintiff need not wait for answer filed before taking deposition: Freeman v. Brown, 151-111.

AS TO APPOINTMENT OF COMMISSIONER. Commissioner should not be related to either of the parties: Younce v. Lumber Co., 155-239; Kerr v. Hicks, 131-90. Where commission to take deposition is issued to be executed within county where issued, no seal required to be affixed thereto: McArter v. Rhea, 122-614—otherwise where a deposition is to be executed outside of such county, for without such seal it is void, Freeman v. Lewis, 27-91. Appearance before commissioner waives irregularity in commission: Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402; Womack v. Gross, 135-378; McArter v. Rhea, 122-614; Davison v. Land Co., 118-368; Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-473. Commissions to take depositions may be made returnable to any subsequent term of court from which issued: Duncan v. Hill, 19-291. Surplusage in stating title of court does not invalidate commission: Armstrong v. Dalton, 15-568. A mistake in issuing commission as from "supreme court" when it appears to be from the superior court, does not invalidate: Dobson v. Finley, 53-495. Commissioner to take depositions presumed to be properly qualified until contrary shown: Gregg v. Mallett, 111-74.

A mistake in the initials of the commissioner is immaterial if there is sufficient in the notice to designate the time and place and the commissioner: Hardy v. Ins. Co., 167-22. The names of the witnesses need not be in the commission; it is sufficient if given in the notice: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10.

THE TAKING OF THE DEPOSITION. Not error to take deposition in place of business of one of the parties if such place named in notice and no suggestion that other party suffered any prejudice thereby: Bank v. Carr, 130-479. Deposition will be rejected where written down by attorney of party taking deposition: Mosely v. Mosely, 1-631. Interrogatories need not be in writing: Bank v. Bank of Asheville, 116-815—and answers need not be inserted after each interrogatory, where both interrogatories and answers are above the signature of commissioner: Street v. Andrews, 115-417. Name of commissioner should be inserted, inferred from Womack v. Gross, 135-378. Duty of witness to answer proper questions just as he would before judge or clerk: Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-146. Deposition unsigned by witness may be read in evidence: Boggs v. Mining Co., 162-393; Rutherford v. Nelson, 2-105; Murphy v. Work, 2-105. Adjournments by commissioner must be from day to day: Rutledge v. Read, 3-242. That witness was sworn only to the truth of the deposition does not render it inadmissible: Welborn v. Younger, 10-205. Where papers are referred to in a deposition they may be attached to it or identified by parol evidence: In re Clodfelter’s Will, 171-528.

THE RETURN OF THE DEPOSITION. Deposition must be sealed up by commissioner: Ward v. Ely, 12-372. Deposition certified to have been taken on day and in county in another state, as specified in notice, but without stating particular place, not admissible in evidence: English v. Camp, 2-358. Deposition must show names of parties to action either in caption or body of it: Murray v. Marsh, 3-290. One commissioner cannot amend return made by himself and another: Collier v. Jeffries, 3-400. The deposition is not returnable to a particular term, but should be returned promptly when taken: Askew v. Matthews, 175-187.

OPENING THE DEPOSITION. Provisions of section allowing clerk to pass upon depositions are only applicable to depositions of competent witnesses: Seborn v. Williams, 51-575 and where clerk passed upon and allowed one to be read which was taken out of county, under commission without seal, court may disregard such action, ibid. Custom, when opening deposition, to reserve the right to file exceptions as to its regularity, disapproved of in Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-197. Objection that commissioner related to one of parties must be made at time of opening before clerk: Kerr v. Hicks, 131-90. Party offering to read deposition as evidence must prove that he has given notice of opening of deposition before clerk as prescribed by section or show facts that would amount to waiver by opposite party of statutory requirement: Berry v. Hall, 105-154. Where it appeared that no notice was given adverse party of taking deposition and that same had not been passed upon by clerk, objection to its reception might be taken on trial of action: Bryan v. Jeffreys, 104-242. For objections to deposition which must be taken before trial, see sections 1819, 1820. Section merely referred to in Stern v. Herren, 101-518; Carroll v. Hodges, 98-420; Branton v. O’Briant, 93-99; Hill v. Bell, 61-122.

1810. Notice required for taking depositions. In taking depositions in civil actions or special proceedings, written notice of the time and place of taking a deposition, specifying the name of the witness, must be served by the party at whose instance it is taken upon the adverse party or his attorney. The time for serving such notice shall be as follows: Three entire days when the party notified resides within ten miles of the place where the deposition is to be taken; in other cases, where the party notified resides in the state, one day more for every additional twenty miles, except where the deposition is to be taken within ten miles of a railway in running operation in the state, when one day only shall be given for every hundred miles of railway to the place where the deposition is to be taken. When a deposition is to be taken beyond the state, ten days notice of the taking thereof shall be given, when the person whose deposition is to be taken resides within ten miles of a railway connecting with a line of railway within twenty miles of the place where the person notified resides. In other cases, where there are no railways running as above specified, twenty days notice shall be given. When objection is taken to the reading of any such deposition, upon the ground that there are no railways or connecting railways to and from the points specified in this section, or that the notice given had otherwise been actually insufficient, it shall devolve upon the party objecting to satisfy the court of the truth of his allegation.

Rev. s. 1652; Code, s. 1357; 1881, c. 270.

CONTENTS OF NOTICE. The notice must be properly entitled, inferred from Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628. Where notice specifies that deposition will be taken between certain hours of day same cannot be read unless appears to have been taken between hours specified: Farrar
v. Hamilton, 1-105; Harris v. Yarborough, 15-166. Where irregularity in notice, it is waived by attendance and cross-examination of witness: Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628. As to immaterial variance between notice and deposition, see Ridge v. Lewis, 1-599; Ellmore v. Mills, 2-359. Notice to take a number of depositions on the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th of a particular month does not, of itself, furnish ground for suppressing depositions: Kea v. Robeson, 39-427—for if adverse party attended, his action cured all indefiniteness, Ibid.

No ground of exception to deposition that notice was given to take ‘‘deposition of A, B, C, and others,’’ and deposition of neither A, B, nor C was taken: McDugald v. Smith, 33-576.

Notice to take deposition on Sunday is not good, and deposition taken under such notice must be rejected: Sloan v. Willeford, 25-307.

Notice to take deposition on a particular day of every week, for three successive months, is insufficient: Bedell v. State Bank, 12-483—while notice to take deposition of witness in Georgia on one of three successive specified days is sufficient: Harris v. Peterson, 4-358.

Notice must specify in what house deposition is to be taken: McNaughton v. Lester, 2-423—and it must be taken at house specified, Alston v. Taylor, 2-381—and where slight inaccuracy in description of house, it will be sufficient if it can be identified, Pursell v. Long, 52-102.

Where notice served that depositions will be taken at same time in two different places party notified may attend at either place designated and disregard notice as to other, and depositions taken in his absence at other place will on motion be quashed or suppressed, but where he elects to appear by counsel and cross-examine witness without making objection at time, this is waiver as to any defect in notice: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189.

A mistake in the name of the commissioner is immaterial if there is sufficient in the notice to designate the time and place and commissioner: Hardy v. Ins. Co., 167-22. The names of the witnesses need not be in the commission; it is sufficient if they are given in the notice: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10. The names of several witnesses ‘‘and others’’ in the notice is sufficient: In re Rawlings’ Will, 170-58.

SERVICE OF NOTICE. Town constable cannot serve notice in action pending in superior court: Cullen v. Absher, 119-441. For method of computing time of service of notice, see Beasley v. Downey, 32-284. Depositions taken by one party and filed in court, they may be read by other party without proof of notice, and on second trial they may be read by party who took same without proof of notice: Collier v. Jeffries, 3-400.

1811. Publication of notice in case of nonresident. Instead of the notice served upon the adverse party or his attorney in taking depositions in civil actions or special proceedings, when the adverse party is a nonresident and has no attorney of record, it shall be sufficient to publish notice to the adverse party in some newspaper published in the county where the action is pending, or if no newspaper is published in such county, then in some newspaper in the judicial district, for three consecutive weeks, giving the time and place of taking the deposition and specifying the name of the witness. And when the adverse party is a nonresident and service of notice cannot be had upon him or his attorney in this state, then one publication of notice to open such deposition shall be sufficient notice.

Notice by advertisement, party being a nonresident and his attorney having died, held good in Maxwell v. Holland, 2-302.

1812. Depositions for defendant in criminal actions. In all criminal actions, hearings and investigations it shall be lawful for the defendant in any such action to make affidavit before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said action is pending, that it is important for the defense that he have the testimony of any person, whose name must be given, and that such person is so infirm, or otherwise physically incapacitated, or nonresident of this state, that he cannot procure his attendance at the trial or hearing of said cause. Upon the filing of such affidavit, it shall be the duty of the clerk to appoint some responsible person to take the deposition of such witness, which deposition may be read in the trial of such criminal action under the same rules as now apply by law to depositions in civil actions: Provided, that the solicitor or prosecuting attorney of the district, county or town in which such action is pending have ten days notice of the taking of such deposition, who may appear in person or by representative to conduct the cross-examination of such witness. This section shall not apply to the taking of depositions in courts of justices of the peace.

When there are several defendants in a criminal action and one wishes a deposition on his behalf, it is not necessary to notify the other defendants. State v. Finley, 118-1161.

Depositions not used against defendant in criminal action, see State v. Mitchell, 119-784; State v. Thomas, 64-74.

1813. Depositions in justices' courts. Any party in a civil action before a justice of the peace may take the depositions of all persons whose evidence he may desire to use in the action; and to do so he may apply to the clerk of the superior court for a commission to take the same, and shall proceed in all things in taking such depositions as if such action was pending in the superior court. When any such depositions are returned to the clerk, they shall be opened and passed upon by the clerk, and delivered to the justice of the peace before whom the trial is to be had; and the reading and using of said depositions shall conform to the rules of the superior court.

1814. Depositions before municipal authorities. Any board of aldermen, board of town or county commissioners or any person interested in any proceeding, investigation, hearing or trial before such board, may take the depositions of all persons whose evidence may be desired for use in said proceeding, investigation, hearing or trial; and to do so, the chairman of such board or such person may apply in person or by attorney to the superior court clerk of that county in which such proceeding, investigation, hearing or trial is pending, for a commission to take the same, and said clerk, upon such application, shall issue such commission; and the notice and proceedings upon the taking of said depositions shall be the same as provided for in civil actions; and if the person upon whom the notice of the taking of such deposition is to be served is absent from or cannot after due diligence be found within this state, but can be found within the county in which the deposition is to be taken, then, and in that case, said notice shall be personally served on such person by the commissioner appointed to take such deposition; and when any such deposition is returned to the clerk it shall be opened and passed upon by him and delivered to such board, and the reading and using of such deposition shall conform to the rules of the superior court.

1815. Depositions in quo warranto proceedings. In all actions for the purpose of trying the title to the office of clerk of the superior court, register of deeds, county treasurer or sheriff of any county, it shall be competent and lawful to take the deposition of witnesses before a commissioner or commissioners to be appointed by the judge of the district wherein the case is to be tried, or the judge holding the court of said district, or the clerk of the court wherein the case is pending, under the same rules as to time of notice and as to the manner of taking and filing the same as is now provided by law for the taking of depositions in other cases; and such depositions, when so taken, shall be competent to be read on the trial of such action, without regard to the place of residence of such witness or distance of residence from said place of trial:
Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent the oral examination, by either party on the trial, of such witnesses as they may summon in their behalf.

Rev., s. 1654; 1889, c. 428.

1816. Commissioner may subpoena witness and punish for contempt. Commissioners to take depositions appointed by the courts of this state, or by the courts of the states or territories of the United States, arbitrators, referees, and all persons acting under a commission issuing from any court of record in this state, are hereby empowered, they or the clerks of the courts respectively in this state, to which such commission shall be returnable, to issue subpoenas, specifying the time and place for the attendance of witnesses before them, and to administer oaths to said witnesses, to the end that they may give their testimony. And any witness appearing before any of the said persons and refusing to give his testimony on oath touching such matters as he may be lawfully examined unto shall be committed, by warrant of the person before whom he shall so refuse, to the common jail of the county, there to remain until he may be willing to give his evidence; which warrant of commitment shall recite what authority the person has to take the testimony of such witness, and the refusal of the witness to give it.

Rey., s. 1649; Code, s. 1362; R. C., c. 31, s. 64; 1777, c. 115, s. 42; 1805, c. 685, ss. 1, 2;
1848, c. 66; 1850, c. 188.

Commissioner to take deposition presumed to be properly qualified until contrary shown:
Gregg v. Mallett, 111-74. Duty of witness to answer proper question propounded by him just as though examination conducted before judge or clerk: Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-146.
Power to commit to common jail person refusing to testify before commissioner not given exclusively, if at all, to commissioner, but he may invoke aid of judge from whom he derived his appointment: Fertilizer Co. v. Haylor, 112-141. Deposition will be rejected if witness refuses to answer proper questions on cross-examination, Mosely v. Mosely, 1-631.

1817. Attendance before commissioner enforced. The sheriff of the county where the witness may be shall execute all such subpoenas, and make due return thereof before the commissioner, or other person, before whom the witness is to appear, in the same manner, and under the same penalties, as in case of process of a like kind returnable to court; and when the witness shall be subpoenaed five days before the time of his required attendance, and shall fail to appear according to the subpoena and give evidence, the default shall be noted by the commissioner, arbitrator, or other person aforesaid; and in case the default be made before a commissioner acting under authority from courts without the state, the defaulting witness shall forfeit and pay to the party at whose instance he may be subpoenaed fifty dollars, and on the trial for such penalty the subpoena issued by the commissioner, or other person, as aforesaid, with the indorsement thereon of due service by the officer serving the same, together with the default noted as aforesaid and indorsed on the subpoena, shall be prima facie evidence of the forfeiture, and sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to judgment for the same, unless the witness may show his incapacity to have attended.

Rev., s. 1650; Code, s. 1363; R. C., c. 31, s. 65; 1848, c. 66, s. 2; 1850, c. 188, ss. 1, 2.
1818. Remedies against defaulting witness before commissioner. But in case the default be made before a commissioner, arbitrator, referee or other person, acting under a commission or authority from any of the courts of this state, then the same shall be certified under his hand, and returned with the subpoena to the court by which he was commissioned or empowered to take the evidence of such witness; and thereupon the court shall adjudge the defaulting witness to pay to the party at whose instance he was summoned the sum of forty dollars; but execution shall not issue therefor until the same be ordered by the court, after such proceedings had as shall give said witness an opportunity to show cause, if he can, against the issuing thereof.

1819. Objection to deposition before trial. At any time before the trial, or hearing of an action or proceeding, any party may make a motion to the judge or court to reject a deposition for irregularity in the taking of it, either in whole or in part, for scandal, impertinence, the incompetency of the testimony, for insufficient notice, or for any other good cause. The objecting party shall state his exceptions in writing.

Rev., s. 1648; Code, s. 1361; 1895, c. 312; 1903, c. 132; 1869-70, c. 227, ss. 13, 17.

Where a deposition had been on file for six years without objection, it is not subject to objection on the trial: Wasson v. Linster, 83-575.

Where deposition objected to on ground that testimony contained therein was incompetent, though no particular point so indicated and no error assigned, objection will not be considered: Smith v. McGregor, 96-101. A deposition will not be quashed for incompetent questions, since these are subject to exceptions: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10.

Objection that commissioner to take deposition was related to one of parties must be taken at time of opening same before clerk: Kerr v. Hicks, 131-90.

For case prior to enactment of section, see Hix v. Fisher, 60-474. Section merely referred to in Sparrow v. Blount, 90-517; Street v. Bryan, 65-622. See, also, annotations under section 1820.

1820. Deposition not quashed after trial begun. No deposition shall be quashed, or rejected, on objection first made after a trial has begun, merely because of an irregularity in taking the same, provided it shall appear that the party objecting had notice that it had been taken, and it was on file long enough before the trial to enable him to present his objection.

Rev., s. 1647; Code, s. 1360; 1869-70, c. 227, s. 12.

See annotations under section 1819. Exceptions to depositions, especially those which relate to its regularity, should be disposed of at latest before trial entered upon: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189—and where adverse party had notice of taking of deposition long enough for him to file objections, same will not be quashed for irregularity in manner of taking after trial begun, Davenport v. McKee, 98-500; Katzenstein v. R. R., 78-286; Carson v. Mills, 69-35.

Objection must be made before trial if reasonable opportunity given: Steel Co. v. Ford, 173-195. Deposition will not be quashed on oral objection made at trial where same has been on file in clerk's office two or three months before trial, and opened by clerk in presence of counsel for both parties: Carroll v. Hodges, 98-418—but where it appears that no notice given adverse party of taking of deposition, and same not passed upon by clerk as provided by section 1809, objection to reception of deposition may be taken on trial of action, Bryan v. Jeffreys, 104-242. Where notice served that depositions will be taken at same time in two different places, person notified may attend at either place designated, and disregard notice as to other: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189—and depositions taken in his absence at other place will on motion be quashed or suppressed, Ibid.—but where he elects to appear by counsel and cross-examine witness without making objection at time, this is waiver as to any defect in notice, Ibid.

Failure to insert name of commissioner in commission is waived by objecting party appearing at taking of deposition and making no objection thereto until after trial begun: Womack v. Gross, 135-378.

Exceptions on trial to deposition offered on two former trials without objection, and to which no objection made either at time of taking or opening same, are properly overruled: Bank v. Burgwyn, 116-122.

Objection that answers were on separate sheet attached to interrogatories, but not inserted at end of such interrogatory, whole, however, being above commissioner's signature, is untenable: Street v. Andrews, 115-417.

Custom of reserving right to have exceptions, especially those relating to regularity of deposition, passed upon when deposition offered in evidence disapproved by court: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-197. See, also, Hudson v. R. R., 176-488.

Section merely referred to in Sparrow v. Blount, 90-517; Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-480.

1821. When deposition may be read on the trial. Every deposition taken and returned in the manner provided by law may be read on the trial of the action or proceeding, or before any referee, in the following cases, and not otherwise:

1. If the witness is dead, or has become insane since the deposition was taken.
2. If the witness is a resident of a foreign country, or of another state, and is not present at the trial.
3. If the witness is confined in a prison outside the county in which the trial takes place.
4. If the witness is so old, sick or infirm as to be unable to attend court.
5. If the witness is the president of the United States, or the head of any department of the federal government, or a judge, district attorney, or clerk of any court of the United States, and the trial shall take place during the term of such court.
6. If the witness is the governor of the state, or the head of any department of the state government, or the president of the university, or the head of any other incorporated college in the state, or the superintendent or any physician in the employ of any of the hospitals for the insane for the state.
7. If the witness is a justice of the supreme court, or a judge, presiding officer, clerk or solicitor of any court of record, and the trial shall take place during the term of such court.
8. If the witness is a member of the congress of the United States, or a member of the general assembly, and the trial shall take place during a session of the body of which he is a member.
9. If the witness has been duly summoned, and at the time of the trial is out of the state, or is more than seventy-five miles by the usual public mode of travel from the place where the court is sitting, without the procurement or consent of the party offering his deposition.
10. If the action is pending in a justice's court the deposition may be read on the trial of the action, provided the witness is more than seventy-five miles by the usual public mode of travel from the place where the court is sitting.

Rev., s. 1645; Code, s. 1358; R. C., c. 31, s. 63; 1777, c. 115, ss. 39, 40, 41; 1803, c. 633; 1828, c. 24, ss. 1, 2; 1836, c. 30; 1869-70, c. 227, s. 11; 1851, c. 279, ss. 1, 3; 1905, c. 366; 1919, c. 324.

It is admissible to use a deposition taken in another action or proceeding between the same parties and in relation to the same subject-matter, where the adverse party had an opportunity for cross-examination: Hartis v. Electric R. R., 162-236; Mabe v. Mabe, 122-552; Stewart v. Register, 108-508; Bryan v. Malloy, 90-508. It must be shown that there was an action pending and properly constituted in which deposition taken: Ibid. Deposition may be introduced whether deponent examined as witness in case being tried or not: Mabe v. Mabe, 122-552.

Deposition may be read when witness is nonresident and not present at trial: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10—when witness is more than seventy-five miles away, Mfg. Co. v. Townsend, 153-244. Deposition of witness adjudged to be unable to talk or remain in court admissible in evidence: Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402. Deposition of witness residing in another state may be read in evidence, though witness be in state at time of trial: Meredith v. Kent, 1-52. Where deposition of resident taken de bene esse, and he leaves state before opening of court and is absent at trial, deposition may be read under section, it being shown that he was out of state and more than 75 miles from place of trial: Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-473—and finding by trial judge that witness whose deposition offered was not in state, there being some evidence of such fact, will not be reviewed in supreme court, Branton v. O'Bryant, 93-99; Sparrow v. Blount, 90-514.

Party does not make person his witness by taking his deposition which he declines to read: Neil v. Childs, 32-195. A party offering a deposition in evidence must introduce the whole of it, including cross-examination: Savings Club v. Bank, 178-403; Boney v. Boney, 161-622.

Where deposition read, opposite party may contradict witness by showing that he had subsequently made different statements: Roberts v. Collins, 28-223.

Depositions are admissible in bastardy as in other civil cases: State v. Hickerson, 72-421. Deposition in criminal action is competent to be read in favor of one prisoner, though it contains evidence against his codefendant, but judge should instruct jury not to consider latter evidence: State v. Finley, 118-1161.

The deposition of an attorney at law cannot be read in evidence except as in case of other witnesses: In re Pierce, 163-247.

Where deposition rejected in limine because name of commissioner not inserted in commission, not incumbent upon party offering deposition to show why same should be admitted: Womack v. Gross, 353-378.

In taking deposition, interrogatories not required to be in writing: Bank v. Bank of Asheville, 116-815—and where nothing to indicate that deposition does not contain whole of deponent's testimony or that it was not written down at time and in presence of witness, motion to quash should be refused, Ibid.

Where it appears from the return of a deposition that it was taken on the day, at the time, and by the person designated, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that all things were done rightly, and that it was taken between the hours appointed for taking the same: Street v. Andrews, 115-417—and an objection that answers were on a separate sheet attached to the interrogatories, but not inserted at the end of each interrogatory, the whole, however, being above the signature of the commissioner, is untenable, Ibid.

For case before amendments to subsection 9, see Sparrow v. Blount, 90-514. As bearing upon subsection 9, see Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413. Subsection merely referred to in Davenport v. McKee, 98-506.

1822. Depositions taken in the state to be used in another state:

1. By whom obtained. In addition to the other remedies prescribed by law, a party to an action, suit or special proceeding, civil or criminal, pending in a court without the state, either in the United States or any of the possessions thereof, or any foreign country, may obtain, by the proceedings prescribed by this section, the testimony of a witness and in connection therewith the production of books and papers within the state to be used in the action, suit or special proceeding.

2. Application filed. Where a commission to take testimony within the state has been issued from the court in which the action, suit or special proceeding is pending, or where a notice has been given, or any other proceeding has been taken for the purpose of taking the testimony within the state pursuant to the laws of the state or country wherein the court is located, or pursuant to the laws of the United States or any of the possessions thereof, if it is a court of the United States, the person desiring such testimony, or the production of papers and documents, may present a verified petition to any justice of the supreme court or judge of the superior court, stating generally the nature of the action or proceeding in which the testimony is sought to be taken, and that the testimony of the witness is material to the issue presented in such action or proceeding, and he shall set forth the substance of or have annexed to his petition a copy of the commission, order, notice, consent or other authority under which the deposition is taken. In case of an application for a subpoena to compel the production of books or papers, the petition shall specify the particular books or papers, the production of which is sought, and show that such books or papers are in the possession of or under the control of the witness and are material upon the issues presented in the action or special proceeding in which the deposition of the witness is sought to be taken.

3. Subpoena issued. Upon the filing of such petition, if the justice of the supreme court or judge of the superior court is satisfied that the application is made in good faith to obtain testimony within the provisions of this section, he shall issue a subpoena to the witness, commanding him to appear before the commissioner named in the commission, or before a commissioner within the state, for the state, territory or foreign country in which the notice was given or the proceeding taken, or before the officer designated in the commission, notice or other paper, by his title or office, at a time and place specified in the subpoena, to testify in the action, suit or special proceeding. Where the subpoena directs the production of books or papers, it shall specify the particular books or papers to be produced, and shall specify whether the witness is required to deliver sworn copies of such books or papers to the commissioner or to produce the original thereof for inspection, but such books and original papers shall not be taken from the witness. This subpoena must be served upon the witness at least two days, or, in case of a subpoena requiring the production of books or papers, at least five days before the day on which the witness is commanded to appear. A party to an action or proceeding in which a deposition is sought to be taken, or a witness subpoenaed to attend and give his testimony, may apply to the court issuing such subpoena to vacate or modify the same.

4. Witness compelled to attend and testify. If the witness shall fail to obey the subpoena, or refuse to have an oath administered, or to testify or to produce a book or paper pursuant to a subpoena, or to subscribe his deposition, the justice or judge issuing the subpoena shall, if it is determined that a contempt has been committed, prescribe punishment as in case of a recalcitrant witness. Upon proof by affidavit that a person to whom a subpoena was issued has failed or refused to obey such subpoena, to be duly sworn or affirmed, to testify or answer a question propounded to him, to produce a book or paper which he has been subpoenaed to produce, or to subscribe to his deposition when correctly taken down, the justice or judge shall grant an order requiring such person to show cause before him, at a time and place specified, why he should not appear, be sworn or affirmed, testify, answer a question propounded, produce a book or paper, or subscribe to the deposition, as the case may be. Such affidavit shall set forth the nature of the action or special proceeding in which the testimony is sought to be taken, and a copy of the pleadings or other papers defining the issues in such action or special proceeding, or the facts to be proved therein.
Upon the return of such order to show cause, the justice or judge shall, upon such affidavit and upon the original petition and upon such other facts as shall appear, determine whether such person should be required to appear, be sworn or affirmed, testify, answer the question propounded, produce the books or papers, or subscribe to his deposition, as the case may be, and may prescribe such terms and conditions as shall seem proper. Upon proof of a failure or refusal on the part of any person to comply with any order of the court made upon such determination, the justice or judge shall make an order requiring such person to show cause before him, at a time and place therein specified, why such person should not be punished for the offense as for a contempt. Upon the return of the order to show cause, the questions which arise must be determined as upon a motion. If such failure or refusal is established to the satisfaction of the justice or judge before whom the order to show cause is made returnable, he shall enforce the order and prescribe the punishment as hereinbefore provided.

5. Deposit for costs required. The commissioner herein provided for shall not proceed to act under and by virtue of his appointment until the party seeking to obtain such deposition has deposited with him a sufficient sum of money to cover all costs and charges incident to the taking of the deposition, including such witness fees as are allowed to witnesses in this state for attendance upon the superior courts. From such deposit the commissioner shall retain whatever amount may be due him for services, pay the witness fees and other costs that may have been incurred by reason of taking such deposition, and if any balance remains in his hands, he shall pay the same to the party by whom it was advanced.

Rev., s. 1655; 1903, c. 608.

Art. 9. Inspection and Production of Writings

1823. Inspection of writings. The court before which an action is pending, or a judge thereof, may, in their discretion, and upon due notice, order either party to give to the other, within a specified time, an inspection and copy, or permission to take a copy, of any books, papers, and documents in his possession or under his control, containing evidence relating to the merits of the action or the defense therein. If compliance with the order be refused, the court, on motion, may exclude the paper from being given in evidence, or punish the party refusing, or both.

Rev., s. 1656; Code, s. 578; R. C., c. 31, s. 82; R. S., c. 31, s. 86; 1821, c. 1005; C. C. P., s. 331; 1828, c. 7.

Court has power to order production of paper which contains evidence pertinent to issue, and which is in possession or control of adverse party: Whitten v. Tel. Co., 141-361; Mc-

The application, supported by affidavit, must show that the writing is pertinent and that an inspection is necessary: Evans v. R. R., 167-415; Justice v. Bank, 83-8. It may be granted before complaint filed when necessary to enable plaintiff to frame complaint: Holt v. Warehouse Co., 116-480; Justice v. Bank, 83-8; but see Branson v. Pentress, 35-165.

An inspection and privilege to photograph a note may be allowed: Bank v. McArthur, 165-374. Order for administrator, who as bank cashier kept intestate's accounts, to produce books of bank and also such bonds as belong to intestate, for inspection of plaintiffs, is valid under section: Comrs. v. Lemly, 85-341. Person will not be ordered to allow inspection of paper-writing if party making request knows contents thereof: Sheek v. Sain, 127-266—and an order allowing others than defendant to inspect paper-writing in possession of plaintiff is erroneous, Ibid.

Section does not authorize order that respondent be required to deposit papers in clerk's office: Mills v. Lumber Co., 139-524. Order of judge reversing order of clerk with reference to production of papers is discretionary matter, but motion may be renewed and new order obtained, Ibid. Supreme court will not pass upon propriety of discharging rule under section unless facts stated upon which application based: Maxwell v. McDowell, 50-391.

Motion to nonsuit plaintiff for not producing books or papers under section cannot be made unless previous order of court obtained for production of same: Graham v. Hamilton, 25-381.

Due notice is notice sufficient to enable a party to have document present when called for: McDonald v. Carson, 95-377. As to answer to the rule to produce papers, see Ward v. Simmons, 46-404; Fuller v. McMillan, 44-206. Appeal lies from order requiring person to allow inspection of paper-writings: Sheek v. Sain, 127-266. Notice hereunder to party in action is in law notice to his attorney: Banking Co. v. Walker, 121-115.

1824. Production of writings. The courts have full power, on motion and due notice thereof given, to require the parties to produce books or writings in their possession or control which contain evidence pertinent to the issue, and if a plaintiff shall fail to comply with such order; and shall not satisfactorily account for his failure, the court, on motion, may give the like judgment for the defendant, as in cases of nonsuit; and if a defendant shall fail to comply with such order, and shall not satisfactorily account for his failure, the court, on motion as aforesaid, may give judgment against him by default.

Rev. s. 1657; Code, s. 1373; R. C. c. 31, s. 25; 1821, c. 1095; 1828, c. 7.

Court has power to order production of papers which contain evidence pertinent to issue and which are in possession or control of adverse party: Whitten v. Tel. Co., 141-361; McDonald v. Carson, 94-497; McLeod v. Bullard, 84-515; McGibboney v. Mills, 35-163; Scarborough v. Tunnell, 41-103. No affidavit is required, but the order is made upon motion and due notice: McDonald v. Carson, 95-377. Due notice is that which is sufficient to enable the party to have the document present when called for: Ibid. Generally if party dwells in another town than that in which trial had, service of notice upon him at place where trial had, or after he has left home to attend court, to produce papers, not sufficient: Beard v. R. R., 143-156.

Contents of paper-writing cannot be proved by parol unless notice has been given to adverse party who has same in possession to produce it on trial: Murchison v. McLeod, 47-239; Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-198. As to sufficiency of affidavit accounting for nonproduction of paper ordered to be produced upon trial, see Fuller v. McMillan, 44-206. Court cannot, under this section, order production of papers by defendant on application of plaintiff where no complaint filed: Branson v. Pentress, 35-165.

When papers are produced hereunder they are competent evidence for all legitimate purposes: Austin v. Secrest, 91-214; Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-141. Court below excluded paper-writing which plaintiff "alleged was a substantial copy of the greater part of his letter to defendant," when defendant was not notified to produce original: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189.
1825. Admission of genuineness. Either party may exhibit to the other, or to his attorney, at any time before the trial, any paper material to the action, and request an admission in writing of its genuineness. If the adverse party, or his attorney, fail to give the admission within four days after the request, and if the party exhibiting the paper be afterwards put to expense in order to prove its genuineness, and the same be finally proved or admitted on the trial, such expense, to be ascertained at the trial, shall be paid by the party refusing the admission, unless it appear to the satisfaction of the court that there were good reasons for the refusal.

Rev., s. 1658; Code, s. 578; R. C., c. 31, s. 82; R. S., c. 31, s. 86; 1821, c. 1095; 1828, c. 7; C. C. P., s. 331.

Admission in writing under section that instrument is genuine does not preclude comments by counsel as to truth of contents suggested by its appearance, fact of being written by amanuensis, etc.: Knight v. Houghtaling, 85-17.

ART. 10. CONFEDERATE CURRENCY

1826. Scale of depreciation. Contracts solvable in Confederate currency may be discharged according to the following scale of depreciation of Confederate currency, the gold dollar being the unit and measure of value, from November first, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, to May first, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five:

Art. 1. Lawful Fences
1827. Fences to be five feet high. Every planter shall make a sufficient fence about his cleared ground under cultivation, at least five feet high, unless otherwise provided in this chapter, unless there shall be some navigable stream or deep watercourse that shall be sufficient, instead of such fence, and unless his lands shall be situated within the limits of a county, township or district wherein the stock law may be in force.

Rev., s. 1660; Code, s. 2799; R. C., c. 48, s. 1; 1777, c. 121, s. 2; 1791, c. 354, s. 1.

Proof that plaintiff's fence is a "good, ordinary" one, such as his neighbors have, does not dispense with statutory obligations: Runyan v. Patterson, 87-343.

Plaintiff whose fence is insufficient not entitled to damages for defendant's stock breaking through it: Ibid.; Jones v. Witherspoon, 52-555. What is a sufficient lawful fence, or proper substitute therefor, is a question of law: State v. Lamb, 30-229. Whom the word ‘‘planter’’ herein comprehends, see State v. Taylor, 69-543; see State v. Bell, 25-506. A pasture field is not ‘‘cleared ground under cultivation’’: State v. Perry, 64-305.

1828. Local: Four and a half feet in certain counties. A fence four and one-half feet high is a lawful fence in the counties of Alleghany, Bladen, Brunswick, Burke, Caldwell, Cherokee, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Davie, Davidson, Duplin, Harnett, Henderson, Jackson, Lenoir, Perquimans, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rutherford, Sampson, Tyrrell, Vance, Wake, Washington and Wilkes. This section does not apply to stock-law fences, nor in Tyrrell county to wire fences which are lawful fences if four feet high.

The value of such fence shall be ascertained as follows: Either owner may summon the other to appear before any justice of the peace of the township in which the dividing line is situate; or if it be situate in more than one township, then before any justice of the peace of any township in which any part of it is situate. In his summons he shall name a certain day, not less than five days after the summons, for the appearance of the defendant; he shall also state the purpose of the summons to be the adjustment of all matters in controversy respecting the dividing fence between the parties. The justice shall hear the complaint and defense. If the facts be found such as entitle either party to demand contribution of the other, the justice shall call on the complainant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the complainant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then call on the defendant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the defendant refuses the justice shall name one for him. All such adjacent lands, when so enclosed, shall be subject to all the provisions of law with respect to livestock running at large within the original district so enclosed, as if it were a part of the township, county or district with which it is hereby authorized to be enclosed. Any number of landowners, whose lands are contiguous, may at any time build a common fence around all their lands, with gates across all public highways; and no livestock shall run at large within any such enclosure, under the pains and penalties prescribed in this chapter.

Such person shall not be liable to any action for such entry, and the reasonable cost of such food and water may be collected by him of the owner of such animal.

The fisheries commissioner shall have power to lease to any duly qualified person, firm or corporation, for purposes of oyster or clam culture, any bottom of the waters of the state not a natural oyster bed, as defined in this article, nor a clam reservation, as defined in this article, in accordance with the provisions of this part of this article.

1909, c. 871, ss. 1, 9; 1919, c. 383, s. 6.

1904. Lessee to be citizen. Any citizen of North Carolina, or firm or corporation organized under the laws of the state and doing business within its limits, shall be granted the privilege of taking up bottoms for purposes of oyster or clam culture, under the provisions of this article.

1905. Areas leased in different waters. The area which may be taken up for purposes of oyster or clam culture shall be not less than one acre nor more than fifty acres, with the exception of the open waters of Pamlico sound (and for the purposes of this article open waters of Pamlico sound shall mean the waters that are outside of two miles of the shore line), in which the minimum limit shall be five acres and the maximum shall be two hundred acres: Provided, that the limit of entry in Core sound, North river, Newport river, Bogue sound, and all bays and creeks bordering on these waters, and in Jones bay, Rose bay, Abels bay, Swan Quarter bay, Middle bay, Bay river, Deep bay, Juniper bay, West and East Bluff bays, Wysocking bay, Fire creek, Stumpy Point bay, Mouse Harbor bay, Maw bay and Broad creek, tributaries of Pamlico sound, shall be one acre as a minimum and ten acres as a maximum: Provided further, however, that after March 9, 1910, the minimum area in Core sound, North river, Newport river, Bogue sound, and all bays and creeks bordering on these waters, and in Jones bay, Rose bay, Abels bay, Swan Quarter bay, Middle bay, Bay river, Deep bay, Juniper bay, West and East Bluff bays, Wysocking bay, Fire creek, Stumpy Point bay, Mouse Harbor bay, Maw bay and Broad creek, tributaries of Pamlico sound, shall be one acre and the minimum fifty acres; but no person, firm, corporation or association shall severally or collectively hold any interest in any lease or leases aggregating an area of greater than fifty acres, except in the open waters of Pamlico sound, where the aggregate area shall be two hundred acres.
The fisheries commission board shall have authority to specify the acreage any one person may lease in the counties of Pender, New Hanover and Brunswick.

1906. Prerequisites for lease; application; deposit; survey; location. Such persons, firms or corporations desiring to avail themselves of the privileges of this article shall make written application, on a form to be prepared by the fisheries commissioner, setting forth the name and address of the applicant, describing as definitely as may be the location and extent of the bottom for which application is made, and requesting the survey and leasing to the applicant of said bottom. As soon as possible after the application is received, the fisheries commissioner shall cause to be made a survey and map of said bottom, at the expense of the applicant. The fisheries commissioner shall also thoroughly examine said bottoms by sounding and by dragging thereover a chain to detect the presence of natural oysters. Should any natural oysters be found, the commissioner shall cause examination to be made to ascertain the area and density of oysters on said bottom or bed, to determine whether the same is a natural bed, under the definition contained in this article. He shall be assisted in this examination on tonging ground by an expert tonger, to be appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which said bottom or the greater portion thereof is located, and the question as to whether the oyster growth is sufficiently dense to fall within the definition of the natural bed shall be determined by the quantity of oysters which the said expert tonger may be able to take in a specified time; and on dredging ground the commissioner shall be assisted by an expert dredger, appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which said bottom or the greater portion thereof is located, and the question as to whether the oyster growth is sufficiently dense to fall within the definition of the natural bed shall be determined by the quantity of oysters which the said expert dredger may be able to take in a specified time. The fisheries commissioner shall require the bodies of bottoms applied for to be as compact as possible, taking into consideration the shape of the body of water and the consistency of the bottom. No application shall be entertained nor lease granted for a piece of bottom within two hundred yards of a known natural bottom, bed or reef. A deposit of ten dollars will be required of each applicant at the time of making his application, said sum to be credited to the cost of the survey of the bottom applied for.

1907. Execution of lease; notice and filing; marking and planting. Immediately upon the completion of the survey and the mapping thereof, and the payment by the applicant of the cost of said survey and map, the fisheries commissioner shall execute to the applicant, upon a form approved by the attorney-general of the state, a lease for the bottoms applied for. A copy of the lease, map of the survey and a description of the bottom, defining its position, shall be filed in the office of the fisheries commissioner. After the execution of said lease, the lessee shall have the sole right and use of said bottoms, and all shells, oysters and culls thereon or placed thereon shall be his exclusive property so long as he complies with the provisions of this law. The lessee shall stake off and mark the bottoms leased in the manner prescribed by the fisheries commissioner, and failure to do so within a period of thirty days of an order so to do issued by the commissioner shall subject said lessee to a fine of five dollars per acre for each sixty days default in compliance with said order. The corner stakes, at least, of each lease shall be marked with signs plainly displaying the number of the lease and the name of the lessee. The lessee shall, within two years of the commencement of his lease, have planted upon his holdings a quantity of shells equal to an average of fifty bushels of seed oysters or shells per acre of holdings, and within four years from the commencement of his lease a quantity of oysters or shells equal to an average of not less than one hundred and twenty-five bushels per acre. The fisheries commissioner shall, upon granting any lease, publish a notice of the granting of same in a newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein the bottom leased is located.

1908. Term and rental. All leases made under the provisions of this article shall begin upon the issuance of the lease, and shall expire on the first day of April of the twentieth year thereafter. The rental shall be at the rate of one dollar per acre for the first ten years and two dollars per acre per year for the next ten years of the lease, payable annually in advance on the first day of April of each year: Provided, that in the open waters of Pamlico Sound (and for the purposes of this article the open waters of Pamlico Sound shall mean the waters that are outside the four miles of the shore line) the rental shall be at the rate of fifty cents per acre per year for the first three years, one dollar per acre per year for the next seven years, and two dollars per acre per year for the next ten years of the lease. This rental shall be in lieu of all other taxes and imposts whatever, and shall be considered as all and the only taxation which can be imposed by the state, counties, municipalities or other subordinate political bodies. The rental for the first year shall be paid in advance, to an amount proportional to the unexpired part of the year to the first of April next succeeding.

1909. Nature of lessee’s rights; assignment and inheritance. The said lease shall be heritable and transferable, in whole or in part, provided the qualifications of the heirs and transferees are such as are described by this article. Non-residents, acquiring by inheritance or process sale, or persons already holding the maximum area permitted by this article, shall within a period of twelve months from the time of acquisition dispose of said prohibited or excess of holding to some qualified person, firm or corporation, under penalty of forfeiture. The lease shall be subject to mortgage, pledge, seizure for debt and the same other transactions as are other property rights in North Carolina. No transfer shall be of effect unless of court record, until entered on the books of the fisheries commissioner.

1910. Renewal of lease. The term of each lease granted under the provisions of this article shall be for a period of twenty years from the first day of April preceding the date of granting of said lease. At the expiration of the first lease, the lessee, upon making written application on the prescribed form, shall be entitled to successive leases on the same terms as applied to the last ten years of the first lease, for a period not exceeding ten years each.
1911. Forfeiture of lease for nonpayment. The failure to pay the rental of bottoms leased for each year in advance on or before the first day of April, or within thirty days thereafter, shall ipso facto cancel said lease and shall forfeit to the state the said leased bottoms and all oysters thereon, and upon said forfeiture the fisheries commissioner is hereby authorized to lease the said bottoms to any qualified applicant therefor: Provided, that no forfeiture shall be valid, however, under the provisions of this section, unless there shall have been mailed by the fisheries commissioner to the last address of the lessee upon the books of the commissioner a thirty days notice of the maturity of said rental.

1912. Contest over grant of lease; time for contest; decision; appeal. If any person, within four months of the publication of the notice of granting of any lease, make claim that a natural oyster bottom, bed or reef exists within the boundaries of said lease, he shall, under oath, state his claim, and request the fisheries commissioner to cancel said lease: Provided, however, that each such claim and petition shall be accompanied by a deposit of twenty-five dollars. No petition unaccompanied by said deposit shall be considered by the commissioner. The fisheries commissioner shall, in person, examine into said claim, and, if the decision should be against the claimant, the deposit of twenty-five dollars shall be forfeited to the state and deposited to the credit of the fisheries commission fund. Should, however, the claim be sustained and a natural bed be found within the boundary of the lease, the said natural bed shall be surveyed and marked with stakes or buoys, at the expense of the lessee, and the said natural bed be thrown open to the public fishery. If no such claim be presented within a period of four months, or if when so presented it fail of substantiation, as provided, the lessee shall thereafter be secure from attack on such account, and his lease shall be incontestable so long as he complies with the other provisions of this article. In each and every such case the decision of the fisheries commissioner shall be subject to review and appeal before a judge of the superior court, who shall render a decision without the aid of a jury, and his decision shall be final.

No person shall be licensed to catch oysters from the public grounds of the state who is owner, lessee, master, captain, mate or foreman, or who owns an interest in or who is an agent for any boat that is used or that may be used in dredging oysters from the public grounds of the state, who is not a bona fide resident of this state and who has not continuously resided therein for two years next preceding the date of his application for license, and no nonresident shall be employed as a laborer on any boat licensed to dredge oysters under this subchapter who has an interest in or who receives any profit from the oysters caught by any boat permitted to dredge oysters on the public grounds of the state. Any person, firm or corporation employing any nonresident laborer forbidden by this section, upon conviction shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

Such license shall not be issued prior to the fifteenth day of November of any year and shall expire on the fifteenth day of March following.
The assistant fisheries commissioner or inspector granting the license shall at once mail a duplicate to the fisheries commissioner. Rev., s. 2399; 1903, c. 516, s. 12.

1925. Dredging regulated as to territory and season. Any bona fide resident of the state duly licensed according to law and using a licensed boat or vessel may use scoops, scrapes or dredges in catching or taking oysters from the fifteenth day of November in each year to the first day of April following, from the public grounds and natural oyster beds in the broad open waters of Pamlico sound, Pamlico river, Neuse river and Shoal river, except in those portions of said sound and rivers in which the use of such instruments and implements is prohibited as herein provided. No person shall use any implement or instrument except hand-tongs in catching oysters in any bay, river, creek, strait, or any tributary of such, which borders upon or empties into Pamlico sound, Pamlico river, or Long Shoal river, except as hereinafter provided; and any point inside of a line drawn from the farthest or extreme outward point of land or marsh on the one side to the farthest or extreme outward point of land or marsh on the opposite side of any creek, strait or bay shall be construed to be within the said creek, strait or bay for the purpose of this section. Nor shall any person use any implement or instrument except hand-tongs in the waters of Pamlico sound from what is known as the reef or reefs in the eastern portion of said sound to the line of banks bordering its eastern shores; nor along the shores of Pamlico county inside of a line beginning at Maw point and running to the west end of Brant island, thence to Pamlico point; nor in the waters of Pamlico sound north of a line running from Long Shoal light to Gull Shoal life-saving station, from the first day of February of each year to the fifteenth day of November, nor in any of the waters of Carteret county. If any boat or vessel shall be seen sailing on any of the waters of this state during the season when the dredging of oysters is prohibited by law in the same manner in which they sail to take or catch oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges, the said boat or vessel shall be pursued by any officer authorized to make arrests, and if said boat or vessel apprehended by said officer shall be found to have on board any wet oysters or the scoops, scrapes, dredges or lines, or deck wet, indicating the taking or catching of oysters at said time, and properly equipped for catching or taking oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges, such facts shall be prima facie evidence that said boat or vessel has been used in violation of the provisions of the law prohibiting the taking or catching of oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges in prohibited territory, or at a season when the taking or catching of oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges is prohibited by law, as the case may be.

1927. Dredging prohibited in certain waters of Pamlico sound; exception. It shall be unlawful for any person to use any rakes, scrapes, scoops or dredges, or any other instrument or implement other than ordinary hand-tongs, for the purpose of taking or catching oysters from the public oyster grounds or natural oyster beds in any of the waters of Pamlico sound or its tributaries north of a line running from West Bluff bay to the center of Ocracoke inlet; any person found guilty of the violation of this prohibition shall be punished by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days.

Gallop, 126-978; State v. Woodward, 133-710; State v. Conner, 107-932; Rea v. Hampton, 101-51. For additional annotations as to entries on land covered with water, see section 7543.

2104. Certificates to take birds, nests, or eggs. The Audubon society of North Carolina may issue a certificate to any properly accredited persons of the age of twelve years and upward, permitting the holder thereof to collect birds, their nests or eggs for strictly scientific purposes; said certificate shall be in force only during the calendar year in which issued, and shall not be transferable. In order to obtain such certificates the applicant for same must present to the persons having authority to grant such certificates written testimonials from two well-known scientific men, certifying to the good character and fitness of said applicant to be intrusted with such privilege, and must pay the said society one dollar to defray the necessary expenses attending the granting of such certificate. On satisfactory proof that the holder of such certificate has killed any bird or taken the nests or eggs of any birds other than for scientific purposes, his certificate shall become void, and he shall be further subject for each offense to the penalty provided for such violation of the law.

2105. Destroying nests or eggs of birds. If any person shall take or needlessly destroy the nest or eggs of any wild birds, except those of the English or European housesparrow, owls, hawks, crows, blackbirds, jackdaws and rice birds, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined one dollar for each nest or egg destroyed or taken, or be imprisoned not less than five nor more than ten days for each offense. This section shall not apply to any person taking eggs or nests for scientific purposes only, by authority of the Audubon society of North Carolina.

No person, firm or corporation shall transport, or cause to be transported or have possession of with intent to transport or to secure the transportation of, any live quail or partridges beyond the limits of the state. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

All authority given to the Audubon society of North Carolina to grant permits to stop a transport of live quail or partridges beyond the limits of the state is revoked.

2107. Exportation from state prohibited. If any person shall knowingly receive for transportation, or shall transport or cause to be transported, or have in his possession with the intent to transport, or to secure the transportation of, or shall in any manner carry or convey, beyond the limits of this state, except for purposes of propagation under permits issued by the Audubon society of North Carolina, any partridge, pheasant, grouse, shore or beach birds, quail, wild turkey, snipe, woodcock, or nongame bird which have been killed or captured within this state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and each bird so killed or taken or had in possession, received for transportation or transported contrary to the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offense. The reception by any person or corporation within this state of any such birds or game for shipment to a point beyond the limits of this state, shall be prima facie evidence that said birds or game were killed within the state for the purpose of conveying same beyond its limits; but the provisions of this section shall not apply to the common carriers into whose possession any of the birds mentioned in this section shall come in the regular course of their business for transportation while they are in transit through the state from any place without the state.

See section 4435 and annotations.
2144. Certain contracts as to “futures” void. Every contract, whether in writing or not, whereby any person shall agree to sell and deliver any cotton, Indian corn, wheat, rye, oats, tobacco, meal, lard, bacon, salt pork, salt fish, beef, cattle, sugar, coffee, stocks, bonds, and choses in action, at a place and at a time specified and agreed upon therein, to any other person, whether the person to whom such article is so agreed to be sold and delivered shall be a party to such contract or not, when, in fact, and notwithstanding the terms expressed of such contract, it is not intended by the parties thereto that the articles or things so agreed to be sold and delivered shall be actually delivered, or the value thereof paid, but it is intended and understood by them that money or other thing of value shall be paid to the one party by the other, or to a third party, the party to whom such payment of money or other thing of value shall be made to depend, and the amount of such money or other thing of value so to be paid to depend upon whether the market price or value of the article so agreed to be sold and delivered is greater or less at the time and place so specified than the price stipulated to be paid and received for the articles so to be sold and delivered, and every contract commonly called “futures” as to the several articles and things hereinbefore specified, or any of them, by whatever other name called, and every contract as to the said several articles and things, or any of them, whereby the parties thereto contemplate and intend no real transaction as to the article or thing agreed to be delivered, but only the payment of a sum of money or other thing of value, such payment and the amount thereof and the person to whom the same is to be paid to depend on whether or not the market price or value is greater or less than the price so agreed to be paid for the said article or thing at the time and place specified in such contract, shall be utterly null and void; and no action shall be maintained in any court to enforce any such contract, whether the same was made in or out of the state, or partly in and partly out of this state, and whether made by the parties thereto by themselves or by or through their agents, immediately or mediately; nor shall any party to any such contract, or any agent of any such party, directly or remotely connected with any such contract in any way whatever, have or maintain any action or cause of action on account of any money or other thing of value paid or advanced or hypothecated by him or them in connection with or on account of such contract and agency; nor shall the courts of this state have any jurisdiction to entertain any suit or action brought upon a judgment based upon any such contract. This section shall not be construed so as to apply to any person, firm, corporation or his or their agent engaged in the business of manufacturing or wholesale merchandising in the purchase or sale of the necessary commodities required in the ordinary course of their business.

Rev., s. 1689; 1889, c. 221, s. 1; 1905, c. 538, s. 7; 1909, c. 853, s. 1.

The intention of both parties that there is not to be a delivery of the property makes the contract invalid: Orvis v. Holt, 173-291; Holt v. Wellons, 163-124; Harvey v. Pettaway, 156-
If there is in the contract the right to require actual delivery and an intention to demand it if the exigencies of party's business shall require it, this is a legal contract, notwithstanding mere expectation that delivery will not be demanded: State v. Clayton, 138-732. The test is the intention and effect and not the form: Holt v. Wellons, 163-124; Edgerton v. Edgerton, 153-167. Where contract not a gambling one on its face, proper to leave that question to jury: Rankin v. Mitchem, 141-277; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-634. Where plaintiff's agent made contract for futures, but plaintiff intended delivery, plaintiff is bound by act of agent: Sprunt v. May, 156-388.

A judgment upon a contract for futures will be set aside: Randolph v. Heath, 171-383. A judgment of another state on such contract will not be sustained: Mott v. Davis, 151-237. The last sentence in this section is construed to refer to the burden of proof as provided in section 2146, and not as an exemption from liability: Sprunt v. May, 156-388; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378. See, also, State v. McGinnis, 138-724; State v. Clayton, 138-732.

2145. Prima facie evidence of illegal contract in "futures." Proof that any thing of value agreed to be sold and delivered was not actually delivered at the time of making the agreement to sell and deliver, and that one of the parties to such agreement deposited or secured, or agreed to deposit or secure, what are commonly called "margins," shall constitute prima facie evidence of a contract declared void by the preceding section.

Rey., s. 1690; 1889, c. 221, s. 2; 1905, c. 588, ss. 5, 7.

Where parties to a purchase or sale for future delivery upon "margin" will not need the commodity in ordinary course of business, this section makes the purchase in such case prima facie evidence that such contract is a wagering contract: State v. Clayton, 138-732; State v. McGinnis, 138-724; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-634, 147-645.

2146. Burden shifted by plea of illegality; pleadings not evidence in criminal action. When the defendant in any action pending in any court shall allege specifically in his answer that the cause of action alleged in the complaint is in fact founded upon a contract such as is by this chapter made void, and such answer shall be verified, then the burden shall be upon the plaintiff in such action to prove by the proper evidence, other than any written evidence thereof, that the contract sued upon is a lawful one in its nature and purposes; and the defendant may likewise produce evidence to prove the contrary: Provided, nevertheless, that any allegation or statement of fact made in any pleading in any such action, or the evidence produced on the trial in any such action, shall not be evidence against the party making or producing the same in any criminal action against such party.

Rey., s. 1691; 1889, c. 221, s. 2.

The last sentence of section 2144 is construed as a part of this section: Sprunt v. May, 156-388; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378.

The burden is upon the claimant to show a legal obligation: Heath v. Heath, 175-457; Holt v. Wellons, 163-124; Cobb v. Guthrie, 160-313; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-634, 147-645. Where an administrator has paid a debt and the legatees or distributees contest it as illegal, the burden is upon the legatees: Overman v. Lanier, 157-544.

2147. Entering into or aiding contract for "futures" misdemeanor. If any person shall become a party to any contract declared void in this article; or if any person shall be the agent, directly or indirectly, of any party in making or furthering or effectuating the same; or if any agent or officer of a corporation shall in any manner knowingly aid in making or furthering any such contract to which the corporation is a party, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and may be imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

If any person shall, while in this state, consent to become a party to any such contract made in another state, and if any person shall, as agent of any person or corporation, become a party to any such contract made in another state, or in this state do any act or in any way aid in the making or furthering of any such contract so made in another state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, and may be imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., ss. 3828, 3824; 1889, c. 221, ss. 3, 4.

Section referred to in Garseed v. Sternberger, 135-501; Cantwell v. Boykin, 127-64.

2148. Opening office for sales of "futures" misdemeanor. If any person, corporation or other association of persons, either as principals or agents, shall establish or open an office or place of business in this state for the purpose of carrying on or engaging in making such contracts as are forbidden in this article, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction be fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 38825; 1905, c. 538, ss. 1, 2.

2149. Evidence in prosecutions under this article. No person shall be excused on any prosecution under the provisions of this article from testifying touching anything done by himself or others contrary to the provisions thereof, but no discovery made by the witness upon such examination shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned of the offense so done or participated in by him. In all such prosecutions proof that the defendant was a party to a contract, as agent or principal, to sell and deliver any article, thing or property specified or named in this article, or that he was the agent, directly or indirectly, of any party in making, furthering or effectuating the same, or that he was the agent or officer of any corporation or association or person in making, furthering or effectuating the same, and that the article, thing or property agreed to be sold and delivered was not actually delivered, and that settlement was made or agreed to be made upon the difference in value of said article, thing or property, shall constitute against such defendant prima facie evidence of guilt. Proof that any person, corporation or other association of persons, either as principals or agents, has established an office or place where are posted or published from information received the fluctuating prices of grain, cotton, provisions, stocks, bonds and other commodities, or of any one or more of the same, shall constitute prima facie evidence of being guilty of violating the provisions of this article.

Rev., s. 3826; 1905, ss. 3, 4, 5.

2150. Jurisdiction in clerk of superior court. The clerks of the superior court within their respective counties have full power, from time to time, to take cognizance of all matters concerning orphans and their estates and to appoint guardians in all cases of infants, idiots, lunatics, inebriates, and inmates of the Caswell training school.

Rev., s. 1766; Code, s. 1566; R. C., c. 54, s. 2; 1762, c. 69, ss. 5, 7; 1808-9, c. 201, s. 4; 1817, c. 41, s. 1.

See section 2285. Powers which court of equity formerly exercised in regard to orphans and their estates now conferred upon clerk: Duffy v. Williams, 133-197.

Jurisdiction of clerk in appointment of guardians of infants does not extend to a case where petitioner asks for custody of child who had been placed by mother under control of another: In re Lewis, 88-31. Appointment of guardian is matter of discretion: Battle v. Vick, 15-294; Long v. Rhymes, 6-122; Grant v. Whitaker, 5-231; Mills v. McAllister, 2-303—exercise of which cannot be reviewed by supreme court, Battle v. Vick, 15-294.

Court not bound to confirm choice of guardian made by infant of fourteen years of age and upwards: Grant v. Whitaker, 5-231; Wynne v. Always, 5-38.

For old case dealing with jurisdiction of courts under section, see Harriss v. Richardson, 15-279.

Art. 2. Creation and Termination of Guardianship

2151. Appointment by parents; effect; powers and duties of guardian. Any father, though he be a minor, may, by deed executed in his lifetime and with the written consent and privy examination of the mother, if she be living, or by his last will and testament in writing, if the mother be dead, dispose of the custody and tuition of any of his infant children, being unmarried, and whether born at his death or in ventre sa mere, for such time as the children may remain under twenty-one years of age, or for any less time. Or in case the father is dead and has not exercised his said right of appointment, then the mother, whether of full age or minor, may do so. Every such appointment shall be good and effectual against any person claiming the custody and tuition of such child or children. Every guardian by deed or will shall have the same powers and rights and be subject to the same liabilities and regulations as other guardians.

Rev., ss. 1762, 1763, 1764; Code, ss. 1562, 1563, 1564; R. C., c. 54; 1762, c. 69; 1808-9, c. 201; 1881, c. 64; 1911, c. 120.

Where testator by will directs that children should be placed with certain person until their majority, of whose circumstances testator was aware, such person entitled to their custody in absence of finding of unfitness: In re Young, 120-151.

Father entitled to custody of children against claims of every one: In re Fain, 172-790; In re Jones, 153-312; Newsome v. Bunch, 144-16; Latham v. Ellis, 116-30—except those to whom he may have committed their custody and tuition by deed, Latham v. Ellis, 116-30—or unless found to be unfit for their care and custody, Ibid.

2152 GUARDIAN AND WARD—Art. 2 Ch. 40

Testator cannot appoint testamentary guardian except to his own children: Camp v. Pittman, 90-615.

Court intimates that mother cannot make disposition of her child so as to confer upon another the right to its custody and control: In re Lewis, 88-31.

Father cannot appoint guardian for children, nor impose upon any one the duties and obligations of that office, except by deed executed in his lifetime, or by last will and testament executed in writing: Peyton v. Smith, 22-325—but where it can be clearly collected from will of father that certain persons are thereby appointed to have custody of person and estate of children until they arrive at age, such appointment will constitute them guardian, Ibid.

No one has right to guardianship of an infant, except as testamentary guardian, or as appointed by father by deed, or by the court: Long v. Rhymes, 6-122.

Testamentary guardian entitled to custody of child: In re Young, 120-151.

2152. Natural guardianship on death of father. In case of the death of the father of an infant, the mother of such child surviving such father shall immediately become the natural guardian of such child to the same extent and in the same manner, plight and condition as the father would be if living; and the mother in such case shall have all the powers, rights and privileges, and be subject to all the duties and obligations of a natural guardian. But this shall not be construed as abridging the powers of the courts over minors and their estates and to the appointment of guardians.

Rev., s. 1765; Code, s. 1565; 1888, c. 364.

Mother, if suitable person, entitled to care and custody of infant child, even if there be others more suitable: Ashby v. Page, 106-328. Court intimates that mother cannot make a disposition of child so as to confer upon another right to its custody and control: In re Lewis, 88-31. As to mother's duty to support her child, see Ibid.

2153. Appointment on divorce of parents. When parents are divorced and a child is entitled to any estate, the court granting the divorce must certify that fact to the clerk of the superior court, to the end that he may appoint a fit and proper person to take the care and management of such estate, whose powers and duties shall be the same in all respects as other guardians, except that a guardian so appointed shall not have any authority over the person of such child, unless the guardian be the father or mother.

Rev., s. 1770; Code, s. 1571; R. C., c. 54, s. 4; 1838, c. 16; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 9.

2154. Appointment when father living. The clerk of the superior court may appoint a guardian of the estate of any minor, although the father of such minor be living. And the guardian so appointed shall be governed in all respects by the laws relative to guardians of the estate in other cases, but shall have no authority over the person of such minor.

Rev., s. 1771; Code, s. 1572; R. C., c. 54, ss. 4, 7; 1806, c. 707; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 10.

2155. Separate appointment for person and estate; yearly support specified; payments allowed in accounting. Instead of granting general guardianship to one person, the clerk of the superior court may commit the tuition and custody of the person to one and the charge of his estate to another, whenever and at any time during minority, inebriety, idiocy or lunacy, it appears most conducive to the proper care of the orphan's, inebriate's, idiot's, or lunatic's estate, and to his suitable maintenance, nurture and education. In such cases the clerk must order what yearly sums of money or other provisions shall be allowed for the support and education of the orphan, or for the maintenance of the idiot, lunatic or inebriate, and must prescribe the time and manner of paying the same; but such allowance may, upon application and satisfactory proof made, be reduced or enlarged, or otherwise modified, as the ward’s condition in life and the kind and value of his estate may require. All payments made by the guardian of the estate to the tutor of the person, according to any such order, shall be deemed just disbursements and be allowed in the settlement of his accounts; but for the payment thereof by the one and the receipt thereof by the other merely, no commissions shall be allowed to either, though commissions may be allowed to the tutor of the person on his disbursements only.

Rev., ss. 1767, 1768, 1769; Code, ss. 1567, 1568, 1569; R. C., c. 54, s. 3; 1840, c. 31;
1868-9, c. 201, ss. 6, 7.

As to maintenance and education of ward generally, see Duffy v. Williams, 133-195; Thar-rington v. Tharrington, 99-118. As to disbursements and commissions generally, see sections 2189, 2190.

2156. Proceedings on application for guardianship. On application to any clerk of the superior court for the custody and guardianship of any infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school, it is the duty of such clerk to inform himself of the circumstances of the case on the oath of the applicant, or of any other person, and if none of the relatives of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school are present at such application, the clerk must assign, or for any other good cause he may assign, a day for the hearing; and he shall thereupon direct notice thereof to be given to such of the relatives and to such other persons, if any, as he may deem it proper to notify. On the hearing he shall ascertain, on oath, the amount of the property, real and personal, of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school, and the value of the rents and profits of the real estate, and he may grant or refuse the application, or commit the guardianship to some other person, as he may think best for the interest of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school.

Rev., s. 1772; Code, s. 1620; C. C. P., s. 474; 1917, c. 41, s. 2.

Failure to notify relative who has custody of child of proceedings to appoint guardian is irregularity under section, which does not render appointment of guardian void, though not conclusive upon such relative: In re Parker, 144-170. Except as between parents, under section 2241, right of custody of child cannot be determined under writ of habeas corpus: Ibd. As to who may take proper steps to set aside appointment of guardian, see Ibd.

2157. Letters of guardianship. The clerk of the superior court must issue to every guardian appointed by him a letter of appointment, which shall be signed by him and sealed with the seal of his office.

Rev., s. 1773; Code, s. 1621; C. C. P., s. 475.

2158. Removal by clerk. The clerks of the superior court have power, on information or complaint made, at all times to remove guardians and appoint successors, to make and establish rules for the better ordering, managing and securing infants’ estates, and for the better education and maintenance of wards; and it is their duty to do so in the following cases:

1. Where the guardian wastes or converts the money or estate of the ward to his own use.

2. Where the guardian in any manner mismanages the estate.
3. Where the guardian is about or intends to marry any ward in disparagement.

4. Where the guardian neglects to educate or maintain the ward in a manner suitable to his or her degree.

5. Where the guardian is legally disqualified to act as a person would be to be appointed administrator.

6. Where the guardian or his sureties are likely to become insolvent or non-residents of the state.

Rev., s. 1774; Code, s. 1583; R. C., c. 54, ss. 2, 13; 1762, c. 69; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 20; C. C. P., ss. 470, 476.

Court (now clerk superior court) can at any time remove guardian upon proper cause shown, and has entire discretion in appointment of successor: In re Dixon, 156-26; Bray v. Brumsey, 5-227.

Use by guardian of funds of his ward for his own business is sufficient to warrant his removal: Ury v. Brown, 129-270.

Where guardian of infant moves to another state, taking with him part of infant's property, court has right to remove him and appoint another in his place: Cooke v. Beale, 33-36.

An order by superior court clerk in a cause pending before him for removal of testamentary guardian, where it is not alleged nor found as a fact by clerk that estate of ward had been wasted, nor that guardian insolvent so that ward should be unable to recover balance due on final settlement, is improperly made: Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79-369.

For annotations on removal of administrators, see under section 31, which may be useful in construing this section.

2159. Interlocutory orders on revocation. In all cases where the letters of a guardian are revoked, the clerk of the superior court may, from time to time, pending any controversy in respect to such removal, make such interlocutory orders and decrees as will tend to the better securing the estate of the ward, or other party seeking relief by such revocation.

Rev., s. 1775; Code, s. 1607; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 44.

2160. Resignation; effect; accounting on resignation. Any guardian wishing to resign his trust may apply in writing to the superior court, setting forth the circumstances of his case. If, at the time of making the application, he also exhibits his final account for settlement, and if the clerk of the superior court is satisfied that the guardian has been faithful and has truly accounted, and if a competent person can be procured to succeed in the guardianship, the clerk of the superior court may accept the resignation of the guardian and discharge him from the trust. But the guardian so discharged and his sureties are still liable in relation to all matters connected with the trust before the resignation.

Rev., s. 1776; Code, s. 1608; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 45.

Where permission given to guardian by clerk of court to file ex parte final account and turn over guardianship to another, he is not thereby discharged from liabilities connected with his trust arising before resignation: Luton v. Wilcox, 83-20. Section merely referred to in Ellis v. Scott, 75-111.

Art. 3. Guardian's Bond

2161. Bond to be given before receiving property. No guardian appointed for an infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, shall be permitted to receive property of the infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate until he shall have given sufficient security, approved by a judge, or the court, to account for and apply the same under the direction of the court.

Rev., s. 1777; Code, s. 1573; C. C. P., s. 355.

See sections 339, 346, 2162. Guardian and his bond liable for all moneys due his wards which he has collected or ought to have collected: Loftin v. Cobb, 126-58—and where administrator of former guardian himself becomes guardian, he and his guardian bond become liable for any balance due from solvent estate of former guardian, Ibid.

Giving of bond required of guardians not essential to validity of appointment itself: Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75—though failure to take bond subjects the officer whose duty it is to see that it is made to consequences of omission, Ibid.

2162. Terms and conditions of bond; increased on sale of realty. Every guardian of the estate, before letters of appointment are issued to him, must give a bond payable to the state, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be acknowledged before and approved by the clerk of the superior court, and to be jointly and severally bound. The penalty in such bond must be double, at least, the value of all personal property and the rents and profits issuing from the real estate of the infant, which value is to be ascertained by the clerk of the superior court by the examination, on oath, of the applicant for guardianship, or of any other person. The bond must be conditioned that such guardian shall faithfully execute the trust reposed in him as such, and obey all lawful orders of the clerk or judge touching the guardianship of the estate committed to him. If, on application by the guardian, the court or judge shall decree a sale for any of the causes prescribed by law of the property of such infant, idiot, lunatic or insane person, before such sale be confirmed, the guardian shall be required to file a bond as now required in double the amount of the real property so sold.

Rev., ss. 323, 1778; Code, s. 1574; R. C., c. 54, s. 5; 1762, c. 69, s. 7; 1825, c. 1285, s. 2; 1833, c. 17; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 11; 1874-5, c. 214.

Breach of bond for failing to educate ward and protect estate: Boyett v. Hurst, 54-166—for failure to account for money collected, or which should have been collected, Rollins v. Ebbs, 138-140; Loftin v. Cobb, 126-58; Topping v. Windley, 99-4; Humble v. Mobane, 89-410; Harris v. Harrison, 78-202. When condition deemed to be broken: Barrett v. Munroe, 20-334.

For statute of limitations on bond, see section 439.

2163. To be recorded in clerk's office; action on bond. The bond so taken shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court appointing the guardian; and any person injured by a breach of the condition thereof may prosecute a suit thereon, as in other actions.

Rev., s. 1779; Code, s. 1575; R. C., c. 54, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 12.

For action on guardian bonds, see section 2162. Person to whom court of equity has decreed that guardian should pay fund according to tenor of bond is person injured within meaning of section: State v. Brown, 67-481. As to breach of bond, see Ibid.
2164. Where several wards with estate in common, one bond sufficient. When the same person is appointed guardian to two or more minors, idiots, lunatics or insane persons possessed of one estate in common, the clerk of the superior court may take one bond only in such case, upon which each of the minors or persons for whose benefit the bond is given, or their heirs or personal representatives, may have a separate action.

Rev., s. 1780; Code, s. 1576; R. C., c. 54, s. 8; 1822, c. 1161; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 13.

2165. Renewal of bond every three years; enforcing renewal. Every guardian shall renew his bond before the clerk of the superior court every three years, during the continuance of the guardianship. The clerk of the superior court shall issue a citation against every guardian failing to renew his bond, requiring such guardian to renew his bond within twenty days after service of the citation; and on return of the citation duly served and failure of the guardian to comply therewith, the clerk shall remove him and appoint a successor.

Rev., ss. 324, 1781, 1782; Code, ss. 1581, 1582; R. C., c. 54, s. 10; 1762, c. 69, s. 15; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 18, 19.

2166. Relief of endangered sureties. Any surety of a guardian, who is in danger of sustaining loss by his suretyship, may file his complaint before the clerk of the superior court where the guardianship was granted, setting forth the circumstances of his case and demanding relief; and thereupon the guardian shall be required to answer the complaint within twenty days after service of the summons. If, upon the hearing, the clerk of the superior court deem the surety entitled to relief, the same may be granted by compelling the guardian to give a new bond, or to indemnify the surety against apprehended loss, or by the removal of the guardian from his trust; and in case the guardian fail to give a new bond or security to indemnify when required to do so within reasonable time, the clerk of the superior court must enter a peremptory order for his removal, and his authority as guardian shall thereupon cease.

Rev., s. 1783; Code, s. 1606; R. C., c. 54, s. 35; 1762, c. 69, ss. 21, 22; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 43.

Where sureties of guardian obtain order for counter security under section, and at that time guardian owes ward, and never afterwards returns account or makes payment, no presumption of satisfaction arises from his then being able to pay sum he owed, and sureties to first bond liable for it, although order for counter security expressly releases them: Foye v. Bell, 18-475. Where new sureties ordered to be given, obligation of bond given by new sureties extends to entire guardianship, retrospective as well as prospective: Bell v. Jasper, 37-597—and such second bond is at least additional and cumulative security for ward, Ibid.

Rev., s. 1784; Code, s. 1614; R. C., c. 54, s. 2; 1762, c. 69, ss. 5, 6; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 51.
Giving bond required of guardian is not essential to validity of appointment, but failure to take bond subjects officer to consequences of such omission: Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75—and neither clerk nor his sureties will be heard to deny that guardian, appointed by former, improperly received funds which he is shown to have taken possession of for ward, Topping v. Windley, 99-4. Clerks of superior court liable upon official bonds for all losses sustained by reason of their failure to require proper security upon guardian bonds: Thid. As to when action may be maintained against clerk on official bond, see Jones v. Biggs, 46-364; also section 927.

2168. Liability of clerk for other defaults. If any clerk of the superior court shall willfully or negligently do, or omit to do, any other act prohibited, or other duty imposed on him by law, by which act or omission the estate of any ward suffers damage, he shall be liable therefor as directed in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 1785; Code, s. 1615; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 52.

ART. 4. POWERS AND DUTIES OF GUARDIAN

2169. To take charge of estate. Every guardian shall take possession, for the use of the ward, of all his estate, and may bring all necessary actions therefor.

Rev., s. 1786; Code, s. 1588; R. C., c. 54, s. 21; 1762, c. 69, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 25.

It seems that a guardian may compromise a claim for damages for injury to ward, but this will not be binding upon the ward if attended with fraud: Bunch v. Lumber Co., 174-8.

Guardian having no title to land of ward, it is not his duty to sue for recovery of realty: Cross v. Craven, 120-331. Guardian may exchange personal for real security for debt due ward: Christmas v. Wright, 38-549.

2170. To sell perishable goods on order of clerk. Every guardian shall sell, by order of the clerk of the superior court, all such goods and chattels of his ward as may be liable to perish or be the worse for keeping. Every such order shall be entered in the order record of the superior court and must contain a descriptive list of the property to be sold, with the terms of sale.

Rev., s. 1787; Code, s. 1589; R. C., c. 54, s. 22; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 26.

2171. How sales and rentals made. All sales and rentals by guardians shall be publicly made, between the hours of ten o'clock a.m. and four o'clock p.m., after twenty days notice posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. But, upon petition by the guardian, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land of the ward is situated, or of the county wherein the guardian has qualified, may make an order, on satisfactory evidence, upon the oath of at least two disinterested freeholders acquainted with the said land, that the best interests of the said ward will be subserved by a private renting of said land, allowing the guardian to rent the land privately. The terms of all such rentings shall be reported to said clerk of the superior court and be approved by him. In cases where guardians have heretofore rented their ward's land at private rentings in good faith and for the benefit of the ward's estate, they shall not be liable to the penalty heretofore prescribed by law. The proceeds of all sales of personal estate and rentings of real property, except the rentings of lands leased for agricultural purposes, when not for cash, shall be secured by bond and good security.

Rev., s. 1788; Code, s. 1590; 1891, c. 83; 1901, c. 97; R. C., c. 54, s. 26; 1793, c. 391.

Section impliedly declares it to be to the interest of wards to rent lands publicly: Duffy v. Williams, 153-198.
2172 GUARDIAN AND WARD—Art. 4 Ch. 40

Provisions of section requiring sales by guardians to be public does not apply to sales made under direction of superior court in exercise of its general jurisdiction in equity: Barcello v. Happgood, 118-712. Provisions of section requiring all sales and rentings of real and personal property by guardians to be made publicly, and upon terms therein prescribed, are peremptory: Pate v. Kennedy, 104-234—and leave no discretion to guardian, Ibid. Private renting is valid, as to third parties: Perry v. Perry, 127-23.

2172. When lands may be leased. The guardian may lease the lands of an infant for a term not exceeding the end of the current year in which the infant shall come of age, or die in nonage. But no guardian, without leave of the clerk of the superior court, shall lease any land of his ward without impeachment of waste, or for a term of more than three years, unless at a rent not less than three per centum on the assessed taxable value of the land.

Rey., s. 1789; Code, s. 1591; R. C., c. 54, s. 25; 1762, c. 69, s. 13; 1794, c. 413, s. 2.

Section merely referred to in Melton v. McKesson, 35-475.

2173. When guardians to cultivate lands of wards. Where any parent of a minor child qualifies as guardian of such child, and the ward owns or is entitled to the possession of any real estate used or which may be used for agricultural purposes, such guardian may make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land is situate for permission to cultivate it, and the petition shall set forth the nature, extent and location of the same. It shall then be the duty of the clerk to appoint three disinterested resident freeholders, who shall go upon the land and, after being sworn to act impartially, assess the annual rental value thereof. The commissioners shall report their proceedings and findings to the clerk within ten days after the notification of their appointment, and if the clerk shall deem the same to be the interest of the ward he shall make an order allowing the guardian to cultivate the land for a term not exceeding three years at the annual rental value assessed by the commissioners to be paid to the ward by the guardian. The term, however, shall not extend beyond the minority of the minor. The commissioners shall receive as compensation for said services the same fees as are allowed commissioners in partition of real estate.

2174. When timber may be sold. In case the land cannot be rented for enough to pay the taxes and other dues thereof, and there is not money sufficient for that purpose, the guardian, with the consent of the clerk of the superior court, may annually dispose of or use so much of the lightwood, and box or rent so many pine trees, or sell so much of the timber on the same, as may raise enough to pay the taxes and other duties thereon, and no more.

Rey., s. 1790; Code, s. 1596; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1762, c. 69, s. 14; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 33.

Where guardian sold timber on land of ward without order of court as required by section, and took note for purchase money, maker of note cannot, when sued upon same by guardian and ward, set up failure of guardian to observe statutory mandate: Evans v. Williamson, 79-86.

Rey., s. 1791; Code, s. 1597; 1895, c. 74; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 34.
2176. Personal representative of guardian to pay over to clerk. In all cases where a guardian of any minor child or of an idiot, lunatic, inebriate or insane person dies, it is competent for the executor or administrator of such deceased guardian, at any time after the grant of letters testamentary or of administration, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where such deceased guardian was appointed, any moneys belonging to any such minor child, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, and any such payment shall have the effect to discharge the estate of said deceased guardian and his sureties upon his guardian bond to the extent of the amount so paid.

Administrator of deceased ward not entitled to recover from administrator of deceased guardian moneys which came into guardian’s hands as proceeds of ward’s real estate sold under decree of court in partition: Allison v. Robinson, 78-222. As bearing on section, see Jennings v. Copeland, 90-572.

2177. Collection of claims; duty and liability. Every guardian shall diligently endeavor to collect, by all lawful means, all bonds, notes, obligations or moneys due his ward when any debtor or his sureties are likely to become insolvent, on pain of being liable for the same.

Rev., s. 1795; Code, s. 1593; R. C., c. 54, s. 23; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 20.

Guardian accountable not only for what he receives, but for all he might have received by exercise of ordinary diligence and highest degree of good faith: Armfield v. Brown, 73-81.

Guardian responsible not only for what he receives, but for all he might have received by exercise of ordinary diligence and highest degree of good faith: Armfield v. Brown, 73-81.

Guardian accountable to ward for sum of money in hands of administrator if such administrator or his sureties were solvent at time when such funds ought to have been paid to guardian: Covington v. Leak, 65-594—or within time when judgment could have been obtained upon administration bond, ibid.

Where guardian waited six months after principal in note, held by him as guardian, died insolvent, before he sued surety, who also became insolvent before suit brought, guardian having opportunity of knowing condition of affairs, he is liable for debt: Williamson v. Williams, 59-62.

Guardian having no title to land of ward, it is not his duty to sue for recovery of realty: Cross v. Craven, 120-331.

Guardian liable to ward for negligence in failing to sue on note due ward until parties thereto become insolvent: Coggins v. Blythe, 113-102. Where guardian carelessly and without consideration, upon hasty opinion of counsel, employed by debtor, and not by way of compromise of doubtful claim, accepted from solvent debtor half sum he should have collected, he is responsible for what he failed to collect: Culp v. Stanford, 112-664.

Guardian acting in good faith not responsible for omitting to collect note during late war, when it appears that obligors solvent during war, and rendered insolvent by its results: Love v. Logan, 69-70.

For additional annotations hereunder, see section 2308.

Rev., s. 1796; Code, s. 1595; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1762, c. 69, s. 14; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 32.

2179. Liability for costs. All fees and costs of the superior court for issuing orders, citations, summonses or other process against guardians for their supposed defaults shall be paid by the party found in default.

Rev., s. 1797; Code, s. 1611; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 48.

For duty of guardian to pay oswelty, see Partition, s. 3224.

For compound interest on obligations to guardians, see Interest, s. 2308.
Art. 5. Sales of Ward's Estate

2180. Special proceedings to sell; judge's approval required. On application of the guardian by petition, verified upon oath, to the superior court, showing that the interest of the ward would be materially promoted by the sale or mortgage of any part of his estate, real or personal, the proceeding shall be conducted as in other cases of special proceedings; and the truth of the matter alleged in the petition being ascertained by satisfactory proof, a decree may thereupon be made that a sale or mortgage be had by such person, in such way and on such terms as may be most advantageous to the interest of the ward; but no sale or mortgage shall be made until approved by the judge of the court, nor shall the same be valid, nor any conveyance of the title made, unless confirmed and directed by the judge, and the proceeds of the sale or mortgage shall be exclusively applied and secured to such purposes and on such trusts as the judge shall specify. The guardian may not mortgage the property of his ward for a term of years exceeding the minority of the ward. The word "mortgage" wherever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust.

Rev., s. 1738; Code, s. 1602; R. C., c. 54, ss. 32, 33; 1827, c. 33; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 39; 1917, c. 258, s. 1.

Clerk should require satisfactory proof of necessity to sell in addition to verified petition: In re Propst, 144-562—and decree should not be made upon ex parte affidavit, Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136.

Court may sell land of minors for better investment when they are properly represented before court: Hutchinson v. Hutchinson, 126-671—and court will act, when all interests are found in classes, if one of each class is before court, Ibid.

By this section clerk and court in term have concurrent jurisdiction in matter of ordering sale of infants' lands upon petition of their guardians: Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712. Not erroneous or irregular to order sale of infant's land to be made privately by guardian: Ibid.; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-146. Where judge renders judgment, upon finding by referee that sale should be made, that sale be made privately, purchaser acquires good title: Ibid.

While formal direction to make title is not always necessary, confirmation of sale cannot be dispensed with: In re Dickerson, 11-108. Where court directed sale to be made without taking any means to ascertain necessity therefor, and report of sale was never confirmed, not error in court, upon motion of infant, to set aside sale and order another: Ibid.

Ward has right to subject land sold by his guardian to payment of purchase money: Murrill v. Humphrey, 88-138.

Where ward's land sold under decree of court upon petition of guardian the title acquired is not rendered invalid by reversal of decree on account of irregularity in proceeding of which purchaser had no notice: Sutton v. Schonwald, 86-198.

One who conducts suit as guardian of infants is not party of record, but infants themselves are real plaintiffs: George v. High, 85-113—nor will any one who has an interest in action hostile to that of infants be permitted to conduct same, Ibid.

Court of equity not only has power, but should, in exercise of its discretion in proper cases, authorize and confirm private sale of land of infants; therefore, where guardian, in accordance with order of court, exposes at public sale land of wards, but no sale for want of bidders at fair price, and land subsequently sold privately, upon terms approved by court, purchaser acquires good title: Rowland v. Thompson, 73-504.

For cases under section prior to enactment of section 1744, allowing sale of estates limited to persons not in esse, see Ex parte Dodd, 62-97; Houston v. Houston, 62-95; Watson v. Watson, 56-400.

Where all persons who have an interest in land, whether vested, contingent or executory, are in esse, and are before court, court may make order of sale: Houston v. Houston, 62-95 (note that court can sell land in certain cases where some of parties not in esse under section 1744).

After sale, it ought to appear to be for the benefit of infant to confirm same: Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136.
Where guardian obtains decree of court for sale of ward's land to make him liable for any loss in consequence of such sale, it must appear that he willfully practiced deception on court by false allegations and false evidence, or by industriously concealing material facts: Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136.

Where purchaser fails to pay note for purchase money of land under section, land may still be held liable for purchase money, although irregular and invalid deed made by commissioners contrary to directions of court: Singletary v. Whitaker, 62-77. Bidder at judicial sale acquires no rights until proposition accepted by court: Dula v. Seagle, 98-458. Decree directing commissioner to sell lands, receive purchase money and make title, without requiring report and confirmation of sale by court, is irregular: Ibid.

Superior courts have authority to direct sales of property of infants, both real and personal, in proper cases: Tate v. Mott, 96-19. Guardian appointed in another state has no authority to represent his wards in suits and proceedings in this state, but when he brings suit for them as guardian he will be treated as if he were next friend: Ibid.

Section merely referred to in Ex parte Miller, 90-627; Morris v. Gentry, 89-252; Smith v. Witter, 174-616.

Fund from sale has character of estate sold and subject to same trusts. Whenever, in consequence of any sale under the preceding section, the real or personal property of the ward is saved from demands to which in the first instance it may be liable, the final decree shall declare and set apart a portion of the personal or real estate thus saved, of value equal to the real and personal estate sold, as property exchanged for that sold; and in all such cases of sale, whereby real is substituted by personal, or personal by real property, the beneficial interest in the property acquired shall be enjoyed, alienated, devised or bequeathed, and shall descend and be distributed, as by law the property sold might and would have been had it not been sold, until it be reconverted from the character thus impressed upon it by some act of the owner and restored to its character proper.

Rey., s. 1799; Code, s. 1603; R. C., c. 54, s. 33; 1827, c. 33, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 40.

Although duty of court of equity, where real estate of infant is sold under its decree, to direct proceeds to be held as real estate: Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136—yet husband of such infant, who has received proceeds from wife's guardian, has no right to complain that such course has not been adopted, Ibid. Where female ward's land sold for her benefit, and she marries and dies before coming of age: Held, that money retained character of realty: Wood v. Reeves, 58-271.

Section merely referred to in Tate v. Mott, 96-22; Ex parte Miller, 90-627; Douglas v. Caldwell, 59-21.

Sale of ward's estate to make assets. When a guardian has notice of a debt or demand against the estate of his ward, he may apply by petition, setting forth the facts, to the clerk of the superior court wherein the guardianship was granted, for an order to sell so much of the personal or real estate as may be sufficient to discharge such debt or demand; and the order of the court shall particularly specify what property is to be sold and the terms of sale; but no real estate shall be sold under this section, in any case, without the revision and confirmation of the order therefor by the judge of the superior court. The proceeds of sale under this section shall be considered as assets in the hands of the guardian for the benefit of creditors, in like manner as assets in the hands of a personal representative; and the same proceedings may be had against the guardian with respect to such assets as might be taken against an executor, administrator or collector in similar cases.

Rev., ss. 1800, 1801; Code, ss. 1604, 1605; R. C., c. 54, s. 34; 1789, c. 311, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 41, 42.
Before lands of infant can be sold for payment of debts, there must be a judgment of court that there is a debt against estate of ward which renders sale necessary: Pendleton v. Trueblood, 48-96; Coffield v. McLean, 49-15; Leary v. Fletcher, 23-259—and must be alleged in petition that debt to be satisfied was one against ancestor, and not simply debt contracted by ward or his guardian, Coffield v. McLean, 49-15—but amount of such debts, to whom due, or other particular description not essential to validity of order authorizing sale, Pendleton v. Trueblood, 48-96. Court must select part or parts of property which can be disposed of with least injury to ward: Leary v. Fletcher, 23-259.

Where court, on petition of guardian of infant, made order that he, said guardian, sell land of said deceased, or so much thereof as will be sufficient to discharge debt, such order unauthorized and void, and purchaser thereunder acquired no title: Ducket v. Skinner, 33-431; Leary v. Fletcher, 23-259.

Guardian of lunatic may, by order of county court (now clerk superior court), rightfully sell personal property of ward for payment of debts, provided no fraud in proceeding: Howard v. Thompson, 30-367.

Order "to sell land of ward named in petition, adjoining lands of A. B. and others, containing about 110 acres," is sufficient specification of land under section, where it appears that ward had no other land: Pendleton v. Trueblood, 48-96.

Sale of land by guardian under order of clerk superior court, made without ascertaining that there were debts against ward which made sale necessary, and which did not designate with certainty land to be sold, is void: Spruill v. Davenport, 48-42.

Money from sale of lands belonging to wards is subject to attachment in hands of clerk after confirmation of sale: LeRoy v. Jacobsky, 136-443. When guardian of infant under order of court sells ward's land for payment of debts of ancestor, he is bound to observe same priority in payment of debts as administrator or executor in applying personal assets: Merchant v. Sanderlin, 25-501.

Art. 6. Returns and Accounting

Rev., s. 1802; Code, s. 1577; R. C., c. 54, s. 11; 1762, c. 69, s. 9; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 14.

2184. Procedure to compel return. In cases of default to exhibit the return required by the preceding section, the clerk of the superior court must issue an order requiring the guardian to file such return forthwith, or to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him. If, after due service of the order, the guardian does not, on the return day of the order, file such return, or obtain further time to file the same, the clerk of the superior court shall issue an attachment against him, and commit him to the common jail of the county till he files such return.

Rev., s. 1803; Code, s. 1578; R. C., c. 54, s. 12; 1762, c. 69, s. 15; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 15.

2185. Additional assets to be returned. Whenever further property of any kind, not included in any previous return, comes to the hands or knowledge of any guardian, he must cause the same to be returned within three months after the possession or discovery thereof; and the making of such return of new assets, from time to time, may be enforced in the same manner as prescribed in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 1804; Code, s. 1579; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 16.
2186. Annual accounts. Every guardian shall, within twelve months from the date of his qualification or appointment, and annually, so long as any of the estate remains in his control, file in the office of the clerk of the superior court an inventory and account, under oath, of the amount of property received by him, or invested by him, and the manner and nature of such investment, and his receipts and disbursements for the past year in the form of debit and credit. He must produce vouchers for all payments. The clerk of the superior court may examine on oath such accounting party, or any other person, concerning the receipts, disbursements or any other matter relating to the estate; and having carefully reviewed and audited such account, if he approve the same, he must indorse his approval thereon, which shall be deemed prima facie evidence of correctness.

Rev., s. 1805; Code, s. 1617; R. C., c. 54, ss. 11, 12; 1762, c. 60, ss. 9, 15; 1871-2, c. 46.

2187. Procedure to compel accounting. If any guardian omit to account, as directed in the preceding section, or renders an insufficient and unsatisfactory account, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith order such guardian to render a full and satisfactory account, as required by law, within twenty days after service of the order. Upon return of the order, duly served, if such guardian fail to appear or refuse to exhibit such account, the clerk of the superior court may issue an attachment against him for contempt and commit him till he exhibits such account, and may likewise remove him from office.

Rev., s. 1806; Code, s. 1618; C. C. P., s. 479.

Word "account" defined: State v. Dunn, 134-668. Clerk must require guardians to make quarterly and annual returns, and on failure to do so to attach and remove guardians from office: Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79-371; In re Dixon, 156-26.

2188. Final account. A guardian may be required to file such account at any time after six months from the ward's coming of full age or the cessation of the guardianship; but such account may be filed voluntarily at any time, and, whether the accounting be voluntary or compulsory, it shall be audited and recorded by the clerk of the superior court.

Upon the death of the ward the trust ends and the distributees may have administration and call for an account: Lowden v. Hathcock, 150-438.

Section not intended to bestow upon guardian ward's money and property for six months after he becomes of age: Self v. Shugart, 135-189—or to deprive him of right to bring action during that period, but simply means that guardian presumed to have settled with ward within six months, and after its lapse clerk can call on guardian to file final account, with receipts of ward, in full settlement, to complete record in his office, for section states that such return shall be audited and recorded, Ibid.—but such final account is intended to be subsequent to settlement with ward, not preparatory thereto, Ibid.

Ten years after ward coming of age bars action by him against his guardian for settlement: Dunn v. Beaman, 126-766; Lowden v. Hathcock, 150-438.
2189. Expenses and disbursements credited to guardian. Every guardian may charge in his annual account all reasonable disbursements and expenses; and if it appear that he has really and bona fide disbursed more in one year than the profits of the ward’s estate, for his education and maintenance, the guardian shall be allowed and paid for the same out of the profits of the estate in any other year; but such disbursements must, in all cases, be suitable to the degree and circumstances of the estate of the ward.

See section 2155. For annotations as to allowances made administrators, etc., see under section 157 (reasoning very similar).

In passing the accounts of a guardian he cannot, except under rare circumstances, be allowed disbursements beyond income of ward: Caffey v. McMichael, 64-507; Johnston v. Coleman, 56-290; Long v. Norcom, 37-254.

Court may allow money in excess of income expended in education without permission of clerk: Duffy v. Williams, 133-125.

Clerk may allow costs of suit brought by guardian for ward where guardian went on prosecution bond and had to pay costs individually: Green v. Burgess, 117-495—may allow disbursements made to pay debts of lunatic (his ward) contracted before his lunacy, he being dead and his child being of age, McLean v. Breece, 113-390—may allow reasonable attorney's fees paid in good faith, Burke v. Turner, 85-500; Whitford v. Foy, 65-265; Moore v. Shields, 69-50—may allow expenditures demanded by such circumstances amounting to physical necessity as would compel court to authorize them without hesitation, Long v. Norcom, 37-254.

No allowance to father, though he be guardian, for maintenance of child, if he is able to maintain it: Burke v. Turner, 85-500—nor to father as guardian for education of child, he being able to educate it, Walker v. Crowder, 37-478. No allowance for counsel fees when counsel employed for personal advantage of guardian: Johnston v. Haynes, 65-509—or to keep ward out of just rights, Moore v. Shields, 69-50—or in defending action brought by ward for settlement, Ibid.

Guardian who advances money for ward over and above income of estate in order to set him up in business or for other purposes, without applying to court for leave, not entitled to charge ward with it: Shaw v. Coble, 63-377.

Where guardian grossly abusing his trust, claims credit for certain amount for ward’s expenditures, and files no exhibit of items of expenditures, and does not make it appear that same proper, such credit will not be allowed him: Boyett v. Hurst, 54-166.

Guardians are chargeable with highest rate of interest where funds are used in his own business: Fisher v. Brown, 135-198.
2190. Commissions. The superior court shall allow commissions to the guardian for his time and trouble in the management of the ward’s estate, in the same manner and under the same rules and restrictions as allowances are made to executors, administrators and collectors.

Rev., s. 1809; Code, s. 1613; R. C., c. 54, s. 28; 1762, c. 69, ss. 18, 19; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 50.

For annotations as to commissions allowed administrators, etc., see under section 157 (may be of service in construing this section). Where guardian uses funds of ward, but makes regular annual settlement, charging himself with interest thereon, he is entitled to his commissions: Fisher v. Brown, 135-198; Carr v. Askew, 94-194.

Where sum received was $10,000 and there was no trouble or litigation connected with estate, commission of 2½ per cent on receipts and 5 per cent on disbursements was allowed: Carr v. Askew, 94-194.

Commissions allowed by referee will not be reduced unless they are manifestly excessive: Wilson v. Lineberger, 88-416.

Ex parte order of court allowing commissions to guardian not conclusive in litigation between ward and guardian: Walton v. Erwin, 36-136. Possibly there may be cases in which, office being troublesome, and guardian faithful, and dying or giving up office upon some necessity, court may give to such guardian full commission and also reasonable compensation to successor: Ibid. Two and one-half per cent is reasonable commission where guardian had received nearly whole of ward’s estate in notes, had collected very little on notes, and paid same over to succeeding guardian: Ibid.

Guardian not entitled to commissions on money collected and used by him in own business: Burke v. Turner, 85-500; but see Fisher v. Brown, 135-198; Carr v. Askew, 94-194—nor on debts of his ward paid to firm of which guardian is a member, Burke v. Turner, 85-500.

Guardian entitled to commissions although he omitted to keep and render regular accounts, where no imputation cast upon his integrity by reason of neglect: McNeill v. Hodges, 83-504. Guardian not entitled to commissions upon any disbursements made after ward arrives at full age: Ibid. Reasonable commissions will always be allowed to guardian unless in case of fraud or very culpable negligence: Whitford v. Foy, 65-265—but rate will depend upon amount of estate, trouble of managing same, and whether fees paid to counsel for assisting in management, last of which will lessen rate, Ibid. Commissions should be allowed guardian on amount of notes and other securities for debt delivered to ward upon cessation of guardianship: Whitford v. Foy, 65-265. Not unreasonable to allow 5 per cent commissions to guardian on receipts and disbursements, which embrace large number of receipts and vouchers extending through period of fourteen years: Covington v. Leak, 65-594. Guardian entitled to commissions upon payments made for goods bought of firm of which he is a member: Williamson v. Williams, 59-62—but not on charges for board while ward lived in his family, Ibid.

Where guardian keeps no account and makes no report of trust, as general rule he will not be allowed commissions: Topping v. Windley, 99-4.

Compensation cannot be allowed independent of commissions to guardian for time and trouble: Shutt v. Carlsson, 36-232.

Art. 7. Public Guardians

2191. Appointment; term; oath. There may be in every county a public guardian, to be appointed by the clerk of the superior court for a term of eight years. The public guardian shall take and subscribe an oath (or affirmation) faithfully and honestly to discharge the duties imposed upon him; the oath so taken and subscribed shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court.

Rev., ss. 1758, 1759; Code, ss. 1556, 1560; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 1, 5.

2192. Bond of public guardian; increasing bond. The public guardian shall enter into bond with three or more sureties, approved by the clerk in the penal sum of six thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned faithfully to perform the duties of his office and obey all lawful orders of the superior or other courts touching said guardianship of all wards, money or estate that may come into his hands. Whenever the aggregate value of the real and personal estate belonging to his several wards exceeds one-half the bond herein required the clerk of the superior court shall require him to enlarge his bond in amount so as to cover at least double the aggregate amount under his control as guardian.

Rev., ss. 321, 322; Code, ss. 1557, 1558; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 2, 3.

2193. Powers, duties, liabilities, compensation. The powers and duties of said public guardian shall be the same as other guardians, and he shall be subject to the same liabilities as other guardians under the existing laws, and shall receive the same compensation as other guardians.

Rev., s. 1761; Code, s. 1561; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 6, 7.

2194. When letters issue to public guardian. The public guardian shall apply for and obtain letters of guardianship in the following cases:

1. When a period of six months has elapsed from the discovery of any property belonging to any minor, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, without guardian.

2. When any person entitled to letters of guardianship shall request in writing the clerk of the superior court to issue letters to the public guardian; but it is lawful and the duty of the clerk of the superior court to revoke said letters of guardianship at any time after issuing the same upon application in writing by any person entitled to qualify as guardian, setting forth a sufficient cause for such revocation.

Rev., s. 1760; Code, s. 1561; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 6, 7.

ART. 8. FOREIGN GUARDIANS

2195. Right to removal of ward's personality from state. Where any ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, residing in another state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, or Canada, or other foreign country, is entitled to any personal estate in this state, or personal property substituted for realty by decree of court, or to any money arising from the sale of real estate, whether the same be in the hands of any guardian residing in this state, or of any executor, administrator or other person holding for the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, or if the same (not being adversely held and claimed) be not in the lawful possession or control of any person, the guardian of the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, duly appointed at the place where such ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person resides, may apply to have such estate removed to the residence of the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person by petition filed before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the property or some portion thereof is situated; which shall be proceeded with as in other cases of special proceedings.

Rev., s. 1816; Code, ss. 1598, 1601; R. C., c. 54, s. 29; 1820, c. 1044; 1842, c. 38; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 35, 38; 1874-5, c. 168; 1913, c. 86, s. 1.

Where it appears that property of ward residing in another state is in this state, consisting of good bonds at interest in hands of guardian here, and ward nearly of age, no special necessity appearing for such transfer, court will refuse order to transfer property: Douglas

For cases prior to enactment of section and rendered nugatory by same, see McNeely v.
Jamison, 55-186; Pugh v. Mordecai, 41-61. Section referred to in Tate v. Mott, 96-28.
2196. Contents of petition; parties defendant. The petitioner must show to the court a copy of his appointment as guardian and bond duly authenticated, and must prove to the court that the bond is sufficient, as well in the ability of the sureties as in the sum mentioned therein, to secure all the estate of the ward wherever situated. Any person may be made a party defendant to the proceeding who may be made a party defendant in civil actions under the provisions of the chapter entitled Civil Procedure.

Rev., ss. 1817, 1818; Code, ss. 1599, 1600; R. C., c. 54, s. 30; 1820, c. 1044, s. 2; 1842, c. 38; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 36, 37.

For removal of trust funds from the state, see Trustees, Art. 2.

Section merely referred to in Tate v. Mott, 96-28.

For rate of interest guardian notes to bear, see section 2308.

For guardians of idiots, inebriates and lunatics, see sections 2284-2290. For cross-index of appointments of guardian, see section 952. For payment of owelty of partition due from ward, see section 3224.

ART. 9. ESTATES WITHOUT GUARDIAN

2197. Duty of grand jury as to orphans and guardians. The grand jury of every county is charged with and shall present to the superior court the names of all orphan children that have no guardian or are not bound out to some trade or employment. They shall further inquire of all abuses, mismanagement and neglect of all such guardians as are appointed by the clerk of the superior court. The clerk of the superior court shall, at each term of the superior court, lay before the grand jury a list of all the guardians acting in his county or appointed by him.

Rev., s. 1810; Code, s. 1609; R. C., c. 54, s. 18; 1762, c. 69, s. 17; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 46.

2198. Solicitor to apply for receiver for orphans' estates. Whenever an orphan, having any estate, is presented by a grand jury, for whom no suitable person will become guardian, the clerk of the superior court must give notice thereof forthwith to the solicitor of the state for the judicial district, who shall apply in behalf of the orphan to the judge of the superior court of the county where such presentment was made, to the end that a receiver be appointed.

Rev., s. 1811; Code, s. 1610; R. C., c. 54, s. 19; 1846, c. 43; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 47.

Section merely referred to in Rogers v. Odom, 86-432.

2199. Solicitor to prosecute bond of guardian removed without a successor. Whenever any guardian is removed, and no person is appointed to succeed in the guardianship, the clerk of the superior court shall certify the name of such guardian and his sureties to the solicitor of the judicial district, who shall forthwith institute an action on the bond of the guardian in the superior court, for securing the estate of the ward.

Rev., s. 1812; Code, s. 1584; R. C., c. 54, s. 14; 1844, c. 41; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 21.

Action under section is properly action brought by solicitor for benefit of ward when guardian has been removed, and infant is not necessary party, perhaps not proper party, to it: Temple v. Williams, 91-89; Becton v. Becton, 56-419—therefore infant not bound as party to action by record, and it is not conclusive upon him when afterwards, suing by next friend, or suing after he comes of age, to call former guardian to account: Temple v. Williams, 91-89; Becton v. Becton, 56-423.

2200. Judge to appoint receiver; his rights and duties. The judge of the superior court, either residing in or presiding over the courts of the district, before whom such action is brought, shall have power to appoint the clerk of the superior court or some discreet person as a receiver to take possession of the ward’s estate, to collect all moneys due to him, to secure, lend, invest or apply the same for the benefit and advantage of the ward, under the direction and subject to such rules and orders in every respect as the said judge may from time to time make in regard thereto; and the accounts of such receiver shall be returned, audited and settled as the judge may direct. The receiver shall be allowed such amounts for his time, trouble and responsibility as seem to the judge reasonable and proper; and such receivership may be continued until a suitable person can be procured to take the guardianship.

Rev., s. 1813; Code, s. 1585; R. C., c. 54, s. 15; 1844, c. 41, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 22.

When clerk superior court is appointed receiver he is liable officially for funds coming into his hands: Hannah v. Hyatt, 170-634. But he is not so liable when he makes payments under order of court: Ibid.

Appointment of receiver for insane person’s estate should be made only on motion of solicitor after wife and one or more adult children, if there are such, or some near relative or friend, have been brought before judge at chambers or in term: In re Hybart, 119-359.

Where in order of court appointing A. B., clerk superior court, receiver of infant’s estate, word ‘‘as’’ was omitted before words ‘‘clerk superior court,’’ the intention of court to appoint clerk receiver in his official capacity was sufficiently indicated: Waters v. Melson, 112-89. Under section, court has authority to appoint clerk of superior court receiver of infant’s estate: Ibid.—and sureties on official bond liable for any breach of his duties as such receiver, Ibid.; Booth v. Upchurch, 110-62; Syme v. Bunting, 91-48; Rogers v. Odom, 86-432.

Burden upon receiver and his sureties to show that he used due diligence in investing money in his hands: Waters v. Melson, 112-89. As a general rule receiver is responsible for his own neglect only, and is protected when he acts in entire good faith: Collins v. Gooch, 97-186—but when receiver appointed to take charge of infant’s estate who has no guardian and is directed to lend out money and pay income over to ward, he will be held to same accountability as guardian, Ibid. Receiver may keep money in bank as safe place of deposit, or may use bank as means of transmitting money to distant places, and if he uses reasonable diligence, will not be held liable if bank fails: Ibid.—but this does not authorize loan to bank by such trustee without taking security, Ibid. Where receiver was appointed to take charge of infant’s estate and invest same, and report to court annually, and deposited portion of money in bank in another state, which afterwards failed, he is liable for loss if he failed to report to court manner of the investment of estate, though he acted in the best faith: Ibid. Receiver appointed to take charge of ward’s estate when guardian removed is not invested with powers of guardian, but acts under control of court until another guardian appointed: Temple v. Williams, 91-82—and a settlement with such receiver, even though under direction of court, is not conclusive against ward, but only raises presumption that account and settlement correct: Ibid.

For procedure where receiver alleged to have committed breach of trust, see Atkinson v. Smith, 59-72.

Section merely referred to in Timberlake v. Green, 84-660; Harris v. Harrison, 75-433.

2201. Receiver to pay over estate to infant or guardian. When another guardian is appointed, he may apply by motion, on notice, to the judge of the superior court for an order upon the receiver to pay over all the money, estate and effects of the ward; and if no such guardian is appointed, then the ward, on coming of age, or in case of his death, his executor, administrator or collector, and the heir or personal representative of the idiot, lunatic or insane person, shall have the like remedy against the receiver.

Rev., s. 1814; Code, s. 1587; R. C., c. 54, s. 17; 1844, c. 41, s. 4; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 24.
Settlement with receiver, even if had under direction of court, not conclusive against ward: Temple v. Williams, 91-82—but only raises presumption that account and settlement correct, Ibid.

Section merely referred to in Timberlake v. Green, 84-660.

2202. Duties and compensation of solicitor. The solicitor shall prosecute the action and take all necessary orders therein, and for his services shall be allowed such reasonable compensation as may be just, not to exceed ten dollars; in passing on the returns of receivers, where the estate of the infant does not exceed five hundred dollars, not to exceed five dollars; and where the estate exceeds five hundred dollars, not to exceed ten dollars. The amount in each case to be fixed by the judge.

Rev., s. 1815; Code, s. 1586; 1895, c. 14; R. C., c. 54, s. 16; 1844, c. 41, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 23.

Section merely referred to in Timberlake v. Green, 84-660.

2204. Habeas corpus not to be suspended. The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended.

Rev., s. 1820; Const., Art. I, s. 21.

ART. 2. APPLICATION

2205. Who may prosecute writ. Every person imprisoned or restrained of his liberty within this state, for any criminal or supposed criminal matter, or on any pretense whatsoever, except in cases specified in the succeeding section, may prosecute a writ of habeas corpus, according to the provisions of this chapter, to inquire into the cause of such imprisonment or restraint, and, if illegal, to be delivered therefrom.

Rev., s. 1821; Code, s. 1623; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 1.

Habeas corpus is not a substitute for an appeal: State v. Burnette, 173-734; State v. Webb, 155-426; In re Holley, 154-163; Ex parte McCown, 139-95. The only inquiry is as to the power of the court to make the order under which the petitioner is held: Ibid.

Where defendant, charged with burglary with intent to commit murder, pleaded guilty of larceny and was sentenced to imprisonment in penitentiary, he is entitled to writ of habeas corpus that he may be taken from penitentiary and held to answer charge in court below: State v. Queen, 91-659.

Person illegally detained in hospital for the dangerous insane cannot be released on habeas corpus if he is insane at time of return of writ: In re Boyett, 136-415.

The filing of a true bill for murder does not deprive court of power to issue habeas corpus and to admit defendant to bail: State v. Herndon, 107-934.

2206. When application denied. Application to prosecute the writ shall be denied in the following cases:

1. Where the persons are committed or detained by virtue of process issued by a court of the United States, or a judge thereof, in cases where such courts or judges have exclusive jurisdiction under the laws of the United States, or have acquired exclusive jurisdiction by the commencement of suits in such courts.

2. Where persons are committed or detained by virtue of the final order, judgment or decree of a competent tribunal of civil or criminal jurisdiction, or by virtue of an execution issued upon such final order, judgment or decree.

3. Where any person has willfully neglected, for the space of two whole terms after his imprisonment, to apply for the writ to the superior court of the county in which he may be imprisoned, such person shall not have a habeas corpus in vacation time for his enlargement.

4. Where no probable ground for relief is shown in the application.

Rev., s. 1822; Code, s. 1624; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 2.

Writ of habeas corpus will not be issued when it appears on face of petition that petitioner is detained by virtue of final judgment of court of competent jurisdiction: In re Croom, 175-455; State v. Dunn, 159-470; Howie v. Spittle, 156-180; In re Holley, 154-163; In re Brittian, 93-587—as power is denied to courts in such cases, Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527; In re Schenck, 979 2207. By whom application is made. Application for the writ may be made either by the party for whose relief it is intended or by any person in his behalf. Rev., s. 1823; Code, s. 1625; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 3.

2208. To judge of supreme or superior court; in writing. Application for the writ shall be made in writing, signed by the applicant—
1. To any one of the justices of the supreme court.
2. To any one of the superior court judges, either at term time or in vacation.
Rev., s. 1824; Code, s. 1626; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 4.

2209. Contents of application. The application must state, in substance, as follows:
1. That the party, in whose behalf the writ is applied for, is imprisoned or restrained of his liberty, the place where, and the officer or person by whom he is imprisoned or restrained, naming both parties, if their names are known, or describing them if they are not known.
2. The cause or pretense of such imprisonment or restraint, according to the knowledge or belief of the applicant.
3. If the imprisonment is by virtue of any warrant or other process, a copy thereof shall be annexed, or it shall be made to appear that a copy thereof has been demanded and refused, or that for some sufficient reason a demand for such copy could not be made.
4. If the imprisonment or restraint is alleged to be illegal, the application must state in what the alleged illegality consists; and that the legality of the imprisonment or restraint has not been already adjudged, upon a prior writ of habeas corpus, to the knowledge or belief of the applicant.
5. The facts set forth in the application must be verified by the oath of the applicant, or by that of some other credible witness, which oath may be administered by any person authorized by law to take affidavits.
Rev., s. 1825; Code, s. 1627; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 5.

Parties may waive all errors in proceedings on petition for habeas corpus: State v. Edney, 60-463. What may constitute waiver of errors: Ibid.

Petition must allege that the imprisonment has not been already adjudged upon prior writ of habeas corpus: In re Brittain, 93-587.
Where defendant was not originally liable for arrest and had been discharged upon habeas corpus, he cannot be held upon a surrender by his sureties: Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527.

2210. Issuance of writ without application. When the supreme or superior court, or any judge of either, has evidence from any judicial proceeding before such court or judge that any person within this state is illegally imprisoned or restrained of his liberty, it is the duty of said court or judge to issue a writ of habeas corpus for his relief, although no application be made for such writ.
Rev., s. 1826; Code, s. 1632; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 10.
Section merely referred to in State v. Jones, 113-672; State v. Applewhite, 75-232; In re Schenck, 74-610.
Art. 3. Writ

2211. Writ granted without delay. Any court or judge empowered to grant the writ, to whom such applications may be presented, shall grant the writ without delay, unless it appear from the application itself or from the documents annexed that the person applying or for whose benefit it is intended is, by this chapter, prohibited from prosecuting the writ.

Rev., s. 1827; Code, s. 1628; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 6.

Duty of judge to whom application for writ of habeas corpus made, to issue same if petition made in conformity to statute: In re Patterson, 99-407—and if it has been obtained upon false statements, or by suppression of facts which would prevent its issue, will be dismissed upon hearing, Ibid. Presumption of innocence applies only on a trial, and does not avail to furnish presumption that detention of party on regular process, when committing officer has jurisdiction, is alleged: State v. Jones, 113-669.

For review of decision, see annotations under section 2234.

2212. Penalty for refusal to grant. If any judge authorized by this chapter to grant writs of habeas corpus refuses to grant such writ when legally applied for, every such judge shall forfeit to the party aggrieved two thousand five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1828; Code, s. 1631; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 9.

1. If the person having the custody of the party imprisoned or restrained be designated either by his name of office, if he have any, or by his own name, or, if both such names be unknown or uncertain, he may be described by an assumed appellation, and any one who may be served with the writ shall be deemed the person to whom it is directed, although it may be directed to him by a wrong name, or description, or to another person.

2. If the person who is directed to be produced be designated by name, or if his name be uncertain or unknown, he may be described by an assumed appellation or in any other way, so as to designate the person intended.

Rev., s. 1829; Code, ss. 1629, 1630; 1868-9, c. 116, ss. 7, 8.

2214. Service of writ. The writ of habeas corpus may be served by any qualified elector of this state thereto authorized by the court or judge allowing the same. It may be served by delivering the writ, or a copy thereof, to the person to whom it is directed; or, if such person cannot be found, by leaving it, or a copy, at the jail, or other place in which the party for whose relief it is intended is confined, with some under officer or other person of proper age; or, if none such can be found, or if the person attempting to serve the writ be refused admittance, by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place on the outside, either of the dwelling-house of the party to whom the writ is directed or of the place where the party is confined for whose relief it is sued out.

Rev., s. 1833; Code, s. 1657; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 32.

See Ex parte Kerr, 64-816.
Art. 4. Return

2215. When writ returnable. Writs of habeas corpus may be made returnable at a certain time, or forthwith, as the case may require. If the writ be returnable at a certain time, such return shall be made and the party shall be produced at the time and place specified therein.
Rev., s. 1830; Code, s. 1656; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 31.

2216. Contents of return; verification. The person or officer on whom the writ is served must make a return thereto in writing, and, except where such person is a sworn public officer and makes his return in his official capacity, it must be verified by his oath. The return must state plainly and unequivocally—
1. Whether he has or has not the party in his custody or under his power or restraint.
2. If he has the party in his custody or power, or under his restraint, the authority and the cause of such imprisonment or restraint, setting forth the same at large.
3. If the party is detained by virtue of any writ, warrant, or other written authority, a copy thereof shall be annexed to the return; and the original shall be produced and exhibited on the return of the writ to the court or judge before whom the same is returnable.
4. If the person or officer upon whom such writ is served has had the party in his power or custody, or under his restraint, at any time prior or subsequent to the date of the writ, but has transferred such custody or restraint to another, the return shall state particularly to whom, at what time, for what cause and by what authority such transfer took place.
Rev., s. 1831; Code, s. 1633; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 11.

2217. Production of body if required. If the writ requires it, the officer or person on whom the same has been served shall also produce the body of the party in his custody or power, according to the command of the writ, except in the case of the sickness of such party, as hereinafter provided.
Rev., s. 1832; Code, s. 1636; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 14.

Art. 5. Enforcement of Writ

2218. Attachment for failure to obey. If the person or officer on whom any writ of habeas corpus has been duly served refuses or neglects to obey the same, by producing the body of the party named or described therein, and by making a full and explicit return thereto, within the time required, and no sufficient excuse is shown for such refusal or neglect, it is the duty of the court or judge before whom the writ has been made returnable, upon due proof of the service thereof, forthwith to issue an attachment against such person or officer, directed to the sheriff of any county within this state, and commanding him forthwith to apprehend such person or officer and bring him immediately before such court or judge. On being so brought such person or officer shall be committed to close custody in the jail of the county where such court or judge may be, without being allowed the liberties thereof, until such person or officer make return to such writ and comply with any order that may be made by such court or judge in relation to the party for whose relief the writ has been issued.

Rev., s. 1834; Code, s. 1637; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 15.

Where officer of troops, acting under authority of governor, the commander in chief, refuses to obey the writ of habeas corpus there is "sufficient excuse" under section: Ex parte Moore, 64-809. As bearing upon section, see Ex parte Moore, 65-349.

2219. Liability of judge refusing attachment. If any judge willfully refuses to grant the writ of attachment, as provided for in the preceding section, he shall be liable to impeachment, and moreover shall forfeit to the party aggrieved twenty-five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1835; Code, s. 1638; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 2.

2220. Attachment against sheriff to be directed to coroner; procedure. If a sheriff has neglected to return the writ agreeably to the command thereof, the attachment against him may be directed to the coroner or to any other person to be designated therein, who shall have power to execute the same, and such sheriff, upon being brought up, may be committed to the jail of any county other than his own.

Rev., s. 1836; Code, s. 1639; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 16.

2221. Precept to bring up party detained. The court or judge by whom any such attachment may be issued may also at the same time, or afterwards, direct a precept to any sheriff, coroner, or other person to be designated therein, commanding him to bring forthwith before such court or judge the party, wherever to be found, for whose benefit the writ of habeas corpus has been granted.

Rev., s. 1837; Code, s. 1640; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 17.

See Ex parte Moore, 64-810.

2222. Liability of judge refusing precept. If any judge refuses to grant the precept provided for in the preceding section, he shall be liable to impeachment, and moreover shall forfeit to the party aggrieved twenty-five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1838; Code, s. 1641; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 3.

2223. Liability of judge conniving at insufficient return. If any judge grants the attachment, or the precept, and gives the officer or other person charged with the execution of the same verbal or written instructions not to execute the same, or to make any evasive or insufficient return, or any return other than that provided by law; or shall connive at the failing to make any return or any evasive or insufficient return, or any return other than that provided by law, he shall be liable to impeachment, and moreover shall forfeit to the party aggrieved twenty-five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1839; Code, s. 1642; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 4.

2224. Power of county to aid service. In the execution of any such attachment, precept or writ, the sheriff, coroner, or other person to whom it may be directed, may call to his aid the power of the county, as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1840; Code, s. 1643; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 18.

"Power of county" means men of county in which writ is to be executed: Ex parte Moore, 64-811. As to posse comitatus generally, see Worth v. Comrs., 118-122.
2225. Obedience to order of discharge compelled. Obedience to a judgment or order for the discharge of a prisoner or person restrained of his liberty, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, may be enforced by the court or judge by attachment in the same manner and with the same effect as for a neglect to make return to a writ of habeas corpus; and the person found guilty of such disobedience shall forfeit to the party aggrieved two thousand five hundred dollars, besides any special damages which such party may have sustained.

Rev., s. 1841; Code, s. 1649; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 24.

2226. No civil liability for obedience. No officer or other person shall be liable to any civil action for obeying a judgment or order of discharge upon writ of habeas corpus.

Rev., s. 1842; Code, s. 1650; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 25.

2227. Recommittal after discharge; penalty. If any person shall knowingly again imprison or detain one who has been set at large upon any writ of habeas corpus, for the same cause, other than by the legal process or order of the court wherein he is bound by recognizance to appear, or of any other court having jurisdiction in the case, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3581; Code, s. 1651; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 26.

A party released on writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the court committing him has no jurisdiction, may be again arrested for the same cause upon legal process from a court having jurisdiction: Barbee v. Weatherspoon, 88-19.

2228. Disobedience to writ or refusing copy of process; penalty. If any person to whom a writ of habeas corpus is directed shall neglect or refuse to make due return thereto, or to bring the body of the party detained according to the command of the writ without delay, or shall not, within six hours after demand made therefor, deliver a copy of the commitment or cause of detainer, such person shall, upon conviction on indictment, be fined one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding twelve months, and if such person be an officer, shall moreover be removed from office.

Rev., s. 3597; Code, s. 1652; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 27.

2229. Penalty for false return. If any person shall make a false return to a writ of habeas corpus, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3582; Code, s. 1653; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 28.

2230. Penalty for concealing party entitled to writ. If any one having in his custody, or under his power, any party who, by law, would be entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, or for whose relief such writ shall have been issued, shall, with intent to elude the service of such writ, or to avoid the effect thereof, transfer the party to the custody, or put him under the power or control, of another, or shall conceal or change the place of his confinement, or shall knowingly aid or abet another in so doing, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3583; Code, ss. 1654, 1655; 1868-9, c. 116, ss. 29, 30.

Art. 6. Proceedings and Judgment

2231. Notice to interested parties. When it appears from the return to the writ that the party named therein is in custody on any process, or by reason of any claim of right, under which any other person has an interest in continuing his imprisonment or restraint, no order shall be made for his discharge until it appears that the person so interested, or his attorney, if he have one, has had reasonable notice of the time and place at which such writ is returnable.

Rev., s. 1843; Code, s. 1634; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 12; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 1.

2232. Notice to solicitor. When it appears from the return that such party is detained upon any criminal accusation, the court or judge may, if he thinks proper, make no order for the discharge of such party until sufficient notice of the time and place at which the writ has been returned, or is made returnable, is given to the solicitor of the county in which the person prosecuting the writ is detained.

Rev., s. 1844; Code, s. 1635; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 13.

Where it appears from return on writ of habeas corpus that petitioner detained on criminal charge, court may continue hearing for reasonable time to give solicitor opportunity to ex-

2233. Subpenas to witnesses. Any party to a proceeding on a writ of habeas corpus may procure the attendance of witnesses at the hearing, by subpena, to be issued by the clerk of any superior court, under the same rules, regulations and penalties prescribed by law in other cases.

Rev., s. 1845; Code, s. 1659; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 34.

2234. Proceedings on return; facts examined; summary hearing of issues. The court or judge before whom the party is brought on a writ of habeas corpus shall, immediately after the return thereof, examine into the facts contained in such return, and into the cause of the confinement or restraint of such party, whether the same has been upon commitment for any criminal or supposed criminal matter or not; and if issue be taken upon the material facts in the return, or other facts are alleged to show that the imprisonment or detention is illegal, or that the party imprisoned is entitled to his discharge, the court or judge shall proceed, in a summary way, to hear the allegations and proofs on both sides, and to do what to justice appertains in delivering, bailing or remanding such party.

Rev., s. 1846; Code, s. 1644; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 19.

Petition will be dismissed where writ was obtained upon false statements, or by suppression of facts which would prevent its issue: In re Patterson, 99-407.

No appeal lies from decision of the judge, but the case may be reviewed by certiorari: In re Croom, 175-455; In re Wiggins, 165-457; In re Holley, 154-163; Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527; State v. Herndon, 107-934; Walton v. Gatlin, 60-318.

If, upon certiorari, supreme court reverses and sets aside judgment of court below and proceedings are remanded, no procedendo issues to any particular judge, but petitioner can exercise his statutory right to apply, de novo, to any judge authorized to grant the writ: State
v. Herndon, 107-934.

Presumption of innocence applies only on a trial, and does not avail to furnish presumption that detention of party on regular process, when committing officer has jurisdiction, is illegal:
State v. Jones, 113-669—therefore burden rests on petitioner to show commitment illegal, Ibid.

2235. When party discharged. If no legal cause is shown for such imprisonment or restraint, or for the continuance thereof, the court or judge shall discharge the party from the custody or restraint under which he is held. But if it appears on the return to the writ that the party is in custody by virtue of civil process from any court legally constituted, or issued by any officer in the course of judicial proceedings before him, authorized by law, such party can be discharged only in one of the following cases:

1. Where the jurisdiction of such court or officer has been exceeded, either as to matter, place, sum or person.

2. Where, though the original imprisonment was lawful, yet by some act, omission or event, which has taken place afterwards, the party has become entitled to be discharged.

3. Where the process is defective in some matter of substance required by law, rendering such process void.

4. Where the process, though in proper form, has been issued in a case not allowed by law.

5. Where the person, having the custody of the party under such process, is not the person empowered by law to detain him.

6. Where the process is not authorized by any judgment, order or decree of any court, nor by any provision of law.

Rey., s. 1847; Code, s. 1645; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 20.

Where it appears from sheriff’s return to habeas corpus that petitioner is in custody on mittimus regularly issued for failure to give bond to answer criminal charge of which court had jurisdiction, detention clearly legal: State v. Jones, 113-669—and burden on petitioners to show wherein it was illegal, not upon state to show that they were lawfully in custody, Ibid.

Where defendant was sentenced to imprisonment in two cases, the sentences are concurrent unless otherwise specified, and upon the expiration of the time he may be discharged upon habeas corpus: In re Black, 162-457; State v. Cathey, 170-794.

The state cannot appeal from an order discharging a prisoner in habeas corpus: In re Williams, 149-436.

2236. When party remanded. It is the duty of the court or judge forthwith to remand the party, if it appears that he is detained in custody, either—

1. By virtue of process issued by any court or judge of the United States, in a case where such court or judge has exclusive jurisdiction.

2. By virtue of the final judgment or decree of any competent court of civil or criminal jurisdiction, or of any execution issued upon such judgment or decree.

3. For any contempt specially and plainly charged in the commitment by some court, officer or body having authority to commit for the contempt so charged.

4. That the time during which such party may be legally detained has not expired.

Rev., s. 1848; Code, s. 1646; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 21.

Party is remanded when it appears that he is held under the process or judgment of a competent court: In re Hinson, 156-250; In re Holley, 154-163. Provision of subsection 3 as peremptory as that of subsection 2: State v. Queen, 91-662. Section merely referred to in Ashby v. Page, 108-8. See section 2206.

2237. When party bailed or remanded. If it appears that the party has been legally committed for any criminal offense, or if it appears by the testimony offered with the return of the writ, or upon the hearing thereof, that the party is guilty of such an offense, although the commitment is irregular, the court or judge shall proceed to let such party to bail, if the case is bailable and good bail is offered; if not, the court or judge shall forthwith remand such party to the custody or place him under the restraint from which he was taken, if the person or officer, under whose custody or restraint he was, is legally entitled thereto; if not so entitled, the court or judge shall commit such party to the custody of the officer or person legally entitled thereto.

Rev., s. 1849; Code, s. 1647; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 22.

The prisoner may be held to bail to appear before proper court for hearing: State v. Burrette, 173-734; State v. Herndon, 107-934. See annotations under sections 2234, 2235.

2238. Party held in execution not to be discharged. When a writ of habeas corpus cum causa issues and the sheriff or other officer to whom it is directed returns upon the same that the prisoner is condemned, by judgment given against him, and held in custody by virtue of an execution issued against him, the prisoner shall not be let to bail, but shall be presently remanded, where he shall remain until discharged in due course of law.

Rev., s. 1850; Code, s. 987; R. C., c. 31, s. 111; 2 Hen. V., c. 2.

See Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527; State v. Herndon, 107-934.

2239. When party ill, cause determined in his absence. When, from the ill-ess or infirmity of the person directed to be produced by a writ of habeas corpus, such person cannot, without danger, be brought before the court or judge where the writ is made returnable, the party in whose custody he is may state the fact in his return to the writ; and if the court or judge is satisfied of the truth of the allegation, and the return is otherwise sufficient, the court or judge shall proceed to decide on such return and to dispose of the matter in the same manner as if the body had been produced.

Rev., s. 1851; Code, s. 1648; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 23.

2240. No second committal after discharged; penalty. No person who has been set at large upon any writ of habeas corpus shall be again imprisoned or detained for the same cause by any person whatsoever other than by the legal order or process of the court wherein he shall be bound by recognizance to appear or of any other court having jurisdiction in the case, under the penalty of two thousand five hundred dollars to the party aggrieved thereby.

Rev., s. 1852; Code, s. 1651; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 26.

Where defendant was not originally liable to arrest, and had been discharged upon habeas corpus, he cannot be held upon surrender by his sureties: Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527. Party set at large by writ of habeas corpus upon ground that judgment of imprisonment void for want of jurisdiction in court, may be again arrested for same cause upon legal process of court

Art. 7. HABEAS CORPUS FOR CUSTODY OF CHILDREN IN CERTAIN CASES

2241. Custody as between parents in certain cases; modification of order.
When a contest shall arise on a writ of habeas corpus between any husband and wife, who are living in a state of separation, without being divorced, in respect to the custody of their children, the court or judge, on the return of such writ, may award the charge or custody of the child or children so brought before it either to the husband or to the wife, for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions as will, in the opinion of such court or judge, best promote the interest and welfare of the children. At any time after the making of such orders the court or judge may, on good cause shown, annul, vary or modify the same.

Rev., s. 1853; Code, s. 1661; 1858-9, c. 53; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 36.

For consequence of divorce on right to custody of children, see Divorce and Alimony, s. 1664.

For effect of abandonment, see Adoption of Minors, s. 189.

Except as between parents, under this section right of custody of child cannot be determined by writ of habeas corpus: In re Parker, 144-170.

Where the custody of the child is decreed in a divorce proceeding, the remedy is by motion in the cause and not by habeas corpus: Page v. Page, 166-90; s. c., 161-170. But a decree of divorce in another state awarding the custody of a child may be disregarded, and custody awarded under this section: In re Alderman, 157-507; Harris v. Harris, 115-587.

Parents of child, while living together, have prima facie right to custody: In re Jones, 153-312. Mother of illegitimate child has first right to custody: Ibid.

As between father and mother, the father's right to custody of child is recognized: In re Palm, 172-790; In re Jones, 153-312; Newsome v. Bunch, 144-15. But the welfare of the child is first consideration: In re Alderman, 157-507, and cases cited—and the judge may, in the exercise of discretion, award the custody to the mother, even when nonresident, In re Means, 176-307; Harris v. Harris, 115-587—or to a third person, In re Turner, 151-474.

Where it appears that both father and mother are of good character and able to support and educate child, but that mother had married again and that new husband was a man of dissipated habits, proper to award custody of child to father: In re D'Anna, 117-462.

Section confers upon court very large powers to "promote interest and welfare of children": Jones v. Cotten, 108-458. Section is express that custody shall be given either to father or mother: Thompson v. Thompson, 72-33. Where no abandonment of child proven, court must still find facts entitling plaintiff to child's restoration: Newsome v. Bunch, 142-19. Section referred to in Latham v. Ellis, 116-33; Musgrove v. Kornegay, 52-72.

2242. Appeal to supreme court. In all cases of habeas corpus, where a contest arises in respect to the custody of minor children, either party may appeal to the supreme court from the final judgment.

Rev., s. 1854; Code, s. 1662; 1858-9, c. 53, s. 2.

In habeas corpus cases involving custody of children, either party may appeal: Musgrove v. Kornegay, 52-71; State v. Miller, 97-451. The supreme court will review errors of law, but not findings of fact by the lower court upon competent evidence: Stokes v. Cogdell, 153-181; Harris v. Harris, 115-587.

ART. 8. HABEAS CORPUS AD TESTIFICANDUM

2243. Authority to issue the writ. Every court of record has power, upon the application of any party to any suit or proceeding, civil or criminal, pending in such court, to issue a writ of habeas corpus, for the purpose of bringing before the said court any prisoner who may be detained in any jail or prison within the state, for any cause, except a prisoner under sentence for a capital felony, to be examined as a witness in such suit or proceeding in behalf of the party making the application.

Such writ of habeas corpus may be issued by any justice of the peace or clerk of the superior court, upon application as provided in this section, to bring any person confined in the jail or prison of the same county where such justice or clerk may reside, to be examined as a witness before such justice or clerk.

In cases where the testimony of any prisoner is needed in a proceeding before a justice of the peace, or a clerk, and such person is confined in a county in which such justice or clerk does not reside, application for habeas corpus to testify may be made to any judge of the supreme or superior court.

Rev., ss. 1855, 1856; Code, ss. 1663, 1664; 1868-9, c. 116, ss. 37, 38.

Section applies only to parties strictly so called, and not to state: State v. Jones, 176-702; Ex parte Harris, 73-65; State v. Adair, 68-68—therefore it is error in court below to refuse petition of solicitor for habeas corpus ad testificandum to bring prisoner under death sentence, that he might testify in trial then pending, Ex parte Harris, 73-65; State v. Adair, 68-68. Parties litigant have no right to writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum under section for witness under sentence for (capital) felony: State v. Adair, 68-70.

2244. Contents of application. The application for the writ shall be made by the party to the suit or proceeding in which the writ is required, or by his agent or attorney. It must be verified by the applicant, and shall state—

1. The title and nature of the suit or proceeding in regard to which the testimony of such prisoner is desired.

2. That the testimony of such prisoner is material and necessary to such party on the trial or hearing of such suit or proceeding, as he is advised by counsel and verily believes.

Rev., s. 1857; Code, s. 1665; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 39.

2245. Service of writ. The writ of habeas corpus to testify shall be served by the same person, and in like manner in all respects, and enforced by the court or officer issuing the same as prescribed in this chapter for the service and enforcement of the writ of habeas corpus cum causa.

Rev., s. 1858; Code, s. 1666; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 40.

2246. Applicant to pay expenses and give bond to return. The service of the writ shall not be complete, however, unless the applicant for the same tenders to the person in whose custody the prisoner may be, if such person is a sheriff, coroner, constable or marshal, the fees and expenses allowed by law for bringing such prisoner, nor unless he also gives bond, with sufficient security, to such sheriff, coroner, constable or marshal, as the case may be, conditioned that such applicant will pay the charges of carrying back such prisoner.

Rev., s. 1859; Code, s. 1667; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 41.

2247. Duty of officer to whom writ delivered or on whom served. It is the duty of the officer to whom the writ is delivered or upon whom it is served, whether such writ is directed to him or not, upon payment or tender of the charges allowed by law, and the delivery or tender of the bond herein prescribed, to obey and return such writ according to the exigency thereof upon pain, on refusal or neglect, to forfeit to the party on whose application the same has been issued the sum of five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1860; Code, s. 1668; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 42.

2248. Prisoner to be remanded. After having testified, the prisoner shall be remanded to the prison from which he was taken.

Rev., s. 1861; Code, s. 1669; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 43.

For costs of habeas corpus, see Costs, s. 1244.
CHAPTER 42

INNS, HOTELS, AND RESTAURANTS

Art. 1. Innkeepers.

2249. Must furnish accommodations. Every innkeeper shall at all times provide suitable food, rooms, beds and bedding for strangers and travelers whom he may accept as guests in his inn or hotel.

Rev. s. 1900; 1903, c. 563.

An inn or hotel is a public house of entertainment for all who choose to visit it: Holstein v. Phillips, 146-366.

A guest's right of occupancy of an inn is dependent upon proper behavior, decent conduct and obedience to reasonable rules and regulations: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457—and if wrongly evicted, can only sue for damages, Ibid.

As to right of innkeeper to expel from inn persons who are not guests, see State v. Steele, 106-766. As to right to put out persons, or refuse lodging to persons, who apply to become guests who are considered objectionable on account of character or color, see Ibid. As to rights of hotel to arrange for a livery business connected therewith or to grant a monopoly of soliciting the livery business to a party, see Ibid.
One who occasionally entertains strangers, receiving compensation therefor, is not an innkeeper: State v. Mathews, 19-424.
Boarding-house distinguished from an inn: State v. McRae, 170-712.

2250. Liability for loss of baggage. Inkeepers shall not be liable for loss, damage or destruction of the baggage or property of their guests except in case such loss, damage, or destruction results from the failure of the innkeeper to exercise ordinary, proper and reasonable care in the custody of such baggage and property; and in case of such loss, damage or destruction resulting from the negligence and want of care of the said innkeeper he shall be liable to the owner of the said baggage and property to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars. Any guest may, however, at any time before a loss, damage or destruction of his property, notify the innkeeper in writing that his property exceeds in value the said sum of one hundred dollars, and shall upon demand of the innkeeper furnish him a list or schedule of the same, with the value thereof, in which case the innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of said property because of any negligence on his part for the full value of the same. Proof of the loss of any such baggage, except in case of damage or destruction by fire, shall be prima facie evidence of the negligence of said hotel or innkeeper.
Rev., s. 1910; 1903, c. 563, s. 2.

A boarder, as distinguished from a guest, is one who abides at a place: Holstein v. Phillips, 146-366. Facts in this case held to show that there was a relation of innkeeper and guest between parties, and hotel was liable as insurer for loss of money of guest as at common law, hotel having failed to comply with provisions of section 2254: Ibid. Common-law liability of innkeeper for loss of goods of a guest, also liability of boarding-house keeper for loss of goods of a boarder, stated: Ibid. A guest in hotel who holds position of regular boarder or lodger can only hold proprietor to the exercise of ordinary care on the part of himself and employees as to goods and money of guests: Ibid.

Innkeeper is bound to use reasonable care for the personal safety of his guests: Patrick v. Springs, 154-270.

2251. Safekeeping of valuables. It is the duty of innkeepers, upon the request of any guest, to receive from said guest and safely keep money, jewelry and valuables to an amount not exceeding five hundred dollars; and no innkeeper shall be required to receive and take care of any money, jewelry or other valuables to a greater amount than five hundred dollars: Provided, the receipt given by said innkeeper to said guest shall have plainly printed upon it a copy of this section. No innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of any money or jewels not so deposited.
Rev., s. 1911; 1903, c. 563, s. 3.
See annotations under section 2250.

2252. Loss by fire. No innkeeper shall be liable for loss, damage or destruction of any baggage or property caused by fire not resulting from the negligence of the innkeeper or by any other force over which the innkeeper had no control. Nothing herein contained shall enlarge the limit of the amount to which the innkeeper shall be liable as provided in preceding sections.
Rev., s. 1912; 1903, c. 563, s. 4.

2253. Negligence of guest. Any innkeeper against whom claim is made for loss sustained by a guest may show that such loss resulted from the negligence of such guest or of his failure to comply with the reasonable and proper regulations of the inn.
Rev., s. 1914; 1903, c. 563, s. 7.

The guest must exercise reasonable care to protect himself against personal injury: Patrick v. Springs, 154:270.

For lien of innkeepers on baggage and other property, see section 2461.

2254. Copies of this chapter to be posted. Every innkeeper shall keep posted in every room of his house occupied by guests, and in the office, a printed copy of this article and of all regulations relating to the conduct of guests. This chapter shall not apply to innkeepers, or their guests, where the innkeeper fails to keep such notices posted.
Rev., s. 1913; 19038, c. 563; ss. 5, 6.

For lien of innkeepers on baggage and other property, see Liens, Art. 5.

Facts held to show that there was relation of innkeeper and guest between the parties, and the hotel was liable as insurer for loss of money of guest as at common law, hotel having failed to comply with this section: Holstein v. Phillips, 146:366.

ART. 2. SANITARY INSPECTION AND CONDUCT

2255. Definitions: Hotel, restaurant; transient guest. A hotel within the meaning of this article is an inn or public lodging-house of more than fifteen bedrooms where transient guests are fed or lodged for pay in this state.

The term "restaurant" as used in this article shall include lunch counters and cafés.

The term "transient guest," within the meaning of this article, shall mean one who puts up for less than one week at such hotel.
1917, c. 66, s. 1.

2256. Rates for rooms to be posted. Every transient hotel shall keep posted in a conspicuous place in the office a list of its charges for rooms, with or without meals, in accordance with the plan or plans on which the hotel is operated, giving the exact transient rate, and shall also keep posted in each room the rate for that room, with or without meals, in accordance with its plan as stated above, giving the transient rate per day and week, and the rate for each person in the room.
1917, c. 66, s. 2.

2257. Fire extinguishers. Every hotel shall provide each floor with one or more fire extinguishers of a type approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which shall be kept in good working order at all times, with plain instructions thereon.
1917, c. 66, s. 3.

2258. Stairways and fire-escapes. All hotels hereafter constructed in this state, over two stories in height and over one hundred feet in length, shall be constructed so that there shall be at least two stairs for the use of guests leading from the ground floor to the uppermost story, and for larger buildings such number as the state insurance commissioner shall designate. Every hotel in this state over two stories in height shall be provided, without delay, with permanent iron balconies with iron stairs leading from one balcony to the other, above the ground floor, and with stairway or ladder extending to the ground, in case such hotel is over one hundred and fifty feet in length, and in other cases such number as may be directed by the state insurance commissioner or agent: Provided, that where said hotels already built and only three stories in height are, in the opinion of the state insurance commissioner or agent, provided with sufficient inner stairways, so located as to furnish sufficient egress in case of fire, the aforesaid official may waive the requirement for outside iron balconies and stairs. Such balconies and iron stairs shall be constructed at the expense of the owner of said hotel: Provided, that where hotels are already built where fire-escapes are located so as to go through any room, this section shall not apply: Provided, that this article shall not apply to private residences at which lodgers are not received for hire.
1917, c. 66, s. 4.

2259. Directions to fire-escapes. In every hotel having fire-escapes directions for reaching the fire-escapes shall be kept posted at the entrance of stairway, elevator shaft and in each bedroom above the ground floor. From eight o'clock in the evening until six o'clock in the morning the location and direction of the fire-escapes shall be indicated with red lights.

through a room or rooms, or otherwise, on a level with the lowest floor to which the lightwell extends.
1917, c. 66, s. 6.

2261. Life-lines at bathing beaches. Every keeper or proprietor of a hotel or boarding-house, and every person having for use a bathing-house upon any beach or shore of the ocean for the accommodation of his guests or of other persons for pay, shall provide and maintain for the safety of such bathers two lines of sound, serviceable, and strong manila or hemp rope, not less than one inch in diameter, securely anchored at some point above high water, at the same distance apart as the line of bathing-houses or space fronting on such beach occupied by them is in width; and from the two points at which such lifelines are so anchored such lines shall be made to extend as far into the surf as bathing is ordinarily safe and free from danger of drowning to persons not expert in swimming; and at such points of safety such lines shall be anchored and buoyed. From the two points of lines so extended, and anchored and buoyed, a third line shall be extended, connecting the two extremities, and buoyed at such points as to be principally above the surface of the water, thereby inclosing a space within such lines and the beach within which bathing is believed to be safe. Every such keeper or proprietor or other person shall cause to be painted and put up, in some prominent place upon the beach near such bathing-houses, the following words: "Bathing beyond the lines is dangerous." Such lines so placed, anchored and buoyed, and such notices so put up shall continue and be so maintained by every such keeper, proprietor, or other person during the entire season of bathing. The owner of the bathing-house shall not be subject to the provisions of this section where it is used, occupied, or maintained by a lessee for hire; but such lessee shall be deemed the keeper or proprietor thereof.

1917, c. 66, s. 7.

2262. Water-closets and bath-rooms; sewer connections. In all cities, towns, or villages where a system of waterworks and sewerage is maintained for public use, every hotel therein accessible to water main and sewer main shall be equipped, within six months after February 26, 1917, with suitable water-closets for the accommodation of its guests, which water-closets shall be connected and trapped by proper plumbing with such water and sewerage systems, and there shall be some adequate means of flushing said water-closets with the water in such manner as to prevent sewer gas from arising therefrom. The water-closets and bath-rooms must be sufficiently lighted to permit the reading of ten point roman type eighteen inches from the normal eye. The wash-bowls in the main wash-room of such hotel must be connected and trapped and equipped in similar manner, both as to method and time; all such equipment to be paid for by the owner.

2264. Cisterns and tanks to be screened. A sample of water used in every hotel and restaurant, except in cases where the water is derived from some public water supply, shall be sent by the proprietor to the state laboratory of hygiene for analysis twice each year, with a certificate that it is the water used in such hotel or restaurant, and if the sample is found by said laboratory to be unfit for the use that is made of the water in the hotel or restaurant, the further use of such water shall be discontinued until permission is granted by the state board of health to resume the use of such water.

2266. Prevention of flies; screens, etc. The proprietor or keeper of every hotel or restaurant shall keep screened the doors, windows and all openings of the kitchen and dining-room with suitable mesh-wire gauze from the first of April to the first of December. Every hotel must have all bed-room windows screened or else provide each bed with a mosquito bar for the use of its patrons for protection against flies, mosquities, and other insects, and it shall be the duty of the proprietor or keeper of every hotel and restaurant to use such other means, as fly paper, fly traps, etc., as may be necessary to keep their restaurant, kitchen, and dining-rooms reasonably free from flies.

2267. Bed-rooms; size and arrangement of beds. In every sleeping-room the minimum floor area shall be sixty square feet per bed, and under no circumstances shall there be provided less than five hundred cubic feet of air space per bed. There shall always be space in each room and the arrangement of each room shall be such that there may be a space of two feet between any beds in the room. All beds shall be so arranged that the air shall circulate freely under each. 1917, c. 66, s. 14.

2269. Sheets and bed linen. All hotels shall hereafter provide each bed, bunk, cot, or other sleeping place for the use of guests with pillow-slips and under and top sheets of sufficient width to cover the mattress thereof, and to be at least ninety inches long. All pillow-slips and sheets after being used by one guest must be washed and ironed before being used by another guest, a clean set being furnished each succeeding guest.

2270. Vermin. All beds, bedclothing, mattresses, and pillows shall always be kept clean and free from vermin.

1917, c. 66, s. 16.

2271. Diseased guests; disinfection. Every room after being occupied by any one known or suspected to be suffering from tuberculosis, diphtheria, or any contagious disease must be thoroughly disinfected as prescribed by the state board of health before further occupancy; and every room after being occupied by any one known or suspected to be suffering from measles or whooping cough must be thoroughly aired for twenty-four hours before subsequent occupancy.

1917, c. 66, s. 17.

2276. Premises, walls, and fixtures. Every lodging-house and every part thereof shall at all times be kept free from filth and rubbish in or on the premises belonging to or connected with the same. All water-closets, wash-basins, baths, windows, fixtures, fittings, and painted surface shall at all times be kept clean and in good repair. The floors, walls, and ceilings of all rooms, passages, and stairways must at all times be clean and in good repair.

1917, c. 66, s. 22.

2277. Annual inspection and certificate by state board of health. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article the state board of health is authorized and required to inspect, through its officers or agents, without cost to the hotels, all hotels and restaurants in the state once a year. If upon inspection of any hotel or restaurant it shall be found that this article has been fully complied with, the secretary of the state board of health shall issue a certificate to that effect to the person operating the same, and such certificate shall be kept posted in plain view in some conspicuous place in said hotel or restaurant.

2278. Special inspections by state board authorized. No hotel or restaurant shall be inspected oftener than once a year, unless there is a change of proprietors, or unless it shall appear to the state board of health from the inspection made that additional inspections are necessary, or upon a verified complaint signed by three or more patrons, setting forth facts showing that such hotel is in an unsanitary condition or that fire-escapes and appliances are not kept and maintained in accordance with the provisions of law. Upon receipt of such complaint, the state board of health shall make, or cause to be made, an inspection or examination of the matters complained of, and if upon inspection such complaint is found to be justifiable, the actual cost of inspection shall be charged and collected from the proprietor of the hotel. In case the complaint is found to be without reasonable grounds, the actual cost for such inspection shall be chargeable against and collected from the person or persons making the complaint.

2279. Inspection reports to be filed. The official representative or agent of the state board of health shall after inspection make a report of the condition of the hotel inspected upon blanks to be provided by the state board of health, showing in detail the condition of the hotel with reference to compliance with this article, which report shall be filed in the office of the board.
1917, c. 66, s. 25.

2280. Entry for inspection authorized. The inspectors, officers, or agents of the state board of health are hereby empowered and authorized to enter any hotel at all reasonable hours to make such inspection; and it is hereby made the duty of every person in the management or control of such hotel to afford free access to every part of the hotel, and render all aid and assistance necessary to enable the inspector to make a full, thorough, and complete examination thereof; but no inspector shall violate the privacy of any guest without his or her consent.
1917, c. 66, s. 26.

2281. Inspector to notify proprietor of violation of article. It shall be the duty of the inspector, upon ascertaining, by inspection or otherwise, that any hotel is being carried on contrary to any of the provisions of this article, to notify the manager, or proprietor, in what respect it fails to comply with the law, requiring such persons within a reasonable time to do or to cause to be done the things necessary to make it comply with the law, whereupon such proprietor or manager shall forthwith comply with such requirements.
1917, c. 66, s. 27.

2282. Violation of article or obstructing enforcement a misdemeanor. 1907, c. 66, s. 28.

2283. Inspector to swear out warrants. It shall be the duty of the inspector, in case he shall have knowledge of any violation of this article, to swear out a warrant against the person offending.
1917, c. 66, s. 29.

Any person who habitually, whether continuously or periodically, indulges in the use of intoxicating liquors, narcotics or drugs to such an extent as to stupefy his mind and to render him incompetent to transact ordinary business with safety to his estate, or who renders himself, by reason of the use of intoxicating liquors, narcotics or drugs, dangerous to person or property, or who, by the frequent use of liquor, narcotics or drugs, renders himself cruel and intolerable to his family, or fails from such cause to provide his family with reasonable necessities of life, shall be deemed an inebriate: Provided, the habit of so indulging in such use is at the time of inquisition of at least one year's standing.

Rev., s. 1892; Code, s. 1671; 1891, c. 15, s. 7; 1903, c. 543; 1879, c. 329.

For rules for admission into hospitals, see Hospitals for Insane.
See In re Anderson, 132-246.

Art. 2. Guardianship and Management of Estates of Incompetents

2285. Inquisition of lunacy; appointment of guardian. Any person, in behalf of one who is deemed an idiot, inebriate, or lunatic, or incompetent from want of understanding to manage his own affairs by reason of the excessive use of intoxicating drinks, or other cause, may file a petition before the clerk of the superior court of the county where such supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic resides, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner; whereupon such clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into the state of such supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic. Upon the return of the sheriff summoning said jury, the clerk of the superior court shall swear and organize said jury and shall preside over said hearing, and the jury shall make returns of their proceedings under their hand to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

Either the applicant or the supposed idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person may appeal from the finding of said jury to the next term of the superior court, when the matters at issue shall be regularly tried de novo before a jury, and pending such appeal, the clerk of the superior court shall not appoint a guardian for the said supposed idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person, but the resident judge of the district, or the judge presiding in the district, may in his discretion appoint a temporary receiver for the alleged incompetent pending the appeal. The trial of said appeal in the superior court shall have precedence over all other causes.

The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hands to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an idiot, inebriate, lunatic or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

Rev., s. 1586; Code, s. 1670; C. C. P., s. 473; 1919, c. 54.

See section 2155. While not required by section that idiot should be brought before clerk or jury in person, it is prudent to have such idiot personally before court, or at least to give such notice as will give information of proposed action in ample time for him to be present: In re Propst, 144-562; Dowell v. Jacks, 53-389.

Where jury finds defendant to be of unsound mind and incompetent to manage his own affairs, but not an idiot or lunatic, court should appoint guardian: In re Anderson, 132-243.

Section embraces four classes of persons for whom guardians may be appointed, namely, idiots, lunatics, inebriates and those who are incompetent from want of understanding to manage their own affairs by reason of excessive use of intoxicating liquors or other cause: In re Anderson, 132-243.

Appointment of guardian for lunatic valid until proceedings and orders under inquisition reversed: Sims v. Sims, 121-297. Report of jury in inquisition of lunacy need not be formally confirmed by clerk of court, section only requiring it to be filed and recorded: Sims v. Sims, 121-297.

Inquisition of lunacy not conclusive against person dealing with supposed lunatic: Parker v. Davis, 53-460—but he may show that at time of contract supposed lunatic had sufficient capacity to make same, Ibid.

Inquisition which merely states that person is "of unsound mind" does not show, even prima facie, that he is an idiot: Christmas v. Mitchell, 38-535. Ancient presumption of law that one born deaf and dumb is an idiot does not now exist: Ibid. While it is proper that inquisition should distinctly find party to be lunatic or idiot, sufficient if equivalent description be used, as that "he is of insane mind": Armstrong v. Short, 8-11. Moral debasement not necessarily and of itself insanity: Mayo v. Jones, 78-402. Insanity cannot be proven by general reputation: State v. Coley, 114-879. Feebleness of health, with occasional fits, is no Case under former enactment somewhat similar to above: Bethea v. McLennon, 23-523.

2286. Guardian appointed on certificate from hospital for insane. If any person is confined in any hospital for insane persons, in any state, territorial or governmental asylum or hospital, in this state or any other state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, the certificate of the superintendent of such hospital declaring such person to be of insane mind and memory, which certificate shall be sworn to and subscribed before the clerk of the superior court or any notary public, or the clerk of any court of record of the county in which such hospital is situated, and certified under the seal of court, shall be sufficient evidence to authorize the clerk to appoint a guardian for such idiot, lunatic or insane person.

Section referred to in Somers v. Comrs., 123-584; In re Hybart, 119-365.

2287. Restoration to sanity or sobriety; effect; how determined. When any insane person or inebriate becomes of sound mind and memory, or becomes competent to manage his property, he is authorized to manage, sell and control all his property in as full and ample a manner as he could do before he became insane or inebriate, and a petition in behalf of such person may be filed before the clerk of the superior court of the county of his residence, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner, whereupon the clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the person alleged to be no longer insane or inebriate, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of six freeholders to inquire into the sanity of the alleged sane person, formerly a lunatic, or the sobriety of such alleged restored person, formerly an inebriate. The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hands to the clerk, who shall file and record the same, and if the jury find that the person whose mental or physical condition inquired of is sane and of sound mind and memory, or is no longer an inebriate, as the case may be, the said person is authorized to manage his affairs, make contracts and sell his property, both real and personal, as if he had never been insane or inebriate.

Rev., s. 1893; Code, s. 1672; 1901, c. 191; 1903, c. 80; 1879, c. 324, s. 4.
When insanity once shown to exist, there is presumption that it continues; open to be rebutted by testimony showing restoration of mental soundness: Beard v. R. R., 143-136. Appointment of guardian for lunatic continues until declared sane: Sims v. Sims, 121-297.

2288. Legal rights restored upon certificate of sanity by superintendent of hospital. Any person who has been declared of unsound mind and memory under the section 2286, and for whom a guardian has been appointed, may be fully restored to his rights to manage his or her property by a certificate from the superintendent of the hospital where such person of unsound mind and memory has been confined stating that such insane person has been restored to sound mind and memory. This certificate shall be sworn to and subscribed before the clerk of the superior court or notary public for the county in which the hospital wherein such person has been confined is located, and certified under the seal of said court to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein said person has his legal residence immediately before being declared of unsound mind and memory. The clerk of such resident county shall record the certificate and immediately issue a notice to the guardian of such person, requiring him to file his final account within sixty days from the date of service of the notice. From the date of docketing the record of such certificate the person formerly of unsound mind and memory shall be restored to all his legal rights.

2289. Estates without guardian managed by clerk. When any person is declared to be of nonsane mind or inebriate, and no suitable person will act as his guardian, the clerk shall secure the estate of such person according to the law relating to orphans whose guardians have been removed.

Rev., s. 1894; Code, s. 1676; R. C., c. 57, s. 6; 1846, c. 43, s. 1.

See section 2199. Under section, appointment of receiver for insane person's estate should be made only on motion of solicitor, after wife and one or more adult children, if there are such, or some near relative or friend have been brought before judge at chambers or in term: In re Hybart, 119-359.

2290. Allowance to abandoned insane wife. When any insane wife is abandoned by her husband, she may, by her guardian, or next friend, in case there be no guardian, apply to the clerk of the superior court for support and maintenance, which the clerk may decree as in cases of alimony, out of any property or estate of her husband.

Rev., s. 1895; Code, s. 1686; 1858-9, c. 52, s. 1.

Solvent insane not entitled to free admission to asylum: Hospital v. Fountain, 128-23.

Art. 3. Sales of Estates

2291. Clerk may order sale or renting. When it appears to any clerk of the superior court by report of the guardian of any idiot, inebriate or lunatic, that his personal estate has been exhausted, or is insufficient for his support, and that he is likely to become chargeable on the county, the clerk may make an order for the sale or renting of his personal or real estate, or any part thereof, in such manner and upon such terms as he may deem advisable. Such order shall specify particularly the property thus to be disposed of, with the terms of renting or sale, and shall be entered at length on the records of the court; and all sales and rentings made under this section shall be valid to convey the interest and estate directed to be sold, and the title thereof shall be conveyed by such person as the clerk may appoint on confirming the sale; or the clerk may direct the guardian to file his petition for such purpose.

Rev., s. 1896; Code, s. 1674; R. C., c. 57, s. 4; 1801, c. 589.

This section applies only to the sale of vested interests: Smith v. Witter, 174-616. For sale of contingent interest the jurisdiction is in superior court at term under section 1744: Ibid. See, as to sales of ward's lands by general guardian, sections 2180, 2182.

Section merely referred to in Adams v. Thomas, 81-297; Howard v. Thompson, 30-369.

2292. Purposes for which estate sold; parties; disposition of proceeds. When it appears to the clerk, upon the petition of the guardian of any idiot, inebriate or lunatic, that a sale of any part of his real or personal estate is necessary for his maintenance, or for the discharge of debts unavoidably incurred for his maintenance, or when the clerk is satisfied that the interest of the idiot, inebriate or lunatic would be materially and essentially promoted by the sale of any part of such estate; or when any part of his real estate is required for public purposes, the clerk may order a sale thereof to be made by such person, in such way and on such terms as he shall adjudge. The clerk, if it be deemed proper, may direct to be made parties to such petition the next of kin or presumptive heirs of such nonsane person or inebriate. And if on the hearing the clerk orders such sale, the same shall be made and the proceeds applied and secured, and shall descend and be distributed in like manner as is provided for the sale of infants’ estates decreed in like cases to be sold on application of their guardians, as directed in the chapter entitled Guardians.

Rev., s. 1897; Code, s. 1675; R. C., c. 57, s. 5.

This does not apply to sale of contingent interest; for such interests the jurisdiction is in superior court at term under section 1744: Smith v. Witter, 174-616.

See, as to sales of wards’ estates generally, sections 2180, 2182.

Subject to reasonable maintenance of lunatic and his minor children, residue of his property is liable to pay his debts anterior to lunacy: Adams v. Thomas, 83-521. Property of lunatic cannot be applied to debts unless sufficient part thereof has been retained for support of wife and infant children: McLean v. Breese, 109-564; Adams v. Thomas, 81-296; Ex parte Latham, 41-408; In re Latham, 30-231.

Court of probate (now clerk superior court) has no power to provide for payment of debts of lunatic contracted prior to lunacy: Smith v. Pipkin, 79-569; Blake v. Respass, 77-193—but such jurisdiction vested in superior court, Blake v. Respass.

Superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction with clerk over lunatics and their estates: Smith v. Pipkin, 79-569.

Where land of lunatic sold on petition of guardian, proceeds are under direction of court, and no creditor can claim priority: Ex parte Latham, 41-406—no creditor can seize same under execution, teste of which subsequent to date of decree: Latham v. Wiswall, 37-294—for such decree is one substantially in rem, and subjects property to control of court, Ibid.

Jurisdiction in lunacy strictly territorial, and court in this state can neither charge land of lunatic in another state nor its proceeds in hands of heir here for his support: Allison v. Campbell, 21-152.

2293. Sale of land of wife of lunatic upon petition. Where the wife of a lunatic owns real estate in her own right the sale of which will promote her interest, a sale of the same may be made upon the order of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the land lies, upon the petition of the wife of said lunatic and the guardian of the lunatic husband, and the proceeds of said sale shall be paid to the wife of said lunatic.

Rev., s. 1898; Code, s. 1687; 1881, c. 361.

The wife has her election to proceed under this section or make the conveyance without the joinder of husband under section 2529: Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178-22.

2294. Wife of insane person entitled to special proceeding for sale of his property. Every woman whose husband is a lunatic or insane and is confined in an asylum in this state, and who was living with her husband at the time he was committed to such asylum, if she be in needy circumstances, shall have the right to bring a special proceeding before the clerk of the superior court to sell the property of her insane husband, or so much thereof as is deemed expedient, and have the proceeds applied to her support: Provided, that said proceeding shall be approved by the judge of the superior court holding the courts of the judicial district where the said property is situated. When the deed of the commissioner appointed by the court, conveying the lands belonging to the insane husband is executed, probated, and registered, it conveys a good and indefeasible title to the purchaser.

2295. Income of insane widowed mother used for children's support. When a father dies leaving him surviving minor children and a widow who is the mother of such children, but leaving no sufficient estate for the support and maintenance and education of such minor children, and the mother is or becomes insane and is so declared according to law, and such insanity continues for twelve months thereafter, and she has an estate which is placed in the hands of a guardian or other person, as provided by law, the estate of such insane mother shall in such cases as are provided for in the succeeding section be made liable for the support, maintenance and education of the class of persons mentioned in said section to the same extent, in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations as applies to estates of fathers thereunder.

Rev., s. 1899; 1905, c. 546.

2296. Advancement of surplus income to next of kin. When any nonsane person, of full age, and not having made a valid will, has children or grandchildren (such grandchildren being the issue of a deceased child), and is possessed of an estate, real or personal, whose annual income is more than sufficient abundantly and amply to support himself, and to support, maintain and educate the members of his family, with all the necessaries and suitable comforts of life, it is lawful for the clerk of the superior court for the county in which such person has his residence to order from time to time, and so often as may be judged expedient, that fit and proper advancements be made, out of the surplus of such income, to any such child, or grandchild, not being a member of his family and entitled to be supported, educated and maintained out of the estate of such person.

Rev., s. 1900; Code, s. 1677; R. C., c. 57, s. 9.

2297. For what purpose and to whom advanced. Such advancements shall be ordered only for the better promotion in life of such as are of age, or married, and for the maintenance, support and education of such as are under the age of twenty-one years and unmarried; and in all cases the sums ordered shall be paid to such persons as, in the opinion of the clerk, will most effectually execute the purpose of the advancement.

Rev., s. 1901; Code, s. 1678; R. C., c. 57, s. 10.

2298. Distributees to be parties to proceeding for advancement. In every application for such advancements, the guardian of the nonsane person and all such other persons shall be parties as would at that time be entitled to a distributive share of his estate if he were then dead.

Rev., s. 1902; Code, s. 1679; R. C., c. 57, s. 11.

2299. Advancements to be equal; accounted for on death. The clerk, in ordering such advancements, shall, as far as practicable, so order the same as that, on the death of the nonsane person, his estate shall be distributed among his distributees in the same equal manner as if the advancements had been made by the person himself; and on his death every sum advanced to a child or grandchild shall be an advancement, and shall bear interest from the time it may be received.

Rev., s. 1903; Code, s. 1680; R. C., c. 57, s. 12.
2300. Clerk may select those to advance. When the surplus aforesaid is not sufficient to make distribution among all the parties, the clerk may select and decree advancements to such of them as may most need the same, and may apportion the sum decreed in such amounts as are expedient and proper.

Rev., s. 1904; Code, s. 1681; R. C., c. 57, s. 13.

2301. Advancements to be secured against waste. It is the duty of the clerk to withhold advancements from such persons as will probably waste them, or so to secure the same, when they may have families, that it may be applied to their support and comfort; but any sum so advanced shall be regarded as an advancement to such persons.

Rev., s. 1905; Code, s. 1682; R. C., c. 57, s. 14.

2302. Appeal; removal to superior court. Any person made a party may appeal from any order of the clerk; or may, when the pleadings are finished, require that all further proceedings shall be had in the superior court.

Rev., s. 1906; Code, s. 1683; R. C., c. 57, s. 15.

2303. Advancements only when insanity permanent. No such application shall be allowed under this chapter but in cases of such permanent and continued insanity as that the nonsane person shall be judged by the clerk to be incapable, notwithstanding any lucid intervals, to make advancements with prudence and discretion.

Rev., s. 1907; Code, s. 1684; R. C., c. 57, s. 16.

2304. Decrees suspended upon restoration of sanity. Upon such insane person being restored to sanity, every order made for advancements shall cease to be further executed, and his estate shall be discharged of the same.

Rev., s. 1908; Code, s. 1685; R. C., c. 57, s. 17.
2305. Legal rate is six per cent. The legal rate of interest shall be six per cent per annum for such time as interest may accrue, and no more.

Revised, s. 1950; Code, s. 3385; 1895, c. 69; 1876-7, c. 91.

"Interest" defined: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-392; Bledsoe v. Nixon, 69-91. Legal rate of interest is six per cent: Topping v. Windley, 99-10—and no more can be allowed, Ibid.

How interest counted in case of partial payments stated in Reade v. Street, 122-301; Bunn v. Moore, 2-279.

Where contract made in one country to be performed in another, rate of interest will be according to law of latter: Roberts v. McNeely, 52-506—but where money loaned in Virginia on real estate in this state contract is governed by rate of interest in this state, Faison v. Grandy, 128-438—however, it is held that parties may stipulate otherwise, Arrington v. Gee, 27-590. Where contract for loan of money made in another state, it will bear rate of interest of such state, though note for amount loaned be executed in this state: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424.

Where interest payable at specific time, action lies for failure to pay, before maturity of obligation: Scott v. Fisher, 110-311; Parker v. Horton, 176-143.

On suit to enforce option, six per cent is legal rate of interest properly allowed from time obligation matured, in absence of express stipulation in instrument for lower rate: Alston v. Connell, 145-1. Under act authorizing collection of delinquent taxes, interest and penalties, no rate of interest being fixed therein, only six per cent can be recovered: Wilmington v. Stelter, 122-395; Wilmington v. Cronly, 122-388.

2306. Penalty for usury; corporate bonds may be sold below par. The taking, receiving, reserving or charging a greater rate of interest than six per centum per annum, either before or after the interest may accrue, when knowingly done, shall be a forfeiture of the entire interest which the note or other evidence of debt carries with it, or which has been agreed to be paid thereon. And in case a greater rate of interest has been paid, the person or his legal representatives or corporation by whom it has been paid may recover back twice the amount of interest paid, in an action in the nature of action for debt. In any action brought in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover upon any such note or other evidence of debt, it is lawful for the party against whom the action is brought to plead as a counterclaim the penalty above provided for, to wit, twice the amount of interest paid as aforesaid, and also the forfeiture of the entire interest. Nothing contained in the foregoing section, however, shall be held or construed to prohibit private corporations from paying a commission on or for the sale of their coupon bonds, nor from selling such bonds for less than the par value thereof. This section shall not apply to contracts executed prior to February twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Rev., s. 1951; Code, s. 3836; 1895, c. 69; 1903, c. 154; 1876-7, c. 91.

For special usury statute for New Hanover and Guilford counties, see 1905, c. 819.

For statute of limitations, see section 442. For damages against officers for money unlawfully detained, see section 357.

GENERAL EFFECT OF STATUTE. Interest is a creature of statute, and usury has been unlawful from the days of Moses: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137. Section prohibits any one, without exception, from exacting more than six per cent for the loan of money: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882. Purpose and effect of section is to make void, ipso facto, all agreements for usurious interest: Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Bank v. Lineberger, 83-458; Erwin v. Morris, 137-48; Banking Co. v. Tate, 122-317; Glisson v. Newton, 2-336. Custom of merchants will not be permitted to modify usury laws: Gore v. Lewis, 109-539.

A note tainted with usury retains the taint in the hands of a subsequent holder. The forfeiture of interest is the decree of the law: Faison v. Grandy, 126-827, and cases cited—therefore a note embracing usurious stipulation is void as against maker, in hands of purchaser before maturity for value and without notice, to extent to which contract usurious, Ward v. Sugg, 113-489, overruling Coor v. Spicer, 65-401; Collier v. Nevill, 14-30.

Where mortgage executed to secure usurious note, usury only affects interest and does not impair validity of mortgage: Spivey v. Grant, 96-214.

Provision in charter allowing corporation to lend money at usurious rate of interest does not confer power upon it to do so: Bank v. Manufacturing Co., 96-298—but provision to borrow money at such rate not liable to any objection, Ibid.

Provision in charter allowing corporation to lend money at usurious rate of interest does not confer power upon it to do so: Bank v. Manufacturing Co., 96-298—but provision to borrow money at such rate not liable to any objection, Ibid.

Where usurious interest is reduced to and included in judgment, judgment cannot be impeached as to that part, but is valid as to whole: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 105-498.

The statute applies to banks, and in case of loans made to an officer or stockholder: Macke v. Bank, 164-24. Pawnbrokers are not exempt, see section 7006.

Section does not apply to contracts antedating its ratification: Grant v. Morris, 81-150; Roberts v. Life Ins. Co., 118-429—and right of plaintiff to recover on contract made prior to that time governed by section 3836 of the Code of 1883, Ibid.

WHEN CONTRACT USURIOUS. What constitutes usury is a question of law to be determined by court when facts not in dispute: Grant v. Morris, 81-150. Nature and terms of contract determine its character and purpose, and if it be usurious in itself, it must be taken to have been so intended, and parties cannot be heard to contrary: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-389.

To constitute a usurious transaction, four requisites must appear: (1) There must be a loan; (2) an understanding that the money is to be returned; (3) a greater rate of interest than the law allows is to be paid or agreed to be paid; (4) this must be done intentionally: Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-380; Loan Co. v. Yokley, 174-573; Monk v. Goldstein, 172-516; Doster v. English, 152-341; Bennett v. Best, 142-168; Yarborough v. Hughes, 139-199; Miller v. Ins. Co., 118-612.

Usury distinguished from a profit-sharing investment: Riley v. Sears, 154-509.

Agreement that person was to have one and one-half per cent per month (or 18 per cent per annum) upon overdrawn sums is usurious as to excess for charge for overdrafts above legal rate of interest: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-389. Where a bank makes a loan at legal rate, and requires the borrower to keep a certain per cent of the loan on deposit, it is usury: Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-380, 177-284. Where person takes negotiable security and advances thereon, after deducting interest in advance up to date of maturity, a less sum than value, yet holding person advanced for full amount, the loan is usurious: Ballinger v. Edwards, 39-449; but see Bennett v. Best, 142-168.

Stipulation in note or mortgage for payment by mortgagor, or out of proceeds of sale, of attorney’s fee in addition to principal and interest of note, is evidence of usurious nature of Stipulation in mortgage that mortgagee should retain from proceeds of sale costs and charges, including commissions of five per cent for making sale in addition to principal and interest due on debt, is not usurious in absence of proof of usurious intent, as provision is not part

Usury in contract by insurance company to lend money secured by real estate mortgage and by reassignment of endowment policy equal to amount of loan: Miller v. Ins. Co., 118-612; Carter v. Ins. Co., 122-338. Agreement entered into with full knowledge and with intent to pay and receive greater rate of interest than allowed by law, whereby it is stipulated that lender shall receive commission as consideration therefor, in addition to legal interest, is Mistake in construction of law, if it results in taking more than legal rate of interest, will render contract usurious: Collier v. Nevill, 14-30—but error in fact by which more than legal rate is reserved will not vitiate, Ibid. Wherever debtor by terms of contract can avoid payment of larger by payment of smaller sum at earlier day, contract not usurious: Moore v.

Hylton, 16-429—for, to constitute usury, obligation to pay more than legal interest must be absolute, Ibid. Where payee of a note receives payment in full before maturity, only on condition that interest is paid to maturity, it is not usury: Smithwick v. Whitley, 152-366.

Usury consists in unlawful gain, beyond rate of six per cent taken or reserved by lender, and not in actual or contingent loss sustained by borrower: Ehringhaus v. Ford, 25-522—and the proper subject of inquiry is what borrower is to pay for forbearance, Ibid. Presumed that taking bond embracing usurious interest did it knowingly and therefore corruptly: Dawson v.
Taylor, 28-225. Acceptance of any consideration, as here notes on other parties in payment of usurious interest, is in violation of section and will subject payee to penalty:
Dawson v. Meckins, 98-244; Cavaness v. Troy, 32-315.

If security, founded upon antecedent lawful consideration, is tainted with usury, original demand will be revived and may be enforced: Rountree v. Brinson, 98-107. See, also, Cobb
v. Morgan, 83-211.

Mere entry on account and subsequent presentation of usurious claim is not “charging” within the meaning of section: Grant v. Morris, 81-150. Transfer of money by debtor to creditor under contract for usurious interest cannot be treated by courts as payment on principal debt, when it was not so intended by parties at time: Cobb v. Morgan, 83-211.

Every attempt by bank to put upon borrower bank bills not its own and below par at that time and place is usurious, unless bank by contract of loan engage to make notes as good as Pure contract of indemnity against doubtful claim is not within section: Dowell v. Vannoy, 14-43.

“Time” price charge of ten per cent on cash price for supplies furnished under agricultural lien, being usual rate of advance, is not usurious: Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426.

To render person liable to penalty for usury it is not necessary to show that principal money has been paid: Seawell v. Shomberger, 6-200—for offense complete when anything received for forbearance over and above rate of six per cent per year, Ibid.

Agreement to pay interest on note “at rate of six per cent per annum, to be compounded annually” renders contract usurious: Cox v. Brookshire, 76-314. But interest upon interest due at a specified time and unpaid is not usury: Crowell v. Jones, 167-380; Scott v. Fisher, 110-311, and cases cited. Not usury for indorsee of note to take new note from maker at end of six months, payable immediately, including accrued interest: Holland v. Mosteller, 51-382.
Taking interest by a bank upon discounting negotiable security, though payable directly to the bank, is not usurious: State Bank v. Hunter, 12-100.

The owner of a note may sell it for any price agreed upon, but if the purchaser requires the owner’s indorsement as a guaranty of payment, it is in effect a loan and the usury law would apply: Sedbury v. Duffy, 158-431; Bynum v. Rogers, 49-399.
Where charter of corporation allowed it to borrow money upon such terms as directors might determine, and to issue bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, it may sell bonds below face value, and the loan is not usurious: Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298.

Provision in contract for payment of penalty for failure of borrower to ship certain cotton as agreed will not be adjudged usurious upon the face of the contract, but only upon proof alike of intent to make penalty a device for securing more than legal rate of interest: Elliott v. Sugg, 115-236.

Contract payable in another state to avoid usury law is usurious: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 112-842.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS NOT EXEMPT. State usury laws apply to loans by foreign building and loan associations at home office: Rowland v. Building Assn., 115-825; Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882; Dickerson v. Bldg. Assn., 89-37. In absence of special legislation, corporations are affected by usury law to same extent as natural persons: Comrs. v. R. R., 77-289. Inasmuch as general law fixes rate of interest at six per cent per annum, no special act of legislature can be allowed to alter or change general law in this respect: Rowland v. Loan Assn., 116-877. Building and loan associations calling borrower "a partner" or substituting "redeeming" for "lending," or "premium" for "bonus" for an amount they profess to have advanced and yet withhold, or "dues" for "interest," or any like subterfuge, will not avail to avoid usury laws: Mills v. B. and L. Assn., 75-292; Hallowell v. B. and L. Assn., 120-286. Transaction between quasi-building and loan association and its borrowing stockholder is simply a loan, and is usurious where he is liable under certain circumstances to pay more than amount loaned and legal interest: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882.

In accounting in action to foreclose mortgage given to secure loan by building and loan association, borrower should be charged with principal of loan, with legal interest, and credited with payments made on account of principal, interest, fines and penalties: Rowland v. Loan Assn., 118-173—and be charged his pro rata part of expense account of association, Williams v. Maxwell, 123-586.

Effect of contract where usury charged is simply a loan without interest; all payments made must be credited on principal, and, in addition, borrower entitled to recover, or have credited on debt, double the amount of payments made as interest within two years prior to action brought: Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-249. See, also, Rowland v. Loan Assn., 118-173.

LEX LOCI CONTRACTUS AS AFFECTING USURY. Where contract made in one state to be performed in another, rate of interest will be governed by law of latter state: Roberts v. MeNeely, 52-506—unless parties stipulate otherwise, Arrington v. Gee, 27-590. Where money loaned in Virginia upon land in this state, contract is governed by rate of interest in this state: Faison v. Grandy, 128-438. Where contract for loan of money made in another state, it will bear rate of interest of such state, though note for amount loaned be executed in this state: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424.

Contract made in another state stipulating for rate of interest legal in that state is not unlawful here: Houston v. Potts, 64-33—but see Morris v. Hockaday, 94-286—for whether contract usurious is question to be determined by laws of state where contract made, Copeland v. Collins, 122-619—though some cases hold that it is determined by laws of state where it is to be performed, Hilliard v. Outlaw, 92-266.

Where bond dated in this state, but had not specified place of payment, it is governed by the usury laws of this state: Morris v. Hockaday, 94-286—though if it appear that bond given for goods purchased in another state, rule would be different, Ibid.

In enforcement of mortgage on land, usury law of state in which land is will govern, security having been given for money to be used in state, though payment of loan in another state provided: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882.

PENALTY FOR USURY. Forfeiture of all interest is by operation of law, while the penalty of double the amount of interest paid is a cause of action: Ervin v. Bank, 161-42; Faison v. Grandy, 126-830; Cheek v. B. and L. Assn., 126-242; Bank v. Ireland, 122-576.
The penalty is to be recovered only for usury actually paid: Corey v. Hooker, 171-229. In action to recover for overpayment of interest made by mistake, recovery cannot be had for forfeiture of double the interest as penalty for usury: Gilliam v. Ins. Co., 121-369—since upon allegation of such overpayment by mistake no legal implication arises that plaintiff is suing for forfeiture, Ibid.

In action to recover twice amount of interest paid, plaintiff entitled to recover back double entire interest paid at time of usurious transaction, and not merely double usurious excess, provided it occurred within two years before action brought: Tayloe v. Parker, 137-418.

Court of equity will not permit enforcement of usurious contract: Beard v. Bingham, 76-285.

Usury in debt secured by mortgage on household and kitchen furniture a misdemeanor, see section 4509; State v. Davis, 157-648.

PLEADING AND PRACTICE HEREUNDER. Payer of usurious interest may recover same in action for money had and received to his use: Cobb v. Morgan, 83-211—or by way of counterclaim when action brought for balance due on usurious contract, Ibid.

Plea of usury can be taken advantage of only by borrower or debtor, or other person directly connected with transaction upon whom burden of usury falls: Faison v. Grandy, 128-438—mortgagor may show that consideration of bond secured by mortgage is tainted with usury, Arrington v. Goodrich, 95-462; Moore v. Beaman, 111-328; Gore v. Lewis, 109-539. Surety may set up defense of usury: Bank v. Loven, 172-666. Grantee of mortgagor may also set up defense, to determine amount of the debt: Elliott v. Brady, 172-828; Ervin v. Morris, 137-48. Whether a creditor may plead usury against another creditor, to protect debtor's estate, see Riley v. Sears, 154-509.

Wife who is surety for husband, for money borrowed, cannot sue lender or recover by way of counterclaim for usurious interest not paid by her: Meares v. Butler, 123-206. Receiver appointed to take charge of estate may recover for usury paid: Riley v. Sears, 154-509. A decedent's estate is not liable for usury received by administrator: Whisnant v. Price, 175-611.

Where A. executed a mortgage to secure debts of a firm after a certain time, and there was prior indebtedness subject to usury, A. can claim benefit of usury law only as it affects his liability; and when a judgment is rendered including the usury, the land may be sold to pay it: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 105-498.

Defendant may set up usury as a defense in an action to recover property for purpose of sale under chattel mortgage: Noland v. Osborne, 177-14; Moore v. Woodward, 83-531.

Usury must be paid in money or money's worth before an action can be maintained therefor: Corey v. Hooker, 171-229; Rushing v. Bivens, 132-273; Steelman v. Bland, 26-296—and renewal of note given for usury does not amount to payment, Rushing v. Bivens, 132-273.

A purchaser of property who agrees to pay, as part of the price, a note affected with usury, cannot take advantage of the usury: Riley v. Sears, 154-509, and cases cited. When the parties come to an agreement and settlement of their rights growing out of usury, it cannot be used again in an action on the original debt: Beck v. Bank, 161-201.

For complaints held to be sufficient under section, see Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 110-249; Churchhill v. Turnage, 122-426; Morgan v. Bank, 93-352. If usury pleaded, the facts which it is alleged constitute it must be specifically set forth so that court may see that, if true, transaction illegal: Rountree v. Brinson, 98-107. In action to recover usurious interest, it is immaterial whether debtor solicited extension of time upon his own suggestion of bonus, or whether creditor suggested usury: Tayloe v. Parker, 137-418.

To avoid bond on ground of usury, it must be shown to have been illegal ab initio: Wharton v. Eborn, 88-344—for if good in its creation, cannot be avoided by any subsequent usurious agreement, Ibid.

An agreement with principal, upon usurious consideration, to extend time of payment of a note will discharge the surety: Scott v. Harris, 76-205; Carter v. Duncan, 84-676, overruling on this point Bank v. Lineberger, 83-454.

If usurious character of transaction not manifest upon face, but depends on facts and circumstances connected with transaction, as part of res gestae, it is question of fact as well as law, and should be submitted to jury: Miller v. Ins. Co., 118-612.

In an accounting before referee in action by borrower against a bank, lender, where it appeared that bank charged usury for its various loans to plaintiff, and such usury was paid by separate check at different times: Held, that it was not part of the account so as to be credited to plaintiff, but a separate matter which plaintiff could have recovered penalty for if suit brought in two years: Rogers v. Bank, 108-574.

In proving usury, it is competent to prove facts and circumstances connected with the matter, amount actually paid, amounts actually due, and calculations made: Cuthbertson v. Austin, 152-336; Bennett v. Best, 142-168—but mere fact that amount received by debtor is less than apparent principal of debt, and treating amount thus received as true principal would render transaction usurious, will not alone constitute proof of usury, Ibid.

Where note and mortgage were admitted to be in consideration of debt due on prior mortgage, and it appeared that new mortgage debt exceeded old debt by several hundred dollars, for which no consideration was proved, difference between true amount of old debt and amount of new mortgage usurious: Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426.

For time in which action against foreign corporation to recover usury must be brought, see Williams v. B. and L. Assn., 131-267, and cases cited; Roberts v. Ins. Co., 118-429.

Decree of foreclosure based on usurious mortgage will not be disturbed on appeal where defendant did not demand judgment he might have been entitled to under this section: Elks v. Hamby, 160-20.

As to costs in action under section to recover double amount of interest paid, see Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-249.

As to jurisdiction of state courts over actions to recover penalty for taking usurious interest under statutes of United States, see Morgan v. Bank, 93-352; Bank v. Ireland, 122-576. The remedy against a national bank for usury is by independent action and not by counterclaim: Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-380.

2307. Time from which interest runs. Interest is due and payable on instruments, as follows:

1. All bonds, bills, notes, bills of exchange, liquidated and settled accounts shall bear interest from the time they become due, provided such liquidated and settled accounts be signed by the debtor, unless it is specially expressed that interest is not to accrue until a time mentioned in the said writings or securities.

2. All bills, bonds, or notes payable on demand shall be held and deemed to be due when demandable by the creditor, and shall bear interest from the time they are demandable, unless otherwise expressed.

3. All securities for the payment or delivery of specific articles shall bear interest as moneyed contracts; and the articles shall be rated by the jury at the time they become due.

4. Bills of exchange drawn or indorsed in the state, and which have been protested, shall carry interest, not from the date thereof, but from the time of payment therein mentioned.

Rev. s. 1952; Code, ss. 44, 45, 46, 47; R. C., c. 13; 1756, c. 248; 1828, c. 2.

See section 2998. Coupons, when detached from bond to which they were annexed, bear interest from time they were due and payable: Burroughs v. Comrs., 65-234. An order upon a county treasurer, signed by chairman of board of commissioners, bears interest from time of demand of payment: Yellowly v. Comrs., 73-164. A bond on contract due at a certain time, "without interest," bears interest from maturity: Dowd v. R. R., 70-468.

Method of computing interest in case of partial payments stated in Reade v. Street, 122-301; Aiken v. Cantrell, 127-416; Bunn v. Moore, 2-279.
2308. Obligations due guardians to bear compound interest. Guardians shall have power to lend any portion of the estate of their wards upon bond with sufficient security, to be repaid with interest annually, and all the bonds, notes or other obligations which he shall take as guardian shall bear compound interest, for which he must account, and he may assign the same to the ward on settlement with him.

Rev., s. 1953; Code, s. 1592; R. C., c. 54, s. 23; 1762, c. 69; 1816, c. 925; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 29.

For additional annotations as to investment of ward’s money and liability of guardian for compound interest, see under sections 4018 and 2189.

GUARDIAN’S INVESTMENT OF WARD’S MONEY. Policy of section is to require investment by guardian to be secured by bond or note of some person in addition to borrower: Watson v. Holton, 115-36. Where guardian loaned ward’s money to one member of firm for private purposes of latter, taking his bond, with borrower’s partner as surety, both of whom solvent at that time, but afterwards became insolvent, guardian not liable for loss, for in addition to borrower there was a person responsible for loan who might have remained solvent despite the insolvency of his partner, the borrower, Ibid. Guardian not bound to have money ready to pay ward when he comes of age, but ward bound to take bond in discharge of guardian, which latter properly took and has not made his own by fraud or laches: Goodson v. Goodson, 41-238—for such a bond in truth belongs to ward, just as much as specific chattel, Ibid. As to assignment by guardian to third persons of bonds of ward, see Newsom v. Newsom, 40-122; Exum v. Bowden, 39-281; Fox v. Alexander, 36-340; Lockhart v. Phillips, 36-342; Powell v. Jones, 36-337.

Guardian having personal security for debt due ward may exchange such personal for real security, and if he does so bona fide he is not responsible to ward: Christmas v. Wright, 38-549.

Investments of ward’s money are in guardian’s discretion, as they are upon his responsibility: Gary v. Cannon, 38-64—and courts will never undertake to dictate to guardian of ward to whom he shall loan money, or how long he shall lend money to any particular person, Ibid. For case under section dealing with losses caused by result of civil war, see Whitford v. Foy, 65-265.

If bond with two obligors, of whom principal solvent and surety doubtful, be accepted by guardian, he is liable if money lost: Hurdle v. Leath, 63-597. Words ‘bond with sufficient security’ defined: Hurdle v. Leath, 63-600.

GUARDIAN CHARGEABLE WITH COMPOUND INTEREST. In settlement of guardian’s accounts he should be charged with compound interest on all moneys collected, or which he might have collected, for his ward: Latham v. Wilcox, 99-367. Interest not compounded against guardian for time when funds of ward remain in his hands after relation has ceased: Mitchell v. Robards, 17-478. Simple interest is to be computed against guardian in favor of ward from death of former, unless compound interest received: Ryan v. Blount, 16-382. Ordinarily guardian is to be charged with compound interest, but he may be exempted from it by proving that after suitable exertions he was unable to realize it: Ibid. Guardian can only be charged with compound interest to death of his ward: Carr v. Askey, 94-194; Whitford v. Foy, 65-273—or marriage, Whitford v. Foy, 65-273—and from that time only bears simple interest, though if guardian received more he would be liable to pay it, Ibid.

Where same person executor of will and guardian of minor children, he is chargeable with compound interest from time administration of estate was, or might have been, concluded: Hodge v. Hawkins, 21-564—unless he can show special equitable circumstances to discharge him of such accountability, Ibid.

Guardians of lunatics are responsible for compound interest in same manner and to the same extent as guardians of infants: Spack v. Long, 36-426—and bonds, etc., payable to them as guardians bear compound interest in same manner as bonds payable to guardians of infants, Ibid.

Upon marriage of feme ward, compound interest ceases, and she has no right to demand same in settlement with guardian: Winstead v. Stanfield, 68-40; Whitford v. Foy, 65-273.
Guardian’s primary duty is to invest trust fund, and he will be chargeable with interest in absence of proof that it remained in his hands unemployed without his fault: Wilson v. Lineberger, 88-416.

Rule for compounding interest upon notes due guardians is to make ‘‘annual rests,’’ making aggregate of principal and interest due at end of particular year a capital sum bearing six per cent interest, thence forward for another year, and so on: Little v. Anderson, 71-190; Ford v. Vandyke, 33-227.

Section merely referred to in Rowland v. Thompson, 73-517; Smith v. Gilmer, 64-548; Williamson v. Williams, 59-65. For old case under section, see Wood v. Brownrigg, 14-430.

2309. Contracts, except penal bonds, and judgments to bear interest; jury to distinguish principal. All sums of money due by contract of any kind, excepting money due on penal bonds, shall bear interest, and when a jury shall render a verdict therefor they shall distinguish the principal from the sum allowed as interest; and the principal sum due on all such contracts shall bear interest from the time of rendering judgment thereon until it is paid and satisfied. In like manner, the amount of any judgment or decree, except the costs, rendered or adjudged in any kind of action, though not on contract, shall bear interest till paid, and the judgment and decree of the court shall be rendered according to this section.

Rev., s. 1954; Code, s. 530; R. C., c. 31, s. 90; 1756, c. 253; 1789, c. 314, s. 4; 1807, c. 721.

CONTRACTS. Upon money contract in this state plaintiff entitled to have six per cent by way of interest, to be ascertained either by jury or clerk, as mere matter of calculation: Houston v. Potts, 65-41. When verdict gives interest from maturity, judgment can fix date from admitted contract sued on: Penniman v. Alexander, 112-778. Interest is chargeable from time of subscription to stock of corporation until paid: Cotton Mills v. Burns, 114-353. Where person orders another, who is indebted to him, to pay balance to third person, interest should be computed on such balance from day order presented: Brem v. Covington, 104-589.

As law implies contract on part of tenant in common in possession and in sole enjoyment of common property to account with cotenants for rents and profits, he is chargeable with interest from date of demand or suit brought: Jolly v. Bryan, 86-462.

Where, in action to recover value of tract of land, amount of damages bears interest from time it fell due by contract of sale: Farmer v. Willard, 75-401.

Judge has no right to leave it to jury to give plaintiff interest or not, as they should think proper: Barlow v. Nordeel, 72-535—but should instruct them that if they found that defendant owed the principal money demanded, plaintiff was entitled to interest from time it was due, Ibid.

In actions for money loaned, or money paid or had and received or due on account stated, jury should be instructed to allow interest, promise to pay being implied from nature of transaction: Devereux v. Burgwin, 33-490—and in trover and trespass de bonis asportatis jury may, in their discretion, allow interest upon value from time of conversion or seizure, Ibid.

In action for breach of warranty, plaintiff not entitled to interest upon amount recovered: Lewis v. Rountree, 79-122; but see Kester v. Miller Bros., 119-475.

Interest is allowed upon items of independent account when used as set-off or counterclaim to extinguish or reduce debt: Overby v. B. and L. Assn., 81-56—but not upon payments as such, whose effect is to reduce pro tanto sum due, interest being first discharged, Ibid.

General rule for interest on accounts in ordinary dealings is that it is chargeable only after account has been rendered: Holden v. Peace, 39-223—unless otherwise agreed, or course of business shows it to be otherwise understood, Ibid.

Verdict allowing ‘‘interest to date’’ in a case where proof is that principal sum was due in April, 1876, is sufficiently definite as to time for which computation is to be made: Greenleaf v. R. R., 91-33.

In a recovery for breach of contract, if amount is ascertained from the terms or by relevant evidence, interest should be added: Chatham v. Realty Co., 174-671; Bond v. Cotton Mills, 166-20. In cases not within this section, interest is not allowed unless there has been some default in withholding funds: Ibid.
In action by shipper to recover from carrier money wrongfully received by reason of illegal freight charge, amount of overcharge draws interest: Lumber Co. v. R. R., 141-171.

Where bond or other instrument for payment of money does not specify on face that interest is to be paid, interest is in nature of damages, and payment of principal money will bar action for interest: King v. Phillips, 95-245—but where interest stipulated for in contract itself, it becomes part of debt, and may be recovered, though principal sum has been paid, Ibid.

As to proper judgment upon penal bond, see Wall v. Covington, 83-144; Trice v. Turrentine, 35-212.

Penalty imposed upon sheriffs and tax collectors for failure to settle with county treasurer does not bear interest: Davenport v. McKee, 98-500.

Although allowance of interest in action for damages for conversion of property is discretionary with jury: Stephens v. Koonce, 103-266—yet, after verdict judgment for damages assessed bears interest by virtue of section, Ibid.—and this is so though verdict for certain sum "without interest," Ibid.

Interest is not allowed as a matter of law in action of claim and delivery, as section does not embrace such cases: Fountain Co. v. Schell, 160-529; Patapsco v. Magee, 86-350—but jury may, in discretion and as damages, allow interest upon value of property from time it was taken, Ibid.

JUDGMENTS. Judgment bears interest from time of rendition till paid: In re Chisholm's Will, 176-211; McNeil v. R. R., 138-1; Stephens v. Koonce, 103-266; Delonech v. Worke, 10-36.

Design of section to allow plaintiff interest on principal sum recovered from time judgment rendered: Delonech v. Worke, 10-36—and jury must distinguish between principal and interest where whole sum assessed in damages, but where principal and interest are discriminated on record, or by inspection of record it can be collected what principal is, interest shall be calculated on that, Ibid.

Amount of judgment should be calculated up to first day of term at which rendered and principal thereof should bear interest from such time until paid: Reade v. Street, 122-301.

When the jury has found the principal sum due by contract, the judgment should include interest from date of contract: Chatham v. Realty Co., 174-671; Bond v. Cotton Mills, 166-20; Lumber Co. v. R. R., 141-171.

When jury has fixed amount due in tort, it is error for the court to add interest, but the judgment bears interest from the first day of the term: Hoke v. Whisnant, 174-658; Harper v. R. R., 161-451; Fountain Co. v. Schell, 160-529; Penny v. Ludwick, 152-375; Lance v. Butler, 135-419.

Where judgment by default and inquiry, and on inquiry jury responded to issue that certain amount due, it was error to add interest to amount so found for time elapsed prior to inquiry: Williams v. Lumber Co., 118-928—as such interest presumed to have been included in verdict as rendered, Ibid.
Where definite amount ascertained to be due distributee upon settlement of estate, and ordered to be paid, no demand necessary before suit brought to entitle him to interest on amount from date of decree: McRae v. Malloy, 87-196. Judgment for taxes should include interest on amount due: Wilmington v. McDonald, 133-548; see also, Wilmington v. Cronly, 122-388; Wilmington v. Stolter, 122-395. Widow entitled to interest upon judgment against personal representative of deceased husband for amount covering deficiency of personal estate so as to make up total sum allowed her as year's support: Long v. Long, 85-415. Where compromise judgment was entered whereby legatees named in will were to receive certain amounts in settlement of their legacies which were ordered to be paid by administrator c. t. a. thereafter to be appointed, judgment was not such as would, under section, draw interest from date: Moore v. Pullen, 116-284.

2310. Judgment by default final, clerk ascertains. When a suit is instituted on a single bond, a covenant for the payment of money, bill of exchange, promissory note, or a signed account, and the defendant does not plead to issue thereon, upon judgment, the clerk of the court shall ascertain the interest due by law, without a writ of inquiry, and the amount shall be included in the final judgment of the court as damages, which judgment shall be rendered therein in the manner prescribed by the preceding section.

Rey., s. 1956; Code, s. 531; R. C., c. 31, s. 91; 1797, c. 475.

As to power of court to correct mistake of clerk in calculation of interest under section, see Griffin v. Hinson, 51-154.

Section merely referred to in Rogers v. Moore, 86-86; Parker v. Smith, 64-291; Hartsfield v. Jones, 49-312.

2311. Interest from verdict to judgment added as costs. When the judgment is for the recovery of money, interest from the time of the verdict or report until judgment is finally entered shall be computed by the clerk and added to the costs of the party entitled thereto.

Rev., s. 1955; Code, s. 529.

ART. 1. JURY LIST AND DRAWING OF ORIGINAL PANEL

2312. Jury list from taxpayers of good character. The board of county commissioners for the several counties at their regular meeting on the first Monday in June, in the year nineteen hundred and five, and every two years thereafter, shall cause their clerks to lay before them the tax returns of the preceding year for their county, from which they shall proceed to select the names of all such persons as have paid all the taxes assessed against them for the preceding year and are of good moral character and of sufficient intelligence. A list of the names thus selected shall be made out by the clerk of the board of commissioners and shall constitute the jury list, and shall be preserved as such.

Rev. s. 1957; Code, ss. 1722, 1723; 1806, c. 694; 1889, c. 559; 1899, c. 729; 1897, cc. 117, 539; 1899, c. 729.

Statutory provisions are directory with reference to revision of jury list, making up jury list, time, place and manner of drawing jury; and a failure to observe these does not invalidate the venire in the absence of bad faith or corruption: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v.
Irregularity of commissioners failing to make prepayment of taxes a qualification for persons on jury list is not ground for quashing indictment found by grand jury drawn therefrom: State v. Daniels, 134-641; State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-659—and merely purging jury list of names of those who have not paid taxes, without adding any new names thereto, does not vitiate venire in absence of fraud or corruption on part of commissioners, State v. Dixon, 131-808—moreover, where commissioners laid aside names of several persons otherwise qualified because they did not know whether they were residents of county, and list completed by names of other qualified persons: Held, that if there was irregularity it did not affect action of jurors drawn and summoned, State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

Objection for defects in jury list or in drawing the jury, or to the qualification of a grand juror, must be made before entering the plea of not guilty: State v. Banner, 149-519.

Only qualifications for jury service are payment of taxes for preceding year, good moral character and sufficient intelligence: State v. Peoples, 131-788; State v. Sherman, 115-774; State v. Edens, 85-524—and, if on original panel, juror not required to be freeholder, Hall v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Freeman, 100-432; State v. Mills, 91-593; State v. Wincroft, 76-38.

Juror must be twenty-one years of age, State v. Griffice, 74-316—and must have paid taxes for fiscal year next preceding time when name placed on jury lists: State v. Sherman, 115-773; State v. Davis, 109-780; State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Hargrave, 100-484; Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13; State v. Haywood, 94-847; State v. Carland, 90-673—though where sheriff enjoined from collection of tax, failure to pay same no disqualification, State v. Heaton, 77-505. Juror of original panel is not disqualified though he has served on jury in same court within two years: State v. Brittain, 89-481. No objection to tales juror that name does not appear on jury list: Lee v. Lee, 71-139. Ground for objection to indictment that grand jurors who found bill had not paid taxes for preceding year: State v. Watson, 86-624; State v. Griffice, 74-316—though indictment will not be quashed because jury list from which grand jury drawn failed to contain names of all persons in county qualified to act as jurors, State v. Haywood, 73-437.

Competency of grand juror depends upon competency at time of service, not at time when name put on list: State v. Perry, 122-1018; State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

Findings of court as to whether challenged juror had paid taxes is final and not reviewable: State v. Carland, 90-668; State v. Wincroft, 76-38.

Only exemptions from jury service are those prescribed by section 2329: State v. Cantwell, 142-604.

2313. Names on list put in box. The commissioners at their regular meeting on the first Monday in July in the year nineteen hundred and five, and every two years thereafter, shall cause the names on their jury list to be copied on small scrolls of paper of equal size and put into a box procured for that purpose, which must have two divisions marked No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, and two locks, the key of one to be kept by the sheriff of the county, the other by the chairman of the board of commissioners, and the box by the clerk of the board.

Rev., s. 1958; Code, s. 1726; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 5.

For manner of drawing jury in Guilford, see 1905, c. 613; in Cleveland, see 1909, c. 356; Johnston, P. L. 1917, c. 31.

Partitions of jury box marked "jurors drawn" and "jurors not drawn" instead of "No. 1" and "No. 2," and only one key which unlocked both partitions, and same in custody of register: Held, special venire drawn therefrom was legal: State v. Potts, 100-457—and failure of sheriff, chairman and clerk of commissioners to keep box locked is not ground for challenge to array, State v. Hensley, 94-1021.

Section merely referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-784.
2314. Manner of drawing panel for term from box. At least twenty days before each regular or special term of the superior court, the board of commissioners of the county shall cause to be drawn from the jury box out of the partition marked No. 1, by a child not more than ten years of age, thirty-six scrolls except when the term of court is for the trial of civil cases exclusively, when they need not draw more than twenty-four scrolls. The persons whose names are inscribed on said scrolls shall serve as jurors at the term of the superior court to be held for the county ensuing such drawing, and for which they are drawn. The scrolls so drawn to make the jury shall be put into the partition marked No. 2. The said commissioners shall at the same time and in the same manner draw the names of eighteen persons who shall be summoned to appear and serve during the second week, and a like number for each succeeding week of the term of said court, unless the judge thereof shall sooner discharge all jurors from further service. The said commissioners may, at the same time and in the same manner, draw the names of eighteen other persons, who shall serve as petit jurors for the week for which they are drawn and summoned. The trial jury which has served during each week shall be discharged by the judge at the close of said week, unless the said jury shall be then actually engaged in the trial of a case, and then they shall not be discharged until the trial is determined.

Rey., s. 1959; Code, ss. 1727, 1731; 1889, c. 559; 1897, c. 117; 1868-9, c. 175; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 6; 1806, c. 694; 1901, c. 636; 1901, c. 28, s. 3; 1903, c. 11; 1905, cc. 38, 76, s. 4; 1905, c. 285.

For special act for Buncombe county, see 1907, c. 239; for Columbus county, see 1909, c. 608. Provision of section requiring persons named on scrolls drawn from jury box to constitute jury is mandatory: Moore v. Guano Co., 130-229—but provision fixing number of jurors to be drawn is directory, State v. Watson, 104-735—and indictment will not be quashed for failure to observe them where it does not appear that there was corrupt motive, Ibid. The time of drawing is considered directory, if the drawing is otherwise properly done: Lanier v. Greenville, 174-311.

Where one whose name was not drawn from the box was summoned and served by mistake, the grand jury is illegally constituted: State v. Parmore, 146-604. Where sheriff, who was defendant in action to be tried, received scrolls as drawn, called names and passed same into locked box, without submitting scrolls to the inspection of commissioners: Held, drawing irregular, and array set aside: Boyer v. Teague, 106-576—though where commissioners, while drawing jurors, laid aside several names, otherwise qualified, because they did know whether they were residents of county, and jury list completed by names of other qualified persons: Held, same did not affect action of jurors so drawn and summoned, State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

No constitutional limitation upon powers of legislature to prescribe method by which jurors are to be selected and summoned: State v. Brittain, 143-668. Grand juries are essential constitutional constituents appertaining to system of superior courts, and may not be discontinued by county commissioners under legislative enactment of 1899, chapter 371: Mott v. Comrs., 126-866. Mandamus is proper remedy to force county commissioners to draw jury for the term, and solicitor is proper party to apply for same: Ibid. Drawn by commissioners instead of by boy under ten, challenge to array sustained: Moore v. Guano Co., 130-229.

Where the court is not held until the second week it is not error to take the jurors summoned for that week as grand jurors: State v. Wood, 175-809.

2315. Local modifications as to drawing panel. In Buncombe county forty-eight jurors shall be drawn to serve the first week and twenty-four to serve the second week.

In Cumberland county the commissioners may, in their discretion, cause an additional twelve scrolls to be drawn, to serve as the jury for the first week.
In Forsyth county the board of county commissioners is authorized and empowered to draw as jurors from the box, as provided in the preceding section, an additional number of jurors to those now provided by law. At all civil terms, regular and special, for the first week thirty jurors shall be drawn and summoned, and likewise for the second week. At all criminal terms, regular and special, for the first week forty-two jurors shall be drawn and summoned. For the second week thirty jurors shall be drawn and summoned.

In Hertford county fifteen extra jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week.

In Iredell county twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week.

In Randolph county forty-two scrolls shall be drawn for the first week and twenty-four for the second week. The commissioners may at the same time and in the same manner draw the names of twenty-four other persons who shall serve as petit jurors for the week for which they are drawn and summoned.

In Rockingham county the board of county commissioners is authorized and empowered to draw as jurors from the box, as provided in the preceding section, an additional number of jurors to those now provided by law. At all civil terms, regular and special, for the first week thirty jurors shall be drawn and summoned; for the second week twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned. At all criminal terms, regular and special, for the first week forty-two jurors shall be drawn and summoned; for the second week twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned.

In Rowan county twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week.

Revis., s. 1959; 1907, c. 239; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 4; P. L. 1915, cc. 233, 744, 764.

For special law applicable to Cleveland county, see 1909, c. 356.

2316. Jurors having suits pending. If any of the jurors drawn have a suit pending and at issue in the superior court, the scrolls with their names must be returned into partition No. 1 of the jury box.

Revis., s. 1960; Code, s. 1728; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 7; 1806, c. 694.

Where juror has suit pending and at issue in court it is fundamental objection to him whenever made to appear: Hodges v. Lassiter, 96-351—and is cause of challenge, though commissioners allowed name to go on venire, Ibid.—but fact that juror has suit pending, but not at issue at term at which drawn to serve, is not disqualification, State v. Smarr, 121-669; State v. Hopkins, 154-622.

Where indictment against juror pending to which he had never pleaded, held not disqualified by section even if same applicable: Hodges v. Lassiter, 96-351. Where judgment rendered in action to which juror was party at same term, from which appeal taken, though same not perfected, held same was suit pending and at issue: Wilson v. Hughes, 94-182. Juror not disqualified by fact that he has suit pending and at issue in court unless it is to be tried at same term at which he is drawn to serve: State v. Spivey, 132-989. Juror is not party to action pending and at issue in court, though interested as creditor in fund for which receiver has brought suit: Vickers v. Leigh, 104-260—though on prosecution bond of another plaintiff in another action, though against same defendant on similar cause of action, Jenkins v. R. R., 110-438—though prosecutor in criminal action, State v. Brady, 107-827.

Grand juror not disqualified because he has civil action pending in another court of county: State v. Edens, 85-525—though fact that grand juror had suit pending and at issue in same court is ground for motion to quash indictment, State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Smith, 80-410; State v. Liles, 77-496.
Regulations of section as to revision of jury list directory only: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Dixon, 131-810; State v. Perry, 122-1018—and failure to observe same does not vitiate venire in absence of bad faith or corruption on part of commissioners, Ibid. Section merely referred to in State v. Sharp, 110-607; State v. Parish, 104-687.

2317. Disqualified persons drawn. If any of the persons drawn to serve as jurors are dead, removed out of the county, or otherwise disqualified to serve as jurors, the scrolls with the names of such persons must be destroyed, and in such cases other persons shall be drawn in their stead.

Rev., s. 1961; Code, s. 1729; 1889, c. 559; 1897, c. 117, s. 5; 1806, c. 694.

2318. How drawing to continue. The drawing out of partition marked No. 1 and putting the scrolls drawn into partition No. 2 shall continue until all the scrolls in partition No. 1 are drawn out, when all the scrolls shall be returned into partition No. 1 and drawn out again as herein directed.

Rev., s. 1962; Code, s. 1730; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 9; 1806, c. 6, s. 94.

Where, in drawing grand jury, names of some drawn and put back in box and others drawn instead to equalize number among townships, held not grounds for challenge to array, as section merely directory: State v. Martin, 82-672; but see Moore v. Guano Co., 130-229. There is no restriction upon powers of legislature to regulate manner in which jurors shall be selected and summoned: State v. Brittain, 143-668.

Section merely referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-785; Boyer v. Teague, 106-619.

2319. Drawing when commissioners fail to draw. If the commissioners for any cause fail to draw a jury for any term of the superior court, regular or special, the sheriff of the county and the clerk of the commissioners, in the presence of and assisted by two justices of the peace of the county, shall draw such jury in the manner above prescribed; and if a special term continues for more than two weeks, then for the weeks exceeding two a jury or juries may be drawn as in this section provided.

Rev., s. 1963; Code, s. 1732; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 11.

The twenty days specified in section 2314 not applicable to this section: Lanier v. Greenville, 174-311—the deputy sheriff may act for the sheriff, Ibid. Where commissioners fail to draw jury for third week of court, and court orders same drawn as prescribed by section, such jury is legal: Leach v. Linde, 108-547—though sheriff not required to act unless commissioners neglect to draw jury, Boyer v. Teague, 108-619—and then duty devolves upon him, clerk of commissioners and two justices of the peace, Ibid.

ART. 2. PETIT JURORS; ATTENDANCE, REGULATION AND PRIVILEGES

2320. Summons to jurors drawn; to attend until discharged. The clerk of the board of county commissioners shall, within five days from the drawing, deliver the list of the jurors drawn for the superior court to the sheriff of the county, who shall summon the persons therein named to attend as jurors at such court. The summons shall be served, personally, or by leaving a copy thereof at the house of the juror, at least five days before the sitting of the court to which he may be summoned. Jurors shall appear and give their attendance until duly discharged.

Rev., s. 1976; Code, s. 1733; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 12; R. C., c. 31, s. 29; 1779, c. 157, ss. 4, 6.

For provision for additional jurors from other counties, as a substitute for removal when a fair trial cannot be had, see Civil Procedure, s. 473.
For service by telephone, see section 819. Section referred to in Boyer v. Teague, 106-621. When the list is given to the sheriff he has no authority to change a name: State v. Paramore, 146-604.

2321. Summons to talesmen; their disqualifications. That there may not be a defect of jurors, the sheriff shall by order of the court summon, from day to day, of the bystanders, other jurors, being freeholders, within the county where the court is held, or the judge may, in his discretion, at the beginning of the term direct the tales jurors to be drawn from the jury box used in drawing the petit jury for the term, in the presence of the court; such tales jurors so drawn to be summoned by the sheriff and to serve on the petit jury, and on any day the court may discharge those who have served the preceding day. The judge may, upon his own motion, or upon the request of counsel for either plaintiff or defendant, instruct the sheriff to summon such jurors outside of the courthouse. It is a disqualification and ground of challenge to any tales juror that such juror has acted in the same court as grand, petit or tales juror within two years next preceding such term of court.

Revised, s. 1967; Code, s. 1753; R. C., c. 31, s. 29; 1779, c. 156, s. 69; 1911, c. 15; 1915, c. 210.

Tales jurors must have same qualifications as regular jurors with additional one of being freeholders: Hale v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Sherman, 115-773; State v. Hargrave, 100-485; State v. Carland, 90-668; State v. Whitley, 88-691—and must own real estate in county where court sits, State v. Cooper, 83-671—but tenant by curtesy initiate is freeholder, Hodgins v. R. K., 143-93; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; State v. Mills, 91-581—as is mortgagor in possession of freehold, State v. Ragland, 75-12—though juror who holds license to lay off oyster and clam bed in waters of state is not freeholder, State v. Young, 138-571. Freeholder defined in State v. Ragland, 75-12; see, also, State v. Hensley, 94-1021. While deputy sheriffs are not exempt from jury duty, the court may excuse them from serving as tales jurors: McLawhorn v. Harris, 156-107.

The court may order a new jury to be summoned from the bystanders after the regular jury has been discharged: State v. Manship, 174-798.

Only tales jurors come within provisions of section disqualifying jurors who have acted in same court within two years: Hale v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Whitfield, 92-831; State v. Brittain, 89-481. To disqualify them it must appear that they were not only summoned, but acted as jurors in same court within two years: Burnett v. Roanoke Mills Co., 152-35; State v. Whitfield, 92-831; State v. Outerbridge, 82-617; State v. Howard, 82-623; State v. Thorne, 81-555—but juror of original panel cannot be challenged upon such grounds, State v. Brittain, 89-481.

Talesmen may be summoned from bystanders in court, or the officer may be directed to go outside and summon them: Lupton v. Spencer, 173-126—when they come in they are bystanders: State v. McDowell, 123-764; State v. Lamon, 10-175. No objection to tales juror that name does not appear on list made out by county commissioners: Lee v. Lee, 71-139.

Exemption of members of fire company from jury service in general does not discharge them from service as talesmen: State v. Willard, 79-660, and, as bearing upon question of exemption releasing from service as tales jurors, see State v. Williams, 18-372; State v. Hogg, 6-319.

Court may order any number of talesmen necessary: State v. Lamon, 10-175.

2322. How talesmen summoned when sheriff interested. When, in the trial of any action before a jury, the sheriff of the county in which the case is to be tried is a party to or has any interest in the action, or when the presiding judge finds upon investigation that the sheriff of the county is not a suitable person, on account of indirect interest in or relative to the cause of action, to be entrusted with the summoning of the tales jurors in any particular case pending, such judge shall appoint some suitable person to summon the jurors in place of the sheriff.

Rev., s. 1968; 1889, c. 441.

Court has power to appoint suitable person to summon jury from bystanders, where array set aside for irregularity of sheriff in drawing jury, sheriff being party to action: Boyer v. Tuggle, 106-576. And where the person so appointed has been guilty of improper conduct in regard to selection of jurors, a new trial will be granted: Lupton v. Spencer, 173-126.

2323. Penalty for disobeying summons. Every person on the original venire summoned to appear as a juror who fails to give his attendance until duly discharged shall forfeit and pay for the use of the county the sum of twenty dollars, to be imposed by the court; but each delinquent jurymen shall have until the next succeeding term to make his excuse for his nonattendance, and, if he renders an excuse deemed sufficient by the court, he shall be discharged without costs. Every person summoned of the bystanders who shall not appear and serve during the day as a juror shall be fined in the sum of two dollars, unless he can show sufficient cause to the court; and the clerk shall forthwith issue an execution against the estate of the delinquent tales juror for such amercement and costs.

Rev., s. 1977; Code, ss. 1734. 405; R. C., c. 31, s. 30; 1779, c. 157, s. 4; 1783, c. 189; 1806, c. 634.

2324. Jury sworn; judge decides competency. The clerk shall, at the beginning of the court, swear such of the petit jury as are of the original panel, to try all civil cases; and if there should not be enough of the original panel, the talesmen shall be sworn. The petit jurors of the original panel, as well as talesmen, shall be sworn as prescribed in the chapter entitled Oaths. Nothing herein shall be construed to disallow the usual challenges in law to the whole jury so sworn or to any of them; and if by reason of such challenge, any juror is withdrawn, his place on the jury shall be supplied by any of the original venire, or from the bystanders qualified to serve as jurors. The judge or other presiding officer of the court shall decide all questions as to the competency of jurors in both civil and criminal actions.

Rev., s. 1966; Code, ss. 405; R. C., c. 31, s. 34; 1790, c. 321; 1822, c. 1133, s. 1.

CHALLENGE TO THE ARRAY. Objection to manner of summoning jury should be taken by challenge to array: State v. Douglass, 63-500. A challenge to the array can be taken only when there is partiality or misconduct in the sheriff, or some irregularity in making out the list: State v. Speaks, 94-865; Moore v. Guano Co., 130-231. Objection must be made before entering on the formation of the jury and before challenge to the polls, or before the jury has been completed or sworn, or before entering on the trial: State v. Parker, 132-1014. A challenge to the array must affect the whole panel: State v. Hensley, 94-1021. It is duty of court to see that jurors are competent, fair and impartial: State v. Boon, 80-461.

In criminal case, solicitor for state said: "If any member of jury has formed and expressed an opinion that prisoner is not guilty, let it be known." No juror answering thereto, prisoner thereupon admits the cause as a challenge to the array: Held, not a challenge to the array: State v. Walker, 145-567.

CHALLENGES FOR CAUSE. Judge determines facts as well as legal sufficiency of challenge based upon them: State v. Kilgore, 93-533. Rulings of law by court on challenge for cause are subject to review: State v. Vick, 132-995—though findings are conclusive, State v. Vick, 132-997—as are also findings of fact and law on challenges to the favor, Ibid.; State v.
2325. Finding of judge that juror is indifferent is not reviewable: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Register, 133-746; State v. Kinsauls, 126-1095; State v. Potts, 100-457.

Challenge for cause must be made in apt time: State v. Lambert, 93-618; State v. Boon, 80-461. Too late for challenge where juror accepted by prisoner and served on trial: State v. Lambert, 93-618. A good challenge for cause before juror is sworn, if denied, is ground for new trial; if made afterward, it is within the discretion of the court: Carter v. King, 174-549. Discretionary with court to permit juror to be challenged for cause after being tendered to defendant and before jury impaneled: State v. Green, 95-611; see Dunn v. R. R., 131-449. Court may excuse juror, before impaneled, though solicitor has passed him to prisoner, and has not challenged him for cause: State v. Vieck, 132-995. Discretionary power of judge as to challenge is limited to "challenges for cause," and he cannot extend time for peremptory challenges: State v. Fuller, 114-885; Dunn v. R. R., 131-446. See section 2331.

Where general question was asked if any juror had formed and expressed an opinion that plaintiff ought not to recover, and one juror responded that he had, but added, on being questioned, that "notwithstanding such expression of opinion, I can try case impartially according to evidence and charge of court": Held, his honor properly found him to be a competent juror: Dunn v. R. R., 131-446; State v. Bohanon, 142-695; State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Eder, 85-585; State v. Collins, 70-241.

A tales juror called on a trial in April, 1894, is not disqualified because he had not paid his taxes for 1893, he having paid them for 1892: State v. Sherman, 115-773—but where he has not paid his taxes for fiscal year preceding first Monday in September next before time he is called on to serve, he may be excluded on being challenged: State v. Hargrave, 100-484. See, also, State v. Gardner, 104-739.

A tales juror must have same qualifications as regular juror, with the additional one of being a freeholder: Hale v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Hargrave, 100-485; State v. Sherman, 115-773—and the finding by trial judge that juror is not a freeholder is conclusive on appeal, State v. Register, 133-746. Tenant by curtesy initiate is a freeholder: Hodgin v. R. R., 143-93; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; State v. Mills, 91-581—as is mortgagor in possession of freehold, State v. Ragland, 75-12—but one who holds license to lay off oyster and clam bed in waters of state is not a freeholder, State v. Young, 138-571.

Where it does not appear that a party is insured in an indemnity company, it is error to allow the question whether any juror is interested in such company: Starr v. Oil Co., 165-587—otherwise where a party carries a policy in an indemnity company, Featherstone v. Cotton Mills, 159-429.

Where the county is a party, the relationship of a juror to one of the county commissioners is too remote: Gates County v. Hill, 158-584.

The causes of challenge given in the statutes are in addition to the cause of pecuniary interest: Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-683. When a party objecting to a juror on the ground of pecuniary interest has exhausted his peremptory challenges, it is error for the court to refuse the challenge: Ibid.

2325. Questioning jurors without challenge. The court, or any party to an action, civil or criminal, shall be allowed, in selecting the jury, to make inquiry as to the fitness and competency of any person to serve as a juror, without having such inquiry treated as a challenge of such person, and it shall not be considered by the court that any person is challenged as a juror until the party shall formally state that such person is so challenged.

1913, c. 31, s. 6.

Effect of change made by this section explained: State v. Christy, 170-772.

2326. Causes of challenge to jurors drawn from box. It shall not be a valid cause of challenge that a juror called from those whose names are drawn from the box is not a freeholder or has served upon the jury within two years prior 2327. Jurors impaneled to try case furnished with accommodations. When a jury, impaneled to try any cause, is put in charge of an officer of the court, the said officer shall furnish said jury with such accommodation as the court may order, and the same shall be paid for by the party cast or by the county, under the order and in the discretion of the judge of the court.

Rev., s. 1978; Code, s. 1736; 1876-7, c. 173; 1889, c. 44.

Verdict of jury cannot be impeached because sheriff declined to give them refreshments except water until they agreed on verdict or until judge directed him to take them to dinner: Gaither v. Generator Co., 121-384. County not liable for board of jury in capital case during pendency of trial: Young v. Comrs., 76-316.

2328. Exemption from civil arrest. No sheriff or other officer shall arrest under civil process any juror during his attendance on or going to and returning from any court of record. All such service shall be void, and the defendant on motion shall be discharged.

Rev., s. 1979; Code, s. 1735; R. C., c. 31, s. 31; 1779, c. 157, s. 10.

Exemption of jurors from civil arrest does not apply to parties arrested in criminal proceedings: White v. Underwood, 125-25—and section does not repeal by implication the common-law exemption of nonresidents from service of civil process while attending litigation in courts of state: Cooper v. Wyman, 122-784.

Section merely referred to in Greenleaf v. Bank, 133-296.

2329. Exemptions from jury duty. 1. All practicing physicians, licensed druggists, telegraph operators who are in the regular employ of any telegraph company or railroad company, train dispatchers who have the actual handling of either freight or passenger trains, regularly licensed pilots, regular ministers of the gospel, officers or employees of a state hospital for the insane, active members of a fire company, funeral directors and embalmers, printers and linotype operators, all millers of grist mills, all United States railway postal clerks and rural free delivery mail carriers, locomotive engineers and railroad conductors in active service, and all members of the national guard of North Carolina who comply with and perform all duties required of them as members of said national guard, shall be exempt from service as jurors.

Rev., s. 1980; Code, ss. 1723, 2269; 1885, c. 289; 1889, c. 255; 1897, c. 32; 1901, c. 118; 1909, cc. 333, 868; 1913, c. 35, s. 1; 1915, c. 260.

For dentists exempt from jury duty, see section 6640. Exemption from jury service is a mere privilege, not a contract, and may be revoked by legislature at any time: State v. Cantwell, 142-604. Exemption from jury service in general does not release from service as talesman: State v. Willard, 79-660; State v. Williams, 18-372; State v. Hogg, 6-319—but he is not bound to serve on special venire, State v. Whitford, 34-99.

Section referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-785; State v. Haywood, 94-850.

2. On the first day of January and July of each year the commanding officer of each company, troop, battery or division of the national guard of North Carolina shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said company, troop, battery or division is located a statement giving the names and rank of each member of his organization who has performed all military duties required of such member during the preceding six months, and any member of such military organization whose name shall not appear upon the statement shall not receive the benefit of the exemption provided above during the six months immediately following the filing of said statement.

1913, c. 38, s. 2.

3. The board of county commissioners of any county in North Carolina may, in their discretion, exempt any ex-confederate soldier in their county from jury duty who shall apply to them for exemption.

1915, c. 228.

2330. Clerk to keep record of jurors. The clerk of the superior court shall record alphabetically in a book kept for the purpose the names of all grand and petit jurors and talesmen who serve in his court, with the term at which they serve.

Rev., s. 1981; 1893, c. 52, s. 3.

ART. 3. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGES IN CIVIL CASES

2331. Four peremptory challenges on each side. The clerk, before a jury is impaneled to try the issues in any civil suit, shall read over the names of the jury upon the panel in the presence and hearing of the parties or their counsel; and the parties, or their counsel for them, may challenge peremptorily four jurors upon the said panel, without showing any cause therefor, which shall be allowed by the court.

Rev., s. 1964; Code, s. 466; R. C., c. 31, s. 35; 1796, c. 452, s. 2; 1812, c. 833.

For peremptory challenges in criminal actions, see sections 4633, 4634.

Party's reason for peremptorily challenging juror cannot be inquired into: Dupree v. Ins. Co., 92-417—as law gives litigant right to object to limited number of jurors without assigning cause, Ibid. Where jury has been accepted by parties, it is error to allow peremptory challenges to be made: Dunn v. R. R., 131-446.

Challenge must be made before impaneled: Baxter v. Wilson, 95-137; State v. Williams, 66-126.

Whether there are one or more plaintiffs or defendants, only four peremptory challenges on each side allowed: Bryan v. Harrison, 76-360; but see section 2332.

No peremptory challenge allowed after juror has been passed and accepted: Dunn v. R. R., 131-447; State v. Fuller, 114-885.
2332. Where several defendants; challenges apportioned; discretion of judge. When there are two or more defendants in a civil action the judge presiding at the trial, if it appears to the court that there are divers and antagonistic interests between the defendants, may in his discretion apportion among the defendants the challenges now allowed by law to defendants, or he may increase the number of challenges to not exceeding four to each defendant or class of defendants representing the same interest. In either event, the same number of challenges shall be allowed each defendant or class of defendants representing the same interest. The decision of the judge as to the nature of the interests and number of challenges shall be final.

Revised, s. 1965; 1905, c. 357.

ART. 4. GRAND JURORS

2333. How grand jury drawn. The judges of the superior court, at the terms of their courts, except those terms which are for the trial of civil cases exclusively, and special terms for which no grand jury has been ordered, shall direct the names of all persons returned as jurors to be written on scrolls of paper and put into a box or hat and drawn out by a child under ten years of age; whereof the first eighteen drawn shall be a grand jury for the court; and the residue shall serve as petit jurors for the court.

Revised, s. 1969; Code, s. 404; R. C., c. 31, s. 33; 1779, c. 157, s. 11.

No grand jury for special terms, unless required by order, see section 1454. The grand jury may be composed of less than eighteen, but not less than twelve. If only sixteen appear on the regular panel, the judge may use these as the grand jury without further drawing: State v. Wood, 175-809.

2334. Grand juries in certain counties. At the first fall and spring terms of the criminal courts held for the counties of Gaston, Guilford, Mecklenburg, and Wake, grand juries shall be drawn, the presiding judge shall charge them as provided by law, and they shall serve during the remaining fall and spring terms, respectively.

2335. Exceptions for disqualifications. All exceptions to grand jurors for and on account of their disqualifications shall be taken before the jury is sworn and impaneled to try the issue, by motion to quash the indictment, and if not so taken, the same shall be deemed to be waived. But no indictment shall be quashed, nor shall judgment thereon be arrested, by reason of the fact that any member of the grand jury finding such bills of indictment had not paid his taxes for the preceding year, or was a party to any suit pending and at issue.

Revised, s. 1970; Code, s. 1741; 1907, c. 36, s. 1.

Regular way of making objection where facts appear on face of record is by motion to quash: State v. Haywood, 94-847—but where same do not appear on record, objection should be taken by plea in abatement, Ibid.—though distinction not held to be important now, and motion to quash permitted in either case, Ibid. See, also, State v. Banner, 149-519.

Motion to quash must be made in apt time: State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Haywood, 94-847; State v. Griffice, 74-316; State v. Seaborn, 15-305—which is before plea, State v. Watson, 86-634; State v. Baldwin, 80-890; State v. Griffice, 74-316—and if motion made before plea, defendant has right to have same granted, State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. DeGraff, 113-688—if made after plea but before jury impaneled, it may be granted in sound discretion of court, Ibid. — but if motion not made till after jury sworn, objection deemed to be waived: State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Banner, 149-519.

When motion to quash for disqualification of grand juror is made after plea, and declined without assignment of reason, it is presumed it was declined in the discretion of the court, hence no appeal will lie: State v. DeGraff, 113-688.

Plea in abatement filed before pleading generally to indictment is proper way to raise question of qualification of an individual grand juror: State v. Sharp, 110-604; but see State v. Haywood, 74-316 — though such plea will not be sustained, unless shows want of some positive qualification prescribed by law, State v. Sharp, 110-604 — and all other objections to competency of grand jurors must be taken by challenge in apt time, Ibid. Plea in abatement, on grounds of incompetency of one of grand jurors, put in after pleading to indictment, is not in apt time: State v. Potts, 100-457.

Motion to quash allowed where persons of negro race excluded from grand jury solely on account of color, and defendant is a colored man: State v. Peoples, 131-785 — where grand juror failed to pay taxes for preceding year, State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-659; State v. Griffice, 74-316 — where one of grand jurors who found bill at time a suit pending and at issue in same court, State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Smith, 80-140 — where one of grand jurors under age of twenty-one years at time of finding bill, State v. Griffice, 74-321.

Motion to quash not allowed on ground that prepayment of taxes was not made qualification for persons on jury list from which grand jury found: State v. Daniels, 134-641; State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-658 — that son of prosecutor was member of grand jury and actively participated in finding bill, State v. Sharp, 110-604 — that it appeared that jury list from which grand jury drawn did not contain names of all persons in county qualified to act as jurors, State v. Haywood, 74-373.

An act of legislature making concurrence of nine members of grand jury sufficient is unconstitutional: State v. Barker, 107-913.

Defendant is not required to show affirmatively that grand juror, who was disqualified by having suit on docket, was actually present and participated in deliberations of grand jury when bill found: State v. Smith, 80-410. No evidence of disqualification is necessary when court refuses motion to quash solely on ground that it is too late: State v. Haywood, 74-847. Juror not disqualified for nonpayment of tax for preceding year where he was not liable to tax: State v. Perry, 122-1018. No disqualification for grand juror that he is not a freeholder: Ibid. Burden of showing disqualification of juror is upon the defendant: Ibid. Fact that grand juror was a minor when his name put upon jury list is immaterial if he was of age at time he served: Ibid.

That the foreman of grand jury was prosecutor and swore out the warrant before the justice is not sufficient ground to quash the bill: State v. Pitt, 166-268.

Omission of foreman to mark on indictment names of witnesses sworn and examined is no ground for motion to quash: State v. Hines, 84-810.

If a minor serves on grand jury, a plea in abatement would lie as to all bills in whose finding he took part: State v. Perry, 122-1021.

Certificate on back of bill of indictment not appearing to have been signed by foreman is not ground for motion to quash: State v. Long, 143-670.

2336. Foreman may administer oaths to witnesses. The foreman of every grand jury duly sworn and impaneled in any of the courts has power to administer oaths and affirmations to persons to be examined before it as witnesses: Provided, that the said foreman shall not administer such oath or affirmation to any person except those whose names are endorsed on the bill of indictment by the officer prosecuting in behalf of the state, or by direction of the court. The foreman of the grand jury shall mark on the bill the names of the witnesses sworn and examined before the jury.

Rev., s. 1971; Code, s. 1742; 1879, c. 12.

Authority of foreman to swear witness to be examined before grand jury does not oust such power of clerk of court: State v. White, 88-638; State v. Allen, 83-638. Judge has no power to require grand jury to have state's witnesses examined publicly: State v. Branch, 68-168.
Record stated that persons impaneled as grand jurors, among whom was the one appointed foreman, were "duly drawn, sworn, and court, having appointed J. P. foreman, are charged": Held, that it sufficiently appeared that foreman had been properly drawn and sworn: State v. Weaver, 104-758.

Recital that "jurors upon their oath present," etc., raises presumption, when accompanied by endorsement "a true bill," signed by foreman, that it was duly returned and presented in open court: State v. Weaver, 104-758.

The indorsement "a true bill" raises presumption that every member of grand jury concurred in finding it: State v. McNeil, 93-552.

One defendant cannot be examined against his codefendant for purpose of obtaining true bill against both: State v. Krider, 78-481.

A presentment need not be signed by any one; it is the returning of indictment in open court and its being there recorded that makes it effectual: State v. Cox, 28-440.

Not ground to quash indictment that blank space after "thus" in certificate "witnesses whose names are marked thus, were sworn and examined" was not filled in with cross-mark or check: State v. Sultan, 142-569; State v. Sheppard, 97-401—as requirement that foreman shall mark on bill names of witnesses sworn and examined is merely directory, State v. Hollingsworth, 100-535; State v. Hines, 84-810—and endorsement upon back of indictment forms no part of record, State v. Sheppard, 97-401.

Where it does not appear by endorsement on bill that witnesses were sworn and examined, it is no ground for motion to quash indictment where proof is that witnesses were sworn: State v. Hollingsworth, 100-535; State v. Sheppard, 97-401; State v. Hines, 84-810—or for motion in arrest of judgment after verdict, State v. Sheppard, 97-401—and motion in arrest of judgment will not be sustained where it does not appear from endorsement on indictment that witnesses were sworn before sent to grand jury, State v. Roberts, 19-540.

Not necessary that it should appear that state's witnesses sent before jury by solicitor: State v. Frizell, 111-722.

No endorsement on bill of indictment by grand jury necessary: State v. Long, 143-676; State v. Sultan, 142-569, overruling State v. McBroom, 127-528—and record that it was presented by grand jury is sufficient in absence of evidence to impeach it, State v. Sultan, 142-569; State v. Guilford, 49-83; State v. Cox, 28-440; State v. Calhoon, 18-376; and as bearing upon same, see State v. Harwood, 60-226; State v. Roberts, 19-540. Indictment need not be signed by any one: State v. Mace, 86-668; State v. Cox, 28-440; State v. Calhoon, 18-374.

The foreman can excuse a grand juror for the term: State v. Perry, 122-1022.

Section merely referred to in State v. Ivey, 100-540.

Grand jury to visit jail and county home. Every grand jury, while the court is in session, shall visit the county home for the aged and infirm, the workhouse, if there is one, and the jail, examine the same, and especially the apartments in which inmates and prisoners shall be confined; and they shall report to the court the condition thereof and of the inmates and prisoners confined therein, and also the manner in which the jailer or superintendent has discharged his duties.

Rev., s. 1972; Code, s. 785; R. C. c. 30, s. 3; 1816, e. 911, s. 3.

For duty of grand jury in reporting infants without guardian, see Guardian and Ward, s. 2197.

Art. 5. Special Venire

Special venire to sheriff in capital cases. When a judge of the superior court deems it necessary to a fair and impartial trial of any person charged with a capital offense, he may issue to the sheriff of the county in which the trial may be a special writ of venire facias, commanding him to summon such number of persons qualified to act as jurors in said county as the judge may deem sufficient (such number being designated in the writ), to appear on some-specified day of the term as jurors of said court; and the sheriff shall forthwith execute the writ and return it to the clerk of the court on the day when it is returnable, with the names of the jurors summoned.

Rev., s. 1973; Code, s. 1738; R. C., c. 35, s. 30; 1830, c. 27; 1913, c. 31, s. 1.

For special law applicable to New Hanover county, see 1909, c. 342.

For application of special act, see State v. Sandlin, 156-624. Discretionary with judge to order special venire in capital cases: State v. Brogden, 111-656. Special venire ordered hereunder only where person charged with capital offense: State v. Bullock, 63-570. Where on trial for murder solicitor states he will only ask for verdict of manslaughter, no special venire necessary: State v. Hunt, 128-584. Discretionary with judge whether he will order venire under this section or section 2339: State v. Smarr, 121-669—though practice of drawing jury under section 2339 commended, State v. Brogden, 111-656. Judge may determine number of special venire: Ibid.—which he may likewise change by another order, Ibid. Order for special venire sufficient if made at term at which trial had: State v. Murph, 60-129—but not necessary that record should show that writ of venire facias issued by clerk where shown that order obtained and jurors attended, State v. Perry, 44-530.

Objection to manner of summoning special venire should be taken by challenge to array: State v. Douglass, 63-500—but it is no cause of challenge to array by negro accused of crime that special venire is composed entirely of white men, there being no charge of corruption or unfairness against sheriff, State v. Sloan, 97-489.

Juror summoned on special venire is qualified to serve, if freeholder of county where trial had: State v. Powell, 94-965; State v. Kilgore, 93-538; State v. Curland, 90-668. See section 2326.

It is no cause of challenge that a special venireman had served on the jury within the past two years: State v. Starnes, 94-973; State v. Kilgore, 93-538; State v. Whitfield, 92-831; but see State v. Cody, 119-909, and section 2326—or had not paid taxes for preceding year, State v. Kilgore, 93-553; but see State v. Cody, 119-909—or that has suit pending and at issue in court, State v. Starnes, 94-973; but see State v. Cody, 119-909—but that juror is nonresident of county where trial had is cause of challenge, State v. Bullock, 63-570.

Special venire is in aid of original panel, and only such jurors are taken from it as required to form jury after original exhausted: State v. Washington, 90-664—and jurors of regular panel should be drawn from box before special venire summoned and drawn, State v. Benton, 19-196.

Person exempted by law from jury service not bound to serve on special venire: State v. Whitford, 34-99.

Prisoner has right to have jurors stood aside by state in capital case tendered to him or challenged by state before another venire resorted to: State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Washington, 90-664; State v. Shaw, 25-532.

An alien is not entitled to a jury de mediatate linguae in this state: State v. Antonio, 11-200.

Not error for judge, in ordering special venire, to direct sheriff to summon only freeholders who have paid taxes for preceding year, who have not served on jury within last two years, who have no suits pending and at issue in court, and not under indictment: State v. Cody, 119-908; but see State v. Starnes, 94-973; State v. Kilgore, 93-538.

For who are freeholders, see under section 2321.

2339. Drawn from jury box in court by judge's order. When a judge deems a special venire necessary, he may, at his discretion, issue an order to the clerk of the board of commissioners for the county, commanding him to bring into open court forthwith the jury boxes of the county, and he shall cause the number of scrolls as designated by him to be drawn from box number one by a child under ten years of age. The names so drawn shall constitute the special venire, and the clerk of the superior court shall insert their names in the writ of venire, and deliver the same to the sheriff of the county, and the persons named in the writ and no others shall be summoned by the sheriff. If the special venire is exhausted before the jury is chosen, the judge shall order another special venire until the jury has been chosen. The scrolls containing the names of the persons drawn as jurors from box number one shall, after the jury is chosen, be placed in box number two, and if box number one is exhausted before the jury is chosen, the drawing shall be completed from box number two after the same has been well shaken.

Rev., s. 1974; Code, s. 1739; 1897, c. 364; 1913, c. 31, s. 2.

See section 2326.

Statute must be strictly observed: State v. Parker, 132-1015. Immaterial that error in middle letter of name of juror entered on scroll: State v. Mills, 91-581—or that Christian name only indicated by initial letters, State v. Simmons, 51-309.

It is no cause for challenge to array that sheriff failed to summon several of special venire drawn from jury box: State v. Stanton, 118-1182—or that jury box not revised by county commissioners, in absence of allegation that sheriff acted corruptly or with partiality in summoning venire, or that something was done which affected the integrity and fairness of entire panel, Ibid.

Action of judge in determining qualifications of juryman when his name drawn from the box is ground for challenge to array by motion to quash and set aside entire panel: State v.
Moore, 120-570—and in absence of such challenge defendant cannot take advantage of alleged error after trial and judgment, Ibid.

Integrity and fairness of special venire not affected by fact that one man named in writ had removed from county, and another was dead when jury list revised by commissioners:
State v. Whitt, 113-716; State v. Hensley, 94-1021—nor by fact that one named in writ is not summoned, State v. Whitt, 113-716—nor by fact that sheriff, in copying list of venire, omitted by mistake the name of one person, and such person in consequence was not summoned, Ibid.

Not grounds for challenge to array that sheriff returned on writ that he had not summoned one juror because dead, and had not summoned three others because they could not be found:
State v. Speaks, 94-865.

Where special venire drawn by boy over ten years of age, and several of venire served as jurors, such facts should be taken advantage of by challenge to array: State v. Parker, 132-1014—or by motion to quash panel before jury sworn, and not by motion in arrest of judgment, Ibid.

Practice of drawing jurors from box under this section commended: State v. Brogdon, 111-656; State v. Whitson, 111-695—though section not mandatory, State v. Whitson, 111-695—but discretionary with court whether it will summon venire under this section, State v. Smarr, 121-669.

Where special venire exhausted without completing jury, court may order further venire to be summoned from bystanders: State v. Stanton, 118-1182. Only freeholders can be summoned: State v. Moore, 120-566—and findings of judge that persons drawn on special venire were not freeholders is conclusive on appeal, State v. Register, 133-746. As to who are freeholders, see under section 2321.

Where partitions of jury box marked “jurors drawn” and “jurors not drawn” instead of “No. 1” and “No. 2,” and only one key, which unlocked both partitions, same being in possession of register, special venire drawn therefrom under directions of presiding judge was legal: State v. Potts, 100-457.

Quere, whether juror who holds bond to make title to tract of land, on which portion of purchase money still due, is freeholder capable of serving upon special venire: State v. Hensley, 94-1021.

Court at term to which writ of special venire returnable may permit amendment of return to writ by sheriff showing list of names of veniremen, those summoned and those not summoned, together with reason why not summoned: State v. Whitt, 113-716.

It is not error, after special venire is exhausted, to have names of special veniremen who were stood aside put in the hat and drawn again instead of having them called in order in which they were stood aside: State v. Utley, 132-1022.

Section referred to in State v. Jones, 97-470; State v. Gooch, 94-1006.
2340. Penalty on sheriff not executing writ or jurors not attending. If any sheriff fails duly to execute and return such writ of venire facias, he shall be fined by the court not exceeding one hundred dollars. All jurors so summoned shall attend until discharged by the court, under the same rules and penalties as are prescribed for other jurors.

Rev., ss. 1975, 3602; Code, s. 1740; R. C., c. 35, s. 31; 1830, c. 27, s. 2.

Where a sheriff, in making his return on a writ and list of special venire, endorsed thereon: "Received October 25, 1893; executed October 30, 1893, by summoning one hundred and fifty men," it was within discretion of court to which writ returnable to permit amendment of return so as to show those actually summoned and those not, with reasons why they were not: State v. Whitt, 113-716.

For jury trial in divorce proceeding, see section 1662.
For right of jury trial, see sections 556, 562, 2370.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

2341. Lessor and lessee not partners. No lessor of property, merely by reason that he is to receive as rent or compensation for its use a share of the proceeds or net profits of the business in which it is employed, or any other uncertain consideration, shall be held a partner of the lessee.

Rev., s. 1982; Code, s. 1744; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 3.

Lessor and lessee are not partners: State v. Keith, 126-1115. Where one person was to furnish land, farming implements, feed and team, and another person was to do the work, and crops to be equally divided, there was no agricultural partnership: Lawrence v. Weeks, 107-119; Day v. Stevens, 88-83, correcting Curtin v. Cash, 84-41.

Section merely referred to in Belcher v. Grimsley, 88-90.
2342. Attornment unnecessary on conveyance of reversions, etc. Every conveyance of any rent, reversion, or remainder in lands, tenements or hereditaments, otherwise sufficient, shall be deemed complete without attornment by the holders of particular estates in said lands: Provided, no holder of a particular estate shall be prejudiced by any act done by him as holding under his grantor, without notice of such conveyance.

Rev., s. 947; Code, s. 1764; 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 9; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 17.

2343. Term forfeited for nonpayment of rent. In all verbal or written leases of real property of any kind in which is fixed a definite time for the payment of the rent reserved therein, there shall be implied a forfeiture of the term upon failure to pay the rent within ten days after a demand is made by the lessor or his agent on said lessee for all past-due rent, and the lessor may forthwith enter and dispossess the tenant without having declared such forfeiture or reserved the right of reentry in the lease.

2344. Recovery for use and occupation. When any person occupies land of another by the permission of such other, without any express agreement for rent, or upon a parol lease which is void, the landlord may recover a reasonable compensation for such occupation, and if by such parol lease a certain rent was reserved, such reservation may be received as evidence of the value of the occupation.

Rev., s. 1986; Code, s. 1746; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 5.

Where lease void under statute of frauds, lessor could only recover for time premises were occupied: Harty v. Harris, 120-411.

2345. Rent apportioned, where lease terminated by death. If a lease of land, in which rent is reserved, payable at the end of the year or other certain period of time, is determined by the death of any person during one of the periods in which the rent was growing due, the lessor or his personal representative may recover a part of the rent which becomes due after the death, proportionate to the part of the period elapsed before the death, subject to all just allowances; and if any security was given for such rent it shall be apportioned in like manner.

Rev., s. 1987; Code, s. 1747; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 6.

2346. Rents apportioned, where right to payment terminated by death. In all cases where rents, rent charges, annuities, pensions, dividends, or any other payments of any description, are made payable at fixed periods to successive owners under any instrument, or by any will, and where the right of any owner to receive payment is terminable by a death or other uncertain event, and where such right so terminates during a period in which a payment is growing due, the payment becoming due next after such terminating event, shall be apportioned among the successive owners according to the parts of such periods elapsing before and after the terminating event.

Rev., s. 1988; Code, s. 1748; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 7.

2347. In lieu of emblements, farm lessee holds out year, with rents apportioned. When any lease for years of any land let for farming on which a rent is reserved determines during a current year of the tenancy, by the happening of any uncertain event determining the estate of the lessor, the tenant in lieu of emblements shall continue his occupation to the end of such current year, and shall then give up such possession to the succeeding owner of the land, and shall pay to such succeeding owner a part of the rent accrued since the last payment became due, proportionate to the part of the period of payment elapsing after the termination of the estate of the lessor to the giving up such possession; and the tenant in such case shall be entitled to a reasonable compensation for the tillage and seed of any crop not gathered at the expiration of such current year from the person succeeding to the possession.

Rev., s. 1990; Code, s. 1749; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 8.

Whenever relation of landlord and tenant exists, without any limitation as to time, such tenancy shall be from year to year: Stedman v. McIntosh, 26-291; Murrill v. Palmer, 164-50.

Lease of land made by tenant for life terminates at his death, but by this section lease continued to end of current lease year, that tenant may gather crops: King v. Foscue, 91-116—but in such case remainderman entitled to part of rent proportionate to part of year elapsing after termination of life estate to surrendering of possession to remainderman, Ibid.; Hayes v. Wrenn, 167-229.

Section embraces lease for single year, although it provides in terms "for any lease for years": King v. Foscue, 91-116.

2348. Grantees of reversion and assigns of lease have reciprocal rights under covenants. The grantee in every conveyance of reversion in lands, tenements or hereditaments has the like advantages and remedies by action or entry against the holders of particular estates in such real property, and their assigns, for nonpayment of rent, and for the nonperformance of other conditions and agreements contained in the instruments by the tenants of such particular estates, as the grantor or lessor or his heirs might have; and the holders of such particular estates, and their assigns, have the like advantages and remedies against the grantee of the reversion, or any part thereof, for any conditions and agreements contained in such instruments, as they might have had against the grantor or his lessors or his heirs.

Rev., s. 1989; Code, s. 1765; 82 Hen. VIII, c. 34; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 18.

2349. Agreement to rebuild, how construed in case of fire. An agreement in a lease to repair a demised house shall not be construed to bind the contracting party to rebuild or repair in case the house shall be destroyed or damaged to more than one-half of its value, by accidental fire not occurring from the want of ordinary diligence on his part.

Rev., s. 1985; Code, s. 1752; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 11.

2350. Tenant not liable for accidental damage. A tenant for life, or years, or for a less term, shall not be liable for damage occurring on the demised premises accidentally, and notwithstanding reasonable diligence on his part, unless he so contract.

Rev., s. 1991; Code, s. 1751; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 10.

For liability of landlord and tenant for injury resulting from defective premises, see Fields v. Ogburn, 178-407; Bailey v. Long, 175-687; Rucker v. Willey, 174-42; Knight v. Foster, 163-329.
2351. Willful destruction by tenant misdemeanor. If any tenant shall, during his term or after its expiration, willfully and unlawfully demolish, destroy, deface, injure or damage any tenement house, uninhabited house or other out-house, belonging to his landlord or upon his premises by removing parts thereof or by burning, or in any other manner, or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, destroy, pull down, injure or remove any fence, wall or other inclosure or any part thereof, built or standing upon the premises of such landlord, or shall willfully and unlawfully cut down or destroy any timber, fruit, shade or ornamental tree belonging to said landlord, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3686; Code, s. 1761; 1883, c. 224.

Meaning of word "wilful" as here used: State v. Whitener, 93-590.

A charge of burning a dwelling-house by defendant as "lessee" comes hereunder: State v. Graham, 121-623. Evidence that defendant at a prior time was guilty of a similar offense, inadmissible: Ibid.

Burden of proof is upon state to establish that the relation of landlord and tenant existed; that during the term, or after its expiration, tenant willfully and unlawfully injured the house, etc.: State v. Godwin, 138-582. And if defendant destroyed the house under reasonable and bona fide belief that he had right to do so, he is not guilty: State v. Lumber Co., 153-610. A corporation is indictable hereunder for acts of its agents: Ibid.

2352. Lessee may surrender, where building destroyed or damaged. If a demised house, or other building, is destroyed during the term, or so much damaged that it cannot be made reasonably fit for the purpose for which it was hired, except at an expense exceeding one year’s rent of the premises, and the damage occur without negligence on the part of the lessee or his agents or servants, and there is no agreement in the lease respecting repairs, or providing for such a case, and the use of the house damaged was the main inducement to the hiring, the lessee may surrender his estate in the demised premises by a writing to that effect delivered or tendered to the landlord within ten days from the damage, and by paying or tendering at the same time all rent in arrear, and a part of the rent growing due at the time of the damage, proportionate to the time between the last period of payment and the occurrence of the damage, and the lessee shall be thenceforth discharged from all rent accruing afterwards; but not from any other agreement in the lease. This section shall not apply if a contrary intention appear from the lease.

Rev., s. 1892; Code, s. 1753; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 12.

2353. Wrongful surrender to other than landlord misdemeanor. Any tenant or lessee of lands who shall willfully, wrongfully and with intent to defraud the landlord or lessor, give up the possession of the rented or leased premises to any person other than his landlord or lessor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3682; Code, s. 1760; 1883, c. 138.

2354. Notice to quit in certain tenancies. A tenancy from year to year may be terminated by a notice to quit given one month or more before the end of the current year of the tenancy; a tenancy from month to month by a like notice of seven days; a tenancy from week to week, of two days.

Rev., s. 1984; Code, s. 1750; 1891, c. 227; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 9.
Where tenant, under lease for year 1896 at specified price per month, payable in advance, held until June, 1897, and the landlord received rent up to June, 1897, the tenancy was from month to month in 1897: Simmons v. Jarman, 122-195.

Where tenant from month to month, who has paid his rent to June 1, 1897, received notice from landlord on May 18, 1897, "to get out within thirty days," such notice was invalid as to May, as rent had been paid: Simmons v. Jarman, 122-195—and invalid as to June because prescribed time for quitting did not end with end of month, Ibid.

What constitutes a tenancy from year to year: Murrill v. Palmer, 164-50; Holton v. Andrews, 151-340. Whenever relation of landlord and tenant exists without any limitation as to time, such tenancy shall be from year to year: Stedman v. McIntosh, 26-291—and neither party can put an end to it, except by regular notice, Ibid.

Persons occupying stalls in town market house do not acquire rights of tenants from year to year by being permitted to hold over after period covered by their license has expired: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457.

Where person put in possession of land by owner without any agreement for rent and with express provision that he shall leave whenever owner requires him to do so, he is not tenant from year to year: Humphries v. Humphries, 25-362—and not entitled to statutory notice, Ibid.

Where tenant leased premises at stipulated rent per month and held over for several months, paying same rent without any new agreement, he was a tenant from month to month, and entitled to fourteen (now seven) days notice to quit: Branton v. O'Bryant, 93-99.

Where person leased to another, who assigned same to third person, notice to quit given by landlord instead of by immediate lessor is sufficient: Waters v. Roberts, 89-145.

Tenant entitled to written or verbal notice to quit: Vincent v. Corbin, 85-108—and mere demand for possession is insufficient, Ibid.

For cases prior to amendment changing law, see Vincent v. Corbin, 85-108; Jones v. Willis, 53-430; Stedman v. McIntosh, 26-291.

Art. 2. Agricultural Tenancies

2355. Landlord’s lien on crops for rents, advances, etc., enforcement. When lands are rented or leased by agreement, written or oral, for agricultural purposes, or are cultivated by a cropper, unless otherwise agreed between the parties to the lease or agreement, any and all crops raised on said lands shall be deemed and held to be vested in possession of the lessor or his assigns at all times, until the rents for said lands are paid and until all the stipulations contained in the lease or agreement are performed, or damages in lieu thereof paid to the lessor or his assigns, and until said party or his assigns is paid for all advancements made and expenses incurred in making and saving said crops. A landlord to entitle himself to the benefit of the lien herein provided for, must conform as to the prices charged for the advance to the provisions of the article Agricultural Liens, in the chapter Liens.

This lien shall be preferred to all other liens, and the lessor or his assigns is entitled, against the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, who removes the crop or any part thereof from the lands without the consent of the lessor or his assigns, or against any other person who may get possession of said crop or any part thereof, to the remedies given in an action upon a claim for the delivery of personal property.

Rev., s. 1993; Code, s. 1754; 1876-7, c. 283; 1917, c. 134.

Common-law remedy of lessor by distress does not obtain in this state: Howland v. Forlaw, 108-567.

Where tenants in common agreed to make partition of lands and fix boundaries, and that one should occupy whole and pay to other his portion of crop raised thereon, such agreement did not create relation of landlord and tenant between parties: Medlin v. Steele, 75-154.
As to whether parties are tenants or croppers, see Neal v. Bellamy, 73-384; Hudgins v. Wood, 72-256; Haywood v. Rogers, 73-320; State v. Burwell, 63-661; Denton v. Strickland, 48-62; Harrison v. Ricks, 71-7. Cropper has no estate in land, and his possession is that of landlord: State v. Austin, 123-749. Tenant or cropper and servant distinguished in State v. Etheridge, 169-263. Where contract is one of tenancy, relation terminates upon division of crops, there being no unsatisfied lien for advances or to secure performance of other stipulations: Curtis v. Cash, 84-41.

Where it appeared that there had been an adjustment between parties of conflicting claims to land, and agreement that defendant should remain in possession of and cultivate land upon payment of part of crop as rent, relation of lessor and lessee existed under contract, which is supported by sufficient consideration: Durant v. Taylor, 89-351.

Hay is ordinarily embraced in word "crops" as used in section, but not, it seems, when it is merely a spontaneous growth, as crab-grass sprung up after another crop housed: State v. Crook, 132-1053.

For cases under prior enactment, see Durham v. Speeke, 82-87; Foster v. Penny, 76-131; Varney v. Spencer, 72-382; Deaver v. Rice, 90-276.

Tenant can recover damages for failure of landlord to furnish him with fertilizers which he agreed to do: Herring v. Armwood, 130-177.

"ADVANCEMENTS." Where landlord either pays for or becomes responsible for supplies to enable tenant to make a crop, such supplies are advances: Powell v. Perry, 127-22. Supplies necessary to make and save crop are such articles as are in good faith furnished to and received by tenant for that purpose: Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276—and proper for court to leave it to jury to find whether mule, wagon, etc., were treated as advancements, Ibid. When landlord and tenant undertake by collusion and fraud to create indebtedness to former, under color of advancements, to prejudice of creditors of tenant, such transaction will not be sustained: Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276. Advancements for which lien is created in favor of landlord by section embraces anything of value supplied by landlord to tenant, or cropper, in good faith, directly or indirectly, for purpose of making and saving crop: Brown v. Brown, 109-124—and where advancements are of such things as in their nature are appropriate and necessary to cultivation of crop, as farming implements and work animals, they will be presumed to create lien, Ibid.—but when they are of articles not in themselves so appropriate and necessary, as dry goods and groceries, whether they create a lien depends upon purpose for which they are furnished, and it must affirmatively appear that they were made in aid of crop, Ibid. Where landlord furnished board to tenant and family while crop was being cultivated, if landlord supplied board so that tenant might make and save crop, nothing to contrary appearing, reasonable value of such board would constitute advancements within meaning of section: Ibid.

Where landlord advanced certain cotton seed, etc., to his tenant in 1884, and in 1885 and 1886 allowed tenant to retain parts of undivided cotton seed and crops as advancements, he had a landlord’s lien on such seed and crops: Thigpen v. Maget, 107-39—which took priority over lien of tenant’s vendee of crops, who had advanced supplies to tenant, Ibid.—division of crop and delivery back to tenant not being necessary to constitute a valid advancement, Ibid.

LANDLORD’S LIEN. Law implies lien by virtue of section when relation of landlord and tenant established: State v. Smith, 106-653. Landlord’s lien superior to all other liens: Reynolds v. Taylor, 144-167; Brewer v. Chappell, 101-251; Wooten v. Hill, 98-48; Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276. When defendant rents store upon plaintiff’s lands for mercantile purposes and land for agricultural purposes, under an entire and indivisible contract to pay stipulated sum and certain portion of crops raised on land as entire rent of store and lands, without apportionment of any distinct part to be paid for store, plaintiff has a landlord’s lien on all products grown on land until entire rent paid: Reynolds v. Taylor, 144-165. Lessee who sublets land and furnishes supplies to sub-tenants, holds prior lien to mortgagor of crops: Perry v. Perry, 127-23. Landlord’s lien under section is released only upon absolute and unqualified division to tenant of his share: Jarrell v. Daniel, 114-212—and where landlord and tenant through common agent set apart share of crop which tenant was to have whenever advancements paid on it, and tenant was not to remove such share until lien paid off, there was no such division as to divest lien of landlord, Ibid.

After default by vendee of land to pay purchase money, vendor may by contract become landlord of vendee so as to avail himself of landlord’s lien given by section, rent, however, to go as credit upon purchase price agreed to be paid for land: Jones v. Jones, 117:254—and courts will not declare such contract void, Ibid.

Section makes judgment for rent a lien on crop: Hargrove v. Harris, 116:419.

Subrenting does not release landlord’s lien upon crops: State v. Crook, 132:1054; Montague v. Mial, 89:137—though sub-tenant’s crop may thereby be subjected to double lien, that of landlord and his immediate lessor, but lien of landlord paramount, Montague v. Mial, 89:137; Moore v. Faison, 97:322.

Where a note is executed for rent of land which the tenant has the option to purchase, the owner has a landlord’s lien on the crop: Burwell v. Warehouse Co., 172:79. When landlord and tenant join in a mortgage to a third person and landlord pays the debt, his lien is prior to that of the mortgage as against the tenant’s right to have the property applied: Tripp v. Harris, 154:296.

That lease between lessor and lessee is void does not affect relations existing between lessee and sub-tenant as to lien for advancements: Perry v. Perry, 127:23.

Tenant being estopped from denying that party from whom he leased is his landlord and entitled to rents cannot escape landlord’s lien by claiming personal property exemptions out of crop: Hamer v. McCall, 121:196; Durham v. Speeke, 82:87.

Agreement after default between mortgagor and mortgagee that mortgagor was to remain in possession as tenant would confer landlord’s lien upon mortgagee: Cooper v. Kimball, 123:120.

Landlord’s lien extends to and includes costs of such legal proceedings as are necessary to recover his rents: Slaughter v. Winfrey, 85:159—and as all crops are his until such lien discharged, tenant has no property therein which he can claim as his constitutional exemption as against such costs, Ibid.

Where lessee sublets part of farm, he becomes lessor to his sub-lessee, and he is entitled to same lien on crop which section gives to lessor: Moore v. Faison, 97:322—but original lessor, after his lessee has paid him in full, has no lien under section on crop of sub-lessee for advances made by him to sub-lessee, Ibid.

Landlord’s lien may be given up, but contract to give it up, in order to be enforced, must be based upon consideration: Sugg v. Farrar, 107:123. Although lien of landlord for advances is superior to that of third party making advances to tenant, nevertheless, such priority exists only for advances made, or rents accrued, during year in which crops were made, and not for balance due for antecedent year: Fleming v. Davenport, 116:153; Ballard v. Johnson, 114:141.

Except in case of landlord and tenant, provided for specially by section, lessor has no lien upon products of leased property as rent: Howland v. Forlaw, 108:567—it is for all purposes, until division, deemed vested in tenant, and his sale to third persons before rent ascertained and set apart conveys good title, Ibid.

POSSESSION AND TITLE TO CROP. All crops raised on land, whether by tenant or cropper, are deemed to be vested in landlord, in absence of agreement to contrary, until rent and advancements paid: State v. Austin, 123:749; Boone v. Darden, 109:74; Smith v. Tindall, 107:88; State v. Smith, 106:654; Durham v. Speeke, 82:90—and an attempt to appropriate and carry off crop may be repelled by landlord by force, provided no more force is used than necessary to protect his possession, State v. Austin, 123:759. Although constructive possession of crop is vested by section in landlord, yet during cultivation, and for all purposes of making and gathering crop, actual possession is in tenant until rent and advances become due, or division can be had: Jordan v. Bryan, 103:59; State v. Townsend, 170:696.

For lessor’s protection, as between him and tenant, possession of crop deemed vested in lessor: State v. Higgins, 126:1112; State v. Keith, 126:1114; Bridges v. Dill, 97:222; Kesler v. Corinolixon, 98:383—but as between tenant and third parties, tenant entitled to possession and crop, Ibid. Until division of crop and possession by tenant of his share, tenant can not convey legal title to purchaser: McNeely v. Hart, 32:63. Section gives landlord title to crop until rent actually paid (whether claim be reduced to judgment or not) and such title not impaired by fact that tenant conveys crop to third person, who takes without notice of landlord’s claim: Belcher v. Grimsley, 88:88. Tenant may in good faith, for purpose of preserving crop, sever it from land and remove it to place of security upon land upon which produced, without notice to landlord: State v. Williams, 106:646.
Where occupant of land is vendee or mortgagor in default, though he may for some purposes be considered a tenant at will, he is not a lessee whose crop, under section, is vested in landlord: Taylor v. Taylor, 112-27.

Landlord who has agreed to take portion of crop, or specified sum of money as rental, and has received part of rental in money, is entitled to possession of whole crop until rent satisfied: McGehee v. Breedlove, 122-277.

When cropper abandons before maturity, he forfeits all interest in crop, which becomes fully the property of landlord: Beneom v. Boing, 126-136.

DIVISION OF CROP. Cropper cannot convey legal title to his share of crop to third person before actual division and appropriation: McNeely v. Hart, 32-63. Where in contract between landlord and tenant no time was fixed for division of crop, landlord was not obliged to wait until whole crop had been gathered, but had right to bring action for possession of crop before it was fully harvested: Rich v. Hobson, 112-79. Proper course, ordinarily, between landlord and tenant, is to have crops divided as they are gathered, subject to convenience and interest of parties, and as soon as reasonably can be: Smith v. Tindall, 107-88. Landlord was entitled to have his crop, that is, enough for rent and advancements, gathered at time he demands it, and he was not obliged to wait for division until whole crop was gathered, Ibid.

Where, by agreement between landlord and tenant, advances made by former to latter should be due and demandable "when all crops gathered and divided," but no agreement as to time when they should be divided, landlord's right to demand rent and pay for advances did not accrue until crop gathered and ready for division: Jordan v. Bryan, 103-59—and where he divided corn with tenant, who removed his share thereof, landlord waived and lost his lien on defendant's share, Ibid.

Where landlord and tenant set apart share of crop for tenant to have upon paying advances due upon it, and tenant told not to move such share until lien paid off, there was no such division as to divest lien of landlord: Jarrell v. Daniel, 114-212.

Where it does not appear that mule sold to tenant was part of supplies advanced by landlord, mortgage creditor has prior lien on crop as to it, and landlord could not retain crops for its purchase money: Branch v. Galloway, 105-193—use of mule in cultivation of crops not necessarily making it an advancement, Ibid.

Where landlord, who had lien on certain property, directed purchaser of such property from tenant to pay purchase money to tenant, but revoked order before same paid, there being no consideration for the order, and no change of status of parties, and purchaser afterwards paid money to tenant, landlord entitled to recover value of property from purchaser: Sugg v. Farrar, 107-123.

Landlord liable to account to person advancing supplies to tenant for value of crops in excess of his lien: Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142.

Landlord's lien for rent takes priority of mortgage for advancements, especially when parties contract that landlord's lien for rent shall be retained: Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-444.

After forfeiture, mortgagee can by contract become landlord of mortgagor so as to avail himself of landlord's lien which, though such contract be oral and unregistered, has priority over supplies furnished by third persons who by registration of mortgage are fixed with notice of mortgagee's default and mortgagee's right of entry: Ford v. Green, 121-70.

REMEDY TO RECOVER POSSESSION. Action will lie, not only where crop removed from land leased, but also in a case where tenant or cropper or any other person takes crops into his absolute possession and denies right of landlord thereto: Livingston v. Farish, 89-140. If tenant at any time before satisfying landlord's liens for rent and advances, removes crop or any part of it, he becomes liable civilly and criminally: Jordan v. Bryan, 103-59. landlord cannot bring claim and delivery for crop before time fixed for division, unless tenant about to remove or dispose of crop, or to abandon growing crop: Ibid.; see Smith v. Tindall, 107-88.

Landlord may bring claim and delivery to recover possession of crops raised by tenant or cropper, where his right of possession denied: Livingston v. Farish, 89-140—or may resort to 1038 any other appropriate remedy to enforce his lien for rent due and advances made, Ibid.—and may bring action in nature of trover, Alsbrook v. Shields, 67-323.

Crops produced by tenant being vested in lessor until rents shall be paid, he can maintain an action for recovery of an undivided portion, and it is not necessary that he shall specially designate in his complaint or affidavit in claim and delivery such undivided part: Boone v. Darden, 109-74.

As to jurisdiction of actions under section, see Durant v. Tyler, 89-351; Montague v. Mial, 89-137; Deloach v. Coman, 90-186; Foster v. Penny, 76-131; State v. Surles, 74-33.

2356. Rights of tenant. When the lessor or his assigns gets the actual possession of the crop or any part thereof otherwise than by the mode prescribed in the preceding section, and refuses or neglects, upon a notice, written or oral, of five days, given by the lessee or cropper or the assigns of either, to make a fair division of said crop, or to pay over to such lessee or cropper or the assigns of either, such part thereof as he may be entitled to under the lease or agreement, then and in that case the lessee or cropper or the assigns of either is entitled to the remedies against the lessor or his assigns given in an action upon a claim for the delivery of personal property to recover such part of the crop as he, in law and according to the lease or agreement, may be entitled to. The amount or quantity of such crop claimed by said lessee or cropper or the assigns of either, together with a statement of the grounds upon which it is claimed, shall be fully set forth in an affidavit at the beginning of the action.

Rev., s. 1994; Code, s. 1755; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 2.

Where cropper dies before harvesting his crop his personal representatives are entitled to recover his share of the crop: Parker v. Brown, 136-280.

When lessee wrongfully deprived of actual possession of crop by lessor, he is left to his civil remedy for the breach of trust, should lessor refuse to account: State v. Keith, 126-1114—and can resort to claim and delivery after five days notice, State v. Austin, 123-751; Boone v. Darden, 109-78; Wilson v. Respass, 86-112.

Right of cropper to receive his portion of crops is protected by section, which for certain purposes creates lien in his favor, and which will be enforced against employer, or landlord, or his assigns: Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229—and which has precedence over agricultural liens made subsequent to contract, but before crop harvested, Ibid.

Where landlord took crop into his sole possession, refusing to divide same when demanded, on ground that crop was not in condition for division, but not denying tenant's right to division, and crop destroyed by fire while in his possession, tenant cannot maintain action in nature of trover against him: Shearin v. Rigsbee, 97-216.

Lessor has no right, where there is no agreement to that effect, to take actual possession from lessee or cropper, and can never do so, except when he obtains same by action of claim and delivery, upon removal of crop by lessee or cropper: State v. Copeland, 86-694.

2357. Action to settle disputes between parties. When any controversy arises between the parties, and neither party avails himself of the provisions of this chapter, it is competent for either party to proceed at once to have the matter determined in the court of a justice of the peace, if the amount claimed is two hundred dollars or less, and in the superior court of the county where the property is situate if the amount so claimed is more than two hundred dollars.

Widow of tenant cultivating land on shares, after crop allotted to her in her year's support, may maintain action for conversion against landlord: Parker v. Brown, 136-280—and not compelled to resort to remedy prescribed by section, Parker v Brown, 136-287—but may bring 2358. Tenant's undertaking on continuance or appeal. In case there is a continuance or an appeal from the justice's decision to the superior court, the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, shall be allowed to retain possession of said property upon his giving an undertaking to the lessor or his assigns, or the adverse party, in a sum double the amount of the claim, if such claim does not amount to more than the value of such property, otherwise to double the value of such property, with good and sufficient surety, to be approved by the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court, conditioned for the faithful payment to the adverse party of such damages as he shall recover in said action.

See annotations under section 2357.

2359. Crops delivered to landlord on his undertaking. In case the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, at the time of the appeal or continuance mentioned in the preceding section, fails to give the undertaking therein required, then the constable or other lawful officer shall deliver the property into the actual possession of the lessor or his assigns, upon the lessor or his assigns giving to the adverse party an undertaking in double the amount of said property, to be justified as required in the preceding section, conditioned for the forthcoming of such property, or the value thereof, in case judgment is pronounced against him.

Rev., s. 1996; Code, s. 1757; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 4.

Where lessor solvent and required to give bond of indemnity, court will not restrain him from selling crop: Wilson v. Respass, 86-112.

Section merely referred to in Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229.

2360. Crops sold, if neither party gives undertaking. If neither party gives the undertaking described in the two preceding sections, it is the duty of the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court to issue an order to the constable or sheriff, or other lawful officer, directing him to take into his possession all of said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the claimant's demand and costs, and to sell the same under the rules and regulations prescribed by law for the sale of personal property under execution, and to hold the proceeds thereof subject to the decision of the court upon the issue or issues pending between the parties.

Landlord’s lien extends to and includes cost of such legal proceedings as are necessary to recover rents: Slaughter v. Winfrey, 85-159—and tenant has no property therein which he can claim as his constitutional exemption as against such costs, Ibid.

2361. Tenant’s crop not subject to execution against landlord. Whenever servants and laborers in agriculture shall by their contracts orally or in writing be entitled, for wages, to a part of the crops cultivated by them, such part shall not be subject to sale under executions against their employers, or the owners of the land cultivated.

Rev., s. 1998; Code, s. 1796.

Section referred to in Tedder vy. R. R., 124-344.

2362. Unlawful seizure by landlord or removal by tenant misdemeanor. If any landlord shall unlawfully, willfully, knowingly and without process of law, and unjustly seize the crop of his tenant when there is nothing due him, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, or any other person, shall remove a crop, or any part thereof, from land without the consent of the lessor or his assigns, and without giving him or his agent five days notice of such intended removal, and before satisfying all the liens held by the lessor or his assigns, on said crop, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 3664, 3665; Code, s. 1759; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 6; 1883, c. 83.

LANDLORD’S LIABILITY. The word ‘‘crop’’ includes that which is ungathered as well as gathered, and a charge against the landlord for seizing ‘‘corn growing and unmatured in the field’’ is sufficient: State v. Townsend, 170-696.

It is not essential that the landlord should take forcible or even manual possession of tenant’s crop. The offense is complete if he secures such control over crop as to prevent tenant’s removing his part in a peaceable manner: State v. Ewing, 108-755. Section cited in State v. Williams, 106-649.

TENANT’S LIABILITY. This section extends to and protects receivers charged with the management of lands: State v. Turner, 106-691. Lessor who has sold his interest in crop to another, indictable for removing hereunder: State v. Rose, 90-712.

Tenant cannot set up as a defense the landlord’s breach of contract, whereby he owes the landlord nothing: State v. Bell, 136-674, overruling State v. Neal, 129-692. If tenant aids and abets subtenant in removing a crop before paying the lien of the landlord, he is guilty: State v. Crook, 132-1053. As to punishment, see State v. Powell, 94-920.

Landlord’s right to lien is not impaired by sub-letting: Montague v. Mial, 89-137.

See generally: State v. Long, 78-571. As to whether hay is part of crop, see State v. Crook, 132-1053.

INDICTMENT. Sufficiency of, generally: State v. Turner, 106-971; State v. Walker, 87-541; State v. Rose, 90-712. Sufficient to aver that the act was done ‘‘wilfully and unlawfully’’: State v. Pender, 83-651. Should aver removal ‘‘before satisfying all liens held by the lessor or his assigns on said crop’’: State v. Merritt, 89-506; State v. Rose, 90-712—‘‘without having given any notice of such intended removal’’ is sufficient, State v. Powell, 94-920. Not necessary to aver that landlord had a lien on said crop: State v. Smith, 106-653—not necessary to negative any agreement between the parties that crop should not be subject to statutory liens, State v. Turner, 106-691.

EVIDENCE. Offense not complete unless failure to give notice is proved; and it may be proved by any competent evidence; it is not necessary that it be proved by the landlord, his agent or assignee: State v. Crowder, 97-432.

INTENT. The tenant may sever and remove crop, for purpose of preserving it, to a place of security upon land upon which it was produced; but if he removes it from land, he is guilty, and the intent is not an essential element: State v. Williams, 106-646; see, also, Varner v. Spencer, 72-381; compare State v. Pender, 83-651.
VARIANCE. State v. Ray, 92-810. No variance where the allegation was that A. was owner of the land and the landlord, and the proof was that A. was landlord, but that he rented the land of another: State v. Foushee, 117-766.

COMPARE. Cropper cannot be guilty of larceny for secretly appropriating crop, while it is in his possession: State v. Copeland, 86-691; State v. McCoy, 89-466—but he is guilty of larceny for such an appropriation after his possession has terminated by delivery to landlord: State v. Webb, 87-555; State v. King, 98-649.

2363. Turpentine and lightwood leases. This chapter shall apply to all leases or contracts to lease turpentine trees, or use lightwood for purposes of making tar, and the parties thereto shall be fully subject to the provisions and penalties of this chapter.

Rev., s. 1999; Code, s. 1762; 18938, c. 517; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 7.

Where A. agrees to allow B. to cultivate pine trees where A. lives for a year to enable him to make and save turpentine, and for compensation B. is to have one-half of turpentine, this is not a lease of land or of trees: Denton v. Strickland, 48-61.

2364. Mining and timber land leases. If in a lease of land for mining, or of timbered land for the purpose of manufacturing the timber into goods, rent is reserved, and if it is agreed in the lease that the minerals, timber or goods, or any portion thereof, shall not be removed until the payment of the rent, in such case the lessor shall have the rights and be entitled to the remedy given by this chapter.

Rev., s. 2000; Code, s. 1763; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 16.

A timber option or purchase is not a leasehold interest: Timber Co. v. Wells, 171-262.

Art. 3. Summary Ejectment

2365. Tenant holding over may be dispossessed in certain cases. Any tenant or lessee of any house or land, and the assigns under the tenant or legal representatives of such tenant or lessee, who holds over and continues in the possession of the demised premises, or any part thereof, without the permission of the landlord, and after demand made for its surrender, may be removed from such premises in the manner hereinafter prescribed in either of the following cases:

Remedy by summary proceedings in ejectment before justice of peace is restricted to cases where relation between parties is that of landlord and tenant: McIver v. R. R., 163-544; Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248; McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481; Hughes v. Mason, 84-472. Where relation existing between parties is that of vendor and vendee, vendor not entitled to evict vendee by summary proceedings under section: Johnson v. Hauser, 82-375; Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248; Riley v. Jordan, 75-180; McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481.

Where defendant held under an agreement to pay rent and an option to purchase which he had failed to comply with, the section applies: Jerome v. Setzer, 175-391. When vendee unconditionally surrenders his rights under contract of purchase, and enters into contract of lease, he may be evicted hereunder, and it is not necessary that he should actually surrender possession of land and receive it again at hands of lessor: Riley v. Jordan, 75-180. That vendee remained silent when contract of sale of land was mutilated under direction of vendor, is not sufficient evidence of abandonment of rights under contract, nor of change of relations from vendor and vendee to landlord and tenant to give justice of peace jurisdiction of action to summarily eject vendee: Boone v. Drake, 109-79. See, also, Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248.

Where in action under section it appeared that defendant, a slave, entered into possession of land as tenant of plaintiff, and in 1865 refused to pay further rent and disclaimed being plaintiff’s tenant, he was estopped to deny plaintiff’s title, and plaintiff was entitled to recover: Wilson v. James, 79-349.
Section does not apply to mortgagor who is allowed to remain in possession, and on demand, after default, refuses to surrender possession: Culbreth v. Hall, 159-588; Greer v. Wilbar, 72-592; McMillan v. Love, 72-18. Bargainor in deed of trust, containing stipulations for retention of possession of land conveyed until sold under terms of trust, and who holds possession after sale of premises by trustee, is not such tenant as comes within section: McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481—hence proceedings cannot be taken under section to evict him, Ibid.

This remedy does not apply when title to land is involved or the equitable rights of the parties are to be adjusted: McLaurin v. McIntyre, 167-350.

Lessee cannot resist action by lessor for recovery of land, brought after termination of lease, by showing superior title in third person or in himself acquired before or after contract: Davis v. Davis, 83-71.

Right of tenant to homestead is no defense to action to recover premises brought by landlord: Abbott v. Cromartie, 72-292.

When tenant, sued for possession, denies his tenancy, landlord not required to prove demand for possession, or that term has expired: Springs v. Schenck, 99-551.

Section merely referred to in Featherstone v. Carr, 132-800; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-450; Cottingham v. McKay, 86-241.

1. When a tenant in possession of real estate holds over after his term has expired.

Summary proceedings in ejectment before justice under subsection can only be had where simple relation of lessor and lessee exists, and there is a holding over after term: McIver v. R. R., 163-544; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Hughes v. Mason, 84-472—and jurisdiction of justice excluded where relation is that of mortgagor and mortgagee, or vendor and vendee, Ibid.; Culbreth v. Hall, 159-588; Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248; Riley v. Jordan, 75-180; McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481; Greer v. Wilbar, 72-592; McMillan v. Love, 72-18.

The issue hereunder is: Was defendant tenant of plaintiff, and does he hold over after expiration of tenancy? McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272.

Effect of acceptance of rental for period beyond term, see Vanderford v. Foreman, 129-217.

2. When the tenant or lessee, or other person under him, has done or omitted any act by which, according to the stipulations of the lease, his estate has ceased.

Summary proceeding under section begun during lessee's term cannot be maintained where contract of lease contained no condition breach of which would authorize reentry by lessor: Meroney v. Wright, 81-390—and mere failure to pay rent upon "lease at______ dollars a year, payable monthly," does not warrant such reentry: Ibid.

Subsection referred to in Parker v. Allen, 84-467. See section 2343.

3. When any tenant or lessee of lands or tenements, who is in arrear for rent, or has agreed to cultivate the demised premises and to pay a part of the crop to be made thereon as rent, or who has given to the lessor a lien on such crop as a security for the rent, deserts the demised premises, and leaves them unoccupied and uncultivated.

Rev., s. 2001; Code, ss. 1766, 1777; 4 Geo. II, c. 28; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 19; 1905, cc. 297, 299, 820.

2366. Local: Refusal to perform contract ground for dispossession. When any tenant or cropper who enters into a contract for the rental of land for the current or ensuing year willfully neglects or refuses to perform the terms of his contract without just cause, he shall forfeit his right of possession to the premises. This section applies only to the following counties: Alleghany, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Burke, Cabarrus, Camden, Carteret, Caswell, Chat-2367. Summons issued by justice on verified complaint. When the lessor or his assigns, or his or their agent or attorney, makes oath in writing, before any justice of the peace of the county in which the demised premises are situated, stating such facts as constitute one of the cases above described, and describing the premises and asking to be put in possession thereof, the justice shall issue a summons reciting the substance of the oath, and requiring the defendant to appear before him or some other justice of the county, at a certain place and time (not to exceed five days from the issuing of the summons, without the consent of the plaintiff or his agent or attorney), to answer the complaint. The plaintiff or his agent or attorney may in his oath claim rent in arrear, and damage for the occupation of the premises since the cessation of the estate of the lessee: Provided, the sum claimed shall not exceed two hundred dollars; but if he omits to make such claim, he shall not be thereby prejudiced in any other action for their recovery.

2368. Service of summons. The officer receiving such summons shall immediately serve it by the delivery of a copy to the defendant or by leaving a copy at his usual or last place of residence, with some adult person, if any such be found there; or, if the defendant has no usual place of residence in the county and cannot be found therein, by fixing a copy on some conspicuous part of the premises claimed.

2369. Judgment by default or confession. The summons shall be returned according to its tenor, and if on its return it appears to have been duly served, and if the defendant fails to appear, or admits the allegations of the complaint, the justice shall give judgment that the defendant be removed from, and the plaintiff be put in possession of, the demised premises; and if any rent or damages for the occupation of the premises after the cessation of the estate of the lessee, not exceeding two hundred dollars, be claimed in the oath of the plaintiff as due and unpaid, the justice shall inquire thereof, and give judgment as he may find the fact to be.

Rev., s. 2004; Code, s. 1769; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 22.

2370. Trial by justice; jury trial; judgment; execution. If the defendant by his answer denies any material allegation in the oath of the plaintiff, the justice shall hear the evidence and give judgment as he shall find the facts to be. If either party demands a trial by jury, it shall be granted under the rules prescribed by law for other trials by jury before a justice; and if the jury finds that the allegation in the plaintiff’s oath, which entitles him to be put in possession, is true, the justice shall give judgment that the defendant be removed from and the plaintiff put in possession of the demised premises, and also for such rent and damages as shall have been assessed by the jury, and for costs; and shall issue his execution to carry the judgment into effect.

Rev., s. 2005; Code, s. 1770; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 23.

Judgment for tenant is not an estoppel on landlord to extent of precluding him from showing in subsequent action advancements made prior to eviction to which he was entitled: Burwell v. Brodie, 134-540. Judgment for plaintiff is an estoppel as to the question of tenancy, and defendant cannot restrain the execution of the judgment: Isler v. Hart, 161-499.

2371. Damages assessed to trial. On appeal to the superior court, the jury trying the issue joined shall assess the damages of the plaintiff for the detention of his possession to the time of the trial in that court, and judgment for the rent in arrear and for the damages assessed may, on motion, be rendered against the sureties to the appeal.

Rev., s. 2006; Code, s. 1775; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 28.

Where an appeal is taken to superior court, rents and damages may be recovered against defendant and his sureties to the time of trial: Dunn v. Patrick, 156-248.

Section referred to in Nesbitt v. Turrentine, 83-538.

2372. Rent and costs tendered by tenant. If, in any action brought to recover the possession of demised premises upon a forfeiture for the nonpayment of rent, the tenant, before judgment given in such action, pays or tenders the rent due and the costs of the action, all further proceedings in such action shall cease. If the plaintiff further prosecutes his action, and the defendant pays into court for the use of the plaintiff a sum equal to that which shall be found to be due, and the costs, to the time of such payment, or to the time of a tender and refusal, if one has occurred, the defendant shall recover from the plaintiff all subsequent costs; the plaintiff shall be allowed to receive the sum paid into court for his use, and the proceedings shall be stayed.

Rev., s. 2007; Code, s. 1773; 4 Geo. II, c. 28, s. 4; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 26.

Tender by tenant of rent accrued after termination of lease does not preclude landlord from recovering possession: Vanderford v. Foreman, 129-217. Acceptance by landlord of rent accruing after termination of lease, after suit for possession, does not preclude landlord from recovering: Ibid.

2373. Undertaking on appeal; when to be increased. Either party may appeal from the judgment of the justice, as is prescribed in other cases of appeal from the judgment of a justice; but no execution commanding the removal of a defendant from the possession of the demised premises shall be suspended until the defendant gives an undertaking in an amount not less than one year's rent of the premises, with sufficient surety, who shall justify and be approved by the justice, to be void if the defendant pays any judgment which in that or any other action the plaintiff may recover for rent, and for damages for the detention of the land. At any term of the superior court of the county in which such appeal is docketed after the lapse of one year from the date of the filing of the undertaking above mentioned, the tenant, after legal notice to that end has been duly executed on him, may be required to show cause why said undertaking should not be increased to an amount sufficient to cover rents and damages for such period as to the court may seem proper, and if such tenant fails to show proper cause and does not file such bond for rents and damages as the court may direct, or make affidavit that he is unable so to do and show merits, his appeal shall be dismissed and the judgment of the justice of the peace shall be affirmed.

Rev., s. 2008; Code, s. 1772; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 25; 1883, c. 316.

Where enjoined from bringing actions upon each installment of rent as vexatious, such person not precluded thereby from issuing execution on judgment for recovery of property after expiration of lease: Featherstone v. Carr, 134-66. As to action against sureties on undertaking, see Blackmore v. Winders, 144-212. Should bonds become impaired, or if litigation should become protracted to such an extent as to require additional security to protect plaintiffs in their rents, superior court can require additional security under section: Featherstone v. Carr, 132-802. Justice has discretion as to sufficiency of surety upon undertaking, which judge will not review in absence of any suggestion that justice acted dishonestly or capriciously: Steadman v. Jones, 65-388. As bearing upon section, see Rollins v. Henry, 76-269; Dunn v. Patrick, 156-248.

2374. Restitution of tenant, if case quashed, etc., on appeal. If the proceedings before the justice are brought before a superior court and quashed, or judgment is given against the plaintiff, the superior or other court in which final judgment is given shall, if necessary, restore the defendant to the possession, and issue such writs as are proper for that purpose.

Rev., s. 2009; Code, s. 1774; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 27.

As to writ of restitution generally, see Railroad v. Railroad, 108-304. Where party put out of possession of land under judgment which is afterwards reversed or set aside, court will restore party to possession of land: Lytle v. Lytle, 94-522. Where in action before justice judgment rendered for plaintiff, who was put into possession, but on appeal to superior court, judgment for defendant, defendant entitled to writ of restitution as part of judgment: Moroney v. Wright, 84-336. Whenever party put out of possession by process of law, and proceedings adjudged void, order for writ of restitution is part of judgment, and should be made: Perry v. Tupper, 70-538.

2375. Damages to tenant for dispossession, if proceedings quashed, etc. If, by order of the justice, the plaintiff is put in possession, and the proceedings shall afterwards be quashed or reversed, the defendant may recover damages of the plaintiff for his removal.

Rev., s. 2010; Code, s. 1776; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 30.

Under section, tenant who secures reversal of summary proceedings against him may have damages for eviction assessed in original or in a separate action: Burwell v. Brodie, 134-540. As to complaint in action hereunder, see Ibid.

If the defendant admits part of the allegations of plaintiff, but not all, the judgment must be varied accordingly; for example: follow the foregoing to the asterisk (*), and then proceed:

And whereas the defendant appears and admits the first and second allegations of the plaintiff, and denies the residue; and whereas both parties waived a trial by jury, I heard evidence upon the matters in issue, and find (here state the findings on the matters in issue separately).

Supposing the findings are for the plaintiff, the record would proceed:

I therefore adjudge that the defendant (and so on from the asterisk (*).

Therefore, I adjudge, etc. (as in form No. 5, from asterisk (*).

If either party appeals, the justice will enter on his docket as follows, altering the entry according to the facts:

From the foregoing judgment the plaintiff (or defendant, as the case may be) prayed an appeal to the next superior court of said county, which is allowed.

For the purpose of enabling all persons owning real estate within this state to have the title thereto settled and registered, as prescribed by the provisions of this chapter, the superior court of the county in which the land lies in the state shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all petitions and proceedings had thereupon, under the rules of practice and procedure prescribed for special proceedings except as herein otherwise provided.

1913, c. 90, s. 1.

This statute is remedial in its nature and should be liberally construed to carry out its intent: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65. The power of the court as to making parties and allowing amendments the same as in other proceedings: Mfg. Co. v. Spruill, 169-618.

2378. Proceedings in rem; vests title. The proceedings under any petition for the registration of land, and all proceedings in the court in relation to registered land, shall be proceedings in rem against the land, and the decrees of the court shall operate directly on the land, and vest and establish title thereto in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

1913, c. 90, s. 2.

2379. Rules of practice prescribed by attorney-general. The attorney-general, with the approval of the supreme court, shall from time to time make, change, revise and revoke rules of practice in the superior court for the administration of this chapter. He shall in like manner prescribe forms for use in such court, and in the notation of the registry of titles of memorials, claims, liens, lis pendens, and all other involuntary charges upon and to such registered lands. Whenever a question shall arise in the administration of this chapter as to the proper method of protecting or asserting any right or interest under the law, and the method of procedure is in doubt, it shall be the duty of the clerk or register of deeds to notify the attorney-general, who, with the approval of the supreme court, shall prescribe a rule covering such case.

1913, c. 90, s. 31.

ART. 2. OFFICERS AND FEES

2380. Examiners appointed by clerk. The clerk of the superior court of each county shall appoint three or more examiners of titles, who shall be licensed attorneys at law, residing in the state of North Carolina. They shall qualify by taking oath before the clerk to faithfully discharge the duties of such office, which oath shall be filed in the office of the clerk. The term of office shall be two years. Examiners of titles shall have and exercise the jurisdiction and perform the duties hereinafter prescribed, and receive the fees herein provided. They shall not appear in or have any connection with any proceeding instituted under the provisions of this chapter, and they shall be subject to removal at will by such clerk or judge of the superior court.

2381. Fees of officers. The fees to be allowed the clerks and sheriffs in this proceeding shall be the same as now allowed by law to clerks and sheriffs in other special proceedings. The examiner hereinbefore provided for shall receive, as may be allowed by the clerk, a minimum fee of five dollars for such examination of each title of property assessed upon the tax books at the amount of five thousand dollars or less; for each additional thousand dollars of assessed value of property so examined he shall receive fifty cents; for examination outside of the county he shall receive a reasonable allowance. There shall be allowed to the register of deeds for copying the plot upon registration of titles book one dollar; for issuing the certificate and new certificates under this chapter, fifty cents for each; for noting the entries or memorandum required and for the entries noting the cancellation of mortgages and all other entries, if any, herein provided for, a total of twenty-five cents for the entry or entries connected with one transaction. The county or other surveyor employed under the provisions of this chapter shall not be allowed to charge more than forty cents per hour for his time actually employed in making the survey and the map, except by agreement with the petitioner: Provided, however, that a minimum fee of two dollars in any case may be allowed. There shall be no other fees allowed of any nature except as herein provided, and the bond of the register, clerk and sheriff shall be liable in case of any mistake, malfeasance, or misfeasance as to the duties imposed upon them by this chapter in as full a manner as such bond is now liable by law.

1913, c. 90, s. 30.

Art. 3. Procedure for Registration

2382. Who may institute proceedings. Any person, being in the peaceable possession of land within the state and claiming an estate of inheritance therein, may prosecute a special proceeding in rem against all the world in the superior court for the county in which such land is situate, to establish his title thereto, to determine all adverse claims and have the title registered. Any number of the separate parcels of land claimed by the petitioner may be included in the same proceeding, and any one parcel may be established in several parts, each of which shall be clearly and accurately described and registered separately, and the decree therein shall operate directly upon the land and establish and vest an indefeasible title thereto. Any person in like possession of lands within the state, claiming an interest or estate less than the fee therein, may have his title thereto established under the provisions of this chapter, without the registration and transfer features herein provided.

2383. Land lying in two or more counties. In every proceeding to register title, in which it is alleged in the petition or made to appear that the land therein described, whether in one or more parcels, is situated partly in one county and partly in another, or is situated in two or more counties, that is to say, when an entire tract, or two or more entire tracts, are situated in two or more counties (but not separate or several tracts situated in different counties) it shall be competent to institute the proceedings before the clerk of the superior court of any county in which any part of such tract lying in two or more counties is situated, and said clerk shall have jurisdiction both of the parties and of the subject-matter as fully as if said land was situated wholly in his county; but upon the entry of a final decree of registration of title, the clerk by or before whom the same was rendered shall certify a copy thereof to the register of deeds of every county in which said land or any part thereof is situated, and the same shall be there filed and recorded; and every such register of deeds, upon demand of the person entitled and payment of requisite fees therefor, shall issue and deliver a certificate of title for that part of said land situated in his county. This section shall apply and become effective in all cases or proceedings heretofore conducted before any clerk of the superior court of this state for registration of title, as in this chapter authorized, when the land described in the petition as an entire tract was situated in two or more counties, as aforesaid; and upon the filing and recording of a certified copy of the final decree or decree of registration therein, the register of deeds shall issue and deliver a certificate of title to the present owner or person entitled to the same, for that part of the land situated in his county, as aforesaid, upon payment or tender of proper fees therefor.

2384. Petition filed; contents. Suit for registration of title shall be begun by a petition to the court by the persons claiming, singly or collectively, to own or have the power of appointing or disposing of an estate in fee simple in any land, whether subject to liens or not. Infants and other persons under disability may sue by guardian or trustee, as the case may be, and corporations as in other cases now provided by law; but the person in whose behalf the petition is made shall always be named as petitioner. The petition shall be signed and sworn to by each petitioner, and shall contain a full description of the land to be registered as hereinafter provided, together with a plot of same by metes and bounds, corners to be marked by permanent markers of iron, stone or cement; it shall show when, how and from whom it was acquired, and whether or not it is now occupied, and if so, by whom; and it shall give an account of all known liens, interest, equities and claims, adverse or otherwise, vested or contingent, upon such land. Full names and addresses, if known, of all persons who may be interested by marriage or otherwise, including adjoining owners and occupants, shall be given. If any person shall be unable to state the metes and bounds, the clerk may order a preliminary survey.

2385. Summons issued and served; disclaimer. The clerk of the court shall issue a summons directed to the sheriff of every county in which persons named as interested may reside, such persons being made defendants, and the summons shall be returnable as in other cases of special proceedings, except that the return shall be at least sixty days from the date of the summons. The summons shall be served at least ten days before the return thereof and the return recorded in the same manner as in other special proceedings; and all parties under disabilities shall be represented by guardian, either general or ad litem. If the persons named as interested are not residents of the state of North Carolina, and their residence is known, which must appear by affidavit, the summons must be served on such nonresidents as is now prescribed by law for service of summons on nonresidents.

Any party defendant to such proceeding may file a disclaimer of any claim or interest in the land described in the petition, which shall be deemed an admission of the allegations of the petition, and the decree shall bar such party and all persons thereafter claiming under him, and such party shall not be liable for any costs or expenses of the proceeding except such as may have been incurred by reason of his delay in pleading.

1913, c. 90, s. 6.

2386. Notice of petition published. In addition to the summons issued, prescribed in the foregoing section, the clerk of the court shall, at the time of issuing such summons, publish a notice of the filing thereof containing the names of the petitioners, the names of all persons named in the petition, together with a short but accurate description of the land and the relief demanded, in some secular newspaper published in the county wherein the land is situate, and having general circulation in the county; and if there be no such paper, then in a newspaper in the county nearest thereto and having general circulation in the county wherein the land lies, once a week for eight issues of such paper. The notice shall set forth the title of the cause and in legible or conspicuous type the words "To whom it may concern," and shall give notice to all persons of the relief demanded and the return day of the summons: Provided, that no final order or judgment shall be entered in the cause until there is proof and adjudication of publication as in other cases of publication of notice of summons. The provisions of this section, in respect to the issuing and service of summons and the publication of the notice, shall be mandatory and essential to the jurisdiction of the court to proceed in the cause: Provided, that the recital of the service of summons and publication in the decree or in the final judgment in the cause, and in the certificate issued to the petitioner as hereinafter provided, shall be conclusive evidence thereof.

1913, c. 90, s. 7; 1915, c. 128, s. 1; 1919, c. 82, s. 2.

What is sufficient publication of notice: Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167-63.

2387. Hearing and decree:

1. Referred to examiner. Upon the return day of the summons the petition shall be set down for hearing upon the pleadings and exhibits filed. If any person claiming an interest in the land described in the petition, or any lien thereon, shall file an answer, the petition and answer, together with all exhibits filed, shall be referred to the examiner of titles, who shall proceed, after notice to the petitioner and the persons who have filed answer or answered, to hear the cause upon such parol or documentary evidence as may be offered or called for and taken by him, and in addition thereto make such independent examination of the title as may be necessary. Upon his request the clerk shall issue a commission under the seal of the court for taking such testimony as shall be beyond the jurisdiction of such examiner.

2. Examiner's report. The examiner shall, within thirty days after such hearing, unless for good cause the time shall be extended, file with the clerk a report of his conclusions of law and fact, setting forth the state of such title, any liens or encumbrances thereon, by whom held, amount due thereon, together with an abstract of title to the lands and any other information in regard thereto affecting its validity.

3. Exceptions to report. Any of the parties to the proceeding may, within twenty days after such report is filed, file exceptions, either to the conclusions of law or fact. Whereupon the clerk shall transmit the record to the judge of the superior court for his determination thereof; such judge may on his own motion certify any issue of fact arising upon any such exceptions to the superior court of the county in which the proceeding is pending, for a trial of such issue by jury, and he shall so certify such issue of fact for trial by jury upon the demand of any party to the proceeding. If, upon consideration of such record, or the record and verdict of issues to be certified and tried by jury, the title be found in the petitioner, the judge shall enter a decree to that effect, ascertaining all limitations, liens, etc., declaring the land entitled to registration accordingly, and the same, together with the record, shall be docketed by the clerk of the court as in other cases, and a copy of the decree certified to the register of deeds of the county for registration as hereinafter provided. Any of the parties may appeal from such judgment to the supreme court, as in other special proceedings.

4. No judgment by default. No judgment in any proceeding under this chapter shall be given by default, but the court must require an examination of the title in every instance except as respects the rights of parties who, by proper pleadings, admit the petitioner’s claim. If, upon the return day of the summons and the day upon which the petition is set down for hearing, no answer be filed, the clerk shall refer the same to the examiner of titles, who shall, after notice to the petitioner, proceed to examine the title, together with all liens or encumbrances set forth or referred to in the petition and exhibits, and shall examine the registry of deeds, mortgages, wills, judgments, mechanic liens and other records of the county, and upon such examination he shall, as hereinbefore provided, report to the clerk the condition of the title, with a notice of liens or encumbrances thereon. The examiner shall have power to take and call for evidence in such case as fully as if the application were being contested. If the title shall be found to be in the petitioner, the clerk shall enter a decree to that effect and declaring the land entitled to registration, with entry of any limitations, liens, etc., and shall certify the same for registration, as hereinbefore provided, after approval by the judge of the superior court.

2388. Effect of decree; approval of judge. Every decree rendered as hereinbefore provided shall bind the land and bar all persons and corporations claiming title thereto or interest therein; quiet the title thereto, and shall be forever binding and conclusive upon and against all persons and corporations, including the state of North Carolina and the state board of education, whether mentioned by name in the order of publication, or included under the general description, “to whom it may concern”; and every such decree so rendered, or a duly certified copy thereof, as also the certificate of title issued thereon to the person or corporation therein named as owner, or to any subsequent transferee or purchaser, shall be conclusive evidence that such person or corporation is the owner of the land therein described, and no other evidence shall be required in any court of this state of his or its right or title thereto. It shall not be an exception to such conclusiveness that the person is an infant, lunatic or is under any disability, but such person may have recourse upon the indemnity fund hereinafter provided for, for any loss he may suffer by reason of being so concluded. Such decree shall, in addition to being signed by the clerk of the court, be approved by the judge of the superior court, who shall review the whole proceeding and have power to require any reformation of the process, pleading, decrees or entries.

In a suit brought to sell property under this statute, if the requirements are fully met the deed by the commissioners cuts off the rights of all persons, when an attorney is appointed to represent possible contingent interests under section 1744: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

Power of the judge as to review of proceedings, allowing amendments, etc.: Mfg. Co. v. Spruill, 169-618.

ART. 4. REGISTRATION AND EFFECT

2389. Manner of registration. The county commissioners of each county shall provide for the register of deeds in the county a book, to be called Registration of Titles, in which the register shall enroll, register and index, as hereinafter provided, the decree of title before mentioned and the copy of the plot contained in the petition, and all subsequent transfers of title, and note all voluntary and involuntary transactions in any wise affecting the title to the land, authorized to be entered thereon. If the title be subject to a trust condition, encumbrance or the like, the words “in trust,” “upon condition,” “subject to encumbrance,” or like appropriate insertion shall indicate the fact and fix any person dealing with such certificate with notice of the particulars of such limitations upon the title as appears upon the registry. No erasure, alteration, or amendment shall be made upon the registry after entry and issuance of a certificate of title except by order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

2390. Certificate issued. Upon the registration of such decree the register of deeds shall issue an owner’s certificate of title, under the seal of his office, which shall be delivered to the owner or his agent duly authorized, and shall be substantially as follows:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA—COUNTY OF __________________________

The certificate of __________________________

I hereby certify that the title is registered in the name of __________________________ to and situate in said county and State, described as follows: (Here describe land as in decree.)

Registered No. __________, Book No. __________, page __________

Witness my hand and seal, at office at __________ this __________ day of __________, A. D. __________

(SEAL) __________, A. D. __________

Register of Deeds.

1913, c. 90, s. 10.

2391. Certificates numbered; entries thereon. All certificates of title to land in the county shall be numbered consecutively, which number shall be retained as long as the boundaries of the land remain unchanged, and a separate page or more, with appropriate space for subsequent entries, shall be devoted to each title in the registration of titles book for the county. Every entry made upon any certificate of title in such book or upon the owner's certificate, under any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be signed by the register of deeds and minutely dated in conformity with the dates shown by the entry book.

2392. New certificate issued, if original lost. Whenever an owner's certificate of title is lost or destroyed, the owner or his personal representative may petition the court for the issuance of a new certificate. Notice of such petition shall be published once a week for four successive weeks, under the direction of the court, in some convenient newspaper, and noted upon the registry of titles, and upon satisfactory proof having been exhibited before it that the certificate has been lost or destroyed the court may direct the issuance of a new certificate, which shall be approximately designated and take the place of the original, but at least thirty full days shall elapse between the filing of the petition and making the decree for such new certificate.

2393. Registered owner's estate free from adverse claims; exceptions. Every registered owner of any estate or interest in land bought under this chapter shall, except in cases of fraud to which he is a party or in which he is a privy, without valuable consideration paid in good faith, and except when any registration has been procured through forgery, hold the land free from any and all adverse claims, rights or encumbrances not noted on the certificate of title, except (1) liens, claims or rights arising or existing under the laws or constitution of the United States which the statutes of this state cannot require to appear of record under registry laws; (2) taxes and assessments thereon due the state or any county, city or town therein, but not delinquent; (3) any lease for a term not exceeding three years, under which the land is actually occupied.

2394. Adverse claims existing at initial registry; affidavit; limitation of action. Any person making any claim to or asserting any lien or charge upon registered land, existing at the initial registry of the same and not shown upon the register or adverse to the title of the registered owner, and for which no other provision is herein made for asserting the same in the registry of titles, may make an affidavit thereof setting forth his interest, right, title, lien or demand, and how and under whom derived, and the character and nature thereof. The affidavit shall state his place of residence and designate a place at which all notices relating thereto may be served. Upon the filing of such affidavit in the office of the clerk of the superior court, the clerk shall order a note thereof as in the case of charges or encumbrances, and the same shall be entered by the register of deeds. Action shall be brought upon such claim within six months after the entry of such note, unless for cause shown the clerk shall extend the time. Upon failure to commence such action within the time prescribed therefor, the clerk shall order a cancellation of such note. If any person shall wantonly or maliciously or without reasonable cause procure such notation to be entered upon the registry of titles, having the effect of a cloud upon the registered owner’s title, he shall be liable for all damages the owner may suffer thereby.

1913, c. 90, s. 25.

2395. Decree and registration run with the land. The obtaining of a decree of registration and the entry of a certificate of title shall be construed as an agreement running with the land, and the same shall ever remain registered land, subject to the provisions of this chapter and all amendments thereof.

1913, c. 90, s. 26.

2396. No right by adverse possession. No title to nor right or interest in registered land in derogation of that of the registered owner shall be acquired by prescription or adverse possession.

1913, c. 90, s. 27.

2397. Jurisdiction of courts; registered land affected only by registration. Except as otherwise specially provided by this chapter, registered land and ownership therein shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the courts in the same manner as if it had not been registered; but the registration shall be the only operative act to transfer or affect the title to registered land, and shall date from the time the writing, instrument or record to be registered is duly filed in the office of the register of deeds, subject to the provisions of this chapter; no voluntary or involuntary transaction shall affect the title to registered lands until registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that all mortgages, deeds, surrendered and canceled certificates, when new certificates are issued for the land so deeded, the other paper-writings, if any, pertaining to and affecting the registered estate or estates herein referred to, shall be filed by the register of deeds for reference and information, but the registration of titles book shall be and constitute sole and conclusive legal evidence of title, except in cases of mistake and fraud, which shall be corrected in the methods now provided for the correction of papers authorized to be registered.

1913, c. 90, s. 28.

No distinction is made between creditors and purchasers under the act: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65. Registration of titles is necessary, constitutes the only operative act and is conclusive legal evidence of title: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

2398. Priority of right. In case of conflicting claims between the registered owners the right, title or estate derived from or held under the older certificate of title shall prevail.

1913, c. 90, s. 29.

2399. Compliance with this chapter due registration. When the provisions of this chapter have been complied with, all conveyances, deeds, contracts to convey or leases shall be considered duly registered, as against creditors and purchasers, in the same manner and as fully as if the same had been registered in the manner heretofore provided by law for the registration of conveyances.

1913, c. 90, s. 32.
ART. 5. ADVERSE CLAIMS AND CORRECTIONS AFTER REGISTRATION

2400. Limitations. No decree of registration heretofore entered, and no certificate of title heretofore issued pursuant thereto, shall be adjudged invalid, revoked, or set aside, unless the action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree of registration or certificate of title issued pursuant thereto is attacked or called in question be commenced or the defense alleging the invalidity thereof be interposed within twelve months from March 10, 1919.

No decree of registration hereafter entered and no certificate of title hereafter issued pursuant thereto shall be adjudged invalid or revoked or set aside, unless the action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree or of the certificate of title issued pursuant thereto is attacked or called in question be commenced or the defense alleging the invalidity thereof be interposed within twelve months from the date of such decree.

No action or proceeding for the recovery of any right, title, interest, or estate in registered land adverse to the title established and adjudicated by any decree of registration heretofore entered shall be maintained unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date last mentioned; and no action or proceeding for the recovery of any right, title, interest, estate in registered land, adverse to the right established by any decree of registration hereafter shall be maintained unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date of such decree.

2401. Adverse claim subsequent to registry; affidavit of claim prerequisite to enforcement; limitation. Any person claiming any right, title, or interest in registered land adverse to the registered owner thereof, arising subsequent to the date of the original decree of registration, may, if no other provision is made for registering the same, file with the register of deeds of the county in which such decree was rendered or certificate of title thereon was issued, a verified statement in writing, setting forth fully the right, title, or interest so claimed, how or from whom it was acquired, and a reference to the number, book, and page of the certificate of title of the registered owner, together with a description of the land by metes and bounds, the adverse claimant’s place of residence and his postoffice address, and, if a nonresident, he shall designate or appoint the said register of deeds to receive all notices directed to or to be served upon such adverse claimant in connection with the claim by him made, and such statement shall be noted and filed by said register of deeds as an adverse claim; but no action or proceeding to enforce such adverse claim shall be maintained unless the same be commenced within six months of the filing of the statement thereof.

2402. Suit to enforce adverse claim; summons and notice necessary. Upon the institution of any action or proceeding to enforce such adverse claim, notice thereof shall be served upon the register of deeds, who shall enter upon the registry a memorandum that suit has been brought or proceeding instituted to determine the validity of such adverse claim; and summons or notice shall be served upon the holder or claimant of the registered title or certificate or other person against whom such adverse claim is alleged, as provided by law for the institution of suits or proceedings in the courts of this state.

If no notice of the institution of an action or proceeding to enforce an adverse claim be served upon the register of deeds and upon the holder of the registered title or certificate, or other person, as aforesaid, within seven months from the date of filing the statement of adverse claim, the register of deeds shall cancel upon the registry the adverse claim so filed and make a memorandum setting out that no notice of suit or proceeding to enforce the same had been served upon him within seven months as herein required, and that such adverse claim was therefore canceled; and thereafter no action or proceeding shall be begun or maintained to enforce such adverse claim in any of the courts of this state.

2403. Judgment in suit to enforce adverse claim; register to file. The court shall certify its judgment to the register of deeds; if such adverse claim be held valid, the register of deeds shall make such entry upon the registry and upon the owner's certificate of title as may be directed by the court, or he may file and record a certified copy of the judgment or order of the court thereon; if such adverse claim be held invalid the register of deeds shall cancel such adverse claim upon the registry, noting thereon that the same was done by order or judgment of the court, or he may file and record a certified copy of the judgment or order of the court thereon.

2404. Correction of registered title; limitation of adverse claims. Any registered owner or other claimant under the registered title may at any time apply to the court in which the original decree was entered, by petition, setting out that registered interests of any description, whether vested, contingent, expectant or inchoate, have terminated and ceased, or that new interests have arisen or been created which do not appear upon the certificate, or that any error or omission was made in entering or issuing the certificate or any duplicate thereof, or that the name of any person on the certificate has been changed, or that the registered owner had married or, if registered as married, that the marriage has been terminated, or that a corporation which owned registered lands has been dissolved, without conveying the same or transferring its certificate within three years after the dissolution, or any other reasonable and proper ground of correction or relief; and such court may hear and determine the petition after notice to all parties in interest, and may make such order or decree as may be appropriate and lawful in the premises; but nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any such court to open any original decree of registration which was entered more than twelve months prior to the filing of such petition, and nothing shall be done or ordered by the court to divest or impair the title or other interest of a purchaser who holds a transfer or certificate of title for value and in good faith. No action or proceeding shall be commenced or maintained to set up or establish any right, claim, interest or estate adverse to the order or decree or certificate of title issued thereon made or entered upon any petition or other proceeding authorized by this section, unless the same shall be brought and instituted within six months from the date of such order or decree authorized by this section.

1919, c. 236, s. 1.

Art. 6. Method of Transfer

2405. When whole of land conveyed. Whenever the whole of any registered estate is transferred or conveyed the same shall be done by a transfer or conveyance upon or attached to the certificate substantially as follows:

A B and wife (giving the names of the parties owning land described in the certificate and their wives) hereby, in consideration of ____________ dollars, sell and convey to C D (giving name of purchaser) the lot or tract of land, as the case may be, described in the certificate of title hereto attached.

The same shall be signed and properly acknowledged by the parties and their wives and shall have the full force and effect of a deed in fee simple: Provided, that if the sale shall be in trust, upon condition, with power to sell or other unusual form of conveyance, the same shall be set out in the deed, and shall be entered upon the registration of titles book as hereinafter provided; that upon presentation of the transfer, together with the certificate of title, to the register of deeds, the transaction shall be duly noted and registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and certificate of title so presented shall be canceled and a new certificate with the same number issued to the purchaser thereof, which new certificate shall fully refer by number and also by name of holder to former certificate just canceled.

1913, c. 90, s. 12.

2406. Conveyance of part of registered land. The transfer of any part of a registered estate, either of an undivided interest therein or of a separate lot or parcel thereof, shall be made by an instrument of the transfer or conveyance similar in form to that herein provided for the transfer of the whole of any registered estate, to which shall be attached the certificate of title of such registered estate. In case of the transfer of an undivided interest in a registered estate, such instrument or transfer or conveyance shall accurately specify and describe the extent and amount of the interest transferred and of the interest retained, respectively. In case of a transfer of a separate lot or parcel of a registered estate, such instrument of transfer or conveyance shall describe the lot or parcel transferred either by metes and bounds or by reference to the map or plat attached thereto, and shall in every case be accompanied by a map or plat having clearly indicated thereon the boundaries of the whole of the registered estate and of the lot or parcel to be transferred.

2407. Duty of register of deeds upon part conveyance. Upon presentation to the register of deeds of an instrument of transfer or conveyance of an undivided interest in a registered estate, in proper form as above prescribed, it shall be his duty to cancel the certificate of title attached thereto and to issue to each owner a new certificate of title, each bearing the same number as the original certificate of title and accurately specifying and describing the extent and the amount of the interest retained or of the interest transferred, as the case may be. Upon presentation to the register of deeds of an instrument of transfer or conveyance of a separate lot or parcel of a registered estate, in proper form as above prescribed, it shall be his duty to cancel the certificate of title attached thereto and to issue to each owner a new certificate of title bearing a new number and describing the separate lot or parcel retained or transferred, as the case may be, either by metes and bounds or by reference to a map or plat thereto attached.

1919, c. 82, s. 4.

2408. Subdivision of registered estate. Any owner of a registered estate who may desire to subdivide the same may make application in writing to the register of deeds for the issuance of a new certificate of title for each subdivision, to which application shall be attached a map or plat having clearly indicated thereon the boundaries of the whole of the registered estate in question and of each lot or parcel for which he desires a new certificate of title. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the register of deeds, upon payment by such applicant of necessary surveyor’s fees, if any are required, and of the amount herein provided for issuing the certificates of title and recording the map, to cancel the certificate of title attached to said application and to issue to such owner new certificates of title, each bearing a new number, for each lot or parcel shown upon the said map, describing such lot or parcel in such certificates either by metes and bounds or by reference to a map or plat attached thereto.

1919, c. 82, s. 4.

2409. References and cross-references entered on register. In all cases the register of deeds shall place upon the registry of title books and upon the certificate of title of such registered estate therein, references and cross-references to the new certificates issued as above provided, in accordance with the provisions of this article, and the new certificates issued shall fully refer by number and by name of the holder to the canceled certificate in place of which they are issued.

1919, c. 82, s. 4.

2410. When land conveyed as security.

1. Whole land conveyed. Whenever the owner of any registered estate shall desire to convey same as security for debt, it may be done in the following manner, by a short form of transfer, substantially as follows, to wit:

A B and wife (giving names of all owners or holders of certificates and their wives) hereby transfer to C. D. the tract or lot of land described as No. ______ in registration of titles book for ______________ county, a certificate for the title for same being hereto attached, to secure a debt of ______________ dollars, due to ______________,
of ______________ county and state, on the __________ day of ______________, 10._____.
evidenced by bond (or otherwise as the case may be) dated the __________ day of ______________, 10._____. In case of default in payment of said debt with accrued interest, ______________ days notice of sale required.

The same shall be signed and properly acknowledged by the parties making same, and shall be presented, together with the owner’s certificate, to the register of deeds, whose duty it shall be to note upon the owner's certificate and upon the certificate of title in the registration of titles book the name of the trustee, the amount of debt, and the date of maturity of same.

2. Part of land conveyed. When a part of the registered estate shall be so conveyed, the register of deeds shall note upon the book and owner's certificate the part so conveyed, and if the same be required and the proper fee paid by the trustee, shall issue what shall be known as a partial certificate, over his hand and seal, setting out the portion so conveyed.

3. Effect of transfer. All transfers by such short form shall convey the power of sale upon due advertisement at the county courthouse and in some newspaper published in the county, or adjoining county, in the same manner and as fully as is now provided by law in the case of mortgages and deeds of trust and default therein.

4. Other encumbrances noted. All registered encumbrances, rights or adverse claims affecting the estate represented thereby shall continue to be noted, not only upon the certificate of title in the registration book, but also upon the owner's certificate, until same shall have been released or discharged. And in the event of second or other subsequent voluntary encumbrances the holder of the certificate may be required to produce such certificate for the entry thereon or attachment thereto of the note of such subsequent charge or encumbrance as provided in this article.

5. Other forms of conveyance may be used. Nothing in this section nor this chapter shall be construed to prevent the owner from conveying such land, or any part of the same, as security for a debt by deed of trust or mortgage in any form which may be agreed upon between the parties thereto, and having such deed of trust or mortgage recorded in the office of the register of deeds as other deeds of trust and mortgages are recorded; Provided, that the book and page of the record at which such deed of trust or mortgage is recorded shall be entered by the register of deeds upon the owner's certificate and also on the registration of titles book.

1913, c. 90, s. 14; 1915, c. 245.

6. Sale under lien; new certification. Upon foreclosure of such deed of trust or mortgage, or sale under execution for taxes or other lien on the land, the fact of such foreclosure or sale shall be reported by the trustee, mortgagee or other person authorized to make the same, to the register of deeds of the county in which the land lies, and, upon satisfactory evidence thereof, it shall be his duty to call in and cancel the outstanding certificate of title for the land so sold, and to issue a new certificate in its place to the purchaser or other person entitled thereto; and the production of such outstanding certificate and its surrender by the holder thereof may be compelled, upon notice to him, by motion before and order of the clerk of the superior court in the original proceeding or the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies; but the right of appeal from such order may be exercised and shall be allowed as in other special proceedings, and pending any such appeal the rights of all parties shall be preserved.
1919, c. 82, s. 5.

2411. Owner's certificate presented with transfer. In voluntary transactions the owner's certificate of title must be presented along with the writing or instrument conveying or effecting the sale, and thereupon and not otherwise the register shall be authorized to register the conveyance or other transaction upon proof of payment of all delinquent taxes or liens, if any, or if such payment be not shown the entry and new certificate shall note such taxes or liens as having priority thereto.
1913, c. 90, s. 15.

2412. Transfers probated; partitions; contracts. All transfers of registered land shall be duly executed and probated as required by law upon like con-veysances of other lands, and in all cases of change in boundary by partition, subtraction or addition of land there shall be an accurate survey and permanent marking of boundaries and accurate plots, showing the courses, distances and markings of every portion thereof, which shall be duly proved and registered as upon the initial registration. Such transfers shall be presented to the register of deeds for entry upon the registration of titles book and upon the owner's certificate within thirty days from the date thereof, or become subject to any rights which may accrue to any other person by a prior registration.
All leases or contracts affecting land for a period exceeding three years shall be in writing, duly proved before the clerk of the superior court, recorded in the register's office, and noted upon the registry and upon the owner's certificate.
1918, c. 90, ss. 15, 32.

2413. Certified copy of order of court noted. In voluntary transactions a certificate from the proper state, county or court officer, or certified copy of the order, decree or judgment of any court of competent jurisdiction shall be authority for him to order a proper notation thereof upon the registration of titles book, and for the register of deeds to note the transaction under the direction of the court.
1913, c. 90, ss. 16.

2414. Production of owner's certificate required. Whenever owner's certificate is not presented to the register along with any writing, instrument or record filed for registration under this chapter, he shall forthwith send notice by registered mail to the owner of such certificate, requesting him to produce the same in order that a memorial of the transaction may be made thereon; and such production may be required by subpoena duces tecum or by other process of the court, if necessary.
1913, c. 90, s. 17.

2415. Registration notice to all persons. Every voluntary or involuntary transaction, which if recorded, filed or entered in any clerk's office would affect unregistered land, shall, if duly registered in the office of the proper register as the case may be, and not otherwise, be notice to all persons from the time of such registration, and operate, in accordance with law and the provisions of this chapter, upon any registered land in the county of such registration.
1913, c. 90, s. 18.

2416. Conveyance of registered land in trust. Whenever a writing, instrument or record is filed for the purpose of transferring registered land in trust, or upon any equitable condition or limitation expressed therein, or for the purpose of creating or declaring a trust or other equitable interest in such land, the particulars of the trust, condition, limitation or other equitable interest shall not be entered on the certificate, but it shall be sufficient to enter in the book and upon the certificates a memorial thereof by the terms "in trust" or "upon condition" or in other apt words, and to refer by number to the writing, instrument or record authorizing or creating the same. And if express power is given to sell, encumber or deal with the land in any manner, such power shall be noted upon the certificates by the term "with power to sell" or "with power to encumber," or by other apt words.

2417. Authorized transfer of equitable interests registered. No writing or instrument for the purpose of transferring, encumbering or otherwise dealing with equitable interests in registered land shall be registered unless the power thereto enabling has been expressly conferred by or has been reserved in the writing or instrument creating such equitable instrument, or has been declared to exist by the decree of some court of competent jurisdiction, which decree must also be registered.

1913, c. 90, s. 20.

ART. 7. LIENS UPON REGISTERED LANDS

2418. Docketed judgments. Whenever any judgment of the superior court of the county in which the registered estate is situated shall be duly docketed in the office of the clerk of the superior court, it shall be the duty of the clerk to certify the same to the register of deeds. The register of deeds shall thereupon enter the certificate of title, the date, and the amount of the judgment, and the same shall be a lien upon such land as fully as such docketed judgment would be a lien upon unregistered lands of the judgment debtor.

2419. Notice of delinquent taxes filed. It shall be the duty of the sheriff or other collector of taxes or assessments of each county and town, not later than the first day of March in each year, to file an exact memorandum of the delinquency, if any, of any registered land for the nonpayment of the taxes or assessments thereon, including the penalty therefor, in the office of the register of deeds for registration; and if such officer fails to perform such duty, and there shall be subsequent to such day a transfer of the land as hereinbefore provided, the grantee shall acquire a good title free from any lien for such taxes and assessments, and such sheriff or other collector of taxes and his sureties shall be liable for the payment of the taxes and assessments with the penalty and interest thereon.

2420. Sale of land for taxes; redemption. Whenever any sale of registered land is made for delinquent taxes or levies, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer to make such sale forthwith, to file a memorandum thereof for registration in the office of the register of deeds; and thereupon the registered owner shall be required to produce his certificate for cancellation, and a new owner's certificate shall be issued in favor of the purchaser, and the land shall be transferred on the land books to the name of such purchaser, unless such delinquent charges and all penalties and interest thereon be paid in full within ninety days after date of such sale; but a note shall be entered upon the certificate of title and also upon any such new owner's certificate, reserving the privilege of redemption in accordance with the law. In case of any redemption under this section of land sold for taxes, a note of the fact shall be duly registered, and if an owner's certificate has been issued to any purchaser, the same shall be canceled and a new one shall be issued to the person who has redeemed.

2421. Sale of unredeemed land; application of proceeds. If there be no redemption of land under the preceding section, in accordance with the law, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other collector of taxes in the county or town in which the land lies to sell the same at public auction for cash, first giving such notice of the time and place of sale as is prescribed for execution sales, and the proceeds of sale shall be applied, first, to the payment of all taxes and assessments then due to the state, county and town, with interest, penalty and costs; second, to the payment of all sums paid by any person who purchased at the former tax sale, with interest and the additional sum of five dollars; third, to the payment of a commission to the officer making the sale of five per centum on the first three hundred dollars and two per centum on the residue of the proceeds; fourth, to the satisfaction of any liens other than the taxes and assessments registered against the land in the order of their priorities; fifth, and the surplus, if any, to the person in whose name the land was previous to sale for taxes, subject to redemption as provided herein, his heirs, personal representatives or assigns. A note of the sale under this section shall be duly registered, and a certificate shall be entered and an owner's certificate issued in favor of the purchaser in whom title shall be thereby vested as registered owner, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to affect or divert the title of a tenant in reversion or remainder to any real estate which has been returned delinquent and sold on account of the default of the tenant for life in paying the taxes or assessments thereon.

1913, c. 90, s. 23.

ART. 8. ASSURANCE FUND

2422. Assurance fund provided; investment. Upon the original registration of land and also upon the entry of certificate showing the title as registered owners in heirs or devisees, there shall be paid to the clerk of the court one-tenth of one per cent of the assessed value of the land for taxes, as an assurance fund, which shall be paid over to the state treasurer, who shall be liable therefor upon his official bond as for other moneys received by him in his official capacity. He shall keep all the principal and interest of such fund invested, except as required for the payment of indemnities, in bonds and securities of the United States, of this state, or of counties and other municipalities within the state. Such investment shall be made upon the advice and concurrence of the governor and council of state, and he shall make report of such funds and the investment thereof to the general assembly biennially.

1913, c. 90, s. 33.
2423. Action for indemnity. Any person who, without negligence on his part, sustains loss or damage or is deprived of land, or of any estate or interest therein, through fraud or negligence or in consequence of any error, omission, mistake, misfeasance, or misdescription in any certificate of title or in any entry or memorandum in the registration book, and who, by the provisions of this chapter, is barred or in any way precluded from bringing an action for the recovery of such land or interest or estate therein or claim upon same, may bring an action in the superior court of the county in which the land is situate for the recovery of compensation for such loss or damage from the assurance fund. Such action shall be against the state treasurer and all other persons who may be liable for the fraud, negligence, omission, mistake or misfeasance; but if such claimant has the right of action or other remedy for the recovery of the land, or of the estate or interest therein, or of the claim upon same, he shall exhaust such remedy before resorting to the assurance fund.

2424. Satisfaction by third person or by treasurer. If there are defendants other than the state treasurer, and judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the treasurer and some or all of the other defendants, execution shall first be issued against the other defendants, and if such execution is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part, and the officer returning the same shall certify that it cannot be collected from the property and effects of the other defendants, or if the judgment be against the treasurer only, the clerk of the court shall certify the amount due on the execution to the state auditor, who shall issue his warrant therefor upon the state treasurer, and the same shall be paid. In all such cases the treasurer may employ counsel who shall receive reasonable compensation for his services from the assurance fund.

1913, c. 90, s. 35.

2425. Payment by treasurer, if assurance fund insufficient. If the assurance fund shall be insufficient at any time to meet the amount called for by any such certificate, the treasurer shall pay the same from any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; and in such case any amount thereafter received by the treasurer on account of the assurance fund shall be transferred to the general funds of the treasury until the amount advanced shall have been paid.

1913, c. 90, s. 36.

2426. Treasurer subrogated to right of claimant. In every case of payment by the treasurer from the assurance funds under the provisions of this chapter the treasurer shall be subrogated to all the rights of the plaintiff against all and every other person or property or securities to a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in benefit of the assurance fund.

1913, c. 90, s. 37.

2427. Assurance fund not liable for breach of trust; limit of recovery. The assurance fund shall not be liable to pay any loss, damage or deprivation occasioned by a breach of trust, whether expressed, constructive or implied, by any registered owner who is a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in a mortgage or deed of trust. Nor shall any plaintiff recover as compensation under the provisions of this chapter more than the fair market value of the land at the time when he suffered the loss, damage or deprivation thereof. 1913, c. 90, s. 38.

2428. Statute of limitation as to assurance fund. Action for compensation from the assurance fund shall be begun within three years from the time the cause of action accrued. In cases of infancy or other disability now recognized by law, persons under such disability shall have one year after the removal of such disability within which to begin the action. 1913, c. 90, s. 39.
CHAPTER 48

LIBEL AND SLANDER

2429. Libel against newspaper; notice before action. Before any action, either civil or criminal, is brought for the publication, in a newspaper or periodical, of a libel, the plaintiff or prosecutor shall at least five days before instituting such action serve notice in writing on the defendant, specifying the article and the statements therein which he alleges to be false and defamatory.

Rev., s. 2012; 1901, c. 557.

For pleadings in libel and slander, see section 542.

Complaint must allege five days notice to defendant in writing, specifying article and false statements therein: Williams v. Smith, 134-249; Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. Effect of failure to give notice: Ibid. Where newspaper publishes retraction, no notice as required hereunder need be given: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. Failure of complaint to allege the five days notice is demurrable: Ibid.—and where demurrer sustained, plaintiff entitled to amend, Ibid.; Williams v. Smith, 134-249.

2430. Effect of publication in good faith and retraction. If it appears upon the trial that said article was published in good faith, that its falsity was due to an honest mistake of the facts, and that there were reasonable grounds for believing that the statements in said article were true, and that within ten days after the service of said notice a full and fair correction, apology and retraction was published in the same editions or corresponding issues of the newspaper or periodical in which said article appeared, and in as conspicuous place and type as was said original article, then the plaintiff in such case, if a civil action, shall recover only actual damages, and if, in a criminal proceeding, a verdict of “guilty” is rendered on such a state of facts, the defendant shall be fined a penny and the costs, and no more.

Where statute for libel applies equally to all newspapers and periodicals, it does not amount to unconstitutional discrimination: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628.

Provision of section taking away from person right to recover punitive damage is constitutional: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. Where paper pleaded retraction of publication, it is necessary for it also to show that publication was made in good faith, and with reasonable ground to believe same to be true, in order to remove it from punitive damages: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. “Actual damages” includes pecuniary loss, physical pain, mental suffering and injury to reputation: Ibid.—and is property, while punitive damages is not property, Ibid.

2431. Anonymous communications. The two preceding sections shall not apply to anonymous communications and publications.

Rev., s. 2014; 1901, c. 557, s. 3.

Article signed “Smith” is not anonymous publication: Williams v. Smith, 134-249.

2432. Charging innocent woman with incontinency. Whereas doubts have arisen whether actions of slander can be maintained against persons who may attempt, in a wanton and malicious manner, to destroy the reputation of innocent and unprotected women, whose very existence in society depends upon the unsullied purity of their character, therefore any words written or spoken of a woman, which may amount to a charge of incontinency, shall be actionable.

Rev., s. 2015; Code, s. 3763; R. C., c. 106; 1808, c. 478.

For criminal libel and slander, see Crimes and Punishments, Art. 13.

"Innocent" woman means one who has never had actual illicit intercourse with a man: State v. Misenheimer, 123-758; State v. Malloy, 115-737; State v. Hinson, 103-374; State v. Brown, 100-519; State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Grigg, 104-882; State v. Ferguson, 107-849.

Words which impute to female wanton and lascivious disposition only are not actionable: Lucas v. Nichols, 52-32.

WHAT AMOUNTS TO CHARGE OF INCONTINENCY. Saying of woman that she had sexual intercourse with a male dog: State v. Hewlin, 128-571—that she is a "d— whore," State v. Shoemaker, 101-690—that if plaintiff (an unmarried woman) "did not give birth to child she missed a good opportunity of having it," Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303—that she "was kept by a man," McBrayer v. Hill, 26-136. It is not charging incontinency to say that a single woman looked like she had miscarried: State v. Benton, 117-788—or that she is a "damned bitch," State v. Harwell, 129-550. The words spoken must amount to a charge of actual illicit sexual intercourse: State v. Moody, 98-671; State v. Aldridge, 86-680. When the words spoken are ambiguous, it is for the jury to determine whether they amount to a slanderous charge: State v. Howard, 169-312.

Every building built, rebuilt, repaired or improved, together with the necessary lots on which such building is situated, and every lot, farm or vessel, or any kind of property, real or personal, not herein enumerated, shall be subject to a lien for the payment of all debts contracted for work done on the same, or material furnished.

Rev. s. 2016; Code, s. 1781; 1901, c. 617; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 1.

History of statutes: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285, and see Const. N. C., art. 14, s. 4, which is foundation of successive statutes.

There must be a contract, express or implied, under which materials were furnished or work done in order for the lien to exist: Nicholson v. Nichols, 115-200. See Bruce v. Mining Co., 147-642.

Statute designed to protect those who work or supply materials and who, in absence of the statute, would have no security but the personal obligations of employer: Grissom v. Pickett, 98-54.

PROPERTY SUBJECT TO LIEN. Nothing that does not become part of realty is the subject of mechanic's lien; therefore trade fixtures put up by lessee not subject to lien: Woodworking Co. v. Southwick, 119-611—mortgagor's removing house after lien attached does not affect the lien, Turner v. Mebane, 110-413.

Subject to mechanic's lien—estate by entireties, for materials furnished under contract with both husband and wife: Finch v. Cecil, 170-72—leasehold for five years, Woodworking Co. v. Southwick, 119-611—property of corporation chartered to supply water to city, Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-615.
Not subject to mechanic's lien—courthouse: Snow v. Comrs., 112-335—public school building, Hardware Co. v. Graded School, 150-680—property of municipal corporation, but laborers and material men, as beneficiaries of contract between municipality and contractor, may sue on contractor's bond, and municipality may be liable for any balance due contractor, Scheflow v. Pierce, 176-91. See Gastonia v. Engineering Co., 151-363. See, also, section 2445.

Where contractor undertakes to put up and complete building on undivided tract of 80 acres, the mechanic's lien extends to whole of tract, and it is no segregation that house and improvements enclosed by fence: Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443.

As to agricultural liens on crops and sufficiency of description of land thereunder, see section 2480.

"WORK DONE." Work done must be actual, manual labor, done under contract for such labor: Bruce v. Mining Co., 147-642; Cook v. Ross, 117-193.

Statute includes the contractor, under whom his employees and agents work: Scheflow v. Pierce, 176-91; Lester v. Houston, 101-605—contractor has lien against railroad for work on construction, etc., Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999.

Semble, includes only services or labor for betterment of property on which it is bestowed; in other cases laborer must secure himself as at common law: Tedder v. R. R., 124-342.

MATERIAL FURNISHED. "Material furnished" means such material as enters into and becomes part of property and adds to its value: Coal Co. v. Electric Co., 118-232. These words mean something furnished to be appropriated on the land to some lawful purpose connected with the land: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-615. Semble, materials are not furnished hereunder unless actually appropriated to improvements on land; but where not so used nor understanding for such use, no lien arises: Lanier v. Bell, 81-337.

Whether coal furnished to factory a lien on product, quere: Norfleet v. Cotton Factory, 172-833.

AMOUNT SECURED. Where contractor labors and furnishes material under entire and indivisible contract, his lien embraces entire outlay, whether in labor or materials: Isler v. Dixon, 140-529; Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443.

Lien does not affect mortgages and encumbrances existing prior to lien's attaching, but is superior to those subsequently attaching: McAdams v. Trust Co., 167-494; Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999. Such lien entitled to no preference over prior mortgage as against mortgagee; would only be lien against mortgagor on his equity of redemption: Cox v. Lighting Co., 152-164.

Mechanic's lien hereunder is, under const., art. 10, s. 4, superior to homestead exemption of owner; but mere material lien is not entitled to the constitutional priority: Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443; Cumming v. Bloodworth, 87-83.

DECLARING LIEN. In action to recover for work and labor upon construction of house, court may, in judgment for amount due, decree lien on premises: Oakley v. Van Noppen, 95-60.

2434. Buildings on married woman's land. The preceding section applies to the property of a married woman when it appears that such building was built or repaired on her land with her consent or procurement. In such case she shall be deemed to have contracted for such improvements.

Rev., s. 2016; Code, s. 1781; 1869-70, c. 206; 1901, s. 617.

Section is constitutional: Finger v. Hunter, 130-529. Lien under section is for all debts contracted for work and labor done on married women's property: Ball v. Paquin, 140-83. Written consent of husband not necessary to charge wife hereunder: Ball v. Paquin, 140-98; Finger v. Hunter, 130-529.

Where married woman contracted with her husband to repair her house, and he bought material, material man has no lien unless notice given before she paid husband in full: Payne v. Flack, 152-600. Before Martin act (section 2507), in absence of lien on married woman's separate property, contract void unless made as required by law: Stephens v. Hicks, 156-239—

2435. On personal property repaired. Any mechanic or artisan who makes, alters or repairs any article of personal property at the request of the owner or legal possessor of such property has a lien on such property so made, altered or repaired for his just and reasonable charge for his work done and material furnished, and may hold and retain possession of the same until such just and reasonable charges are paid; and if not paid for within thirty days, if it does not exceed fifty dollars, or within ninety days if over fifty dollars, after the work was done, such mechanic or artisan may proceed to sell the property so made, altered or repaired at public auction, by giving two weeks public notice of such sale by advertising in some newspaper in the county in which the work may have been done, or if there is no such newspaper, then by posting up notice of such sale in three of the most public places in the county, town or city in which the work was done, and the proceeds of the said sale shall be applied first to the discharge of the said lien and the expenses and costs of keeping and selling such property, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid over to the owner thereof.

Where A. contracted with lumber company to cut, haul and raft logs standing on plaintiff's land, severance of the logs from the land converts them into personalty, and A. is entitled to lien under this section on logs for labor in performing contract: Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623. See Huntsman v. Lumber Co., 122-583. Mere mortgagee of personal property in possession entitled to no lien: Block v. Dowd, 120-402.

Lien hereunder depends upon laborer's or artisan's possession of the chattel, and is lost when he surrenders possession: Tedder v. R. R., 124-343; Block v. Dowd, 120-402; McDougall v. Crapon, 95-292. See Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623—but lien is not lost unless the surrender is voluntary, Auto Co. v. Rudd, 176-497.

Statute gives right to enforce lien by sale: McDougall v. Crapon, 95-292. Sale restrained until existence of lien and amount of indebtedness are determined: Huntsman v. Lumber Co., 122-583.

Relation of lien hereunder to common-law lien for services: Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623; McDougall v. Crapon, 95-292.

Section cited: Glazener v. Lumber Co., 167-676.

2436. Laborer's lien on lumber and its products. Every person doing the work of cutting or sawing logs into lumber, getting out wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark, has a lien upon the said lumber for the amount of wages due them, and the said lien shall have priority over all other claims or liens upon said lumber, except as against a purchaser for full value and without notice thereof: Provided, any such laborer whose wages for thirty or less number of days performed are due and unpaid shall file notice of such claim before the nearest justice of the peace in the county in which said work has been done, stating the number of days of labor performed, the price per day, and the place where the lumber is situate, and the person for whom said labor was performed, which said statement shall be signed by the said laborer or his attorney, and the said laborer shall also give to the owner thereof, within five days after the lien has been filed with the justice of the peace, as aforesaid, a copy of said notice as filed with the said justice of the peace. If the owner cannot be located, then notice shall be given by attaching said notice on the logs or lumber, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark upon which the labor sued for was performed, and any person buying said lumber or logs, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark after such notice has been filed with the nearest justice of the peace, shall be deemed to have bought the same with notice thereof, but no action shall be maintained against the owner of said logs or lumber, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark or the purchaser thereof under the provisions of this section unless same is commenced within thirty days after notice is filed with the justice of the peace by such laborer, as above provided.

Art. 2. Subcontractors', etc., Liens and Rights Against Owners

2437. Lien given subcontractors, etc., on real estate. All subcontractors and laborers who are employed to furnish or who do furnish labor or material for the building, repairing or altering any house or other improvement on real estate, have a lien on said house and real estate for the amount of such labor done or material furnished, which lien shall be preferred to the mechanics' lien now provided by law, when notice thereof shall be given as hereinafter provided, which may be enforced as other liens in this chapter, except where it is otherwise provided; but the sum total of all the liens due subcontractors and material men shall not exceed the amount due the original contractor at the time of notice given.

The section enacts that the laborer and the material man may, by giving notice to the owner, have a lien on the property of the owner to the extent of the contract price; that the owner is liable for the amount due the contractor at the time of notice; and that when lien once acquired by notice, owner, as trustee, must distribute fund pro rata: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704.

By giving proper notice, subcontractor substituted for contractor as to amount due or to become due from owner, without regard to account between contractor and subcontractor: Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371; Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354. See Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426; Powell v. Lumber Co., 168-632.

Lienor's lien, or lien for materials, when filed, relates back and takes priority over all liens attaching subsequent to beginning work or furnishing first materials: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Burr v. Maulsby, 99-263; Chadbourne v. Williams, 71-444.

Right to lien does not apply to public property, and right to payment out of funds depends on lien: Hutchinson v. Comrs., 172-844—though no lien may be filed against town, it may be liable to subcontractors for balance due contractor when proper notice given; and laborers and material men may sue on contractor's bond, Schellow v. Pierce, 176-91.

Mere fact that laborers and subcontractors are working on building is not notice to owner not to pay contractor until he has ascertained how much is due by him to every subcontractor and laboror: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115.

Lien given by section does not supersede that in favor of contractor: Lester v. Houston, 101-605—but only gives it a preference to extent of amounts which may be due subcontractor, provided it does not exceed sum which may be due original contractor, Ibid.

Subcontractor may enforce lien for labor or materials against owner of property, though contract with principal contractor has not been completed: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658—or has been abandoned, Ibid.

Section merely referred to: Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999; Parsley v. David, 106-225.

2438. Notice to owner; liability. Any subcontractor, laboror or material man, who claims a lien as provided in the preceding section, may give notice to the owner or lessee of the real estate who makes the contract for such building or improvement at any time before the settlement with the contractor, and if the said owner or lessee refuses or neglects to retain out of the amount due the said contractor under the contract as much as is due or claimed by the subcontractor, laboror or material man, the subcontractor, laboror or material man may proceed to enforce his lien, and after such notice is given, no payment to the contractor shall be a credit on or discharge of the lien herein provided.

Rev., s. 2020; Code, s. 1802; 1880, c. 44, s. 2.

Lien acquired by notice to owner, and exists only from date of notice: Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87; s. c., 174-57; Wood v. R. R., 131-48; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Pinkston v. Young, 104-102. And see cases infra this note. Mere knowledge that laborers at work or that materials furnished is not sufficient notice: Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87; s. c., 174-57; see Clark v. Edwards, 119-115. Notice held sufficient to establish lien: Building Corp. v. Jones, 174-57.

Notice must be given to owner before he pays contractor: Supply Co. v. Eastern Star Co., 163-513. Material man dealing with husband, who has contracted with his wife to build her house, must notify wife before she pays her husband: Payne v. Flack, 152-600.
Subcontractor can enforce lien against owner only to extent of sums due contractor at date of giving notice to owner of his claim: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115. Where one furnishes material to subcontractor and gives notice to owner, his right to recover depends on amount due contractor, not on amount due subcontractor: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426; Powell v. Lumber Co., 168-632; Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371. Relation of debtor and creditor exists between owner and subcontractor, or material man, only to extent of lien acquired by giving notice: Hardware Co. v. Graded School, 151-507; Hall v. Jones, 151-419.

Materials furnished must be to one engaged on the building and actually used in the building: Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371.

After notice to owner suit must be brought in six months; lien need not be filed with clerk: Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639. If after notice given lien lost by failure to sue in time, claimant may yet recover from owner his pro rata share of amount due contractor: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639.

Subcontractor may enforce lien for labor or materials against owner, though contract with principal contractor has not been completed or has been abandoned: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658. Contractor cannot sue owner for benefit of subcontractor without showing express trust: Perry v. Swanner, 150-141. Enforcement of subcontractor's lien for materials furnished: Bain v. Lamb, 167-304. Sufficiency of complaint in action to enforce material man's lien hereunder: Parsley v. David, 106-225. Action by owner against surety of defaulting contractor; items properly allowable as damages, etc.: Donlan v. Trust Co., 139-212.

Judgment against owner should declare only amount due for which execution may issue, and should not direct payment into court: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639.

Contractor necessary party to action to enforce lien of subcontractor: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658—but trustee in conveyance subject to lien is not, Ibid.

Section referred to: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-618; Lester v. Houston, 101-605.

See infra this chapter, art. 8.

2439. Statement of contractor's indebtedness to be furnished to owner; effect. When any contractor, architect or other person makes a contract for building, altering or repairing any building or vessel, or for the construction or repair of a railroad, with the owner thereof, it is his duty to furnish to the owner or his agent, before receiving any part of the contract price, as it may become due, an itemized statement of the amount owing to any laborer, mechanic or artisan employed by such contractor, architect or other person, or to any person for materials furnished, and upon delivery to the owner or his agent of the itemized statement aforesaid, it is the duty of the owner to retain from the money then due the contractor a sum not exceeding the price contracted for, which will be sufficient to pay such laborer, artisan or mechanic for labor done, or such person for material furnished, which said amount the owner shall pay directly to the laborer, mechanic, artisan or person furnishing materials. The owner may retain in his hands until the contract is completed such sum as may have been agreed on between him and the contractor, architect or other person employing laborers, as a guaranty for the faithful performance of the contract by such contractor. When such contract has been performed by the contractor such fund reserved as a guaranty shall be liable to the payment of the sum due the laborer, mechanic or artisan for labor done, or the person furnishing the materials as hereinbefore provided.

Rev., s. 2021; 1887, c. 67; 1891, c. 203; 1899, c. 335; 1903, c. 478.

This and the following four sections (statute of 1887) provide an additional method of creating and enforcing a lien in favor of mechanics and laborers; the contractor is required to give owner notice of claims of subcontractors and others; but there is no lien until prescribed notice is given: Pinkston v. Young, 104-102. By giving notice claimant has double security, a lien upon property enforceable by suit, and to his share of money due from owner to contractor: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704; West v. Laughinghouse, 174-214; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285.

When statement is furnished by contractor, obligation arises on part of the owner which material man may enforce in his own name: Perry v. Swanner, 150-141—but obligation not debtor and creditor except to amount of lien acquired, Hardware Co. v. Graded School, 151-507. Lien only in favor of material man furnishing material to one having some contract relation to the work: Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371.

When lien fixed by notice, claimant may enforce it without regard to condition of account between contractor and subcontractor: Powell v. Lumber Co., 168-632; Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371.

It is duty of owner to retain out of amount due contractor sum to pay laborers and material men: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639.

Notice given by contractor to architect of owner of claims is not without further proof of agency sufficient to raise lien hereunder: Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87.

Section not repealed by amendments to section 2444, contained in 1913, c. 150: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426.

2440. Laborer, etc., may furnish statement of claim to owner; effect. Any laborer, mechanic, artisan or person furnishing materials may furnish to such owner or his agents before he shall have paid the contractor an itemized statement of the amount owing to such laborer, mechanic or artisan employed by said contractor, architect or other person for work or labor on such building, vessel or railroad, and any person may furnish to such owner or his agents an itemized statement of the amount due him for materials furnished for such purposes. Upon the delivery of such notice to such owner or his agent the person giving such notice is entitled to all the liens and benefits conferred by law in as full and ample a manner as though the statement was furnished by the contractor, architect or such other person. And after the notice herein provided is given, no payment to the contractor shall be a credit or a discharge of the lien herein provided.

Rev., s. 2021; 1887, c. 67; 1891, c. 203; 1899, c. 335; 1903, c. 478; 1913, c. 150, s. 4.

See annotations under preceding section.

2441. Sums due by statement to constitute lien. The sums due to the laborer, mechanic or artisan for labor done, or due the person furnishing materials, as shown in the itemized statement rendered to the owner, shall be a lien on the building, vessel or railroad built, altered or repaired, without any lien being filed before a justice of the peace or the superior court.

Rev., s. 2022; 1887, c. 67, s. 2.

2442. Where sums due contractor from owner insufficient; payment pro rata. If the amount due the contractor by the owner is insufficient to pay in full the laborer, mechanic or artisan, for his labor, and the person furnishing materials, for materials furnished, it is the duty of the owner to distribute the amount pro rata among the several claimants, as shown by the itemized statement furnished the owner, or of which notice has been given by the owner to the claimant.

Rev., s. 2023; 1887, c. 67, s. 3; 1913, c. 150, s. 5.

2443. Contractor failing to furnish statement, or not applying owner's payments to laborer's claims, misdemeanor. If any contractor or architect shall fail to furnish to the owner an itemized statement of the sums due to every one of the laborers, mechanics or artisans employed by him, or the amount due for materials, before receiving any part of the contract price, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any contractor shall fail to apply the contract price paid him by the owner or his agent to the payment of bills for labor and material, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3663; 1887, c. 67, s. 4; 1913, c. 150, s. 8.
Referred to: Pinkston v. Young, 104-102.

2444. Laborer for railroad contractor may sue company; conditions of action. As often as any contractor for the construction of any part of a railroad which is in progress of construction is indebted to any laborer for thirty or less number of days labor performed in constructing said road, or is indebted for more than thirty days to any person furnishing material for the construction of said road, such laborer or material man may give notice of such indebtedness to said company in a manner herein provided, and said company shall thereupon become liable to pay such laborer or material man the amount so due for labor or material, and action may be maintained against said company therefor. Such notice shall be given by said laborer to said company within twenty days after the performance of the number of days labor for which the claim is made, and such notice shall be given by the material man to said company within thirty days after the materials have been furnished. Such notice to be given by the laborer shall be in writing and shall state the amount and number of days labor and the time when the labor was performed for which the claim is made, and the name of the contractor from whom due, and shall be signed by such laborer or his attorney; and such notice of the material man shall be in writing and shall state the amount of material furnished and when furnished, and the name of the contractor to whom furnished and by whom due, and shall be signed by such material man or his attorney. The notice shall be served on an engineer, agent or superintendent employed by said company having charge of the section of road on which such labor was performed or material furnished, personally or by leaving the same at the office or usual place of business of said engineer, agent, or superintendent, with some person of suitable age. But no action shall be maintained against any company under the provisions of this section unless the same is commenced within ninety days after notice is given to the company by such laborer or material man as above provided.

Rev., s. 2018; Code, s. 1942; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 12; 1913, c. 150, s. 1.
Section considered with reference to sections 2439, 2440, 2470, 2474: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426.

A logging railroad is a railroad within this section: Carter v. Lumber Co., 160-8. Laborer seeking to subject railroad company hereunder must show substantial compliance with section: Moore v. R. R., 112-236. Privilege conferred by section restricted to laborers, and for work done for thirty days or less in constructing road, and company can in no event be held liable for payment of accounts due by contractors for materials: Ibid. Contractor or subcontractor entitled to file lien within one year of doing work or furnishing material: Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999. After complying with requirements of section, laborer can assign claim as debt either against employer or railroad company: Moore v. R. R., 112-236—and assignee can enforce claim, Ibid.
2445. Contractor on municipal building to give bond; action on bond. Every county, city, town or other municipal corporation which lets a contract for the building, repairing or altering any building, public road, or street, shall require the contractor for such work (when the contract price exceeds five hundred dollars) to execute bond with one or more solvent sureties before beginning any work under said contract, payable to said county, city, town or other municipal corporation, and conditioned for the payment of all labor done on and material and supplies furnished for the said work. The amount of the said bond to be given by said contractor shall be equal to the contract price up to two thousand dollars, and when the contract price is between two and ten thousand dollars the amount of said bond shall be two thousand dollars plus thirty-five per cent of the excess of the contract price over two thousand dollars and under ten thousand; when the contract is over ten thousand dollars, the amount of the said bond shall be two thousand dollars plus twenty-five per cent of the excess of the contract price over the sum of two thousand dollars. If the official of the said county, city, town or other municipal corporation, whose duty it is to take said bond, fails to require the said bond herein provided to be given, he is guilty of a misdemeanor. Any laborer doing work on said building and material man furnishing material therefor and used therein, has the right to sue on said bond, the principal and sureties thereof, in the courts of this state having jurisdiction of the amount of said bond, and any number of laborers or material men whose claims are unpaid for work done and material furnished in said building have the right to join in one suit upon said bond for the recovery of the amounts due them respectively.

Section requires municipal corporation to take a bond and authorizes laborers and material men to sue on the bond, and a provision in the bond interfering with this right of action is invalid: Ingold v. Hickory, 178-614. Where bond taken from contractor by municipality was for protection of obligee alone, sureties are not liable to material men: McCausland v. Construction Co., 172-708. Semble, that section for protection of county, etc., and that subcontractors and material men acquire no rights thereunder: Fore v. Feimster, 171-551.

2446. For towage and for supplies at home port. Every vessel, boat, scow, lighter, flat, raft or other water craft is subject to a lien for the payment of towage done by any steamboat or tugboat; and every vessel and boat is subject to a lien for debts due for materials and supplies furnished to such vessel or boat in her home port. These liens shall be filed and enforced as is provided for other liens.

2447. For labor in loading and unloading. Every vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, is subject to a lien for all labor done by contractors or others in loading or discharging the cargo of such vessel, and also for all labor done by any subcontractor or laborer employed in discharging or loading any such vessel, when such labor is done under contract with a contractor or stevedore who may be employed by the master, agent or owner of such vessel.
2448. Filing lien; laborer's notice to master. The liens provided for in the preceding sections shall be filed as is provided for other liens. The subcontractor or laborer may give notice to the master, agent or owner of such vessel, that the contractor or stevedore is or will become indebted to him. It shall then be the duty of such master, agent or owner of such vessel to retain out of the amount due to such contractor or stevedore under his contract as much as is due or claimed by the person giving the notice, and after such notice is given no payment to the contractor or stevedore shall be a credit on or a discharge of the lien herein provided.

Section referred to: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-628.

2449. Enforcement of lien. The enforcement of such lien shall be by summons against the contractor or stevedore, and also against the master, agent or owner of such vessel, who made the contract with such contractor or stevedore, if over two hundred dollars, to be issued by the clerk of the superior court, and if under two hundred dollars, by a justice of the peace.

Rev., s. 2043; Code, s. 1806; 1881, c. 356, s. 3.

2450. Judgment against contractor binds master and vessel. The judgment against the contractor or stevedore shall also be a judgment against the master, agent or owner of such vessel, and also against such vessel itself, her tackle, apparel and furniture, which shall be seized, held and sold under execution for the satisfaction of such judgment.

Rev., s. 2044; Code, s. 1807; 1881, c. 356, s. 4.

2451. Liens not to exceed amount due contractor. The sum total of all the liens due to different subcontractors and laborers, performed for any contractor or stevedore under any contract with any master, agent or owner of any vessel, shall not exceed the amount due to the contractor or stevedore at the time of notice given to the owner, agent or master, or the amount due to the contractor or stevedore at the time of the service of summons upon the master, agent or owner, when no notice has been given.

Rev., s. 2045; Code, s. 1808; 1881, c. 356, s. 5.

Section referred to: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-628.

2452. Owner to see laborers paid. In all cases where steamships or vessels of any kind are loaded or unloaded or where any work is done in or about the same by the contractors to do the same known as stevedores or "boss stevedores," who in doing the same employ laborers to assist or do the work by the hour, day, week or month, it is the duty of the owner or agent of the vessel to see that the laborers employed in or about the same by the stevedore, contractor or "boss stevedore" are fully paid the wages that may be due such laborer before he makes final settlement with the contractor, stevedore or "boss stevedore."

Rev., s. 2046; 1887, c. 145, s. 1.

2453. Owner may refuse to settle with contractor till laborers paid. Any owner or agent referred to in the preceding section may refuse final settlement with the "boss stevedore" or contractor until he or they satisfy the said owner or agent, by written oath if necessary, that the same has been done.

Rev., s. 2047; 1887, c. 145, s. 2.
2454. Owner may pay orders for wages. It is lawful for the owner or agent of such vessel to pay off from time to time such orders for wages as may be due and given therefor in favor of the laborers by the contractor or stevedore, which on final settlement may be deducted from the contract price.
Revised, s. 2048; 1887, c. 145, s. 3.

2455. Laborer's right of action against owner. Any owner or agent of such vessel who neglects or refuses to comply with the preceding provisions is liable to such laborer in a civil action for the amount of the wages so due him by the contractor, stevedore or "boss stevedore."
Revised, s. 2049; 1887, c. 145, s. 4.

2456. Stevedore's false oath punishable as perjury. If any contractor, stevedore or boss stevedore shall make any false oath or false representation with intent to wrong, cheat or defraud any laborer in violation of the four preceding sections, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished as is now prescribed by law for perjury.
Revised, s. 3613; 1887, c. 145, s. 5.

2457. Stevedores to be licensed; omission misdemeanor. No person shall engage in the business of loading or unloading vessels upon contract, nor shall any person solicit or make any contract for himself or for any other person to load or unload any vessel either by day's work or by the job, without having previously obtained a license therefor, in the manner provided by law for other licenses for trades and occupations. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.
Revised, ss. 2650, 3791; 1891, c. 450; 1899, c. 595.

2458. Tax and bond on procuring license. Before the sheriff shall issue the said license the applicant shall pay to the sheriff an annual tax of fifty dollars, and shall execute a bond with two or more approved sureties in the sum of two thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties and the due and lawful payment of all sums due to laborers assisting in the work of loading or unloading any vessels upon which the applicant may be engaged. And every bond so taken shall be renewed annually, and shall be filed with and preserved by the register of deeds in trust for every person that shall be injured by the breach of his contracts, who may severally bring suit thereon for the damages by each one sustained.
Revised, s. 2051; 1891, c. 450.

Art. 4. Warehouse Storage Liens

2459. Liens on goods stored for charges. Every person, firm or corporation who furnishes storage room for furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise and makes a charge for storing the same, has the right to retain possession of and a lien upon all furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise until such storage charges are paid.
1913, c. 192, s. 1; 1915, c. 190, s. 1.
2460. Enforcement by public sale. If such charges are not paid within ten days after they become due, then such person, firm or corporation is authorized to sell said furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise at the county courthouse door, after first advertising such sale for ten days at said courthouse door and three other public places in said county, or in some newspaper published in said county where the goods or tobacco are stored, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay the costs and expenses of sale and all costs and charges due for storage, and the surplus, if any, pay to the owner of such furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise.

1913, c. 192, s. 2; 1915, c. 190, s. 2.

Art. 5. Liens of Hotel, Boarding and Lodging-house Keeper

2461. Lien on baggage. Every hotel, boarding-house keeper and lodging-house keeper who furnishes board, bed or room to any person has the right to retain possession of and a lien upon all baggage or other property of such person that may have been brought to such hotel, boarding-house or lodging house, until all reasonable charges for such room, bed and board are paid.

Rev., s. 2037; 1899, c. 645, s. 1; 1917, c. 26, s. 1.

Lien recognized: State v. Hill, 166-298. Innkeeper has a lien even upon goods of third person held by guest, and brought within inn, unless he knew that they were not the property of guest: Covington v. Newberger, 99-523—but one who entertains strangers only occasionally, although he receives compensation therefor, is not an innkeeper, State v. Mathews, 19-424.

2462. Baggage may be sold. If such charges are not paid within ten days after they become due, then the hotel, boarding-house or lodging-house keeper is authorized to sell said baggage or other property at the courthouse door, after first advertising such sale for ten days at said courthouse door and three other public places in the county, and out of the proceeds of sale to pay the costs and expenses of sale and all costs and charges due for said board, bed or room, and the surplus, if any, pay to the owner of said baggage or other property.

Rev., s. 2038; 1899, c. 645, s. 2; 1917, c. 26, s. 2.

2463. Notice of sale. Written notice of such sale shall be served on the owner of such baggage or other property ten days before such sale, if he is a resident of the state; but if he is a nonresident of the state, or if his residence is unknown, the publication of such notice for ten days at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county shall be sufficient service of the same.

Rev., s. 2039; 1887, c. 645, s. 3.

Art. 6. Liens of Livery-stable Keepers

2464. Lien for ninety days keep on animals in possession. Every keeper of livery, sale, or boarding stables has a lien upon and the right to retain the possession of every horse, mule, or other animal belonging to the owner or person contracting for the board and keep of any horse, mule, or other animal, for any and all unpaid amounts due for board of any horse, mule, or other animal. This lien shall not attach for amounts accruing for a longer period than ninety days from the reception of such property or from the last full settlement; nor does this lien apply if the property is removed from the possession of said keeper of said livery, sale, or boarding stable.

1911, c. 141, s. 1.

2465. Enforcement by public sale. If such charges are not paid within fifteen days after they become due and demand is made for the same, then the keeper of such livery, sale or boarding stable is authorized to sell the property at the county courthouse door, after first advertising said sale for ten days at the county courthouse door and three other public places in said county, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay the costs and charges due for the board and keep of said horse, mule, or other animal, including the charges for keeping said animal until said sale, and the surplus, if any, pay to the owner of said animal.

1911, c. 141, s. 2.

2466. Notice of sale to owner. Written notice of such sale shall be served on the owner of such horse, mule, or other animal ten days before such sale, if he is a resident of the state; but if he be a nonresident of the state, or if his residence is unknown, the publication of such notice for ten days at the county courthouse door and three other public places in the county shall be sufficient service of the same.

1911, c. 141, s. 3.

Art. 7. Liens on Colts, Calves and Pigs

2467. Season of sire a lien. In all cases where the owner, or any agent for or employee of the owner, of any mare, jennet, cow or sow, turns the same to a studhorse, jack, bull, or boar, for the purpose of raising colts, calves, or pigs, the price charged for the season of the studhorse, jack, bull, or boar constitutes a lien on the colt, calf, or pigs until the price so charged for the season is paid.

Rev., s. 2024; Code, s. 1797; 1885, c. 72; 1887, c. 14; 1872-3, c. 94, s. 1; 1915, c. 18, s. 1.

2468. Colts, etc., not exempt from execution for season price. The colt, calf, or pigs shall not be exempt from execution for the payment of said season price by reason of the operation of the personal property exemption: Provided, the person claiming such lien institutes action to enforce the same within twelve months from the foaling of the colt, dropping the calf, or farrowing of the pigs.

Rev., s. 2025; Code, s. 1798; 1885, c. 72; 1872-3, c. 94, s. 2; 1879, c. 47; 1915, c. 18; 1917, c. 229.

Art. 8. Perfecting, Enforcing and Discharging Liens

2469. Claim of lien to be filed; place of filing. All claims against personal property, of two hundred dollars and under, may be filed in the office of the nearest justice of the peace; if over two hundred dollars or against any real estate or interest therein, in the office of the superior court clerk in any county where the labor has been performed or the materials furnished; but all claims shall be filed in detail, specifying the materials furnished or labor performed, and the time thereof. If the parties interested make a special contract for such labor performed, or if such material and labor are specified in writing, in such cases it shall be decided agreeably to the terms of the contract, provided the terms of such contract do not affect the lien for such labor performed or materials furnished.

For local variation as to justice's jurisdiction in Johnston county, see 1907, c. 148.

For clerk's duty to record, see section 952, subsection 23.

Claim filed under this section must be in substantial compliance with statute and must set forth in detail the character of labor performed or materials furnished, the time when performed or furnished, the amount due therefor, and the property upon which labor performed or materials furnished: Jefferson v. Bryant, 161-404; Fulp v. Power Co., 157-157; Cook v. Cobb, 101-68; Wray v. Harris, 77-77—without such particulars, is irregular and void, Wray v. Harris, 77-77—cannot be amended by court in action to enforce the lien, Jefferson v. Bryant, 161-494. Creditors with claims for materials, who have not filed liens at time of issuing an insurance policy, cannot claim benefits under the policy: Roper v. Ins. Co., 161-151.

Upon filing of notice within proper time and in prescribed manner, lien given laborers and mechanics attaches to property upon which labor or materials bestowed: Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263—and relates back to time of beginning of work or furnishing of materials, Ibid.; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Chadbourn v. Williams, 71-444—and is effectual not only against all other liens or encumbrances which attached subsequently, but against purchasers for value and without notice, Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263. Notice of lien on land must be filed in office of superior court clerk: Lanier v. Bell, 81-337. Lien of person who furnished materials for building is not avoided because in notice thereof filed with clerk it is made to attach on two distinct lots separated by street: Chadbourn v. Williams, 71-444. Notice of lien required to be filed since enactment of section should be filed with clerk of superior court, though materials began to be furnished before section went into effect: Ibid. Only original contractor can file notice of mechanic's lien: Zachary v. Perry, 130-289. Laborer's lien filed after employer's death is valid though employer named in caption instead of administrator: Pugh v. Baker, 127-2. For claim of laborer held to be made out in substantial compliance with section, see Cameron v. Lumber Co., 118-266.

Taking note for debt is not waiver of lien, nor is an extension of time of payment unless beyond time allowed for filing: Lumber Co. v. Trading Co., 163-314. Section merely referred to: Kornegay v. Styron, 105-19; Jarrett v. Self, 90-479.

As to justice's jurisdiction in Johnston county, see 1907, c. 148.

2470. Time of filing notice. Notice of lien shall be filed as hereinbefore provided, except in those cases where a shorter time is prescribed, at any time within six months after the completion of the labor or the final furnishing of the materials, or the gathering of the crops.

For claim of laborer held to be made out in substantial compliance with section, see Cameron v. Lumber Co., 118-266.

Taking note for debt is not waiver of lien, nor is an extension of time of payment unless beyond time allowed for filing: Lumber Co. v. Trading Co., 163-314.

Section merely referred to: Kornegay v. Styron, 105-19; Jarrett v. Self, 90-479.

2471. Date of filing fixes priority. The liens created and established by this chapter shall be paid and settled according to the priority of the notice of the lien filed with the justice or the clerk.
Liens which are to be filed with the justice or clerk are paid according to priority; subcontractors' claims which require only notice to owner are paid pro rata: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704.

Laborer's lien, or lien for materials, when filed relates back and takes priority over all liens attaching subsequent to beginning work or furnishing first material: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263; Chadbourne v. Williams, 71-444.

2472. Laborer's crop lien dates from work begun. The lien for work on crops given by this chapter shall be preferred to every other lien or encumbrance which attached to the crops subsequent to the time at which the work was commenced.

Rev., s. 2034; Code, s. 1782; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 2.

Lien of laborer has precedence over agricultural liens made subsequent to his contract, but before crop harvested: Rouse v. Wooten, 104-299.

Lien provided by section arises out of simple relation of debtor and creditor for labor done or materials furnished and where there is no other security than personal obligation of debtor: Grisom v. Pickett, 98-54. Where plaintiff, having abandoned contract with defendant to cultivate crop on shares and attempted to assert lien upon crop for labor performed on same, he does not come within section: Ibid.

2473. Duly filed claims of prior creditors not affected. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect the rights of any person to whom any debt may be due for any work done for which priority of claim is filed with the proper officer.

Rev., s. 2036; Code, s. 1786; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 6.

See section 1140 as to priority between corporate mortgage and claims for labor, etc.

2474. Action to enforce lien. Action to enforce the lien created must be commenced in the court of a justice of the peace, and in the superior court, according to the jurisdiction thereof, within six months from the date of filing the notice of the lien. But if the debt is not due within six months, but becomes due within twelve months, suit may be brought or other proceedings instituted to enforce the lien in thirty days after it is due.

Rev., s. 2027; Code, ss. 1785, 1790; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 7; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 5; 1876-7, c. 250; 1876-7, c. 251.

Failure to commence action within time specified discharges the lien: Norfleet v. Cotton Factoy, 172-833.

Defects in claim under section 2469 not cured by alleging necessary facts in pleading in action brought to enforce lien: Cook v. Cobb, 101-68; Jefferson v. Bryant, 161-404.

Section cannot have been intended for case in which resort to any court unnecessary, and complete relief may be obtained by parties' own act: McDougall v. Crapon, 95-295.

Action against a married woman for less than $200 for material used in building a house must be brought before a justice of the peace: Finger v. Hunter, 130-529; Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85—but where proceeding not under section, but an action to coerce payment out of separate estate of feme covert for her contracts, superior court alone has jurisdiction, although amount be less than $200, Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85. But see section 2507.

2475. When attachment available to plaintiff. In all cases where the owner or employer attempts to remove the crop, houses or appurtenances from the premises, without the permission, or with the intent to defraud the lienee of his lien, the claimant may have a remedy by attachment.

Rev., s. 2031; Code, s. 1795; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 14.

As to sufficiency of affidavits to obtain attachment, see Brogden v. Privett, 67-45.

2476. Defendant entitled to counterclaim. The defendant in any suit to enforce the lien is entitled to any setoff arising between the contractors during the performance of the contract, or counterclaim allowed by law.

Rev., s. 2032; Code, s. 1788; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 8.

2477. Execution. Upon judgment rendered in favor of the claimant, an execution for the collection and enforcement thereof shall issue in the same manner as upon other judgments in actions arising on contract for the recovery of money only, except that the execution shall direct the officer to sell the right, title and interest which the owner had in the premises or the crops thereon, at the time of filing notice of the lien, before such execution shall extend to the general property of the defendant.

Rev., s. 2029; Code, s. 1791; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 9.

Judgment to enforce mechanic's lien upon specific property for its satisfaction must contain general description of such property, and execution thereon must direct that such property shall first be sold to satisfy judgment: McMillan v. Williams, 109-252. Justice cannot declare, but can render direct judgment appropriating funds belonging to plaintiff: Markham v. McCown, 124-163. Property subject to lien must be first sold: McMillan v. Williams, 109-252; Pipe, etc.,
Co. v. Howland, 111-615.

Section merely referred to: Burr v. Maultsby, 99-266; Boyle v. Robbins, 71-133.

2478. No justice's execution against land. No execution issued by a justice of the peace, under this chapter, shall be enforced against real estate or any interest therein, but justices' judgments may be docketed on the judgment docket of superior court for the purpose of selling such estate or any interest therein.

Rev., s. 2030; Code, s. 1794; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 13.

When land to be sold in enforcing lien, judgment rendered before justice shall be docketed in superior court, whence execution may issue: Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85.

2479. Discharge of liens. All liens created by this chapter may be discharged as follows:

1. By filing with the justice or clerk a receipt or acknowledgment, signed by the claimant, that the lien has been paid or discharged.
2. By depositing with the justice or clerk money equal to the amount of the claim, which money shall be held by said officer for the benefit of the claimant.
3. By an entry in the lien docket that the action on the part of the claimant to enforce the lien has been dismissed, or a judgment rendered against the claimant in such action.
4. By a failure of the claimant to commence an action for the enforcement of the lien within six months from the notice of lien filed.

Rev., s. 2033; Code, s. 1793; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 12.

Lien lost by failure to sue in six months: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639; Norfleet v.
Cotton Factory, 172-833.
Art. 9. Agricultural Liens for Advances

2480. Lien on Crops for Advances. If any person makes any advance either in money or supplies to any person who is engaged in or about to engage in the cultivation of the soil, the person making the advance is entitled to a lien on the crops made during the year upon the land in the cultivation of which the advance has been expended, in preference to all other liens, except the laborer's and landlord's liens, to the extent of such advance. Before any advance is made an agreement in writing for the advance shall be entered into, specifying the amount to be advanced, or fixing a limit beyond which the advance, if made from time to time during the year, shall not go; and this agreement shall be registered in the office of the register of the county where the person advanced resides within thirty days after its date.

Rev., s. 2052; Code, s. 1799; 1893, c. 9; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 1; 1872-3, c. 133, s. 1.

As to husband's creating lien on crop raised on wife's land, see Loftin v. Crossland, 94-76; Bray v. Carter, 115-16; Rawlings v. Neal, 126-271; Wells v. Baits, 112-283; Branch v. Ward, 114-148; Guano Co. v. Colwell, 177-218.

Section has no application in the absence of a claim for its special priorities: Odom v. Clark, 146-544.

Registration of mortgage not essential to validity of lien as between parties thereto: Reese v. Cole, 93-87. Quere, whether compliance with other requirements contained in section necessary between parties: Ibid.

As to parol evidence to show that supplies furnished after execution of lien, see Meekins v. Walker, 119-46.

Restrictive provisions of section are for security of creditors and others dealing with debtor: Nichols v. Speller, 120-79; Reese v. Cole, 93-87.

Where land fully described, and in same instrument it says "and upon any other land I may cultivate in county," the lien is good as to land described, but not as to any other: Gwathney v. Etheridge, 99-571; Perry v. Bragg, 109-303; Wells v. Flowers, 109-212; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142. Land on which crop to be grown must be identified at time lien created: Gwathney v. Etheridge, 99-571; Hurley v. Ray, 160-376. Power of sale upon default in paying advances inserted in instrument giving lien upon crops, does not invalidate instrument: Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142.

Instrument which gives lien on crop for supplies to be furnished in making a crop and also conveys personal property as additional security, with ordinary powers of sale, is valid both as a chattel mortgage and as an agricultural lien: Nichols v. Speller, 120-75.

Where words of grant in an instrument are that grantor "conveys a lien upon each and every of said crop," to be made upon certain land, such words will constitute valid mortgage upon crops, although not planted at time when such instrument is executed and registered: Harris v. Jones, 83-317.

WHAT ARE ADVANCES HEREUNDER. See under section 2355. As to whether a mule is an advancement, see Branch v. Galloway, 105-103. Person who gives mortgage on crops to obtain supplies under section estopped from asserting that articles which he received as compliance with contract are not "supplies" within meaning of section: Womble v. Leach, 83-84—and a second mortgagee who acquires an interest in crop after such advances made is also bound by such admission, Ibid. Supplies necessary to make and save crop are such articles as are in good faith furnished to and received by tenant for that purpose: Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276.

NATURE, VALIDITY AND EXTENT OF LIEN. The lien only extends to the crop of the year for which advances made: Clark v. Farrar, 74-686. Between parties, in absence of fraud and compulsion, lien attaches for dry goods, shoes, tobacco, powders, snuff and candy, without showing that such articles were actually used in making crop: Nichols v. Speller, 120-75.

Validity of lien not affected by fact that land upon which crop planted was, while crop growing, recovered from person giving lien: Brown v. Miller, 108-375. Section intended to give lien a "preference to all other liens existing or otherwise" to extent of such advance: Nichols v. Speller, 120-78—and section should be strictly construed when rights of other creditors intervene, Ibid. Mortgage on crop not expressed to be for advances to be made, and not recorded in thirty days after its execution, has no rights as agricultural lien under section: Cooper v. Kimball, 123-180. Where agricultural lien made by vendee who has paid only portion of purchase money, of which vendor has notice, but makes no objection, his assent to lien presumed: Dail v. Freeman, 92-351.

Agreement purporting on its face to be agricultural lien, only for future advances, cannot be supported as a mortgage as against purchaser for a different purpose and founded on consideration not expressed, but concealed or disguised in instrument: Clark v. Farrar, 74-686. Crop lien to secure agricultural advances under section valid inter partes, though not registered within thirty days as required by section: Gay v. Nash, 78-100. One who advances money or supplies on agricultural lien for making a crop not bound to see that same are used on farm: Nichols v. Speller, 120-75.

PRIORITY BETWEEN LIENS. As to landlord’s lien for rent and advances being prior to agricultural lien hereunder, see section 2356. As to crop liens given by mortgagees or trustees in possession taking priority over mortgage and deed in trust, see section 2481.

When landlord releases his lien on a part of the crop, the next lien for advancements applies as against the rights of third persons: White v. Winslow, 163-40.

Where mortgage given on crop and agricultural lien thereafter executed which recites that lienor is to pay certain amount out of crops, lienee holds crop subject to mortgage debt: Brasfield v. Powell, 117-140. Subsequent mortgage on same property given to secure advancements of supplies, there being nothing to show for what purpose supplies furnished, does not create prior lien: Brown v. Miller, 108-385. Where two mortgages on crop of cotton, and first mortgagee advanced money in order to save crop and prepare it for market, in excess of amount secured by mortgage, not entitled to same to exclusion of second mortgagee: Weathersbee v. Farrar, 97-106.

Agricultural lien duly executed and registered takes precedence of mortgage of prior date and registration upon "crop" therein subjected to extent of advances made: Wooten v. Hill, 98-48. Where tenant makes agricultural lien and afterwards land is sold under execution as property of landlord, owner of lien has right to crop superior to purchaser at execution sale: Dail v. Freeman, 92-351. Lien of laborer has precedence over agricultural liens made subsequent to his contract, but before crop harvested: House v. Wooten, 104-229. Mortgage given by tenant to third person on his crop produced on certain farm does not give lien on rents paid by sub-tenant of portion of farm, where such rents assigned before execution of mortgage: Norfleet v. Baker, 131-99.
2481. Contract for advances by mortgagor in possession. The preceding section shall apply to all contracts made for the advancement of money and supplies, or either, for the purposes herein specified by mortgagors or trustors who may be in possession of the lands mortgaged or conveyed in trust at the time of the making of the contract for such advancement of money or supplies, either in case the debts secured in said mortgage or deed of trust be due or not.

Rey., s. 2053; 1889, c. 476.

Where mortgagor in possession has given lien on crops for advances to aid in cultivating same, such lien superior to that of mortgagee of land: Hinton v. Walston, 115-7; Carr v. Dail, 114-284; McNair v. Pope, 104-350; Killebrew v. Hines, 104-182—even though lien improperly registered, Carr v. Dail, 114-284; Killebrew v. Hines, 104-182; but see Brewer v. Chappell, 101-251.

2482. Price to be charged for articles advanced limited. In order to be entitled to the benefits of the lien on crops in favor of landlords and other persons advancing supplies under the article, Agricultural Tenancies, of the chapter, Landlord and Tenant, and under the present article, or on a chattel mortgage on crops, such landlord or person shall charge for such supplies a price or prices of not more than ten per cent over the retail cash price or prices of the article or articles advanced, and the said ten per cent shall be in lieu of interest on the debt for such advances. If more than ten per cent over the retail cash price is charged on any advances made under the lien or mortgage given on the crop, then the lien or mortgage shall be null and void as to the article or articles upon which such overcharge is made. At the time of each sale there shall be delivered to the purchaser a memorandum showing the cash prices of the articles advanced.

1917, c. 134, s. 1.

2483. "Cash prices" defined and determined. In the case of retail merchants, the retail cash price or prices shall be the regular cash price or prices charged by the same merchant to cash customers for the same article or articles in like quantities at the same time. In the case of advances of supplies by landlords or other persons not engaged in business as retail merchants, or by retail merchants who have no regular cash prices, if the prices charged are called into question by the purchaser the retail cash price or prices of the supplies advanced may be determined by taking the average between the cash price or prices for the same class or classes of goods of two neighboring merchants, one selected by the landlord or other person making the advance and the other by the one to whom the advance is made.

2484. Person advanced not estopped by agreement. No agreement or understanding between the parties as to the price or prices to be charged shall work an estoppel against the person to whom supplies have been advanced from showing that the price or prices charged were in fact more than ten per cent over the average retail cash price or prices in that locality at the time the advance or advances were made. If the price or prices charged by the merchants or landlord were in fact more than ten per cent, then the lien shall be null and void as to the article or articles upon which such overcharge is made.

1917, c. 134, s. 2.

2485. Commission in lieu of interest, where advance in money. Any person, firm, or corporation, including any bank or credit union, making any advancement in money to any person for the purpose of enabling such person to cultivate a crop, and taking as sole security for the advance so made a lien or mortgage on the crops to be cultivated and the personal property of the person to whom the advances are made, may charge, in lieu of interest, a commission of not more than ten per cent of the amount of money actually advanced: Provided, that money advanced under the provisions of this section shall be advanced in installments agreed upon at the time of the contract, and the ten per cent commission herein allowed shall not be deducted, but shall be added to the amount of money agreed to be advanced.

1917, c. 134, s. 3.

2486. Disposition of commission, where advanced by credit union. In case the money is advanced by a credit union, the funds derived from the ten per cent commission allowed in the preceding section shall be used to pay such interest as the union may pay for the money borrowed by it for the benefit of its members, and to cover losses sustained by the union on account of loans made to members, and to further cover any reasonable expenses incurred by the union in connection with the loans made to members, and the balance of said fund shall be returned to the borrowers at the end of each year.

1917, c. 134, s. 4.

2487. Purchasers for value protected. All liens or mortgages made under the provisions of this article shall be valid for their face value in the hands of purchasers for value and before maturity, even though the charges made are in excess of those allowed herein; but in such cases the party to whom the advances are made has the right to recover from the party making the advances any sum he may be compelled to pay a third party in excess of the charges allowed by this article.

1917, c. 134, ss. 5, 6.

2488. Crop seized and sold to preserve lien. If the person making such advances makes an affidavit before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such crops are, that the amount secured by said lien for such advances, or any part thereof, is due and unpaid, that the person to whom such advances have been made, or any other person having the said crop in his possession, is about to sell or dispose of his crop, or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinbefore provided for, accompanied with a statement of the amount then due, it is lawful for him to issue his warrant, directed to any of the sheriffs of this state, requiring them to seize the said crop, and, after due notice, sell the same for cash and pay over the net proceeds thereof, or so much thereof as may be necessary in the extinguishment of the amount then due. This proceeding shall not affect the rights of landlords or laborers.

Rev., s. 2054; Code, s. 1800; 1893, c. 9; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 2; 1872-3, c. 133, s. 2; 1883, c. 88.
Clerk superior court has power to revoke and supersede warrant issued under section, where same improvidently granted: Cottingham v. McKay, 86-241. Where, in proceeding under section, money arising from the sale of crop paid into court and proceeding dismissed, court has the power to order a return of the money to the defendant, although the plaintiff has instituted another action and files an affidavit that defendant is insolvent: Ibid. Where defendant denies that there is anything due for advances and there is a general verdict for plaintiff, it is error in court to refuse judgment because jury failed to assess damages: Gay v. Nash, 84-333. Not necessary to regularity of proceeding under section to enforce lien that summons should be issued to defendant: Thomas v. Campbell, 74-787.

2489. Lienor's claim disputed; proceeds of sale held; issue made for trial. If the person to whom the advances have been made, or who claims an interest in the crops, within thirty days after such sale has been made, gives notice in writing to the sheriff, accompanied with an affidavit, to the effect that the amount claimed is not justly due, it is the duty of the sheriff to hold the proceeds of such sale subject to the decision of the court upon an issue which shall be made up and set for trial at the next succeeding term of the superior court for the county in which the person to whom such advances have been made resides.

Rev., s. 2054; Code, s. 1800; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 2; 1872-3, c. 183, s. 2; 1883, c. 88; 1893, c. 9.

2490. Local: Short form of liens. For the purpose of creating a valid agricultural lien under the preceding sections for supplies to be advanced, and also to constitute a valid chattel mortgage as additional security thereto, and to secure a preexisting debt, the following or a substantially similar form shall be deemed sufficient, and for those purposes legally effective, in the counties of Alamance, Alleghany, Anson, Ashe, Beaufort, Bladen, Brunswick, Buncombe, Burke, Cabarrus, Carteret, Caswell, Catawba, Chowan, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Davie, Davidson, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Gaston, Gates, Granville, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hyde, Iredell, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Martin, McDowell, Mecklenburg, Moore, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Onslow, Pender, Pamlico, Person, Pitt, Polk, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Transylvania, Tyrrell, Union, Vance, Wake, Wake, Washington, Wayne and Wilson:

It is not necessary to incorporate such power in the instrument, but this section is sufficient authority for the same. The sale of any property described in any instrument executed under the provisions of this chapter may be made at any place in the county where such property is situated after ten days notice published at the courthouse door and three other public places in said county.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

2493. Requisites of marriage; solemnization. The consent of a male and female person who may lawfully marry, presently to take each other as husband and wife, freely, seriously and plainly expressed by each in the presence of the other, and in the presence of an ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or of a justice of the peace, and the consequent declaration by such minister or officer that such persons are man and wife, shall be a valid and sufficient marriage: Provided, that the rite of marriage among the Society of Friends, according to a form and custom peculiar to themselves, shall not be interfered with by the provisions of this chapter: Provided further, marriages solemnized before March 9, 1909, by ministers of the gospel licensed, but not ordained, are validated from their consummation.

Rev., s. 2081; Code, s. 1812; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 3; 1908, c. 47; 1909, c. 704, s. 2; 1909, c. 897.

No such thing as marriage simply by consent (so-called common-law marriage) in this state; history of marriage laws stated: State v. Wilson, 121-650.

Section only prescribes what constitutes valid marriage: State v. Brown, 119-827.

As to sham marriages, see State v. Wilson, 121-650; State v. Brown, 119-825. As to evidence of marriage, see Jones v. Reddick, 79-290; State v. Robbins, 28-23; Weaver v. Cryer, 12-337. As to marriage celebrated by ordained minister, who depends for his support upon some other occupation than minister, see In re Cunninggim, 60-397.

Marriage by law is complete when parties, able and willing to contract, have actually contracted to be man and wife in form and with the solemnities required by law: State v. Patterson, 24-346—and consummation by carnal knowledge not necessary to its validity, Ibid. Cohabitation between an Indian man and woman, according to ancient customs of their tribe, which leave parties free to dissolve the connection at pleasure, is not marriage: State v. Tachama-tah, 64-614—for there is but one law of marriage for all residents of this state, Ibid. While consent is essential to marriage in this state, it must also be acknowledged in manner and before person prescribed by section: State v. Wilson, 121-650.

Marriage brought about by threats of wife’s father and by false representations of pregnancy is valid: Bryant v. Bryant, 171-746.

Elder in colored Methodist church is an ordained minister of the gospel within meaning of section, and as such can celebrate rites of matrimony: State v. Parker, 106-711.

Validity of statutes curing marriages void for nonobservance of statutory formality: Cooke v. Cooke, 61-583.

For case under former enactment, see State v. Bray, 35-289.

2494. Capacity to marry. All unmarried male persons of sixteen years, or upwards, of age, and all unmarried females of fourteen years, or upwards, of age, may lawfully marry, except as hereinafter forbidden.

Rev., s. 2082; Code, s. 1809; R. C., c. 68, s. 14; 1871-2, c. 193.

Female at fourteen may lawfully marry: Whitaker v. Hamilton, 126-466. Male, being of marriageable age at eighteen, may be indicted for seduction under promise of marriage: State v. Creed, 171-387.

2495. Want of capacity; void and voidable marriages. All marriages between a white person and a negro or indian, or between a white person and person of negro or indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between a Cherokee indian of Robeson county and a negro, or between a Cherokee indian of Robeson county and a person of negro or indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between any two persons nearer of kin than first cousins, or between a male person under sixteen years of age and any female, or between a female person under fourteen years of age and any male, or between persons either of whom has a husband or wife living at the time of such marriage, or between persons either of whom is at the time physically impotent, or is incapable of contracting from want of will or understanding, shall be void: Provided, double first cousins may not marry; and Provided further, that no marriage followed by cohabitation and the birth of issue shall be declared void after the death of either of the parties for any of the causes stated in this section, except for that one of the parties was a white person and the other a negro or indian, or of negro or indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, and for bigamy.

Rev., s. 2083; Code, s. 1810; R. C., c. 68, ss. 7, 8, 9; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 2; 1887, c. 245; 1911, c. 215, s. 2; 1913, c. 123; 1917, c. 135.

The persons now known as Cherokee Indians of Robeson County were formerly known as Croatan indians. See chapter Indians, s. 6257.

For suits to nullify marriages contracted contrary to the provisions of this section, see section 1658 and annotations thereunder.

Action to nullify marriage is not technically action for divorce, though placed under chapter "Divorce," and although alimony pendente lite may be allowed: Taylor v. White, 160-38 (discussing Lea v. Lea, 104-603).

Marriage between white person and negro is void: Hare v. Board of Education, 113-9; Woodward v. Blue, 103-114; State v. Kennedy, 76-251—approved in State v. Cutshall, 110-552; State v. Hairston, 63-451; State v. Ross, 76-242; State v. Rheinhardt, 63-547; State v. Melton, 44-49; State v. Hooper, 27-201; State v. Fore, 23-378; State v. Watters, 25-455—meaning of "to third generation inclusive": Ferrall v. Ferrall, 153-174. Bigamous marriages void: Irby v. Wilson, 21-512. But only marriages prohibited between races and bigamous marriages are absolutely void; all other marriages prohibited hereunder must be declared void by the court, that is, are voidable: Watters v. Watters, 168-411.

Marriage between persons nearer of kin than first cousins, followed by cohabitation and birth of issue, cannot be declared void after death of either party, for court's power to declare void in such case confined to time when parties living: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293.

Marriage where one person under legal age is not void, but voidable: State v. Parker, 106-711—and ratified where parties continue as husband and wife after legal age reached, Koontz v. Wallace, 52-194. Court will not decree nullity where marriage followed by twenty years cohabitation as husband and wife: State v. Parker, 106-711.
To bring case of unlawful marriage within proviso to section it must be shown not only that one of parties dead, but that cohabitation and birth of issue followed unlawful marriage: Ward v. Bailey, 118-55.

Marriage between white person and negro in another state is valid in this state: State v. Ross, 76-534; State v. Schlachter, 61-520—but where they leave this state for purpose of celebrating such marriage and then of returning, such marriage void, State v. Cutshall, 110-552; State v. Kennedy, 76-251. Provisions of section prohibiting marriage between races are not in conflict with state constitution or amendments to federal constitution: State v. Hairston, 63-451.

It is competent for legislature to impose, and therefore to remove, conditions in respect to marriage relation: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293—but legislature cannot validate marriage which is nullity, as for want of consent, Cooke v. Cooke, 61-583.

Section to be considered with sections 2500 and 2503 in determining the inquiry to be made before issuing license: Joyner v. Harris, 157-296.

For case prior to enactment of section as to impotency of one of parties, see Smith v. Morehead, 59-360. Section referred to in Hopkins v. Bowers, 111-177.

As to Cherokee Indians of Robeson County, see section 6257.

2496. Prohibited degrees of kinship. When the degree of kinship is estimated with a view to ascertain the right of kinspeople to marry, the half-blood shall be counted as the whole-blood: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to invalidate any marriage heretofore contracted in case where by counting the half-blood as the whole-blood the persons contracting such marriage would be nearer of kin than first cousins; but in every such case the kinship shall be ascertained by counting relations of the half-blood as being only half so near kin as those of the same degree of the whole-blood.

Rev., s. 2084; Code, s. 1811; 1879, c. 78.

Section referred to: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-296.

2497. Marriages between slaves validated. Persons, both or one of whom were formerly slaves, who have complied with the provisions of section five, chapter forty, of the acts of the general assembly, ratified March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, shall be deemed to have been lawfully married.

Rev., s. 2085; Code, s. 1842; 1866, c. 40, s. 5.

Section valid: Bettis v. Avery, 140-186; Baity v. Cranfill, 91-298. Necessary consent to marriage is supplied by continuing cohabitation: Bettis v. Avery, 140-186—and such continued cohabitation, after passage of section, is conclusive evidence of party's consent to contract, Long v. Barnes, 87-329; State v. Whitford, 86-636—nor can such marriage be avoided by failure to have acknowledgment of same entered of record, Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628; State v. Whitford, 86-636; State v. Adams, 65-538. Relation of man and wife existing between former slaves, if continued until passage of act, culminated into valid marriage and is legalized by section: Nelson v. Hunter, 140-598; Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628; Bettis v. Avery, 140-186; State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Harris, 63-1.

This section has retroactive effect so as to legalize relation from beginning of it, thereby legitimatizing all offsprings of cohabitation born during entire period, and conduct of parents after passage of act could not render offspring of union illegitimate: Nelson v. Hunter, 140-598. Section intended for benefit of those who occupied such relations to each other exclusively, and not to others at same time: Branch v. Walker, 102-34.

As bearing upon section, see State v. Adams, 65-537. For case prior to enactment of section, see State v. Samuel, 19-177. Section merely referred to: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-178.

Art. 2. Marriage License

2498. Solemnization without license unlawful. No minister or officer shall perform a ceremony of marriage between any two persons, or shall declare them to be man and wife, until there is delivered to him a license for the marriage of the said persons, signed by the register of deeds of the county in which the marriage is intended to take place, or by his lawful deputy.

Rev., s. 2086; Code, s. 1813; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 4.

Marriage not invalid because solemnized without a license: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71; State v. Parker, 106-711; State v. Robbins, 28-23—or under an illegal license, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

2499. Penalty for solemnizing without license. Every minister or officer who marries any couple without a license being first delivered to him, as required by law, or after the expiration of such license, or who fails to return such license to the register of deeds within two months after any marriage celebrated by virtue thereof, with the certificate appended thereto duly filled up and signed, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who sues therefor, and he shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2087, 3372; Code, s. 1817; R. C., c. 68, ss. 6, 13; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 8.

Marriage not invalid because solemnized without license: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71; State v. Parker, 106-711; State v. Robbins, 28-23—or under illegal license, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71—and the only effect of marrying a couple without legal license is to subject officer or minister to penalty of $200, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-74; State v. Parker, 106-713; State v. Robbins, 28-23.

2500. License issued by register of deeds. Every register of deeds shall, upon application, issue a license for the marriage of any two persons, if it appears to him probable that there is no legal impediment to such marriage. Where either party to the proposed marriage is under eighteen years of age, and resides with the father, or mother, or uncle, or aunt, or brother, or elder sister, or resides at a school, or is an orphan and resides with a guardian, the register shall not issue a license for such marriage until the consent in writing of the relation with whom such infant resides, or, if he or she resides at a school, of the person by whom said infant was placed at school, and under whose custody and control he or she is, is delivered to him, and such written consent shall be filed and preserved by the register. When it appears to the register of deeds that it is probable there is a legal impediment to the marriage of any person for whom a license is applied, he has power to administer to the person so applying an oath touching the legal capacity of said parties to contract a marriage.

Rev., s. 2088; Code, s. 1814; 1887, c. 331; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 5.

The written consent of parents is the condition precedent to issue of license to one under eighteen years: Coley v. Lewis, 91-21. Written consent of mother sufficient, though stepfather dissents: Owens v. Munden, 168-266—but mother's consent insufficient where child living with father, Littleton v. Haar, 158-566.

This section and section 2503, being in pari materia, should be construed together: Williams v. Hodges, 101-305; Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398. As to inquiry to be made, section 2495 also to be considered: Joyner v. Harris, 157-296.

2501. Obtaining license by false representation misdemeanor. If any person shall obtain a marriage license for the marriage of persons under the age of eighteen years by misrepresentation or false pretenses, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3371; 1885, c. 346.

As to false pretenses generally, see section 4277.

2502. Form of license. License shall be in the following or some equivalent form:

To any ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or to any justice of the peace for ___________ county: A. B. having applied to me for a license for the marriage of C. D. (the name of the man to be written in full) of (here state his residence), aged ___ years (race, as the case may be), the son of (here state the father and mother, if known; state whether they are living or dead, and their residence, if known; if any of these facts are not known, so state), and E. F. (write the name of the woman in full) of (here state her residence), aged ___ years (race, as the case may be), the daughter of (here state names and residences of the parents, if known, as is required above with respect to the man). (If either of the parties is under eighteen years of age, the license shall here contain the following:) And the written consent of G. H., father (or mother, etc., as the case may be) to the proposed marriage having been filed with me, and there being no legal impediment to such marriage known to me, you are hereby authorized, at any time within sixty days from the date hereof, to celebrate the proposed marriage at any place within the said county. You are required, within sixty days after you shall have celebrated such marriage, to return this license to me at my office with your signature subscribed to the certificate under this license, and with the blanks therein filled according to the facts, under penalty of forfeiting two hundred dollars to the use of any person who shall sue for the same.

Issued this ___ day of ____________, 19___

L. M.,
Register of Deeds of ___________ County.

Every register of deeds shall designate in every marriage license issued the race of the persons proposing to marry by inserting in the blank after the word “race” the words “white,” “colored” or “indian,” as the case may be. The certificate shall be filled up and signed by the minister or officer celebrating the marriage, and also be signed by one or more witnesses present at the marriage, who shall add to their names their place of residence, as follows:

I, N. O., an ordained or authorized minister of (here state to what religious denomination, or justice of the peace, as the case may be), united in matrimony (here name the parties), the parties licensed above, on the ___ day of ____________, 19___, at the house of P. R., in (here name the town, if any, the township and county), according to law.

Witness present at the marriage: ___________ N. O.

S. T., of (here give residence).

Rev., s. 2089; Code, s. 1815; 1899, c. 541, ss. 1, 2; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 6; 1909, c. 704, s. 3; 1917, c. 38.

A blank marriage license, though signed by the register of deeds, is not issued until filled up and handed to person who is to be married, or to some one for him; and if, at the time of such issuance, register has become functus officio, failure to record it does not render him liable to penalty imposed by sections 2504 and 2505 for failure to record substance of each marriage license issued: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

2503. Penalty for issuing license unlawfully. Every register of deeds who knowingly or without reasonable inquiry, personally or by deputy, issues a license for the marriage of any two persons to which there is any lawful impediment, or where either of the persons is under the age of eighteen years, without the consent required by law, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any parent, guardian, or other person standing in loco parentis, who sues for the same.

Rev., s. 2090; Code, s. 1816; 1895, c. 387; 1901, c. 722; R. C., c. 68, s. 13; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 7.

Legal definition of “penalty”: Bd. of Ed. v. Henderson, 126-689. Register liable when he issues license to those under eighteen years without consent: Laney v. Mackey, 144-630.

When application made for license, register must be cautious and scrutinize application: Agent v. Willis, 124-29—to make reasonable inquiry whether there is any legal impediment to marriage, Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398—and where he is without knowledge of parties, it must appear probable to him upon reasonable inquiry that license may and ought to issue, Agent v. Willis, 124-29. The inquiry necessary to be made to relieve him from liability cannot be delegated to a deputy, but conducted by register himself: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71; Cole v. Laws, 108-185—for the trust is personal to the register, Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

This section and section 2495 are in pari materia and are to be construed together: Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398; Joyner v. Harris, 157-296.

Where register delivers license complete in form to person with instructions not to give same to parties until written consent of mother obtained, and same delivered without such consent, register liable for penalty: Coley v. Lewis, 91-21.

Issuing of license by register in violation of section not indictable offense: State v. Snuggs, 85-641—but penalty of $200 is prescribed to person aggrieved who shall sue therefor, Ibid.—and this mode of proceeding excludes that by indictment, unless illegal act be done mala fide, Ibid.

As to abatement of action by death of register, see Wallace v. McPherson, 139-297. As to power of legislature to relieve officer from penalty given by section by an act passed after bringing of action therefor, see Bray v. Williams, 137-387. For cases in which inquiry held to be reasonable, see Furr v. Johnson, 140-157; Harcum v. Marsh, 130-154; Joyner v. Roberts, 114-380; Walker v. Adams, 109-481; Bowles v. Cochran, 93-398. For cases in which inquiry held not to be reasonable, see Laney v. Mackey, 144-631; Morrison v. Teague, 143-186; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133-312; Cole v. Laws, 104-651; Williams v. Hodges, 101-300.

Sufficiency of written consent, see under section 2500.

Venue of action hereunder is in county in which cause of action arises: Dixon v. Haar, 158-341.

As to complaint in action hereunder, see Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174.

As to proper name under which to prosecute action, see Ibid.; see Norman v. Dunbar, 53-320.

Section merely referred to: Wilkinson v. Dellingzer, 126-462.

2504. Record of licenses and returns; originals filed. Every register of deeds shall keep a book (which shall be furnished on demand by the board of county commissioners of his county) on the first page of which shall be written or printed:

Record of marriage licenses and of returns thereto, for the county of ____________, from the ______ day of ____________, 19____, to the ______ day of ____________, 19____, both inclusive.

In said book shall be entered alphabetically, according to the names of the proposed husbands, the substance of each marriage license and the return thereupon, as follows: The book shall be divided by lines with columns which shall be properly headed, and in the first of these, beginning on the left, shall be put the date of issue of the license; in the second, the name in full of the intended husband, with his residence; in the third, his age; in the fourth, his race and color; in the fifth, the name in full of the intended wife, with her residence; in the sixth, her age; in the seventh, her race and color; in the eighth, the name and title of the minister or officer who celebrated the marriage; in the ninth, the day of the celebration; in the tenth, the place of the celebration; in the eleventh, the names of all or at least three of the witnesses who signed the return as present at the celebration. The original license and return thereto shall be filed and preserved.

Rev., s. 2091; Code, s. 1818; 1899, c. 541, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 9.
As bearing upon section, see Bray v. Williams, 137-387.
Section merely referred to: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.

2505. Penalty for failure to record. Any register of deeds who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any marriage license issued by him, or who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any return made thereon, within ten days after such return made, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who sues for the same.

Rev., s. 2092; Code, s. 1819; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 10.
Penalty given by section is as applicable to failure to record license or its substance, when issued, as to failure to record return thereof: Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174. Where at time of issuance of license register becomes functus officio, failure to record it does not render him liable to penalty: Maggett v. Roberts, 112-71.
As to name in which action for penalty should be prosecuted, see Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174. As to jurisdiction of action for penalty hereunder, see Ibid. As to constitutionality of act of legislature relieving register from penalty hereunder, passed after action brought for recovery thereof, see Bray v. Williams, 137-387.
CHAPTER 51

MARRIED WOMEN

Art. 1. Powers and Liabilities of Married Women.

2506. Property of married woman secured to her. The real and personal property of any female in this state, acquired before marriage, and all property, real and personal, to which she may, after marriage, become in any manner entitled, shall be and remain the sole and separate estate and property of such female, and shall not be liable for any debts, obligations or engagements of her husband, and may be devised and bequeathed, and, with the written assent of her husband, conveyed by her as if she were unmarried.

Rev., s. 2098; Const., Art. X, s. 6.

For purchase-money mortgage executed by husband alone, see Widows, s. 4101.

This section is identical with const., art. 10, s. 6, and reference is made to annotations thereunder. For other statutes affecting married women, see especially:

Chapter Conveyances, art. 2, conveyances by husband and wife (s. 997 et seq).

Sections of this chapter and cross-references thereunder.

MARRIED WOMEN'S RIGHTS UNDER CONSTITUTION AND STATUTES: GENERAL PROGRESS. Estate conferred on married women by const., art. 10, s. 6, was early held not to include as incidents either absolute power of disposal or general power to control; her "sole and separate estate" thereunder was assimilated to her separate equitable property; in the absence of additional legislation she was subject to the disabilities established with reference to her separate equitable estate by courts of equity; but unless prohibited by this provision, the legislature might remove all a married woman's incapacities and give her full power to contract: Pippen v. Wesson, 74-437.

The views thus laid down long controlled legislature and courts, but later decisions express the view that the constitutional provision by its own words gives the married woman complete control over her own property, except that husband's assent is required to her conveyance: See Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, and cases cited; also this chapter passim, especially sections 2510, 2515.

Whether present statutes are regarded as needed supplements to the constitutional provision, or as stating consequences implicitly contained therein, as result of enactments in this chapter, married women are fully emancipated as to property rights, except that they must have husband's consent to conveyance: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434.

And they are absolutely emancipated as to all contracts, except those with their husbands, as to which requirements of section 2515 control: Everett v. Ballard, 174-16; and see section 2507.

WHEN PROVISION TOOK EFFECT. Const., art. 10, s. 6, took effect for purposes of domestic policy upon its adoption by the state in April, 1868, and not when congress approved it: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434.

When marriage occurred before 1868, husband's vested rights in wife's property previously acquired (e. g., to reduce her choses in action to possession) were not affected; but wife's property acquired after 1868 became her separate property, though marriage was before that date: Morris v. Morris, 94-613. When land acquired and marriage occurred before 1868, husband can make good title without wife's joinder; otherwise if land acquired or marriage took place after such date: Castlebury v. Maynard, 95-281. Deed between husband and wife made before 1868 governed by law then existing: Walton v. Parish, 95-259. In action by wife to recover land, marriage since 1868 presumed: Lloyd v. Lloyd, 113-186.

Where marriage since 1868, husband taking title to land bought with wife's money holds as trustee for her: Kirkpatrick v. Holmes, 108-206; Ray v. Long, 128-90; Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413; Gidney v. Moore, 86-485; Cunningham v. Bell, 63-328; Lyon v. Akin, 78-258; see Vance v. Vance, 118-564.

Fact that husband, by mistake and ignorance, without wife's knowledge, takes notes and mortgage for wife's land to himself does not affect her title thereto or render securities subject to his debts: Rodman v. Harvey, 105-1.

STATUTE LIMITATIONS AGAINST MARRIED WOMEN. Since by const., art. 10, s. 6, wife's property is her own and beyond control of husband, and wife may sue husband in regard thereto (s. 454), and coverture not a disability to prevent running of statute of limitations, a claim which wife has against husband will be barred as in other cases: Graves v. Howard, 159-594.

TRANSFERS INTER VIVOS AND BY WILL. Word "conveyed" in constitutional provision has reference only to transfers and alienations of real estate: Vann v. Edwards, 135-661—and married woman may dispose of her personality as fully and freely as though unmarried, Vann v. Edwards, 135-661; Ball v. Paquin, 140-83; Rea v. Rea, 156-529.

Married woman may devise and bequeath her property as if unmarried, and her devise or bequest defeats her husband's claim as tenant by curtesy consummate: See section 2511.

Under const., art. 10, s. 6, and C. S., s. 2434, under chapter Liens, taken together, lien is given on property of married women for debts contracted for work and labor thereon: Ball v. Paquin, 140-83—for ruling that lien did not exist in the absence of valid contract, see Weathers v. Borders, 121-387; s. c., 124-610.

SEPARATE PROPERTY TRUSTS FOR MARRIED WOMEN SINCE CONSTITUTION. Deeds executed before 1868, creating separate property trusts for married women, were construed as creating active trusts, and were unexecuted by statute of uses, though no active duties imposed on trustee; but since 1868, to be saved from the operation of statute, active duties must be thrown on trustee, or there must be contingent estates to be preserved: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, following Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-154.

In deed in trust for sole and separate use of married woman, with restraint on anticipation, the restraint is void after husband's death (deed since 1868): Lee v. Oates, 171-717.

As to the power of married woman over her equitable separate estate under such a trust, see Hardy v. Holly, 84-661; Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244; Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

2507. Capacity to contract. Subject to the provisions of section 2515 of this chapter, regulating contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate, every married woman is authorized to contract and deal so as to affect her real and personal property in the same manner and with the same effect as if she were unmarried, but no conveyance of her real estate shall be valid unless made with the written assent of her husband as provided by section six of article ten of the constitution, and her privy examination as to the execution of the same taken and certified as now required by law.

Rev., s. 2094; Code, s. 1826; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 17; 1911, c. 109.

INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT. This section, the Martin act, passed March 6, 1911, has revolutionized the law as to married women's contracts. It repealed the statute which for forty years had controlled the subject, and rendered obsolete the mass of decisions construing the old law. This note contains the constructions of the section, and does not attempt to reproduce the obsolete cases interpreting the repealed statute. After the decisions on the statute, however, are given some references as to the former law.

General discussion of scope of statute and its bearing on married women's rights in Rea v. Rea, 156-529.

CONSTRUCTIONS OF SECTION. Section came before the court in a case involving the validity of a transfer or gift of corporate stock by a wife to her husband, made by filling out the blank endorsement on the stock certificate, without the formalities and private examination required by section 2515, and such transfer was upheld: Rea v. Rea, 156-529.

Section is prospective and not applicable to contracts made before its passage: Stephens v. Hicks, 156-239.

Section practically constitutes married women free traders as to all their ordinary dealings: Price v. Electric Co., 160-450, per Hoke, J.; McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463.

Married woman is liable upon her contract for the price of goods sold and delivered; for under section she may contract without husband's consent as freely as if unmarried, and husband need not be joined in suit on the contract: Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508.

Section does not, in absence of wife's contract to pay for necessaries or funeral expenses, impose a liability upon her estate therefor, both being proper charges against husband's estate: Bowen v. Daugherty, 168-242.

Contract by wife as surety for husband is valid without formalities required by section 2515, and wife is suable thereon alone: Royal v. Southerland, 168-405.

Married woman's contract to convey land, without privy examination, renders her liable in damages for its breach; but to render such contract enforceable specifically there must be joinder of husband and her privy examination: Warren v. Dail, 170-406. Wife liable in damages for breach of contract to convey lands, though contract made without husband's consent: Everett v. Ballard, 174-16.

Married woman, under section, liable upon her contracts as though unmarried; personal judgment may be recovered against her thereon, and upon execution issued, her property, real and personal, may be sold as though she were single, although the debt was not charged upon her property: Thrash v. Ould, 172-728. Married woman liable on her contracts, whether as individual or as partner: Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177-298.

Section cited: Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182.

LAW BEFORE ENACTMENT OF SECTION. Before the Martin act (this section), married woman's power to contract was greatly restricted. Indeed, she could make no personal contract, but following, as suggested in Pippen v. Wesson, 74-437, equitable doctrines as to her equitable separate estate, she could bind her separate statutory estate by "an engagement in the nature of an executory contract," which could be enforced against her property in a court having equity powers. The suit on such engagement resulted in a decree against the property charged, not in a judgment against her. See Thompson v. Coats, 174-193; Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296.

The validity and extent of such charge depended upon the consent of her husband, the nature of the debt or liability for which the charge was created, and the manner in which the charge was created or evidenced: Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296; Loan Assn. v. Black, 119-323, summary of Avery, J., pp. 326, 327; Ball v. Paquin, 140-83; Bank v. Benbow, 150-781.

The former law has been carefully worked out in an elaborate table with numerous citations by Dean S. F. Mordecai, which is inserted in full in Vann v. Edwards, 128-425, and again, with the author's permission, in Pell's Revisal as a part of the note to Rev., s. 2094. It has been referred to by the court or judges in opinions, see Everett v. Ballard, 174-16.

A reference to some leading cases, of special importance in the development of the law on this subject, follows:

Harris v. Johnson, 72-183 (1875). Married woman's bond without husband's consent void.

Pippen v. Wesson, 74-437 (1876). Pioneer case laying down principles which have had the widest effect. See under section 2506.

Dougherty v. Sprinkle, 88-300 (1883). No personal judgment against married woman on promise; no jurisdiction in justice of the peace, since suit is equitable.

Flaum v. Wallace, 103-296 (1889). Discussion of married woman's contracts by Shepherd, J.; necessity of husband's consent; method of charging real and personal property; note held express charge, although consideration not for wife's benefit.

Farthing v. Shields, 106-289 (1890). Married woman's power to charge her separate real property measured by her power to dispose of it, and therefore to require deed and privy examination.

Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352 (1903). Note of husband and wife, charging her separate estate, binds her personal property, but not her realty in absence of privy examination; obligation enforceable only in superior court, not before justice of peace. Discussion in opinion of court and in dissenting opinion.

Vann v. Edwards, 135-661 (1904). Married woman may sell and transfer her personal property as feme sole, without husband's consent. See section 2506 and notes.

Ball v. Paquin, 140-83 (1905). Contracts for labor and material on wife's land, which is described, bind her real property without express charge, if executed by husband and wife with privy examination. Full discussion of married women's contracts, with history and legislation to date, by Connor, J., and Clark, C. J.

Where a married woman domiciled in this state made a contract in another state, valid where it was made, it will not be enforced in this state unless it complies with the law here: Armstrong v. Best, 112-59 (1803); Bank v. Howell, 118-271—otherwise as to contract of non-resident, Bank v. Granite Co., 155-43.

2508. Capacity to draw checks. Bank deposits made by or in the name of a married woman shall be paid only to her or on her order, and her check, receipt or acquittance shall be valid in law to fully discharge the bank from any and all liability on account thereof.

Rev., s. 2095; 1891, c. 221, s. 30; 1893, c. 344.

2509. Conveyance or lease of wife's land requires husband's joiner. No lease or agreement for a lease or sublease or assignment by any married woman, not a free trader, of her lands or tenements, or chattels real, to run for more than three years, or to begin in possession more than six months after its execution, or any conveyance of any freehold estate in her real property, shall be valid, unless the same be executed by her and her husband, and proved or acknowledged by them, and her free consent thereto appear on her examination separate from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert.

Rev., s. 2096; Code, s. 1834; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 26.

As to requirements and formalities for married women's conveyances, see section 997.

Property having once become separate property of married woman, as by descent from ancestor as one of his heirs, her estate can only be conveyed by deed with formal legal requirements: Spears v. Woodhouse, 162-66; Sprinkle v. Spainhour, 149-223. See, also, as to estates by entireties, section 1735.

Conveyance of land in this state by a nonresident feme covert must comply with the law of this state: Wood v. Wheeler, 111-281; Smith v. Ingram, 130-100.

2510. Husband cannot convey, etc., wife's land without her consent; not liable for his debts. No real estate belonging at the time of marriage to females, married since the third Monday of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, nor any real estate by them subsequently acquired, nor any real estate acquired on and since the first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, by femes covert, who were such on the said third Monday of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, shall be subject to be sold or leased by the husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife first had and obtained, to be ascertained and effectuated by deed and privy examination, according to the rules required by law for the sale of lands belonging to femes covert. And no interest of the husband whatever in such real estate shall be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him; and every such sale is hereby declared null and void.

Rev., s. 2097; Code, s. 1840; R. C., c. 56; 1848, c. 41.

Sole purpose of section (act of 1848) in then state of law 'was to provide for her (wife) a home of which she could not be deprived either by the husband or by his creditors'; but neither this section nor constitution of 1868 destroyed tenancy by curtesy initiate: Houston v. Brown, 52-161; Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134; Cobb v. Rasberry, 116-137; Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549. Section prevented husband as tenant by curtesy initiate from selling or leasing wife's lands without her consent, evidenced by privy examination: McCaskill v. McCormac, 99-548—and prevented sale under execution against him, Cobb v. Rasberry, 116-137; Bruce v. Nicholson, 109-209.

Where marriage took place and issue born before constitution of 1868, section did not impair husband's right, as tenant by curtesy initiate, to rents and profits of wife's land: Cobb v. Rasberry, 116-137; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508, and cases cited. Where marriage was in 1867, but first child not born until ratification of constitution of 1868, husband has no vested rights to be impaired by const., art. 10, s. 6: Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549.
Since enactment of section husband may surrender his estate by curtesy initiate and let it merge in wife's reversion, and wife may, with husband's assent, sell same and receive all the purchase money: Teague v. Downs, 69-280.

Written lease of wife's land for five years, made by husband and wife subsequent to section, without her privy examination as required by section, is void as to wife and passes no interest of husband in rents and profits: Richardson v. Richardson, 150-549.

Tenancy by curtesy consummate remains as at common law: Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508.

CURTESY INITIATE SINCE CONSTITUTION OF 1868. By this section and const., art. 10, s. 6, tenancy by curtesy initiate is stripped of its common-law attributes until there remains only husband's right of occupancy with wife, with right of ingress and egress; by curtesy initiate husband still has freehold interest, but shorn of right to take rents and of power to lease: Walker v. Long, 109-510. See, also, discussion, with cases cited, in Sipe v. Herman, 161-107, and in opinion of court and of dissenting justices in Jackson v. Beard, 162-105. Wife now entitled to management and control of her separate estate and to receive rents and profits: Nelson v. Nelson, 176-191.

Tenant by curtesy initiate, being freeholder, is eligible as juror in cases where being freeholder is requisite: Hodgin v. R. R., 143-93; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; State v. Mills, 91-551.

Tenant by curtesy initiate has not such interest or estate in wife's land as will put in operation statute of limitations against either husband or wife in favor of one claiming title by adverse possession: Jones v. Coffey, 109-515.

As to curtesy generally, see section 2519.

2511. Capacity to make will. Every married woman has power to devise and bequeath her real and personal estate as if she were a feme sole; and her will shall be proved as is required of other wills.

Rev., s. 2095; Code, s. 1839; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 31.

The wife can dispose of her property acquired since 1868 by will, and thereby bar her husband's right of tenant by the curtesy: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434; Watts v. Griffin, 137-572; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132-947; Ex parte Watts, 130-237; Tiddy v. Graves, 126-620, 127-502. Married woman may devise legal and equitable separate estate, whether the trust is active or passive: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434.

2512. May insure husband's life. Any feme covert in her own name, or in the name of a trustee with his assent, may cause to be insured for any definite time the life of her husband, for her sole and separate use, and she may dispose of the interest in the same by will, notwithstanding her coverture.

Rev., s. 2099.

2513. Earning and damages from personal injury are wife's property. The earnings of a married woman by virtue of any contract for her personal service, and any damages for personal injuries, or other tort sustained by her, can be recovered by her suing alone, and such earnings or recovery shall be her sole and separate property as fully as if she had remained unmarried.

1913, c. 13, s. 1.

Married woman may sue for damages for personal injuries without joinder of husband, and her diminished earning capacity may be considered as an element of damages: Kirkpatrick v. Crutchfield, 178-348.

Former rule was that earnings of wife belonged to husband, but he might confer on her the rights thereto, and they were then regarded as her separate property, which she could recover by action in her own name: Syme v. R. R., 88-463; Hairton v. Glenn, 120-341; Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413; Price v. R. R., 160-450; Patterson v. Franklin, 168-75; McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463.

Section said to be result of Price v. R. R., 160-450; Patterson v. Franklin, 168-75, in concurring opinion; McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463, in concurring opinion.

2514. Savings from separate property; liability of husband for income. The savings from the income of the separate estate of the wife are her separate property. But no husband who, during the coverture (the wife not being a free trader under this chapter), has received, without objection from his wife, the income of her separate estate, shall be liable to account for such receipt for any greater time than the year next preceding the date of a summons issued against him in an action for such income, or next preceding her death.

Rev., s. 2100; Code, s. 1837; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 29.

Wife entitled to recover and hold to her own use her separate property and income therefrom, and agents managing same for her, including her husband, must account with her for sums received therefrom: Manning v. Manning, 79-300; Nelson v. Nelson, 176-191; State v. Lanier, 89-517. Income of separate estate belongs to wife, and husband liable to account for it, but not for more than a year: Faircloth v. Borden, 130-263; Wells v. Batts, 112-283—unless by special contract, Battle v. Mayo, 102-413.

When husband works wife's land, in the absence of any contract, he has no interest in the crop, but supplies furnished with wife's consent may be chargeable to her: Guano Co. v. Colwell, 177-218.

Only positive and unequivocal assent of wife to disposition by husband of crops grown on her land, and not mere silence, estops her to assert title to same: Branch v. Ward, 114-148.

2515. Contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate. No contract between a husband and wife made during coverture shall be valid to affect or change any part of the real estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, or to impair or change the body or capital of the personal estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, unless such contract is in writing, and is duly proved as is required for conveyances of land; and upon the examination of the wife separate and apart from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such officer that the wife freely executed such contract, and freely consented thereto at the time of her separate examination, and that the same is not unreasonable or injurious to her. The certificate of the officer shall state his conclusions, and shall be conclusive of the facts therein stated. But the same may be impeached for fraud as other judgments may be.

Rev., s. 2107; Code, s. 1835; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 27.

For married woman's power to contract as limited by this section, see section 2507. As to fraudulent conveyances and contracts between husband and wife, see sections 1005-1007. As to conveyances of married woman, see section 997.

Common-law rule that transactions between husband and wife regarding wife's separate property are void is modified by this section, and wife may contract with husband by complying herewith: Sims v. Ray, 96-87.

The purpose of the statute is to protect the wife from the influence and control the husband is presumed to have over her by reason of the marital relation, by an adjudication of the probate officer on her interests: Kearney v. Vann, 154-311; Sims v. Ray, 96-87; Howard v. Early, 126-170.

Section does not apply to gift by married woman to her husband of her personal property: Rea v. Rea, 156-529, discussed and explained in Singleton v. Cherry, 168-402; Butler v. Butler, 169-584; Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182.

The statutes do not limit married woman's acquisition of property, but merely restrict her disposition thereof: Osborne v. Wilkes, 108-651, and cases cited.

Deed from wife to husband not executed and probated as required by section is void: Wallin v. Rice, 170-417; Singleton v. Cherry, 168-402; Long v. Rankin, 108-333. Covenant of war-

Where land is bought with the wife's money and title is taken in the name of the husband, or of the husband and wife, this is in effect a conveyance of realty by her, and invalid unless executed in conformity with this section: Deese v. Deese, 176-527; Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182. So of investments by the husband of wife's property in personalty which would impair the body of the capital of her personal estate: Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182; Gooch v. Bank, 176-213. Wife's assignment to husband of her policy on his life so as to make it payable to him at her death must conform to section, as it would affect corpus of estate at her death: Sydnor v. Boyd, 119-481.

Contracts between husband and wife affecting wife's land must have the certificate required hereunder: Anderson v. Anderson, 177-401. Separation agreement fixing the property rights of husband and wife must be executed in conformity with section: Archbell v. Archbell, 158-409. Wife may appoint husband as her agent in ordinary way except where land is the subject of agency, and then this section must be complied with: Stout v. Perry, 152-312.

Where husband improves land with his own money, putting title in the wife, a gift to the wife is presumed, and there is no resulting trust to him: Arrington v. Arrington, 114-116. Improvements placed by husband on wife's land are presumed to be a gift to her: Nelson v. Nelson, 176-191; Kearney v. Vann, 154-311; Arrington v. Arrington, 114-116.

2516. Contracts between husband and wife generally; releases. Contracts between husband and wife not forbidden by the preceding section and not inconsistent with public policy are valid, and any persons of full age about to be married, and, subject to the preceding section, any married person, may release and quitclaim dower, tenancy by the curtesy, and all other rights which they might respectively acquire or may have acquired by marriage in the property of each other; and such releases may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of the rights and estates so released.

Rev., s. 2108; Code, s. 1836; 1871-2, c. 1938, s. 28.

Effect of section as modifying common law as to contracts between husband and wife: Sims v. Ray, 96-87, and see under section 2515.

Section declares all contracts between husband and wife, subject to restrictions of section 2515, valid unless contrary to public policy: Sydnor v. Boyd, 119-481.

Separation agreements, made in accordance with section 2515, are valid: Archbell v. Archbell, 158-409, and see section 2529.

Mutual releases by husband and wife of their interests in each other's property do not bar wife, in subsequent suit for divorce, from applying for temporary alimony and attorney's fees: Bailey v. Bailey, 127-474.

Where husband occupies wife's land for nine years under special agreement to account for rents, his notes to her for the rents are valid indebtedness from husband to wife: Battle v. Mayo, 102-413.

Policy of courts as to enforcement of contracts, founded on valuable consideration, between husband and wife, discussed: George v. High, 85-99.

Section merely referred to: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352.

See cross-references to other sections at beginning of annotations under section 2515.

2517. Wife's antenuptial contracts and torts. The liability of a feme sole for any debts owing, or contracts made or damages incurred by her before her marriage shall not be impaired or altered by such marriage. No man by marriage shall incur any liability for any debts owing, or contracts made, or for wrongs done by his wife before the marriage.

Rev., ss. 2101, 2106; Code, ss. 1822, 1823; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 13, 14.

A justice of the peace has jurisdiction of an action against a married woman to recover a debt contracted prior to her marriage: McAfee v. Gregg, 140-449; Bevill v. Cox, 109-269; Hodges v. Hill, 105-130; Neville v. Pope, 95-346.

Wife may appoint husband agent to settle antenuptial debts without formality required in section 2515: Stout v. Perry, 152-312.

2518. For wife's torts, husband jointly liable. Every husband living with his wife is jointly liable with her for all damages accruing from any tort committed by her and for all costs and fines incurred in any criminal proceeding against her.

Rev., ss. 2105; Code, s. 1838; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 25.

Where husband and wife are jointly sued for the wrong of the wife and the wife dies, the action abates: Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86-136. Common-law and statutory liability of husband for contracts and torts of wife discussed by Ashe, J., in Ibid. Husband jointly liable for torts of wife or her agent: Brittingham v. Stadiem, 151-299.

2519. Estate by the curtesy. Every man who has married or shall marry a woman, and by her has issue born alive, shall, after her death intestate as to the lands, tenements and hereditaments hereinafter mentioned, be entitled to an estate as tenant by the curtesy during his life, in all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof his said wife was beneficially seized in deed during the coverture, wherein the said issue was capable of inheriting, whether the said seizin was of a legal or of an equitable estate; except that when the wife has obtained a divorce a mensa et thoro, and is not living with her husband at her death, or when the husband has abandoned his wife, or has maliciously turned her out of doors, and they are not living together at her death; or if the husband has separated himself from his wife, and is living in adultery at her death, he shall not be tenant by the curtesy of her lands, tenements and hereditaments.

Rev., s. 2102; Code, s. 1838; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 30.

Tenancy by curtesy initiate is now, by constitution and statutes, stripped of common-law features and reduced to bare right of occupancy; but tenant by curtesy initiate still technically a freeholder: See section 2510—and regarded as having an interest in wife's land, Jackson v. Beard, 162-105; McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215. But compare Sipe v. Herman, 161-107, and dissenting opinions in Jackson v. Beard, 162-105.

Estate of husband as tenant by curtesy consummate remains as at common law, and is liable to sale under execution: Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; McClaskill v. McCormac, 99-548.

Husband must join in wife's deed to pass his interest in her land as tenant by curtesy initiate: McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215—and his act in joining is so far contractual that if he is infant at the time he may subsequently disaffirm the deed in apt time, Jackson v. Beard, 162-105. Husband as tenant by curtesy initiate is necessary party to suit respecting wife's land: McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215.

Wife's obtaining divorce a mensa suspends husband's rights in her lands until a reconciliation: Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134.

Where deed to wife, who bought and paid for land, was lost without registration, and after her death her husband procured a deed to be executed to himself, he held the land, by implication of law, as trustee for their children, subject to his life estate by the curtesy: Norcum v. Savage, 140-472.

LANDS SUBJECT TO CURTESY. For husband to have curtesy, wife must have had seizin in deed at common law: Nixon v. Williams, 95-103; In re Dixon, 156-26—exception as to wild lands, Pierce v. Wannett, 32-446. Where descent from ancestor in actual seizin is cast on married woman, actual entry is not necessary to entitle husband to curtesy: Childers v. Bumgarner, 53-297.

Where wife has life estate with power of appointment in fee at her death, husband not entitled to curtesy if she fails to appoint: Graves v. Trueblood, 96-495.

Where wife’s lands are mortgaged for husband’s debt, and mortgage is foreclosed after her death, surplus goes to heirs, charged with husband’s curtesy: Harrington v. Rawls, 136-65.

Wife’s devise of lands acquired since 1868 defeats husband’s curtesy: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, and see section 2511.

2520. In actions against wife, husband served and may defend. In all actions brought against a married woman, who is not a free trader (as hereinafter provided for), the summons shall be served upon the husband also, and on motion to the court in which the action is pending, he may be allowed, with her consent, to defend the same in her name and behalf, but no judgment shall be given against him upon any liability claimed against her arising before the marriage or upon any contract made by her alone after her marriage.

Rev., s. 2103; Code, s. 1824; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 15.

See generally, for cases where married woman may sue or be sued alone and when with her husband, section 454.

Since enactment of Martin act, section 2507, it is not necessary to join husband as defendant with the wife in an action on her contracts: Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508. Compare rule before act: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352. The effect of section 2507, as interpreted in Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508, is far-reaching and should be kept in mind in considering the cases cited hereunder.

A feme covert and her husband must be joined in action to recover property fraudulently conveyed to wife: Pender v. Mallett, 123-57. She may be sued alone in tort when husband abandons her: Heath v. Morgan, 117-504—in ejectment, when her husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned her, Finley v. Saunders, 98-462. A married woman, being a free trader, may consent to judgment fixing no personal liability upon her, without husband being joined: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494.

A husband, tenant by the curtesy initiate, has an interest in wife’s land and is a necessary party to a suit respecting it, and if he refuses to become a coplaintiff in an action by wife to assert her right to property, he should be made party defendant; but where action concerns her separate property or is between herself and her husband, she may sue alone: McGlennery v. Miller, 90-215, and see section 454.

Where husband and wife are jointly sued for wrong of the wife and the wife die, the action abates: Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86-136.

Where husband is a nonresident or fugitive from justice this section does not apply: Heath v. Morgan, 117-504. Where husband is an alien and never lived in or visited the United States, this section does not apply: Levi v. Marsha, 122-565.

Where husband and wife are sued together on joint obligation, it is duty of husband to defend for both and to set up wife’s inability in a proper case, and if he fail to do so, wife cannot have judgment against her set aside on ground of her incompetency to contract: Vick v. Pope, 81-22.

Judgment against married woman appearing in suit by counsel of husband’s selection is as binding as one against any other person unless it be obtained by the fraudulent combination of husband with adverse litigant: Ibid.
No judgment can be rendered against a husband who is joined with his wife in an action under section 454: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352; Nicholson v. Cox, 83-48; Vick v. Pope, 81-22.

In all actions whose object is to bind real estate belonging to a feme covert, service of summons must be made personally upon her as well as upon her husband: Rowland v. Perry, 64-578—and where it is not so done a judgment by default against wife must be vacated, Ibid.

A power of attorney, given by a married woman, to dismiss an action concerning her land need not be registered to give it validity: Hollingsworth v. Harman, 83-153.

Where feme covert, sued with husband as surety, accepts service of summons at husband’s instance, relying upon him to employ counsel and defend suit, and he does not, and judgment goes by default, judgment will be set aside at her instance on ground of excusable neglect: Nicholson v. Cox, 83-48.

Where a feme covert was sued with her husband, whom she instructed to make a proper defense to the action, which he failed to do, it is no ground for injunction to restrain collection of judgment in absence of fraud: Neville v. Pope, 95-346.

2521. Discharge of husband from defense; liability for costs. When a husband is allowed to defend for his wife, he may be ordered to pay costs for any misconduct, and may be discharged from the conduct of her defense, if it shall appear to the court that his defense is not bona fide in her interest.

Rev., s. 2104; Code, s. 1825; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 16.

ART. 2. ACTS BARRING RECIPROCAL PROPERTY RIGHTS OF HUSBAND AND WIFE

2522. Divorce a vinculo and felonious slaying a bar. When a marriage is dissolved a vinculo, the parties respectively, or when either party is convicted of the felonious slaying of the other or of being accessory before the fact of such felonious slaying, the party so convicted, shall thereby lose all his or her right to an estate by the curtesy, or dower, and all right to any year’s provision or distributive share in the personal property of the other, and all right to administer on the estate of the other, and every right and estate in the real or personal estate of the other party, which by settlement before or after marriage was settled upon such party in consideration of the marriage only.

Rev., s. 2109; Code, s. 1843; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 42.

Where a wife who had resided here, bona fide removed to Illinois, and instituted an action for divorce in one of the courts of that state, and the husband in this state appeared by attorney and defended the action there: Held, that he was bound by a decree for divorce on a verdict rendered in that action, and that his property rights in her estate here were terminate from its date: Arrington v. Arrington, 102-491.

Personal choses in action which belong to the wife reduced into possession by the husband, in the words of a recent author, remain his, but as to rights dependent on marriage, and not actually vested, a full divorce or the legal annihilation ends them: Arrington v. Arrington, 102-514.

For annotations upon the subject of divorce and alimony generally, see chapter Divorce and Alimony, sections 1655-1668.

For effect of divorce upon right to administer upon the estate of husband or wife, as the case may be, see section 10. For effect of divorce upon right of dower, see section 4099.

2523. Wife’s elopement or divorce a mensa at husband’s suit a bar. If a married woman elopes with an adulterer, or willfully and without just cause abandons her husband and refuses to live with him, and is not living with her husband at his death, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband, and also all right to a year’s provision, and to a distributive share from the personal property of her husband, and all right to administration on his estate, and also all right and estate in the property of her husband, settled upon her upon the sole consideration of the marriage, before or after marriage; and such elopement may be pleaded in bar of any action, or proceeding, for the recovery of such rights and estates; and in case of such elopement, abandonment, or divorce, the husband may sell and convey his real estate as if he were unmarried, and the wife shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right of dower therein.

Rev., s. 2110; Code, s. 1844; 1898, c. 153, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44.

Wife who commits adultery and is not living with husband at his death is thereby deprived of her dower: Phillips v. Wiseman, 131-402.

2524. Husband’s living in adultery, etc., or divorce a mensa at wife’s suit a bar. If a husband separates from his wife and lives in adultery, or willfully and without just cause abandons his wife and refuses to live with her, and such conduct on his part is not condoned by her, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the wife, he shall thereby lose all right to curtesy in the real property of the wife, and also all right and estate of whatever character in and to her personal property, as administrator, or otherwise; and also any right and estate in the property of the wife which may have been settled upon him solely in consideration of the marriage by any settlement before or after marriage, and in case of such adultery and abandonment or divorce, the wife may sell and convey her real property as if she were unmarried, and the husband, if there has been no condonation at the time of the conveyance, shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right to curtesy in such real property.

Rev., s. 2111; Code, s. 1845; 1898, c. 153, s. 4; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 45.

See section 12 and chapter Divorce and Alimony. Section referred to: Joyner v. Joyner, 151-181.

Art. 3. Free Traders

2525. Requisites of writing to make her free trader. Every married woman of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, with the consent of her husband, may become a free trader in the manner following:

1. By antenuptial contract, proved and registered, as hereinafter required; or,
2. By her and her husband signing a writing in the following or some equivalent form:

A. B., of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, wife of C. D., of _____________ county, with his consent, testified by his signature hereto, enters herself as a free trader from the date of the registration hereof.

(Signed) A. B.

C. D.

Witness: E. F.

Registered this _____ day of __________________, 19______

The said writing may be proved by the subscribing witness or acknowledged by the parties before any officer authorized to take the probate of deeds, and shall be filed and registered in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which the woman proposes to have her principal or only place of business.

Rev., s. 2112; Code, s. 1827; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 18, 19.
"The Martin act, s. 2507, practically constituted married women free traders as to all their ordinary dealings": Patterson v. Franklin, 168-75, per Hoke, J., for court.

There is no constitutional inhibition on the power of the legislature to declare where and how the wife may become a free trader, const., art. 10, s. 6, being intended to protect instead of disable her: Hall v. Walker, 118-377.

By proper construction of section 2514, where wife is not a free trader, the husband's liability is limited, but where she is a free trader his liability to account for her income received by him is unlimited except by the general law applicable to agents and other persons: Manning v. Manning, 79-302.

Being entered as a free trader does not enable a married woman to convey her land as if she were single: Council v. Pridgen, 153-443.

2526. Writing effective from registration. From the time of the registration of the writing mentioned in the preceding section, the married woman therein mentioned shall be a free trader, and authorized to contract and deal as if she were a feme sole.

Rev., s. 2113; Code, s. 1828; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 20.

The words "free trader," "contract," and "deal" herein refer to contracts in some business enterprise, and do not refer to conveyances of her realty by married woman: Council v. Pridgen, 153-443.

The following decisions were before enactment of section 2507: Where a married woman is a free trader and consents to a judgment which fixes no personal liability upon her, the husband need not be a party to the proceeding: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494. A feme covert may be sued in a court of the justice of the peace for a debt due by her, or on a contract made by her, before marriage, or for a debt contracted by her as a free trader: Neville v. Pope, 95-346; Hodges v. Hill, 105-130. Section merely referred to: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-357; Moore v. Wolfe, 122-715; Sanderlin v. Sanderlin, 122-1; Wilcox v. Arnold, 116-711; Green v. Ballard, 116-144; Weir v. Page, 109-223; Farthing v. Shields, 106-295; Flaum v. Wallace, 103-304.

2527. Certified copy as evidence. A copy of such writing, duly proved and registered and certified by the register of the county in which the same is registered, is admissible in evidence as certified copies of registered deeds are or may be allowed to be.

Rev., s. 2114; Code, s. 1829; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 21.

See section 2507.

Where it was averred and not denied that a married feme defendant was a free trader, and the judgment fastened no personal liability on her, held she was bound by judgment: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494—but per Montgomery, J., dissenting, the fact of free-tradership only provable by registered writing or certified copy. See Williams v. Walker, 111-604.

2528. Revocation by entry on record and publication. The right of a married woman to act as a free trader may be ended at any time by an entry by her, or by her attorney, in the margin of the registration of the writing above mentioned, to the effect that from the date of such marginal entry she ceases so to act, and by publication to that effect weekly for three weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which she had her principal or only place of business, or if there is none so published, then in any other convenient newspaper. But such entry and publication shall not impair any liabilities incurred previously thereto, nor prevent such married woman from becoming liable afterwards to any person whom she may fraudulently induce to deal with her as a free trader.

Section referred to: Ball v. Paquin, 140-83.
2529. Separation by divorce or deed; husband non compos. Every woman who is living separate from her husband, either under a judgment of divorce by a competent court or under a deed of separation executed by said husband and wife and registered in the county in which she resides, or whose husband has been declared an idiot or a lunatic, shall be deemed and held, from the docketing of such judgment, or from the registration of such deed, or from the date of such idiocy or lunacy and during its continuance, a free trader, and may convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband.

Rev., s. 2116; Code, s. 1831; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 23; 1880, c. 35.

See section 2507.

For married woman to be free trader on ground of husband's idiocy or lunacy, he should have been declared idiot or lunatic: Abbott v. Hancock, 123-99. Where husband idiot or lunatic, wife may convey under this section or proceed under section 2293: Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178-22.

Married woman whose husband is alien, who was never in United States, is personally liable on her contracts: Levi v. Marsh, 122-565.

2530. Abandonment by husband. Every woman whose husband abandons her, or maliciously turns her out of doors, shall be deemed a free trader, so far as to be competent to contract and be contracted with, and to bind her separate property, but the liability of her husband for her reasonable support shall not thereby be impaired. She may also convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband.

Rev., s. 2117; Code, s. 1832; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 24.

See section 2507, as modifying some decisions hereunder.

Married woman abandoned by husband may make valid deed, without joinder of husband: Bachelor v. Norris, 106-506; Pardon v. Paschal, 142-538.

Where husband is a nonresident and a fugitive from justice he is not a necessary party in an action against a married woman: Heath v. Morgan, 117-504. An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a married woman alone whose husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned his wife: Finley v. Saunders, 98-462. A wife abandoned by her husband may maintain an action for tort in her own name against a third person: Brown v. Brown, 121-8.

Right of abandoned married woman to contract in regard to her separate property as free trader discussed: Vandiford v. Humphrey, 139-65.

Any person wishing to build a water mill, who has land on only one side of a stream, shall issue a summons returnable to the superior court of the county in which the land sought to be condemned, or some part of it, lies, against the persons in possession and the owners of the land on the opposite side of the stream, and against such others as have an interest in the controversy, and the procedure shall be as is provided in other special proceedings, except so far as the same may be modified by this chapter.

Rev., s. 2122; Code, s. 1849; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 1.

The ground on which is presumed a grant of the privilege of ponding water on another's land for the purpose of a mill is that it has been enjoyed by the person claiming and those with whom he connects himself twenty years or more in the state or to the extent to which he claims: Gerenger v. Summers, 24-229—and it is no answer to this presumption that the height of the water had been sometimes lowered by a drought, or that the water had been occasionally let off for the purpose of repairing the mill and only for the period required for such purpose, Ibid.

A parol license granted to one to build a dam upon grantor's land, either voluntary or supported by a valuable consideration, may be revoked by the owner without incurring liability in damages, where notice is given and reasonable opportunity afforded to remove improvements put up thereunder: Rivett v. McKeithan, 90-106. The builder of the dam should have taken a conveyance of the easement, or pursued the remedy pointed out for the condemnation of land for mill purposes: Ibid.

An injunction will not be granted to restrain the erection of a dam whereby the mill wheel of the plaintiff is flooded, so as to become useless: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

A parol license ceases at death of licensor: Bridges v. Purell, 18-492.

2536. Commissioners to be appointed. If no just cause is shown against the building of such mill, the court shall appoint three freeholders, one of whom shall be chosen by the plaintiff, another by the defendants, and the third by the court, or if the plaintiff or defendants refuse or fail, or unreasonably delay to name a commissioner, the court shall name one in lieu of such delinquent party. These commissioners may be changed from time to time by permission of the court for just cause shown.

They may, if necessary, summon and examine witnesses, who shall be sworn by the presiding commissioner. Any commissioner named by or for either of the parties who, without just cause, fails to attend any meeting notified by the president, shall forfeit and pay to the opposite party fifty dollars; and if the president, in like manner, unreasonably delays to notify the other commissioners of a meeting, or fails to attend one that is appointed, he shall forfeit and pay to the plaintiff fifty dollars, and to the defendant a like sum.

2538. Oath and duty of commissioners. The commissioners shall be sworn by some officer qualified to administer an oath to act impartially between the parties, and to perform the duties herein imposed on them honestly and to the best of their ability. They shall view the premises where the mill is proposed to be built, and shall lay off and value a portion of the land of the plaintiff, not to exceed one acre in area, and an equal area of the land of the defendants opposite thereto, and report their proceedings to the court within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days.

Rev., s. 2125; Code, s. 1852; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 4.

2539. Contents of commissioners' report. The report of the commissioners shall set forth:
1. The location, quantities and value of the several areas laid off by them.
2. Whether either of them includes houses, gardens, orchards or other immediate conveniences.
3. Whether the proposed mill will overflow another mill or create a nuisance in the neighborhood.
4. Any other matter upon which they have been directed by the court to report, or which they may think necessary to the doing of full justice between the parties.

Rev., s. 2126; Code, s. 1853; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 5.

Proper for commissioners to report whether proposed mill will overflow another or create a nuisance: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334. Commissioners forbidden to include houses, etc., in survey; the valuation must be confined to the naked land: Burgess v. Clark, 35-109. Not necessary that all commissioners should sign report, a majority being sufficient: Austin v. Helms, 65-560.

2540. When building not to be allowed. If the area laid off on the land of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards, or other immediate conveniences; or if the mill proposed will overflow another mill, or will create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the proposed mill to be built.

Rev., s. 2127; Code, s. 1854; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 6.
Commissioners are not authorized to include in the valuation any houses found on the condemned area, even though erected there by petitioner before proceedings were commenced; valuation must be confined to naked land: Burgess v. Clark, 35-109. Commissioner must report whether proposed mill will overflow another mill, or will create a nuisance in the neighborhood: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

2541. Power of court on return of report. If the report is in favor of building the proposed mill, and is confirmed, then the court may, in its discretion, allow either the plaintiff or defendant to erect such mill at the place proposed, and shall order the costs, and the value of the opposite area, to be paid by the party to whom such leave is granted; and upon such payment, the party to whom such leave is granted shall be vested with title in fee to the opposite area. Such payment may be made into court for the use of the parties entitled thereto.

Rev., s. 2128; Code, s. 1855; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 7.

For costs, see section 1245.

2542. Time for beginning and building mill; to be kept up. The person to whom leave is granted shall, within one year, begin to build such water mill, and shall finish the same within three years; and thereafter keep it up for the use and ease of its customers, or such as shall be customers to it; otherwise, the said land shall return to the person from whom it was taken, or to such other person as shall have his right, unless the time for finishing the mill, for reasons approved by the court, be enlarged.

Rev., s. 2129; Code, s. 1856; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 8.

2543. Rebuilding mill after destruction. If a water mill belonging to a married woman, or a minor, a person of unsound mind, or imprisoned, falls, burns, or is otherwise destroyed, such person and his heirs shall have three years to rebuild and repair the same, and any person under any disability aforesaid shall have three years from the removal of the disability.

Rev., s. 2130; Code, s. 1857; 1903, c. 74, ss. 1, 2; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 9.

Art. 3. Condemnation for Races, Waterways, Etc., by Owner of Mill or Millsite 2544. Special proceedings; summons. Any person who has land on one or both sides of a stream and wishes to build a water mill, or has a water mill already built and may find it necessary for the better operation of said mill or the building of the said mill to convey water either to or from his mill by ditch, waterway, drain, mill-race or tail-race, or in any other manner, over the lands of any other person, or erect a dam to pond said water over the lands of any other person, or raise any dam already built, may make application by petition in writing to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said lands to be affected, or a greater part thereof, are situated, for the right to so convey the said water or pond the same by the erection of a dam or the raising of any dam already built; and the procedure shall be as in other special proceedings.

Rev., s. 2131; 1905, c. 554, s. 1a, k.

2545. Contents of petition. The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of said lands, and the character of the ditch, race, water-condemned on each side of the ditch, waterway or drain to be constructed or erected, and not more than thirty feet from each bank can be condemned.

Rev., s. 2132; 1905, c. 534, s. 1b.

2546. Commissioners to be appointed. Upon the hearing of the petition, if the prayer thereof be granted, the clerk shall appoint three disinterested persons qualified to act as jurors, and not connected either by blood or marriage with the parties, appraisers to assess the damage, if any, that will accrue to the said lands by the contemplated work, and shall issue a notice to them to meet upon the premises on a day specified, not to exceed ten days from the date of said notice.

2547. Oath and duty of commissioners. The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by the said work and assess the damage thereto and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued, who shall have power to confirm the same.

Rev., s. 2134; 1905, c. 534, s. 1d.

sation to be paid to the owners of the said lands and assessing the damages thereto by reason of the erection or construction of such waterway, ditch, drain or dam, they shall make an allowance or deduction on account of any benefits which the parties in interest may derive from the construction or erection of such waterway, ditch, drain or dam, and shall ascertain the damages, as near as may be, to the extent it may damage each acre of land so appropriated or occupied by the said mill-owner. The damage assessed by the appraisers under this article shall include all damages that the owners shall thereafter suffer or be entitled to by reason of the construction of the said waterways, races, ditches or dams.

Rev., s. 2135; 1905, c. 534, s. 1e, m.

within two hundred feet of the millsight or premises of a person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its

See section 2540.

2550. When petitioner may enter on lands. After the return of the appraisers and the confirmation thereof the petitioner shall have full right and power to enter upon said lands and make such ditches, waterways, drains, races or other necessary works and construct such dams: Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damage assessed as above to the owner of such lands or his known or recognized agent in this state. If the owner is a nonresident and has no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner: Provided further, that the mill-owner shall not be compelled to pay said damages so assessed unless he shall enter upon such lands and make ditches, drains or other works or erect such dam.

Rev., s. 2137; 1905, c. 534, s. 11.

2551. Owner of mills and millsites protected. No other person shall have the right to erect or maintain any dam, ditch, waterway, drain or race that will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of any person or body corporate who shall have erected a mill, dam, ditch, drain or race under the provisions of this chapter, or of any millsite owned by any person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction. When any person violates the provisions of this section the owner of said mill or millsite shall have a right of action against said person to tear down said dam or other works so built or erected to the extent herein forbidden and to abate the same as prescribed by law for the abatement of nuisances.

Rev., s. 2138; 1905, c. 534, s. 1h.

2552. Report to be registered. The petitioner, or any other person interested, may have the said assessment registered upon the certificate of the clerk, and shall pay the register the usual legal fees for registering such instruments in his office.

Rev., s. 2139; 1905, c. 534, s. 1i.

3553. Fees of appraisers. Each appraiser shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for each day actually employed in making said assessment, to be paid by the petitioner.

Rev., s. 2140; 1905, c. 534, s. 1j.

2554. Obstructing mill races or dams a misdemeanor. Any person who shall obstruct any drain, ditch or dam constructed under this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., 3381; 1905, c. 534, s. 1i.

Art. 4. Recovery of Damages for Erection of Mill

2555. Action in superior court; procedure. Any person conceiving himself injured by the erection of any grist-mill, or mill for other useful purposes, may issue his summons returnable before the judge of the superior court of the county where the damaged land or any part thereof lies, against the persons authorized to be made parties defendant. In his complaint he shall set forth in what respect and to what extent he is injured, together with such other matters as may be necessary to entitle him to the relief demanded. The court shall then proceed to hear and determine all the questions of law and issues of fact arising on the pleadings as in other civil actions.

Rev., s. 2141; Code, s. 1858; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 1.

General history of the law with respect to actions for ponding water reviewed in Hester v. Broach, 84-253.

An executor or administrator has a right to pursue the remedy provided for damages for the overflowing by a millpond of his testator’s or intestate’s land in the lifetime of such testator or intestate: Howcott v. Warren, 29-20—and one whose land is overflowed by a millpond may have an action against the executor or administrator of the person who erected the mill and dam, Howcott v. Coffield, 29-24. Heir cannot be sued for ancestor’s erecting mill or dam which causes overflow of land: Fellow v. Fulgham, 7-254.

One is not obliged to wait until the expiration of a year before he files his petition here-under: Cochran v. Wood, 28-194. Plaintiff must state in his petition in what respect he was injured, and his proofs cannot go beyond his allegations: Bridgers v. Purcell, 23-232. When suit is brought within the year damages are necessarily limited to the time injury has existed: Ibid.

Injury arising to adjacent land by the overflowing of the waters of a millpond is a tort; although the statute has given a new remedy for it, it has not altered its nature: Wilson v. Myers, 11-73.

Where erection of a mill on a stream causes water to overflow land or mill of another only when stream is swollen, that circumstance will not excuse party from damage altogether, but will only diminish the quantum: Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50.

It is not competent as defense to show that the effect of the backing of water on the lands of adjoining owners was beneficial: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95. It is competent to show the condition of the banks of the stream above and below the dam in order to show that this condition was not caused by erection of dam: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95. The mere raising of a stream within its banks, although it is not thrown out of them, is an injury to land through which it runs: Little v. Stanback, 63-285. It is competent to show, in an action for ponding water by increase in the height of defendant’s dam, that, by direction of defendant, dam was built so as not to pond water above old water-marks. To sustain the action plaintiff must show affirmatively that alleged increased volume of water was occasioned by increased size of dam: Godfrey v. Maberry, 84-255.

As to whether the injury for which damage can be claimed refers only to the physical injury of the land, or includes injury to health, etc., see Gillett v. Jones, 18-339; Waddy v. Johnson, 27-333; Bridgers v. Purcell, 23-232; Purcell v. McCallum, 18-221.

Damages may be recovered for injury to land resulting proximately from the maintenance by defendant of a dam, though such injury was aggravated by other causes not within defendant’s control: Cline v. Baker, 118-780. Where sole issue was whether defendant’s dam injured plaintiff’s land, through which a creek passed before emptying into the pond above the dam, it was not error to instruct the jury that if the injury resulted from filling up creek with sand between plaintiff’s land and the pond, by washing of hillsides, falling of leaves and branches, and failure to clean out channel, plaintiff could not recover, provided those obstructions did not result from the maintenance of dam: Ibid.

If plaintiff’s land be overflowed by water on account of defendant’s dam, he is entitled to nominal damages: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-103; McGee v. Fox, 107-769; Wright v. Stowe, 49-516. Plaintiff has right to have question submitted to jury whether overflow was injurious; and any former benefits the land may have received from such overflow has nothing to do with the question: Kimel v. Kimel, 49-121; McGee v. Fox, 107-766.

As to relative rights of owners of land through which nonnavigable streams flow with reference to use of the water thereof, see Durham v. Cotton Mills; 141-615; Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50. Conveyance made to defeat, hinder, or delay a party injured by the erection of a mill in his recovery of damages is fraudulent and void as to such party, and the owner of such mill remains liable for damages: Purcell v. McCallum, 18-221. The remedy under this article does not apply to an action for damages for trespass committed on plaintiff’s land: Henley v. Wilson, 77-216.

Sale of mill property held to pass as appurtenant an easement to pond water above mill to extent that it was done at time of the conveyance: Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285—but not to pass as appurtenant thereto an easement in another tract in which vendor had an interest under a resulting trust, when no easement actually existed, Ibid.

Where one pays for certain property which he has another purchase in his own name, the mere fact that the one paying for the property intended at some future time to raise a dam on his own property so as to back water upon the other does not ipso facto create an easement in the other property: Latta v. Power Co., 146-285. A covenant in a deed held expressly confined to dams which might be placed in a river on lands within the boundaries mentioned: Ibid.

Dam erected below a steam mill for purpose of floating timber to mill and not for purpose of driving machinery of mill, by which water is ponded back upon land of another, does not come within meaning of section: Bryan v. Burnett, 47-305.

Where milldam so obstructs water as to prevent land from being drained, the owner is entitled to damages: Johnson v. Roane, 48-523; Wilhelm v. Burleyson, 106-381; Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334.

Under this chapter it is no objection that some who did the injury were mere temporary owners; if their interest was limited, it should have been offered when the five years judgment was about to be entered up: Wilson v. Myers, 11-73.

Evidence admissible to show that defendant had been warned against shutting down his flood-gates and had been told of the custom of a former owner of the dam in raising the flood-gates: Hardin v. Ledbetter, 103-90.

HOW JURY MUST ASSESS DAMAGES. An issue involving amount of annual damage done by ponding water is the proper one to be submitted to the jury: Hester v. Broach, 84-251.

Jury has no right to go back farther than one year in assessing damages, but if they do, the error may be corrected in the judgment: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207; Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50.

In assessing damages jury are not bound to give damages at an average for five years, but may assess sums for different periods during that time: Pugh v. Wheeler, 19-50. It is error to charge the jury that to entitle plaintiff to nominal damages he must show damages capable of being estimated, perceptible, as an appreciable quantity: Chaffin v. Mfg. Co., 135-95; McGee

v. Fox, 107-769; Wright v. Stowe, 49-516. Verdict of jury in cases hereunder and judgment of court thereon are conclusive as to assessment of damages up to time judgment rendered: Beatty v. Conner, 34-341; Burnett v. Nicholson, 86-99. Where jury finds damages are different for different years, they should assess them separately for each year: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-

207. By this section damages are to be assessed for five years as they were prior to 1877:
Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207.

Where defendant erected another mill and dam lower down the stream which ponded water on plaintiff’s mill, the measure of damage is the injury actually sustained up to time of trial, and in estimating same, decrease of custom (in the matter of tolls) cannot be considered:
Burnett v. Nicholson, 86-99—and evidence to show how much it will cost plaintiff to raise his dam and water wheel to escape injury complained of was properly excluded: Ibid.

Where a second action is brought hereunder damages should be assessed for the time between the commencement of the first action and the commencement of the second: Bradley v. Amis, 3-399; Moore v. Love, 48-215.

Damages to plaintiff’s land can be estimated by comparing its productiveness before and

For assessment of damages where mill overflowed by backing water thereon, see Hardin v.
Ledbetter, 103-90.

2556. When dams abated as nuisances. When damages are recovered in final judgment in such civil actions, and execution issues and is returned unsatisfied, and the plaintiff is not able to collect the same either because of the insolvency of the defendant or by reason of the exemptions allowed to defendant, the judge shall, on the facts being made to appear before him by affidavit or other evidence, order that the dam, or portion of the dam, or other cause creating the injury, shall be abated as a nuisance, and he shall have power to make all necessary orders to effect this purpose.

Rev., s. 2142; Code, s. 1889; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 3.
An injunction will not be granted to restrain erection of dam whereby mill wheel of plaintiff is flooded so as to become useless: Burnett v. Nicholson, 72-334—because for such injury damage will adequately compensate, and should annual damage exceed twenty dollars, plaintiff is remitted to his common-law action and can compel abatement of nuisance, Ibid.

No injunction issues to restrain the rebuilding of a mill when it is for the public benefit that it be rebuilt: Daughtry v. Warren, 85-136.

Case where party indicted for keeping up nuisance created by ponding water not strictly within scope of this section: State v. Holman, 104-861.

2557. Judgment for annual sum as damages. A judgment giving to the plaintiff an annual sum by way of damages shall be binding between the parties for five years from the issuing of the summons, if the mill is kept up during that time, unless the damages are increased by raising the water or otherwise.

In all cases where the final judgment of the court assesses the yearly damage of the plaintiff as high as twenty dollars, nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, from suing as heretofore, and in such case the final judgment aforesaid shall be binding only for the year's damage preceding the issuing of the summons.

Rev., ss. 2143, 2144; Code, ss. 1560, 1861; 1565-6, c. 158, ss. 12, 14.

If, at the trial, five years have elapsed since the filing of the petition, a peremptory judgment for annual damages for five years is proper, whether such annual damage be above or below twenty dollars: Gillett v. Jones, 18-339.

Owners of land granted license to other persons "to build a mill and back water on us, so they don't back on our bottoms": Held, that the license is exceeded when the dam is raised to such height that water is ponded back so as to sub the "bottoms" and render drainage impossible, and make them unfit for cultivation, although they are not actually overflowed: Cagle v. Parker, 97-271.

Easement obtained by twenty years possession does not protect owner of dam from liability on account of new injury: Powell v. Lash, 64-456.

Where annual damages are assessed at less than twenty dollars per annum, judgment is for five years including year preceding the filing of petition, for each year's damages so assessed, with a cessat executio for each year after the first year: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207.

Owner of land injured by erection of mill, who has proceeded by petition, under which annual damage assessed is as high as twenty dollars, and who has taken judgment for and received damage for the whole five years, cannot maintain an action on the case, brought after expiration of five years, without having again ascertained the annual damage by proceeding under a second petition: Gilliam v. Canady, 33-106.

Judgment for permanent damages for a certain time for ponding water does not estop subsequent action to recover permanent damages since that time: Candler v. Electric Co., 135-12.

Where damages assessed at as much as twenty dollars a year, judgment was the same as when assessed at less than twenty dollars, except that plaintiff had his election to take judgment for five years, or only for one year preceding filing of petition, in which case he is at liberty to bring his action at common law; but if action was continued for more than five years, judgment was for entire amount, and plaintiff was barred of his election: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-207.

Where jury found that land was damaged $80 per year, and his honor gave judgment for a sum in gross, and not for each year's damage, held no error: Goodson v. Mullen, 92-211; Gillett v. Jones, 18-339.

2558. Final judgment; costs and execution. If the final judgment of the court is that the plaintiff has sustained no damage, he shall pay the costs of his proceeding; but if the final judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, he shall have... execution against the defendant for one year’s damage, preceding the issuing of the summons, and for all costs: Provided, that if the damage adjudged does not amount to five dollars, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages. And if the defendant does not annually pay the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, before it falls due, the sum adjudged as the damages for that year, the plaintiff may sue out execution for the amount of the last year’s damage, or any part thereof which may remain unpaid.

Rev., s. 2145; Code, s. 1862; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 15.

Jury having assessed in this case but one dollar damages, the court did right in giving plaintiff no more costs than damages under the act of 1833: Bridges v. Purcell, 23-232.

1913, c. 41, s. 1.

The general purpose of the act of 1907, c. 218, which has been supplanted by this chapter, was to prevent the formation of trusts and combinations which might buy out or crush out competition: Wooten v. Harris, 153:43.

An agreement by milk dealers to raise the price of milk is an indictable offense at common law and also under this chapter: State v. Craft, 168:208. See section 2563.

2582. Any restraint in violation of common law included. Any act, contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce which violates the principles of the common law is hereby declared to be in violation of the preceding section of this chapter.

1913, c. 41, s. 2.

2583. Burden of proof as to reasonableness on defendant. All contracts, combinations in the form of trust, and conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce prohibited in the two preceding sections of this chapter are hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, unless the persons entering into such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce can show affirmatively upon an indictment or civil action for violation of the preceding sections of this chapter that such contract, combination in the form of trust, conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce does not injure the business of any competitor, or prevent any one from becoming a competitor because his or its business will be unfairly injured by reason of such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce.

1913, c. 41, s. 3.
Section referred to in Shute v. Shute, 176-462.

2562. Contracts to be in writing. No contract or agreement hereafter made, limiting the rights of any person to do business anywhere in the state of North Carolina shall be enforceable unless such agreement is in writing duly signed by the party who agrees not to enter into any such business within such territory: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to legalize any contract or agreement not to enter into business in the state of North Carolina, or at any point in the state of North Carolina, which contract is now illegal, or which contract is made illegal by any other section of this chapter.

1913, c. 41, s. 4.
See contracts requiring writing, ch. 19.

2563. Particular acts defined. In addition to the matters and things hereinbefore declared to be illegal, the following acts are declared to be unlawful, that is, for any person, firm, corporation, or association directly or indirectly to do or to have any contract, express or knowingly implied, to do any of the acts or things specified in any of the subsections of this section.

1. To agree or conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association to put down or keep down the price of any article produced in this state by the labor of others, which article the person, firm, corporation or association intends, plans or desires to buy.

2. To make a sale of any goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value whatsoever in North Carolina, whether directly or indirectly, or through any agent or employee, upon the condition that the purchaser thereof shall not deal in the goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value of a competitor or rival in the business of the person, firm, corporation or association making such sales.

A contract to sell patterns of a certain kind for a dealer and not to sell other patterns in competition is in violation of this subsection: Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165-453.

3. To willfully destroy or injure, or undertake to destroy or injure, the business of any opponent or business rival in the state of North Carolina with the purpose or intention of attempting to fix the price of anything of value when the competition is removed.

Attempting to injure or destroy the business of a competitor in the sale of ice: Smith v. Ice Co., 159-151.

4. Who directly or indirectly buys or sells within the state, through himself or itself, or through any agent of any kind or as agent or principal, or together with or through any allied, subsidiary or dependent person, firm, corporation or association, any article or thing of value which is sold or bought in the state to injure or destroy or undertake to injure or destroy the business of any rival or opponent, by lowering the price of any article or thing of value sold, so low, or by raising the price of any article or thing of value bought, so high as to leave an unreasonable or inadequate profit for a time, with the purpose of increasing the profit on the business when such rival or opponent is driven out of business, or his or its business is injured.
5. Who deals in any thing of value within the state of North Carolina, to give away or sell, at a place where there is competition, such thing of value at a price lower than is charged by such person, firm, corporation or association for the same thing at another place, where there is not good and sufficient reason, on account of transportation or the expense of doing business, for charging less at the one place than at the other, with the view of injuring the business of another.

6. Who is engaged in buying or selling any thing of value in North Carolina, to make or have any agreement or understanding, express or implied, with any other person, firm, corporation or association, not to buy or sell such things of value within certain territorial limits within the state, with intention of preventing competition in selling or to fix the price or prevent competition in buying of such things of value within these limits: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent an agent from representing more than one principal. But nothing in this proviso shall be construed to authorize two or more principals to employ a common agent for the purpose of suppressing competition or lowering prices: Provided further, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a person, firm or corporation from selling his or its business and good will to a competitor, and agreeing in writing not to enter the business in competition with the purchaser in a limited territory, as is now allowed under the common law: Provided, such agreement shall not violate the principles of the common law against trusts and shall not violate the provisions of this chapter.

1913, c. 41, s. 5.

An agreement to prevent competition in ginning cotton within a certain territory is invalid: Shute v. Shute, 176-462. An agreement to prevent competition in the sale of flour is invalid: Culp v. Love, 127-457. An agreement to fix or raise the price of milk is illegal: State v. Craft, 168-208. Agreements interfering with competition are subject to the construction of the court as to reasonableness: Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176-330.

2564. Violation a misdemeanor; punishment. Any corporation, either as agent or principal, violating any of the provisions of preceding section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall upon conviction be fined not less than one thousand dollars for each and every offense, and any person, whether acting for himself or as officer of any corporation or as agent of any corporation or person violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

2565. Persons encouraging violation guilty. Any person, being either within or without the state, who encourages or willfully allows or permits any agent or associates in business in this state to violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in the preceding section.
1913, c. 41, s. 6.

2566. Continuous violations separate offenses. Where the things prohibited in this chapter are continuous, then in such event, after the first violation of any of the provisions hereof, each week that the violation of such provision shall continue shall be a separate offense.
1913, c. 41, s. 7.

2567. Duty of attorney-general to investigate. The attorney-general of the state of North Carolina shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to investigate, from time to time, the affairs of all corporations doing business in this state, which are or may be embraced within the meaning of the statutes of this state defining and denouncing trusts and combinations against trade and commerce, or which he shall be of opinion are so embraced, and all other corporations in North Carolina doing business in violation of law; and all other corporations of every character engaged in this state in the business of transporting property or passengers, or transmitting messages, and all other public-service corporations of any kind or nature whatever which are doing business in the state for hire. Such investigation shall be with a view of ascertaining whether the law or any rule of the North Carolina corporation commission is being or has been violated by any such corporation, officers or agents or employees thereof, and if so, in what respect, with the purpose of acquiring such information as may be necessary to enable him to prosecute any such corporation, its agents, officers and employees for crime, or prosecute civil actions against them if he discovers they are liable and should be prosecuted.
1913, c. 41, s. 8.

2568. Power to compel examination. In performing the duty required in the preceding section, the attorney-general shall have power, at any and all times, to require the officers, agents or employees of any such corporation, and all other persons having knowledge with respect to the matters and affairs of such corporations, to submit themselves to examination by him, and produce for his inspection any of the books and papers of any such corporations, or which are in any way connected with the business thereof; and the attorney-general is hereby given the right to administer oath to any person whom he may desire to examine. He shall also, if it may become necessary, have a right to apply to any judge of the supreme or superior court, after five days notice of such application, for an order on any such person or corporation he may desire to examine to appear and subject himself or itself to such examination, and disobedience of such order shall constitute contempt, and shall be punishable as in other cases of disobedience of a proper order of such judge.
1913, c. 41, s. 9.

2569. Person examined exempt from prosecution. No person examined, as provided in the preceding section, shall be subject to indictment, prosecution, punishment or penalty by reason or on account of anything disclosed by him upon such examination, and full immunity from prosecution and punishment by reason or on account of anything so disclosed is hereby extended to all persons so examined.

1913, c. 41, s. 9.

2570. Refusal to furnish information; false swearing. Any corporation unlawfully refusing or willfully neglecting to furnish the information required by this chapter, when it is demanded as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one thousand dollars: Provided, that if any corporation shall in writing notify the attorney-general that it objects to the time or place designated by him for the examination or inspection provided for in this chapter, it shall be his duty to apply to a judge of the supreme or superior court, who shall fix an appropriate time and place for such examination or inspection, and such corporation shall, in such event, be guilty under this section only in the event of its failure, refusal or neglect to appear at the time and place so fixed by the judge and furnish the information required by this chapter. False swearing by any person examined under the provisions of this chapter shall constitute perjury, and the person guilty of it shall be punishable as in other cases of perjury.

1913, c. 41, s. 10.

2571. Criminal prosecution; solicitors to assist; expenses. The attorney-general in carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall have a right to send bills of indictment before any grand jury in any county in which it is alleged this chapter has been violated or in any adjoining county, and may take charge of and prosecute all cases coming within the purview of this chapter, and shall have the power to call to his assistance in the performance of any of these duties of his office which he may assign to them any of the solicitors in the state, who shall, upon being required to do so by the attorney-general, send bills of indictment and assist him in the performance of the duties of his office: Provided, that the state shall pay the actual and necessary expenses of the solicitor incurred while performing such duties and not over one hundred dollars as an extra fee when the expense account is approved by the attorney-general and governor and duly audited, and the amount of the fee is fixed by them.

The necessary expenses incident to carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall, when approved by the governor and audited, be paid out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

1913, c. 41, s. 13.

2572. Remedy by civil action. If it shall become necessary to do so, the attorney-general may prosecute civil actions in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general to obtain a mandatory order to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the venue shall be in any county as selected by the attorney-general.

1913, c. 41, s. 11.

2573. In what name civil action prosecuted. It shall be the duty of the attorney-general, upon his ascertaining that the laws have been violated by any trust or public-service corporation, so as to render it liable to prosecution in a civil action, to prosecute such action in the name of the state, or any officer or department thereof, as provided by law, or in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general, and to prosecute all officers or agents or employees of such corporations, whenever in his opinion the interests of the public require it.

1913, c. 41, s. 12.

2574. Civil action by person injured; treble damages. If the business of any person, firm or corporation shall be broken up, destroyed or injured by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of the provisions of this chapter, such person, firm or corporation so injured shall have a right of action on account of such injury done, and if damages are assessed by a jury in such case judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for treble the amount fixed by the verdict.

1913, c. 41, s. 14.

Under act of 1907, c. 218, plaintiff could recover actual and punitive damages: Smith v. Ice Co., 159-151.
CHAPTER 54

MORTGAGES AND DEEDS OF TRUST

ART. 1. CHATTEL MORTGAGES: FORM AND SUFFICIENCY.

2575. Form of chattel mortgage. Any person indebted to another in a sum to be secured may execute a chattel mortgage in form substantially as follows:

I, _____________________________, of the county of ______________________ in the state of North Carolina, am indebted to ______________________, of ______________________ county, in said state, in the sum of ______________________ dollars, for which he holds my note to be due the ______ of ______________________, A. D. 19_____, and to secure the payment of the same, I do hereby convey to him these articles of personal property, to wit: ______________________

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------
but on this special trust, that if I fail to pay said debt and interest on or before the _____ day of ______________________, A. D. 19_____, then he may sell said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, by public auction for cash, first giving twenty days notice at three public places, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt and interest on the same, and pay any surplus to me.

Given under my hand and seal this _____ day of ______________________, A. D. 19_____

---------------------------------------------------------------------------------- (Seal).

Rev., s. 1039; Code, s. 1273; 1870-1, c. 277; 1911, c. 69, s. 1.

No particular form essential to validity of chattel mortgage; it is sufficient if words employed express, in terms or by just implication, purpose to convey property as security for debt: Noland v. Osborne, 177-14; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321; Strouse v. Cohen, 113-349; Comron v. Standland, 103-267. For instrument held to be sufficient as chattel mortgage: Ibid.; Weil v. Flowers, 109-212; Nichols v. Speller, 120-75; Millhiser v. Pleasants, 118-237; 1131

As bearing upon section, see Brown v. Miller, 108-395; Harris v. Woodard, 96-232.

2576. Registration. Chattel mortgages substantially in the form provided in the last section are good to all intents and purposes when the same are duly registered according to law.

Rev., s. 1040; Code, ss. 1273, 1274; 1870-1, c. 277, ss. 1, 2.

For registration of chattel mortgages, see further, Probate and Registration, s. 3311.

For fees for probate and registration, see sections 3903, 3904, 3906, 3907. For joinder of chattel mortgage and lien bond, see section 2490. See, also, section 3311. Mortgages good inter partes without registration: Williams v. Jones, 95-504; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-363; Leggett v. Bullock, 44-233; Pike v. Armistead, 16-111. Mortgage may be registered after death of mortgagor: Williams v. Jones, 95-504. Registration of mortgage after commission in bankruptcy is good against assignee: Ibid. Where husband mortgaged horse, but not registered until after his death, and prior to registration horse assigned to widow as part of year’s support, widow took property subject to mortgage lien: Williams v. Jones, 95-504.

Assignment of chattel mortgage need not be registered under section: Hodges v. Wilkinson, 111-56. Mortgages are, as between parties thereto, when registered, effectual from their delivery: Brem v. Lockhart, 93-191. Delivering mortgage to register outside of office is not a filing for registration until it is taken to the office and duly noted: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694. If two mortgages are filed and registered at the same time, the older mortgage has priority: Ibid.

As to where mortgages to be registered, see under section 3311; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321.

As bearing upon section, see Thomas v. Cooksey, 130-151; Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123.

2577. Mortgage of household and kitchen furniture. All conveyances of household and kitchen furniture by a married man, made to secure the payment of money or other thing of value, are void, unless the wife joins therein and her privy examination is taken in the manner prescribed by law in conveyances of real estate.

Rev., s. 1041; 1891, ec. 91.

This is a valid exercise of police power and is constitutional: Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173-329. A piano is included in household and kitchen furniture: Ibid.

Section not applicable to note signed by husband and wife binding her separate personal property: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352—and not applicable to absolute sale of such property, Kelly v. Fleming, 113-135—but only to conveyance by chattel mortgage or by deed of trust or conditional sale, Ibid. As to sufficiency of instrument to convey property under section, see Kelly v. Fleming, 113-133.

ART. 2. RIGHT TO FORECLOSE OR SELL UNDER POWER

2578. Representative succeeds on death of mortgagee or trustee in deeds of trust; parties to action. When the mortgagee in a mortgage, or the trustee in a deed in trust, executed for the purpose of securing a debt, containing a power of sale, dies before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage or deed in trust, all the title, rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee or trustee pass to and devolve upon the executor or administrator of such mortgagee or trustee, including the right to bring an action of foreclosure in any of the courts of this state as prescribed for trustees or mortgagees, and in such action it is unnecessary to make the heirs at law of such deceased mortgagee or trustee parties thereto.

Rev., s. 1031; 1901, c. 186; 1887, c. 147; 1895, c. 431; 1905, c. 425.

When power of sale in mortgage is given to mortgagee and his executor, etc., and mortgagee dies leaving will under which executor qualifies, the power of sale upon default vests in executor by virtue of this section and also by virtue of the mortgage: Scott v. Lumber Co., 144-44—and if power had not been conferred upon executors by instrument they could still have exercised same under this section, Ibid. Section intended to confer power of sale upon executor or administrator of deceased mortgagee where power not given in instrument: Yount v. Morrison, 109-520. Where stipulated that vendor or lawful representatives might sell land and apply proceeds to payment of sum due, held that “lawful representatives” meant executors or administrators of vendor, and conferred upon them not only power to sell, but power to convey: Overman v. Jackson, 104-4.

2579. Foreclosures by representatives validated. In all actions which were brought or prosecuted prior to the fourth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and five, for the foreclosure of any mortgage or deed in trust by any executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee where the heirs of the mortgagee were duly made parties and regular and orderly decrees of foreclosure entered by the court and sale had by a commissioner appointed by the court for that purpose and deed made after confirmation, the title so conveyed to purchaser at such judicial sale shall be deemed and held to be vested in such purchaser, whether the heir of such deceased mortgagee or trustee was a party to such foreclosure proceeding or not, and such heir of any deceased mortgagee is estopped to bring or prosecute any further action against such purchaser for the recovery of such property or foreclosure of such mortgage or deed in trust.

Rev., s. 1032; 1905, c. 425, s. 2.

2580. Renunciation by representative; clerk appoints trustee. The executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust heretofore or hereafter executed may renounce in writing, before the clerk of the superior court before whom he qualifies, the trust under the mortgage or deed of trust at the time he qualifies as executor or administrator, or at any time thereafter before he intermeddles with or exercises any of the duties under said mortgage or deed of trust, except to preserve the property until a trustee can be appointed. In every such case of renunciation the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein the said mortgage or deed of trust is registered has power and authority, upon proper proceedings instituted before him, as in other cases of special proceedings, to appoint some person to act as trustee and execute said mortgage or deed of trust. The clerk, in addition to recording his proceedings in his book of orders and decrees, shall enter the name of the substituted trustee or mortgagor on the margin of the deed in trust or the mortgage in the book of the office of the register of deeds of said county.

Rev., s. 1038; 1905, c. 128.

See annotations under section 2583.

2581. Agent to sell under power may be appointed by parol. All sales of property, real or personal, under a power of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust to secure the payment of money, by any mortgagee or trustee, through an agent or attorney for that purpose, by such mortgagee or trustee, appointed orally or in writing, whether such writing has been or shall be registered or not, shall be valid, whether or not such mortgagee or trustee was or shall be present at such sale.

Rev., s. 1035; 1895, c. 117.

2582. Survivorship among donees of power of sale. In all mortgages and deeds of trust wherein two or more persons, as trustees or otherwise, are given power to sell the property therein conveyed or embraced, and one or more of such persons dies, any one of the persons surviving having such power may make sale of such property in the manner directed in such deed, and execute such assurances of title as are proper and lawful under the power so given; and the act of such person, in pursuance of said power, shall be as valid and binding as if the same had been done by all the persons on whom the power was conferred.

Rev., s. 1033; 1885, c. 327, s. 2.

Where one of trustees in power of sale contained in mortgage dies, survivor may execute trust: Cawfield v. Owens, 129-286.

2583. Clerk appoints successor to incompetent trustee. When the sole or last surviving trustee named in a will or deed of trust dies, removes from the county where the will was probated or deed executed and from the state, or in any way becomes incompetent to execute the said trust, or is a nonresident of this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the will was probated or deed of trust was executed is authorized and empowered, in proceedings to which all persons interested shall be made parties, to appoint some discreet and competent person to act as trustee and execute the trust according to its true intent and meaning, and as fully as if originally appointed: Provided, that in all actions or proceedings had under this section prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred, before the clerks of the superior court in which any trustee was appointed to execute a deed of trust where any trustee of a deed of trust has died, removed from the county where the deed was executed and from the state, or in any way become incompetent to execute the said trust, whether such appointment of such trustee by order or decree, or otherwise, was made upon the application or petition of any person or persons ex parte, or whether made in proceedings where all the proper parties were made, are in all things confirmed and made valid so far as regards the parties to said actions and proceedings.

Rev., s. 1037; Code, s. 1276; 1901, c. 183; 1873-4, c. 126.

See sections 172, 2579. Trustee dying or becoming incompetent to act, clerk empowered to appoint another: McAfee v. Green, 143-411; Wright v. Fort, 126-615—who, when decree appointing is signed, succeeds to legal title upon same trust as original trustee, Ibid.—and he can bring action for recovery of trust estate, Warren v. Howard, 99-190. All persons interested must be made parties, and application for appointment of trustee cannot be ex parte: Guion v. Melvin, 69-243. Where clerk dismisses proceeding for want of jurisdiction, on appeal superior court can appoint: Roseman v. Roseman, 127-494. Upon death of last survivor of board of trustees named in deed for property to be used as ''Baptist church and for education of youths of colored race'' their successors will be appointed by clerk of court under this section: Thornton v. Harris, 140-498. Not necessary in substituting trustee to require bond of substituted trustee, it being in court's discretion: Strayhorn v. Green, 92-119. Where executor is by will also appointed trustee, and renounces or dies, administrator c. t. a. succeeds to trusteeship, and hence appointment hereunder void: Clark vy. Peebles, 120-31. Where power to be exercised entirely at discretion of donee of powers, courts of equity have no jurisdiction to force him to act, and, if he has died without exercising power, cannot confer it upon trustee appointed by court: Young v. Young, 97-132.

2584. Mortgage to guardian; powers pass to succeeding guardian. When a guardian to whom a mortgage has been extended dies or is removed or resigns before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage, all the rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee shall devolve upon the succeeding guardian.

Rev., s. 1034; 1905, c. 4383.

Art. 3. Mortgage Sales

2585. Personal property; notice and place of sale. All personal property sold under the terms of any mortgage or other contract, expressed or implied, whether advertised in some newspaper or otherwise, shall be advertised by posting a notice at some conspicuous place at the courthouse door in the county where the property is situated, such notice to be posted for at least twenty days before the sale, unless a shorter time be expressed in the contract.

Rev., s. 1042; 1889, c. 70; 1909, c. 49, s. 1.

For advertisement of execution sales of personal property, see Civil Procedure, art. 28.

For sale of land under mortgage, see section 687.

Mortgagee cannot buy at his own sale, and the same rule applies to the assignee of the Failure to advertise according to the terms of the power of sale in a mortgage is an irregularity, which might cause the sale to be set aside as to the immediate purchaser, but not as against a remote purchaser without notice: Hinton v. Hall, 166-477. The time and place of sale must be designated with certainty: Hayes v. Pace, 162-288. Notice of mortgage sales must be in compliance with the statute and the stipulations in the mortgage, but a postponement of the sale only requires reasonable notice to be given: Perebee v. Sawyer, 167-109.

Where the bidder at a mortgage sale fails to comply, a resale may be made at once, if the bidders have not dispersed; otherwise a new advertisement must be made: Love v. Harris, 156-88. Power of sale in a mortgage must comply strictly with the terms: Jenkins v. Griffin, 175-184; Eubanks v. Becton, 158-230.

For notice of sale, see additional annotations under sections 687, 695. Presumption is that sale properly advertised: Cawfield v. Owens, 129-288. Parties may affix such terms and conditions to mortgage as they see fit, provided creditors or others interested at time not affected

Expense of advertising charged as cost against the property: Turner v. Boger, 126-300.

2586. Charges for legal advertising. The publication of all advertising required by law to be made in newspapers in this state shall be paid for at not to exceed the local commercial rate of the newspaper selected. Any public or municipal officer or board created by or existing under the laws of this state that is now or may hereafter be authorized by law to enter into contracts for the publication of legal advertisements is hereby authorized to pay therefor prices not exceeding said rates. Nothing herein shall apply to contracts or agreements for legal advertising in this state existing at the time this section takes effect.

No newspaper in this state shall accept or print any legal advertising until said newspaper shall have first filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which it is published a sworn statement of its current commercial rate

1135 for the several classes of advertising regularly carried by said publication, and any owner or manager of a newspaper violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.
1919, c. 45, ss. 1, 2.

The cost of advertising is limited to $3 except by special agreement, and a charge of $69 for advertising for thirty days in a daily paper will not be allowed: Banking Co. v. Leach, 169-706 (under former law).

2587. Foreclosure of conditional sales. In all sales of personal property wherein the title is retained by the seller to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, and no power of sale is conferred, and default is made in the payment of said obligation by the purchaser, then in all such cases it is lawful for the owner of such debt thereby secured, without an order of court, to sell such property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay off said indebtedness, at public auction for cash, after first giving twenty days notice at three or more public places in the county wherein the sale is to be made, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt, interest on the same, and costs of foreclosure, and pay any surplus to the person legally entitled thereto. Before making any such sale, in addition to the advertisement above required, the owner of said debt shall, at least ten days before the day of sale, mail a copy of the notice of sale to the last known postoffice address of the original purchaser or his assigns.
1913, c. 60, s. 1.
See section 3312.

2588. Real property; notice of sale must describe premises. In sales of real estate under deeds of trust or mortgages it is the duty of the trustee or mortgagee making such sale to fully describe the premises in the notice required by law substantially as the same is described in the deed of authority under which said trustee or mortgagee makes such sale.
Rev., s. 1043; 1895, c. 294.
The parties may designate in the mortgage the time and place of sale. If the land lies in a county which is afterwards divided, a sale in the original county is valid: Palmer v. Latham, 173-60.

2589. Real property; power of sale barred when foreclosure barred. The power of sale of real property contained in any mortgage or deed of trust for the benefit of creditors shall become inoperative, and no person shall execute any such power, when an action to foreclose such mortgage or deed of trust for the benefit of creditors would be barred by the statute of limitations.
Rev., s. 1044.
This applies to debts existing at the time it was passed: Graves v. Howard, 159-594.
Statute of limitations does not begin to run against principal of mortgage of land until due, and power of sale contained in mortgage may be exercised within ten years after maturity of principal: Scott v. Lumber Co., 144-44—and statute does not begin to run upon default in payment of annual interest upon principal, when power of sale in mortgage is optional with mortgagee upon default of either interest or principal of debt, Ibid. Section changes law as laid down in Menzel v. Hinton, 132-660; Cone v. Hyatt, 132-810. Where debt payable in two installments, payable at different times, creditor may wait until second installment due, and statute of limitations will not begin to run until that time: Cone v. Hyatt, 132-810; see, also, Capehart v. Dettrick, 91-344. Power of sale in mortgage not affected by mortgagor’s death, 2590. Land lying in two or more counties; place of sale. When a mortgage or deed in trust conveying lands lying partly in two or more counties confers upon the mortgagee or mortgagees, trustee or trustees, therein named, any power for the sale of such lands, without naming the place of sale, or conferring upon such mortgagee or mortgagees, trustee or trustees, the right to select the same, in the exercise of such power, any sale thereunder may be made at the courthouse door of any one of the counties in which such lands are situate, and at no other place except as hereinafter provided; but when such lands consist of two or more detached parcels, lying wholly within the limits of different counties, the sale of each and every one of such parcels shall be made at the courthouse door of the county in which the same is situate.

2591. Reopening judicial sales, etc., on advanced bid. In the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust on real estate, or in the case of the public sale of real estate by an executor, administrator, or administrator with the will annexed, or by any person by virtue of the power contained in a will, the sale shall not be deemed to be closed under ten days. If in ten days from the date of the sale, the sale price is increased ten per cent where the price does not exceed five hundred dollars, and five per cent where the price exceeds five hundred dollars, and the same is paid to the clerk of the superior court, the mortgagee, trustee, executor, or person offering the real estate for sale shall reopen the sale of said property and advertise the same in the same manner as in the first instance. The clerk may, in his discretion, require the person making such advance bid to execute a good and sufficient bond in a sufficient amount to guarantee compliance with the terms of sale should the person offering the advance bid be declared the purchaser at the resale. Where the bid or offer is raised as prescribed herein, and the amount paid to the clerk, he shall issue an order to the mortgagee or other person, and require him to advertise and resell said real estate. It shall only be required to give fifteen days notice of a resale. Resales may be had as often as the bid may be raised in compliance with this section. Upon the final sale of the real estate, the clerk shall issue his order to the mortgagee or other person, and require him to make title to the purchaser. The clerk shall make all such orders as may be just and necessary to safeguard the interest of all parties, and he shall keep a record which will show in detail the amount of each bid, the purchase price, and the final settlement between parties. This section shall not apply to the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust executed prior to April first, nineteen hundred and fifteen.

1915, c. 146; 1917, c. 127, ss. 3, 4; 1919, c. 124.

2592. Surplus after sale to be paid to clerk, in certain cases. It is competent for any trustee or mortgagee who sells any real, personal or mixed property under the power of sale contained in any deed of trust or mortgage of any kind and who has in his hands any surplus money, after paying the debt or debts secured by such deed of trust or mortgage and costs and expenses of such sale, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the sale was had, any surplus moneys in his hands as aforesaid in all cases where the grantor in such deed of trust or mortgage is dead and there is no executor or administrator of his estate, and in all other cases where such trustee or mortgagee is, for any cause, in doubt as to who is the proper party or parties to whom to pay such surplus moneys. Such payment to the clerk shall have the effect to discharge such trustee or mortgagee from all liability to the extent of the amount so paid. The clerk shall receive such money from such trustee or mortgagee and execute a receipt for the same under the seal of his office. The failure of any clerk, however, to place his seal upon such receipt shall not invalidate the receipt if it bears the genuine signature of the clerk. The official bond of such clerk shall be responsible for the safe keeping of such moneys until the same shall be paid to the party or parties entitled thereto, or be paid out under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

2593. Special proceedings to determine ownership of surplus. Special proceedings may be instituted before the clerk of the superior court to determine who is the rightful party to whom any fund paid into his office under the preceding section shall be paid. All persons claiming an interest in such funds shall be made parties, and if an answer is filed raising issues as to the ownership of said moneys, the case shall be transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court for trial. Any party in interest may appeal to the judge of the superior court from any order made by the clerk. The clerk may require bond of parties when action is transferred to civil issue docket, as in other civil actions. The court may, in its discretion, order the costs and a reasonable attorney's fee to be paid out of the funds in controversy.

2594. Discharge of record of mortgages and deeds of trust. Any deed of trust or mortgage registered as required by law may be discharged and released in the following manner:

1. The trustee or mortgagee or his or her legal representative, or the duly authorized agent or attorney of such trustee, mortgagee or legal representative, may, in the presence of the register of deeds or his deputy, acknowledge the satisfaction of the provisions of such deed of trust or mortgage, whereupon the register or his deputy shall forthwith make upon the margin of the record of such deed of trust or mortgage an entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction, which shall be signed by the trustee, mortgagee, legal representative or attorney, and witnessed by the register or his deputy, who shall also affix his name thereto.

2. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money, accompanied with the bond or note, to the register of deeds or his deputy, where the same is registered, with the endorsement of payment and satisfaction appearing thereon by the payee, mortgagee, trustee, or assignee of the same, or by any chartered active banking institution in the state of North Carolina, when so endorsed in the name of the bank by an officer thereof, the register or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of "satisfaction" on the margin of the record; and the person so claiming to have satisfied the debt may retain possession of the bond or mortgage or other instrument. But if the register or his deputy requires it, he shall file a receipt to him showing by whose authority the mortgage or other instrument was canceled.

3. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money by the grantor or mortgagor, his agent or attorney, together with the notes or bonds secured thereby, to the register of deeds or his deputy of the county where the same is registered, the deed of trust, mortgage, notes or bonds being at the time of said exhibition more than ten years old, counting from the date of maturity of the last note or bond, the register or his deputy shall make proper entry of cancellation and satisfaction of said instrument on the margin of the record where the same is recorded, whether there be any such entries on the original papers or not.

4. Every such entry thus made by the register of deeds or his deputy, and every such entry thus acknowledged and witnessed, shall operate and have the same effect to release and discharge all the interest of such trustee, mortgagee or representative in such deed or mortgage as if a deed of release or reconveyance thereof had been duly executed and recorded.

Rey., s. 1046; Code, s. 1271; 1870-1, c. 217; 1891, c. 180; 1893, c. 36; 1901, c. 46; 1917, c. 49, s. 1; 1917, c. 50, s. 1.

The entry of satisfaction of a mortgage by the proper person is conclusive of the fact of the discharge: Smith v. Fuller, 152-7.

Attorney cannot cancel or discharge mortgage unless authorized by client: Christian v. Yarbrough, 124-72—but if client, after being informed, retains benefit from the unauthorized action of his attorney, it is a ratification, Ibid.

Trustee has no power hereunder to release portion of premises from an unsatisfied trust: Woodcock v. Merrimon, 122-731; Brown v. Davis, 109-23—but if he is authorized to do so, he should state his authority, the consideration for the release, and the name of the grantee, Ibid.

Entry of satisfaction of a mortgage on margin of registry, witnessed by register of deeds, is competent evidence of payment of debt secured thereby: Robinson v. Sampson, 121-99. Purchaser at sale made in pursuance of mortgage, without notice of unrecorded release of timber rights in land, obtains good title: Barber v. Wadsworth, 115-29; Lumber Co. v. Dail, 111-120. Mortgage can only be released so as to affect purchasers at sale by cancellation hereunder, or by reconveyance duly recorded: Barber v. Wadsworth, 115-32. Where decree adjudges deed void, no marginal cancellation, as in case of mortgages and deeds of trust, is required, but same is commendable practice: Smith v. King, 107-273. When mortgage debt has been satisfied, mortgage is no longer operative, though not marked satisfied of record: Blake v. Broughton, 107-220; Walker v. Mebane, 90-259. Release of debt secured by mortgage need not be under seal: Adams v. Battle, 125-158.

2595. Register to enter satisfaction on index. When satisfaction of the provisions of any deed of trust or mortgage is acknowledged and entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction is made upon the margin of the record of said deed of trust or mortgage, or when the register of deeds or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of satisfaction, then the register of deeds or his deputy shall enter upon the alphabetical indexes kept by him, as required by law, and opposite the names of the grantor and grantee and on a line with the names of said grantor and grantee, the words "satisfied mortgage," if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a mortgage, and the words "satisfied deed of trust," if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a deed of trust.

1909, c. 658, s. 1.

2596. Recorded deed of release of mortgagee's representative. The personal representative of any mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore or which may hereafter be registered in the manner required by the laws of this state may discharge and release the same and all property thereby conveyed by deed of quitclaim, release or conveyance executed, acknowledged and recorded as is now prescribed by law for the execution, acknowledgment and registration of deeds and mortgages in this state.

1909, c. 283, s. 1.

2597. Release of corporate mortgages by corporate officers. All mortgages and deeds in trust executed to a corporation may be satisfied and so marked of record, as by law provided for the satisfaction of mortgages and deeds in trust, by the president, cashier, secretary or treasurer of such corporation signing the name of such corporation by him as such officer. Where mortgages or deeds in trust were marked "satisfied" on the records before the twenty-third day of February, nineteen hundred and nine, by any president, secretary, treasurer or cashier of any corporation by such officer writing his own name and affixing thereto the title of his office in such corporation, such satisfaction is validated, and is as effective to all intents and purposes as if a deed of release duly executed by such corporation had been made, acknowledged and recorded: Provided, however, this validating provision shall not apply to any suits pending in the courts of the state on February 23, 1909.

1909, c. 283, ss. 2, 3.
CHAPTER 55

MOTOR VEHICLES

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

2598. Terms defined. The term and words "motor vehicles" used in this chapter shall be construed to mean all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power, except traction engines, road rollers, fire wagons, engines, police patrol wagons, ambulances, and such vehicles as run only upon rails or tracks. The term "owner" shall include any person, firm, association, or corporation owning a motor vehicle or renting a motor vehicle, or having the exclusive use thereof under a lease or otherwise. The term "public highway" or "highways" shall be construed to mean any public highway, township, county or state road, or any country road, any public street, alley, park, parkway, drive or public place in any city, village, or town. The term and words "business portion of any city or village" shall be construed to mean the territory of a city or incorporated village contiguous to a public highway which is at that point either wholly or partially built up with structures devoted to business.

1917, c. 140, s. 1.

For definition of automobile, see Motor Co. v. Flynt, 178-399. The general use of automobiles for business or for pleasure makes garages or supply stations a necessity, and the establishment of such stations in a residential section is not a nuisance per se: Hanes v. Carolina Cadillac Co., 176-350.

1141
2599. Violation a misdemeanor. Any person violating any provision of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

1917, c. 140, s. 21.

The act of 1904, c. 445, by imposing a punishment by "fine not exceeding $50, or imprisonment not exceeding twenty days, or both," placed this beyond the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace: State v. McAden, 162-575. This is changed in this section.

A person driving an automobile in violation of law, and thereby causing the injury or death of another person, may be criminally liable: State v. Gash, 177-595 (manslaughter); State v. McIver, 175-761 (manslaughter).

2600. Duty of officer; manner of enforcement. For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this chapter it is hereby made the duty of every police officer, every marshal, deputy marshal, or watchman of any incorporated city or village, and every sheriff, deputy sheriff, and all other lawful officers of any county, and every constable of any township, to arrest, within the limits of their jurisdiction, any person known personally to any such officer, or upon the sworn information of a credible witness, to have violated any of the provisions of this chapter, and to immediately bring such offender before any justice of the peace or officer having jurisdiction; and any such person so arrested shall have the right of immediate trial, and all other rights given to any person arrested for having committed a misdemeanor. Every officer herein named who shall neglect or refuse to carry out the duties imposed by this chapter shall be liable on his official bond for such neglect or refusal as provided by law in like cases.

1917, c. 140, s. 22.

2601. No municipal ordinance in conflict. No governing board of any city or town shall pass or have in effect or in force any ordinance contrary to the provisions of this chapter.

1917, c. 140, s. 23.

ART. 2. REGISTRATION OF VEHICLES

2602. Application for registration. Every owner of a motor vehicle which shall be operated or driven upon the public highways of this state either by himself, his chauffeur, or another by his authority, shall, for each motor vehicle owned, except as herein otherwise expressly provided, cause to be filed in the office of the secretary of state an application for registration on a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for that purpose, containing a brief description of the motor vehicle to be registered, including the name, maker's or manufacturer's serial number, style of machine, and horsepower, the name and address of the owner, and such other information as the secretary of state may deem necessary.

1917, c. 140, s. 2.

2603. Registered by secretary of state. Upon receipt of an application for registration of a motor vehicle as provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall file such application in his office and register such motor vehicle, with the name and residence of the owner, together with the facts stated in such application, in a book or index to be kept for that purpose, under the distinctive number assigned to such motor vehicle by the secretary of state, which book or index shall be open to inspection during reasonable business hours.

1917, c. 140, s. 3.
2604. Registration lists. The secretary of state shall have printed as soon as practicable after the beginning of each automobile registration year a list of the automobile registrations in this state, and supplementary lists from time to time thereafter, showing license number, name, and address of party to whom issued, and name of machine registered. Five hundred copies or more, within the discretion of the secretary of state, of such directory shall be printed, to be paid for from the revenue derived from the registration of automobiles, by warrant of the auditor on the state treasurer.

1919, c. 127.

2605. Number and certificate given; expiration of certificate. Upon the filing of such application and the payment of fees provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall assign to such motor vehicle a distinctive number, and, without expense to the applicant, issue and deliver to the owner a certificate of registration in such form as the secretary of state may determine, and shall also furnish to such applicant one display number as hereinafter provided for. All certificates of registration shall expire on June thirtieth, following the date of issue.

1917, c. 140, ss. 4, 5.

2606. Dealers to report sales. The secretary of state shall require from each wholesale and retail dealer in automobiles in the state once each month a list of all retail sales, and it shall be the duty of each of the aforesaid dealers to furnish this information to the secretary of state within the first ten days of each month of such sales made during the preceding month.

1917, c. 140, s. 5.

2607. Cancellation and transfer of certificate. Upon the sale of a motor vehicle registered under the provisions of this chapter, the registered owner shall within ten days from the date of such sale return to the secretary of state his certificate of registration furnished him as hereinbefore provided for, which certificate of registration shall be canceled: Provided, that such registered owner may, at the time of returning such certificate, upon proper application for transfer filed in the office of the secretary of state and the payment of a transfer fee of fifty cents, have a new certificate of registration issued to him, containing the original registration number, for a motor vehicle owned by him of not greater tax horsepower, such certificate to remain in force until June thirtieth following date of issue. In case the machine for which a transfer license is desired is of greater tax horsepower, the difference between the amount paid for the original license and the annual fee for the machine for which transfer license is desired shall be paid at the time such application for transfer is filed, but nothing herein contained shall be construed as authorizing the secretary of state to make a rebate in case the transfer license is issued for a machine of less tax horsepower than the one originally registered. A license cannot be transferred from one person to another.

2608. Display numbers required. In addition to the certificate of registration, the secretary of state shall furnish to each registered owner two display numbers, which shall at all times be conspicuously displayed by such owner, one on the front and one on the rear of the registered motor vehicle for which the display numbers are issued. The display numbers shall be rigidly fastened in a horizontal position, and the lower edges thereof shall be at least fifteen inches from the ground, and during the times when a motor vehicle is required to display lights the rear registered number shall be so illuminated as to be legible at a distance of fifty feet. In case of the loss or destruction of a display number, the secretary of state, upon proper proof thereof filed with him, and the payment of one dollar, shall secure for such owner a duplicate number, and the secretary of state may in his discretion authorize the applicant for duplicate number to have prepared for use a temporary number until the duplicate can be made and furnished. It shall be deemed a violation of this chapter for any person to display a fictitious number or more than two display numbers on any motor vehicle operated on the highways of this state. From and after July 1, 1920, the secretary of state shall furnish but one display number with certificate of registration, and the one display number issued shall be conspicuously displayed on the rear of the registered motor vehicle for which it was issued.

2609. Nature of display numbers. The display numbers shall be made of suitable metal, in such size and form as the secretary of state may prescribe, and shall be of a distinctive different color or shade each year.

2610. Special numbers to dealers. Every person, firm, association, or corporation manufacturing or dealing in motor vehicles handled for purposes of sale only may, instead of registering such motor vehicles so manufactured or dealt in, make a verified application upon a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for a general distinctive number for all motor vehicles owned or controlled by such manufacturer or dealer, such application to contain such information as to name, style and class of cars manufactured or dealt in by such person, firm, association, or corporation as the secretary of state may require; and upon the payment of an annual registration fee of twenty-five dollars, such person, firm, association or corporation shall be assigned a distinctive number, to be used by them in the operation of all motor vehicles used for demonstration purposes on the public highways, and the secretary of state shall furnish to such dealer as many duplicate pairs of such display number as they may desire, upon application to him and the payment of five dollars for each pair: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to a motor vehicle operated by any manufacturer or dealer for hire.

2611. Nonresident owners of vehicles. Nonresident owners or operators of motor vehicles shall be subject to the same requirements and laws as resident owners or operators: Provided, that the nonresident owner of a motor vehicle which is properly registered under the laws of another state, district, or territory shall be exempt from the registration provisions of this chapter for the same period that a properly registered owner of this state is exempt from the registration provisions of the state in which such nonresident resides, not exceeding sixty days: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt any motor vehicles used for hire by a nonresident.
2612. Amount of license fees. A license or registration fee shall be charged and collected annually on motor vehicles registered under the provisions of this chapter on each motor vehicle, except motor trucks, motor vehicles for the carriage of passengers for hire, and motorcycles, as follows: On each motor vehicle having a rating of twenty-six horsepower or less, a registration license fee of ten dollars; on each motor vehicle having a rating of more than twenty-six horsepower but not more than thirty horsepower, a registration or license fee of fifteen dollars; on each motor vehicle having a rating of more than thirty horsepower, a registration or license fee of twenty dollars; that each motor vehicle used for the carriage of passengers for hire shall carry a special "service" license to be furnished by the secretary of state, for which the license fee shall be twice the amount fixed for like motor vehicles for private use. The annual license or registration fee for a motorcycle shall be five dollars. The annual registration or license fee for motor trucks shall be as follows: On each motor truck with a carrying capacity of not more than one ton, twelve dollars and fifty cents; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than two tons but not more than three tons, forty dollars; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than three tons but not more than four tons, sixty-five dollars; on each motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than four tons but not more than five and one-half tons, one hundred dollars; on each trailer, ten dollars for the first ton carrying capacity, and twenty dollars for each additional ton. The method of computing the horsepower of motor vehicles shall be the formula adopted by the society of automobile engineers: Provided, that—

1. Any applicant for the registration of any motor vehicle on or after the first day of March of each year shall be required to pay for said registration a license fee for the balance of the year ending June thirtieth only one-half of the fee levied in this section.

2. No county, city or town shall charge any license or registration fee on motor vehicles in excess of one dollar per annum.

3. No motor truck with a carrying capacity of more than five and one-half tons nor any motor truck with steel tires shall be licensed or allowed to be used upon the state highway system.

4. All necessary expenses of collecting the said license or registration fees, including clerical assistance, the cost of purchasing number plates and mailing same, and for such blanks, books, and other supplies as cannot be furnished by the state printer, shall be paid for monthly from the revenue derived from said fees by warrant of the auditor on the state treasurer; and said expenses shall be approved by the governor and council of state, and shall not in the aggregate exceed ten per cent of the total amount collected by the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter.

2613. Application of funds by state highway commission. All funds collected by the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter, or amendments thereto, shall be paid to the state treasurer monthly, to be kept as a separate fund to be known as the "state highway fund," which shall be drawn upon and expended as directed by the state highway commission for the construction and maintenance of a system of state highways as authorized by article 1, entitled State Highway Commission and State Highway Fund, of the chapter Roads and Highways, or by this chapter. Nothing in this chapter shall prevent the state highway commission and the local road authorities to make agreements as to the method or the amount required for the maintenance of roads and bridges to be maintained under the provisions of this chapter.

1917, c. 140, s. 7; 1917, c. 141; 1913, c. 107, s. 7.

ART. 4. OPERATION OF VEHICLES

2614. By incompetent person; racing. No person shall operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state who is under the age of sixteen years and who is not competent physically and mentally, and no person shall operate a motor vehicle when intoxicated, or in a race, or on a bet or wager, or for the purpose of making a speed record: Provided, nothing herein contained shall prevent racing on private race courses or tracks.

1917, c. 140, s. 7.

Person under age of 16 driving an automobile is negligence per se, but there is no civil liability unless such negligence is the proximate cause of an injury: Taylor v. Stewart, 172-203; s. c., 175-199.

The owner of an automobile is not liable for the injury caused by the negligence of one in charge of the machine, merely from the fact of ownership: Linville v. Nissen, 162-96—nor would the relation of father and son make the owner liable, Ibid.

But the owner is liable when he authorizes such use, or the person so using the machine is his agent and within the scope of his employment: Linville v. Nissen, 162-96; Cates v. Hall, 171-360; Taylor v. Stewart, 172-203; s. c., 175-199; Williams v. May, 173-78; Clark v. Sweaney, 175-280; s. c., 176-529; Wilson v. Polk, 175-490.

The fact that the person injured was at the time violating the law will not prevent a recovery, unless such violation in some way contributed to the injury: Zageir v. Express Co., 171-692.

2615. Brakes, horns, and lights required. Every motor vehicle operated or driven upon the public highways of this state shall be provided with adequate brakes in good working order and sufficient to control such vehicle at all times, when same is in use, and a suitable and adequate bell, horn, or other device for signaling, and shall during the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, display at least two lighted lamps on the front, and shall also display a red light visible from the rear, which may be in combination with the light illuminating the display number on the rear, as heretofore provided in this chapter: Provided, that the lamps on such vehicle need not be lighted when the vehicle is standing under the rays of a light and can be plainly seen, and that one light displayed on the front of a motorcycle shall be deemed a compliance with this section. A motor vehicle of any kind operated on the public highways of the state shall not use any lighting device equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so designed, deflected, or arranged that no portion of the beam or reflected light, when measured seventy-five feet or more ahead of the lamps, shall rise above forty-two inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands under all conditions of load.

1917, c. 140, ss. 14, 16; 1919, c. 292.

Running an automobile at night without sufficient headlight: Wilson v. Polk, 175-490.
2616. Driving regulations; frightened animals; crossings. A person operating or driving a motor vehicle shall, on signal by raising the hand, from a person riding, leading, or driving a horse or horses or other draft animals, bring such motor vehicle immediately to a stop, and, if traveling in the opposite direction, remain stationary so long as may be reasonable to allow such horse or other animal to pass, and, if traveling in the same direction, use reasonable caution in thereafter passing such horse or other animal: Provided, that in case such horse or other animal appears badly frightened, and the person operating such motor vehicle is so signaled to do, such person shall cause the motor of the motor vehicle to cease running so long as shall be reasonably necessary to prevent accident and insure the safety of others; and it shall also be the duty of any male chauffeur or driver of any motor vehicle and other male occupants thereof over the age of sixteen years while passing any horse, horses or other draft animals which appear frightened, upon the request of the person in charge thereof and driving such horse or horses or other draft animals, to give such assistance as would be reasonable to insure the safety of all persons concerned and to prevent accident. In approaching or passing a car of a street railway which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight or embark, the operator of every motor vehicle shall slow down, and shall bring said vehicle to a full stop when going in the same direction as the street car. Upon approaching a pedestrian who is upon the traveled part of any highway, and not upon a sidewalk, and upon approaching an intersecting highway or a curve, or a corner in a highway where the operator’s view is obstructed, every person operating a motor vehicle shall slow down and give a timely signal with his bell, horn, or other device for signaling. Upon approaching an intersecting highway, a bridge, dam, sharp curve, or deep descent, and also in traversing such intersecting highway, bridge, dam, curve, or descent, a person operating a motor vehicle shall have it under control and operate it at such speed, not to exceed ten miles an hour, having regard to the traffic then on such highway and the safety of the public.

1917, c. 140, s. 15.

It is the duty of the operator of an automobile on the highway or public streets to use reasonable precaution to avoid injury, and he is required to take into consideration the tendency of the machine to frighten horses: Tudor v. Bowen, 152-441; Gaskins v. Hancock, 156-56; Curry v. Fleer, 157-16; Long v. Warlick, 148-32.

Regulations to be observed in approaching an intersecting highway: Manly v. Abernathy, 167-220—an “intersecting” highway means one that touches or joins another without necessarily crossing it, Ibid. This includes a railroad: Hinton v. R. R., 172-587; Shepard v. R. R., 169-239. But a violation of such regulation by the person injured will not prevent a recovery if such negligence is not the proximate cause of the injury: Hinton v. R. R., 172-587; Shepard v. R. R., 169-239; s. c., 166-539; Clark v. Wright, 167-646.

A violation of the statute in regard to crossings, resulting in the death of a person, may make the offender criminally liable: State v. Gash, 177-595; State v. McIver, 175-761.

2617. Rule of the road in passing. Whenever a person operating a motor vehicle shall meet on the public highway any other person riding or driving a horse or horses or other draft animals, or any other vehicle, the person so operating such motor vehicle and the person so riding or driving a horse, horses, or other draft animals, shall reasonably turn the same to the right of the center of such highway so as to pass without interference. Any person so operating a motor vehicle shall, on overtaking any such horse, draft animal, or other vehicle, pass on the left side thereof, and the rider or driver of such horse, draft animal, or other vehicle shall, as soon as practicable, turn to the right so as to allow free passage on the left. Any person so operating a motor vehicle shall, at the intersection of a public highway, keep to the right of the intersection of the center of such highway when turning to the right and pass to the right of such intersection when turning to the left, and shall signal with the outstretched hand the direction in which turn is to be made.

1917, c. 140, s. 16.

Failure to turn to the right, as required by the statute, is negligence and renders the person liable if it is the proximate cause of injury to another: Goodrich v. Matthews, 177-198—but not if the violation was caused by the wrongful act of the person injured, Ledbetter v. English, 166-125; Cook v. Jerome, 172-626.

2618. Speed regulations; mufflers. No person shall operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state recklessly, or at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the width, traffic, and use of the highway, or so as to endanger the property or the life or limb of any person: Provided, that a rate of speed in excess of eighteen miles per hour in the residence portion of any city, town, or village, and a rate of speed in excess of ten miles per hour in the business portion of any city, town, or village, and a rate of speed in excess of twenty-five miles per hour on any public highway outside of the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town, shall be deemed a violation of this section: Provided further, that no person shall operate upon the public highways inside the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town of this state a motor vehicle with muffler cut-out open.

1917, c. 140, s. 17.

Violation of speed regulations is negligence, and in case of injury or death of another person it may render the offender criminally liable: State v. Gash, 177-595; State v. McIver, 175-761. Liability for damages caused by exceeding the speed limit: Clark v. Sweaney, 175-280; s. c., 176-529; Linville v. Nissen, 162-96; Clark v. Wright, 167-646.

2619. Obstructions in road. No person shall throw, place or deposit any glass or other sharp or cutting substance or any injurious obstruction in or upon any of the public highways of this state.

1917, c. 140, s. 18.

2620. Stopping motors; standing near fire plug. No person shall permit the motor of a motor vehicle to remain running when such motor vehicle is unoccupied on the public highways of this state for a longer period than five minutes: Provided, that no motor vehicle shall be left standing within fifteen feet of a fire plug upon the public highways of this state unless in charge of a person who can immediately move such vehicle in case of necessity.

1917, c. 140, s. 19.

2621. Use of vehicle without owner’s consent. No person shall use or operate any motor vehicle owned by another without the knowledge or consent, expressed or implied, of such owner, on any public highway or elsewhere in this state: Provided, this section shall not be construed to repeal or in any way affect any law making the unlawful taking of such vehicle for temporary use a criminal offense.

1917, c. 140, s. 20.

See Crimes, Larceny.

Owner is not liable for injury caused by his machine in the hands of another without his consent: Linville v. Nissen, 162-96. See annotations under section 2614.

SUBCHAPTER I. REGULATIONS INDEPENDENT OF ACT OF 1917

Art. 1. General Powers

2622. Body politic. Every incorporated city or town is a body politic and corporate, and shall have the powers prescribed by statute, and those necessarily implied by law, and no other.

Rev., s. 2915; Code, s. 702.

Creation of private corporations and public corporations distinguished: Mills v. Williams, 33-558.

The term "municipal corporation," in a broad sense, includes public corporations or public quasi-corporations, such as counties, townships, and other governmental agencies, while in the generally restricted sense it applies only to incorporated cities and towns: Smith v. Trustees, 141-143. Distinction between towns and counties in their corporate powers and liabilities: White v. Comrs., 90-437; McCormac v. Comrs., 90-441; Dare v. Currituck, 95-189; Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9; Prichard v. Comrs., 156-908.

Drainage districts are not municipal corporations, but quasi-public corporations or governmental agencies: Comrs. v. Webb, 160-594; Sanderlin v. Luken, 152-743. A corporation with capital stock and organized for business purposes is not a municipal corporation, although it may be authorized to exercise certain governmental powers: Southern Assembly v. Palmer, 166-75.

Municipal corporations, in the absence of constitutional restrictions, are the creatures of legislative will, and are subject to its control: Lutterloh v. Fayetteville, 149-65; Manly v. Raleigh, 57-372. For constitutional restriction as to creation by general laws instead of by special charter, see const., art. 8, sec. 4, and subchapter 2 of this chapter.

Municipal corporations are but instrumentalities of the state for the administration of local government, and their powers may be enlarged, abridged, or entirely withdrawn, at the pleasure of the legislature: Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402; Burgin v. Smith, 151-561; Wharton v. Greensboro, 146-356; Jones v. Comrs., 137-592; Lilly v. Taylor, 88-490; State v. Thomas, 118-1221; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227; State v. Beacham, 125-652.

Legislature may submit question of acceptance of charter to a vote of the people: Henderson v. Davis, 106-88—may confer upon governor the power to appoint aldermen, Harris v. Wright, 121-172—may change boundaries, Comrs. v. Thorn, 117-211; Lutterloh v. Fayetteville, 149-65—may abolish and recreate with different limits, Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121-1.

Municipal corporation can exercise only such powers as (1) are granted in express words; (2) necessarily or fairly implied from the charter, and (3) essential to the declared objects and purposes of the corporation; not such as are simply convenient, but those which are indispensable: State v. Webber, 107-962; Elizabeth City v. Banks, 150-407; Mayo v. Comrs., 122-5; Smith v. New Bern, 70-18.

The municipal powers are governmental and proprietary or private; the former are under the control of the legislature, and the latter are within the discretion of the officers: Asbury v. Albermarle, 162-247; Sewerage Co. v. Monroe, 162-275; Hines v. Rocky Mount, 162-409; State v. Prevo, 178-740.

Debts due from municipal corporation are not extinguished by repeal of its charter, and still exist notwithstanding that repeal: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478; Wilson v. Leary, 120-2623. Corporate powers. A city or town is authorized:

1. To sue and be sued in its corporate name.

The corporation of Hickory having been chartered under the name of "The City of Hickory," a summons is properly directed against "the city of Hickory" and served upon the mayor and the secretary of board of aldermen: Loughran v. Hickory, 129-281.

A municipality is a proper party to institute an action to prevent a public nuisance by proposed enlargement of a freight depot in the city: Hickory v. Railroad, 141-716.

Cities and towns must be sued in county in which they are located, and if suit is brought in another county, they have the right to have it removed: Jones v. Statesville, 97-86.

Demand must be made that governing body sue to enforce its contracts before citizen has right to do so: Merrimon v. Paving Co., 142-539. See section 3206.

Where charter of a city requires notice within specified time of a claim before action can be brought, a claimant must allege and prove that notice was given: Cresler v. Asheville, 134-311.

Notice to agent is notice to principal; and this rule of law is applicable to municipal corporations, but notice to certain petty officials does not bring a case within the rules: Shields v. Durham, 118-450; see Hawley v. Comrs., 82-22.

The law requiring that claims against municipal corporations shall be presented to proper authorities and demand for payment as prerequisites to an action to enforce such claims, applies only to demands arising ex contractu and not to those arising ex delicto: Shields v. Durham, 118-450; see section 1330; R. R. v. Brunswick, 178-254. Failure to present claim may be excused by showing that claimant was not in condition to give the notice: Hartsell v. Asheville, 164-193; s. c., 166-633; Terrell v. Washington, 158-282.

2. Out of any funds on hand, and without creating any debt, to purchase and hold real estate for the use of its inhabitants.

Municipal corporation may acquire title to land by adverse possession: Raleigh v. Durfey, 163-154.

3. To purchase and hold land, within or without its limits, not exceeding fifty acres, for the purpose of a cemetery, and to prohibit burial of persons at any other place in the town, and to regulate the manner of burial in such cemetery.

All municipal corporations purchasing real property at any trustee's, mortgagee's, or commissioner's sale or execution or tax sale shall be entitled to a conveyance therefor from the trustee, mortgagee or other person or officer conducting such sale, and deeds to such municipal corporations or their assigns shall have the same force and effect as conveyances to private purchasers. The provisions of this subsection shall apply to such sales and conveyances as may have been heretofore made by the persons and officers herein mentioned.

Right acquired by any person, under a deed or contract, to bury dead bodies in any particular spot, or to erect and maintain vaults for that purpose, whether construed as an easement or license, is subject to police power of government, in the exercise of which not only future interments may be prohibited, but the remains of persons theretofore buried may be removed: Humphrey v. Church, 109-132; Wardens v. Washington, 109-21.

4. To make such contracts, and purchase and hold such personal property as may be necessary to the exercise of its powers.

It is questionable whether a town could engage in a business enterprise for the profit that might be made, or that it would be sustained, although sanctioned by act of legislature and a majority of town voters: Slocomb v. Fayetteville, 125-362.

5. To make such orders for the disposition or use of its property as the interest of the town requires.

See section 2688.
6. To grant upon reasonable terms franchises for public utilities, such grants not to exceed the period of sixty years, unless renewed at the end of the period granted; also to sell or lease any waterworks, lighting plants, gas or electric, or any other public utility which may be owned by any city or town: Provided, that in the event of such sale or lease it shall be approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such city or town; and also to make contracts, for a period not exceeding thirty years, for the supply of light, water or other public commodity. But this subsection shall not apply to Cumberland county.

"Public utilities" include railroads, both steam and street, telegraphs, telephones, waterworks, gas works, and electric light plants: Turner v. Public-Service Co., 170-172.

The right given to a gas company to place gas-pipes and mains in public streets to distribute gas for public and private use is a franchise and not a license: Elizabeth City v. Banks, 150-407—and before the adoption of this subsection in 1905 a municipal corporation could not grant such franchise, Ibid.

City authorities are empowered to issue license for laying down a street railway track upon streets of city, and for operation of railway: Atkinson v. Railway Co., 113-581. License granted to lay a track upon and to that extent use streets, in the absence of an express power in charter to do so, such license cannot be construed into a grant of a permanent easement: State v. R. R., 141-736—and a contract to allow a railroad to exercise such privilege is made subject to the police power vested in the city, Ibid.

Where a city granted a street railway company right to construct branch road over certain street, it cannot, by subsequent ordinance, arbitrarily annul its license; and when, under such latter ordinance, it attempts by force to prevent completion of road then in process of construction, injunction will issue restraining city from such interference: R. R. v. Asheville, 109-688. Injunctions which encourage enterprise and facilitate public convenience will be dissolved only in clear cases: Ibid.

While a town has right to grant a franchise to a water company, and the water company has the power to stipulate that it will not charge in excess of the maximum rates named in ordinance granting the franchise, yet, if such maximum rates are discriminating or unreasonable, they are not binding upon consumers, whom the courts will protect against unreasonable charges: Griffin v. Water Co., 122-206; see Gorrell v. Water Supply Co., 124-334.

Acceptance of franchise by water company carries with it the duty of supplying water to all persons along the lines of its mains without discrimination and at uniform rates: Griffin v. Water Co., 122-206; Gorrell v. Water Supply Co., 124-334; Solomon v. Sewerage Co., 133-150. And also to furnish water to schools free, where the contract so provides: Water Co. v. Trustees, 151-171.

Quere, whether legislature can authorize town authorities to grant exclusive franchises: R. R. v. R. R., 114-725; but see Thrift v. Elizabeth City, 122-31.

The power of municipal corporation to grant a franchise to a public utility to use the streets is subject to the right of the abutting property-owners to demand compensation for any additional servitude: Staton v. R. R., 147-428; Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533; but see Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

Where railroad company entered upon and constructed its road upon a street, thereby reducing width of latter, and it does not appear that it entered under any statutory authority, but only by license of city, abutting property-owner who is endamaged thereby may maintain a common-law action for damages: White v. Railroad, 113-610; compare Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533.

By act of 1911, c. 86, municipal corporations were authorized to establish public utilities: Murphy v. Webb, 156-402—and they might exercise the power of eminent domain for that purpose, Eppley v. Bryson City, 157-487. This act was repealed except as to Cherokee, see note following this section. For general power to acquire public utilities, see sections 2787 (3), 2807, 2832.

7. To provide for the municipal government of its inhabitants in the manner required by law.
8. To levy and collect such taxes as are authorized by law.

Bill incorporating town is valid even if not read and passed on three several days according to constitutional requirement, but such town's governing body cannot levy a tax under it: Cotton Mills v. Waxhaw, 130-293. Power to tax must be strictly construed: Plymouth v. Cooper, 135-5—and is determined by charter, Winston v. Beeson, 135-271; see sections 2677, 2678, 2813.

9. To do and perform all other duties and powers authorized by law.

For an enumeration of powers under municipal act of 1917, see section 2787. Power may be granted to condemn land outside of corporate limits for waterworks: Asheville v. Weaver, 148-56. Legislature may authorize municipal corporations to apply their revenue and credit to any legitimate public purpose within the scope of its organization, unless prohibited by the constitution, and such purpose as tends to the general good of the community, although the advantage does not reach every individual taxpayer residing there, is such public purpose: Wood v. Oxford, 97-227—but it cannot authorize any subscription or donation to a private purpose, Ibid.

Powers are granted to municipal corporations to be used for public purposes exclusively; any act for private benefit, with incidental public benefit, is void: Fisher v. New Bern, 140-506; Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127.

City cannot authorize obstruction of street by railroad and manufacturing company for private advantage of the latter: Butler v. Tobacco Co., 152-416.

Municipal corporation has only such police power as is expressly granted or reasonably implied: State v. Dannenberg, 150-799.

Resident taxpayer has sufficient interest in subject to invoke courts to prevent an illegal disposition of public funds, or illegal creation of a public debt, or to prevent the misuse of corporate power: Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127; Merrimon v. Paving Co., 142-539—but the citizen cannot call upon courts to interfere with control of corporate property or performance of corporate contracts until he has first applied to corporation or governing body to take action, and they have refused, and he has exhausted all means within his reach to obtain redress within corporation, unless there is fraud or the threatened action is ultra vires: Merrimon v. Paving Co., 142-538.

Board could not make contract for legal services binding for an unlimited time and irrevocable by their successors: Wilmington v. Bryan, 141-666.

Rev., s. 2916; Code, ss. 704, 3817; 1901, c. 283; 1905, c. 526; 1907, c. 978; P. L. 1917, c. 228.

Approval by majority of qualified voters in case of sale or lease of public utilities, not required in the town of Reidsville. Pr. 1917, c. 28.

Reformatories for women established by county and city. See Reformatories, Art. 8.

In Alamance county towns may condemn land for cemetery. 1907, ec. 172.

Act 1911, ¢. 86, allowing municipalities to establish public utilities, repealed except as to Cherokee. 1913, c. 179.

May become members of memorial associations. See Monuments, Memorials, and Parks, s. 6938.

2624. How corporate powers exercised. The corporate powers can be exercised only by the board of commissioners, or in pursuance of resolutions adopted by them, unless otherwise specially provided by law.

Rev., s. 2917; Code, ss. 703.

The power to remove officers is vested in the commissioners and not in the people: Burke v. Jenkins, 148-25; but see provision for recall of officers, under section 2885.

In the absence of statutory regulation, a majority of a quorum may pass any ordinance or order: LeRoy v. Elizabeth City, 166-93.

For exercise of powers by governing body under municipal act of 1917, see article 16 of this chapter.

2625. Application and meaning of terms. This subchapter shall apply to all incorporated cities and towns where the same shall not be inconsistent with special acts of incorporation, or special laws in reference thereto, and the word "commissioners" shall also be construed to mean "aldermen," or other governing municipal authorities. The sections relating to municipal or town elections shall apply to all cities and towns not expressly excepted by law.
Rev., s. 2918; Code, s. 3827; R. C., c. 111, s. 23.
Section referred to: Markham v. Simpson, 175-135. See sections 2778, 2786.

Art. 2. Municipal Officers

Part 1. Commissioners

2626. Number and election. The board of commissioners of each town shall consist of not less than three nor more than seven commissioners, who shall be binennially elected by the qualified voters of the town, at the time and in the manner prescribed by law.
Rev., ss. 2917, 2919; Code, s. 3787; R. C., c. 111, s. 1.
Commissioners elected annually in the town of Murphy. Pr. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 6.
As to who are qualified voters, see sections 2654, 2691. For number of commissioners under municipal act of 1917, see sections 2782, 2861, 2868, 2889.

2627. Number may be changed. After the first election the voters of any town may, whenever and as often as they choose, at the time of electing commissioners, and after due notice given thereof by the commissioners then in authority, by a majority of all the votes cast, alter the number of commissioners, so that the number be not more than seven nor less than three; and thenceforth the number of commissioners agreed on shall be chosen.
Rev., s. 2922; Code, s. 3791; R. C., c. 111, s. 7.

2628. Oath of office. The commissioners shall take and subscribe an oath before some person authorized by law to administer oaths that they will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of their office, and such oath shall be filed with the mayor of such town and entered in a book kept for that purpose.
Rev., s. 2920; Code, s. 3799; R. C., c. 111, s. 12.

2629. Vacancies filled. In case of a vacancy after election in the office of commisssioner the others may fill it until the next election.
Rev., s. 2921; Code, s. 3793; R. C., c. 111, s. 9.

2630. Commissioners appoint other officers and fix salaries. The board of commisssioners may appoint a town constable, and such other officers and agents as may be necessary to enforce their ordinances and regulations, keep their records, and conduct their affairs; may determine the amount of their salaries or compensation; and also the compensation or salary of the mayor; may impose oaths of office upon them, and require bonds from them payable to the state, in proper penalties for the faithful discharge of their duties.

2631. How elected; vacancy. At the same time when commissioners are elected, the voters may by ballot, under the inspection of the same persons and under the same rules and regulations, elect a mayor of the town; and the person having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. In case of a vacancy in the office, the commissioners may fill the same.

Rev., s. 2931; Code, s. 3794; R. C., c. 111, s. 10.

The qualifications for voting are the same as in general elections, and the claimant must be elected by a sufficient number of qualified voters: Echerd v. Viele, 164-122. The mayor pro tem. may exercise the powers of the office in the absence of the mayor: State v. Thomas, 141-791.

2632. Oath of office. The mayor, before some justice of the peace, or other person authorized by law to administer oaths, shall take and subscribe the oaths prescribed for public officers, and an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties imposed upon him by law, which said oath shall be filed with the records of the town and be entered on the same book with the oaths of the commissioners.

For veto power of mayor, see sections 2865, 2872.

2634. Mayor's jurisdiction as a court. The mayor of every city or incorporated town is hereby constituted an inferior court, and as such court such mayor shall be a magistrate and conservator of the peace, and within the corporate limits of his city or town shall have the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in all criminal matters arising under the laws of the state, or under the ordinances of such city or town. The rules of law regulating proceedings before a justice of the peace shall be applicable to proceedings before such mayor, and he shall be entitled to the same fees which are allowed to justices of the peace.

Rev., s. 2934; Code, s. 3818; 1871-2, c. 195; 1876-7, c. 243.

Mayor has jurisdiction to punish for contempt: In re Deaton, 105-59.

Mayors of towns and cities have jurisdiction of the offense of violating town or city ordinances: State v. Wilson, 106-718.

2635. Enforce ordinances and penalties. As such court the mayor shall have authority to hear and determine all cases that may arise upon the ordinances of the city or town; to enforce penalties by issuing execution upon any adjudged violation thereof, and to execute the laws and rules that may be made and provided by the board of commissioners of the city or town for the government and regulation of the city or town; but in all cases any person dissatisfied with the judgment of the mayor may appeal to the superior court as in case of a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace.

Rev., s. 2935; Code, s. 3819; 1876-7, c. 243, s. 2.

It is a misdemeanor to violate an ordinance of a municipal corporation, but it must be a valid ordinance: State v. Prevo, 178-740; State v. Irvin, 126-989; State v. Crenshaw, 94-877; see section 4174. As to valid and invalid ordinances, see section 2673.

The municipal corporation has no power to create criminal offenses, but it may pass valid ordinances, and as a means of enforcement the statute makes the violation of the ordinance a criminal offense: School Directors v. Asheville, 137-503; Board of Education v. Henderson, 126-689; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789.

A chief officer of a city or town has same criminal jurisdiction within corporate limits as is given to justices of the peace; but statutory requisites which confer final jurisdiction must be complied with: Greensboro v. Shields, 78-417.

A justice of the peace has concurrent jurisdiction with mayor of city or town of violations of town ordinances, which are made misdemeanors, and the punishment of which cannot exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days: State v. Cainan, 94-880.

Superior court has no original jurisdiction to try indictments for violation of town ordinances: State v. White, 76-15.

Where one is indicted for violating city ordinance, the terms of the ordinance and the particular breach alleged should be set forth: State v. Edens, 85-522; State v. Cainan, 94-880—but not necessary to aver the authority to pass the ordinance, State v. Merritt, 83-677.

Defendant’s rights guaranteed by constitution are preserved to him when an unrestricted appeal from mayor of town is given him by the act and trial in superior court is de novo; alleged errors in mayor’s court may be disregarded on appeal to supreme court: State v. Britain, 143-668; State v. Whitaker, 114-819; see State v. Powell, 97-417.

A conviction of violating a city ordinance punishing the disturbance of the good order and quiet of town by fighting is not a bar to a prosecution by the state for an assault: State v. Taylor, 133-755.

The constitution, art. 9, sec. 5, appropriates all fines for violation of the criminal laws of the state for establishing and maintaining free public schools in the several counties, whether the fines are for violation of town ordinances, made misdemeanor by section 4174, or other criminal statutes: Board of Education v. Henderson, 126-689.

The shifting of cars in a street in making up a train constitutes a violation of an ordinance providing that no engine or train shall be stopped on any street except at the foot of same for the reception and delivery of freight: State v. Railroad, 141-736.

WARRANTS. Warrant charging creation of disturbance without specifying how it was done is fatally defective: State v. Hettrick, 126-977.

Warrant joining two defendants charged with violation of town ordinance by being drunk in public place is fatally defective: State v. Deaton, 92-788.

Not necessary to set out ordinance alleged as having been violated; it is sufficient to refer to it by such indicia as point it out with sufficient certainty: State v. Cainan, 94-880; State v. Merritt, 83-677—but breach of such ordinance must also be alleged, State v. Edens, 85-522.

2636. May sentence to work on streets. In all cases where judgments may be entered up against any person for fines, according to the laws and ordinances of any incorporated town, and the person against whom the same is so adjudged refuses or is unable to pay such judgment, the mayor before whom such judgment is entered may order and require such person, so convicted, to work on the streets or other public works until, at fair rates of wages, such person shall have worked out the full amount of the judgment and costs of the prosecution; and all sums received for such fines shall be paid into the treasury. No woman shall be worked on the streets.

Earnhardt, 107-789.

Rev., s. 2936; 1899, c. 277.

The records of the proceedings of the board of aldermen, kept by the town clerk, are competent evidence of town ordinances: State v. Irvin, 126-989.

Part 3. Constable and Policemen

2638. Constable to take oath of office. The town constable shall, before some person authorized to administer oaths, take and subscribe to the oaths prescribed for public officers, and an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of his office according to law, which said oath shall be filed with the mayor and entered in a book with the oaths of the commissioners.

Rev., s. 2938; Code, s. 3508; R. C., c. 111, s. 20.

For appointment of special constable, see Constables, s. 974.

2639. Power and duties of constable. As a peace officer, the constable shall have within the town all the powers of a constable in the county; and as a ministerial officer, he shall have power to serve all civil and criminal process that may be directed to him by any court within his county, under the same regulations and penalties as prescribed by law in the case of other constables, and to enforce the ordinances and regulations of the board of commissioners as the board may direct. Whenever any process or other notice is so directed as to authorize a township constable to execute the same a town constable in that county may execute the same without any more specific direction: Provided, such town constable shall be required to give bond for performance of his duties such as is required of township constables who execute civil process.

Rev., s. 2939; Code, ss. 3808, 3810; R. C., c. 111, s. 20; 1879, c. 266; 1897, c. 206; 1899, c. 168; 1907, c. 52, s. 1.

As to powers of constables generally, see section 976. See, also, annotations under section 2642.

Where town constable arrested a person who was intoxicated, without warrant, and imprisoned him in the ‘lock-up’ until he became sober, when constable released him, having never carried him before a magistrate or other person to have the charge investigated, he was guilty of an assault and battery: State v. Parker, 75-249.

In respect to arrests without warrant, constable’s authority is limited to territory embraced within corporate boundaries; but when constable is acting under valid warrant from mayor of municipality, or other duly authorized officer, he may make arrests at any place within county in which such city or town is situated: State v. Sigman, 106-728; Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

Constable is not liable on his official bond for the release of a prisoner arrested by him on void process: Appomattox Co. v. Buffaloe, 121-37.

No authority to serve beyond limits of his town or city process directed to "constable or other lawful officer of county." To authorize him to make such service, process must be directed to him, not necessarily in his individual name as such officer, but in the name of office he holds: Appomattox Co. v. Buffaloe, 121-37; Baker v. Brem, 126-367; Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

No authority to serve any papers for the superior court except process; an appellant's case on appeal from the superior court is not process; hence, service of a case on appeal by a town constable is a nullity: Forte v. Boone, 114-176. A writ of attachment issued out of superior court must be addressed to the sheriff instead of a constable: Carson v. Woodrow, 160-144.

Town constable cannot serve a notice to take deposition in an action pending in superior court: Cullen v. Absher, 119-441; Brown v. Myers, 150-441.

2640. Constable as tax collector. The constable shall have the same power to collect the taxes imposed by the commissioners as sheriffs have to collect the taxes imposed by the county commissioners, and he may be required by the commissioners to give bond, with sufficient surety, payable to the state of North Carolina, in such sum as the commissioners may prescribe, to account for the same; upon which suit may be brought by the commissioners as upon the bonds of other officers. The bond of the constable shall be duly proved, before the mayor and commissioners, and registered in the office of the register of deeds.

Rev., s. 2940; Code, 3809; R. C., c. 111, s. 21.

Whenever authorities of town shall be commanded to levy and collect taxes to pay judgment rendered against it, they may appoint a special tax collector to collect same. But this power to appoint such collector is additional and does not abridge their right to require the collection to be made by the regular officer appointed for that purpose: Webb v. Beaufort, 88-496.

2641. Policemen appointed. The board of commissioners may appoint town watch or police, to be regulated by such rules as the board may prescribe.

Rev., s. 2926; Code, s. 8803; R. C., c. 111, s. 16.

Office of chief of police is such an office that a quo warranto proceeding may be brought to try the title to it: Foard v. Hall, 111-369—and the board of aldermen are not necessary parties defendants, Ibid. Not necessary to allege that relator is entitled to office or has any interest therein: Ibid.

2642. Policemen execute criminal process. A policeman shall have the same authority to make arrests and to execute criminal process, within the town limits, as is vested by law in a sheriff.

Rev., s. 2927; Code, s. 3811.

When an officer arrests without warrant, he is not liable if the circumstances show that he acted under reasonable belief, but the burden is upon the officer: Sigmon v. Shell, 165-582.

The right of a police officer to arrest when he has no warrant is confined necessarily by statute to limits of town: Martin v. Houck, 141-317—and when he makes such an arrest outside of limits he is guilty of assault, Sossamon v. Cruse, 133-470.

Where a person is fleeing from arrest, charged with a misdemeanor, and is out of control of officer, such officer is guilty of an assault if he shoots at said person: Sossamon v. Cruse, 133-470; State v. Sigman, 106-728.

If an officer is resisted in making an arrest he may use that degree of force which is necessary to proper performance of his duty; and, after accused person is arrested, officer is justified in the use of such force as may be necessary, even to taking of life, to prevent his escape, whether offense charged is a felony or misdemeanor: State v. Sigman, 106-728.

An officer is authorized to take such precaution for safe custody of his prisoner, such as tying or handcuffing, as in his judgment may be necessary, provided he acts in good faith and without malice: State v. Sigman, 106-728.
Violation of town ordinances, even in presence of policeman, does not necessarily give him a right to arrest offender: State v. Belk, 76-10.

Where town charter provides for appointment of a chief of police or marshal and authorizes him to execute all process directed to him by mayor or others, and declares that, in execution of such process, he shall have same power, etc., which sheriffs and constables have, service by such officer of a summons directed to ‘the sheriff of W. county or town constable of W. town’ is valid: Lowe v. Harris, 121-287, distinguishing Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

In action for false imprisonment and unlawful arrest, defendants cannot justify on ground that they were summoned by their codefendant, the chief of police, where it appears that arrest was made outside of the limits of the town, without warrant, and there was no evidence tending to show that a felony had been committed: Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

A municipality is not liable in damages for negligence or mistake of its policemen who arrest, without warrant, persons engaged in violating its ordinances: Coley v. Statesville, 121-301; Melkenny v. Wilmington, 127-146.

In action for false imprisonment and unlawful arrest, defendants cannot justify on ground that they were summoned by their codefendant, the chief of police, where it appears that arrest was made outside of the limits of the town, without warrant, and there was no evidence tending to show that a felony had been committed: Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

A municipality is not liable in damages for negligence or mistake of its policemen who arrest, without warrant, persons engaged in violating its ordinances: Coley v. Statesville, 121-301; Melkenny v. Wilmington, 127-146.

It is competent for a town to appropriate a reasonable amount of its funds to employ counsel to defend its police officers in actions for false imprisonment: Roper v. Laurinburg, 90-427.

A city is not liable to one arrested on ground of having been exposed to smallpox, where officers act without malice: Levin v. Burlington, 129-184.

Part 4. Planning Boards

2643. Creation and duties. Every city and town in the state is authorized to create a board to be known as the Planning Board, whose duty it shall be to make careful study of the resources, possibilities and needs of the city or town, particularly with respect to the conditions which may be injurious to the public welfare or otherwise injurious, and to make plans for the development of the municipality. The governing body of such city or town desiring to establish such local planning board shall appoint not less than three nor more than five on said board.

2645. Expenses provided for. The governing body of such city or town may appropriate to such local planning board such amount as they may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of its creation, and for the improvement of the municipality, and shall provide what sums, if any, shall be paid to said board as compensation.

Under the general statute only qualified voters of towns and cities are eligible to offices therein: Foad v. Hall, 111-369.

Municipal body cannot deprive one of its members of his place for causes affecting his eligibility that existed at time of election: Ellison v. Raleigh, 89-125.
Charter of a town requiring the officers to be elected, persons cannot claim to be de facto officers of that town who have never been elected, but they are mere usurpers, and the corporation is not liable for contracts made by them in the name of the town: Keeler v. Newbern, 61-505.

Power to remove an officer is vested in the town commissioners, to be exercised for cause and upon notice: Burke v. Jenkins, 148-25. For recall of elective officers, see section 2885. Power of mayor to remove officers, see sections 2864, 2870.

2647. Refusal to qualify and act. Every person elected or appointed commissioner, mayor, or town constable, who, after being duly notified, shall neglect or refuse to qualify and perform the duties of his office or appointment, shall pay twenty-five dollars, one-half to the use of the town and the other half to the use of any person who will sue for the same.

2650. When election held. In all cities and towns an election shall be held on Tuesday after the first Monday of May, one thousand nine hundred and five, and biennially thereafter: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed so as to change, alter or amend any clause or provision in any charter of any town or city in Harnett county providing for an annual election of the officers of such town or city.

Rev., s. 2945; 1901, c. 750, s. 19; 1907, c. 165.

2651. Polling places. There shall be at least one polling place in each ward in the town or city, if the said town or city is divided into wards; and if not divided into wards, then there shall be as many polling places as may be established by the governing body of said town or city.

Fixing and advertising polling places is material part in municipal election: Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

2652. Registrars appointed. The board of commissioners shall select, at least thirty days before any city or town election, one person for each election precinct, who shall act as registrar of voters for such precinct; and shall make publication of the names of the persons so selected, and of the time of the election, at the town or city hall, or at the usual place of holding the mayor's court, immediately after such appointment, and shall cause a notice to be served upon the registrars by the sheriff of the county or the township constable. If any registrar shall die or neglect to perform his duties, said governing body may appoint another in his place.

And where there has been a registration of voters, the board of commissioners may, in its discretion, order a new registration of voters; and unless such new registration shall be ordered, the election shall be held under the existing registration, with such revision as is herein provided.

Rev., s. 2949; Code, s. 3795; 1901, c. 750, s. 3.
General registration of all the voters required under this section: Hardee v. Henderson, 170-572.
Notice of election is signed by the clerk under order of the board; and an irregularity in publishing a notice which does not prevent any voter from registering and voting will not invalidate the election: Briggs v. Raleigh, 166-149. The qualifications for voting are the same as in the general election: Echerd v. Viele, 164-122. Payment of the general state and county poll tax is required: Ibid.

Rev., s. 2952; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.

2658. Registration on election day. No registration shall be allowed on the day of election, but if any person shall give satisfactory evidence to the registrar and judges of election that he has become of the age of twenty-one years or otherwise has become qualified to register and vote since the registration books were closed for registration, he shall be allowed to register and vote.

2666. Ballots and ballot boxes. All ballots shall be printed or written upon white paper and shall be of the same size, without device, mutilation or ornamentation, the size of ballots to be fixed by board of commissioners at the same meeting the registrar is appointed. The governing body of the city or town shall provide for each election precinct in their respective cities or towns necessary ballot boxes in which to deposit the ballots; each of such boxes shall have an opening through the lid to admit a single folded ballot, and no more. The ballot boxes shall be kept by the judges of election for the use of the election precincts respectively; and the registrar and judges of election, before the voting begins, shall carefully examine the ballot boxes and see that there is nothing in them, and they shall be sealed or securely fastened and not be opened until the polls are closed.

Rev., s. 2962; 1901, c. 750, s. 12; 1903, c. 613, s. 2.

2667. Ballots counted. When the election shall be finished the registrar and judges of election shall open the boxes and count the ballots, reading aloud the names of the persons which shall appear on each ballot; and if there shall be two or more ballots rolled up together, or any ballot shall contain the names of more persons than the elector has the right to vote for, or shall have a device or ornament upon it, in either of these cases such ballots shall not be numbered in taking the ballots, but shall be void; and the counting of votes shall be continued without adjournment until completed, and the result thereof declared.

Rev., s. 2963; 1901, c. 750, s. 13.

2668. Registration books, where deposited. Immediately after any election the registrars shall deposit the registration books for the respective precincts with the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 2957; 1901, c. 750, s. 11.

2669. Board of canvassers. The registrar and judges of election in each voting precinct shall appoint one of their number to attend the meeting of the board of canvassers as a member thereof, and shall deliver to the member who shall have been so appointed the original returns of the result of the election in such precinct; and the members of the board of canvassers who shall have been so appointed shall attend the meeting of the board of canvassers, and shall constitute the board of town canvassers for such election, and a majority of them shall constitute a quorum. In towns where there is only one voting precinct, the registrar and judges of election shall, at the close of the election, declare the result thereof.
Rev., s. 2964; 1901, c. 750, ss. 13, 14.

2670. Meeting of board of canvassers. The board of canvassers shall meet on the next day after the election at twelve o'clock m., at the mayor’s office, and they shall each take the oath prescribed in the general law governing elections for members of the board of county canvassers.
Rev., s. 2965; 1901, c. 750, s. 15.

2671. Board determines result; tie vote. The board of canvassers shall, at their meeting, in the presence of such electors as choose to attend, open, canvass and judicially determine the result, and shall make abstracts, stating the number of legal ballots cast in each precinct for each office, the name of each person voted for and the number of votes given to each person for each different office, and shall sign the same. It shall have power and authority to pass upon judicially all the votes relative to the election and judicially determine and declare the result of the same, and shall have power and authority to send for papers and persons and examine the latter upon oath; and in case of a tie between two opposing candidates, the result shall be determined by lot. In all other respects all elections held in any town or city shall be conducted as prescribed for the election of members of the general assembly.
Rev., s. 2966; 1901, c. 750, ss. 16, 17.

In case of a tie the result is determined by lot; in county election it is for the board of 2672. Notice of special election. No special election shall be held for any purpose in any county, township, city or town unless at least thirty days notice shall have been given of the same by advertisement in some newspaper published in said county, city or town, or by advertisement posted at the courthouse of the county and four other public places in such county, city or town.

Rev., s. 2967; 1901, c. 750, s. 24.

Art. 4. Ordinances and Regulations

2673. General power to make ordinances. The board of commissioners shall have power to make ordinances, rules and regulations for the better government of the town, not inconsistent with this chapter and the law of the land, as they may deem necessary; and may enforce them by imposing penalties on such as violate them; and may compel the performance of the duties imposed upon others, by suitable penalties.
Rev., s. 2923; Code, ss. 3799, 3804; R. C., c. 111, ss. 12, 17.
For proof of ordinances on appeal, see Evidence, s. 1750.

Legislature may transfer to municipal bodies created by it the duty and responsibility of exercising a portion of its own police power in such manner as commissioners may deem necessary: State v. Austin, 114-855; Humphrey v. Church, 109-132. Town authorities have power Municipal ordinances and by-laws must be in harmony with the general laws of the state, and whenever they come in conflict with such general laws must give way: Washington v. Hammond, 76-53; State v. Langston, 88-692.

Municipal corporation is not liable for failure to pass or enforce an ordinance: Goodwin v. Reidsville, 160-411.

An ordinance must be reasonable and lawful, and not oppressive or discriminating. Whether it is reasonable or not is a question of law upon the facts found to exist: Barger v. Smith, 156-323; s. c., 160-205; Small v. Edenton, 146-527.

The words 'entire board' in charter mean all members of board in existence and not all those provided for by charter; and where seven commissioners were elected and one resigned, passage of ordinance by vote of five members was sufficient: Comrs. v. Trust Co., 143-110.

Municipal corporations may enforce their ordinances by suitable penalties, but cannot create a criminal offense; the general statute makes the violation of a valid ordinance a misdemeanor: State v. Crenshaw, 94-877; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789; State v. Irvin, 126-989.

The penalty for violation of municipal ordinance should be definitely fixed, and not left to the discretion of the court; nor can the ordinance punish that which is already punishable under the state law: State v. Irvin, 126-989; State v. Rice, 97-421; State v. Worth, 95-615; State v. Crenshaw, 94-877; State v. Cainan, 94-883; State v. Dannenberg, 150-799; State v. Black, 150-866.

City ordinance which takes from the citizen a natural and necessary right without apparent necessity, and substitutes nothing adequate to take its place, is neither reasonable in its provisions nor just in its results: State v. Hill, 126-1139.

VALID AND INVALID ORDINANCES. Town ordinance is not void for discriminating which prohibits a citizen from keeping hog-pens within 100 yards of the residence of another, but does not prohibit him from keeping them within like distance from his own: State v. Hord, 122-1092. But an ordinance prohibiting the building of a stable nearer to the residence of another than it is to the owner's residence is invalid as having no uniform standard: State v. Bass, 171-780.

Commissioners of a town have not power to enact an ordinance declaring it to be 'unlawful for any person to abuse or insult any officer of the town, or member of the police, while in discharge of his duty,' and imposing a fine of $25 upon one convicted thereunder: State v. Clay, 118-1234.

An ordinance of a town requiring stores to be closed after 7:30 in the evening is invalid: State v. Ray, 131-814—so is an ordinance forbidding one who sells liquor to occupy his own premises between certain hours, State v. Thomas, 118-1221.

Where a town charter allows regulation and sale of spirituous liquors, an ordinance allowing revocation of license upon breach of certain ordinances regulating the sale, the licensee agreeing thereto upon receiving his license, is valid: Paul v. Washington, 134-363.

City ordinance punishing, by fine, loud and boisterous cursing and swearing in any street, house, or elsewhere in city, is valid: State v. Cainan, 94-880; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789; State v. Warren, 113-683; State v. Debnam, 98-712—and, in an indictment under this ordinance, it is not necessary to set out the words used by defendant: State v. Cainan, 94-880; State v. Earnhardt, 107-789; State v. Warren, 113-683; State v. Debnam, 98-712. Ordinance prohibiting 'profane language in town' not valid: State v. Horne, 115-739.

Ordinance imposing a fine or penalty for selling liquor without license does not conflict with general laws of state prohibiting sale of liquor without license, and is therefore valid: State v. Stevens, 114-873.

Ordinance prohibiting an unmarried minor, except when acting as agent of his parent or guardian, from entering any barroom or room where spirituous, vinous or malt liquors are kept for sale, is valid, being reasonable and consistent with the laws of the state: State v. Austin, 114-855.

Ordinance appointing cotton weigher and prescribing that part of his fee be paid by buyer and other part by seller, and prescribing penalty forbidding all sales unless cotton weighed by him, is valid: State v. Tyson, 111-687. But when cotton is brought to a cotton weigher to be weighed under a town ordinance, neither the officer nor the town is liable for the loss of the cotton: Cotton Co. v. Wilson, 159-741.

Under a general power in a charter to suppress houses of ill-fame, a city may pass an ordinance forbidding owners to rent houses for purpose of being used as bawdy houses, or with knowledge that they will be so used by the lessee; but its authorities are not thereby empowered to define what is a house of ill-fame, or declare a given house to be a bawdy house: State v. Webber, 107-962—nor to establish a rule of evidence, Ibid. If part of ordinance is void, all other clauses with which the invalid part is necessarily connected or which are dependent on it are also void: Ibid.

Town commissioners passed an ordinance requiring all male citizens, between ages of eighteen and forty-five years, to work certain number of days on the streets, and imposing fine or imprisonment for wilful refusal so to do: Held, that such ordinance is valid, and violation of it was a misdemeanor: State v. Smith, 103-403.

An ordinance regulating or prohibiting the use of awnings, signs, etc., over the sidewalk is valid; its reasonableness is a question of law and not for the jury: Small v. Edenton, 146-527, overruling State v. Higgins, 126-1014. An ordinance may regulate the use of billboards: State v. Staples, 157-637; State v. Whitlock, 149-542.

An ordinance requiring the segregation of the races as to residence districts is invalid: State v. Darnell, 166-800. The validity of an ordinance cannot be tested by an injunction: Paul v. Washington, 134-363. Where license is refused under an ordinance, the remedy is by mandamus, or in a proper case by payment of fees and an action to recover the money: State v. Snipes, 161-243.

Where authority to make certain ordinances is vested in a board of health, an ordinance passed by commissioners in invalid: State v. Beacham, 125-654.

2674. Power to establish and regulate markets. The board of commissioners may establish and regulate their markets, and prescribe at what place, within the corporation, shall be sold marketable things; in what manner, whether by weight or measure, may be sold grain, meal or flour (if flour be not packed in barrels), fodder, hay, or oats in straw; may erect scales for the purpose of weighing the same, appoint a weigher, fix his fees, and direct by whom they shall be paid. But it shall not be lawful for the commissioners or other authorities of any town to impose any tax whatever on wagons or carts selling farm products, garden truck, fish and oysters on the public streets thereof. Rev., s. 2928; Code, s. 3801; R. C. c. 111, s. 14; 1879, c. 176. See section 2794. The exercise of authority in establishing markets will not be interfered with by the court where the discretion is not arbitrary: McEntyre v. Murphy, 177-306. Markets being a public necessity, a town has implied power to establish and regulate them: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457. It is a police power and does not of itself confer right to levy taxes: State v. Bean, 91-554. The town may prohibit the sale of fresh meats within the corporate limits outside of the market-house: State v. Pendergrass, 106-664—may prohibit sale of fish outside of market-house, State v. Perry, 151-661.
Town ordinance providing that all licenses to occupy stalls in a market-house may be revoked at will is in force until repealed, and may be summarily enforced at discretion of authorities: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457.

Persons occupying stalls in a town market-house, under license from town, are not tenants, but licensees merely. They do not acquire rights of tenants from year to year by being permitted to hold over after period covered by their license has expired, and may be summarily ejected at discretion of proper authorities: Ibid.

Obstructing a street in keeping a market cart standing in the street for an hour and a half is not a nuisance per se: State v. Edens, 85-522.

2675. Repair streets and bridges. The board of commissioners shall provide for keeping in proper repair the streets and bridges in the town, in the manner and to the extent they may deem best; may cause such improvements in the town to be made as may be necessary, and may apportion the same equally among the inhabitants, by assessments of labor or otherwise, and the citizens shall not be liable to work on the public roads without the limits of the town. When they determine to repair or improve by labor, they may appoint an overseer and compel such persons as are liable to perform duty on the public roads to work on the streets, in the manner and under the penalties provided in the general law for the repairation of the public roads.

Rev., s. 2930; Code, s. 3803; R. C., c. 111, s. 16.

See section 2793.

Municipal corporations have the right to open public streets and to locate and construct necessary bridges over them, but the municipal authorities are the sole judges of the necessity or expediency: Comrs. v. Raeford, 178-337; Waynesville v. Satterthwait, 136-225; Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127. Streets and public highways distinguished: Waynesville v. Satterthwait, 136-225.

The municipal authorities are charged with the duty of keeping the streets, sidewalks, drains, culverts, etc., in a reasonably safe condition, to the extent that this can be done by exercising proper and reasonable care and supervision: Sehorn v. Charlotte, 171-540; Foster v. Tryon, 169-182; Smith v. Winston, 162-50; Bailey v. Winston, 157-253; Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140-110; Russell v. Monroe, 116-720; Bunch v. Edenton, 90-131. In the discharge of this duty they are the judges of the necessity and exercise a wide discretion; and the courts will not interfere unless there is a manifest abuse of discretion: Crotts v. Winston-Salem, 170-24; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490; Smith v. Hendersonville, 152-617; Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392; Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127; Durham v. Riggsbee, 141-128; Spruill v. Columbia, 153-46. This power over streets can be delegated to a committee of the board: Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392.

The authorities of municipal corporations must provide the means and employ the agencies to perform the duties imposed upon them, and for neglect to do so may be liable in damages; but they are not required to perform such duties by their own labor: Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352.

Duty and power of municipal authorities to prevent and abate nuisances and obstructions in public streets are ample and complete, and they may be held liable to party injured in consequence of their dereliction: Dillon v. Raleigh, 124-184.

Where commissioners are empowered and required to let out repairing of streets of such town to lowest undertaker, and are authorized to lay a tax for repairing streets, and inhabitants of the town are, by same act, exempted from working on streets, it is not discretionary with such commissioners whether they will let out the streets and lay the tax, but they are indictable for failure to do so: State v. Comrs., 48-399.

Where an act of a general assembly expressly authorizes the laying out a certain street across certain lands, owner of land cannot be heard to complain that street is not necessary for public purposes: Call v. Town of Wilkesboro, 115-337. An act authorizing the laying out of a certain street is not affected by a prior judgment of the superior court that such street is not a public necessity: Ibid. General assembly provided that a certain street should be located under the law providing for same in charter of town: Held, that this was not intended to restrict town to powers existing under its charter, but to regulate procedure in ascertaining most practical way of laying out street: Ibid.
FAILING TO PERFORM DUTY, LIABLE TO INDICTMENT. City authorities are liable to indictment for failing to keep streets in good repair: State v. Dickson, 124-871.

An indictment against commissioners of a town for failing to do their duty as such, during a certain space of time therein set out, must aver the tenure and duration of their office: State v. Comrs., 48-399.

An indictment against mayor and aldermen of a city for neglect of official duty in failing to remove obstructions from a street and to keep same in repair, is fatally defective if it fails to point out the particular public duty neglected, or to refer to the statute imposing it: State v. Fishblate, 83-654.

Town is only responsible for negligent breach of duty, and to establish such responsibility it is not sufficient to show that a defect existed and an injury caused thereby. It must be further shown that officers "knew or by ordinary diligence might have discovered the defect, and its character was such that injuries to travelers therefrom might reasonably be anticipated": Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140-110; Johnson v. Raleigh, 156-269; Seagraves v. Winston, 167-205; s. s., 170-618; Foster v. Tryon, 169-382; Dowell v. Raleigh, 175-197; Revis v. Raleigh, 150-348. The question of notice is generally one for the jury: Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140-110; Kinsey v. Kinston, 145-106; Foster v. Tryon, 169-182.

The fact that a third person is responsible for the defect does not relieve the city of liability if it has failed to exercise reasonable care: Ridge v. High Point, 176-421; Hardy v. Construction Co., 174-320; Gregg v. Wilmington, 155-18; Comrs. v. Indemnity Co., 155-219; Styron v. R. R., 161-78; Guthrie v. Durham, 163-573; Conway v. Ice Co., 169-577; Raleigh v. R. R., 129-265; Foy v. Winston, 126-981; Brown v. Louisburg, 126-701; Dillen v. Raleigh, 124-184. In the event of recovery against town for damages for one falling into excavation on sidewalk, it could hold the property owner responsible, as they are not joint tort feasors, and a release, for valuable consideration, to the party primarily liable, operates to discharge of the town: Brown v. Louisburg, 126-701. See, also, Gregg v. Wilmington, 155-18; Guthrie v. Durham, 168-573.

The fact that plaintiff knew of the defect is not negligence per se so as to prevent a recovery: Duke v. Belhaven, 174-95; Darden v. Plymouth, 166-492; Neal v. Marion, 129-345; Russell v. Monroe, 116-720.

Burden of showing defects and dangers in the public streets, causing injury, and also notice thereof, express or implied, rests upon the plaintiff: Jones v. Greensboro, 124-310—burden of proving contributory negligence is on the defendant, Russell v. Monroe, 116-720.

A town or city is not liable in damages for an injury caused through the slipping of person on its sidewalk on account of ice formed there at season of the year when such formation of ice might be reasonably anticipated: Cresler v. Asheville, 134-311. An ordinance requiring the owner of property to remove ice and snow from the sidewalk does not impose any civil liability for injury: Hartsell v. Asheville, 164-193.

Step projecting out into the sidewalk is an obstruction, and length of time of such usage will not prevent liability: White v. New Bern, 146-447; but see Edwards v. Raleigh, 150-276. Permitting overhanging dead limbs to remain so as to fall on passers-by is negligence: Jones v. Greensboro, 124-310. Permitting brick to be piled in street, without light, but with sufficient passway, is negligence: Pinnix v. Durham, 130-360.

As to action for negligence in having a defective bridge, see Brewster v. Eliz. City, 142-9—for permitting broken electric wires (where town owns lighting plant) to remain suspended in dangerous manner, Fisher v. Newbern, 140-506—for damages caused by drain being stopped up and allowed to remain until land overflowed, Williams v. Greenville, 130-93—for failure to protect pedestrians against sink holes made in course of improving streets, Willis v. Newbern, 118-182—for damages caused by fireworks display ordered by town authorities, Love v. Raleigh, 116-216.

In action against town for injury sustained by falling into an unguarded excavation, facts held to show that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence, precluding recovery: Austin v. Charlotte, 146-536; Myers v. Asheville, 165-703.
A town is required to keep a bridge suitable for such transit as may reasonably be expected: Carter v. Leaksville, 174-561. A bridge and embankment so constructed as to cause a large volume of water to collect in the street, causing the death of a child by drowning, renders the city liable: Bell v. Greensboro, 170-179.

Placing a hydrant on the edge of the sidewalk is not such an obstruction as to render the city liable for injury: Rollins v. Winston-Salem, 176-411. The falling of a "grandstand" erected on a town common for the convenience of the public in witnessing a parade does not render the town liable for the injury, such structure being erected with the consent but not under the direction of the town authorities: Morgan v. Tarboro, 174-104. A town is not liable for injury caused by persons using the street, as for playing baseball: Goodwin v. Reidsville, 160-411.

CHANGE OF GRADE OF STREETS. Raising or lowering the grade of a street is within the discretion of the municipal authorities, and there is no liability for injury to the adjoining property unless there is negligence: Keener v. Asheville, 177-1; Bennett v. R. R., 170-389; Wood v. Land Co., 165-367; Hoyle v. Hickory, 164-79; s. c., 167-619; Harper v. Lenoir, 152-723; Dorsey v. Henderson, 148-423, and cases cited. But the city cannot authorize a third person to make the change: Bennett v. R. R., 170-389—for effect of ratification by the city, see Wolfe v. Pearson, 114-621.

A city is liable for the wrongful diversion of water from the street: Yowmans v. Hendersonville, 175-574.

STREET OBTAINED UNDER EMINENT DOMAIN. A municipal corporation has no right of eminent domain except as conferred by its charter or the general law: Lloyd v. Venable, 168-531—and where land is taken for a street, without such authority, the town is liable in damages, Ibid.; Quantz v. Concord, 150-539. For general power of condemnation, see section 2792.

No notice to landowner is necessary of commissioners' intended action as to the laying out of street, but when compensation is fixed, landowner is entitled to notice and a hearing: State v. Jones, 139-613; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490.

As soon as commissioners, in exercise of powers delegated to them, appropriated the land to a public street, they had the right to enter and open it without awaiting the payment of damages: Ibid.

A street commissioner of a city has no power to appropriate and take charge of land for a sidewalk for the city: Cannady v. Durham, 137-72.

Condemnation of land for streets where land belonged to one for life and to others by contingent remainder: Miller v. Asheville, 112-759.

Right acquired by city by condemnation of street and sidewalk is confined to public necessity and to uses for which property is taken or burdened with easement, and for any additional burden placed upon servient tenement compensation must be made: Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533. The opening of the street must be for public benefit: Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127.

Where the statute intends the aldermen shall have time for proper deliberation, and therefore the report of a jury was postponed for one week, city did not thereby lose its right of appeal: Sondley v. Asheville, 110-84. Requirement in town charter that report of appraisers shall lie in the mayor's office for ten days for purposes of investigation and appeal, and that unless an appeal is taken from such report "the land so appraised shall stand condemned for the use of the town and the price fixed shall be paid," etc., applies only to the procedure for fixing price to be paid, and means that if no appeal is taken from appraised value land shall stand condemned at such value, and appeal does not postpone the right of entry: State v. Jones, 139-613. Provision in town charter that one appraiser shall be appointed by commissioners and landowner may appoint one and those two shall select a third, with a right of appeal to superior court, is valid, though it omits to provide for appointment of an appraiser if landowner refuses, and though all the appraisers are freeholders of town: Ibid.

In action for damages to buildings removed from land condemned for public use, special benefits from the improvements cannot be used as a set-off to such damages if such benefits were used as a set-off in the condemnation proceedings: Lamb v. Elizabeth City, 131-240.

The right of eminent domain can be exercised only in the manner provided by the statute conferring it, and if there is a special provision in the charter it is to be followed: Clinton v. Johnson, 174-286; Stiles v. Franklin, 173-651; Eppley v. Bryson City, 157-487.
TITLE TO STREETS; DEDICATION. For a city to establish an easement in land for a street it must show that it acquired such easement in some recognized manner, as by condemnation, dedication and acceptance, estoppel, or adverse possession for twenty years: New Bern v. Wadsworth, 151-309. For what amounts to a dedication, see Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374; Moore v. Meroney, 154-158.

Where municipal corporation conveys land, bounded by established streets or alleys, and the grantee enters upon and improves it, subsequent conveyance by corporation of land covered by such streets or alleys, whereby easement of appurtenant owner is interfered with, is void: Moose v. Carson, 104-431. Owners of town lots, under grant of town, cannot be deprived of their easement appurtenant in the streets adjacent for the benefit of the town, nor can general assembly give such power: Ibid.

When lots are sold with reference to a map or plat representing streets, parks, lots, etc., there is an irrevocable dedication of the streets, and the purchasers have the right to have them kept open: Wheeler v. Construction Co., 170-427; Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169-385; Green v. Miller, 161-24; Bailliere v. Shingle Co., 150-627; Davis v. Morris, 132-435; Conrad v. Land Co., 126-776; Collins v. Land Co., 128-563; Moore v. Carson, 104-431. Acceptance by the town is not required to protect the purchasers: Hughes v. Clark, 134-457. And the town may accept at any time: Bailliere v. Shingle Co., 150-627; State v. Fisher, 117-733. Purchasers without notice of such dedication will be protected: Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169-385; Green v. Miller, 161-24.

The same rule applies where lots are sold with reference to a park, court or square: Conrad v. Land Co., 126-776. But where one of lots on the map is designated as 'hotel site,' it is not such a dedication as prevents its use for some other purpose: Hanes v. Land Co., 129-311.

A municipal corporation cannot, even with authority from the legislature, sell a street and deprive the property owner of his right therein: Moose v. Carson, 104-431; Southport v. Stanley, 125-464; Turner v. Hillsboro, 127-153; Church v. Dula, 148-262; Moore v. Meroney, 154-158; but see Raleigh v. Durfy, 163-154 (sale of land used as a sidewalk). An alley is not necessarily a street, and the public have not necessarily a right to its use: Miliken v. Denny, 135-19.

Before the act of 1891, title to a street could be acquired against a municipal corporation by adverse possession, but not since that act: Threadgill v. Wadesboro, 170-641, and cases cited. See, also, section 435 and annotations.

A municipal corporation cannot vacate a street without compensation to the property owners who have purchased with reference to it: Moore v. Meroney, 154-158; Moore v. Carson, 104-431; but see Crowell v. Monroe, 152-399.

In an action against a municipality for damages for appropriation of plaintiff's land for a street, defendant denied plaintiff's title: Held, that the burden of proving his ownership is upon the plaintiff: Fuller v. Elizabeth City, 118-25.

ABUTTING OWNERS. In absence of evidence as to ownership of fee in a street of a city, presumption is that city has an easement only, and that fee remains in abutting owner: White v. Railroad, 113-610. City has same rights in a street which it controls by dedication as in one which has been granted or condemned; and the rights of the abutting proprietor are no greater in such street than if it had been granted or condemned: Tate v. Greensboro, 114-392—and the easement of the public is only to use the land as a street: White v. R. R., 113-610. Rights, powers and liability of a municipality extend equally to sidewalk as to the roadway, for both are parts of the street, and the abutting proprietor has no more right in the sidewalk than in the roadway: Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

The owner of the land on which a street is located has every right and advantage in that part of it which is not required for public use: White v. R. R., 113-610. He has a right to compensation for any additional burden placed on the land: Ibid.; Staton v. R. R., 147-428.

The owner of a lot adjoining the street, who has acquired a right therein by reason of purchase with reference to the street, has an easement therein which cannot be interfered with without compensation: White v. R. R., 113-610.

The abutting owner, who never owned the street nor acquired a right therein by contract, has a property right therein by reason of ownership of adjoining property, and is entitled to reasonable ingress and egress, light and air, and to compensation for any interference with this right: White v. R. R., 113-610; Staton v. R. R., 147-428; Butler v. Tobacco Co., 152-416; Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288.

Abutting owner has property in shade trees standing along sidewalk which the law will protect, and they may not be removed except where their removal is necessary for use of street as

An electric hoist 12 feet above the street is an obstruction which cannot be authorized by the municipal authorities: Guano Co. v. Lumber Co., 168-337. Liability of owner for moving a house in the street and interfering with telephone wires: Weeks v. Telephone Co., 168-168.

ASSESSMENT FOR IMPROVEMENTS. Power to levy special assessments is derived solely from legislature, acting either directly or through its local instrumentalities, and courts will not interfere with exercise of discretion vested in legislature as to necessity for or manner of making such assessments, unless there is want of power, or the method adopted for assessment of benefits is so clearly inequitable as to offend some constitutional principle: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112-559; Tarboro v. Staton, 156-504.

Special assessments are constitutional, and are founded upon the principle that the adjoining land has received special benefit from the improvement: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Marion v. Pilot Mountain, 170-118. It is considered as a branch of the taxing power: Ibid.

It is not essential that the legislature should fix minute details in the exercise of the power, but a definite method should be fixed to estimate the assessments, with an opportunity to the property owner to contest the amount: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32—and the method prescribed must be observed, Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112-359.

The statute may require a taxing district to be fixed, and the expense to be estimated and apportioned: Asheville v. Trust Co., 143-360—may require application by a majority of the property owners subject to assessment, Schank v. Asheville, 154-40—popular vote is not required, Lewis v. Pilot Mountain, 170-109. The assessment may be determined by actual appraisement or by the front-foot rule: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Hilliard v. Asheville, 118-845; Kinston v. Loftin, 149-285. If, in applying any of the rules prescribed, it should appear to be manifestly unequal and oppressive, the courts may interfere: Kinston v. Wooten, 150-285. The law may limit the assessment to a certain per cent of the tax valuation: Charlotte v. Brown, 165-455. The property owner may waive the limitation: Charlotte v. Alexander, 173-515.

Assessments may be levied for sewers: Justice v. Asheville, 161-62—for pipe lines for water, Felmet v. Canton, 177-52.

When part of the street paving has been charged to a street railway, this should be deducted before making assessments: Morris v. Hendersonville, 168-400. Reasonable notice should be given to enable the property owner to appear and contest the assessment: Tarboro v. Staton, 156-504; Kinston v. Loftin, 149-285.

The assessment and levy have the effect of a judgment and lien, and cannot be attacked collaterally; there should be objection in apt time and an appeal: Schank v. Asheville, 154-40. It is not a personal judgment against the owner, but a charge upon the property: Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32.

The roadbed and right of way of a railroad are liable to assessment for local improvements: Comrs. v. R. R., 133-216.

For statutory regulations as to assessments by municipal corporations, see sections 2710 et seq., and subchapter 3, Municipal Finance Act.

2676. May abate nuisances. The board of commissioners may pass laws for abating or preventing nuisances of any kind, and for preserving the health of the citizens.

Rev. s. 2929; Code, s. 3802; R. C. c. 111, s. 15.

Require contractors to give bond. See chapter Liens, s. 2445.

May establish public hospital. See chapter Public Hospitals.
2677. Commissioners may levy taxes.

The board of commissioners may annually levy and cause to be collected for municipal purposes a tax not exceeding fifty cents on the hundred dollars, and one dollar and fifty cents on each poll, on all persons and property within the corporation, which may be liable to taxation for state and county purposes; and may annually lay a tax on all trades, professions and franchises carried on or enjoyed within the city, unless otherwise provided by law; and may lay a tax on all such shows and exhibitions for reward as are taxed by the general assembly; and on all dogs, and on swine, horses and cattle, running at large within the town.

Rev., s. 2924; Code, s. 3800; R. C., c. 111, s. 13; 1862, c. 51.

See subchapter III, Municipal Finance Act, s. 2963.

PROPERTY AND POLL TAX. The right of taxation or assessment is a grant of sovereign power, and can only be exercised for public good, and not private benefits or for corporate gain, unless such gain be incident to public benefit: Hutton v. Webb, 124-749. A town has no right to impose any tax but such as is expressly authorized by its charter for purposes of revenue: State v. Bean, 91-554; Winston v. Taylor, 99-210; Winston v. Beeson, 135-271—and it is bound by the limitations therein, Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75-1.

Towns and cities are required to base their levies upon the assessment made for state and county purposes: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134; State v. Irvin, 126-989.

The limitations of this section do not apply to tax levy for necessary expense of water and sewer system: Underwood v. Asheboro, 152-641.

A tax list made up by one who is not a member of the taxing body, but who acts under its direction and as its agent, is not thereby made invalid: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134.

There is no restriction upon municipal taxation except that which the legislature imposes; the equation between property and poll does not apply: Swinson v. Mt. Olive, 147-611; Wingate v. Parker, 136-369. See annotations under section 2678.

Where the town levied a tax in excess of amount allowed in the original charter, an amendment or the general law might validate the levy: Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107-317.
taxes is presumed to be regular and sufficient: Ibid. Act authorizing levy of a tax by a city on a particular date will be construed as authorizing levy on that date or within a reasonable time thereafter: State v. Worth, 116-1007.

As to situs of personality and realty for taxation, see Winston v. Salem, 131-404. For property subject to municipal taxation, see Hall v. Fayetteville, 115-281; Wiley v. Comrs., 111-397; Wood v. Edenton, 106-151; Redmond v. Comrs., 106-122.

Where a municipality has power to create a municipal debt, it has right, by necessary implication, to levy the necessary taxes to pay it. The right to create a debt carries with it the duty to pay the same: Slocomb v. Fayetteville, 125-362; Charlotte v. Shepard, 122-602.

Remedy for error in imposing taxes should be first sought by application to taxing body, upon whom ample powers are conferred for this purpose: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134. Creditor is entitled to a peremptory mandamus requiring proper city authorities to levy and collect taxes upon property and polls within the city with which to pay his claim: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478. It is not error in court below, in an action instituted against a municipal corporation for purpose of restraining such corporation from collecting an illegal tax, to allow all citizens, other than original plaintiff, to be made parties plaintiff: Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75-1. Taxpayer may enjoin taxation to pay for opening street for benefit of individuals and not the public: Stratford v. Greensboro, 124-127.

See sections 2691-2693, 2813.

LICENSE OR PRIVILEGE TAXES. Tax on property and tax on privileges are distinct taxes, and both may be levied by towns under this section; and exemption from one of these taxes does not exempt from the other: Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-68.

A license fee or tax as a revenue measure must be in accordance with the statute authorizing it; as a police regulation, it must be reasonable in amount: State v. Bean, 91-554.

Municipality authorized to tax trades, professions, franchises and incomes is not bound to tax them uniformly as to amount: State v. Worth, 116-1007; State v. Powell, 100-525; Rosenbaum v. Newbern, 118-83. But reasonable classification may be made, and there must be no discrimination among persons in each class: State v. Williams, 158-611. Where several occupations conducted by one party, privilege tax on one does not prevent similar tax on another: Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-68. Brokers and pawnbrokers constitute distinct classes, and entirely different license taxes may be assessed upon them: Schaul v. Charlotte, 118-733. Word "trade" when used in defining power to tax, includes any employment or business for gain or profit: State v. Worth, 116-1007.

The drummers' section of the revenue act gives party licensed the right to sell commodities mentioned in any county of the state, without being liable to county or municipal tax: Latta v. Williams, 87-126.

Under the charter of the city of Winston, dealers in trading stamps do not come within the provision of an ordinance taxing "gift enterprises": Winston v. Beeson, 135-271; Winston v. Hudson, 135-286.

An ordinance requiring a license of liverymen, and providing that it shall include any persons making contract for hire in town, "or carry any person with a vehicle out of the town for hire," is not only void as being unreasonable, but is unlawful as well: Plymouth v. Cooper, 135-1.

2678. Taxes must be uniform and ad valorem. All taxes levied by any county, city, town, or township, shall be uniform and ad valorem upon all property in the same, except property exempted by the constitution.

Rev., s. 2968; Const., Art. VII, s. 9.
The constitution provides that all taxes, whether levied for state, county, town or township purposes, shall be uniform, and allows no discrimination in favor of any class, person or interest, but requires that all things possessing value and subject of ownership shall be taxed equally, and by uniform rule: Puit v. Comrs., 94-709; Edwards v. Cobb, 75-1; Jones v. Comrs., 107-248.

Provisions of constitution requiring taxes to be uniform apply to levying and payment of taxes, and not to the distribution of the revenue arising therefrom: Holton v. Comrs., 93-430.

The provision in state constitution requiring a proportional poll and property tax does not apply to municipal corporations: Wingate v. Parker, 136-369.

Uniformity is not violated by a reasonable classification of those persons engaged in business and imposing the same tax upon all in each class: State v. Williams, 158-611; Rosenbaum v. New Bern, 118-83; State v. Worth, 116-1007; State v. Powell, 100-525—as by classifying merchants according to annual sales, Mercantile Co. v. Mt. Olive, 161-121.

2679. Poll tax limitation. The equation of taxation described in the constitution applying only to taxation levied for the ordinary purposes of the state and county, no poll tax shall be levied or collected by any city or town, except as hereinafter provided, in excess of two dollars for any or all purposes combined, and all acts levying or authorizing the levy of taxes for special purposes which contain authority to levy a poll tax in excess of two dollars in the aggregate for all purposes are hereby repealed or modified so as to restrict and provide that the poll tax for general purposes and special taxes combined shall never exceed two dollars: Provided, this section shall not be construed to affect and shall not affect the district or other special school taxes and road taxes on the poll where they are now required to be levied by law: Provided further, that this section shall not affect any special act for the sale of bonds by municipalities where said bonds have been sold or voted for or authorized on or prior to the eleventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and seven. This section shall not apply to the counties of Halifax, Beaufort, Cleveland, New Hanover, Burke, Catawba, Union, Randolph, Orange, Edgecombe, Pasquotank, and Rowan.

1907, c. 935.

2680. Tax lists taken. The mayor, or other suitable person, shall, by order of the commissioners, take the list of taxables in the town, in such manner and at such time as the commissioners shall prescribe. If any person fail to list his taxables within the time prescribed by the commissioners, he shall be liable to a double tax.

Rev., s. 2969; Code, s. 3807; R. C., c. 111, s. 19.

Tax list made up by one who is not a member of the taxing body, but who acts under its direction and as its agent, is not thereby made invalid: Covington v. Rockingham, 93-134.

Tax list in hands of officer to whom it has been delivered for collection of taxes has the force of a judgment and execution: Wilmington v. Sprunt, 114-310. Right to add property to tax list: Smith v. Dunn, 160-174. Municipal corporations take the valuation made by the county authorities: Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172-258.

2681. Tax lists corrected. All tax lists, either county or municipal, which may be placed in the hands of any sheriff or tax collector, shall be at all times under the control of the authorities imposing the tax, and subject to be corrected or altered by them, and shall be open for inspection by the public, and upon demand by the authorities imposing the tax, or their successors in office, shall be surrendered to the lawful authorities for such inspection or correction.

Rev., s. 2970; Code, s. 3823; 1870-1, c. 177, s. 2.
2682. Taxation of municipal bonds. All laws and clauses of laws heretofore passed exempting bonds issued by any municipal corporation of the state of North Carolina from state, county or municipal taxation are hereby repealed: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a municipality from exempting its bonds from its own taxation.

Rev., s. 2976; 1905, c. 532.

2683. Dog tax. If any person residing in a town shall have therein any dog, and shall not return it for taxation, and shall fail to pay the tax according to law, the commissioners, at their option, may collect from the person so failing double the tax, or may treat such dog as a nuisance, and order its destruction.

Rev., s. 2971; Code, s. 3815; R. C., c. 111, s. 24.

For general dog tax, see Dogs.

Statute empowering town authorities to require payment of a tax on dogs is constitutional. It is not an ad valorem but a specific tax for the privilege of keeping a dog within town, and if not paid by owner, dog may be treated as a nuisance and killed: Mowery v. Salisbury, 85-175; Newell v. Green, 169-462.

2684. Monthly settlements by tax collector. Each town and city constable, or any other officer authorized by any town or city to collect taxes, fines or penalties, shall make a monthly settlement of all moneys coming into his hands, with the town treasurer or other officer authorized to receive the same.

Rev., s. 2972; Code, s. 3818; 1879, c. 194.

Tax collector, having accepted and acted under such levy, cannot be heard to impeach its sufficiency: Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107-317.

2685. Punishment for failing to pay over taxes monthly. If any constable or collector of taxes for any town or city, or any other officer, shall fail to make settlement and full return of all moneys, penalties and fines coming into his hands each month with the town or city treasurer, or other officer authorized to receive the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3609; Code, s. 3814; 1879, c. 194, s. 2; 1881, c. 37.

Section cited in Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-68.

2686. Annual statement of taxes. The commissioners shall annually publish an accurate statement of the taxes, levied and collected in the town, together with a statement of the amount expended by them, and for what purpose. And any board of commissioners failing to comply with this section shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars to any person who will sue for the same.

Rev., s. 2973; Code, s. 3816; R. C., c. 111, s. 25.

Where a board of town commissioners has failed to comply with this section, their failure subjects them to penalty, from which they will not be relieved by their successors supplying the omission: Roberts v. Southern Pines, 155-172.

2687. Publication of receipts and disbursements. Statements showing the receipts and disbursements of public money by municipal corporations, quasi-municipal corporations, and administrative boards of limited territorial jurisdiction, under grant of power from the state, shall be regularly published, as follows:

1. The board of aldermen or other governing body of incorporated cities and towns having a population of three thousand or over shall cause to be published monthly or quarterly statements of all municipal receipts and disbursements, which shall be itemized and show from what source received and to whom and on what account paid, and shall likewise cause to be published annually, at the end of each fiscal year, condensed and classified statements of such municipal receipts and disbursements, showing the source from which received and the account on which expended.

2. The boards of commissioners of all incorporated towns having a population of less than three thousand; boards of graded school trustees and other governing and administrative bodies of public school districts created by special act of the general assembly; county boards of education; boards of road commissioners and fence commissioners charged with the supervision, maintenance and repair of public roads and fences; the governing bodies of all other quasi-municipal corporations; all other administrative boards of limited territorial jurisdiction under grant of power from the state, charged with the receipt and disbursement of public money, and for the publication of whose receipts and disbursements no other provision is made by law, shall cause to be published annually, at the end of each fiscal year, statements of all receipts and disbursements of public money collected and expended. The statements shall be itemized in the manner provided for itemizing the monthly and quarterly statements of municipal receipts and disbursements, and shall further contain a classified summary of such receipts and disbursements, showing the source from which received and the account on which expended.

3. The statements above provided for shall be published in some newspaper having its place of publication, or which is of general circulation, in the city or town in which such public moneys are collected and expended. The cost of such publication shall not exceed one-half of one cent per word; but if no newspaper, as herein provided, will publish the statements at the rate named, the board of commissioners or other governing body shall, in their discretion, publish the statements by posting as notices at the courthouse door in the county and two other public places in the city and town in which the money is collected and expended.

1911, c. 123; 1919, c. 112.

ART. 6. SALE OF MUNICIPAL PROPERTY

2688. Public sale by mayor and commissioners. The mayor and commissioners of any town shall have power at all times to sell at public outcry, after thirty days notice, to the highest bidder, any property, real or personal, belonging to any such town, and apply the proceeds as they may think best.

Rev., s. 2978; Code, s. 3824; 1872-3, c. 112.

This section does not extend to sale or lease of real estate which by terms of act of incorporation is to be held in trust for use of town, or to such real estate as is devoted to governmental purposes, as city hall, market-house, etc. A special act is necessary in such case: Southport v. Stanly, 125:464; Turner v. Comrs., 127:154.

2689. Sale by county commissioners. In any town where there is no mayor or commissioners, the board of county commissioners shall have the power given in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 2979; Code, s. 3825; 1872-3, c. 112, s. 2.

2690. Title made by mayor. The mayor of any town, or the chairman of any board of commissioners of any town or county, is fully authorized to make title to the purchaser of any property sold under this chapter.

Rev., s. 2980; Code, s. 3826; 1872-3, c. 112, s. 3.

ART. 7. GENERAL MUNICIPAL DEBTS

2691. Popular vote required, except for necessary expense. No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith, or loan its credit, nor shall any tax be levied, or collected by any officer of the same, except for the necessary expenses thereof, unless by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters therein.

Rev., s. 2974; Const., Art. VII, s. 7.

CONSTITUTIONAL REQUIREMENTS. To enable municipal corporation to borrow money or loan its credit for any purpose, except for its necessary expenses, there must be an act of assembly passed and ratified, as required by constitution, authorizing it to submit proposition to the people, followed by an actual submission to and ratification by a majority of the qualified voters: Mayo v. Comrs., 122-5. The constitution does not prohibit the appropriation of funds in the treasury of a municipal corporation to the necessary expenses thereof—this prohibition is confined to the contracting of debts for objects there forbidden without the sanction of a majority of qualified voters: Gardner v. New Bern, 98-228.

It was competent for legislature by provision in railroad charter to authorize town to hold election upon issue of bonds, without in terms amending the town charter for that purpose: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; Jones v. Comrs., 107-265; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227.

An act annexing territory but containing no tax or debt features need not be passed according to constitutional requirement: Lutterloh v. Fayetteville, 149-65.

Where commissioners of a town are authorized to fund its bonded indebtedness at higher rate of interest than original bonds bore, the portion of act authorizing increased rate of interest without a vote of the electors is void as contrary to art. 7, sec. 7, of the constitution, and only the principal of the bonds and interest from maturity of bonds can be recovered: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 128-529.

When municipal corporation, by a valid act of general assembly and an affirmative vote of approval by a majority of its qualified voters, has acquired right to create a debt and issue bonds therefor (section 14, article 2, of the constitution), such authority carries with it the power to levy taxes necessary to pay such bonds and the accruing interest thereon: Charlotte v. Shepard, 122-602, overruling Charlotte v. Shepard, 120-411.

Where legislature authorized city to issue bonds for necessary expenses, upon a vote of the people, and directed that they be sold for not less than par, and popular vote was had, but bonds could not be floated at par, and a subsequent act authorized city to ‘issue, sell and dispose of said issue of bonds,’ and to pay a commission brokerage of not more than 6 per cent, their issuance created a valid indebtedness without a popular vote: Greensboro v. Scott, 138-180.

If an amendment in a material matter is made to bill levying tax, amended bill should be read over again three times in each house, with yea and nay vote on second and third readings entered on journals: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730; Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Claywell v. Comrs., 173-657; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94. If the amendments do not materially change the amount nor the tax required, the bonds are valid: Wagstaff v. Highway Com., 177-354, and cases cited.

The usual certificate of ratification of a bill levying a tax is conclusive only of the fact of ratification, but not of a compliance with article 2, section 14, of the constitution: Smathers v. Comrs., 125-480.

There is no difference between making a contract binding a municipality for a long period of years, requiring the payment of a large yearly sum, and the issuing of bonds of the municipality to run a like period: Thrift v. Elizabeth City, 122-31.
The legislature has the power to impose restrictions upon the contract powers of a municipal corporation, and these must be complied with: Highway Com. v. Webb, 152-710; Burgin v. Smith, 151-561.

What is a necessary expense is a question of law for the court; whether it will be incurred and the reasonable cost is for the municipal authorities: Hightower v. Raleigh, 150-569. See annotations under section 1325.

POPULAR VOTE REQUIRED. The popular vote is required for all purposes not within the class of necessary expense, and the legislature cannot provide otherwise: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; Riggins v. Durham, 98-81; s. c., 99-341; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227.

Popular vote is not required for necessary expense, but the legislature may impose the restriction that the vote shall be taken: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Davis v. Lenoir, 178-668; Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1; Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Bramham v. Durham, 171-196; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94; Warsaw v. Malone, 159-573; Charlotte v. Trust Co., 159-388; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402; Ellison v. Williamson, 152-147; Jones v. New Bern, 152-64; Robinson v. Goldsboro, 135-382; Asheville v. Webb, 134-72; Wadsworth v. Concord, 133-587; Black v. Comrs., 129-121.

The method of voting is within the power of the legislature, but in the absence of express direction the voter should be allowed to vote on a single proposition: Winston v. Bank, 158-512. An amendment to the city charter in two particulars may be voted on as one proposition: Taylor v. Greensboro, 175-423. It is no defect to submit an issue of bonds for several purposes as one proposition, when the whole is for necessary expense: Briggs v. Raleigh, 166-149; Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137. But when the question presented embodies two or more distinct and unrelated propositions, the voter should be given an opportunity to express his decision as to each: Winston v. Bank, 158-512—and the different questions may be voted on in the same box, Smith v. Belhaven, 150-156.

It is the duty of the municipal authorities to issue the call and give notice of the election: Tyson v. Salisbury, 151-468. An irregularity in giving notice or in conducting the election, which does not deprive the voter of his privilege or materially affect the result, will not invalidate the election: Hardee v. Henderson, 170-572; Hill v. Skinner, 169-405; Briggs v. Raleigh, 166-149; Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150-35.

It must appear that a majority of those who were qualified to vote voted for the proposition, unless it is a necessary expense: Sprague v. Comrs., 165-603, and cases cited above.

"MAJORITY OF QUALIFIED VOTERS." Registration list is prima facie evidence of who are qualified voters: Young v. Hendersonville, 129-422; Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. A qualified voter is one who is entitled to register as a voter, and who is also qualified to vote.

It is sufficient if a majority of the qualified voters actually voted for the proposition, though the legislature required only a majority of the votes cast: Riggbee v. Durham, 99-341; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227. Those who are authorized to hold the election and ascertain the result should examine the registration books and eliminate the names of all who are not entitled to vote: Ibid. The result of the election as declared by the proper officers is prima facie correct, but the courts may, upon proper action brought, ascertain and declare the true result: Ibid. Words "majority of the members-elect," or "majority of the qualified voters," are used in constitutions and laws to take the exercise of a particular power out of general rule, and make assent of majority of whole number necessary: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678.

If it is for a necessary expense, the legislature may require only a majority of the votes cast, or may not require a vote to be taken: Davis v. Lenoir, 178-668, and cases cited.

MUNICIPAL BONDS. As to conditions precedent to issuing of bonds; action by purchaser for value; injunction by taxpayer; retrospective statute, see Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

Bonds may be issued for necessary expense without popular vote: Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1; Warsaw v. Malone, 159-573; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402. A succeeding board may revoke an order to issue bonds, if rights of third persons are not affected: Lucas v. Belhaven, 175-124.

An issue of bonds by town is valid as to the interest rate when town commissioners were vested with power to fix rate of interest, not exceeding six per cent, and records show that rate was fixed at five and one-half per cent, in discretion of commissioners: Lumberton v. Nuveen, 144-303; Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137. Date of maturity of bonds may be left to discretion of commissioners within certain periods: Ibid. Coupons are part of the bonds and partake of their nature: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478.

That the rate of taxation is insufficient does not invalidate the bonds: Hotel Co. v. Red Springs, 157-137. That the county is to supplement school bonds, and there is no authority to do so, does not render bond issue void: Moran v. Comrs., 168-289. Failure to provide a sinking fund does not affect validity of bonds: Jones v. New Bern, 152-64.

When bonds were to be issued for a railroad, and not to be delivered, but to become void, unless the road was completed within three years, there was no authority to extend the time: McCracken v. R. R., 168-62.

It is incumbent upon purchasers of state, county and municipal bonds to ascertain whether authority to issue them has been granted according to requirements of constitution: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339, and cases therein cited.

Purchaser of municipal bonds for railroad subscription is not required, when inquiring into the election, to go further than to find, from certificate of registrar, that a majority of qualified voters of municipality had voted for subscription: Claybrook v. Comrs., 117-456.

Purchaser of municipal bonds which, upon their face, refer to statute under which they are issued, is bound to take notice of statute and all its requirements: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; Lumberton v. Nuveen, 144-303; Highway Com. v. Malone, 166-1—and where there is an inherent constitutional defect in statute authorizing issue of bonds or in proceedings under which they are issued, a purchaser takes with notice, and there can be no such thing as an innocent holder, Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Repeal of town charter and reincorporation does not invalidate bonds of town; time between not counted on plea of statute of limitations: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 124-478.

For municipal bond issues generally, see subchapter 3, Municipal Finance Act.

2692. Debts paid out of tax funds. Debts contracted by a municipal corporation in pursuance of authority vested in it shall not be levied out of any prop-property belonging to such corporation and used by it in the discharge and execution of its corporate duties and trusts, nor out of the property or estate of any individual who may be a member of such corporation or may have property within the limits thereof. But all such debts shall be paid alone by taxation upon subjects properly taxable by such corporation: Provided, that whenever any individual, by his contract, shall become bound for such debt, or any person may become liable therefor by reason of fraud, such person may be subjected to pay said debt.

Rev., s. 2975; Code, s. 3821; 1870-1, c. 90.

See Winslow v. Comrs., 64-218; Hughes v. Comrs., 107-605, and cases cited; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34; Ellis v. Trustees, 156-10.

2693. Debts limited to ten per cent of assessed values. It shall be unlawful for any city or town to contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit for the construction of railroads, the support or maintenance of internal improvements or for any special purpose whatsoever, to an extent exceeding in the aggregate ten per cent of the assessed valuation of the real and personal property situated in such city or town. And the levy of any tax to pay any such indebtedness in excess of this limitation shall be void and of no effect.

Rev. s. 2977; 1889, c. 456.

See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, s. 2948 (2).

Art. 8. Public Libraries

2694. Libraries established upon petition and popular vote. The governing body of any incorporated city or town, upon the petition of twenty-five per cent of the registered voters thereof, shall submit the question of the establishment of a free public library to the voters at the next municipal election. If a majority of votes cast on said question be in the affirmative, the board of aldermen or town commissioners shall establish the library or reading-room and levy and cause to be collected as other general taxes are collected a special tax of not more than ten cents on the hundred dollars of the assessed value of the taxable property of such city or town and not more than thirty cents on the poll. The fund so provided shall constitute the library fund, and shall be kept separate from the other funds of the city or town, to be expended exclusively upon such library.

2695. Library trustees appointed. For the government of such library there shall be a board of six trustees appointed by the governing body of the city or town, chosen from the citizens at large with reference to their fitness for such office; and not more than one member of the board of aldermen or town commissioners shall be at any one time a member of said board. Such trustees shall hold their office for six years from their appointment, and until their successors are appointed and qualified: Provided, that upon their first appointment under this article two members shall be appointed for two years, two for four years, and two for six years, and at all subsequent appointments, made every two years, two members shall be appointed for six years. All vacancies shall be immediately reported by the trustees to the governing body and be filled by appointment in like manner, and, if in an unexpired term, for the residue of the term only. The governing body may remove any trustee for incapacity, unfitness, misconduct, or for neglect of duty. No compensation shall be allowed any trustee.

1911, c. 83, s. 2.

2696. Powers and duties of trustees. Immediately after appointment, such board of trustees shall organize by electing one of its members as president and one as secretary-treasurer, and such other officers as it may deem necessary. The secretary-treasurer before entering upon his duties shall give bond to the municipality in an amount fixed by the board of trustees, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his official duties. The board shall adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for its own guidance and for the government of the library as may be expedient and conformable to law. It shall have exclusive control of the expenditure of all moneys collected for or placed to the credit of the library fund, and of the supervision, care, and custody of the rooms or buildings constructed, leased, or set apart for library purposes. But all money received for such library shall be paid into the city treasury, be credited to the library fund, be kept separate from other moneys, and be paid out to the secretary-treasurer upon the authenticated requisition of the board of trustees through its proper officers. With the consent of the governing body of the city or town, it may lease and occupy, or purchase, or erect upon ground secured through gift or purchase, an appropriate building: Provided, that of the income for any one year not more than one-half may be employed for the purpose of making such lease or purchase or for erecting such building. It may appoint a librarian, assistants, and other employees, and prescribe rules for their conduct, and fix their compensation, and shall also have power to remove such appointees. It may also extend the privileges and use of such library to nonresidents upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe.

1911, c. 83, s. 3.

2697. Annual report of trustees. On or before the thirty-first day of December of each year the board of trustees shall make a report to the governing body of the city or town, stating the condition of their trust, the various sums of money received from the library fund and all other sources, and how much money has been expended; the number of books and periodicals on hand, the number added during the year, the number lost or missing, the number of books loaned out, and the general character of such books; the number of registered users of such library, with such other statistics, information, and suggestions as it may deem of general interest.

2698. Power to take property by gift or devise. With the consent of the governing body of the city or town, expressed by ordinance or resolution, and within the limitations of this article as to the rate of taxation, the library board may accept any gift, grant, devise, or bequest made or offered by any person for library purposes, and may carry out the conditions of such donations. And the city or town in all such cases is authorized to acquire a site, levy a tax, and pledge itself by ordinance or resolution to a perpetual compliance with all the terms and conditions of the gift, grant, devise, or bequest so accepted.

1911, c. 83, s. 5.

2699. Title to property vested in the city or town. All property given, granted, conveyed, donated, devised, or bequeathed to, or otherwise acquired by, any city or town for a library shall vest in and be held in the name of such city or town, and any conveyance, grant, donation, devise, bequest, or gift to or in the name of any public library board shall be deemed to have been made directly to such city or town.

1911, c. 83, s. 4.

2700. Library free. Every library established under this article shall be forever free to the use of the inhabitants of the city or town, subject to such reasonable regulations as the board of trustees may adopt.

1911, c. 83, s. 6.

2701. Ordinances for protection of library. The governing body of such city or town shall have power to pass ordinances imposing suitable penalties for the punishment of persons committing injury upon such library or the grounds or other property thereof, or for any injury to or for failure to return any book, plate, picture, engraving, map, magazine, pamphlet, or manuscript belonging to such library.

1911, c. 83, s. 8.

2702. Contract with existing libraries. The governing body of any city or town, when deemed best for the interest of the city or town, may, in lieu of supporting and maintaining a public library, enter into a contract with and make continuing appropriations of money to such library, associations or corporations as shall maintain a library or libraries, whose books shall be available without charge to the residents of such city or town, under such rules and regulations of said library associations or corporations as shall be approved by the governing body of such city or town. All money paid to such society or corporation under such contract shall be expended solely for the maintenance of such library, and for no other purpose. No city or town shall appropriate under this section in any year a total greater than one-fortieth of one per cent of the taxable value of such city or town according to the assessment of the previous year.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to abolish or abridge any power or duty conferred upon any public library established by virtue of any city or town charter or other special act, or to affect any existing local laws allowing or providing municipal aid to libraries.

1911, c. 83, ss. 9, 10; 1917, c. 215.

Art. 9. Local Improvements

2703. Explanation of terms. In this article the term “municipality” means any city or town in the state of North Carolina now or hereafter incorporated. “Governing body” includes the board of aldermen, board of commissioners, council, or other chief legislative body of a municipality.
"Street improvement" includes the grading, regrading, paving, repaving, macadamizing and remacadamizing of public streets and alleys, and the construction, reconstruction and altering of curbs, gutters and drains in public streets and alleys.

"Sidewalk improvement" includes the grading, construction, reconstruction and altering of sidewalks in public streets or alleys, and may include curbing and gutters.

"Local improvement" means any work undertaken under the provisions of this article, the cost of which is to be specially assessed, in whole or in part, upon property abutting directly on the work.

"Frontage" when used in reference to a lot or parcel of land abutting directly on a local improvement, means that side or limit of the lot or parcel of land which abuts directly on the improvement.

1915, c. 56, s. 1.

2704. Application and effect. This article shall apply to all municipalities. It shall not, however, repeal any special or local law or affect any proceedings under any special or local law for the making of street, sidewalk or other improvements hereby authorized, or for the raising of funds therefor, but shall be deemed to be additional and independent legislation for such purposes and to provide an alternative method of procedure for such purposes, and to be a complete act, not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other public or private law or laws, except as herein otherwise provided.

1915, c. 56, s. 2.

General effect of statute explained: Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138. A special act will control which limits the power of a municipal corporation and is inconsistent with this statute: Bramham v. Durham, 171-196.

See subchapter 3, Municipal Finance Act.

2705. Publication of resolution or notice. Every resolution passed pursuant to this article shall be passed in the manner prescribed by other laws for the passage of resolutions. Whenever a resolution or notice is required by this article to be published, it shall be published at least once in a newspaper published in the municipality concerned, or, if there be no such newspaper, such resolution or notice shall be posted in three public places in the municipality for at least five days.

1915, c. 56, s. 3.

2706. When petition required. Every municipality shall have power, by resolution of its governing body, upon petition made as provided in the next succeeding section, to cause local improvements to be made and to defray the expense of such improvements by local assessment, by general taxation, and by borrowing, as herein provided. No petition shall be necessary, however, for the ordering or making of private water, sewer and gas connections as herein-after provided. Nor shall a petition be necessary for the making of sidewalk improvements in those municipalities in which by other law or laws sidewalk improvements are authorized to be made without petition.

2707. What petition shall contain. The petition for a local improvement shall be signed by at least a majority in number of the owners, who must represent at least a majority of all the lineal feet of frontage of the lands (a majority in interest of owners of undivided interests in any piece of property to be deemed and treated as one person for the purpose of the petition) abutting upon the street or streets or part of a street or streets proposed to be improved. The petition shall cite this article and shall designate by a general description the local improvement to be undertaken and the street or streets or part thereof whereon the work is to be effected. The petition shall be lodged with the clerk of the municipality, who shall investigate the sufficiency thereof, submit the petition to the governing body, and certify the result of his investigation. The determination of the governing body upon the sufficiency of the petition shall be final and conclusive.

1915, c. 56, s. 5.

2708. What resolution shall contain:

1. Designate improvements. The preliminary resolution determining to make a local improvement shall, after its passage, be published. Such resolution shall designate by a general description the improvement to be made, and the street or streets or part or parts thereof whereon the work is to be effected, and the proportion of the cost thereof to be assessed upon abutting property and the terms and manner of the payment.

2. Sidewalk improvements. If such resolution shall provide for a sidewalk improvement, it may, in those municipalities in which the owners of the abutting property are required to make payment of the entire cost thereof, without petition direct that the owners of the property abutting on the improvement shall make such sidewalk improvement, and that unless the same shall be made by such owners on or before a day specified in the resolution, the governing body may cause such sidewalk improvement to be made.

3. Affecting railroads. If the resolution shall provide for a street improvement, it shall direct that any street railway company or other railroad company having tracks on the street or streets or part thereof to be improved shall make such street improvement, with such material and of such a character as may be approved by the governing body, in that part of such street or streets or part thereof which the governing body may prescribe, not to exceed, however, the space between the tracks, the rails of the tracks, and eighteen inches in width outside of the tracks of such company, and that unless such improvement shall be made on or before a day specified in such resolution, the governing body will cause such improvement to be made: Provided, however, that where any such company shall occupy such street or streets under a franchise or contract which otherwise provided, such franchise or contract shall not be affected by this section, except in so far as may be consistent with the provisions of such franchise or contract.

4. Water, gas and sewer connections. If the resolution shall provide for a street or sidewalk improvement, it may, but need not, direct that the owners of all property abutting on the improvement shall connect their several premises with water mains, gas and sewer pipes located in the street adjacent to their several premises in the manner prescribed in such resolution, and that unless such owners shall cause connection to be made on or before a day specified in such resolution, the governing body will cause the same to be made.

1915, c. 56, s. 6.
2709. Character of work and material. The governing body shall have power to determine character and type of construction and of material to be used in making a local improvement, and whether the work, where not done by owners of abutting property or by a street or other railroad company, shall be done by the forces of the municipality or by contract: Provided, that for the purposes of securing uniformity in the work the governing body shall always have the power to have all street paving done by the forces of the municipality or by contract under the provisions of this article.

1915, c. 56, s. 7.

2710. Assessments levied:

1. One-half on abutting property. One-half of the total cost of a street or sidewalk improvement made by a municipality, exclusive of so much of the cost as is incurred at street intersections and the share of railroads or street railways, shall be specially assessed upon the lots and parcels of land abutting directly on the improvements, according to the extent of their respective frontage thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage, unless the petition for such street or sidewalk improvement shall request that a larger proportion of such cost, specified in the petition, be so assessed, in which case such larger proportion shall be so assessed, and the remainder of such cost shall be borne by the municipality at large; but no assessment for streets and sidewalks shall be made against abutting property on any such street or sidewalk until said street or sidewalk has been definitely laid out and the boundaries of the same definitely fixed.

2. Upon railroads. The cost of that part of a street improvement required to be borne by a railroad or street railway company, and made by the municipality after default by a railroad or street railway company in making the same as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed against such company, and shall be collected in the same manner as assessments are collected from abutting property owners, and such assessment shall be a lien on all of the franchises and property of such railroad or street railway company.

3. For sidewalks. The entire cost of a sidewalk improvement required to be made by owners of property abutting thereon, and made by the municipality after default by such property owners in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed against the lots and parcels of land abutting on that side of the street upon which the improvement is made and directly on the improvement, according to their respective frontages thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage.

4. Water, gas and sewer connections. The entire cost of each water, gas and sewer connection, required to be made by the owner of the property for or in connection with which such connection was made, but made by the municipality after default by such property owner in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be specially assessed against the particular lot or parcel of land for or in connection with which it was made. No lands in the municipality shall be exempt from local assessment.

1915, c. 56, s. 8; 1919, c. 86.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2711. Amount of assessment ascertained. Upon the completion of any local improvement the governing body shall compute and ascertain the total cost thereof. In the total cost shall be included the interest paid or to be paid on notes or certificates of indebtedness issued by the municipality to pay the expense of such improvement pursuant to the provisions of this article and incident to the improvement and assessment therefor. The governing body must thereupon make an assessment of such total cost pursuant to the provisions of the preceding section, and for that purpose must make out an assessment roll in which must be entered the names of the persons assessed as far as they can ascertain the same, and the amount assessed against them, respectively, with a brief description of the lots or parcels of land assessed.

1915, c. 56, s. 9.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2712. Assessment roll filed; notice of hearing. Immediately after such assessment roll has been completed, the governing body shall cause it to be deposited in the office of the clerk of the municipality for inspection by parties interested, and shall cause to be published a notice of the completion of the assessment roll, setting forth a description in general terms of the local improvement, and the time fixed for the meeting of the governing body for the hearing of allegations and objections in respect of the special assessment, such meeting not to be earlier than ten days from the first publication or posting of said notice. Any number of assessment rolls may be included in one notice.

1915, c. 56, s. 9.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2713. Hearing and confirmation; assessment lien. At the time appointed for that purpose, or at some other time to which it may adjourn, the governing body, or a committee thereof, must hear the allegations and objections of all persons interested, who appear and may make proof in relation thereto. The governing body may thereupon correct such assessment roll, and either confirm the same or may set it aside, and provide for a new assessment. Whenever the governing body shall confirm an assessment for a local improvement, the clerk of the municipality shall enter on the minutes of the governing body the date, hour, and minute of such confirmation, and from the time of such confirmation the assessments embraced in the assessment roll shall be a lien on the real property against which the same are assessed, superior to all other liens and encumbrances. After the roll is confirmed a copy of the same must be delivered to the tax collector or other officer charged with the duty of collecting taxes.

1915, c. 56, s. 9.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2714. Appeal to the superior court. If a person assessed is dissatisfied with the amount of the charge, he may give notice within ten days after such confirmation that he takes an appeal to the next term of the superior court of the county in which the municipality is located, and shall within five days thereafter serve a statement of facts upon which he bases his appeal, but the appeal shall not delay or stop the improvements. The appeal shall be tried at the term of court as other actions at law.

2715. Power to adjust assessments. The governing body may correct, cancel or remit any assessment for a local improvement, and may remit, cancel or adjust the interest or penalties on any such assessment. The governing body has the power, when in its judgment there is any irregularity, omission, error or lack of jurisdiction in any of the proceedings relating thereto, to set aside the whole of the local assessment made by it, and thereupon to make a reassessment. In such case there shall be included, as a part of the costs of the public improvement involved, all interest paid or accrued on notes or certificates of indebtedness, or assessment bonds issued by the municipality to pay the expenses of such improvement. The proceeding shall be in all respects as in case of local assessments, and the reassessment shall have the same force as if it had originally been properly made.

1915, c. 56, s. 9.

2716. Payment of assessment in cash or by installments. The property owner or railroad or street railway company hereinbefore mentioned shall have the option and privilege of paying for the improvements hereinbefore provided for in cash, or if they should so elect and give notice of the fact in writing to the municipality within thirty days after the notice mentioned in next succeeding section, they shall have the option and privilege of paying the assessments in not less than five nor more than ten equal annual installments as may have been determined by the governing body in the original resolution authorizing such improvement. Such installments shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll, and in case of the failure or neglect of any property owner or railroad or street railway company to pay any installment when the same shall become due and payable, then and in that event all of the installments remaining unpaid shall at once become due and payable and such property and franchises shall be sold by the municipality under the same rules, regulations, rights of redemption and savings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for unpaid taxes. The whole assessment may be paid at the time of paying any installment by payment of the principal and all interest accrued to that date.

1915, c. 56, s. 10.

2717. Payment of assessments enforced. After the expiration of twenty days from the confirmation of an assessment roll the tax collector or such other officer of the municipality as the governing body may direct so to do shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in the municipality, or if there be no such newspaper, shall cause to be posted in at least three public places therein, a notice that any assessment contained in the assessment roll, naming and describing it, may be paid to him at any time before the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of the notice without any addition. In the event the assessment be not paid within such time the same shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll and shall become due and payable on the date on which taxes are payable: Provided, that where an assessment is divided into installments one installment shall become due and payable each year on the date on which taxes are due and payable.
If any assessment or installment thereof is not paid when due, it shall be subject to the same penalties as are now prescribed for unpaid taxes, in addition to the interest herein provided for.

1915, c. 56, s. 11.

See annotations under section 2675, "assessment for improvements."

2718. Assessments in case of tenant for life or years. Whenever any real estate is in the possession or enjoyment of a tenant for life, or a tenant for a term of years, and an assessment is laid or levied on said property by any city, town, county, township, municipal district, or the state, to cover the cost of permanent improvements ordered put thereon by the law or the ordinances of such city or town, township, or municipal district, such as paving streets and sidewalks, laying sewer and water lines, draining lowlands, and permanent improvements of a like character, which constitute a lien upon such property, the amount so assessed for such purposes shall be paid by the tenant for life or for years, and the remaindermen after the life estate, or the owner in fee after the expiration of tenancy for a term of years, pro rata their respective interests in said real estate.

1911, c. 7, s. 1.

2719. Interests of parties ascertained. In calculating the respective interests of a tenant for life and the remainderman in fee, the duration of the life tenancy should be ascertained and the expectation of life of the tenant as is provided by law by the mortuary table, as near as may be justly and fairly done.

1911, c. 7, s. 2.

2720. Lien of party making payment. If the assessment, after same shall be laid or levied, shall all be paid by either the tenant for life or the tenant for a term of years, or by the remainderman, or the owner in fee, the party paying more than his pro rata share of the same shall have the right to maintain an action in the nature of a suit for contribution against the delinquent party to recover from him his pro rata share of such assessment, with interest thereon from the date of such payment, and be subrogated to the right of the city, town, township, municipal district, county, or the state, to a lien on such property for the same.

2721. Money borrowed to be paid out of assessment. At any time before the cost of any local improvement shall be computed and ascertained as provided in this article, the governing body may from time to time by resolution authorize the treasurer to borrow money to the extent required to pay the cost of any such improvement or to repay any money borrowed under this section with interest thereon. The resolution authorizing any such loan or loans may provide for the issue of notes or certificates of indebtedness of the municipality, or both, payable either on demand or at a fixed time, not more than six months from the date thereof, and bearing interest not exceeding six per centum per annum. Said notes or certificates may be sold at public or private sale, or pledged as security for temporary loans, as the governing body may by such resolution direct. Any temporary indebtedness incurred under the authority of this section, with the interest thereon, may be paid out of moneys raised by the issue and sale of "local improvement bonds" or "assessment bonds," or both, to be issued and sold as hereinafter provided, or may be included in the annual tax levy.

1915, c. 56, s. 12.
See Municipal Finance Act, subchapter III, ss. 2934, 2935.

2722. Assessment books prepared. After the governing body of the municipality has levied the assessment against the property abutting upon the street or streets, the city clerk or person designated shall prepare from such assessment roll and deliver to the tax collector or person designated a well bound book styled Special Assessment Book, which shall be so ruled as to conveniently show:
1. Name of owner of such property.
2. The number of lot or part of lot and the plan thereof if there be a plan.
3. The frontage of said lot.
4. The amount that has been assessed against such lot.
5. The amount of such installments and the day on which installments shall become due.
Such book shall be indexed according to the names of the owners of the property, and entries of all payments or partial payments shall be immediately entered upon said book when made, and said book shall be open to the inspection of any citizen of the municipality.

1915, c. 56, s. 13.

2723. Local improvement bonds issued. Whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been confirmed, the governing body may by resolution direct that the amount and proportion of the expense of such improvement which shall be borne by the municipality at large shall be raised by the issuance of bonds of the municipality to be known as "local improvement bonds." Such bonds shall be payable at such time or times, not exceeding thirty years from their date, as the governing body shall determine. There shall be raised annually by tax upon all the taxable property of the municipality, after the issuance of any such bonds, a sum sufficient to meet and pay the interest thereon as the same becomes due, and a sum to be paid into a sinking fund which will, together with the accumulations thereof, provide a fund sufficient to meet and pay the principal of said bonds at maturity: Provided, however, that if such bonds be made payable in annual installments substantially equal in amount, the first of which installments shall be payable within two years from the date of such bonds and the last within twenty years of such date, the governing body authorizing such bonds, in lieu of providing for a sinking fund to meet the principal of such bonds, shall cause to be raised by taxation in each year in which an installment of principal shall be payable, or in the next preceding year, an amount sufficient to meet said installment, in addition to the annual tax during the life of the bonds to provide for the payment of the interest accruing thereon. The municipality's share of two or more improvements may be included in a single issue of local improvement bonds.

1915, c. 56, s. 14.
See Municipal Finance Act. subchapter III, ss. 2939, 2940, 2941, 2959.
The fact that this indebtedness may ultimately be paid by the sale or collection of assessment bonds does not change its character as an indebtedness of the municipal corporation: Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Charlotte v. Trust Co., 159-388.
2724. Assessment bonds issued. Whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been confirmed, and twenty days have elapsed since the first publication of notice of such confirmation, the governing body may by resolution direct that the amount and proportion of the expense of such improvement which has been assessed upon the abutting property, or any part of such expense, shall be raised by the municipality by the issuance of its bonds, to be known as "assessment bonds." Such bonds shall be made payable in not less than five and not more than ten substantially equal annual installments, the last of which shall become due not less than five nor more than ten years after the issuance of the bonds. All moneys derived from the collection of assessments upon which assessment bonds are predicated, collected after the passage of the resolution authorizing such bonds, shall be placed in a special fund, to be used only for the payment of the principal and interest of assessment bonds issued under this section, and if at the time of the annual tax levy for any year in such municipality it shall appear that such fund will be for any cause insufficient to meet the principal and interest of such bonds maturing in such year, the amount of the deficiency shall be included in such tax levy. The amount of the assessments for two or more improvements may be included in a single issue of assessment bonds.

1915, c. 56, s. 15.

Art. 10. Inspection of Meters

2729. Inspectors appointed. In every city or town in the state of North Carolina where is furnished, for pay, electricity, gas or water by meter measure, the governing body of the city or town may appoint some competent person to act as inspector of meters, whose duty it shall be to inspect and test such meters and to carry out the provisions of this article as herein provided.
1909, c. 150, s. 1.

2730. Time of appointment; oath, bond, and compensation. Such appointment, if made, shall be made at the first meeting in May of each year of such governing body, subject to the power of such city or town authorities to remove such appointee in the manner provided for the removal of its other appointees and to fill the vacancy caused by such removal. The compensation of such inspector shall be fixed and shall be paid by the city or town so appointing him, and such inspector shall upon his appointment take oath before the mayor of said city or town that he will faithfully perform the duties herein imposed upon him, and the governing body of the city or town may require the inspector to give bond in such sum as they may fix for the faithful discharge of his duties.
1909, c. 150, s. 2.

2731. Apparatus for testing meters provided. Every person, firm, corporation or municipality furnishing for pay electricity, gas or water by meter measure in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, shall provide and keep a suitable and proper apparatus for testing and proving the accuracy of the meters to be so furnished for use, by which apparatus all such meters shall be tested at their rated capacity.
1909, c. 150, s. 3.
For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2732. Meters tested before installed. No person, firm, or corporation or municipality furnishing for pay electricity, gas or water by meter measure shall hereafter furnish, install and put in use any such meter in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, until such meter shall first have been inspected and found correct by such inspector, and it shall be the duty of such inspector to test the same upon the written request of such proposed furnisher. No meter now in service shall be required to be taken out for test, except where there is doubt as to its accuracy and upon the written request of the consumer, as herein provided.
1909, c. 150, s. 4.
For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2733. Inspection made upon complaint. When any consumer, by meter, of electricity, gas or water in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, doubts the accuracy of such meter and desires to have the same tested, such consumer may file with the inspector of meters a written complaint of the meter and request that the same be tested, and shall at the same time deposit with the furnisher the sum of one dollar to cover the expense of taking out and replacing such meter, and thereupon it shall be the duty of such inspector as soon as practicable to accurately test said meter in the presence of and jointly with the authorized agent of the furnisher, and also in the presence of the complainant, if he so desires, and shall give to both the complainant and to the furnisher a written report of such test and the result thereof.
1909, c. 150, s. 5.
For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2734. Repayment of deposit. If upon such test the meter is found to be incorrect, in that it registers more than two and one-half per cent too fast—that is, more than two and one-half per cent more electricity, gas or water than it should, then and in that event the furnisher shall return to the complainant the one dollar deposit and shall promptly properly adjust and repair the meter or furnish a correctly adjusted meter; but if upon such test the meter shall not register more than two and one-half per cent too fast—that is, more than two and one-half per cent more than it ought to—the one dollar deposit shall be retained by the furnisher to cover the expense of taking out and replacing the meter.
1909, c. 150, s. 6.
For special provision for Durham county, see 1919, c. 158.

2735. Adjustment of charges. If upon such test the meter shall register more than two and one-half per cent too fast, as above defined, the furnisher shall reimburse the complainant at the rate at which the meter registers too fast for a period of one month back; but if upon such test the meter shall be found to be incorrect, in that it registers more than two and one-half per cent too slow—that is, more than two and one-half per cent less electricity, gas or water than it should—then and in that event the complainant shall, in addition to the amount already charged him, pay at once to the furnisher at the rate at which the meter is too slow for a period of one month back, and the furnisher shall have the same rights for collecting such additional sum as is provided for the collecting of the past due and unpaid bills for electricity, gas or water, as the case may be.

1909, c. 150, s. 7.

Gas and electric light bills must show reading of meters, see Commerce and Business in State, s. 5082.

Ordinance authorizing city as owner of water system to use meters or flat rate charges: Richardson v. Greensboro, 174-540.

2736. Standard of accuracy. Any such meter having been tested and found to be not more than two and one-half per cent too slow nor more than two and one-half per cent too fast, as above defined, shall be considered correct, and such inspector shall so mark or stamp such meter and report the same to the governing body of the city or town.

1909, c. 150, s. 8.

2737. Free access to meters. Nothing in this article shall be so construed as to prevent any furnisher of electricity, gas or water from having free access to the meters.

1909, c. 150, s. 9.

2738. Chief of fire department. There is hereby created in the incorporated cities and towns of the state, where not already established by their charters, the office of chief of fire department.

Rev., s. 4815; 1901, c. 677, s. 1.

2739. Election and compensation. The governing body of every incorporated city and town, when no provision is made in their charters for such office, shall elect a chief of fire department, fix his term of office, prescribe his duties and obligations, and see that he is reasonably remunerated by the city or town for the services required of him by law. They may change his duties and compensation from time to time, not inconsistent with the duties prescribed in this article. Where the governing body fails or neglects to perform such duty, the insurance commissioner shall call it to their attention and if necessary bring the matter before the proper court. Nothing herein may prevent any person elected hereunder from holding some other position in the government of the city or town.

Rev., ss. 2981, 4816; 1901, c. 677, s. 2; 1905, c. 506, s. 4; 1915, c. 192, s. 1.

This is a governmental function, and a failure on the part of the city to exercise it does not render it liable in damages: Harrington v. Greenville, 159-632.

2740. Duties of chief of fire department. The chief of the fire department shall perform the duties required of him by this article; where such duties are not prescribed by the charters or governing body of incorporated cities and towns, it shall be his duty to preserve and care for the fire apparatus, have charge of the fighting and putting out of all fires, make annual reports to the city municipal governments, seek out and have corrected all places and conditions dangerous to the safety of the municipality from fire, look after buildings being erected with a view to their safety from fires, and do and perform the other duties prescribed by the governing boards of the several municipalities.

Rev., ss. 4815, 4817; 1901, c. 677, ss. 1, 3.

2741. Local inspector of buildings. The chiefs of fire departments herein-before provided for shall also be local inspectors of buildings for the cities or towns for which they are appointed and shall perform the duties required herein and shall make all reports required by the insurance commissioner, and shall make all inspections and perform such duties as may be required by the state law or city or town ordinance or by the said insurance commissioner: Provided, however, that any city or town may appoint and reasonably remunerate a local inspector of buildings, in which case the chief of fire department shall be relieved of the duties herein imposed.

Rev., s. 2982; 1905, c. 506, s. 6; 1915, c. 192, s. 2.

2742. Town aldermen failing to appoint inspectors. If the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall fail or refuse to appoint a chief of the fire department, or shall fail or refuse to reasonably remunerate him, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town, where such city or town is by law exempt from the law regulating and controlling the erection and inspection of buildings.

Rev., s. 3607; 1905, c. 506, s. 4.

2743. Town officers; inspection of buildings. If any chief of any fire department or local inspector of buildings shall fail to perform the duties required of him by law or shall give a certificate of inspection without first making the inspection required by law, or shall improperly give a certificate of inspection, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3610; 1905, c. 506, s. 5; 1915, c. 192, s. 17.

2744. Electrical inspectors. The governing body of any incorporated city or town may in their discretion appoint an electrical inspector in addition to the building inspector, and when said electrical inspector is so appointed he shall do and perform all things herein set out for the building inspector to do and perform in regard to electrical wiring and certificates for same, and in such cases the building inspector shall be relieved of such duties.

Rev., s. 2983; 1905, c. 506, s. 33.

2745. Deputy inspectors. All duties imposed by this article upon the building inspector may be performed by a deputy appointed by such inspector.

Rev., s. 2984; 1905, c. 506, s. 32.

2746. Fire limits established. The governing body of all incorporated cities and towns shall pass ordinances establishing and defining fire limits, which shall include the principal business portion of the cities and towns.

Rev., s. 2985; 1905, c. 506, s. 7.

Towns by express grant of authority or under general welfare clause may impose fire limits: State v. Johnson, 114-846; State v. Lawing, 164-492; State v. Shannonhouse, 166-241.

2747. Punishment for failing to establish fire limits. If the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall fail or refuse to establish and define the 2748. Building permits. Before a building is begun the owner of the property shall apply to the inspector for a permit to build. This permit shall be given in writing and shall contain a provision that the building shall be constructed according to the requirements of the building law, a copy of which shall accompany the permit. As the building progresses the inspector shall make as many inspections as may be necessary to satisfy him that the building is being constructed according to the provisions of this law. As soon as the building is completed the owner shall notify the inspector, who shall proceed at once to inspect the said building and determine whether or not the flues and the building are properly constructed in accordance with the building law. If the building meets the requirements of the building law the inspector shall then issue to the owner of the building a certificate which shall state that he has complied with the requirements of the building law as to that particular building, giving description and locality and street number if numbered. The inspector shall keep his record so that it will show readily by reference all such buildings as are approved. The inspector shall report to the insurance commissioner every person neglecting to secure such permit and certificate, and also bring the matter before the mayor, recorder or municipal court for their attention and action.

Rev., s. 2986; 1905, c. 506, s. 26; 1915, c. 192, s. 3.

Reasonable regulations as to permits may be enforced: State v. Tenant, 110-609. Inspector may grant permits to repair: State v. Eubanks, 154-628. Mandamus may issue for granting a building permit, but the city is not liable in damages: Clinard v. Winston-Salem, 173-356.

2749. Material used in construction of walls. The walls of all buildings in cities or towns where this article applies, other than frame or wooden buildings, shall be constructed of brick, iron or other hard, incombustible material. All rules, regulations and requirements contained in the building law, or set out in this article in regard to the erection of buildings, or any part thereof, shall apply also where any building or walls, or any part thereof, is proposed to be raised, altered, repaired or added to, in order that the objects of the law may be accomplished and deficiencies and menaces to the safety of the city or town may not be made or perpetuated.

2750. Frame buildings within fire limits. Within the fire limits of cities and towns where this article applies, as established and defined, no frame or wooden building shall be hereafter erected, altered, repaired, or moved except upon the permit of the building inspector, approved by the insurance commissioner.

All top story walls must extend through and eighteen inches above the roof in parapets not less than thirteen inches thick and coped with terra-cotta, stone, cast-iron or cement. Upon written application approved by the building inspector the insurance commissioner may, where he deems it advisable, allow decreased thickness in walls of concrete, or in brick walls where such thickness is compensated for by pilasters. The roofs of all buildings named in this section shall be of metal, slate or tile or gravel or other standard fireproof roofing.

Rev., s. 2989; 1905, c. 506, s. 10; 1915, c. 192, s. 6.

Rev., s. 2990; 1905, c. 506, s. 11.

2753. Metallic stand-pipes required. All business buildings being more than fifty-six feet high, covering an area of more than five thousand superficial feet, also all buildings exceeding eighty feet in height, shall have a four-inch or larger metallic stand-pipe within or near the front wall extending above the roof and arranged so that engine hose can be attached from the street, such riser to have two and one-half inch hose coupling on each floor. The building inspector may, with the approval of the insurance commissioner, allow two or more stand-pipes of smaller size and proper hose coupling, provided they are of such sizes and number as to be at least equivalent in service to the large stand-pipes required. All hose coupling shall conform to the size and pattern adopted by the fire department.

Rev., s. 2991; 1905, c. 506, s. 12; 1915, c. 192, s. 7.

2754. Construction of joists. All such joists or timbers entering a party or division wall from opposite sides shall have at least four inches of solid brickwork between the ends of such timbers or joists.

Rev., s. 2992; 1905, c. 506, s. 13.

No woodwork or timber shall be placed under any fireplace or under the brickwork of any chimney. All floor beams, joists and headers shall be kept at least two inches clear of any wall enclosing a fire flue or chimney breast.

Rev., s. 2993; 1905, c. 506, s. 14.

2756. Chimneys not built on wood. No chimney shall be started or built upon a beam of wood or floor, the brickwork in all cases to start from the ground with proper foundation. In no case shall a chimney be corbeled out more than three inches from the wall, and in all cases corbeling shall consist of at least five courses of brick, the corbeling to start at least three feet below the bottom of the flue.

Rev., s. 2994; 1905, c. 506, s. 16.

2757. Construction of flues. All flues shall extend at least three feet above the roof and always above the comb of the roof, and shall be coped with well-burnt terra-cotta, stone, cast-iron or cement. In all buildings hereafter erected the stone or brickwork of all flues and the chimney shafts of all furnaces, boilers, bakers' ovens, large cooking ranges, and laundry stoves, and all flues used for similar purposes shall be at least eight inches in thickness, with the exception of smoke flues, which are lined with fire-clay lining or cast-iron. 2758. Hanging flues. Hanging flues (that is, for the reception of stovepipes built otherwise than from the ground) shall be allowed only when built according to the following specifications: The flue shall be built four inches thick of the best hard brick, laid on flat side, never on edge, extending at least three feet above the roof and always above the comb of the roof, lined on the inside with cast-iron or fire-clay flue lining from the bottom of the flue to the extreme height of the flue, and ends of all such lining pipes being made to fit close together and the lining pipe being built in as the flue is carried up. If the flue starts at the ceiling and receives the stovepipe vertically it shall be hung on iron stirrups, bent to come flush with the bottom of ceiling joints. All flues shall have a proper and sufficient support at their base, and in no case shall they be supported even partially by contact in passing through partitions, ceilings, or roofs. Flues not lined as above shall be built from the ground eight inches thick of the best hard brick with the joints struck smooth on the inside.

In all cases where stovepipes pass through wooden partitions of any kind or other woodwork they shall be guarded by either a double collar of metal with at least three inches air space and holes for ventilation or by a soapstone or burnt-clay ring not less than one inch in thickness extending through the partition or other woodwork. If any chimney, flue or heating apparatus on any premises shall, in the opinion of the inspector, endanger the premises, the inspector shall at once notify in writing the owner or agent of said premises. If such owner or agent fails for a period of forty-eight hours after the service of said notice upon him to make such chimney, flue or heating apparatus safe he shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each day that the condition remains uncorrected.

Rev., s. 2998; 1905, c. 506, s. 20; 1915, c. 192, s. 9.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of selling electricity to furnish any electric current for use for illuminating purposes in any building or buildings of any person, firm or corporation, unless the said building or buildings have been first inspected by the inspector of buildings and a certificate given as above provided. The fee that shall be allowed said inspector of buildings for the work of such inspection of electrical wiring shall be one dollar for each building inspected, to be paid by the person applying for the inspection.

Rev., s. 3001; 1905, c. 506, s. 23.

2799. Provide for removal of garbage. The governing body may by ordinance provide for the removal, by wagon or carts, of all garbage, slops, and trash from the city; and when the same is not removed by the private individual in obedience to such ordinance, may require the wagons or carts to visit the houses used as residences, stores, and other places of habitation in the city, and also may require all owners or occupants of such houses who fail to remove such garbage or trash from their premises to have the garbage, slops, and trash ready and in convenient places and receptacles, and may charge for such removal the actual expense thereof.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 3.

Town is not liable for injury to child caused by employee burning trash: Snider v. High Point, 168-608.

2800. Abate or remedy menaces to health. The governing body, or officer or officers who may be designated for this purpose by the governing body, shall have power summarily to remove, abate, or remedy, or cause to be removed, abated, or remedied, everything in the city limits, or within a mile of such limits, which is dangerous or prejudicial to the public health; and the expense of such action shall be paid by the person in default, and, if not paid, shall be a lien upon the land or premises where the trouble arose, and shall be collected as unpaid taxes.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 4.

Part 6. Fire Protection

2801. Establish and maintain fire department. The governing body shall have power to provide for the organization, equipment, maintenance and government of fire companies and a fire department; and, in its discretion, may provide for a paid fire department, and for this purpose may create any offices and employments and fix their compensation as to the governing body may seem right and proper.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 1.

This is a governmental function, and the city is not liable for injury caused by defective appliance: Peterson v. Wilmington, 130-76. Where the city furnishes water for fire protection and no charge is made, the city is not liable for failure to furnish sufficient water pressure in case of fire: Howland v. Asheville, 174-749.

2802. Establish fire limits. The governing body may establish and maintain fire limits in the city, in which it shall be unlawful to erect, alter, and repair wooden buildings or structures or additions thereto; it may also prohibit the removal of wooden buildings or structures of any kind into such limits, or from one place to another within the limits, and make such other regulations as may be deemed best for the prevention and extinguishment of fires.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 2.

See section 2746.

2803. Regulate buildings. The governing body may make rules and regulations governing the erection and construction of buildings in the city so as to make them as safe as possible from fire.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 3.

City is not liable in damages for failure to have a building removed as a fire menace: Harrington v. Greenville, 159-632.

2804. Fire protection for property outside city limits. The governing body may provide, install, and maintain water mains, pipes, hydrants, and buildings and equipment, either inside or outside of the city limits, for protection against fire of property outside of the city limits, and within such area as the governing body may determine, not exceeding a boundary of two miles from the city limits, under such terms and conditions as the governing body may prescribe.

1919, c. 244.

See section 4502.

Part 7. Sewerage

2805. Establish and maintain sewerage system. The governing body shall have power to acquire, provide, construct, establish, maintain and operate a system of sewerage for the city, and protect and regulate the same by adequate rules and regulations; and if it shall be necessary in obtaining proper outlets to such system to extend the same beyond the corporate limits, the governing body may condemn a right of way or rights of way to and for such outlets, and the proceedings for such condemnation shall be as herein provided for opening new streets and other purposes.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 1.

In establishing a free public sewer system, the city is not liable for injury caused thereby except to property: Metz v. Asheville, 150-748; Little v. Lenoir, 151-415; Moser v. Burlington, 162-141; Donnell v. Greensboro, 164-330; Rhodes v. Durham, 165-679.

2806. Require connections to be made. The governing body may require all owners of improved property which may be located upon or near any line of such system of sewerage to connect with such sewerage all water-closets, bathtubs, lavatories, sinks, or drains upon their respective properties or premises, so that their contents may be made to empty into such sewer, and fix charges for such connections.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 2.

Part 8. Water and Lights

2807. Establish and maintain water and light plants. The city may own and maintain its own light and waterworks system to furnish water for fire and other purposes, and light to the city and its citizens, but shall in no case be liable for damages for a failure to furnish a sufficient supply of either water or light. And the governing body shall have power to acquire and hold rights of way, water rights, and other property, within and without the city limits.

2808. Fix and enforce rates. The governing body or such board or body which has the management and control of the waterworks system in charge shall fix such uniform rates for water as is deemed best. Such body shall fix the times when the water rents shall become due and payable, and in case such rent is not paid within ten days after it becomes due and payable, the same may at any time thereafter be collected either by suit in the name of the city or by the collector of taxes for the city. Upon the failure of the owner of property for which water is furnished under the rules and regulations of such body to pay the water rents when due, then the body, or its agents or employees, may cut off the water from such property; and when so cut off it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, other than the body or its agents or employees, to turn on the water to such property, or to use the same in connection with the property, without first having paid the water rent and obtained permission to turn on the water.

2809. Separate accounts for water system. It shall be the duty of the governing body to keep a separate statement and account of the money received by the city from the waterworks system, and it shall be the duty of the said body to give preference to the waterworks system over the other departments of the city in such funds, and to provide for the proper upkeep of the waterworks system and an amount necessary for the enlargement of the waterworks system before turning over to the other departments the money so received.

2810. Care fund established. The governing body is authorized to create a fund to be known as the perpetual care fund for the cemeteries, for the purpose of perpetually caring for and beautifying the cemeteries, and such fund shall be kept by the city as is provided for bequests and gifts for cemetery purposes; and the governing body may make contracts with lot or space owners in the cemeteries, obligating the city to keep up and maintain said lots or spaces in perpetuity upon payment of such sum as may be fixed by the governing body; and the governing body is further authorized and empowered to accept gifts and bequests for such purposes, or upon such other trusts as the donors may prescribe; and the governing body is authorized to set aside for such perpetual care fund an amount not exceeding twenty-five per cent of the proceeds of sale of cemetery lots.

2811. Application of fund. The principal of the funds appropriated by the governing body for caring for the cemeteries shall be held by the governing body for caring for and beautifying the cemeteries and improving the same. The income from the fund heretofore or hereafter made shall be used for the purpose of carrying out contracts with the individual or space owners for the perpetual care of individual plats and spaces. Any gifts heretofore or hereafter made to and received by the city or any of its officers shall be held and used as a sacred trust fund for the purposes and upon the conditions named in such gifts or bequests, and all such funds shall be kept and invested separately and shall not be used for any other purpose, or by the city in its affairs.

2812. Separate accounts kept. The city treasurer shall keep a separate account of the cemetery funds, and a still further separate account of all special gifts or bequests made by persons for and in connection with the cemeteries and particular lots therein. The governing body has the power to make rules and regulations and adopt ordinances for the carrying out of the duties imposed by this and the two preceding sections in regard to the care of cemeteries.

See, also, Taxation, Art. 6, Part 3.
See sections 2677-2682.

2814. Unlisted taxables entered. The officer who has charge of the collection of taxes in any city shall, after the most diligent inquiry, and by comparing his book with the county tax books, make out a list of all persons liable for poll tax, or for taxes on property, who have failed to return a list in the manner and in the time prescribed, together with the estimated value of all the property not listed, and shall enter such persons in a separate part of his book.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 4.
See sections 7923-7925.

2815. Lien of taxes. The lien for taxes levied for any and all purposes in each year shall attach to all the real estate of the taxpayers within the city on the first day of May annually, and shall continue until such taxes, with any penalty and costs which shall accrue thereon, shall be paid. But there shall be no lien for taxes on the personal property of the taxpayer but from a levy thereon.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 5; 1919, c. 126.
See sections 7986-7991.

2816. Power and duties of tax collector. The officer who has charge of the collection of taxes in any city shall, in the collection of taxes, be vested with the same power and authority as is given by the state to sheriffs for like purpose, and shall be subject to the same fines and penalties on failure or neglect of duty.
It shall be his duty to collect all taxes levied by the governing body, and he shall be charged with the sums appearing on the tax list as due for city taxes. He shall at no time retain in his hands over three hundred dollars for a longer time than seven days, under a penalty of ten per cent per month to be paid to the city upon all sums so unlawfully retained.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 1.
See Taxation, art. 13, sec. 7992 et seq.

2817. Settlement with tax collector. In settlement with the city the tax collector shall be credited with all poll taxes and taxes on personal property which the governing body shall declare to be insolvent and uncollectible, and with such amounts as may be involved in suit by appeal from the ruling of the board, and he shall be charged with and shall pay over all other sums appearing on the tax list. After the accounts of the tax collector shall be audited and settled, the same shall be reported to the governing body, and when approved by it the same shall be recorded in the minute book of such body, and shall be prima facie evidence of correctness, and impeachable only for fraud or specified error.

2818. Bond of tax collector and other officers. The governing body of the city shall require of the tax collector of the city, and any and all officers and employees, such bonds as it may deem necessary, and may pay the expenses of providing such bonds, including the bond of the mayor.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 3.

2819. License to plumbers and electricians. The governing body may regulate and license plumbers and those engaged in the electrical wiring of buildings for light, power, or heat, and before issuing a license may require the applicant to be examined and to give bond in such sum and upon such conditions as the governing body may determine, and with such sureties as it may approve; and such body may, for incompetency on the part of such licensees or for refusal to comply with the ordinances relating to such business, or for any other good cause, revoke any license issued hereunder. No person, firm, or corporation shall do any kind of plumbing or electrical wiring of buildings without first having obtained a license from the governing body. No license issued hereunder by the governing body shall be for more than one year, and same shall not be transferable or assignable except by the permission of the governing body. And no license shall be issued, as herein provided, before the license tax shall have been paid.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, ss. 6, 7, 8, 9.

He shall have such powers and perform such duties as the governing body may from time to time prescribe in addition to such duties as may be prescribed by law. He shall keep the records of the meetings. The person holding the office of city clerk at the time when any of the plans set forth in this act shall be adopted by such city shall continue to hold office for the term for which he was elected, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

See sections 2629, 2631.

2828. Bonds required. Every official, employee, or agent of any city who handles or has custody of more than one hundred dollars of such city's funds at any time shall, before assuming his duties as such, be required to enter into bond with good sureties, in an amount sufficient to protect such city, payable to such city, and conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties and a true accounting for all funds of the city which may come into his hands, custody, or control, which bond shall be approved by the mayor and board of aldermen or other governing body and deposited with the city.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 15.

Part 4. Contracts Regulated

2830. Contracts awarded on public advertisement. No contract for construction work or for the purchase of apparatus, supplies, or materials, whether the same shall be for repairs or original construction, the estimated cost of which amounts to or exceeds one thousand dollars, except in cases of special emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property, shall be awarded unless proposals for the same shall have been invited by advertisement once in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the city, the publication to be at least one week before the time specified for the opening of said proposals. Such advertisement shall state the time and place where plans and specifications of proposed work or supplies may be had and the time and place for opening the proposals in answer to such advertisements, and shall reserve to the city the right to reject any or all such proposals. All such proposals shall be opened in public. No bill or contract shall be divided for the purpose of evading any provision of this act.

The city shall have the further right to make a civic survey of the city, establish hospitals, clinics, or dispensaries for the poor, and dispense milk for babies; shall have the power to establish a system of public charities and benevolence for the aid of the poor and destitute of the city; for the welfare of visitors from the country and elsewhere, to establish rest rooms, public water-closets and urinals, open sales places for the sale of produce, places for hitching and caring for animals and parking automobiles; and all reasonable appropriations made for the purposes above mentioned shall be binding obligations upon the city, subject to the provisions of the constitution of the state.

2833. How control exercised:

1. Control over departments. The waterworks department, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by any city under separate organization or as a separate corporation under the control of any city in the state, which has been heretofore under the separate management and control of separate boards or corporations, may henceforth be under the management and control of the governing body of such city in the state.

2. Departments may be abolished. In all cities except those which have adopted Plan C or Plan D, hereafter set forth, before the governing body shall have control or management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation, the governing body of the city, by two-thirds vote taken at two separate regular meetings of such governing body, shall pass an ordinance to the effect that the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation, or either of them, shall be abolished and the control and management shall be under the governing body of the city.

3. Property vested in the city. Upon the passage by the governing body of any city of such ordinance, the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, the library system, and the park or park and tree commission system, and any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation then in existence either under separate organization or under separate management or control or under separate corporation, shall immediately become the property of the city, and all land, real estate, rights, easements, franchises, choses, and property of every kind, whether real or personal, tangible or intangible, the title of which is vested in such separate corporation or board, shall be and become vested in such city, and the boards of water commissioners, electric light commissioners, sewerage commissioners, library boards, park boards, or park and tree commission boards, or the board or commission of any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by or on behalf of such city under separate organization or corporation shall cease to exist as a corporation; and all indebtedness, bonds, or other contracts and obligations of any nature incurred by, for, or on account of the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or other public utility in the name of or by such corporation, or by such city in its behalf, or by the corporation and such city jointly, shall be and become the sole obligations of such city.

4. Same procedure in other cases. There shall be the same procedure with reference to the library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system by the governing body of all cities which shall have adopted Plan C or Plan D before such control and title shall become vested as hereinbefore stated.

5. Popular vote required. In all cities, except those which have adopted Plan C or Plan D, hereafter set forth, before the foregoing provisions of this section shall become effective, such changes in the control and management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage, etc., shall first be approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such municipality at any regular or special election held under the provisions of this act.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 9.

2834. Ordinances to regulate management. The governing body of any city in the exercise of its control and management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city, shall have power to make rules, regulations, and ordinances in connection with the management thereof as they may deem necessary, and shall have power to enforce such rules, regulations, and ordinances.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 10.
2835. Additional property acquired. The governing body of any city shall have power to acquire such additional property as it may deem necessary for a better system of waterworks, electric light, sewerage, library, park or parks, or other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city. Upon the adoption by the governing body of any city of any one of the plans of government provided for in this act, the laws now in force in reference to the waterworks, electric light, sewerage, parks, libraries, or other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city, shall not be repealed by this act, but shall be construed with this act and only repealed in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 10.

Part 6. Effect Upon Existing Regulations

2836. Existing rights and obligations not affected. All official bonds, recognizances, obligations, contracts, and all other instruments entered into or executed by or to the city before this act takes effect in any city, and all taxes, special assessments, fines, penalties, forfeitures incurred or imposed, due or owing to the city, shall be enforced and collected, and all writs, prosecutions, actions and causes of action, except as is herein otherwise provided, shall continue without abatement and remain unaffected by this act; and no legal act done by or in favor of the city shall be rendered invalid by its adoption of any plan of government provided for by this act.

2837. Existing ordinances remain in force. All valid ordinances and resolutions of any city in force at the date of the ratification and not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, and all rules of procedure adopted by the governing body of any city, shall be and remain in full force and effect until repealed, annulled, or amended under the provisions of this act, or under the provisions of the charter of such city, and all laws relative to any city not in conflict with the provisions of this act shall be and remain in full force and effect.

2838. Existing election laws remain in force. This act shall not repeal or impair any general, special, or local election laws now in force in any city, but such general, special, or local laws shall be and continue in full force and effect except where clearly inconsistent with and repugnant to the provisions of this act; and the municipal elections of such city shall continue to be held under and subject to the provisions of such special election laws except as herein otherwise provided: Provided, however, that in every case the governing body of any city shall have the right and power in its discretion and by an ordinance adopted by a two-thirds vote of the members of the entire governing body, to order a new registration of the voters of such city for any general, regular, or special municipal election held in such city for any purpose, unless excepted in this act.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 12.

2839. General laws apply. All questions arising in the administration of the government of any city, and not provided for in this act, shall be governed by the laws of the state in such cases made and provided.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 13.
2840. Nature of accounting system. Accounting systems shall be devised and maintained which shall exhibit the condition of the city’s assets and liabilities, the value of its several properties, and state of its several funds. Such systems shall be adequate to record in detail all transactions affecting the acquisition, custodianship, and disposition of values, including cash receipts and disbursements. The recorded facts shall be presented periodically to officials and to the public in such summaries and analytical schedules as shall be necessary to show the full effect of such transactions for each fiscal year upon the finances of the city and in relation to each department of the city government; and there shall be included distinct summaries and schedules for each public utility owned and operated by the city. In all respects, as far as the nature of the city’s business permits, the accounting systems maintained shall conform to those employed by progressive business concerns and approved by the best usage. The governing body shall have power to employ accountants to assist in devising such accounting systems.

2841. Cooperation through board of control. The board of municipal control shall investigate what amount of cost will be required to employ expert accountants to devise proper uniform accounting systems for municipalities, and shall submit to each city a statement of the cost thereof and attempt to obtain cooperation among as many of the cities of the state as possible in the payment of the cost of such systems; and in case a satisfactory arrangement can be made by such cities for the payment of such costs, then the board of municipal control shall employ such expert accountants for such purpose, and the governing body of each of the cities in the state shall have power to pay its proportion of the cost thereof and install such system.

2844. Ordinances remain in force. 2846. Wards regulated. The territory of any city adopting any one of the plans of government provided for in this act shall continue to be divided into the same number of wards existing at the time of such adoption, which wards shall retain their boundaries until same shall be changed under the provisions of this act: Provided, that if the plan so adopted provides for a different number and arrangement of wards from that existing at the time of such adoption, then in such event the wards of such city shall be so changed and arranged as to conform to the provisions of the plan so adopted. 1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 5.

Part 2. Manner of Adoption

Or, in case it shall be desired by such petitioners that two of such plans shall be submitted, then the question may be stated as follows:

Shall the city of __________________ adopt the form of government defined as Plan __________________ or __________________ (naming two of such plans as stated above), or remain under the present form of government?
The petition may be in the form of separate sheets, each sheet containing at the top thereof the heading above set forth, and when attached together and offered for filing the several papers shall be deemed to constitute one petition, and there shall be endorsed thereon the name and address of the person presenting the same for filing.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 7.

2849. Election held. Within five days after the petition has been filed with the county board of elections, if the petition shall contain twenty-five per cent of the qualified voters as before set forth, the board of elections shall call an election in accordance with such petition. The board of elections shall cause notice of such election to be given at least once a week for four weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the election is to be held, or at the courthouse door of the county in which the city is situated or at the door of the city or town hall, and the date of such election shall be fixed by the board not later than forty days from the receipt of such petition. The notice shall be signed by the chairman of the county board of elections, and the cost of publication thereof paid by the city. 1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 8.

2850. Petitions for more than one plan. Separate petitions for the submission of more than one of such plans may be filed in the form and manner hereinbefore provided, but if petitions for the submission of more than two of such plans shall be submitted at such election, those two plans shall be submitted at the election, petitions for which shall be first filed with the county board of elections.

2851. What the ballots shall contain. All ballots used in elections held upon the adoption of the plans of government herein set forth shall contain the name of the plan submitted, as Plan A, B, C, or D, or any two of such plans submitted, as the case may be, with a brief description of each plan submitted, as described in the petition, and shall also contain the existing form of government under the name "present form of government." The names of the plans and forms shall be so printed that in appropriate squares the voter may designate by a cross (X) mark only the plan or form of government for which he casts his vote; if there shall be only one plan submitted, the letter and description of such plan and the "present form of government" only shall appear, and the voter shall express his preference between such plan and the "present form of government." If there shall be two plans submitted, then each of the plans shall be denominated and described on the ballot as herein set forth, and the "present form of government" shall also appear upon the ballot, and the ballot shall be so printed that in appropriate squares the voter may designate by a cross (X) mark only the plan or form of his first choice and the plan and form of his second choice.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 10.

2852. Form of ballots. Except that the crosses here shown shall be omitted, the ballots shall be printed substantially as follows:

Present Form of Government.

(Form of ballot when two plans are submitted:)

2853. Series of ballots. The plans and forms on all ballots shall be printed in rotation as follows: The ballots shall be printed in as many series as there are plans or forms. The whole number of ballots to be printed shall be divided by number of series and the quotient so obtained shall be the number of ballots in each series. In printing the first series of ballots the names of each plan or form shall be arranged in the alphabetical order of the letters of the plans submitted, followed by the "present form of government." After printing the first series, the first plan or form shall be placed last and the next series printed, and the process shall be so repeated until each plan shall have been printed first an equal number of times. The ballots so printed shall be then combined in tablets or packages so as to have the fewest possible ballots having the same order of plans or forms printed thereon together in the same tablet or package.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 11.

2854. How choice determined:

1. One plan submitted. If only one of the plans herein set forth and the "present form of government" are submitted, the plan or form of government receiving a majority of the votes cast shall be declared the plan or form selected.

2. More than one plan submitted. If two of the plans herein set forth and the "present form of government" are submitted, the plan or form receiving a majority of first choice votes equal to a majority of all the ballots cast shall be declared the plan or form selected. If no plan or form shall receive such a majority, then the second choice votes received for each plan or form shall be added to its first choice votes, and the plan or form receiving the highest total of first and second choice votes equal to a majority of all ballots cast shall be declared the plan or form selected.

3. How ballots are counted. In counting the ballots, if two plans and the "present form of government" are submitted, the precinct officers shall enter the total number of ballots on a tally-sheet printed therefor. They shall also carefully enter on such sheet the number of first choice and second choice votes for each plan or form of government. Only one vote shall be counted for any one plan or form on any one ballot. If two votes are cast for the same plan or form, the higher choice only shall be counted. If but one choice is voted on a ballot, it shall be counted as a first choice. If more than one cross appears in the same choice column on any ballot, they shall be counted as choices with priority as between each other in the order in which they appear in the choice column. Ballots marked with more than two crosses shall be declared void. A tie between two or more plans or forms shall be decided in favor of the one having the largest number of first choice votes.

The oath may be administered by the city clerk or by any justice of the peace, and a certificate that such oath has been taken shall be entered on the journal of the city council. 1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, ss. 1, 2.

2860. Mayor's election and term of office. There shall be a mayor, elected by and from the qualified voters of the city, who shall be the chief executive officer of the city. He shall hold office for the term of two years from Wednesday after the first Monday in May following his election and until his successor is elected and qualified.

8. Who entitled to vote. The persons who are qualified to vote at the succeeding municipal election shall be qualified to vote at such primary election, and shall be subject to challenge made by any resident of the city, under such rules as may be prescribed by the board of commissioners, and such challenge shall be passed upon by the judges of election and registrars: Provided, however, that the law applicable to challenge at a general municipal election shall be applicable to challenge made at such primary election.

9. Ballots counted. Judges of election shall, immediately upon the closing of the polls, count the ballots and ascertain the number of votes cast in such precincts for each of the candidates, and make return thereof to the city clerk, upon blanks to be furnished by the clerk, within six hours of the closing of the polls.

2885. Recall of officials by the people:

1. Who may be removed. The holder of any elective office may be removed at any time by the electors qualified to vote for a successor of such incumbent.
2. Petition filed and verified. The procedure to effect the removal of an incumbent of an elective office shall be as follows: A petition signed by electors entitled to vote for a successor to the incumbent sought to be removed, equal in number to at least twenty-five per centum of the entire vote for all candidates for the office of mayor cast at the last preceding general municipal election, demanding an election of a successor of the person sought to be removed, shall be filed with the clerk, which petition shall contain a general statement of the ground for which the removal is sought. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number. One of the signers of each such paper shall make oath before an officer competent to administer oaths that the statements therein made are true, as he believes, and that each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

3. Clerk to examine and certify sufficiency. Within ten days from the date of filing such petition the city clerk shall examine and from the voters' register ascertain whether or not the petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, and he shall attach to the petition his certificate, showing the result of such examination. If by the clerk's certificate the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be amended within ten days from the date of the certificate. The clerk shall, within ten days after such amendment, make like examination of the amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficient, it shall be returned to the person filing the same; without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be deemed to be sufficient, the clerk shall submit the same to the board of commissioners without delay.

4. Board to order primary. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the board of commissioners shall order and fix a date for holding a primary, as provided in cases preceding regular elections, the primary to be held not less than ten days or more than twenty days from the date of the clerk's certificate to the board of commissioners that a sufficient petition is filed. If in the primary election any candidate receives a majority of all the votes cast, he shall be declared to be elected to fill out the remainder of the term of the officer who is sought to be recalled. If there be more than two candidates in such primary and no one received a majority of all the votes cast therein, then there shall be an election held within twenty days from the date of the primary, at which election the two candidates receiving the highest vote in the primary shall be voted for. Candidates' names shall be placed on the ticket in the primary and election held, and the results canvassed, under the same rules, conditions, and regulations as are prescribed for the primaries preceding regular elections. The board of commissioners shall make or cause to be made publication for ten days of notice and all arrangements for holding such election, and the same shall be conducted, returned, and the results thereof declared in all respects as other city elections.

5. Candidate elected succeeds to office. The successor of any officer so removed shall hold office during the unexpired term of his predecessor. Any person sought to be removed may be a candidate to succeed himself, and unless he requests otherwise in writing, the clerk shall place his name on the official ballot without nomination. At such election, if some other person than the incumbent is elected, the incumbent shall thereupon be deemed removed from the office upon qualification of his successor.

6. Vacancy filled. In case the party elected should fail to qualify within ten days after receiving notification of election, the office shall be deemed vacant, and in that event the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the board, but the commissioner removed shall not be eligible to election by the board, and the person so elected by the board shall be subject to recall as other commissioners. If the incumbent receives a majority of votes in the primary election he shall continue his office.

7. Application of method of removal. Such method of removal shall be cumulative and additional to any other method provided by law. In the event any officer is recalled and any person is elected as his successor, the right of recall of such successor so elected shall be as in case of an officer originally elected.

Thereupon, if such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall have been approved by a majority of the votes cast as hereinbefore provided, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall become effective.

4. Manner of publication. The notice required shall be published once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the municipality.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, ss. 2, 8.

Upon submission of an amendment to charter under this section the form of ballot and manner of holding the election are sufficient, if the voters had an opportunity to vote: Taylor v. Greensboro, 175-423.

2904. Officers to be voted for. The governing body of the town, if it submits the question of amending the charter of the town at a regular election so as to provide for a different number of members constituting the governing body of the town from that number provided for in the old charter, may also order an election to be held at said regular municipal election for the commissioners or members of the governing body provided for in the proposed amended charter, and at said election commissioners shall also be voted for as provided for under the old charter. If the proposed amendment is adopted, then the commissioners or members of the governing body elected under the proposed amendment shall constitute the governing body of the town for the ensuing term. If the proposed amendment is not adopted, the commissioners or the members of the governing body of said town elected under the provisions of the old charter shall constitute the governing body of the town for the ensuing term.

1919, c. 334.

2905. Petition for amendment or repeal of charter:

1. Nature of petition. The petition shall be appropriately entitled and shall be addressed to the governing board of such municipality, and shall state in exact language the amendment, repeal, or adoption proposed; the petition need not be all on one sheet, and if on one or more than one sheet shall be verified by a freeholder in such municipality who is also a signer of such petition. The petition shall contain a request to the governing body of the municipality to submit to the qualified electors thereof the amendment, repeal, or adoption as therein stated, either at a regular election or at a special election to be called for that purpose. It shall thereupon be the duty of the clerk of such municipality to examine the petition for the purpose of ascertaining whether the same has been signed by the required number of qualified electors of the municipality, and the clerk shall certify to the governing body the result of his investigation.

2. Submitted to vote. Upon such certificate, it shall be the duty of the governing body to provide for submission to a vote of the amendment, repeal, or adoption proposed in the petition, either at a regular election or at a special election to be called for that purpose, and if the amendment, repeal, or adoption shall be approved by a majority of the votes cast, as hereinbefore provided, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall become effective.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 3.

2906. Nature of verification. Whenever verification of any petition is provided or required to be made by this article, such verification shall consist of a written oath signed by the person making the same, which shall state in substance that the persons whose names appear signed to such petition were so signed by such persons respectively in the presence of the person making oath, and that, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person making the oath, each of such persons is a qualified elector entitled to vote at the next preceding regular election in the municipality.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 4.

2907. Laws controlling elections. Whenever any election, either regular or special, is provided or required to be held under this article, such election shall be held under such laws, either general or special, as are at the time of the holding of such election in force and effect with reference to such municipality.

2908. Several propositions voted on. Any number of amendments or repeals may be initiated by one and the same resolution or petition, and whenever under this article an election is provided or required to be held, any number of such amendments or repeals may be submitted and voted upon at one and the same election.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 6.

2909. Limitations as to holding special elections. No special election provided or required by this article shall, except as otherwise provided in this act, be held within two months of the time of holding any regular municipal election in any municipality; not more than two special elections may be held under this article in any municipality within any one year. The elections, subject to the other provisions of this section, shall be held not less than three months from the date of the filing of the petition.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 7.

2910. Adoption or change certified and recorded. Upon the amendment, repeal, or adoption of a charter of any municipality as provided in this article, the governing body shall cause to be certified to the secretary of the municipal board of control a copy of such amendment, repeal, or adoption duly certified by its clerk and under the seal of such municipality; the copy so certified shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of state, and a copy shall be so certified by the secretary of state to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such municipality is situated and recorded in the office of the clerk; the record therein provided for, either in the office of the secretary of state or in the office of the clerk of the superior court, shall be evidence in all the courts of this state.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 9.

2911. Adoption or change ratified by vote. Whenever any amendment, repeal, or adoption of a charter of any municipality is submitted under the provisions of this article to the qualified electors of such municipality, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall not become effective unless and until the same shall have been approved by a majority of the votes cast at the election and the result of the election thereon canvassed, determined, and declared as provided by law.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 10.

2912. Plan not changed for two years. When any municipality shall, as provided in this act, adopt any one of the plans as set forth in this act, no amendment, repeal, or adoption of such plans shall be made until and after the expiration of two years from the date of the adoption of such plan.

All elections called and held by any city for any purpose under the provisions of this act shall be held under, governed and controlled by the laws in force at the time of such election governing and controlling regular and special municipal elections of such city in so far as they are applicable and not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, and where not otherwise provided by law.

Such notice shall set forth the date and hours of such elections, the proposition to be voted on thereat, the location of the polling places, and, in the event a new registration is ordered for such election, shall so state and set forth the dates of opening and closing the registration books and the names and addresses of the several registrars in charge thereof.

1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VIII, s. 1.

2915. Time for holding elections. 1917, c. 138, ss. 4, 5; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (4), (5).

Art. 24. Budget and Appropriations

2922. The fiscal year. The fiscal year of every municipality shall begin either on the first day of June or on the first day of September, as the governing body of the municipality may determine.

1917, c. 138, s. 6; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (6).

2923. Budget prepared. Not earlier than one month before nor later than one month after the beginning of each fiscal year of a municipality the governing body shall cause to be prepared a plan for financing the municipality during said fiscal year, which plan shall be known as the budget and shall be based upon detailed estimates furnished by the several departments and other divisions of the municipal government.

1917, c. 138, s. 6; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (6).

2924. What budget shall contain. The budget shall present the following information:

1. An itemized estimate of the appropriations necessary to be made for current expenses and for permanent improvements for each department and division of the municipal government for the fiscal year (exclusive of expenses to be paid for by means of bonds issued under article twenty-six of this chapter), for the payment of the principal and interest of debts, and for deficits of the previous fiscal year, with comparative statements in parallel columns of expenditures for corresponding items so far as possible for the two preceding fiscal years. This estimate may include a contingent fund not designated for any particular purpose not exceeding five per centum of the total estimated amount of other appropriations.

2. An itemized estimate of the taxes required and of the estimated revenues of the municipality from all other sources for the fiscal year, the unencumbered balances of the appropriations, and of the surplus revenues of the previous fiscal year, with comparative statements in parallel columns of the taxes and other revenues for the two preceding fiscal years.

3. A statement of the financial condition of the municipality; and such other information as the governing body may deem advisable to state.

1917, c. 138, s. 6; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (6).

2925. Copy of budget filed for inspection. A copy of the budget shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the municipality for public inspection not later than ten days before its adoption by the governing body, and a public hearing shall be given thereon by the governing body before the adoption of the budget, notice of which hearing shall be published.

1917, c. 138, s. 6; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (6).

2926. Change of fiscal year. The fiscal year may be changed by resolution of the governing body, which resolution shall declare that the fiscal year shall thereafter begin on the first day of September or June, as the case may be. A budget and appropriation ordinance shall be adopted for a period commencing at the expiration of the current fiscal year in which such resolution is passed and ending at the end of the next succeeding new fiscal year. Such a budget shall be adopted within the month preceding or the month following the beginning of such period.

2927. Annual appropriation ordinance. Not later than one month after the beginning of the fiscal year the governing body shall pass the annual appropriation ordinance for the fiscal year, which shall be based on the budget. The total amount of appropriations shall not exceed the total of the estimated revenues, unencumbered balances and surplus receipts.

1917, c. 138, s. 7; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (7).
2928. Appropriations made before annual ordinance. In the interval between the beginning of a fiscal year and the adoption of the annual appropriation ordinance the governing body may make appropriations for the purpose of paying fixed salaries, the principal and interest of bonded debts and other loans, the stated compensation of officers and employees and indebtedness for work performed or materials furnished under contracts made before the beginning of the fiscal year, or for the ordinary expenses of the municipality, which appropriations shall be chargeable to the appropriations in the annual appropriation ordinance for that year.

1917, c. 138, s. 8; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (8).

2929. Amendment of appropriations. At any time after the passage of the annual appropriation ordinance, the governing body may amend such ordinance so as to authorize the transfer of balances appropriated for one purpose to another purpose, or to appropriate available revenues not included in the annual budget. The amendatory ordinance shall be published one or more times, at least one week before its final passage, with notice of the time when and place where it will be finally passed: Provided, however, that such ordinance may be passed during the last two months of a fiscal year without any previous publication or notice.

1917, c. 138, s. 9; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (9).

2930. Balances revert for future appropriations. At the close of each fiscal year the unencumbered balance of each appropriation shall revert to the respective fund from which it was appropriated, and shall be subject to future appropriation.

1917, c. 138, s. 10; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (10).

2931. Funds specially applied not affected. Nothing herein shall be construed to permit revenues which by statute are appropriated to a particular purpose to be appropriated to any other purpose, but such revenues shall nevertheless be included in the budget.

1917, c. 138, s. 11; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (11).
See McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

ART. 25. TEMPORARY LOANS

2932. Money borrowed to meet appropriations. A municipality may borrow money for the purpose of meeting appropriations made for the current fiscal year, in anticipation of the collection of the taxes and revenues of such fiscal year, and within the amount of such appropriations. Such loans shall be paid not later than the tenth day of October in the next succeeding fiscal year. Provision shall be made in the annual budget and annual appropriation ordinance of each fiscal year for the payment of all unpaid loans predicated upon the taxes and revenues of the previous fiscal year.

1917, c. 138, s. 12; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (12).

2933. Money borrowed to pay judgments or interest. For the purpose of paying a judgment recovered against a municipality, or paying the principal or interest of debts due or to become due within two months and not otherwise provided adequately for, a municipality may borrow money in anticipation of the receipt of either the revenues of the fiscal year in which the money is borrowed or the revenues of the next succeeding fiscal year. Such loans shall be paid not later than the end of such next succeeding fiscal year. In the event, however, that a judgment against a municipality amounts to more than two cents per hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of taxable property of the municipality for the year in which taxes were last levied before the recovery of the judgment, a loan to pay the judgment may be made payable in not more than five substantially equal annual installments, beginning within one year after the loan is made.

2934. Money borrowed in anticipation of bond sales. At any time after a bond ordinance has taken effect as provided in article 26 herein, a municipality may borrow money for the purposes for which the bonds are to be issued, in anticipation of the receipt of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, and within the maximum authorized amount of the bond issue. Such loans shall be paid not later than three years after the time of taking effect of the ordinance authorizing the bonds upon which they are predicated. The governing body may, in its discretion, retire any such loans by means of current revenues, special assessments, or other funds, in lieu of retiring them by means of bonds: Provided, however, that the governing body, before the actual retirement of any such loan by any means other than the issuance of bonds under the bond ordinance upon which such loan is predicated, shall amend or repeal such ordinance so as to reduce the authorized amount of the bond issue by the amount of the loan to be so retired. Such an amendatory or repealing ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and need not be published.

2935. Notes issued for temporary loans. Notes shall be issued for all moneys borrowed under the last two sections. Such notes may be renewed from time to time, but all such renewal notes shall mature within the time limited by said sections for the payment of the original loan. They may be disposed of by public or private negotiations. No money shall be borrowed under said sections at a rate of interest exceeding six per centum per annum. The issuance of such notes shall be authorized by resolution of the governing body, which shall fix the actual or maximum face amount of the notes and the actual or maximum rate of interest to be paid upon the amount borrowed. The governing body may delegate to the financial officer or to the chief executive officer the power to fix said face amount and rate of interest within the limitations prescribed by said resolution, and the power to dispose of said notes. All such notes shall be executed in the manner provided in section 2954 of this subchapter in relation to bonds. They shall be submitted to and approved by the attorney for the municipality before they are issued, and his written approval endorsed on the notes.

1917, c. 138, s. 14; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (14).

ART. 26. PERMANENT FINANCING

2936. Not applied to temporary loans. The provisions of this article shall not apply to temporary loans made under article twenty-five.

1917, c. 138, s. 15; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (15).
2937. For what purposes bonds may be issued. A municipality may issue its bonds for any one or more of the following purposes:

1. To pay for any public improvement or property which it may lawfully make or acquire, or for the making or acquisition of which it may lawfully pay money, except current expenses.

2. To fund or refund a debt of the municipality incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, which is payable at the time of passage of the ordinance authorizing bonds to fund or refund such debt, or to become payable within one year thereafter, or which, though payable more than one year thereafter, is to be canceled prior to its maturity and simultaneously with the issuance of the bonds to fund or refund such debt.

3. For any other purpose which it may lawfully undertake or for which it is authorized by law to raise money, except the payment of current expenses.

1917, c. 138, s. 16; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (16).

2938. Ordinance for bond issue:

1. Ordinance required. All bonds of a municipality shall be authorized by an ordinance passed by the governing body.

2. What ordinance must show. The ordinance shall state:
   a. In brief and general terms the purpose for which the bonds are to be issued;
   b. The maximum aggregate principal amount of the bonds;
   c. That a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds shall be annually levied and collected;
   d. That a statement of the debt of the municipality has been filed with the clerk pursuant to this act and is open to public inspection;
   e. The average assessed valuation of property subject to taxation by the municipality for the three fiscal years in which taxes were last levied, as shown by said statement;
   f. The amount of the net debt of the municipality outstanding, authorized or to be authorized, as shown by said statement;
   g. One of the following provisions:
      (1) If the bonds are for funding or refunding debts incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, or for local improvements of which at least one-fourth of the cost, exclusive of the cost of paving at street intersections, has been or is to be specially assessed, that the ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and shall not be submitted to the voters; or,
      (2) If the bonds are for a purpose other than the payment of necessary expenses, or if the governing body, although not required to obtain the assent of the voters before issuing the bonds, deems it advisable to obtain such assent, that the ordinance shall take effect when approved by the voters of the municipality at an election as provided in this act; or,
      (3) In any other cases, that the ordinance shall take effect thirty days after its first publication (or posting), unless in the meantime a petition for its submission to the voters is filed under this act, and that in such event it shall take effect when approved by the voters of the municipality at an election as provided in this act.

3. When the ordinance takes effect. A bond ordinance shall take effect at the time and upon the conditions indicated therein. If the ordinance provides that it shall take effect upon its passage, no vote of the people shall be necessary for the issuance of the bonds.

4. Need not specify location of improvement. In stating the purpose of a bond issue, a bond ordinance need not specify the location of any improvement or property, or the kind of pavement or other material to be used in the construction or reconstruction of streets, highways, sidewalks, curbs, or gutters, or the kind of construction or reconstruction to be adopted for any building for which the bonds are to be issued. A description in a bond ordinance of a property or improvement, substantially in the language employed in section 2942 of this subchapter to describe such a property or improvement, shall be a sufficiently definite statement of the purpose for which the bonds authorized by the ordinance are to be issued.

See sections 2691, 2703-2728.

2939. Ordinance not to include unrelated purposes. Bonds for two or more unrelated purposes, not of the same general class or character, shall not be authorized by the same ordinance: Provided, however, that bonds for two or more improvements or properties mentioned together in any one clause of subsection 8 of section 2942 of this subchapter may be treated as being for but one purpose, and may be authorized by the same bond ordinance. After two or more bond ordinances have been passed and have taken effect, the governing body may, in its discretion, cause all or any of the bonds authorized by the ordinances to be actually issued as one consolidated bond issue.

1919, c. 178, s. 3 (17); 1919, c. 285, s. 3.

2940. Bonds may be divided into two classes and separate issues. In the case of bonds for local improvements, the governing body may, in its discretion, divide the bonds into two classes, and into two or more separate issues, one of which classes of bonds shall be designated local improvement bonds, or by some other suitable name, and treated as being for the purpose of paying the municipality’s actual or estimated share of the cost of the local improvements, and the other class shall be designated assessment bonds, or by some other suitable name, and treated as being for the purpose of paying the actual or estimated share of such cost which has been or is to be specially assessed, in anticipation of the collection of special assessments: Provided, however, that all such bonds shall be general and unconditional obligations of the municipality, payable primarily by general taxes. In any event, in the case of bonds for local improvements, the governing body shall, either in the bond ordinance or in a subsequent resolution passed before any of the bonds are issued, determine the amount of the bonds which are to be treated as being for the purpose of paying that portion, actual or estimated, of the cost of the improvements which has been or is to be assessed, or, in other words, shall determine the amount of the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection of special assessments. Whenever it is practicable so to do, local improvements should be financed in the first instance by means of temporary loans contracted in anticipation of the issuance of bonds, and the bonds should not be issued until the amount of the special assessments is definitely known and the property owners have had an opportunity to pay their assessments. The provisions of the last sentence are directory, and not mandatory.

1919, c. 178, s. 3 (17).
2941. Ordinance and bond issue, when petition required. In cases where a petition of property owners is required by law for the making of local improvements, a bond ordinance authorizing bonds for such local improvements may be passed before any such petition is made, but no bonds for the local improvements in respect of which such petitions are required shall be issued under the ordinance, nor shall any temporary loan be contracted in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds, unless and until such petitions are made, and then only up to the actual or estimated amount of the cost of the work petitioned for. The determination of the governing body as to the actual or estimated cost of work so petitioned for shall be conclusive in any action involving the validity of bonds or notes or other indebtedness. The bond ordinance may be made to take effect upon its passage, notwithstanding that the necessary petitions for the local improvements have not been filed: Provided, that it appears upon the face of the ordinance that one-fourth or some greater proportion of the cost, exclusive of the cost of work at street intersections, has been or is to be assessed.

1919, c. 178, s. 3.

See sections 2703-2728.

2942. Determining periods for bonds to run:

1. How periods estimated. Either in the bond ordinance or in a resolution passed after the bond ordinance, but before any bonds are issued thereunder, the governing body shall, within the limits prescribed by subsection 3 of this section, determine and declare—

a. The probable period of usefulness of the improvement or property or class of improvements or properties for which the bonds are to be issued; or,

b. If the bonds are to be issued in anticipation of the collection of special assessments, the probable period at the end of which the last installment of the assessments will have been in arrears for two years, but not exceeding a period of fifteen years; or,

c. If the bonds are to be issued for funding or refunding a debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, either the shortest period in which the debt can be finally paid without making it unduly burdensome upon the taxpayers of the municipality or, at the option of the governing body, the probable unexpired period of usefulness of the improvement or property for which the debt was incurred; or,

d. In the case of a consolidated bond issue comprising bonds authorized by different ordinances for different purposes, and in the case of a bond issue covering both the municipality's share and the property owners' share of the cost of a local improvement, the governing body, besides determining the several periods required to be determined as aforesaid, shall determine the average of the different periods so determined, taking into consideration the amount of bonds to be issued on account of each purpose or item in respect of which a period is determined.

The period required to be determined as aforesaid shall be computed from a date not more than one year after the time of passage of any bond ordinance authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The determination of any such period by the governing body shall be conclusive.
2. Maturity of bonds. The bonds must mature within the period determined as aforesaid, or, if several different periods are so determined, then within said average period.

3. Periods of usefulness. In determining, for the purpose of this section, the probable period of the usefulness of an improvement or property, the governing body shall not deem said period to exceed the following periods for the following improvements and properties, respectively, viz.:
   a. Sewer systems (either sanitary or surface drainage), forty years.
   b. Water supply systems, or combined water and electric light systems, or combined water, electric light, and power systems, forty years.
   c. Gas systems, thirty years.
   d. Electric light and power systems, separate or combined, thirty years.
   e. Plants for the incineration or disposal of ashes, or garbage, or refuse (other than sewage), fifteen years.
   f. Public parks (including or not including a playground as a part thereof), fifty years.
   g. Playgrounds, thirty years.
   h. Buildings for purposes not stated in this section, if they are—

      (2) Of nonfireproof construction, that is, a building the outer walls of which are constructed of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, but which in any other respect differs from a fireproof building as defined in this section, thirty years;
      (3) Of fireproof construction, that is, a building the walls of which are constructed of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, and in which there are no wood beams or lintels, and in which the floors, roofs, stair-halls, and public halls are built entirely of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, and in which no woodwork or other inflammable material is used in any of the partitions, floorings, or ceiling (but the building shall be deemed to be of fireproof construction notwithstanding that elsewhere than in the stair-halls and entrance halls there is wooden flooring on top of the fireproof floor, and that wooden sleepers are used, and that it contains wooden handrails and treads, made of hardwood, not less than two inches thick), forty years.
   i. Bridges (including retaining walls and approaches), thirty years, or, in case of wooden bridges, ten years.
   j. Lands for purposes not stated in this section, forty years.

      (2) Is of water-bound macadam or penetration process, ten years;
      (3) Is of bricks, blocks, sheet asphalt, bitulithic, or bituminous concrete, laid on a solid foundation, or is of concrete, twenty years.

s. Equipment, apparatus, or furnishing not included in clause t or other clauses of this subsection, ten years.

t. Any improvement or property not included in other clauses of this subsection, forty years.

4. Improvements and properties defined. Each of the improvements and properties mentioned in clauses numbered from a to i, both inclusive, of subsection 3 above, shall be deemed to include the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, or enlargement thereof, or of any part thereof, or of buildings, lands, or rights in lands therefor, or of original furnishings, equipment, machinery, or apparatus therefor, or of the original improvement thereof. Bonds for any or all improvements or properties included in any one clause of subsection 3 above may for the purposes of this section be deemed by the governing body to be for but one improvement or property.

5. Kind of construction determined. If the bonds are for a building referred to in clause h of subsection 3 above, and the bond ordinance does not state the kind of construction of the building, or if the bonds are for street improvements mentioned in clause k of subsection 3 above, and the bond ordinance does not state the kind or kinds of pavement or other material to be used, then the kind of construction, or the kind or kinds of pavement or other material, as the case may be, shall be determined by resolution before any of the bonds are issued.

6. Shortest period of payment. In determining, for the purpose of this section, the shortest period in which a debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, can be finally paid without making it unduly burdensome upon the taxpayers of the municipality, the governing body shall not deem said period to be greater than the following periods in the following cases, respectively:

a. Ten years, if funding bonds are to be issued.

b. Thirty years, if refunding bonds are to be issued, and the net debt of the municipality, as stated in the debt statement filed pursuant to section 2943, is not more than eight per centum of the average assessed valuation set forth in said statement.

c. Forty years, if refunding bonds are to be issued, and said net debt is more than eight but not more than ten per centum of said average assessed valuation.
d. Fifty years, if refunding bonds are to be issued, and said net debt is more than ten per centum of said average assessed valuation.

1917, c. 138, s. 18; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (18).

2943. Sworn statement of indebtedness:

1. What shall be shown. After the introduction and before the final passage of a bond ordinance the financial officer shall make and file with the clerk a sworn statement of the debt of the municipality, showing in such detail as he may deem advisable—

a. The total amount (hereinafter referred to as the gross debt) of the outstanding floating debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, the bonded debt outstanding, and the bonded debt to be incurred under ordinances or other proceedings passed, taken, or pending, exclusive of debt incurred or to be incurred in anticipation of the collection of taxes or in anticipation of the sale of bonds.

b. The total of the following amounts (hereinafter referred to as the deductions), viz.:

(1) The amount of unissued funding or refunding bonds included in the gross debt;

(2) The amount of sinking funds or other funds held for the payment of any part of the gross debt other than existing debt incurred for revenue-producing enterprises and deducted as provided in this clause;

(3) The amount (actual or estimated) of uncollected special assessments levied or to be levied on account of local improvements for which any part of the gross debt was or is to be incurred, and applicable to the payment of any part of the gross debt;

(4) The amount of bonded debt included in the gross debt and incurred within five years prior to date of said statement, or to be incurred, for water, gas, electric light or power purposes, or two or more of said purposes;

(5) The amount of bonded debt (other than bonded debt included in subdivision (4) of this clause "b") included in the gross debt and incurred for any revenue-producing enterprise owned by the municipality, which during the fiscal year immediately preceding the date of the statement, or during any period of twelve consecutive months ending not more than ninety days before said date, yielded to the municipality current net revenue, after making any necessary allowance for repairs and maintenance, in excess of the interest payable on the debt in that year or period and of the annual installment necessary to be raised in that year or period for the amortization of the debt; or, if such debt was not entirely provided for as aforesaid, it shall be stated as a deduction proportionately to the extent to which said net revenue (after making said allowance) met said interest and amortization installment during said year or period.

c. The amount (hereinafter referred to as the net debt) of the difference between the gross debt and the deductions.

d. The assessed valuation of property subject to taxation by the municipality for each of the three years in which taxes were last levied, and the average thereof.

e. The percentage that the net debt bears to said average assessed valuation.

The statement may, at the option of the financial officer, further show—
f. The total amount (hereinafter referred to as the net increase) of all bonds issued on or before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (including those which have been paid), or to be issued under ordinances or other proceedings passed, taken, or pending, exclusive of bonds for the payment of the portion of the cost of an improvement that has been or is to be assessed upon property benefited and exclusive of funding and refunding bonds.

g. The percentage that the net increase bears to said average assessed valuation.

2. Limitation of ordinance. The ordinance shall not be passed unless it appears from said statement either that the net debt does not exceed twelve and one-half per centum, in case said average assessed valuation is not more than four million dollars, or ten per centum in any other case, of said average assessed valuation, or that the net increase does not exceed three per centum of said average assessed valuation, or unless the bonds to be issued under the ordinance are for water, gas, electric light or power purposes, or two or more of said purposes, or for funding or refunding a debt incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and for no other purpose.

3. Statement filed for inspection. Such statement shall remain on file with the clerk and be open to public inspection. In any action or proceeding in any court involving the validity of bonds said statement shall be deemed to be true and to comply with the provisions of this act unless it appears (in an action or proceeding commenced within the time limited by section 2945 for the commencement thereof), first, that the representations contained therein could not by any reasonable method of computation be true, and second, that a true statement would show that the ordinance authorizing the bonds could not be passed.

4. Annual installments estimated. In determining, for the purpose of clause b of subsection 1 of this section, the annual installment necessary to be raised in any year for the amortization of an outstanding debt for a revenue-producing enterprise, the financial officer shall, in case the debt is not payable in annual installments, deem said annual installment to be an amount which, if thereafter annually contributed to a sinking fund for the amortization of the debt (which shall be the then existing sinking fund for said purpose, if there is one), would, with the fund and with the accumulations of interest thereon and upon the contribution thereto, such accumulation being computed at the rate of four per centum per annum, produce at the date of maturity the amount of the debt.

2944. Publication of bond ordinance. A bond ordinance shall be published once in each of four successive weeks after its final passage, unless the ordinance provides that it shall take effect upon its passage, in which case it shall be published once. A notice substantially in the following form (the blanks being first properly filled in), with the printed or written signature of the clerk appended thereto, shall be published with the ordinance:

The foregoing ordinance was passed on the _______ day of _________, 19____, and was first published (or posted) on the _______ day of _______, 19____.

Any action or proceeding questioning the validity of said ordinance must be commenced within thirty days after its first publication (or posting).

1917, c. 138, s. 19; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (19); 1919, c. 285, s. 4.
2945. Limitation of action to set aside ordinance. Any action or proceeding in any court to set aside a bond ordinance, or to obtain any other relief upon the ground that the ordinance is invalid, must be commenced within thirty days after the first publication of the notice aforesaid and the ordinance or supposed ordinance referred to in the notice. After the expiration of such period of limitation, no right of action or defense founded upon the invalidity of the ordinance shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of the ordinance be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within such period.

1917, c. 138, s. 20; 1919, c. 49, s. 1; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (20).

For limitation as to indebtedness, see Crayton v. Charlotte, 175-17.

2946. Certain bond ordinances validated. No ordinance passed before the seventeenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, authorizing bond issues for necessary expenses under chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, known as the Municipal Finance Act, nor any bond issued or to be issued under such ordinance, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the ordinance provides that it shall take effect thirty days after its first publication; and this section shall be construed as applying in all respects to existing bond ordinances so providing, as well as to future ordinances.

1919, c. 49, s. 3.

2947. Ordinance requiring popular vote:

1. When vote required. If a bond ordinance provides that it shall take effect thirty days after its first publication unless a petition for its submission to the voters shall be filed in the meantime, the ordinance shall be inoperative without the approval of the voters of the municipality at an election if a petition shall be filed as provided in this section.

2. Petition filed. A petition demanding that the ordinance be submitted to the voters may be filed with the clerk within thirty days after the first publication of the ordinance. The petition shall be in writing and signed by voters of the municipality equal in number to at least thirty-three and one-third percent of the total number of registered voters in the municipality as shown by the registration books for the last preceding election therein. The residence address of each signer shall be written after his signature. Each signature to the petition shall be verified by a statement (which may relate to a specified number of signatures) made by some adult resident freeholder of the municipality under oath before an officer competent to administer oaths, to the effect that the signature was made in his presence and is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be. The petition need not contain the text of the ordinance to which it refers. The petition need not be all on one sheet, and if on more than one sheet, it shall be verified as to each sheet.

3. Sufficiency of petition. The clerk shall investigate the sufficiency of the petition and present it to the governing body with a certificate stating the result of his investigation. The governing body shall thereupon determine the sufficiency of the petition, and the determination of the governing body shall be conclusive.

1917, c. 138, s. 21; 1919, c. 49, ss. 1, 2; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (21).
2948. Elections on bond issue:

1. What majority required. If a bond ordinance provides for the issuance of bonds for a purpose other than the payment of necessary expenses of the municipality, the approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the municipality, as required by the constitution of North Carolina, shall be necessary in order to make the ordinance operative. If, however, the bonds are to be issued for necessary expenses, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voters voting on the bond ordinance shall be sufficient to make it operative, in all cases where the ordinance is required by this act to be submitted to the voters.

2. When election held. Whenever the taking effect of an ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds is dependent upon the approval of the ordinance by the voters of a municipality, the governing body may submit the ordinance to the voters at an election to be held not more than six months after the passage of the ordinance. The governing body may call a special election for that purpose or may submit the ordinance to the voters at the regular municipal election next succeeding the passage of the ordinance, but no such special election shall be held within two months before or after a regular election. Several ordinances or other matters may be voted upon at the same election.

3. New registration. The governing body of the city or town in which such election is held may, in their discretion, order a new registration of the voters for such election.

4. Notice of election, and law governing. A notice of the election, setting forth in full the ordinance to be voted upon, shall be published at least once not more than sixty days nor less than twenty days before the election. The provisions of law in force at the time of such election governing the registration of voters for regular municipal elections in the municipality and the conducting and canvassing of such regular municipal elections shall apply to elections required or provided for by this act.

5. Form of ballots. The title or a statement of the nature of each ordinance to be voted upon shall be printed on a ballot, which shall be separate from the ballot for candidates for office. Below the title or statement of the nature of each ordinance there shall be printed on two separate lines the words "for the ordinance" and "against the ordinance," respectively, with a square enclosed in ruled lines at the left of each of the two lines. At the top of the ballot there shall be printed the following words: "Notice to voters: For a vote for any ordinance submitted upon this ballot, make a X mark in the square opposite the words 'for the ordinance.' For a negative vote, make a similar mark in the square opposite the words 'against the ordinance.'"

6. Method of voting. If a voter makes a X mark in the square opposite the words "for the ordinance," it shall be counted as a vote approving the ordinance and the issuance of the bonds and the levying of the tax provided for by the ordinance. If a voter makes a X mark in the square opposite the words "against the ordinance," it shall be counted as a vote against the ordinance, bonds, and tax.

7. Returns canvassed. The officers appointed to hold the election, in making return of the result thereof, shall incorporate therein not only the number of votes cast for and against each ordinance submitted, but also the number of voters registered and qualified to vote in the election. The board authorized to canvass the votes cast shall also canvass the number of voters registered and qualified to vote in the election, and shall judicially determine and declare the result of the election.

8. Statement of result. The board shall prepare a statement showing the number of votes cast for and against each ordinance submitted, and the number of voters qualified to vote in the election, and declaring the result of the election, which statement shall be signed by a majority of the members of the board and delivered to the clerk of the municipality, who shall record it in the book of ordinances of the municipality, file the original in his office, and publish it once.

9. Limitation as to actions. No right of action or defense founded upon the invalidity of the election shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of the election be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within twenty days after the publication of such statement.

1917, c. 188, s. 22; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (22); 1919, c. 291.
See annotations under section 2691.

2949. Preparation for issuing bonds. At any time after the passage of a bond ordinance all steps preliminary to the actual issuance of bonds under the ordinance may be taken, but the bonds shall not be actually issued unless and until the ordinance takes effect.

1917, c. 138, s. 23; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (23).

2950. Within what time bonds issued. After a bond ordinance takes effect, bonds may be issued in conformity with its provisions at any time within three years after the ordinance takes effect.

1917, c. 138, s. 24; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (24).

2951. Amount and nature of bonds determined. The aggregate amount of bonds to be issued under a bond ordinance, the rate or rates of interest they shall bear, not exceeding six per centum per annum payable semiannually, and the times and place or places of payment of the principal and interest of the bonds, shall be fixed by resolution or resolutions of the governing body. The bonds may be issued either all at one time or from time to time in blocks, and different provisions may be made for different blocks.

2952. Bonded debt payable in installments. Each bond issue made under this act shall mature in annual installments or series, the first of which shall be made payable not more than three years after the date of the first issued bonds of such issue, and the last within the period determined and declared pursuant to subsection 3 of section 2942 of this subchapter. No such installment or series shall be more than two and one-half times as great in amount as the smallest prior installment or series of the same bond issue. If all of the bonds of an issue are not issued at the same time, the bonds at any one time outstanding shall mature as aforesaid.

1917, c. 138, s. 26; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (26).
2953. Medium and place of payment. The bonds may be made payable in such kinds of money and at such place or places within or without the state of North Carolina as the governing body may by resolution provide.

1917, c. 138, s. 27; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (27).

2954. Formal execution of bonds. The bonds shall be issued in such form as the officers who execute them shall adopt, except as otherwise provided by the governing body. They shall be signed by two or more officers designated by the governing body, or, if the governing body makes no such designation, then by the mayor or other chief executive officer and by the financial officer of the municipality, and the corporate seal of the municipality shall be affixed to the bonds and attested by the clerk. The bonds may have coupons attached for the interest to be paid thereon, which coupons shall bear a facsimile signature of the financial officer in office at the date of the bonds or at the date of delivery thereof. The delivery of bonds so executed shall be valid notwithstanding any change in the officers or in the seal of the municipality occurring after the signing and sealing of the bonds.

2955. Registration and transfer of bonds:

1. Bonds payable to bearer. Bonds issued under this act shall be payable to the bearer unless they are registered as provided in this section; and each coupon appertaining to a bond shall be payable to the bearer of the coupon.

2. Registration and effect. A municipality may keep in the office of its financial officer or in the office of a bank or trust company appointed by the governing board as bond registrar or transfer agent, a register or registers for the registration and transfer of its bonds, in which it may register any bond at the time of its issue or, at the request of the holder, thereafter. After such registration the principal and interest of the bond shall be payable to the person in whose name it is registered except in the case of a coupon bond registered as to principal only, in which case the principal shall be payable to such person, unless the bond shall be discharged from registry by being registered as payable to bearer. After registration a bond may be transferred on such register by the registered owner in person or by attorney, upon presentation to the bond registrar, accompanied by delivery of a written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the bond registrar, executed by the registered owner.

3. Registration and transfer noted on bond. Upon the registration or transfer of a bond as aforesaid, the bond registrar shall note such registration or transfer on the back of the bond. Upon the registration of a coupon bond as to both principal and interest he shall also cut off and cancel the coupons.

4. Agreement for registration. A municipality may, by recital in its bonds, agree to register the bonds as to principal only, or agree to register them as to both principal and interest, or agree to register them either as to principal only or as to both principal and interest, at the option of the bondholder.

1917, c. 138, s. 29; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (29).

2956. Sale of bonds. All bonds of a municipality shall be sold at not less than par. They shall be advertised and sold upon sealed proposals or at public auction, unless the sale is made to a sinking fund of the municipality or is made within thirty days after failure to receive any legally acceptable bid in response to a public offering made as provided in this section.

Whenever bonds are to be sold pursuant to advertisement there shall be published, at least once, a notice containing a description of the bonds to be sold, the place of sale, and the time of sale, or time limited for the receipt of proposals, which shall be not less than ten days after the first publication of the notice. The notice shall state that bidders must deposit with the financial officer before making their bids, or present with their bids, a certified check payable to the order of the municipality or the financial officer upon an incorporated bank or trust company, or a sum of money, for or in an amount equal to two per centum of the face amount of bonds bid for, to secure the municipality against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid.

Proposals submitted pursuant to such notices shall be opened in public, and the bonds shall be awarded to the highest bidder, unless all bids are rejected. The municipality shall have the right to reject all bids. The governing body may delegate the power to sell bonds to a committee thereof, or any two officers, one of whom shall be the financial officer; but every private sale of bonds shall be made or confirmed by the governing body. Bonds of the municipality sold out of a sinking fund of the municipality shall be sold as provided in this section, except that such bonds may be sold for less than par.

Nothing herein shall prevent a municipality from awarding its bonds to the bidder offering to take them at the lowest rate of interest, provided the notice of sale invites bidders to name the rate of interest which the bonds are to bear.

2957. Application of funds. The proceeds of the sale of bonds issued under this act shall be used only for the purposes specified in the ordinance authorizing said bonds, and for the payment of the principal and interest of temporary loans made in anticipation of the sale of bonds: Provided, however, that if for any reason any part of such proceeds are not applied to or are not necessary for such purposes, such unexpended part of the proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the principal or interest of said bonds. The cost of preparing, issuing, and marketing bonds shall be deemed to be one of the purposes for which the bonds are issued.

2958. Bonds incontestable after delivery. Any bonds reciting that they are issued pursuant to this act shall in any action or proceeding involving their validity be conclusively deemed to be fully authorized by this act and to have been issued, sold, executed, and delivered in conformity herewith, and with all other provisions of statutes applicable thereto, and shall be incontestable, anything herein or in other statutes to the contrary notwithstanding, unless such action or proceeding is begun prior to the delivery of such bonds.

2959. Taxes levied for payment of bonds. The full faith and credit of a municipality shall be deemed to be pledged for the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on every bond and note issued under this act, including assessment bonds or other bonds for which special funds are provided. The governing body shall annually levy and collect a tax ad valorem upon all the taxable property in the municipality sufficient to pay the principal and interest of all bonds issued under this act as such principal and interest become due: Provided, however, that such tax may be reduced by the amount of other moneys appropriated and actually available for such purpose.

So much of the net revenue derived by the municipality in any fiscal year from the operation of any revenue-producing enterprise owned by the municipality after paying all expenses of operating, managing, maintaining, repairing, enlarging, and extending such enterprise, shall be applied, first, to the payment of the interest payable in the next succeeding year on bonds issued for such enterprise, and, next, to the payment of the amount necessary to be raised by tax in such succeeding year for the payment of the principal of said bonds. All moneys derived from the collection of special assessments upon which assessment bonds or other bonds or notes are predicated, shall be placed in a special fund, and used only for the payment of such bonds or notes.

Every municipality shall have the power to levy taxes ad valorem upon all taxable property therein for the purpose of paying the principal of or the interest on any bonds or notes for the payment of which the municipality is liable, issued under any act other than this act, or for the purpose of providing a sinking fund for the payment of said principal, or for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on any notes issued under this act.

The powers stated in this section in respect of the levy of taxes for the payment of the principal and interest of bonds and notes shall not be subject to any limitation prescribed by law upon the amount or rate of taxes which a municipality may levy. Taxes levied under this section shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected upon property in the municipality.

1917, c. 138, s. 33; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (33).

Art. 27. Restrictions Upon the Exercise of Municipal Powers

2960. In borrowing or expending money. 1. No municipality shall—
a. Make an appropriation of money except as provided in this act;
b. Borrow money or issue bonds or notes except as provided in this act;
c. Make an expenditure of money unless the money shall have been appropriated as provided in this act, or unless the expenditure is a payment of a judgment against the municipality or is a payment of the principal or interest of a bond or note of the municipality; or

d. Enter into any contract involving the expenditure of money unless a sufficient appropriation shall have been made therefor, except a continuing contract to be performed in whole or in part in an ensuing fiscal year, in which case an appropriation shall be made sufficient to meet the amount to be paid in the fiscal year in which the contract is made.

2. The authorization of bonds by a municipality shall be deemed to be an appropriation of the maximum authorized amount of the bonds for the purposes for which they are to be issued.

2961. Manner of passing ordinances and resolutions. Ordinances and resolutions passed pursuant to this act shall be passed in the manner provided by other laws for the passage of ordinances and resolutions, but shall not be subject to the provisions of other laws prescribing conditions, acts, or things necessary to exist, happen, or be performed precedent to or after the passage of ordinances or resolutions in order to give them full force and effect: Provided, however, that in any municipality in which the acts of the governing body thereof involving the raising or expenditure of money as required by law to be approved by some other official board or officer of the municipality in order to make them effective, all ordinances and resolutions passed by the governing body under this act shall, unless they relate solely to elections held under this act, be so approved before they take effect.

2962. Enforcement of act. Any officer of a municipality or any one or more taxable inhabitants thereof, or any creditor to whom the municipality is indebted to an amount not less than one thousand dollars may, within the periods of limitation prescribed by this and other acts, maintain an action or other proceeding against the municipality or any officer thereof to set aside or have declared invalid any illegal official act on the part of the municipality or its officers or to prevent any such act, or to compel the municipality or its officers to comply with the provisions of this and other laws relating to the municipality. The superior court of the county or district in which the municipality is situated shall have jurisdiction to enforce by mandamus, injunction, or other appropriate remedy the provisions of this act and of said laws. If any board or officer of a municipality shall be ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction to levy or collect a tax to pay a judgment or other debt, or to perform any duty required by this act to be performed by such board or officer, and shall fail to carry out such order, the court, in addition to all other remedies, may appoint its own officers or other persons to carry out such order.

2963. Limitation of tax for general purposes. For the purpose of raising revenue for defraying the expenses incident to the proper government of the municipality the governing body shall have the power and is hereby authorized to levy and collect an annual ad valorem tax on all taxable property in the municipality at a rate not exceeding one dollar and twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars valuation of said property.

1917, c. 138, s. 37; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (37).

See sections 2677-2679.

2964. Certain taxes validated. All taxes levied by any municipality for general purposes since the enactment of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, at a rate not exceeding one dollar and twenty-five cents on the hundred dollars assessed valuation of taxable property of the municipality, are hereby ratified and validated, notwithstanding the rate exceeded one dollar on the hundred dollars assessed valuation of taxable property.

2965. Outstanding floating debt validated, and may be funded. All floating indebtedness outstanding on the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, incurred by a municipality in good faith for necessary expenses thereof, is hereby validated, notwithstanding any want of power or authority to incur indebtedness for the purpose for which such indebtedness was incurred, and notwithstanding any defect in the procedure for incurring the indebtedness, or any other defect or illegality, including a failure to observe any debt limit prescribed by law. The municipality may fund such outstanding floating indebtedness by issuing bonds under chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, the original Municipal Finance Act, in the same manner and upon the same terms and conditions as are prescribed by said act for the issuance of bonds described in said act as funding bonds, namely, bonds issued to fund indebtedness incurred before March seventh, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, not evidenced by bonds.

1919, c. 178, s. 4.

Art. 28. General Effect of Municipal Finance Act

2966. Effect upon prior laws and proceedings taken. All acts and parts of acts, general or special, to the extent that they relate to the subject-matter of this act, are superseded by this act:

Provided, however, that acts and proceedings done or taken, prior to the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, by any municipality or the voters thereof or any board of officers thereof pursuant to acts or parts of acts superseded by this act shall not be affected by this act, but all such acts or proceedings similar to any acts or proceedings provided for in this act shall have the same force and effect as if done and taken pursuant to this act, and only subsequent proceedings shall be taken as provided in this act:

Provided further, that in all cases where, pursuant to acts or parts of acts so superseded, an ordinance or resolution has been passed prior to the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, authorizing the issuance of bonds or notes or calling an election for such purpose, nothing in this act shall prevent the issuance of the bonds or notes in accordance with the terms of such ordinance or resolution, and it shall not be necessary to pass the ordinance provided for in this act, and no vote of the people shall be necessary for the issuance of such bonds or notes unless they are for purposes other than the payment of necessary expenses or unless such vote shall be required by the terms of the acts or parts of acts so superseded or by the terms of the ordinance or resolution so passed:

Provided further, that this act shall not be deemed to repeal any of the provisions of subchapter one, article nine, of this chapter, except that in all matters relating to restriction of municipal power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts and loaning credit, the provisions of this act shall govern: Provided, that any municipality of the state may proceed under the provisions of subchapter one, article nine, of this chapter, as herein amended, notwithstanding anything contained in any law heretofore enacted, whether general, special, private, or local.

2967. Other acts repealed; exceptions. All acts and parts of acts, general or special (passed prior to the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen), inconsistent with this act, are hereby repealed: Provided, however, that all acts and proceedings done or taken under chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, in its original form, or as amended prior to the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, shall be as valid and effectual as if done and taken under said act as it is hereby amended, and only subsequent proceedings shall be taken as provided in this amendatory act: Provided further, that this act shall not affect sections three, four, or five of chapter forty-nine of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

2968. Proceedings under act of 1917 validated. All acts and proceedings done or taken under chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, prior to the seventeenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, the date of the enactment of chapter forty-nine of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, shall be as valid and effectual as if taken under said act as it is hereby amended, and only subsequent proceedings shall be taken as herein provided.

2969. General repealing clause. All laws and parts of laws, whether general, special, private, or public-local laws, regulating, restricting or relating in any way to the incurring of indebtedness of a municipality, are hereby repealed, except as otherwise expressly provided in section two thousand nine hundred and sixty-five. This act shall be in force from and after its ratification, the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

2971. Procedure for changing name; petition; notice. Rev., ss. 2148; 1891, c. 145.

2974. Clerk to order change; certificate and record. If the clerk thinks that good and sufficient reason exists for the change of name, it shall be his duty to issue an order changing the name of the applicant from his true name to the name sought to be adopted. He shall issue to the applicant a certificate under his hand and seal of office, stating the change made in the applicant’s name, and shall also record said application and order on the docket of special proceedings in his court.

Rev., ss. 2149, 2150; 1891, c. 145.

2975. Effect of change; only one change. When the order is made and the applicant’s name changed, he is entitled to all the privileges and protection under his new name as he would have been under the old name. No person shall be allowed to change his name under this chapter but once.

Rev., s. 2340; 1899, c. 733, s. 191.

2977. Person primarily liable on instrument. The person primarily liable on an instrument is the person who by the terms of the instrument is absolutely required to pay the same. All other parties are secondarily liable.
Rev., s. 2342; 1899, c. 733, s. 192.
Under this section liability of surety to instrument is primary: Rouse v. Wooten, 140-557—but liability of guarantor is collateral and secondary, Ibid., and other cases cited on page 559. Joint makers of a note are primarily liable, and have the burden of proving any matter as a release: Roberson v. Spain, 173-23. See, also, Lilly v. Baker, 88-154.

2978. What constitutes reasonable time. In determining what is reasonable time or an unreasonable time regard is to be had to the nature of the instrument, the usage of trade or business (if any) with respect to such instruments, and the facts of the particular case.
Rev., s. 2343; 1899, c. 733, s. 193.
In determining what is reasonable time, regard must be had to the nature of instrument and facts of particular case: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102; Yancey v. Littlejohn, 9-525—and where check on bank in this state negotiated to party in neighboring state within five days after obtaining same, such negotiation is within reasonable time, Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102. As to time in which check drawn on bank should be presented, where drawer, payee and drawee all residents of same place, see Bank v. Alexander, 84-30.

Rev., s. 2539; 1899, c. 733, s. 194.
See Sundays and Holidays.

2981. Application of chapter. The provisions of this chapter do not apply to negotiable instruments made and delivered prior to the eighth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.
Rev., s. 2345; 1899, c. 733, s. 195.
See Barden v. Hornthal, 151-8.
The annotations to this chapter include many of the important decisions prior to its enactment as an aid to its interpretation. Great care should be exercised in citing these cases as authorities where this chapter changed the law.

Art. 2. Form and Interpretation

2982. Form of negotiable instrument. An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements: (1) It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer; (2) must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money; (3) must be payable on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time; (4) must be payable to the order of a specified person or to bearer; and (5) where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named, or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty.

Rev., s. 2151; 1899, c. 733, s. 1.

Instruments to be negotiable must be certain as to time of payment and amount to be paid: Bank v. Bynum, 84-24—must be payable in money, Johnson v. Henderson, 76-227—should not be dependent upon contingency, Goodloe v. Taylor, 10-458. A note payable ‘subject to the conditions’ of a certain deed is not negotiable: Pope v. Lumber Co., 162-206. To be negotiable a note must be payable to order or bearer: Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47. Certificate of deposit is negotiable when expressed in negotiable words: Johnson v. Henderson, 76-227. An instrument is negotiable though it expresses a consideration for which it is given: Bank v. Michael, 96-53. See, also, Myers v. Petty, 153-462.

County and school orders are not negotiable: Wright v. Kinney, 123-621; Bank v. Warlick, 125-594. As to drafts with bills of lading attached, see Finch v. Gregg, 126-176, overruled in Mason v. Cotton Co., 148-496.

What constitutes certainty as to sum. The sum payable is a sum certain within the meaning of this chapter, although it is to be paid (1) with interest; or (2) by stated installments; or (3) by stated installments with a provision that upon default in payment of any installment the whole shall become due; or (4) with exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or (5) with costs of collection or an attorney’s fee in case payment shall not be made at maturity. But a provision incorporated in the instrument to pay counsel fees for collection is not enforceable, but does not affect the other terms of the instrument or the negotiability thereof.

Rev., ss. 2152, 2346; 1899, c. 733, ss. 2, 197; 1905, c. 327.

When promise is unconditional. An unqualified order or promise to pay is unconditional within the meaning of this chapter, though coupled with (1) an indication of a particular fund out of which reimbursement is to be made, or a particular account to be debited with the amount; or (2) a statement of the transaction which gives rise to the instrument. But an order or promise to pay out of a particular fund is not unconditional.

Rev., s. 2153; 1899, c. 733, s. 3.

As between original parties, a condition can be added at the time of its execution as to its payment: Aden v. Doub, 146-10; Evans v. Freeman, 142-61. Bonds are negotiable though a special fund may be provided for their payment: Commissioners v. Bank, 157-191. A statement of the transaction giving rise to the instrument does not make it conditional: Masen v. Cotton Co., 148-492; Bank v. Hatcher, 151-559 (overruling on this point Howard v. Kimball, 65-176).
2985. What constitutes determinable future time. An instrument is payable at a determinable future time, within the meaning of this chapter, which is expressed to be payable (1) at a fixed period after date or sight; or (2) on or before a fixed or determinable future time specified therein; or (3) on or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event which is certain to happen, though the time of happening be uncertain. An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect.

Rev., s. 2156; 1899, c. 733, s. 4.

Provision that upon failure to pay interest, principal shall become due and payable is valid: Trust Co. v. Duffy, 153-62. Waiver of forfeiture for extension of time does not prevent payee from demanding payment of principal if interest is not paid, Ibid.

2986. Additional provisions as affecting negotiability. An instrument which contains an order or promise to do any act in addition to the payment of money is not negotiable. But the negotiable character of an instrument otherwise negotiable is not affected by a provision which (1) authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity; or (2) authorizes a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or (3) waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of obligor; or (4) gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money. But nothing in this section shall validate any provision or stipulation otherwise illegal, nor authorize the enforcement of an authorization to confess judgment or a waiver of homestead and personal property exemptions.

Rev., ss. 2154, 2346; 1899, ch. 733, ss. 5, 197; 1905, ch. 327.

For provision as to counsel fees, see above, s. 2983.

2987. Effect of omissions; seal; designation of particular money. The validity and negotiable character of an instrument are not affected by the fact that (1) it is not dated; or (2) does not specify the value given, or that any value has been given therefor; or (3) does not specify the place where it is drawn or the place where it is payable; or (4) bears a seal; or (5) designates a particular kind of current money in which payment is to be made. But nothing in this section shall alter or repeal any statute requiring in certain cases the nature of the consideration to be stated in the instrument.

Rev., s. 2155; 1899, ch. 733, s. 6.

Instrument in form of negotiable note not vitiated by reason of being under seal: Pate v. Brown, 85-166. Decision prior to this enactment seeming adverse to statute: Johnson v. Henderson, 76-227.

2988. When payable on demand. An instrument is payable on demand (1) when it is expressed to be payable on demand, or at sight or on presentation; or (2) in which no time for payment is expressed. Where an instrument is issued, accepted or indorsed when overdue, it is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting or indorsing it, payable on demand.

Rev., s. 2157; 1899, ch. 733, s. 7.

Instrument payable on demand is due immediately: Caldwell v. Rodman, 50-139.
2989. When payable to order. The instrument is payable to order when it is drawn payable to the order of a specified person, or to him or his order. It may be drawn payable to the order of (1) a payee who is not maker, drawer or drawee; or (2) the drawer or maker; or (3) the drawee; or (4) two or more payees jointly; or (5) one or some of several payees; or (6) the holder of an office for the time being. When the instrument is payable to order, the payee must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty.
Rev., s. 2158; 1899, c. 733, s. 8.
Section cited in Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47.

2990. When payable to bearer. The instrument is payable to bearer (1) when it is expressed to be so payable; or (2) when it is payable to a person named therein or to bearer; or (3) when it is payable to the order of a fictitious or nonexisting person, and such fact was known to the person making it so payable; or (4) when the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or (5) when the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank.
Rev., s. 2159; 1899, c. 733, s. 9.
An indorsement in blank does not make an instrument negotiable which was not negotiable 2991. No formal language required. The negotiable instrument need not follow the language of this chapter, but any terms are sufficient which clearly indicate an intention to conform to the requirements hereof.

Rev., s. 2160; 1899, c. 733, s. 10.

2992. Presumption as to date. Where the instrument or an acceptance or any indorsement thereon is dated, such date is deemed prima facie to be the true date of the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement, as the case may be.
Rev., s. 2161; 1899, c. 733, s. 11.

2993. Antedated and postdated. The instrument is not invalid for the reason only that it is antedated or postdated, provided that this is not done for an illegal or fraudulent purpose. The person to whom an instrument so dated is delivered acquires the title thereto as of the date of delivery.
Rev., s. 2162; 1899, c. 733, s. 12.

2994. When date may be inserted. When an instrument expressed to be payable at a fixed period after date is issued undated, or where the acceptance of an instrument payable at a fixed period after sight is undated, any holder may insert therein the true date of issue or acceptance, and the instrument shall be payable accordingly. The insertion of a wrong date does not avoid the instrument in the hands of a subsequent holder in due course; but as to him the date so inserted is to be regarded as the true date.
Rev., s. 2163; 1899, c. 733, s. 13.

2995. When blanks may be filled. Where the instrument is wanting in any material particular, the person in possession thereof has a prima facie authority to complete it by filling up the blanks therein. And a signature on a blank paper delivered by the person making the signature in order that the paper may be converted into a negotiable instrument operates as a prima facie authority to fill it up as such for any amount. In order, however, that any such instrument when completed may be enforced against any person who became a party thereto prior to its completion, it must be filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. But if any such instrument after completion be negotiated to a holder in due course, it is valid and effectual for all purposes in his hands, and he may enforce it as if it had been filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time.

Rev., s. 2164; 1899, c. 733, s. 14.

Where a person signs an instrument in blank and delivers it to another to be filled out and negotiated, maker is bound by such instrument in the hands of a bona fide holder: Phillips v. Hensley, 175-23; Humphreys v. Finch, 97-303; McArthur v. McLeod, 51-476; see Wester v. Bailey, 118-193—and bona fide holder of instrument has right to fill up blank left for payee’s name with that of indorser, Lawrence v. Mabry, 13-473.

A person dealing with a negotiable instrument has the right to act on it as it appears on the face of it: Citizens Nat. Bank v. Burch, 145-316.

2996. Incomplete instrument not delivered. Where an incomplete instrument has not been delivered it will not, if completed and negotiated without authority, be a valid contract in the hands of any holder as against any person whose signature was placed thereon before delivery.

Rev., s. 2165; 1899, c. 733, s. 15.

Where maker of instrument, blank as to payee’s name, acknowledges same to be his after insertion of such name, he is liable thereon: Wester v. Bailey, 118-193.

2997. Delivery necessary; when effectual; when presumed. Every contract on a negotiable instrument is incomplete and revocable until delivery of the instrument for the purpose of giving effect thereto. As between immediate parties, and as regards a remote party other than a holder in due course, the delivery in order to be effectual must be made either by or under the authority of the party making, drawing or indorsing, as the case may be; and in such case the delivery may be shown to have been conditional or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring the property in the instrument. But where the instrument is in the hands of a holder in due course a valid delivery thereof by all parties prior to him, so as to make them liable to him, is conclusively presumed. And where the instrument is no longer in possession of a party whose signature appears thereon, a valid and intentional delivery by him is presumed until the contrary is proved.

Rev., s. 2166; 1899, c. 733, s. 16.

Parol evidence is admissible between immediate parties to show the note was executed on a contingency, and failure of consideration: Farrington v. McNeill, 174-420—but parol evidence is not admissible to show that it is payable at a date later than the date specified in the instrument: Cherokee Co. v. Meroney, 173-653.

2998. Construction, where instrument is ambiguous. Where the language of the instrument is ambiguous or there are omissions therein, the following rules of construction apply:

1. Where the sum payable is expressed in words and also in figures and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the sum payable; but if the words are ambiguous or uncertain, reference may be had to the figures to fix the amount.

2. Where the instrument provides for the payment of interest, without specifying the date from which interest is to run, the interest runs from the date of the instrument, and if the instrument is undated, from the issue thereof.

3. Where the instrument is not dated it will be considered to be dated as of the time it was issued.

4. Where there is conflict between the written and printed provisions of the instrument the written provisions prevail.

5. Where the instrument is so ambiguous that there is doubt whether it is a bill or a note the holder may treat it as either at his election.

6. Where a signature is so placed upon the instrument that it is not clear in what capacity the person making the same intended to sign, he is to be deemed an indorser.

See sections 3044, 3045.

7. Where an instrument containing the words "I promise to pay" is signed by two or more persons, they are deemed to be jointly and severally liable thereon.

Rev., ss. 1952; 2341; 1899, c. 733, s. 17:

2999. Signature must appear; trade or assumed name. No person is liable on the instrument whose signature does not appear thereon, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. But one who signs in a trade or assumed name will be liable to the same extent as if he had signed in his own name.

Rev., s. 2167; 1899, c. 733, s. 18.

Persons subscribing as obligors to bond are bound by the stipulations of same, whether their names are inserted in body of instrument or not: Howell v. Parsons, 89-230. One who signs in form and appearance as a principal and maker of note is bound as such to all persons who subsequently deal with the paper without knowledge of his true relation to it: Citizens Nat. Bank v. Burch, 145-316.

3000. Signature by agent; how authority shown. The signature of any party may be made by a duly authorized agent. No particular form of appointment is necessary for this purpose, and the authority of the agent may be established as in other cases of agency.

Rev., s. 2168; 1899, c. 733, s. 19.

Indorsement may be by agent: Midgette v. Basnight, 173-18. Authority of agent to draw, accept or indorse bills, notes and checks must ordinarily be expressly conferred: Bank v. Hay, 143-326—but may be implied if execution of paper is necessary incident to business, Ibid.

3001. Liability of person signing as agent. Where the instrument contains, or a person adds to his signature, words indicating that he signed for or on behalf of the principal or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument if he was duly authorized; but the mere addition of words describing him as an agent or as filling a representative character, without disclosing his principal, does not exempt him from personal liability.

Rev., s. 2169; 1899, c. 733, s. 20.

3002. Effect of signature by procuration. A signature by procuration operates as notice that the agent has but a limited authority to sign, and the principal is bound only in case the agent so signing acted within the actual limits of his authority.

Rev., s. 2170; 1899, c. 733, s. 21.

Attorney to whom instrument sent for collection has, prima facie, no authority to indorse it in name of client, and purchaser thereof should inquire as to extent of attorney’s authority: Sherrill v. Clothing Co., 114-456.

3003. Effect of forged signature. When a signature is forged or made without the authority of the person whose signature it purports to be, it is wholly inoperative, and no right to retain the instrument or to give a discharge therefor or to enforce payment thereof against any party thereto can be acquired through or under such signature, unless the party against whom it is sought to enforce such right is precluded from setting up the forgery or want of authority.

Rev., s. 2171; 1899, c. 733, s. 23.

3004. Presumption of consideration. Every negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to have been issued for a valuable consideration, and every person whose signature appears thereon to have become a party thereto for value.

Rev., s. 2172; 1899, c. 733, s. 24.

Instrument imports prima facie that it is founded on consideration: Piner v. Brittain, 165-401; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Myers v. Petty, 158-462; Campbell v. McCormac, 90-491; McArthur v. McLeod, 51-476—but if defendant rebuts presumption, burden is upon plaintiff to show that there was consideration, Campbell v. McCormac, 90-491. See, also, Columbian Conservatory v. Dickinson, 158-207. Sealed instrument need not express consideration: Wester v. Bailey, 118-193.

3005. What constitutes consideration. Value is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or pre-existing debt constitutes value, and is deemed such whether the instrument is payable on demand or at a future time.

Rev., s. 2173; 1899, c. 733, s. 25.

3006. What constitutes a holder for value. Where value has at any time been given for the instrument the holder is deemed a holder for value in respect to all parties who became such prior to that time.

Rev., s. 2174; 1899, c. 733, s. 26.

Where plaintiff bank rediscounted note of defendant for another bank, and placed proceeds to credit of such bank, and before notice of equity of defendant, paid checks of said bank to one-half value of rediscount, plaintiff was purchaser for value: Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133-638; Bank v. McNair, 114-335—though fact that bank has given depositor credit for amount of negotiable instrument deposited in bank for collection does not constitute bank a purchaser for value, Packing Co. v. Davis, 118-555, and cases cited; Worth Co. v. Food Co., 172-335; Bank v. Exum, 163-199; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Reid v. Bank, 159-99. When a bank is a purchaser for value of a draft transferred to it by a depositor: Latham v. Spragins, 162-404.
3007. When lien on instrument constitutes holder for value. Where the holder has a lien on the instrument arising either from contract or by implication of law he has deemed a holder for value to the extent of his lien.

Rev., s. 2175; 1899, c. 733, s. 27.

3008. Effect of want of consideration. Absence or failure of consideration is matter of defense as against any person not a holder in due course, and partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto, whether the failure is an ascertained and liquidated amount or otherwise.

Rev., s. 2176; 1899, c. 733, s. 28.

Failure of consideration is defense as between original parties to instrument: Piner v. Britain, 165-401; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Washburn v. Picot, 14-390. Absence of consideration not a defense against a holder in due course: Hardy v. Mitchell, 156-76.

3009. Liability of accommodation party. An accommodation party is one who has signed the instrument as maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser without receiving value therefor, and for the purpose of lending his name to some other person. Such a person is liable on the instrument to a holder for value, notwithstanding such holder at the time of taking the instrument knew him to be only an accommodation party.

Rev., s. 2177; 1899, c. 733, s. 29.

Where draft is an accommodation paper, drawer is primarily liable upon same: Bank v. Bradley, 117-526.

An accommodation indorser is discharged from liability where instrument held as collateral security is released without his knowledge, and without placing credit therefor upon accommodation paper: Bank v. Nimocks, 124-352. Likewise where creditor surrenders property held as security: Carriage Co. v. Dowd, 155-307.

If accommodation paper is a bond, which obligee refuses to accept, it is void in the hands of a third person for want of delivery, though he is a purchaser for value: Parker v. McDowell, 95-219.

Agreement between maker and accommodation indorser that instrument should be negotiated at bank does not affect purchaser for value and before maturity: Parker v. Sutton, 103-191—although he had notice of agreement at time of taking the instrument, Ibid.

Where an instrument is made for the purpose of enabling the maker to raise money, and is indorsed by him for that purpose, the indorsee may recover upon it, not only against the payee and indorser, but against all others who may have signed it: Bank v. Griffin, 107-173.

Instrument executed by partner to third person, who as surety and for accommodation of maker indorses it and receives no benefit therefrom, cannot be subject of action by firm against indorser: Patton v. Carr, 117-176—nor in case of death of maker of note can surviving partner maintain such action against accommodation indorser, unless firm be insolvent, Ibid.

Owner of a note indorsed by payees for maker’s accommodation may sue any one of several indorsers without joining maker or any other indorser: Bank v. Carr, 121-113. See, as incidentally bearing upon section, Lilly v. Baker, 88-151.

Art. 4. Negotiation

3010. What constitutes negotiation. An instrument is negotiated when it is transferred from one person to another in such manner as to constitute the transferee the holder thereof. If payable to bearer, it is negotiated by delivery; if payable to order, it is negotiated by the indorsement of the holder, and completed by delivery.

Rev., s. 2178; 1899, c. 733, s. 30.
3011 NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS—Art. 4 Ch. 58

Word "indorsement" defined: Davidson v. Powell, 114-578. Instrument payable to bearer is negotiated by delivery, and no indorsement is required: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69—but instrument payable to order must be indorsed by payee, Ibid.; Bank v. McEachern, 163-333; Stein-hilper v. Basnight, 153-293; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Woods v. Finley, 153-497; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640; Applegarth v. Tillery, 105-410—and also prior indorsers, if any, or at least in blank to constitute transferee a bona fide holder, Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69. Signature of indorser, where indorsement required, must be proved: Ibid.; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Woods v. Finley, 153-497. Indorsement made by authorized agent with rubber stamp and with intent to indorse is a valid indorsement: Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640—but does not prove itself, Ibid.

If the note payable to order is transferred without indorsement the holder becomes the equitable owner and takes it subject to equities of the maker: Woods v. Finley, 153-497; Stein-hilper v. Basnight, 153-293.

Indorsement of instrument to deceased person is nullity: Valentine v. Holloman, 63-475.

Distinction between assignment and indorsement pointed out in Tyson v. Joyner, 139-72; Miller v. Tharel, 75-152; Lindsay v. Wilson, 22-88.

As bearing upon section, see Fairly v. McLean, 33-158.

3011. How indorsement made. The indorsement must be written on the instrument itself or upon a paper attached thereto. The signature of the indorser, without additional words, is a sufficient indorsement.

Rev., s. 2179; 1899, c. 733, s. 31.

3012. Effect of indorsement by infant or corporation. The indorsement or assignment of the instrument by a corporation, an infant, or married woman passes the property therein, notwithstanding that from want of capacity the corporation, infant, or married woman may incur no liability thereon.

Rev., s. 2180; 1899, c. 733, s. 22.

As to binding the separate property of a married woman, see section 2507 and annotations thereunder.

3013. Indorsement must be of entire instrument. An indorsement must be an indorsement of the entire instrument. An indorsement which purports to transfer to the indorsee a part only of the amount payable or which purports to transfer the instrument to two or more indorsers severally, does not operate as a negotiation of the instrument. But where the instrument has been paid in part it may be indorsed as to the residue.

Rev., s. 2181; 1899, c. 733, s. 32.

Assignment of note, to enable the assignee to sue thereon, must be made by the payee and must be for whole amount, and not for portion of note: Martin v. Hayes, 44-423.

3014. Kinds of indorsement. An indorsement may be either in blank or special, and it may also be either restrictive or qualified or conditional.

Rev., s. 2182; 1899, c. 733, s. 33.

3015. Special indorsement; indorsement in blank. A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order the instrument is to be payable; and the indorsement of such indorsee is necessary to the further negotiation of the instrument. An indorsement in blank specifies no indorsee, and an instrument so indorsed is payable to bearer and may be negotiated by delivery.

Rev., s. 2183; 1899, c. 733, s. 34.

As to special indorsement, see French vy. Barney, 23-219; Tyson vy. Joyner, 139-69. Instrument indorsed in blank becomes payable to bearer against acceptor, drawer and prior indorsers: Ibid. Indorsement in blank by payee of instrument presumed to have been intended as transfer thereof: Coffin vy. Smith, 128-255; Davis vy. Morgan, 64-570. Parol evidence is admissible to control effect of blank indorsement as between immediate parties thereto: Bank vy. Pegram, 118-671; Hoffman vy. Moore, 82-313; Davis vy. Morgan, 64-570.

Burden of proof is upon him who seeks to avoid by parol evidence the ordinary legal effect of blank indorsement: Hoffman vy. Moore, 82-313. As between indorser in blank and remote parties without notice such parol evidence is inadmissible, and contract implied by law stands absolute: Bank vy. Pegram, 118-671.

Where instrument, indorsed in blank, is delivered to attorney for collection, and it is transferred by him to bona fide holder without notice, transferee takes same free of equities: Bradford vy. Williams, 91-7. Instrument payable to bearer is negotiated by delivery and no indorsement required: Tyson vy. Joyner, 139-69. Whether a note with blank indorsement followed by special indorsement is payable to bearer, see French vy. Barney, 23-219; section 2990.

3016. How blank indorsement changed to special indorsement. The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement.

Rev., s. 2184; 1899, c. 733, s. 35.

Where instrument indorsed in blank, holder may make it payable to himself or any other person by filling up blank over signature: Tyson vy. Joyner, 139-69; Lilly vy. Baker, 88-153; Hubbard vy. Williamson, 26-266—and this may be done at or before trial, Tyson vy. Joyner, 139-69; Johnson vy. Hooker, 47-30; Hubbard vy. Williamson, 26-266—but holder cannot write over indorsement words which may change indorser’s liability, Lilly vy. Baker, 88-153—or which is inconsistent with agreement under which indorsement made, Ibid. If blank indorsement not filled up, instrument considered payable to bearer: Hubbard vy. Williamson, 26-266. Indorsement of instrument in blank before indorsement of payee is made regular by subsequent indorsement of payee: Johnson vy. Hooker, 47-30.

3017. When indorsement restrictive. An indorsement is restrictive which either (1) prohibits the further negotiation of the instrument; or (2) constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser; or (3) vests the title in the indorsee in trust for, or to the use of, some other person. But the mere absence of words implying power to negotiate does not make an indorsement restrictive.

Rev., s. 2185; 1899, c. 733, s. 36.

Restrictive indorsement, such as ‘for collection for account of,’ etc., prevents transfer of title to bank to which sent for collection: Bank vy. Bank, 119-307; Boykin vy. Bank, 118-566; Packing Co. vy. Davis, 118-548. Bill transferred to bank ‘for deposit’ or ‘for collection’ constitutes the bank an agent for the indorser: Bank vy. Oil Mills, 150-718. A purchaser for value and without notice of a restrictive agreement will be protected: Ibid.

Burden upon indorser to show agreement by which liability restricted: Davidson vy. Powell, 114-575.

See, as bearing upon section, Drew vy. Jacocks, 6-138; Smith vy. St. Lawrence, 2-174.

3018. Effect of restrictive indorsement; rights of indorsee. A restrictive indorsement confers upon the indorsee the right (1) to receive payment of the in-3019. Qualified indorsement. A qualified indorsement constitutes the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the instrument. It may be made by adding to the indorser’s signature the words “without recourse” or any words of similar import. Such an indorsement does not impair the negotiable character of the instrument.

Rev., s. 2187; 1899, c. 733, s. 38.

Qualified indorsement does not affect negotiability: Evans v. Freeman, 142-61; Bank v. Hatcher, 151-359. A transfer of “all right, title and interest” does not affect negotiable character of note: Ibid. Where indorser intends to transfer title only, he should use words “without recourse” or other phrase of similar import: Davidson v. Powell, 114-575. “Without recourse” does not throw suspicion on the paper nor affect negotiability, but may be a circumstance to show that value was not received by the indorser: Bank v. Branson, 165-344.

3020. Conditional indorsement. Where an indorsement is conditional, a party required to pay the instrument may disregard the condition and make payment to the indorsee or his transferee, whether the condition has been fulfilled or not. But any person to whom an instrument so indorsed is negotiated will hold the same or the proceeds thereof subject to the rights of the person indorsing conditionally.

Rev., s. 2188; 1899, c. 733, s. 39.

As bearing upon subject-matter of section, see Johnson v. Olive, 60-213.

3021. Indorsement of instrument payable to bearer. Where an instrument payable to bearer is indorsed specially, it may nevertheless be further negotiated by delivery; but the person indorsing specially is liable as indorser to only such holders as make title through his indorsement.

Rev., s. 2189; 1899, c. 733, s. 40.

3022. Indorsement of instrument payable to two or more persons. Where an instrument is payable to the order of two or more payees or indorsees who are not partners, all must indorse unless the one indorsing has authority to indorse for the others.

Rev., s. 2190; 1899, c. 733, s. 41.

Surviving partner has no power, after dissolution, to renew or indorse in name of firm an instrument executed by the partnership: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.
3023. Effect of instrument drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier. Where an instrument is drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier or other fiscal officer of a bank or corporation it is deemed prima facie to be payable to the bank or corporation of which he is such officer, and may be negotiated by either the indorsement of the bank or corporation or the indorsement of the officer.

Rev., s. 2191; 1899, c. 733, s. 42.

3024. Indorsement, where payee's name misspelled. Where the name of a payee or indorsee is wrongly designated or misspelled he may indorse the instrument as there described, adding, if he think fit, his proper signature.

Rev., s. 2192; 1899, c. 733, s. 43.

3025. Indorsement in representative capacity. Where any person is under obligation to indorse in a representative capacity he may indorse in such terms as to negative personal liability.

Rev., s. 2193; 1899, c. 733, s. 44.

See, as bearing incidentally upon subject-matter of section, Banking Co. v. Morehead, 116-413.

3026. Presumption as to time of indorsement. Except where an indorsement bears date after the maturity of the instrument, every negotiation is deemed prima facie to have been effected before the instrument was overdue.

Rev., s. 2194; 1899, c. 733, s. 45.

The law presumes that an undated indorsement of instrument was made at date of note: Southerland v. Fremont, 107-565; Tredwell v. Blount, 86-33.

3027. Presumption as to place of indorsement. Except where the contrary appears, every indorsement is presumed prima facie to have been made at the place where the instrument is dated.

Rev., s. 2195; 1899, c. 733, s. 46.

3028. Continuation of negotiable character. An instrument negotiable in its origin continues to be negotiable until it has been restrictively indorsed or discharged by payment or otherwise.

Rev., s. 2196; 1899, c. 733, s. 47.

3029. Striking out indorsement. The holder may at any time strike out any indorsement which is not necessary to his title. The indorser whose indorsement is struck out and all indorsers subsequent to him are thereby relieved from liability on the instrument.

Rev., s. 2197; 1899, c. 733, s. 48.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Smith v. Lawrence, 2-174.

3030. Effect of transfer without indorsement. Where the holder of an instrument payable to his order transfers it for value without indorsing it, the transfer vests in the transferee such title as the transferrer had therein, and the transferee acquires in addition the right to have the indorsement of the transferrer. But for the purpose of determining whether the transferee is a holder in due course, the negotiation takes effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made.

Rev., s. 2198; 1899, c. 733, s. 49.
Delivery of unindorsed instrument, where indorsement necessary, passes only equitable title: Jenkins v. Wilkinson, 113-532; Carpenter v. Tucker, 98-316.

Holder producing such instrument and testifying that same was discounted by him before maturity, for value and without notice, is only equitable owner, in absence of proof that instrument had been indorsed, and holds same subject to any valid defenses open to maker: Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640; Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153-293; Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Bank v. McEachern, 163-333.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Baggarly v. Gaither, 55-80; Lackay v. Curtis, 41-199; Miller v. Tharel, 75-148.

3031. When prior party may negotiate instrument. Where an instrument is negotiated back to a prior party, such party may, subject to the provisions of this chapter, reissue and further negotiate the same. But he is not entitled to enforce payment thereof against any intervening party to whom he was personally liable.

Rev., s. 2199; 1899, c. 733, s. 50.

Person obtaining possession of negotiable paper after indorsing it is restored to his original position, and cannot hold intermediate parties who could look to him: Adrian v. McCaskill, 103-182—and persons obtaining possession of paper from him with notice of this fact cannot hold intermediate indorsers liable, Ibid.

3032. Right of holder to sue; payment. The holder of a negotiable instrument may sue thereon in his own name, and payment to him in due course discharges the instrument.

Rev., s. 2200; 1899, c. 733, s. 51.

As to who is a "holder," see definition in section 2976; also, see Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-643.

As to the rights of equitable owners to bring actions under section 446, being the real party in interest, see Tyson v. Joyner, 139-73; Bresee v. Crumpton, 121-122; Carpenter v. Tucker, 98-316; Kiff v. Weaver, 94-274; Holly v. Holly, 94-673; Jackson v. Love, 82-405; Andrews v. McDaniel, 68-385.

As to the presumption that the holder of a negotiable instrument is holder in due course, see Evans v. Freeman, 142-61, and cases cited under section 3040.

As to indorser, after payment refused to indorsee, bringing action, see Smith v. St. Lawrence, 2-174; Strong v. Spear, 2-214.

Donee causa mortis of bills, bonds and promissory notes payable to order, and not indorsed, may sue in his own name under section 400: Kiff v. Weaver, 94-274.

The possession of a negotiable paper by an indorsee, whether past due or not, raises the prima facie presumption that he is the true owner and for value: Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; but see Loftin v. Hill, 131-109, which seems to differ slightly; see, also, Bank v. Burgwyn, 108-62; Ballinger v. Cureton, 104-474; Holly v. Holly, 94-670.

3033. What constitutes holder in due course. A holder in due course is a holder who has taken the instrument under the following conditions: (1) That the instrument is complete and regular upon its face; (2) that he became the holder of it before it was overdue and without notice that it has been previously dishonored, if such was the fact; (3) that he took it for good faith and value; (4) that at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it.

Rev., s. 2201; 1899, c. 733, s. 52.

3034 NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS—Art. 5 Ch. 58

Every holder is deemed to be a holder in due course, see section 3040 and cases cited thereunder.

A blank where the rate of interest should be does not render the instrument incomplete, nor affect negotiability: Bank v. Roberts, 168-473.

Indorsement before maturity is necessary to constitute a holder in due course: Myers v. Petty, 153-462; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640. Unless the instrument is payable to bearer it must be indorsed: Security Co. v. Pharmacy, 174-655. A person taking a note payable to order without indorsement is equitable owner, but not a holder in due course: Woods v. Finley, 153-497. When it is said that there is a prima facie presumption of law that a holder is the owner, that he took it for value and before dishonor in the regular course of business, reference is made to a holder by indorsement or to an instrument which was not required to be indorsed, but was negotiable by delivery: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-73. Signature of indorser must be proven before holder deemed a holder in due course: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640.

Bank taking draft for collection, or giving drawer credit with the understanding that if dishonored it will be charged back, is not a holder in due course; otherwise, where it is a sale of the draft and the maker is credited: Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172-335; s. c., 173-711; Moon v. Simpson, 172-576; s. c., 170-335; Sternberg v. Crohow, 172-731; Markham-Stephens Co. v. Richmond Co., 177-364. Section cited: Yount v. Setzer, 155-213.

Cashiers' checks are classed hereunder with bills of exchange payable on demand, and if negotiated by indorsement for value and without notice and within a reasonable time the holder is a holder in due course: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102.

Decisions of interest rendered prior to this enactment: Bank v. MeNair, 116-550; Burroughs v. Bank, 70-283.

As to what amounts to notice of infirmity in instrument, see section 3037.

3034. When person not deemed holder in due course. Where an instrument payable on demand is negotiated an unreasonable length of time after its issue, the holder is not deemed a holder in due course.

Rev., s. 2202; 1899, c. 733, s. 53.

As to what is a reasonable or unreasonable time, see section 2978. Where check negotiated to party residing within another state within five days after execution of same, such negotiation was within reasonable time: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-103.

3035. Notice before full amount paid. Where the transferee has received notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same before he has paid the full amount agreed to be paid therefor, he will be deemed a holder in due course only to the extent of the amount theretofore paid by him.

Rev., s. 2203; 1899, c. 733, s. 54.

As to what amounts to notice of infirmity, see section 3037. Where original consideration of instrument illegal or fraudulent, or same taken as collateral security, right of recovery by indorsee restricted to consideration paid by him before notice of fraud or amount of debt for which it is collateral: Bank v. MeNair, 116-554. Section referred to: Bank v. Walser, 162-53.

3036. When title defective. The title of a person who negotiates an instrument is defective within the meaning of this chapter when he obtained the instrument, or any signature thereto, by fraud, duress or force and fear or other unlawful means, or for an illegal consideration, or when he negotiates it in breach of faith or under such circumstances as amount to a fraud.

Rev., s. 2204; 1899, c. 733, s. 55.
The title is defective if instrument obtained through fraud or other unlawful means: Moon v. Simpson, 170-335; s. c., 172-576. Where a note is declared void by statute it is voided whosesoever hands it may come: Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Glenn v. Bank, 70-191; Henderson v. Shannon, 12-147—but when statute merely declares it illegal the note is good in the hands of an innocent holder: Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Glenn v. Bank, 70-191. (Note that these decisions were rendered prior to enactment).

Indorsee for value before maturity and without notice takes clear of all equities, excepting when by statute the paper is void in whole or in part from its inception, or when the original consideration of the paper is illegal or fraudulent: Bank v. McNair, 116-550—but exception does not extend to notes executed without consideration, Bank v. McNair, 116-555.

When maker is not at liberty to object to the want of consideration against an indorsee, neither is he at liberty to object against him the illegality of consideration: Henderson v. Shannon, 12-148.

Decisions as to pleadings and burden of proof in actions where this section pleaded: Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172-335; Campbell v. Patton, 113-481; Loftin v. Hill, 131-105; Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267, 108-62; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; see, also, section 3040.

3037. What constitutes notice of defect. To constitute a notice of an infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith.

Rev., s. 2205; 1899, c. 733, s. 56.

Actual knowledge or circumstances indicating bad faith necessary to constitute notice of defect: Bank v. Branson, 165-344; Smathers v. Hotel Co., 162-346; s. e., 167-469; s. c., 168-69; Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Bank v. Hatcher, 151-359—mentioning the transaction out of which the debt arose is not sufficient notice: Ibid.

Where purchaser of instrument has knowledge of facts and circumstances tending to show fraud on part of assignor it is his duty to inquire into character of instrument: Loftin v. Hill, 131-110; Hulbert v. Douglas, 94-122—and this being true, he is affected with knowledge of all that inquiry would disclose, Ibid.; Hulbert v. Douglas, 94-122; Bunting v. Ricks, 22-130—but knowledge by bona fide assignee of instrument of crookedness in business matters of assignor does not defeat title of assignee, or make it his duty to inquire relative to same, Setzer v. Deal, 135-428.

The fact that negotiator of note was a stranger and offered note for considerably less than face value, and that note was made payable at a factory of which purchaser had never heard, held not sufficient to put purchaser on his inquiry: Farthing v. Dark, 111-243.

As to the effect of the knowledge of agents or attorneys of infirmities in instruments upon their principals, see Hulbert v. Douglas, 94-122; Dupree v. Ins. Co., 92-417.

Where plaintiff has become holder of the note before maturity, and for value, defendant who sets up defect in plaintiff's title must show plaintiff's actual knowledge of the defect: Bank v. Brown, 160-23. Burden of proving notice or bad faith hereunder is upon the maker: Loftin v. Hill, 131-105; see section 3040.

A person dealing with a negotiable instrument has a right to act on it as it appears on the face of it: Bank v. Burch, 146-316.

3038. Rights of holder in due course. A holder in due course holds the instrument free from any defect of title of prior parties, and free from defenses available to prior parties among themselves, and may enforce payment of the instrument for the full amount thereof against all parties liable thereon.

Rev., s. 2206; 1899, c. 733, s. 57.

Where defect in title is shown it is necessary for holder to show not only that he purchased for value and before maturity, but also without notice: Smathers v. Hotel Co., 168-69.

In action on instrument mere introduction of same raises presumption that holder is only equitable owner, and same subject to equities or other defenses of maker against prior holders: Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69—and in order to render purchaser of instrument payable to order bona fide holder of title good against prior equities instrument must be specially indorsed to him by payee and prior indorsees, if any, or at least indorsed in blank, Ibid. Section cited: Yount v. Setzer, 155-213.

3039. When subject to original defenses. In the hands of any holder other than a holder in due course a negotiable instrument is subject to the same defenses as if it were nonnegotiable. But a holder who derives his title through a holder in due course and who is not himself a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument has all the rights of such former holder in respect of all parties prior to the latter.

Rev., s. 2207; 1899, c. 733, s. 58.

Instruments past due, lodged with bank to secure indebtedness, are taken subject to all proper defenses by makers against original payee: Bank v. Loughran, 126-814.

Transferee of unindorsed instrument, unless same payable to bearer, takes instrument subject to all equities which maker has against payee: Bressee v. Crumpton, 121-122.

3040. Who deemed holder in due course. Every holder is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course. But the last mentioned rule does not apply in favor of a party who became bound on the instrument prior to the acquisition of such defective title.

Rev., s. 2208; 1899, c. 733, s. 59.

Where agent is furnished money to buy up negotiable claims against principal, and does buy them, his possession does not raise a presumption of ownership: Threadgill v. Comrs., 116-616. It is unnecessary for holder to make allegation of ownership in complaint: Deloatch v. Vinson, 108-147. An issue, "Are defendants indebted to plaintiff, and if so, in what amount?" is sufficient to enable question of ownership of note to be passed on by jury: Causey v. Snow, 120-279.

The Burden of Proof. The above section only enacts the law as it has always existed, as far as the burden of proof is concerned: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-109. The burden is first upon the defendant to show title defective: Bank v. Walser, 162-54; Evans v. Freeman, 142-67; Threadgill v. Comrs., 116-616; Trippett v. Foster, 115-335; Bank v. Burgwyn, 108-62; Ballinger v. Cureton, 104-474; Holly v. Holly, 94-670; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40. The defendant must allege and prove fraud before the burden changes to the holder: Bank v. Seagroves, 166-608. Upon proof of fraud or illegality being offered burden is shifted to holder, and he must show that he received instrument bona fide and for value: Discount Co. v. Baker, 176-546; Moon v. Simpson, 170-335; Wilson v. Lewis, 170-47; Smathers v. Hotel Co., 168-69; Bank v. Branson, 165-344; Bank v. Drug Co., 166-99; Trust Co. v. Whitehead, 165-74; Trust Co. v. Ellen, 165-45; Bank v. Exum, 163-199; Hardy v. Mitchell, 161-381; s. c., 156-76; Myers v. Petty, 158-462; Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267, 108-62; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; Meadows v. Cozart, 76-450—but when he has shown it his prima facie case is restored, Bank v. Burgwyn, 110-267—unless circumstances under which he took instrument are shown by defendant to be such as to amount to notice of defect in same, Ibid. The same burden rests upon an intervener, when fraud is shown: Latham v. Rogers, 170-239. The prima facie case of holder is not rebutted by defendant's denial of ownership in answer: Causey v. Snow, 120-279.

Issues submitted should cover the allegations on the defect in the instrument, and the burden is upon the maker to sustain this; then it is upon the holder to prove want of notice, etc.: Bank v. Clark, 172-268.

Possession of unindorsed instrument raises presumption as between holder and payer that holder is owner: Holly v. Holly, 94-670; Robertson v. Dunn, 87-191—but presumption does not arise between holder and payee, who has legal title, Ibid.

In attachment proceedings, intervener having introduced bill of lading for property with draft attached properly indorsed, presumption is that he is purchaser for value without notice: Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133-631.

Possession of instrument by indorsee of married woman prima facie evidence of ownership, instrument having been in possession of husband after indorsement: Vann v. Edwards, 130-70 (note that action was upon instrument executed prior to enactment of section). Where evidence establishes that title of party who negotiated check to defendant was defective, burden is on defendant, claiming to be bona fide purchaser for value and without notice, to make good claim by greater weight of evidence: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-103—and in action upon instrument payable to order, mere introduction of same without proof of indorsement raises presumption that holder merely equitable owner, Mayers v. McRimmon, 140-640; Tyson v. Joyner, 139-69—and same subject to equities or other defenses of maker against prior holders, Ibid.—also, where complaint in action by indorsee of instrument does not state that he is holder in due course, and defendant alleges that execution of instrument procured by fraud of payee, burden is on indorsee to show that he is holder in due course, Campbell v. Patton, 113-451.
ART. 6. LIABILITIES OF PARTIES

3041. Liability of maker. The maker of a negotiable instrument by making it engages that he will pay it according to its tenor, and admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse.

Rev., s. 2209; 1899, c. 733, s. 60.

3042. Liability of drawer. The drawer by drawing the instrument admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse, and engages that on due presentment the instrument will be accepted or paid, or both, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. But the drawer may insert in the instrument an express stipulation negativing or limiting his own liability to the holder.

Rev., s. 2210; 1899, c. 733, s. 61.

The drawer may, by terms in the instrument or by collateral agreement, reserve the right to arrest payment: Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-718—but a purchaser for value without notice of the instrument will be protected, Ibid.

3043. Liability of acceptor. The acceptor by accepting the instrument engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance; and admits (1) existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature and his capacity and authority to draw the instrument; and (2) the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse.

Rev., s. 2211; 1899, c. 733, s. 62.

3044. When person deemed indorser. A person placing his signature upon an instrument otherwise than as maker, drawer or acceptor is deemed to be an indorser, unless he clearly indicates by appropriate words his intention to be bound in some other capacity.

Rev., s. 2212; 1899, c. 733, s. 63.

Prior to the adoption of this act, the liability of an anomalous indorser depended upon the intention of the parties: Barden v. Hornthal, 151-8; Bank v. Wilson, 168-557. Where instrument indorsed by payee and then the name of another person appears upon it, such person deemed to be indorser: Lilly v. Baker, 88-151—but if party indorses note when executed, indorser ought to be held as original promisor, Ibid., page 154.

3045. Liability of irregular indorser. Where a person not otherwise a party to an instrument places thereon his signature in blank before delivery he is liable as indorser in accordance with the following rules: (1) If the instrument is payable to the order of a third person he is liable to the payee and to all subsequent parties; (2) if the instrument is payable to the order of the maker or drawer, or is payable to bearer, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the maker or drawer; (3) if he signs for the accommodation of the payee he is liable to all parties subsequent to the payee.

Rev., s. 2213; 1899, c. 733, s. 64.

3046. Warranty, where negotiation by delivery. Every person negotiating an instrument by delivery or by a qualified indorsement warrants (1) that the instrument is genuine and in all respects what it purports to be; (2) that he has a good title to it; (3) that all prior parties had capacity to contract; (4) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the instrument or render it valueless. But when the negotiation is by delivery only the warranty extends in favor of no holder other than the immediate transferee. The provisions of subdivision three of this section do not apply to persons negotiating public or corporate securities other than bills and notes.

Rev., s. 2214; 1899, c. 733, s. 65.

3047. Liability of general indorser. Every indorser who indorses without qualification warrants to all subsequent holders in due course (1) the matters and things mentioned in subdivisions one, two and three of the next preceding section; and (2) that the instrument is at the time of his indorsement valid and subsisting. And in addition he engages that on due presentment it shall be accepted or paid, or both, as the case may be, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it.

Rev., s. 2215; 1899, c. 733, s. 66.

Where payee, whether original or by previous indorsement, transfers instrument by indorsement he becomes simply an indorser: Davidson v. Powell, 114-575—unless by terms of indorsement he limits his liability, Ibid.

What the indorsers warrant by indorsement: Smith v. Godwin, 145-242. These warranties refer to legal transactions, and are not intended to withdraw contracts from the operation of usury laws: Sedbury v. Duffy, 158-431. An indorser in blank may show by parol the agreement under which such indorsement was made, as against his indorsee and others not holders in due course: Sykes v. Everett, 167-600. Decision prior to enactment reviewing warranties: Henderson v. Lemly, 79-170. See, as incidentally bearing upon subject-matter of section, Hill v. Shields, 81-253.

3048. Liability of indorser, where paper negotiable by delivery. Where a person places his indorsement on an instrument negotiable by delivery he incurs all the liabilities of an indorser.

Rev., s. 2216; 1899, c. 733, s. 67.

3049. Order in which indorsers are liable. As respects one another, indorsers are liable prima facie in the order in which they indorse; but evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves they have agreed otherwise. Joint payees or joint indorsees who indorse are deemed to indorse jointly and severally.

Rev., s. 2217; 1899, c. 733, s. 68.
An indorser who pays the debt cannot recover from a subsequent indorser: Lynch v. Loftin, 153-270. Person obtaining possession of instrument after indorsing same is restored to original position and cannot hold liable intermediate parties who could look to him: Adrian v. McCaskill, 103-182—and person deriving possession of paper from him with notice of this fact is in same position, Ibid.

Remote indorsee of instrument not affected by agreement between payee and immediate indorsee: Hill v. Shields, 81-250.

3050. Liability of agent or broker. Where a broker or other agent negotiates an instrument without indorsement he incurs all the liabilities prescribed by section three thousand and forty-six, unless he discloses the name of his principal and the fact that he is acting only as agent.

Rev., s. 2218; 1899, c. 733, s. 69.

Art. 7. Presentment for Payment

3051. Effect of want of demand on principal debtor. Presentment for payment is not necessary in order to charge the person primarily liable on the instrument; but if the instrument is by its terms payable at a special place, and he is able and willing to pay it there at maturity, such ability and willingness are equivalent to a tender of payment upon his part. But, except as herein otherwise provided, presentment for payment is necessary in order to charge the drawer and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2219; 1899, c. 733, s. 70.

Liability of surety is primary: Rouse v. Wooten, 140-557—though that of guarantor is collateral and secondary, Ibid. Where drawer has funds in hands of drawee he has a right to expect the instrument to be honored, and drawer is entitled to presentment of instrument in reasonable time: Cedar Falls v. Wallace, 83-225.

Where draft on third person given in settlement of antecedent debt it is the duty of the holder to present it and give notice of its dishonor, if not paid, and failure to do so discharges debt: Mauney v. Coit, 80-300.

Where instrument must be presented to drawee for acceptance or payment and due notice must be given to indorser of its nonacceptance or nonpayment before action can be sustained against him: Long v. Stephenson, 72-569. Presentment for payment is necessary in order to bind an anomalous indorser: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. Delay in presentment of certificate of deposit: Bank v. Trust Co., 159-85.

If instrument be payable at particular time and place, demand at such time and place need not be averred or proven in action by holder against maker: Nichols v. Pool, 47-23—for failure to make such demand can only be used in defense if money was ready at time and place named, Ibid.

3052. Presentment, where the instrument is not payable on demand. Where the instrument is not payable on demand, presentment must be made on the day it falls due. Where it is payable on demand, presentment must be made within a reasonable time after its issue, except that in the case of a bill of exchange presentment for payment will be sufficient if made within a reasonable time after the last negotiation thereof.

Rev., s. 2220; 1899, c. 733, s. 71.

3053. What constitutes a sufficient presentment. Presentment for payment to be sufficient must be made (1) by the holder or by some person authorized to receive payment on his behalf; (2) at a reasonable hour on a business day; (3) at a proper place as herein defined; (4) to the person primarily liable on the instrument, or, if he is absent or inaccessible, to any person found at the place where the presentment is made.

Rev., s. 2221; 1899, c. 733, s. 72.

Presentment of instrument must be made to drawee or acceptor, or to an authorized agent:

3054. Place of presentment. Presentment for payment is made at the proper place (1) where a place of payment is specified in the instrument and it is there presented; (2) where no place of payment is specified, but the address of the person to make the payment is given in the instrument, and it is there presented;
(3) where no place of payment is specified and no address is given and the instrument is presented at the usual place of business or residence of the person to make payment; (4) in any other case if presented to the person to make payment wherever he can be found, or if presented at his last known place of business or residence.

Rev., s. 2222; 1899, c. 733, s. 73.

Maker of instrument made payable on demand at a particular place is not bound to pay it until it is presented at such place: Bank v. Bank, 35-75—but wherever instrument made payable at specific place, presentment at such place sufficient, Sullivan v. Mitchell, 4-93—and presentment of instrument sufficient where it is made at residence or usual place of business of drawee, where no place is specified: Burres v. Ins. Co., 124-12.

Presentation of a draft for payment at the place of its date is sufficient demand to charge the drawer or acceptor after notice of protest, where place at which it was payable is not stated in the writing and no proof made that any particular place was agreed upon: Wittkowski v.
Smith, 84-671.

3055. Instrument must be exhibited. The instrument must be exhibited to the person from whom payment is demanded, and, when it is paid, must be delivered up to the party paying it.

Rev., s. 2223; 1899, c. 733, s. 74.

3056. Presentment where instrument payable at bank. Where the instrument is payable at a bank presentment for payment must be made during banking hours, unless the person to make payment has no funds there to meet it at any time during the day, in which case presentment at any hour before the bank is closed on that day is sufficient.

Rev., s. 2224; 1899, c. 733, s. 75.

Whenever instrument payable at particular bank, presentment must be made at such bank:
Sullivan v. Mitchell, 4-93.

3057. Presentment where principal debtor is dead. Where the person primarily liable on the instrument is dead, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment must be made to his personal representative, if such there be, and if with the exercise of reasonable diligence he can be found.

Rev., s. 2225; 1899, c. 733, s. 76.

3058. Presentment to persons liable as partners. Where the persons primarily liable on the instrument are liable as partners and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment may be made to any one of them, even though there has been a dissolution of the firm.

Rev., s. 2226; 1899, c. 733, s. 77.

Where instrument drawn on firm, presentment to one of its members is sufficient: Elliott v.
White, 51-98.
3059. Presentment to joint debtors. Where there are several persons not parties primarily liable on the instrument and no place of payment is specified, presentment must be made to them all.

Rev., s. 2227; 1899, c. 733, s. 78.

3060. When presentment not required to charge the drawer. Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge the drawer where he has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will pay the instrument.

Rev., s. 2228; 1899, c. 733, s. 79.

Generally, if drawer of bill had no reasonable grounds to expect it to be honored, holder is not bound to strict presentment, but if drawer has funds in hands of drawee he has right to expect his bill to be honored, and drawer is entitled to presentment of his bill in reasonable time, and strict notice, if dishonored, although he knew or had reason to believe when he drew the bill that drawee was insolvent: Cedar Falls v. Wallace, 83-225.

3061. When presentment not required to charge the indorser. Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge an indorser where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation, and he has no reason to expect that the instrument will be paid if presented.

Rev., s. 2229; 1899, c. 733, s. 80.

When a note is payable at a bank and the maker has no funds there to meet it, presentment is not necessary: Meyers v. Battle, 170-168.

3062. When delay in presentment is excused. Delay in making presentment for payment is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate presentment must be made with reasonable diligence.

Rev., s. 2230; 1899, c. 733, s. 81.

3063. When presentment may be dispensed with. Presentment for payment is dispensed with (1) where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment as required by this chapter cannot be made; (2) where the drawee is a fictitious person; (3) by waiver of presentment, express or implied.

Rev., s. 2231; 1899, c. 733, s. 82.

Waiver of presentment: Caldwell County v. George, 176-602. See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Moore v. Coffield, 12-247.

3064. When instrument dishonored by nonpayment. The instrument is dishonored by nonpayment when (1) it is duly presented for payment and payment is refused or cannot be obtained; or (2) presentment is excused and the instrument is overdue and unpaid.

Rev., s. 2232; 1899, c. 733, s. 83.

3065. Liability of persons secondarily liable when instrument dishonored. Subject to the provisions of this chapter, when the instrument is dishonored by nonpayment, an immediate right of recourse to all parties secondarily liable thereon accrues to the holder.

Rev., s. 2233; 1899, c. 733, s. 84.

3066. Time of maturity. Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace, except as allowed by the succeeding section. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday or a holiday the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day.

Rev., s. 2234; 1899, c. 733, s. 85; 1907, c. 897; 1909, c. 800, s. 1.

3067. When days of grace allowed. All bills of exchange payable within the state, at sight, in which there is an express stipulation to that effect and not otherwise, shall be entitled to days of grace as the same are allowed by the custom of merchants on foreign bills of exchange payable at the expiration of a certain period after date or sight, but no days of grace shall be allowed on any bill of exchange, promissory note, or draft payable on demand.

Rev., s. 2235; Code, s. 43; 1905, c. 327; 1907, c. 861.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, Jarvis v. McMain and Simmons, 10-10; Fields v. Mallett, 10-465.

3068. How time is computed. Where the instrument is payable at a fixed period after date, after sight, or after the happening of a specified event, the time of payment is determined by excluding the day from which the time is to begin to run and by including the date of payment.

Rev., s. 2236; 1899, c. 733, s. 86.

3069. Rule where instrument is payable at bank. Where the instrument is made payable at a bank it is equivalent to an order to the bank to pay the same for the account of the principal debtor thereon.

Rev., s. 2237; 1899, c. 733, s. 87.

Note payable at bank is an order on the bank, and where the maker by express indorsement directs the bank to charge it to his account, the bank is liable, if the maker had the money in bank: Peaslee v. Dixon, 172-411. Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3070. What constitutes payment in due course. Payment is made in due course when it is made at or after the maturity of the instrument to the holder thereof in good faith and without notice that his title is defective.

Rev., s. 2238; 1899, c. 733, s. 88.

ART. 8. NOTICE OF DISHONOR

3071. To whom notice of dishonor must be given. Except as herein otherwise provided, when a negotiable instrument has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment, notice of dishonor must be given to the drawer and to each indorser, and any drawer or indorser to whom such notice is not given is discharged.

Rev., s. 2239; 1899, c. 733, s. 89.

Where instrument dishonored, notice must be given to all who are secondarily liable as drawer and indorser: Horton v. Wilson, 175-533; Barber v. Absher, 175-602; Bank v. Bradley, 117-526; Mauney v. Coit, 80-300; Long v. Stephenson, 72-569; Lilly v. Pettaway, 73-361; Yancey v. Littlejohn, 9-525; Austin v. Rodman, 8-194. Notice of dishonor must be given to an anomalous indorser: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. Notice of dishonor must be given without regard to the solvency of the drawer or maker: Bank v. Trust Co., 177-254—and indorsers must have notice of dishonor even though at time of indorsement of instrument they had reason to believe and did believe that the instrument would not be paid by maker, Denny v. Palmer, 27-610—but surety upon instrument not discharged from liability by reason of fact that he was not given notice of its dishonor, Rouse v. Wooten, 140-557. Section cited: Bank v. Johnson, 169-526.
As to whether a party who indorses a note in blank at time the note is made is primarily or secondarily liable, see Lilly v. Baker, 88-154. As bearing upon section, see Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134; Spear v. Atkinson, 23-262; Bissell v. Bozman, 17-154.

3072. By whom notice given. The notice may be given by or on behalf of the holder or by or on behalf of any party to the instrument who might be compelled to pay to the holder, and who upon taking it up would have a right to reimbursement from the party to whom notice is given.

Rey., s. 2240; 1899, c. 733, s. 90.

Any person through whose hands instrument may have passed may give notice to drawer or prior indorser of dishonor of same: Bank v. Seawell, 9-560—although instrument may not at that time have been taken up by him, Ibid.

3073. Notice given by agent. Notice of dishonor may be given by an agent either in his own name or in the name of any party entitled to give notice, whether that party be his principal or not.

Rey., s. 2241; 1899, c. 733, s. 91.

3074. Effect of notice given on behalf of holder. Where notice is given by or on behalf of the holder, it inures to the benefit of all subsequent holders and all prior parties who have a right of recourse against the party to whom it is given.

Rey., s. 2242; 1899, c. 733, s. 92.

3075. Effect, where notice is given by party entitled thereto. Where notice is given by or on behalf of a party entitled to give notice it inures to the benefit of the holder and all parties subsequent to the party by whom notice is given.

Rey., s. 2243; 1899, c. 733, s. 93.

3076. When agent may give notice. Where the instrument has been dishonored in the hands of an agent he may either himself give notice to the parties liable thereon or he may give notice to his principal. If he give notice to his principal he must do so within the same time as if he were the holder, and the principal upon the receipt of such notice has himself the same time for giving notice as if the agent had been an independent holder.

Rey., s. 2244; 1899, c. 733, s. 94.

3077. When notice sufficient. A written notice need not be signed and an insufficient written notice may be supplemented and validated by verbal communication. A misdescription of the instrument does not vitiate it unless the party to whom the notice is given is in fact misled thereby.

Rey., s. 2245; 1899, c. 733, s. 95.

Notice may be signed or unsigned: Bank v. Seawell, 9-560—and need not be in any particular form, Ibid.

3078. Form of notice. The notice may be in writing or merely oral, and may be given in any terms which sufficiently identify the instrument and indicate that it has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. It may in all cases be given by delivering it personally or through the mails.

Rey., s. 2246; 1899, c. 733, s. 96.

Notice is good if it be sufficient to put indorser upon inquiry: Bank v. Seawell, 9-560—and no particular form is required, as it may be oral or written or in print, Ibid.
3079. To whom notice may be given. Notice of dishonor may be given either to the party himself or to his agent in that behalf.

Rev., s. 2247; 1899, c. 733, s. 97.

3080. Notice when party is dead. When any party is dead and his death is known to the party giving notice, the notice must be given to a personal representative if there be one, and if with reasonable diligence he can be found. If there is no personal representative, notice may be sent to the last residence or last place of business of the deceased.

Rev., s. 2248; 1899, c. 733, s. 98.

3081. Notice to partners. When the parties to be notified are partners, notice to any one partner is notice to the firm, even though there has been a dissolution.

Rev., s. 2249; 1899, c. 733, s. 99.

3082. Notice to persons jointly liable. Notice to joint parties who are not partners must be given to each of them unless one of them has authority to receive such notice for the others.

Rev., s. 2250; 1899, c. 733, s. 100.

3083. Notice to bankrupt. Where a party has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, notice may be given either to the party himself or to his trustee or assignee.

Rev., s. 2251; 1899, c. 733, s. 101.

3084. Time within which notice must be given. Notice may be given as soon as the instrument is dishonored, and, unless delay is excused as hereinafter provided, must be given within the times fixed by this chapter.

Rev., s. 2252; 1899, c. 733, s. 102.

See sections 3085, 3086.

3085. Notice where parties reside in the same place. When the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in same place notice must be given within the following times: (1) If given at the place of business of the person to receive notice it must be given before the close of business hours on the day following; (2) if given at his residence it must be given before the usual hours of rest on the day following; (3) if sent by mail it must be deposited in the postoffice in time to reach him in the usual course on the day following.

Rev., s. 2253; 1899, c. 733, s. 103.

See, as bearing upon subject-matter of section, State Bank v. Smith, 7-70.

3086. Notice where parties reside in different places. Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in different places the notice must be given within the following times: (1) If sent by mail it must be deposited in the postoffice in time to go by mail the day following the day of dishonor, or if there be no mail at a convenient hour on that day, by the next mail thereafter; (2) if given otherwise than through the postoffice, then within the time that notice would have been received in due course of mail if it had been deposited in the postoffice within the time specified in the last subdivision.

Rev., s. 2254; 1899, c. 733, s. 104.

Where parties live in different places, holder must give notice of nonacceptance or nonpayment on next day: Hubbard v. Troy, 24-134—or by next post after day of dishonor, Bank v.
3087. When sender deemed to have given due notice. Where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the postoffice the sender is deemed to have given due notice, notwithstanding any miscarriage in the mails.

Rev., s. 2255; 1899, c. 733, s. 105.

3088. What constitutes deposit in postoffice. Notice is deemed to have been deposited in the postoffice when deposited in any branch postoffice or in any letter-box under the control of the postoffice department.

Rev., s. 2256; 1899, c. 733, s. 106.

3089. Time of notice to antecedent parties. Where a party receives notice of dishonor he has, after the receipt of such notice, the same time for giving notice to antecedent parties that the holder has after the dishonor.

Rev., s. 2257; 1899, c. 733, s. 107.

3090. Where notice must be sent. Where a party has added an address to his signature, notice of dishonor must be sent to that address; but if he has not given such address, then the notice must be sent as follows: (1) Either to the postoffice nearest to his place of residence or to the postoffice where he is accustomed to receive his letters; or (2) if he lives in one place and has his place of business in another, notice may be sent to either place; or (3) if he be sojourning in another place notice may be sent to the place where he is sojourning. But where the notice is actually received by the party within the time specified in this chapter it will be sufficient, though not sent in accordance with requirements of this section.

Rev., s. 2258; 1899, c. 733, s. 108.

Notice of dishonor should be sent to postoffice nearest to party's address: Bank of U. S. v. Lane, 10-453—or to place of his residence, Denny v. Palmer, 27-610—but where drawer of instrument dates it at a particular place, notice of dishonor of instrument may generally be directed to him at that place, Ibid. See, as bearing upon section, Runyon v. Montfort, 44-371.

3091. Waiver of notice. Notice of dishonor may be waived either before the time of giving notice has arrived or after the omission to give due notice, and the waiver may be express or implied.

Rev., s. 2259; 1899, c. 733, s. 109.

By indorsing a note which contains an express waiver as to extension of time, the indorser waives the right of notice of dishonor: Bank v. Johnston, 169-526. Although protest not necessary on inland bills, yet its waiver in such cases is construed to signify as much as when applied to foreign bills: Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535—and where protest waived on inland bill and no notice given of nonacceptance and nonpayment to indorsers, held that such notice was waived by waiver of protest, Ibid. Where indorsee neglects to give notice, drawer or indorser will still be liable if with knowledge of all facts he promises to pay instrument: Lilly v. Petteway, 73-358; Moore v. Tucker, 25-347. For waiver of notice by conduct, see Shaw v. McNeill, 95-535.

3092. Who affected by waiver. Where the waiver is embodied in the instrument itself it is binding upon all parties, but where it is written above the signature of an indorser it binds him only.

Rev., s. 2260; 1899, c. 733, s. 110.

3093. Waiver of protest. A waiver of protest, whether in the case of a foreign bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, is deemed to be a waiver not only of a formal protest, but also of a presentment and notice of dishonor.

Rev., s. 2261; 1899, c. 733, s. 111.

Where protest waived on foreign bill, presentment and notice deemed to be waived also: Shaw v. McNeil, 95-535—and notice of dishonor on inland bill is waived by waiver of protest, Ibid.—but where settling partner, after dissolution of firm, gives instrument in payment of partnership debt, he cannot waive protest so as to bind former copartner, Mauney v. Coit, 80-300—especially where latter has been a dormant member, Ibid. Protest only necessary in case of foreign bills: Shaw v. McNeil, 95-535, and cases under section 3134.

3094. When notice is dispensed with. Notice of dishonor is dispensed with when, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, it cannot be given to or does not reach the parties sought to be charged.

Rev., s. 2262; 1899, c. 733, s. 112.

As bearing upon subject-matter of section, see Runyon v. Montfort, 44-371.

3095. Delay in giving notice. Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, notice must be given with reasonable diligence.

Rev., s. 2263; 1899, c. 733, s. 113.

3096. When notice need not be given to drawer. Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to the drawer in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawer and the drawee are the same person; (2) where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract; (3) where the drawer is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; (4) where the drawer has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will honor the instrument; (5) where the drawer has countermanded payment.

Rev., s. 2264; 1899, c. 733, s. 114.

Generally, if drawer of instrument has no reasonable grounds to expect it to be honored, holder is not bound to give notice of dishonor, but if drawer has funds in hands of drawee he has right to expect instrument to be honored, and drawer is entitled to strict notice of instrument dishonored, although drawer knew, or had reason to believe, when instrument was drawn, that drawer was insolvent: Cedar Falls v. Wallace, 83-225.

3097. When notice need not be given to indorser. Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to an indorser in either of the following cases; (1) Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, and the indorser was aware of the fact at the time he indorsed the instrument; (2) where the indorser is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; (3) where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation.

Rev., s. 2265; 1899, c. 733, s. 115.

Although, at time of indorsement, indorser believed that instrument would not be paid by maker, such circumstance does not dispense with necessity of due notice: Denny v. Palmer, 27-610.

As to whether party to be treated as indorser or as one primarily liable when he indorses paper at time of its execution, see Lilly v. Baker, 88-154; section 3044.

3098. Notice of nonpayment where acceptance refused. Where due notice of dishonor by nonacceptance has been given, notice of a subsequent dishonor by nonpayment is not necessary unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted.

Rev., s. 2266; 1899, c. 733, s. 116.

3099. Effect of omission to give notice of nonacceptance. An omission to give notice of dishonor by nonacceptance does not prejudice the rights of a holder in due course subsequent to the omission.

Rev., s. 2267; 1899, c. 733, s. 117.

3100. When protest need not be made; when it must be made. Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for nonacceptance or nonpayment as the case may be, but protest is not required except in the case of foreign bills of exchange.

Rev., s. 2268; 1899, c. 733, s. 118.

ART. 9. DISCHARGE

3101. How instrument discharged. A negotiable instrument is discharged (1) by payment in due course by or on behalf of the principal debtor; (2) by payment in due course by the party accommodated, where the instrument is made or accepted for accommodation; (3) by the intentional cancellation thereof by the holder; (4) by any other act which will discharge a simple contract for the payment of money; (5) when the principal debtor becomes the holder of the instrument at or after maturity in his own right.

Rev., s. 2269; 1899, c. 733, s. 119.

3102. Discharge of person secondarily liable. A person secondarily liable on the instrument is discharged (1) by any act which discharges the instrument; (2) by the intentional cancellation of his signature by the holder; (3) by the discharge of a prior party; (4) by a valid tender of payment made by a prior party; (5) by a release of the principal debtor, unless the holder’s right of recourse against the party secondarily liable is expressly reserved; (6) by any agreement binding upon the holder to extend the time of payment or to postpone the holder’s right to enforce the instrument, unless made with the assent of the party secondarily liable or unless the right of recourse against such party is expressly reserved.

Rev., s. 2270; 1899, c. 733, s. 120.

3103. Right of party paying instrument. When the instrument is paid by a party secondarily liable thereon it is not discharged; but the party so paying it is remitted to his former rights as regards all prior parties, and he may strike out his own and all subsequent indorsements, and again negotiate the instrument, except (1) where it is payable to the order of the third person and has been paid by the drawer; and (2) where it was made or accepted for accommodation and has been paid by the party accommodated.

Rev., s. 2271; 1899, c. 733, s. 121.
Person secondarily liable may pay note and sue principal, or give notice to holder to sue: Roberson v. Spain, 173-23. Indorser who pays instrument of principal can only recover from latter amount actually paid: Pace v. Robertson, 65-550. Where instrument payable to order of third person is protested and taken up by drawer, latter cannot again put it into circulation: Price v. Sharp, 24-417.

3104. Renunciation by holder. The holder may expressly renounce his rights against any party to the instrument before, at or after its maturity. An absolute and unconditional renunciation of his rights against the principal debtor made at or after the maturity of the instrument discharges the instrument. But a renunciation does not affect the rights of a holder in due course without notice. A renunciation must be in writing, unless the instrument is delivered up to the person primarily liable thereon.

Rev., s. 2272; 1899, c. 733, s. 122.

3105. Unintentional cancellation; burden of proof. A cancellation made unintentionally or under a mistake or without the authority of the holder is inoperative, but where an instrument or any signature thereon appears to have been canceled the burden of proof lies on the party who alleges that the cancellation was made unintentionally or under a mistake or without authority.

Rev., s. 2273; 1899, c. 733, s. 123.

3106. Effect of alteration of instrument. Where a negotiable instrument is materially altered without the assent of all parties liable thereon, it is avoided except as against a party who has himself made, authorized or assented to the alteration, and subsequent indorsers. But when an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder in due course not a party to the alteration he may enforce payment thereof according to its original tenor.

Rev., s. 2274; 1899, c. 733, s. 124.

Material alteration vacates a bill or note except as between parties consenting thereto: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424—and such alteration by principal without knowledge or consent of surety discharges such surety from instrument: Darwin v. Rippey, 63-318.

3107. What constitutes a material alteration. Any alteration which changes (1) the date; (2) the sum payable either for principal or interest; (3) the time or place of payment; (4) the number or the relation of the parties; (5) the medium or currency in which payment is to be made; or which adds a place of payment where no place of payment is specified, or any other change or addition which alters the effect of the instrument in any respect, is a material alteration.

Rev., s. 2275; 1899, c. 733, s. 125.

Cutting off name of maker of instrument and substituting another is material alteration: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424—as is addition of words “in specie” after word “dollars” in sealed instrument, Darwin v. Rippey, 63-318—but held that prefixing of words “Pleasant Valley, S. C.,” to instrument was not material alteration, Houston v. Potts, 64-33.

Art. 10. Bills of Exchange

3108. Bill of exchange defined. A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing, addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer.

Rev., s. 2276; 1899, c. 733, s. 126.

For "acceptance" by banks and trust companies, see section 222.

3109. Bill not an assignment of funds in hands of drawee. A bill of itself does not operate as an assignment of the funds in the hands of the drawee available for the payment thereof, and the drawee is not liable on the bill unless and until he accepts the same.

Rev., s. 2277; 1899, c. 733, s. 127.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112. See annotations under section 3171.

3110. Bill addressed to more than one drawee. A bill may be addressed to two or more drawees jointly, whether they are partners or not, but not to two or more drawees in the alternative or in succession.

Rev., s. 2278; 1899, c. 733, s. 128.

3111. Inland and foreign bills of exchange. An inland bill of exchange is a bill which is or on its face purports to be both drawn and payable within this state. Any other bill is a foreign bill. Unless the contrary appears on the face of the bill the holder may treat it as an inland bill.

Rev., s. 2279; 1899, c. 733, s. 129.

When check drawn on bank is an inland bill of exchange: Sherrill v. Trust Co., 176-591.

3112. When bill may be treated as promissory note. Where in a bill drawer and drawee are the same person, or where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, the holder may treat the instrument, at his option, either as a bill of exchange or a promissory note.

Rev., s. 2280; 1899, c. 733, s. 130.

When drawer and drawee are the same person, holder may treat the instrument as a bill of exchange or a note: Sherrill v. Trust Co., 176-591.

3113. Referee in case of need. The drawer of a bill and any indorser may insert thereon the name of a person to whom the holder may resort in case of need: that is to say, in case the bill is dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. Such person is called the referee in case of need. It is in the option of the holder to resort to the referee in case of need or not, as he may see fit.

Rev., s. 2281; 1899, c. 733, s. 131.

ART. 11. ACCEPTANCE

3114. Acceptance defined; how made. The acceptance of a bill is the signification by the drawee of his assent to the order of the drawer. The acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawee. It must not express that the drawee will perform his promise by any other means than the payment of money.

Rev., s. 2282; 1899, c. 733, s. 132.

Authority to accept instruments must ordinarily be expressly conferred upon agent: Bank v. Hay, 143:326—but may be implied if the execution of the paper is necessary incident to business, Ibid.

3115. Holder entitled to acceptance on face of bill. The holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill, and if such request is refused, may treat the bill as dishonored.

Rev., s. 2283; 1899, c. 733, s. 133.
3116. Acceptance by separate instrument. Where an acceptance is written on a paper other than the bill itself it does not bind the acceptor except in favor of a person to whom it is shown and who, on the faith thereof, receives the bill for value.

Rev., s. 2254; 1899, c. 733, s. 134.

Letter written within reasonable time before or after date of instrument, describing it in terms not to be mistaken and promising to accept it, if shown to person who afterwards takes instrument on credit of the letter, is an acceptance of same: Bank v. Hay, 143-326; Nimocks v. Woody, 97-5.

3117. When promise to accept equivalent to acceptance. An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of every person who, upon the faith thereof, receives the bill for value.

Rev., s. 2255; 1899, c. 733, s. 135.

3118. Time allowed drawee to accept. The drawee is allowed twenty-four hours after presentment in which to decide whether or not he will accept the bill, but the acceptance, if given, dates as of the day of presentation.

Rev., s. 2256; 1899, c. 733, s. 136.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3119. Liability of drawee retaining or destroying bill. Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or nonaccepted to the holder, he will be deemed to have accepted the same.

Rev., s. 2257; 1899, c. 733, s. 137.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3120. Acceptance of incomplete bill. A bill may be accepted before it has been signed by the drawer or while otherwise incomplete, or when it is overdue, or after it has been dishonored by a previous refusal to accept, or by nonpayment. But when a bill payable after sight is dishonored by nonacceptance and the drawee subsequently accepts it, the holder, in the absence of any different agreement, is entitled to have the bill accepted as of the date of the first presentation.

Rev., s. 2258; 1899, c. 733, s. 138.

3121. Kinds of acceptances. An acceptance is either general or qualified. A general acceptance assents without qualification to the order of the drawer. A qualified acceptance in express terms varies the effect of the bill as drawn.

Rev., s. 2259; 1899, c. 733, s. 139.

For qualified acceptance, see Wallace v. Douglass, 116-659.

3122. What constitutes a general acceptance. An acceptance to pay at a particular place is a general acceptance unless it expressly states that the bill is to be paid there only, and not elsewhere.

Rev., s. 2260; 1899, c. 733, s. 140.
3123. What constitutes a qualified acceptance. An acceptance is qualified which is (1) conditional; that is to say, which makes payment by the acceptor dependent on the fulfillment of a condition therein stated; (2) partial; that is to say, an acceptance to pay part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn; (3) local; that is to say, an acceptance to pay only at a particular place; (4) qualified as to time; (5) the acceptance of some one or more of the drawees, but not of all.

Rev., s. 2291; 1899, c. 733, s. 141.

Where person accepts instrument drawn on him "payable when I receive funds to use of drawer" he becomes liable when moneys are placed to his credit, though he had not taken manual possession thereof: Wallace v. Douglass, 116-659.

3124. Rights of parties as to qualified acceptance. The holder may refuse to take a qualified acceptance, and if he does not obtain an unqualified acceptance he may treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance. When a qualified acceptance is taken the drawer and indorsers are discharged from liability on the bill unless they have expressly or impliedly authorized the holder to take a qualified acceptance or subsequently assent thereto. When the drawer or an indorser receives notice of a qualified acceptance he must, within a reasonable time, express his dissent to the holder or he will be deemed to have assented thereto.

Rev., s. 2292; 1899, c. 733, s. 142.

ART. 12. PRESENTMENT FOR ACCEPTANCE

3125. When presentment for acceptance must be made. Presentment for acceptance must be made (1) where the bill is payable after sight, or in any other case where presentment for acceptance is necessary in order to fix the maturity of the instrument; or (2) where the bill expressly stipulates that it shall be presented for acceptance; or (3) where the bill is drawn payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee. In no other case is presentment for acceptance necessary in order to render any party to the bill liable.

Rev., s. 2293; 1899, c. 733, s. 143.

3126. Failure to present in reasonable time discharges drawer and indorsers. Except as herein otherwise provided the holder of a bill which is required by the next preceding section to be presented for acceptance must either present it for acceptance or negotiate it within a reasonable time. If he fail to do so the drawer and all indorsers are discharged.

Rev., s. 2294; 1899, c. 733, s. 144.

3127. How presentment made. Presentment for acceptance must be made by or on behalf of the holder, at a reasonable hour on a business day and before the bill is overdue, to the drawer or some person authorized to accept or refuse acceptance on his behalf; and (1) where a bill is addressed to two or more drawees who are not partners, presentment must be made to them all, unless one has authority to accept or refuse acceptance for all, in which case presentment may be made to him only; (2) where the drawee is dead, presentment may be made to his personal representative; (3) where the drawee has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, presentment may be made to him or to his trustee or assignee.

Rev., s. 2295; 1899, c. 733, s. 145.

Instrument payable at no particular place in city or town must be presented at maker’s residence or place of business: Bank v. Lutterloh, 95-495; Wittkowski v. Smith, 84-671.

3128. On what days presentment may be made. A bill may be presented for acceptance on any day on which negotiable instruments may be presented for payment under the provisions of this chapter.

Rev., s. 2296; 1899, c. 733, s. 146; 1909, c. 500, s. 1.

3129. Presentment where time is insufficient. Where the holder of a bill drawn payable elsewhere than at the place of business or the residence of the drawee has not time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to present the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment on the day that it falls due, the delay caused by presenting the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment is excused and does not discharge the drawers and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2297; 1899, c. 733, s. 147.

3130. Where presentment is excused. Presentment for acceptance is excused and a bill may be treated as dishonored by nonacceptance in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawee is dead or has absconded or is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract by bill; (2) where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment cannot be made; (3) where, although presentment has been irregular, acceptance has been refused on some ground.

Rev., s. 2298; 1899, c. 733, s. 148.

3131. When dishonored by nonacceptance. A bill is dishonored by nonacceptance (1) when it is duly presented for acceptance and such an acceptance as is prescribed in this chapter is refused or cannot be obtained; or (2) when a presentment for acceptance is executed and the bill is not accepted.

Rev., s. 2299; 1899, c. 733, s. 149.

3132. Duty of holder, where bill not accepted. Where a bill is duly presented for acceptance and is not accepted within the prescribed time, the person presenting it must treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance or he loses the right of recourse against the drawer and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2300; 1899, c. 733, s. 150.

3133. Rights of holder, where bill not accepted. When a bill is dishonored by nonacceptance an immediate right of recourse against the drawers and indorsers accrues to the holder, and no presentment for payment is necessary.

Rev., s. 2301; 1899, c. 733, s. 151.

Art. 13. Protest

3134. In what cases protest necessary. Where a foreign bill appearing on its face to be such is dishonored by nonacceptance, it must be duly protested for nonacceptance; and where such a bill which had not previously been dishonored by nonacceptance is dishonored by nonpayment, it must be duly protested for nonpayment. If it is not so protested the drawer and indorsers are discharged.

Where a bill does not appear on its face to be a foreign bill, protest in case of dishonor is unnecessary.

Rev., s. 2302; 1899, c. 733, s. 152.

Note executed in another state need not be protested before owner can sue indorser, such protest not being necessary in this state, and there being no evidence that protest required in state where note executed: Bank v. Carr, 130-479—for that common law presumed to prevail in other state, and required no protest on this note, Ibid.; Gooch v. Faucett, 122-270; Moody v. Johnson, 112-801.

By the law merchant protest of bill by notary public is in itself evidence: Gordon v. Price, 32-385.

3135. How protest made. The protest must be annexed to the bill or must contain a copy thereof, and must be under the hand and seal of the notary making it, and must specify (1) the time and place of presentment; (2) the fact that presentment was made and the manner thereof; (3) the cause or reason for protesting the bill; (4) the demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee or acceptor could not be found.

Rev., s. 2303; 1899, c. 733, s. 153.

Decision prior to enactment of statute as to sufficiency of protest: Bank v. Lutterloh, 95-495.

3136. By whom protest made. Protest may be made by (1) a notary public; or (2) by any respectable resident of the place where the bill is dishonored, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses.

Rev., s. 2304; 1899, c. 733, s. 154.

3137. When protest to be made. When a bill is protested, such protest must be made on the day of its dishonor, unless delay is excused as herein provided. When a bill has been duly noted the protest may be subsequently extended as of the date of the noting.

Rev., s. 2305; 1899, c. 733, s. 155.

3138. Where protest made. A bill must be protested at the place where it is dishonored, except that when a bill drawn payable at the place of business or residence of some person other than the drawee has been dishonored by nonacceptance it must be protested for nonpayment at the place where it is expressed to be payable, and no further presentment for payment to or demand on the drawee is necessary.

Rev., s. 2306; 1899, c. 733, s. 156.

3139. Protest both for nonacceptance and nonpayment. A bill which has been protested for nonacceptance may be subsequently protested for nonpayment.

Rev., s. 2307; 1899, c. 733, s. 157.

3140. Protest before maturity, where acceptor insolvent. Where the acceptor has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors before the bill matures, the holder may cause the bill to be protested for better security against the drawer and indorsers.

Rev., s. 2308; 1899, c. 733, s. 158.
