3141. When protest dispensed with. Protest is dispensed with by any circumcumstances which would dispense with notice of dishonor. Delay in noting or protesting is excused when delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, the bill must be noted or protested with reasonable diligence.
Rev., s. 2309; 1899, c. 733, s. 159.

3142. Protest where bill is lost. Where a bill is lost or destroyed or is wrongly detained from the person entitled to hold it, protest may be made on a copy or written particulars thereof.
Rev., s. 2310; 1899, c. 733, s. 160.

ART. 14. ACCEPTANCE FOR HONOR

3143. When a bill may be accepted for honor. Where a bill of exchange has been protested for dishonor by nonacceptance or protested for better security, and is not overdue, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, intervene and accept the bill supra protest for the honor of any party liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account the bill is drawn. The acceptance for honor may be part only of the sum for which the bill is drawn, and where there has been an acceptance for honor for one party there may be a further acceptance by a different person for the honor of another party.
Rev., s. 2311; 1899, c. 733, s. 161.

3144. How acceptance for honor made. An acceptance for honor supra protest must be in writing and indicate that it is an acceptance for honor, and must be signed by the acceptor for honor.
Rev., s. 2312; 1899, c. 733, s. 162.

3145. When deemed an acceptance for honor of drawer. Where an acceptance for honor does not expressly state for whose honor it is made, it is deemed to be an acceptance for the honor of the drawer.
Rev., s. 2313; 1899, c. 733, s. 163.

3146. Liability of acceptor for honor. The acceptor for honor is liable to the holder and to all parties to the bill subsequent to the party for whose honor he has accepted.
Rev., s. 2314; 1899, c. 733, s. 164.

3147. Agreement of acceptor for honor. The acceptor for honor by such acceptance engages that he will on due presentment pay the bill according to the terms of his acceptance, provided it shall not have been paid by the drawee; and provided, also, that it shall have been duly presented for payment and protested for nonpayment and notice of dishonor given to him.
Rev., s. 2315; 1899, c. 733, s. 165.

3148. Maturity of bill payable after sight accepted for honor. Where a bill payable after sight is accepted for honor its maturity is calculated from the date of the noting for nonacceptance and not from the date of the acceptance for honor.
Rev., s. 2316; 1899, c. 733, s. 166.
3149. Protest of bill accepted for honor. Where a dishonored bill has been accepted for honor supra protest or contains a reference in case of need, it must be protested for nonpayment before it is presented for payment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need.

Rev., s. 2317; 1899, c. 733, s. 167.

3150. How presentment for payment to acceptor for honor made. Presentment for payment to the acceptor for honor must be made as follows: (1) If it is to be presented in the place where the protest for nonpayment was made it must be presented not later than the day following its maturity; (2) if it is to be presented in some other place than the place where it was protested, then it must be forwarded within the time in this chapter specified.

Rev., s. 2318; 1899, c. 733, s. 168.

3151. When delay in making presentment excused. The provisions of section 3062 apply where there is delay in making presentment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need.

Rev., s. 2319; 1899, c. 733, s. 169.

3152. Dishonor of bill by acceptor for honor. When the bill is dishonored by the acceptor for honor it must be protested for nonpayment by him.

Rev., s. 2320; 1899, c. 733, s. 170.

ART. 15. PAYMENT FOR HONOR

3153. Who may make payment for honor. Where a bill has been protested for nonpayment any person may intervene and pay it supra protest for the honor of any person liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account it was drawn.

Rev., s. 2321; 1899, c. 733, s. 171.

3154. How payment for honor must be made. The payment for honor supra protest in order to operate as such and not as a mere voluntary payment must be attested by a notarial act of honor, which may be appended to the protest or form an extension to it.

Rev., s. 2322; 1899, c. 733, s. 172.

3155. Declaration before payment for honor. The notarial act of honor must be founded on a declaration made by the payer for honor or by his agent in that behalf declaring his intention to pay the bill for honor and for whose honor he pays.

Rev., s. 2323; 1899, c. 733, s. 173.

3156. Preference of parties offering to pay for honor. Where two or more persons offer to pay a bill for the honor of different parties the person whose payment will discharge most parties to the bill is to be given the preference.

Rev., s. 2324; 1899, c. 733, s. 174.

3157. Effect on subsequent parties, where bill is paid for honor. Where a bill has been paid for honor all parties subsequent to the party for whose honor it is paid are discharged, but the payer for honor is subrogated for and succeeds to both the rights and duties of the holder as regards the party for whose honor he pays and all parties liable to the latter.

Rev., s. 2325; 1899, c. 733, s. 175.

3158. Where holder refuses to receive payment supra protest. Where the holder of a bill refuses to receive payment supra protest he loses his right of recourse against any party who would have been discharged by such payment.

Rev., s. 2326; 1899, c. 733, s. 176.

3159. Rights of payer for honor. The payer for honor on paying to the holder the amount of the bill and the notarial expenses incidental to its dishonor is entitled to receive both the bill itself and the protest.

Rev., s. 2327; 1899, c. 733, s. 177.

ART. 16. BILLS IN A SET

3160. Bills in a set constitute one bill. Where a bill is drawn in a set, each part of the set being numbered and containing a reference to the other parts, the whole of the parts constitute one bill.

Rev., s. 2328; 1899, c. 733, s. 178.

3161. Rights of holders, where different parts are negotiated. Where two or more parts of a set are negotiated to different holders in due course the holder whose title first accrues is, as between such holders, the true owner of the bill. But nothing in this section affects the rights of a person who in due course accepts or pays the part first presented to him.

Rev., s. 2329; 1899, c. 733, s. 179.

3162. Liability of holder who indorses two or more parts of a set to different persons. Where the holder of a set indorses two or more parts to different persons he is liable on every such part, and every indorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself indorsed as if such parts were separate bills.

Rev., s. 2330; 1899, c. 733, s. 180.

3163. Acceptance of bills drawn in sets. The acceptance may be written on any part, and it must be written on one part only. If the drawee accepts more than one part, and such accepted parts are negotiated to different holders in due course, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill.

Rev., s. 2331; 1899, c. 733, s. 181.

3164. Payment by acceptor of bills drawn in sets. When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a holder in due course, he is liable to the holder thereon.

Rev., s. 2332; 1899, c. 733, s. 182.

3165. Effect of discharging one of a set. Except as herein otherwise provided where any one part of a bill drawn in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise the whole bill is discharged.

Rev., s. 2333; 1899, c. 733, s. 183.
ART. 17. PROMISSORY NOTES AND CHECKS

3166. Negotiable promissory note defined. A negotiable promissory note within the meaning of this chapter is an unconditional promise in writing made by one person to another, signed by the maker, engaging to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. Where a note is drawn to the maker’s own order it is not complete until indorsed by him.

Rev., s. 2334; 1899, c. 733, s. 184.

Definition of promissory note: Perry v. Taylor, 148-362. To be negotiable the note must be payable to order or bearer: Newland v. Moore, 173-728; Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47. Note is not rendered nonnegotiable by reason of the fact that it is under seal: Christian v. Parrott, 114-215; Bank v. Michael, 96-53. Validity of note not affected because it sets out consideration for which given: Bank v. Michael, 96-53. To render a note nonnegotiable it must show upon its face that promise to pay is conditional, or the amount to be paid is uncertain: Ibid.; see, also, sections 2982-2987.

3167. Check defined. A check is a bill of exchange drawn on a bank payable on demand. Except as herein otherwise provided the provisions of this chapter that are applicable to a bill of exchange payable on demand apply to a check.

Cashier’s checks, whether certified or otherwise, are classed with bills of exchange payable on demand: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102—and stipulation stamped upon face of check that it will positively not be paid to a certain company or its agents, is valid stipulation and binding upon holder, Bank v. Bank, 118-783.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3168. Within what time a check must be presented. A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay.

Rev., s. 2336; 1899, c. 733, s. 186.

If check negotiated by indorsement for value without notice and within reasonable time, holder can maintain position of holder in due course: Mfg. Co. v. Summers, 143-102. Holder of check upon bank, drawn before but presented after bank’s assignment for benefit of creditors, is not entitled to amount thereof as against assignee: Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-196.

Holder of check upon bank located in town of residence may present same for payment on day after it is drawn, unless holder had information of its precarious condition: Bank v. Alexander, 84-30.

For discussion of rights of holder as against bank, drawer of check and assignee of bank, see Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-196; see, also, section 3171.

Section referred to: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112.

3169. Effect of certification of check. Where a check is certified by the bank on which it is drawn the certification is equivalent to an acceptance.

Rev., s. 2337; 1899, c. 733, s. 187.

3170. Effect, where holder of check procures it to be certified. Where the holder of a check procures it to be accepted or certified the drawer and all indorsers are discharged from liability thereon.

Rev., s. 2338; 1899, c. 733, s. 188.

Having a check certified is an acceptance by the holder: Drewry v. Davis, 151-295.
3171. Check not assignment of funds. A check of itself does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder unless and until it accepts or certifies the check.

Rev., s. 2339; 1899, c. 733, s. 189.

Depositor is creditor of bank, his deposit becoming part of general fund, the property of bank, and subject to assignment by bank: Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-196—and though holder of check is, to the extent of his check, assignee of depositor's debt due him by bank, yet he has no lien upon deposit for amount of check, though payee or holder of check has an interest in deposit as against drawer, subject to bank's right to pay outstanding checks before notice, Ibid.

Giving of check upon bank is not, unless it is accepted by bank, an assignment of claim of depositor, and passes no title, legal or equitable, to his money on deposit in such bank: Perry v. Bank, 131-117. Action cannot be sustained against bank by payee of check unless check is accepted or certified by bank: Trust Co. v. Bank, 166-112; Perry v. Bank, 131-119; Bank v. Bank, 118-783; Hawes v. Blackwell, 107-202—though drawer has funds on deposit sufficient for its payment against which bank has no claim, Perry v. Bank, 131-117.

3172. Appointment and commission; term of office. The governor may, from time to time, at his discretion, appoint one or more fit persons in every county to act as notaries public, and shall issue to each a commission. They shall hold their office for two years from and after the date of their appointment.

3175. Powers of notaries. Notaries public, in and out of the state, have power to take and certify the acknowledgment or proof of powers of attorney, mortgages, deeds and other instruments of writing, to take depositions and to administer oaths and affirmations in matters incident or belonging to the duties of their office, and to take affidavits to be used before a court, judge or other officer, within the state, and have power to take the privy examination of feomes covert.

3176. May exercise powers in any county.

3177. Expiration of commission to be stated after signature.

3178. Fees of notaries.

3179. Notarial seal.

3172. Appointment and commission; term of office. The governor may, from time to time, at his discretion, appoint one or more fit persons in every county to act as notaries public, and shall issue to each a commission. They shall hold their office for two years from and after the date of their appointment.

3175. Powers of notaries. Notaries public, in and out of the state, have power to take and certify the acknowledgment or proof of powers of attorney, mortgages, deeds and other instruments of writing, to take depositions and to administer oaths and affirmations in matters incident or belonging to the duties of their office, and to take affidavits to be used before a court, judge or other officer, within the state, and have power to take the privy examination of feomes covert.
see, also, State v. Knight, 169-333. Registration upon an acknowledgment before an officer not authorized to take it is not even notice to creditors and subsequent purchasers: Long v. Crews, 113-256, and cases cited; see, also, Bank v. Redwine, 171-559.

An officer interested in a deed, either as party, trustee or cestui que trust, is disqualified to take acknowledgment of its execution: Long v. Crews, 113-256; Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Joines v. Johnson, 133-487; McAllister v. Purcell, 124-262; Blanton v. Bostic, 126-421; Land Co. v. Jennett, 128-3; Freeman v. Person, 106-251; but see Trenwith v. Smallwood, 111-132. The fact that officer taking acknowledgment or proof is employed by grantee does not invalidate unless such officer has an interest in it himself: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Bank v. Ireland, 122-571.

3176. May exercise powers in any county. Notaries public have full power and authority to perform the functions of their office in any and all counties of the state, and full faith and credit shall be given to any of their official acts wherever the same shall be made and done.

3177. Expiration of commission to be stated after signature. Notaries public shall state after each official signature by them the date of the expiration of their commissions; but the failure to do so shall not thereby invalidate their official acts.

Rev., s. 2351a.

3178. Fees of notaries. Notaries public and other persons acting as such shall be allowed the sum of fifty cents for protesting for nonacceptance or for nonpayment, or for both when done at the same time, any order, draft, note, bond or bill or any other thing necessary to be protested, and the sum of ten cents for each notice sent in connection therewith. For other necessary services, where no fee is fixed, they shall be allowed twenty cents for every ninety words. Cases of protest concerning vessels or other cargoes shall not be affected by this section.

Rev., s. 2800; Code, s. 3749; 1889, c. 446; 1895, c. 296; 1903, c. 734.

Fees of notaries are created and regulated entirely by statute: Cider and Vinegar Co. v. Carroll, 124-555.

3179. Notarial seal. Official acts by notaries public shall be attested by their notarial seals.

Rev., s. 2352.

Name is not necessary part of seal: Deans v. Pate, 114-194. Jurat of pleadings without seal is invalid: Tucker v. Life Assn., 112-796.

NUISANCES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALS

3180. What are nuisances under this chapter. Whoever shall erect, establish, continue, maintain, use, own, or lease any building, erection, or place used for the purpose of lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of whiskey is guilty of nuisance, and the building, erection, or place, or the ground itself, in or upon which such lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of liquor is conducted, permitted, or carried on, continued, or exists, and the furniture, fixtures, musical instruments and contents, are also declared a nuisance, and shall be enjoined and abated as hereinafter provided.

3181. Action for abatement; injunction. Whenever a nuisance is kept, maintained, use, own, or lease any building, erection, or place used for the purpose of lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of whiskey is guilty of nuisance, and the building, erection, or place, or the ground itself, in or upon which such lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of liquor is conducted, permitted, or carried on, continued, or exists, and the furniture, fixtures, musical instruments and contents, are also declared a nuisance, and shall be enjoined and abated as hereinafter provided.

3182. When triable; evidence; dismissal of complaint. The action when brought shall be triable at the first term of court after service of the summons has been made, and in such action evidence of the general reputation of the place shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the existence of said nuisance. If the complaint is filed by a citizen, it shall not be dismissed except upon a sworn statement made by the complainant and his attorney, setting forth the reason why the action should be dismissed, and the dismissal approved by the city prosecuting attorney, or solicitor, in writing or in open court. If the court is of the opinion that the action ought not to be dismissed, he may direct the city prosecuting attorney, or the solicitor, to prosecute said action to judgment; and if the action continued more than one term of court, any citizen of the county, or the county attorney, may be substituted for the complaining party and prosecute said action to judgment. If the action is brought by a citizen, and the court finds there was no reasonable ground or cause of said action, the costs may be taxed to such citizen.

Evidence admissible in such cases, see section 4347.

3183. Violation of injunction; punishment. In case of the violation of any injunction granted under the provisions of this chapter, the court, or, in vacation, a judge thereof, may summarily try and punish the offender. A party found guilty of contempt under the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred or more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three or more than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment.

3184. Order abating nuisance; what it shall contain. If the existence of the nuisance be established in an action as provided in this chapter, or in a criminal proceeding, an order of abatement shall be entered as a part of the judgment in the cause, which order shall direct the removal from the building or place of all fixtures, furniture, musical instruments, or movable property used in conducting the nuisance, and shall direct the sale thereof in the manner provided for the sale of chattels under execution, and the effectual closing of the building or place against its use for any purpose, and so keeping it closed for a period of one year, unless sooner released. If any person shall break and enter, or use said building, erection, or place so directed to be closed, he shall be punished as for contempt, as provided in the preceding section. For moving and selling the movable property, the officer shall be entitled to charge and receive the same fees as he would for levying upon and selling like property on execution; and for closing the premises and keeping them closed, a reasonable sum shall be allowed by the court.

For forfeiture of property for violation of statutes, see Daniels v. Homer, 139-219; Skinner v. Thomas, 171-98.

3185. Application of proceeds of sale. The proceeds of the sale of the personal property as provided in the preceding section shall be applied in the payment of the costs of the action and abatement, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the defendant.

3186. How order of abatement may be canceled. If the owner appears and pays all cost of the proceeding and files a bond, with sureties to be approved by the clerk, in the full value of the property, to be ascertained by the court, or, in vacation, by the clerk of the superior court, conditioned that he will immediately abate said nuisance, and prevent the same from being established or kept within a period of one year thereafter, the court may, if satisfied of his good faith, order the premises closed under the order of abatement to be delivered to said owner, and said order of abatement canceled so far as same may relate to said property; and if the proceeding be a civil action, and said bond be given and costs therein paid before judgment and order of abatement, the action shall be thereby abated as to said building only. The release of the property under the provisions of this section shall not release it from any judgment, lien, penalty, or liability to which it may be subject by law.

3187. Attorney's fees may be taxed as costs. The court shall tax as part of the cost in any action brought hereunder such fee for the attorney prosecuting the action or proceedings as may in the court's discretion be reasonable remuneration for the services performed by such attorney.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 32.
CHAPTER 61

OATHS

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

3188. Oaths to be administered with solemnity.
3189. Administration of oath upon the Gospels.
3190. Administration of oath with uplifted hand.
3191. Affirmation of Quakers and others.
3192. Oaths of corporations.
3193. Oath to support constitution of United States; all officers to take.
3194. Oath or affirmation to support state constitution; all officers to take.
3195. When deputies may administer.
3196. Administration by certain officers.
3197. When county surveyors may administer oaths.
3198. Certain oaths validated.

ART. 2. FORMS OF OFFICIAL AND OTHER OATHS.

3199. Oaths of sundry persons; forms.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3188. Oaths to be administered with solemnity. Whereas, lawful oaths for the discovery of truth and establishing right are necessary and highly conducive to the important end of good government; and being most solemn appeals to Almighty God, as the omniscient witness of truth and the just and omnipotent avenger of falsehood, such oaths, therefore, ought to be taken and administered with the utmost solemnity.

Rev. s. 2353; R. C., c. 76, s. 1; 1777, c. 108, s. 2.

This section applies to manner of taking and administering oath, as well as to substance: Pearre v. Folb, 123-239; State v. Davis, 69-383.

One who believes in the existence of a Supreme Being and that God will punish in this world for every sin committed, though he does not believe in punishment after death, is competent to be sworn: Shaw v. Moore, 49-25. For further discussion as to competency of witness to take the oath, see State v. Pitt, 166-258. The ruling of the judge as to competency of witness to take the oath is conclusive: Ibid.

An oath administered to a juror in the manner prescribed by statute is sufficient; the juror need not repeat the words, “So help me, God”: State v. Paylor, 89-539.

The taking of an oath of office is a mere incident and constitutes no part of the office, and the office may exist without it: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-642; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59.

An oath to support the constitution of the state and of the United States is required of officers, but not of placemen: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

No objection after verdict to manner of juror’s oath: State v. Council, 129-517—or to failure to swear a witness, State v. Gee, 92-756—or to swearing of an atheist, State v. Davis, 80-412.

3189. Administration of oath upon the Gospels. Judges and justices of the peace, and other persons who may be empowered to administer oaths, shall (except in the cases in this chapter excepted) require the party sworn to lay his hand upon the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, in token of his engagement to speak the truth, as he hopes to be saved in the way and method of salvation pointed out in that blessed volume; and in further token that, if he should swerve from the truth, he may be justly deprived of all the blessings of the Gospel, and made liable to that vengeance which he has imprecated on his own head; and he shall kiss the Holy Gospel, as a seal of confirmation to the said engagements.

The manner of swearing is the form adapted to the religious belief of the general mass of citizens for the sake of convenience and uniformity: State v. Pitt, 166-268, citing Shaw v. Moore, 49-25.

Statute must be strictly followed: Pearre v. Folb, 123-239; State v. Owen, 72-612; State v. Davis, 69-383. The administration of an oath to a witness is an official act of the court, and it being shown affirmatively that an oath was administered to the defendant in open court on the Bible, it is presumed that it is rightly done: State v. Mace, 86-668. The administration of an oath is a ministerial act, and may be done by any one in the presence and by the direction of the court, but is the act of the court: State v. Knight, 84-789; State v. Mace, 86-668; Rowland v. Thompson, 65-110. The coroner, and not a justice of the peace, is the one authorized to administer oaths in a coroner's inquest: State v. Knight, 84-389. Irregular for deputy sheriff to swear appraisers of homestead: Oates v. Munday, 127-444. Deputy clerk may take affidavit in claim and delivery proceedings: Jackson v. Buchanan, 89-74. Where words "'you swear'" were omitted by clerk, which was reprehensible, under the circumstances of this case it did not vitiate the oath: State v. Owen, 72-605.

As to cases excepted in above section, see sections 3190, 3191.

3190. Administration of oath with uplifted hand. When the person to be sworn shall be conscientiously scrupulous of taking a book oath in manner aforesaid, he shall be excused from laying hands upon, or touching the Holy Gospel; and the oath required shall be administered in the following manner, namely: He shall stand with his right hand lifted up towards heaven, in token of his solemn appeal to the Supreme God, and also in token that if he should swerve from the truth he would draw down the vengeance of heaven upon his head, and shall introduce the intended oath with these words, namely:

I, A. B., do appeal to God, as a witness of the truth and the avenger of falsehood, as I shall answer the same at the great day of judgment, when the secrets of all hearts shall be known (etc., as the words of the oath may be).

If usual form of oath upon Holy Evangelists is dispensed with, and an appeal or affirmation is substituted, it must appear that the person who affirmed had conscientious scruples, else the appeal or affirmation is invalid: State v. Davis, 69-385.

As to the validity of the oath administered to an elector where elector only affirms by uplifted hand, see DeBerry v. Nicholson, 102-465; see, also, section 5940.

When a witness comes before a tribunal to be sworn it is to be presumed that he has settled the point with himself in what manner he will be sworn, and he should make it known to the officer of the court; and should he be sworn with uplifted hand, though not conscientiously scrupulous of swearing on the Gospels, and depose falsely, he subjects himself to the pains and penalties of perjury: State v. Whisenhurst, 9-458; see sections 4264-4267.

3191. Affirmation of Quakers and others. The solemn affirmation of Quakers, Moravians, Dunkers and Mennonites, made in the manner heretofore used and accustomed, shall be admitted as evidence in all civil and criminal actions; and in all cases where they are required to take an oath to support the constitution of the state, or of the United States, or an oath of office, they shall make their solemn affirmation in the words of the oath beginning after the word "'swear'"; which affirmation shall be effectual to all intents and purposes.

Rev., s. 2356; Code, s. 3311; R. C., c. 76, s. 3; 1777, c. 108, s. 4; 1777, c. 115, s. 42; 1819, c. 1019; 1821, c. 1112.

3192. Oaths of corporations. In all cases where a corporation is appointed administrator, executor, collector, or to any other fiduciary position, of which fiduciary an oath is required by law, such oath may be taken by such corporation by and through any officer or agent of said corporation who is authorized by law to verify pleadings in behalf of such corporation; and any oath so taken shall be valid as the oath of such corporation. Any oath heretofore taken in the manner aforesaid in behalf of a corporation as such fiduciary is hereby validated as the oath of such corporation.

3193. Oath to support constitution of United States; all officers take. All members of the general assembly, and all officers who shall be elected or appointed to any office of trust or profit within the state, shall, agreeably to act of congress, take the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the constitution of the United States; so help me, God.

Which oath shall be taken before they enter upon the execution of the duties of the office.
Rev. s. 2357; Code, s. 3313; R. C., c. 76, s. 5; 1791, c. 342, s. 2.

Public officers who have not taken the required oaths of office are not entitled to the salaries attached to such offices: Wiley v. Worth, 61-171. The taking of an oath of office is a mere incident and constitutes no part of the office, and the office may exist without it: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-662; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59. An oath to support the constitution of the state and of the United States is required of officers, but not of placemen: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

As to what is an office or place of trust or profit hereunder, see Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136; Ellison v. Raleigh, 89-125; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-495; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59.

3194. Oath or affirmation to support state constitution; all officers to take. Every member of the general assembly, and every person who shall be chosen or appointed to hold any office of trust or profit in the state, shall, before taking his seat or entering upon the execution of the office, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely swear (or affirm) that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the state of North Carolina, and to the constitutional powers and authorities which are or may be established for the government thereof; and that I will endeavor to support, maintain and defend the constitution of said state, not inconsistent with the constitution of the United States, to the best of my knowledge and ability; so help me, God.

Where such person shall be of the people called Quakers, Moravians, Mennonites or Dunkers, he shall take and subscribe the following affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely declare and affirm that I will truly and faithfully demean myself as a peaceful citizen of North Carolina; that I will be subject to the powers and authorities that are or may be established for the good government thereof, not inconsistent with the constitution of the state and constitution of the United States, either by yielding an active or passive obedience thereto, and that I will not abet or join the enemies of the state, by any means, in any conspiracy whatever, against the state; that I will disclose and make known to the legislative, executive or judicial powers of the state all treasonable conspiracies which I shall know to be made or intended against the state.

See annotations under section 3193.

3195. When deputies may administer. In all cases where any civil officer, in the discharge of his duties, is permitted by the law to administer an oath, the deputy of such officer, when discharging such duties, shall have authority to administer it, provided he is a sworn officer; and the oath thus administered by the deputy shall be as obligatory as if administered by the principal officer, and shall be attended with the same penalties in case of false swearing.

3196. Administration by certain officers. The chairman of the board of county commissioners and the chairman of the board of education of the several counties may administer oaths in any matter or hearing before their respective boards.

Rev., s. 2362; 1899, c. 89; 1889, c. 529.

The county surveyors of the several counties are empowered to administer oaths to all such persons as are required by law to be sworn in making partition of real estate, in laying off widows' dower, in establishing boundaries and in surveying vacant lands under warrants.

Rev., s. 2361; Code, s. 3314; 1881, c. 144.

3198. Certain oaths validated. All oaths and affidavits made prior to the first day of March, nineteen hundred and fifteen, administered by authorized officers to persons with uplifted hands be and the same are hereby validated and made as legal and binding as if administered to persons laying hands on and kissing the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, whether said oaths and affidavits were made by persons conscientiously scrupulous of taking a "book oath" or not, and whether such oaths and affidavits were made in other respects in strict compliance with section 3189 of this chapter: Provided, that this section shall not affect the rights of the parties in actions now pending nor in any manner affect prosecutions for perjury claimed to have been heretofore committed.

OFFICES AND PUBLIC OFFICERS

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

3200. No person shall hold more than one office.
3201. Holding office contrary to the constitution; penalty.
3202. Bargains for office void.
3203. Oath required before acting; penalty.

3205. Officer to hold until successor qualified.
3206. Citizen to recover funds of county or town retained by delinquent official.
3207. Local: Officers compensated from fees to render statement; penalty; proceeds to school fund.

ART. 2. REMOVAL OF UNFIT OFFICERS.

3208. Officers subject to removal; for what offenses.
3209. Petition for removal; county attorney to prosecute.
3210. Petition filed with clerk; what it shall contain; answer.
3211. Suspension pending hearing; how vacancies filled.
3212. Precedence on calendar; costs.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3200. No person shall hold more than one office. No person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this state, or under any other state or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this state, or be eligible to a seat in either house of the general assembly; Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, justices of the peace, commissioners of public charities, or commissioners for special purposes.

One man may not hold two offices: Dowtin v. Beardsley, 126-119.

Legislature may attach additional duties to an existing office and it may afterwards lop off those duties and assign them to a new office, leaving the original office as it was before the additional duties were attached to it, and original officer must not claim both offices: Ibid.

But adding new duties to an office already in existence is not creating a new office: McCullers v. Comrs., 158-75. And for the judge to appoint an attorney, who is federal officer, to prosecute temporarily for the solicitor is not holding two offices: State v. Wood, 175-809.

Acceptance of a second office by one already holding a public office operates ipso facto to vacate the first. While the officer has right to elect which he will retain, his election is deemed made when he accepts and qualifies for the second: Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-493; Midgett v. Gray, 158-133; s. c., 159-443; Whitehead v. Pittman, 165-89.

The question of holding two public offices at the same time does not depend as at common law upon incompatibility alone, but upon the constitution: Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-493.

A public office is not property; and this applies both to constitutional and statutory offices. The reason the legislature cannot abolish constitutional as well as statutory offices lies in the fact that the constitution itself has made provision for them, and not because there is any property in them: Mial v. Ellington, 134-138, overruling Hoke v. Henderson, 15-1, and cases based upon its ruling on these points.

‘OFFICE OR PLACE OF TRUST OR PROFIT’ INTERPRETED. As to the difference between ‘offices or places of trust or profit’ and mere administrative agencies, see Wooten v. Smith, 146-476; Groves v. Barden, 169-8; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-495; Ellison v. Raleigh, 89-125.
Under this section the "office or place of trust or profit" referred to means a public position involving a delegation to the individual of some part of the sovereign functions of the government to be exercised for the public benefit: Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136.

The true test of a public office is that it is a parcel of the administration of government, civil or military, or is itself created directly by the lawmaking power: Eliason v. Coleman, 86-236.

A public office is an agency of the state, and the person whose duty it is to perform this agency is a public officer: Wooten v. Smith, 145-476; Day's case, 123-362.

An employment by the state not connected with government, and not requiring any action as agent for the state, is not an office: Nichols v. McKee, 68-429; Welker v. Bledsoe, 68-457.

The distinction between officers and placemen is that the former is required to take an oath to support the constitutions of the state and the United States, while the latter are not: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

A public office is a public trust, and public officers are merely the agents of the people: State v. Godwin, 123-697; Basket v. Moss, 115-447.

While statute imposes certain duties to be performed by an officer after expiration of term of office, their performance does not constitute a place or office of trust or profit so as to disqualify the former officer from holding another office at the same time: McNeill v. Somers, 96-467.

A justice of the peace is an officer, but he is not excluded from holding another office: State v. Lord, 145-479.

A public administrator is not one holding an office within the meaning of this section: Wooten v. Smith, 145-476—nor is a deputy sheriff, Railroad v. Fisher, 109-1—nor is a member of a special investigating committee of the legislature a public officer such as would, under this section, oust him as member of the general assembly, Bank v. Worth, 117-152—nor a night watchman of a public building, Doyle v. Raleigh, 89-136—nor a mail contractor, or carrier for such contractor, State v. Boone, 132-1107.

3201. Holding office contrary to the constitution; penalty. If any person presumes to hold any office, or place of trust or profit, or is elected to a seat in either house of the general assembly, contrary to the seventh section of the fourteenth article of the constitution of the state, he shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who will sue for the same.

Rev., s. 2365; Code, s. 1870; R. C., c. 77, s. 1; 1790, c. 319; 1792, c. 366; 1793, c. 393; 1796, c. 450; 1811, c. 811.

3202. Bargains for office void. All bargains, bonds and assurances made or given for the purchase or sale of any office whatsoever, the sale of which is contrary to law, shall be void.

Rev., s. 2366; Code, s. 1571; R. C., c. 77, s. 2; 5 and 6 Edw. VI, c. 16, s. 3.

Contracts to procure appointment to office are void, or to resign office in another's favor, traffic in public offices being against good morals and contrary to public policy: Basket v. Moss, 115-448.

Section 3959 prohibits a sheriff from letting to farm, in any manner, his county or part of it: Cansler v. Penland, 126-793, 125-578.
3203. Oath required before acting; penalty. Every officer and other person required to take an oath of office, or an oath for the faithful discharge of any duty imposed on him, and also the oath appointed for such as hold any office of trust or profit in the state, shall take all said oaths before entering on the duties of the office, or the duties imposed on such person, on pain of forfeiting five hundred dollars to the use of the poor of the county in or for which the office is to be used, and of being ejected from his office or place by proper proceedings for that purpose.

The taking of the oath of office is not indispensable, for the office may exist without it; it is a mere incident and constitutes no part of the office: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-662; Midgett v. Gray, 159-443; Clark v. Stanley, 66-59—and this is true also as to the salary or fees, Ibid.

3204. Persons admitted to office deemed to hold lawfully. Any person who shall, by the proper authority, be admitted and sworn into any office, shall be held, deemed, and taken, by force of such admission, to be rightfully in such office until, by judicial sentence, upon a proper proceeding, he shall be ousted therefrom, or his admission thereto be, in due course of law, declared void.

Rev., s. 2368; Code, s. 1872; R. C., c. 77, s. 3; 1844, c. 38, s. 2; 1848, c. 64, s. 1; Const., Art. IV, s. 25.

For penalty for acting as officer without giving bond, see Bonds, s. 325.

For quo warranto proceedings to test the title to a public office, see sections 869-887. One who professes to be the incumbent of an office and performs the duties of the same is estopped from denying the legality of his appointment: State v. Long, 76-254. A provision for an appointment to office "biennially" ex vi termini implies a two years term of office: Bryan v. Patrick, 124-651.

Legislature may, within reasonable limits, change the duties and diminish the emoluments of a constitutional office if the public welfare requires it to be done, and to this the incumbent must submit: Fortune v. Comrs., 140-331, and cases therein cited.

An officer appointed for a definite time to a legislative office has no vested property therein or contract right thereto of which the legislature cannot deprive him: Mial v. Ellington, 134-131 (overruling Hoke v. Henderson, 15-1); see "office-holding cases" annotated under section 870.

A de jure officer is one who is in or entitled to the office as a right, while a de facto officer is one who discharges the duties of the office under color of title: State ex rel. Norfleet v. Staton, 73-546. De facto officer distinguished from a mere usurper: Whitehead v. Pittman, 165-89. There must be a legal office before one is a de facto officer: State v. Shuford, 128-591. Acts of de facto officers who exercise their office for considerable length of time are as effectual when they concern rights of third persons as if they were officers de jure: Hughes v. Long, 119-52; DeBerry v. Nicholson, 102-475; State v. Davis, 109-782; State v. Lewis, 107-967.

To constitute one an officer de facto there must be an actual exercise of the office and acquiescence of public authority long enough to cause, in the mind of a citizen, a strong presumption that officer was duly appointed: Hughes v. Long, 119-52. When it appears or is admitted that an act was not done by an officer de jure, it is incumbent upon the party relying upon the validity of his act to show that he was an officer de facto: Ibid.

Where an appointment is made by a de facto officer, holding an office to which is annexed the appointing power, such an appointee holds a title to the office against the appointee of a de jure officer subsequently made: Baker v. Hobgood, 126-149; St. George v. Hardie, 147-88.

Where there are two rival boards, both de facto and both exercising as far as possible the duties of the office, and each makes an appointment the same day to the same place, in such case the appointee of the de facto board which is subsequently adjudged to be the de jure board clearly has the title: Baker v. Hobgood, 126-149. When both officers are acting and claiming to be de facto, possession by the de jure officer excludes the consideration of any other claim: Ibid.
A clerk who held over from the day of general election, to wit, the first Thursday in August, until the first Monday in the ensuing September, when his successor was installed, was at least clerk de facto, and his acts cannot be collaterally impeached, and are valid as between third parties: Threadgill v. R. R., 73-178.

3205. Officer to hold until successor qualified. All officers shall continue in their respective offices until their successors are elected or appointed, and duly qualified.

Unless otherwise provided, an officer duly appointed to fill a vacancy holds only until his successor is duly appointed or elected and qualifies: Markham v. Simpson, 175-135; Salisbury v. Croom, 167-223.

Where vacancy occurred in the office of superior court clerk, the appointee of the judge holds only until the next election at which members of the general assembly are chosen: Rodwell v. Rowland, 137-617, overruling Deloatch v. Rogers, 86-357.

3206. Citizen to recover funds of county or town retained by delinquent official. When an official of a county, city or town is liable upon his bond for unlawfully and wrongfully retaining by virtue of his office a fund, or a part thereof, to which the county, city or town is entitled, any citizen and taxpayer may, in his own name for the benefit of the county, city or town, institute suit and recover from the delinquent official the fund so retained. Any county commissioners, aldermen, councilmen or governing board who fraudulently, wrongfully and unlawfully permit an official so to retain funds shall be personally liable therefor; any citizen and taxpayer may, in his own name for the benefit of the county, city or town, institute suit and recover from such county commissioners, aldermen, councilmen or governing board, the fund so retained. Before instituting suit under this section, the citizen and taxpayer shall file a statement before the county commissioners, treasurer, or other officers authorized by law to institute the suit, setting forth the fund alleged to be retained or permitted to be retained, and demanding that suit be instituted by the authorities authorized to sue within sixty days. The citizen and taxpayer so suing shall receive one-third part, up to the sum of five hundred dollars, of the amount recovered, to indemnify him for his services, but the amount received by the taxpayer and citizen as indemnity shall in no case exceed five hundred dollars.

This applies to money collected before the act was passed; and without such statute a taxpayer may, in a proper case, maintain an action to recover public funds: Waddill v. Masten, 172-582.

3207. Local: Officers compensated from fees to render statement; penalty; proceeds to school fund. Every clerk of the superior court, register of deeds, sheriff, coroner, surveyor, or other county officer, whose compensation for services performed shall be derived from fees, shall render to the board of county commissioners of their respective counties, on the first Monday in December of each year, a statement, verified under oath, showing: first, the total gross amount of all fees collected during the preceding fiscal year; second, the total amount paid out during the preceding fiscal year for clerical or office assistance. Any county officer, subject to this section, who refuses or fails to file such report as above provided, on or before the first Monday in December, shall be subject to a fine of twenty-five dollars and ten dollars additional for each day or fraction of a day.
such failure shall continue. The board of county commissioners shall assess and collect the penalty above provided for, and apply same to the general school fund of the county. The first report under this section shall be for the fiscal year beginning December twelfth, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

1913, c. 97; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 10.

Action by taxpayer to enforce the payment of fees collected: Waddill v. Masten, 172-584. Where sheriff's office was placed on a salary basis by special act, and fees and commissions were to be paid over to treasurer, this applied to uncollected taxes in the hands of the sheriff upon reélection: Mills v. Deaton, 170-386—but where such an act takes effect from the expiration of the terms of present incumbents, it will not apply to taxes in the hands of retiring sheriff, Comrs. v. Bain, 173-377.

ART. 2. REMOVAL OF UNFIT OFFICERS

3208. Officers subject to removal; for what offenses. Any city prosecuting attorney, any sheriff, police officer, or constable, shall be removed from office by the judge of the superior court upon charges made in writing, and hearing thereunder, for the following cause:

First. For willful or habitual neglect or refusal to perform the duties of his office.

Second. For willful misconduct or maladministration in office.

Third. For corruption.

Fourth. For extortion.

Fifth. Upon conviction of a felony.

Sixth. For intoxication, or upon conviction of being intoxicated.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 20.

3209. Petition for removal; county attorney to prosecute. The complaint or petition shall be entitled in the name of the state of North Carolina, and may be filed upon the relation of any five qualified electors of the county in which the person charged is an officer, upon the approval of the county attorney of such county, or the solicitor of the district, or by any such officer upon his own motion. It shall be the duty of the county attorney or solicitor to appear and prosecute this proceeding.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 21.

3210. Petition filed with clerk; what it shall contain; answer. The accused shall be named as defendant, and the petition shall be signed by some elector, or by such officer. The petition shall state the charges against the accused, and may be amended, and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the person charged is an officer. The accused may at any time prior to the time fixed for hearing file in the office of the clerk of the superior court his answer, which shall be verified.

3211. Suspension pending hearing; how vacancy filled. Upon the filing of the petition in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and the presentation of the same to the judge, the judge may suspend the accused from office if in his judgment sufficient cause appear from the petition and affidavit, or affidavits, which may be presented in support of the charges contained therein. In case of suspension, as herein provided, the temporary vacancy shall be filled in the manner provided by law for filling of the vacancies in such office.

3212. Precedence on calendar; costs. In the trial of the cause in the superior court the cause shall be advanced and take precedence over all other causes upon the court calendar, and shall be heard at the next term after the petition is filed, provided the proceedings are filed in said court in time for said action to be heard. The superior court shall fix the time of hearing. If the final termination of such proceedings be favorable to any accused officer, said officer shall be allowed the reasonable and necessary expense, including a reasonable attorney fee, to be fixed by the judge, he has incurred in making his defense, by the county, if he be a county officer, or by the city or town in which he holds office, if he be a city officer. If the action is instituted upon the complaint of citizens as herein provided, and it appears to the court that there was no reasonable cause for filing the complaint, the costs may be taxed against the complaining parties.

3256. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer.

Art. 1. Partition of Real Property

3213. Partition is a special proceeding. Partition under this chapter shall be by special proceeding, and the procedure shall be the same in all respects as prescribed by law in special proceedings, except as modified herein.

Rev., s. 2485; Code, s. 1923; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 33.

3214. Venue in partition. The proceedings for partition, actual or by sale, must be instituted in the county where the land lies. If the land to be partitioned lies in more than one county, the proceedings may be instituted in either of the counties.

Rev., s. 2486; Code, s. 1898; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 7.

3215. Petition by cotenant. One or more persons claiming real estate as joint tenants or tenants in common may have partition by petition to the superior court.

Rev., s. 2487; Code, s. 1892; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 1.

WHO ARE PROPER PARTIES. Persons having reversionary interest in land are necessary parties in proceeding hereunder, as well as life tenant: Bell v. Adams, 81-118. Every tenant in common must be made party, as the whole tract shall be partitioned or sold—though shares may be allotted to some of the tenants, while a sale may be decreed as to others: Brooks v. Austin, 95-474. Contingent remaindermen, not represented either by guardian or by attorney, and not named in the process, pleadings or decree, are not bound by proceedings for partition instituted by the other remaindermen and life tenant: Whitesides v. Cooper, 115-570. Mother and only living children cannot represent as a class a child en ventre sa mere in partition proceedings of lands of which father died seized, so as to pass inheritance of unborn child to purchaser: Deal v. Sexton, 144-157. Widow entitled to dower in land, and administratrix of tenant in common are necessary parties to petition for partition: Gregory v. Gregory, 69-522. Where there are contingent interests to be affected by partition proceedings, partition will be decreed if there is some one before the court to represent such interests: Overman v. Tate, 114-571. A proceeding in partition does not bind an infant who is not made a party nor properly represented: Vick v. Tripp, 153-90—but he may ratify by dealing with property after coming of age, Vick v. Wooten, 171-121.

Where petition alleges tenancy in common as to one tract and the answer alleges that the tenancy in common also extends to another tract, the court will direct partition as to both; but not when third persons are also interested in one tract and not in the other: Luther v. Luther, 157-499.

AS TO THE PETITION. Allegation of possession not vitally essential to petition for partition: Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-796; overruling Alsbrook v. Reid, 89-151; but see Wood v. Sugg, 91-89—nor is averment of title, Graves v. Barrett, 126-267. It is not necessary to verify a petition: Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189. Allegation in petition hereunder that defendant has an estate in certain number of acres of said land is insufficient: Baum v. Shooting Club, 96-310. Petition for partition which asks division of several separate and distinct tracts of land not held by same tenants in common is multifarious: Simpson v. Wallace, 83-477. While petition for partition is defective which does not set forth that petitioners are tenants in common and in possession of land, yet omission of allegation does not deprive clerk of jurisdiction hereunder: Godwin v. Early, 114-11; McGill v. Bule, 106-242; Alsbrook v. Reid, 89-151. As to sufficiency of demurrer to petition, see McGill v. Bule, 106-242.

pleading sole seizin must have defense bond: Gill v. Porter, 174-569; Copper v. Warlick, 109-672. If the plea of "sole seizin" is not put in before the order of partition is made, it will be considered as waived, and the parties to the proceeding will be taken to be tenants in common: Wright v. McCormick, 69-14. What amounts to a plea of "sole seizin": Gregory v. Pinnix, 158-147. Under a plea of sole seizin the plaintiff has the burden of proof to make out a prima facie case of tenancy in common: Lester v. Harward, 173-83.

GENERALLY. Where plea of sole seizin not set up, parties, for purpose of proceedings, are to be taken as tenants in common, and only inquiry is as to interest owned: Graves v. Barrett, 126-267.

Where petitioner merely alleged ownership of five-eighths, evidence tending to show mutual mistake in deed under which defendant claimed was properly excluded: Buchanan v. Harrington, 141-39—but petitioner might have alleged mutual mistake by amendment in the superior court after case had been transferred, Ibid.

Tenants in common are entitled to partition as of right: Holmes v. Holmes, 55-334. Deed conveying a tract of land (describing it) upon which there was a mineral spring, to several persons "one-eighth share of said mineral waters" each, and containing a provision that one of the vendees and his "heirs and assigns are to have free access to said springs," creates a simple estate in common, of which partition may be made: Foreman v. Hough, 98-388.

Effect of allotment between four out of six tenants in common: Carson v. R. R., 128-98.

Where defendant in partition fails to ask for jury trial until after clerk has ordered partition he thereby waives the right thereto: Navigation Co. v. Worrell, 133-93.

For annotations on statute of limitations barring tenants in common of land, see section 430.

No legal partition can be made between tenants in common without deed or writing: Rhea v. Craig, 141-602—not nor where married women and infants are interested, Camp Mfg. Co. v. Liverman, 123-7.

Where it appears to court in proceeding hereunder that it may become necessary to sell lands for assets, it should stay partition until personal representative can have reasonable opportunity to apply for license: Garrison v. Cox, 99-478—but personal representative cannot apply for sale in partition proceeding, Ibid.

Where land of ancestor partitioned within two years after letters of administration, same continues liable to payment of ancestor's debts: McArtan v. McLauchlin, 88-391; see Hinton v. Whitehurst, 75-178, 73-157, 71-66.

Court will not adjudicate in proceeding for partition conflicting claim of title set up by defendant, so as to exclude him by estoppel: Simpson v. Wallace, 83-477.

Where property is held by trustees elected by several churches, and duly incorporated, one or more of such churches not entitled to a partition of the property: Church v. Trustees, 158-119. The plaintiff cannot take a nonsuit in partition proceeding without the consent of the other parties: Hadlock v. Stocks, 167-70. Where the will provided for a partition of the land by the executors between two tenants in common for life, with remainder to their children, a parol partition in which the parties hold their shares for 20 years will be sustained: Collier v. Paper Corporation, 172-74. Plaintiff cannot maintain a suit for partition when he has no vested interest: Makely v. Shore, 175-121.

3216. Surface and minerals in separate owners; partitions distinct. When the title to the mineral interests in any land has become separated from the surface in ownership, the tenants in common or joint tenants of such mineral interests may have partition of the same, distinct from the surface, and without joining as parties the owner or owners of the surface; and the tenants in common or joint tenants of the surface may have partition of the same, in manner provided by law, distinct from the mineral interests and without joining as parties.
3217. Petition by judgment creditor of cotenant; assignment of homestead. When any person owns a judgment duly docketed in the superior court of a county wherein the judgment debtor owns an undivided interest in fee in land as a tenant in common, or joint tenant, and the judgment creditor desires to lay off the homestead of the judgment debtor in the land and sell the excess, if any, to satisfy his judgment, the judgment creditor may institute before the clerk of the court of the county wherein the land lies a special proceeding for partition of the land between the tenants in common, making the judgment debtor, the other tenants in common and all other interested persons parties to the proceeding by summons. The proceeding shall then be in all other respects conducted as other special proceedings for the partition of land between tenants in common. Upon the actual partition of the land the judgment creditor may sue out execution on his judgment, as allowed by law, and have the homestead of the judgment debtor allotted to him and sell the excess, as in other cases where the homestead is allotted under execution. The remedy provided for in this section shall not deprive the judgment creditor of any other remedy in law or in equity which he may have for the enforcement of his judgment lien.

Allotment of homestead in land held as tenant in common, before this section enacted: Kelly v. McLeod, 165-382.

3218. Unknown parties; summons and representation. If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. If after such general notice by publication any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall in its discretion appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown and unrepresented.

It is within the discretion of the court to appoint some one to represent the interest of unknown persons: Lawrence v. Hardy, 151-123. The proceeding being quasi in rem, the court acquires jurisdiction by publication, and when the proceedings are regular an innocent purchaser acquires a good title: Ibid. Practice where unknown parties are interested: Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145. Unknown parties may be brought into the proceeding as provided in this section: Ryler v. Oates, 173-569—and if contingent interests are to be sold, a proceeding before the clerk carried by appeal to the judge at term gives the power to proceed as under section 1744, Ibid. This section is not a violation of the "due process" clause of the constitution: Lawrence v. Hardy, 151-123.
3219. Commissioners appointed. The superior court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners to divide and apportion such real estate, or so much thereof as the court may deem best, among the several tenants in common, or joint tenants.

See cases cited under section 3215, ante.

3220. Oath of commissioners. The commissioners shall be sworn by a justice of the peace, or other person authorized to administer oaths, to do justice among the tenants in common, in respect to such partition, according to their best skill and ability.

Rev., s. 2492; Code, s. 1893; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 2.

3221. Delay or neglect of commissioner penalized. If, after accepting the trust, any of the commissioners unreasonably delay or neglect to execute the same, every such delinquent commissioner shall be liable for contempt and may be removed, and shall be further liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the petitioner.

Rev., s. 2498; Code, s. 1901; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 10.

3222. Commissioners to meet and make partition; equalizing shares. The commissioners, who shall be summoned by the sheriff, or any constable, must meet on the premises and partition the same among the tenants in common, or joint tenants, according to their respective rights and interests therein, by dividing the land into equal shares in point of value as nearly as possible, and for this purpose they are empowered to subdivide the more valuable tracts as they may deem best, and to charge the more valuable dividends with such sums of money as they may think necessary, to be paid to the dividends of inferior value, in order to make an equitable partition.

Partition is made according to value and not the acreage: Lee v. Montague, 173-226.

Clerk should not be commissioner: Evans v. Cullens, 122-55; see section 3242. Where three commissioners are appointed to partition land, the action of any two of them is valid: Thompson v. Shemwell, 93-222. Where one tenant in common has improved part of land in good faith, he is entitled to have it allowed to him at a valuation made without regard to improvement: Holt v. Couch, 125-456; Pipkin v. Pipkin, 120-161; Collett v. Henderson, 80-337; Pope v. Whitehead, 68-191.

Where two of three commissioners appointed to make partition met on the premises and in the presence of both parties to the action proceeded to fill vacancy occasioned by absence of third commissioner, neither party making objection thereto: Held, that it is too late to except on that account after commissioners have partitioned land and filed report: Simmons v. Fosque, 81-86.

OWELTY OF PARTITION ALLOWED. In partition of land equality must be had by compensation in money for the deficiency, according to the value of the land at the time of the division. The right to such compensation arises out of an implied warranty attaching to each share from all the others: Cheatham v. Crews, 88-38. It is a general rule that where a cotenant claims an equality of benefit, he must submit to an equality of burden, fairly incurred in good faith: Holt v. Couch, 125-456. The sum charged upon one share in favor of another share of less value, for equality in the division, is a charge in rem, and if not paid, subjects the land charged to sale, whether in the hands of the owner or of his heirs, to whom it descends cum onere: Powell v. Weathington, 124-40. Owelty is not a mere debt secured by lien; debtor is tenant in common with holder of share in whose favor decree is entered to extent of charge, until same be satisfied: In re Walker, 107-340. Discharge in bankruptcy does not cancel 1341 charge of owelty against land of bankrupt: In re Walker, 107-340. Owelty of partition is not discharged by the execution of a note for the same; the land remains the primary debtor: Dobbin v. Rex, 106-444. Party acquiring land on which a charge rests for equality of partition takes same cum onere, and statute of limitations cannot avail him as against purchasers at sale made under a venditioni exponas duly ordered in partition proceedings: Ibid.

If a parol sale of an expectancy followed by partition is afterwards set aside at suit of vendor, his share should be charged with the purchase money received, and also with its proportion of the enhanced value by reason of the betterments placed thereon: Tucker v. Markland, 101-422.

Where one lot is charged with the payment of owelty, payment is not suspended except in case of infants: Turpin v. Kelly, 85-399.

Equity is effected among tenants in common either by assigning the improved part to him who improves it, at its value before improvements are made, or, if that cannot be done, then by a reasonable allowance for enhanced value of the property: Holt v. Couch, 125-456. If property is not susceptible of being divided, court will order an account before partition of proceeds of sale is made, and provide for a suitable compensation for improvements: Ibid.

Charges upon land for equality of partition follow the land into the hands of all persons to whom it may come, and are held to be affected by constructive notice: Ruffin v. Cox, 71-253.

OWELTY OF PARTITION ENFORCED. Proper remedy for enforcing owelty is by execution, formerly by venditioni exponas: Smith, ex parte, 134-499; Newsome v. Harrell, 168-295—and by civil action when partition is by agreement, Ibid. Execution will not be allowed to issue to satisfy owelty of partition until the confirmation of commissioner’s report: In re Ausborn, 122-42. On motion for execution for owelty, plea of payment and counterclaim are issues, not questions of fact: Goode v. Rogers, 126-62.

A party to a proceeding in which a venditioni exponas is issued to sell land to pay a charge resting on it for equality of partition cannot contest the validity of a sale made under such ven. ex.: Dobbin v. Rex, 106-444. In an action to collect owelty, defendant may set up as counterclaim any damage he may have sustained by having been evicted from a part of his share in the land by a superior title: Huntley v. Cline, 93-458.

A proceeding for leave to issue execution on a judgment charging land with owelty in partition is an “action” within the meaning of the statute of limitations: Smith, ex parte, 134-495. The issuing of an execution on a decree charging owelty in partition is barred within ten years: Ibid.; Newsome v. Harrell, 168-295. The statute of presumptions barred in ten years claims for owelty charged prior to 1868: Herman v. Watts, 107-646. It is not admissible for the creditor to obtain a personal judgment against debtor for the sum charged as owelty in partition: Halso v. Cole, 82-161; Waring v. Wadsworth, 80-345. Where land is sold under several executions, some for personal debts and others to enforce owelty of partition, latter claims have priority in distribution of proceeds: Thompson v. Peebles, 85-418.

The widow of the party upon whose land the charge is placed is not necessary party to an action brought to recover the sum charged: Ruffin v. Cox, 71-253. The dower in the land charged with the payment of a certain sum cannot be called upon until it is ascertained that the remaining two-thirds and the reversion in the one-third assigned for dower is insufficient to pay off the encumbrance of owelty: Ibid. The existence of a life estate does not prevent bringing action for enforcement of charge: Newsome v. Harrell, 168-295.

3223. Owelty to bear interest. The sums of money due from the more valuable dividends shall bear interest until paid.

Rev., s. 2496; Code, s. 1899; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 8.

For annotations as to owelty of partition and how to enforce payment, see sections 3215, 3222. See Turpin v. Kelly, 85-399.

3224. Owelty from infant’s share due at majority. When a minor to whom a more valuable dividend shall fall is charged with the payment of any sum, the money shall not be payable until such minor arrives at the age of twenty-one years, but the general guardian, if there be one, must pay such sum whenever assets shall come into his hands, and in case the general guardian has assets which he did not so apply, he shall pay out of his own proper estate any interest that may have accrued in consequence of such failure.

Rev., s. 2497; Code, s. 1900; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 9.

Section postpones collection of owelty only where parties to proceedings are infants; it does not apply where share, after division, descends to infant heirs of owner: Powell v. Weatherington, 124-40.

Section referred to in Jones v. Cameron, 81-154; Turpin v. Kelly, 85-399.

3225. Partition where shareowners unknown or title disputed. If there are any of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, whose names are not known or whose title is in dispute, the share or shares of such persons shall be set off together as one parcel. If, in any partition proceeding, two or more appear as defendants claiming the same share of the premises to be divided, or if any part of the share claimed by the petitioner is disputed by any defendant or defendants, it shall not be necessary to decide on their respective claims before the court shall order the partition or sale to be made, but the partition or sale shall be made, and the controversy between the contesting parties may be afterwards decided either in the same or an independent proceeding.

Rev., ss. 2491, 2511; Code, s. 1894; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 3; 1887, c. 284, ss. 2, 4.

See cases under section 3222 ante.

3226. Dower claims settled on partition; dower valued. When there is dower or right of dower on any land, petitioned to be sold or divided in severalty by actual partition, the woman entitled to dower or right of dower therein may join in the petition. The land to be divided in severalty shall be allotted to the tenants in common, or joint tenants, subject to the dower right or dower, and either may be ascertained and assigned at the same time that partition thereof is made and by same commissioners. On a decree of sale, the interest of one-third of the proceeds shall be secured and paid to her annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of an annuity of six per cent on such third, during her probable life, shall be ascertained and paid to her absolutely out of the proceeds.

Where there is a petition to sell land for partition, and one of the defendants is a widow entitled to dower and the other defendants are infants, the dower should be assigned before the land is sold: Seaman v. Seaman, 129-293.

In partition, dower may be assigned in the land partitioned: Baggett v. Jackson, 160-26.

3227. Partial partition; balance sold or left in common. In all proceedings under this chapter actual partition may be made of a part of the land sought to be partitioned and a sale of the remainder, or a part only, of any land held by tenants in common, or joint tenants, may be partitioned and the remainder held in cotenancy.

Rev., s. 2506; 1887, c. 214, s. 1.

Part of land may be sold for partition and part divided: Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6.

This does not authorize a sale of a fractional part of the land, leaving the rest to be held in common: Patillo v. Lytle, 158-92.
3228. Report of commissioners; contents; filing. The commissioners, within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days after the notification of their appointment, shall make a full and ample report of their proceedings, under the hands of any two of them, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust and describing particularly the land or parcels of land divided, and the share allotted to each tenant in severalty, with the sum or sums charged on the more valuable dividends to be paid to those of inferior value. The report shall be filed in the office of the superior court clerk.

Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, Ch. 122, s. 5.

Two commissioners signing the report is sufficient: Thompson v. Shemwell, 93-224; Simmons v. Foscoe, 81-86. When commissioners to partition land make and file their report their duties are ended, and they are functi officio, unless they act under a new order of the court: Clinard v. Brummell, 130-547.

Clerk has jurisdiction to correct mistakes in partition proceedings where no equitable ingredient involved: Wahab v. Smith, 82-229. As to remedy for the correction of a mistake in running a dividing line after final judgment in partition has been entered, see Thomson v. Shemwell, 89-283.

As to ovelty of partition, see section 3222.

EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT; HEARING AND CONFIRMATION. Exceptions to report of commissioners appointed to make partition of land must be filed within twenty days after report is filed: Floyd v. Rook, 128-10.

Exceptions to commissioner’s report, backed by affidavits of inequality in division upon which a motion for redivision is based, do not raise issues of fact for trial by jury, but questions of fact to be determined by court: McMillan v. McMillan, 123-577; Beckwith, ex parte, 124-111.

Where commissioners appointed were ordered to report evidence taken before them and their findings of fact, and failed to do so, it was error to confirm their report as to division of lands in the face of an exception thereto on the ground that they ignored order of court: Pipkin v. Pipkin, 120-161. The omission by the commissioners to state affirmatively that allotments in their opinion, were equal in value, affects the substantial rights of the parties; and clerk or judge may set it aside with directions either that commissioners make a reallocation or that others be appointed to do so: Skinner v. Carter, 108-106.

On hearing exceptions to report of commissioners, court should hear evidence impeaching fairness of partition, and set same aside if evidence sufficient: Simmons v. Foscoe, 81-86. Refusal of court to hear affidavits upon motion to confirm report is a matter of discretion and not reviewable: Skinner v. Carter, 108-106. And appeal from an order setting aside report will not be dismissed as premature: Skinner v. Carter, 108-106. From an order of clerk setting aside report and ordering redivision, an appeal lies to the judge, and if no error in law is committed, decision of judge cannot be reversed: McMillan v. McMillan, 123-577; Simmons v. Foscoe, 81-86.

Case where claimed wrong land was divided: Wright v. McCormick, 69-14.

ATTACKING THE PROCEEDINGS. As to attacking partition proceedings for irregularity, see Rose v. Davis, 140-269.

Where infant defendants are served with summons in proceedings for partition and guardian ad litem is appointed, judgment affirming sale cannot be set aside in collateral proceeding for alleged fraud or irregularity: Smith v. Gray, 116-311.

In an action to set aside partition proceedings where no fraud was alleged to have taken place and the facts alleged as ground for setting aside should have been known at time of proceedings, plaintiffs are estopped, and equity will not aid them, although some of present plaintiffs, at time of partition, were under disability: Grantham v. Kennedy, 91-148.

Decrees set aside for inequality at instance of defendant served by publication: Rhodes v. Rhodes, 125-191.

Where proceedings had been begun and guardian ad litem appointed for infants, and all steps had been taken except the signing of the final decree, the infants, having come of age in the meantime, could not reopen the cause: Williams v. Williams, 94-732.
A direct proceeding to attack a judgment in partition for fraud can be brought by a motion in the cause: Murray v. Southeyland, 125-177; Rhodes v. Rhodes, 125-193; Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484; Turner v. Davis, 163-38.

A decree in partition proceedings reciting that it was rendered on the merits will not be construed to be a judgment of nonsuit because it orders that petition be dismissed: Weeks v. McPhail, 129-73.

The clerk may correct a mistake in making a premature order of partition by revoking the order and docketing the case in superior court: Little v. Duncan, 148-84.

3229. Map embodying survey to accompany report. The commissioners are authorized to employ the county surveyor or, in his absence or if he be connected with the parties, some other surveyor, who shall make out a map of the premises showing the quantity, courses and distances of each share, which map shall accompany and form a part of the report of the commissioners.

Rev., s. 2493; Code, s. 1895; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 4.

3230. Confirmation and impeachment of report. If no exception to the report of the commissioners is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party after confirmation may impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby.

Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5.

See cases under section 3228.

3231. Report and confirmation enrolled and registered; effect. Such report, when confirmed, together with the decree of confirmation, shall be enrolled and certified to the register of deeds and registered in the office of the county where such real estate is situated, and shall be binding among and between the claimants, their heirs and assigns.

Rev., s. 2495; Code, s. 1897; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 6.

One who joins an infant in a petition for partition is bound by the judgment, though it is not approved by the judge: Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189. The proceedings are admissible in evidence though not properly recorded: Ibid. Record of partition is color of title: Ibid.

When land is incorporated in a petition and assigned in partition, with the knowledge and consent of parties, an administrator of one of the parties is estopped to deny that the land was so included: Lindsay v. Beaman, 128-189.

When there has been a partition of land among the heirs of ancestor, as tenants in common, they hold by descent and not by purchase: Carson v. Carson, 122-645; Harrison v. Ray, 108-215.

When the report of commissioners is filed, confirmed and registered, they cannot change it without order of court: Clinard v. Brummet, 130-547.

When the report is registered and the record is destroyed and it is registered again under section 366, a certified copy is color of title: Hill v. Lane, 148-287.

A decree in partition reciting that it was rendered on the merits will not be construed as a judgment of nonsuit because it orders that petition be dismissed: Weeks v. McPhail, 129-78.

3232. Clerk to docket owelty charges; no release of land and no lien. In case owelty of partition is charged in favor of certain parts of said land and against certain other parts, the clerk shall enter on the judgment docket the said owelty charges in like manner as judgments are entered on said docket, persons to whom parts are allotted in favor of which owelty is charged being marked plaintiffs on the judgment docket, and persons to whom parts are allotted against which owelty is charged being marked defendants on said docket; that said entry on said docket shall contain the title of the special proceeding in which the land was partitioned, and shall refer to the book and page in which the said special proceeding is recorded; that when said owelty charges are paid, said entry upon the judgment docket shall be marked satisfied in like manner as judgments are canceled and marked satisfied; and the clerk shall be entitled to the same fees for entering such judgment of owelty as he is entitled to for docketing other judgments: Provided, that the docketing of said owelty charges as hereinbefore set out shall not have the effect of releasing the land from the owelty charged in said special proceeding: Provided, any judgment docketed under this section shall not be a lien on any property whatever, except that upon which said owelty is made a specific charge.

1911, c. 9, s. 1.

ART. 2. PARTITION SALES OF REAL PROPERTY

3233. Sale in lieu of partition. Whenever it appears by satisfactory proof that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without injury to some or all of the parties interested, the court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or any part thereof.

Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.

Right to actual partition exists where a division can be made without injury to the interests of the parties: Gillespie v. Allison, 115-548—if division cannot be made without such injury, the court should order a sale, Holt v. Couch, 125-456; Bragg v. Lyon, 93-153; True v. Rice, Whether there should be actual partition or a sale is a question of fact to be decided by the

On appeal to the judge, he may render judgment or remand the case to the clerk for proper

In a petition for sale, if one of defendants is a widow entitled to dower and other defendants are infants, dower should be assigned before sale: Seaman v. Seaman, 129-293.

A petition to sell land for assets amounts to notice to a purchaser under a proceeding by heirs for sale for partition: Harris v. Davenport, 132-697.

3234. Remainder or reversion sold for partition; outstanding life estate. The existence of a life estate in any land shall not be a bar to a sale for partition of the remainder or reversion thereof, and for the purposes of partition the tenants in common or joint tenants shall be deemed seized and possessed as if no life estate existed. But this shall not interfere with the possession of the life tenant during the existence of his estate.

Rev., s. 2508; 1887, c. 214, s. 2.

Under this section a remainderman or reversioner after a life estate may have partition
But this does not apply to contingent remainders or other future conditional interests unless all persons who may by any possibility be interested unite in asking for the decree: Aydlett
v. Pendleton, 111-28; see section 1744.

This applies to vested interests: Vinson v. Wise, 159-653—but not when it appears that life tenant has right to control, Makely v. Shore, 175-121.
Where land subject to estate during widowhood was sold for partition, the proceeds could not be divided between widow and remaindermen, against the will of remaindermen, but would remain as real estate until the termination of estate during widowhood: Gillespie v. Allison, 117-512.

3235. Life tenant as party; valuation of life estate. In all proceedings for partition of land whereon there is a life estate, the life tenant may join in the proceeding and on a sale the interest on the value of the share of the life tenant shall be received and paid to such life tenant annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of such share during the probable life of such life tenant shall be ascertained and paid out of the proceeds to such life tenant absolutely.

Rev., s. 2509; 1887, c. 214, s. 3.

See section 3226. This section does not apply to an estate during widowhood: Gillespie v. Allison, 117-512. That one of tenants is seized of estate for life and the others are seized in fee is no bar to action for partition: McEachern v. Gilchrist, 75-196.

Where land is held in trust to allow the daughter to occupy and enjoy rents for life, with power of sale for reinvestment, with remainder over, upon a sale made the daughter is not entitled to have the life estate valued and paid over in money: Braddy v. Dail, 156-30.

3236. Sale of standing timber on partition; valuation of life estate. When two or more persons own, as tenants in common, joint tenants, or copartners, a tract of land, either in possession, or in remainder or reversion, subject to a life estate, on which there may be standing timber trees, a sale of said timber trees, separate from the land, may be had upon the petition of one or more of said owners, or the life tenant, for partition among the owners thereof, including the life tenant, upon such terms as the court may order, and under like proceedings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for partition: Provided, that when the land is subject to a life estate, the life tenant shall be made a party to the proceedings, and shall be entitled to receive his portion of the net proceeds of sales, to be ascertained under the mortuary tables established by law.

3237. Sale of mineral interests on partition. In case of the partition of mineral interests, in all instances where it is made to appear to the court that it would be for the best interests of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, of such interests to have the same sold, or if actual partition of the same cannot be had without injury to some or all of such tenants (in common), then it is lawful for and the duty of the court to order a sale of such mineral interests and a division of the proceeds as the interests of the parties may appear.

Rev., s. 2507; 1905, c. 90, s. 2.

3238. Sale of land required for public use on cotenant's petition. When the lands of joint tenants or tenants in common are required for public purposes, one or more of such tenants, or their guardian for them, may file a petition verified by oath, in the superior court of the county where the lands or any part of them lie, setting forth therein that the lands are required for public purposes, and that their interests would be promoted by a sale thereof. Whereupon the court, all proper parties being before it, and the facts alleged in the petition being ascertained to be true, shall order a sale of such lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in the manner and on the terms it deems expedient. The expenses, fees and costs of this proceeding shall be paid in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 2518; Code, s. 1907; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 16.
3239. Manner and terms of partition sale. The sale shall be made by some person appointed by the court, on such terms as to size of lots, place or manner of sale, time of credit and security for payment of purchase money, as may be most advantageous to the parties concerned.

Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.

The court has power to order a private sale under proper circumstances: Ryder v. Oates, 173-569; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145—and this may be by first directing a sale and authorizing a private bid, or by recognizing a bid already made: Wooten v. Cunningham, 171-123.

3240. Notice of partition sale. The notice of sale, under this proceeding, shall be the same as required by law on sales of real estate by sheriff under execution.

See section 687 et seq.

3241. Title made to purchaser; effect of deed. On the coming in of the report of sale, and confirmation thereof, and payment of the purchase money, the title shall be made to the purchaser or purchasers at such time and by such person as the court may direct, and in all cases where the persons in possession have been made parties to the proceeding, the court may grant an order for possession. And the deed of the officer or person designated to make such sale shall convey to the purchaser such title and estate in the property as tenants in common, or joint tenants, had.

Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 18, 31.

Until confirmation is made no title vests in purchaser, though deed is executed: Patillo v. Lytle, 158-92; Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6. A commissioner's deed in a sale for partition conveys only such title as the tenants in common had: Jordan v. Faulkner, 168-466.

When a nonresident minor is a party, represented by guardian, and the proceedings are regular, the purchaser at partition sale gets a good title: Credle v. Baugham, 152-18.

When commissioner is ordered to make deed to purchaser upon payment of purchase money, it means when the money is actually paid: Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6; Macay, ex parte, 84-59. The absence of the word "commissioner" after the signature to a deed does not affect its validity: McLean v. Patterson, 84-429.

When land is ordered to be sold at judicial sale, it is under control of court until title is made to purchaser under order of court: Kemp v. Kemp, 85-491; Lord v. Meroney, 79-14. A payment made by purchaser to the guardian of one of the tenants in common is proper: Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75.

An innocent purchaser will be protected if it appears that the court had jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter: Rackley v. Roberts, 147-201.

Where purchaser complied with terms of sale and deed was made to his wife and registered, though bid was not assigned, creditors cannot have wife declared a trustee for husband, in absence of fraud or preexisting debts: Evans v. Cullens, 122-55.

3242. Who appointed to sell. The court may authorize any officer thereof, or any other competent person, to be designated in the decree of sale, to sell the real estate under this proceeding; but no clerk of any court shall appoint himself or his deputy to make sale of real property or other property in any proceeding before him.

Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15; 1899, c. 161.

Clerk should not appoint himself commissioner to sell: Evans v. Cullens, 122-55.

3243. Report of sale; filing; confirmation and impeachment. Such officer or person shall file his report of sale, giving full particulars thereof, within ten days after the sale, in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and if no exception thereto is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after the confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby.

See section 3228.

Until there has been a final decree of confirmation, the court may in a proper case make an order for partition or sale: Taylor v. Carrow, 156-6.

The court may set aside a sale for partition where it appears that the commissioner failed to comply with order of court as to terms, and where there was a mistake as to the area of the land: Blue v. Blue, 79-69.

No notice to the parties is required for confirmation, but the sale is confirmed unless objection is made or advanced bid filed within twenty days: Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88.

A resale will be ordered when the first sale is made under circumstances calculated to arouse suspicion: Camp Mfg. Co. v. Liverman, 123-7. A tenant in common in control of premises, if appointed commissioner to sell, cannot purchase directly or indirectly at such sale: Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484.

That next friend of an infant has an adverse interest will not be sufficient to disturb the decree, unless fraud is shown: Ivey v. McKinnon, 84-651. An infant, after coming of age, may ratify an irregular sale by accepting the benefits: Smith v. Gray, 116-311. It is not improper for a guardian to purchase at partition sale of ward's land when he is a cotenant and it is necessary to protect his interest: Credle v. Baugham, 152-18.

It is within the discretion of the court to order a resale upon an advanced bid of ten per cent: Sutton v. Craddock, 174-274; Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88; Thompson v. Rospiogliosi, 162-145; Uzzle v. Weil, 151-311. See section 2591.

The time required for filing objections applies to public and private sales ordered by the court: Thompson v. Rospiogliosi, 162-145—and this does not interfere with the power of the court to set aside the sale and order a resale upon an advanced bid, Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173-88; Ex parte Garrett, 174-343.

An unregistered deed made by some of the tenants in common is not good as against a deed by the same parties and for the same interest, subsequently made and registered, after decree of sale but before confirmation: McLean v. Leitch, 152-266.

Judgment on purchase-money note may be had by motion in the cause: Lord v. Beard, 79-5.

3244. Shares in proceeds to cotenants secured. Upon confirmation of the report, the court shall secure to each tenant in common, or joint tenant, his ratable share in severalty of the proceeds of sale.

Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 31.

3245. Shares to persons unknown or not sui juris secured. When a sale is made under this chapter, and any party to the proceedings be an infant, a married woman, non compos mentis, imprisoned, or beyond the limits of the state, or when the name of any tenant in common is not known, it is the duty of the court to decree the share of such party, in the proceeds of sale, to be so invested or settled that the same may be secured to such party or his real representative.

Rev., s. 2516; Code, s. 1908; 1887, c. 284, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 17.

Administrator of a deceased ward is not entitled to recover, in an action against the administrator of the deceased guardian, moneys which came into the guardian's hands as proceeds of real estate belonging to ward sold under a decree of court for partition: Allison v. Robinson, 78-222.

Purchaser for value without notice is not affected by failure of court to retain and invest funds to protect right of unknown persons: Lawrence v. Hardy, 151-123.

In case of persons under disability the conversion from realty to personality by sale for partition does not take effect until the parties entitled can exercise their right of election: McLean v. Leitch, 152-266; Hall v. Short, 81-273—as to others not under disability the conversion takes effect from confirmation of the sale, Ibid.

ART. 3. PARTITION OF LANDS IN TWO STATES

3246. Petition to partition lands in two states descended or devised. Whenever on the death of any person his lands in this state, and in another state, descend or are devised to several persons, who, by the law of this and the other state, hold in the lands undivided estates as tenants in common, or by any other undivided tenancy, and such heirs or devisees cannot, without suit, have partition for want of consent, or because of inability in any of the cotenants, then, if such deceased person was at the time of his death a resident of the state, or not then a resident of any of the states in which his lands lie, and in the last case the most valuable part of such lands lie in this state, such heir or devisee, or any person claiming under him, may file a petition in the superior court for the county where the deceased resided at his death, or where any part of the land lies in this state, setting forth all the lands in which the plaintiff has an undivided estate, without and within the state, described by their names and boundaries, or by the adjoining tracts, and also the estate the deceased had in them, and the supposed value of the lands in each state, and the share, in severalty, to which the plaintiff and each of his cotenants is entitled under the laws of the several states, and praying for partition to be made of all the tracts, according to their respective interests. The material facts set forth in the petition shall be verified by the affidavit of the plaintiff or his guardian, or other person, at the discretion of the court; and all persons concerned in interest in the lands shall be made parties, according to the practice of the superior court in this state.

Rev., s. 2499; Code, s. 1911; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 20.

3247. Court may decree partition. On the hearing of the petition, the court may decree a partition; and shall allot in severalty to each tenant his just share of the lands, according to the value of his interest in the same, by the laws of the several states in which they are situated.

Rev., s. 2500; Code, s. 1912; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 21.

3248. Commissioners appointed; how partition made; report and confirmation. The court making such decree shall issue a commission to three respectable freeholders in this or any other state where any part of the land may lie, unconnected by blood or interest with the parties, directing them or a majority of them to make partition between the cotenants, plaintiffs and defendants in said petition, and to assign each his respective share in the value, in severalty, in any tract or tracts, in any or all the states. Before making the allotment the commissioners shall make a valuation of all the lands held by the cotenants in all the said states; and where they cannot, without injury to the value of some shares, make an exact division of the lands, they shall charge the more valuable dividends with money to be paid to the tenants of a less valuable dividend to make equality of partition. They shall report their proceedings as they may be directed, and the report shall contain a valuation of all the estate in this and the other states, and the division among the cotenants according to such valuation. The court may confirm such report, or on sufficient cause shown may correct and alter, or set it aside and order a new commission.

3249. Provisions as to owelty. Where any sum is charged on a more valuable dividend, it shall be a charge on the land into whose hands soever it may come, although it may be taken without notice, and shall bear interest at a rate not greater than allowed in this state. The tenant of the larger dividend may discharge himself from accruing interest by paying the whole amount due at any time. The court may direct, if the tenant taking such a dividend is an infant, that the sum charged shall not be paid till a future day.

3250. Final decree; enrollment and registry; service on parties; effect. The court shall, upon the confirmation of any report of the commissioners, make a final decree. And where all the parties are within the jurisdiction of this court, the court shall, by the usual proceedings, direct and compel the parties to execute and deliver deeds and assurances, sufficient, by the laws of this state and the other states, to give the partition full force and validity in all the states; and in case any of the parties are under such disabilities that they cannot execute such assurances, or are without the jurisdiction of the court, then the court, upon receiving evidence from the plaintiff that, by a law of the other state in which lie the parts of the lands described in the petition to be without this state, the decree can have effect thereon, shall direct the decree to be enrolled, and a copy of it shall be registered in the register’s office of all the counties within this state where any of the lands lie; and a copy shall also be furnished to the plaintiff or other party interested, duly certified, to the end that, as to the lands without this state, it may be carried into effect in the state in which the said lands may be, in such manner as said state may direct; and on satisfactory evidence being made to the court in this state that the decree may have full effect by the law of such other state, the court in this state shall by its decree declare the partition in the land in this state to be final and conclusive. The decree shall be firm and irreversible, as hereinafter provided; and shall, on registration as aforesaid, pass to the tenants the title in severalty to the lands in this state in the same manner as if all the land mentioned in the decree were situate within this state.

3251. Effectuating decree of sister state; enrollment; registry and confirmation; effect. Where real estate may be partly in this state and partly in another state, and the deceased person from whom it was derived by descent or devise was, at the time of his death, a resident of some other state, or was a resident of none of the states in which he held lands, and in this last case the lands of which he was seized in this state were of less value than the lands of which he was seized in any other state, the courts of the state in which such deceased person had his residence at his death, or in which he held lands of greater value than those he held in this state, shall have full power and authority, under any law passed by the legislature of such state substantially in accordance with the provisions herein made on this subject, to decree partition of the lands in this state, together with those within such other state, in the same manner as if the whole real estate were within the jurisdiction of such court, and in the same manner as the courts in this state are directed and authorized to do by the preceding section, as to the lands of deceased persons resident here at their death, or leaving lands of greater value here than in any other state. In case any person having an interest in the final decree, made as aforesaid in another state, as to lands in this state, shall, within twelve months after the same may be entered up in the courts of said state, produce the records and proceedings of such courts of record duly certified to a superior court of any county in this state where any of the lands of this state lie, the court, on petition ex parte in such case, shall order such proceedings to be entered of record in the court of this state, and order that the said decree shall be of the same force and validity as if it had been a decree of the court in this state in which the petition is filed, upon a petition and regular proceedings had thereon, and the decree of the court of such other state, and the proceedings on it by petition in the superior court in this state confirming it and giving it validity, being enrolled in the said court of this state and registered in all the counties where the lands lie in this state, shall pass the lands in this state, according to the decree, and shall vest estates in severalty therein declared, as to said lands, in the same manner and with the same effect in law as if the lands in this state had been so allotted on a petition for partition, according to the provisions of the former sections of this chapter.

3252. When court may decide whether statute passed in another state. Where a copy of a decree and proceedings of a suit in any other state are produced, as in the preceding section, and also when it is necessary for a superior court to be certified that its decree of a partition of lands without this state and within the territory of another state can have effect herein, it is competent for the judge of the superior court before which the existence of a law in such other state is to be proved, to decide whether any act of the legislature of such state has been passed.

ART. 4. Partition of Personal Property

3253. Personal property may be partitioned; commissioners appointed. When any persons entitled as tenants in common, or joint tenants, of personal property desire to have a division of the same, they, or either of them, may file a petition in the superior court for that purpose; and the court, if it think the petitioners entitled to relief, shall appoint three disinterested commissioners, who, being first duly sworn, shall proceed within twenty days after notice of their appointment to divide such property as nearly equal as possible among the tenants in common, or joint tenants.

Rev., s. 2504; Code, s. 1917; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 27.

Remedy of a tenant in common to recover his interest in specific goods is by partition: Powell v. Hill, 64-169; Grim v. Wicker, 80-344.

One tenant in common or joint owner of personal property cannot maintain action against other tenant or owner to recover exclusive possession of property: Thompson v. Silverthorne, 142-13, and cases cited.

If, pending a proceeding for partition of personalty, defendant threatens destruction or removal of property, court on application might enjoin him or appoint receiver: Ibid.
3254. Report of commissioners. The commissioners shall report their proceedings under the hands of any two of them, and shall file their report in the office of the clerk of the superior court within five days after the partition was made.
Rev., s. 2505; Code, s. 1918; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 28.
Section referred to in Best v. Dunn, 126-560; Clement v. Ireland, 129-222.

3255. Sale of personal property on partition; report of officer. If a division of personal property owned by any persons as tenants in common, or joint tenants, cannot be had without injury to some of the parties interested, and a sale thereof is deemed necessary, the court shall order a sale to be made by some officer of the court or other competent person, who shall file his report of sale in the office of the clerk of the court within ten days after sale.
Rev., s. 2519; Code, s. 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 29.

3256. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer. If no exception to the report of the commissioners making partition, or to the report of the officer making sale, as the case may be, is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby.
Rev., ss. 2505, 2519; Code, ss. 1918, 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 28, 29.

CHAPTER 64

PARTNERSHIP

ART. 1. LIMITED PARTNERSHIP.

3258. Purposes for which formed. Limited partnerships for the transaction of any mercantile, manufacturing or mechanical business within the state may be formed by two or more persons, upon the terms and with the rights and powers and subject to the conditions and liabilities in this chapter; but its provisions shall not be construed to authorize any such partnership for the conducting of a banking or insurance business, other than writing or soliciting insurance.

Rev., s. 2521; Code, s. 3088; 1860-1, c. 28.

See Johnson v. Bernheim, 76-139, 86-339.

Where liability of defendant, sued in a justice's court as a general partner of a partnership indebted to plaintiff, depended upon legal sufficiency of articles of limited partnership and matters connected with their registration and publication, and there being no equities to adjust, justice had jurisdiction: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

Section referred to in Supply Co. v. Lyon, 173-445.
3259. General and special partners; liability. Such partnerships may consist of one or more persons, who are general partners, and are jointly and severally responsible as partners are now by law, and of one or more persons, who contribute in actual cash payments a specific sum as capital to the common stock, who are called special partners, and who are not liable for the debts of the partnership beyond the funds so contributed to the capital.

3260. Certificate filed; contents. The persons desirous of forming such partnership must make and severally sign a certificate containing: First, the name or firm under which such partnership is to be conducted; second, the general nature of the business to be transacted; third, the names of all the general and special partners interested therein, distinguishing which are general and which are special partners, and their respective places of residence; fourth, the amount of capital which each special partner has contributed to the common stock; fifth, the period at which such partnership is to commence and terminate.

3261. Certificate proved and registered. The certificate must be acknowledged or proved before some one competent to take the probate of deeds and ordered registered in the same manner as provided for deeds, and must be registered in the county in which the principal place of business of such partnership is situated. If the partnership has places of business in different counties, a transcript of the certificate and acknowledgment certified by the register must be registered and filed in the register's office of each of such counties.

Rev., s. 2524; Code, ss. 3091, 3092; 1860-1, c. 28, ss. 4, 5.

3262. Affidavit as to cash payment. At the time the certificate is ordered to be registered an affidavit of one or more of the general partners shall be made before the officer taking such acknowledgment, stating that the sums specified in the certificate to have been contributed by each of the special partners to the common stock have been actually in good faith paid in cash, and the affidavit so made shall be registered with the original certificate.

Rev., s. 2525; Code, s. 3093; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 6.

3263. Probate and registration necessary. No such partnership shall be deemed to have been formed until such certificate and affidavit have been made, acknowledged, or proved, and registered as required in the preceding sections.

Rev., s. 2526; Code, s. 3094; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 7.

3264. Effect of false statement. If any false statement is made in such certificate or affidavit, all the persons interested in such partnership shall be liable as general partners.

Rev., s. 2527; Code, s. 3095; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 8.

3265. Terms of partnership published. The terms of the partnership must be published immediately after its formation for six successive weeks, in at least one newspaper in the same county or near the place of said partnership business, and if such publication be not made, the partnership shall be deemed general.

Rev., s. 2528; Code, s. 3096; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 9.
Publication of terms of partnership in a newspaper is indispensable in order to constitute a limited partnership; if such publication be omitted the partnership is general: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84. See, also, Supply Co. v. Lyon, 173-445.

3266. Proof of publication. Affidavits of such publication, made by the proprietor of such newspaper in which the same is published, may be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such business is conducted, and shall be evidence of the fact.
Rev., s. 2529; Code, s. 3097; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 10.

3267. Requirements for renewals and continuances. Every renewal or continuance of such partnership beyond the time originally fixed for its duration must be certified, acknowledged and registered, and an affidavit of a general partner made and filed, and notice given by publication as required for its original formation, and every such partnership which is otherwise continued must be deemed a general partnership: Provided, the affidavit herein required may state that the amount of cash therein specified had been originally paid in good faith, and that it is represented by goods or merchandise then on hand, and has not been impaired in the course of trade.
Rev., s. 2530; Code, s. 3098; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 11.

3268. Alteration deemed a dissolution. Every alteration which is made in the names of the partners, in the nature of the business, in the capital or shares thereof or in any other matter specified in the original certificate must be deemed a dissolution of the partnership; and any such partnership which is in any manner carried on after such alteration has been made must be deemed a general partnership, unless renewed as a special partnership, according to the preceding sections.
Rev., s. 2531; Code, s. 3099; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 12.

3269. Name of firm. The business of the partnership must be conducted under a firm, in which the names of the general partners only are inserted, without the addition of the word "company" or any other general term, except the word "limited"; and if the name of any special partner is used in the firm with his privity, he shall be deemed a general partner.
Rev., s. 2532; Code, s. 3100; 1899, c. 75; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 13.

3270. Actions as in general partnership. Suits in relation to the business of the partnership may be brought and conducted by and against the general partner in the same manner as if there was no special partner.
Rev., s. 2533; Code, s. 3101; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 14.

3271. Special stock not withdrawn nor reduced. No part of the sum which any special partner has contributed to the capital stock must be withdrawn by or paid to him in the shape of dividends, profits or otherwise, at any time during the continuance of the partnership; but any partner may annually receive lawful interest on the sum so contributed by him, if the payment of such interest does not reduce the original amount of such capital; and if, after the payment of such interest, any profit remain to be divided, he may receive his portion of such profits.
Rev., s. 2534; Code, s. 3102; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 15.
3272. Depleted capital restored. If it appears by the payment of interest or profits to any special partner that the original capital has been reduced, the partner receiving the same is bound to restore the amount necessary to make good his share of the capital without interest.

Rev., s. 2535; Code, s. 3103; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 16.

3273. Rights of special partner. A special partner may from time to time examine into the state and progress of the partnership concern; he may advise as to its management and act as attorney at law, but must not transact any other of the partnership business, nor be employed for that purpose as agent or otherwise; and if he interfere contrary to this section he is deemed a general partner.

Rev., s. 2536; Code, s. 3104; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 17.

3274. Accounting inter se. The general partners are liable to account to each other, and to the special partners, for their management of the partnership, as other partners.

Rev., s. 2537; Code, s. 3105; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 18.

3275. Special partner as a creditor in insolvency. In case of the bankruptcy or insolvency of the partnership, no special partner, under any circumstances, is to be allowed to claim as a creditor until the claims of all the other creditors of the partnership are satisfied.

Rev., s. 2538; Code, s. 3107; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 20.

3276. Notice of dissolution. No dissolution of such partnership by the acts of the parties must take place before the time specified in the certificate of its formation, or in the certificate of its renewal, until a notice of its dissolution has been registered in the register’s office in which the original certificate was registered, and published once a week for four successive weeks in the nearest newspaper to each of the places where the partnership transacts its business.

Rev., s. 2539; Code, s. 3108; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 21.

Art. 2. Surviving Partners

3277. Surviving partner to give bond. Upon the death of any member of a partnership, the surviving partner shall, within thirty days, execute before the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership business was conducted, a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, with sufficient surety conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties in the settlement of the partnership affairs. The amount of such bond shall be fixed by the clerk of the court; and the settlement of the estate and the liability of the bond shall be the same as under the law governing administrators and their bonds.

3278. Effect of failure to give bond. Upon the failure of the surviving partner to execute the bond provided for in the preceding section, the clerk of the superior court shall, upon application of any person interested in the estate of the deceased partner, appoint a collector of the partnership, who shall be governed by the same law governing an administrator of a deceased person.

3279. Surviving partner and personal representative make inventory. When a member of any partnership dies the surviving partner, within sixty days after the death of the deceased partner, together with the personal representative of the deceased partner, shall make out a full and complete inventory of the assets of the partnership, including real estate, if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, a copy of which inventory and schedule shall be retained by the surviving partner, and a copy thereof shall be furnished to the personal representative of the deceased partner.

This section is not retroactive: Bank v. Hodgin, 129-247.

Death of a partner, in absence of any stipulation in an agreement to the contrary, works an immediate dissolution, and title to assets vests in surviving partner, impressed with a trust to close up partnership business, pay debts, and turn over to his personal representative the share of deceased partner: Walker v. Miller, 139-448; Sherrod v. Mayo, 156-144; Weisel v. Cobb, 114-22.

After dissolution of firm by death of one of the partners, it is the duty of the surviving partner to settle up the joint estate in the manner most conducive to the interest of all concerned: Calvert v. Miller, 94-600; Hodgin v. Bank, 128-110.

An arrangement between distributees and legatees to permit their property, with consent and cooperation of personal representatives of deceased partners, to remain in common and to be used for their joint benefit, adopting name of old firm, constitutes a partnership: Walker v. Miller, 139-448.

Surviving partner who assigns partnership property of insolvent firm to pay his own debts pro rata with those of firm cannot be allowed to testify that he did not thereby intend to defraud firm creditors: Commission Co. v. Porter, 122-692.

Where one of the members of a firm was constituted as general managing agent by the articles of partnership, and upon the death of one partner, his executor consented to a continuance of the business: Held, that manager became agent of the executor, as well as of the other surviving members: Patterson v. Lilly, 90-82.

In an action for goods sold to a firm, the testimony of one partner, who admitted his liability by failing to answer, that the goods were furnished by the plaintiff on the order of the firm, is not competent as against the executor of the deceased partner or as against the firm: Moore v. Palmer, 132-969; Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643.

Notice of dissolution is not necessary to prevent liability for future contracts attaching to estate of deceased or surviving partner: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

Where an administrator of one alleged to have been a partner in a certain concern is sued upon a partnership obligation, the surviving partner is incompetent to testify that defendant's intestate was a partner: Moore v. Palmer, 132-969; Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643, 123-656; Lion v. Pender, 118-147; Sykes v. Parker, 95-232.

3280. When personal representative may take inventory; receiver. If the surviving partner neglect or refuse to have such inventory made, the personal representative of the deceased partner may have the same made in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section. Should any surviving partner fail to take such an inventory or refuse to allow the personal representative of the deceased partner's estate to do so, such personal representative of the deceased partner's estate may forthwith apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver for such partnership, who shall thereupon proceed to wind up the same and dispose of the assets thereof in accordance with law.

Rev., s. 2541; 1901, c. 640, s. 2.

An assignment by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm for an indefinite term, assignee to have right to employ servants and to replenish stock and out of proceeds to pay firm debts and also to pay individual debts of survivor pro rata, is fraudulent as against creditors: Commission Co. v. Porter, 122-692—a receiver might be appointed to administer partnership assets, though deed was not set aside, Ibid.

Where surviving partner conveyed assets to assignee to settle estate, it was duty of assignee, notwithstanding a contrary custom in the town where the business had been conducted, to charge and collect interest on all good overdue accounts from the end of a year after dissolution of partnership, and is liable to surviving partner for his failure to do so: Weisel v. Cobb, 118-11. Assignee is chargeable with interest on moneys of a partnership collected by him for the surviving partner and kept after twelve months from the time he assumed the trust until he disbursed it: Ibid. Compensation of assignee of a surviving partner appointed to settle partnership: Ibid.

In case of danger of misapplication by surviving partner of partnership funds, courts may, in behalf of representatives of a deceased partner, restrain by injunction surviving partner from such acts or grant other proper relief: Hodgin v. Bank, 128-111.

Where surviving partner is appointed receiver of firm, he cannot maintain an action against one who, as surety and for accommodation of deceased partner, endorsed latter's note, which was discounted by the firm, if it appear that the assets of the partnership are sufficient to pay its debts and leave a surplus, against deceased partner's share of which the note can be charged: Patton v. Carr, 117-176.

3281. Notice to creditors. Every surviving partner, within thirty days after the death of the deceased partner, shall notify all persons having claims against the partnership which were in existence at the time of the death of the deceased partner, to exhibit the same to the surviving partner within twelve months from the date of first publication of such notice. The notice shall be published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper (if there be any) published in the county where the partnership existed. If there should be no newspaper published in the county, then the notice shall be posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county.

3282. Debts paid pro rata; liens. All debts and demands against a copartner-ship, where one partner has died, shall be paid pro rata, except debts which are a specific lien on property belonging to the partnership.

Rev., s. 2543; 1901, c. 640, s. 4.

Claim of surviving partner upon proceeds of sale of deceased partner's half of real estate (here mill property) to reimburse him to the amount of half the expenditures incurred in the conduct of joint business and improvements put upon the property, constitute a prior encumbrance, and must be paid to the postponement of creditors of the deceased partner: Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84-646.

Creditors advancing money to surviving partner, in good faith, to enable him to finish work and use up raw material, are entitled to pay out of partnership assets: Calvert v. Miller, 94-600; see Howell v. Mfg. Co., 116-806.

Surety of a deceased partner on a debt due to the partnership has the right to compel the application of such deceased partner's share of assets in the hands of surviving partner to payment of debt in exoneration of such surety's liability: Patton v. Carr, 117-176.

While a surviving partner cannot enter into contracts or create liabilities which will bind estate of deceased partner, yet he is not bound to sacrifice the interest of the firm, and if he contract debts, bona fide, for the interest of the common property, he may pay them out of the common fund: Calvert v. Miller, 94-600.

In a suit by a surviving partner for a firm debt, a personal debt of such survivor may be pleaded as a set-off: Hogg v. Ashe, 2-471; Norment v. Johnston, 32-90—but a debt of the deceased partner cannot be so pleaded, Norment v. Johnston, 32-89.

A bank cannot apply deposit standing in name of surviving partner to the payment of partnership debts: Hodgin v. Bank, 125-503.

Note executed by a member of a partnership to a third party who, as surety and for the accommodation of the maker, endorses it and receives no benefit from it, cannot be subject of an action at law against indorser by the firm, nor, in case of death of maker of note, can surviving partner maintain an action on note against accommodation indorser unless firm be insolvent: Patton v. Carr, 117-176.
A surviving partner who, more than two years after dissolution of firm, indorsed a note in firm name for renewal of notes outstanding similarly indorsed, was individually liable on such indorsement, though it did not bind firm: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

3283. Effect of failure to present claim in twelve months. In an action brought on a claim which was not presented within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, the surviving partner shall not be chargeable for any assets that he may have paid in satisfaction of any debts before such action was commenced, nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the surviving partner.

3284. Procedure for purchase by surviving partner:

1. Appraisal of property. The surviving partner may, if he so desire, make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership existed, after first giving notice to the executor or administrator of the time of the hearing of such application, for the appointment of three judicious, disinterested appraisers, one of whom may be named by the surviving partner, one by the representative of the deceased partner’s estate, and the third named by the two appraisers selected, whose duty it shall be to make out under oath a full and complete inventory and appraisement of the entire assets of the partnership, including real estate if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, and to deliver the same to the surviving partner; they shall also deliver a copy to the executor or administrator, and file a copy with the clerk of the court.

2. Surviving partner may purchase. The surviving partner may, with the consent of the executor or administrator of the deceased partner and the approval of the clerk of the superior court by whom such executor or administrator was appointed, purchase the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets at the appraised value thereof, including the good will of the business, first deducting therefrom the debts and liabilities of the partnership, for cash or upon giving to the executor or administrator his promissory note or notes, with good approved security, and satisfactory to the executor or administrator, for the payment of the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets.

3. Surviving partner to give bond. In case the surviving partner shall avail himself of the privilege of purchasing such interest as provided for in this section, he shall give bond to the executor or administrator with surety for the payment of the debts and liabilities of the partnership, and for the performance of all contracts for which the partnership is liable.

4. Sale of real estate. In case of such sale of the real estate belonging to the partnership, the title to the real estate so purchased shall not pass until the sale thereof has been reported to and confirmed by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership was located, in a special proceeding to which the widow and heirs at law or devisees of the deceased partner are duly made parties.

3285. Surviving partner to account and settle. In case the surviving partner shall not avail himself of the privilege of purchasing the interest of the deceased partner, he shall, within twelve months from the death of the deceased partner, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership was located, an account, under oath, stating his action as surviving partner, and shall come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court shall have power, upon good cause shown, to extend the time within which said final settlement shall be made. The surviving partner for his services in settling the partnership estate shall receive commissions to be allowed by the court, and in no case to exceed five per cent out of the share of the deceased partner.

In the absence of evidence to the contrary, each partner is presumed to be equally interested in the joint business: Worthy v. Brower, 93-344; Taylor v. Taylor, 6-70.

Where the surviving partner acts in good faith in his fiduciary character he cannot be charged with loss: Thompson v. Rogers, 69-357.

In stating an account between an executor and surviving partner of testator, it is not error to charge surviving partner with the value of a note, due testator of plaintiff individually, if such note arose from or grew out of the business of the copartnership: Royster v. Johnson, 73-474.

A surviving partner has no power, after dissolution, to renew or endorse a firm note in the name of the firm: Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135-556.

Surviving partner of insolvent firm is not entitled to have his personal property exemption paid out of partnership assets: Commission Co. v. Porter, 122-692.

3286. Accounting compelled. In case any surviving partner fails to come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner within the time prescribed by law, the clerk of the superior court may, at the instance of such executor, administrator or other person interested in such deceased partnership estate, cite the surviving partners to a final settlement as provided for by law in the case of executors and administrators.

Rev., s. 2547; 1901, c. 640, s. 8.

3287. Settlement otherwise provided for. When the original articles of partnership in force at the death of any partner or the will of a deceased partner make provision for the settlement of the deceased partner's interest in the partnership, and for a disposition thereof different from that provided for in this chapter, the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership shall be settled and disposed of in accordance with the provisions of such articles of partnership or of such will.

Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6.

Art. 3. Business Under Assumed Name Regulated

3288. Certificate filed; contents. No person shall hereafter carry on, conduct or transact business in this state under assumed name, or under any designation, name or style other than the real name of the individual owning, conducting or transacting such business, unless such person shall file in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such person owns, conducts or transacts, or intends to own, conduct or transact such business, or maintain an office or place of business, a certificate setting forth the name under which such business owned is or is to be conducted or transacted, and the true or real full name of the person owning, conducting or transacting the same, with the home and postoffice address of such person. The certificate shall be executed and duly acknowledged by the person so owning, conducting or intending to conduct such business: Provided, that the selling of goods by sample or through traveling agents or traveling salesmen, or by means of orders forwarded by the purchaser through the mails, shall not be construed for the purpose of this section as conducting or transacting business so as to require the filing of such certificates.

This section, being highly penal in its nature, is to be strictly construed: Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176:82; Price v. Edwards, 178:493. It was intended to protect third persons in dealing with such partnerships, and does not apply to dealings between the partners themselves: Price

Where the title of the business containing the surname of the proprietor is such as to afford a reasonable guide to a correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, it is not an "assumed name" within this section: Befarah v. Spell, 176:193; Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176:82.

3289. Index of certificates kept by clerk. The several clerks of the superior court of this state shall keep an alphabetical index of all persons filing certificates provided for herein, and for the indexing and filing of such certificates they shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. A copy of such certificates duly certifed by the clerk in whose office the same shall be filed shall be presumptive evidence in all courts of law in this state of the facts therein contained.

1913, c. 77, s. 2.

3290. Corporations and limited partnerships not affected. This article shall in no way affect or apply to any corporation created and organized under the laws of this state, or to any corporation organized under the laws of any other state and lawfully doing business in this state, nor shall it in any manner affect the right of any persons to form limited partnerships as provided by the laws of this state.

1913, c. 77, s. 3.

3291. Violation of article misdemeanor. Any person owning, carrying on or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, who shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not exceeding thirty days: Provided, however, that the failure of any person or persons owning, carrying on, or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, to comply with the provisions of this article shall not prevent a recovery by said person or persons in any civil action brought in any of the courts of this state.

Violation of the provisions as to business under assumed name would prevent a recovery upon a contract: Courtney v. Parker, 173:479—changed by act of 1919, c. 2.

3292. Person trading as "company" or "agent" to disclose real parties; married woman not disclosing, a free trader. If any person shall transact business as trader or merchant, with the addition of the words "factor," "agent," "& Company" or "& Co.,” or shall conduct such business under any name or style other than his own, except in case of a corporation, and fail to disclose the name of his principal or partner by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted; or if any married woman conducts such business through her husband or any other agent, or if a husband or agent of any married woman conducts such business for her without displaying the Christian name of such married woman, and the fact that she is a feme covert, by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted, then all the property, stock of goods and merchandise, and choses in action pur-bought, used and contracted in the course of such business shall, as to creditors, be liable for the debts contracted in the course of such business by the person in charge of same. A married woman conducting such business as aforesaid without complying with the provisions of this section shall for all purposes be deemed and treated, as to all debts contracted in the course of such business, as a free trader as fully as if she had in all respects complied with the provisions of law for a registered free trader: Provided, this section shall not apply to any person transacting business under license as an auctioneer, broker, or commission merchant; in all actions under this section it is incumbent on such trader, merchant or married woman to prove compliance with the same.

Rev., s. 2118; 1905, c. 448. Section is constitutional: Scott v. Ferguson, 152-346. The purpose of the section is to prevent a married woman from conducting business by her husband or other agent in such a way as to mislead creditors: Weld v. Shop Co., 147-588.

Stock of goods belonging to the wife and in the hands of her husband as agent is liable for debts for goods sold to the husband: Scott v. Ferguson, 152-346—and an action may be brought in a justice's court, Ibid. This section applies to a married woman as a member of a firm, the name of which does not disclose the fact of coverture: Stone Co. v. McLamb, 153-378—and a mortgage executed by the manager of such firm is valid, Ibid.

This section does not apply where goods were sold to the wife, not a free trader, by agent of creditors who knew the husband and was by him referred to the wife: Weld v. Shop Co., 147-588.

The husband is not liable under this section when the wife's name is disclosed by proper sign, unless he has been guilty of fraud: Morse v. Schultz, 156-165. Failing to comply with this section does not deprive the married woman of her right to exemptions: Grocery Co. v.
Bails, 177-298.

Rev., s. 989; Code, s. 1246; 1899, c. 285; 1895, c. 161, ss. 1, 3; 1897, c. 87.

For powers of commissioners of affidavits, see section 967—of clerks of courts of other states, see section 968. For forms of acknowledgment and proof, see sections 3322-3328.

The taking of acknowledgment of a deed by a justice of the peace, commissioner, or notary public is a judicial, or at least a quasi-judicial, act: Long v. Crews, 113-256; Piland v. Taylor, 113-1; Paul v. Carpenter, 70-502; State v. Knight, 169-333. Registration upon an acknowledgment before an officer not authorized to take it is not even notice to creditors and subsequent purchasers: Long v. Crews, 113-256, and cases cited. Commissioner of deeds of this state is not required to affix seal to certificate acknowledging execution of deed conveying land in this state: Johnson v. Duvall, 135-642—not is it necessary for seal to be affixed to certificate acknowledging execution of deed conveying land in this state: Johnson v. Duvall, 135-642—nor is it necessary for seal to be affixed to certificate acknowledging execution of deed conveying land in this state: Westfelt v. Adams, 131-379; but see section 3297.

It is not required that the justice of the peace subscribe the probate; it is sufficient if his name appears in the body of it: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205. Probate taken by a de facto officer is valid: Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202.

Certificate of probate by proper officer must be accepted as true when comes up collaterally, and recitals cannot be disproved nor omissions supplied by extraneous proof: Wynne v. Small, 102-133. Distinction between probates by clerks of courts and commissioners of affidavits pointed out in Evans v. Etheridge, 99-43. Justice of peace cannot correct certificate to deed after term of office has expired: Cook v. Pittman, 144-530—nor can probate officer afterwards change the certificate except to show what was done at the time, Butler v. Butler, 169-584.

Proceeding to establish and declare probate of deed where probate had been lost or destroyed: Mills v. McDaniel, 161-112; s. c., 155-249.

AS TO DISQUALIFICATIONS TO TAKE ACKNOWLEDGMENT OR PROOF. An officer interested in a deed, either as party, trustee or cestui que trust, is disqualified to take acknowledgment of its execution: Long v. Crowe, 113:256; Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Jones v. Johnson, 133:487; McAllister v. Purcell, 124-262; Blanton v. Bostic, 126-421; Land Co. v. Jennett, 128-3; Freeman v. Person, 106-251; but see Trenwith v. Smallwood, 111-132. The probate is valid if the incapacity does not appear in the record: Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202. The fact that officer taking acknowledgment or proof is employed by grantee does not invalidate unless such officer has an interest in it himself: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Bank v. Ireland, 132:571. The interest to disqualify a probate officer must be a pecuniary interest, and not a mere relationship to the parties: Hinton v. Hall, 166-477; Holmes v. Carr, 163-122. Clerk of court cannot take proofs outside of state: Ferrebee v. Hinton, 102-99; see section 3298. Deputy clerks of superior court could not take proof of execution, or make orders concerning registration of instruments prior to enactment of chapter 161, acts of 1895: Tatom v. White, 95-453. A probate taken by a woman as a notary or a deputy clerk is invalid: Bank v. Redwine, 171:559; State v. Knight, 169-333; but see Nicholson v. Lumber Co., 160-33. A probate taken by a commissioner of deeds of another state, not authorized by law of this state, is invalid: Wood v. Lewey, 153-401; Shingle Mills v. Lumber Co., 171-410.

3294. Officials of the United States, foreign countries, and sister states. The execution of all such instruments and writings as are permitted or required by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of the United States, of the District of Columbia, of the several states and territories of the United States, of countries under the dominion of the United States and of foreign countries: Any judge of a court of record, any clerk of a court of record, any notary public, any commissioner of deeds, any mayor or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, any ambassador, minister, consul, vice consul, consul general, vice consul general, or commercial agent of the United States, any justice of the peace of any state or territory of the United States. If the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of an instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any state of the United States other than this state or of any territory of the United States, the certificate of such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by a certificate of the clerk of some court of record of the county in which such justice of the peace resides, which certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal, to the effect that such justice of the peace was at the time the certificate of such justice bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county and state or territory and that the genuine signature of such justice of the peace is set to such certificate.

A clerical error in designating the officer taking the probate will not invalidate it: Powers v. Baker, 152-718. It must appear that the officer is one authorized by the law of this state.
3295. Commissioner appointed by clerk for nonresident maker. When it appears to the clerk of the superior court of any county that any person nonresident of this state desires to acknowledge a power of attorney, deed or other conveyance touching any real estate situated in the county of said clerk, he shall issue a commission to a commissioner for receiving such acknowledgment, or taking such proof, and said commissioner may likewise take the acknowledgment and privy examination of a married woman separate and apart from her husband, touching her assent to any power of attorney, deeds or other conveyances, touching real estate in said county. The commissioner shall make certificate of the acknowledgments or proof and privy examination made by him, and shall return the same to the clerk of the superior court, whereupon he shall adjudge that such conveyance, power of attorney or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved, and that such examination is in due form, and shall order the same to be registered.

3296. By justice of peace of other than registering county. If the proof of acknowledgment of any instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any county other than the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the certificate of proof or acknowledgment made by such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said justice of the peace resides, that such justice of the peace was at the time his certificate bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county, and that such justice's genuine signature is set to his certificate. The certificate of the clerk of the superior court herein provided for shall be under his hand and official seal.

Consult Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104-506.

3297. When seal of officer necessary to probate. When proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument by any maker of such instrument, whether a married woman or other person or corporation, is had before any official authorized by law to take such proof and acknowledgment, and such official has an official seal, he shall set his official seal to his certificate. If the official before whom the instrument is proved or acknowledged has no official seal he shall certify under his hand, and his private seal shall not be essential. When the instrument is proved or acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is to be registered, the official seal shall not be necessary.

Rev., s. 993; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.

Omission by justice to attach seal to certificate of proof of execution of deed and of privy examination of wife will not invalidate his action otherwise regular: Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104-506. Certificate of probate need not have seal if same not required by statute at date of execution or registration of deed: Westfelt v. Adams, 131-379. Seal of justice of the peace not essential to validity of assignment for creditors: Friedenwald Co. v. Sparger, 128-446. Seal of commissioner of affidavit not essential to valid probate in the instance referred to.
in Johnson v. Duvall, 135-642. Where the certificate recites that it is given under seal, but no seal appears to be indicated on the record, it will be presumed that the original certificate was under seal: Johnson v. Lumber Co., 147-249.

3298. Officials may act although land or maker's residence elsewhere. The execution of all instruments required or permitted by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any of the officials authorized by law to take probates, regardless of the county in which such clerks are interested may be proved or acknowledged and privy examination of any married woman, when necessary, taken before any justice of the peace of the county of said clerk, which clerk may then, under his hand and official seal, certify to the genuineness thereof, or before any judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, and the instrument probated and ordered to be registered by such judge or justice of the peace in like manner as is provided by law for probates by clerks of the superior court in other cases.

See sections 3305, 3343. Probate of deed by officer who is party thereto or interested therein is a nullity: Land Co. v. Jennett, 128-3; Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Long v. Crews, 113-256; Freeman v. Person, 106-251; McAllister v. Purell, 124-262; Blanton v. Bostie, 126-421; Joines v. Johnson, 133-487; Gregory v. Ellis, 82-225—but probate and private examination taken before officer not invalid simply because he is related to one of the parties, Hinton v. Hall, 166-478; Holmes v. Carr, 163-122; McAllister v. Purell, 124-262—or is subscribing witness to deed, Trenwith v. Smallwood, 111-132.

Decisions prior to enactment of section which are not now the law: White v. Connelly, 105-65; Turner v. Connelly, 105-72.

3300. Attorney in action not to probate papers therein. No practicing attorney at law has power to administer any oath to a person to any paper writing to be used in any legal proceeding in which he appears as attorney.

Rev., s. 2350; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 105, s. 2.

See section 3175.

3301. Probates before stockholders in building and loan associations. No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including the privy examination of any married woman, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any building and loan association shall hereafter be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, is a stockholder in said building and loan association. This section does not authorize any officer or director of a building and loan association to take acknowledgments, proofs and privy examinations.

3302. Subpenas to maker and subscribing witnesses. The grantee or other party to an instrument required or allowed by law to be registered may at his own expense obtain from the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is required to be registered a subpena for any or all of the makers of or subscribing witnesses to such instrument, commanding such maker or subscribing witness to appear before such clerk at his office at a certain time to give evidence concerning the execution of the instrument. The subpena shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the person upon whom it is to be served resides. If any person refuses to obey such subpena he is liable to a fine of forty dollars or to be attached for contempt by the clerk, upon its being made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk that such disobedience was intentional, under the same rules of law as are prescribed in the cases of other defaulting witnesses.

Where there is subscribing witness to deed, its execution may be proved by such witness without the acknowledgment of maker: Shaffer v. Hahn, 111-1. Law attaches peculiar importance to testimony of subscribing witnesses: Smith v. Smith, 108-365. See section 3303.

3303. Proof of attested writing. If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has a subscribing witness and such witness is dead or out of the state, or of unsound mind, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of such subscribing witness or of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not be proof of the execution of instruments by married women.

3304. Proof of unattested writing. If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has no subscribing witness, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not apply to proof of execution of instruments by married women.

Rev., s. 998; 1899, c. 235, s. 11.

As to proving handwriting, see cases cited under section 3303. Where parties to instrument having no subscribing witness are nonresidents except one, instrument may be probated upon proof of handwriting of nonresident by resident party: Leroy v. Jacobosky, 136-443. Consult following decisions prior to this enactment: Love v. Harbin, 87-249; Black v. Justice, 86-504.

3305. Clerk to pass on certificate and order registration. When the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument, required or permitted by law to be registered, is had before any other official than the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration shall, before the same is registered, examine the certificate or certificates of proof or acknowledgment appearing upon the instrument, and if it appears that the instrument has been duly proved or acknowledged and the certificate or certificates to that effect are in due form, he shall so adjudge, and shall order the instrument to be registered, together with the certificates. If the clerk of the superior court is a party to or interested in such instrument such adjudication and order of registration shall be made by his deputy or by the clerk of the superior court of some other county of this state, or by some justice of the supreme court of this state or some judge of the superior court of this state. The acknowledgment of such instruments may also be made before a justice of the peace of said county, and the adjudication of the sufficiency of the certificate of said justice may be made by said clerk or his deputy.

For proper registration where probate is taken before another officer, the clerk should pass upon the certificate of probate and order registration: Buchanan v. Hedden, 169-222—but order of registration does not seem to be required when the probate is taken by the clerk, Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158-251. In the following cases it was held that the provision that the clerk should pass upon the certificate of probate and order registration was directory only: Heath v. Lene, 176-119; Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107-437; Ferrabee v. Hinton, 102-99; Young v. Jackson, 92-144; Holmes v. Marshall, 72-37.

A substantial compliance with this section is required: Kleybolte v. Timber Co., 151-635. In a conveyance by a married woman the clerk should adjudge and certify that the certificate of the probate officer is in due form and according to law: Johnson v. Lumber Co., 147-249—it is sufficient to adjudge that the probate is correct, Cozad v. McAden, 150-206. Form of clerk's adjudication when probate is taken by commissioner of deeds: Ibid. Registration of instrument upon probate by commissioner of affidavits, without the clerk's adjudication, is invalid as against creditors and purchasers for value: Evans v. Etheridge, 99-43.

Adjudication of clerk that certificate of probate is correct and sufficient is presumed to be true, but it may be rebutted by competent evidence: Hughes v. Long, 119-52. It is not necessary that the certificate of probate within the state should be registered, unless the statute so requires: Perry v. Bragg, 111-159.

For decisions prior to enactment of section, see White v. Connelly, 105-65; Turner v. Connelly, 105-72; Tatom v. White, 95-453.

3306. Probate of husband's deed where wife insane. When a deed executed by a married man whose wife is insane or a lunatic, and whose homestead has been allotted, together with the certificate of the clerk of the superior court or with the certificate of the superintendent of the insane institution of the state where the wife is confined in conformity to section 1004 under the chapter Conveyances, is offered for probate before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land conveyed is situated, and the execution of such deed is acknowledged or proved, the clerk shall adjudge whether the certificate of the superintendent or the clerk is in due form, and if adjudged to be in due form he shall order the registration of the deed and certificate.

3307. Probate of corporate deeds, where corporation has ceased to exist. It is competent for the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state, on proof before him upon the oath and examination of the subscribing witness to any contract or instrument required to be registered under the laws of this state, to adjudge and order that such contract or instrument be registered as by law provided, when such contract or instrument is signed by any corporation in its corporate name by its president, and when such corporation has been out of existence for more than ten years when the said contract or instrument is offered for probate and registration, and when the grantee and those claiming under any such grantee have been in the uninterrupted possession of the property described in said contract or instrument since the date of its execution; and said contract or instrument so probated and registered shall be as effective to all intents and purposes as if signed, sealed, and acknowledged, or proven, as provided under the existing laws of this state.

ART. 2. REGISTRATION

3308. Probate and registration sufficient without livery. All deeds, contracts or leases, before registration, except those executed prior to January first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, shall be acknowledged by the grantor, lessor or the person executing the same, or their signature proven on oath by one or more witnesses in the manner prescribed by law, and all deeds executed and registered according to law shall be valid, and pass title and estates without livery of seizin, attornment or other ceremony.

Rev., s. 979; Code, s. 1245; 1885, c. 147, s. 3; 29 Ch. II, c. 3; R. C., c. 37, s. 1; 1715, c. 7; 1756, c. 58, s. 5; 1836-9, c. 33; 1905, c. 277.

Section not applicable to grants: Richards v. Lumber Co., 158-54; Janney v. Blackwell, 138-440; Wyman v. Taylor, 124-426; Ray v. Stewart, 105-472; see section 7579.

Necessity of acknowledgment or proof of execution before registration of instrument set forth in Duke v. Markham, 105-137, and cases cited; Todd v. Outlaw, 79-237, and cases cited; Williams v. Griffin, 49-31; King v. McRackan, 168-621, and cases cited.

It is necessary that instrument be probated and registered in order that it may be competent as evidence: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205, and cases cited; Avent v. Arrington, 105-389; Jennings v. Reeves, 101-450; White v. Holly, 91-68; Phifer v. Barnhart, 88-333; Triplett v. Witherspoon, 74-476; Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209; Walker v. Coltraine, 41-79—but this does not apply to use of deeds in evidence to show color of title, Janney v. Robbins, 141-403; Collins v. Davis, 132-111; Allen v. Burch, 142-528; Avent v. Arrington, 105-377; Hunter v. Kelly, 92-285.

As to when unregistered deed is color of title, see annotations under section 428.

The registration of a deed is presumed to be correct: Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386. From the fact of registration it is presumed that delivery of deed was made and that maker meant to part with title: Belk v. Belk, 175-69; Smithwick v. Moore, 145-110; Wetherington v. Williams, 134-276; Holms v. Austin, 116-751; Avent v. Arrington, 105-377—also presumed that deed was probated, Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386—and that the probate was regular, Ibid.

Where first probate is not sufficient to identify the grantors, the defect may be cured by a second probate: Hutton v. Horton, 178-548.

Unregistered deed passes only equitable title, which may be converted into legal title by registration: Phillips v. Hodges, 109-248; Austin v. King, 91-286; Davis v. Insee, 84-403.

Title of grantor is divested from time of delivery of deed which is subsequently registered: Gadshy v. Dyer, 91-311; Phifer v. Barnhart, 88-333—the registration relating back to the delivery, Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209; King v. Portis, 81-384; Isler v. Foy, 66-551; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

3309. Conveyances, contracts to convey, and leases of land. No conveyance of land, or contract to convey, or lease of land for more than three years shall be valid to pass any property, as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration, from the donor, bargainor or lessor, but from the registration thereof within the county where the land lies: Provided, the provisions of this section shall not apply to contracts, leases or deeds executed prior to March first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, until the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six; and no purchase from any such donor, bargainor or lessor shall avail or pass title as against any unregistered deed executed prior to the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, when the person holding or claiming under such unregistered deed shall be in the actual possession and enjoyment of such land, either in person or by his tenant, at the time of the execution of such second deed, or when the person claiming under or taking such second deed had at the time of taking or purchasing under such deed actual or constructive notice of such unregistered deed, or the claim of the person holding or claiming thereunder.

PURPOSE OF STATUTE. This section, known as the "Connor act, of 1885," was intended to place deeds and contracts to convey upon the same footing, as to registration, as mortgages and deeds of trust under section 3311: Wood v. Tinsley, 138-507; Hinton v. Moore, 139-43; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Hooker v. Nichols, 116-187; Allen v. Bolen, 114-560; Long v. Crows, 113-296.

This section and section 1006 were both intended to prevent fraud, and must be construed together with that view: Austin v. Staten, 126-783. Section will be construed in accordance with principles adopted in construction of sections 3311, 3312: Francis v. Herren, 101-497.

Registration is intended to protect the rights of creditors and purchasers: Weston v. Lumber Co., 160-263. Conveyances and contracts hereunder good as against creditors and purchasers for value from date of their registration: Bell v. Couch, 132-350; Collins v. Davis, 132-109; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 130-483; Weaver v. Chunn, 99-483; Ijames v. Gaither, 93-361; Blevins v. Barker, 75-436; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-358. Where plaintiff is purchaser for value under registered conveyance, his title cannot be defeated by proof of prior conveyance lost before registration: Hinton v. Moore, 139-44—and parol evidence of such unregistered conveyance inadmissible, Ibid. Section applicable where grantee in deed fails to have same recorded until after probate of will of grantor devising same lands and the registration of deed for same land from devisee to purchaser for value: Bell v. Couch, 132-346. Sheriff's deed for land duly registered takes precedence of similar deed which, though dated first and made in pursuance of prior sale, was registered later: Hooker v. Nichols, 116-157; Cowen v. Withrow, 109-636. Unregistered release of timber interest in land by mortgagee is invalid as against registered deed of purchaser at mortgage sale: Barber v. Wadsworth, 115-30.

When conveyance or contract to convey is not registered until after docketing of judgment against grantor, though executed prior to same, grantee takes subject to lien of judgment: Tarboro v. Micks, 118-162; Bostic v. Young, 116-776; Francis v. Herren, 101-507; Trust Co. v. Sterchies, 169-21; Realty Co. v. Carter, 170-5. Deed executed prior to passage of section, but not registered until after registration of mortgage from same grantor, competent evidence. to show title in grantee, he being in possession before passage of section: Laton v. Crowell, 136-377. Decree in suit for specific performance directing conveyance and reciting that its effect should be to convey title need not be recorded under this section: Skinner v. Terry, 134-305. Under amendment of 1910 to the Bankruptcy act, the trustee's title has priority over an unregistered deed: Lynch v. Johnson, 170-110; a. e., 171-611. For effect of section upon parol trusts, equitable right to correction, and other equities, see Fritchard v. Williams, 175-319; Sills v. Ford, 171-733; Wood v. Tinsley, 138-507. Failure to register a deed does not invalidate it, but it is postponed or subordinated to the rights of creditors acquiring liens by proper proceedings and the rights of purchasers for value: Tyner v. Barnes, 142-110; Francis v. Herren, 101-497. Where man executed and delivered deed to tract of land prior to marriage, which was not recorded until after his death, his widow not entitled to dower: Haire v. Haire, 141-88. Of two deeds from a common source of title, the first registered has priority: Mintz v. Russ, 161-538.

An unregistered deed is not color of title where both parties claim under the same grantor, nor against a subsequent deed for valuable consideration which has been registered first; but in other cases it is color of title: King v. McRackan, 168-621; Moore v. Johnson, 162-266; Gore v. McPherson, 161-638; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Janney v. Robbins, 141-400; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Austin v. Staten, 126-783; Utley v. R. R., 119-720; Avent v. Arrington, 105-377. See section 428 and annotations. Contracts to convey land may be read in evidence without registration: Hargrove v. Adcock, 111-166; but see Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205, and cases cited under section 3308.

There is no limitation as to time within which a deed is to be registered: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 130-482; Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13. Deed must be registered in the county where the land is situated: Weston v. Lumber Co., 160-263.

Where acknowledgment of deed void, registration thereof also void: Lance v. Tainter, 137-249; Long v. Crews, 113-256; Southerland v. Hunter, 93-310—as is registration upon unauthorized or essentially defective probate, King v. McRackan, 168-621; Withrell v. Murphy, 154-82; Allen v. Burch, 142-524; Barrett v. Barrett, 120-129; Anderson v. Logan, 99-474. Where proof of execution of deed or other instrument requiring registration has been duly made in this state, not necessary that fact of probate should be registered, unless statute so directs: Perry v. Bragg, 111-159. Not necessary that there should be an imitation of seal in registration: Power Co. v. Power Co., 168-219. Indexing and cross-indexing necessary for registration: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Ely v. Norman, 175-294; overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279, but having only prospective effect. Where probate and registration of deed under which defendant's claim was defective, reprobate and reregistration after plaintiff's title accrued, and after institution of action, can have no effect: Bernhardt v. Brown, 122-587.

Filing in register's office is sufficient: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694; Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-428; Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279; Parker v. Scott, 64-118; McKinnon v. McLean, 19-79; Metts v. Bright, 20-311. What effect the necessity for indexing and cross-indexing will have, see cases in preceding paragraph. A paper is filed when it is delivered to the officer and received by him for the purpose of registration: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-666—but delivery to register outside of his office is not a filing: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694.

NOTICE. Only registration is sufficient notice: Allen v. R. R., 171-339. No notice, however full and formal, can take the place of registration under this section: Fertilizer Co. v. Lane, 173-184; Lynch v. Johnson, 170-110; Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169-385; Burwell v. Chapman, 158-298; Wood v. Lewey, 153-401; Harris v. Lumber Co., 147-631; Tremaine v. Williams, 144-114; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Blalock v. Strain, 122-253; Patterson v. Mills, 121-267, and cases cited; Hinton v. Leigh, 102-28; Blevins v. Barker, 75-436. Recorded option on lands given by duly empowered executors is notice of its terms only, and time within which should be exercised: Trogden v. Williams, 144-192—and unregistered waiver of time limit by executors in consenting to execute deed thereafter is inoperative against purchaser for value under sufficiently and subsequently registered conveyance made by proper persons, Trogden v. Williams, 144-192. Provisions of section that no purchase from bargainor or lessor shall pass title as against unregistered deed executed before December 1, 1885, of which purchaser had actual or constructive notice, applies to purchase at sale under execution: Coven v. Withrow, 116-771, 112-736, 111-306, 109-636. One who goes into possession of land under parol contract 1373 to convey cannot hold land until repaid purchase money and for improvements as against purchaser for value from vendor, holding under duly registered conveyance, although purchaser

Registration of deed showing probate, including private examination of wife, and order of registration, and names of grantors, but omitting copy of signatures at end of instrument, is sufficient notice under section: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47—as is also case where seal not tration is in law the registration and is sufficient notice: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694, and other cases cited supra under 'effect of registration.'

In absence of fraud, actual notice of prior unregistered mortgage or contract to convey executed since December 1, 1885, cannot affect the rights of subsequent purchaser for value whose deed or mortgage duly registered: Maddox v. Arp, 114-585; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Bank agent of unregistered deed executed prior to December 1, 1885, is actual notice to principal:
Cowan v. Withrow, 111-306. Registration of prior voluntary deed is notice to subsequent pur-

Possession of land is not sufficient if unregistered deed executed after December 1, 1885:
Lanier v. Lumber Co., 177-200; Smith v. Fuller, 152-7; Tremaine v. Williams, 144-114; Collins v. Davis, 132-106; Allen v. Bolen, 114-560. For law prior to this section, see Bost v.
Setzer, 87-187.

Section merely referred to: Janney v. Blackwell, 138-440; Wainwright v. Bobbitt, 127-274;

3310. Unregistered deeds prior to January, 1885, registered on affidavit. Any person holding any unregistered deed or claiming title thereunder, executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, may have the same registered without proof of the execution thereof by making an affidavit, before the officer having jurisdiction to take probate of such deed, that the grantor, bargainor or maker of such deed, and the witnesses thereto, are dead or cannot be found, that he cannot make proof of their handwriting, and that affiant believes such deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by the grantor therein named. This section shall not interfere with vested rights nor shall a deed so admitted to record be used as evidence in any action now pending.
Said affidavit shall be written upon or attached to such deed, and the same, together with such deed, shall be entitled to registration in the same manner and with the same effect as if proved in the manner prescribed by law for other deeds.

Rev., s. 981; 1885, c. 147, s. 2; 1905, c. 277; 1913, c. 116; 1915, cc. 13, 90.

Probate of deed dated prior to January 1, 1870, defective where does not appear by affidavit that affiant believes such deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by grantor named 3311. Deeds of trust and mortgages, real and personal. No deed of trust or mortgage for real or personal estate shall be valid at law to pass any property as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the donor, bargainor or mortgagor, but from the registration of such deed of trust or mortgage in the county where the land lies; or in case of personal estate, where the donor, bargainor or mortgagor resides; or in case the donor, bargainor or mortgagor resides out of the state, then in the county where the said personal estate, or some part of the same, is situated; or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagee resides. For the purposes mentioned in this section the principal place of business of a domestic corporation is its residence.

Rev., s. 982; Code, s. 1254; R. C., c. 37, s. 22; 1829, c. 20; 1909, c. 574, s. 1.
REGISTRATION OF MORTGAGES. Registration of a mortgage is to protect the mortgagee and not the mortgagor: Smith v. Fuller, 152-7. As between the parties, a mortgage is valid without registration: McBrayer v. Harrill, 152-712; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Deal of trust and mortgages are of no validity as against purchasers for value and creditors unless registered; and have effect only from registration: Freeman v. Croom, 172-524; Dew v. Pyke, 145-303; Bosie v. Young, 116-770; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70-358; McCoy v. Lassiter, 95-88;

Deal v. Palmer, 72-582; Dukes v. Jones, 51-14; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584; Cowan v. Green, 9-384. Registration of mortgage upon proper probate is notice to the world of existence thereof and of nature and extent of charge created by it: Harper v. Edwards, 115-246; Woody v. Jones, 113-253; Ijames v. Gaither, 93-358; Weathersbee v. Farrar, 97-106; Parker v. Banks, 79-480—and no notice, however full and formal, will dispense with such notice by registration, Fertilizer Co. v. Lane, 173-184; Blalock v. Strain, 122-283; Hooker v. Nichols, 116-160; Quinn-Barker, 75-436; Dewey v. Littlejohn, 37-495; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584.

Mortgage or trust deed duly proven and registered is good against a prior mortgage not registered: Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114-145; Allen v. Bolen, 114-565; Wallace v. Cohen, 111-103; Hinton v. Leigh, 102-28; Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298; Moore v. Ragland, 74-343; Robinson
v. Willoughby, 70-358; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584—even though second mortgagee knew of existence of first mortgage, Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298; Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114-145—unless, however, second mortgagee prevented by fraud the registration of first mortgage, Bank v. Mfg.
Co., 96-298; Fleming v. Burgin, 37-584. Where mortgage registered before prior trust deed securing purchase money recites the prior encumbrance, such purchase money must be paid by for land and a mortgage to secure the purchase money constitute one act, and such mortgage executed and registered at the same time with the deed will have priority over the purchaser's

A registry of mortgage is not void because of clerical mistakes made by register in transcribing which do not affect sense and provision as to amount secured, description of property, etc., or obscure meaning of instrument: Royster v. Lane, 118-156. A reference in a mortgage to note secured by it, without specifying its contents, is sufficient to put subsequent purchasers upon inquiry and to charge them with notice: Harper v. Edwards, 115-246. Duly registered mortgage passes legal title to mortgagee, and levy and sale of property for taxes due by mort-

Deed of trust by a corporation, duly registered, is a prior lien to that of a subsequently docketed judgment in an action on contract: Clement v. King, 152-456. For priority of other judgment liens, see sections 1138, 1140. A mortgage by a corporation is not invalid because register failed to indicate the seal on the record: Edwards v. Supply Co., 150-171.

Mortgagees of property to secure preéxisting debts are purchasers for value under this section and will be protected by prior registration: Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Bank v. Cox, 171-76.
CANCELED mortgages as against creditors are inoperative and creditor secured thereby can claim no liens or priorities thereunder: Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298. Deeds in trust and mortgages are, as between parties thereto, when registered, effectual from their delivery: Brem v. Lockhart, 93-191. Conveyance of chose in action in trust to pay debt is within section: Smith v. Washington, 16-318. As to sufficiency of instrument as a mortgage under this section, see Skinner

Section embraces only those deeds of trust which are intended as securities for debts:
Saunders v. Ferrell, 23-96—and not deeds of settlement between husband and wife in which property is conveyed to trustee in trust for wife, such instruments being embraced under section 3314: Ibid.; also, Green v. Kornegay, 49-66. In contest between trustee under deed and creditor in attachment proceedings, lien of former begins from time at which deed delivered to register, that of latter from time when summons personally served upon debtor:
Parker v. Scott, 64-118. Deed in trust duly executed by husband, but not registered until after death, operates to defeat widow's claim of dower: Norwood v. Marrow, 20-578—for widow in respect to such claim is neither creditor nor purchaser for value under section, Ibid.

Registration deemed to be done on day of delivery to register, as noted by him on deed:
McKinnon v. McLean, 19-79—deemed to be complete from time when register commences same, Metta v. Bright, 20-311. Where deed in trust delivered to register, who immediately commenced registration of same, and justice's execution obtained two hours later, trust deed has priority over levy under execution: Metts v. Bright, 20-311. But a mortgage delivered to register out of his office is not properly filed for registration until taken to the office and marked for registration: McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694. Indexing and cross-indexing are held to be necessary, and it seems that the mortgagee must see that this is done: Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279.
""

Mortgage deed conveying land which is not registered in county where land lies is not valid against creditors or purchasers: King v. Portis, 77-25—and where purchaser at foreclosure sale obtains deed for tract of land lying in two counties, and mortgage under which sold was registered only in one, such deed conveys no title as against creditors or purchasers for value as to part of land lying in other county, Ibid.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES. Agreement between parties to chattel mortgage for substitution of other property for that conveyed in mortgage, while good as between parties, is not mortgage so as to give lien in preference to creditors and purchasers for value: Blalock v. Strain, 122-283. Contract creating lien upon stock and prospective products of business to secure capital for operation of business is valid chattel mortgage: Brown v. Dail, 117-41. No particular words of conveyance necessary to the execution of mortgage of personal property:
Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321; Frick v. Hilliard, 95-117—for at common law mortgages of personal property were not required to be reduced to writing, Butts v. Screws, 95-215—an oral chattel mortgage is valid between the parties: Odum v. Clark, 146-544—and section only requires them to be reduced to writing and registered as affecting creditors and purchasers for value, Ibid.—but same are good inter partes without registration, Williams v. Jones, 95-504.

Sufficient form to constitute chattel mortgage: Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Harris v. Allen, 104-86. A recital in a chattel mortgage that there is no encumbrance except a certain amount due a piano company is not sufficient notice to take the place of registration: Piano Co. v. Spruill, 150-168.

Mortgage on personalty must be registered in the county where the mortgagor resides, unless he is nonresident, then in the county where the property is situated: Foy v. Hurley, 172-575; Sloan Bros. v. Sawyer-Felder Co., 175-657; Weaver v. Chunn, 99-431. It is not notice if reg-upon personalty was registered in county in which mortgagor resided, not necessary, in case of his removal to another, to register mortgage in such other county: Harris v. Allen, 104-86.

Mortgage upon crop registered in county in which land lies and to which mortgagor contem-

Mortgage both of land and personal property may be registered after death of mortgagor:
Williams v. Jones, 95-504.

Where duly enrolled, a vessel used entirely in the state was mortgaged and recorded as required by act of congress, but was not registered as required by section, such recording is valid: Lawrence v. Hodges, 92-672.

Pledge of personal property not included within words or meaning of section: Doak v.
Bank of State, 28-309. Distinction between pledge and mortgage of personal property pointed out in Doak v. Bank, 28-309; McCoy v. Lassiter, 95-88.

For fertilizer contract held not to be within section, see Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98-123.
Where two mortgages on personalty, and first mortgagee advances money in excess of mortgage to save property and prepares same for market, he is not entitled to amount of such excess against second mortgagee: Weathersbee v. Farrar, 97-106. Right to retain or retake property which is included in an unregistered mortgage: Springs v. Cole, 174-418; Taylor v.
Mills, 148-415. For a general discussion of the section, see Wood v. Tinsley, 138-509; Collins

Section merely referred to: Hinton v. Moore, 139-47; Lance v. Tainter, 137-250; Barrin-

Conditional sales of personal property. All conditional sales of personal property in which the title is retained by the bargainor shall be reduced to writing and registered in the same manner, for the same fees and with the same legal effect as is provided for chattel mortgages, in the county where the purchaser resides, or, in case the purchaser shall reside out of the state, then in the county where the personal estate or some part thereof is situated, or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagee resides.

For power of sale, see section 2587.

WHAT IS A CONDITIONAL SALE. A conditional sale is a sale upon condition, in which purchaser sustains relation of mortgagor and seller the relation of mortgagee: Mfg. Co. v. Gray, 121-170. As to whether contract a conditional sale or lease depends upon purpose of parties as expressed in instrument: Hamilton v. Highlands, 144-279; Empire Drill Co. v. Allison, 94-548. Where firm agrees to sell goods for part of profits, it is not a conditional sale: Lance v. Butler, 135-419. Contract for lease of personal property, upon payment of rent, property to belong to lessee upon last payment of rent, is conditional sale: Clark v. Hill, 117-11; Mfg. Co. v. Gray, 121-170; Barrington v. Skinner, 117-47; Puffer v. Lucas, 112-377. In order to constitute conditional sale, essential that title to property should remain in vendor: Frick v. Hilliard, 95-117. Where title to property retained until purchase money paid, no title to property passes, although description of chattel in instrument is wrong: Harris v. Woodard, 96-232.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED. A conditional sale is valid against creditors and purchasers for value only from registration: Observer Co. v. Little, 175-42; Fulp v. Power Co., 157-167; Clark v. Hill, 117-11; Blalock v. Strain, 122-283; Glasscock v. Hazell, 109-148; Foreman v. Drake, 98-311; Butts v. Screws, 95-215; Brem v. Lockhart, 93-191. This means creditors who have taken some steps to reach the property: Observer Co. v. Little, 175-42. Section places conditional sales on same footing as chattel mortgages, and only protects creditors and purchasers: Thomas v. Cooksey, 130-151; Butts v. Screws, 95-215. As between the parties to the contract a conditional sale is valid without registration, and the contract may be oral: Kornegay v. Kornegay, 109-188; Butts v. Screws, 95-215.

Where personality is sold under conditional sale and the same is not registered, a prior registered mortgage covering after-acquired property will not have priority: Dry Kiln Co. v. Ellington, 172-481; Cox v. Lighting Co., 151-62; Lumber Co. v. Lumber Co., 150-282. An unregistered conditional sale is invalid as against an assignment for the benefit of creditors duly registered: Starr v. Wharton, 177-323—and also as against the rights of trustee in bankruptcy since amendment of 1910, Hinton v. Williams, 170-115. In a conditional sale of a cotton gin, attaching the gin to the land does not change it from personality to realty: Lancaster v. Ins. Co., 153-285. Conditional sale was not required to be registered at common law, and the court will presume that the common law is in force in another state: Carriage Co. v. Dowd, 155-307. Conditional sale of personal property made to husband, registered after his death, takes precedence over allotment of year’s allowance to widow which included such property, made after registration: Hinkle v. Green, 125-489. Where contract put in shape of lease for purpose of evading registration laws, or with other unlawful intention, same will not be upheld as such to prejudice of innocent purchasers: Wilcox v. Cherry, 123-79, overruling upon this point Foreman v. Drake, 98-311.

A conditional sale of personal property is properly registered in county where purchaser resides: Barrington v. Skinner, 117-47—and if he remove to another county with the property it need not be recorded in latter county, Ibid.
3313. Conditional sales or leases of railroad property. When any railroad equipment and rolling stock is sold, leased or loaned on the condition that the title to the same, notwithstanding the possession and use of the same by the vendee, lessee, or bailee, shall remain in the vendor, lessor or bailor until the terms of the contract, as to the payment of the installments, amounts or rentals payable, or the performance of other obligations thereunder, shall have been fully complied with, such contract shall be invalid as to any subsequent judgment creditor, or any subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice, unless—

1. The same is evidenced by writing duly acknowledged before some person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.
2. Such writing is registered as mortgages are registered, in the office of the register of deeds in at least one county in which such vendee, lessee or bailee does business.
3. Each locomotive or car so sold, leased or loaned has the name of the vendor, lessor, or bailor, or the assignee of such vendor, lessor or bailor plainly marked upon both sides thereof, followed by the word owner, lessor, bailor or assignee, as the case may be.

This section shall not apply to or invalidate any contract made before the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three.

3314. Marriage settlements. All marriage settlements and other marriage contracts, whereby any money or other estate is secured to the wife or husband, shall be proved or acknowledged and registered in the same manner as deeds for lands, and shall be valid against creditors and purchasers for value only from registration.

Rev., s. 985; Code, ss. 1269, 1270, 1281; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, ss. 24, 25; 1785, c. 238; 1871-2, c. 103, s. 12.

As to what is a marriage settlement, see Sullivan v. Powers, 100-27; Walton v. Parish, 95-259; Teague v. Downs, 69-287. Deeds of settlement in trust for wife and children, proved and registered three years after execution, valid only as against creditors whose debts contracted after such registration: Johnston v. Malcolm, 59-120. Registration of marriage settlement, embracing personal property of married woman, properly made in county where such woman resided and the property was at time of execution of instrument: Latham v. Bowen, 52-337. Antenuptial contract between husband domiciled in this state and wife domiciled in another state, securing property in such state to wife, and there duly recorded, is good against creditors of husband, although property subsequently removed to this state: Hicks v. Skinner, 71-539.

As bearing upon section, see Smith v. Garey, 22-46. Section merely referred to: Dew v. Pyke, 145-303; Credle v. Carrawan, 64-425.

3315. Deeds of gift. All deeds of gift of any estate of any nature shall within two years after the making thereof be proved in due form and registered, or otherwise shall be void, and shall be good against creditors and purchasers for value only from the time of registration.

Rev., s. 986; Code, s. 1252; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, s. 18; 1789, c. 315, s. 2.

Registration of prior voluntary deed is notice to subsequent purchaser: Taylor v. Eatman, 92-601. For discussion of section, see Dew v. Pyke, 145-303. Case under an old section: Hancock v. Hovey, 1-152.

3316. Deeds of easements. All persons, firms, or corporations now owning or hereafter acquiring any deed or agreement for rights of way and easements of any character whatsoever shall record such deeds and agreements in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated. Where such deeds and agreements may have been acquired, but no use has been made thereof, the person, firm, or corporation holding such instrument, or any assignment thereof, shall not be required to record them until within ninety days after the beginning of the use of the easements granted thereby. If after ninety days from the beginning of the easement granted by such deeds and agreements the person, firm, or corporation holding such deeds or agreements has not recorded the same in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated, then the grantor in the said deed or agreement may, after ten days notice in writing served and returned by the sheriff or other officer of the county upon the said person, firm, or corporation holding such lease or agreement, file a copy of the said lease or agreement for registration in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the original should have been recorded, but such copy of the lease or agreement shall have attached thereto the written notice above referred to, showing the service and return of the sheriff or other officer. The registration of such copy shall have the same force and effect as the original would have had if recorded: Provided, said copy shall be duly probated before being registered.

Nothing in this section shall require the registration of the following classes of instruments or conveyances, to wit:

1. It shall not apply to any deed or instrument executed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and ten.
2. It shall not apply to any deed or instrument so defectively executed or witnessed that it cannot by law be admitted to probate or registration, provided that such deed or instrument was executed prior to the ratification of this act.
3. It shall not apply to decrees of a competent court awarding condemnation or confirming reports of commissioners, when such decrees are on record in such courts.
4. It shall not apply to local telephone companies, operating exclusively within the state, or to agreements about alley-ways.

Any person, firm, or corporation knowingly and willfully violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and each day's continuance of this violation shall be a separate offense.

This section shall not apply to Alleghany, Harnett, Lee, Surry and Wilkes counties.

3317. Powers of attorney. Every power of attorney, wherever made or concerning whatsoever matter, may, on acknowledgment or proof of the same before any competent official, be registered in the county wherein the property or estate which it concerns is situate, if such power of attorney relate to the conveyance thereof; if it does not relate to the conveyance of any estate or property, then in the county in which the attorney resides or the business is to be transacted.

Rev., s. 957; Code, s. 1249; 1899, c. 235, s. 15.

As to sufficiency of power of attorney to convey realty, see Caddell v. Allen, 99-542. Power of attorney given by feme covert to dismiss action concerning her land need not be registered to give it validity: Hollingworth v. Harman, 83-153.
3318. Plats and subdivisions. Any person, firm, or corporation, owning land in this state, who may desire to subdivide the same into smaller tracts or lots for the purpose of sale or other purpose, may have a plat or subdivision of such land recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such land or any part thereof is situated, upon proof upon oath by the surveyor making such plat or subdivision that the same is in all respects correct and was prepared from an actual survey by him made, giving the date of such survey and the variation of the magnetic needle. Such plats or subdivisions when so proven, and probated as deeds and other conveyances, shall be recorded either by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records, or in a book to be designated the Book of Plats; and when so recorded shall be duly indexed.

3319. Certified copies may be registered; used as evidence. A duly certified copy of any deed or writing required or allowed to be registered may be registered in any county; and the registry or duly certified copy of any deed or writing when registered in the county where the land is situate may be given in evidence in any court of the state.

For records of court to prove deed, see sections 376, 377.

Conveyances cannot be introduced in evidence until proved and registered: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Jennings v. Reeves, 101-450; Avent v. Arrington, 105-389; White v. Holly, 91-68; Phifer v. Barnhardt, 88-333; Triplett v. Witherspoon, 74-475; Wilson v. Sparks, 72-209; Walker v. Coltraine, 41-79. As to contracts to convey, see Hargrove v. Adcock, 111-166. When certificate of probate is not sufficient to entitle instrument to registration, if one make it part of his pleadings, he waives question of admissibility: Avent v. Arrington, 105-377.

Fact that deed has been three times probated and registered does not affect its competency as evidence: Bell v. Couch, 132-346.

Deed improperly proven and registered was, on trial, attempted to be proven as at common law, but could not be so proven unless deed was in court: Hatcher v. Hatcher, 127-201.

3320. Register to fill in deeds on blank forms with lines. Registers of deeds shall, in registering deeds and other instruments, where printed skeletons or forms are used by the register, fill all spaces left blank in such skeletons or forms by drawing or stamping a line or lines in ink through such blank spaces.

3321. Errors in registration corrected on petition to clerk. Every person who discovers that there is an error in the registration of his grant, conveyance, bill of sale or other instrument of writing, may prefer a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said writing is registered, in the same manner as is directed for petitioners to correct errors in grants or patents, and if on hearing the same before said clerk it appears that errors have been committed, the clerk shall order the register of the county to correct such errors and make the record conformable to the original. The petitioner must notify his grantor and every person claiming title to or having lands adjoining those mentioned in the petition, thirty days previous to preferring the same. Any person dissatisfied with the judgment may appeal to the superior court as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1008; Code, s. 1266; R. C., c. 37, s. 28; 1790, c. 326, ss. 2, 3, 4.

Section provides for correction of errors in registration by petition and proceeding wherein interested persons and adjoining landowners are made parties, and in such cases statutory proceeding is exclusive: Hopper v. Justice, 111-418. Register of deeds has power and it is his duty to correct any error he may have made in registration of deed either by inserting any omitted matter or by registration of entire instrument: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205. Where by mistake or oversight of makers of deed same incorrectly written, grantors have no equity to call upon grantee to correct mistake on books of register, as they have ample remedy under this section: Oldham v. Bank, 85-240.

ART. 3. FORMS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT, PROBATE AND ORDER OF REGISTRATION

3322. Adjudication and order of registration. The form of adjudication and order of registration required by section 3305 shall be substantially as follows:

Rev., ss. 1001, 1010; 1899, c. 235, s. 7; 1905, c. 344.

See annotations under section 3305. Where proof of execution of instrument duly made within the state, not necessary that certificate or fact of probate should be registered, unless statute at that time otherwise directed: Perry v. Bragg, 111-159; Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386; Freeman v. Hatley, 48-115; Love v. Harbin, 87-253; Starke v. Etheridge, 71-243. The word "jurat" means proved, and is sufficient evidence of probate: Moore v. Quickle, 159-129.

3323. Acknowledgment by grantor. Where the instrument is acknowledged by the grantor or maker, the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, __________ County.

I (here give the name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give the name of the grantor or maker) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing instrument. Witness my hand and (where an official seal is required by law) official seal this the ______ day of ______ (year).

Rev., s. 1002.

Rev. s. 1003; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 637.

See under section 997. Private examination of married woman which sets out that she signed deed of her own free will and accord, and without any compulsion of her husband, is sufficient without adding words 'and doth voluntarily assent thereto': Robbins v. Harris, 96-557.

3326. Corporate conveyances. The following forms of probate for deeds and other conveyances executed by a corporation shall be deemed sufficient, but shall not exclude other forms of probate which would be deemed sufficient in law. If the instrument is executed by the president or presiding member or trustee and two other members of the corporation, and sealed with the common seal, the following form shall be sufficient:

North Carolina, __________ County.

This ___ day of __________, A. D. __________, personally came before me (here give the name and official title of the officer who signs this certificate), A. B. presiding member or trustee) and the two said other members sign the said instrument, and saw the said president (or presiding member or trustee) affix the said common seal of said corporation thereto, and that he, the said subscribing witness, signed his name as such subscribing witness thereto in their presence. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this ___ day of _______ (year).

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the president, presiding member or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal, and attested by its secretary or assistant secretary, either of the following forms of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

North Carolina, _________ County.

This ___ day of ____________, A. D. ______, personally came before me (here give name and official title of the officer who signs the certificate) A. B. (here give the name of the attesting secretary or assistant secretary), who, being by me duly sworn, says that he knows the common seal of (here give the name of the corporation), and is acquainted with C. D., who is the president of said corporation, and that he, the said A. B., is the duly sworn, says that he is president (presiding member or trustee) of the ____________ Company, and that the seal affixed to the foregoing (or annexed) instrument in writing is the corporate seal of the company, and that said writing was signed and sealed by him in behalf of said corporation by its authority duly given. And the said A. B. acknowledged the said writing to be the act and deed of said corporation.

For validation of corporate probates, see sections 3352-3356. Probate of deed of corporation by acknowledgment of individuals instead of its officers is void: Bernhardt v. Brown, 122-587.
The forms given indicate that it must appear by oath that the seal affixed is the corporate seal, and that it was affixed by an officer of the corporation; mere acknowledgment of signatures by the officers is insufficient: Withrell v. Murphy, 154-82. A substantial compliance with this section is sufficient: Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166-202. Sufficient probate of corporation deed other state or territory of the United States, or before a justice of the peace of this state, but of a county different from that in which the instrument is offered for registration, the form of certificate as to his official position and signature shall be substantially as follows:

Rev., s. 1006; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.
3329. Defective order of registration; "same" for "this instrument." Where instruments were admitted to registration prior to March 2, 1905, and the clerk's order for the registration used the word "same" in place of "this instrument," the said registrations are good and valid.

Rev., s. 1010; 1905, c. 344.

3330. Clerk's certificate failing to pass on all prior certificates. When it appears that the clerk of the superior court or other officer having the power to probate deeds, in passing upon deeds or other instruments, and the certificates thereto, having more than one certificate of the same or a prior date, by other officer or officers taking acknowledgment or probating the same, has in his certificate or order mentioned only one or more of the preceding or foregoing certificates or orders, but not all of them, but has admitted the same deed or other instrument to probate, it shall be conclusively presumed that he has passed upon all the certificates of said deed or instrument necessary to the admission of the same to probate, and the certificate of said clerk or other probating officer shall be deemed sufficient and the probate and registration of said deed or instrument is hereby made and declared valid for all intents and purposes.

3331. Defective certification or adjudication of clerk, etc., admitting to registration. In all cases where, prior to January first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, instruments by law required or authorized to be registered, with certificates showing the acknowledgment or proof of execution thereof as required by the laws of the state of North Carolina, have been ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court or other officer qualified to pass upon probates and admit instruments to registration, and actually put upon the books in the office of the register of deeds as if properly proven and ordered to be registered, all such probates and registrations are hereby validated and made as good and sufficient as though such instruments had been in all respects properly proved and recorded, notwithstanding the failure of clerks or other officers qualified to pass upon the proofs or acknowledgments of instruments and to admit such instruments to registration to adjudge or certify that said instruments were duly proven, and notwithstanding the failure of such officers to adjudge or certify that the certificates of proof or acknowledgment of said instruments were correct or in due form. This act shall not affect any suit, action, or proceeding pending in the courts of this state March 10, 1919, and shall not impair vested rights.

3332. Order of registration omitted. In every case where it appears from the records of the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that the execution of a deed of conveyance was duly acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of such county and the certificate of such officer taking the acknowledgment was made complete except that the order of registration was omitted, and such deed, with the certificate of such officer, was duly registered without any order of registration, any and all such probates and registrations are hereby validated, and the records of such deeds of conveyance may be read in evidence upon the trial or hearing of any cause with the same force and effect as if the same had been duly ordered registered. This section only applies to deeds so acknowledged and registered prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. Suits pending October 13, 1913, are not affected by this section.

3333. Official deeds omitting seals. Rev., ss. 2058, 2058 (b), 2061; 1908, c. 71, ss. 1, 5; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.

Legislature may pass laws prohibiting sale of liquor within any designated locality: State v. Piner, 141-760, and cases cited on page 762; Guy v. Comrs., 122-471—no one having a vested right in such traffic, Guy v. Comrs., 122-471.

When the liquid, by common knowledge and observation, is intoxicating, the court may so declare; but if it is doubtful whether or not it be so, then the question of fact is raised for the jury: State v. Piner, 141-763; State v. Parker, 139-588, and cases cited; State v. Packer, 80-439; State v. Lowry, 74-121.

Sale of cider made from fruits grown on owner's premises not prohibited: State v. Williams, 172-973.

It is not a sale simply to order liquor for another from a liquor house at his request: State v. Bailey, 168-168; State v. Cardwell, 166-309; State v. Wilkerson, 164-431; State v. Watkins, 164-425; State v. Allen, 161-226; State v. Whisenant, 149-515.

Legislature has power to change rules of evidence and declare that certain facts or conditions when shown shall constitute prima facie evidence of guilt: State v. Wilkerson, 164-431; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Barrett, 138-630; State v. Dowdy, 145-432—therefore a statute making the keeping of a certain quantity of liquor prima facie evidence of keeping it with intent to sell is valid, Ibid.; State v. Dowdy, 145-432; State v. Tisdale, 145-422; State v. McIntyre, 139-601; State v. Williams, 146-618—but statute does not operate when indictment does not specify name of person to whom sold, State v. Tisdale, 145-422. Such statute does not violate the provision of the federal constitution prohibiting the denial to any person the equal protection of the law: State v. Barrett, 138-630—quer: Whether it is within the power of the legislature to make the mere ownership or possession of whiskey in itself a crime: State v. McIntyre, 139-590. See section 3379.

3368. Intoxicating liquors defined. All liquors or mixtures thereof, by whatever name called, that will produce intoxication shall be construed and held to be intoxicating liquors within the meaning of this article: Provided, that medicinal preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopoeia and National Formulary which contain no more alcohol than is necessary to extract the medicinal properties of the drugs contained in such preparations, and no more alcohol than is necessary to hold the medicinal agents in solution, and which are manufactured and sold as medicines and not as beverages, shall not be held or construed to be or to come within the meaning or provisions of this article.

Wine is an intoxicating liquor: State v. Piner, 141-763; State v. Packer, 80-439; State v. Scott, 116-1012; State v. Giersch, 98-720—as are also brandy peaches under certain circumstances, State v. Scott, 116-1012—also what is known as "singlings," State v. Summey, 60-496—also lager beer and all other liquors, whether produced by fermentation or distillation, which by their free use produce intoxication, State v. Giersch, 98-720—and also drinks containing such an amount of alcohol as would make a man drunk if freely used, State v. Parker, 139-587.

3369. Place of delivery place of sale. The place where delivery of any intoxicating liquors is made in the state of North Carolina shall be construed and held to be the place of sale thereof, and any station or other place within the state to which any person shall ship or convey any intoxicating liquors for the purpose of delivering or carrying the same to a purchaser shall be construed to be the place of sale.

Rev., s. 2080; 1908, c. 71, s. 4; 1915, c. 97, s. 8.

Legislature had power to enact this section: State v. Herring, 145-418; State v. Patterson, 134-612. An indictment at the place of delivery of liquor is not prohibited by the sixth amendment to the constitution of the United States: State v. Patterson, 134-612. Delivery of liquors by club manager to members of club is not a sale: State v. Colonial Club, 154-177. This section does not apply to sale fully consummated in another state and subject to interstate commerce regulation: State v. Allen, 161-226 (before Webb-Kenyon law); see State v. R. R., 169-296.

3370. Unlawful to solicit orders for liquor. It is unlawful for any person, for himself or as agent or traveling salesman for any person, firm or corporation, to solicit orders or proposals of purchase of intoxicating liquors by the jug or bottle or otherwise within the state of North Carolina.

1908, c. 118, s. 1.

Section cited in Pfeifer v. Israel, 161-409; State v. Cardwell, 166-309.

3371. Unlawful sale through agents. If any person unlawfully and illegally procures and delivers any spirituous or malt liquors to another, he shall be deemed and held in law to be the agent of the person selling said spirituous and malt liquors, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. When the solicitor of any judicial district has good reason to believe that liquor has been manufactured or sold contrary to law within any county in his district, and believes that any person has knowledge of the existence and establishment of any illicit distillery, or that any person has sold liquor illegally, then it is lawful for the solicitor to apply to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the offense is supposed to have been committed to issue subpoenas for the person so having knowledge of said offenses to appear before the next grand jury drawn for the county, there to testify upon oath what he may know touching the existence, establishment and whereabouts of said distillery or persons who have sold intoxicating liquors contrary to law, and shall give the names and personal description of the keepers thereof, and such evidence, when so obtained, shall be considered and held in law as an information on oath upon which the grand jury shall make presentment, as provided by law, in other cases. If any officer shall fail or refuse to use due diligence in the execution of the provisions of this section, he shall be guilty of laches in office and such failure be cause for removal from office.

One buying for another in unprohibited territory and delivering in prohibited territory is guilty: State v. Johnson, 139-640; State v. Bailey, 168-168. It is not a sale when club manager simply holds liquor in deposit for club members: State v. Colonial Club, 154-177. This section contemplates an illegal sale, and defendant must be agent of seller in such sale: State v. Wilkerson, 164-432; State v. Burchfield, 149-537; State v. Whisenant, 149-515; State v. Allen, 161-226.

3372. Social clubs using liquors. No corporation, club, association, or person shall directly or indirectly keep or maintain, alone or by association with others, or by any other means, or shall in any manner aid, assist, or abet others in keeping or maintaining a clubroom or other place where intoxicating liquors are received, kept, or stored for barter, sale, exchange, distribution, or division among the members of any such club or association or aggregation of persons, or to or among any other persons by any means whatever, or shall act as agents in ordering, procuring, buying, storing, or keeping intoxicating liquors for any such purpose: Provided, this section shall not apply to churches using wines for sacramental purposes, or to hospitals or asylums keeping intoxicating liquors for medical purposes.

Section changes rule in State v. Colonial Club, 154-177.

Art. 2. Sale of Near-beer and Other Specified Drinks

3373. Unlawful to sell near-beer and other mixed drinks. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell or dispose of, for gain, near-beer, beerine, or other spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors, or mixtures of any kind, and under whatsoever name called, that shall contain alcohol, or cocaine, or morphine, or other opium derivative, except as herein provided.

3374. Must allow package to be taken away. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, who is engaged in the sale of any kind of drinks, to refuse to allow any person to carry away from the place where such drinks are being sold or offered for sale, any package or quantity of any size of the drink which has been bought and paid for; and if any person, firm or corporation shall refuse to allow the package or quantity of such drink to be carried away from the place of sale, it shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this article.

3375. Construction of article. This article shall not be construed to forbid the sale of cocaine or morphine or other opium derivative to any registered pharmacist, or to forbid the sale of cocaine, morphine, or other opium derivative by a licensed pharmacist upon a written prescription by a regularly licensed physician or surgeon. This article shall not apply to the sale of domestic wines when sold in quantity of not less than two and one-half gallons in sealed packages or crated, on the premises where manufactured, or to the sale of cider in any quantity by the manufacturer from fruits grown on his land within the state of North Carolina, or to the sale of wine to any minister of religion or other officer of a church when such wine is bought for religious or sacramental purposes, or to the sale of flavoring extracts or essences when sold as such, or to the sale of medical preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas prescribed by the United States Pharmacopoeia and National Formulary which contain no more alcohol than is necessary to extract the medical properties of the drug contained in such preparations, and no more alcohol than is necessary to hold the medical agents in solution, and which are manufactured and sold as medicines and not as beverages, or to the sale of any medical preparation which is manufactured, sold, and used as a medicine and not as a beverage, or to the sale of carbonated drinks that contain no more than one-tenth of one per cent of alcohol, and in which drinks a flavoring agent is used, in the manufacture of which flavoring agent alcohol is used to dissolve and hold in solution or to extract from the crude material the flavoring agent.

For regulation of sale of cocaine, etc., see Medicine and Allied Occupations.

For the sale of wines and ciders under this section, see State v. Hicks, 174-802; State v. Williams, 172-973. Invalid town ordinance as to sale of "near-beer": State v. Dannenberg, 150-799.

ART. 3. MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF MALT

3376. Unlawful to make or sell malt. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or any agent, officer or employee thereof, to manufacture or sell malt, such as is used in the manufacture of spirituous liquors, in the state of North Carolina.

1915, c. 91, s. 1.

3377. Transportation companies to keep record. All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies, doing business in this state, are required to keep a separate record of all shipments of such malt, in which shall be entered, immediately upon receipt thereof, the name of the person to whom shipped, the amount of each shipment, the date when received and the date when delivered, and by whom delivered and to whom delivered, which record shall be open for the inspection of any officer of the state, county or municipality any time during business hours of the company.

1915, c. 91, s. 2.
Art. 4. Search and Seizure Law

3378. Handling liquor for gain. It is unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association, by whatever name called, to engage in the business of selling, exchanging, bartering, giving away for the purpose of direct or indirect gain, or otherwise handling spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in the state of North Carolina.

1913, c. 44, s. 1.

See annotations under section 3367. The original act contained an exception in favor of druggists, but it was not necessary for the indictment to negative this exception: State v. Moore, 166-284.

3379. Keeping liquor for sale; evidence. It is unlawful for any person, firm, association or corporation, by whatever name called, to have or keep in possession, for the purpose of sale, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and proof of any one of the following facts shall constitute prima facie evidence of the violation of this section:

1. The possession of a license from the government of the United States to sell or manufacture intoxicating liquors; or
2. The possession of more than one gallon of spirituous liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or
3. The possession of more than three gallons of vinous liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or
4. The possession of more than five gallons of malt liquors at any one time, whether in one or more places; or
5. The delivery to such person, firm, association or corporation of more than five gallons of spirituous or vinous liquors, or more than twenty gallons of malt liquors within any four successive weeks, whether in one or more places; or
6. The possession of intoxicating liquors as samples to obtain orders thereon:

Provided, that this section shall not prohibit any person from keeping in his possession wines and ciders in any quantity where such wines and ciders have been manufactured from grapes or fruit grown on the premises of the person in whose possession such wines and ciders may be.

This section is constitutional: State v. Cathey, 170-794; State v. Randall, 170-757; State v. Denton, 164-531; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Wilkerson, 164-431.

The existence of any of the facts mentioned in section is prima facie evidence, but this does not shift the burden of proof to the defendant: State v. Wilkerson, 164-431; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Denton, 164-530; State v. Blautia, 170-749; State v. Randall, 170-757; State v. Bean, 175-748.

Offense may be within jurisdiction of recorder's court: State v. Denton, 164-530.

3380. Search and seizure upon complaint and warrant. Upon the filing of complaint, under oath, by a reputable citizen, or information furnished under oath by an officer charged with the execution of the law, before a justice of the peace, recorder, mayor, or other officer authorized by law to issue warrants, charging that any person, firm, corporation or association, by whatever name called, has in possession, at a place or places specified, more than one gallon of spirituous or vinous liquors or more than five gallons of malt liquors for the purpose of sale, a warrant shall be issued commanding the officer to whom it is directed to search the place or places described in such complaint or information, and if more than one gallon of spirituous or vinous liquors or more than five gallons of malt liquors be found in any such place or places, to seize and take into his custody all such intoxicating liquors described in the complaint or information, and seize and take into his custody all glasses, bottles, kegs, pumps, bars or other equipment used in the business of selling intoxicating liquors which may be found at such place or places, and safely keep the same subject to the orders of the court. The complaint or information shall describe the place or places to be searched with sufficient particularity to identify the same, and shall describe the intoxicating liquors or other property alleged to be used in carrying on the business of selling intoxicating liquors as particularly as practicable, and any description, however general, that will enable the officer executing the warrant to identify the property seized shall be deemed sufficient. All spirituous, vinous or malt liquors seized under this section shall be held and upon acquittal of the person so charged shall be returned to such person, and upon conviction, or upon default of appearance, shall be destroyed.

See annotations under section 3379.

3381. Unlawful to handle draft connected with receipt for liquor. It is unlawful for any bank incorporated under the laws of this state, or national bank, or any individual, firm or association, to present, collect or in any wise handle any draft, bill of exchange or order to pay money, to which draft, bill of exchange or order to pay money is attached a bill of lading, or order, or receipt for intoxicating liquors, or which draft is enclosed with, connected with, or in any way related to, directly or indirectly, any bill of lading, order or receipt for intoxicating liquors.

3382. Transportation companies to keep record. All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies doing business in this state are required hereby to keep a separate book in which shall be entered immediately upon receipt thereof the name of the person to whom the liquor is shipped, the amount and kind received, and the date when received, the date when delivered, by whom delivered, and to whom delivered, after which record shall be a blank space, in which the consignee shall be required to sign his name, or if he cannot write, shall make his mark in the presence of a witness, before such liquor is delivered to such consignee, and which book shall be open for inspection to any officer or citizen of the state, county, or municipality any time during business hours of the company, and such book shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein and will be admissible in any of the courts of this state. Any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company or any employee or agent of any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, upon the filing of a certificate signed by a reputable physician or two reputable citizens that the consignee is unable, by reason of sickness or infirmities of age, to appear in person, then the company... is authorized to deliver any package to the agent of the consignee, and the agent shall sign the name of the consignee and his own name, and the certificate shall be filed of record.

Right of any citizen to inspect the books of common carrier for this purpose: State v. R. R., 169-295.

3383. Indictment and proof. In indictments for violating the first section of this article, it shall not be necessary to allege a sale to a particular person, and the violation of law may be proved by circumstantial evidence as well as by direct evidence.

1913, c. 44, s. 6.

It is not necessary to allege a sale to a particular person: State v. Brown, 170-714. Section is constitutional: Ibid. Before this act it was necessary to allege a sale to a particular person or to some person unknown to the jurors: State v. Tisdale, 145-422; State v. Dowdy, 145-432—and to prove such allegation, State v. Watkins, 164-425. For evidence, see annotations under section 3380.

ART. 5. DELIVERY AND RECEIVING REGULATED

3384. Amount delivered restricted. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or any agent, officer or employee thereof, to ship, transport, carry or deliver, in any manner or by any means whatsoever, for hire or otherwise, in any one package or at any one time from a point within or without this state to any person, firm or corporation in this state any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity greater than one quart, or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons; and it is unlawful for any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters so shipped, transported, carried or delivered in any one package to be contained in more than one receptacle.

This section is constitutional: State v. Little, 171-805; State v. Carpenter, 173-767; State v. Poythress, 174-809—and creates two offenses, one for transporting more than one quart in one package or at one time, and the other for transporting in any quantity where the packages are in more than one receptacle, that is, each package shall be carried for its owner as a separate parcel, Ibid.

One who brings into the state four quarts of liquor, in separate vessels, each for a separate person, and not for sale, does not violate this section: State v. Little, 171-805—nor when one transports his own liquor, not for the purpose of sale, and gives another a drink, State v. Coleman, 178-757.

Common carrier is not required to accept for shipment more than one quart for one person: Glenn v. Express Co., 170-286.

A local statute prohibiting the delivery of any intoxicating beverages within a certain territory is valid: State v. Express Co., 173-753.

3385. Amount received restricted. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation at any one time, or in any one package, to receive at a point within the state of North Carolina for his use or for the use of any person, firm or corporation, or for any other purpose, any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity greater than one quart or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons.

See annotations under section 3384.
3386. Fifteen days between receipts. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, during the space of fifteen consecutive days, to receive any spirituous or vinous liquors or intoxicating bitters in a quantity or quantities totaling more than one quart, or any malt liquors in a quantity greater than five gallons: Provided, that the provisions of this and the two preceding sections shall not apply to the receipt by a common carrier for transportation to a point in another state where delivery is not forbidden by the laws of such state.

Common carrier not required to deliver more than one quart to one person in fifteen days: Glenn v. Express Co., 170-286.

3387. Malt liquors defined. The words "malt liquors" as used in this article shall be construed to include only such malt liquors as contain not to exceed five per centum of alcohol, and any malt liquors containing more than five per centum of alcohol shall be held to be "spirituous liquors" within the meaning of this article.

3388. No order in fictitious name or in name of another. It is unlawful for any person to order in a fictitious name or in the name of another any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters or to receive for himself any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters so ordered or shipped.

3389. To allow use of name forbidden. It is unlawful for any person to allow or in any way permit the use of his name in the ordering for another or the delivery to another of any spirituous or vinous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters.

1915, c. 97, s. 6.

3390. To serve liquors with meals forbidden. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to serve with meals, or otherwise, any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters where any charge is made for such meal or service.

Where a person has been convicted under this section and the liquors have been seized and ordered to be destroyed, he cannot maintain claim and delivery to recover them: Felia v. Belton, 170-112.

3391. Sale by druggists prohibited. All laws authorizing or allowing the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters by any medical depository, druggist or pharmacist are hereby repealed, and it shall be unlawful for any medical depository, druggist or pharmacist to sell or otherwise dispose of for gain any spirituous, vinous, fermented or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters.

3392. Application of provisions of this article. The provisions of this article shall not apply to grain alcohol received by duly licensed physicians, druggists, dental surgeons, college, university and state laboratories, and manufacturers of medicine, when intended to be used in compounding, mixing, or preserving medicines or medical preparations, or for surgical purposes, when obtained as hereinafter provided: Provided, however, that nothing contained in this article shall prohibit the importation into the state of North Carolina and the delivery and possession in the state for use in industry, manufactures, and arts of any denatured alcohol or other denatured spirits, which are compounded and made in accordance with the formulæ prescribed by acts of congress of the United States and regulations made under authority thereof by the treasury department of the United States and the commissioner of internal revenue thereof, and which are not now subject to internal revenue tax levied by the government of the United States: Provided further, that this article shall not apply to wines and liquors required and used by hospitals or sanatoria bona fide established and maintained for the treatment of patients addicted to the use of liquor, morphine, opium, cocaine, or other deleterious drugs, when the same are administered to patients actually in such hospitals or sanatoria for treatment, and when the same are administered as an essential part of the particular system or method of treatment and exclusively by or under the direction of a duly licensed and registered physician of good moral character and standing.

1915, c. 97, s. 9.

3393. Vinous liquors for sacramental purposes. It shall be lawful for any duly ordained minister of the gospel who is in charge of a church and at the head of a congregation in this state, to receive in the space of ninety consecutive days a quantity of vinous liquors not greater than three gallons for use in sacramental purposes only, and it shall be lawful for him to receive same in one or more packages or one or more receptacles.

1919, c. 241.

3394. Permit to obtain alcohol for certain purposes. Manufacturers of medicine, duly licensed physicians, hospitals, dental surgeons, college, university, and state laboratories and druggists may make written application to the clerk of the superior court of the county for a permit to receive by transportation by a common carrier grain alcohol intended to be used for surgical purposes and in compounding, mixing, or preserving medicines and medical preparations. Such permit shall then be granted by the clerk or his duly appointed deputy, who shall affix the seal of his office thereto, and the permit shall contain the name of the applicant to whom the shipment is to be delivered, the place from which the shipment is to be made, the amount to be shipped, and the date of the granting of the permit. The permit shall be executed in duplicate. The original shall be delivered to the applicant to be sent by him to the shipper, to be pasted on the outside of the package containing alcohol.

1915, c. 97, s. 10.

3395. Permit attached to package. A permit, issued as above, when attached to and plainly affixed in a conspicuous place to any package or parcel containing grain alcohol transported within this state, shall authorize any common carrier within the state to transport the package or parcel to which such permit is attached or affixed, containing only alcohol mentioned in the permit, and to deliver the same to the person, firm or corporation to which such permit was issued.

3396. Duplicate permit filed with clerk. The duplicate copy of the permit, together with the application therefor, as hereinbefore provided, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court chronologically and alphabetically with regard to the name of the applicant, and the application and permit shall at all times be subject to the inspection of any citizen or officer of the state, county, or municipality; and for his services the clerk of the superior court shall be entitled to a fee of fifty cents, to be paid by the applicant.

3397. Construction of article. Nothing in this article shall be construed to impair or repeal any laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors or any laws making the place of delivery the place of sale, nor shall it be construed to repeal any laws prohibiting the transportation, delivery, or receipt of intoxicating liquors in any county or counties in this state.

1915, c. 97, s. 14.

This does not repeal local laws prohibiting the sale of liquor: State v. Russell, 164-482—but does repeal a local law permitting the sale in violation of the general law, State v. Johnson, 170-685.

ART. 6. SEIZURE AND FORFEITURE OF PROPERTY

3398. Duty of sheriff to seize distilleries. It is the duty of the sheriff of each county, in the state and of the police of each incorporated town or city in the state to search for and seize any distillery or apparatus used for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in violation of the laws of North Carolina, and to deliver the same, with any materials used for making such liquors found on the premises, to the board of county commissioners, who shall confiscate the same and shall cause the distillery to be cut up and destroyed, in their presence or in the presence of a committee of the board, and who may dispose of the material, including the copper or other material from the destroyed still or apparatus, in such manner as they may deem proper.

Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, s. 2; 1907, c. 807, s. 1.

3399. Duty of officers to destroy liquor and arrest offenders. It is the duty of the sheriff and other officers mentioned in the preceding section to seize and then and there destroy any and all liquors which may be found at any distillery for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in violation of law, and to arrest and hold for trial all persons found on the premises engaged in distilling or aiding or abetting in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors.

Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, ss. 4, 5; 1909, c. 807, s. 2.

3400. Officer failing to discharge duty removed from office. If any officer mentioned in the two preceding sections shall fail or refuse to use due diligence in the execution of the provisions of such sections, after being informed of violation thereof, he shall be guilty of laches in office and such failure be cause for removal therefrom.

Rev., s. 3526; 1905, c. 498, s. 8.

3401. Fee for seizure. For every distillery seized under this article the sheriff or other police officer shall receive the sum of twenty dollars, which shall be allowed by the commissioners of the county in which the seizure was made:
3402. Claimant may sue for fee. The person making the seizure may institute an action before the proper court for the amount claimed under and by virtue of the seizure; then the matter may be inquired into on its merits and judgment rendered accordingly.

1911, c. 45, s. 2.

3403. Seizure of vehicle used in conveying liquor. If any person, firm or corporation shall have or keep in possession any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in violation of law, the sheriff or other officer of any county, city or town, who shall seize such liquors by any authority provided by law, is hereby authorized and required to seize and take into his custody any vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or things used in conveying, concealing or removing such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and safely keep the same until the guilt or innocence of the defendant has been determined upon his trial for the violation of any such law making it unlawful to so keep in possession any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and upon conviction of a violation of the law, the defendant shall forfeit and lose all right, title and interest in and to the property so seized; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff having in possession the vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or things so used in conveying, concealing or removing such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, to advertise and sell same under the laws governing the sale of personal property under execution.

This is a valid exercise of police power, but it will not affect the rights of innocent third persons in the property seized: Skinner v. Thomas, 171-98.

3404. Notice to owner to claim property. In the event the sheriff or other officer shall, at the time of seizing spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, fail to capture or arrest the owner or party in possession and so using the vessel, boat, cart, carriage, automobile and all horses and other animals or thing to convey, conceal or remove such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, he shall advertise for the owner to come forward and institute the proper proceeding to secure possession of the property, and upon the failure of any person to so come forward and surrender himself to the sheriff to the end that the question of whether the property was used as set out in this article, and upon the failure of such person to come forward, if an individual, in person, and make such claim within thirty days after such notice shall have appeared in at least one issue of some newspaper published in the county where such seizure was made, and after such notice and time the sheriff shall advertise such property so seized for sale and sell as provided in the preceding section.

An appeal from an order directing sheriff to hold the property until the case is tried is premature: Richardson v. Hobgood, 170-37.

3405. Proceeds of sale applied to school fund. The proceeds derived from the sale of such property, after paying for the reasonable expense of such sale, shall be paid by the sheriff to the county treasurer, and be applied by the treasurer to the credit of the public school fund of the county.
1915, c. 197, s. 3.

Art. 7. General Provisions

3406. No witness privileged. No person shall be excused from testifying on any prosecution for violating any law against the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors, but no discovery made by such person shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned for the offense done or participated in by him.
1913, c. 44, s. 7.

3407. Allowing distillery to be operated on land. If any person shall knowingly permit or allow any distillery or other apparatus for the making or distilling of spirituous liquors to be set up for operation or to be operated on lands in his possession or control, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court.
Rev., s. 3533; 1905, c. 498, s. 2.

Defendant is guilty if he furnishes the place, or allows his premises to be used, for carrying on the distilling: State v. Jones, 175-709—or if he allows liquor to be sold on his premises he is guilty of aiding and abetting, State v. Denton, 154-641.

3408. Federal license as evidence. The possession of a license or the issuance to any person of a license to manufacture, rectify or sell, at wholesale or retail, spirituous or malt liquors by the United States government or any officer thereof in any county, city or town where the manufacture, sale or rectification of spirituous or malt liquors is forbidden by the laws of this state shall be prima facie evidence that the person having such license, or to whom the same was issued, is guilty of doing the act permitted by such license in violation of the laws of this state. On the trial of any person charged with the violation of any such laws, it shall be competent to prove that such a license is in the possession of or has been issued to such person, by the testimony of any witness who has personally examined the records of the government office where the official record of such licenses is kept.
Rev., s. 2060; 1905, c. 339, s. 5; 1907, c. 931.

This is a valid exercise of the power of the legislature to change rules of evidence: State v.
Boynton, 155-456; State v. Dowdy, 145-432—but this will not cure a defect in the bill which makes the charge too indefinite, State v. Tisdale, 145-422.

3409. Manufacturing liquor a felony. It is unlawful for any person to distil, manufacture, or in any manner make, or for any person to aid, assist, or abet any such person in distilling, manufacturing, or in any manner making any spirituous or malt liquors or intoxicating bitters within the state of North Carolina; but this shall not be understood as prohibiting the manufacture of wines and cider in the manner and under the conditions which are now or may hereafter be provided by law. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall, for the first conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction or confession of guilt, punished in the discretion of the court; for the second or any subsequent conviction said person or persons shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction or confession in open court, shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than one year and not exceeding five years, in the discretion of the court.

1917, c. 157; 1919, c. 4.

Sufficient evidence to convict of engaging in distilling, or aiding and abetting in the same:

Local act making a sale of liquor a felony does not affect prior sales: State v. Mull, 178-748.

3410. Other violations a misdemeanor. Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter, except as specified in the preceding section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

1908, c. 71, s. 8; 1908, c. 118, s. 2; 1911, c. 35, s. 3; 1911, c. 133, s. 1; 1913, c. 44, ss. 1, 4; 1915, c. 91, s. 3; 1915, c. 97, s. 13.

For what constitutes the violations, see the various sections supra.

INDICTMENT. Should charge sale as made 'wilfully and unlawfully': State v. Powell, 141-780. Need not specify the kind of 'intoxicating liquors': State v. Parker, 80-439; State v. Downs, 116-1064. Must negative possession of a license: State v. Holder, 133-709. Need not negative, in this case, the fact that liquors were manufactured from fruits raised on land of defendant: State v. Burton, 138-775. Need not specify statutes under which brought: State v. Wallace, 94-827; State v. Snow, 117-778; State v. Downs, 116-1064—but not negative the fact that it comes within an exception to the statute, Ibid.—and where it refers to a wrong statute it is mere surplusage, State v. Snow, 117-778. Must aver a sale to a particular person, or to a person to jurors unknown: State v. Tisdale, 145-422; State v. Stamey, 71-202; State v. Faucett, 20-108; see State v. Tucker, 127-539—but see State v. Brown, 170-714, and section 3383. The warrant or bill should charge the particular ordinance or law violated: State v. Lunsford, 150-862.

When two counts on the bill of indictment allege 'an unlawful sale to person or persons to jurors unknown,' it is sufficient to support general verdict of guilty, though coupled with a third count which may be defective: State v. Dowdy, 145-432. Other cases of interest: State v. Parker, 91-652; State v. Chambers, 93-600.

3411. Local laws not repealed. Nothing in this chapter shall operate to repeal any of the local or special acts of the general assembly of North Carolina prohibiting the manufacture or sale or other disposition of any of the liquors mentioned in this chapter, or any laws for the enforcement of the same, but all such acts shall continue in full force and effect and in concurrence herewith, and indictment or prosecution may be had either under this chapter or under any special or local act relating to the same subject.

Repeals by implication or construction are not favored, and they should not be extended so as to include cases not within the intention of the legislature: State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Sutton, 100-474. The repeal in any case will be measured by the extent of the conflict or the inconsistency between the acts, and if any part of the earlier act can stand as not superseded or affected by the later one, it will not be repealed: State v. Perkins, 141-797. If the legislature enacts a law in the terms of a former one, and at the same time repeals the former, this amounts to a reaffirmance and not a repeal of the former law: State v. Sutton, 100-474. An act making it unlawful to sell any drink containing alcohol is not repealed by an act which prohibits the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors or other intoxicating drinks and repeals all previous statutes in conflict: State v. Parker, 139-586.

By express provision, local acts prohibiting manufacture, sale or disposition of liquor were not repealed: State v. Herring, 145-418; State v. Russell, 164-482; State v. Johnson, 170-685. But a prior local law, so far as it permits the sale of liquor in violation of the general law, is repealed: State v. Johnson, 170-685.

Art. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3412. Application to existing railroads; special charters. All existing railroad corporations within this state shall respectively have and possess all the powers and privileges contained in this chapter; and they shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities and provisions of this chapter not inconsistent with their charters. This chapter shall govern and control, anything in any special act of assembly creating a railroad corporation to the contrary notwithstanding, unless in the act of the general assembly creating the corporation the section or sections of this chapter intended to be repealed shall be specially referred to by number and, as such, specially repealed.

Revised, s. 2566; Code, ss. 701, 1982; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 45.

This section is construed not to affect subsequent legislation in conflict with it: Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; R. R. v. Ferguson, 169-70.

It is the policy of the legislature that the provisions of this chapter shall not in any material particular be repealed by implication; therefore the charter of a railroad company using such words as "this company shall be allowed to condemn land under the same rules and regulations as the N. C. Railroad Co." does not alter the effect of this section: R. R. v. R. R., 106-16; Livermon v. R. R., 109-52.

3413. Roads not to be established unless authorized by law. If any person or corporation, not being expressly authorized thereto, shall make or establish any canal, turnpike, tramroad, railroad or plankroad, with the intent that the same shall be used to transport passengers other than such persons, or the members of such corporation, or to transport any productions, fabrics or manufactures other than their own, the person or corporation so offending, and using the same for any such purpose, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for every person and article of produce so transported.

This section shall not apply to any narrow-gauge railroad, tramroad or toll road made and established and maintained solely by the owner of the lands upon which said road may be, the principal business of which is the transportation of logs, lumber and articles for the owners of such railroad or tramroad: Provided, that the corporation commission shall have power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by said commission.

In a contract for purchase of timber at a reduced price under a promise to build a railroad, the purchasers not having authority to build the road will not prevent a recovery for the value of the timber: Herring v. Lumber Co., 159-382.

It seems that where a corporation is authorized to cut and haul lumber to market it may incidentally haul the goods of another: Gruber v. R. R., 92-1.

3414. Conductor and certain other employees to wear badges. Every conductor, baggagemaster, engineer, brakeman or other servant of any railroad corporation employed on a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat or cap a badge which shall indicate his office and the initial letters of the title of the corporation by which he is employed. No conductor or collector without such badge shall be entitled to demand or receive from any passenger any fare or ticket, or to exercise any of the powers of his office; and no officer or servant without such badge shall have authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger, his baggage or property.

Rev., s. 2604; Code, s. 1958; 1871-2, c. 188, s. 30.

3415. Actions for penalties to be in name of state. All penalties imposed by this chapter may, unless otherwise provided, be sued for in the name of the state.

Rev., s. 2647; Code, s. 1976; 1885, c. 221.

An action for penalty under section 3516 is not brought in the name of the state; and if this were required the name of the state could be added by amendment: Robertson v. R. R., 148-323.

3416. Discrimination in charges misdemeanor. If any common carrier shall directly or indirectly by special rate, rebate, drawback, or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of law than it charges, demands or collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions; or shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever; or shall subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever, such person or corporation shall be upon conviction thereof fined not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars for each and every offense.

This section is to be construed with section 3417.

Railroad company is indictable for placing an embargo on its customer to discriminate against him or those dealing with him: Garrison v. R. R., 150-575. A railroad in the hands of a receiver is not criminally liable for the acts of the receiver: State v. R. R., 152-785.

3417. Discrimination by rebate or reduced charges, misdemeanor. Any railroad company doing business in the state, or officer or agent thereof, who shall give to any person or shipper any advantage over another person or shipper under like circumstances, by way of any rebate or reduced rate not authorized by law or by the North Carolina corporation commission, or which shall make charges for shipments of freight in violation of the law as to railroad freight rates, contained in article 5 of the chapter Corporation Commission, or shall willfully discriminate in the matter of service in favor of one person or corporation against another in like circumstances, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred dollars and such officer or agent shall be fined or imprisoned or both, in the discretion of the court; and any shipper or consignee of any freight in the state of North Carolina who shall knowingly accept any rebate or other consideration or service from any railroad company which is not allowed or given other shippers or consignees under like or similar circumstances, and which is not allowed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Railroad in hands of receiver is not criminally liable for acts of receiver: State v. R. R., 152-785.

3418. Discrimination against connecting lines and violation of certain rules of the corporation commission misdemeanor. If any common carrier shall not afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between its respective lines and for the forwarding and delivering of passengers and freights to and from its several lines and those connecting therewith, or shall discriminate in its rates and charges against such connecting lines, or if any connecting line shall not make as close connection as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public, or shall not obey all rules and regulations made by the corporation commission relating to trackage, it shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor exceeding five thousand dollars for each and every offense.

3419. Discrimination against the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad misdemeanor; venue. If any railroad in North Carolina shall discriminate against the freights received from the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, or shall make rates by which, either directly or indirectly, by rebates or otherwise, freights may be delivered at less rates when received from other points than from points along the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad in proportion to distance hauled, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars for each and every violation thereof. An indictment for the misdemeanor may be found and tried in the courts where the goods were either shipped or delivered, but the court in which the indictment for the offense is first found shall have exclusive jurisdiction.

Rev., s. 3750; 1889, c. 358.

ART. 2. INCORPORATION, OFFICERS, AND STOCK OF RAILROADS

3420. Articles of association; contents; signature; filing. Any number of persons, not less than six, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, may form a company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad for public use in the conveyance of persons and property, or for the purpose of maintaining and operating any unincorporated railroad already constructed for the like public use; and for that purpose may make and sign articles of association, in which shall be stated the name of the company, the number of years the same is to continue, the places from and to which the road is to be constructed or maintained and operated, the length of such road as near as may be, and the name of each county in this state through or into which it is made or intended to be made, the amount of the capital stock of the company, which shall not be less than five thousand dollars for every mile of road constructed or proposed to be constructed, and the number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, and the names and places of residence of six directors of the company, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, upon whom legal process may be served, who shall manage its affairs for the first year, or until others are chosen in their places. Each subscriber to such articles of association shall subscribe thereto his name, place of residence, and the number of shares of stock he agrees to take in the company. On compliance with the provisions of the succeeding section, such articles of association may be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall indorse thereon the day they are filed, and record the same in a book to be provided by him for that purpose; and thereupon the persons who have so subscribed such articles of association, and all persons who shall become stockholders in such company, shall be a corporation by the name specified in such articles of association, and shall possess the powers and privileges granted to railroad corporations by this chapter.

As to formation and powers of private corporations, see chapter Corporations.

Existence of railroad corporation cannot be attacked collaterally or questioned in action brought by it to condemn land: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 114-690—but where articles of association are, upon their face, void, trial court will so declare: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413. Filing and recording by secretary of state of articles of association of proposed railroad company, if not such as required by law, is a nullity: Ibid.

Letters of incorporation are evidence, but not the only evidence, to prove fact of incorporation: Carolina Iron Co. v. Abernathy, 94-545; Marshall v. Bank, 108-639; see section 3422.

Railroad corporations can only be created by compliance with statutory provisions, but sections 3420-3422 do not apply to method of continuing their existence: Bradley v. R. R., 119-927 (Appendix).

Articles of association must show compliance with provisions of statute as to amount of capital stock subscribed and paid in: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

Persons associated shall be corporation from time of filing certificate in office of secretary of state: Street Rwy. v. R. R., 142-433.
3421. Prerequisites of filing; stock subscription; affidavit of directors; payment of fees. Such articles of association shall not be filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state until at least one thousand dollars of stock for every mile of railroad proposed to be made is subscribed thereto, and five per cent paid thereon in good faith, and in cash, to the directors named in the articles of association; nor until there is indorsed thereon or annexed thereto an affidavit made by at least three of the directors named in such articles, that the amount of stock required by this section has been in good faith subscribed and five per cent paid in cash thereon as aforesaid, and that it is intended in good faith to construct or to maintain and operate the road mentioned in such articles of association, which affidavit shall be recorded with the articles of association, as aforesaid; nor until said directors shall pay the taxes and fees provided for under the chapter Corporations, Article 11, entitled Taxes and Fees.

Filing and recording articles of association by secretary of state not in compliance with this section is a nullity: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

3422. Copy of articles evidence of incorporation. A copy of any articles of association filed and recorded in pursuance of this article and of the record thereof, with a copy of the affidavit aforesaid indorsed thereon or annexed thereto, and certified to be a copy by the secretary of state, shall be presumptive evidence of the incorporation of such company, and of the facts therein stated.

Rev., s. 2550; Code, s. 1984; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 2; 1905, c. 168.

3423. Opening of subscription books. When such articles of association and affidavit are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, the directors named in such articles of association may, in case the whole of the capital stock is not before subscribed, open books of subscription to fill up the capital stock of the company in such places and after giving such notice as they may deem expedient, and may continue to receive subscriptions until the whole of the capital stock is subscribed.

Rev., s. 2551; Code, s. 1934; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 3.

3424. How stock paid for; forfeiture for nonpayment. The directors may require the subscribers to the capital stock of the company to pay the amounts by them respectively subscribed in such manner and in such installments as they may deem proper. If any stockholder shall neglect to pay any installment as required by a resolution of the board of directors, the said board shall be authorized to declare his stock and all previous payments thereon forfeited for the use of the company, but they shall not declare it so forfeited until they shall have caused a notice in writing to be served on him personally, or the same to be deposited in the postoffice, properly directed to him at the postoffice nearest his usual place of residence, stating that he is required to make such payment at the time and place specified in such notice, and that if he fails to make the same, his stock and all previous payments thereon will be forfeited for the use of the company, which notice shall be served as aforesaid at least sixty days previous to the day on which payment is required to be made.

Rev., s. 2554; Code, s. 1938; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 7.

See section 1159. Subscription must be paid in money or money's worth: Hobgood v. Ehlen, 141-352; Foundry Co. v. Killian, 99-506.

3425. Increase of capital stock. In case the capital stock of any railroad company is found to be insufficient for constructing and operating its road, such company may, with the concurrence of two-thirds in amount of all its stockholders, increase its capital stock from time to time to any amount required for the purposes aforesaid. Such increase must be sanctioned by a vote in person or by proxy of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of the company, at a meeting of such stockholders called by the directors of the company for that purpose, by a notice in writing to each stockholder, to be served on him personally or by depositing the same, properly folded and directed to him at the postoffice nearest his usual place of residence, in the postoffice at least twenty days prior to such meeting. Such notice must state the time and place of the meeting and its object and the amount to which it is proposed to increase the capital stock. The proceedings of such meeting must be entered on the minutes of the proceedings of the company, and thereupon the capital stock of the company may be increased to the amount sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of the company aforesaid.

Rev., s. 2555; Code, s. 1939; 1871-2, c. 188, s. 9.

3426. Liability for unpaid stock to laborers; notice to stockholder. Each stockholder of any such company shall be individually liable to the creditors of such company to an amount equal to the amount unpaid on the stock held by him, for all the debts and liabilities of such company until the whole amount of the capital stock so held by him shall have been paid to the company, and all the stockholders of any such company shall be jointly and severally liable for the debts due or owing to any of its laborers and servants, other than contractors, for personal services for thirty days service performed for such company, but shall not be liable to an action therefor before an execution shall be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part against the corporation, and the amount due on such execution shall be the amount recoverable with costs against such stockholder. Before such laborer or servant shall charge such stockholders for such thirty days service he shall give them notice in writing within twenty days after the performance of such service that he intends to hold them liable, and shall commence such action therefor within thirty days after the return of such execution unsatisfied as above mentioned; and every such stockholder, against whom any such recovery by such laborer or servant shall have been had, shall have a right to recover the same of the other stockholders in such corporation in ratable proportion to the amount of the stock they shall respectively hold with himself.

3427. Liability of trustees and other fiduciaries holding stock. No person holding stock in any such company as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and no person holding such stock as collateral security, shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company. The estates in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the same stock in his own name, and a person pledging such stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly.

Rev., s. 2557; Code, s. 1941; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 11.

3428. Directors and presidents. There shall be a board of six directors, one of whom shall be elected president, of every corporation formed under this article, to manage its affairs. The directors shall be chosen annually by a majority of the votes of the stockholders voting at such election, in such manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws of the corporation, and they may and shall continue in office until others are elected in their places. In the election of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote personally or by proxy on every share held by him thirty days previous to any such election, and vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation. The inspectors of the first election of directors shall be appointed by the board of directors named in the articles of association. No person shall be a director or president unless he shall be a stockholder owning stock absolutely in his own right and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen; and at every election of directors the books and papers of such company shall be exhibited to the meeting, if a majority of the stockholders present shall require it.

Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1986; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5.

For annotations as to powers and duties of directors of corporations generally, see section 1144.

For organization upon sale of road, see section 3462.

3429. Appointment of officers and agents. The president and directors shall appoint a treasurer and secretary and such other officers and agents as shall be prescribed by the by-laws.

Rev., s. 2553; Code, s. 1937; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 6.

3430. Officials to account to successors. The president and directors of the several railroads, and all persons acting under them, are hereby required upon demand to account with the president and directors elected or appointed to succeed them, and shall transfer to them forthwith all the money, books, papers, choses in action, property and effects of every kind and description belonging to such company.

Rev., s. 2648; Code, s. 2001; 1870-1, c. 72, ss. 1, 3.

ART. 3. COUNTY SUBSCRIPTIONS IN AID OF RAILROADS

3431. Counties may subscribe stock. The boards of commissioners of the several counties shall have power to subscribe stock to any railroad company when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad in which the citizens of the county may have an interest.

Rev., s. 2558; Code, s. 1906; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 1.

For issuance of bonds by cities and towns, see chapter Municipal Corporations.
For election on issuance of bonds, see sections 3432, 3433.
For collection of taxes with which to pay bonds, see section 3435.
Act of general assembly authorizing county to take stock in railroad, and to determine question by popular vote, and tax themselves to pay for it, is constitutional: Hill v. Comrs., 67-367; Alexander v. Comrs., 67-322; Caldwell v. Justices, 57-323.

Adoption of new constitution, with restrictions as to issue of municipal bonds, annulled all special powers remaining unexecuted and not granted in strict conformity with its requirements: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308.

An act of the general assembly authorizing levy of requisite taxes to pay municipal bonds and in force when bonds are issued, enters into and becomes part of contract under which bonds are delivered and taken, and cannot be annulled by subsequent legislation: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

Stock owned by county not subject to execution to satisfy debt of an individual: Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598.

COMPETENT FOR LEGISLATURE, BY A RETROSPECTIVE STATUTE, TO VALIDATE AN IRREGULAR OR DEFECTIVE EXECUTION OF A POWER BY THE AUTHORITIES OF A MUNICIPAL CORPORATION ACTING UNDER A FORMER STATUTE, WHERE NO CONTRACT IS IMPAIRED AND THE RIGHTS OF THIRD PERSONS ARE NOT INJURIOUSLY AFFECTED: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

Words "majority of the members elect" or "majority of the qualified voters" are used in constitutions and laws to take the exercise of a particular power out of general rule, and make assent of majority of whole number necessary: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678.

The people, and not the legislature, have power to contract a debt to aid in the construction of a railroad: Galloway v. Jenkins, 63-147; University R. R. Co. v. Holden, 63-410.

Taxpayer, for sufficient cause, can intervene, in apt time, and enjoin the issuing of municipal bonds, but this must be done before bonds are issued and negotiated and pass into circulation as commercial securities: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

When authority to issue municipal bonds upon the performance of certain conditions precedent is conferred by statute upon a particular tribunal, such tribunal has the sole power to determine if the conditions have been performed: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

VALIDITY OF BONDS. For constitutional provisions, see state constitution, article 2, section 14; article 7, section 7.

If amendment in a material matter is made to bill, amended bill should be read over again three times in each house, with yea and nay vote on second and third readings entered on journals: Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173-138; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730. Every act of general assembly levying a tax shall state special object to which it is to be applied: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

Journals of general assembly may be introduced in evidence to show whether or not constitutional requirements have been met, and these are conclusive as against printed statute and enrolled act: Comrs. v. Snugge, 121-394 (following Bank v. Comrs., 119-214, and distinguishing Carr v. Coke, 116-223).

Where recitals in railroad bonds are that they were issued under a particular act of the legislature, burden of validating them is on party alleging their validity: Graves v. Comrs., 135-49.

It is essential to validity of bonds issued in aid of railroads, or other similar enterprises, by counties, townships and other municipal organizations, that proposition shall have first had assent of majority of qualified voters in territory affected, to be duly ascertained by election regularly held for that purpose: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159; Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; see annotations under section 34382.

Records showing that proposition to issue bonds was submitted after thirty days notice, and that a majority of qualified registered electors voted in the affirmative, are conclusive evidence that will of majority was so expressed: Bauk v. Comrs., 116-339.

It is not valid defense that county issued its own bonds to pay subscription to railroad stock instead of negotiating a loan, as empowered to do by the act: Street v. Comrs., 70-644.

A general act authorizing counties to issue bonds for railroad purposes would be invalid, especially when it is necessary to exceed constitutional limitation to pay interest or principal: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432. If bonds issued were invalid, new bonds in renewal are equally invalid: Ibid.

County has no power to issue bonds and levy a tax for their payment in aid of a railroad not begun before adoption of constitution of 1868: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394—they being limited to "aid in the completion of any railroad," etc., Ibid.; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; but see Comrs. v. Coler, 190 U. S., 437 (note the present section refers to "construction" in place of "completion").

Although contracts made, based upon subscription, validity of election can be contested: Goforth v. Construction Co., 96-535.

Where legislature authorized issue of bonds in aid of railroad, and provided for payment by taxation, but did not provide for election, and election was held in conformity to existing election laws relating to borrowing of money by municipalities, bonds issued pursuant to such election are valid in hands of bona fide owner: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339.

As to whether funding bonds can be issued without a vote of the people, see Asheville v. Webb, 134-72; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

For discussion of validity of county railroad bonds, see Wilkes v. Coler, 190 U. S., 107; Stanly Comrs. v. Coler, 190 U. S., 437.

PURCHASER OF BONDS. It is incumbent upon purchasers of state, county and municipal bonds to ascertain whether authority to issue them has been granted according to requirements of constitution: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339, and cases therein cited. If the bonds refer to statute under which they are issued, purchaser is bound to take notice of statute and all its requirements: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308—and where there is an inherent constitutional defect in statute authorizing issue of bonds or in proceedings under which they are issued, a purchaser takes with notice, and cannot be an innocent holder: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453. Purchaser may rely upon certificate of registrar and the finding of commissioners as to the result of the popular vote: Ibid.

TOWNSHIP BONDS. County commissioners are not authorized to issue bonds on credit of a township for construction of a railroad: Graves v. Comrs., 135-49.

General assembly may empower a township, with sanction of its qualified voters, to aid in construction of railroad by levying taxes and contracting debt to raise money for that purpose: Brown v. Comrs., 100-92.

Act of assembly directing that county taxes, which might be levied upon property and franchise of railroad company in certain township, should be applied, as far as necessary, to payment of interest on bonds issued by such township in aid of railroad, is constitutional: Brown v. Comrs., 100-92—as is also act requiring county commissioners to set apart the taxes derived from such railroad property to be used in building roads, bridges, etc., in such township (bonds being paid off) until township is repaid amount it has expended, Jones v. Comrs., 143-59.

Action to declare void an election held to allow certain townships to subscribe stock to a railroad company, on account of irregularities, could be brought, being equitable in its nature, even though no remedy was given by statute; and while no statute of limitation is applicable, still such action should be brought within reasonable time, and before rights of innocent third parties have intervened: Jones v. Comrs., 107-248.

Where township has voted bonds in aid of a railroad to be constructed on a designated line, and subsequently legislature enacts that company "may" change its route, and that, upon petition by taxpayers of township, an election shall be held on question whether or not bonds previously issued shall be used in aid of the construction of new route, county commissioners will be enjoined from ordering such election where it appears that company has contracted for construction of road upon original route and is pushing work to completion: R. R. v. Comrs., 108-56.

Where upon vote taken the township issued bonds in support of railroad, but bonds were to be held by county commissioners and to be canceled if road was not completed and in operation within three years, the county commissioners had no authority to deliver the bonds nor to extend the time: McCracken v. R. R., 168-62.

ESTOPPEL. Payment of interest from year to year on bonds is not an estoppel, and does not validate them: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730.

That the county, township or other municipal organization, in which a void election was held, appointed an agent, who made a subscription of stock on behalf of his principal, that organization acted and was recognized as a stockholder in corporation in aid of which bonds were to be issued, and that latter made contracts with third parties, relying upon validity of transaction, will not operate as an estoppel, such acts being ultra vires: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159.
A town is estopped by the compromise of a valid liability for a smaller sum; but not when the original obligation was not authorized in the manner provided by the constitution: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; s. c., 119-214.

Fact that action to impeach validity of bonds on ground of irregularity in election was brought and failed is no estoppel to a second action to impeach their validity on ground that act authorizing election was not properly passed: Glenn v. Wray, 126-730.

In action by bona fide purchaser for value against county, upon a bond issued by former county court, under an act of legislature, records of such court are conclusive upon county and constitute an estoppel in pais: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489.

County bond stating on its face the act under which it is issued is notice to holder, and estops him from controverting statement: Comrs. v. Call, 123-308.

3432. Election on question of county aid. The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock in any railroad company shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property, and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held on a notice of not less than thirty days, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount of stock agreed on by the board of county commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the county shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners, through their chairman, shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them and submitted to the people, subject to all the rules, regulations and restrictions of other stockholders in such company: Provided, that the counties, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as they may think proper.

The fact that petitioners styled themselves "voters and taxpayers," while special act required a petition by "resident taxpayers," was immaterial: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Where legislature provides no election machinery for town bond election under special act, general laws relating to such elections are applicable: Bank v. Comrs., 116-339.

Where question of subscription to two different railway corporations is to be submitted to a vote, it is improper and irregular to submit them as a single proposition at same election and on same ballot: Goforth v. Construction Co., 96-535.

Where law declared that those in favor should vote "Subscription" and those opposed "No subscription," it is immaterial that electors voted "For subscription" and "Against subscription": Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453. Fact that county commissioners canvassed returns of election second day thereafter instead of third, as provided by statute, is immaterial: Ibid. Election is not vitiated by fact that, through mistake, another date for it was copied in minutes of county commissioners: Ibid.

Where returns of such election ascertained only that "a majority of votes cast was in favor of subscription," and declaration to that effect was made by county commissioners, constitutional requirement had not been observed: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159; Glenn v. Wray, 126-734, and cases cited.

Statement by county commissioners that "after due canvass, the foregoing returns of election are correct, and said board hereby approve said returns," is not a declaration that a majority of qualified voters favored the subscription: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Where power is conferred to open, conduct and declare result of an election, action of those charged therewith in that respect is final and conclusive until it is reversed by some proper action brought to impeach it, and courts will not interfere by injunction to prevent them from ascertaining and promulgating result: Bynum v. Comrs., 101-412; see Norment v. Charlotte, 85-387; Simpson v. Comrs., 84-158.
WHO ARE "QUALIFIED VOTERS" HEREUNDER. Registration list is prima facie evidence of who are qualified voters: Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. A qualified voter is one who is entitled to register as a voter, and who is also qualified to vote after such registration: R. R. v. Caldwell, 72-492, 493—a registered voter being one who has lawfully registered and paid his poll tax, Pace v. Raleigh, 140-65. Voter must register anew, when so required, in order to be a qualified voter: Clark v. Statesville, 139-490. Other cases on the subject: Harris v. Scarborough, 110-232; Smith v. Wilmington, 98-343; Wood v. Oxford, 97-233; McDowell v. Construction Co., 96-514; Markham v. Manning, 96-132; Duke v. Brown, 96-127; Southernland v. Goldsboro, 96-49.

3433. Conduct of election. All elections ordered under the preceding section shall be held by the sheriff under the laws and regulations provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes shall be compared by the boards of county commissioners, who shall make a record of the same.

3434. Interest on bonds. In case the county shall subscribe the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal on said bonds shall be payable and at what place, and shall also fix the time and places of paying the interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same; and also to raise by taxation, from year to year, the amount necessary to meet the interest on such bonds.

Action to enjoin payment of interest on county bonds by treasurer, complaint defective: Comrs. v. Williams, 135-660. Payment of interest from year to year on bonds is not an estoppel and does not validate them: Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730.

Cases referring to, but not construing, section: Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-395. See, also, annotations under section 3431.

3435. Collection and disposition of taxes authorized. The taxes authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest or principal shall be collected by the sheriff in like manner as other state taxes, and be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of county commissioners as directed by this article.

Rev., s. 2562; Code, s. 2000; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 5.

A county, when it contracts a debt, pledges its faith, or loan its credit, must levy taxes necessary to raise revenue for such purposes upon all property in the same, except such property as is exempted from taxation: Jones v. Comrs., 107-248—but the equation and limitation of taxation established by constitution applies only to taxes levied for ordinary purposes of state and counties, and as to levies of taxes for such purposes, it must be observed, Ibid. Where neither declaration of result of election by commissioners nor recitals in bonds show that a majority of voters of town voted in favor of subscription, purchasers of bonds, though bona fide and for value, will not be protected in a suit by taxpayers to restrain collection of taxes to pay same, unless jury shall find that question is affirmative: Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453.

Validity of a special railroad tax cannot be questioned, in action on sheriff’s bond for failure to account for it, especially when it has been collected. If statute authorizing tax were unconstitutional, or otherwise invalid, sheriff could not be permitted to retain money illegally collected under color of his office: McGuire v. Williams, 123-349.

Cases referring to, but not construing, section: Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-395; Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308.

3436. Townships may subscribe stock. The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to subscribe stock for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad, which is now or may be hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state, in which the citizens of such county may have an interest.

This statute confers the power which did not exist in Graves v. Comrs., 135-49. The county commissioners are agents for the townships: McCracken v. R. R., 168-62.

3437. Election on question of township aid. The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock, for the use and benefit of any township, as mentioned in the preceding section, shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed for such township, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, and for what township, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property; and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held upon a notice of not less than thirty days, in each and every township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount agreed on by the board of commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the township for whose use and benefit subscription under this article is proposed to be made shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners through their chairman shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them, and submitted to the voters, for the use and benefit of such township, subject to all the rules, regulations, and restrictions of other stockholders in such railroad company: Provided, that the township, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as it may think proper.

3438. Conduct of election; canvass of votes. All elections ordered under the preceding section shall be held by the sheriff of the county in which such township is located, under such laws and regulations as are now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes of each township for whose use and benefit subscription under this article is proposed to be made shall be compared and the results of such election determined by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, who shall make a record of the same.

3439. Bond issue; special tax. In case the township shall authorize, at the election herein provided for, a subscription of the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal of such bonds shall be payable, and at what place, and shall also fix the time and place for paying interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same. The board of commissioners shall, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued by this article, compute and levy each year at the time of levying the county and state taxes a sufficient tax upon the property in any township authorizing the issuing of bonds under this article to pay the interest on the bonds issued on account of and for the use and benefit of such township, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes.

3440. Levy, collection, and disposition of tax. The tax authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest and principal shall be levied by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, at such times as is now or hereafter may be fixed for levying state and other county taxes, against the taxable property located in such township, in addition to the regular state and county taxes assessable against such property. The tax shall be collected by the sheriff or tax collector or other collecting officer of the county in which such township is located in like manner as state taxes are collected, and shall be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of commissioners as directed by this article.

3441. Tax to be kept separate. The taxes levied and collected under the provisions of this article shall be kept separate and apart from all other state and county taxes levied and collected in the county in which such township shall be located.

3442. Townships may subscribe to purchase of railroad corporations. The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to make subscriptions, for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, for the purpose of purchasing or aiding in the purchase of any railroad corporation now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state which shall be dissolved or whose property and franchises are proposed to be sold privately or under execution, judicial decree, deed in trust, mortgage, or other conveyance, and all the provisions of this article shall apply as fully and as well to such subscriptions as they do to subscriptions to stock to aid in the construction of railroads.

3443. Election on question of purchase; proxies to represent stock. The county commissioners shall, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township mentioned in the preceding section, order an election and submit the question of such subscription according to the terms of the petition.
At such election five persons shall be chosen as proxies to represent such stock, if the vote shall be in favor of the subscription, in all respects as fully as if private promoters, corporators or holders of such stock. They shall be eligible to the position of director or other office in the corporation. They shall hold office until the first Monday in December following the next general election and until their successors chosen at such general election shall qualify. Such proxies shall be chosen at the general election every two years as township officers are. They shall have authority, alone, if sole purchasers, and with the proxies from other townships and others participating in the purchase, if not acting alone, to purchase such railroad property and franchise, and shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law as in other cases of a dissolution and sale of railroad property and franchise.

Art. 5. Powers and Liabilities

3444. Powers of railroad corporations enumerated. Every railroad corporation shall have power:

1. To survey and enter on land. To cause such examination and surveys for its proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route; and for such purpose, by its officers or agents and servants, to enter upon the lands or waters of any person, but subject to responsibility for all damages which shall be done thereto.

As between two companies, the first location belongs to the first one which defines and marks its route and adopts same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action: Street Rwy. v. R. R., 142-430, and cases cited.

For right of entry upon land, see section 1707.

2. To condemn land under eminent domain. To appropriate land and rights therein by condemnation, as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

See section 1706 et seq.

3. To take property by grant. To take and hold such voluntary grants of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction, maintenance and accommodation of its railroad; but the real estate received by voluntary grant shall be held and used for the purposes of such grant only.

Railroads can acquire real estate only by statutory authority, and they are not authorized to acquire land by entry and grant: Wallace v. Moore, 178-114.

4. To purchase and hold property. To purchase and hold and use all such real estate and other property as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its railroad and the stations and other accommodations necessary to accomplish the object of its incorporation.

Cannot acquire land by entry and grant: Wallace v. Moore, 178-114.

5. To grade and construct road. To lay out its road, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, and to construct the same; to take, for the purpose of cuttings and embankments, as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling on the road, making compensation therefor as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Railroad company can change grade of its roadbed or can remove it to any point on its right of way: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654—and may extend its use of the right of way as the necessities of the company require it, Tighe v. R. R., 176-239; R. R. v. Bunting, 168-579; Hendrix v. R. R., 162-9; R. R. v. Olive, 142-257.
6. To intersect with highways and waterways. To construct its road across, along or upon any stream of water, water-course, street, highway, plankroad, turnpike, railroad or canal which the route of its road shall intersect or touch; but the company shall restore the stream or water-course, street, highway, plankroad or turnpike road, thus intersected or touched, to its former state or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness. Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the erection of any bridge or any other obstruction across, in or over any stream or lake navigated by steam or sail boats, at the place where any bridge or other obstructions may be proposed to be placed, nor to authorize the construction of any railroad not already located in, upon or across any streets in any city without the assent of the corporation of such city.

For duty of railroad to construct bridges and maintain same which it has necessitated building, see section 3797—to construct and maintain draws in bridges, see section 3800—to provide new highways when old one interfered with, see sections 3448, 3449—to provide cattle-guards, see section 3454.

Penalty for failure to maintain crossing, see section 3454—to keep up certain bridges, see section 3797.

Municipal authorities may grant the right to a railroad to use the streets for legitimate railroad purposes: Griffin v. R. R., 150-312.

One railroad may acquire right of way over another railroad: R. R. v. R. R., 161-531; s. c., 165-425.

Railroad must make crossing as safe and convenient as if railroad had not been built: Raper v. R. R., 126-563—may make change in county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness, Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

‘‘Highways’’ might include any road used by the public as a mill or church road and in going to town: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570; Herndon v. R. R., 161-650; Tate v. BR. R., 168-523.

If railroad crossing over neighborhood road is kept in dangerous condition, causing mule to fall and injure plaintiff, he is entitled to recover: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570.

7. To intersect with other railroads. To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed, at any point on its route, and upon the grounds of such other company, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches and other conveniences in furtherance of the object of its connections. Every company whose railroad is or shall be hereafter intersected by any new railroad shall unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections and grant the facilities aforesaid, and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points and manner of such crossings and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners to be appointed by the court as is provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Where railroad empowered to connect with another railroad at a certain city, the word ‘‘at’’ does not necessarily mean ‘‘in’’ the city: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100.

One road cannot enter on right of way of another for purpose of connecting therewith without previous agreement or condemnation proceedings: R. R. v. R. R., 104-638; R. R. v. R. R., 161-531; s. c., 165-425. Parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on right of way of another, for purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at will of licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel although licensee has entered and made valuable improvements: R. R. v. R. R., 104-638.

8. To transport persons and property. To take and convey persons and property on its railroad by the power or force of steam, electricity or animals, or by any mechanical power, and to receive compensation therefor.

Charter of company conferring right to transport passengers and freight, and giving power to ‘‘farm out’’ right of transportation, authorizes company to execute valid lease of its property and franchises to another railroad company: Hill v. R. R., 143-539.
9. To erect stations and other buildings. To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, fixtures and machinery for the accommodation and use of its passengers, freight and business.

10. To borrow money, issue bonds and execute mortgages. From time to time to borrow such sums of money as may be necessary for completing and finishing or operating its railroad, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property and franchises and to secure the payment of any debt contracted by the company for the purposes aforesaid, and the directors of the company may confer on any holder of any bond issued for money borrowed, as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of such company at any time under such regulations as the directors may see fit to adopt.

Railroad corporation has power to contract debts, and every corporation possessing such power must also have power to acknowledge its indebtedness under its corporate seal, that is, to make and issue its bonds: Comrs. v. R. R., 77-289. As to interest, usury, see Ibid.; also, chapter Interest.

11. To lease rails. To lease iron rails to any person or corporation for such time and upon such terms as may be agreed on by the contracting parties, and upon the termination of the lease by expiration, forfeiture or surrender, to take possession of and remove the rails so leased as if they had never been laid.

12. To establish hotels and eating houses. To purchase, lease, hold, operate or maintain eating-houses, hotels and restaurants for the accommodation of the traveling public along the line of its road.

Rev., ss. 2567, 2575; Code, s. 1957; 1887, c. 341; 1889, c. 518; 1871-2, c. 188, s. 29.

3445. Power to aid in construction of connecting and branch lines. Any railroad or other transportation company shall have the right to aid in the construction of any railroad or branch railroad in this or an adjoining state connected with it directly or indirectly, if the construction of such railroad or branch railroad is authorized by law.

Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 12; 1885, c. 108, s. 1.

3446. Power to seize fuel. If any railroad or other transportation company finds it necessary, in order to prevent delays in the transportation of freight or passengers, to take possession of coal, wood, or other fuel not its own property and convert it to its own use without an agreement with the owner thereof, it shall notify such owner within three days of such taking that his property has been appropriated, giving the date thereof, and shall, within a period of thirty days, pay for such coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent. Should the transportation company fail to notify the consignee or owner within such three days or pay for the coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent as above provided, within thirty days after converting the same to its own use, it shall in addition forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day of failure to notify such consignee of the appropriation of the fuel, or its failure to pay for the same, and five dollars for each day thereafter in which it shall fail to notify such consignee or pay for the same.

Rev., s. 2617; 1903, c. 590, s. 4; 1907, c. 467.
3447. Agreements for through freight and travel. The directors representing the stock held in the various railroad corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into such agreements and terms with each other as to secure through freight and travel without the expense of transfer of freight, or breaking the bulk thereof, at different points along the lines, and for this purpose may use the road or roads and the rolling stock of such corporations or companies on such terms as may be agreed upon by them.

Rev., s. 2640; Code, s. 1995; 1866-7, c. 105.

3448. Intersection with highways. Whenever the track of a railroad shall cross a highway, turnpike or plankroad, such highway, turnpike or plankroad may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient; and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such highway, turnpike or plankroad desirable, then such corporation may take such additional lands for the construction of the road, highway, turnpike or plank-road on such new line as may be deemed requisite by the directors. Unless the land so taken shall be purchased for the purposes aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the chapter Eminent Domain, and duly made by such corporation to the owners and persons interested in such land. The same when so taken shall become a part of such intersecting highway, turnpike or plankroad in such manner and by such tenure as the adjacent parts of the same highway, turnpike or plankroad may be held for highway purposes.

Rev., s. 2568; Code, s. 1954; 1871-2, c. 188, s. 26.

For liability of railroad, etc., to keep up bridges and crossings, see sections 3797, 3800.

Crossing which the public have been habitually permitted to use is treated as a public highway crossing, and it is competent to prove the custom of defendant and the public in using it:
Bradley v. R. R., 126-735.

One is warranted in assuming that railroad company has discharged its duty to the public by keeping crossing in safe condition: Tankard v. R. R., 117-560; Denmark v. R. R., 107-185; McAdoo v. R. R., 105-140; Scott v. R. R., 96-428.

If railroad crossing over neighborhood road is kept in dangerous condition, causing mule to fall and injure plaintiff, he is entitled to recover: Goforth v. R. R., 144-570.

3449. Obstructing highways; defective crossings; failure to repair after notice misdemeanor. Whenever, in their construction, the works of any railroad corporation shall cross established roads or ways, the corporation shall so construct its works as not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property along the same. If any railroad corporation shall so construct its crossings with public streets, thoroughfares or highways, or keep, allow or permit the same at any time to remain in such condition as to impede, obstruct or endanger the passage or transportation of persons or property along, over or across the same, the governing body of the county, city, town, township or road district having charge, control or oversight of such roads, streets or thoroughfares may give to such railroad notice, in writing, directing it to place any such crossing in good condition, so that persons may cross and property be safely transported across the same. If the railroad corporation shall fail to put such crossing in a safe condition for the passage of persons and property within thirty days from and after the service of the notice, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. Each calendar month which shall elapse after the giving of the notice and before the placing of such crossing in repair shall be a separate offense. This section shall in no wise be construed to abrogate, repeal or otherwise affect any existing law now applicable to railroad corporations with respect to highway and street crossings; but the duty imposed and the remedy given by this section shall be in addition to other duties and remedies now prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 2569; Code, s. 1710; R. C., c. 61, s. 30; 1874-5, c. 83; 1915, c. 250, ss. 1, 2.

"Established roads or ways" means "recognized and customarily used roads and ways, less than highways": Tate v. R. R., 168-523; Goforth v. R. R., 144-569. Road crossing kept negligently, plaintiff injured, entitled to recover: Ibid.

3450. Service of notice of defective crossings. The notice required by the preceding section may be served upon the agent of the offending railroad located nearest to the defective or dangerous crossing about which the notice is given, or it may be served upon the section master whose section includes such crossing. Such notice may be served by delivering a copy to such agent or section master, or by letter properly stamped, registered and addressed to either of such persons.

3451. Change in location of highways. In order to prevent the frequent crossing of such road or ways, or in cases where it may be necessary to occupy the same, the corporation may change the roads and ways so as to avoid such crossing and occupation, and to such points as may be deemed expedient.

Rev., s. 2570; Code, s. 1711; R. C., c. 61, s. 31; 1874-5, c. 83.

Railroad company may make change in a county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

3452. Damages due to change in location. For any injury done to the lands of persons by taking them under the preceding section, the value thereof shall be assessed in like manner as is provided for assessing damages to real estate for taking lands under the chapter Eminent Domain.

Rev., s. 2571; Code, s. 1712; R. C., c. 61, s. 32; 1874-5, c. 83.

3453. Old road not to be impeded until new road is made. Before any part of an established road or way shall be impeded by any railroad corporation, the new road or way shall be prepared and made equally good with the portion proposed to be discontinued; and then the same shall be deemed a part of the original road or way, and shall be kept up and repaired as before the change.

3454. Cattle-guards and private crossings; failure to erect and maintain misdemeanor. Every incorporated company owning, operating or constructing, or which shall hereafter own, operate or construct, or any company which shall hereafter be incorporated and shall own, operate or construct any railroad passing through and over the land of any person now enclosed, or which may hereafter become enclosed, shall, at its own expense, construct and constantly maintain, in good and safe condition, good and sufficient cattle-guards at the points of entrance upon and exit from such enclosed land, and shall also make and keep in constant repair crossings to any plantation road thereupon. Every railroad corporation which shall fail to erect and constantly maintain the cattle-guards and crossings provided for by this section shall be liable to an action for damages to any party aggrieved, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined in the discretion of the court.

So far as this section relates to cattle-guards, the corporation commission is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to adopt such good and sufficient make of cattle-guard now upon the market as is best suited for turning stock. When such guard is selected, approved and authorized by the commission any company operating in this state which shall procure, install and maintain and keep in good and safe condition on its line of road such guard so selected by the commission shall be deemed and held in all suits, actions or proceedings in all the courts of this state to have complied with the conditions of this section in installing a good and sufficient cattle-guard: Provided, that any railroad company operating in this state may make application to the commission to adopt for its road any particular brand or make of cattle-guard, and if the commission shall approve and authorize the use of such guard, it shall, if kept and maintained in good and sufficient condition at all times by such railroad company, be deemed and held in all actions, suits or proceedings in any court of this state a good and sufficient cattle-guard.

Rev., ss. 2601, 3753; Code, s. 1975; 1888, c. 394, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1915, c. 127.

When a railroad obtains a deed to right of way with parol agreement to construct cattle-guards, the statute of frauds will not be a defense: Herndon v. R. R., 161-650.

See annotations under section 3448. Railroad companies must maintain a safe and convenient crossing at roads and streets, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient to the public as it would have been had railroad not been built: Raper v. R. R., 126-563. See State v. Lumber Co., 109-860. Section cited in Allen v. R. R., 102-389; Hodges v. R. R., 105-172; Allen v. R. R., 106-526; Hinkle v. R. R., 109-481; Carter v. R. R., 126-443; Tate v. R. R., 168-523.

3455. Change of route of railroad. The directors of any railroad corporation may by a vote of two-thirds of their whole number at any time alter or change the route, or any part of the route, of their road, if it shall appear to them that the line can be improved thereby, and they shall have the same right and power to acquire title to any lands required for the purposes of the company in such altered or changed route, as if the road had been located there in the first instance; but no such alteration shall be made in any city or town after the road shall have been constructed, unless the same is sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the corporate authorities of such city or town. In case of any alteration made in the route of any railroad after the company has commenced grading, compensation shall be made to all persons for injury so done to any lands that may have been donated to the company. When any route or line is abandoned in the exercise of the power herein granted, full compensation shall be made by the company for all money, labor, bonds or material contributed to the construction of the road-bed or its superstructure by those so interested by their contributions in the abandoned route or line. All the provisions of this chapter relative to the first location and to acquiring title to land shall apply to every such new or altered portion of the route.

Rev., s. 2573; Code, s. 1953; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 25; 1889, c. 391; 1893, c. 396, s. 3.

Variations in route do not affect identity of the corporate body, and right to exemption from taxation is retained: R. R. v. Comrs., 88-519.

Vote of two-thirds of corporate authorities is not required when change of route ordered by corporation commission: Dewey v. R. R., 142-392. Right to change route of railroad need not be given in charter; it may be given by special enactment or by the general railroad law: Ibid.

A railroad company has a right to change grade of its roadbed or to remove it to any point on its right of way: Brinkley v. R. R., 135-654.

For changing route to go to union depot, see section 1042.

3456. Forfeiture for failure to begin or complete railroad. If any railroad corporation shall not within three years after its articles of association are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, or the passage of its charter, begin the construction of its road and expend thereon ten per cent of the amount of its capital, or shall not finish the road and put it in operation in ten years from the time of filing its articles of association or passage of its charter as aforesaid, its corporate existence and powers shall cease.

Rev., s. 2564; Code, s. 1980; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 142.

See annotations under sections 1185, 1187.

What amounts to an abandonment and how the question may be raised: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668.

Failure of railroad company to organize under act of incorporation within two years prescribed does not prevent valid organization thereafter, unless forfeiture has been declared in proceedings instituted by state: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257.

If legislature, with knowledge of grounds of forfeiture, by act remits penalty and continues its existence or deals with corporation as lawfully existing, such conduct is waiver of forfeiture: Atty.-Gen. v. R. R., 28-469.

Existence of railroad corporation cannot be attacked collaterally or questioned in action brought by it to condemn land: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 114-690—but where articles of incorporation are upon their face void, trial court will so declare, R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

3457. Secretary of state may extend time to begin railroad in certain cases. In all cases where railroad companies have been chartered by the act of the general assembly during or subsequent to the session of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, but where construction work has not begun in accordance with the provisions of preceding section, it shall be lawful for and the duty of the secretary of state, upon application of any such railroad company and the payment to the state of the same fees as provided in section 1218 of the Consolidated Statutes, to extend from time to time for periods of two years the time within which to begin construction work as required by the preceding section; and the fact of extending the time by the secretary of state, as herein provided, shall, for the period of such extension, fully and to all intents and purposes, renew corporate existence and corporate powers as fully as the same are conferred in the original charter.

3458. Forfeiture for preferences to shippers. In the event of any contract having been entered into by any railroad company in this state with any person or company, whereby preferences or exclusive rights of transportation, either in priority or in arrangements, are given to such person or company, the attorney-general is hereby instructed to institute proceedings against such railroad company for a forfeiture of its charter.

Rev., s. 2563; Code, s. 1969; 1865-6, resolution ratified December 14, 1865.

For actions by the attorney-general to forfeit charters of corporations, see chapter Corporations, s. 1187.

ART. 6. LEASE, SALE, AND REORGANIZATION

3459. Lessee of noncompeting railroad may acquire its stock; merger of lessor. Any railroad corporation or its successors, being the lessee of the road of any other noncompeting railroad corporation, may take a surrender or transfer of the capital stock of the stockholders, or any of them, in the corporation whose road is held under lease, and issue in exchange therefor the like additional amount of its own capital stock at par, or on such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the two corporations; and whenever the greater part of the capital stock of any such corporation shall have been so surrendered or transferred, the directors of the corporation taking such surrender or transfer shall thereafter, on a resolution electing so to do, to be entered on their minutes, become ex officio the directors of the corporation whose road is so held under lease, and shall manage and conduct the affairs thereof as provided by law; and whenever the whole of such capital stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred, and a certificate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state under the common seal of the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, the estate, property, rights, privileges and franchises of the corporation whose stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred shall thereupon vest in and be held and enjoyed by the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, and as fully and entirely, without charge or diminution, as the same were before held and enjoyed, and be managed and controlled by the board of directors of the corporation to whom the surrender or transfer of such stock shall have been made in the corporate name of such corporation. But the property, rights, franchises and profits of every corporation so surrendered, transferred or leased shall hereafter always be liable to taxation, and shall never be exempt therefrom. The rights of any stockholder not so surrendering or transferring his stock shall not be in any way affected thereby, nor shall existing liabilities or the rights of creditors of the corporation where stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred be in any way affected or impaired by this section.

Rev., s. 2574; Code, s. 1994; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 57; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, s. 2.

For discussion of right of railroad to lease property, regulation of meetings for that purpose and rights of stockholders, see Hill v. R. R., 143-539; see, also, section 3461.

3460. Lease or merger of competing carrier declared a misdemeanor. No railroad or other transportation company or its officers, now or hereafter doing business in this state, shall purchase, lease, absorb, take over, buy stock in, merge with or in any way secure an interest in a competing line of railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers enter into any contract, agreement or understanding with a competing line of railroad or other transportation company calculated to defeat or which may defeat or lessen competition in this state. All such contracts, purchases or sales shall be void. Any violation of this section shall make the corporation or person so offending guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction the offender shall be fined in the discretion of the court. This section shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, ss. 2, 3.

3461. Acquisition of interest in or lease of noncompeting branch or connecting lines. Any railroad or other transportation company may acquire and hold or guarantee, or endorse the bonds or stocks of, or may lease any railroad or branch railroad, or other transportation line in this or adjoining state connecting with it directly or indirectly. But no railroad or other transportation company or its officers shall acquire, hold or guarantee the bonds or stock of, or lease or be leased to, or purchase or buy or consolidate with or be merged into, any parallel or competing railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers sell any of its stock or bonds to any holding or voting company or its officers, whereby such consolidation or merger may be effected, and any such purchase, contract, merger or sale shall be void. This provision shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property.

Rev. s. 2567, subsec. 13; 1885, c. 108, s. 2; 1908, c. 119, ss. 1, 3.

Where lessor railroad company is sued jointly with lessee company for damages caused by alleged negligence of lessee, and after verdict lessor moves for judgment upon verdict, but makes no motion for new trial, and both motions are refused, and both defendants appeal from judgment rendered against them, granting new trial to lessee vacates judgment as to both defendants: Tillett v. R. R., 115-662.

Where lease of property of railroad company extends beyond time fixed by charter for corporate existence of lessor, such lease is valid for period of corporate life of lessor, and will extend beyond that period if charter is renewed, and lessor’s corporate existence is thereby extended, and by this process it may endure for the full term: Hill v. R. R., 143-539.

3462. Purchaser at mortgage or execution sale of railroads may incorporate. Whenever the purchaser of the real estate, track and fixtures of any railroad corporation which has heretofore been sold, or may hereafter be sold, by virtue of any mortgage executed by such corporation or execution issued upon any judgment or decree of any court, shall acquire title to the same in the manner prescribed by law, such purchaser may associate with him any number of persons, and make and acknowledge and file articles of association as prescribed in this chapter. Such purchaser and his associates shall thereupon be a new corporation, with all the powers, privileges and franchises and subject to all of the provisions of this chapter.

Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936: 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5.

See section 3428.

Railroad is not in all respects a public highway, but it is the subject of private property, and in that character is liable to be sold unless sale be forbidden by legislature; not franchise, but land itself constituting the road: State v. Rives, 27-297.

On foreclosure of mortgage given by railroad company, purchaser takes rights that company had acquired in relation to its rights of way under its charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214.

Railroad corporation is not dissolved by sale of its road: State v. Rives, 27-297.

Another corporation must be provided before sale shall have effect of dissolution: James v. R. R., 121-523. Purchase of Western North Carolina Railroad by Southern did not result in dissolution of former road: Ibid.

3463. On dissolution or sale of railroads purchaser becomes a corporation. When any railroad corporation shall be dissolved, or its property sold and conveyed under any execution, deed of trust, mortgage or other conveyance, the owner or purchaser shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law.

Rev., s. 2565; Code, s. 2005.

For reorganization after judicial sale, etc., see section 1221 et seq.

For effect of sale prior to enactment, see State v. Rives, 27-297.

Corporate property and franchise must be sold together: James v. R. R., 121-527; Bradley v. R. R., 119-927 (Appx.); Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Howland, 111-625; Gooch v. McGee, 83-59. Sale of railroad under second mortgage, and conveyance thereunder subject to first mortgage, does not extinguish corporate existence of company: James v. R. R., 121-523—nor release corporation from liability to public for manner in which railroad operated, Ibid.—and in order that sale should work dissolution, another corporation must take the place and assume obligations of old corporation, Ibid.—though, when this is done, corporation will be domestic corporation, Ibid. See, also, Julian v. Trust Co., 193 U. S., 93. Upon foreclosure of mortgage of railroad, purchaser takes rights acquired by company in relation to right of way under charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214; Hendrick v. R. R., 101-617.

Effect of sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company franchises and property under second mortgage, subject to first mortgage which was assumed by purchaser, was to place purchaser (the Southern Railway Company) in place of mortgagor in its relation to trustee of first mortgage, with right to run and operate road as agent of mortgagor; but old corporation was not extinguished, but is still in existence and liable for damages caused by maladministration of agent, which liability can be enforced against property which it allows the “Southern” to use: James v. R. R., 121-523. Sale and conveyance of property and franchises of Western North Carolina Railroad Company made by a special master to Southern Railway Company, a foreign corporation, under decree of foreclosure of second mortgage, subject to an existing first mortgage, did not ipso facto make the purchaser a domestic corporation, nor did sale and purchase make Western North Carolina Railroad an integral part of the Southern Railway Corporation: Ibid.

Art. 7. Liability of Railroads for Injuries to Employees

3464. Common carrier defined. The term “common carrier,” as used in this article, shall include the receiver or receivers, or other persons or corporations charged with the duty of the management of the business of a common carrier.

3465. Fellow-servant rule abrogated; defective machinery. Any servant or employee of any railroad company operating in this state who shall suffer injury to his person, or the personal representative of any such servant or employee who shall have suffered death in the course of his services or employment with such company, by the negligence, carelessness or incompetence of any other servant, employee or agent of the company, or by any defect in the machinery, ways or appliances of the company, shall be entitled to maintain an action against such company. Any contract or agreement, expressed or implied, made by any employee of such company to waive the benefit of this section shall be null and void.

Rev., s. 2646; 1897 (Pr.), c. 56; 1915, c. 256.

APPLICATION OF STATUTE. This section, known as the "Fellow-Servant Act," enacted in 1897, is an unconditional abrogation of the doctrines of fellow-servant and assumption of risk as applied to railroads: Coley v. R. R., 129-407; Bloxham v. Timber Corp., 172-37. As a result of the ruling in Hobbs v. R. R., 107-1, this section was enacted: Nicholson v. R. R., 138-516.

This section is applicable to employee of "any railroad operating in this state," and is not limited to injuries received in this state: Williams v. R. R., 128-286. It will not be presumed that doctrine of nonliability for acts of fellow-servants obtains in another state: Ibid.

This section has the effect of making all coemployees of railroad companies agents and vice-principals of the company so far as fixing the company with responsibility for their negligence is concerned: Fitzgerald v. R. R., 141-534. Fellow-servant law applies to all railroad employees, whether injured while running trains or rendering any other service: Sigman v. R. R., 155-181.

Under Fellow-Servant Act, which operates on all employees of railroad companies, whether in superior, equal or subordinate positions, if plaintiff, a hostler of defendant, was injured as proximate cause of negligence of his helpers in shoveling coal from a car into a tender, defendant is responsible: Fitzgerald v. R. R., 141-530.

By contract of service made in North Carolina, the provisions of the Fellow-Servant Act must be read into the contract, and there being no evidence that service was to be performed altogether in another state, it would seem that relative rights and liabilities of parties are fixed by terms of contract: Miller v. R. R., 141-530.

The contention that Fellow-Servant Act applies to defendant in this case cannot be determined where its answer denied that it owned or operated the logging railroad, and no appropriate issues were submitted: Tanner v. Lumber Co., 140-475.

This section applies to an injury suffered by any employee in any department of work of a railroad which is being operated, but does not apply to an employee engaged in building a trestle for extension of railroad, at a point some miles from track on which trains are being operated: Nicholson v. R. R., 138-516—not to one engaged in work at lumber yard and not connected with the work of transportation, Twiddy v. Lumber Co., 154-237.

In an action against a railroad company for wrongfully causing death of engineer, question whether it and another road were partners in operating part of road on which deceased was killed was properly submitted to jury: Harrill v. R. R., 135-601.
Where a person is agent or servant of two roads, and through his negligence another servant is injured, either or both roads would be liable: Moore v. R. R., 165-439. Person employed by railroad company to load express hauled by company is not a fellow-servant of an employee of express company: Hopper v. Express Co., 133-375.

The rule of care is not so strict in case of ordinary tools and everyday conditions requiring no special preparation or foresight, and where there is no reason to suppose an injury would result: Bunn v. R. R., 169-648; Mercer v. R. R., 154-399; Dunn v. R. R., 151-313; Lyne v. R. R., 164-249—as in case of cross-piece to hold lumber loaded on car, Wallace v. R. R., 141-646. When employee directed to make repairs uses defective implement in such a way as to cause injury, employer is not liable: Mathis v. R. R., 144-162.

Where defendant failed to furnish a safe appliance it was negligence per se, continuing up to the time of the injury, and neither assumption of risk nor contributory negligence would be a defense: Greenlee v. R. R., 122-977; Troxler v. R. R., 124-189; Hairson v. Leather Co., 143-512. Continuing to work under such conditions is not assumption of risk nor contributory negligence unless it is so obviously dangerous that no prudent man would subject himself to the risk: Coley v. R. R., 129-407; Hamilton v. Lumber Co., 156-520; Pigford v. R. R., 160-93; Horton v. R. R., 162-424. When jury finds there was no contributory negligence, it is immaterial what fellow-servant caused the injury: Kinney v. R. R., 122-961. See annotations under sections 3467, 3468.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES. An action may be brought in the state court against a railroad in the hands of a federal receiver or against the purchaser of such road: Lassiter v. R. R., 163-19.

The rule for estimating damages is to give the present worth of the difference in plaintiff’s earning capacity caused by the injury: Fry v. R. R., 159-357, and cases cited. For effect of relief department, see section 3469. For damages for wrongful death, see sections 160, 161.

3466. Injuries through fellow-servants or defective appliances. Every common carrier by railroad shall be liable in damages to any person suffering injury while he is employed by such carrier, or in the case of the death of such employee, to his or her personal representative, for such injury or death resulting in whole or in part from the negligence of any of the officers, agents or employees of such carrier, or by reason of any defect or insufficiency, due to its negligence, in its cars, engine, appliances, machinery, track, road-bed, works, boats, wharves, or other equipment.

The act of 1913 is substantially the same as the Federal Employer’s Liability Act: Sears v. R. R., 169-446. For annotations on negligence, appliances, etc., see section 3465.

The federal statute supersedes the state statute in cases involving interstate commerce: Jones v. R. R., 176-260; Renn v. R. R., 170-128. The federal and state courts have concurrent jurisdiction, and which statute will apply depends upon whether the train or employee was engaged in interstate commerce: West v. R. R., 174-125; Renn v. R. R., 170-128. When the train or employee is engaged in interstate commerce: Capps v. R. R., 178-558; Sears v. R. R., 160-446; Saunders v. R. R., 167-375; Lloyd v. R. R., 166-24; Zachary v. R. R., 156-496, reversed in 232 U. S., 248.

Time within which action is to be brought: King v. R. R., 176-301; Belech v. R. R., 176-22; Burnett v. R. R., 163-186.

3467. Contributory negligence no bar, but mitigates damages. In all actions hereafter brought against any common carrier by railroad to recover damages for personal injury to an employee, or where such injuries have resulted in his death, the fact that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar a recovery, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee: Provided, however, that no such employee who may be injured or killed shall be held to have been guilty of contributory negligence in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee.

This abolishes contributory negligence as an absolute defense and adopts the doctrine of comparative negligence, reducing the damage: Davis v. R. R., 175-648; Parks v. Tanning Co., 175-29; Williams v. R. R., 168-360; Sears v. R. R., 169-446; Ingle v. R. R., 167-636. It applies only to common carriers by railroad and not to roads engaged only in hauling lumber or timber: Williams v. Mfg. Co., 175-226.

3468. Assumption of risk as defense. In any action brought against any common carrier under or by virtue of any of the provisions of this article to recover damages for injuries to, or the death of, any of its employees, such employee shall not be held to have assumed the risk of his employment in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee, or the death or injury was caused by negligence.

3469. Contracts and rules exempting from liability void; set-off. Any contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, the purpose and intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier by railroad to exempt itself from any liability created by this article, shall to that extent be void: Provided, that in any action brought against such common carrier, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this article, such common carrier may set off therein any sum it has contributed or paid to any insurance or relief benefit, or indemnity that may have been paid to the injured employee, or the person entitled thereto, on account of the injury or death for which such action was brought.

3470. Provisions of this article applicable to logging roads and tramroads.
The provisions in this article relating to liability for damages shall also apply to logging roads and tramroads.

1919, c. 275.

ART. 8. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF RAILROADS

3471. Map of route to be served with summons for condemnation. Whenever it shall become necessary to condemn any land for the purposes of a railroad, at the time that the summons for such condemnation is served there shall also be served by the railroad company a map showing how the line of the road is located on the land sought to be condemned, and a profile showing the depth of the cuts and the height of the embankments on the land so sought to be condemned, and at what points on such land such cuts and embankments are located. This section shall not apply to street railways.

Rev., s. 2599; Code, s. 1952; 1893; c. 896, s. 2; 1901, c. 6, s. 3; 1871-2, ec. 138, s. 24.

Failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings may be cured by amendment: State v. Wells, 142-590.

3472. Map of railroad to be made and filed. Every railroad corporation shall, within a reasonable time after its road shall be constructed, cause to be made a map and profile thereof, and of the land taken or obtained for the use thereof, and shall file the same in the office of the corporation commission. Every such map shall be drawn on a scale and on paper to be designated by the corporation commission, and shall be certified and signed by the president or engineer of such corporation.

Rev., s. 2600; Code, s. 1977; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 41.

The filing of a map and profile of route of railroad and of land condemned for its use with corporation commission is for information of that body, and is not required as part of a correct and completed location: Fayetteville Street Rwy. v. R. R., 142-423. Where line of railroad is clearly defined by existence of old roadbed which is entered on and staked out by agents of company, and route so marked is approved and adopted by directors as its permanent location, a survey by engineer is not essential: Ibid.

Profile required to be filed must show whether there will be any "fills" or "cuts" on the land sought to be condemned: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413. Where railroad was completed through locus in quo prior to act of 1872, it was not necessary to validity of location that map of route should be filed: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100.

3473. Joint construction by railroads having same location. Whenever two railroad companies shall, for a portion of their respective lines, embrace the same location of line, they may by agreement provide for the construction of so much of said line as is common to both of them, by one of the companies, and for the manner and terms upon which the business thereon shall be performed. Upon the making of such an agreement, the company that is not to construct the part of the line which is common to both may terminate its line at the point of intersection, and may reduce its capital to a sum of not less than five thousand dollars for each mile of the road proposed to be constructed.

3474. Construction of part of line in another state. Whenever after due examination it shall be ascertained by the directors of any railroad company that a part of the line of railroad proposed to be made between any two points in this state ought to be located and constructed in an adjoining state, it may be so located and constructed by a vote of two-thirds of all the directors. The sections of such railroad within this state shall be considered a connected line, and the directors may reduce the capital specified to such amount as may be deemed proper, but not less than the amount required by law for the number of miles of railroad to be actually constructed in this state.

Rev., s. 2603; Code, s. 1984; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 47.

3475. Carriage must be according to public schedule. Every railroad corporation shall start and run their cars for the transportation of passengers and property at regular times to be fixed by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodation for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, be offered for transportation at the place of starting and the junction of other railroads and at usual stopping places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freights for that train, and shall take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such places, on the due payment of the freight or fare legally authorized therefor, and shall be liable to the party aggrieved, in an action for damages, for any neglect or refusal in the premises.

REGULATIONS FOR PASSENGER TRAINS. Railroad company has a right, and it is its duty, to establish and enforce reasonable rules for government and direction of trains; and of such, passenger must inform himself and conform thereto: Britton v. R. R., 88-536; McRae v. R. R., 88-526. Corporation commission may require railroad to have train arrive at certain station on road at certain schedule time so as to connect with train of another company: Corporation Com. v. R. R., 137-1. Defendant company is liable for consequences of mismanagement of train in charge of employees of another company using its track with defendant's knowledge and consent: Aycock v. R. R., 89-321. Railroad company is liable for injury resulting from failure to provide a reasonably safe place and opportunity for passengers to get on and off trains: Browne v. R. R., 108-34; Smith v. R. R., 147-448; Wagner v. R. R., 147-315; Roberts v. R. R., 155-79; Kearnery v. R. R., 158-522; Leggett v. R. R., 168-366; Thomas v. R. R., 173-494—conductor should warn passengers of danger, Penny v. R. R., 153-296—and allow reasonable time for getting on and off, Browne v. R. R., 108-34; Tillet v. R. R., 118-1031, 116-937, 115-662; Cable v. R. R., 122-892. Passenger getting on or off moving train may be guilty of contributory negligence: Ibid.

Railroads have reasonable control over their waiting-rooms and right to establish regulations for opening and closing of same; they are not lodging places: Phillips v. R. R., 124-123. A regulation which requires the opening of waiting-rooms not less than thirty minutes before arrival of trains, and their closing after departure of trains, is a reasonable regulation for accommodation of passengers; the case of delayed trains and through passengers might form exceptions to rule: Ibid.

Regulation that person purchasing tickets for an excursion shall travel upon train provided for that special purpose, and not upon a regular train, is reasonable regulation: McRae v. R. R., 88-526.

Where defendant undertook to furnish plaintiff transportation on its log train to and from "quarters," it was its duty to see that such transportation was rendered as reasonably safe as character of it would admit: Tanner v. Lumber Co., 140-475.

In case of a trespasser on the train, the railroad company is liable for the wrongful acts of its servants: Pierce v. R. R., 124-83.

WHO ARE PASSENGERS. Contract of carriage by common carrier begins when passenger comes upon carrier's premises or conveyance with purpose of buying ticket within reasonable time, or after having purchased ticket, and relation once constituted continues until journey contracted for is concluded, and passenger has left or has had reasonable time to leave such premises: Hansley v. R. R., 115-602; Tillet v. R. R., 115-662; s. e., 118-1031; Phillips v. R. R., 124-123; Seawell v. R. R., 132-856; s. e., 133-515.

A section master, riding from his place of work to his home, is not a passenger: Wright v. R. R., 122-852.

A person in charge of cattle on a car is a passenger: Osborne v. R. R., 175-594.

A passenger leaving a train temporarily for a lawful purpose at an intermediate station does not lose his rights as a passenger: Wallace v. R. R., 174-171. A purchaser of a ticket who takes the wrong train by reason of information from the porter is a passenger: Bullock v. R. R., 152-66.

PASSENGER ENTITLED TO PROTECTION. A carrier of passengers is not an insurer, as is a carrier of goods. His liability is based on negligence, and not on a warranty of passenger's freedom from all accidents and vicissitudes of journey: Marable v. R. R., 142-557.

Conduct of employee of carrier inflicting violence on passenger, though act be outside of scope of his authority, or even wilful and malicious, subjects carrier to liability in damages just as fully as if carrier had encouraged commission of act: Williams v. Gill, 122-967; Strother v. R. R., 123-197; Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-123. Rotten eggs thrown at passenger, company liable: Seawell v. R. R., 132-856, 133-515.

Company owes to every passenger duty of protecting him from violence and assaults of his fellow passengers or intruders, and will be held responsible for its own or its servants' neglect in the premises, when same might have been foreseen and prevented by exercise of proper care: Britton v. R. R., 88-536; Bedsole v. R. R., 151-152; Penny v. R. R., 153-296; Berry v. R. R., 155-287; Pridle v. R. R., 176-594. A railroad company is liable for failure to have sufficient police force on excursion train to protect passengers: Stanley v. R. R., 160-323.

A pullman car is not a common carrier in every respect, but it owes the duty of protecting its passengers: Garrett v. R. R., 172-737.

When passenger's weak or helpless condition is known to conductor, or assistance is requested, carrier is liable for failure to render assistance: Graham v. R. R., 174-1. For wrongful ejection from train, see section 3507.

FAILURE TO STOP FOR PASSENGERS. Where plaintiff purchased ticket at regular station before time advertised for arrival and departure of trains at that place, and was in readiness to get aboard, but train ran by, making no effort to stop, although it had room in its cars for plaintiff, he would be entitled to punitive damages, in absence of sufficient excuse shown by defendant: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414.

Common carrier of passengers is under no obligation to delay departure of trains, or to look after safety of persons who attempt to enter them, when they have been stopped long enough to allow passengers to embark and disembark; but it may be liable for injuries incurred by one who, by invitation or command of persons in charge of trains, attempts to get on or off while cars are in motion: Browne v. R. R., 108-34.

Carrier is liable for failure to stop for passenger at flag station when proper signal is given: Brown v. R. R., 174-694; Thomas v. R. R., 122-1005.
Carrier is liable for failure to stop for passenger to get off at station to which he has bought a ticket: Elliott v. R. R., 166-481—even when train is not scheduled to stop, if passenger gets on train through fault of carrier, Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-123.

When conductor fails to stop train, but directs passenger to get off while train is moving, the question of contributory negligence is for the jury: Owens v. R. R., 152-439; Browne v. R. R., 108-34.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES. Person who has sustained injuries by reason of failure of railroad company to furnish proper means of transportation or operate its trains as required by statute may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of statute: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414; Puett v. R. R., 141-332; Peanut Co. v. R. R., 155-148.

When passenger is delayed or carried contrary to agreement, so as to lead to failure to accomplish object of trip, he is entitled to recover sum paid for ticket, with interest thereon, together with compensation for time lost in trip and, in some instances, reasonable cost of reaching his destination by means of some other conveyance: Hansley v. R. R., 115-602.

Amount recoverable for breach of contract of carriage is limited to damage supposed to have been in contemplation of parties and actually caused by such breach, and measure of damage is ordinarily not materially different whether defendant fails to comply with contract through inactivity or wilfully disregards it: Ibid. See, also, Peanut Co. v. R. R., 155-148.

When the refusal to take on or discharge a passenger, where he is entitled to be received or discharged, is reckless and wanton, punitive damages may be recovered: Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-127; Purcell v. R. R., 108-417; Hansley v. R. R., 117-570; Coleman v. R. R., 138-355—or for insult or mistreatment of passenger by employee, Strother v. R. R., 123-197; Williams v. Gill, 122-967. Punitive damages will not be awarded against a railroad company where, by reason of defective equipments, it failed to carry a person, to whom it had sold excursion ticket, back to his starting point, when only injuries complained of were inconveniences, delay and disappointment, and there was no proof of bad motive on part of defendant: Hansley v. R. R., 115-602, overruling Purcell v. R. R., 108-414, on that point.

3477. Unauthorized manufacture or sale of switch-lock keys misdemeanor. It shall be unlawful for any person to make, manufacture, sell or give away to any other person any duplicate key to any lock used by any railroad company in this state on its switches or switch tracks, except upon the written order of that officer of such railroad company whose duty it is to distribute and issue switch-lock keys to the employees of such railroad company. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

3478. Willful injury to railroad property misdemeanor. It shall be unlawful for any person to make, manufacture, sell or give away to any other person any duplicate key to any lock used by any railroad company in this state on its switches or switch tracks, except upon the written order of that officer of such railroad company whose duty it is to distribute and issue switch-lock keys to the employees of such railroad company. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

3479. Headlights on locomotives on main lines. Every company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver owning or operating a railroad in this state is hereby required to equip and maintain and use upon every locomotive in operation in railroad service on main lines in this state an electric or power headlight of at least one thousand five hundred candlepower, measured without the aid of a reflector. This section shall not apply to locomotive engines regularly used in switching cars or trains, to locomotive engines used exclusively between sunup and sundown, and to locomotive engines going to and returning from repair shops when ordered in for repairs; neither shall this section apply to independently owned and operated railroad companies in this state whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred and twenty-five miles or less, nor to railroad companies having only lines extending into this state, no one of which is one hundred miles in length in this state. The corporation commission may relieve from the operation of this section such locomotives and roads, or parts or sections or branches of roads, upon which the said corporation commission may deem electric or power headlights not advisable. Should an engine start on a trip with the headlight in good working condition, and from some unavoidable cause such headlight becomes disabled and cannot be repaired on the line of the road on which such run is being made, there shall be nothing in this section to prevent such engine from continuing on its trip, and the railroad company shall not be liable for prosecution on account of such failure to repair. Any company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

3480. Operation of trains on Sunday misdemeanor; exceptions. No railroad company shall permit the loading or unloading of any freight car on Sunday; nor shall it permit any car, train of cars or locomotive to be run on Sunday on any railroad, save in case of accident, except such as may be run for the purpose of transporting the United States mails, passengers with their baggage and ordinary express freight in express cars exclusively, and except such as may be run for the purpose of transporting fruits, vegetables, livestock and perishable freights. Where there are not sufficient cars of livestock or other perishable freights to make a complete train, or section of a train, the company may add other cars to complete the same. Solid trains, made up of through freight cars, reaching on Sunday any point upon any railroad in North Carolina and destined for some point or points beyond the limits of the state of North Carolina, may be continued as a solid through freight train along the line of such railroad through the state of North Carolina, without stopping the train for other purposes than to take on fuel and receive necessary running orders. The word Sunday in this section shall be construed to embrace only that portion of the day between sunrise and sunset. Trains in transitu, having started on Saturday, may, in order to reach the terminus or shops, run until nine o'clock a.m. on Sunday, but not later, nor for any other purpose than to reach the terminus or shops. Any railroad company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in each county in which such car, train of cars, or locomotive shall run, or in which any such freight car shall be loaded or unloaded, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars for each offense.

Rev., ss. 2613, 3844; Code, s. 1973; 1879, cc. 97, 203; 1885, c. 92; 1897, c. 126; 1901, c. 444; 1909, c. 285.

That train was running in violation of this section does not render carrier liable for injury, unless otherwise liable: Davis v. R. R., 170-582. When running trains or shifting cars near a church may become a nuisance: Taylor v. R. R., 145-400.

Railroads are not entitled to exclude Sunday, on account of this section, in the calculation of the number of days delay of transportation of freight: Davis v. R. R., 145-207; Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Keeter v. R. R., 86-346; but see Wall v. R. R., 147-407.

3481. Operation of fast mail trains. The corporation commission is hereby empowered, whenever it shall appear wise and proper to do so, to authorize any railroad company to run one or more fast mail trains over its road, which shall stop only at such stations on the line of the road as may be designated by the company: Provided, that in addition to such fast mail train such railroad company shall run at least one passenger train in each direction over its road on every day except Sunday, which shall stop at every station on the road at which passengers may wish to be taken up or put off: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing the running of local passenger trains on Sunday.

It is a reasonable regulation of defendant that certain trains shall not stop at all stations, provided there are enough to serve purposes of local travel: Hutchinson v. R. R., 140-123.

3482. Negligence presumed from killing livestock. When any cattle or other livestock shall be killed or injured by the engine or cars running upon any railroad, it shall be prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of the railroad company in any action for damages against such company: Provided, that no person shall be allowed the benefit of this section unless he shall bring his action within six months after his cause of action shall have accrued.

Rev., s. 2645; Code, s. 23826; 1856-7, c. 7.

PRESUMPTION MAY BE REBUTTED. This presumption may be rebutted by showing that in fact there was no negligence: Hanford v. R. R., 167-277; Bethea v. R. R., 106-279; Battle v. R. R., 68-343; Pippen v. R. R., 75-54. Whether or not there is negligence is generally a question for the jury: Borden v. R. R., 175-177; Briley v. R. R., 174-785; Davis v. R. R., 134-500. When facts are fully disclosed and there is no controversy as to them, court must decide whether they make out case of negligence; and when they fail to do so, defendant cannot be held liable: Doggett v. R. R., 81-469; Durham v. R. R., 82-352; Mesie v. R. R., 120-489; Randall v. R. R., 104-410; Hardison v. R. R., 120-492. Where killing of stock by railroad is admitted or proven, trial judge may instruct jury that a certain state of facts, if believed by them, would rebut presumption of negligence, but not that certain evidence, though uncontradicted, would do so: Baker v. R. R., 133-31.

Negligence may be rebutted by showing that defendant kept a proper lookout upon the track, and that after discovering the animal every reasonable effort was made to prevent the injury: Seawell v. R. R., 106-272; Carlton v. R. R., 104-365; Snowden v. R. R., 95-93; Winston v. R. R., 90-66; Doggett v. R. R., 81-459; Proctor v. R. R., 72-579; Jones v. R. R., 70-626; Battle v. R. R., 66-843; Montgomery v. R. R., 51-464.

Proof that plaintiff's cow was seen near defendant company's railway track, with one of its legs broken, about time that two trains had passed over road, is some evidence in support of plaintiff's claim for damages: Boing v. R. R., 87-360.

OWNER'S CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE. If owner of cattle permit them to stray off and get upon track of railroad and they are killed or hurt, railroad company is not liable unless train was being carelessly run, or by exercise of proper care after animals were discovered injury could have been avoided or prevented: Doggett v. R. R., 81-459. Where plaintiff permitted animal to wander upon defendant's track, he is not guilty of contributory negligence: Bethea v. R. R., 106-279; Farmer v. R. R., 88-564. And that animal was within stock-law territory and at large is no excuse for killing: Roberts v. R. R., 88-560.

Art. 9. Railroad Police

3483. Railway conductors and station agents declared special police. All passenger conductors of railroad trains and station or depot agents are hereby declared to be special police of the state of North Carolina, with full power and authority to make arrests for offenses committed in their presence or view, or for felony, or on sworn complaint for misdemeanor, except that the conductors shall have such power only on board of their respective trains or their railroad right of way, and the agents at their respective stations; and such conductors and agents may cause any person so arrested by them to be detained and delivered to the proper authority for trial as soon as possible. Nothing contained in the provisions of this section shall have the effect to relieve any such railroad company from any civil liability now existing by statute or under the common law for the act or acts of such conductors, station or depot agents, in unlawfully exercising or attempting to exercise the powers herein conferred.

1907, c. 470, ss. 3, 4.

Conductors and employees on trains must wear badges, see s. 3414.

Section referred to in Brown v. R. R., 161-573.

3484. Governor may appoint and commission railroad police. Any corporation operating a railroad on which steam or electricity is used as the motive power or any electric or waterpower company or construction company may apply to the governor to commission such persons as the corporation or company may designate to act as policemen for it. The governor upon such application may appoint such persons or so many of them as he may deem proper to be such policemen, and shall issue to the persons so appointed a commission to act as such policemen.

Rev., ss. 2605, 2606; Code, ss. 1988, 1989; 1871-2, c. 138, ss. 51, 52; 1907, c. 123, s. 1.

3485. Oath, bond, and powers of railroad police. Every policeman so appointed shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the usual oath. Such oath, with a copy of the commission, shall be filed with the corporation commission and a certificate thereof by its clerk shall be filed with the clerk of each county through or into which the railroad for which such policeman is appointed may run or in which the company may be engaged in work, and in which it is intended he shall act, and such policemen shall severally possess within the limits of the county all the powers of policemen in the several towns, cities and villages in which they shall be so authorized to act as aforesaid: Provided, that every policeman appointed under this and the preceding section shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into bond in the sum of five hundred dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, with good and sufficient surety, to be passed upon and accepted by and filed with the corporation commission.

3486. Railroad police to wear badges. Such railroad police shall, when on duty, severally wear a metallic shield with the words “Railway Police” and the name of the corporation for which appointed inscribed thereon, and this shield shall always be worn in plain view except when such police are employed as detectives.

Rev., s. 2608; Code, s. 1991; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 54.

3487. Compensation of railroad police. The compensation of such police shall be paid by the companies for which the policemen are respectively appointed, as may be agreed on between them.

Rev., s. 2609; Code, s. 1992; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 55.

3488. Police powers cease on company’s filing notice. Whenever any company shall no longer require the services of any policeman so appointed as aforesaid, it may file a notice to that effect in the several offices in which notice of such appointment was originally filed, and thereupon the power of such officer shall cease and be determined.

Rev., s. 2610; Code, s. 1993; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 56.

ART. 10. CARRIAGE OF PASSENGERS

3489. Railroad passenger rates established. No railroad company doing business as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina shall, except as herein provided, charge, demand or receive for transporting any passenger and his or her baggage, not exceeding in weight two hundred pounds, from any station on its railroad in North Carolina to any other station on its road in North Carolina, a rate in excess of two and one-half cents per mile; and for transporting children under twelve years and over five years old, one-half of the rate above prescribed. For transporting children under five years old, accompanied by any person paying fare, no charge whatever shall be made. Where the amount of the ticket at the prescribed rate would amount to any figure between two multiples of five, the price of the ticket shall be the multiple of five which is nearest the price of the ticket at the rate above mentioned; or, in the event that the amount is equidistant between the multiples of five, the price charged for the ticket shall be on the basis of the higher of those two multiples of five. No charge less than ten cents shall be required. Independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina, whose mileage of road in the state is one hundred miles or less, may charge a rate not exceeding three cents per mile; and independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina, whose mileage of road in the state is ten miles or less, may charge the same rate which is now in existence on such roads. This provision shall not extend to branch lines of railroad companies controlling over one hundred miles of road, whether chartered in or out of the state. Newly constructed railroads, or the portion of railroad which may be newly constructed, shall be exempt from the operation of this section for two years after completion, to the extent that they may charge a rate in no case to exceed three cents per mile.
A charge of fifteen cents may be added to the fare of any passenger when the same is paid on the train, if the ticket might have been procured within a reasonable time before the departure of the train.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 1.

As to who is a passenger, and what are his rights, see section 3475. For passenger rate case under act of 1907, c. 216, see State v. R. R., 145-495.

When a person, having paid his fare, is on a train with a child whose fare is not paid, conductor cannot put such person off with the child without returning his ticket or compensation

For the passenger to have the right to transportation of baggage free of charge, and to hold carrier liable for same, it is necessary that the baggage be on the same train, unless prevented by default or negligence of carrier: Perry v. R. R., 171-158. For further annotations as to liability for baggage, see sections 3516, 3523.

3490. Rates on leased or controlled lines. In the case that any railroad company operating as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina is owned, controlled or operated by lease or other agreement by any other railroad company doing business in the state, the rate for carrying passengers thereon shall be determined for such railroad company by the rate prescribed by the preceding section for the railroad company which owns, controls or operates the same.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 2.

3491. Violations of passenger rates misdemeanor. Any railroad company violating any of the provisions of the two preceding sections, or counseling, ordering or directing any employee, agent or servant to violate any of such provisions, by charging, demanding or receiving any rate greater than that fixed by such section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars; and any agent, servant or employee of any railroad company who shall violate either of the two preceding sections shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 3.

See s. 3519 of this chapter for a similar provision relative to excessive freight rates.

For decision under act of 1907, c. 216, see State v. R. R., 145-495.

3492. Accepting or giving free transportation illegally misdemeanor. Any persons, except those permitted by law, who accept free transportation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court; and any railroad, or its employees or agents, giving free transportation of any kind whatsoever, except that permitted by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars for each offense.
Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 4.

For cases prior to enactment of this section, see State v. R. R., 122-1052; McNeill v. R. R., 135-682, 132-510.

3493. Powers of corporation commission over rates limited. The corporation commission shall have no power to change, alter, modify or in any way affect the enforcement or operation of any of the provisions of the preceding sections of this article, except as the same shall be therein specifically authorized, or the enforcement of any penalties for violating the provisions thereof.
Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 7.

3494. Separate accommodations for different races. All railroad and steamboat companies engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire, other than street railways, shall provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting-rooms, and also on all trains and steamboats carrying passengers. Such accommodations may be furnished by railroad companies either by separate passenger cars or by compartments in passenger cars, which shall be provided by the railroads under the supervision and direction of the corporation commission: Provided, that this shall not apply to relief trains in cases of accident, to Pullman or sleeping cars, or through express trains that do not stop at all stations and are not used ordinarily for traveling from station to station, to negro servants in attendance on their employers, to officers or guards transporting prisoners, nor to prisoners so transported.
Rev., s. 2619; 1899, c. 384; 1901, c. 213.

Right of railroad company to assign white and colored passengers to separate, though not unequal, accommodations is recognized by courts: Britton v. R. R., 88-536. Company cannot relieve itself of responsibility for injuries received by passenger where it was shown that such rules were not enforced, but their observance left discretionary with passenger: Ibid.

It is not a violation of this section, if separate cars are furnished, but conductor directs some white passengers to go into colored car: Merritt v. R. R., 152-281. Section does not Liability for failure to provide comfortable waiting-room and separate rooms for the races:

Hipps v. R. R., 177-472.

3495. Certain carriers may be exempted from requirement. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to exempt from the provisions of the preceding section steamboats, branch lines and narrow-gauge railroads and mixed trains carrying both freight and passengers, if in its judgment the enforcement of the same be unnecessary to secure the comfort of passengers by reason of the light volume of passenger traffic, or the small number of colored passenger travelers on such steamboats, narrow-gauge railroads, branch lines or mixed trains.
Rev., s. 2620; 1899, c. 384, s. 2; 1901, c. 213.

3496. Use of same coach in emergencies. When any coach or compartment car for either race shall be completely filled at a station where no extra coach or car can be had, and the increased number of passengers could not be foreseen, the conductor in charge of such train may assign and set apart a portion of a car or compartment assigned for passengers of one race to passengers of the other race.
Rev., s. 2621; 1899, c. 384, s. 3.
3497. Penalty for failing to provide separate coaches. Any railroad or steamboat company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of the three preceding sections shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day, to be recovered in an action brought against such company by any passenger on any train or boat of any railroad or steamboat company which is required by this chapter to furnish separate accommodations to the races, who has been furnished accommodations on such railroad train or steamboat only in a car or compartment with a person of a different race in violation of law.

Revis'd. 1872; 1899, c. 384, s. 5.

Railroad is not liable to penalty where separate cars are furnished, but conductor directs some white passengers to go into colored car: Merritt v. R. R., 152-281.

3498. Facilities for exchange of mileage required. All railroad companies of one hundred miles or more in length doing business in whole or in part in the state of North Carolina are hereby required to provide and keep at all depots in cities or towns of two thousand and over in population, as fixed by the United States census of the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, two windows opening in the waiting-room for passengers of the race using the greatest amount of mileage or coupon books, for the sale or exchange of fares on all passenger trains in North Carolina. One of such windows shall be used for the sale of cash fares exclusively, and the other for the sale and exchange of mileage or coupon books. Each window is to be attended by an agent whose duty it shall be to wait upon the traveling public, during the hours now prescribed, for the sale of cash-fare tickets and the sale and exchange of mileage or coupon books. Over each such window shall be kept a sign, painted in plain letters, "Mileage Exchange" and "Cash Fares," respectively: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any railroad company in North Carolina, as aforesaid, selling mileage or coupon books at a rate of not more than two cents per mile and pulling or taking the same on the train: Provided further, that all the provisions of this section shall apply to the following railroad junctions in this state, irrespective of population, namely: Dunn, Selma, Maxton, Hamlet, Norlina, and Sanford.

3499. Application of requirement for exchange of mileage. The corporation commission shall upon complaint, and in its discretion, apply the provisions of the preceding section to railroad junctions not named in the second proviso of that section and to depots in cities and towns of less than two thousand population. The commission may in like manner exempt, in its discretion, depots in cities and towns of over two thousand population from the operation of that section. When the requirements of the preceding section are so applied by the commission, then all of the provisions of this article having to do with the sale and use of mileage-books shall extend to and include all railroad companies thereby affected, and such companies shall be subject to all of the penalties prescribed for a failure to comply with such provisions.

3500. Penalty for failure to provide mileage-exchange facilities. Any railroad company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars per day for each city or town where such failure occurs that is covered by the provisions of those sections, or taken in by the corporation commission as therein provided, to be recovered by any passenger demanding cash-fare or mileage tickets at any depot in any such city or town in an action brought by such passenger.

3501. Right to check baggage on mileage books. Any legal holder of a mileage book shall be privileged to have his baggage checked before the exchange of mileage for a ticket entitling such holder to transportation upon the surrender of the baggage slip forming a part of such mileage-book for the requisite number of miles and the payment of all proper excess-baggage charges.

3502. Corporation commission may regulate the checking of baggage on mileage tickets. The corporation commission is hereby empowered and directed to take into consideration the provisions of the preceding section and promulgate such rules and regulations, with regard to checking baggage on mileage tickets, as, in the opinion of the commission, shall be necessary and proper to safeguard and protect both the convenience of passengers and the rights of railroad companies; and such rules and regulations of the commission, when so promulgated, shall have the same force and effect as if they were a part of such section.

3503. Unused tickets to be redeemed. When any round-trip ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, it shall be the duty of such company to redeem the unused portion of said ticket by allowing to the holder thereof the difference between the cost thereof and the price of a one-way ticket between the stations for which such round-trip ticket was sold. Whenever any one-way or regular ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, and not used by the purchaser, it shall be the duty of the company selling the ticket to redeem it at the price paid for it. All railroad and other transportation companies shall redeem in money all mileage tickets known as five-hundred, thousand and two-thousand mile tickets, sold by them, if presented within a year from the date of the sale, when as much as fifty per centum of such ticket has been used by the purchaser, by paying the same price per mile paid for it, or shall allow the original holder to ride it out.

Rev., s. 2627; 1891, c. 290; 1893, c. 249; 1895, c. 83, ss. 2, 3; 1897, c. 418.

3504. Ticket may be refused intoxicated person; prohibited entry misdemeanor. The ticket agent of any railroad, steamboat or other transportation company shall at all times have power to refuse to sell a ticket to any person applying for the same who may at the time be intoxicated. The conductor, captain or other person in charge of any railroad car, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public shall at all times have power to prevent any intoxicated person from entering such car, boat or other conveyance. If any intoxicated person, after being forbidden by the conductor, captain or other person having charge of any such railroad train, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public, shall enter such train, boat or other conveyance, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2625, 2626, 3757: 1885, c. 358, ss. 1, 2, 3.

Refusal to allow person with ticket to board train because he was intoxicated subjects railroad company to exemplary damages, if such refusal was made with malice, undue force, or 3505. Entering cars after being forbidden misdemeanor. No person shall enter any railroad passenger car, baggage car, mail car or caboose car, or go upon the platform of such cars, after being forbidden so to do by the conductor, his assistants, the baggage-master or other person in charge of such cars, unless the person enter such cars or go upon such platforms as a passenger or in some official capacity authorized by law, or on business with a passenger or some official or employee of the railroad, or for some other like purpose. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars.

Rev., s. 3752; Code, s. 1979; 1883, c. 351.

3506. Riding in first-class cabin with second-class ticket misdemeanor. If any passenger purchasing or holding a second-class ticket, after being requested or directed by any captain or other officer in charge of any steamboat in this state, riding in any first-class cabin, refuses to pay the difference between a first-class and a second-class fare or rate, or refuses to go into the second-class cabin, when there shall be a comfortable second-class cabin on such steamboat, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any justice of the peace in the county where such offense is committed shall have jurisdiction of the offense, upon sworn complaint of any officer of such steamboat company.

Rev., s. 3761; 1903, c. 795.

3507. Passenger refusing to pay fare and violating rules may be ejected. If any passenger shall refuse to pay his fare, or violate the rules of a railroad corpo-racion, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train and the servants of the corporation to put him and his baggage out of the cars, using no unnecessary force, at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling-house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train.

Rev., s. 2629; Code, s. 1962; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 34.

Regulation of carrier is reasonable which requires passengers to procure tickets before entering car, and where this requirement is duly made known and reasonable opportunities are afforded for complying with it, it may be enforced either by expulsion from train or by requiring payment of higher rate than ticket fare: Ammons v. R. R., 138-555; Herbst v. Power Co., 161-457.

If, without having afforded reasonable opportunity to passenger to provide himself with ticket, carrier should eject him upon his refusal to pay additional charge for carriage without ticket, when he is ready and offers to pay his fare at ticket rate, his expulsion will be illegal, and he may recover damages for trespass, and his right of recovery cannot be made to depend upon conductor’s knowledge or ignorance of fact that agent had no tickets for sale: Ammons
v. R. R., 138-555—and he may recover punitive damages if his expulsion is attended with circumstances of rudeness, insult, or such treatment as tends to humiliate him; Ibid.; Tomlinson Conductor of railroad train is authorized to expel without using unnecessary force one who refuses to pay regular fare, provided that ejected person is not wilfully and wantonly exposed to danger of life and limb: Roseman v. R. R., 112-709—and carrier is not liable if the person ejected was intoxicated and conductor had reasonable ground to believe he could take care of himself: Ibid.

One who boarded a train, and upon offering ticket to station at which train was not scheduled to stop and refusing to pay fare to next station at which train would stop, was ejected from train, cannot recover punitive damages where ejection was done without insolence or undue force: Allen v. R. R., 119-710.

The purchaser of a ticket has a right to rely upon the statement of the railroad agent as to trains, connections, etc., and if agent is mistaken and the passenger is ejected, the railroad is liable: Creech v. R. R., 174-61; Hallman v. R. R., 169-127; Norman v. R. R., 161-330; Mace v. R. R., 151-404; Bullock v. R. R., 152-66.

A mileage book is a contract and the holder must comply with the terms, if reasonable opportunity is given, or he may be ejected: McNairy v. R. R., 172-505; Mason v. R. R., 159-183; Dorsett v. R. R., 156-439; Harvey v. R. R., 153-567.

Where conductor failed to return ticket to passenger to be used on another train, and the passenger was ejected for want of ticket, the railroad is liable: Sawyer v. R. R., 171-13.

Where a person who has paid his fare is on a train with a child whose fare is not paid, conductor cannot put such person off with the child without returning ticket or compensation for unused part: Lankford v. R. R., 165-653.

Where plaintiff shipped horses by express, with agreement that he should ride in same car, he cannot ride in passenger coach without paying his fare: Teeter v. Express Co., 172-616—person riding in a baggage car, with a ticket which he has not presented, may be ejected, McGraw v. R. R., 153-264.

Where a person who has ridden some distance without a ticket gets off at a regular station and purchases a ticket, it seems that conductor cannot accept ticket and then put him off for failure to pay for the distance traveled: Mott v. R. R., 164-367; Pickens v. R. R., 104-312.

Conductor may refuse to accept fare after he has been put to trouble of stopping train for failure to pay: Pickens v. R. R., 104-312—and passenger is not required to pay the fare wrongfully demanded in order to avoid being ejected, Sawyer v. R. R., 171-13; McNairy v. R. R., 172-505; Harvey v. R. R., 153-567.

Railroad is liable if conductor ejects a person from train in an improper manner, even when fare is not paid: Lee v. R. R., 176-95—or if he puts him off at an improper place, not at a regular station or near a dwelling-house, Mott v. R. R., 164-367; Bullock v. R. R., 152-66.

3508. Beating way on trains misdemeanor; venue. If any person, other than a railroad employee in the discharge of his duty, without authority from the conductor of the train or by permission of the engineer, and with the intention of being transported free and without paying the usual fare for such transportation, rides or attempts to ride on top of any car, coach, engine or tender, on any railroad in this state, or on the draw-heads between cars, or under ears, on truss rods, or trucks, or in any freight car, or on a platform of any baggage car, express car or mail car on any train, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Any person charged with a violation of this section may be tried in any county in this state through which such train may pass carrying such person, or in any county in which such violation may have occurred or may be discovered.

Rev. s. 3748; 1899, c. 625; 1905, c. 32.

3509. Injury while on platform or in other prohibited places. In case any passenger on any railroad shall be injured while on the platform of a car or on any baggage, wood or freight car, in violation of the printed regulations of the company posted up at the time in a conspicuous place inside its passenger cars then in the train, such company shall not be liable for the injury: Provided, such company at the time furnish room inside its passenger cars sufficient for the proper accommodation of its passengers.

By virtue of this section, a rule of railroad company prohibiting passengers from going on platform while train in motion is given, when statute complied with, the force and effect of law of state: Shaw v. R. R., 143-312. That plaintiff was on the platform of the car will not prevent a recovery unless that was the proximate cause of the injury: Kearney v. R. R., 158-522; Bane v. R. R., 176-247. See, also, Wagner v. R. R., 147-315; Smith v. R. R., 147-448.

3510. Checking baggage; liability for loss. A check shall be affixed to every parcel of baggage when taken for transportation by the agent or servant of any railroad corporation, if there is a handle, loop or fixture so that the same can be attached upon the parcel or baggage so offered for transportation, and a duplicate thereof given to the passenger or person delivering the same on his behalf; and if such check be refused on demand, the corporation shall pay to such passenger the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered in a civil action; and further, no fare or toll shall be collected or received from such passenger, and if such passenger shall have paid his fare the same shall be refunded by the conductor in charge of the train, and on producing the check, if his baggage shall not be delivered to him, he may, by an action, recover the value of such trunk or baggage.

See section 3523.

3511. Cars and toilets to be kept clean. Every person or railroad company, whether incorporated or not, engaged in the regular business of carrying passengers on his or its railroad cars in this state, shall have such cars cleaned, brushed, dusted and the windows washed, if needed, at least once each day, and shall in each car, in which male and female passengers are carried, have therein a toilet-room for each sex, and have the same kept clean and decent. Any person or corporation engaged in the business aforesaid who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to give orders to his or its agent in charge of such cars to comply with the requirements of this section, shall forfeit twenty dollars for each day of such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any person suing therefor.

3512. Evidence of failure to order cleaning of cars; violation of orders misdemeanor. The willful or negligent refusal or the failure on the part of the conductor or manager of any passenger car named in the preceding section to comply with such section shall be received as evidence of failure or refusal of such person or railroad company to give the orders therein provided for. Moreover, such conductor or manager shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if he fail or refuse to carry out such orders of the persons or company mentioned in the preceding section.

1907, c. 474, s. 3.

Art. 11. Carriage of Freight

3513. Freight rates to be posted. It shall be the duty of every railroad or other transportation company to keep posted in a conspicuous place in its depots or other places where freight is received for shipment a list of its charges for carrying freight, specifying name of place, class of freight and charge for carrying the same. Such charges shall not be increased without giving fifteen days notice. Any company represented by an agent who refuses to comply with this section shall be liable to a penalty of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars.

Rey., s. 2630; Code, s. 1965; 1879, c. 182, s. 2.

See chapter Corporation Commission, s. 1074, where provision is made for the publication by the corporation commission of both freight and passenger rates.

3514. No charge in excess of printed tariffs; refunding overcharge; penalty. No railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company engaged in the carriage of freight and no telegraph company or telephone company shall demand, collect or receive for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of property or transmission of messages more than the rates appearing in the printed tariff of such company in force at the time such service is rendered, or more than is allowed by law. In case of any overcharge, contrary to the provisions of this section, the person aggrieved may file with any agent of the company collecting or receiving greater compensation than the amount allowed a written demand, supported by a paid freight bill and an original bill of lading or duplicate thereof for refund of overcharge, and a maximum period of sixty days shall be allowed such company to pay claims filed under this section. Any company failing to refund such overcharge within the time allowed shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day and five dollars per day for each day's delay thereafter until said overcharge is paid, together with all costs incurred by the party aggrieved: Provided, the total forfeiture shall not exceed one hundred dollars.

OVERCHARGE. Legislature has power to impose regulations upon public-service corporations, and this section applies to all persons or corporations engaged in transportation of freight as common carriers: Efland v. R. R., 146-135. Presumption is that common carriers obey the law, and make and observe the lists of charges thus required to be made, while they continue current and unchanged: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434.

Carrying freight to different destination without direction of owner does not entitle the carrier to additional charge: Hall v. R. R., 173-108. The railroad is required to collect the fixed rate, and consignee cannot avoid payment by refusing to take goods: R. R. v. Iron Works, 172-188. Collecting full charge upon "short" delivery is an overcharge: Cottrell v. R. R., 141-383.

DEMAND FOR REFUND. This section does not apply to interstate commerce: Hardware Co. v. R. R., 170-395.

Consignee, having paid the freight, is proper party to sue for penalty: Tilley v. R. R., 172-363. The amount of recovery on claim for damages does not affect liability for penalty, since this is given to enforce performance of carrier's duty: Tilley v. R. R., 172-363; Supply Co.
3515. Penalty for failure to receive and forward freight tendered. Agents or other officers of railroads and other transportation companies whose duty it is to receive freights shall receive all articles of the nature and kind received by such company for transportation whenever tendered at a regular depot, station, wharf or boat landing, and every loaded car tendered at a sidetrack, or any warehouse connected with the railroad by a siding, and shall forward the same by the route selected by the person tendering the freight under existing laws; and the transportation company represented by any person refusing to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for each day such company refuses to receive such shipment of freight, and all damages actually sustained by reason of the refusal to receive freight. If such loaded car be tendered at any siding or warehouse at which there is no agent, notice shall be given to an agent at the nearest regular station at which there is an agent that such car is loaded and ready for shipment.

TENDER AND REFUSAL. What is a sufficient tender to give rise to penalty: Olive v. R. R., 152-279; Cotton Mills v. R. R., 150-608; Garrison v. R. R., 150-575; Cox v. R. R., 148-459. There must be a tender, actual or constructive, on each day, and each day's refusal is a separate offense: Bane v. R. R., 171-328; Lumber Co. v. R. R., 152-70; Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Currie v. R. R., 135-535.

Words "whenever tendered" can only be qualified by supplying the ellipsis, "within the usual hours adopted by the public for the transaction of such business at the place where tender is made": Alsop v. Express Co., 104-278—and it does not depend upon a private regulation of the carrier, Ibid. The goods must be in a condition for shipment, and a railroad is not liable for failure to accept and transport unbaled hay: Tilley v. R. R., 162-37.

When goods are delivered to carrier for shipment, presumption is that they are received for shipment and not for storage, and burden is upon company to show that it received goods as a warehouseman and not as carrier: Berry v. R. R., 122-1002.

Failure to issue a bill of lading is a refusal to receive the goods: Tilley v. R. R., 162-37; Twitty v. R. R., 141-355.

The terms "a regular depot" or "station," in this section, contemplate fixed and established places on line of railroad or other transportation company equipped with suitable buildings and furnished with necessary officers and servants for the regular transaction of business, for the receipt and delivery of freights, and the comfort and convenience of passengers: Land v. R. R., 104-48. Stopping for mails or passengers, but not at regular station and not having an agent's office or regular agent in charge, would not constitute the place a regular depot or station: Ibid.; Kellogg v. R. R., 100-158.

LIABILITY FOR PENALTY. Being a penalty statute, it must be strictly construed: Cox v. R. R., 148-459.

In an action for damages caused by delay in shipment of goods it is immaterial whether action is brought in assumpsit, upon breach of contract, or in case for violation of a common-law duty, or on a tort based on a contract: Parker v. R. R., 133-335.

When article refused to be received and forwarded as freight is cattle, a separate penalty of $50 for each head may be recovered, and if the aggregate of penalties exceeds $200, superior court has jurisdiction: Carter v. R. R., 126-437. Each day's delay is a separate offense: Bane v. R. R., 171-328; Lumber Co. v. R. R., 152-70; Currie v. R. R., 135-535.

The shipper or owner is the party aggrieved and entitled to sue for the penalty: Lumber Co. v. R. R., 192-70; McRackan v. R. R., 150-531; Reid v. R. R., 149-423. The defendant may set up as a defense that unavoidable conditions prevented transportation: Hardware Co. v. R. R., 150-703; Garrison v. R. R., 150-575—but an embargo against consignee will not be a defense, Ibid.; Cotton Mills v. R. R., 150-612.

In Reid v. R. R., 149-423, and s. c., 153-490, citing numerous cases, it was held that this was not an interference with interstate commerce, and that penalty applied to an interstate shipment. This was reversed in same case in 222 U. S., 424.

3516. Penalty for failure to transport within reasonable time. It shall be unlawful for any railroad company, steamboat company, express company or other transportation company doing business in this state to omit or neglect to transport within a reasonable time any goods, merchandise or other articles of value received by it for shipment and billed to or from any place in the state of North Carolina, unless otherwise agreed upon between the company and the shipper, or unless the same be burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed, or unless otherwise provided by the North Carolina corporation commission.

Any company violating any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of fifteen dollars for the first day and two dollars for each succeeding day of such unlawful detention or neglect where such shipment is made in carload lots, and in less quantities there shall be a forfeiture in like manner of ten dollars for the first day and one dollar for each succeeding day, but the forfeiture shall not be collected for a period exceeding thirty days.

In reckoning what is a reasonable time for such transportation, it shall be considered that such transportation company has transported freight within a reasonable time if it has done so in the ordinary time required for transporting such articles of freight between the receiving and shipping stations. A delay of two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each hundred miles of distance or fraction thereof over which such freight is to be transported shall not be charged against the transportation company as unreasonable and shall be held to be prima facie reasonable, and a failure to transport within such time shall be held prima facie unreasonable. This section shall be construed to refer not only to delay in starting the freight from the station where it is received, but to require the delivery at its destination within the time specified: Provided, that if such delay shall be due to causes which could not in the exercise of ordinary care have been foreseen, and which were unavoidable, then upon the establishment of these facts to the satisfaction of the justice of the peace or jury trying the cause, the defendant transportation company shall be relieved from any penalty for delay in the transportation of freight, but it shall not be relieved from the costs of such action. In all actions to recover penalties against a transportation company under this section, the burden of proof shall be upon the transportation company to show where the delay, if any, occurred.

Bill of lading is prima facie evidence of receipt of shipment, but not when entire shipment is under control of shipper: Peele v. R. R., 149-390—clause in bill of lading for shipment “at convenience of company" will not excuse delay, Branch v. R. R., 88-573—a mismarking three packages is not excuse for failing to ship a fourth, Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396. Goods must be offered for shipment within a reasonable time: Shaw v. Express Co., 171-216.

DUTY OF CARRIER AS TO SHIPMENT OF FREIGHT. It is duty of common carrier to provide sufficient means of transportation for all freight and passengers which its business naturally brings to it, and an unusual occasion by which a greater demand upon it is temporarily made will not relieve it of obligation if, by use of reasonable foresight, it could have been provided for: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414; Keoter v. R. R., 86-346; Branch v. R. R., 77-347.

The only duty assumed by a carrier of freight under a bill of lading is to transport articles to destination within a reasonable time if on its own line, and if not, to transport and deliver to next connecting carrier: Watson v. R. R., 145-236; McGowan v. R. R., 95-417.

The carrier's liability ceases when the goods arrive at their destination, notice is given to consignee, and a reasonable time for delivery; then the liability is that of warehouseman: Wall v. R. R., 147-407; Poythress v. R. R., 148-391; Bank v. R. R., 153-346—but delivery must be at a place reasonably accessible, Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 152-665.

PARTY AGGRIEVED. This section allowing party aggrieved to recover a penalty for unreasonable delay in the transportation of goods is constitutional as a valid exercise of police power: Rollins v. R. R., 146-153; Cardwell v. R. R., 146-218.

Action should be brought in the name of the party aggrieved, and not in the name of the state: Robertson v. R. R., 148-323. The party aggrieved is one whose legal right is denied, and the penalty is enforceable independent of pecuniary injury: Summers v. R. R., 138-295.

In an ordinary delivery of goods to the carrier upon an open bill of lading it is considered a delivery to the consignee, and he is the only party to sue: Buggy Co. v. R. R., 152-119; Gaskins v. R. R., 151-18; Stone v. R. R., 144-220; Hunter v. Randolph, 129-91. But when the bill is in the name of the consignor, or other circumstances show that he retained control over the property, he is the proper party to sue: Trading Co. v. R. R., 178-175; Aydlett v. R. R., 172-47; Withrow v. R. R., 150-222; Elliott v. R. R., 155-235; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 149-261; Robertson v. R. R., 148-323; Davis v. R. R., 147-68; Cardwell v. R. R., 146-218; Rollins v. R. R., 146-153; Summers v. R. R., 138-295.

BURDEN OF PROOF. One suing a carrier for the penalty imposed has the burden of proving the issue of failure to transport within the ordinary time required: Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178; Hamrick v. R. R., 146-185; Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Alexander v. R. R., 144-93.

Burden of proof is upon defendant to show reasonableness in delays beyond ordinary or reasonable time prescribed: Stone v. R. R., 144-220—or an agreement excusing delay, Whitehead v. R. R., 87-256—or when shipped "subject to delay," the exercise of reasonable diligence to avoid delay, Parker v. R. R., 133-335—or that goods were destroyed without carrier's fault, Robertson v. R. R., 148-323.

"ORDINARY" AND "REASONABLE" TIME. This section simply changes the rule of evidence as to proof of "reasonable time": Stone v. R. R., 144-220. The words "ordinary time" mean the regular customary time within which, by the facilities in general use for the performance of the duty of carrying goods, the carriage should be completed: Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178. The carrier makes failure to transport within ordinary time prima facie unreasonable, and where transportation is not within ordinary time, carrier is liable for the penalty imposed, less two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each one hundred miles; but the two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at each intermediate point are not the standards by which reasonable time is measured: Jenkins v. R. R., 146-178.

"Five days" means five full running days exclusive of the day of delivery and the day of shipment: Branch v. R. R., 88-571 (number of days changed by amendment).

"INTERMEDIATE POINTS." This section does not authorize carrier to hold freight at each intermediate point the extreme limit, without any necessity for detaining it at all: Meredith v. R. R., 137-478.

The 48 hours allowance to a carrier for delay at intermediate points is for change of cars if necessary, and for unloading and reloading: Watson v. R. R., 145-236.

A station of defendant's railroad which was terminus of two other railroads was not an intermediate point with reference to freight not transferred to the other lines, but shipped through on defendant's line to points beyond: Davis & Hooks v. R. R., 145-507.

Right of railroad to time allowed when not taken for purposes specified, discussed by Clark, C. J., in Davis v. R. R., 145-207; Watson v. R. R., 145-236. In less than carload shipments, point of transfer from one car to another is an "intermediate point": Collection Agency v. R. R., 147-593.

A point at which a car is transferred from main line of defendant's system to a branch line is an "intermediate point": Wall v. R. R., 147-407.

SUNDAY NOT EXCLUDED. Sundays and holidays are not excluded in ascertaining the number of days delay: Wall v. R. R., 147-407.

Where one of the two days next after the delivery of freight to a carrier for transportation was Sunday, such day was properly deducted in ascertaining whether the freight was transported within a reasonable time, not as Sunday, but as one of the two initial days of nonaction which carrier was entitled to before it was required to begin transportation: Collection Agency v. R. R., 147-593; Davis & Hooks v. R. R., 145-207; Watson v. R. R., 145-236; Keeter v. R. R., 86-346.

INTRASTATE SHIPMENTS. This section applies only to intrastate shipments: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414; Marble Co. v. R. R., 147-53. What is an intrastate shipment as between two points within the state: Ibid.; Ice Co. v. R. R., 147-61; Hockfield v. R. R., 150-419. See also, Bagg v. R. R., 109-279.

In a shipment from one point in the state to another point in the state, through an adjoining state, the company is liable for loss through negligence, but not for the penalty: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414. A contract limiting the carrier's liability for negligence would not be valid under the Cummins amendment: Ibid.

POWER OF CORPORATION COMMISSION. This section gives the commission right to fix time allowed as free time for intermediate points and to make reasonable regulations as to time of transit: Summers v. R. R., 138-295. Corporation commission has no power to change time allowed as free time at point of shipment, nor to alter penalties fixed by this section: Ibid.

3517. Flume companies exercising right of eminent domain become common carriers. All flume companies availing themselves of the right of eminent domain under the provisions of the chapter Eminent Domain shall become public carriers of freight, for the purposes for which they are adapted, and shall be under the direction, control and supervision of the corporation commission in the same manner and for the same purposes as is by law provided for other public carriers of freight.

The provisions of this section are applicable in Duplin county to standard-gauge and narrow-gauge roads, logging or otherwise, more than five miles in length, in operation for five years prior to March 8, 1911. See 1911, c. 214.
3518. Freight charges to be at legal rates; penalty for failure to deliver to consignee on tender of same. All common carriers doing business in this state shall settle their freight charges according to the rate stipulated in the bill of lading, provided the rate therein stipulated be in conformity with the classifications and rates made and filed with the interstate commerce commission in case of shipments from without the state and with those of the corporation commission of this state in case of shipments wholly within this state, by which classifications and rates all consignees shall in all cases be entitled to settle freight charges with such carriers; and it shall be the duty of such common carriers to inform any consignee of the correct amount due for freight according to such classification and rates. Upon payment or tender of the amount due on any shipment which has arrived at its destination according to such classification and rates, such common carrier shall deliver the freight in question to the consignee. Any failure or refusal to comply with the provisions hereof shall subject such carrier so failing or refusing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved by any suit in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Where railroad corporation chartered by another state leases railroad chartered by this state, it is bound to observe and obey all laws of this state regulating business of transportation: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434.

Section imposes only one penalty for refusal of railroad company to deliver freight upon demand and tender of charges, and it is not cumulative upon more than one demand for same offense: Harrill v. R. R., 144-532.

It is no defense for defendant company to show its agent did not know correct amount of the charges because of failure to file its schedule of rates, under requirement of interstate commerce act, or that bill of lading showing such charges had not been received with goods at their destination, in usual course of its business: Harrill v. R. R., 144-532.

When plaintiff ordered one car, and company furnished two or more smaller cars, the rate must be same for shipment: Furniture Co. v. R. R., 162-138. Carrier is liable for loss caused by failure to furnish suitable car: Forrester v. R. R., 147-553.

BILL OF LADING. Bill of lading is both a contract and receipt; as a contract to carry and deliver goods upon terms and conditions specified in instrument, it cannot be explained by parol testimony so as to alter its legal effect, in absence of fraud or mistake, but as a receipt or acknowledgment of quantity, character or condition of articles, it may be explained, varied or contradicted like any other receipt: Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 121-514.

Bill of lading only determines conditions upon which freight is to be transported after it passes under its control, and it does not abrogate or annul any contract made by common carrier before it was issued in regard to receiving and forwarding freight: Hamilton v. R. R., 96-398.

Delivery of bill of lading is not necessary to make carrier liable as such for goods sent to it for shipment: Berry v. R. R., 122-1002; Smith v. R. R., 163-143; McConnell v. R. R., 163-504; Davis v. R. R., 172-209; McRary v. R. R., 174-553. Under Carmack amendment the carrier is required to issue a bill of lading, and the terms are uniform: Bryan v. R. R., 174-177. See, also, Uniform Bills of Lading, section 280 et seq.

While railroad has the right to demand the bill of lading, the burden is on railroad to show failure to deliver for want of bill of lading: Jeans v. R. R., 164-224. A bill of lading requiring order of third person must have proper order or indorsement for delivery of goods: Killingsworth v. R. R., 171-47. Upon a bill of lading "order notify," the consignor may claim the goods, if carried to wrong place: Hall v. R. R., 173-108.
Carrier is not liable on bill of lading issued when goods were not received: Bank v. R. R., 175-415; but see Bills of Lading Act, section 304.

STIPULATIONS AS TO VALUE. Bill of lading is prima facie evidence of actual value of property therein named: Gardner v. R. R., 127-293. Common carrier can make a valid agreement, fixing value of shipments, in case of loss by its negligence, if such agreements be reasonable or based on valuable consideration, and it must clearly appear that such was the intention of parties, and burden to prove it is on the carrier: Ibid.

The same rule was held to apply to interstate shipments in Mule Co. v. R. R., 160-215; Stehli v. Express Co., 160-493; but this was reversed in the first case in 238 U. S., 605, and the limitation recognized, Horse Exchange v. R. R., 171-65. The common-law rule was restored by Cummins amendment: Bivens v. R. R., 176-414.

STIPULATIONS AS TO NOTICE, ETC. Stipulation that notice of claim should be presented within thirty days was held to be unreasonable and invalid: Watch Case Co. v. Express Co., 120-351; Cigar Co. v. Express Co., 120-348; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 128-280; Deans v. R. R., 152-171—but sixty days is reasonable, Ibid.—four months is reasonable, Forney v. R. R., 167-641; Culbret v. R. R., 169-723.

Under Cummins amendment to Carmack Act, in interstate shipments, notice is not necessary to a recovery when the loss occurs through negligence in transportation: Mann v. Transportation Co., 176-104, changing the rule given in Bryan v. R. R., 174-177; Taft v. R. R., 174-211; McRary v. R. R., 174-563.

Stipulation that any claim for damage shall be adjusted before removal from station, and claim therefor made in thirty days to "trace agent" of the carrier, is unreasonable: Capehart v. R. R., 81-438. But in shipment of livestock, a stipulation that written notice of claim for damage shall be given to carrier before property is removed is reasonable: Duvall v. R. R., 167-54.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES AND PENALTY. Action for penalty and for injury or loss of property may be joined; and payment of loss does not discharge the penalty: Stationery Co. v. Express Co., 152-342; Rabon v. R. R., 149-59; Albritton v. R. R., 148-485; Robertson v. R. R., 148-523.

The plaintiff makes out a prima facie case by proof of shipment and loss or injury, and the carrier must show that it is not liable: Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236; Hinkle v. R. R., 126-932.

3519. Charging unreasonable freight rates misdemeanor. If any railroad company doing business in this state shall charge, collect, demand or receive more than a fair and reasonable rate of toll or compensation for the transportation of freight of any description, or for the use and transportation of any railroad car upon its track or any of the branches thereof or upon any railroad in this state which has the right, license or permission to use, operate or control the same, it shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 3768; 1899, c. 164, s. 12.

See s. 3491 of this chapter for a similar provision relative to excessive passenger rates.

3520. Allowing or accepting rebates or pooling freights misdemeanor. If any person shall be concerned in pooling freights or shall directly or indirectly allow or accept rebates on freights he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not less than twelve months.

Rev., s. 3762; Code, s. 1968; 1879, c. 237, s. 2.

Section cited in Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-445.

3521. Partial charges for partial deliveries. Whenever any freight of any kind shall be received by any common carrier in this state to be delivered to any consignee in this state, and a portion of the same shall not have been received at the place of destination, it shall not be lawful for the carrier to demand any part of the charges for freight or transportation due for such portion of the shipment as shall not have reached the place of destination. The carrier shall be required to deliver to the consignee such portion of the consignment as shall have been received upon the payment or tender of the freight charges due upon such portion. But nothing in this section shall be construed as interfering with, or depriving a consignor, or other person having authority, of his rights of stoppage in transitu.

Rev., s. 2641; 1893, c. 495.

Section cited in Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-445.

3522. Placing cars for loading. Whenever any person, firm or corporation intending to ship freight makes a written application to any railroad company for cars to be loaded in carload lots with any kind of freight embraced in the tariffs of the company, stating in the application the character of the freight, the number of cars wanted, the station, depot, siding, wharf or boat-landing on the line of the company whence the shipment is to be moved, and its final destination, the railroad company shall furnish the cars within four days from seven o'clock a.m., the day following such application. The application must be delivered to the agent of the railroad company at the station at or nearest the point of shipment. Any railroad company failing to furnish the cars named in such written application shall be subject to a penalty of five dollars per car per day for each car not furnished, to be recovered by the person, firm or corporation making application: Provided, that the railroad company, before furnishing the cars upon such application, may require the person, firm or corporation applying for the same, to deposit five dollars for each car so demanded at the time the application is made, which deposit of five dollars for each car may be retained by the said railroad company as a forfeit for trackage in case the car or cars are not loaded within forty-eight hours after notice of the placement of car or cars in accordance with demand: Provided, that the corporation commission may excuse from the penalties imposed by this section independent lines not owned, operated, or controlled by any other line or system when trackage is less than one hundred miles.

Carrier is entitled to reasonable notice when cars are to be placed for shipments: Futch v. R. R., 178-282. A written application by a shipper to a carrier for a freight car to be furnished within two days is not a compliance with rule 9 of the corporation commission: McDuffie v. R. R., 145-397. Failure to make the application does not prevent liability for damages, but only for penalty: Bell v. R. R., 163-180.

A railroad company must furnish suitable cars for perishable goods accepted for shipment: McConnell v. R. R., 144-87; Forrester v. R. R., 147-553.

Damages for failure to furnish cars for interstate shipment may be recovered in state court: Smart v. R. R., 173-650.

Baggage and freight to be carefully handled. All railroad and steamboat companies shall handle with care all baggage and freights placed with them for transportation, and they shall be liable in damages for any and all injuries to the baggage or freight of persons from whom they have collected fare or charged freight, while the same is under their control. Upon proof of injury to baggage or freight in the possession or under the control of any such company it shall be presumed that the injury was caused by the negligence of the company.

Rev., s. 2624; 1897, c. 46.

Common carrier cannot contract with passenger against loss of baggage by its negligence: Thomas v. R. R., 131-590; Cooper v. R. R., 161-400.

Baggage is delivered and accepted when it is taken to the place where it is the custom to receive baggage, and notice is given to the person apparently in charge for the carrier: Williams v. R. R., 155-260. Purchasing a ticket is not always necessary: Ibid.

While obligation of carrier of passengers is limited to ordinary baggage, yet if it knowingly permits passenger, either with or without payment of extra charge, to take articles as baggage which are not properly such, it will be liable for their loss or for damage to them, though it may have been without any fault: Trouser Co. v. R. R., 139-392. When baggage has arrived at destination and has been deposited at customary place of delivery and kept there sufficient time for passenger to claim and remove same, company's liability as common carrier ceases, and it is thereafter liable only as warehouseman, and bound to use of ordinary care: Ibid.

The carrier's liability as insurer for baggage applies only when it is carried on same train with owner, unless the failure to carry it on such train is due to the fault of carrier; otherwise the carrier is liable only as gratuitous bailee: Perry v. R. R., 171-158; Kindley v. R. R., 151-207.

Claims for loss of or damage to goods; filing and adjustment. Every claim for loss of or damage to property while in possession of a common carrier, including every express company, firm or corporation doing an express business within the state, shall be adjusted and paid within ninety days in case of shipments wholly within the state, and within four months in case of shipments from without the state, after the filing of such claim with the agent of such carrier at the point of destination of such shipment, or point of delivery to another common carrier, by the consignee, or at the point of origin by the consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the shipment: Provided, that no such claim shall be filed until after the arrival of the shipment, or some part thereof, at the point of destination, or until after the lapse of a reasonable time for the arrival thereof.

In every case such common carrier shall be liable for the amount of such loss or damage, together with interest thereon from the date of the filing of the claim therefor until the payment thereof. Failure to adjust and pay such claim within the periods respectively herein prescribed shall subject each common carrier so failing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every such failure, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved (or consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the property at the time of shipment and at the time of suit, and is, therefore, the party aggrieved), in any court of competent jurisdiction: Provided, that unless such consignee or consignor recover in such action the full amount claimed, no penalty shall be recovered, but only the actual amount of the loss or damage, with interest as aforesaid; and that no penalty shall be recoverable under the provisions of this section where claims have been filed by both the consignor and consignee, unless the time herein provided has elapsed after the withdrawal of one of the claims.

Causes of action for the recovery of the possession of the property shipped, for loss or damage thereto, and for the penalties herein provided for, may be united in the same complaint.

Rev., s. 2634; 1907, c. 983; 1911, c. 139.

FILING CLAIM. The purpose is to give the carrier notice of loss: Hinkle v. R. R., 126-932. Demand for damages must be in writing: Thompson v. Express Co., 147-343—and must be filed within the time required, if that is reasonable, Phillips v. R. R., 172-86; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 170-241; Currie v. R. R., 156-432. It is sufficient if notice of claim is given to carrier causing loss: Aydlett v. R. R., 172-47—or to initial carrier, Gillikin v. R. R., 174-137. Burden is on defendant to show that claim was not filed or that it was excessive: Rabon v. R. R., 149-59.

PROOF OF LOSS. By proving delivery to carrier for transportation and a loss or injury of the property the owner makes a prima facie case of negligence: Osborne v. R. R., 175-594; Everett v. R. R., 138-68; Hinkle v. R. R., 126-932; Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236—burden is then upon the carrier to show that liability does not exist, Ibid.; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 121-514.

CONNECTING CARRIERS. Where carrier accepts goods for transportation, in absence of a special contract, it assumes duty of safely carrying, within a reasonable time, the goods to the end of its line, and delivering them in like condition to connecting carrier: Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Knott v. R. R., 98-73; Lindley v. R. R., 88-547.

Among connecting lines of railway, that one in whose hands goods are found damaged is presumed to have caused the damage, and burden is upon it to rebut presumption: Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 128-280; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 121-514; Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Everett v. R. R., 138-68; Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236; Boss v. R. R., 156-70. Upon proof that any carrier on the route received the goods in good condition, the burden is upon such carrier to show delivery in same condition to the next carrier or to consignee: Lyon v. R. R., 165-143; Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Mitchell v. R. R., 124-236; Beville v. R. R., 159-227. Liability of initial and connecting carriers for failure to furnish suitable cars: Lucas v. R. R., 165-264; Kime v. R. R., 160-457.

Where two or more common carriers unite in forming an association creating a through line for transportation of freight, with through bills of lading, freight charges to be divided according to the respective mileage of the companies, they become copartnership and each line is liable for any damage resulting on any part of through line, notwithstanding a provision in the bill of lading that each company shall be liable only for loss or damage occurring on its own line: Rocky Mount Mills v. R. R., 119-693.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES AND PENALTY. Under usual conditions, the owner must receive the goods in the damaged condition, unless it amounts to a total loss, and hold the carrier liable for the loss: Wilkins v. R. R., 160-54. The penalty is not dependent upon the value of property lost: Sumrell v. R. R., 152-269.
Penalty may be recovered by the real owner, though shipment was in name of his agent: Horton v. R. R., 170-383. The assignee of the consignee may be entitled to damages for loss, but not to the penalty: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 170-241.

Penalty under this section cannot apply to interstate shipments: Morphis v. Express Co., 167-139; Jeans v. R. R., 164-224.

3525. Existing remedies to continue. The preceding section shall not deprive any consignee of any rights or remedies now existing against common carriers in regard to freight charges or claims for loss or damage to freight, but shall be deemed and held as creating an additional liability upon such common carriers.

Rev., s. 2635; 1905, c. 330, s. 5.

Common-law remedies against common carriers exist in addition to that given in sections 3524, 3516: Parker v. R. R., 133-335; Meredith v. R. R., 137-478; Bell v. R. R., 163-180.

Person who has sustained injuries by reason of failure of railroad company to provide proper means of transportation or operate its trains as required by statute may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of statute: Purcell v. R. R., 108-414; Peanut Co. v. R. R., 155-148.

Liability of carrier changes to that of warehouseman when goods arrive, notice is given to consignee, and a reasonable time allowed to take them away: Poythress v. R. R., 148-391.

3526. Carrier's right against prior carrier. Any common carrier, upon complying with the provisions of the two preceding sections, shall have all the rights and remedies herein provided for against a common carrier from which it receives the freight in question.

Rev., s. 2636; 1905, c. 330, s. 3.

3527. Regulation of demurrage. No railroad or other transportation company doing business in the state shall make any charge on account of demurrage while a car, whether the same be a refrigerator car or not, is being loaded for shipment, until it has remained at the place of loading for forty-eight hours from the time it has been so placed; but the corporation commission may change this provision, if it considers it unreasonable, under the power vested in it under the chapter Corporation Commission, to make regulations as to demurrage and the loading of cars.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 55.

3528. Shipment of livestock on Scuppernong river regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor. If any transportation company or common carrier shall receive livestock for shipment at any of the landings or shipping points on Scuppernong river, Columbia excepted, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, or shall during the time any livestock may be held for shipment at any landing or shipping point on such river, Columbia excepted, fail to keep the same in a covered pound or inclosure, supplied with necessary food and drinking water, and at all times in full view of the public, such transportation company, common carrier, or the agent of either, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

3529. Carload shipments of watermelons regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor. It shall be the duty of all common carriers to furnish the weights of all carload shipments of watermelons originating within the state to the shippers thereof within forty-eight hours after receipt of the same. Any common carrier violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction be fined ten dollars for each offense.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 68.

3530. Express companies to settle promptly for cash-on-delivery shipments; penalty. Every express company which shall fail to make settlement with the consignor of a cash-on-delivery shipment, either by payment of the moneys stipulated to be collected upon the delivery of the articles so shipped or by the return to such consignor of the article so shipped, within twenty days after demand made by the consignor and payment or tender of payment by him of the lawful charges for transportation, shall forfeit and pay to such consignor a penalty of twenty-five dollars, where the value of the shipment is twenty-five dollars or less, and, where the value of the shipment is over twenty-five dollars, a penalty equal to the value of the shipment; the penalty not to exceed fifty dollars in any case: Provided, no penalty shall be collectible where the shipments, through no act of negligence of the company, is burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed: Provided further, that the penalties here named shall not be in derogation of any right the consignor may now have to recover of the company damages for the loss of any cash-on-delivery shipment or for negligent delay in handling the same.

3531. Failure to place name on produce shipped misdemeanor. Any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale or consignment any barrel, crate, box, case, package or other receptacle containing any berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce of any kind whatsoever, to be shipped to any point within or without the state of North Carolina, without the true name of the grower or packer either written, printed, stamped or otherwise placed thereon in distinct and legible characters, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to railroads, express companies and other transportation companies selling or offering for sale, for transportation or storage charges or any other charges accruing to such railroads, express companies or other transportation companies, any barrel, crate, box, ease, package, or other receptacle containing berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce.

3532. Unclaimed freight to be sold. Every railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company which shall have had unclaimed freight, not perishable, in its possession for a period of six months, may proceed to sell the same at public auction, and out of the proceeds may retain the charges of transportation and storage of such freight and the expenses of the advertisement and sale thereof; but no such sale shall be made until the expiration of four weeks from the first publication of notice of such sale in a state paper and also in a newspaper published at or nearest the place at which such freight was directed. to be left, and also at the place where such sale is to take place. The expenses incurred for advertising shall be a lien upon such freight in a ratable proportion according to the value of each article, package or parcel, if more than one.

Rev., s. 2637; Code, s. 1985; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 48.

Since this remedy is provided, the carrier may charge storage only for such time as may be reasonably necessary to proceed under this section: R. R. v. Iron Works, 172-188. It applies to interstate and intrastate shipments: Ibid. Storage charges are allowed for service rendered in taking care of the goods, and carrier may retain the goods to enforce payment: Holloman v. R. R., 172-372.

3533. Sale of unclaimed perishable freight. In case such unclaimed freight shall in its nature be perishable, then the same may be sold as soon as it can be, on giving the notice required in the preceding section, after its receipt at the place where it was directed to be left.

Rev., s. 2638; Code, s. 1986; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 49.

3534. Funds from unclaimed freight to be paid to state university. Such railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company shall make an entry of the balance of the proceeds of the sale, if any, of each parcel of freight owned by or consigned to the same person, as near as can be ascertained, and at any time within five years thereafter shall refund any surplus so retained to the owner of such freight, his heirs or assigns, on satisfactory proof of such ownership; if no person shall claim the surplus within five years, such surplus shall be paid to the state university.

Rev., s. 2639; Code, s. 1987; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 50.

Art. 12. Street and Interurban Railways

3535. May build and maintain water-power plants. Where any street or interurban railway company owns lands on one or both sides of a stream which can be used in developing a water-power, and desires to erect and maintain a water-power plant for the purpose of generating electricity to be used in operating such railway, then such railway company shall have the power to erect, maintain and operate such water-power plant for such purpose, and may build, maintain and operate any and all dams, ponds, canals, bridges, ferries, aqueducts, flumes, water-ways, wasteways, reservoirs, and all works, machinery, houses, shops and buildings necessary for the use and operation of a water-power plant for generating electricity. Whenever such company shall not own the entire water-front, or all of the lands, water rights, or other easements necessary to be used in fully developing such water-power, it shall have the power to acquire any other lands, water rights or easements which may be needed to fully develop such water-power; and if the company cannot agree with the owners for the purchase of such lands, water rights or other easements, the same may be condemned by the railway company for that purpose, and the procedure shall be the same as that provided for the condemnation of lands for railroads: Provided, that no dwelling-house, yard, garden, orchard or burial-ground shall be condemned for such purpose: Provided further, that such company shall not have the power to condemn any water-power, right or property of any person, firm or corporation engaged in the actual service of the general public, where such power, right or 3536. Separate accommodations for different races; failure to provide misdemeanor. All street, interurban and suburban railway companies, engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire in the state of North Carolina, shall provide and set apart so much of the front portion of each car operated by them as shall be necessary, for occupation by the white passengers therein, and shall likewise provide and set apart so much of the rear part of such car as shall be necessary, for occupation by the colored passengers therein, and shall require as far as practicable the white and colored passengers to occupy the respective parts of such car so set apart for each of them. The provisions of this section shall not apply to nurses or attendants of children or of the sick or infirm of a different race, while in attendance upon such children or such sick or infirm persons. Any officer, agent or other employee of any street railway company who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

3537. Passengers to take certain seats; violation of requirement misdemeanor. Any white person entering a street-car for the purpose of becoming a passenger therein shall, if necessary to carry out the purposes of the preceding section, occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space in the aisle nearest the front of the car, and any colored person entering such car for a like purpose shall occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space in the aisle nearest the rear end of the car: Provided, however, that no contiguous seats on the same bench shall be occupied by white and colored passengers at the same time unless or until all of the other seats in the car shall be occupied. Any person willfully violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section.

3538. No liability for mistake in assigning passenger to wrong seat. No street, suburban or interurban railway company, its agents, servants or employees, shall be liable to any person on account of any mistake in the designation of any passenger to a seat or part of a car set apart for passengers of the other race.

1907, c. 850, s. 8.

3539. Misconduct on car; riding on front platform misdemeanor. It shall be unlawful for any passenger to expectorate upon the floor or any other part of the any street-car, or to use, while thereon, any loud, profane or indecent language, or to make any insulting or disparaging remark to or about any other passenger or person thereon within his or her hearing. It shall likewise be unlawful for any passenger to stand willfully upon the front platform, fender, bumper, running-board or steps of such car while the same is in motion, whether such passenger has or has not paid the usual fare for riding on such car. Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section.

1465

3540. Passenger riding on rear platform assumes risk; copies of section to be posted. Any passenger who shall ride upon the rear platform of any street-car in motion, when there is room for such passenger either to sit or stand inside the car, shall be deemed to have assumed all the risks of being injured while so riding, as the result of any act of the street-car company: Provided, that such company shall make it appear that such passenger would not have been injured had he been on the inside of said car: Provided further, that before any street, interurban or suburban railway shall be allowed to invoke the provisions of this section it shall have copies thereof printed and framed and one copy hung in each end of all cars operated on its lines, and shall further have a placard hung in a conspicuous place on the rear of such cars, which shall read as follows: “Passengers are warned not to ride on this platform,” and a placard hung on each side of open cars in a conspicuous place, which shall read as follows: “Passengers are warned not to ride on the running-board.”

1907, c. 850, s. 4.

3541. Street-cars to have vestibule fronts; failure to provide them misdemeanor. All street passenger railway companies shall use vestibule fronts, of frontage not less than four feet, on all passenger cars run by them on their lines during the latter half of the month of November and during the months of December, January, February and March of each year: Provided, that such companies shall not be required to close the sides of the vestibules: Provided further, that such companies may use cars without vestibule fronts in cases of temporary emergency in suitable weather, not to exceed four days in any one month within the period herein prescribed for the use of vestibule fronts. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure.

Street cars must use every reasonable precaution to protect passengers in getting on and off the cars: Wood v. Public Corp., 174-697. A violation of this section does not render the carrier liable unless some causal connection with the injury is shown: Rich v. Electric Co., 152-689.
3542. Street-cars to have fenders; failure to provide them misdemeanor. All street passenger railway companies shall use practical fenders in front of all passenger cars run by them. The corporation commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure.

Rev. ss. 2616, 3801; 1901, c. 743, s. 2.

In an action for killing of dog by street car, it is not competent to show condition of fenders on particular cars other than the one by which dog was killed, it being shown that fenders were different on different cars: Moore v. Electric Co., 136-554.

A statute which requires all street railway companies to put fenders in front of cars and provides that corporation commission may "make exemptions" does not authorize an exemption of all street railway companies, as this amounts to a suspension of statute: Henderson v. Traction Co., 132-779.
CHAPTER 68

REGISTER OF DEEDS

Art. 1. The Office.

3543. Election and term of office. In each county there shall be elected biennially by the qualified voters thereof, as provided for the election of members of the general assembly, a register of deeds.

Rev., s. 2650; Const., Art. VII, s. 1.

The office of register of deeds is constitutional, but the duties are statutory, and the legislature may, within reasonable limits, change the duties and diminish the emoluments of the office, if the public welfare requires it: Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322.

3544. Oath of office. The register of deeds shall take the oath of office on the first Monday of December next after his election, before the board of county commissioners.

Rev., s. 2652; Code, s. 3647; 1868, c. 35, s. 2; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5.

For form of oath see section 3199.

3545. Bond required. Every register of deeds shall give bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by the board of county commissioners, in a sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars, payable to the state, and conditioned for the safe keeping of the books and records, and for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and shall renew his bond annually on the first Monday in December.

Rev., s. 301; Code, s. 3648; 1868, c. 35, s. 3; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5; 1899, c. 54, s. 52.

Bond in Dare county. $3,000. 1907, c. 75.

THE BOND. Proper construction of condition in bond; see Kivett v. Young, 106-567, and cases there cited; also, Cole v. Patterson, 97-365; Joyner v. Roberts, 112-111. Failing to give bond, office vacated: Cole v. Patterson, 97-360.
3546. Vacancy in office. When a vacancy occurs from any cause in the office of register of deeds, the board of county commissioners shall fill such vacancy by the appointment of a successor for the unexpired term, who shall qualify and give bond as required by law.

Rev., s. 2651; Code, s. 3649; 1868, c. 35, s. 4.

See, also, section 1297.

3547. Deputies may be appointed. The registers of deeds of the several counties in this state are hereby authorized and empowered to appoint deputies, whose acts as such shall be valid and for which the registers of deeds shall officially be responsible. They shall file the certificate of the appointment of the deputy in the office of the clerk of the superior court, who shall record the same.

1909, c. 628, s. 1.

For special acts for the appointment of deputies in certain counties, see Dare, 1907, c. 393; Durham, 1909, c. 91; Person, 1909, c. 546.

3548. Office at courthouse. The register shall keep his office at the courthouse unless the board of county commissioners shall deem it impracticable.

Rev., s. 2653; Code, s. 3650; 1868, c. 35, s. 5.

3549. Attendance at office. The board of county commissioners may fix by order, to be entered on their records, what days of each week, and at what hours of each day, the register of deeds shall attend at his office in person or by deputy, and he shall give his attendance accordingly.

Rev., s. 2654; Code, s. 3651; 1868, c. 35, s. 6.

Register of deeds should permit all persons to inspect the records committed to his custody, but he is not required, without the payment of proper fees, to allow any one to make copies or abstracts therefrom: Newton v. Fisher, 98-20.

3550. Official seal. The office of register of deeds for every county in the state shall have and use an official seal, which seal shall be provided by the county commissioners of the several counties, and shall be of the same size and design as the seals now used by the clerk of the superior court, with the words "Office of Register of Deeds," the name of the county and the letters "North Carolina" surrounding the figures.

Rev., s. 2649; 1893, c. 119, s. 1.

ART. 2. THE DUTIES

3551. Apply to clerk for instruments for registration. The register of deeds shall at least once a week apply to the clerk of the superior court of his county for all instruments of writing admitted to probate, and then remaining in the office of such clerk for registration, and also for all fees for registration due thereon; which fees the clerk of the superior court shall receive for the register.

Rev., s. 2655; Code, s. 3652; 1868, c. 35, s. 7.
3552. Failure of clerk to deliver papers. In case the clerk fails to deliver such instruments of writing, and pay over such fees as are prescribed in the preceding section, on application of the register, the clerk shall forfeit and pay to the register one hundred dollars for every such failure; for which sum judgment may be entered at any time by the judge of the superior court, on motion in behalf of the register, on a notice of ten days thereof to the clerk.

Rev., s. 2656; Code, s. 3653; 1868, c. 35, s. 8.

3553. Registration of instruments. The register of deeds shall register all instruments in writing delivered to him for registration within twenty days after such delivery, except mortgages and deeds in trust, or other instruments made to secure the payment of money, which he shall register forthwith after delivery to him. He shall indorse on each deed in trust and mortgage the day on which it is presented to him for registration, and such indorsement shall be entered on his books and form a part of the registration, and he shall register such deeds in trust and mortgages in the order of time in which they are presented to him.

As to registration of deeds, contracts to convey, and leases of land, see sections 3308, 3309—of mortgages and deeds of trust, see section 3311—of conditional sales of personal property, see section 3312—of conditional sales of railroad property, see section 3313—of marriage settlements and other marriage contracts, see section 3314—of deeds of gift, see section 3315—of powers of attorney, see section 3317—of certified copies of any deed or writing which is required or allowed to be registered, see section 3319. For registration of deeds as notice to the world, see annotations under section 3309.

The reason for the enactment of this section was the insufficiency of the old law: Moore v. Ragland, 74-348.

A deed may be registered at any time after probate and order made for registration: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13—there being no limitation as to time: Hallyburton v. Slagle, 130-484; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

Registration hereunder means a registration complete and perfect, so that it may serve all the purposes of the law in protecting the rights of parties directly interested and give notice truly to the public: Kivett v. Young, 106-570. A register of deeds has the power and it is his duty to correct any error he may have made in the registration of a deed, either by inserting any omitted matter or by a reregistration of the entire instrument: Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13; Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205.

The filing of a deed for registration has the effect of registration: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47; Davis v. Whitaker, 114-280; Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-428, and cases cited on page 429. See below as to indexing. A paper is filed for registration when it is delivered to the register and received by him for that purpose: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668—but a delivery to the register outside of his office is not sufficient until he returns and makes proper entry in his office, McHan v. Dorsey, 173-694. Register need not mark deed filed for registration until his fees are paid: Cunningham v. Peterson, 109-33—and where he holds instrument until such fees are paid and on the day they are paid marks it filed as of the day it was first handed to him, it only operates as notice from the day the fees were paid and the endorsement actually made, Ibid. Such endorsement is not essential to registration, and when made is not conclusive but only prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited: Ibid.

Where register received a deed of trust and, without noting the time of filing thereon, forthwith began registering same, and two hours afterward an execution was levied upon the property conveyed: Held, that the time of filing could be proved by parol, and it had priority over the levy: Metts v. Bright, 20-311.

Where deed was delivered to register at 10 o'clock a. m., December 20, 1866, and was actually registered January 28, 1867, and the summons for the garnishee was left at his residence at 8 o'clock a. m., December 20, 1866, but not actually received by him until the evening of that day: Held, that the lien under the deed had priority: Parker v. Scott, 64-118.
Indexing and cross-indexing are essential to the registration of a deed: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Ely v. Norman, 175-294, overruling Davis v. Whitaker, 114-280, that filing for registration is sufficient. Register is liable for failure to index and cross-index an instrument: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609.

Errors in registration held not to invalidate. Registration in which names of the parties were wrongly recorded in premises and in description of property, but otherwise regular, was held good: Royster v. Lane, 118-156. A registry is not void because of clerical mistake made in transcribing, which does not affect the sense and the provision as to amount secured, description of property, etc., or obscure the meaning of the instrument: Ibid.

Where, in the registration, no signatures to the instrument were copied by the register, but names of the parties appeared in the body of the instrument and in the acknowledgment as copied, registration is valid: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-47.

Where register failed to copy the seal attached to the signature to the instrument it does not invalidate the registry, if the fact that a seal was affixed appears in the body thereof: Broadwell v. Morgan, 142-475; Heath v. Cotton Mills, 115-202; Power Co. v. Power Co., 168-219; Edwards v. Supply Co., 150-173.

3554. Certify and register copies. When a deed, mortgage, or other conveyance conveying real estate situate in two or more counties is presented for registration duly probated and a copy thereof is presented with the same, the register shall compare the copy with the original, and if it be a true copy thereof he shall certify the same, and thereupon the register shall endorse the original deed or conveyance as duly registered in his county, designating the book in which the same is registered, and deliver the original deed to the party entitled thereto and register the same from the certified copy thereof to be retained by him for that purpose.

3555. Liability for failure to register. In case of his failure to register any deed or other instrument within the time and in the manner required by the preceding section, the register shall be liable, in an action on his official bond, to the party injured by such delay.

Rev., s. 2659; Code, s. 3660; 1868, c. 35, s. 10.

For bond and liabilities thereon, see section 3545. The registration of a deed is presumed to be correct: Cochran v. Improvement Co., 127-386. Liability for wrongly recording amount in a mortgage: Kivett v. Young, 106-567.

Under section 461, an action for a penalty against a register of deeds and the surety on his official bond abates by the death of the officer: Wallace v. McPherson, 139-297.

3556. Papers filed alphabetically. The register shall keep in files alphabetically labeled all original instruments delivered to him for registration, and on application for such originals by any person entitled to their custody, he shall deliver the same.

Rev., s. 2660; Code, s. 3661; 1868, c. 35, s. 11.

3557. Transcribe and index books. The board of county commissioners, when they deem it necessary, may direct the register of deeds to transcribe and index such of the books in the register's office as from decay or other cause may require to be transcribed and indexed. They may allow him such compensation at the expense of the county for this work as they think just. The books when so transcribed and approved by the board shall be public records as the original books, and copies therefrom may be certified accordingly.

Rev., s. 2661; Code, s. 3662; 1868, c. 35, s. 12.
3558. Number of survey in grants registered. The register of deeds in each county in this state, when grants have been registered without the number of tract or survey, shall place in the registration of the grants the number of the tract or survey, when the same shall be furnished him by the grantee or other person; and in registering any grant he shall register the number of the tract or survey.

Rev., s. 2662; 1889, c. 522, s. 2.
For requirement to register surveys, see State Lands, s. 7570.

3559. Certificate of survey registered. It shall be the duty of the register of deeds in each county, when any grant is presented for registration with a certificate of survey attached, to register such certificate of survey, together with all indorsements thereon, together with said grant, and a record of any certificate of survey so made shall be read in evidence in any action or proceeding: Provided, the failure to register such certificate of survey shall not invalidate the registration of the grant.

Rev., s. 2663; 1905, c. 243.

3560. General index kept. The board of county commissioners, at the expense of the county, shall cause to be made and consolidated into one book a general index of all the deeds and other documents in the register's office, and the register shall afterwards keep up such index without any additional compensation.

Rev., s. 2664; Code, s. 3663; 1868, c. 35, s. 13.

3561. Index and cross-index of registered instruments. The register of deeds shall provide and keep in his office full and complete alphabetical indexes of the names of the parties to all liens, grants, deeds, mortgages, bonds and other instruments of writing required or authorized to be registered; such indexes to be kept in well-bound books, and shall state in full the names of all the parties, whether grantors, grantees, vendors, vendees, obligors or obligees, and shall be indexed and cross-indexed, within twenty-four hours after registering any instrument, so as to show the name of each party under the appropriate letter of the alphabet; and reference shall be made, opposite each name, to the page, title or number of the book in which is registered any instrument. A violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2665, 3600; Code, s. 3664; 1890, c. 501; 1876-7, c. 93, s. 1.

The register is liable on his bond for failure to index and cross-index an instrument: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609; Daniel v. Grizzard, 117-105—but such failure must be the proximate cause of loss to the claimant: Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609.

Section construed in Davis v. Whitaker, 114-280, which has been overruled in Ely v. Norman, 175-294; Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Mfg. Co. v. Hester, 177-609. Surveys to be indexed, see section 7570.

3562. Clerk to board of commissioners. The register of deeds is ex officio clerk of the board of county commissioners, and as such shall perform the duties imposed by law or by order of the said board.

Rev., s. 2666; Code, s. 3656; 1868, c. 35, s. 15; Const., Art. VII, s. 2.

For duty in regard to official reports, see section 957. For general duty as clerk of board, see sections 1309-1311.

This is not a separate office, but a part of the duties of the register: State v. George, 157-602. See sections 7930-7932.
3563. Notices to certain officers served by mail. The register of deeds shall serve by mail all notices issued by the board of county commissioners to justices of the peace, road overseers and school committeemen, in lieu of the service by the sheriff, and shall receive as his compensation his actual expenses for mailing, and nothing more.

Rev., s. 2667; Code, s. 3657; 1879, c. 328, ss. 1, 3.

3564. Make out tax lists. The register shall make out the tax lists as directed by law, under the supervision of the board of county commissioners.

Rev., s. 2668; Code, s. 3658; 1868, c. 35, s. 16.

See sections 7930-7932.

3565. Keep list of statutes authorizing special tax. The register of deeds in each county, or the auditor in those counties having county auditors, must keep on file and subject to inspection by the public a list of the statutes authorizing a special tax levy in their respective counties, showing the year in which such special tax levy was authorized by the general assembly of North Carolina and the chapter of the public laws containing the authority for such special levy. Upon payment of a fee of one dollar the register of deeds or county auditor shall furnish to any one making application therefor a certified copy of said list of statutes.

3566. Duties unperformed at expiration of term. Whenever, upon the termination for any cause of the term of office of the register of deeds, it appears that he has failed to perform any of the duties of his office, the board of commissioners shall cause the same to be performed by another person or the successor of any such defaulting register. Such person or successor shall receive for his compensation the fees allowed for such services, and if any portion of the compensation has been paid to such defaulting register, the same may be recovered by the board of county commissioners, by suit on his official bond, for the benefit of the county or person injured thereby.

Rev., s. 3599; Code, s. 3659; 1868, c. 35, s. 18.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES

3568. Trustees may be appointed and removed. The conference, synod, convention or other ecclesiastical body representing any church or religious denomination within the state, as also the religious societies and congregations within the state, may from time to time and at any time appoint in such manner as such body, society or congregation may deem proper, a suitable number of persons as trustees for such church, denomination, religious society, or congregation. The body appointing may remove such trustees or any of them, and fill all vacancies caused by death or otherwise.

Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 2; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76.

The provisions of this chapter apply only to church property and not to property held in trust for a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of colored race": Thornton v. Harris, 140-498—does not apply to educational institutions, only to religious societies, Allen v. Baskerville, 123-126. There is no provision in our laws for donations to be employed in any general system of diffusing knowledge of Christianity throughout the earth: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26.

A religious society may appoint trustees and remove them at will, or appoint additional trustees: Conference v. Allen, 156-524; Nash v. Sutton, 117-231.

An individual member or a duly appointed trustee of a religious society may maintain an action for removal of faithless trustees who have deprived society of property held by them in trust: Nash v. Sutton, 117-231. Judgment may be so framed as to appoint plaintiff trustee instead of trustees so removed, and to direct conveyance of legal title of property to him to be held in trust for use and benefit of society and to convey it as such society may direct: Ibid. It is a misjoinder for a trustee of religious society in a special proceeding to demand judgment that certain other trustees should be removed, and that a lost deed should be set up and a trust therein declared: Ibid.

CONTESTS BETWEEN RIVAL BOARDS AND CONGREGATIONS. The place of meeting for worship and for transaction of business is not material, when congregation is not required by its laws to meet in any particular house or place, except that members thereof shall reside, and meetings thereof shall be held, in the city of Raleigh: Perry v. Tupper, 74-722.

In a contest between two committees, each claiming to be the rightful board of trustees, to hold same title in trust for same beneficial owner, title does not come in controversy: Thornton v. Harris, 140-498.

What amounts to voluntary withdrawal of members from religious association is question of law: Perry v. Tupper, 74-722.

Contests between churches of somewhat similar names over question of ownership of devise or conveyance: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612; Tilley v. Ellis, 119-233; Simmons v. Allison, 118-763.

Devise to a diocese, which was divided, is also divided: Diocese v. Diocese, 102-442.

3569. Trustees may hold property. The trustees and their successors have power to receive donations, and to purchase, take and hold property, real and personal, in trust for such church or denomination, religious society or congregation; and they may sue or be sued in all proper actions, for or on account of the donations and property so held or claimed by them, and for and on account of any matters relating thereto. They shall be accountable to the churches, denominations, societies and congregations for the use and management of such property, and shall surrender it to any person authorized to demand it.

Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 3; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76.

The trustees appointed by a religious society are only agents, and have no property interest as against the society: Conference v. Allen, 156-524—they represent a quasi-corporation and are accountable to congregation for use and management of church property: Lord v. Hardie, 82-241.

A congregation taking possession of church cannot contest validity of mortgage given by trustees for purchase money on ground that it was ultra vires: Rountree v. Blount, 129-25.

Pastor of church recovered judgment against trustees of said church for salary, and execution was levied upon communion service: Held, it was not liable to seizure and sale under execution: Lord v. Hardie, 82-241.

Building committee of church not liable individually for injury to one engaged in building it: Wilson v. Clark, 110-364.

Trustees are liable for goods ordered by one of their number and used by them in building church, even though order was not authorized: Tull v. Trustees, 75-424.

ACTIONS BY TRUSTEES OR BY MEMBERS. Where testator provides for building a fence around a certain chapel cemetery, the trustees of the chapel are the proper parties to require of executor performance of provision to build such fence: Cabe v. Banhook, 127-424.

Title is vested in trustees individually, and they may recover at law, though in writ and declaration they style themselves "trustees": Walker v. Fawcett, 29-44.

It is only when suit is brought by persons who claim as "successors" that question arises whether original bargainees were duly chosen trustees of a religious congregation, and whether persons suing were also duly chosen trustees, so as to give them legally the character of "successors" to former, and thereby vest in them title to property, which is necessary to support an action: Ibid.

Where conveyance is made to A, B, and C, for a certain tract of land, as trustees for the Methodist Episcopal Church, they may bring trespass against wrongdoers, though they may not have been appointed trustees according to law: Ibid.

In absence of trustees and a governing body authorized to appoint, any member of a religious society has such a beneficial interest as will enable him, in behalf of fellow members, to maintain such action as may be necessary to protect their common interest: Nash v. Sutton, 109-550.

Trustees of a religious society cannot recover, in action for alleged nuisance near premises used as place of worship and residence of pastor, for any physical suffering by pastor or members of congregation: Taylor v. R. R., 145-400.

For construction of trusts, see section 3570.

3570. Title to lands vested in trustees, or in societies. All glebes, lands and tenements, heretofore purchased, given, or devised for the support of any particular ministry, or mode of worship, and all churches and other houses built for the purpose of public worship, and all lands and donations of any kind of property or estate that have been or may be given, granted or devised to any church or religious denomination, religious society or congregation within the state for their respective use, shall be and remain forever to the use and occupancy of that church or denomination, society or congregation for which the glebes, lands, tenements, property and estate were so purchased, given, granted or devised, or for which such churches, chapels or other houses of public worship were built; and the estate therein shall be deemed and held to be absolutely vested, as between the parties thereto, in the trustees respectively of such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, for their several use, according to the intent expressed in the conveyance, gift, grant or will; and in case there shall be no trustees, then in such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, respectively, according to such intent.

By act of 1796, religious societies or their trustees have not a general capacity of acquisition; they can only take for the use of the society: Trustees v. Dickenson, 12-189. Even if a deed is insufficient to convey title, a religious society may acquire title by adverse possession: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612.

Where a testator bequeathed property in trust for support of minister of associate seceding party, "who shall preach at the seceding congregation meeting-house called Gilead," and a majority of that congregation, being of a different denomination, refused to permit such minister to officiate in their church, a trust resulted, although associate seceding party offered to build another church near one mentioned by testator: McAuley v. Wilson, 16-276.

Recital in a deed conveying land to vestry and wardens of church, that it was made "for purpose of aiding in establishment of home for indigent widows or orphans, or in promotion of any other charitable or religious objects to which property may be appropriated," by grantee, creates no trust, and grantee can convey perfect title: St. James v. Bagley, 138-384. A grantor can impose conditions and make title dependent upon performance; but if he makes no condition, but expresses motive which induces him to execute deed, legal effect of granting words cannot be controlled by language indicating grantor's motive: Ibid. When it is doubtful whether language in a grant operates as declaration of trust, court will examine entire deed, relation of parties, etc., to enable it to gather intention of grantor: Ibid. In order to create a trust it must appear that the words were intended to be imperative; and when the property is given absolutely and without restriction, a trust is not to be lightly imposed upon mere words of recommendation and confidence: Ibid.

A provision in a will that church is to be built from certain funds will not fail because there is not sufficient amount to build church as large as directed: Paine v. Forney, 128-237. A specific trust will not be superimposed upon a title conveyed to a religious congregation, authorizing courts to interfere and control their management and disposition of property, unless this is clear intent of grantor expressed in language which should be construed as imperative: Hayes v. Franklin, 141-599. A bequest for religious charity must, in this state, be to some definite purpose, and to some body or association or persons having a legal existence and with capacity to take; or at least must be to some such body on which the legislature shall, within a reasonable time, confer a capacity to take: Bridges v. Pleasants, 39-26.

Trustees may convey property. The trustees of any religious body may mortgage or sell and convey in fee simple any land owned by such body, when directed to do so by such church, congregation, society or denomination, or its committee, board or body having charge of its finances, and all such conveyances so made or heretofore made, or hereafter to be made, shall be effective to pass the land in fee simple to the purchaser or to the mortgagee for the purposes in such conveyances or mortgage expressed; and they may sell or mortgage its personal property.

Where land was conveyed to officers and members of church for purpose of keeping and maintaining a church for worship, and all privileges and appurtenances thereto belonging, court will not restrain officers of church from leasing small portion of lot for term of years for erecting a store, the rent payable to said officers, on ground that officers are committing a breach of trust and acting contrary to terms of deed: Hayes v. Franklin, 141-599.

A religious society owning land may sell and convey under this section: Gold v. Cozart, 173-612. A devise of land for the purpose of providing a rectory construed to permit a sale to effectuate the purpose; but if not, the court in the exercise of equity powers may order a sale: Church v. Ange, 161-315.

3572. House on vacant land vests title. All houses and edifices erected for public religious worship on vacant lands, or on lands of the state not for other purposes intended or appropriated, together with two acres adjoining the same, shall hereafter be held and kept sacred for divine worship, to and for the use of the society by which the same was originally established.

Rev., s. 2674; Code, s. 3666; R. C., c. 97, s. 2; 1778, c. 132, s. 6.

For disturbing religious meetings, and like offenses, see Crimes, Arts. 24, 32.

Said bonds shall be the same in all respects as those first issued, and shall run for a period of forty-one years from date of issue, and bear interest at a like rate, which interest shall be payable on the first days of January and July of each year. 1917, c. 6, s. 7; 1919, c. 115.

3607. Exemption from taxation. The said bonds and coupons shall be exempt from all state, county, or municipal taxation or assessment, direct or indirect, general or special, whether imposed for purpose of general revenue or otherwise, and the interest thereon shall not be subject to taxation as for income nor shall said bond and coupons be subject to taxation when constituting a part of the surplus or capital stock of any bank, trust company, or other corporation, but when constituting a part of such surplus or capital stock shall be deducted from the total assets in order to ascertain the taxable value of such shares.

3608. County election on question of state aid. When as many as twenty-five per centum of the voters registered at the preceding general election in any county of the state shall sign and present a petition to the board of commissioners of such county, requesting said board to call an election for the purpose of securing state aid for the construction of highways in such county, under the provisions of this article, specifying in such petition the amount to be so borrowed and asking that the special tax necessary to meet the payments herein provided for be levied and collected and used for said purpose, if a majority of the votes cast shall favor such loan, said board shall call an election for that purpose, which shall be held on the second Tuesday in April or the second Tuesday in October of that year. A special registration of voters shall be required before any such election is held. Such registration and election shall be conducted under the provisions of the general election law. When calling said election, the board of commissioners shall specify in such call the amount to be voted upon, accompanied by a statement to the effect that a favorable vote thereon shall carry the power and duty on the part of such board of commissioners to levy and collect the special tax herein required for the purposes herein named, and such election shall be conducted in the same manner, as near as may be, as elections for members of the general assembly. At such election those qualified voters who are in favor of securing state aid for road building shall vote a ballot upon which is written or printed the words "For good roads," and those who oppose such state aid shall vote a ballot upon which is written or printed the words "Against good roads." The result of said election shall be certified by the returning board to the board of county commissioners.

3609. County to give bond to state for amount voted; discharge of bond. If a majority of the votes cast shall be "For good roads," the board of commissioners of such county shall execute a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, in form to be approved by the state treasurer and attorney-general, for the amount so voted, which bond shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and countersigned by the register of deeds, and sealed with the seal of the county, and shall be immediately delivered to the state treasurer. Said bond shall obligate said county to pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest per annum on the amount thus loaned, payable semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year for a period of forty-one years. At the expiration of forty-one years said county bond shall be returned by the state treasurer, and said county shall be discharged from further liability on said bond: Provided, that if upon the maturity of any series of state bonds issued in pursuance of this article the state shall not have sufficient funds to retire the same derived from the difference in interest herein provided, owing to its inability to keep such difference in interest continually invested, or on account of expenses or delay incident to its investment, then and in that event any such deficiency shall be made good by the counties participating in the original proceeds of any such state bonds in proportion to the amount of such proceeds received by any such county.

3610. Interest due from county; special tax; penalties for delinquency. Said interest shall constitute a special state tax, which shall be collected and accounted for under the same penalties as other state taxes, except that the state treasurer shall also be required to collect, in addition to said five per cent to be paid semi-annually, a penalty of one-half of one per cent of the interest due for each day the same shall remain unpaid after the first days of December and June of each year. One-half of such penalty shall be paid by the county and one-half by the sheriff of such delinquent county. If any county which has obtained money from the state under the provisions of this article shall fail or refuse to pay the interest due on such loan or loans for a period of thirty days, the amount due by such county, together with the penalty, shall at once become due and payable, and the state treasurer is authorized to proceed to collect the same from such delinquent county.

3611. County files estimates and accounts with treasurer. At the time of filing said bond with the state treasurer said board of commissioners shall also file an estimate of the amount of money which will be actually needed for the following six months; and semiannually thereafter, on the first days of May and November, they shall file with said treasurer an estimate of the amount needed for the ensuing six months until said loan has been exhausted. Each six months after securing a state loan the board of county commissioners shall publish a sworn statement showing in detail all receipts and expenditures, to whom paid and for what purpose, during the preceding six months, which shall also be filed with the state treasurer.

3612. Adjustment of aggregate of loans to amount of semiannual fund. If the aggregate of the estimates by the several boards of commissioners which vote for state aid under this article shall exceed the sum of four hundred thousand dollars, the state treasurer shall reduce all loans pro rata for the following six months. If such estimates shall not amount to four hundred thousand dollars, then the bonds to be issued and sold for that period shall be reduced accordingly.

3613. Times when loans made; limit of aggregate loans. From the first to the thirtieth days of January and July of each year, and at no other time, the state treasurer shall loan to the several counties which have complied with the provisions of this act the amounts asked for by each: Provided, that interest shall be charged and collected from the first day of the month: Provided further, that the aggregate of such loans shall not exceed four hundred thousand dollars; and each six months thereafter, at the time herein prescribed, for a period of forty-one years and as long thereafter as the amount so loaned is unpaid, said counties shall pay to the state treasurer five per cent interest on the amount so loaned.

3614. Additional loans. Additional loans may be made to counties within the limit prescribed by this article if another election shall have been held therefor as is herein provided, and if a majority of the votes cast shall have been "For good roads."

3615. Second election when first unfavorable. If a majority of the votes cast at any such election shall be "Against good roads," no loan shall be made to that county: Provided, however, that said board of commissioners shall order another election for the same purpose after the lapse of one year upon having presented to it a petition signed by twenty-five per cent of the voters as herein provided.

3616. County “Road Loan Tax”; maintenance tax. There shall be levied by the proper authorities in each county accepting a loan, as provided for in this article, at the same time other taxes are levied, a special annual tax for a period of forty-one years, to be known as the “Road Loan Tax,” which shall be sufficient to pay, and which shall be collected by the sheriff and be used in paying, the semiannual interest on said loan or loans at five per centum per annum. Said tax shall be sufficient to cover the cost of collection and disbursement and the penalty herein provided for, in case such penalty should be incurred, in addition to the five per centum per annum, which shall be paid to the state treasurer by the sheriff of the county semiannually on the first days of December and June of each year. And a vote authorizing the issuance of bonds under this article shall be understood and construed to authorize and empower a levy of said tax. There shall also be annually levied by said board of county commissioners at the times herein specified a separate special tax for the maintenance of the roads built from moneys procured under the provisions of this article, which special tax shall be sufficient, after paying the costs of collection and disbursement, to equal each year, for the first four years after such loan is made, four per centum of the amount so borrowed; each year for the next four years, eight per centum of the amount so borrowed; and thereafter, each year, ten per centum of the amount so borrowed, so long as any of said loan remains due and unpaid to the state. If any board of county commissioners whose duty it is to levy any tax or taxes under the provisions of this article shall fail or refuse to make such levy, or to make such rate of levy as is required by this article, they and each of the members thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined personally and severally not less than two hundred dollars each, nor more than one thousand dollars each, or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, in the discretion of the court.

3617. County loan limited by its indebtedness. No county shall be allowed to borrow money under the provisions of this article to an amount which, added to the other bonded indebtedness, exceeds six per cent of the assessed valuation of the property of the county.

3618. Article available to townships and road districts; conditions. Townships, and road districts created by special act of the general assembly, may avail themselves of the benefits of this article upon compliance with the requirements herein set out: Provided, that the bond or undertaking filed with the state treasurer shall be executed by the board or boards of county commissioners of the county or counties in which such township or road district is situated. Such bond or undertaking shall specify that it is given on behalf of such township or road district only. It shall not be a liability in any wise against the county; and the special taxes shall be levied and collected out of the township or road district named, and not out of the county. It shall be the duty of such commissioners to levy, and the duty of the sheriff to collect, such special taxes and make payment thereof in the manner and under the penalty set out in this article.
1917, c. 6, s. 20; 1919, c. 115.

This section, as originally written, was held to be unconstitutional in that it required bonds of the county to be issued for road expense in the township: Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174:141—so where township bonds were to have the guaranty of the county commissioners, Comrs. v. Boring, 175:105. This was amended as above by act of 1919.

County commissioners may act as agents for townships in issuing bonds: Comrs. v. Boring, 175-105.

Art. 3. Road Improvement With Federal Cooperation

3619. County bonds for road improvement with federal coöperation. The board of county commissioners of every county in this state is hereby authorized, upon the conditions and subject to the limitations and restrictions hereinafter set forth, to issue bonds of the county from time to time for the purpose of paying the county's share of the cost of constructing or improving public roads in the county at the joint expense of the federal government and the county, or at the joint expense of the federal government, the state, and the county, under agreement between the secretary of agriculture of the United States and the state highway commission of North Carolina.
1919, c. 312, s. 1.

Section referred to in Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3620. Annual tax to pay bonds and interest authorized. The board of county commissioners of every county in this state is hereby authorized to levy annually a special tax ad valorem upon all taxable property in the county for the special purpose of paying the principal and interest of all bonds issued by the county under this article, as such principal and interest become due, which tax shall be in an amount sufficient for said purpose and in addition to all other taxes authorized to be levied by said board.
1919, c. 312, s. 2.

3621. Bonds to mature serially within thirty years. Each issue of bonds made by a county under the provisions of this article shall so mature that the aggregate principal amount of the issue shall be payable in annual installments, beginning not more than three years after the date of the bonds of such issue and ending not more than thirty years after such date. No such installment shall be more than two and one-half times as great in amount as the smallest prior installment of the same bond issue. If all bonds of any one issue are not delivered simultaneously, the bonds of such issue outstanding at any one time shall mature as aforesaid.
1919, c. 312, s. 3.

3622. Form of bonds and coupons; interest limit; delivery. Said bonds shall be issued in such form and denominations, and with such provisions as to time, place, and medium of payment of principal and interest, as the board of county commissioners of the county issuing the bonds may determine, subject to the limitations and restrictions of this article. The bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually. They may be either coupon bonds or registered bonds; and, if issued in coupon form, may be made registerable as to principal or as to both principal and interest. They shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners of the county issuing them, and the county seal shall be affixed to the bonds and attested by the clerk of said board; and the coupons of such bonds shall bear the printed, or lithographed, or engraved facsimile signature of the chairman of said board of county commissioners who is in office at the date of the bonds. The delivery of bonds signed as aforesaid by officers in office at the time of such signing shall be valid notwithstanding any changes in officers occurring after such signing. 1919, c. 312, s. 4.

3623. Sale of bonds. Said bonds shall be sold in the manner provided in the Municipal Finance Act for the sale of bonds of cities and towns. They shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest. 1919, c. 312, s. 5.

The Municipal Finance Act is subchapter III of Municipal Corporations.

3624. Proceeds of sale a separate fund. The proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be placed in a separate fund and used only for the purposes for which the bonds were issued. 1919, c. 312, s. 6.

3625. Highway commission certifies county’s share of cost for bonds. Whenever a board of county commissioners proposes to issue any bonds under this article said board shall obtain from the state highway commission of North Carolina a certificate stating the amount of the county’s share of the cost of the road improvements for which the bonds are to be issued, as such share is estimated by said commission, and no bonds shall be issued under this article in an amount exceeding such share as estimated by said commission. For the purposes of this article, the cost of acquiring rights of way for roads for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued and the amount of any incidental damages to adjoining property, due to construction work, shall be treated as a part of the county’s share of the cost of constructing the roads and may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of such bonds. 1919, c. 312, s. 7.

3626. “Road” includes bridges and culverts. The term “road,” as used in this article, shall include bridges and culverts in all cases where bridges and culverts are to be constructed or improved as a part of a road for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued and the federal government is to bear a part of the expense of constructing or improving such bridges or culverts. 1919, c. 312, s. 7.

3627. Temporary notes of county in anticipation of bonds. Whenever a board of county commissioners shall have obtained from the state highway commission a certificate showing the amount of bonds which may be issued by the county as provided in this article, it shall be lawful for the board of county commissioners to issue notes of the county in anticipation of the issuance of bonds under this article. Such notes may run for periods of not exceeding one year, and may be renewed from time to time by the issuance of new notes: Provided, however, that no such notes shall continue to be issued more than two years after the date of the highway commission’s certificate upon which they are predicated. The board of county commissioners may, if it deems it advisable, retire such notes or any of them by means of taxation or any available funds of the county, and the board of county commissioners is hereby authorized to levy in any year a special tax ad valorem on all taxable property in the county, for the special purpose of paying such notes. In case any such notes are retired by any means other than the issuance of bonds under this article, the amount of bonds which may be issued shall be reduced by the amount of notes so retired.

3628. Special county tax for maintaining federal-aided roads. The board of county commissioners of every county is hereby authorized to levy annually a special tax ad valorem upon all taxable property of the county for the special purpose of maintaining any public road constructed or improved with the aid of the federal government under an agreement between the secretary of agriculture of the United States and the state highway commission of North Carolina, which tax may be in an amount sufficient for said purpose and in addition to all other taxes authorized to be levied by such board of county commissioners.

3629. Proceeds of other county road bonds made available. The board of county commissioners of every county is hereby authorized to use, for the same purposes for which bonds are hereby authorized to be issued, the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of the county issued for road purposes under any act other than this article, and also any other funds of the county which may lawfully be used for constructing or improving public roads of the county.

3630. Road authorities of county may contract with highway commission. The board or body in any county having charge and control of the county roads in the county (whether such board or body be the board of county commissioners or a road commission or other separate body) may enter into agreements with the state highway commission of North Carolina to cause the county to issue bonds or levy taxes under this article. If such an agreement is made by a board or body other than the board of county commissioners, the board of county commissioners may carry out the provisions of the agreement.

3631. Provision for use of bonds of townships, etc. The board or body having charge and control of the public roads of any county is hereby authorized, by agreement with the state highway commission of North Carolina, to use the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of any road district or township in the county, issued for road purposes, for the same purposes for which county bonds are hereby authorized to be issued: Provided, the road commissioners or other authorities issuing such road district or township bonds join in or consent to such an agreement, which they are hereby authorized to do; and Provided, the road to be constructed or improved by means of said moneys is situated within such road district or township.

3632. Construction of article and powers granted. The powers granted by this article are granted in addition to and not in substitution for existing powers of counties, and are not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other law: Provided, however, that this article shall be construed as a supplement to any other act passed at the present session of the general assembly providing a plan for meeting any offer on the part of the federal government to provide funds for the construction or improvement of roads in this state, and all provisions of any such other act relating to the expenditure of moneys for road purposes shall apply to the expenditure of moneys raised under the provisions of this article or authorized by it to be used for the purposes herein stated. This section shall not be construed as authorizing the issuance of the road district or township bonds herein referred to, nor shall section 3631 of this article be construed as authorizing the issuance of any bonds other than bonds of a county, payable by general tax upon the county at large. This section deals only with the application of the proceeds of the sale of road district and township bonds, the issuance of which is authorized by some other law.

3633. In certain counties article applicable only if adopted at special election. In the counties of Alexander, Anson, Ashe, Avery, Bladen, Catawba, Cherokee, Clay, Cumberland, Franklin, Gates, Graham, Halifax, Haywood, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Macon, Mitchell, Orange, Pitt, Polk, Rowan, Rutherford, Stanly, Surry, Swain, Transylvania, Tyrrell, Warren, and Washington the provisions of this article, in so far as they authorize the issuance of county bonds or notes, or the levying of a special tax for paying county bonds or notes, or the levying of a special tax for maintaining roads, shall not be in force unless and until the question of adopting the provisions of this article shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the county at an election, and a majority of the qualified voters of the county voting on said question shall vote in favor of adopting the provisions of this article.

The board of county commissioners of any of said counties may cause a special election to be held for said purpose at such time as may be designated by said board. Said board shall cause a notice of said election to be posted at the courthouse door of the county at least thirty days before the election, and to be published once in each of the four successive weeks immediately preceding the election. The board of county commissioners shall name the registrars and judges of election for the voting precincts of the county for said election, and shall cause to be printed a sufficient number of ballots for use at the election. At said election the voters who are in favor of the adoption of the provisions of this act shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed, "For the adoption of the Federal Aid Act"; and the voters who are opposed to the adoption of the provisions of this act shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words, "Against the adoption of the Federal Aid Act." At the close of the election the votes shall be counted and returns thereof made to the board of county commissioners, for which purpose said board shall cause blank abstracts to be printed and furnished to the registrars and judges of election.

On the first Thursday following the election said board of county commissioners shall meet as a canvassing board, shall receive the returns of said election, shall judicially pass upon the returns, and shall judicially determine and declare the result of said election, all of which shall be recorded in the records of said board. The returns shall be executed in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the board of county commissioners as aforesaid, and the other filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county. In all respects other than those herein mentioned said special election shall be held and conducted and the qualifications of voters at said election determined, as nearly as may be practicable, in accordance with the general law relating to the holding and conducting of elections for members of the general assembly and the determination of the qualifications of voters at such elections. The expense of holding said special election shall be paid out of the general funds of the county.

The board of county commissioners shall cause a notice containing a brief statement of the result of said election as determined by the board to be published at least once in a newspaper published in the county. No right of action or defense founded upon any invalidity of said election shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of said election be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within thirty days after the first publication of said notice: Provided, however, that a copy of this sentence shall be incorporated in said notice. The board of county commissioners may, in its discretion, order a new registration for said special election, but such new registration shall not be necessary unless ordered by the board. Upon the determination, made as aforesaid, by the board of county commissioners, that a majority of the qualified voters voting upon said question voted in favor of adopting the provisions of this article, then all of the provisions of this article shall be in force in the county so adopting them.

Sections 3629, 3631, and 3632 of this article shall be operative in all counties of this state from and after the 11th day of March, 1919.

1919, c. 312, s. 13a.

Art. 4. General Road Improvement; Road Commissions; Bonds and Taxes

Part 1. Bond Issues, Special Taxes and Funds

3634. County issue of road bonds; petition and election; approved by state commission; bond limit. Bonds may and shall be issued by the board of county commissioners of any county for the purpose of laying out and opening, altering, or improving the public roads and bridges of county under the conditions and provisions hereinafter provided. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of the county petitioning for an election for a bond issue, shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for such purpose. The petition must include the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue and the approximate number of miles of road that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued will be sufficient to construct or reconstruct, alter or improve approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved, reconstructed, or altered, as set out in the petition.

1917, c. 284, s. 1; 1919, c. 12, s. 1; 1919, c. 68.

The act of 1917, c. 284 (included in this article), is prospective in its nature and does not modify or repeal local acts: Rankin v. Gaston County, 173-683.

The bond issue provided for, being for a necessary expense, does not require the popular vote except when specially provided for, and the vote on bond issue is sufficient to authorize the levy of a tax: Parvin v. Comrs., 177-508.

This section does not violate the constitution, article 2, section 29, since it is a general law for the establishment of roads, etc., for the whole county: Ibid. See, also, Brown v. Comrs., 173-598; Mills v. Comrs., 175-215; Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3635. Powers vested in road commission. Whenever it is stated in the petition to the board of county commissioners praying for a bond issue for road work, as is authorized in the preceding section, that the bonds thus authorized shall be issued and sold by the county road commission hereinafter created by this article, or the existing road commission of the county in which the petition for road bonds is made, then the said county road commission or other road commission or board having charge of the road work in said county is hereby vested with all the power, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners of said county for issuing and selling the road bonds, as authorized in the petition, and said county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work in the county shall proceed to issue and sell bonds called for in the petition as hereinafter provided.

3636. Apportionment by townships of funds from bond sale. Whenever it is stated in the petition to the board of county commissioners praying for a bond issue for road work that the funds derived from the sale of such bonds shall be expended by the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work of said county in the various townships composing the county, in proportion to the assessed tax valuation of each township, then whenever bonds are issued by the board of county commissioners or county road commission, as provided, the county road commission shall apportion the funds arising from the sale of said bonds and use same in the several townships of the county issuing said bonds, as nearly as may be in proportion to the assessed tax valuation of said township, the intention being that each township shall receive and have expended on roads within its borders, or on roads built for its benefit, a fair and equitable proportion of the money arising from the bond issue authorized by this article. The purchasers of said bonds shall not be required to see to the application of such funds.

3637. Special road tax; petition and election; tax limit; approval of state commission. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of one hundred freeholders of said county petitioning the board of county commissioners to levy a special road tax for carrying on the road work of said county, shall make an order requiring an election to be held at the time of election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question whether the board of county commissioners shall levy a tax for such purpose. The petition for such election must state the maximum rate for which such special road tax is to be levied, which rate shall not exceed fifty cents on the hundred dollars worth of property according to the last tax list and one dollar and fifty cents on the poll, observing at all times the constitutional equation. Provided, the petition also states approximately the number of miles of road to be improved by such special road tax and the length of time for which such special road tax shall be levied. The board of county commissioners, before calling such election, must be notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of money to be raised annually by the special road tax proposed will be sufficient to maintain and operate with economy a construction force suitable for the work proposed or will be sufficient to secure for the county reasonable contract prices for the work to be done, and that within the time named and for the amount thus to be raised the approximate number of miles of road can be built that is named in the petition.

This tax is for a special purpose, and the special approval of the legislature is found in this general statute: Parvin v. Comrs., 177-508, distinguishing R. R. v. Cherokee County, 177-86. The constitutional limitation of taxation may be exceeded for the special purpose designated: Ibid.; Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26.

3638. When bond issues by townships authorized. At the end of three months after the seventh of March, nineteen hundred and seventeen, in any county that has not taken advantage of the provisions of this article and issued bonds as provided in section 3634 of this chapter, or levied a special tax as provided in the preceding section, then any township may proceed to take advantage of the provisions hereinafter set forth.

3639. Petition from township; election; approval of commission; bond limit. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of twenty-five freeholders of said township of said county for a bond issue for the construction or reconstruction of the public roads and bridges of said township, shall make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the township on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for such township for the purpose stated in the petition. The petition must state the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue and the approximate number of miles of road that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued will be sufficient to construct or reconstruct, alter or improve, approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be constructed, reconstructed, or altered as set out in the petition.

The county commissioners may act as agents of the townships in issuing bonds: Comrs. v. Boring, 175-105; Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.
3640. Special road tax for townships; tax limit; approval of commission. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the petition of twenty-five freeholders of any township of any county petitioning the board of county commissioners to levy a special road tax for carrying on the road work of the township, shall make an order requiring an election to be held at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the township on the question whether the board of county commissioners shall levy a tax for such purposes. The petition for such election must state the maximum rate for which such special road tax is to be levied, which rate shall not exceed fifty cents on the one hundred dollars worth of property, according to the last tax list, and one dollar and fifty cents on the poll, observing at all times the constitutional equation. The petition must also state approximately the number of miles of road to be improved by said special road tax and the length of time for which such special road tax shall be levied. The board of county commissioners, before calling such election, must be notified by the state highway commission, in writing, that the amount of money to be raised annually by the special road tax proposed will be sufficient to maintain and operate with economy a construction force suitable for the work proposed, or will be sufficient to secure for the county reasonable contract prices for the work to be done, and that within the time named, and for the amount thus to be raised, the approximate number of miles of road can be built that is named in this petition.

3641. Bond issues in counties having township bond issues. The board of county commissioners of any county in which township bonds have been issued and sold for the construction of roads shall, upon petition of one hundred freeholders of said county petitioning for an election for a bond issue for road construction, make an order providing for holding an election at the next election of county officers or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters of the county on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of such county shall issue bonds for the purpose of providing funds for taking over the township bonds already issued for road purposes and of providing an additional amount with which to construct additional roads in such county. Such petition must state the amount of bonds which it is proposed to issue in excess of the amount required to cover the township bond issue, and also the approximate number of miles that it is proposed to improve by such bond issue. No election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued for road construction work will be sufficient to construct, reconstruct, or alter approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved by said bond issue. The maximum amount of bonds issued under this article in such county, together with all the bonds previously issued and remaining unpaid by such county, shall in no case exceed an amount equal to ten per cent of the total assessed valuation of the county. The township in which the bonds have been issued and which are taken over by the county shall not be subject to any additional tax on account of the county bonds issued to refund or buy in said township bonds, but shall be liable for its pro rata portion of the county bonds.

3642. Bonds and taxes by road districts. Whenever there has been established in any county or counties of this state a road district, composed of one or more townships in one or more counties, or parts of one or more townships in one or more counties, such road district is herewith granted the same rights and privileges in regard to the issuing of bonds or levying of special road tax as is given to townships under the provisions of this article.

In the event that the majority of votes cast shall be for the creation of a county road commission at any election herein provided for, after the result has been declared and recorded as herein provided for there shall be and there is herewith created in said county a county road commission as provided hereinafter.

3644. Qualified voters defined; law governing elections; registration; ballots; returns. The qualified voters at any special election held under the provisions of this article, until otherwise provided by general law, shall be those qualified to vote at the preceding regular November election and those who may have become of age and qualified since the preceding regular November election, except those who by commission of crimes or by removal from the district or county or for other legal causes have disqualified themselves to vote. Any election held under the provisions of this article shall be conducted in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by law for holding elections for the members of the general assembly, except as herein provided. The said board of county commissioners shall appoint the registrars of election, the judges or inspectors, and any other election officers, and registration and challenge of voters shall be conducted in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly; and said county commissioners may or may not order a new registration for any or all of said elections.

the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For special road tax" or "Against special road tax," and all electors who favor the levying of said special road tax shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For special road tax" and those opposed to levying the special road tax shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against special road tax"; and at any special election held under the provisions of this article, providing for the creation of a county road commission, the ballots tendered and cast by the voters shall have written or printed upon them "For county road commission" or "Against county road commission"; and all electors who favor the creating of a county road commission shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "For county road commission," and those opposed to creating a county road commission shall vote a ballot written or printed thereon "Against county road commission."

The vote shall be counted at the close of the polls and returned to the board of county commissioners or clerk of the board on the Thursday next following the election, and the board shall tabulate and declare the result of the election not later than its next regular meeting following the return of the vote of the election, all of which shall be recorded in the minutes of the board of county commissioners, and no other recording and declaring of the result of the election shall be necessary. The result of the vote shall be counted, declared, and reported to the board of county commissioners as prescribed by law in the election of the members of the general assembly.

commission of any county which is authorized to issue county, township, or road district bonds under the provisions of this article, shall then proceed with the least possible delay to issue such bonds in such denominations and of such class and for such term as may be deemed best by said board of county commissioners or other said commission. In making sale of the bonds authorized by this article, advertisement of same shall be made in a recognized financial paper of the country, or a newspaper of state-wide circulation, as well as in a local paper, for at least thirty days prior to receiving of bids by the board of county commissioners or county road commission. The advertisement shall state the date, the time and the place for the opening of bids, and the advertisement shall also state that all bids must be accompanied by certified check properly vouched for by a local bank, if any, of the county in which sale is to be consummated and for which bonds are issued; but if there is no bank in said county, then by any solvent bank in a neighboring county, and the amount of said check to be determined by the board of county commissioners or county road commission of the county proposing to issue the bonds. The state highway commission must be notified by the board of county commissioners or county road commission of the date, place, and time of sale of bonds authorized to be sold under this article, in order that the state highway commission, if it so desires, may have a representative present who shall act in an advisory capacity with the board of county commissioners in the sale of the bonds. The noncompliance with the conditions herein required shall not be construed to invalidate the bonds issued which may have passed into the hands of innocent purchasers for value and without notice. No bonds shall be sold for less than their par value.

3649. State or federal aid. If any act shall be passed at this or any subsequent session of the general assembly authorizing the state to loan money to the counties to aid in the building or improving of public roads, taking county bonds as collateral for said loan, or if any provision shall be made for the federal government to loan money to the county for the purpose as stated above, then the board of county commissioners or county road commission is hereby authorized and empowered to avail themselves of the privileges and benefits of any such act. 1917, c. 284, s. 16; 1919, c. 68.

3650. No fees allowed officers. In selling the bonds and in handling the funds derived from the sale of the bonds, and in turning same over to the bank or banks of the county hereinafter authorized to be the depository of such funds, the board of county commissioners, the county road commission, or the treasurer of the county shall not be allowed any fees for handling such funds.

3651. Levy of tax for interest on bonds; misappropriation punished. When any bonds are issued under the provisions of this article, the board of county commissioners shall levy annually the first Monday in May, or at such time as county taxes are levied, a special tax for the county, township, or road district, of such an amount on the one hundred dollars of property and on the poll as will provide a sufficient sum with which to pay the interest due on the bonds issued and pay whatever part of the principal of the bond issue may become due that year, and also to set aside the amount necessary to provide an adequate sinking fund with which to redeem or buy in the bonds. The taxes so levied shall be collected as other taxes and shall be kept as a separate fund, to be applied for the purposes as stated above, and it shall be a misdemeanor for the members of the board of county commissioners to use such fund for any other purpose.

3652. Levy of special road tax. The board of county commissioners of any county which is authorized to levy a special road tax for county, township, or road district road work under the provisions of this article shall, beginning with the first Monday in May after the election authorizing such levy, proceed to levy each year, on the first Monday in May or at such time as county taxes are levied, the special road tax authorized by the election and for the number of years stated in the petition calling for the election.

3653. Emergency fund or bonds provided for; limit. Wherever in any county, township, or road district a condition exists in connection with the location, construction, reconstruction, maintenance, or repair of the roads of said county or township or road district such that in the judgment of the county road commission or any other similar road commission or board having charge of the roads and bridges of the county, township, or road district, the fund available for such condition is insufficient for the work demanded, then, on application of the county road commission or any other similar road commission or board of the county, township, or road district, the board of county commissioners shall appropriate from the general fund of the county, or shall issue short-time notes or bonds in sufficient amount for the work required. The amounts of such fund or bonds issued shall not in any one year exceed one per cent of the taxable valuation, both real and personal, of the county, township, or road district.

3654. Fund for maintenance of roads. Whenever the board of county commissioners or county road commission of any county under the provisions of this article has issued and sold bonds or has levied a special road tax, it shall levy an additional special maintenance tax sufficient to raise an amount equal to not less than one or more than four per cent of the par value of said bonds issued for the road work of the county, township, or road district, or the amount that has been raised by the said special road tax, to be used for the purpose of maintaining the roads built through the expenditure of the funds raised from such bond issue or from such special road tax. The money thus raised shall be deposited by the sheriff to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for in said bank or banks authorized to receive funds under the provisions of this article. This money shall be deposited as a maintenance fund, to be expended only for the maintenance of the roads constructed under the authority of this article.

3655. Depository for road funds. All moneys derived from the sale of bonds authorized and sold under the provisions of this article or from the levy of the special road tax authorized under the provisions of this article shall be deposited by the board of county commissioners in such solvent bank or banks, if any, of said county, or if there is no bank in said county, then in any solvent bank in a neighboring county as will pay the highest rate of interest on daily balances as may be determined by the board of county commissioners; said moneys to be deposited in said bank or banks to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for, and to be drawn upon by said commission as hereinafter directed.

3656. Other funds deposited. Any other moneys, in whatever way collected or appropriated, which are designed to be used for the construction or maintenance of the roads of any county, township, or road district in which bonds for road work within such county, township, or road district have been issued and sold or in which special road tax for road improvement has been levied under the provisions of this article, shall be deposited in the same bank or banks as heretofore provided in which the moneys obtained from the bond issue or special road tax are deposited, and these moneys shall be deposited to the credit of the county road commission hereinafter provided for, and shall be drawn upon by said commission as hereinafter directed.

3657. Monthly statements by depositories. The bank or banks in which the said road moneys designated in this article are deposited shall prepare monthly statements showing the amounts paid, to whom paid, and for what purposes, and submit same to the said county road commission, and the said road commission shall have said monthly statement posted at the courthouse door of such county.

1917, c. 284, s. 24; 1919, c. 68.

Part 2. County Road Commission and Road Management

3658. County road commission. Whenever a bond issue or a levy of a special road tax or the appointment of a county road commission is authorized as hereinbefore provided in this article, there shall be and there is herewith created in such county, except as hereinafter provided, a county road commission to be composed of either three or five members, one of whom shall be at all times a member of the minority political party of the county, and who shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners. Should the board of county commissioners decide to appoint three men, in making the first appointments one member shall be appointed for two years, one for four years, and one for six years. Should the board decide to appoint five men, in making the first appointments one member shall be appointed for two years, two for four years, and two for six years. Thereafter all appointments shall be for six years. Nothing in this law shall be so construed as to prevent the reappointment of a member of this commission at the expiration of his term. Each member of the county road commission shall take and subscribe an oath before the clerk of the court of his county for the faithful performance of his duties as a member of the said commission: Provided, however, that when in any petition authorized by this article it is stated that the board of county commissioners or road commission or board already existing in such county shall have charge of the road work of such county, township, or road district, then the board of county commissioners shall not appoint a new county road commission as set forth in this section, but the said commission or board mentioned in the said petition shall become the county road commission for carrying out the purpose of this article.

Under P. L. 1913, c. 441, it was held that the requirement that members of the commission be of different political parties was directory and did not affect the right to the office: Cole v. Sanders, 174-112. The legislature may create special road commission and confer upon it powers formerly exercised by the county commissioners: Comrs. v. Comrs., 165-632; Hargrave v. Comrs., 168-626.

3659. County commissioners appoint township road commissioners in certain cases. Whenever a bond issue or a levy of a special road tax is authorized or has been authorized, as hereinbefore provided in this article, for any township in any county where one or more townships have heretofore voted bonds for the working of the public roads under special acts or under acts other than this article, and the working of the roads of said township is under the charge of a township commission, and no county road commission is in existence or has been appointed under this article, in such case the county commissioners may appoint a township road commission for such township, to be composed of three members, one of whom shall be at all times a member of the minority political party of the township. Township commissioners so appointed shall be appointed for the same term and in the same manner as is hereinbefore provided for the appointment of the county road commission, and such township commission shall have in said township, and for the purpose of working the roads of said township, all the rights, powers and privileges in this article given, granted and conferred upon the county road commission.

The requirement that members of commission should be of different political parties held to be directory: Cole v. Sanders, 174-112. Legislature may establish special road commission for townships and road districts: Trustees v. Webb, 155-379; Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377.

3660. Extension of jurisdiction of commission. Wherever a township or road district has taken advantage of the provisions of this article, so that a county commission has been created and appointed and has charge of the road work of such township or road district, and there should be in the same county in which such township or road district is located another or other townships which avail themselves of the privileges of this article, there shall be no additional county road commission appointed by the board of county commissioners as provided for herein, but the county road commission already appointed shall have charge of the road work in the additional township or townships or road district or districts of said county that may come under the provisions of this article.

3661. Corporate powers; use of road funds. The county road commission and its successors in office are and they are hereby constituted a body corporate under and by virtue of the laws of North Carolina and by this article, under the name and style of County Road Commission, and shall have all powers and authority granted to corporations of like nature by the laws of North Carolina, and by that name may sue and be sued, make contracts, acquire real and personal property by gift or devise, hold, exchange, and sell the same, and exercise such other rights and privileges as are incident to other municipal corporations of like nature, such as the condemnation of land for the construction, widening or changing of any roads in the county, and such other powers as are necessary to carry out any and all the provisions of this article. The said county road commission shall use the funds derived from the sale of bonds or by levy of special tax, or whatever way derived, as authorized by this article, to locate, construct, reconstruct, surface, repair, improve, and maintain the public highways and bridges in the county, township, or road district under their jurisdiction; shall purchase such materials and purchase and hold, or contract for the use of, such tools, machinery, implements, and teams as they may deem necessary for carrying on the road work of said county or township, and perform such other duties as are hereinafter provided for by this article.

3662. Duties and powers of county road commissions. It shall be the duty of the said county road commission to take charge of laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of any and all roads of said county, or of such roads as may be stated in the petition, authorizing the issuing of bonds or of levying special road tax or the formation of a county road commission, that are now maintained or may be maintained by the county as public roads; and it is hereby vested with all powers, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners and other commissions or boards or other road officials of said county for the general supervision of such roads of said county, and for the construction and repair thereof, by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed best: Provided, that if the bonds issued or the special road tax levied under the provisions of this article applies only to a township or road district, then the duties of the county road commission shall only apply to said township or road district.

3663. Organization of road commissions; compensation of commissioners. The county road commission shall biennially from the date of its organization elect a chairman and a secretary, who shall hold office for two years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. All moneys expended by said commission shall be by draft upon the bank or banks which are depositories for the said road fund, and said drafts shall be signed by the secretary and countersigned by the chairman, and shall show upon their face the purpose for which the money is expended. The members of the said county road commission shall receive pay only when acting jointly as a road commission, and such compensation shall be the same as paid to the members of the board of county commissioners of said county.

3664. Vacancies filled. In case of any vacancy caused by death, resignation or otherwise, of any member of the county road commission, such vacancy shall be filled by the board of county commissioners for the unexpired term, as provided above for regular appointments.

3665. Continuation of existing road management. Those counties or townships or road districts, coming under the provisions of this article, which already have a road commission, or other commission or board which has charge of the road work, or in which the board of county commissioners have charge of the road work, and desire to retain such commission or board to have charge of the road work of said county, township, or road district, then such desire shall be stated in the petition praying for a bond election or special road tax; and if the bond election or special road tax is passed, then said board of county commissioners, or other board or commission stated in the petition, shall become the county road commission for all the purposes of this article, and shall be required to perform the duties that the county road commission created by this article is authorized to perform; if, however, no desire is stated in the petition praying for a bond election or special road tax that an existing road commission or board or the board of county commissioners shall retain charge of or have charge of the road work in such county, township, or road district, then in that event the county road commission authorized by this article shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners, and such appointment shall abolish the said county, township, or district road commission or board; but all the rights and authority conferred upon such commission or board herewith abolished are hereby conferred upon the county road commission herein enacted.

3666. Road engineer to keep books and accounts. The county road commission is authorized to employ an expert road engineer at such compensation as may be fixed by said county road commission. The county road engineer, however appointed, may request, at any time, the advice of the state highway engineer in solving any problem that may arise, either technical, economical, or otherwise, that may be deemed by him to be of benefit to the county, and such advice shall be without any expense to the county or township. It shall be the duty of the engineer of the county, township, or road district coming under the provisions of this article to keep or have kept the necessary books and accounts showing in detail the expenditure for all work done through money derived by bonds issued or special road tax levied for road work in such county, township, or road district. The engineer shall keep or have kept in suitable way a cost accounting system showing the unit cost of various items entering into the construction of the roads, showing when and where the various elements of cost entering into the said work were used, giving the name of the road and the nearest station number to culverts, bridges, etc. It shall be his duty to keep approximate yardage costs, and approximate classification of the materials moved in all excavations made for the purpose of building such roads.

3667. Assessments of damages and benefits. In opening new highways, widening and straightening old roads and repairing same, the county road commission created by this article, or any other road commission or board, or the board of county commissioners, having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, is hereby authorized through its agents to enter upon any land and locate and build such highways. If the said commission or board and the owner or owners of said land cannot agree as to the damages, if any, the said commission or board shall, after sixty days after said highway is completed, cause to be summoned three disinterested freeholders of said county, who shall go upon the land and assess the damages and benefits under the general law as it now exists. Before entering upon lands as authorized by this section it shall be the duty of the said commission or board to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that the highway is to be located upon said land under authority of this article. In assessing the damages sustained by any landowner, the jury shall take into consideration the special benefits, if any, accruing to the landowner, and in determining such benefits consideration shall be given to the benefits the landowner has derived from the fact that any old road right of way has reverted back to said landowner by reason of the relocation and construction of the new road; and if such benefits shall exceed the damages, then the amount of such excess of benefits shall be assessed against the landowner and shall constitute a lien upon the land adjoining the road, and shall be collected by the sheriff in the same way as public taxes. No suit shall be instituted by the landowner for damages on account of location of the road under this article or the taking of timber or material until after sixty days after the completion of the road across the lands of such landowner, and no suit shall be brought by any landowner unless the same is commenced within six months after the completion of the road by or across the lands of the claimant. Either party may appeal to the superior court for the assessment of damages and benefits, where the matter shall be heard by the court and jury de novo. No cost shall be awarded against any county or township upon appeals when the recovery awarded through such appeal is not more favorable to appellant than the award of the referees.

The individual commissioners are not liable, and the owner must seek compensation in the manner provided in the statute: Marshall v. Hastings, 174-480 (decision under special act). See section 3763.

3668. Entry on land for material; obstruction of drains or ditches. The county road commission created by this article, or any other road commission or board, or the board of county commissioners, having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, is hereby authorized through its agents to enter upon any land in said county, to cut and carry away any timber except trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament, dig or cause to be dug and carry away any gravel, sand, clay, dirt, or stone which may be necessary for the proper repair and construction of roads in said county, and make or cause to be made such drains or ditches upon any land adjoining or lying near any road in said county that the said commission or board may deem necessary for the better condition of the road; and the drains and ditches so made shall not be obstructed by the occupants of such lands or any other person; and any person obstructing such drains or ditches shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Before entering upon land as authorized by this section, it shall be the duty of the said commission or board, through its representatives, to serve notice upon the owner or owners of said land, notifying them that certain material authorized to be taken by this section is required for the road work.

3669. Cutting timber shading roads. The county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, or the state highway commission, through its agents is hereby authorized to enter upon any land adjoining or bordering on any county road and cut the trees on such land for a distance in width of not over thirty feet from the edge of the right of way of said road; but such cutting must be necessary for the maintenance of the road, and trees or groves on improved land planted or left for shade or ornament shall not be cut. Due compensation shall be made for any damage sustained by the landowner, to be ascertained under the rules and regulations provided in the second section preceding.

3670. Claims for timber or material. The owner of any land from which any timber or other material has been removed may present to the authorities his claim therefor in writing, and upon such presentment it shall be the duty of the said authorities to set a day not later than thirty days thereafter for the purpose of hearing and determining such claim. Upon the hearing and determination thereof, the claimant may appeal to the superior court of said county to have his cause tried as in other civil cases.

See sections 3817, 3818.

3671. Width, alignment, and grade of highways. The highways in any county, township, or road district constructed or improved under this article shall have a right of way of not less than forty feet, except where the road authorities or state highway commission deem it impracticable to acquire such width, and in such cases the width shall be as determined by said authorities. The alignment of the road shall be as straight as practicable and with no grade over four and one-half per cent, except as such grade is considered impracticable by the road engineer.

3672. Deposit of money; transfer of equipment. Any moneys on hand in any county treasury or in the hands of any county treasurer or in any township or road district treasury, or in the hands of any township treasurer, to the credit of the road funds of such county or township or road district at the time the location, construction, repair, and maintenance of the public roads in said county, township, or road district comes under the provisions of this article, shall be turned over to the bank or banks designated as the depository for the road fund of said county or township or road district by the board of county commissioners, or other authorities having charge of such funds, and shall become part of said road fund and shall be expended for the construction of the roads in said county, township, or road district as provided in this article. Whenever the construction of the roads of any county or township or road district comes under the provisions of this article, any teams, material, machinery, tools, supplies, or any property whatsoever belonging to the county or township or road district, shall be turned over to the county road commission herein provided for, to be used by them for and in whatever way they deem best in constructing or improving the roads of said county or township or road district: Provided, that when the bonds issued or special road tax levied only applies to a township or road district, then only such teams, materials, machinery, tools, supplies, or other property as belong to said township or road district shall be turned over to the county road commission.

3673. County-line roads. When the proper location of any public road is such as to cause it to run along the dividing line between two counties or to traverse first a part of one county and then a part of the other county, thus making the road a ‘‘county-line road,’’ then a representative or representatives of the county road commission of each county, or, in case the county has no road commission, then of the board of county commissioners, shall, together with representative of the state highway commission, meet on the first Wednesday in March or as soon thereafter as practicable of each year and determine the amount necessary to maintain for the succeeding year the said ‘‘county-line road’’ in a proper manner, and also determine the best method of expending such sum in the most economical manner to accomplish the desired result; and each county commission shall then provide from the road funds at its disposal an amount equal to one-half of that previously determined as necessary to maintain said road in a proper manner, and shall use such sum in the maintenance of said road in such manner as is determined by the representatives of said commissions. In case the county commission desires and requests in writing that the state highway commission supervise and take charge of the maintenance of said ‘‘county-line road,’’ then the said sum provided for the maintenance of said road by the said county commissions shall be placed by the said commissions at the disposal of the state highway commission, to be used for the maintenance of the road.

3674. Construction by one county of county-line roads. When the survey for the location of a road is completed and it is found that the road when constructed will follow the dividing line between two counties or traverse first a part of one county and then a part of the other county, and thus making such a road a ‘‘county-line road,’’ and satisfactory arrangements cannot be made between the road officials of the two interested counties for the construction of said ‘‘county-line road,’’ then the road officials of the county desiring the construction of said road are hereby authorized to build said road, including that portion wholly within the other county, and pay for same out of the road funds of their county, and the road thus constructed shall become a public road of both counties and shall be maintained as provided in the preceding section for ‘‘county-line roads.’’

3675. Extension of work to adjoining counties. When the county road commission or any other commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county has built a road to a county line of an adjoining county, which does not contain any connecting road, or if such connecting road is one that is in poor condition, and thus, there is a gap between the said county line to a good road in the adjoining county, and satisfactory arrangements cannot be made between the road officials of the two interested counties for the construction of a road connecting the two roads mentioned above, then the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work of the county desiring the construction of said road in order to make said connection, and when necessary the board of county commissioners, are herewith authorized to build said connecting road in the adjoining county and pay the cost of such construction out of the road or other funds of the county desiring the construction of said road, and the road thus constructed shall become a public road of the county in which it is located, and shall be maintained by said county in which it is located in a manner to be approved by the state highway commission.

3676. Work by county commission in municipalities. The county road commission provided for in this article, and any other commission or board having in charge the road work in any county or township of said county, or in any road district, is herewith authorized to expend a portion of the funds available for road work in said county, township, or road district upon the public roads of any incorporated town within said county, township, or road district having a population, as shown by the latest available federal census, of less than twenty-five hundred, and that portion of any street or road in an incorporated city or town having a population of twenty-five hundred or more, along which the houses average more than two hundred feet apart, whenever in their judgment the construction of such road within said incorporated city or town is to the interest of the county, township, or road district: Provided, that the board of aldermen or other governing body of said city or town agrees that the county road commission or other commission or board having charge of the road work for the county, township, or road district, have full charge of the road work in said city or town as authorized by this section.

3677. Free labor required on roads. In those counties where the able-bodied men are required to work a certain number of days on the public roads of the county or township of such county, the labor of such men shall be under the jurisdiction and supervision of the county road commission, and the men shall be worked at such time and in such manner as said road commission may direct, in conformity with the county or township law governing such labor, except in so far as the following provisions amend such laws:

1. All able-bodied men of any county or township that are subject to work on the public roads of said county or township may be called out by the county road commission to work on such roads any time during the year for three consecutive days until the required number of days are worked out, and the work-year shall begin with the first day of January.

2. No man shall be called upon for more days work than is prescribed in the act authorizing such labor in said county or township.

3. Any able-bodied man required to work on the roads may, in lieu thereof, pay to the chairman of the county road commission a sum equal to seventy-five cents per day for the number of days he may be required to work; and in such case he shall be relieved from all labor on the roads.

4. Such sum is paid to the county road commission prior to the time he is called upon to work the roads.

5. Any able-bodied man subject to work on the road who fails to report for work at the time called upon by the county road commission, or refuses to work as required by the county road commission, and has not paid to the county road commission the required sum in lieu of such labor, unless prevented from reporting for such duty by illness or other cause beyond his control, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five dollars or more than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned not less than five or more than ten days.

See sections 3806-3811.

3678, Prisoners on roads. Any person in any county that has a county road commission appointed under the provisions of this article, who shall be convicted in any of the courts of said county, superior, justice’s or mayor’s courts, and sentenced to work on the public roads, shall be assigned into the custody and control of the county road commission by the board of county commissioners, when said board is so requested by the county road commission. Said prisoners while in the custody and under the control of the said county road commission shall be employed on such road work as may be deemed best by the county road commission, and the expense of maintaining and guarding said convicts while so employed may be paid by the board of county commissioners out of the general fund of the county upon vouchers approved by the chairman and secretary of the county road commission. The county road commission shall have direct supervision of the care, feeding, and clothing of said prisoners, and shall provide the necessary sleeping quarters and camps necessary for the proper care of said prisoners. All prisoners’ camps shall be maintained in a sanitary manner approved by the state board of health. The county road commission is also authorized, in their care and working of convicts, to divide the prisoners into classes or groups according to the character of the prisoner, and work any and all such prisoners as they deem best without guards and without stripes. Prisoners worked in this manner, without guards and stripes, shall be known as “honor prisoners,” and shall be entitled to receive a reduction of at least twenty-five per cent and not more than fifty per cent of the time they are sentenced for satisfactory work and good behavior.

3679. Road statistics. As it is necessary for the state highway commission to know as accurately as possible the number of miles and type of construction of the roads in each county in order to enable the state highway commission to supply the secretary of agriculture of the United States with the information he desires in connection with the operation of the Federal Aid Road Act, and to enable the state highway commission to carry on its work most efficiently and effectively, the chairman of the county road commission, or the chairman of whatever board or commission that has charge of the road work in such county or township of each and all the counties and townships of the state, is herewith authorized and directed to furnish to the state highway commission, upon blanks to be provided by said state highway commission, the number of miles of each type of road constructed, number of bonds issued, and amount of tax levied, and such other information and statistics regarding the road work of the county or township under his jurisdiction as the state highway commission may deem necessary.

3680. Guard railings. The county road commission of any county, or whatever board has charge of the roads and road work of any county or township or road district in said county, are herewith authorized and directed to provide suitable means to insure the safety of the public traveling over the roads of such county, township, or road district, by erecting, whenever it is considered necessary, substantial railings, walls, or other suitable structures for this purpose. If road officials of said county or township or road district fail to provide such satisfactory measures of insuring the safety of those traveling the roads of such county, township, or road district, then upon petition of twenty freeholders of the county, township, or road district who are frequent patrons of the road in question, the said county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, township, or road district, shall, within ten days after receipt of said petition, begin erecting such satisfactory railing, wall, or other suitable structure for this purpose: Provided, that if in the judgment of the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, such railings, walls, or other suitable structures are not needed, then they shall advise with the state highway commission, and if such commission deems such railings, walls, or other suitable structure necessary for the protection of the patrons of the said road, the county road commission or other said commission or board shall erect such railings, walls, or other suitable structures as called for in the petition.

Part 3. Road Institutes

3681. Road institutes. The members of the county road commission of any county, or the members of whatever commission or board who have charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, are herewith authorized to attend the road institute held annually at the University of North Carolina, and the county road commission of any county, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work in any county, township, or road district, are herewith authorized to detail any and all persons employed by said county in connection with the road work of said county, township, or road district to attend said institute, when in their judgment such attendance will inure to the benefit of the road work of said county, township, or road district; and the said road commission, or other commission or board, is herewith authorized to pay the expenses of the members of said county road commission or board, and other persons detailed to attend said road institute, out of the funds of the said county, township, or road district.

Part 4. Road Districts

3682. Creation of road districts. Whenever it is desired to create a road district in any county, and provide funds for the location, construction, reconstruction, or maintenance of roads within such district, such road district may be created in the following manner: Upon petition of twenty-five freeholders living within the area of a proposed road district, which petition shall give the boundaries of the proposed district, together with the amount of bonds it is desired to issue for the district, or the amount of special tax it is desired to levy upon the proposed district, and when said petition is presented to the board of county commissioners it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of any county, upon receipt of such petition, to provide for holding an election at the next election of county officers, or at any other time not less than thirty days from the date of such order, which shall be designated therein, to open the polls and take the sense of the qualified voters living within the boundaries of the proposed road district on the question of whether the board of county commissioners of said county in which the proposed road district is located shall issue the bonds called for in the petition, or levy the special tax called for in the petition, provided that there is included in the petition the approximate number of miles of road it is proposed to improve by such bond issue or special tax; but no election shall be held until the board of county commissioners has been notified by the state highway commission in writing that the amount of bonds proposed to be issued or special road tax proposed to be levied will be sufficient to construct, alter, or improve approximately the number of miles of road proposed to be improved: Provided, that the approximate amount of bonds proposed to be issued as called for in the petition, together with all bonds previously issued and remaining unpaid by said county for which the property of the road district is liable, shall in no case exceed an amount equal to ten per cent of the total assessed valuation of the area included within the proposed road district.

In case the petition for a road district calls for an election, the board of county commissioners shall proceed to call, hold, and report the election as hereinafter provided for in the election in townships; and in case the result of the election is in favor of road bond issue or special road tax, then the said board of county commissioners shall declare the road district created, and proceed to carry out the wishes of the people of the district in regard to the issuing of bonds or the levying of special tax heretofore provided for townships or road districts.

The legislature may, by special act, create a special road district, which may include a municipal corporation, and may place the election machinery for such special district in the hands of the municipal corporation: Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377. It may create such special district even for one road: Ibid.—and determine the manner of issuing and selling bonds, Ibid.

Who are to be considered freeholders in a petition for special tax, see section 1746.

3683. Special road district; apportionment of assessments. A county road commission of any county, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall have authority and power as hereinafter provided to cause to be relocated, constructed, reconstructed, or improved any public road of the county, or any part of such road, upon petition signed by the owners of sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereinafter provided for; and the board of county commissioners are authorized and directed as hereinafter provided to levy and cause to be collected an assessment upon all lots, tracts, and parcels of land specially benefited by such improvement, for paying two-thirds of the cost and expense thereof, as hereinafter provided, which assessment shall become a first lien upon all property liable therefor prior and superior to all other liens and encumbrances, and to provide for the payment of such assessment either on the immediate payment plan or by installments, and to issue local road district warrants or bonds for such installments.

3684. Petition for improvement of adjoining roads. The owners of sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereafter provided for adjoining such county road or part thereof sought to be improved in any county in this state may present to the county road commission or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county, a petition setting forth that the petitioners are such owners, and that they desire such road or part thereof to be improved under the provisions of this article, the particular road or portion thereof sought to be improved, the kind and nature of the improvement desired, and the mode of payment of the assessments to be levied for defraying the cost and expenses of such improvement, and the maximum cost of the proposed improvement.

3685. Procedure upon petition for special road district, or road improvement.
Upon the presentation of a petition as provided in the two preceding sections, the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall forthwith proceed to carry out the wishes of the petitioners: Provided, that before the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall act upon said petition the register of deeds shall certify to the commission that the petition represents at least sixty per cent of the land area in each and every subdivision hereinafter provided for adjoining the county road proposed to be improved; and that the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall, through its engineer, examine and survey and make plans and specifications and estimate of the cost of such construction and improvement as is desired by the petitioners; and if two-thirds of the estimated cost of such improvement is greater than the amount stated in the petition, then the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall reject such petition, except that they are authorized to do the work petitioned for. The total assessment charged against the property owners shall not be greater than the amount named in the petition.

The engineer shall examine and determine the lands that will be specially benefited by such improvement and which should be included within the local district to be assessed to defray the cost and expense of such improvement and to prepare the estimate rolls as hereinafter provided; the engineer shall also determine the cost of right of way, if any, for that portion of the road that it is necessary to relocate. As soon as the engineer has completed his report he shall present same to the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of such county, at their next meeting.

1917, c. 284, s. 51; 1919, c. 68.

3686. Local road districts constituted; apportionment of assessment. Such local road districts shall be constituted and the boundaries thereof fixed as fol-

lands: All land on both sides of said road, or portion thereof, to be improved, and within a distance of eight hundred and eighty feet from the margins thereof, shall constitute the first subdivision; all the land outside of the first subdivision and within eight hundred and eighty feet from the exterior margins thereof shall constitute the second subdivision; and all the land outside of said second subdivision and within eight hundred and eighty feet from the exterior margins thereof shall constitute the third subdivision. Each separate tract or parcel of land in said first subdivision shall be assessed and be subject to a charge for a proportional part of forty-five per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost of the construction work or improvement of said road, including said incidental expenses, and it shall be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid; each separate tract or parcel of land in said second subdivision shall be assessed and subject to a charge for a proportional part of thirty-five per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost and expense of said construction work or improvement, and be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid; each tract or parcel of land in said third subdivision shall be assessed and subject to a charge for a proportional part of twenty per cent of not over two-thirds of the cost and expense of said construction work or improvement, and be subject to a lien therefor until it shall be paid.

The charge upon the several separate tracts or parcels of land in each subdivision shall be assessed ratably according to the front foot plan, that is to say, one foot of longitude measured along the road constituting the center of such improvement district and extending latitudinally across the subdivision shall be taken as the unit by which to determine the proportion of the assessment, so that a unit in each subdivision will be eight hundred and eighty square feet of superficial area. If the areas of said subdivisions are not equal to each other, the rates fixed for each subdivision shall be fixed on the basis that the benefit conferred on eight hundred and eighty square feet of land in subdivisions first, second, and third are related to each other as are the numbers forty-five, thirty-five, and twenty, respectively. This section is to imply that the property on each side of said road shall bear one-third of the cost and the county one-third.

3687. Report of engineer; creation of district. The county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall at their next meeting after the completion of the engineer's report relating to local road districts, consider such report, and if it shall appear from said report that the whole amount of the cost and expense of said construction or improvement, and, together with any cost for right of way chargeable as a lien against the property specially benefited within such local road district, comes within the amount specified in the petition, the said county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of any county, shall make and enter upon their records an order that the said improvement be made, and creating such local road district for the payment of said cost and expenses of making said improvement, by special assessment of the property in said district specially benefited according to said engineer's report, be known and designated Local Road District, No. ___, in __________ County, North Carolina, and such report shall be kept on file in the office of the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of any county.

3688. Work undertaken. After the making of such order and directing the making of such improvement and establishing such local road district, the county road commission, or other commission or board having charge of the road work of said county, shall proceed to do the work under the same provisions and conditions as they are authorized to carry on road work for townships and counties. 1917, c. 284, s. 54; 1919, c. 68.

3689. Apportionment of expense; assessment roll, etc. When the final order for said improvement in the local road district shall have been made, the county road commission, or whatever commission or board has charge of the road work of said county, through his engineer or other representative shall proceed to apportion the estimated cost and expenses of said improvement upon the land embraced in said local road district according to the benefits to be derived therefrom, and not more than thirty days after the beginning of work on said improvement report to and file with the board of county commissioners an assessment roll in duplicate, which shall contain a description of each lot or parcel of land or part thereof to be assessed; the amount to be charged, levied, or assessed against each lot or parcel of land or part thereof, in proportion to the special benefits to be derived by each such lot or parcel or part thereof from such improvement, and the name of the owner of each such lot or parcel of land or part thereof, if known; but in no case shall a mistake in the name of the owner be fatal when the description of the property is correct.

As soon as said assessment roll shall have been so reported and filed, the board of county commissioners shall cause notice to be published for three consecutive weeks, which notice shall be published in a newspaper of the county, or, in case there is no newspaper in the county in which the local road district is located, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, notifying all persons interested that said assessment roll has been filed, and requiring them to appear at the office of the board of county commissioners, at the county courthouse, at a time not less than fifteen days from the date of the last issue of said publication of said notice, and make objections thereto, if any they have. At the time fixed the board of county commissioners shall meet, and, if no objections have been filed to said assessment roll, they shall make and enter an order confirming the same; but if objections in writing have been filed by any of the landowners affected thereby the board of county commissioners shall proceed to hear such objections, and for that purpose shall hear any testimony that shall be offered by any party interested, and either one of the board of county commissioners shall be authorized to administer oaths to witnesses. After such hearing they shall make such corrections and changes, if any, as to them shall appear just and requisite to apportion the assessment to the benefits to be received from such improvement, and shall then make and enter an order approving and certifying such assessment roll, and levying and assuming the amounts thereof against each and all of the lots and parcels of land, or parts thereof, respectively, included in said roll as approved, and the same shall become a first lien thereon: Provided, that any landowner may appeal to the superior court from the decision of said board, on giving an appeal bond in the sum of one hundred dollars, but such appeal shall not hinder or delay the carrying out of the provisions of this article.

The cost and expenses of survey and of all preliminary proceedings and all other expenses included in organization of the local road district, and for the preparation, issuance, and disposal of the bonds or warrants for the payment of cost and expense of such improvements, and for the cost of the improvements for the construction and reconstruction of the roads in said local district shall be paid out of the road fund and the general fund of the county in a ratio one to two; that is, one-third of all cost and expenses mentioned above shall be paid out of the road fund of the county by the county road commission, or whatever commission or board that has charge of the road work of said county; and the other two-thirds out of the general fund of the county; this latter being repaid in the assessments collected from the owners of the land jointly, under this article, in the local road district.

3690. Maintenance. All roads laid out, constructed, or reconstructed or improved under the provisions of this article shall, after their construction, be maintained by the county road commission, or other commission or board having charge of the public roads of said county.

3691. Methods of payment and collection of assessments. There shall be two methods of making payment of the special assessment chargeable against the several tracts and parcels of land included in the local road district authorized under this article, namely, that of "immediate payment" and that of "payment by bonds or warrants"; the method to be adopted and the period not exceeding ten years over which such bonds or warrants shall be made payable shall be that petitioned for as authorized herein. In case the payment of such assessments in local road districts is to be by the method of "immediate payment" the board of county commissioners shall, as soon as such assessment roll has been approved and certified, deliver the same to the sheriff of the county for the collection of such assessments. The sheriff shall give notice by publication for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper in the county, or, in case there is no paper in the county in which the local road district is located, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, and shall mail a copy of such notice to the owner of the property assessed when the name of such owner and his postoffice address is known; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be fatal when publication thereof is made; which said notice shall state that such assessment roll has been certified to him for collection, and that unless payment is made within thirty days from date of such notice such assessment will become delinquent and shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum; and if not paid before such assessment shall have become delinquent, a penalty of five per cent shall be added, and the sums delinquent shall be added on the annual tax roll for the current year against each lot, tract, and parcel so delinquent, and, with the interest and penalty, collected as other taxes, separate account being kept thereof; and if not paid within the time fixed for the payment of general county taxes, shall be collected as such taxes are collected, together with such additional charges and penalties as are authorized to be charged and collected on other delinquent taxes; and each lot, tract, or parcel so delinquent shall be sold for the amount of such assessment, with interest, penalty, and costs, at the time and in the manner and by the same authority and process as lands and lots are sold for general county taxes.

3692. Payment by bonds or warrants. In case the method of payment is to be "payment by bonds or warrants," the board of county commissioners, after the assessment roll has been approved and certified as hereinbefore provided, shall, at the time of levying said assessment and in their order making such levy, provide and declare that the sum charged thereby against each of such tracts or parcels of land in said local road district may be paid in equal annual installments, with interest upon the whole sum so charged at the rate fixed in said order, specifying the number of such installments, which shall be equal to the number of years which the bonds or warrants issued to pay for the improvement may run before payment of the same may be demanded by the holder thereof; and each year thereafter the sheriff shall collect one of said installments, together with the interest due thereon, and all installments thereafter to become due in the same manner and with the same added penalty and interest, in case of delinquents, and by means of the same proceedings to enforce such payments by the sale of the land, and as hereinbefore provided for the collection of said assessment by the method of "immediate payment."

3693. Issuance of bonds of district; payable from general fund. The board of county commissioners shall make and enter an order authorizing and directing the issuance of such warrants or bonds of the local road district that has been authorized by the petition for the improved road work in said district, which by their terms shall be made payable on or before a date not to exceed ten years from and after the date of their issue, which latter date may be fixed by the order, and payment of which shall not be demanded by the holder thereof until the end of said period, and they shall bear such interest as shall insure their being disposed of at par and as may be provided for in said order, not exceeding six per cent per annum, which interest shall be payable annually, and each warrant or bond shall have attached thereto interest coupons for each interest payment. Such warrants or bonds shall bear the date of issue and be made payable to bearer. The warrants or bonds and each coupon shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, and shall be attested by the clerk of said board, and the seal of such board shall be affixed to each warrant or bond, but not to the coupon: Provided, that each coupon may be signed by facsimile signature of said officers. Such warrant or bond shall be printed, engraved, or lithographed on good bond paper, and state on its face that it is issued in accordance and compliance with the act of 1917, chapter 284, designating the same by title and date of approval. Such warrants or bonds shall be in denominations of not less than one hundred or more than one thousand dollars, and they shall refer to the improvement to pay for which the same shall be issued, and to the order and record thereof authorizing the same, and shall bear upon its face the designation of the local road district, thus: Local Road District, Number _____ in ______ County, North Carolina. The principal sum named in the warrant or bond, and the interest thereon, shall be payable out of the general fund of the county, the same to be reimbursed as the assessments are collected by the sheriff from the assessment on the lands in the local road district. Such warrants or bonds shall not be issued in excess of the amount named in the petition requesting organization of the local road district.

3694. Notice of issuance of bonds; payment of assessments. In case the payment of the assessments provided for in the previous sections is by such special warrants or bonds, then the sheriff shall give notice by publication for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of the county, or in case there is no newspaper published in said county, then in a newspaper of an adjoining county, and shall mail a copy of such notice to the owner of the property assessed, when the name of such owner and the postoffice address is given; but the failure to mail such notice shall not be fatal when publication thereof is made; which said notice shall state that such assessment roll has been certified to the sheriff for collection, and that unless payment of the whole amount of such assessment is made within thirty days from the date of such notice special warrants or bonds will be issued against said property for the payment of said assessments, and thereafter the same will be payable in annual installments, with interest thereon at the rate provided for in said warrants or bonds. At any time within such thirty days any owner of lands within such local improvement district may pay the said assessment chargeable against said owner’s lands, and release and discharge the same therefrom and from the operation and effect of such warrants or bonds; and no warrants or bonds shall be issued until twenty days after the expiration of such thirty days, nor for any amounts of such assessment so paid in full within such thirty days. The owner of any such lands may redeem the same from all liability for such assessment at any time after said thirty days by paying the entire installments of said assessment remaining unpaid and charged against such lands at the time of such payment, with interest and all charges thereon to the date of the maturity of the installment next falling due. The board of county commissioners in performing the duties of issuing, selling and purchasing bonds or doing any other thing under this article shall be deemed the agent of any township acting under this article. If bonds hereunder have been voted at an election authorizing an issue of five per cent bonds, but not issued before March 8, 1919, the issuance of six per cent bonds in such case is authorized.

1913, c. 122, s. 1; 1915, c. 237, s. 1; 1919, c. 188, s. 1.

Legislature may create township road districts, regulate their management, and provide for issuing bonds: Highway Com. v. Construction Co., 170-513; Highway Com. v. Malone, 166-1.

The county commissioners are acting as agents for the townships under this section, and the court will not interfere with their exercise of power, unless they are abusing their discretion: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

The county commissioners will not be restrained from building a township road under this section, at the suit of a taxpayer, because notice was not given to the landowners as required in sections 3762, 3763: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

3697. Election to determine issuance; return of election; issue and sale of bonds. Upon presentation of a petition in writing signed by not less than one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township, to the board of county commissioners of their county, requesting them to submit to the qualified voters of the township where such petitioners reside a proposition to issue bonds for the purposes named in the preceding section for a definite amount at a maximum rate of interest and to run for a period not to exceed fifty years, all to be named in said petition, the board of county commissioners shall within thirty days order an election to be held in such township and submit to the qualified voters therein the question of issuing bonds to the amount, at the rate of interest, and to run for a period specified in said petition, at which election all those qualified to vote who are in favor of said proposition shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words "For road bonds," and those opposed to the proposition shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words "Against road bonds," and the election for this purpose shall be conducted in the same manner and subject to the same rules and regulations as are or may be provided for the election of township officers by the general election laws of this state, unless in any manner otherwise provided for in this article.

The board of county commissioners shall at the time of ordering any election under this article appoint one registrar and two judges of election in each precinct in said township to hold said election. The books shall be kept open for the registration of voters for twenty days preceding the day of election. For the purpose of registration the books used in the general election shall be delivered to and revised by the registrar, and the commissioners may order a new registration by giving thirty days notice of such registration. Such election shall be held after thirty days notice thereof, specifying the amount of the proposed bond issue, rate of interest and period for which bonds shall run, shall have been posted at the courthouse and at every polling place in the township where said election shall take place, and published in four issues of some newspaper published in the county, if the board of county commissioners so order, and the returns thereof shall be made to the board of county commissioners, and returns recorded and result declared by said board as they may determine.

If a majority of the votes cast be "For road bonds," then the board of county commissioners shall issue coupon bonds to the amount, at the rate of interest, and to run for a period specified in the said petition and order of election, and the bonds shall upon their face indicate on account of what township they are issued. They may, at the option of the county commissioners, be issued so as to mature serially or in annual installments, the last payment of which shall be due within the maximum period authorized. They shall be in denominations of not less than one hundred dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars each. They shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners and attested by the official seal and signature of the register of deeds of said county. The chairman of the board of county commissioners, under the direction of said board, shall sell the bonds so issued at not less than par value and for as much above par value as possible: Provided, that said bonds shall be issued and sold only as the funds are needed in the township for the purposes indicated herein: Provided further, elections may be ordered and held upon petitions under the provisions of this article not oftener than every twelve months, in any township, until the full amount of bonds authorized by this article shall have been issued for such township.

Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be enforced for levying and collecting other county taxes.

3699. Record of bonds; proceedings and elections. said bond. They shall also cause to be kept a record of all proceedings, and elections, as well as a record of the bonds redeemed annually, and the bonds when redeemed and recorded shall be destroyed by fire in the presence of the board of commissioners and that fact recorded: Provided, the record of bonds for each township shall be kept separate.

The bonds when so issued, after election is proved by the commissioners, shall bear on their face the statement that the tax shall be levied by the county commissioners in accordance with this article for payment of interest and principal, full payment of which interest and principal is guaranteed by the county, though no polls or property outside of the township in whose name the bonds are issued shall be liable for such bonds until the resources of the township shall be exhausted. All bonds issued under this article shall be sold at a public meeting of the board of county commissioners of the county in which the bonds are issued, after the bonds have been advertised for sale in at least one issue of a newspaper: Provided, that this provision as to advertising shall apply only to bonds sold after March tenth, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen.

The county commissioners may at any regular meeting organize a convict force, and elect necessary officers and guards as provided by law, and shall work such convicts on the public roads of the townships, and the expenses shall be paid by the said townships. Any damage that may be awarded to any person by reason of establishing, altering or repairing any public roads on which permanent improvements are to be made in any township issuing bonds shall be paid by such township. The county commissioners may use the funds aforesaid on any roads within the township, in their discretion, unless the petition has designated certain roads for the expenditure of a part or all of said funds, in which case the funds shall be expended as provided in the petition. for such county, which said members so elected shall within ten days take the oath prescribed to be taken by the members of the road electorate and shall immediately enter upon the discharge of the duties of their respective offices, and shall hold the same until the first Monday of December after the next general election for such county.
1919, c. 232, s. 9.

3734. Election of successors to appointed road electorate. At the next general election after a road electorate has been appointed for any county as above provided, the successors of such electorate shall be elected at such election, and their term of office shall begin as other county officers, and they shall qualify as herein provided and proceed to organize and elect a board of road commissioners as hereinbefore provided.
1919, c. 232, s. 10.

3735. Quarterly meetings of road electorate. The members of a road electorate shall meet regularly at the courthouse in such county on the first Mondays in January, April, July, and October of each year.

electorate to keep themselves advised as to the condition of all the roads of such county, and they may look over them, either in a body or by committee, at any time they may deem best, and it shall be the duty of said road electorate to make such recommendations as it may deem advisable to the road commission of such county.
1919, c. 232, s. 12.

3737. Pay of electorate and road commission. The members of the road electorate of any county other than the members composing the road commission shall each receive three dollars per day for each day they may be engaged wholly and exclusively as a member of such electorate in the performance of the duties herein provided, including the attendance at the first meeting and all regular meetings. The members of the road commission shall receive for their services the same pay as provided for the county commissioners of such county for each day they may be engaged wholly and exclusively in the performance of their duties. But no member of the road electorate, unless he is also a member of the road commission, shall receive more than fifty dollars in one year as compensation for his services; and no member of the road commission shall receive in excess of one hundred dollars as compensation for his services. This limitation on compensation shall not apply to the chairman and secretary of the road commission. All compensation to any member of the road electorate or county road commission shall be passed on and allowed by board of county commissioners for such county.

3738. Vacancies in commission filled by electorate. In case of vacancy caused by the death, resignation, or otherwise, of any member of the county road commission, such vacancy shall be filled by the county road electorate for the unexpired term.

1919, c. 232, s. 18.

3739. Commission attends and calls meetings; examines roads; assigns duties of chairman. The road commissioners for any county, in addition to attending the regular meeting of the road electorate, may hold call meetings not exceeding three days in each month, and they may examine the roads at any time they may deem advisable, either in a body or by committee, and the chairman may be required by said commission to do any other work which in its opinion may be to the best interests of the road service in its county.

3740. Commission succeeds other county road authorities in road powers. It shall be the duty of the county road commission to take charge of laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of the roads of said county that are now maintained or may be maintained by the county as public roads; and it is hereby vested with all powers, rights, and authority now vested in the board of county commissioners and other commissions or boards or other road officials of said county for the general supervision of the roads of the county, and for the construction and repair thereof, by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed best. All bridges shall be well constructed, iron being recommended when the stream is of any appreciable size, and all approaches shall be well constructed.

3741. Counties may retain present road authorities. If those counties coming under the provisions of this article already have lawful road authorities charged with the road work therein, either in the form of a county road commission or other commission or board, or a board of county commissioners charged with road work, and shall desire to retain such road authorities, then such desire shall be respected and no road electorate shall be appointed for such county.

3742. Local funds, etc., pass to county subject to prior contracts. Any moneys in hand in any county treasury, or in the hands of any county treasurer, or in any township or road district treasury, or in the hands of any township treasurer to the credit of the road funds of such county or township or road district of any county ratifying the provisions of this article, shall be turned over to the banks designated as depositories for the road fund of such county or other authority having charge of such funds, and shall become part of such county road fund and shall be expended for the construction of the roads in such township or road district having turned the same over; but such county, through its road commission, shall carry out any contract previously made by such township or road district, and shall, out of any funds or proceeds of any property received from such township or road district, pay off any liabilities existing against such township or road district. In any county which shall ratify the provisions of this article, any township owning equipment and property used in the construction or maintenance of public roads shall turn the same over to the road commission of such county upon demand made by it.

3743. Expenditure of funds; highway systems; federal aid. All funds, whether collected by direct tax, sale of bonds, or otherwise, in such county shall be expended under the authority of the road commission for such county, and the road commission is authorized to appropriate such sums as it may deem expedient to be used by the state highway commission in securing federal aid to be used in the construction of any state or national highway leading through such county, and such road commission is further authorized to enter into any contract providing for the construction of a state highway: Provided, however, that federal funds shall be secured to aid in its construction.

3744. Apportionment of county road funds among townships. The road funds for such county shall be expended in each township in such county, as nearly as may be, in proportion to the taxes paid by such township in said fund so as to make an equitable apportionment in the course of one year.

3745. Sections of general highway law (Art. 4) applicable under this article. The following sections of the general highway law, forming article 4 of this chapter, dealing with the powers and duties of county road commissions under the said article, are declared applicable to county road commissions under this article:

Section 3678. (Road statistics.)
Section 3680. (Guard railings.)

Section 3690. (Maintenance.)

3746. Cutting trees along road. The county road commission shall have the power as to cutting trees on land adjoining the road conferred on county road commissioners under section 3669 of this chapter under the limitations contained in said section, but commissioners created under this chapter shall not cut trees in any grove or yard left around or near any house left or used for a grove or shade trees.

3747. Prisoners on road. The provisions of section 3678 as to the duties of county road commissioners in reference to persons sentenced to work on the public roads shall be applicable to county road commissioners created by this article, except that the clause of said section is inapplicable which provides that the expense of maintaining and guarding said convicts while employed on the public roads may be paid by the county commissioners out of the general fund of the county.

Where any county or township is working convicts on its public roads under any local, special or private act, such township, upon the demand of the county road commission, shall turn over such convicts to the county road commission, which may proceed to work them on the public roads of the county, or the road commission, if it shall find that working convicts is unprofitable, shall turn such convicts over to counties from which they were received and discontinue convict labor on the public roads.

3749. Repealing clause. All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with this article are hereby repealed in those counties which may ratify this article.

1919, c. 232, s. 40.

Art. 8. Road Officials

3750. Public roads designated; authority of supervisors and county commissioners. All roads and ferries that have been laid out or appointed by virtue of any act of assembly, or any order of court, are hereby declared to be public roads and ferries; and the justices of the peace in each township shall have the supervision and control of the public roads in their respective townships. They shall, with respect to this work, constitute and be styled the board of supervisors of public roads of such township, and under that name, for the purposes aforesaid, they are hereby incorporated the board of supervisors of public roads, and the board of county commissioners, as hereafter in this chapter set forth, shall have full power and authority within their respective counties to appoint and settle ferries, to order the laying out of public roads where necessary, to appoint where bridges shall be made, to discontinue such roads and ferries as shall be found useless, and to alter roads so as to make them more useful. But upon the adoption of road commissions by counties or townships, as provided in this chapter, the powers and authority conferred or exercised under this section are transferred to such road commissions within such counties or townships.

Rev., s. 2681; Code, s. 2014; 1887, c. 73; 1889, c. 543; 1893, c. 141; R. C., c. 101, s. 1; 1784, c. 227, s. 1; 1868, c. 20, ss. 11, 16, 17, 18; 1868-9, c. 185, s. 14; 1879, c. 82, s. 1.

For road commissioners, see sections 3643, 3658, 3705, 3726. For annotations as to establishing public roads, see section 3761.

LEGISLATIVE CONTROL OVER ROADS, BRIDGES, ETC. Article 8, section 2, of the constitution, giving to commissioners a general supervision and control over roads, bridges, ferries, etc., does not deprive legislature of power over these subjects: Barrington v. Ferry Co., 69-165; In re Spease Ferry, 138-219.

Legislature may prescribe by what method roads shall be worked and kept in repair, either by labor, by taxation of property, or by license taxes, or by a mixture of two or more of these methods, and this may vary in different counties and localities: State v. Holloman, 139-642.

The question, what is a public use? is always one of law. Reference will be paid to the legislative judgment as expressed in enactments providing for appropriation of property, but it will not be conclusive: Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283.

Legislature can provide special road law and method of working public roads for a county, or several counties, or a township or other locality, and make the adoption of such systems depend upon acceptance or rejection thereof by people or landholders, or by official board of such county, township, or locality: State v. Holloman, 139-642. Legislature has complete power to regulate highways in state and may prescribe what vehicles may be used on them, with a view to the safety of passengers over them and preservation of roads, and this power may be conferred upon local governing agencies, and its being put into effect can be made dependent upon action of board of supervisors: Ibid.

WHAT IS A PUBLIC HIGHWAY. A public highway is one established and kept in order by public authority, or one used and controlled by the public for twenty years, so that a dedication is presumed: State v. Norris, 174-808; Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374; Stewart v. Frink, 94-487; State v. Purifoy, 86-682; State v. McDaniel, 53-284; Boyd v. Achenbach, 79-539; Kennedy v. Williams, 87-6; State v. Johnson, 61-140—or one arising from a dedication by owner and acceptance by public, or persons in a position to act for them: Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374; Collins v. Patterson, 119-602—but a neighborhood road not dedicated to public, but used by public under permission or license of owner of land, is not a public road within meaning of this section: Ibid.

An overseer is not essential to the existence of a highway. A public square in a city or town, within which is situated the courthouse, is a public highway: State v. Eastman, 109-785.

There may be a public road de facto, and the only person who can question right to such road is owner of land, but owner can only be bound by proceeding against him according to law of land, or by user of twenty years, from which such proceedings will ordinarily be presumed: State v. Marble, 26-318.

WHAT AMOUNTS TO HIGHWAY BY DEDICATION OR BY PRESCRIPTION. Dedication of a public way may be in express terms, or implied from owner's conduct, and, while intent to dedicate is usually required, conduct of owner may, under certain conditions, work a dedication on his part, even in the absence of an intent to dedicate: Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374.

Where road has been used by public as public highway for twenty years, and there is no evidence how this user commenced, a presumption of law arises that this road has been laid off and established as a public road by due course of law; but a possession or user by public for a less time will not raise this presumption: State v. Marble, 26-318; Woolard v. McCullough, 23-432; State v. Hunter, 27-369; Stewart v. Frink, 94-487; Tise v. Whitaker, 146-374. It is more the intention of owner than the length of time of user which must determine fact of dedication: State v. Marble, 26-318.
FERRIES; ESTABLISHMENT; EXCLUSIVE PRIVILEGES. The power to establish ferries is one of the attributes of sovereignty which is to be exercised by legislature itself, or by any agent whom that body may authorize to act for it: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219. The essential element of a ferry franchise is exclusive right to transport persons, with horses and vehicles and such personal goods as accompany them, from one shore to other: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675. The essential idea in a ferry is the crossing of a stream or other body of water from shore to shore: Ibid.

Franchise of keeping a public ferry is so incident to riparian ownership that it can be granted to none but those who own the land at one of the termini, unless such proprietors refuse to exercise it, when it may be granted to another, upon his making compensation to owner, and this is so even when termini are public roads: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675; Pipkin v. Wynns, 13-402. Legislature has power to grant franchise of ferry to any one, and to authorize condemnation of land of riparian owner as a landing place: Barrington v. Ferry Co., 69-165.

An order of the commissioners to lay out a ferry amounts to the establishment thereof: Robinson v. Lamb, 129-16. Article 7, section 2, of the constitution, giving supervision and control of roads, bridges, etc., to county commissioners, does not deprive general assembly of power to authorize establishment of public ferry at certain point for term of 30 years and providing that it shall be unlawful for any person to establish any other ferry within 1½ miles of said ferry: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219—and it must be construed as a restriction upon the general powers of the commissioners “to appoint and settle ferries,” In re Spease Ferry, 138-219. An order of the county court granting to one tenant in common exclusive right of keeping a ferry and receiving tolls, without default in the others, and without notice to them, is void: Pipkin v. Wynns, 13-402.

While county commissioners control public bridges and ferries, it is by virtue of their duties, imposed by law, in regard to public roads; and they are not to be established or assumed as county charges unless as parts thereof, in actual existence or in contemplation: Greenleaf v. Comrs., 123-30. The discretionary power of the county commissioners to establish ferries and public roads is subject to review by superior court on appeal: Robinson v. Lamb, 126-498. An order of the commissioners establishing a ferry gives a vested right, and is not vacated by an appeal to the superior court: Robinson v. Lamb, 129-16.

Where a river lies wholly within a county, commissioners of an adjoining county have no jurisdiction to establish ferry across such river: Robinson v. Lamb, 131-229. General assembly granting to a company privilege of establishing ferry within two miles of another which has been used for over forty years did not divest any vested right belonging to owner of such old ferry: Barrington v. Neuse River Ferry Co., 69-165. Public ferries are not monopolies, but franchises granted in consideration of public services. They may be exclusive, but are simply licenses, revocable at will: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219.

Public ferry is protected by statute from all interference with proper enjoyment and use of franchise by erection of another ferry: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675. Where statute prohibits establishment of ferry within certain limits, it does not affect license for ferry already granted: Robinson v. Lamb, 129-16.

Where plaintiff granted a ferry franchise from two points, opposite each other, on a large stream, it was held that he could not enjoin and recover damages from a party who used stream as a highway in conveying freight from points up the river, although one of these points was within statutory distance of five miles: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675.

Every subtraction from the profits of a ferry, by conveying its customers over the stream, with or without charge, is an injury for which an action will lie: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675—and in such case it is the diminution in number of customers who would use ferry, and consequent reduction of tolls, which is measure of damages recoverable, Ibid.

The distance of five miles prescribed in reference to ferries is five miles in a direct straight line from ferry first established: Toll-Bridge Co. v. Flowers, 110-381. No one, in absence of special authority from legislature or board of county commissioners, has the right to erect and maintain a bridge or ferry within such a distance of a duly authorized toll-bridge as will divert from latter custom which, in ordinary course of travel, would pass over it, whether that distance be greater or less than five miles: Toll-Bridge Co. v. Flowers, 110-381. For discontinuance of ferries, see under section 3762.
EXERCISE OF AUTHORITY. The power of the county commissioners over roads and bridges will not be interfered with by the courts unless such power is abused: Cobb v. R. R., 172-58; Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448; Scott v. Comrs., 170-327; Supervisors v. Comrs., 169-548; Brodnax v. Groom, 64-244.

This section constitutes the justices of the peace a board of supervisors, and refers only to those who are qualified and acting: Ford v. Manning, 152-151.

Section referred to in Tate v. R. R., 168-523.

3751. Local: County commissioners to regulate roads and bridges. The board of county commissioners shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to make rules and ordinances, not inconsistent with the acts of the general assembly, to regulate the use of the public roads, highways and bridges of their respective counties. They shall have power to make rules and ordinances to regulate the weight of loads permitted to be hauled on the public roads and highways, and as to the width of tires permitted to be used; and may prohibit the carrying thereon of such loads and the use of such tires or vehicles as they may deem needlessly injurious or destructive to such roads or bridges. In making such ordinances, they may have regard to the conditions of the various roads or parts thereof, and the conditions of traffic thereon, and make different rules and ordinances applicable thereto. Any person who shall needlessly violate an ordinance made in pursuance of the authority herein given, or who shall aid, abet or assist in such violation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

This section shall apply only to the counties of Alamance, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Brunswick, Camden, Cabarrus, Cherokee, Columbus, Cumberland, Davidson, Duplin, Durham, Franklin, Gaston, Granville, Guilford, Hertford, Hoke, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Madison, McDowell, Macon, Montgomery, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Pitt, Pasquotank, Randolph, Richmond, Sampson, Tyrrell, Union, Washington, Yancey.

The legislature may regulate the highways and prescribe what vehicles may be used upon them, with a view to the safety of passengers and the preservation of the roads; and this power may be conferred upon local governing agencies: Dalton v. Brown, 159-175 (hauling lumber); State v. Holloman, 139-642 (hauling lumber); State v. Yopp, 97-477 (bicycles).

3752. Meetings of supervisors prescribed. The board of supervisors shall meet at some place in their respective townships to be agreed upon by themselves, or, in the absence of such agreement, to be named by their chairman, on the first Saturday of February and August, for the purpose of consulting on the subject of the condition of the roads in their township, and may hold special meetings at other times, upon ten days written notice by the chairman to each member of the board, stating the time and place of such meeting. They shall once in each year, during the week of their meeting in August, go over and personally examine all the roads in their township. They shall annually at their meeting in February elect some one of their number chairman. Where the board is composed of more than three members it shall take three members to constitute a quorum of said board for the transaction of business.

Rev., s. 2712; 1909, c. 364, ss. 2, 3; Code, s. 2015; 1879, c. 82, s. 2; 1880, c. 30, s. 1.

The supervisors are not confined to these public meetings for the purpose of considering cartways: Ford v. Manning, 152-151.

Supervisors are not liable for injury caused by defective highway unless negligence is corrupt or malicious: Ruffin v. Garrett, 174-134.

3753. Supervisors appoint overseers, designate workers and allot hands. The board of supervisors shall, annually at the meeting in August, divide the roads of their townships into sections and appoint overseers for such sections at said meeting. They shall at the same time allot the hands to the overseers, and shall also designate the boundaries or points to which each resident shall be liable to work on each section, and shall within five days after such meeting certify to each overseer written notice of his appointment, with a list of the hands assigned to his section. The board of supervisors may at any time alter the sections or allotment, but shall give notice thereof to the overseer. Such overseer shall serve, and be liable as such for neglect of duty, until he shall be relieved by the board, which shall be done only upon his showing that his road is in good condition as prescribed by law. The overseer may resign after the expiration of twelve months, provided his road shall be in good repair and the board of supervisors shall so find; and any overseer so resigning, and whose resignation has been accepted by the board, shall not without his consent be again appointed overseer until after the expiration of two years from the date of his resignation. When a public road shall be a dividing line between townships, the board of commissioners of the county shall determine as to how said road shall be divided, with notice as to the working of said road. The hands may be allotted to a road by allotting all who live or shall live within certain boundaries to be fixed by the board of supervisors, in which event a list of the hands by name need not be given, but the list shall specify the hands living in the prescribed territory.

Rev., s. 2715; Code, s. 2016; 1879, c. 82, ss. 3, 7; 1880, c. 30, s. 1; 1887, c. 93, s. 1.

Assignment of one liable to road duty to any particular road rests with board of supervisors of township: State v. Gillikin, 114-832. An order issued by township board appointing a person overseer of road is proper evidence of such appointment and admissible: State v. Cauble, 70-62.

An overseer cannot free himself from the duty imposed by law by surrendering his order of appointment to clerk of the board of township trustees: State v. Long, 81-563.

An overseer of a public road can require no hands to work on his road unless they live within a district which has been designated for him by county court, or unless they have been specially assigned by court to work on his road: Woolard v. McCullough, 23-432.

3754. To have orders appointing overseers served within thirty days; penalties. The board of supervisors of the township, within ten days after the rise of the board, shall furnish the constable with two copies of each order appointing overseers of roads that may have been made during the sitting of the board. And the constable shall apply at the office of the board, within ten days after the rise of every meeting of the board, for such orders, and, on receiving them, shall, within twenty days, serve each overseer of roads with a copy of the order, or leave the same at his usual habitation; and the other copy shall be returned to the next meeting of the board of supervisors, with the date of its reception by him and the date of the service indorsed thereon, or the date when it was left at the residence of the said overseer. And if either the board or constable shall fail to perform any duty enjoined by this section, he shall forfeit ten dollars to the county, to be recovered at any time, by notice to show cause at the instance of the solicitor, who shall prosecute the same in the name of the state: Provided, the delivery to the overseer of the order appointing him made by the board of supervisors of the township, or any one of them, shall be deemed and held to be a legal service of the same.

Rev., s. 2714; Code, s. 2043; 1891, c. 519; R. C., c. 101, s. 8; 1812, c. 845, ss. 1, 2; 1813, c. 859, ss. 1, 2.
3755. Supervisors annually report to superior court. The board of supervisors shall annually make report to the first term of the superior court of their county after the first Monday in August of the condition of the roads of their township, and if the meetings provided for in this chapter have been held by said board, the judge holding such term of the superior court shall, after his charge to the grand jury and before they shall retire to their room, call upon the clerk of the court for such reports, and they shall then and there be delivered to the foreman of the grand jury.

Rey., s. 2713; Code, s. 2024; 1879, c. 82, s. 10.

3756. Supervisors neglecting duties punished. If any board of supervisors shall fail to make any report required by law, or to discharge any duty imposed by law, the members thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The indictment may be against the board jointly, or against the justices composing said board, or any one or more of them severally.

Rey., s. 2770; Code, s. 2024; 1879, c. 82, s. 10.

To put and keep public roads in order is not one of the duties of the supervisors, but a duty of the overseer, and an indictment hereunder for such failure should be quashed: State v. Britt, 118-1255.

3757. Overseers to report on state of road and work done; result when delinquency appears. Every overseer shall at each and every meeting of the board of supervisors of his township make report to them of the present condition of his road, of the number of days worked on his section since last meeting, of the number of hands who attended and worked each day, of the number and names of hands who failed to attend and work; whether or not they were legally summoned, and whether or not they have paid the one dollar as provided. In all cases the report provided for in this section must state either that the overseer has worked the hands allotted to his section of road the full limit of time allowed by law, or that his section of road of which he is overseer is not in need of any further work at the time such oath is made and subscribed to by the overseer. The said overseer shall, before some person authorized to administer an oath, make written affidavit that the report is true and correct. Upon this report sworn to as aforesaid, if it shall appear that any of the hands, after being legally summoned, have failed to attend and work on said road, and that they did not pay the one dollar, then it shall be the duty of the said supervisors, or any one of them, to issue a warrant for the arrest of any such hand, and shall put him upon trial for the offense: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the overseer of the road from prosecuting, at any time after the offense has been committed, any hand for failure to work on the road, and such cases of prosecution shall be stated in his report to the board of supervisors, that they may not prefer another prosecution for the same offense.

Rey., s. 2716; Code, s. 2021; 1879, c. 82, s. 7; 1880, c. 30, s. 4; 1909, c. 110, s. 1.

3758. Overseers to report on collections and expenditures of money. The said overseers shall, at the meeting of the supervisors in August, make a report of all moneys collected by them from parties excused from work on the road for the preceding year, with a statement as to how the same was expended. In case of failure of any overseer to make any report to the board of supervisors of public roads of his township, as provided in this chapter, it shall be the duty of the chairman of such board immediately upon such failure to make a sworn statement of the fact before some justice of the peace of an adjoining township, who shall immediately issue his warrant for the arrest of the said overseer, and proceed to try him for the offense.

3759. Officials of road district to report financial condition annually. The board of road commissioners or other officials in charge of the roads of any county, township, or road district are and they are hereby required and directed to make out an annual itemized statement of the receipts and disbursements and of the financial condition of such road district for the calendar year, and shall, on or before the first day of February of each year, post a copy of the statement for the previous year at the courthouse door of the county, and shall file a copy of the same with the register of deeds, who shall produce such copy, on request, for the inspection of any taxpayer of such road district. And if any person or persons shall fail to perform the duties required of him by this section, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

3760. Overseer neglecting duties punished. If any overseer of a road shall willfully neglect any of the duties imposed on him by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days.

Rev., s. 3785; Code, s. 1054; 1889, c. 504; R. C., c. 34, s. 39; 1786, c. 256, s. 4.

Overseer of road cannot relieve himself from liability voluntarily; his road must be in the condition required by law: State v. Long, 81-563.

Should be excused when the weather makes work impossible or unavailing: State v. Small, 33-571.

Indictment must charge that defendant "willfully neglected," etc.: State v. Miller, 100-545—not necessary to charge that "it became and was the duty" of the overseer to repair the road, Ibid.

The order appointing a person overseer is proper evidence of such appointment: State v. Cauble, 70-62. Not necessary to show appointment when party indicted acted as and performed the duties of overseer, he is estopped to deny his appointment: State v. Long, 76-254, 81-563.

ART. 9. CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF ROADS AND BRIDGES

Part 1. Procedure

3761. County commissioners to establish or discontinue; no more than five jurors required. The board of commissioners of the county only shall have the right to lay out and establish and discontinue public roads. In laying out and establishing roads, and for the purpose of assessing damage to property by reason of the same, no greater number of jurors than five shall be summoned or be required.

Rev., s. 2683.

As to laying out and discontinuing cartways, see sections 3836, 3837.

County commissioners are vested by statute with power to lay out or discontinue public roads, and from their action an appeal lies to superior courts in term, where issues of fact are to be tried by jury, and from that court an appeal lies to supreme court, as in other cases: King v. Blackwell, 96-322; Blair v. Conkley, 136-405; Lambe v. Love, 109-305; McDowell v. Insane Asylum, 101-656; see section 3764.
Order in which work upon public highways is to be performed is within sound discretion of commissioners, and a finding by court that they have exercised this discretion honestly and in a manner which they conceived to be for the best interests of people of county excludes any interference by the courts: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-413.

A board of county commissioners denied and dismissed a petition for public road, and at subsequent meeting dismissed a similar petition for same road without going into merits of cause, and then, at a later meeting, upon petition by and against the same party as the first, allowed public highway to be constructed: Held, former judgments and proceedings of commissioners were not res judicata so as to prevent establishment of such highway: Warlick v. Lowman, 111-532.

The main question to be determined as to propriety of laying out public road is whether it is necessary for public good and convenience: King v. Blackwell, 96-322. Land cannot be taken for road by public authorities in promotion of private enterprise: Cobb v. R. R., 172-58.

Order of county commissioners laying out road is competent evidence to show establishment of such road, and such judgment cannot be collaterally attacked: State v. Yoder, 132-1111.

A petition for laying off a public road presented to county commissioners, and definitely describing terminal points of road prayed for, is sufficient to support action of board establishing road, although such petition is addressed to "Board of Supervisors of Public Roads": State v. Smith, 100-550.

A county court cannot dedicate or appoint a public road in any other manner than as authorized by law: State v. Marble, 26-318. County court has full power to order laying out of public roads; but none to lay them out: Welch v. Piercy, 29-365. Court has the power to decide whether public convenience requires laying out of road and to order a jury for purpose of laying it out: Ibid.

Where road is opened by order of county court, according to law in every respect, except that no damages were assessed by jury to owners of land, none but those owners can impeach order for that cause: Woolard v. McCullough, 23-432.

Where charter has been granted for turnpike road and road opened, county court has no right to convert it into public road unless charter has been duly surrendered, or from a nonuser for twenty years a dedication to public may be presumed: State v. Johnson, 33-647—and even in such case road can only be made public road in manner prescribed; the mere appointment of an overseer will not be sufficient for that purpose: Ibid.

When a road has been laid off by order of county court upon report of a jury, confirmed by court, and an appeal is taken to superior court, it is too late to take exceptions to jury. Objection should have been made in court below, upon return of jury, by a motion to quash proceedings of jury: Piercy v. Morris, 24-168.

Mere appointment of overseer and assignment of hands to a supposed road are not per se a judicial determination that a public road be laid out where none before existed: Baker v. Wilson, 25-165.

3762. Petition for public road or ferry; contents; notice required. The board of county commissioners shall not establish any ferry, or order the laying out of any public road, or discontinue or alter such road or ferry, unless upon petition in writing. Unless it appear to the board that every person over whose lands the said road may pass, or whose ferry shall be within two miles of the place at which another ferry is prayed to be established, shall have had twenty days notice of the intention to file such petition, the same shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board until the succeeding meeting of the board, and notice thereof be posted during the same period at the courthouse door; at which meeting the board shall hear the allegations set forth in the petition, and if sufficient reason be shown, the board shall appoint and settle or discontinue the ferry, or order the laying out, or discontinue or alter the road, as the case may be.

By adoption of road commissions the powers of county commissioners under this section are superseeded, see this chapter, s. 3750.

For annotations as to roads and ferries, see section 3750.
This section and section 3763 are intended to protect the property owner and not to restrict the power of the commissioners in determining the necessity for the road: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448.

The law does not intend that establishment of necessary road should be impeded for want of twenty days notice if, before an order is made for laying off road, ample notice is given to owner: Little v. May, 10-599.

DISCONTINUANCE OF ROADS AND FERRIES. County court has no authority to discontinue public road but upon petition of one or more persons, filed in court, and other necessary proceedings prescribed by law, and any order for discontinuing a public road made otherwise is void: State v. Shuford, 28-162.

Where proceedings to change a road show no road as having been prepared nor describe where altered road is to run, except that it is to be brought nearer a particular house, and the prayer is only that an order may be ‘‘made for turning the road,’’ and then an entry appears that ‘‘said report was confirmed and duly entered of record,’’ there is no sufficient judgment for establishing the road as altered: State v. Spainhour, 19-547.

In determining upon propriety of discontinuing public road, evidence as to original object in opening road is not pertinent to inquiry, as its utility is not dependent upon intentions of those at whose instance it was first laid out, but upon wants of community and its tendency to promote public interest: Ashcraft v. Lee, 81-135. Evidence as to number of families to be benefited by continuing road is pertinent and important: Ibid. Evidence that road hands in a certain township are in number insufficient to keep up all roads in that township has no tendency, unless connected with other facts, to show that any particular road should be discontinued: Ibid.

Merely referring to section: Russell v. Leatherwood, 114-683.

3763. Public road laid out by three freeholders under oath; damages assessed a county charge. All public roads shall be laid out by a jury of three freeholders, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet at one of the termini of the proposed road, and, being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall lay out the road to the greatest advantage of the inhabitants, and with as little prejudice as may be to lands and enclosures. The jury shall also on oath assess such damage as private persons may sustain, and all damages assessed by them shall be deemed a county charge.

Rev., s. 2685; Code, s. 2040; 1885, c. 65; R. C., c. 101, s. 4; 1872-3, c. 189, s. 3; 1879, c. 82, s. 9.

Court has no power, except as to termini, to direct jury or any one else how road shall run, that being exclusive province of jury, their verdict being, of course, subject to judgment of court, whether it shall be received or not: Welch v. Pierey, 29-365.

Owner of property must seek compensation for land taken for a highway in manner pointed out by statute: Hitch v. Comrs., 132-573.

Under acts 1899, chapter 581, providing for assessment of damages for taking land for road purposes, a petition to county commissioners is proper procedure, and not an action in superior court: Jones v. Comrs., 130-451.

If commissioners take land for a highway without authority of law they are liable therefor individually: Hitch v. Comrs., 132-573.

An appeal lies from action of board of county commissioners confirming report of a jury laying out road, notwithstanding there was no appeal from original order allowing road and appointing jury to locate it: Lambe v. Love, 109-305.

Special benefits to the owner may be set off against damages sustained: Phifer v. Comrs., 157-150.

Damages for laying out road are not a county charge under a special township road law: Wells v. Comrs., 152-663.

3764. Appeal from commissioners to court; bond; trial de novo. Any person may appeal to the superior court at term time from the determination of the board of county commissioners, and if any person shall appeal from the board on a petition, he shall give bond to the opposing party as provided in other cases of appeal, and the superior court at term shall hear the whole matter anew; and where any proceeding is instituted to lay out, establish, alter or discontinue public roads or to appoint and settle ferries, and the said proceeding is carried to the superior court in term time by appeal or otherwise, the parties to said proceeding shall be entitled to have every issue of fact joined in said proceeding tried in the superior court in term time by jury, and from the judgment of the superior court either party may appeal to the supreme court as is provided by law for other appeals.

The superior court has jurisdiction to review the action of commissioners in establishing public roads: Dickson v. Perkins, 172-359; Robinson v. Lamb, 126-492. Appeal lies from order laying out or discontinuing public roads: King v. Blackwell, 96-322; McDowell v. Insane Asylum, 101-656—from order altering public road, Blair v. Coakley, 136-405—from order establishing ferries, Robinson v. Lamb, 126-492—from confirmation of report of jury laying out a road, notwithstanding there was no appeal from original order, Lambe v. Love, 109-305. In construction of special act it was held that an appeal lies only upon the question of compensation: Luther v. Comrs., 164-241. Appeal must be taken to and docketed at the next term of superior court: Blair v. Coakley, 136-405; Brown v. Plott, 129-272—bond is required, Sutphin v. Sparger, 150-517—a trial de novo is had, State v. Davis, 159-455; Keaton v. Godfrey, 152-16—a petitioner is disqualified as a juror, Ibid.

The appeal vacates the former order pending the appeal: State v. Davis, 159-455. The jurisdiction on appeal is only derivative, and the court cannot change a petition for a cartway to one for a public road: Holmes v. Bullock, 178-376. From the superior court an appeal lies to supreme court: King v. Blackwell, 96-322; Ashcraft v. Lee, 81-135.

When a party appeals from decision of county court laying off a road over his lands, and superior court lays it off as appellant wishes, appellant shall not pay costs: Harris v. Coltraine, 10-312. Superior court can only determine on the merits: Piercey v. Morris, 24-168.

3765. Petition for discontinuance; condition for maintenance of new road; duties of commissioners; when old road closed. Whenever, upon petition of any person, a road shall be changed and, as a condition thereof, it shall be required by the board that he put the proposed road in good condition, he may, at any time thereafter, tender the same to the overseer, who shall receive it, if it be in such condition as is required for highways; and if not, he shall reject it; and in either case he shall report and certify the fact to said board, where the same may be considered; and said board shall hear all persons interested in the matter of receiving or rejecting the road; and the decision of the board shall be conclusive as to the condition of the road; but the old road shall not be closed until it be discontinued by order of the board.

Rev., s. 2692; Code, s. 2041; R. C., c. 101, s. 5; 1784, c. 227, s. 13; 1813, c. 862, s. 1.

Discontinuance of roads and ferries, see annotations under section 3762. Cartways, see section 3837. Appeals, see section 3764.

In a petition to turn or change a public road it must be alleged that new road is necessary or would be more useful to public; otherwise petition will be dismissed: Leath v. Summers, 25-108.

Public roads are laid out for public convenience, and therefore should not be altered but when interest of public requires it: Kenedy v. Erwin, 44-387.

3766. How landowner may change location on his own land. In addition to the mode prescribed in the preceding section for turning roads, the following method may be observed by any one who desires to change a road from one part of his land to another part, namely: Such person shall lay out the same, and after putting it in such good condition as highways are directed to be, shall apply to a justice of the peace, who thereupon shall notify the overseer of the road, and summon two freeholders to meet on the premises at a given day; and the said freeholders, being duly sworn, shall, with the justice, view and examine carefully the road which is proposed in place of the other, and all matters and facts tending to show whether the change should be allowed. They shall report, in writing subscribed by them, the result of their consideration to the next meeting of the board of supervisors, which may confirm or reject their report: Provided, that such justice and freeholders shall be disinterested in the land, and not of kin or affinity to the applicant.

Rev., s. 2693; Code, s. 2042; R. C., c. 101, s. 6; 1834, c. 22.

Part 2. Bonds and Taxes for Roads and Bridges in the State

3767. Erection and maintenance of roads and bridges; county-line bridges. Whenever in the opinion of the board of county or road commissioners or other road governing body of any county in the state it shall become necessary to build, rebuild, or repair any of the public roads or bridges in such county, and the same cannot be done with the labor and funds at their command or in their hands, then such board or body are hereby fully authorized and empowered in their discretion to build, rebuild, repair, alter or construct any of the roads and bridges in the county in such manner as to them may seem practicable.

Whenever it shall become necessary to build, rebuild, or repair any highway bridge over any stream which divides one county from another the road governing boards or authorities of the two counties may join in an agreement for building, rebuilding, or repairing the same, and the cost thereof shall be defrayed by the two counties in proportion to the number of taxable polls in each, unless otherwise agreed upon between the said boards or authorities of such counties:
Provided, however, that the cost of any bridge erected across a stream dividing one county from another shall not exceed two per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in each of the said counties.

Rev., s. 2696; 1917, c. 103, ss. 1, 2; 1919, c. 185, s. 1.

COUNTY BRIDGES. County commissioners (or other governing body) alone have power to determine upon necessity for construction or repair of bridges and to contract for same, and such power cannot be delegated: McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330. Public bridges and ferries are incidents of public roads and are not to be established or assumed or maintained as county charges unless as parts thereof in actual existence or in contemplation: Greenleaf v. Comrs., 123-30. The power conferred to build and keep up bridges refers exclusively to public bridges:
Glenn v. Comrs., 139-421.

A citizen cannot restrain commissioners from erecting bridge across a river at certain point, though there is no public highway leading to such point, where court finds that board has in contemplation the opening of public road to such point, and that arrangements have been made for that purpose: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412.

County commissioners ordinarily contract on the part of the county for the construction to perpetually maintain bridge, Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412.

It is not the duty of the commissioners to take initial steps for repairing bridges; it is only when their coöperation becomes necessary in a movement started by township board of supervisors of public roads for such repairs: State v. Selby, 83-617.

Where repairs have been made on a bridge, and work has been accepted by county, contractor may recover therefor on a quantum meruit for reasonable and just value of work and labor done and material furnished, though action was brought on special contract for repairs made with supervisors, who had no authority to make contract: McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330.

Where citizen, at his own expense, constructed bridge and opened up public roads over his lands leading to bridge on both sides of river, and commissioners accepted said bridge as public bridge and have kept it in repair ever since, fact that commissioners paid him only part of cost of its construction did not change its character as part of public highway, subject to control of commissioners, as all other bridges in county: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412. Plaintiff in this case is not entitled to a mandamus commanding commissioners to repair bridge: Ibid.

No one, in the absence of special authority from the legislature or the board of county commissioners, has the right to erect and maintain a bridge or ferry within such a distance of a duly authorized toll-bridge as will divert from latter the custom which, in the ordinary course of travel, would pass over it, whether that distance be greater or less than five miles: Toll-Bridge Co. v. Flowers, 110-351.

County commissioners under their general powers may bring an action to restrain the use of a nonfloatable stream for floatage of logs, causing damage to a county bridge over such stream: Comrs. v. Lumber Co., 115-590—or to restrain interference with a draw in a bridge, Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-357.

Where the county commissioners built two bridges within the corporate limits of a town they cannot recover from the town the cost of construction: Comrs. v. Raeford, 178-337.

Where contract to build bridge had been entered into by defendants without concurrence of majority of justices of the peace as required in this county: Held, there is no liability imposed on county: Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 111-317.

County is not liable for an injury to plaintiff occasioned by a defective bridge forming a part of the highway across a stream, in absence of any statutory provision: White v. Comrs., 90-437—nor are the individual commissioners liable, Hipp v. Farrell, 173-167; s. c., 169-552.

COUNTY-LINE BRIDGES. Application of section in estimating expense of bridge over a stream between two counties: Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 151-215.

The legislature may authorize two counties to issue bonds and build a bridge and necessary approaches over a dividing stream, although the bridge and principal part of the work may be in only one county: Martin County v. Trust Co., 178-26. What is meant by a dividing stream: Ibid.; Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 151-215; McPeeters v. Blankenship, 123-651. See section 1297 (22).

3768. Bonds for bridges; terms and denomination; no sale below par. For the purpose of raising funds with which to defray the cost of building or rebuilding any roads or bridges as provided in the last section the boards of commissioners of the respective counties shall each have full power and authority, subject to the foregoing limitations, to issue bonds of said respective counties or borrow money and issue notes therefor to an amount not to exceed the actual cost of such roads or bridges. Such bonds shall be in denominations of one thousand dol-ars, or less, with interest coupons attached, payable semiannually, at such time and place as may be directed by such boards, and to be in such form and tenor, and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and at such place or places as such board may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value; and the same may be disposed of at public or private sale, as the board of commissioners may determine.

1917, c. 103, s. 1 (c) ; 1919, c. 185, s. 3.

3769. Special tax to provide for bonds. The county commissioners or other county authorities who are legally authorized and empowered to levy taxes shall, in order to provide for payment of the bonds or notes to be issued hereunder, and interest thereon, compute and levy each year at the time of levying other county taxes a sufficient tax upon all real and personal property in said county to pay the interest on the said bonds and notes, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds and notes at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes.

1917, c. 103, s. 1 (d); 1919, c. 185, s. 4.

3770. Record of bonds. The county commissioners of any county so issuing bonds shall provide a record which shall be kept by their clerk, in which shall be entered the name of every purchaser of a bond, the number of the bond purchased, the date of issue, when due, rate of interest, and the amount received for said bond. They shall also cause to be kept a record of all proceedings, as well as a record of the bonds redeemed annually, and the bonds when redeemed and recorded shall be destroyed by fire in the presence of the board of commissioners, and that fact recorded.

3771. Investment of excess funds from tax; provisions as to redemption; conditions expressed on bond. The fund raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, shall be safely invested by the board of county commissioners, and the county commissioners are authorized to purchase any of said bonds to amount of such excess annually, and after ten years they may purchase at not exceeding their par value one twenty-fifth of the bonds issued for any county; and if no holder of said bonds shall offer to sell such amount, then the said county commissioners are authorized to designate such bonds as they may desire to purchase, and after the designation of such bonds and the notice thereof given to a newspaper published in the county, if the holder of the bonds neglects or refuses to surrender the same and receive their par value, with interest accrued thereon at the time of such notice, then the holders shall not receive any interest subsequently accruing: Provided, the said bonds designated shall express such conditions on their face.

3772. Statutes under which such bonds may issue. County boards of commissioners or other bridge-governing body in any county may operate under the foregoing provisions or under the provisions of any special act in force in said county, or under provisions of any general act relating to bridges hereafter passed by the general assembly.

1917, c. 103, s. 3.

3773. Construction and maintenance of interstate bridges. The board of commissioners of any county in the state of North Carolina bordering on any county in the state of South Carolina, Virginia, or Tennessee, is hereby authorized and empowered to cooperate with the authorities of any adjoining county in either of the above mentioned states in the construction and maintenance of any public road- or highway-bridge over any stream which divides any county in North Carolina from any other county in any of the above mentioned states, the cost of the construction and maintenance of which public road- or highway-bridge shall be defrayed and borne by the two adjoining counties in proportion to the number of inhabitants of each according to the last federal census, unless otherwise agreed upon between the board of commissioners or other proper authorities of the respective counties which such bridge shall connect.

3774. When interstate bridge deemed necessary. The construction and maintenance of any bridge authorized by the preceding section shall be deemed necessary in all cases where public roads or highways shall have been regularly laid off, according to law, in each of said counties to be so connected by such bridge to the banks of any stream dividing one county from another, if there is no passable ford across said stream at said point. The total cost of any bridge constructed pursuant to the provisions of this part of this article shall not exceed one-fourth of one per cent of the total assessed value of all taxable real and personal property in the two counties engaged in the construction of such bridge.

3775. Bonds for state-line bridges. For the purpose of raising the funds with which to defray its share of the cost of building or rebuilding any bridge authorized by this part of this article, the board of commissioners of any county in this state in which such bridge is to be built shall have full power and authority, subject to the foregoing limitations, to issue bonds of said county to an amount not to exceed said county's share of the actual cost of said bridge. Said bonds to be in denominations of one thousand dollars, or less, with interest coupons attached, payable semiannually at such time or times and place as may be directed by said board, and to be in such form and tenor and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding twenty years from the date thereof, and at such place or places as such board may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value.

3776. Tax to provide for bonds; records of bonds. The said commissioners or other county authorities empowered to levy taxes shall levy taxes to provide a fund for the payment of the interest of such bonds and a sinking fund for the payment of the bonds in the same manner and subject to the limitations and conditions specified in section 3769, and they shall keep, or cause to be kept, records of such bonds as provided in section 3770.

3777. Use of excess funds from tax. The fund raised by taxation in excess of the amount required to pay interest, if any, on said bonds shall be safely invested by the board of commissioners of such county, and such board is authorized to purchase any of said bonds to an amount of such excess annually at not exceeding their par value and accrued interest.

3778. Exercise of powers, where county commissioners superseded. The powers conferred and the duties imposed on the board of commissioners by this article shall be exercised and performed by the board of road commissioners or the board of highway commissioners or other bridge-governing board, by whatever name known, in counties where the powers and duties of boards of county commissioners in respect to roads and bridges have been transferred or given by law to such board of road commissioners or highway commissioners or other bridge-governing board.

1917, c. 103, s. 2; 1919, c. 103, s. 7.

ART. 10. REGULATIONS FOR ROADS AND BRIDGES

Part 1. Roads

3779. Width of roads. All roads, except such as are causewayed or through cuts, shall be not less than eighteen feet wide, clear of trees, logs and other obstructions to the passage of ordinary vehicles, and there shall be ten feet in width in the center of the roadway clear of stumps and runners. Where, by the overseers, it may be deemed expedient to make or repair causeways on the same, they shall be at least fourteen feet wide; and earth, necessary to raise or cover them, shall be taken from either hand, so as to form a drain on each side of the causeway; and they shall make, of the same width, necessary bridges through swamps and over small streams of water: Provided, this section shall not apply to the roads in those counties where there is by law a classification of the widths of the roads.

Rev., s. 2682; Code, s. 2025; R. C., c. 101, s. 14; 1784, c. 227, s. 2; 1880, c. 30, s. 6.

3780. Guide-posts at forks and crossings. The board of county commissioners shall cause to be erected and maintained at the various crossings and forks of the public highways of each county guide-posts with proper inscriptions and devices thereon indicating the direction to and distance from the most important town or vicinity within ten miles of such guide-posts. Such post shall be of substantial timber and the lettering thereon shall be not less than two inches in height and of legible character. The cost of the erection of such guide-posts shall be paid from the county road fund. In those counties in which road commissions have been established the duty of the erection of such guide-posts shall devolve upon the road commissions instead of the board of county commissioners. Any person who shall willfully deface or destroy any such guide-post shall, upon conviction therefor, be fined not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars.

3781. Overseers' duty as to signs at crossings. Every overseer of the road, when the township board of supervisors may so direct, shall cause to be made and kept in repair, for the convenience of travelers on foot, good and sufficient footways over all swamps and streams of water that may cross that part of the road allotted to him; and, when the board shall so direct, shall also erect and keep hand-rails on each side of all hollow bridges situate on such part of the road: Provided, that at all places where footways and hand-rails, at hollow bridges or over swamps and streams of water, shall have been commonly used, for the space of ten years next preceding any period within three years before presentment made or indictment found for want of such footways or hand-rails, the same shall be conclusive evidence of an order theretofore made by the board, that they shall be erected and kept up, subject to be rebutted only by producing an order dispensing with them made within three years next before such presentment.

As to what is a public highway, etc., see under section 3750. Jurisdiction in superior court: State v. Eastman, 109-788. No presumption of legal authority to erect a gateway across a public road will arise in less time than 20 years: State v. Marble, 26-318.

As to such obstruction being an indictable nuisance, see State v. Godwin, 145-464, and cases cited.

Whether indictment will lie for obstructing a private cartway: State v. Purifoy, 86-682; State v. Lance, 175-773; State v. Norris, 174-808. This section does not apply to a private right of way: State v. Haynie, 169-277.

Punishment for contempt in disobeying an order of court in obstructing the construction of road: In re Parker, 177-463.

EVIDENCE. Sufficiency of, of obstructing a public highway: State v. Melver, 88-686. It is essential in the absence of proof of an actual dedication or laying out of the road by public authority to show a user of 20 years, and it must have been worked and kept in order by public authority: State v. Lucas, 124-804.

3790. Obstructing highways by dirt or water; liability. Any person throwing a bank of dirt in the main road shall be compelled to spread the same. License tax provided for in laws 1905, chapter 259, is simply a mode of regulating use of public roads and requiring that those desirous of using them for extraordinary purposes, as hauling heavy lumber and logs over roads in unusually heavy vehicles, shall not do so without taking out a license for such unusual and extraordinary and injurious use of the public highway, and paying a license tax for the privilege: State v. Holloman, 139-642.

3793. Injuring roads by hauling logs; damage and penalty. If any person, company or corporation shall damage any public road, bridge or causeway by hauling logs or sawmill timber thereon, and shall not repair the damage done thereto within five days after being notified of said damage by the overseer of said road, or by any member of the board of supervisors of the township in which said damaged road is situated, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, if any person shall pay the damage as assessed by the board of supervisors for injury to such road, the payment of such damages shall be a complete bar to any criminal prosecution under this section, and if any criminal prosecution shall have been commenced prior to the payment of said damages, all further proceedings in said criminal prosecution may be ended by the defendant paying the cost necessarily incurred in said criminal prosecution and satisfying the court that said damages and all proper costs have been paid.

And the board of road supervisors shall return to the clerk of the superior court the amount of such assessment as a judgment of the board of township road supervisors, and the clerk shall docket this transcript and it shall thereupon become a judgment of the superior court, and the clerk shall issue execution against such delinquent person or corporation for the assessed damages as other executions and the sheriff shall pay the proceeds of said judgment to the clerk of the superior court, to be applied by the board of township supervisors to the repair of such damaged road.

Part 2. Bridges

3795. Duty as to bridges of millowners on, or persons ditching or enlarging ditches across, highways. It shall be the duty of every owner of a water-mill which is situate on any public road, and also of every person who, for the purpose of draining his lands, or for any other purpose, shall construct any ditch, drain or canal across a public road, respectively, to keep at his own expense in good and sufficient repair all bridges that are or may be erected or attached to his milldam, immediately over which a public road may run; and also to erect and keep in repair all necessary bridges over such ditch, drain or canal on the highway, so long as they may be needed by reason of the continuance of said mill, or milldam, ditch, drain or canal. Nothing herein shall be construed to extend to any mill which was erected before the laying off of such road, unless the road was laid off by the request of the owner of the mill. The duty hereby imposed on the owner of the mill, and on the person cutting the drain or canal, shall continue on all subsequent owners of the mill, or other property, for the benefit of which the said ditch, drain or canal was cut. When any ditch or drain originally constructed across any public road, and bridged for the convenience and safety of the traveling public, has been or may hereafter be enlarged by the owner of adjacent lands to drain his lands, it shall be the duty of such owner to keep up and in repair all bridges crossing such ditch, drain or canal, and such charge shall be imposed upon all subsequent owners of the lands so drained.

Rev., s. 2697; Code, s. 2036; 1887, c. 261; R. C., c. 101, s. 24; 1817, c. 941, s. 1; 1846, c. 95, s. 1; 1881, c. 290.

In an action for failing to keep a sufficient bridge over a canal cut across a public road, plaintiff need not allege that road was laid off before mill was erected in order to negative proviso in statute: Wadsworth v. Stewart, 97-116.

When public road is made after landowner has cut his ditches for draining, he is not required to keep bridges in repair that are subsequently placed over them: State v. Davis, 143-611.

When proprietor of lands who, for purpose of draining, constructs a ditch, drain or canal across public road, he shall build a bridge over ditch, canal or drain and keep same in repair: Nobles v. Langly, 66-287—and overseer not liable if some one injured by reason of it being out of repair, Ibid.

A hand regularly assigned to work a certain road, and who has been properly summoned, cannot excuse himself from aiding to repair bridge over a ditch across road upon ground that it is duty of person who cut ditch to make bridge over it and keep same in repair: State v. James, 74-393.

3796. Liability for failure to maintain bridges; penalty and damages. If any owner of a water-mill situated on any public road, or any other person whose duty it is under this chapter to keep up and repair bridges built across any public road or across any ditch, drain, or canal, shall refuse or neglect to keep up and repair, or shall suffer to remain out of repair for the space of ten days, unless repair was prevented by unavoidable circumstances, any bridges which by law he may be required to keep up and repair, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be liable for such damages as may be sustained.

Rev., ss. 2703, 3772, 3773; Code, ss. 1086, 2037; R. C., c. 34, s. 49, c. 101, s. 25; 1817, c. 941, ss. 2, 3; 1876-7, cc. 90, 211.

Where the public road is made after the landowner has cut ditches for draining he is not required to keep in repair bridges subsequently put over such ditches: State v. Davis, 143-611. Liability of proprietor and lessee: State v. Yarrell, 34-130. Liability for damages by present proprietor and former proprietor: Mulholland v. Brownrigg, 9-349.

Indictment must state how the defendant became subject to the duty of making repairs: State v. King, 25-411.

3797. Railroad and turnpike companies to maintain bridges which they make necessary. All railroad, plankroad and turnpike companies shall keep up, at their own expense, any bridge on or over county or incorporated roads, when the building of such bridge was made necessary in establishing their respective roads; and on failure to do so, shall forfeit and pay twenty-five dollars to any person who may sue for the same, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 2700, 3775; Code, s. 2054; R. C., c. 101, s. 35; 1838, c. 5, ss. 1-4.

Compare State v. R. R., 74-143. See, also, section 3448 et seq. A road used as a mill road may, because of its location, be also such a "plantation road" as will impose upon a railroad company the burden of keeping it in repair: Hinkle v. R. R., 109-472.

3798. Counties to provide draws for vessels. The county or counties which may erect bridges shall, by their boards of commissioners, provide and keep up draws in all such bridges, where the same may be necessary to allow the convenient passage of vessels. When any such draw shall be necessary to be erected for the passage of timber-rafts, said draw may not exceed twenty feet in width.

Rev., s. 2698; Code, s. 2053; 1891, c. 168; R. C., c. 101, s. 34.

It is within the discretion of the commissioners as to whether the draws in the bridges should turn both ways: Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-358.

3799. Owner of bridge to provide draws on notice. Owners of steamboats or other craft, who may intend to navigate any river or creek over which any person may have a bridge, may give three months notice of such intention in one of the public journals of the state, published nearest the river or creek intended to be navigated, and to the owner of the bridge, to construct a draw of sufficient width to allow the passage of the boat which is to be used; and if the owner of the bridge shall not, within three months from the date of the notice, construct the required draw, he shall forfeit and pay the person so notifying, if he be thereby prevented from navigating the watercourse, fifty dollars; and shall be further subject to the like penalty, under like circumstances, for every three months default thereafter.

Rev., s. 2699; Code, s. 2052; R. C., c. 101, s. 32; 1846, c. 51, ss. 1, 2; 1838-9, c. 5.

Power to control management of drawbridge over navigable river after its construction, by requiring draw to be kept open at all proper times, the removal of rafts or debris, and in all other respects in which public welfare, interest and safety is involved, is ample in both federal and state governments: Pedrick v. R. R., 143-485. Control of its navigable waters is with the state, authority of general government being only cumulative protection from interference with commerce: Ibid.

The public have right to use of navigable streams, which are used as highways, in passing up and down it, from one point to another: Broadnax v. Baker, 94-675. The obstruction or interference with navigation being a public nuisance, no private citizen may sue therefor, unless he suffers some damage which is not common to public: Pedrick v. R. R., 143-485; Mfg. Co. v. R. R., 117-579.

3800. Railroad and turnpike companies to provide draws. Railroad, plank-road and turnpike companies, erecting bridges across watercourses, shall attach and keep up good and sufficient draws, by which vessels may be allowed conveniently to pass.

Rev., s. 2701; Code, s. 2051; R. C., c. 101, s. 32; 1846, c. 51, ss. 1, 2.

A citizen who owns and operates a sawmill on the banks of a navigable river and procures logs for mill in rafts, coming down the river both above and below a proposed bridge, is, in that sense, an abutting owner, and is entitled to maintain an action to enjoin construction and maintenance of a railroad drawbridge across river below his mill as an alleged public nuisance; but a citizen who owns and runs sailboats on river has no right to sue: Pedrick v. R. R., 143-485.

3801. Solicitor to prosecute for injury to bridges. The solicitors of the superior court are authorized and directed to institute suits in the name of the state, in the counties wherein the injuries may be done, for the recovery of damages, against all persons who shall willfully or negligently injure any public bridge belonging to or situate in any county or counties, by forcibly running any decked vessel, boat or raft against the same; by cutting trees or timber in the rivers or creeks above such bridges, or by any other manner or means whatsoever. In case the injury is done to two counties, the action may be brought in either for the entire damage; and the damages which may be recovered shall be for the use of the county or counties injured; and if the plaintiff fail, the costs shall be paid by the county or counties for whose use the suit is brought, and in the same proportion in which the recovery would be divided.

For the recovery of damages for injury to county bridges, a remedy is given by this section: Comrs. v. Lumber Co., 115-590.

3802. County liable on commissioners' contracts as to bridge. Every contract and order by the board of county commissioners entered into or made as authorized by this chapter for or concerning the building, keeping up or repairing bridges, in such manner as to them may seem most proper, shall be valid against the county.

Rev., s. 2702; Code, s. 2035; 1887, c. 370, s. 2; R. C., c. 101, s. 23; 1784, c. 227, s. 6.

3803. Expenses of bridges borne by counties. The expense of building and keeping up public bridges in the several counties shall be borne by the whole people of each, and not by the people of the township separately, in which such bridges may be situated; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners to adjust this burden equally among the people of their respective counties, and they shall exercise a due supervision over the action of the respective boards of supervisors of the townships, so as to prevent the board of any township from establishing any unnecessary number of bridges in its respective township.

Rev., s. 2704; Code, s. 2060; 1869-70, c. 219.

3804. Fastening vessels to bridges misdemeanor. If any person shall fasten any decked vessel or steamer to any bridge that crosses a navigable stream, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in the case of a bridge that crosses a county line, may be prosecuted in either county.

Rev., s. 3774; Code, s. 2050; 1887, c. 93, s. 3; R. C., c. 101, s. 31; R. S., c. 104; 1853-9, c. 58, s. 1.

3805. Fast driving over bridges misdemeanor. If any person shall ride or drive over any public bridge at a rate of speed faster than a walk, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to any bridge unless the county commissioners shall keep posted at each end of such bridge a notice forbidding the riding or driving over such bridge at a rate of speed faster than a walk.

Rev., s. 3780.

ART. 11. ROAD LABOR AND MATERIAL

Part 1. In General

3806. All able-bodied males to work on roads. All able-bodied male persons between the ages of eighteen years and forty-five years (between twenty-one years and forty-five years in Columbus and Tyrrell counties) shall be required under the provisions of this chapter to work on the public roads, except the members of the board of supervisors of public roads; but no person shall be compelled to work more than six days in any one year, except in case of damage resulting from a storm: Provided, that ten days instead of six days shall be the limit as to the counties west of the Blue Ridge.

Rev., s. 2725; Code, s. 2017; 1879, c. 82, s. 4; 1880, c. 30, s. 2; 1826, c. 26; 1905, c. 136.

For system of working and maintaining roads under the road commission plan, see this chapter, art. 4, part 2.

Legislature can prescribe method of working roads, whether by labor or taxation or by a mixture of two or more methods: State v. Holloman, 139-642.

This section is constitutional: State v. Taylor, 170-693; State v. Wheeler, 141-773.

Statutory requirement to work public roads is not a tax, but a duty, and inability to perform it, through sickness, is a full defense: State v. Covington, 125-641; State v. Craig, 81-590; State v. Sharp, 125-628; State v. Wheeler, 141-773; State v. Taylor, 170-693.

This section exempts only supervisors: State v. Craig, 81-590. For other exemptions, see section 3807.

That a person was summoned to work a public road three consecutive days, the law providing that hands shall not be required to work continuously for longer than two days at any one time, is no defense for failing to work the first two days: State v. Yoder, 132-1111.

Any inhabitant assigned, when sued for penalty incurred for refusing to work on road, and the overseer indicted for not having the road in order, may show that in fact there is no such public road: Baker v. Wilson, 25-168.

A hand regularly assigned to work a certain road, and who has been properly summoned, cannot excuse himself from aiding to repair bridge over a ditch across road, upon ground that it is duty of person who cut ditch to make bridge over it, and keep same in repair: State v. James, 74-393.

Where township trustees had failed under a special county road law to lay off new road districts according to strict intention of the act, but had adopted those laid off under general law: Held, that as there was sufficient certainty in location of such districts to fix liability of defendant subject to road duty, he could not, after conviction on an indictment for not working road, take advantage of such failure and irregularity by a motion in arrest of judgment: State v. Baker, 108-799.

3807. Exemptions from duty to work. No person between the ages prescribed shall be exempted from working upon the public roads, except such as shall be exempted by the general assembly, or by the board of supervisors of the township, on account of personal infirmity, of which the said board shall be the sole judge. No male student attending any school, college, academy or other institution of learning shall be compelled to perform any road duty or to work on any street or road, or to furnish a person to work in his place, or to pay any sum of money in lieu of such work, on the roads or streets in the county, city, town or township in which such institution of learning is located; but this exemption shall not extend to any male person subject to road duty who before becoming a student within the exemption was a bona fide and legally qualified resident of the district: Provided, that all boys in this state under twenty-one years of age are exempt from working the public roads during the time they may be attending school.

Rev., s. 2726; Code, s. 2018; R. C., c. 101, s. 12; 1784, c. 227, ss. 8, 9; 1826, c. 26, ss. 1, 2; 1907, c. 945; 1919, c. 263.

As to whether general statute as to who liable to road duty repeals special statute exempting certain persons, see State v. Womble, 112-582.

Where an able-bodied male person between 18 and 45 years of age resides in this state, and pursues a vocation for his income for an indefinite period, he is liable to road duty, although he is a citizen of another state to which he intends to return when he finishes his present employment: State v. Johnston, 118-1188.

Section hands employed on railroads at regular wages are not thereby excused from working on public highways of county: State v. Cauble, 70-62—nor are bar pilots unless employed on same day: State v. Craig, 81-588.
Where a person resides in another state during greater part of year, but has domicile in this state in which he also resides three or four months of year, during which he keeps slaves here, he is liable during time he resides in this state to requisition of overseer for services of those hands: Cantrell v. Pinkney, 30-136—but persons passing through state, or visiting it for purposes of profit or pleasure, and remaining for days, weeks, or even months without having any fixed home, are not persons whom overseer of roads are authorized to summon as being within their districts: Ibid.

3808. Overseers summon to work; notice; amount and conduct of work; substi-tuations allowed. The overseer of the road shall, as often as the road shall require, not more than six days in any one year, summon the hands of his section to work on the road, but the said hands shall not be required to work continuously for a longer time at any one time than two days, and at least fifteen days shall intervene between workings, except in case of special damage to the road, resulting from a storm. The notice shall be at least three days before the day named for the work, and shall state the hour and the place for the meeting of the hands, and what implement the hand shall bring with him. Every person liable to work on the road who has been so summoned shall appear at the time and place named, and with the implement directed, and shall work on the road under the direction of the overseer until discharged by him: Provided, that no hand shall be required to work for a less time than seven hours nor a longer time than ten hours in any one day.

Any person summoned as aforesaid who shall, by twelve o'clock of the day preceding the one appointed for work on the road, pay to the overseer the sum of one dollar shall be relieved from working on the road for one day. The money thus collected by the overseer shall be by him applied on the working and repairing of the road.

Any person who shall furnish one able-bodied hand as a substitute, with the implement directed, shall be held to have complied with this chapter.

Rev., s. 2721; Code, s. 2019; 1879, c. 82, s. 5; 1880, c. 30, s. 3.

A summons to a person liable to road duty need not be in writing: State v. Telfair, 130-645.
A notice by the supervisor to a person subject to road duty directing him to meet supervisor at time and place designated "to work the road," the place of meeting being a branch crossing road to be worked, is sufficient; especially where it further appeared that such person had

An overseer of a public road has no right, at his discretion, to widen road: Small v. Eason, 33-94.

3809. Overseers allot tasks to workers. The overseer, if requested by a ma-majority of the hands on the road assigned him, may, in his discretion, lay off the road in equal portions for the convenience of the laborers, who shall finish his or their part in a time agreed on between him and each person, and on default of any agreeing party, the overseer shall cause such part to be finished by the labor of other persons, and by warrant may recover the value thereof to his own use: Provided, that the time agreed on shall not exceed six days, and that nothing in this section shall be a defense to the overseer, when prosecuted for default concerning the condition of the road.

Rev., s. 2718; Code, s. 2026; R. C., c. 101, s. 13; 1784, c. 227, s. 10.

3810. Notice to work on road, how served. When an overseer shall not be able to personally notify the hands three days before the day appointed for working the road, he shall leave at the house of each hand a written summons, specifying 3811. Penalty for failing to work roads. If any person liable to work on the road shall fail to attend and work, as provided by law, when summoned so to do, unless he shall have paid the one dollar as provided, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than two dollars nor more than five dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding five days, and if any defendant shall be unable to discharge the judgment and costs that may be recovered against him, the costs shall be paid by the county.

Rev., s. 2720; Code, s. 2044; R. C., c. 101, s. 10; 1842, c. 65.

Personal service of summons to work hands means service on him personally, and not service by overseer personally: State v. Covington, 125-641.

3812. Application for convicts. Any county or township or good roads district that desires to use convict labor in the construction or improvement of its highways shall apply first to the geological and economic survey to lay out and make plans for said work or to approve plans already made. The said county, township or "good roads district shall then apply to the board or state prison directors for the number of convicts desired for the work, this number in no case to be less than forty.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, ss. 1, 2.

3813. Duty of directors of state prison. The board of directors, as soon as possible after the receipt of the application and the approval of the council of state, shall furnish the labor requested and proceed to construct or improve the highway under the direction of the state geological and economic survey. All applications from counties, townships or good roads districts for convict labor shall be honored in turn, according to the date of their receipt, except that no county, township or good roads district may use at any time more than one hundred convicts if an application from another county is pending and no labor is available for it.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, ss. 3, 4.

3814. Compensation paid to state; how expense divided. Counties, townships, or good roads districts using convict labor shall pay to the state therefor the sum of not less than one dollar per day for each laborer; shall furnish quarters, to be approved by the board of prison directors, for prisoners and employees; it shall also provide pure drinking water and necessary firewood for camp use, and shall furnish overseers to direct the work. All other expenses of every kind whatever shall be borne by the board of prison directors.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 5.

3815. Certain existing contracts not affected. This article shall not interfere with or apply to the agreements now existing and in force between the authorized authorities of the state and the Elkin and Alleghany railroad company, the Statesville Air Line railroad company, the public road in Madison county, under chapter four hundred and sixty-four, public-local laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen; the Watauga and Yadkin Valley railroad company and the Hickorynut Gap dirt road now being constructed by the state and leading across the Blue Ridge mountains through the county of Henderson. Should the said railroad companies at any time fail to carry out the provisions of the agreement existing between them and the authorities of the state, then the state shall be under no further obligation to furnish convict labor, and may at once withdraw such labor from the railroad company failing to carry out its agreement.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 6.

3816. Convicts on state farm to be reserved. The state farm or penitentiary authorities or council of state shall at all times reserve a sufficient number of convicts to properly cultivate and conduct the state farm.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 37, s. 7.

Part 3. Material

3817. Appropriation of earth and timber for roads. Overseers may lawfully cut poles and other necessary timber, for repairing and making bridges and causeways. And whenever earth shall be needed on a public road, and it cannot be conveniently procured on either side of the causeway, the overseer may lawfully take the earth from any adjoining land.

Rev. s. 2719; Code, s. 2027; R. C., c. 101, s. 15; 1785, c. 256, s. 1; 1818, c. 976, s. 1.

Soil not to be taken from cultivated field, under act of 1899, c. 581, and injunction will issue to restrain this: Combs v. Comrs., 170-87. The right to cut poles, etc., is not confined to land immediately adjoining spot where work is to be done: Collins v. Creecy, 53-333.

3818. Compensation for earth and timber taken for roads. The owner of any land or timber used for building or repairing public roads may file his petition before the board of commissioners of the county wherein the injury is done; and, for damages sustained thereby, the board shall make the petitioner adequate compensation: Provided, that this and the preceding section shall not apply to the lands adjoining or contiguous to the causeway, or great road leading across Eagle's island to Wilmington.

The county is not liable for the wrongful act of the officers in taking stone from a quarry: Keenan v. Comrs., 167-356.

Art. 12. Ferries and Toll-Bridges

3819. Commissioners may establish toll-bridges. Whenever, from the rapidity or width of any stream, it may be too burdensome to build and keep up a bridge across the same, at the expense of those who are taxable for that purpose, the board of commissioners of the county, or counties, chargeable therewith may jointly and severally (as the case may be) contract for the building thereof, by allowing the builder to take tolls, at such rate and for such time, on all persons, horses, carriages and other things passing over the bridge, as may be agreed on between the board of commissioners and the builder; which tolls shall be common to all persons. And such bridges shall be built in the manner the board or boards may direct, and shall be kept in good repair by the builder, his heirs and assigns, during the time the tolls are to be enjoyed.

Rev., s. 2706; Code, s. 2045; R. C., c. 101, s. 26; 1784, c. 227, s. 7; 1817, c. 939, s. 2; 1817, c. 940, s. 3.

Quere: Whether owner of a toll-bridge who claims a penalty for "setting over" persons and property does not have to aver that he was able and ready to carry all persons, etc., offering themselves, with reasonable promptness and safety: McRee v. R. R., 47-186.

3820. Condemnation of ferry sites. Wherever a public ferry has been or may hereafter be established, the board of county commissioners of the county in which any such ferry is or may be located shall have power to condemn land, not exceeding one acre for each public ferry, adjacent or convenient to said ferry, upon which to erect necessary buildings for the use and convenience of ferrymen and the traveling public, under the same rules and regulations as are provided by law for condemning land for public roads; and upon the payment or offer of payment, to the owner of said land, of the amount awarded to him therefor, title to the same shall vest in the county in which said land is situate. Nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive the owner of land so condemned of the right of appeal to the superior court.

Rev., s. 2691; 1889, e. 447.
3821. Commissioners to regulate ferriage. The board of commissioners of each county shall, once a year, or oftener if necessary, at the meeting to be held next after the first day of January, rate the prices of such ferries as shall be kept within their respective counties; and ferries lying between two counties shall be rated at a joint meeting of the commissioners of the two counties, to be held at such time and place as may be agreed upon by the commissioners of the two counties, and any ferry keeper who shall ask, demand, or receive a greater price for ferriage than shall be rated by the board or boards of commissioners shall forfeit and pay five dollars for every offense to the party aggrieved. Every person who owns a public ferry, and refuses to keep it up at the rates allowed by the board, shall for every such offense forfeit five dollars.

Rev., s. 2707; 1907, c. 221, s. 1; Code, s. 2046; R. C., c. 101, s. 27; 1779, c. 160, s. 2.

Tolls are not regulated by joint boards of commissioners in the counties of Camden, Catawba, Gaston, Halifax, Iredell, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Northampton, Onslow, Pasquotank and Surry. See 1907, c. 221, s. 1.

A franchise for a toll-bridge is not violated by a railroad company who carried passengers along their road and, as a part of the road, over their bridge: McRee v. R. R., 47-186.

3822. Owner of ferry may substitute toll-bridge. In all cases where the proprietor of a ferry shall prefer building a good and substantial bridge over any water-course instead of keeping a ferry, he may do so; and may claim and hold such bridge under the same rights, and in the same manner, by which the ferry is claimed and held, and under the same rules, regulations, restrictions and penalties as other toll-bridges: Provided, that no more toll shall be demanded for passing any such bridge than is granted by law for the ferriage, unless by agreement with the board of commissioners: Provided further, that in all such bridges the proprietor shall erect a draw where the free navigation of the stream may require it.

This section requires of owner of toll-bridge not only to erect and keep in good repair a draw sufficient for the purposes of a free navigation of the stream, but also to provide means of raising it, and to have it raised whenever steamboats and other vessels are passing it: Davis v. Jenkins, 50-291.

3823. Owners of toll-bridges and ferries to give bond; actions on bond. The board of commissioners of each county shall compel every person that may own a toll-bridge, or keep a public ferry, within the county, to give bond with good surety in the sum of one thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned that he will constantly keep such bridge in good repair, or, as the case may be, provide and keep good and sufficient boats, or other proper craft, always to be well attended, for the passing of travelers or other persons, their horses, carriages and effects, and will indemnify and save harmless every person who may be damaged by reason of any default in his undertaking. And if any person shall receive damage, because such ferryman or keeper of a toll-bridge shall not have complied with the conditions of his bond, he may bring suit thereon in the name of the state, and recover his damages.

3824. Right of action of person detained at ferry. If any person shall be detained at any public ferry by reason of the ferryman not having sufficient boats or other proper crafts at hand, or by his neglecting to do his duty in any other respect, he may recover before a justice of the peace, against such ferryman, the sum of ten dollars, as a penalty for every such default or neglect.

Rev., s. 2709; Code, s. 2448; R. C., c. 101, s. 29; R. S., c. 101, s. 29.

3825. Penalty on unauthorized ferry. If any unauthorized person shall pretend to keep a ferry or to transport for pay any person or his effects, within five miles of any ferry on the same river or water which theretofore may have been appointed, he shall forfeit and pay two dollars for every such offense, to the nearest ferryman: Provided, that any person who may contract for carrying the mail may keep a boat for the sole purpose of transporting the same, and such passengers as may travel in the coach therewith, across any ferry; but such contractor shall not transport across such ferry any other passengers than such as travel by the coach.

Rev., s. 2710; Code, s. 2049; R. C., c. 101, s. 30; 1764, c. 72, s. 1; 1787, c. 273; 1883, c. 381. See annotations under section 3750.

Part 2. County-line Ferries

3826. Counties may purchase ferries on county-line streams; division of cost. Wherever in this state there are now operated ferries with causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, which lie partly within one county and partly within another county, the boards of commissioners of the respective counties are authorized to purchase all real and personal property, rights, and franchises incident and necessary to the said ferries, including any causeways, roads, and bridges leading thereto. The proportion of the purchase price to be paid by the said counties shall be determined and agreed upon at a joint meeting of the board of commissioners of said counties, and the amount of said purchase price so agreed upon and determined shall be paid by the respective counties to the owners of the same by proper warrant of the respective counties.

3827. Right of eminent domain conferred. If the said counties and the owners of the property the purchase of which is authorized in the preceding section cannot agree upon the purchase price, then the boards of commissioners of said counties are authorized, should they deem it necessary and for the best interests of the counties, to condemn the same, and for that purpose they are empowered to institute condemnation proceedings in either county in which said property, ferry, causeway, road, or bridges, or any part of the same, lie, and conduct the same in accordance with the chapter entitled Eminent Domain in the Consolidated Statutes.

3828. Joint operation and maintenance; joint committee. After the purchase or condemnation aforesaid, the said ferry, with the causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, shall become a part of the public highway and roads of the said counties, and it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to operate and maintain the same jointly as a part of such public highways and roads, and the expense of maintenance, improvement, and operation of the said property jointly acquired shall be borne by the said counties upon such terms and in such proportions as shall be agreed upon by the board of commissioners of the same in joint meeting. The said boards of commissioners may vest the control and management of the said ferry and roads, causeways, and bridges, and equipment used in connection therewith, in a committee or committees from said boards, to be selected and determined by said boards in meeting assembled, and said commissioners are authorized to employ agents and servants, provide for the operation and to prescribe reasonable rules and regulations in reference to use and operation of said ferry, roads, causeways, bridges, and the property and equipment used in connection therewith.
1919, c. 138, s. 3.

3829. Expenses of equipment and maintenance; bond issue. The said boards of commissioners, after the purchase or condemnation of the ferries and roads, causeways, and bridges as aforesaid, shall provide all necessary equipment for the ferry and to improve and repair the causeways, roads, and bridges leading to the same, and thereafter shall keep the same in good condition to the end that the best possible service may be rendered to the public. In order to raise funds for the purchase or condemnation of said ferries, roads, causeways, bridges, rights, and property, and for the improvement and repair of the causeways, roads, and bridges, and the purchase of the necessary equipment for said ferry or ferries, the said boards of commissioners of the respective counties are hereby authorized and empowered to have prepared and issued at such time or times and in such amounts as they deem best, bonds of their respective counties to an amount not exceeding the cost of the ferries and other property so acquired, the repair and improvement of same, and the purchase of necessary equipment, said bonds to draw interest at such rate as may be determined by said respective counties, to be evidenced by coupons attached, payable semiannually, and to be in such form and tenor and transferable in such way, and the principal thereof payable at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and at such places as such respective boards may determine: Provided, that none of such bonds shall be disposed of either by sale, exchange, hypothecation, or otherwise, for a less price than their face value.
1919, c. 138, s. 4.

3830. Tax for interest and sinking fund. The commissioners of the respective counties, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds to be issued hereunder and interest thereon, shall compute and levy each year at the time of levying other county taxes a sufficient tax upon all real and personal property in their respective counties to pay the interest on the said bonds, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of said bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes.
1919, c. 138, s. 5.

3831. Toll rates; basis of adjustment. In order to defray the expense of operating, improving and maintaining said ferry or ferries, causeways, roads, and bridges and all property used in connection therewith, the boards of commissioners of the said respective counties shall prescribe passage rates from time to time and authorize such tolls for the use of said ferry or ferries, roads, causeways, and bridges, and other equipment used in connection therewith, in their discretion, as may be reasonable, just, and proper to provide the operating expenses and reasonable upkeep of the said property, but said boards shall not consider the cost of the same or the amount expended in the first instance in improving, repairing and purchasing the necessary equipment as aforesaid in fixing the amount of toll to be charged and paid by the public for the use thereof: Provided, such rates, charges, or tolls shall be uniform on all citizens alike.

3832. Tax to supplement tolls. If the tolls collected under the last section shall not be sufficient to pay the expenses of operating, repairing, and maintaining such property, the said boards of commissioners of such respective counties are authorized to levy a tax upon the real and personal property of their respective counties sufficient to pay the proportionate loss occasioned by the operation as aforesaid. Said tax shall be levied at the same time as other taxes are levied and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other county taxes; and if it shall become necessary to pay said loss for any one year or part thereof from the general fund of the counties, or in the event it becomes necessary to borrow money to provide for said loss, the said boards of commissioners may, from taxes so collected in any succeeding year, reimburse the general fund of their counties to the extent of the amount so advanced or the amount so borrowed to provide for said deficit; and may provide a contingent fund to meet such event.

3833. Compensation of committee for ferry control. If the boards of commissioners should elect to place the control, operation, and management of said ferries and property used in connection therewith, and the road, causeway, and bridges, in a committee or committees from the joint bodies, as is provided above, said committee or committees shall receive the same pay and mileage for holding meetings in connection with all necessary business of said operation and management as is allowed by law to the members of the boards of commissioners of said respective counties for attending meetings of the board in said respective counties.

3834. When counties may sell or lease ferries. If the operation and management of the ferries and property provided for hereunder, and the roads, causeways, and bridges connected therewith, as provided in this article, shall prove too costly to said counties or shall fail to give adequate and satisfactory service to the general public, or if the public interests would be better subserved by a sale, the boards of commissioners of the respective counties are authorized to sell said ferries and property upon such terms as they see fit, or the said boards of commissioners may rent and lease the same to such person, firm, or corporation as they may see fit, and subject to such rules and regulations as they may prescribe: Provided, however, that in the event of a sale or lease as aforesaid, the purchase price or lease price, as the case may be, shall be divided between the respective counties in proportion to the price paid in the first instance by the respective counties for such ferries and property.

3835. Road supervisors establish or discontinue cartways; number of jurors; appeal. The board of supervisors shall have the right to lay out and discontinue cartways. In laying out and establishing roads and cartways, and for the purpose of assessing damage to property by reason of the same, no greater number of jurors than five shall be summoned or be required. Either party may appeal from the decision of the board of supervisors to the board of commissioners of the county.

Rev. Ss. 2683; Code, s. 2023; 1879, c. 82, s. 9.

3836. Cartways and tramways laid out; procedure; cartways to be open to public; appeal. If any person be settled upon or cultivating any land, or shall own any standing timber, or be working any mines or minerals to which there is leading no public road, or which is not convenient to water, and it shall appear necessary, reasonable and just that such person shall have a private way to a public road or water-course or railroad over the lands of other persons, he may file his petition before the board of supervisors of the township at a regular or special meeting praying for a cartway, tram or railway to be kept open across such other persons' lands, leading to some public road, ferry, bridge, public landing or water-course or railroad; and upon his making it appear to the board that the adverse party has had ten days notice of his intention, the board shall hear the allegations of the petitioner and the objections of the adverse party or parties, and if sufficient reason be shown, shall order the constable to summon a jury of five freeholders to view the premises and lay off a cartway, tram or railway, not less than fourteen feet wide, and assess the damages the owner of such land may sustain thereby; which, with the expense of making the way, shall be paid by the petitioner. The cartways established under this section shall be kept open for the free passage of all persons on foot or horseback, and all carts and wagons, and the petitioner and others who use said road may from time to time grade or repair said road as they may desire without doing any injury to the adjoining lands. If the notice aforesaid shall not have been given, the board shall cause such petition to be filed with their chairman until their next meeting, when they shall proceed to hear and determine the same, and the petitioner or the adverse party may appeal from the order of the supervisors to the board of commissioners of the county, and from the order of the board of commissioners to the superior court at term, when the issues of fact shall be tried by a jury, and from the judgment of the superior court to the supreme court, as in other cases of appeal.

Rev., s. 2656; Code, s. 2056; 1917, c. 282, s. 1; 1917, c. 187, s. 1; 1909, c. 364, s. 1; 1903, c. 102; 1887, c. 46; R. C., c. 101, s. 37; 1798, c. 508, s. 1; 1822, c. 1139, s. 1; 1879, c. 258.

As to cartways by prescription and dedication, see annotations under section 3750.

This section is in derogation of the rights of landowners, and must be strictly construed: Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122. Form of the petition, and proper methods of procedure under this section, pointed out in Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122; see, also, Barber v. Griffin, 158-348. The proceeding may be heard by the supervisors at a called meeting, after notice to the parties: Ford v. Manning, 152-151.

A cartway is a way established by law for a person who has not the benefit of a public highway, and for that reason alone: State v. Purifoy, 86-682. If plaintiff can have a practicable cartway on his own land it should not be constructed on land of another: Mayo v. Thigpen, 107-63.
To be entitled to cartway petitioner must show that it is a necessity; that his demand is reasonable and just: Gorham v. R. R., 158-504; Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122, 104-403—or that he has no other means of egress and ingress, Burwell v. Sneed, 104-118; State v. Purifoy, 86-682—or that his lands are connected with public road but by an impassable tract, Mayo v. Thigpen, 107-63. "Sufficient reason" for its establishment under a private act, discussed in Cook v. Vickers, 144-312.

Petitioner not entitled to cartway simply because one would be more convenient to him: Burwell v. Sneed, 104-118; Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122; Lea v. Johnson, 31-15—or because it would give him a shorter and better outlet to public road, Warlick v. Lowman, 103-122.

When jury find cartway applied for is a necessity, because there is no other, then evidence of length and nature of route proposed, as compared with other, is competent to show that demand is reasonable and just: Warlick v. Lowman, 104-403; see Cook v. Vickers, 144-312.

Owner of a tract who does not reside on same, nor has cultivated, fenced, or in any wise improved any part of it, but has only used it as range for cattle, is not entitled to private way over adjoining land: Caroon v. Doxey, 48-23.

Courts have no authority to have lands of citizens taken for a cartway without consent of owner except in instance provided for by statute: Lea v. Johnson, 31-15.

Amendment made to law regarding cartways, etc., in so far as it authorizes owners of timber lands to condemn a right of way for tramways or railways over the lands of other owners for the exclusive use of the owners of the timber, is unconstitutional, in that private property can only be taken for a public use: Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283; Leigh v. Garysburg Mfg. Co., 132-171—but a way ex necessitate may be acquired, Ibid.

Action of township supervisors in ordering establishment of cartway is such a final determination of matter as will support an appeal to board of commissioners, and hence through superior to supreme court, although order may not have been executed: Warlick v. Lowman, 101-548.

Upon trial of an issue whether proposed cartway was necessary and reasonable, opinions of witnesses are not competent, question not being one of science, peculiar skill, or professional knowledge: Burwell v. Sneed, 104-118.

When a cartway has not been laid out under this section or acquired by adverse user, it is not indictable to obstruct it: State v. Norris, 174-808.

A petitioner who has acquired a right by order of court to have cartway over land of another, and who has afterwards obtained title to servient tenement, has right to obstruct and discontinue such cartway: Jaeocks v. Newby, 49-266.

3837. Discontinuance of cartways, etc.; gates and stockguards; duration of right. Cartways, tramways or railways laid off according to the provisions of this chapter may be changed or discontinued upon application by any person concerned, under the same rules of proceeding as they may be first laid off, and upon such terms as to the board of supervisors shall seem equitable and just. Cartways, tramways or railways for the removal of timber shall continue for a period not longer than five years, and in entering cultivated land shall protect the same by sufficient stockguards. And any person through whose land a cartway may pass may erect gates across the same, which shall be kept in good repair.

Rev., s. 2694; Code, s. 20575; 1887, c. 46, s. 2; R. C., c. 101, s. 38; 1798, c. 508, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1834, c. 16, s. 1; 1887, c. 266.

A petitioner who has acquired a right by order of court to have cartway over land of another, and who has afterwards obtained title to servient tenement, has right to obstruct and discontinue such cartway: Jaeocks v. Newby, 49-266.

3838. Church roads laid out on petition; procedure. The board of supervisors in each township is authorized to order the laying out of necessary roads to any church or other place of public worship in the township, to discontinue such roads when they may be found useless, and to alter the same so as to make them more useful. The right of way herein provided for shall terminate whenever the church or place of worship shall cease to be used as such. The board of supervisors shall not order the laying out of any such road or discontinue or alter the same except upon petition, in writing, nor shall they hear such petition, unless it is made to appear that every person over whose lands the road may pass shall have had ten days notice of the intention to file such petition, by personal service of notice in writing, or if the owner is unknown or there is no owner, agent or attorney of such owner resident in this state, then by notice thereof posted up at the courthouse door of the county in which the township is situated and at two public places in the township for the space of ten days. Upon the hearing of the petition, if sufficient reason is shown, the board of supervisors shall order the laying out, or shall discontinue or alter the road, as the case may be, and from their determination any party dissatisfied may appeal as is provided with reference to the laying off of cartways. Such road shall be laid out to the greatest advantage of the inhabitants and with as little prejudice as may be to lands and enclosures, within twenty days from the notification of their appointment by three disinterested freeholders, to be appointed by the board of supervisors; and such damage as any individuals may sustain shall be ascertained by such freeholders, and a report thereof with the proceedings had by them shall be made to the board of supervisors. All damages so assessed by the freeholders shall be paid by the petitioners, and until paid there shall be no confirmation of the report of the freeholders, and the laying out shall be of no effect.

Under section 4588, solicitor has no vested right to his fee under an absolute judgment upon a forfeited recognizance which was subsequently set aside by court in exercise of its discretionary power: Ibid.

Upon indictment for murder in first degree and a prosecution and conviction for second degree, the solicitor is entitled to half fees: State v. Mayhew, 155-477.

An act allowing solicitor $600 in lieu of fees in Pitt county is construed to mean all fees, and not merely those for which the county is liable: Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631.

Where, upon application of defendant to retax, solicitor's fee is reduced from $10 to $4, solicitor has no right to appeal, state having no interest in result: State v. Tyler, 85-569.

3893. Fees and mileage of witnesses. The fees of witnesses, whether attending at a term of court or before the clerk, or a referee, or commissioner, or arbitrator, shall be one dollar per day. They shall also receive mileage, to be fixed by the county commissioners of their respective counties, at a rate not to exceed five cents per mile for every mile necessarily traveled from their respective homes in going to and returning from the place of examination by the ordinary route, and ferriage and toll paid in going and returning. If attending out of their counties, they shall receive one dollar per day and five cents per mile going and returning by the ordinary route, and toll and ferriage expenses: Provided, that witnesses before courts of justices of the peace shall receive fifty cents per day in civil cases, and in criminal actions of which justices of the peace have final jurisdiction, witnesses attending the courts of justices of the peace, under subpoena, shall receive fifty cents per day, and in hearings before coroners witnesses shall receive fifty cents per day and no mileage; but the party cast shall not pay for more than two witnesses subpoenaed to prove any one material fact, and no prosecutor or complainant shall pay any costs, unless the justice shall find that the prosecution was malicious and frivolous: Provided further, that experts, when compelled to attend and testify, shall be allowed such compensation and mileage as the court may in its discretion order. For mileage of witnesses before legislative committee, see General Assembly.

For where county pays half fees, see Costs.

For special statute for Cherokee county, see 1907, c. 156.

All witnesses may recover from the party who subpoenaed them: Sutton v. Lumber Co., 135-540; Cureton v. Garrison, 111-271; Office v. Lockman, 12-146—but they must prove their attendance before the clerk and get a ticket each term, Thompson v. Hodges, 10-318; see Moore v. Isler, 1-81—which ticket is sufficient evidence in court upon which to recover judgment against party cast or against party who subpoenaed witness, if party cast is insolvent, the statute making it presumptive evidence of the attendance, for whom, how long, for how much, and miles traveled, Deaver v. Comrs., 80-116; Belden v. Sneed, 84-243.

Witness is not at liberty after final judgment to withdraw his witness ticket and sue upon it. His fees for attendance should be taxed and collected with other costs against party adjudged to pay, if solvent, and if not, then the party who summoned and required his testimony is responsible: Belden v. Sneed, 84-243; Carter v. Wood, 33-22.

One cannot recover for attendance of an incompetent witness: Keith v. Goodwin, 51-398. Witnesses for the losing party receive no pay unless he is solvent, and witnesses for state in criminal actions where convicted party is insolvent receive only half pay: State v. Wheeler, 141-777. Where a nolle prosequi is entered on an indictment for homicide as to murder in the first degree, witnesses for state subsequently attending trial are entitled to only half fees: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299. There is no provision of law for payment of witnesses summoned to appear and testify generally before grand jury ‘in certain matters then and there to be inquired of’; and there is no authority of law to issue such summons: Lewis v. Comrs., 74-194. Witnesses are entitled to compensation where a bill is prepared and sent to grand jury with names of those summoned endorsed as sworn and sent: Lewis v. Comrs., 74-194. A witness in a criminal action has no claim upon county until liability of county for costs is passed upon by court: Young v. Comrs., 76-316.
Arr. 6 Ch. 71

Witness for state being entitled to only half fees may recover in full amount paid for proving ticket: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299. When witnesses in civil cases are refused payment of their fees they need not attend court but one day: State v. Massey, 104-881; see, also, Carter v. Wood, 33-22.

Rev., s. 2795.

For compensation of surviving partner settling partnership estate, see chapter Partnership.

Allowance of commissions and counsel fees to receiver by superior court prima facie correct, and supreme court will alter same only when clearly inadequate or excessive: Graham v. Carr, 133-449. An order allowing commissions is a final judgment in respect to the matter decided, and is properly appealable: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Caution to judges not to appoint more receivers than are necessary, and to avoid making excessive allowances: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Allowances to receivers as well as to administrators and executors are reviewable when made on a wrong principle, or when clearly inadequate or excessive: Bank v. Bank, 126-531.

Not exceeding 5 per cent on receipts and disbursements seems to be statutory limit for receivers: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Stipulation in a deed of trust, among other charges, “including an attorney’s fee of 5 per cent,” will not be sustained: Turner v. Boger, 126-300. Trustees and commissioners to sell land under judicial order (other than in partition proceedings) are not allowed commissions, either by statute or common law, but only such just compensation for time, labor, services and expenses as the circumstances of each case warrant: Smith v. Frazier, 119-157; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321. See, also, Hannah v. Hyatt, 170-634.

It was error in this case to allow five per cent commissions to commissioners to sell land in foreclosure, and decree making such allowance will be modified so as to provide for reasonable compensation for time, services and expenses of commissioners: Smith v. Frazier, 119-157. Where deed of trust provided that, in case of sale thereunder, trustee should receive 5 per cent commission on the sale as a compensation for making the sale, and also that, if grantor should discharge debt before sale, land should be reconveyed to him, and trustee advertised sale, but before sale day trustor, with knowledge and consent of trustee, paid off debt and interest, and the expense of advertisement, and demanded his bond and trust deed: Held, that debt having been paid, trustee was not entitled to commissions: Pass v. Brooks, 118-397.

Where deed of trust provides for payment of “expenses” of trust, including “5 per cent commissions” to trustee, latter, after default in payment of debt and advertisement of sale, is entitled to his commissions: Cannon v. McCape, 114-580.

Debtor is only liable for debt, interest, actual expenses of sale, as advertising, and the like, and a reasonable compensation to trustee for his time and trouble in making sale, say not to exceed 2 per cent. Trustee pays his own attorney: Turner v. Boger, 126-300.

Art. 1. THE OFFICE

3925. Election and term of office. In each county a sheriff shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, as is prescribed for members of the general assembly, and shall hold his office for two years.
Rev., s. 2808; Const., Art. IV, s. 24.

There is a contract between sheriff and the state that he will discharge duties of the office, and it cannot be abrogated or impaired except by the consent of both parties: King v. Hunter, 65-603; see office-holding cases under section 870.

3926. Disqualifications for the office. No person shall be eligible to the office of sheriff who is not of the age of twenty-one years, and has not resided in the county in which he is chosen for one year immediately preceding his election, or who is a member of the general assembly, or practicing attorney, or who theretofore has been sheriff of such county and has failed to settle with and fully pay up to every officer the taxes which were due from him.
Rev., s. 2809; Code, ss. 2067, 2068, 2069; R. C., c. 105, ss. 5, 6, 7; 1777, c. 118, ss. 2, 4; 1806, c. 669, s. 2; 1829, c. 5, s. 6; 1830, c. 25, ss. 2, 3.

As to presenting receipts for taxes collected by him as former sheriff, see under section 3931.

3927. Sheriff may resign. Every sheriff may vacate his office by resigning the same to the board of county commissioners of his county; and thereupon the board may proceed to elect another sheriff.
Rev., s. 2810; Code, s. 2077; R. C., c. 105, s. 15; 1777, c. 118, s. 1; 1808, c. 752.

If the board should fail to fill such vacancy, the coroner shall continue to discharge the duties of sheriff until it shall be filled.

Rev., s. 2811; Code, s. 2071; R. C., c. 105, s. 11; R. S., c. 109, s. 11; 1829, c. 5, s. 8.

Vacancy filled in Polk county by governor, see 1909, c. 594. See section 1297 and annotations thereunder; also see section 1021.

When sheriff's office is vacant, commissioners may appoint for residue of term only: Worley v. Smith, 81-304.

County commissioners may declare office vacant, upon insanity of sheriff, but their failure to do so merely authorizes coroner to perform duties of sheriff proper, but does not cast upon him right to collect taxes: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582.

An act authorizing board of commissioners to appoint tax collector for county where there is a sheriff is unconstitutional: King v. Hunter, 65-603—but an official ascertainment of the insanity of a sheriff suspends him from office, and terminates agency of his deputies: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582—his sureties, in that event, have merely same right which they would have in event of sheriff's death, that is, to collect current tax list then in his hands; and county commissioners on first Monday in September following are vested with power of electing tax collector for ensuing year, unless and until sheriff should be restored to reason, Ibid.

Vacancy in office declared, when elected sheriff fails, upon applying to be again inducted into office, to show receipts for money collected by him formerly: People v. Green, 75-329—or fails to appear and justify or renew bonds, Ibid.

Art. 2. Sheriff's Bonds

3930. Sheriff to execute three bonds. The sheriff shall execute three several bonds, payable to the state of North Carolina, as follows:

One conditioned for the collection and settlement of state taxes according to law, a sum not exceeding the amount of the taxes assessed upon the county for state purposes in the previous year.

One conditioned for the collection and settlement of county and other local taxes according to law, a sum not exceeding the amount of such county and other local taxes for the previous year.

The third bond, for the due execution and return of process, payment of fees and moneys collected, and the faithful execution of his office as sheriff, shall be not more than five thousand dollars, in the discretion of the board of county commissioners, and shall be conditioned as follows:

The condition of the above obligation is such that, whereas the above bounden __________ is elected and appointed sheriff of __________ County; if, therefore, he shall well and truly execute and due return make of all process and precepts to him directed, and pay and satisfie all fees and sums of money by him received or levied by virtue of any process into the proper office into which the same, by the tenor thereof, ought to be paid, or to the person to whom the same shall be due, his executors, administrators, attorneys, or agents; and in all other things well and truly and faithfully execute the said office of sheriff during his continuance therein, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and effect.

PROCEDURE IN ACTION ON. For summary remedy on bond, see section 356. For action on official bonds generally, see section 354. Sheriff's audited account is prima facie correct and burden is on plaintiff to show otherwise: Williamson v. Jones, 127-178; Comrs. v. White, 123-534; Davenport v. McKee, 98-500. County commissioners proper relator in action for school taxes: Comrs. v. Sutton, 120-298; see, also, section 354. Demand on sheriff before suit for taxes not necessary: McGuire v. Williams, 123-349; State v. McIntosh, 31-307. Copy of bond certified by clerk competent evidence: Erwin v. Lowrance, 64-483. Where sheriff pleads in action to recover taxes that he has not received proper credits: Williamson v. Jones, 127-178—that tax was invalid, McGuire v. Williams, 123-349—that he is entitled to credit for insolvents, Comrs. v. Wall, 117-377—that his creditors have attached books, Ibid. Who relator in action on bond, see section 354. Where plaintiff in execution can sue on official or indemnity bond: Martin v. Buffaloe, 128-305. What amounts to plea in bar necessary to be decided before reference: Comrs. v. White, 123-534. Where sureties plead that amercement was fraudulently obtained: State v. Woods, 29-296—that taxes covered by their bond were used to pay tax covered by other bond, Liles v. Rogers, 113-197—that time for sheriff to settle was extended without their consent, Worth v. Cox, 89-44—that office was really vacant, sheriff having failed to make settlement and renew bond, Vann v. Pipkin, 77-408—that bond was never accepted and registered, Jenkins v. Howell, 65-61—that they are not liable for trespass of sheriff under color of office, State v. Brown, 33-141; State v. Long, 30-415.

3931. County commissioners to take and approve bonds. The board of county commissioners in every county shall take and approve the official bonds of the sheriffs, which they shall cause to be registered and the originals deposited with the clerk of the superior court for safe-keeping. The bonds shall be taken on the first Monday of December next after the election of sheriffs, but no board shall permit any former sheriff to give bonds for, or re-enter upon the duties of the office, until he has produced before the board the receipt in full of every such officer for taxes which he has or should have collected.

Rev. s. 2812; Code, ss. 2066, 2068; 1868, c. 20, s. 32; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 5; R. C., c. 105, s. 6; 1806, c. 699, s. 2; 1830, c. 2830, c. 25, s. 2.

The purpose of this section is to protect the public revenue and to insure its honest collection: Hudson v. McArthur, 152-445. Commissioners cannot wantonly refuse tax bond and appoint tax collector: King v. Hunter, 65-603.

While it was irregular to induct defendant into office without his giving all three required bonds, yet defect was cured when they were subsequently tendered and accepted: Worley v. Smith, 81-304.

Board of county commissioners being required to take and approve official bonds of sheriffs, and being liable in damages if they knowingly accept insufficient bonds, the approval of such bonds is within their discretion, and courts cannot compel them to approve and receive bonds which they find to be insolvent or insufficient: Harrington v. King, 117-117; Burke v. Comrs., 148-46.

When sheriff presented to commissioners his proper certificate of election, and showed to them that he had accounted as former sheriff for public moneys, wherewith he was charged, as required by law, it at once became their duty to induct him into office according to law: Hampton v. Waldrop, 104-457; Roberts v. Calvert, 98-580; Hannon v. Grizzard, 96-293.

This section imposes no additional qualification upon eligibility to office of such sheriff-elect other than those required by constitution, article 6, section 1, but only prescribes an assurance for faithful discharge of duties of office. General assembly has authority to prescribe such assurances as general welfare demands, and therefore act is not unconstitutional: Lee v. Dunn, 73-595.

Former sheriff must exhibit to commissioners receipt of proper officers for all public funds which he received, or ought to have received, during his preceding official term, before he will be permitted to re-enter upon a new term: Colvard v. Comrs., 95-515—and the fact that he was able, ready and willing at time of tendering his bond to make settlement and payment of any liability on account of funds so received does not dispense with requirement, Ibid.

Sheriff-elect is not entitled to be inducted into office until he tenders three bonds required, notwithstanding fact that at beginning of his term there is a tax collector in that county: Colvard v. Comrs., 95-515.

Mandamus lies on refusal to induct sheriff into office when bonds are sufficient and other requirements fulfilled: Comrs. v. Sikes, 72-34.

Clerk is proper depository of sheriff’s bonds, and copy certified by him is competent evidence: Erwin v. Lowrance, 64-483.

3932. Duty of commissioners when bonds insufficient. It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners whenever they shall be of opinion that the bonds of the sheriff of their county are insufficient, to notify the sheriff in writing to appear within ten days and give other and better sureties, or justify the sureties on his bonds; and in case such sheriff shall fail to appear on notice, or fail to give sufficient bonds, or to justify his bonds, it shall be the duty of the board to elect forthwith some suitable person in the county as sheriff for the unexpired term, who shall give proper and lawful bonds and be subject to like obligations and penalties.

Rev., s. 2813; Code, s. 2074; 1879, c. 109, s. 2.

See sections 326-328.

Under article 7, section 2, of constitution, county commissioners have power to summon sheriff to justify or renew official bond, whenever in fact, or in their opinion, sureties have become or are liable to become insolvent. And it is not only the right, but duty, of commissioners to declare office of sheriff vacant, and appoint some one for unexpired term, whenever incumbent thereof is found to be, on a relection, in arrears in his settlement of public taxes, or when he takes no notice whatever of summons by commissioners to appear before them on day certain and justify or renew official bond: People v. Green, 75-329.

Where statute requires bond from an officer for faithful discharge of duty, and new duty is attached to office by statute, such bond, given subsequently to latter statute, embraces new duty, and is a security for its performance, unless where, when new duty is attached, bond is required to be given specifically for its performance: State v. Bradshaw, 32-229.

3933. Liability of commissioners. If any board of county commissioners shall fail to comply in good faith with the provisions of this article, they shall be liable for all loss sustained in the collection of taxes, on motion to be made by the solicitor of the district.

Rev., s. 2814; Code, s. 2075; 1868-9, c. 245, s. 3.

Statute requiring sheriff to renew annually his official bonds and, in addition, to produce receipts for public moneys collected by him, and in default thereof it to be the duty of county commissioners to declare office vacant, are intended to effectuate same purpose, and, therefore, a member of the board of county commissioners is liable for only one penalty for failure to perform his duty in that connection: Bray v. Barnard, 109-44.

Commissioners being liable in damages if they knowingly accept insufficient bonds, approval of such bonds is within their discretion, and courts cannot compel them to approve and receive bonds which they find to be insolvent and insufficient: Harrington v. King, 117-117; Burke v. Comrs., 148-46.

The failure of the commissioners to require the sheriff to produce receipts for taxes does not render them liable to the sureties on his bond: Hudson v. McArthur, 152-445.

3934. Liability of sureties. The sureties to a sheriff's bond shall be liable for all fines and amercements imposed on him, in the same manner as they are liable for other defaults in his official duty.

Rev., s. 2815; Code, s. 2076; R.C., c. 105. s. 14; 1829, c. 33.

See annotations under section 3930.

Records of proceedings against sheriff for an amercement imposed upon him are not evidence against sureties to prove his default; but they are admissible against them to prove fact of existence of amercement itself: Governor v. Montford, 23-155.

A judgment of an amercement against a sheriff is not conclusive against sureties on his bond. They may show that judgment was either fraudulently or improperly obtained against their principal: State v. Woodside, 29-296.

Officer cannot be heard to deny or contradict his return; as to him, it is conclusive, and he and the sureties on his bond are liable to plaintiff in execution for sums so endorsed: Walters v. Moore, 90-41.

Sureties to a sheriff's bond, with a condition in ordinary form, are liable for an amercement of sheriff for a default committed during his official term, though final judgment for amercement may not have been rendered until after expiration of it: Governor v. Montford, 23-155.

Art. 3. Duties of Sheriff

3935. To receipt for process. Every sheriff, coroner or constable shall, when requested, give his receipt for all original and mesne process placed in his hands for execution, to the party suing out the same, his agent or attorney; and such receipt shall be admissible as evidence of the facts therein stated, against such officer and his sureties, in any suit between the party taking the receipt and such officer and his sureties.

Rev., s. 2816; Code, s. 2081; R.C., c. 105, s. 18; 1848, c. 97.

For duty to indorse date of receiving process, see section 951.
3936. Execute process; penalty for false return. Every sheriff, by himself or his lawful deputies, shall execute and make due return of all writs and other process to him legally issued and directed, within his county or upon any river, bay or creek adjoining thereto, or in any other place where he may lawfully execute the same. He shall be subject to the penalty of forfeiting one hundred dollars for each neglect, where such process shall be delivered to him twenty days before the sitting of the court to which the same is returnable, to be paid to the party aggrieved by order of court, upon motion and proof of such delivery, unless the sheriff can show sufficient cause to the court at the next succeeding term after the order.

For every false return, the sheriff shall forfeit and pay five hundred dollars, one moiety thereof to the party aggrieved and the other to him that will sue for the same, and moreover be further liable to the action of the party aggrieved, for damages.

Every sheriff and his deputies, and every constable, shall execute all writs and other process to him legally issued and directed from a justice’s court and make due return thereof, under penalty of forfeiting one hundred dollars for each neglect or refusal, where such process shall be delivered to him ten days before the return day thereof, to be paid to the party aggrieved by order of such court, upon motion and proof of such delivery, unless the sheriff or constable can show sufficient cause to the court at a day within three months from the date of the entry of the judgment nisi, of which the officer shall be duly notified.

Rev., s. 2817; Code, s. 2079; 1899, c. 25; R. C., c. 105, s. 17; 1777, c. 218, s. 5; 1821, c. 1110; 1874, c. 33.

See annotations under section 3930. For penalty for failure to enter date of receipt of process, see section 951.

For procedure in motion for judgment nisi hereunder, see annotations under section 3937.

SHERIFF’S AND CONSTABLE’S DUTY TO EXECUTE AND RETURN PROCESS. What constitutes service of process and whether upon a given state of facts service has been duly made, is a question for court; return of sheriff is prima facie service, subject to be overcome by proof of facts: Williamson v. Cocke, 124-585; see, also, section 921.

Where writ from court of competent jurisdiction is delivered to sheriff he is bound to execute it, according to exigency of writ, without inquiring into regularity of proceedings on which writ is grounded: Cody v. Quinn, 28-191—but he must determine, at his peril, whether he who issued it had jurisdiction of matter, State v. McDonald, 14-468.

Sheriff is not obliged to summon power of county upon mesne process: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333.

Constable cannot serve process addressed to sheriff, nor can sheriff serve process addressed to constable: McGoughan v. Mitchell, 126-681. Execution from justice’s court must be directed to “any constable or other lawful officer of the county,” and if it comes into hands of sheriff he must obey it: Ibid. Constable is bound to same degree of diligence in execution of process, where he takes it out himself, as where it is taken out by creditor or his agent and put into his hands: Hearn v. Parker, 52-150.

An officer, notified of necessity of prompt measures for execution of process placed in his hands for arrest of a party, owes the duty, quitting everything else, to make an effort to make the arrest: Wasson v. Linster, 83-575.

Officer cannot break open door of house and enter therein, without consent of owner, for purpose of executing civil process, except when acting under a requisition in claim and delivery where property has been concealed: State v. Whitaker, 107-802; State v. Armfield, 9-246.

Amer cement of a sheriff is a penalty imposed by law for neglect to serve process, when no sufficient cause is shown for his failure to discharge an official duty: Swain v. Phelps, 125-43.

Sheriff, who fails to make a due return, is liable to fine for not making due return of process placed in his hands: Buckley v. Hampton, 23-322; see paragraph under this section headed “Due return,” etc.
Sheriff must execute writs issued and directed to him from a superior or justice's court under penalty of $100 for neglecting to make return: McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126-681; Lindsay's Exrs. v. Armfield, 10-548.

A sheriff is bound to return every process which comes to his hand, not void, with a statement of his action under it, and if he has not completely obeyed it, with a lawful reason for his omission: Bryan v. Hubbs, 69-423. Law requires that a writ shall be returned to court and not to clerk: Hamlin v. March, 31-35—yet clerk is officer of court to receive writ, and whatever may be raised upon it, as his office is place where records of court are kept and preserved, ibid. If clerk will not receive return when rendered, officer to discharge his duty must return precept and money, if he has made it, to court. Court will, upon proper presentation, make such order as case may require, and, in a proper case, direct officer to receive process: Hamlin v. March, 31-35.

Until sheriff receives notice that execution has been superseded he is to obey it according to its tenor. On receiving such notice, it is his duty to stop proceeding and to return writ with a statement of his action under it and reason for his ceasing to act: Bryan v. Hubbs, 69-423. A sheriff is not bound to collect execution, and pay amount to plaintiff, before return day of writ: Patten v. Mann, 35-444.

Where sheriff returns that he has applied the proceeds of one execution in his hands in satisfaction of another he is liable to amercement: Smith v. McMillan, 84-593.

Sheriff may be amerced for not returning process at a term subsequent to that to which return should have been made: Halecombe v. Rowland, 30-210.

THE RETURN ITSELF; USED AS EVIDENCE. The term ‘return’ means that process must be brought back and produced in court whence it issued, with such endorsements as law requires: Watson v. Mitchell, 108-364.

Recitals in a sheriff's return of process are prima facie evidence of truth of the statements therein: Miller v. Powers, 117-218; Simpson v. Hiatt, 35-470; Patterson v. Britt, 33-383; see section 921. But it cannot be impeached collaterally: Comrs. v. Spencer, 174-36; Edwards v. Tipton, 77-222—nor contradicted by a single witness, Birmingham v. Canady, 156-177. Return of a levy endorsed upon an execution is neither conclusive nor prima facie evidence that there was an actual seizure of the property: Bland v. Whitfield, 46-122. Officer cannot be heard to deny or contradict his return; as to him it is conclusive: Walters v. Moore, 90-41. If an interlineation appears on face of officer's return, and there is no evidence to show when it was done, court will presume that it was done before return was made, when officer had authority to alter his return: Sloan v. Stanley, 33-627. A certified copy of execution, when returned, is evidence: Pigot v. Davis, 10-25.

DUE RETURN. ‘Due return’ of process means a proper return, made in proper time. What is a proper return, in form and substance, is a question of law, to be decided by the court; but whether it was made in proper time is a question of fact to be decided by jury: Waugh v. Brittain, 49-470. What constitutes service of process and whether upon a given state of facts service has been duly made, is a question for court; return of sheriff is prima facie service, subject to be overcome by proof of facts: Williamson v. Cocke, 124-585; see, also, section 921.

Sheriff to whom writ has been delivered, but who goes out of office before return day of writ, has no power to make return on it, and therefore is not liable to amercement for not doing so: State v. Woodside, 29-296; McLin v. Hardie, 25-407. A return of sheriff to a fl. fa., that ‘‘he had made a levy on personal property and taken a forthcoming bond, but had not sold it; that obligors did not deliver property on day, and that, after day, it was too late to make a sale,’’ is not such a ‘‘due return’’ of process as will exempt sheriff from amercement: Frost v. Rowland, 27-385.

A sheriff is not bound, like a constable, to any particularity in his return of a levy on a fl. fa.: Judge v. Houston, 34-108. Upon a fl. fa. issuing with a venditioni exponas upon the return of a former fl. fa. levied on property which was not sold, it is sufficient to return ‘‘No property except what heretofore has been levied on and sent to your office’’: McDowell v. Robison, 48-535. Proof that a writ was directed by clerk to sheriff of another county, and mailed in due time to reach him in regular course of mail, was held to be sufficient evidence to authorize entering of judgment for an amercement, nisi, if there be no return of process: State v. Latham, 51-233. Where a sheriff returned an execution endorsed ‘‘Enjoined’’: Held, sufficient: Patton v. Marr, 44-377. Where levy upon land was made in December, 1867, and upon a ven. ex. issued in 1869 sheriff returned "'No goods, chattels, lands or tenements to be found in my county over the homestead'": Held, that he was liable to be amered for insufficient return: McKeithan v. Terry, 64-25. Return to execution, "'Wholly unsatisfied,'" is not a sufficient return, as it does not conclusively appear thereby that no goods of testator were to be found. After an absolute judgment against executors, the proper return to an execution issuing thereon is "'No goods or chattels of testator to be found'": McDowell v. Clark, 68-117. Return by sheriff on a fieri facias that "'he has levied on goods subject to older executions,'" without saying whether he had sold property seized or still had it in his hands, or if latter, why he had not sold, whether for want of bidders or of time, or other sufficient excuse, is not a "'due return'" because it does not answer the writ: Buckley v. Hampton, 23-322.

Sheriff is not liable to amercement for failure to have in court amount of execution issued upon a judgment for debt contracted prior to 1868, when judgment debtor has no property, real or personal, in excess of his exemptions under article 10 of the constitution: Richardson v. Wicker, 80-172.

Sheriff is allowed all the days of term to return an execution, unless he be ruled, upon motion and cause shown, to return it on some intermediate day: Person v. Newsom, 87-142; Ledbetter v. Arledge, 53-475. Where summons sent by mail did not reach officer until six days before sitting of court to which it was returnable, and he served it in two days thereafter: Held, not liable to amercement: Yeargin v. Wood, 84-326. Sheriff who fails to make return of process before adjournment of court to which returnable is liable to penalty prescribed by statute: Boyd v. Teague, 111-246; Turner v. Page, 111-291. Sheriff cannot be amered if he return an execution within time prescribed by law, though he fail to return the money collected thereon into court or pay it to party or his attorney: Cockerham v. Baker, 52-288; Davis v. Lancaster, 5-255. Former sheriff has no authority to act under a writ directed to his successor, and therefore a writing purporting to be a return by former sheriff, made upon such writ, is not in law a return, and of course not a part of record in that suit: Spruill v. Bate-man, 20-627.

EXCUSE FOR FAILURE TO MAKE "'DUE RETURN.'" An execution to which a sheriff of a county is a party, either plaintiff or defendant, directed to such sheriff, is null and void; and sheriff is not bound to make any return thereon, and cannot be amered for neglecting or refusing to do so: Bowen v. Jones, 35-25.

Where scire facias has been sued out upon judgment, and while it is in sheriff's hands parties agreed that collection of money should be suspended so as to enable them to make full settlement, yet sheriff is not thereby excused from returning process, but is liable to amercement if he fails to do so: Morrow v. Allison, 33-217. Death of clerk during term time is no excuse for not making return: Hamlin v. March, 31-35.

Where a sheriff mailed an execution in time, by ordinary course of mails, to have come to hands of clerk, to whom it was directed, before sitting of court to which it was returnable, it was held he was not guilty of a breach of duty: Cockerham v. Baker, 52-288. A sheriff indorsed upon execution "'Debt and interest due to sheriff, costs paid into office,'" and upon another "'Satisfied,'" without stating what disposition he had made of fund; returns are sufficient in law to relieve sheriff from amercement for not making "'due return'": Person v. Newsom, 87-142. What is excuse to sheriff for not making arrest is matter of law, after facts are ascertained: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333. Rescue is a good return in excuse, and sheriff may return that he did not take body because he was kept off by force of arms: Ibid.

For facts not sufficient to excuse, see Bell v. Wycoff, 131-245; Turner v. Page, 111-291.

FALSE RETURN. To render sheriff liable to amercement for false return it must appear that return is false in point of fact and not false merely as importing, from facts truly stated, a wrong legal conclusion: Lemit v. Mooring, 30-312; see Albright v. Tapscott, 53-473; Harrell v. Warren, 100-259.

When sheriff returns that a writ came to his hands "'too late to execute,'" writ having been delivered to him more than ten but less than twenty days before term of court, he is liable to penalty for making a false return: Lemit v. Freeman, 29-317—but not liable when only five days intervened, Hassell v. Latham, 52-465.

Where defendant in writ is openly at large in county, "'non est inventus'" is a false return; and if he cannot be taken elsewhere, statute requires that sheriff shall go to his place of residence before he makes that return: Houser v. Hampton, 29-333. Return of "'not to be found'" on a capias is not true, because of defendant's being out of state at time return is made, if officer had an opportunity of making arrest previously while process was in his hands: 1613.
A sheriff, having in hand an order of arrest against B, told B that he "had better come and go with him to Jackson and fix the matter there"; B refused to go with him, and sheriff left without taking any further action; what passed did not constitute an arrest of B, and sheriff was not liable for a false return, in that he returned on the order of arrest "Not served": Lawrence v. Buxton, 102-129.

A sheriff who returns on an execution that he has collected and paid over amount thereof, when in fact money was not collected until some ten days thereafter, is liable for penalty of $500 for making false return: Peebles v. Newsom, 74-473. Where sheriff returns upon a fi. fa. two credits for money received thereon at different times, and suppressing a third credit, returns "Not satisfied," it was held that such return was false, and subjected him to penalty of $500: Martin v. Martin, 50-346.

Failure to mention payment of $2.50 made on execution in his return made return defective, but such an omission does not render sheriff liable to penalty imposed for false return: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259. Mere general report that debtor has no property will not justify a return of nulla bona if debtor in fact has property subject to be levied on: Parks v. Alexander, 29-412.

EXCUSE FOR FALSE RETURN. Ignorance of sheriff's deputy, who makes a false return, does not excuse sheriff from penalty: House v. Hampton, 29-333.

A sheriff who endorses upon execution an application of proceeds of sale different from actual application is not excused from penalty for false return, although actual application was proper and false entry made by mistake or inadvertence: Finley v. Hayes, 81-368. Mistake of fact as to date of sale endorsed upon execution by sheriff will not excuse or free him from liability for penalty for false return: Finley v. Hayes, 81-368.

If a sheriff, who has mesne process, finds defendant and really endeavors to arrest him, and is prevented by any sufficient cause, or if, after arrest, defendant is rescued, he should return facts in excuse for not taking body, and not return generally non est inventus, contrary to fact: House v. Hampton, 29-333.

DEPUTY SHERIFF'S FAILURE TO EXECUTE AND RETURN PROPERLY. Ignorance of sheriff's deputy, who makes a false return, does not excuse sheriff from penalty: House v. Hampton, 29-333.

Sheriff cannot be made responsible for acts of constable, who sometimes acted as his deputy, but never without a special deputation, unless it can be shown that he was expressly authorized: Patterson v.Britt, 33-383—nor when constable returns the attachment levied by him as constable, although by an order of court the return is permitted to be amended by stating the levy to have been made by sheriff by constable as deputy, sheriff's office having then expired and order of amendment having been appealed from, Ibid.

Sheriff may recover on deputy's bond for loss suffered by reason of false return made by deputy; but not if the sheriff ratified the act or was himself the cause of the wrongful act: Wasson v. Linster, 83-575.

AMENDMENT OF RETURN. Court has no power to allow sheriff's return of a levy on land to be amended by inserting a particular description of the premises required by statute, the original return being defective, and so of the like cases: Phillipse v. Higdon, 44-380.

Power of judge to allow amendments in process, etc., is broad, and is to be exercised, in meritorious cases, in his sound discretion: Swain v. Burden, 124-16; Swain v. Phelps, 125-43; Stealman v. Greenwood, 113-355; Williams v. Weaver, 101-1—and this is so even after suit brought for penalty imposed for false return, and such amendment defeats plaintiff's right to recover such penalty: Stealman v. Greenwood, 113-355. An officer has not, "as a matter of law," right to amend return in order to correct error, but it is within discretion of presiding judge to permit such amendment in meritorious cases: Campbell v. Smith, 115-498; Williams v. Weaver, 101-1.

If return be erroneous, officer may have same corrected upon direct application to court for that purpose: Walters v. Moore, 90-41. When, in action against sheriff for false return, court permits return to be amended, plaintiff should note his exception, and, unless amended return is admitted to be true, proceed to try the issue. An appeal before final judgment on such admission, or a verdict, is premature and will be dismissed: Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105-74.

Where summons has been properly served, return may be amended to show that deputy officer making service had been duly appointed by sheriff; and defendant cannot be prejudiced by such amendment: Manning v. R. R., 122-824. Sheriff should not be permitted to amend return to the injury of strangers to record, and this especially after lapse of sixteen years: Davidson
v. Cowan, 12-304; see Williams v. Sharpe, 70-582; Bank v. Williamson, 24-147.

Where summons was properly served and sheriff's return was unsigned, though indorsed in proper form, judge at trial did not exceed his powers in permitting sheriff to sign return nunc

LIABILITY OF SHERIFF. The sheriff is liable for failure to return process or for a Formerly the penalty of $100 imposed for false return to criminal process was restricted to constables. Under section 4396 it is extended to sheriffs and other officers, state or municipal, and was held to apply only to criminal process: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259—but it was extended to apply to civil cases in State v. Berry, 169-371.

Penalty of $500 imposed for false return under this section is restricted to sheriffs, and false returns by them made to civil process: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259; Martin v. Martin, 50-349.
Action for penalty brought in name of person suing, without alleging that any one else is interested: Ibid.

Where sheriff acts under execution regular in form and issued by court of competent jurisdiction he incurs no liability to judgment debtor for seizure and sale of his property, although judgment on which execution issued may have been invalid: O'Briant v. Wilkerson, 122-304; Farley v. Lea, 20-310; but at his peril, he must see that court had jurisdiction of the matter:
State v. McDonald, 14-468.

A delay to execute a fi. fa. for eight days, where officer lived within ten miles of debtor, was such a want of diligence as would subject him in damages to creditor: Hearn v. Parker, 52-150. If sheriff forbears, at request of plaintiff, to collect money on an execution, he is not responsible therefor; but if he forbears of his own accord, he will be liable for the damages plaintiff may sustain thereby: McRae v. Evans, 18-243.

Sheriff having an execution in his hands is not indictable for levy on property in the possession of and belonging to a son of the defendant in the execution, when he acts bona fide under a bond of indemnity. He is liable civilly, but not criminally: State v. Tatom, 69-35; see Stein v. Cozart, 122-280.

Reputation of insolvency of defendant in execution will not excuse officer from liability for neglect in not endeavoring to ascertain whether there is property subject to execution: State
v. Edwards, 32-242. A sheriff has no right to return 'nulla bona' on an execution without making an effort to find property at residence of defendant in execution, or making demand of payment or inquiry for property: Parks v. Alexander, 29-412.

It is no answer for sheriff to say, when sued for negligence in not executing process against debtor, that debtor, even after being imprisoned under a ca. sa., might pay, or secure to be paid by assignment, other bona fide debts to disappointment of judgment creditor: Sherrill v.
Shuford, 32-200—true inquiry being, Has the sheriff, by his negligence, deprived plaintiff of any legal means of securing payment of his debt? If he has, and debtor had property, which might by due process have been subject to it, sheriff shall be liable to amount of debt which might have been thus secured, Ibid.

Where execution is about to be levied, debtor, if he has personal property, must show it, and if he does not, officer commits no wrong by levying on land in first instance: Sloan v.
Stanley, 33-627—if it does not appear that the officer knew of the existence of the personal property he is justifiable in levying on real estate: Ibid.

When owner of land does not petition for homestead, it is duty of sheriff or other officer who has execution to have it laid off at expense of creditor, and if he refuse to pay or tender fees of officer, he will be justified in refusing to execute process: Lute v. Reilly, 65-20; Taylor
v. Rhyne, 65-530.

Where sheriff had levied on personal property alleged to belong to judgment debtor and, upon its being claimed by third person, released levy and took bond to indemnify him in case he should be amerced, such bond of indemnity is void: Griffin v. Hasty, 94-438.

It is not necessary, in action against sheriff for misconduct of one who acted as his deputy, to show written deputation; it being sufficient to show that he acted generally as deputy, without going back to his appointment: State v. Allen, 27-36. Admissions or declarations of sheriff's deputy are evidence against sheriff when they accompany official acts of deputy or tend to charge him, he being real party in interest, for he is agent of sheriff: State v. Allen, 27-36.
Measure of damages against a collecting agent is amount which he collected or which he might have collected and did not, and same is lost by his negligence. For simply failing to return an insolvent debt the damage is nominal: Brumble v. Brown, 73-476.

The law charges deputy with no duty to creditor, and if he makes default in serving an execution he cannot be sued for it, but his principal only. In such a case deputy is not a bailee as to possession, but is merely a servant of his superior, and holds for him, and therefore has no action himself: Hampton v. Brown, 35-18.

When sureties of sheriff have had to pay money for default of deputy in not taking bail bond from defendant in writ, they have right to be substituted to rights of sheriff against deputy: Blalock v. Peake, 56-323.

Where money collected by deputy sheriff by virtue of office and not turned over, sheriff liable in damages: Lyle v. Wilson, 26-226.

Sheriff is liable where he or his deputy seized the property of A under execution against B: Satterwhite v. Carson, 25-549; Burgin v. Burgin, 23-453—or where he seized and sold property of a third person in attachment proceedings: Stein v. Cozart, 122-280.

3937. Sufficient notice in case of amercement. In all cases where any sheriff or other officer shall be amerced for failure to make due return of any execution or other process placed in his hands, or for any default whatsoever in office, and judgment nisi or otherwise for the penalty or forfeiture in such case made and provided shall be entered, it shall be sufficient to give such sheriff notice, according to law, under the hand of the clerk and seal of the court where such judgment may be entered, of a motion for a judgment absolute, or for execution, as the case may be; and no other notice, summons or suit shall be necessary to enforce the same; and such proceedings shall be deemed and held in aid of a suit or other proceedings already instituted in court.

See section 3936. Where a prima facie case is made, either upon affidavit or other sufficient proof, a rule nisi is granted as of course: Ex parte Schenck, 63-601. Where judgment nisi for $100 is rendered against sheriff for failure to make due return of process, and no sufficient reason is shown for failure, judgment should be made absolute: Graham v. Sturgill, 123-384.

On trial of an action for penalty for false return on execution when defendant sheriff offered to introduce in evidence true return of proceeds of sale endorsed upon certain other executions, evidence was immaterial and properly excluded: Finley v. Hayes, 81-368.

Sheriff may be amerced at a subsequent term to that at which the process was returnable, for not having made his return at a previous term: Hysat v. Allison, 48-533.

Amercement, and not a civil action, is remedy given against a sheriff for not making "due and proper" return of process: Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105-74.

Courts have no dispensing power to relieve from penalty prescribed by law: Swain v. Phelps, 125-43.

A justice of the peace has no power to amerce sheriff of county other than that in which he holds his court for failure to make due return to process issued by such justice; he can only amerce sheriff of his county when he fails to perform duties: Boggs v. Davis, 82-27.

The return or certificate of a ministerial officer, as to what he has done out of court, is only to be taken as prima facie true, and is not conclusive: Smith v. Low, 27-197.

Action against sheriff of county other than that from which process issued, for making false return, is properly brought in courts of county to which that process returnable: Watson v. Mitchell, 108-364.

Any person may sue for penalty imposed upon sheriff for a false return, and he need not mention in his complaint the other party to whom the statute gives one-half of the recovery: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259.

In a proceeding to enforce statutory penalty against sheriff for failure to make due return of process, it is not error to set aside judgment absolute where it appeared that he had no notice of rule upon him to show cause: Yeargin v. Wood, 84-326.

On motion to set aside judgment against defendant sheriff for alleged failure to make due return of process, facts of this case entitle him to relief under section 600: Francks v. Sutton, 86-78.
Duties and liabilities of sheriff in relation to execution of process are nearly same under C. C. P. as under old system, but procedure for enforcing judgment nisi against him is changed from a scire facias to a civil action, and summons must be in same court as judgment, and must be returned to regular term thereof: Jones v. Gupton, 65-48.

3938. Execute summons, order or judgment. Whenever the sheriff may be required to serve or execute any summons, order or judgment, or to do any other act, he shall be bound to do so in like manner as upon process issued to him, and shall be equally liable in all respects for neglect of duty; and if the sheriff be a party, the coroner shall be bound to perform the service, as he is now bound to execute process where the sheriff is a party; and this chapter relating to sheriffs shall apply to coroners when the sheriff is a party. Sheriffs and coroners may return process by mail. Their liabilities in respect to the execution of process shall be as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 2819; Code, s. 598; C. C. P., s. 354.

For duties with reference to service of process, and penalties for failure to make due return, etc., see section 3936.

In action wherein sheriff is party defendant, it is proper that summons issued against a co-defendant should be addressed to and served by coroner: Battle v. Baird, 118-854.

County commissioners may declare the office vacant, upon insanity of sheriff, but their failure to do so merely authorizes coroner to perform duties of sheriff proper, but does not cast upon him right to collect taxes: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582.

A city or town constable has no authority to serve beyond limits of his own town process directed to "constable or other lawful officer of county"; to authorize him to make such service, process must be directed to him, not necessarily in his individual name as such officer, but in name of office he holds: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84; Carson v. Woodrow, 160-144.

If court issuing process has a general jurisdiction to issue such process, and the want of jurisdiction does not appear upon the face of the paper, a sheriff and his assistants may justify under it: State v. Ferguson, 67-219.

Constable cannot serve process addressed to sheriff, nor can sheriff serve process addressed to constable: McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126-681.

As to coroner's acting as sheriff, see section 1021.

3939. Liability of outgoing sheriff for unexecuted process. Any sheriff who shall have received a precept, and shall go out of office before the return day thereof, without having executed the same, shall forfeit and pay to the party at whose instance it was issued the sum of one hundred dollars, if such precept shall have remained in his hands for such length of time wherein it might have been well executed by him; unless the same shall have been thereafter executed by the successor of such sheriff and returned at the day and place commanded therein; or unless it shall have been delivered over to the succeeding sheriff time enough to have allowed of its being executed by him; and the penalty aforesaid shall be recoverable by notice against such outgoing sheriff and his sureties.

It is duty of sheriff going out of office to deliver all process remaining in his hands to his successor: State v. Woodside, 29-296.

3940. Payment of money collected on execution. In all cases where a sheriff has collected money upon an execution placed in his hands, if there be no bona fide contest over the application thereof, he shall immediately pay the same to the plaintiff, or into the office of the clerk of the court from which the execution issued, and upon his failure to make such payment upon demand, he shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be collected as other penalties.

Rev., s. 2821; Code, s. 2080.
3941. Deposit county tax money with treasurer. Every sheriff shall deposit the county and other local taxes, by him collected, with the county treasurer, if there be a county treasurer, as often as he shall collect or have in his possession at any one time of such county or local taxes a sum equal to five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 208; Code, s. 2073.

3942. Publish list of delinquent taxpayers. Whenever any sheriff or tax collector shall be credited on settlement with any tax or taxes by him returned as insolvent, dead or removed, he shall forthwith make publication at the courthouse door, and at least one public place in each and every township in his county, of a complete list of the names of such insolvent, dead or removed delinquents, with the amount of the tax due from each, and the sum total so credited. Such list, by order of the board of commissioners, may also be published in any newspaper printed in the county; in which case, the expense of the advertisement, for such time as may be directed, shall be paid by the county. Any sheriff or tax collector failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Rev., ss. 2826, 3587; Code, s. 2002; 1876-7. 8. 21, 3.

3943. Liability for escape under civil process. When any sheriff shall take or receive and have in keeping the body of any debtor in execution, or upon attachment, for not performing a judgment for the payment of any sum of money, and shall willfully or negligently suffer such debtor to escape, the person suing out such execution or attachment, his executors or administrators, shall have and maintain an action for the debt against such sheriff and the sureties on his official bond, and in case of his death, against his executors or administrators, for the recovery of all such sums of money as are mentioned in the execution or attachment, and damages for detaining the same.

Rev., ss. 2823; Code, s. 2083; R. C., c. 105, s. 20; 13 Edw. I, c. 11; 1777, c. 118, ss. 10, 11.

AS TO WHAT IS AN ESCAPE. There are only two kinds of escape known to our law of a prisoner confined for debt, one voluntary and the other negligent, except where prisoner has escaped by act of God or of public enemy: Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147.

It is not an escape in a sheriff to permit a debtor committed under a ca. sa. to remain in prison with the door of the prison open, unless such debtor passes out of prison: Currie v. Worthy, 47-104. Sheriff, having permitted one arrested under mesne process in a civil action to get into an adjoining room, from which he escaped, is guilty of an escape: Wimborne v. Mitchell, 111-13.

A paper-writing, upon which a constable arrests a debtor and imprisons him, not running in name of state, nor being directed to any ministerial officer, nor purporting to be signed by a justice of the peace, cannot be deemed a judicial process; and sheriff is not guilty of an escape in permitting debtor thus imprisoned to go at large: Ellis v. Gee, 5-445.

WHEN SHERIFF LIABLE AND WHEN NOT LIABLE. Where defendant has been arrested upon mesne process and gives bail, and, after judgment, bail surrenders him to sheriff out of term time, no execution having been issued on judgment nor any committitur prayed by plaintiff, if sheriff releases him upon bond to appear at court and take benefit of insolvent law, sheriff is liable for an escape: State v. Ellison, 31-261.

Only difference as to liability of officer, between the two kinds of escape, is that in case of voluntary escape he is liable absolutely; in the case of negligent escape, he has a right to retake prisoner, and if he does retake him upon fresh pursuit, he is not liable to an action of debt brought after such recapture, and when he has prisoner in custody: Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147.
Nothing can excuse sheriff for escape of a debtor committed to his custody but the act of God or the public enemy: Rainey v. Dunning, 6-386; Mabry v. Turrentine, 30-201; Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147.

A sheriff is not liable as special bail, after he has committed a defendant on mesne process, though such defendant be permitted by him to go at large: Buffalo v. Hussey, 44-237.

Where scire facias issued against sheriff to charge him as special bail for person sued at the instance of plaintiff, and who had been, for want of bail, committed to jail in the sheriff's county, and afterwards discharged as an insolvent by two magistrates, sheriff was not liable as special bail: Buffalo v. Hussey, 44-237.

The words "executed P. R. T., D. Sheriff" endorsed on a capias which, duly issued, came to hands of sheriff, are such legal return as to make sheriff liable as special bail, on failure of him or his deputy to take bail bond: Washington v. Vinson, 49-380.

To render sheriff liable for escape of insolvent surrendered in court, it is necessary to show that such insolvent was committed to sheriff's custody by order of court. A mere prayer to that effect will not be sufficient: Siler v. McKee, 47-379.

Where one has been arrested under a capias ad respondendum, escaped from sheriff, and latter by his return negatived any idea that he intended to become special bail for the party escaped, sheriff and his sureties were liable upon his official bond for such escape, and measure of damages was not the debt and interest, but such actual damages as plaintiff had sustained: Lusk v. Falls, 63-188.

If sheriff fails to take bail, plaintiff need not file exceptions nor give notice to fix him as bail: Adams v. Jones, 60-198—and sheriff is said to fail to take bail when bond is so defective and imperfect as to be adjudged not to be such, Ibid.

After surrender, if creditor, upon reasonable notice, will not charge party in execution, either a habeas corpus or a supersedeas would be issued by court: State v. Ellison, 31-261.

In action of debt on sheriff's bond for escape of debtor imprisoned under a ca. sa., jury are not bound to give whole sum due from such debtor, but should give damages really sustained by escape: Willey v. Euro, 53-320; Robertson v. Matlock, 8-425.

Where sheriff arrested a man on a ca. sa. and committed him to jail, in custody of jailer, and prisoner escaped: Held that, without bond of indemnity, jailer was only bound to sheriff for want of fidelity or due care in discharge of duty: Turrentine v. Faucett, 33-652.

In an action for escape, if defendant wishes to except as to venue upon ground of its being a penal action, he must make objection by plea in abatement: Whicker v. Roberts, 32-485.

Meaning of term "negligent escape" in our statute is same that was given to that term at common law: Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147. Insolvency of principal is no defense to action against bail; nor can sheriff, when sued as bail, show in mitigation of damages such insolvency: Winborne v. Mitchell, 111-13. Sheriff must be proceeded against by sci. fa., as bail for not taking bail upon a capias in equity; and an action on the case will not lie against him for such failure or neglect: Troy v. Williamson, 18-252.

Plaintiff is entitled to interest on a recovery in debt for an escape against the sheriff in the same way he would be entitled against the debtor: Currie v. Worthy, 48-315.

Where sheriff executes a writ and permits defendant to go at large under promise to give bail to deputy, latter is not liable to sheriff for escape: Dowell v. Vannoy, 14-23.

When judgment is obtained against two or more, and no bail bond has been taken from either, and sheriff, who has thus become bail for all, after rendition of judgment and issuing of ca. sa., is directed by plaintiff not to serve ca. sa. on one of defendants, he is still liable as bail for not surrendering other defendant: Jackson v. Hampton, 32-379.

A writ commanding to "take the body and safely keep, etc., until the sheriff makes a sum of money, and to have that money in court at return day," is not a ca. sa. and not sufficient to charge bail: Finley v. Smith, 15-95. Without a proper ca. sa. a precept will not authorize detention of defendant nor make sheriff liable for his escape: Walker v. Vick, 19-99.

In all cases of escape, after debtor is committed to jail, sheriff is liable, however innocent he may be, unless escape has been occasioned by act of God or public enemy: Rainey v. Dunning, 6-386.

Pursuit and recapture as a defense. Where prisoner, confined for debt, escapes, officer, in an action against him for escape, can only excuse himself by showing that he has not only made fresh pursuit, but also that he has actually recaptured prisoner before suit brought. Without this, fresh pursuit will not excuse officer, even though prisoner die.
before officer has it in his power by due diligence to recapture him: Whicker v. Roberts, 32-485.
In this state, defense of fresh pursuit and recapture need not be by plea, but may be made on the general issue: Ibid.

3944. Custody of jail. The sheriff shall have the care and custody of the jail in his county; and shall be, or appoint, the keeper thereof.
Rev., s. 2824; Code, s. 2085; R. C., c. 105, s. 22.
A sheriff has a right to take bond from jailer to indemnify him for all losses to which he may be subjected by escape of prisoner while in custody of jailer: Turrentine v. Faucett, 33-652.

3945. Prevent entering jail for lynching; county liable. When the sheriff of any county has good reason to believe that the jail of his county is in danger of being broken or entered for the purpose of killing or injuring a prisoner placed by the law in his custody, it shall be his duty at once to call on the commissioners of the county, or some one of them, for a sufficient guard for the jail, and in such case, if the commissioner or commissioners fail to authorize the employment of necessary guards to protect the jail, and by reason of such failure the jail is entered and a prisoner killed, the county wherein whose jail the prisoner is confined shall be responsible in damages, to be recovered by the personal representatives of the prisoner thus killed, by action begun and prosecuted before the superior court of any county in this state.
Rev., s. 2825; 1893, c. 461, s. 7.

3946. Not to farm office. No sheriff shall let to farm in any manner, his county, or any part of it, under pain of forfeiting five hundred dollars, one-half to the use of the county and the other half to the person suing for the same.
Rev., s. 2828; Code, s. 2084; R. C., c. 105, s. 21; 23 Hen. VI, c. 10.
This section prohibits sheriff from letting to farm, in any manner, his county, or any part of it: Cansler v. Penland, 125-578. Plaintiff, appointed tax collector for county, turned over to defendant entire lists, absolutely, to collect and account for, and reserving no control of tax lists; this constituted a clear case of farming out public office prohibited by statute: Ibid.
An agreement to compensate or to pay expenses for attempting to secure appointment to office is void: Basket v. Moss, 115-448. Traffic in public offices is against good morals and contrary to public policy: Ibid.

3947. Obligation taken by sheriff, payable to himself. The sheriff or his deputy shall take no obligation of or from any person in his custody for or concerning any matter or thing relating to his office otherwise payable than to himself as sheriff and dischargeable upon the prisoner’s appearance and rendering himself at the day and place required in the writ (whereupon he was or shall be taken or arrested), and his sureties discharging themselves therefrom as special bail of such prisoner or such person keeping within the limits and rules of any prison; and every other obligation taken by any sheriff in any other manner or form, by color of his office, shall be void, except in any special case and other obligation shall be, by law, particularly and expressly directed; and no sheriff shall demand, exact, take or receive any greater fee or reward whatsoever, nor shall have any allowance, reward or satisfaction from the public, for any service by him done, other than such sum as the court shall allow for ex officio services and the allowance given and provided by law.

CHAPTER 73

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION

3948. Repeal of statute not to affect actions. The repeal of a statute shall not affect any action brought before the repeal, for any forfeitures incurred, or for the recovery of any rights accruing under such statute.

Rev., s. 2830; Code, s. 3764; R. C., c. 108, s. 1; 1830, c. 4; 1879, c. 163; 1881, c. 48.

When a statute creates a cause of action and is repealed before action is brought, the cause of action is destroyed: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396. When the action is pending at the time of such repeal, the right of action continues: Smith v. Ice Co., 159-151; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Wilmington v. Stolter, 122-395; Wilmington v. Cronly, 122-388; Epps v. Smith, 121-157; State v. Williams, 97-455. By express enactment the cause of action may be taken away: R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; Bray v. Williams, 137-387; Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Dyer v. Ellington, 126-941. When a judgment has been obtained before the repeal, it is a vested right and will not be affected: Grocery Co. v. R. R., 136-396; Dunham v. Anders, 128-207.

When the cause of action is founded upon the common law, the repeal of a statute affecting it will not destroy the right: Williams v. R. R., 153-360.

When county officers had been ordered by the court to build a certain fence, and while appeal was pending the act authorizing the building was repealed, the action abated: Brinson v. Duplin, 173-137.

When a part of two counties had been included in a graded school district and the act including a part of one county was repealed, it would not prevent the collection of taxes due at the time: Mann v. Allen, 171-219; Marsh v. Early, 169-465.

When a penal statute upon which an indictment is founded is repealed pending the indictment, defendant is entitled to an acquittal: State v. Williams, 97-455; State v. Long, 78-571; State v. Wise, 66-120, 67-281; State v. Nutt, 61-20; State v. Cress, 49-421—and judgment may even be arrested after conviction: State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Cress, 49-421; State v. Williams, 97-455; State v. Long, 78-571.

When a criminal statute, or any part of it essential to sustain an indictment, is repealed or stricken out, offense committed under older statute cannot be punished unless contrary intent appear from express saving clause or by necessary implication: State v. Massey, 103-356.

Statutes which change mode of procedure may apply to suits pending: Sumner v. Miller, 64-688.

AS TO CONSTRUING RETROACTIVELY. A statute is to be construed prospectively, unless the contrary intention be clearly expressed therein: Waddill v. Maeten, 172-582; State v. Haynie, 169-277; Elizabeth City v. Comrs., 146-539; Woodley v. Bond, 66-396; State v. Littlefield, 93-614; Greer v. Asheville, 114-678. Presumption is against retroactive operation: Lowe v. Harris, 112-472; Morrison v. McDonald, 113-327.

A statute which repeals a statute containing penalty against usury does not have the retroactive effect to make the contract for usury lawful: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137. Act changing law of evidence will not be construed retroactive so as to injure existing rights: Lowe v. Harris, 112-472. Time of statute of limitations cannot be changed as to existing suits: Nichols v. R. R., 120-495. Increase of punishment cannot be retroactive: State v. Ramsour, 113-642.

Where, pending an appeal, subject-matter of the action is destroyed or a statute giving the cause of action is repealed, this court will not go into consideration of the abstract question as to which party ought to have prevailed, in order to adjudicate costs, but judgment below as to costs will be allowed to stand: Wikel v. Comrs., 120-451; Reid v. R. R., 162-355.

A retrospective law taxing business of citizens during whole of current year in which such law is passed is not constitutional: State v. Bell, 61-76.

3949. Rules for construction of statutes. In the construction of all statutes the following rules shall be observed, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the manifest intent of the general assembly, or repugnant to the context of the same statute, that is to say:

Rev., s. 2831; R. C., c. 108, s. 2.

Words are to be taken in their ordinary meaning, and technical words in their usual technical sense: Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631; Asbury v. Albemarle, 162-247; Rives v. Guthrie, 46-84; Adams v. Turrentine, 30-147; State v. Gupton, 30-271; Kitchen v. Tyson, 7-314; State v. Jernigan, 7-12—and words which have been construed in a particular sense will receive the same construction, Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244; Bridgers v. Taylor, 102-86.

The court cannot supply words to make the statute operative, but clerical omissions may be supplied: Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322; State v. Monds, 130-697; Russell v. Leatherwood, 114-683. A mistake in a name or description will not defeat the statute if there is enough left to show the meaning: Toomey v. Lumber Co., 171-178; Fortune v. Comrs., 140-322. In the use of specific words and general terms the former will restrict the meaning of the latter: State v. Craig, 176-740.

In ascertaining the meaning, consideration should be given to the law as it existed before, to general public policy of the state, the purpose of the act, and the effect of a particular construction: Kendall v. Stafford, 178-461; Bank v. Loven, 172-666; Seward v. R. R., 159-241. In determining whether a statute is mandatory or directory, no definite rule can be applied, but the legislative intent must govern, to be ascertained from the wording, the nature, purpose and consequences: Spruill v. Davenport, 178-364.

A change of construction by the court will not affect vested rights: Fowle v. Ham, 176-12; Ely v. Norman, 175-299. The court will not attribute to the legislature the intention of requiring the doing of an impossible thing: Garrison v. R. R., 150-575.

If a statute is too vague to convey any definite meaning it is void: State v. Partlow, 91-550—and no extrinsic evidence is admissible to show the legislative intent, Goins v. Training School, 140-322; Abernethy v. Comrs., 169-631; State v. R. R., 122-1052; State v. Partlow, 91-550.

Rule, in the construction of statutes, that a proviso is to be considered as a limitation upon the general words preceding, or an exception therefrom, is not absolute, and the meaning of proviso must generally be ascertained from its language: Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298. If the proviso is in conflict with the purview of the statute, the proviso will control: Supply Co. v. Eastern Star Home, 163-514.

The maxim, ‘‘the reason ceasing, the law ceases also,’’ has no application to the construction of statutes: State v. Eaves, 106-752.

When act declaratory of intent of previous act will not control court in construction: Rodwell v. Harrison, 132-45.

RELATED STATUTES. All statutes about the same subject-matter are in pari materia and should be construed together: Allen v. Reidsville, 178-513; Latham v. Latham, 178-12; Bank v. Loven, 172-666; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Abbott v. Beddingfield, 125-256; State v. Melton, 46-49; State v. Grove, 1-63—and this applies whether the statutes were enacted at the same session or not, Wilson v. Jordan, 124-683.

Two statutes apparently in conflict must be reconciled, if possible, and if not, that meaning should be adopted which appears to have been the legislative intention: Bd. of Agriculture v. Drainage Dist., 177-222; Brannam v. Durham, 171-196; Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; State v. Johnson, 170-685; Board v. Comrs., 137-63; Arendell v. Worth, 125-111; Winslow v. Morton, 118-486; State v. Custer, 65-339; State v. Jones, 67-210; McAde v. Jenkins, 64-796.
Original statute and amendment should be construed together: Road Com. v. Comrs., 178-61; Hamlin v. Carlson, 178-431; Keith v. Lockhart, 171-451. When laws have been codified the original statutes may be referred to as an aid to construction: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378.

Remedial statutes are liberally construed: Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167-63; insolvent debtor's law liberally construed, Dean v. King, 35-20.

Part of a statute may be constitutional and other parts unconstitutional, and the valid parts sustained: Archer v. Joyner, 173-75; Lowery v. School Trustees, 140-33; Garsed v. Greensboro, 126-162; Rodman v. Washington, 122-41; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34; Gamble v. McCrady, 75-509; Johnson v. Winslow, 62-552—but not when invalid part would enlarge the operation of the law, Keith v. Lockhart, 171-451—or the parts are interdependent, State v. Godwin, 123-697; Tate v. Comrs., 122-661.

An act is unconstitutional from its effect, and not from legislative intention: Jacobs v. Smallwood, 63-112.

The repeal of an act of the assembly giving a forfeiture for an offense is a repeal of all forfeitures incurred under the act repealed, unless there be a special exception to the contrary: Governor v. Howard, 5-465.

Private act may not be repealed by section in general law: State v. Womble, 112-862.

Adoption of stock law does not abrogate a general statute or rule of law: Shepard v. R. R., 140-391.

These rules of law for construction of statutes are well established: (1) The law does not favor repeal of an older statute by a later one by mere implication. (2) The implication which will work repeal of a statute must be necessary, and if it arises out of repugnancy between the two acts, later act abrogates older only to the extent that it is inconsistent and irreconcilable with it. A law will not be deemed repealed because some of its provisions are repeated in a subsequent statute. (3) Where a later or revising statute clearly covers whole subject-matter of antecedent acts, and it plainly appears to have been purpose of the legislature to merge into it the whole law on the subject, a repeal by necessary implication is effected: Winslow v. Morton, 118-486. For various applications of these rules, see Sanatorium v. State Treas., 173-810; Bunch v. Comrs., 159-335; State v. Broadway, 157-598; State v. Perkins, 141-797; College v. Lacy, 150-364; McNeill v. McDuffie, 119-336; Davis v. Whitaker, 114-279; Greensboro v. MeAdoo, 112-539; State v. Massey, 103-356; State v. Monger, 111-675; State v. Sutton, 100-474; Jones v. Ins. Co., 88-499; State v. Cunningham, 72-469.

Where a statute makes that which was a felony merely a misdemeanor it will be construed as repealing, by implication, the old law: State v. Upchurch, 31-454.
CERTAIN WORDS CONSTRUED. "Authorize and empower," in act conferring power upon county to issue bonds, construed to be mandatory: Jones v. Comrs., 137-579.

"Deed" in a statute means instrument under seal: Patterson v. Galliker, 122-512.

When a statute directs the performance of an act for the promotion of justice or the public good, if it is necessary to secure these objects, the word "may" will be construed to mean "shall": Johnston v. Pate, 93-68. Local and special laws defined: State v. Johnson, 170-685. "Merchandise" in bulk sales law: Swift v. Tempelos, 178-487. "Assumed name" under statute: Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176-82. "Levy" means assessment as applied to taxes: Mann v. Allen, 171-219.

TITLE AS AID TO CONSTRUCTION. Where the meaning of statute is doubtful, title may be resorted to to aid in its construction: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434—but it cannot control when the meaning is clear, In re Chisholm's Will, 176-211; Blue v. McDuffie, 44-131. Title of act competent to show that date of act amended is erroneously stated: State v. Woolard, 119-779. Headings to sections of the Code cannot be considered in construing: Cram v. Cram, 116-288. Title to statute is no part thereof: State v. Welsh, 10-404.

1. Singular and plural number, masculine gender, etc. Every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things, as well as to one person or thing; and every word importing the plural number only shall extend and be applied to one person or thing, as well as to several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to females as well as to males, unless the context clearly shows to the contrary.

2. Authority to three or more exercised by majority. All words purporting to give a joint authority to three or more public officers or other persons shall be construed as giving such authority to a majority of such officers or other persons, unless it shall be otherwise expressly declared in the law giving the authority.

3. "Month" and "year." The word "month" shall be construed to mean a calendar month, unless otherwise expressed; and the word "year," a calendar year, unless otherwise expressed; and the word "year" alone shall be equivalent to the expression "year of our Lord."

The words of limitation to an action of slander are to be taken as lunar and not calendar months: Rives v. Guthrie, 46-84. "Thirty days" as used in article 4 of the constitution is not synonymous with "one month"; it may be more or less: State v. Upchurch, 72-146. The words "twelve months," in the absence of any legislative definition of the word month and the word "year," will be interpreted to mean twelve calendar months: Muse v. Assurance Co., 108-240.

4. Leap-year, how counted. In every leap-year, the increasing day and the day before, in all legal proceedings, shall be counted as one day.

R. C., c. 31, s. 108; R. S., c. 31, s. 113; 21 Hen. III.

5. "Oath" and "sworn." The word "oath" shall be construed to include "affirmation," in all cases where by law an affirmation may be substituted for an oath, and in like cases the word "sworn" shall be construed to include the word "affirmed."

6. "Person" and "property." The word "person" shall extend and be applied to bodies politic and corporate, as well as to individuals, unless the context clearly shows to the contrary. The words "real property" shall be coextensive with lands, tenements and hereditaments. The words "personal property" shall include moneys, goods, chattels, choses in action and evidences of debt, including all things capable of ownership, not descendible to the heirs at law. The word "property" shall include all property, both real and personal.

While the word "property" in its legal sense ordinarily includes money, yet where it can be seen from other parts of a will in which it is used that it was not so intended, that interpretation will be given it by the courts with which the testator had evidently employed it: Patterson v. Wilson, 101-584.

Word "estate" has a broader meaning than the word "property." The latter word would not include choses in action, unless there be something in the context which would require it to receive this interpretation, except by force of the definition contained in this section: Vaughn v. Murfreesboro, 96-317.

This provision could not affect the meaning of terms employed in the constitution; indeed, it purports to apply only to statutes, and to them when the meaning is manifestly otherwise than as therein provided and defined: Redmond v. Comrs., 106-144.

7. "Preceding" and "following." The words "preceding" and "following," when used by way of reference to any section of a statute, shall be construed to mean the section next preceding or next following that in which such reference is made; unless when some other section is expressly designated in such reference.

8. "Seal." In all cases in which the seal of any court or public office shall be required by law to be affixed to any paper issuing from such court or office, the word "seal" shall be construed to include an impression of such official seal, made upon the paper alone, as well as an impression made by means of a wafer or of wax affixed thereto.

9. "Will." The term "will" shall be construed to include codicils as well as wills.

10. "Written" and "in writing." The words "written" and "in writing" may be construed to include printing, engraving, lithographing, and any other mode of representing words and letters: Provided, that in all cases where a written signature is required by law, the same shall be in a proper handwriting, or in a proper mark.

11. "State" and "United States." The word "state," when applied to the different parts of the United States, shall be construed to extend to and include the District of Columbia and the several territories, so called; and the words "United States" shall be construed to include the said district and territories and all dependencies.

12. "Imprisonment for one month," how construed. The words "imprisonment for one month," wherever used in any of the statutes, shall be construed to mean "imprisonment for thirty days."

3950. Construction of amended statute. Where a part of a statute is amended it is not to be considered as having been repealed and reënacted in the amended form; but the portions which are not altered are to be considered as having been the law since their enactment, and the new provisions as having been enacted at the time of the amendment.

An amendment to a statute is construed as incorporated into the original statute with the same effect as if it had been a part of the original statute: State v. Moon, 178-715; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94.
Amendment to a statute operates from its enactment, leaving in force the portions which are not altered: Nichols v. Edenton, 125-13.

An amending statute does not repeal the former statute, but merely applies to subsequent offenses: State v. Broadway, 157-598; State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Massey, 97-465.

Reënactment by legislature of a law in the terms of a former law at the same time it repeals the former law is not, in contemplation of law, a repeal, but is a reaffirmance of the former law, whose provisions are thus continued without any intermission: Wood v. Bellamy, 120-212; Lusk v. Sawyer, 120-225; Person v. Southerland, 120-225; State v. Williams, 117-753; Robinson v. Goldsboro, 122-211; Kesler v. Smith, 66-154; State v. Sutton, 100-474—but not where the corporation is substantially different, Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121-1.
CHAPTER 74

STRAYS

3951. Notice to owner of stray, or to register of deeds. Any person who shall take up any stray horse, mare, colt, mule, ass or jennet, neat cattle, hog or sheep, shall within ten days after taking up such stray inform the owner, if to him known, if not, he shall inform the register of deeds of the supposed age, marks, brands and color of the stray, and that the same was taken up at his plantation or place of abode; whereupon the register of deeds shall record such information in a book kept by him for that purpose, for which service the taker-up of the stray shall pay a fee of twenty-five cents, except for hogs and sheep, for which the fee shall be ten cents. The register of deeds shall at once publish a notice of the taking up of such stray, by posting the same at the courthouse door, and if the cost does not exceed two dollars, then in some newspaper published in the county. Such notices shall be published for thirty days, and shall contain a full and complete description of the stray and of all marks or brands on the same, and when and where the same was taken up. The fees for publishing such notices shall be paid by the party taking up the stray.

Rev., s. 2833; Code, s. 3768; 1874-5, c. 258, s. 2.

3952. Owner may reclaim. When any stray has been taken up, the owner may at any time before a sale reclaim such stray by proving his ownership and paying to the party capturing the same the actual costs paid the register of deeds as provided in the preceding section, together with the actual costs of keeping such stray, as fixed by the county commissioners. The board of commissioners of the several counties shall fix a scale of costs for keeping strays.

Rev., s. 2834.

3953. When and how strays sold. If the owner of any stray shall fail to claim the same within thirty days after the publication of the notice required by law, the person taking up the stray shall cause the stray to be appraised by the nearest magistrate and two freeholders, none of whom shall receive any fees for such services. Such appraisement shall give a full and accurate description of such stray and shall by the magistrate be returned to the register of deeds, and by him recorded in his book for strays; and the register of deeds shall issue an order to the sheriff directing him to sell such stray, and the sheriff shall sell such stray at public auction after ten days public advertisement as for sales of personal property under execution; and out of the proceeds he shall pay the cost of publishing the notices as to strays, the costs of keeping and the costs of sale, and shall pay the surplus to the county treasurer for the benefit of the public school fund of the county. The county board of education shall, at any time within twelve months after such funds have been paid to the county treasurer, upon due proof of ownership, issue an order commanding the county treasurer to pay to the owner of the stray the net amount paid the county treasurer as the proceeds of the sale of the stray.

Rev., s. 2835.

For stock running at large, see Fences and Stock Law.

3954. Failure to comply with stray law misdemeanor. If any person shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of law as to strays, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3306.
CHAPTER 75

SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS

3955. Work in ordinary calling on Sunday forbidden.
3956. Hunting or going armed on Sunday.
3957. Local: Sale of articles on Sunday in Forsyth.
3958. What process executed on Sunday.
3959. Dates of public holidays.
3960. Acts to be done on Sunday or holidays.

3955. Work in ordinary calling on Sunday forbidden. On the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, no tradesman, artificer, planter, laborer, or other person shall, upon land or water, do or exercise any labor, business or work, of his ordinary calling, works of necessity and charity alone excepted, nor employ himself in hunting, fishing or fowling, nor use any game, sport or play, upon pain that every person so offending, being of the age of fourteen years and upwards, shall forfeit and pay one dollar.

Rey., s. 2836; Code, s. 3782; R. C. c. 115; 1741, c. 30, s. 2.

For history of Sunday laws, see Rodman v. Robinson, 134-503. Every act may lawfully be done on Sunday which may lawfully be done on any other day, unless there is some statute forbidding it: Ibid.; State v. Ricketts, 74-192.

This section does not prevent a town ordinance regulating Sunday trade: State v. Burbage, 172-876; State v. Davis, 171-809; State v. Medlin, 170-682.

The legislature has power to prohibit labor on Sunday on the ground of public decency, but such regulation is confined to such acts as have a tendency to disturb the public; but when it prohibits labor which is done in private, the power is exceeded: Melvin v. Easley, 52-356.

Selling a horse on Sunday is not forbidden, where dealing in horses is not the ordinary calling: Melvin v. Easley, 52-356. A contract for conveyance of land entered into on Sunday is valid: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-503. Giving a check for automobile repairs on Sunday is not a violation of this section: Auto Co. v. Rudd, 176-497.

Keeping open shop and selling goods on Sunday is not indictable: State v. Williams, 26-400; State v. Brooksbank, 28-73; Melvin v. Easley, 52-356; State v. Ricketts, 74-187.

Section referred to in Davis v. R. R., 145-207.

3956. Hunting or going armed on Sunday. If any person shall, except in defense of his own property, hunt on Sunday with a dog, or shall be found off his premises on Sunday, having with him a shotgun, rifle or pistol, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rey., s. 2836; Code, s. 3782; 1868-9, c. 18, ss. 1, 2.

Section creates two offenses: (1) hunting on the Sabbath with a dog; (2) being found off one's premises on Sunday having with him a shotgun, rifle, or pistol: State v. Howard, 67-24.

INDICTMENT. Must charge the act was done on Sunday, and after such a charge no exception can be taken to a reference to the Sunday by an erroneous day of the month: State v. Drake, 64-589. It is immaterial that the word "Sabbath" is used instead of the word "Sunday": State v. Drake, 64-589. Charging that a person was "found off his premises on the Sabbath day, having with him a shotgun," is sufficient: State v. Howard, 67-24. Charging a man with being a common Sabbath-breaker is too vague: State v. Brown, 7-224.

Section cited in State v. Moore, 104-748.

3957. Local: Sale of articles on Sunday in Forsyth. No person, firm or corporation in Forsyth county shall expose for sale, sell or offer for sale on Sunday any goods, wares or merchandise within one mile of the corporate limits of any incorporated town or city; and no store, shop, or other place of business in which goods, wares or merchandise of any kind are kept for sale shall keep open doors from twelve o'clock Saturday night until twelve o'clock Sunday night: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to apply to hotels or boarding-houses, or to restaurants or cafés furnishing meals to actual guests, where the same are not otherwise prohibited by law from keeping open on Sunday: Provided further, that drug stores, with licensed pharmacists, may be kept open for the sale of goods to be used for medical or surgical purposes, and for the sale of cigars and tobacco; and cigar stands and news stands may sell cigars, tobacco and newspapers: Provided further, that ice dealers and dairies may remain open for the sale and delivery of ice and dairy products. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit livery stables or garages from operating on Sunday or to prohibit publication and sale of newspapers. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

P. L. 1917, c. 507.

3958. What process executed on Sunday. It shall not be lawful for any sheriff, constable, or other officer to execute any summons, capias, or other process on Sunday, unless the same be issued for treason, felony or misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2837; Code, s. 928; R. C., c. 31, s. 54; 1777, c. 118, s. 6.

It is unlawful for an officer to execute any writ or other process on Sunday: Devries v. Summit, 86-126. A levy of an execution on Sunday is void: Bland v. Whitfield, 46-122.

Notice to take a deposition on Sunday is not good, and a deposition taken on such notice must be rejected: Sloan v. Williford, 25-307.

Sheriff may proceed on Sunday by distress to enforce penalty authorized by revenue act of legislature for peddling without license: Cowles v. Brittain, 9-204.

COURTS MAY SIT ON SUNDAY, WHEN. In special cases, ex necessitate, a court may sit on Sunday: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-507; Taylor v. Ervin, 119-274; State v. Howard, 82-636; State v. McGimsey, 80-377; State v. Ricketts, 74-187.

Holding a court on the Sabbath is not forbidden by the common law or any statute in this state, but it has been the long-settled practice of our courts, when a term continues so long that a Sunday intervenes, to adjourn over until Monday: State v. Howard, 82-623. Sunday is not a juridical day, hence an adjournment of the court from Saturday night to Monday morning during progress of a trial for murder is not in violation of the act requiring adjournment to be "from day to day": Ibid.

A verdict rendered in open court on Sunday during a term is valid: Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146-484; Taylor v. Erwin, 119-274; State v. Penley, 107-808.

When a term is set by statute to begin on a certain Monday, and to last for one, two or three weeks, as the case may be, it embraces the Sunday of each week: Taylor v. Ervin, 119-274. There being no inhibition of a verdict rendered on Sunday, either at common law or by statute, a judgment entered on that day (by virtue of the statute that it shall be entered up at once on the verdict) is valid: Ibid.

3959. Dates of public holidays. The first day of January, the nineteenth day of January, the twenty-second day of February, the twelfth day of April, the tenth day of May, the twentieth day of May, the fourth day of July, the first Monday in September, the eleventh day of November, Tuesday after the first Monday in November when a general election is held, the day appointed by the governor as a thanksgiving day, and the twenty-fifth day of December of each and every year, are declared to be public holidays; and whenever any such holiday shall fall upon Sunday, the Monday following shall be a public holiday.

Rev., s. 2838; Code, s. 3784: 1891, c. 58; 1899, c. 410; 1901, c. 25; 1881, c. 294; 1907, c. 996; 1909, c. 888; 1919, c. 287.
Statute declaring certain days public holidays does not prohibit the pursuit of the usual avocations of citizens, nor public officers, or the courts from exercising their respective functions on those days. While it might be the attendance of jurors, witnesses and suitors will not be enforced, and the courts will not sue out or enforce process on such days, yet courts may lawfully proceed with the business before them: State v. Moore, 104-743.

Notice of opening depositions is not void because time set for opening them is on a legal holiday: Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285. Whatever the statute does not prohibit from being done on a legal holiday may be done, and the legality of such acts cannot be measured by the legal status of Sunday: Ibid.

3960. Acts to be done on Sunday or holidays. Where the day or the last day for doing an act required or permitted by law to be done falls on Sunday or on a holiday the act may be done on the next succeeding secular or business day.

Rev., s. 2839; Code, ss. 3784, 3785, 3786; 1899, c. 733, s. 194.

SURETYSHIP

3961. Surety and principal distinguished in judgment and execution. In the trial of actions upon contracts either of the defendants may show in evidence that he is surety, and if it be satisfactorily shown, the jury in their verdict, or the justice of the peace in his judgment, shall distinguish the principal and surety, which shall be indorsed on the execution by the clerk or justice of the peace issuing it.

As to sureties on official and fiduciary bonds, see chapter Bonds.

Parol evidence is admissible to show that one apparently a principal on a note is, in fact, a surety: Smith v. Carr, 128-152; Lockhart v. Ballard, 113-292; Cole v. Fox, 83-463; Williams v. Lewis, 158-571, and cases cited—but to obtain protection, surety must show that his relation was known to creditor: Coffey v. Reinhardt, 114-509; Torrence v. Alexander, 85-143; Goodman v. Litaker, 84-8; Forbes v. Sheppard, 98-111; Williams v. Glenn, 92-253; Welfare v. Thompson, 83-276; Capell v. Long, 84-17; Lewis v. Long, 102-206.

Where negotiable instrument was signed by three persons other than principal obligor, and it appeared, from a writing executed some time thereafter by one to indemnify other two, that they (other two) ‘signed as cosureties’ of third, character of suretyship in which all three signed was sufficiently established: Southerland v. Fremont, 107-565.

Order in which parties to a security are liable at law is the order in which, independently of contract, they will be held bound in equity: Smith v. Smith, 16-173. Where suit is brought against two persons, a finding of jury that one defendant is principal and other surety, if binding at all between parties, does not in equity establish relation of suretyship: Lowder v. Nodding, 43-208. Case where question arose as to whether endorsers were cosureties or whether one was a supplementary surety to the other: Parrish v. Graham, 129-230.

Liability of guarantor or surety is not to be enlarged by construction: Shoe Co. v. Peacock, 150-545.

A surety signing a note with the understanding, known to the payee, that another was to sign as cosurety, is not bound without such signature: Bank v. Jones, 147-419.

All defendants in judgments for payment of money are, as to judgment creditor, principal debtors, and creditor may proceed to enforce judgment by execution against one or all, unless verdict or judgment shows that relation of surety existed, and this is endorsed upon execution. In that event officer must first proceed against principal: Gatewood v. Burns, 99-357; Fleming v. Halecomb, 26-269. The magistrate is not bound to make discrimination between principal and surety, except upon the application of and due proof by surety: Ibid.

Where execution against two does not distinguish which is principal and which surety, sheriff has right to collect from either; and one from whom it is collected has no cause of action against sheriff, though he claimed to be only a surety and though plaintiff in execution directed sheriff to collect it from the other: Shuford v. Cline, 35-463.

3962. Principal liable on execution before surety. When an execution, indorsed as aforesaid, shall come to the hands of any officer for collection, he shall levy on all the property of the principal, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the execution, and, for want of sufficient property of the principal, also on the property of the surety, and make sale of all the property of the principal levied on before that of the surety.

Creditor having obtained judgment against principal and sureties to debt, and there being some real property of principal in excess of homestead, after same was allotted, neglect of creditor to proceed to sell such excess, though orally requested so to do by sureties, does not exonerate sureties to amount land would have brought if sold: Bank v. Homesley, 99-531.

3963. Summary remedy of surety against principal. Any person who may have paid money for and on account of those for whom he became surety, upon producing to the superior court, or any justice of the peace having jurisdiction of the same, a receipt, and showing that an execution has issued, and he has satisfied the same, and making it appear by sufficient testimony that he has laid out and expended any sum of money as the surety of such person, may move the court or justice of the peace, as the case may be, for judgment against his principal for the amount which he has actually paid; a citation having previously issued against the principal to show cause why execution should not be awarded; and should the principal not show sufficient cause, the court or justice shall award execution against the estate of the principal.

This section is constitutional: Bank v. Hotel Co., 147-594. Notice that surety has paid debt of principal is not required to be given before bringing suit for money paid: Sikes v. Quick, 52-19. Reasonable notice to show cause should be given: Bank v. Hotel Co., 147-594. "Court" in this section means clerk of superior court: Ibid.

To enable a surety to recover for money paid to the use of his principal he must prove an actual payment in satisfaction of the debt: Hodges v. Armstrong, 14-253; Ponder v. Carter, 34-242.

Surety who has paid money for his principal cannot sue him in an action of tort: Ledbetter v. Torney, 33-294.

Where a surety pays a judgment against his principal he may recover any funds wrongfully converted or misapplied by the principal: Fidelity Co. v. Jordan, 134-236.

Where one endorsed a note at request of member of firm for purpose of obtaining money for use of firm, and proceeds were so used, the indorser, upon payment of note, can recover therefor against firm, though no member of such firm signed note: Springs v. McCoy, 122-628.

Where principal debtor borrowed a sum of money, which he deposited in a bank which soon afterwards became insolvent, and surety had to pay debt, surety has no equity to enjoin principal debtor from collecting dividends from insolvent bank until he can recover a judgment: Carlton v. Simonton, 94-401.

Where writ is issued against two copartners for partnership debt, and one is arrested and gives bail, such bail, upon being afterwards compelled by due course of law to pay debt, has no remedy except against individual for whom he became bail. He has no claim upon other partner: Foley v. Robards, 25-177.

Obligation of a bond for the forthcoming of property is only that property shall be delivered to officer at time designated, and not that execution shall be satisfied; and, therefore, if a surety to forthcoming bond before it is forfeited discharges execution without request of principal, such surety cannot maintain an action against his principal for money expended for latter's use, although by payment of money in satisfaction of execution the bond was discharged: Gray v. Bowls, 18-437.

A surety who has to pay debt has no equity to follow specific property which principal debtor purchased with borrowed money: Carlton v. Simonton, 94-401.

SUBROGATION. Doctrine of subrogation explained: Publishing Co. v. Barber, 165-478. It may be legal subrogation, which is based upon payment, and exists where one who has an interest to protect or is secondarily liable makes payment; or conventional subrogation, which is based upon agreement of the parties: Ibid.; Joyner v. Reflector Co., 176; Bank v. Bank, 158; Subrogation is substitution of another person in place of creditor so that former can succeed to rights of latter in relation to debt, and to entitle one to such equitable relief he must have paid money upon request or as surety or under some compulsion made necessary by inadequate protection of his own rights: Liles v. Rogers, 113; Caviness v. Fidelity Co., 140; Grainger v. Lindsay, 123; Moring v. Privott, 146.

An endorser or surety who pays the indebtedness is subrogated to the rights of the creditor as against the property of the debtor: Pittinger, ex parte, 142—and as against all specific liens and securities which creditor has against principal debtor, Carlton v. Simonton, 94—and to all the rights of the creditor, against a cosurety as well as against principal, and this includes the right to have a judgment, which he has paid, assigned to a trustee for his benefit, so as to compel his cosurety to pay his pro rata part: Peebles v. Gay, 115.

Surety called upon to pay a devasitavit committed by principal, an administrator, is entitled to be subrogated to rights of creditor against party who received the money with knowledge of its wrongful appropriation, and his rights are exactly those of the creditor: Caviness v. Fidelity Co., 140. Surety to an administration bond who paid one-half of a debt recovered against insolvent administrator is not subrogated to rights of creditor whose debt he paid, but to rights of administrator for whom he paid it: Clark v. Williams, 70—Right of subrogation of creditors of estate out of bond to indemnify sureties on administration bond: Hooker v. Yellowley, 128.

Where land is held in trust for the payment of a debt, a third person, who is compelled by law to pay it, is subrogated to the rights of the creditor and may collect the amount so paid from the land: Holden vy. Strickland, 116. It was correctly held that surety, omitted in the deed of trust, was entitled to be subrogated to the rights of his cosureties pro tanto, if he had paid the debts, and the payees in the notes had a superior equitable right of subrogation to the benefit of any security given by principal debtor to his sureties: Blanton vy. Bostie, 126; Ijames v. Gaither, 93; Sherrod v. Dixon, 120; Harrison v. Styres, 74; Wiswall v. Potts, 58—and this is so whether they knew of it or not, Matthews v. Joyce, 85.

The equity of a surety for subrogation is superior to that of a subsequent mortgagee of the equity of redemption: Williams v. Lewis, 158.

For application of doctrine in favor of mortgagee against purchaser from mortgagor, see Baber v. Hanie, 163—in insurance contract, Powell v. Water Co., 171.

Sureties on different bonds of sheriff are not entitled to subrogation: Liles v. Rogers, 113.

SURETY, UPON PAYING DEBT, MUST HAVE ASSIGNMENT TO TRUSTEES. If surety desires to preserve for his benefit an existing security for the debt which he is called upon to discharge, the debt and security (which follows debt) must be assigned to trustee, otherwise payment will be in satisfaction and cancellation of debt and a release of security, leaving surety a simple contract creditor: Fowle v. McLean, 168; Tripp v. Harris, 154; Bank v. Hotel Co., 147; Burnett v. Sledge, 129; Browning v. Porter, 116; Peebles v. Gay, 115; Tiddy v. Harris, 101; Briley v. Sugg, 21; Sherwood v. Collier, 14; Hodges v. Armstrong, 14.

A surety who pays amount recovered against him and his principal or cosureties may have judgment assigned to another in trust for his use, and it will continue in force for his benefit; and he may, upon motion in cause, have satisfaction of judgment entered, even against consent of assignee: Rice v. Hearn, 109.

A transfer to the surety himself upon payment is a satisfaction: Liverman v. Cahoon, 156; Sherwood v. Collier, 14. But a surety is subrogated to the rights of the creditor in a mortgage held as collateral, without an assignment to a trustee: Tripp v. Harris, 154; Burnett v. Sledge, 129.

Where judgment against principal and sureties on a note is paid by sureties, and an assignment thereof is made to a trustee for benefit of sureties, but by mistake payment is entered on judgment record, which is afterwards corrected by entry thereon of assignment, a person taking mortgage on property of judgment debtor, after assignment entered on record, takes with notice of assignment: Patton v. Cooper, 132.

If an assignment of the security is taken, surety may have his redress upon it immediately in name of creditor: Hodges v. Armstrong, 14.
Where surety paid and satisfaction was entered as to one-half of a judgment against himself, his principal and a cosurety, and procured judgment as to other half to be assigned to a trustee for his benefit, it was, in effect, same as if he had procured the whole judgment to be so assigned: Peebles v. Gay, 115-38.

3964. Subrogation of surety paying debt of deceased principal. Whenever a surety, or his representative, shall pay the debt of his deceased principal, the claim thus accruing shall have such priority in the administration of the assets of the principal as had the debt before its payment.

Rev., s. 2843; Code, s. 2096; R. C., c. 110, s. 4; 1829, c. 23.

This section applies to any claim, whether surety pays it before or after death of principal: Drake v. Coltrane, 44-300.

When a plaintiff, a cosurety, discharged the bond debt, for payment of which defendant’s intestate was equally bound, he becomes a bond creditor as to assets of intestate; and when, pending action for contribution, administrator paid off bonds voluntarily, of equal dignity with surety debt, having previously paid an open account, he committed a devastavit to extent of plaintiff’s claim for contribution, such claim being for smaller sum than bonds so preferred and open account: Howell v. Reams, 73-391.

3965. Contribution among sureties. Where there are two or more sureties for the performance of a contract, and one or more of them may have been compelled to perform and satisfy the same, or any part thereof, and the principal shall be insolvent, or out of the state, such surety may have and maintain an action against every other surety for a just and ratable proportion of the sum which may have been paid as aforesaid, whether of principal, interest or cost.

RIGHT OF CONTRIBUTION. The right of contribution exists between cosureties when principal is insolvent, and that, whether they are so by separate instruments or by same instruments: Bell v. Jasper, 37-597; Moore v. Isley, 22-372. Right of a surety to have contribution from cosurety is not founded upon any principle of contract, but is result of natural justice: Allen v. Wood, 38-386.

The cosurety, who is in this state, will have to make contribution, without regard to share of contribution which absent cosurety would have had to pay had he been within reach of process of our courts: Jones v. Blanton, 41-115.

A surety has no right to call upon his cosurety in equity for contribution without showing that he could not obtain satisfaction for the amount he has paid from their common principal: Rainey v. Yarborough, 37-249.

The right of contribution exists for one surety against other sureties who are solvent: Fowle v. McLean, 168-537—but not against indorsers, since they are not in the same class, Edwards v. Ins. Co., 173-614.

Surety upon a bond who voluntarily pays a balance due upon the same after he has obtained his discharge in bankruptcy is entitled to contribution from a cosurety: Craven v. Freeman, 82-361.

Whether surety who pays a debt (not due by specialty) after action of creditor is barred by act of 1715, can maintain an action against a cosurety for contribution, quere: Reeves v. Bell, 47-254.

Act of 1807, giving right to one surety to recover at law his ratable proportion of debt of principal, does not enlarge rights of surety, who pays debt, nor deprive cosurety of any just grounds of defense which would before have been available to him in equity: Hall v. Robinson, 30-56.

Surety who seeks to recover from a cosurety a ratable part of money paid must take care to do no act which will prevent cosurety from having recourse against principal. If, therefore, he release principal, it is a discharge of the cosurety: Draughan v. Bunting, 31-10.

If note, discounted at bank for benefit of principal, with three sureties, be discharged at maturity by proceeds of another note, discounted with only two of the sureties, third having died before first note fell due, estate of latter will not be liable to contribute, upon insolvency of principal, and payment of renewal note by sureties thereto, although when they executed it they supposed estate of deceased would be liable upon it: Hutchins v. McCauley, 22-399.

Where A, as surety, signed the note of B, payable to C, and it was indorsed by C, at the request and for the accommodation of B, there being no contract between A and C whereby they agreed to become cosureties of B, it was held that A had no right to contribution from C: Smith v. Smith, 16-173.

Where two sureties on a note to a bank agreed, after insolvency of their principal, to employ a broker to buy notes of bank to an amount sufficient to pay debt, and one of them paid broker for notes purchased by him, and discharged debt, he could maintain an action against his surety for contribution: DeRossett v. Bradley, 63-17.

Where a surety upon a bond pays a balance due upon same with knowledge of existence of a covenant upon part of obligee to a surety not to sue him, he is not entitled to contribution from such surety: Craven v. Freeman, 82-361.

It is not necessary, to entitle a surety to maintain an action for contribution, that amount of his liability which was paid by him should be fixed by a judgment: Bright v. Lennon, 83-183. Waiver or withdrawal of plea of statute of limitations by a surety in an action against him does not affect his right afterwards to maintain an action for contribution: Ibid.

Where one signed as surety a note signed by two persons, without knowledge of the fact that one of the signers was a surety, he could not be held a cosurety with such signer: Bank v. Burch, 145-316. It is competent for one to become surety for other sureties, or to limit the extent of his liability with respect to other sureties: Ibid.

Coprincipals and sureties are presumed to assume equal liability, but this presumption may be rebutted by parol evidence: Smith v. Carr, 128-150.

Where A indorsed a note for the maker and subsequently, but before it was discounted, F indorsed it, and A paid the note, F was a cosurety, and the doctrine of contribution applies for A's benefit: Atwater v. Farthing, 118-388.

Where a guardian gives several successive bonds for faithful discharge of trust, sureties on each bond stand in relation of cosureties to sureties on every other bond; the only qualification to rule being that sureties are bound to contribution only according to amount of penalty of bond, in which each class is bound: Jones v. Hays, 38-502. The fact that the sureties on an official bond justify to different amounts does not affect the right of contribution: Comrs. v. Dorsett, 151-307.

There was a judgment against principal and two sureties, and execution levied on property of one of sureties. A bought this property from his surety, pending levy, and afterwards obtained an assignment of judgment, to enable him to have whole amount satisfied out of property of cosurety, and issued an execution for that purpose; court will restrain him from collecting out of cosurety more than fair proportion which latter owed, whether A had actual notice of lien of execution or not: Dobson v. Prather, 41-31.

No right of contribution between sureties on different tax collector's bonds: McGuire v. Williams, 123-357.

RIGHT OF COSURETIES WHEN ONE SURETY SECURES PROPERTY OF PRINCIPAL OR GAINS AN ADVANTAGE. Among cosureties "equality is equity"; it is a well-settled principle that if one surety by any means gets a fund belonging to the principal he is not at liberty to take the entire benefit, but must share with his cosureties: Parham v. Green, 64-436; Leary v. Cheshire, 56-172; Barnes v. Pearson, 41-482; Allison v. Davidson, 17-79; Moore v. Isley, 22-372; Mast v. Raper, 81-355.

Where principal placed property in hands of surety sufficient to satisfy debt, and then left state, third person, also bound for debt as surety, having been compelled to pay it, may recover its amount from person who has received property, without making a previous demand: Parham v. Green, 64-436.

A having a judgment against B as principal and C as surety, C, without the consent of A, has an execution issued and levied upon B's property. A has right to withdraw execution and discharge levy, without making herself liable to C: Forbes v. Smith, 40-369.

One, when he is about becoming a surety with others, may stipulate for separate indemnity from principal to himself, and cosureties would only be entitled to a surplus after his reimbursement: Comrs. v. Nichols, 131-505; Long v. Barnett, 38-631. Where two persons engage in a common risk as sureties for a third, and one of them subsequently takes an indemnity from the principal debtor, it inures to the benefit of both: Gregory v. Murrell, 37-233; Hall v. 1637
Robinson, 30-56; Pool v. Williams, 30-286. The indemnity taken by one surety can be reached by the other only in two cases, either when it was taken in fraud or for the benefit of the other: Moore v. Moore, 11-558.

Where money is advanced by principal to one of sureties to discharge debt before debt is actually discharged, surety may file his bill in equity for an account and for relief: Allen v. Wood, 38-386—but if money is paid by principal, after debt has been discharged by sureties, to one of two sureties, to reimburse both, then surety has his remedy against surety receiving the money by an action at law for money had and received, and therefore cannot support a suit in equity, Ibid.

Where surety merely had a deed of trust for certain property, as an indemnity, executed by principal, and neglected to have it registered, so that property was sold by other creditors, surety is not entitled, on account of his laches, to make him responsible for the value of the property: Pool v. Williams, 30-286.

Where A and B were cosureties on an administration bond, and B, who had administered on estate of principal, had, by mistake of law and in good faith, erroneously given up assets of principal to another claim which would have saved them both from loss by this suretyship, A could not sustain a bill to throw whole loss on B, there being no evidence that B had concealed from A the fact of having thus parted with assets and not making any allegation of fraud or imposition on part of B: Brandon v. Medley, 54-313.

CONTRIBUTION FROM COSURETIES ENFORCED. To a bill brought by one surety against his cosurety for contribution, their common principal, or if he be dead, his executor or administrator, should be made a party defendant: Rainey v. Yarborough, 37-249.

Surety, who has been compelled to pay a debt of his principal, must make all his cosureties parties to a bill for contribution, if they are in this state and solvent. But where one is out of the jurisdiction of the court and others are within it, plaintiff, by stating the fact in his bill, is at liberty to proceed against the latter alone: Jones v. Blanton, 41-115.

When a surety files his bill against a cosurety for contribution, and latter sets up an agreement, which is a bar to the former’s claim, that agreement must be proved at the hearing, it cannot be the subject of reference to the master: Long v. Barnett, 38-631.

When one surety brings a bill for contribution against a cosurety he should at least allege that principal is insolvent, so that he can have no redress against him: Allen v. Wood, 38-386.

In an action against an alleged cosurety to recover money paid in settlement of their joint liability, the amount received by plaintiff as interest on collaterals deposited should be deducted from the amount paid by plaintiff: Carr v. Smith, 129-232. Where one of two sureties claims to be a supplemental surety by agreement, the burden is upon him to show the agreement: Ibid.

A surety seeking contribution from a cosurety can offer evidence of general reputation for insolvency of their principal, even after direct evidence of such insolvency, such as unsatisfied executions against him, etc.: Leak v. Covington, 99-559. Statute giving an action to a surety who has paid debt against a cosurety, when the principal shall be insolvent or out of state, has reference to time when action is brought, and not to time of payment by surety: Ibid.; Shuford v. Cook, 164-46.

In action by surety of insolvent guardian for contribution against other sureties it is proper to include in sum adjudged to be raised by contribution costs which were paid by plaintiff in an action against him as condition for leave to plead statute of limitations: Bright v. Lennon, 83-183.

Where it appeared on the face of a note that certain parties thereto were sureties, in an action for contribution parol evidence is admissible to show that they were really principals: Williams v. Glenn, 92-253.

In action for contribution by surety against four different guardian bonds, with different penalties and different sureties, some solvent and some otherwise, it is not necessary that notice should be given before action is brought: Bright v. Lennon, 83-183.

Surety who pays money for his principal may maintain an action against his cosurety for his ratable part, without first making a demand, and statute of limitations begins to run from the time of payment of the money: Sherrod v. Woodard, 15-360; Leak v. Covington, 99-559.

Record in a suit upon an administration bond against a surety and personal representatives of another surety in which a nol. pros. was entered as to them, and judgment rendered against their intestate’s surety, is evidence and prima facie proof, in a suit by him for contribution against personal representatives, as to damages: Leak v. Covington, 99-559.
Adjustment of all rights between sureties where some have counterclaims and others not, permitted in one action: Davis v. Mfg. Co., 114-321.

Where surety brings an action of assumpsit for money paid for the use and at request of defendant, against his cosurety, to obtain contribution, it is not sufficient for him to show that he has given his note for debt due by principal, and that same has been accepted by creditor as a payment and discharge of the debt, but he must show payment of the debt: Brisendine v. Martin, 23-286.

Where complaint in an action by surety for contribution joined principals as parties, and alleged by contract of suretyship payment by plaintiff and demand of cosureties "for their contributive shares," and asked judgment against all, but did not allege insolvency of the principals except by the averment that plaintiff was compelled to pay debt: Held, that though proper relief was not asked, and insolvency of principals was imperfectly alleged, cause of action will be construed, on demurrer, as equitable rather than legal in order to confer jurisdiction below: Adams v. Hayes, 120-383; Hudson v. Aman, 158-429.

One of three joint solvent sureties cannot sustain a bill against either of his cosureties for contribution out of fund alleged to have been received by that surety for his indemnity from the estate of an insolvent cosurety, without making the other a party: Moore v. Isley, 22-372.

AGREEMENT BY COSURETIES TO WAIVE CONTRIBUTION. After two persons have become sureties for a common principal they may, by agreement between themselves, renounce their right to take benefit from any securities they may respectively obtain, and each undertake to look out for himself, exclusively, for an indemnity from the principal or for contribution from another cosurety: Long v. Barnett, 38-631.

After relation of joint sureties has been severed by an agreement among sureties, each of them has his distinct and several claim to prosecute, because of what he has paid for his principal, or for an insolvent joint surety; and others have no right to demand participation in what his diligence may enable him to procure, while thus prosecuting his several claims: Moore v. Isley, 22-372. If, by any agreement between sureties, one of them is released by creditor, upon his securing payment of a certain part of the debt, he shall not afterwards be called upon to contribute to one or more of the remaining sureties for a loss arising from the deficiency of another of them: Ibid.

3966. Dissenting surety not liable to surety on stay of execution. Whenever any judgment shall be obtained before a justice against a principal and his surety, and the principal debtor shall desire to stay the execution thereon, but the surety is unwilling that such stay shall be had, the surety may cause his dissent thereto to be entered by the justice, which shall absolve him from all liability to the surety who may stay the same. And the constable or other officer, who may have the collection of the debt, shall make the money out of the property of the principal debtor, and that of the surety for the stay of execution, if he can, before he shall sell the property of the surety before judgment.

Rev., s. 2845; Code, s. 2095; R. C., c. 110, s. 3; 1829, c. 6, ss. 1, 2.

3967. Surety may notify creditor to sue. In all cases where any surety or indorser on any note, bill, bond, or other written obligation shall consider himself in danger of loss in consequence of his contingent liability, either from the insolvency or misconduct of the principal, in the note, bill, bond, or other written obligation, or from the negligence of the payee or holder of any such instrument, it shall be lawful for such surety or indorser, at any time after such note, bill, bond, or other written obligation becomes due and payable, to cause written notice to be given to the payee or holder of any such paper or obligation, requiring him to bring suit on such obligation, and to use all reasonable diligence to save harmless such surety or indorser: Provided, nothing herein contained shall apply to official bonds, or bonds given by any person acting in a fiduciary capacity.

Rev., s. 2846; Code, s. 2007; 1808-9, c. 232, s. 1.
To get benefit provided for sureties by this section they must give creditor notice in writing to bring suit, etc., and only he who gives notice can claim benefit when there are more than

While creditor is not bound to exercise diligence to enforce collection of a demand upon which he has surety, he has no right to release any other security which he has acquired and which might be available in satisfaction of debt, and if he does so it will discharge surety:
Boll v. Howerton, 111-69.

Section applied to indorser of a nonnegotiable note: Johnson v. Lassiter, 155-47.

3968. How notice served. Such notice shall be served by the sheriff or his deputy, who shall return it to the party for whose benefit the notice was issued, which shall be evidence of the fact in all courts.
Rev., s. 2848; Code, s. 2099; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 3.

3969. Failure of creditor to sue discharges surety; exceptions. Should the payee or holder of any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation refuse or fail, within thirty days from the service of such notice, to bring suit in the appropriate court in an effort to save harmless such surety or indorser, such refusal or failure to sue shall operate as a discharge of such surety or indorser, from all liability whatever, on any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation:
Provided, that this notice shall not have the effect to discharge from liability any cosurety who does not join in such notice, or who has not given a separate notice: Provided further, that this and the preceding section shall not apply to holders of such note, bond, bill, or obligation, who hold the same as collateral security or in trust.
Rev., s. 2847; Code, s. 2098; 1868-9, c. 232, s. 2.

If a creditor agree with his principal debtor in such manner that he is bound by the agreement to postpone day of payment, surety is thereby discharged from all liability: Smith v.
Parker, 181-471; Revell v. Thrash, 132-803; Scott v. Harris, 76-205; see Jenkins v. Daniels, 125-161; Fleming v. Barden, 126-450, 127-214; Bank v. Swink, 129-255; Benedict v. Jones, Sutton v. Waters, 118-496; Lumber Co. v. Christenbury, 155-257; Foster v. Davis, 175-541.

Plaintiff creditor made parol contract with principal to extend time of payment of bond beyond date of commencement of suit thereon, without knowledge or consent of surety; such contract suspends plaintiff's right of action and exonerates surety from liability: Carter v.
Duncan, 84-676.

Exoneration grows out of agreement to forbear, and is not affected by creditor's breach of it: Forbes v. Sheppard, 98-111. An agreement with a principal, on a sufficient consideration, to forbear to sue for a fixed period, without reserving right to proceed against surety, and made without his assent, will exonerate him from liability: Ibid.

3970. Cancellation of contract of suretyship in case of common carrier and employee. Whenever an employee of a common carrier authorized to do business in this state is required to give a bond or undertaking of any nature whatever with a bonding company or companies, as surety thereon, any such employee who shall have given such bond or undertaking shall, upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof by the other party or parties thereto, have the power to cancel the same by giving the surety or sureties thereon, for the benefit of whom same shall have been made, at least ten days notice in writing, setting out in full the reason for canceling the same. Any such notice to a company, corporation or association may be served by leaving the same with any person upon whom service of legal process upon such company, corporation or association may be had. Any surety on any such bond or undertaking shall, upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof by the common carrier employee for whom same shall have been made, have power to cancel the same by giving such employee at least ten days notice in writing, and, upon demand, set out in full the reasons for canceling same, the notice to be signed by an agent or manager of such surety. Nothing herein shall affect any right of action accruing to any person upon the breach of a contract; nor shall any bonding company furnishing the information which causes it to withdraw from the bond be liable in any action at the instance of the party aggrieved for damages, nor be required to disclose to the party aggrieved the sources of information that caused it to withdraw from the bond. But any bonding company may be required to give evidence in any action brought by the party aggrieved against the party or person furnishing the information causing the company to withdraw as surety.

Any person, officer or manager, company, corporation, association or firm who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.

1913, c. 17.

For sureties on administration bonds, see sections 33-44. For evidence against principal as against surety, see section 358.

Rev. S7s012 3, 1903,; c. 271.

It seems that the name of a town or locality cannot be exclusively appropriated as a trade-mark: Blackwell vy. McElwee, 94-425. As a rule a trademark cannot be taken in a surname: Ppieherm School v. Gray, 122-699. Legislature cannot establish a monopoly in a family name or confer a patent right in its use: Bingham School v. Gray, 122-699. But a person may, by contract, bind himself not to use his own name in business, in the sale of an established business: Zagier v. Zagier, 167-616.

3972. Property rights protected by filing for registry. Whenever any person shall adopt and file for registry any label, trademark, term or design pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the property, privileges, rights, remedies and interests in and to any such label, trademark, term or design, and in and to the use of same, provided or given by this chapter to, or otherwise conferred upon or enjoyed by, the person filing the same for the registry, shall be fully and completely secured, preserved and protected as the property of those entitled to the same before any such label, trademark, term or design has been actually applied to any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor, and put upon the market for sale or otherwise, and before any use or appropriation of any such label, trademark, term or design has been made in connection with any such goods, wares, merchandise or product of labor, as well as after the same has been used or applied to designate, make known or distinguish any such goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor and they have been put upon the market.

3973. Filing to be with secretary of state; contents of affidavits; fees. Any person who has heretofore adopted and used, or shall hereafter adopt and use any label, trademark, term or design, as in this chapter provided, may file the same for registry in the office of the secretary of state, by leaving two copies, facsimiles or counterparts thereof, with the said secretary, and filing therewith a statement in the form of an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by any such person, or by any officer, agent or attorney, if a corporation, specifying the person by whom any such label, trademark, term or design is filed, and the class or character of the goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor to which the same has been or is intended to be appropriated or applied, and that the person so filing the same has the right to the use of the said label, trademark, term or design, and that no other person, firm or corporation has the right to such use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, without the permission or authority of the person filing the same, and that the copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same; and there shall be paid for such registry a fee of one dollar to the secretary of state for the use of the state, and the same recording fees required by law for recording certificate of organization of corporations.

Rev., s. 3015; 1903, c. 271, s. 4.

For decision prior to enactment, see Tobacco Co. v. McElwee, 100-150.

3975. Transfer of trademarks. The right to use any registered label, trademark, term or design shall be granted only by an instrument in writing, duly filed in the office of the secretary of state. The fees for recording or filing such transfer and issuing copies thereof shall be the same as for filing such label, trademark, term or design.

Rev., s. 3016.

3976. Similar trademarks refused registration. It shall not be lawful for the secretary of state to register for any person any label, trademark, term or design that is in the identical form of any other label, trademark, term or design theretofore filed by any other person, or that bears any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, or that would be liable to be mistaken therefor.

3978. Use of counterfeit trademarks unlawful. Whenever any person has adopted and filed for registry any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, and the same shall have been registered pursuant to law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to manufacture, use, sell, offer for sale, or in any way utter or circulate any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design, or have in possession, with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor to which or on which any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed, or to sell or dispose of, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor contained in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed.

Rev., s. 3019; 1903, c. 271. s. 6.

An imitation of a trademark which would not deceive the ordinary purchaser is not an infringement: Blackwell v. Wright, 73-310.

3979. Unauthorized use unlawful; use under license. Whenever any person has adopted and registered any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to make any use, sale, offer for sale or display of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person filing the same, or to have any such genuine label, trademark, term or design in possession with intent that the same shall be used, sold, offered for sale, or dis-whatever to or on any goods, wares or merchandise, or to sell, offer to sell, or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares or merchandise in any box, case, can or package to or on which any such genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person is attached, affixed, or displayed, or to make any use whatever of any such genuine label, trademark, term or design, without first obtaining in every such case the license of the person adopting, filing and registering the same; and any such license may be revoked and terminated at any time upon notice, and thereafter any use thereof shall be unlawful.

Rev., s. 3020; 1903, c. 271. s. 7.

See cases of interest decided prior to this enactment: Blackwell v. McElwhee, 94-425; Tobacco Co. v. McElwhee, 100-150.

3980. Remedies; damages; profits; destruction of counterfeits. Any person who has registered any label, trademark, term or design under the provisions of this chapter shall have a right of action against any person for the unauthorized use of such label, trademark, term or design, and the courts shall by appropriate remedies prevent the unauthorized or unlawful use, manufacture or display of any label, trademark, term or design, or the imitation or counterfeit thereof, or the sale, disposal or display of any articles of property on which any counter-mechanic, manufacturer or other person, being a resident of the United States, with intent to deceive and defraud the purchasers, mechanics, or manufacturers of any goods, wares or merchandise whatsoever, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding one

1911, c. 161, s. 2.

4022. Order of removal discharges resident trustee. When any guardian or committee, trustee or other person in this state, shall pay over, transfer, or deliver any estate in his hands or vested in him, under any order or decree made in pursuance of this article, he shall be discharged from all responsibility therefor.

The cestuis que trustent, creditors, or any other person interested in the trust estate, have the right to answer said petition or traverse the same and to offer evidence why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. The clerk shall then proceed to hear and determine the matter, and if it appears to the court that the best interests of the creditors and the cestuis que trustent demand that the resignation of the fiduciary be accepted, or if it appears to the court that sufficient reasons exist for allowing the resignation, and that the resignation can be allowed without prejudice to the rights of creditors or the cestuis que trustent, the clerk may, in the exercise of his discretion, allow the applicant to resign; and in such case the clerk shall proceed to appoint the successor of the petitioner in the manner provided in this article.

4029. Final accounting before resignation. No executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary shall be allowed or permitted to resign his trust until he shall first file with the court his final account of the trust estate, and until the court shall be satisfied that the said account is true and correct.

4031. Court to appoint successor; bond required. If the court shall allow any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary to resign his trust upon compliance with the provisions of this article, it shall be the duty of the court to proceed to appoint some fit and suitable person as the successor of such executor, administrator, guardian, trustee or other fiduciary; and the court shall require the person so appointed to give bond with sufficient surety, approved by the court, in a sum double the value of the property to come into his hands, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties as such fiduciary and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive the same of all moneys, assets, or other things of value which may come into his hands. All bonds executed under the provisions of this article shall be filed with the clerk, and shall be recorded in his office in a book kept for that purpose.
1911, c. 39, s. 7.

4032. Rights and duties devolve on successor. 1911, c. 39, s. 8.

ART. 4. CHARITABLE TRUSTS

4033. Trustees to file accounts. When real or personal property has been granted by deed, will, or otherwise, for such charitable purposes as are allowed by law, it shall be the duty of those to whom are confided the management of the property and the execution of the trust, to deliver in writing a full and particular account thereof to the clerk of the superior court of the county where the charity is to take effect, on the first Monday in February in each year, to be filed among the records of the court, and spread upon the record of accounts.

For further annotations, see chapter Religious Societies.

4034. Action for account; court to enforce trust. If the preceding section be not complied with, or there is reason to believe that the property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to give notice thereof to the attorney-general or solicitor who represents the state in the superior court for that county; and it shall be his duty to bring an action in the name of the state against the grantees, executors, or trustees of the charitable fund, calling on them to render a full and minute account of their proceedings in relation to the administration of the fund and the execution of the trust. The attorney-general or solicitor may also, at the suggestion of two reputable citizens, commence an action as aforesaid; and, in either case, the court may make such order and decree as shall seem best calculated to enforce the performance of the trust.

7. The signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent.
8. If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and
9. A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is at the time of the issue of the receipt unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred, and the purpose thereof, is sufficient. A warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby, for all damage caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required.

4043. Other terms inserted; exceptions. A warehouseman may insert in a receipt issued by him any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—
1. Be contrary to the provisions of this act.
2. In any wise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safekeeping of the goods entrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own.

4044. Nonnegotiable receipts. A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a nonnegotiable receipt.

4045. Nonnegotiable receipts marked. A nonnegotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it “nonnegotiable,” or “not negotiable.” In case of the warehouseman’s failure so to do, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value supposing it to be negotiable may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable. This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgments of an informal character.

Rev., s. 3052; 1917, c. 37, s. 7.

4046. Negotiable receipts. A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt, is a negotiable receipt. No provisions shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is nonnegotiable. Such provision, if inserted, shall be void.

Rev., s. 3052; 1917, c. 37, s. 5.

4047. Duplicate negotiable receipts. When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to any one who purchased the subsequent receipt for value supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt.

1917, c. 37, s. 6.

ART. 3. Obligations and Rights of Warehousemen on Receipts

4048. Delivery of goods on proper demand. A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by this act, is bound to deliver the goods upon a demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with—

1. An offer to satisfy the warehouseman’s lien;

2. An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsements as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt; and

3. A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman. In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal.

1917, c. 37, s. 8.

4049. To whom goods may be delivered. A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is—

1. The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or his agent;

2. A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a non-negotiable receipt issued for the goods or who has written authority from the person so entitled, either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper; or

3. A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee.

1917, c. 37, s. 9.
4050. Liability for wrong delivery. Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (2) and (3) of the preceding section, and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions, he shall be so liable if prior to such delivery he had either—

1. Been requested, by or on behalf of the person lawfully entitled to a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or *

2. Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods.

1917, c. 37, s. 10.

4051. Liability on receipt not taken up on delivery. Except as hereafter provided in this article, when the goods may have been sold to satisfy warehouseman's charges or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value and in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver the goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman.

4052. Liability on receipt for partial delivery. Except when goods may have been sold to satisfy warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, as hereafter provided in this article, where a warehouseman delivers a part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel the receipt or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered, he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman.

4053. Effect of alteration of receipt. The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was—

1. Immaterial,

2. Authorized, or

3. Made without fraudulent intent.

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase.
1917, c. 37, s. 13.

4054. Delivery in case of lost receipt. Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the court, to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also, in its discretion, order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs. The delivery of the goods under an order of the court as provided in this section shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods.
1917, c. 37, s. 14.

4055. Effect of issuing duplicate receipt. A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncanceled at the date of the issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability.
1917, c. 37, s. 15.

4056. Claim of title no defense for nondelivery; exceptions. No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt.
1917, c. 37, s. 16.

4057. Interpleader in conflicting claims. If more than one person claims the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for nondelivery of the goods or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead.
1917, c. 37, s. 17.

4058. Reasonable time to investigate conflicting claims. If some one other than the depositor or person claiming under him has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the warehouseman has information of such claim, the warehouseman shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods, either to the depositor or person claiming under him or to the adverse claimant, until the warehouseman has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead.

4059. Title in third person no defense; exceptions. Except as provided in the two preceding sections and except when the goods may have been delivered to the person authorized to have such delivery, as heretofore provided in this article, or when the goods may have been sold to satisfy the warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, as hereafter provided in this article, no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt.

1917, c. 37, s. 19.

4060. Failure to deliver goods as described. A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt for damages caused by the nonexistence of the goods or by the failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at the time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that the packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor.

4061. Liability for negligence. A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise; but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

1917, c. 37, s. 21.

For liability of warehouseman, see Motley v. Finishing Co., 124-232.

4062. Goods kept separate. Except as provided in the following section, a warehouseman shall keep the goods so far separate from goods of other depositors, and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued, as to permit at all times the identification and redelivery of the goods deposited.

1917, c. 37, s. 22.

4063. Effect of confusion of goods. If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole.

Rev., s. 3034; 1917, c. 37, s. 23.

4064. Liability of warehouseman for confusion of goods. The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and redelivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been kept separate.

1917, c. 37, s. 24.

4065. Goods not subject to attachment or execution. If goods are delivered to a warehouseman by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the court.

4066. Creditor's remedy against receipt. A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipt or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

4067. Warehouseman's lien. Subject to the subsequent provisions of this article specifying what liens may be enforced against a negotiable receipt, a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on the proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, coopering, and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice and advertisements of sale, and for sale of the goods where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien.

1917, c. 37, s. 27.

See chapter on Liens.

4068. Against what goods lien enforced. Subject to the subsequent provisions of this article specifying what liens may be enforced against a negotiable receipt, a warehouseman's lien may be enforced—

1. Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted; and

2. Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, if such person has been so entrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid.

1917, c. 37, s. 28.

4069. Loss of lien. A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods—

1. By surrendering possession thereof, or

2. By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of this act.

1917, c. 37, s. 29.

4070. What liens enforced against negotiable receipts. If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerate other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms for a warehouseman's lien as heretofore provided in this article, although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt.
1917, c. 37, s. 30.

4071. Right to retain until liens satisfied. A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied.
1917, c. 37, s. 31.

4072. Other legal remedies for warehouseman. Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay.
1917, c. 37, s. 32.

4073. Enforcement of liens. A warehouseman's lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

1. Notice given. The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain—a. An itemized statement of the warehouseman's claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due;
   b. A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists;
   c. A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered or from the time when the notice should reach its destination according to the due course of post if the notice is sent by mail; and
   d. A statement that unless the claims are paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

2. Sale of goods. In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed, an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held, and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein. From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement, and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods.

3. Right of claimant to pay charges. At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of this act, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise, the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit.

Rev., ss. 3036, 3037, 3038; 1917, c. 37, s. 33.

4074. Sale of perishable goods. If goods are of a perishable nature, or by keeping will deteriorate greatly in value, or by their odor, leakage, inflammability, or explosive nature will be liable to injure other property, the warehouseman may give such notice to the owner, or to the person in whose name the goods are stored, as is reasonable and possible under the circumstances, to satisfy the lien upon such goods and to remove them from the warehouse; and in the event of the failure of such person to satisfy the lien and to remove the goods within the time so specified, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertising. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell such goods, he may dispose of them in any lawful manner, and shall incur no liability by reason thereof. The proceeds of any sale made under the terms of this section shall be disposed of in the same way as the proceeds of sales made under the terms of the preceding section.

Rev., ss. 3039, 3040; 1917, c. 37, s. 34.

4075. Other remedies not excluded. The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman's claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property.

Rev., s. 3041; 117, c. 37, s. 35.

4076. Liability discharged by sale for liens. After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman's lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the receipt given for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable.

1917, c. 37, s. 36.

Art. 4. Negotiation and Transfer of Receipts

4077. Negotiation by delivery. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery—

1. Where by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer; or
2. Where by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where by the terms of a negotiable receipt the goods are deliverable to bearer, or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee.

1917, c. 37, s. 37.

4078. Negotiation by indorsement. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the receipt deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer, or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer, or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner.

1917, c. 37, s. 38.

4079. Transfer of nonnegotiable receipts. A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee.

A nonnegotiable receipt cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right.

1917, c. 37, s. 39.

4080. By whom receipt negotiated. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated—

1. By the owner thereof, or

2. By any person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted by the owner, if by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted, or if at the time of such entrusting the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery.

1917, c. 37, s. 40.

4081. Rights acquired by negotiation. A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

1. Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value; and

2. The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him.

4082. Rights acquired by transfer. A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby, as against the transferrer, the title of the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferrer. If the receipt is nonnegotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt. Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferrer or transferee of a nonnegotiable receipt, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferrer, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferrer or a subsequent purchaser from the transferrer of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferrer.

4083. Right to compel indorsement. Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferrer is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferrer to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made.

1917, c. 37, s. 43.

4084. Warranties in negotiation and transfer. A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—
1. That the receipt is genuine;
2. That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it;
3. That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt; and
4. That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose, whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby.

1917, c. 37, s. 44.

4085. Indorser not liable for failure of prior parties. The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the warehouseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfill their respective obligations.

1917, c. 37, s. 45.

4086. No warranty by collection of debt secured by receipt. A mortgagee, pledgee, or holder for security of a receipt who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described.

4087. Rights of bona fide holder not affected by fraud. The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was induced by fraud, mistake, or duress to entrust the possession or custody of the receipt to such person, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefore, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake, or duress.

1917, c. 37, s. 47.

4088. Subsequent purchasers protected. Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage, or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation.

4089. Right of purchaser superior to seller’s lien. Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods, no seller’s lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller’s claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancellation.

1917, c. 37, s. 49.

Art. 5. Criminal Offenses

4090. Issuing receipt for goods not stored. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both.

1917, c. 37, s. 50.

4091. Issuing receipt with false statement. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

4092. Issuing fraudulent duplicates. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods, knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncanceled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word “duplicate,” except in the case of a lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings for delivery as heretofore provided in this chapter, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both.
1917, c. 37, s. 52.

4093. Failure to state in receipt the interest of warehouseman. Where there are deposited with or held by a warehouseman goods of which he is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, such warehouseman, or any of his officers, agents, or servants who, knowing this ownership, issues or aids in issuing a negotiable receipt for such goods which does not state such ownership, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.
1917, c. 37, s. 53.

4094. Delivering goods without obtaining receipt. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods is outstanding and uncanceled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, except in the cases heretofore provided for in this chapter for the delivery of goods upon a lost receipt and for the sale of goods to satisfy the warehouseman’s lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.
1917, c. 37, s. 54.

4095. Fraudulent deposit and negotiation. Any person who deposits goods to which he has not title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable receipt which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to deceive and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.
1917, c. 37, s. 55.
CHAPTER 80

WIDOWS

ART. 1. DISSENT FROM WILL.

4096. Time and manner of dissent. Every widow may dissent from her husband’s will before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such will is proved, at any time within six months after the probate. The dissent may be in person, or by attorney authorized in writing, executed by the widow and attested by at least one witness and duly proved. The dissent, whether in person or by attorney, shall be filed as a record of court. If the widow be an infant or insane, she may dissent by her guardian.

Rev., s. 3080; Code, s. 2108; 1868-9, c. 98, s. 37.

Dissent of widow may be made in person or by attorney: Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-29—formerly made in person only, Hinton v. Hinton, 28-274.

Widow may dissent, notwithstanding executor induced her to agree otherwise under seal, if she was ignorant at the time of the condition of the estate: Richardson v. Justice, 125-409. Where widow agrees to adhere to provisions of will and, in consequence thereof, executor proceeds to pay legacies and assume obligations which would cause loss to him if widow were to dissent, she will be estopped by her agreement; but where in such case she offers to put the estate in statu quo, and executor has not acted under her agreement so as to cause him any loss, she is not estopped: Yorolk v. Stinson, 97-236.

Where widow is appointed executrix, proves the will and qualifies, she cannot afterwards renounce and dissent, but must carry out will in all of its provisions: Yorolk v. Stinson, 97-236; see Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 53-287; Syme v. Badger, 92-706; Allen v. Allen, 121-331; Jones v. Gerock, 59-195. But she may still dissent within the six months where qualification was had under an agreement with those interested to increase her allowance, and this was not carried out: In re Shuford's Will, 164-132.

Where widow fails to dissent, and brings action after six months from probate for a year's allowance, such action is not maintainable: Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-86. Dissent not necessary to maintain claim to year's allowance, when will provided for the allowance: Flippin v. Flippin, 117-376. Widow is entitled to provision from both personal and real estate of husband, and where she is provided for with one in the will she may obtain the other by dissenting from the will: Craven v. Craven, 17-338. Widow is entitled to dower without dissenting when no provision is made for her in the will: Miller v. Chambers (not reported), cited in Craven v. Craven, 17-338—but where provision made, she must dissent in six months, Redmond v. Coffin, 17-437.

If widow, donee of a power in a will, dissents from will, she renounces all powers and estates given, at least of such powers as imply personal trust and confidence: Hinton v. Hinton, 68-104; Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 53-287.

Fact that widow enters a caveat to will and contests its validity does not prevent her from accepting any benefit given her by will if its validity is established, or from entering her dissent thereto in the proper time: Yorolk v. Stinson, 97-236.

An election to take under the will once made, though by matter in pais, is binding: Horton v. Lee, 99-227. Widow who takes under a will is barred of dower in the lands included in such will because of her election, and not under an idea that she has received consideration therefore: Mitchener v. Atkinson, 62-23; but see same case, 63-585.

This section is a statute of limitation and only affects the remedy: Hinton v. Hinton, 61-410.

Where widow, being under age and without guardian, dissented from husband's will in open court and dower was assigned, it was held that, though dissent erroneously made, assignment of dower cannot be impeached in an action of ejectment brought by her for its recovery: Cheshire v. McCoy, 52-376.

4097. Effect of dissent. Upon such dissent, the widow shall have the same rights and estates in the real and personal property of her husband as if he had died intestate.

Rev., s. 3081; Code, s. 2109; R. C. c. 118, s. 12; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 38.

The "estate" is her dower, and her "rights" are the year's support and share as distributee: Drewry v. Bank, 173-664. Upon dissent the widow takes such interest as she would have taken if husband had died intestate; and her interest is subject to inheritance tax: Corporation Com. v. Dunn, 174-679.

How distributive share in personalty arrived at when widow dissents from will: Arrington v. Dortch, 77-387, and cases cited.

Where property is devised to widow for life and then to another, and she dissents to will, such property descends at once to the remainderman unless assigned to widow in her dower: Baptist University v. Borden, 132-476; Adams v. Gillespie, 55-244; Wilson v. Stafford, 60-647. Upon a dissent of widow, will should be so construed as to affect devisees and legatees to as small a degree as possible: Ibid.

For further annotations, see under section 4096.
4098. Widow's interest not liable for husband's debts. The dower or right of dower of a widow, and such lands as may be devised to her by his will, if such lands do not exceed the quantity she would be entitled to by right of dower, although she has not dissented from such will, shall not be subject to the payment of debts due from the estate of her husband, during the term of her life.

Rev., s. 3082; Code, ss. 2104, 2105; R. C. c. 118, s. 8; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 34; 1791, c. 351, s. 4.

Failure of the widow to dissent does not deprive her of her dower in the land as against the rights of creditors: Trust Co. v. Stone, 176-270; Lee v. Giles, 161-541; Shackelford v. Miller, 91-181; Simonton v. Houston, 78-408; Avery, ex parte, 64-113—and she is entitled to the same remedies as in an application for dower, Simonton v. Houston, 78-408.

Where will gave certain legacies and devises to widow in lieu of dower, which amounted to less in value than her dower, such legacies and devises were not assets liable to pay debts of testator: Smith v. Smith, 79-455. A decree of sale in a petition to sell land for assets does not estop the widow to claim dower in the proceeds unless her right was adjudicated: Trust Co. v. Stone, 176-270.

Where the widow is entitled to a homestead in right of her husband she is not put to her election to hold under the will or against it by dissent: Fulp v. Brown, 153-531.

4099. Who entitled to dower. Widows shall be endowed as at common law as in this chapter defined: Provided, if any married woman shall commit adultery, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, or shall be convicted of the felonious slaying of her husband, or being accessory before the fact to the felonious slaying of her husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband; and any such adultery or conviction may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of dower.

Rev., s. 3083; Code, s. 2102; 1889, c. 499; 1868-9, c. 98, s. 832; 1871-2, c. 198, s. 44.

Nature and history of dower discussed: Corporation Com. v. Dunn, 174-679. Widow's claim is in nature of a "writ of right" and is favored by law, and cannot be lost or forfeited, except for causes prescribed by statute or common law: Brown v. Morisey, 126-772.

Where decree in an action for divorce a mensa et thoro directed that husband pay a sum in gross and be discharged from all further liability for the support of his wife, after his death wife was entitled to dower in his lands: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418.

Wife who commits adultery and is not living with her husband at time of his death is thereby deprived of her dower: Lee v. Thornton, 176-208; Phillips v. Wiseman, 131-402. Bigamy of wife forfeits all right of dower in first husband's estate: Irby v. Wilson, 21-568.

4100. In what property widow entitled to dower. Subject to the provision in the preceding section, every married woman, upon the death of her husband intestate, or in case she shall dissent from his will, shall be entitled to an estate for her life in one-third in value of all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized and possessed at any time during the coverture, in which third part shall be included the dwelling-house in which her husband usually resided, together with offices, outhouses, buildings and improvements thereunto belonging or appertaining; she shall in like manner be entitled to such an estate in all legal rights of redemption and equities of redemption or other equitable estates in lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized in fee at any time during the coverture, subject to all valid encumbrances existing before the coverture or made during it with her free consent lawfully appearing thereto. The jury summoned for the purpose of assigning dower to a widow shall not be restricted to assign the same in every separate and distinct tract of land, but may allot her dower in one or more tracts, having a due regard to the interest of the heirs as well as to the right of the widow. This section shall not be construed so as to compel the jury selected to allot dower to allot the dwelling-house in which the husband usually resided, when the widow shall request that the same be allotted in other property.

Rev., s. 3084; Code, s. 2103; R. C., c. 118, s. 3; R. S., c. 121, s. 3; 1827, c. 46; 1869-70, c. 176; 1883, c. 175; 1908, c. 152.

For partition and dower, see section 3226.

NATURE OF DOWER RIGHT. Widow claims her dower under statute, not under her husband, often against him: Brown v. Morisey, 126-772. Right of wife to dower is paramount to and does not arise from the estate of the heir, but is a continuation of that of husband: Love v. McClure, 99-290; Everett v. Newton, 118-922; see Campbell v. Murphy, 55-357; Reitzel v. Eckard, 65-673.

Right of wife to have lands exonerated from mortgage debts, as against heirs, legatees, etc.: Creecy v. Pearce, 69-67; Caroon v. Cooper, 63-386; Gore v. Townsend, 105-228; Gwathney v. Pearce, 74-398; Klutts v. Klutts, 58-80.

Where the wife joined the husband in conveyance of timber, payment for extension of time, made after husband's death, should be to the heir and not to the widow: Morton v. Lumber Co., 178-163.

The widow's right of dower is an inchoate right, and she has no present right to property, nor to its possession; she has only a right contingent upon surviving her husband: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-504. Until allotment of dower has been made the widow has no right to retain possession of land against the heir or those claiming under him: Morton v. Lumber Co., 178-163; Fishel v. Browning, 145-71, and cases cited.

Where widow by ante-nuptial agreement agreed to take same interest in husband's lands as an heir in lieu of dower, etc., such agreement is enforceable on her: Brooks v. Austin, 95-474—as is also agreement to take nothing, Cauley v. Lawson, 58-132.

Dower interest is not shown by widow proving only a deed to her husband, without proving title in grantor or possession for seven years under deed: Brown v. Morisey, 128-138.

Open, notorious, and exclusive possession for twelve years, accompanied by claim of ownership, is constructive notice of an equity, even though it be in possession of one entitled to dower which had not been allotted. It would have been otherwise if dower had been allotted, as to the part embraced in the allotment: Ross v. Hendrix, 110-403.

Debt being one prior to 1868, defendant, widow of execution debtor, is not entitled to a homestead in the land so sold, but purchaser at sheriff's sale became owner and is entitled to recover land subject only to widow's right of dower: Buie v. Scott, 112-375.

In suit by widow against heirs to recover payments allotted to her as dower and made a charge on land, heirs cannot set up by way of counterclaim damages for waste committed by widow, but must proceed under statute: Hybart v. Jones, 130-227.

In a decree for specific performance of a contract to convey land, in which the wife did not join, compensation may be made for wife's dower right as an encumbrance: Bethell v. McKinney, 164-71.

LANDS IN WHICH WIDOW ENDOWED OR NOT ENDOWED. Wife is entitled to dower, under statute, in equitable as well as legal estates: Fortune v. Watkins, 94-304; see Rhea v. Rawls, 131-454; Effland v. Effland, 96-488—in all estates which any child she might bear could by any possibility have taken by descent: Pollard v. Slaughter, 92-72—only in an estate of inheritance, of which husband has a seizin in law or a seizin in deed, at any time during coverture; and therefore she is not dowable of a reversion or remainder expectant upon an estate of freehold: Houston v. Smith, 88-312; Redding v. Voght, 140-562; Thomas v. Bunch, 158-175; Phifer v. Phifer, 157-221; Royster v. Royster, 61-226.
Seizin of husband in order to support dower must be seizin in law; not only actual or constructive possession, but legal right to possession: Haire v. Haire, 141-88; Efland v. Efland, 96-488; Barnes v. Raper, 90-189. Widow is not entitled to dower where husband had only a life estate: Sprinkle v. Spainhour, 149-223; Gilmore v. Sellars, 145-283; Thompson v. Crump, 138-32.

Where land acquired and marriage took place prior to dower act of 1867, and husband conveyed in 1872 without concurrence of wife, land was not subject to dower: Jenkins v. Jenkins, 82-208. Where vendee, who was married before dower and homestead acts, makes a contract to buy land, bearing date before passage of those acts, but deed is not made until after their passage, his wife is not entitled to dower or homestead in such land unless he be seized of them at his death, and deed for them without her joinder conveys good title: Fortune v. Watkins, 94-304. Widow who married since the common-law dower act is not entitled to dower in lands sold during coverture under execution for debts contracted prior to dower act. And this is not changed because some of debts under which lands were sold were contracted subsequently. In this view, dower act does not impair obligations of the contract between debtor and creditor: Patton v. Asheville, 109-685. Not entitled as against purchaser at bankrupt sale, where marriage and acquisition of land were prior to 1860: Baird v. Winstead, 123-181.

Where husband and wife joined in a bond to convey a tract of land to defendant, but wife was not privily examined, and after death of husband she received payment for land and invested money in other land, she was estopped from taking advantage of want of privy examination, and therefore was not entitled to dower in land sold by her husband: Hodge v. Powell, 96-64.

Where a man executed and delivered deed to tract of land prior to his marriage and remained on land up to his death, and deed was not recorded until after his death, his widow is not entitled to dower: Haire v. Haire, 141-88.

Where widow fails for fourteen years to have dower allotted she cannot take dower in lands bought by third persons from heirs, where there is enough realty left out of which to secure her dower: Howell v. Parker, 136-373.

Where there is a devise in fee simple, with an executory devise over, wife's right to dower attaches on first estate, and is not defeated on its determination: Pollard v. Slaughter, 92-72.

Where land was purchased and paid for by husband, but deed was made to a third party in order to defraud creditors of husband, he has no such seizin as will support a claim for dower on part of his widow, although he was in possession of land: Efland v. Efland, 96-488; Barnes v. Raper, 90-189—but where land of which husband was seized during coverture was sold at execution sale and purchased by a third party with money of husband, and title was made to purchaser, with a like intent to defraud, wife is entitled to dower, Ibid.

A conveyance before marriage to defeat intended wife of dower right is void: Barnes v. Raper, 90-191; Littleton v. Littleton, 18-327; see, also, Tate v. Tate, 21-22; Pinner v. Pinner, 44-475.

If husband made a void deed, seizin remained in him and right of dower attached thereto: Norwood v. Morrow, 20-578.

Widow has right of dower in land covenanted to be conveyed to husband, but not fully paid for at death: Overton v. Hinton, 123-1; Smith v. Gilmer, 64-546; Thompson v. Thompson, 46-430—or paid for and no deed executed, Howell v. Parker, 136-373.

Widow entitled to dower in land voluntarily conveyed to husband, even though deed not registered: Tyson v. Tyson, 37-137; Tyson v. Harrington, 41-329.

Where husband conveys land in trust to satisfy creditors, but continues in possession till his death, his widow is not entitled to dower therein: Taylor v. Parsley, 10-125 (decision under a prior statute).

Widow's right of dower in partnership realty, see Sparger v. Moore, 117-449; Stroud v. Stroud, 61-525; Patton v. Patton, 60-572; Sweeney v. Patton, 60-601—in land held by husband as tenant in common, Dudley v. Tyson, 167-67—in land in which there has been an equitable conversion and reconversion, Phifer v. Giles, 159-142; s. c., 157-221.

When first wife paid for land and deed was made to husband by mistake, second wife is not entitled to dower: Hendren v. Hendren, 153-505.

Where deed not registered, and is lost at husband's death, he did not die seized, and widow therefore not entitled in law: Thomas v. Thomas, 32-123—but whether in equity, see Tyson v. Harrington, 41-329.

Where, on death of intestate, his widow and son live together on his land, and son marries and dies and his mother has her dower allotted in the same homestead tract, the son's wife can have no dower therein: Reitzel v. Eckard, 63-674.

Widow not entitled, in land of second husband, when first husband still alive, and no divorce, though he was absent from state and not heard from in seven years when second marriage took place: Ward v. Bailey, 118-53.

Where testator made several specific bequests to widow and children and provided that residue should be disposed of according to law, widow is entitled to dower as in case of intestacy: Bost v. Bost, 56-484.

A reservation of dower to wife of trustor in deed of trust to pay debts is void, but does not render deed void: Carter v. Cocke, 64-239.

Contract before marriage that neither, in case of death of one of them, should claim anything that belonged to other before marriage is sufficient to exclude widow from dower, from year's allowance and distributive share: Cauley v. Lawson, 58-132.

Where it becomes necessary to resort to lands of testator to pay his debts, widow is entitled to her dower: Gully v. Holloway, 63-84; Avery, ex parte, 64-113.

Acceptance by widow of a homestead laid off in lifetime of husband does not bar her right of dower in the other lands of husband: McAfee v. Betts, 72-28.

Where widow was general devisee under husband's will and conveyed a large part of the land in trust for her creditors, and, after passage of ordinance of March, 1868, dissented and sought to have dower therein: Held, that she was entitled: Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63-231.

Widow, who has taken dower in another state, has no interest in rents from estate of deceased husband: Carroll v. Montgomery, 128-278.

Widow not entitled to dower in land deeded to her husband under parol agreement of a reconveyance by way of mortgage, and she refuses to sign mortgage: Bunting v. Jones, 78-242.

Dower of widow shall embrace residence last usually occupied by deceased husband, and if value thereof is as much as one-third of the realty of which husband died seized, widow has no interest in balance of estate: Howell v. Parker, 136-573; Harrington v. Harrington, 142-517. But when the husband dies seized only of a house and lot, the widow is not entitled to have the whole as dower: Caudle v. Caudle, 176-537.

4101. Dower not affected by conveyance of husband; exception. No alienation of the husband alone, with or without covenant of warranty, shall have any other or further effect than to pass his interest in such estate, subject to the dower right of his wife: Provided, that a mortgage or trust deed by the husband to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, of land bought by him, shall, without the wife executing the deed, be effectual to pass the whole interest according to the provisions of the said deed.

Rev., s. 3085; Code, s. 2106; 1868-9, c. 35, s. 35.

For annotations as to necessity of signature and private examination of wife in order to bar her dower, see section 997.

Husband may convey land acquired before the constitution of 1868 without joinder of wife, and thereby bar wife of dower or homestead: Cawfield v. Owen, 129-286.

Where wife is not a party to an action for specific performance of contract to convey land executed by her husband he cannot avoid decree for conveyance by asserting that his wife was entitled to dower in land: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-503—compensation allowed for dower right as an encumbrance, Bethell v. McKinney, 164-71.

While land sold without joinder of wife is subject to dower, the purchaser has the right to have the dower allotted out of other lands descended: Harrington v. Harrington, 142-517.

The restriction placed upon alienation in fee by dower must be so construed as to carry out kindly purpose for which it was created with no more restraint on power of alienation than is necessary to make it effectual: Hughes v. Hodges, 102-236.

4102. Dower conveyed by wife's joinder in deed. The right to dower under this chapter shall pass and be effectual against any widow or person claiming under her upon the wife joining with her husband in the deed of conveyance and being privately examined as to her consent thereto in the manner prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 3085; Code, s. 2107; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 36.

For necessity of married woman’s signing deed and being privately examined to bar her dower right, see under section 997. See chapter Married Women.

Where only interest that feme defendant in an action by grantee of her husband and herself to recover land is her contingent right of dower, her failure to sign deed or to be privily examined will not affect right of plaintiff to recover: Deans v. Pate, 114-194.

4103. Conveyance of home site without wife’s signature. No deed or other conveyance, except to secure purchase money, made by the owner of a home site, which shall include the residence and other buildings together with the particular lot or tract of land upon which the residence is situate, whether actually occupied by said owner or not, shall be valid to pass possession or title during the lifetime of the wife without the voluntary signature and assent of her husband, signified on her private examination according to law: Provided, the wife does not commit adultery, or has not and does not abandon the husband and live separate and apart from him.

1919, c. 123.

ART. 3. ALLOTMENT OF DOWER

4104. By agreement between widow and heir. If the personal property of a decedent be sufficient to pay his debts and charges of administration, the heir or devisee with the widow may, by deed, agree to an assignment of her dower.

Rev., s. 3085; Code, s. 2110; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 39.

Agreements to assignment, see Jones v. Slaughter, 96-541; Waters v. Waters, 125-590.

4105. Petition filed in superior court. If no such agreement be made, the widow may apply for assignment of dower by petition in the superior court, and, if she fail to make such application within three months after the death of her husband, any heir or devisee may file a petition reciting the facts that the widow is entitled to dower on certain lands and has not applied for it, and demand that her dower be assigned to her. In all cases the widow and all heirs and devisees and persons in possession of, or claiming estates in, the lands shall be made parties, and the court shall hear and pass upon the petition in like manner as in other cases of special proceedings.

Rev., s. 3088; Code, ss. 2111, 2112; 1891, c. 133; 1868-9, c. 93, ss. 40, 41.

Allotment of dower at law and in equity explained: In re Gorham, 177-271.

Dower must be allotted in a single action brought in county in which deceased last usually resided: Howell v. Parker, 136-373; see Askew v. Bynum, 81-350.

Summons must be returnable before clerk only: Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113-312. Equitable jurisdiction of superior court over dower has not been taken away by giving cognizance of such matters to clerk; but in order for jurisdiction to attach as a general rule, some equitable element should appear in application: Pollard v. Slaughter, 92-72; Efland v. Efland, 96-488.

Right to apply for allotment of dower by special proceeding under this section is a legal right, personal to the widow, and cannot be transferred by assignment: Parton v. Allison, 109-674—and assignee of dower right is left to his remedy by civil action in superior court: Ibid.; s. c., 111-429. Action of assignee of dower right is primarily against widow, but in absence of an averment that lands described were all of which she was entitled to be endowed, heirs and devisees are properly made parties, so that whole matter may be determined in one action: Parton v. Allison, 111-429—widow is a necessary party, and conveyance will be treated in equity as a contract to have it allotted to her and then to convey it to purchasers: Ibid.
Court may permit creditor of person who dies seized and possessed of lands to be made party to a proceeding for dower, and contest claim of widow: Welfare v. Welfare, 108:272—but creditors are not necessary parties, Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63:231. A tenant for years in possession is a proper party to a proceeding for dower: Ingram v. Corbit, 177:318.

In petition for dower it is incumbent on widow, by proper evidence, to show seizin in husband during coverture and summons served on heirs: Waters v. Waters, 125:590—and simply showing deed to husband will not do, Brown v. Morisey, 128:138.

Declarations of heir of husband are not competent against widow upon trial of an action wherein it is sought to defeat her right to dower: Love v. McClure, 99:290.

Equitable defense that heir's money was used in purchase of land will not avail against widow in absence of fraud, mistake, etc.: Vance v. Vance, 118:864.

Widow's right not being yet denied, no need to allege when marriage took place: Parton v. Allison, 111:429.

There is no statute of limitations barring the application of a widow for her dower: Brown v. Morisey, 126:772; Simonton v. Houston, 78:418.

Right of widow to an account for rents: In re Gorham, 177:271.

4106. Dower assigned by jurors summoned by sheriff. If dower be adjudged, it shall be assigned by a jury of three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demand a greater number, not exceeding twelve, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet on the premises or some part thereof, and being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands within five days to the clerk of the superior court.

When the husband dies seized and possessed of lands in any other county than that in which dower is to be assigned, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which dower is to be assigned shall, upon application of the widow entitled to dower, issue a commission to the sheriff of such other county requiring him to summons three or more persons, as may be asked in said application, qualified to act as jurors, to go upon the lands of said husband in the county of said sheriff and assess the value of the same after being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands within five days to the clerk of the superior court.

In petition for dower, where lands consisted principally of different parcels mortgaged in several deeds by husband and wife, allotment should not be in part of lands as if unencumbered or subject to same encumbrance, but in each parcel separately, and then widow can work out her relief by asserting her equity against each creditor, as he seeks to enforce his security: Askew v. Askew, 103:285—nor should widow be allowed the use for life in a specific sum of money in lieu of dower in a parcel of the mortgaged lands, not deemed susceptible of allotment by metes and bounds, but allotment should be of one-third of the premises in value, for life, her share being fixed by law, and not depending on estimates: Ibid.

Dower should embrace the residence last usually occupied by deceased husband, and if value thereof is as much as one-third of reality of which husband died seized, widow has no interest in balance of estate: Howell v. Parker, 136:373; see Askew v. Bynum, 81:350; Harrington v. Harrington, 142:517—but where the husband owned only a house and lot, the wife is not entitled to the whole as dower: Caudle v. Caudle, 176:537.
4107. Notice to parties of meeting of jury. The parties to such proceeding, or their attorneys, if within the county, shall be notified of the time and place of meeting of the jury appointed to assign dower, at least five days before the meeting.

Revised, s. 3090; Code, s. 2114; 1868-9, c. 98, s. 81; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44; 1880, c. 42.

For allotment in proceeds of sale for partition, see section 3226.

Art. 4. Year's Allowance

Part 1. Nature of Allowance

4108. Who entitled to allowance. Every widow of an intestate, or of a testator from whose will she has dissented, shall be entitled, besides her distributive share in her husband's personal estate, to an allowance therefrom, for the support of herself and her family for one year after his decease, and such allowance shall be exempt from any lien, by judgment or execution, acquired against the property of her husband: Provided, if any married woman shall commit adultery, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, or shall be convicted of the murder of her husband, or of being accessory before the fact to the murder of her husband, she shall thereby lose all right to a year's provision, and to a distributive share from the personal property of her husband, and such adultery or conviction may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of such rights and estates.

Revised, s. 3091; Code, s. 2116; 1868-9, c. 499, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 81; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44; 1880, c. 42.

As to distributive share in husband's estate, see section 137 et seq.

Purpose of the year's support is to provide for the dependent family of deceased residing with the widow at death of her husband, and not at the date of her application: In re Hayes, 112-76.
Widow's claim to her year's allowance has priority over all other claims against decedent's estate except such as are secured by specific liens on property, even over funeral expenses and costs of administration: Denton v. Tyson, 118-542; Hinkle v. Greene, 125-489; Williams v. Jones, 95-405. She takes subject to a mortgage or conditional sale, though not registered until after husband's death: Williams v. Jones, 95-405; Hinkle v. Greene, 125-489.

Where testator provided in his will that his wife should have a year's allowance for her support for one year not exceeding the amount allowed by law, and widow and executor selected three men to lay off her year's support under will, and both parties assented to the report in writing endorsed thereon; in the absence of fraud and undue influence, widow is estopped by award and cannot maintain a proceeding under statute for a year's allowance: Flippin v. Flippin, 117-376.

Distributive share of widow consists of one-half of personalty after debts, expenses of administration, her year's allowance, and specific legacies are deducted from total value of personal estate: University v. Borden, 132-476.

When wife commits adultery, and is not living with husband at time of his death, she is barred of right to 'year's provision': Leonard v. Leonard, 107-171; see section 2522—but adultery committed prior to enactment does not bar, Cook v. Sexton, 79-304. Bigamy bars: Irby v. Wilson, 21-568.

Widow is barred from recovering a year's support by an ante-nuptial contract, relinquishing all claim to any property of her husband: Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-86; Cauley v. Lawson, 58-152; Brooks v. Austin, 95-474.

Clerk of superior court has no jurisdiction to render judgment on report of arbitrators appointed by court, in term, against heirs to whom decedent conveyed land prior to his death, for amount of their respective shares of widow's year's allowance and make payment of such sums a lien on the land, and judgment so rendered is void: McCauley v. McCauley, 122-288.

If a widow dies before allotment of her year's support is made or before report is confirmed, her right ceases, and it does not survive either to the children or to her administrator: Simpson v. Cureton, 97-112.

Widow of tenant cultivating land on shares, after the crop is allotted to her in her year's support, may maintain an action for conversion against landlord: Parker v. Brown, 136-280. Where landlord agrees with widow of tenant, to whom crop has been allotted as part of her year's support, that he will harvest same, and after deducting expenses pay her part, he thereby recognizes the allotment: Ibid.

WHERE HUSBAND DIED A NONRESIDENT. A widow's relations to her deceased husband's estate is governed by his domicile at death: Simpson v. Cureton, 97-112; Cade v. Davis, 96-189; but see Jones v. Layne, 144-600—and if the state of his domicile makes provision for widows, and there are not enough chattels in that state to satisfy that provision, it may be that such laws would be given effect in this state, but this would be in subordination to the rights of residents, and perhaps of all creditors: Ibid.—for a widow of a deceased citizen of another state, as a rule, cannot have her allowance set apart here, though she became a citizen of this state since the death of her husband, Ibid.; Medley v. Dunlap, 90-527—however, this seems to be changed by Jones v. Layne, 144-600, as to widows resident here. An allotment to nonresident widow is void: Simpson v. Cureton, 97-112.

4109. Amount allowed. Except in cases in which a larger allowance is hereinafter provided for, the value of a year's allowance shall be three hundred dollars, and one hundred dollars in addition thereto for every member of the family besides the widow.

Rev., s. 3092; Code, s. 2118; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 10.

4110. Family defined. The family of the deceased, for the purposes of this chapter, shall be deemed to be, besides the widow, any child with which she may be pregnant at the death of her husband, every child, either of the deceased or of the widow, and every other person to whom the deceased or widow stood in place of a parent, who was residing with the deceased at his death, and whose age did not then exceed fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3093; Code, s. 2119; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 11; 1909, c. 93.
The death of a child, after death of husband, does not diminish the allowance to the widow, as she gets allowance for every child "residing with deceased at his death": In re Hayes, 112-76—but where widow declined to take two children by former marriage, under 15 years of age, and keep them for one year and apply a portion of the money received as her allowance to their support, she is entitled to only $300, and not an additional $100 for each of the children: In re Stewart, 140-28.

Where testator provides for his infant children by former marriage—appointing guardian of their persons and property, directing him to take them to live with him (which he does), and educate them out of the profits of the estate, they do not constitute part of family of his widow after his death, and such widow is not entitled to extra allowance for their support: Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-29.

4111. When children entitled to allowance. If a man die intestate leaving no widow surviving him, or if his widow die before her year's allowance is assigned her, then there shall be assigned to every other member of the family, as in this chapter defined, the sum of one hundred dollars each, which shall be turned over immediately to the guardian and used by him in the care and education of the members of the family, respectively; and if there be no guardian, it shall be received and disbursed by the clerk of the superior court for their benefit.

Rev., s. 3094; 1889, c. 496.

4112. From what property assigned. Such allowance shall be assigned from the crop, stock and provisions of the deceased in his possession at the time of his death, if there be a sufficiency thereof in value; and if there be a deficiency, it shall be made up by the personal representative from the personal estate of the deceased.

Rev., s. 3095; Code, s. 2117; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 9.

Allotment of a year's support from growing crops at a specified value is sufficiently definite to admit record thereof in evidence by widow in action for conversion: Parker v. Brown, 136-280.

Administrator is personally liable if he have assets applicable to the deficiency and he fails to pay it: Irvin v. Hughes, 82-210.

Court may enter judgment nunc pro tunc in favor of widow against personal representative for deficiency in allotment of widow's year's allowance; widow also entitled to interest on such judgment: Long v. Long, 85-415.

Surplus of assets from sale of land to pay debts of a decedent remains real estate and cannot be applied to payment of a judgment against administrator in favor of widow for balance of her year's allowance: Denton v. Tyson, 118-542.

When crops of husband exceed landlord's lien, wife is entitled to have her year's allowance in the crops: Sessoms v. Tayloe, 148-309.

Part 2. Assigned by Justice of the Peace

4113. Duty of personal representative. It shall be the duty of every administrator, collector, or executor of a will, from which the widow of a testator has dissented, on application in writing, signed by the widow of such intestate or testator, at any time within one year after the decease of the husband, to assign to her a year's allowance in the manner prescribed in this chapter, to the value herein prescribed, deducting therefrom the value of any articles consumed by the widow and her family since the death of her husband to the time of the assignment. If there be no widow, or if she should die before the year's provision is assigned, the personal representative shall assign one hundred dollars.
to every other member of the family as defined in this chapter; but if there be no personal representative it shall be assigned by a justice of the peace, upon the application of the guardian or next friend of the children entitled.

Rev., s. 3096; Code, s. 2120; 1889, c. 496; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 12.

As to who are members of the family, see section 4110.

4114. Value of property ascertained. The value of stock, crop and provisions assigned to the widow, as well as that of the articles consumed, shall be ascertained by a justice of the peace and two persons qualified to act as jurors of the county in which administration was granted or the will proved.

Rev., s. 3097; Code, s. 2121; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 13.

4115. Procedure for assignment. Upon the application of the widow, the personal representative of the deceased shall apply to a justice of the peace of the township in which the deceased resided, or some adjoining township, to summon two persons qualified to act as jurors, who, having been sworn by the justice to act impartially, shall, with him, ascertain the number of the family of the deceased according to the definition given in this chapter, and examine his stock, crop and provisions on hand, and assign to the widow so much thereof as will not exceed the value limited in this chapter, subject to the deduction prescribed in this chapter: Provided, that in case there shall be no administration upon such estate, or in the event that the personal representative shall fail or refuse to apply to a justice of the peace as aforesaid for the space of ten days after the widow shall have filed with him the application as aforesaid, or if the widow shall be the personal representative, she may make the application, and it shall be the duty of the justice to proceed in the same manner as though the application had been made by the personal representative: Provided further, that in all cases, if there be no crop, stock or provisions on hand, or not a sufficient amount, the commissioners may allot to the widow any articles of personal property of the deceased, and also any debt or debts known to be due him, and such allotment shall vest in the widow such property, and the right to collect the debts thus allotted: Provided further, that where the widow and personal effects of the deceased husband shall have been removed from the township or county where deceased husband resided before his death, the widow may apply to any justice of the peace of any township or county where such personal property is located, and it shall be the duty of such justice to allot and assign the year’s allowance as if the husband had resided and died in that township.

Rev., s. 3098; Code, s. 2122; 1891, c. 13; 1899, c. 531; 1870-1, c. 263.

If widow is a minor and without guardian she may be represented by her next friend in applying for year’s allowance: Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-29.

Where widow fails to dissent to will and brings action after six months from probate thereof for a year's allowance, such action is not maintainable: Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-86—unless she has been deceived by executor and induced not to dissent, Bolin v. Barker, 75-47.

Where year's allowance provided in the will and three persons selected by widow and executor to allot it, to whose report widow assents in writing, she is estopped from bringing proceeding hereunder, in the absence of fraud or undue influence: Flippin v. Flippin, 117-376.

Application barred after one year from death of husband: Cook v. Sexton, 79-305.

An assignment under this section does not prevent a further allowance under section 4121: Mann v. Mann, 173-20.

4116. Report of commissioners. The commissioners shall make and sign three lists of the articles assigned to the widow, stating the quantity and value of each, the number in the family, and the deficiency to be paid by the personal representative. One of these lists shall be delivered to the widow, one to the personal representative, and one returned by the justice, within twenty days after the assignment, to the superior court of the county, and the clerk shall file and record the same and enter judgment against the personal representative, to be paid when assets shall come into his hands, for any residue found in favor of the widow.

Rev., s. 3099; Code, s. 2123; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 15.

Filing and recording the list of articles allotted to widow as her year's support, as required by statute, is essential to its validity and to the vesting of the property or debt allotted in her: Kiff v. Kiff, 95-71. Allotment must be made with such reasonable certainty as to indicate what property was intended by the commissioner, otherwise allotment will be void: Ibid. It is intimated that in case of uncertainty widow could have list corrected by a proper proceeding: Ibid.

As to recovery of residue from personal representative, see section 4112.

4117. Right of appeal. The personal representative, or the widow, or infant by his guardian or next friend, or any creditor, legatee or distributee of the deceased, may appeal from the finding of the commissioners to the superior court of the county, and, within ten days after the assignment, cite the adverse party to appear before such court on a certain day, not less than five nor exceeding ten days after the service of the citation.

Rev., s. 3100; Code, s. 2124; 1897, c. 442; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 16.

4118. Hearing on appeal. At or before the day named, the appellant shall file with the clerk a copy of the assignment and a statement of his exceptions thereto, and the issues thereby raised shall be decided as other issues are directed to be. When the issues shall have been decided, judgment shall be entered accordingly, if it may be without injustice, without remitting the proceedings to the commissioners.

Rev., s. 3101; Code, s. 2125; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 17.

4119. Personal representative entitled to credit. Upon the settlement of the accounts of the personal representative, he shall be credited with the articles assigned, and the value of the deficiency assessed as aforesaid, if the same shall have been paid, unless the allowance be impeached for fraud or gross negligence in him.

Rev., s. 3102; Code, s. 2126; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 18.

4120. When above allowance is in full. If the estate of a deceased be insolvent, or if his personal estate does not exceed two thousand dollars, the allowance for the year’s support of his widow and her family shall not, in any case, exceed the value prescribed above; and the allowance made to her as above prescribed shall preclude her from any further allowance.

Rev., s. 3103; Code, s. 2127; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 19.

When an additional allowance may be made: Mann v. Mann, 173-20.

Part 3. Assigned in Superior Court

4121. Widow may apply to superior court. It shall not, however, be obligatory on a widow to have her support assigned as above prescribed.
applying to the personal representative of her deceased husband, she may, at any time within one year after the death of her husband, apply to the superior court of the county in which the will was proved, or administration granted, to have a year’s support for herself and her family assigned to her.

Rev., s. 3104; Code, s. 2128; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 20.

The proceedings hereunder are statutory and not equitable in nature: Drewry v. Bank, 173-664.

4122. Nature of proceeding; parties. The application shall be by summons, as is prescribed for special proceedings, in which the personal representative of the deceased, if there be one other than the plaintiff, the largest known creditor, or legatee, or some distributee of the deceased, living in the county, shall be made defendant, and the proceedings shall be as prescribed for special proceedings between parties.

Rev., s. 3105; Code, s. 2129; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 21.

4123. What complaint must show. In her complaint the widow shall set forth, besides the facts entitling her to a year’s support and the value thereof, as claimed by her, the further facts that the estate of the deceased is not insolvent, and that the personal estate of which he died possessed exceeded two thousand dollars, and also whether or not she had an allowance made her, and the nature and value thereof; and if no allowance has been made, the quantities and values of the articles consumed by her and her family since the death of her husband.

Rev., s. 3106; Code, s. 2130; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 22.

4124. Judgment, and order for commissioners. If the material allegations of the complaint be found true, the judgment shall be that she is entitled to the relief sought; and the court shall thereupon issue an order to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county, commanding him to summon a justice of the peace and two indifferent persons qualified to act as jurors of the county, to assign to the plaintiff from the crop, stock and provisions of the deceased a sufficiency for the support of herself and her family for one year from the death of her husband; and if there be a deficiency thereof, to assess such deficiency, to be paid by the personal representative from the personal assets of the deceased, deducting, nevertheless, in all cases from such allowance the articles, or the value thereof, consumed by the widow and her family before such assignment, and also any sum previously assigned her.

Rev., s. 3107; Code, s. 2131; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 23.

4125. Duty of commissioners; amount of allowance. The said commissioners shall be sworn by the justice and shall proceed as prescribed in this chapter, except that they may assign to the widow a value sufficient for the support of herself and her family according to the estate and condition of her husband and without regard to the limitation aforesaid in this chapter; but the value allowed shall not in any case exceed the one-half of the annual net income of the deceased for three years next preceding his death. This report shall be returned by the justice to the court.

Rev., s. 3108; Code, s. 2132; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 24.
4126. Exceptions to the report. The personal representative, or any creditor, distributee or legatee of the deceased, within twenty days after the return of the report, may file exceptions thereto. The plaintiff shall be notified thereof and cited to appear before the court on a certain day, within twenty and not less than ten days after service of the notice, and answer the same; the case shall thereafter be proceeded in, heard and decided as provided in special proceedings between parties.

Rev., s. 3109; Code, s. 2133; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 25.

The findings of fact by the lower court will not be reviewed on appeal: Drewry v. Bank, 173-664.

4127. Confirmation of report; execution. If the report shall be confirmed, the court shall so declare, and execution shall issue to enforce the judgment as in like cases.

Rev., s. 3110; Code, s. 2134; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 26.

The wife can dispose of her property, acquired since 1868, by will and thereby bar the husband’s right as tenant by the curtesy: Watts v. Griffin, 137-572; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132-947; Watts, ex parte, 130-237; Tiddy v. Graves, 126-620; s. c., 127-502.

Rev., s. 3113; Code, s. 2136; R. C., c. 119, s. 1; 1784, c. 204, s. 11; 1784, c. 225, s. 5; 1840, c. 62; 1846, c. 54.

For annotations as to holograph wills, see section 4144 (2)—as to nuncupative wills, see section 4144 (3).

The right to dispose of property by will is regulated by statute: Peace v. Edwards, 170-64; In re Alfred’s Will, 170-153; In re Garland’s Will, 160-555; Pullen v. Comrs., 66-363.

Whether an instrument is a deed or a will, how determined: Phifer v. Mullia, 167-405. No particular form required: In re Edwards’ Will, 172-369. Letter may be a will: In re Will of Ledford, 170-610; but see Spence v. Spencer, 163-83; Alston v. Davis, 118-202.

Douglas, 151-357. A will may be written on separate sheets of paper which are attached to each other or where there is internal evidence of their relation: In re Swain’s Will, 162-215. Where there were four wills found folded together, all in the handwriting of testator, and making a different disposition of the property, in the absence of evidence as to which was the last will, neither will be valid: Peace v. Edwards, 170-64.

It is not necessary that a will should be read over to an illiterate person before he signs it: King v. Kinsey, 74-261.

Signing by the testator need not be by his signature at the bottom of the will; it may be in the body of the will or even below the signatures of the witnesses: Devereux v. McMahon, 108-184; Peace v. Edwards, 170-64—nor does the will require a date, Ibid. A holograph will is sufficiently signed when the writing is in a sealed envelope and the signature is on the outside: Alexander v. Johnston, 171-468.
It is not necessary that the testator should sign the will in the presence of the witnesses; an acknowledgment is sufficient: In re Will of Margaret Dayton, 177-494; In re Broach's Will, 172-529; Watson v. Hinson, 162-72; Ripley v. Armstrong, 159-158; In re Herring's Will, 152-258.

SUBSCRIBING WITNESSES. It is not necessary that the testator request the witnesses to sign; the request may be by attorney: Burney v. Allen, 123-314; In re Herring’s Will, 152-258—or the request may appear from the circumstances, In re Will of Margaret Dayton, 177-494.

The witnesses must sign in the presence of the testator: In re Will of Margaret Dayton, 177-494; In re Herring’s Will, 152-258. The testator must actually see, or be in a position to see, not only the witnesses but the will itself at the time of signing: Ibid.; Burney v. Allen, 125-314; In re Snow's Will, 128-100; Jones v. Tuck, 48-202; Bynum v. Bynum, 33-632—and where he could see the backs of the witnesses, but not the paper, it was not a good attestation, Graham v. Graham, 32-219. It may be shown from the location of the parties, the furniture in the room, etc., that testator could have seen the witnesses sign the will: Burney v. Allen, 127-476.

The witnesses need not sign in the presence of each other: In re Margaret Dayton’s Will, 177-494; Watson v. Hinson, 162-72; In re Herring’s Will, 152-258; EHelbeck v. Granberry, 3-232.

The attestation must be on the same sheet as that which contains the signature of the testator, or on a paper physically connected with it: In re Baldwin’s Will, 146-25—and when witness signed a paper before testator signed, and did not see testator after paper was left at his house to be executed, it was not a proper execution, Ibid.

The witness may sign by making his mark: Pridgen v. Pridgen, 35-259; Devereux v. McMahon, 102-284, and cases cited—and it is immaterial that he was at the time able to write his name, In re Will of Elijah Pope, 139-484.

It is sufficient if witnesses sign before the testator, if signed in his presence: Cutler v. Cutler, 130-1; In re Baldwin’s Will, 146-25.

To be held as a witness to a will it is essential that subscriber consent to be such and that he sign in the presence of the testator: Boone v. Lewis, 103-40; Jones v. Tuck, 48-202; Gaskill v. King, 31-211; Bynum v. Bynum, 33-632; Graham v. Graham, 32-219; Ragland v. Huntington, 23-561. Where one signs a will where subscribing witnesses usually sign, there is a presumption that he signed as a subscribing witness, but the contrary may be shown: Boone v. Lewis, 103-40—and he is not deprived of his benefits under the will, if in fact he did not sign as a subscribing witness, Ibid.

Statement that will was proven by the oath of two subscribing witnesses would imply legal proof of its execution: Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158-251.

A blind man may execute a will, and the signing of the witnesses in his presence is sufficient: In re Allred’s Will, 170-153.

The contents of a lost will may be proved by the testimony of one witness: In re Hedgepeth, 150-245.

4132. Execution of power of appointment by will. No appointment, made by will in exercise of any power, shall be valid unless the same be executed in the manner by law required for the execution of wills; and every will, executed in such manner, shall, so far as respects the execution and attestation thereof, be a valid execution of a power of appointment by will, notwithstanding it shall have been expressly required that a will made in exercise of such power should be executed with some additional or other form of execution or solemnity.

Rev., s. 3114; Code, s. 2139; R. C., c. 119, s. 4; 1844, c. 88, s. 9.

ART. 2. REVOCATION OF WILL

4133. Revocation by writing or by cancellation or destruction. No will or testament in writing, or any clause thereof, shall be revocable otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator himself, or in his presence and by his direction and consent; but all wills or testaments shall remain and continue in force until the same be burnt, canceled, torn, or obliterated by the testator, or in his presence and by his consent and direction; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, signed by him, or some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, all of which shall be in the handwriting of the testator, and his name subscribed thereto or inserted therein, and lodged by him with some person for safe-keeping, or left by him in some secure place, or among his valuable papers and effects, every part of which will or codicil or other writing shall be proved to be in the handwriting of the testator, by three witnesses at least.

Rev., s. 3115; Code, s. 2176; R. C., c. 119, s. 22; 1784, c. 204, s. 14; 1819, c. 1004, ss. 1, 2; 1840. c. 62.

There may be a partial revocation of a will: Baker v. Edge, 174-100; Barfield v. Carr, 169-574.

A joint will by husband and wife conveying property held by entirety may be revoked by the survivor: Ginn v. Edmundson, 173-85.

Where one erases the name of the executor at the request of the testator and inserts the name of another it amounts to a revocation as to the first executor if he is living; if he is dead, the change does not affect the will; and if the change is not properly made and witnessed, it would be inoperative as to second executor: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72.

To constitute a valid revocation it is essential, among other requirements, that entire writing, including signature, should be in testator's writing, where it is not attested by witnesses: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

Where will was found in mutilated condition among deceased's papers immediately after his death there is a presumption that mutilation was done by him for the purpose of revocation, although the repository was accessible to a stranger and to deceased: Bennett v. Sherrod, 25-305—but presumption is otherwise when will is found mutilated two days after and it has been in custody of party adversely interested, Ibid.

A cancellation, obliteration or erasure made after execution of a will, which does not in fact destroy some material part of it, is not a revocation: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

A clause of attestation being annexed to a paper not attested is not conclusive evidence of abandonment by testator of his intention that it should operate as his will: Robeson v. Key, 15-301.

A direction to one to burn will, given by testator, when not complied with, is no revocation: Hise v. Fincher, 32-139—otherwise when testator throws it upon the fire and only partially burns, but does not interfere with the writing: White v. Casten, 46-197.

No will can be revoked by parol: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218—nor can parol evidence be introduced to show revocation, In re Venable's Will, 127-344.

Testator's declaration cannot be received to change or add to the will already duly executed: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218—but declarations of testator made after the date of an alleged revocation, written on margin of a will, tending to prove that he did not write or execute alleged revocation, were competent, Ibid.

Where will, having been in possession of testator, has signature of testator erased, it is prima facie evidence of its revocation: Cutler v. Cutler, 132-190. A cancellation is prima facie a revocation; but jury may decide from all the evidence whether testator so intended: Bethell v. Moore, 19-311.

Second will, afterwards destroyed, does not affect, in any way, validity of first: Marsh v. Marsh, 48-77.

Later will does not revoke a former one unless the two are so inconsistent as to be incapable of standing together: In re Venable's Will, 127-344—and parol evidence is not admissible to show revocation, Ibid. Question for jury, as between two paper-writings, as to which is the will: Fleming v. Fleming, 63-209.
Where copy of lost will is presented for probate as against an original of earlier date, and it is shown that testatrix had one which was lost in her possession when it was last seen, the presumption is that she destroyed it: Scoggins v. Turner, 98-135.

Where testator knows of defacement and mutilation of his will by vermin, whether he intended it to be revoked thereby is a question for jury: Cutler v. Cutler, 130-1, 132-190.

Revocation of a will is an act of the mind, demonstrated by some outward and visible sign: White v. Cusen, 46-197.

There cannot be republication by oral declaration merely of what purports to be an attested will; and it is doubtful whether there can be of a holograph. As to a paper purporting to be an attested will, there cannot be a republication unless by a re-execution of a codicil with ceremonies required by the statute: Love v. Johnston, 34-355.

BURDEN OF PROOF. In proceeding for probate of will, on the margin of which was written an alleged revocation, after propounder offered the will and proved its due execution, burden of proving that will had been legally revoked was upon contestant: In re Shelton’s Will, 143-218.

Where a will has been in testator’s possession and is offered for probate with name of testator torn off or eaten by vermin, burden of showing that it had not been revoked is on propounder: Cutler v. Cutler, 130-1; s. c., 132-190.

Where the will is found among the papers of the testator and is mutilated by having the name torn and the word “canceled” written on two important sections, the burden is on the propounder to show the will is not revoked: In re Wellborn’s Will, 165-636.

Where court erroneously put upon the propounder of a will the burden of proving that an alleged revocation of will was not genuine, contestant, at whose request it was done, cannot complain: In re Shelton’s Will, 143-218.

Presumption that lost will, which was last seen in hands of testator, was destroyed by him, is not conclusive; burden is upon person asserting will to show it was not so destroyed: Scoggins v. Turner, 98-135.

4134. Revocation by marriage; exception. All wills shall be revoked by subsequent marriage of the maker except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the real or personal estate thereby appointed would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his heirs, executor or administrator, or the person entitled as his next of kin, under the statute of distributions.

Rev., s. 3116; Code, s. 2177; R. C., c. 119, s. 23; 1844, c. 88, s. 10.

How holograph will, revoked by subsequent marriage, revived and republished: Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52-133.

The will of a married woman is revoked by another marriage contracted after will was made and her verbal declaration, during the last coverture, that said paper-writing was her last will and testament, without any further execution thereof in accordance with statute, does not constitute a re-execution and republication: Means v. Ury, 141-248. See, also, Winslow v. Copeland, 44-17.

4135. No revocation by altered circumstances. No will shall be revoked by any presumption of an intention on the ground of an alteration in circumstances.

4136. No revocation by subsequent conveyance. No conveyance or other act made or done subsequently to the execution of a will of, or relating to, any real or personal estate therein comprised, except an act by which such will shall be duly revoked, shall prevent the operation of the will with respect to any estate or interest in such real or personal estate as the testator shall have power to dispose of by will at the time of his death.

4137. Executor competent witness. No person, on account of being an executor of a will, shall be incompetent to be admitted a witness to prove the execution of such will, or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof.

Rev., s. 3110; Code, s. 2146; R. C., c. 119, s. 9.

An executor is competent to prove a will, when it has been burned, though he is a devisee: Cox v. Lumber Co., 124-78; Pannell v. Scoggins, 53-408.

4138. Beneficiary competent; interest rendered void. If any person shall attest the execution of any will, to whom or to whose wife or husband any beneficial devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment of or affecting any real or personal estate shall be thereby given or made, such devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment shall, so far only as concerns such person attesting the execution of such will or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under such person, or wife or husband, be void; and such person so attesting shall be admitted as a witness to prove the execution of such will, or the validity or invalidity thereof.

Rev., s. 3120; Code, s. 2147; R. C., c. 119, s. 10.

Being a legatee or devisee does not disqualify a witness from attesting the execution of a will, but his legacy becomes void: McLean v. Elliott, 72-70; Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-548; Vester v. Collins, 101-114; McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

Where question raised as to whether signature of devisee was as a subscribing witness or as attesting the signature of a subscribing witness who signed by making his mark, see Boone v. Lewis, 103-40.

A decedent executed a deed of trust and on the same day a will, which referred to former. The trustee was one of the attesting witnesses to the will and was authorized by the trust to retain his compensation. He was an incompetent witness: Allison v. Allison, 11-141.

Devisee competent to prove holograph will: Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592.

Witness disinterested at time of attestation of will, but interested before probate, not competent: Hampton v. Garland, 3-147.

Widow and devisee of testator is a competent witness to prove fact that script was found among valuable papers of deceased: Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-542; McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

A witness who is a devisee under script executed in January is not competent upon trial of issue devisavit vel non to speak of conversations with testator tending to impeach a script executed in May thereafter: Hathaway v. Hathaway, 91-139.

4139. Executor may apply for probate. Any executor named in a will may, at any time after the death of the testator, apply to the clerk of the superior court, having jurisdiction, to have the same admitted to probate. Such will shall not be valid or effective to pass real estate or personal property as against innocent purchasers for value and without notice, unless it is probated or offered for probate within two years after the death of the testator or devisor. If such will is fraudulently suppressed, stolen or destroyed, or been lost, and an action or proceeding shall be commenced within two years from the death of the testator or devisor to obtain said will or establish the same as provided by law, then the limitation herein set out shall only begin to run from the termination of said action or proceeding, but not otherwise.

Rev., s. 3122; Code, s. 2151; C. C. P., s. 439; 1919, c. 15.

In the absence of some statute to the contrary there is no limit of time after testator's death within which a will may be proved, and when duly proved it relates back to death of testator so as to vest title from that date as between parties who claim under it: Steadman v. Steadman, 143-345; In re Dupree's Will, 163-256. No statute of limitations applies to probate of lost will: McCormick v. Jernigan, 110-406. Cases decided before amendment of section, see section 4163.

4140. Executor failing, beneficiary may apply. If no executor apply to have the will proved within sixty days after the death of the testator, any devisee or legatee named in the will, or any other person interested in the estate, may make such application, upon ten days notice thereof to the executor.

Rev., s. 3123; Code, s. 2152; C. C. P., s. 440.

This section applies to a codicil as well as to the will: Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83.

4141. Clerk may compel production of will. Every clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, on application by affidavit setting forth the facts, shall, by summons, compel any person in the state, having in possession the last will of any decedent, to exhibit the same in his court for probate; and whoever being duly summoned refuses, in contempt of the court, to produce such will, or (the same having been parted with by him) refuses to inform the court on oath where such will is, or in what manner he has disposed of it, shall, by order of the clerk of the superior court, be committed to the jail of the county, there to remain without bail till such will be produced or accounted for, and due submission made for the contempt.

Rev., s. 83124; Code, s. 2154; C. C. P., s. 442.

Duty of respondent to produce will, even though in wrong jurisdiction: In re Scarborough, 139-423. As to attachment for contempt: Ibid.

This is neither an action nor a special proceeding, and issues of fact do not arise; upon an answer denying the allegations as to possession, the respondent should be discharged unless applicant offers evidence: Williams v. Bailey, 177-37.

4142. What shown on application. On application to the clerk of the superior court, he must ascertain by affidavit of the applicant—

1. That such applicant is the executor, devisee or legatee named in the will, or is some other person interested in the estate, and how so interested.
2. The value and nature of the testator's property, as near as can be ascertained.
3. The names and residences of all parties entitled to the testator's property, if known, or that the same on diligent inquiry cannot be discovered; which of the parties in interest are minors, and whether with or without guardians, and the names and residences of such guardians, if known. Such affidavit shall be recorded with the will and the certificate of probate thereof, if the same is admitted to probate.

Rev., s. 3125; Code, s. 2153; C. C. P., s. 441.

4143. Proof and examination in writing. Every clerk of the superior court shall take in writing the proofs and examinations of the witnesses touching the execution of a will, and he shall embody the substance of such proofs and examinations, in case the will is admitted to probate, in his certificate of the probate thereof, which certificate must be recorded with the will. The proofs and examinations as taken must be filed in the office.

Rev., s. 3126; Code, s. 2149; C. C. P., s. 437.

The old law did not require this; and when the will appeared upon the record where it should be if properly probated, it is presumed to have been placed there in the regular way: Poplin v. Hatley, 170-163.

4144. Manner of probate. Wills and testaments must be admitted to probate only in the following manner:

1. In case of a written will, with witnesses, on the oath of at least two of the subscribing witnesses, if living; but when any one or more of the subscribing witnesses to such will are dead, or reside out of the state, or cannot after due diligence be found within the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, then such proof may be taken of the handwriting, both of the testator and of the witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent, and also of such other circumstances as will satisfy the clerk of the superior court of the genuineness and the due execution of such will. In all cases where the testator executed the will by making his mark, and where any one or more of the subscribing witnesses are dead or reside out of the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, it shall not be necessary to prove the handwriting of the testator, but proof of the handwriting of the subscribing witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent shall be sufficient. The probate of all wills heretofore taken in compliance with the requirements of this section are hereby declared to be valid.

GENERALLY. Objectors to the probate of a will who attend before clerk and contest will, with counsel and evidence, are virtually caveators, and may be so termed: Collins v. Collins, 125-98.

There is no particular form required for a will; one in the form of a contract is sufficient if it shows clearly the intention of the testator to make a will: In re Edwards' Will, 172-369; In re Will of Margaret Dayton, 177-494. See, also, In re Belcher, 66-51.

Joint will may be probated as to each on his death, but not as a joint will until death of both: In re Davis' Will, 120-9.

In proceedings to probate a will, parol proof that paper offered for probate is a copy of the will of testator which had been destroyed is inadmissible, in the absence of any physical connection between the paper and the will: In re Baldwin's Will, 146-25.

Probate is a proceeding in rem, of which statute confers jurisdiction on clerk and court; upon issue of devisavit vel non all persons interested should be brought in; and, strictly speaking, there are no parties who can withdraw or nonsuit case: Powell v. Watkins, 172-244; Collins v. Collins, 125-98; Young's Will, 123-358; Hutson v. Sawyer, 104-1; St. John's Lodge v. Callender, 26-335; Love v. Johnston, 34-355.

Probate of a lost will must be made before clerk: McCormick v. Jernigan, 110-406; Ricks v. Wilson, 154-282; In re Hedgepeth, 150-245. What is sufficient proof of lost will and its contents: Ibid.

The probate of a lost will relates back to the death of testator, but an intervening judgment determining the title to the property as between the claimants will be an estoppel and will protect an innocent purchaser: Stelges v. Simmons, 170-42.

Manner of probate where one of subscribing witnesses is dead: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72.

In a proceeding for probate of a will, where the usual issue was submitted, "Is the paper-writing propounded for probate, and every part thereof, the last will and testament of deceased?" to which jury answered "Yes," verdict was not ambiguous because the will had on its margin an alleged revocation, as the marginal words were no part of the will: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.
That an executor is appointed is sufficient to entitle the will to be admitted to probate, if properly executed, and an exception that propounder had offered no evidence that there was a beneficiary under the will capable of taking, cannot be sustained, as the probate court has no jurisdiction except to inquire into the execution of the will: In re Murray's Will, 141-488—and the only question presented is whether the will was duly executed, Redmond v. Collins, 16-430.

A letter may be construed as a will and admitted to probate: Alston v. Davis, 118-202; overruled in Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83; but see this explained in In re Will of Ledford, 176-610.

Incorporating an agreement into the probate of a will that certain ones would not resist probate if paid certain legacies is irregular: Gardner v. Anderson, 79-24.

As to presumption of acquiescence in probate, see Gray v. Maer, 20-41; Etheridge v. Corprew, 48-14; see section 4145. Acquiescence in probate in common form will work forfeiture of right to probate in solemn form: Etheridge v. Corprew, 48-14.

Probate of will in common form cannot be set aside on petition for reprobate without showing some reason why former probate was wrong. That there was no notice to those interested is not sufficient: Armstrong v. Baker, 31-109; MeNorton v. Robeson, 31-256.

Length of time which must elapse to set aside a will and an application for a reprobate must depend upon circumstances of each case: Dickenson v. Stewart, 5-99.

A WILL WITH SUBSCRIBING WITNESSES. Where there were three subscribing witnesses to will, only two need be examined for probate in common form: Boone v. Lewis, 103-44—and, if nonresidents, handwriting of only two need be proven: Bethell v. Moore, 19-311.

Where paper offered for probate was written by third person, who signed as witness before testator signed, and not in his presence, and who never saw testator after paper was left at his residence to be executed, will was not proved within meaning of section requiring will to be subscribed in the presence of testator by witnesses, though, where signing of testator and of witnesses takes place at same time, it may be immaterial who signed first: In re Baldwin's Will, 146-25.

Mere recitation in attestation clause of will that it was signed in presence of two witnesses, etc., is not affirmative evidence: R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-241.

In case of wills admitted to probate prior to January 1, 1856, when a will appears upon its face to have been attested by two witnesses, testimony of the one subscribing witness authorized by Rev. Stat., chap. 122, sec. 6, to prove it is presumed to have shown that both subscribed in the presence of the testatrix: Jenkins v. Jenkins, 96-254.

Prior to January 1, 1856, when the Revised Code went into effect, a will attested by two witnesses could be proved in common form by oath and examination of one of them only. Since that time it must be proved by at least two of the subscribing witnesses, if living: Jenkins v. Jenkins, 96-254; Cowles v. Reavis, 109-417.

When a will, executed with proper formalities, etc., is offered for probate, it must be established without consideration of trusts therein declared: Wood v. Sawyer, 61-251.

The signing may be proved from the witnesses having seen it written by testator, or from having heard him acknowledge it. It is not necessary, if he acknowledged the signing, that name or signature or handwriting should be before him at the time. If paper lie at a distance on the table, and he acknowledge the signature without seeing it, it is sufficient: Eelbeck v. Granberry, 3-232.

Where, after two witnesses had signed, an insertion of the name of one of the witnesses as executor was made, and a third witness was called in who signed after the testator acknowledged the execution, this did not impair its validity: Grigg v. Williams, 51-518; Bateman v. Mariner, 5-176; Malloy v. McNair, 49-297.

Under statutes now regulating attestation and probate of wills the document must be subscribed in the presence of the testator by at least two witnesses, and the evidence upon which the will is admitted to probate must show that fact: In re Thomas, 111-409. Where the certificate of probate, after reciting the testimony, failed to show that the witness attested the execution of the will in the presence of the testator, the probate was defective: Leatherwood v. Boyd, 60-123; see Howell v. Ray, 92-510.
While the subscribing witnesses to a will are necessary and are the law’s witnesses, their statement is not conclusive: In re Will of Margaret Deyton, 177-494. Under the doctrine of “incorporation by reference,” a will properly executed may refer to another defective will or to another document in such a manner as to make it a part of the valid will: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72.

There is no statute of limitations as to the probate of a will: In re Dupree’s Will, 163-256; Steadman v. Steadman, 143-345; but see section 4139.

2. In case of a holograph will, on the oath of at least three credible witnesses, who state that they verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be, and whose name must be subscribed thereto, or inserted in some part thereof. It must further appear on the oath of some one of the witnesses, or of some other credible person, that such will was found among the valuable papers and effects of the decedent, or was lodged in the hands of some person for safe-keeping.

A writing in the form of a letter may operate as a will: In re Will of Ledford, 176-610—but it must appear to have been the intention of the writer to dispose of his property after his death, Ibid.; Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83, overruling Alston v. Davis, 118-202.

A script written in a book containing accounts, found eight months after death, may be proved as a holograph will: Brown v. Eaton, 91-26; Hampton v Hardin, 88-592.

In probate of a holograph will there must be affirmative and direct proof that it was deposited with some one as a will, or was found among the valuable papers of testator after his death: St. John’s Lodge v. Callender, 26-335; McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

The wife of testator may be the person to whose safe-keeping his will, in his own handwriting, is intrusted: Harrison v. Burgess, 8-384.

A holograph found among valuable papers, bearing particular date, presumed to have been deposited by testator on date named: Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52-133.

“Valuable papers and effects,” “and” may be construed “or”; “effects” is a broad term and will include life insurance policies; “valuable papers” does not mean most valuable: In re Jenkins, 157-429.

Where the holograph will is found among the valuable papers and is signed by testator, but it is also marked “canceled” and the signature is torn, the burden is on the propounder to establish it as a valid will: In re Wellborn’s Will, 165-636.

A second probate of holograph will may correct defect in first probate: Boggan v. Somers, 152-390.

A will written on the back of envelope containing insurance policies and found in a safe with valuable papers may be valid: Harper v. Harper, 148-453. The fact that a holographic will is found among valuable papers and effects implies that it was placed there to take effect as a will: In re Jenkins, 157-429.

Joint will, in the handwriting of the husband and signed by the husband and wife, may be the holographic will of the husband: In re Cole’s Will, 171-74.

Where four papers are presented as holograph wills, all making different dispositions of property, neither will be valid, in the absence of evidence as to which was the last will: Peace v. Edwards, 170-64.

3. In case of a nuncupative will, on the oath of at least two credible witnesses present at the making thereof, who state that they were specially required to hear witness thereto by the testator himself. It must also be proved that such nuncupative will was made in the testator’s last sickness, in his own habitation, or where he had been previously resident for at least ten days, unless he died on a journey or from home. No nuncupative will shall be proved by the witnesses after six months from the making thereof, unless it was put in writing within ten days from such making; nor shall it be proved till a citation has been first issued or publication been made for six weeks in some newspaper published in the state, to call in the widow and next of kin to contest such will if they think proper.

Rev. s. 3127; Code, s. 2148; 1893, e. 269; 1901, c. 276; C. C. P., s. 435.

Nuncupative will must be proved on oath of at least two credible witnesses present at making thereof, who state that they were specially required to bear witness by testator himself. It must have been made in his last sickness, in his own habitation, or in one where he had been resident for at least ten days previous, unless he died on a journey or from home: Bundrick v. Haygood, 106-468; In re Garland’s Will, 160-555.

Nuncupative will which has been reduced to writing within ten days after it was made may be proved for probate either before or after the lapse of six months after making thereof; but if not put in writing within ten days it cannot be proved after the expiration of six months: Haygood Will Case, 101-574.

To establish a nuncupative will it is not necessary that the persons called by testator to witness his testamentary declarations should have been designated by him by name: Long v. Foust, 109-114.

Land cannot pass by nuncupative will: Smithdeal v. Smith, 64-52—it only applying to personal property, Newman v. Bost, 122-533.

After contents of nuncupative will are established within time and in manner prescribed by statute it cannot be admitted to probate until citation or publication has been made according to statute, but it is essential that this citation or publication and the probate based thereon shall be completed within six months from making of alleged will: Haygood Will Case, 101-574.

Probate will not be valid if next of kin are not cited: Rankin v. Rankin, 31-156.

4145. Probate conclusive until vacated. Such record and probate is conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will, until it is vacated on appeal or declared void by a competent tribunal.

Rev., s. 3128; Code, s. 2150; C. C. P., s. 438.

Probate of wills is a judicial proceeding in rem, and judgment is a judgment in rem and is good against the world, and cannot be attacked collaterally: Davis v. Blevins, 123-379; Granbery v. Mhoon, 12-456.

Probate of a will by clerk is a judicial act, and his certificate is conclusive evidence of validity of will, until vacated on appeal or declared void by a competent tribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose: Starnes v. Thompson, 173-466; Powell v. Watkins, 172-244; McClure v. Spivey, 123-678; In re Beauchamp’s Will, 146-254; Mayo v. Jones, 78-402; Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592; London v. Railroad, 88-584; Morgan v. Bass, 25-243.

It is sufficient evidence of a probate of a will that it is certified by the clerk that it was proved in open court by H., a subscribing witness, and recorded, where it appears from the will that there were two subscribing witnesses: Harven v. Springs, 32-180—also sufficient where stated “was produced in open court for probate and duly proved according to law,” Davis v. Blevins, 123-382—also “the will of R., proved by H., executor T. qualified,” Marshall v. Fisher, 46-111.

Under the law at date of this decision where will attested by two witnesses, and probate is by one, it is presumed that it was legally proven: University v. Blount, 4-455.

In an action of ejectment, party who claims under deed from devisee in a will cannot question validity of probate of will: Steadman v. Steadman, 143-345.
Where will has been admitted to probate, party claiming property disposed of by it to another cannot, in an action to recover same, attack will on ground of lack of testamentary capacity of testatrix, and evidence offered for that purpose is properly excluded: Varner v. Johnston, 112-570.

4146. Wills filed in clerk's office. All original wills shall remain in the clerk's office, among the records of the court where the same shall be proved, and to such wills any person may have access, as to the other records.

Rev., s. 3129; Code, s. 2173; R. C., c. 119, s. 19; 1777, c. 115, s. 50.

4147. Certified copy of will proved in another state. When a will, made by a citizen of this state, is proved and allowed in some other state or country, and the original will cannot be removed from its place of legal deposit in such other state or country, for probate in this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the testator had his last usual residence or has any property, upon a duly certified copy or exemplification of such will being exhibited to him for probate, shall take every order and proceeding for proving, allowing and recording such copy as by law might be taken upon the production of the original.

Rev., s. 3130; Code, s. 2157; C. C. P., s. 445; R. C., c. 44, s. 9; 1802, c. 623.

See section 1777.

Certificate of probate of will executed in another state, disposing of real estate in this state, is defective which does not show affirmatively that will was executed according to the laws of this state: R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-241.

A will proved in another state, bearing certificate of clerk of court wherein probate was had to the oath of attesting witnesses, but having no other authentication, is inadmissible in evidence: Hunter v. Kelly, 92-285.

4148. Probate of will made out of the state. Whenever it is suggested to the clerk of the superior court, by affidavit or otherwise, that a will has been made without the state, or that a will has been made in the state and the witnesses thereto have moved out of the state, disposing of or charging land or other property within the state, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the property is situated may issue a commission to such person as he may select, authorizing the commissioner to take the examination of such witnesses as may be produced, touching the execution thereof, and upon return of such commission, with the examination, he may adjudge the will to be duly proved or otherwise, as in cases on the oral examination of witnesses before him, and if duly proved, such will shall be recorded.

Rev., s. 3131; Code, s. 2155; 1899, c. 55; C. C. P., s. 448.

4149. Probate when witnesses are nonresident. Where one or more of the subscribing witnesses to the will of a testator, resident in this state, reside in another state, the examination of such witnesses may be had, taken and subscribed in the form of an affidavit, before a notary public residing in the county and state in which the witnesses reside; and the affidavits, so taken and subscribed, shall be transmitted by the notary public, under his hand and official seal, to the clerk of the court before whom the will has been filed for probate. If such affidavits are, upon examination by the clerk, found to establish the facts necessary to be established before the clerk to authorize the probate of the will if the witnesses had appeared before him personally, then it shall be the duty of the clerk to order the will to probate, and record the will with the same effect as if the subscribing witnesses had appeared before him in person and been examined under oath.
1917, c. 183.

4150. Probate when witnesses in another county. When a will is offered for probate in one county of this state and the witnesses reside in another county, the clerk of the court before whom such will is offered shall have power and authority to issue a subpoena for the witnesses requiring them to appear before him and prove the will; and the clerk shall likewise have power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of such witnesses when they reside more than seventy-five miles from the place where the will is to be probated, such deposition and commission to be returned and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proven. Also, when it shall be found as a fact upon affidavit or other proof, by the clerk of any county where a will is to be probated, that any witness to the will resides outside of the county, and seventy-five miles or less from the place where the will is to be probated, and that the witness is so infirm of body as to be unable to appear in person before the clerk to prove the will, then the clerk shall have the power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of the witness, the commission and deposition of the witness to be returned, and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proven thereon as if the witness had appeared in person before him.

Rev., s. 3132; 1899, c. 55; 1911, c. 13.

Where deposition is taken and the alleged will is shown to the witness, it may be shown by parol evidence what paper was exhibited to the witness: In re Clodfelter’s Will, 171-528.

4151. Probate of wills of soldiers and sailors. In addition to the methods already provided in existing statutes therefor, the will of a soldier or sailor, executed while in the actual service of the United States, shall be admitted to probate (whether there were subscribing witnesses thereto or not, if they, or either of them, is out of the state at the time said will is offered for probate) upon the oath of at least three credible witnesses that the signature to said will is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be. Such will so proven shall be effective to devise real property as well as to bequeath personal estate of all kinds. This section shall not apply to cases pending in courts and at issue on the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

The provisions of this section shall expire by limitation on April sixth, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

1919, c. 216.

4152. Certified copy of will of nonresident recorded. Whenever any will made by a citizen or subject of any other state or country is duly proved and allowed in such state or country according to the laws thereof, a copy or exemplification of such will, duly certified and authenticated by the clerk of the court in which such will has been proved and allowed, if within the United States, or by any ambassador, minister, consul or commercial agent of the United States under his official seal when produced or exhibited before the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein any property of the testator may be, shall be allowed, filed and recorded in the same manner as if the original and not the copy had been produced, proved and allowed before such clerk. But when any will contains any
Arr. 4 Chast

4153 WILLIS devise or disposition of real estate in this state, such devise or disposition shall not have any validity or operation unless the will is executed according to the laws of this state; and that fact must appear affirmatively in the certified probate or exemplification of the will; and if it does not so appear, the clerk before whom the copy is exhibited shall have power to issue a commission for taking proofs, touching the execution of the will, as prescribed in the preceding section; and the same may be adjudged duly proved, and shall be recorded as herein provided.

Rev., s. 3133; Code, s. 2156; 1885, c. 393; C. C. P., s. 444; 1883, c. 144.

A will executed in Tennessee and proved by only one witness cannot be read in evidence here: Blount v. Patton, 9-237.

Where nonresident testator devises land in this state, and record of foreign court of probate, duly certified, contains certificate of probate, which refers to certified examination of witnesses, the whole forming one transaction, exemplification of which and of will being duly recorded in county where land lies, will is sufficiently proved and passes property: Roscoe v. Lumber Co., 124-42; see Drake v. Merrill, 47-368.

A devise by citizen of another state of land in this state can have no operation until proved before proper court in this state to have been executed according to our laws: Drake v. Merrill, 47-368.

Will of nonresident devising realty must conform to statutes of this state, while as to personalty the law of the testator's domicile controls: McEwan v. Brown, 176-249; R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-241; Drake v. Merrill, 47-368.

Record and certification of exemplified copy is sufficient though pages may not be in regular order: Lumber Co. v. Hudson, 153-96.

The requirement that a will duly executed and probated in another state may be allowed and recorded on certificate is a valid exercise of power: Vaught v. Williams, 177-77. Insufficient certificate under this section: Riley v. Carter, 158-484.

4153. Probates validated where proof taken by commission or another clerk. In all cases of the probate of any will heretofore made in common form before any clerk of the superior courts of this state, where the testimony of the subscribing witnesses has been taken in the state or out of it by any commissioner appointed by said clerk or taken by any other clerk of the superior court in any other county of this state, and the will admitted to probate upon such testimony, the proceedings are validated.

Rev., s. 3134; 1899, c. 650.

4154. Probates by deputy clerk validated in certain counties. All probates of wills heretofore made before a deputy clerk of the superior court, wherein no contest or suit is pending for the purpose of annulling the probate, shall be deemed to have been probated before the clerk of the superior court, and the acts of the deputy clerk in probating the same shall be deemed as effectual and valid in law as if done by the clerk in person. This section shall apply only to Burke and Scotland counties.

4155. Probates in another state before 1860 validated. In all cases where any will devises land in this state, and the original will was duly admitted to probate in some other state prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty, and a certified copy of such will and the probate thereof has been admitted to probate and record in any county in this state, and it in any way appears from such recorded copy that there were two subscribing witnesses to such will, and its execution was proved by the examination of such witnesses when the original was admitted to probate, such will shall be held and considered, and is hereby declared to be, good and valid for the purpose of passing title to the lands devised thereby, situated in this state, as fully and completely as if the original will had been duly executed and admitted to probate and recorded in this state in accordance with the laws of this state: Provided, that this section shall in no way affect actions or suits pending on March 8, 1913, or any vested rights.

1913, c. 93, s. 1.

4156. Local: Validating probate of certain old wills. In all cases where wills and testaments were executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, and which appears to have two or more subscribing witnesses thereto, and such wills and testaments were admitted to probate in jurisdictions outside of North Carolina upon the proof of one witness, and such wills, or exemplified copies thereof, were presented to the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state where the makers thereof owned property, and by such clerk recorded in the records of wills for his county, said wills and testaments, or exemplified copies thereof, so recorded, if otherwise sufficient, shall have the effect to pass the title to the real and personal property therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution of such wills had been proven by two subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by the laws of this state. And where such wills and testaments were duly admitted to probate in jurisdictions outside of North Carolina, upon proof of one witness, and in cases where parties interested desire to have them recorded in this state, where they have not already been so recorded, the clerk of the superior court of any county in North Carolina, when such wills or exemplified copies thereof are duly authenticated and presented to him by parties interested, shall receive and record the same; and if same are otherwise sufficient such wills shall have the effect to pass the title to all real and personal property therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution of such wills had been proven by two subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by the laws of this state. This section shall not have the effect to invalidate the title of any person owning any land embraced in the provisions of any such will which was valid prior to the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen. This section shall not apply to suits pending on the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and nothing herein shall be construed to prevent such wills from being impeached for fraud. This section shall only apply to Henderson and Transylvania and Wake counties.

4157. Wills in Haywood. All wills recorded by the clerk of the superior court of Haywood county, under and by virtue of chapter eight of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, shall be deemed and held to have been duly probated and recorded, subject to the right of any person interested to show by competent proof that said will has never been proved and recorded.

Rev., s. 1614; 1885, c. 8.

Art. 5. Caveat to Will 4158. When and by whom caveat filed. At the time of application for probate of any will, and the probate thereof in common form, or at any time within seven years thereafter, any person entitled under such will, or interested in the estate, may appear in person or by attorney before the clerk of the superior court and enter a caveat to the probate of such will: Provided, that if any person entitled to file a caveat be within the age of twenty-one years, or a married woman, or insane, or imprisoned, then such person may file a caveat within three years after the removal of such disability.

Rev. s. 3135; Code. s. 2158; C. C. P. s. 446; 1907, c. 862.

Coverture not a disability affecting statute of limitations, see sections 407, 408.

A person interested may file a caveat to probate of will in common form and require propounder to prove it in solemn form, if there has been no unreasonable delay: In re Hedgepeth, 150-245.

A will devising realty executed by a resident of another state may be contested where the land is situated; as to personality, the caveat is at the testator’s domicile: McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

Where an action is brought for the construction of a will and judgment rendered, the parties are estopped and cannot afterwards file a caveat: In re Will of Lloyd, 161-557.

A caveat is a proceeding in rem, and upon an issue devisavit vel non the only question determined is the validity of the will: Philfer v. Mullis, 167-405.

While there was no statute of limitation as to caveat before this section, there was a presumption which might bar the caveators by acquiescence or unreasonable delay: In re Dupree’s Will, 163-256; In re Bateman’s Will, 168-234.

Upon an issue devisavit vel non the will must be proved per testes, and the examination taken before the clerk may be used only as corroborative evidence: In re Will of Chisman, 175-420. Upon a caveat filed, the will cannot be set aside by consent: Holt v. Ziglar, 159-272; s. c., 163-390. Practice in filing caveat reviewed in Randolph v. Hughes, 89-428.

Amendment to section fixing seven years after probate of a will in common form as the time within which a caveat for probate in solemn form may be filed, and permitting seven years after ratification of act as to wills theretofore proven, did not revive a right to file a caveat which had been lost by forty years acquiescence: In re Beauchamp’s Will, 146-264.

Failure from 1863 for over forty years to file a caveat for probate of will in solemn form may not be excused by married woman on ground that until laws of 1899, statute of limitations did not run against her, since there was no statute of limitations as to time in which caveat should be filed until 1907: Ibid.

Right of next of kin and heirs at law to require probate in solemn form may be forfeited by acquiescence or unreasonable delay, after notice of probate; and such right was forfeited where petitioner knew for more than forty years of the probate in common form and of the qualification of executors, of their removal from state, of the appointment of an administrator with the will annexed, and of his proceeding for final account and settlement, to which she was a party: Ibid.

Wife may sue for probate of her father’s will in solemn form without joining her husband, if he is opposed: Ibid.

Issues as to execution of a will and testator’s capacity may only be determined after probate in solemn form is allowed, and will not be considered on a preliminary question whether right to caveat has been forfeited by unreasonable delay: Ibid.

As to testamentary capacity of testator at time will executed, see In re Staub’s Will, 172-138; Bond v. Mfg. Co., 140-381; In re Peterson, 136-13; In re Snow’s Will, 128-102; Mitchell v. Corpening, 124-473; In re Burns’ Will, 121-336; Crenshaw v. Johnson, 120-270; Williams 1705 4159. Bond given and cause transferred to trial docket. Upon any caveator giving bond, with sufficient surety to be approved by the clerk, in the sum of two hundred dollars, payable to the propounder of the will, conditioned to pay all costs which may be adjudged against such caveator in the superior court by reason of his failure to prosecute his suit with effect, or deposit the money or give a mortgage in lieu of such bond, or shall file affidavits and satisfy the clerk of his inability to give such bonds or secure such costs, the clerk shall transfer the cause to the superior court for trial; and he shall also forthwith issue a citation to all devisees, legatees or other parties in interest within the state, and cause publication to be made, for four weeks, in some newspaper printed in the state, for nonresidents to appear at the term of the superior court, to which the proceeding is transferred and to make themselves proper parties to the proceeding, if they choose. At the term of court to which such proceeding is transferred, or as soon thereafter as motion to that effect shall be made by the propounder, and before trial, the judge shall require any of the persons so cited, either those who make themselves parties with the caveators or whose interests appear to him antagonistic to that of the propounders of the will, and who shall appear to him to be able so to do, to file such bond within such time as he shall direct and before trial; and on failure to file such bond the judge shall dismiss the proceeding.

Rev., s. 3136; Code, s. 2159; 1899, c. 13; 1901, c. 748; C. C. P., s. 447; 1909, c. 74.

The general issue devisavit vel non may be submitted, or a special issue as to any part of the will: McDonald v. McLendon, 173-172.

Upon an issue devisavit vel non the proof of the formal execution of the will must be made de novo: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72; In re Hedgepeth, 150-245; In re Thomas, 111-409.

Proper charge of court upon an issue devisavit vel non: In re Thorp, 150-487.

Upon caveat filed, the burden is upon the propounder to establish the will by showing formal execution, or, if lost or destroyed, that it was not intentionally done so as to make a revocation: In re Hedgepeth, 150-245.

Issue as to whether paper-writing is the will of decedent being raised by the caveat filed thereto, no answer to such caveat is necessary: Crenshaw v. Johnson, 120-270.

4160. Affidavit of deceased witness as evidence. Whenever the subscribing witness to any will shall die, or be absent beyond the state, it shall be competent upon any issue of devisavit vel non to give in evidence the affidavits and proofs taken by the clerk upon admitting the will to probate in common form, and such affidavit and proceedings before the clerk shall be prima facie evidence of the due and legal execution of said will.

Rev., s. 3121; 1899, c. 680, s. 2.

4161. Caveat suspends proceedings under will. Where a caveat is entered and bond given, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith issue an order to any personal representative, having the estate in charge, to suspend all further proceedings in relation to the estate, except the preservation of the property and the collection of debts, until a decision of the issue is had.

Rev., s. 3137; Code, s. 2160: C. C. P., s. 448.
Does not affect right of husband to administer on wife’s estate, will naming no executor: In re Meyers, 113-545.

Executor cannot be removed and collector appointed simply upon filing of caveat: In re Palmer’s Will, 117-133.

In absence of an order to suspend further proceedings upon filing of caveat, acts of executor in filing a petition or proceeding for sale of land were not void nor were rights of purchasers affected: Carraway v. Lassiter, 139-145; Syme v. Broughton, 86-153.

Filing of caveat to probate of will does not prevent executor, upon giving bonds prescribed by statute, from proceeding in collection of debts due testator: Hughes v. Hodges, 94-56.

Art. 6. Construction of Will.

4162. Devise presumed to be in fee. When real estate shall be devised to any person, the same shall be held and construed to be a devise in fee simple, unless such devise shall, in plain and express words, show, or it shall be plainly intended by the will, or some part thereof, that the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity.

Rev. s. 3138; Code, s. 2180; R. C., c. 119, s. 26; 1784, c. 204, s. 12.

The purpose of construction is to arrive at the intention of testator, and the whole will must be considered: Taylor v. Brown, 165-157; Fellowes v. Durfey, 163-305; Herring v. Williams, 158-1, reversing s. c., 153-231.

A codicil is a part of the will, and the two must be construed together: Darden v. Matthews, 173-186.

A devise will be construed in fee unless it appears otherwise by clear and express words: Fellowes v. Durfey, 163-305. A devise to L for life with remainder to “her bodily issue” is construed to convey an estate to L for life, with remainder to her children: Ford v. McBrayer, 171-420. An estate to one generally, with the power of disposition, carries the fee: Griffin v. Commander, 163-230; see Mabry v. Brown, 162-217—but a devise to one for life, with power of disposition, gives only a life estate, with power to convey the fee, Makely v. Land Co., 175-101; Darden v. Matthews, 173-186; Fellowes v. Durfey, 163-305, and cases cited. The intention to create the power of disposition in the devisee must clearly appear from the language of the will: Herring v. Williams, 158-1, reversing s. c., 153-232. The word “lend” may be construed to convey a fee: Cohoon v. Upton, 174-88. Will construed as conveying a defeasible fee: Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209; Satterwaite v. Wilkinson, 173-38.

An action by one devisee against other devisees to obtain a construction of a will to determine their interests under the will cannot be maintained as a proceeding in equity, their interests being purely legal: Heptinstall v. Newsom, 146-503.

While laying down a rule of construction, this section leaves open the question of intention of testator, and where there is a particular interest and a general interest in conflict in the will, the general interest must prevail: Leeper v. Neagle, 94-338.

Purpose of section is to establish a rule between heir and devisee in respect to the beneficial interest of the latter: Alexander v. Cunningham, 27-450.

4163. Probate necessary to pass title; rights of innocent purchasers. No will shall be effectual to pass real or personal estate unless it shall have been duly proved and allowed in the probate court of the proper county, and a duly certified copy thereof shall be recorded in the office of the superior court clerk of the county wherein the land is situate, and the probate of a will devising real estate shall be conclusive as to the execution thereof, against the heirs and devisees of 1707 the testator, whenever the probate thereof, under the like circumstances, would be conclusive against the next of kin and legatees of the testator: Provided, that the probate and registration of any will shall not affect the rights of innocent purchasers for value from the heirs at law of the testator when such purchase is made more than two years after the death of such testator, unless the will has been fraudulently withheld from probate.

Rev., s. 3139; Code, s. 2141; R. C., c. 119, s. 20; 1784, c. 225, s. 6; 1915, c. 219.

See annotations under section 4145, and section 4139.

When the formalities of probate have been complied with, it relates back to the death of devisor, but not to affect the rights of innocent purchasers from the heirs when the purchase is more than two years after the death of the devisor (1915, c. 219): Cooley v. Lee, 170-18.

Probate of will in the proper court is an indispensable prerequisite to its validity as a conveyance of real or personal estate: Osborne v. Leak, 89-433.

Probate of will ought regularly to appear upon minutes of county court, and the will itself ought to be recorded: Sumner v. Roberts, 13-527.

Section referred to in Curlee v. Smith, 91-172; Floyd v. Herring, 64-411.

4164. What property passes by will. Any testator, by his will duly executed, may devise, bequeath, or dispose of all real and personal estate which he shall be entitled to at the time of his death, and which, if not so devised, bequeathed, or disposed of, would descend or devolve upon his heirs at law, or upon his executor or administrator; and the power hereby given shall extend to all contingent, executory, or other future interest in any real or personal estate, whether the testator may or may not be the person or one of the persons in whom the same may become vested, or whether he may be entitled thereto under the instrument by which the same was created, or under any disposition thereof by deed or will; and also to all rights of entry for conditions broken, and other rights of entry; and also to such of the same estates, interests, and rights respectively, and other real and personal estate, as the testator may be entitled to at the time of his death, notwithstanding that he may become entitled to the same subsequently to the execution of his will.

An interest in remainder in land passes by the will: Jones v. Huntley, 156-410.

Prior to statute no land acquired after date of will could pass thereby: Hines v. Mercer, 125-71.

Lands acquired after publication of holograph will do not pass thereby: Jiggitts v. Maney, 5-258.

Land cannot pass by a nuncupative will: Smithdeal v. Smith, 64-52.

Where interest in money is bequeathed, the principal to be paid to personal representative of beneficiary at her death, beneficiary may dispose of same by will: Lyon v. Bank, 128-75.

Section referred to in Freeman v. Lide, 176-434; Kornegay v. Miller, 137-663; Church v. Young, 130-11; Champion, ex parte, 45-246.

4165. Will relates to death of testator. Every will shall be construed, with reference to the real and personal estate comprised therein, to speak and take effect as if it had been executed immediately before the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will.

Rev., s. 3141; Code, s. 2141; R. C., c. 119, s. 16; 1844, c. 88, s. 3.

Will speaks as of the death of the testator: Perry v. Perry, 175-141.

Prior to statute, title of no land after date of the will could pass thereby; but since statute, all lands owned by testator at his death will pass, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will: Hines v. Mercer, 125-71; Aydlett v. Small, 115-1.
This section does not apply to wills executed prior to its enactment: Battle v. Speight, 31-228.

4166. Lapsed and void devises pass under residuary clause. Unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will, such real estate or interest therein as shall be comprised or intended to be comprised in any devise in such will contained which shall fail or be void by reason of the death of the devisee in the lifetime of the testator, or by reason of such devise being contrary to law or otherwise incapable of taking effect, shall be included in the residuary devise (if any) contained in such will: Provided, there shall be no lapse of the devise or legacy by reason of the death of the devisee or legatee during the life of the testator, if such devisee or legatee would have been an heir at law or distributee of such testator had he died intestate, and if such devisee or legatee shall leave issue surviving him; and if there is issue surviving, then the said issue shall have the devise or bequest named in the will.

Rey., s. 3142; Code, s. 2142; R. C., c. 119, s. 7; 1844, c. 88, s. 4; 1919, c. 28.

Where a codicil revokes part of a devise and no further disposition is made of the property, it passes under the residuary clause: Baker v. Edge, 174-100. Where the construction of the will shows a contrary intention, the property will not pass under the residuary clause: Howell v. Mehegan, 174-64. This will apply where the will attempts to devise land, but no devisee is named: Faison v. Middleton, 171-170.

Unless contrary intent appears, residuary clause will pass both personalty and realty: Powell v. Woodcock, 149-235.

A devise which lapsed by death of devisee before testator passes under residuary clause, where there is nothing in the will which shows a contrary intention: Duckworth v. Jordan, 138-520; Barfield v. Carr, 160-574.

Heirs of testator, and not residuary legatees, take property included in a lapsed specific devise, unless it appears that testator intended it otherwise: Holton v. Jones, 139-399.

Words "balance and residue of my estate of every kind" include reversionary interest in real estate in which a life estate had been carved out: Foil v. Newsome, 138-115.

Under a devise in a residuary clause that "surplus of testator's estate should be equally divided between P. M. and the children of S., share and share alike, to each and every of them, their executors, etc., forever," devisees took per capita, and a child of S., born after death of testator, was entitled to share with other children: Culp v. Lee, 109-675.

Person made residuary legatee as to all personal property does not take land which testator fails to devise: Sain v. Baker, 128-256.

Unless there is something to show contrary intention on part of testator, a general residuary devise will operate as an execution of a power to dispose of property by will: Johnston v. Knight, 117-122.

4167. General gift by will an execution of power of appointment. A general devise of the real estate of the testator, or of his real estate in any place or in the occupation of any person mentioned in the will, or otherwise described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any real estate, or any real estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper; and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will; and in like manner a bequest of the personal estate of the testator, or any bequest of personal property, described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any personal estate, or any personal estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will.

Rev., s. 3143; Code, s. 2143; R. C., c. 119, s. 8; 1844, c. 88, s. 5.

Where donee of a power to dispose of property by will to certain persons devises property to such persons by a residuary clause without referring to the power, the devise will be considered an intentional and not an accidental exercise of the power: Johnston v. Knight, 117-122.

It is a presumption of fact that every man that makes a will intends to dispose of all of his estate: McCallum v. McCallum, 167-310; Austin v. Austin, 160-367; Powell v. Woodcock, 149-235; Peebles v. Graham, 128-228; Blue v. Ritter, 118-589; Jones v. Perry, 38-200.

A bequest of "all my property of every description to J." passes stocks, bonds, and all interests of the testator: Hurdle v. Outlaw, 55-75.

4168. Gifts to children dying before testator pass to their issue. When any person, being a child or other issue of the testator, to whom any real or personal estate shall be devised or bequeathed for any estate or interest not determinable at or before the death of such person, shall die in the lifetime of the testator, leaving issue, and any such issue of such person shall be living at the death of the testator, such devise or bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect and vest a title to such estate in the issue surviving, if there be any, in the same manner, proportions and estates as if the death of such person had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will.

Rev., s. 3144; Code, s. 2144; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 61.

This applies only to devises or legacies to child or other issue of the testator: Howell v. Mehegan, 174-64.

Devises to a child who died before testator does not lapse, but by force of statute goes to issue of such deceased child: Cox v. Ward, 107-507—but this does not have reference to devises to children not in esse, Lindsay v. Plesants, 39-320.

This statute is not intended for the benefit of creditors of such deceased parent: Smith v. Smith, 58-305.

Legacy to grandchild, who died before will was made, is void: Scales v. Scales, 59-163.

4169. After-born children share in testator's estate. Children born after the making of the parent's will, and whose parent shall die without making any provision for them, shall be entitled to such share and proportion of the parent's estate as if he or she had died intestate, and the rights of any such after-born child shall be a lien on every part of the parent's estate, until his several share thereof is set apart in the manner prescribed in this chapter.

Rev., s. 3145; Code, s. 2145; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 62.

Applies only when after-born child has not been provided for through inadvertence or mistake. Does not control provision parent should make: Flanner v. Flanner, 160-126. Does not apply if omission was intentional or provision made ultra: Ibid.

A will expressly excluding the children of testator born after the execution thereof makes a "provision" for them under section, and such children do not share in estate as though testator had died intestate: Thomason v. Julian, 133-309.

Where, by will of their father, two children in esse were to take upon a contingency which failed to occur, a posthumous child, who was to share equally with them, will be precluded also: Clark v. Benton, 124-200.

Where it can be gathered from the will that it was intention of testator that a posthumous child should share equally with his two children, in esse, court will effectuate his intention:

Devises to children of S., share and share alike, to each and every of them; devisees take per capita with child of S. born after testator’s death: Culp v. Lee, 109-675; see Coggins v. Flythe, 113-102.

Section merely referred to in Johnson v. Chapman, 45-213; Windley v. Gaylord, 52-55.

4170. Administrator c. t. a. must observe will. In all cases where letters of administration with the will annexed are granted, the will of the testator must be observed and performed by the administrator with the will annexed, both in respect to real and personal property, and an administrator with the will annexed has all the rights and powers, and is subject to the same duties, as if he had been named executor in the will.

Rev., s. 3146; Code, s. 2168; C. C. P., s. 455.

See chapter Administration, section 22.

An administrator cum testamento annexo can execute any power conferred by will on executor therein named: Council v. Averett, 95-131.

An administrator d. b. n., c. t. a., although required to execute will, does not stand on same footing in all respects as an executor, as his authority is derived from the law and not from the will, and he cannot sue in another jurisdiction to recover assets of estate: Grant v. Reese, 94-720.

Administration c. t. a. was granted upon a will proven in common form; a subsequent contest in regard to the will does not necessarily annul the letters of administration: Floyd v. Herring, 64-409—but it suspends the action of such administrator pending contest: Syme v. Broughton, 86-153.

Injunction lies to prevent administrator from selling land for assets where validity of will in controversy: Galbreath v. Everett, 84-546.

Section referred to in Grant v. Reese, 94-731.

SUBCHAPTER 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

ART. 1. FELONIES AND MISDEMEANORS

4171. Felonies and misdemeanors defined. A felony is a crime which is or may be punishable by either death or imprisonment in the state's prison. Any other crime is a misdemeanor.

4172. Punishment of felonies. Every person who shall be convicted of any felony for which no specific punishment is prescribed by statute shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state prison not exceeding two years, or be fined, in the discretion of the court, or if the offense be infamous, the person offending shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state prison not less than four months nor more than ten years, or be fined.

4173. Punishment of misdemeanors. All misdemeanors, where a specific punishment is not prescribed shall be punished as misdemeanors at common law; but if the offense be infamous, or done in secrecy and malice, or with deceit and intent to defraud, the offender shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or shall be fined.

Rev. s. 3292; Code. s. 1097; R. C. c. 34. s. 120.

Punishment by imprisonment in the penitentiary cannot be imposed at common law: State v. Smith, 174-804; State v. McNeill, 75-15. For punishment for misdemeanors at common law, see State v. Manly, 95-661; State v. Powell, 94-920; State v. Jackson, 82-565; State v. McNeill, 75-15. As to excessive punishment of misdemeanors at common law, see State v. Miller, 94-904; State v. Perkins, 82-682; State v. Pettie, 80-367; State v. Driver, 78-423; State v. Miller, 75-73.

Where statute makes commission of an act "unlawful" and specifies no mode of proceeding, violation of its provisions is a misdemeanor punishable by indictment at common law: State v. Bloodworth, 94-918; State v. Parker, 91-650; see, also, State v. Snuggs, 85-541.

The word "or," in criminal statutes, cannot be interpreted to mean "and" when the effect is to aggravate the offense or increase punishment: State v. Walters, 97-459.

Where punishment within court's discretion it is not reviewable: State v. Woodlief, 172-885; State v. Miller, 94-904.

Where statute which person had violated was repealed before he was sentenced, no punishment can be imposed: State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Williams, 97-455; State v. Long, 78-571; State v. Wise, 67-281, 66-120; State v. Nutt, 61-20; State v. Cress, 49-421; State v. Kent, 65-311—and where penalty increased by statute it cannot be imposed where indictment concludes as at common law, State v. Lawrence, 81-522.

Where no time of imprisonment is fixed by statute, two years is not excessive: State v. Farrington, 141-844.

Other cases of interest hereunder: State v. Hamby, 126-1066; State v. Wilson, 121-650; In re Griffin, 98-225; State v. Manly, 95-661; State v. Perkins, 82-681; State v. Bennett, 20-170; State v. Pugh, 3-55.

Section cited in In re Holly, 154-163; State v. Rippey, 127-516; State v. Hall, 108-776; State v. Crumpler, 90-701; State v. Lawrence, 81-522; State v. Driver, 78-423; In re Schenck, 74-607; see, also, State v. Kent, 65-311.

4174. Violation of town ordinance misdemeanor; punishment. If any person shall violate an ordinance of a city or town, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev. s. 3702; Code. s. 3820; 1871-2, c. 195, s. 2.

Mayor or other chief officer has jurisdiction of violations of ordinances: State v. Wilson, 106-718; State v. Smith, 106-718. See section 2635. Justice of peace has concurrent jurisdiction with mayor or other chief officer to try misdemeanors arising from violations of ordinances: State v. Wood, 94-855; State v. Calhoun, 94-880. Superior court has no original jurisdiction: State v. Threadgill, 76-17.

Town ordinances are in subordination to public laws, and must give way to a general statute on the same subject: State v. Langston, 88-692; State v. Keith, 94-933; State v. McCoy, 116-1059. A town ordinance cannot make criminal or prescribe a punishment for acts which are indictable at common law or by statute: State v. Austin, 114-855; State v. Stevens, 114-873; State v. Taylor, 133-755.

For this section to operate, the ordinance must be valid; and one which leaves the penalty in the discretion of the court is uncertain and void: State v. Irwin, 126-989; State v. Webber, 1720
Prior to this section there was no way of enforcing a town ordinance: School Directors v. Asheville, 137-509.

A conviction under a town ordinance for disturbing the good order and quiet of the town by fighting is no bar to a prosecution by state for an assault: State v. Taylor, 133-755.

This section gives the right to arrest for the violation of a city ordinance, but a clause in such ordinance authorizing the arrest for a violation thereof is void: State v. Earnhardt, 107-789.

WARRANT. Sufficiency of: State v. Merritt, 83-677. Insufficiency of: State v. Deaton, 92-788. An averment which takes the case out of the jurisdiction of the mayor may be amended, where it appears from the allegations in the warrant and affidavit that such mayor has jurisdiction: State v. Wilson, 106-718. In an indictment for loud and boisterous swearing it is not necessary to set out the words used by the defendant: State v. Cainan, 94-880. Not necessary to set out ordinance in warrant, but a reference to it, so as to point it out with certainty, is sufficient: Ibid. Compare Hendersonville v. McMinn, 82-532; State v. Edens, 85-522. Since enactment of section 2673 it is not necessary to aver any authority to pass the ordinance alleged to have been violated: State v. Merritt, 83-677. See further annotations under section 2673, as to valid and invalid ordinances.

Art. 2. Principals and Accessories

4175. Accessories before the fact; trial and punishment. If any person shall counsel, procure or command any other person to commit any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any statute, the person so counseling, procuring or commanding shall be guilty of felony, and may be indicted and convicted, either as an accessory before the fact to the principal felony, together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon; or he may be indicted and convicted of a substantive felony, whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice, and may be punished in the same manner as any accessory before the fact to the same felony, if convicted as an accessory, may be punished. The offense of the person so counseling, procuring or commanding, howsoever indicted, may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction to try the principal felon, in the same manner as if such offense had been committed at the same place as the principal felony or where the principal felony is triable, although such offense may have been committed at any place within or without the limits of the state. In case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the offense of counseling, procuring or commanding shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the last mentioned offense may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction to try the principal felon, in the same manner as if such offense had been committed at the same place as the principal felony or where the principal felony is triable, although such offense may have been committed at any place within or without the limits of the state. In case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the offense of counseling, procuring or commanding shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the last mentioned offense may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished in either of such counties: Provided, that no person who shall be once duly tried for any such offense, whether as an accessory before the fact or as for a substantive felony, shall be liable to be again indicted or tried for the same offense.

Rev., s. 3227; Code, s. 977; R. C., c. 34, s. 53; 1797, c. 485, s. 1; 1852, c. 58.

4176. CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS—ART. 2 CH. 82

the rule in State v. Dewer, 65-572. One who is present at the commission of a felony, and does not try to prevent it, does not partake of the guilt by his mere inactivity: State v. Hildreth, 31-440.

Meaning of the word "command": State v. Mann, 2-4. Act of 1797 construed in State v. Groff, 5-270. Principal and accessory may be indicted and tried together: State v. Register, 133-746. Prior conviction of principal unnecessary, but where principal has been tried and acquitted it is left as at common law: State v. Jones, 101-719; State v. Ludwick, 61-404.

When principal is not amenable to process of law, indictment must contain an averment to that effect: State v. Ives, 35-339; State v. Groff, 5-270.

No accessories before the fact in larceny; all are principals: State v. Fox, 94-928; State v. Stroud, 95-626—and where indictment charges A with committing the theft and B with aiding and abetting, and the proof is the reverse, it is not a variance, State v. Fox, 94-928.

Confession of principal not substantive evidence against accessory, but corroborative only: State v. McCall, 131-798; see State v. Duncan, 28-98. Whatever makes a man an accessory before the fact in felony will make him a principal in a misdemeanor: State v. Cheek, 35-114; State v. Barden, 12-518. Where parties indicted with others for barn-burning, they cannot be convicted as principals if evidence shows they were not present at the burning: State v. Dewer, 65-572. Acquittal of principal as complete defense to indictment against accessory: State v. Jones, 101-719. One charged as principal in complete defense to indictment against accessory: State v. Jones, 101-719. One charged as principal in indictment for assault with intent to kill cannot be convicted as accessory: State v. Green, 119-899. Davis, 87-514.

Where statute creates offense not existing at common law, and imposes a separate and distinct punishment upon principal and his agent for violating it, principal cannot be held further liable as an accessory before the fact to act of agent violating provision of statute: State v. R. R., 145-495.

4176. Punishment of accessories before the fact. Any person who shall be convicted as an accessory before the fact in either of the crimes of murder, arson, burglary or rape shall be imprisoned for life in the state's prison. Every accessory before the fact in any other felony shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison or county jail for not more than ten years, or may be fined in the discretion of the court.

Rev. s. 3290; Code, s. 990; 1868-9, c. 31, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 212.

When defendant was convicted of murder in second degree and sentenced to imprisonment for twenty years, he is not entitled to resentence as an accessory: State v. Bryson, 173-805.

4177. Accessories after the fact; trial and punishment. If any person shall become an accessory after the fact to any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any statute made, or to be made, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and may be indicted and convicted together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon, or may be indicted and convicted for such felony whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, and may also be fined in the discretion of the court. The offense of such person may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction of the principal felon, in the same manner as if the act, by reason whereof such person shall have become an accessory, had been committed at the same place as the principal felony, although such act may have been committed without the limits of the state; and in case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the act by reason whereof any person shall have become accessory shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the offense of such person guilty of a felony as aforesaid may be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in either of said counties: Provided, that no person who shall be once duly tried for such felony shall be again indicted or tried for the same offense.

Rev., s. 3289; Code, s. 978; R. C., c. 34, s. 54; 1797, c. 485, s. 1; 1852, c. 58.

For any person fraudulently to cause his name to be placed upon the registration books of more than one election precinct, or fraudulently to cause or procure his name, or that of any other person, to be placed upon the registration books in any precinct when such registration in that precinct does not qualify such person to vote legally therein, or to impersonate falsely another registered voter for the purpose of voting in the stead of such other voter.

Rev., s. 3394; 1901, c. 89, s. 48.

Where an illegal vote is voluntarily given, the unlawful purpose attaches prima facie to the act: State v. Hart, 51-389.

A decision of the judges of election that a person is entitled to vote is no complete defense to an indictment for illegal voting, although such person, in fact, was not entitled to vote: State v. Pearson, 97-434.

That the election was irregularly held is no defense to illegal voting: State v. Cohoon, 34-178. Compare State v. Boyett, 32-336.

Rev., s. 3402; 1901, c. 89, s. 13.

4199. Using funds of insurance companies for political purposes. No insurance company or association, including fraternal beneficiary associations, doing business in this state shall, directly or indirectly, pay or use, or offer, consent or agree to pay or use, any money or property for or in aid of any political party, committee or organization, or for or in aid of any corporation, joint-stock company, or other association organized or maintained for political purposes, or for or in aid of any candidate for political office or for nomination for such office, or for any political purpose whatsoever, or for the reimbursement or indemnification of any person for money or property so used. No person shall be excused from attending and testifying, or producing any books, papers or other documents before any court or magistrate, upon any investigation, proceeding or trial for a violation of any of the provisions of this section, upon the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate or degrade him; but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may so testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, and no testimony so given or produced shall be used against him upon any criminal investigation or proceeding.

1907, c. 121.

SUBCHAPTER 4. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PERSON

Art. 7. Homicide

4200. Murder in the first and second degree defined; punishment. A murder which shall be perpetrated by means of poison, lying in wait, imprisonment, starving, torture, or by any other kind of willful, deliberate and premeditated killing, or which shall be committed in the perpetration or attempt to perpetrate any arson, rape, robbery, burglary or other felony, shall be deemed to be murder in the first degree and shall be punished with death. All other kinds of murder shall be deemed murder in the second degree, and shall be punished with imprisonment of not less than two nor more than thirty years in the state prison.

Rev., § 3631; 1893, c. 85; 1893, c. 281.

See generally: State v. Fuller, 114-883; State v. Covington, 117-834.

MALICE. Presumed where killing is with deadly weapon: State v. Love, 166-333; State v. Simonds, 154-197; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Bookor, 123-715; State v. Worley, 141-764; State v. Kendall, 143-659; Overcash v. Electric Co., 144-581—or killing proved, nothing else appearing, the law presumes malice, but not premeditation and deliberation, and the killing is murder in the second degree, State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Wilcox, 118-1131; State v. Rhyne, 124-848; State v. Hicks, 125-636; State v. Capps, 134-628. Implied when an act dangerous to others is done so recklessly or wantonly as to evince depravity and a disregard for human life: State v. Lilliston, 141-857. Sufficiently shown to make out case in first degree, when there has been a wrongful and intentional killing of another, without lawful excuse or mitigating circumstances: State v. Banks, 143-652; State v. Kendall, 143-659; State v. McDowell, 145-656; State v. Adams, 136-617; State v. Wilcox, 132-1143; State v. Turner, 143-642. When the homicide is shown or admitted to have been intentionally committed by lying in wait, poisoning, starvation, imprisonment, or torture, the law raises a presumption of murder in the first degree, but the presumption may be rebutted: State v. Matthews, 142-621. When the intentional killing is done by other means than the above, the presumption is only of murder in the second degree: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Dowden, 118-1145; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Hicks, 125-636; State v. Capps, 134-628; State v. Worley, 141-764; State v. Matthews, 142-621.

Malice is necessary to constitute murder in the second degree: State v. Baldwin, 152-822; State v. Fowler, 151-731.

In the killing with a deadly weapon the defendant must not only rebut the presumption of malice, but also the presumption that it was unlawful: State v. Fowler, 151-731—and the burden is on the defendant to show justification or mitigation to the satisfaction of the jury: State v. Cox, 153-638; State v. Baldwin, 152-822; State v. Fowler, 151-731; State v. Quick, 150-820; State v. Roberson, 150-837; State v. Paterson, 149-533.

PREMEDITATION AND DELIBERATION. What constitutes: State v. Walker, 173-780; State v. Coffey, 174-814; State v. McClure, 166-321; State v. Cameron, 166-379; State v. Daniels, 164-464; State v. Thomas, 118-1113. No particular time necessary for premeditation and deliberation; and if purpose to kill has been deliberately formed, the time elapsing before the execution of such purpose is immaterial: State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. McCarmoe, 116-1033; State v. Covington, 117-834; State v. Dowden, 118-1153; State v. Daniel, 139-549; State v. Banks, 143-652. Where prisoner weighs the purpose to kill long enough to form a fixed design, he is guilty of murder in the first degree; but where the intent to kill is formed simultaneously with the act, it is not murder in the first degree: State v. Dowden, 118-1145; State v. Barrett, 142-565; State v. Jones, 145-466. Whether certain evidence shows premeditation and deliberation is a question of fact for the jury: State v. Daniels, 134-671; State v. Daniel, 139-549.

DEFENSES. What is self-defense, excessive force, etc.: State v. Cox, 153-638. Son can justify fighting for father only when the circumstances amount to self-defense: Ibid. Self-defense is not to be proved beyond a reasonable doubt, but only to the satisfaction of the jury: State v. Little, 178-722. There is a presumption of sanity, and the burden is upon the defendant to prove insanity: State v. Cloninger, 149-567; State v. Banner, 149-519. The fact of drunkenness should be considered when the intent is necessary: State v. Murphy, 157-614.

is admitted the burden is still upon the state to show premeditation and deliberation: State v. Roberson, 150-837.

Where there is no evidence of manslaughter it is not error for the judge to instruct the jury to return a verdict of murder in the first or second degree, or not guilty: State v. McKay, 150-813. Upon conviction of murder in second degree it was not error for judge to charge that there was not sufficient evidence to convict of first degree: State v. Fisher, 149-557. Where solicitor elects not to prosecute for murder in first degree, and the evidence tends to show suicide or first degree, it is not error to instruct the jury to convict of murder in second degree or acquit: State v. Stratford, 149-483. Defendant is not prejudiced because solicitor asks only for a conviction of murder in second degree: State v. Casey, 150-479.

Jury rendering a verdict of guilty of murder in first degree "with mercy," and only one of the jurors said "with mercy," upon polling the jury, it is proper for the judge to send the jury back for a proper verdict: State v. McKay, 150-813.

The order of proof upon trials of homicide is usually left to sound discretion of judge, and is not reviewable on appeal unless made to appear that some substantial injustice has been done: State v. Guthrie, 145-492.

Where circumstances do not bring the killing within the cases made murder in the first degree per se by the statute, the state must prove premeditation and deliberation beyond a reasonable doubt: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Thomas, 118-1113; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Daniels, 134-675. Compare State v. Matthews, 142-621.

Defendant only required to show matters in mitigation or excuse to satisfaction of jury: State v. Willis, 63-26; State v. Vann, 82-632; State v. Brittain, 89-502; State v. Mozon, 90-676; State v. Wilcox, 118-1131; State v. Barrett, 132-1005; State v. Worley, 141-764.

Before a conviction for murder can be had, an unlawful and intentional taking of another's life must be shown or imputed, as is sometimes the case, by reason of a killing with a deadly weapon, or under circumstances which indicate a reckless indifference to human life: State v. Stitt, 146-613.

4201. Punishment for manslaughter. If any person shall commit the crime of manslaughter he shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state prison for not less than four months nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 8632; Code, s. 1055; 1879, c. 255; R. C., c. 34, s. 24; 4 Hen. VII, c. 13; 1816, c. 918.

Act of 1909, c. 80, s. 6, does not interfere with the power of the court to imprison a defendant in the state prison: State v. Killian, 173-792.

Where the indictment is for murder, it is error to fail to charge as to manslaughter if the circumstances of the case require it: State v. Merrick, 171-788.

4202. Punishment for second offense of manslaughter. If any person, having been convicted of the crime of manslaughter and sentenced thereon, shall be convicted of a second crime of the like nature, he shall be imprisoned in the state prison not less than five nor more than sixty years; and in every such case of conviction for such second offense, the prior conviction of the same person and sentence thereon may be shown to the court.

Rev., s. 3633; Code, s. 1056; R. C., c. 34, s. 25.

4203. Killing adversary in duel; aiders and abettors declared accessories. If any person fight a duel in consequence of a challenge sent or received, and either of the parties shall be killed, then the survivor, on conviction thereof, shall suffer death; and all their aiders or abettors shall be considered accessories before the fact.

Rev., s. 3629; Code, s. 1013; R. C., c. 34, s. 3; 1802, c. 608, s. 2.

For death as result of wilfully wrecking railroad train, see ss. 4417, 4418.

Art. 8. Rape and Kindred Offenses

4204. Punishment for rape. Every person who is convicted of ravishing and carnally knowing any female of the age of twelve years or more by force and against her will, or who is convicted of unlawfully and carnally knowing and abusing any female child under the age of twelve years, shall suffer death.

Rev., s. 3637; Code, s. 1101; R. C., c. 34, s. 5; 18 Eliz., c. 7; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 2; 1917, c. 29.

Infant under the age of 14 years cannot commit the crime of rape, nor be guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape: State v. Sam, 60-293; State v. Pugh, 52-61.

Carnal knowledge of married woman by personating her husband not rape: State v. Brooks, 76-1; see section 4207.

To carnally know and abuse a female child under the age of ten years is rape, irrespective of consent: State v. Goldston, 103-323; State v. Johnson, 76-209.

Crime not complete where genital organs only injured and abused, but the least penetration is sufficient: State v. Monds, 130-697; State v. Hargrave, 65-466.

If prosecutrix offered to have connection with prisoner upon certain terms, and he attempts to force connection without complying with the terms of the offer, he is guilty of rape if he succeeds, and assault with intent to commit rape if he does not succeed: State v. Long, 93-542.

One who, by threatening to kill, compels his wife to submit to, and another man to attempt, sexual connection, is guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape upon his wife: State v. Dowell, 106-722.

A female who aids and abets a male assailant in an attempt to commit rape upon a female child becomes a principal in the offense: State v. Hairston, 121-580; State v. Jones, 83-605.

Where evidence shows girl raped by defendant several times, state need not make election until its testimony closed: State v. Parish, 104-679.

INDICTMENT. The word "her" sufficiently indicates that person ravished was a female: State v. Terry, 20-289; State v. Farmer, 26-224. Necessary to charge that the act was done "feloniously": State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Goldston, 103-323; State v. Scott, 72-461.

Must allege that the act was done "forcibly and against her will" or words equivalent: State v. Marsh, 132-1000; State v. Peak, 130-713; State v. Powell, 106-635; State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Jim, 12-142. Not necessary to state that the female ravished was above the age of ten years; but if the female is under age of ten years, such fact should appear: State v. Farmer, 26-224; State v. Storkey, 63-7.

If child under ten years is forcibly ravished, her age need not be set out; but if she consents, her age must be set out: State v. Johnson, 100-494.

Not necessary to charge that prisoner "ravished" the child if she is under ten years of age: State v. Smith, 61-302. Two persons may be jointly indicted for rape: State v. Jordan, 110-491.

Where prisoner sets up defense that he was under fourteen years when alleged offense committed, burden is on him to prove it, and jury may look on him and judge his age from his appearance: State v. McNair, 93-628. Evidence that witness near by called to prosecutrix at time of alleged assault is competent as showing that she knew witness was near: State v. Huff, 136-679. Defendant had right to cross-examine prosecutrix as to contents of letter written by her to him after alleged rape for purpose of showing that sexual relations between them were voluntary on her part: State v. Hayes, 138-660—and this is so even though letter be offered in evidence, Ibid. Fact that prosecutrix followed prisoner into woods is not conclusive evidence of consent: State v. Marshall, 61-49.

4205. Punishment for assault with intent to commit rape. Every person convicted of an assault with intent to commit a rape upon the body of any female shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than one nor more than fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3638; Code, s. 1102; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 3; R. C., c. 107, s. 44; 18238, c. 1229; 1917, c. 162, s. 1.

Where prisoner made an assault with an intent to commit rape, and then desisted, he is guilty of the assault: State v. Elick, 52-68. Infant under age of 14 years cannot commit rape, nor be guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape: State v. Sam, 60-293; State v. Pugh, 52-61. Woman may be guilty of rape or assault with intent to commit rape by being present, aiding and abetting a man: State v. Hairston, 121-579; State v. Jones, 83-605. One who, by threatening to kill, compels his wife to submit to, and another man to attempt, sexual connection, is guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape upon his wife: State v. Dowell, 106-722. If prosecutrix offered to have sexual connection with prisoner upon certain terms, and he attempts to force the connection without complying with the terms of the offer, he is guilty of rape if he succeeds, and of an assault with intent to commit rape if he does not succeed: State v. Long, 93-542. Superior court may convict a person, charged with an assault hereunder, of simple assault: State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Perkins, 82-681. Offense hereunder was a misdemeanor until section 4171 was enacted: State v. Perkins, 82-681.

INDICTMENT. In an indictment for an assault with intent to commit rape, the word "intent" is not necessary if other sufficient words are used, as "attempt": State v. Howell, 158-627, overruling State v. Martin, 14-329, and State v. Goldston, 103-323. Necessary to charge that assault was "felonious": State v. Jesse, 19-297. A charge that assault was made with "intention" to commit rape, good: State v. Tom, 47-414. Necessary to charge that the assault was made with intent to "feloniously" ravish and carnally know: State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Scott, 72-461. Must allege that the assault was "forcible and against her will" or words equivalent: State v. Powell, 106-635; State v. Marsh, 132-1000; State v. Peak, 1735.
CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS—Art. 8

§ 4206. Emission not necessary to constitute rape and buggery. It shall not be necessary upon the trial of any indictment for the offenses of rape, carnally knowing and abusing any female child under twelve years old, and buggery, to prove the actual emission of seed in order to constitute the offense, but the offense shall be completed upon proof of penetration only.

Rev., s. 36389; Code, s. 1105; 1860-1, c. 30; 1917, c. 29.

§ 4207. Obtaining carnal knowledge of married woman by personating husband. If any person shall have carnal knowledge of any married woman by fraud in personating her husband, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison at hard labor for not less than ten nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 3624; Code, s. 1103; 1881, c. 89, s. 1.

"'Fraud in personating husband"' need not be in words, but "acts and conduct" are sufficient: State v. Williams, 128-573. Does not amount to rape: State v. Brooks, 76-1.

§ 4208. Attempted carnal knowledge of married woman by personating husband. Every person convicted of an assault upon any married woman, with intent to have knowledge of her by fraud in personating her husband, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison at hard labor for not less than five nor more than fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3625; Code, s. 1104; 1881, c. 89, s. 2.

Does not amount to attempt to commit rape: State v. Brooks, 76-1.

§ 4209. Obtaining carnal knowledge of virtuous girls between twelve and fourteen years old. If any person shall unlawfully carnally know or abuse any female child over twelve and under fourteen years old, who has never before had sexual intercourse with any person, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be fined or imprisoned in the state's prison, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3348; 1895, c. 295; 1917, c. 29.

ART. 9. Assaults

4210. Malicious castration. If any person, of malice aforethought, shall unlawfully castrate any other person, or cut off, maim or disfigure any of the privy members of any person, with intent to murder, maim, disfigure, disable or render impotent such person, the person so offending shall suffer imprisonment in the state’s prison for not less than five nor more than sixty years.

Rev., s. 3627; Code, s. 869; R. C., c. 34, s. 4; 1831, c. 40, s. 1; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 6.

4211. Castration or other maiming without malice aforethought. If any person shall, on purpose and unlawfully, but without malice aforethought, cut or slit the nose, bite or cut off the nose, or a lip or an ear, or disable any limb or member of any other person, or castrate any other person, or cut off, maim or disfigure any of the privy members of any other person, with intent to kill, maim, disfigure, disable or render impotent such person, the person so offending shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state’s prison not less than six months nor more than ten years, and fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3626; Code, s. 1000; R. C., c. 34, s. 47; 1754, c. 56; 1791, c. 339, ss. 2, 3; 1831, c. 40, s. 2.

See generally: State v. Girgin, 23-121; State v. Skidmore, 87-509. What constitutes ‘’maim’’ hereunder: State v. Girgin, 23-121. Not necessary to prove malice aforethought hereunder: Ibid. Malice aforethought is express or to be implied from circumstances, as also is intent to maim: State v. Irwin, 2-112; State v. Evans, 2-325. When during fight defendant bit off opponent’s ear, burden is on defendant to show that it was done in self-defense: State v. Skidmore, 87-509.

Indictment must state the offense to have been done ‘’on purpose’’: State v. Ormond, 18-119. Indictment for biting off ear, not necessary to state which ear: State v. Green, 29-39.

4212. Malicious maiming. If any person shall, of malice aforethought, unlawfully cut out or disable the tongue or put out an eye of any other person, with intent to murder, maim or disfigure, the person so offending, his counselors, abettors and aids, knowing of and privy to the offense, shall, for the first offense, be punished by imprisonment in the state’s prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, and he fined, in the discretion of the court; and for the second offense shall be imprisoned in the state’s prison not less than five nor more than sixty years.

Rev., s. 3636; Code, s. 1080; R. C., c. 34, s. 14; 1754, c. 56; 1791, c. 339, s. 1; 1831, c. 12; 22 and 23 Car. II, c. 1 (Coventry Act).

Count in indictment hereunder cannot be joined with count for assault and battery: State v. Bridges, 5-134. Indictment need not state which ear injured: State v. Green, 29-39.

1737
4213. Maliciously assaulting in a secret manner. If any person shall in a secret manner maliciously commit an assault and battery with any deadly weapon upon another by waylaying or otherwise, with intent to kill such other person, notwithstanding the person so assaulted may have been conscious of the presence of his adversary, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in jail or in the penitentiary for not less than twelve months nor more than twenty years, or by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3621; 1887, c. 32; 1919, c. 25.

Section includes all assaults committed in a secret manner: State v. Shade, 115-757. Meaning of words “or otherwise in a secret manner”: State v. Jennings, 104-774; State v. Shade, 115-759. “In secret manner” means that the person assaulted was unconscious of the presence as well as the purpose of his adversary: State v. Gunter, 116-1068; State v. King, 120-612; State v. Harris, 120-577; State v. Patton, 115-756; State v. Jennings, 104-774 (changed by act of 1919, c. 25). Although indictment omits the words “by waylaying or otherwise,” it is sufficient: State v. Shade, 115-757; see, also, State v. Gunter, 116-1068.

Malice defined: State v. Knotts, 168-173. A secret assault upon two persons at the same time may be charged in the bill: Ibid. All who are present aiding and abetting are guilty: Ibid.

Sufficient evidence of secret assault: State v. Bridges, 178-733. Evidence sufficient as to aiding and abetting: State v. Chastain, 104-900—sufficient as to identity, State v. Telfair, 109-878. In a prosecution for secret assault it is not necessary to prove a motive for the crime, but it may be shown to ascertain the identity of the defendant: State v. Carmon, 145-481.

Indictment for assault in secret manner, verdict may be for simple assault: State v. Jennings, 104-774.

4214. Assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill resulting in injury. Any person who assaults another with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, and inflicts serious injury not resulting in death, shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison or be worked on the county roads for a period not less than four months nor more than ten years.

4215. Punishment for assault. In all cases of an assault, with or without intent to kill or injure, the person convicted shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that where no deadly weapon has been used and no serious damage done, the punishment in assaults, assaults and batteries, and affrays shall not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days; but this proviso shall not apply to cases of assault with intent to kill or with intent to commit rape, or to cases of assault or assault and battery by any man or boy over eighteen years old on any female person.

Rev., s. 3620; Code, s. 987; 1870-1, c. 43, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 6; 1879, c. 92, ss. 2, 6; 1911, c. 193.

ELEMENTS OF ASSAULT. An assault is a demonstration of hostility that puts the prosecutor in fear and causes him to leave a place at which he has a right to be sooner than he would otherwise have done, or to desist from doing what he has the right to do: State v. Horne, 29-805; State v. Marsteller, 84-726; State v. Rawles, 65-334; State v. Church, 63-15; State v. Hampton, 63-13; State v. Morgan, 25-186—is where an unequivocal purpose of violence is accompanied by an act which, if not stopped or diverted, will be followed by personal injury, State v. Daniel, 136-574; State v. Jeffrey, 117-743; State v. Reavis, 113-677; State v. Vannoy, 65-532; State v. Davis, 23-125—is an offer or attempt by violence to do an injury to person of another, State v. Scott, 142-582; State v. Leggett, 104-784; State v. Horne, 89-905; State v. Crow, 23-375; State v. Martin, 85-508; State v. Marsteller, 84-726; State v. Millsaps, 82-549; State v. Shipman, 81-513; State v. Vannoy, 65-532; State v. Rawles, 65-334. The touching of the person of another in anger or against his will may constitute an assault, but the intent with which it is done is material: State v. Hemphill, 162-632. Discussion of the distinction between "attempts to strike" and "offer to strike" and between effect of words used where an "offer to strike" is made with deadly weapon or without one: State v. Myerfield, 61-108.

It is not an assault where there is an apparent present purpose not to strike: State v. Crow, 23-375—and it is only a menace of violence where one engages in loud and angry talk without offering to use weapons, and causes no one to alter his course, see State v. Daniel, 136-576; State v. Millsaps, 82-549; State v. Mooney, 61-434.

An indiscriminate assault upon several persons is an assault upon each: State v. Merritt, 61-134. An assault by one, others being present and abetting, all may be found guilty: Ibid. Jailer guilty of assault where he cruelly beat a female prisoner: State v. Roseman, 108-765. One who strikes another is guilty unless he justifies upon ground of self-defense: State v. Gibson, 32-214. One who threateningly places his open hand on another's breast and pushes him down is guilty: State v. Baker, 65-332.

Where the facts of the fight are such that, had defendant killed prosecutor, he would have been guilty of manslaughter, defendant is guilty of assault and battery: State v. Leary, 88-615.

Members of a voluntary association who, during a ceremony expelling a member according to the rules, suspend him from the wall by means of a cord against his will, are guilty: State v. Williams, 75-134.

Druggist who sells to customer medicine for the purpose of being given another as a trick, which inconveniences or injures him, is guilty: State v. Monroe, 121-677—and it is not necessary that the medicine be poisonous or deadly, Ibid.

Police officer is judge of amount of force necessary to be applied to suppress fights, and he is not guilty unless he uses his power wantonly or maliciously or unnecessarily: State v. Pugh, 101-737.

Where two men go toward a man, cursing him and threatening him, and he runs to save himself from being beaten, the two men are guilty of assault: State v. Jones, 118-1237; State v. Rawls, 65-334.

As to right to resist officers without legal right to make arrest, see State v. Queen, 66-615; State v. Briggs, 25-357; State v. Brittain, 25-17; State v. Worley, 33-242. See State v. Dula, 100-423. Where defendant in attempting to get away intentionally tripped up one in whose custody he was lawfully placed, he is guilty of assault: State v. Hedrick, 95-624. If officer, in pursuit of one who has escaped who is charged with a misdemeanor, fires his pistol when within 30 feet of fugitive, he is guilty of assault, whether he intended to hit the fugitive or to cause him to stop: State v. Sigman, 106-728.

A person may lawfully use so much force as is reasonably necessary to protect his property or to retake it when it has been wrongfully taken by another, or is withheld without authority: State v. Scott, 142-582; State v. Burke, 82-551; State v. Taylor, 82-544—but if he use more force than is required for the purpose he will be guilty of an assault, State v. Scott, 142-582; State v. Crook, 133-675; State v. Goode, 130-651; see State v. Taylor, 82-544—for human life must not be endangered or great bodily harm threatened, except, perhaps, in urgent cases; moderate means must be first used, State v. Scott, 142-582. He has no right to take his stock in the pound by violence, even though town ordinance invalid: State v. Black, 109-856.

As to use of deadly weapon to repel a simple assault, see State v. Hill, 141-769. Wife can fight in defense of husband, but cannot use excessive force unless circumstances demand it for his defense: State v. Bullock, 91-614. Wife who assaults third person in presence of husband is presumed to act under his constraint, and this must be rebutted: State v. Williams, 65-398.

RIGHTS OF TEACHER OR PARENT TO PUNISH CHILD. There is a presumption that teacher exercised his authority correctly in whipping pupil: State v. Thornton, 136-610.
Teacher has a discretionary power in punishing pupils and is the judge when punishment is necessary and the degree of punishment: State v. Stafford, 113-635; State v. Thornton, 136-610—and they are not criminally responsible unless punishment is such as to occasion permanent injury, or inflicted merely to gratify malice or evil passion: State v. Pendergrass, 19-365; State v. Thornton, 136-610; State v. Long, 117-791; State v. Stafford, 113-635.

Warrant charging teacher with immoderate punishment, but setting out no facts showing serious damage, is for a simple assault: State v. Thornton, 136-610—and indictment alleging simply that "bruises" were inflicted does not take case out of justice's jurisdiction, State v. Stafford, 113-635.

Indictment need not set forth the quo animo of the teacher: Ibid.

Parent not guilty of assault and battery in whipping child, however severe and unmerited, unless permanent injury results or unless whipping done through malice or dishonest motive: State v. Jones, 95-588.

As to the right of those standing in relation of parent to punish child, see State v. Bost, 125-707; State v. Alford, 68-322.

HUSBAND AND WIFE; ASSAULT BY ONE ON OTHER. In determining whether husband guilty of assault and battery on wife, the criterion is the effect produced and not the manner of producing it or the instrument used: State v. Rhodes, 61-453.

Husband cannot be convicted of a battery on his wife unless such excessive violence or cruelty as indicates malignity or vindictiveness, and it makes no difference that they are living separate by agreement: State v. Black, 60-262. Instances of excessive cruelty: State v. Oliver, 70-60—of serious damage done, State v. Huntley, 91-617.

Husband and wife competent witnesses against each other in cases where one assaulted received serious injury or where weapon used showed malice: State v. Davidson, 77-522; State v. Hussey, 44-123.

JURISDICTION. Justice of the peace has jurisdiction of simple assault where no deadly weapon used or serious damage inflicted: State v. Johnson, 94-863; see section 1481.

Superior court has exclusive original jurisdiction of assaults with deadly weapons: State v. Roseman, 108-766; State v. Phillips, 104-756; State v. Murphy, 101-701; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-774; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults where serious damage done, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults with intent to commit rape, State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults with intent to kill, Ibid. In a charge of assault with intent to commit rape under laws 1911, c. 193, it is not necessary to allege the age of defendant: State v. Smith, 157-578.

Superior court has jurisdiction concurrent with justice's court of affrays committed within one mile of place of the sitting of court: State v. Battle, 130-656; State v. Bowers, 94-910—and has jurisdiction as to both offenders where in an affray a deadly weapon is used, State v. Coppersmith, 88-614.

Where indictment charges assault with deadly weapon, or other offense of which superior court has jurisdiction, and proof shows simple assault, or other lesser degree of offense, jurisdiction of superior court not ousted: State v. Fritz, 133-725; State v. Price, 111-705; State v. Roseman, 108-765; State v. Fesperman, 108-770; State v. Porter, 101-715; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Speller, 91-526; State v. Ray, 89-587; State v. Reaves, 85-553—though charge of simple assault in indictment would give superior court prima facie jurisdiction, and burden is on defendant to show twelve months had not elapsed since commission of offense and before superior court took jurisdiction, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Fesperman, 108-771; State v. Porter, 101-714; State v. Earnest, 98-743; State v. Moore, 82-662.

Objection to jurisdiction is a matter of defense and may be taken advantage of under plea of not guilty: State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Berry, 83-604; State v. Taylor, 83-601; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663. If justice had no jurisdiction, the superior court will have none where the trial is on the warrant: State v. Wiseman, 131-795.

Justice has exclusive original jurisdiction of affrays where no deadly weapon used or serious damage done: State v. Shields, 78-417; State v. Davis, 65-298. Affray is cognizable in superior court as to both defendants where deadly weapon used by either: State v. Coppersmith, 88-614.

It is not necessary in this case that bill found by grand jury for assault and battery should aver that deadly weapon was used: State v. Taylor, 83-601—that any serious damage done,
CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS—Art. 9 | Ch. 82

Ibid.—that six (now twelve) months had elapsed before finding of bill, and no justice had taken jurisdiction, Ibid.; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663—or that offense was committed within one mile of court during session thereof, State v. Taylor, 83-601—but where jury by special verdict finds that assault was committed within six (now twelve) months next before finding of indictment, jurisdiction of superior court ousted, State v. Berry, 83-603.

"DEADLY WEAPON." What is a deadly weapon: State v. Beal, 170-764. A deadly weapon is not one that must or may kill, but one which would likely produce death by manner of its use by defendant: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Huntley, 91-617—some being deadly per se, others owing to manner of their use become deadly, State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Huntley, 91-617—but a club is ex vi termini a deadly weapon, State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713—as is also an axe, State v. Shields, 110-497—and court will take judicial notice that a pistol is also a deadly weapon, State v. Swann, 65-330.

Whether weapon used is a deadly weapon is a question of law for the court where there is no dispute about the facts concerning its character, size, etc.: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Speaks, 94-865; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. West, 51-505; State v. Collins, 30-407; State v. Craton, 28-104—and in determining the question, the size, nature and manner of use of weapon, and size and strength of assailant, and person upon whom it is used should be considered, State v. Sinclair, 120-603—as a gun or a penknife may, under certain circumstances, both be deadly weapons, Ibid.—for even a pin is a deadly weapon where it is pushed down the throat of an infant, producing death, State v. Norwood, 115-789. Where the deadly character of the weapon is to be determined by the relative size and condition of the parties and the manner in which it is used, it is proper and necessary to submit the matter to jury with proper instructions: State v. Archbell, 139-537.

"SERIOUS DAMAGE DONE." It is necessary to describe the serious damage done, its character and extent, so that court can see from face of indictment that the damage was serious: State v. Battle, 130-657; State v. Stafford, 113-635; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713; State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Moore, 82-659. "Serious damage" must be such physical injury as gives rise to great bodily pain: State v. Nash, 109-824—and also damage to the peace, good order, decencies and proprieties of society, State v. Huntley, 91-620.

INDICTMENT. Where six months (now twelve) had elapsed before indictment found, not necessary to aver that deadly weapon used, that serious damage was done, that six months (now twelve) had elapsed before the finding of the bill, and not necessary to aver that committed within one mile of courthouse during session in order to preserve the jurisdiction of superior court: State v. Taylor, 83-601; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hopper, 82-663. The fact that indictment was found within six months of commission of offense is matter of defense under plea of not guilty: State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hopper, 82-663; State v. Taylor, 83-601.

A prosecution for simple assault may be tried in superior court on justice's warrant without indictment: State v. Thornton, 136-610.

But if indictment was found within six months (now twelve) of commission of offense, it is necessary to state, to preserve jurisdiction of superior court, that assault was made with deadly weapon, or that serious damage was done: State v. Shelly, 98-673.

An indictment against a policeman need not state his official character: State v. Belk, 76-10.

Use of words "an axe" ex vi termini imports use of deadly weapon: State v. Shields, 110-497—as does also the use of the word "club," State v. Phillips, 104-786. Where several counts are drawn to present different phases, court will not compel an election: Ibid. An indictment against a teacher for assaulting a pupil need not state the quo animo: State v. Stafford, 113-635.

It is not one's belief that he is about to be stricken that will justify striking first, but a belief founded on reasonable grounds: State v. Bryson, 60-476—and whether the grounds were reasonable should be submitted to the jury, State v. Hill, 141-769.

When one armed with a deadly weapon enters the house of another and stands his ground defiantly, the occupant may resort to force, and the doctrine of molliter manus does not apply: State v. Taylor, 82-554. Where tenant assaults landlord with a deadly weapon while landlord is collecting advancements out of crop, and landlord knocks him down with a stick, landlord is not guilty: State v. Burwell, 63-661. But the same act cannot be self-defense and excess of force: State v. Jones, 77-520.

The judge should not instruct the jury that defendant is guilty on his own evidence, when the jury might have found from the evidence that he acted in self-defense: State v. Green, 134-658; State v. Nash, 88-618.

One who accompanies an officer in discharge of his duty has the same protection as the officer: State v. James, 80-371.

Where evidence that correction inflicted by master upon apprentice was excessive, evidence of bad character of apprentice is not admissible: State v. Dickerson, 98-708.

On an indictment for an affray, one defendant may be examined as a witness against the other: State v. Weaver, 93-595; State v. Frizzell, 111-722. Husband and wife competent witnesses to prove an assault upon one by the other: State v. Davidson, 77-522; State v. Hussey, 44-123.

4216. Assaulting by pointing gun. If any person shall point any gun or pistol at any person, either in fun or otherwise, whether such gun or pistol be loaded or not loaded, he shall be guilty of an assault, and upon conviction of the same shall be fined, imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Pointing pistol at another with the hand and pistol inside of coat pocket makes defendant guilty: State v. Atkinson, 141-734. When one points a gun at another under circumstances which would not excuse its discharge, and death ensues, defendant at least guilty of manslaughter: State v. Stitt, 146-643; State v. Limerick, 146-649.

Intimated that party in this case guilty under section 4216: State v. Scott, 142-585.

Section cited in State v. Coble, 177-588; State v. Turnage, 138-568. For assault generally, see under section 4215.

Art. 10. Hazing

4217. Hazing; definition and punishment. It shall be unlawful for any student in any college or school in this state to engage in what is known as hazing, or to aid or abet any other student in the commission of this offense. For the purposes of this section hazing is defined as follows: “to annoy any student by playing abusive or ridiculous tricks upon him, to frighten, scold, beat or harass him, or to subject him to personal indignity.” Any violation of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor.

1913, c. 169, ss. 1, 2, 3, 4.

4218. Expulsion from school; duty of faculty to expel. Upon conviction of any student of the offense of hazing, or of aiding or abetting in the commission of this offense, he shall, in addition to any punishment imposed by the court, be expelled from the college or school he is attending. The faculty or governing board of any college or school charged with the duty of expulsion of students for proper cause shall, upon such conviction at once expel the offender, and a failure to do so shall be a misdemeanor.

4219. Certain persons and schools excepted; copy of article to be posted. This article shall not apply to females, nor to schools or colleges not keeping boarders, nor to schools keeping less than ten student boarders. A copy of this article shall be framed and hung or displayed in every college or school to which it applies.

1913, c. 169, s. 3.

4220. Witnesses in hazing trials; no indictment to be founded on self-criminating testimony. In all trials for the offense of hazing any student or other person subpoenaed as a witness in behalf of the state shall be required to testify if called upon to do so: Provided, however, that no student or other person so testifying shall be amenable or subject to indictment on account of, or by reason of, such testimony.

1913, c. 169, s. 8.

Art. 11. Kidnapping and Abduction

4221. Punishment for kidnapping. If any person shall forcibly or fraudulently kidnap any person, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction may be punished in the discretion of the court, not exceeding twenty years in the state's prison.

Rev., s. 3634; 1901, c. 699, s. 1.

State must establish fact that child had been actually carried away, as well as that defendant did it: State v. Harrison, 145-408—and that the carrying away was forcibly or fraudulently done, Ibid. Certain circumstantial evidence held competent in this case: Ibid. Evidence sufficient to convict of kidnapping weak-minded girl: State v. Marks, 178-730.

4222. Enticing minors out of the state for the purpose of employment. If any person shall employ and carry beyond the limits of this state any minor, or shall induce any minor to go beyond the limits of this state, for the purpose of employment without the consent in writing, duly authenticated, of the parent, guardian or other person having authority over such minor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred and not more than one thousand dollars for each offense. The fact of the employment and going out of the state of the minor, or of the going out of the state by the minor, at the solicitation of the person for the purpose of employment, shall be prima facie evidence of knowledge that the person employed or solicited to go beyond the limits of the state is a minor.

Rev., s. 3630; 1891, c. 45.

Count hereunder may join with count under section 4223: State v. Burnett, 142-577.

4223. Abduction of children. If any one shall abduct or by any means induce any child under the age of fourteen years, who shall reside with its father, mother, uncle, aunt, brother or elder sister, or shall reside at a school, or be an orphan and reside with a guardian, to leave such person or school, he shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the state’s prison for a period not exceeding fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3358; Code, s. 973; 1879, c. 81.

4224. Indictment, sufficiency of: State v. George, 93-567; State v. Burnett, 142-577. Allegation and proof that the taking was "against father's will and without his consent" necessary: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676; State v. George, 93-567.

As to declarations of father of abducted child, see State v. Chisenhall, 106-676. State need not show a want of father's consent, and if it is relied on as defense, burden of proof is upon defendant: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676. Consent of child is no defense: Ibid. Inducement offered child may be simply persuasion: Ibid.

The wife indicted for abduction, whether presumption that she is acting under coercion of her husband applies, see State v. Nowell, 156-648.

4225. Abduction of married women. If any male person shall abduct or elope with the wife of another, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned not less than one year nor more than ten years: Provided, that the woman, since her marriage, has been an innocent and virtuous woman: Provided further, that no conviction shall be had upon the unsupported testimony of any such married woman.

Rev., s. 3360; Code, s. 974; 1879, c. 81, s. 2.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. George, 93-567.

As to manner of abduction that makes one guilty hereunder, see State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676.

4226. Using drugs or instruments to destroy unborn child. If any person shall willfully administer to any woman, either pregnant or quick with child, or prescribe for any such woman, or advise or procure any such woman to take any medicine, drug or other substance whatever, or shall use or employ any instrument or other means with intent thereby to destroy such child, unless the same shall be necessary to preserve the life of the mother, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than one year nor more than ten years, and be fined at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3618; Code, s. 975; 1881, c. 351, s. 1.

Criminal abortion: State v. Summers, 173-775. It is indictable at common law to administer a noxious drug to produce abortion: State v. Slagle, 82-653. The crime is the advising 4227. Using drugs or instruments to produce miscarriage or injure pregnant woman. If any person shall administer to any pregnant woman, or prescribe for any such woman, or advise and procure such woman to take any medicine, drug or anything whatsoever, with intent thereby to procure the miscarriage of such woman, or to injure or destroy such woman, or shall use any instrument or application for any of the above purposes, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the jail or state’s prison for not less than one year nor more than five years and shall be fined, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., Ss. 3619; Code, s. 976; 1881, ec. 351, s. 2.

The offense is committed by administering any substance with intent to procure an abortion: State v. Shaft, 166-407. See annotations under section 4226.

4228. Concealing birth of child. If any person shall, by secretly burying or otherwise disposing of the dead body of a new-born child, endeavor to conceal the birth of such child, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, such imprisonment to be in the county jail or state’s prison, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that the imprisonment in the state’s prison shall in no case exceed a term of ten years: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the mother, who may be guilty of the homicide of her child, from being prosecuted and punished for the same according to the principles of the common law. Any person aiding, counseling or abetting any woman in concealing the birth of her child shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3623; Code, s. 1004; R. C., c. 34, s. 28; 1818, c. 985; 1883, c. 390; 21 Jac. I, c. 27. See 43 Geo. III, c. 53, s. 3; 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, s. 14.

If child be born dead, concealment is not an offense: State v. Joiner, 11-351—and burden is not on state to show it was born alive, but upon defendant to show it was born dead: Ibid. (note, this decision was rendered under statute of 1818, c. 985).

Plea of former conviction on charge of concealment is no defense to charge of murder: State v. Morgan, 95-641.

ART. 13. Libel and Slander

4229. Communicating libelous matter to newspapers. If any person shall state, deliver or transmit by any means whatever, to the manager, editor, publisher or reporter of any newspaper or periodical for publication therein any false and libelous statement concerning any person or corporation, and thereby secure the publication of the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3635; 1901, c. 557, ss. 2, 3.

For punishment of libel by newspaper, see section 2430.

4230. Slandering innocent women. If any person shall attempt, in a wanton and malicious manner, to destroy the reputation of an innocent woman by words, written or spoken, which amount to a charge of incontinency, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3640; Code, s. 1113; 1879, c. 156.

For civil action, see section 2432.

See generally: State v. McIntosh, 92-794; State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. McDaniel, 84-803. Slander of innocent woman is a malicious misdemeanor, and is not barred in two years by section 4512: State v. Claywell, 98-731.

This section has no effect on the awarding of punitive damages in a civil suit for slander of an innocent woman: Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303.

Husband is not indictable for slander of his wife: State v. Edens, 95-693; but see concurring and dissenting opinions in State v. Fulton, 149-485. Divorced husband can be guilty of slandering his divorced wife: State v. Misenheimer, 123-758. One cannot justify his charge by simply showing that he himself had intercourse with prosecutrix, having seduced her: Ibid.

Statements made before a church council are privileged: State v. Misenheimer, 123-758—but not so when made to one's wife, State v. Shoemaker, 101-690.

INCONTINENCY. Necessary to prove that the words amounted to a charge of actual, definitive, illicit sexual intercourse: State v. Moody, 98-671; State v. Brown, 100-519. A charge of intercourse with a male dog is sufficient: State v. Howlin, 129-550. Calling an innocent woman "a damned whore" in the presence of a third person is a charge of incontinency: State v. Shoemaker, 101-690. Saying of a woman "she has promised to let me have criminal intercourse with her, and I intend to have that thing," does not amount to a charge of incontinency: State v. Moody, 98-671—nor does saying "if she didn't have a child by that man she missed a good chance," Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303; State v. Benton, 117-788. "That she is no lady, but a crook," is ambiguous and subject to explanation to constitute a charge of incontinence: State v. Howard, 169-312.

INNOCENT WOMAN. A pure woman, one whose character is unsullied: State v. McDaniel, 84-803—one who never had actual illicit intercourse with a man, State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Malloy, 115-737; State v. Brown, 100-519—one who has never had intercourse with a man, although she was surprised in the embraces of a man and prevented from the act, State v. Hinson, 103-374—one who at the time of the slanderous charge and at the time of the trial is chaste and virtuous, although she may have made a slip in her conduct in the past, State v. Grigg, 104-882; State v. Misenheimer, 123-758; see, also, State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Aldridge, 86-680; and see, reviewing this subject, although both cases are prosecutions under another statute, State v. Horton, 100-447; State v. Ferguson, 107-848.

INDICTMENT. Must aver that woman is innocent: State v. McDaniel, 84-805; State v. Aldridge, 86-680—must charge that there was an attempt in a "wanton and malicious" manner to destroy the reputation of an innocent woman, State v. Harwell, 129-550; State v. Mitchell, 132-1033.

Not necessary to set out the circumstances under which the words were spoken, but it is necessary, as well as sufficient, to use the words of the statute: State v. McIntosh, 92-794; State v. Haddock, 109-873. It seems that it is only necessary to allege that the words spoken in substance charged an innocent woman with incontinency: State v. Edens, 95-693.

EVIDENCE. Malice is implied where slanderous charge is made, except in cases of privileged communications: State v. Malloy, 115-737; State v. Hinson, 103-374; State v. Misenheimer, 123-758. Sufficient if it is made to appear that the words spoken amounted to a charge of incontinency and were spoken in the presence of a third person: State v. Shoemaker, 101-690.

Prevalent report of incontinency cannot be shown in defense, but may be shown, after verdict of guilty, to the court in extenuation: State v. Hinson, 103-374. As to expert testimony, see State v. Hinson, 103-374. Defendant bound by the answer of the question whether husband of prosecutrix had had sexual intercourse with prosecutrix before marriage: State v. Morris, 109-820. No presumption that the woman is innocent, and when defendant admits that he spoke the words charged, the burden does not shift to him to show that he has not slandered an innocent woman: State v. Smith, 155-473; State v. McDaniel, 84-503.

Words written or spoken before or after the alleged slander are admissible to show animus; also mode and extent of their repetition: State v. Mills, 116-1051.
Discretionary with judge to allow defendant's counsel to ask prosecutrix questions tending to show reason for her frequent separations from her husband: State v. Morris, 109-820.
Error to refuse testimony as to character of woman at time of trial, witness having stated her character up to time of the alleged slander: State v. Spurling, 118-1250.
Where words are admitted to have been spoken and truth is the justification offered, the only question is the innocence of the woman: State v. Malloy, 115-737.

4231. Derogatory statements about banks. Any person who shall willfully and maliciously make, circulate or transmit to another any statement, rumor or suggestion, written, printed or by word of mouth, which is directly or by inference derogatory to the financial condition or affects the solvency or financial standing of any bank, savings bank, banking institution or trust company doing business in this state, or who shall counsel, aid, procure or induce another to start, transmit or circulate any such statement or rumor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine or imprison-ment in the discretion of the court.

1915, c. 273.

SUBCHAPTER 5. OFFENSES AGAINST THE HABITATION AND OTHER BUILDINGS

Art. 14. Burglary and Other House-breakings

4232. First and second degree burglary. There shall be two degrees in the crime of burglary as defined at the common law. If the crime be committed in a dwelling-house, or in a room used as a sleeping apartment in any building, and any person is in the actual occupation of any part of said dwelling-house or sleeping apartment at the time of the commission of such crime, it shall be burglary in the first degree. If such crime be committed in a dwelling-house or sleeping apartment not actually occupied by any one at the time of the commission of the crime, or if it be committed in any house within the curtilage of a dwelling-house or in any building not a dwelling-house, but in which is a room used as a sleeping apartment and not actually occupied as such at the time of the commission of the crime, it shall be burglary in the second degree.

Rev., s. 3331; 1889, c. 434, s. 1.

This section does not authorize conviction for burglary in the second degree when the evidence shows that the house was actually occupied at the time: State v. Johnston, 119-883.

Burglary at common law defined in State v. Jake, 60-471; State v. McDaniel, 60-245; State v. Jenkins, 50-430; State v. Langford, 12-253.

One charged with burglary in first degree may be convicted of burglary in second degree: State v. Fleming, 107-905.

One breaking into a bedroom in a storehouse, where person regularly sleeps and is sleeping, is guilty of first degree burglary: State v. Foster, 129-704—as is also person breaking into the storeroom, where bedroom, connected therewith by a door left open, is regularly occupied and is occupied at time by person, Ibid.

As to felonious intent, see State v. Staton, 133-643; State v. Ellsworth, 130-690; State v. Haynes, 71-79; State v. McDaniel, 60-245; State v. Boon, 35-244.

As to houses "within the curtilage of a dwelling-house," etc., see State v. Roper, 88-656; State v. Twitty, 2-102.

As to "breaking" "in nighttime," see State v. McKnight, 111-690; State v. Whit, 49-349.

Other cases of interest hereunder: State v. Bowden, 175-794; State v. Smarr, 121-669; State v. Alston, 113-666; State v. Drake, 113-624; State v. Ward, 103-419; State v. Queen, 91-660; State v. Powell, 94-965; State v. Drake, 82-592; State v. Davis, 77-490; State v. Wincroft, 76-38; State v. McDonald, 73-346; State v. Graces, 72-482; State v. McPherson, 70-239; State v. Grisham, 2-13.

4233. Punishment for burglary. Any person convicted, according to due course of law, of the crime of burglary in the first degree shall suffer death, and any one so convicted of burglary in the second degree shall suffer imprisonment in the state’s prison for life, or for a term of years, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3330; Code, s. 994; 1889, c. 484, s. 2; 1870-1, c. 222.

4234. Breaking out of dwelling-house burglary. If any person shall enter the dwelling-house of another with intent to commit any felony or other infamous crime therein, or being in such dwelling-house, shall commit any felony or other infamous crime therein, and shall, in either case, break out of such dwelling-house in the nighttime, such person shall be guilty of burglary.

Rev., s. 3332; Code, s. 995; R. C., c. 34, s. 8; 12 Anne, c. 7, s. 3.

What constitutes "breaking": State v. Boon, 35-244. Entering chimney: State v. Fleming, 107-905; State v. Willis, 52-190. There is no presumption of law that the breaking occurred in the nighttime rather than in the day: State v. Whit, 49-349.

Indictment must charge the "breaking out": State v. McPherson, 70-239.

4235. Breaking into or entering houses otherwise than burglariously. If any person, with intent to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein, shall break or enter either the dwelling-house of another otherwise than by a burglarious breaking; or any storehouse, shop, warehouse, banking-house, counting-house or other building where any merchandise, chattel, money, valuable security or other personal property shall be; or any uninhabited house, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state’s prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3333; Code, s. 996; 1874-5, c. 166; 1879, c. 323.

See generally: State v. Hughes, 86-662. One charged with burglary may be convicted of the crime created by this section: State v. Fleming, 107-905.

To complete the offense, under this section, "intent" is all that is necessary to accomplish breaking: State v. Christmas, 101-749; State v. McBryde, 97-393. The "intent to commit a felony" is held to apply to all the breakings in this section and not alone to the one with which it is closely connected: State v. Spear, 164-452.

Defendant not guilty where act done with consent of owner or his servant: State v. Goffney, 157-624.

Breaking and entering storehouse with intent to steal was no crime at common law: State v. Dozier, 73-117.

An acquittal on prosecution for larceny will not bar a subsequent prosecution for breaking and entering to commit larceny: State v. Hooker, 145-581.

Section cited in State v. Gadberry, 117-831; State v. McKnight, 111-690.

4236. Preparation to commit burglary or other house-breakings. If any person shall be found armed with any dangerous or offensive weapon, with the intent to break or enter a dwelling, or other building whatsoever, and to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein; or shall be found having in his possession, without lawful excuse, any pick-lock, key, bit or other implement of house-breaking; or shall be found in any such building, with intent to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein, such person shall be guilty of a felony and punished by fine or imprisonment in the state’s prison, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3334; Code, s. 997; 1907, c. 822.

Any person found unlawfully in such car shall be presumed to have entered in violation of this section.

1907, c. 468.

ART. 15. ARSON AND OTHER BURNINGS

4238. Punishment for arson. Any person convicted according to due course of law of the crime of arson shall suffer death.

Rev., s. 3335; Code, s. 985; R. C., c. 34, s. 2; 1870-1, c. 222.

Constitution of 1868 repealed only the death penalty in R. C., ch. 34, sec. 2: State v. Wright, 89-507; State v. King, 69-419.

As to alleging ownership of property in indictment, see State v. Gailor, 71-88. Indictment for arson at common law: State v. McCarter, 98-637.

Indictment charging defendant with burning a dwelling-house occupied by him as “lessee” falls within section 2351 and not under this section: State v. Graham, 121-623.

4239. Burning of certain public and other corporate buildings. If any person shall willfully and maliciously burn the statehouse, or any of the public offices of the state, or any courthouse, jail, arsenal, clerk’s office, register’s office, or any house belonging to any county or incorporated town in the state or to any incorporated company whatever, in which are kept the archives, documents, or public papers of such county, town or corporation, he shall, on conviction, be imprisoned in the state’s prison for not less than five nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3344; Code, s. 985, subsec. 3; R. C., c. 34, s. 7; 1830, c. 41, s. 1; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 5.
Burning must be both wilful and malicious: State v. Mitchell, 27-350. If a prisoner burn a part of the jail merely to make his escape, and not with the intent to destroy the building, he is not guilty under this section: State v. Mitchell, 27-350; State v. Laughlin, 53-455.

Section cited in State v. Graham, 121-623; State v. Hall, 93-571; State v. Laughlin, 53-455.

4240. Setting fire to schoolhouse. If any person shall willfully set fire to any schoolhouse, or procure the same to be done, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment in the state’s prison or the county jail, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.
Rev., s. 3345; 1901, c. 4, s. 28; 1919, c. 70.

Rev., s. 3338; 1885, c. 66; 1903, c. 665, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 228; Code, s. 955, subsec. 6.

INDICTMENT. Sufficient charge in bill of indictment under this section: State v. Sprouse, 150-860. Intent: State v. Thompson, 97-496; State v. Rogers, 94-860—‘‘wantonly and willfully,’’ State v. Battle, 126-1036; State v. Pierce, 123-745; State v. Morgan, 98-641; State v. Massey, 97-465—under act 1874-5, State v. Phifer, 90-721; State v. Porter, 90-719; State v. England, 78-552; State v. Jaynes, 78-504—must charge that the offense was done ‘‘ feloniously,’’ State v. Roper, 88-656. For offense under statute which has been amended since the commission of the offense, see State v. Massey, 97-465. Not necessary to allege that the burned building was in the possession of some person named: State v. Daniel, 121-574.

4243. Burning of boats and barges. If any person, with the intent to destroy the same, shall willfully and maliciously, or for a fraudulent purpose, set fire to and burn any boat, barge or float, whether he be the owner thereof or not, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state’s prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or fined in the discretion of the court.

4244. Burning of gin-houses, tobacco houses and stables. Every person convicted of the willful burning of any gin-house or tobacco house, or any part thereof, or, in the nighttime, of any stable containing a horse or a mule, or cattle, shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than two nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3341; 1863, c. 17; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 5; 1903, c. 665, s. 1; Code, s. 985, subsec. 2.

Indictment; sufficiency of: State v. Rogers, 168-112; State v. Pierce, 123-745; State v. Green, 92-779; State v. Thorn, 81-555—must allege stable to have been burned in the "night-time," State v. England, 78-552. "Burning" defined in State v. Hall, 93-571.

Section cited in State v. Battle, 126-1036. Compare State v. Keen, 95-646—which has been modified by section 4171.

4245. Fraudulently setting fire to dwelling-houses. If any person, being the occupant of any building used as a dwelling-house, whether such person be the owner thereof or not, or, being the owner of any building designed or intended as a dwelling-house, shall willfully and wantonly or for a fraudulent purpose set fire to such building, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 8840; Code, s. 985; 1903, c. 665, s. 3; 1909, c. 862.

See State v. Daniel, 121-574.

4246. Attempting to burn dwelling-houses and certain other buildings. If any person shall willfully attempt to burn any dwelling-house, uninhabited house, barn, stable or outhouse, or any mill, manufacturing house, cotton gin, tobacco barn, granary or turpentine distillery, the property of another, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3336; Code, s. 985, subsec. 7; 1876-7, c. 13.

At common law an attempt to commit a felony was a misdemeanor, but under this section an attempt to commit arson is a felony: State v. Stephens, 170-745; State v. Rogers, 168-112—while section 4244 punishes the offense of burning, Ibid. Defendant may be convicted of arson or of an attempt to commit arson: State v. Stephens, 170-745.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Lee, 114-844. As to what is a "dwelling-house" within the section, see State v. Clark, 52-167. As to what is an "outhouse," see State v. Roper, 88-656.

4247. Failure of owner of property to comply with orders of public authorities. If the owner or occupant of any building or premises shall fail to comply with the orders of the chief of the fire department, or of the insurance commissioner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars for each day's neglect.

Rev., s. 3343; 1899, c. 58, s. 4.

4248. Failure of officers to investigate incendiary fires. If any town or city hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 3342; 1899, c. 58, s. 5.

For burning woodlands, grass and crops, see this chapter, art. 22.

SUBCHAPTER 6. OFFENSES AGAINST PROPERTY

ART. 16. LARCENY

4249. Distinction between grand and petit larceny abolished. All distinctions between petit and grand larceny, where the same has had the benefit of clergy, are abolished; and the offense of felonious stealing, where no other punishment shall be specifically prescribed therefor by statute, shall be punished as petit larceny is: Provided, that in cases of much aggravation, or of hardened offenders, the court may, in its discretion, sentence the offender to the state's prison for a period not exceeding ten years.

Rev., s. 3500; Code, s. 1075; R. C., c. 34, s. 26.

Larceny defined: State v. Kirkland, 178-810. Larceny a felony at common law and in North Carolina: State v. Haughton, 63-491. In petty larceny all who participate are principals: State v. Barton, 12-518; State v. Gaston, 75-93; State v. Tyler, 85-569; State v. Fox, 94-928; State v. Stroud, 95-626.

Lawrence, 81-525.

Punishment may be imprisonment at common law: State v. Kearzey, 61-481. Punishment under this section: In re Holly, 154-163; State v. Shuford, 152-809.

INDICTMENT. Must allege that the theft was done "feloniously": State v. Haughton, 63-491. Joinder of counts for larceny of a horse at common law and receiving under the statute, permissible: State v. Lawrence, 81-523. Person may be described by any particulars which furnish sufficient identification: State v. Brite, 73-26. Sufficiency of: State v. Fox, 94-928.

EVIDENCE. Declarations of codefendant admissible, although they tend to convict both 4250. Receiving stolen goods. If any person shall receive any chattel, propri-erty, money, valuable security or other thing whatsoever, the stealing or taking whereof amounts to larceny or a felony, either at common law or by virtue of any statute made or hereafter to be made, such person knowing the same to have been feloniously stolen or taken, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be indicted and convicted, whether the felon stealing and taking such chattels, property, money, valuable security or other thing, shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice; and any such receiver may be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in any county in which he shall have, or shall have had, any such property in his possession, or 1752 in any county in which the thief may be tried, in the same manner as such receiver may be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in the county where he actually received such chattel, money, security, or other thing; and such receiver shall be punished as one convicted of larceny.

Rev., s. 3507; Code, s. 1074; R. C., c. 34, s. 56; 1797, c. 485, s. 2.

To constitute receiving stolen goods no personal possession of the goods is necessary, but their receipt by an agent is sufficient: State v. Stroud, 95-626. Crime complete even if defendant did not act from motives of gain, but only to aid the thief: State v. Rushing, 69-29.

INDICTMENT. Insufficiency of: State v. Phelps, 65-450. No averment of the person from whom the goods were stolen necessary: State v. Minton, 61-196; State v. Martin, 82-672. A count for larceny, concluding at common law, may be joined with a count for receiving under the statute: State v. Lawrence, 81-522. A count for larceny and one for receiving, to meet the different phases of proof, may be joined: State v. Morrison, 85-561.

VERDICT. Form of verdict: State v. Gregory, 153-646. Sufficiency of: State v. Stroud, 95-626—insufficiency of, State v. Whitaker, 89-472—erroneous where there is a general verdict on two counts of an indictment, one for horse-stealing under the statute and the other for receiving under the statute, as they are offenses of different grades, State v. Johnson, 75-123; State v. Goings, 98-766.

4251. Larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods, not exceeding twenty dollars in value. The larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, of the value of not more than twenty dollars, is hereby declared a misdemeanor, and the punishment therefor shall be in the discretion of the court. If the larceny is from the person, or from the dwelling by breaking and entering, this section shall have no application: Provided, that this section shall not apply to horse stealing. In all cases of doubt the jury shall, in the verdict, fix the value of the property stolen.

Rev., s. 3506; 1895, c. 285; 1913, c. 118, s. 1.

See generally: In re Holly, 154-163; State v. Harris, 119-811.

This is a felony, and there must be a conviction in the superior court upon a bill of indictment: State v. Newell, 172-933. As to jurisdiction, see section 4252. As to punishment, see State v. Shuford, 158-808.

Indictment need not aver that property stolen exceeded $20 in value, nor that the taking was neither from the person nor the dwelling, as these are matters of defense: State v. Harris, 119-811; State v. Bynum, 117-749.

Burden is upon defendant to show value of property in diminution of punishment: State v. Dixon, 149-460.

Section cited in State v. Hullen, 133-661.

4252. Jurisdiction of the superior courts in cases of larceny and receiving stolen goods. The superior courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction of the trial of all cases of the larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, of the value of more than twenty dollars.

1913, c. 118, s. 2.

Superior court has exclusive jurisdiction of larceny from the person, without regard to the value: State v. Brown, 150-567.

4253. Larceny by servants and other employees. If any servant or other employee, to whom any money, goods or other chattels, or any of the articles, securities or choses in action mentioned in the following section, by his master shall be delivered safely to be kept to the use of his master, shall withdraw himself from his master and go away with such money, goods or other chattels, or any of the articles, securities or choses in action mentioned as aforesaid, or any part thereof, with intent to steal the same and defraud his master thereof, contrary to the trust and confidence in him reposed by his said master; or if any servant, being in the service of his master, without the assent of his master, shall embezzle such money, goods or other chattels, or any of the articles, securities or choses in action mentioned as aforesaid, or any part thereof, or otherwise convert the same to his own use, with like purpose to steal them, or to defraud his master thereof, the servant so offending shall be fined or imprisoned in the state prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that nothing contained in this section shall extend to apprentices or servants within the age of sixteen years.

Rev., s. 3499; Code, s. 1065; R. C., c. 34, s. 18; 21 Hen. VIII, c. 7, ss. 1, 2.

Jurisdiction of superior court: State v. Jarvis, 63-556.

INDICTMENT. Must aver that property was received and held by defendant in trust or for the use of the master: State v. Wilson, 101-730. Averment that defendant was not within the age of 18 years, sufficient: State v. Wilson, 101-730.

4254. Larceny of choses in action. If any person shall feloniously steal, take and carry away, or take by robbery, any bank-note, check or other order for the payment of money issued by or drawn on any bank or other society or corporation within this state or within any of the United States, or any treasury warrant, debenture, certificate of stock or other public security, or certificate of stock in any corporation, or any order, bill of exchange, bond, promissory note or other obligation, either for the payment of money or for the delivery of specific articles, being the property of any other person, or of any corporation (notwithstanding any of the said particulars may be termed in law a chose in action), such felonious stealing, taking and carrying away, or taking by robbery, shall be a felony of the same nature and degree and in the same manner as it would have been if the offender had feloniously stolen, or taken by robbery, money, goods or property of any value, and the offender for every such offense shall suffer the same punishment and be subject to the same pains, penalties and disabilities as he should or might have suffered if he had feloniously stolen or taken by robbery money, goods or other property of value.

SECTION CONSTRUED. Check drawn by U. S. pension agent on the treasurer is within the act: State v. Bishop, 98-773. "Due bill" is within the act: State v. Campbell, 103-344—but if "due bill" has been paid indictment hereunder will not lie, State v. Campbell, 103-344.

EVIDENCE. That party indicted was seen with bill of unknown denomination is inadmissible: State v. Carter, 72-99. Evidence that defendant stole either treasury note or national bank note not sufficient: State v. Collins, 72-144—but evidence that witness believed he stole the treasury note sufficient, State v. Freeman, 72-521.
4255. Larceny, mutilation, or destruction of public records and papers. If any person shall steal, or for any fraudulent purpose shall take from its place of deposit for the time being, or from any person having the lawful custody thereof, or shall unlawfully and maliciously obliterate, injure or destroy any record, writ, return, panel, process, interrogatory, deposition, affidavit, rule, order or warrant of attorney or any original document whatsoever, or of or belonging to any court of record, or relating to any matter, civil or criminal, begun, pending or terminated in any such court, or any bill, answer, interrogatory, deposition, affidavit, order or decree or any original document whatsoever, of or belonging to any court or relating to any cause or matter begun, pending or terminated in any such court, every such offender shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and in any indictment for such offense it shall not be necessary to allege that the article, in respect to which the offense is committed, is the property of any person or that the same is of any value. If any person shall steal or for any fraudulent purpose shall take from the register's office, or from any person having the lawful custody thereof, or shall unlawfully and willfully obliterate, injure or destroy any book wherein deeds or other instruments of writing are registered, or any other book of registration or record required to be kept by the register of deeds, or shall unlawfully destroy, obliterate, deface or remove any records of proceedings of the board of county commissioners, or unlawfully and fraudulently abstract any record, receipt, order or voucher or other paper-writing required to be kept by the clerk of the board of commissioners of any county, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3508; Code, s. 1071; R. C., c. 34, s. 31; 8 Hen. VI, c. 12, s. 3; 1851, c. 17.

4256. Larceny, concealment or destruction of wills. If any person, either during the life of the testator or after his death, shall steal or, for any fraudulent purpose, shall destroy or conceal any will, codicil or other testamentary instrument, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3510; Code, s. 1072; R. C., c. 34, s. 32.

4257. Larceny of ungathered crops. If any person shall steal or feloniously take and carry away any maize, corn, wheat, rice or other grain, or any cotton, tobacco, potatoes, peanuts, pulse, fruit, vegetable or other product cultivated for food or market, growing, standing or remaining ungathered in any field or ground, he shall be guilty of larceny, and shall be punished accordingly.

Rev., s. 3503; Code, s. 1069; 1811, c. 816; R. C., c. 34, s. 21; 1868-9, c. 251.

Indictment will lie against lessee or cropper for secretly appropriating crop where his actual possession has terminated by delivery to the landlord: State v. Copeland, 86-692; State v. Webb, 87-558.

INDICTMENT. Must allege that product was "cultivated for food or market," unless the article stolen is one of those specifically named in the statute: State v. Liles, 78-496; State v. Thompson, 93-537; State v. Bullard, 97-443—must allege that product was "growing, standing, or ungathered," State v. Bragg, 86-688.

4258. Larceny of ginseng. If any person shall take and carry away, or shall aid in taking or carrying away, any ginseng growing upon the lands of another person, with intent to steal the same, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not less than two years nor more than five years, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that such ginseng, at the time the same is taken, shall be in beds and the land upon which such beds are located shall be surrounded by a lawful fence.

Rev., s. 3502; 1905, c. 211.

For digging ginseng, see section 4510.

4259. Larceny of wood and other property from land. If any person, not being the present owner or bona fide claimant thereof, shall willfully and unlawfully enter upon the lands of another, carrying off or being engaged in carrying off any wood or other kind of property whatsoever, growing or being thereon, the same being the property of the owner of the premises, or under his control, keeping or care, such person shall, if the act be done with felonious intent, be guilty of larceny, and punished as for that offense; and if not done with such intent, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3511; Code, s. 1070; 1866, c. 60.

For act as to certain counties, see sections 4307, 4308.

Tenant not estopped to deny landlord's title to timber land not embraced in the portion which he rented: State v. Boyce, 109-739.

This statute embraces only such property as was not subject to larceny at common law: State v. Vosburg, 111-718—therefore does not embrace money, Ibid.—but does embrace brass fixtures on an engine which is attached to freehold, State v. Beck, 141-829.

Accused may show title to be in third person: State v. Boyce, 109-739.

Compare, as to jurisdiction: State v. Rice, 83-660.

4260. Larceny of horses and mules. If any person shall steal any horse, mare, gelding or mule, he shall suffer imprisonment at hard labor for not less than one nor more than twenty years, at the discretion of the court. A count under this section may be joined in a bill of indictment with a count under the section that immediately follows.

Rev., s. 3505; Code, s. 1066; 1868, c. 37, s. 1; 1879, c. 234, s. 2; 1866-7, c. 62; 1917, c. 162, s. 2.

One borrowing horse with felonious intent to deprive owner of it, and to appropriate it to his own use, is guilty of larceny: State v. Bryant, 74-124.

Compare, as to punishment, State v. Putney, 61-543; State v. Evans, 69-40.

VERDICT. General verdict of guilty on two counts, one charging stealing a horse, under the statute, and the other charging receiving, is error: State v. Johnson, 75-123; State v. Goings, 98-766—but no error where the charge of horse-stealing is made at common law, State v. Lawrence, 81-552.

4261. Taking horses or mules for temporary purposes. If any person shall unlawfully take and carry away any horse, gelding, mare or mule, the property of another person, secretly and against the will of the owner of such property, with intent to deprive the owner of the special or temporary use of the same, or with the intent to use such property for a special or temporary purpose, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3509; Code, s. 1067; 1879, c. 234, s. 1; 1913, c. 11.

Indictment not defective because it charges the stealing of the temporary use of a buggy as well as a horse: State v. Darden, 117-697.

Section cited: Clark v. Whitehurst, 171-1; State v. Thompson, 95-596.

4262. Taking of automobiles and electric vehicles for temporary purpose. If any person shall unlawfully take and carry away any automobile or electrical vehicle of any nature, kind or description whatsoever, the property of another person, secretly and against the will of the owner of such property, with intent to deprive the owner of the special or temporary use of the same, or with the intent to use such property for a special or temporary purpose, the person so offending shall be guilty of larceny, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to repeal any other section of this article.

4264. Pursuing or injuring livestock with intent to steal. If any person shall pursue, kill or wound any horse, mule, ass, jennet, cattle, hog, sheep or goat, the property of another, with the intent unlawfully and feloniously to convert the same to his own use, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punishable, in all respects, as if convicted of larceny, though such animal may not have come into the actual possession of the person so offending.

Rev., s. 3504; Code, s. 1008; 1866, c. 57.

Compare, as to defense, State v. Rivers, 90-738.

4267. Attempted train robbery. If any person shall stop, or cause to be stopped, or impede, or cause to be impeded, or conspire with others for that purpose, any locomotive engine or car on any railroad in this state, by intimidation of those in charge thereof or by force, threats or otherwise, for the purpose of taking therefrom or causing to be delivered up to such person so forcing, threatening or intimidating, anything of value, to be appropriated to his own use, he shall be guilty of attempting train robbery, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by confinement in the state’s prison for not less than two years nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 3766; 1895, c. 204, s. 1.

ART. 18. EMBEZZLEMENT

4268. Embezzlement of property received by virtue of office or employment. If any person exercising a public trust or holding a public office, or any guardian, administrator or executor, or any officer or agent of a corporation, or any agent, consignee, clerk or servant, except persons under the age of sixteen years, of any person, shall embezzle or fraudulently or knowingly and willfully misapply or convert to his own use, or shall take, make way with or secrete, with intent to embezzle or fraudulently or knowingly and willfully misapply or convert to his own use any money, goods or other chattels, bank note, check or order for the payment of money issued by or drawn on any bank or other corporation, or any treasury warrant, treasury note, bond or obligation for the payment of money issued by the United States or by any state, or any other valuable security whatsoever belonging to any other person or corporation, which shall have come into his possession or under his care, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished as in cases of larceny.

Rev., s. 3406; Code, s. 1014; 21 Hen. VII, c. 7; 1871-2, c. 145, s. 2; 1891, c. 188; 1897, c. 31; 1918, c. 97, s. 25.

THE CRIME OF EMBEZZLEMENT. Not a common-law offense: State v. McDonald, 133-682. Embezzlement means not only to appropriate to one’s own use, but also to misappropriate fraudulently: State v. Foust, 114-842. The use of funds from one source to meet a default in another transaction is embezzlement: State v. Klingman, 172-947. Distinguished from larceny by fact that in larceny there is necessarily a trespass: State v. McDonald, 133-684. Constituent elements of the crime pointed out in State v. Blackley, 138-620. Intention to restore the property, and even a restoration itself, is not a defense: State v. Summers, 141-841.

One making locust pins out of prosecutor’s timber under contract to go halves in profits is not guilty of embezzlement where he sells pins and keeps all the money: State v. Barton, 125-702.
Section does not embrace relation of landlord and tenant: State v. Keith, 126-1114— and landlord selling crop and not accounting to tenant does not make embezzlement, Ibid. The appropriation by defendant does not raise presumption of fraudulent intent: State v. McDonald, 133-680. Property must be that of prosecutor: State v. Barton, 125-702.

Word "servant" defined: State v. Costin, 89-511. Contractor with prosecutor is not an officer, clerk, employee or servant of prosecutor: Ibid.

INDICTMENT. What the indictment should charge: State v. Gulledge, 173-746. Need not allege that goods were committed in custody of defendant nor any branch of trust except that growing out of relation of owner and servant or agent: State v. Wilson, 101-730. Must allege that defendant is not an apprentice nor within age of sixteen: State v. Blackley, 138-620; State v. Lanier, 88-658; State v. Wilson, 101-730; State v. Connor, 142-708. Where count for embezzlement contains charge of larceny, charge of larceny will be treated as surplusage: State v. Harris, 106-682. Need not incorporate the words "with force and arms": State v. Harris, 106-682. As to description of property, see State v. Fain, 106-760. Where two charged with embezzlement in one count and one of the two also charged with embezzlement in another count, no misjoinder: State v. Harris, 106-682. Suficiency of indictment: State v. Foust, 114-842; State v. Harris, 106-682; State v. Fain, 106-760; State v. Wilson, 101-730.

BURDEN OF PROOF. Though appropriation admitted, burden is on state to show felonious intent beyond reasonable doubt: State v. Summers, 141-841; State v. McDonald, 133-680— being the essential element of the crime and peculiarly a question for the jury, State v. Dunn, 138-672; State v. Dewey, 139-556; State v. Summers, 141-841; State v. Blackley, 138-620; State v. McDonald, 133-680. Burden is not on state to prove defendant is not an apprentice nor under age of sixteen, but is on defendant: State v. Blackley, 138-620; State v. Connor, 142-708.

EVIDENCE. Not necessary to prove any breach of trust or confidence except that which grows out of the relation between owner and servant or agent: State v. Wilson, 101-730. Court properly excluded question asked defendant, if he were willing to deposit money alleged to have been embezzled in clerk's office to await result of civil action about the matter: State v. Art. 19. False Pretenses and Cheats 4277. Obtaining property by false tokens and other false pretenses. If any person shall knowingly and designedly, by means of any forged or counterfeited paper, in writing or in print, or by any false token, or other false pretense whatsoever, obtain from any person or corporation within the state any money, goods, property or other thing of value, or any bank-note, check or order for the payment of money, issued by, or drawn on, any bank or other society or corporation within this state or any of the United States, or any treasury warrant, debenture, certificate of stock or public security, or any order, bill of exchange, bond, promissory note or other obligation, either for the payment of money or for the delivery of specific articles, with intent to cheat or defraud any person or corporation of the same, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state’s prison not less than four months nor more than ten years, or fined, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that if, on the trial of any one indicted for such crime, it shall be proved that he obtained the property in such manner as to amount to larceny, he shall not, by reason thereof, be entitled to be acquitted of the felony; and no person tried for such felony shall be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for larceny upon the same facts: Provided further, that it shall be sufficient in any indictment for obtaining or attempting to obtain any such property by false pretenses to allege that the party accused did the act with intent to defraud, without alleging an intent to defraud any particular person, and without alleging any ownership of the chattel, money or valuable security; and, on the trial of any such indictment, it shall not be necessary to prove an intent to defraud any particular person, but it shall be sufficient to prove that the party accused did the act charged with an intent to defraud.

Rev., s. 3432; Code, s. 1025; R. C., c. 34, s. 67; 1811, c. 514, s. 2; 33 Hen. VIII, c. 1, ss. 1, 2; 30 Geo. II, c. 24, s. 1.

CONSTITUENT ELEMENTS OF THE CRIME. False pretense is the false representation of a subsisting fact, calculated to deceive, intended to deceive, and which does deceive, whether it be in writing, words or acts, whereby one man obtains value from another without compensation: State v. Whedbee, 152-770; State v. Davis, 150-851; State v. Phifer, 65-321; State v. Hefner, 84-751; State v. Matthews, 121-604; State v. Mangum, 116-998; State v. Mikle, 94-843; State v. Matthews, 91-636; State v. Dickson, 88-643; State v. Eason, 86-274; State v. Young, 76-258; State v. Moore, 111-667.

Elements of the crime: State v. Carlson, 171-818. A mere lie is not sufficient to make out the crime; there must be a false token or contrivance calculated to deceive the ordinary man: State v. Matthews, 121-604; State v. Fitzgerald, 18-408; State v. Justice, 13-199; State v. Simpson, 10-620—and it must be a false pretense of an existing fact in contradistinction to mere promise or opinion, State v. Knott, 124-814; State v. Daniel, 114-823. Selling articles by short weight: State v. Ice Co., 166-366; s. c., 166-403. The false representation may be made to the agent of the owner of the goods: State v. Taylor, 131-711.

There is no crime where party to whom false pretense made knows it is false or ought to have known it: State v. Whidbee, 124-796; State v. Moore, 111-667. Section does not apply where property obtained under false pretense was land: State v. Burrows, 33-477—where payment is made for goods delivered and change is given in counterfeit coin, State v. Allred, 84-749—where caveat emptor applies, State v. Wilkerson, 103-337; State v. Young, 76-258. But it does apply where property obtained was money, although obtained in a transaction conveying land: State v. Munday, 78-460. Instances of false pretense, see State v. Burke, 108-759; State v. Jones, 70-75.

INDICTMENT. Must state that pretense made was in fact false, and in what respects false: State v. Lambeth, 80-393; State v. Pickett, 78-458; State v. Holmes, 82-607—that defendant knew it was false, State v. Mangum, 116-998; State v. Moore, 111-667—that it was made feloniously, State v. Wilson, 116-979; State v. Bryan, 112-848; State v. Caldwell, 112-854; State v. Howard, 129-584.

Must show connection between the false pretense and the thing of value secured: State v. Whedbee, 152-770—and this connection must be proved, State v. McClure, 151-730.

Not necessary to allege an intent to defraud any particular person: State v. Ridge, 125-658; State v. Howard, 129-584; State v. Taylor, 131-714—not the person deceived, State v. Ice Co., 166-366; s. c., 166-403—not that order used to obtain goods was written or oral, State v. Mikle, 94-843—not what kind of currency counterfeited and passed for something of value, State v. Boon, 49-463—not the value of property obtained, State v. Gillespie, 80-396; State v. Boon, 49-463.

Goods obtained by false pretense must be described: State v. Reese, 83-637.

4278. Obtaining signatures or property by false pretenses. If any person, with intent to defraud or cheat another, shall designedly, by color of any false token or writing, or by any other false pretense, obtain the signature of any person to any written instrument, the false making of which would be punishable as forgery, or obtain from any person any money, goods, wares, merchandise or other property or valuable thing whatsoever, he shall be punishable by fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the state's prison for a term of not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rey., s. 3483; Code, s. 1026; 1871-2, ec. 92.

For annotations upon 'false pretense' generally, see under section 4277.

Obtaining money by fraudulently obtaining prosecutor's signature to a note: State v. Gibson, 169-318; s. c., 170-697. Section not applicable where 'caveat emptor' applies: State v. Young, 76-258; State v. Blue, 84-807. As to variance between indictment and proof, see State v. McWhirter, 144-809; State v. Ridge, 125-658; State v. Ashford, 120-588; State v. Mikle, 94-843; State v. Corbett, 46-264.

Compare State v. Crumpler, 90-701.

4279. Obtaining property by false representation of pedigree of animals. If any person shall, with intent to defraud or cheat, knowingly represent any animal for breeding purposes as being of greater degree of any particular strain of blood than such animal actually possesses, and by such representation obtain from any other person money or other thing of value, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall for each offense be punished by a fine of not less than sixty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Rev., s. 3307; 1891, c. 94, s. 2.

4280. Obtaining certificate of registration of animals by false representation. If any person shall, by any false representation or pretense, with intent to defraud or cheat, obtain from any club, association, society or company for the improvement of the breed of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, fowls or other domestic animals or birds, a certificate of registration of any animal in the herd register of any such association, society or company, or a transfer of any such registration, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Rev., s. 3308; 1891, c. 94, s. 1.

4281. Obtaining advances under promise to work and pay for same. If any person, with intent to cheat or defraud another, shall obtain any advances in money, provisions, goods, wares or merchandise of any description from any other person or corporation upon and by color of any promise or agreement that the person making the same will begin any work or labor of any description for such person or corporation from whom the advances are obtained, and the person making the promise or agreement shall willfully fail, without a lawful excuse, to commence or complete such work according to contract, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Evidence of such promise or agreement to work, the obtaining of such advances thereon and the failure to comply with such promise or agreement shall be presumptive evidence of the intent to cheat and defraud at the time of obtaining the advances and making the promise or agreement, subject to be rebutted by other testimony which may be introduced by the defendant.

Rev., s. 3431; 1889, c. 444; 1891, c. 106; 1905, c. 411.

Section constitutional: State v. Norman, 110-484. As to sufficiency of evidence hereunder, see Ibid. The last part of the section as to presumptive evidence is unconstitutional: State v. Griffin, 154-611; State v. Isley, 164-491.

4282. Obtaining advances under written promise to pay therefor out of designated property. If any person shall obtain any advances in money, provisions, goods, wares or merchandise of any description from any other person or corporation, upon any written representation that the person making the same is the owner of any article of produce, or of any other specific chattel or personal property, which property, or the proceeds of which the owner in such representation thereby agrees to apply to the discharge of the debt so created, and the owner shall fail to apply such produce or other property, or the proceeds thereof, in accordance with such agreement, or shall dispose of the same in any other manner than is so agreed upon by the parties to the transaction, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, whether he shall or shall not have been the owner of any such property at the time such representation was made.

4283. Obtaining property in return for worthless check, draft or order. Every person who, with intent to cheat and defraud another, shall obtain money, credit, goods, wares or any other thing of value by means of a check, draft or order of any kind upon any bank, person, firm or corporation, not indebted to the drawer, or where he has not provided for the payment or acceptance of the same, and the same be not paid upon presentation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. The giving of the aforesaid worthless check, draft, or order shall be prima facie evidence of an intent to cheat and defraud.

The offense is called a misdemeanor and may be punished on appeal from recorder’s court to the superior court without a bill of indictment: State v. Freeman, 172-925. What is meant by obtaining a thing of value: Ibid.

4284. Obtaining entertainment at hotels and boarding-houses without paying therefor. Any person who obtains any lodging, food or accommodation at an inn, boarding-house or lodging-house without paying therefor, with intent to defraud the proprietor or manager thereof, or who obtains credit at an inn, boarding-house or lodging-house by the use of any false pretense, or who, after obtaining credit or accommodation at an inn, boarding-house or lodging-house, absconds and surreptitiously removes his baggage therefrom without paying for his food, accommodation or lodging, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

What is meant by a boarding-house: State v. McRae, 170-712. Removing baggage from 4285. Obtaining wearing apparel on approval. If any person, with intent to cheat and defraud, shall solicit and obtain from any merchant any article of wearing apparel on approval, and shall thereafter, upon demand, refuse or fail to return the same to such merchant in an unused and undamaged condition, or to pay for the same, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Evidence that a person has solicited a merchant to deliver to him any article of wearing apparel for examination or approval and has obtained the same upon such solicitation, and thereafter, upon demand, has refused or failed to return the same to such merchant in an unused and undamaged condition, or to pay for the same, shall constitute prima facie evidence of the intent of such person to cheat and defraud, within the meaning of this section.

What is meant by a boarding-house: State v. McRae, 170-712. Removing baggage from 4286. Obtaining money by false representation of physical defect. It shall be unlawful for any person to falsely represent himself or herself in any manner whatsoever as blind, deaf, dumb, or crippled or otherwise physically defective for the purpose of obtaining money or other thing of value or of making sales of any character of personal property. Any person so falsely representing himself or herself as blind, deaf, dumb, crippled or otherwise physically defective, and securing aid or assistance on account of such representation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

1911, c. 185.

of trust or lien, with intent to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of any person to whom or for whose benefit such deed was made, every person so offending and every person with a knowledge of the lien buying the property embraced in any such deed or lien, and every person assisting, aiding or abetting the unlawful disposition of such property, with intent to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of any person to whom or for whose benefit any such deed or lien was made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. In all indictments for violations of the provisions of this section it shall not be necessary to allege or prove the person to whom any sale or disposition of the property was made, but proof of the possession of the property embraced in such chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien, by the grantor thereof, after the execution of said chattel mortgage, deed of trust, or lien, and while it is in force, and further proof of the fact that the sheriff or other officer charged with the execution of process cannot after due diligence find such property under process directed to him for its seizure, for the satisfaction of such chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien, or that the mortgagee demanded the possession thereof of the mortgagor for the purpose of sale to foreclose said mortgage, deed of trust or lien, after the right to such foreclosure had accrued, and that the mortgagee failed to produce, deliver or surrender the same to the mortgagee for that purpose, shall be prima facie proof of the fact of a disposition or sale of such property, by the grantor, with the intent to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of the person to whom said chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien was made.

Rev., s. 3435; Code, s. 1089; 1887, c. 14; 1873-4, c. 31; 1874-5, c. 215; 1883-8, c. 61.

There are three classes of offenders against whom the statute is directed: State v. Woods, 104-898. Infant cannot be convicted hereunder: State v. Howard, 88-650.

Intent is essential: State v. Ellington, 98-749. It is presumed where disposition of property necessarily results in hindering, delaying, or defrauding the mortgagee; otherwise, question of fact for jury: State v. Manning, 107-910. Intent is presumed where sale is proved, and no evidence offered to explain such sale: State v. Holmes, 120-573.

Indictment should charge aiding and abetting where such is the offense: State v. Wood, 104-898. Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Surles, 117-720.

Compare, as to jurisdiction, State v. Jones, 83-657—as to indictment, State v. Pickens, 79-652; State v. Burns, 80-376.

Any person violating the provisions of this section, and any person who shall knowingly buy, sell, receive, dispose of, or conceal any automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle from which the manufacturer’s serial number or any other distinguishing number or identification mark has been removed, defaced, covered, altered, or destroyed, for the purpose of concealment or misrepresenting the identity of said automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to automobiles in the possession of innocent purchasers who acquired title or possession prior to March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

Falsely, wittingly and corruptly rubbing out and obliterating an acquittance, indorsed on a bond, is not forgery in North Carolina: State v. Thornburg, 28-79—nor falsely putting the name of a witness to a bond, which does not require a witness, State v. Gherkin, 29-206—nor is a writing binding on no one a subject of forgery, State v. Lytle, 64-35.

As to name, see State v. Morgan, 19-348. Punishment may be by imprisonment in penitentiary: State v. Williams, 86-671.

4297. Forging names to petitions and uttering forged petitions. If any person shall willfully sign, or cause to be signed, or willfully assent to the signing of the name of any person without his consent, or of any deceased or fictitious person, to any petition or recommendation with the intent of procuring any commutation of sentence, pardon or reprieve of any person convicted of any crime or offense, or for the purpose of procuring such pardon, reprieve or commutation to be refused or delayed by any public officer, or with the intent of procuring from any person whatsoever, either for himself or another, any appointment to office, or to any position of honor or trust, or with the intent to influence the official action of any public officer in the management, conduct or decision of any matter affecting the public, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail or state’s prison not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the court; and if any person shall willfully use any such paper for any of the purposes or intents above recited, knowing that any part of the signatures to such petition or recommendation has been signed thereto without the consent of the alleged signers, or that names of any dead or fictitious persons are signed thereto, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished in like manner.

Rev., s. 3426; Code, s. 1034; 18838, c. 275.

4298. Forging certificate of corporate stock and uttering forged certificates.
If any officer or agent of a corporation shall, falsely and with a fraudulent purpose, make, with the intent that the same shall be issued and delivered to any other person by name or as holder or bearer thereof, any certificate or other writing, whereby it is certified or declared that such person, holder or bearer is entitled to or has an interest in the stock of such corporation, when in fact such person, holder or bearer is not so entitled, or is not entitled to the amount of stock in such certificate or writing specified; or if any officer or agent of such corporation, or other person, knowing such certificate or other writing to be false or untrue, shall transfer, assign or deliver the same to another person, for the sake of gain, or with the intent to defraud the corporation, or any member thereof, or such person to whom the same shall be transferred, assigned or delivered, the person so offending shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state’s prison not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3421; Code, s. 1032; R. C., c. 34, s. 62.

See annotations under section 4296.

4299. Forgery of bank-notes and other instruments by connecting genuine parts. If any person shall fraudulently connect together different parts of two or more bank-notes, or other genuine instruments, in such a manner as to produce another note or instrument, with intent to pass all of them as genuine, the same shall be deemed a forgery, and the instrument so produced a forged note, or forged instrument, in like manner as if each of them had been falsely made or forged.

Rev., s. 3420; Code, s. 1037; R. C., c. 34, s. 66.

SUBCHAPTER 7. CRIMINAL TRESPASS

ART. 22. TRESPASSES TO LAND AND FIXTURES

4300. Forcible entry and detainer. No one shall make entry into any lands and tenements, or term for years, but in case where entry is given by law; and in such case, not with strong hand nor with multitude of people, but only in a peaceable and easy manner; and if any man do the contrary, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3670; Code, s. 1028; R. C., c. 49, s. 1; 5 Ric. II, c. 8.

Entry may be peaceable, without any objection, but may become forcible after party being forbidden: State v. Robbins, 123-730; see State v. Condor, 126-988.

Under this section the lands must be in the actual possession of the person whose possession is charged to have been interfered with: State v. Bryant, 103-436; see State v. Leary, 136-578. Overseer on plantation is not in possession as against the owner, and owner may evict him without being guilty hereunder: State v. Curtis, 20-363. Landlord can forbid trespassers, even though tenant in possession: State v. Robbins, 123-730. Widow living on land not yet assigned as dower cannot prosecute hereunder: State v. Thompson, 130-680.

For examples of forcible entry, see State v. Jacobs, 94-950; State v. Smith, 100-466; State v. Shepard, 82-614; State v. Robbins, 123-730; State v. Davis, 109-809; State v. Caldwell, 47-468.

INDICTMENT. Not necessary to charge or show that proprietor of the house where the alleged forcible entry and detainer was committed was in the house or present at time of offense: State v. Fort, 20-332; State v. Shepard, 82-614—but if trespasser warned off by child of owner, must be stated that he was member of owner's family residing there: State v. Morgan, 60-243. Not necessary to allege that defendant had no title to land: State v. Whitfield, 30-317. Sufficient when it charges "that defendant unlawfully and with a strong hand did break and enter into a certain house of J. D., he, the said J. D., being then and there in the peaceable and quiet possession of same": State v. Whitfield, 30-315. Must charge actual possession in person whose possession is alleged to have been disturbed: State v. Bryant, 103-436. As to sufficiency of indictment generally, see State v. Eason, 70-88. Indictment is to be considered as containing two counts, one for forcible entry and the other for a detainer: State v. Ward, 46-291.

4301. Malicious injury to real property. If any person shall maliciously commit any damage, injury or spoil upon any real property whatsoever, either of a public or private nature, for which no punishment is provided by any existing law, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that nothing herein shall extend to any case where the party trespassing or doing the injury acted under a fair and reasonable belief that he had a right to do the act complained of, nor to any trespass, not being willful and malicious, committed in hunting, fishing or the pursuit of game. When the owner, or one of the owners, of an estate in possession shall complain of the injury before a justice of the peace of the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed before the regular term of the superior court next after the commission of the offense, and shall fail to state in his complaint that the damage exceeds ten dollars, the punishment, upon conviction of the offense, shall not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days.

For injury to houses, churches, fences, walls, etc., see section 4317.

4302. Trespass on public lands. If any person shall erect a building on any public lands before the same shall have been sold or granted by the state, or on any lands belonging to the state board of education before the same shall have been sold and conveyed by them, or cultivate or remove timber from any of such lands, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Moreover, the state board of education can recover from any person cutting timber on its land three times the value of the timber which is cut. When any person shall be in possession of any part of such land, it shall be the duty of the sheriff of the county in which the land is situated, and he is hereby required, to give notice in writing to such person, commanding him to depart therefrom forthwith; and if the person in possession, upon being so notified, shall not, within two weeks after the time of notice, remove therefrom, the sheriff is required to remove him immediately, and if necessary, he shall summon the power of the county to assist him in so doing.

Rev., s. 3746; Code, s. 1121; R. C., c. 34, s. 42; 1823, c. 1190; 1842, c. 36, s. 4; 1909, c. 891.

4303. Disorderly conduct in and injuries to public buildings. If any person shall make any rude or riotous noise or be guilty of any disorderly conduct in or near any of the public buildings of the state, or of any county or municipality, or shall write or scribble on, mark, deface, besmear, or injure the walls of any of the public buildings of the state or of any county or municipality, or any statue or monument, or shall do or commit any nuisance in or near any public building of the state or of any county or municipality, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The keeper of the capitol or any person in charge of any of such public buildings shall have authority to arrest summarily and without warrant for a violation of this section. The words "public building," as used in this section, shall include the grounds around such buildings.

Rev., s. 3742; Code, s. 2308; R. C., c. 103, ss. 7, 8; 1829, c. 29, ss. 1, 2; 1842, c. 47; 1915, c. 269.

4304. Local: Erecting artificial islands and lumps in public waters. If any person shall erect artificial islands or lumps in any of the waters of the state east of the Wilmington and Weldon railroad and the Petersburg and Weldon railroad, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3543; Code, s. 986; 1883, c. 109.

4305. Trespass on land after being forbidden; license to look for estrays. If any person, after being forbidden to do so, shall go or enter upon the lands of another, without a license therefor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that if any person shall make a written affidavit before a justice of the peace of the county that any of his cattle or other livestock (which shall be specially described in such affidavit) have strayed away, and that he has good reason to believe that they are on the lands of a certain other person, then the justice may, in his discretion, allow the affiant to enter on the premises of such person with one or more servants, without firearms, in the daytime (Sunday excepted), between the hours of sunrise and sunset, and make search for his estrays for such limited time as to the justice shall appear reasonable. The only effect of such license shall be to protect the persons entering from indictment therefor, and the license shall have this effect only where it is made bona fide and the entry is effected without any damage except such as may be necessary to conduct the search.

Rev., s. 3688; Code, s. 1120; 1866, c. 60.
A person who enters land under a bona fide claim of title or right is not guilty hereunder:
State v. Faggart, 170-737; State v. Wells, 142-590; State v. Winslow, 95-649; State v. Crossett, 81-579; State v. Hause, 71-518; State v. Ellen, 68-281; State v. Hanks, 66-612—so servant of bona fide claimant, entering at his command, is not guilty, State v. Winslow, 95-649—but a mere belief is not sufficient; there must be proof of a claim of title, or facts upon which defendant based a bona fide claim of right, State v. Fisher, 109-817; State v. Crawley, 103-353; State v. Bryson, 81-985; State v. Glenn, 118-1194; State v. Durham, 121-546; compare State v. Boyce, 109-739. Failure to charge as to bona fide claim of defendant no error, when no such instruction is prayed: State v. Yellowday, 152-793.

Although forbidden by the landlord, if a person entered the land on the invitation of the tenant he is not guilty: State v. Lawson, 101-717. Husband is not indictable for trespass on lands of his wife after being forbidden by her: State v. Jones, 132-1043. Indictment hereunder will lie against railroad employee for entry after being forbidden on lands which company is seeking to condemn: State v. Wells, 142-590; State v. Mallard, 143-666.

Defendant’s guilt need not be established where the question of entry under bona fide claim of right has not been determined: State v. Wells, 142-590.

Justice has exclusive original jurisdiction of this offense: State v. Dudley, 83-660. Compare State v. Edney, 80-360; State v. Presley, 72-204.

Where indictment charges that “defendant did unlawfully enter upon the premises of the prosecutor, he, said defendant, having been forbidden to enter on said premises, and not having a license so to enter,” etc., is sufficient: State v. Whitehurst, 70-85. Necessary in indictment to negative defendant’s having license to enter: State v. Bullard, 72-245. The word “premises” equivalent to “land” in indictment: State v. Yellowday, 152-793. Possession of agent of owner is sufficient allegation of possession of owner: Ibid.

The omission of the words “unlawfully and willfully” in a warrant of a justice of the peace is fatal: State v. Whitaker, 85-566—but superior court has power to amend the warrant in this respect after verdict: State v. Smith, 103-410; State v. Yellowday, 152-793.

Warrant which does not contain necessary descriptive words of the offense, but refers to an attached affidavit which does, will not be quashed: State v. Winslow, 95-649.

Evidence that defendant went on land under bona fide claim of title competent: State v. Crawley, 103-353. Insufficient evidence of reasonable belief of title or right of entry: State v. Fisher, 109-817; State v. Mallard, 143-666; State v. Durham, 121-546; State v. Glenn, 118-1194. State must prove entry after being forbidden, but it is upon defendant to show, by way of defense, to the satisfaction of jury, that he entered under license or bona fide claim of right: State v. Durham, 121-546; State v. Glenn, 118-1194. Where charge is that land was in possession of A and the proof that it was in possession of B, the variance is fatal: State v. Sherrill, 81-550.

4306. Cutting, injuring, or removing another’s timber. If any person, not being the bona fide owner thereof, shall knowingly and willfully cut down, injure or remove any standing, growing or fallen tree or log, the property of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days.

Rey., s. 38687; 1889, c. 168.

4307. Local: Cutting, felling or removing another’s timber. If any person, or his agent or employee, shall cut, fell or remove any timber tree, for the purpose of sale or gain, knowing the same to be upon the land of another, without the consent of the owner thereof, the person so cutting, felling or removing, or causing the same to be done, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3687; 1889, c. 168.
4308. Local: Purchasing timber unlawfully removed from another’s land. If any person or corporation shall purchase or receive any timber tree, knowing the same to have been cut or removed from the lands of another without the consent of the owner thereof, or shall purchase or receive any logs, planks, boards, staves, shingles or other lumber made from such timber tree, knowing the same to have been cut or removed as aforesaid, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court, and shall be liable to double the amount of the actual damages to the owner of such timber, to be recovered in a civil action brought therefor. This section shall apply only to Caldwell, Wilkes, Watauga, Burke, McDowell, Yadkin, Cherokee and Mitchell counties.

4309. Setting fire to grass and brush lands and woodlands. If any person shall intentionally set fire to any grass land, brush land or woodland, except it be his own property, or in that case without first giving notice to all persons owning or in charge of lands adjoining the land intended to be fired, and without also taking care to watch such fire while burning and to extinguish it before it shall reach any lands near to or adjoining the lands so fired, he shall for every such offense be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. This section shall not prevent an action for the damages sustained by the owner of any property from such fires. For the purposes of this section, the term “woodland” is to be taken to include all forest areas, both timber and cut-over land, and all second-growth stands on areas that have at one time been cultivated. Any person who shall furnish to the state evidence sufficient for the conviction of a violation of this statute shall receive the sum of twenty dollars, to be taxed as part of the court costs.

Rev., ss. 3346; Code, ss. 52, 53; R. C., c. 16, ss. 1, 2; 1777, c. 123. ss. 1, 2; 1915, c. 243, ss. 8, 11; 1919, c. 318.

See generally: Roberson v. Morgan, 118-991; Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534.

The action for penalty here given may be brought before a justice of the peace in a county other than the one where the offense was committed, if such county is where defendant resides: Fisher v. Bullard, 109-574.

Only adjoining landowners can maintain an action under this section: Roberson v. Morgan, 118-991.

Penalty here provided is only incurred by voluntary firing of woods; not in cases of burning woods from necessity or accident: Caton v. Toler, 160-104; Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534; Averitt v. Murrell, 49-322; Tyson v. Rasberry, 8-60.

Liability for damages in burning without giving notice: Stanland v. Rourk, 168-568. An agreement by adjoining landowners to take less than two days notice will not bar a stranger from recovering the penalty: Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534; Wright v. Yarborough, 4-687. Proof of waiver of notice is a sufficient answer to an action for damages: Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534; Roberson v. Kirby, 52-477. See, also, Garrett v. Freeman, 50-78.
4310. Local: Willfully or negligently setting fire to woods and fields. If any person shall willfully or negligently set on fire, or cause to be set on fire, any woods, lands or fields whatsoever, every such offender, upon conviction, shall be fined in the discretion of the court, one-half of the fine to go to the informer, if there be one, and the residue to the school fund of the county wherein such offense was committed, or he shall be imprisoned, in the discretion of the court. This section shall apply only to Caldwell, Wilkes, Watauga, Burke, McDowell, Yadkin, Cherokee and Mitchell counties.

1907, c. 320, ss. 4, 5.

4311. Setting fire to woodlands and grass lands with campfires. Any wagoner, hunter, camper or other person who shall kindle a campfire or shall authorize another to kindle such fire, unless all combustible material for the space of ten feet surrounding the place where such fire is kindled has been removed, or shall leave a campfire without fully extinguishing it, or who shall accidentally or negligently by the use of any torch, gun, match or other instrumentality, or in any manner whatever, start any fire upon any grass land, brush land or woodland without fully extinguishing the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days. For the purposes of this section the term "woodland" is to be taken to include all forest areas, both timber and cut-over land, and all second-growth stands on areas that have at one time been cultivated.

Rev., s. 3347; Code, s. 54; 1885, c. 126; 1913, c. 8; 1915, c. 243, ss. 9, 11.

4312. Certain fires to be guarded by watchman. All persons, firms or corporations who shall burn any tar kiln or pit of charcoal, or set fire to or burn any brush, grass or other material, whereby any property may be endangered or destroyed, shall keep and maintain a careful and competent watchman in charge of such kiln, pit, brush or other material while burning. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not exceeding thirty days. Fire escaping from such kiln, pit, brush or other material while burning shall be prima facie evidence of neglect of these provisions.

4313. Burning or otherwise destroying crops in the field. If any person shall willfully burn or destroy any other person's corn, cotton, wheat, barley, rye, oats, buckwheat, rice, tobacco, hay, straw, fodder, shucks or other provender in a stack, hill, rick or pen, or secured in any other way out of doors, or grass or sedge standing on the land, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state's prison for not less than four months nor more than five years.

Rev., s. 3339; 1885, c. 42; 1874-5, c. 133; Code, s. 985, subsec. 2.

4314. Local: Removing dog-tongue and certain other products from another's land. If any person shall enter upon and remove from the lands of any other person, without first obtaining permission from the landowner, any dog-tongue (or vanilla), whortleberries or other fruits, or any other marketable product of the soil, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that this section shall apply to the counties of Sampson and Duplin only.

- Rev., s. 3683; 1889, c. 77.

4315. Injuries to dams and water channels of mills and factories. If any person shall cut away, destroy or otherwise injure any dam, or part thereof, or shall obstruct or damage any race, canal or other water channel erected, opened, used or constructed for the purpose of furnishing water for the operation of any mill, factory or machine works, or for the escape of water therefrom, he shall, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

- Rev., s. 3678; Code, s. 1057; 1866, c. 48.

Placing obstructions in a mill-race below mill is not a violation of this section: State v. Tomlinson, 77-528. Section cited in State v. Suttle, 115-788.

4316. Taking unlawful possession of another's house. If any person shall enter upon the lands of another and take possession of any house or other building thereon, without permission of the owner or his agent and without a bona fide claim of right or title so to enter and take possession, and shall fail or refuse to vacate such premises within ten days after being notified personally in writing to do so, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

- Rev., s. 3685; 1893, c. 347.

See annotations under section 4305.

4317. Injuring houses, churches, fences and walls. If any person shall, by any other means than burning or attempting to burn, unlawfully and willfully demolish, destroy, deface, injure or damage any of the houses or other buildings mentioned in this chapter in the article entitled Arson and Other Burnings; or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, demolish, pull down, destroy, deface, damage or injure any church, uninhabited house, outhouse or other house or building not mentioned in such article; or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, destroy, pull down, injure or remove any fence, wall or other inclosure, or any part thereof, surrounding or about any yard, garden, cultivated field or pasture, or about any church or graveyard, or about any factory or other house in which machinery is used, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

- Rev., s. 3673; Code, s. 1062; R. C., c. 34, s. 102.

Under an indictment for arson, where a special verdict is rendered making defendant guilty hereunder, court may proceed to judgment as for a misdemeanor: State v. Clark, 52-167.

To be guilty hereunder defendant must be guilty of a trespass, and to be guilty of a trespass he must act wilfully and unlawfully: State v. McCracken, 118-1240; State v. Watson, 86-626;
State v. Headrick, 48-375; State v. Williams, 44-197—and a mortgagor in possession after a sale under the mortgage is not a trespasser, and is not guilty hereunder, State v. Jones, 129-508. Act of removing fence justified under judgment to establish a cartway: State v. Hardy, 158-652.

Indictment hereunder cannot be supported by proof that the act was done by owner or his tenant: State v. Mace, 65-344; see, also, State v. Williams, 44-197; State v. Watson, 86-626—but the landlord is guilty if he removes a fence over the protest of his tenant, State v. Piper, 89-551. Lessee not indictable hereunder for injury to house during the continuance of his term: State v. Whitener, 92-798.

Where state shows actual possession in the prosecutor, defendant cannot exculpate himself by showing title to the land upon which the fence, etc., was situated: State v. Taylor, 172-892; State v. Campbell, 133-640; State v. Fender, 125-649; State v. Howell, 107-835; State v. Marsh, 91-632; State v. Piper, 89-551; State v. Hovis, 76-117; State v. Graham, 53-397.

INTENT. Party who by mistake builds houses on land of another, and pulls them down while still in possession, is not guilty hereunder: State v. Reynolds, 95-616. If the act is done by one under direction or by permission of another whom he honestly supposes the owner of the premises, he is not guilty: State v. Roseman, 70-235. As to removal by town marshal, see State v. Goodwin, 145-461.

INDICTMENT. Must allege possession in actual possessor: State v. Whitener, 92-798; State v. Mason, 35-341. Must aver that fence or wall surrounds or incloses the field: State v. Biggers, 108-760. Where trespass is upon a garden it should be so charged: State v. McMinn, 81-585.

EVIDENCE. As to bona fide claim to the locus in quo admissible to explain possession of defendant, see State v. Reynolds, 95-616; State v. Roseman, 66-634—also evidence of a claim of a bona fide agreement to remove a fence admissible, State v. McCracken, 118-1240. Under indictment for removing fence, evidence that defendant was acting for another inadmissible: State v. Campbell, 133-640. The manner, occasion, circumstances attending the doing of the injury make evidence going to prove that the intent was willful or otherwise: State v. Howell, 107-835; State v. Whitener, 93-590; State v. Marsh, 91-632; State v. Watson, 86-626; State v. Hovis, 76-117.

ACT OF 1846, CH. 70. This act reduces burning of a barn from a felony to a misdemeanor: State v. Upchurch, 31-454. Under it a person may be convicted for removing fence around a field in course of preparation for cultivation: State v. Allen, 35-36. Indictment must allege possession in actual possessor: State v. Mason, 35-341. To be guilty under this act one must be guilty of a trespass: State v. Headrick, 48-375. Does not extend to persons in rightful possession of premises, as quasi tenant: State v. Williams, 44-197.

4318. Injuring bridges. If any person shall unlawfully and willfully demolish, destroy, break, tear down, injure or damage any bridge across any of the creeks or rivers or other streams in the state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3771; Code, s. 993; 1883, e. 271.

4319. Removing, altering or defacing landmarks. If any person, firm or corporation shall knowingly remove, alter or deface any landmark in anywise whatsoever, or shall knowingly cause such removal, alteration or defacement to be done, such person, firm or corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to landmarks, such as creeks and other small streams, which the interest of agriculture may require to be altered or turned from their channels, nor to such persons, firms or corporations as own the fee simple in the lands on both sides of the lines designated by the landmarks removed, altered or defaced. Nor shall this section apply to those adjoining landowners who may by agreement remove, alter or deface landmarks in which they alone are interested.

Rev., s. 3674; Code, s. 1063; 1858-9, c. 17; 1915, c. 248.

A wooden stake set as a mark is within this section: State v. Jenkins, 164-527.

Indictment charging that "one A. B., with force and arms, wilfully and unlawfully did alter, deface and remove a certain corner tree, the property of C.," etc., is sufficient: State v. Bryant, 111-693—and it is not necessary to negative the matter contained in the proviso hereunder, Ibid.

4320. Removing or defacing monuments and tombstones. If any person shall, unlawfully and on purpose, remove from its place any monument of marble, stone, brass, wood or other material, erected for the purpose of designating the spot where any dead body is interred, or for the purpose of preserving and perpetuating the memory, name, fame, birth, age or death of any person, whether situated in or out of the common burying ground, or shall unlawfully and on purpose break or deface such monument, or alter the letters, marks or inscription thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Where owner of land consents, expressly or impliedly, to the burying of dead bodies upon his land, he has no right afterwards to remove the bodies or deface or remove monuments, etc., erected to their memory: State v. Wilson, 94-1015.

Sufficiency of indictment generally: Ibid. Not necessary to designate name of person whose tomb has been defaced: Ibid. Not necessary to charge in terms that dead body was that of a human being: Ibid.

Evidence sufficient to go to jury as to guilt, see Ibid.

4321. Interfering with graveyards. If any person shall unlawfully take away any stone, brick, iron or other material that encloses private graveyards, or shall cut or keep open any ditch or drainway, or put any permanent log or other obstruction not intended as a monument to a grave in such graveyards, or knowingly plow over and tear up any grave, or shall remove or change the location of any fence around such graveyard without the consent of such person or persons as may have parents, children or brothers or sisters buried therein, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3681; 1889, c. 130; 1919, c. 218.

4322. Disturbing graves. If any person shall, without due process of law, or the consent of the surviving husband or wife or the next of kin of the deceased, and of the person having the control of such grave, open any grave for the purpose of taking therefrom any dead body, or any part thereof buried therein, or anything interred therewith, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3072; 1885, c. 90.

The opening of the grave for purpose of removing anything interred therein is conclusive as to the intent: State v. McLean, 121-589. Mayor of town counseling commissioners that they had right to remove bodies, etc., guilty in this case: Ibid.

4323. Interfering with gas, electric and steam appliances. If any person shall willfully, with intent to injure or defraud, commit any of the acts set forth in the following subsections, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor:
1. Connect a tube, pipe, wire or other instrument or contrivance with a pipe or wire used for conducting or supplying illuminating gas, fuel, natural gas or electricity in such a manner as to supply such gas or electricity to any burner, orifice, lamp or motor where the same is or can be burned or used without passing through the meter or other instrument provided for registering the quantity consumed; or,

2. Obstruct, alter, injure or prevent the action of a meter or other instrument used to measure or register the quantity of illuminating fuel, natural gas or electricity consumed in a house or apartment, or at an orifice or burner, lamp or motor, or by a consumer or other person other than an employee of the company owning any gas or electric meter, who willfully shall detach or disconnect such meter, or make or report any test of, or examine for the purpose of testing any meter so detached or disconnected; or,

3. In any manner whatever change, extend or alter any service or other pipe, wire or attachment of any kind, connecting with or through which natural or artificial gas or electricity is furnished from the gas mains or pipes of any person, without first procuring from said person written permission to make such change, extension or alterations; or,

4. Make any connection or reconnection with the gas mains, service pipes or wires of any person, furnishing to consumers natural or artificial gas or electricity, or turn on or off or in any manner interfere with any valve or stop-cock or other appliance belonging to such person, and connected with his service or other pipes or wires, or enlarge the orifice of mixers, or use natural gas for heating purposes except through mixers, or electricity for any purpose without first procuring from such person a written permit to turn on or off such stop-cock or valve, or to make such connection or reconnections, or to enlarge the orifice of mixers, or to use for heating purposes without mixers, or to interfere with the valves, stop-cocks, wires or other appliances of such, as the case may be; or

5. Retain possession of or refuse to deliver any mixer, meter, lamp or other appliance which may be leased or rented by any person, for the purpose of furnishing gas, electricity or power through the same, or sell, lend or in any other manner dispose of the same to any person other than such person entitled to the possession of the same; or,

6. Set on fire any gas escaping from wells, broken or leaking mains, pipes, valves or other appliances used by any person in conveying gas to consumers, or interfere in any manner with the wells, pipes, mains, gate-boxes, valves, stop-cocks, wires, cables, conduits or any other appliances, machinery or property of any person engaged in furnishing gas to consumers unless employed by or acting under the authority and direction of such person; or,

7. Open or cause to be opened, or reconnect or cause to be reconnected any valve lawfully closed or disconnected by a district steam corporation; or, anything appertaining to the works of any gas company, or shall use, tamper or interfere with the same, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days for such offense. Such person shall also forfeit and pay to the company so injured, to be sued for and recovered in a civil action, double the amount of the damages sustained by any such injury.

Rev., s. 3671; 1889 (Pr.), c. 35, s. 3.

4325. Tampering with engines and boilers. If any person shall willfully turn out water from any boiler or turn the bolts of any engine or boiler, or meddle or tamper with such boiler or engine, or any other machinery in connection with any boiler or engine, causing loss, damage, danger or delay to the owner in the prosecution of his work, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3667; 1901, c. 733.

4326. Injuring wires and other fixtures of telephone, telegraph and electric-power companies. Rev., s. 3847; Code, s. 1118; 1881, c. 4; 1883, c. 108; 1907, c. 827, s. 1.

4327. Making unauthorized connections with telephone and telegraph wires. It shall be unlawful for any person to tap or make any connection with any wire or apparatus of any telephone or telegraph company operating in this state, except such connection as may be authorized by the person or corporation operating such wire or apparatus. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than ten days for each offense. Each day's continuance of such unlawful connection shall be a separate offense.

4328. Injuring fixtures and other property of electric-power companies. It shall be unlawful for any person willfully and wantonly, and without the consent of the owner, to take down, remove, injure, obstruct, displace or destroy any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current, or any poles, towers, wires, conduits, cables, insulators or any support upon which wires or cables may be suspended, or any part of any such line or appurtenances or apparatus connected therewith, or to sever any wire or cable thereof, or in any manner to interrupt the transmission of electrical current over and along any such line, or to take down, remove, injure or destroy any house, shop, building or other structure or machinery connected with or necessary to the use of any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current, or to wantonly or willfully cause injury to any of the property mentioned in this section by means of fire. Rev., s. 3849; 1903, c. 616; 1907, c. 827, s. 2.

4330. Interfering with telephone lines. If any person shall unnecessarily disconnect the wire or in any other way render any telephone line, or any part of such line, unfit for use in transmitting messages, or shall unnecessarily cut, tear down, destroy or in any way render unfit for the transmission of messages any part of the wire of a telephone line, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned for a term not exceeding two years, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3845; 1901, c. 318.

ART. 23. TRESPASSES TO PERSONAL PROPERTY

4331. Malicious injury to personal property. If any person shall wantonly and willfully injure the personal property of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, whether the property be destroyed or not, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3676; Code, s. 1082; 1885, c. 58; 1876-7, c. 18.

A promissory note or a due bill is "personal property" within meaning of this section: State v. Sneed, 121-614—so also an electric street car, State v. Martin, 141-832.

The offense here created may be committed jointly by two persons, one doing the act and the other, as principal, aiding and abetting him, or participating with him: Ibid.

Indictment which charges that the act was "wantonly and wilfully" done is sufficient: State v. Martin, 107-904. Indictment which charged the killing of a hog "unlawfully and on purpose" cannot be sustained hereunder: State v. Tweedy, 115-704. Since the act of 1885, ch. 53, it is unnecessary to allege or prove any malice toward owner of the personal property: State v. Sneed, 121-614. Proof of injury to an ox will not support an indictment charging injury to a cow: State v. Hill, 79-656. Wounding cattle maliciously was not an indictable offense at common law: State v. Manuel, 72-201. Owner of dog has such property in him as will sustain indictment for injury to property: State v. Latham, 35-33.

Section cited in State v. Avery, 109-798. Compare, as to meaning of words "wanton" and "wilful," State v. Brigman, 94-888. As to necessity to lay the property truly in indictment, a variance in that respect being fatal: State v. Mason, 35-341; State v. Hill, 79-656.

4332. Malicious removal of packing from railway coaches and other rolling stock. If any person shall willfully and maliciously take or remove the waste or packing from the journal box of any locomotive, engine, tender, carriage, coach, car, caboose or truck used or operated upon any railroad, whether the same be operated by steam or electricity, he shall upon conviction thereof be fined or imprisoned in the jail or state's prison, in the discretion of the court.

4333. Removing boats or their fixtures and appliances. If any person shall take away from any landing or other place where the same shall be, or shall loose, unmoor, or turn adrift from the same, any boat, canoe, pettiaugua, oars, paddles, sails or tackle belonging to or in the lawful custody of any person; or if any person shall direct the same to be done without the consent of the owner, or the person having the custody or possession of such property, he shall forfeit and pay to such owner, or person having the custody and possession as aforesaid, the sum of two dollars, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, in the discretion of the court. The owner may also have his action for such injury. The penalties aforesaid shall not extend to any person who shall press any such property by public authority.

Rev., s. 3544; Code, s. 2288; 1889, c. 378; R. C. c. 14, ss. 1, 3.

4334. Injuring livestock not inclosed by lawful fence. If any person shall willfully and unlawfully kill or abuse any horse, mule, hog, sheep or other cattle, the property of another, in any inclosure not surrounded by a lawful fence, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3313; Code, s. 1003; 1868-9, c. 253.

Case of interest hereunder: State v. Godfrey, 97-507.

4335. Taking away or injuring exhibits at fairs. If any person, without the license of the owner, or any agricultural or other society, shall unlawfully carry away, remove, destroy, mar, deface or injure anything, animate or inanimate, while on exhibition on the grounds of any such society, or going to or returning from the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. It shall be sufficient in any indictment for any such offense, or for the larceny of any such thing, animate or inanimate as aforesaid, to charge that the thing so carried away, destroyed, marred, injured or feloniously stolen is the property of the society to which the said thing shall be forwarded for exhibition.

Rev., s. 3668; Code, s. 2796; 1870-1, c. 184, s. 4.

For fraudulent entries at fairs, see section 4289.

SUBCHAPTER 8. OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALITY AND DECENCY

ART. 24. OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALITY AND DECENCY

4336. Crime against nature. If any person shall commit the abominable and detestable crime against nature, with mankind or beast, he shall be imprisoned in the state’s prison not less than five nor more than sixty years.

Rev., s. 3349; Code, s. 1010; R. C., c. 34, s. 6; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 6; 5 Eliz., c. 17; 25 Hen. VIII, c. 6.

What constitutes the crime under this section: State v. Griffin, 175-767; State v. Fenner, 166-247. Defendant may be convicted of an attempt to commit the crime: State v. Savage, 161-245.
4337. Incest between certain near relatives. In all cases of carnal intercourse between grandparent and grandchild, parent and child, and brother and sister of the half or whole blood, the parties shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished for every such offense by imprisonment in the state's prison for a term not exceeding fifteen years, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3351; Code, s. 1060; 1879, c. 16, s. 1; 1911, c. 16.

Amended by 1911, ch. 16, the law is not repealed, but offenses before amendment are punished under original section: State v. Broadway, 157-598.

As to indictment, see State v. Lawrence, 96-659.

Wife's confession to husband, under his threats, that she committed incest is not admissible: State v. Brittain, 117-783—nor like confessions to third party in husband's presence, Ibid.

4338. Incest between uncle and niece and nephew and aunt. In all cases of carnal intercourse between uncle and niece, and nephew and aunt, the parties shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3352; Code, s. 1061; 1879, c. 16, s. 2.

4339. Seduction. If any man shall seduce an innocent and virtuous woman under promise of marriage, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court, and may be imprisoned in the state prison not exceeding the term of five years: Provided, the unsupported testimony of the woman shall not be sufficient to convict: Provided further, that marriage between the parties shall be a bar to further prosecution hereunder. But when such marriage is relied upon by the defendant, it shall operate as to the costs of the case as a plea of nolo contendere, and the defendant shall be required to pay all the costs of the action or be liable to imprisonment for nonpayment of the same.

Rev., s. 3354; 1885, c. 248; 1917, c. 39.

Section contemplates a seduction under promise of marriage in the nature of deceit: State v. Horton, 100-443.

Essentials to convict: State v. Cline, 170-751. The defendant, if of marriageable age, may be convicted: State v. Creed, 171-837.

Deceit being of the essence of seduction under promise of marriage, section 4512 excepts it from the two-year statute of limitations: State v. Crowell, 116-1052.

Consent is no defense, if seduction proved: State v. Horton, 100-443.

The words "innocent and virtuous woman" interpreted: State v. Whitley, 141-823; State v. Crowell, 116-1052; State v. Ferguson, 107-841.

Punishment may be by fine or imprisonment, but not both: State v. Crowell, 116-1052.

Counsel allowed to comment upon fact that defendant admitted to prosecutrix that he had intercourse with another woman: State v. Kineald, 142-657.

EVIDENCE. As to sufficiency: State v. Fulcher, 176-724; State v. Cooke, 176-731; State v. Ferguson, 107-841; State v. Horton, 100-443; State v. Ring, 142-596. Corroborating testi-4340. Miscegenation. All marriages between a white person and a negro, or between a white person and a person of negro descent to the third generation inclusive, are forever prohibited, and shall be void. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of an infamous crime, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state's prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3369; Code, s. 1084; Const., Art. XIV, s. 8; R. C., c. 68, s. 7; 1834, c. 24; 1838-9, c. 24.

This section was not affected by changes in the federal and state constitutions, nor by the civil rights bill: State v. Hairston, 63-451; Puitt v. Comrs., 94-709; State v. Reinhardt, 63-547.

Marriage solemnized in a state whose laws permit such marriage between a negro and white person, domiciled in such state, is valid in this state: State v. Ross, 76-242—but such marriage solemnized out of this state, with intent to evade our laws, is void, State v. Ross, 76-242; State v. Kenney, 76-251.

As to evidence, see Hopkins v. Bowers, 111-175.

4341. Issuing license for marriage between white person and negro; performing marriage ceremony. If any register of deeds shall knowingly issue any license for marriage between any person of color and a white person; or if any clergyman, minister of the gospel or justice of the peace shall knowingly marry any such person of color to a white person, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

4342. Bigamy. If any person, being married, shall marry any other person during the life of the former husband or wife, every such offender, and every person counseling, aiding or abetting such offender, shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state’s prison or county jail for any term not less than four months nor more than ten years. Any such offense may be dealt with, tried, determined and punished in the county where the offender shall be apprehended, or be in custody, as if the offense had been actually committed in that county. If any person, being married, shall contract a marriage with any other person outside of this state, which marriage would be punishable as bigamous if contracted within this state, and shall thereafter cohabit with such person in this state, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished as in cases of bigamy. Nothing contained in this section shall extend to any person marrying a second time, whose husband or wife shall have been continually absent from such person for the space of seven years then last past, and shall not have been known by such person to have been living within that time; nor to any person who at the time of such second marriage shall have been lawfully divorced from the bond of the first marriage; nor to any person whose former marriage shall have been declared void by the sentence of any court of competent jurisdiction.

Rev., s. 3361; Code, s. 988; R. C., c. 34, s. 15; 1790, c. 323; 1809, c. 783; 1829, c. 9; 1913,
c. 26. See 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, s. 22.

JURISDICTION. Where offense committed outside of state there is no jurisdiction: State
v. Ray, 151-710 (but see change in section as to living as man and wife in this state); State
v. Cutshall, 110-538; State v. Burnett, 83-615. The punishment is not for bigamy in another state, but for living together here in bigamous cohabitation: State v. Moon, 178-715. Venue in county where defendant may be apprehended: Ibid.; State v. Ray, 151-710 (but see State
v. Bray, 35-289, saying must be in county where second marriage took place)—and where wrong county, plea in abatement is proper remedy where permissible, State v. Long, 143-671.

INDICTMENT. As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Long, 143-670; State v. Connor, 142-707; State v. Goulden, 134-743; State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Davis, 109-780;

State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Davis, 109-780. As to variance in name of first wife, see see also, section 4613.

BURDEN OF PROOF. Where want of mental capacity is relied on as defense, burden is on defendant to satisfy jury that he had not sufficient capacity to know right from wrong:
State v. Davis, 109-780. Burden on defendant to show valid divorce or seven years absence of the other party to the marriage: State v. Herron, 175-754; State v. Long, 143-671; State
v. Goulden, 134-744—and that he did not know first wife was living, Ibid. Burden on defendant to show second marriage took place in another state: State v. Long, 143-671.

EVIDENCE. Second wife is a competent witness either for or against husband: State v.
Patterson, 24-346. First wife competent to prove her marriage: State v. Melton, 130-591.
Proof of first marriage may be made by admission of defendant or by circumstantial evidence:
State v. Goulden, 134-743; State v. Wylde, 110-500. As to use of marriage license in proving fact of marriage, see State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Davis, 109-780. Record of marriages mony by de facto justice is valid: State v. Davis, 109-780.

No defense that at first marriage defendant had no license: State v. Robbins, 28-23. Ignorance of law, and advice that defendant's first marriage was not valid, are no defenses: Ibid.

4343. Fornication and adultery. If any man and woman, not being married to each other, shall lewdly and lasciviously associate, bed and cohabit together, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that the admissions or confessions of one shall not be received in evidence against the other.

Reinhart, 106-787—except when the intent is not the same, when one may be acquitted and the other convicted, State v. Cutshall, 109-764, overruling in part State v. Mainor, 28-340; State v. Simpson, 133-676—but in an indictment against two, one may be convicted and punished without, or before, any conviction of the other, State v. Lyerly, 52-158; State v. Parham, 50-416.

Rev., s. 3577; Code, s. 1022; R. C., c. 34, s. 35; 1791, c. 343, s. 1; 1905, c. 350.

Escape defined: State v. Ritchie, 107-857; State v. Johnson, 94-924.

This section contemplates two kinds of escape—one the result of negligence and the other the result of wilful act of officer: State v. McLain, 104-894. Actual negligence the test of guilt when negligence charged: State v. Johnson, 94-924—and it is implied when prisoner escapes; exceptions, Ibid. Officer must use due diligence and good faith to keep prisoner, and as to whether he did is a question for the jury: State v. Blackley, 131-726; State v. Lewis, 113-622; State v. Hunter, 94-829. Failure to put handcuffs on prisoner is not negligence per se: Ibid.

Not necessary to charge in indictment that escape was 'wilfully' or 'unlawfully' permitted, but that it is 'negligently' permitted is sufficient: State v. McLain, 104-894. Indictment lies at common law for an escape independently of this section: State v. Ritchie, 107-857; State v. Johnson, 94-924. It will not be quashed on the ground that the judgment against prisoner committed was illegal: State v. Garrell, 82-581.

Where escape pending appeal, appeal will not be dismissed, but may be continued till prisoner retaken: State v. Cody, 119-908; State v. Jacobs, 107-772; State v. Pickett, 94-97—or court can proceed, and judgment will not be invalid simply because prisoner was not in custody or before the court, State v. Jacobs, 107-772.

Procedure where prisoner under death sentence escapes and is not recaptured before date set for execution, see State v. Cardwell, 95-643.

When escape proved or admitted, burden to show that it was not unlawfully allowed or that there was no negligence shifts to defendant: State v. Lewis, 113-622; State v. Kittelle, 110-573; State v. Hunter, 94-829.

Compare, as to indictment charging that prisoner was lawfully detained, State v. Jones, 78-420.

4394. Solicitor to prosecute officer for escape. It shall be the duty of solicitors, when they shall be informed or have knowledge of any felon, or person otherwise charged with any crime or offense against the state, having within their respective districts escaped out of the custody of any sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, constable or jailer, to take the necessary measures to prosecute such sheriff or other officer so offending.

Rev., s. 2822; Code, s. 1023; R. C., c. 34, s. 36; 1791, c. 343, s. 2.

See annotations under section 4393.

4395. Disposing of public documents or refusing to deliver them over to successor. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court of each county, and every other person to whom the acts of the general assembly, supreme court reports or other public documents are transmitted or deposited for the use of the county or the state, to keep the same safely in their respective offices; and if any such person having the custody of such books and documents, for the uses aforesaid, shall negligently and willfully dispose of the same, by sale or otherwise, or refuse to deliver over the same to his successor in office, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3598; Code, s. 1073; 1881, c. 151.

4396. Failing to return process or making false return. If any sheriff, constable or other officer, whether state or municipal, or any person who shall presume to act as any such officer, not being by law authorized so to do, refuse or neglect to return any precept, notice or process, to him tendered or delivered, which it is his duty to execute, or make a false return thereon, he shall forfeit and pay to any one who will sue for the same one hundred dollars, and shall moreover be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3604; Code, s. 1112; R. C., c. 34, s. 118; 1818, c. 980, s. 3; 1827, c. 20, s. 4.

Not liable for penalty for declining to receive a process which at that time could not be served: Fentress v. Brown, 61-373.

Several penalties against the same defendant may be joined, and when they exceed $200 superior court has jurisdiction: Burrell v. Hughes, 116-431.

That the clerk of the court mailed a process to sheriff of another county is prima facie evidence that sheriff received it, and will support a judgment nisi, if there is no return of the process: State v. Latham, 51-233.

4397. Failing to surrender tax-list for inspection and correction. If any sheriff or tax collector shall refuse or fail to surrender his tax-list for inspection or correction upon demand by the authorities imposing the tax, or their successors in office, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not more than five years, and fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3579; 1901, c. 4, s. 62.

4399. Failure of ex-justice of the peace to turn over books and papers. If any justice of the peace, on expiration of his term of office, or if any personal representative of a deceased justice of the peace shall, after demand upon him by the clerk of the superior court, willfully fail and refuse to deliver to the clerk of the superior court all dockets, all law and other books, and all official papers which came into his hands by virtue or color of his office, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3578; Code, ss. 828, 829; 1885, c. 402.

Art. 30. MISCONDUCT IN PRIVATE OFFICE

4400. Failure of certain railroad officers to account with successors. All persons conspiring with any such president, directors or their agents to defeat, delay or hinder the execution of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished in like manner. The governor is hereby authorized, at the request of the president, directors and other officers of any railroad company, to make requisition upon the governor of any other state for the apprehension of any such president failing to comply with this section.

Rev., s. 3760; Code, ss. 2001, 2002; 1870-1, c. 72, ss. 1-3.

Art. 32. Offenses Against the Public Peace

4410. Carrying concealed weapons. If any one, except when on his own premises, shall carry concealed about his person any bowie-knife, dirk, dagger, slung-shot, loaded cane, brass, iron or metallic knuckles or razor or other deadly weapon of like kind, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court. If any one, except on his own premises, shall carry concealed about his person any pistol or gun, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than thirty days nor more than two years, at the discretion of the court. Upon conviction or submission the deadly weapon with reference to which the defendant shall have been convicted shall be condemned and ordered confiscated and destroyed by the judge presiding at the trial. If any one, not being on his own lands, shall have about his person any such deadly weapon, such possession shall be prima facie evidence of the concealment thereof. This section shall not apply to the following persons: officers and soldiers of the United States Army, civil officers of the United States while in the discharge of their official duties, officers and soldiers of the militia and the state guard when called into actual service, officers of the state, or of any county, city or town, charged with the execution of the laws of the state, when acting in the discharge of their official duties.

Rev., s. 3708; Code, s. 1006; 1917, c. 76; 1919, c. 197, s. 8.

This offense consists in the guilty intent to carry the weapon concealed, and does not depend upon the intent to use it: State v. Brown, 125-704; State v. Reams, 121-556; State v. Lilly, 116-1049; State v. Dixon, 114-850; State v. Brodnax, 91-543; State v. Gilbert, 87-527.

Carrying concealed weapons off one's premises is not excused even in self-defense: State v. Woodlief, 172-885; State v. Speller, 86-697—not is it excused when carried for hunting, State v. Woodfin, 87-526.

A person acting in ignorance of the law, in good faith, and upon the advice of the clerk of the court or an attorney, but in violation of the statute, is not excused: State v. Simmons, 143-613.
CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS—ART. 32

Whether or not weapon is concealed is a question for the jury: State v. Lilly, 116-1049; State v. Reams, 121-556. Defendant offering himself as witness may be asked if he has carried concealed weapon off his premises within the two years next preceding the indictment, and can be compelled to answer it, he having waived his constitutional privilege to refuse to incriminate himself: State v. Allen, 107-805; State v. Mitchel1, 119-784. A mere servant or hireling is indictable if he carry weapon concealed on his master's premises: State v. Dayton, 119-880.

A verdict "guilty of carrying concealed weapon in a suitcase" is not sufficient: State v. Parker, 102-790.

PRIMA FACIE CASE AND BURDEN OF PROOF. Where defendant has two pistols buckled around him, without scabbards and naked on a belt, the prima facie case of the statute is rebutted: State v. Roten, 86-701. Prima facie case raised by the statute may be rebutted, and is by a specific finding that the act was done without intent to conceal it: State v. Brown, 125-704; State v. Gilbert, 87-527; State v. Dixon, 114-850, overruling State v. Harrison, 93-905; State v. Brodnax, 91-543. Statute makes possession prima facie evidence of concealment, and the burden is upon the defendant to rebut the presumption by satisfactory proof to jury: State v. Hamby, 126-1006; State v. Reams, 121-556; State v. Lilly, 116-1049; State v. McManus, 89-555. As to effect of "prima facie evidence," see State v. Wilkerson, 164-432.

The burden is upon a civil officer to show that he was actually engaged in the discharge of his official duty: State v. Simmons, 143-613; State v. Hayne, 88-625. Section cited in State v. McNeely, 92-829; State v. Barrett, 138-635; State v. Divine, 98-784; State v. McBrayer, 98-626. Compare State v. Wilson, 84-777.

4411. Sending, accepting or bearing challenges to fight duels. If any person shall send, accept or bear a challenge to fight a duel, though no death ensue, he, and all such as counsel, aid and abet him, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, moreover, be ineligible to any office of trust, honor or profit in the state, any pardon or reprieve notwithstanding.

For fighting a duel when death ensues, see section 4203. Duel defined to be a combat between two persons, fought with deadly weapons by agreement: State v. Fritz, 133-727. Challenge may be by word or letter: State v. Farrier, 8-487. A challenge to fight with fists and hands, no deadly weapon to be used, is not a challenge to fight a duel: State v. Fritz, 133-725. A challenge to fight a duel out of the state is indictable: State v. Farrier, 8-487. Jurisdiction is in superior court, but on indictment in superior court accused may be found guilty and convicted of a simple assault: State v. Fritz, 133-725—and punishment should be such as justice of the peace could inflict, Ibid.

Indictment need not set out copy of challenge: State v. Farrier, 8-487.

4412. Engaging in and betting on prize fights. If any two or more persons engage in a prize fight, sparring match or glove or fist contest for money or other valuable prize or stake; or if any person bet or lay a wager on the result thereof or advise, aid or abet in any way whatever in promoting the same, he shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the state's prison or jail for not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3707; 1895, c. 28, ss. 1-4.

Governor to prevent prize fights, see section 7636 (6).

4413. Disturbing picnics, entertainments and other meetings. If any person shall willfully interrupt or disturb any picnic, excursion party, school entertainment, political meeting, or any meeting or other organization whatsoever lawfully and peaceably held, either at, within or without the place where such picnic, excursion party, school entertainment, political meeting or other meeting or organization is held, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3704; 1897, c. 213.

Wilful disturbance of Sunday school is indictable at common law and under the statute: State v. Branner, 149-559. Disturbing a religious meeting at a private residence is indictable: State v. Starnes, 151-724.

4414. Disturbing schools and scientific and temperance meetings; injuring property of schools and temperance societies. If any person shall willfully interrupt or disturb any public or private school or temperance society or organization or any meeting lawfully and peacefully held for the purpose of literary and scientific improvement, or for the discussion of temperance or question of moral reform, either within or without the place where such meeting or school is held, or injure any school building, or deface any school furniture, apparatus or other school property, or property of any temperance society or organization, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3888; Code, s. 2592; 1885, c. 140; 1901, c. 4, s. 28.

Claiming the right to occupy a schoolhouse and refusing to surrender it to one elected to teach a public school thereat, and thus preventing the school's being held there, is not interrupting or disturbing a public school within this section: State v. Spray, 113-686.
Section cited: State v. Cooper, 104-890.

4415. Disturbing religious congregations. If any person shall be intoxicated or shall be guilty of any rude and disorderly conduct at any place where people are accustomed to meet for divine worship, and while the people are there assembled for such worship, whether such worship should have begun or not, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3706; 1901, c. 738.

DECISIONS ON SIMILAR STATUTES. To make the disturbance indictable the people must have collected together at or about the time and at the place where the public worship is to take place: State v. Bryson, 82-576. Disturbing a congregation engaged in public worship is indictable, though it be not in a church, chapel or meeting-house especially set apart for that purpose: State v. Ramsey, 78-448; State v. Swink, 20-492—in private house, State v. Starnes, 151-724. Disturbing Sunday school: State v. Branner, 149-559.

Not indictable if the disturbance takes place after the service is over: State v. Davis, 126-1059; State v. Ramsey, 78-448; State v. Fisher, 25-111. Where two men fight near a church and a third party runs to church and calls out, "They are fighting at the fire," the two men are not guilty hereunder: State v. Kirby, 108-772.

Disturbance of a church congregation by singing is not indictable where the singer is taking part conscientiously in the service: State v. Ramsey, 78-448; State v. Linkhaw, 69-215.

4416. Detectives going armed in a body. If any body of men composed of more than three persons, calling themselves detectives or claiming to be in the employ of any detective agency or known and designated as detectives, shall go armed, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3703; 1803, c. 191.
4417. Malicious injury of property of railroads and other carriers; causing death or other physical injury thereby. If any person shall willfully and maliciously put or place any matter or thing upon, over or near any railroad track; or shall willfully and maliciously destroy, injure or remove the road-bed, or any part thereof, or any rail, sill or other part of the fixture appurtenant to or constituting or supporting any portion of the track of such railroad; or shall willfully and maliciously do any other thing with intent to obstruct, stop, hinder, delay or displace the cars traveling on such road, or to stop, hinder or delay the passengers or others passing over the same; or shall willfully and maliciously injure the road-bed or the fixtures aforesaid, or any part thereof, with any other intent whatsoever, such person so offending shall be guilty of a felony and shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars nor less than two hundred dollars, and be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, and shall be committed to jail till he find surety for his good behavior, for a space of time of not less than three nor more than seven years. If it shall happen that by reason of the commission of the offenses aforesaid, or any of them, any engine or car shall be displaced from the track, or shall be stopped, hindered or delayed, so that any one thereby be instantly killed, or so wounded or hurt as to die therefrom in twelve calendar months thereafter, or shall thereby be maimed or disabled in the use of any limb or member, then, and in every such case, the party so offending, his counselors, aiders and abettors, on conviction, shall suffer death, if the person is killed, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than five nor more than sixty years if the person is maimed or disabled. If it shall happen that by reason of the commission of any such offense any person shall be instantly killed, or so wounded or hurt as to die therefrom in twelve calendar months thereafter, or shall thereby be maimed or disabled in the use of any limb or member, then, and in every such case, the party so offending, his counselors, aiders and abettors, shall be imprisoned not less than twelve months, and fined at the discretion of the court.

SUBCHAPTER 12. GENERAL POLICE REGULATIONS

Art. 34. Lotteries and Gaming

4427. Advertising lotteries. If any one, by writing or printing or by circular or letter or in any other way, advertise or publish an account of a lottery, whether within or without this state, stating how, when or where the same is to be or has been drawn, or what are the prizes therein or any of them, or the price of a ticket or any share or interest therein, or where or how it may be obtained, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3725; 1887, c. 211.

4428. Dealing in lotteries. If any person shall open, set on foot, carry on, promote, make or draw, publicly or privately, a lottery, by whatever name, style or title the same may be denominated or known; or if any person, by such way and means, expose or set to sale any house, real estate, goods, chattels, cash, written evidence of debt, certificates of claims or any other thing of value whatsoever, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding two thousand dollars or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or both, in the discretion of the court. Any person who engages in disposing of any species of property whatsoever, including money and evidences of debt, 4429. Selling lottery tickets and acting as agent for lotteries. If any person shall sell, barter or otherwise dispose of any lottery ticket or order for any number or shares in any lottery, or shall in anywise be concerned in such lottery, by acting as agent in the state for or on behalf of any such lottery, to be drawn or paid either out of or within the state, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished as provided for in the preceding section.

4430. Gambling. If any person play at any game of chance at which any money, property or other thing of value is bet, whether the same be in stake or not, both those who play and those who bet thereon shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3715; 1891, c. 29.

Punishment in Avery county, see P. L. 1919, c. 105. For dealing in futures, see sections 2147-2149.

Defendant "did unlawfully and wilfully play at a game of cards at which money was bet," held to sufficiently describe a game of chance: State v. Taylor, 111-680.

"Ten-pins" not a "game of chance" within this section: State v. King, 113-631; see, also, State v. Gupton, 30-271. A "raffle" is a "game of chance": State v. DeBoy, 117-702. As to games of chance generally, see Ibid. All who participate in game of chance are principals: Ibid.

Indictment may charge the offense hereunder together with the offense of keeping and maintaining a gaming house: State v. Morgan, 133-743—and state need not make election, Ibid.

Witnesses may be compelled to testify, although their testimony tends to criminate them, as they are pardoned under section 1800: State v. Morgan, 133-743.

Infant under fourteen playing at "shooting craps," not knowing it to be unlawful, but knowing right from wrong, not guilty: State v. Yeargan, 117-706.

Indictment charging that defendant did unlawfully play at a game of cards, without charging that he bet on the game, is defective: State v. Brannen, 55-208.

4431. Allowing gambling in houses of public entertainment; duty of police officers; penalty. If any keeper of an ordinary or other house of entertainment, or of a house wherein liquors are retailed, shall knowingly suffer any game, at which money or property, or anything of value, is bet, whether the same be in stake or not, to be played in any such house, or in any part of the premises occupied therewith; or shall furnish persons so playing or betting either on said premises or elsewhere with drink or other thing for their comfort or subsistence during the time of play, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars and be imprisoned not less than six months.
Any person who shall be convicted under this section shall, upon such conviction, forfeit his license to do any of the businesses mentioned in this section, and shall be forever debarred from doing any of such businesses in this state. The court shall embody in its judgment that such person has forfeited his license, and no board of county commissioners, board of town commissioners or board of aldermen shall thereafter have power or authority to grant to such convicted person or his agent a license to do any of the businesses mentioned herein. It shall be the duty of every police officer of the cities, towns and villages of this state to make diligent inquiry and to exercise constant watchfulness to discover whether any of the offenses enumerated in this section are being committed, and to report once a week under oath to the mayor or other chief officer of his city, town or village, whether such offenses are being committed, and all the facts within his knowledge, or of which he has information relating thereto. If any such police officer shall know or have information that such offenses are being committed and shall fail or neglect to report the same to such mayor or other chief officer, together with all the information known to him, as to the person or persons committing the same, the time and place of the commission and the names of the witnesses thereto, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court, and shall forfeit his office. It shall be the duty of such mayor or other chief officer to require the report herein provided for, and to require that the same shall be verified by the oath of such policeman, and if it appear upon such report that any of the said offenses have been committed, it shall be the duty of such mayor or other chief officer to issue his warrant for the arrest of the offender. Any such mayor or other chief officer of any city, town or village who shall fail or neglect to require the reports herein mentioned, or shall fail or neglect to require of such police officer to verify the same upon oath, or who shall refuse or neglect, upon its appearing from such reports that there is probable cause to believe that any of the said offenses have been committed, to issue his warrant for the arrest of the offender, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person committing any of the offenses mentioned in this section shall be liable to a penalty of five hundred dollars, to be recovered by suit in the superior court in the county in which such offense may have been committed, one-half thereof to the use of the person bringing such suit and one-half to the school fund for the county.

Art. 35. Protection of Minors

4438. Selling cigarettes to minors. If any person shall sell, give away or otherwise dispose of, directly or indirectly, cigarettes, or tobacco in the form of cigarettes, or cut tobacco in any form or shape which may be used or intended to be used as a substitute for cigarettes, to any minor under the age of seventeen years; or if any person shall aid, assist or abet any other person in selling such articles to such minor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3804; 1891, c. 276.

4439. Aiding minors in procuring cigarettes; duty of police officers. If any person shall aid or assist any minor child under seventeen years old in obtaining the possession of cigarettes, or tobacco in any form used as a substitute therefor, by whatsoever name it may be called, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

It shall be the duty of every police officer, upon knowledge or information that any minor under the age of seventeen years is or has been smoking any cigarette, to inquire of any such minor the name of the person who sold or gave him such cigarette, or the substance from which it was made, or who aided and abetted in effecting such gift or sale. Upon receiving this information from any such minor, the officer shall forthwith cause a warrant to be issued for the person giving or selling, or aiding and abetting in the giving or selling of such cigarette or the substance out of which it was made, and have such person dealt with as the law directs. Any such minor who shall fail or refuse to give to any officer, upon inquiry, the name of the person selling or giving him such cigarette, or the substance out of which it was made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3865; 1891, c. 276, s. 2; 1913, c. 185.

4440. Selling or giving weapons to minors. If any person shall knowingly sell, offer for sale, give or in any way dispose of to a minor any pistol or pistol cartridge, brass knucks, bowie-knife, dirk, loaded cane or sling-shot, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3832; 1893, c. 514.

4441. Permitting young children to use dangerous firearms. Any person, being the parent or guardian of, or standing in loco parentis to, any child under the age of twelve years, who shall knowingly permit such child to have the possession or custody of, or use in any manner whatever, any gun, pistol or other dangerous firearm, whether such firearm be loaded or unloaded, or any other person who shall knowingly furnish such child any such firearm, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

4442. Permitting minors to enter barrooms, billiard rooms and bowling alleys. If the keeper or owner of any barroom, billiard room or bowling alley shall allow any minor to enter or remain in such barroom, billiard room or bowling alley, where before such minor enters or remains in such barroom, billiard room or bowling alley, the owner or keeper thereof has been notified by the parents or guardian of such minor not to allow him to enter or remain in such barroom, billiard room or bowling alley, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3729; 1897, c. 278.

4443. Exposing children to fire. If any person shall leave any child of the age of seven years or less locked or otherwise confined in any dwelling, building or enclosure, and go away from such dwelling, building or enclosure without leaving some person of the age of discretion in charge of the same, so as to expose the child to danger by fire, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3795; 1893, c. 12.

4444. Marrying females under fourteen years old. If any person shall marry a female under the age of fourteen years, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3368; Code, s. 1083; R. C., c. 34, s. 46; 1820, c. 1041, ss. 1, 2.

4445. Separating child under six months old from mother. It shall be unlawful for any person to separate or aid in separating any child under six months old from its mother for the purpose of placing such child in a foster home or institution, or with the intent to remove it from the state for such purpose, unless the consent in writing for such separation shall have been obtained from the clerk of the superior court and the county health officer of the county in which the mother resides, or of the county in which the child was born; and it shall be unlawful for any mother to surrender her child for such purpose without first having obtained such consent. Any person violating this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars or imprisoned for one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

4446. Failing to pay minors for doing certain work. Whenever any person, having a contract with any corporation, company or person for the manufacture or change of any raw material by the piece or pound, shall employ any minor to assist in the work upon the faith of and by color of such contract, with intent to cheat and defraud such minor, and, having secured the contract price, shall willfully fail to pay the minor when he shall have performed his part of the contract work, whether done by the day or by the job, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3428a; 1898, c. 309.
Art. 36. Protection of the Family

4447. Abandonment of family by husband. If any husband shall willfully abandon his wife without providing adequate support for such wife, and the children which he may have begotten upon her, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3355; Code, s. 970; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 1; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 10; 1879, c. 92.

There must be a wilful abandonment and a failure to support: State v. Taylor, 175-833; State v. Smith, 164-475. Abandonment and failure to support are both essential, and they must have occurred in this state: State v. Toney, 162-635; but see State v. Kerby, 110-558, where failure to support children is sufficient to establish guilt. To constitute abandonment it is not necessary that husband should leave the state: Witty v. Barham, 147-479. Consent of wife to separation is not abandonment, but subsequent acts may constitute it: Ibid. "Wilful abandonment" construed: State v. Deaton, 65-496. Wife guilty of adultery, husband not liable for abandonment: State v. Hopkins, 130-647.

Statute of limitations bars indictment after two years from separation: State v. Davis, 79-603. Abandonment is not a continuous offense for which husband can be twice indicted; the act of separation being the gist of the offense: State v. Davis, 79-603; State v. Dunston, 78-418. When the first abandonment might be barred by the statute, a new abandonment within the time would sustain the charge: State v. Hannon, 168-215. If, upon trial for abandonment of wife and children, husband agrees to support them and does not, this is a new abandonment for which he may be indicted: State v. Davis, 79-603.

Competent for wife to testify as to fact of abandonment: State v. Brown, 67-470—and as to fact of marriage (explaining or overruling State v. Brown), State v. Chester, 172-946.

Where husband claimed he abandoned wife on account of her adultery, which she denied, it is error to leave question of guilt to jury to depend upon question of adultery, as that is collateral: State v. Hopkins, 130-647.

Case where defendant pleads that marriage to prosecutrix was void: State v. Davis, 79-603. Section cited in Steele v. Steele, 104-637.

4448. Evidence that abandonment was willful. If the fact of abandonment of and failure to provide adequate support for the wife and children shall be proved, or, while being with such wife, neglect by the husband to provide for the adequate support of such wife or children shall be proved, then the fact that such husband neglects applying himself to some honest calling for the support of himself and family, and is found sauntering about, endeavoring to maintain himself by gaming or other undue means, or is a common frequenter of drinking houses, or is a known common drunkard, shall be presumptive evidence that such abandonment and neglect is willful.

Rev., s. 3356; Code, s. 971; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 3.

Section cited in Steele v. Steele, 104-637.

4449. Order of support from husband’s property or earnings. Upon any conviction for abandonment, any judge or any recorder having jurisdiction thereof may, in his discretion, make such order as in his judgment will best provide for the support, as far as may be necessary, of the deserted wife or children, or both, from the property or labor of the defendant. 1917, c. 259.

4450. Failure of husband to provide adequate support for family. If any husband, while living with his wife, shall willfully neglect to provide adequate support for such wife or the children which he has begotten upon her, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3357; Code, s. 972; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 11; 1879, c. 92.

Art. 37. INTOXICATING LIQUORS

4451. Adulteration of liquors. If any person shall adulterate any spirituous, alcoholic, vinous or malt liquors by mixing the same with any substance of whatever kind, except as provided in the following section, or if any person shall sell or offer to sell any spirituous, alcoholic, vinous or malt liquors, knowing the same to be thus adulterated, or shall import into this state any spirituous or intoxicating liquors, and sell or offer to sell such liquor, knowing the same to be adulterated, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3512; Code, s. 982; 1858-9, c. 57, ss. 1, 4.

Construe this section with section 4752. Compare, as to intent, State v. Powell, 141-780.

4452. Selling recipe for adulterating liquors. If any person shall sell or offer to sell any recipe or formula whatever for adulterating any spirituous or alcoholic liquors, by mixing the same with any substance of whatever kind, except as is herein provided, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined or imprisoned as is provided in the preceding section: Provided, that this section and the two sections that immediately precede and follow it respectively shall not be so construed as to prevent druggists, physicians and persons engaged in the mechanical arts from adulterating liquors for medical and mechanical purposes.

Rev., s. 3513; Code, s. 984; 1858-9, c. 57, ss. 2, 3.

4453. Manufacturing or selling poisonous liquors. If any person shall manufacture, sell, or in any way deal out spirituous liquors, of any name or kind, to be used as a drink or beverage, and the same shall be found to contain any foreign properties or ingredients poisonous to the human system, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than five years, and may be fined in the discretion of the court. It shall be competent for any citizen, after making purchase of any spirituous liquor, to cause the same to be analyzed by some known competent chemist, and if upon such analysis it shall be found to contain any foreign poisonous matter, it shall be prima facie evidence against the party making such a sale.

Rev., s. 3522; Code, s. 983; 1873-4, c. 180, ss. 1, 2.

4454. Selling or giving away liquor near political speaking. If any person shall sell or give away, either directly or indirectly, any spirituous liquors, wine or bitters containing alcohol, within two miles of any place at which political public speaking shall be advertised to take place, and does take place, during the day on which such speaking shall take place, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding twenty days.

Rev., s. 3528; Code, s. 1079; 1879, c. 212.

4455. Giving intoxicants to unmarried minors under seventeen years old. If any person shall give intoxicating drinks or liquors to any unmarried minor under the age of seventeen years; or if any person shall aid, assist or abet any other person in giving such drinks or liquors to such minor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court; but nothing in this section shall prevent any parent or other person standing in loco parentis from giving or administering any such drinks or liquors to his minor child for medicinal purposes, nor any physician from giving or administering such drinks or liquors to any minor patient under his care; nor shall this section apply to the giving or using of wine in the administration of the sacrament.

4456. Selling or giving intoxicants to unmarried minors by dealers; liability for exemplary damages. If any dealer in intoxicating drinks or liquors sell, or in any manner part with for a compensation therefor, either directly or indirectly, or give away such drinks or liquors, to any unmarried person under the age of twenty-one years, knowing such person to be under the age of twenty-one years, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and such sale or giving away shall be prima facie evidence of such knowledge. Any person who keeps on hand intoxicating drinks or liquors for the purpose of sale or profit shall be considered a dealer within the meaning of this section.

The father, or if he be dead, the mother, guardian or employer of any minor to whom a sale or gift shall be made in violation of this section, shall have a right of action in a civil suit against the person so offending by such sale or gift, and upon proof of such illicit sale or gift shall recover from the party so offending such exemplary damages as a jury may assess: Provided, that such assessment shall not be less than twenty-five dollars.

Rev., ss. 3524, 3525; Code, ss. 1077, 1078; 1873-4, c. 68; 1881, c. 242.

Physician who keeps liquor for sale or profit is a "dealer": State v. McBrayer, 98-619.

Dealer guilty, although authorized to make sale by father of minor: State v. Lawrence, 97-492—but the dealer is not guilty where the minor acts merely as agent for the father in making the purchase, the dealer knowing the liquor was for the father, State v. Walker, 103-413.

Dealer who supplies liquor to minor at request of adult is guilty, and the adult is an aider and abettor: State v. Scoggins, 107-959; State v. Best, 108-747.

Dealer responsible for sale to minor by his agent, although without his knowledge and against his instructions: State v. Kittelle, 110-560—but seems contra as to druggist, when sale is made by a registered pharmacist, State v. Neal, 123-689.

In case of an interstate shipment, with draft and bill of lading to the consignor, notify the cashier of a bank, paying the draft and delivering the bill of lading to the purchaser, is not guilty of selling: State v. Fisher, 162-550. Construction of this section with reference to interstate commerce and the effect of the Wilson act: Ibid.

"Civil damage act" creates a new cause of action, and a "dealer" is liable as herein provided: Spencer v. Fisher, 161-116. It is necessary to allege that the minor is unmarried: Spencer v. Fisher, 158-264.

Several defendants may be indicted and convicted hereunder for a single unlawful act: State v. Scoggins, 107-959. Sufficiency of description in indictment, State v. Best, 108-747. Sufficiency of evidence: State v. Scoggins, 107-959. When liquid is plainly intoxicating, the court will so declare; but when it is doubtful, it is a question for the jury: State v. Parker, 139-586. Unlawful intent conclusively presumed from the doing of the act: State v. McBrayer, 98-619; State v. Scoggins, 107-959.
4457. Public drinking on railway passenger cars; copy of section to be posted. Any person who shall publicly engage in the drinking of intoxicating liquors in the presence of passengers on any passenger car shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. This section shall not apply to any smoking compartment or to any closet, dining or buffet car. It shall be the duty of all railway companies to have posted a copy of this section in all passenger coaches used for transporting passengers within the state.

1907, c. 455.

Rev., s. 3740; 1905, c. 391; 1907, c. 1012, s. 1; 1913, c. 75; 1915, c. 1.

4466. Unauthorized dealing in railroad tickets. Rev., s. 3813; Code, s. 1006; 1873-4, c. 62; 1874-5, c. 70; 1905, c. 417.

4468. Local: Sale of corn at night in less than five-bushel lots. If any person shall buy, sell, deliver or receive for a price or for any reward whatever, any corn in the ear or shelled of a less amount than five bushels, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Art. 41. Regulation of Employer and Employee

4469. Enticing servant to leave master. If any person shall entice, persuade and procure any servant by indenture, or any servant who shall have contracted in writing or orally to serve his employer, to leave unlawfully the service of his master or employer; or if any person shall knowingly and unlawfully harbor and detain, in his own service and from the service of his master or employer, any servant who shall unlawfully leave the service of such master or employer, then, in either case, such person and servant shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisoned not exceeding six months.

Rev. s. 3365; Code, ss. 3119, 3120; 1866, c. 58; 1866-7, c. 124; 1881, c. 303.

Section held constitutional: State v. Harwood, 104-724. No defense at common law to entice infant from the service of parent: State v. Rice, 76-194. Section has reference only to ‘‘enticing’’ servants, and indictment will not lie hereunder against servant for wilfully breaking contract to labor: State v. Daniel, 89-553. Section does not apply where the servant has merely made a contract to serve; he must be induced to leave the service of his master: Sears v. Whitaker, 136-37. There must be something more than mere employment; it must appear that defendant enticed or persuaded servant to leave the master: State v. Holly, 152-839.

Contract that tenant, as part of the rent, will work for landlord when he can leave his own crop and when he is needed by landlord does not constitute the relation here contemplated: State v. Hoover, 107-795; State v. Etheridge, 169-263.

It is a violation of the statute to entice a servant, although the contract for labor be voidable on account of the infancy of the servant: State v. Harwood, 104-724—but if the contract is entered into without the consent of the parents they may demand such infant to leave the service of his employer, without incurring any liability hereunder: State v. Anderson, 104-771.

Contract must be by indenture, in writing or oral: State v. Rice, 76-194; State v. Anderson, 104-771.

4470. Local: Hiring servant who has unlawfully left employee. require, for such time as may appear necessary, not exceeding one year.

giving such other security as may seem sufficient.
Rev., s. 3174; Code, s. 1222; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 7.

4539. Defendant may appeal. In all proceedings on peace warrants the defend-

Revised, s. 3181; Code, s. 1125; 1868-9, c. 178, sube. 1, s. 2.

See section 4379, as to punishment for failure to assist. This section does not authorize justice of the peace, after an affray is over, to summon persons to arrest the participants without a warrant; State v. Campbell, 107-948. This changes the rule stated in Malpass v. Governor, 70-130.

4556. Expenses paid, in bringing fugitive from another state. In all cases where the governor of the state has made a requisition on the governor of another state for any fugitive from justice and has sent an agent to receive such fugitive, it shall be lawful for the governor to issue a warrant on the state treasurer for the amount of money necessary to pay the expenses of the agent and other costs in the arresting of the fugitive from justice, to be paid by the treasurer of the state.

Rev., s. 3189; Code, s. 1170; 1870-1, c. 82.

See generally: Burton v. Furman, 115-171.
ART. 7. PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION

4557. Waiver of examination. If any person arrested desires to waive examination and give bail, it is the duty of the officer making the arrest to take him before any magistrate of the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed, or before any judge of the supreme or superior court.

Rev., s. 3190; Code, ss. 1138, 1139; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 7, 8.

For bail, see section 4477.

4558. Procedure, when justice has not final jurisdiction. In all cases where a justice of the peace has not final jurisdiction of the offense, he shall desist from any final determination of the action or complaint, and proceed as hereinafter provided.

Rev., s. 3191; Code, s. 896; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 7; 1879, c. 302, s. 2.

Justice of the peace has no jurisdiction after he binds prisoner over to court: State v. Lucas, 139-569. For criminal jurisdiction of justices of the peace, see section 1481.

4559. Duty of examining magistrate. The magistrate before whom any such person shall be brought shall proceed, as soon as may be, to examine the complainant and the witnesses produced in support of the prosecution on oath, in the presence of the prisoner, in regard to the offense charged, and in regard to any other matters connected with such charge which such magistrate may deem pertinent. The defendant shall be allowed a reasonable time before the hearing begins in which to send for and advise with counsel.

Rev., s. 3192; Code, ss. 1144, 1145; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 13.

Examination taken hereunder may be used before the grand or petit jury when the witness is dead: State v. Valentine, 29-225; State v. King, 86-603; State v. Bridgers, 87-562; see section 4572.

Admissions of prosecuting witness are admissible against him on another trial for the same or any other offense: State v. Simpson, 133-676. Prisoner entitled to counsel: State v. Matthews, 66-106.

4560. Testimony reduced to writing; right to counsel. The evidence given by the several witnesses examined shall be reduced to writing by the magistrate, or under his direction, and shall be signed by the witnesses respectively. If desired by the person arrested, his counsel shall be present during the examination of the complainant and the witnesses on the part of the prosecution, and during the examination of the prisoner; and the prisoner or his counsel shall be allowed to cross-examine the complainant and the witnesses for the prosecution.

Rev., s. 3193; Code, ss. 1146, 1150; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 14, 19.

Justice of the peace required to take down only the substance of what witness says: State v. Bridgers, 87-562. Notes of evidence made by the committing magistrate are not conclusive as to the testimony of a witness: State v. Hooper, 151-646.

Magistrate can testify as to what witness swore before him, although such testimony was reduced to writing: State v. Adair, 66-298; State v. Jordan, 110-491. Testimony taken hereunder cannot be used as evidence in chief, but only to refresh memory or contradict statement made by witness: State v. McLeod, 8-344; State v. Adair, 66-278; State v. Jordan, 110-491—unless witness is dead: State v. Valentine, 29-225; State v. King, 86-603; State v. Bridgers, 87-562—too ill to be present, or insane, or removed from the state at instigation of defendant; and proof that he did not respond to summons is not sufficient, State v. King, 86-603; see section 4572.

4561. Prisoner examined; advised of rights. The magistrate shall then proceed to examine the prisoner in relation to the offense charged. Such examination shall not be on oath; and before it is commenced, the prisoner shall be informed by the magistrate of the charge made against him, and that he is at liberty to refuse to answer any question that may be put to him, and that his refusal to answer shall not be used to his prejudice in any stage of the proceedings.

Rev., s. 3194; Code, ss. 1145, 1146; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 14, 15.

Prisoner must have a full and perfect knowledge of his rights, but the caution need not be in the exact words of the statute: State v. King, 162-580; State v. Rorie, 74-148; State v. Rogers, 112-875; State v. DeGraff, 113-688.

Such caution need only be given when the prisoner is examined before a magistrate: State v. Howard, 92-776—and the examination must have begun, State v. Conrad, 95-666. Caution comes too late to make confession admissible, when a question is asked before such caution is given: State v. Matthews, 66-106.

Any admission or confession made by the prisoner while under oath before a committing magistrate, whether reduced to writing or not, or made in the presence of witnesses, should not be used in evidence: State v. Parker, 132-1014.

Right of prisoner to testify in his own behalf, see sections 1799, 1802.

4562. Exclusion of witnesses at examination. The witnesses produced on the part either of the prisoner or of the prosecution shall not be present at the examination of the prisoner; and while any witness is under examination the magistrate may exclude from the place in which such examination is had all witnesses who have not been examined, and may cause the witnesses to be kept separate and prevented from conversing with each other until they shall have been examined.

Rev., s. 3195; Code, s. 1149; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 18.

For excluding bystanders in trials for rape, see section 4636.

Sequestration of witnesses in trials generally is within the discretion of the court, and upon violation of the order the court may refuse to allow the witness to testify: State v. Davis, 175-723; Lee v. Thornton, 174-288; State v. Lowry, 170-730; State v. Hodge, 142-676.

"’Witnesses should not be present at examination of prisoner’ quoted and discussed: State v. Parker, 132-1014; State v. Moore, 136-581.

4563. Answers in writing, read to prisoner, signed by magistrate. The answer of the prisoner to the several interrogatories shall be reduced to writing by the magistrate, or under his direction. They shall be read to the prisoner, who may correct or add to them; and when made conformable to what he declares is the truth, shall be certified and signed by the magistrate.

Rev., s. 3196; Code, s. 1147; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 16.

The magistrate is not required to put down the very words of the witness, but an accurate substance of the testimony is sufficient: State v. Bridgers, 87-562.
The section does not require that the examination shall be certified under the private or official seal of the committing magistrate: State v. Pressley, 90-730.

See generally: State v. Parker, 132-1014.

Section merely referred to in State v. Suggs, 90-530.

4564. Witnesses for defendant examined. After the examination of the prisoner is complete, his witnesses, if he have any, shall be sworn and examined, and he may have the assistance of counsel in such examination.

Rev., s. 3197; Code, s. 1148; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 17.

See generally: State v. Parker, 132-1014.

4565. Examination of prisoner not required in misdemeanors. Nothing contained in the preceding sections shall be construed to require any magistrate, before whom a prisoner charged with a misdemeanor shall be brought, to take the examination of such prisoner, except where such magistrate shall deem it material so to do, or where such examination shall be required by the prisoner.

Rev., s. 3198; Code, s. 1153; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 22.

Right of prisoner to testify in his own behalf, see sections 1799, 1802.

4566. When prisoner discharged. If, upon examination of the whole matter, it shall appear to the magistrate either that no offense has been committed by any person or that there is no probable cause for charging the prisoner therewith, he shall discharge such prisoner.

Rev., s. 3199; Code, s. 1151; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 20.

See State v. Lucas, 139-567.

4567. When prisoner held to answer charge. If it shall appear that an offense has been committed, and that there is probable cause to believe the prisoner to be guilty thereof, if the offense be bailable, and the prisoner offer sufficient bail, such bail shall be taken and the prisoner discharged; if no bail be offered, or the offense be not bailable, the prisoner shall be committed to prison.

Rev., s. 3202; Code, ss. 1152, 1156; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 21, 25.

After committing or binding prisoner over to superior court, a justice of the peace has no further power or jurisdiction: State v. Lucas, 139-567.

4568. Witnesses against prisoner recognized. The magistrate shall bind by recognizances the prosecutor and all the material witnesses against such prisoner to appear and testify at the next term of the court having jurisdiction for the county in which the offense is alleged to have been committed.

Rev., s. 3203; Code, s. 1152; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 21.

A justice of the peace or magistrate cannot require a witness to give bond for his appearance before such justice or magistrate: Lovick v. R. R., 129-427.

After committing or binding the prisoner and witnesses against him over to the superior court, a justice of the peace has no further power or jurisdiction: State v. Lucas, 139-567.

4569. Witnesses required to give security for appearance. Whenever the magistrate is satisfied by the proof that there is good reason to believe that any such witness will not fulfill the conditions of the recognizance unless security be required, he may order the witness to enter into a recognizance with such sureties as he shall deem meet for his appearance at such court.

Rev., s. 3204; Code, s. 1154; 1868-9, c. 178, sube. 3, s. 23.

A justice of the peace or magistrate cannot require a witness to give bond for his appearance before such justice or magistrate: Lovick v. R. R., 129-427.

4570. Investigation in case of lynching. Whenever the solicitor of any judicial district ascertains that the crime of lynching has been committed in any county in his judicial district, it is his duty to go to such county at the earliest possible moment, and at once institute proceedings for the investigation of the crime before the coroner of the county, some judge of the superior court, or justice of the peace, and for the apprehension of the offender. In the performance of this duty he shall cause to be issued subpoenas or other process to compel the attendance of witnesses and examine such witnesses on oath as to their knowledge or information touching the crime being investigated. In all cases where, upon preliminary investigation, it appears probable that any person is guilty of the crime charged, it shall be the duty of the coroner, judge or justice before whom the case is heard to bind such person, with good security, for his appearance at the next ensuing term of the superior or criminal court of some county adjoining the county in which the crime was committed for trial, and in default of bail to commit him to the jail of such adjoining county for safe-keeping, and all necessary witnesses shall be recognized to appear at such term as witnesses for the state.

Rev., s. 3200; 1893, c. 461, s. 2.

As to venue, see State v. Lewis, 142-626 (concurring and dissenting opinions).

4571. Witnesses in lynching not privileged. In all investigations before a justice of the peace, coroner, judge, grand jury, or courts and jury, on the trial of the cause, as authorized by the preceding section or under existing law, no person shall be excused from testifying touching his knowledge or information in regard to the offense being investigated, upon the ground that his answer might tend to subject him to prosecution, pains or penalties, or that his evidence might tend to criminate himself; but no discovery made by such witness upon any such examination shall be used against him in any court or in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall, when so examined as a witness for the state, be altogether pardoned of any and all participation in any crime arising under the provisions of the preceding section, or under existing law, concerning which he is required to testify.

Rev., ss. 1638, 3201; 1863, c. 461, s. 5.

For cases on section analogous to this, see section 1800. Force and effect of original act, of which section is part, not impaired by fact that same is split up and different sections placed under appropriate heads: State v. Lewis, 142-626.

The part of this statute with reference to pardon of witness is constitutional, and witness is pardoned even though his evidence did not tend to criminate himself: State v. Bowman, 145-452. Plea of pardon treated as motion to quash, so that state can appeal: Ibid.

4572. Proceedings certified to court; used as evidence. All examinations and recognizances taken pursuant to the provisions of this chapter shall be certified by the magistrate taking the same to the court at which the witnesses are bound to appear, within twenty days after the taking of such examinations and recognizances: Provided, that any criminal case tried within twenty days before the sitting of criminal court shall be returned on Saturday before the court convenes. The examinations taken and subscribed as herein prescribed may be used as evidence before the grand jury, and on the trial of the accused, provided he was present at the taking thereof and had an opportunity to hear the same and to cross-examine the deposing witness, if such witness be dead or so ill as not to be able to travel, or by procurement or connivance of the defendant has removed from the state, or is of unsound mind.

Rev., s. 3205; Code, s. 1157; 1913, c. 24; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 26.

Such examination, to be used as evidence, need not contain the exact words of the witness: State v. Bridgers, 87-562.

That such examination may be used as evidence in chief, it must have been taken in accordance with the statute: State v. Pierce, 91-610; State v. Jordan, 110-495—and it must be shown what has become of the witness: State v. Grady, 83-646; State v. King, 86-603; State v. Pierce, 91-610.

Section merely cited: State v. Lucas, 139-569.

4573. Penalty for failing to return. If any magistrate shall refuse or neglect to return to the proper court any such examination or recognizance by him taken, he may be compelled by rule of court forthwith to return the same, and in case of disobedience of such rule, may be proceeded against by attachment as for contempt of court as provided by law.

Rev., s. 3206; Code, s. 1158; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 27.

ART. 8. BAIL

4574. Officers authorized to take bail, before imprisonment. Officers before whom persons charged with crime, but who have not been committed to prison by an authorized magistrate, may be brought, have power to take bail as follows:

1. Any justice of the supreme court, or a judge of a superior court, in all cases.

2. Any justice of the peace or chief magistrate of any incorporated city or town, in all cases of misdemeanor, and in all cases of felony not capital.

Rev., s. 3209; Code, s. 1160; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 29; 1871-2, c. 37.

4575. Officers authorized to take bail, after imprisonment. Any justice of the supreme court or any judge of a superior court has power to bail persons committed to prison charged with crime in all cases; any justice of the peace or chief magistrate of any incorporated city or town has the same power in all cases where the punishment is not capital.

Rev., s. 3210; Code, s. 1161; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 30.

4576. Recognizance filed with clerk. Whenever any prisoner is bailed by any officer under the preceding section, such officer shall immediately cause the recognizance taken by him to be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county to which the prisoner is recognized.

Rev., s. 3211; Code, s. 1162; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 31.
4577. Bail allowed on preliminary examination. If the offense charged in the warrant be not punishable with death, the magistrate may take from the person so arrested a recognizance with sufficient sureties for his appearance at the next term of the court having jurisdiction, to be held in the county where the offense is alleged to have been committed.

Rev., s. 3207; Code, s. 1139; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 8; 1871-2, c. 37, s. 1.

A recognizance defined: State v. Mills, 19-552; State v. White, 164-408. A recognizance in the form of a bond with conditions, signed and sealed by defendant and his sureties, is valid: State v. Jones, 100-438; State v. Houston, 74-549.

See annotations under section 4582.

4578. Duty of magistrate granting bail. Any magistrate taking bail shall certify on the warrant the fact of his having let the defendant to bail, and shall deliver the same, together with the recognizance taken by him, to the officer or other person having charge of the prisoner, who shall deliver the same without unnecessary delay to the clerk of the court in which the prisoner has been recognized to appear.

Rev., s. 3212; Code, s. 1140; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 9.

4579. Sheriff or deputy may take bail. When any sheriff or his deputy arrests the body of any person, in consequence of the writ of capias issued to him by the clerk of a court of record on an indictment found, the sheriff or deputy, if the crime is bailable, shall recognize the offender, and take sufficient bail in the nature of a recognizance for his appearing at the next succeeding court of the county where he ought to answer, which recognizance shall be returned with the capias; and the sheriff shall in no case become bail himself.

4580. Sheriff may take bail of prisoner in custody. If any person for want of bail shall be lawfully committed to jail at any time before final judgment, the sheriff, or other officer having him in custody, may take sufficient justified bail and discharge him; and the bail bond shall be regarded, in every respect, as other bail bonds, and shall be returned and sued on in like manner; and the officer taking it shall make special return thereof, with the bond, at the first court which is held after it is taken.

Rev., s. 3228; Code, s. 1232; R. C., c. 11, s. 8.

4581. Bail on continuance before a justice. Upon the continuance of any criminal action returned before any justice of the peace for trial, in which the justice is authorized to take bail on a finding of probable cause or in which he has final jurisdiction, it is the duty of the justice of the peace to take bond for his appearance, payable to the state, on the same being tendered by the accused, with such surety as in his opinion will be sufficient to insure the appearance of the accused for trial at a time and place mentioned in the bond.

Rev., s. 3213; 1889, c. 133.

For mortgage in lieu of personal security, see sections 347, 348.

See generally: State v. Jenkins, 121-641.

Before this statute a justice of the peace had no power to allow a party accused of an offense, of which he had no final jurisdiction, to give bail during the postponement of the examination: State v. Jones, 100-438; State v. Jenkins, 121-641.
ART. 9. FORFEITURE OF BAIL

4582. In recognizance to keep the peace. Every person who shall have entered into a recognizance to keep the peace shall appear according to the obligation thereof; and if he fail to appear the court shall forfeit his recognizance and order it to be prosecuted, in the manner provided by law, unless reasonable excuse for his default be given.

Rev., s. 3214; Code, s. 1225; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 10.

As to jurisdiction in which recognizance prosecuted: State v. Oates, 88-668.

A recognizance is a conditional judgment and a scire facias is notice to the cognizor to show cause: State v. Mills, 19-552; State v. Smith, 66-620. A bond with conditions, signed and sealed by the parties, is good as a recognizance: State v. Houston, 74-174, 74-549; State v. Jones, 100-438.

A recognizance, conditioned for the appearance of a party on one day, is not forfeited by his failure to appear on another day, to which the holding of the court was changed by a law passed after the taking of the recognizance, the law containing no provision to that effect: State v. The Meltons, 44-426.

A recognizance, conditioned that the defendant appear at the courthouse in C on the eighth Monday after the fourth Monday in March, is not forfeited by the defendant's failure to appear on the twenty-second of February: State v. Houston, 74-174. But where the recognizance is on condition that the defendant appear at the next regular term, and such term is not held on account of the absence of the judge, the defendant must appear at the next special term appointed and held: State v. Horton, 123-695.

A defendant bound to appear at court must not depart the court without leave: State v. Eure, 172-874; State v. White, 164-408.

An agreement by solicitor to discharge defendant if he would become a state's witness against a codefendant will not relieve such defendant from a forfeited recognizance. A recognizance is a matter of record, and can only be discharged by a record or by something of equal solemnity: State v. Moody, 69-529.

4583. When recognizance deemed broken. No recognizance taken under this chapter shall be deemed to be broken except in the failure of the principal in such recognizance to appear and answer according to the obligation thereof, unless such principal be convicted of some offense amounting in judgment of law to a breach of such recognizance.

Rev., s. 3215; Code, s. 1227; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 12.

See annotations under section 4582. Surety upon appearance bond is not released by principal being drunk and under arrest when his case was called in court and continued, and by principal having since become a fugitive from justice under charge of a different offense: State v. Holt, 145-450.

A failure to sign the warrant does not affect the validity of a bond given for appearance: State v. Mitchell, 151-716.

4584. Recognizance prosecuted. Whenever evidence of such conviction shall be produced in the court in which the recognizance is filed, it shall be the duty of such court to order the recognizance to be prosecuted, and the solicitor shall cause the proper proceedings to be thereupon taken.

Rev., s. 3216; Code, s. 1228; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 13.

When all the matters are of record, the judge decides the forfeiture without a jury; but when the answer raises an issue of fact, it is to be decided by a jury: State v. Sanders, 153-624.

The judgment of forfeiture is entered in the court in which recognizance is filed, and the prosecution for forfeiture is not an independent proceeding: Ibid.
4585. Notice of judgment nisi before execution. No execution shall issue upon a forfeited recognizance, or to collect a fine imposed nisi, until a notice has issued against the person who has forfeited his recognizance or upon whom the fine has been imposed, and his sureties.

Rev., s. 3217; Code, s. 1208; R. C., c. 35, s. 43; 1777, c. 115, s. 48.

It is imperative to give the notice required hereunder: State v. Mills, 19-554.

4586. What notice must contain. When any recognizance, acknowledged by a principal and sureties, shall be forfeited by two or more of the recognizors, the notice issued thereon shall be jointly against them all, designating which of them are principals and which sureties, and when they are bound in different sums, stating the amount forfeited by each one, and the clerk shall have no greater fee on such notice than is due when it is issued against one defendant.

4587. Service of notice. All notices issuing upon forfeited recognizances shall be executed by leaving a copy with each of the defendants, or at his present place of abode. And in case he cannot be found, and has no known place of abode, and the matter be returned, then a notice shall issue, and on the like return the same shall be deemed duly served.

Rev., s. 3219; Code, s. 1210; R. C., c. 35, s. 45; 1812, c. 836, s. 2.

4588. Judges may remit forfeited recognizances. The judges of the superior courts may hear and determine the petition of all persons who shall conceive they merit relief on their recognizances forfeited; and may lessen, or absolutely remit, the same, and do all and anything therein as they shall deem just and right and consistent with the welfare of the state and the persons praying such relief, as well before as after final judgment entered and execution awarded.

Rev., s. 3220; Code, s. 1205; R. C., c. 35, s. 38; 1788, c. 292, s. 1.

When surety made a deposit for the principal to secure appearance, principal appeared and pleaded guilty and left the court before sentence, the court may, upon notice, condemn the deposit for the forfeiture: State v. White, 164-408.

The discretion here given to superior court judges may be exercised either before or after final judgment: Board of Education v. Moody, 74-73—and their decision is a matter of judicial discretion, not subject to review except upon alleged error of law or legal inference, Ibid.; State v. Morgan, 136-600.

Under this section solicitor has no vested right to his fee under an absolute judgment upon a forfeited recognizance which was subsequently set aside by the court in the exercise of its discretion: State v. King, 143-681.

4589. Money refunded by clerk. The clerk of the superior court, on the remission of any forfeited recognizance which has been paid into his office, shall refund the same, or so much thereof as shall be remitted.

Rev., s. 3221; Code, s. 1206; R. C., c. 35, s. 39; 1795, c. 442, s. 1.

Section merely cited: Moore v. Comrs., 70-344.

4590. Money refunded by treasurer. If the money has been paid to the county treasurer, he shall refund it to the person entitled, on his producing an attested copy of the record from the clerk of the court, certifying that such recognizance has been remitted or lessened, signed with his own proper name, with the seal of the court affixed thereto.

4591. Forfeiture of bond before justice. On the failure of the accused to appear at the time and place mentioned in any bond taken by any justice of the peace for a continuance of any cause pending before him, and answer the charge, or, having appeared, shall depart the court without leave thereof first had and obtained, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace then presiding to enter judgment nisi against the principal and his sureties in the bond for the amount mentioned therein, if the sum does not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars; and immediately issue notice to the principal and the sureties in the bond, giving ten days time, specifying time and place, to appear and show cause, if any they have, why the judgment nisi shall not be made final.

Rev., s. 3223; 1889, c. 133, s. 2.

4592. Judgment final, rendered and enforced. If the defendant shall fail to appear and show satisfactory reasons for not complying with the provisions of the bond, it shall then be the duty of the justice of the peace to render a final judgment thereon for the amount of the same, and immediately make and transmit to the clerk of the superior court a transcript thereof, which shall be entered upon the judgment docket of the court, and the clerk shall issue execution on the final judgment against the principal and his sureties for the collection of the amount thereof as in other judgments in behalf of the state.

Rev., s. 3224; 1889, c. 133, s. 3.

4593. Forfeiture over two hundred dollars before justice. If the bond shall exceed the sum of two hundred dollars, and the accused shall fail to appear as therein provided to answer the charge, or, having appeared, shall depart the court without leave first had and obtained, it shall be the duty of the justice to have the accused called, and enter upon the bond that the defendant was called and failed to answer, and immediately return the original papers in the case, together with the bond, to the clerk of the court having jurisdiction to try such action, who shall immediately enter the case upon the criminal docket of his court and enter judgment nisi for the amount of the bond, and issue notice to the accused and his sureties to appear at the next term of the court to show cause why the judgment should not be made final and proceeded in as other cases of forfeited bonds in behalf of the state in such court. The entry on the bond by the justice of the peace shall be prima facie evidence that the principal therein had been called and failed to answer. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent justices of the peace from remitting the penalty of the bond or the right of appeal from the justice of the peace to the superior court by the defendant or his surety.

Rev., s. 3225; 1889, c. 133, s. 4.

See generally: State v. Jenkins, 121-637.

4594. Right of bail to surrender principal. The bail shall have liberty, at any time before execution awarded against him, to surrender to the court from which the process issued, or to the sheriff having such process to return, during the session, or in the recess of such court, the principal, in discharge of himself; and such bail shall, at any time before such execution awarded, have full power and authority to arrest the body of his principal, and secure him until he shall have an opportunity to surrender him to the sheriff or court as aforesaid; and the sheriff is hereby required to receive such surrender, and hold the body of the defendant in custody as if bail had never been given: Provided, that in criminal proceedings the surrender by the bail, after the recognizance forfeited, shall not have the effect to discharge the bail, but the forfeiture may be remitted in the manner provided for.

Condition of bail bond is not performed by the appearance, conviction and sentence of defendant: State v. Schenck, 138-560—but defendant must submit to the punishment, Ibid.

4595. New bail given upon surrender; liability of sheriff. Any person surrendered in the manner specified in the preceding section shall have liberty, at any time before final judgment against him, to give bail; and in case of such surrender, the sheriff shall take the bail bond or recognizance to the succeeding court; and in case the sheriff shall release such person without bail, or the bail returned be held insufficient, on exception taken, the same term to which such bail bond shall be returned, and allowed by the court, the sheriff, having due notice thereof in criminal cases, shall forfeit to the state the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered on motion in like manner as forfeitures for not returning process, and be subject to be indicted for misdemeanor in office; and it shall be the duty of the prosecuting officer to collect the forfeiture; and, in case of a release, the sheriff shall be liable for an escape, and may be prosecuted and punished as provided for in the chapter entitled Crimes.

Revised Code 1230. See generally: State v. James, 78-455. The verbal order of a justice of the peace is not sufficient: Ibid.

4596. Defenses open to bail. Every matter which would entitle the principal to be discharged from arrest may be pleaded by the bail in exoneration of his liability.

Revised Code 1230. See generally: State v. James, 78-455. The verbal order of a justice of the peace is not sufficient: Ibid.

ART. 10. COMMITMENT TO PRISON

4597. Order of commitment. Every commitment to prison of a person charged with crime shall state:
1. The name of the person charged.
2. The character of the offense with which he is charged.
3. The name and office of the magistrate committing him.
4. The manner in which he may be discharged; if upon giving recognizance or bail, the amount of the recognizance, the condition on the performance of which it shall be discharged, and the persons or magistrate before whom the bail may justify.
5. The court before which the prisoner shall be sent for trial.

Revised Code 1230. See generally: State v. James, 78-455. The verbal order of a justice of the peace is not sufficient: Ibid.

4598. Commitment to county jail. All persons committed to prison before conviction shall be committed to the jail of the county in which the examination is had, or to that of the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed.
committed: Provided, if the jails of these counties are unsafe, or injurious to the health of prisoners, the committing magistrate may commit to the jail of any other convenient county. And every sheriff or jailer to whose jail any person shall be committed by any court or magistrate of competent jurisdiction shall receive such prisoner and give a receipt for him, and be bound for his safe-keeping as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 3231; Code, s. 1164; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 33.

4599. Commitment of witnesses. If any witness required to enter into a

Rev., s. 3232; Code, s. 1155; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 24.

Art. 11. Venue

4600. In case of lynching. The superior court of any county which adjoins the county in which the crime of lynching shall be committed shall have full and complete jurisdiction over the crime and the offender to the same extent as if the crime had been committed in the bounds of such adjoining county; and whenever the solicitor of the district has information of the commission of such a crime, it shall be his duty to furnish such information to the grand juries of all adjoining counties to the one in which the crime was committed from time to time until the offenders are brought to justice.

be dealt with, inquired of, tried and determined, and punished at the discretion of the court, in either of the two counties which may be nearest to the place where the offense was committed.

Rev., s. 3235; Code, s. 1196; R. C., c. 35, s. 27; 1831, c. 22, s. 1.
No offense hereunder is newly created nor raised to a higher offense, nor an additional punishment annexed, but a difficulty which existed in the trial is merely removed: State v. Dunkley, 25-116.
The term ‘assault’ as used here does not mean a mere attempt, but an injury inflicted, of which one dies: State v. Hall, 114-909.

1859
4603. Assault in this state, death in another. In all cases of felonious homicide, when the assault has been made within this state, and the person assaulted dies without the limits thereof, the offender shall be indicted and punished for the crime in the county where the assault was made, in the same manner, to all intents and purposes, as if the person assaulted had died within the limits of this state.

Section merely cited: State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4604. Person in this state injuring one in another. If any person, being in this state, unlawfully and willfully puts in motion a force from the effect of which any person is injured while in another state, the person so setting such force in motion shall be guilty of the same offense in this state as he would be if the effect had taken place within this state.

Revised statute 3237; Revised Code 1895. c. 169.

The necessity for this section was brought to attention of legislature by case of State v. Hall, 114-909.

Section merely cited in State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4605. In county where death occurs. If a mortal wound is given or other violence or injury inflicted or poison is administered on the high seas or land, either within or without the limits of this state, by means whereof death ensues in any county thereof, the offense may be prosecuted and punished in the county where the death happens.

Revised statute 3238; Revised Code 1891. c. 68.

Section held constitutional and discussed: State v. Caldwell, 115-794.

Section merely cited in State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4606. Improper venue met by plea in abatement; procedure. Because the boundaries of many counties are either undetermined or unknown, by reason whereof high offenses go unpunished; therefore, for the more effectual prosecution of offenses committed on land near the boundaries of counties, in the prosecution of all offenses it shall be deemed and taken as true that the offense was committed in the county in which by the indictment it is alleged to have taken place, unless the defendant shall deny the same by plea in abatement, the truth whereof shall be duly verified on oath or otherwise both as to substance and fact, wherein shall be set forth the proper county in which the supposed offense, if any, was committed; whereupon the court may, on motion of the state, commit the defendant, who may enter into recognizance, as in other cases, to answer the offense in the county averred by his plea to be the proper county; and, on his prosecution in that county, it shall be deemed, conclusively, to be the proper county. But if the state, upon the plea aforesaid, will join issue, and the matter be found for the defendant, he shall be required to enter into recognizance as in other cases to answer the offense in the county averred by his plea to be the proper county, provided the offense be bailable; and, if not bailable, he shall be committed for trial in the county; and, if it be found for the state, the court in all offenses or misdemeanors shall proceed to pronounce judgment against the defendant, as upon conviction; and, in all cases of felony, the defendant shall be at liberty to plead to the indictment, and be tried on his plea of not guilty.

Rev., s. 3239; Code, s. 1194; R. C., c. 35, s. 25.

For venue in larceny and receiving, see section 4250. For venue in beating way on trains, see section 3503. For venue in indictments against railroads for discriminating against A. and N. C. Railroad, see section 3419.

Venue is a matter under the control of the legislature: State v. Woodard, 123-710; State v. Lewis, 142-626. Section only applies to offenses committed wholly within the state: State v. Mitchell, 83-674.

In an indictment for murder, offense must be charged in body of bill to have been committed within the district over which the court has jurisdiction: State v. Adams, 1-56—but this need not be proven unless prisoner denies it by plea in abatement, State v. Outerbridge, 82-617.

Laws conferring, withdrawing or limiting jurisdiction do not enter into and become a constituent part of the offenses to which they apply: State v. Williamson, 81-540. The want of an averment of a proper and perfect venue is not fatal to a bill of indictment: Ibid.

As to plea in abatement and removal, see generally: State v. Reid, 18-377; State v. Swepson, 81-571; State v. Jones, 88-671; State v. Haywood, 94-847; State v. Flowers, 109-841; State v. Lylko, 117-799; State v. Woodard, 123-710; State v. Holder, 133-709; State v. Burton, 138-427; State v. Lewis, 142-626; State v. Long, 143-674; State v. Peace, 150-462. Plea in abatement must state the facts upon which it is based, and these must be sufficient to defeat the further prosecution of the action: Emery v. Chappell, 148-327.

Art. 12. Presentment

4607. No arrest nor trial on presentment. No person shall be arrested on a presentment of the grand jury, or put on trial before any court, but on indictment found by the grand jury, unless otherwise provided by law.

Rev., s. 3240; Code, s. 1175; R. C., c. 35, s. 6; 1797, c. 474, s. 3; 1879, c. 12.

Const., Art. I, ss. 11, 13, 17.

There must have been a legal indictment found by a competent grand jury: State v. Cain, 8-352; State v. Griffice, 74-316.

It is the returning of the bill of indictment, publicly and in open court, and its being there recorded, that makes it effectual; and it need be signed by no one: State v. Cox, 28-440.

A bill of indictment is not defective when it is made to appear that the witness has been sworn and examined, although there is no endorsement on the bill to that effect: State v. Hines, 84-810; State v. Roberts, 19-540.

Defective indictment may be taken advantage of by plea in abatement in apt time: State v. Seaborn, 15-305; State v. Haywood, 73-437; State v. Griffice, 74-316; State v. Baldwin, 80-390.

Section merely cited in State v. Quick, 72-241.

4608. Names of witnesses indorsed on presentment. When a presentment shall be made of any offense by a grand jury, upon the knowledge of any of their body, or upon the testimony of witnesses, the names of such grand jurors and witnesses shall be indorsed thereon.

Rev., s. 3241; Code, s. 1176; R. C., c. 35, s. 7; 1797, c. 474, s. 2.

Section merely referred to in State v. Allen, 83-680.
4609. Subpena for witnesses on presentment. In issuing subpenas for witnesses whose names are indorsed on presentments made by the grand jury, the clerk of the court shall name therein the first Tuesday of the term of court as the time for such witnesses to appear and give evidence. And no clerk shall issue a subpena for any such witness to appear on Monday, except upon written order of the solicitor of the district.

1913, c. 168.

ART. 13. INDICTMENT

4610. Waiver of bill of indictment. No waiver of the finding and return into court of a bill of indictment in any criminal action shall be allowed in the superior courts of this state except in cases wherein the offense charged is a misdemeanor which does not include or contain the element of fraud, deceit or malice; nor shall such waiver be made in any such action except upon a plea of guilty, or a submission, or a plea of nolo contendere by the defendant in the same. No such waiver of a bill of indictment shall be allowed by the court unless by the consent of the defendant's counsel in such action, who shall be one either employed by the defendant to defend him in the action or one appointed by the court to examine into the defendant's case and report as to the same to the court; which service by an attorney so appointed by the court shall be rendered without fee or reward.

4611. Bills returned by foreman except in capital cases. Grand juries shall return all bills of indictment in open court through their acting foreman, except in capital felonies, when it shall be necessary for the entire grand jury, or a majority of them, to return their bills of indictment in open court in a body.

Rev., s. 3242; 1889, c. 29.

It is the returning of the bill of indictment in open court, publicly, and its being there recorded, that makes it effectual; and it need be signed by no one: State v. Cox, 28-440.

As to waiver of requirement that bill be returned in open court, see State v. Ledford, 133-714; but see section 4610.

4612. Substance of judicial proceedings set forth. In every indictment, information, or impeachment in which, by the common law, it may be necessary to set forth at length the judicial proceedings had in any case then or formerly pending in any court, civil or military, or before any justice of the peace, it is sufficient to set forth the substance only of the proceedings, or the substance of such part thereof as makes, or helps to make, the offense prosecuted.

Rev., s. 3248; Code, s. 1184; R. C., c. 35, s. 15.

Legislature has power to modify old form of indictment or to establish new one, provided form established is sufficient to apprise defendant with reasonable certainty of the nature of the offense of which he stands charged: State v. Harris, 145-456; see State v. Tisdale, 145-424, and cases cited.

Indictment for offense under law amended since offense committed should state that it was committed before amendment: State v. Massey, 97-465.

Informalities and mere discrepancies in indictment held not fatal, see State v. Flowers, 109-841; State v. Evans, 69-40; State v. Best, 108-747; State v. Davis, 80-384; State v. Tribatt, 32-151; see under section 4623.

As to conclusion, see State v. Kirkman, 104-911; State v. Davis, 80-384; State v. Tribatt, 32-151; but see section 4625.

1862
4613. Bill of particulars. In all indictments when further information not required to be set out therein is desirable for the better defense of the accused, the court, upon motion, may, in its discretion, require the solicitor to furnish a bill of particulars of such matters.

Rev., s. 3244.

A bill of particulars is not a part of the bill of indictment, and is only intended to enable the defendant to prepare his defense: State v. Gulledge, 173-746. A bill of particulars, not being made by the grand jury, cannot supply a defect in an indictment: State v. Cline, 150-854; State v. Van Pelt, 136-633.

Bill of particulars must be asked for, and it is within the discretion of the court: State v. Hinton, 158-625; State v. R. R., 149-508—and refusal to grant it is not appealable except possibly in a case of gross abuse of discretion, State v. Dewey, 139-556.

4614. Essentials of bill for homicide. In indictments for murder and manslaughter, it is not necessary to allege matter not required to be proved on the trial; but in the body of the indictment, after naming the person accused, and the county of his residence, the date of the offense, the averment "with force and arms," and the county of the alleged commission of the offense, as is now usual, it is sufficient in describing murder to allege that the accused person feloniously, willfully, and of his malice aforethought, did kill and murder (naming the person killed), and concluding as is now required by law; and it is sufficient in describing manslaughter to allege that the accused feloniously and willfully did kill and slay (naming the person killed), and concluding as aforesaid; and any bill of indictment containing the averments and allegations herein named shall be good and sufficient in law as an indictment for murder or manslaughter, as the case may be.

Rev., s. 3245; 1887, c. 58.

For full annotations on subject of homicide, and indictments for homicide, see under sections 4200, 4201.

Section held constitutional, and an indictment drawn in accordance with it approved: State v. Moore, 104-743; State v. Brown, 106-645. See generally: State v. Arnold, 107-861—the word "willfully" is not essential to the validity of an indictment for murder, State v. Arnold, 107-861.

Failure to allege whether the person killed was a man or a woman is not defect: State v. Pate, 121-659.

Section merely cited: State v. Hunt, 128-584; State v. Matthews, 142-623.

4615. Form of bill for perjury. In every indictment for willful and corrupt perjury it is sufficient to set forth the substance of the offense charged upon the defendant, and by what court, or before whom, the oath was taken (averring such court or person to have competent authority to administer the same), together with the proper averments to falsify the matter wherein the perjury is assigned, without setting forth the bill, answer, information, indictment, declaration, or any part of any record or proceedings, either in law or equity, other than aforesaid, and without setting forth the commission or authority of the court or person before whom the perjury was committed. In indictments for perjury the following form shall be sufficient, to wit:

The jurors for the state, on their oath, present, that A. B., of __ County, did unlawfully commit perjury upon the trial of an action in __ court, in __ County, wherein __ was plaintiff and __ was defendant, by falsely asserting, on oath (or solemn affirmation) (here set out the statement or statements alleged to be false), knowing the said statement, or statements, to be false, or being ignorant whether or not said statement was true.

Rev., ss. 3246, 3247; Code, s. 1185; R. C., c. 35, s. 16; 1842, c. 49, s. 1; 1889, c. 83.

See generally: State v. Bryson, 4-115; State v. Ammons, 7-126; State v. Gillimon, 24-372;
State v. Hoyle, 28-1; State v. Davis, 69-495; State v. Knight, 84-789; State v. Collins, 85-511;
State v. Roberson, 98-751; State v. Murphy, 101-697; State v. Peters, 107-876; State v. Harris, 145-458; State v. Cline, 146-640.

Section enacted in 1791, but repealed by Revised Statutes 1837: State v. Gillimon, 24-372—reënacted in 1842, State v. Hoyle, 28-1.

This section simplifies the charge of perjury, but the constituent elements of the offense remain as before: State v. Peters, 107-876.

On appeal from recorder's court on a charge of perjury, it is necessary that a bill of indictment should be found: State v. Hyman, 164-411.

A bill of indictment for perjury should charge that the matter alleged to be false was material to the issue: State v. Cline, 150-854.

In an indictment for perjury the record of the case in which the perjury is alleged to have been committed need not be set forth, but if such record is set forth, it must be correct: State
v. Ammons, 7-126; see, however, State v. Flowers, 109-841. When the record is produced it must correspond to the allegations in the bill of indictment: State v. Harrell, 49-55; State
v. Lewis, 93-551.

An indictment for perjury which does not aver that the false oath was taken "wilfully" and "corruptly" is defective: State v. Davis, 84-787. The form of indictment for perjury hereunder approved in State v. Harris, 145-458; State v. Thompson, 113-638; State v. Gates, 107-832.

Section referred to in State v. Cline, 146-640.

4616. Bill for subornation of perjury. In every indictment for subornation of perjury, or for corrupt bargaining or contracting with others to commit willful and corrupt perjury, it is sufficient to set forth the substance of the offense charged upon the defendant, without setting forth the bill, answer, information, indictment, declaration or any part of any record or proceedings, and without setting forth the commission or authority of the court or person before whom the perjury was committed or was agreed or promised to be committed.

Rev., ss. 3248; Code, s. 1186; R. C., c. 35, s. 17; 1842, c. 49, s. 2.

4617. Former conviction alleged in bill for second offense. In any indictment for an offense which, on the second conviction thereof, is punished with other or greater punishment than on the first conviction, it is sufficient to state that the offender was, at a certain time and place, convicted thereof, without otherwise describing the previous offense; and a transcript of the record of the 1864
4618. Manner of alleging joint ownership of property. In any indictment wherein it is necessary to state the ownership of any property whatsoever, whether real or personal, which belongs to, or is in the possession of, more than one person, whether such persons be partners in trade, joint tenants or tenants in common, it is sufficient to name one of such persons, and to state such property to belong to the person so named, and another or others, as the case may be; and whenever, in any such indictment, it is necessary to mention, for any purpose whatsoever, any partners, joint tenants or tenants in common, it is sufficient to describe them in the manner aforesaid; and this provision shall extend to all joint-stock companies and trustees.

Rev., s. 3250; Code, s. 1188; R. C., c. 35, s. 19.

See generally: State v. Edwards, 86-666; State v. Patterson, 68-292; State v. Capps, 71-93.

An indictment for larceny which charges the thing taken to be the property of "A and another or others" is fatally defective under this section: State v. Harper, 64-129.

An indictment for injury to livestock, where the property was laid in "A and others," and the proof was that A was the sole owner, is defective and not cured by this section: State v. Hill, 79-656.

Section merely cited: State v. Daniel, 121-574; State v. Lewis, 142-636.

4619. Description in bill for larceny of money. In every indictment in which it is necessary to make any averment as to the larceny of any money, or United States treasury note, or any note of any bank whatsoever, it is sufficient to describe such money, or treasury note, or bank note, simply as money, without specifying any particular coin, or treasury note, or bank note; and such allegation, so far as regards the description of the property, shall be sustained by proof of any amount of coin, or treasury note, or bank note, although the particular species of coin, of which such amount was composed, or the particular nature of the treasury note, or bank note, shall not be proven.

Rev., s. 3251; Code, s. 1190; 1876-7, c. 68.

See generally: State v. Reese, 83-637; State v. Freeman, 89-469; State v. Carter, 113-639.

A charge of theft of "$5 in money of the value of $5" is good, and is sustained by proof of theft of any amount of coin, or treasury note, or bank note, although the particular species of coin, of which such amount was composed, or the particular nature of the treasury note, or bank note, shall not be proven.

Rev., s. 3252; Code, s. 1020; 1871-2, c. 145, s. 2.

4620. Description in bill for embezzlement. In indictments for embezzlement, except when the offense relates to a chattel, it is sufficient to allege the embezzlement to be of money, without specifying any particular coin or valuable security; and such allegation, so far as regards the description of the property, shall be sustained if the offender shall be proved to have embezzled any amount, although the particular species of coin or valuable security of which such amount was composed shall not be proved.

Rev., s. 3252; Code, s. 1020; 1871-2, c. 145, s. 2.

Section cited in State v. Fain, 106-760. See sections 4268-4276.
4621. Intent to defraud; larceny and receiving. In any case where an intent to defraud is required to constitute the offense of forgery, or any other offense whatever, it is sufficient to allege in the indictment an intent to defraud, without naming therein the particular person or body corporate intended to be defrauded; and on the trial of such indictment, it shall be sufficient, and shall not be deemed a variance, if there appear to be an intent to defraud the United States, or any state, county, city, town, or parish, or body corporate, or any public officer in his official capacity, or any copartnership or member thereof, or any particular person. The defendant may be charged in the same indictment in several counts with the separate offenses of receiving stolen goods, knowing them to be stolen, and larceny.

Rev., s. 3253; Code, s. 1191; R. C., c. 35, ss. 21, 23; 1852, c. 87, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 62.

4622. Separate counts; consolidation. When there are several charges against any person for the same act or transaction or for two or more acts or transactions connected together, or for two or more transactions of the same class of crimes or offenses, which may be properly joined, instead of several indictments, the whole may be joined in one indictment in separate counts; and if two or more indictments are found in such cases, the court will order them to be consolidated: Provided, that in such consolidating cases the defendant shall be taxed the solicitor’s full fee for the first count, and half fees for each subsequent count upon which conviction is had: Provided, this section shall not be construed to reduce the punishment or penalty for such offense or offenses.

4623. Bill or warrant not quashed for informality. Every criminal proceeding by warrant, indictment, information, or impeachment is sufficient in form for all intents and purposes if it express the charge against the defendant in a plain, intelligible, and explicit manner; and the same shall not be quashed, nor the judgment thereon stayed, by reason of any informality or refinement, if in the bill or proceeding, sufficient matter appears to enable the court to proceed to judgment.

Rev., s. 3254; Code, s. 1183; R. C., c. 35, s. 14; 37 Hen. VIII, c. 8; 1784, c. 210, s. 2; 1811, c. 809.

The act of 1811 applied to indictments in the superior courts and cured the same defects that were cured in indictments in the county courts by the act of 1784: State v. Newmans, 4-171.

Motion to quash or to arrest judgment will not be sustained unless the bill is so defective that the court cannot proceed to judgment: State v. Carpenter, 173-767; State v. Taylor, 172-892. While not necessary to allege matters of form, the bill should alleging matters of substance so that the court may see the offense charged, and the defendant be informed of the charge: State v. Cline, 150-854; State v. Lunsford, 150-862; State v. Gibson, 170-697.

The rule against technicalities may be invoked to protect defendant in his objection to the bill of indictment: State v. Wood, 175-809.

In a charge for a statutory offense, when it is necessary to negative an exception: State v. Moore, 166-284.

If the process is improperly issued and the defendant appears or is brought into court, it may be corrected or set aside and defendant held for new process: State v. Turner, 170-701. An answer to the merits waives the defect: Ibid.

INDICTMENTS REMEDIED BY THIS SECTION. One which has a misrecital of the proper county in the caption, State v. Sprinkle, 65-463—where blanks in the caption are not filled out, State v. Francis, 157-012—which uses “said court” for “said county” where the context shows what was meant, State v. Evans, 69-40—which fails to describe the defendant by the addition of his occupation, State v. Newman, 4-171—which describes the defendant as “N. J. S.” in one place and “Nimrod, J. S.” in another, and similar cases, State v. Henderson, 68-348; State v. Best, 108-747; State v. Hester, 122-1047; State v. Drakeford, 162-667—which fails to state the time and place of the offense or states the time incorrectly, when time and place are not of the essence, State v. Cherry, 7-7; State v. Shepherd, 30-195; State v. Wilson, 67-456; State v. Williamson, 81-540; State v. Arnold, 107-861—which omits a word not especially required and where the sense is shown by the context, State v. Lane, 26-113; State v. Simons, 70-336; State v. Rinehart, 75-58; State v. Walker, 87-541; State v. Arnold, 107-861; State v. Barnes, 122-1031; State v. Ridge, 125-655—which omits the word “did” in the indictment, State v. Hawkins, 155-466—which charges “the intent to commit a felony” instead of using the word “feloniously,” State v. Gaffney, 157-624—which merely adds evidential matters, State v. Wynne, 151-644—which uses superfluous words, State v. Guest, 100-411; State v. Arnold, 107-861; State v. Darden, 117-697; State v. Piner, 141-760—for the slander of an innocent woman, which does not set out the words spoken, when the charge is directly made, State v. Haddock, 109-873—for rape, which charges that an act was done “violently and feloniously” instead of “forcibly,” State v. Johnson, 67-55—which uses the word “blow” for “wound,” where the context shows that a wound was given and nature of it, State v. Norblett, 47-418—which is for the larceny of a “kip” skin and the proof was the larceny of a “kip” skin, and similar cases, State v. Campbell, 76-261; State v. Underwood, 77-502—which uses the word “spinster” after the name of a married female defendant, State v. Guest, 100-411—which lays the offense as committed against the “act of assembly,” instead of against the “statute,” State v. Tribby, 32-151—which fails to have the names of the witnesses checked off, as examined, unless it is shown as a fact that the witnesses were not sworn and examined, or one not signed by the foreman or not signed “true bill,” State v. Sultan, 142-572, overruling State v. McBroome, 127-528; State v. Long, 143-670—where a secret assault upon two persons at the same time is charged, State v. Knotts, 168-173—where the affidavit and warrant taken together make the charge definite, State v. Poythress, 174-809.

See section 4625.

INDICTMENTS NOT REMEDIED BY SECTION. One which contains several counts, charging distinct and separate felonies, State v. Rell, 80-442; State v. Pender, 107-853—a count in the indictment which does not contain the name of the defendant and distinctly charge him with the offense, State v. Phelps, 65-450. Cured by section 4625. One for felony which fails to charge that the offense was done “feloniously”: State v. Purdie, 67-25; State v. 1867.
4624. No quashal for grand juror's failure to pay taxes or being party to suit. No indictment shall be quashed nor shall judgment thereon be arrested by reason of the fact that any member of the grand jury finding such bills of indictment had not paid his taxes for the preceding year, or was a party to any suit pending and at issue.

1907, c. 36.

Section referred to in State v. Banner, 149-519.

4625. Defects which do not vitiate. No judgment upon any indictment for felony or misdemeanor, whether after verdict, or by confession, or otherwise, shall be stayed or reversed for the want of the averment of any matter unnecessary to be proved, nor for omission of the words "as appears by the record," or of the words "with force and arms," nor for the insertion of the words "against the form of the statutes" instead of the words "against the form of the statute," or vice versa; nor for omission of the words "against the form of the statute" or "against the form of the statutes," nor for omitting to state the time at which the offense was committed in any case where time is not of the essence of the offense, nor for stating the time imperfectly, nor for stating the offense to have been committed on a day subsequent to the finding of the indictment, or on an impossible day, or on a day that never happened; nor for want of a proper and perfect venue, when the court shall appear by the indictment to have had jurisdiction of the offense.

Rev., s. 3255; Code, s. 1189; R. C., c. 35, s. 20; 7 Hen. VIII, c. 8.

It is not necessary that an indictment conclude "against the peace and dignity of the state"; State v. Kirkman, 104-911 (overruling State v. Joyner, 81-534); State v. Peters, 107-876—nor "against the form of the statute (or statutes)"; State v. Sykes, 104-694; State v. Kirkman, 104-911; State v. Harris, 106-652; State v. Peters, 107-876. Indictment need not charge the place where an affray was committed: State v. Lancaster, 169-284—nor the time when time is not material, State v. Francis, 157-612. To omit the word "and" in describing an "innocent and virtuous woman" is immaterial: State v. Ratliff, 170-707. The date charged in the bill is immaterial: State v. White, 146-608.

This section does not remedy an indictment for felony which fails to charge that the offense was done "feloniously," State v. Shaw, 117-765—an indictment for murder by a stroke or blow which fails to allege the infliction of a "mortal wound," State v. Morgan, 85-581—an indictment which charges several distinct and separate offenses in same count may be quashed, but the objection is waived by failure to move in apt time, or by a nol. pros. as to all but one charge, or by verdict, State v. Burnett, 142-577.
ART. 14. TRIAL BEFORE JUSTICE

4626. In cases of final jurisdiction. When the justice is satisfied that he has jurisdiction, if no jury is asked for, he shall proceed to determine the case, and shall either acquit the accused or find him guilty, and sentence him to such punishment as the case may require, not to exceed in any case a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for thirty days.

Rev., s. 3256; Code, s. 897; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 8.

See generally: State v. Shelly, 98-673. For jurisdiction of justice in criminal actions, see section 1481 and annotations thereunder.

4627. Trial by jury, if demanded. If either the complainant or the accused shall ask for it, the justice shall allow a trial by jury, as is provided in civil actions before justices of the peace.

Rev., s. 3257; Code, s. 898; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 9.

Constitutionality of trial without jury: State v. Stewart, 89-563; see cases collected under Const., Art. I, sec. 13.

4628. What submitted to jury. In case a trial by jury is had, the justice shall submit to the jury in each case simply the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused of the offense charged, and shall enter the verdict on his docket, and adjudge accordingly.

Rev., s. 3258; Code, s. 899; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 10.

4629. Commitment after judgment. The commitment to the county prison shall set forth—
1. The name of the guilty person.
2. The nature of the offense of which he is convicted and the date of the trial.
3. The period of his imprisonment.
4. It shall be directed to the sheriff of the county, or to the keeper of the county jail, and shall direct him to keep the prisoner for the time stated, or until discharged by law.
5. The name of the constable or other officer required to execute it.
6. It shall be signed by the justice and be dated.

Rev., s. 3259; Code, s. 1238; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 17.

That the mittimus does not comply, in all respects, with the requirements of this section is no defense to the charge of taking by force, from the custody of a lawful officer, a prisoner legally committed to his charge: State v. Armistead, 106-640.

4630. Parties entitled to copy of papers; bar to indictment. The justice shall give to either party on request, and on payment of his lawful fee, a copy of the complaint and of his finding and sentence. Such finding and sentence may be pleaded in bar of any indictment subsequently found for the same offense.

Rev., s. 3260; Code, ss. 902, 903; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, ss. 13, 14.

As to former conviction, see State v. Lucas, 139-567. Section merely cited: State v. Lyon, 93-575.

4631. Justice to make return of cases to superior court. It is the duty of each justice of the peace on or before Monday of every term of the superior court of his county, to furnish the clerk of the court with a list of the names and offenses of all parties tried and finally disposed of by such justice of the peace, together with the papers in each case, in all criminal actions, since the last term of the superior court. The clerk of the court shall hand a copy of such list to the solicitor and to the grand jury at each term of court; and no indictment shall be found against any party whose case has been so finally disposed of by any justice of the peace: Provided, that this section shall not be deemed to extend or enlarge or otherwise affect the jurisdiction of justices of the peace, except as provided by law.

Rev., s. 3261; Code, s. 906; 1869-70, c. 110.

Failure to comply with this section is a misdemeanor by section 4385.

ART. 15. TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

4632. Prisoner standing mute, plea "not guilty" entered. If any person, being arraigned upon or charged in any indictment for any crime, shall stand mute of malice or will not answer directly to the indictment, the court shall order the plea of "not guilty" to be entered on behalf of such person; and the plea so entered shall have the same force and effect as if such person had pleaded the same.

Rev., s. 3262; Code, s. 1198; R. C., c. 35, s. 29; R. S., c. 35, s. 16.

As to deaf-mutes: State v. Harris, 53-136.

Plea may be entered after verdict in some cases: State v. McMillan, 68-440.

It is within the judge's discretion to allow defendant to withdraw a plea of guilty and enter a plea of not guilty, or vice versa: State v. Branner, 149-559.

Plea of former acquittal, effect of, and to what it applies: State v. Freeman, 162-594.

Section cited: State v. Pollard, 83-598. Also, see State v. Farrar, 104-702; State v. Jackson, 82-565.

4633. Peremptory challenges of jurors by defendant. Every person on joint or several trial for his life may make a peremptory challenge of twelve jurors and no more; and in all joint or several trials for crimes and misdemeanors, other than capital, every person on trial shall have the right of challenging peremptorily, and without showing cause, four jurors and no more. And to enable defendants to exercise this right, the clerk in all such trials shall read over the names of the jurors on the panel, in the presence and hearing of the defendants and their counsel, before the jury shall be impaneled to try the issue; and the judge or other presiding officer of the court shall decide all questions as to the competency of jurors.

Rev., s. 3263; Code, s. 1199; 1913, c. 31, s. 3; 1887, c. 53; 1871-2, c. 39; R. S., c. 35, ss. 19, 21; 1777, c. 115, s. 85; 1812, c. 833; 1801, c. 592, s. 1; 1826, c. 9; 22 Hen. VIII, c. 14, s. 6.

Jury trial means by twelve men. In a criminal case the defendant cannot consent to a trial by less than twelve: State v. Rogers, 162-656.

Neither of two defendants in an indictment on a joint trial has cause to complain of a challenge by the other: State v. Smith, 24-402. The right of the defendant is to object to, not to select, jurors: State v. Banner, 149-519.

Prisoner must exhaust his peremptory challenges before he can assign as error the ruling of the court upon the competency of a juror challenged by him: State v. Hensley, 94-1021; 1870
On an indictment for murder, where the solicitor states that he will only ask for a verdict of murder in the second degree or manslaughter, the defendant is not entitled to more than four peremptory challenges: State v. Hunt, 128-584; State v. Caldwell, 129-682.

Standing a juror aside to be called at end of panel is a challenge for cause by the state: State v. Benton, 19-196. Defendant cannot stand jurors aside until panel is finished: State v. Bone, 52-121.

Error to permit state to peremptorily challenge juror after he has been passed upon by state and tendered to prisoner: State v. Fuller, 114-885. But not error to permit state to challenge a juror after passing him and before he was accepted by defendant, when defendant has not exhausted his peremptory challenges: State v. Carroll, 176-730.

Where juror in a capital case states that he is opposed to capital punishment and has religious scruples against acting as a juror, trial court should excuse him: State v. Vick, 132-995. Trial court can excuse juror, before jury impaneled, although solicitor has passed him to prisoner and has not challenged him for cause: Ibid.

Where a trial judge rests his refusal to exercise his discretion upon the mistaken opinion, either that it is not vested in him or that the facts are not such as to call for its exercise, it is error: State v. Fuller, 114-885.

Section cited in Dunn v. R. R., 131-449; State v. Hargrove, 100-484; State v. Davis, 80-385; State v. Patrick, 48-443; State v. Caldwell, 46-289; State v. Morgan, 19-348.

CHALLENGE TO ARRAY. Action of trial judge in determining qualifications of a jurymen, if erroneous, is ground for challenge to the array by motion to quash and set aside entire panel, and in absence of such challenge a defendant cannot be allowed to take advantage of the alleged error after trial and judgment: State v. Moore, 120-570.

It is not a challenge to the array for solicitor to ask "if any member of the jury had formed and expressed the opinion that the prisoner was not guilty, to let it be known": State v. Walker, 145-567.

Not ground of challenge that sheriff failed to summon some drawn from box, or that box not properly revised, there being no charge of corruption or partiality: State v. Stanton, 118-1182; State v. Banner, 149-519—such objection comes too late after a plea of not guilty, Ibid.—or that one man named in writ had removed from county; that another was dead when jury list revised; that one was not summoned; nor that sheriff, in copying list, omitted, by mistake, the name of one who in consequence was not summoned, State v. Whitt, 113-716; see, also, State v. Speaks, 94-865—or that no person of color, the prisoner being a colored man, was summoned upon the special venire, State v. Sloan, 97-499.

Provisions of law as to revising of jury list are directory and not mandatory, and it is no cause of challenge to the array that they were not revised at time and place specified, a proper revision having been made: State v. Teachy, 138-587.

CHALLENGE OF JURORS FOR CAUSE. If juror called is biased by prejudice against prisoner's race: State v. McAfee, 64-339—or has a personal grudge, State v. Benton, 19-210. If juror related to parties interested: State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Perry, 44-330; State v. Shaw, 25-532; State v. Ketchey, 70-621.

If juror formed and expressed an opinion: State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Green, 95-611; State v. Eidler, 85-585; State v. Collins, 70-241; State v. Benton, 19-209—but if juror states he is not so prejudiced that he could not render a fair and impartial verdict, he is competent, State v. Terry, 173-761; State v. Foster, 172-961; State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Kilgore, 93-533; State v. DeGraff, 113-688; State v. Bohanon, 142-695; State v. Ellington, 29-66; but see State v. Benton, 19-217.

The only requisite for a special venireman is that he is a freeholder of the county: State v. Kilgore, 93-533—no cause of challenge that he has served on jury within two years, Ibid.

Party knowing of ground for challenge before trial, and not availing himself of it, shall not have a new trial: State v. McEntyre, 1-267.
Regular juror cannot be challenged on ground that he has served on jury within past two years: State v. Brittain, 89-481.

Juror can himself state to court why he is not competent to serve: State v. Vann, 162-534; State v. Benton, 19-222; State v. Jones, 80-415; State v. Vestal, 82-563—and if he states, after being accepted, that he has served on jury within past two years, it is not error in the court to then allow a challenge by the state: State v. Vestal, 82-563; see State v. Jones, 80-415.

A prosecutor in a criminal action to which defendant has not pleaded is not disqualified as a juror in another cause: State v. Brady, 107-822. That juror is a nonresident of county is good ground for challenge, but not for a new trial after verdict rendered: State v. Upton, 170-769; State v. White, 68-158.

Juror prejudiced against prosecuting witness: State v. Little, 174-793.

Where cause of challenge admitted by the state, prisoner is bound by his challenge: State v. Creasman, 32-395.

4634. Peremptory challenges by the state. In all capital cases the prosecuting officer on behalf of the state shall have the right to challenge peremptorily four jurors for each defendant, but shall not have the right to stand any jurors at the foot of the panel. The challenge must be made before the juror is tendered to the prisoner, and if he will challenge more than four jurors he shall assign for his challenge a cause certain; and in all other cases of a criminal nature a challenge of two jurors shall be allowed in behalf of the state for each defendant, and challenge also for a cause certain, and in all cases of challenge for cause certain the same shall be inquired of according to the custom of the court.

Rev., s. 3264; Code, s. 1200; 1918, c. 31, s. 4; 1907, c. 415; 1887, c. 58; R. C.; e. 35, s. 33; 1827, c. 10; 33 Edw. I, c. 4.

For annotations, see sections 2331, 4633.

4635. Challenge to special venire same as to tales jurors. In the trial of all criminal cases, where a special venire shall be ordered, the same causes of challenge to the jurors summoned on the special venire shall be allowed as exist to tales jurors.

Rev., s. 3265; 1887, c. 53.

For causes of challenge, see chapter entitled Jurors.

4636. Exclusion of bystanders in trials for rape. In the trial of cases for rape and of assault with the intent to commit rape, the trial judge may, during the taking of the testimony of the prosecutrix, exclude from the court-room all persons except the officers of the court, the defendant and those engaged in the trial of the case; and upon the preliminary hearing before a justice of the peace of the offenses above named, that officer may adopt a like course.

4637. Term expiring during trial extended. In case the term of a court shall expire while a trial for felony shall be in progress, and before judgment shall be given therein, the judge shall continue the term as long as in his opinion it shall be necessary for the purposes of the case; and he may in his discretion exercise the same power in the trial of any other cause under the same circumstances, except civil actions begun after Thursday of the last week.

Rev., s. 3266; Code, s. 1229; 1893, c. 226; C. C. P., s. 397; R. C., c. 31, s. 16; 1830, c. 22.

Expiration of term is no reason, in felony case, to discharge jury before verdict; judge can continue court, and if he is due to begin another court on the next Monday, he can postpone it for four days: State v. McGimsey, 80-377—or the governor may designate another judge to hold the next court: State v. Wood, 175-809; State v. R. R., 145-495. See generally: State v. Penley, 107-808. Section cited in State v. Bullock, 63-570; State v. Jefferson, 66-309; State v. McGimsey, 80-377; Taylor v. Erwin, 119-274.

4638. Justification as defense to libel. Every defendant who is charged by indictment with the publication of a libel may prove on the trial for the same the truth of the facts alleged in the indictment; and if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the jury that the facts are true, the defendant shall be acquitted of the charge.

Rev. s. 3267; Code, s. 1195; R. C., c. 35, s. 26.

See generally: State v. Lyon, 89-568. The defendant cannot justify under this section by showing a general report in the neighborhood of the truth of his libelous publication: State v. White, 29-180.

Section cited in Jones v. Brinkley, 174-23.

4639. Conviction of assault, when included in charge. On the trial of any person for rape, or any felony whatsoever, when the crime charged includes an assault against the person, it is lawful for the jury to acquit of the felony and to find a verdict of guilty of assault against the person indicted, if the evidence warrants such finding; and when such verdict is found the court shall have power to imprison the person so found guilty of an assault, for any term now allowed by law in cases of conviction when the indictment was originally for the assault of a like character.

Rev., s. 3268; 1889, c. 68.

Section explained in State v. Smith, 157-578.

4640. Conviction for a less degree or an attempt. Upon the trial of any indictment the prisoner may be convicted of the crime charged therein or of a less degree of the same crime, or of an attempt to commit the crime so charged, or of an attempt to commit a less degree of the same crime.

Rev., s. 3269; 1891, c. 205, s. 2.

See generally, as to murder: State v. Matthews, 142-621—as to rape, State v. Lance, 166-411. In a charge for murder, defendant may be convicted as accessory before the fact: State v. Bryson, 173-803.

Since this section the joinder, in an indictment for an offense, of a count for a lesser offense, or for an attempt to commit the same, is mere surplusage: State v. Brown, 113-645.

4641. Burglary in first degree charged, verdict for second degree. When the crime charged in the bill of indictment is burglary in the first degree, the jury may render a verdict of guilty of burglary in the second degree if they deem it proper so to do.

Rev., s. 3270; 1889, c. 434, s. 3.

See generally: State v. Foster, 129-704.
4642. Verdict for murder in first or second degree. Nothing contained in the statute law dividing murder into degrees shall be construed to require any alteration or modification of the existing form of indictment for murder, but the jury before whom the offender is tried shall determine in their verdict whether the crime is murder in the first or second degree.

Rev., s. 3271; 1893, c. 85, s. 3.

Section declared constitutional: State v. Cole, 132-1069. See generally: State v. Lane, 166-338; State v. Gilchrist, 113-673; State v. Covington, 117-834; State v. Matthews, 142-621.

An indictment, though drawn according to the precedent in use before act of 1893, is in proper form and charges the offense of murder in the first degree: State v. Lipscomb, 134-689.

This section applies equally to all indictments for murder: State v. Matthews, 142-621. Since the act, when nothing else appears, the killing is presumed to be murder in the second degree: State v. Wilcox, 118-1131; State v. Dowden, 118-1145; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Rhyne, 124-847; State v. Hicks, 125-638; State v. Bishop, 131-733; State v. Daniels, 134-676; State v. Capps, 134-628.

It is the duty of the jury to determine in their verdict whether the crime is murder in the first or second degree: State v. Gadberry, 117-811; compare State v. Gilchrist, 113-673; State v. Daniels, 134-675—and this is duty of petit jury and not the grand jury, State v. Ewing, 127-555; State v. Hunt, 128-584. The verdict is construed with reference to the charge and the evidence: State v. Wiggins, 171-815; State v. Murphy, 175-614—but the judge should have the jury express in the verdict the degree of the crime, State v. Bagley, 158-608.

When the whole evidence shows the offense to be murder in the first degree or not guilty, it is not error for the judge to so instruct the jury: State v. Walker, 170-716.

4643. Demurrer to the evidence. When on the trial of any criminal action in the superior court, or in any criminal court, the state has produced its evidence and rested its case, the defendant may move to dismiss the action or for judgment of nonsuit. If the motion is allowed, judgment shall be entered accordingly; and such judgment shall have the force and effect of a verdict of "not guilty" as to such defendant. If the motion is refused, the defendant may except; and if the defendant introduces no evidence, the case shall be submitted to the jury as in other cases, and the defendant shall have the benefit of his exception on appeal to the supreme court.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the defendant from introducing evidence after his motion for nonsuit has been overruled; and he may again move for judgment of nonsuit after all of the evidence in the case is concluded. If the motion is then refused, upon consideration of all of the evidence, the defendant may except; and, after the jury has rendered its verdict, he shall have the benefit of such latter exception on appeal to the supreme court. If defendant's motion for judgment of nonsuit be granted, or be sustained on appeal to the supreme court, it shall in all cases have the force and effect of a verdict of "not guilty."

1913, c. 73; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 32.

Demurrer to the evidence and motion of nonsuit are proper methods of taking advantage of a variance in criminal cases: State v. Gibson, 169-318; s. c., 170-697. If allowed it has the effect of an acquittal: State v. Moore, 166-371.

A nonsuit in a criminal case does not interfere with the power of the judge to order a mistrial in his discretion: State v. Andrews, 166-349.

If the defendant's motion is denied and he introduces evidence he loses the benefit of the first motion: State v. Killian, 173-792.
Demurrer to the evidence in criminal case must be taken before verdict: State v. Leak, 156-643; State v. Houston, 155-432. But the attorney-general may consent to a demurrer to the evidence in the supreme court: Ibid. For practice in civil cases, see section 567.

4644. New trial to defendant. The courts may grant new trials in criminal cases when the defendant is found guilty, under the same rules and regulations as in civil cases.

Rev. s. 3272; Code, s. 1202; R. C., c. 35, s. 35; 1815, c. 895.

See generally: State v. Gee, 92-756; State v. Bennett, 93-503; State v. Bailey, 100-523; State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Perry, 121-533; State v. Lilliston, 141-857; State v. Turner, 143-641.

Where special verdict is so defective that court cannot pronounce judgment upon it, the rule is to order a new trial: State v. Hamner, 143-632, and cases cited.

The defendant is not entitled to a continuance in order that he may apply for a pardon: State v. Newell, 172-933—nor is a defendant entitled to be discharged because he has been used as a witness for the state against other defendants, Ibid.

When the judge directs the clerk to enter a verdict of not guilty, as upon a variance, and afterwards strikes out the entry and makes a mistrial, such action is not reviewable: State v. Ford, 168-165.

Where a trial judge rests his refusal to exercise his discretion upon the mistaken opinion either that it is not vested in him or that the facts are not such as to call for its exercise, it is error: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Perry, 121-533.

When a motion for a new trial is based upon affidavits, the supreme court will not look into them; the court below must find the facts and spread them on the record: State v. Best, 111-638; State v. DeGriff, 113-689—and where the trial judge finds the facts and refuses to grant a new trial, his decision on that ground is not reviewable, State v. Fuller, 114-885.

The granting of a new trial upon newly discovered evidence is, in criminal cases, within the discretion of the trial judge, in the absence of gross abuse, and the supreme court cannot entertain such a motion, nor can it entertain a petition to rehear a criminal case: State v. Trull, 169-363; State v. Ice Co., 166-403; State v. Arthur, 151-653; State v. DeGriff, 113-689; State v. Lilliston, 141-857; State v. Turner, 143-641; State v. Starnes, 94-973, 97-423; State v. Rowe, 98-629.

A new trial will not be granted, on motion, to the state: State v. Freeman, 66-647—for or for a variance between the allegation and proof, where no exception is taken in the court below, State v. Craig, 89-475—for or for an erroneous statement of the law which the finding of the jury corrects, State v. Grady, 83-643—as a matter of law because a witness was not sworn and the fact was not discovered until after the jury had retired, State v. Gee, 92-756—because of abuse of privilege in the argument to the jury, except where it is gross, and probably injured the complaining party and was not properly checked by the trial judge, State v. Rogers, 94-860; State v. Davenport, 156-590—because a juror is not a resident of the county in which the indictment is tried, State v. White, 68-158; State v. Upton, 170-760—because a juror who says on oath that he has not made up his opinion, said before summoned that he had made up his opinion, State v. Scott, 8-24—because the jury took refreshments after retiring, unless it appear that the refreshments were furnished by the party in whose favor the verdict was given, State v. Sparrow, 7-487—or because the jurors were allowed to sleep in separate but adjoining rooms, State v. Trull, 169-363.

Where a defendant is acquitted upon one count in an indictment and convicted upon another, and a new trial is awarded, it must be to retry the whole case: State v. Stanton, 23-424; see, also, State v. Grady, 83-643; State v. Bridgers, 87-562.

4645. Nolle pros. after two terms; when capias and subpensas to issue. A nolle prosequi "with leave" shall be entered in all criminal actions in which the indictment has been pending for two terms of court and the defendant has not been apprehended and in which a nolle prosequi has not been entered, unless the judge for good cause shown shall order otherwise. The clerk of the superior court shall issue a capias for the arrest of any defendant named in any criminal action in which a nolle prosequi has been entered when he has reasonable ground for believing that such defendant may be arrested or upon the application of the solicitor of the district. When any defendant shall be arrested it shall be the duty of the clerk to issue a subpoena for the witnesses for the state indorsed on the indictment.

Rev., s. 3273; 1905, c. 360, ss. 1, 3, 4.

For clerk's nol. pros. docket, see section 952.

Solician can enter a nol. pros. in his discretion: State v. Thompson, 10-613—and capias cannot again issue without leave of court, State v. Smith, 129-547; State v. Thornton, 35-256—but when nol. pros. "with leave" entered, solicitor can issue capias without further leave,

Effect of a nol. pros. being entered is not to acquit defendant, but he may still be prosecuted for the same offense: State v. Smith, 170-742; Wilkinson v. Wilkinson, 159-265; State Entering a nol. pros., with leave, does not start the statute of limitations again: State v.

Williams, 151-660.

4646. Prisoner not to be tried in prison uniform. It shall be unlawful for any sheriff, jailer or other officer to require any person imprisoned in jail to appear in any court for trial dressed in the uniform or dress of a prisoner or convict, or in any uniform or apparel other than ordinary civilian's dress, or with shaven or clipped head. And no person charged with a criminal offense shall be tried in any court while dressed in the uniform or dress of a prisoner or convict, or in any uniform or apparel other than ordinary civilian's dress, or with head shaven or clipped by or under the direction and requirement of any sheriff, jailer or other officer, unless the head was shaven or clipped while such person was serving a term of imprisonment for the commission of a crime.

Any sheriff, jailer or other officer who violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

1915, c. 124.

ART. 16. APPEAL

4647. Appeal from justice, trial de novo. The accused may appeal from the sentence of the justice to the superior court of the county. On such appeal being prayed, the justice shall recognize both the prosecutor and the accused, and all the material witnesses, to appear at the next term of the court, in such sums as he shall think proper; and he may require the accused to give sureties for his appearance as aforesaid. In all cases of appeal, the trial shall be anew, without prejudice from the former proceedings.

Rev., s. 3274; Code, s. 900; 1883-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 11; 1879, c. 92, s. 10.

See generally (for a discussion of this act as amended from time to time): State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Griffiths, 117-709.

In a criminal prosecution no appeal lies except from a final judgment: State v. Ford, 168-165; State v. Webb, 155-426. For appeal on peace warrant, see section 4539.

The appeal allowed by this section and under article 4, section 27, of the constitution is for the benefit of the accused only; but so much of the judgment as is personal to the prosecutor and taxes him with the costs may be appealed from: State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Morgan, 120-563.

Upon an appeal from a justice of the peace this section does not make it necessary that the defendant should be tried upon an indictment found by a grand jury: State v. Quick, 72-241; State v. Thornton, 136-619—nor is it necessary when appeal is from a recorder's court, State
v. Freeman, 172-925; State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Jones, 145-460; State v. Lytle, 138-1876
738. But if the offense is not within the jurisdiction of the lower court a bill of indictment is necessary: State v. McAden, 162-575; State v. Hooker, 145-581; State v. Fesperman, 108-770; State v. Hyman, 164-411.

Defendant not entitled to new trial because punishment imposed by police justice was unauthorized; the case should be remanded for resentence: State v. Black, 150-866.

On appeal from a justice of the peace's refusal to grant a motion in an arrest of judgment, the whole case is brought up and the defendant is entitled to a trial de novo, unless he has pleaded guilty, when he is only entitled to bring up for review the question whether the facts charged and admitted by the plea constitute the offense: State v. Koonce, 108-752; State v. Warren, 113-683.

4648. Justice to return papers and findings to superior court. In every case in which an appeal shall be prayed the justice shall forthwith transmit to the clerk of the superior court of the county all papers in the case, together with a copy of the verdict, if any, of his determination of the facts if there shall have been no trial by jury, and of the sentence, in which shall be set forth all the facts found by him, as well as his finding of those which were alleged in the complaint and which were found by him not to be proved.

Rev., s. 3275; Code, s. 901; 1868-9, c. 178, sub. 4, s. 12.

Section cited in State v. Lyon, 93-575.

4649. When state may appeal. An appeal to the supreme court may be taken by the state in the following cases, and no other. Where judgment has been given for the defendant—

1. Upon a special verdict.
2. Upon a demurrer.
3. Upon a motion to quash.
4. Upon arrest of judgment.

As to the law before this section, see State v. Lane, 78-547; State v. Keeter, 82-457; State v. Padgett, 82-544; State v. Scanlan, 85-601; State v. Swepson, 83-584.

State may appeal when judge sustains defendant's demurrer to pleading, and not to the evidence: State v. Moody, 150-847. State cannot appeal when judge directs a verdict of not guilty: Ibid.—nor when the judge strikes out a plea of guilty and enters a verdict of not guilty without a jury, State v. Branner, 149-559.

In case of an appeal lost without laches, the state may have a writ of certiorari as substitute: State v. Swepson, 83-584.

4650. Appeal by defendant to supreme court. In all cases of conviction in the superior court for any criminal offense, the defendant shall have the right to appeal, on giving adequate security to abide the sentence, judgment or decree of the supreme court; and the appeal shall be perfected and the case for the supreme court settled, as provided in civil actions.

Rev., s. 3277; Code, s. 1237.

The statutory appeal takes the place of the old writ of error: State v. Webb, 155-426. Appeal by the defendant in a criminal case from the superior court to the supreme court vacates the judgment of the former: State v. Applewhite, 75-229; State v. Jones, 69-16; State v. Miller, 94-908.

1877
Appeal, without assigning error or showing new facts, dismissed: State v. Miller, 97-450; State v. Brown, 106-645.

Premature appeal, if taken otherwise than from a judgment on conviction or on a plea of guilty: State v. Ford, 168-165. No appeal from a motion to quash: State v. Burnett, 173-750.

Upon suspension of judgment with consent of defendant, he waives his right to appeal on the question of his guilt or innocence: State v. Tripp, 168-150.

On appeal by defendant when the complete record cannot be sent up, he should docket the case and ask for certiorari: State v. McDraughon, 168-131.

If, pending an appeal in a criminal case, the statute authorizing the indictment is repealed, or when an ‘amnesty act’ which includes the prisoner is passed, judgment will be arrested: State v. Nutt, 61-20; State v. Applewhite, 75-299.

When, pending the appeal of a prisoner who has been convicted of a capital felony, he makes his escape, the supreme court has power in its discretion to dismiss the appeal or hear or continue it: State v. DeVane, 166-281; State v. Keebler, 145-550; State v. Jacobs, 107-772; State v. Anderson, 111-689.

Judgment in criminal case to be enforced at a future day: In re Hinson, 156-250.

Withdrawing juror and ordering a mistrial in criminal case: State v. Cain, 175-825; State v. Upton, 170-769.

When appellant’s case is served in time and there is no exception or countercase served, it is ‘‘the case’’: State v. Carlton, 107-956. Transcript should be made up in proper form: State v. Butts, 91-524; State v. Farrar, 103-411. Sufficiency of undertaking: State v. Byrd, 93-624.

Supreme court will not consider case on appeal when it does not appear to have been served upon opposing party and no case on appeal appears in the record proper: State v. Lewis, 145-585, and cases cited.

4651. Defendant may appeal without security for costs. In all cases of conviction in the superior courts, the defendant shall have the right to appeal without giving security for costs, upon filing an affidavit that he is wholly unable to give security for the costs, and is advised by counsel that he has reasonable cause for the appeal prayed, and that the application is in good faith.

Rev., s. 3278; Code, s. 1235; 1869-70, c. 196, s. 1. 1878
4652. Appeal granted; bail for appearance. It shall be the duty of the judge on filing the affidavit required in the preceding section to grant the appeal without security for costs, and for any bailable offense shall require the defendant to enter into recognizance in a reasonable sum to make his appearance at the first term of the superior court to be held in the county and to further answer the charge preferred.

Rev., s. 3279; Code, s. 1236; 1869-70, c. 196, s. 2.

Appeal in forma pauperis can be allowed only in term time and by the judge: State v. Gatewood, 125-694. The order to appeal in forma pauperis must be signed by the judge: State v. Parish, 151-659.

Section merely cited in State v. Spurtin, 80-362.

4653. Bail pending appeal. When any person convicted of a misdemeanor and sentenced by the court, shall appeal, the court shall allow such person to give bail pending appeal.

Rev., s. 3280; Code, s. 1181; R. C., c. 35, s. 12; 1850-1, c. 2.

The sentence of the defendant does not end the liability of the sureties on the bail bond for appearance: State v. Schenck, 138-562—but he must submit to such punishment as shall be adjudged, Ibid.

4654. Appeal not to vacate judgment; stay of execution. In criminal cases an appeal to the supreme court shall not have the effect of vacating the judgment appealed from, but upon perfecting the appeal as now required by law, either by giving bond or in forma pauperis, there shall be a stay of execution during the pendency of the appeal. The clerk of the superior court shall, as soon as may be after execution is stayed, as provided in this section, notify the attorney-general thereof. Said notice shall give the name of defendant, the crime of which he was convicted, and, if the statutory time for perfecting the appeal has been extended by agreement, the time of such extension. If for any reason the defendant should wish to withdraw his appeal before the same is docketed in the supreme court, he may go, or be taken, before the clerk of the superior court in which he was convicted, and said clerk shall enter such withdrawal upon the record of the case, and notify the sheriff, who shall proceed forthwith to execute the sentence.

Rev., s. 3281; 1887, c. 191, s. 1; 1887, c. 192, s. 4; 1919, c. 5.
Section cited and approved: State v. Jacobs, 107-772.

4655. Judgment for fines docketed; lien and execution. When the sentence in whole or in part directs the payment of a fine, the judgment shall be docketed by the clerk and be a lien on the real estate of the defendant in the same manner as judgments in civil actions, and executions thereon shall only be stayed, upon an appeal taken, by security being given in like manner as is required in civil cases. Should the judgment be affirmed upon appeal to the supreme court, the clerk of the superior court, on receipt of the certificate from the supreme court, shall issue execution on such judgment.

Rev., s. 3282; 1887, c. 191, s. 3.

4656. Procedure upon receipt of certificate of supreme court. The clerk of the superior court, in all cases where the judgment has been affirmed (except where the conviction is a capital felony), shall forthwith on receipt of the certificate of the opinion of the supreme court notify the sheriff, who shall proceed to execute the sentence which was appealed from. In criminal cases where the judgment is not affirmed the cases shall be placed upon the docket for trial at the first ensuing term of the court after the receipt of such certificate.

Rev., s. 3283; 1887, c. 192, s. 3.

Art. 17. Execution

4657. Death by electrocution. Death by hanging under sentence of law in North Carolina is hereby abolished and electrocution or death by electricity substituted therefor.

1909, c. 443, s. 1.

4658. Manner and place of execution. The mode of executing a death sentence must in every case be by causing to pass through the body of the convict or felon a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause death, and the application of such current must be continued until such convict or felon is dead; and the warden of the penitentiary of North Carolina or, in case of his death, inability or absence, a deputy warden shall be the executioner; and when any person, convict or felon shall be sentenced by any court of the state having competent jurisdiction to be so executed, such punishment shall only be inflicted within a permanent death chamber which the superintendent of the state penitentiary is hereby authorized and directed to provide within the walls of the North Carolina penitentiary at Raleigh, North Carolina. The superintendent of the state penitentiary shall also cause to be provided, in conformity with this article and approved by the governor and council of state, the necessary appliances for the infliction of the punishment of death in accordance with the requirements of this article.

4659. Sentence of death; prisoner taken to penitentiary. Upon the sentence of death being pronounced against any person in the state of North Carolina convicted of a crime punishable by death it shall be the duty of the judge pronouncing such death sentence to make the same in writing, which shall be filed in the papers in the case against such convicted person, and a certified copy thereof shall be transmitted by the clerk of the superior court in which such sentence is pronounced to the warden of the state penitentiary at Raleigh, North Carolina, not more than twenty nor less than ten days before the time fixed in the judgment of the court for the execution of the sentence; and in all cases where there is no appeal from the sentence of death and in all cases where the sentence is pronounced against a prisoner convicted of the crime of rape it shall be the duty of the sheriff, together with at least one deputy, to convey to the penitentiary at Raleigh such condemned felon or convict forthwith upon the adjournment of the court in which the felon was tried, and deliver the convict or felon to the warden of the penitentiary: Provided, that in all cases where an appeal is taken from the death sentence by any person convicted of a crime punishable by death, except the crime of rape, such convicted felon or convict shall not be taken or conveyed to the penitentiary unless, in the judgment of the sheriff of the county in which the felon was tried and the solicitor prosecuting the felon, it shall be deemed necessary for the safety and safe-keeping of the convicted person or felon during the pendency of the appeal.

4660. Warden or deputy to execute sentence. The warden or deputy warden (in case of the disability, death or absence of the warden), unless a suspension of execution be ordered, shall cause the person, convict or felon against whom the death sentence has been so pronounced to be electrocuted as provided by this article. At such execution there shall be present the warden or deputy warden, the surgeon or physician of the penitentiary and twelve respectable citizens. The counsel and any relatives of such person, convict or felon and a minister or ministers of the gospel may be present if they so desire.

4661. Certificate filed with clerk. The warden, together with the surgeon or physician of the penitentiary, shall certify the fact of the execution of the condemned person, convict or felon to the clerk of the superior court in which such sentence was pronounced, and the clerk shall file such certificate with the papers of the case and enter the same upon the records thereof.

4662. Notice of reprieve or new trial. Should the condemned person, convict or felon be granted a reprieve by the governor or obtain a writ of error, or a new trial be granted by the supreme court of the state of North Carolina, or should the execution of the sentence be stayed by any competent judicial tribunal or proceeding, notice of such reprieve, new trial, appeal, writ of error or stay of execution shall be served upon the warden or deputy warden of the penitentiary by the sheriff of Wake county, in case such condemned person is confined in the penitentiary, or upon any sheriff having the custody of any such condemned person, also upon the condemned person himself.
CRIMINAL PROCEDURE—Art. 17 Ch. 83

4663. Judgment sustained on appeal, governor fixes day for execution. In case of an appeal, should the supreme court find no error in the trial or should the execution of the sentence be stayed by any competent judicial tribunal or proceeding, such condemned person, convict or felon shall be executed as herefore provided in this article, the governor of North Carolina setting the day for such execution; and it is made the duty of the governor to set the date for such execution and notify the warden of the penitentiary thereof.

4664. New trial granted, prisoner taken to place of trial. Should a new trial be granted the condemned person, convict or felon against whom sentence of death has been pronounced, after he has been conveyed to the penitentiary, then he shall be conveyed back to the place of trial by such guard or guards as the warden of the penitentiary shall direct, their expenses to be paid as is now provided by law for the conveyance of convicts to the penitentiary.

1909, c. 443, s. 7.

4665. Disposition of body. Upon application, written or verbal, of any relative as near as the degree of fourth cousin of the person executed, made at any time prior to the execution or on the morning thereof, the body, after execution, shall be prepared for burial under the supervision of the warden or deputy warden and shall be returned to the nearest railroad station of the relative or relatives asking for such body. The cost of preparing the body for burial, including transportation, shall in no case exceed the sum of fifty dollars, and shall be paid by the state of North Carolina upon a warrant of the auditor of the state. In the event that no relative asks for the body of such executed person, convict or felon, the same shall be disposed of as other bodies of convicts dying in the penitentiary.

1909, c. 443, s. 9.
