1188. Forfeiture or dissolution for failure to organize or act. When a charter has been granted creating a corporation, and the incorporators for two years neglect to organize and carry into effect the intent of the charter, or when organized, if they for two consecutive years cease to act, then this disuse of their corporate privileges and powers is a forfeiture of the charter. If, after thirty days notice by the secretary of state, the corporation fails to surrender its corporate rights or to dissolve, in the manner provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall report it to the attorney-general, who shall institute an appropriate action for its dissolution.

Rev., s. 1246; Code, s. 688; 1901, c. 2, s. 106.

Failure for two years to organize may be ground for state to bring quo warranto, but cannot be taken advantage of collaterally to attack corporation's right to exercise its powers: Boyd v. Redd, 120-335, and cases cited. See, also, under sections 1128, 1187.

Section referred to: R. R. v. Alsbrook, 110-137.

1189. Forfeiture for nonuser by hydro-electric companies. All waterpower, hydro-electric power, and water companies or corporations organized in this state shall be required to begin active work in making their proposed development within two years after their organization and diligently to prosecute their work on the same until it has been completed; and a failure to begin the work or development within the time, and to diligently prosecute work on the same until its completion, as herein provided, shall be legal grounds for declaring their charter rights, privileges and franchises forfeited, by the state, acting through its attorney-general, upon the recommendation of the corporation commission of this state: Provided, this section shall not apply to any company which is supplying the public and is meeting the demands of the public for its services.

1190. Involuntary, by bankruptcy. When a corporation chartered under the laws of this state is adjudged bankrupt under the laws of the United States, the charter of the corporation is forfeited without further action, unless the stockholders determine by appropriate resolutions to continue the corporate existence of the corporation after the adjudication in bankruptcy, and furnish the secretary of state with a duly certified copy of the resolutions, all within six months after the adjudication. The stockholders of a bankrupt corporation whose existence is continued by the foregoing procedure must pay all privilege taxes which have accrued against the corporation since the adjudication, together with a fee of one dollar allowed the secretary of state for recording and filing the certificate provided for in this section.

Section applied: Stagg v. Land Co., 171-583.

1191. When franchises forfeited by neglect, etc., corporation dissolved; costs. If it is adjudged that a corporation against which an action has been brought has forfeited by neglect, abuse, or surrender, its corporate rights, privileges and franchises, judgment shall be rendered that the corporation be excluded from such rights, privileges and franchises, and that it be dissolved. If judgment is rendered in such action against a corporation, or against persons claiming to be a corporation, the court may cause the costs to be collected by execution against the persons making the claim, or by attachment or process against the directors or other officers of the corporation.

1192. Service of summons in action for dissolution. In an action for the dissolution of a corporation, or for the appointment of a receiver thereof, the summons must be served on the corporation by service on an officer or agent upon whom other process can be served, and shall be served on the stockholders, creditors, dealers and others interested in the affairs of the company by publishing a copy at least weekly for two successive weeks in some newspaper printed in the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business, or if there is no such newspaper published, by posting a copy of the summons at the door of the courthouse of such county, and publishing a copy for the time and in the manner aforesaid in a newspaper published nearest the county seat of the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business or in a newspaper published in the city of Raleigh. This publication is sufficient service on all the stockholders, creditors of, or dealers with, the corporation, and upon the corporation, if no officer can after due diligence be found in the state and it has no process agent in the state; and all such stockholders, creditors or dealers or other parties interested may intervene in said proceedings and become parties thereto for themselves, or for others in like interest, under such rules as the court for the purpose of justice prescribes.

1193. Corporate existence continued three years. All corporations whose charters expire by their own limitation, or are annulled by forfeiture or otherwise, shall continue to be bodies corporate for three years after the time when they would have been so dissolved, for the purpose of prosecuting and defending actions by or against them, and of enabling them gradually to settle and close their concerns, to dispose of their property, and to divide their assets; but not for the purpose of continuing the business for which the corporation was established. In any pending action the court, in its discretion, may extend the time for winding up the affairs of such corporation.

Rev., s. 1200; Code, s. 667; 1901, c. 2, s. 58.

Section relates to corporations whose charters expire by limitation or are annulled by forfeiture or otherwise: Heggie v. B. and L. Assn., 107-581—and statutory remedy must be pursued within three years or corporation and individual stockholders released from liability: Von Glahn v. DeRossett, 81-467.

Judgment against corporation rendered upon process issued after it has ceased to exist is of no validity: Dobson v. Simonton, 86-492—and where old corporation merged into new this section does not apply so as to make old corporation necessary party to action against succeeding corporation, Friedenwald v. Tobacco Works, 117-544.

Section merely referred to: Smathers v. Bank, 135-413; Kruger v. Bank, 123-19; Wilson v. Leary, 120-92; Asheville Div. v. Aston, 92-586; Marshall v. Railroad, 92-332.

1194. Directors to be trustees; powers and duties. On the dissolution in any manner of a corporation, unless otherwise directed by an order of the court, the directors are trustees thereof, with full power to settle the affairs, collect the outstanding debts, sell and convey the property, and, after paying its debts, divide any surplus money and other property among the stockholders. The trustees have power to meet and act under the by-laws of the corporation, and, under regulations to be made by a majority, to prescribe the terms and conditions of the sale of such property, and they may sell all or any part for cash, or partly on credit, or take mortgages or bonds for part of the purchase price for all or any part of the property. They have power to sue for and recover the said debts and property in the name of the corporation, and are suable in the same name for the debts owing by it, and are jointly and severally responsible for such debts only to the amount of property of the corporation which comes into their possession as trustees.

Duty of directors to preserve assets of corporation and administer them for benefit of creditors: McIver v. Hardware Co., 144-478; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115-507; Electric Light Co. v. Electric Light Co., 116-119; Hill v. Lumber Co., 113-173—and they cannot sell practically entire assets for own advantage and to prejudice of creditors, and in case they do they are jointly and severally liable, together with purchaser, for corporate debts, Ibid.

Confession of judgment by insolvent corporation in favor of director who is a creditor, upon debt theretofore existing, is void as against other creditors: Hill v. Lumber Co., 113-173.

Failure to proceed under statute within three years releases corporation and stockholders from liability for debts: Von Glahn v. DeRossett, 81-467.

Corporation debts not extinguished by dissolution, see section 1199.

As to "trust fund" doctrine of corporation assets, especially after insolvency, see under section 1156. For position of directors, see under 1144. For corporate receivers, see sections 1195, 1208 et seq.

1195. Jurisdiction of superior court. When a corporation is dissolved, in any manner whatsoever, the superior court, on application of a creditor or stockholder, may either continue the directors as trustees or appoint one or more persons receivers of the corporation. The court has jurisdiction of the application, and of all questions arising in the proceedings thereon, and may make, at any place in the district, any orders, injunctions, or decrees therein as justice and equity require. The powers of such trustees or receivers are as elsewhere given in this chapter, and may be continued as long as the court thinks necessary.

See as to corporation receivers, generally, section 1208 et seq.

Statutory remedy provided in this and two preceding sections for securing settlement of affairs of defunct corporation is exclusive and supersedes equitable powers of the court: Von Glahn v. DeRossett, 81-467. Under section court may take entire charge of winding up corporate business after dissolution, and it must do so at instance of creditor or stockholder: White v. Kincaid, 149-415. Section applies to foreign corporations doing business here: Silk Co. v. Spinning Co., 154-421. Remedy of creditors is by creditor's bill to have assets administered for their benefit: Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285; Holshouser v. Copper Co., 138-251; Hill v. Lumber Co., 113-173.

As to appointment of receiver, see Mitchell v. Realty Co., 169-516; Silk Co. v. Spinning Co., 154-421; Greenleaf v. Land Co., 146-505; Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285; Smathers v. Bank, 135-413; Huet v. Lumber Co., 138-443; Bank v. Bank, 127-432; Black v. Gentry, 119-504; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115-507; Guilford v. Georgia Co., 112-34; Marshall v. R. R., 92-322; Young v. Rollins, 85-485, 90-125; Railroad v. Rollins, 82-523; Dobson v. Simonton, 78-66. If, during existence of corporation, its officers fraudulently or unlawfully dispose of any of its property, creditors are entitled to receiver: Latta v. Electric Co., 146-285. Where receiver appointed at suit of one creditor, it is for benefit of all creditors: Lenoir v. Imp. Co., 117-471.

As to title of receiver to the assets of corporation, and the lien gained thereon by creditor's bill, see Bank v. Bank, 127-432; Fisher v. Bank, 132-769. Receiver represents the corporation: Howe v. Harper, 127-358.

For general powers and duties of receivers hereunder, see Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114-326; Atty.-Gen. v. Roanoke Nav. Co., 84-710. Receiver may sue either in own name or in that of corporation: Millinery Co. v. Ins. Co., 160-130; Smathers v. Bank, 135-413; Davis v. Mfg. Co., 114-321; Gray v. Lewis, 94-392—and in such suit mutual debts and credits may be adjusted: Davis v. Mfg. Co., 114-321. Receiver may collect assets, and prosecute and defend suits after corporation ceases to exist by expiration of charter: Asheville Div. v. Aston, 92-578—moreover power of receiver may be continued as long as court may think necessary for settlement, Ibid.; also Young v. Rollins, 90-125. For action by receiver to collect assets alleged to have been wasted, see Dunn v. Johnson, 115-258. For sufficiency of pleadings in suit by receiver to collect unpaid subscriptions, see Worth v. Wharton, 122-376. For liability of officers of defunct corporation to account with receiver for assets, see McIver v. Hardware Co., 144-478; Young v. Rollins, 90-125.

Judgments rendered upon process issued after corporation ceased to exist are of no validity: Dobson v. Simonton, 86-492.

As to meaning of "court" in the provision giving "court" jurisdiction, see section 1113, subsection 5.

Section referred to: Wilson v. Leary, 120-90; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115-507; Foundry Co. v. Killian, 99-501.

1196. Injunction; notice and undertaking. An injunction to suspend the general and ordinary business of a corporation or to appoint a receiver shall not be granted without due notice of the application therefor to the corporation, except where the state is a party to the proceeding, unless the plaintiff gives a written undertaking, executed by two sufficient sureties to be approved by the judge, to the effect that the plaintiff will pay all damages, not exceeding the sum mentioned in the undertaking, which the corporation may sustain by reason of the injunction, or the appointment of the receiver, if the court finally decides that the plaintiff was not entitled thereto. The damages may be ascertained by a reference, or otherwise, as the court directs.

Rev., s. 1205; Code, s. 343; C. C. P., s. 194.

For injunctions generally, see sections 843-858. As to receivers, see under section 1195 and infra sections 1208-1217. Facts sufficient to sustain cause of action must be alleged before injunction will issue: Moore v. Mining Co., 104-534; Jones v. Comrs., 107-265, and cases cited. Where directors, who are authorized to issue and sell stock, make sale and sell stock it is too late for injunction: Huet v. Lumber Co., 138-443.

Individual stockholders in their own name are not proper parties to assert rights of corporation: Moore v. Mining Co., 104-534—unless they resort to remedy specified by charter and fail to secure same, Ibid.

As to remedy of creditors by creditor's bill, see Holshouser v. Copper Co., 138-251; Hill v. Lumber Co., 113-173.

1197. Wages for two months lien on assets. In case of the insolvency of a corporation all persons doing labor or service of whatever character in its regular employment have a lien upon the assets thereof for the amount of wages due to them for all labor, work, and services rendered within two months next preceding the date when proceedings in insolvency were actually instituted and begun against the corporation, which lien is prior to all other liens that can be acquired against such assets.

Rev., s. 1206; 1901, c. 2, s. 87.

Lien given by statute recognized: Riley v. Sears, 156-267. Contractors not entitled to lien as laborers: Iron Co. v. Bridge Co., 169-512. Officers and owners of corporation not entitled to lien hereunder: Alexander v. Farrow, 151-320. Lien does not attach to property not belonging to corporation: Roberts v. Mfg. Co., 169-27—does not have priority over mortgage on property when acquired by corporation: Humphrey v. Lumber Co., 174-514. Notice of lien not required to be filed: Walker v. Lumber Co., 170-460. Lien herein given does not destroy lien for labor after company in hands of receiver: Ibid. Bankruptcy proceeding works dissolution unless statutory conditions complied with: Stagg v. Lumber Co., 171-583.

Mortgaged property subject to execution for labor, etc., see section 1140 and cases cited there.

1198. Distribution of funds. After payment of all allowances, expenses and costs, and the satisfaction of all general and special liens upon the funds of the corporation to the extent of their lawful priority, the creditors shall be paid proportionately to the amount of their respective debts, and shall be entitled to distribution on debts not due, making in such case a rebate of interest when interest is not accruing on the same. Any surplus funds, after payment of the creditors and costs, expenses and allowances, shall be paid to the preferred stockholders according to their respective shares, and if there still be a surplus, it shall be divided and paid to the general stockholders proportionately, according to their respective shares. Upon the distribution of the assets of an insolvent corporation, judgment of dissolution shall be entered and a certified copy of the judgment filed in the office of the secretary of state, and also in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, and the same shall be recorded in the Corporation Book and in the Record of Incorporations in these offices respectively. Thereupon the corporation is dissolved without being required to comply with section 1182 under this chapter.

Rev., s. 1207; Code, s. 670; 1901, c. 2, ss. 63, 89; 1909, c. 15, s. 1.

See, as to receivers, under section 1195 and sections 1208-1217. Order for distribution of funds should not be made until fund is in court; such order can be made at any time as to funds then in court: Strauss v. Loan Assn., 118-556. Receiver required to pay all debts if assets sufficient: McIver v. Hardware Co., 144-483; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115-515—and if assets insufficient must distribute equally and ratably subject to priorities already accrued: Worth v. Bank, 122-404; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115-115. Debts to be paid pro rata after valid liens: Observer Co. v. Little, 175-42. Priorities determined for payment of funds in hands of receiver: Humphrey v. Lumber Co., 174-514.

Judgment against receiver merely establishes debt, and gives judgment creditor no preference in distribution of assets: Lacy v. Clinton Loan Assn., 132-131.

Corporate debts must be paid before stockholders get anything: McIver v. Hardware Co., 144-483.

In taxing costs and expenses of receiver of insolvent corporation, lower liens should lose rather than prior liens: Lumber Co. v. Lumber Co., 152-270.

Receiver is not justified in appealing from a judgment in an action between creditors as to distribution of fund: Bank v. Bank, 127-432.

Section merely referred to in Asheville Div. v. Aston, 92-586.

For construction of provision for voluntary dissolution, referred to in last line of this section, see under section 1182.

1199. Debts not extinguished nor actions abated. In case of the dissolution of a corporation, the debts due to and from it are not thereby extinguished, nor do actions against a corporation which is dissolved before final judgment abate by reason thereof, but no judgment shall be entered therein without notice to the trustees or receivers of the corporation.

For directors as trustees on dissolution, section 1194; for receivers, section 1195 and references.

1200. Copy of judgment to be filed with secretary of state; costs. A copy of every judgment dissolving a corporation or forfeiting its charter shall be forthwith filed by the clerk of the court in the office of the secretary of state, and a note thereof shall be made by the secretary of state on the charter or certificate of incorporation and in the index thereof, and be published by him in the annual report hereinafter provided for, the cost of which shall be taxed by the clerk of the superior court in the action wherein the corporation is dissolved.

Rev., s. 1211; 1901, c. 2, s. 65.

ART. 9. EXECUTION

1201. How issued; property subject to execution. If a judgment is rendered against a corporation, the plaintiff may sue out such executions against its property as is provided by law to be issued against the property of natural persons, which executions may be levied as well on the current money as on the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of such corporation.

Rev., s. 1212; 1901, c. 2, s. 66.

For executions, see section 675. Proceedings supplemental to execution lie against corporations: LaFountain v. Underwriters Assn., 79-514. Corporate property and franchise must go together in certain cases and cannot be sold separately: James v. Railroad, 121-527; Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Howland, 111-625; Gooch v. McGee, 83-59. Court may enjoin sale under execution of franchise and property of corporation when it is in hands of the court: Atty.-Gen. v. Roanoke Nav. Co., 84-705.

1202. Agent must furnish information as to property to officer. Every agent or person having charge or control of any property of the corporation, on request of a public officer having for service a writ of execution against it, shall furnish to him the names of the directors and officers thereof, and a schedule of all its property, including debts due or to become due, so far as he has knowledge of the same.

Rev., s. 1213; 1901, c. 2, s. 67.

1203. Shares of stock subject to; agent must furnish information. Any share or interest in any bank, insurance company, or other joint stock company, that is or may be incorporated under the authority of this state, or incorporated or established under the authority of the United States, belonging to the defendant in execution, may be taken and sold by virtue of such execution in the same manner as goods and chattels. The clerk, cashier, or other officer of such company who has at the time the custody of the books of the company shall, upon being shown the writ of execution, give to the officer having it a certificate of the number of shares or amount of the interest held by the defendant in the company; and if he neglects or refuses to do so, or if he willfully gives a false certificate, he shall be liable to the plaintiff for the amount due on the execution, with costs.

Rev., ss. 1214, 1215; 1901, c. 2, ss. 69, 70.

Prior to statute, shares not subject to execution: Pool v. Glover, 24-129; Cooper v. Canal Co., 6-195. Action to compel corporation to transfer on books stock purchased under execution sale: Morehead v. R. R., 96-362. Shares liable to attachment, see section 318; also Bleakley v. Candler, 169-16.

1204. Debts due corporation subject to; duty and liability of agent. If an officer holding an execution is unable to find other property belonging to the corporation liable to execution, he or the judgment creditor may elect to satisfy such execution in whole or in part out of any debts due the corporation; and it is the duty of any agent or person having custody of any evidence of such debt to deliver it to the officer, for the use of the creditor, and such delivery, with a transfer to the officer in writing, for the use of the creditor, and notice to the debtor, shall be a valid assignment thereof; and the creditor may sue for and collect the same in the name of the corporation, subject to such equitable setoffs on the part of the debtor as in other assignments. Every agent or person who neglects or refuses to comply with the provisions of this and the last preceding section is liable to pay to the execution creditor the amount due on the execution, with costs.

1205. Violations of three preceding sections misdemeanor. If any agent or person having charge or control of any property of a corporation, or any clerk, cashier, or other officer of a corporation, who has at the time the custody of the books of the company, or if any agent or person having custody of any evidence of debt due to a corporation, shall, on request of a public officer having in his hands for service an execution against the said corporation, willfully refuse to give to such officer the names of the directors and officers thereof, and a schedule of all its property, including debts due or to become due, or shall willfully refuse to give to such officer a certificate of the number of shares, or amount of interest held by such corporation in any other corporation, or shall willfully refuse to deliver to such officer any evidence of indebtedness due or to become due to such corporation, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3690; 1901, c. 2, ss. 67, 68, 70.

1206. Proceedings when custodian of corporate books is a nonresident. When the clerk, cashier, or other officer of any corporation incorporated under the laws of this state, who has the custody of the stock-registry books, is a nonresident of the state, it is the duty of the sheriff receiving a writ of execution issued out of any court of this state against the goods and chattels of a defendant in execution holding stock in such company to send by mail a notice in writing, directed to the nonresident clerk, cashier, or other officer at the postoffice nearest his reputed place of residence, stating in the notice that he, the sheriff, holds the writ of execution, and out of what court, at whose suit, for what amount, and against whose goods and chattels the writ has been issued, and that by virtue of such writ he seizes and levies upon all the shares of stock of the company held by the defendant in execution on the day of the date of such written notice. It is also the duty of the sheriff on the day of mailing the notice to affix and set up upon any office or place of business of such company, within his county, a like notice in writing, and on the same day to serve like notice in writing upon the president and directors of the company, or upon such of them as reside in his county, either personally or by leaving the same at their respective places of abode. The sending, setting up, and serving of such notices in the manner aforesaid constitutes a valid levy of the writ upon all shares of stock in such company held by the defendant in execution, which have not at the time of the receipt of the notice by the clerk, cashier, or other officer, who has custody of the stock-registry books, been actually transferred by the defendant; and thereafter any transfer or sale of such shares by the defendant in execution is void as against the plaintiff in the execution, or any purchaser of such stock at any sale thereunder.

Rev., s. 1217; 1901, c. 2, s. 71.

1207. Duty and liability of nonresident custodian. The nonresident clerk, cashier, or other officer in such corporation, to whom notice in writing is sent as prescribed in the preceding section, shall send forthwith to the officer having the writ, a statement of the time when he received the notice and a certificate of the number of shares held by the defendant in the corporation at the time of the receipt, not actually transferred on the books of the corporation; and the sheriff, or other officer, on receipt by him of this certificate, shall insert the number of shares in the inventory attached to the writ. If the clerk, cashier, or other officer in such corporation neglects to send the certificate as aforesaid or willfully sends a false one, he is liable to the plaintiff for double the amount of damages occasioned by his neglect, or false certificate, to be recovered in an action against him; but the neglect to send, or miscarriage of the certificate, does not impair the validity of the levy upon the stock.

Rev., s. 1218; 1901, c. 2, s. 72.

ART. 10. RECEIVERS

Rev., ss. 1219, 1223; Code, s. 668; 1901, c. 2, ss. 73, 79.

As to receivers generally, see sections 859-862, in chapter Civil Procedure. For other annotations as to corporation receivers, see section 1195.

Receiver may be appointed, when corporation fails to meet obligation or suspends business: Holshouser v. Copper Co., 138-251; Bank v. Mfg. Co., 176-318—or when corporation insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115-515; Silk Co. v. Spinning Co., 154-421—or when trustee of sinking fund to pay debts of corporation loaned the money to a bankrupt firm without authority, Railroad v. Wilson, 81-223—or where corporation dissolved and there is a contest as to rights of different creditors to the assets, there being no officer of the corporation, Dobson v. Simonton, 78-63. Receiver should not be appointed to enable stockholder, who has deposited stock as collateral for debt, to have an account of corporate assets: Huet v. Lumber Co., 138-443. Organization of new corporation at once dissolves the old; and creditors of defunct corporation are entitled to have receiver appointed to apply its property to their debts: Marshall v. R. R., 92-322.

Where prior action for appointment of receiver is pending, court will not entertain jurisdiction of another action in which same relief demanded: Young v. Rollins, 85-485—also where corporation dissolved by legislature and powers transferred to new corporation, courts cannot on ex parte application appoint receiver of defunct corporation, Ibid.

Party to proceedings should not be appointed receiver: Ibid.

Powers of directors and stockholders cease upon appointment of receiver, and they can make no contract which will bind corporation after such appointment: Lenoir v. Imp. Co., 117-475.

Party who has had receiver appointed has no right to have him discharged against protest of nonsatisfied creditor who might be damaged by such discharge: Ibid.

Existence of corporation not affected by fact that corporation has gone into hands of receiver and property sold: Pinchback v. Mining Co., 137-171. As to duration of receivership, see Asheville Div. v. Aston, 92-586; Young v. Rollins, 90-125.

Right of receiver to bring suit: Millinery Co. v. Ins. Co., 160-130.

Section merely referred to in Smathers v. Bank, 135-413; Fisher v. Bank, 132-774; Wilson v. Leary, 120-92; Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 115-485; Dunn v. Johnson, 115-258; Foundry Co. v. Killian, 99-504.

1209. Powers and bond. The receiver has power and authority to—

1. Demand, sue for, collect, receive and take into his possession all the goods and chattels, rights and credits, moneys and effects, lands and tenements, books, papers, choses in action, bills, notes, and property of every description of the corporation.

2. Foreclose mortgages, deeds of trust, and other liens executed to the corporation.

3. Institute suits for the recovery of any estate, property, damages, or demands existing in favor of the corporation, and he shall, upon application by him, be substituted as party plaintiff in the place of the corporation in any suit or proceeding pending at the time of his appointment.

4. Sell, convey, and assign all of the said estate, rights, and interest.

5. Appoint agents under him.

6. Examine persons and papers, and pass on claims as elsewhere provided in this article.

7. Do all other acts which might be done by the corporation, if in being, that are necessary for the final settlement of its unfinished business.

The powers of the receiver may be continued as long as the court thinks necessary, and the receiver shall hold and dispose of the proceeds of all sales of property under the direction of the court, and, before acting, must enter into such bond and comply with such terms as the court prescribes.

See, also, references at head of note to section 1208.

Title of receiver relates to date of appointment: Fisher v. Bank, 132-775; Bank v. Bank, 127-432—but his possession does not interfere with prior liens, Pelletier v. Lumber Co., 123-596. Where corporation in hands of receiver, before stockholder can sue for injury to corporation, he must show demand on, and refusal of, receiver to sue: Coble v. Beall, 130-533. Receiver may sue either in own name or in that of corporation: Smathers v. Bank, 135-413, and cases under 1195.

As to duration of receivership, see Asheville Div. v. Aston, 92-586; Young v. Rollins, 90-125.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF RECEIVER. Receiver has sole right to collect assets of insolvent corporation: Dunn v. Johnson, 115-258—and may maintain action against officer of insolvent corporation to recover corporate property in his hands, Ibid.—also has right to enjoin resident creditor of corporation from prosecuting suit in another state which hinders his collection of assets, Davis v. Lumber Co., 132-233—to recover for usury paid, Riley v. Sears, 154-509.

Receiver may collect assets and prosecute and defend suits after corporation ceases to exist by expiration of charter: Asheville Div. v. Aston, 92-578—though judgments against corporation rendered upon process issued after it has ceased to exist are of no validity, Dobson v. Simonton, 86-493. It is duty of receiver to appeal where he thinks the corporation he represents has not had justice: Strauss v. Loan Assn., 118-556—though not his duty to appeal in interest of one creditor or stockholder against another, Ibid.

Sufficiency of complaint in action by receiver to recover unpaid subscriptions discussed in Worth v. Wharton, 122-376. For duty of officers of defunct corporation to turn over corporate property to receiver, see Young v. Rollins, 90-125.

Corporation purchasing practically entire assets of another corporation without provision for debts is liable to receiver of defunct corporation for such debts: McIver v. Hardware Co., 144-478; see Marshall v. R. R., 92-322.

RECEIVER'S BOND. Liability of sureties on receiver's bond only enforceable by action; they cannot be proceeded against by motion in the cause: Black v. Gentry, 119-502. Where judgment is obtained against receiver he is not necessary party to action against sureties on bond: Ibid. Leave of court necessary before suing sureties: Black v. Gentry, 119-504; Boothe v. Upchurch, 110-64—except where receiver is ex officio receiver of certain funds, Boothe v. Upchurch, 110-62; Black v. Gentry, 119-504—and complaint should allege that leave has been granted in case where same necessary, Ibid.—but omission to so allege is cured by failure to demur upon that ground, Ibid.; Wilson v. Rankin, 129-447.

1210. Title and inventory. All of the real and personal property of an insolvent corporation, wheresoever situated, and all its franchises, rights, privileges and effects, upon the appointment of a receiver, forthwith vest in him, and the corporation is divested of the title thereto. Within thirty days after his appointment he shall lay before the court a full and complete inventory of all estate, property, and effects of the corporation, its nature and probable value, and an account of all debts due from and to it, as nearly as the same can be ascertained, and shall make a report of his proceedings to the superior court at every civil term during the continuance of the trust.

The property vests in the receiver, and he should be made a party to an action affecting it: Black v. Power Co., 158-468; Hollowell v. R. R., 153-19; Kissenger v. Fitzgerald, 152-247.

Title of receiver relates only to time of appointment: Hardware Co. v. Holt, 173-308; Fisher v. Bank, 132-769; Bank v. Bank, 127-432; Pelletier v. Lumber Co., 123-596—and he takes property subject to existing liens: Withrell v. Murphy, 154-82; Fisher v. Bank, 132-769; Bank v. Bank, 127-432; Pelletier v. Lumber Co., 123-596. Receiver's title has priority over judgment docketed after appointment and before qualification: Hardware Co. v. Holt, 173-308—and over unregistered mortgages, etc., Observer Co. v. Little, 175-42.

Vesting of property in receiver is not a change of ownership that would forfeit insurance policy: Pants Co. v. Ins. Co., 159-78.

For duty of officers of defunct corporation to turn over corporate property to receiver, see Young v. Rollins, 90-125.

1211. May send for persons and papers; penalty for refusing to answer. The receiver has power to send for persons and papers, and to examine any persons, including the creditors, claimants, president, directors, and other officers and agents of the corporation, on oath or affirmation (which oath or affirmation the receiver may administer), respecting its affairs and transactions and its estate, money, goods, chattels, credits, notes, bills, choses in action, real and personal estate and effects of every kind; and also respecting its debts, obligations, contracts, and liabilities, and the claims against it; and if any person refuses to be sworn or affirmed, or to make answers to such questions as may be put to him, or refuse to declare the whole truth touching the subject-matter of the examination, the court may, on report of the receiver, commit such person as for contempt.

Duty of receiver to investigate claim: Black v. Power Co., 158-468.

1212. Proof of claims; time limit. All claims against an insolvent corporation must be presented to the receiver in writing; and the claimant, if required, shall submit himself to such examination in relation to the claim as the receiver directs, and shall produce such books and papers relating to the claim as shall be required. The receiver has power to examine under oath or affirmation all witnesses produced before him touching the claim, and shall pass upon and allow or disallow the claims or any part thereof, and notify the claimants of his determination. The court may limit the time within which creditors may present and prove to the receiver their respective claims against the corporation, and may bar all creditors and claimants failing to do so within the time limited from participating in the distribution of the assets of the corporation. The court may also prescribe what notice, by publication or otherwise, must be given to creditors of such limitation of time.

Rev., ss. 1228, 1229; 1901, c. 2, ss. 81, 82.

Court may limit time for creditors to present claims: Black v. Power Co., 158-468—or may permit filing after time limited, Hardware Co. v. Holt, 173-304; see Bank v. Creditors, 80-9.

Manner of presenting claims: Black v. Power Co., 158-468. All claims should be heard and disposed of before receiver discharged: Lenoir v. Imp. Co., 117-472—and officer filing claim for salary should be allowed opportunity to show contract with company for entire year made before appointment of receiver: Ibid.

1213. Report on claims to court; exceptions and jury trial. It is the duty of the receiver to report to the term of the superior court subsequent to a finding by him as to any claim against the corporation, and exceptions thereto may be filed by any person interested, within ten days after notice of the finding by the receiver, and not later than within the first three days of the said term; and, if, on an exception so filed, a jury trial is demanded, it is the duty of the court to prepare a proper issue and submit it to a jury; and if the demand is not made in the exceptions to the report the right to a jury trial is waived. The judge may, in his discretion, extend the time for filing such exceptions.

Claims reported to and acted on by court: Black v. Power Co., 158-468.

1214. Property sold pending litigation. When the property of an insolvent corporation is at the time of the appointment of a receiver incumbered with mortgages or other liens, the legality of which is brought in question, and the property is of a character materially to deteriorate in value pending the litigation, the court may order the receiver to sell the same, clear of incumbrance, at public or private sale, for the best price that can be obtained, and pay the money into the court, there to remain subject to the same liens and equities of all parties in interest as was the property before sale, to be disposed of as the court directs.

Rev., s. 1232; 1901, c. 2, s. 86.

1215. Compensation and expenses. Before distribution of the assets of an insolvent corporation among the creditors or stockholders, the court shall allow a reasonable compensation to the receiver for his services, not to exceed five per cent upon receipts and disbursements, and the costs and expenses of administration of his trust and of the proceedings in said court, to be first paid out of said assets.

Rev., s. 1226; 1901, c. 2, s. 88.

Costs and expenses of receivership are to be paid first out of assets, but are not prior to mortgage, subject to which corporation acquired the property: Humphrey v. Lumber Co., 174-514. Error to tax costs against first mortgage whose priority established over general creditors: Lumber Co. v. Lumber Co., 150-281.

Commissions are part of costs and expense of suit, and should be paid as such: Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 115-475; Simmons v. Allison, 119-556—and are usually taxed against losing party, Simmons v. Allison, 119-556—though court below may in its discretion divide same between parties, Ibid.

Allowance of commissions and counsel fees by court prima facie correct, and supreme court will alter same only where clearly inadequate or excessive: Graham v. Carr, 133-449. Allowance of commissions is reviewable when made on wrong principle or when clearly inadequate or excessive: Bank v. Bank, 126-531. Allowance of commissions premature before work finished, as it cannot be determined before then whether commissions excessive or inadequate: Delafield v. Construction Co., 118-105. Order allowing commissions is a final judgment, and appeal lies: Bank v. Bank, 126-531.

Rate not exceeding five per cent on receipts and disbursements seems to be limit allowed: Bank v. Bank, 126-531, and cases cited.

1216. Debts provided for, receiver discharged. When a receiver has been appointed, and it afterwards appears that the debts of the corporation have been paid, or provided for, and that there remains, or can be obtained by further contributions, sufficient capital to enable it to resume its business, the court may, in its discretion, a proper case being shown, discharge the receiver, and decree that the property, rights, and franchises of the corporation revert to it, and thereafter the corporation may resume control of the same, as fully as if the receiver had never been appointed.

1217. Reorganization. When a majority in interest of the stockholders of the corporation have agreed upon a plan for its reorganization and a resumption by it of the management and control of its property and business, the corporation may, with the consent of the court, upon the reconveyance to it of its property and franchises, either by deed or decree of the court, mortgage the same for an amount necessary for the purposes of the reorganization; and may issue bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, or additional stock, or both, and use the same for the full or partial payment of the creditors who will accept the same, or otherwise dispose of the same for the purposes of the reorganization.

Rev., s. 1221; 1901, c. 2, s. 77.

ART. 11. TAXES AND FEES

1218. Taxes for filing. For filing a certificate or other paper in the office of the secretary of state, for the corporate purposes named below, the following taxes shall be paid to the state treasurer for the use of the state:

1. Certificate of incorporation, or extension or renewal of corporate existence, 20 cents for each $1,000 of the total amount of capital stock authorized, but in no case less than $25.

2. Increase of capital stock, 20 cents for each $1,000 of the total increase authorized, but in no case less than $20.

3. Change of name or nature of business, amended certificate of incorporation (other than those otherwise provided for in this section), decrease of capital stock, increase or decrease of par value or number of shares, $20.

4. Dissolution or change of principal place of business, $5.

The above taxes are not cumulative, but when two or more are incurred at the same time, the largest single tax applicable shall apply. No such taxes need be paid by a benevolent, religious, educational, or charitable organization with no capital stock, or by a corporation created by virtue of section 1123 under this chapter for public parks and drives.

Rev., s. 1233; 1901, c. 2, s. 96; 1911, c. 155, s. 5.

1219. Fees to secretary of state and clerk of superior court. The secretary of state shall collect and retain the following fees: For recording the certificate of incorporation, one dollar for the first three copy sheets and ten cents for each copy sheet in excess thereof, and for official seal one dollar; for copying, the same fees as for recording. There shall be paid the clerk of the superior court for recording the certificate of incorporation a fee of three dollars.

Rev., s. 1234; Code, s. 680; 1893, c. 318, s. 4; 1901, c. 2, s. 96; 1917, c. 231, s. 84.

1220. Corporate property in receiver's hands liable for taxes. When listed or unlisted taxes are duly assessed and charged against and are due and unpaid by a corporation with chartered rights, doing business or with property in this state, or against a person residing in, doing business, or having property in this state, it is competent for an officer or tax collector who has the tax list to levy upon, seize, and take possession of that part of the property belonging to the corporation necessary to pay such taxes, even though the property is in the hands of a receiver duly appointed; and the officer or collector need not apply to the court appointing the receiver, or with jurisdiction of the property or the receiver, for an order for the payment of said taxes. This section applies to all taxes, whether state, county, town or municipal, and shall be liberally construed in favor of and in furtherance of the collection of such taxes.

Rev., ss. 1236, 1237; Code, ss. 699, 670.

ART. 12. REORGANIZATION

1221. Corporations whose property and franchises sold under order of court or execution. When the property and franchises of a public-service corporation are sold under a judgment or decree of a court of this state, or of the district court of the United States, or under execution, to satisfy a mortgage debt or other encumbrance thereon, such sale vests in the purchaser all the right, title, interest and property of the parties to the action in which such judgment or decree was made, to said property and franchise, subject to all the conditions, limitations and restrictions of the corporation; and the purchaser and his associates, not less than three in number, thereupon become a new corporation, by such name as they select, and they are the stockholders in the ratio of the purchase money by them contributed; and are entitled to all the rights and franchises and subject to all the conditions, limitations and penalties of the corporation whose property and franchises have been so sold. In the event of the sale of a railroad in foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust, whether under a decree of court or otherwise, the corporation created by or in consequence of the sale succeeds to all the franchises, rights and privileges of the original corporation only when the sale is of all the railroad owned by the company and described in the mortgage or deed of trust, and when the railroad is sold as an entirety. If a purchaser at any such sale is a corporation, such purchasing corporation shall succeed to all the properties, franchises, powers, rights, and privileges of the original corporation: Provided, that this shall not affect vested rights and shall not be construed to alter in any manner the public policy of the state now or hereafter established with reference to trusts and contracts in restraint of trade.

Rev., s. 1238; Code, ss. 697, 698; 1897, c. 305; 1901, c. 2, s. 99; 1913, c. 25, s. 1; 1919, c. 75.

Method of reorganization under this article (sections 1221-1224) examined: Wood v. Staton, 174-245. Reorganization is made and certificate filed as evidence of corporate existence: Ibid. Section applies to judicial sale of property, not to lease: Hyder v. R. R., 167-584. Corporate property and franchise must be sold together: James v. R. R., 121-527; Bradley v. R. R., 119-927 (Appx.); Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Howland, 111-625; Gooch v. McGee, 83-59. Sale of railroad under second mortgage, and conveyance thereunder subject to first mortgage, does not extinguish corporate existence of company: James v. R. R., 121-523—nor release corporation from liability to public for manner in which railroad operated, Ibid.—and in order that sale should work dissolution, another corporation must take the place, and assume obligations of old corporation, Ibid.—though, when this is done, corporation will be domestic corporation, Ibid. See discussion of James v. R. R., 121-523, in Coal, etc., Co. v. R. R., 144-732. Upon foreclosure of mortgage of railroad, purchaser takes rights acquired by company in relation to right of way under charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214; Hendrick v. R. R., 101-617.

Dissolution effected by distribution of assets of insolvent corporation, see section 1198; by bankruptcy, see section 1190.

1222. New owners to meet and organize. The persons for whom the property and franchises have been purchased shall meet within thirty days after the delivery of the conveyance made by virtue of said process or decree, and organize the new corporation, ten days written notice of the time and place of the meeting having been given to each of the said persons. At this meeting they shall adopt a corporate name and seal, determine the amount of the capital stock of the corporation, and shall have power and authority to make and issue certificates of stock in shares of such amounts as they see fit. The corporation may then, or at any time thereafter, create and issue preferred stock to such an amount, and at such time, as they may deem necessary.

Rev., ss. 1239, 1240; 1901, c. 2, ss. 100, 101, 102.

1223. Certificate to be filed with secretary of state. It is the duty of the new corporation, within one month after its organization to make certificate thereof, under its common seal, attested by the signature of its president, specifying the date of the organization, the name adopted, the amount of capital stock, and the names of its president and directors, and transmit the certificate to the secretary of state, to be filed and recorded in his office, and there remain of record. A certified copy of this certificate so filed shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which is located the principal office of the corporation, and is the charter and evidence of the corporate existence of the new corporation.

1224. Effect on liens and other rights. Nothing contained in this article in any manner impairs the lien of a prior mortgage, or other encumbrance, upon the property or franchises conveyed under the sale, when by the terms of the process or decree under which the sale was made, or by operation of law, the sale was made subject to the lien of any such prior mortgage or other encumbrance. No such sale and conveyance or organization of such new corporation in any way affects the rights of any person, body politic, or corporate, not a party to the action in which the decree was made, nor of the said party except as determined by the decree. When a trustee has been made a party to such action and his cestui que trust, for reason satisfactory to the court, has not been made a party thereto, the rights and interest of the cestui que trust are concluded by the decree.

Rev., s. 1241; 1901, c. 2, s. 103.

ART. 9. CRIMINAL COSTS BEFORE JUSTICES.

1288. Liability for criminal costs before justice.
 1289. Imprisonment of defendant for nonpayment of fine and costs.

ART. 1. GENERALLY

1225. Items allowed as costs. To either party for whom judgment is given there shall be allowed as costs his actual disbursements for fees to the officers, witnesses, and other persons entitled to receive the same.

Rev., s. 1249; Code, s. 528.

As to costs in criminal cases, see sections 1267, 1271, 1283.

Costs were not recoverable at common law and are regulated now by statute: State v. Means, 175-820—dependent upon statute, Costin v. Baxter, 29-111; Clerk's Office v. Comrs., 121-29, and cases cited—and by our statute the party who obtains judgment is entitled to costs, Costin v. Baxter, 29-111; Vestal v. Sloan, 83-555. Where plaintiff prevails in part of his action he is entitled to cost: Vanderbilt v. Johnson, 141-370; Field v. Wheeler, 120-264; Ferrabow v. Green, 110-416; Horton v. Horne, 99-219—as where he alleges two causes of action and recovers on one, Cotton Mill v. Hosiery Mills, 154-462. Nominal damages carries costs: Britton v. Ruffin, 123-67. No part of costs can be taxed against party recovering judgment: Williams v. Hughes, 139-20; Wall v. Covington, 76-150; Field v. Wheeler, 120-270; Wooten v. Walters, 110-251; Horton v. Horne, 99-219. But prevailing party taxed with costs of unsuccessful attempt to enforce judgment: Norris v. Luther, 101-196.

Costs against plaintiff failing to recover over amount tendered by defendant: Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-257; Coward v. Comrs., 137-299; Pollock v. Warwick, 104-638; Murray v. Windley, 29-201.

Costs in trial court follow final judgment therein: Smith v. R. R., 148-334; Williams v. Hughes, 139-16—except in few exceptional instances: Dodson v. R. R., 133-624; Smith v. R. R., 148-334. Rule that costs follow final judgment applies also in criminal cases; hence where prisoner was convicted, but afterwards acquitted on new trial, his costs in both trials taxable against county: State v. Horne, 119-853. On appeal party finally losing entitled to set off such costs as he has properly paid on successful appeals, including transcripts, etc.: Smith v. R. R., 148-334.

Only fees of witnesses duly subpoenaed and examined or tendered can be taxed against party cast, and then not more than two to prove one material fact: Cureton v. Garrison, 111-271; Sitton v. Lumber Co., 135-540; Moore v. Guano Co., 136-248; Chadwick v. Ins. Co., 158-380; Loftis v. Baxter, 66-340; see, also, Stern v. Herren, 101-516—but this does not apply to cases of nonsuit: Henderson v. Williams, 120-339. Fees of absent witness only when materiality of his evidence shown and that absence due to sickness or other excusable cause: Hobbs v.

R. R., 151-134. While not more than two witnesses to a single point may be taxed against losing party in a civil action, party who subpoenaed them still liable for their compensation: State v. Massey, 104-877.

Attorney's fees not taxed as costs: Midgett v. Vann, 158-128.

Motion to retax is collateral matter, not a reopening of case, and may be made within twelve months: Chadwick v. Ins. Co., 158-380, and cases cited. As to retaxing costs in action where plaintiff was required to pay accrued costs to get a continuance, but judgment finally rendered for him, see Owen v. Paxton, 122-770. Denial of motion to retax, when appealable: Van Dyke v. Ins. Co., 174-78.

Whether judgment for costs merely is appealable, see under section 1256.

As to whether item properly chargeable as costs, or whether, taking case below as properly decided, the costs are properly adjudged, are questions reviewable on appeal: State v. Horne, 119-853, and cases cited therein.

MISCELLANEOUS POINTS. Defendant cannot bar plaintiff's right to costs by admitting, at close of evidence, his right to relief demanded: Rawls v. White, 127-17. Referee's fees are costs and prorate with other items of costs; not preferred debt against administrator: Cobb v. Rhea, 137-295. See, also, as to referee's fees, section 1244 (6). Where arbitrator's report objected to, costs awarded against party objecting: Knight v. Holden, 104-107. Costs in processioning proceedings must not be adjudged until final determination: Roberts v. Dickey, 110-67. Where suit abates by death, each party liable for own costs: Officers v. Taylor, 12-99. Costs adjudged against married woman, but not made charge against her separate property: LaRoque v. Kennedy, 156-360, 161-459. Where mortgagor sues mortgagee for usury and to restrain sale under mortgage, defendant entitled to costs if he recovers judgment for mortgage debt, though issue of usury found against him: Cook v. Patterson, 103-127. Defendant establishing right to betterments entitled to costs: Vann v. Newsome, 110-122.

1226. Summary judgment for official fees. If any officer, to whom fees are payable by any person, fails to receive them at the time the service is performed, he may have judgment therefor on motion to the court in which the action is or was pending, upon twenty days notice to the person to be charged, at any time within one year after the termination of the action in which the same was performed. If the motion for judgment be in behalf of the clerk of the superior court, it shall be made to the judge of the court in or out of term.

Clerk can have judgment, on motion, for his costs, when not paid: Andrews v. Whisnant, 83-447. Judgment in favor of officers for fees, if docketed, is a lien on land: Sheppard v. Bland, 87-167. Execution can issue, even though defendant in execution is the successful party: Clerk v. Wagoner, 26-131.

This section permits a motion to retax costs to be made in favor of officer within one year after termination of action: In re Smith, 105-169; see Owen v. Paxton, 122-770. Clerk may demand fee in advance for docketing transcript; appellant's undertaking does not cover this fee: Dunn v. Clerk's Office, 176-50.

1227. Sureties on prosecution or appeal bonds liable for costs. When an action is brought in any court in which security is given for the prosecution thereof, or when any case is brought up to a court by an appeal or otherwise, in which security for the prosecution of the suit has been given, and judgment is rendered against the plaintiff for the costs of the defendant, the appellate court shall also give judgment against the surety for said costs, and execution may issue jointly against the plaintiff and his surety.

Section applies in supreme court, where judgment may be given on plaintiff's prosecution bond filed in superior court: Kenney v. R. R., 166-566—and applies to defendant's defense bond in action for land: Grimes v. Andrews, 171-367.

Recovery on bonds to secure costs may be had in actions in which they are given: McCall v. Zachary, 131-466.

1228. Execution for unpaid fees; itemized bill of costs to be annexed. The clerks of the supreme, superior and criminal courts, where suits are determined and the fees are not paid by the party from whom they are due, shall sue out executions, directed to the sheriff of any county in the state, who shall levy them as in other cases; and to the said execution shall be annexed a bill of costs, written in words so as plainly to show each item of costs and on what account it is taxed; and all executions for costs, issuing without such a bill annexed, shall be deemed irregular, and may be set aside as to the costs, at the return term, at the instance of him against whom it is issued.

Order taxing costs is in effect a judgment, and when docketed is lien on land enforceable by judgment: Sheppard v. Bland, 87-163; see, also, King v. Featherston, 20-259.

1229. Jurors' tax fees. On every indictment or criminal proceeding, tried or otherwise disposed of in the superior or criminal courts, the party convicted, or adjudged to pay the costs, shall pay a tax of four dollars. In every civil action in any court of record the party adjudged to pay the costs shall pay a tax of five dollars; but this tax shall not be charged unless a jury shall be impaneled. Said tax fees shall be charged by the clerk in the bill of costs, and collected by the sheriff, and by him paid into the county treasury. And the fund thus raised in any county shall be set apart for the payment of the jurors attending the courts thereof.

Rev., s. 1253; Code, s. 732; R. C., c. 28; 1830, c. 1; 1879, c. 325; 1881, c. 249; 1905, c. 348; 1909, c. 1; 1919, c. 319.

1230. In criminal cases, not demandable in advance. In all cases of criminal complaints before justices of the supreme court, judges of the superior and criminal courts, justices of the peace and other magistrates having jurisdiction of such complaints, the officers entitled by law to receive fees for issuing or executing process are not entitled to demand them in advance. Such officers shall indorse the amounts of their respective fees on every process issued or executed by them, and return the same to the court to which it is returnable.

Rev., s. 1254; Code, s. 1173; 1868-9, c. 178, subch. 3, s. 40.

1231. Clerk to state in detail in entry of judgment. The clerk shall insert in the entry of judgment the allowances for costs allowed by law, and the necessary disbursements, including the fees of officers and witnesses, and the reasonable compensation of referees and commissioners in taking depositions. The disbursements shall be stated in detail. When it is necessary to adjust costs in any interlocutory proceedings, or in any special proceedings, the same shall be adjusted by the clerk of the court to which the proceedings were returned, except in those matters in which the allowance is required to be made by the judge.

Rev., s. 1255; Code, s. 532.

1232. Clerk to itemize bills of criminal costs; approval of solicitor. It is the duty of the clerks of the several courts of record, at each term of the court, to make up an itemized statement of the bill of costs in every criminal action tried or otherwise disposed of at said term, which shall be signed by the clerk and approved by the solicitor.

Rev., s. 1256; Code, s. 733; 1873-4, c. 116; 1879, c. 264.

1233. Justices required to itemize costs. In all trials before justices of the peace any party, plaintiff or defendant, may demand of the justice of the peace before whom the trial is held an itemized statement of the costs of the action. Upon such demand it shall be the duty of the justice to furnish the statement demanded. No person shall be compelled to pay any cost in any trial before a justice of the peace until an itemized statement of the costs has been made out and given to the party charged. It shall be the duty of the justice to insert in the entry of the judgment in every criminal action tried or otherwise disposed of by him a detailed statement of the different items of cost, and to whom due.

Rev., ss. 1257, 2789; Code, s. 734; 1887, c. 297.

Full discussion of costs in criminal cases in courts of justices of the peace: Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369.

1234. Justice of the peace refusing to furnish bill of costs. If any justice of the peace before whom any trial is held shall refuse to furnish an itemized bill of costs, when demanded by the plaintiff or defendant, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3588; Code, s. 734; 1887, c. 297.

1235. Bills of costs open to the public. Every bill of costs shall at all times be open to the inspection of any person interested therein.

Rev., s. 1258; Code, s. 735; 1873-4, c. 116.

ART. 2. WHEN STATE LIABLE FOR COSTS

1236. Civil actions by the state; joinder of private party. In all civil actions prosecuted in the name of the state, by an officer duly authorized for that purpose, the state shall be liable for costs in the same cases and to the same extent as private parties. If a private person be joined with the state as plaintiff, he shall be liable in the first instance for the defendant's costs, which shall not be recovered of the state till after execution issued therefor against such private party and returned unsatisfied.

Rev., s. 1259; Code, s. 536.

Incidental bills of cost (except certain ones mentioned) for failure of actions authorized by state are not "expenses of the state government" within the meaning of the act providing that certain taxes shall be applied to their payment: Garner v. Worth, 122-250.

Injunction asked for by state dissolved, carries costs against state: State v. R. R., 74-287. If plaintiff, solicitor and relator, to vacate oyster entry in name of state be nonsuited, county not liable for costs: Blount v. Simmons, 118-9.

When solicitor ordered to bring action as relator in name of state, state liable for costs: Blount v. Simmons, 120-19, 119-50.

Supreme court has no original jurisdiction of clerk's claim against state for costs: Miller v. State, 134-270.

As to distinction between suits where state brings for benefit of individual and for public benefit, as to costs, see State v. McGalliard, 62-346; State v. King, 23-22.

1237. Civil actions by and against state officers. In all civil actions depending, or which may be instituted, by any of the officers of the state, or which have been or shall be instituted against them, when any such action is brought or defended pursuant to the advice of the attorney-general, and the same is decided against such officers, the costs thereof shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the auditor for the amount thereof as taxed.

1238. Actions by state for private persons, etc. In an action prosecuted in the name of the state for the recovery of money or property, or to establish a right or claim for the benefit of any county, city, town, village, corporation or person, costs awarded against the plaintiff shall be a charge against the party for whose benefit the action was prosecuted, and not against the state.

Rev., s. 1261; Code, s. 537.

1239. Costs of county in certain bribery prosecutions to be a charge against state. The expenses incurred by any county in investigating and prosecuting any charge of bribery or attempt to bribe any state officer or member of the general assembly within said county, and of receiving bribes by any state officer or member of the general assembly in said county, shall be a charge against the state, and the properly attested claim of the county commissioners shall be paid by the treasurer of the state.

Rev., s. 1262; Code, s. 742; 1868-9, c. 176, s. 6; 1874-5, c. 5.

1240. On appeal by state to supreme court of United States. In all cases, whether civil or criminal, to which the state of North Carolina is a party, and which are carried from the courts of this state, or from the district court of the United States, by appeal or writ of error, to the United States circuit court of appeals, or to the supreme court of the United States, and the state is adjudged to pay the costs, it is the duty of the attorney-general to certify the amount of such costs to the auditor, who shall thereupon issue a warrant for the same, directed to the treasurer, who shall pay the same out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Rev., s. 1263; Code, s. 538; 1871-2, c. 26.

ART. 3. CIVIL ACTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS

1241. Costs allowed plaintiff; limited by recovery; several suits on one instrument. Costs shall be allowed of course to the plaintiff, upon a recovery, in the following cases:

Recovery means ultimate recovery: Williams v. Hughes, 139-17. One not a party not liable for costs: Loven v. Parson, 127-301. One who sues in another's name without consent must pay costs incurred by that other: Metcalf v. Alley, 24-38. Section is subject to section 103: Whitaker v. Whitaker, 138-204. Section discussed in connection with sections 1242, 1243: Yates v. Yates, 170-533.

1. In an action for the recovery of real property, or when a claim of title to real property arises on the pleadings, or is certified by the court to have come in question at the trial.

Consult Vanderbilt v. Johnson, 141-370; Kennedy v. Maness, 138-35; Moore v. Angel, 116-843; Wooten v. Walters, 110-251; Ferrabow v. Green, 110-414; Currie v. Clark, 101-321; Spruill v. Arrington, 109-192. Costs of survey and witness fees of surveyor taxable against losing party: Porter v. Durham, 79-596; see Wileox v. -----, 2-484. Where, in a proceeding to sell land for assets, defendants set up title to land, but issue found against them, all costs should be taxed against them except that of filing petition: Noble v. Koonce, 76-405. In action for trespass, where title disputed, plaintiff must be successful in both issues to be entitled to costs: Murray v. Spencer, 92-264. One successful in maintaining equitable defense against recovery of land on bare legal title entitled to costs: Vestal v. Sloan, 83-555; see Patterson v. Ramsey, 136-561.

Plaintiff entitled to costs where only part of land claimed is recovered unless defendant files disclaimer: Swain v. Clemmons, 175-240; Bryan v. Hodges, 151-413.

Costs in proceedings to establish boundary: Staley v. Staley, 174-640.

In case involving equitable jurisdiction between mortgagor and mortgagee, costs held to be discretionary; falls under section 1243: Yates v. Yates, 170-533, disapproving Bruner v. Threadgill, 93-225.

2. In an action to recover the possession of personal property.

Successful party in claim and delivery recovers costs: Rawlings v. Neal, 126-271; Auto Co. v. Rudd, 176-497. Where, in claim and delivery, plaintiff establishes title to portion of property, he is entitled to costs: Field v. Wheeler, 120-264; Horton v. Horne, 99-219; Phillips v. Little, 147-282. Where plaintiff recovers the personalty and defendant recovers counterclaim, the recoveries are distinct and costs in each taxed in favor of party succeeding therein: Southerland v. Brown, 176-187.

3. In actions of which a court of a justice of the peace has no jurisdiction, unless otherwise provided by law.

This subsection construed with section 1243 renders costs discretionary in equity cases as under old system: Yates v. Yates, 170-533. Upon judgment for plaintiff, defendant liable for costs, including costs of guardian ad litem: Van Dyke v. Ins. Co., 174-78. In case for interpleader, if the stakeholder decides to litigate and withhold the property, he may be liable for costs: Ibid.

See Williams v. Hughes, 139-16.

4. In an action for assault, battery, false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, criminal conversation or seduction, if the plaintiff recovers less than fifty dollars damages, he shall recover no more costs than damages.

In assault and battery where plaintiff recovers less than $50, he gets no more costs than damages: Palmer v. Rwy. and Electric Co., 131-249.

See as to slander under former statute: Coates v. Stephenson, 52-123.

5. When several actions are brought on one bond, recognizance, promissory note, bill of exchange or instrument in writing, or in any other case, for the same cause of action against several parties who might have been joined as defendants in the same action, no costs other than disbursements shall be allowed to the plaintiff in more than one of such actions, which shall be at his election, provided the party or parties proceeded against in such other action or actions were within the state and not secreted at the commencement of the previous action or actions.

Rev., s. 1264; Code, s. 525; 1874-5, c. 119; R. C., c. 31, s. 78.

1242. Costs allowed to defendant. Costs shall be allowed as of course to the defendant, in the actions mentioned in the preceding section, unless the plaintiff be entitled to costs therein. In all actions where there are several defendants not united in interest, and making separate defenses by separate answers, and the plaintiff fails to recover judgment against all, the court may award costs to such of the defendants as have judgment in their favor or any of them.

Rev., s. 1266; Code, ss. 526, 527; C. C. P., s. 277.

Defendant recovers cost where he successfully maintains an equitable defense against recovery of land on bare legal title: Patterson v. Ramsey, 136-561; Currie v. Clark, 101-329; citing Vestal v. Sloan, 83-555—where he prevails in action of ejectment, Kennedy v. Maness, 138-35; Wilson v. Wilson, 174-755—where plaintiff fails in attempt to enforce his judgment, Norris v. Luther, 101-196—where plaintiff fails to set aside deed to grantee, Brisco v. Norris, 112-671—where plaintiff fails in action on covenant of warrant, Britton v. Ruffin, 123-67—where plaintiff fails to show both title and trespass in action for trespass where title in issue, Murray v. Spencer, 92-264—where plaintiff fails to establish his demand, Griffith v. Winborne, 105-403.

One defending in forma pauperis is entitled to cost where he successfully defends action to recover real estate: Dempsey v. Rhodes, 93-120, and cases cited on page 128.

Surety on prosecution bond not liable for plaintiff's cost, but costs which defendant recovers of plaintiff: Smith v. Arthur, 116-871; Swain v. McCulloch, 75-495.

Where several plaintiffs have been forced to withdraw from action because they did not file cost bond, not erroneous to enter judgment against them for cost: Lafoon v. Shearin, 95-391. Section cited, Yates v. Yates, 170-533.

1243. Costs allowed or not, in discretion of court. In other actions, costs may be allowed or not, in the discretion of the court, unless otherwise provided by law.

Rev., s. 1267; Code, s. 527.

Cases in which costs have been adjudged in discretion of court: Bond v. Cotton Mills, 166-20; Hockaday v. Lawrence, 156-319; Whitaker v. Whitaker, 138-208; Satterthwaite v. Good-year, 137-305; Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 132-468; Herndon v. R. R., 121-500; Simmons v. Allison, 119-556; Wooten v. Walters, 110-259; McNamee v. Alexander, 109-242; Parton v. Boyd, 104-422; Smith v. Smith, 101-468; Kron v. Smith, 96-386; Gulley v. Macy, 89-345.

In cases in equitable jurisdiction costs in discretion of court: Yates v. Yates, 170-533.

This section is modified by the statute with reference to costs in actions against executors and administrators: Whitaker v. Whitaker, 138-205.

Cases referring to this section: Williams v. Hughes, 139-18; Patterson v. Ramsey, 136-563; Harrington v. Rawls, 136-68; Harrington v. Hatton, 129-148; Taylor v. Vann, 127-245; Gore v. Davis, 124-234; Reade v. Street, 122-301; Hawkins v. Cedar Works, 122-92; Ladd v. Ladd, 121-121; Crenshaw v. Johnson, 120-270; State v. Horne, 119-855; Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-262, 256; Briseo v. Norris, 112-677; McNeill v. McBryde, 112-412; Ferrabow v. Green, 110-416; Jones v. Mial, 85-597.

1244. Costs allowed either party or apportioned in discretion of court. Costs in the following matters shall be taxed against either party, or apportioned among the parties, in the discretion of the court:

Section cited, Hockaday v. Lawrence, 156-319.

1. Application for year's support, for widow or children.
2. Caveats to wills.

It is discretionary with court to direct payment of costs out of estate: Mayo v. Jones, 78-406. In caveat costs in discretion of court: In re Winston's Account, 172-270.

3. Habeas corpus; and the court shall direct what officer shall tax the costs thereof.

4. In actions for divorce or alimony; and the court may both before and after judgment make such order respecting the payment of such costs as may be incurred by the wife, either by the husband or by her from her separate estate, as may be just.

See Broom v. Broom, 130-562.

5. Application for the establishment, alteration or discontinuance of a public road, cartway or ferry. The board of road supervisors or board of county commissioners may order the costs incurred before them paid in their discretion.

See McDowell v. Asylum, 101-656; Davis v. Hill, 33-9.

6. The compensation of referees and commissioners to take depositions.

Apportionment of referee's fees is in discretion of court: Cobb v. Rhea, 137-295; Field v. Wheeler, 120-264—and not reviewable, Worthy v. Brower, 93-492. Such fees to be taxed within discretion of judge, and where in rendering judgment he fails to tax such fees they may be taxed at a subsequent term: Horner v. Water Co., 156-494. As to method of taxing under former statute, see Young v. Connelly, 112-646; Wall v. Covington, 76-150.

7. All costs and expenses incurred in special proceedings for the division or sale of either real estate or personal property under the chapter entitled Partition.

Costs in partition proceedings are within discretion of court and not reviewable: Fortune v. Hunt, 152-715. See Hinnant v. Wilder, 122-149; Wilson v. Lumber Co., 131-163.

8. In all proceedings under the chapter entitled Drainage, except as therein otherwise provided.

9. In proceedings for reallocation of homestead for increase in value, as provided in the chapter, Civil Procedure.

See section 732.

See for provision as to discretionary costs in various proceedings: To charge heirs, etc., with ancestor's debts, sections 61, 65; to replace burnt or lost records, section 378; costs of answer of guardian ad litem in certain cases, section 453.

Rev., s. 1268; Code, ss. 2134, 2161, 1660, 1294, 2039, 2056, 533, 1422, 1323; 1889, c. 37; 1893, c. 149, s. 6.

1245. Petitioner to pay costs in certain cases. The petitioner shall pay the costs in the following proceedings:

1. In petitions for draining or damming lowlands.

2. In petitions for condemnation of water mill-sites when the petitioner is allowed to erect the mill; but when he is not allowed to erect the mill, the costs shall be paid by the person who is allowed to do so.

3. In petitions for condemnation of land for railroads, street railways, telegraph, telephone or electric power or light companies, or for water supplies for public institutions, or for the use of other quasi-public or municipal corporations; unless in the opinion of the superior court the defendant improperly refused the privilege, use or easement demanded, in which case the costs must be adjudged as to the court may appear equitable and just.

4. When the petition is refused.

Rev., s. 1269; Code, ss. 1299, 1855, 2013; 1893, c. 63; 1903, c. 562.

In condemnation proceedings judge may tax costs as it appears to him to be equitable and just: R. R. v. Gahagan, 161-190.

1246. Defendant unreasonably defending after notice of no personal claim to pay costs. In case of a defendant, against whom no personal claim is made, the plaintiff may deliver to such defendant with the summons, a notice subscribed by the plaintiff or his attorney, setting forth the general object of the action, a brief description of the property affected by it, if it affects real or personal property, and that no personal claim is made against such defendant. If a defendant on whom such notice is served unreasonably defends the action, he shall pay costs to the plaintiff.

Rev., s. 1270; Code, s. 216.

1247. Suits in forma pauperis, no costs unless recovery. When any person sues as a pauper, no officer shall require of him any fee, and he shall recover no costs, except in case of recovery by him.

Rev., s. 1265; Code, s. 212; 1895, c. 149; 1868-9, c. 96, s. 3.

No officer shall require any fee of one suing as pauper: Booshee v. Surles, 85-90—but pauper must pay the clerk for transcript on appeal to supreme court in civil cases, Speller v. Speller, 119-356; Brown v. House, 119-622; State v. Deyton, 119-883; Bailey v. Brown, 105-127; Andrews v. Whisnant, 83-446—though he need not in criminal cases, State v. Deyton, 119-880; State v. Nash, 109-822.

The order in forma pauperis extends only to court making it: Clark v. Dupree, 13-411.
As to who may sue or defend in forma pauperis, see sections 494, 496.

1248. Party seeking recovery on usurious contracts, no costs. No costs shall be recovered by any party, whether plaintiff or defendant, who may endeavor to recover upon any usurious contract.

Rev., s. 1271; 1895, c. 69.

See sections 2305, 2306.

1249. Costs in special proceedings. The costs in special proceedings shall be as allowed in civil actions, unless otherwise specially provided.

Rev., s. 1272; Code, s. 541.

In proceedings to make real estate assets, where defendants set up title to land, which issue decided against them, defendants must pay costs: Noble v. Koonce, 76-405. As to costs in partition proceedings, see section 1244 (7).

1250. Fees and disbursements in supplemental proceedings. The court or judge may allow to the judgment creditor, or to any party examined in proceedings supplemental to execution, whether a party to the action or not, witnesses' fees and disbursements.

Rev., s. 1273; Code, s. 499; C. C. P., s. 273.

1251. Costs of laying off homestead and exemption. The costs and expenses of appraising and laying off the homestead or personal property exemptions, when the same is made under execution, shall be charged and included in the officer's bill of fees upon such execution or other final process; and when made upon the petition of the owner, they shall be paid by such owner, and the latter costs shall be a lien on said homestead.

Lien exists in favor of officers for their fees, sheriff having right to retain costs out of amount collected, and no compromise between debtor and creditor can affect officer's remedy: Long v. Walker, 105-90. Sheriff can demand fees in advance, except in suit in forma pauperis: Whitmore v. Hyatt, 175-117.

1252. Costs of reassessment of homestead. If the superior court at term shall confirm the appraisal or assessment, or shall increase the exemption allowed the debtor or claimant, the levy shall stand only upon the excess remaining, and the creditor shall pay all the costs of the proceeding in court. If the amount allowed the debtor or claimant is reduced, the costs of the proceeding in court shall be paid by the debtor or claimant, and the levy shall cover the excess then remaining.

Rev., s. 1275; Code, s. 521.

Sheriff may demand fees for laying off exemptions before proceeding to act: Whitmore v. Hyatt, 175-117. See Beavans v. Goodrich, 98-217.

1253. Costs against infant plaintiff; guardian responsible. When costs are adjudged against an infant plaintiff, the guardian by whom he appeared in the action shall be responsible therefor.

Rev., s. 1276; Code, s. 534.

1254. Costs where executor, administrator, trustee of express trust, or person authorized by statute a party. In an action prosecuted or defended by an executor, administrator, trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute, costs shall be recovered as in an action by and against a person prosecuting or defending in his own right; but such costs shall be chargeable only upon or collected out of the estate, fund or party represented, unless the court directs the same to be paid by the plaintiff or defendant, personally, for mismanagement or bad faith in such action or defense. And when any claim against a deceased person is referred, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover the fees of referees and witnesses, and other necessary disbursements, to be taxed according to law.

Rev., s. 1277; Code, s. 535.

No judgment recoverable against executors, etc., for costs unless it appears that payment unreasonably delayed or neglected or that defendant refused to refer matter in controversy: Whitaker v. Whitaker, 138-205; Morris v. Morris, 94-613; May v. Darden, 83-238; Thompson v. Smith, 159-438—or acted in bad faith or was guilty of mismanagement, Sugg v. Bernard, 122-156; Lewis v. Johnston, 69-395; Davis v. Duval, 112-833; Varnar v. Johnston, 112-577. An administrator should be taxed with the cost of a suit subjecting him to liability for misapplication of funds: Valentine v. Britton, 127-57. Old case of interest: Arrington v. Coleman, 5-102. See, also, as to administrators and executors, sections 99, 103.

Costs in actions by and against trustee should be taxed against estate in hands of trustee except where trustee guilty of mismanagement or bad faith, when they can be taxed against him personally: Smith v. King, 107-278; Lance v. Russell, 165-626. A trustee, as against those for whose benefit the trust is created, will be allowed to apply so much of the fund to payment of costs and expenses: Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 101-223.

Section followed in cases of next friend: Hockoday v. Lawrence, 156-319. Where court finds that "next friend" officiously procured his appointment or was guilty of mismanagement or bad faith, it may tax him with costs: Smith v. Smith, 108-365.

Costs in cases of settlement with trustee or administrator: Overman v. Lanier, 157-544.

Referee's fees in action against deceased persons are taxed against losing party: Wall v. Covington, 76-150.

As to taxing costs against receiver, see Battle v. Mayo, 102-433.

1255. Costs against assignee after action brought. In actions in which the cause of action becomes by assignment after the commencement of the action, or in any other manner, the property of a person not a party to the action, such person shall be liable for the costs in the same manner as if he were a party.

Rev., s. 1278; Code, s. 539.

See Davis v. Higgins, 92-203.

ART. 4. COSTS ON APPEAL

1256. Costs on appeal generally. On an appeal from a justice of the peace to a superior court, or from a superior court or a judge thereof to the supreme court, if the appellant recovers judgment in the appellate court, he shall recover the costs of the appellate court and those he ought to have recovered below had the judgment of that court been correct, and also restitution of any costs of the court appealed from which he has paid under the erroneous judgment of such court. If in any court of appeal there is judgment for a new trial, or for a new jury, or if the judgment appealed from is not wholly reversed, but partly affirmed and partly disaffirmed, the costs shall be in the discretion of the appellate court.

Rev., s. 1279; Code, s. 540.

Costs of transcript on appeal, section 1257.

Section discussed generally in Williams v. Hughes, 139-17.

Error in judgment of lower court, to which exception taken, entitles plaintiff to cost in supreme court, although only nominal damages recovered: Lumber Co. v. Lumber Co., 137-131.

Where certain infant appellees were not represented by guardian or next friend it was deemed proper to tax costs of appeal against appellants: Cooper, ex parte, 136-130.

When party establishes a part of his demand in action to enforce lien he is entitled to costs of appeal: Hogsd v. Lumber Co., 170-529.

Successful party on appeal entitled to entire costs, including preparation of record, but unnecessary matter in record taxed against appellant unless sent up by consent of appellee (Rules 22, 23): Waldo v. Wilson, 174-767, 177-461; and see under section 1257. Where judgment modified, costs on appeal taxed against appellee: McLean v. Breece, 113-393. Where judgment reversed, it includes cost: Stafford v. Newsom, 34-17.

On appeal from decision of clerk in eminent domain, if owner recovers damages, costs will follow verdict, though damages reduced: Durham v. Davis, 171-305.

Appellant from justice's court to superior court, if he recovers judgment, should recover all costs, including what he should have recovered in justice's court: Kincaid v. Graham, 92-155—but if appellant is a defendant appealing from justice's judgment refusing his counterclaim, and in superior court jury allows counterclaim, yet plaintiff gets judgment for balance due, costs of superior court should be awarded plaintiff, Ibid.

Where subject-matter of action is destroyed before appeal heard, judgment below is presumed to be correct until reversed, and no part of costs should be adjudged against appellee: Taylor v. Vann, 127-243; Comrs. v. Gill, 126-86; Wikel v. Comrs., 120-452. There is no appeal from a judgment awarding costs only, and the supreme court will not entertain appeal upon the merits of a case just to settle the matter of costs: Comrs. v. Gill, 126-86; Taylor v. Vann, 127-243; Herring v. Pugh, 125-437; State v. Horne, 119-853; Futrell v. Deanes, 116-38; Elliott v. Tyson, 116-184; Russell v. Campbell, 112-404; Pritchard v. Baxter, 108-129; State v. Byrd, 93-624; Hasty v. Funderburk, 89-93; State v. R. R., 74-287; Martin v. Sloan, 69-128; Osborne v. Henry, 66-354; but see Blount v. Simmons, 120-19; Mills Co. v. Lytle, 118-837; Hobson v. Buchanan, 96-444; May v. Darden, 83-237. For rule and exceptions, see Van Dyke v. Ins. Co., 174-78—and that judgment involving merely taxation of bill of costs appealable, see Waldo v. Wilson, 177-461, citing cases.

Where appeal was awarded a partial new trial, as to one issue only out of several, costs of appeal are in court's discretion: Rayburn v. Casualty Co., 142-376. When costs of appeal will be taxed against appellant in discretion of court: Riley v. Sears, 154-509. Where new trial granted in supreme court, the awarding of costs is discretionary: Metal Co. v. R. R., 145-293; Satterthwaite v. Goodyear, 137-302. Where new trial awarded, but imperfect record sent up, costs divided: Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 132-469.

Appellant failing to show that order he appealed from is prejudicial; taxed with cost: Harrington v. Rawls, 136-65.

Where, pending appeal, statute under which action brought is repealed, judgment below as to cost will stand: Wikel v. Comrs., 120-452.

In a fragmentary appeal judgment below as to division of costs will not be disturbed: Rodman v. Calloway, 117-13.

Judgment for costs in supreme court is rendered in that court: Johnson v. R. R., 109-504.

Where both parties appeal from judgment dismissing action, which judgment is affirmed, defendant's appeal will be dismissed with cost: Horne v. Horne, 72-534.

Undertaking for costs required is to secure costs of appellee, therefore surety not liable for appellant's cost: Morris v. Morris, 92-142.

1257. Costs of transcript on appeal taxed in supreme court. When an appeal is taken from the superior court to the supreme court, the clerk of the superior court, when he sends up the transcript, shall send therewith an itemized statement of the costs of making up the transcript on appeal, and the costs thereof shall be taxed as a part of the costs of the supreme court.

Rev., s. 1280; 1905, c. 456.

Appellant will be taxed with cost of unnecessary and irrelevant matter in the record in case on appeal: Overman v. Lanier, 157-544; Yow v. Hamilton, 136-357; Harris v. Davenport, 132-697; Land Co. v. Jennett, 128-3; Gray v. Little, 127-304; Tobacco Co. v. McElwee, 96-71; Kivett v. McKeithan, 90-106—and this is so even though he succeeds in getting final judgment, Yow v. Hamilton, 136-363; Gray v. Little, 127-304; Kivett v. McKeithan, 90-106, and see under section 1256.

The successful party on appeal from superior court is entitled to recover back cost of transcript and certificate, though subsequently final judgment rendered in lower court against him: Dobson v. Rwy., 133-624.

Successful party on appeal will not be allowed to recover cost for printing record in excess of amount prescribed by supreme court rule, except in extraordinary cases where the necessity for such printing is made to appear: Roberts v. Lewald, 108-405.

Section changed rule as announced previously that cost of transcript is superior court, not supreme court, cost; see former rule in Roberts v. Lewald, 108-405.

1258. Costs on appeal from justices of the peace. 1. After an appeal from the judgment of a justice of the peace is filed with a clerk of a superior court, the costs in all subsequent stages shall be as herein provided for actions originally brought to the superior court.

Rev., s. 1281; Code, s. 542.

See Kincaid v. Graham, 92-154. Judge may or may not require prosecution bond of plaintiff on appeal from justice of the peace: Smith v. R. R., 72-62.

2. If, on appeal from a justice of the peace, judgment is entered for the plaintiff, and he shall not recover on his appeal a greater sum than was recovered before the justice, besides interest accrued since the rendition of the judgment, he shall not recover the costs of the appeal, but shall be liable at the discretion of the court to pay the same.

ART. 5. LIABILITY OF COUNTIES IN CRIMINAL ACTIONS

1259. County to pay costs in certain cases; if approved, audited and adjudged. If there is no prosecutor in a criminal action, and the defendant is acquitted, or convicted and unable to pay the costs, or a nolle prosequi is entered, or judgment arrested, the county shall pay the clerks, sheriffs, constables, justices and witnesses one-half their lawful fees; except in capital cases and in prosecutions for forgery, perjury, or conspiracy, when they shall receive full fees. No county shall pay any such costs unless the same is approved, audited and adjudged against the county as provided in this chapter.

Section cited: State v. Means, 175-820.

Constitution exempts acquitted defendant from payment of necessary witness fees of defense, but does not require that they be paid by public: State v. Hicks, 124-829.

Where nol. pros. is entered upon indictment for homicide, as to murder in first degree, state's witnesses subsequently attending trial entitled to only half fees: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299.

COUNTY'S LIABILITY. This section and sections 1283, 1284, 1287 leave it in discretion of judge to refuse to direct fees of witnesses for the state or for an acquitted defendant to be paid by county, and from his decision there is no appeal: State v. Hicks, 124-829, citing numerous cases; State v. Ray, 122-1095.

State and county only liable for costs where statute provides: Guilford v. Comrs., 120-23. County cannot be taxed with any part of clerk's fees, or fees of other officers, in criminal actions if grand jury returns "not a true bill": Ibid.

County pays half fees when defendant is convicted and unable to pay, except in capital cases and in other cases mentioned in statute: State v. Saunders, 146-597; State v. Wheeler, 141-773.

The rule that costs follow final judgment applies in criminal as well as in civil cases; hence where prisoner was convicted but afterwards acquitted on new trial, payment of his witnesses in both trials was properly taxed against county: State v. Horne, 119-853.

COSTS IN APPELLATE COURT. Officers of supreme court are not entitled to collect from county the costs accruing in supreme court on appeal in criminal cases where defendant was allowed to appeal without bond and without order allowing him to appeal as a pauper and is insolvent: Clerk's Office v. Comrs., 121-29; Clerk's Office v. Comrs. of Richmond, 79-598; but see section 1261.

Where, on appeal to superior court from a judgment of justice of the peace in a matter in which he had final jurisdiction, a nol. pros. was entered by solicitor, error to tax county with cost accrued in superior court: State v. Shuffler, 119-867; see, also, Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369.

FOR STATUTES APPLICABLE TO PARTICULAR COUNTIES, see sections 1260, 1279, 1282.

1260. Local modification as to counties paying costs. In the following counties the county shall pay one-half the fees specified when "not a true bill" is found: Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Bertie, Brunswick, Burke, Caldwell, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Clay, Craven, Davie, Duplin, Gaston, Granville, Greene, Henderson, Iredell, Jackson, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Macon, Madison, McDowell, Mecklenburg, Mitchell, Montgomery, Northampton, Onslow, Orange, Pamlico, Pender, Person, Pitt, Polk, Richmond, Robeson, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Stanly, Stokes, Surry, Swain, Transylvania, Wake, Watauga, Wilkes, Yadkin, Yancey.

Rev., s. 1283; Code, ss. 733, 739; 1907, cc. 94, 162, 208, 606, 627, 695; 1909, cc. 50, 107; P. L. 1911, cc. 76, 167; P. L. 1915, c. 22.

In Bladen County, where in a criminal proceeding before the grand jury a "true bill" is not found, the county shall pay one-half fees to clerks, sheriffs, officers, or constables who served any process in such proceeding.

In Brunswick and Catawba counties the county shall not be liable for any part of the costs of justices of the peace, when "not a true bill" is found.

Rev., s. 1283; 1905, c. 598; 1909, c. 107.

In Montgomery County, in criminal cases, where the defendant is convicted in superior court, justices of the peace are entitled to full fees, if any are legally taxed in the bill of costs.

In New Hanover County, in a criminal action, if there is no prosecutor, and the defendant is convicted and serves out his sentence on the public roads of the county, the county shall pay one-half fees as provided in the first sentence of this section.

Rev., s. 1283; 1905, c. 511.

As to half fees after road sentence in New Hanover, see State v. Saunders, 146-597.

1261. Liability of county when defendant acquitted in supreme court. If, on appeal to the supreme court in criminal actions, the defendant is successful, the county from which the appeal was taken shall pay one-half the costs of the appeal, and all such sums as have been properly expended by the defendant for the transcript of the record and printing done under the rules of the court.

Rev., s. 1284.

See Clerk's Office v. Comrs., 121-29.

1262. County where offense committed liable for costs. In all cases where the county is liable to pay costs, that county wherein the offense is alleged to have been committed shall be adjudged to pay them.

Rev., s. 1285; 1889, c. 354.

Where judge below orders insolvent prosecutor to pay costs and he fails or is unable to pay, county in which offense committed is liable for same: Pegram v. Comrs., 75-120; Guilford v. Comrs., 120-28.

1263. Liability of counties, where trial removed from one county to another. The costs taxed in any case removed from another county for trial shall include the fees and expenses allowed for summoning the special venire, if one is ordered in the case, and the per diem and mileage of jurors who are impaneled to try the case, together with all other costs and expenses of the trial of the case, the amount of which, if not provided for by law, to be fixed by the presiding judge, so as to fully relieve the county in which the trial is had of all costs and expenses thereof. All fines, forfeitures, penalties and amercements imposed or levied in the case shall belong to the county from which the case was removed and be paid to the treasurer of said county. When a prisoner is sent from one county to another to be held for trial, or for any other cause or purpose, the county from which he is sent shall pay his prison expenses, unless the same is collected from him, on or before the first Monday in each month, and upon a failure to do so, it shall be the duty of the county to which he is sent to pay the same to the sheriff or jailer entitled to receive it at the same rate and under the same regulations as its own prison expenses are paid; and the county liable shall repay the same within thirty days after demand, and upon failing to do so the county to which the money is due shall be entitled to recover in the superior court, or, if the amount be within its jurisdiction, the court of justice of the peace of its own county, the amount due, with ten per cent additional, together with eight per cent interest on the sum due; and said courts of said county shall have full jurisdiction to hear, try and determine all actions and proceedings that may be brought for the purpose of enforcing the collection of the same. When the county to which such prisoner has been sent has paid the prison expenses and has made demand therefor upon the county liable as above provided and such demand be not complied with within ten days, the sheriff or jailer shall at once return such prisoner to the county from which such prisoner was sent, and deliver him to the sheriff or jailer thereof.

Rev., s. 1285; 1889, c. 354; 1901, c. 718.

1264. Statement of costs against county to be filed with commissioners. In all criminal actions where the county is liable in whole or in part for costs, it is the duty of the clerks of the courts to make out a statement of such costs from the record or docket, within thirty days after the hearing, trial, determination, or other disposition thereof, and file the same with the board of commissioners of the county.

Rev., s. 1286; Code, s. 736; 1873-4, c. 116, s. 3.

1265. Expenses in conveying prisoner to another county; provision for payment. When a sheriff or other officer arrests a person under a capias or other legal process, which requires him to have the person arrested before a court or judge of another county, and such sheriff or other officer is obliged to incur expense in the safe delivery of such person by reason of his failing to give bond for his appearance, or if the sheriff or other officer of the county to which the prisoner is to be carried incurs any expense in going for and conveying said prisoner to his county, then in either case the sheriff or other officer shall file with the court or judge issuing the capias or other legal process and with the register of deeds an itemized and sworn account of such expenses, which shall be presented by the register to the board of commissioners at their next regular meeting, to be audited by them. Such sworn statement shall be received by the said board as prima facie correct. Upon such auditing the board of commissioners shall cause to be issued to such sheriff or other officer an order on the county treasurer for the amount so audited and allowed by them, and shall notify the court or judge of their action, to the end that the amount so allowed shall be taxed in the costs to the use of the county.

Rev., s. 1287; 1885, c. 262; 1901, c. 64.

1266. Cost of investigating lynchings. In all cases of investigation and trial of the crime of lynching, the entire cost incurred in the prosecution, unless paid by the person or persons convicted, shall be paid by the county wherein the crime shall have been committed. And whenever any solicitor goes to a county to investigate a crime of breaking or entering a jail for the purpose of lynching, the county where such crime is committed shall pay the solicitor the sum of one hundred dollars for making the investigation.

Rev., s. 1288; 1893, c. 461, s. 6.

Section cited: State v. Lewis, 142-626.

ART. 6. LIABILITY OF DEFENDANT IN CRIMINAL ACTIONS

1267. Costs against defendant convicted, confessing, or submitting. Every person convicted of an offense, or confessing himself guilty, or submitting to the court, shall pay the costs of prosecution.

Section cited: Abernathy v. Comrs., 169-631.

Pardon does not exempt one from payment of officer's cost: State v. Mooney, 74-98; but see State v. Underwood, 64-599.

The "costs of prosecution" are those incurred in the conduct of the prosecution, and do not include costs of defendant in his defense: State v. Wallin, 89-578. A witness for defendant has no right to have his ticket for attendance allowed in the bill of costs of the prosecution with which defendant is taxed: Ibid.—for it is a personal debt of defendant which witness may enforce by execution in the cause, Ibid.

Defendant liable for witness fees for entire time where nol. pros. entered and another indictment for same offense later returned, witnesses never having been discharged: State v. Harshaw, 4-230.

Expenses of transporting criminal insane person no part of costs of prosecution: Neal v. Comrs., 85-420.

Fees due officers are vested rights and are not discharged when defendant receives unconditional pardon after conviction and sentence: State v. Mooney, 74-98; but see State v. Underwood, 64-599.

The legal effect of a conviction and judgment is to vest the right to the costs in those entitled to them: State v. Crook, 115-765.

Costs constitute no part of the punishment in criminal actions, though the payment of them may be considered in mitigation of sentence: Ibid.

Where judgment is directed by supreme court to be entered in lower court for punishment and costs, and at succeeding term judgment only for punishment entered, judgment may be entered at subsequent term nunc pro tunc for costs also against defendant and his sureties on his appeal to supreme court: State v. Patterson, 27-89.

Cases illustrating how insolvents are discharged: State v. McNeely, 92-829; State v. Miller, 97-451; State v. Williams, 97-414; State v. Davis, 82-610.

1268. Defendant imprisoned not discharged until costs paid. If the sentence be that the guilty person be imprisoned for a time certain, and that he pay the costs, there shall be added to it that he shall remain in prison, after the expiration of the fixed time for his imprisonment, until the costs shall be paid, or until he shall otherwise be discharged according to law.

Rev., s. 1292; Code, s. 905; 1868-9, c. 178.

1269. Judgment confessed or bond given to secure fine and costs. In cases where a court, mayor, or a justice of the peace permits a defendant convicted of any criminal offense to give bond or confess judgment, with sureties to secure the fine and costs which may be imposed, the acceptance of such security shall be upon the condition that it shall not operate as a discharge of the original judgment against the defendant nor as a discharge of his person from the custody of the law until the fine and costs are paid.

Power of court to suspend judgment upon payment of costs discussed: State v. Everitt, 164-399; State v. Hilton, 151-687.

1270. Arrest for nonpayment of fine and costs. In default of payment of such fine and costs, it is the duty of the court at any subsequent term thereof, on motion of the solicitor of the state, to order a capias to issue to the end that such defendant may be again arrested and held for the fine and costs until discharged according to law; and a justice of the peace or mayor may at any subsequent time arrest the defendant and hold him for the fine and costs until discharged according to law.

Rev., s. 1294; Code, s. 750; 1885, c. 364; 1879, c. 264.

Suspending judgment on payment of costs, see under section 1269.

ART. 7. LIABILITY OF PROSECUTOR FOR COSTS

1271. Prosecutor liable for costs in certain cases; court determines prosecutor. In all criminal actions, if the defendant is acquitted, nolle prosequi entered, judgment against him arrested, or if the defendant is discharged from arrest for want of probable cause, the costs, including the fees of all witnesses summoned for the accused, whom the judge, court or justice of the peace before whom the trial took place shall certify to have been proper for the defense, shall be paid by the prosecutor, whether marked on the bill or warrant or not, whenever the judge, court or justice is of opinion that there was not reasonable ground for the prosecution, or that it was not required by the public interest. And every judge, court or justice is hereby fully authorized to determine who the prosecutor is at any stage of a criminal proceeding, whether before or after the bill of indictment has been found, or the defendant acquitted: Provided, that no person shall be made a prosecutor after the finding of the bill, unless he shall have been notified to show cause why he should not be made the prosecutor of record.

Rev., s. 1295; Code, s. 737; 1889, c. 34; R. C., c. 35, s. 37; 1799, c. 4, s. 19; 1800, c. 558; 1868-9, c. 277; 1874-5, c. 151; 1879, c. 49.

Section cited: State v. Ownby, 146-677.

When prosecution frivolous and malicious, prosecutor must pay cost: State v. Butts, 134-607; State v. Jones, 117-768; State v. Baker, 114-812; State v. Lance, 109-789; State v. Carlton, 107-958; State v. Roberts, 106-662; State v. Hamilton, 106-660; State v. Dunn, 95-697; State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Adams, 85-560; State v. Norwood, 84-794; State v. Cannady, 78-541; State v. Darr, 63-516. Legislature has power to prescribe that prosecutor pay cost when prosecution frivolous or malicious: State v. Cannady, 78-541. Prosecutor in peace warrant failing to pay cost, where prosecution frivolous or malicious, can be imprisoned: Ibid.

Prosecutor insolvent and failing to pay costs, county liable: Pegram v. Comrs., 75-120. Justice's judgment taxing prosecutor with cost is appealable: State v. Byrd, 93-627; State v. Powell, 86-640. Prosecutor cannot be taxed with cost where "not a true bill" is found: State v. Horton, 89-581—or where grand jury ignores the bill, State v. Gates, 107-832.

Error to tax costs of defendant's witnesses against prosecutor on a finding that prosecution was malicious and not for public good in the absence of a finding that the witnesses were proper for the defense: State v. Jones, 117-768. Prosecutor of an action "not for the public interest" properly adjudged to pay cost: State v. Baker, 114-812.

State cannot appeal from refusal of judge to mark one as prosecutor: State v. Moore, 84-724.

As to when prosecutor can be adjudged to pay cost in a magistrate's court, see State v. Carlton, 107-958. Solicitor's fee cannot be charged against prosecutor: State v. Dunn, 95-697.

Before prosecutor can be taxed with costs he is entitled to notice and hearing: State v. Collins, 169-323.

For notice to party of motion to mark him as prosecutor, see State v. Jones, 117-768; State v. Hamilton, 106-660; State v. Norwood, 84-794; State v. Hughes, 83-665; State v. Crosset, 81-579. The court may order ex mero motu that prosecutor be taxed with cost: State v. Adams, 85-560. One marked as prosecutor has notice of all subsequent proceedings, and he cannot make motion to set aside irregular judgment against him for costs after a year: State v. Horton, 89-581; see, also, State v. Spencer, 81-519; State v. Owens, 87-565.

Power of court to adjudge who is prosecutor and to tax him with costs exists at any stage of the proceeding: State v. Stone, 153-614. Prosecutor can be marked, upon notice given, after prosecution ended: State v. Jones, 117-772; State v. Hughes, 83-665—or, upon motion and notice to show cause, at a subsequent term, State v. Sanders, 111-700—and where he was present attending trial, judgment for costs may be entered in his absence where he left the courtroom before judgment, State v. Owens, 87-565; State v. Spencer, 81-519. Formerly the name of prosecutor had to be marked on bill before being sent to grand jury, but now it can be marked after acquittal, upon motion and notice: State v. Hughes, 83-665.

FINDINGS OF FACT. Prosecutor should not be taxed with cost without a previous finding of fact by court: State v. Roberts, 106-662.

Where taxation of costs could not be sustained because of failure to find prerequisite facts, new motion could be made several terms later: State v. Sanders, 111-702.

The findings by the judge below that prosecution was frivolous and malicious is conclusive and will support a judgment that prosecutor pay costs or in default thereof be imprisoned: State v. Lance, 109-789; State v. Carlton, 107-958; State v. Hamilton, 106-660; State v. Dunn, 95-697; State v. Adams, 85-560; State v. Norwood, 84-794; but see State v. Powell, 86-640. Before defendant's witnesses can be taxed against prosecutor, a finding that they were proper for the defense must be made: State v. Jones, 117-768.

Rev., s. 1297; Code, s. 738; R. C., c. 35, s. 37; 1800, c. 558; 1879, c. 49; 1881, c. 176.

As to when prosecutor pays costs, see under section 1271. Costs of prosecution is not a debt within the constitutional inhibition against imprisonment for debt: State v. Wallin, 89-578; State v. Cannady, 78-539—and a prosecutor failing to pay costs adjudged against him may be imprisoned where court finds that prosecution was frivolous or malicious: State v. Stone, 153-614; State v. Lance, 109-789; State v. Carlton, 107-956; State v. Roberts, 106-662; State v. Wallin, 89-578; State v. Cannady, 78-539.

ART. 8. FEES OF WITNESSES

1273. Not entitled to fees in advance. Witnesses are not entitled to receive their fees in advance; but no witness in a civil action or special proceeding, unless summoned on behalf of the state or a municipal corporation, shall be compelled to attend more than one day, if the party by or for whom he was summoned shall, after one day's attendance, on request and presentation of a certificate, fail or refuse to pay what then may be due for traveling to the place of examination and for the number of days of attendance.

Rev., s. 1298; Code, s. 1368; 1868-9, c. 279, subch. 11, s. 3.

As to fees of witnesses, see section 3893; as to when fees generally are payable in advance, see section 3849.

Pauper must pay his witnesses: Booshee v. Surles, 85-91; Bailey v. Brown, 105-129. Witnesses in civil case, except for state or municipal corporation, refused compensation, need not attend but one day: State v. Massey, 104-881; see, also, Carter v. Wood, 33-22. Witness cannot be summoned before grand jury when mere matter of inquiry; he is entitled to fees when indorsed on bill as sworn and sent: Lewis v. Comrs., 74-194. Witness tickets are merely evidence of attendance: Moore v. Comrs., 70-340.

1274. Witness to prove attendance; action for fees. Every person summoned, who shall attend as a witness in any suit, before the clerk of the court, or before the referee or officer taking the testimony, ascertain by his own oath or affirmation the sum due for traveling to and from court, attendance and ferriage, which shall be certified by the clerk; and on failure of the party, at whose instance such witness was summoned (witnesses for the state and municipal corporations excepted), to pay the same previous to the departure of the witness from court, such witness may at any time sue for and recover the same from the party summoning him; and the certificate of the clerk shall be sufficient evidence of the debt. Where recovery may be had before a justice of the peace on a witness ticket, the justice shall deface it by writing the word judgment, and deliver the same to the person of whom it is recovered.

Rev., s. 1299; Code, s. 1369; R. C., c. 31, s. 73; 1777, c. 115, s. 46; 1796, c. 458; 1868-9, c. 279, subch. 11, ss. 2, 4.

A witness not subpoenaed cannot charge the losing party: Stern v. Herren, 101-516; Thompson v. Hodges, 10-318—nor can witness who is a nonresident, though subpoenaed, charge mileage even if he attends, Ibid.—and witnesses subpoenaed cannot be charged against losing party unless examined or sworn and tendered, State v. Means, 175-820; Staley v. Staley, 174-640; Moore v. Guano Co., 136-248; Sitton v. Lumber Co., 135-540; Cureton v. Garrison, 111-271; but see Herring v. R. R., 144-208; Loftis v. Baxter, 66-340—except when nonsuit taken, Henderson v. Williams, 120-339—or if absent, unless shown to be material, Hobbs v. R. R., 151-134. Only two witnesses to a material point can be charged losing party: State v. Wheeler, 141-777; Ex parte Beekwith, 124-115; State v. Massey, 104-881—except in action of slander, where more can prove in court's discretion, Holmes v. Johnson, 33-55—also except where "value" is to be proven, Ex parte Beekwith, 124-111.

All witnesses may recover from the party who subpoenaed them: Sitton v. Lumber Co., 135-540; Cureton v. Garrison, 111-271; Office v. Lockman, 12-146—but they must prove their attendance before the clerk and get a ticket each term, Thompson v. Hodges, 10-318; see Moore v. Islar, 1-81—which ticket is sufficient evidence in court upon which to recover judgment against party cast or against party who subpoenaed witness, if party cast is insolvent, the statute making it presumptive evidence of the attendance, for whom, how long, for how much, and miles traveled, Deaver v. Comrs., 80-116; Belden v. Snead, 84-243.

Witness is not at liberty after final judgment to withdraw his witness ticket and sue upon it. His fees for attendance should be taxed and collected with other costs against party adjudged to pay, if solvent, and if not, then the party who summoned and required his testimony is responsible: Belden v. Snead, 84-243; Carter v. Wood, 33-22.

One cannot recover for attendance of an incompetent witness: Keith v. Goodwin, 51-398.

Witnesses for the losing party receive no pay unless he is solvent, and witnesses for state in criminal actions where convicted party is insolvent receive only half pay: State v. Wheeler, 141-777.

Where material witness theretofore present is absent at trial for sufficient cause, he may be taxed against losing party: Loftis v. Baxter, 66-340, cited in Herring v. R. R., 144-208; see, also, Carpenter v. Taylor, 4-689.

1275. Witness tickets to be filed; only two witnesses for single fact. At the court where the cause is finally determined the party recovering judgment shall file in the clerk's office the witness tickets; the amount whereof shall be taxed in the bill of costs, to be levied and recovered for the benefit of said party. The party cast shall not be obliged to pay for more than two witnesses to prove a single fact.

Section referred to: Chadwick v. Ins. Co., 158-380.

Where a party is apprehensive that clerk will err in taxation of costs he should move court for special directions to the officer as to taxing costs: Wooley v. Robinson, 52-30.

Witness ticket omitted may, after notice and motion, be charged, and execution issued therefor: Tate v. Kincaid, 9-334.

Only two witnesses to a material fact subpoenaed by the prevailing party can be charged against losing party: State v. Wheeler, 141-777; Ex parte Beckwith, 124-115; State v. Massey, 104-877—except in action of slander, where more than two can prove, in the discretion of the court, Holmes v. Johnson, 33-55—and where value is to be proven: Ex parte Beckwith, 124-111.

For witness tickets as evidence, see Deaver v. Comrs., 116-80; Belden v. Snead, 84-243; Moore v. Comrs., 70-340.

Where case in Rowan removed to Iredell county for trial, but returned to original court for some cause and then removed to Cabarrus, costs of officers and witnesses in Iredell court properly taxable by clerk: Boyden v. Williams, 84-608.

1276. Local: trafficking in witness tickets regulated. 1. Amounts paid for tickets to be endorsed thereon. Whenever any person shall prove a ticket as a witness in any criminal action, wherein any county in this state shall be adjudged to pay the cost or any part thereof, and such person shall sell or assign the same to any other person, firm or corporation, he shall state on the back of the ticket the amount which he shall receive from the assignee named for such sale or assignment, and the assignee shall make an affidavit of the truthfulness of such amount as stated in the endorsement of sale.

2. Amount receivable by assignee. It shall be unlawful for any assignee of any ticket proved in a criminal action, wherein any county is or shall be adjudged to pay the costs thereof, to receive from the county any greater sum than the amount paid by such person, firm or corporation, with ten per cent added to the amount received by the person proving the ticket.

3. If improperly endorsed not taxed against county. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court, in making out the bills of cost which shall be adjudged against the county for payment, to examine carefully all witness tickets, and whenever any ticket shall fail to show the amount paid for any transfer, sale or assignment properly endorsed on said ticket, and sworn to, as above provided in subsection one, he shall not tax the same against any county for payment.

4. Collection of greater amount misdemeanor. If any person shall collect from any county in this state a sum greater than the amount received by the person proving said ticket, with ten per cent added thereto, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, be fined double the amount so collected by him, not exceeding the sum of fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

5. False statement perjury. Any person purchasing any ticket in any criminal action, wherein the county shall be adjudged to pay the cost or any part thereof, who shall make a false statement of the amount paid by him for such ticket or tickets, shall be guilty of perjury, and upon conviction shall be punished as for that offense.

6. To what counties applicable. This section shall apply only to the counties of Anson, Buncombe, Columbus, Forsyth, Gaston, Richmond, Robeson, Rutherford, and Surry.

1277. Fees of witnesses before jury of view, commissioner, etc. Witnesses summoned to appear at any survey, or before any jury of view, or before any commissioner, arbitrator, referee, or other person authorized to require their attendance, shall be entitled to the same fees as for similar attendance at the court of the county, and may prove, by their own oath, their attendance, mileage, and ferriage before such person, who is hereby authorized to administer the oath; and when they shall attend on any commission issuing from without the state, they may recover the fees for attendance against the party summoning them, or his agent or attorney directing them to be summoned; and when they shall attend under a commission or authority from any court in this state, the fees for attendance shall be proved as aforesaid, and be certified to the proper court and taxed among the costs of the cause, as if the witness had attended the court; but nevertheless, such fees may be immediately recovered against the party summoning.

Rev., s. 1301; Code, s. 1365; R. C., c. 31, s. 67; 1805, c. 685; 1848, c. 66; 1850, c. 188, s. 3.

1278. Fees of witnesses before grand jury. No witness shall receive pay for attendance in a criminal case before a grand jury, unless such witness has been summoned by direction in writing of the foreman of the grand jury, or of the solicitor prosecuting, addressed to the clerk of the court, commanding him to summon such witness, stating the name of the parties against whom his testimony may be needed, or unless he has been bound or recognized by some justice of the peace to appear before the grand jury.

Rev., s. 1302; Code, s. 743; 1879, c. 264.

Grand jury has no right to summon witnesses to appear before them except by permission of foreman or of solicitor: State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

1279. Local modifications as to fees of witnesses before grand jury. In Martin county all witnesses who are subpoenaed by the court's order to appear before the grand jury and do attend, and all other witnesses who testify for the state in open court, may prove attendance and collect one-half fees.

Rev., s. 1283; 1905, c. 134.

In Moore county all persons subpœnaed as witnesses before the grand jury in any criminal prosecution, or subpœnaed to appear before the judge in any criminal prosecution, shall receive one dollar per day for each day attending, and five cents per mile for each mile traveled to and from court one time, whether a true bill be found or not. The county commissioners shall not have power or authority to allow any less sum than the face of the juror's or witness's tickets provided herein.

1907, c. 93, ss. 4, 5.

In Wayne county witnesses subpœnaed by the state before the grand jury shall receive one-half fees, if the grand jury fails to find "a true bill."

1907, c. 40.

In Cherokee county the law is on the same general lines as in Moore. See 1907, c. 156, ss. 4, 5.

As to Brunswick county, see P. L. 1913, c. 248.

1280. Pay of witnesses in criminal cases. All witnesses summoned or recognized in behalf of the state shall be allowed the same pay for their daily attendance, ferriage and mileage as is allowed to witnesses attending in civil suits; and such fees for attendance shall be paid by the defendant only upon conviction, confession or submission; and if the defendant is acquitted on any charge of an inferior nature, or a nolle prosequi be entered thereto, the court shall order the prosecutor to pay the costs, if such prosecution appears to have been frivolous or malicious; but if the court is of opinion that such prosecution was neither frivolous nor malicious, and a greater number of witnesses have been summoned than were, in the opinion of the court, necessary to support the charge, the court may, nevertheless, order the prosecutor to pay the attendance of such unnecessary witnesses, if it appear that they were summoned at his special request.

Rev., s. 1296; Code, s. 1204; R. C., c. 35, s. 37; 1800, c. 558, s. 1; 1879, c. 49; 1879, c. 92, s. 3; 1881, c. 176.

Section cited: State v. Means, 175-820.

For fees of witnesses, see section 3893. As to when defendant pays witnesses, see section 1267. As to when prosecutor pays costs, see section 1271. As to when county pays state's witnesses, see sections 1259, 1281—pays defendant's witnesses, see section 1283.

1281. County to pay state's witnesses in certain cases. Witnesses summoned or recognized on behalf of the state to attend on any criminal prosecution in the superior or criminal courts where the defendant is insolvent, or by law is not bound to pay the same, and the court does not order them to be paid by the prosecutor, shall be paid by the county in which the prosecution was commenced. And in all cases wherein witnesses may be summoned or recognized to attend any such court to give evidence on behalf of the state, and the defendant is discharged, and in cases where the defendant breaks jail and is not afterwards retaken, the court shall order the witnesses to be paid.

For additional annotations on this subject, see under section 1259.

Where judge below orders insolvent prosecutor to pay costs and he fails or is unable to pay, county in which offense committed is liable for same: Pegram v. Comrs., 75-120; State v. Wheeler, 141-777; Guilford v. Comrs., 120-28.

Tickets given out by clerks in state cases are only evidence of witnesses' attendance, and, until judge passes upon costs, and by whom it is to be paid, county not responsible: Moore v. Comrs., 70-340.

Where nol. pros. entered as to murder in first degree, state's witnesses subsequently attending trial entitled to only half fees: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299.

Witnesses are entitled to compensation where bill is sent to grand jury with names of those summoned endorsed thereon as sworn and sent: Lewis v. Comrs., 74-194.

To tax county with cost in criminal action where defendant is convicted, the trial judge must find that defendant is unable to pay it: Coward v. Comrs., 137-299.

Costs of nonresidents attending as witnesses in a criminal prosecution cannot include more than per diem and mileage to state line: State v. Means, 175-820.

1282. Local modifications as to counties paying state's witnesses:

In Durham county, when on the trial of a criminal action the costs, or any part thereof, are taxed against the county, the witness fees of a salaried officer or salaried employee of the county of Durham or the city of Durham shall not be taxed against the county in the bill of costs.

In Wake county, in all criminal cases and proceedings in the superior court where there is a verdict of acquittal, nolle prosequi, arrest of judgment, the return by a grand jury of "not a true bill," the county shall be liable for one-half fees to state's witnesses. Where the defendant is convicted and judgment is suspended, or the defendant is imprisoned, the county shall be liable for full fees to state's witnesses. The clerk of the superior court, immediately upon the determination of the case or proceeding, in any one of the ways provided above, shall make out and sign a statement showing the amount of fees and mileage to which each and every state witness duly subpoenaed to attend court in that case or proceeding is entitled, which, when endorsed by the solicitor holding said court, and a certificate made thereon by the sheriff of the county that the witness has paid all taxes for which he is liable, shall be presented to the treasurer of the county, who shall immediately pay the same out of the general county fund. In all cases where judgment is suspended, or the imprisoned defendant is taxed with the costs, the costs, when collected, shall be paid by the clerk to the treasurer of the county and placed in the general county fund.

1907, c. 204; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 25.

At least thirty days before each criminal term of the superior court of Wilkes county the clerk shall file with the board of county commissioners an estimate of the amount of money necessary to pay witnesses for the state fifty cents on the dollar of the amount due. Upon the filing of such estimate it is the duty of the commissioners to order the county treasurer to pay to the clerk an amount of money sufficient to pay state's witnesses fifty per cent of their witness fee and take receipt for same. At each term of the court, when witnesses who have been duly subpoenaed on behalf of the state are discharged upon filing their ticket with the clerk and assigning the ticket to the county, the clerk shall pay the witness fifty per cent of the face value of the ticket. The ticket shall be preserved by the clerk till the case is finally disposed of, and at the termination of the case, if the defendant is adjudged to pay the cost, the same shall be taxed in the bill of cost which, when collected, shall be paid over to the county treasurer, who shall pay the balance to the witness. Within thirty days after each criminal term of court the clerk shall pay over to the treasurer all the money so collected from defendants on witness fees, and file a sworn statement of all money so collected. It is the duty of the solicitor as each witness is discharged to give him a certificate showing the number of days he is entitled to prove as a witness, which certificate shall be filed with the clerk. If any individual purchases any witness ticket from any witness, the county shall not be liable to pay said witness, unless it shows upon the ticket the amount so paid by the purchaser, and then no greater amount than the amount paid, and in no case to exceed fifty per cent of the face value thereof.

1283. County to pay defendant's witnesses in certain cases. When the defendant is acquitted, a nolle prosequi entered, or judgment against him arrested, and it is made to appear to the court, by certificate of counsel or otherwise, that said defendant had witnesses, duly subpoenaed, bound or recognized, in attendance, and that they were necessary for his defense, it is the duty of the court, unless the prosecutor is adjudged to pay the costs, to make and file an order in the cause directing that said witness be paid by the county in such manner and to such extent as is authorized by law for the payment of state's witnesses in like cases.

Rev., s. 1290; Code, s. 747; 1879, c. 264; 1881, c. 312.

This section, construed with sections 1259, 1284, 1287, leaves it in discretion of judge to refuse to direct fees of witnesses for state or acquitted defendant, in whole or in part, to be paid by county, and his decision not reviewable: State v. Hicks, 124-829.

The constitution exempts an acquitted defendant from payment of necessary witness fees of defense, but does not require them to be paid by public: Ibid.

The provision of this section does not extend to a case where indictment quashed: State v. Massey, 104-877.

The provision of the constitution forbidding any defendant being taxed with cost of necessary witnesses summoned by him unless found guilty does not, ex vi termini, authorize such costs to be taxed against the county: Ibid.

Liability of county for defendant's witnesses is restricted to same cases in which county responsible for half fees to officers, except that county is not liable to defendant's witnesses where he is convicted and is unable to pay: Guilford v. Comrs., 120-23.

Where a prisoner was convicted, but afterwards was acquitted upon a new trial, payment of witnesses at both trials was properly taxed against county: State v. Horne, 119-853.

It seems that an acquitted defendant's costs for witnesses can be taxed against a county only in those cases where a private prosecutor may be taxed with them: State v. Massey, 104-877.

Old cases in which there are several defendants and some acquitted, those acquitted entitled to their costs: Stockstill v. Shuford, 5-39; Harriss v. Lee, 46-226.

1284. Fees of state witnesses; two only in misdemeanors; one fee for day's attendance. No person shall receive pay as a witness for the state on the trial of any criminal action unless such person was summoned by the clerk under the direction of the solicitor prosecuting in the court in which the action originated, or in which it shall be tried if removed; and no solicitor shall direct that more than two witnesses shall be summoned for the state in any prosecution for a misdemeanor, nor shall any county or defendant in any such prosecution be liable for or taxed with the fees of more than two witnesses, unless the court, upon satisfactory reasons appearing, otherwise directs. And no witness summoned in a criminal action or proceeding shall be paid by the county for attendance in more than one case for any one day; nor shall the county be required to pay any such witness if his attendance shall be taxed in more than one case on the same day.

For the history of taxation of witness fees, see State v. Massey, 104-877. As to when county pays state's witnesses, see under sections 1259, 1281.

This section, construed with sections 1259, 1283, places it in discretion of judge to refuse to direct fees of state's witnesses to be paid by county, and from his decision there is no appeal: State v. Hicks, 124-829; State v. Ray, 122-1095—unless he bases the decision upon want of power, In re Smith, 105-167. Where several actions consolidated and judgment rendered against both parties for their costs in each case, witnesses subpoenaed were entitled to prove but one attendance and in one action, and but one bill of costs could be taxed: Mills Co. v. Lytle, 118-837.

Section cited: State v. Means, 175-820.

1285. On appeal from justice only two witnesses bound over. When the defendant appeals from the judgment of the justice of the peace, in any criminal action, it is the duty of such justice of the peace to select and bind over on behalf of the state not more than two witnesses, and neither the county nor the defendant shall be liable for the fees of more than two witnesses on such appeal, unless additional witnesses are summoned by order of the appellate court as provided in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 1304; Code, s. 745; 1879, c. 264.

Where on appeal from justice's court, in a matter where justice had final jurisdiction, nol. pros. entered, county does not pay costs: State v. Shuffler, 119-867.

1286. Discharge of witnesses for state; certificate of attendance by solicitor. It is the duty of all solicitors prosecuting in the several courts, as each criminal prosecution is disposed of by trial, removal, continuance or otherwise, to call and discharge the witnesses for the state, either finally or otherwise, as the disposition of the case may require; and he shall thereupon file with the clerk of the court a certificate giving the names of the witnesses entitled to prove their attendance, with the date of their discharge. The said certificate shall be in the following or similar form, and blanks thereof shall be furnished to the solicitor by the clerk at the county expense, viz.:

North Carolina, _____County.
 _____Court, _____Term, 19____
 State v. _____
 Witness _____
 discharged _____ day of _____, 19____, Solicitor.

Rev., s. 1305; Code, s. 746; 1879, c. 264; 1881, c. 312.

1287. Witnesses not paid without certificate; court's discretion. No county, prosecutor or defendant shall be liable to pay any witness, nor shall his fees be embraced in the bill of costs to be made up as hereinbefore provided, unless his name is certified to the clerk by the solicitor, or included in the order of the court. And the judge or justice may, in his discretion, for satisfactory cause appearing, direct that the witnesses, or any of them, shall receive no pay, or only a portion of the compensation authorized by law. The court, at any time within one year after judgment, may order that any witness may be paid who for any good reason satisfactory to the court failed to have his fees included in the original bill of costs.

For other annotations, see under sections of this article. For amount of witness fees, see section 3893.

Judge may refuse fees to state's witnesses in his discretion: State v. Hicks, 124-837— and such discretion not reviewable, State v. Ray, 122-1095; State v. Massey, 104-878—but whether costs rightly adjudged on particular item properly chargeable is reviewable, State v. Horne, 119-853. When defendant bound over to court case becomes proceeding of superior court, and all the costs from beginning are governed accordingly: Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-372.

ART. 9. CRIMINAL COSTS BEFORE JUSTICES

1288. Liability for criminal costs before justice. The party convicted in a criminal action or proceeding before a justice shall always be adjudged to pay the costs; and if the party charged be acquitted, the complainant shall be adjudged to pay the costs, and may be imprisoned for the nonpayment thereof, if the justice shall adjudge that the prosecution was frivolous or malicious. But in no action or proceeding of which he has final jurisdiction, commenced or tried in a court of a justice of the peace, shall the county be liable to pay any costs.

Rev., s. 1307; Code, s. 895; 1868-9, c. 178; 1879, c. 92, s. 3; 1881, c. 176.

The law as to costs in criminal cases before magistrates stated in Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369.

Costs in cases where magistrates have jurisdiction cannot be taxed against county: State v. Butts, 134-608; State v. Morgan, 120-565; Guilford v. Comrs., 120-27; State v. Carlton, 107-956; Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369.

Complainant prosecutor shall be adjudged to pay the cost and imprisoned for nonpayment thereof if the court finds the prosecution frivolous or malicious: State v. Butts, 134-607; State v. Jones, 117-768; State v. Carlton, 107-956; State v. Lance, 109-789; State v. Roberts, 106-662; Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369; State v. Dunn, 95-697; State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Adams, 85-560; State v. Norwood, 84-794; State v. Murdock, 85-598—from which judgment prosecutor may appeal, State v. Morgan, 120-563.

Prosecutor taxed with costs may appeal to superior court where the findings of the justice may be reviewed, but on appeal to supreme court findings of fact by judge are conclusive: State v. Bailey, 162-583.

1289. Imprisonment of defendant for nonpayment of fine and costs. If the justice sentences the party found by him to be guilty to pay a fine and costs, and the same are not immediately paid, the justice shall commit the guilty person to the county jail until the same are paid, or until he is otherwise discharged according to law.

Rev., s. 1308; Code, s. 904; 1868-9, c. 178, subchap. 4, s. 15.

Defendant convicted may be imprisoned for failure to pay costs: Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369.

NOTE. For costs in taking depositions to be used in another state, see Evidence.

For costs of advertising for creditors of deceased person, see Administration.

For fees to clerk superior court for issuing orders, etc., in guardianship matters, see Guardian and Ward.

For security for costs, see Civil Procedure.

For costs in bastardy cases, see Bastardy; in actions against guardians, see Guardian and Ward; in habeas corpus proceedings, see Habeas Corpus; in foreclosing liens, see Liens; in draining lowlands, see Drainage; when plaintiff refuses to accept tender of judgment, and fails to recover more, see Civil Procedure; in pauper suits, see Civil Procedure; in actions between landlord and tenant, see Landlord and Tenant; in actions to establish public mills, see Mills; in partition proceedings, see Partition; in actions for forfeiture of corporate charter, see Corporation.

- 1382. Compensation of manager and other officers.

ART. 1. CORPORATE EXISTENCE AND POWERS OF COUNTIES

1290. County as corporation; acts through commissioners. Every county is a body politic and corporate, and has the powers prescribed by statute, and those necessarily implied by law, and no others; which powers can only be exercised by the board of commissioners, or in pursuance of a resolution adopted by them.

Rev., s. 1309; Code, ss. 702, 703; 1868, c. 20, ss. 1, 2; 1876-7, c. 141, s. 1.

COUNTIES GENERALLY. The political and legal relation of counties; their creation, organization, division, enlargement; legislative provision for taxes and payment of public debt: Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377; Comrs. v. Comrs., 157-515; Trustees v. Webb, 155-379; R. R. v. Washington, 154-334; Jones v. Comrs., 143-59; Prichard v. Comrs., 126-908; Tate v. Comrs., 122-812; Harris v. Wright, 121-172; Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9; Dare v. Currituck, 95-189; McCormac v. Comrs., 90-445; White v. Comrs., 90-438; Watson v. Comrs., 82-17; Comrs. of Currituck v. Comrs. of Dare, 79-565; Hill v. Comrs., 67-367; Manly v. Raleigh, 57-370; Taylor v. Comrs., 55-141; Love v. Schenck, 34-304; Mills v. Williams, 33-558; State v. Jones, 23-414. Distinction between counties and municipal corporations such as cities and towns discussed in Manuel v. Comrs., 98-11, and cases cited; but see Winslow v. Comrs., 64-220.

POWERS OF COUNTIES GENERALLY. Shall have those "prescribed by statute": Manuel v. Comrs., 98-11; Dare v. Currituck, 95-191; McCormac v. Comrs., 90-447; Gooch v. Gregory, 65-143—and must be strictly construed, Vaughn v. Comrs., 118-641. Implied powers restricted to the doing of that which is necessary to the complete exercise of the express powers: Vaughn v. Comrs., 118-641. Powers of county are exercised by county commissioners: Fountain v. Pitt, 171-113; Wilson v. Holding, 170-352; Bunch v. Comrs., 159-335; Halford v. Senter, 169-546; Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-681; Dare v. Currituck, 95-191; State v. Hargrave, 103-335. For specific powers of counties and of county commissioners, see sections 1291, 1297.

Legislature can direct counties to do whatever it can empower them to do: Tate v. Comrs., 122-812; Jones v. Comrs., 137-579; Withers v. Comrs., 163-341.

1291. Corporate powers of counties. A county is authorized—

1. To sue and be sued in the name of the county.

Rights of action against counties are ordinarily such only as are given by statute: Hitch v. Comrs., 132-573; Jones v. Comrs., 130-451; Moody v. State's Prison, 128-16; Bell v. Comrs., 127-85; Prichard v. Comrs., 126-912; Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352; Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9; White v. Comrs., 90-437; Winslow v. Comrs., 64-218. A county is not liable for tort: White v. Comrs., 90-437; Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-237; Keenan v. Comrs., 167-356, and cases cited.

Counties have corporate capacity to sue and be sued: Comrs. v. Comrs., 107-297. Commissioners must be sued in their own county: Steele v. Comrs., 70-137. Formerly counties were sued in the name of the commissioners: State v. Hargrove, 103-328; State v. Wilkerson, 98-696; Winslow v. Comrs., 64-218; but now they sue and are sued in the name of the county: Fountain v. Pitt, 171-113; Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-357.

2. To purchase and hold lands within its limits and for the use of its inhabitants, subject to the supervision of the general assembly.

3. To make such contracts, and to purchase and hold such personal property, as may be necessary to the exercise of its powers.

See generally under section 1297.

4. To make such orders for the disposition or use of its property as the interests of its inhabitants require.

For power to purchase land at public sale, see section 2623. See Vaughn v. Comrs., 118-636. Rev., s. 1310; Code, s. 704; 1868, c. 20, s. 3.

ART. 2. COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

1292. Election and number of commissioners. There shall be elected in each county of the state, at the general election to be held in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six, and every two years thereafter, by the duly qualified voters thereof, three persons to be chosen from the body of the county, who shall be styled "the board of commissioners for the county of-----" and shall hold their office for two years from date of their qualification and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Rev., s. 1311.

1293. Local modifications as to term and number. The number of commissioners shall be five instead of three in the counties of Alamance, Beaufort, Bertie, Buncombe, Cabarrus, Carteret, Catawba, Chowan, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Durham, Edgecombe, Franklin, Granville, Greene, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Iredell, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Martin, Mecklenburg, Nash, New Hanover, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Tyrrell, Vance, Warren, Wayne and Wilson.

In Gaston county six persons shall be elected, one of whom must be a resident of Gastonia township, one a resident of River Bend township, one a resident of South Point township, one a resident of Crowders Mountain township, one a resident of Cherryville township, and one a resident of Dallas township. If at any time the board of commissioners of Gaston county are equally divided upon any question pending before them and there is a tie vote, then the clerk of said board is authorized and empowered to cast the deciding vote and to determine such question.

In Wake county five persons shall be elected, three of whom shall compose a class whose terms of office shall be for four years on and after the first Monday in December, one thousand nine hundred and ten, and two of whom shall compose a class whose terms of office shall be for four years on and after the first Monday in December, one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

Rev., ss. 1311, 1312; Code, s. 716; 1876-7, c. 141, s. 5; 1887, c. 307; 1895, c. 135; 1899, cc. 103, 147, 153, 187, 297, 301, 346, 450, 467, 488, 609; 1901, cc. 14, 60, 328, 330, 581; 1903, cc. 4, 7, 14, 36, 46, 59, 137, 191, 203, 206, 207, 228, 265, 446, 515, 790; 1905, cc. 37, 44, 58, 73, 148, 338, 340, 346, 397, 422, 553; 1907, cc. 2, 16, 55, 61, 125, 178, 291, 350; 1909, cc. 12, 53, 213, 302, 625, 729; P. L. 1917, cc. 32, 175, 381.

As to elections for commissioners in Polk county. P. L. 1919, c. 96.

1294. Vacancies in board; how filled. In case of a vacancy occurring in the board of commissioners of a county, the clerk of the superior court for the county shall appoint to said office for the unexpired term.

Rev., s. 1314; Code, s. 719; 1895, c. 135, s. 7; 1909, c. 490, s. 1.

1295. When to qualify; oath to be filed. The board of commissioners shall qualify and enter upon the duties of their office on the first Monday of December next succeeding their election, and they may take the oaths of office before the clerk of the superior court, or some judge, or justice of the peace or other person qualified by law to administer oaths. The oaths of office severally taken and subscribed by them shall be deposited with the clerk of the superior court.

Rev., s. 1316; Code, s. 708; 1895, c. 135, s. 4.

De facto board of commissioners exercise all appropriate functions until new board qualifies: Jones v. Jones, 80-127.

Necessity of taking oath of office: Worthy v. Barrett, 63-199.

1296. Meetings of the board of commissioners. The board of commissioners in each county shall hold a regular meeting at the courthouse, on the first Mondays in December and June. Special meetings may be held on the first Monday in every month, but shall not continue longer in session than two days. Meetings may be held at other times for the more convenient dispatch of business at the call of the chairman, on the written request of one member of the board, but public notice of the time and place of all such called meetings shall be posted at the courthouse door for not less than six days, and published one time in a county newspaper, if there is one. The board shall receive no compensation for attending such called meetings. The board may adjourn its regular meetings in December and June from day to day until the business before it is disposed of. Every meeting shall be open to all persons. A majority of the board constitute a quorum. At each regular December meeting the board shall choose one of its members as chairman for the ensuing year; in his absence the members present shall choose a temporary chairman.

Meetings in certain counties are governed by special laws as follows: Ashe, P. L. 1911, c. 94; Buncombe, P. L. 1913, c. 392; Clay, 1889, c. 184; Dare, 1909, c. 68; Durham, 1901, c. 309; Edgecombe, 1901, c. 429; Forsyth, 1897, c. 437; Gaston, 1903, c. 34; Mecklenburg, 1893, c. 199; Union, 1907, c. 347; Wake, 1899, c. 297.

County commissioners are not prohibited from meeting on other day than specified, after giving notice to all concerned, but they cannot get compensation: People v. Green, 75-329; for election had at an adjourned meeting subject to call of chairman: Tripp v. Comrs., 158-180. For compensation of commissioners, see section 3918.

1297. Powers of board. The boards of commissioners of the several counties have power—

Has only those powers conferred by statute: Fidelity Co. v. Fleming, 132-337. Court has jurisdiction to compel commissioners to perform their duty: Comrs. v. Comrs., 107-291; also Jones v. Comrs., 137-579. Succeeding commissioners must obey mandamus issued against predecessors: Pegram v. Comrs., 65-114. Mandamus lies to compel commissioners to issue bonds when required by the legislature: Jones v. Comrs., 137-579. Statutes embracing words "authorize and empower" when mandatory on commissioners: Ibid. As to powers (formerly) exercised jointly with justices, see Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678, 692. Not fraudulent for commissioners to lend their personal credit to county, when: Long v. Comrs., 76-278.

Commissioners are responsible for failure to exercise their powers as to the public buildings and property of the county: Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352; Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-258— or bridges and highways, White v. Comrs., 90-437. County commissioners' liability defined generally: Staton v. Wimberly, 122-107; Templeton v. Beard, 159-63; Hipp v. Ferrall, 169-551; s. c., 173-167; Fore v. Feimster, 171-551.

A majority of the governing body of a county can exercise its powers: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678; see Comrs. v. Trust Co., 143-115. Commissioners cannot defend mandamus for tax levy on ground that claim is void: Bear v. Comrs., 122-434.

TAXATION AND FINANCE

1. To exempt from capitation tax. To exempt from capitation tax in special cases, on account of poverty and infirmity.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

2. To levy county taxes. To levy, in like manner with the state taxes, the necessary taxes for county purposes; but the taxes so levied shall never exceed the double of the state tax, except for a special purpose, and with the special approval of the general assembly. All county taxes shall be levied at the regular meeting of the board on the first Monday in June. The board may extend the time for the collection and settlement of the county taxes to such time as may be deemed expedient, not beyond the first day of May next after the taxes were levied.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

As to constitutional limitation upon county taxation, see R. R. v. Cherokee County, 177-86; Bennett v. Comrs., 173-625; French v. Comrs., 74-692; Jones v. Comrs., 107-248; Blanton v. Comrs., 101-532; Cromartie v. Comrs., 87-134; Mauney v. Comrs., 71-486; Trull v. Comrs., 72-388; Clifton v. Wynne, 80-145.

Commissioners can levy tax for necessary expenses and to pay bonds issued therefor up to the constitutional limitation. They can levy beyond limitation when legislature authorizes, and no vote of the people is required. But they cannot levy for any purpose not necessary without the legislature authorizes and a majority of the qualified voters vote for it: R. R. v. Cherokee County, 177-86; Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Parvin v. Comrs., 177-508; Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377; Bennett v. Comrs., 173-625; Moose v. Comrs., 172-419; Jackson v. Comrs., 171-379; Hargrave v. Comrs., 168-626; Pritchard v. Comrs., 160-476; s. c., 159-636; R. R. v. Comrs., 148-220; R. R. v. Comrs., 148-248; Cotton Mills v. Waxhaw, 130-298; Smathers v. Comrs., 125-488; Herring v. Dixon, 122-420; McCless v. Meekins, 117-34; Cromartie v. Comrs., 87-139; Tate v. Comrs., 122-812; Tucker v. Raleigh, 75-267.

Courts have the right to say what are necessary expenses, but cannot control the discretion of commissioners in incurring the debt when the expense is necessary: Black v. Comrs., 129-121; Vaughn v. Comrs., 117-429; Hightower v. Raleigh, 150-569; Jackson v. Comrs., 171-379; also cases cited under section 1325.

The equation of taxation to be observed applies only to general county purposes and not to special taxes: Wagstaff v. Highway Com., 177-354; Bennett v. Comrs., 173-625; Moose v. Comrs., 172-419; R. R. v. Comrs., 148-220; Jones v. Comrs., 107-248. What is a special purpose: R. R. v. Cherokee County, 177-86, and cases cited.

The commissioners are required to levy sufficient tax to run the public schools six months, and the constitutional limitation does not prevent such levy: Collie v. Comrs., 145-170, overruling Barksdale v. Comrs., 93-472, and Bd. of Education v. Comrs., 111-578; Bd. of Education v. Comrs., 150-116.

County bonds not issued for necessary expense, but authorized by legislative act and popular vote, are valid; but the commissioners cannot levy a tax beyond the constitutional limitation unless authorized to do so by the special act: Comrs. v. MacDonald, 148-125.

Where county pledges its faith or lends its credit it must levy taxes on all property in the same, except such as is exempt: Jones v. Comrs., 107-248. And if for a special purpose, the tax need not be uniform in the different sections, but may depend upon the benefits to be derived: Faison v. Comrs., 171-411.

The statute makes no difference in grade or necessity among the several necessary expenditures of a county for which commissioners must provide by taxation: Long v. Comrs., 76-278.

Commissioners have implied power, after making assessment for taxes on unlisted property, to authorize collection by sheriff: Lumber Co. v. Smith, 146-199.

For an action to have tax levied for special purpose applied thereto, see McCless v. Meekins, 117-34. Where legislature authorized tax for special purpose beyond the constitutional limitation and part of it was to be "for meeting other current expenses," held invalid: Williams v. Comrs., 119-520.

Where tax, levied for special purpose beyond the limitation, provides more funds than necessary, the remnant can be turned into the general fund if the statute authorizing it is infra vires; but if for a special purpose and a general purpose together, the statute would be ultra vires and void: Williams v. Comrs., 119-520.

There is no constitutional requirement that tax rate for county purposes should be the same in the several counties, townships, etc.: Jones v. Comrs., 143-59.

What property subject to tax levy stated in Jones v. Comrs., 107-248.

Taxes for county purposes are to be levied only once a year: Bradshaw v. Comrs., 92-278. Mandamus to compel commissioners to levy tax to pay off debts of county does not warrant them in levying taxes in any other manner or at any other time than law prescribes: Mauney v. Comrs., 71-486; Cromartie v. Comrs., 87-139.

As to tax levy on territory taken from one county and annexed to another, see Watson v. Comrs., 82-17; Currituck v. Dare, 79-565.

A majority of the governing body of a county can levy the tax: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678; State v. Woodside, 30-104—and the record must show it, Dudley v. Oliver, 27-227. Board, when sitting with justices as required in some counties, has power of old county court in matters of taxation; within its jurisdiction it is a court of record: Guilford v. Georgia Co., 112-34.

The constitutional requirement that every act passed levying taxes shall state the object to which they shall be appropriated has no application to "county taxes": Parker v. Comrs., 104-166—the tax levy "for county purposes" being sufficient, Ibid.

See, also, subsections 3, 5, 6, 9, 18, 19, 22, 28, and annotations.

3. To borrow money for necessary expenses, provide for payment by taxation. To borrow money for the necessary expenses of the county, and to provide for its payment, with interest, in periodical installments, by taxation.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

As to what are necessary expenses of a county, see under section 1325. As to funding county indebtedness, see McCless v. Meekins, 117-34. As to issuing bonds in place of orders previously issued for necessary expenses without vote of the people: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34; Tucker v. Raleigh, 75-267; see, also, subsection 5.

Majority of governing body of county can exercise power hereunder: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678. For raising money by taxation with which to pay off debts for money borrowed for necessary expenses, see under subsections 2 and 5 of this section.

Legislature has power to authorize commissioners to issue bonds with which to pay indebtedness incurred for necessary expenses: Comrs. v. Stafford, 138-453. And such authority is construed to be mandatory in Jones v. Comrs., 137-579. The power to incur a debt for necessary expense implies the power to borrow money for payment, unless restricted by the legislature: Bennett v. Comrs., 173-625; Pritchard v. Comrs., 159-636; s. e., 160-476; Vaughn v. Comrs., 117-429.

4. To exchange county bonds for outstanding notes of county. Any county in this state which is authorized by law to sell its bonds for the purpose of funding or paying floating indebtedness now outstanding and evidenced by notes bearing interest at a higher rate than the bonds which the county proposes to issue, may, in lieu of selling such bonds, issue them in exchange for a like principal amount of such notes, provided the holders of the notes are willing to make such an exchange and to pay any interest accrued on such bonds up to the time of such exchange. When such an exchange is made, any interest accrued on such notes up to the time of such exchange may be paid out of any available funds of the county. The powers conferred by this subsection shall be exercised by the board or body authorized by law to sell the bonds herein referred to. Nothing herein shall be construed as requiring any bonds to be exchanged for notes, rather than to be sold. The powers granted by this subsection are granted in addition to and not in substitution for existing powers of counties, and are not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other law.

As to funding county indebtedness, see McCless v. Meekins, 117-35.

5. To provide for payment existing debts by taxation or otherwise. To provide by taxation or otherwise for the prompt and regular payment, with interest, of any existing debt owing by the county.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

For authority to provide for debt incurred for necessary expenses and for other than necessary expenses, see annotations under subsection 2.

Mandamus lies to compel commissioners to pay debt: Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598; Fry v. Comrs., 82-304; Gas Co. v. Raleigh, 75-274; McLendon v. Comrs., 71-38; Lutterloh v. Comrs., 65-403; Pegram v. Comrs., 64-557; Winslow v. Comrs., 64-223—but it will not warrant commissioners levying tax in manner or at times other than law specifies: Mauney v. Comrs., 71-486; Cromartie v. Comrs., 87-139. As to levying of taxes generally, see subsection 2. As to issuing of bonds for necessary expenses, see under subsection 3.

6. To submit proposition to contract debt to vote. To submit to a vote of the qualified electors in the county, after having obtained the approval of the general assembly, any proposition to contract a debt, or loan the credit of the county, under section seven, article seven, of the Constitution; to order the time for voting upon such proposition, which shall be upon public notice thereof at one or more places in each township in the county, and publication in one or more county newspapers, if there are any, for three months next immediately preceding the time fixed on; and such election shall take place and be conducted under the laws as prescribed for the election of members of the general assembly; and the commissioners shall provide for giving effect, in case of the adoption of the proposition, to the expressed will of a majority of the qualified voters in such election.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

For special law as to Durham, see 1907, c. 982.

For authority to levy tax, see annotations under subsection 2. As to who are qualified voters, see section 2691.

For a municipal corporation (and this applies to counties) to incur a debt for other than necessary expense there must be the vote of a majority of the qualified voters in favor of it: Pritchard v. Comrs., 160-476; s. c., 159-636; R. R. v. Comrs., 116-563; Bank v. Comrs., 116-339; Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; s. c., 117-456; Riggsbee v. Durham, 99-341; s. c., 98-81; Wood v. Oxford, 97-228; McDowell v. Construction Co., 96-514; Markham v. Manning, 96-132; Duke v. Brown, 96-127; Southerland v. Goldsboro, 96-49; Norment v. Charlotte, 85-387; R. R. v. Comrs., 72-486; Reiger v. Comrs., 70-319.

For a necessary expense the popular vote is not required unless the legislature so provides, then it must be had; but a majority of the votes cast would be sufficient: Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377; Swindell v. Belhaven, 173-1; Bramham v. Durham, 171-196; Burwell v. Lillington, 171-94; Murphy v. Webb, 156-402; Ellison v. Williamston, 152-147; Jones v. New Bern, 152-64; Burgin v. Smith, 151-561; Robinson v. Goldsboro, 135-382; Asheville v. Webb, 134-72; Wadsworth v. Concord, 133-587; Black v. Comrs., 129-121.

As to what is a necessary expense, see annotations under section 1325.

As to validity of bond election for special purposes when there is a defect in passage of act authorizing: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Pritchard v. Comrs., 159-636; Russell v. Troy, 159-366; Bank v. Laey, 151-3; Comrs. v. Trust Co., 143-110; Graves v. Comrs., 135-49; Cotton Mills v. Waxhaw, 130-293; Comrs. v. DeRossett, 129-275; Comrs. v. Stafford, 138-453; Glenn v. Wray, 126-730; Comrs. v. Snuggs, 121-394; Bank v. Comrs., 119-214; Comrs. v. Payne, 123-432; Comrs. v. Call, 123-308; Charlotte v. Shepard, 122-602—when return indicated a ‘majority of votes cast’ instead of ‘majority of qualified voters’: R. R. v. Comrs., 109-159—or when there are other irregularities, Jones v. Comrs., 107-248; Comrs. v. Trust Co., 164-301.

Where commissioners authorized to issue bonds, they have sole power to determine whether conditions hereunder have been complied with: Belo v. Comrs., 76-489—and a finding of court below that majority of qualified voters approve bonds is conclusive, Norment v. Charlotte, 85-387; Claybrook v. Comrs., 114-453; s. c., 117-456.

When the law requires that county bonds shall not be sold below par, a contract for such sale will be declared void: Moose v. Comrs., 172-419.

Townships may subscribe for capital stock of railroad by consent of a majority of the qualified voters, after legislature authorizes: Jones v. Comrs., 107-248; Brown v. Comrs., 100-92; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227—but county commissioners cannot order such election nor issue bonds on the credit of a township under section 3431: Graves v. Comrs., 135-57.

Where a township voted and issued bonds for a railroad, the legislature can require county commissioners to apply taxes from the railroad property in that township to the building of bridges, schoolhouses, etc., in such township until entire fund is repaid the township: Jones v. Comrs., 143-59.

Where the township voted bonds for roads, to be exchanged for state bonds under act of 1917, c. 6, s. 20, the county commissioners could not issue county bonds for such purpose, and the part of the act so authorizing is unconstitutional: Comrs. v. Laey, 174-141.

Townships and other taxing districts may be authorized to contract debts, issue bonds, etc.: Trustees v. Webb, 155-379; Highway Com. v. Webb, 152-710; Smith v. School Trustees, 141-143.

7. To purchase county indebtedness. To purchase if they desire, at any price, not exceeding their par value and accumulated interest, any of the outstanding bonds or other indebtedness of the county.

Rev., s. 1320; Code, s. 718; 1868-9, c. 269, s. 2.

8. To levy taxes for interest and sinking funds for outstanding bonds not provided for. (a) To levy, in like manner with the county taxes, the necessary taxes to pay the interest and create a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds issued and sold for the purpose of meeting necessary expenses of the county, where no other provision for such levy has been specially provided for. In making such levy the constitutional equation must be preserved, and the levy shall not exceed any constitutional limitation.

(b) To levy, in like manner with the county taxes, the necessary taxes to pay the interest and create a sinking fund for the retirement of township road improvement bonds, issued either by vote of the people or by act of the general assembly, where the amount of levy provided by the act under which the vote is held or tax levied is inadequate to pay the interest on bonds heretofore issued or authorized by acts now in force, but the constitutional equation must be observed, and the levy shall not exceed any constitutional limitation.

For commissioners' power to revise sheriff's tax-collecting itinerary, see section 7997.

COUNTY BUILDINGS

9. To erect and repair county buildings. To erect and repair the necessary county buildings, and to raise, by taxation, the moneys therefor.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

For special law as to Tyrrell, see 1909, c. 413.

Cost of building a courthouse and jail is a necessary county expense, and discretionary act of commissioners in levying tax to pay for the building of one is not reviewable: Jackson v. Comrs., 171-379; Haskett v. Tyrrell, 152-714; Vaughn v. Comrs., 117-429; Brodnax v. Groom, 64-244; Satterwaite v. Comrs., 76-153; also see section 1325. But the legislature may impose a restriction which must be observed: Burgin v. Smith, 151-561. Commissioners cannot mortgage courthouse to secure contractors for building it: Vaughn v. Comrs., 118-636.

As to number of commissioners necessary to act hereunder, see Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678. Court cannot control discretion of commissioners as to what kind of courthouse is needed: Vaughn v. Comrs., 117-429.

Commissioners must provide for the repair of buildings; liable if they neglect; county not liable: Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-258; Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352. The duty is obligatory: Long v. Comrs., 76-273; but it will not be enforced by mandamus, the remedy is by indictment, Ward v. Comrs., 146-534; State v. Leeper, 146-655. The fact that a prosecution has been directed by the judge will not make the action of the commissioners voidable for duress: Jackson v. Comrs., 171-379. Requiring bond in contract for public building, see section 2445.

10. To designate site for county buildings. To remove or designate a new site for any county building; but the site of any county building already located shall not be changed, unless by an unanimous vote of all the members of the board at the regular December meeting, and unless upon notice of the proposed change, specifying the new site. Such notice shall be published in a newspaper printed in the county, if there is one, and posted in one or more public places in every township in the county for three months, next immediately preceding the annual meeting at which the final vote on the proposed change is to be taken. Such new site shall not be more than one mile distant from the old, except upon the special approval of the general assembly.

Special law as to Lincoln, see 1909, c. 182, s. 12.

A majority of the governing body of a county necessary to act hereunder: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678.

A jail is not a nuisance per se, and its location at a certain place cannot be enjoined: Burwell v. Comrs., 93-73.

COUNTY OFFICERS

11. To require officers to report. To require from any county officer, or other person employed and paid by the county, a report under oath at any time on any matters connected with his duties.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

12. To approve bonds of county officers and induct into office. To qualify and induct into office at the meeting of the board, on the first Monday in the month next succeeding their election or appointment, the following named county officers, to wit: clerk of the superior court, sheriff, coroner, treasurer, register of deeds, surveyor, and constable; and to take and approve the official bonds of such officers, which the board shall cause to be registered in the office of the register of deeds. The original bonds shall be deposited with the clerk of the superior court, except the bond of the said clerk, which shall be deposited with the register of deeds, for safe keeping.

If the board declares the official bonds of any of said county officers to be insufficient, or declines to receive the same, the officer may appeal to the superior court judge riding the district in which the county is, or to the resident judge of said district, as he may elect, who shall hear said appeal in chambers, at any place in said district he designates, within ten days after notice by him of the same, and if, upon the hearing of the appeal, the judge is of the opinion that the bond is sufficient, he shall issue an order to the board of commissioners to induct the officer into office, or that he shall be retained in office, as the case may be. If, upon the hearing of the appeal, the judge is of the opinion that the bond is insufficient, he shall give the appellant ten days in which to file before him an additional bond, and if the appellant within the ten days files before the judge a good and sufficient bond, in the opinion of the judge, he shall so declare and issue his order to said board directing and requiring them to induct the appellant into office, or retain him, as the case may be. If, in the opinion of the judge, both the original and the additional bonds are insufficient, he shall declare the said office vacant and notify the commissioners, who shall notify the clerk of the superior court, who shall appoint to fill the vacancy, except in cases of the clerk of the superior court, which vacancy shall be filled by the resident judge. The judgment of the superior court judge shall be final. The appeal and the finding and judgment of the superior court judge shall be recorded on the minutes of the board of commissioners.

For duty of commissioners in renewing bonds, see sections 326-337.

Failure of officer to give bond hereunder; effect: Bray v. Barnard, 109-44; Cole v. Patterson, 97-360; Kilburn v. Latham, 81-312; Worley v. Smith, 81-304; Dixon v. Comrs., 80-118.

Duty of commissioners to qualify, induct county officers into office and fill all vacancies: Jones v. Jones, 80-127—to induct those whose election has been announced by canvassers, Swain v. McRae, 80-111. All three of sheriff's bonds must be approved before inducting him: Dixon v. Comrs., 80-118. The duty to induct officers into office is quasi-judicial, and for an honest error the commissioners are not liable: Hannon v. Grizzard, 99-161.

Commissioners cannot be compelled to induct a person plainly ineligible: McNeill v. Somers, 96-467; Hannon v. Grizzard, 96-293. Bonds must be approved before officers inducted: Worley v. Smith, 81-304. Commissioners may refuse time in which to fortify bond that is insufficient, and from their refusal there is no appeal: Cole v. Patterson, 97-364.

Where sheriff inducted into office without giving bonds required, subsequently gives bonds, defect cured: Worley v. Smith, 81-304.

13. To fill vacancies. To fill by appointment a vacancy in the offices of sheriff, constable, coroner, register of deeds, county treasurer, or county surveyor.

Rev., s. 1321; Code, s. 720.

For power to declare office vacant, see section 328.

Upon failure to give or renew bond, as the case may be, office declared vacant: Bray v. Barnard, 109-44; Kilburn v. Latham, 81-312; Worley v. Smith, 81-304; Jones v. Jones, 80-127; People v. Green, 75-329. Sheriff failing to give bond, commissioners should declare vacancy and appoint: Sneed v. Bullock, 80-132—but a sheriff cannot be deprived of his office without a day in court, Vann v. Pipkin, 77-408.

Commissioners are liable to penalty for failure to declare office vacant and fill same when they should have done so: Bray v. Creekmore, 109-49.

Vacancy in office of treasurer filled by commissioners: Rhodes v. Hampton, 101-633. De facto board can appoint: Jones v. Jones, 80-127.

COUNTY PROPERTY

14. To make orders respecting county property. To make such orders respecting the corporate property of the county as may be deemed expedient.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

County commissioners' liability for failing to make proper orders for the repairing of buildings outlined in Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-258—and failing to protect health of prisoners, Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-237—and for failing to have privy cleaned, Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-355.

15. To sell or lease real property. To sell or lease any real property of the county and to make deeds or leases for the same to any purchaser or lessee.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

A majority of the governing body may exercise the power to sell: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678. Power to sell does not include power to mortgage: Vaughn v. Comrs., 118-636.

COUNTY PURCHASES

16. To purchase for public buildings, and at execution sale. To purchase real property necessary for any public county building, and for the support of the poor, and to determine the site thereof, where it has not already been located; and to purchase land at any execution sale, when it is deemed expedient to do so, to secure a debt due the county. The deed shall be made to the county, and the board may, in its discretion, sell any lands so purchased.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8; 1879, c. 144, s. 1.

As to locating public buildings, see subsection 10. Can acquire and hold property only for necessary public purposes and for benefit of all its citizens: Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598; Gooch v. Gregory, 65-142. It is assumed that commissioners hold county property as trustees: Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-355. For effect of restrictive covenants in a deed to the county, see Guilford v. Porter, 167-366; s. c., 170-310; s. c., 171-356.

17. To purchase or lease a county farm, and work convicts thereon. To lease or purchase a county farm, and where proper provisions are made for securing and caring for convicts, such of them as are subject to road duty may be worked on said farm, and, in the discretion of the board, such farms may be made experimental farms. The court, in its discretion, may sentence convicted prisoners either to said farm or to the roads. Where a farm is purchased or leased in those counties having a road system, the board may work the convicts on such farms.

HIGHWAYS AND BRIDGES

18. Laying out, alteration and discontinuance of highways. To exercise authority in laying out, altering, repairing and discontinuing highways; in establishing and settling ferries; in building and keeping up bridges; in laying off or discontinuing cartways; in providing draws in all bridges, where the same may be necessary for the convenient passage of vessels; in appointing overseers of highways; in excusing persons from working on the highways; in allowing and contracting for the building of toll-bridges, and taking bond from the builders thereof; and in licensing the erection of gates across highways. This authority shall be exercised under the rules, regulations, restrictions and penalties in all respects prescribed and imposed in the chapter entitled Roads and Highways.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

See Roads and Highways for statutes authorizing county and local road commissions.

The power of the commissioners over roads and bridges will not be interfered with by the court, unless there is an abuse of such power: Edwards v. Comrs., 170-448; Scott v. Comrs., 170-327; Supervisors v. Comrs., 169-548; Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412; Brodnax v. Groom, 64-244; Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-357.

Power of commissioners to establish ferries does not deprive legislature of that power: In re Spease Ferry, 138-219. Legislature making it unlawful to operate a ferry within a certain distance of one established is a limitation on power of commissioners: Ibid. Commissioners cannot bind successors as to establishment of bridge: Glenn v. Comrs., 139-412. Public bridge or ferry must be part of public road: Greenleaf v. Comrs., 123-30. Commissioners cannot delegate their powers hereunder; effect if they do: McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330. Commissioners may exercise their discretion as to how draws may be placed in a bridge: Lenoir v. Crabtree, 158-357. And they are not liable for honest error of judgment in placing or refusing drawbridge: Staton v. Wimberly, 122-107.

Remedy of any one injured by the erroneous discharge of duty hereunder by commissioners: McArthur v. McEachin, 64-454.

Counties are not liable in damages for injury caused by defective highway; nor are the commissioners personally liable unless they act corruptly or of malice: Hipp v. Ferrall, 173-167; s. c., 169-551; Templeton v. Beard, 159-63.

19. To raise money for highways. To raise by tax the necessary highway moneys, in such manner as may be prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

This duty obligatory: Long v. Comrs., 76-278. When specific fund provided, general fund cannot be used: Hornthall v. Comrs., 126-26. General power to levy tax and issue bonds explained: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516, and cases cited.

20. To appoint an inspector of highways and bridges. To appoint an inspector of highways and bridges for the county, if deemed necessary; to fix and provide for his compensation and regulate his duties, not inconsistent with the laws of the state. The commissioners of two or more counties may unite in employing an inspector of highways and bridges, and apportioning his compensation between the respective counties as may be agreed upon.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

21. To regulate speed of automobiles. To regulate the speed of automobiles, motorcycles and other like vehicles on the public roads and bridges, and make such ordinances as they may deem necessary governing the same. This subsection shall not apply to the counties of Mecklenburg and New Hanover.

Rev., s. 1318; 1905, c. 331.

22. To construct and repair bridges. To construct and repair bridges in the county, and to raise by tax the money necessary therefor, and when a bridge is necessary over a stream which divides one county from another, the board of commissioners of each county shall join in constructing or repairing such bridge; and the charge thereof shall be defrayed by the counties concerned, in proportion to the number of taxable polls in each.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

Duty to raise money for this purpose obligatory: Long v. Comrs., 76-278; Cromartie v. Comrs., 87-138. Bridge between counties must be authorized by both counties and built at joint expense: McPeeters v. Blankenship, 123-651. Remedy, when a county refuses to join, is by an enabling act: Ibid. The fact that the middle of the stream is made the dividing line between the two counties does not change the apportionment of expense: Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 151-215.

A county is not liable in damages for an injury resulting from defective bridge: White v. Comrs., 90-437; nor are the commissioners personally liable unless they act corruptly or through malice: Hipp v. Ferrall, 173-167; s. e., 169-551.

Number of commissioners necessary to act on matters within this subsection: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678. Commissioners alone determine necessity for construction and repair of bridges, and cannot delegate their powers: McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330. As to contracts for bridge construction, see Bridge Co. v. Comrs., 111-317; McPhail v. Comrs., 119-330.

The court will not interfere with the exercise of discretion on the part of commissioners in building bridges, unless that power is abused: Davenport v. Comrs., 163-147.

23. To appoint commissioners to open rivers and creeks. To appoint a commissioner to open and clear the rivers and creeks within the county, or where such river or creek forms a county line or a part thereof. For this purpose the board is authorized to withdraw from the public roads such lands as may be deemed necessary, and allot them to such work under overseers and the direction of the commissioners. The board may impose the duties of this subsection on the inspector of highways and bridges when appointed; and shall in all respects conduct the opening and clearing of such rivers and creeks as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

24. To grant right to bridge navigable streams. To grant, subject to the approval and permission of the war department, to any person, firm or corporation owning or occupying lands on both sides of any navigable stream or creek lying wholly within the limits of the county, the right to construct and maintain a bridge across the said navigable water between the lands owned or occupied by them upon such terms and conditions and for such time as the said board shall deem advisable and proper. Before any order allowing the construction of the same shall be made, it shall be made to appear to the board that four weeks notice of the application for such right has been given by posting a notice at the courthouse door and four other public places in the county, and also (if there be a newspaper published in the county) by publishing once a week for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper in the county. Any party aggrieved may appeal from the order of the commissioners to the superior court of the county in term time.

P. L. 1911, c. 227.

INSPECTION AND LICENSES

25. To license peddlers. To license peddlers and retailers of spirituous and other liquors as prescribed by law. No license shall be good for more than one year, nor granted to two or more persons to peddle as partners in trade.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

See chapter on Prohibition. Mandamus will not lie to control discretion of commissioners hereunder: Howell v. Comrs., 135-26; Bridgers v. Comrs., 135-25; Barnes v. Comrs., 135-27;

Mathis v. Comrs., 122-416; Jones v. Comrs., 106-436; Maxton v. Robeson, 107-335; Muller v. Buncombe, 89-171—but will lie to compel them to issue license if refusal is arbitrary, Ibid. May revoke license: State v. Voight, 90-741. Discretion is a limited legal one: Hillsboro v. Smith, 110-417; Muller v. Comrs., 89-171.

26. To license auctioneers. To license for the term of one year any number of persons to exercise the trade and business of auctioneers in each county, and to take their bonds as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

27. To establish public landings, places of inspection, and inspectors. To establish such public landings and places of inspection as the board may think proper; and to appoint such inspectors in any town or city as may be authorized by law.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

This power does not include the right to condemn land under eminent domain: Comrs. v. Bonner, 153-66.

POOR AND HOSPITALS

28. To provide for the maintenance of the poor. To provide by tax for the maintenance, comfort and well-ordering of the poor; to employ, biennially, some competent person as overseer of the poor; to institute proceedings by the warrant of the chairman against any person coming into the county who is likely to become chargeable thereto, and cause the removal of such poor person to the county where he was last legally settled; and to recover by action in the superior court from the said county all the charges and expenses incurred for the maintenance or removal of such poor person.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

Where tax levy for support of poor was deficient because commissioners levied tax to repair courthouse: Long v. Comrs., 76-273. Any one officiously providing for pauper cannot recover of county: Copple v. Comrs., 138-132. Commissioners may require all paupers who are a county charge to go to home for aged and infirm: Ibid.

Liability of county for support of pauper depends upon residence or settlement: Comrs. of Burke v. Comrs. of Buncombe, 101-520. Commissioners may remove pauper to place of last legal settlement and recover therefor: Ibid.

29. To establish public hospitals and tuberculosis dispensaries. To establish public hospitals for the county in cases of necessity, and to establish and maintain wholly or in part one or more tuberculosis dispensaries or sanatoria, and to make rules, regulations and by-laws for preventing the spread of contagious and infectious diseases, and for taking care of those afflicted thereby, the same not being inconsistent with the laws of the state; and to raise by taxation the necessary moneys to defray the charges and expenses so incurred.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

No action lies against commissioners in their corporate capacity for failing to establish hospital: Bell v. Comrs., 127-90. Commissioners' power to prevent spread of contagious disease stated in Prichard v. Comrs., 126-911. Liability of county for expense of quarantine: Comrs. v. Henderson, 163-114.

PRISONS AND PRISONERS

30. To provide for a house of correction. To make provision for the erection in each county of a house of correction, where vagrants and persons guilty of misdemeanors shall be restrained and usefully employed; to regulate the employment of labor therein; to appoint a superintendent thereof, and such assistants as are deemed necessary, and to fix their compensation.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

A majority of governing body of a county can exercise this power: Cotton Mills v. Comrs., 108-678. Remarks of Dillard, J., upon houses of correction: State v. Garrell, 82-580. Referred to merely in State v. Williams, 97-416.

31. To provide for employment of prisoners. To provide for the employment on the highways or public works in the county of all persons condemned to imprisonment with hard labor, and not sent to the penitentiary.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

Can hire out prisoner to his wife under certain circumstances: State v. Shaft, 78-463.

TOWNSHIPS

32. To divide county into townships. To divide each county into convenient districts, called townships, and to determine the boundaries and prescribe the names of said townships. A map and survey of said townships shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board of commissioners, and also in the office of the secretary of state.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

33. To erect, divide and alter townships. To erect, divide, change the names of, or alter townships in the manner following: In any county, any three freeholders of each township to be affected may, after the notice presently to be mentioned, apply by petition to the board of commissioners to erect a new township, or divide an existing township, or change the name of or alter the boundaries thereof. Notice of the application shall be posted in one or more public places in each of such townships, and published in a newspaper printed in the county, if there is one, for at least four weeks preceding the meeting at which the application is made to the board. No township shall have or exercise any corporate powers whatsoever, unless authorized by an act of the general assembly, to be exercised under the supervision of the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8; 1876-7, c. 141, ss. 3, 5.

For power of the legislature of itself or through its agencies to divide up the state into counties, townships, school districts, etc., see McCormac v. Comrs., 90-441. For political relation of township, see Jones v. Comrs., 107-265. For the legal status of a township, see Wittkowsky v. Comrs., 150-90; Goldsboro v. Broadhurst, 109-231; Brown v. Comrs., 100-92; Wallace v. Trustees, 84-164. Has no corporate powers except such as are authorized by the legislature: Graves v. Comrs., 135-55; Wittkowsky v. Comrs., 150-90.

For power of township to subscribe to the capital stock of a railroad, see Jones v. Comrs., 107-265; Brown v. Comrs., 100-92; Wood v. Oxford, 97-227.

By special enactment townships may become bodies corporate and exercise the powers of a governmental agency: Price v. Trustees, 172-84; Trustees v. Webb, 155-379; Highway Com. v. Webb, 152-710; Sanderlin v. Luken, 152-738; Smith v. Trustees, 141-143. But county bonds cannot be issued upon a vote of a township, for the benefit of such township, under act of 1917, c. 6, s. 20: Comrs. v. Lacy, State Treas., 174-141.

34. To apportion funds between altered townships. When a township has been altered, erected, or divided, to apportion, in its discretion, the public funds of such township between the new township divisions or subdivisions, and the warrant of the board upon the treasurer for the apportionment shall constitute a valid voucher for the payment thereof. In those counties where the township public roads are under the control of road trustees, the board shall appoint the requisite number of trustees to perform the duties of the office until the regular date for the appointment or election of such trustees and until their successors are elected and qualified; but this shall not apply where another method of election has been provided.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 44.

MISCELLANEOUS

35. To authorize chairman to issue subpoenas. To authorize the chairman to issue subpoena to compel the attendance before the board of persons, and the production of books and papers relating to the affairs of the county, for the purpose of examination on any matter within the jurisdiction of the board. The subpoena shall be served by the sheriff or any constable to whom it is delivered; and upon return of personal service thereof, whoever neglects to comply with the subpoena or refuses to answer any proper question shall be guilty of contempt and punishable therefor by the board. A witness is bound in such cases to answer all the questions which he would be bound to answer in like case in a court of justice; but his testimony given before the board shall not be used against the witness on the trial of any criminal prosecution other than for perjury committed on the examination. The chairman of the board of county commissioners for each county is authorized in his official capacity to administer oaths in any matter coming before either of such boards. Any member of such board while temporarily acting as such chairman has and may exercise like authority.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

36. To audit accounts. To audit accounts against the county, and direct the raising of the moneys necessary to defray them.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

Commissioners must audit claims at regular meetings: Bank v. Warlick, 125-594—but must first have them itemized and verified, Turner v. McKee, 137-251. Civil action proper to test rejected claim: Jones v. Comrs., 88-56. Effect of allowing claim and auditor's refusing to recognize it: Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

37. To appoint proxies. To appoint proxies to represent in any annual or other meetings the shares or other interest held by any county in a railroad company, or other corporation, under the charter of such corporation, or under any special acts of the general assembly, authorizing county subscriptions in such cases.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

For special law as to Cherokee, see P. L. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 115.

38. To procure weights and measures. To procure for each county sealed weights and measures, according to the standard prescribed by Congress; and to elect a standard keeper, who shall qualify before the board and give bond approved by the board, as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; R. C., c. 117, s. 4; 1868, c. 20, s. 26.

39. To adopt a county seal. To adopt a seal for the county, a description and impression of which shall be filed in the office of superior court clerk and of the secretary of state.

Rev., s. 1318; Code, s. 707; 1868, c. 20, s. 8.

40. To promote farmers coöperative demonstration work. To coöperate with the state and national departments of agriculture to promote the farmers coöperative demonstration work, and to appropriate such sum as they may agree upon for the purpose.

1911, c. 1.

41. To appropriate for the national guard. To appropriate such sums of money to the various organizations of the national guard, and at such times, as the board may deem proper.

1915, c. 259.

42. To make appropriations for libraries. Together with the county board of education of any county in which there is a public city or town library, in their discretion, to coöperate with the trustees of said library in extending the service of such library to the rural communities of the county, and to appropriate out of the funds under their control an amount sufficient to pay the expense of such library extension service.

1298. Local: authority to interdict certain shows. The boards of commissioners of the several counties shall have power to direct the sheriff of the county to refuse to issue any license to any carnival company and shows of like character, moving picture and vaudeville shows, museums and menageries, merry-go-rounds and ferris-wheels, and other like amusement enterprises conducted for profit under the same management and filling week-stand engagements or in giving week-stand exhibitions, whether under canvas or not, whenever in the opinion of the board of county commissioners the public welfare will be endangered by the licensing of such companies. This section shall apply only to the counties of Anson, Bladen, Burke, Cabarrus, Carteret, Catawba, Duplin, Forsyth, Greene, Haywood, Iredell, Lee, Madison, Mitchell, Nash, Orange, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Polk, Randolph, Robeson, Scotland, Tyrrell, Washington, Wilson, Yadkin.

1299. To settle disputed county lines. When there is any dispute concerning the dividing line between counties, the board of commissioners of each county interested in the adjustment of said line, a majority of the board consenting thereto, may appoint one or more commissioners, on the part of each county, to settle and fix the line in dispute; and their report, when ratified by a majority of the commissioners in each county, is conclusive of the location of the true line, and shall be recorded in the register's office of each county, and in the office of the secretary of state.

Rev., s. 1322; Code, s. 721; R. C., c. 27; 1836, c. 3.

1300. How commissioners sworn and paid. Such commissioners, before entering on the duties assigned them, shall be sworn before a justice of the peace; and they, with all others employed, shall be allowed reasonable pay for their labors.

Rev., s. 1323; Code, s. 722.

1301. Approving insufficient bond misdemeanor. If any county commissioner shall approve any official bond which he knows or believes to be insufficient in the penal sum, or in the security thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be removed from office and forever disqualified from holding or enjoying any office of honor, trust or profit under the state.

Rev., s. 3573; Code, s. 1880; 1869-70, c. 169, s. 70.

See sections 3931-3933.

1302. Neglect of duty misdemeanor. If any county commissioner shall neglect to perform any duty required of him by law as a member of the board, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall also be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars for each offense, to be paid to any person who shall sue for the same.

Rev., s. 3590; Code, s. 711.

Each county commissioner is liable for the penalty here imposed when the board fails to declare an office vacant and fill such vacancy when they are required to do so by law; but only one penalty can be collected, not one for failure to declare vacant and another for failure to fill vacancy: Bray v. Creekmore, 109-49; Bray v. Barnard, 109-44. Liability for penalty for failure to repair public roads: Templeton v. Beard, 159-63. Sufficient complaint in action for penalty: Turner v. McKee, 137-251. The allegations in complaint should show a cause of action against the commissioners personally: Bell v. Comrs., 127-85. Corrupt intent, gross negligence, or intentional neglect should be shown: Staton v. Wimberly, 122-107; State v. Norris, 111-652; Bray v. Barnard, 109-44.

Indictment against commissioners for failure to erect and repair courthouse: State v. Leeper, 146-655. Defendant may ask for bill of particulars: Ibid. Liable to indictment for failure to levy sufficient school tax: Collie v. Comrs., 145-170; Bd. of Ed. v. Comrs., 150-116.

Section cited in Manuel v. Comrs., 98-11; Glenn v. Comrs., 139-418; Hudson v. McArthur, 152-445. See, also, annotations under sections 4384, 4385. Liability for taxes, see section 3933.

ART. 3. STATE ASSOCIATION OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

1303. Membership of association. The State Association of County Commissioners consists of the boards of county commissioners of the several counties, and any member of the board of any county may be a member of the association, but it is not mandatory for any county to become a member.

1304. Purposes of association. The purpose of the association is to promote and cultivate more intimate association and more friendly relations among the county commissioners of the state; to secure as far as possible a uniform valuation of property for taxation; to promote the cause of good roads; to propose laws for the best interests of county governments; to secure uniformity in the handling of county affairs; to propose laws for the protection of county finances, and preservation of resources and assets; and to promote the general welfare of the state.

1909, c. 870, s. 1.

1305. Powers of association. The association has power to adopt by-laws, rules and regulations for the government of its members, for the collection of fees and dues, for the number and election of its officers and the duties thereof, for the safe keeping of its property, and the general management of its affairs, and has power to alter, modify or amend such by-laws, rules and regulations, from time to time, as it deems best.

1306. Officers of association. The officers shall be a president, a vice president at large and ten other vice presidents, or one from each congressional district, a secretary and treasurer, and an executive committee. The duties of the officers shall be prescribed by the by-laws, rules and regulations.

1909, c. 870, s. 4.

1307. Dues and expenses of members. There shall be assessed against each county an annual membership fee of five dollars, which shall be paid by the county treasurer upon the order of the board of county commissioners, but the executive committee of the association may increase the annual membership fee to a sum not to exceed ten dollars. The various boards of commissioners are authorized to pay out of the county treasury the expenses of one of its members attending the meetings of the association.

1308. Meetings of association. The annual meeting of the association shall be held on Wednesday after the second Monday in August of each year, and the place of meeting shall be designated by the executive committee. Upon ten days notice, the president or a majority of the executive committee may call a called meeting, and the time and place shall be designated, together with a short statement of the object of the meeting.

1909, c. 870, s. 6.

ART. 4. CLERK TO BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

1309. Register clerk ex officio to board; compensation. The register of deeds is ex officio clerk of, and his compensation shall be fixed by, the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 1324; Code, s. 710; 1895, c. 135, s. 4.

1310. Duties of clerk. It is the clerk's duty—

1. To record in a book to be provided for the purpose all the proceedings of the board.
2. To enter every resolution or decision concerning the payment of money.
3. To record the vote of each commissioner on any question submitted to the board, if required by any member present.
4. To preserve and file in alphabetical or other due order all accounts presented or acted on by the board, and to designate upon every account audited the amount allowed and the charges for which it was allowed.
5. To keep the books and papers of the board free for the examination of all persons.
6. To administer oaths to all persons presenting claims against the county, but he shall receive no fee therefor.

Rev., s. 1325; Code, s. 712; 1905, c. 530.

1311. Clerk to publish annual statement. The clerk shall annually, on or within five days next before the first Monday of December, make out and certify, and cause to be posted at the courthouse, and published in a newspaper printed in the county, if there is one, for at least four weeks, a statement for the preceding year, showing—

1. The amount, items and nature of all compensation audited by the board to the members thereof severally.
2. The number of days the board was in session, and the distance traveled by the members respectively in attending the same.
3. Whether any unverified accounts were audited, and if any, how much and for what.

Rev., s. 1326; Code, s. 713.

Failure to publish statement is a misdemeanor, section 4384. See, also, under Municipal Corporations, section 2687.

ART. 5. FINANCE COMMITTEE

1312. Election and duties of finance committee. The board of commissioners may elect by ballot three discreet, intelligent tax-paying citizens, to be known as the "finance committee," whose duty it is to inquire into, investigate and report by public advertisement, at the courthouse and one public place in each township of the county, or in a newspaper, at their option, if one is published in the county, a detailed and itemized account of the condition of the county finances, together with any other information appertaining to any funds, misappropriation of county funds, or any malfeasance in office by any county officers.

Mistake made in report of finance committee, money refunded to officer paying same: Moore v. Comrs., 87-209. Section cited in Wilson v. Holding, 170-352. Power of legislature to appoint a special finance and auditing committee: Audit Co. v. McKenzie, 147-461.

1313. Oath of members. The members of the finance committee before entering upon their duties shall, before the clerk of the superior court, subscribe to the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will diligently inquire into all matters relating to the receipts and disbursements of county funds and a true report make, without partiality. So help me, God.

Rev., s. 1390; Code, s. 762; 1871-2, c. 71, s. 4.

1314. Powers of finance committee. The finance committee has power and authority to send for persons and papers, and to administer oaths; and any person failing to obey their summons, or to produce promptly any paper relating or supposed to relate to any matter appertaining to the duties of the finance committee, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction in the superior court, shall be fined and imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 1391; Code, s. 759; 1831, c. 31; 1871-2, c. 71, s. 2; R. C., c. 28, s. 17; 1883, c. 252. Section cited in Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

1315. Penalty on officer failing to settle. If any clerk, sheriff, constable, county treasurer, register of deeds, justice of the peace, or other officer or commissioner, who holds any county money, fails duly to account for the same, the finance committee shall give such person ten days previous notice, in writing, of the time and place at which they will attend to make a settlement; and every officer receiving notice and failing to make settlement as required by this chapter shall forfeit the sum of five hundred dollars, to be sued for in the name of the state and prosecuted for the use and at the expense of the county, unless the court releases the officers from the forfeiture.

1316. Annual report of finance committee. It is the duty of the finance committee to make and publish their reports as hereinbefore directed on or before the first Monday of December in each year.

Rev., s. 1393; Code, s. 761; 1871-2, c. 71, s. 3.

For criminal costs for which county is liable, see Costs.

For finance committee of Robeson, see 1907, c. 488.

ART. 6. COURTHOUSE AND JAIL BUILDINGS

1317. Built and repaired by commissioners. There shall be kept and maintained in good and sufficient repair in every county a courthouse and common jail, at the expense of the county wherein the same are situated. The boards of commissioners of the several counties respectively shall lay and collect taxes, from year to year, as long as may be necessary, for the purpose of building, repairing and furnishing their several courthouses and jails, in such manner as they think proper; and from time to time shall order and establish such rules and regulations for the preservation of the courthouse, and for the government and management of the prisons, as may be conducive to the interests of the public and the security and comfort of the persons confined.

Rev., s. 1335; Code, s. 782; R. C., c. 30, s. 1; 1741, c. 33, ss. 1, 2; 1795, c. 433, s. 1; 1816, c. 911, s. 1.

Courthouse and jail necessary expense, see annotations under section 1325. The court will not interfere with the discretion of commissioners as to the kind of building: Jackson v. Comrs., 171-379; Haskett v. Tyrrell, 152-714; Vaughn v. Comrs., 117-429. The legislature may impose a restriction upon the expense: Burgin v. Smith, 151-561. Commissioners are indictable for failure to provide a suitable courthouse: State v. Leeper, 146-655.

Noxious air of city guardhouse "accelerating" the death of prisoner, city liable: Lewis v. Raleigh, 77-229; Shields v. Durham, 118-456. The least that is required is that persons confined in public prison shall have a clean place, comfortable bedding, wholesome food and drink, and necessary attendance: Ibid.; Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-237. But city is not liable for injury to a person placed in a city prison when arrested by the officer for violation of state law: Hobbs v. Washington, 168-293.

In the absence of statutory provision, counties are not liable for damages sustained by negligent acts of their agents and servants: Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9; White v. Comrs., 90-437; Jones v. Comrs., 130-452; Pritchard v. Comrs., 126-908; Moody v. State's Prison, 128-12. County not liable for damages to prisoner for neglect of commissioners to furnish adequate means for his health and protection: Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9; see Shields v. Durham, 118-456—and as to whether commissioners personally liable, quere, Ibid.

Rev., s. 1336; Code, s. 783; R. C., c. 30, s. 2; 1795, c. 433, s. 4; 1816, c. 911.

Misdemeanor to confine prisoners in improper apartment, section 4408. As to separate apartment for Cherokee Indians of Robeson county, see section 6258. Separate rooms or cells for tuberculous prisoners, sections 7207, 7208.

1319. To be heated. It is the duty of the board of commissioners in every county to have the common jails so heated by furnaces, stoves, or otherwise, as to render them warm and comfortable. A failure to discharge the duty herein specified shall constitute a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

See annotations under section 1317.

1320. Bedding to be furnished. The board of county commissioners, from time to time, as may be necessary, shall order the sheriff of the county to purchase, for the use of their jail, a certain number of good, warm blankets or other suitable bedclothing, which shall be securely preserved by the jailer, and furnished to the prisoners for their use and comfort, as the season or other circumstances may require; and the sheriff, at least once in every year, shall report to the board of commissioners the condition and number of such blankets and bedclothing.

As to duty of county or town to furnish proper bedding, etc., see Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-237; Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352; Manuel v. Comrs., 98-9.

1321. Prison bounds. For the preservation of the health of persons committed to jail, the board of commissioners of each county shall mark out such a parcel of the land as they think fit, not exceeding six acres, adjoining the prison, for the rules thereof; and every prisoner not committed for treason or felony, giving bond with good security to the sheriff of the county to keep within the rules, shall have liberty to walk therein, out of the prison, for the preservation of his health; and on keeping continually within the said rules, shall be deemed to be in law a true prisoner. In order that every person may know the true bounds of said rules, they shall be recorded in the county records, and the marks thereof shall be renewed as occasion may require.

For construction of former similar statute, see Ex parte Bradley, 26-544. Prison bounds not allowed to one in execution for criminal offense: State v. Pearson, 100-414; Ex parte Bradley, 26-544. Allowed only to prisoners in civil actions and in criminal cases where prisoner committed in default of bail: State v. Pearson, 100-417. Bond to keep prison bounds, taken before prisoner committed to close custody is invalid: Northam v. Terry, 30-175.

Sheriff liable where he refuses to accept bond to keep prison bounds or to admit prisoner to rules: Mann v. Vick, 8-427. Sheriff's duty to furnish blank bond: Ibid.

Defendant arrested while in prison bounds by another creditor and confined within prison may be released as insolvent: In re Huntington, 6-369.

ART. 7. COUNTY REVENUE

1322. Taxes collected by sheriff. The county taxes shall be collected by the sheriff of the county. He is entitled to the same commissions and is subject to the same rules and regulations in respect to his settlement of the said taxes with the county treasurer as he is in his settlement of the public taxes with the treasurer of the state; and he shall also settle with the county treasurer or board of commissioners for the taxes on the unlisted property in his county, under the same rules and regulations as he accounts with the auditor of the state.

See, also, sections 3943, 7972, and chapter on Taxation, articles 13 and 14. For construction of the words "county taxes," see Board v. Comrs., 137-66.

County taxes must be collected by sheriff: Board v. Comrs., 137-65; King v. Hunter, 65-603. Legislature cannot deprive him of right to collect: King v. Hunter, 65-603; see, also, the "officeholding cases" cited under section 870, and especially Mial v. Ellington, 134-138, which gives as reason why sheriff cannot be deprived of right to collect that it is fixed by the constitution, not that sheriff has property right in office.

Sheriff insane, his sureties may collect current tax list: Somers v. Comrs., 123-582. Sheriff or tax collector is an insurer of the safety of all money officially received by him against loss by any means whatever, including such losses as arise from act of God or public enemy: Comrs. v. Clarke, 73-255; Smith v. Patton, 131-397, and cases there cited.

All school taxes are included in the accounting to be made between county treasurer and sheriff: Tillery v. Candler, 118-888.

No appeal lies from refusal of commissioners to allow a credit to sheriff in his settlement of taxes; remedy of sheriff is by civil action: McMillan v. Comrs., 90-28; Jones v. Comrs., 88-56, and cases cited. Commissioners have no power to release sheriff from liability to pay over county taxes: Fidelity Co. v. Fleming, 132-337; Comrs. v. Clarke, 73-255. As to commissions allowed, see section 8043. A mistake in settlement of taxes for one year cannot be used by sheriff as a counterclaim against those due for another year: Comrs. v. Hall, 177-490.

The legislature may place sheriff on a salary, and the fees for collecting taxes will go to the county: Mills v. Deaton, 170-386. But a sheriff whose term expires is entitled to collect taxes for the preceding year on the tax books in his hands and retain fees, if not otherwise provided, though the office has been placed on a salary basis: Comrs. v. Bain, 173-377.

1323. Statement of fines kept by clerk. It is the duty of the clerks of the several courts, and of the several justices of the peace, to enter in a book, to be supplied by the county, an itemized and detailed statement of the respective amounts received by them in the way of fines, penalties, amercements and forfeitures, and said books shall at all times be open to the inspection of the public.

1324. Fines paid to treasurer for schools; annual report. All fines, forfeitures, penalties and amercements collected in the several counties by any court or otherwise shall be accounted for and paid to the county treasurer by the officials receiving them within sixty days after receipt thereof, and shall be faithfully appropriated by the county board of education for the establishment and maintenance of free public schools; and the amounts collected in each county shall be annually reported to the superintendent of public instruction on or before the first Monday in January, by the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 1378; Const., Art. IX, s. 5; Code, ss. 724, 726; R. C., c. 28, s. 3; 1879, c. 96, ss. 2, 5.

See, also, section 7875. Only clear proceeds of all penalties that accrue to the state to go to school fund: State v. Maultsby, 139-583; School Directors v. Asheville, 128-249, 137-508; Carter v. R. R., 126-445; Bd. of Ed. v. Henderson, 126-695; Goodwin v. Fertilizer Co., 119-122; Sutton v. Phillips, 116-502; Hodge v. R. R., 108-30; Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688—and likewise as to fines, the "clear proceeds" of which are indicated, State v. Maultsby, 139-585; Bd. of Ed. v. Henderson, 126-695; School Directors v. Asheville, 137-508. Power of legislature to appropriate or give fines and penalties to other causes discussed in State v. Maultsby, 139-583; School Directors v. Asheville, 137-503. For liability of municipalities for fines, penalties and forfeitures hereunder, see School Directors v. Asheville, 128-249; Bd. of Ed. v. Henderson, 126-689; Comrs. v. Raleigh, 88-120. Forfeited bail in appeal on habeas corpus, to test validity of extradition, goes to school fund: In re Wiggins, 171-372.

1325. Expenditures of county funds directed by commissioners. The board of commissioners is invested with full power to direct the application of all moneys arising by virtue of this chapter for the purposes herein mentioned, and to any other good and necessary purpose for the use of the county.

For additional important annotations on this subject, see section 1297, subsections 2, 3, 5.

General power of commissioners to contract a debt for necessary expense and to levy a tax, explained: Guire v. Comrs., 177-516, and cases cited. General power of commissioners in expending county funds compared with duty of auditor: Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

Courts have right to say what are necessary expenses, but cannot control discretion of commissioners in incurring debt when expenses are necessary: Jackson v. Comrs., 171-379; Hightower v. Raleigh, 150-569; Haskett v. Tyrrell, 152-714; Ward v. Comrs., 146-534; Black v. Comrs., 129-121; Mayo v. Comrs., 122-5; Vaughn v. Comrs., 117-429; but see McKethan v. Comrs., 92-243; Evans v. Comrs., 89-154; Satterthwaite v. Comrs., 76-153; Brodnax v. Groom, 64-244.

Legislature may confer upon county the right to create debts for necessary expenses without consent of majority of qualified voters of county: Evans v. Comrs., 89-154; Halcombe v. Comrs., 89-346; Guire v. Comrs., 177-516; Woodall v. Highway Com., 176-377, and other cases cited under section 1297, subsection 6. Where the legislature requires popular vote or imposes other restrictions, they must be observed: Burgin v. Smith, 151-561, and other cases under subsection 6, section 1297. Neither county nor commissioners individually liable for misapplication of funds, where they act in good faith, but under mistake of law: Bd. of Ed. v. Comrs., 113-387. Expense of convicts is paid out of county fund: Chambers v. Walker, 120-401.

Power of commissioners to expend the public money for improvement of roads is not taken away by implication by a special act regulating roads in townships: Bunch v. Comrs., 159-335.

1326. County officers receiving funds to report annually. Sheriffs, treasurers, clerks of any court, registers of deeds and all other officers of the several counties, into whose hands any public funds may come by virtue or under color of their office, shall make an annual account and report of the amount and management of the same, on the first Monday of December, or oftener if required, in each year, to the board of commissioners. Such report shall give an itemized and detailed account of the public funds received and disbursed, the amount, date and source from which it was received, and the amount, date and person to whom paid. It shall be addressed to the chairman of the board of commissioners for the county, and shall be subscribed and verified by the oath of the party making the same, before any person authorized to administer oaths.

1327. Board to enforce duty to report. If any person required to make any of the reports herein provided for fails to do so, or if, after a report has been made, the board of commissioners disapprove the same, such board may take such legal steps to compel a proper report to be made, either by suit on the bond of such officer failing to comply or otherwise, as said board may deem best.

1328. Reports to be recorded in register's office. If the board of commissioners approves of any of the said reports, it shall cause the same to be registered in the office of the register of deeds in a book to be furnished to the register of deeds by the county, which book shall be marked and styled Record of Official Reports, with a proper index of all reports recorded therein, and each official report shall, if approved, be indorsed by the chairman of the board with the word "approved," with the date of approval, and when recorded by the register of deeds he shall indorse thereon the date of registration, the page of the Record of Official Reports upon which the same is registered, sign the same and file it in his office.

1329. Penalty for failure to report. If any clerk, sheriff, justice of the peace, or other officer, fails or neglects to account for and pay over as required by law any taxes on suits, or any fines, forfeitures and amercements, as required by this chapter, or fails to make the returns herein specified, he shall forfeit and pay five hundred dollars, to be recovered in the name of the board of commissioners for the use of the public schools of the county.

Rev., s. 1383; Code, s. 764; R. C., c. 28, s. 7; 1808, c. 756; 1809, c. 769; 1813, c. 864; 1830, c. 1, ss. 11-13.

“Account” defined: State v. Dunn, 134-668. Penalty statutes must be strictly construed: Alexander v. R. R., 144-93. “Penalty” defined: Board v. Henderson, 126-689. As to actions for recovery of penalties, see sections 423, 464.

1330. Demand before suit against municipality; complaint. No person shall sue any city, county, town, or other municipal corporation for any debt or demand whatsoever unless the claimant has made a demand upon the proper municipal authorities. And every such action shall be dismissed unless the complaint is verified and contains the following allegations: (1) That the claimant presented his claim to the lawful municipal authorities to be audited and allowed, and that they had neglected to act upon it, or had disallowed it; or (2) that he had presented to the treasurer of said municipal corporation the claim sued on, which had been so allowed and audited, and that such treasurer had notwithstanding neglected to pay it.

For time in which such demand made and action brought, see section 442. For additional annotations, see section 1331.

DEMAND. Claims must be audited and presented for payment and refused before action will lie: Leach v. Comrs., 84-830; Jones v. Comrs., 73-182; Alexander v. Comrs., 67-330; Love v. Comrs., 64-706. This section does not apply to actions ex contractu where the damages are unliquidated, nor to torts: Sugg v. Greenville, 169-606; Neal v. Marion, 126-412; Sheldon v. Asheville, 119-606; Frisby v. Marshall, 119-570; Shields v. Durham, 118-450. Where the municipal charter provides that all claims must be presented in writing within a certain time, it must be complied with, and the officers cannot waive compliance: Hartsell v. Asheville, 164-193; s. c., 166-633; Pender v. Salisbury, 160-363. If plaintiff is unable to present claim by reason of mental or physical disability, the delay will be excused: Terrell v. Washington, 158-281; Hartsell v. Asheville, 166-633.

Complaint against county or town must allege demand upon proper officers: Williams v. Smith, 134-252; School Directors v. Greenville, 130-87; Leach v. Comrs., 84-830; Jones v. Comrs., 73-182; Love v. Comrs., 64-706. Duty of county commissioners and auditor with respect to claims presented: Wilson v. Holding, 170-352; Halford v. Senter, 169-546.

MANDAMUS TO ENFORCE PAYMENT. See section 866. Debt reduced to judgment, creditor entitled to mandamus to compel payment: Drainage Dist. v. Comrs., 174-738; Withers v. Comrs., 163-341; Fry v. Comrs., 82-304; Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598; Cromartie v. Comrs., 85-211, 87-134; Gas Co. v. Raleigh, 75-274; McLendon v. Comrs., 71-38; Johnston v. Comrs., 67-101; Askew v. Pollock, 66-49; Gooch v. Comrs., 65-142; Lutterloh v. Comrs., 65-403; Pegram v. Comrs., 64-557; Winslow v. Comrs., 64-223—and that without prior demand, Nicholson v. Comrs., 121-27—and mandamus should be addressed to commissioners as board and not as individuals: Thomas v. Comrs. of Carteret, 66-521; Askew v. Pollock, 66-49. A writ of mandamus does not authorize commissioners to levy and collect taxes otherwise than as prescribed by law: Mauney v. Comrs., 71-486; see Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598; Cromartie v. Comrs., 85-211, 87-134. Mandamus to compel payment of salary of superintendent of health: Halford v. Senter, 169-546; McCullers v. Comrs., 158-75; see, also, section 7067.

When peremptory mandamus issues: Fry v. Comrs., 82-304; Edwards v. Comrs., 70-571; Uzz'e v. Comrs., 70-564; Lutterloh v. Comrs., 65-405—mandamus failing, debtor moves for attachment, Fry v. Comrs., 82-307. Facts which must be shown before mandamus issues: Bear v. Comrs., 124-204; Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598.

That constitutional limit of taxation has been reached is a sufficient answer by commissioners to a writ of mandamus: Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598; Cromartie v. Comrs., 85-211, 87-134—but alias mandamus should issue to the end that any excess of revenue raised may be applied to debt, Cromartie v. Comrs., 87-134. That claim upon which judgment based is void is no defense to writ, unless claim shown not to be for necessary expenses: Bear v. Comrs., 122-434, modified by the same case in 124-204.

Action of debt may be maintained against county without asking for mandamus where it appears that county has property subject to trusts or such as can be reached only by supplementary proceedings: Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598. As to enforcing judgment against county property where mandamus unavailable because tax rate up to constitutional limitation, see Hughes v. Comrs., 107-598; Winslow v. Comrs., 64-223.

Legislature can compel county to issue bonds to fund indebtedness for necessary expenses: Jones v. Comrs., 137-579—and mandamus is the proper remedy to force commissioners to comply with act "authorizing and empowering" them to fund it, same being mandatory, Ibid.; overruling Jones v. Comrs., 135-218, and Bank v. Comrs., 135-230.

School orders are no charge upon public funds, and payment cannot be enforced by mandamus: Bear v. Comrs., 124-204. County warrant must be paid by treasurer; he cannot dispute its validity except on constitutional grounds: Martin v. Clark, 135-180. As to duties of county auditor, see Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

1331. Accounts to be itemized, verified, and audited. No account shall be audited by the board for any services or disbursements unless it is first made out in items and has attached to and filed with it the affidavit of the claimant that the services therein charged have been in fact made and rendered, and that no part thereof has been paid or satisfied. Each account shall state the nature of the services, and where no specific compensation is provided by law, it shall also state the time necessarily devoted to the performance thereof. The board may disallow or require further evidence of the account, notwithstanding the verification. All county commissioners acting on January the twenty-seventh, one thousand nine hundred and five, or elected theretofore, are released, whether as individuals or in their corporate capacity, from any and all penalties incurred by reason of failure to comply with the provisions of this section, prior to said date.

The accounts of the county officers of Washington county are audited by the state auditor annually. 1919, c. 153.

See annotations under section 1330. Complaint against commissioner for penalty under section 1302, alleging failure to require itemized and verified account before auditing and approving claim, states cause of action: Turner v. McKee, 137-251. Provision that no account shall be audited by commissioners unless itemized and verified is mandatory, Ibid.; see, also, Dockery v. Hamlet, 162-118. Unadjusted claims are required to be audited and ordered paid, but absolute and unconditional obligations already ascertained and audited are per se order and authority to officer to pay: Leach v. Comrs., 84-830.

Claims must be audited at regular meeting of board: Bank v. Warlick, 125-594. Allowance of claim only prima facie evidence of correctness, and order making same may be modified or annulled: Abernathy v. Phifer, 84-711; Wright v. Kinney, 123-618. Mandamus lies to compel commissioners to consider claim: Martin v. Clark, 135-179; Bennett v. Comrs., 125-469; Koonce v. Comrs., 106-192. Treasurer cannot refuse to pay county warrant except on ground that its issue unconstitutional: Martin v. Clark, 135-180. As to duty of auditor, see Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

County warrants are not negotiable in the sense of the law merchant, though transferable so as to authorize the holder to demand payment, with or without action, in his own name: Wright v. Kinney, 123-618; Bank v. Warlick, 125-594; McPeeters v. Blankenship, 123-651.

Holder of valid county warrant, who is refused payment, has two remedies against county treasurer, either to sue on his bond or apply for mandamus, of neither of which has a magistrate jurisdiction: Wright v. Kinney, 123-618. Unauthorized endorsement of "approved," signed by chairman, of an order invalid upon its face will not render commissioner personally liable in absence of fraud or misrepresentation: Ibid. County orders are presumed to be for necessary expenses: McCless v. Meekins, 117-34.

1332. Accounts to be numbered as presented. All accounts presented in any year, beginning at each regular meeting in December, shall be numbered from one upwards, in the order in which they are presented, and the time of presentation, the names of the persons in whose favor they are made out, and by whom presented, shall be carefully entered on the minutes of the board; and no such account shall be withdrawn from the custody of the board or its clerk, except to be used as evidence in a judicial proceeding, and after being so used it shall be promptly returned.

1333. Claims to be numbered as allowed; copy to board annually. The clerk of the board of commissioners, if so ordered by the board, shall number all claims, orders and certificates that may be allowed by the board in a book kept for that purpose, and he shall annually, the day before the board proceeds to lay a county tax for the ensuing year, furnish the chairman of the board with a copy of the same.

1334. Annual statement of claims and revenues to be published. The board shall cause to be posted at the courthouse within five days after each regular December meeting and for at least four successive weeks, or after each regular monthly meeting, if they deem it advisable, and for one week, the name of every individual whose account has been audited, the amount claimed and the amount allowed; and also at the same time and in the same manner post a full statement of county revenue and charges, showing by items the income from every source and the disbursements on every account for the past year, together with the permanent debt of the county, if any, when contracted, and the interest paid or remaining unpaid thereon. The board shall also publish the said statement in some newspaper in the county: Provided, the cost of such publication shall not exceed one-half of a cent a word.

This section does not subject a commissioner, whose term of office expired on the day of the meeting designated, to the penalty for failure to publish: Shelton v. Moody, 146-426. See section 2687.

ART. 8. COUNTY POOR

1335. Support of poor; superintendent of county home; paupers removing to county. The board of commissioners of each county is authorized to provide by taxation for the maintenance of the poor, and to do everything expedient for their comfort and well-ordering. They may employ biennially some competent person as superintendent of the county home for the aged and infirm, and may remove him for cause. They may institute proceedings against any person coming into the county who is likely to become chargeable thereto, and cause his removal to the county where he was last legally settled; and they may recover from such county by action all charges and expenses incurred for the maintenance or removal of such poor person.

Rev., s. 1327; Code, s. 3540; 1891, c. 138.

Providing a county home for aged and infirm is a necessary expense: Comrs. v. Spitzer, 173-147. The general duty is imposed of providing for the poor; the place, method and extent of relief are vested in the judgment and discretion of the county commissioners: Copple v. Comrs., 138-132.

Under this section to provide for the poor, in order that there may be a binding pecuniary obligation on the county, there must be an express contract to that effect, or service must be done at express request of proper county officer or agent: Copple v. Comrs., 138-127.

It is the exclusive right of the legislature to determine and declare by whom and how the indigent of the state entitled to support shall be ascertained and from what fund and by whom allowances for their support shall be made: Board v. Comrs., 113-379.

1336. County home for aged and infirm. All persons who become chargeable to any county shall be maintained at the county home for the aged and infirm, or at such place or places as the board of commissioners select or agree upon.

Rev., s. 1328; Code, s. 3541; 1891, c. 138.

For local laws as to Lincoln, Robeson, and Vance, see 1915, c. 558.

Commissioners may require all poor for whom they care to be placed in the home: Copple v. Comrs., 138-132.

1337. Records for county, how to be kept. The keeper or superintendent in charge of each county home in North Carolina, or the board of county commissioners in each county where there is no county home, shall keep a record book showing the following: Name, age, sex, and race of each inmate; date of entrance or discharge; mental and physical condition; cause of admission; family relation and condition; date of death if in the home; cost of supplies and per capita expense of home per month; amount of crops and value, and such other information as may be required by the board of county commissioners or the state board of charities and public welfare; and give a full and accurate report to the county commissioners and to the state board of charities and public welfare. Such report to be filed annually on or before the first Monday of December of each year.

1338. Support of county home. The board of commissioners may provide for the support of the persons admitted by them to the home for the aged and infirm by employing a superintendent at a certain sum, or by paying a specified sum for the support of such persons to any one who will take charge of the county home for the aged and infirm, as said board may deem for the best interest of the county and the cause of humanity.

Rev., s. 1329; Code, s. 3543; 1876-7, c. 277, s. 3.

The overseer of the poor is a public officer and liable to indictment at common law for any neglect of his duties or abuse of powers: State v. Hawkins, 77-494.

1339. Property of indigent to be sold or rented. When any indigent person who becomes chargeable to a county for maintenance and support in accordance with the provisions of this article, owns any estate, it is the duty of the board of commissioners of any county liable to pay the expenses of such indigent person to cause the same to be sold for its indemnity or reimbursement in the manner provided under article 3 of the chapter entitled Insane Persons and Incompetents, or they may take possession thereof and rent the same out and apply the rent toward the support of such indigent person.

1340. Families of indigent militiamen to be supported. When any citizen of the state is absent on service as a militiaman or member of the state guard, and his family are unable to support themselves during his absence, the board of commissioners of his county, on application, shall make towards their maintenance such allowance as may be deemed reasonable.

1341. Paupers not to be hired out at auction. No pauper shall be let out at public auction, but the board of commissioners may make such arrangements for the support of paupers with their friends or other persons, when not maintained at the county home for the aged and infirm, as may be deemed best.

Rev., s. 1332; Code, s. 3542; 1876-7, c. 277, s. 2.

1342. Legal settlements; how acquired. Legal settlements may be acquired in any county, so as to entitle the party to be supported by such county, in the manner following, and not otherwise:

The county of settlement is liable for a pauper: Comrs. of Burke v. Comrs. of Buncombe, 101-520; Comrs. v. Comrs., 121-295.

1. By one year's residence. Every person who has resided continuously in any county for one year shall be deemed legally settled in that county.

Twelve months continuous residence gives legal settlement: Comrs. v. Comrs., 121-295; State v. Giles, 103-394; State v. Elam, 61-460.

2. Married women to have settlement of their husbands. A married woman shall always follow and have the settlement of her husband, if he have any in the state; otherwise, her own at the time of her marriage, if she then had any, shall not be lost or suspended by the marriage, but shall be that of her husband, till another is acquired by him, which shall then be the settlement of both.

3. Legitimate children to have settlement of father. Legitimate children shall follow and have the settlement of their father, if he has any in the state, until they gain a settlement of their own; but if he has none, they shall, in like manner, follow and have the settlement of their mother, if she has any.

4. Illegitimate children to have settlement of mother. Illegitimate children shall follow and have the settlement of their mother, at the time of their birth, if she then have any in the state. But neither legitimate nor illegitimate children shall gain a settlement by birth in the county in which they may be born, if neither of their parents had any settlement therein.

County of legal settlement of mother chargeable for bastard: State v. Giles, 103-391; State v. Elam, 61-460—but where mother has no legal settlement in state, bastard is chargeable on county in which born, State v. McQuaig, 63-550. Bastard without settlement to be apprenticed by county of mother's settlement at birth: Ferrell v. Boykin, 61-9.

5. Settlement to continue until new one acquired. Every legal settlement shall continue till it is lost or defeated by acquiring a new one, within or without the state; and upon acquiring such new settlement, all former settlements shall be defeated and lost.

Old settlement continues until new one acquired: Comrs. v. Comrs., 121-295.

1343. Removal of indigent to county of settlement; maintenance; penalties. Upon complaint made by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, before a justice of the peace, that any person has come into the county who is likely to become chargeable thereto, the justice by his warrant shall cause such poor person to be removed to the county where he was last legally settled; but if such poor person is sick or disabled, and cannot be removed without danger of life, the board of commissioners shall provide for his maintenance and cure at the charge of the county; and after his recovery shall cause him to be removed, and pay the charges of his removal. The county wherein he was last legally settled shall repay all charges occasioned by his sickness, maintenance, cure and removal, and all charges and expenses whatever, if such person die before removal. If the board of commissioners of the county to which such poor person belongs refuses to receive and provide for him when removed as aforesaid, every commissioner so refusing shall forfeit and pay forty dollars, for the use of the county whence the removal was made; moreover, if the board of commissioners of the county where such person was legally settled refuses to pay the charges and expenses aforesaid, they shall be liable for the same. If any housekeeper entertains such poor person without giving notice thereof to the board of commissioners of his county, or one of them, within one month, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay ten dollars.

County not bound to pay for services to paupers unless there is an express contract: Copple v. Comrs., 138-127.

Where a pauper temporarily absent from county of "settlement" is so disabled as to require immediate medical services, and is furnished by authorities of another county with such attention and board, the latter county is entitled to recover expenses thereof from county of settlement: Comrs. v. Comrs., 121-295.

Counties are not liable for torts unless such liability is imposed by statute: Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-258; Threadgill v. Comrs., 99-352.

Difference between status and liability of towns and counties illustrated in Lewis v. Raleigh, 77-229; Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-237; see, also, Shields v. Durham, 118-456.

ART. 9. COUNTY PRISONERS

1344. Bonds of prisoner in criminal case returned to court. Every bond taken of any person confined for an offense, or otherwise than on process issuing in a civil case, shall be returned to the court by whose order or process such person is confined, or which may be entitled to cognizance of the matter, and shall be of the force and effect of a recognizance. On breach thereof it shall be forfeited and collected as a forfeiture in the name and for the use of the state, and applied as other forfeited recognizances.

Rev., s. 1340; Code, s. 3467; R. C., c. 87, s. 12.

Bond to keep prison bounds need not be proved by subscribing witness, for it must be deemed a record so far as concerns proof of execution: Wynn v. Buckett, 1-93.

In summary proceedings on bond to keep prison bounds, defendant, pleading matters in pais, entitled to jury trial: Whitley v. Gaylord, 48-286.

Sureties to bond not liable for breach thereof, where prisoner released after taking insolvent debtor's oath: Howard v. Pasteur, 7-270.

A prisoner's going out of the limits of the rules, after being arrested and put back in close prison by another creditor and discharged as an insolvent debtor, was lawful, although he was in close jail at instance of another creditor, the order of liberation extending to discharge him from all imprisonment for debt: Ibid.

1345. Bond of prisoner committed on capias in civil action. Every bond given by any person committed in arrest and bail, or in custody after final judgment, shall be assigned by the sheriff to the party at whose instance such person was committed to jail, and shall be returned to the office of the clerk of the court where the judgment was rendered, and shall have the force of a judgment. If any person who obtains the rules of any prison, as aforesaid, escapes out of the same before he has paid the debt or damages and costs according to the condition of his bond, the court where the bond is filed, upon motion of the assignee thereof, shall award execution against such person and his sureties for the debt or damages and costs, with interest from the time of escape till payment; and no person committed to jail on such execution shall be allowed the rules of prison: Provided, the obligors have ten days previous notice of such motion, in writing; but they shall not be admitted to deny the making of the bond in their answer, unless by affidavit they prove the truth of the plea.

Proper procedure on bond is by motion: Brown v. Frazier, 5-421. The above section gives to bond the force of a judgment, and it cannot be treated as a common deed and action brought upon, but need only to have execution issued, on motion: Ibid.

For annotations touching upon subject-matter of this section, see under section 1317. Statute referred to in Lewis v. Raleigh, 77-229; Moffitt v. Asheville, 103-256.

1347. Prisoner to pay charges and prison fees. Every person committed by lawful authority, for any criminal offense or misdemeanor, shall bear all reasonable charges for guarding and carrying him to jail, and also for his support therein until released; and all the estate which such person possessed at the time of committing the offense shall be subjected to the payment of such charges and other prison fees, in preference to all other debts and demands. If there is no visible estate whereon to levy such fees and charges, the amount shall be paid by the county.

Consult State v. Peter, 53-346; State v. Isaac, 13-47.

1348. Prisoner may furnish necessaries. Prisoners shall be allowed to purchase and procure such necessaries, in addition to the diet furnished by the jailer, as they may think proper; and to provide their own bedding, linen and clothing, without paying any perquisite to the jailer for such indulgence.

Jailer injuring prisoner liable for treble damages and guilty of misdemeanor, see section 4407.

1349. United States prisoners to be kept. When a prisoner is delivered to the keeper of any jail by the authority of the United States, such keeper shall receive the prisoner, and commit him accordingly; and every keeper of a jail refusing or neglecting to take possession of a prisoner delivered to him by the authority aforesaid shall be subject to the same pains and penalties as for neglect or refusal to commit any prisoner delivered to him under the authority of the state. The allowance for the maintenance of any prisoner committed as aforesaid shall be equal to that made for prisoners committed under the authority of the state.

Rev., s. 1342; Code, s. 3456; R. C., c. 87, s. 1; 1790, c. 322, ss. 1, 2.

1350. Guard when escape apprehended; compensation. When the sheriff of the county, or keeper of the jail, apprehends that there is danger of a prisoner escaping, through the insufficiency of the jail or other cause, it is his duty, without delay, to make information thereof to a judge of the superior court, the attorney-general, or a solicitor, if any of those officers is in the county, and if not, then to three justices of the peace, and they are authorized, if they deem it advisable, to furnish the sheriff or keeper of the jail with an order in writing, addressed to the commanding officer of the militia of the county, setting forth the danger, and requiring him forthwith to furnish such guard as to him may appear to be suitable for the occasion. For which service the persons ordered on guard shall receive such compensation as militiamen in actual service for defense of the state; and on application for pay, the letter to the commanding officer, on which the guard was ordered, and the certificate of such officer, countersigned by the sheriff or jailer, together with the deposition of the officer of the guard, stating the time of service, and that it was faithfully performed, shall be sufficient to authorize the payment of the same.

As to payment of expenses of guard furnished for prison, see Comrs. v. Comrs., 75-240.

1351. What counties liable for guarding and removing prisoners. The expense for guarding prisons shall be paid by the county where the prison is situated; and for conveying prisoners, as also the expense attending such prisoners while in jail, when the same may be chargeable on the county, shall be paid by the county from which the prisoner is removed.

Expense of guarding prisoner chargeable on county from which he was removed: Comrs. v. Comrs., 75-240.

1352. Transfer of prisoners to succeeding sheriff. The delivery of prisoners, by indenture between the late and present sheriff, or the entering on record in court the names of the several prisoners, and the causes of their commitment, delivered over to the present sheriff, shall be sufficient to discharge the late sheriff from all liability for any escape that shall happen.

1354. Where no jail, courts may commit to jail of adjoining county. Whenever there happens to be no jail, or when there is an unfit or insecure jail, in any county, the superior court judges, justices of the peace, and all judicial officers of such county may commit all persons brought before them, whether in a criminal or civil proceeding, to the jail of any adjoining county, for the same causes and under the like regulations that they might have ordered commitments to the usual jail; and the sheriffs, constables, and other officers of such county in which there is no jail, or an unfit one, and the sheriffs or keepers of the jails of the adjoining counties, shall obey any order of commitment so made. Any officer failing to obey such order shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

1356. Counties and towns may hire out certain prisoners. The board of commissioners of the several counties, within their respective jurisdictions, or such other county authorities therein as may be established, and the mayor and intendant of the several cities and towns of the state, have power to provide under such rules and regulations as they may deem best for the employment on the public streets, public highways, public works, or other labor for individuals or corporations, of all persons imprisoned in the jails of their respective counties, cities and towns, upon conviction of any crime or misdemeanor, or who may be committed to jail for failure to enter into bond for keeping the peace or for good behavior, and who fail to pay all the costs which they are adjudged to pay, or to give good and sufficient security therefor: Provided, such prisoner or convict shall not be detained beyond the time fixed by the judgment of the court. The amount realized from hiring out such persons shall be credited to them for the fine and bill of costs in all cases of conviction. It is unlawful to farm out any such convicted person who may be imprisoned for the nonpayment of a fine, or as punishment imposed for the offense of which he may have been convicted, unless the court before whom the trial is had shall in its judgment so authorize.

Rev., s. 1352; Code, s. 3448; 1866-7, c. 30; 1872-3, c. 174, s. 10; 1874-5, c. 113; 1876-7, c. 196, s. 1; 1879, c. 218.

See, also, section 1359, containing annotations of interest. This section to be construed with sections 1359, 1458, 2157: State v. Morgan, 141-726. Statute constitutional: State v. Weathers, 98-685.

Prisoner cannot be farmed out unless judge before whom tried shall so authorize: State v. Pearson, 100-414. The provision prohibiting the farming out of certain prisoners without court's authority refers to farming them to individuals and private corporations: State v. Yandle, 119-874; State v. Sneed, 94-806.

Persons imprisoned for failure to pay costs in criminal cases can be worked out: State v. Morgan, 141-726—and their disposition is left in the discretion of the county commissioners, State v. Norwood, 93-578—but they cannot be detained beyond time fixed by court: State v. Williams, 97-416. The placing of prisoner to work on the roads is not an additional punishment, but merely incident to the sentence: State v. Yandle, 119-875.

Legislative power to authorize certain counties to employ on roads certain classes of convicts discussed in Herring v. Dixon, 122-420.

Putative father in bastardy cannot be worked upon the public roads for failure to pay costs and maintenance: State v. Addington, 143-683; State v. Morgan, 141-726, overruling Myers v. Stafford, 114-234. Persons sentenced to house of correction cannot be worked out under this section: State v. Morgan, 141-726. A person imprisoned in a proceeding as for contempt cannot be worked on roads: State v. Moore, 146-653.

Section merely referred to in State v. White, 125-678; State v. Nelson, 119-801.

1357. Person hiring may prevent escape. The party in whose service said convicts may be may use the necessary means to hold and keep them in custody and to prevent their escape.

Rev., s. 1353; Code, s. 3454; 1876-7, c. 196, s. 3.

1358. Sheriff to have control of prisoners hired out. All convicts hired or farmed out by the county or other municipal authorities shall at all times be under the supervision and control, as to their government and discipline, of the sheriff, or his deputy, of the county in which they were convicted and imprisoned, and the sheriff, or his deputy, shall be deemed a state officer for the purpose of this section.

1359. Convicts who may be sentenced to or worked on roads. When any county has made provision for the working of convicts upon the public roads, or when any number of counties have jointly made provision for working convicts upon the public roads, it is lawful for and the duty of the judge holding court in such counties to sentence to imprisonment at hard labor on the public roads for such terms as are now prescribed by law for their imprisonment in the county jail or in the state's prison, the following classes of convicts: First, all persons convicted of offenses the punishment whereof would otherwise be wholly, or in part, imprisonment in the common jail; second, all persons convicted of crimes the punishment whereof would otherwise, wholly or in part, be imprisonment in the state's prison for a term not exceeding ten years.

In such counties there may also be worked on the public roads, in like manner, all persons sentenced to imprisonment in jail by any magistrate; and also, all insolvents imprisoned by any court in said counties for nonpayment of costs in criminal causes may be retained in imprisonment and worked on the public roads until they repay the county to the extent of the half fees charged up against the county for each person taking the insolvent oath. The rate of compensation to be allowed each insolvent for work on the public roads shall be fixed by the county commissioners at a just and fair compensation, regard being had to the amount of work of which each insolvent is capable.

Prisoner properly assigned by court to work on public roads: State v. Young, 138-571, and cases cited; State v. Smith, 126-107; State v. Haynie, 118-1265—of another county, State v. Hamby, 126-1066. Judge's duty to assign to roads when provision made by county: State v. Saunders, 146-597.

Where convict imprisoned for nonpayment of costs he is to be detained only until he has repaid county the "half fees" charged up against it: State v. Saunders, 146-597.

Where judgment has been rendered that prisoner be worked upon the public roads it is presumed that county commissioners have made provision for its enforcement: State v. Hicks, 101-747. Statutes authorizing working of prisoners on public roads by county authorities are constitutional: State v. Weathers, 98-685.

Where a person who is unable to pay cost is convicted of criminal offense not within the exceptions to section 1259, and sentenced to work on public roads, county is liable only for one-half fees: State v. Saunders, 146-597.

1360. Deductions from sentence allowed for good behavior. When a convict has been sentenced to work upon the public roads of a county, and has faithfully performed the duties assigned to him during his term of sentence, he is entitled to a deduction from the time of his sentence of five days for each month, and he shall be discharged from the county roads when he has served his sentence, less the number of days he may be entitled to have deducted. The authorities having him in charge shall be the sole judges as to the faithful performance of the duties assigned to him. Should he escape or attempt to escape he shall forfeit and lose any deduction he may have been entitled to prior to that time. This section shall apply also to women sentenced to a county farm or county home.

1361. Convicts sentenced to roads to be under county control. The convicts sentenced to hard labor upon the public roads, under second section preceding, shall be under the control of the county authorities, and the county authorities have power to enact all needful rules and regulations for the successful working of convicts upon the public roads. The county commissioners may work such convicts on the public roads or in canalizing the main drains and swamps or on other public work of the county.

Convicts cannot be subjected to flogging: State v. Morris, 166-441; State v. Nipper, 166-272. Statute referred to in State v. Young, 138-571.

1362. When sentenced to state's prison in lieu of roads. In all cases where the judge presiding is satisfied that there is good reason to fear that an attempt might be made to release or to injure any person convicted of any of the offenses mentioned in the second class [section 1359], it is lawful for the judge to sentence such convicts to imprisonment in the state's prison, as is now provided by law: Provided, that no person who has been convicted and sentenced on a charge of murder, manslaughter, rape, attempt to commit rape, or arson, shall be assigned to county roads under this chapter.

1363. State's prison to furnish convicts to county roads. In addition to the convicts to railroad companies. Any county applying for convicts under this article is authorized and directed to furnish to the authorities of any county within the state, convicts, not exceeding twenty-five in number during any one year, for the purpose of working the public roads in said county. The said convicts shall be at all times under the supervision and control as to their government and discipline of the board of directors of the state's prison as in case of hiring convicts to railroad companies. Any county applying for convicts under this article shall erect suitable stockades for their safe keeping and protection, and shall pay the expense of their transportation from and to the state's prison.

Rev., s. 1358; 1887, c. 355, s. 5.

1364. Taxes may be levied for expenses of convicts. The board of county commissioners of the several counties in the state taking advantage of this chapter shall levy a special tax annually as other taxes are levied for the purpose of paying the expenses of said convicts, building of stockades, etc., and the expenses shall be paid by the counties taking advantage of this article.

Rev., s. 1359; 1887, c. 355, s. 6.

ART. 10. HOUSES OF CORRECTION

1365. Commissioners may establish houses of correction. The board of commissioners may, when they deem it necessary, establish within their respective counties one or more convenient institutions to be known as houses of correction, or, in the discretion of the board of commissioners, as training schools, municipal farms, or juvenile farms, with workshops and other suitable buildings for the safe keeping, correcting, governing, and employing of offenders legally committed thereto. They may also, to that end, procure machinery and material suitable for such employment in said institutions, or on the premises; and moreover attach thereto a farm or farms; and all lands purchased for the purposes aforesaid shall vest in the directors hereinafter provided for, and their successors in office. The said board also has power to make, from time to time, such rules and regulations as it may deem proper for the kind and mode of labor and the general management of the said institutions.

Prisoner committed to workhouse entitled to be discharged upon taking insolvent debtor's oath: State v. Williams, 97-414. Where prisoner committed to house of correction, officer cannot justify for escape by alleging that prisoner should have been confined in county jail: State v. Garrell, 82-580.

1366. Who must or may be committed to such institutions. It shall be the duty of the judges of the criminal courts and other committing magistrates of such county or counties to sentence or commit thereto all youthful offenders of the age of sixteen years and under, convicted of any crime or misdemeanor, whereof the punishment by statute prescribes a fine or sentence of imprisonment or working the roads. Said judges and committing magistrates may also sentence thereto any female prisoners and such other offenders convicted of misdemeanors who by reason of physical infirmities or mental deficiencies ought not to be imprisoned in the county jail or worked on the public roads. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the working at light labor of any partially disabled or infirm convict, or female prisoner, on or about any of the public works, buildings, or grounds in any such county, at and upon the request of the board of county commissioners, with the approval of the court or committing magistrate.

See section 5048.

1367. Levy of taxes authorized; to be paid to manager. The board of commissioners, in addition to the ordinary county taxes, shall also, at the time said taxes are laid, lay such tax as may be necessary to carry into effect this article, which shall be collected and paid to the manager at the same time as other county taxes are to be paid; for which, and such other funds as may come into his hands as manager, he shall be accountable; and he shall disburse the same under the authority of the directors.

Rev., s. 1361; Code, s. 790; 1866, c. 35, s. 5.

1368. Bonds may be issued. The board of commissioners may, if deemed advisable by them, issue county bonds to raise money to establish the institutions herein provided for.

Rev., s. 1362; Code, s. 796; 1866, c. 35, s. 11.

1369. Governor to be notified of establishment. When any institution is established in pursuance of this article, it is the duty of the chairman of the board of commissioners of the county wherein the same is established to certify the fact to the governor, who shall cause it to be noted in a book kept for that purpose.

Rev., s. 1363; Code, s. 797; 1866, c. 35, s. 12.

1370. Directors to be appointed; duties. The board of commissioners shall annually appoint not less than five nor more than nine directors for each such institution hereunder established, whose duty it is to superintend and direct the manager hereinafter named in the discharge of his duties; to visit said houses at least once in every three months; to see that the laws, rules and regulations relating thereto are duly executed and enforced, and that the persons committed to his charge are properly cared for, and not abused or oppressed. The directors shall keep a journal of their proceedings, and publish annually an account of the receipts and expenditures. They shall further make a quarterly report to their respective county commissioners of the general condition of their charge, and of the receipts and expenditures of the institution. They shall also make such by-laws and regulations for the government thereof as shall be necessary, which shall be reported to, and approved by, the said commissioners. The directors shall be paid for the services rendered, by the county treasurer, each director first making it appear to the satisfaction of the board of county commissioners, by his oath, the character and extent of the services rendered for which he claims compensation; and such payment shall be made by the county treasurer out of any funds in his hands not otherwise appropriated.

Rev., s. 1364; Code, s. 787; 1866, c. 35, s. 2.

1371. Term of office of directors. The directors shall continue in office until others are appointed; and if any vacancy happens among them, it shall be filled by the residue of the directors.

Rev., s. 1365; Code, s. 795; 1866, c. 35, s. 10.

1372. Manager to be appointed; bond; duties. The board of commissioners shall appoint a manager for each house or establishment, who shall give a bond, with two or more solvent sureties, in such sum as may be required, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties. He shall hold his office during the pleasure of the board, and be at all times under the supervision of the directors; and in case of his misconduct, of which they shall be the sole judges, he may be forthwith removed by them and a successor appointed, who shall discharge the duties of the office until another manager is appointed by the board of commissioners. It is the duty of the manager to receive all persons sent to the house of correction, to keep them during the time of their sentence, and to employ and control them according to the rules and regulations established therefor. He shall have the direction and control over the subordinate officers, assistants and servants, who may be appointed by the directors. He shall make monthly reports to the directors of his management of the institution and his receipts and expenditures.

1373. Manager to assign employment to inmates. The manager shall assign to each person sent to such institution the kind of work in which such person is to be employed.

Rev., s. 1367; Code, s. 794; 1866, c. 35, s. 9.

1374. Compensation of officers. The said board of commissioners shall direct what compensation the manager and such subordinate officers, assistants and servants, as shall be appointed, shall receive, and shall provide for the payment thereof.

Rev., s. 1368; Code, s. 789; 1866, c. 35, s. 4.

1375. Sheriff to convey persons committed. When a person is sentenced to such institution he shall forthwith be committed by the court to the custody of the sheriff, to whom the clerk shall immediately furnish a certified copy of the sentence, in which it shall be stated (if the fact be so) that the offender is committed as a vagrant. The sheriff shall convey the offender to the institution, and deliver him to the manager with the certified copy aforesaid, and take the manager's receipt for the body; which receipt the sheriff shall return to the clerk of the board of commissioners, with his indorsement of the time when the offender was committed to him and delivered to the manager, and the clerk shall record the same in a book kept for that purpose, and file the original with the papers in the case.

Rev., s. 1369; Code, s. 793; 1866, c. 35, s. 8.

1376. Absconding offenders punished. If any offender absconds, escapes, or departs from any such institution without license, the manager has power to pursue, retake and bring him back, and to require all necessary aid for that purpose; and when brought back, the manager may confine him to his work in such manner as he may judge necessary, or may put him in close confinement in the county jail or elsewhere, until he submits to the regulations of such institution; and for every escape each offender shall be held to labor in such institution for the term of one month in addition to the time for which he was first committed.

1377. Release of vagrants. If a person committed as a vagrant behaves well and reforms, he may, on the certificate of the manager, be released by the directors. But if otherwise committed, he may be released by the committing authority, upon the certificate of the manager and directors, upon such conditions as they may deem proper.

Rev., s. 1371; Code, s. 792; 1866, c. 35, s. 7.

1378. Suits in name of county. All suits brought on behalf of the institution shall, unless it be otherwise prescribed, be brought in the name of the county, to the use of the directors of the institution, without designating such directors by name.

Rev., s. 1372; Code, s. 798; 1866, c. 35, s. 13.

1379. Counties may establish joint house of correction. Any two or more counties, acting through their respective boards of commissioners, may jointly establish one or more convenient houses of correction, as is provided in the preceding sections, for the joint use of the counties so agreeing together; and the same may be established at such place or places, and be in all respects managed under such by-laws, rules and regulations as a majority of the general board of directors, to be appointed as hereinafter directed, shall determine.

1380. Directors of joint house of correction. The board of commissioners of each of the respective counties agreeing as aforesaid to the establishment of one or more houses of correction for use jointly with any other county or counties shall annually appoint not less than three nor more than five directors in behalf of their several counties, and the directors so appointed by each of such counties shall together constitute the general board of directors of any such joint establishment.

Rev., s. 1374; Code, s. 800; 1866-7, c. 130, s. 2; 1919, c. 273, s. 3.

1381. Directors to appoint manager; bond; term; duties. Said general board of directors shall appoint a manager or superintendent for every such joint establishment, and such assistants and servants as they may deem necessary. The manager shall give bond with two or more able sureties, to be approved by said board, in such sum as may be required, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties. He shall hold his office during the pleasure of the general board of directors, and be, at all times, under their supervision; and of his misconduct they shall be the sole judges, and they may at any time remove him. He shall perform all such duties as may be prescribed by such general board of directors, and all such as may be incident to the office of manager by virtue of this chapter.

1382. Compensation of manager and other officers. The compensation of the manager and such subordinate officers, assistants and servants as may be appointed by the general board shall be fixed by said general board.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

SEC.

1383. Election and term of office.

1384. Bond required.

1386. Power to administer oaths.

1383. Election and term of office. There shall be elected in each county, by the qualified voters thereof, as provided for the election of members of the general assembly, a county surveyor, who shall hold office for the term of two years.

Const., Art. 7, s. 1; Rev., s. 4296.

For vacancies in office and method of filling, see Counties and County Commissioners, s. 1297.

For actions on official bonds, see section 354.

1385. May appoint deputies. Every surveyor may appoint deputies, who shall, previous to entering on the duties of their office, be qualified in a similar manner with the surveyor; and the surveyor making such appointment shall be liable for the conduct of such deputies, as for his own conduct in office.

Must not appoint the enterer, inferred from Avery v. Walker, 8-160.

1386. Power to administer oaths. The county surveyors of the several counties are empowered to administer oaths to all such persons as are required by law to be sworn in making partition of real estate, in laying off widows' dower, in establishing boundaries and in surveying vacant lands under warrants.

Rev., s. 2361; Code, s. 3314; 1881, c. 144.

For vacancies filled, see Counties and County Commissioners, Art. 2.

CHAPTER 26

COUNTY TREASURER

Sec.

- 1387. Election of county treasurer.
- 1388. Bond; penalty; when renewed.
- 1389. Local: Commissioners may abolish office and appoint bank.
- 1390. Office includes person acting as treasurer.
- 1391. Is treasurer of county board of education.
- 1392. Sheriff acting as treasurer; bond liable.
- 1393. Duties of county treasurer.
- 1394. Treasurer not to speculate in county claims; penalty.
- 1395. Treasurer administers property held in trust for county.
- 1396. Treasurer to take charge of county trust funds; additional bond.
- 1397. Commissioners to keep record of trust funds.
- 1398. Treasurer to exhibit separate statement as to trust funds.
- 1399. Treasurer to pay no claim unless audited.
- 1400. Treasurer to deliver books, etc., to successor.
- 1401. Action on treasurer's bond to be by commissioners.
- 1402. Officers failing to account to treasurer sued by commissioners.

1387. Election of county treasurer. In each county there shall be elected biennially by the qualified voters thereof, as provided for the election of members of the general assembly, a treasurer.

Rev., s. 1394; Const., Art. VII, s. 1.

Treasurer's term of office two years: Aderholt v. McKee, 65-257. Power of county commissioners to fill vacancy, section 1297, subsection 13; see, also, Rhodes v. Hampton, 101-629. Term of office of a treasurer appointed by board of commissioners to fill a vacancy is only that of unoccupied term of his predecessor: Aderholt v. McKee, 65-257. Revisal, s. 1395, which authorized the justices of the peace to abolish the office of county treasurer, was repealed by act of 1919, c. 141. When the office was thus abolished, the sheriff became treasurer: Koonce v. Comrs., 106-192; Rhodes v. Hampton, 101-629.

1388. Bond; penalty; when renewed. The county treasurer, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall give bond with three or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by the board of commissioners, payable to the state, conditioned that he will faithfully execute the duties of his office, and pay according to law, and on the warrant of the chairman of the board of commissioners, all moneys which shall come into his hands as treasurer, and render a just and true account thereof to the board when required by law or by the board of commissioners. The penalty of his bond shall be a sum not exceeding the amount of the county and local taxes assessed during the previous year, and the board of commissioners at any time, by an order, may require him to renew, increase or strengthen his bond. A failure to do so within ten days after the service of such an order shall vacate his office, and the board shall appoint a successor: Provided, the board of commissioners may fix the bond of the treasurer of Forsyth county at such sum as they may deem best, not less than twenty thousand dollars, and may increase it at any time; and in Craven county the bond of the treasurer shall be equal to the county funds during the preceding year, but not to exceed forty thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 297; Code, s. 766; 1868-9, c. 157, s. 4; 1895, c. 270, s. 2; 1899, c. 132; 1899, c. 207, s. 4; 1903, c. 12, s. 2; 1901, c. 536; 1899, c. 54, s. 52.

Failure to file bond, office vacated: Kilburn v. Latham, 81-312. County commissioners are proper parties relator in action on treasurer's bond: Comrs. v. Magnin, 86-286. Example of bond held sufficient to protect school moneys: Ibid. New duty, added by statute, of being treasurer of board of education, with requirement of special bond, old official bond not liable for school moneys: Bd. Education v. Bateman, 102-52. A settlement of outgoing treasurer does not discharge liability on bond: Comrs. v. McRae, 89-95. Cited merely in Koonce v. Comrs., 106-199. For annotations on official bonds generally, see sections 354, 356.

1389. Local: Commissioners may abolish office and appoint bank. In the counties of Bladen, Carteret, Chatham, Cherokee, Chowan, Craven, Edgecombe, Granville, Hyde, Madison, Mitchell, Montgomery, Martin, Moore, Onslow, Perquimans, Polk, Rowan, Stanly, Tyrrell, and Union, the board of county commissioners is hereby authorized and empowered, in its discretion, to abolish the office of county treasurer in the county; but the board shall, before abolishing the office of treasurer, pass a resolution to that effect at least sixty days before any primary or convention is held for the purpose of nominating county treasurer. When the office is so abolished, the board is authorized, in lieu of a county treasurer, to appoint one or more solvent banks or trust companies located in its county as financial agent for the county, which bank or trust company shall perform the duties now performed by the treasurer or the sheriff as ex officio treasurer of the county. Such bank or trust company shall not charge nor receive any compensation for its services, other than such advantages and benefit as may accrue from the deposit of the county funds in the regular course of banking.

The bank or trust company, appointed and acting as the financial agent of its county, shall be appointed for a term of two years, and shall be required to execute the same bonds for the safe keeping and proper accounting of such funds as may come into its possession and belonging to such county and for the faithful discharge of its duties, as are now required by law of county treasurers.

The bank selected is entitled to receive the county money, including that from drainage district: Comrs. v. Lewis, 174-528 (decision under special act for Robeson county, P. L. 1917, c. 46).

1390. Office includes person acting as treasurer. The office of county treasurer shall always be construed to refer to, and include, the person authorized by law to perform the duties of that office in any county, if there is no county treasurer therein.

Rev., s. 1396; Code, s. 770.

See Comrs. v. Lewis, 174-528. County treasurer ex officio treasurer of county board of education: Koonce v. Comrs., 106-198; Comrs. v. Magnin, 86-288, 78-183.

1391. Is treasurer of county board of education. The county treasurer is ex officio treasurer of the county board of education.

For duties as such treasurer, see sections 5444-5453.

1392. Sheriff acting as treasurer, bond liable. In counties where the office of county treasurer is abolished, and where the sheriff is authorized to perform the duties of county treasurer, the bond he gives as sheriff shall be construed to include his liabilities and duties as such county treasurer, and may be increased to such amount by the board of commissioners as may be deemed necessary to cover the trust funds coming to his hands.

Rev., s. 1397; Code, s. 769; 1879, c. 202.

For liability on sheriff's bond as treasurer, see sections 1388 and 3930.

1393. Duties of county treasurer. It is the duty of the treasurer—

1. To keep county moneys. To receive all moneys belonging to the county, and all other moneys by law directed to be paid to him; to keep them separate and apart from his own affairs, and to apply them and render account of them as required by law.

Treasurer's duty to pay warrant drawn by commissioners on specific fund: Martin v. Clark, 135-178—to receive money belonging to county; and for money not belonging to county which he attempts to care for he is personally liable, not the county, Burbank v. Comrs., 92-259—to pay claims audited and allowed by commissioners, Jones v. Comrs., 73-182.

For general view of treasurer's duties and county's liability for his acts, see Burbank v. Comrs., 92-259.

Not within power or duty of treasurer to refuse to pay county order issued by commissioners because he does not think it a just and lawful claim or for any other reason, which has been passed upon by board and within its power to act: Martin v. Clark, 135-178; Audit Co. v. McKenzie, 147-461; Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

2. To keep true accounts. To keep a true account of the receipts and expenditures of all such moneys, taking proper vouchers in every case in books provided for that purpose at the expense of the county; which said books shall at all times show the date, amount, and from whom he has received such moneys; the date, amount, and to whom he has paid out any of the said moneys; the total amount received and the total amount paid out during the current fiscal year for school purposes, for general county purposes, for jury fund, and for each special purpose, all separately kept, so that at all times his said books shall correctly and accurately show the condition of the said several accounts. His account of expenditures for general county purposes shall also show separately the amounts expended each year on account of the county home, indigent persons, jails, workhouses, courthouse, bridges, insolvent fees, courts, and such other special accounts as the board of commissioners of the county require, the total of said accounts being the aggregate amount expended during the fiscal year for general county purposes. He shall post at the courthouse door on the first Monday in each month a correct statement of such receipts and expenditures, showing the amount received, and from what source, and the amounts paid out, and to whom, and for what purpose, and the balance in his hands belonging to the county.

3. To call on county officers for funds in their hands. To call on the sheriff, or the clerk of the superior court, or other officer having county moneys in his hands, at least once in each month, or oftener if necessary, to pay over to him, and to account for all such moneys.

For actions on official bonds, see section 354.

4. To keep accounts of fines, etc. To enter in a book to be kept by him the exact amount of any fine, penalty or forfeiture paid over to him, giving the date of payment, the name of the clerk or other person so paying the same, the name of the party from whom such fine, penalty or forfeiture was collected, and in what case.

5. To exhibit to the board of commissioners his books and accounts as treasurer for examination. To exhibit his books and accounts and moneys once every three months, or oftener, if the board of commissioners of his county deem it necessary, to a committee to be composed of the chairman of the board of commissioners and one other person to be selected by the board of commissioners, who shall be an expert accountant. It is the duty of this committee to examine the books and accounts of his office, and to see that the accounts are correctly and properly kept, and to count the money in the hands of the treasurer, and to see that it corresponds with the amount shown by the books to be in his hands. At every such examination of the books and accounts of his office the county treasurer shall exhibit a full, perfect and itemized statement to said committee of the use he has made of every dollar of public funds in his hands since the last exhibition of his books to said committee; and if any part of said funds has been loaned out, this statement shall state to whom loaned and on what security and the amount of interest paid on said loan, and such interest shall be covered into the county treasury by the treasurer. This statement shall be sworn to and published in a county newspaper or at the courthouse door. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize the county treasurer to lend any public funds.

If at any time there is a deficit in the amount of money in the hands of the treasurer, the committee shall so report to the board of commissioners, whose duty it is to institute proceedings in the superior court against said treasurer for violation of his official duties.

Rev., s. 1398; Code, ss. 96, 773; 1889, c. 242.

1394. Treasurer not to speculate in county claims; penalty. No county treasurer purchasing a claim against the county at less than its face value is entitled to charge the county a greater sum than what he actually paid for the same; and the board of commissioners may examine him as well as any other person on oath concerning the matter. Any county treasurer who is concerned or interested in any such speculation shall forfeit his office.

Rev., s. 1399; Code, s. 772; 1868-9, c. 157, s. 8.

1395. Treasurer administers property held in trust for county. All real and personal property held by deed, will or otherwise by any person or officer in trust for any county, or for any charitable use to be administered in and for the benefit of such county or the citizens thereof, shall be transferred to and vest in the county treasurer, to be administered and applied by him under the direction of the board of commissioners, upon the same uses, purposes and trusts as declared by the grantor, testator or other person in the original deed, devise or other instrument of donation.

1396. Treasurer to take charge of county trust funds; additional bond. It is the duty of the county treasurer to take charge of all such trust funds and property; but he shall not do so without giving a bond payable to the state, in a penalty double the estimated value of said property or funds, with three or more sureties, each of whom is worth at least the amount of the penalty of the bond over and above all his liabilities and property exempt from execution, which bond shall be taken by the board of commissioners, and recorded and otherwise treated and dealt with as the official bond of the treasurer.

1397. Commissioners to keep record of trust funds. The board of commissioners shall keep a proper record of all such trust property or charitable funds, and when necessary shall institute proceedings to recover for the treasurer all such as may be unjustly withheld.

Rev., s. 1402; Code, s. 780; 1869-70, c. 85, s. 3.

1399. Treasurer to pay no claim unless audited. It is unlawful for the county treasurer to pay a claim against the county, unless the same has been audited and allowed by the board of commissioners.

Rev., s. 1404; Code, s. 777; 1868, c. 19.

Duty to pay claim when audited and allowed by commissioners: Jones v. Comrs., 73-182.

County treasurer cannot refuse to pay a warrant drawn by commissioners because he does not think claim lawful or just or for any other reason, which has been passed upon by the board and within its power to act: Martin v. Clark, 135-180; Audit Co. v. McKenzie, 147-461; Wilson v. Holding, 170-352.

Section referred to in State v. Wilkerson, 98-701.

1400. Treasurer to deliver books, etc., to successor. When the right of any county treasurer to his office expires, the books and papers belonging to his office, and all moneys in his hands by virtue of his office, shall, upon his oath, or, in case of his death, upon the oath of his personal representative, be delivered to his successor.

Rev., s. 1405; Code, s. 767; 1868-9, c. 157.

It is treasurer's duty to know what moneys remain in his hands at the expiration of his term and to what funds they belong, and, until these moneys are paid, the bond is liable; and a settlement with county is not conclusive of the amounts, but is open to correction: Comrs. v. MacRae, 89-95.

No demand upon treasurer is necessary before bringing suit for funds he should have turned over to his successor: Comrs. v. Magnin, 86-286.

As to actions on treasurer's bond, see section 1388.

1401. Action on treasurer's bond to be by commissioners. The board of commissioners shall bring an action on the treasurer's bond whenever they have knowledge or a reasonable belief of any breach of the bond.

Rev., s. 1406; Code, s. 771; 1868-9, c. 157.

County commissioners are proper parties relator in action on treasurer's bond: Comrs. v. Magnin, 86-286. For example of bond held sufficient to protect school moneys, see Ibid. Where new duty, added by statute, of being treasurer of board of education, with requirement of special bond, old official bond not liable for school moneys: Bd. Education v. Bateman, 102-52. A settlement of outgoing treasurer does not discharge liability on bond: Comrs. v. MacRae, 89-95.

Section cited in Koonce v. Comrs., 106-199. For annotations on official bonds generally, see sections 354, 356.

1402. Officers failing to account to treasurer sued by commissioners. In case of the failure or refusal of a sheriff, clerk, or other officer to account and pay over, when called on as directed in this article, the treasurer shall report the facts to the board of commissioners, who may forthwith bring suit on the official bond of such delinquent officer, and the said board is also allowed to bring suit on the official bond of the clerk of the superior court of any adjoining county.

Rev., s. 1407; Code, s. 775; 1868-9, c. 157, s. 10.

For actions on official bonds generally, see section 354. For liability of clerk, see section 928—of county treasurer, see section 1388—of sheriff, see section 3930—of register of deeds, see section 3545—of constable, see section 973—and of other officers, see section prescribing their bonds. Where after giving bond new duties are added to office by statute, effect on liability: Daniel v. Grizzard, 117-110; County Bd. Education v. Bateman, 102-52; Prairie v. Worth, 78-169; State v. Bradshaw, 32-229. The bond of a public officer is liable for money that comes into his hands, as an insurer, and not merely for exercise of good faith: Smith v. Patton, 131-396; Presson v. Boone, 108-78; Bd. Education v. Bateman, 102-52; Morgan v. Smith, 95-396; Havens v. Lathene, 75-505; Bd. Comrs. v. Clarke, 73-257, and cases therein cited. Even though public officer may not be liable on bond, he may be personally liable: Holt v. McLean, 75-346.

When a citizen and taxpayer may sue to recover public money (act of 1913, c. 80): Waddill v. Masten, 172-582.

- 1607. Expense of election paid.
- 1608. Certain districts and counties not included.

SUBCHAPTER I. SUPREME COURT

ART. 1. ORGANIZATION AND TERMS

1403. Number of justices. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and four associate justices.

Rev., s. 1532; Const., Art. 4, s. 6.

1404. Election and term of office. The justices of the supreme court shall be elected by the qualified voters of the state, as is provided for the election of members of the general assembly. They shall hold their offices for eight years.

Const., Art. 4, s. 21.

1405. Oath of office. The justices, before they act as such, shall, before the governor or some judicial officer, take and subscribe the oaths appointed for the qualification of public officers, and also an oath of office, which shall be certified by the officer taking the same and delivered to the secretary of state, to be safely kept.

1406. Name of court; where records to be kept. The court bears the name and style of The Supreme Court of North Carolina, and is a court of record; and the papers and records belonging to the clerk's office thereof shall be constantly kept within the city of Raleigh.

Rev., s. 1536; Code, s. 954; R. C., c. 33, s. 2; R. S., c. 33, s. 2; 1884, c. 660; 1805, c. 674; 1818, c. 962; 1828, c. 13.

1407. Quorum. Three justices constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the court.

Rev., s. 1534; Code, s. 956; 1889, c. 230.

“Court” means the three (now five) justices sitting together, consulting and advising one with the others, upon questions before them for judicial decision: State v. Lane, 26-435. The distinction between the three (now five) judges and the “court” pointed out: Ibid.

Upon the death of a member, the two surviving judges have full power and authority to hold court and exercise its functions: Ibid., page 434.

1408. Terms of court. There shall be held at the seat of government of the state in each year two terms of the supreme court, commencing on the first Monday in February and the last Monday in August.

The court shall sit at each term until all the business on the docket shall be determined or continued on good cause shown. In case no one of the justices shall attend the term during the first week thereof, at the end of that time the court shall stand adjourned till the next term, and the causes on the docket be continued.

Rev., ss. 1535, 1536; Code, ss. 953, 954; 1901, c. 660; 1887, c. 49; 1881, c. 178; R. C., c. 33, s. 2; R. S., c. 33, s. 2; 1804, c. 660; 1805, c. 674; 1818, c. 932; 1828, c. 13; 1842, c. 15; 1846, cc. 28, 29.

ART. 2. JURISDICTION

1409. Original jurisdiction. The supreme court has original jurisdiction to hear claims against the state, but its decision shall be merely recommendatory; no process in the nature of execution shall issue thereon; they shall be reported to the next session of the general assembly for its action.

Rev., s. 1537; Const., Art. IV, s. 9.

Jurisdiction conferred upon supreme court by this section to hear claims against state is confined to determination of legal validity of such claims: Baltzer v. The State, 104-265—the jurisdiction only attaching when questions of law are involved, Miller v. State, 134-270; Reeves v. The State, 93-257; Horne v. The State, 82-384; Clodfelter v. State, 86-51; Bledsoe v. The State, 64-392; Reynolds v. The State, 64-460—and this jurisdiction will not be exercised where the matter is small and there is no doubt about the law, Horne v. The State, 82-384; Sinclair v. State, 69-47—nor where facts pertaining to alleged claim against state are well known, or readily ascertainable, and no “grave questions of law” to be decided, Cowles v. State, 115-173. If case only involves questions of fact, legislature is proper place to obtain redress: Reeves v. State, 93-257; Sinclair v. State, 69-47.

Section is relaxation of rule that state cannot be sued, and enables citizen to obtain opinion of supreme court as recommendation to legislature, and no more: Blount v. Simmons, 119-51.

Original jurisdiction conferred by section applies only in cases in which plaintiff cannot otherwise obtain relief by reason of state being a party: Bain v. State, 86-49—confined to such claims as are legal—Clodfelter v. State, 86-51—and, as against any other defendant, could be reduced to judgment and enforced by execution, Ibid.; Bain v. State, 86-49. Jurisdiction to hear claim against state wherein plaintiff demands return of bonds alleged to have been exchanged for other bonds in 1862, is exclusively in supreme court: Martin v. Worth, 91-45—as is also jurisdiction to pass upon validity of coupons as claims against state, Horne v. The State, 82-382.

Supreme court has not original jurisdiction of action against state by clerk of superior court for fees in action instituted by state and for which it has been adjudged liable: Miller v. State, 134-270; Blount v. Simmons, 119-52.

Where the legislature by act or resolution directs treasurer of state to pay claims against state, then supreme court has jurisdiction of such claims: Horne v. The State, 84-364—but where legislature is prohibited by constitution from exercise of such power, and can only order payment after obtaining assent of people by popular vote, then supreme court has no jurisdiction, Ibid. State may plead bar of statute of limitations to prevent recommendatory decision: Cowles v. State, 115-173.

Amendment incorporated into article 1, section 6, of constitution takes away jurisdiction of court to hear claims against state founded upon obligations alleged to have been incurred by state by virtue of ordinances and statutes passed within a prescribed period: Baltzer v. The State, 104-265; Horne v. State, 84-362—and such deprivation of jurisdiction after suit brought not inhibited by federal constitution as impairing obligation of contracts, Horne v. State, 84-362.

In an action by the state the defendant cannot plead a set-off, unless it amounts to a credit or payment: Battle v. Thompson, 65-406.

The supreme court’s decision is “merely recommendatory” to legislature: Garner v. Worth, 122-252; Baltzer v. The State, 104-265; Battle v. Thompson, 65-408—which may provide for its payment if it sees proper to do so, Baltzer v. The State, 104-265—the courts being forbidden to issue any process upon their decision, Garner v. Worth, 122-252; Baltzer v. The State, 104-265. Upon decision of court in favor of plaintiff upon claim preferred against state, proper course is for clerk to transmit proceedings in cause, together with judgment of court, to governor to be communicated by him to general assembly: Clements v. The State, 77-142; Bledsoe v. The State, 64-397.

Quere: Whether claim for damages against state, arising out of failure and refusal of public officer to perform statutory duty imposed on him, can be filed in this court: Stewart v. State, 118-624. Where a matter has become a quasi-public question, and one of much concern to the several departments of the state government, this court will entertain petition for the construction of a statute, and a contract made thereunder by state officials; Ibid. See, also, Farthington v. Carrington, 116-315.

Section merely referred to in Rand v. The State, 65-194; Bonner v. Adams, 65-644; Bayne v. Jenkins, 66-356.

1410. Procedure to enforce claims against the state. Any person having any claim against the state may file his complaint in the office of the clerk of the supreme court, setting forth the nature and grounds of his claim. He shall cause a copy of his complaint to be served on the governor, and therein request him to appear on behalf of the state and answer his claim. The copy shall be served at least twenty days before application for relief shall be made to the court. In case of an appearance for the state by the governor, or any other authorized officer, the pleadings and trial shall be conducted in such manner as the court shall direct. If an issue of fact shall be joined on the pleadings, the court shall transfer it to the superior court of some convenient county for trial by a jury, as other issues of fact are directed to be tried, and the judge of the court before whom the trial is had shall certify to the supreme court, at its next term, the verdict and the case, if any, made up and settled as prescribed in cases of appeal to the supreme court. If the state shall not appear in the action by any authorized officer, the court may make up issues and send them for trial, as aforesaid. The supreme court shall in all cases report the facts found, and their recommendation thereon, with the reasons thereof, to the general assembly at its next term.

See cases cited under section 1409. As supporting section, see Horne v. The State, 82-384. In proceedings under section for adjudication of alleged claims against state, state has right to plead bar of statute of limitations to prevent recommendatory decision: Cowles v. The State, 115-173. As to pleading set-off in action by the state against private party, see Battle v. Thompson, 65-406. Section authorizes no judgment: Garner v. Worth, 122-257.

State, not public treasurer, is proper party defendant in action wherein plaintiff demands return of bonds alleged to have been exchanged for other bonds in 1862: Martin v. Worth, 91-45.

Upon decision of court in favor of plaintiff upon claim preferred against state, proper course is for clerk to transmit proceedings in cause, together with judgment of court, to governor, to be communicated by him to general assembly: Clements v. The State, 77-142; Bledsoe v. The State, 64-397.

Practice is to ascertain facts by reference to clerk of court or to have issues for jury: Clements v. State, 76-201; Bledsoe v. State, 64-394.

As bearing upon section, see Henry v. State, 68-465.

1411. Appellate jurisdiction. The supreme court has jurisdiction to review, upon appeal, any decision of the courts below, upon any matter of law or legal inference. And the jurisdiction of said court over "issues of fact" and "questions of fact" is the same exercised by it before the adoption of the constitution of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and the court has the power to issue any remedial writs necessary to give it a general supervision and control over the proceedings of the inferior courts.

Rev., s. 1539; Const., Art. IV, s. 8.

As to what matters are subject to review on appeal, see cases cited under section 638. For appeals in criminal actions, see sections 4649, 4650 et seq. For certiorari as substitute for appeal, see section 630. For time and manner of making exceptions in lower court and for motion for new trial, see sections 589-591.

GENERAL JURISDICTION TO REVIEW. In our practice, both before and after establishment of constitution of 1868, supreme court has had all powers of court of errors at common law: Rush v. Steamboat Co., 68-72. What is meant hereunder by jurisdiction to "review upon appeal" discussed: Ibid.

The supreme court, except as to claims against the state, derives its jurisdiction solely by an appeal from a court having jurisdiction: James v. R. R., 123-299; Gordon v. Sanderson, 83-1—such lower court being constituted and organized according to law or recognized as having essential attributes of properly constituted tribunal and competent to exercise jurisdiction of controversies between litigants: State v. Hall, 142-710—and no appeal from such lower court will be entertained unless transcript sent up shows jurisdiction and that cause was properly constituted there, Gordon v. Sanderson, 83-1.

The jurisdiction of supreme court is limited to correction of errors in rulings below: Tyson v. Tyson, 100-360; Scroggs v. Stevenson, 100-354—hence where there has been no ruling on question presented by record, supreme court cannot pass upon it, Ibid. Appeals from pro forma judgments will not be considered: Hines v. Hines, 84-122—or where the case presents only a “moot question,” Kistler v. R. R., 170-666.

Matters within the discretion of the lower court are not reviewable unless some matter of law or legal inference is involved or the discretion has been abused: Billings v. Charlotte Observer, 150-540; Clark v. Machine Co., 150-372, and cases cited under section 638.

In criminal cases appellate jurisdiction of court is confined to review and correction of errors in law committed in trial below: State v. Rowe, 98-630; State v. Starnes, 94-973; State v. Jones, 69-16—and a new trial for newly discovered evidence will not be granted: State v. Lilliston, 141-867. In a civil action a new trial may be granted for newly discovered evidence, but not when the evidence is only cumulative: Gates County v. Hill, 158-584, and annotations under section 1414.

Court will not ex mero motu review former decision upon second appeal in same case: Best v. Mortgage Co., 131-70; Carson v. Bunting, 156-29—but it is not precluded under doctrine of law of case from passing on question not determined on first appeal, Vann v. Edwards, 135-661.

Court will not review its own ruling or a ruling of court below which does not injuriously affect complaining party, even if ruling erroneous: Balk v. Harris, 132-16; Nissen v. Gold Mining Co., 104-309; Butts v. Screws, 95-215; Lutz v. Cline, 89-186; Bateman v. Lumber Co., 154-248; Smith v. Hancock, 172-150.

Granting a new trial is a matter for the court, and the consent of the parties cannot control it: Kenney v. R. R., 165-99.

When supreme court has decided a case and term is ended, its jurisdiction is at an end: State v. Marsh, 134-197—so, also, when opinion certified to lower court for judgment there, James v. R. R., 123-299; R. R. v. Horton, 176-115; Davis v. R. R., 176-186; Finlayson v. Kirby, 127-222. Supreme court has no power to change judgment rendered at a former term, except when issued by mistake or inadvertence, in which case it may be altered so as to speak the truth: James v. R. R., 123-299.

The jurisdiction of supreme court to review decisions on matters of law or legal inference is not impaired by act of legislature postponing right of appeal to final determination of cause: Railroad v. Warren, 92-620. Agreement that other pending causes shall abide the determination of particular case does not authorize supreme court to assume jurisdiction in cases not before it: Belden v. Snead, 84-243.

The court in granting a new trial on appeal in a criminal case should decide upon the legal merits of the case, if it appears that state cannot ultimately succeed in prosecution: State v. Robinson, 143-620.

The power of courts to declare statutes unconstitutional is a high prerogative and ought to be exercised with great caution, and they should not declare statute void unless its nullity and invalidity are placed in their judgment beyond reasonable doubt, and a reasonable doubt must be solved in favor of legislative action: King v. R. R., 66-283; State v. Baskerville, 141-811; Railroad v. Alamance, 82-264; Stannire v. Taylor, 48-210; State v. Moss, 47-67; Bonitz v. School Trustees, 154-375; Williams v. Bradford, 158-36; R. R. v. Cherokee County, 177-86; Bickett v. Tax Com., 177-433.

JURISDICTION TO REVIEW ISSUES OF FACT AND QUESTIONS OF FACT. An “issue of fact” is where a matter is alleged on one side and denied on the other, the decision of which would be final and conclude the parties as to the matter in controversy: Kirk v. R. R., 97-82; Wright v. Cotten, 140-1; Crawford v. Masters, 149-205; Tucker v. Satterthwaite, 120-118; Patton v. R. R., 96-455; McAdoo v. R. R., 105-140; Armfield v. Brown, 70-27; Heilig v. Stokes, 63-612; Klutts v. McKenzie, 65-102—distinguished from question of fact in Goode v. Rogers, 126-62; Keener v. Finger, 70-35; Beavans v. Goodrich, 98-217; Foushee v. Pattershall, 67-453. See cases cited under section 582. As to what findings of fact are reviewable in cases of reference, see section 579—in application for injunctive relief, see section 843—in proceedings to set aside judgment for mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, see section 600.

As to amendment restoring jurisdiction over issues of fact and questions of fact as exercised before adoption of constitution of 1868, see Jones v. Boyd, 80-260. Jurisdiction of supreme court over “issues of fact” is restricted to interlocutory and final judgments which are exclusively equitable in their nature: Young v. Rollins, 90-125—which a court of equity could alone render under former system, Ibid.—and does not extend to cases at law under former practice, in which only errors of law could have been corrected on appeal, Greensboro v. Scott, 84-184; Jones v. Boyd, 80-260. See Drewry v. Bank, 173-664.

Supreme court has jurisdiction, in actions purely equitable, to review evidence and findings of fact in court below where entire testimony is transmitted: Gatewood v. Burns, 99-357; Coates v. Wilkes, 92-376; Worthy v. Shields, 90-192—but will not exercise this jurisdiction upon fragmentary or summary statement of evidence, Gatewood v. Burns, 99-357; Runnion v. Ramsay, 93-410.

In appeals from superior courts of law, purely discretionary powers of such courts were never reviewed by supreme court. Otherwise in appeals from courts of equity, in which every order and decree of such court, affecting rights of parties, were proper subjects of review: Long v. Holt, 68-53; see Long v. Gooch, 86-710; Graham v. Skinner, 57-94. Proceedings for partition are not equity proceedings within the jurisdiction of supreme court under the amendment restoring jurisdiction over issues of fact and questions of fact which supreme court, prior to 1868, possessed: Simmons v. Foscue, 81-86.

On appeal from order granting or refusing injunction, court has power to review questions of fact upon which propriety of order depends: Jones v. Boyd, 80-258; Burns v. McFarland, 146-382; Hooker v. Greenville, 130-472; Mayo v. Comrs., 122-5; Roberts v. Lewald, 107-305; Evans v. R. R., 96-47—and will do so when the evidence is sent up, Seip v. Wright, 173-14; Roberts v. Lewald, 107-305—and also may review the facts upon which injunction continued to the hearing, Evans v. R. R., 96-45. As to waiver of right to have findings of fact reviewed by supreme court, see Runnion v. Ramsay, 93-410.

Quere: Whether action of covenant, to which equitable defense was made, falls within provisions of this section so that findings of jury may be reviewed: Gragg v. Wagner, 77-246.

ISSUING REMEDIAL WRITS. Writ of habeas corpus cannot be made substitute for writ of error or appeal: Ex parte McCown, 139-95; In re Schenck, 74-607; State v. Webb, 155-426.

As to power of supreme court to issue writ of prohibition to supervise and control the inferior courts, see State v. Whitaker, 114-818; Perry v. Shepherd, 78-83; Railroad v. Newton, 133-136; Page v. Page, 166-90. As to power to issue writ of certiorari, see section 630. The court will issue a supersedeas to prevent enforcement of a judgment only in case of necessity: McArthur v. Timber Co., 164-383; see, also, section 630. For mandamus, see sections 866-868.

Rev., s. 1542; Code, s. 957; R. C., c. 33, s. 6; 1799, c. 520; 1818, c. 963; 1830, c. 2; 1868-9, c. 962.

See section 658. Provisions of section authorizing court to give such judgment as shall appear "on inspection of whole record" ought to be rendered, refers to such matters only as are necessarily of record, as pleadings, verdict and judgment: State v. Ashford, 120-588; Wills v. Fisher, 112-540; McKinnon v. Morrison, 104-354; Thornton v. Brady, 100-38. Supreme court will take notice of errors on face of record proper without any assignment of error:

Ullery v. Guthrie, 148-417; Wilson v. Lumber Co., 131-163; Appomattox Co. v. Buffalo, 121-37; Rogers v. Bank, 108-578; Robeson v. Hodges, 105-52; Hutson v. Sawyer, 104-1; Thornton v. Brady, 100-38.

Court will render such judgment as shall appear to be proper from inspection of whole record: Mfg. Co. v. Hobbs, 128-46; Rogers v. Bank, 108-578; Hutson v. Sawyer, 104-1; Morrison v. Watson, 95-479; Bush v. Hall, 95-82—shall render such judgment as should have been rendered in superior court, whenever the record presents fully the merits of whole case, Duvall v. Rollins, 71-218; Robison v. Robison, 123-137; Long v. Swindell, 77-176; Perry v. Tupper, 71-380; Rush v. Steamboat Co., 68-72; Isler v. Brown, 67-175. If no error appears on face of record proper, there being no valid case on appeal, judgment below will be affirmed: Wallace v. Salisbury, 147-58; Cressler v. Asheville, 138-482; Hicks v. Westbrook, 121-131; Barnes v. R. R., 121-504; Roberts v. Partridge, 118-355; Delafield v. Construction Co., 115-21; Fertilizer Co. v. Black, 114-591; Maggett v. Roberts, 114-227; Forte v. Boone, 114-176; Rosenthal v. Roberson, 114-594; Cummings v. Hoffman, 113-267; Lovic v. Ins. Co., 109-302; Howell v. Jones, 109-102; Mitchell v. Tedder, 108-266; Simmons v. Andrews, 106-201; Mfg. Co. v. Simmons, 97-89; Rencher v. Andrews, 95-208; McCoy v. Lassiter, 94-131; State v. Freeman, 93-558; Mott v. Ramsay, 90-29; Neal v. Mace, 89-171; State v. Fox, 81-578; Turner v. Foard, 83-683; State v. Hooks, 82-696; Paschall v. Bullock, 80-8; State v. Murray, 80-364; State v. Orrell, 44-217; State v. Ray, 32-29—also, where no error assigned by defendant and none appears upon record, judgment below will be affirmed, Holmes v. Brewer, 117-347; State v. Whitmire, 112-895; Marshall v. Stine, 112-697; Simmons v. Andrews, 106-201; Taylor v. Plummer, 105-56; Walker v. Scott, 102-487; Anthony v. Estes, 99-598; Wilson v. Shepherd, 98-154; Carroll v. Barden, 97-191; Mfg. Co. v. Simmons, 97-89; Justice v. R. R., 96-412; Williams v. Johnston, 94-633; Howell v. Ferguson, 87-115; State v. Hovis, 76-117; Swepson v. Summey, 74-551; Stephenson v. Jones, 12-15.

The court will not presume error, and the ruling of the lower court will be sustained unless prejudicial error appears: Bailey v. Justice, 174-753; Alston v. Holt, 172-417; Gardiner v. May, 172-192; State v. Smith, 164-479; In re Smith's Will, 163-466; McLeod v. Gooch, 162-122; Todd v. Mackie, 160-357; Lumber Co. v. Buhmann, 160-385; Davis v. Stephenson, 149-113; Albertson v. Terry, 108-75.

The court will not reverse a judgment of the lower court for errors which could not have prejudiced the appellant's rights: State v. Davis, 175-723; Schas v. Assurance Society, 170-420; s. c., 166-55; In re Craven, 169-561; Ferebee v. Berry, 168-281; Webb v. Tel. Co., 167-483; State v. Smith, 164-480; Comrs. v. Indemnity Co., 155-219.

If inspection of record proper discloses error in judgment below, it will not be affirmed, although no exception entered thereto or particular assignment of errors therein: Huntsman v. Lumber Co., 122-583; Appomattox Co. v. Buffalo, 121-37. Supreme court renders judgment upon inspection of whole record, and must, therefore, be satisfied of sufficiency of such record: State v. Daniel, 121-574. When no error apparent upon record court will not interfere with judgment upon speculative reasoning as to how jury arrived at verdict: Williams v. Johnson, 94-633. Appeal will be dismissed where transcript fails to show judgment of record from which same was taken: Logan v. Harris, 90-7. Where, but for errors alleged, record would sustain judgment given in court below, same must be sustained by supreme court unless errors are shown: Collins v. Gilbert, 65-135—but otherwise where nothing in record to sustain judgment of court below, Ibid. Where no statement of case accompanies record, judgment will be affirmed: Green v. Dawson, 92-61—unless upon looking into record it is found that there is want of jurisdiction, or apparent from whole case that plaintiff entitled to no relief, Ibid. Where in attachment proceedings it appears from whole record that statute substantially complied with, action will not be dismissed nor attachment dissolved: Best v. British and American Co., 128-351.

Irrespective of reasons of trial court, its judgments will be affirmed where supreme court finds sufficient reasons in record to sustain judgment: Burns v. McFarland, 146-382. Where facts appear only from statement of case, there being no transcript of record, and it does not appear that court held at time and place appointed by law, appeal dismissed: Sneed v. Harris, 107-311. Where on appeal by state from order arresting judgment, transcript of record erroneously showing judgment below to be "new trial" instead of "arrest of judgment," appeal dismissed: State v. Keeter, 82-547. If there is irreconcilable conflict in findings of jury upon issues submitted, or between verdict and judgment, new trial will be awarded: Morrison v. Watson, 95-479. Where it appears from record that no cause of action exists, supreme court will ex mero motu dismiss appeal: Peacock v. Scott, 104-154; Norris v. McLam, 104-159; Crotts v. Winston-Salem, 170-24; or where it appears from the record that the court has no jurisdiction, Moore v. Rankin, 172-599.

Appeal will not be dismissed where there is no statement of case on appeal because there may be error apparent on face of record: McCoy v. Lassiter, 94-131. Where upon inspection of whole record it appears that judgment unwarranted upon facts, the court will, ex mero motu, reverse it: Everett v. Raby, 104-479. Where appellant does not show error affirmatively and record insufficient to determine whether or not error committed by trial judge, judgment affirmed: McCrimmen v. Parish, 116-614. If errors appear in record proper new trial will be granted: McDaniel v. Scurlock, 115-295. Upon objection that judgment erroneous upon record proper, court will construe judgment with reference to pleadings, evidence, and charge, and not with regard to issues alone: Sutton v. Walters, 118-495. Errors not excepted to on trial below will not be considered in supreme court unless apparent upon record: Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413.

Settled rule of supreme court to affirm every judgment not appearing to be erroneous: Thomas v. Alexander, 19-385. Judgment of court below will be affirmed where no case on appeal, and nothing in record to show exception taken: Mott v. Ramsay, 90-29—where no statement of case, assignment of error, nor any error apparent in record, State v. Whitmire, 112-895—where only exception in case on appeal is exception to whole of charge, and it not affirmatively appearing that not more than one proposition of law laid down therein, no error appearing on face of record proper, Hemphill v. Morrison, 112-756.

Insufficiency of verdict to support judgment is a defect on face of record proper: Strauss v. Wilmington, 129-99. Where it appears from record that question of law was reserved by court below, to which verdict subject, and that question was decided in favor of appellee, verdict set aside and nonsuit ordered, but judge fails to state what question was, there must be venire de novo: Brown v. Kyle, 47-442. Where court unable to ascertain from record and statement of trial judge sufficient facts to determine case, new trial will be ordered: Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 132-468. Where record or case clearly discloses ground of appeal, same will not be dismissed for absence of formal exceptions or assignment of error: Allen v. Griffin, 98-120. Supreme court not bound to look to sufficiency of whole record and pronounce judgment upon it where same might be perfected by amendment before judgment necessary: Caroon v. Rogers, 51-240. When pleadings are so confused and vague as to leave it in doubt what parties are contending over, supreme court will not take cognizance of cause on appeal: Woodlief v. Merritt, 96-226. Appeal will be dismissed where it does not appear in record that appeal taken: Mfg. Co. v. Simmons, 97-89. Appeals will be dismissed where no index is sent up in record and printed, and no marginal references prepared: Sigman v. R. R., 135-181.

Where record proper differs from statement of case on appeal, former must control: Holton v. Lee, 173-105; Ladd v. Teague, 126-544; Sutton v. Phillips, 117-230; Threadgill v. Comrs., 116-616; McDaniel v. Scurlock, 115-295; State v. Ramsour, 113-642; State v. Carlton, 107-956; McCanless v. Flinchum, 98-358; McNeill v. Lawton, 97-16; State v. Keefer, 80-472, 82-547; Cansler v. Cobb, 77-30; Farmer v. Willard, 75-401—but where verdict in record ambiguous and case on appeal explanatory thereof, case will govern, Sutton v. Phillips, 117-228—and where matters stated in case in regard to which record silent, they will be accepted as facts, McNeill v. Lawton, 97-16.

Where the parties have tried a case upon a certain theory, the supreme court will consider it in the same way: Webb v. Rosemond, 172-848; Coble v. Barringer, 171-445; Warren v. Susman, 168-457; Brown v. Chemical Co., 165-421; s. c., 162-83.

Where the supreme court is equally divided, the judgment of the lower court will be affirmed: Miller v. Bank, 176-152; Alexander v. Auten's Auto Hire, 175-720; Smith v. Comrs., 163-97. When the complaint alleges a cause of action against one defendant which necessarily excludes the cause alleged against another defendant, the case will be remanded for an election: Huggins v. Waters, 154-443; s. c., 167-197. Where error is found as to some of the issues, the court may order a new trial as to all the issues: Hawk v. Lumber Co., 149-10. The court will not set aside a verdict for excessive damages, unless the judge below has abused his discretion: Harvey v. R. R., 153-567.

When the cause of action is destroyed pending an appeal, the court will not proceed, but will allow the judgment as to costs to stand: Reid v. R. R., 162-355; Wallace v. Wilkesboro, 151-614.

When final judgment rendered in supreme court upon appeal from final judgment in superior court, latter court has power to issue no other process in case than execution for its own costs: Grissett v. Smith, 61-297. Judgment for costs in supreme court is rendered in that court: Johnston v. R. R., 109-504. The supreme court may enter a compromise judgment: Chavis v. Brown, 174-122. A judgment dissolving a restraining order may be entered in the supreme court: Griffin v. R. R., 150-312. On appeal in a mandamus proceeding, the court may cause the writ to be issued instead of remanding the case: Battle v. Rocky Mount, 156-329. Upon confirming a judgment on appeal, the court may direct the clerk of superior court to issue a writ to enforce the judgment: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59. Effect of judgment on appeal in quo warranto proceeding to try title to office: Caldwell v. Wilson, 121-480.

Section merely referred to in Printing Co. v. Herbert, 137-319; Pender v. Mallett, 123-61; Kruger v. Bank, 123-18; Bradsher v. Cheek, 112-839; Allen v. R. R., 106-518; Walker v. Scott, 106-61; Phipps v. Pierce, 94-516; Greenlee v. Sudderth, 65-470; Bible Society v. Hollister, 54-12; Cates v. Whitfield, 53-267; Jones v. McLaurine, 52-393.

1413. No judgment on interlocutory order; opinion certified. When an appeal is taken to the supreme court from any interlocutory judgment, the supreme court shall not enter any judgment reversing, affirming or modifying the judgment, order or decree so appealed from, but shall cause their opinion to be certified to the court below, with instructions to proceed upon such order, judgment or decree, or to reverse or modify the same according to said opinion, and the court below shall enter upon its records the opinion at length, and proceed in the cause according to the instructions.

See section 638 as to cases in which an appeal may be taken.

No appeal should be taken from an interlocutory judgment or order, unless it affects a substantial right of appellant: Rogerson v. Lumber Co., 136-266; Navigation Co. v. Worrell, 133-93; Brown v. Nimocks, 126-808; Benton v. Collins, 121-66; Harding v. Hart, 118-839; Bruce v. Crabtree, 116-528; Brendle v. Reese, 115-552; Sinclair v. R. R., 111-507; Sprague v. Bond, 111-425; Hilliard v. Oran, 106-467; Warren v. Stancill, 117-112; Clement v. Foster, 99-255; Blackwell v. McCaine, 105-460; Arrington v. Arrington, 91-301; Hailey v. Gray, 93-195; Welch v. Kinsland, 93-281; Loftin v. Rouse, 94-508; Sneeden v. Harris, 107-311; Williams v. Walker, 107-334; Railroad v. Warren, 92-620; Leak v. Covington, 87-501; Comrs. v. Cook, 86-18; Hines v. Hines, 84-122; Tel. Co. v. R. R., 83-420; State v. Pollard, 83-597; Martin v. Flippin, 101-452; Lane v. Richardson, 101-181; Merrill v. Merrill, 92-657; Davis v. Ely, 100-283; Leak v. Covington, 95-193; Spencer, ex parte, 95-271. No appeal will be entertained from order appointing commissioners to assess damages until after final judgment in action: Hendrick v. R. R., 98-431; Railroad v. Warren, 92-620; Telegraph Co. v. R. R., 83-420—nor from interlocutory order making additional parties, Lane v. Richardson, 101-181—nor from order made to ascertain controverted facts and without prejudice to parties, Sutton v. Schonwald, 80-20—nor from an order of reference, Shankle v. Whitley, 131-168; Jones v. Wooten, 137-421—nor from order setting aside arbitrator's award and directing other proceedings, Warren v. Stancill, 117-112—nor from order of examination of person in supplementary proceeding, Bruce v. Crabtree, 116-528—nor from order assessing defendant's damages on dissolution of attachment, Brown v. Nimocks, 126-808—nor from order of state court to certify record for removal to federal court, Mayo v. Dockery, 127-1—nor from order remanding condemnation proceedings to clerk, though plea in bar filed by defendant, Railroad v. Newton, 133-132—nor from interlocutory order in an action for damages for timber, which leaves open exceptions on question of damages: Moore v. Lumber Co., 150-261.

If appeal does not lie from an interlocutory order, the court may, in its discretion, hear the case: Barnes v. Fort, 169-431; Best v. Best, 161-513.

In criminal cases, appeal lies only from final judgment, and never from interlocutory ruling: State v. Nash, 97-514; State v. Hazell, 95-623; State v. Polk, 91-652; State v. Saunders, 90-651; State v. Twiggs, 90-685; State v. McDowell, 84-798; State v. Pollard, 83-597; State v. Hinson, 82-540; State v. Keeter, 80-472; State v. Wiseman, 68-203; State v. Jefferson, 66-309; State v. Bailey, 65-426.

Appeals from interlocutory orders, judgments and decrees, carried up for review only on rulings of court upon that specific point: Green v. Griffin, 95-50; Perry v. Tupper, 71-380—but order or judgment appealed from not vacated, though further proceedings under same suspended until validity there determined, Green v. Griffin, 95-50; Combes v. Adams, 150-70; Bonner v. Rodman, 163-1; Pruett v. Power Co., 167-598—and until decision certified to superior court to the end that cause may be proceeded with, Perry v. Tupper, 71-380. See section 655.

Interlocutory judgments, as to which no assignment of errors is set out or appears on record, will not be considered: Shields v. McNeill, 118-590.

When supreme court passes upon interlocutory order and decides no error, court below cannot modify it in any respect: Murrill v. Murrill, 90-120; Dobson v. Simonton, 100-56—its power being confined to incidental matters of detail necessary to carry decree into effect, not inconsistent therewith, Murrill v. Murrill, 90-120. Mandamus may issue to compel the lower court to obey the order of supreme court: Tussey v. Owen, 147-335. Dismissing an appeal from an interlocutory order dissolving an injunction leaves the action still pending: Wallace v. Wilkesboro, 151-614.

If supreme court commits error in ordering superior court to issue certain process, only remedy is by petition to rehear: Perry v. Tupper, 71-380.

See Grissett v. Smith, 61-299, where section quoted at length.

As to premature appeals, see Ward v. Martin, 175-287; Riley v. Sears, 151-187; Richardson v. Express Co., 151-60; Gray v. James, 147-139; State v. Dewey, 139-556; Rogerson v. Lumber Co., 136-266; Navigation Co. v. Worrell, 133-93; Ayers v. Makely, 131-60; Shankle v. Whitley, 131-168; Hughes v. Pritchard, 129-42; Connor v. Dillard, 129-50; Jones v. R. R., 127-188; Best v. Dunn, 126-560; Goode v. Rogers, 126-62; Gammon v. Johnson, 126-64; Railroad v. King, 125-454; Benton v. Collins, 121-66; Harding v. Hart, 118-839; Bennett v. Shelton, 117-103; Vann v. Lawrence, 111-32; Milling Co. v. Finlay, 110-411; Guilford County v. Georgia Co., 109-310; Turner v. Holden, 109-182; Bain v. Bain, 106-241; Hilliard v. Oram, 106-467; Blackwell v. McCaine, 105-460; Bazemore v. Bridgers, 105-191; Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105-74; Wallace v. Douglas, 105-42; Thornton v. Lambeth, 103-86; Martin v. Flippin, 101-452; Lane v. Richardson, 101-181; Hendrick v. R. R., 98-431; University v. State National Bank, 92-651; Jones v. Call, 89-188.

While an appeal may be dismissed as premature, the court may, in its discretion, pass upon the question involved: Mfg. Co. v. Spruill, 169-618; Bradshaw v. Bank, 172-632.

1414. Power of amendment and to require further testimony. The supreme court has power to amend any process, pleading or proceeding either in form or substance for the purpose of furthering justice, on such terms as shall be deemed just at any time before final judgment; and to amend by making proper parties to any case where the court may deem it necessary and proper for the purposes of justice and on such terms as the court may prescribe. And whenever it appears necessary for the purpose of justice, the court may allow and direct the taking of further testimony in any case which may be pending in the court, under such rules as may be prescribed, or may remand the case to the intent that amendments may be made, further testimony taken or other proceedings had in the court below.

Rev., s. 1545; Code, s. 965; R. C., c. 33, s. 17; 1777, c. 115, s. 75; 1785, c. 233; 1792, c. 360; 1831, c. 46.

See annotations under section 547.

POWER TO AMEND. Supreme court may amend only to same extent and in such cases as could superior court: Robeson v. Hodges, 105-50. Power extends to appointment of guardian ad litem: Perry v. Perry, 175-141; s. c., 172-62. Where objection for defect of parties made below and overruled, supreme court will not exercise discretionary power of amendment to destroy exception duly taken below: West v. R. R., 140-620; Grant v. Rogers, 94-755; see Justices v. Simmons, 48-188. Supreme court will not allow amendment where it would perhaps present case substantially different from one tried below, and raise question of law not presented in present appeal: Bonner v. Stotesbury, 139-3. Supreme court will not grant order to make parties unless it appears that they are in some way necessary to complete determination of action: Lee v. Eure, 92-283. Where action on administration bond brought in name of administrator de bonis non, instead of state on his relation, amendment making proper plaintiff will be allowed in supreme court, without terms: Grant v. Rogers, 94-755—but such amendment will not be allowed when it would destroy just legal ground for appeal which existed when same taken, Ibid. When assignment of judgment made during pendency of appeal, real purchaser and not nominal assignee should be substituted as plaintiff: Field v. Wheeler, 120-264. Amendment of process by insertion of words “State on relation of” may be allowed in supreme court: Porte v. Boone, 114-176. While amendment substituting parties can be allowed in supreme court, it will not be permitted when it will put opposite party at disadvantage: Hodge v. R. R., 108-24; Kent v. Bottoms, 56-69.

Supreme court has power to allow pleadings to be amended in that court: Deligny v. Furniture Co., 170-189; Kenney v. R. R., 165-99; Allen v. Sallinger, 108-160; Fleming v. Murph, 59-61. Amendment to answer by striking out $2,337 and substituting $3,500 therefor asked by petitioner under section cannot be allowed: Mfg. Co. v. Gray, 126-108. Supreme court may permit pleadings to be filed in that court nunc pro tunc: McLean v. Breece, 113-393. The court may allow amendment to pleadings to conform to proof: Andrews v. Grimes, 148-437; Leatherwood v. Fulbright, 109-683. Where agreed in court below the complaint may be amended so as to supply necessary averments, but it is not done, supreme court will allow amendment: Freight Discrimination Cases, 95-434.

Failure of receivers, suing as such, to produce certified copy of order of dissolution of bank and of their appointment as receivers, such allegation not being admitted in answer, is defect of proof which cannot be supplied, after appeal, by amendment under this section: Person v. Leary, 126-504. While it may be that supreme court has power to direct or allow amendment to record below of cause while appeal pending, it is clear that it has no such power after final judgment rendered therein: Walton v. McKesson, 101-428. Amendment will be refused where effect of same would be to reverse judgment below, which was rightly given, and to enter judgment here for different party plaintiff: Justices v. Simmons, 48-188.

CASE REMANDED TO SUPERIOR COURT FOR FURTHER ACTION. Where plaintiff becomes insane pending appeal by defendant from judgment awarding plaintiff custody of her minor children, case will be remanded to superior court for proper action: Jones v. Cotten, 108-457. Supreme court may remand case so that amendments may be made in court below: Robeson v. Hodges, 105-50. In certain cases supreme court may direct further testimony to be taken: Gatewood v. Burns, 99-357—or direct issue of fact to be framed and remanded for trial by jury, Ibid. Supreme court has power in proper cases to remand causes to the end that proper amendments may be made or further proceedings taken in court below: Holley v. Holley, 96-229; Vaughan v. Davenport, 159-369; Lumber Co. v. Blue, 170-1.

Where the case below is referred to the judge, and he fails to find the facts sufficiently to allow his conclusions of law to be reviewed, it will be remanded for further findings: Straus v. Beardsley, 79-59; Knott v. Taylor, 96-553. Where the jury leaves undetermined the question of payment, the case may be remanded to have such issue tried: Barnes v. Brown, 69-439.

Where judgment below rendered against three defendants, only one of whom appealed, supreme court, upon affirming judgment, will remand case so that judgment may be enforced against all of defendants: Baxter v. Wilson, 95-137. When demurrer filed for want of proper party, from facts presented by pleadings, and matter left in doubt, court must remand case: Bunting v. Foy, 66-193. Where no facts found and pleadings and affidavits conflicting, case will be remanded that facts may be found by court below, or by jury upon proper issues: Kitchen v. Troy, 72-50. Where judge below does not find facts upon which he overruled defendant's exceptions, court will remand case that such facts may be found: Froneberger v. Lewis, 70-456.

Where transcript fails to set out facts necessary for determination of case on appeal, it will be remanded to the end that same may be supplied or found by court below: Bank v. Blossom, 89-341. When it appears that other parties necessary to final determination of action, court will remand cause that such interested parties may be brought in: Kornegay v. Morris, 123-128; Meadows v. Marsh, 123-189; Brooks v. Headen, 80-11. Where demurrer overruled in court below, with leave to defendant to answer over and to plaintiff to amend complaint, cause will be remanded for further proceedings in court below: Morris v. Gentry, 89-248. Cause will not be remanded for purpose of making case substantially different from one tried in court below: Whitehead v. Spivey, 103-66. Upon allegation of inadvertence in including supersedeas bond in appeal bond, issue therein may be sent down to superior court to be tried by jury: Burnett v. Nicholson, 86-728. Where issues submitted do not cover the whole merits of case, supreme court will retain cause and frame other issues to be passed upon by jury in court below: Allen v. Baker, 86-92. Where answer insufficient to defeat plaintiff's recovery, and court below held same to be sufficient, case will be remanded to give defendant opportunity to move for such amendment as he may be advised: Foy v. Haughton, 83-467. Where no judgment entered in court below, record will be remanded so that judgment may be entered: Baum v. Shooting Club, 94-217. Where, in superior court, additional findings necessary in order to do justice between parties, case may be sent back for trial of additional issues: McDonald v. Carson, 95-377. Where judgment below reversed, cause in certain cases should be remanded to be proceeded with as if no erroneous ruling had been made: Scott v. Queen, 95-340.

When the supreme court will grant a new trial for newly discovered evidence, and what the application must show: Alexander v. Cedar Works, 177-536; Gainey v. Godwin, 171-754; Padgett v. McCoy, 167-508; Steeley v. Lumber Co., 165-27; Carson v. Ins. Co., 165-135; Wheeler v. Cole, 164-378; Warwick v. Taylor, 163-68; Johnson v. R. R., 163-431; Gates County v. Hill, 158-584; Gay v. Mitchell, 146-509. Not allowed in criminal case: State v. Ice Co., 166-403, and cases cited.

For cases under old practice, see Hart v. Roper, 41-349; Mallory v. Mallory, 45-80; Williams v. Chambers, 45-75.

Section merely referred to in Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-33; Wilkinson v. Brinn, 124-725; Monger v. Kelly, 115-295; Boyer v. Teague, 106-573; Wilson v. Pearson, 102-290; Grant v. Edwards, 88-250.

1415. Proof of exhibits. Exhibits or other documents relative to cases pending in the supreme court may be proved by the parol testimony of witnesses to be examined in the court in the same manner and under the same rules as such exhibits or documents may be proved in the superior court, and suitors in the court may have subpoenas to enforce the attendance of witnesses, who shall be liable to the same penalties and actions for nonattendance, and be entitled to the same pay for traveling, ferriage and attendance as witnesses in the superior court: Provided, that witnesses attending the supreme court shall be taxed in the bill of costs and paid by the party on whose behalf they may be summoned.

Though witnesses in some instances may be summoned to supreme court, it has not been the practice: In re Deaton, 105-63.

1416. Opinions and judgments to be in writing. The justices shall deliver their opinions and judgments in writing, and the clerk shall make no entry upon the records of the court that any cause pending therein is decided, nor give to any person a certificate of such decision, nor issue execution in such suit, until after the opinion of the court shall have been delivered publicly in open court, and a written copy of the same opinion shall have been delivered to the clerk; which shall afterwards be filed among the records of the court and published in the reports of the decisions made by the court: Provided, that the justices shall not be required to write their opinions in full except in cases in which they deem it necessary.

Rev., s. 1548; Code, s. 964; 1893, c. 379, s. 5; R. C., c. 33, s. 16; 1810, c. 785.

As to what is meant by "opinions," see State v. Lane, 26-435.

Filing of written opinion discretionary with supreme court: Parker v. R. R., 133-335—the legislature not having the power to compel it, State v. Council, 129-515, and cases cited.

Justices not required to write their opinions in full: State v. Council, 129-511—nor to state the reasons for opinion, but can simply announce decision, Bradsher v. Cheek, 112-838.

No provision of law requiring clerk supreme court to certify to court below opinion as distinguished from decision of case: State v. Ketchey, 71-147.

Rev., s. 1549; Code, s. 96S; 1887, c. 41; R. C., c. 33, s. 21; 1820, c. 1070; 1825, c. 1282; 1842, c. 1, s. 3.

DECISIONS CERTIFIED TO SUPERIOR COURT. Opinions should be certified down on first Monday in each month, provided they have been on file for ten days: State v. Council, 129-514. Certificate from supreme court announcing no error in judgment appealed from, precludes court below from all right or power to modify that judgment in any respect: Chavis v. Brown, 174-122; Merrimon v. Lyman, 126-541; Banking Co. v. Morehead, 126-279; Dobson v. Simonton, 100-56; Murrill v. Murrill, 99-120—or to take any action in case, McCall v. Webb, 126-760. Supreme court having certified decision to court below for judgment there, has no further jurisdiction of case: James v. R. R., 123-299; Davis v. R. R., 176-186; R. R. v. Horton, 176-115.

Judgment for costs in supreme court is rendered in that court: Johnston v. R. R., 109-504—and superior court has no jurisdiction in matter, Ibid.; Midgett v. Vann, 158-128.

This section and section 1419 are in pari materia and must be construed together: Emery v. R. R., 102-234. Section requires decisions of supreme court to be certified to lower courts during the term, thus placing them beyond control of court in term time: Ibid. No provision of law requiring clerk of supreme court to certify to court below opinion as distinguished from decision of case: State v. Ketchy, 71-147. The court, in its judgment, may direct an opinion certified down in advance of statutory time: State v. Herndon, 107-934.

As to costs on appeal, see sections 1256, 1257.

DUTY OF SUPERIOR COURT UPON CERTIFICATE FILED. It is the duty of the judge of superior court to follow the decision of supreme court: Penny v. R. R., 161-523. Practice in entering judgment on certificate from supreme court discussed in Johnston v. R. R., 109-504. When final judgment rendered in supreme court upon appeal from final judgment in superior court, latter court has power to issue no other process than execution for its own costs: Grissett v. Smith, 61-297.

Where on appeal in capital case there is no statement of case, and no error appears in record, it will be certified to court below that there was no error, so that it may proceed to judgment: State v. Leitch, 82-539; State v. Murray, 80-364; State v. Edney, 80-360.

Where supreme court decides appeal in favor of state it is duty of judge below to pass sentence at next term of court: State v. McIntire, 46-1.

Where a new trial or venire de novo awarded by supreme court, case goes back for new trial on whole merits, and court below should proceed as though no former trial had taken place: McMillan v. Baker, 92-110; Beville v. Cox, 109-265.

Decision of court in criminal cases not a judgment or sentence, but simply an order to court below to "proceed to judgment and sentence agreeable to the decision and the laws of the state": State v. Applewhite, 75-229; State v. Jones, 69-16. Where case heard in supreme court and certified to court below to proceed with according to law, no notice necessary of motion for judgment in conformity with certificate: Williams v. Whiting, 94-481. See section 4656.

1418. Appeals dismissed. Suits and appeals pending in the supreme court may be dismissed on failure to prosecute the same, after a rule obtained for that purpose and served on the plaintiff or appellant, his agent or attorney, at least thirty days before the term next ensuing that of entering the rule; when, if the party shall fail to prosecute his suit or appeal, the court shall, at the election of the adverse party, dismiss the suit or appeal at the costs of the plaintiff or appellant, or proceed to hear and determine it.

Rev., s. 1543; Code, s. 967; R. C., c. 33, s. 20; 1848, c. 28; Supm. Ct. Rules, 15, et seq.

FAILURE TO DOCKET. Appeal is not properly pending in supreme court until same has been docketed: Avery v. Pritchard, 93-267; Cross v. Williams, 91-497—and this provides only for dismissing appeal regularly brought up and docketed, Cross v. Williams, 91-497. Appeal dismissed for failure to docket transcript: Cox v. Lumber Co., 177-227; McNeill v. R. R., 173-729; State v. Trull, 169-363; Land Co. v. McKay, 168-83; Transportation Co. v. Lumber Co., 168-60; Hawkins v. Tel. Co., 166-213. Where both parties appeal: Caudle v. Morris, 158-594. Not dismissed if delay excusable: Walker v. Scott, 104-481. Motions to dismiss appeals will be allowed, upon a failure to comply with the rules of court, without discussing the merits of the case: Davis v. Wall, 142-450. Special attention called to this ruling in Marable v. R. R., 142-557.

DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO PROSECUTE. It is the duty of appellant to prosecute his appeal according to rules of court, which are not merely directory: Wiseman v. Comrs., 104-330. Appeal not prosecuted for two terms of supreme court will be dismissed when reached in regular order, unless good cause be shown for a continuance: Brantly v. Jordan, 92-291; Wiseman v. Comrs., 104-330. Where appellant, pending appeal from his conviction of crime, breaks jail, and is beyond process of court at time case called, appeal will be dismissed: State v. Keebler, 145-560; State v. DeVane, 166-281.

DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO PERFECT APPEAL. Appeal will be dismissed, on motion of appellee, where requirements of statute for perfecting it are not complied with: Walsh v. Burleson, 154-174; Hutchison v. Rumpfelt, 82-425; Sever v. McLaughlin, 82-332; Walton v. Pearson, 82-464—except where record shows written agreement waiving lapse of time, or where alleged agreement is oral and disputed and such waiver can be shown by affidavit of appellee, rejecting that of appellant, Ibid. Compliance with the statutory regulations as to appeals is a condition precedent, without which (unless waived) the right to appeal does not become potential; hence it is no defense to say that negligence was the negligence of counsel and not negligence of the party: Cozart v. Assurance Co., 142-522. Appeal will not be dismissed upon ground that no notice of appeal given, where record shows that appeal bond filed and approved by court: Capehart v. Biggs, 90-373. Appeal will be dismissed for failure of appellant to file printed record or brief in time prescribed, unless, for good cause shown, time extended: Bradshaw v. Stansberry, 164-356; Stroud v. Tel. Co., 133-253; Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-25. Failure to comply with requirements as to case on appeal: Land Co. v. McKay, 168-83; Transportation Co. v. Lumber Co., 168-60; Hawkins v. Tel. Co., 166-213; Mirror Co. v. Casualty Co., 157-28. See annotations under section 1421.

If appeal bond is not filed within ten days after rendition of judgment, unless waived by agreement of counsel of record, appeal will be dismissed: Lunsford v. Alexander, 162-528; State v. Hamby, 126-1069; Harmon v. Herndon, 99-477; Boyden v. Williams, 92-546; Applewhite v. Forte, 85-596; Smith v. Reeves, 85-594; Brown v. Williams, 83-684; Sever v. McLaughlin, 82-332; State v. Walker, 82-696; State v. Donaldson, 83-683; State v. Spurtin, 80-362; State v. Patrick, 72-217; Taylor v. Brower, 78-8; Wade v. Newbern, 72-498; State v. Hawkins, 72-180; Bryan v. Hubbs, 69-423; see, also, Walker v. Scott, 104-481; Worthy v. Brady, 91-265; Chamblee v. Baker, 95-98; Turrentine v. R. R., 92-642—but not so if filed before the transcript is sent up, or later, where good excuse shown for delay, Jones v. Asheville, 114-620; Graves v. Hines, 106-323; Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75; Harrison v. Hoff, 102-25; Jones v. Wilson, 103-13. Where case remanded that a lost record might be supplied by court below, but, though several terms of such court have passed, nothing has been done and no excuse offered by appellant, appeal will be dismissed: Cox v. Jones, 113-276. Where appeal reinstated, failure to print within time prescribed will not be deemed sufficient ground for dismissal: Briggs v. Jervis, 98-454. Sickness of attorney is sufficient excuse for want of diligence in perfecting appeal: Mott v. Ramsay, 90-372. Appeal will be dismissed where it appears that it is frivolous and only for delay: Barnes v. Saleeby, 177-256; Blount v. Jones, 175-708; Ludwick v. Mining Co., 171-60.

PROCEDURE BY APPELLEE TO DISMISS. Where appellant has failed to prosecute, appellee can have transcript sent up, or a certificate of clerk that appeal was taken, and case docketed and dismissed: McLean v. McDonald, 175-418; Cross v. Williams, 91-496; Avery v. Pritchard, 93-266. The motion to dismiss must be made in writing: Brafford v. Reed, 124-346. The privilege to have case dismissed belongs to the appellee, not appellant: Davenport v. Grissom, 113-38. Motion to dismiss because appellant has failed to perfect appeal must be made at or before entering upon the hearing: Hutchison v. Rumpfelt, 82-425; Chastain v. Chastain, 87-283—and comes too late after argument, Yancey v. Greenlee, 90-317.

Notice of motion to dismiss need not be given when made on ground that no appeal bond has been filed: Jones v. Asheville, 114-620; Harmon v. Herndon, 99-477; Bowen v. Fox, 98-396—but where motion made on ground that appeal bond is irregular, or sureties have failed to justify, then notice of motion to dismiss must be given, McGee v. Fox, 107-766; Lackey v. Pearson, 101-651; Allison v. Whittier, 101-490; Harmon v. Herndon, 99-477; Bowen v. Fox, 98-396; Jones v. Slaughter, 96-541. No notice required when motion made to dismiss for failure to comply with rules as to transmission, docketing and printing record: Johnston v. Whitehead, 109-207.

Upon motion to dismiss for failure to docket appeal, appellant should then render his excuses, for he cannot take advantage of them on motion to reinstate: Mortgage Co. v. Long, 116-77. Though a cause is docketed too late to be heard on the call of district to which it belongs, this court will enter a motion to dismiss after due notice to appellant, that trial of cause below may not be delayed by an invalid appeal: Dunn v. Marks, 141-232. Where appellee fails to move to dismiss when appellant has not docketed the transcript within time required, he cannot so move when appellant has docketed the transcript before ending of the term and before appellee makes motion: Laney v. Mackey, 144-630; Packing Co. v. Williams, 122-406; Craddock v. Barnes, 140-427; Curtis v. R. R., 137-308; Benedict v. Jones, 131-474, and cases cited. Motion by appellee to docket and dismiss, made before docketing transcript, though not at first opportunity, will be allowed, Worth v. Wilmington, 131-532. Motion to dismiss denied when appellant has abandoned his appeal: Mirror Co. v. Casualty Co., 157-28.

The appellee's motion to dismiss the appeal because (1) the exceptions are not "briefly and clearly stated and numbered" as required by the statute, sec. 643, and rule 27 of this court; (2) the exceptions relied on are not grouped and numbered immediately after the end of the case on appeal as required by rules 19 (2) and 21; (3) the index is not placed at the front of the record as required by rule 19 (3), is allowed under rule 20, in the expectation that appellants hereafter will conform to these requirements: Davis v. Wall, 142-450.

For rules of court governing appeals, see 174-828, 164-540.

REINSTATEMENT OF DISMISSED APPEAL. Motion to reinstate dismissed appeal may be heard not later than next term: Wiseman v. Comrs., 104-330. Motion to reinstate appeal dismissed for failure to print must be made at the same term, and will only then be allowed for good cause shown: Pipkin v. Green, 112-355. Motion to reinstate must show no laches on the part of appellant: Ibid.; State v. Goodlake, 166-434. Motion to reinstate will not be allowed on an excuse which should have been sent up in answer to the motion to dismiss: Paine v. Cureton, 114-606. Motion to reinstate on appellant's affidavit that his attorney was sick, it not appearing that appellant made any inquiries of his attorney regarding appeal, or sought to get other counsel to prosecute, was refused: Martin v. Chambers, 116-673—allowed, however, when appellant shows no laches, Mott v. Ramsay, 90-372. It is not duty of counsel to file appeal bond: Churchill v. Life Ins. Co., 92-485; Winborn v. Byrd, 92-7—nor his duty to have record printed, Griffin v. Nelson, 106-238—and where appellant does not show due diligence as to both he cannot have his appeal reinstated, Ibid.; Bowen v. Fox, 99-127.

Excuses for failure to docket must be rendered in reply to motion to dismiss and not upon motion to reinstate appeal: Mortgage Co. v. Long, 116-77. Failure of counsel to answer motion to dismiss, regularly made, cannot be excused because he did not think motion would be considered at once: Parker v. R. R., 121-501. That clerk failed to send up transcript in time for docketing will not excuse laches of appellant in failing to have transcript sent up within time required: Fain v. R. R., 130-29. An offer to comply with statute by filing bond, etc., is too late after appeal dismissed: State v. Martin, 172-977.

1419. Petition to rehear; execution restrained. A petition to rehear may be filed during the vacation succeeding the term of the court at which the judgment was rendered, or within twenty days after the commencement of the succeeding term, and upon the filing of such petition the chief justice, or either of the associate justices, may, upon such terms as he sees fit, make an order restraining the issuing of an execution, or the collection and payment of the same, until the next term of said court, or until the petition to rehear shall have been determined.

Proper and only way to review decision of supreme court is by petition to rehear; and not by a second appeal: Holland v. R. R., 143-437; Holley v. Smith, 132-36; Jones v. R. R., 131-133; Setzer v. Setzer, 129-296; Kramer v. R. R., 128-269; Hendon v. R. R., 127-110; Green v. Green, 143-406; Best v. Mortgage Co., 131-70; State Hospital v. Fountain, 129-90; Perry v. R. R., 129-334; Wright v. R. R., 128-77; Shoaf v. Frost, 127-307; Pretzfelder v. Ins. Co., 123-164; Gerock v. Tel. Co., 147-1; Britt v. R. R., 148-37; Hunter v. Nelson, 151-184; Carson v. Ins. Co., 165-135; Latham v. Fields, 166-215.

Second rehearing is permissible only when in first rehearing court has reversed or materially changed opinion sought to be reheard: Nelson v. Hunter, 145-334. Unnecessary to consider assignment of error in petition to rehear, "for that, granting correctness of every legal proposition laid down by court and that findings of fact supported by record, yet conclusion erroneous": Bunn v. Braswell, 142-113. Where new trial without passing upon certain exceptions and upon rehearing of exceptions upon which new trial granted is reversed, supreme court, personnel of same having been partially changed, orders a reargument of exceptions not passed upon, without petition for same being filed: Fleming v. R. R., 132-714. Motion for new trial upon newly discovered evidence is not properly before court upon petition to rehear: Flemming v. Borden, 127-214; see, also, Smith v. Moore, 150-158. Word "filed," as used in section, defined: Bird v. Gilliam, 123-63. On petition to rehear case formerly decided, supreme court will not consider matters not contained in transcript of record: Presnell v. Garrison, 122-595. Petition to rehear must be upon record as it was at former hearing: Ibid. Rehearings granted only in exceptional cases, and, when granted, every presumption is in favor of judgment already rendered: Weisel v. Cobb, 122-67. Section cannot be allowed to give losing party absolute right to rehearing, and to have his petition considered by whole court contrary to its rule governing practice in such cases: Herndon v. Ins. Co., 111-384, wherein section generally discussed. This section and section 1417 are in pari materia, and must be construed together: Emery v. R. R., 102-234. Semble, that proper way to obtain relief against judgment of supreme court dismissing appeal on point of law is by petition to rehear, and not motion to reinstate: Bowen v. Fox, 99-127. Court will not, on petition to rehear, reexamine same authorities and same course of reasoning in order to reverse judgment: Dupree v. Ins. Co., 93-237. Where grounds of error assigned in petition to rehear substantially same as those argued and passed upon in former hearing, court will not disturb judgment: Ruffin v. Harrison, 91-76—nor in such case will order restraining collection of execution upon judgment be granted, Ibid.

Applications for rehearing are based only upon alleged errors in law and newly discovered evidence: Wilson v. Lineberger, 90-180—therefore such proceedings not proper mode of asserting claim to uncollected assets not included in former account of party to be charged, Ibid.

Supreme court has no power to entertain petition to rehear criminal actions: State v. Council, 129-511; State v. Jones, 69-16; State v. Starnes, 94-981; State v. Lilliston, 141-887; State v. Ice Co., 166-403.

Rehearing will not be granted after time limited: Strickland v. Draughan, 91-103; Young v. Greenlee, 85-593. When rehearing has been ordered and a manifest error is made to appear, court will correct it: Hodgin v. Bank, 125-503. The burden of showing error is on the petitioner: Webb v. Hicks, 125-201; Weisel v. Cobb, 122-67. Where first decision reversed on rehearing, purchasers of land, before time for rehearing expired, not protected: Bird v. Gilliam, 125-76. Effect of reversal upon a new trial already had under first decision, see Hodgin v. Bank, 125-503. Point heard, considered and decided on former hearing will not be considered on rehearing where no new authority presented and nothing overlooked: Moore v. Beaman, 112-558. No rehearing granted on summary motion to modify final judgment of supreme court: Ruffin v. Harrison, 91-398. Case where rehearing granted, before opinion certified down, without formal petition: Robinson v. McDowell, 125-343. Court will not consider point not certified as erroneous by counsel making certificate: Kerr v. Hicks, 133-175. Case where former opinion modified, but petition dismissed: Coble v. Huffines, 133-426.

Where a decision has been certified down, the court has no jurisdiction to recall it and change the order; the remedy is by petition to rehear: Davis v. R. R., 176-186.

GROUND FOR REHEARING. In order to obtain a rehearing it must appear either that decision handed down was clearly erroneous: School Directors v. Asheville, 137-503; In re Drury, 136-81; Capehart v. Burrus, 124-48; Hudson v. Jordan, 110-250; Emry v. R. R., 105-45; Weathersbee v. Farrar, 98-255; Barcroft v. Roberts, 92-249; Wilson v. Lineberger, 90-180; University v. Harrison, 93-84; Devereux v. Devereux, 81-12; Perry v. Tupper, 71-380—that some fact found and relied upon by court was incorrectly found, Webb v. Hicks, 125-200; Mullen v. Canal Co., 115-15—that decision was hastily made, Mullen v. Canal Co., 115-15; Hudson v. Jordan, 110-250; Haywood v. Daves, 81-8—that material point of law or fact or a direct authority overlooked, Weston v. Lumber Co., 168-98; Mullen v. Canal Co., 115-15; Tucker v. Tucker, 110-333; Hudson v. Jordan, 110-250; Gay v. Grant, 105-478; Weathersbee v. Farrar, 98-255; Fisher v. Mining Co., 97-95; Dupree v. Ins. Co., 93-237; Lockhart v. Bell, 90-501; Mizell v. Simmons, 82-1; Haywood v. Daves, 81-8; Watson v. Dodd, 72-240—that, in its application of law or facts of case, court failed to consider material fact, Gay v. Grant, 105-478—that new evidence has been discovered, Barcroft v. Roberts, 92-249; Wilson v. Lineberger, 90-180—that court overlooked material admissions in pleadings of prevailing party, Mason v. Pelletier, 80-66—that court did not consider material defenses, Williams v. Williams, 71-216—or that some weighty consideration requires a rehearing, Emry v. R. R., 105-45; Fisher v. Mining Co., 97-95.

No ground for a rehearing that opinion of court was not put in writing: Parker v. R. R., 133-335.

PRACTICE IN OBTAINING REHEARING. Petition must be filed in accordance with requirements of rule 12 (now rules 52 and 53) and this section: Strickland v. Draughan, 91-103; Teeter v. Express Co., 172-620. Petition may be filed at any time before expiration of the first twenty days of the next succeeding term: Bird v. Gilliam, 123-63, 125-79—and may be filed during term at which opinion filed, Emery v. R. R., 102-234. In computing time in which petition must be filed, first day must be excluded: Cook v. Moore, 95-4; Barcroft v. Roberts, 92-249—and last day also when falls on Sunday, Ibid. The time begins to run from the day the opinion is filed in the office of the clerk of supreme court: McGeorge v. Nicola, 173-733. Petition must contain plain, concise statement of facts or law overlooked or erroneously decided, and not mere argument: Weathers v. Borders, 124-610; White v. Jones, 92-388—and must not assign other grounds for alleged error than those presented at first hearing, McDonald v. Carson, 95-377; Weathersbee v. Farrar, 98-255; but see Hodgin v. Bank, 125-503; also cases cited in paragraph above.

As bearing upon section, see Allen v. R. R., 106-515; Morisey v. Swinson, 106-221; Solomon v. Bates, 118-322.

1420. Records to be made. The court may order the clerk to record such parts of the record of cases as it may deem necessary.

Rev., s. 1550; Code, s. 959.

1421. Power to make rules of court. The justices of the supreme court shall prescribe and establish from time to time rules of practice for that court and also for the superior courts. The clerk shall certify to the judges of the superior court the rules of practice for such court, to be entered on the records thereof in each county.

Supreme court has exclusive power to prescribe rules for the conduct of cases therein: Lee v. Baird, 146-361; Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-27; Horton v. Green, 104-400; Herndon v. Ins. Co., 111-384—and is not subject to legislative control, Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-27; Herndon v. Ins. Co., 111-384; State v. Edwards, 110-511; Rencher v. Anderson, 93-105.

Legislature may prescribe rules for the courts inferior to supreme court: Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-27; State v. Edwards, 110-511; Cheek v. Watson, 90-307—and if it fails to provide rules of practice in every particular, supreme court may do so, it having been given this power by statute, Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-27; Barnes v. Easton, 98-116; Cheek v. Watson, 90-302; Johnson v. Sedberry, 65-5.

Rules of supreme court are mandatory, not directory: Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-27; Wiseman v. Comrs., 104-330; Walker v. Scott, 102-487; Edwards v. Henderson, 109-84—and are sole code of practice for supreme court, and are to be observed as strictly as are legislative provisions as to practice in lower courts, Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133-28; Lee v. Baird, 146-361.

Discussion of practice in supreme court and its powers under old and new constitution in Herndon v. Ins. Co., 111-384.

Effect of failure to comply with various rules: Davis v. Wall, 142-450 (rules 19, 20, 27); Marable v. R. R., 142-557 (same); Lee v. Baird, 146-361 (rules 19, 21, 27); Thompson v. R. R., 147-412 (rules 19, 20, 21, 27); Ullery v. Guthrie, 148-417 (rules 19, 20); Smith v. Mfg. Co., 151-260 (rule 19); Pegram v. Hester, 152-765 (rule 27); Jones v. R. R., 153-419 (rule 19); McDowell v. Kent, 153-555 (rule 19); Wheeler v. Cole, 164-378 (rule 27); Porter v. Lumber Co., 164-396 (rule 19); Register v. Power Co., 165-234 (rules 19, 27); Carter v. Reaves, 167-131 (rule 27); Land Co. v. McKay, 168-83 (rule 17); Merritt v. Dick, 169-244 (rule 19); Sloan v. Assurance Soc., 169-257 (rule 19); Estes v. Rash, 170-341 (rule 28); Thresher Co. v. Thomas, 170-680 (rule 27); Rogers v. Jones, 172-156 (rule 27); Phillips v. Junior Order, 175-133 (rule 36); Cox v. Lumber Co., 177-227 (rule 5).

For last rules of practice in supreme court, see 174-828; in superior court, 174-847.

ART. 3. OFFICERS OF COURT

1422. The court may appoint acting attorney-general. If the attorney-general should fail at any term of the supreme court to attend to the business which by law is assigned him, the court may appoint some counsel learned in the law to discharge his duties during the term.

Rev., s. 1551; Code, s. 969; R. C., c. 33, s. 22; 1846, c. 29.

1423. Reporter. The supreme court may employ a reporter of its decisions.

Rev., s. 1552; Code, s. 3363; 1893, c. 379, s. 4; 1897, c. 429.

For compensation, see section 3889.

1424. Clerk. The clerk of the supreme court shall be appointed by the court, and shall hold his office for eight years.

Rev., s. 1553; Const., Art. IV, s. 15.

1425. Clerk's bond and oath of office. Before undertaking his duties, the clerk of the supreme court shall enter into bond with sufficient surety payable to the state of North Carolina, in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties and for the safe keeping of all records committed to his custody, which bond shall be lodged with the secretary of state; and he shall also before said justices, or one of them, take the oaths which are prescribed for clerks of the superior court, and shall keep his office in the city of Raleigh.

For annotations on official bonds generally, see sections 354, 356.

1426. Clerk to report money on hand. The clerk of the supreme court shall, at the beginning of each fall term, produce to the court a statement on oath of all moneys remaining in his hands which have been paid into his office three years or more previous thereto, whether received directly from parties or from his predecessor in office, and is not detained in his hands by special order of the court, specifying therein the name of the person to whom the same is payable, and his address, if known; a copy of which report shall be transmitted to the state treasurer and to the auditor.

Rev., s. 1554; Code, s. 1864; R. C., c. 73; 1823, c. 1186; 1831, c. 3.

1427. Marshal appointed. The supreme court may appoint an officer to be styled Marshal of the Supreme Court, removable at will, who shall attend upon the court during its sessions.

Rev., s. 1555; Code, s. 950; 1873-4, c. 34; 1881, c. 306.

1428. Librarian appointed. The justices of the supreme court have charge of the law library and may, in their discretion, employ a librarian, who shall perform his duties under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the court.

Rev., s. 5084; Code, s. 3606; 1889, c. 482; 1883, c. 100.

SUBCHAPTER II. SUPERIOR COURTS

ART. 4. ORGANIZATION

1429. Number of judges and solicitors. The state shall be divided into twenty superior court judicial districts, for each of which a judge and a solicitor shall be chosen in the manner now prescribed by law.

1913, cc. 9, 63; Const., Art. 4, s. 10.

The appointment of a judge before the district is created is invalid: State v. Shuford, 128-588. See, also, Cook v. Meares, 116-582; Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650.

1430. Election and term of office of judges. The judges of the superior courts shall be elected in like manner as is provided for justices of the supreme court, and shall hold their offices for eight years.

Const., Art. 4, s. 21.

See annotations under Constitution.

1431. Election and term of office of solicitors. A solicitor shall be elected for each judicial district by the qualified voters thereof, as is prescribed for members of the general assembly, who shall hold office for the term of four years, and prosecute on behalf of the state in all criminal actions in the superior courts, and advise the officers of justice in his district.

Const., Art. 4, s. 23.

See annotations under Constitution.

1432. Residence and rotation of judges. Every judge of the superior court shall reside in the district for which he is elected. The judges shall preside in the courts of the different districts successively, but no judge shall hold the courts in the same district oftener than once in four years, but in case of the protracted illness of the judge assigned to preside in any district, or of any other unavoidable accident to him, by reason of which he shall be unable to preside, the governor may require any judge to hold one or more specified terms in said district in lieu of the judge assigned to hold the courts of the said district.

See annotations under Constitution and under sections 1446, 1447, post.

Rev., s. 1497; Code, s. 924; R. C., c. 31, ss. 18, 19; 1777, c. 115; 1806, c. 694, s. 13; 1848, c. 45.

1434. Vacancies filled. All vacancies occurring by death, resignation or otherwise in the offices of justice of the supreme or judge of the superior court of the state shall be filled for the unexpired term at the next general election for members of the general assembly held after such vacancy is created. The persons elected at such election shall be commissioned by the governor immediately after the ascertainment of the result in the manner provided by law, and shall qualify and enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office within ten days after receiving such commission.

Rev., s. 1498; 1899, c. 613; Const., Art. 4, s. 25.

Cases of interest hereunder rendered prior to this enactment: Cloud v. Wilson, 72-155; Hargrove v. Hilliard, 72-169.

1435. When judge may discharge solicitor. When any state solicitor, authorized by election or appointment to act as prosecuting attorney for or in behalf of the state of North Carolina, in any of the courts of said state, shall appear at such court, in term time, drunk or intoxicated, or when it shall be brought to the knowledge of the judge presiding at such court that the solicitor whose duty it is to represent the state at such court is in the town in which such court is being held, drunk or intoxicated, at any time, it shall become the duty of such judge and he is hereby directed to immediately discharge such solicitor from the duties of such court, for the term then being held, and appoint some competent attorney to act as state solicitor for the term. The appointee shall be allowed all the fees and compensation belonging to the solicitor for such term.

Rev., s. 1499; 1901, c. 717.

Power of court to designate some one to act as solicitor in other cases: State v. Wood, 175-809.

ART. 5. JURISDICTION

1436. Original jurisdiction. The superior court has original jurisdiction of all civil actions whereof exclusive original jurisdiction is not given to some other court; and of all criminal actions in which the punishment may exceed a fine of fifty dollars, or imprisonment for thirty days; and of all such affrays as shall be committed within one mile of the place where, and during the time, such court is being held; and of all offenses whereof exclusive original jurisdiction is given to justices of the peace, if some justice of the peace shall not within twelve months after the commission of the offense proceed to take official cognizance thereof.

Rev., s. 1500; Code, s. 922; 1889, c. 504, s. 2; Const., Art. IV, ss. 12, 27; 1879, c. 92, s. 11; 1881, c. 210.

Superior court of Beaufort county has concurrent jurisdiction with recorders' courts in certain cases. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 78.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS. As to meaning of term 'superior court' in interpreting legislation establishing inferior courts, see Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650. Legislature has power to establish, limit and define jurisdiction of superior courts: Bynum v. Powe, 97-374—and to prescribe extent, manner, time and place of exercising their jurisdiction, Ibid.—but it cannot deprive them of any constitutional or inherent powers essential to their existence, Ex parte McCown, 139-95; Mott v. Comrs., 126-866; Scott v. Fishblate, 117-275, and cases cited—nor can it abolish them in whole or in part, Pate v. R. R., 122-877; Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650. While jurisdiction of superior court may be made largely appellate by conferring such part of its original jurisdiction on such inferior courts as legislature may provide, yet its jurisdiction must be retained by original or appellate process: Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650. The legislature can confer upon courts established by it inferior to supreme court exclusive original jurisdiction, or jurisdiction concurrent with superior court, of matters heretofore cognizable in superior court (except appellate jurisdiction over justices of the peace): Pate v. R. R., 122-877; Tate v. Comrs., 122-661—yet it cannot change status of superior court as head of superior court system, Taylor v. Johnson, 171-84; Pate v. R. R., 122-877—nor can it emasculate the superior courts by transferring concurrent jurisdiction of cases, which have originated and are pending in them, down to circuit or other inferior court, Tate v. Comrs., 122-661.

For creation and jurisdiction of recorder's court, see section 1536 et seq.

Constitutional jurisdiction of superior courts, generally, may be stated as intermediate between supreme court and courts of justices of the peace: Mott v. Comrs., 126-866. Code of Civil Procedure does not take away from superior courts jurisdiction heretofore exercised by courts of equity: Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712; Wilson v. Bynum, 92-717. Courts of state have jurisdiction only of criminal offenses committed within its territorial boundaries: State v. Mitchell, 83-674—though if committed in another state, that is matter of defense under plea of not guilty, Ibid. Court must have jurisdiction of subject before it can adjudge anything, and therefore has no jurisdiction over lands in another state: Davenport v. Gannon, 123-362.

Consent of parties cannot give jurisdiction generally where same does not attach under constitution and laws: Cary v. Allegood, 121-54; State v. Miller, 100-543; Planing Mills v. McNinch, 99-517; Hawkins v. Hughes, 87-115; Leach v. R. R., 65-486; Branch v. Houston, 44-87—yet when complaint does not show jurisdiction as to parties and subject-matter, parties can consent to amendment whereby such jurisdiction appears, Planing Mills v. McNinch, 99-517—and it seems that court has power to allow such amendment without consent of defendants, Ibid.

Superior court has exclusive original jurisdiction in all cases when same not given to some other court: State v. Waldrop, 63-508; Wilmington v. Davis, 63-582.

Where total want of jurisdiction apparent upon face of proceedings, court will of its own motion stay, quash or dismiss suit: Short v. Gill, 126-803; State v. Miller, 100-543; Hannah v. R. R., 87-351; McMinn v. Hamilton, 77-300; Israel v. Ivey, 61-551; Branch v. Houston, 44-85—but where such not the case, objection must in apt time be brought forward by plea to jurisdiction, otherwise there is no implied waiver of objection, Short v. Gill, 126-803; McMinn v. Hamilton, 77-300; Branch v. Houston, 44-88.

Where complaint states facts upon which action, either in tort or contract, could be based, courts will so treat action as to sustain jurisdiction: Mitchem v. Pasour, 173-487; White v. Eley, 145-36; Parker v. Express Co., 132-130; Sams v. Price, 119-572; Brittain v. Payne, 118-989; Schulhofer v. R. R., 118-1096; Bowers v. R. R., 107-721; Stokes v. Taylor, 104-394. Though judgments are not treated as contracts for all purposes, they are so treated for purpose of distinguishing therefrom causes of action ex delicto: Moore v. Nowell, 94-265. The legal existence of a court cannot be drawn in question by a plea to the jurisdiction, for such a plea presupposes that the court was regularly called and organized, as jurisdiction means the right to hear and determine causes between litigants, which nothing but a court can do: State v. Hall, 142-710.

JURISDICTION, CIVIL ACTIONS ARISING EX CONTRACTU. Where sum demanded in good faith in action on contract exceeds $200 the superior court has jurisdiction: Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Hornor School v. Wescott, 124-519; Burrell v. Hughes, 116-431; Martin v. Goode, 111-288; McPhail v. Johnson, 109-571; Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174; Kearns v. Heit- man, 104-332; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265; Usry v. Suit, 91-406; Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Morris v. Saunders, 85-138; Brickell v. Bell, 84-82; Dalton v. Webster, 82-279; Walton v. Walton, 80-26; Bryan v. Rousseau, 71-194; Fell v. Porter, 69-140.

It is the amount demanded in good faith, along with the other facts which reasonably tend to support it, that fixes the jurisdiction: R. R. v. Iron Works, 172-188; Petree v. Savage, 171-437; Wooten v. Drug Co., 169-64; Tillery v. Benefit Society, 165-262; Faircloth v. Kenlaw, 165-228; Realty Co. v. Corpening, 147-613; Thompson v. Express Co., 144-389; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452; Shankle v. Ingram, 133-254; Boyd v. Lumber Co., 132-184; Sloan v. R. R., 126-487; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Morris v. O'Briant, 94-72; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140. As to what is the real amount demanded that determines jurisdiction, see Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; Dalton v. Webster, 82-283; Bryan v. Rousseau, 71-194; Froelich v. Express Co., 67-3; Fell v. Porter, 69-142; Hedgecock v. Davis, 64-651.

Though there may be several causes of action, each of which is for less than $200, if aggregate demand is for more than $200, superior court has jurisdiction, when causes can be joined in one action: Boyd v. R. R., 132-184; Sloan v. R. R., 126-487; Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Burrell v. Hughes, 116-430; Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265—but should demand be reduced under $200 by failure of proof or by sustaining a demurrer to any part thereof or to some of the causes of action, jurisdiction would not thereby be ousted, Brown v. Southerland, 142-227; Boyd v. R. R., 132-187; Shankle v. Ingram, 133-259; Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Usry v. Suit, 91-406; Brickell v. Bell, 84-82—except when sum demanded is so palpably in bad faith as to amount to a fraud on jurisdiction: Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140—or where there is misjoinder of parties, Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Mitchell v. Mitchell, 96-14. Where the action was before a justice of the peace for the same cause, and excess over $200 was remitted, plaintiff cannot recover more than $200 in the superior court: Broek v. Scott, 159-513.

Where items of account constitute one transaction, or different accounts have been combined into one statement and assented to, if the amount is over $200, the superior court has jurisdiction: Copland v. Tel. Co., 136-11; Fort v. Penny, 122-230; Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 115-475; Simpson v. Elwood, 114-528; Marks v. Ballance, 113-28; McPhail v. Johnson, 109-571; Kearns v. Heitman, 104-332; Jarrett v. Self, 90-478; Magruder v. Randolph, 77-79; Hawkins v. Long, 74-781; Boyle v. Robbins, 71-130; Caldwell v. Beatty, 69-365; Waldo v. Jolly, 49-173. And such account cannot be split up so as to give a justice of the peace jurisdiction: Jarrett v. Self, 90-478, and other cases cited supra. See, also, annotations under section 1473.

Superior court has no jurisdiction of action ex contractu where sum sought to be recovered is $200 or less: Howard v. Ins. Co., 125-49; Gillam v. Ins. Co., 121-369; Powell v. Allen, 103-46; Burbank v. Comrs., 92-257; Hannah v. R. R., 87-351; McDonald v. Cannon, 82-245; Foster v. Penny, 76-131; Pullen v. Green, 75-217; Latham v. Rollins, 72-454; Templeton v. Summers, 71-269; Froelich v. Express Co., 67-1; Winslow v. Weith, 66-432—no jurisdiction where debt sued on was for over $200 and payments reduced it to less than $200, Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140; Harvey v. Johnson, 133-352—nor where tort is waived and action is on contract for less than $200, Winslow v. Weith, 66-432.

The superior court having jurisdiction in actions whereof justices have not exclusive original jurisdiction, it has jurisdiction of actions on contract for $200 and less where title to land in controversy: Brown v. Southerland, 142-225; Smith v. Garris, 131-36; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-805; Wright v. Harris, 116-460; Boone v. Drake, 109-83; Edwards v. Cowper, 99-421; Forsythe v. Bullock, 74-135; Credle v. Gibbs, 65-192—and the controversy referred to must be between the parties, Davis v. Davis, 83-71; Evans v. Williamson, 79-86. Mere allegation of defendant in action on contract for $200 or less that title is in controversy will not give jurisdiction to superior court: Brown v. Southerland, 142-225; Pasterfield v. Sawyer, 132-258; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-805; Paine v. Cureton, 114-608; Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172. Defendant, by moving to dismiss on pleadings, cannot oust jurisdiction of superior court, provided complaint sets forth facts which present case in which title to real estate is in controversy: Brown v. Southerland, 142-225. See sections 1473, 1477.

In action for forcible entry and detainer, superior court and not justice has jurisdiction: Perry v. Shepherd, 78-83; State v. Yarborough, 70-250; Railroad v. Sharpe, 70-509. Superior court and not justice has jurisdiction of action of vendor against vendee for possession: Johnson v. Hauser, 82-375—and where vendor brought summary ejectment against vendee, claiming that vendee had abandoned his rights and sustained the relation of tenant, justice had no jurisdiction if evidence of abandonment insufficient, Boone v. Drake, 109-79.

In action on penal bond, where penalty of bond does not exceed $200, a justice of the peace and not the superior court has jurisdiction, same being an action ex contractu: Railroad v. Hardware Co., 135-73; Darden v. Blount, 126-251; Joyner v. Roberts, 112-114; Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Bryan v. Rousseau, 71-194; Fell v. Porter, 69-140—likewise in action for the recovery of a penalty given by statute not over $200, Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Henderson v. Davis, 106-88; Doughty v. R. R., 78-22; Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174; Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688—and in action on penal bond greater than $200, plaintiff cannot remit excess to bring it within justice's jurisdiction, Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Morris v. Saunders, 85-140. Where several counterclaims pleaded, the aggregate sum will be taken as jurisdictional amount: Electric Co. v. Williams, 123-51. Judgment by confession without action, founded on contract in superior court for sum not in excess of $200, is void for want of jurisdiction: Slocumb v. Shingle Co., 110-24.

JURISDICTION, CIVIL ACTIONS ARISING EX DELICTO. In all actions ex delicto, where the value of the property in controversy does not exceed $50, the superior court and the court of a justice of the peace have concurrent jurisdiction: Houser v. Bonsal, 149-51; Duckworth v. Mull, 143-461; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452; Thomas v. Cooksey, 130-148; Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400; Malloy v. Fayetteville, 122-480; Johnson v. Williams, 115-33; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142; Harvey v. Hambright, 98-446; Montague v. Mial, 89-137; Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Ashe v. Gray, 90-137—but where value exceeds $50 superior court has exclusive original jurisdiction: McDonald v. Cannon, 82-247; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142; Spencer v. Bell, 109-39; Bowers v. Railroad, 107-722; Asher v. Reizenstein, 105-213; Long v. Fields, 104-221; Edwards v. Cowper, 99-421; Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Barneycastle v. Walker, 92-198; Womble v. Leach, 83-84. See section 1474.

The jurisdiction is determined by the damages claimed or the value of the property involved, being the amount demanded in good faith: Thompson v. Express Co., 144-389; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452; Noville v. Dew, 94-45; see, also, Knight v. Taylor, 131-84; Sloan v. R. R., 126-487, and cases cited on page 490; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Martin v. Goode, 111-288; Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; Morris v. O'Briant, 94-72; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140. The words "property in controversy" mean the value of the injury complained of and involved in the litigation: Duckworth v. Mull, 143-461; Malloy v. Fayetteville, 122-480; but see Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Pippin v. Ellison, 34-61; Smith v. Campbell, 10-590. Mere demand of judgment for amount of damages greater than alleged in complaint will not give superior court jurisdiction: Bowers v. R. R., 107-721.

Where action, brought for tort in justice's court, goes up to superior court on appeal, the jurisdiction being concurrent, that court will take cognizance, however irregular the proceedings in the justice's court may have been: Boing v. R. R., 87-364. In action by landlord against tenant to recover crop or value thereof, it appeared that tenant's contract was to pay him one-fourth of crop or $200, the superior court has jurisdiction, since action not on contract, but for possession of crop: McGehee v. Breedlove, 122-277.

Where complaint alleges two causes of action, one for deceit in sale of horse and other for breach of warranty, in each damages claimed less than $150, and verdict against plaintiff on first, but for him in sum of $65 on second, superior court has jurisdiction: Fields v. Brown, 160-295; Long v. Fields, 104-221; see Harvey v. Hambright, 98-446; Ashe v. Gray, 90-137; Bullinger v. Marshall, 70-520.

JURISDICTION IN EQUITY AND PROBATE MATTERS. The Code of Civil Procedure does not take away from superior courts jurisdiction heretofore exercised by courts of equity: Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712; Wilson v. Bynum, 92-717. Superior court possesses same equitable powers and jurisdiction, when not limited by statute, formerly exercised by courts of equity: Settle v. Settle, 141-553; McLarty v. Urquhart, 153-339.

Justices' courts have no jurisdiction to enforce an equity, such jurisdiction being lodged in the superior court: Weathers v. Borders, 124-612; Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85; Levin v. Gladstein, 142-482; Markham v. McCown, 124-163; Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400; Holden v. Warren, 118-326; Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 116-649, and cases cited: Bell v. Howerton, 111-69; Hunter v. Yarborough, 92-68; Dougherty v. Sprinkle, 88-300; Lutz v. Thompson, 87-337; McAdoo v. Callum, 86-419; Fisher v. Webb, 84-50. See annotations under section 1473.

Superior court has jurisdiction of action on county treasurer's bond: Wright v. Kinney, 123-618—of application for mandamus against treasurer, Ibid.; Robinson v. Howard, 84-151—of action to foreclose mortgage, although debt secured less than $200, Murphy v. McNeill, 82-221—of counterclaim consisting of alleged indebtedness arising out of unadjusted partnership dealings, Love v. Rhyne, 86-576—of creditor's bill, Wadsworth v. Davis, 63-251; Mebane v. Layton, 86-572; Fulp v. Power Co., 157-157—of actions to set up lost bonds and deeds, McCormick v. Jernigan, 110-406—of action by creditor to subject property fraudulently conveyed by debtor to payment of debt, Mebane v. Layton, 86-572; Greer v. Cagle, 84-385—of action for specific performance, Keener v. Den, 73-132—to declare trust in real estate and have title executed to plaintiff, and also to impeach a sale of the land under decree of probate court had in special proceeding then ended, Gulley v. Macy, 81-356—to enjoin sale of land subject to dower, which was estimated by taking into consideration decedent's interest in the realty of an insolvent firm to adjust the rights of widow and firm creditors, Sparger v. Moore, 117-449—to issue writs of mandamus, Tate v. Comrs., 122-661—of action by assignee of dower right to enforce allotment of same, Parton v. Allison, 109-674; see, also, In re Gorham, 177-271; Efland v. Efland, 96-488—of action to charge separate property of married woman with payment of debts, Planing Mills v. McNinch, 99-518; Moore v. Wolfe, 122-711; Patterson v. Gooch, 108-503; Berry v. Henderson, 102-525; Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85; Dougherty v. Sprinkle, 88-300; Neville v. Pope, 95-346; Weathers v. Borders, 124-612; but see Robinson v. Jarrett, 159-165, and cases cited under section 2507.

Superior court has jurisdiction of action on claim for contribution by one defendant against another where amount exceeds $200, except in cases of contribution between persons claiming as devisees under will or as heirs at law of testator to whom undivided land has descended, Wharton v. Wilkerson, 92-407—of action instituted by creditor of lunatic for recovery of debt contracted prior to lunacy, Blake v. Respass, 77-193—of action to foreclose mortgage where mortgaged property allotted to bankrupt by court of bankruptcy as homestead, Brown v. Hoover, 77-40—of action to recover legacy where executor has assented to it or it is sought to be enforced as a trust, Hendrick v. Mayfield, 74-626; McFarland v. McKay, 74-258; Hodge v. Hodge, 72-616; Miller v. Barnes, 65-67—of action by administrator against widow, heirs and all other interested parties, for account and restraining order where ground for equitable relief alleged, Kirkman v. Phipps, 86-428—of action to enforce express trust created by contract and also constructive trust arising ex delicto, Oliver v. Wiley, 75-320—of action by creditor against administrator for breach of contract made by intestate, Shields v. Payne, 80-291—of action to have defendant declared a trustee in which statement of his account as executor demanded as necessary incident to determination of same, Cain v. Nicholson, 77-411—of action to surcharge and falsify an account, Houston v. Dalton, 70-662—of action for cancellation of fraudulent releases obtained from plaintiffs, and account and settlement of estate of decedent, Netherton v. Candler, 78-88.

Superior court has jurisdiction concurrent with probate court of actions to compel administrator to account and other actions of like nature: Pegram v. Armstrong, 82-326; Fisher v. Trust Co., 138-90; Godwin v. Watford, 107-168; Bratton v. Davidson, 79-423; see, also, section 135—of actions to enforce settlement of estates and their subjection to payment of debts, Shober v. Wheeler, 144-403; Shields v. Payne, 80-293; Haywood v. Haywood, 79-42. Advisory jurisdiction in the construction of wills: Reid v. Alexander, 170-303; Heptinstall v. Newsome, 146-503.

Superior court has jurisdiction of a proceeding in the nature of a bill of interpleader, although amount involved is under $200: Timber Co. v. Wells, 171-262. To appoint a trustee to prevent a failure of trust: Gold Mining Co. v. Lumber Co., 170-273. To punish for contempt in violating order of court, by striking out answer and rendering judgment: Lumber Co. v. Cottingham, 168-544.

Superior court has no jurisdiction of original motion to set aside execution and order of sale granted by justice of peace: Hamer v. McCall, 121-197—to direct disposition of money paid into office of clerk by executors, administrators and collectors under sections 148 and 149, Cassidey, ex parte, 95-225—to issue writ of prohibition, Perry v. Shepherd, 78-83—to change the compensation of a trustee as fixed in the deed of trust, Banking Co. v. Leach, 169-706—but may determine reasonableness of expense of attorney for trustee, Ibid.

Quere: Whether superior court has original jurisdiction of proceedings for removal of executors and administrators: Edwards v. Cobb, 95-4.

JURISDICTION IN CRIMINAL ACTIONS. Superior court has exclusive original jurisdiction of all criminal actions whereof original jurisdiction not conferred upon inferior courts: State v. Waldrop, 63-508—and has concurrent jurisdiction of all offenses within justice's jurisdiction where indictment made after six months (now twelve) from date of crime and no justice has taken cognizance of same, State v. Dalton, 101-682; State v. Roberts, 98-756; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Watts, 85-519; State v. Berry, 83-604; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663. See section 1481, jurisdiction of justice; sections 1541, 1567, recorder's court.

Superior court has exclusive original jurisdiction of assaults with deadly weapons: State v. Roseman, 108-766; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Murphy, 101-701; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-774; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults where serious damage done, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults with intent to commit rape, State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults with intent to kill, Ibid.—of offenses punishable within court's discretion, State v. Cherry, 72-124; State v. Perry, 71-523; State v. Heidelberg, 70-496—of misdemeanor punishable by fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty or by imprisonment of not less than ten days, State v. Hampton, 77-526—of misdemeanors where punishment is by a fine exceeding fifty dollars or imprisonment exceeding thirty days, Washington v. Hammond, 76-33—of offense of retailing spirituous liquors without license, State v. Edwards, 113-653; State v. Deaton, 101-728; State v. Cooper, 101-684—of allowing stock to run at large where statute prescribes fine of $10 for each hog permitted to run at large, and warrant charges running at large of ten hogs, State v. Wiseman, 131-795.

Superior court has jurisdiction concurrent with justice's court of affrays committed within one mile of place of the sitting of court: State v. Bowers, 94-910—and has jurisdiction as to both offenders where in an affray a deadly weapon is used, State v. Coppersmith, 88-614.

A deadly weapon is not one that must or may kill, but one which would likely produce death by manner of its use by defendant: State v. Beal, 170-764; State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Norwood, 115-789—is an instrument capable of producing death, State v. Huntley, 91-167—some weapons being deadly per se, others owing to manner of their use become deadly, State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Huntley, 91-617—but a club is ex vi termini a deadly weapon, State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713—as is also an axe, State v. Shields, 110-497—and court will take judicial notice that a pistol is also a deadly weapon, State v. Swann, 65-330.

Whether weapon used is a deadly weapon is a question of law for the court where there is no dispute about the facts concerning its character, size, etc.: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Speaks, 94-865; State v. West, 51-505; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. Collins, 30-407; State v. Craton, 28-164—and in determining the question, the size, nature and manner of use of weapon, and size and strength of assailant, and person upon whom it is used, should be considered, State v. Sinclair, 120-603—as a gun or a penknife, under certain circumstances, may both be deadly weapons, Ibid.—for even a pin is a deadly weapon where it is pushed down the throat of an infant, producing death, State v. Norwood, 115-789. Where the deadly character of the weapon is to be determined by the relative size and condition of the parties and the manner in which it is used, it is proper and necessary to submit the matter to jury with proper instructions: State v. Beal, 170-764; State v. Archbell, 139-537, citing State v. Huntley, 91-621.

As to "serious damage done" it is necessary to describe the damage done, its character and extent, so that court can see from face of indictment that the damage was serious: State v. Battle, 130-657; State v. Stafford, 113-635; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713; State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Moore, 82-659. "Serious damage" must be such physical injury as gives rise to great bodily pain: State v. Nash, 109-824—or must be such as is damaging to the peace, good order, decencies and proprieties of society, State v. Huntley, 91-620.

Affray is the fighting together of two or more persons in a public place to the terror of the citizens: State v. Allen, 11-356; State v. Woody, 47-335; State v. Perry, 50-9—or the using of abusive language in a public place, thereby bringing on a fight, State v. Perry, 50-9; State v. Robbins, 78-431.

Where indictment charges assault with deadly weapon, or other offense of which superior court has jurisdiction, and proof shows simple assault or other lesser degree of offense, jurisdiction of superior court not ousted: State v. Fritz, 133-725; State v. Price, 111-705; State v. Roseman, 108-765; State v. Fesperman, 108-770; State v. Porter, 101-715; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Speller, 91-528; State v. Ray, 89-587; State v. Reaves, 85-553. Charge of simple assault in indictment gives superior court prima facie jurisdiction and puts burden on defendant to show twelve months had not elapsed since commission of offense and before superior court took jurisdiction: State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Fesperman, 108-771; State v. Porter, 101-714; State v. Earnest, 98-743; State v. Moore, 82-662.

The superior court has jurisdiction of an affray in which deadly weapon was used, but if one of the parties did not use a deadly weapon, his conviction before a justice is a valid defense: State v. Lancaster, 169-284; but not if judgment rendered by collusion, State v. Dockery, 171-828.

Bill of indictment is required, on appeal from a justice, in a criminal case over which the justice has no jurisdiction: State v. McAden, 162-575. Bill found by grand jury for assault and battery need not aver that deadly weapon was used: State v. Taylor, 83-801—that any serious damage done, Ibid.—that six (now twelve) months had elapsed before finding of bill, and no justice had taken jurisdiction, Ibid.; State v. Moore, 82-659—or that offense was committed within one mile of court during session thereof, State v. Taylor, 83-601—but where jury by special verdict finds that assault was committed within six (now twelve) months next before finding of indictment, jurisdiction of superior court ousted, State v. Berry, 83-601.

Objection to jurisdiction is matter of defense and may be taken advantage of under plea of not guilty: State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Berry, 83-604; State v. Taylor, 83-601; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663.

1437. Concurrent jurisdiction. In all cases in which by any statute original jurisdiction of criminal actions has been taken from the superior court and vested exclusively in courts of inferior jurisdiction, such exclusive jurisdiction is hereby divested, and jurisdiction of such actions shall be concurrent and exercised by the court first taking cognizance thereof. Appeals shall be, as heretofore, to the superior court from all judgments of such inferior courts: Provided, that this section shall not apply to the counties of Cabarrus, Forsyth, Gaston, Mecklenburg, and Surry.

1438. Jurisdiction in vacation or at term. In all cases where the superior court in vacation has jurisdiction, and all of the parties unite in the proceedings, they may apply for relief to the superior court in vacation, or in term time, at their election.

Rev., s. 1501; Code, c. 10, s. 230; 1871-2, c. 3.

Judge has no power to decide any matter out of courthouse except "chambers business" without consent: Delafield v. Construction Co., 115-22; May v. Ins. Co., 172-795.

Judge has no power to render judgment after expiration of term of court without consent of parties, except in cases where law clothes him with jurisdiction at chambers: Hardin v. Ray, 89-364—has no right to amend a judgment, Hinton v. Ind. Co., 116-22—nor to make order in bastardy prejudicial to mother, State v. Parsons, 115-730.

By consent a judgment or order can be signed in vacation: Hawkins v. Cedar Works, 122-87; Bank v. Gilmer, 118-668; Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-141; Brooks v. Stephens, 100-297; Anthony v. Estes, 99-598; Bynum v. Powe, 97-374; Coates v. Wilkes, 94-174; Branch v. Walker, 92-87; McDowell v. McDowell, 92-227; Shackleford v. Miller, 91-181; Hardin v. Ray, 89-364; Badger v. Daniel, 82-468; Molyneaux v. Huey, 81-106; Harrell v. Peebles, 79-26; Hervey v. Edmunds, 68-243.

Consent order that judgment of confirmation of judicial sale may be entered up in vacation is valid: Crabtree v. Scheelky, 119-56.

By consent a cause can be heard and judgment signed outside of district: Hawkins v. Cedar Works, 122-87.

Trial judge may, by consent, determine a case after adjournment of court, although his riding of district be finished before his decision is rendered: Benbow v. Moore, 114-263. As to hearing causes, making orders and signing judgments outside of county by consent, see Cox v. Boyden, 175-368; s. c., 167-320; Barger v. Alley, 167-362; Hawkins v. Cedar Works, 122-87; Henry v. Hilliard, 120-479; Crabtree v. Scheelky, 119-56; Bank v. Gilmer, 118-668; Brooks v. Stephens, 100-297.

It seems that superior court has power to make amendment to interlocutory order in ancillary proceeding out of term. If appellant does not except at the time he will be taken to have assented to it: Coates v. Wilkes, 94-174.

As to hearing motions out of county during vacation, see Ledbetter v. Pinner, 120-457; Skinner v. Terry, 107-103; McNeill v. Hodges, 99-248; Gatewood v. Leak, 99-363; Bynum v. Powe, 97-374; Coates v. Wilkes, 94-174.

Where judgment rendered in vacation by consent, but not entered of record before judge went out of office, a motion at subsequent term to enter the judgment nunc pro tunc will be allowed: McDowell v. McDowell, 92-227.

Resident judge of district has no other powers within such district in vacation than any other judge of superior court: State v. Ray, 97-510.

Quere: Whether judge can grant judgment taxing county with payment of costs at chambers and in vacation: Ibid.

1439. Appellate jurisdiction. The superior court has appellate jurisdiction of all issues of law or of fact, determined by a clerk of the superior court or a justice of the peace, and of all appeals from inferior courts for error assigned, in matters of law, as provided by law.

Rev., s. 1502; Const., Art. IV, ss. 12, 27; Code, s. 923.

For appeals from clerk to superior court, see sections 633-637—from justice of the peace, see section 1528—from corporation commissioners, see sections 1097-1099—from county commissioners, as to establishment of roads, see sections 3761, 3764—from recorder's court, see sections 1546, 1574.

The superior court has general appellate power over the inferior courts: Taylor v. Johnson, 171-84; State v. Tripp, 168-150; Rhyn v. Lipscombe, 122-650. Jurisdiction of superior court on appeal is entirely derivative, and if lower court had no jurisdiction, superior court has none: McLaurin v. McIntyre, 167-350; State v. Wiseman, 131-797; Ijames v. McClamrock, 92-362; Raisin v. Thomas, 88-150; Boing v. R. R., 87-364; Boyett v. Vaughan, 85-365—and the superior court cannot allow a counterclaim in excess of the jurisdiction of the lower court, Fertilizer Works v. Aiken, 175-398. See, also, annotations under section 660.

In appeals from the clerk, the court has complete jurisdiction: In re Anderson, 132-243, and annotations under section 637.

1440. Cases transferred from former courts. All suits, petitions and other proceedings pending in the late courts of equity, and in the late courts of pleas and quarter sessions, and not determined by final judgment or decree, and all such cases wherein any act was decreed to be done or deed to be executed, and said act was not done or deed executed, may be transferred to the superior court of the county in which they were pending, at the instance of any person interested. And the superior court shall have power to make all orders, judgments and decrees that shall be necessary for finally adjudicating and settling the same.

Rev., s. 1503; Code, s. 944; 1871-2, c. 161; 1873-4, c. 183; 1874-5, c. 81; 1876-7, c. 9.

Section gives any party interested right to have proceedings, lately pending in courts of equity and pleas and quarter sessions, transferred to superior court: Herman v. Watts, 107-646.

Courts which existed under former system continued to act and were recognized as courts until adoption of code of civil procedure: Lash v. Thomas, 86-313.

Action not transferred to docket of superior court according to law is subsisting one until disposed of by judgment: Murrill v. Humphrey, 88-138.

Section merely referred to in Adams v. Howard, 110-18; Runnion v. Ramsay, 93-410; Curtis's Heirs, 82-438.

ART. 6. JUDICIAL DISTRICTS AND TERMS OF COURT

1441. Number of districts. The state shall be divided into twenty superior court judicial districts, numbered first to twentieth, composed of the counties hereafter designated in this chapter.

An act creating a judge without a district is void: State v. Shuford, 128-588.

1442. Eastern and western judicial divisions. The state shall be divided into two judicial divisions, the Eastern and Western Judicial Divisions.

The counties which are now or may hereafter be included in the judicial districts from one to ten, both inclusive, shall constitute the Eastern Division, and the counties which are now or may hereafter be included in the judicial districts from eleven to twenty, both inclusive, shall constitute the Western Division. The judicial districts shall retain their numbers from one up to twenty, and all such other districts as may from time to time be added by the creation of new districts shall be numbered consecutively.

1443. Terms of court. A superior court shall be held by a judge thereof at the courthouse in each county. The twenty judicial districts of the state shall be composed of the counties designated in this section, and the superior courts in the several counties shall be opened and held in each year at the times herein set forth. Each court shall continue in session one week, and be for the trial of criminal and civil cases, except as otherwise provided, unless the business thereof shall be sooner disposed of. Each county shall have the number of regular weeks of superior court as set out in this section.

Where term of court set by statute to begin on a certain Monday, and to last for "one week" or two or three weeks, it embraces Sunday of each week, unless sooner adjourned: Taylor v. Ervin, 119-274—and term expires by limitation at midnight of that day, Ibid.—therefore verdict rendered or entered on Sunday of week set for duration of court, in absence of earlier adjournment, is legal, Ibid.; State v. Penley, 107-808; State v. Ricketts, 74-187.

In special cases ex necessitate, court may sit on Sunday: Taylor v. Ervin, 119-274; State v. McGimsey, 80-377; State v. Howard, 82-626.

Statute declaring certain days public holidays does not prohibit courts from exercising functions on those days: State v. Moore, 104-743.

Where there are several statutes regulating terms of superior courts, they will be interpreted, if possible, so as to secure harmony in their operations and effectuate general purpose of legislation: Wortham v. Basket, 99-70; McNeill v. McDuffie, 119-336. A division of terms into civil and criminal is valid: State v. Lew, 133-664.

The term of court does not extend to the end of the period prescribed, but ends when the business is disposed of and the judge finally leaves the bench: May v. Ins. Co., 172-795; Hardee v. Timberlake, 159-552; Delafield v. Construction Co., 115-21; Hinton v. Ins. Co., 116-22; Boyd v. Teague, 111-246; Branch v. Walker, 92-87; Foley v. Blank, 92-476. The judge cannot hear matters outside of courthouse or out of term, except by consent, unless the same could be heard at chambers: Delafield v. Construction Co., 115-21, and cases cited supra.

Macon—Seventh Monday after the first Monday in March; second Monday before the first Monday in September, and eleventh Monday after the first Monday in September, each to continue for two weeks. The board of commissioners of Macon county may, for good cause, decline to draw a jury for more than one week for any term of court provided for in this chapter.

1913, c. 196.

Clay—Sixth Monday after the first Monday in March, and fourth Monday after the first Monday in September.

1913, c. 196.

1444. Civil cases at criminal terms. At criminal terms of court, all civil process may be returned and pleadings filed which may be returned and filed at civil terms; motions in civil actions may be heard upon due notice, and trials in civil actions may be heard by consent of parties.

Rev., s. 1507; 1901, c. 28; 1913, c. 196, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 23; 1915, cc. 68, 240; 1917, c. 13.

The word "return" defined: Watson v. Mitchell, 108-364.

At the criminal terms of court in the counties of Anson, Bladen and Robeson, all civil process may be returned and pleadings filed which may be returned and filed at civil terms; civil actions which do not require a jury, motions and divorce cases, including jury trials in divorce cases, may be heard, and other civil actions may be heard by consent of parties.

At the criminal terms of court in the counties of Anson, Bladen, Cumberland, Durham, Gaston, and Robeson, judgments by default final and by default and inquiry may be rendered in civil actions without further notice than that contained in the summons.

1913, c. 28; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 23; 1915, cc. 68, 110, 114; 1917, c. 15; 1919, c. 187.

See, also, under terms of court in sixth district, s. 1443.

1445. No criminal business at civil terms. No grand juries shall be drawn for the terms of court designated by law as being for the trial of civil cases exclusively, and the solicitors shall not be required to attend nor be entitled to their certificates for attendance upon any exclusively civil terms, unless there are cases on the civil docket in which they officially appear, and no criminal process shall be returnable to any term designated for the trial of civil actions alone.

Rev., s. 1508; 1901, c. 28, ss. 3, 7; 1913, c. 196.

1446. Rotation of judges. The judges of the superior court shall hold the courts of the several judicial districts successively, according to the following order and system: The judges resident in the Eastern Judicial Division shall hold the courts for the fall term, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, as follows: The judge of the first district shall hold the courts of the fifth district; the judge of the second, the courts of the sixth; the judge of the third, the courts of the seventh; the judge of the fourth, the courts of the eighth; the judge of the fifth, the courts of the ninth; the judge of the sixth, the courts of the tenth; the judge of the seventh, the courts of the first; the judge of the eighth, the courts of the second; the judge of the ninth, the courts of the third; the judge of the tenth, the courts of the fourth; and the judges of the Eastern Judicial Division shall thereafter successively hold the courts of this division, but may make exchange of the courts as now provided by law.

The judges resident in the Western Judicial Division shall hold the courts for the fall term, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, as follows: The judge of the seventeenth district shall hold the courts of the eleventh; the judge of the eighteenth, the courts of the twelfth; the judge of the nineteenth, the courts of the thirteenth; the judge of the twentieth, the courts of the fourteenth; the judge of the eleventh, the courts of the fifteenth; the judge of the twelfth, the courts of the sixteenth; the judge of the thirteenth, the courts of the seventeenth;

the judge of the fourteenth, the courts of the eighteenth; the judge of the fifteenth, the courts of the nineteenth; the judge of the sixteenth, the courts of the twentieth; and the judges resident in the Western Judicial Division shall thereafter successively hold the courts of this division, subject to such exchanges of courts as are now provided by law.

The judge riding any spring circuit shall hold all the courts which fall between January and June, both inclusive, and the judge riding any fall circuit shall hold all the courts which fall between July and December, both inclusive.

Rev., s. 1509; Code, s. 911; 1913. c. 196, ss. 4, 5, 6, 9; 1915, c. 15, ss. 3, 4; 1901, c. 28, ss. 4, 9; R. C., c. 31, s. 20; 1876-7, c. 27; 1879, c. 11; 1885, c. 180; Const., Art. 4, s. 11.

Judge assigned to district is judge thereof for six months, beginning either January or July 1st: Hamilton v. Icard, 112-589—and where restraining order made returnable before such judge at place outside of district, and after courts were over, but before end of term of assignment to district, such judge has jurisdiction to hear application and grant injunction to hearing, Ibid.

Before act of 1879, assigning judges to the different districts, an exchange of circuits, with consent of governor, under act of 1877 was not in violation of section 2, article 4, of the amended constitution: State v. McGimsey, 80-377.

1447. Exchange of courts. By consent of the governor the judges may exchange the courts of a particular county or counties; and the judges resident in the western division and the judges resident in the eastern division may exchange courts or circuits with the consent of the governor; but no judge shall hold all the courts in one district oftener than once every four years. When a judge shall die or resign, his successor shall hold the courts of the district allotted to his predecessor.

Rev., s. 1511; Code, s. 913; R. C., c. 31, s. 20; 1879, c. 11; 1915, c. 15, s. 4; Const., Art. 4, s. 11.

Partial exchange of circuits between two judges of superior court, with approval of governor, is legal: State v. Graham, 75-256. Governor can require judge of superior court to hold term of court in county not within his district: State v. Watson, 75-136—and where governor “authorizes and empowers” judge to hold such court, also stating that same done with his consent, and judge so holds court, the consent and authority of governor is equivalent to a command, Ibid.

The inhibition that “no judge shall be assigned to hold the courts of any district oftener than once in four years” does not apply to the holding by any judge of one or more regular terms by exchange with another judge with the sanction of the governor, nor to the holding of special terms under this section: State v. Turner, 119-841; State v. Lewis, 107-976—does not apply to the several terms of the court in any one county embraced in a “circuit” or “riding,” but only to the series of courts held in the various counties constituting such “circuit” or “riding” as a whole, State v. Speaks, 95-689; State v. Monroe, 80-373—nor does it apply where a new apportionment of districts has been made and judge has been assigned to new district containing counties of district he has just been serving, State v. Bowman, 80-438; State v. McGimsey, 80-383—nor does it prohibit legislature from creating extra term of superior court of county and designating resident judge to hold same, State v. Monroe, 80-373.

Upon the death of one of the judges of the superior court, governor may appoint and require one of the other judges to hold one or more specified terms of court in district assigned to deceased judge: State v. Lewis, 107-967—or may designate a judge to hold a regular term of court when the judge assigned to the district is delayed by another court: State v. Wood, 175-809.

When governor issues commission to judge of superior court authorizing him to hold certain terms of court, and the judge undertakes to discharge such duties, he is a de facto judge as far as the public and third persons are concerned, although the commission issued without authority of law: State v. Lewis, 107-967; State v. Turner, 119-841; State v. Speaks, 95-689—but, after he makes known that he is not a de jure judge, he cannot, as a de facto judge, arrest judgment where verdict already rendered and entered, Ibid.

See annotations under section 1450.

1448. Court adjourned by sheriff when judge not present. If the judge of a superior court shall not be present to hold any term of a court at the time fixed therefor, he may order the sheriff to adjourn the court to any day certain during the term, and on failure to hear from the judge it shall be the duty of the sheriff to adjourn the court from day to day until the fourth day of the term inclusive, unless he shall be sooner informed that the judge from any cause cannot hold the term. If by sunset on the fourth day the judge shall not appear to hold the term, or if the sheriff shall be sooner advised that the judge cannot hold the term, it shall then be the duty of the sheriff to adjourn the court until the next term.

Rev., s. 1510; Code, s. 926; 1901, c. 269; 1887, c. 13.

For term expiring pending trial, see Criminal Procedure, Art. 15, s. 4637.

If judge not present to hold court at time fixed by law, duty of sheriff to adjourn from day to day until sunset on fourth day: State v. McGimsey, 80-377.

Section by operation of law carries all matters over to next term in same plight and condition: State v. Horton, 123-695.

Where record recited that regular term of superior court was opened and held Wednesday instead of Monday of week fixed by statute, presumption is that sheriff duly opened court and adjourned same from day to day as provided by section: State v. Weaver, 104-758.

Where sheriff does not adjourn court on fourth day thereof hereunder, the acts of the term are not avoided by such failure so to do when judge afterwards appeared and held court: Norwood v. Thorp, 64-682; McNeill v. McDuffie, 119-336; State v. Wood, 175-809. Where a newly elected judge has not qualified on the first day of the term, the court may be adjourned from day to day until he qualifies: State v. Harden, 177-580; State v. Davis, 177-573; State v. Simmerson, 177-545.

ART. 7. SPECIAL TERMS OF COURT

1449. Governor may designate judge. The governor has the power to appoint any judge to hold special terms of the superior court in any county.

Rev., s. 1511; Code, s. 913; 1879, c. 11; Const., Art. 4, s. 11.

See annotations under sections 1447, 1450.

1450. Governor may order special terms. Whenever it shall appear to the governor by the certificate of any judge, a majority of the board of county commissioners, or otherwise, that there is such an accumulation of criminal or civil actions in the superior court of any county as to require the holding of a special term for its dispatch, he shall issue an order to the judge of the judicial district in which such county is, or to any other judge of the superior court, requiring him to hold a special term of the superior court for such county, to begin on a certain Monday, not to interfere with any of the regular terms of the courts of his district, and hold for such time as he may designate, unless the business be earlier disposed of.

Power of governor to order a special term is not restricted to instances where there is an accumulation of business: State v. Register, 133-749—nor, when such fact is recited in commission as reason for special term, is the power of the court restricted to trial of indictments found before that term, Ibid. Governor is sole judge of sufficiency of evidence to satisfy him that business of court is such as to require the holding of special term: State v. Lewis, 107-977—and he need not assign the reason for calling it, State v. Watson, 75-139.

Special terms have all the necessary jurisdiction and powers to dispose of such business as may be authorized to be heard under the commission constituting the court: State v. Ketehey, 70-623. Judge specially commissioned to hold court in county outside of his district has same jurisdiction of matters transferred to that court by consent from another county as judge of district comprising both counties: Henry v. Hilliard, 120-479.

Where governor is empowered to require judge to hold court in district other than the one to which he is assigned, upon certain conditions, and governor issued commission, supreme court will assume that emergency had arisen which would sanction issuing of commission, and same will be recognized as valid if governor could have lawfully issued it: State v. Lewis, 107-967.

This section is not unconstitutional: State v. Ketehey, 70-621.

In appointing special terms of court, governor is not bound by certificate of judge, so far as to confine such terms to trial of a particular class of cases: State v. Ketehey, 70-621. When it appears from record that cause was tried at special term of superior court, it is prima facie presumed that order for holding same was duly made and that court duly held: Sparkman v. Daughtry, 35-168. The plea of defendant that special term of court unlawfully called and organized because governor was absent from state when he attempted to order the holding of court was properly overruled: State v. Hall, 142-710. A plea denying the existence of the court is unheard of: Ibid.—and it is not necessary that prisoner be arraigned and plead at preceding regular term to special term at which tried, State v. Ketehey, 70-621.

See, also, annotations under section 1447.

1451. Compensation of judge. The judge appointed to hold a special term of court shall attend and hold such court, and shall be paid as compensation therefor at the rate of one hundred dollars per week by the county in which the special term is held. But any judge who is in a district having fewer than twenty regular weeks of court for the six months shall hold without extra compensation, if directed by the governor, enough extra weeks of court to make out twenty weeks for the six months.

Rev., s. 1512; Code, s. 914; 1913, c. 63; 1901, c. 167; R. C., c. 31, s. 22; 1868-9, c. 273; 1876-7, c. 44; 1909, c. 85, s. 1.

1452. Notice of special terms. Whenever the governor shall call a special term of the superior court for any county, he shall notify the chairman of the board of commissioners of the county of such call, and such chairman shall take immediate steps to cause competent persons to be drawn and summoned as jurors for said term; and also to advertise the term at the courthouse and at one public place in every township of his county, or by publication of at least two weeks in some newspaper published in his county in lieu of such township advertisement.

Rev., s. 1513; Code, s. 915; 1868-9, c. 273.

The notice provided for herein does not constitute part of the record of the term: State v. Lewis, 107-975.

1453. Certificate of attendance. The clerk shall give the judge a certificate of attendance for the number of days occupied by the court, and the judge shall thereupon be entitled to receive from the commissioners of the county in which the court is held the compensation provided by law.

Rev., s. 1514; Code, s. 918; 1901, c. 167; 1868-9, c. 273; 1909, c. 85, s. 1; 1913, c. 63.

1454. Grand juries at special terms. There shall be no grand jury at any special term, unless the same shall be ordered by the governor.

Rev., s. 1515; Code, s. 921; 1868-9, c. 273.

Section referred to in State v. Lew, 133-664.

1455. Jurisdiction. The special terms of the superior court held in pursuance of this chapter shall have all the jurisdiction and powers that regular terms of the superior court have.

Rev., s. 1516; Code, s. 916; 1868-9, c. 273.

Special terms have all necessary jurisdiction and powers to dispose of such business as may be authorized to be heard under the commission constituting the court: State v. Ketehey, 70-623.

Judge specially commissioned to hold court in county outside his district has same jurisdiction of matters transferred to that court, by consent, from another county, as judge of district comprising both counties: Henry v. Hilliard, 120-479.

Superior courts at special term have same power to remove cause to another county that courts have at regular terms: Sparkman v. Daughtry, 35-168. Power to render judgment by default: Reynolds v. Machine Co., 153-342.

1456. Attendance and process at special terms. All persons and witnesses summoned at the regular or special term, and officers or others who may be bound to attend the next regular term of the court, shall attend the special term, under the same rules, forfeitures and penalties as if the term were a regular term. But no process shall be made returnable thereto except subpoenas, or other process for the attendance of witnesses.

Rev., s. 1517; Code, s. 919; R. C., c. 31, s. 23; 1844, c. 10; 1848, c. 29.

Defendant bound over to answer criminal charge at regular term of superior court, which term not held in consequence of absence of judge, required by section to attend at intervening special term subsequently appointed and held: State v. Horton, 123-695. Word "return" defined: Watson v. Mitchell, 108-364. Section referred to in Reynolds v. Machine Co., 153-342.

1457. Subpoenas returnable. Subpoenas may issue returnable on any day of any special term.

Rev., s. 1518; Code, s. 920; 1868-9, c. 273.

ART. 8. SPECIAL REGULATIONS

1458. Reading the minutes. Every morning during the term the judge presiding shall order the reading of the minutes of the court for the day preceding, and the minutes of the last day shall be read immediately preceding the final adjournment of the term.

Rev., s. 1519; Code, s. 925; 1861, c. 3.

1459. Officer attending juries sworn. When any officer (except such as are appointed to attend the grand jury) shall be appointed or summoned to attend any superior court, the clerk, at the time of the first going out of a jury on the trial of any civil or criminal action, shall administer an oath to such officer, faithfully to attend the several juries that may be put under his care during that term, that shall be charged in the trial of any civil or criminal action; and after such officer shall be once so sworn, he shall be considered to all intents and purposes as acting upon the same oath while attending every jury that he may be called to attend during that term.

1460. Quakers may wear hats in court. The people called Quakers may wear their hats in courts of judicature, as elsewhere, according to the custom of their sect.

1461. Court stenographers. Upon the request of a judge holding a superior court in any county in the state, the board of county commissioners in such county shall employ a competent stenographer to take down the proceedings of the court, at a compensation not to exceed five dollars per day and actual expenses, to be paid by the county in which the court is held.

The judge is authorized to tax a reasonable fee against the losing party in every action, civil and criminal, to be turned into the county treasury towards reimbursing the county, but no fee shall be taxed against a losing party suing in forma pauperis.

Every stenographer so employed shall make three copies of the proceedings in every case appealed to the supreme court, without extra charge, and shall furnish one copy to the attorneys on each side and file one copy with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which any such case is tried, and shall obey all orders of the judge relative to the time in which any such work shall be done.

Every stenographer so employed shall, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, be duly sworn to well, truly, and correctly take down and transcribe the proceedings of the court, except the argument of counsel, and the charge of the court thus taken down and transcribed shall be held to be a compliance with the law requiring the judge to put his instructions to the jury in writing.

This section shall not apply to any county which has a court stenographer authorized by law: Provided, that the board of county commissioners of Mecklenburg county may, by resolution approving this act, bring said county within the provisions of the same: Provided further, that this act shall not apply to the following counties: Alleghany, Brunswick, Caldwell, Camden, Carteret, Caswell, Chatham, Currituck, Dare, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Greene, Haywood, Hoke, New Hanover, Orange, Pender, Perquimans, Person, Surry, Transylvania, Union, Watauga.

For stenographer's notes as evidence, see Cooper v. R. R., 170-490; Settee v. Electric R. R., 171-440.

SUBCHAPTER III. JUSTICES OF THE PEACE

ART. 9. ELECTION AND QUALIFICATION

1462. Constitution, article seven, abrogated; exceptions. All the provisions of article seven of the constitution inconsistent with this chapter, except those contained in sections seven, nine and thirteen, are hereby abrogated, and the provisions of this article substituted in their place; subject, however, to the power of the general assembly to alter, amend or abrogate the provisions of this article, and to substitute others in their stead, as provided in section fourteen of article seven of the constitution.

Courts of justices were created by constitution, and legislature cannot abolish them: Rhyme v. Lipscombe, 122-650—though may give inferior courts concurrent original jurisdiction with justice's, Ibid.

1463. Election and number of justices. At every general election held for members of the general assembly there shall be elected in each township three justices of the peace, and for each township in which any city or incorporated town is situated, one justice of the peace for every one thousand inhabitants in such city or town, who shall hold office for a term of two years from and after the first Monday in December next after their election.

Rev., s. 1409; Code, s. 819; 1876-7, c. 141; 1895, c. 157; 1905, cc. 35, 44, 148; 1907, c. 225; 1909, ss. 177, 716.

Justices elected by townships: Edenton v. Wool, 65-379; Wilmington v. Davis, 63-582. A ticket containing more names than entitled to be voted for is void: Mitchell v. Alley, 126-84. Section merely referred to in Gilmer v. Holton, 98-27.

1464. Local modifications as to number and election of justices. In the city of Wilmington in the county of New Hanover there shall be elected five justices of the peace; in the county of Edgecombe there shall be elected one justice of the peace for every one hundred duly qualified electors in each township, and for every fraction of one hundred over fifty; and in the counties of Bertie, Caswell, Chowan, Franklin, and Granville the justices of the peace shall be elected by the general assembly, to hold office for the term of two years as provided in the preceding section.

1465. Warren county; election of justices. Upon a petition of two-thirds of the qualified electors in any township in Warren county, the board of commissioners of the county shall call an election at the time and in the manner appointed for the election of members of the general assembly, for the election of not more than five nor less than three justices of the peace, as the petition shall designate, to be voted for and elected by the voters of the township in which they reside, and who shall hold their office for two years and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Rev., s. 1410; 1905, c. 73, s. 2.

1466. Vance county; election of justices. Upon petition of a majority of the qualified voters of any township in Vance county, the board of county commissioners shall call an election, at the time and in the manner appointed for the election of members of the general assembly, for the election of not more than five nor less than two justices of the peace, to be voted for and elected by the voters of the township in which they reside. The justices of the peace so elected shall hold office for a term of two years and until their successors are elected and qualify.

P. L. 1915, c. 648.

1467. Oath of office; vacancies filled. Every person elected or appointed a justice of the peace, before his term of office begins or within thirty days thereafter, shall take and subscribe the prescribed oath of office before the clerk of the superior court, who shall file the same. All elections of justices of the peace by the general assembly or by the people shall be void unless the persons so elected shall qualify as herein directed. All original vacancies in the offices of justice of the peace occurring before qualification as provided in this section shall be filled for the term by the governor. All other vacancies shall be filled by the clerk of the superior court.

Provisions of section authorizing governor to fill vacancies caused by failure of appointee of legislature to qualify within prescribed time held constitutional: Gilmer v. Holton, 98-26. Duty of clerk of court to administer oath to justice: Ibid.—and duty of justice to take such oath, Ibid.—though failure to qualify, where he exercises duties of office, will not relieve him from liability for misbehavior in office, State v. Cansler, 75-442. Authority of clerk to appoint justices of the peace to fill vacancies is confined to those vacancies caused by death, resignation or other causes during term: Gilmer v. Holton, 98-26.

1468. Governor may appoint justices. The governor may, from time to time, at his discretion, appoint one or more fit persons in every county to act as justices of the peace, who shall hold their office for four years from and after the date of their appointment; and, on exhibiting their commission to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which they are to act, shall be duly qualified by taking before said clerk an oath of office and the oaths prescribed for other officers. The governor shall issue to each justice of the peace so appointed a commission, a certificate of which shall be deposited with the clerk of the court and filed among the records, and he shall note on his minutes the qualification of the justice of the peace.

1469. Forfeiture of office. When any justice of the peace removes out of his township and does not return therein for the space of six months, he thereby forfeits and loses his office; and any such justice presuming to act thereafter, contrary to this section, unless reëlected or reappointed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 1412, 3589; Code, s. 822.

1470. Resignation. Justices of the peace wishing to resign must deliver their letters of resignation to the clerk of the superior court, who shall file the same.

Rev., s. 1413; Code, s. 823.

1471. Removal and disqualification for crime. Upon the conviction of any justice of the peace of an infamous crime, or of corruption and malpractice in office, he shall be removed from office, and he shall be disqualified from holding or enjoying any office of honor, trust or profit under this state.

Rev., s. 1414; Code, s. 826.

Where justice acting ministerially, if he acts corruptly, oppressively, or from other bad motive, he is liable criminally: State v. Sneed, 84-816.

It is a misdemeanor for justice to sell or transfer judgment in his possession by virtue of the office: State v. Zachary, 44-432—whether same rendered by himself or by another justice, Ibid. Where justice attempts to take cognizance of offense which he knows is already in superior court, and has party arrested, he is amenable to the law: State v. Sneed, 84-816. Sufficiency of indictment charging justice with corruption in office discussed in State v. Zachary, 44-432.

Upon trial of an indictment against public officer for neglect or omission of duty, evidence of acts of positive misfeasance is inadmissible: State v. Hawkins, 77-494.

1472. Justice may hold other office. Any justice of the peace may accept a civil office or appointment of trust or profit, under the authority of the United States, the duties of which confine him to the county where he is resident.

Rev., s. 1415; Code, s. 825; Const., Art. 14, s. 7.

Section merely referred to in Barnhill v. Thompson, 122-496.

Constitution does not prohibit a justice from being also recorder of the city court: State v. Lord, 145-479; or holding other office, Const., Art. 14, s. 7.

ART. 10. JURISDICTION

1473. Jurisdiction in actions on contract. Justices of the peace shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all civil actions founded on contract, except—

1. Wherein the sum demanded, exclusive of interest, exceeds two hundred dollars.

2. Wherein the title to real estate is in controversy.

Rev., s. 1419; Const., Art. 4, s. 27; Code, s. 834.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS. For a general review of the jurisdiction of justices under the constitution, see Rhyne v. Lipsecombe, 122-650. Legislature cannot confer on mayor of town judicial powers of justice in civil actions: Washington v. Hammond, 76-34; Edenton v. Wool, 65-379; Wilmington v. Davis, 63-582. Where two causes of action set out, in only one of which justice has jurisdiction, he may try that, treating other as surplusage: Railroad v. Hardware Co., 135-73; Hargrove v. Harris, 116-418; Starke v. Cotten, 115-81; Mfg. Co. v. Barrett, 95-36; Deloatch v. Coman, 90-186; Ashe v. Gray, 90-137. A judgment is a contract under this section: Moore v. Nowell, 94-265; see McDonald v. Dickson, 87-404.

The summons as a substitute for a complaint must show upon its face that cause of action is within justice's legal cognizance: Leathers v. Morris, 101-184; Allen v. Jackson, 86-322; Teal v. Templeton, 149-32; Riddle v. Milling Co., 150-689; Love v. Huffines, 151-378.

The court will ex mero motu take notice of the want of jurisdiction: Hannah v. R. R., 87-351. Where a justice takes cognizance of an action of which he has no jurisdiction and it goes by appeal to superior court, that court acquires no jurisdiction: McLaurin v. McIntyre, 167-350; State v. Wiseman, 131-797; Ijames v. McClamroch, 92-362; Raisin v. Thomas, 88-150; Boing v. R. R., 87-364; Boyett v. Vaughan, 85-365. The legal existence of a court cannot be drawn in question by a plea to the jurisdiction, for such a plea presupposes that court was regularly called and organized: State v. Hall, 142-710.

DETERMINING JURISDICTION IN ACTIONS ON CONTRACT. In action on contract jurisdiction of justice determined by sum demanded: Shoe Store Co. v. Wiseman, 174-716; Wooten v. Drug Co., 169-64; Teal v. Templeton, 149-32; Knight v. Taylor, 131-84; Shankle v. Ingram, 133-259; Boyd v. R. R., 132-184; Sloan v. R. R., 126-487, and cases cited on page 490; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Martin v. Goode, 111-288; Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; Morris v. O'Briant, 94-72; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140; see, also, Thompson v. Express Co., 144-389; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452—which demand must be made in good faith and not for purpose of conferring jurisdiction, Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140. Words "sum demanded" defined in Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; Hedgecock v. Davis, 64-651; Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Morris v. Saunders, 85-140; Brickell v. Bell, 84-85; Derr v. Stubbs, 83-539; Dalton v. Webster, 82-283; Bryan v. Rousseau, 71-194; Froelich v. Express Co., 67-3; Fell v. Porter, 69-142. Without averment in summons of amount demanded, court acquires no jurisdiction and judgment is void: Leathers v. Morris, 101-184—but where it appears that court would have jurisdiction, though proper allegations omitted in summons by mistake or inadvertence, court may permit necessary amendment pending action, Ibid.; McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298; Cox v. Grisham, 113-279; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Barrett, 95-40; Allen v. Jackson, 86-323.

Where the sum demanded in good faith does not exceed $200, a justice of the peace has exclusive original jurisdiction: Wooten v. Drug Co., 169-64; Davis v. Evans, 142-464; McPeters v. English, 141-492; Parker v. Express Co., 132-128; Railroad v. Hardware Co., 135-73; Exchange Bank v. Land and Lumber Co., 128-193; Calloway v. Angel, 127-414; Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Proctor v. Finley, 119-536; Slocumb v. Shingle Co., 110-24; Hartness v. Wallace, 106-427; Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; Norville v. Dew, 94-43; Burbank v. Comrs., 92-257; DeLoatch v. Coman, 90-186; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140; Hannah v. R. R., 87-351; Lowery v. Perry, 85-131; Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688; Latham v. Rollins, 72-454; Templeton v. Summers, 71-269; Froelich v. Express Co., 67-1; Edenton v. Wool, 65-380; Hedgecock v. Davis, 64-650; Wilmington v. Davis, 63-582—and where sum demanded in good faith exceeds $200 the superior court has jurisdiction, Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Hornor School v. Wescott, 124-519; Burrell v. Hughes, 116-430; Martin v. Goode, 111-288; McPhail v. Johnson, 109-571; Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174; Kearns v. Heitman, 104-332; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265; Usry v. Suit, 91-406; Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Morris v. Saunders, 85-138; Brickell v. Bell, 84-82; Dalton v. Webster, 82-279; Bryan v. Rousseau, 71-194; Fell v. Porter, 69-140. Though there may be several causes of action, each of which is for less than $200, if aggregate demand is for more than $200, superior court has jurisdiction, whenever causes of action are such as can be joined in one action: Boyd v. R. R., 132-184; Sloan v. R. R., 126-487; Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Burrell v. Hughes, 116-430; Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265—but should demand be reduced under $200 by failure of proof or by sustaining a demurrer to any part thereof or to some of the causes of action, jurisdiction would not thereby be ousted, Brown v. Southerland, 142-227; Boyd v. R. R., 132-184; Shankle v. Ingram, 133-259; Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Usry v. Suit, 91-406; Brickell v. Bell, 84-82—except where sum demanded is so palpably in bad faith as to amount to a fraud on jurisdiction: Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140—or where there is misjoinder of parties, Martin v. Goode, 111-289; Mitchell v. Mitchell, 96-14. See cases cited under section 1436, jurisdiction in civil actions ex contractu.

Payment cannot be applied to the principal of a note to reduce it below $200, leaving interest unpaid, and thus bring it within justice's jurisdiction: Riddle v. Milling Co., 150-689.

Where action before justice for breach of contract by express company to deliver package was appealed and in superior court jury found that defendant "negligently failed to deliver the package," it was action on contract and justice had jurisdiction, amount sued for not exceeding $200: Parker v. Express Co., 132-128, citing Froelich v. Express Co., 67-1.

Justice has jurisdiction of action on note for purchase money of land where amount demanded does not exceed $200: Davis v. Evans, 142-464; McPeters v. English, 141-492; Proctor v. Finley, 119-536—also in action on note given for a contract to convey land, the only defense being that payments had been made on note, Patterson v. Freeman, 132-357.

In action on bond justice has jurisdiction where penalty of bond does not exceed $200, same being an action ex contractu: Railroad v. Hardware Co., 135-73; Darden v. Blount, 126-251; Joyner v. Roberts, 112-114; Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Bryan v. Rousseau, 71-194; Fell v. Porter, 69-140—likewise has jurisdiction for the recovery of a penalty given by statute not over $200, Henderson v. Davis, 106-88; Doughty v. R. R., 78-22; Maggett v. Roberts, 108-174; Carter v. R. R., 126-437; Katzenstein v. R. R., 84-688—and in action on penal bond he cannot make remittance to bring it down to justice's jurisdiction, Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Morris v. Saunders, 85-140.

A counterclaim, in order to entitle one to affirmative relief in a justice's court in action on contract, must be one on which judgment might be had in the action, and therefore must come within justice's jurisdiction: Electric Co. v. Williams, 123-51; Boyett v. Vaughan, 85-363; Derr v. Stubbs, 83-539; see, also, section 521—and, where several counterclaims pleaded, the aggregate sum will be taken as jurisdictional amount, Electric Co. v. Williams, 123-51. But a demand over $200 may be used as a set-off: Cheese Co. v. Pipkin, 155-394; Fertilizer Works v. Aiken, 175-398.

Where the pleadings before a justice do not show want of jurisdiction, and no objection was made thereto, such objection cannot be made on appeal to superior court: Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563.

For remitting amount over jurisdiction, see section 1475.

SPLITTING UP CAUSES TO COME WITHIN JURISDICTION. An indivisible cause of action cannot be split in order that separate suits may be brought for the various parts before a justice: Norvell v. Mecke, 127-401; Fort v. Penny, 122-230; Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 115-475; Magruder v. Randolph, 77-79; Boyle v. Robbins, 71-130.

Where items of account are incurred under different contracts, an action can be brought on each item before a justice, the separate items being less than $200: Copland v. Tel. Co., 136-11; Simpson v. Elwood, 114-528; Boyle v. Robbins, 71-130; Caldwell v. Beatty, 69-370. Where, in executing an express contract under which plaintiff was to receive compensation for services, plaintiff advanced money at request of defendant, former may sue separately on contract and for money advanced: Fort v. Penny, 122-230. An account for a bill of goods purchased on one day is taken as one entire transaction, unless otherwise appears: Magruder v. Randolph, 77-79. The fact that demand arose out of an indivisible contract which was split for jurisdictional purposes must be taken advantage of by plea in abatement before pleading to merits: Fort v. Penny, 122-230; Blackwell v. Dibbrell, 103-270—and cannot be taken advantage of on appeal, Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 115-475; Blackwell v. Dibbrell, 103-270—and where, on appeal of several actions brought on split-up accounts, all due under single contract cognizable in superior court, the actions were consolidated, held that superior court did not thereby gain jurisdiction, its appellate jurisdiction being derived solely from the rightful one assumed by court below, Jarrett v. Self, 90-478; Ijames v. McClamroch, 92-362; Robeson v. Hodges, 105-51; Allen v. Jackson, 86-321; Boyett v. Vaughan, 85-363.

WAVING TORT AND SUING ON CONTRACT. Where complaint can be either construed to be in tort or contract it will be construed to be according to the election of plaintiff so as to uphold jurisdiction: White v. Eley, 145-36; Schulhofer v. R. R., 118-1097; Bowers v. R. R., 107-721; Stokes v. Taylor, 104-394; Mitchem v. Pasour, 173-487, and cases cited; Stroud v. Ins. Co., 148-54; Fidelity Co. v. Grocery Co., 147-510; Manning v. Fountain, 147-18.

Where property is tortiously taken and sold, owner may waive tort and maintain an action to recover proceeds of sale if do not exceed $200: Brittain v. Payne, 118-989; Land Co. v. Brooks, 109-698; Wall v. Williams, 91-477; McDonald v. Cannon, 82-245; Bullinger v. Marshall, 70-526; Winslow v. Weith, 66-432—or where property was delivered to express company and negligently lost, tort may be waived and action brought on contract to carry and deliver, Froelich v. Express Co., 67-1—but where the right to recover involves a question of title, the question of jurisdiction is determined, and plaintiff cannot avoid it by waiving tort and declaring on contract, Edwards v. Cowper, 99-421.

EQUITY CLAIMS AND DEFENSES GENERALLY. Justice has no jurisdiction to administer or enforce an equitable cause of action: Wilson v. Ins. Co., 155-173; Levin v. Gladstein, 142-482; Markham v. McCown, 124-163; Weathers v. Borders, 124-612; Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400; Holden v. Warren, 118-326; Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 116-649, and cases cited; Bell v. Howerton, 111-69; Hunter v. Yarborough, 92-68; Dougherty v. Sprinkle, 88-300; Lutz v. Thompson, 87-337; McAdoo v. Callum, 86-419; Fisher v. Webb, 84-50—though defendant may interpose equitable defense before him, Levin v. Gladstein, 142-482; Holden v. Warren, 118-326; Bell v. Howerton, 111-69; Hurst v. Everett, 91-405; Lutz v. Thompson, 87-334; McAdoo v. Callum, 86-419; Mebane v. Layton, 86-575; Fisher v. Webb, 84-44.

Justice has no jurisdiction of action by assignee to recover partnership assets disposed of by one partner, where amount claimed is less than $200: Hartness v. Wallace, 106-427—or of action upon county treasurer's bond, Wright v. Kinney, 123-618—or of application for mandamus against treasurer, Ibid.; Robinson v. Howard, 84-151—or of action to foreclose mortgage, although debt secured less than $200, Murphy v. McNeill, 82-221—or of counterclaim consisting of alleged indebtedness arising out of unadjusted partnership dealings, Love v. Rhyne, 86-576. Equitable powers of justice discussed in Fisher v. Webb, 84-44.

Justice has jurisdiction if action is for $200 and less which equitably belongs to a party: Markham v. McCown, 124-163—of action upon a lost note where sum demanded does not exceed $200, Fisher v. Webb, 84-44—of action for balance due on account where through mistake plaintiff had accepted less than was due him, notwithstanding plaintiff prayed for equitable relief, Holden v. Warren, 118-326. Where defendant's liability depends upon articles of partnership and no equities to adjust, justice has jurisdiction: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

WHERE MARRIED WOMAN IS A PARTY. It is not true that a justice has no jurisdiction in any case of a married woman. She may be sued before a justice for a debt due by her, or on a contract made by her, before marriage: McAfee v. Gregg, 140-449; Beville v.

Cox, 109-269; Hodges v. Hill, 105-130; Neville v. Pope, 95-346—or for necessities, Robinson v. Jarrett, 159-165—or to enforce lien for materials used in building house, being for less than $200, Finger v. Hunter, 130-529; Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85—but justice has no jurisdiction in action to charge her separate personal property, Patterson v. Gooch, 108-503—or in action upon promise to pay for work done on separate real estate, Dougherty v. Sprinkle, 88-300; Berry v. Henderson, 102-525—or to enforce payment out of separate estate for her contracts, Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85; Planing Mills v. McNinch, 99-517—or to enforce her contracts generally unless she be a free-trader, whether she has separate property which she has charged or not, Berry v. Henderson, 102-525; Moore v. Wolfe, 122-711. What must be shown in order to render judgment of a justice against married woman void, discussed in McAfee v. Gregg, 140-448.

Where the business is conducted by her husband as agent, without complying with section 3292, a justice has jurisdiction of contracts not exceeding $200: Scott v. Ferguson, 152-346.

But since the Martin act, 1911, a married woman is liable on her contracts and may be sued as if she were single, see Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508; Robinson v. Jarrett, 159-165, and cases cited under section 2507.

WHERE TITLE TO LAND IN CONTROVERSY. Justice has no jurisdiction of action where title to land in controversy: Brown v. Southerland, 142-225; Smith v. Garris, 131-36; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-805; Wright v. Harris, 116-460; Boone v. Drake, 109-83; Edwards v. Cowper, 99-421; Forsythe v. Bullock, 74-135; see sections 1476 and 1477—and the controversy referred to must be between the parties, Davis v. Davis, 83-71; Evans v. Williams, 79-86—and jurisdiction once acquired cannot be divested by intervener claiming paramount title, Davis v. Davis, 83-71.

Mere allegation of defendant that title is in controversy will not oust justice's jurisdiction: Jerome v. Setzer, 175-391; Pasterfield v. Sawyer, 132-258; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-805; Paine v. Cureton, 114-608; Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172—but justice should proceed with trial until evidence shows title is involved, McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Smith v. Garris, 131-36; Parker v. Allen, 84-466.

The title to land is not in controversy in an action on the note for the purchase money: Parker v. Horton, 176-143; McPeters v. English, 141-491—nor in a proceeding to recover penalty prescribed by town charter for obstructing street, Town of Henderson v. Davis, 106-88.

In action for forcible entry and detainer justice has no jurisdiction: Perry v. Shepherd, 78-83; State v. Yarborough, 70-250; Railroad v. Sharpe, 70-509.

Justice has no jurisdiction of action of vendor against vendee for possession: Johnson v. Hauser, 82-375—and where vendor brought summary ejectment against vendee, claiming that vendee had abandoned his rights and sustained the relation of tenant, justice had no jurisdiction if evidence of abandonment insufficient, Boone v. Drake, 109-79. In summary ejectment by mortgagor to oust mortgagee, justice has no jurisdiction: Smith v. Garris, 131-36; Greer v. Wilbar, 72-592—and mere allegation that defendant is tenant of plaintiff will not give jurisdiction, Smith v. Garris, 131-36.

In summary ejectment under landlord and tenant act the issue is only as to tenancy, and title to land is not drawn in question: Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172; Davis v. Davis, 83-71; see McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; McIver v. R. R., 163-544.

1474. Jurisdiction in actions not on contract. Justices of the peace shall have concurrent jurisdiction of civil actions not founded on contract, wherein the value of the property in controversy does not exceed fifty dollars.

Rev. s. 1420; Const., Art. 4, s. 27; Code, s. 887.

This section comprehends all actions ex delicto: Duckworth v. Mull, 143-461. The phrase "property in controversy" means the value of the injury complained of and involved in the litigation: Ibid.; Houser v. Bonsal, 149-51; Malloy v. Fayetteville, 122-480; but see Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Pippin v. Ellison, 34-61; Smith v. Campbell, 10-590.

Where action can be sustained either as ex delicto or ex contractu, it will be construed according to election of plaintiff so as to sustain jurisdiction of court: Mitchem v. Pasour, 173-487; Manning v. Fountain, 147-18; White v. Eley, 145-36; Schulhofer v. R. R., 118-1096, and cases cited on page 1097—and where complaint contains causes of action of which court has not, and others of which it has jurisdiction, it will disregard former and try latter, Hargrove v. Harris, 116-418; Starke v. Cotten, 115-81; Railroad v. Hardware Co., 135-73; Mfg. Co. v. Barrett, 95-36; Deloatch v. Coman, 90-186; Ashe v. Gray, 90-137.

As to splitting up damages or value of property to obtain jurisdiction, see Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400; Johnson v. Williams, 115-33; Bell v. Howerton, 111-69; see under section 1473.

Where plaintiff demanded $75 due as rent and asked for delivery to him of crop upon which it was a lien, held that in absence of allegation that crop was worth "not more than $50" justice was not deprived of jurisdiction, and correctly gave judgment for the debt and disregarded ancillary remedy: Hargrove v. Harris, 116-418.

Where action brought for tort in justice's court goes up to superior court on appeal, the jurisdiction being concurrent, that court will take cognizance, however irregular the proceedings in the justice's court may have been: Boing v. R. R., 87-364.

Where jury renders verdict for over $50 the excess can be remitted and judgment taken for sum demanded: Watson v. Farmer, 141-452; Noville v. Dew, 94-43—but in claim and delivery there can be no remitter of excess over $50, Ibid.

DETERMINING THE JURISDICTION. In all actions ex delicto where the value of the injury complained of and involved in the litigation does not exceed $50, a justice of the peace has jurisdiction concurrent with superior court: Mitchem v. Pasour, 173-487; Wilson v. Ins. Co., 155-173; Houser v. Bonsal, 149-51; Duckworth v. Mull, 143-461; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452; Thomas v. Cooksey, 130-148; Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400; Malloy v. Fayetteville, 122-480; Johnson v. Williams, 115-33; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142; Bell v. Howerton, 111-69; Harvey v. Hambright, 98-446; Montague v. Mial, 89-137; Noville v. Dew, 94-43—but where value exceeds $50 he has no jurisdiction, Spencer v. Bell, 109-39; Bowers v. R. R., 107-722; Asher v. Reizenstein, 105-213; Long v. Fields, 104-221; Edwards v. Cowper, 99-421; Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Barneycastle v. Walker, 92-198.

The jurisdiction is determined by the damages claimed or the value of the property involved, being the amount demanded in good faith in the warrant or complaint: Thompson v. Express Co., 144-389; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452; Noville v. Dew, 94-45; see, also, Knight v. Taylor, 131-84; Sloan v. R. R., 126-487, and cases cited on page 490; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Martin v. Goode, 111-288; Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; Morris v. O'Briant, 94-72; Moore v. Nowell, 94-265; Wiseman v. Witherow, 90-140—and summons should set out the amount, Leathers v. Morris, 101-184; Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Allen v. Jackson, 86-321—for without such averment in summons the court acquires no jurisdiction and judgment void, Leathers v. Morris, 101-184.

Mortgagor, being entitled to the possession of the articles included in mortgage aggregating value over $50, may take out papers for each article separately, in which case justice would have jurisdiction where article does not exceed $50 valuation: Kiser v. Blanton, 123-400.

The special jurisdiction under landlord and tenant act does not extend to torts, but is confined to actions for enforcing contracts: Montague v. Mial, 89-137.

Rev., s. 1421; Code, s. 835; 1868-9, c. 159, s. 3; 1876-7, c. 63.

Where principal sum demanded exceeds $200 justice has no jurisdiction unless plaintiff remits and same is entered of record: Dalton v. Webster, 82-279; Knight v. Taylor, 131-84; Riddle v. Milling Co., 150-689. See section 1473.

Objection that plaintiff did not use statutory formula in making the remitter must be made in justice's court, not on appeal: Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563.

Where sum demanded is not in excess of $200 and account sued on is in excess of $200, no remittance of excess of account required, the amount demanded determining jurisdiction: Knight v. Taylor, 131-85; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Brantley v. Finch, 97-92.

In action on penal bond where penalty over $200, plaintiff cannot make remitter: Coggins v. Harrell, 86-317; Morris v. Saunders, 85-140.

Where counterclaim before justice amounted to more than $200, remitter cannot be entered in superior court so as to cure jurisdiction: I James v. McClamroch, 92-362.

Where summons did not state amount demanded, but plaintiff in his complaint claimed only $200 and forgave and remitted the excess of his account, superior court can allow summons to be amended, not to confer jurisdiction, but only to show it: McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298, and cases cited on page 302.

When excess over $200 has been remitted and nonsuit taken in justice's court, recovery in superior court cannot exceed $200: Broek v. Scott, 159-513.

1476. Title to real estate in controversy as a defense. In every action brought in a court of a justice of the peace, where the title to real estate comes in controversy, the defendant may, either with or without other matter of defense, set forth, in his answer, any matter showing that such title will come in question. Such answer shall be in writing, signed by the defendant or his attorney, and delivered to the justice.

See annotations under section 1473.

Mere allegation of defendant that title is in controversy will not oust justice's jurisdiction: Jerome v. Setzer, 175-391; Pasterfield v. Sawyer, 132-258; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-805; Paine v. Cureton, 114-608; Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172; Foster v. Penry, 77-160—but it must also appear by evidence, Pasterfield v. Sawyer, 132-260—and justice should proceed with trial until evidence shows that title to land is involved, McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Smith v. Garris, 131-36; Parker v. Allen, 84-466.

It matters not that defendant filed no defense in writing to the effect that title to land would be brought in question, statute requires that when at the trial it appears in controversy, action should be dismissed: Edwards v. Cowper, 99-423, and cases cited.

The requirement that answer showing that title is in controversy shall be in writing and signed is not satisfied by brief memorandum taken down by justice and transmitted with appeal, and would not, if plaintiff should afterwards sue in superior court, estop defendant from denying jurisdiction: Evans v. Williamson, 79-88; see Brown v. Southerland, 142-228.

1477. Title to real estate in controversy, action dismissed. If it appears on the trial that the title to real estate is in controversy, the justice shall dismiss the action and render judgment against the plaintiff for costs.

Rev., s. 1423; Code, s. 837.

As to when title to real estate in controversy, see under section 1473; also, see section 1476.

As to meaning of words "real estate" in this section, see Foster v. Penry, 77-161.

The allegation in writing that title to land in controversy need not be made: Edwards v. Cowper, 99-423—and if made, justice cannot act on it alone, Jerome v. Setzer, 175-391; Pasterfield v. Sawyer, 132-258; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118-805; Paine v. Cureton, 114-608; Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172; Foster v. Penry, 77-160—but trial must proceed until evidence shows that title involved, McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Smith v. Garris, 131-36; Parker v. Allen, 84-466—when it is required of justice that he dismiss the action, Hudson v. Hodge, 139-308; Edwards v. Cowper, 99-421; Parker v. Allen, 84-466.

Proceedings before justice where title in controversy may be treated as a nullity by defendant, but it does not follow that plaintiff, who initiated and took benefit of them, can: Dulin v. Howard, 66-433.

1478. Another action in superior court. When an action, before a justice, is dismissed upon answer, and proof by the defendant, that the title to real estate is in controversy in the case, the plaintiff may prosecute an action for the same cause in the superior court, and the defendant shall not be admitted in that court to deny the jurisdiction by an answer contradicting his answer in the justice's court.

Rev., s. 1424; Code, s. 838.

Where action before justice was dismissed upon answer and proof that title to real estate comes in controversy, defendant cannot question jurisdiction of superior court if action for same cause subsequently brought in that court: Pasterfield v. Sawyer, 132-260—and where justice refused to dismiss upon such grounds, and judgment reversed and action dismissed in superior court, and another action brought in superior court for same relief, held plaintiff estopped by former judgment from alleging want of jurisdiction in superior court, Peck v. Culberson, 104-425—but where written answer alleging that title will come in controversy was not filed before justice, defendant not estopped in superior court from denying jurisdiction by answer contradicting answer before justice, Evans v. Williamson, 79-88.

Section cannot be invoked where it does not appear that action before justice was dismissed upon answer and proof by defendant that title to real estate was in controversy, as this cannot be inferred: Brown v. Southerland, 142-225.

1479. Justice may act anywhere in county. A justice of the peace may issue a summons or other process anywhere in his county, but he shall not be compelled to try a cause out of the township for which he was elected or appointed.

Rev., s. 1425; Code, s. 824.

Summons issued by one justice cannot be made returnable before another, except in cases of bastardy: Williams v. Bowling, 111-295—or of summary ejection under landlord and tenant act.

1480. Punishment for contempt in certain cases. If any person shall profanely swear or curse in the hearing of a justice of the peace, holding court, the justice may commit him for contempt, or fine him not exceeding five dollars.

Rev., s. 1426; Code, s. 848; R. C., c. 115; 1741, c. 30.

1481. Jurisdiction in criminal actions. Justices of the peace have exclusive original jurisdiction of all assaults, assaults and batteries, and affrays, where no deadly weapon is used and no serious damage is done, and of all criminal matters arising within their counties, where the punishment prescribed by law does not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days: Provided, that justices of the peace shall have no jurisdiction over assaults with intent to kill, or assaults with intent to commit rape, except as committing magistrates: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall prevent the superior or criminal courts from finally hearing and determining such affrays as shall be committed within one mile of the place where and during the time such court is being held; nor shall this section be construed to prevent said courts from assuming jurisdiction of all offenses whereof exclusive original jurisdiction is given to justices of the peace if some justice of the peace, within twelve months after the commission of the offense, shall not have proceeded to take official cognizance of the same.

Rev., s. 1427; Const., Art. 4, s. 27; Code, s. 892; 1889, c. 504, s. 2.

For criminal procedure in justice's court, see Criminal Procedure.

For criminal jurisdiction of superior court, see section 1436; recorder's court, sections 1541, 1567.

Section held constitutional: State v. Johnson, 64-581; State v. Huntley, 31-619.

The legal existence of court cannot be drawn in question by a plea to the jurisdiction, for such a plea presupposes that court was regularly called and organized: State v. Hall, 142-710.

Justice has jurisdiction of simple assault where no deadly weapon used or serious damage inflicted: State v. Johnson, 94-863—where statute prescribes fine not less than $10 nor more than $50, and no imprisonment imposed, State v. Davis, 129-570—where punishment prescribed is fine of not less than $20 nor more than $40, State v. Addington, 121-538—where punishment for offense cannot exceed fine of $50 or imprisonment for thirty days, State v. Harrison, 126-1049; State v. Fesperman, 108-771; State v. Deaton, 101-729; State v. Dalton, 101-682; State v. Lachman, 98-765; State v. Roberts, 98-756; State v. Powell, 86-642; State v. Watts, 85-519; State v. Benthall, 82-665; State v. Edney, 80-360; State v. Heidelberg, 70-496—of offense of failing to work roads under section 3811, State v. Craig, 82-668—of trespass upon land after being forbidden under section 4305, State v. Dudley, 83-660—of cruelty to animals, State v. Bossee, 145-579—of crime of hunting on Sunday under section 3956, State v. Wilson, 84-777—of misdemeanors arising from violations of town ordinances, State v. Wood, 94-855; State v. Cainan, 94-880—of affrays, concurrently with superior court, committed within mile of courthouse while court in session, State v. Battle, 130-656; State v. Bowers, 94-910.

Superior court and not justice has jurisdiction of assaults with deadly weapons: State v. Roseman, 108-766; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Murphy, 101-701; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-774; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults where serious damage done, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assault with intent to kill or commit rape, State v. Smith, 157-578; State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of offense of retailing spirituous liquors without license, State v. Edwards, 113-653; State v. Deaton, 101-728—of offenses against local option act, State v. Cooper, 101-689—of allowing stock to run at large where statute permits fine of $10 for each hog permitted to run at large and warrant charges running at large of ten hogs, State v. Wiseman, 131-795—where offense punishable by fine and imprisonment in discretion of court, State v. Cherry, 72-124; State v. Perry, 71-523; State v. Heidelberg, 70-496—or imprisonment for 30 days, or fine of $50, or both, State v. McAden, 162-575—of misdemeanor punishable by fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50, or by imprisonment of not less than ten days, State v. Hampton, 77-526.

After expiration of six months (now twelve months) superior court has concurrent jurisdiction with justice of cases of which before justice had exclusive jurisdiction: State v. Dalton, 101-682; State v. Roberts, 98-756; State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Watts, 85-519; State v. Berry, 83-604; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663.

Where indictment charges assault with deadly weapon, or other offense of which superior court has jurisdiction, and proof shows simple assault, or other lesser degree of offense, jurisdiction of superior court not ousted: State v. Smith, 157-578; State v. Fritz, 133-725; State v. Price, 111-705; State v. Roseman, 108-765; State v. Fesperman, 108-770; State v. Porter, 101-715; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Speller, 91-526; State v. Ray, 89-587; State v. Reaves, 85-553—though charge of simple assault in indictment would give superior court prima facie jurisdiction, and burden is on defendant to show twelve months had not elapsed since commission of offense and before superior court took jurisdiction, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Fesperman, 108-771; State v. Porter, 101-714; State v. Earnest, 98-743; State v. Moore, 82-662; State v. Smith, 157-578.

Affray is cognizable in superior court as to both defendants where deadly weapon used by either: State v. Coppersmith, 88-614; but see State v. Lancaster, 169-284.

Objection to jurisdiction is a matter of defense and may be taken advantage of under plea of not guilty: State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Berry, 83-604; State v. Taylor, 83-601; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663. If justice had no jurisdiction, the superior court will have none where the trial is on the warrant: State v. Wiseman, 131-795.

“DEADLY WEAPON.” A deadly weapon is not one that must or may kill, but one which would likely produce death by manner of its use by defendant: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Norwood, 115-789—is an instrument capable of producing death, State v. Huntley, 91-617—some weapons being deadly per se, others owing to manner of use become deadly, State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Huntley, 91-617—but a club is ex vi termini a deadly weapon, State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713—as is also an axe, State v. Shields, 110-497—and court will take judicial notice that a pistol is also a deadly weapon, State v. Swann, 65-330.

Whether weapon used is a deadly weapon is a question of law for the court where there is no dispute about the facts concerning its character, size, etc.: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Speaks, 94-865; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. West, 51-505; State v. Collins, 30-407; State v. Craton, 28-164—and in determining the question, the size, nature and manner of use of weapon, and size and strength of assailant, and person upon whom it is used, should be considered, State v. Sinclair, 120-603—as a penknife, as well as a gun, may, under certain circumstances, be a deadly weapon, Ibid.—for even a pin is a deadly weapon where it is pushed down the throat of an infant, producing death, State v. Norwood, 115-789. Where the deadly character of the weapon is to be determined by the relative size and condition of the parties and the manner in which it is used, it is proper and necessary to submit the matter to jury with proper instructions: State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Beal, 170-764.

“SERIOUS DAMAGE DONE.” It is necessary to describe the serious damage done, its character and extent, so that court can see from face of indictment that the damage was serious: State v. Battle, 130-657; State v. Stafford, 113-635; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713; State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Moore, 82-659. “Serious damage” must be such physical injury as gives rise to great bodily pain: State v. Nash, 109-824—and also damage to the peace, good order, decencies and proprieties of society, State v. Huntley, 91-620.

AFFRAY. Affray is the fighting together of two or more persons in a public place to the terror of the citizens: State v. Allen, 11-356; State v. Woody, 47-335; State v. Perry, 50-10—or the using of abusive language in a public place, bringing on a fight, State v. Perry, 50-9; State v. Robbins, 78-431.

Justice has final original jurisdiction of affrays where no deadly weapon used or serious damage done: State v. Shields, 78-417; State v. Davis, 65-298—but where affray committed within a mile of courthouse while court in session, the justice has concurrent jurisdiction with superior court, State v. Battle, 130-656; State v. Bowers, 94-910.

ART. 11. DOCKETS

1482. Justice shall keep docket. A civil and a criminal docket shall be furnished each justice, at the expense of the county, by the board of county commissioners, in which shall be entered a minute of every proceeding had in any action before such justice.

Rev., s. 1416; Code, s. 831.

Justices' courts are not courts of record: Building Co. v. Hardware Co., 173-55; Williams v. Bowling, 111-295; Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-342; Reeves v. Davis, 80-209—and proceedings before justice in civil action are not strictly a record, Bailey v. Hester, 101-538—yet they possess many attributes of a record, Ibid.

Although the court of a justice is not a court of record, its proceedings are authoritative and judicial in their nature: Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-344—and it possesses and may exercise many of the powers of such tribunals, Bailey v. Hester, 101-538.

1483. Entries to be made. The justice shall enter all his proceedings in a cause tried before him in his docket. No part of such proceedings must be entered on the summons, on the pleadings, or on any other paper in the cause.

Rev., s. 1470, Rule 14; Code, s. 840, Rule 13.

1484. Dockets filed with clerk. Each justice of the peace, as often as he has filled his docket, shall file the same with the clerk of the superior court for his county.

Rev., s. 1417; Code, s. 827.

Section merely referred to in Williams v. Bowling, 111-296; Bailey v. Hester, 101-540.

1485. Dockets, papers, and books delivered to successor. When a vacancy exists, from any cause, in the office of a justice of the peace, whose docket is not filled, or when such justice goes out of office by expiration of his term, such former justice, if living, and his personal representative, if dead, shall deliver such docket, all law and other books furnished him as a justice of the peace, and all official papers, to the clerk of the superior court for his successor, who is authorized to hear and determine any unfinished action on said docket, in the same manner as if such action had been originally brought before such successor.

Rev., s. 1418; Code, s. 828; 1885, c. 372.

Section merely referred to in Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-344; Bailey v. Hester, 101-540.

ART. 12. PROCESS

1486. Action begun by summons. Civil actions in these courts shall be commenced by the issuing of a summons.

Rev., s. 1444; Code, s. 830; 1868-9, c. 159, s. 9.

Civil action shall be commenced by issuing summons, except in cases where defendant is not within reach of process of court and cannot be personally served, when it may be commenced by affidavit, to be followed by publication: Mills v. Hansel, 168-651; Armstrong v. Kinsell, 164-125; Grocery Co. v. Bag Co., 142-174 (overruling McClure v. Fellows, 131-509); Best v. Mortgage Co., 128-351; also, see Fisher v. Bank, 132-776; Ditmore v. Goins, 128-327; Lyon v. Comrs., 120-242; Webster v. Sharpe, 116-466; Fleming v. Patterson, 99-404; Calvert v. Peebles, 82-338; Belmont v. Reilly, 71-260; Steele v. Comrs., 70-140; Thompson v. Berry, 64-79; Patrick v. Joyner, 63-573.

The office of the summons is to bring party into court: Barneycastle v. Walker, 92-198.

As to name of plaintiff in summons, see Rosenbacher v. Martin, 170-236; Heath v. Morgan, 117-504; Patterson v. Walton, 119-500—name of defendant in summons, Fisher v. Ins. Co., 136-217; Plemmons v. Imp. Co., 108-614; Clawson v. Wolfe, 77-100.

Summons is issued, when: Smith v. Lumber Co., 142-26; Houston v. Thornton, 122-366; Currie v. Hawkins, 118-593; Neal v. Nelson, 117-401; Webster v. Sharpe, 116-466; see, also, section 404. Appearance waives all defects or irregularities as to summons: Caldwell v. Wilson, 121-425; Roberts v. Allman, 106-391; Etheridge v. Woodley, 83-11; Wheeler v. Cobb, 75-21; Middleton v. Duffy, 73-72; Duffy v. Averitt, 27-455; Hyatt v. Tomlin, 24-149; also, see sections 401 and 490.

1487. Issuance and contents of summons. The summons shall be issued by the justice and signed by him. It shall run in the name of the state, and be directed to any constable or other lawful officer, commanding him to summon the defendant to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff at a place, within the county, to be therein specified, and at a time to be therein named, not exceeding thirty days from the date of the summons. It shall also state the sum demanded by the plaintiff or the value of the property sued for, where specific property is claimed.

Summons issued by one justice cannot be made returnable before another: Williams v. Bowling, 111-295; Cherry v. Lilly, 113-26—except in cases provided by statute, to wit, bastardy proceedings, Williams v. Bowling, 111-297—and in summary proceedings in ejectment, Ibid.

Summons issued by justice under section 1489 must be issued or addressed to officer of county where same is to be served: Fertilizer Co. v. Marshburn, 122-411—and to authorize town constable to serve process beyond limit of town, same must be directed to him, Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84; Baker v. Brem, 126-367; s. c., 127-322. Necessary that summons shall contain statement of sum demanded or value of property sought to be recovered: Leathers v. Morris, 101-184; Noville v. Dew, 94-43; Allen v. Jackson, 86-321; Brantley v. Finch, 97-91; McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-563; Teal v. Templeton, 149-32; Love v. Huffines, 151-378; Shoe Store Co. v. Wiseman, 174-716.

Summons presumed to bear true date of issue, but it is competent to show that it was not in fact then issued: Currie v. Hawkins, 118-593; Houston v. Thornton, 122-365; Webster v. Sharpe, 116-466. Summons improperly issued and served does not bring defendant into court, and judgment rendered against him void: Fertilizer Co. v. Marshburn, 122-411.

As to stating names of parties in summons, see Rosenbacher v. Martin, 170-236; Fisher v. Ins. Co., 136-217; Heath v. Morgan, 117-504; Patterson v. Walton, 119-500; Plemmons v. Imp. Co., 108-614; Kerlee v. Corpening, 97-330; Clawson v. Wolfe, 77-100.

That summons is made returnable more than 30 days from its issue is immaterial when jurisdiction is acquired by attachment and publication: Mills v. Hansel, 168-651. A justice when out of his township may issue summons returnable in his township: Davis v. Sanderlin, 119-84.

1488. Service and return of summons. The officer to whom the summons is delivered shall execute the same within five days after its receipt by him, or immediately, if required to do so by the plaintiff. Before proceeding to execute it, he is entitled to require of the plaintiff his fees for the service. When executed he shall immediately return the summons, with the date and manner of the service, to the justice who issued the same.

For manner of service, see sections 482, 483, 485-490. Voluntary appearance, section 490. Service by telephone is insufficient: Lowman v. Ballard, 168-16. The endorsement of service on the summons by the officer is sufficient in the absence of evidence to the contrary: Marler Co. v. Clothing Co., 150-519.

1489. Process issued to another county. No process shall be issued by any justice of the peace to any county other than his own, unless one or more bona fide defendants shall reside in, and also one or more bona fide defendants shall reside outside of, his county; in which case, only, he may issue process to any county in which any such nonresident defendant resides.

This being a restricted legislative grant of power, when exercised it must be strictly pursued: Fertilizer Co. v. Marshburn, 122-414. Process under this section must be issued or addressed to officers of county where same is to be served: Ibid.

This section does not apply to foreign corporations: Allen-Fleming Co. v. R. R., 145-37; see section 1494. Where summons issued against a resident of county and a nonresident of county, and on trial summons amended by striking out name of resident defendant, justice should dismiss action: Wooten v. Maultsby, 69-462.

Process can issue to another county only when one or more bona fide defendants reside in plaintiff's county and one or more bona fide defendants reside in the other county: Austin v. Lewis, 156-461; Marler Co. v. Clothing Co., 150-519; Rutherford v. Ray, 147-253. A judgment rendered upon such improper process is void: Rutherford v. Ray, 147-253—and a lien filed on the land of the nonresident defendant within the county of the justice will not render the proceeding valid, Ibid.

Section referred to in Dixon v. Haar, 158-341; Fisher v. Bullard, 109-574.

1490. Civil process in inferior courts. The process of any recorder's court, county court, or other court inferior to the superior courts of the state, when such court is exercising the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in civil matters, shall run only as does the process of the court of a justice of the peace for the county in which such court is located.

See Oil Co. v. Grocery Co., 169-521.

1491. Endorsement of process to another county. In all civil actions in courts of justices of the peace where one or more of the defendants may reside in a county other than that of the plaintiff, it shall be lawful for any justice of the peace within the county where such defendant or defendants may reside, upon proof of the handwriting of the justice of the peace who issued the process, to endorse his name on the same, or a duplicate thereof, and such process so endorsed shall be executed in like manner as if it had been originally issued by the justice endorsing it.

Rev., s. 1449; Code, s. 872.

Process should be directed to officer of county where it is to be served: Fertilizer Co. v. Marshburn, 122-415. This section and section 1492 only method of procedure; endorsement of warrants, etc., applies only to criminal actions: Dixon v. Haar, 158-341.

Section referred to in Oil Co. v. Grocery Co., 169-521; Austin v. Lewis, 156-461; Lilly v. Purcell, 78-82.

1492. Certificate of clerk on process for another county. In all cases referred to in the preceding section it shall be lawful for the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the action is brought to certify, under the seal of his court, on the process or a duplicate thereof, that the justice of the peace who issued the same is an acting justice of the peace in his county. And in all such cases it shall be the duty of any sheriff or constable to whom it may be directed to make an entry of the date of its reception, and to execute the same as provided for the service of civil process in courts of justices of the peace, and return it by mail to the justice of the peace from whose court it issued.

See cases cited under section 1491. Section referred to in Wooten v. Maultsby, 69-463.

1493. Judgment against defendant in another county. No justice of the peace shall enter a judgment under the two preceding sections against any defendant who may be a nonresident of his county, unless it shall appear that the process was duly served upon him at least ten days before the return day of the same.

Rev., s. 1451; Code, s. 874; 1876-7, c. 57.

Section applies only to cases where justice's summons issued against defendant residing in another county: Williams v. B. and L. Assn., 131-268. This is not sufficient ground to dismiss the action, but reasonable time should be given to defendant to make defense: Bank v. Carlile, 174-624; Laney v. Hutton, 149-264.

1494. Service on foreign corporation. Whenever any action of which a justice of the peace has jurisdiction shall be brought against a foreign corporation, which corporation is required to maintain a process agent in the state, the summons may be issued to the sheriff of the county in which such process agent resides, and when certified under the seal of his office by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the justice issuing such summons resides to be under the hand of such justice, the sheriff of the county to which such summons shall be issued shall serve the same as in other cases and make due return thereof. No justice of the peace shall enter a judgment in such cases against any such foreign corporation unless it shall appear that the process was duly served upon such process agent at least twenty days before the return day of the same. The summons may be made returnable at a time to be therein named, not exceeding forty days from the date of such summons: Provided, this section shall not apply to actions commenced in a county where the defendant has an officer or agent upon whom process may be served.

For agent of foreign corporation upon whom process can be served, see sections 483, 1137, 6414.

Under this section a summons issued against a foreign corporation to a county where it has a process agent, properly certified under seal of the clerk, served on such corporation or its agent more than twenty days before return day, is valid: Allen-Fleming Co. v. R. R., 145-39. An action for a penalty can be brought against a foreign defendant before a justice of the peace in any county in which defendant does business or has property, or where plaintiff resides: Ibid.

Section merely referred to in Kelly v. Lefaiver, 144-7; Oil Co. v. Grocery Co., 169-521.

1495. Attendance of witnesses. The justice, on application of either party, shall, by a subpoena or by an order in writing, on the process, direct the constable or other officer to summon witnesses to appear and give testimony at the time and place appointed for the trial. Each witness failing to appear shall forfeit and pay eight dollars to the party at whose instance he was summoned, and shall be further liable to such party for all damage sustained by non-attendance. The fine herein imposed may be recovered, on motion, before the justice who tried the action, unless the witness on a notice of five days, by affidavit or other proof, show sufficient excuse for his failure to attend.

Justice not authorized to put witness under bond to appear at subsequent trial before him: Lovick v. R. R., 129-427—and if he does so he, and those advising him to do so, thereby become trespassers, Ibid. Section merely referred to in State v. Aiken, 113-652.

1496. Subpœna issued to another county. Justices of the peace, in all civil cases, may issue subpœnas to counties other than their own; such subpœnas shall be authenticated in the same manner as provided by law for the authentication of process. When so authenticated the sheriff, constable or other officer to whom the same is directed shall execute and return the same as provided for the return of process: Provided, that where witnesses attend in counties other than their own under such subpœna they shall receive the same per diem and mileage as witnesses who attend the superior courts: Provided further, that before issuing such subpœnas the party wanting such witness shall deposit with the justice before whom the cause is pending one day's per diem and the mileage of the witness to and returning from place of trial, which amount shall be paid to the witness on his attendance and taxed against the party cast in the trial.

1497. Subpœna duces tecum in case against railroad. When any action is brought against a railroad company before a justice of the peace, the justice before whom such action is made returnable shall have power to issue a subpœna to any county within the limits of the state, commanding the president or any officer, director, agent, or any one in the employment of such company, to appear before him at the time and place of trial and to produce such books, cards and other papers as the justice shall deem proper, and to give evidence in said cause; and each witness summoned as aforesaid failing or refusing to appear and testify and produce the books and papers aforesaid in obedience to such writ shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of court and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 1454; 1885, c. 221, s. 2.

ART. 13. PLEADING AND PRACTICE

Rev., s. 1455; Code, s. 907; 1880, c. 15; 1883, c. 66; 1917, c. 48.

Justice's duty, upon affidavit and motion for removal being filed, to remove case before another justice residing in same township: State v. Ivie, 118-1227; State v. Warren, 100-489 (act of 1917, c. 48, requires only written request)—though if no other justice in same township, can remove case to justice of neighboring township, State v. Ivie, 118-1227—but if case removed to justice of neighboring township when another justice in township where action originated, justice to whom removed has no jurisdiction and judgment void, Ibid. Section not applicable to mayor's court, and defendant therein not entitled to removal: State v. Joyner, 127-541.

1499. Removal in case of death or incapacity. If any justice of the peace dies or becomes incapacitated by removal, resignation or other cause, having any action, civil or criminal, pending before him, which has not been finally determined, such action shall not abate or be discontinued, but the plaintiff in such civil action, or any one on behalf of the state in such criminal action, may remove such action for further and final determination before any other justice of the peace of the same township in which the original action was pending, or before any justice of the peace of the same county when there is no other in the township, by filing the papers in said action with the justice to whom the same is removed and by giving ten days notice to the defendant of such removal; and if the plaintiff in any civil action shall fail to give such notice of removal within ten days from the happening of the death, removal, or resignation, or incapacity of such justice, then the defendant in such action may remove the same by giving like notice to the plaintiff; and if no notice is given by either party to such action within twenty days, then such action shall stand discontinued without prejudice. The justice of the peace before whom such action may be removed shall proceed to try and determine the same, but he shall demand no fees or costs which have heretofore been properly advanced by any party to such action. After such removal either party shall be entitled to all the rights given in the preceding section.

1500. Rules of practice:

Rule 1, Pleadings. The pleadings in these courts are—

1. The complaint of the plaintiff.
2. The answer of the defendant.

Rev., s. 1457; Code, s. 840.

Referred to in Baxter v. Irvin, 158-277; Poston v. Rose, 87-282.

Rule 2, Complaint. The complaint must state, in a plain and direct manner, the facts constituting the cause of action.

Rev., s. 1459; Code, s. 840, Rule 3.

For contents of complaint generally, see section 506. Where no written pleadings before justice, summons constitutes complaint: Parker v. Southern Express Co., 132-130, and cases there cited; Moore v. Wolfe, 122-711; Cromer v. Marsha, 122-564; Allen v. Jackson, 86-321. Justice should require plaintiff to state in plain and direct manner facts constituting cause of action: Smith v. Newberry, 140-385—and substance of oral pleadings entered by justice on docket must contain in plain and direct manner the ground of action, Montague v. Brown, 104-161. See, also, Love v. Huffines, 151-378; Baxter v. Irvin, 158-277.

Rule 3, Answer. The answer may contain a denial of the complaint, or of any part thereof, and also a statement, in a plain and direct manner, of any facts constituting a defense or counterclaim.

For important annotations as to answers in general, see section 519. For important and full annotations on counterclaims generally, see section 521.

Memorandum "general issue" entered on justice's docket as embracing defendant's defense is construed to mean a general denial of plaintiff's cause of action: Blackwell v. Dibrell, 103-270. Pendency of another action must be specially pleaded in answer or is deemed waived: Montague v. Brown, 104-163; Blackwell v. Dibrell, 103-270; Hawkins v. Hughes, 87-115—and former judgment must be specially pleaded, for it will not be considered under plea merely denying indebtedness, Smith v. Lumber Co., 140-375; Blackwell v. Dibrell, 103-270; Harrison v. Hoff, 102-126. In oral pleadings, if facts relied upon as defense be new matter, notice of same must be given on docket in plain and direct manner: Montague v. Brown, 104-161. See Baxter v. Irvin, 158-277.

Counterclaim in excess of $200 cannot be entertained by justice: Ijames v. McClamroch, 92-362; Hurst v. Everett, 91-403; Raisin v. Thomas, 88-148; Meneely v. Craven, 86-364; Boyett v. Vaughan, 85-363—and want of jurisdiction cannot be cured by entering remitter in superior court, Ijames v. McClamroch, 92-362; Raisin v. Thomas, 88-148—nor has justice jurisdiction of counterclaim in damages assessed by jury at more than $200, though voluntarily reduced to that amount, Raisin v. Thomas, 88-148—but defendant may recoup damages to amount claimed in complaint, Hurst v. Everett, 91-399—and where several actions brought on notes, he has right to set up such defense in each until amount of damages exhausted, Ibid. Defendant may plead as a set-off or defense a claim over $200, but not as a ground for affirmative relief: Cheese Co. v. Pipkin, 155-394; R. R. v. Dill, 171-176.

Where court has jurisdiction it seems that claim sounding in damages may be used as set-off: Raisin v. Thomas, 88-148—though counterclaim consisting of alleged indebtedness arising out of unadjusted partnership dealings between partners cannot be set up before justice, Love v. Rhyne, 86-576—and plaintiff cannot set up counterclaim in reply to counterclaim asserted by defendant, Boyett v. Vaughan, 85-363—and counterclaim cannot be set up for enough to extinguish plaintiff's claim and then recover $200, Derr v. Stubbs, 83-539—but claim for funeral expenses may be pleaded as set-off in suit by administrator for debt due intestate, Barbee v. Green, 86-158.

Equitable defense may be set up before justice: Levin v. Gladstein, 142-482, and cases under section 1473.

Distinction between counterclaim, set-off, and recoupment pointed out in Hurst v. Everett, 91-399; Raisin v. Thomas, 88-150.

Since pleadings may be oral, no judgment is rendered on a counterclaim for failure of plaintiff to reply: Teal v. Templeton, 149-32.

Rule 4, Demurrer. Either party may demur to a pleading of his adversary, or to any part thereof, when it is not sufficiently explicit to enable him to understand it, or contains no cause of action or defense, although it be taken as true.

Rev., s. 1461; Code, s. 840, Rule 11.

For demurrer generally, see sections 503-518.

Rule 5, Order on demurrer. If the justice deem the objection well founded, he shall order the pleading to be amended on such terms as he may think just; and if the party refuse to amend, the defective pleading shall be disregarded.

For amendments generally, see section 547.

Rule 6, Pleadings, oral or written. The pleadings may be either oral or written; if oral, the substance must be entered by the justice on his docket; if written, they must be filed by the justice, and a reference to them be made on his docket.

Rev., s. 1458; Code, s. 840, Rule 2.

Pleadings may be oral: Montague v. Brown, 104-161; Little v. McCarter, 89-237—but if so, substance must be entered on docket, Montague v. Brown, 104-161. Different pleadings explained: Baxter v. Irvin, 158-277. When written pleadings are filed, material allegations not denied may be taken as admitted: Parker v. Horton, 176-143.

The rule as to verification of pleadings does not apply to justice's court: Building Co. v. Hardware Co., 173-55—nor does the rule as to reply to counterclaim, Teal v. Templeton, 149-32.

Section referred to in Durham v. Wilson, 104-598.

Rule 7, No particular form for pleadings. Pleadings are not required to be in any particular form, but must be such as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is meant.

Section merely referred to in Smith v. Newberry, 140-387; Turner v. McKee, 137-253.

Rule 8, No judgment by default. Where a defendant does not appear and answer, the plaintiff must still prove his case before he can recover.

Section merely referred to in Durham v. Wilson, 104-598; Montague v. Brown, 104-163.

Rule 9, Action on account or note. In an action or defense, founded on an account, or an instrument for the payment of money only, it is sufficient for a party to deliver the account or instrument to the justice and state that there is due him thereon from the adverse party a specified sum, which he claims to recover or set off.

In action before justice on promissory note exhibition of same with statement that specified sum is due thereon, which plaintiff seeks to recover, is sufficient complaint: Evans v. Williamson, 79-86.

Rule 10, Account or demand exhibited. The justice may at the joining of issue require either party, at the request of the other, at that or some other specified time to exhibit his account or demand, or state the nature thereof as far as may be in his power; and in case of his default, the justice shall preclude him from giving evidence of such parts thereof as have not been so exhibited or stated.

Rev., s. 1469; Code, s. 840, Rule 10.

Bill of particulars may be ordered by court if demanded: McPhail v. Johnson, 115-302. Section referred to in Blackwell v. Dibbrell, 103-274.

Rule 11, Variance. A variance between the evidence on the trial and the allegations in a pleading shall be disregarded as immaterial, unless the court is satisfied that the adverse party has been misled to his prejudice thereby.

Rev., s. 1466; Code, s. 840, Rule 8.

As to variance generally, see section 552.

Rule 12, No process quashed for want of form. No process or other proceeding begun before a justice of the peace, whether in a civil or a criminal action, shall be quashed or set aside for the want of form, if the essential matters are set forth therein; and the court in which any such action shall be pending shall have power to amend any warrant, process, pleading or proceeding in such action, either in form or substance, for the furtherance of justice, on such terms as shall be deemed just, at any time either before or after judgment.

Rev., s. 1467; Code, s. 908; R. C., cc. 3, 62, s. 22; 1794, c. 414.

For annotations generally upon subject of amendment of pleading, process, etc., see under sections 545-547.

The power of amendment of criminal process hereunder is not unconstitutional: State v. Crook, 91-536. For history of power of amendment in justices' courts, see State v. Vaughan, 91-532.

As justices of the peace are clothed with large jurisdiction in criminal matters and are almost universally men unlearned in the law, very liberal powers of amendment should be accorded them, that offenders may not escape just penalties by opposing with technical objections: State v. Bryson, 84-783.

A justice may allow officer to amend the return of a summons, where same manifestly incorrect, by inserting proper date of service: State v. Warren, 113-684. Justice may allow plaintiff to amend a summons against register of deeds in action for penalty for wrongly issuing marriage license, by inserting the words "without reasonable injury": Laney v. Mackey, 144-630—may allow amendment of summons in claim and delivery to state value of property when value is not over $50, so as to show jurisdiction, not to give jurisdiction, Cox v. Grisham, 113-279; Leathers v. Morris, 101-184; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Barrett, 95-36.

Civil process served by town constable where same not addressed to him, but he was specially deputed, may be amended after service: Baker v. Brem, 127-322, reversing same case in 126-367 on rehearing.

Justice has power to allow amendment of criminal warrant or affidavit: State v. Sykes, 104-694—but warrant cannot be amended by striking out offense charged and inserting new and different offense, State v. Taylor, 118-1262; State v. Crook, 91-539; State v. Vaughan, 91-532. Where amendment does not change nature of action, power to amend is unrestricted: State v. Wernwag, 116-1063, and cases cited.

Where warrant before justice is informal, it may be aided by affidavit if same refers to it, and if court can see from both that offense sufficiently charged, warrant will be sustained: State v. Gupton, 166-257; State v. Norman, 110-487; State v. Sykes, 104-694; State v. Winslow, 95-649—but affidavit of complainant does not constitute essential part of warrant issued thereon, State v. Bryson, 84-780—and if warrant charges criminal offense it will be sustained, Ibid.

Superior court, on appeal from justice's court, pursues a liberal policy as to amendments, see Shelton v. Kivett, 110-408; State v. Currie, 161-276; Laney v. Mackey, 144-630; Stationery Co. v. Express Co., 152-342; McBride v. Welborn, 119-508; Starke v. Cotten, 115-81; McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298; Moore v. Garner, 109-157; State v. Baker, 106-758; Leathers v. Morris, 101-184; Allen v. Jackson, 86-321; Bank v. McArthur, 82-107; Beville v. Cox, 109-265; Thomas v. Simpson, 80-4; Johnson v. Rowland, 80-1; Lane v. Morton, 78-7; Hinton v. Deans, 75-18; State v. Cauble, 70-62; Bullard v. Johnson, 65-436. A justice's warrant may be amended in superior court, even after verdict: State v. Smith, 103-410—but it must be made to conform to evidence elicited on trial and shown by record, State v. Baker, 106-758. Superior court may amend affidavit and warrant on appeal from justice: State v. Poythress, 174-809; State v. Price, 175-804; State v. Yellowday, 152-793; State v. Davis, 111-729; State v. Gillikin, 114-832. The warrant of a justice may be amended in superior court upon the finding of a special verdict: State v. Telfair, 130-645.

In warrant to recover penalty under a statute, an averment alone that amount claimed is "due by penalty," without stating the facts or pointing out particular statute under which penalty is claimed, is insufficient, but judge may allow amendment on appeal to superior court: Stone v. R. R., 144-220.

Justice's record can be amended on appeal to superior court so as to speak the truth as to what took place in his court: State v. Jenkins, 121-637, and cases cited on page 642; Bank v. McArthur, 82-107.

Summons in action before justice may be amended on appeal by superior court to show, but not to confer, jurisdiction: McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298; Baker v. Brem, 126-367; but see same case, 127-322.

Section merely referred to in State v. Hester, 122-1050; Godwin v. Early, 114-12; Green v. Deberry, 24-345; Clark v. Hellen, 23-423; Mead v. Boyd, 19-521.

Rule 13, Pleadings amended. The pleadings may be amended at any time before the trial, or during the trial, or upon appeal, when by such amendment substantial justice will be promoted. If the amendment be made after the joining of the issue, and it appears to the satisfaction of the court, by oath, that an adjournment is necessary to the adverse party, in consequence of such amendment, an adjournment shall be granted. The court may also, in its discretion, require as a condition of an amendment the payment of costs to the adverse party.

Upon an appeal in civil action from magistrate to superior court, the latter has power to amend the pleadings and allow new pleas, or matters of defense, to be set up, and its action in this respect is not ordinarily reviewable: Moore v. Garner, 109-157; Hinton v. Deans, 75-18; Stationery Co. v. Express Co., 152-342; see section 547 for additional cases. Section referred to in Cox v. Grisham, 113-280; State v. Shine, 149-480.

Rule 14, Tender of judgment. The defendant may, on the return of process and before answering, make an offer in writing to allow judgment to be taken against him for an amount, to be stated in such offer, with costs. The plaintiff shall thereupon, and before any other proceeding be had in the action, determine whether he will accept or reject such offer. If he accept the offer, and give notice thereof in writing, the justice shall file the offer and the acceptance thereof, and render judgment accordingly. If notice of acceptance be not given, and if the plaintiff fail to obtain judgment for a greater amount, exclusive of costs, than has been specified in the offer, he shall not recover costs, but shall pay to the defendant his costs accruing subsequent to the offer.

Tender must be made, before defense set up, to pay specific sum in discharge of plaintiff's claim, and not sum in excess of counterclaim: Rand v. Harris, 83-486—and tender to pay specific amount "as settlement of matter" not sufficient, Ibid.

Money paid into court as a tender, if taken out by plaintiff, is a settlement of debt, he having accepted same upon conditions and terms annexed: Cline v. Rudisil, 126-523. Tender by tenant of rent accrued after termination of lease does not preclude landlord from recovering possession: Vanderford v. Forem, 129-217. Where plaintiff recovers no more than the tender, he should be taxed with costs: Pollock v. Warwick, 104-638; see Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-256, and cases cited; Russ v. Brown, 113-227. Offer of compromise not accepted cannot be given in evidence: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137.

Rule 15, Continuance. Any justice before whom an action is brought may, on sufficient excuse therefor shown on the affidavit of either party or any person for him, continue such action from time to time for trial; but such continuance shall not exceed thirty days.

Rev., s. 1472; Code, s. 840, Rule 17.

Rule 16, Chapter on civil procedure applicable. The chapter on civil procedure, respecting forms of actions, parties to actions, the times of commencing actions, and the service of process, shall apply to justices' courts.

Rev., s. 1473; Code, s. 840, Rule 15.

The provision that service of summons on a corporation must be by delivering a copy also applies, under this section, to service of process issued from justice's court: Aaron v. Lumber Co., 112-190; Katzenstein v. R. R., 78-287. Appointment of next friend: Houser v. Bonsal, 149-51. The right of defendant, served by publication, to defend after judgment, under section 492, does not apply, the remedy being under section 1530: Thompson v. Notion Co., 160-519.

Section referred to in Ditmore v. Goins, 128-325; Fisher v. Bullard, 109-575; Montague v. Brown, 104-163.

Rule 17, Attachment proceedings. The chapter on civil procedure is applicable to proceedings by attachment before justices of the peace, in all cases founded on contract wherein the sum demanded does not exceed two hundred dollars, and where the title to real estate is not in controversy.

For attachment proceedings, see section 798 et seq. Section cited in Thompson v. Notion Co., 160-519.

Rule 18, Claim and delivery and arrest and bail. The chapter on civil procedure is applicable, except as herein otherwise provided, to proceedings in justices' courts concerning claim and delivery of personal property and arrest and bail, substituting the words, "justice of the peace" for "judge," "clerk" or "clerk of the court," and inserting the words "or constable" after "sheriff," whenever they occur.

For arrest and bail, see section 767 et seq.; for claim and delivery, see section 830 et seq. Section cited in Thompson v. Notion Co., 160-519.

Rule 19, Actions for damages and for conversion. All actions in a court of a justice of the peace for the recovery of damages to real estate, or for the conversion of personal property, or any injury thereto, shall be commenced and prosecuted to judgment under the same rules of procedure as provided in civil actions in a justice's court.

Rev., s. 1476; Code, s. 888; 1876-7, c. 251.

Section authorizing action for "damages" not exceeding $50 to property, though property be of greater value, is constitutional: Malloy v. City of Fayetteville, 122-480—but does not authorize actions for slander, libel and other unliquidated damages not arising out of injury to property, Malloy v. City of Fayetteville, 122-486. Justice has jurisdiction of action for damages not exceeding $50 for injury to personal property, notwithstanding same of greater value than $50, Malloy v. City of Fayetteville, 122-480; Watson v. Farmer, 141-452—and has jurisdiction of action for damages to real estate where sum demanded not more than $50, Duckworth v. Mull, 143-461.

Rule 20, Action on former judgment. On the trial of an action founded on a former judgment, the judgment itself shall be evidence of the debt, subject to such payments as have been made.

Rev., s. 1477; Code, s. 844.

A judgment of a justice of the peace, if not docketed in superior court within a year of rendition, is dormant and can only be given efficacy by a new action upon it before a justice: Woodard v. Paxton, 101-26.

Judgment of justice not competent evidence without proof of his handwriting: Patterson v. Freeman, 132-357; Reeves v. Davis, 80-209—of his being in office at the time, and the rendition of the same within his court, Ibid.

Rule 21, Rehearing of case. When a judgment has been rendered by a justice, in the absence of either party, and when such absence was caused by the sickness, excusable mistake or neglect of the party, such absent party, his agent or attorney, may, within ten days after the date of such judgment, apply for relief to the justice who awarded the same, by affidavit, setting forth the facts, which affidavit must be filed by the justice; whereupon the justice, if he deem the affidavit sufficient, shall open the case for reconsideration; and to this end, he shall issue a summons, directed to a constable, or other lawful officer, to cause the adverse party, together with the witnesses on both sides, to appear before him at a place and at a time, not exceeding twenty days, to be specified in the summons, when the complaint shall be reheard, and the same proceedings had as if the case had never been acted on. If execution has been issued on the judgment, the justice shall direct an order to the officer having such execution in his hands, commanding him to forbear all further proceedings thereon, and to return the same to the justice forthwith.

See section 1528; also see, as to recordari, annotations under section 630. For annotations as to mistake or excusable neglect, see section 600.

While new trial cannot be granted by justice, a rehearing may be allowed by him where sickness, mistake or excusable neglect is shown: Salmon v. McLean, 116-209; Navassa Guano Co. v. Bridgers, 93-439; Gambill v. Gambill, 89-201; Froneburger v. Lee, 66-333—provided application be made within ten days after date of judgment, Bullard v. Edwards, 140-644; Navassa Guano Co. v. Bridgers, 93-439; Gambill v. Gambill, 89-201—but after lapse of that time justice cannot rehear such cause, Navassa Guano Co. v. Bridgers, 93-439—remedy then by recordari.

Where rehearing wrongly granted to defendant, and on day of rehearing plaintiff moves for a continuance, he does not thereby waive his rights: Bullard v. Edwards, 140-644.

Where agent of corporation appeared and secured continuance before justice, but neglected to employ counsel until trial day, when, on account of delay in mail, counsel was unable to appear, held inexcusable neglect: Finlayson v. Accident Co., 109-196—and where cause removed at party's request, and he made no inquiry of justice to whom removed, but relied upon assurance of officer of court, held not due diligence, Bullard v. Edwards, 140-644. When a judgment is rendered upon service by publication, the defendant is not entitled to a rehearing, but remedy is under section 1530: Thompson v. Notion Co., 160-519. Proceeding to set aside a judgment rendered upon improper service: Lowman v. Ballard, 168-16.

Judgment rendered by justice and, upon rehearing by him, similar judgment rendered, statute of limitations begins to run from latter judgment: Salmon v. McLean, 116-209.

Section referred to in Merrell v. McHone, 126-529; Hogan v. Kirkland, 64-251.

ART. 14. JURY TRIAL

1501. Parties entitled to a jury trial. When an issue of fact shall be joined before a justice, on demand of either party thereto, he shall cause a jury of six men to be summoned, who shall try the same.

Const., Art. 4, s. 27.

1502. Jury trial waived. A trial by jury must be demanded at the time of joining the issue of fact, and if neither party demand at such time a jury, they shall be deemed to have waived a trial by jury.

Rev., s. 1431; Code, s. 857.

Quere: Whether principle that on indictments originating in superior court trial by jury cannot be waived by accused applies to appeals in criminal actions of which justices have final jurisdiction: State v. Wells, 142-590.

The provision of the federal constitution that no person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law does not imply that all trials in state courts shall be by jury: Caldwell v. Wilson, 121-425. The right of appeal to superior court preserves the right of jury trial: State v. Shine, 149-480, and cases cited.

For trial by jury in criminal actions before justice, see sections 4627, 4628.

Section merely referred to in Durham v. Wilson, 104-598.

1503. Number constituting the jury. Six jurors shall constitute a jury in a justice's court, but, by consent of both parties, a less number may constitute it.

Rev., s. 1440; Code, s. 866.

1504. Jury list furnished. The clerk of the board of commissioners shall furnish, on demand, to each justice of the peace in the county, a list of the jurors for the township for which such justice is elected or appointed.

Rev., s. 1428; Code, s. 854.

As to how commissioners select jury lists, see sections 2312, 2313.

For annotations concerning jury box of county, of interest also in connection with this section, see section 2313. Consult State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Hensley, 94-1026.

1506. Fees deposited for jury trial. Before a party is entitled to a jury he shall deposit with the justice the sum of three dollars for jury fees, and the justice shall pay to all persons who attend, pursuant to the summons, as well to those who do not actually serve as to those who do serve, twenty-five cents each, to be included in the judgment as part of the costs, in case the party demanding the jury recover judgment, but not otherwise. The justice shall refund to the party the fees of all jurors who do not attend.

Rev., s. 1432; Code, s. 869.

1507. Jury drawn and trial postponed. When a trial by jury is demanded, the justice shall immediately, in the presence of the parties, proceed to draw the names of twelve jurors from division marked number one of the jury box; and the trial of the cause shall thereupon be postponed to a time and place to be fixed by the justice.

Rev., s. 1433; Code, s. 858.

No constitutional limitation upon powers of legislature to prescribe method by which jurors are to be selected and summoned: State v. Brittain, 143-668. For annotations as to drawing jury for superior court, which may be of interest, see section 2314.

1508. Summoning the jury. A list of the jurors so drawn shall be immediately delivered by the justice to any constable, or other lawful officer, with an order indorsed thereon, directing him to summon the persons named in the list to appear as jurors at the time and place fixed for the trial; and it is the duty of the officer to proceed forthwith to summon such jurors, or so many of them as can be found, according to the order; and he shall make return thereof at the time and place appointed, stating in his return the names of the jurors summoned by him.

For summoning jurors in superior court, see section 2320.

1509. Selection of jury. At the time and place appointed, and on return of the order, if the trial be not further adjourned, and if adjourned, then at the time and place to which the trial shall be adjourned, the justice shall proceed, in the presence of the parties, to draw from the jurors summoned the names of six persons to constitute the jury for the trial of the issue.

Rev., s. 1435; Code, s. 860.

For practice in superior court, see section 2333.

1510. Challenges. Each party shall be entitled to challenge, peremptorily, two of the persons drawn as jurors.

Rev., s. 1436; Code, s. 861.

For practice in superior court, see sections 2324-2326, 2331, 2332, 4633, 4634.

1511. Names returned to the jury box. The scrolls containing the names of jurors not summoned, if any, and of those summoned but not drawn, and of those drawn but challenged and set aside, must be returned by the justice to his jury box, in division marked number one: Provided, that the scrolls containing the names of such as are not legally liable or legally qualified to serve as jurors shall be destroyed.

Rev., s. 1437; Code, s. 862.

1512. Names of jurors serving. The scrolls containing the names of the jurors who serve on the trial of an issue must be placed in the jury box in division marked number two, until all the scrolls in division marked number one have been drawn out. As often as that may happen, the whole number of scrolls shall be returned to division marked number one, to be drawn out as in the first instance.

Rev., s. 1441; Code, s. 868.

1513. Tales jurors summoned. If a competent and indifferent jury is not obtained from the twelve jurors drawn, as before specified, the justice may direct others to be summoned from the bystanders, sufficient to complete the jury.

Rev., s. 1438; Code, s. 863.

For practice in superior court, see sections 2321, 2322.

1514. No juror to serve out of township. No person is compelled to serve as a juror in a justice's court out of his own township, except as a talesman.

Rev., s. 1439; Code, s. 867.

1515. Additional deposit for jury fees on adjournment. No adjournment shall be granted after the return of the jury, unless the party asking the same shall, in addition to the other conditions imposed on him by law or by the justice, deposit with the justice, to be immediately paid to the jurors attending, the sum of twenty-five cents each, such amount to be in no case included in the judgment as part of the costs. On such adjournment, the jurors shall attend at the time and place appointed, without further summons or notice; and the fees for the jury, deposited with the justice in the beginning, shall remain in his hands until the jury are impaneled on the trial, and shall be then immediately paid to the jurors or to the party entitled thereto.

Rev., s. 1442; Code, s. 870.

1516. Jury sworn and impaneled; verdict; judgment. The jury shall be sworn and impaneled by the justice, who shall record their verdict in his docket and enter a judgment in the case according to such verdict.

Rev., s. 1443; Code, s. 864.

ART. 15. JUDGMENT AND EXECUTION

1517. Justice's judgment docketed; lien and execution. A justice of the peace, on the demand of a party in whose favor he has rendered a judgment, shall give a transcript thereof which may be filed and docketed in the office of the superior court clerk of the county where the judgment was rendered. And in such case he shall also deliver to the party against whom such judgment was rendered, or his attorney, a transcript of any stay of execution issued, or which may thereafter be issued, by him on such judgment, which may be in like manner filed and docketed in the office of the clerk of such court. The time of the receipt of the transcript by the clerk shall be noted thereon and entered on the docket; and from that time the judgment shall be a judgment of the superior court in all respects for the purposes of lien and execution. The execution thereon shall be issued by the clerk of the superior court to the sheriff of the county, and shall have the same effect, and be executed in the same manner, as other executions of the superior court; but in case a stay of execution upon such judgment shall be granted, as provided by law, execution shall not be issued thereon by the clerk of the superior court until the expiration of such stay. A certified transcript of such judgment may be filed and docketed in the superior court clerk's office of any other county, and with like effect, in every respect, as in the county where the judgment was rendered, except that it shall be a lien only from the time of filing and docketing such transcript.

Rev., s. 1479; Code, s. 839.

THE JUDGMENT ITSELF. A justice is under no obligation to write out and sign his judgments with his own hand. He may have them written and his name signed thereto in his presence and under his supervision without making himself liable for delegating his jurisdictional powers: Reeves v. Davis, 80-209.

Ordinarily it is a justice's duty to pronounce judgment on day of trial, but in cases of difficulty he may reserve his decision until he can be properly advised, and afterwards enter judgment and give parties notice of his action: Ibid.; Osborne v. Furn. Co., 121-364.

Justice's judgment is conclusive and binding until legally set aside, modified or reversed: Dunham v. Anders, 128-212; Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-342; Hiatt v. Simpson, 35-72—and though docketed in superior court it remains as before, a judgment of the justice when to be impeached, modified or reversed, Oldham v. Rieger, 148-548; Bailey v. Hester, 101-540; Patterson v. Walton, 119-501; Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-344; Cotton Mills v. Cotton Mills, 116-647; Morton v. Rippey, 84-611; Birdsey v. Harris, 68-92; Ledbetter v. Osborne, 66-379.

EFFECT OF DOCKETING THE JUDGMENT. When judgment docketed in superior court it becomes judgment of superior court: Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968; McIlhenny v. Savings and Trust Co., 108-311; Adams v. Guy, 106-275; Cannon v. Parker, 81-322—though it only becomes a judgment of superior court for purpose of creating lien upon real estate of judgment debtor in county, and for purpose of enforcing same by execution or otherwise, Pants Co. v. Mewborn, 172-332; Oldham v. Rieger, 148-548; Tarboro v. Pender, 153-427; Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-345; Woodard v. Paxton, 101-29; Surratt v. Crawford, 87-374; Broyles v. Young, 81-315; Cannon v. Parker, 81-322; Ledbetter v. Osborne, 66-380.

When judgment has become dormant it cannot be revived by docketing in superior court, Cowen v. Withrow, 114-558; Woodard v. Paxton, 101-26; Williams v. Williams, 85-385. When regularly docketed in superior court judgment cannot be collaterally impeached: Moore v. Edwards, 92-43. Judgment may be docketed in superior court, though appeal taken and security given to stay execution, Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968—and when so docketed in superior court lien is not destroyed by appeal and supersedeas bond, Ibid.—but being so docketed does not arrest running of statute of limitations, Daniel v. Laughlin, 87-433. When judgment given in one county it cannot be docketed in another, unless previously docketed in county where rendered: McAden v. Banister, 63-479. The lien of the docketed judgment expires in ten years, notwithstanding the death of the judgment debtor: Matthews v. Peterson, 150-134.

The transcript of a judgment need not contain more than essential particulars constituting judgment: Surratt v. Crawford, 87-372—the names of plaintiff and defendant, amount of judgment and costs of action being sufficient, Lee v. Bishop, 89-257. It should show jurisdictional facts for the protection of purchasers under execution: Rutherford v. Ray, 147-253. Judgment may be docketed from original papers before justice, instead of from transcript: McAden v. Banister, 63-479.

Where justice's judgments docketed in superior court on same day, they are entitled to priority according to time of day when docketed: Bates v. Hinsdale, 65-423.

Where transcript authenticated by justice's certificate, judgment is presumed to have been regularly taken, though judgment proper not signed by justice: Surratt v. Crawford, 87-372.

Execution on docketed justice's judgment shall be issued to sheriff and be executed in same manner as other executions of superior court: Cannon v. Parker, 81-322; see section 675 et seq. The judgment may be revived as other judgments, when dormant: Pants Co. v. Mewborn, 172-332.

For annotations with respect to judgments generally, see section 614.

1518. Effect of judgment on appeal. In cases of appeal to the superior court from a justice's judgment docketed in such court, when judgment is rendered in the superior court on such appeal, the lien acquired by the docketing of such justice's judgment shall merge into the judgment of the superior court, and continue as a lien from the date of the docketing of such justice's judgment, and be superior to any other judgment docketed subsequent to the date of the justice's judgment, except prior attachment liens and judgment on the same. The clerk of the superior court shall carry forward and tax into the judgment of the superior court all costs incurred in the justice's court, including transcript and docketing, as well as all costs incurred in the superior court, and shall issue execution only on the judgment rendered in the superior court, and not upon the justice's judgment. When the judgment of the superior court is satisfied, it shall be a satisfaction of the justice's judgment, and the clerk shall note such satisfaction on the record of the justice's judgment.

Rev., s. 1479; 1903, c. 179.

An appeal does not prevent the docketing of a judgment, nor affect the lien; Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968. The judgment does not become dormant by failure to issue execution pending an appeal, when a bond to stay execution is given: Ibid.

1519. Entries made by clerk when judgment is rendered. Whenever a transcript of a judgment taken before a justice of the peace is docketed on the judgment docket of the superior court and the same is afterwards reversed, modified, or affirmed in the superior court on appeal by a final judgment, the clerk of said court shall within ten days thereafter enter on the judgment docket where the said transcript was first docketed, the word "reversed," "modified," or "affirmed," as the case may be, and further refer to the book and page where can be found the judgment reversing, modifying, or affirming the former judgment. Any clerk failing to perform such duties as are required of him in this section shall pay to any person all such damages as he may have sustained by such failure.

1520. Justice's judgment removed to another county. Any person who may desire to have a justice's judgment in his favor removed to another county to be enforced against the goods and chattels of the defendant must obtain from the justice who rendered the judgment a transcript thereof, under his hand; and must further procure a certificate from the clerk of the superior court of the county where the judgment was rendered, under the seal of his court, that the justice who gave the judgment was, at the rendition thereof, a justice of the county. On such transcript of the judgment, thus certified, any justice in any other county may award execution for the sum therein expressed.

Rev., s. 1480; Code, s. 846.

Judgment rendered by justice in one county cannot be docketed in another, unless previously docketed in former county: McAden v. Banister, 63-479—and what allowed to be docketed in latter county is transcript of judgment as docketed in former, Ibid. For sufficient transcript for docketing in another county, see Wilson v. Patton, 87-318. Docketing in another county is only for purpose of giving a lien: Bernhardt v. Brown, 122-587.

An execution issued to another county and all proceedings under it are void, unless it bears the seal of the clerk of county where rendered: Taylor v. Taylor, 83-116.

1521. Issue and return of execution. Execution may be issued on a judgment, rendered in a justice's court, at any time within one year after the rendition thereof, and shall be returnable sixty days from the date of the same.

Rev., s. 1481; Code, s. 840, Rule 14.

Justice may issue execution on judgment unless cause has been removed to and docketed in superior court: Bailey v. Hester, 101-540—and may also recall execution which has been improvidently issued, Ibid.—but justice has no jurisdiction to direct application by sheriff of proceeds of execution issued by another justice, upon ground that same is null and void, Cary v. Allegood, 121-54.

Judgment of justice not docketed within year of rendition is dormant: Cowen v. Withrow, 114-558; Woodard v. Paxton, 101-26—and vitality can only be restored by new action, Ibid.; Williams v. Williams, 85-383—and purchaser under execution on justice's judgment docketed after lapse of year acquires no title, though he be a stranger to judgment and without notice, Cowen v. Withrow, 114-558.

Judgment of justice does not become dormant by failure to issue execution thereon pending an appeal from judgment when bond has been given to stay execution: Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968.

1522. Levy and lien of execution. Executions issued by a justice, which must be directed to any constable or other lawful officer of the county, shall be a lien on the goods and chattels of the defendant named therein, from the levy thereof only, but shall not be levied on or enforced in any manner against real estate; but when a justice's judgment shall be made a judgment of the superior court, as is elsewhere provided, the execution shall be capable of being levied and collected out of any property of the defendant in execution, and it shall be a lien on the real estate of said defendant from the time when it becomes a judgment of the superior court.

Rev., s. 1482; Code, s. 841; 1868-9, c. 159, s. 5.

Execution must be directed to any constable or other lawful officer of the county: McGloughan v. Mitchell, 126-681—and if it comes into the hands of sheriff he must obey it, though constable cannot serve process addressed to sheriff, nor can sheriff serve process addressed to constable alone, Ibid. It is not necessary that judgment should be docketed in superior court to entitle judgment creditor to execution against personal property: McAuley v. Morris, 101-372. Judgment of justice when docketed in superior court becomes judgment of that court, and is a lien upon real estate of defendant in county: Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968, and cases under sections 1517 and 614—and lien of judgment not extinguished by appeal and supersedeas bond, Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968; Dunham v. Anders, 128-212.

Leave to issue execution on justice's judgment docketed in superior court can be granted after lapse of seven years from such docketing, but before lapse of ten years: Broyles v. Young, 81-315; Daniel v. Laughlin, 87-433; Patterson v. Walton, 119-500; Adams v. Guy, 106-275.

Superior court has no jurisdiction of original motion to set aside an execution and order of sale granted by a justice of the peace: Hamer v. McCall, 121-197.

1523. Stay of execution. In all actions founded on contract, whereon judgments are rendered in justices' courts, stay of execution, if prayed for at the trial by the defendant or his attorney, shall be granted by the justices in the following manner: For any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars, one month; for any sum above twenty-five dollars and not exceeding fifty dollars, three months; for any sum above fifty dollars and not exceeding one hundred dollars, four months; for any sum above one hundred dollars, six months. But no stay of execution shall be allowed in any action wherein judgment is rendered on a former judgment taken before a justice of the peace.

Rev., s. 1483; Code, s. 842; 1868-9, c. 272.

1524. Security on stay of execution. The party praying for a stay of execution shall, within ten days after the trial, give sufficient security, approved by the justice, for payment of the judgment, with interest thereon till paid, and cost; and the acknowledgment of the surety, entered by the justice in his docket and signed by the surety, shall be sufficient to bind such surety. If the judgment be not discharged at the time to which execution has been stayed, the justice who awarded the judgment shall issue execution against the principal, or surety, or both.

Rev., s. 1484; Code, s. 843.

Judgment does not become dormant by failure to issue execution thereon pending appeal from same where bond given to stay execution: Dysart v. Brandreth, 118-968; see Dunham v. Anders, 128-212.

One who signs stay of execution upon judgment as surety becomes thereby party to judgment and bound in like manner as principal: Barringer v. Allison, 78-79.

1525. Stay of execution on appeal. In all cases of appeal from justices' courts, if the appellant desires a stay of execution of the judgment, he may, at any time, apply to the clerk of the appellate court for leave to give the undertaking as provided in a subsequent section; and the clerk, upon the undertaking being given, shall make an order that all proceedings on the judgment be stayed. Instead of before the clerk of the appellate court, the appellant may give the undertaking before the justice who tried the cause, who shall indorse his approval thereon.

Rev., ss. 1485, 1486; Code, ss. 882, 883; 1869-70, c. 187.

In action on stay bond provided herein, it is not necessary that plaintiff allege that he has sustained damages on account of appeal: McMinn v. Patton, 92-371.

No execution shall be levied on property of sureties on appeal bond until execution against principal returned unsatisfied: Rush v. Steamboat Co., 68-72.

Even though a stay bond is given on appeal, the judgment otherwise remains in full force and effect, even retaining its lien upon real estate when properly docketed: Dunham v. Anders, 128-212.

No statutory provision allowing mortgage of real or personal property to be given in lieu of undertaking on appeal: Comron v. Standland, 103-207—yet if such mortgage given, and is accepted by opposing litigant, mortgage valid and can be enforced, Ibid.

Section merely referred to in Blair v. Coakley, 136-409; Dunham v. Anders, 128-212.

1526. Nature of undertaking. The undertaking shall be in writing, executed by one or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by the justice or clerk making the order, to the effect that if judgment be rendered against the appellant, the sureties will pay the amount together with all costs awarded against the appellant, and when judgment shall be rendered against the appellant, the appellate court shall give judgment against the said sureties.

Rev., s. 1487; Code, s. 884; 1879, c. 68.

Undertaking with sureties that appellant will pay all costs awarded against him on appeal, and, if judgment affirmed or appeal dismissed, will pay amount adjudged to be paid, is in compliance with section: Walker v. Williams, 88-7—and it is not necessary that appellant should sign undertaking in order to bind him, Ibid.

No statutory provision allowing mortgage to be given in lieu of undertaking on appeal: Comron v. Standland, 103-207—yet if such mortgage given and accepted by appellee, same valid and can be enforced, Ibid.

Effect of bankruptcy, pending appeal, upon liability of sureties to appeal undertaking: Laffoon v. Kerner, 138-281; Hamilton v. Mooney, 84-12.

Summary judgment may be given against sureties on bond for amount of judgment and costs awarded against appellant on appeal: Brown v. Brittain, 84-552—as additional remedy to suit on same as common-law bond, Ibid. In action on bond, not necessary to allege that plaintiff had sustained damage on account of the appeal: McMinn v. Patton, 92-371. Sufficiency of bond under this section discussed in McMinn v. Patton, 92-371. Sufficiency of mortgage given in lieu of undertaking on appeal, discussed in Comron v. Standland, 103-207.

Sureties to appeal bond are bound for amount of judgment rendered in superior court, and their liability is not restricted to amount of judgment appealed from: Walker v. Williams, 88-7.

Section merely referred to in Dunham v. Anders, 128-212.

1527. Execution stayed upon order given. A delivery of a certified copy of the order, hereinbefore mentioned, to the justice of the peace shall stay the issuing of an execution on the judgment; if it has been issued, the service of a certified copy of such order on the officer holding the execution shall stay further proceedings thereon. A certified copy of such order shall also be served on the respondent, or on his agent or attorney, within ten days after the making thereof.

Rev., s. 1488; Code, s. 885.

Section referred to in Dunham v. Anders, 128-212; Comron v. Standland, 103-211.

ART. 16. APPEAL

1528. No new trial; either party may appeal. A new trial is not allowed in a justice's court in any case whatever; but either party dissatisfied with the judgment in such court may appeal therefrom to the superior court, as hereinafter prescribed.

Rev., s. 1489; Code, s. 865.

Also sections 660, 661. New trial cannot be had in justice's court, but party dissatisfied with judgment has remedy by appeal: Thompson v. Notion Co., 160-519; Bullard v. Edwards, 140-647; State v. Lucas, 139-567; Salmon v. McLean, 116-209; Navassa Guano Co. v. Bridgers, 93-441; Gambill v. Gambill, 89-201; Froneburger v. Lee, 66-333—though defendant by voluntarily paying judgment waives right of appeal, Cowell v. Gregory, 130-80.

Appeal allowed either party in bastardy proceedings, as it is a civil action: State v. Liles, 134-742; State v. Crouse, 86-617; Steadman v. Jones, 65-390. Appeal must be taken to next term of superior court: Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172; Ballard v. Gay, 108-544; Sondley v. Asheville, 110-84; Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650. Merely craving an appeal and filing bond is not taking appeal: Tedder v. Deaton, 167-479; MacKenzie v. Development Co., 151-276; Love v. Love, 139-363; Blair v. Coakley, 136-409; Wilson v. Seagle, 84-110—for appellant must look after case and see that appeal made effectual, Love v. Love, 139-363—and must at least put officer under obligation to act by paying or tendering fees, Blair v. Coakley, 136-409.

There is no appeal from a confession of judgment: Rush v. Steamboat Co., 67-47—and none from an interlocutory judgment, Phelps v. Worthington, 92-270. Appeal lies from the taxing of prosecutor with costs: State v. Morgan, 120-563—but does not lie on the part of the state for a refusal to tax prosecutor, Ibid.; see cases cited on page 564 of case. An appeal from judgment discharging one who has been arrested in a civil action vacates judgment and the order of arrest continues in force pending the appeal: Patton v. Gash, 99-280.

Legislature cannot take away right of appeal: Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-655.

For recordari as substitute for an appeal, see section 630.

1529. Appeal does not stay execution. No appeal shall prevent the issuing of an execution on a judgment, or work a stay thereof, except as provided for by giving an undertaking and obtaining an order to stay execution.

Rev., s. 1490; Code, s. 875; 1876-7, c. 251, s. 6.

Appeal from justice does not vacate judgment, nor even suspend its operation: Dunham v. Anders, 128-211—and party in whose favor judgment rendered has right to have execution issued where no undertaking given, Comron v. Standland, 103-210.

Section merely referred to in Blair v. Coakley, 136-409; State v. Morgan, 120-564; Moore v. Garner, 109-158; State v. Wallin, 89-580; Marshall v. Lester, 6-227.

1530. Manner of taking appeal. The appellant shall, within ten days after judgment, serve a notice of appeal, stating the grounds upon which the appeal is founded. If the judgment is rendered upon process not personally served, and the defendant did not appear and answer, he shall have fifteen days, after personal notice of the rendition of the judgment, to serve the notice of appeal herein provided for.

Rev., s. 1491; Code, s. 876; 1876-7, c. 251, s. 7.

Appeals from justices of the peace must be taken and notice served within ten days from judgment: Marion v. Tilley, 119-473; Finlayson v. Accident Co., 109-196; Green v. Hobgood, 74-234; Spaugh v. Boner, 85-208—but the court may allow it to be taken afterwards, West v. Reynolds, 94-333; Railroad v. Richardson, 82-343; Marsh v. Cohen, 68-283; see annotations as to recordari under section 630—and if judgment was given on process not personally served, but served by publication, and defendant did not appear at trial, defendant may take fifteen days after notice of judgment in which to serve notice of appeal, Thompson v. Notion Co., 160-519; Merrell v. McHone, 126-528; King v. R. R., 112-318; State v. Johnson, 109-855—but if the adverse party or his attorney is present at the trial, appellant can give notice in open court, Arundell v. Mill Co., 164-238; Marion v. Tilley, 119-473; State v. Crouse, 86-617; Richardson v. Debnam, 75-390.

Notice of appeal must be given either under this section or in open court: Tedder v. Deaton, 167-479. The notice of appeal must be served by an officer: Clark v. Mfg. Co., 110-111; State v. Johnson, 109-852—and within ten days, State v. Johnson, 109-852; Spaugh v. Boner, 85-208—stating the grounds upon which appeal is taken, Spaugh v. Boner, 85-208—service to be made both upon justice who tried case and upon appellee, State v. Johnson, 109-852—though justice may by conduct waive service of formal notice, Osborne v. Furn. Co., 121-365.

If defendant personally served with summons he has notice and bound to take notice of judgment: Spaugh v. Boner, 85-209; Sparrow v. Davidson College, 77-35; McDaniel v. Watkins, 76-399. What amounts to notice of judgment discussed in McDaniel v. Watkins, 76-399.

Section referred to in Davenport v. Grissom, 113-40; Montague v. Brown, 104-163; Railroad v. Richardson, 82-344.

1531. No written notice of appeal in open court. Where any party prays an appeal from a judgment rendered in a justice's court, and the adverse party is present in person or by attorney at the time of the prayer, the appellant shall not be compelled to give any written notice of appeal either to the justice or to the adverse party.

Rev., s. 1492; Code, s. 877; 1869-70, c. 187; 1876-7, c. 251, s. 8.

Where appellee present when appeal prayed, no written notice of appeal necessary: State v. Crouse, 86-620; Richardson v. Debnam, 75-390—though where not so present, notice as required by section 1530 must be issued and served, Tedder v. Deaton, 167-479; Marion v. Tilley, 119-473—and where appeal prayed in open court, but appellant afterwards told justice not to send up papers, though afterwards changed his mind and filed appeal bond with clerk of court, he was not estopped to prosecute appeal, Suttle v. Green, 78-76.

Section referred to in Davenport v. Grissom, 113-40; Clark v. Mfg. Co., 110-113.

1532. Justice's return on appeal. The justice shall, within ten days after the service of the notice of appeal on him, make a return to the appellate court and file with the clerk thereof the papers, proceedings and judgment in the case, with the notice of appeal served on him. He may be compelled to make such return by attachment. But no justice shall be bound to make such return until the fees, prescribed by law for his service, be paid him. The fee so paid shall be included in the costs, in case the judgment appealed from is reversed.

Justice allowed ten days to send up papers after service of notice of appeal: Sondley v. Asheville, 110-89—and if he fail to do so, may be compelled to make return by attachment, Hawks v. Hall, 139-176. Statement of testimony heard by justice is not properly part of the return to notice of appeal: Vinson v. Knight, 137-408. Failure of justice to sign return does not vitiate proceedings where appellant gave notice and paid fee, and appellee made no motion to dismiss, but entered general appearance: Hawks v. Hall, 139-176. Motion to dismiss appeal not docketed within ten days properly refused where delay due to counsel of appellee: Jerman v. Gullledge, 129-242. Superior court is not bound to recognize supplemental return to notice of appeal, where same voluntarily made by justice: Beville v. Cox, 109-265. After justice transmits appeal and papers to superior court, he has no power to grant motion to set aside judgment for want of jurisdiction: Forbes v. McGuire, 116-449.

The appeal must be docketed at the next term, either civil or criminal, beginning after the expiration of ten days allowed for service of notice of appeal: Barnes v. Saleeby, 177-256; Abell v. Power Co., 159-348; Peltz v. Bailey, 157-166; Blair v. Coakley, 136-405; Johnson v. Andrews, 132-376; Pants Co. v. Smith, 125-588; Davenport v. Grissom, 113-38; Sondley v. Asheville, 110-84; Ballard v. Gay, 108-544. Appellant must see that his appeal is docketed in proper time: Rawls v. R. R., 172-211; Abell v. Power Co., 159-348; Love v. Huffines, 151-378; McKenzie v. Development Co., 151-276; Johnson v. Andrews, 132-376. The superior court has no power to permit docketing at a later term: Barnes v. Saleeby, 177-256, and cases cited; but the appellee may waive a defect in the return and docketing, Love v. Huffines, 151-378.

Where there were two cases between the same parties, and upon appeal from judgment in each case the justice consolidated them and sent up one transcript, the appeal should be dismissed: Drainage Comrs. v. Kirby, 172-415.

Where defendant appealed and appeal was duly docketed, but defendant failed to appear, there should be a trial of the case and not a dismissal of appeal: Barnes v. R. R., 133-130.

For further regulations as to appeals, see sections 660, 661. Section referred to in West v. Reynolds, 94-335; Phelps v. Worthington, 92-271; Poston v. Rose, 87-281; Ledbetter v. Osborne, 66-380.

1533. Defective return amended. If the return be defective, the judge or clerk of the appellate court may direct a further or amended return as often as may be necessary, and may compel a compliance with the order by attachment.

Rev., s. 1494; Code, s. 879.

If return defective, judge may direct further or amended return: Hawks v. Hall, 139-176; State v. Currie, 161-276.

1534. Restitution ordered upon reversal of judgment. If the judgment appealed from, or any part thereof, be paid or collected, and the judgment be afterwards reversed, the appellate court shall order the amount paid or collected to be restored, with interest from the time of such payment or collection. The order may be obtained on proof of the facts made at or after the hearing of the appeal, on a previous notice of six days. If the order be obtained before the judgment of reversal is entered, the amount may be included in the judgment.

Rev., s. 1495; Code, s. 886.

Section only applicable where payments made involuntarily: Cowell v. Gregory, 130-81—for defendant by voluntarily paying judgment before justice waives right of appeal, Cowell v. Gregory, 130-80.

SUBPŒNA TO TESTIFY

State of North Carolina, _____ County.

To S. T. _____, greeting: (the justice may insert any number of necessary names).

You (and each of you) are commanded to appear personally before G. W. H., Esq., a justice of the peace for said county, at his office in said county, on the _____ day of _____, 19____, to give evidence in a certain civil action now pending before said justice, and then and there to be tried, between A. B., plaintiff, and C. D., defendant, on the part of the defendant (or plaintiff).* Herein fail not, under the penalty prescribed by law. Witness our said justice, this _____ day of _____, 19____

G. W. H. _____

See sections 1495-1497.

[No. 27]

N. B.—The justice may, instead of a formal subpœna, indorse on the summons or other process an order for witnesses, substantially as follows:

The officer to whom the within process is directed will summon the following persons as witnesses for the plaintiff: _____; and the following as witnesses for the defendant: _____; and will notify all such witnesses to appear and testify at the time and place within named for the return of this process.

Dated this _____ day of _____, 19____

See section 1495.

SUBPŒNA DUCES TECUM

If any witness has a paper or document which a party desires as evidence at the trial, the justice will pursue the form No. 26 as far down as the asterisk (*) and then add the following clause:

And you, S. T., are also commanded to bring with you and there produce as evidence a certain bond (describe particularly) which is now in your possession or under your control, together with all papers, documents, writings or instruments in your custody, or under your control. (Conclude as in form No. 26.)

See sections 1497, 1805.

FORM OF OATH OF WITNESS

You swear that the evidence you will give as to the matters in difference between A. B., plaintiff, and C. D., defendant, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. So help you, God.

[No. 30]

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST DEFAULTING WITNESS

When a witness, under subpœna, fails to attend, the justice will note the fact in his docket by some such entry as the following:

R. P., a witness summoned on behalf of the plaintiff, called and failed.

If the party who suffers by default of the witness wishes to move for the penalty against him, he will serve substantially the following notice on the witness:

To R. P.:

Take notice, that on the ____ day of _____, 19____, the plaintiff in the above action will move G. W. H., Esq., the justice before whom the trial of said action was had, on the ____ day of _____, 19____, for judgment against you for the sum of _____ dollars, forfeited by reason of your failure to appear and give evidence on said trial as you were summoned to do.

Dated this ____ day of _____, 19____ A. B. _____, Plaintiff.

The justice will enter the proceedings on the foregoing notice on his docket as follows:

A-----B-----	} Justice's Court. against
C-----D-----

_____ day of _____, 19____, A. B., above named, appears, and according to a notice filed and duly served on R. P., moved for the penalty of _____ dollars forfeited by the said R. P. by reason of his failure to attend and give evidence on the trial of a cause, wherein A. B. was plaintiff and C. D. was defendant, tried before me at my office on the ____ day of _____, 19____, as appears by entry duly made on my docket; when and where the said R. P., a witness summoned on the part of the plaintiff in that action, was called and did fail.

R. P. appears and assigns for excuse "high water," and offers his own affidavit, which is filed. He also offers as a witness in his behalf S. S., who, being duly sworn, testifies that (state what S. S. says about the condition of the water at the time). R. P., having no other evidence, closed the case on his part. Whereupon A. B. offered M. Y. as a witness, who, being sworn, testifies (state what witness says).

Neither party having any other evidence, and after hearing all the proofs and allegations submitted for and against the motion, it is adjudged, on motion of A. B., that A. B. do recover of R. P. the sum of _____ dollars, penalty forfeited by reason of the premises, and the further sum of _____ dollars, costs of this motion.

FORM OF A VENIRE

The justice will make a list of the persons drawn by him as jurors, and indorse thereon substantially as follows:

To O. P. M., constable of ----- County:

You are hereby directed to summon the persons named within to appear as jurors before me at my office in your county, on the ----- day of -----, 19----, for trial of a civil action now pending between A. B., plaintiff, and C. D., defendant, then and there to be tried. And have you then and there the names of the jurors you shall summon, with this precept.

Dated this ----- day of -----, 19----

G. W. H.-----
Justice of the Peace.

[No. 32]

FORM OF JUROR'S OATH

You swear well and truly to try the matter in difference between A. B., plaintiff, and C. D., defendant, and a verdict to give thereon according to the evidence in the cause. So help you, God.

Juror need not repeat words "so help me, God": State v. Paylor, 89-539. See section 1516.

FORM OF OATH TO CONSTABLE IN CHARGE OF THE JURY

You swear that you will, to the utmost of your ability, keep the persons sworn as jurors on this trial together in some private and convenient place, without any meat or drink, except such as may be ordered by the court; that you will not suffer any communication, orally or otherwise, to be made to them, and that you will not communicate with them yourself, orally or otherwise, unless by order of the court. So help you, God.

SUMMONS AGAINST DEFAULTING JUROR TO SHOW CAUSE

State of North Carolina, to any constable or other lawful officer of ----- County—
Greeting:

We command you to summon R. S. to appear before G. W. H., Esq., a justice of the peace for your county, at his office in said county, on the ----- day of -----, 19----, to show cause why he, the said R. S., should not be fined according to law for his nonattendance as a juror before our said justice at his office in said county on the ----- day of -----, 19----, in a certain cause then and there pending, in which A. B. was plaintiff and C. D. was defendant; and have you then and there this precept, with the date and manner of your service thereof.

Witness, our said justice, this ----- day of -----, 19----

G. W. H.-----
Justice of the Peace.

[No. 35]

DEMURRER TO COMPLAINT

(Title as in No. 1)

The defendant demurs to the complaint in this action, for that the said complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action (or, for that the said complaint is not sufficiently explicit to enable this defendant to understand it).

See section 1500, rule 4.

DEMURRER TO ANSWER

(Title as in No. 1 or No. 5)

The plaintiff demurs to the answer of the defendant, for that the facts stated in the answer are not legally sufficient to constitute a defense to this action (or, for that the said answer is not sufficiently explicit to make this plaintiff understand it).

See section 1500, rule 4.

JUDGMENT UPON DEMURRER

NOTE.—If the justice thinks the objection raised by the demurrer to the pleadings is well founded, he will make this entry on his docket:

Demurrer to the complaint (or to the answer) filed, heard and sustained; and whereupon it is ordered that the said pleading be amended without cost (or upon payment of costs, as the case may be).

This order to amend the defective pleading is a matter of course, and is the only judgment which the justice can render upon demurrer. He cannot give a final judgment in the cause at this stage, for the party may choose to amend his pleadings and try the case on the facts. If, however, the party refuse to amend the defective pleading, the justice will disregard the same, and proceed to render final judgment, as follows:

The plaintiff (or defendant) having refused to amend his complaint (or his answer) demurred to, it is adjudged that the defendant go without day and recover of the plaintiff the sum of ----- dollars, costs of this action (or that the plaintiff recover of the defendant the sum of ----- dollars, damages, and the further sum of ----- dollars, costs of this action.)

If the justice deem the objection, raised by the demurrer, not well founded, he will enter in his docket as follows:

Demurrer to the complaint (or to the answer) filed, heard and overruled, and he will then proceed to the evidence in the cause.

NOTE.—The following is offered as a general precedent of the manner in which the justice will make the entries in his docket:

As to allowing amendment to pleadings when demurrer sustained, see sections 545-547, 1500, rules 5, 12, 13.

-----, 19----. Summons issued; returnable on the ---- instant at my office.
 -----, 19----. Summons returned, served on defendant by O. P. M., constable, on the ---- instant, both parties appear, the plaintiff in person, the defendant by R. H. R., Esq., attorney.

The plaintiff complains on a promissory note executed by the defendant to him, dated -----, 19----, payable one day after date, for $-----, and also for goods sold and delivered to the defendant, and claims damages for $-----

The defendant answers and denies each and every allegation in the complaint, and claims a setoff of $----- for wood sold and delivered to the plaintiff, and also of $----- for work and labor performed for the plaintiff.

On joining issue of fact as above, the action is, by consent of parties, adjourned to the ---- instant, at my office.

A venire is also issued at the plaintiff's (or defendant's) demand, returnable at the time and place last mentioned.

-----, 19----. The parties appear and proceed to the trial of the cause. The following jurors are returned as summoned upon the venire by O. P. M., constable. (Insert the names of all jurors summoned.) The following jurors, who are returned as summoned, do not appear. (Insert their names.) The following jurors appear according to the summons. (Insert their names.) The following jurors are sworn to try the action. (Insert their names.)

H. P. and J. M., witnesses for the plaintiff, and W. F., a witness for the defendant, are sworn and testify; J. S., a witness on the part of the defendant, is offered, but objected to by the plaintiff on the ground (state the ground), and rejected.

Having heard the evidence (and the arguments of counsel, if any), the cause is submitted to the jury, who retire, under charge of O. P. M., a constable duly sworn for that purpose, and afterwards return in open court and publicly deliver their verdict, by which they find in favor of the plaintiff for $----- damages; whereupon, I adjudged that the plaintiff do recover of the defendant—

FORM OF NOTICE OF APPEAL TO THE SUPERIOR COURT, WHERE A NEW TRIAL OF THE WHOLE MATTER IS TO BE HAD

To G. W. H., Esq., a justice of the peace for said county.

Take notice, that the defendant in the above action appeals to the Superior Court from the judgment rendered therein by you on the ----- day of -----, 19----, in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of sixty-five dollars damages and the further sum of three dollars and seventy-five cents costs, and that this appeal is founded upon the ground that the said judgment is contrary to law and evidence.

Dated this ----- day of -----, 19----

W. W-----
 Attorney for Appellant.

See section 1530.

[No. 40]

RETURN TO NOTICE OF APPEAL

A-----B----- } against } County of -----
 C-----D----- }

To the Superior Court of ----- County:

An appeal having been taken in this action by the defendant, I, G. W. H., the justice before whom the same was tried, in pursuance of the notice of appeal hereto annexed, do hereby certify and return that the following proceedings were had by and before me in said action:

On the first of February, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, at the request of the plaintiff, I issued a summons in his favor and against the defendant, which is herewith sent. Said summons was, on the return day thereof, returned before me at my office; and at the same time and place the parties personally appeared.

The plaintiff complained for goods sold and delivered to defendant to the amount of $75. The defendant denied the right of the plaintiff to recover that amount for the goods, on the ground that he had paid, at or shortly after the purchase of said goods, ----- dollars thereon; and he also claimed to have a setoff against the plaintiff to the amount of $85 for board and lodging furnished to plaintiff and work and labor done for him; and he claimed to be entitled to judgment against the plaintiff for $-----

Both parties introduced evidence upon the claims so made by them, and after hearing their proofs and allegations, I rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant, on the tenth of February, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, for $65 damages, and for the further sum of $3.75, costs of the action.

I also certify that on the eleventh of February, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, the defendant served the annexed notice of appeal on me, and at the same time paid me my fee of $1 for making my return.

All of which I send, together with the process, pleadings, and other papers in the cause.
Dated this 15th day of February, 1904.

G. W. H. _____
Justice of the Peace.

N. B.—If the cause was tried by a jury, state the fact and set forth the verdict, with the judgment thereon. It is not necessary to set out in the return a copy of any process, pleading, affidavit or other paper. It is sufficient to refer to such a paper as filed and as herewith sent.

See sections 1532, 1533.

WHERE THE SUM DEMANDED EXCEEDS TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS

It appearing that the sum demanded by the plaintiff in this action exceeds two hundred dollars, it is ordered that the action be dismissed, and judgment is rendered against A. B., plaintiff, for the sum of _____ dollars, costs.

See sections 1473, 1475.

[No. 42]

WHERE THE TITLE TO REAL ESTATE IS IN QUESTION

N. B.—The defendant, if he wishes to make answer to title, must file a written answer to the complaint, setting forth the facts.

ANSWER OF TITLE

(Title as in No. 1)

The defendant answers to the complaint:

1. That no allegation thereof is true.
2. That the plaintiff ought not to have or maintain his action against the defendant, because the premises mentioned and described in the complaint, at the time when the rent and render, for which said action is brought, is alleged to be due, was and is now the land and freehold of one J. D., and not that of the plaintiff; nor was the plaintiff then, nor is he now, entitled to the possession thereof; and the defendant further answers that the title to said premises was, at the time aforesaid, and is now, in said J. D., and will come in question on the trial of this action.

Dated this _____ day of _____, 19____ C. D. _____, Defendant.

It appearing from the answer and proof of the defendant that the title to real estate is in controversy in this action, it is ordered that the action be dismissed, and judgment is rendered against the plaintiff for _____ dollars, costs.

See sections 1476, 1477.

TENDER OF JUDGMENT

(Title as in No. 1)

To C. D. _____:

Take notice, that the defendant hereby offers to allow judgment to be taken against him by the plaintiff in the above action for the sum of fifty dollars, with costs.

ACCEPTANCE OF TENDER OF JUDGMENT

(Title as in No. 1)

To A. B.----- :

Take notice, that the plaintiff hereby accepts the offer to allow the plaintiff to take judgment in the above action for the sum of fifty dollars, with costs, and the justice will enter up judgment accordingly.

Dated this ----- day of -----, 19----

A. B.-----, Plaintiff.

See section 1500, rule 14.

[No. 45]

FORM OF JUDGMENT ON TENDER

(Title as in No. 1)

N. B.—The justice will state all the proceedings in the action from the issuing of the summons down to the appearance of the parties and the complaint of the plaintiff, and then proceed as follows :

Whereupon, the said defendant, before answering said complaint, made and served an offer, in writing, to allow the plaintiff to take judgment against him for the sum of fifty dollars with costs;* and the said plaintiff thereupon accepted such offer, and gave notice thereof to the defendant in writing; said offer and acceptance thereof being filed;

Now, therefore, judgment is accordingly rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for the sum of fifty dollars damages, and the further sum of one dollar, costs.

If notice of acceptance is not given, the entry will be as follows :

(Follow the foregoing form down to the asterisk (*) and then add) :

And the said plaintiff having refused to accept such offer, the defendant answered the complaint by denying, etc. (state the defense of the defendant down to the judgment, which, in case the plaintiff fails to recover more than the sum mentioned in the offer, will be entered thus) :

After hearing the proofs and allegations of the respective parties, I adjudge that the plaintiff do recover the sum of fifty dollars damages, and the further sum of one dollar, costs.

I further adjudge that the defendant do recover of the plaintiff the sum of two dollars and seventy-five cents, costs accruing in the action subsequent to the offer of the defendant referred to.

EXECUTION IN ATTACHMENT

(Title as in No. 1)

State of North Carolina, to any constable or other lawful officer of _____ County—
Greeting:

Whereas, in pursuance of a warrant of attachment, dated the _____ day of _____, 19____, issued by G. W. H., Esq., a justice of the peace of said county, in an action wherein A. B. was plaintiff and C. D. defendant, the following property of defendant was, on the _____ day of _____, 19____, duly levied on and attached:

(Here insert a list of property)

And whereas, judgment was rendered in said action, on the _____ day of _____, in favor of said plaintiff, and against the said defendant in the sum of _____ dollars:

Therefore, we command you that you satisfy the said judgment out of the property so attached as aforesaid, by the sale of the same or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy the said judgment; and if a sufficient sum be not realized therefrom, then you satisfy the said judgment out of any other goods and chattels of the said judgment debtor within your county.

And make due return thereof according to law within sixty days from the date hereof.

RECORD OF CONVICTION OF A CONTEMPT

The justice will make an entry in his docket stating the particular circumstances of the contempt, of which the following is offered as an example:

Whereas, on the _____ day of _____, 19____, while engaged in the trial of an action (or other judicial act, as the case may be) in which A. B. was plaintiff and C. D. was defendant, at my office in _____ County, M. B. did willfully and contemptuously interrupt me, and did then and there conduct himself so disorderly and insolently towards me, and by making a loud noise did disturb the proceedings on said trial (or other judicial act) and impair the respect due to the authority of the law; and on being ordered by me to cease making such noise and disturbance, the said M. B. refused so to do, but on the contrary did publicly declare and with loud voice (state whatever offensive words were used); and whereas, when immediately called upon by me to answer for the said contempt said M. B. did not make any defense thereto, nor excuse himself therefrom; the said M. B. is therefore convicted of the contempt aforesaid, and is adjudged to pay a fine of five dollars and be imprisoned in the county jail for the term of two days, and until he pays such fine or is duly discharged from imprisonment according to law.

SUBCHAPTER IV. RECORDERS' COURTS

ART. 18. MUNICIPAL RECORDERS' COURTS

For discontinuing the court, see s. 1582.

[Prior to the adoption of this subchapter inferior courts had been created in different localities under different names, and the cases cited in the annotations were decided under such special statutes.]

Legislature has power to establish courts inferior to the superior court and to prescribe their jurisdiction, civil and criminal, subject to constitutional restrictions: State v. Boyd, 175-791; Oil Co. v. Grocery Co., 169-521; State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Collins, 151-648; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Baskerville, 141-811; State v. Lytle, 138-738; Mott v. Comrs., 126-866; McCall v. Webb, 125-243; Wilson v. Jordan, 124-683; Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122-650; Ewart v. Jones; 116-570; State v. Jones, 97-469; Bynum v. Powe, 97-374; Washington v. Hammond, 76-33.

1537. Recorder's election and qualification; term of office and salary. The court shall be presided over by a recorder, who may be a licensed attorney at law, and who shall be of good moral character and, at the time of his appointment or election, a qualified elector of the municipality. The first recorder, upon the establishment of such court, shall be elected by the governing body of the municipality, either at the time of the establishment of the court or within thirty days thereafter, and he shall hold office until the next municipal election and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. If a vacancy occur in the office at any time, the same shall be filled by the election of a successor for the unexpired term by the governing body of the municipality, at the regular or special meeting called for that purpose. After the first elected recorder each succeeding recorder shall be nominated and elected in the municipality in the same manner and at the same time as is now provided by law for the elective officers of the municipality, and in the general election for such officers. Before entering upon the duties of his office the recorder shall take and subscribe an oath of office, as is now provided by law for a justice of the peace, and shall file the same with the clerk of the board of the city or town. The salary of the recorder shall be determined and fixed in advance by the governing body of the city or town, and shall not be increased or decreased during the term of his office, and shall be paid out of the funds of the municipality.

Where a court was created by special statute for a municipal corporation, a mandamus will issue to compel the authorities to elect a recorder: Battle v. Rocky Mount, 156-330.

The requirement that the recorder must be "a licensed attorney at law" is unconstitutional: State ex rel. Spruill v. Bateman, 162-588.

1538. Time and place of holding court. The court shall be opened for the trial of criminal cases at least one day of each week, to be fixed by the governing body of the municipality, and shall continue its session from day to day until all business is legally disposed of. The court shall be held in the city or town hall, or other place provided therefor, and other sessions of the court may be called by the recorder, as necessity may require.

1539. No subsequent change of judgment. When a case has been finally disposed of and judgment pronounced therein, it shall not thereafter be reopened or the judgment or sentence rendered therein be modified, changed or stricken out by the recorder after the adjournment of the regular weekly term or after the adjournment of any special term called by the recorder.

1919, c. 277, s. 3.

Power of court to suspend judgment: State v. Burnette, 173-734; State v. Tripp, 168-150.

1540. Procedure in the court. The recorder shall preside over the court and try and determine all criminal actions coming before him, the jurisdiction of which is conferred by this article, and the proceedings of the court shall be the same as are now prescribed for courts of justices of the peace and for the superior court so far as the same may reasonably apply.

1541. Criminal jurisdiction. The court shall have the following jurisdiction within the following named territory:

1. Original, exclusive, and concurrent jurisdiction, as the case may be, of all offenses committed within the corporate limits of the municipality which are now or may hereafter be given to justices of the peace under the constitution and general laws of the state, including all offenses of which the mayor or other municipal court now has jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction may be exclusive as to offenses within the corporate limits: State v. Baskerville, 141-811.

2. Original and concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace of all offenses committed outside the corporate limits of the municipality and within a radius of two miles thereof, which is now or may hereafter be given to justices of the peace under the constitution and general laws of the state.

Concurrent jurisdiction may be given: State v. Brown, 159-467; State v. Rice, 158-635; State v. Doster, 157-634; State v. Collins, 151-648; State v. Shine, 149-480.

3. Exclusive, original jurisdiction of all other criminal offenses committed within the corporate limits of such municipality and outside, but within a radius of two miles thereof, which are below the grade of a felony as now defined by law, and the same are hereby declared to be petty misdemeanors.

Jurisdiction over petty misdemeanors: State v. Freeman, 172-925; State v. Denton, 164-530; State v. Hyman, 164-411; State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Lytle, 138-738; and such jurisdiction may be exclusive—State v. Collins, 151-648; State v. Alston, 151-650; State v. Shine, 149-480. Provision in special statute to transfer case to superior court: State v. Burnett, 173-750.

4. Concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace to hear and bind over to the superior court all persons charged with any crime committed within the territory above mentioned, of which the recorder's court is not herein given final jurisdiction.

5. All jurisdiction given by the general laws of the state to justices of the peace, or to the superior court, to punish for contempt, to issue writs ad testificandum, and other process to require the attendance of witnesses and to enforce the orders and judgments of the court.

1919, c. 277, s. 4.

1542. Jurisdiction to recover penalties. The recorder's court shall also have jurisdiction to try all actions for the recovery of penalties imposed by law, or by any ordinance of the municipality in which the court is located, for any offense committed within the corporate limits of the municipality or outside thereof within two miles of the corporate limits, and all such penalties shall be recovered in the name of the municipality.

1543. Disposition of cases when jurisdiction not final. In all cases heard by the recorder against any person for any offense whereof the court has not final jurisdiction and in which probable cause of guilt is found, such person shall be bound in a bond or recognizance with sufficient surety to appear at the next succeeding term of the superior court of the county for the trial of criminal cases, and in default of such bond or recognizance he shall be committed to the common jail of the county to await trial; but in all capital cases such person shall be committed to the common jail of the county without bail.

1544. Disposition of cases when jurisdiction final. All persons pleading guilty or convicted in the court of any offense of which the court has final jurisdiction shall be fined or imprisoned, according to law, and any person entering a plea of guilty, or who may be convicted of any such offense, shall also pay the costs of the prosecution.

Power of court to suspend judgment: State v. Burnette, 173-734; State v. Tripp, 168-150. Proceedings must be in open court, and not before recorder in his private office: State v. Burnette, 173-734.

1545. Sentences to be imposed. When any person is convicted, or pleads guilty, of any offense of which the court has final jurisdiction, the recorder may sentence him to the common jail of the county in which the court is held, and assign him to work on the public roads of the county as provided by law; or when such person is a woman or an infant of immature years, the recorder may sentence him or her to the city or county workhouse or state reformatory, or other penal institution provided by law for such purposes. If there is no chain-gang in the county in which the court is held, the recorder may sentence the person to work upon the public roads of any other county provided with a chain-gang for the working of public roads, as authorized by the general laws of the state.

1546. Appeal to superior court. Any person convicted of any offense of which the recorder has final jurisdiction may appeal to the superior court of the county from any judgment or sentence of the recorder, in the same manner as is now provided for appeals from courts of justices of the peace. Upon such appeal the defendant shall be required to give bond or recognizance with sufficient surety for his appearance at the next term of the superior court; and in default thereof the recorder shall commit him to the common jail of the county until he shall give bond or be otherwise discharged by law.

Appeals must be to superior court: State v. Lytle, 138-738; State v. Ray, 122-1097; Pate v. R. R., 122-877; Tate v. Comrs., 122-661; Rhyne v. Lipsecombe, 122-650. And if no appeal is provided, there may be a review by certiorari or recordari: Taylor v. Johnson, 171-84; State v. Tripp, 168-150; State v. Ray, 122-1097; Rhyne v. Lipsecombe, 122-650.

The right of appeal preserves defendant's right to a jury trial: State v. Tate, 169-373; State v. Hyman, 164-411; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Brittain, 143-668; State v. Lytle, 138-738.

A bill of indictment by a grand jury may be dispensed with in petty misdemeanors: State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Jones, 145-460; State v. Lytle, 138-738—but not if the offense charged is a felony, State v. Hyman, 164-411.

No trial de novo under special statutes referred to: State v. Hinson, 123-755; State v. Davidson, 124-839; State v. Bost, 125-707.

1547. Costs paid to the municipality. All costs incurred in issuing warrants and serving the same in cases where the recorder has not final jurisdiction, and for the service of process arising in such cases when the process is served by the officer of the municipality, except as hereinafter provided, shall be paid to the municipality; and officers serving process issued from said court shall be allowed the same fees as are now allowed sheriffs in like cases, the same, when collected, to be paid over as herein provided. Where such officer is not an officer of a municipality such costs shall be dealt with as is now provided by law.

1548. Seal of court. The recorder's court shall have a seal with the impression, "The Recorder's Court of the City of _____," which seal shall be used in the attestation of writs, warrants, or other process, acts, judgments, or decrees of the court, in the same manner and to the same effect as the seal of other courts in the state; but no process issuing from the court, to be executed within the county in which court is held, shall require attestation by seal.

1549. Issuance and service of process. The recorder may issue process to the chief of police of the municipality in which the court is held, or to the sheriff, constable, or other lawful officer of the county in which the municipality is located, or to any other county in the state; and such process, when attested by the seal of the court, shall run anywhere in the state, and shall be executed by all public officers authorized to execute process, and be returned by them according to law.

The summons, warrant of arrest, and every other writ, process, or precept issuing from a recorder's court or other court inferior to the superior court, except justices of the peace, may be signed by the recorder, vice recorder, or presiding justice of the court, or by the clerk of the court or deputy clerk, where the court has a clerk or deputy.

For civil process, see section 1591.

1550. Vice recorder; election and duties. The governing body of the municipality shall, at the same time and in the same manner as is provided herein for the election of the first recorder, elect a vice recorder, who shall have the jurisdiction and authority conferred upon the recorder when the recorder shall be prevented from attending to his duties on account of sickness or other temporary disability or by reason of his temporary absence. The vice recorder shall receive the compensation allowed to the recorder for such services for the time that he may render such service, the compensation of the vice recorder to be deducted from the salary of the recorder, and the vice recorder shall be thereafter elected by the governing body of the municipality for the same term as the recorder is elected, and any vacancy occurring in the office of vice recorder shall be filled in the same manner as is provided for the filling of vacancies in the office of recorder.

1551. Clerk of court; election and duties; removal. The clerk of the recorder's court shall be elected by the governing body of the city or town at the same time and for the same term as the vice recorder, and all vacancies in the office of the clerk of the court shall be filled in the manner provided for filling vacancies in the office of vice recorder. Before entering upon the duties of his office, the clerk shall enter into a bond, with sufficient surety, in a sum to be fixed by the governing body of the municipality, not to exceed five thousand dollars, payable to the state, conditioned upon the true and faithful performance of his duties as such clerk and for the faithful accounting for and paying over of all money which may come into his hands by virtue of his office. The bond shall be approved by the governing body and shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county. The clerk shall make monthly settlements with the county and city treasurers for all money which has come into his hands belonging to either. The clerk of the governing body of the municipality shall ex officio discharge the duties of the clerk of the court, unless the governing body shall elect some other person to discharge the duties. The governing body of the municipality shall have the right to remove the clerk of the court, either for incapacity or for neglect of the duties of his office; and in case of a vacancy for any cause the office shall be filled in the manner hereinbefore provided.

1552. Clerk to keep records. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the court to keep an accurate and true record of all costs, fines, penalties, forfeitures, and punishments by the court imposed, and the record shall show the name and residence of the offender, the nature of the offense, the date of the hearing of the trial, and the punishment imposed, which record shall at all times be open to inspection by any of the city authorities, or other person having business relating to the court. The clerk shall keep a permanent docket for recording all the processes issued by the court, which shall conform to the dockets kept by the clerk of the superior court. He shall also keep in proper files, to be provided by the city, a record of all cases which shall be disposed of in the court and the disposition made thereof.

1553. Clerk to issue process. The clerk of the court shall have all the power and authority now conferred upon justices of the peace to issue warrants for the arrest of all persons charged with the commission of offenses within the territory hereinbefore fixed, which warrants, however, shall be made returnable before the recorder of said court at the next sitting thereof, and shall be issued only upon affidavit made as now required by law to support warrants issued by justices of the peace. The clerk shall also have all power and authority of justices of the peace or clerk of the superior court to issue subpœnas or other process, to run anywhere within the state; and when such subpœnas or other process shall run beyond the county in which the court is located the same shall be attested by the seal of the court, and shall also be signed by the recorder.

The warrant should state the charge with sufficient certainty to enable the court to proceed to judgment: State v. Lunsford, 150-862.

1554. Prosecuting attorney; duties and salary. There shall be a prosecuting attorney in the court, who shall appear for the prosecution in all cases therein and, when specially requested by the governing body of the municipality and the recorder, shall assist in the prosecution of all cases which may be bound over or appealed from the court to the superior court; for his services he shall be paid such amount per annum as may be fixed by the governing body, at the same time and in the same manner as is provided for fixing the salary of the recorder. The prosecuting attorney may, or may not, perform the duties of city attorney, in the discretion of the governing body of the municipality.

1555. Jury trial, as in justice's court. In all trials in the court, upon demand for a jury by the defendant or the prosecuting attorney representing the state, the recorder shall try the same as is now provided in actions before justices of the peace wherein a jury is demanded, and the same procedure as is now provided by law for jury trials before justices of the peace shall apply: Provided, however, that the compensation allowed jurors in all cases wherein the superior court has heretofore had final jurisdiction shall be the same as is allowed jurors in the superior court of the county in which the recorder's court is established.

See section 1501 et seq.

1556. Continuances, recognizances, and transcripts. The recorder's court shall have the same authority to grant continuances, take bonds and recognizances, and render judgments on forfeited bonds and recognizances, as is now vested by law in the superior courts, and the procedure regulating the issuing and service of notices against defendants and their sureties upon bonds and recognizances, and all other proceedings by taking and enforcing judgments in such cases, shall be the same as in the superior court in like cases. Transcripts of any judgments rendered may be docketed in the superior court of the county in which such court is held, in the same manner and with the same effect as judgments of other courts docketed as provided by law.

As to docketing judgments, see sections 613, 614, 1517.

1557. Officers' fees; fines and penalties paid. In each case disposed of by the recorder where the defendant is convicted or pleads guilty, there shall, in addition to other lawful costs, be allowed the following fees, to be taxed as a part of the costs against the defendant, viz.: For recorder, one dollar in each case involving the breach of a municipal ordinance and any crime or offense of which a justice of the peace has final jurisdiction, and a fee of two dollars in all other cases; for the prosecuting attorney, one dollar in all cases of violation of municipi-pal ordinances and of any crime or offense of which a justice of the peace has final jurisdiction, and in all other cases a fee as now provided by law for solicitors prosecuting in the superior court; and for the clerk of such court the same fees as are now allowed to clerks of the superior court in similar cases; but in all cases of the breach of municipal ordinances and cases of which a justice of the peace has final jurisdiction and in which the defendant pleads guilty, the fee herein allowed a prosecuting attorney may be remitted by the recorder in his discretion. All costs recovered and collected in the court, except as herein otherwise provided, shall belong to the municipality and be paid into the treasury thereof. All fines and penalties collected shall be paid by the clerk of the court to the county treasury as provided by law, and all fees allowed by law for an arrest or serving other process in a criminal action, when the same shall have been made by the chief of police or other officer who shall be on a salary, shall be paid over to the treasurer of the municipality for the use of the same, and to reimburse it for the expense of maintaining and supporting the court.

1558. County to pay for offenders' work on roads. Whenever, under any judgment of the court, any defendant is sentenced to work upon the public roads or other public work in the county, or to pay a fine and the costs of the prosecution, or costs only, and the defendant shall in fact work out the sentence or fine and costs, or either, upon the public roads or other public works, as aforesaid, then the county shall be liable for and shall pay to the treasurer of the municipality one-half the amount of the costs taxed in the cause: Provided, the sentence imposed shall be of sufficient length to reimburse the county for one-half of such costs.

1559. Prosecutor may be taxed with costs. The recorder shall have full power, in any case in which he shall adjudge that the prosecution was not required by the public interests, to tax the prosecutor with the costs of such action; and in the event the recorder shall adjudge that prosecution is frivolous or malicious, he may imprison the prosecutor for the nonpayment of such costs, as provided by law for similar cases in other courts. When the costs are paid, they shall belong to the city.

1560. Justice of the peace to bind defendants to recorder's court; procedure thereon. In case any justice of the peace residing within the territory above mentioned shall bind any person over for any offense committed within said territory, of which the justice has committing, but not final, jurisdiction, but of which the recorder's court has final jurisdiction, then such justice of the peace, instead of binding the defendant over to the superior court of the county, shall bind him to appear at the recorder's court on the day succeeding the trial before the justice, at ten o'clock a.m. The justice of the peace shall at once turn over the case to the clerk of said court, and the clerk shall, upon receipt of the same, enter the case upon the docket of the court, and the recorder shall try such person either upon the original warrant under which he was bound over or upon a new warrant to be issued by him for such offense. In all cases the recorder shall have the right to amend any warrant issued by him or by the clerk of the court, or sent up by any justice of the peace as hereinbefore provided, in the same manner and to the same extent as justices of the peace are now authorized by law to make amendments to warrants in justices' courts.

Appeals from justice of the peace must be taken to superior court: State v. Ray, 122-1097.

1561. Transfer of certain cases to recorder's court. All cases which shall be pending in any recorder's, police, mayor's, or other municipal court in the counties where the courts herein provided for shall be established shall, after the election and qualification of recorder and other officers authorized and required by this article, be transferred to the recorders' courts of the respective municipalities, to be tried in the manner and in accordance with the procedure provided; but no case pending in the superior court of any county at the time this article takes effect shall be transferred to the recorder's court, except by order of the presiding judge thereof. No cause shall be removed from the recorder's court as is now provided for the removal of cases from one justice of the peace to another.

Cases pending in superior court cannot be transferred: Tate v. Comrs., 122-661.

1562. Jurisdiction of justice of the peace after three months delay. If any criminal offense committed within the jurisdiction of any recorder's court, of which said court is given original, exclusive and final jurisdiction, is not prosecuted to a final termination within three months after the commission of the offense, any justice of the peace within the territory shall acquire jurisdiction to issue his warrant, apprehend the offender, and dispose of such warrant as is now provided by law.

ART. 19. COUNTY RECORDERS' COURTS

1563. Established by county commissioners. In any county in which a municipal recorder's court may not be established under the provisions of this subchapter, or in which such court has in fact not been established in the county-seat, the board of commissioners may, in their discretion, establish, in the manner provided by this article, a recorder's court for the entire county, which shall be a court of record and shall be held at the county-seat.

1919, c. 277, s. 25.

See annotations under section 1536.

1564. Recorder's election, qualification, and term of office. The court shall be presided over by a recorder, who shall have the same qualifications as provided for recorders of municipalities. The first recorder shall be elected by the board of commissioners of the county, either at the time of the establishment of the court or within thirty days thereafter, and shall hold the office until the next regular election wherein county officers are elected, and until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified; and should a vacancy occur in said office at any time, the same shall be filled by the election of a successor with the qualifications herein provided, for the unexpired term, by the board of county commissioners at a regular or special meeting called for that purpose. The successor of the first recorder herein provided for and each succeeding recorder shall be nominated and elected in the county in the same manner and at the same time as is now provided by law for the nomination and election of the elective officers of the county and in the general election for such elective officers. Before entering upon the duties of his office the recorder shall take and subscribe an oath of office as is now provided by law for justices of the peace, and shall file the same with the clerk of the superior court of the county, who shall duly record the same in a book kept for that purpose. The recorder's salary shall be fixed in advance by the board of commissioners, and paid out of the county funds upon vouchers, and shall not be increased or decreased during his term.

See annotations under section 1537.

1565. Time and place for holding court. The court shall be open for the trial of all criminal causes of which it has jurisdiction at least one day of each week, to be fixed by the board of county commissioners, and shall continue its session from day to day until all business is transacted by trial, continuance, or otherwise. The session of the court shall be held in the county courthouse or other place within the county provided by the board of commissioners for that purpose. Special sessions of the court may be called by the recorder as the necessities may require.

1566. No subsequent change of judgment. When any case has been finally disposed of by the recorder and judgment pronounced therein, the case shall not thereafter be reopened or the judgment or sentence rendered therein changed, modified or stricken out by the recorder after the adjournment of the regular weekly term of court or after the adjournment of any special term of court by the recorder.

1919, c. 277, s. 26.

1567. Criminal jurisdiction. The court shall have jurisdiction in all criminal cases arising in the county which are now or may hereafter be given to a justice of the peace, and, in addition to the jurisdiction conferred by this section, shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all other criminal offenses committed in the county below the grade of a felony as now defined by law, and the same are hereby declared to be petty misdemeanors: Provided, however, that where a special court or recorder's court shall legally exist within such county by virtue of a special act of the legislature passed before the amendments to the constitution in reference thereto, then the county recorder's court, as herein established, shall not have jurisdiction of criminal cases within the territory of such existing recorder's court, so as to interfere with or conflict with the existing recorder's court, but shall have concurrent jurisdiction where the jurisdiction of the two courts covers the same causes or the same subject-matter. This article and the establishment of any court thereunder shall not be construed to repeal, modify or in any wise affect any existing special court or recorder's court by virtue of such former special acts herein referred to.

1568. Jurisdiction and powers as in municipal court. The recorders of county courts herein provided for shall be vested with all the jurisdiction and authority conferred upon recorders of municipal courts, in like manner and to the same extent as if such jurisdiction and authority had been specifically in this section set forth, in so far as such jurisdiction and authority are applicable to such courts, and the provisions of this subchapter relative to municipal recorders' courts shall in all things apply to the county recorders' courts where same are not inconsistent and in so far as same are practically applicable: Provided, this section shall not take away the jurisdiction of a mayor to try breaches of ordinances when such city has no other municipal court.

1569. Removal of cases from justices' courts. When, upon affidavit made before entering on the trial of any cause before any justice of the peace, it shall appear proper for the cause to be removed for trial to some other justice, as is now provided by law, the cause may be removed for trial to the recorder's court of the county.

1570. Defendants bound by justice to recorder's court. In all criminal cases heard by a justice of the peace or other committing magistrate of the county against any person for any offense included within the exclusive jurisdiction of the recorder's court as provided in this article, and in which probable cause of guilt is found, such person shall be bound in a personal recognizance or surety to appear at the next succeeding session of the recorder's court of the county, for trial; and in default of such surety such person shall be committed to the common jail of the county to await a trial.

1571. Trials upon warrants; by whom warrants issued. All trials of criminal causes in said court shall be upon warrant issued by the clerk of the superior court or deputy clerk herein provided for or by the recorder or by any justice of the peace of the county. In either event such warrant shall be issued upon affidavit duly made and subscribed, setting forth the complaint against the defendant.

The warrant should charge the offense with sufficient certainty to enable the court to proceed to judgment: State v. Lunsford, 150-862.

1572. Jury trial as in municipal court. In all trials in county recorders' courts, upon demand for a jury by the defendant or the prosecuting attorney representing the state, a jury shall be had in the same manner and under the same provisions as are set forth in this subchapter in reference to municipal courts, so far as the same may be practically applicable to a county court.

1573. Sentence imposed; fines and costs paid. Whenever any person shall be convicted or plead guilty of any offense of which the court has final jurisdiction the recorder may sentence him to the common jail of the county in which the court shall be held, and assign him to work on the public roads of the county where provision has been made therefor; but if no provision has been made for working convicts upon the public roads in the county, then the recorder may sentence such person to be worked upon the public roads of any other county within the judicial district which has made such provision: Provided, that in case the person so convicted or pleading guilty shall be a woman or an infant of immature years, then the recorder may assign him or her to the county workhouse, reformatory, or other penal institution located in the county; or if there be none, any similar institution that may be located outside of the county to which judges of the superior court are authorized to sentence such person under the general laws of the state. All fines imposed by the court shall be collected by the clerk of such court or the deputy clerk thereof in the same manner as the clerk of the superior court collects fines imposed by the superior court; and, where a defendant is convicted and fails to pay the costs of such conviction, the county shall pay such costs as is allowed by law in similar cases before the superior court.

1574. Appeals to superior court. Any person convicted of any offense of which the county recorder has final jurisdiction may appeal to the superior court from any judgment or sentence of the court in the same manner as is now provided for appeals from the courts of justices of the peace; and any person tried before the recorder for any offense of which the court has not final jurisdiction shall, upon the recorder's finding probable cause of guilt, be bound over to the superior court in the same manner as is provided by law in similar cases before justices of the peace.

See annotations under section 1546.

1575. Clerk of superior court ex officio clerk of county recorder's court. The clerk of the superior court of any county in which a county recorder's court shall be established shall be ex officio clerk of such court. He shall keep separate criminal dockets in his office for such court in the same manner as he keeps criminal dockets in the superior court; he shall otherwise possess all the powers and functions conferred upon, and discharge all the duties required of, clerks of the superior court under the general law; and he shall be liable upon his official bond as clerk of the superior court for all of his official acts and conduct in reference thereto.

1576. Deputy clerk may be appointed. The board of commissioners of any county wherein a county recorder's court may be established shall have the power to appoint a special deputy clerk, who shall assist the clerk of the superior court and shall have all the power and authority in reference to the county recorder's court herein conferred upon the clerk of the superior court, and shall do all things in reference to said recorder's court under the direction of the clerk of the superior court of the county as fully as the clerk of the superior court is authorized to do. The board of commissioners may require and fix the official bond of the deputy clerk for the faithful performance of his duties and fix his salary, which salary shall be fixed before he enters upon his duties and shall not be raised or lowered during his term of office. His term of office shall be for the same time as the term of the recorder of said court, and shall cease at any time that the court itself shall cease to exist.

1577. Compensation of clerk when no deputy appointed. When no deputy clerk is appointed or elected by the board of commissioners, they are authorized to pay annually to the clerk of superior court an amount fixed by the board, which shall be in addition to any salary or fees theretofore allowed by law to the clerk of superior court, and which shall be in compensation for the services rendered by him as clerk of the county recorder's court. Such compensation shall be paid to the clerk of superior court so long as he shall perform the duties of clerk ex officio of the county recorder's court.

1578. Deputy clerk to take oath of office. If any deputy clerk shall be appointed as provided in this article he shall take the oath required of deputy clerks under the general law, and in addition thereto shall take and subscribe to an oath to perform faithfully all the duties required of him under this article, both of which oaths shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and such deputy clerk is further authorized to perform all duties of deputy clerk under the general law in addition to the duties set forth in this article.

1579. Prosecuting attorney may be elected. The board of commissioners of any county availing itself of the provisions of this article may elect, at the same time, in the same manner, and for the same term as herein provided for the election of a deputy clerk, a prosecuting attorney for said court, and fix his compensation in such amount as they may deem suitable for the services to be rendered: Provided, that the board may require the county attorney to discharge the duties of prosecuting attorney in said court, and fix his compensation accordingly.

1580. Fees for issuing and serving process. All justices of the peace, constables and sheriffs issuing or serving warrants or other process returnable to the recorder's court shall have the same fees as are now prescribed by law, which fees shall be collected and paid out in the same manner and by the same officers as collect and distribute such fees in the superior court.

1581. Costs and fees taxed as in municipal court. There shall be taxed in the county recorder's court the same costs and fees for the benefit of the officers thereof as provided for municipal recorder's court. Such costs and fees shall be collected by the clerk and paid over monthly to the treasurer of the county as county funds to be dealt with by the commissioners.

1582. Courts may be discontinued after two years. The board of commissioners of any county which has established a county recorder's court under the provisions of this article are authorized, after two years trial of the court, to discontinue the same at any time thereafter if in their judgment the public interest shall require it. If any such court shall be so discontinued, the action or resolution must be taken or adopted at least six months prior to the next general election, and shall not go into effect until the term of office of the recorder shall expire. The governing body of any municipality shall have the same power, to be exercised in the same manner, subject to the same limitations, to abolish municipal recorders' courts.

1919, c. 277, s. 35.

ART. 20. MUNICIPAL-COUNTY COURTS

1583. Established for entire county. The governing body of any municipality possessing a population of two thousand or over, as hereinbefore provided, in which the county courthouse is located, and the board of commissioners of the county, shall have the power, at a joint meeting of the two bodies, by joint resolution, in the manner hereinafter provided, to establish a recorder's court so as to include the entire county, outside of other municipalities therein possessing a population of two thousand or over. After the adoption of such joint resolution such municipal recorder's court shall possess all the powers and functions and exercise all the territorial jurisdiction in this subchapter conferred upon both municipal and county recorder's court under the procedure herein provided for, and subject to the provisions herein in reference to concurrent jurisdiction where a special or recorder's court exists under prior special acts in any portion of the county.

1584. Election of recorder. If the territorial jurisdiction of such municipal recorder's court is extended to the entire county, as set forth in the preceding section, then the first recorder shall be selected for the term, and in the manner hereinbefore set forth, by a joint meeting of the governing body of such municipality and the board of commissioners of the county, and such recorder shall be thereafter nominated and elected as is provided for herein for the nomination and election of a county recorder. Such recorder shall be a resident of the municipality, and in all other respects the court shall be conducted under the proceedings herein provided for municipal courts.

1585. Mayor's jurisdiction continued, when. In case the jurisdiction of the recorder's court of any municipality in any county shall not be extended in the manner authorized in this article, and no county recorder's court shall be established therein, then the mayors of the various cities and towns in such county shall continue to have all the powers and functions and exercise all the jurisdiction now conferred upon such officials by the general law for municipal corporations.

1919, c. 277, s. 43.

ART. 21. PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL RECORDERS' COURTS

1586. Offenders may be sentenced to city chain-gang. In case any municipality possessing a population of two thousand or over, as provided for herein, in which a recorder's court shall be established pursuant to the provisions of this subchapter, shall now or hereafter establish and maintain a city chain-gang, or workhouse or other penal institutions for the imprisonment and working of city prisoners, any recorder may sentence any person convicted of any offense committed within said municipality and punishable by imprisonment, to be imprisoned and worked on such city chain-gang, or in such workhouse or other penal institutions, for such time as the recorder may in his discretion determine in accordance with the law.

1587. Recorders' courts substituted for other special courts. Wherever there has been established in any county, city, or town a recorder's court or other special court, which, under the provisions of this subchapter, might have been established hereunder, whether it shall possess exactly the same jurisdiction and functions or not, the board of commissioners of the county or the governing body of such city or town, or the governing body of such city or town and the board of commissioners of the county acting jointly, may abolish such existing court and adopt any one of the courts herein provided for by appropriate resolution of such boards.

1588. Reports to attorney-general. The recorder or clerk of any court authorized to be adopted by this subchapter shall make reports to the attorney-general of all criminal actions disposed of by such court in the same manner and to the same extent as is now required by law of the clerks of the superior courts of this state.

1919, c. 277, s. 46.

ART. 22. CIVIL JURISDICTION OF RECORDERS' COURTS

1589. Civil jurisdiction may be conferred. The board of county commissioners of any county in which there is a city or town with a population of not less than ten thousand nor more than twenty-five thousand inhabitants, in which there has been established a recorder's court, under the provisions of this subchapter, or in which there is a recorder's court established by law, may confer upon such recorder's court jurisdiction to try and determine civil actions, as hereinafter provided, wherein the party plaintiff or defendant is a resident of such county, or is doing business in the county. Such jurisdiction may be conferred by resolution by the board of county commissioners of the county, entered upon their minutes.

1590. Extent of civil jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of such court in civil actions shall be as follows: (a) Jurisdiction concurrent with that of the justices of the peace within the county; (b) jurisdiction concurrent with the superior court in all actions founded on contract, wherein the amount involved exclusive of interest and costs does not exceed one thousand dollars; (c) jurisdiction concurrent with the superior court in actions not founded upon contract wherein the amount involved exclusive of interest and costs does not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars.

Civil jurisdiction conferred upon recorder's court created by special statute: Taylor v. Johnson, 171-84; Oil Co. v. Grocery Co., 169-521. See, also, State v. Boyd, 175-791.

1591. Procedure in civil actions. The rules of practice, issuing process, and filing pleadings shall conform, as near as may be, to the practice in the superior court. The process shall be returnable directly to the court; and no civil process shall be issued by any recorder's court to any county other than that in which the court is located.

1919, c. 277, s. 56.

For issuing process, see s. 1549.

See, also, section 1490.

Civil process issued from recorder's court to another county, before change of statute: Oil Co. v. Grocery Co., 169-521.

1592. Trial by jury in civil actions. In all civil actions the parties shall be deemed to have waived a trial by jury unless demand for such trial is made before the trial begins. The demand shall be in writing and signed by the party making it, or his attorney, and accompanied by a deposit of three dollars to insure the payment of the jury tax: Provided, such demand shall not be used to the prejudice of the party making it.

1593. Jurors drawn and summoned. If a trial by jury is demanded, the recorder shall continue the cause until a day to be set, and the recorder, together with the attorneys for all parties, shall immediately proceed to the office of the register of deeds of the county and cause to be drawn a jury of eighteen, observing as nearly as may be the rule for drawing a jury for the superior court. The recorder shall issue the proper writ to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon the jurors so drawn to appear at the court on the day set for the trial of the action.

1919, c. 277, s. 50.

For selection of jurors in superior court, see section 2312 et seq.

1594. Talesmen and challenges. The recorder shall have the right to call in bystanders according to the practice in the superior court as nearly as the same is applicable, and each party shall have the same causes of challenge as in the superior court.

1919, c. 277, s. 51.

For practice in superior court, see sections 2321, 2322, 2324-2326.

1595. Jury as in superior court. The jury shall be a jury of twelve, and the trial shall be conducted as nearly as possible as in the superior court.

1919, c. 277, s. 52.

1596. Appeals to superior court. Appeals may be taken from the recorder's court to the superior court of the county in term time, for errors assigned in matters of law, in the same manner as now provided for appeals from the superior court to the supreme court, with the exception that the record may be typewritten instead of printed, and only one copy thereof shall be required. The time for taking and perfecting appeals shall be counted from the end of the term. Upon such appeal the superior court may either affirm or modify the judgment of the recorder's court, or remand the cause for a new trial. From the judgment of the superior court an appeal may be taken to the supreme court.

For practice in appeals in superior court, see section 638 et seq. For similar practice in criminal action, see State v. Hinson, 123-755; State v. Davidson, 124-839; State v. Bost, 125-707.

1597. Appeals from justices of the peace. In all cases where there is an appeal from a justice of the peace, such appeal shall be first heard in the recorder's court, in the manner provided herein for hearing causes within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace originating in the recorder's court.

That the appeal from the justice of the peace should go to the superior court, see Rhyné v. Lipscombe, 122-650; State v. Ray, 122-1097.

1598. Enforcement of judgments. Orders to stay execution shall be the same as in appeals from the superior court to the supreme court. Judgments of the recorder's court may be enforced by executions issued by the clerk thereof, returnable within twenty days. Transcripts of such judgments may be docketed in the superior court, as now provided for judgments of justices of the peace; and the judgment, when docketed, shall in all respects be a judgment of the superior court as if rendered by such court, and shall be subject to the same statute of limitations and the statutes relating to revival of executions.

For stay of execution, see section 650. For issuing executions, see section 663 et seq. For docketing judgment, see sections 613, 614, 1517. Statute of limitations, section 437. Dormant judgment revived, section 668.

ART. 23. ELECTIONS TO ESTABLISH RECORDERS' COURTS

1599. Election required. The courts provided for in this subchapter shall be established upon elections held as set forth in this article.

1919, c. 277, s. 58.

1600. Municipal recorder's court. The governing body of any city or town which may, under the terms of this subchapter, establish a court, prior to its establishment shall pass a resolution, if in their judgment such court should be established, reciting such fact and calling an election at a date to be fixed, which shall be not less than thirty days nor more than sixty days from the passage of the resolution, at which election there shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the city the question of establishing such court. At such election all qualified voters favoring the establishment of such court shall vote a ballot upon which shall be printed or written the words, "For Recorder's Court of the City of -----," and those opposing the establishing of such court a ballot upon which shall be printed or written, "Against Recorder's Court of the City of -----."

1919, c. 277, s. 58.

1601. Notice of election. Notice of such election shall be given, signed by the clerk of the city or town or the mayor thereof, containing in substance the resolution, the date of the election, and a reference to this subchapter, which notice shall be published once a week for four successive weeks prior to said election in some newspaper published in the city or town.

1602. New registration may be ordered. The governing body of such city or town may in its discretion order a new registration of the voters for any election authorized hereunder.

1919, c. 277, s. 60.

1603. Manner of holding election. The election shall be held, reported, and recorded in the city or town, under the laws governing general elections as near as may be applicable to the city or town. The result of the election shall be reported to, canvassed and declared by the governing body of the city or town, and recorded upon the minutes thereof. If the majority of the votes cast is declared in favor of such court, it shall be established, and not otherwise.

1604. Another election after two years. If the majority of the votes cast at such election is against the court, another election for the same purpose may thereafter be called, but not within less than two years from the first or any succeeding election in reference thereto.

1919, c. 277, s. 62.

1605. County recorders' courts. The board of county commissioners of any county may establish a recorder's court in such county under the terms of this subchapter in the same manner as the governing body of any city or town may establish a municipal court, following the same procedure as nearly as it may be applicable. The board of county commissioners shall perform all the acts herein set forth for the governing body of any city or town, in submitting the establishment of such court to the qualified voters of the county. The form of the ballot shall be, "For Recorder's Court of the County of _____," and "Against Recorder's Court of the County of _____"; and notice of the election shall be published in some newspaper published at the county-seat.

1606. Municipal courts with jurisdiction over the entire county. The courts provided for in article twenty of this subchapter shall be established in the following manner: The governing body of the city and the board of county commissioners of the county, at a joint meeting, shall pass a joint resolution calling an election submitting to the voters of the entire county the question of the establishment of said court. The election shall be conducted by the county commissioners as in the case of county recorders' courts; the result of the election shall be recorded in the minutes of the county commissioners and certified to and recorded in the minutes of the governing body of the city. The form of the ballot shall be, "For Municipal-County Court of _____ County," and "Against Municipal-County Court of _____ County."

1919, c. 277, s. 62.

1607. Expense of elections paid. The expense of conducting the elections for "municipal courts" and "municipal-county courts" shall be borne by the city or municipality concerned, and the expense of conducting the election for "county recorders' courts" shall be borne by the county concerned.

1919, c. 277, s. 63.

1608. Certain districts and counties not included. This subchapter shall not apply to the tenth, fifteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth judicial districts, nor to the eleventh district, except to the county of Caswell; nor shall it apply to the counties of Anson, Chatham, Columbus, Halifax, Hyde, Johnston, New Hanover, Pitt, Polk, and Robeson.

1919, c. 277, s. 64.

- 1650. Creditor liable for jail fees.
- 1651. False swearing; penalty.
- 1652. Powers of trustees hereunder.
- 1653. Jail bounds.

ART. 1. ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS

1609. Debts mature on execution of assignment; no preferences. Upon the execution of any voluntary deed of trust or deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors, all debts of the maker thereof shall become due and payable at once, and no such deed of trust or deed of assignment shall contain any preferences of one creditor over another, except as hereinafter stated.

Rev., s. 967; 1893, c. 453; 1909, c. 918, s. 1.

Where an insolvent debtor makes a transfer of the whole or a greater part of his property for the benefit of preëxisting creditors, and there are other existing creditors, it is in effect an assignment: Bank v. Gilmer, 116-684; s. c., 117-416; Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Powell v. Lumber Co., 153-52; Williamson v. Bitting, 159-321; Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604; Teague v. Grocery Co., 175-195. An assignment for the benefit of creditors omitting creditors is invalid as a preference: Taylor v. Lauer, 127-157.

Note of assignor, with sureties, not yet due becomes due upon assignment being executed, and sureties are bound to pay at once: Pritchard v. Mitchell, 139-54.

As to what is a preference, see section 1611.

The act of 1893, Rev., 967, allowed preferences, but required the debtor to file a schedule of preferred debts with clerk of superior court within five days, and a failure to comply rendered the assignment void: Powell v. Lumber Co., 153-52; Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Sutton v. Bessent, 133-569; Friedenwald v. Sparger, 128-446; Brown v. Nimocks, 124-417; Hall v. Cottingham, 124-402; Pearre v. Folb, 123-239; Cooper v. McKinnon, 122-447; Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-427; Frank v. Heiner, 117-79; Bank v. Gilmer, 116-684; s. c., 117-416.

As to how to file the schedule, see Friedenwald v. Sparger, 128-446; Hall v. Cottingham, 124-402; Brown v. Nimocks, 124-417. The five days for filing is computed from the actual filing of the deed for registration and not from actual registration: Glanton v. Jacobs, 117-427. When schedule of preferred debts affirmed to before justice of peace, who is one of the trustees in deed of assignment, assignment void: Martin v. Buffaloe, 128-305, and cases cited.

1610. Trustee to file schedule of debts. Upon the execution of such deed of trust, the trustee, whether named therein or appointed as hereafter provided for, shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said deed of trust is registered, within ten days after the registration thereof, an inventory under oath, giving a complete, full and perfect account of all property that has come into his hands or to the hands of any person for him, by virtue of such deed of trust, and when further property of any kind not included in any previous return comes to the hands or knowledge of such trustee he shall return the same as hereinbefore prescribed within ten days after the possession or discovery thereof.

This section was held to be mandatory in Powell v. Lumber Co., 153-52; Odom v. Clark, 146-544; Bank v. Gilmer, 116-684; s. c., 117-416.

1611. Trustee to recover property conveyed fraudulently or in preference. It is the duty of the trustee to recover, for the benefit of the estate, property which was conveyed by the grantor or assignor in fraud of his creditors, or which was conveyed or transferred by the grantor or assignor for the purpose of giving a preference. A preference, under this section, shall be deemed to have been given when property has been transferred or conveyed within four months next preceding the registration of the deed of trust or deed of assignment in consideration of the payment of a preëxisting debt, when the grantee or transferee of such property knows or has reasonable ground to believe that the grantor or assignor was insolvent at the time of making such conveyance or transfer.

Meaning of preference as given in this section applied: Teague v. Grocery Co., 175-195; Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604. As distinguished from preference under Bankruptcy Act, see Wilson v. Taylor, 154-211; Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604. The notice or knowledge of insolvency must exist at the time of the transfer: Teague v. Grocery Co., 175-195. The four months time must be counted from the execution of the transfer and not from its registration: Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

In the absence of statute preventing it, a debtor may make a preference: Guggenheimer v. Brookfield, 90-232. For former law preventing preference by mortgage, see Farthing v. Carrington, 116-315.

Meaning of insolvency, that debtor has not property sufficient to meet his liabilities: Mining Co. v. Smelting Co., 119-417.

1612. Substitute for incompetent trustee appointed in special proceeding. When a trustee named in a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors has died or resigned or has in any way become incompetent to execute the trust, the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein said deed of assignment has been registered is authorized and empowered, in a special proceeding in which all persons interested have been made parties, to appoint some discreet and competent person to act as such trustee and to execute all the trusts created in the original deed of assignment, according to its true intent and as fully as if originally appointed trustee therein.

1613. Insolvent trustee removed unless bond given; substitute appointed. Upon the complaint of any creditor of the assignor or trustee in such deed of trust, alleging under oath that the trustee named therein is insolvent, and asking that he be required to give bond or be removed, it is the duty of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such deed of trust is registered, upon a notice of not more than ten days to such trustee, to hear the complaint. If upon such hearing the clerk is satisfied that such trustee is insolvent, he shall remove such trustee and appoint some competent person to execute the provisions of such deed of trust, unless such insolvent trustee shall file with the clerk a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by him, in a sum double the value of the property in the deed of trust, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned that such trustee shall faithfully execute and carry into effect the provisions of said deed of trust.

Rev., s. 969; 1893, c. 453, s. 3.

Insolvent trustee required to give bond upon proper application to clerk: Preiss v. Cohen, 112-282. Section cited in Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

1614. Trustee removed on petition of creditors; substitute appointed. Upon the written petition of one-fourth of the number of the creditors of the grantor or assignor whose claims aggregate more than fifty per cent of the total indebtedness of said grantor or assignor, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said deed of trust or deed of assignment is registered, upon a notice of not more than ten days to said trustee of said petition, shall remove said trustee and appoint some competent person to execute the provisions of such deed of trust or deed of assignment.

Section cited in Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

1615. Substituted trustee to give bond. Upon the removal or resignation of any trustee it is the duty of the clerk to require the person appointed to execute the provisions of such deed of trust, before entering upon his duties, to file with the clerk a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by him in a sum double the value of the property in said deed of trust, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned that such person shall faithfully execute and carry into effect the provisions of said deed of trust.

Section cited in Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

1616. Only perishable property sold within ten days of registration. It is unlawful for any trustee, whether named in such deed of trust or appointed by a clerk of the superior court, to sell any part of the property described in such deed of trust within ten days from the registration thereof, unless such property or some part thereof be perishable, in which case he may sell such property as is perishable, according to the powers conferred upon him in said deed of trust.

Rev., s. 971; 1893, c. 453, s. 4.

1617. Creditors to file verified claims with clerk; false swearing misdemeanor. All creditors of the maker of such deed of trust shall, before receiving payment of any amount from the said trustee, file with the clerk of the superior court a statement under oath that the amount claimed by him is justly due, after allowing all credits and offsets, to the best of his knowledge and belief. Any creditor who shall knowingly swear falsely in such statement shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 972, 3617; 1893, c. 453, ss. 6, 7.

Creditors who claim under deed of trust, and file claim to share in proceeds of sale, cannot be heard to impeach its provisions: Chard v. Warren, 122-75.

1618. Priority of payments by trustee. The trustee, after paying the necessary costs of the administration of the trust, shall pay as speedily as possible (1) all debts which are a lien upon any of the trust property in his hands, to the extent of the net proceeds of the property upon which such debt is a lien; (2) wages due to workmen, clerks, traveling or city salesmen, or servants, which have been earned within three months before registration of said deed of trust or deed of assignment, and (3) all other debts equally ratable.

Except as to the two classes mentioned, there can be no discrimination among creditors: Wooten v. Taylor, 159-604.

1619. Trustee to account quarterly; final account in twelve months. The trustee, whether named in the deed of trust or appointed by a clerk of a superior court, shall within three months from the registration of such deed of trust, and at each succeeding period of three months, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the same is registered an account under oath, stating in detail his receipts and disbursements and his action as trustee, and within twelve months he shall file his final account of his administration of his trust. The clerk may upon good cause shown extend the time within which the quarterly and final accounts herein provided for are to be filed.

Rev., s. 973; 1893, c. 453, s. 5.

1620. Trustee violating duties guilty of misdemeanor. If any trustee in a deed of trust for the benefit of creditors shall fail to file his inventory as required by law, or shall knowingly make any false statement in such inventory, or shall knowingly fail to include any property therein, or shall sell any part of the property described in the deed of trust within ten days unless such property so sold be perishable, or shall fail to file either of the quarterly accounts or the final accounts as required by law, or shall knowingly make any false statement in such quarterly or final account, or shall knowingly fail to include any property, money or disbursement in such quarterly or final account, he shall, in either case, be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3689; 1893, c. 453, s. 8.

ART. 2. PETITION OF INSOLVENT FOR ASSIGNMENT FOR CREDITORS

1621. Petition; schedule; inventory; affidavit. Every insolvent debtor may present a petition in the superior court, praying that his estate may be assigned for the benefit of all his creditors, and that his person may thereafter be exempt from arrest or imprisonment on account of any judgment previously rendered or of any debts previously contracted. On presenting such petition, every insolvent shall deliver therewith a schedule containing an account of his creditors and an inventory of his estate, which inventory shall contain—

1. A full and true account of his creditors, with the place of residence of each, if known, and the sum owing to each creditor, whether on written security, on account, or otherwise.

2. A full and true inventory of his estate, real and personal, with the encumbrances existing thereon, and all books, vouchers and securities relating thereto.

3. A full and true inventory of all property, real and personal, claimed by him as exempt from sale under execution.

He shall annex to his petition and schedule the following affidavit, which must be taken and subscribed by him before the clerk of the superior court, and must be certified by such officer:

I, -----, do swear (or affirm) that the account of my creditors, with the places of their residence, and the inventory of my estate, which are herewith delivered, are in all respects just and true; that I have not at any time or in any manner disposed of or made over any part of my estate for the future benefit of myself or my family, or in order to defraud any of my creditors; and that I have not paid, secured to be paid, or in any way compounded with any of my creditors, with a view that they, or any of them, should abstain or desist from opposing my discharge: so help me, God.

A petitioner not under arrest must comply with this section and obtain an order of discharge: Howie v. Spittle, 156-180. What is sufficient compliance, see Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712. Section merely referred to in Preiss v. Cohen, 117-60; State v. Parsons, 115-730; Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-491; Wingo v. Hooper, 98-485. For case prior to enactment of section, see Ballard v. Waller, 52-84.

1622. Clerk to give notice of petition. On receiving the petition, schedule and affidavit, the clerk of the superior court shall make an order requiring all the creditors of such insolvent to show cause before said officer, within thirty days after publication of the order, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and shall post a notice of the contents of the order at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county where the application is made for four successive weeks; or, in lieu thereof, shall publish the same for three successive weeks in any newspaper published in said county, or in an adjoining county.

Rev., s. 1931; Code, ss. 2945, 2946; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 4, 5.

1623. Order of discharge and appointment of trustee. If no creditor oppose the discharge of the insolvent, the clerk of the superior court before whom the hearing of the petition is had shall enter an order of discharge and appoint a trustee of all the estate of such insolvent.

Rev., s. 1932; Code, s. 2947; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 6.

Section referred to in State v. Parsons, 115-733.

1624. Terms and effect of order of discharge. The order of discharge shall declare that the person of such insolvent shall forever thereafter be exempted from arrest or imprisonment on account of any judgment, or by reason of any debt due at the time of such order, or contracted for before that time, though payable afterwards. But no debt, demand, judgment or decree against any insolvent, discharged under this chapter, shall be affected or impaired by such discharge, but the same shall remain valid and effectual against all the property of such insolvent acquired after his discharge and the appointment of a trustee; and the lien of any judgment or decree upon the property of such insolvent shall not be in any manner affected by such discharge.

Debtor who has surrendered property is protected from future arrest or imprisonment on account of any judgment previously rendered or any debts previously contracted, though after-acquired property may be subject to execution and sale in proper cases: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489; see, also, Brown v. Long, 22-138.

For case prior to enactment of section, see Griffin v. Simmons, 50-145.

1625. Suggestion of fraud by opposing creditor. Every creditor opposing the discharge of the insolvent may suggest fraud and set forth the particulars thereof in writing, verified by his oath; but the insolvent shall not be compelled to answer the suggestions of fraud in more than one case, though as many creditors as choose may make themselves parties to the issues in such cases.

Rev., s. 1934; Code, s. 2948; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 7.

The creditor suggesting fraud must state the particulars constituting the fraud, which may raise an issue of fact or a question of law: Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712.

Mother of bastard child, to whom allowance directed to be paid, becomes creditor of defendant, and can suggest fraud under section and contest defendant's right to a discharge, as insolvent, from its payment: State v. Ostwalt, 118-1210; Church v. Parsons, 115-730—but mother has right to suggest fraud only as to allowance, State v. Parsons, 115-730—for only the state can suggest fraud as to fine and costs, Ibid.

Where debtor arrested under different ca. sa.'s at instance of several creditors, and fraud suggested by creditors, he may require that all creditors he may notify shall join in trial of the one issue: Williams v. Floyd, 27-649—but debtor may waive privilege by joining issue with each creditor, in which case verdict in his favor in one action will not discharge him from responsibility in case of another creditor, Ibid.

ART. 3. TRUSTEE FOR ESTATE OF DEBTOR IMPRISONED FOR CRIME

1626. Persons who may apply for trustee for imprisoned debtor. When any debtor is imprisoned in the penitentiary for any term, or in a county jail for any term more than twelve months, application by petition may be made by any creditor, the debtor, or by his wife, or any of his relatives, for the appointment of a trustee to take charge of the estate of such debtor.

Section referred to in State v. Burton, 113-655.

1627. Superior court appoints; copy of sentence to be produced. The application must be made to the superior court of the county where the debtor was convicted; and upon producing a copy of the sentence of such debtor, duly certified by the clerk of the court, together with an affidavit of the applicant that such debtor is actually imprisoned under such sentence, and is indebted in any sum, the clerk or the judge may immediately appoint a trustee of the estate of such debtor.

Rev., s. 1944; Code, s. 2975; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 41, 42.

1628. Duties of trustee; accounting; oath. The trustee of the imprisoned debtor shall pay his debts pro rata. After paying such debts, the trustee shall apply the surplus, from time to time, to the support of the wife and children of the debtor, under the direction of the superior court. When the imprisoned debtor is lawfully discharged from his imprisonment, the trustee shall deliver to him all the estate, real and personal, of such debtor, after retaining a sufficient sum to satisfy the expenses incurred in the execution of the trust and lawful commissions therefor. The trustee shall make his returns and have his accounts audited and settled by the clerk of the superior court of the county where the proceeding was had, in like manner as provided for personal representatives. Before proceeding to the discharge of his duty, the trustee shall take and subscribe an oath, well and truly to execute his trust according to his best skill and understanding. The oath must be filed with the clerk of the superior court.

Rev., ss. 1945, 1946, 1947; Code, ss. 2976, 2978, 2979; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 43, 45, 46.

1629. Court may appoint several trustees. The court has power, when deemed necessary, to appoint more than one person trustee under this chapter; but in reference to the rights, authorities and duties conferred herein, all such trustees shall be deemed one person in law.

Rev., s. 1948; Code, s. 2980; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 47.

Section referred to in Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489.

1630. Court may remove trustee and appoint successor. In case of the death, removal, resignation or other disability of a trustee, the court making the appointment may from time to time supply the vacancy; and all proceedings may be continued by the successor in office in like manner as in the first instance.

Rev., s. 1949; Code, s. 2981; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 48.

Section referred to in Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489.

ART. 4. DISCHARGE OF INSOLVENT DEBTORS

1631. Insolvent debtor's oath. Prisoners in order to be entitled to discharge from imprisonment under the provisions of this article shall take the following oath:

I, -----, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have not the worth of fifty dollars in any worldly substance, in debts, money or otherwise whatsoever, and that I have not at any time since my imprisonment or before, directly or indirectly, sold or assigned, or otherwise disposed of, or made over in trust for myself or my family, any part of my real or personal estate, whereby to have or expect any benefit, or to defraud any of my creditors: so help me, God.

Rev., s. 1918a; Code, s. 2972; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, c. 797, c. 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 31; 1881, c. 76.

This does not contravene constitutional provision in regard to homestead and personal property exemptions: State v. Williams, 97-415—as prisoner has election to discharge himself by complying with judgment of court or by complying with statutory provisions and taking oath prescribed, Ibid.; Oakley v. Lasater, 172-96.

Section merely referred to in State v. Morgan, 141-728; State v. White, 125-678; State v. Parsons, 115-735; Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470; State v. Burton, 113-655; State v. Bryan, 83-612; State v. Davis, 82-610.

1632. Persons imprisoned for nonpayment of maintenance in bastardy or of costs in criminal cases. The following persons may be discharged from imprisonment upon complying with this article:

1. Every putative father of a bastard committed for a failure to give bond, or to pay any sum of money ordered to be paid for its maintenance.

2. Every person committed for the fine and costs of any criminal prosecution.

Rev., s. 1915; Code, s. 2967; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 26.

This section does not repeal sections 1356 and 1359, but latter sections modify it: State v. Morgan, 141-729—and all three sections must be construed together, Ibid.

Where there are three indictments against prisoner, to one of which he pleaded guilty and judgment was suspended upon payment of costs, and he was found guilty on other two, on one of which he was sentenced to imprisonment for ten days, after remaining in jail for such time and twenty days additional, and taking statutory oath, held that he was entitled to discharge in all three cases: State v. McNeely, 92-829.

Prisoner entitled to be discharged from imprisonment for nonpayment of fine and costs upon complying with statutory provisions: State v. Williams, 97-414; State v. Davis, 82-610—and this is so although workhouse has been established by county commissioners in accordance with provisions of section 1365, State v. Williams, 97-414.

Imprisonment of putative father for failure to obey order of maintenance, or to give bond, is a matter of legislative discretion, and is not imprisonment for debt: State v. Morgan, 141-726—and he may be discharged from imprisonment by complying with provisions of section, State v. White, 125-674; State v. Parsons, 115-730. Placing one in custody of sheriff until fine, costs and allowance in bastardy are paid is by implication an order to imprison upon failure to pay, and prisoner can be discharged hereunder: State v. Burton, 113-655.

1633. Petition; before whom; notice; service. Every such person, having remained in prison for twenty days, may apply by petition to the court where the judgment against him was entered, praying to be brought before such court at a time and place to be named in the petition, and to be discharged upon taking the oath hereinbefore prescribed. The applicant shall cause ten days notice of the time and place of filing the petition to be served on the sheriff or other officer by whom he was committed. In cases of conviction before a justice of the peace the clerk of the superior court of the county where the convicted person confined for costs is, may administer the oath and discharge the prisoner.

Rev., s. 1916; Code, ss. 2968, 2969; 1891, c. 195; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 28; 1874-5, c. 11; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 27; 1873-4, c. 90.

Application of insolvent, confined for nonpayment of costs, is a proceeding in the cause in which he was convicted, and should be made by petition to court wherein judgment against him was entered: State v. Miller, 97-451—but if clerk should refuse to allow prisoner to take oath, remedy is by appeal to judge holding courts of that district, and it is intimated that it is irregular for judge of adjoining district to release prisoner on writ of habeas corpus, Ibid.

Neither judge nor solicitor has right to allow defendant in bastardy proceedings to take insolvent debtor's oath and obtain discharge without remaining in prison for twenty days: State v. Bryan, 83-611.

Section merely referred to in State v. White, 125-677; Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470; State v. Burton, 113-657.

1634. Warrant issued for prisoner. The clerk of the superior court, or justice of the peace, before whom such petition is presented shall forthwith issue a warrant to the sheriff, or keeper of the prison, requiring him to bring the prisoner before the court, at the time and place named for the hearing of the case, which warrant every such sheriff or keeper shall obey.

Rev., s. 1917; Code, s. 2970; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 29.

1635. Proceeding on application. At the hearing of the petition, if the prisoner has no visible estate, and takes and subscribes the oath or affirmation prescribed in this article, the clerk of the superior court, or justice of the peace, before whom he is brought, shall administer the oath or affirmation to him, and discharge him from imprisonment; of which an entry shall be made in the docket of the court, and, where the proceeding is before a justice of the peace, the justice shall return the petition and orders thereon into the office of the clerk of the superior court to be filed.

Rev., s. 1918; Code, s. 2971; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100, s. 1; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, cc. 797, 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 30.

Where debtor arrested and imprisoned for fraud did not tender oath required by section 1631, nor surrender exemptions, nor file petition or give notice required by section 1633, he was improperly discharged upon affidavit that he had made an assignment for benefit of creditors, and that he was insolvent and not worth more than exemptions allowed by law: Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470.

Prisoner entitled to be discharged from imprisonment for nonpayment of fine and costs upon complying with statutory provisions: State v. Williams, 97-414; State v. Davis, 82-610—and this is so, although workhouse has been established by county commissioners under provisions of section 1365: State v. Williams, 97-414.

One who has been found to be father of bastard child, and committed for nonpayment of fines, costs and allowance is entitled to be discharged from prison upon filing petition and complying with statutory requirements: State v. Parsons, 115-730.

Section merely referred to in State v. Burton, 113-658; State v. Bryan, 83-612.

1636. Suggestion of fraud. The chairman of the board of commissioners, and every officer interested in the fee bill taxed against such prisoner, may oppose his taking the insolvent debtor's oath above prescribed, and file particulars of the suggestion in writing, in the court where the same shall stand for trial as prescribed in this chapter in other cases of fraud or concealment.

Rev., s. 1919; Code, s. 2973; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 32.

1637. Persons taken in arrest and bail proceedings, or in execution. The following persons also are entitled to the benefit of this article as hereinafter provided:

1. Every person taken or charged on any order of arrest for default or bail, or on surrender of bail in any action.

2. Every person taken or charged in execution of arrest for any debt or damages rendered in any action whatever.

Rev., s. 1920; Code, s. 2951; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 10.

Defendant taken in arrest and bail or under execution can be discharged by taking insolvent's oath and surrendering all his property, including exemptions, over $50: Oakley v. Lasater, 172-96; Howie v. Spittle, 156-180; Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712; Fertilizer Co. v. Grubbs, 114-470; Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489. This applies to nonresidents as well as to residents: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489. The remedies under this section are in addition to those given in sections 775 and 777: Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712.

1638. When petition may be filed. Every person taken or charged as in the preceding section specified may, at any time after his arrest or imprisonment, petition the court from which the process issued on which he is arrested or imprisoned, for his discharge therefrom, on his compliance with this chapter.

Section embraces every person taken or charged as in preceding section specified: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-493.

1639. Petition; contents; verification. The petition shall set forth the cause of the imprisonment, with the writ or process and complaint on which the same is founded, and shall have annexed to it a just and true account of all his estate, real and personal, and of all charges affecting such estate, as they exist at the time of filing his petition, together with all deeds, securities, books or writings whatever relating to the estate and the charges thereon; and also what property, real and personal, the petitioner claims as exempt from sale under execution, and shall have annexed to it an oath or affirmation, subscribed by the petitioner and taken before any person authorized by law to administer oaths, to the effect following:

I, -----, the within named petitioner, do swear (or affirm) that the within petition and account of my estate, and of the charges thereon, are, in all respects, just and true; and that I have not at any time or in any manner disposed of or made over any part of my property, with a view to the future benefit of myself or my family, or with an intent to injure or defraud any of my creditors: so help me, God.

Rev., s. 1922; Code, ss. 2953, 2954; R. C., c. 59, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 162, ss. 12, 13.

Section referred to in Purvis v. Robinson, 49-96.

1640. Notice; length of notice and to whom given. Twenty days notice of the time and place at which the petition will be filed, together with a copy of such petition and the account annexed thereto, shall be personally served by such debtor on the creditor or creditors at whose suit he is arrested or imprisoned, and such other creditors as the debtor may choose, or their personal representatives or attorneys. If the person to be notified reside out of the state, and has no agent or attorney in the state, the notice may be served on the officer having the claim to collect, or by two weekly publications in any newspaper in the state.

Rev., s. 1923; Code, s. 2955; R. C., c. 59, ss. 3, 20; 1773, c. 100, s. 8; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 14.

Party arrested and seeking relief must notify creditor or plaintiff at whose suit arrested: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-492—but may or may not notify other creditors of his application to surrender his property and be discharged from arrest. Only such creditors as may be so notified will be affected by his discharge: Ibid.

1641. Who may suggest fraud. Every creditor upon whom the notice directed in the preceding section is served may suggest fraud upon the hearing of the petition, and the issues made up respecting the fraud shall stand for trial as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1924; Code, s. 2956; R. C., c. 59, s. 13; 1822, c. 1131, s. 4; 1835, c. 12; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 15.

Petitioner entitled to insist that suggestions of fraud, made by creditor, should be verified by oath of creditor and tried by jury: Purvis v. Robinson, 49-96—and it is error for judge to decide upon such suggestions without submitting them in an issue to jury, Ibid. See, also, Edwards v. Sorrell, 150-712.

1642. Where no suggestion of fraud, discharge granted. If no creditor suggests fraud or opposes the discharge of the debtor, the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court before whom the petition is heard shall forthwith discharge the debtor, and, if he surrenders any estate for the benefit of his creditors, shall appoint a trustee of such estate. The order of discharge and appointment shall be entered in the docket of the court, and if granted by a justice of the peace a copy thereof shall be certified by him to the clerk of the superior court, where the same shall be recorded, and filed.

Rev., s. 1925; Code, s. 2957; R. C., c. 59, s. 1; 1773, c. 100; 1808, c. 746, s. 2; 1810, c. 797, c. 802; 1830, c. 33; 1838, c. 23; 1840, cc. 33, 34; 1852, c. 49; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 16.

Proper remedy of party seeking to establish and secure damages for tort is to have trustee appointed under section: Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489.

1643. Continuance granted for cause. When it appears to the court that any debtor, who may have given bond for his appearance under this chapter, is prevented from attending court by sickness or other sufficient cause, the case shall be continued to another day, or to the next term, when the same proceedings shall be had as if the debtor had appeared according to the condition of his bond, and in the event of his death in the meantime, his bond shall be discharged.

Extreme sickness of principal in bond would excuse nonappearance and entitle him and surety to continuance if same made to appear to court: Bupis v. Arnold, 53-234. Sickness of surety no excuse for default of principal under section: Speight v. Wooten, 14-327. Defendant in bond given under section bound to attend at every term until cause finally disposed of: Cowles v. Oaks, 14-95. As to amount of bond, see Williams v. Yarborough, 13-12.

1644. Where fraud in issue, discharge only after trial. After an issue of fraud or concealment is made up, the debtor shall not discharge himself as to the creditors in that issue, except by trial and verdict in the same, or by a discharge by consent.

Section only applicable to cases where defendant is in lawful custody and by virtue of an authority competent to order it: Houston v. Walsh, 79-36.

1645. If fraud found, debtor imprisoned. If, on the trial, the jury finds that there is any fraud or concealment, the judgment shall be that the debtor be imprisoned until a full and fair disclosure and account of all his money, property or effects be made by the debtor.

Rev., s. 1928; Code, s. 2961; R. C., c. 59, s. 14; 1822, c. 1131, s. 4; 1835, c. 12; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 20.

Where insolvent debtor only surrenders interest in certain property conveyed by deed in trust, and jury find deed fraudulent, he must be imprisoned until he surrenders whole property conveyed: Hutton v. Self, 28-285.

For case prior to amendment of section, see Bunting v. Wright, 61-296.

1646. Effect of order of discharge. The order of discharge under the last four articles of this chapter, whether granted upon a nonsuggestion of fraud, upon the finding of a jury in favor of the debtor, or otherwise, shall be in like terms and have like effect as prescribed in section 1624; except that the body of such debtor shall be free from arrest or imprisonment at the suit of every creditor, and as to him only, to whom the notice required may have been given; and the notices, or copies thereof, shall in all cases be filed in the office of the superior court clerk.

Rev., s. 1929; Code, s. 2960; R. C., c. 59, s. 11; 1822, c. 1131, s. 4; 1835, c. 12; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 19.

Discharge of debtor is not discharge of debt: Norment v. Alexander, 32-71. As to effect of discharge, see Rountree v. Waddill, 52-312; Norment v. Alexander, 32-71; Williams v. Floyd, 27-649; Crain v. Long, 14-371.

ART. 5. GENERAL PROVISIONS UNDER ARTICLES 2, 3, AND 4

1647. Superior court tries issue of fraud. In every case where an issue of fraud is made up as provided in this chapter, the case shall be entered in the trial docket of the superior court, and stand for trial as other causes; and upon a finding by the jury in favor of the petitioner the judge shall discharge the debtor; if the finding is against the petitioner he shall be committed to jail until he makes full disclosure.

Rev., s. 1935; Code, s. 2949; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 8.

Upon suggestion of fraud, issue is raised which should be entered upon trial docket of superior court, and stand for trial as other causes: State v. Parsons, 115-730.

Where debtor sets out in schedule that he has made deed in trust of certain property, and surrenders all his interest in such property, still competent for creditor to have issue made up as to whether deed not fraudulent: Adams v. Alexander, 23-501; Hutton v. Self, 28-285—and, if found fraudulent by a jury, to cause debtor to be imprisoned until he surrenders property itself, Ibid.

See, as bearing upon section, Adams v. Beaman, 48-140.

1648. Insolvent released on giving bond. Every debtor entitled under the provisions of this chapter to discharge as an insolvent may, at the time of filing his application for a discharge or at any time afterwards, tender to the sheriff or other officer having his body in charge, a bond, with sufficient surety, in double the amount of the sum due any creditor or creditors at whose suit he was taken or charged, conditioned for the appearance of such debtor before the court where his petition is filed, at the hearing thereof, and to stand to and abide by the final order or decree of the court in the case. If such bond be satisfactory to the sheriff, he shall forthwith release such debtor from custody.

The petitioner may give bond during the pendency of the proceedings: Howie v. Spittle, 156-180. Bond given for appearance of insolvent at court is good if it is for double the original debt, exclusive of interest and costs: Williams v. Yarborough, 13-12. Condition in bond "to appear and claim benefit of act, etc., and not depart without leave" is substantial compliance with section: Mooring v. James, 13-254. Defendant in bond bound to attend at every term until cause finally disposed of: Arrington v. Bass, 14-95. Debtor who has given bond for his appearance cannot object to informality of same, and pray discharge on account thereof: Page v. Winningham, 18-113.

Where bond states date at which court is to be held, which date is erroneous and court held at a different place, there is no default of appearance according to bond: Winslow v. Anderson, 20-1. Quere: Whether duty of officer or the defendant to prepare bond to be given for debtor's appearance: Ibid. Return day in bond must be certain: Ibid.

For old cases under section prior to amendment, see Wall v. Jarrott, 25-42; Williams v. Bryan, 33-613.

1649. Surety in bond may surrender principal. The surety in any bond conditioned for the appearance of any person under this chapter may surrender the principal, or such principal may surrender himself, in discharge of the bond, to the sheriff or other officer of any court where such principal is bound to appear, in the manner provided in the chapter entitled Civil Procedure, article Arrest and Bail.

Rev., s. 1937; Code, s. 2963; R. C., c. 59, s. 23; 1793, c. 100, s. 7; 1793, c. 380, s. 1; 1822, c. 1131, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 22.

See sections 791-793. Where principal obligor in bond was regularly called and failed to appear, and judgment was rendered against him and his surety, surety has no right, ex debito iustitiæ, to have judgment set aside to allow him to make surrender of principal: Reynolds v. Boyd, 23-106.

Person surrendered in discharge of bail entitled to benefit of chapter: Smallwood v. Wood, 19-356.

To protect sureties they must surrender principal in court to which ca. sa. returnable, or to the sheriff of that county, and, where writ issues to another county, a surrender to sheriff of that county is a nullity: Mooring v. James, 13-254.

1650. Creditor liable for jail fees. When any debtor is actually confined within the walls of a prison, on an order of arrest in default of bail or otherwise, the jailer must furnish him with necessary food during his confinement, if the prisoner requires it, for which the jailer shall have the same fees as for keeping other prisoners. If the debtor is unable to discharge such fees, the jailer may recover them from the party at whose instance the debtor was confined. And at any time after the arrest, the sheriff or jailer may give notice thereof to the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, and demand security of him for the prison fees that accrue after such notice, and if the plaintiff fails to give such security then the sheriff may discharge the debtor out of custody.

Rev., s. 1938; Code, s. 2965; R. C., c. 69, s. 5; 1773, c. 100, ss. 8, 9; 1821, c. 1103; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 24.

Where debtor has given bond for appearance and case continued from court to court, sureties surrendering him from time to time, and issue decided against him and he committed to prison in all cases, at instance of creditor, such creditor responsible to jailer for fees or allowance for food furnished to prisoner during whole time confined in jail: Veal v. Flake, 32-417.

When debtor committed to prison and permitted to take prison bounds, jailer under no obligation, while he continues in bounds, to furnish him with provisions for his support: Phillips v. Allen, 35-10—nor can creditor, at whose suit he is confined, be compelled to reimburse jailer for any sum so expended, Ibid.

Where debtor, imprisoned at instance of creditor, has no property in this state out of which prison fees, provisions and support can be satisfied, jailer may recover amount from creditor, notwithstanding debtor may have sufficient property in another state: Faucett v. Adams, 35-235.

Action against creditor for jail fees of insolvent debtor, given by section to jailer, cannot be maintained by sheriff as jailer's principal: Bunting v. McIlhenny, 61-579.

1651. False swearing; penalty. If any insolvent or imprisoned debtor takes any oath prescribed in this chapter falsely and corruptly, and upon indictment for perjury is convicted thereof, he shall suffer all the pains of perjury, and he shall never after have any of the benefits of this chapter, but may be sued and imprisoned as though he had never been discharged.

Rev., ss. 1940, 3614; Code, s. 2964; R. C., c. 59, s. 25; 1793, c. 100, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 23.

For additional penalty, see section 4364.

1652. Powers of trustees hereunder. Any trustee appointed under the last four articles of this chapter, as therein contemplated, is hereby declared a trustee of the estate of the debtor, in respect to whose property such trustee is appointed for the benefit of creditors, and is invested from the time of appointment with all the powers and authority, and subject to the control, obligations and responsibilities prescribed by law in relation to personal representatives over the estates of deceased persons; but all debts shall be paid by the trustees pro rata.

Rev., s. 1941; Code, s. 2977; R. C., c. 59, ss. 21, 22; 1773, c. 100, ss. 5, 6; 1827, c. 44; 1830, c. 26, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 44.

Section referred to in Burgwyn v. Hall, 108-489.

1653. Jail bounds. Any imprisoned debtor may take the benefit of the prison bounds by giving security, as required by law, except as follows:

1. A debtor against whom an issue of fraud is found.
2. Any debtor who, for other cause, is adjudged to be imprisoned until he make a full and fair disclosure or account of his property.

Rev., s. 1942; Code, s. 2966; R. C., c. 59, s. 27; 1818, c. 964; 1868-9, c. 162, s. 25.

For regulation as to prison bounds, see section 1321.

DESCENTS

1654. Rules of descent.

- Rule 1. Lineal descent.
- Rule 2. Females inherit with males, younger with older children; advancements.
- Rule 3. Lineal descendant represents ancestor.
- Rule 4. Collateral descent of estate derived from ancestor.
- Rule 5. Collateral descent of estate not derived from ancestor.
- Rule 6. Half blood inherits with whole; parents from child.
- Rule 7. Unborn infant may be heir.
- Rule 8. Widow may take as heir.
- Rule 9. Illegitimate children inherit from mother.
- Rule 10. Heirs of illegitimate.
- Rule 11. Estate for life of another not devised deemed inheritance.
- Rule 12. Seizin defined.
- Rule 13. Issue of certain colored persons to inherit.

1654. Rules of descent. When any person dies seized of any inheritance, or of any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, not having devised the same, it shall descend under the following rules:

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, s. 1.

Descents in this state are regulated by statute and not by the common law: University v. Markham, 174-338; Edwards v. Yearby, 168-663. Upon death of ancestor intestate, title to his estate descends and vests at once in his heirs; title cannot in such circumstances stand in abeyance and vest in future: Harris v. Russell, 124-547. As to "seized" in this sentence, see rule 12 of this section and Early v. Early, 134-258 at 266. For general discussion of canons of descent, see Clement v. Cauble, 55-86.

Rule 1, Lineal descent. Every inheritance shall lineally descend forever to the issue of the person who died last seized, entitled or having any interest therein, but shall not lineally ascend, except as hereinafter provided.

Rule merely referred to: Norton v. McDevit, 122-755.

Contrary to the rule of the common law, neither actual nor legal seizin is necessary under the statutory rule to make a stock of inheritance: Sears v. McBride, 70-152; Early v. Early, 134-258; Redding v. Vogt, 140-562; and see under rule 12 of this section.

DESCENT OF REVERSIONS AND REMAINDERS. Under present rules of descent, a remainder descends as if it were an estate in possession; so where, during the continuance of the particular estate, the original remainderman died and then his only child died in infancy, the remainder vested, at the end of the particular estate, in the heirs of the infant and not in the heirs of original remainderman, Early v. Early, 134-258, distinguishing King v. Scoggin, 92-99, and Lawrence v. Pitt, 46-344, as involving earlier statutes.

Rule 2, Females inherit with males, younger with older children; advancements. Females shall inherit equally with males, and younger with older children: Provided, that when a parent dies intestate, having in his or her lifetime settled upon or advanced to any of his or her children any real or personal estate, such child so advanced in real estate shall be utterly excluded from any share in the real estate descended from such parent, except so much thereof as will, when added to the real estate advanced, make the share of him who is advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And any child so advanced in personal estate shall be utterly excluded from any share in the personal estate of which the parent died possessed, except so much thereof as will, when added to the personal estate advanced, make the share of him who is advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And in case any one of the children has been advanced in real estate of greater value than an equal share thereof which may come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the distribution of the personal estate of such deceased parent with the excess in value of such real estate so advanced as aforesaid, over and above an equal share as aforesaid. And in case any of the children has been advanced in personal estate of greater value than an equal share thereof which shall come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the division of the real estate, if there be any, with the excess in value, which he may have received as aforesaid, over and above an equal distributive share of the personal estate.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, s. 1, Rule 2; 1784, c. 204, s. 2; 1808, c. 739; 1844, c. 51, ss. 1, 2.

This rule abolishes preference of male over female line and places males and females on perfect equality both as to collateral and lineal descent: Bell v. Dozier, 12-334.

ADVANCEMENTS. Nature of, and general principles regulating advancements: Thompson v. Smith, 160-256. Whether gift, loan, or advancement depends on intention of parent at time of transfer: Ibid. Value of advancement to be estimated as of time it is made: Ward v. Riddick, 57-22; Lamb v. Carroll, 28-4; Stallings v. Stallings, 16-298. See further for advancements, under section 127.

Rule 3, Lineal descendant represents ancestor. The lineal descendants of any person deceased shall represent their ancestor, and stand in the same place as the person himself would have done had he been living.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 3; 1808, c. 739.

Representation under the rule is indefinite as well among collateral as among lineal kindred: Johnston v. Chesson, 59-147. So heirs of deceased collaterals represent their ancestor, and take what he, if living, would have taken: Draper v. Bradley, 126-72.

In descent of real property, principle of representation is applied whether heirs in equal or unequal degree, and heirs take per stirpes and not per capita in either case: Crump v. Faucett, 70-345; Cromartie v. Kemp, 66-382; Haynes v. Johnson, 58-124; Clement v. Cauble, 55-82. But in distribution of personal property, under section 126, representation is resorted to only when claimants in equal degree, and not among those in unequal degree: Ellis v. Harrison, 140-444.

Heirs of naked trustee who joined in mortgage take no interest, legal or equitable: Fleming v. Barden, 126-450.

Rule 4, Collateral descent of estate derived from ancestor. On failure of lineal descendants, and where the inheritance has been transmitted by descent from an ancestor, or has been derived by gift, devise or settlement from an ancestor, to whom the person thus advanced would, in the event of such ancestor's death, have been the heir or one of the heirs, the inheritance shall descend to the next collateral relations, capable of inheriting, of the person last seized, who were of the blood of such ancestor, subject to the two preceding rules.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 4; 1808, c. 739.

Under this rule descended estates and certain purchased estates (derived by gift, devise, or settlement from an ancestor) descend to the nearest relatives of the blood of the ancestor or person from whom the estate moved: Burgwyn v. Devereux, 23-586. See Bell v. Dozier, 12-333; Watson v. Sullivan, 153-246. Where through a series of descents and settlements an estate goes to a person who dies without issue, it reverts back to those of his collateral relations who would be heirs of the ancestor from whom it originally descended or by whom it was originally settled: Poisson v. Pettaway, 159-650; Wilkerson v. Bracken, 24-315; Felton v.

Billups, 19-308. Collaterals of such blood, however remote, exclude collaterals not of that blood: Poisson v. Pettaway, 159-650; Dozier v. Grandy, 66-484; Little v. Buie, 58-10. Descent under the rule is per stirpes and not per capita: Cromartie v. Kemp, 66-382; Haynes v. Johnson, 58-124; Clement v. Cauble, 55-82.

This rule to be construed with rule 6 of this section: Noble v. Williams, 167-112; Paul v. Carter, 153-26. Where estate vests in surviving mother or father under rule 6, immaterial whether such parent be of blood of purchasing ancestor: McMichal v. Moore, 56-471.

This rule applies only when there is no disposition of the land by will which would interfere with prescribed course of descent: Kirkman v. Smith, 174-603.

When land is devised to one who could not be an heir of devisor (as to grandson who died intestate during his father's life), upon the death of devisee such land descends not under this rule, but as acquired lands under rules 5 and 6: Osborne v. Widenhouse, 56-238; see Burgwyn v. Devereux, 23-586.

When will provided for conversion of land into personalty upon future contingency which never happened, until such contingency happened land descended as ancestral realty under this rule: Elliott v. Loftin, 160-361.

Illustrative cases: where heir, nearest relative of ancestor acquiring estate, was brother: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-181—sister and a sister's child to exclusion of half-brother, Noble v. Williams, 167-112—brothers and sisters to exclusion of half-sister, Forbes v. Savage, 173-706—paternal aunt in exclusion of paternal grandfather and maternal relatives: Gillespie v. Foy, 40-280.

Cases under obsolete statutes superseded by this rule: Seville v. Whedbee, 12-160; Ham v. Martin, 8-423; Doe v. Sheppard, 7-334.

Rule merely referred to: Weeks v. Quinn, 135-425; Early v. Early, 134-258; Sawyer v. Sawyer, 28-408.

Rule 5, Collateral descent of estate not derived from ancestor. On failure of lineal descendants, and where the inheritance has not been transmitted by descent or derived as aforesaid from an ancestor, or where, if so transmitted or derived, the blood of such ancestor is extinct, the inheritance shall descend to the next collateral relation, capable of inheriting, of the person last seized, whether of the paternal or maternal line, subject to the second and third rules.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 5; 1808, c. 739.

In descent of acquired estates the only qualification necessary for collateral heir is that he be nearest relation of person last seized: Bell v. Dozier, 12-333.

Where estate had been transmitted by descent, and blood of acquiring ancestor is extinct, upon death of person last seized intestate and without issue, estate descended to his nearest collateral relations: University v. Brown, 23-387.

For cases under old act of 1784, superseded by this rule, see Ross v. Toms, 9-9; Pritchard v. Turner, 9-435.

Rule 6, Half blood inherits with whole; parents from child. Collateral relations of the half blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood, and the degrees of relationship shall be computed according to the rules which prevail in descents at common law: Provided, that in all cases where the person last seized leaves no issue capable of inheriting, nor brother, nor sister, nor issue of such, the inheritance shall vest in the father and mother, as tenants in common if both are living, and if only one of them is living, then in such survivor.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 6; 1808, c. 739; 1915, c. 9, s. 1.

This rule and rule 4 should be construed together: Paul v. Carter, 153-26; Watson v. Sullivan, 153-246; Noble v. Williams, 167-112. Where person last seized survived by child and widow, and child inherits estate from him and dies before widow, heirs of widow and not those of husband inherit estate: Weeks v. Quinn, 135-425. Where child died leaving no issue capable of inheriting, nor brother, nor sister, nor issue of such, but leaving father surviving, inheritance vests in him: Jarvis v. Davis, 99-42; Kincaid v. Beatty, 98-340; McMichal v.

Moore, 56-473—though in such case, where father dead, estate vests in mother, Early v. Early, 134-266. Where person died seized of lands descended through mother from her father, and left no issue, nor brother nor sister, except half-sister not of mother's blood, the father surviving took inheritance: Little v. Buie, 58-10. Where person dies without issue or sisters or brothers or issue of same, the father or mother will take inheritance regardless of whether he or she is of blood of purchasing ancestor: McMichal v. Moore, 56-471.

Proviso in rule applies to cases where surviving brother or sister cannot inherit, as well as to cases where none survive descendants: Watson v. Sullivan, 153-246; Bell v. Dozier, 12-333.

In cases of adoption, the natural father inherits from the child to the exclusion of the adopted father: Edwards v. Yearby, 168-663.

For cases under old act of 1784, superseded by this rule, see Ross v. Toms, 9-9; Pritchard v. Turner, 9-435; Doe v. Sheppard, 7-334.

For decision prior to amendment of rule 1, and passage of rule 12, which changed law, see Lawrence v. Pitt, 46-344, as explained in Sears v. McBride, 70-152.

As bearing upon rule, see Dozier v. Grandy, 66-484; McKay v. Hendon, 7-209.

Rule 7, Unborn infant may be heir. No inheritance shall descend to any person, as heir of the person last seized, unless such person shall be in life at the death of the person last seized, or shall be born within ten lunar months after the death of the person last seized.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 7; 1823, c. 1210.

Upon death of father seized of lands, his wife being then eniente, inheritance will immediately vest in child en ventre sa mere: Deal v. Sexton, 144-157. Inheritance not divested by birth of child more than ten lunar months after death of person last seized: Britton v. Miller, 63-270. Rule only applicable where person last seized has died since enactment of same: Rutherford v. Green, 37-121.

Rule 8, Widow may take as heir. When any person dies leaving none who can claim as heir to him, his widow shall be deemed his heir, and as such shall inherit his estate.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 8; 1801, c. 575, s. 1.

Widow is heir only when there is no one who can claim as heir of the decedent: Powers v. Kite, 83-156; University v. Markham, 174-338. This rule applies only as to property undeviseed by the husband: Grantham v. Jinnette, 177-229.

Rule 9, Illegitimate children inherit from mother. Every illegitimate child of the mother and the descendants of any such child deceased shall be considered an heir: Provided, however, that where the mother leaves legitimate and illegitimate children such illegitimate child or children shall not be capable of inheriting of such mother any land or interest therein which was conveyed or devised to such mother by the father of the legitimate child or children; but such illegitimate child or descendant shall not be allowed to claim, as representing such mother, any part of the estate of her kindred, either lineal or collateral.

Rev., s. 1556, Rule 9; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 10; 1799, c. 522; 1913, c. 71.

This rule relates to descents from mother to her illegitimate children and their descendants, and allows illegitimates and their descendants to inherit from their mother, in default of legitimate issue, but excludes the right to inherit any part of estate of mother's kindred, lineal or collateral—connection is broken in ascending line at the mother: University v. Markham, 174-338; Bettis v. Avery, 140-184; Flintham v. Holder, 16-347.

When land devised to daughter with limitation over on her dying "without leaving a lawful heir," and she dies leaving an illegitimate child, such child is, under this rule, a lawful heir: Harrell v. Hagan, 147-111. See Fairly v. Priest, 56-383.

Rule merely referred to: Norton v. McDevit, 122-759; Tucker v. Tucker, 110-334, 108-235; Ivey v. Granberry, 66-228.

See, further, as to rights of illegitimates, under rule 10 of this section.

Rule 10, Heirs of illegitimate. Illegitimate children shall be considered legitimate as between themselves and their representatives, and their estates shall descend accordingly in the same manner as if they had been born in wedlock. And in case of the death of any such child or his issue, without leaving issue, his estate shall descend to such person as would inherit if all such children had been born in wedlock: Provided, that when any illegitimate child dies without issue, his inheritance shall vest in the mother in the same manner as is provided in rule six of this chapter.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 11.

Illegitimate children of same mother may inherit from each other: Powers v. Kite, 83-156; McBride v. Patterson, 78-412 (discussing history of statute and earlier cases); Plintham v. Holder, 16-345. See University v. Markham, 174-338—without regard to the status or color of father: Ashe v. Mfg. Co., 154-241.

Legitimate brothers and sisters share in the inheritance of deceased illegitimate brother, all having same mother: McBride v. Patterson, 78-412.

This rule applies to illegitimate children, and is intended to affect only inheritances as between them and their representatives; it is not applicable to the case of a legitimate child of illegitimate father who claims as heir to the illegitimate child of such father's illegitimate sister: Bettis v. Avery, 140-184.

In determining mother's right to inherit, under proviso to this rule, rules 6 and 10 are construed together, and mother must survive illegitimate child to be within proviso: University v. Markham, 174-338.

Persons born in slavery of slave parents, who were not legitimated by marriage of parents subsequent to war, have rights of illegimates as between themselves; hence where there are two brothers coming under this description, and one dies leaving no issue or brother or sister, other brother inherits: Tucker v. Tucker, 108-235.

Rule referred to: Kenney v. R. R., 167-14; Tucker v. Tucker, 110-334; Arrington v. Alston, 6-326.

Rule 11, Estate for life of another, not devised, deemed inheritance. Every estate for the life of another, not devised, shall be deemed an inheritance of the deceased owner, within the meaning and operation of this chapter.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 12.

See Batchelor v. Whitaker, 88-356; Brown v. Brown, 168-4.

Rule 12, Seizin defined. Every person, in whom a seizin is required by any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be deemed to have been seized, if he may have had any right, title or interest in the inheritance.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 13.

All that is required by rule for creation of new stock of inheritance is that person from whom descent claimed should have had, at time of descent cast, some right, title or interest in inheritance, whether same vested in possession or not: Early v. Early, 134-267—for, under rule, neither actual nor legal seizin necessary to make stock in the devolution of estates, Sears v. McBride, 70-152. See, also, under rule 1 of this section.

Rule merely referred to: Redding v. Vogt, 140-562; Weeks v. Quinn, 135-425; Boyd v. Redd, 118-680.

Rule 13, Issue of certain colored persons to inherit. The children of colored parents born at any time before the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, of persons living together as man and wife, are declared legitimate children of such parents or either one of them, with all the rights of heirs at law and next of kin, with respect to the estate or estates of any such parents, or either one of them. If such children be dead, their issue shall represent them with all the rights of heirs at law and next of kin provided by this section for their deceased parents or either of them if they had been living; and the provision of this section shall apply to the estates of such children as are now deceased or otherwise.

Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; 1897, c. 153; 1879, c. 73.

For distribution of personal property, see Administration, s. 137.

There are two essential conditions of rule, exclusive cohabitation subsisting at birth of child and paternity of party from whom property claimed is derived: Spaugh v. Hartman, 150-454; Croom v. Whitehead, 174-305; Wall v. Fleming, 174-167; Nelson v. Hunter, 140-598; Woodward v. Blue, 107-411, 103-116; Branch v. Walker, 102-34. These essentials may be shown by reputation, declarations and conduct: Spaugh v. Hartman, 150-454.

Rule is valid as to descents after its passage: Woodward v. Blue, 103-109—and renders legitimate the children of all colored parents living together as man and wife born before January 1, 1868, Ibid. Children of woman of mixed blood, whose mother was white woman, who lived with slave as wife at time of their birth, are rendered legitimate: Ibid. Operation of rule does not extend beyond those persons occupying relation of parent and child: Tucker v. Bellamy, 98-31. Where former slave died in 1880, seized of lands, without issue, but leaving surviving her children of brother, who died in 1860, a slave, such children incapable of taking lands by descent: Ibid. Persons born in slavery, of slave parents, who were not legitimized by parents marrying subsequent to war, not legitimized by rule, except to extent of inheriting from parents: Tucker v. Tucker, 108-235. Rule intended to apply to colored persons cohabiting as man and wife, who occupied such relations to each other exclusively: Branch v. Walker, 102-34—and not where slave cohabited with several women, also slaves, at same time, Ibid. Rule operates only prospectively, and could not divest any estate theretofore acquired: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-178; Tucker v. Bellamy, 98-33.

Rule legitimates child of colored parents born before January 1, 1868, and merely extends child's right of inheritance to estate of father, which, before this enactment, was restricted to estate of mother: Bettis v. Avery, 140-184—but does not transmit any title to such person claiming land as heir of illegitimate first cousin, Ibid. Children of slave parents, born prior to January 1, 1868, whose marriage was duly legitimized as provided by section 2497, are legitimate, and can inherit lands of which father died seized: Jones v. Hoggard, 108-178—and are also entitled to inherit lands of which mother died seized, to exclusion of children born during cohabitation of mother with another slave, which relation ceased prior to emancipation, Ibid.

Fact of cohabitation raises presumption that child is issue of persons cohabiting as man and wife: Erwin v. Bailey, 123-635; Woodward v. Blue, 107-407, 103-109—yet such presumption may be rebutted, and evidence to repel inference of paternity not subject to stringent rules which apply in cases of established legal marriage, Woodward v. Blue, 107-407, 103-109.

CHAPTER 30

DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

- 1655. Jurisdiction.
- 1656. Bond for costs unnecessary.
- 1657. Venue.
- 1658. What marriages may be declared void on application of either party.
- 1659. Grounds for absolute divorce.
- 1660. Grounds for divorce from bed and board.
- 1661. Affidavit to be filed with complaint; affidavit of intention to file complaint.
- 1662. Material facts found by jury; parties cannot testify to adultery.
- 1663. Effects of absolute divorce.
- 1664. Custody of children in divorce.
- 1665. Alimony on divorce from bed and board.
- 1666. Alimony pendente lite; notice to husband.
- 1667. Alimony without divorce.
- 1668. Alimony in real estate, writ of possession issued.

1655. Jurisdiction. The superior court shall have jurisdiction of complaints for divorce and alimony, or either.

Rev., s. 1557; Code, s. 1282; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 45.

“Alimony” defined: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418. Superior court in term time alone has jurisdiction of divorce: Barringer v. Barringer, 69-179—and of suits to annul marriage, see under section 1658.

FOREIGN DIVORCES. Where in prosecution for bigamy against resident of this state, divorce obtained in another state is set up as defense, failure of defendant (plaintiff in divorce action) to obtain bona fide residence in state granting decree may be shown without violating full faith and credit clause of federal constitution: State v. Herron, 175-754. Status here of divorces obtained in other states examined in light of decisions in this state and of cases in United States supreme court: Ibid.

1656. Bond for costs unnecessary. It shall not be necessary for either party to a proceeding for divorce or alimony to give any undertaking to the other party to secure such costs as such other party may recover.

Rev., s. 1558; Code, s. 1294; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 41.

Section referred to: Broom v. Broom, 130-562.

1657. Venue. In all proceedings for divorce, the summons shall be returnable to the court of the county in which either the plaintiff or defendant resides.

Rev., s. 1559; Code, s. 1289; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 40; 1915, c. 229, s. 1.

1658. What marriages may be declared void on application of either party. The superior court in term time, on application made as by law provided, by either party to a marriage contracted contrary to the prohibitions contained in the chapter entitled Marriage, or declared void by said chapter, may declare such marriage void from the beginning, subject, nevertheless, to the proviso contained in said chapter.

Rev., s. 1560; Code, s. 1283; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 33.

As to capacity to enter into marriage contract, see section 2495.

Court has jurisdiction, in proper cases, to declare marriages void ab initio, yet they are not so ipso facto, but must be declared void by a decree of court, for only in the cases embraced in second proviso to section 2495 can they be treated as void in collateral proceedings: Watters v. Watters, 168-411; Setzer v. Setzer, 97-252. See, also, Johnson v. Kincaide, 37-470. Only marriages absolutely void are those forbidden because of difference of race and bigamous marriages: Watters v. Watters, 168-411. Judgment declaring marriage void ab initio will not bastardize issue: Taylor v. White, 160-38; Setzer v. Setzer, 97-252. But nullity has been decreed after death of parties for want of mutual capacity, though issue not bastardized: Sims v. Sims, 121-297, citing Gathings v. Williams, 27-487. Question whether marriage void ab initio must be tried between parties and cannot be raised collaterally in suit to share in property after party's death: Setzer v. Setzer, 97-252.

To annul, because of negro blood, marriage of person who claims to be white, ancestor within third generation must have been of pure negro blood: Ferrall v. Ferrall, 153-174.

Marriage with declared lunatic is void ab initio: Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91; Gathings v. Williams, 27-487—and for lack of mental capacity at time of marriage, though party not adjudged lunatic, court may declare nullity, Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Johnson v. Kineade, 37-470. When fact of lunacy established, court must declare nullity, and has no discretion in matter: Crump v. Morgan, 38-91. Marriage void for lunacy cannot be cured by cohabitation after restoration: Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91—being a nullity, can only be remedied by proceedings to set aside inquisition of lunacy or by new marriage, Sims v. Sims, 121-297. Court will declare nullity on ground of insanity only at instance of party entitled to the relief by reason of the fraud of the other party: Watters v. Watters, 168-411. Where suit for nullity is brought in behalf of the lunatic it must be in the name of the lunatic by her guardian or in name of guardian: Sims v. Sims, 121-297; Crump v. Morgan, 38-91.

Marriage entered into by person under legal age for marriage is not void ipso facto, but may be declared void ab initio by court in direct proceeding for that purpose; may be validated by cohabitation after reaching legal age: State v. Parker, 106-711; Koonce v. Wallace, 52-194. See Watters v. Watters, 168-411; Sims v. Sims, 121-297.

Marriage between persons nearer of kin than first cousins, if followed by cohabitation and birth of issue, will be declared void only while parties alive: Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293.

Marriage capable of avoidance for impotency of party is valid and subsisting until court decrees nullity: Smith v. Morehead, 59-360. Husband competent to prove wife's impotency: Barringer v. Barringer, 69-179.

Actions for nullity under this section not dismissed for want of affidavit required by section 1661: Taylor v. White, 160-38. Nor are they technically actions for divorces, though they come under that heading to extent that alimony pendente lite may be allowed: Ibid. See further, Lea v. Lea, 104-603; Johnson v. Johnson, 141-91, Clark, J., concurring.

As to constitutionality of acts as above, see Baity v. Cranfill, 91-293.

1659. Grounds for absolute divorce. Marriages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony, on application of the party injured, made as by law provided, in the following cases:

Divorce can only be granted upon application of person injured: House v. House, 131-142; Tew v. Tew, 80-316—and husband not injured where he is cause of wife's misconduct, Ibid. Defendant may ask for divorce in the nature of cross-action, but not required to do so, and may bring another action: Cook v. Cook, 159-47.

1. If the husband or wife commits adultery.

Issue of adultery must be established; and the finding in another issue that, if committed, it was condoned, is insufficient without the first finding: McKenzie v. McKenzie, 153-242.

Where wife commits adultery and husband afterwards lives with her after learning it, and keeps up connubial relations, divorce will not be granted him: Sparks v. Sparks, 94-527; see Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-129; Gordon v. Gordon, 88-45.

To establish defense of recrimination, plaintiff must have committed acts which would constitute ground for divorce in an action by defendant against plaintiff: House v. House, 131-140. Consequently, so long as statute required fornication and adultery of husband to entitle wife to divorce, it was no ground for recrimination that husband had twice committed adultery: Ibid. Husband who has wrongfully abandoned wife held entitled to divorce for her adultery committed after his abandonment: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162, overruling Tew v. Tew, 80-316. See, also, Moss v. Moss, 24-55; Wood v. Wood, 27-674; Foy v. Foy, 35-90. Where husband sues wife for divorce a vinculo on ground of abandonment under acts of 1895 and 1899 (since repealed) adultery by him after abandonment is not defense: Setzer v. Setzer, 128-170, and cases cited. Action for divorce dismissed where both parties guilty of adultery and no condonation proved: Horne v. Horne, 72-530.

Petition for divorce because of defendant's adultery need not allege that petitioner has not been guilty of adultery: Steele v. Steele, 104-631; Edwards v. Edwards, 61-534. As to evidence of physical condition of person with whom adultery alleged to have been committed, see Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41. Respondent not compelled to answer if he had had intercourse with wife: Smith v. Smith, 116-386. Husband and wife both incompetent to prove adultery in action for divorce on that ground: Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; see, also, section 1801—also their admissions are incompetent, Steele v. Steele, 104-631; Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41. In addressing the jury it is incompetent for counsel to exhibit baby of defendant to jury and state that if divorce granted it would disgrace and bastardize it: Hopkins v. Hopkins, 132-25. Mere neighborhood rumor of improper relations between defendant and paramour are incompetent: Ibid. That alleged adulterous wife offered to pay cost of criminal prosecution of paramour is competent: Toole v. Toole, 112-152. Cases merely referring to section: Prendergrast v. Prendergrast, 146-225; Morris v. Morris, 75-169.

UNDER FORMER STATUTE REQUIRING FORNICATION AND ADULTERY BY HUSBAND. "Fornication and adultery" held to have same meaning in divorce statute as in criminal statute: Prendergrast v. Prendergrast, 146-225, and see section 4343.

The sexes were put upon equality, so that only adultery required, by 1917, c. 25.

2. If either party at the time of the marriage was and still is naturally impotent.

Husband competent witness to prove impotency of wife: Barringer v. Barringer, 69-179. For case prior to section 2495, which makes impotency ground of annulment, see Smith v. Morehead, 59-360. Section merely referred to: Prendergrast v. Prendergrast, 146-225; Morris v. Morris, 75-169.

3. If the wife at the time of the marriage is pregnant, and the husband is ignorant of the fact of such pregnancy and is not the father of the child with which the wife was pregnant at the time of the marriage.

Unknown illicit intercourse, even though incestuous, prior to marriage no ground for divorce unless pregnancy resulted: Steele v. Steele, 104-631.

That wife falsely represented to husband that she was pregnant before marriage from intercourse with him, and thereby induced him to marry her, is no ground for divorce: Bryant v. Bryant, 171-746.

4. If there has been a separation of husband and wife, and they have lived separate and apart for ten successive years, and the plaintiff in the suit for divorce has resided in this state for that period.

Rev., s. 1561; Code, s. 1285; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 35; 1879, c. 132; 1887, c. 100; 1889, c. 442; 1899, c. 29; 1903, c. 490; 1905, c. 499; 1907, c. 89; 1911, c. 117; 1913, c. 165; 1917, cc. 25, 57.

Former decree of divorce a mensa is no bar to action for absolute divorce hereunder, nor is it required that application be made only by injured party: Cook v. Cook, 164-272, 159-47.

1660. Grounds for divorce from bed and board. The superior court may grant divorces from bed and board on application of the party injured, made as by law provided, in the following cases:

As to rights of husband in wife's land, where she has obtained divorce a mensa, see Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134. See, also, under sections 2519 and 2524.

If wife guilty of conduct to provoke misconduct of husband, she is not entitled to relief: Page v. Page, 161-170; s. c., 167-346. See, also, notes to section 1659, subdivision 1. Condonation is forgiveness upon condition that party forgiven abstain from like offense afterward. If condition violated, original offense is revived: Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-129; Gordon v. Gordon, 88-45. See, also, notes to section 1659. Pendency of action by husband for divorce a vinculo is not necessarily valid defense to action by wife for divorce a mensa: Cook v. Cook, 159-47. Complaint must allege statutory grounds and that plaintiff did not contribute to wrong complained of: Garsed v. Garsed, 170-672; Dowdy v. Dowdy, 154-556; Page v. Page, 161-170.

1. If either party abandons his or her family.

Where husband made wife leave him, or so failed to provide for her that she was compelled to leave, it amounts to abandonment of her: High v. Bailey, 107-70; Setzer v. Setzer, 128-170. To constitute abandonment, it is not necessary to leave state: Witty v. Barham, 147-479. Separation by consent is not abandonment, but subsequent acts may constitute it: Ibid. Application by wife under this subsection will not be sustained after adverse ruling as to alimony under section 1667: Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529.

As to sufficiency of complaint under subsection, see Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433. When complaint filed for divorce a mensa hereunder, but, pending action, new statute passed giving divorce a vinculo for same offense, and plaintiff is allowed to amend complaint so as to get divorce a vinculo, failure to file affidavit with amended complaint renders it imperative: Holloman v. Holloman, 127-15.

2. Maliciously turns the other out of doors.

Where no evidence of turning feme plaintiff out of doors at any time more than six months before action, issue as to such fact properly excluded: Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139. Application for divorce by wife hereunder not sustained after adverse ruling as to alimony under section 1667: Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529. As to sufficiency of complaint under subsection, see Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; Little v. Little, 63-22.

3. By cruel or barbarous treatment endangers the life of the other.

Divorce will not be granted for cruel and barbarous treatment where it appears that acts complained of were committed more than ten years prior to commencement of action, and in meantime parties had continued to live together: O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139. That husband communicated infectious disease to wife is not ground for divorce under subsection: Long v. Long, 9-192—but where drunken husband cursed wife and drove her from house, and by demonstrations of violence caused her to leave bedside of dying child and seek safety at distance of several miles, she is entitled to divorce, Seoggins v. Seoggins, 85-347. As to contents of complaint under subsection, see Martin v. Martin, 130-27; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139; Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113.

4. Offers such indignities to the person of the other as to render his or her condition intolerable and life burdensome.

What indignities are grounds for divorce have not been particularized by legislature, but matter is left under general words, leaving it to the courts to deal with each case upon its own peculiar circumstances, having regard to station in life, temperament, health, habits and feelings of different persons: Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229; Taylor v. Taylor, 76-436; Coble v. Coble, 55-395. What constitutes indignity held question of law, not of fact: Harrison v. Harrison, 29-490. To entitle wife to divorce under subsection, indignity offered by husband must be such as may be expected seriously to annoy woman of ordinary good sense and temper, and must be repeated or continued in, so that it may appear to have been done willfully and intentionally, or at least consciously by husband to annoyance of wife: Miller v. Miller, 78-102, overruling Everton v. Everton, 50-202. Not necessary that indignities complained of should be striking or even touching body, but foul and injurious accusations, often repeated, with withdrawal of all intercourse, refusing to bed with wife, and denial that she is wife, with threats against her life, are sufficient to entitle her to divorce: Green v. Green, 131-533; Coble v. Coble, 55-392—but husband communicating infectious disease to wife is not ground for divorce under subsection, Long v. Long, 9-192. Where drunken husband cursed wife and drove her from the house, and by demonstrations of violence caused her to leave bedside of dying child and seek safety at distance of several miles, she is entitled to divorce: Seoggins v. Seoggins, 85-347—also, where defendant had repeatedly threatened to beat wife, and boasted of having done so, etc., she is entitled to divorce, Taylor v. Taylor, 76-433.

Evidence of acts of husband within six months of beginning of action not competent: Green v. Green, 131-533; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139; Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433. Competency of husband and wife hereunder for or against one another: Taylor v. Taylor, 76-433.

For defense of condonation, see first note to this section.

As to sufficiency of complaint under subsection, see Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229; Green v. Green, 131-535; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 109-139; Jackson v. Jackson, 105-433; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; White v. White, 84-340; Joyner v. Joyner, 59-322; Harrison v. Harrison, 29-485.

Subsection merely referred to: McQueen v. McQueen, 82-471; Erwin v. Erwin, 57-83.

5. Becomes an habitual drunkard.

Rev., s. 1562; Code, s. 1286; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 36.

Provocation of wife does not justify or excuse husband's becoming habitual drunkard: Barringer v. Barringer, 153-392. Subsection merely referred to: Taylor v. Taylor, 112-134.

1661. Affidavit to be filed with complaint; affidavit of intention to file complaint. The plaintiff in a complaint seeking either divorce or alimony, or both, shall file with his or her complaint an affidavit that the facts set forth in the complaint are true to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief, and that the said complaint is not made out of levity or by collusion between husband and wife; and if for divorce, not for the mere purpose of being freed and separated from each other, but in sincerity and truth for the causes mentioned in the complaint. The plaintiff shall also set forth in such affidavit, either that the facts set forth in the complaint, as grounds for divorce, have existed to his or her knowledge at least six months prior to the filing of the complaint, and that complainant has been a resident of the state for two years next preceding the filing of the complaint; or, if the wife be the plaintiff, that the husband is removing, or about to remove, his property and effects from the state, whereby she may be disappointed in her alimony. If any wife files in the office of the superior court clerk of the county where she resides an affidavit, setting forth the fact that she intends to file a petition or bring an action for divorce against her husband, and that she has not had knowledge of the facts upon which the petition or action will be based for six months, she may reside separate and apart from her husband, and may secure for her own use the wages of her own labor during the time she remains separate and apart from him. If she fails to file her petition or bring her action for divorce within ninety days after the six months have expired since her knowledge of the facts upon which she intends to file her said petition or bring her said action, then she shall not be entitled any longer to the benefit of this section.

Rev., s. 1563; Code, s. 1287; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 46; 1869-70, c. 184; 1907, c. 1008, s. 1.

The purpose of this enactment discussed in Nichols v. Nichols, 128-108; Holloman v. Holloman, 127-16. The affidavit required is for the purpose of giving jurisdiction, and court is powerless to make the decree without it: Johnson v. Johnson, 142-462; Grant v. Grant, 159-528; Williams v. Smith, 134-252; Nichols v. Nichols, 128-108—for the requirement of statute is mandatory, Williams v. Smith, 134-252; Hopkins v. Hopkins, 132-22; Nichols v. Nichols, 128-108. Affidavit not required in suit for annulment under section 1658: Taylor v. White, 160-38.

When defendant asks for divorce, answer must have the affidavit: Cook v. Cook, 159-47; s. c., 164-272.

Usual verification of complaint in civil actions is insufficient affidavit as required by this section: Hopkins v. Hopkins, 132-22; Martin v. Martin, 130-28. Whenever alleged that husband is removing or about to remove property from state, section allows wife to file complaint without regard to time when facts alleged as cause of divorce may have occurred: Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-319; Gaylord v. Gaylord, 57-74.

Residence required by section must be actual residence: Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-221, 55-367; see, however, Moore v. Moore, 130-335; Harris v. Harris, 115-587; Smith v. Morehead, 59-360—and it is not divested by wife temporarily leaving state without intention of residing elsewhere, Moore v. Moore, 130-333. Where wife sues who is resident of another state, legal maxim that "her domicile is that of her husband" will not avail instead of actual residence: Schonwald v. Schonwald, 55-367, 62-221; Smith v. Morehead, 59-364.

Where wife alleging sufficient facts for divorce a mensa and to obtain alimony makes necessary affidavit in reference to husband's removal of property from state, not necessary to file another complaint six months after facts alleged to have occurred, Scoggins v. Scoggins, 85-347.

Objection that affidavit is defective may be first taken in supreme court: Nichols v. Nichols, 128-108.

THE AFFIDAVIT ITSELF. Must state that action was not brought within six months from time plaintiff first acquired knowledge of facts therein: Clark v. Clark, 133-28; Dickinson v. Dickinson, 7-327—except in cases where husband about to dispose of property or remove same from state, when wife need not so aver, Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-320; Gaylord v. Gaylord, 57-74; Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229.

Statement, as basis for divorce, as to knowledge of the facts for six months prior to the action, must be in affidavit, but need not be in complaint: Kinney v. Kinney, 149-321.

Affidavit and petition must be verified: Clark v. Clark, 133-28. Judge can amend affidavit in his discretion: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Grant v. Grant, 159-528.

As bearing upon section, see McQueen v. McQueen, 82-471. Section merely referred to: Cram v. Cram, 116-294.

1662. Material facts found by jury; parties cannot testify to adultery. The material facts in every complaint asking for a divorce shall be deemed to be denied by the defendant, whether the same shall be actually denied by pleading or not, and no judgment shall be given in favor of the plaintiff in any such complaint until such facts have been found by a jury, and on such trial neither the husband nor wife shall be a competent witness to prove the adultery of the other, nor shall the admissions of either party be received as evidence to prove such fact.

Rev., s. 1564; Code, s. 1288; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 47.

In action for divorce, verdict by eleven jurors consented to by both parties is valid if for defendant, but invalid for plaintiff: Hall v. Hall, 131-185.

Provision of section that allegations of complaint are deemed to be denied applies only to trial upon merits, since facts must be found by jury: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432. Facts are to be proved only by preponderance of evidence: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162.

In trial for divorce on ground of alleged adultery, neither husband nor wife is competent witness to prove same: Toole v. Toole, 112-155; Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; Hooper v. Hooper, 165-605; see section 1801—nor shall admissions of either party to each other, or in pleadings, be received in evidence to prove fact, Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; Steele v. Steele, 104-631; Hooper v. Hooper, 165-605. Declarations of alleged paramour made to or in presence of feme defendant indicating that improper familiarities had been or were about to be indulged in between them, and her reply to such declarations, are competent evidence, Toole v. Toole, 112-155—and wife, sued for divorce on ground of adultery, competent to deny evidence of witnesses that she was guilty of adultery with them, Broom v. Broom, 130-562. Competency of husband and wife to give evidence for and against each other, except as to adultery: Taylor v. Taylor, 76-433.

An issue as to a specific act of adultery is proper if raised by the pleadings: Kinney v. Kinney, 149-321. Evidence as to act of adultery between defendant and correspondent at time different from that alleged held competent: Ibid.

Abandonment as defense must be pleaded; plaintiff need not allege and plead that he has not abandoned: Kinney v. Kinney, 149-321.

For procedure where defendant becomes insane pending action, see Stratford v. Stratford, 92-297.

Section merely referred to in Long v. Long, 77-305; Hansley v. Hansley, 32-510.

1663. Effects of absolute divorce. After a judgment of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, all rights arising out of the marriage shall cease and determine, and either party may marry again unless otherwise provided by law: Provided, that no judgment of divorce shall render illegitimate any children in esse, or begotten of the body of the wife during coverture; and, Provided further, that a decree of absolute divorce upon the ground of separation for ten successive years as provided in section 1659 shall not impair or destroy the right of the wife to receive alimony under any judgment or decree of the court rendered before the commencement of the proceeding for absolute divorce.

Rev., s. 1569; Code, s. 1295; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 43; 1919, c. 204.

Upon granting absolute divorce, except as provided herein, all rights arising out of marriage cease and determine: Duffy v. Duffy, 120-346—hence court has no power to allow permanent alimony in such cases, Ibid.

Judgment declaring marriage void ab initio will not bastardize issue: Setzer v. Setzer, 97-252; Taylor v. White, 160-38.

Where wife, domiciled in another state, obtained decree for divorce a vinculo therein, husband appearing by attorney, he is bound by judgment rendered, and his property rights in her estate here terminated from date thereof: Arrington v. Arrington, 102-491.

For effect of absolute divorce on right to administer, see sections 10, 11, 12—on property rights, see section 2522.

1664. Custody of children in divorce. After the filing of a complaint in any action for divorce, whether from the bonds of matrimony or from bed and board, both before and after final judgment therein, it is lawful for the judge of the court in which such application is or was pending to make such orders respecting the care, custody, tuition and maintenance of the minor children of the marriage as may be proper, and from time to time to modify or vacate such orders, and may commit their custody and tuition to the father or mother, as may be thought best; or the court may commit the custody and tuition of such infant children, in the first place, to one parent for a limited time, and after the expiration of that time, then to the other parent; and so alternately: Provided, that no order respecting the children shall be made on the application of either party without five days notice to the other party, unless it shall appear that the party having the possession or control of such children has removed or is about to remove the children, or himself, beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

Rev., s. 1570; Code, ss. 1296, 1570; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 46.

For effect of abandonment on custody of children, see section 189. For right of appeal in habeas corpus as to custody of children, see section 2242.

In divorce proceedings, under this section, the question of the custody of minor children is to be determined by the court in its discretion: Setzer v. Setzer, 129-296; Page v. Page, 167-346, 166-90, 161-170, 167-350—and court may modify its order as to custody from time to time as exigencies may require, Setzer v. Setzer, 129-296; Page v. Page, 161-170. Where custody of child left open in divorce decree, court may subsequently at suit of father order its production and award custody, and may award damages against mother for concealing child or sending it out of state: Howell v. Howell, 162-282. May charge father with support, though custody awarded to mother, making support charge on his land: Sanders v. Sanders, 167-317, 157-229. Care to be exercised in awarding custody to nonresident parent: Harris v. Harris, 115-587. See, further, as to custody, under section 2241.

1665. Alimony on divorce from bed and board. When any court adjudges any two married persons divorced from bed and board, it may also decree to the party upon whose application such judgment was rendered such alimony as the circumstances of the several parties may render necessary; which, however, shall not in any case exceed the one-third part of the net annual income from the estate, occupation or labor of the party against whom the judgment shall be rendered.

For alimony pendente lite, see section 1666.

Alimony is that part of husband's estate which is allotted to wife for her support during period of judicial separation: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418. One-third of husband's estate may be assigned to wife when she obtains divorce a mensa: Davis v. Davis, 68-180—and whether wife entitled to it is question of law upon facts found, Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Morris v. Morris, 89-109; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-215.

Where alimony allotted to wife in specific property of husband, title to such property remains in him, and will revert at death of wife: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418; Rogers v. Vines, 28-293—or upon reconciliation, Ibid.—and may be reduced or enlarged at any time in discretion of court, Ibid.—but where decree in divorce a mensa, obtained by wife, directed that husband pay sum in gross and be discharged from all further support of wife, she is nevertheless entitled to dower in his lands after his death, Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418.

Judgment for alimony provable against estate of bankrupt, hence discharge of bankrupt constitutes discharge of judgment: Arrington v. Arrington, 131-143; but see Bankruptcy Act, s. 17, changing this.

Where trial judge finds that party in contempt for failure to pay alimony could pay part of amount ordered, error to imprison him until he should pay whole amount: Green v. Green, 130-578.

For contempt proceedings where defendant fails to comply with order of court awarding alimony, see Green v. Green, 143-406; see, also, section 978 et seq.

As bearing incidentally upon section, see Cooper v. Cooper, 127-490; Hodges v. Hodges, 82-124.

1666. Alimony pendente lite; notice to husband. If any married woman applies to a court for a divorce from the bonds of matrimony, or from bed and board, with her husband, and sets forth in her complaint such facts, which upon application for alimony shall be found by the judge to be true and to entitle her to the relief demanded in the complaint, and it appears to the judge of such court, either in or out of term, by the affidavit of the complainant, or other proof, that she has not sufficient means whereon to subsist during the prosecution of the suit, and to defray the necessary and proper expenses thereof, the judge may order the husband to pay her such alimony during the pendency of the suit as appears to him just and proper, having regard to the circumstances of the parties; and such order may be modified or vacated at any time, on the application of either party or of any one interested: Provided, that no order allowing alimony pendente lite shall be made unless the husband shall have had five days notice thereof, and in all cases of application for alimony pendente lite under this or the succeeding section, whether in or out of term, it shall be admissible for the husband to be heard by affidavit in reply or answer to the allegations of the complaint: Provided further, that if the husband has abandoned his wife and left the state, or is in parts unknown, or is about to remove or dispose of his property for the purpose of defeating the claim of his wife, no notice is necessary.

Rev., s. 1566; Code, s. 1291; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 38; 1883, c. 67.

Purpose of section is to afford wife present pecuniary relief pending progress of action: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Morris v. Morris, 89-111.

CASES IN WHICH COURT MAY AWARD UNDER STATUTE AND AT COMMON LAW. Section is cumulative and declaratory of common law as administered in English ecclesiastical courts, and right to alimony pendente lite may exist wherever wife is party to divorce proceedings as plaintiff or defendant: Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529, overruling Reeves v. Reeves, 82-348, which held right to such alimony dependent entirely on statute, and to be granted defendant only when she makes cross-demand for divorce.

Alimony pendente lite granted to feme defendant setting up cross-demand for divorce: Webber v. Webber, 79-572; Barker v. Barker, 136-316. "Expense money" allowed feme defendant as incident of husband's suit against her for absolute divorce, although in the action alimony pendente lite properly denied to her on her cross-demand for divorce a mensa, where she had previously had judgment against her in independent suit for alimony: Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529. Temporary alimony grantable in suit for annulment: Lea v. Lea, 104-603, and see under section 1658.

PLAINTIFF'S RIGHT TO ALIMONY—COMPLAINT, ETC. Complaint must allege ground for divorce to entitle plaintiff to alimony pendente lite: Garsed v. Garsed, 170-672. But ground alleged may be for divorce a vinculo or a mensa: Little v. Little, 63-22; Hodges v. Hodges, 82-122. Failure of plaintiff to obtain relief prayed for does not necessarily affect order for alimony pendente lite: Wood v. Wood, 61-538. Mutual releases of interests in each other's property by husband and wife do not bar wife in subsequent suit for divorce from claiming alimony pendente lite: Bailey v. Bailey, 127-474.

ALIMONY QUESTION OF LAW. Whether wife entitled to alimony is question of law on facts found: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Morris v. Morris, 89-109; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-215. Where evidence failed to show sufficient ground for divorce a mensa, order for temporary alimony was vacated: Page v. Page, 161-170. See Garsed v. Garsed, 170-672.

INSUFFICIENCY OF WIFE'S MEANS. Wife entitled to alimony when income from her separate estate not sufficient for her support and to defray necessary expenses in prosecuting suit: Miller v. Miller, 75-70—for she need not resort to corpus or capital of her separate estate before calling on that of husband, Ibid.—and where defendant denies having any property, but admits he is an able-bodied man, court may decree alimony pendente lite without inquiring into value of his property, Muse v. Muse, 84-35. Where in petition for divorce from bed and board cruelty was alleged, and also an estimate of value of defendant's estate, held to be sufficient evidence to decree alimony and fix amount: Pain v. Pain, 80-322.

MOTION FOR ALIMONY. Application for alimony pendente lite may be made by motion in the cause: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Reeves v. Reeves, 82-348—motion may be made after complaint filed before return term, Moore v. Moore, 130-333—motion may be heard in or out of term, Moore v. Moore, 130-33?

NOTICE OF MOTION. Five days notice of motion must be given adverse party when heard out of term: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Jones v. Jones, 173-279—but notice of motion not necessary where alleged and court finds as fact that husband has abandoned wife and is out of state, Barker v. Barker, 136-316. Fact that notice of motion for alimony pendente lite duly served upon defendant did not specify time of hearing, will not invalidate the order allowing same, it having been heard at term at which cause stood regularly for trial: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432—for application for alimony pendente lite can be made by motion in cause, Ibid.; Reeves v. Reeves, 82-348—and defendant fixed with notice thereof, Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432—for it is only where motion made out of term that notice necessary, Ibid. Order of court continuing motion for alimony to future term of court, made in presence of counsel for both parties, is sufficient notice of such motion: Lea v. Lea, 104-603.

FACTS TO BE FOUND BY JUDGE. On motion for alimony pendente lite, judge must find the facts on which order for alimony based: Easeley v. Easeley, 173-530; Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432. Order for alimony reciting that no answer filed is sufficient, for in absence of answer, facts stated in complaint are deemed true: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432. Finding that wife faithful, dutiful and obedient unnecessary: Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-129. Order erroneous if made without finding of facts by judge: Moody v. Moody, 118-926.

Where defendant asks alimony, sufficient that court finds facts as alleged in answer and supporting affidavits: Barker v. Barker, 136-316. If facts found by judge would if found by jury warrant divorce, they constitute per se sufficient ground for order for alimony: Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92-129. Finding that feme plaintiff has made out "prima facie case" held insufficient: Easeley v. Easeley, 173-530. But compare Sparks v. Sparks, 69-319.

WHAT CONSIDERED IN FINDING FACTS. In finding the facts, judge may consider counter affidavits or answer of defendant: Easeley v. Easeley, 173-530; Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Lea v. Lea, 104-603; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113; Morris v. Morris, 89-109. But before amendment of 1883, judge confined to complaint and facts therein stated: Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-321; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-215. Facts occurring within six months may be considered when it appears by affidavit or supplementary affidavit that husband about to remove his property from the state, etc.: Sanders v. Sanders, 157-229; Scoggins v. Scoggins, 80-321.

AMOUNT AND REDUCTION. Amount of alimony is within sound discretion of court and not reviewable unless discretion abused: Barker v. Barker, 136-316; Moore v. Moore, 131-371, 130-333; Jones v. Jones, 173-279.

Motion to reduce alimony pendente lite may be made anywhere in district in which action is pending: Moore v. Moore, 131-371, 130-333. Resident judge holding court in another district cannot hear motion to reduce alimony pendente lite in suit pending in district in which he resides: Moore v. Moore, 131-371. Where motion to reduce alimony pendente lite disallowed, another motion for same purpose should not be heard unless different state of facts shown and receipt exhibited for reasonable proportion of allowance made at former hearing: Ibid.

SECURING AND ENFORCING PAYMENT. Alimony pendente lite and counsel fees may be made a charge on husband's land: Bailey v. Bailey, 127-474. Order for alimony may be enforced by attachment for contempt: Green v. Green, 130-578; Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113-432; Pain v. Pain, 80-322; Wood v. Wood, 61-538. See section 978.

APPEAL. Appeal lies from order granting or refusing alimony pendente lite: Garsed v. Garsed, 170-672; Barker v. Barker, 136-316; Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Morris v. Morris, 89-109; Lynch v. Lynch, 62-46; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62-215. Facts found must be set out on appeal: Easeley v. Easeley, 173-530, and cases cited; Griffith v. Griffith, 89-113.

OBsolete HOLDINGS AND STATUTES. Alimony pendente lite once held to exist only under this statute: Moore v. Moore, 130-333; Earp v. Earp, 54-118; Wilson v. Wilson, 19-377; Everton v. Everton, 50-206. But see supra this note and Medlin v. Medlin, 175-529. For cases under original section before amendment of same, see Simmons v. Simmons, 62-63; Shearin v. Shearin, 58-233; Gaylord v. Gaylord, 57-74; Earp v. Earp, 54-118; Taylor v. Taylor, 46-528.

1667. Alimony without divorce. If any husband shall separate himself from his wife and fail to provide her and the children of the marriage with the necessary subsistence according to his means and condition in life, or if he shall be a drunkard or spendthrift, or be guilty of any misconduct or acts that would be or constitute cause for divorce, either absolute or from bed and board, the wife may institute an action in the superior court of the county in which the cause of action arose to have a reasonable subsistence allotted and paid or secured to her from the estate or earnings of her husband. Pending the trial and final determination of the issues involved in such action, and also after they are determined, if finally determined, in favor of the wife, such wife may make application to the resident judge of the superior court, or the judge holding the superior courts of the district in which the action is brought, for an allowance for such subsistence, and it shall be lawful for such judge to cause the husband to secure so much of his estate or to pay so much of his earnings, or both, as may be proper, according to his condition and circumstances, for the benefit of his said wife and the children of the marriage, having regard also to the separate estate of the wife. Such application may be heard in or out of term, orally or upon affidavit, or either or both. No order for such allowance shall be made unless the husband shall have had five days notice thereof; but if the husband shall have abandoned his wife and left the state, or shall be in parts unknown, or shall be about to remove or dispose of his property for the purpose of defeating the claim of his wife, no notice shall be necessary. The order of allowance herein provided for may be modified or vacated at any time, on the application of either party or of any one interested. In actions brought under this section, the wife shall not be required to file the affidavit provided in section 1661, but shall verify her complaint as prescribed in the case of ordinary civil actions.

Rev., s. 1567; Code, s. 1292; 1919, c. 24; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 39.

Wife who has been deserted by husband and left unprovided for may, under this section, sue him for support without asking for divorce: Cram v. Cram, 116-288.

Fact that summons in proceeding hereunder, of which judge has jurisdiction, was made returnable at term, does not affect jurisdiction of judge to hear and determine matter: Ibid.

Vague and indefinite charges of infidelity of wife made by husband in answer to complaint will not affect question of his liability under section: Ibid.

Where, in agreement for separation of husband and wife, former agreed to pay certain allowance to wife, and after paying several installments discontinued same, he cannot set up agreement in bar of her action for support: Ibid.—even though he discontinued payments because wife demanded that allowance be increased, Ibid.

In action under section the only questions are whether marriage relation existed at time of institution of proceedings: Bidwell v. Bidwell, 139-409; Skittletharpe v. Skittletharpe, 130-72; Hooper v. Hooper, 164-1—and whether husband separated himself from wife, Skittletharpe v. Skittletharpe, 130-72.

Judgment may direct monthly payments from husband's estate, which includes his income from property and his labor, considering his capacity to work: Crews v. Crews, 175-168, overruling on this point Skittletharpe v. Skittletharpe, 130-72.

Judgment in such cases is not final in sense that it is always enforceable, and such judgments subject to modification: Crews v. Crews, 175-168.

Issues of fact raised in this proceeding should be submitted to jury: Ibid.

In proceedings under section, it is province and duty of judge to determine what is reasonable subsistence for wife: Cram v. Cram, 116-288—either by hearing testimony himself or by reference to referee to ascertain facts as to income of husband, etc., Ibid.

Where application for alimony alone, it cannot be decreased before final hearing: Hodges v. Hodges, 82-122—for alimony pendente lite cannot be allowed under this section, Ibid.

Amount or specific property to be assigned is left to discretion of court, regard being had to husband's condition, and his means, wherever situated, in determining its value: Ibid.; Cram v. Cram, 116-295.

In action for support under section, judgment of nonsuit proper where court of state having jurisdiction of cause and parties had adjudged that status of parties was not husband and wife: Bidwell v. Bidwell, 139-402.

Section merely cited: Ellett v. Ellett, 157-162; Clark v. Clark, 133-28; Reeves v. Reeves, 82-352; McKinnon v. McDonald, 57-2.

1668. Alimony in real estate, writ of possession issued. In all cases in which the court grants alimony by the assignment of real estate, the court has power to issue a writ of possession when necessary in the judgment of the court to do so.

Rev., s. 1568; Code, s. 1293; 1868-9, c. 123, s. 1.

Where alimony allotted to wife in specific property of husband, title to such property remains in him, and will revert at death of wife or upon reconciliation: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418.

ART. 1. OWNER'S LIABILITY

1669. Liability for injury to livestock or fowls. If any dog, not being at the time on the premises of the owner or person having charge thereof, shall kill or injure any livestock or fowls, the owner or person having such dog in charge shall be liable for damages sustained by the injury, killing, or maiming of any livestock, and costs of suit.

1911, c. 3, s. 1.

When owner liable for injury caused by his dog: Harris v. Fisher, 115-318; Perry v. Phipps, 32-259. See section 1693. Liability for wrongfully killing a dog: Scott v. Cates, 175-336; State v. Smith, 156-628; Beasley v. Byrum, 163-3; Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175; State v. Latham, 35-33; Dodson v. Mock, 20-282; Perry v. Phipps, 32-259. Dog is property, and an action may be brought for possession: Meekins v. Simpson, 176-130.

1670. Permitting bitch at large. If any person owning or having any bitch shall knowingly permit her to run at large during the erotic stage of copulation he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3303; Code, s. 2501; 1862-3, c. 41, s. 2.

1671. Sheep-killing dogs to be killed. If any person owning or having any dog that kills sheep or other domestic animal, upon satisfactory evidence of the same being made before any justice of the peace of the county, and the owner duly notified thereof, shall refuse to kill it, and shall permit such dog to go at liberty, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, and the dog may be killed by any one if found going at large.

Sheep-killing dog may be killed: Parrott v. Hartsfield, 20-242; see, also, Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175; Daniels v. Homer, 139-252, and sections 1682, 1693.

1672. Failing to kill mad dog. If the owner of any dog shall know, or have good reason to believe, that his dog, or any dog belonging to any person under his control, has been bitten by a mad dog, and shall neglect or refuse immediately to kill the same, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars to him who will sue therefor; and the offender shall be liable to pay all damages which may be sustained by any one, in his property or person, by the bite of any such dog, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3305; Code, s. 2499; R. C., c. 67.

For statutes forbidding bird dogs at large at certain seasons, see Game Laws.

Liability for failure to kill mad dog: Holton v. Moore, 165-549; Wallace v. Douglas, 32-79. See sections 1682, 1693.

ART. 2. LICENSE TAXES ON DOGS

1673. Amount of tax. Any person owning or keeping about him any open female dog of the age of six months or older shall pay annually a license or privilege tax of two dollars. Any person owning or keeping any male dog, or female dog other than an open female dog of the age of six months or older, shall pay annually on each dog so owned or kept a license or privilege tax of one dollar.

1919, c. 116, ss. 1, 2.

Imposing tax for keeping dog a valid exercise of police powers: Newell v. Green, 169-462. Counties in which special tax authorized enumerated: Ibid.

1674. License tags; optional with county commissioners. To every person paying the license or privilege tax prescribed in the preceding section there shall be issued by the sheriff a metal tag bearing county name, a serial number, and expiration date, which shall be attached by owner to a collar to always be worn by any dog when not on premises of the owner or when engaged in hunting. The commissioner of agriculture shall at all times keep on hand a supply of tags to be furnished the sheriffs of the several counties: Provided, that the county commissioners of each county shall, by order duly made in regular session, make an order determining whether the collar and tag shall be applied to that county.

1675. Dogs to be listed; penalty for failure to list. It shall be the duty of every owner or keeper of a dog to list the same for taxes at the same time and place that other personal property is listed, and the various tax listers in the state shall have proper abstracts furnished them for listing dogs for taxation, and any person failing or refusing to list such dog or dogs shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. The owner of the home or lessee of such owner shall be responsible for listing of any dog belonging to any member of his family.

1676. When tax due; penalty for failure to pay. The license or privilege tax herein imposed shall be due and payable on the first day of October of each and every year, and all persons after December first thereafter who own or keep a dog or dogs upon which the license or privilege tax is not paid, whether said dog or dogs have been listed or not, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days.

1919, c. 116, s. 3.

1677. Receipt for tax a license. Upon the payment to the sheriff or tax collector of the license or privilege tax aforesaid, such sheriff or tax collector shall give the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs a receipt for the same, which shall constitute a license under the provisions of this article.

1919, c. 116, s. 3.

1680. Permitting dogs to run at large at night; penalty; liability for damage. No person shall allow his dog over six months old to run at large in the night time unaccompanied by the owner or by some member of the owner's family, or some other person by the owner's permission. Any person intentionally, knowingly, and willfully violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, and shall also be liable in damages to any person injured or suffering loss to his property or chattels.

1919, c. 116, s. 5.

A town ordinance against permitting dogs to run at large unmuzzled is valid: State v. Clifton, 152-800.

1681. Proceeds of tax to school fund; proviso, payment of damages; reimbursement by owner. The money arising under the provisions of this article shall be applied to the school funds of the county in which said tax is collected: Provided, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, upon complaint made to them of injury to person or injury to or destruction of property by any dog, upon satisfactory proof of such injury or destruction, to appoint three freeholders to ascertain the amount of damages done, including necessary treatment, if any, and all reasonable expenses incurred, and upon the coming in of the report of such jury of the damage as aforesaid, the said county commissioners shall order the same paid out of any moneys arising from the tax on dogs as provided for in this article. And in cases where the owner of such dog or dogs is known or can be ascertained, he shall reimburse the county to the amount paid out for such injury or destruction. To enforce collection of this amount the county commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to sue for the same.

1919, c. 116, s. 7.

The disposition of the proceeds of dog tax is a matter of legislative discretion: Newell v. Green, 169-462.

1682. Mad dogs, dogs killing sheep, etc., may be killed. Any person may kill any mad dog, and also any dog if he is killing sheep, cattle, hogs, goats, or poultry.

1919, c. 116, s. 8.

See sections 1671, 1672, 1693.

1683. Dogs, when listed, personal property; larceny of dog a misdemeanor. All dogs, when listed for taxes, become personal property and shall be governed by the laws governing other personal property: Provided, the larceny of any dog upon which aforesaid tax has been paid shall be a misdemeanor.

1919, c. 116, s. 9.

Dog not subject of larceny generally: State v. Holder, 81-527; unless tax paid, see sections 1693, 4263.

1684. Failure to discharge duties imposed under this article. Any person failing to discharge any duty imposed upon him under this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days.

1919, c. 116, s. 10.

ART. 3. SPECIAL LICENSE TAX ON DOGS

1685. Nothing in this article abrogated by Art. 2; special tax an additional tax. Nothing contained in Article 2 of this chapter shall have the effect of abrogating any of the provisions of this article, and the special license tax on dogs provided for under this article shall be in addition to the license tax on dogs provided for under Article 2 of this chapter.

1686. Special dog tax submitted to voters on petition. Upon the written application of one-third of the qualified voters of any county in this state made to the board of commissioners of such county, asking that an election be held in said county to adopt the provisions of this article for levying and collecting a special dog tax in said county, it shall be the duty of said board of commissioners from time to time to submit the question of "special dog tax" or "no special dog tax" to the qualified voters of said county; and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast shall be in favor of said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect over the whole of said county, and the special dog tax hereinafter provided for shall be levied and collected in said county; but if a majority of the votes cast at such election shall be against said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall not apply to any part of said county.

1687. Conduct of elections. Every election held under the provisions of this article shall be held and conducted under the same rules and regulations and according to the same penalties provided by law for the election of members of the general assembly: Provided, that no such election shall be held in any county oftener than once in two years.

1917, c. 206, s. 3.

1688. Commissioners to provide for registration; ballots and machinery. The board of commissioners of any county in this state in which an election is to be held under the provisions of this article may provide for a new registration of voters in said county if they deem necessary, or they may provide for the use of the registration of voters in effect at the general election for county officers in said county next preceding the holding of the election hereunder, and they shall appoint such officers as may be necessary to properly hold such election and shall designate the time and places for holding such elections, and make all rules, regulations, and do all other things necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this article; they shall provide ballots without device for all qualified voters in said county, on which shall be written or printed the words "For special dog tax," and also shall provide like ballots on which shall be printed or written the words "Against special dog tax."

1917, c. 206, s. 4.

1689. Canvass of votes and returns. At the close of said election the officers holding same shall canvass the vote and certify the returns to the said board of commissioners of said county, and the said board of commissioners shall canvass the said returns and declare the results of said election in the manner now provided by law for holding special-tax school elections.

1690. Contents and record of petition; notice of election. The qualified voters of any county who shall make written application to the board of commissioners of said county asking that an election be held under the provisions of this article shall designate and insert in said application the amount of special dog tax to be levied and collected in said county, which tax shall not exceed the sum of five dollars nor be less than the sum of one dollar for each dog, whether male or female, and the board of commissioners shall have said written application, specifying the amount of said special dog tax to be voted for in said county, recorded in the records of their proceedings, and shall cause to be published in some newspaper published or circulated in said county, and posted at the courthouse door and five other public places in said county, a notice of the time and places for holding said election and specifying the amount of tax to be voted for in said county.

1691. License tax. Any person or persons, firm or corporation, owning or keeping any dog or dogs, whether male or female, in any county which shall adopt the provisions of this article for the levy and collection of said special dog tax shall pay annually a license or privilege tax on each dog, whether male or female, such sum or sums as may be designated and inserted in the written application of the qualified voters of said county asking for said election and as recorded in the proceedings of the board of county commissioners of said county, which shall not exceed the sum of five dollars nor be less than the sum of one dollar for each dog: Provided, the tax voted for and levied on female dogs may be greater than the tax on male dogs, but in no event shall said special tax exceed the sum of five dollars, nor be less than the sum of one dollar for any dog, whether male or female.

The legislature may authorize municipal corporation to levy dog tax: Mowery v. Salisbury, 82-175.

1692. Collection and application of tax. The special dog tax voted for under the provisions of this article shall be due and collectible at the same time and in the same manner as provided by law for the collection of taxes on other personal property in said county, and shall be collected by the collector of other taxes in said county in the same manner and under the same penalties provided by law for collection of taxes on other personal property in said county, and shall be applied to the road fund, or school fund, of said county, as may be directed by the board of commissioners of said county.

1693. Listed dogs protected; exceptions. Any person who shall steal any dog which has been listed for taxation as herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court; and any person who shall kill any dog the property of another, after the same has been listed as herein provided, shall be liable to the owner in damages for the value of such dog. Nothing in this act shall prevent the killing of a mad dog, sheep-killing dog, or egg-sucking dog on sight, when off the premises of its owner, and the owner shall not recover any damages for the loss of such dog.

1917, c. 206, s. 9.

See sections 1669, 1680, 1683, 4263.

1694. Application of article to counties having dog tax. Any county in this state which now has a local law taxing dogs may, by election in the manner herein provided for, accept the provisions of this article, and if adopted by a majority of the qualified voters of said county at such election, the local law taxing dogs in such county shall thereby be repealed and annulled, and the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect in such county.

CHAPTER 32

ELECTRIC, TELEGRAPH, AND POWER COMPANIES

ART. 1. ACQUISITION AND CONDEMNATION OF PROPERTY.

- 1695. Use of public highways.
- 1696. Electric and hydro-electric power companies may appropriate highways; conditions.
- 1697. Acquisition of right of way by contract.
- 1698. Grant of eminent domain; exception as to mills and water-powers.
- 1699. Residences, etc., may be taken under certain conditions.
- 1700. Condemnation on petition; parties' interests only taken; no survey required.
- 1701. Copy of petition to be served.
- 1702. Proceedings as under eminent domain.
- 1703. Commissioners to inspect premises.

ART. 2. INTRASTATE TELEGRAPH MESSAGES.

- 1704. Penalty for nondelivery of intrastate telegraph message.

ART. 1. ACQUISITION AND CONDEMNATION OF PROPERTY

1695. Use of public highways. Any duly incorporated company possessing the power to construct telegraph or telephone lines, lines for the conveying of electric power or for lights, either or all, has the right to construct, maintain and operate such lines along any railroad or other public highway, but such lines shall be so constructed and maintained as not to obstruct or hinder the usual travel on such railroad or other highway.

Rev., s. 1571; Code, s. 2007; 1899, c. 64, s. 1; 1903, c. 562; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 2.

This section applies to placing lines along the highway and not over private land: Wade v. Tel. Co., 147-219. That telegraph and telephone lines on a right of way are an additional burden, see Query v. Tel. Co., 178-439; Teeter v. Tel. Co., 172-783; Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533; Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513. Section referred to in R. R. v. R. R., 83-496.

1696. Electric and hydro-electric power companies may appropriate highways; conditions. Every electric power or hydro-electric power corporation which may exercise the right of eminent domain under the chapter Eminent Domain, where in the development of electric or hydro-electric power it shall become necessary to use or occupy any public highway, or any part of the same, after obtaining the consent of the board of county commissioners of the county in which such public highway is situate, shall have power to appropriate said public highway for the development of electric or hydro-electric power: Provided, that said electric power or hydro-electric power corporation shall construct an equally good public highway, by a route to be selected by and subject to the approval and satisfaction of the board of county commissioners of the county in which said public highway is situated: Provided further, that said company shall pay all damages to be assessed as provided by law, by the damming of water, the discontinuance of the road, and for the laying out of said new road.

1697. Acquisition of right of way by contract. Such telegraph, telephone, or electric power or lighting company has power to contract with any person or corporation, the owner of any lands or of any franchise or easement therein, over which its lines are proposed to be erected, for the right of way for planting, repairing and preservation of its poles or other property, and for the erection and occupation of offices at suitable distances for the public accommodation. This section shall not be construed as requiring electric power or lighting companies to erect offices for public accommodation.

Rev., s. 1572; Code, s. 2008; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562, ss. 1, 2; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 3.

A railroad company cannot grant easement over its right of way to telegraph company; this can be done only by owner of soil: Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; Narron v. R. R., 122-856. Adverse user for twenty years may give the easement: Teeter v. Tel. Co., 172-783. Section cited in Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

1698. Grant of eminent domain; exception as to mills and water-powers. Such telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting company shall be entitled, upon making just compensation therefor, to the right of way over the lands, privileges and easements of other persons and corporations, and to the right to erect poles, to establish offices, and to take such lands as may be necessary for the establishment of their reservoirs, ponds, dams, works, or power-houses, with the right to divert the water from such ponds or reservoirs and conduct the same by flume, ditch, conduit, waterway or pipe line, or in any other manner, to the point of use for the generation of power at its said power-houses, returning said water to its proper channel after being so used.

Nothing in this section authorizes interference with any mill or power plant actually in process of construction or in operation; or the taking of water-powers, developed or undeveloped, with the land adjacent thereto necessary for their development. Any provisions in conflict with this chapter in any special charters granted before January thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seven, in respect to the exercise of the right of eminent domain are repealed.

Rev., s. 1573; Code, s. 2009; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 4; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562; 1907, c. 74.

These are public-service corporations and are required to begin business within two years, but only the state can take advantage of failure: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668; s. c., 171-248.

They are subject to state control and regulation through the corporation commission, see sections 1035, 1060, 1066, 1071. Telegraph companies: Mayo v. Tel. Co., 112-343; R. R. Com. v. Tel. Co., 113-213; Leavell v. Tel. Co., 116-211. Electric power companies: Horner v. Electric Co., 153-535; s. c., 156-495. Telephone companies: Godwin v. Tel. Co., 136-258; Tel. Co. v. Tel. Co., 159-9—must serve the public at reasonable rates and without discrimination, Godwin v. Tel. Co., 136-258; Tel. Co. v. Tel. Co., 159-9; Woodley v. Tel. Co., 163-284—but cannot be compelled to serve an unlawful purpose, Godwin v. Tel. Co., 136-258. Liability for wrongful removal of telephone: Carmichael v. Tel. Co., 157-21; s. c., 162-333.

As to eminent domain granted telegraph companies, see Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513—electric power and lighting companies, see Wheeler v. Tel. Co., 172-9; R. R. v. Light and Power Co., 169-471; s. c., 171-314; R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; Moore v. Power Co., 163-300; Brown v. Power Co., 140-333; Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533—street railway companies, see Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Merrick v. Street R. R., 118-1081; R. R. v. Street R. R., 120-520. The power of eminent domain is to be used only for a public purpose: Wissler v. Power Co., 158-465; Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

In conflicting rights to acquire land under eminent domain, priority is given to the company which first defines and locates its route: Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; s. c., 175-668. What will amount to abandonment: Ibid. Granting the power to one corporation and not to all is not a violation of the constitution: Ibid. Special power may be given to condemn water-powers: Ibid. But the general power is limited by this section: R. R. v. Light and Power Co., 169-471; R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; Power Co. v. Whitney, 150-31.

1699. Residences, etc., may be taken under certain cases. Residence property or vacant lots adjacent thereto in towns or cities, or other residences, gardens, orchards, graveyards or cemeteries, may be taken under the preceding section only when the company alleges, and upon the proceedings to condemn makes it appear to the satisfaction of the court, that it owns or otherwise controls not less than seventy-five per cent of the fall of the river or stream on which it proposes to erect its works, from the location of its proposed dam to the head of its pond or reservoir; or when the corporation commission, upon the petition filed by the company, shall, after due inquiry, so authorize. Nothing in this section repeals any part or feature of any private charter, but any firm or corporation acting under a private charter may operate under or adopt any feature of this section.

1700. Condemnation on petition; parties' interests only taken; no survey required. When such telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting company fails on application therefor to secure by contract or agreement such right of way for the purposes aforesaid over the lands, privilege or easement of another person or corporation, it is lawful for such company, first giving security for costs, to file its petition before the superior court for the county in which said lands are situate, or into or through which such easement, privilege or franchise extends, setting forth and describing the parcels of land, privilege or easement over which the way, privilege or right of use is claimed, the owners of the land, easement or privilege, and their place of residence, if known, and if not known that fact shall be stated, and such petition shall set forth the use, easement, privilege or other right claimed, and must be sworn to, and if the use or right sought be over or upon an easement or right of way, it shall be sufficient to give jurisdiction if the person or corporation owning the easement or right of way be made a party defendant.

Only the interest of such parties as are brought before the court shall be condemned in any such proceedings, and if the right of way of a railroad or railway company sought to be condemned extends into or through more counties than one, the whole right and controversy may be heard and determined in one county into or through which such right of way extends.

It is not necessary for the petitioner to make any survey of or over the right of way, nor to file any map or survey thereof, nor to file any certificate of the location of its line by its board of directors.

Rev., s. 1574; Code, s. 2010; 1899, c. 64, s. 2; 1903, c. 562; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 5.

Private property may not be taken for public use, directly or indirectly, without compensation: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; Staton v. R. R., 111-278; see, also, section 1706 and annotations thereunder—therefore permanent damages may be awarded landowner injured by putting telegraph poles on his land, Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513—also for constructing telephone lines, Lambeth v. Power Co., 152-371. Company cannot cut shade trees on sidewalk, even with consent of municipal authorities, without compensation to abutting owner: Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533. In proper case punitive damages may be recovered: Ibid.

The act of congress of July 24, 1860, does not give authority to enter private property without consent of owner, but provides that where consent obtained, no state shall prevent use of such postroads for telegraph purposes by such corporations as avail themselves of its privileges: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513.

The right of eminent domain may be extended to include trees near the right of way which would interfere with the lines: Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

That telegraph and telephone lines are an additional servitude, see cases cited under section 1695. Where power company built a dam and backed water on railroad right of way to injury of land, the owner is entitled to compensation: Brown v. Power Co., 140-347.

Construction of street car track is not any additional servitude upon property fronting on street: Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Merrick v. Street Rwy., 118-1081—provided the track is so constructed as not to shut abutter out or off with embankments, Merrick v. Street Rwy., 118-1081.

The running of street cars over a railroad bridge imposes an additional servitude, for which street car company must render compensation: Railroad v. Street Rwy., 120-520.

Where proceedings to condemn portion of railroad right of way for telegraph poles, etc., landowner must be made party: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513. Landowner is not given the right hereunder to file petition for damage; he must sue in trespass: Ibid. Purchaser of land subsequent to the taking and erection thereon of a telegraph line may recover permanent damages, and in suit therefor telegraph company may acquire easement: Ibid.

1701. Copy of petition to be served. A copy of such petition, with a notice of the time and place the same will be presented to the superior court, must be served on the persons whose interests are to be affected by the proceeding at least ten days prior to the presentation of the same to the said court.

Condemnation proceedings by telegraph company against railroad company to condemn right of way, to which landowner not a party, give no rights against landowner: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; Narron v. R. R., 122-856.

1702. Proceedings as under Eminent Domain. The proceedings for the condemnation of lands, or any easement or interest therein, for the use of telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting companies, the appraisal of the lands, or interest therein, the duty of the commissioners of appraisal, the right of either party to file exceptions, the report of commissioners, the mode and manner of appeal, the power and authority of the court or judge, the final judgment, and the manner of its entry and enforcement, and the rights of the company pending the appeal, shall be as prescribed in Article 2, entitled "Condemnation Proceedings," of the chapter Eminent Domain.

Section refers to proceedings subsequent to filing of petition and service of required notices: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-525.

1703. Commissioners to inspect premises. In considering the question of damages when the interest sought is over an easement, privilege or right of way, the commissioners may inspect the premises or rest their finding on such testimony as to them may be satisfactory.

Rev., s. 1577; Code, s. 2013; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 9.

For certain powers of electric companies, see section 1141.

ART. 2. INTRASTATE TELEGRAPH MESSAGES

1704. Penalty for nondelivery of intrastate telegraph message. Any telegraph company doing business in this state that shall fail to transmit and deliver any intrastate message within a reasonable time shall forfeit and pay to any one who may sue for same a penalty of twenty-five dollars. Such penalty shall be in addition to any right of action that any person may have for the recovery of damages. Proof of the sending of any message from one point in this state to another point in this state shall be prima facie evidence that it is an intrastate message.

Telegraph companies are bound to exercise ordinary prudence and diligence: Betts v. Tel. Co., 167-75; Hoaglin v. Tel. Co., 161-390; Barnes v. Tel. Co., 156-150. Restricting liability unless message is repeated or action brought in thirty days is invalid in this state: Young v. Tel. Co., 168-36; Williamson v. Tel. Co., 151-223; Brown v. Tel. Co., 111-187; Sherrill v. Tel. Co., 109-532. But a limitation of sixty days is reasonable: Lytle v. Tel. Co., 165-504; Sykes v. Tel. Co., 150-431; Lewis v. Tel. Co., 117-436.

The action may be in tort or in contract: LeHue v. Tel. Co., 174-332; Penn v. Tel. Co., 159-306, and cases cited.

Mental anguish recognized as an element of damage in this state: Young v. Tel. Co., 107-370; Sherrill v. Tel. Co., 116-655; Cashion v. Tel. Co., 123-267; Green v. Tel. Co., 136-489; Penn v. Tel. Co., 159-306, and cases cited; Lawrence v. Tel. Co., 171-240, and cases cited. Allowed in interstate messages: Young v. Tel. Co., 168-36; Raiford v. Tel. Co., 160-489; Penn v. Tel. Co., 159-306, and cases cited.

Since the act of congress, 1910, the federal rule applies in interstate messages, and restrictions of liability are recognized and mental anguish is not allowed: Johnson v. Tel. Co., 175-588; s. c., 177-31; Askew v. Tel. Co., 174-261; Norris v. Tel. Co., 174-92; Meadows v. Tel. Co., 173-240.

What is an interstate message: R. R. Com. v. Tel. Co., 113-213; Leavell v. Tel. Co., 116-211; Penn v. Tel. Co., 159-306; Bateman v. Tel. Co., 174-97.

EMINENT DOMAIN

ART. 1. RIGHT OF EMINENT DOMAIN.

- 1705. Corporation in this chapter defined.
- 1706. By whom right may be exercised.
- 1707. Right to enter on and purchase lands.
- 1708. Power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, double-tracking, etc.
- 1709. Condemning land for industrial sidings.
- 1710. Condemnation by schools for water supply.
- 1711. Condemnation for steamboat wharves and warehouses.
- 1712. May take material from adjacent lands.
- 1713. How material paid for.
- 1714. Dwelling-houses and burial grounds cannot be condemned.

ART. 2. CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

- 1715. Proceedings when parties cannot agree.
- 1716. Petition filed; contains what; copy served.
- 1717. How process served.
- 1718. Service where parties unknown.
- 1719. When court may direct how papers to be served.
- 1720. Answer to petition; hearing; commissioners appointed.
- 1721. Powers and duties of commissioners.
- 1722. Form of commissioners' report.
- 1723. Exceptions to report; hearing; appeal; when title vests; restitution.
- 1724. Provision for jury trial on exceptions to report.
- 1725. When benefits exceed damage, corporation pays costs.
- 1726. Title of infants, persons non compos, and trustees without power of sale, acquired.
- 1727. Rights of claimants of fund determined.
- 1728. Attorney for unknown parties appointed; pleadings amended; new commissioners appointed.
- 1729. Court may make rules of procedure in.
- 1730. Change of ownership pending proceeding.
- 1731. Defective title; how cured.
- 1732. Title to state lands acquired.
- 1733. Quantity which may be condemned for certain purposes.

ART. 1. RIGHT OF EMINENT DOMAIN

1705. Corporation in this chapter defined. For the purposes of this chapter, unless the context clearly indicates the contrary, the word "corporation" includes the bodies politic and natural persons, enumerated in the following section, which possess the power of eminent domain.

1706. By whom right may be exercised. The right of eminent domain may, under the provisions of this chapter, be exercised for the purpose of constructing their roads, canals, lines of wires, or other works, which are authorized by law and which involve a public use or benefit, by the bodies politic, corporations, or persons following:

1. Railroad, street railroad, plankroad, tramroad, turnpike, canal, telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting, public water supply, flume, or incorporated bridge companies.

2. Municipalities operating water systems and sewer systems and all water companies operating under charter from the state or license from municipalities, which may maintain public water supplies, for the purpose of acquiring and maintaining such supplies.

3. Persons operating or desiring to operate electric light plants, for the purpose of constructing and erecting wires or other necessary things.

4. Public institutions of the state for the purpose of providing water supplies, or for other necessary purposes of such institutions.

5. School committees of public school districts, public school committees of townships, county boards of education, boards of trustees or of directors of any corporation holding title to real estate upon which any public school, private school, high school, academy, university or college is situated, in order to obtain a pure and adequate water supply for such school, college or university.

Rev., s. 2575; Code, s. 1698; R. C., c. 61, s. 9; 1852, c. 92, s. 1; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, cc. 39, 458, 783; 1911, c. 62, ss. 25, 26, 27; 1917, cc. 51, 132.

For power of municipalities to acquire property by eminent domain, see Municipal Corporations, ss. 2791, 2792.

For condemnation for water supply, see Public Health, ss. 7119, 7120.

For the right of eminent domain and the exercise of the right by electrical companies, see Electric, Telegraph and Power Companies.

For condemnation for street railroads operating by electricity, and owning one side of a stream, of land on the other side for a dam, see Railroads, s. 3535.

For power of municipal hospital to condemn land, see Public Hospitals, s. 7265.

For condemnation of land for roads, see Roads and Highways.

For condemnation for mill by owner of one bank of stream, see Mills, Art. 2.

Condemnation for mills, see sections 2535, 2536.

Condemnation for canals, see sections 5261-5264, 5269, 5301.

The provision of this section giving eminent domain to public institutions of the state supersedes older more limited provisions omitted.

Although there is no clause in state constitution which prohibits taking private property for public use without compensation, and although clause to that effect in constitution of United States applies only to acts by United States, yet principle is so grounded in natural equity that it has never been denied to be a part of the law of North Carolina: Johnston v. Rankin, 70-550; State v. Glen, 52-321; Cornelius v. Glen, 52-512; Railroad v. Davis, 19-451; Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283; Lloyd v. Venable, 168-531.

Right of state to take private property under power of eminent domain rests upon ground that there is a public necessity for such taking, and can only be exercised when law provides means of giving adequate compensation to owner: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490; Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283.

Title to a right of way can only be acquired by condemnation and compensation in manner provided by law or by formal deed of conveyance from owner; or by performance of some act or payment of some consideration by virtue of an executory agreement enforceable in equity; or by completing road over lands, and thereby exposing corporation to liability for compensation, when such right and liability are provided by statute: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

The power exists only when granted by the state: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668; s. c., 171-248; Lloyd v. Venable, 168-531; Comrs. v. Bonner, 153-66. Right can be exercised only in mode pointed out in statute conferring it: Allen v. R. R., 102-381; Clinton v. Johnson, 174-286. See annotations under section 1715.

Due process of law as applied to judicial proceedings, instituted for purpose of taking private property for public use, means such process as recognizes right of owner to just compensation for property taken, whether taken directly or indirectly: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; Dargan v. R. R., 113-596; Staton v. R. R., 111-278—and such compensation must be full, measured by its actual market value, Brown v. Power Co., 140-333.

Interest of landowner is preserved by payment into court of full assessed value of strip of land condemned, which is required before corporation can enter upon premises: Railroad v. Newton, 133-133.

LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY. Method of taking land for public use is within exclusive control of legislature limited by organic law, and courts cannot help injured landowner, where statute has been strictly followed, until question of compensation is reached: Durham v. Rigsbee, 141-128; Jeffress v. Greenville, 154-490.

The question, what is a public use, is always one of law. Deference will be paid to legislative judgment as expressed in enactments providing for appropriation of property, but it will not be conclusive: Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283.

Whenever a power is given by statute, everything necessary to make it effective or requisite to attain the end is inferred: Dewey v. R. R., 142-392.

In taking private property for use of public, as for public highway, legislature is not restricted to a mere easement in the property, but may take entire interest of individual if, in the opinion of legislature, public exigency requires it: R. R. v. Davis, 19-451. Legislature can authorize taking, levying assessment and payment of compensation to be made subsequently: Ibid.

Legislature may transfer land acquired for one public purpose to another public purpose, e. g., from waterworks to a park: Torrence v. Charlotte, 163-562.

TO WHOM GRANTED. While legislature has no power to authorize condemnation of private property for use of purely private corporations, nevertheless, where corporations, otherwise private, are clothed with powers and charged with duties which are in their nature public, they become quasi-public corporations, and may, with legislative permission, exercise right of eminent domain: Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; Land Co. v. Traction Co., 162-314; Bass v. Navigation Co., 111-439; R. R. v. C. C. R. R., 83-489; R. R. v. Davis, 10-451.

Land cannot be condemned for use of private lumbering railroad: Lumber Co. v. Cedar Works, 158-161; Cozard v. Hardwood Co., 139-283; Bass v. Navigation Co., 111-439.

Corporation organized for the transaction of business except railroad business, and empowered by its charter to build and operate "tramways or other roads, not meaning railway," has no power to build or operate a railroad, and has no capacity to take and use an easement for that purpose: Beasley v. R. R., 145-272.

Powers conferred upon railroad company by its charter must be exercised "in a lawful way," that is, in respect to those who suffer damage, with due regard for their rights: Thomason v. R. R., 142-300.

Railroad company has no right to enter on land for purpose of constructing its road until it has acquired right to do so by agreement with owner or by paying into court amount awarded by commissioners in condemnation proceedings duly had: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423.

Right may be used to acquire land for public school: School Trustees v. Hinton, 165-12. See section 5416.

CORPORATIONS ENJOYING RIGHT, SUBJECT TO CONTROL. Where corporation has benefit of right of eminent domain, it is affected with a public use and must, to extent of public interest therein, submit to be controlled by public: Griffin v. Water Co., 122-206.

Though railroad companies fall within classification of private corporations, they are quasi-public, and have no more authority to rid themselves of responsibility for performance of duties imposed upon them as inseparable from the privileges given them than they have to sell any property which is necessary for corporate purposes: Logan v. R. R., 116-940.

NATURE OF RIGHT ACQUIRED. Public-service corporations acquiring right of way by condemnation obtain only an easement, and not the absolute title: Beasley v. R. R., 145-272; R. R. v. Olive, 142-257; Shepard v. R. R., 140-391; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225; State v. Rives, 27-297.

Where a railroad holds right of way under specific grant, it cannot extend this except by condemnation: Tighe v. R. R., 176-239. Party granting right of way to railroad upon consideration of benefits, with provision that if failure or neglect for five years to construct line, it should revert to grantor, right of defendant is restricted to time fixed: McDowell v. R. R., 144-721; Thomas v. R. R., 144-729—and where time limit has expired, defendant is confined to condemnation proceedings under statute, McDowell v. R. R., 144-721. Right of way granted in consideration of establishing a flag station, how enforced: Parrott v. R. R., 165-295. Contract in this case does not convey an easement, but, at most, only constitutes an executory contract to convey an easement whenever road should be located on and completed through lands, provided that result was produced within reasonable time: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Grant of easement does not preclude grantor from such use of his land himself or permitting same to others, which is not in conflict therewith: Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros., 126-254. Any use by owner of land condemned for right of way is subject to the necessity of the use of the land by company for purposes granted under charter: Dargan v. R. R., 131-623; Thomason v. R. R., 142-318; Tighe v. R. R., 176-239; Earnhardt v. R. R., 157-358; Coit v.

Owenby, 166-136; R. R. v. Bunting, 168-579. And the company may make such subsequent use of the land as may be necessary for the proper operation of the road: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257; Thomason v. R. R., 142-318. Allowing right of way to be used as street does not prevent the use of it by the railroad: Muse v. R. R., 149-443.

Acquisition of right of way does not carry with it privilege of throwing stones or other material, by blasting, to a distance of two hundred yards or more on lands of adjacent proprietor, whereby family of latter is exposed to danger while engaged in domestic duties: Blackwell v. R. R., 111-151.

Where railroad company constructed its road upon a street only by license of city, abutting property owner who is endangered thereby may maintain a common-law action for damages, to be assessed up to time of trial, or may sue for permanent damages inflicted by location and construction of road and, by so doing, confer upon defendant an easement to occupy street, as far as such abutter is concerned: White v. R. R., 113-610. Where public-service corporation is authorized to take over a street with the consent of the city, compensation is due the city for the right: R. R. v. Wilmington, 154-331.

Railroad corporation having right to use land, or right of way over land, may maintain an action for its possession: R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

A railroad company which has constructed its road over the land of another cannot be ousted or stayed in operating its road, when acting under authority in its charter or the general law: Beasley v. R. R., 147-362.

On foreclosure of mortgage given by railroad company, purchaser takes right that company had acquired in relation to its rights of way under its charter: Barker v. R. R., 137-214.

Title of railroad to right of way once acquired cannot be lost by occupancy as to any part of it by lapse of time: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100; Railroad v. McCaskill, 94-746. See section 434.

While mere nonuser of easement may not defeat or impair claim of railroad company to right of way for an unfinished line, yet, when such nonuser is accompanied by such acts of dominion for a long period by owner of servient lands as are inconsistent with nature of easement, and as indicate an intention to abandon it, easement will be lost and owner of fee will regain title: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Where railroad company allows the public to use its right of way for other purposes, it does not lose control, and a person entering upon the right of way, not for the company's business, is a licensee: Muse v. R. R., 149-443.

GRANT OF EASEMENT PRESUMED. Railroad cannot acquire title to easement by prescription: Narron v. R. R., 122-856. Where railroad company enters upon and constructs its track on land and owner does not institute an action therefor within two years, railroad will be presumed to have acquired an easement: Earnhardt v. R. R., 157-358; Barker v. R. R., 137-214; R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225; R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Presumption of grant to railroad raised by its charter cannot apply where deed from owner to railroad is executed within two years after location of road: Hickory v. R. R., 137-189. Under statute raising presumption of grant to railroad two years after location of its track, burden of showing when track was located is upon defendant: Ibid.

When charter provides that, in absence of any contract, corporation acquires title to 100 feet on each side of track, and if no claim for damages is brought in two years from completion of that part of road it is barred, the corporation has a valid title to right of way as its track is completed: Purifoy v. R. R., 108-100; Railroad v. McCaskill, 94-746—but when corporation took deed for less than 100 feet within two years after its completion, this prevented limitation in charter from applying, and corporation got no title to land lying outside of deed, but within 100 feet of track, by lapse of two years: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596.

BURDEN ADDITIONAL TO ORIGINAL EASEMENT, OWNER COMPENSATED. Condemnation for the purpose of building and operating a railroad does not deprive owner of use of land except to extent that it was necessary for operation of road. For any additional burden he is entitled to compensation, to be measured with reference to limited easement of railroad: Brown v. Power Co., 140-333, and cases cited on page 347.

Telegraph line along railroad and on right of way thereof is an additional burden upon land, for which landowner is entitled to just compensation: Query v. Tel. Co., 178-639; Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513—and evidence that it was necessary to the operation of road is immaterial, Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225. See annotations under section 1695.

A railroad company, owning an easement for trackage and similar purposes over plaintiff's lot, leased its entire road to defendant. Defendant had four other roads meeting at G, the town where plaintiff's lot was located: Held, that defendant was not entitled to use its easement for trackage or warehouse purposes for any traffic in which the lessor road had no part or interest without making compensation to plaintiff as for an additional burden on his land, but that additional traffic over lessor road, though originating on defendant's other roads, was not a subject of compensation: McCulloch v. R. R., 146-316.

Running of street cars over a bridge already constructed by railroad company within city limits and sufficient for ordinary uses of public imposes an additional servitude upon bridge for which street railway company must render compensation by contributing to expense of maintenance and by providing necessary conveniences at intersection, as required by law: Railroad v. Street R. R., 120-520.

Additional burden placed upon street, right of abutting owner: Brown v. Electric Co., 138-533.

Construction of street car track does not impose any additional servitude upon property fronting on street so occupied so as to necessitate condemnation proceedings against the owners: Hester v. Traction Co., 138-288; Merrick v. Street R. R., 118-1081—provided the railway track is so constructed as not to shut abutter out or off with embankment, Merrick v. Street R. R., 118-1081. A steam railroad on a street is an additional burden: Caveness v. R. R., 172-305, and cases cited.

PRIORITY AS BETWEEN COMPANIES SEEKING SAME LOCATION. Property which has been appropriated to public use, railroad or other, may, under lawful authority and procedure, be condemned and so appropriated to another public use. But if such second appropriation is entirely inconsistent with first, or practically destroys it, such power can only be exercised by reason of legislative authority given in express terms or by necessary implication: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423; R. R. v. R. R., 83-489. One railroad may condemn a right of way across another railroad: R. R. v. R. R., 161-531; s. e., 165-425; R. R. v. R. R., 104-658. See section 3444.

Parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on right of way of another, for purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at will of licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel, although licensee has entered and made valuable improvement: R. R. v. R. R., 104-658.

In conflicting rights of railroads as to right of way under grant or condemnation, in absence of statutory regulations to contrary, first location belongs to company which first defines and marks its route and adopts same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423. Where priority of right has been secured by priority of location, it cannot be defeated by rival company agreeing with owners and purchasing property: Ibid. Making a preliminary survey by an engineer of railroad company, not reported to company or acted upon, will not prevent another company from locating on same line: Ibid. For conflicting rights under eminent domain in case of electric power companies, see Power Co. v. Power Co., 171-248; s. e., 175-668.

Water-power not subject to condemnation if used or held to be used or developed for public purpose: R. R. v. Light and Power Co., 169-471; R. R. v. Oates, 164-167; R. R. v. Power Co., 171-314.

INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AGAINST INTERFERENCE WITH RIGHT OF WAY. A railroad company is entitled to injunctive relief against interference with right of way, without regard to solvency of persons interfering therewith: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257. It must show clearly that it has a right of way over lands in controversy, the extent of such right, and that defendants are obstructing or threaten to obstruct its use: Ibid.

Court will in this case protect plaintiff's right to exclusive use of roadbed, by injunctive relief, as against defendant's claim to appropriate it for its own right of way: Street R. R. v. R. R., 142-423.

Fact that one railroad occupies land which is claimed by another road as its right of way is not in itself an irreparable tort which will justify restraining defendant from using land until question of title can be tried, especially when it is not alleged that defendant is insolvent, and where it appears that there is room on disputed territory for construction of both roads: R. R. v. Mining Co., 112-661. See annotations under section 843.

1707. Right to enter on and purchase lands. Such bodies politic, corporation, or persons, may at any time enter upon the lands through which they may desire to conduct the roads or works authorized under the preceding section and lay out the same, and they may also enter upon such contiguous land along the route as may be necessary for depots, warehouses, engine sheds, workshops, water stations, tool-houses, and other buildings necessary for the accommodation of their officers, servants and agents, horses, mules and other cattle, and for the protection of their property; and shall pay to the proprietors of the land so entered on such sum as may be agreed on between them.

Rev., s. 2575; Code, s. 1698; R. C., c. 61, s. 9; 1852, c. 92; s. 1; 1874-5, c. 83.

Right of entry granted railroad company under this section is only for purpose of marking out route and designating building sites to end that parties may come to an intelligent agreement as to price: State v. Wells, 142-590. A railroad company having the power of eminent domain, entering upon and occupying land for building its track, is not a trespasser: Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97.

Electric company may acquire the right to cut trees on or near the right of way: Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

1708. Power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, double-tracking, etc. Any railroad company operating a line of railroad in North Carolina whenever it shall find it necessary to occupy any land for the purpose of getting to a union depot which has been ordered by the corporation commission, or for the purpose of maintaining, operating, improving, or of straightening its line, or of altering its location, or of constructing double tracks, or of enlarging its yard or terminal facilities, or of connecting two of its lines already in operation not more than six miles apart, shall have the power to condemn all lands needed for such purpose under the provisions of this chapter. More than two acres may be condemned for yard or terminal facilities if required for due operation of the railroad. No lands in any incorporated towns shall be condemned under this section until approved by the corporation commission, nor shall any yard, garden or dwelling-house be condemned, unless the corporation commission, upon petition filed by the railroad seeking to condemn, shall, after due inquiry, find that the railroad company cannot make the desired improvement without condemning the yard, garden or dwelling-house, except at an excessive cost. The power to condemn land under this section shall be enforceable and matters arising in regard thereto shall be tried only in the courts created by or under the constitution of this state. No rights granted or acquired under the provisions of this section shall in any way destroy or abridge the rights of the state to regulate or control such railroad company or to exclude foreign corporations from doing business in this state.

Union depot statute (section 1042) was intended to apply to all cities and towns in state where, in legal discretion of commissioners, the move is practicable, etc.: Dewey v. R. R., 142-392. It confers on railroads the incidental right to make such changes in their line and route as are necessary to accomplish purpose designed and to make depot available and accessible to traveling public as contemplated by act: Ibid.

Where corporation commission selects union depot site, railroads will not be enjoined, at instance of citizens and property owners, from erecting depot, either on ground that city is being sidetracked or that their property will be damaged by proposed change: Ibid.

Giving to railroads, subject to order of corporation commission to build union depot, the express power to condemn lands is a valid exercise of legislative power: Ibid.

1709. Condemning land for industrial sidings. Any railroad company doing business in this state, whether such railroad be a domestic or foreign corporation, which has been or shall be ordered by the corporation commission to construct an industrial siding as provided in chapter 21, section 1044, is empowered to exercise the right of eminent domain for such purpose, to condemn property as provided in this chapter, and to acquire such right of way as may be necessary to carry out the orders of the corporation commission. Whenever it is necessary for any railroad company doing business in this state to cross the street or streets in a town or city in order to carry out the orders of the corporation commission, to construct an industrial siding, the power is hereby conferred upon such railroad company to occupy such street or streets of any such town or city within the state: Provided, license so to do be first obtained from the board of aldermen, board of commissioners, or other governing authorities of such town or city.

1710. Condemnation by schools for water supply. If the school authorities mentioned in subsection 5 of section 1706 shall be unable to agree with the owners of any lands which, or the use of which, it is necessary to appropriate in obtaining a pure and adequate water supply for the school, they shall file a petition for the condemnation of such lands in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. In addition to the particulars required to be set out in section 1716, the petition shall state whether the water supply is desired to be obtained from a spring, from a stream, or by digging artesian wells. The proceedings for such condemnation shall conform to the requirements of this chapter. No greater amount of land in area or width shall be condemned under this section than is necessary to obtain a pure and adequate water supply.

Any person holding title to land upon which any school, public or private, is located is empowered to obtain water supplies from the springs, streams or artesian wells the use of which is acquired under this section by building intakes, reservoirs, digging ditches, laying pipes or doing such other things as may be needful to obtain the water supply.

1711. Condemnation for steamboat wharves and warehouses. Upon the order of the corporation commission that any steamboat company provide wharf and warehouse facilities as may be deemed reasonable and just, at any particular point, such company shall have power to condemn land for such purpose in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 52.

1712. May take material from adjacent lands. For the purpose of constructing and operating its works and necessary appurtenances thereto, or of repairing them after they shall have been made, or of enlarging or otherwise altering them, the corporation entitled to exercise the powers of eminent domain may, at any time, enter on any adjacent lands, and cut, dig, and take therefrom any wood, stone, gravel, water or earth, which may be deemed necessary: Provided, that they shall not, without the consent of the owner, destroy or injure any ornamental or fruit trees.

Rev., s. 2576; Code, s. 1702; R. C., c. 61, s. 22; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, c. 39, s. 2.

In constructing crossing, railroad company might use plank, timber, earth, etc., to make same such as statute allows and intends, and as public ease, convenience and safety require, and in forming and securing incline on each side of railroad track, so as to provide an easy and safe passway across it: State v. Lumber Co., 109-862.

Owner of land is entitled to compensatory damages for cutting of crossties on land not included in right of way, and negligent filling of ditches, instead of building bridges over them, in constructing roads necessary to remove timber, and for breaking down fences: Waters v. Lumber Co., 115-648.

Fact that railroad company supervised cutting of timber and issued orders which contractor was bound to obey showed affirmatively a state of subjection on contractor's part that made him, in law, servant of railroad: Waters v. Lumber Co., 115-649.

In the case of electric companies this power may be extended to the cutting of trees near the right of way upon proper proceedings for condemnation: Power Co. v. Wissler, 160-269.

1713. How material paid for. If for the value of the damages done to the owner by reason of the acts in the preceding section mentioned the parties may be unable to agree, the same shall be valued in the manner hereinafter provided.

Rev., s. 2577; Code, s. 1703; R. C., c. 61, s. 23; 1874-5, c. 83.

1714. Dwelling-houses and burial grounds cannot be condemned. No such corporation shall be allowed to have condemned to its use, without the consent of the owner, his dwelling-house, yard, kitchen, garden or burial ground, unless condemnation of such property is expressly authorized in its charter or by some provision of the Consolidated Statutes.

Rev., s. 2578.

For power of electric companies to take dwellings, etc., see Electric Companies, s. 1699.

In Ashe, Watauga, and Yancey counties, yards, gardens and orchards may be condemned when necessary by railroad companies proceeding in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. P. L. 1911, c. 584.

“Dwelling-house” means the dwelling or home of the owner, and does not include tenant houses: R. R. v. Mfg. Co., 166-168.

Charter of Western N. C. Railroad Company does not give it right to enter upon and appropriate a yard, garden or dwelling-house for purposes of road; and when such entry or appropriation is made, owner may maintain civil action for trespass, and is not compelled to resort to statutory remedy provided for condemnation of lands; nor will a recovery in such action vest in the corporation any easement or property in the premises: Fore v. R. R., 101-526.

When provision in charter or deed granting right of way prohibited it from entering upon yard, garden, burial ground, etc., of defendants, but no portion of right of way was so used at date of acquisition, right of company would not be interfered with by fact that it has been appropriated to such use since: Railroad v. Olive, 142-257; Dargan v. Railroad, 131-625.

A house located on the right of way does not become property of company: Shields v. R. R., 129-1; R. R. v. Mfg. Co., 166-168.

ART. 2. CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS

1715. Proceedings when parties cannot agree. If any corporation, enumerated in section 1706 of this chapter, possessing by law the right of eminent domain in this state, is unable to agree for the purchase of any real estate required for purposes of its incorporation or for the purposes specified in this chapter, it shall have the right to acquire title to the same in the manner and by the special proceedings herein prescribed.

Rev., s. 2579; Code, ss. 1943, 2009; 1885, c. 168; 1893, c. 63; 1901, cc. 6, 41, s. 2; 1899, c. 64; 1903, cc. 562, 159, s. 16; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 13.

That this proceeding has taken the place of the common-law remedy for trespass, and the owner of the land must have his damages assessed in the manner herein prescribed, see McIntire v. R. R., 67-278; Holloway v. R. R., 85-452; R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746; Allen v. R. R., 102-381; Jones v. Comrs., 130-452; Dargan v. R. R., 131-623.

More recent cases hold that the statutory remedy is not exclusive, but the owner may proceed by petition under this section or by civil action for permanent damages: Fleming v. Congleton, 177-186; Keener v. Asheville, 177-1; Mason v. Durham, 175-638; Cavness v. R. R., 172-305; McMahan v. R. R., 170-456; Porter v. R. R., 148-563.

Statutory method of condemning right of way can be exercised only when parties are unable to agree upon terms of acquirement: Allen v. R. R., 102-381. In case parties cannot agree, then company may proceed to condemn land, and company does not acquire the right to enter for purpose of constructing road until amount of appraisement has been paid into court: State v. Wells, 142-590; Railroad v. Newton, 133-133.

Where charter of railroad contains provision as to manner of condemning land for right of way, method pointed out by such provision, and not that prescribed by general law, must be followed: R. R. v. Ely, 95-77.

Railroad company may dispense with assessment of damages by commissioners for passing over land of proprietor, by promising to settle and to pay it without assessment, and landowner may recover upon special promise: Plott v. R. R., 65-74.

Where land was conveyed to trustee for separate use of married woman, latter and her husband cannot convey to railroad company right of way over land: Narron v. R. R., 122-856. No one can grant an easement in land who cannot convey fee simple: Ibid.

A covenant to grant a right of way does not entitle the covenantee to a conveyance of the land: Mills v. Lumber Co., 150-114.

DECISIONS OF INTEREST UNDER SPECIAL ACTS. Statutory provision allowing private property to be taken under right of eminent domain must be strictly pursued, and right of owner to obtain compensation depends on whether corporation has obtained a vested right: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596.

Stipulation in charter of railroad that all claims for damages for land taken by corporation must be made within two years is a positive statute of limitations, and bars all claims not made within that time, when parties are sui juris: R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Where corporation, having alone power to institute proceedings for assessment of damages and benefits resulting from its exercise of eminent domain, fails and refuses, on demand of owner, to do so, owner may treat corporation as a trespasser and sue in ejectment, if he elect to do so; otherwise appropriate remedy is by mandamus to compel corporation to assess damages as provided by its charter: McDowell v. Asheville, 112-747.

Railroad company has right to enter upon and take possession of land before payment to owner, which is needed in building of its road, when it is authorized by its charter to do so: R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Action against telegraph company for erection of poles on land of plaintiff, if brought within three years of trespass, is not barred by limitation: Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225.

An interest in entire right of way does not vest in corporation unless it takes actual possession in exercise of privilege granted it; but it seems that, where corporation enters, its constructive possession extends to boundary of right of way given in charter: Dargan v. R. R., 113-596.

Section limiting actions for damages for occupation of land by railroad company to five years and exempting from its operation companies chartered prior to 1868, is not in violation of fourteenth amendment of constitution of United States, prohibiting any state from denying to any person the equal protection of the laws: Narron v. R. R., 122-856.

Where a company has constructed railroad between termini named in its charter and amendments thereto, fact that it is building sidetracks does not prevent bar of landowner's claim: R. R. v. Olive, 142-257.

Where enjoyment of easement by railroad in land has effect of injuring adjoining lands of owner, damages are recoverable for such injury: Liverman v. R. R., 114-692.

Permanent damages may be awarded a landowner who is injured by putting of telegraph poles on his land: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513.

Fact that method prescribed for assessing damage caused by taking land for construction of sewage plant was illegal is not ground for restraining construction of plant: Vickers v. Durham, 132-880.

Provisions of general railroad act are applicable to Durham and Northern railroad company, notwithstanding its charter prescribes that it shall have power to condemn land under the "same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the North Carolina railroad company": R. R. v. R. R., 106-16.

1716. Petition filed; contains what; copy served. For the purpose of acquiring such title the corporation, or the owner of the land sought to be condemned, may present a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the real estate described in the petition is situated, praying for the appointment of commissioners of appraisal. Such petition shall be signed and verified according to the rules and practice of such court; and if filed by the corporation it must contain a description of the real estate which the corporation seeks to acquire; and it must, in effect, state that the corporation is duly incorporated, and that it is its intention in good faith to conduct and carry on the public business authorized by its charter, stating in detail the nature of such public business, and the specific use of such land; that the land described in the petition is required for the purpose of conducting the proposed business, and that the corporation has not been able to acquire title thereto, and the reason of such inability. The petition, whether filed by the corporation or the owner of the land, must also state the names and places of residence of the parties, so far as the same can by reasonable diligence be ascertained, who own or have, or claim to own or have, estates or interests in the said real estate; and if any such persons are infants, their ages, as near as may be, must be stated; and if any such persons are idiots or persons of unsound mind or are unknown, that fact must be stated, together with such other allegations and statements of liens or encumbrances on said real estate as the corporation or the owner may see fit to make. A summons as in other cases of special proceedings, together with a copy of the petition, must be served on all persons whose interests are to be affected by the proceedings, at least ten days prior to the hearing of the same by the court.

A special proceeding for purpose of condemning land for railroad purposes must be begun by issuance of summons: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 132-644.

Requisites of petition hereunder must be strictly complied with: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59. For map and profile, see section 3471.

Petition, whether filed by owner or by company, should state names of all persons interested, and all should be in court before commissioners are appointed: Hill v. Mining Co., 113-259.

Where charter of railroad provided it might condemn land by proceeding before court of record having common-law jurisdiction: Held, that clerk of superior court has jurisdiction: R. R. v. R. R., 106-16.

Petitioner must allege that it has "surveyed the line or route of its proposed road, and made a map or survey thereof, by which such route or line is designated, and that it has located its said road according to such survey, and filed certificates of such localities signed by a majority of its directors, in the clerk's office," etc., as required by this section; otherwise proceeding will be dismissed: R. R. v. R. R., 106-16.

Allegations as to good faith and inability to acquire title are necessary, but when denied they are not issues of fact, but preliminary questions of fact to be determined by the court: R. R. v. Gabagan, 161-190; R. R. v. R. R., 148-64; Durham v. Riggsbee, 141-128. It is not essential that the particular wording of the statute should be used: Durham v. Riggsbee, 141-128. Findings of clerk as to the preliminary facts are subject to review: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59. Burden of showing that company intended in good faith to construct road and had complied with requirements prescribed by law for condemnation of rights of way, is on the petitioner: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 132-644.

The court may allow an amendment to the complaint by the introduction of a better profile: R. R. v. Newton, 133-132.

Where one railroad obtains a final order giving possession and ejecting defendant railroad, it cannot then take a nonsuit: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Practice in proceeding for damages for taking land explained: Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97; s. c., 159-340. Plaintiff asking for damages must show title: Ibid. Cannot join cause of action for compensation for easement and cause for damages for trespass: Ibid.

Not necessary that petition filed by landowner shall state that petitioners and company have failed to come to an agreement as to sum to be paid, such averment being necessary only when railroad company is actor in such proceedings: Hill v. Mining Co., 113-259; Allen v. R. R., 102-381.

Fact that cotenant of land has granted right of way to railroad company will not prevent another owner from instituting proceedings for assessment of damages sustained by him, nor will such fact prevent cotenant, who has made such grant, from becoming party to proceeding, and having his rights adjusted thereunder: Hill v. Mining Co., 113-259.

Where petition in proceeding for assessment of damages for right of way of railroad enumerates various owners of land, and such owners voluntarily made themselves parties, a demurrer by defendant company that there was defect of parties when petition was first filed is untenable: Ibid.

1717. How process served. The summons and a copy of the petition shall be served in the same manner as in special proceedings.

Rev., s. 2581; Code, s. 1944; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 14.

Proceedings hereunder are special proceedings and must be commenced by summons: R. R. v. Lumber Co., 132-644, overruling Click v. R. R., 98-390.

Failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings as required by section 3471 may be cured by amendment: State v. Wells, 142-590.

Cases referring to section: R. R. v. Newton, 133-132; R. R. v. Platt Land, 133-266; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-526; Hill v. Mining Co., 113-261.

1718. Service where parties unknown. If the person on whom such service of summons and petition is to be made is unknown, or his residence is unknown and cannot by reasonable diligence be ascertained, then such service may be made under the direction of the court, by publishing a notice, stating the time and place within which such person must appear and plead, the object thereof, with a description of the land to be affected by the proceedings, in a paper, if there be one, printed in the county where the land is situate, once in each week, for four weeks previous to the time fixed by the court, and if there be no paper printed in such county, then in a newspaper printed in the city of Raleigh.

Rev., s. 2582; Code, s. 1944, subsec. 5.

1719. When court may direct how papers to be served. In all cases not herein otherwise provided for, service of orders, notices, and other papers in the special proceedings authorized by this chapter may be made as in other special proceedings.

Rev., s. 2583; Code, s. 1944, subsec. 7.

1720. Answer to petition; hearing; commissioners appointed. On presenting such petition to the superior court, with proof of service of a copy thereof, and of the summons, all or any of the persons whose estates or interests are to be affected by the proceedings may answer such petition and show cause against granting the prayer of the same, and may disprove any of the facts alleged in it. The court shall hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and if no sufficient cause is shown against granting the prayer of the petition, it shall make an order for the appointment of three disinterested and competent freeholders who reside in the county where the premises are to be appraised, for the purposes of the company, and shall fix the time and place for the first meeting of the commissioners.

Rev., s. 2584; Code, s. 1945; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 15.

Practice in proceeding explained: Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97. Plaintiff asking for compensation must show title, and defendant railroad may show title in a stranger: Ibid.

Petitioning railroad must show the preliminary facts required, and a denial of the right of eminent domain in the answer does not relieve it of this burden: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Order appointing commissioners to assess damages is interlocutory, and no appeal to supreme court until after final judgment upon report of commissioners: R. R. v. Bailey, 143-380; R. R. v. Newton, 133-136; Hendrick v. R. R., 98-431; Comrs. v. Cook, 86-18; Tel. Co. v. R. R., 83-420; R. R. v. Warren, 92-620.

Judge of court may appoint appraisers either in term or vacation, while clerk can do so only in vacation, and then only as representing court: Click v. R. R., 98-390.

A writ of prohibition will not be granted to prevent clerk of court from hearing application for condemnation of right of way for railroad: R. R. v. Newton, 133-136.

Where articles of incorporation of railroad company are upon their face void, trial court will so declare in proceeding to condemn land by right of eminent domain claimed thereunder: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

Exceptions to order of clerk appointing commissioners may be general: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

In fixing question of compensation to landowner for right of way condemned to use of railroad, commissioners do not invade province that, under the ancient law, belonged exclusively and peculiarly to jury: R. R. v. Parker, 105-246; State v. Jones, 139-613; R. R. v. Davis, 19-451.

As to trial by jury of issues raised before clerk, where same demanded before commissioners appointed, see R. R. v. Parker, 105-246; R. R. v. Newton, 133-133. See, also, section 1724.

1721. Powers and duties of commissioners. The commissioners, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, shall take and subscribe an oath that they will fairly and impartially appraise the lands mentioned in the petition. Any one of them may issue subpoenas, administer oaths to witnesses, and any two of them may adjourn the proceedings before them from time to time, in their discretion. Whenever they meet, except by the appointment of the court or pursuant to adjournment, they shall cause ten days notice of such meeting to be given to the parties who are to be affected by their proceedings, or their attorney or agent. They shall view the premises described in the petition, hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and reduce the testimony, if any is taken by them, to writing; and after the testimony is closed in each case, and without any unnecessary delay, and before proceeding to the examination of any other claim, a majority of them all being present and acting, shall ascertain and determine the compensation which ought justly to be made by the corporation to the party or parties owning or interested in the real estate appraised by them. They shall report the same to the court within ten days.

Rev., s. 2585; Code, s. 1946; 1871-2, c. 138, ss. 16-18; 1891, c. 160.

COMPENSATION DETERMINED. Owner of land condemned is entitled to the actual market value of the land taken, and compensation for injury to the remaining land, subject to deduction of special benefits: Lanier v. Greenville, 174-311; Campbell v. Comrs., 173-500; McMahan v. R. R., 170-456; R. R. v. Armfield, 167-464; Waste Co. v. R. R., 167-340; R. R. v. Mfg. Co., 166-168; s. c., 169-156; Land Co. v. Traction Co., 162-503; s. c., 170-674; R. R. v. McLean, 158-498; Lambeth v. Power Co., 152-371; Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97; Brown v. Power Co., 140-333; R. R. v. Land Co., 137-330 (taking street).

Meaning of market value: Brown v. Power Co., 140-333. All the capabilities of property and all the uses to which it may be applied or for which it is adapted may be considered, and not merely condition it is in at time and the use to which it is then applied by owner: Ibid. Water-power on the river must be considered as an element of value: Ibid. If a tract of which whole or part is taken for public use possesses a special value to owner, which can be measured by money, he is entitled to have that value considered: Ibid.

In considering benefits to be deducted, the owner is to have the advantages common to others, and only special benefits are to be deducted: R. R. v. Platt Land, 133-266; Haislip v. R. R., 102-376; R. R. v. Smith, 99-131; R. R. v. Wicker, 74-220. No recovery for benefits, but only a deduction from damages assessed: R. R. v. Smith, 99-131. Finding of commissioners that land received no special benefit is conclusive: R. R. v. Platt Land, 133-266.

Landowner will be entitled to have included in his assessment damages for injuries to lands adjoining those upon which railroad is constructed: Hendrick v. R. R., 101-617. Owner is entitled to recover for expense of additional fencing of cultivated lands made necessary by reason of construction of road; but, as he is not required by law to fence uncleared or uncultivated land, and expense of fencing such, should it at any future time be cleared or cultivated, is too remote and uncertain to be estimated, same should not be taken into consideration: R. R. v. Wicker, 74-220.

Damages to land caused by erection of waterway by railroad company, if skillfully constructed, are included in compensation for, and pass by grant of, easement, but grantee of easement shall not inflict unnecessary injury upon servient owner: Adams v. R. R., 110-325.

Tax list is not admissible to show the value of the land: R. R. v. Land Co., 137-330.

As to how damages to church property assessed in condemnation proceedings, see R. R. v. Church, 104-525.

Evidence to show value of land by its location and surroundings is admissible: R. R. v. Land Co., 137-330.

An injunction will not lie to restrain railroad company from entering upon land before appraisal of damages and payment thereof: R. R. v. Newton, 133-132.

This section has no reference to trespasses committed outside of the right of way in building the road, and for such trespasses the corporations are liable in civil action for damages: Bridgers v. Dill, 97-222.

In condemnation proceedings there can be no recovery of damages incident to entry, such as for destruction of crops and the like, nor for use and occupation before plaintiff acquired title: Liverman v. R. R., 114-692; Hodges v. Tel. Co., 133-225; but see Haislip v. R. R., 102-376. Damages caused by diversion of water are not covered by statute providing for acquirement of right of way by railroad companies: Ward v. R. R., 112-168.

Where land is taken under section 3444, commissioners are not only to fix amount of compensation, but they must determine, in event of disagreement, "the points and manner" of physical connection which is sought to be made: R. R. v. R. R., 104-665; R. R. v. Love, 81-434.

1722. Form of commissioners' report. When the commissioners shall have assessed the damages, they shall forthwith make and subscribe a written report of their proceedings, in substance as follows:

To the Clerk of the Superior Court of _____ County:

We, _____, commissioners appointed by the court to assess the damages that have been and will be sustained by _____, the owner of certain land lying in the county of _____, which the _____ corporation proposes to condemn for its use, do hereby certify that we met on _____ (or the day to which we were regularly adjourned), and, having first been duly sworn, we visited the premises of the owner, and after taking into full consideration the quality and quantity of the land aforesaid, the additional fencing likely to be occasioned by the work of the corporation, and all other inconveniences likely to result to the owner, we have estimated and do assess the damages aforesaid at the sum of $_____.

We have estimated the special benefits which the said owner will receive from the construction of said works to be the sum of $_____.

Given under our hands, the _____ day of _____, A. D. 19_____.

Rev., s. 2586; Code, s. 1700; R. C., c. 61, s. 17; 1874-5, c. 83.

Not necessary that commissioners appointed to assess benefits and damages should set forth in their award particulars in which they consisted: R. R. v. Smith, 99-131.

Report of commissioners is not invalid because it does not contain description of land, as that can be ascertained by reference to location of roadbed and right of way: Hanes v. R. R., 109-490; but see R. R. v. Land Co., 137-336.

1723. Exceptions to report; hearing; appeal; when title vests; restitution. Within twenty days after filing the report the corporation or any person interested in the said land may file exceptions to said report, and upon the determination of the same by the court, either party to the proceedings may appeal to the court at term, and thence, after judgment, to the supreme court. The court or judge on the hearing may direct a new appraisal, modify or confirm the report, or make such order in the premises as to him shall seem right and proper. If the said corporation, at the time of the appraisal, shall pay into court the sum appraised by the commissioners, then and in that event the said corporation may enter, take possession of, and hold said lands, notwithstanding the pendency of the appeal, and until the final judgment rendered on said appeal. And if there shall be no appeal, or if the final judgment rendered upon said petition and proceedings shall be in favor of the corporation, and upon the payment by said corporation of the sum adjudged, together with the costs and counsel fees allowed by the court, into the office of the clerk of the superior court, then and in that event all persons who have been made parties to the proceedings shall be divested and barred of all right, estate and interest in such easement in such real estate during the corporate existence of the corporation aforesaid. A certified copy of such judgment under the seal of the court shall be registered in the county where the land is situated, and a copy of the same, or the original certified, may be given in evidence in all actions and proceedings as deeds for land are now allowed to be read in evidence. All real estate acquired by any corporation under and pursuant to the provisions of this chapter for its purposes shall be deemed to be acquired for the public use. But if the court shall refuse to condemn the land, or any portion thereof, to the use of such corporation, then, and in that event, the money paid into court, or so much thereof as shall be adjudged, shall be refunded to the corporation. And the corporation shall have no right to hold said land not condemned, but shall surrender the possession of the same, on demand, to the owner or owners, or his or their agent or attorney. And the court or judge shall have full power and authority to make such orders, judgments and decrees, and issue such executions and other process as may be necessary to carry into effect the final judgment rendered in such proceedings. If the amount adjudged to be paid the owner of any property condemned under this chapter shall not be paid within one year after final judgment in the proceeding, the right under the judgment to take the property or rights condemned shall ipso facto cease and determine, but the claimant under the judgment shall still remain liable for all amounts adjudged against him except the consideration for the property.

The appeal from clerk carries the whole record up for review upon questions of fact, and no jury trial is allowed until the report of commissioners has been received and confirmed: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59. No appeal to the judge at chambers: R. R. v. Stewart, 132-248.

Finding of commissioners that land taken for railroad purposes received no special benefit is conclusive: R. R. v. Platt Land, 133-266.

Nothing to contrary appearing, it will be presumed that commissioners acted upon proper rules in estimating assessments: R. R. v. Smith, 99-131.

Where report excepted to and clerk sets aside appraisement it seems that he may fix the compensation: Durham v. Rigsbee, 141-128.

Motion to file exceptions to report nunc pro tunc may be allowed in discretion of court: R. R. v. King, 125-454—and an order allowing such motion is interlocutory, and an appeal is premature, Ibid.

On removal of proceeding before clerk to superior court, objections may be raised on trial in superior court that were not raised before clerk: R. R. v. Stroud, 132-413.

While judge cannot, upon exceptions filed to report of commissioners appointed to assess damages caused by location and construction of railway, alter report by inserting different amount as damages, or annul order appointing commissioners and submit matter to a jury, yet he has discretionary power to confirm or set aside such report, and may recommit question to same or other commissioners, and in aid of this power he may hear affidavits: Hanes v. R. R., 109-490; but see Durham v. Rigsbee, 141-128.

Nature of judgment to be rendered for the easement: R. R. v. McLean, 158-498. The judge may consider interest in estimating the amount of damage: Abernathy v. R. R., 159-340. Judgment should definitely fix the land over which the road is located and width of right of way: Beal v. R. R., 136-298.

Railroad company acquires, with lands condemned for purposes of construction and operation of road, all rights and privileges which appertain to it at time of condemnation: Willey v. R. R., 98-263.

Counsel fees provided for herein include only counsel for unknown parties as required under section 1728: Durham v. Davis, 171-305.

A railroad company having obtained an order for possession and ejecting another railroad company, cannot then take a nonsuit: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Legislature has power to provide that neither party shall appeal from award of commissioners appointed under charter to assess damages to land for right of way, and if charter does provide for an appeal, it must be taken within time and in manner therein provided: R. R. v. Ely, 95-77.

Appeal in this case carries up only question of compensation, and defendant can go forward with improvements: Johnston v. Rankin, 70-550.

On appeal to supreme court the findings of fact by the lower court are conclusive, if supported by evidence: R. R. v. R. R., 148-59.

Formerly payment of the compensation was not required before entry. Code, section 1946, changed this as to railroads, by requiring the company to pay into court sum assessed before entry on the right of way: R. R. v. Newton, 133-133; State v. Wells, 142-590. By special statute a railroad company may be authorized to enter upon lands before instituting condemnation proceedings: State v. Jones, 170-753; R. R. v. Ferguson, 169-70.

Indictment for wilful trespass will lie against employee of railroad company for entry after being forbidden on land which company is seeking to condemn, entry being for purpose of constructing road and before an appraisalment has been made, although restraining order against such trespass would be refused: State v. Wells, 142-590.

1724. Provision for jury trial on exceptions to report. In any action or proceeding by any railroad or other corporation to acquire rights of way or real estate for the use of such railroad or corporation, and in any action or proceeding by any city or town to acquire rights of way for streets, any person interested in the land, or the city, town, railroad or other corporation shall be entitled to have the amount of damages assessed by the commissioners or jurors heard and determined upon appeal before a jury of the superior court in term, if upon the hearing of such appeal a trial by a jury be demanded.

1725. When benefits exceed damage, corporation pays costs. In any case where the benefits to the land caused by the erection of the railroad, street railway, telephone, telegraph, water supply, bridge, or electric power or lighting plant or other structure, are ascertained to exceed the damages to the land, then the corporation acquiring the same by right of eminent domain shall pay the costs of the proceeding except as provided by law, and shall not have a judgment for the excess of benefits over the damage.

Rev., s. 2589; 1891, c. 160.

For costs in such proceedings, see Costs, Art. 3.

See R. R. v. Gahagan, 161-190.

1726. Title of infants, persons non compos, and trustees without power of sale, acquired. In case any title or interest in real estate required by any corporation for its purposes shall be vested in any trustee not authorized to sell, release and convey the same, or in any infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind, the superior court shall have power, by a special proceeding, on petition, to authorize and empower such trustee or the general guardian or committee of such infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind, to sell and convey the same to such corporation, on such terms as may be just; and in case any such infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind has no general guardian or committee, the said court may appoint a special guardian or committee for the purpose of making such sale, release or conveyance, and may require such security from such general or special guardian or committee as said court may deem proper. But before any conveyance or release authorized by this section shall be executed, the terms on which the same is to be executed shall be reported to the court on oath; and if the court is satisfied that such terms are just to the party interested in such real estate, the court shall confirm the report and direct the proper conveyance or release to be executed, which shall have the same effect as if executed by an owner of said land having legal power to sell and convey the same.

See, also, sections 2180, 2182, 3238.

1727. Rights of claimants of fund determined. If there are adverse and conflicting claimants to the money, or any part of it, to be paid as compensation for the real estate taken, the court may direct the money to be paid into the said court by the corporation, and may determine who is entitled to the same and direct to whom the same shall be paid, and may in its discretion order a reference to ascertain the facts on which such determination and order are to be made.

Rev., s. 2591; Code, s. 1947; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 19.

Where proceedings are infra vires, condemnation and appropriation to public use must stand, and the question as to who is entitled to damages awarded cannot be raised in an action for land itself: Harkins v. Asheville, 123-636.

1728. Attorney for unknown parties appointed; pleadings amended; new commissioners appointed. The court shall appoint some competent attorney to appear for and protect the rights of any party in interest who is unknown or whose residence is unknown, and who has not appeared in the proceedings by an attorney or agent, and shall make an allowance to said attorney for his services, which shall be taxed in the bill of costs. The court shall also have power at any time to amend any defect or informality in any of the special proceedings authorized by this chapter as may be necessary, or to cause new parties to be added, and to direct such further notices to be given to any party in interest as it deems proper; and also to appoint other commissioners in place of any who shall die, refuse or neglect to serve or be incapable of serving.

Counsel fees to be taxed as costs include only fees of counsel for unknown parties: Durham v. Davis, 171-305; R. R. v. Goodwin, 110-175.

1729. Court may make rules of procedure in. In all cases of appraisal under this chapter where the mode or manner of conducting all or any of the proceedings to the appraisal and the proceedings consequent thereon are not expressly provided for by the statute, the courts before whom such proceedings may be pending shall have the power to make all the necessary orders and give the proper directions to carry into effect the object and intent of this chapter, and the practice in such cases shall conform as near as may be to the ordinary practice in such courts.

Rev., s. 2593; Code, s. 1949; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 21.

Section referred to in Abernathy v. R. R., 150-97.

1730. Change of ownership pending proceeding. When any proceedings of appraisal shall have been commenced, no change of ownership by voluntary conveyance or transfer of the real estate or other subject-matter of the appraisal, or any interest therein, shall in any manner affect such proceeding, but the same may be carried on and perfected as if no such conveyance or transfer had been made or attempted to be made.

Rev., s. 2594; Code, s. 1950; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 22.

Conveyance made after proceeding commenced does not affect it: Caveness v. R. R., 172-305; Abernathy v. R. R., 159-340. A purchaser of land subsequent to taking as right of way may recover permanent damages for easement taken, and company thereby acquires easement and right to maintain its line thereon: Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; Beal v. R. R., 136-298.

Until a purchase or condemnation, corporation's occupation is without title, and conveyance of land will pass to vendee right to compensation for damages: Livermon v. R. R., 109-52. Damages incident to act of an unlawful entry upon land by a railway corporation are personal to owner of land and do not pass by his subsequent conveyance of premises: Ibid. Purchaser, at mortgage sale, of land over which railway has secured right of entry from mortgagor in possession, while not entitled to damages incident to act of entry, might recover compensation for land appropriated to use of company: Ibid.

If purchaser takes the land without notice of an executory contract by the vendor to convey right of way, or under circumstances indicating an abandonment of the right, the fact that grading had been done on the land would not preclude him from claiming damages when the grading is completed: Beattie v. R. R., 108-425.

Where plaintiff owns lot subject to right of way conveyed to railroad company by plaintiff's grantor, railroad company holds only right to use so much of right of way as is necessary for its purpose, and, though company or its lessee cannot be barred by statute of limitations in case it should become necessary to occupy more of right of way for purposes incident to use of road, statute is no protection in occupying more land, though within limits of right of way, for trackage, etc., for other purposes: McCulloch v. R. R., 146-316; s. e., 149-305.

1731. Defective title; how cured. If at any time after an attempt to acquire title by appraisal of damages or otherwise it shall be found that the title thereby attempted to be acquired is defective, the corporation may proceed anew to acquire or perfect such title in the same manner as if no appraisal had been made, and at any stage of such new proceedings the court may authorize the corporation, if in possession, to continue in possession, and if not in possession, to take possession and use such real estate during the pendency and until the final conclusion of such new proceedings, and may stay all actions or proceedings against the corporation on account thereof, on such corporation paying into court a sufficient sum or giving security as the court may direct to pay the compensation therefor when finally ascertained, and in every such case the party interested in such real estate may conduct the proceedings to a conclusion if the corporation delays or omits to prosecute the same.

1732. Title to state lands acquired. The secretary of state shall have power to grant to any railroad company any land belonging to the people of this state which may be required for the purposes of its road, on such terms as may be agreed on by them, or such company may acquire title thereto by appraisal, as in the case of lands owned by individuals; and if any land belonging to a county or town is required by any company for the purposes of the road, the county or town officers having the charge of such land may grant such land to such company for such compensation as may be agreed upon.

Rev., s. 2596; Code, s. 1955; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 27.

For condemnation for water supplies, see sections 7522, 7523.

1733. Quantity which may be condemned for certain purposes:

1. Right of way of railroad. The width of the land condemned for any railroad shall not be less than eighty feet nor more than one hundred, except where the road may run through a town, when it may be of less width; or where there may be deep cuts or high embankments, when it may be of greater width.

2. Plankroads, etc. No greater width of land than sixty feet shall be condemned for the use of any plankroad, tramroad, canal, street railway or turnpike; or greater width than sixteen feet for the use of any flume.

3. Depot or station. No greater quantity of land than two acres, contiguous to any railroad, plankroad, tramroad, turnpike, flume, or canal, shall be condemned at one place for a depot or station.

Rev., s. 2597; Code, ss. 1707, 1708, 1709; R. C., c. 61, ss. 27, 28, 29; 1852, c. 92; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, c. 39.

For the condemnation by a railroad of more than two acres for yard or terminal facilities, see this chapter, s. 1708.

When railroad company acquires right of way it becomes invested with power to use it, not only to extent necessary to meet present needs, but such further demands as may arise from increase of its business and proper discharge of duty to public: Tighe v. R. R., 176-239; Coit v. Owenby, 166-136; R. R. v. Bunting, 168-579; R. R. v. Mfg. Co., 166-168; Hendrix v. R. R., 162-9; Earnhardt v. R. R., 157-358; R. R. v. Olive, 142-257; Thomason v. R. R., 142-318; R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225; Phillips v. Tel. Co., 130-513; R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Grant of easement does not preclude grantor from such use of his land himself or permitting same to others which is not in conflict therewith: Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros., 126-254, and cases supra.

Right of way of specified width must be located and constructed in order to be exclusive: Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros., 126-254.

Railroad company is not negligent in failing to cut down bushes or weeds on right of way beyond portion over which it is exercising actual control for corporate purposes; but it is required to keep right of way clear of such growth to outside of side ditches on either side of tracks: Ward v. R. R., 109-358.

While land included in right of way of railroad company, not necessary for purposes of company, may be cultivated by servient owner, crop must not be of such inflammable or combustible nature, when matured or maturing, as to endanger safety of company's passengers or cause injury to adjoining lands in case of ignition of such crops by sparks from company's engines, for, in such case, company will have right to enter and remove such crops: R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225.

Where complaint in ejectment by railroad to recover right of way fails to allege that necessity for it exists, action should be dismissed: R. R. v. Sturgeon, 120-225; see R. R. v. McCaskill, 94-746.

Under charter of Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company, upon payment of damages assessed for right of way, land covered by road, and sixty-five feet from base of road on each side, becomes vested in company in fee simple: Haislip v. R. R., 102-376.

Negligence to permit inflammable material to remain near company's track and liable to ignite from emitted sparks: Aycock v. R. R., 89-321.

CHAPTER 34

ESTATES

- 1734. Fee tail converted into fee simple.
- 1735. Survivorship in joint tenancy abolished; proviso as to partnerships.
- 1736. Survivorship among trustees.
- 1737. Limitations on failure of issue.
- 1738. Unborn infant may take by deed or writing.
- 1739. "Heirs" construed "children" in certain limitations.
- 1740. Possession transferred to use in certain conveyances.
- 1741. Collateral warranties abolished; warranties by life tenant deemed covenants.
- 1742. Spendthrift trusts.
- 1743. Titles quieted.
- 1744. Remainders to uncertain persons; procedure for sale; proceeds secured.
- 1745. Sales of contingent remainders validated.
- 1746. Freeholders in petition for special taxes defined.

1734. Fee tail converted into fee simple. Every person seized of an estate in tail shall be deemed to be seized of the same in fee simple; and all sales and conveyances, made bona fide and for valuable consideration, since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, by any tenant in tail in actual possession of any real estate where such estate has been conveyed in fee simple, shall be good and effectual in law to bar any tenant in tail and in remainder of and from all claim, action, and right of entry whatsoever, of, in, and to such entailed estate, against any purchaser, his heirs, or assigns, now in actual possession of such estate, in the same manner as if such tenant in tail had possessed the same in fee simple.

A fee tail converted into an estate in fee simple by this section: Parrish v. Hodge, 178-133; Sharpe v. Brown, 177-296; Cohoon v. Upton, 174-88; Keziah v. Medlin, 173-237; Blake v. Shields, 172-628; Revis v. Murphy, 172-579; Harrington v. Grimes, 163-76; Jones v. Ragsdale, 141-200; Sessoms v. Sessoms, 144-121; Marsh v. Griffin, 136-333; Whitfield v. Garris, 134-29, and cases cited; Leathers v. Gray, 101-165, and cases cited; Smith v. Brisson, 90-284; Ward v. Jones, 40-405; Folk v. Whitley, 30-133; Ross v. Toms, 15-376; Sanders v. Hyatt, 8-247—but section confirmed only such alienations in fee as had been made by tenants in tail in possession since 1777, Minge v. Gilmour, 2-279; Wells v. Newbolt, 1-538—and when tenant in tail had sold in fee simple before enactment of section and purchaser actually in possession of land at time of passage of same, he is entitled to fee simple, Ibid.; also Moore v. Bradley, 3-142.

This section will bar remainder dependent upon estate tail in possession of tenant in tail at time of passage of section: Lane v. Davis, 2-277.

This act of 1784, which subsequently converted estate tail into fee simple, did not change original form of the acquisition, which still continued to be by purchase: Ballard v. Griffin, 4-237.

Section does not affect principle of law decided in Shelley's case: Dawson v. Quinnerly, 118-188.

As bearing upon section, see Coon v. Rice, 29-217. Section merely referred to in Rogerson v. Lumber Co., 136-267; Hauser v. Craft, 134-328; Millsaps v. Estes, 134-492; Hodges v. Lipscomb, 133-203, 128-63; Starnes v. Hill, 112-1; Mills v. Thorne, 95-362; Patrick v. Morehead, 85-67; Holliday v. McMillan, 79-324; Ward v. Jones, 40-402; Jones v. Spaight, 4-159.

1735. Survivorship in joint tenancy abolished; proviso as to partnership. In all estates, real or personal, held in joint tenancy, the part or share of any tenant dying shall not descend or go to the surviving tenant, but shall descend or be vested in the heirs, executors, or administrators, or assigns, respectively, of the tenant so dying, in the same manner as estates held by tenancy in common: Provided, that estates held in joint tenancy for the purpose of carrying on and promoting trade and commerce, or any useful work or manufacture, established and pursued with a view of profit to the parties therein concerned, are vested in the surviving partner, in order to enable him to settle and adjust the partnership business, or pay off the debts which may have been contracted in pursuit of the joint business; but as soon as the same is effected, the survivor shall account with, and pay, and deliver to the heirs, executors, administrators and assigns respectively of such deceased partner all such part, share, and sums of money as he may be entitled to by virtue of the original agreement, if any, or according to his share or part in the joint concern, in the same manner as partnership stock is usually settled between joint merchants and the representatives of their deceased partners.

Section does not abolish joint tenancies: Rowland v. Rowland, 93-214, and cases cited—but only takes away right of survivorship from joint tenancies in fee, Ibid.; Blair v. Osborne, 84-417; Powell v. Morisey, 84-421—and has no application to joint tenancies for life, Ibid.; Powell v. Allen, 75-450.

Section does not prohibit contracts making rights of parties dependent upon survivorship: Taylor v. Smith, 116-531.

Word "estates," as used in section, defined: Bond v. Hilton, 51-180.

TENANCY OF HUSBAND AND WIFE. A conveyance to husband and wife does not create a joint tenancy, but an estate by entireties: Morton v. Lumber Co., 154-278; Spruill v. Mfg. Co., 130-42; Gray v. Bailey, 117-439; Harrison v. Ray, 108-215; Long v. Barnes, 87-329; Woodford v. Higly, 60-234; Todd v. Zachary, 45-286—and survivorship in such estates is not abolished, West v. R. R., 140-621; Gray v. Bailey, 117-439; Phillips v. Hodges, 109-250; Woodford v. Higly, 60-234—but, husband and wife being in law but one person, they have each the whole estate as one person, and on the death of either, the whole estate continues in survivor, Ray v. Long, 132-891; Phillips v. Hodges, 109-250, quoting from Long v. Barnes, 87-329; Simonton v. Cornelius, 98-433; Harrison v. Ray, 108-216; Motley v. White-more, 19-537; Woodford v. Higly, 60-234; Todd v. Zachary, 45-286.

General nature of estate by entireties explained: Moore v. Trust Co., 178-118; Freeman v. Belfer, 173-581. That it does not apply to personalty, see Gooch v. Bank, 176-213. Where husband and wife paid for the land, they will hold it by entireties: Ray v. Long, 132-891—and where deed was made to husband he will be declared a trustee for the wife, Murchison v. Fogleman, 165-397. Where father made conveyance of land to son in consideration of comfortable support of himself and wife during their natural lives, in default of which grantee covenanted to reconvey: Held, that grantor and wife had right to demand reconveyance, on breach of covenant, in entirety, with right of survivorship: Stamper v. Stamper, 121-251.

A conveyance of land to husband and wife may create a tenancy in common instead of an estate by entireties, if the intention so appears: White v. Goodwin, 174-723; Holloway v. Green, 167-91; Eason v. Eason, 159-539; Highsmith v. Page, 158-226; s. e., 161-356; Staleup v. Staleup, 137-305; Isley v. Sellars, 153-374. Where one of two tenants in common makes a conveyance to wife of cotenant, such cotenant and wife hold as tenants in common: Isley v. Sellars, 153-374.

Where a deed is made to husband and wife for partition of land owned by wife, an estate by entireties is not created, and the wife's title is not changed: Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176-182; Speas v. Woodhouse, 162-66; Sprinkle v. Spainhour, 149-223; Harrington v. Rawls, 136-65; s. e., 131-39; Harrison v. Ray, 108-215.

In an estate by entireties neither party can convey or encumber the estate without the assent of the other, nor is it subject to a lien or to be taken for the debt of either party without the assent of the other: Bank v. McEwen, 160-414; Hood v. Mercer, 150-699; Bruce v. Nicholson, 109-202. But a lease by the husband without joinder of wife is valid during coverture: Bank v. Gornto, 161-341; Dorsey v. Kirkland, 177-520. Neither party is entitled to partition: Jones v. Smith & Co., 149-318.

A sale of an estate by entireties by husband and wife and a division of the proceeds ends the estate: Moore v. Trust Co., 178-118. But in a sale and payment to husband, who then dies, wife is entitled to the funds: Isley v. Sellars, 153-374. An absolute divorce converts the estate into a tenancy in common: McKinnon v. Caulk, 167-411; but a divorce a mensa does not destroy the estate, Freeman v. Belfer, 173-581. As to the rights and incidents attaching to estates by entireties generally, see Ray v. Long, 132-891; West v. R. R., 140-621, and cases there cited; Gray v. Bailey, 117-439; Johnson v. Edwards, 109-466; Phillips v. Hodges, 109-248; Bruce v. Nicholson, 109-202; Simonton v. Cornelius, 98-433.

TENANCY OF COPARTNERS. Land purchased with partnership funds is held by partners in joint tenancy: Baird v. Baird Heirs, 21-524—and if, upon death of one partner and the winding up of the partnership, all the proceeds from sale of land is not needed to pay debts, the amount that would have gone to deceased partner descends to heir as real estate, Summey v. Patton, 60-601; Stroud v. Stroud, 61-526—and, accordingly, the widow is entitled to dower in such interest of deceased partner in partnership land not needed to pay partnership debts, Patton v. Patton, 60-572; Stroud v. Stroud, 61-526; see Sparger v. Moore, 117-449.

Claims of surviving partner upon proceeds of sale of deceased partner's half of real estate, to reimburse him to amount of one-half on expenditures incurred in conduct of firm business and improvements put upon property, constitute encumbrance prior to claims of creditors of deceased partner: Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84-646. Equitable right of partnership under contract to convey land to firm, upon death of one of partners, vests in surviving partner in order to enable him to wind up partnership and pay its debts: McCaskill v. Lancashire, 83-396.

Section merely referred to in Brown v. Ward, 103-173; Pitt v. Moore, 99-92; concurring opinion of Pearson, J., in Allison v. Andrews, 34-193; Waugh v. Mitchell, 21-522.

1736. Survivorship among trustees. In all cases where only a naked trust not coupled with a beneficial interest has been created or exists, or shall be created, and the conveyance is to two or more trustees, the right to perform the trust and make estates under the same shall be exercised by any one of such trustees, in the event of the death of his cotrustee or cotrustees or in the refusal or inability of the cotrustee or cotrustees to perform the trust; and in cases of trusts herein named the trustees shall hold as joint tenants, and in all respects as joint tenants held before the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four.

Rev., s. 1580; 1885, c. 327, s. 1.

As to statute of limitations, see section 419.

Executors and administrators hold as joint tenants, see section 172. Under provision of section that trustees shall hold as joint tenants in all respects as joint tenants held before 1784, where limitation had barred entry of one trustee, entry of cotrustees also barred: Webb v. Borden, 145-188; Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

Trustees are seized as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, Webb v. Borden, 145-188; Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

As to survivor of two or more mortgagees or trustees executing the power of sale in mortgage or deed of trust, see section 2582.

1737. Limitations on failure of issue. Every contingent limitation in any deed or will, made to depend upon the dying of any person without heir or heirs of the body, or without issue or issues of the body, or without children, or offspring, or descendant, or other relative, shall be held and interpreted a limitation to take effect when such person dies not having such heir, or issue, or child, or offspring, or descendant, or other relative (as the case may be) living at the time of his death, or born to him within ten lunar months thereafter, unless the intention of such limitation be otherwise, and expressly and plainly declared in the face of the deed or will creating it: Provided, that the rule of construction contained in this section shall not extend to any deed or will made and executed before the fifteenth of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-eight.

It is the policy of the law to favor the early vesting of estates: McDonald v. Howe, 178-257; Radford v. Rose, 178-288. This section fixes a definite time when the estate of the first taker becomes absolute: Bell v. Keesler, 175-525. It applies only to instruments executed since January 15, 1828: Sain v. Baker, 128-258; Weeks v. Weeks, 40-111. For the old rule of construction, see Hilliard v. Kearney, 45-221; Patterson v. McCormick, 177-448.

“Dying without heirs or issue,” upon which a limitation over takes effect, is referable to the death of the first taker of the fee without issue living at the time of his death, and not to the death of any other person or to any intermediate period, unless it is clearly indicated otherwise in the instrument creating the estate: Patterson v. McCormick, 177-448 (discussing the rule and collecting the cases); Sharpe v. Brown, 177-294; Williams v. Blizzard, 176-146; Smith v. Parks, 176-406; Robertson v. Andrews, 175-492; Bank v. Murray, 175-62; Whitfield v. Douglass, 175-46; Kirkman v. Smith, 174-603; s. c., 175-579; Bowden v. Lynch, 173-203; O’Neal v. Borders, 170-483; Hobgood v. Hobgood, 169-485; Burden v. Lipsitz, 166-523; Rees v. Williams, 164-128; s. c., 165-201; Smith v. Lumber Co., 155-389; Perrett v. Bird, 152-220; Sessoms v. Sessoms, 144-121; Sain v. Baker, 128-259; Kornegay v. Morris, 122-202; Buchanan v. Buchanan, 99-308; Smith v. Brisson, 90-284; Hathaway v. Harris, 84-98.

An estate to grantee for life, with remainder to the heirs of grantor, is construed to be an estate to the children of grantor: Thompson v. Batts, 168-333. The term “children” construed not to include “grandchildren”: s. c., 168-530. “Bodily heirs” and “lawful heirs of her body” construed to mean children: Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209; Albright v. Albright, 172-351.

A devise to a child “and the lawful heirs of his body lawfully begotten,” and a further provision that upon the death of either of testator’s children his share should go to the survivor, with other contingent limitations: Held, that the two items should be construed together, and constituted a defeasible fee: Perrett v. Bird, 152-220.

Section does not change application of doctrine of shifting uses and executory devises in determining nature and extent of precedent estate: Sessoms v. Sessoms, 144-121. Section does not interfere with application of rule in Shelley’s case in determining nature and extent of precedent estate: King v. Utley, 85-61.

For limitations held good under section, see Sanderlin v. Deford, 47-75; Garland v. Watt, 26-287; Moore v. Barrow, 24-436; Tillman v. Sinclair, 23-183.

For cases prior to enactment of section, see Gibson v. Gibson, 49-425; Weatherly v. Armfield, 30-25; Hollowell v. Kornegay, 29-261; Brantley v. Whitaker, 27-225; Cox v. Marks, 27-361; State v. Skinner, 26-57; Robards v. Jones, 26-54; Brown v. Brown, 25-134.

Section merely referred to in Lockhart v. Covington, 132-471; Miller v. Churchill, 78-374; Lee v. Oates, 171-717; Springs v. Hopkins, 171-486; Staton v. Godard, 148-434.

1738. Unborn infant may take by deed or writing. An infant unborn, but in esse, shall be deemed a person capable of taking by deed or other writing any estate whatever in the same manner as if he were born.

Rev., s. 1582; Code, s. 1328; R. C., c. 43, s. 4.

Child en ventre sa mere at time of execution of deed to heirs of a living person takes as tenant in common with living children: Powell v. Powell, 168-561; Campbell v. Everhart, 139-503; Graves v. Barrett, 126-267—so also where deed made to a woman “and her children,” Heath v. Heath, 114-547—but child born more than a year after execution of instrument will not take, Ibid.

An estate to A. for life, remainder to his children in fee, will include those in existence at the time and those born afterward during the continuance of the particular estate: Powell v. Powell, 168-561.

For interesting case prior to enactment of section, see Dupree v. Dupree, 45-164.

Section merely referred to in Deal v. Sexton, 144-159.

1739. “Heirs” construed “children” in certain limitations. A limitation by deed, will, or other writing, to the heirs of a living person, shall be construed to be to the children of such person, unless a contrary intention appear by the deed or will.

Rev., s. 1583; Code, s. 1329; R. C., c. 43, s. 5.

Deed to heirs of living person construed to be limitation to children of such person, and includes after-born children: Graves v. Barrett, 126-267; Campbell v. Everhart, 139-503—applies to all who fill the description at the time the particular precedent estate terminates, Cooley v. Lee, 170-18—but where estate settled on one for life, with power of appointment in fee, by writing, to take effect after her death, and in case of a failure to appoint, then to heirs of donee for life, word “heirs” does not come within section so as to be interpreted “children,” Graves v. Trueblood, 96-495.

Words “and lawful heirs of her body” in instrument to be taken as implying children, nothing to contrary appearing: Jarvis v. Davis, 99-40; see, also, Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209; Albright v. Albright, 172-351.

Where bequest immediate, not dependent upon preceding limited estate, to heirs of living person, and children of such person are illegitimate, they are entitled to take under section: Howell v. Tyler, 91-207; see Smith v. Brisson, 90-284.

An estate granted to A. for life and then to the heirs of C., who is living, section applies: Condor v. Seerest, 149-201.

Where there is a conveyance to a living person, with a limitation to his heirs, section does not apply: Thompson v. Batts, 168-333; Jones v. Ragsdale, 141-200; Marsh v. Griffin, 136-334. This would come under the rule in Shelley’s case, which is not abolished by this section: Nichols v. Gladden, 117-499; Starnes v. Hill, 112-1; Chamblee v. Broughton, 120-170; but see Howell v. Knight, 100-254; Jenkins v. Jenkins, 96-254.

As distinguished from the rule stated in this section, the rule in Shelley’s case is recognized in this state; for explanation and applications of this rule, see Nobles v. Nobles, 177-243; Byrd v. Byrd, 176-113; Daniel v. Harrison, 175-120; White v. Goodwin, 174-723; Cohoon v. Upton, 174-88; Smith v. Smith, 173-124; Ford v. McBrayer, 171-420; McSwain v. Washburn, 170-363; Robeson v. Moore, 168-388; Jones v. Whichard, 163-243; Cotten v. Moseley, 159-1; Puckett v. Morgan, 158-345; Price v. Griffin, 150-523; Smith v. Proctor, 139-314; Wool v. Fleetwood, 136-460; May v. Lewis, 132-115; Edgerton v. Aycock, 123-134; Chamblee v. Broughton, 120-170; Starnes v. Hill, 112-1.

Cases in which the rule in Shelley’s case did not apply: Smith v. Moore, 178-370; Radford v. Rose, 178-288; Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209.

Section merely referred to in Hodges v. Fleetwood, 102-125; King v. Utley, 85-61; Miller v. Churchhill, 78-374.

1740. Possession transferred to use in certain conveyances. By deed of bargain and sale, or by deeds of lease and release, or by covenant to stand seized to use, or deed operating by way of covenant to stand seized to use, or otherwise, by any manner or means whatsoever it be, the possession of the bargainor, releasor, or covenantor shall be deemed to be transferred to the bargainee, releasee, or person entitled to the use, for the estate or interest which such person shall have in the use, as perfectly as if the bargainee, releasee or person entitled to the use had been enfeoffed at common law with livery of seizin of the land intended to be conveyed by such deed or covenant.

Rev., s. 1584; Code, s. 1330; R. C., c. 43, s. 6; 27 Hen. VIII, c. 10.

Estate of freehold to commence in futuro can be conveyed by deed of bargain and sale operating under section: Savage v. Lee, 90-320.

As to necessity of consideration and effect of lack of consideration in conveyance to use, see Pittman v. Pittman, 107-163; Ivey v. Granberry, 66-227; Springs v. Hawks, 27-30. A fee simple may be limited after a fee simple either by deed or will by operation of statute of uses; if by deed, it is a conditional limitation; if by will, it is an executory devise: Smith v. Brisson, 90-284. As to whether a use can be executed upon a use, see Rowland v. Rowland, 93-221; Jones v. Jones, 164-320.

Where estate conveyed to trustee to preserve contingent remainders, this section will not execute the use: Cameron v. Hicks, 141-21.

In case of a passive trust the statute vests the estate in the cestui que trust: Lee v. Oates, 171-717; Springs v. Hopkins, 171-486; McKenzie v. Kirby, 114-425—the cestui que trust can call for legal title, and a court of equity will force trustee to convey it to him, Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-154; McKenzie v. Sumner, 114-425; Jasper v. Maxwell, 16-357; Turnage v.

Greene, 53-63; see, however, Wilder v. Ireland, 53-85; Kirby v. Boyette, 118-263—when there will be a merger of the legal and equitable estates, Odom v. Morgan, 177-367.

The words "for the sole and separate use," or equivalent language, qualifying estate of trustee for a married woman, must be construed as manifesting intent on part of grantor to limit her right of alienation to mode and manner expressly provided in instrument by which estate created: Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244.

Where one devised in 1828 to trustee to use and benefit of a woman for her life, remainder to use of all her children: Held, that by force of this section the legal estate for life was executed in woman, and that legal estate in remainder passed to children she had at time of devise, subject to participation of such as she might thereafter have: Wilder v. Ireland, 53-85.

A trust for the separate use of a married woman is a passive trust, if created since the constitution of 1868, unless there are active duties to be performed by the trustee: Freeman v. Lide, 176-434, citing Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-154, and distinguishing Kirby v. Boyette, 118-244, and Hardy v. Holley, 84-669.

A deed in trust to allow the daughter to enjoy the rents and profits during her life, with remainder over, conveys equitable life estate, but not the right to have the value of such life estate in money upon sale of the property: Braddy v. Dail, 156-30.

Cases bearing on subject of uses: Hogan v. Strayhorn, 65-279; Bruce v. Faucett, 49-391; Davenport v. Wynne, 28-128; Harrison v. Battle, 21-215.

1741. Collateral warranties abolished; warranties by life tenants deemed covenants. All collateral warranties are abolished; and all warranties made by any tenant for life of lands, tenements or hereditaments, the same descending or coming to any person in reversion or remainder, shall be void; and all such warranties, as aforesaid, shall be deemed covenants only, and bind the covenanter in like manner as other obligations.

Rev., s. 1587; Code, s. 1334; R. C., c. 43, s. 10; 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 21; 1852, c. 16.

Title by estoppel and by rebutter explained: Olds v. Cedar Works, 173-161; Weeks v. Wilkins, 139-215.

Warranty has the effect of a personal covenant: Hauser v. Craft, 134-319; Smith v. Ingram, 130-102; see, also, Wiggins v. Pender, 132-628.

Where a father, having a life estate only, makes deed in fee for land, with warranty, his heir, with or without assets, is rebutted by warranty, except in cases where rule of common law changed by statute or where the heir can connect himself with outstanding remainder or reversion: Southerland v. Stout, 68-446. The warranty in the deed of the life tenant cannot defeat the remainder of the heirs by way of rebutter: Starnes v. Hill, 112-13, citing Moore v. Parker, 34-129. Where tenant by curtesy conveys land belonging to wife, in fee with general warranty, right of heirs of wife to land not rebutted by warranty: Johnson v. Bradley, 31-362. Where land devised to person for life and at death of life tenant to children thereof, such children not estopped by deed with covenant of warranty executed by life tenant: Hauser v. Craft, 134-319; Starnes v. Hill, 112-13; Brown v. Ward, 103-173; Southerland v. Stout, 68-446; Moore v. Parker, 34-129.

Section merely referred to in Whitesides v. Cooper, 115-577.

1742. Spendthrift trusts. It is lawful for any person by deed or will to convey any property, which does not yield at the time of the conveyance a clear annual income exceeding five hundred dollars, to any other person in trust to receive and pay the profits annually or oftener for the support and maintenance of any child, grandchild or other relation of the grantor, for the life of such child, grandchild or other relation, with remainder as the grantor shall provide; and the property so conveyed shall not be liable for or subject to be seized or taken in any manner for the debts of such child, grandchild or other relation, whether the same be contracted or incurred before or after the grant.

Rev., s. 1588; Code, s. 1335; 1871-2, c. 204, s. 1.

Provisions of section should be at least substantially complied with to create trust with incidents contemplated by same: Gray v. Hawkins, 133-1—and where no declaration of trust in deed, nor any limitation of estate to life of child or grandchild, such deed inoperative under section, Ibid.; see, also, Vaughan v. Wise, 152-31.

This is an active trust, and no part of the income is vested in the beneficiary, but is only to be used for his benefit: Fowler v. Webster, 173-442.

1743. Titles quieted. An action may be brought by any person against another who claims an estate or interest in real property adverse to him for the purpose of determining such adverse claims; and by any man or woman against his or her wife or husband or alleged wife or husband who have not lived together as man and wife within the two years preceding, and who at the death of such plaintiff might have or claim to have an interest in his or her estate, and a decree for the plaintiff shall debar all claims of the defendant in the property of the plaintiff then owned or afterwards acquired: Provided, that no such relief shall be granted against such husband or wife or alleged wife or husband, except in case the summons in said action is personally served on such defendant.

If the defendant in such action disclaim in his answer any interest or estate in the property, or suffer judgment to be taken against him without answer, the plaintiff cannot recover costs. In any case in which judgment has been or shall be docketed, whether such judgment is in favor of or against the person bringing such action, or is claimed by him, or affects real estate claimed by him, or whether such judgment is in favor of or against the person against whom such action may be brought, or is claimed by him, or affects real estate claimed by him, the lien of said judgment shall be such claim of an estate or interest in real estate as is contemplated by this section.

Steps leading to the adoption of section explained: Crockett v. Bray, 151-615. It is in the nature of the equitable remedy to remove a cloud upon title, and is to be liberally construed: Nobles v. Nobles, 177-243; Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668; s. c., 171-248; Satterwhite v. Gallagher, 173-525; Christman v. Hilliard, 167-4; Campbell v. Cronly, 150-457.

Plaintiff need not be in possession to bring the action: Speas v. Woodhouse, 162-66; Swindell v. Smaw, 156-1; Land Co. v. Lange, 150-26; McLean v. Shaw, 125-492; Daniels v. Fowler, 120-14—and plaintiff can maintain such action without showing that defendant is an occupant or any more than claimant of land in controversy, Burgess v. Burgess, 117-447. Action to determine conflicting claims to land may be treated as action of ejectment, when complaint alleges ownership in plaintiff and possession in defendant: Hines v. Moye, 125-8; Kerner v. Cottage Co., 123-294. Where plaintiff is in possession of lands, and court finds defendant's claim to be invalid, action should not be dismissed: Rumbo v. Mfg. Co., 129-9—but decree should be entered removing the cloud from title, Ibid.

The action may be maintained to remove tax deed as cloud upon title: Rexford v. Phillips, 159-213; Beck v. Meroney, 135-532; Edwards v. Lyman, 122-741—to remove attachment lien, Crockett v. Bray, 151-615—by married woman to determine validity of contract, Satterwhite v. Gallagher, 173-525—by devisee to determine interest conveyed in a devise, Nobles v. Nobles, 177-243; Smith v. Smith, 173-124—to restrain the enforcement of a judgment for the sale of land, Little v. Efrd, 170-187—to have the record of will executed in another state and recorded here, removed, McEwan v. Brown, 176-249—to determine the validity of restrictive covenants in a deed, Guilford v. Porter, 167-366—by the grantor in a deed held in escrow, Board of Ed. v. Development Co., 159-162—between parties claiming under the same deed, Byrd v. Byrd, 176-113—to remove a registered mortgage which appears to be valid, McArthur v. Griffith, 147-545—to correct a deed to convey a fee instead of a life estate, McLamb v. McPhail, 126-218—to have a deed under execution sale declared void as against a married woman, Rutherford v. Ray, 147-253.

Defendant may ask for affirmative relief under this section, and plaintiff cannot take non-suit: McLean v. McDonald, 173-429.

Should purchaser at execution sale delay to commence suit for possession, claimant to title, whether in or out of possession, could proceed under section against such purchaser: McLean

v. Shaw, 125-491. Case rendered nugatory by amendment of 1903: Ibid. An injunction may be granted as proper remedy: Power Co. v. Power Co., 175-668; Mortgage Co. v. Long, 113-123. No defense bond required: Timber Co. v. Butler, 134-50.

For cases prior to enactment of section, see Duncan v. Hall, 117-443; McNamee v. Alexander, 109-242; Peacock v. Stott, 104-154; Murray v. Hazell, 99-168; Byerly v. Humphrey, 95-151; Pearson v. Boyden, 86-585; Busbee v. Lewis, 85-332; Busbee v. Macy, 85-329; Thigpen v. Pitt, 54-49.

As bearing upon section, see Edwards v. Lyman, 122-741; Younger v. Ritchie, 116-782; Webster v. Williams, 153-309; Heptinstall v. Newsome, 146-503.

Section merely referred to in Jones v. Ballou, 139-527; Hill v. Gettys, 135-377; Olmsted v. Smith, 133-585; Treadaway v. Payne, 127-436; Cowles v. McNeill, 125-388.

1744. Remainders to uncertain persons; procedure for sale; proceeds secured.

In all cases where there is a vested interest in real estate, and a contingent remainder over to persons who are not in being, or when the contingency has not yet happened which will determine who the remaindermen are, there may be a sale of the property by a proceeding in the superior court at term time, which proceeding shall be conducted in the manner pointed out in this section. Such proceedings may be commenced by summons by any person having a vested interest in the land, and all persons in esse who are interested in said land shall be made parties defendant and served with summons as in other civil actions, and upon nonresidents or persons whose names and residences are unknown, by publication as now required by law or such service in lieu of publication as now provided by law. In cases where the remainder will or may go to minors or persons under other disabilities, or to persons not in being, or whose names and residences are not known, or who may in any contingency become interested in said land, but because of such contingency cannot be ascertained, the judge of the superior court shall, after due inquiry of persons who are in no way interested in or connected with such proceeding, designate and appoint some discreet person as guardian ad litem to represent such remaindermen, upon whom summons shall be served as provided by law for other guardians ad litem, and it shall be the duty of such guardian ad litem to defend such actions, and when counsel is needed to represent him, to make this known to the judge, who shall by an order give instructions as to the employment of counsel and the payment of fees.

The court shall, if the interest of all parties require or would be materially enhanced by it, order a sale of such property or any part thereof for reinvestment, either in purchasing or in improving real estate, less expense allowed by the court for the proceeding and sale, and such newly acquired or improved real estate shall be held upon the same contingencies and in like manner as was the property ordered to be sold. The court may authorize the loaning of such money subject to its approval until such time when it can be reinvested in real estate.

The court may authorize the temporary reinvestment, pending final investment in real estate, of funds derived from such sale in coupon bonds of the United States of America (commonly called Liberty Bonds) issued incident to the late war between the United States and the Imperial German Government; but in the event of such reinvestment, the commissioners, trustees or other officers appointed by the court to hold such funds shall hold the bonds in their possession and shall pay to the life tenant and owner of the vested interest in the lands sold only the interest accruing on and evidenced by the coupons attached to the bonds, and the principal of the bonds shall be held subject to final reinvestment and to such expense only as is provided in this section. Temporary reinvestments, as aforesaid, in liberty bonds heretofore made with the approval of the court of all or a part of the funds derived from such sales are ratified and declared valid.

Rev., s. 1590; 1903, c. 99; 1905, c. 548; 1907, cc. 956, 980; 1919, c. 17.

See, also, sections 3235, 3245. This section is constitutional; it also applies to estates created prior to its enactment: Springs v. Scott, 132-548; Anderson v. Wilkins, 142-159; Smith v. Miller, 151-620.

Purpose of this enactment reviewed in Hodges v. Lipscomb, 133-202; Springs v. Scott, 132-548. Power of court to sell contingent interests: Smith v. Witter, 174-616; Trust Co. v. Nicholson, 162-257; Smith v. Miller, 155-242, 152-314, 151-620. Court may order public or private sale: Sutton v. Craddock, 174-274; Ryder v. Oates, 173-569; McAfee v. Green, 143-411.

Court has power hereunder where there is a vested interest in real estate and contingent remainder over to persons not in being, or when contingency has not happened which will determine who remaindermen are, to order sale by conforming to procedure prescribed by section: Springs v. Scott, 132-548; Dunn v. Hines, 164-113; Vinson v. Wise, 159-653.

Decree should provide for investment of fund in such way as court may deem best for protection of all persons who have or may have remote or contingent interests: Springs v. Scott, 132-548; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-145; Pendleton v. Williams, 175-248; Dawson v. Wood, 177-158; McLean v. Caldwell, 178-424. The purchaser is not required to see to proper application of the funds: McLean v. Caldwell, 178-424.

Clerk of court has no jurisdiction of action to sell property for reinvestment, etc., under section: Smith v. Witter, 174-616; Smith v. Gudger, 133-627—though where case carried to superior court on appeal same will be retained for hearing, Ibid.

In action for sale of land for reinvestment in which are contingent interests, it is sufficient to make parties those who would, by happening of contingency, have estate therein at time of commencing action: Bullock v. Oil Co., 165-63; O'Hagan v. Johnson, 163-197; Hodges v. Lipscomb, 133-199—and persons not in being, who may have interest in property invested, not necessary parties in action for sale thereof and reinvestment, Smith v. Gudger, 133-627—though where remainder may go to minors, or persons not in esse, or unknown, court may appoint guardian ad litem to represent such parties, Hodges v. Lipscomb, 133-199.

Contingent remaindermen, not represented either by guardian or attorney, and not named in process, pleadings or decree, not bound by proceedings for partition instituted by other remaindermen and life tenant: Whitesides v. Cooper, 115-570.

As to assignments of contingent remainders, see Kornegay v. Miller, 137-659.

For cases prior to enactment of section, see Hodges v. Lipscomb, 128-57; Marsh v. Dellinger, 127-360; Hutchison v. Hutchison, 126-671; Yancey's case, 124-151; Smith v. Smith, 118-735; Overman v. Tate, 114-571; Aydlett v. Pendleton, 111-28; Young v. Young, 97-132; Justice v. Guion, 76-442.

1745. Sales of contingent remainders validated. In all cases where property has been conveyed by deed, or devised by will, upon contingent remainder, executory devise, or other limitation, where a judgment of a superior court has been rendered authorizing the sale of such property discharged of such contingent remainder, executory devise or other limitation in actions or special proceedings where all persons in being who would have taken such property if the contingency had then happened were parties, such judgment shall be valid and binding upon the parties thereto and upon all other persons not then in being: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair or destroy any vested right or estate.

For deeds of revocation of future interests made to persons not in esse, see Conveyances, Art. 1, s. 996.

The enactment of this section was a valid exercise of legislative power: Anderson v. Wilkins, 142-154; Dunn v. Hines, 164-113; Bullock v. Oil Co., 165-63.

1746. Freeholders in petition for special taxes defined. In all cases where a petition by a specific number of freeholders is required as a condition precedent to ordering an election to provide for the assessment or levy of taxes upon realty, all residents of legal age owning realty for life or longer term, irrespective of sex, shall be deemed freeholders within the meaning of such requirement.

The term "freeholders" in a petition for election under Revisal, sec. 4115 (now section 5526), was held not to include women: Gill v. Comrs., 160-176. But women are included under the term for special purpose in this section: Chitty v. Parker, 172-126.

ART. 1. STATUTES

1747. Printed statutes and certified copies evidence. All statutes, or joint resolutions, passed by the general assembly may be read in evidence from the printed statute book; or a copy of any act of the general assembly certified by the secretary of state shall be received in evidence in every court.

Rev., ss. 1592, 1593; Code, ss. 1339, 1340; R. C., c. 44, ss. 4, 5; 1826, c. 7.

Where act published in printed public laws of state every person has right to read same in evidence as the law in any court of state: Range Co. v. Carver, 118-337.

Cases referring to section: Wilson v. Markley, 133-622; Durham v. R. R., 108-403.

As to pleading private statutes, see section 541.

1748. Martin's collection of private acts. Any private act published by Francis X. Martin, in his collection of private acts, shall be received in evidence in every court.

1749. Laws of other states or foreign countries. A printed copy of a statute, or other written law, of another state, or of a territory, or of a foreign country, or a printed copy of a proclamation, edict, decree or ordinance, by the executive thereof, contained in a book or publication purporting or proved to have been published by the authority thereof, or proved to be commonly admitted as evidence of the existing law, in the judicial tribunals thereof, shall be evidence of the statute, law, proclamation, edict, decree, or ordinance. The unwritten or common law of another state, or of a territory, or of a foreign country, may be proved as a fact by oral evidence. The books of the reports of cases, adjudged in the courts thereof, shall also be admitted as evidence of the unwritten or common law thereof. And either party may also exhibit a copy of the law of such state, territory, or foreign country, duly certified by the secretary of state of this state as having been copied from a printed volume of the laws of such state, territory or country, on file in the state or supreme court library, or in the offices of the governor or secretary of state.

Rev., s. 1594; Code, s. 1338; R. C., c. 44, s. 3; 1823, c. 1193, ss. 1, 3; C. C. P., s. 360.

See, also, section 3252. Courts will not take judicial notice of statutes of another state: Hall v. R. R., 146-345; Coal and Ice Co. v. R. R., 144-732; Waters v. R. R., 108-349; Hilliard v. Outlaw, 92-266; Hooper v. Moore, 50-130—or of a foreign country, Waters v. R. R., 108-349; Hooper v. Moore, 50-130—but printed copy of statute of another state contained in book purporting to have been published by authority thereof admissible to prove existence of such statute, Copeland v. Collins, 122-619; Balk v. Harris, 122-64.

What is statute law of another state is question of fact to be proved like any other fact: Miller v. R. R., 154-441; Gooch v. Faucett, 122-270; Hilliard v. Outlaw, 92-266; Hooper v. Moore, 50-130; State v. Jackson, 13-563; Moore v. Gwynn, 27-187. Semble, that unless pleaded and proven, presumption is that statutory law of another state same as this state: Lassiter v. R. R., 136-89.

Regulations of United States department of agriculture made pursuant to statute, and intended to control conduct of general public, are not foreign laws within meaning of section when such regulations operate and take effect in this state: State v. R. R., 141-846.

Transcript of statute, once duly certified by secretary of state according to law, evidence at all times of its being in force in conformity with terms, unless repeal shown: State v. Cheek, 35-114. Certificate of secretary of state as to statutes of another state, given in pursuance of section, is evidence in criminal as well as civil cases: State v. Patterson, 24-346. Section substantially complied with by certificate under hand and private seal of secretary of state, accompanied by certificate of governor, under seal of state, as to official character of secretary of state: State v. Jackson, 13-563.

Common law of foreign state is presumed to be same as this state: Miller v. R. R., 154-441; Carriage Co. v. Dowd, 155-307; Lassiter v. R. R., 136-89; Hall v. R. R., 146-345; Brown v. Pratt, 56-202; Griffin v. Carter, 40-413. But if not admitted or presumed, it must be proved as any other fact: Keesler v. Ins. Co., 177-394; Harrison v. R. R., 168-382; s. c., 171-751; Moore v. Gwynn, 27-187.

Any person claiming to know common or unwritten laws of another state or foreign country may testify to and explain them before courts and juries: State v. Behrman, 114-797; Temple v. Pasquotank Co., 111-36—and jury should consider not only veracity of witnesses who give legal opinions, but their reputation, character, learning and legal standing, and determine for themselves how much weight they will give opinions, Hancock v. Tel. Co., 142-163.

When the law of another state has been proved, its construction is for the court: Keesler v. Ins. Co., 177-394; Harrison v. R. R., 168-382; s. c., 171-751; Hooper v. Moore, 50-130; Moore v. Gwynn, 27-187.

Laws of this state at time of cession of Tennessee must be taken to be laws of that state until shown that they have been altered or repealed: State v. Patterson, 24-346.

Where copy of statute of another state has been received in evidence in court below, upon insufficient proof, if it is made to appear to supreme court from official and proper source that copy so received was correct, a venire de novo will not be awarded for that error: McDugald v. Smith, 33-576.

A certificate of an act of South Carolina reciting the title of a prior act not sufficient as evidence of such prior act: State v. Welsh, 10-404.

As to the law concerning subject-matter of this section prior to 1823, see State v. Behrman, 114-804; State v. Twitty, 9-441.

1750. Town ordinances certified. In the trial of appeals from mayors' courts, when the offense charged is the violation of a town ordinance, a copy of the ordinance alleged to have been violated, certified by the mayor, shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of such ordinance.

Rev., s. 1595; 1899, c. 277, s. 2.

For pleading ordinances and printed ordinances as evidence, see Municipal Corporations, s. 2825; mayor's certificate, s. 2637.

ART. 2. GRANTS, DEEDS AND WILLS

1751. Copies certified by secretary of state. Copies of the plats and certificates of survey, or their accompanying warrants, and all abstracts of grants, which may be filed in the office of the secretary of state, certified by him as true copies, shall be as good evidence, in any court, as the original.

Rev., s. 1596; Code, s. 1341; R. C., c. 44, s. 6; 1822, c. 1154.

Abstracts of grants in usual form, duly certified as correct copies by secretary of state, and recorded in office of register of deeds, competent to show title out of state: Marshall v. Corbett, 137-555; Ray v. Stewart, 105-473; Clarke v. Diggs, 28-159; McLenan v. Chisholm, 64-323; Candler v. Lunsford, 20-142; Osborne v. Ballew, 29-415—though plats and certificates of survey, not being identified or explained, not competent evidence to show location of land, Cowles v. Lovin, 135-488. The copy or abstract is not any better evidence than the registration of the original: Richards v. Lumber Co., 158-54.

Clerk of secretary of state has no power to certify and affix great seal of state to copies of grants and other papers from office of secretary of state to be used in evidence: Beam v. Jennings, 96-82 (but see section 1754 validating such acts).

As patents or grants from state are recorded in office of secretary of state, copies of them obtained from that office may be given in evidence without accounting for originals by all persons except patentees or grantees, or those claiming under them who would be entitled to possession of originals: Candler v. Lunsford, 20-142. But see section 1752.

1752. Certified copies of grants and abstracts. For the purpose of showing title from the state of North Carolina to the grantee or grantees therein named and for the lands therein described, duly certified copies of all grants and of all memoranda and abstracts of grants on record in the office of the secretary of state, given in abstract or in full, and with or without the signature of the governor and the great seal of the state appearing upon such record, shall be competent evidence in the courts of this state or of the United States or of any territory of the United States, and in the absence of the production of the original grant shall be conclusive evidence of a grant from the state to the grantee or grantees named and for the lands described therein.

Certified copies of abstracts of grants conclusive evidence of grants: Herbert v. Development Co., 170-622; Howell v. Hurley, 170-401 (modifying same case in 170-798). This section is constitutional: Howell v. Hurley, 170-401.

1753. Certified copies of grants and abstracts recorded. Duly certified copies of such grants and of such memoranda and abstracts of grants may be recorded in the county where the lands therein described are situated, and the records thereof in such counties, or certified copies thereof, shall likewise be competent evidence for the purpose of showing title from the state of North Carolina to the grantee or grantees named and for the lands described therein.

See annotations under section 1752. Title presumed to be out of the state, see section 426.

1754. Copies of grants certified by clerk of secretary of state validated. All copies of grants heretofore issued from the office of the secretary of state, duly certified under the great seal of the state, and to which the name of the secretary has been written or affixed by the clerk of the said secretary of state, are hereby ratified and approved and declared to be good and valid copies of the original grants and admissible in evidence in all courts of this state when duly registered in the counties in which the land lies; all such copies heretofore registered in said counties are hereby declared to be lawful and regular in all respects as if the same had been signed by the secretary of state in person and duly registered.

Rev., s. 1597; 1901, c. 613.

1755. Copies of grants in Burke. Copies of grants issued by the state within the county of Burke prior to the destruction of the records of said county by General Stoneman in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, shall be admitted in evidence in all actions when the same are duly registered; and when the original grants are lost, destroyed or cannot be found after due search, it shall be presumed that the same were duly registered within the time prescribed by law, as provided upon the face of original grant.

Rev., s. 1610; 1901, c. 513.

1756. Copies of grants in Moore. Copies of grants for land situated in Moore county and the counties of which Moore was a part, entered in a book, and the book being certified under the seal of the secretary of state, shall have the force and effect of the originals and be evidence in all courts.

Rev., s. 1613; 1903, c. 214.

1757. Copies of grants in Onslow. The copies of grants made by the register of deeds of Onslow county under laws of 1907, chapter 434, of grants, abstracts of grants, and other documents pertaining to titles of land in Onslow county issued prior to the year one thousand eight hundred, and contained in a book called Book of Transcribed Grants Issued Prior to One Thousand Eight Hundred, duly authenticated as prescribed in said chapter 434 of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and seven, shall be received as evidence in all courts of the state, and certified copies therefrom shall be received as evidence.

1758. Certain deeds dated before 1835 evidence of due execution. In all actions hereafter instituted in which the title or ownership of any lands situated in North Carolina is at issue or in dispute, any deed or release, or a duly certified copy thereof, in which the people of the state of North Carolina are grantees and bearing date prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five and purporting to have been filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state of North Carolina prior to said year and now on file and of record in said office, and executed or purporting to have been executed by any person or persons as the representatives or agents or for or on behalf of any society, tribe, nation or aggregation of persons, whether signed or executed individually or in their representative capacity, and any such deed or release having been authorized to be executed by an act of the general assembly of North Carolina by the properly authorized agents of such society, tribe, nation or aggregation of persons, shall be prima facie evidence that the person or persons signing or executing any such deed or release were the properly authorized agent or agents of such society, tribe, nation or aggregation of persons. Any recitals or statements of fact in any such deed or release shall be prima facie evidence of the truth thereof in any such actions. But this shall not apply to actions pending on March 3, 1915.

1759. Certified copies of maps of Cherokee lands. Certified copies by the secretary of state of the copies, or parts thereof, of the maps of the Cherokee lands and of the Cherokee Country, as provided for and described in chapter one hundred and seventy-five of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, shall have the same force and effect and be entitled to the same force and effect as evidence as certified copies of the whole or parts of the original maps.

1760. Certified copies of certain surveys and maps obtained from the state of Tennessee. A certified copy of the report of the survey made by the North Carolina commissioners, McDowell, Vance and Matthews, of that portion of the state of Tennessee extending from a point on the Virginia line to a point on the Smoky Mountain west of the Pigeon River, as obtained and filed by the secretary of state under the provisions of chapter one hundred and sixty-two of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, shall, when certified under the hand and seal of the secretary of state, be competent evidence in the trial of any action in the courts of the state.

1761. Evidence of title under H. E. McCulloch grants. In all actions or suits, wherein it may be necessary for either party to prove title, by virtue of a grant or grants made by the king of Great Britain or Earl Granville to Henry McCulloch, or Henry Eustace McCulloch, it shall be sufficient for such party, in the usual manner, to give evidence of the grant or conveyance from the king of Great Britain or Earl Granville to the said Henry McCulloch, or Henry Eustace McCulloch, and the mesne conveyances thereafter, without giving any evidence of the deed or deeds of release, relinquishment or confirmation of Earl Granville to the said Henry McCulloch, or Henry Eustace McCulloch, or the power or powers of attorney by which the conveyances from the said Henry McCulloch, or Henry Eustace McCulloch, purport to have been made.

Rev., s. 1600; Code, s. 1336; R. C., c. 44, s. 1; 1819, c. 1021.

1762. Conveyances or certified copies evidence of title under McCulloch. In all trials where the title of either plaintiff or defendant shall be derived from Henry Eustace McCulloch, or Henry McCulloch, out of their tracts number one and three, it shall not be required of such party to produce, in support of his title, either the original grant from the crown to the proprietors, or a registered copy thereof; but in all such cases the grant or deed executed by such reputed proprietors, or by his or their lawful attorney, or a certified copy thereof, shall be deemed and held sufficient proof of the title of such proprietors, in the same manner as though the original grants were produced in evidence.

1763. Certified copies of registered instruments evidence. A copy of the record of any deed, mortgage, power of attorney, or other instrument required or allowed to be registered, duly authenticated by the certificate and official seal of the register of deeds of the county where the original or duly certified copy has been registered, may be given in evidence in any of the courts of the state where the original of such copy would be admitted as evidence, although the party offering the same shall be entitled to the possession of the original, and shall not account for the nonproduction thereof, unless by a rule or order of the court, made upon affidavit suggesting some material variance from the original in such registry or other sufficient grounds, such party shall have been previously required to produce the original, in which case the same shall be produced or its absence duly accounted for according to the course and practice of the court.

Rev., s. 1598; Code, s. 1251; 1893, c. 119, s. 2; R. C., c. 37, s. 16; 1846, c. 68, s. 1.

Record of registered deed competent evidence without producing original, where no rule of court for production of original issued: Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-425—as is also certified copies of such registered deeds, Hughes v. Debnam, 53-127—and duly authenticated copy of record of bond to make title, under which deed made, is within spirit and meaning of section, and admissible without accounting for absence of original, Bohanan v. Shelton, 46-370—also, as register required to keep bond of clerk superior court, duly certified copy of record of such bond competent evidence of its provisions, Battle v. Baird, 118-854; Short v. Currie, 53-42.

Certificate of register of deeds, to the effect that copy of deed, with order of probate and registration, are of record in office, prima facie evidence of its execution and probate: Love v. Harbin, 87-249. Copy of grant from register's office, which affirmatively shows that same issued under great seal of state, admissible in evidence, though registry does not show impress of seal or scroll to indicate same: Aycock v. R. R., 89-321. Where the record recites a private seal, but no seal is indicated with the name, a presumption arises that instrument was under seal: Hopkins v. Lumber Co., 162-533; Edwards v. Supply Co., 150-176; Strain v. Fitzgerald, 130-601; Heath v. Cotton Mills, 115-202. When the deed recites the names of the grantors and the probate recites their acknowledgment and signatures, but the names were omitted in recording, the record is sufficient: Smith v. Lumber Co., 144-48.

The original may be used to show that the defect which appears upon the record did or did not exist: Brown v. Hutchinson, 155-205; Patterson v. Galliher, 122-511; Strain v. Fitzgerald, 128-396.

The copy of the record is not any better evidence than the original: Richards v. Lumber Co., 158-54. If the instrument is not properly admitted to probate and registration, a copy of the record is not sufficient evidence: Buchanan v. Hedden, 169-222. Copy of abstract of grant dated in 1799, bearing signature of governor and certified by register, admissible in evidence to show land granted: Strickland v. Draughan, 88-315. Not proper to correct by parol testimony certified copy of deed, as recorded, by showing that original, which was lost, had different description: Hopper v. Justice, 111-418.

Party against whom registry of instrument, or copy thereof, introduced in evidence cannot then raise objection that there is variance between such registry, or copy, and original instrument: Devereux v. McMahon, 108-134—but if he desired to avail himself of the objection, he should have required the production of the original in manner provided by section, Ibid.; Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-427.

For case prior to amendment of section (Acts 1893, c. 119, s. 2), providing seal for register of deeds, see Thompson v. Justice, 88-269.

Section merely referred to in Griffith v. Richmond, 126-378; Ray v. Stewart, 105-474; Howell v. Ray, 92-512; Moore v. Hill, 85-220; Mauney v. Crowell, 84-316; Gudger v. Hensley, 82-486.

1764. Common survey of contiguous tracts evidence. Whenever any person owns several tracts of land which are contiguous or adjoining, but held under different deeds and different surveys, it may be lawful for any such person to have all such bodies of land included in one common survey by running around the lines of the outer tracts, and thereupon the possession of any part of said land covered by such common survey shall be deemed and held in law as a possession of the whole and every part thereof: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the rights or claims of persons which have already accrued to any part of said land. In all cases where such common surveys are made as directed by this section, the same may be recorded and registered as in cases of deeds, and shall be evidence in like manner.

By recording survey of outer lines of contiguous tracts, so as to exhibit outer boundaries, as if the whole had been covered by one tract, possession at any point on any one of the tracts will amount to possession of all the tracts: McNamee v. Alexander, 109-244. Surveyor's testimony that the map is correct is sufficient to make it competent: Greenleaf v. Bartlett, 146-495.

1765. Certified copies registered in another county and used in evidence. A copy from the office of the register of deeds of any county of the record of any deed, mortgage, power of attorney or other instrument required or allowed to be registered, duly authenticated by the certificate and official seal of the register of deeds of such county, may, upon presentation to the register of deeds of any other county, be registered without further proof, and the record thereof, or a duly certified copy of the same, may be given in evidence in any court in the state where the original of such copy would be admitted as evidence, although the party offering the same shall be entitled to the possession of the original, and shall not account for the nonproduction thereof, unless by a rule or order of the court, made upon affidavit suggesting some material variance from the original in such registry or other sufficient grounds, such party shall have been previously required to produce the original, in which case the same shall be produced or its absence duly accounted for according to the course and practice of the court.

See section 3319. For record of surveys as evidence, see section 7572. For registration of certificate of survey as evidence, see section 3559. Party against whom the registry of a deed or other instrument, or copy thereof, has been introduced in evidence cannot then raise objection that there is a variance between such registry, or copy, and the original instrument; if he desired to avail himself of such objection he should have required production of original in the way provided: Devereux v. McMahon, 108-134; Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-427. Section cited in Weston v. Lumber Co., 160-263.

1766. Deeds and records thereof lost, presumed to be in due form. Whenever it is shown in any judicial proceeding that a deed or conveyance of real estate has been lost or destroyed, and that the same had been registered, and that the register's book containing the copy has been destroyed by fire or other accident, so that a copy thereof cannot be had, it shall be presumed and held, unless the contents be shown to have been otherwise, that such deed or conveyance transferred an estate in fee simple, if the grantor was entitled to such an estate at the time of conveyance, and that it was made upon sufficient consideration.

Probate of a deed in regular form is presumed from the fact of registration: Cochran v. Imp. Co., 127-386. Registration of a deed is presumed to be correct: Ibid.

1767. Local: recitals in tax deeds in Haywood and Henderson. In all legal controversies touching lands in the counties of Haywood and Henderson, in which either party shall claim title under any sale for taxes alleged to have been due and laid, in and for the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-six, or any preceding year, the recital contained in the deed or assurance, made by the sheriff or other officer conveying or assuring the same, of the taxes having been laid and assessed, and of the same having remained due and unpaid, shall be held and taken to be prima facie evidence of the truth of each and every of the matters so recited.

Rev., s. 1606; Code, s. 1346; R. C., c. 44, s. 11.

See section 8034 and annotations.

1768. Local: copies of records from Tyrrell. Copies of records of the county of Tyrrell between the years one thousand seven hundred and thirty-five and one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine, when copied in a book and certified to by the clerk of the superior court of Tyrrell county as to the records of his office and by the register of deeds as to the records of his office, and deposited in their respective offices in Washington county, shall be treated in all respects as original records and received as evidence in all courts of Washington county.

Rev., s. 1612; 1903, c. 199.

1769. Local: records of partition in Duplin. The transcripts made by the clerk of the superior court of Duplin county, in accordance with chapter three hundred and ninety-five of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and seven, of the reports of committees relating to the partition of real estate on file in his office prior and up to the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, entered and indexed in a book entitled Reports of Committees, A, and the reports of committees beginning with and subsequent to the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, entered and indexed in a book entitled Reports of Committees, B, shall be as competent evidence as are the original reports of the committees.

1770. Local: records of wills in Duplin. The transcripts made by the clerk of the superior court of Duplin county, in accordance with chapter three hundred and ninety-five of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and seven, of all wills and entries of probate and dates of registration appearing on the same, on file in his office prior and up to the January term of the county court of Duplin county, one thousand eight hundred and thirty, and entered in a book designated as Record of Wills, A, and duly indexed as provided by law, shall be as competent evidence in any court as are the originals of such wills.

1771. Local: records of deeds and wills in Anson. The copies of the deeds and deed books and of the wills and will books made in Anson county under the act of March second, one thousand nine hundred and five, shall have the same force and effect as the original deeds and deed books copied and as the original wills and will books copied, and shall take the place of said original deeds and deed books and wills and will books as evidence in all court procedure; and wherever said deed books or will books are ordered or directed to be produced in court by subpoena or other order of court, the copies made under such act shall be produced, unless the court shall specially order the production of the original books, and the copies so produced in court shall have the same validity and effect and be used for the same purposes, with the same effect, as the original books.

Rev., s. 1615; 1905, c. 663, s. 3.

1772. Local: records of wills in Brunswick. Under the provisions of chapter one hundred and six of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and eight, authorizing and directing that all unrecorded wills, dated prior to January first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, on file in the office of the clerk of the superior court of Brunswick county, and which have been duly proved in the form required by law, and bearing the adjudication certificate of the proper officer, shall be recorded in the book of wills in the said office and properly indexed; that all wills recorded in the minutes of the court of pleas and quarter sessions or other books of record in said office shall be transcribed and indexed in the book of wills in said office; and that all wills recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said county shall be properly indexed in the book kept for the purpose in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county; the record of any instrument or certified copy thereof, recorded under the provisions of this article, shall be admitted in evidence in the trial of any cause, subject to the same rules upon which other wills are admitted.

1773. Copies of wills. Copies of wills, duly certified by the proper officer, may be given in evidence in any proceeding wherein the contents of the will may be competent evidence.

Rev., s. 1603; Code, s. 2175; R. C., c. 119, s. 21; 1784, c. 225, s. 6.

See sections 368, 4148. Certified copy of a will competent evidence under section: Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592; Croom v. Dugg, 110-260, and cases cited.

A copy of will made in another state, with its probate certified by judge of court in which proved, and accompanied by testimonials of governor of that state that person who gave certificate was proper officer to take such probate and certify same, is sufficient authentication to admit it in evidence: Knight v. Wall, 19-125.

1774. Copies of wills in secretary of state's office. Copies of wills filed or recorded in the office of the secretary of state, attested by the secretary, may be given in evidence in any court, and shall be taken as sufficient proof of the devise of real estate, and are declared good and effectual to pass the estate therein devised: Provided, that no such will may be given in evidence in any court nor taken as sufficient proof of the devise unless a certificate of probate appear thereon.

For case prior to amendment of 1856-57, see Stephens v. French, 48-360.

1775. Copies of wills recorded in wrong county. Whereas, by reason of the uncertainty of the boundary lines of many of the counties of the state, wills have been proved, recorded and registered in the wrong county, whereby titles are insecure; for remedy whereof: The registry or duly certified copy of the record of any will, duly recorded, may be given in evidence in any of the courts of this state.

Rev., s. 1608; Code, s. 2182; 1858-9, c. 18.

1776. Copy of will proved and lost before recorded. When any will which has been proved and ordered to be recorded was destroyed during the war between the states, before it was recorded, a copy of such will, so entitled to be admitted to record, though not certified by any officer, shall, when the court shall be satisfied of the genuineness thereof, be ordered to be recorded, and shall be received in evidence whenever the original or duly certified exemplification would be; and such copies may be proved and admitted to record under the same rules, regulations and restrictions as are prescribed in the chapter entitled Burnt and Lost Records.

Rev., s. 1609; Code, s. 2183; 1866-7, c. 127.

1777. Certified copies of deeds and wills from other states. In cases where inhabitants of other states or territories, by will or deed, devise or convey property situated in this state, and the original will or deed cannot be obtained for registration in the county where the land lies, or where the property shall be in dispute, a copy of said will or deed (after the same has been proved and registered or deposited, agreeable to the laws of the state where the person died or made the same) being properly certified, either according to the act of congress or by the proper officer of the said state or territory, shall be read as evidence.

See, also, sections 4148, 4149. Will proved in another state which bears certificate of clerk of court where probate had as to oath of attesting witnesses, but no other authentication, inadmissible in evidence; Hunter v. Kelly, 92-285—but copy of will made in another state, with probate certified by judge of court in which proved, accompanied by certificate of governor of state that person so certifying was proper officer to take probate and certify same, sufficient under section: Knight v. Wall, 19-125.

The certificate must be according to act of congress or by the proper officer of the state or territory: Riley v. Carter, 158-484; Smathers v. Jennings, 170-601. See section 4153.

As to authentication of records of other states generally, see Kinsley v. Rumbough, 96-193; see, also, in Appendix, Vol. 2, under Authentication of Records.

As bearing upon section, see Miazza v. Calloway, 74-31; Warren v. Wade, 52-494; Ward v. Hearne, 44-184.

1778. Copies of lost records in Bladen. The clerk of the superior court of Bladen county shall transcribe the judgment docket and index books and the will books in his office, and all other books in said office containing records made since the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and the records so transcribed shall have the same force and effect as the original records would have, and shall be received in evidence as the original records and be prim facie evidence of their correctness and of the sufficiency of their probate, though the probates are lost and are not transcribed.

Rev., s. 1611; 1895, c. 415; 1903, c. 65.

ART. 3. PUBLIC RECORDS

1779. Copies of official writings. Copies of all official bonds, writings, papers, or documents, recorded or filed as records in any court, or public office, or lodged in the office of the governor, treasurer, auditor, secretary of state, attorney general or adjutant general, shall be as competent evidence as the originals, when certified by the keeper of such records or writings under the seal of his office when there is such seal, or under his hand when there is no such seal, unless the court shall order the production of the original. Copies of the records of the board of county commissioners shall be evidence when certified by the clerk of the board under his hand and seal of the county.

Rev., s. 1616; Code, ss. 715, 1342; R. C., c. 44, s. 8; 1792, c. 368, s. 11; 1871-2, c. 91; 1869-9, c. 20, s. 21.

See next section for further annotations. Certified copy of original certificate of survey attached to land grant in office of secretary of state admissible in place of original: Higdon v. Rice, 119-623.

Certified statement by register of deeds of county as to how much property listed for taxation by person, incompetent under section, not being copy of such list, for section makes competent only "copies" of official records: State v. Champion, 116-987.

Certified copy of petition in suit, upon proof of loss of original record, is admissible as evidence: Weeks v. McPhail, 128-130.

Where superior court record lost, certified copy of transcript of same in supreme court sufficient evidence of record: Aiken v. Lyon, 127-171.

Copies of grants from sovereign, when enrolled in proper office, competent as evidence: Clark v. Diggs, 28-159—as are also certified copies of grants entered in Lord Granville's office, Ibid.; Marshall v. Corbett, 137-557—and copies of grants and abstracts of grants certified by secretary of state may be given in evidence without accounting for originals, Marshall v. Corbett, 137-555; Candler v. Lunsford, 20-142; see section 1751.

Contents of records of proceedings of municipal corporations may be proved by duly certified copy thereof: Cheatham v. Young, 113-161.

Copy of record not evidence as to matters de hors same: Governor v. McAfee, 13-18. Officer is to certify to the copy and not to the facts stated in the instrument: Wiggins v. Rogers, 175-67.

While regularly authenticated copies of records, and entries in nature of records, should be used as evidence, yet records themselves also competent: Carolina Iron Co. v. Abernathy, 94-545; State v. Voight, 90-741; Leak v. Covington, 99-559—and rule allowing properly certified copy of record to be admitted in evidence grounded upon inconvenience of obtaining original, Carolina Iron Co. v. Abernathy, 94-545; State v. Voight, 90-741.

Section merely referred to in Jarvis v. Vanderford, 116-152; Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107-446; Springs v. Schenck, 106-166; McLean v. Buchanan, 53-446.

1780. Authenticated copies of public records. All copies of bonds, contracts, or other papers relating to or connected with the settlement of any account or any part thereof between the United States and an individual, or extracts therefrom when complete on any one subject, or copies from the books or papers on file, or records of any public office of the state or the United States, shall be received in evidence and entitled to full faith and credit in any of the courts of this state when certified to by the chief officer in said office or department to be true copies and authenticated under the seal of said office or department.

Rev., s. 1617; 1891, c. 501.

Certificate of collector of internal revenue, under his hand and seal, of a record of his office showing one to be licensed as a retail liquor dealer, is competent as evidence hereunder, and makes out a prima facie case of retailing in prohibition territory: State v. Dowdy, 145-432—also as to taxes assessed, Surety Co. v. Brock, 176-507.

Matters appearing in transcript of any paper on file, or records of any public office of state or United States, being relative to an account which a referee was directed to take, when properly authenticated, admissible in evidence: Wallace v. Douglas, 114-450. Certified copies of records in regard to use of public waters in connection with Dismal Swamp Canal: Hinton v. Canal Co., 166-484.

Regulations of state board of agriculture, certified under hand of secretary with seal of department, are properly proved: State v. R. R., 141-846—but papers purporting to be exemptions from treasury department of United States, but which not authenticated in any manner whatever, not admissible in evidence, Mott v. Ramsay, 92-152—and pamphlet purporting to contain regulations of United States department of agriculture, not certified by any officer of department, with no seal attached, and not purporting to have been issued or published by authority thereof, not admissible as evidence, State v. R. R., 141-846.

As to records of state of the weather made by one who is appointed for that purpose by United States Signal Service Bureau, see Knott v. R. R., 98-73. A properly certified copy is to be used, and not parol evidence of the contents: Surety Co. v. Brock, 176-507.

1781. Authenticated copy of record of administration. When letters testamentary or of administration on the goods and chattels of any person deceased, being an inhabitant in another state or territory, have been granted, or a return or inventory of the estate has been made, a copy of the record of administration or of the letters testamentary, and a copy of an inventory or return of the effects of the deceased, after the same has been granted or made, agreeable to the laws of the state where the same has been done, being properly certified, either according to the act of congress or by the proper officer of such state or territory, shall be allowed as evidence.

Rev., s. 1618; Code, s. 1343; R. C., c. 44, s. 7; 1834, c. 4; U. S. Rev. Stat., ss. 905, 906.

Such copies are competent evidence when properly certified: Riley v. Carter, 153-484.

ART. 4. OTHER WRITINGS IN EVIDENCE

1782. Proof by attesting witness not required. It is not necessary to prove by the attesting witness instruments to the validity of which the attestation is not requisite, and such instruments may be proved by admission or otherwise as if there had been no attesting witness thereto: Provided, that this section shall not affect the method and manner of proving instruments for registration.

Rev., s. 1604; 1905, c. 204.

For proving instruments for registration, see section 3293 et seq.; as to execution of wills, see section 4144. Ancient documents admitted in evidence: Nicholson v. Lumber Co., 156-59. For a statement of attesting witness rule, see Bright v. Marcom, 121-86.

1783. Parol evidence to identify land described. In all actions for the possession of or title to any real estate parol testimony may be introduced to identify the land sued for, and fit it to the description contained in the paper-writing offered as evidence of title or of the right of possession, and if from this evidence the jury is satisfied that the land in question is the identical land intended to be conveyed by the parties to such paper-writing, then such paper-writing shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient in law to pass such title to or interest in such land as it purports to pass: Provided, that such paper-writing is in all other respects sufficient to pass such title or interest.

For vagueness of description in a deed, see Conveyances, s. 992.

Cases in which description was sufficiently definite to identify the land by parol evidence: Stockard v. Warren, 175-283; Alston v. Savage, 173-213; Patton v. Sluder, 167-500; Speed v. Perry, 167-122; Hawes v. Lumber Co., 166-101; Lumber Co. v. Pearce, 166-588; Pate v. Lumber Co., 165-184; Johnson v. Mfg. Co., 165-105; Hudson v. Morton, 162-6; Byrd v. Sexton, 161-569; Fulwood v. Fulwood, 161-601; Broadwell v. Morgan, 142-475; Janney v. Robbins, 141-400; Gudger v. White, 141-507; Moore v. Fowle, 139-51; Sherman v. Simpson, 121-129; Wilkins v. Jones, 119-95; Walker v. Moses, 113-527; Perry v. Scott, 109-374 (overruling in part Blow v. Vaughan, 105-198; Wilson v. Johnson, 105-211); Allen v. Sallinger, 108-159; Euliss v. McAdams, 108-507; Grubb v. Foust, 99-286; Edwards v. Bowden, 99-80; McGlawhorn v. Worthington, 98-199; Rollins v. Harris, 96-557; Hinton v. Roach, 95-106; Scull v.

Pruden, 92-168; Warren v. Makely, 85-12—held to be too vague to admit parol evidence to identify land, Higdon v. Howell, 167-455; Harris v. Woodard, 130-581; Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410; Hemphill v. Annis, 119-514; Lowe v. Harris, 112-472; McGlawhorn v. Worthington, 98-199; Harrison v. Hahn, 95-28; Harrell v. Butler, 92-20; Archibald v. Davis, 50-322; Mann v. Taylor, 49-272. Section does not act retrospectively: Hemphill v. Annis, 119-514; Lowe v. Harris, 112-472—but even if it did, word “description” used therein imports such description as can be aided by parol proof, Harris v. Woodard, 130-581; Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410; Hemphill v. Annis, 119-514; concurring opinion of Shepherd, C. J., in Lowe v. Harris, 112-472.

While parol evidence competent to fit description to land intended to be conveyed by deed, yet it cannot add to or enlarge its scope: Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410; Harrison v. Hahn, 95-28—and where descriptive words in deed so indefinite that in order to give it effect something must be added, conveyance inoperative, Ibid.

If deed, when applied to land, found to be ambiguous, parol evidence of surrounding circumstances and of acts of parties competent to aid in interpretation of deed: Ward v. Gay, 137-397. As to parol evidence to remove latent ambiguities as to boundaries, see Ward v. Gay, 137-397; Lewis v. Roper Lumber Co., 113-57; Wynne v. Alexander, 29-237; Bullard v. Barksdale, 33-461; Hurley v. Morgan, 18-425; Reed v. Schenck, 13-415; Lofton v. Heath, 3-347; Bustin v. Christie, 3-99; Archibald v. Davis, 50-322; Waters v. Simmons, 52-54; Slade v. Green, 9-218. Declarations of deceased persons to locate boundaries, see Singleton v. Roebuck, 178-201; Lumber Co. v. Hinton, 171-27; Byrd v. Spruce Co., 170-429; Sullivan v. Blount, 165-11; Lamb v. Copeland, 158-136; Hill v. Dalton, 140-9; Yow v. Hamilton, 136-357; Shaffer v. Gaynor, 117-15; Bethea v. Byrd, 95-311; Smith v. Headrick, 93-210; Mason v. McCormick, 85-226; Huffman v. Walker, 83-411; Caldwell v. Neely, 81-114; Hedrick v. Gabble, 63-48; Toole v. Peterson, 31-180; Dancy v. Sugg, 19-515; Hartzog v. Hubbard, 19-241; Sasser v. Herring, 14-340; Gervin v. Meredith, 4-439; Harris v. Powell, 3-349.

Parol evidence can be introduced to establish lost corners: Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410; Caraway v. Chancy, 51-361; Addington v. Jones, 52-582; Topping v. Sadler, 50-357; Safret v. Hartman, 50-185; McNeill v. Massey, 10-91; Cherry v. Slade, 7-82; Den v. Green, 9-218. General reputation as evidence, see Corpeneing v. Westall, 167-684; Sullivan v. Blount, 165-11; Ricks v. Woodard, 159-647; Lamb v. Copeland, 158-136; Echerd v. Johnson, 126-409; Mendenhall v. Cassells, 20-43. Where one deed refers to another for a description, latter is to be taken as if embodied in deed referring to it: Gudger v. White, 141-507; Hemphill v. Annis, 119-514; Euliss v. McAdams, 108-507; Lumber Co. v. Swain, 161-566.

It is a question for court to decide as one of law what was the boundary and for jury to determine where it is actually located: Gudger v. White, 141-507, and cases cited on page 519 of case; Seull v. Pruden, 92-168; Echerd v. Johnson, 126-409.

Description by name, where lands have a known name, is sufficient, and a tract can be then located by its name by parol proof: Moore v. Fowle, 139-51; Euliss v. McAdams, 108-507; Seull v. Pruden, 92-168. Descriptive words in a deed must, with the aid of the evidence aliunde, to which they point, identify the boundaries of land conveyed: Blow v. Vaughan, 105-198. This section applies only where there is a description which can be aided by parol, but not when there is no description: Harris v. Woodard, 130-581, and cases there cited; Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410—a deed which fails to describe land being as void now as it was before enactment of this section, Moore v. Fowle, 139-53. Parol evidence will be admitted to find a corner, but not to make a corner: Holmes v. Sapphire Co., 121-410. A description calling for a point or stake as a beginning, and course and distance for all the rest of the description of boundaries, will not permit parol evidence to locate: Archibald v. Davis, 50-322; Mann v. Taylor, 49-272; Massey v. Belisle, 24-170.

As bearing upon subject-matter of section, see Fry v. Currie, 91-436; Hinchney v. Nichols, 72-66; Waters v. Simmons, 52-541; Lofton v. Heath, 3-347.

1784. Proof of handwriting by comparison. In all trials in this state, when it may otherwise be competent and relevant to compare handwritings, a comparison of a disputed writing with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the judge to be genuine, shall be permitted to be made by witnesses, and such writings and the evidence of witnesses respecting the same may be submitted to the court and jury as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise of the writing in dispute: Provided, this shall not apply to actions pending on March 5, 1913.

Handwriting may be proved by any one who knows the writing: Oil Co. v. Burney, 174-382; Nicholson v. Lumber Co., 156-59, and cases cited. By comparison with other writings in the case and admitted to be genuine: Tunstall v. Cobb, 109-316; Ratliff v. Ratliff, 131-425. By comparison with other writings in the case proved to be genuine: Tunstall v. Cobb, 109-316; Kornegay v. Kornegay, 117-242. By comparison with other writings proved to be genuine and introduced only for a standard: Tunstall v. Cobb, 109-316 (old rule); Boyd v. Leatherwood, 165-614; Bank v. McArthur, 168-48. By whom comparison is to be made: Fuller v. Fox, 101-119; Martin v. Knight, 147-564; Nicholson v. Lumber Co., 156-59; Boyd v. Leatherwood, 165-614; Bank v. McArthur, 168-48.

1785. Bills of lading in evidence. In all actions by or against common carriers in which it shall be thought necessary to introduce in evidence any bills of lading issued by said common carrier or by a connecting carrier, it shall be competent to introduce in evidence any paper-writing purporting to be the original bill of lading, or a duplicate thereof, upon proof that such paper purporting to be such bill of lading or duplicate was received in due course of mail from consignor or agent of said carrier or connecting carrier, or delivered by said common carrier to the consignee or other person entitled to the possession of the property for which said paper purports to be the bill of lading: Provided, that such purported bill of lading shall not be declared to be the bill of lading unless the said purported bill of lading is first exhibited by the plaintiff or his agent or attorney to the defendant or its attorney, or its agent upon whom process may be served, ten days before the trial where the point of shipment is in the state, and twenty days when the point of shipment is without the state. Upon such proof and introduction of the bill of lading, the due execution thereof shall be prima facie established.

1786. Book accounts under sixty dollars. When any person shall bring an action upon a contract, or shall plead, or give notice of, a setoff or counterclaim for goods, wares and merchandise by him sold and delivered, or for work done and performed, he shall file his account with his complaint, or with his plea or notice of setoff or counterclaim, and if upon the trial of the issue, or executing a writ of inquiry of damages in such action, he shall declare upon his oath that the matter in dispute is a book account, and that he hath no means to prove the delivery of any of the articles which he then shall propose to prove by himself but by this book, in that case such book may be given in evidence, if he shall make out by his own oath that it doth contain a true account of all the dealings, or the last settlement of accounts between himself and the opposing party, and that all the articles therein contained, and by him so proved, were bona fide delivered, and that he hath given the opposing party all just credits; and such book and oath shall be received as evidence for the several articles so proved to be delivered within two years next before the commencement of the action, but not for any article of a longer standing, nor for any greater amount than sixty dollars.

Rev., s. 1622; Code, s. 591; R. C., c. 15, s. 1; 1756, c. 57, ss. 2, 6, 7; C. C. P., s. 343a.

Party is not excluded from testifying under book-debt law by section 1795: Nall v. Kelly, 169-717; Armfield v. Colvert, 103-156; Leggett v. Glover, 71-211. Defendant may prove book-debt as a set-off: Webber v. Webber, 79-575; Thomegeux v. Bell, 1-64.

Plaintiff may prove by own oath balance due him of sixty dollars or under, although account produced was for more than that amount, but reduced by credits below same: McWilliams v. Cosby, 26-110.

Competent for party to swear to price as well as to delivery of articles in account: Colbert v. Piercy, 25-77—but book and oath only evidence of articles delivered within two years, Alexander v. Smoot, 35-461—and not evidence that book contains all credits and full and true account of all dealings between such parties so as to show that nothing due to other party, and to disprove all his claim except such items as stated in book, Ibid.

Plaintiff under section may prove work and labor done by his slaves: Mitchell v. Clarke, 1-29—also goods sold and delivered for use of defendant by sundry persons and paid for by plaintiff, Ibid. Words “make out by own oath” construed: Kitchen v. Tyson, 7-314.

Plaintiff cannot remit certain items to give justice jurisdiction and prove account under this section, since oath must show that statement contains all dealings between the parties: Waldo v. Jolly, 49-173.

In action on contract for sawing timber, not necessary to set out items in pleading, as section only applicable to actions brought under book-debt law: McPhail v. Johnson, 115-298.

To entitle party to recover, he must swear not only that he sold, but also actually delivered, articles for price of which suit brought: Adkinson v. Simmons, 33-416.

Cases bearing on section: Ins. Co. v. R. R., 138-53; Pannell v. Scoggin, 53-410; Boggan v. Horne, 97-268; Morgan v. Hubbard, 66-394.

1787. Book accounts proved by personal representative. In all actions where executors and administrators are parties, such book account for all articles delivered within two years previous to the death of the deceased may be proved under the like circumstances, rules and conditions; and in such case, the executor or administrator may prove by himself that he found the account so stated on the books of the deceased; that there are no witnesses, to his knowledge, capable of proving the delivery of the articles which he shall propose to prove by said book, and that he believes the same to be just, and doth not know of any other or further credit to be given than what is therein mentioned: Provided, that if two years shall not have elapsed previous to the death of the deceased, the executor or administrator may prove the said book account, if the suit shall be commenced within three years from the delivery of the articles: Provided further, that whenever by the aforesaid proviso the time of proving a book account in manner aforesaid is enlarged as to the one party, to the same extent shall be enlarged the time as to the other party.

Rev., s. 1623; Code, s. 592; R. C., c. 15, s. 2; 1756, c. 57, s. 2; 1796, c. 465; C. C. P., s. 343b.

Admissible for personal representative to offer book of accounts of decedent, containing charges against third persons made by deceased, up to amount of sixty dollars: Bland v. Warren, 65-372; Charlton v. Lawry, 1-30. Where administrator takes book-debt oath and swears that original entry is in handwriting of person who has not been heard of in seven years, and that he knows of no one who can prove such handwriting: held, account sufficiently proved: Stevellie v. Greenlee, 12-317.

1788. Copies of book accounts in evidence. A copy from the book of accounts proved in manner above directed may be given in evidence in any such action or setoff as aforesaid, and shall be as available as if such book had been produced, unless the party opposing such proof shall give notice to the adverse party or his attorney, at the joining of the issue, or ten days before the trial, that he will require the book to be produced at the trial; and in that case no such copy shall be admitted as evidence.

Rev., s. 1624; Code, s. 593; R. C., c. 15, s. 3; 1756, c. 57, s. 3; C. C. P., s. 343c.

Duty of person to produce original account, when notice to that effect given him by other party: Coxe v. Skeen, 25-443—and voluntary destruction of original will not authorize introduction of copy, Ibid.

1789. Itemized and verified accounts. In any actions instituted in any court of this state upon an account for goods sold and delivered, for services rendered, or labor performed, or upon any oral contract for money loaned, a verified itemized statement of such account shall be received in evidence, and shall be deemed prima facie evidence of its correctness.

Rev., s. 1625; 1897, c. 480; 1917, c. 32.

Account, to be prima facie evidence of its correctness, must be properly verified, and so itemized and stated as to show indebtedness: Knight v. Taylor, 131-84—and must also show relation of debtor and creditor, Ibid. For account held to be sufficient under section, see Claus v. Lee, 140-552; Worthington v. Jolly, 174-266.

Itemized account under this section makes a prima facie case: Machine Co. v. Morrow, 174-198; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167-508; Carr v. Alexander, 169-665. But the account must be verified by one who swears of his own knowledge, and who is not excluded by section 1795: Nall v. Kelly, 169-717.

Section applied only to accounts for goods sold and delivered until amended by act of 1917, c. 32: Hospital Assn. v. Hobbs, 153-188; University v. Ogburn, 174-427.

What is sufficient evidence to rebut prima facie case: Mfg. Co. v. Sexton, 161-501. Plaintiff's evidence may negative prima facie effect of verified account: Kennedy v. Price, 138-173.

ART. 5. LIFE TABLES

1790. Mortuary tables as evidence. Whenever it is necessary to establish the expectancy of continued life of any person from any period of such person's life, whether he be living at the time or not, the table hereto appended shall be received in all courts and by all persons having power to determine litigation, as evidence, with other evidence as to the health, constitution and habits of such person, of such expectancy represented by the figures in the columns headed by the words "completed age" and "expectation" respectively:

Completed Age	Expectation	Completed Age	Expectation

Rev., s. 1626; Code, s. 1352; 1883, c. 225.

Table in this section competent as evidence without being specially introduced in evidence on trial: Coley v. Statesville, 121-301—but not conclusive evidence, and is to be considered with all other testimony relevant to issue, Sledge v. Lumber Co., 140-461; Odom v. Lumber Co., 173-134—and in estimating value of life of decedent it is proper for jury to consider health and habits of deceased at time of death, Russell v. Steamboat Co., 126-967; Coley v. Statesville, 121-301.

For example of estimation of value of life estate of deceased in fund according to section, see Miller v. Asheville, 112-759.

For proper mode of estimating value of life of decedent according to above table, see Pickett v. R. R., 117-616; Poe v. R. R., 141-525; Mendenhall v. R. R., 123-275; Benton v. R. R., 122-1007; Carter v. R. R., 139-501, and cases cited; see, also, section 161.

For general discussion of the table in section, see Russell v. Steamboat Co., 126-967.

1791. Present worth of annuities. Whenever it is necessary to establish the present worth or cash value of an annuity to a person, payable annually during his life, such present worth or cash value may be ascertained by the use of the following table in connection with the mortuary tables established by law, the first column representing the number of years the annuity is to run and the second column representing the present cash value of an annuity of one dollar for such number of years, respectively:

No. of Years Annuity is to Run	Cash Value of the An- nuity of $1	No. of Years Annuity is to Run	Cash Value of the An- nuity of $1

The present cash value of the annuity for a fraction of a year may be ascertained as follows: Multiply the difference between the cash value of the annuities for the preceding and succeeding full years by the fraction of the year in decimals and add the sum to the present cash value for the preceding full year. When a person is entitled to the use of a sum of money for life, or for a given time, the interest thereon for one year may be considered as an annuity and the present cash value be ascertained as herein provided.

Rev., s. 1627; 1905, c. 347.

Word "annuity" defined: Poe v. R. R., 141-526. In action to recover damages for injuries causing death, court should not permit jury to consider section for purpose of ascertaining present value of intestate's life: Poe v. R. R., 141-525. For discussion of section, see Ibid. As bearing incidentally on section, see Ex parte Williams, 74-68.

In estimating present value of annuity during widowhood, it is considered as for life: In re Inheritance Tax, 172-170.

ART. 6. COMPETENCY OF WITNESSES

1792. Witness not excluded by interest or crime. No person offered as a witness shall be excluded, by reason of incapacity from interest or crime, from giving evidence either in person or by deposition, according to the practice of the court, on the trial of any issue joined, or of any matter or question, or on any inquiry arising in any suit or proceeding, civil or criminal, in any court, or before any judge, justice, jury or other person having, by law, authority to hear, receive and examine evidence; and every person so offered shall be admitted to give evidence, notwithstanding such person may or shall have an interest in the matter in question, or in the event of the trial of the issue, or of the suit or other proceeding in which he is offered as a witness. This section shall not be construed to apply to attesting witnesses to wills.

Rev., ss. 1628, 1629; Code, ss. 589, 1350; C. C. P., c. 342; 1866, c. 43, ss. 1, 4; 1869-70, c. 177; 1871-2, c. 4.

This section qualified by section 1795: Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643—also by sections 1794 and 1799, Bunn v. Todd, 107-266.

Section removes all disabilities on account of interest: Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-645; Clark v. Hodge, 116-761; Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592; Lewis v. Fort, 75-253. Party to action may testify in his own behalf: Sumner v. Candler, 92-637; Autry v. Floyd, 127-187; State v. McIntosh, 64-607. This changes common-law rule of exclusion on account of interest: Gidney v. Logan, 79-216.

This section construed with reference to section 1793 in determining competency of husband and wife to testify: Powell v. Strickland, 163-393; Taylor v. Taylor, 76-433. See, also, sections 1801, 1802.

Where not excluded under section 1795 mortgagee in chattel mortgage competent, as subscribing witness thereto, to prove execution thereof: Clark v. Hodge, 116-761; LeRoy v. Jacobosky, 136-443.

In indictment for affray, one defendant may be examined as witness by state against other defendant: State v. Weaver, 93-595; see section 1799.

Last clause of section applicable only to attesting witnesses to execution of will: Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-548; Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592. An attesting witness to a will is not made incompetent to testify to execution thereof because a devisee or legatee: Vester v. Collins, 101-114; Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-542. See sections 4131, 4137, 4138.

Widow and devisee of testator competent witness to prove that script propounded was found among valuable papers of deceased: Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-542.

Devisee under holograph will competent witness to prove same: Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592—and executor may testify as to existence and contents of will destroyed by fire, its probate and registration, and also as to qualification of executor, Cox v. Lumber Co., 124-78—notwithstanding he is devisee under whom some of parties to action claim, Ibid.

For religious belief of witness as affecting his competency, see Shaw v. Moore, 49-25; State v. Pitt, 166-268.

Section merely referred to in McGowan v. Davenport, 134-535 (concurring opinion of Clark, J.); Little v. Ratliff, 126-263; Mason v. McCormick, 75-265; Ballard v. Ballard, 75-190; Lewis v. Fort, 75-253; Gray v. Cooper, 65-183; Rice v. Keith, 63-319.

Cases prior to enactment: Wilson v. Allen, 54-24; Sanderlin v. Shaw, 51-225; Wetmore v. Click, 50-155; Blum v. Stafford, 49-94; Forbes v. Williams, 46-393; Cowles v. Rowland, 47-219; Ward v. Griffin, 38-150; State v. Poteet, 29-356; Freeman v. Lewis, 27-91; Hafner v. Irwin, 26-533; Walton v. Tomlin, 23-593; Moffitt v. Gaines, 23-158; Cox v. Wilson, 24-234; Norwood v. Marrow, 20-578; Kaywood v. Barnett, 20-88; Jones v. Sasser, 18-452; Jackson v. Comrs., 18-177; Waller v. Mills, 14-513; Rhem v. Jackson, 13-187; McKinna v. Hayer, 9-422; Learey v. Littlejohn, 5-406; Alston v. Jones, 5-45; Hawkins v. Hawkins, 4-431; State v. Fellows, 3-340; Murray v. Marsh, 3-290.

1793. Parties competent as witnesses. On the trial of any issue, or of any matter or question, or on any inquiry arising in any action, suit or other proceeding in court, or before any judge, justice, jury or other person having, by law, authority to hear and examine evidence, the parties themselves and the person in whose behalf any suit or other proceeding may be brought or defended, shall, except as otherwise provided, be competent and compellable to give evidence, either viva voce or by deposition, according to the practice of the court, in behalf of either or any of the parties to said action, suit or other proceeding. Nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to any action or other proceeding in any court instituted in consequence of adultery, or to any action for criminal conversation.

Rev., s. 1630; Code, s. 1351; 1866, c. 43, ss. 2, 3.

Neither husband nor wife allowed to prove fact of access or nonaccess: Boykin v. Boykin, 70-262; West v. Redmond, 171-742—though in action for divorce a vinculo husband competent witness to prove impotence of wife, Barringer v. Barringer, 69-179—but in action for divorce on ground of alleged adultery neither husband nor wife competent witness to prove adultery of other, Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41; Hooper v. Hooper, 165-605; see section 1801.

Person entitled to reward upon conviction of offender is competent witness against such offender: State v. Coulter, 2-3.

In case of perjury for swearing to attendance as witness, prosecutor competent, though liable to cost: State v. Wyatt, 3-56.

Where two or more persons on trial under one indictment for same offense, they are competent and compellable to give evidence for or against each other: State v. Frizell, 111-722; State v. Weaver, 93-595; State v. Rose, 61-406; State v. Smith, 86-705; see section 1799—provided evidence of person so testifying does not incriminate himself, State v. Smith, 86-705; State v. Medley, 178-710.

1794. Parties not competent witnesses in certain cases. No person who is or shall be a party to an action founded on a judgment rendered before the first day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, or on any bond executed prior to said date, or the assignor, endorser or any person who has at the time of the trial, or ever has had, any interest in such judgment or bond, shall be a competent witness on the trial of such action; but this section shall not apply to the trial of any action commenced before the first day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, nor to the trial of any action in which the defendant therein relies upon the plea of payment in fact, or pleads a counterclaim and also introduces himself as a witness to establish the truth of such plea, but in all such cases the rules of evidence shall prevail as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1633; Code, s. 580; C. C. P., s. 333; 1879, c. 183; 1883, c. 310, ss. 1, 2.

Cases construing section and amendments thereto: Coggins v. Flythe, 113-102; Alston v. Hawkins, 105-9; Smith v. Smith, 97-27; Grant v. Hughes, 96-177; Borden v. Gully, 92-127; Waddell v. Swann, 91-105; Clanton v. Price, 90-96; Brown v. Cooper, 89-237; Johnston v. Jones, 87-394; Morgan v. Bunting, 86-67; Pugh v. Grant, 86-40; Jones v. Henry, 84-320; Macay, ex parte, 84-63; Tabor v. Ward, 83-291; Wilkerson v. Buchanan, 83-296; Strudwick v. Broadnax, 83-403; Smith v. Hayes, 82-448; Cannon v. Morris, 81-139.

1795. A party to a transaction excluded, when the other party is dead. Upon the trial of an action, or the hearing upon the merits of a special proceeding, a party or a person interested in the event, or a person from, through or under whom such a party or interested person derives his interest or title by assignment or otherwise, shall not be examined as a witness in his own behalf or interest, or in behalf of the party succeeding to his title or interest, against the executor, administrator or survivor of a deceased person, or the committee of a lunatic, or a person deriving his title or interest from, through or under a deceased person or lunatic, by assignment or otherwise, concerning a personal transaction or communication between the witness and the deceased person or lunatic; except where the executor, administrator, survivor, committee or person so deriving title or interest is examined in his own behalf, or the testimony of the lunatic or deceased person is given in evidence concerning the same transaction or communication.

Rev., s. 1631; Code, s. 590; C. C. P., s. 343.

For analysis of section, see Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Sorrell v. McGehee, 178-279; Irvin v. R. R., 164-6; see, also, Deaver v. Deaver, 137-245; Isler v. Dewey, 67-93. For a general rule as to competency hereunder, see Peebles v. Stanley, 77-243.

The reason of the rule against testifying to transaction with deceased is the mouth of the deceased is forever closed: Smith v. Moore, 142-277; Bonner v. Stotesbury, 139-6; Halliburton v. Carson, 100-106; Pittman v. Camp, 94-285; Watts v. Warren, 108-514; Andrews v. McDaniel, 68-386.

Section applicable only to witnesses examined on commission, or on trial or hearing of action or special proceeding: Latham v. Dixon, 82-55—and has no reference to such affidavits as may be needed in progress of cause, Ibid.—nor to examination of a party under section 900, when other party has since died, Phillips v. Land Co., 174-542.

This section does not render witnesses to will incompetent, having no application to them: Cox v. Lumber Co., 124-78; Young's Will, 123-358; Vester v. Collins, 101-114.

This section has no application to transactions with the living: Lehew v. Hewett, 138-8—nor does it apply when there are associates of the deceased in the transaction who are living and are parties to action, Johnson v. Townsend, 117-338; Peacock v. Stott, 90-518; In re Peterson, 136-13; Highsmith v. Page, 161-355.

Section applies in dealings with lunatics: Nall v. Kelly, 169-717; Coltrain v. Lumber Co., 165-42.

Objection to evidence of conversation or transaction of witness with intestate must be taken in apt time: Norris v. Stewart, 105-455; Quinn v. Lattimore, 120-432; Armfield v. Colvert, 103-147; Meroney v. Overy, 64-312—otherwise same waived, Ibid. When the error in admitting such evidence is harmless, it will be disregarded: Quelch v. Futch, 175-694; Ray v. Ray, 175-290.

To enable court to pass on competency, witness must be permitted to testify to court whether transaction was between him and deceased or not: Lockhart v. Bell, 90-499.

Exclusion does not apply when witness has no interest in the result of the action; nor when he testifies to the contents of a lost paper; nor when he testifies in favor of administrator: In re Gorham, 177-271.

Although defendant, called by plaintiff, may be competent to testify as to transactions and conversation with deceased which are against interest of witness, he cannot be examined thereof against interest of other defendants: Weinstein v. Patrick, 75-344.

Where trustee of deed of trust dead and property conveyed by substituted trustee to defendant, trustor not excluded from being witness for plaintiff who also claimed title through him: Isler v. Dewey, 67-93.

Notwithstanding restrictions contained in section, person may as heretofore testify under book-debt law: Leggett v. Glover, 71-211. But cannot swear to itemized account under section 1789: Nall v. Kelly, 169-717.

Feme plaintiff in action to recover land against defendants who claimed land under deed alleged to have been executed by her and husband to ancestor of defendant, is not disqualified under section to prove that she was never privately examined by officer taking probate, such officer being dead and representative being party to action: Spivey v. Rose, 120-163.

Where witness incompetent under section to testify as to transaction between himself and deceased person, error to receive witness's testimony of subsequent unsworn declarations made to others in regard to same transaction: Perry v. Jackson, 84-230. Defendant not permitted to testify in own behalf for purpose of contradicting former witness whose evidence tended to show that defendant fraudulently procured assignment from person deceased: Bushee v. Surles, 77-62.

Administrator of deceased guardian is competent to show execution of bond by debtor to his intestate, evidence being offered to affect interest of a living person: Thompson v. Humphrey, 83-416; Williams v. Cooper, 113-286.

In proceeding by administrator to sell land for assets to pay debts, competent for widow to prove declarations of intestate husband (while in possession of land) that he paid for it with funds belonging to her: Gidney v. Moore, 86-485.

Neither of parties, plaintiff nor defendant, whether claiming as original parties or as assignees, is competent witness in regard to conversations and transactions between himself and assignees of deceased: McCanless v. Reynolds, 74-301.

This section is intended to exclude even indirect testimony of interested witness as to transaction or communication with deceased: Stocks v. Cannon, 139-60. The exclusion applies when the party testifying and the administrator are both defendants but their interests are in conflict: Sutton v. Wells, 175-1.

Though direct evidence of conversation with person deceased may be incompetent, yet rehearsal of same in conversation with son of deceased competent under the facts of this case, as part of res gestæ: Tredwell v. Graham, 88-208.

Notwithstanding section, one may testify to transaction by opposite party when against own interest: Sorrell v. McGehee, 178-279; Price v. Edwards, 178-493; Seals v. Seals, 165-409; In re Fowler, 159-203; Tredwell v. Graham, 88-208.

Section 1794 does not interfere with operation of this section: Waddell v. Swann, 91-105.

Executor competent to testify to transactions between intestate and defendant of which he has knowledge, which are in favor of estate of intestate and adverse to defendant: Pittman v. Camp, 94-283.

Testimony of executor, defendant in action to collect debt due by decedent, as to statements of testator that he owed debt and wanted same paid, not incompetent: Halliburton v. Carson, 100-99.

Defendant administrator incompetent to testify in reference to land transaction between intestate and himself in suit against him by creditors of estate to subject land which alleged to have been fraudulently conveyed by intestate to defendant: Grier v. Cagle, 87-377.

In action by administrator of deceased surety on note on which judgment secured, defendant surety cannot testify that intestate was coprincipal on note, so as to entitle him to contribution: Robinson v. McDowell, 130-246.

Where decedent mortgaged land alleged by plaintiff to have been purchased jointly by himself and deceased, neither vendor nor mortgagee competent witness for plaintiff in action against heirs to prove transaction with deceased: Carey v. Carey, 104-171.

Sons of grantor in deed, which grantor is suing heirs of grantee to have deed declared mortgage, are competent witnesses to show transactions between grantor and grantee: Porter v. White, 128-42.

A party may testify to any independent fact not derived from a transaction or communication with deceased: In re Will of Saunders, 177-156.

WITNESS IS INCOMPETENT HEREUNDER, WHEN. The witness, to be incompetent, must offer to testify as to a personal transaction or communication between himself and the person deceased: Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Poston v. Jones, 122-536; Gupton v. Hawkins, 126-81; Williams v. Cooper, 113-286; Armfield v. Colvert, 103-147; Loftin v. Loftin, 96-94; McRae v. Malloy, 90-521; Lockhart v. Bell, 86-443; Bushee v. Surles, 77-64; Ballard v. Ballard, 75-190; Kirk v. Barnhart, 74-653; Jackson v. Evans, 73-128; Andrews v. McDaniel, 68-386, and numerous other cases—on behalf of himself or of some one succeeding to his title or interest, Wetherington v. Williams, 134-280; In re Worth's Will, 129-223; Sumner v. Candler, 92-634—against the executor, administrator, survivor, etc., who must be party to action, Ledbetter v. Graham, 122-753; Spivey v. Rose, 120-163; Sumner v. Candler, 92-634; Hawkins v. Carpenter, 85-482; Shields v. Smith, 79-517; Thomas v. Kelly, 74-416; Howerton v. Lattimer, 68-370—or against a surety for deceased, where it may eventually charge deceased, McCowan v. Davenport, 134-528; Hawkins v. Carpenter, 85-484; Bryant v. Morris, 69-444; Lewis v. Fort, 75-251; but see Shields v. Smith, 79-517.

AS TO WHO IS "A PARTY" HEREUNDER. Member of a church congregation, the trustee of which is party on behalf of congregation, is not a party in interest hereunder: Lawrence v. Hyman, 79-209. Member of board of county commissioners is a party hereunder in action brought by board on behalf of county: Comrs. v. Lash, 89-159. A witness, whose interest is really that of a plaintiff, is treated as a plaintiff hereunder: Barlow v. Norfleet, 72-535—and a defendant, who is in substance a plaintiff, is so treated, and is not allowed to testify as to personal transaction with deceased against the administrator, etc., Weinstein v. Patrick, 75-344; Owens v. Phelps, 92-235, and cases cited. In trial of action on note against administrator of deceased maker, cashier of plaintiff bank, payee of note, is party in interest and disqualified to testify as to conversations with defendant's intestate: Banking Co. v. Walker, 121-115. Party must be named as such in process: Mason v. McCormick, 75-263—and no person proper party who has no interest in subject of action, Ibid. Propounders and caveaters to contested will are parties to proceeding within spirit and meaning of section: Pepper v. Broughton, 80-251.

AS TO PERSONS "INTERESTED IN THE EVENT." Interest disqualifying person other than party as witness under section is interest in event of action: Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643; Ledbetter v. Graham, 122-753; Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Mull v. Martin, 85-406; Condor v. Secrest, 149-201. The interest in the event hereunder must be a legal and pecuniary interest: Helsabeck v. Doub, 167-205; Jones v. Emory, 115-163; Sutton v. Walters, 118-495—not a sentimental interest, Ibid.; Henderson v. McLain, 146-329. Interest in subject-matter of the action will not disqualify; it must be interest "in the event": Lemly v. Ellis, 143-200; Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Mull v. Martin, 85-406. The test is whether witness bears such relation to controversy that verdict and judgment can be used against him in another action: Jones v. Emory, 115-158; Mull v. Martin, 85-406—or where verdict can be used for him, Williams v. Johnston, 82-288.

A person is considered to be "interested in the event" hereunder where he is a surviving partner and his deceased partner's representative is being sued on a firm obligation: Moore v. Palmer, 132-969; Fertilizer Co. v. Rippey, 124-643, 123-656; Lyon v. Pender, 118-147; Sikes v. Parker, 95-232—or where he is a surety on the prosecution bond, Carson v. Ins. Co., 171-135; McGowan v. Davenport, 134-352; McLeary v. Norment, 84-236; Mason v. McCormick, 75-262—or where he is a member of a corporation which is a party in interest, Comrs. v. Lash, 89-159; but see Lawrence v. Hyman, 79-209—or where he is assignor of bond sued upon, Jackson v. Evans, 73-128; Woodhouse v. Simmons, 73-30—or where he is to be paid $200 if plaintiff recovers, Williams v. Johnston, 82-288—or where he has contracted to buy the land involved in suit, Love v. Harbin, 87-249—or where he is devisee under will and a subsequent will is sought to be impeached, Hathaway v. Hathaway, 91-139—or where he is to receive benefit from a rescission of contract, which rescission is attempted to be set aside, Owens v. Phelps, 92-231—or where he is assignor of a contract to convey land and issue is between assignee and those claiming under deceased vendee in respect of payments made to him by such vendee, Shields v. Smith, 104-57—or where he is a codefendant with other heirs in partition proceeding, and it is sought to establish contract between father and children that certain owely should be paid by each, Barbee v. Barbee, 108-581—or where he is assignee of deceased and assignment attacked for fraud by creditors in action against administrator, Watts v. Warren, 108-514—or where witness's husband is caveator in contest over will and is heir at law of testator, Linebarger v. Linebarger, 143-229.

In an action to set aside a deed, the grantee is incompetent to testify as to conversation with grantor: Linker v. Linker, 167-651—so as between grantor and heirs of grantee, Boney v. Boney, 161-615; Pope v. Pope, 176-283.

In an action by the husband or wife against representative of deceased, the one not a party may testify: McCurry v. Purgason, 170-463; Helsabeck v. Doub, 167-205; Little v. Ratliff, 126-262; Hopkins v. Bowers, 108-298; Norris v. Stewart, 105-455; Bradsher v. Brooks, 71-322.

In action to foreclose mortgage, where defendant pleads usury, testimony of son of defendant, who resides on mortgaged land without payment of rent, as to transaction with plaintiff's intestate, not incompetent under section: Bennett v. Best, 142-168. Testimony of sister of plaintiff, to whom note similar to that sued upon was executed, that before and after date of note father "was very bright," not objectionable under section: Ducker v. Whitson, 112-44.

Attorney who acted for plaintiff in transaction with person who has since become insane is competent to testify in behalf of plaintiff as to such transaction, insane person being represented by guardian, and attorney having interest in action: Propst v. Fisher, 104-214. Where note given attorney for collection against person since deceased and attorney was to receive portion of amount thereof for services, but never collected anything and returned same to executor of client, he is competent witness as to transaction: Wise v. Beaman, 96-122. Fact that attorney had interest in event of suit on account of tax fee does not disqualify him from testifying as to transaction or communication with person deceased: Syme v. Broughton, 85-367. Declarations of deceased attorney contained in affidavit of defendant admissible in evidence where it appears that neither estate of attorney nor interest of any one claiming from him can be affected by event of action: Molyneux v. Huey, 81-106.

In action against person for damages for breach of warranty in deed, witness not interested in recovery not disqualified by section, though he may have interest in land: Lemly v. Ellis, 143-200. Fact of payment to deceased person for land purchased of him can be proved when neither witness nor estate of deceased vendor interested in result of action: Cade v. Davis, 96-139. Mortgagee competent witness as against deceased mortgagor to fact of payment of debt and cancellation of mortgage to secure it, where it appears that witness has no interest in controversy: Carey v. Carey, 108-267.

In action on bond against executor of deceased surety, principal obligor competent witness to prove execution of bond by defendant's testator: Peebles v. Stanley, 77-243. Surety on guardian bond, principal being dead, competent witness to prove insolvency of bond: Topping v. Windley, 99-4.

In suit by deputy sheriff against administrator of intestate to recover sum of money which deputy had been compelled to pay sheriff by reason of default of intestate, sheriff had no interest in event of action, and competent witness under section: Allen v. Gilkey, 86-65.

Testimony of witness interested in event of action, as to transaction or communications between himself and deceased, from whom defendants derive title, not competent against them; extent of interest not being material: Campbell v. Everhart, 139-504. In controversy as to which of two parties was grantee of lost deed, grantor, when he stands between the litigants, is competent to testify that he made deed to person since deceased: Gregg v. Hill, 80-255. Witness interested in result of action may testify as to transaction between deceased, under whom she claims her interest, and adverse party: Johnson v. Cameron, 136-243.

In an action to declare a trust as to land bought by one person for another, both persons being dead, witnesses interested in the result of the action cannot testify: Harrell v. Hagan, 150-242. See, also, Grissom v. Grissom, 170-97.

AS TO "PERSONAL TRANSACTION OR COMMUNICATION" WITH DECEASED. Term "personal transaction" in section intended to describe whole of negotiation or treaty between original parties to it out of which cause of action arose: Cheatham v. Bobbitt, 118-343. The transaction or communication, to be incompetent, must be between witness and deceased: Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Gupton v. Hawkins, 126-81; Zollicoffer v. Zollicoffer, 168-326; Poston v. Jones, 122-536; Williams v. Cooper, 113-286; Armfield v. Colvert, 103-147; Loftin v. Loftin, 96-94; McRae v. Malloy, 90-521; Lockhart v. Bell, 86-443; Ballard v. Ballard, 75-190; Bushee v. Surlles, 77-64; Kirk v. Barnhart, 74-653; Andrews v. McDaniel, 68-386; Jaekson v. Evans, 73-128—and it must appear that knowledge of witness derived from personal transaction with deceased, Thompson v. Onley, 96-9.

Testimony of a representation to grantee, the witness, by grantor, now deceased, that deed grantee was about to sign in grantor's favor was really a will, is evidence of personal transaction with deceased hereunder: Smith v. Moore, 142-277—as is also testimony tending to show services rendered by witness which were accepted by deceased upon implied promise to pay, Witty v. Barham, 147-479; Dunn v. Currie, 141-125; Davidson v. Bardin, 139-1; Stocks v. Cannon, 139-60; Kirk v. Barnhart, 74-653—as is also testimony that deceased had or had not made demand upon witness for payment, Davis v. Evans, 139-440—as also testimony by mortgagee in an action to foreclose mortgage given by feme covert to secure debt of husband, that debt had not been paid, McGowan v. Davenport, 134-526—as also testimony by defendant as to parol contract between plaintiff's intestate and himself under which intestate placed improvements on land, Luton v. Badham, 129-7—as also testimony by defendant claiming a set-off for goods sold plaintiff's intestate that no one had paid him for the articles, Angel v. Angel, 127-451—as also testimony by plaintiff to repel the bar of the statute that payments were made by defendant's intestate at certain times upon note due by intestate, Gupton v. Hawkins, 126-81.

Testimony of plaintiff, claiming under deceased mortgagor, that payments had been made by mortgagor on mortgage note, is not admissible, Simpson v. Simpson, 107-552—as also testimony that witness handed a certain book to deceased on day of marriage, Lane v. Rogers, 113-171—as also testimony by plaintiff that deceased executed certain partnership agreement with him, Sawyer v. Grandy, 113-42—as also testimony of a partner that he signed a certain partnership agreement to which name of deceased partner also attached, Ibid.—as also testimony of alleged widow to fact of marriage and having lived with deceased husband, when marriage is an issue in action to which heirs of supposed husband are parties, Hopkins v. Bowers, 111-175; Woodward v. Blue, 107-409—as also testimony of plaintiff in action on note, where maker dead, that one who purports to have made cross-marks to paper, as witness, did in fact make marks thereto: Bright v. Mareom, 121-86—as also testimony of children who hold claim against deceased father, that same has not been paid and that he never informed them of his indebtedness to them, Dunn v. Beaman, No. 2, 126-768—as also testimony of plaintiff that deed alleged to have been made to deceased ancestor of defendant by him was a forgery, Spivey v. Rose, 120-163.

Testimony of brother to whom assignment made by defendant's intestate of certain insurance policies, as to such assignment, in action to set it aside brought by creditors, is not admissible: Watts v. Warren, 108-514—as also testimony by plaintiff, in action against defendant who claims under deceased, as to date of debt against deceased on which judgment was taken, Buie v. Scott, 107-181; see Sumner v. Candler, 86-71—as also testimony of surviving partner that defendant's intestate was a member of partnership, Moore v. Palmer, 132-969; Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124-643, 123-656; Lyon v. Pender, 118-147; Sikes v. Parker, 95-232—as also testimony by plaintiff of the contents of written agreement with deceased, Hussey v. Kirkman, 95-63; Sawyer v. Grandy, 113-42—as also testimony of defendant, in action on debt due plaintiff's intestate, as to time and place of the signing of receipt by said intestate, Sumner v. Candler, 86-71—as also testimony of maker of note payable to guardian, since deceased, to prove payment thereof before his assignment to plaintiff, Lewis v. Fort, 75-251—as also testimony of assignee of defendant's intestate of certain bonds, subject of action, as to the real transaction, assignee having assigned same to plaintiff, Jackson v. Evans, 73-128—as also testimony by obligee of bond to prove transaction between himself and deceased, although he may have previously assigned the bond, Woodhouse v. Simmons, 73-30—as also testimony by administrator, upon issue as to assets, tending to prove discharge of his prima facie indebtedness to estate, Whitesides v. Green, 64-307.

Interested witness may testify to mental capacity of deceased, and give the circumstances upon which he bases his opinion: Bissett v. Bailey, 176-43; Plemmons v. Murphey, 176-671; In re Chrisman's Will, 175-420; In re Will of Stocks, 175-224; State v. Cooper, 170-719; Rakestraw v. Pratt, 160-436; Ducker v. Whitson, 112-44.

Plaintiff suing in her own right and as administratrix of her mother for services rendered defendant's intestate cannot testify: Brown v. Adams, 174-490.

TRANSACTIONS WITH OTHERS THAN DECEASED, OR WITH DECEASED IN PRESENCE OF OTHERS, AFFECTING HIS PROPERTY. Transaction with attorneys of deceased, before his death and in his presence, is a transaction with deceased hereunder: Smith v. Moore, 142-277.

In action to correct deed to plaintiff's wife, who is dead, plaintiff can testify as to what took place between him and grantor, who is living: Lehew v. Hewitt, 138-6—and fact that his wife's estate affected by evidence does not render same incompetent, Ibid.

On issue devisavit vel non it is not competent to show by caveator's conversation with testator, though same was in presence of person interested in action at time of trial, but not at time of conversation: In re Peterson, 136-13.

Plaintiff is competent witness to testify as to contract with agent now deceased: Roberts v. R. R., 109-670; see Howerton v. Lattimer, 68-370; Walker v. Cooper, 159-536; Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-284; Morgan v. Bunting, 86-67; Gwaltney v. Assurance Co., 132-925.

Conversation and understanding with plaintiff's testator is incompetent hereunder, but a rehearsal of conversation with agent of testator is competent as part of res gestæ: Gilmer v. McNairy, 69-335. Defendant cannot testify as to conversation between third person, now deceased, and plaintiff's testator in regard to subject of controversy: Halyburton v. Dobson, 65-88.

In action by widow against administratrix to compel payment of plaintiff's share in estate, testimony of defendant incompetent to prove conversation between decedent and third person: Wilson v. Featherston, 122-747—and testimony of such third person, who was a bailee of property in controversy at the time of the conversation, and is a party defendant to the action, is also incompetent, Ibid.

Mere fact of interest of witness does not exclude him from testifying of transactions with third persons which affect property of deceased: Watts v. Warren, 108-514. Witness party to action not prohibited by section from testifying as to communications made to other witnesses: Waddell v. Swann, 91-105.

Party to action by administrator of deceased to enforce contract entered into between such party and deceased not competent to testify to conversation in presence of deceased with his agents and attorneys as to execution of contract: McRae v. Malloy, 90-521; Smith v. Moore, 142-277—for though conversation was with attorneys, yet they were acting for the deceased, in his presence and under his direction, and the substance of the transaction was the making of the contract and personal to the deceased, and though agents or attorneys may be examined by either party to the suit, yet the disqualification of the party to the cause is not removed, as the statute makes no exception where others were present, McRae v. Malloy, 90-521.

Physician cannot testify as to professional visits to deceased: Knight v. Everett, 152-118.

Mother, as administratrix, suing for wrongful death of son, may testify as to son's contributing to her support: Irvin v. R. R., 164-6.

DECISIONS HOLDING THAT CERTAIN FACTS NOT AMOUNTING TO TRANSACTIONS HEREUNDER MAY BE TESTIFIED TO. A witness who is excluded under this section from testifying to any personal communication or transaction with deceased person may, nevertheless, be competent to testify as to what he saw deceased do, or to any fact which does not include a personal transaction or communication: McCall v. Wilson, 101-598.

Interested witness cannot testify that deceased signed certain papers, but he can testify as to whether signature is in handwriting of deceased: McEwan v. Brown, 176-249; Sawyer v. Grandy, 113-42; Ferebee v. Pritchard, 112-83; Peoples v. Maxwell, 64-313—and that entries on books are in handwriting of deceased, Armfield v. Colvert, 103-147—and that certain paper-writing is in handwriting of deceased, Hussey v. Kirkman, 95-63; Brush v. Steed, 91-226; Buie v. Scott, 107-181; Sumner v. Candler, 86-71; Peoples v. Maxwell, 64-313.

Though plaintiff cannot prove special contract with defendant's intestate for services of slaves before emancipation, yet competent to prove that intestate had slaves in possession and enjoyed their services: Gray v. Cooper, 65-183.

Defendant may testify that bond given to person deceased, the subject-matter of suit, was in blank as to amount payable when executed by him, having been filled up without authority in his absence: Isenhour v. Isenhour, 64-640; Brower v. Hughes, 64-642; Wester v. Bailey, 118-195.

Whether plaintiff left husband's home of her own volition, or by compulsion, is an inquiry not necessarily involving transaction or communication with husband: Hicks v. Hicks, 142-231.

Executor who is a devisee not disqualified to testify as to transactions occurring after death of testator, they not being transactions with deceased: Cox v. Lumber Co., 124-78.

Testimony of plaintiff, in action against administrator for money loaned his intestate, as to mark on almanac and when placed there, is competent when it appeared from the other testimony that mark not placed on almanac at time money was loaned, and was therefore not a transaction with deceased: McArter v. Rhea, 122-614. In action against administrator for fees incurred as witness for his intestate, plaintiff not precluded from testifying that he was a witness and as to number of days he attended, where witness tickets lost by burning of courthouse, for the reason that these are facts of which others equally with intestate have knowledge: Johnson v. Rieh, 118-268.

Testimony that witness carried supplies to decedent during sickness not such evidence of conversation or transaction as to make witness incompetent under section: Cowan v. Layburn, 116-526. Competent for assignee of judgment against decedent to prove by own oath that judgment not paid, in proceeding to revive it and issue to execution, Latham v. Dixon, 82-55.

Widow and devisee of testator competent witness to prove that script propounded was found among valuable papers of deceased, as she does not testify as to any personal transaction or communication: Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-542. Widow may testify that she saw deceased place a deed in his trunk: Carroll v. Smith, 163-204. Interested witness may testify that he saw a book in hands of intestate, but not that intestate handed him the book: Lane v. Rogers, 113-171. Nor can persons interested in a will testify that testator deposited the will with them: McEwan v. Brown, 176-249, overruling Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592.

Evidence of statements of deceased witness made during trial not inhibited under section as transactions with deceased persons: Costen v. McDowell, 107-546. Fact in no way involving transaction or communication does not come within inhibition of section: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137.

Plaintiff competent to testify that her father, since deceased, gave her money to purchase land in controversy, when none of parties to action claimed any interest under father: Lofitin v. Lofitin, 96-94.

Mere entry of credit on bond due intestate's estate not sufficient to raise presumption of fact that intestate present at time credit entered, where it is proved that intestate's business was conducted by agent: Lockhart v. Bell, 90-499—but to raise presumption, nature of transaction must be such as to require presence of deceased person in respect to it, Ibid.

Witness, principal debtor in action by plaintiff against estate of deceased surety, not disabled by section from testifying for defendant administrator as to what occurred in transaction between plaintiff and deceased: Kesler v. Mauney, 89-369.

Witness offered to prove fact which occurred out of presence of and in no sense a transaction with deceased person, held competent under section: Lockhart v. Bell, 86-443.

Where plaintiff sues defendant's intestate for value of an animal, competent for plaintiff to testify as to value of such animal, and that he had owned but one such animal since the war, as this is not evidence of communication with deceased person, but of substantive and independent fact: March v. Verble, 79-19.

In action of ejectment, vice-president of defendant company competent to prove where person said certain corner of land was located, it not being a transaction or communication between him and any one under whom plaintiff claimed title to land: McNeely v. Lumber Co., 130-637.

EFFECT OF ADMINISTRATOR OR SURVIVOR, ETC., TESTIFYING AS TO TRANSACTION. Where executor or administrator examined in own behalf concerning transaction or communication with decedent, other party to action competent to testify concerning same transaction or communication: Burnett v. Savage, 92-10; Davison v. Land Co., 126-704; Cheatham v. Bobbitt, 118-343; Hughes v. Boone, 102-137; Hawkins v. Carpenter, 85-482; Knight v. Killebrew, 86-402; Murphy v. Ray, 73-588—and other party or witness interested in the event is restricted in reply to those particular transactions and communications to which testimony of deceased person or his representative was pertinent, Pope v. Pope, 176-283; Armfield v. Colvert, 103-147; Hughes v. Boone, 102-137; Smith v. Smith, 101-461; Burnett v. Savage, 92-11; Sumner v. Candler, 92-634; Hopkins v. Bowers, 108-298; Kesler v. Mauney, 89-369; Redman v. Redman, 70-257.

The personal representative "opens the door" only when he is a voluntary witness: Sorrell v. McGehee, 178-279. When personal representative opens door by testifying to transaction or communication with decedent it is not his province, but that of court, to decide what testimony of adverse party may come in: Cheatham v. Bobbitt, 118-343.

Where husband of administratrix, not being party to action and having no interest in event thereof, testified, same does not render admissible testimony of defendant as to transaction between deceased and defendant: Hall v. Holloman, 136-34.

Where plaintiff introduced defendants before jury for inspection to show they were of negro blood, but did not examine them as witnesses, this did not open door for defendants to testify as to any communication or transaction with deceased ancestor: Hopkins v. Bowers, 108-233.

Administrator can testify that intestate delivered goods to defendant without "opening the door," as delivery is an independent fact: Cheatham v. Bobbitt, 118-343—but if he testifies that defendant purchased goods of intestate he "opens the door" for defendant to negative same with his own version of the transaction, Ibid. Where plaintiff, administrator of decedent, testified only to execution of bond, this did not confer upon defendant right to testify as to payments made by him on bond, nor to cross-examine plaintiff administrator in regard to such alleged payments: Williams v. Cooper, 113-286. Where executor who was subscribing witness to receipt given by defendant to his intestate proves execution of same on trial, he thereby opens door, and defendant can testify as to transaction between himself and deceased connected with execution of receipt: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137.

Evidence of defendant as witness for plaintiff that plaintiff's testator contributed certain sum to partnership capital did not open door so as to permit defendants to testify as to other transactions between themselves and plaintiff's intestate: Armfield v. Colvert, 103-147.

When plaintiff examines defendant as to a matter not within inhibition of section, defendant is not thereby at liberty to discharge the prohibition and testify to any and all transactions with deceased: Hopkins v. Bowers, 108-298.

Incompetent for defendant claiming under deceased mother to testify as to alleged agreement regarding the land in controversy on part of decedent plaintiff, who claimed as devisee of mother, not having offered to give evidence concerning matter: Blake v. Blake, 120-77.

GIVING IN EVIDENCE THE TESTIMONY OF DECEASED. Where deposition of decedent introduced in behalf of defendant, both parties claiming under deceased, defendant may testify in own behalf in respect to same transaction: Nixon v. McKinney, 105-23. Competent for plaintiff's witness to testify to what deceased maker of note sued upon testified on former trial as to its payment, as same does not come within section: Worth v. Wrenn, 144-656. Testimony of deceased person given in evidence regarding transaction opens door for living party interested to give evidence concerning same: Sumner v. Candler, 92-634.

AS TO DECLARATIONS OF, AND CONVERSATIONS HAD WITH, DECEASED OR HIS AGENT. In action involving validity of deed of trust, where trustor dead and estate insolvent, son of trustor competent witness as to decedent's declarations concerning trust: Gidney v. Logan, 79-214.

Executor may testify as to declarations made by deceased legatee in her own favor in presence of deviser: Medlin v. Simpson, 144-397.

An interested witness may testify to declarations of deceased person relative to boundary lines: Yow v. Hamilton, 136-357.

Rehearsal of conversation with deceased in a subsequent conversation with his agent is competent as part of res gestæ: Gilmer v. McNairy, 69-335.

Where agent sent to notify person to go to see principal, such person cannot after death of principal testify to declarations of agent as to statements made to him by principal: Holt v. Johnson, 129-138.

Personal representative cannot introduce declarations of deceased unless same are part of some conversation or statements proven by opposite party: Johnson v. Armfield, 130-575.

Declarations of deceased attorney contained in affidavit supporting motion to vacate a judgment are not barred by this section: Molyneux v. Huey, 81-106.

In action by executor against husband, the wife, who is not party to action, is competent to prove a declaration made by deceased to her husband: Bradsher v. Brooks, 71-322. Plaintiff is competent to testify to conversation with an agent now deceased: Roberts v. R. R., 109-670; Howerton v. Lattimer, 68-370; Walker v. Cooper, 159-536; Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-284.

Section merely referred to in McKee v. Lineberger, 87-186; Macey, ex parte, 84-65; Henry v. Willard, 73-43; Meroney v. Avery, 64-313; Presnell v. Garrison, 121-366, 122-596; Autry v. Floyd, 127-187; State v. Raby, 121-683; Crenshaw v. Johnson, 120-270; Quinn v. Lattimore, 120-433; Clark v. Hodge, 116-761; Coggins v. Flythe, 113-105; Perkins v. Berry, 103-143; Roberts v. Preston, 100-248; Smith v. Smith, 97-28; Long v. Miller, 93-233; Wilson v. Lineberger, 88-424.

1796. Executors may testify as to estates in their hands. In all actions now pending or which may be hereafter instituted upon judgments rendered before the first day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, or upon any bond or promissory note under seal executed prior to said date, wherein a reference has been or may be ordered by the court to ascertain the condition or state of the assets belonging to the estate of any deceased debtor in the hands of his administrator or executor, who is or may be defendant in such actions, it shall be competent for the defendant administrator or executor of such deceased debtor to testify and be examined as a witness in his own behalf concerning his administration upon the estate of his intestate or decedent. When in such cases the defendant administrator or executor testifies or is examined as a witness in his own behalf, it shall also be competent for the plaintiff to testify and be examined in the same in regard to such administration.

Purpose of section stated in Coggins v. Flythe, 113-106.

1797. Communications between attorney and client. In cases where fraud upon the state is charged it shall not be a sufficient cause to excuse any one from imparting any evidence or information legally required of him, because he came into the possession of such evidence or information by his position as counsel or attorney before the consummation of such fraud, and any person refusing for such cause to answer any question when legally required so to do shall be guilty of contempt, and punished at the discretion of the court or other body demanding such information: Provided, that it shall not be competent to introduce any admissions thus made on the trial of any persons making the same.

Rev., s. 1620; Code, s. 1349; 1874-5, c. 213.

Communications to counsel in case of fraud, where state concerned, not privileged: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137. What is privileged communication: Allen v. Shiffman, 172-578.

1798. Communications between physician and patient. No person, duly authorized to practice physic or surgery, shall be required to disclose any information which he may have acquired in attending a patient in a professional character, and which information was necessary to enable him to prescribe for such patient as a physician, or to do any act for him as a surgeon: Provided, that the presiding judge of a superior court may compel such disclosure, if in his opinion the same is necessary to a proper administration of justice.

Rev., s. 1621; 1885, c. 159.

Person in application for insurance may waive right to object to evidence of the physician acquired while attending him, and physician may be compelled to testify: Fuller v. Knights of Pythias, 129-318. Construction of words, "which information was necessary to enable him to prescribe": Smith v. Lumber Co., 147-62.

1799. Defendant in criminal action competent but not compellable to testify. In the trial of all indictments, complaints, or other proceedings against persons charged with the commission of crimes, offenses or misdemeanors, the person so charged is, at his own request, but not otherwise, a competent witness, and his failure to make such request shall not create any presumption against him. But every such person examined as a witness shall be subject to cross-examination as other witnesses. Except as above provided, nothing in this section shall render any person, who in any criminal proceeding is charged with the commission of a criminal offense, competent or compellable to give evidence against himself, nor render any person compellable to answer any question tending to criminate himself.

Rev., ss. 1634, 1635; Code, ss. 1353, 1354; 1881, c. 89, s. 3; 1881, c. 110, ss. 2, 3; 1856-7, c. 23; 1866, c. 43, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 4.

Defendant in criminal action can only be examined as witness at own request: State v. Ellis, 97-447—but if he does make request and is examined his statements can be held as evidence against him, Ibid. He then goes before the jury, both as witness and defendant: State v. Atwood, 176-704. He is subject to cross-examination: State v. Cloninger, 149-567; State v. Simonds, 154-197; State v. Allen, 107-805. His general character can be proved as in case of other witnesses: State v. Spurling, 118-1250; State v. Goff, 117-761; State v. Johnson, 100-494; State v. Davis, 92-767; State v. Lawhorn, 88-637; State v. Spier, 86-602; State v. Efler, 85-585. And he waives the privilege not to answer questions which tend to criminate him: State v. Simonds, 154-197; State v. Allen, 107-805; State v. Thomas, 98-599; State v. Lawhorn, 88-634.

Defendant may introduce evidence of good character without becoming a witness: State v. Hice, 117-782. This opens the way for the state to prove his character bad: Ibid. When he becomes a witness in his own behalf, he may introduce evidence of good character to support his testimony and as substantive evidence: State v. Cloninger, 149-567—and the state may attack his character, Ibid. The effect of state's evidence of bad character was to impeach his credibility or rebut evidence of good character: State v. Traylor, 121-674; but his character is also to be considered in determining his guilt or innocence, State v. Atwood, 176-704; State v. Wentz, 176-745.

Where defendant, in prosecution for another crime, testifies in own behalf after being informed of privilege not to testify, admission so made competent evidence against him in subsequent trial, State v. Simpson, 133-676. Where person charged with offense before mayor of town is called to the stand by his counsel and testifies in own behalf, caution prescribed by section 4561 not being given, defendant deemed to be testifying under this section: State v. Hawkins, 115-712. Evidence of defendant testifying in his own behalf is to be considered by jury, and he has right to have jury instructed as to effect of his evidence if believed by them: State v. Gilmer, 97-429; see State v. Holloway, 117-730. Defendant can testify as to any fact which would be competent to prove by any other witness: State v. Bethel, 97-459.

Declarations of one defendant are not admissible as against codefendant: State v. Collins, 121-667.

As to instructing jury on credibility of defendant's testimony, see State v. Holloway, 117-730; State v. Gilmer, 97-429.

Defendant can be made to testify for or against codefendant if testimony does not tend to incriminate himself: State v. Medley, 178-710; State v. Smith, 86-705; State v. Weaver, 93-595; State v. Rose, 61-406.

Failure to testify for himself raises no presumption against him: State v. Bynum, 175-777. Section prohibits comment upon fact that defendant does not go upon stand to testify: State v. Harrison, 145-414; Hudson v. Jordan, 108-12; Goodman v. Sapp, 102-477—but does not forbid prosecuting attorney making such comments upon testimony as would have been legitimate before enactment of section, for while section enlarges privileges of prisoner, it does not abridge rights of state's officers: State v. Weddington, 103-364.

One charged with crime, who turns state's witness against associates under assurance that his disclosures shall not be used against him, may be cross-examined as to what he told counsel about the offense while he was himself charged: State v. Condry, 50-418.

The privilege of refusing to answer an incriminating question is personal to the witness and to him only: State v. Morgan, 133-743—and not error for judge to caution witness that he need tell nothing to incriminate himself, State v. Weaver, 93-595. What is sufficient protection against self-crimination: State v. Medley, 178-710; Smith v. Smith, 116-386.

Defendant can be required to furnish evidence (sometimes resulting in being against himself) by making him fit his shoes to tracks: State v. Mallett, 125-725; State v. Graham, 74-646; State v. Lindsey, 78-501. See, also, State v. Neville, 175-731; State v. Thompson, 161-238. Private papers taken from defendant against his will are admissible: State v. Fowler, 172-905; State v. Wallace, 162-623.

1800. Testimony enforced in certain criminal investigations; immunity. If any justice of the peace, magistrate of police, mayor of a town, or judge of the supreme or superior courts shall have good reason to believe that any person within his jurisdiction has knowledge of the existence and establishment of any faro-bank, faro-table or other gaming table prohibited by law, or of any place where intoxicating liquors are sold contrary to law, in any town or county within his jurisdiction, such person not being minded to make voluntary information thereof on oath, then it shall be lawful for such justice of the peace, magistrate, mayor, or judge to issue to the sheriff of the county or to any constable of the town or township in which such faro-bank, faro-table, gaming table, or place where intoxicating liquors are sold contrary to law is supposed to be, a subpoena, capias ad testificandum, or other summons in writing, commanding such person to appear immediately before such justice of the peace, magistrate, mayor or judge and give evidence on oath as to what he may know touching the existence, establishment and whereabouts of such faro-bank, faro-table or other gaming table, or place where intoxicating liquors are sold contrary to law, and the name and personal description of the keeper thereof. Such evidence, when obtained, shall be considered and held in law as an information on oath, and the justice, magistrate, mayor or judge may thereupon proceed to seize and arrest such keeper and destroy such table, or issue process therefor as provided by law. No person shall be excused, on any prosecution, from testifying touching any unlawful gaming done by himself or others; but no discovery made by the witness upon such examination shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned of the offenses so done or participated in by him.

Rev., ss. 3721, 1637; Code, ss. 1215, 1050; R. C., c. 35, s. 50; 1858-9, c. 34, s. 1; 1889, c. 355; 1913, c. 141.

See section 2143. Section not in violation of either state or federal constitution: In re Briggs, 135-118—and witness may be compelled to testify under section, although answer tends to criminate him, State v. Morgan, 133-743; In re Briggs, 135-118. Word "gaming" defined: State v. Morgan, 133-745.

1801. Husband and wife as witnesses in civil actions. In any trial or inquiry in any suit, action or proceeding in any court, or before any person having, by law or consent of parties, authority to examine witnesses or hear evidence, the husband or wife of any party thereto, or of any person in whose behalf any such suit, action or proceeding is brought, prosecuted, opposed or defended, shall, except as herein stated, be competent and compellable to give evidence, as any other witness on behalf of any party to such suit, action or proceeding. Nothing herein shall render any husband or wife competent or compellable to give evidence for or against the other in any action or proceeding in consequence of adultery, or in any action or proceeding for divorce on account of adultery (except to prove the fact of marriage); or in any action or proceeding for or on account of criminal conversation, except that in actions of criminal conversation brought by the husband in which the character of the wife is assailed she shall be a competent witness to testify in refutation of such charges. No husband or wife shall be compellable to disclose any confidential communication made by one to the other during their marriage.

Rev., s. 1636; Code, s. 588; C. C. P., s. 341; 1866, c. 43, ss. 3, 4; 1919, c. 18.

In action for divorce on ground of adultery neither husband nor wife competent as witness to adulterous acts of other: Hooper v. Hooper, 165-605; Toole v. Toole, 112-150; Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41—nor shall admissions of either be received in evidence to prove such fact, Perkins v. Perkins, 88-41—but wife sued for divorce on ground of adultery is competent to deny the acts testified to against her, Broom v. Broom, 130-562. In a suit for divorce for impotency of wife, husband is competent witness: Barringer v. Barringer, 69-179.

Husband is competent to testify as to misconduct of wife in an action for criminal conversation: Powell v. Strickland, 163-393—and wife was not competent witness to rebut such evidence, Grant v. Mitchell, 156-15; McCall v. Galloway, 162-353; but she may testify under this section as amended by act of 1919, c. 18.

Neither husband nor wife competent to prove nonaccess to render offspring illegitimate, nor would declarations of either be admissible: Croom v. Whitehead, 174-305; West v. Redmond, 171-742; Ewell v. Ewell, 163-236.

Meaning of confidential communications which are privileged under this section: Whitford v. Ins. Co., 163-223; Toole v. Toole, 112-152. See, also, annotations under section 1802.

Section merely referred to in State v. Wiseman, 130-727; Little v. Ratliff, 126-264; Toole v. Toole, 109-615; Bunn v. Todd, 107-266; Taylor v. Taylor, 76-439; Horne v. Horne, 75-103; Boykin v. Boykin, 70-266.

1802. Husband and wife as witnesses in criminal actions. The husband or wife of the defendant, in all criminal actions or proceedings, shall be a competent witness for the defendant, but the failure of such witness to be examined shall not be used to the prejudice of the defense. Every such person examined as a witness shall be subject to be cross-examined as are other witnesses. No husband or wife shall be compellable to disclose any confidential communication made by one to the other during their marriage. Nothing herein shall render any husband or wife competent or compellable to give evidence against each other in any criminal action or proceeding, except to prove the fact of marriage in case of bigamy, and except that in all criminal prosecutions of a husband for an assault and battery upon his wife, or for abandoning his wife, or for neglecting to provide for her support, it shall be lawful to examine the wife in behalf of the state against the husband.

Rev., ss. 1634, 1635, 1636; Code, ss. 588, 1353, 1354; 1856-7, c. 23; 1866, c. 43; 1868-9, c. 209; 1881, c. 110.

Husband or wife of defendant competent witness for defendant in all criminal actions or proceedings: State v. Harbison, 94-885; State v. Jones, 89-559—but in fornication and adultery husband of feme defendant not competent to testify against her as to such acts committed while marital relation existed, State v. Raby, 121-682; State v. Jones, 89-559; State v. Jolly, 20-108—though he may have obtained divorce a vinculo before trial, Ibid. When man and woman indicted for fornication and adultery, husband of feme defendant, as to whom nol. pros. entered, competent witness to show adultery between defendants before marriage of witness and feme defendant, State v. Wiseman, 130-726.

On indictment for bigamy, second wife of defendant admissible as witness either for or against him: State v. Patterson, 24-346. When two indicted in same bill for affray and mutual assaults, wife of neither competent witness for state or other defendant: State v. Harbison, 94-885—though freedwoman competent witness against freedman who claimed her as wife while they were slaves, but since emancipated he had refused to marry her, State v. Taylor, 61-508. As to evidence of slaves cohabiting together as man and wife prior to emancipation, see State v. Samuel, 19-177.

Neither husband nor wife competent or compellable to give evidence against the other in criminal proceeding: State v. Harbison, 94-885—and where two indicted in same bill for affray and mutual assaults, wife of neither is competent witness for state or other defendant, State v. Weaver, 93-595. Neither wife nor husband is a competent witness against the other upon the trial of an indictment for assault and battery when no lasting injury is inflicted or threatened: State v. Davidson, 77-522, and cases cited—but where wife indicted for assault and battery in striking her husband with an axe, husband is competent witness against her: Ibid. In an action against husband for slandering wife, for competency of either as witness, see State v. Fulton, 149-485.

Where two are indicted for a battery, the one for the act and the other for using encouraging language at the time, the wife of the one who encouraged the beating is a competent witness for the other party: State v. Mooney, 64-54.

Wife is competent to prove fact of marriage in action against the husband for abandonment: State v. Chester, 172-946—in an action for bigamy, State v. Long, 143-672; State v. Melton, 120-591—in an action for fornication and adultery, State v. McDuffie, 107-885.

Rule disqualifying wife from testifying against husband applies only where husband has legal interest in result, State v. Parrott, 79-615—and does not render her incompetent to contradict his testimony for state upon indictment against third person for assault and battery upon husband, Ibid.

Confidential communications between husband and wife cannot be received in evidence, State v. Brittain, 117-783; Toole v. Toole, 112-156. Conversations between husband and wife in presence of third persons are not privileged: State v. McKinney, 175-784; State v. Randall, 170-757. A letter written by husband to wife is admissible, when in hands of third person: State v. Wallace, 162-622. See, also, under section 1801.

Declarations of the wife in the presence of the husband, which naturally call for a reply, are admissible, though wife is not competent witness: State v. Record, 151-695.

Failure of wife to testify for husband not subject of comment; and solicitor cannot tender the wife as a witness: State v. Spivey, 151-676; State v. Cox, 150-846.

Section referred to in State v. McDowell, 101-737; State v. Lemon, 92-793.

ART. 7. ATTENDANCE OF WITNESS

1803. Issue and service of subpœna. In obtaining the testimony of witnesses in causes depending in the superior, criminal and inferior courts, the following rules shall be observed in practice, to wit:

In suits where witnesses are to appear at any court, the clerk at the instance of a party shall issue a subpœna, directed to the sheriff or other officer of the county where such witnesses reside, naming the time and place for their appearance, the names of the parties to the suit wherein the testimony is to be given, and the party at whose instance they are summoned. Every subpœna made returnable immediately shall be issued only in term time, and shall be personally served on the witness therein named. A copy of every subpœna issued by the clerk in vacation, in case any witness therein named is not to be found, may be left at his usual place of residence; and such copy certified by the sheriff or other officer, and left as aforesaid, shall be deemed a legal summons, and the person therein named shall be bound to appear in the same manner as if personally summoned.

For subpoena issued by party or attorney, see Civil Procedure, s. 919.

1804. Attendance before referee or commissioners. In all cases not otherwise provided for, when witnesses are required to attend any court, commission, referee, order of survey, or jury of view, a summons shall be issued by the clerk of the court, at the request of either party, naming the day and place when and where they are to appear, the names of the parties to the suit, and in whose behalf summoned.

Rev., s. 1640; Code, s. 1366; R. C., c. 31, s. 68; 1805, c. 685, ss. 1, 2.

1805. Subpœna duces tecum issued. In all causes depending in any court, in which the production of an original paper, lodged in any of the public offices of the state, or in any office of any court, shall become necessary, the court may issue the process of subpœna duces tecum, requiring such persons who hold said offices to attend the court with such original paper, in like manner and under the same penalties as witnesses are required in cases of subpœna to testify.

Rev., s. 1641; Code, s. 1372; R. C., c. 31, s. 81; 1797, c. 476.

1806. Subpœnas and depositions upon removal of cause. When any cause shall be removed from the superior court of one county to that of another, after the order of removal, depositions may be taken in the cause, and subpœnas for the attendance of witnesses and commissions to take depositions may issue from either of the said courts, under the same rules as if the cause had been originally commenced in the court from which the subpœnas or commissions issued.

Rev., s. 1642; Code, s. 1371; R. C., c. 31, s. 72; 1810, c. 787; 1832, c. 8.

Upon removal of cause, jurisdiction of court from which removed ceased, unless otherwise provided in order of removal, or by consent of parties in writing duly filed: Fisher v. Mining Co., 105-124—but section makes exception to rule by provision that after removal subpœnas for witnesses and commissions to take depositions may issue from either court, Ibid.—and pending removal of cause from one county to another, and before deposit of transcript, competent for clerk of former county to take examination of parties, Comrs. v. Lemly, 85-341.

1807. Witnesses attend until discharged; effect of nonattendance. Every witness, being summoned to appear in any of the said courts, in manner before directed, shall appear accordingly, and continue to attend from term to term until discharged, when summoned in a civil action or special proceeding, by the court or the party at whose instance such witness shall be summoned, or, when summoned in a criminal prosecution, until discharged by the court, the prosecuting officer, or the party at whose instance he was summoned; and in default thereof shall forfeit and pay, in civil actions or special proceedings, to the party at whose instance the subpœna issued, the sum of forty dollars, to be recovered by motion in the cause, and shall be further liable to his action for the full damages which may be sustained for the want of such witness's testimony; or if summoned in a criminal prosecution shall forfeit and pay eighty dollars for the use of the state, or the party summoning him. If the civil action or special proceeding shall, in the vacation, be compromised and settled between the parties, and the party at whose instance such witness was summoned should omit to discharge him from further attendance, and for want of such discharge he shall attend the next term, in that case the witness, upon oath made of the facts, shall be entitled to a ticket from the clerk in the same manner as other witnesses, and shall recover from the party at whose instance he was summoned the allowance which is given to witnesses for their attendance, with costs.

No execution shall issue against any defaulting witness for the forfeiture aforesaid but after notice made known to him to show cause against the issuing thereof; and if sufficient cause be shown of his incapacity to attend, execution shall not issue, and the witness shall be discharged of the forfeiture without costs; but otherwise the court shall, on motion, award execution for the forfeiture against the defaulting witness.

Rev., s. 1643; Code, s. 1356; R. C., c. 31, ss. 60, 61, 62; 1777, c. 115, ss. 37, 38, 43; 1799, c. 528; 1801, c. 591.

When subpoena has been served on witness, he is required to attend from term to term until discharged: State v. Gwynn, 61-446; Sweany v. Hunter, 5-182.

Where two subpoenas served upon witness requiring attendance on same day at different places distant from each other, he may make election between them: Leehour v. Martin, 44-478—for he is not compelled to obey subpoena first served, Ibid.

Witness summoned in this state while casually here, but who resides in another state, cannot be amerced for nonattendance where he has returned to own state and was there at time when presence required as witness: Kinzey v. King, 28-76.

If witness allege that he was unable to attend court, such inability must be decided with reference to mode of travel which is in use in community: Eller v. Roberts, 25-11—and if practicable modes of conveyance to court exist, and it is not shown by witness that same was not within his power, nonattendance cannot be attributed to inability, Ibid. An attorney at law is not exempt from liability for failure to attend as a witness: In re Pierce, 163-247.

Issue in bastardy is not "criminal prosecution" so as to subject defaulting witness to fine of eighty dollars prescribed by section: Ward v. Bell, 52-79; see State v. Giles, 134-735.

For fees of witnesses, see section 3893. For right to demand and recover fees, see sections 1273, 1274.

Section referred to in Fite v. Lander, 52-249.

1808. Witnesses exempt from civil arrest. Every witness shall be exempt from arrest in civil actions or special proceedings during his attendance at any court, or before a commissioner, arbitrator, referee or other person authorized to command the attendance of such witness, and during the time such witness is going to and returning from the place of such attendance, allowing one day for every thirty miles such witness has to travel to and from his place of residence.

Citizen of another state voluntarily attending court here as witness is privileged from arrest in civil cases, though no subpoena served upon him: Ballinger v. Elliott, 72-596; Fentress v. Brown, 61-374.

Section does not repeal by implication the common-law privilege of exemption of nonresidents from service of civil process while attending as suitor or witness in this state: Cooper v. Wyman, 122-784; Hammerskold v. Rose, 52-629; see, also, Greenleaf v. Bank, 133-292. Exemption of witnesses from arrest not applicable to persons arrested in criminal proceedings: White v. Underwood, 125-25. How privilege may be claimed: School v. Pierce, 163-424. How far this privilege extended to attorneys at law: Greenleaf v. Bank, 133-292.

ART. 8. DEPOSITIONS

1809. Manner of taking depositions in civil actions. Any party in a civil action or special proceeding, upon giving notice to the adverse party or his attorney as provided by law, may take the depositions of persons whose evidence he may desire to use, without any special order therefor, unless the witness shall be beyond the limits of the United States.

Depositions shall be taken on commission, issuing from the court and under the seal thereof, by one or more commissioners, who shall be of kin to neither party, and shall be appointed by the clerk; or depositions may be taken by a notary public of this state or of any other state or foreign country, without a commission issuing from the court.

Depositions shall be subscribed and sealed up by the commissioners or notary public, and returned to the court, the clerk whereof or the judge holding the court, if the clerk is a party to the action, shall open and pass upon the same, after having first given the parties or their attorneys not less than one day's notice; and all such depositions, when passed upon and allowed by the clerk, without appeal, or by the judge upon appeal from the clerk's order, or by the judge holding the court, when the clerk is a party to the action, shall be deemed legal evidence, if the witness be competent.

Rev., s. 1652; Code, s. 1357; 1911, c. 158; R. C., c. 31, s. 63; 1893, c. 360; 1881, c. 279.

Discretionary with trial judge whether or not answers to leading questions shall be stricken out of deposition: Bank v. Carr, 130-479.

Depositions of witnesses never taken by court while engaged in trial of cause: Worthy v. Shields, 90-192.

Depositions are admissible in evidence on trial of issue in bastardy as in other civil cases: Tidline v. Hickerson, 72-421.

Error to permit deposition taken out of state on Monday of term at which cause tried to be read in evidence: Taylor v. Gooch, 50-404.

Part of deposition cannot be offered to contradict witness: Barton v. Morphis, 15-240.

Irrelevant facts in deposition are incompetent: Downey v. Murphey, 18-82.

Failure to take in time for trial, where laches, no ground for continuance: Duncan v. Hill, 19-291.

Plaintiff need not wait for answer filed before taking deposition: Freeman v. Brown, 151-111.

AS TO APPOINTMENT OF COMMISSIONER. Commissioner should not be related to either of the parties: Younce v. Lumber Co., 155-239; Kerr v. Hicks, 131-90. Where commission to take deposition is issued to be executed within county where issued, no seal required to be affixed thereto: McArter v. Rhea, 122-614—otherwise where a deposition is to be executed outside of such county, for without such seal it is void, Freeman v. Lewis, 27-91. Appearance before commissioner waives irregularity in commission: Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402; Womack v. Gross, 135-378; McArter v. Rhea, 122-614; Davison v. Land Co., 118-368; Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-473. Commissions to take depositions may be made returnable to any subsequent term of court from which issued: Duncan v. Hill, 19-291. Surplusage in stating title of court does not invalidate commission: Armstrong v. Dalton, 15-568. A mistake in issuing commission as from "supreme court" when it appears to be from the superior court, does not invalidate: Dobson v. Finley, 53-495. Commissioner to take depositions presumed to be properly qualified until contrary shown: Gregg v. Mallett, 111-74.

A mistake in the initials of the commissioner is immaterial if there is sufficient in the notice to designate the time and place and the commissioner: Hardy v. Ins. Co., 167-22. The names of the witnesses need not be in the commission; it is sufficient if given in the notice: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10.

THE TAKING OF THE DEPOSITION. Not error to take deposition in place of business of one of parties if such place named in notice and no suggestion that other party suffered any prejudice thereby: Bank v. Carr, 130-479. Deposition will be rejected where written down by attorney of party taking deposition: Mosely v. Mosely, 1-631. Interrogatories need not be in writing: Bank v. Bank of Asheville, 116-815—and answers need not be inserted after each interrogatory, where both interrogatories and answers are above the signature of commissioner: Street v. Andrews, 115-417. Name of commissioner should be inserted, inferred from Womack v. Gross, 135-378. Duty of witness to answer proper questions just as he would before judge or clerk: Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-146. Deposition unsigned by witness may be read in evidence: Boggs v. Mining Co., 162-393; Rutherford v. Nelson, 2-105; Murphy v. Work, 2-105. Adjournments by commissioner must be from day to day: Rutledge v. Read, 3-242. That witness was sworn only to the truth of the deposition does not render it inadmissible: Welborn v. Younger, 10-205. Where papers are referred to in a deposition they may be attached to it or identified by parol evidence: In re Clodfelter's Will, 171-528.

THE RETURN OF THE DEPOSITION. Deposition must be sealed up by commissioner: Ward v. Ely, 12-372. Deposition certified to have been taken on day and in county in another state, as specified in notice, but without stating particular place, not admissible in evidence: English v. Camp, 2-358. Deposition must show names of parties to action either in caption or body of it: Murray v. Marsh, 3-290. One commissioner cannot amend return made by himself and another: Collier v. Jeffries, 3-400. The deposition is not returnable to a particular term, but should be returned promptly when taken: Askew v. Matthews, 175-187.

OPENING THE DEPOSITION. Provisions of section allowing clerk to pass upon depositions are only applicable to depositions of competent witnesses: Sehorn v. Williams, 51-575—and where clerk passed upon and allowed one to be read which was taken out of county, under commission without seal, court may disregard such action, Ibid.

Custom, when opening deposition, to reserve the right to file exceptions as to its regularity, disapproved of in Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-197. Objection that commissioner related to one of parties must be made at time of opening before clerk: Kerr v. Hicks, 131-90. Party offering to read deposition as evidence must prove that he has given notice of opening of deposition before clerk as prescribed by section or show facts that would amount to waiver by opposite party of statutory requirement: Berry v. Hall, 105-154. Where it appeared that no notice was given adverse party of taking deposition and that same had not been passed upon by clerk, objection to its reception might be taken on trial of action: Bryan v. Jeffreys, 104-242. For objections to deposition which must be taken before trial, see sections 1819, 1820.

Section merely referred to in Stern v. Herren, 101-518; Carroll v. Hodges, 98-420; Branton v. O'Briant, 93-99; Hill v. Bell, 61-122.

1810. Notice required for taking depositions. In taking depositions in civil actions or special proceedings, written notice of the time and place of taking a deposition, specifying the name of the witness, must be served by the party at whose instance it is taken upon the adverse party or his attorney. The time for serving such notice shall be as follows: Three entire days when the party notified resides within ten miles of the place where the deposition is to be taken; in other cases, where the party notified resides in the state, one day more for every additional twenty miles, except where the deposition is to be taken within ten miles of a railway in running operation in the state, when one day only shall be given for every hundred miles of railway to the place where the deposition is to be taken. When a deposition is to be taken beyond the state, ten days notice of the taking thereof shall be given, when the person whose deposition is to be taken resides within ten miles of a railway connecting with a line of railway within twenty miles of the place where the person notified resides. In other cases, where there are no railways running as above specified, twenty days notice shall be given. When objection is taken to the reading of any such deposition, upon the ground that there are no railways or connecting railways to and from the points specified in this section, or that the notice given had otherwise been actually insufficient, it shall devolve upon the party objecting to satisfy the court of the truth of his allegation.

Rev., s. 1652; Code, s. 1357; 1881, c. 279.

CONTENTS OF NOTICE. The notice must be properly entitled, inferred from Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628. Where notice specifies that deposition will be taken between certain hours of day same cannot be read unless appears to have been taken between hours specified: Farrar

v. Hamilton, 1-105; Harris v. Yarborough, 15-166. Where irregularity in notice, it is waived by attendance and cross-examination of witness: Erwin v. Bailey, 123-628. As to immaterial variance between notice and deposition, see Ridge v. Lewis, 1-599; Ellmore v. Mills, 2-359. Notice to take a number of depositions on the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th of a particular month does not, of itself, furnish ground for suppressing depositions: Kea v. Robeson, 39-427—for if adverse party attended, his action cured all indefiniteness, Ibid.

No ground of exception to deposition that notice was given to take “deposition of A, B, C, and others,” and deposition of neither A, B, nor C was taken: McDugald v. Smith, 33-576.

Notice to take deposition on Sunday is not good, and deposition taken under such notice must be rejected: Sloan v. Willeford, 25-307.

Notice to take deposition on a particular day of every week, for three successive months, is insufficient: Bedell v. State Bank, 12-483—while notice to take deposition of witness in Georgia on one of three successive specified days is sufficient: Harris v. Peterson, 4-358.

Notice must specify in what house deposition is to be taken: McNaughton v. Lester, 2-423—and it must be taken at house specified, Alston v. Taylor, 2-381—and where slight inaccuracy in description of house, it will be sufficient if it can be identified, Pursell v. Long, 52-102.

Notice to a particular agent is not sufficient: Lindsey v. Lee, 12-464. Where time not definitely stated notice is sufficient: Bedell v. State Bank, 12-483.

Where notice served that depositions will be taken at same time in two different places party notified may attend at either place designated and disregard notice as to other, and depositions taken in his absence at other place will on motion be quashed or suppressed, but where he elects to appear by counsel and cross-examine witness without making objection at time, this is waiver as to any defect in notice: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189.

A mistake in the name of the commissioner is immaterial if there is sufficient in the notice to designate the time and place and commissioner: Hardy v. Ins. Co., 167-22. The names of the witnesses need not be in the commission; it is sufficient if they are given in the notice: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10. The names of several witnesses “and others” in the notice is sufficient: In re Rawlings’ Will, 170-58.

SERVICE OF NOTICE. Town constable cannot serve notice in action pending in superior court: Cullen v. Absher, 119-441. For method of computing time of service of notice, see Beasley v. Downey, 32-284. Depositions taken by one party and filed in court, they may be read by other party without proof of notice, and on second trial they may be read by party who took same without proof of notice: Collier v. Jeffries, 3-400.

1811. Publication of notice in case of nonresident. Instead of the notice served upon the adverse party or his attorney in taking depositions in civil actions or special proceedings, when the adverse party is a nonresident and has no attorney of record, it shall be sufficient to publish notice to the adverse party in some newspaper published in the county where the action is pending, or if no newspaper is published in such county, then in some newspaper in the judicial district, for three consecutive weeks, giving the time and place of taking the deposition and specifying the name of the witness. And when the adverse party is a nonresident and service of notice cannot be had upon him or his attorney in this state, then one publication of notice to open such deposition shall be sufficient notice.

Notice by advertisement, party being a nonresident and his attorney having died, held good in Maxwell v. Holland, 2-302.

1812. Depositions for defendant in criminal actions. In all criminal actions, hearings and investigations it shall be lawful for the defendant in any such action to make affidavit before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said action is pending, that it is important for the defense that he have the testimony of any person, whose name must be given, and that such person is so infirm, or otherwise physically incapacitated, or nonresident of this state, that he cannot procure his attendance at the trial or hearing of said cause. Upon the filing of such affidavit, it shall be the duty of the clerk to appoint some responsible person to take the deposition of such witness, which deposition may be read in the trial of such criminal action under the same rules as now apply by law to depositions in civil actions: Provided, that the solicitor or prosecuting attorney of the district, county or town in which such action is pending have ten days notice of the taking of such deposition, who may appear in person or by representative to conduct the cross-examination of such witness. This section shall not apply to the taking of depositions in courts of justices of the peace.

When there are several defendants in a criminal action and one wishes a deposition on his behalf, it is not necessary to notify the other defendants: State v. Finley, 118-1161.

Depositions not used against defendant in criminal action, see State v. Mitchell, 119-784; State v. Thomas, 64-74.

1813. Depositions in justices' courts. Any party in a civil action before a justice of the peace may take the depositions of all persons whose evidence he may desire to use in the action; and to do so he may apply to the clerk of the superior court for a commission to take the same, and shall proceed in all things in taking such depositions as if such action was pending in the superior court. When any such depositions are returned to the clerk, they shall be opened and passed upon by the clerk, and delivered to the justice of the peace before whom the trial is to be had; and the reading and using of said depositions shall conform to the rules of the superior court.

Rev., s. 1646; Code, s. 1359; 1872-3, c. 33.

1814. Depositions before municipal authorities. Any board of aldermen, board of town or county commissioners or any person interested in any proceeding, investigation, hearing or trial before such board, may take the depositions of all persons whose evidence may be desired for use in said proceeding, investigation, hearing or trial; and to do so, the chairman of such board or such person may apply in person or by attorney to the superior court clerk of that county in which such proceeding, investigation, hearing or trial is pending, for a commission to take the same, and said clerk, upon such application, shall issue such commission; and the notice and proceedings upon the taking of said depositions shall be the same as provided for in civil actions; and if the person upon whom the notice of the taking of such deposition is to be served is absent from or cannot after due diligence be found within this state, but can be found within the county in which the deposition is to be taken, then, and in that case, said notice shall be personally served on such person by the commissioner appointed to take such deposition; and when any such deposition is returned to the clerk it shall be opened and passed upon by him and delivered to such board, and the reading and using of such deposition shall conform to the rules of the superior court.

1815. Depositions in quo warranto proceedings. In all actions for the purpose of trying the title to the office of clerk of the superior court, register of deeds, county treasurer or sheriff of any county, it shall be competent and lawful to take the deposition of witnesses before a commissioner or commissioners to be appointed by the judge of the district wherein the case is to be tried, or the judge holding the court of said district, or the clerk of the court wherein the case is pending, under the same rules as to time of notice and as to the manner of taking and filing the same as is now provided by law for the taking of depositions in other cases; and such depositions, when so taken, shall be competent to be read on the trial of such action, without regard to the place of residence of such witness or distance of residence from said place of trial: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent the oral examination, by either party on the trial, of such witnesses as they may summon in their behalf.

Rev., s. 1654; 1889, c. 428.

1816. Commissioner may subpoena witness and punish for contempt. Commissioners to take depositions appointed by the courts of this state, or by the courts of the states or territories of the United States, arbitrators, referees, and all persons acting under a commission issuing from any court of record in this state, are hereby empowered, they or the clerks of the courts respectively in this state, to which such commission shall be returnable, to issue subpoenas, specifying the time and place for the attendance of witnesses before them, and to administer oaths to said witnesses, to the end that they may give their testimony. And any witness appearing before any of the said persons and refusing to give his testimony on oath touching such matters as he may be lawfully examined unto shall be committed, by warrant of the person before whom he shall so refuse, to the common jail of the county, there to remain until he may be willing to give his evidence; which warrant of commitment shall recite what authority the person has to take the testimony of such witness, and the refusal of the witness to give it.

Rev., s. 1649; Code, s. 1362; R. C., c. 31, s. 64; 1777, c. 115, s. 42; 1805, c. 685, ss. 1, 2; 1848, c. 66; 1850, c. 188.

Commissioner to take deposition presumed to be properly qualified until contrary shown: Gregg v. Mallett, 111-74. Duty of witness to answer proper question propounded by him just as though examination conducted before judge or clerk: Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-146. Power to commit to common jail person refusing to testify before commissioner not given exclusively, if at all, to commissioner, but he may invoke aid of judge from whom he derived his appointment: Fertilizer Co. v. Haylor, 112-141. Deposition will be rejected if witness refuses to answer proper questions on cross-examination, Mosely v. Mosely, 1-631.

1817. Attendance before commissioner enforced. The sheriff of the county where the witness may be shall execute all such subpoenas, and make due return thereof before the commissioner, or other person, before whom the witness is to appear, in the same manner, and under the same penalties, as in case of process of a like kind returnable to court; and when the witness shall be subpoenaed five days before the time of his required attendance, and shall fail to appear according to the subpoena and give evidence, the default shall be noted by the commissioner, arbitrator, or other person aforesaid; and in case the default be made before a commissioner acting under authority from courts without the state, the defaulting witness shall forfeit and pay to the party at whose instance he may be subpoenaed fifty dollars, and on the trial for such penalty the subpoena issued by the commissioner, or other person, as aforesaid, with the indorsement thereon of due service by the officer serving the same, together with the default noted as aforesaid and indorsed on the subpoena, shall be prima facie evidence of the forfeiture, and sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to judgment for the same, unless the witness may show his incapacity to have attended.

Rev., s. 1650; Code, s. 1363; R. C., c. 31, s. 65; 1848, c. 66, s. 2; 1850, c. 188, ss. 1, 2.

1818. Remedies against defaulting witness before commissioner. But in case the default be made before a commissioner, arbitrator, referee or other person, acting under a commission or authority from any of the courts of this state, then the same shall be certified under his hand, and returned with the subpoena to the court by which he was commissioned or empowered to take the evidence of such witness; and thereupon the court shall adjudge the defaulting witness to pay to the party at whose instance he was summoned the sum of forty dollars; but execution shall not issue therefor until the same be ordered by the court, after such proceedings had as shall give said witness an opportunity to show cause, if he can, against the issuing thereof.

1819. Objection to deposition before trial. At any time before the trial, or hearing of an action or proceeding, any party may make a motion to the judge or court to reject a deposition for irregularity in the taking of it, either in whole or in part, for scandal, impertinence, the incompetency of the testimony, for insufficient notice, or for any other good cause. The objecting party shall state his exceptions in writing.

Rev., s. 1648; Code, s. 1361; 1895, c. 312; 1903, c. 132; 1869-70, c. 227, ss. 13, 17.

Objection to irregularities in taking of depositions must be made in writing: Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402; Brittain v. Hitchcock, 127-400; Davenport v. McKee, 98-507; Woodley v. Hassell, 94-157—and passed on before trial, Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189; Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402; Brittain v. Hitchcock, 127-400; Glover v. Flowers, 101-134; Woodley v. Hassell, 94-157; Katzenstein v. R. R., 78-286—for, unless same so made, objection to deposition is waived, Woodley v. Hassell, 94-157; Kerchner v. Reilly, 72-171; Mfg. Co. v. Townsend, 153-244; Askew v. Matthews, 175-187.

Where a deposition had been on file for six years without objection, it is not subject to objection on the trial: Wasson v. Linster, 83-575.

Where deposition objected to on ground that testimony contained therein was incompetent, though no particular point so indicated and no error assigned, objection will not be considered: Smith v. McGregor, 96-101. A deposition will not be quashed for incompetent questions, since these are subject to exceptions: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10.

Objection that commissioner to take deposition was related to one of parties must be taken at time of opening same before clerk: Kerr v. Hicks, 131-90.

Appearance before commissioner waives irregularity in commission: Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402; Womack v. Gross, 135-378; Davison v. Land Co., 118-368; Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-473.

For case prior to enactment of section, see Hix v. Fisher, 60-474. Section merely referred to in Sparrow v. Blount, 90-517; Street v. Bryan, 65-622. See, also, annotations under section 1820.

1820. Deposition not quashed after trial begun. No deposition shall be quashed, or rejected, on objection first made after a trial has begun, merely because of an irregularity in taking the same, provided it shall appear that the party objecting had notice that it had been taken, and it was on file long enough before the trial to enable him to present his objection.

Rev., s. 1647; Code, s. 1360; 1869-70, c. 227, s. 12.

See annotations under section 1819. Exceptions to depositions, especially those which relate to its regularity, should be disposed of at latest before trial entered upon: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189—and where adverse party had notice of taking of deposition long enough for him to file objections, same will not be quashed for irregularity in manner of taking after trial begun, Davenport v. McKee, 98-500; Katzenstein v. R. R., 78-286; Carson v. Mills, 69-32.

Objection must be made before trial if reasonable opportunity given: Steel Co. v. Ford, 173-195. Deposition will not be quashed on oral objection made at trial where same has been on file in clerk's office two or three months before trial, and opened by clerk in presence of counsel for both parties: Carroll v. Hodges, 98-418—but where it appears that no notice given adverse party of taking of deposition, and same not passed upon by clerk as provided by section 1809, objection to reception of deposition may be taken on trial of action, Bryan v. Jeffreys, 104-242. Where notice served that depositions will be taken at same time in two different places, person notified may attend at either place designated, and disregard notice as to other: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189—and depositions taken in his absence at other place will on motion be quashed or suppressed, Ibid.—but where he elects to appear by counsel and cross-examine witness without making objection at time, this is waiver as to any defect in notice, Ibid.

Failure to insert name of commissioner in commission is waived by objecting party appearing at taking of deposition and making no objection thereto until after trial begun: Womack v. Gross, 135-378.

Exceptions on trial to deposition offered on two former trials without objection, and to which no objection made either at time of taking or opening same, are properly overruled: Bank v. Burgwyn, 116-122.

Objection that answers were on separate sheet attached to interrogatories, but not inserted at end of such interrogatory, whole, however, being above commissioner's signature, is untenable: Street v. Andrews, 115-417.

Custom of reserving right to have exceptions, especially those relating to regularity of deposition, passed upon when deposition offered in evidence disapproved by court: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-197. See, also, Hudson v. R. R., 176-488.

Section merely referred to in Sparrow v. Blount, 90-517; Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-480.

1821. When deposition may be read on the trial. Every deposition taken and returned in the manner provided by law may be read on the trial of the action or proceeding, or before any referee, in the following cases, and not otherwise:

1. If the witness is dead, or has become insane since the deposition was taken.
2. If the witness is a resident of a foreign country, or of another state, and is not present at the trial.
3. If the witness is confined in a prison outside the county in which the trial takes place.
4. If the witness is so old, sick or infirm as to be unable to attend court.
5. If the witness is the president of the United States, or the head of any department of the federal government, or a judge, district attorney, or clerk of any court of the United States, and the trial shall take place during the term of such court.
6. If the witness is the governor of the state, or the head of any department of the state government, or the president of the university, or the head of any other incorporated college in the state, or the superintendent or any physician in the employ of any of the hospitals for the insane for the state.
7. If the witness is a justice of the supreme court, or a judge, presiding officer, clerk or solicitor of any court of record, and the trial shall take place during the term of such court.
8. If the witness is a member of the congress of the United States, or a member of the general assembly, and the trial shall take place during a session of the body of which he is a member.
9. If the witness has been duly summoned, and at the time of the trial is out of the state, or is more than seventy-five miles by the usual public mode of travel from the place where the court is sitting, without the procurement or consent of the party offering his deposition.

10. If the action is pending in a justice's court the deposition may be read on the trial of the action, provided the witness is more than seventy-five miles by the usual public mode of travel from the place where the court is sitting.

Rev., s. 1645; Code, s. 1358; R. C., c. 31, s. 63; 1777, c. 115, ss. 39, 40, 41; 1803, c. 633; 1828, c. 24, ss. 1, 2; 1836, c. 30; 1869-70, c. 227, s. 11; 1881, c. 279, ss. 1, 3; 1905, c. 366; 1919, c. 324.

It is admissible to use a deposition taken in another action or proceeding between the same parties and in relation to the same subject-matter, where the adverse party had an opportunity for cross-examination: Hartis v. Electric R. R., 162-236; Mabe v. Mabe, 122-552; Stewart v. Register, 108-508; Bryan v. Malloy, 90-508. It must be shown that there was an action pending and properly constituted in which deposition taken: Ibid. Deposition may be introduced whether deponent examined as witness in case being tried or not: Mabe v. Mabe, 122-552.

Deposition may be read when witness is nonresident and not present at trial: Jeffords v. Waterworks Co., 157-10—when witness is more than seventy-five miles away, Mfg. Co. v. Townsend, 153-244. Deposition of witness adjudged to be unable to talk or remain in court admissible in evidence: Willeford v. Bailey, 132-402. Deposition of witness residing in another state may be read in evidence, though witness be in state at time of trial: Meredith v. Kent, 1-52. Where deposition of resident taken de bene esse, and he leaves state before opening of court and is absent at trial, deposition may be read under section, it being shown that he was out of state and more than 75 miles from place of trial: Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-473—and finding by trial judge that witness whose deposition offered was not in state, there being some evidence of such fact, will not be reviewed in supreme court, Branton v. O'Bryant, 93-99; Sparrow v. Blount, 90-514.

Party does not make person his witness by taking his deposition which he declines to read: Neil v. Childs, 32-195. A party offering a deposition in evidence must introduce the whole of it, including cross-examination: Savings Club v. Bank, 178-403; Boney v. Boney, 161-622.

Where deposition read, opposite party may contradict witness by showing that he had subsequently made different statements: Roberts v. Collins, 28-223.

Depositions are admissible in bastardy as in other civil cases: State v. Hickerson, 72-421. Deposition in criminal action is competent to be read in favor of one prisoner, though it contains evidence against his codefendant, but judge should instruct jury not to consider latter evidence: State v. Finley, 118-1161.

The deposition of an attorney at law cannot be read in evidence except as in the case of other witnesses: In re Pierce, 163-247.

Where deposition rejected in limine because name of commissioner not inserted in commission, not incumbent upon party offering deposition to show why same should be admitted: Womack v. Gross, 135-378.

In taking deposition, interrogatories not required to be in writing: Bank v. Bank of Asheville, 116-815—and where nothing to indicate that deposition does not contain whole of deponent's testimony or that it was not written down at time and in presence of witness, motion to quash should be refused, Ibid.

Where it appears from the return of a deposition that it was taken on the day, at the time, and by the person designated, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that all things were done rightly, and that it was taken between the hours appointed for taking the same: Street v. Andrews, 115-417—and an objection that answers were on a separate sheet attached to the interrogatories, but not inserted at the end of each interrogatory, the whole, however, being above the signature of the commissioner, is untenable, Ibid.

For case before amendments to subsection 9, see Sparrow v. Blount, 90-514. As bearing upon subsection 9, see Cunningham v. Cunningham, 121-413. Subsection merely referred to in Davenport v. McKee, 98-506.

1822. Depositions taken in the state to be used in another state:

1. By whom obtained. In addition to the other remedies prescribed by law, a party to an action, suit or special proceeding, civil or criminal, pending in a court without the state, either in the United States or any of the possessions thereof, or any foreign country, may obtain, by the proceedings prescribed by this section, the testimony of a witness and in connection therewith the production of books and papers within the state to be used in the action, suit or special proceeding.

2. Application filed. Where a commission to take testimony within the state has been issued from the court in which the action, suit or special proceeding is pending, or where a notice has been given, or any other proceeding has been taken for the purpose of taking the testimony within the state pursuant to the laws of the state or country wherein the court is located, or pursuant to the laws of the United States or any of the possessions thereof, if it is a court of the United States, the person desiring such testimony, or the production of papers and documents, may present a verified petition to any justice of the supreme court or judge of the superior court, stating generally the nature of the action or proceeding in which the testimony is sought to be taken, and that the testimony of the witness is material to the issue presented in such action or proceeding, and he shall set forth the substance of or have annexed to his petition a copy of the commission, order, notice, consent or other authority under which the deposition is taken. In case of an application for a subpoena to compel the production of books or papers, the petition shall specify the particular books or papers, the production of which is sought, and show that such books or papers are in the possession of or under the control of the witness and are material upon the issues presented in the action or special proceeding in which the deposition of the witness is sought to be taken.

3. Subpœna issued. Upon the filing of such petition, if the justice of the supreme court or judge of the superior court is satisfied that the application is made in good faith to obtain testimony within the provisions of this section, he shall issue a subpoena to the witness, commanding him to appear before the commissioner named in the commission, or before a commissioner within the state, for the state, territory or foreign country in which the notice was given or the proceeding taken, or before the officer designated in the commission, notice or other paper, by his title or office, at a time and place specified in the subpoena, to testify in the action, suit or special proceeding. Where the subpoena directs the production of books or papers, it shall specify the particular books or papers to be produced, and shall specify whether the witness is required to deliver sworn copies of such books or papers to the commissioner or to produce the original thereof for inspection, but such books and original papers shall not be taken from the witness. This subpoena must be served upon the witness at least two days, or, in case of a subpoena requiring the production of books or papers, at least five days before the day on which the witness is commanded to appear. A party to an action or proceeding in which a deposition is sought to be taken, or a witness subpoenaed to attend and give his testimony, may apply to the court issuing such subpoena to vacate or modify the same.

4. Witness compelled to attend and testify. If the witness shall fail to obey the subpoena, or refuse to have an oath administered, or to testify or to produce a book or paper pursuant to a subpoena, or to subscribe his deposition, the justice or judge issuing the subpoena shall, if it is determined that a contempt has been committed, prescribe punishment as in case of a recalcitrant witness. Upon proof by affidavit that a person to whom a subpoena was issued has failed or refused to obey such subpoena, to be duly sworn or affirmed, to testify or answer a question propounded to him, to produce a book or paper which he has been subpoenaed to produce, or to subscribe to his deposition when correctly taken down, the justice or judge shall grant an order requiring such person to show cause before him, at a time and place specified, why he should not appear, be sworn or affirmed, testify, answer a question propounded, produce a book or paper, or subscribe to the deposition, as the case may be. Such affidavit shall set forth the nature of the action or special proceeding in which the testimony is sought to be taken, and a copy of the pleadings or other papers defining the issues in such action or special proceeding, or the facts to be proved therein. Upon the return of such order to show cause, the justice or judge shall, upon such affidavit and upon the original petition and upon such other facts as shall appear, determine whether such person should be required to appear, be sworn or affirmed, testify, answer the question propounded, produce the books or papers, or subscribe to his deposition, as the case may be, and may prescribe such terms and conditions as shall seem proper. Upon proof of a failure or refusal on the part of any person to comply with any order of the court made upon such determination, the justice or judge shall make an order requiring such person to show cause before him, at a time and place therein specified, why such person should not be punished for the offense as for a contempt. Upon the return of the order to show cause, the questions which arise must be determined as upon a motion. If such failure or refusal is established to the satisfaction of the justice or judge before whom the order to show cause is made returnable, he shall enforce the order and prescribe the punishment as hereinbefore provided.

5. Deposit for costs required. The commissioner herein provided for shall not proceed to act under and by virtue of his appointment until the party seeking to obtain such deposition has deposited with him a sufficient sum of money to cover all costs and charges incident to the taking of the deposition, including such witness fees as are allowed to witnesses in this state for attendance upon the superior courts. From such deposit the commissioner shall retain whatever amount may be due him for services, pay the witness fees and other costs that may have been incurred by reason of taking such deposition, and if any balance remains in his hands, he shall pay the same to the party by whom it was advanced.

Rev., s. 1655; 1903, c. 608.

ART. 9. INSPECTION AND PRODUCTION OF WRITINGS

1823. Inspection of writings. The court before which an action is pending, or a judge thereof, may, in their discretion, and upon due notice, order either party to give to the other, within a specified time, an inspection and copy, or permission to take a copy, of any books, papers, and documents in his possession or under his control, containing evidence relating to the merits of the action or the defense therein. If compliance with the order be refused, the court, on motion, may exclude the paper from being given in evidence, or punish the party refusing, or both.

Rev., s. 1656; Code, s. 578; R. C., c. 31, s. 82; R. S., c. 31, s. 86; 1821, c. 1095; C. C. P., s. 331; 1828, c. 7.

Court has power to order production of paper which contains evidence pertinent to issue, and which is in possession or control of adverse party: Whitten v. Tel. Co., 141-361; Mc-

Donald v. Carson, 94-497; Austin v. Secrest, 91-214; McLeod v. Bullard, 84-515; Linker v. Benson, 67-150; McGibboney v. Mills, 35-163. Such order is within the discretion of the court: Evans v. R. R., 167-415; Bank v. Newton, 165-363.

The application, supported by affidavit, must show that the writing is pertinent and that an inspection is necessary: Evans v. R. R., 167-415; Justice v. Bank, 83-8. It may be granted before complaint filed when necessary to enable plaintiff to frame complaint: Holt v. Warehouse Co., 116-480; Justice v. Bank, 83-8; but see Branson v. Fentress, 35-165.

An inspection and privilege to photograph a note may be allowed: Bank v. McArthur, 165-374. Order for administrator, who as bank cashier kept intestate's accounts, to produce books of bank and also such bonds as belong to intestate, for inspection of plaintiffs, is valid under section: Comrs. v. Lemly, 85-341. Person will not be ordered to allow inspection of paper-writing if party making request knows contents thereof: Sheek v. Sain, 127-266—and an order allowing others than defendant to inspect paper-writing in possession of plaintiff is erroneous, Ibid.

Section does not authorize order that respondent be required to deposit papers in clerk's office: Mills v. Lumber Co., 139-524. Order of judge reversing order of clerk with reference to production of papers is discretionary matter, but motion may be renewed and new order obtained, Ibid. Supreme court will not pass upon propriety of discharging rule under section unless facts stated upon which application based: Maxwell v. McDowell, 50-391.

Motion to nonsuit plaintiff for not producing books or papers under section cannot be made unless previous order of court obtained for production of same: Graham v. Hamilton, 25-381.

Due notice is notice sufficient to enable a party to have document present when called for: McDonald v. Carson, 95-377. As to answer to the rule to produce papers, see Ward v. Simmons, 46-404; Fuller v. McMillan, 44-206. Appeal lies from order requiring person to allow inspection of paper-writings: Sheek v. Sain, 127-266. Notice hereunder to party in action is in law notice to his attorney: Banking Co. v. Walker, 121-115.

Section merely referred to in Bernhardt v. Brown, 122-587; Coates Bros. v. Wilkes, 92-387; Morrow v. Allman, 65-510; Murchison v. McLeod, 47-241.

1824. Production of writings. The courts have full power, on motion and due notice thereof given, to require the parties to produce books or writings in their possession or control which contain evidence pertinent to the issue, and if a plaintiff shall fail to comply with such order, and shall not satisfactorily account for his failure, the court, on motion, may give the like judgment for the defendant, as in cases of nonsuit; and if a defendant shall fail to comply with such order, and shall not satisfactorily account for his failure, the court, on motion as aforesaid, may give judgment against him by default.

Rev., s. 1657; Code, s. 1373; R. C., c. 31, s. 25; 1821, c. 1095; 1828, c. 7.

Court has power to order production of papers which contain evidence pertinent to issue and which are in possession or control of adverse party: Whitten v. Tel. Co., 141-361; McDonald v. Carson, 94-497; McLeod v. Bullard, 84-515; McGibboney v. Mills, 35-163; Scarborough v. Tunnell, 41-103. No affidavit is required, but the order is made upon motion and due notice: McDonald v. Carson, 95-377. Due notice is that which is sufficient to enable the party to have the document present when called for: Ibid. Generally if party dwells in another town than that in which trial had, service of notice upon him at place where trial had, or after he has left home to attend court, to produce papers, not sufficient: Beard v. R. R., 143-136.

Contents of paper-writing cannot be proved by parol unless notice has been given to adverse party who has same in possession to produce it on trial: Murchison v. McLeod, 47-239; Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-198. As to sufficiency of affidavit accounting for nonproduction of paper ordered to be produced upon trial, see Fuller v. McMillan, 44-206. Court cannot, under this section, order production of papers by defendant on application of plaintiff where no complaint filed: Branson v. Fentress, 35-165.

When papers are produced hereunder they are competent evidence for all legitimate purposes: Austin v. Secrest, 91-214; Fertilizer Co. v. Taylor, 112-141. Court below excluded paper-writing which plaintiff "alleged was a substantial copy of the greater part of his letter to defendant," when defendant was not notified to produce original: Ivey v. Cotton Mills, 143-189.

1825. Admission of genuineness. Either party may exhibit to the other, or to his attorney, at any time before the trial, any paper material to the action, and request an admission in writing of its genuineness. If the adverse party, or his attorney, fail to give the admission within four days after the request, and if the party exhibiting the paper be afterwards put to expense in order to prove its genuineness, and the same be finally proved or admitted on the trial, such expense, to be ascertained at the trial, shall be paid by the party refusing the admission, unless it appear to the satisfaction of the court that there were good reasons for the refusal.

Rev., s. 1658; Code, s. 578; R. C., c. 31, s. 82; R. S., c. 31, s. 86; 1821, c. 1095; 1828, c. 7; C. C. P., s. 331.

Admission in writing under section that instrument is genuine does not preclude comments by counsel as to truth of contents suggested by its appearance, fact of being written by amanuensis, etc.: Knight v. Houghtalling, 85-17.

ART. 10. CONFEDERATE CURRENCY

1826. Scale of depreciation. Contracts solvable in Confederate currency may be discharged according to the following scale of depreciation of Confederate currency, the gold dollar being the unit and measure of value, from November first, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, to May first, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five:

Months	1861	1862	1863	1864	1865
January -----	$----	$ 1.20	$ 3.00	$21.00	$ 50.00
February -----	----	1.30	3.00	21.00	50.00
March -----	----	1.50	4.00	23.00	60.00
April -----	----	1.50	5.00	20.00	100.00
May -----	----	1.50	5.50	19.00
June -----	----	1.50	6.50	18.00
July -----	----	1.50	9.00	21.00
August -----	----	1.50	14.00	23.00
September -----	----	2.00	14.00	25.00
October -----	----	2.00	14.00	26.00
November -----	1.10	2.50	15.00	30.00

ART. 1. LAWFUL FENCES

1827. Fences to be five feet high. Every planter shall make a sufficient fence about his cleared ground under cultivation, at least five feet high, unless otherwise provided in this chapter, unless there shall be some navigable stream or deep watercourse that shall be sufficient, instead of such fence, and unless his lands shall be situated within the limits of a county, township or district wherein the stock law may be in force.

Rev., s. 1660; Code, s. 2799; R. C., c. 48, s. 1; 1777, c. 121, s. 2; 1791, c. 354, s. 1.

Proof that plaintiff's fence is a "good, ordinary" one, such as his neighbors have, does not dispense with statutory obligations: Runyan v. Patterson, 87-343.

Plaintiff whose fence is insufficient not entitled to damages for defendant's stock breaking through it: Ibid.; Jones v. Witherspoon, 52-555. What is a sufficient lawful fence, or proper substitute therefor, is a question of law: State v. Lamb, 30-229. Whom the word "planter" herein comprehends, see State v. Taylor, 69-543; see State v. Bell, 25-506. A pasture field is not "cleared ground under cultivation": State v. Perry, 64-305.

Cases referring to section: State v. Anderson, 123-708; State v. Bloodworth, 94-918; Farmer v. R. R., 88-564; Roberts v. R. R., 88-560; State v. Staton, 66-640; State v. Waters, 51-276.

1828. Local: Four and a half feet in certain counties. A fence four and one-half feet high is a lawful fence in the counties of Alleghany, Bladen, Brunswick, Burke, Caldwell, Cherokee, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Davie, Davidson, Duplin, Harnett, Henderson, Jackson, Lenoir, Perquimans, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rutherford, Sampson, Tyrrell, Yancey, Wake, Washington and Wilkes. This section does not apply to stock-law fences, nor in Tyrrell county to wire fences which are lawful fences if four feet high.

Rev., s. 1661; 1889, c. 175; 1891, c. 36; 1905, c. 333; 1909, cc. 55, 94; P. L. 1911, c. 15.

1829. Local: Four feet in certain counties. A fence four feet high is a lawful fence in the counties of Bertie, Buncombe, Carteret, Hyde, Madison, McDowell, New Hanover, Northampton and Pamlico.

Rev., s. 1662; 1885, c. 304; 1887, c. 66; 1889, c. 390; 1903, cc. 66, 211; 1909, c. 178, s. 2; P. L. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 48.

1830. Watercourse made lawful fence by county commissioners. Any five electors, residents of the same county, may apply to the board of commissioners of the county, at any regular meeting of the same, by written petition praying that any watercourse, or any part of any watercourse, in the county, may be made a lawful fence. Notice of such petition shall be posted forty days at the courthouse door, by the clerk of the board, before such petition shall be acted upon. Upon the hearing of such petition, the board of county commissioners is authorized to declare any watercourse, or any part of any watercourse to which the petition applies, a lawful fence. And the several acts of the general assembly, declaring certain watercourses, in part or in whole, lawful fences, are so far repealed as to enable the board of commissioners of any county to declare any of such acts, or parts thereof, to be null and void in said county. Any order made under this section shall be of record and signed by the chairman, and may be rescinded by the board of commissioners at any regular meeting.

See section 1827.

1831. Injury to wire fence forbidden. If any person shall willfully destroy, cut or injure any part of a wire fence or a fence composed partly of wire and partly of wood situated on the land of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days or fined not exceeding fifty dollars.

Rev., s. 3413; 1889, c. 516.

Section not in conflict with section 4317: State v. Biggers, 108-760.

ART. 2. DIVISION FENCES

1832. Division fences maintainable jointly. Where two or more persons have lands adjoining, which are either cultivated or used as a pasture for stock, the respective owners of each piece of land shall make and maintain one-half of the fence upon the dividing line.

Rev., s. 1664; Code, s. 2800; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 1.

1833. Remedy against delinquent owner. If any person who is liable to build or keep up a part of any division fence fails at any time to do so, the owner of the adjoining land, after notice, may build or repair the whole, and recover of the delinquent one-half of the cost before any court having jurisdiction.

Rev., s. 1670; Code, s. 2807; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 7.

1834. Fence erected because of changed use of land. If the owner of a tract of land, who chooses neither to cultivate it, to use it as a pasture, nor to permit his stock to run on it, afterwards uses it in either of these ways and does not so enclose his stock that they cannot enter on the lands of an adjoining owner, he shall refund to such owner one-half the value of any fence erected by the latter on the dividing line.

Rev., s. 1665; Code, s. 2801; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 2.

1835. When owner may remove his part of division fence. If any owner of land liable to contribute for the keeping up of a division fence determines neither to cultivate his land nor permit his stock to run thereon, he may give the adjoining owner three months notice of his determination; and in that case, at any time after the expiration of such notice and between the first day of January and the first day of March, but at no other time, he may remove the half of the fence kept up by himself, and shall be no longer liable to keep up the same.

Rev., s. 1671; Code, s. 2802; 1903, c. 20; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 8; 1883, c. 111.

In stock-law territory, landowner may remove his part of division fence without notice: State v. Edmonds, 121-679. One may remove division fence entirely on his own land: State v. Watson, 86-626.

1836. Proceeding to value division fence. The value of such fence shall be ascertained as follows: Either owner may summon the other to appear before any justice of the peace of the township in which the dividing line is situate; or if it be situate in more than one township, then before any justice of the peace of any township in which any part of it is situate. In his summons he shall name a certain day, not less than five days after the summons, for the appearance of the defendant; he shall also state the purpose of the summons to be the adjustment of all matters in controversy respecting the dividing fence between the parties. The justice shall hear the complaint and defense. If the facts be found such as entitle either party to demand contribution of the other, the justice shall call on the complainant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the complainant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then call on the defendant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the defendant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then name a third indifferent person. These three persons, or any two of them, shall view the premises and decide all matters in controversy between the parties, relating to a fence on the dividing line. They shall make a written report to the justice, who shall give judgment thereon, and for the costs, which shall be paid by the owners of the several pieces of land equally. The jurors shall each receive one dollar per day. The fees of the justice and constable shall be as in other cases. Either party may appeal as provided in other cases of justices' judgments.

Rev., s. 1666; Code, s. 2803; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 3.

1837. Contents of jurors' report. The report of the jurors shall also state the kind of fence which ought to be kept up, and assign to each owner, in such manner as that it may be identified, the part which he shall keep up.

Rev., s. 1667; Code, s. 2804; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 4.

1838. Register to record report. The justice shall return the report, together with a transcript of the proceedings, to the register of deeds of his county for registration. The justice shall collect from the parties the fees of the register, and pay the same to him.

Rev., s. 1668; Code, s. 2805; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 5.

1839. Final judgment on report; effect. The final judgment upon the report of the jurors shall be binding on the owners of the respective lands and their assigns, so long as such ownership shall continue, or until the same shall be set aside, modified or reversed.

Rev., s. 1669; Code, s. 2806; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 6.

1840. Removal of common fence misdemeanor. If any person owning, occupying, cultivating or being in possession of any lands under a common fence protecting the lands, crops or property of others, shall remove such fence or any part thereof during the time in which any crops are growing or being actually cultivated thereon, or property is protected by such fence, and before such crops are harvested, without the consent and permission of such person or persons whose crop or property is protected by such common fence, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply when ninety days notice of such removal shall have been given to all persons owning, cultivating or in possession of lands surrounded by such common fence, or having property protected thereby, and when thereafter such fence shall be removed between the first day of January and the first day of March following such notice of intended removal.

Rev., s. 3412; Code, s. 2820; 1903, c. 20.

Section cited in State v. Higgs, 126-1023; State v. Dunn, 95-698.

ART. 3. STOCK LAW

1841. Term "stock" defined. The word "stock" in this chapter shall be construed to mean horses, mules, colts, cows, calves, sheep, goats, jennets, and all neat cattle, swine and geese.

Rev., s. 1681; Code, s. 2822.

1842. County elections. Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters of any county made to the board of commissioners thereof, it shall be the duty of the commissioners from time to time to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of said county. And if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the provisions of this chapter relating to the stock law shall be in force over the whole of said county.

Rev., s. 1672; Code, s. 2812.

Local law as to Macon county, see P. L. 1911, c. 41.

The provisions of this article are not in conflict with the principle of local self-government: Smalley v. Comrs., 122-607. Adoption of stock law does not abrogate a general statute or rule of law: Shepard v. R. R., 140-391. Power of legislature to fix stock-law territory with or without a fence: Archer v. Joyner, 173-75. Persons already in stock-law territory may petition in new territory: Perry v. Comrs., 130-558; Smalley v. Comrs., 122-607. Fences in stock-law territory are not a necessary expense, and require popular vote: Faison v. Comrs., 171-411; Keith v. Lockhart, 171-451. "Qualified voters" hereunder are those who have lawfully registered and paid their poll tax: Pace v. Raleigh, 140-65; see Clark v. Statesville, 139-490; Harris v. Scarborough, 110-232; Smith v. Wilmington, 98-343; Wood v. Oxford, 97-233; McDowell v. Construction Co., 96-514; Markham v. Manning, 96-132; Duke v. Brown, 96-127; Southerland v. Goldsboro, 96-49.

Commissioners must do all things necessary to carry this chapter into effect, but need not personally superintend work: State v. Comrs., 97-388; Coor v. Rogers, 97-146.

Findings by commissioners of result of election is final: Cain v. Comrs., 86-8; Norment v. Charlotte, 85-387; Simpson v. Comrs., 84-158.

1843. Township elections. Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters in any township, made to the board of commissioners of the county wherein the township is situated, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of the township; and if at any such township election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the stock law shall be in force in said township.

Rev., s. 1673; Code, s. 2813.

See section 1842.

1844. District elections. Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters of any district or territory, whether the boundaries of said district follow township lines or not, made to the board of county commissioners at any time, and setting forth well-defined boundaries of the district, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of the district, and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the stock law shall be in force over the whole of said district.

Rev., s. 1674; Code, s. 2814.

For local law as to Moore county, see 1907, c. 659.

See annotations under section 1842. Commissioners cannot consolidate several adjoining districts and provide for one boundary fence and assess uniform tax on all real property within boundary to pay for fence: Bradshaw v. Comrs., 92-278.

As to boundaries being sufficiently defined in application, see Newsom v. Earnheart, 86-391.

1845. Local: How territory released from stock law. Upon the written application of a majority of the qualified voters in any district, territory or well-defined boundary, made to the board of county commissioners, at any time, setting forth that the citizens of said district, territory or boundary are within the stock-law boundary, and are desirous of being released from the laws governing stock-law territory, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "no stock law" or "stock law" to the qualified voters of said district or territory, and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is against stock law, then the said district or territory shall be released and free from the operation of the stock law: Provided, the expense incurred in changing the fence in such boundary, district or territory so released be paid by the property holders in such boundary, district or territory, and that the commissioners of the county levy the tax to pay the same on the property holders of such boundary, district or territory so released, but they shall not be further liable for keeping up said stock-law fence: Provided, that in any territory where stock law now prevails no election against stock law shall be held in less than two years from the date of the election adopting stock law in said territory: Provided further, that if "no stock law" should carry, it shall not take effect until six months from the date of its ratification: Provided still further, that neither "stock law" nor "no stock law" shall take effect during crop season.

This section applies only to the counties of Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Jackson, Macon, Mitchell, Pender, Randolph, Swain, and to Hogback Township in Transylvania County.

Rev., s. 1675; 1895, c. 35; 1897, cc. 461, 516; 1903, c. 60; 1907, c. 874, s. 3; P. L. 1911, cc. 265, 469; P. L. 1915, c. 379; P. L. 1917, c. 662.

Does not provide for an assessment, but for a tax, to pay expense of changing fence: Hawes v. Comrs., 175-268. Persons withdrawing from stock-law territory must build a fence to protect the territory remaining: Marshburn v. Jones, 176-516.

1846. How election conducted. Every election under this chapter shall be held and conducted under the same rules and regulations and according to the same penalties provided by law for the election of members of the general assembly: Provided, no such county, township or district election shall be held oftener than once in any one year, although the boundaries of such district may not be the same.

Rev., s. 1676; Code, s. 2815.

1847. Powers and duties of county commissioners. The board of commissioners of the county may provide for a new registration of voters, designate places for holding elections, and make all regulations, and do all other things necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter relating to the stock law.

Rev., s. 1677; Code, s. 2826.

See chapter Elections. See, also, Coor v. Rogers, 97-146; State v. Comrs., 97-391.

1848. Admission of lands adjoining stock-law territory. Any person, or any number of persons, owning land in a county, district or township which shall not adopt the stock law, or adjoining any county, township or district where a stock law prevails, may have his or their lands enclosed within any fence built in pursuance of this chapter. All such adjacent lands, when so enclosed, shall be subject to all the provisions of law with respect to livestock running at large within the original district so enclosed, as if it were a part of the township, county or district with which it is hereby authorized to be enclosed. Any number of landowners, whose lands are contiguous, may at any time build a common fence around all their lands, with gates across all public highways; and no livestock shall run at large within any such enclosure, under the pains and penalties prescribed in this chapter.

Rev., s. 1678; Code, s. 2821.

Referred to in Edwards v. Supervisors, 127-63.

1849. Allowing stock at large in stock-law territory forbidden. If any person shall allow his livestock to run at large within the limits of any county, township or district in which a stock law prevails or shall prevail pursuant to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3319; Code, s. 2811; 1889, c. 504.

Section cited in Daniels v. Homer, 139-252; State v. Brigman, 94-888; compare Newsom v. Earnheart, 86-391.

1850. Impounding stock at large in territory. Any person may take up any livestock running at large within any township or district wherein the stock law shall be in force and impound the same; and such impounder may demand fifty cents for each animal so taken up, and twenty-five cents for each animal for every day such stock is kept impounded, and may retain the same, with the right to use it under proper care, until all legal charges for impounding said stock and for damages caused by the same are paid, the damages to be ascertained by two disinterested freeholders, to be selected by the owner and the impounder, the freeholders to select an umpire, if they cannot agree, and their decision to be final.

Rev., s. 1679; Code, s. 2816.

For local laws as to stock or fowls at large, see Ashe. 1909, c. 132 (livestock, geese and turkeys).

This section is constitutional: Hogan v. Brown, 125-251—and it relieves planter from keeping lawful fence, State v. Anderson, 123-705. Resident owners may be required to pay more than nonresident owners for stock running at large: Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 121-418. A town ordinance may apply to stock of nonresidents: Rose v. Hardie, 98-44. Stock law does not justify wilful injury to stock running at large: State v. Brigman, 94-888. Whether stock can be impounded when owner is in pursuit: State v. Hunter, 118-1196.

1851. Owner notified; sale of stock; application of proceeds. If the owner of such stock be known to the impounder he shall immediately inform the owner where his stock is impounded, and if the owner shall for two days after such notice willfully refuse or neglect to redeem his stock, then the impounder, after ten days written notice posted at three or more public places within the township where the stock is impounded, and describing the stock and stating place, day and hour of sale, or if the owner be unknown, after twenty days notice in the same manner, and also at the courthouse door, shall sell the stock at public auction, and apply the proceeds in accordance with the preceding and succeeding sections, and the balance he shall turn over to the owner if known, and if the owner be not known, to the county commissioners for the use of the school fund of the district wherein said stock was taken up and impounded, subject in their hands for six months to the call of the legally entitled owner.

Rev., s. 1680; Code, s. 2817.

Section constitutional: Hogan v. Brown, 125-251. Proceeding hereunder is in rem: Ibid. No sale without notice: Daniels v. Homer, 139-252.

1852. Impounding unlawfully misdemeanor. If any person shall willfully and unlawfully toll, drive, or in any way move any other person's horse, mule, ass, neat cattle, sheep, hog, goat, or dog, from the range or elsewhere, into any stock-law district, or into the limits of any city or town having the right to impound or destroy the same, with intent to secure the poundage or other penalty, or with intent to injure the owner of such animal, or to require him to pay any poundage or penalty on account of such animal, or for hire or reward, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any person shall unlawfully and willfully remove any animal above named from any lawful inclosure, with intent to injure the owner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3309; 1895, c. 141, s. 1.

1853. Illegally releasing or receiving impounded stock misdemeanor. If any person unlawfully receives or releases any impounded stock, or unlawfully attempts to do so, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3310; Code, s. 2819; 1889, c. 504.

See generally: State v. Hunter, 118-1196.

1854. Impounded stock to be fed and watered. If any person shall impound, or cause to be impounded in any pound or other place, any animal, and shall fail to supply to the same during such confinement a sufficient quantity of good and wholesome food and water, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3311; Code, s. 2484; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 3.

1855. Right to feed impounded stock; owner liable. In case any animal is at any time impounded as aforesaid, and shall continue to be without necessary food and water for more than twelve successive hours, it shall be lawful for any person from time to time, and as often as it shall be necessary, to enter into and upon any such pound or other place in which any animal shall be so confined, and to supply it with necessary food and water so long as it shall remain so confined. Such person shall not be liable to any action for such entry, and the reasonable cost of such food and water may be collected by him of the owner of such animal.

Rev., s. 1682; Code, s. 2485; 1881, c. 368, s. 4.

1856. Injuring lands in stock-law territory by riding or driving. If any person, by riding or driving upon the lands of another without permission, or while driving livestock along any roadway, public or private, shall willfully, deliberately or recklessly do or permit to be done any actual injury to said land, or to the crops or other property growing or being thereon, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. But no such offender shall be proceeded against unless the party injured, or some one in his behalf, shall cause a warrant to be issued or an indictment to be found against the party offending, within fifteen days after the commission of the offense.

Rev., s. 3321; Code, s. 2828; 1889, c. 118.

1857. Owner in stock-law territory allowing stock outside. If any person having stock within the limits of a stock-law territory shall allow the same to run at large beyond the boundaries of said territory, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that a person owning or renting land outside of the stock-law territory may turn his stock upon the said land outside of the stock-law district.

Compare Roberts v. R. R., 88-560; State v. Comrs., 97-388.

1858. Stock-law territory to be fenced around. The stock law authorized by this chapter shall not be enforced until a fence has been erected around any territory proposed to be enclosed, with gates on all the public roads passing into and going out of said territory: Provided, all streams which are or may be declared to be lawful fences shall be sufficient boundaries, in lieu of fences: Provided further, no fence shall be erected along the boundary lines of any county, township or district where a stock law prevails.

Rev., s. 1683; Code, s. 2823.

1859. Commissioners may declare natural barrier sufficient fence. In any county in the state in which or in any portion of which the stock law is now in force or may hereafter be adopted, the county commissioners of said county in their discretion may declare any watercourse, mountain, mountain range or parts of same, and also other natural and sufficient obstruction along the line of said stock-law territory to be and constitute a sufficient stock-law fence, and in that event such watercourse, mountain, mountain range or part thereof and obstructions so declared by said commissioners shall be and constitute a lawful fence to all intents and purposes.

Rev., s. 1684; 1901, c. 542.

The county commissioners can declare a mountain range, a creek or other natural line as the limit within which the law shall operate: State v. Mathis, 149-546.

1860. Assessment of landowners for fence. For the purpose of building stock-law fences, the board of commissioners of the county may levy and collect a special assessment upon all real property, taxable by the state and county, within the county, township or district which may adopt the stock law, but no such assessment shall be greater than one-fourth of one per centum on the value of said property.

Rev., s. 1685; Code, s. 2824.

Excepted district cannot be taxed for a common county fence: Harper v. Comrs., 133-106. Local assessments for local improvements are constitutional: Harper v. Comrs., 133-110; Comrs. v. R. R., 133-216; Hilliard v. Asheville, 118-845; Raleigh v. Peace, 110-32; Putt v. Comrs., 94-709; Busbee v. Comrs., 93-143; Comrs. v. Comrs., 92-180; Shuford v. Comrs., 86-552; Cain v. Comrs., 86-8. This is not a tax within the constitutional prohibition as to uniformity: Harper v. Comrs., 133-110; Shuford v. Comrs., 86-552.

The provision of this section applies both to cases where adoption of stock law is dependent on popular vote and where it is made absolute by act of general assembly: Busbee v. Comrs., 93-143. This assessment is limited to the territory adopting the stock law: Hawes v. Comrs., 175-268.

1861. Condemnation of land for fence. If the owner of any land objects to the building of any fence herein allowed, his land, not exceeding twenty feet in width, shall be condemned for the fenceway in accordance with the procedure specified in the article Condemnation Proceedings under the chapter Eminent Domain.

Rev., s. 1686; Code, s. 2825.

No appeal lies from order appointing commissioners: Comrs. v. Cook, 86-18.

1862. Injury to stock-law fences misdemeanor in stock-law territory. If any person willfully tears down, or in any manner breaks a fence or gate, or leaves open a gate erected around a stock-law territory, or willfully breaks any enclosure within any township, district or county where a stock law is in force, and wherein any stock is confined, so that the same may escape therefrom, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3411; Code, s. 2820; 1889, c. 504.

Section cited in State v. Dunn, 95-698; State v. Higgs, 126-1023.

1863. Impounder violating stock law misdemeanor. If any impounder willfully misappropriates money that he may receive from sale of stock impounded, or in any manner willfully violates any provisions of the law in regard thereto, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3312; Code, s. 2820; 1889, c. 504.

Section cited in State v. Higgs, 126-1023; State v. Dunn, 95-698.

1864. Local: Depredations of domestic fowls in certain counties. In the counties and parts of counties hereinafter enumerated, where the stock law prevails, it shall be unlawful for any person to permit any turkeys, geese, chickens, ducks or other domestic fowls to run at large, after being notified as provided in this section, on the lands of any other person while such lands are under cultivation in any kind of grain or feedstuff, or while being used for gardens or ornamental purposes.

Any person so permitting his fowls to run at large, after having been notified to keep them up, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding five dollars or imprisoned not exceeding five days, or if it shall appear to any justice of the peace that after two days notice any person persists in allowing his fowls to run at large and fails or refuses to keep them upon his own premises, then the said justice of the peace may, in his discretion, order any sheriff, constable or other officer to kill said fowls when so depredating.

SUBCHAPTER IV. NONCOMMERCIAL FISHING

ART. 11. GENERAL REGULATIONS.

2078. Trout protected; close season.

SUBCHAPTER I. FISHERIES COMMISSION BOARD ACT

ART. 1. DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

1865. Fish, fishing, fisheries, defined. Wherever the word "fish" or "fishes," as a substantive, occurs in this subchapter, it shall be construed to include porpoises and other marine mammals, fishes, mollusca, and crustaceans, and wherever the word "fishing," or "fisheries" occurs it shall be construed to include all operations involved in using, setting or operating apparatus employed in killing or taking the said animals or in transporting and preparing them for market.

1915, c. 84, s. 24.

1866. Administrative agencies under former laws conformed to present law. All acts relating to the fisheries of North Carolina are hereby amended so that the words "shellfish commissioner," "oyster commissioner," or "fish commissioner" shall read "fisheries commissioner," and the words "shellfish commission" shall read "fisheries commission."

1915, c. 84, s. 25; 1917, c. 290, s. 9.

1867. State jurisdiction over fisheries. The state of North Carolina shall have exclusive jurisdiction and control over all the fisheries of the state wherever located.

1915, c. 84, s. 18; 1917, c. 290, s. 9.

For legislative consent to federal regulation of fish on certain federal lands, see chapter Game Laws, s. 2099.

1868. Edible fish used only as food. Any person, firm or corporation who catches or causes to be caught any edible fish in the waters of the state of North Carolina for any other purpose than as food, and any person, firm or corporation who shall use any edible fish for fertilizing purposes shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than fifty dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days.

1915, c. 84, s. 23.

ART. 2. FISHERIES COMMISSION BOARD; ORGANIZATION, OFFICERS, SUPPORT

1869. Creation and organization of board. For the purpose of enforcing the laws relating to all fish, there is hereby created a fisheries commission, which shall consist of five members appointed by the governor, at least three of whom shall be from the several fishing districts of the state, and shall have a practical knowledge or be familiar with the fishing industry, who shall be denominated the "fisheries commission board."

The members shall be appointed as follows: two, whose terms of office shall expire on the first day of June, nineteen hundred and seventeen; and three, one of whom shall be a member of the minority party, whose term of office shall expire on the first day of June, nineteen hundred and nineteen; and their successors shall be appointed by the governor for a term of four years each thereafter.

The five members shall receive four dollars per day each and traveling expenses while attending meetings of the board: Provided, the per diem and expenses shall not exceed two hundred and fifty dollars each per annum.

1870. Fish commissioner and assistant commissioners. Said board shall appoint a fisheries commissioner within thirty days after the passage of this act, and the said commissioner shall be responsible to the fisheries commission board for carrying out the duties of his office, and shall make semiannual reports to them at such time as they may require. The term of office of said commissioner and his successor in office shall be four years or until his successor is appointed and qualified, and in case of vacancy in the office the appointment shall be to fill the vacancy. The said commissioner may appoint two assistants by and with the consent of the fisheries commission board, who shall hold said offices at the pleasure of the fisheries commissioner and the board, whose duties shall be prescribed by the fisheries commissioner. The aforesaid commissioner and assistant commissioners shall receive such pay as the fisheries commission board shall determine. During the absence of the commissioner, or his inability to act, the fisheries commission board shall appoint one of the assistant commissioners to have and exercise all the powers of the commissioner. The commissioner and assistant commissioners shall each execute and file with the secretary of state a bond, payable to the state of North Carolina, in the sum of five thousand dollars for the commissioner and twenty-five hundred dollars each for each of the assistant commissioners, with sureties to be approved by the secretary of state, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties and to account for and pay over, pursuant to law, all moneys received by them in their office. The fisheries commissioner and assistant commissioners shall take and subscribe an oath to support the constitution, and for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, which oaths shall be filed with their bonds. The assistant commissioners may be removed for cause by the commissioner, who may appoint their successors.

1871. Fish inspectors. The fisheries commissioner may appoint, with the approval of the fisheries commission board, inspectors in each county having fisheries under his jurisdiction, who will assist him at such times as he may require. The said inspector shall serve under the direction of the commissioner, receiving compensation not to exceed three dollars per day and necessary expenses while in actual service.

1915, c. 84, s. 2.

1872. Board and officers to be free from financial interest in fisheries. The members of the fisheries commission board, the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioners, and inspectors shall not be financially interested in any fishing industry in North Carolina.

1915, c. 84, s. 8.

1873. Clerical force and office. The fisheries commissioner shall rent and equip an office, which will be adequate for the business of the commission, in some town conveniently located to the maritime fisheries, and he is authorized to employ such clerks and other employees as may be necessary for the proper carrying on of the work of his office, by and with the consent of the fisheries commission board.

1915, c. 84, s. 3.

1874. Boats and equipment. The fisheries commissioner is authorized, by and with the consent of the fisheries commission board, to purchase or rent such boats, nets, and other equipment as may be necessary to enable him and his assistants to fulfill the duties specified in this chapter.

1915, c. 84, s. 4.

1875. "Fisheries commission fund" derived from imposts. All license fees, taxes, rentals of bottoms for oyster or clam cultivation and other imposts upon the fisheries, in whatever manner collected, shall, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, be deposited with the state treasurer to the credit of the fisheries commission fund, to be drawn upon as directed by the fisheries commission board.

1915, c. 84, s. 9.

1876. Temporary and annual appropriations. There is hereby appropriated out of the general treasury as a supplementary fund the sum of ten thousand dollars annually for two years, or as much thereof as may be needed, to the fisheries commission to carry out the work of the commission in the protection and promotion of the fisheries of the state, this sum to be repaid to the general treasury by the fisheries commission when it shall be on a self-sustaining basis; said sum to be used and expended as directed by the fisheries commission board, and any part of it that may be required may be used for purchasing boats and other equipment necessary to carry out the work of the commission.

The sum of ten thousand dollars is appropriated annually for the support and maintenance of the fisheries commission.

1877. Succeeds fish commission and oyster commission as to funds, property, and debts. Any money that may be in the state treasury to the credit of the fish commission and oyster commission fund on May first, 1915, shall be transferred by the state treasurer to the credit of the fisheries commission fund, and the fisheries commission board is authorized to pay out of the fisheries commission fund all just claims that may be outstanding against the fish or oyster commissions.

All boats, fishing and oyster tackle, office supplies, stationery, and all other supplies of whatever character belonging to the fish commission and oyster commission shall be transferred to the fisheries commissioner for the use of the fisheries commission.

1915, c. 84, ss. 16, 17.

ART. 3. POWERS AND DUTIES OF BOARD AND OFFICERS

1878. Regulations as to fish, fishing, and fisheries made by board. The fisheries commission board is hereby authorized to regulate, prohibit, or restrict in time, place, character, or dimensions, the use of nets, appliances, apparatus, or means employed in taking or killing fish; to regulate the seasons at which the various species of fish may be taken in the several waters of the state, and to prescribe the minimum sizes of fish which may be taken in the said several waters of the state, or which may be bought, sold, or held in possession by any person, firm, or corporation in the state; and such regulations, prohibitions, restrictions and prescriptions, after due publication, which shall be construed to be once a week for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper in North Carolina, shall be of equal force and effect with the provisions of this act; and any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court.

For legislative consent to federal regulation of fish on certain lands, see Game Laws, s. 2099.

1879. Regulations affecting existing interests not effective for two years. In making regulations the fisheries commission board shall give due weight and consideration to all factors which will affect the value of the present investment in the fisheries, and no changes in the existing laws which, if they should go into effect immediately, would tend to cause fishermen to lose their property shall go into effect until two years from the date that the change has been made by the fisheries commission board.

1880. Hearing before changes as to certain regulations. If, however, a petition signed by five or more voters of the district or community which will be affected by the proposed changes is filed with the fisheries commission board through the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioners or inspectors, asking that they have a hearing before any proposed change in the territory, size of mesh, length of net, or time of fishing shall go into effect, petitioning that they be heard regarding such change, the fisheries commission board shall in that event designate by advertisement for a period of thirty days at the courthouse and three other public places in the county affected, and also by publication in a newspaper of the county, if such is published in said county, once a week for two consecutive weeks, a place at which said board will meet and hear argument for and against said change, and may ratify, rescind, or alter this previous order of change as may seem just in the premises.

1881. Regulation of shipment of water products. The fisheries commission board shall have power and authority to make such rules regulating the shipment and transportation of fish, oysters, clams, crabs, escallops, and other water products as it may deem necessary.

1919, c. 333, s. 4.

1882. Reports of board to legislature; publication. The fisheries commission board shall cause to be prepared and submitted to each legislature a report showing the operations, collections and expenditures of the fisheries commission; and it shall also cause to be prepared for publication such other reports, with necessary illustrations and maps, as will adequately set forth the results of the work and the investigations of the fisheries commission, all such reports, illustrations, and maps to be printed and distributed at the expense of the state, as are other public documents, as the fisheries commission board may direct.

1915, c. 84, s. 15.

1883. Duties of commissioner. It is the duty of the commissioner: To enforce all acts relating to the fish and fisheries of North Carolina.

By and with the advice and consent of the fisheries commission board, to make such regulations as shall maintain open for the passage of fishes all inlets and not less than one-third of the width of all sounds and streams, or such greater proportions of their width as may be necessary.

To collect and compile statistics showing the annual product of the fisheries of the state, the capital invested, and the apparatus employed, and any fisherman refusing to give these statistics shall be refused a license for the next year.

To prepare and have on file in his office maps based on the charts of the United States coast and geodetic survey, of the largest scale published, showing as closely as may be the location of all fixed apparatus employed during each fishing season.

To have surveyed and marked in a prominent manner those areas of waters of the state in which the use of any or all fishing appliances are prohibited by law or regulation, and those areas of waters in the state in which oyster tonging or dredging is prohibited by law.

To prosecute all violations of the fish laws, and wherever necessary he may employ counsel for this purpose.

To remove pending trial nets or other appliances he finds being fished or used in violation of the fisheries laws of the state.

To carry on investigations relating to the migrations and habits of the fish in the waters of the state, also investigations relating to the cultivation of the oyster, clam and other mollusca, and of the terrapin and crab, and for this purpose he may employ such scientific assistance as may be authorized by the fisheries commission board.

The commissioner shall be responsible for the collection of all license taxes, fees, rentals, or other imposts on the fisheries, and shall pay same into the state treasury to the credit of the fisheries commission fund. He shall on or before the twenty-fifth day of each month mail to the treasurer of the state a consolidated statement showing the amount of taxes and license fees collected during the preceding month, and by and from whom collected.

He shall, in an official capacity, have power to administer oaths and to send for and examine persons and papers.

If any fisherman fail or refuse to give statistics as required in this section, the board may extend the time of his operations, and the fisheries commission board is empowered to make such rules and regulations as they think proper to procure statistics as to the annual products of the fisheries of the state.

1915, c. 84, s. 5; 1917, c. 290, s. 10.

1884. Violations of law to be investigated; nets seized and sold; bond of commissioner liable. It is the duty of the fisheries commissioner, or any of his assistants or deputies, whenever a complaint is made to him, either orally or in writing, stating that any of the laws relating to fish or fisheries are being violated at any particular place, to go himself or send a deputy to such place and investigate same, and he shall seize and remove all nets or other appliances set or being used in violation of the fisheries laws of the state, sell same at public auction after advertisement for twenty days at the courthouse and three other public places in the county in which the seizure was made, and apply the proceeds of sale to the payment of costs and expenses of such removal, and pay any balance remaining to the school fund of the county nearest to where the offense is committed. And the failure of the fisheries commissioner or his deputies to perform the above prescribed duty shall render his bond liable to a penalty of five hundred dollars, one-half to go to the informant and the other half to be paid to the school fund of the county in which the action is brought.

1911, c. 18.

For construction and application of similar provision, see Daniels v. Homer, 139-219.

1885. Arrests without warrant. The fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioners and inspectors shall have power, without warrant, to arrest any person or persons violating any of the fishery laws in their presence, who shall be carried before a magistrate for trial as is required by law in case of persons arrested without warrant.

1915, c. 84, s. 6; 1917, c. 290, s. 2.

1886. Taking fish for scientific purposes. The fisheries commissioner and the United States bureau of fisheries may take and cause to be taken for scientific purposes or for fish culture any fish or other marine organism at any time from the waters of North Carolina, any law to the contrary notwithstanding; and may cause or permit to be sold such fishes or parts of fishes so taken as may not be necessary for purposes of scientific investigations or fish culture: Provided, that in taking fish for fish culture in the hatcheries of this state the fish shall only be taken while the hatcheries are in operation and only between the hours of four and eleven p.m.

ART. 4. TAXES AND REGULATIONS

1887. Licenses to fish; issuance, terms, and enforcement. Each and every person, firm, or corporation, before commencing or engaging in any kind of fishing in the state, shall file with an inspector of the county in which he desires to fish, or with the fisheries commissioner or any of his assistant commissioners, a sworn statement as to the number and kind of nets, seines, or other apparatus intended to be used in fishing. Upon filing this sworn statement on oath the fisheries commissioner shall issue or cause to be issued to the said party or parties a license as prescribed by law; said applicant shall pay a license fee equal in amount to the fee or tax prescribed by law for fishing different kinds of apparatus in the waters of the state of North Carolina, or for tonging or dredging for oysters, as the case may be. The fisheries commissioner shall keep in a book especially prepared for the purpose an exact record of all licenses, to whom issued, the number and kinds of nets, boats, and other apparatus licensed, and the license fees received. He shall furnish to each person, firm, or corporation in whose favor a license is issued a special tag which will show the license number and number of pound nets, or yards of seine, or yards of gill net that the licensee is authorized to use, and the licensee shall attach said tag to the net in a conspicuous manner satisfactory to the fisheries commissioner. All boats or vessels licensed to scoop, scrape, or dredge oysters shall display on the port side of the jib, above the reef and bonnet and on the opposite side of mainsail, above all reef points, in black letters not less than twenty inches long, the initial letter of the county granting the license and the number of said license, the number to be painted on canvas and furnished by the fisheries commissioner, for which he shall receive the sum of fifty cents. Any boat or vessel used in catching oysters without having complied with the provisions of this section may be seized, forfeited, advertised for twenty days at the courthouse and two other public places in the county where seized, and sold at some public place designated in the advertisement, and the proceeds, less the cost of the proceedings, shall be paid into the school fund. The licenses to fish with nets shall all terminate on December thirty-first. Any person who shall willfully use for fishing purposes any kind of net whatever, without having first complied with the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined twenty-five dollars for each and every offense.

Power of legislature to restrict the right of fishing: Daniels v. Homer, 139-219; State v. Gallop, 126-979.

1888. Resident may catch shellfish for own use. No tax shall be levied or collected from bona fide residents or citizens of this state who take fish, oysters, clams, escallops, or crabs other than with dredges for his own personal or family's use and consumption. But if any person shall sell or offer for sale any such products without having first procured a license, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than five dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

1889. Licenses for oyster boats; schedule. The fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner, or inspector, may grant license for a boat to be used in catching oysters upon application made, according to law, and the payment of a license tax as follows: On any boat or vessel without cabin or deck, and under custom-house tonnage, using scrapes or dredges, measuring over all twenty-five feet and under thirty, a tax of three dollars; fifteen feet and under twenty-five feet, a tax of two dollars; on any boat or vessel with cabin or deck and under custom-house tonnage, using scrapes or dredges, measuring over all thirty feet or under, a tax of five dollars; over thirty feet, a tax of six dollars; on any boat or vessel using scoops, scrapes, or dredges required to be registered or enrolled in the custom house, a tax of one dollar and fifty cents a ton on gross tonnage. No vessel propelled by steam, gas or electricity, and no boat or vessel not the property absolutely of a citizen or citizens of this state, shall receive license or be permitted in any manner to engage in the catching of oysters anywhere in the waters of this state.

1915, c. 84, s. 11.

1890. Boats using purse seines or shirred nets; tax. All boats or vessels of any kind used in operating purse seines or shirred nets shall pay a license fee of two dollars per ton on gross tonnage, custom-house measurement, which shall be independent of and separate from the seine or net tax on the seines or nets used on said boats. This license fee shall be for one year from January 1st, and shall not be issued for any period less than one year. It shall be issued by the fisheries commission.

1891. Licenses for various appliances and their users; schedule. The following license tax is hereby levied annually upon the different fishing appliances used in the waters of North Carolina:

Anchor gill nets, twenty-five cents for one hundred yards or fraction thereof.

Stake gill nets, twenty-five cents for each hundred yards or fraction thereof.

Drift gill nets, twenty-five cents for each hundred yards or fraction thereof.

Pound nets, one dollar and twenty-five cents on each pound; the pound is construed to apply to that part of net which holds and from which the fish are taken. No pound net shall be set in the waters of the Atlantic ocean within the three-mile limit.

Submarine pounds, or submerged trap nets, two dollars for each trap or pound.

Shrimp trawl nets, twenty-five cents each.

Seines, drag nets and mullet nets under one hundred yards, one dollar each.

Seines, drag nets and mullet nets over one hundred yards and under three hundred yards, one dollar per hundred yards or fraction thereof.

Seines, drag nets and mullet nets over three hundred yards and under one thousand yards, one dollar and twenty-five cents per one hundred yards or fraction thereof.

Seines, drag nets and mullet nets over one thousand yards, one dollar and seventy-five cents per one hundred yards or fraction thereof.

Fyke nets, twenty-five cents each.

Tonging for oysters, the license tax shall be one dollar for each tonger.

For taking escallops with rakes, tongs, scoops, or scrapes, one dollar for each person and for every person assisting or employed.

For taking clams with rakes, tongs, scoops, or scrapes, one dollar for each person and for every person assisting or employed.

And for other apparatus used in fishing, the license shall be the same as that for the apparatus or appliance which it most resembles for the purpose used.

1915, c. 84, s. 14; 1917, c. 290, s. 5; 1919, c. 333, s. 3.

1892. License tax on dealers and packers. An annual license tax, for the year beginning January 1st in each year, to be collected by the fisheries commission board, is imposed on all persons or dealers who purchase or carry on the business of canning, packing, shucking, or shipping the sea products enumerated below, as follows: On—oysters, five dollars;

escallops, five dollars;

clams, five dollars;

crabs, for shipment out of the state, five dollars;

fish, two dollars and fifty cents;

shrimp, two dollars and fifty cents: Provided, that (1) the license tax for shucking or selling oysters and clams on local market by retail shall be fifty cents a year; (2) no license tax shall be imposed on fishermen who pay a license on nets to catch fish or shrimp, and who ship only the fish or shrimp caught in such licensed nets.

1917, c. 290, s. 5; 1919, c. 333, ss. 1, 2.

1893. Purchase tax on dealers; schedule; collection. All dealers in and all persons who purchase, catch, or take for canning, packing, shucking, or shipping the sea products enumerated below shall be liable to a tax to be collected by the fisheries commission board as follows: On—oysters, two cents a bushel, except coon oysters, three-quarters of a cent a bushel; escallops, ten cents a gallon;

clams, ten cents a bushel;

soft crabs, five cents a dozen;

hard crabs, ten cents a bushel;

crab meat, ten cents a gallon;

shrimps, one-fourth of a cent a pound.

But none of these products shall be twice taxed, and no tax shall be imposed on oysters, escallops, or clams taken from private beds or gardens. Upon failure to pay said tax, the license provided in the preceding section shall at once be null and void and no further license shall be granted during the current year; and it shall be the duty of the commissioner, assistant commissioner, or inspector to institute suit for the collection of said tax. Such suit shall be in the name of the state of North Carolina on relation of the commissioner or inspector at whose instance such suit is instituted, and the recovery shall be for the benefit and for the use of the general fisheries commission fund. Any person failing or refusing to pay said tax shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

1894. Printed regulations furnished dealers. It is the duty of the fisheries commission board, upon issuing any license under the provisions of this subchapter to furnish with said license the printed regulations controlling the waters in which such fisherman applying therefor proposes to fish.

1917, c. 290, s. 12.

1895. Dealers to keep and furnish statistics. All persons, firms, or corporations engaged in buying, packing, canning, or shipping oysters, escallops, clams, crabs, shrimp, and fish taken from the public grounds or natural beds of the state, or the natural waters or streams of the state, shall keep a permanent record of all such products, showing the quantity of each of said products so purchased, packed, canned, or shipped, the kind of fish, from whom each of said species of fish, mollusca, or crustaceans were purchased, that a statement of all these facts shall be made whenever required by the fisheries commissioner, but shall be at least at the end of each month. That all such records shall be open at all times to the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner, or any one under the direction of the fisheries commissioner.

1896. Disturbing marks or property of commission prohibited. Any person or persons removing, injuring, defacing, or in any way disturbing the posts, buoys, or any other appliances used by the fisheries commission in marking the restricted areas relating to any and all fishing, or marking other areas in which oyster tonging or dredging is prohibited by law, and those marking oyster bottoms that are leased for oyster cultivation, or shall injure or destroy any boat or other property of any kind used by the fisheries commission board or any officer or employee thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court; and any person anchoring or mooring a boat to any of these buoys or posts shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars and imprisoned thirty days in jail, at the discretion of the court.

1897. Explosives, drugs, and poisons prohibited. It shall be unlawful to place in any of the waters of this state any dynamite, giant or electric powder, or any explosive substance whatever, or any drug or poisoned bait, for the purpose of taking, killing or injuring fish. And any one violating this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred dollars and imprisoned not less than thirty days.

1915, c. 84, s. 19.

1898. Possession of fish killed by explosives as evidence. The possession of fish killed by explosive agencies shall be prima facie evidence that explosives were used for the purpose of killing fish.

Rev., s. 2466; Code, s. 3405; 1889, c. 312; 1911, c. 170.

1899. Discharge of deleterious matter into waters prohibited. It shall be unlawful to discharge or to cause or permit to be discharged into the waters of the state any deleterious or poisonous substance or substances inimical to the fishes inhabiting the said water; and any person, persons or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court: Provided, this section shall not apply to corporations chartered either by general law or special act before the 4th day of March, 1915.

1900. Operation of boats in violation of rules and laws forfeits boats and apparatus. If any person, firm, or corporation shall use or operate any boat or vessel of any kind, in violation of any rule of the fisheries commission board, or any of the fish laws, it shall be the duty of the fisheries commissioner to revoke any license issued and seize such boat or vessel and any apparatus or appliance so used or operated; but the fisheries commission board shall have authority to compromise by agreement with the owner of such boat or appliance for any such violation, and may return such boat or appliance so seized to the owner and reinstate license.

1919, c. 333, s. 5.

For revocation of license and forfeiture of oyster boats. see s. 1887.

1901. Violations of fisheries law misdemeanor; licenses forfeited. Upon failure of any person, firm or corporation to comply with any of the provisions of this article, or any of the fisheries laws, any license issued to any such person, firm or corporation may be revoked by the fisheries commission, and upon satisfactory settlement may be reinstated, with the consent of the board. All such persons violating the provisions of this article or of the fisheries law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SUBCHAPTER II. SHELLFISH

ART. 5. SHELLFISH; GENERAL LAWS

Part 1. Definition of Natural Oyster Bed

1902. Oyster bed defined. A natural oyster or clam bed, as distinguished from an artificial oyster or clam bed, shall be one not planted by man, and is any shoal, reef or bottom where oysters are to be found growing in sufficient quantities to be valuable to the public.

Rev., s. 2371; 1893, c. 287, s. 1.

This definition very nearly in the words of State v. Willis, 104-764.

Part 2. Leases of Bottoms

1903. Fisheries commissioner to lease. The fisheries commissioner shall have power to lease to any duly qualified person, firm or corporation, for purposes of oyster or clam culture, any bottom of the waters of the state not a natural oyster bed, as defined in this article, nor a clam reservation, as defined in this article, in accordance with the provisions of this part of this article.

1909, c. 871, ss. 1, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1904. Lessee to be citizen. Any citizen of North Carolina, or firm or corporation organized under the laws of the state and doing business within its limits, shall be granted the privilege of taking up bottoms for purposes of oyster or clam culture, under the provisions of this article.

1909, c. 871, ss. 2, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1905. Areas leased in different waters. The area which may be taken up for purposes of oyster or clam culture shall be not less than one acre nor more than fifty acres, with the exception of the open waters of Pamlico sound (and for the purposes of this article open waters of Pamlico sound shall mean the waters that are outside of two miles of the shore line), in which the minimum limit shall be five acres and the maximum shall be two hundred acres: Provided, that the limit of entry in Core sound, North river, Newport river, Bogue sound, and all bays and creeks bordering on these waters, and in Jones bay, Rose bay, Abels bay, Swan Quarter bay, Middle bay, Bay river, Deep bay, Juniper bay, West and East Bluff bays, Wysocking bay, Fire creek, Stumpy Point bay, Mouse Harbor bay, Maw bay and Broad creek, tributaries of Pamlico sound, shall be one acre as a minimum and ten acres as a maximum: Provided further, however, that after March 9, 1910, the minimum area in Core sound, North river, Newport river, Bogue sound, and all bays and creeks bordering on these waters, and in Jones bay, Rose bay, Abels bay, Swan Quarter bay, Middle bay, Bay river, Deep bay, Juniper bay, West and East Bluff bays, Wysocking bay, Fire creek, Stumpy Point bay, Mouse Harbor bay, Maw bay and Broad creek, tributaries of Pamlico sound, shall be one acre and the minimum fifty acres; but no person, firm, corporation or association shall severally or collectively hold any interest in any lease or leases aggregating an area of greater than fifty acres, except in the open waters of Pamlico sound, where the aggregate area shall be two hundred acres.

The fisheries commission board shall have authority to specify the acreage any one person may lease in the counties of Pender, New Hanover and Brunswick.

1909, c. 871, ss. 2, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1906. Prerequisites for lease; application; deposit; survey; location. Such persons, firms or corporations desiring to avail themselves of the privileges of this article shall make written application, on a form to be prepared by the fisheries commissioner, setting forth the name and address of the applicant, describing as definitely as may be the location and extent of the bottom for which application is made, and requesting the survey and leasing to the applicant of said bottom. As soon as possible after the application is received, the fisheries commissioner shall cause to be made a survey and map of said bottom, at the expense of the applicant. The fisheries commissioner shall also thoroughly examine said bottoms by sounding and by dragging thereover a chain to detect the presence of natural oysters. Should any natural oysters be found, the commissioner shall cause examination to be made to ascertain the area and density of oysters on said bottom or bed, to determine whether the same is a natural bed, under the definition contained in this article. He shall be assisted in this examination on tonging ground by an expert tonger, to be appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which said bottom or the greater portion thereof is located, and the question as to whether the oyster growth is sufficiently dense to fall within the definition of the natural bed shall be determined by the quantity of oysters which the said expert tonger may be able to take in a specified time; and on dredging ground the commissioner shall be assisted by an expert dredger, appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county in which said bottom or the greater portion thereof is located, and the question as to whether the oyster growth is sufficiently dense to fall within the definition of the natural bed shall be determined by the quantity of oysters which the said expert dredger may be able to take in a specified time. The fisheries commissioner shall require the bodies of bottoms applied for to be as compact as possible, taking into consideration the shape of the body of water and the consistency of the bottom. No application shall be entertained nor lease granted for a piece of bottom within two hundred yards of a known natural bottom, bed or reef. A deposit of ten dollars will be required of each applicant at the time of making his application, said sum to be credited to the cost of the survey of the bottom applied for.

1907. Execution of lease; notice and filing; marking and planting. Immediately upon the completion of the survey and the mapping thereof, and the payment by the applicant of the cost of said survey and map, the fisheries commissioner shall execute to the applicant, upon a form approved by the attorney-general of the state, a lease for the bottoms applied for. A copy of the lease, map of the survey and a description of the bottom, defining its position, shall be filed in the office of the fisheries commissioner. After the execution of said lease, the lessee shall have the sole right and use of said bottoms, and all shells, oysters and culls thereon or placed thereon shall be his exclusive property so long as he complies with the provisions of this law. The lessee shall stake off and mark the bottoms leased in the manner prescribed by the fisheries commissioner, and failure to do so within a period of thirty days of an order so to do issued by the commissioner shall subject said lessee to a fine of five dollars per acre for each sixty days default in compliance with said order. The corner stakes, at least, of each lease shall be marked with signs plainly displaying the number of the lease and the name of the lessee. The lessee shall, within two years of the commencement of his lease, have planted upon his holdings a quantity of shells equal to an average of fifty bushels of seed oysters or shells per acre of holdings, and within four years from the commencement of his lease a quantity of oysters or shells equal to an average of not less than one hundred and twenty-five bushels per acre. The fisheries commissioner shall, upon granting any lease, publish a notice of the granting of same in a newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein the bottom leased is located.

1909, c. 871, ss. 4, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1908. Term and rental. All leases made under the provisions of this article shall begin upon the issuance of the lease, and shall expire on the first day of April of the twentieth year thereafter. The rental shall be at the rate of one dollar per acre for the first ten years and two dollars per acre per year for the next ten years of the lease, payable annually in advance on the first day of April of each year: Provided, that in the open waters of Pamlico Sound (and for the purposes of this article the open waters of Pamlico Sound shall mean the waters that are outside the four miles of the shore line) the rental shall be at the rate of fifty cents per acre per year for the first three years, one dollar per acre per year for the next seven years, and two dollars per acre per year for the next ten years of the lease. This rental shall be in lieu of all other taxes and imposts whatever, and shall be considered as all and the only taxation which can be imposed by the state, counties, municipalities or other subordinate political bodies. The rental for the first year shall be paid in advance, to an amount proportional to the unexpired part of the year to the first of April next succeeding.

1909, c. 871, ss. 5, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1909. Nature of lessee's rights; assignment and inheritance. The said lease shall be heritable and transferable, in whole or in part, provided the qualifications of the heirs and transferees are such as are described by this article. Non-residents, acquiring by inheritance or process sale, or persons already holding the maximum area permitted by this article, shall within a period of twelve months from the time of acquisition dispose of said prohibited or excess of holding to some qualified person, firm or corporation, under penalty of forfeiture. The lease shall be subject to mortgage, pledge, seizure for debt and the same other transactions as are other property rights in North Carolina. No transfer shall be of effect unless of court record, until entered on the books of the fisheries commissioner.

1909, c. 871, ss. 6, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1910. Renewal of lease. The term of each lease granted under the provisions of this article shall be for a period of twenty years from the first day of April preceding the date of granting of said lease. At the expiration of the first lease, the lessee, upon making written application on the prescribed form, shall be entitled to successive leases on the same terms as applied to the last ten years of the first lease, for a period not exceeding ten years each.

1909, c. 871, ss. 7, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1911. Forfeiture of lease for nonpayment. The failure to pay the rental of bottoms leased for each year in advance on or before the first day of April, or within thirty days thereafter, shall ipso facto cancel said lease and shall forfeit to the state the said leased bottoms and all oysters thereon, and upon said forfeiture the fisheries commissioner is hereby authorized to lease the said bottoms to any qualified applicant therefor: Provided, that no forfeiture shall be valid, however, under the provisions of this section, unless there shall have been mailed by the fisheries commissioner to the last address of the lessee upon the books of the commissioner a thirty days notice of the maturity of said rental.

1909, c. 871, ss. 8, 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

1912. Contest over grant of lease; time for contest; decision; appeal. If any person, within four months of the publication of the notice of granting of any lease, make claim that a natural oyster bottom, bed or reef exists within the boundaries of said lease, he shall, under oath, state his claim, and request the fisheries commissioner to cancel said lease: Provided, however, that each such claim and petition shall be accompanied by a deposit of twenty-five dollars. No petition unaccompanied by said deposit shall be considered by the commissioner. The fisheries commissioner shall, in person, examine into said claim, and, if the decision should be against the claimant, the deposit of twenty-five dollars shall be forfeited to the state and deposited to the credit of the fisheries commission fund. Should, however, the claim be sustained and a natural bed be found within the boundary of the lease, the said natural bed shall be surveyed and marked with stakes or buoys, at the expense of the lessee, and the said natural bed be thrown open to the public fishery. If no such claim be presented within a period of four months, or if when so presented it fail of substantiation, as provided, the lessee shall thereafter be secure from attack on such account, and his lease shall be incontestable so long as he complies with the other provisions of this article. In each and every such case the decision of the fisheries commissioner shall be subject to review and appeal before a judge of the superior court, who shall render a decision without the aid of a jury, and his decision shall be final.

1909, c. 871, s. 9; 1919, c. 333, s. 6.

Part 3. Licenses and Taxes

1913. License to catch oysters; oath of applicant. Any person desiring to catch oysters from the public grounds and natural oyster beds shall make and subscribe to the following oath, before some officer qualified to administer oaths:

I, ----- (state if owner, lessee, master, captain, mate, foreman, or agent of any boat used, or that may be used, in dredging oysters from the public grounds of the state), being an applicant for oyster license, do solemnly swear that I am a citizen of North Carolina, and have been a resident of the state for the two years next preceding this day; that my place of residence is now in ----- County; that I will not, if granted license, employ any nonresident or unlicensed person as an assistant or serve as an assistant to any nonresident who is owner, lessee, master, captain, mate or foreman, or who has any interest in, or in the profits derived from, any boat that is used or that may be used in dredging oysters from the public grounds of the state, or unlicensed person, nor will I transfer, assign, or otherwise dispose of my license to any person, firm or corporation; that I will not knowingly or willfully violate or evade any of the laws or regulations of the state relating to oyster industry: so help me, God.

He shall then present to and file said oath with the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner or inspector, who, if satisfied with the truth of the statement made in the oath of application, shall issue to him an oysterman's license in the following form:

State of North Carolina, ----- County.

-----, a resident of ----- County, having this day made application to me for an oysterman's license, and having filed with me the oath prescribed by law, I do hereby grant to him license to catch oysters from the public grounds of this state from the fifteenth day of October, -----, until the first day of next April.

Witness my hand and official seal, this the ----- day of -----, 19-----

-----,
Fisheries Commissioner, Assistant Fisheries Commissioner, or Inspector (as the case may be).

Rev., s. 2409; 1903, c. 516, s. 7; 1905, c. 525, ss. 4, 6.

For making false affidavits, see this chapter, s. 1933.

1914. Filing oath; recording license; fees. The oath and a record of the license shall be kept by the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner or inspector, and for issuing and recording the same he shall receive from the applicant a fee of twenty-five cents, which, together with all other license fees collected under this chapter, shall be paid over to the state treasurer and constitute part of the fisheries commission fund. No fee shall be charged by the clerk for administering the oath.

Rev., s. 2409; 1903, c. 516, s. 7; 1905, c. 525, ss. 4, 6.

1915. Licensee to be resident, not interested in oyster boat. No person shall be licensed to catch oysters from the public grounds of the state who is owner, lessee, master, captain, mate or foreman, or who owns an interest in or who is an agent for any boat that is used or that may be used in dredging oysters from the public grounds of the state, who is not a bona fide resident of this state and who has not continuously resided therein for two years next preceding the date of his application for license, and no nonresident shall be employed as a laborer on any boat licensed to dredge oysters under this subchapter who has an interest in or who receives any profit from the oysters caught by any boat permitted to dredge oysters on the public grounds of the state. Any person, firm or corporation employing any nonresident laborer forbidden by this section, upon conviction shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 2408; 1903, c. 516, s. 6; 1905, c. 525, s. 3.

1916. Tax on oysters exported from state. All oysters going out of the state in any boat or vessel shall pay a tax of two cents per tub.

1907, c. 969, s. 11; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 42, s. 3.

An act levying a tax upon clams and oysters shipped out of county is constitutional: Brooks v. Tripp, 135-159.

1917. Oyster dealer's license. The fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner or inspector shall, upon application and the payment of a fee of fifty cents, grant to the applicant a dealer's license, authorizing the applicant to engage in the business of buying, purchasing, canning, packing, shucking or shipping oysters. Such license shall not be issued prior to the fifteenth day of November of any year and shall expire on the fifteenth day of March following.

The assistant fisheries commissioner or inspector granting the license shall at once mail a duplicate to the fisheries commissioner. Nothing contained in this section (except as to New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties) shall be deemed to require any license of persons engaged in the business of buying, purchasing; canning, packing, shucking or shipping oysters which were not taken or caught from the public grounds or natural oyster beds of the state: Provided, that in New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties such license shall not be issued prior to the fifteenth day of October in any year and shall expire on the first day of April following.

Rev., s. 2411; 1903, c. 516, s. 9; 1905, c. 525, s. 6; 1907, c. 969, ss. 7, 13; 1915, c. 136, s. 3.

Fish and oysters, being food supply, come within the police regulation of the state: State v. Sermons, 169-285. Failure to obtain a license applied for at an improper time will not excuse a dealer when buying from owner of private oyster bed: State v. Sermons, 169-285.

1918. Monthly report of licenses to be filed. The fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner or inspector who are authorized to issue license or to collect a license tax shall, on or before the fifteenth day of each month, mail to the fisheries commissioner a statement, showing all licenses issued during the preceding month, to whom issued and for what purpose, and the amount of tax collected by them from all sources under the oyster laws, and shall at the same time remit said amount direct to the state treasurer. They shall at the same time mail to each inspector asking for the same a list of all persons to whom license has been issued and of all boats or vessels licensed, and for what purpose.

Rev., s. 2412; 1903, c. 516, s. 4; 1905, c. 525, s. 6.

1919. Oyster beds real property for taxation, etc. All grounds taken up or held for the purpose of cultivating shellfish shall be subject to taxation as real estate, and shall be so considered in the settlement of the estates of deceased or insolvent persons.

Rev., s. 2380; 1887, c. 119, s. 9.

Part 4. Catching and Dealing in Oysters Regulated

1920. Close season for oysters; exceptions. If any person shall buy or sell oysters in the shell which have been taken from the public grounds or natural oyster beds of this state between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of October in any year, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that oysters may be taken with hand-tongs from March fifteenth to May first and with dredges from March fifteenth to April fifth, in any year, to be used for planting on private grounds entered and held under the laws of this state, upon the condition further that they shall not be removed from said private grounds within a period of three months from time of planting: Provided further, that oysters may be taken with hand-tongs only for home consumption: Provided further, that coon oysters may be taken from November first to May first of each year in the waters of Onslow and Carteret counties.

This section, except as specifically provided, is inapplicable to New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties.

Rev., s. 2383; 1907, c. 969, ss. 4, 13; 1913, c. 85; 1915, c. 120.

Section referred to in State v. Sermons, 169-285.

1921. Oyster dealers to keep records. All persons engaged in buying, packing, canning, shucking or shipping oysters shall keep a permanent record of all oysters either bought or caught by them, or by persons for them, when and from whom bought, the number of bushels and the price paid therefor. All these records shall at all times be open to the examination and inspection of the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner and inspector, and upon request shall be verified by the parties making them. If any person engaged in buying, packing, canning, shucking or shipping oysters taken or caught from the public grounds or natural oyster beds of the state shall fail to keep a permanent record of all oysters bought by him or caught by him, or by persons for him, when and from whom bought, the number of bushels and the price paid therefor, or shall fail upon demand to exhibit such record as required by law, or shall fail to verify the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., ss. 2396, 2418; 1903, c. 516, s. 5; 1915, c. 136, s. 2.

1922. Oyster measure. All oysters measured in the shell shall be measured in a circular tub with straight sides and straight, solid bottom, with holes in the bottom not more than one-half inch in diameter. The said measures shall have the following dimensions: A bushel tub shall measure eighteen inches from inside to inside across the top, sixteen inches from inside to inside chimb to the bottom and twenty-one inches diagonal from inside chimb to top. All measures found in the possession of any dealer not meeting the requirements of this section shall be destroyed by said fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner or inspector. Any person using an unlawful measure for the sale or purchase of oysters shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2417; 1903, c. 510, s. 12; 1907, c. 969, s. 10; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 42, s. 2.

1923. Local modification as to oyster measures in New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties. In New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties all measures used for buying or selling oysters shall have a brand, to be adopted by the fisheries commissioner, stamped therein by said commissioner, assistant commissioner, or his lawful inspectors.

Rev., s. 2417; 1903, c. 516, s. 12; 1907, c. 969, s. 13.

1924. Illegal measures prohibited. If any person shall in buying or selling oysters use any measure other than that prescribed by law for the measurement of oysters, or if any dealer in oysters shall have in his possession any measure for measuring oysters other than that prescribed by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 2399; 1903, c. 516, s. 12.

1925. Dredging regulated as to territory and season. Any bona fide resident of the state duly licensed according to law and using a licensed boat or vessel may use scoops, scrapes or dredges in catching or taking oysters from the fifteenth day of November in each year to the first day of April following, from the public grounds and natural oyster beds in the broad open waters of Pamlico sound, Pamlico river, Neuse river and Shoal river, except in those portions of said sound and rivers in which the use of such instruments and implements is prohibited as herein provided. No person shall use any implement or instrument except hand-tongs in catching oysters in any bay, river, creek, strait, or any tributary of such, which borders upon or empties into Pamlico sound, Pamlico river, or Long Shoal river, except as hereinafter provided; and any point inside of a line drawn from the farthest or extreme outward point of land or marsh on the one side to the farthest or extreme outward point of land or marsh on the opposite side of any creek, strait or bay shall be construed to be within the said creek, strait or bay for the purpose of this section. Nor shall any person use any implement or instrument except hand-tongs in the waters of Pamlico sound from what is known as the reef or reefs in the eastern portion of said sound to the line of banks bordering its eastern shores; nor along the shores of Pamlico county inside of a line beginning at Maw point and running to the west end of Brant island, thence to Pamlico point; nor in the waters of Pamlico sound north of a line running from Long Shoal light to Gull Shoal life-saving station, from the first day of February of each year to the fifteenth day of November, nor in any of the waters of Carteret county. And for the purpose of this section, the northern boundary of said county shall be a line extending from Swan point to Harbor island light, thence a line to Southwest Straddle light, thence a line to Northwest point light, thence a line to the middle of Ocracoke inlet; nor in the waters of Neuse river above a line in said river running from Carbacon buoy to the western point of land at Pierce's creek.

1926. Illegal dredging prohibited; evidence. If any person shall use any scoops, scrapes or dredges for catching oysters except at the times and in the places in this chapter expressly authorized, or shall between the fifth day of April and the fifteenth day of November of any year carry on any boat or vessel any scoops, scrapes, dredges or winders, such as are usually or can be used for taking oysters, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

If any boat or vessel shall be seen sailing on any of the waters of this state during the season when the dredging of oysters is prohibited by law in the same manner in which they sail to take or catch oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges, the said boat or vessel shall be pursued by any officer authorized to make arrests, and if said boat or vessel apprehended by said officer shall be found to have on board any wet oysters or the scoops, scrapes, dredges or lines, or deck wet, indicating the taking or catching of oysters at said time, and properly equipped for catching or taking oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges, such facts shall be prima facie evidence that said boat or vessel has been used in violation of the provisions of the law prohibiting the taking or catching of oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges in prohibited territory, or at a season when the taking or catching of oysters with scoops, scrapes or dredges is prohibited by law, as the case may be.

Rev., ss. 2385, 2397; 1903, c. 516, ss. 13, 14, 15, 28.

1927. Dredging prohibited in certain waters of Pamlico sound; exception. It shall be unlawful for any person to use any rakes, scrapes, scoops or dredges, or any other instrument or implement other than ordinary hand-tongs, for the purpose of taking or catching oysters from the public oyster grounds or natural oyster beds in any of the waters of Pamlico sound or its tributaries north of a line running from West Bluff bay to the center of Ocracoke inlet; any person found guilty of the violation of this prohibition shall be punished by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days.

1928. Culling required; size limit. All oysters taken from the public grounds of this state, with whatsoever instrument or implement, shall be culled, and all oysters whose shells measure less than two and one-half inches in longest diameter, except such as are attached to a large oyster and cannot be removed without destroying the small oyster, and all shells taken with the said oysters shall be returned to the public ground when and where taken, and no oysters shall be allowed by the inspectors to be marketed which shall consist of more than ten per cent of such small oysters and shells, except "coon" oysters and oysters largely covered with mussels: Provided, these musselled oysters must not contain more than five per cent of shells or small oysters under regulation size.

Rev., s. 2415; 1903, c. 516, s. 11; 1905, c. 525; 1907, c. 969, s. 8; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 42, s. 1.

1929. Local modification as to culling oysters in New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties. In New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties the preceding section is in force, except that the oysters shall be measured "from hinge to mouth," instead of in longest diameter.

Rev., s. 2415; 1903, c. 516, s. 11; 1905, c. 525; 1907, c. 969, s. 13.

1930. Taking uncultured oysters for planting permitted to residents. Residents of the state of North Carolina shall be permitted to take oysters without culling from natural rocks at any time during the year for planting purposes only, in the waters of North Carolina.

1917, c. 153.

1931. Uncultured oysters seized and scattered on public grounds. Whenever oysters are offered for sale or loaded upon any vessel, car or train, without having been properly culled according to law, the commissioner, assistant commissioner, or inspector shall seize the boat, vessel, car or train containing the same and shall cause the said oysters to be scattered upon the public grounds, and the costs and expenses of said seizure and transportation shall be a prior lien to all liens on said boat, vessel, car or train, and if not paid on demand the officers making the seizure shall, after advertisement for twenty days, sell the same and make title to the purchaser, and after paying expenses as aforesaid pay the balance, if any, into the oyster fund. For the towing of said boat, a charge of three dollars and fifty cents per hour shall be charged against said boat for towage.

The last sentence is not applicable in New Hanover, Onslow, and Pender counties.

Rev., s. 2416; 1903, c. 516, s. 3; 1907, c. 969, ss. 9, 13.

See section 1943.

1932. Shells to be bought and scattered on public beds. The fisheries commissioner is hereby empowered to expend one-half of the balance to the credit of the oyster fund on the fifteenth day of April in each year for the purpose of buying oyster shells and scattering the same on the natural oyster grounds of the state during the months of April and May.

Rev., s. 2421; 1903, c. 516, s. 20.

Part 5. Criminal Offenses Connected With Oyster Industry

1933. Perjury in application for oyster license. If any person shall make any false statement for the purpose of procuring any license, which may be required by law, to catch oysters, or to engage in the oyster industry, he shall be guilty of perjury and punished as provided by law.

Rev., s. 2390; 1903, c. 516, s. 17.

1934. Catching oysters without license. If any person shall catch oysters from the public grounds of the state without having first obtained a license according to law, or shall employ any person as agent or assistant, or shall as the agent or assistant of any person catch oysters from the public grounds, without all of said persons having first obtained a license according to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 2386; 1903, c. 516, s. 6.

1935. Oyster dealing without license. If any person shall engage in the business of buying, canning, packing, shipping or shucking oysters taken or caught from the public grounds, or natural oyster beds of the state, without having first obtained a license as required by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 2395; 1903, c. 516, s. 9; 1915, c. 136, s. 1.

This is valid exercise of the police power, and applies to a dealer buying from the owner of a private oyster bed: State v. Sermons, 169-285.

1936. Use of unlicensed boat in catching oysters. If any person shall use any boat or vessel in catching oysters, which boat has not been licensed according to law, and which is not in all respects complying with the law regulating the use of such vessels, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars nor less than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty nor less than ten days for the first offense, but for the second or subsequent offense he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 2387; 1903, c. 516, s. 8.

1937. Failure to stop and show license. If any person using a boat or vessel for the purpose of catching oysters shall refuse to stop and exhibit his license when commanded to do so by the fisheries commissioner, assistant commissioner or any inspector, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

Rev., s. 2389; 1903, c. 516, s. 26.

1938. Displaying false number on boat. If any person shall display any other number on the sail than the one specified in their license or display a number when the boat or vessel has not been licensed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars.

Rev., s. 2388; 1903, c. 516, s. 27.

1939. Catching oysters for lime. If any person shall take or catch any live oysters to be burned for lime or for any agricultural or mechanical purpose, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that shells may be taken which do not contain more than five per cent of live oysters.

In New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties the proviso to this section is not in force.

Rev., s. 2400; Code, s. 3389; 1885, c. 182; 1907, c. 969, ss. 12, 13.

1940. Catching oysters Sunday or at night. If any person shall catch or take any oysters from any of the public grounds or natural oyster beds of the state at night or on Sunday, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 2384; 1903, c. 516, s. 16.

1941. Unloading at factory Sunday or at night. If any person shall unload any oysters from any boat, vessel or car at any factory or house for shipping, shucking or canning oysters on Sunday, or after sunset or before sunrise, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, whenever any boat or vessel shall have partially unloaded or discharged its cargo before sunset, the remainder of said load or cargo may be discharged in the presence of an inspector.

Rev., s. 2394; 1903, c. 516, s. 16.

1942. Oyster-laden boats in canals regulated. No boat or vessel loaded with oysters shall be permitted by the inspectors of South Mills and Coinjock to pass through the canals, which does not have a certificate showing that the cargo has been inspected and the tax paid thereon.

Rev., s. 2420; 1903, c. 516, s. 17.

1943. Sale or purchase of unculled oysters. If any person shall sell or offer for sale, transport or offer to transport out of the state, or from one point in the state to another, or have in his possession any oysters which have not been properly culled according to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to purchase oysters which have not been properly culled according to law, and for each violation shall upon conviction be fined two hundred dollars or be imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

In New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties the purchase of unculled oysters is not forbidden.

Rev., s. 2392; 1903, c. 516, s. 3; 1907, c. 969, ss. 5, 13.

1944. Boat captain's purchase of unculled oysters. The captain of any run or buy boat who shall purchase oysters which have not been properly culled according to law shall upon conviction be fined two hundred dollars or imprisoned in the discretion of the court, and the having of unculled oysters aboard of his boat shall be prima facie evidence of his having purchased them. When any person, firm or corporation shall furnish the captain of any run or buy boat with funds with which to purchase oysters, they shall not be held responsible for his acts and shall not be deemed the purchaser of such oysters.

This section is inapplicable to New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties.

1907, c. 969, ss. 5, 13.

1945. Larceny from private grounds. Any person who shall feloniously take, catch or capture or carry away any shellfish from the bed or ground of another shall be guilty of larceny and punished accordingly.

Rev., s. 2401; 1887, c. 119, s. 15.

As to venue in an action for wrongful conversion of oysters taken from oyster bed of plaintiff, see Makely v. Boothe, 129-11.

1946. Injury to private grounds; work at night. If any person shall willfully commit any trespass or injury with any instrument or implement upon any ground upon which shellfish are being raised or cultivated, or shall remove, destroy or deface any mark or monument lawfully set up for the purpose of marking any grounds, or who shall work on any oyster ground at night, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. But nothing in the provisions of this section shall be construed as authorizing interference with the capture of migratory fishes or free navigation or the right to use on any private grounds any method or implement for the taking, growing or cultivation of shellfish.

Rev., s. 2402; 1887, c. 119, s. 11.

ART. 6. SHELLFISH; LOCAL LAWS

1947. New Hanover, Onslow and Pender: Close season for oysters. If any person shall buy or sell oysters in the shell which have been taken from the public grounds or natural oyster beds of this state between the first day of April and the first day of October in any year, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that oysters may be taken with hand-tongs only during the month of April in any year, to be used for planting on private grounds, entered and held under the laws of this state: Provided further, that oysters may be taken with hand-tongs only for home consumption: Provided further, that coon oysters may be taken from October first to May first of each year in the waters of Onslow and Carteret counties: Provided also, that it shall be lawful to take or catch oysters on public oyster grounds north of the line running from Point Peter to Duck island, except between a line running from the east end of Hog island to the beach and from Ballast point to the beach in Dare county, to be sold to residents or nonresidents, from April first to May fifteenth of each year, upon the payment by the purchaser of a tax of one and one-half cents per tub.

This section applies only to the counties of New Hanover, Onslow and Pender.

Rev., s. 2383; 1903, c. 516, s. 22; 1905, c. 525, ss. 5, 8; 1907, c. 936, s. 4.

See s. 1920.

Referred to in State v. Sermons, 169-285.

1948. Brunswick, New Hanover and Pender: Clams protected. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to take clams in the counties of Brunswick, New Hanover or Pender, from any of the waters thereof, for the purpose of bedding, for market, or for shipment from the said counties, from the twenty-fifth day of March to the fifteenth day of December of each year: Provided, however, that citizens of the said counties shall have the privilege at all times of the year to catch clams for selling in any of the said counties, in small quantities, for table use only. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to purchase clams in the counties of New Hanover or Pender for the purpose of shipping from the said counties, or for any person, firm or corporation to ship from the said counties of Brunswick, New Hanover or Pender any clams at any time from the twenty-fifth day of March to the fifteenth day of December of every year, and in Brunswick county from the first day of March to the first day of December of every year. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined for each offense not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court.

1909, c. 879; P. L. 1913, c. 805.

1949. Brunswick: Clams; size limit. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to catch any clams for use or for sale under one and one-half inches in diameter in the waters of Brunswick county; and upon conviction shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

P. L. 1913, c. 805.

1950. Brunswick: Fire on oyster beds; raking. In Brunswick county it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to build a fire upon any natural oyster bed or rock at a place where oysters are in a state of growth. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to rake with clam rake any oyster bed or oyster rock. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

1915, c. 138.

1951. Carteret: Clams in Newport River. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation, between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of October of any year, to take any clams from the waters of Newport river and its tributaries, for the purpose of shipping, selling, marketing or bedding the same. Any person or persons, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten dollars for each offense, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or both, in the discretion of the court.

1952. New Hanover: Catching oysters in Myrtle Grove Sound. If any person shall take or catch any oysters from Myrtle Grove sound, from Perrine's or Whitaker's creek to the headwaters of said sound in New Hanover county, from the first day of May until the first day of September, except for his own consumption, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than twenty days.

Rev., s. 2426; Code, s. 3423; 1883, c. 358, ss. 1, 2.

1953. New Hanover: Clams in Masonboro sound. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to use any rake or other instrument with more than two prongs for the purpose of taking clams from any natural oyster rock or the others waters of Masonboro sound, in the county of New Hanover, between what is known as Fowler's landing to Cockle Shell point, in said county, a distance of about one mile. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

1954. Onslow: Catching oysters and clams in certain waters. It shall be unlawful for any person to take or catch any oysters or clams from the natural oyster beds heretofore staked off and defined by the shellfish commissioners of Onslow county, or from any ground, between the first days of April and October of each year, lying north of the following lines, to wit: Beginning at triangulation point "Mount Millow," on the western shore of New river, and running thence eastwardly to triangulation point "pond," the eastern shore of New river: It shall be unlawful for any person during the months of May, June and July of each year to take or catch oysters or clams from the natural oyster beds within the grounds lying south of the line mentioned above. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction or confession in open court shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. It shall be the duty of the fisheries commissioner to keep the lines marking the natural oyster beds in said waters properly marked and staked off.

1907, c. 949.

1955. Onslow: Catching oysters in Stump sound. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to catch, take or carry away from the oyster beds in the waters of Stump sound, in Onslow county, between Alligator bay and the Pender county line, any oysters except for home consumption between the first day of March and the twenty-fifth day of October in any year. Any person, firm or corporation violating this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than fifty dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days, in the discretion of the court.

1956. Onslow: Clams in Brown sound and Queen's creek. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to catch or take any clams from the waters herein described between the first day of April and the first day of October. Said territory shall be as follows: Beginning at the mouth of Queen's creek, in Onslow county, and running the various courses of the said Queen's creek channel to Bogue inlet, including all the waters south of said channel to the Horse ford, between Brown sound and New river: Provided, this shall not be so construed as to prohibit any one from catching clams for their own table use only. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

1909, c. 514.

ART. 7. TERRAPIN

1957. Drag-nets prohibited to nonresidents. If any person who is not a citizen and who has not resided in the state continuously for the preceding two years shall use any drag-net or other instrument for catching terrapin he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2369; Code, ss. 3375, 3376.

Nonresident using drag-nets or other instrument not guilty if in the bona fide employ of one who has the right to take terrapin that way: State v. Conner, 107-932.

1958. Diamond-back terrapin protected. If any person shall take or catch any diamond-back terrapin between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of August of any year, or any diamond-back terrapin at any time, of less size than five inches in length upon the bottom shell, or shall interfere with, or in any manner destroy any eggs of the diamond-back terrapin, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars for each and every diamond-back terrapin so taken or caught, and a like sum for each and every egg interfered with or destroyed: Provided, this section shall not apply to parties empowered by the state to propagate the said diamond-back terrapin; and the possession of any diamond-back terrapin between the fifteenth days of April and August shall be prima facie evidence that the person having the same has violated this section. It shall be the duty of all sheriffs and constables to give immediate information to some justice of the peace of any violation of this section.

Rev., s. 2370; Code, s. 3377; 1899, c. 582; 1881, c. 115, ss. 1, 6.

1959. Local—Carteret: Diamond back terrapin. Any bona fide citizen of Carteret county is empowered to cultivate and propagate the diamond-back terrapin at one place in the waters of Carteret county: Provided, that he shall not interfere with the eggs laid by the wild diamond-back terrapin in its natural haunts, and that no undersized terrapin shall be taken for any purpose during the closed season prescribed by law in regard to catching terrapin.

The grantee of the privilege conferred by this section shall cultivate and propagate the diamond-back terrapin in a manner approved by the United States bureau of fisheries. If at any time the said grantee violates any of the laws of North Carolina regarding diamond-back terrapin the privilege hereby conferred shall cease and he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Pr. 1913, c. 402; P. L. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 58.

SUBCHAPTER III. FISH OTHER THAN SHELLFISH

ART. 8. SALT FISH AND FISH SCRAP

1960. Inspectors for salt fish; duties; fees. The board of county commissioners of every county where fish are packed for sale or shipment shall appoint and qualify one or more sworn inspectors of fish at or near all packing localities, whose duty it shall be to inspect all salt fish packed for sale or shipment; and all barrels, half-barrels and packages of fish inspected and approved by them shall be branded with the word "inspected" and the name of the inspector. Said board shall regulate and prescribe the duties, powers and fees of said inspector, which fees shall not exceed five cents per barrel of two hundred pounds net and two and one-half cents per half-barrel of one hundred pounds net and smaller packages, to be paid by the shipper. This section shall not apply to fishermen who may sell their fish to packers and shippers by weight or otherwise, as they may agree: Provided, that in any county where the board of county commissioners have not already appointed an inspector as is provided in this section, upon a petition of two or more persons it shall be mandatory upon the said board of county commissioners to immediately appoint an inspector in accordance with the provisions above. Upon failure to do so for five days after said petition has been filed, said board shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five nor more than fifty dollars for each member or be imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, said petition be filed with the clerk of the board of commissioners five days before regular meeting of said board.

1961. Salt fish sold by weight; marked on package. All salt fish packed for market shall be sold at their net weight, which shall be marked on every package; and any person packing or offering for sale salt fish, fraudulently marking the net weight on the package, shall for each offense be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

1909, c. 663, s. 2.

1962. Salt mullet; special marking. Each package of salt mullets packed and offered for sale shall be marked or stamped "large," "medium" or "small," and all packages containing any other kind of fish shall be marked plainly the name of the fish contained, and any person who shall pack as principal or shall have the same done by others for him shall be deemed the packer and shall stamp his name and place of packing, together with net weight and size of fish, as prescribed in this section, on the head of each package before offering for sale or shipment, and on failure to pack and stamp as herein prescribed, or to pack or stamp said package falsely, so as to misrepresent the weight or size of the fish in said package, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than five nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and may be imprisoned at the discretion of the court, not to exceed thirty days: Provided, this section shall not apply to packages containing less than fifty pounds net fish: Provided further, this section shall not apply to fishermen themselves, but shall apply only to merchants and others who may be classed as packers or brokers, within the proper meaning of the term.

1909, c. 663, s. 3.

1963. Measures for fish scrap and oil. For the purpose of uniformity in the trade of manufacturing fish scrap and oil in the state of North Carolina, there is hereby established a standard measure of twenty-two thousand cubic inches for every one thousand fish. Any person, firm, corporation or syndicate buying or selling menhaden fish for the purpose of manufacturing within the borders of this state, who shall measure the fish by any other standard (more or less) than is prescribed in this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. Each day said measure is unlawfully used shall constitute a separate and distinct offense.

1911, c. 101.

ART. 9. COMMERCIAL FISHING; GENERAL REGULATIONS

1964. Right of fishing in grantee of land under water. Whenever any person acquires title to lands covered by navigable water under the subchapter Entries and Grants of the chapter entitled State Lands, the owner or person so acquiring title has the right to establish fisheries upon said lands; and whenever the owner of such lands improves the same by clearing off and cutting therefrom logs, roots, stumps or other obstructions, so that the said land may be used for the purpose of drawing or hauling nets or seines thereon for the purpose of taking or catching fish, the person who makes or causes to be made the said improvements, his heirs and assigns, shall have prior right to the use of the land so improved, in drawing, hauling, drifting or setting nets or seines thereon, and it shall be unlawful for any person, without the consent of such owner, to draw or haul nets or seines upon the land so improved by the owner thereof for the purpose of drawing or hauling nets or seines thereon. This section shall apply where the owner of such lands shall erect platforms or structures of any kind thereon to be used in fishing with nets and seines. Every person who shall willfully destroy or injure the said platforms or structures, or shall interfere with or molest the owner in the use of such lands as aforesaid, or in any other manner shall violate this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not relieve any person from punishment for the obstruction of navigation.

Rev., s. 2460; Code, s. 3384; 1874-5, c. 183, ss. 1-6.

The right of fishery rests in the state, and is subject to absolute control by the general assembly: State v. Sermons, 169-285; Daniels v. Homer, 139-219; Brooks v. Tripp, 135-159; State v. Gallop, 126-979; State v. Woodward, 123-710; State v. Conner, 107-932; Rea v. Hampton, 101-51. For additional annotations as to entries on land covered with water, see section 7543.

There is no individual or property right of fishery in navigable waters: Bell v. Smith, 171-116; Daniels v. Homer, 139-219—unless acquired in some way from the state, Collins v. Benbury, 27-118. The right of fishing in navigable waters is subordinate to the right of navigation: Lewis v. Keeling, 46-299; Daniels v. Homer, 139-219.

Persons owning land on navigable streams may erect wharves next to their land up to deep water, may make entry and obtain title as in other cases, but they cannot obstruct navigation and they are confined to straight lines from their water fronts: Bond v. Wool, 107-139. The right to wharves on water fronts is subject to legislative control and to the regulation of adjoining incorporated towns: Ibid.

What is a navigable stream is a question for the jury: State v. Twiford, 136-603. The test is the capability of use in the ordinary way, and not the extent of use: Ibid.; State v. Baum, 128-600; State v. Club, 100-477. The effect of the ebb and flow of the tide as affecting the right to fishery: Ingram v. Threadgill, 14-59.

1965. Seines prohibited to nonresidents; exceptions. If any person who has not resided in the state continuously for at least twelve months next preceding the day on which he shall begin to take fish shall use, or cause to be used, in any of the waters of the state, any weir, hedge, net, or seine, for the purpose of taking fish for sale or exportation, or if any person shall assist in using, or be interested in using or causing to be used, in any such waters for the purpose aforesaid, any weir, hedge, net, seine or tongs in the use of which any such non-resident person may have an interest, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Nothing herein shall prevent any person from fishing with seines hauled to the shore at any fishery, the title to which fishery or any interest therein having been acquired by such person by purchase or inheritance. This section shall not extend to servants employed to fish by any persons allowed to fish in the navigable waters of the state. No nonresident of the state shall make any sale, assignment or transfer of any fishery, weir, or other fishing apparatus, or privilege mentioned in this section, to any citizen of the state for the purpose of operating and working said fishery, weir, or other fishing apparatus as aforesaid, under the name and ownership of such citizen, or as the servant or employee of any citizen; and any sale, transfer or assignment not made bona fide and for a full consideration shall be null and void.

Upon affidavit founded upon information and belief that any nonresident of the state is operating any such fishery, weir, or other fishing apparatus as aforesaid in the waters of the state, under such sale, assignment or transfer, as the pretended servant or employee of any citizen of the state, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace before whom said affidavit is made to issue a warrant against the said nonresident and citizen under whose name said fishery is operated, and upon conviction the said offenders shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, for every offense, be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Upon the said trial, the burden of proof shall be on the defendants to prove the bona fides and full consideration of said sale or transfer.

Rev., s. 2467; Code, ss. 3379, 3380; R. C., c. 81, s. 5; 1844, c. 40, s. 1; 1876-7, c. 33; 1883, c. 171.

Nonresident using drag-net or other instrument not guilty if in the bona fide employ of one who has the right to take terrapin that way: State v. Conner, 107-932.

1966. Menhaden fishing forbidden to nonresidents. It is unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, not a citizen or resident of the state of North Carolina, to catch, capture, or otherwise take any menhaden or fatbacks within the waters of the state of North Carolina to the extreme limits of the state's jurisdiction in and over said waters; and for the purposes of this act the following boundaries are hereby declared to be the boundaries to which the waters of the said state extend, to wit: a distance of three nautical miles, measured from the outer beach or shores of the state of North Carolina out and into the waters of the Atlantic ocean; and any portions or portion of any water within a distance of three nautical miles from said waters of the Atlantic ocean to any beach or shore of said state shall be deemed, for the purposes of this act, within the waters of said state: Provided, that any citizen or resident of the state of North Carolina, whether person, firm, or corporation, may take, capture, or catch any menhaden or fatbacks at any time, subject to existing laws.

It is unlawful for any nonresident person, persons, firm, or corporation knowingly to buy, cook, or manufacture into fertilizer any menhaden or fatbacks caught, taken, or captured contrary to the provisions of the above.

Any person, persons, firm, or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in any county opposite the place at which said act is done, shall be fined not less than twenty-five hundred dollars or imprisoned for two years, or both, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that each catch, or taking, or purchase, or act of manufacture, shall constitute a distinct and separate offense.

It is the duty of the fisheries commissioner or assistant commissioner, whenever an affidavit is delivered to him stating that the affiant is informed and believes that said act is being violated at any particular place, to go himself or send a duly authorized deputy to such place, investigate the same, and such officer shall seize and remove all nets, machinery, or other appliances and paraphernalia setting or being used in violation of this section, sell same at public auction and apply the proceeds of such sale to the payment of costs and expenses of such removal, and pay any balance remaining into the school fund of the county nearest to the place where the offense is committed.

1911, c. 102.

1967. Menhaden fishing with nets regulated. If any person shall catch any menhaden or fatbacks within the waters of the state of North Carolina, to the extreme limits of the state's jurisdiction as defined in the preceding section, in any purse net or purse seine with a bar of less than one inch and with a mesh of less than two inches, or shall knowingly cook or manufacture for fertilizer any menhaden or fatbacks caught in any net or seine having bars of less than one inch or having meshes of less than two inches, at any place within the state of North Carolina, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each and every offense shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars or imprisoned for one year, or both, in the discretion of the court. Every person found fishing for menhaden or fatbacks within three miles of the shore of any county shall be presumed to have violated this section. And all such persons, firms or corporations shall be subject to all the pains and penalties denounced in this section, and they may be prosecuted in the courts of any county in this state. All persons aiding and abetting shall be guilty as principals.

This section is inapplicable to the counties of Dare, Brunswick, Pender, and New Hanover.

Rev., s. 2438; 1905, cc. 274, 508.

1968. Poisoning streams. If any person shall put any poisonous substance for the purpose of catching, killing or driving off any fish in any of the waters of a creek or river, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3417; Code, s. 1094; 1883, c. 290.

1969. Fish offal in navigable waters. If any person shall throw, or cause to be thrown, into the channel of any of the navigable waters of the state, any fish offal, in any quantity that shall be likely to hinder or prevent the passage of fish along such channel, or if any person shall throw or cause to be thrown into the waters known as the Frying Pan, tributary to the Great Alligator river, in Tyrrell county, any fish offal in any quantities whatsoever, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2444; Code, ss. 3386, 3389, 3407.

Navigable waters defined in annotations under section 1964.

1970. Sunday fishing. If any person fish on Sunday with a seine, drag-net or other kind of net, except such as is fastened to stakes, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than two hundred nor more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than twelve months.

Rev., s. 3841; Code, s. 1116; 1883, c. 338.

This section does not apply to Onslow county so far as established seines are concerned. 1885, c. 171; 1889, c. 23.

1971. Robbing nets. If any person shall, without authority of the owner, take any fish from any nets of any kind, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Fishing without permission. see Game Laws, s. 2127.

A company injuring fishing nets in a navigable stream by unnecessarily and wantonly running its boats into same is liable for damages: Hopkins v. R. R., 131-463.

1973. Injury to fishing structures. If any person shall willfully destroy or injure any platform or structure on any land covered by navigable waters, which land has been duly entered and granted and over which the owner has, according to law, acquired a prior right of fishery, or shall interfere with or molest the owner in the use thereof or of said prior right of fishery, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any person shall willfully destroy or injure any platform or structure erected in any navigable water by the owner of the adjoining land for the purpose of drawing or hauling nets or seines thereon, or shall interfere with or molest the owner in the use of any such lands, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 3414, 3415; Code, s. 2753; 1874-5, c. 183, ss. 2-4.

1974. Obstructing passage of fish in streams. If any person shall set a net of any description across the main channel of any river or creek, or shall erect, so as to extend more than three-fourths of the distance, across any such river or creek any stand, dam, weir, hedge or other obstruction to the passage of fish, or shall erect any stand, dam, weir, or hedge, in any part of any river or creek that may be left open for the passage of fish, or who, having erected any dam where the same was allowed, and shall not make and keep open such slope or fishway as may be required by law to be kept open for the free passage of fish, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that this section shall not apply to the creeks in the sound between Bogue inlet and Brown inlet, in Onslow county, except the main channel thereof.

Rev., s. 2457; Code, ss. 3387, 3388, 3389; 1909, c. 466, s. 1.

As to obstructing passage of fish in water-courses, see State v. Glenn, 52-321; McLaughlin v. Mfg. Co., 103-100.

General assembly has complete authority to make provision for removal of any obstruction and nuisance to fishing in the waters of this state: Rea v. Hampton, 101-51.

Obstructions may be removed by private party under certain circumstances: Daniels v. Homer, 139-219; Hettrick v. Page, 82-65; Rea v. Hampton, 101-51.

1975. Dams for mills and factories regulated; sluiceways. No person shall place or allow to remain any dam for mill or factory purposes in the Chowan river between Holliday's island and the Virginia line; in the Meherrin river between its mouth and the Virginia line; in the Roanoke river from the mouth of the Cashie river to the Virginia line; in the Dan river from the crossing of the state line to a point nearest Danbury; in the Neuse river from New Bern to Neuse station in Wake county; in Contentnea creek from its junction with the Neuse to the junction of Turkey and Moccasin creeks; in the Cape Fear river from Wilmington to the junction of Haw and Deep rivers and thence in Haw river to the line of Chatham and Alamance counties, and also in Deep river to the Randolph and Chatham line; in Rocky river from its mouth to the crossing of the Pittsboro and Ashboro road; in the New Hope river from its mouth to the Orange county line; in Northeast Cape Fear river from Wilmington to South Washington; in Black river from its mouth to the junction of the Coharie; in the South river from its junction with the Black river to the crossing of the Fayetteville and Warsaw public road; in Lumber river from the state line to the northern boundary of Robeson county; in the Yadkin river from the state line to Patterson's factory; in Elk creek, a tributary of the Yadkin river, from its mouth to Daniel Wheeler's in Watauga county; in Stony Fork creek, a tributary of the Yadkin river, from its mouth to John Jones's old store; in Ararat river from its mouth to the bridge at Mount Airy; in North Fork of Catawba from its mouth to Turkey Cove; in Broad river from the state line to Reedy Patch creek; in Green river from its mouth to its junction with North Paolet; in the Tennessee river from the state line to its junction with the Nantahala; in Pigeon river from the state line to the Forks of Pigeon; in the French Broad river from the state line to Brevard and in the Swannanoa river; in Toe river from the state line to the confluence of the North and South Forks of Toe; in New River from the state line to the point of divergence from the western boundary line of Alleghany county; in Little river in Johnston county from its junction with Neuse river in Wayne county to the Wake county line; in Cane river from the mouth of same to mouth of Bolling creek in Yancey county, also Old Fields of Toe on North Toe river in Mitchell county; Johns river from its mouth to the forks of said river near Carrell Moore's in Caldwell county; Catawba river from the South Carolina line to the town of Old Fort in McDowell county, unless the owner thereof shall construct thereon at his own expense a sluiceway for the free passage of fish, of a width not less than three feet nor more than ten feet: Provided, such sluiceway shall be constructed according to plans and specifications to be furnished by the board of agriculture, and shall not injure the water-power of such owner: Provided further, in order to ascertain whether sluiceways will or will not injure the water-power aforesaid, the owner of such dam may select two disinterested persons and the board of agriculture two others, who may select the fifth person to aid in the arbitration and settlement of such complaint: Provided further, this section shall not apply to Pigeon river in Haywood county: Provided also, it shall be lawful for any person to remove any obstruction in the main channel of the Cape Fear river to the width of one hundred feet, for the free passage of fish in the county of Harnett. This proviso, however, shall not apply to any dam or obstruction placed or kept upon said river by the Cape Fear iron and steel company.

Rev., s. 2462; Code, s. 3410; 1901, c. 208; 1880, c. 34; 1881, cc. 21, 32, 250, 320; 1905, c. 278; P. L. 1913, c. 758.

Section merely referred to, in the case of the obstruction in French Broad River, in Gwaltney v. Land Co., 111-566.

1976. Sluiceways and fish passages; regulation and enforcement. The sluiceways referred to in the preceding section shall be so constructed and placed upon such dams by the owner thereof within sixty days after notice has been given by the board of agriculture, under a penalty of one hundred dollars per day for each day thereafter that such dam shall remain without such sluiceway, and shall be kept open by him during the months of February, March, April, May, June, October and November, and at all other times when there is sufficient water to supply both the water-power and the sluiceway, a fine of fifty dollars per day for each day said sluiceway shall be allowed to remain closed, and any person who shall fish with net, trap, hook and line, or who shall take in any way whatsoever any fish within two hundred feet of said sluiceway, shall be subject to a fine of one dollar for each fish so taken, or a fine of fifty dollars for each offense, or imprisonment for thirty days.

No other obstruction to the passage of fish shall exist or be built between the designated points in the streams mentioned in this and the preceding section unless an opening of not less than twenty-five feet, and not more than seventy-five feet, embracing the main channel of said streams, shall be made by the owner of such obstructions within twenty days after notice from the board of agriculture to make such opening under penalty of fifty dollars per day for each day such obstruction shall remain unopened. Said notice shall be served by the sheriff of the county, and his return shall be prima facie evidence of notice in any suit for such penalty.

See further as to obstructing streams and fish passages, Rivers and Creeks, ss. 7367, 7377.

General assembly has complete authority to make provision for the removal of any obstruction and nuisance to fishing in the waters of this state: Rea v. Hampton, 101-51.

ART. 10. COMMERCIAL FISHING; LOCAL REGULATIONS

Part 1. Sounds and Inlets

1977. Inlets; nets in, regulated. If any person shall set any pound net, dutch net or hedge net within two miles of Oregon inlet or Hatteras inlet or within ten miles of New inlet in Dare county, or shall between the first day of January and the first day of May following of any year, set or operate any seine or stationary nets of any kind in the main channels within three miles of the inside mouths of Ocracoke, Hatteras, Oregon, or any other inlet north of Ocracoke inlet, connecting the waters of the Atlantic ocean with any of the sounds or other inland waters, or shall fish with seines or nets of any description in the waters of Bear inlet or Brown's inlet or within one mile of Bear inlet or Brown's inlet, on the eastern or western beach of said inlets, except as regularly established fisheries on said Bear or Brown's inlet beaches, or shall fish with seines or nets on the inside of said Bear or Brown's inlet within one-fourth mile of said inlets between the first day of October and the first day of April, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2450; 1893, c. 216; 1903, c. 724; 1903, c. 416.

1978. Pamlico and sounds to the north: Net stakes to be removed. Every person who shall set or use any net in the waters of Pamlico, Croatan, Currituck or Albemarle sounds or their tributaries, except Perquimans river, shall be required to pull up and remove their broken, decayed and abandoned net stakes within thirty days from the day the nets were taken from them, and not later than the first day of June, and any person failing to pull up and remove their stakes, as required by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 2448; Code, ss. 3382, 3414; 1883, c. 69; R. C., c. 81, s. 8; 1844, c. 40, s. 7; 1852, c. 13; 1893, c. 147; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 19, s. 1.

For Currituck county, the above section is applicable, except that the words "broken, decayed and abandoned" before "net stakes" are omitted. Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 19.

One engaged in seine fishing on the shores of Albemarle sound has the right to remove stakes put up to operate a pod-net, when his seine fishery is interfered with by them: Hettrick v. Page, 82-65.

1979. Pamlico, Croatan, and Albemarle sounds and inlets: Fishing regulated. If any person shall set or fish any net, seine or appliance of any kind for catching fish at any place within a radius of two and one-half miles either way from Roanoke marshes lighthouse, at a distance more than five hundred yards from the shore of Roanoke island or the mainland on the western side of Croatan and Pamlico sounds, except that on the western side of Pamlico and Croatan sounds fishing shall be permitted in that territory extending one thousand yards from the shore, beginning at the two-and-one-half-mile limit heretofore defined and extending to the southern end of the Roanoke marshes, on the Pamlico sound side, and to the north end of the same marshes of the Croatan side, but in neither case shall the nets within this one-thousand-yard limit be within one and one-quarter miles in any direction from the Roanoke marshes lighthouse; or shall set or fish any pound or dutch net on the eastern side of Pamlico sound within ten miles of the Roanoke marshes lighthouse, except such as shall be fished within one thousand yards of Roanoke island or Hog island shores; or shall set or fish any dutch or pound net on the eastern side of Pamlico sound more than two thousand yards west of a line running south-southeast (magnetic) from Big island to a point on the twelve-foot curve westerly of Chicamacomico or south of said point more than two thousand yards from the twelve-foot curve, as marked on the chart of the coast and geodetic survey, corrected from data obtained to November twenty-second, one thousand nine hundred and four; or shall set or fish any dutch or pound net on the west side of Pamlico sound, in said sound, extending into the water more than two thousand yards from the shore; or shall set or fish any pound or dutch net in Croatan sound farther from the shore than one-fifth of the width of said sound at that point; or shall set or fish any net, seine or appliance of any kind for catching fish at any place within the area of one-sixth the width of the sound or river on either side of a line passing through the middle of the channel of Croatan sound and the middle of Albemarle sound, up Chowan river as far as Cannon's ferry, and other tributaries of Albemarle sound (provided, this clause does not apply to seines used on the rivers); or shall set or fish any pound or dutch net in the Albemarle sound more than two thousand yards from the shore of the mainland, or in Chowan river farther from the shore than one-third of the width of said river, at the place where said nets are fished or set, or within one-fourth mile of any wharf used by a steamer on said river; or shall set or fish any net or appliance of any kind for catching fish within one mile on either side of a line running westerly or southwesterly from the center of New inlet to an intersection with the line extending from Big island southwest (magnetic), or within one mile on either side of a line six miles long running southwesterly from the center of Oregon inlet to a point two thousand yards west of the continuation of the said line running from Big island south-southeast (magnetic), or within one mile on either side of a line six miles long running from the center of Hatteras inlet in a northwesterly direction, these restricted areas to include the channels extending from Oregon, New and Hatteras inlets, respectively, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than fifty dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days, in the discretion of the court. The provisions of this section shall apply only to that part of each year in which shad and herring fishing are permitted by law in the several waters, except that in Albemarle and Croatan sounds the provisions of this section shall apply for the entire year, as far as it relates to pound nets. The fisheries commissioner is authorized, in determining the boundaries of the restricted areas on either side of Roanoke marshes, to run straight lines from the stake two thousand yards from the shore in the two-and-one-half-mile radius from Roanoke marshes lighthouse to the stake five hundred yards eastward from the point of Roanoke marshes, and shall run straight lines from the stake one-fifth the width of Croatan sound in the two-and-one-half-mile radius from Roanoke marshes lighthouse south to the stake five hundred yards from the eastward point of Roanoke marshes; that the boundary lines marking the restricted areas in these sounds shall be run in straight lines from stake to stake, located at certain points, but said stakes not to be in any case more than three miles apart. The place of trial for offenses under this section shall be the county opposite where the act was committed.

Fishing in prohibited waters is a public nuisance, and any person injured thereby may abate it without unnecessary damage to the property: Daniels v. Homer, 139-219; Rea v. Hampton, 101-51; Hettrick v. Page, 82-65.

1980. Albemarle and Croatan sounds and inlets: Drift nets. If any person shall drift or fish any drift nets between the first day of February and the first day of May of any year, within two miles of the mouth of any river emptying into Albemarle sound, or within three miles of any seine-beach on the Albemarle or Croatan sounds while being fished, or within ten miles of Ocracoke, Hatteras, Oregon or New inlets, or within ten miles of the Roanoke marshes, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than fifty dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days: Provided, the people of Dare county shall be allowed to use drift nets for herring.

Rev., s. 2446; Code, s. 3396; 1881, c. 274, ss. 1, 2; 1883, c. 145.

1981. Albemarle sound and tributaries: Nets and net stakes. No person shall set or fish any dutch net or pound net in Roanoke river, Cashie or Middle and Eastmost rivers, or within two miles of the mouth of said rivers, or within one mile of the mouth of any other river emptying into Albemarle sound, or less than two miles in width at its mouth, and any such net set within one mile of the mouth of any other river emptying into said sound shall not extend into the main channel at its mouth. No person shall set or fish with a dutch net or pod net within half a mile to the eastward or westward of the outside windlasses or snatch-blocks of any seine fishery in operation on said sound; and any such net set or fished within one mile of such windlasses or snatch-blocks of any seine fishery in operation shall run at right angles to the shore from the shore, and shall not extend farther into the sound from the water's edge than the distance from such windlasses or snatch-blocks to the line of such net; and all persons who shall set or fish any such net in said sound shall pull up and remove the stakes used for the same by the first day of June next succeeding the fishing season, and if any person shall set or fish any dutch net or pod net in said sound in violation of this section he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be subject to a penalty of three hundred dollars: Provided, that dutch nets may be used in Cashie river two and one-half miles from its mouth, if they do not extend more than one-third the width of said river from the shore, and such nets may be along the sound shore on the Bertie county side between the following points along said shore, to wit: commencing at the mouth of Cherry Tree Cut branch, Kentrock field and Landing field, and running around the shore to the mouth of Morgan swamp, thence to Rock Spring branch, and that any nets set or fished within that line shall not extend from the shore in any direction a greater distance than six hundred and fifty yards measured at high water, and within this distance of six hundred and fifty yards is to be included the nets, hedges and all parts thereof.

Rev., s. 2439; Code, s. 3333; 1889, c. 122; 1891, c. 322; 1895, c. 245; 1899, c. 310; 1899, c. 412; 1909, c. 540, s. 2; 1911, c. 23.

One engaged in seine fishing on the shores of Albemarle sound has the right to remove stakes put up to operate a pod-net, when his seine fishery is interfered with by them: Hettrick v. Page, 82-65.

1982. Albemarle sound in certain parts: Gill nets. It is unlawful to set, fish or use any gill nets of any description, either stake, anchor or drift, for commercial purposes in the Albemarle sound west of a line drawn straight from Batt's island on northern side of Albemarle sound to mouth of Scuppernong river on south side of said sound, except between the hours of four o'clock and eleven o'clock p. m., and then said nets or combinations of such nets shall not be more than six hundred yards in length, and there shall not be allowed to any boat more than six hundred yards of such gill nets.

It is the duty of the fisheries commissioner or other persons entrusted with the enforcement of the fishery laws of the state to seize and remove any gill net of any description being set, setting or being used in violation of this article, or which is more than six hundred yards in length, and to dispose of the same as provided by law.

It is the duty of the fisheries commissioner to keep a deputy, assistant or inspector on the waters of Albemarle sound to enforce this section and the other fish laws applicable to Albemarle sound, and the failure of the fisheries commissioner to perform this duty shall render his official bond liable to the penalty prescribed in the third preceding section which regulates fishing in Pamlico, Croatan and Albemarle sounds and inlets.

Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars (one-half to go to the informant and the other half to the school fund), or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

1911, c. 18; 1913, c. 43.

1983. Albemarle sound off Tyrrell county: Gill nets. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set or use for catching fish any anchor gill net within fourteen hundred yards of any stake gill net of from four and one-half inch to five and one-half inch mesh in that part of the Albemarle sound embraced in the following area: Commencing on the east shore of the Scuppernong river where said river empties into the Albemarle sound, thence north to the middle of the Albemarle sound, thence along the middle of the Albemarle sound to a point in the sound opposite Newberry pier, thence to the shore at Newberry pier, and along the sound shore to the beginning. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or be imprisoned for not more than thirty days.

1984. Albemarle sound in certain parts: Anchor, drift, and stake nets. If any person shall set or fish an anchor, drift or staked gill net in the waters of Albemarle sound or its tributaries west of a line running from Skinner's point buoy to Roanoke lighthouse, or if any person shall east of said line set or fish in the waters of said sound or its tributaries any anchor, drift or staked gill net longer than one thousand yards, or combination of such nets longer than one thousand yards; or shall set or fish any anchor, drift or staked gill nets within one and one-half miles of any seine grounds on the said sound or rivers emptying therein or within one-half mile of any dutch-net stand where the same is now located in said sound or rivers, unless said seine ground or dutch-net stand is owned by the person setting such nets; or shall set or fish any line or row of anchor, drift or staked gill nets anywhere in said sound or rivers nearer to any other row of such nets than half the length of the longer of said row he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days. And any person who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section shall forfeit and pay for each violation of the same the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in a civil action by any one who will sue therefor; one-half of said recovery shall inure to the benefit of the public school fund: Provided, that nothing in this section shall prevent the setting of gill nets in the Chowan river or its tributaries above Holliday's island: Provided further, that one-third of said stream, along the channel, shall be kept free from any class of net: Provided further, that no pound net shall be set within one hundred yards of any other pound net set by another person in Chowan river, north of Holliday's island.

Rev., s. 2451; 1897, c. 51; 1899, c. 41; 1899, c. 130; 1911, c. 104.

1985. Albemarle sound: Nets near wharves or Norfolk Southern railroad bridge. It is unlawful to set any pound or dutch nets in Albemarle sound nearer to either side of the Norfolk Southern railroad bridge across said sound than three hundred yards, or to set any stake, drift, or anchor gill nets nearer to either side of said bridge than one-half mile. It is unlawful to set any net of any description in front of a wharf, that is, between the pier of any wharf now used as a landing for any steamboat and the middle of the stream on which the wharf is built. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one hundred dollars or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

1986. Croatan marshes: Nets and fishing apparatus near. If any person, for the purpose of taking fish, shall between the first day of February and the first day of May, of the same year, use or cause to be used, at or within half a mile of the marshes separating the waters of Croatan and Pamlico sounds, any weir, hedge, net or seine, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2424; Code, s. 3378; R. C., c. 81, s. 4; 1844, c. 40, s. 3.

1987. Currituck sound: Nets used regulated. It is unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to fish in the waters of Currituck sound with a drag, haul, seine or any other kind of net of whatsoever kind with a bar of less than one and three-eighths inches, or a mesh of less than two and three-quarters inches. Any person or persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court.

1988. Pamlico sound: Nets to be set north and south. Every net (unless the same be a drag-net and hauled to the shore) which may be used for catching shad in that portion of the waters of Pamlico sound lying between a line drawn eastwardly from Stumpy Point and Mount Pleasant in Hyde county to a point ten miles south of Hatteras inlet in said sound, shall be set and fixed in said waters in a direction from north to south, and shall not be used in any other manner; and any person offending against this section shall, for every offense, forfeit five dollars.

Rev., s. 2433; Code, s. 3381; 1889, c. 261; R. C., c. 81, s. 7; 1844, c. 40, s. 6.

1989. Pamlico sound; tributaries, rivers, and waters of Carteret county: Nets regulated. There shall be no pound or other tarred nets with a mesh smaller than one and one-half inches bar, before tarring, fished in Pamlico, Tar, and Neuse rivers, Pamlico sound and the waters of Carteret county, and there shall be no pound or stake nets fished within three miles of the inside mouths of Ocracoke inlet nor in the principal channel or channels of said inlet nor within one mile of said channel or channels until the said channel or channels reach deep water, at any time, and the other inlets north of it shall be left under section 1979 of this chapter. No stake or pound net which shall be fished in any of the waters mentioned in this section, without being tarred, shall have a mesh of less than one and three-eighths inches bar. The bunt, which must not be longer than thirty yards, of all seines and haul-nets fished in the waters of Pamlico, Tar and Neuse rivers and Pamlico sound shall not be smaller than one and one-eighth inches bar net, but nothing herein shall apply to nets fishing for menhaden. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars and imprisoned at the discretion of the court: Provided, this section shall apply only to that part of the year beginning January fifteenth and ending May fifteenth.

1990. Pamlico sound; waters of Pamlico county: Nets regulated. It is unlawful for any person or association of persons or corporation to set or cause to be set, fish or cause to be fished in Pamlico sound from the mouth of Bay river to Neuse river and in Neuse river, more than four pound, pod or dutch nets in any one string, with leads of more than two hundred yards in length for each pound or net, or at a greater distance than one and one-half miles from the shore at right angles or thereabouts from the place opposite where such net may be set; and it is unlawful for any person, association of persons or corporation to set or cause to be set any pound, pod, or dutch net or string of nets of any kind, or fish any such nets nearer to a net or string of nets already set and being fished than five hundred yards, and no pound, pod, or dutch net nor any lead thereto shall be set other than at right angles or thereabouts from the shore. It is unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to use, set or fish any drag or haul net in the waters of Smith's creek or its tributaries in Pamlico county.

It is unlawful for any person or persons or corporation to set or fish or cause to be set or fished any pound, pod, or dutch net in the waters of Pamlico county on the south or east side thereof, or in Neuse river, of a size smaller than one and one-quarter mesh or bar measure or two and one-half inches string measure.

Any person, persons or corporation who shall violate any of the above provisions shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, in the discretion of the court, and shall also forfeit such net or nets any portion of which may be set beyond such distance from the shore or set in any manner or place forbidden in this section.

It is the duty of the sheriff of Pamlico county, upon reliable information that any person or persons or corporation has set or caused to be set any pound or dutch net, or that any portion of any such net has been set at a greater distance than one and one-half miles from the shore from the mouth of Bay river to Neuse river and from Neuse river to Baird's creek, or nearer than five hundred yards to any nets already set, to ascertain the truth thereof, and if such report be correct, take into possession at once any such net so set, and after ten days public notice at three public places in his county sell the same at public sale, and from the proceeds he shall retain the actual cost of taking such net, and a fee for services of two and one-half dollars and the remainder of said proceeds he shall pay one-half to the informer and the other to be paid to the county treasurer, who shall place the same to the credit of the public school fund of the county.

It is lawful for any person or persons to set pound, pod, or dutch nets in the manner prescribed in this section in the waters of Pamlico county and in Neuse river upon the north side thereof from its mouth to Baird's creek, at any time during the year, and from the northern end of outer Swan island to Adams creek on the south side of Neuse river, from the first day of January to the first day of May.

P. L. 1913, c. 752, s. 5.

1991. Roanoke sound: Nets in. It is unlawful for any person or persons to set any pound nets or any other kind of nets east of a line beginning at a point one thousand yards east of Hog Island point and running direct to a point two hundred yards east of Broad Creek point; thence following the east shore of Roanoke island to Ballast point; or set or fish any pound or dutch nets or any other kind of net in that portion of Roanoke sound north of a line extending from Ballast point east ten degrees north farther from the shore than one-fifth of the width of said sound. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court. This section shall not prevent the setting of pound nets inside of Shallow Bag bay, and shall apply only to that part of each year in which shad and herring fishing is permitted by law in the several waters.

1911, c. 26.

Part 2. Streams

1992. Black river: Fishing regulated. It is unlawful for any person or persons to catch or take fish, either by rod or hook, seines, nets, striking, muddying the pools or lagoons, feeling by hand, gigging or in any other method or in any manner whatsoever, during the months of May, June, July and August, excepting Tuesday and Friday of each week in each year, in the waters of Black river and its tributaries, in the counties of Pender and Bladen. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction fined not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, one-half of the fine to be paid to the informer and one-half to the school fund.

1993. Black river and Mingo creek: Only hook and line. If any person shall fish in that part of Black river in Sampson and Cumberland counties and below the Atlantic coast line railway bridge, or Mingo creek in said counties below the Aversboro and Clinton road otherwise than with a hook and line, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2471; 1895, c. 276.

1994. Black river in Bladen, Cumberland and Sampson: Close season. It is unlawful for any person to catch with hook and line, seine, or destroy with gun or any gig or striking iron the fish in the waters of Black river and its tributaries in the counties of Bladen, Cumberland and Sampson from the fifteenth of May until the fifteenth of August in each year. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than thirty days, for each and every offense.

P. L. 1913, c. 623, s. 1.

1995. Black river and Six Runs: Obstructing channel; lay days. It is unlawful for any person or persons to fish in that part of Black river from the Cape Fear river to the mouth of Great Coharie, and in that part of Six Runs river from its mouth to where it is crossed by the Atlantic coast line railroad, with any wire trap, net or contrivance whatever that will obstruct the free passage of fish in said waters, from the first day of March to the fifteenth day of June of each year, except from six o'clock p.m. to six o'clock a.m. on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. It is unlawful for any person or persons fishing as permitted in the foregoing to leave, or permit being left, in the parts of the said streams defined in the foregoing, any wire trap, net or contrivance whatever that will obstruct the free passage of fish, or any parts of any such wire trap, net or contrivance, at any time during which such fishing is prohibited. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

1996. Cape Fear river: Nonresidents may not fish. If any person who is a nonresident of the state shall catch fish, for marketable purposes, in the waters of the Cape Fear river, or any of its tributaries, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3416; 1895, c. 230.

1997. Cape Fear river: Nets and seines regulated. If any person shall use any net for catching sturgeon in the waters of New Hanover county, the bars of the meshes of which net shall be less than ten inches in the diamond; or shall haul a seine or nets or pod fish within three hundred yards of any established fishery, except with the nets of such fishery; or shall set or fish any stationary nets in the waters of the Cape Fear river, except on the east side thereof and in New Hanover county; or shall set any net in said river otherwise than east or west; or shall own or control more than one line of nets; or shall operate or fish any shad nets in Cape Fear river below the mouth of Brunswick river between the twentieth day of April and the fifteenth day of January; or shall set any set net or stationary net of any kind in the Cape Fear river north of the mouth of the Brunswick river, or in the Brunswick river; or shall operate any drift net in the Cape Fear river of more than three hundred yards in length, or shall catch shad in said river with seines or nets from the twentieth of April to the fifteenth of January, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The possession of a sturgeon net with meshes of a size smaller than allowed by this section shall be prima facie evidence of having fished the same. In setting nets in Cape Fear river as allowed by this section the following rules shall prevail: They shall begin at a point one hundred yards from the edge of the channel on the east side of said river and running thence due east one hundred and twenty yards, then leaving a gap of one hundred and twenty yards. Then from the east end of said gap another net may be set one hundred and twenty yards only, and to continue in the same proportion, always requiring a gap of one hundred and twenty yards to intervene between each one hundred and twenty yards of nets so set, and no net or sets of nets of any kind shall be placed opposite said gaps, within a distance of a half mile of same, and none of the nets so set shall be nearer than a half-mile of the west shore of said Cape Fear river. An established fishery in the meaning of this section is one where there is a camp for the use of the hands, and where the seine or nets and boats used by the said fishery are kept, and where the said fishery was established prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

Rev., s. 2468; Code, s. 3403; 1901, c. 173; 1899, c. 440; 1881, c. 280; 1907, c. 752.

1998. Cape Fear river: Fish traps regulated. If any person shall construct, operate or maintain any fish traps in the Cape Fear river, or shall fail to remove all traps now in the channel of said river within sixty days from the first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and five; or shall fail on the first day of June of each year to remove the slats or fingers from any fish trap allowed to be operated in said river under this section, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to Brunswick or New Hanover counties or to a fish trap which extends to not more than one-third the channel of said river.

Rev., s. 2483; 1905, c. 500.

1999. Cape Fear and Northeast rivers: Nets in. It is unlawful to fish with dutch, pod, fyke or other pound nets, or stake or stationary nets, or nets of like kind, in the waters of the Cape Fear river below the mouth of Black river, twelve miles above Wilmington, or in the waters of Northeast river below the Castle Hayne bridge. Drift nets shall be permitted in the waters of the Cape Fear river within the territory as above described in this section, and its tributaries, between February first and May first of each year. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than fifty dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days.

1909, c. 841; P. L. 1911, c. 278.

2000. Cape Fear, Northeast, and Black rivers: Obstructing fish; fishing between Saturday evening and Monday evening. If any person shall with seines or nets of any kind catch any fish in the waters of the Cape Fear river from its mouth to the Bladen county line, or in the waters of the Northeast Cape Fear or Black rivers in Pender county between six o'clock p. m. on Saturday and six o'clock p.m. on Monday, or shall obstruct the free passage of fish in the waters of said rivers, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 2470; 1885, c. 226; 1887, c. 71; 1907, c. 811.

2001. Cape Fear river, northeast branch: Seines, nets and traps. If any person shall fish in the northeast branch of the Cape Fear river with seine, net or trap, from the twenty-third day of February to the first day of July of any year, between the hours of six o'clock p.m. on Saturday and six o'clock p.m. on Monday of each week, or shall at any time use more than one seine at a time in any fishing hole in said river, or use, set or place in said river any hedge, trap or other obstruction which will prevent the free passage of fish up said river, which said hedge, trap or other obstruction shall extend more than one-third across the main channel of the said river, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to that portion of said river which lies between the city of Wilmington and a point on said river known as The Three Cypresses, twelve miles distant from said city of Wilmington.

Rev., s. 2469; 1889, c. 182; 1891, c. 198.

2002. Goose and Oyster creeks: Drag or haul nets unlawful. It is unlawful for any person or persons to fish with a drag or haul net of any description in the waters of Oyster creek and its tributaries and Goose creek or its tributaries (said creek being a dividing line between the counties of Pamlico and Beaufort). Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

1907, c. 222; P. L. 1911, c. 381.

2003. Little river: Obstructions in. If any person shall place any obstruction in Little river, dividing the counties of Pasquotank and Perquimans, and allow it to remain for a longer time than ten days, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars: Provided, nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prohibit citizens from fishing with dip-nets in said river during the months of March and April in each year.

Rev., s. 2443; Code, s. 3400; 1881, c. 18.

2004. Lumber river: Close season for traps in. It is unlawful for any person to set any trap for the purpose of catching fish in Lumber river or its tributaries in Columbus and Robeson counties, between the first day of April and the first day of September in any year. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

2005. Lumber river and waters of Robeson, Columbus, Hoke, and Scotland: Fishing regulated. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to fish with seine, trap, nets, or by gigging, muddying, striking, dynamiting, shooting, or using lime or other chemicals by which fish may be killed, in Lumber river or any of its tributaries, or other rivers, lakes, ponds, or swamps of Robeson, Columbus, Hoke and Scotland counties: Provided, that gill nets may be set in these waters during six months in each year, beginning with October and ending with March: and Provided further, that in Robeson and Hoke counties owners of private lakes and ponds may fish therein with seines, nets or traps from July first to September thirtieth.

Any person, firm, or corporation violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars nor less than ten dollars, the fine to be paid to the school fund of the county in which the offense was committed, or imprisoned not more than thirty days nor less than ten days in the county jail, the county commissioners of said counties having the privilege of sending the said person or persons so convicted to the chain-gang of their respective counties or to hire them out in case there is no chain-gang. The police force of said counties have full power and authority to arrest, without warrant, any and all persons violating this section.

P. L. 1915, c. 358; P. L. 1917, cc. 368, 415.

2006. Moccasin river and Big and Little Contentnea creeks: Obstructions and nets in. It is unlawful for any person or persons to hedge or otherwise obstruct the free passage of water, fish, timber, rafts or boats in the run of Moccasin river or Big Contentnea creek, from Rountree's bridge in Wilson county to the mouth of said river or creek, or to make any like obstruction in the run of Little Contentnea creek. It is unlawful for any person or persons to fish with traps of any description in the waters of either of said streams, except from Rountree's bridge to Barefoot's mill: Provided, no hedge or trap shall obstruct more than one-third of the waters of Contentnea creek. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five dollars and not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days; and one-half of the fine so imposed shall be paid to the person who reports such offenses to the proper lawful officer, and the other half to the common school fund of the county in which the misdemeanor is committed.

1907, c. 615; Ex. Sess., P. L. 1913, c. 252.

2007. Neuse and Trent rivers: Stationary, set, or dutch nets. No person or association of persons shall set or place or cause to be set or placed any stationary, set or dutch nets in either Neuse or Trent rivers above the point of conflux of the said Neuse and Trent rivers. That no person or association of persons or corporation shall set, cause to be set, fish or cause to be fished, use or cause to be used any dutch net, pound net or other stationary trap net or seine of similar description, by whatever name known, in the waters of Neuse river above Wilkinson's point, on Pamlico side. Any person or association of persons setting or placing any nets, as described above, on any day or part of a day, above the point of conflux of the said Neuse and Trent rivers, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person or association of persons or corporation setting or placing or causing to be set or placed any nets, as described above, on any day or part of a day, above Wilkinson's point, in Neuse river, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person or association of persons or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction be fined fifty dollars or imprisoned thirty days for each and every violation. Any party who is the informant against any one violating this section shall, upon conviction of such person so violating the section, receive one-half of the fine prescribed.

1909, c. 801; P. L. 1911, c. 616.

2008. Neuse and Trent rivers: Size of seine bars regulated. If any person shall use any drag-net or seine with bars of less size than one and a quarter inch in the Neuse and Trent rivers, or in any of the tributaries thereof, except for the purpose of catching herring, from the fifteenth day of January to the fifteenth day of May of each year, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than five nor more than fifty dollars for every offense. This section shall not apply to the waters of the Neuse and its tributaries above the Wayne and Johnston county line.

Rev., s. 2454; Code, s. 3395; 1881, c. 146, ss. 1, 2.

2009. Neuse river: Obstructions in, by dams, nets, etc. Any person who shall construct a dam, put in traps, dutch net, wire seine, or anything else in Neuse river between its mouth and the Falls of Neuse in Wake county, for the purpose of obstructing the passage of fish in said river, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, this section shall not apply to seines, set nets, running or skimming nets: Provided, this section shall not prevent the use of traps in Wayne county, where the trap and its wings do not extend more than one-third across the stream.

Rev., s. 2474; Code, s. 3422; 1885, c. 391; 1893, c. 354; 1883, c. 301, ss. 1, 2; 1895, c. 403; 1901, c. 395.

2010. Neuse river: Certain nets regulated. If any person shall use or cause to be used any dutch net, pound net, or other stationary trap net, or seine of similar description, by whatever name known, in the waters of Neuse river for the purpose of taking fish therefrom, except the ordinary set net in use in said river prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, he shall for each day's use thereof as aforesaid forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars. The penalties herein created shall be recovered by warrant before any justice of the peace in the counties of Carteret, Craven and Pamlico or Lenoir, and shall be applied to the use of the public schools of said counties, and such offender, in addition to the penalties contained in this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than six months nor more than twelve months: Provided, that a resident and citizen of the state may fish with dutch, trap or pound nets in the waters of Neuse river on the Pamlico side of said river between the mouth of said river and Upper Broad creek not more than five hundred yards from the shore.

Rev., s. 2453; Code, s. 3397; 1897, c. 145; 1899, cc. 299, 422, 435; 1901, c. 74; 1903, c. 704; 1905, c. 817.

2011. Pamlico and Tar rivers: Dutch, etc., nets prohibited. If any person shall set down or fish any dutch, pod, fyke or pound net or net of like kind in the waters of Pamlico or Tar rivers or their tributaries except in the manner, and in the part, and during the time, which such nets are by law allowed to be fished, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than thirty and not more than sixty days.

Rev., s. 2428; Code, s. 3417; 1903, c. 52.

2036. Carteret: Use of dutch nets. If any person shall use or cause to be used any dutch net, pound net or other stationary trap, net or seine of similar description, by whatever name known, in the waters of Carteret county for the purpose of taking fish therefrom, he shall for each day's use thereof forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars. The penalties herein created shall be recovered by a warrant before any justice of the peace in the county of Carteret, and shall be applied to the use of the public schools of said county; and such offender, in addition to the penalties contained in this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than six months nor more than twelve months: Provided, this section shall not apply to the ordinary set nets heretofore in use in the waters of said county.

Rev., s. 2435; Code, s. 3420; 1883, c. 199.

2037. Carteret: Size of seine mesh. If any person shall catch mullets in the waters of Carteret county with a seine or net having a mesh of less than one and one-eighth inch, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 2434; 1895, c. 25; 1903, c. 508.

2038. Carteret: Length of nets; joining together. It is unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or syndicate, to fish any net or seine in the waters of the state of North Carolina within the boundaries of Carteret county more than two hundred and seventy-five yards in length: Provided, this length shall not apply to purse seines used for the purpose of catching menhaden (fatbacks) only. Any person, firm, corporation, or syndicate violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court. Each day said nets or seines are fished shall constitute a separate offense under this section.

2039. Carteret: Joining nets together. When a condition arises that a crew of fishermen find it advantageous to join two or three nets together for the purpose of temporary fishing, it shall be lawful under this section to do so under the following rules and regulations, namely: Provided: (a) The total length of nets joined together shall not exceed eight hundred and twenty-five yards. (b) That not more than one of the nets, whose length shall not exceed two hundred and seventy-five yards, as provided in the preceding section, shall be owned by any one person, firm, corporation, or syndicate thus fishing. (c) That not less than two men shall be permitted to fish with each net thus joined together. (d) That no position or haul shall be held by anchoring boat (except when occupied by men fishing same), buoys, stakes, or any other device. (e) That no seines or nets shall be hauled by capstans. (f) That no nets of smaller mesh than $1\frac{3}{8}$ inch bar or $2\frac{6}{8}$ inch stretched measure shall be joined together for the purpose of fishing under this section. (g) That each net thus joined shall have two staffs. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars or imprisoned not less than six months.

This section applies only to the waters of the state within the boundaries of Carteret county, and within such waters it does not authorize the fishing of nets joined as specified at any stationary fishery, or where the said waters are of less width than one and one-fourth miles.

2040. Carteret: Obstructions to fish prohibited. If any person shall obstruct any navigable water or passageway for fish in Carteret county by placing bushes, posts or any stationary material or fixtures in such a manner as to prevent the free passage of fish, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one hundred dollars. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit any person from using a lawful net or seine in any way or manner except as a stop net or seine. This section shall not apply to any net that the fish can pass freely by one end.

Rev., s. 2436; 1903, c. 520.

2041. Carteret: Pound nets in Neuse river. It is lawful to fish pound nets from January first to May fifteenth of each year within the waters of that portion of Carteret county with a line beginning at the northwest point of outward Swan island, running a due north course; from such line running up the Neuse river to the spar buoy at the entrance of Adams creek: Provided, that not more than five nets shall be set in any one stand: Provided further, that not more than one-fourth of the river in width shall be used for the purpose of fishing under this section. Any person, firm, corporation, or syndicate fishing with pound nets in the waters of Carteret county at any other time except as prescribed in this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars or imprisoned not less than six months, in the discretion of the court. It is expressly enacted that every day such fishing is done in violation of this section shall constitute a separate offense.

2042. Carteret: Purse nets for mullet prohibited. If any person shall fish for or catch any mullets with any purse seine or purse net in any waters within the limits of Carteret county, extending to the extreme limits of the state's jurisdiction in and over such waters, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not less than one year. For the purposes of this section the following boundaries are hereby declared to be the boundaries to which the waters of said county extend, to wit: A distance of three nautical miles, measured from the outer beach or shores of Carteret county out and into the waters of the Atlantic ocean; and any portions of any water within a distance of three miles from said waters of the Atlantic ocean to any beach or shore of said county shall be deemed the waters of said county for the purposes of this section.

Rev., s. 2437; 1903, c. 583; 1905, cc. 274, 508.

2043. Carteret and Onslow: Purse nets prohibited for food fish. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to catch any food fish in a purse seine or purse net in any waters within the limits of Carteret and Onslow counties extending to the extreme limits of the state's jurisdiction in and over such waters, making the boundaries of said county to which said waters shall extend to be the distance of three nautical miles, measured from the outer beach or shores of Carteret and Onslow counties out into the waters of the Atlantic ocean. Any waters within a distance of three miles of any beach or shore of said counties shall be deemed the waters of said county for the purposes of this section. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to purchase, buy, or trade for, or deal in, or sell any food fish caught as is set forth in this section. Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than three hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court. Any person who shall furnish information upon which any person, firm or corporation shall be convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this section shall be entitled to one-half of the fine imposed therefor.

2044. Chatham: Fishways in Haw river. All persons maintaining dams across Haw river in the county of Chatham shall, upon thirty days notice from the board of commissioners of said county, establish fishways in said dams; and if said fishways shall not be made within three months from the service of the notice, said persons so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 2476; Code, s. 3402; 1881, c. 343, ss. 1, 2.

2045. Clay: Fishing regulated. It is unlawful for any person or persons to fish the waters of Clay county in any other manner than hook and line. Any violator of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned not less than thirty days.

P. L. 1919, c. 407.

2046. Columbus: Lumber river; fishing regulated. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to fish with seine, traps, gigging, striking, or dynamiting, by shooting with gun or rifle in Lumber river or its tributaries in Columbus county: Provided, this section shall not apply to any person fishing on his own lands or those who may have written consent of the owner of the land where fishing. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to fish with gill net in Lumber river or its tributaries in Columbus county, except during the months of October, November, December, January and February. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars nor less than ten dollars, one-half to go to the informant, or imprisoned not more than thirty days nor less than ten days in jail, with authority to the county commissioners of Columbus county to hire out such convict.

P. L. 1913, c. 740.

2047. Columbus: Traps and nets in Porter swamp. It is unlawful for any person or persons to set any fish traps or nets in the waters of Porter swamp in Columbus county in such manner as to prevent the free passage of fish. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned not less than ten days nor more than thirty days for each offense.

P. L. 1911, c. 748.

2048. Currituck county: Fishing in Atlantic township. It is unlawful for any person or persons to catch fish with seine or set net, or nets of any kind, in the waters of Atlantic township between the fifteenth day of April and the twentieth day of October in each year, within the following boundaries in said township: Beginning at a cedar stump standing on the beach north of Caffie's inlet life-saving station and extending a west course five hundred yards from the shore; thence paralleling the shore a southerly course to the Dare county line. It is unlawful to set any pound or dutch nets in the waters of said township. Nothing herein shall prevent the catching or selling of twenty-five pounds of fish on any one day for home consumption; nor prevent the catching of eels, mullets and herrings at any time during each year; nor prohibit fishing at night. Any person violating the provisions of this section or any part thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars nor less than twenty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

2049. Currituck county: Dutch nets in Currituck sound. If any firm, company or corporation shall operate or cause to be operated in the waters of Currituck county, or be interested in any manner whatsoever in more than six pound or dutch nets, or use more than one hundred yards of hedging to a net, or set a stand of such nets exceeding eight hundred yards in length from land to the extreme outward end; or if any person shall set any pound or dutch nets to the east of the center of Currituck sound, except that part from the west point of Mackey's island north of the Virginia line; or if any person shall leave any landing or anchorage before sunrise for the purpose of fishing in Currituck sound or tributaries, or shall continue to fish after dark, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars. This section shall not prohibit fishing after dark in that part of said sound west of a line beginning at the north point of Bell's island, thence north not more than one thousand yards from the mainland to the mouth or entrance of Tull's creek, nor night fishing between the thirty-first day of March and the twentieth day of October five hundred yards from the shore from Martin's point to Kitty Hawk bay.

Rev., s. 2430; 1905, c. 273, ss. 3-7.

2050. Currituck county: Shipping or selling fish. If any person shall catch or capture any fish with nets or other appliances in the waters of Currituck county between the fifteenth day of April and the twentieth day of October of each year, or shall sell or ship out of the county or state any fresh fish between said dates; or if any person shall be found with more than twenty-five pounds of freshwater fish in his possession between the thirty-first day of March and the twentieth day of October of each year, herrings, mullets, shad and eels excepted; or if any person shall in said county catch eels for market between the thirtieth day of April and the twentieth day of September following in each year, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars and not less than twenty-five dollars. Any citizen may catch not to exceed twenty-five pounds at any time for home consumption, and sell or give not more than ten pounds to any one person in one day.

Rev., s. 2431; 1905, c. 273, s. 1; 1907, c. 520.

2051. Currituck county: Right of search. If any constable, game warden or justice of the peace of Currituck county shall be informed, or have cause to suspect, that either of the two preceding sections is being violated, he is hereby authorized and empowered to examine the contents of any fishing boat, or packages in transit, and any person or common carrier refusing to exhibit the contents of any fishing boat or package to such officer shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than twenty-five and not more than fifty dollars.

Rev., s. 2432; 1905, c. 273, ss. 2, 7.

2052. Dare: Dutch and pound nets prohibited. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set any dutch or pound net within the space or area of water bounded and described as follows: Beginning at Hollowell's wharf, at Nag's Head, and running thence a due west course to the channel in Roanoke sound; thence northwest to the Currituck county line; thence with said Currituck county line to the shore.

Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined fifty dollars or imprisoned thirty days in the discretion of the court.

2053. Dare: Fishing in Kitty Hawk bay regulated. If any person shall take, catch or capture any fish with nets or other appliances in that part of the waters of Kitty Hawk bay and its tributaries lying in Dare county, between the thirtieth day of April and the fifteenth day of October of each year, or shall sell or ship out of the county any chub or perch between said dates, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Nothing in this section shall prevent any citizen from catching fish at any time for home consumption.

Rev., s. 2484; 1905, c. 363.

2054. Greene: Size of mesh; fishing on another's land. It is unlawful for any person or persons to fish with or set any nets with less meshes than one and one-fourth inches square. No person or persons shall fish with nets of any kind on another person's land without first getting permission from the owner of the lands to do so, except in navigable streams, as rivers or large creeks. Any person or persons violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty dollars for each offense. This section shall apply to Greene county only.

P. L. 1915, c. 494.

2055. Hertford and Northampton: Fish in Potecasi creek protected. It is unlawful for any person to use, set or in any manner to fish with any fish trap, fyke net, seine or drag net in the waters of Potecasi creek, in Hertford and Northampton counties, from its mouth to the Creeksville mill, in Northampton county. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

2056. Hyde: Pound and dutch nets prohibited. It is unlawful for any person to set or use any pound or dutch net south of the dividing line between Dare and Hyde counties on the west side of Pamlico sound along the shores of Hyde county, more than two thousand yards from a line drawn from point to point along said shore. Any person violating this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall remove said nets at once: Provided, that any person failing to remove said nets after conviction shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars.

2057. Hyde: Drag nets prohibited in Rose bay. It is unlawful for any person to use or take fish from the waters of Rose bay, or any of its tributaries, in Hyde county, with drag nets or drop nets. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

P. L. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 264; P. L. 1915, c. 349.

2058. Hyde: Drag nets prohibited in Slade's river and Fortescue creek. The name of Slade's creek in Hyde county is hereby changed to Slade's river, and by such name the said water-course shall in future be designated in all official maps, records, laws and other official documents authorized by the state of North Carolina. Fishing with drag nets is prohibited in said river and tributaries and in the waters of Fortescue's creek, in said county. Any violation of the provisions of this section relating to the manner of fishing shall be a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, in the discretion of the court.

2059. Hyde: Slade's river; nets in. The mouth of Slade's river in Hyde county is hereby fixed and located by running a straight line from Aquillas point on Pungo river to Sandy point on said Pungo river. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set, fish, or use any kind of net except stake gill nets on the east of said line. Any one violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court.

2060. New Hanover: Certain handnets allowed. Handnets of not less than one and one-eighth inch bar mesh may be used in New Hanover county, and no order shall be made by the fisheries commission derogatory of this section.

1917, c. 290, s. 5.

2061. New Hanover: Nets in Masonboro and Myrtle Grove sounds. If any person shall use any fyke nets or set down seines, or place any fish trap for the purpose of catching fish in the waters of Masonboro and Myrtle Grove sounds in New Hanover county, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than twenty days.

Rev., s. 2425; Code, s. 3421; 1883, c. 288, ss. 1, 2.

2062. New Hanover: Seines in Atlantic ocean. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to fish with seines, purse, pod or pound nets, or with any kind of nets, except cast nets, in the waters of the Atlantic ocean in New Hanover county within the following limits:

Beginning at a point on the beach on the north side of the mouth of Moore's inlet and extending southwardly along the strand of the Atlantic ocean to a point on the north of the mouth of Masonboro inlet, and extending one mile out from the shore line. The above shall not apply to the use of set nets between the first day of November and the first day of May next following. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars and imprisoned not more than sixty days.

2063. Onslow: Obstructions in Cypress swamp and Haws run. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to fell any trees in or in any way obstruct the natural flow of the waters of Cypress swamp and Haws run in Onslow county. Any person, firm or corporation violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

2064. Onslow: Stop nets prohibited. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set, place, fix, establish or operate any stop net that will prevent or interrupt the passage of any fish in the water of any creek or sound in Onslow county, between New river and the Carteret county line in said county. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

2065. Onslow: Nets and seines in ocean regulated. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set any net or seine on the coast of Onslow county for a longer time than one hour at any one time. Any person violating this provision shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred dollars or imprisoned not less than three months. One-half of said fine shall go to the party or parties reporting such offenses and furnishing sufficient evidence to convict. In the event any offender shall be unable to pay fine, that his boats, nets and other fishing paraphernalia shall be forfeited and sold to the highest bidder for cash at courthouse door after twenty days notice, and proceeds of said sale be applied to cost and fine and any surplus paid to the defendant: Provided, however, this section shall not tend to convict any party who shall catch more fish than can be taken up in one hour.

2066. Onslow: Seines and nets in New river. It is unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or association to catch fish with haul seine, purse net, or drop net in the waters of New river in the main channel between Hache's Rock and New River inlet, or within one-half mile of said inlet in the Atlantic ocean. Any person, firm, corporation or association violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court; fifty dollars of said fine to be paid to the person or persons furnishing evidence sufficient to convict.

P. L. 1913, c. 707.

2067. Pamlico county: Use of nets regulated. If any person shall set or fish any dutch or pound nets in the waters of Pamlico county, or shall use any seine or drag net in the waters of said county, including the north side of Neuse river from the mouth of the river to the mouth of upper Broad creek, from the first day of May to the first day of January next ensuing, or shall at any time catch fish with a seine or drag net along the shores of said county on any day of the week except Monday, Wednesday and Friday, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 2452; 1885, c. 198; 1889, c. 544; 1893, c. 334.

2068. Pamlico county: Nets in Dawson's creek. It is unlawful for any person to fish with drag or haul net of any description in the waters of Dawson's creek, in Pamlico county. Any person violating this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court.

P. L. 1911, c. 470.

2069. Pamlico county: Drag nets prohibited in certain streams. It is unlawful for any person to haul or use any drag net in the waters of Vandemere creek and its tributaries, Smith's creek, Chappel's creek and its tributaries, Trent creek and its tributaries, and Bay river and its tributaries, from the mouth of Trent creek to the head of both its northwest and southwest prongs, for the purpose of catching or taking fish from said waters. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars or imprisoned not less than five days nor more than ten days for each and every offense.

2070. Pasquotank county: Pound or fyke nets in Pasquotank river. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to fish in Pasquotank river above Stinking Gut on either side of said river with pound or fyke nets, or any other kind of net with mudge or leads: Provided, this section shall not be construed to prohibit fishing in said territory with gill nets. Any person, firm or corporation violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days, in the discretion of the court.

P. L. 1913, c. 752, s. 6.

2071. Pasquotank county: Nets in Hatley creek. If any person shall haul or fish with a drag net, or set a pound net in Big Hatley creek, or Little Hatley creek, within two hundred yards of the mouth of either of said creeks, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 2442; 1895, c. 389; 1903, c. 497; 1911, c. 127.

2072. Pasquotank and Perquimans: Gill nets allowed. It is lawful for fishermen fishing in the Albemarle sound lying opposite to Perquimans and Pasquotank counties, and its tributaries lying and being in said counties, to set gill nets as near as one hundred and fifty yards of any pound or dutch nets fished in said waters: Provided, that any net shall not be set beyond the line now prohibited in said waters.

2073. Robeson: Fishing in Lumber river. It is unlawful for any person to fish with seine, nets, traps, gigging, or by muddying, striking or dynamiting, in Lumber river or the other rivers, creeks, lakes or ponds in Robeson county: Provided, that this does not apply to persons fishing on their own premises. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars nor less than ten dollars, one-half to go to the informant, or imprisoned not more than thirty days nor less than ten days in jail, with privilege to county commissioners of Robeson county, or adjacent county, to hire out.

P. L. 1911, c. 529; P. L. Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 272.

2074. Robeson: Nets and traps; close season; limit catch. It is unlawful for any person to set any trap or net for the purpose of catching fish in Lumber river or any of its tributaries in Robeson county between the first day of April and the first day of September in any year. It is unlawful at all times for any person to catch or take more than twelve of the fish known as "red breasts" and trout from Lumber river or any of its tributaries in Robeson county, in any one day, whether said fish be caught with hook and line, net, trap or in any other manner. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

P. L. 1911, c. 703.

2075. Sampson: Fishing regulated. It is unlawful for any person to fish in any of the rivers, creeks, or other streams of Sampson county by means of lime, dynamite, pod nets, bag nets, traps, or by any means or contrivance whereby the free passage of fish is obstructed. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

P. L. 1915, c. 464, ss. 2, 3.

2076. Tyrrell: Alligator river and Frying Pan creek; nets in. If any person shall fish any pound net, gill net, seine or nets of any kind in Alligator river within one mile of the mouth of Frying Pan creek in Tyrrell county, or shall set any weir or fish net of any kind or any other obstruction that prevents the passage of fish in said creek from its mouth to Jarmin's point, at the two pines and low cypress, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any person shall set any pound net or dutch net in Alligator river within one-half mile of the mouth of Frying Pan creek in Tyrrell county, or in Frying Pan creek within three miles of where it enters into Alligator river, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined fifty dollars or imprisoned thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., ss. 2447, 2449; 1889, c. 105; 1899, c. 465; 1905, c. 282.

As to throwing fish offal in Frying Pan creek, etc., see this chapter, s. 1969.

2077. Wayne: Nets and traps in Neuse and Little rivers. The citizens of Wayne county are hereby permitted to put in fish traps and gill stick nets in Neuse and Little rivers, within the limits of Wayne county.

P. L. 1911, c. 465.

- Warren, P. L. 1915, c. 137.
- Yancey, P. L. 1915, c. 136.

2080. Game protection commission; creation and objects. The boards of county commissioners for the several counties named in the preceding section are hereby constituted game protection commissioners for their respective counties, for the better protection and preservation of game in the said counties and to secure the better enforcement of the game laws of said counties.

1909, c. 840, s. 1.

2081. Chief county game warden; appointment, term, duty. The board of county commissioners of each of such counties, on the first Monday in May, one thousand nine hundred and nine, and biennially thereafter, shall appoint a chief game warden for their respective counties, who shall hold his office for a term of two years, and whose duty it shall be diligently to enforce the game laws of their counties, as hereinafter set forth.

1909, c. 840, s. 5.

2082. Deputy township game wardens. For more thorough enforcement of the game laws of said counties it shall be the duty of the chief game warden, upon the petition of three freeholders of any township in said county, to appoint deputy game wardens in said township.

1909, c. 840, s. 6.

2083. Qualification of wardens; clerk's fee for record. Every warden so appointed shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe before the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein he is appointed an oath to perform the duties of his office, together with the other oaths prescribed for police officers, and execute a bond in the sum of fifty dollars for the faithful discharge of his duty, and the oath and bond shall be recorded by the clerk in his office. The clerk shall not charge more than fifty cents for taking and recording said oath.

1909, c. 840, s. 7.

2084. Deputy warden's fees. The deputy game warden shall receive the sum of two and one-half dollars for each nonresident license procured for nonresident hunters, and for each conviction for the said game laws he shall receive the sum of two and one-half dollars, in addition to fees allowed by law for serving process and other acts as constable. The moneys paid out to the chief game warden or his deputies for convictions as herein provided shall be paid out of the fund for the enforcement of the game law by the treasurer of the county, in the same manner as the county funds are disbursed; and the amount due said wardens and deputies for collecting license taxes shall be retained by them when remitting license taxes to the clerk of the court.

1909, c. 840, ss. 8, 9.

For special provisions as to compensation in Craven, see P. L. 1911, c. 589; 1913, c. 384; Pamlico, P. L. 1919, c. 354.

2085. County license for hunters. Any nonresident of the state of North Carolina who desires to hunt, shoot or trap birds or other animals in any part of the said counties shall make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county where the applicant desires to hunt, shoot or trap, who shall issue such a license upon payment of a tax of ten dollars and the clerk's fees, amounting to fifty cents. The license shall expire on the termination of the hunting season, as fixed for the said counties. The license shall be of such form as the game protection commission of the county shall prescribe, and shall entitle the owner to hunt in any county enumerated in the first section of this chapter, in the manner provided by law for hunting in such county. Any license granted hereunder shall entitle the holder to hunt only in the county issuing the same.

Licenses under this section shall issue only in the counties enumerated in the first section of this chapter.

2086. Disposition of license fees from county licenses. The funds received by the clerk of the superior court or other person from the sale of hunters' licenses shall be turned over to the county treasurer, and one-half thereof shall be turned into the school fund of said county and the other half be set apart as a fund for the enforcement of the game law in said county.

1909, c. 840, s. 4.

For special provision in Craven, see P. L. 1911, c. 589; P. L. 1913, c. 384.

Part 2. Administration Through Audubon Society

2087. Audubon society; incorporation and corporate powers. J. Y. Joyner, T. Gilbert Pearson, R. H. Lewis, A. H. Boyden, H. H. Brimley, P. D. Gold, Jr., J. F. Jordan and R. N. Wilson are hereby created a body politic and corporate under the name and style of the Audubon Society of North Carolina, and by that name and style they and their associates and successors shall have perpetual succession, with power to take and hold, either by gift, grant, purchase, devise, bequest or otherwise, any real or personal estate, not exceeding fifty thousand dollars in value, for the general use and advancement of the purposes of the said corporation, or for any special purpose, consistent with the charter; and such property shall be exempt from taxation; to make rules and by-laws; to have and to use a common seal, and to change the same at pleasure; and to do and perform all such acts and things as are or may become necessary for the advancement and furtherance of the corporation.

Rev., s. 1862; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337.

2088. Objects of society. The objects for which the corporation is formed are to promote among the citizens of North Carolina a better appreciation of the value of song and insectivorous birds to man and the state; to encourage parents and teachers to give instruction to children on the subject; to stimulate public sentiment against the destruction of wild birds and their eggs; to secure the enactment and enforcement of proper and necessary laws for the protection and preservation of birds and game of the state; to provide for the naming of special officers and investing them with necessary power, who shall work under the direction and control of the Audubon society of North Carolina, looking to the rigid enforcement of the game and bird protective laws of the state; to distribute literature bearing on these topics among the members of the society and other persons, and to raise and provide funds for defraying the necessary expenses of the society in the accomplishment of the purposes herein named.

Rev., s. 1864; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 3.

2089. Officers of society. The officers of said corporation shall be a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and such other officers as may be fixed by the by-laws. The treasurer shall be appointed as provided in the next following section.

Rev., s. 1863; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 2.

2090. Appointment of bird and game wardens and treasurer of society. The governor, upon recommendation of the Audubon society of North Carolina, shall from time to time appoint bird and game wardens, and the treasurer of the society, whose terms of office, unless otherwise provided for, shall be during good behavior or until their successors are appointed. The governor shall issue to the treasurer of the Audubon society, and to each person appointed as warden, a commission, and shall transmit such commission to the clerk's office of the superior court for the county from which the prospective treasurer or bird and game warden is appointed; and no tax or fee shall be charged or collected for said commission. Any of the said wardens may be removed by the governor upon proof satisfactory to him that they are not fit persons for said position. The compensation of said wardens shall be fixed and paid by the said society.

Rev., s. 1867; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 12.

2091. Qualification and badge of bird and game wardens; clerk's fee for record. Every bird and game warden appointed as provided in the last section shall before entering on the duties of his office take and subscribe before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides an oath to perform the duties of his office, together with the other oaths prescribed for police officers, and execute a bond in the sum of one hundred dollars for the faithful performance of his duties, and the said oath and bond shall be recorded by the clerk in his office. The clerk shall not charge more than fifty cents for taking and recording said oath. The game and bird warden when acting in his official capacity shall wear in plain view a metallic shield with the words "Game and Bird Warden" inserted thereon.

Rev., s. 1868; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 15.

2092. Nonresident hunter's license from Audubon society. Any nonresident who desires to hunt birds or animals in any part of the state other than in the counties enumerated in the first section of this chapter shall make application to the clerk of the superior court of any county, who shall issue such license upon the payment of a tax of ten dollars and the clerk's fee. The license shall expire on the termination of the hunting season as fixed for the several counties, and shall entitle the owner to hunt anywhere in the state other than in the counties enumerated in the first section of this chapter, except upon private property, which he shall not do without the written consent of the owner. The license may be revoked by the Audubon society upon proof that the holder has hunted in violation of the law. No license shall be granted to any person whose license has been revoked, for a period of one year thereafter. Such license shall not authorize the holder to hunt in any county at any time or in any manner other than is provided by law for hunting in such county: Provided, however, that the nonresident child or parent of a resident owner of land in this state shall be allowed to hunt on the land of his parent or child as though he were a resident of the state.

Rev., s. 1872; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, ss. 10, 17; 1909, c. 185, s. 1.

The ownership of game is in the people of the state, and the right to hunt and kill game may be granted, withheld, or restricted by the legislature: State v. Gallop, 126-979—and nonresident hunters may be excluded altogether, Ibid. No one has property in game until it is reduced to possession: Ibid.; State v. House, 65-315.

2093. Clerks to report on licenses and transmit funds to state treasurer. The clerk of the superior court shall make a report on the first day of December of each year and at the close of the hunting season for their respective counties to the Audubon society, on forms provided by said society, of licenses issued, and shall at the same time transmit all funds received for such license to the treasurer of the state.

Rev., s. 1874; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 10.

For form of license, see this chapter, s. 2097.

2094. Bird and game fund. The funds received by the treasurer of the state from the license tax on nonresident hunters shall constitute a fund known as the Bird and Game Fund, which fund shall be paid out by the treasurer of the state on the order of the treasurer of the Audubon society of North Carolina, who shall make an annual report to the governor of the receipts and expenditures of the society for the year.

Rev., s. 1871; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 10.

2095. Exportation of game by licensees from society. Any person holding a hunter's license from the Audubon society to hunt in North Carolina shall be permitted to take out of the state fifty partridges or quail, fifty beach birds or snipe, twelve grouse, or two wild turkeys in a season.

Rev., s. 1873; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 11.

Shipment of live quail forbidden, see this chapter, s. 2106.

The legislature can forbid any one having game, dead or alive, in possession: State v. Gallop, 126-983.

Part 3. Common Provisions as to Wardens and Licenses

2096. Powers of wardens; right of search, seizure and sale. Upon qualifying as prescribed in section 2083 or section 2091 above, the wardens shall possess and exercise the powers and authority of constables under the laws of this state, so far and so far only as such powers apply to the execution of any papers and to proceedings relative to game and game laws. It shall be their duty to see that the bird and game laws are enforced, to obtain information as to the violations thereof, and to prosecute all persons or corporations having in their possession any bird or game contrary to such laws. Upon making affidavit before a justice of the peace or any court of the state that there exist reasonable grounds to believe that any game or game birds are in the possession of any common carrier in violation of the law, such warden shall be entitled to search, open, enter and examine all cars, warehouses and receptacles of common carriers in this state, where they have reason to believe are to be found any game or birds taken or held in violation of the law, and to seize such game or birds.

Any bird or game caught, taken, killed, shipped, or received for shipment had in possession or under control by any person or corporation contrary to the provisions of this law, which may come into the possession of said warden, shall be sold at auction, and the warden disposing of the same shall issue a certificate to the purchaser certifying that the said bird or animal was legally obtained and possessed, and any one so acquiring said bird or animal can have the right to use it as if the same had been sold, killed or possessed in accordance with the law. The funds received from the sale of such confiscated birds or game shall, in the counties enumerated in the first section of this chapter, be paid to the county treasurer and placed to the account of the fund for the enforcement of the game law; in other counties, where the game law is administered through the Audubon society, such funds shall be forwarded by the game warden to the treasurer of the state and placed to the account of the bird and game fund.

Rev., ss. 1868, 1869, 1870; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, ss. 13, 14, 15; 1909, c. 840, s. 10.

Rev., s. 1865; 1903 (Pr.), 337, s. 10; 1909, c. 840, s. 2.

As to power of legislature to restrict privilege of hunting, see State v. Gallop, 126-979.

2098. Nonresidents hunting without license. If any nonresident shall hunt in the state without license, as required by law, or shall hunt upon the lands of another without his written consent, or shall fail to carry his license with him in hunting, or shall fail upon demand to exhibit it to any game warden or police officer, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Each day's hunting without license shall be a separate offense.

Rev., s. 3469; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 10.

Punishment for hunting without license in Randolph county, see 1907, c. 727.

See Daniels v. Homer, 139-222, and cases cited.

ART. 2. PROTECTION OF GAME AND BIRDS; GENERAL PROVISIONS

2099. Legislative consent to federal regulations on certain federal lands. The consent of the general assembly of North Carolina is hereby given to the making by the congress of the United States, or under its authority, of all such rules and regulations as the federal government shall determine to be needful in respect to game animals, game and nongame birds, and fish on such lands in the western part of North Carolina as shall have been, or may hereafter be, purchased by the United States under the terms of the act of congress of March first, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, entitled "An act to enable any state to coöperate with any other state or states, or with the United States, for the protection of the watersheds of navigable streams, and to appoint a commission for the acquisition of lands for the purposes of conserving the navigability of navigable rivers'' (36 U. S. Stat. at Large, p. 961), and acts of congress supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof, and in or on the waters thereon.

1915, c. 205.

2100. Protection of buffalo and elk. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to shoot, kill, capture, destroy, or run with dogs, or in any other manner interfere with any buffalo or elk in North Carolina. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

1917, c. 240.

2101. Game birds defined. Under the laws of this state, the following only shall be considered game birds: loons, and grebes, swans, geese, brant, river, fish and sea ducks, rails, coots, marsh-hens and gallinules, plovers, shore and surf birds, snipe, woodcock, sandpipers, yellow legs, chewink or tohee and curlews, and the wild turkey, grouse, partridge, pheasant, quail, dove, robin and meadow lark.

Rev., s. 1875; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 4.

Game is not the subject of private ownership except when some express statute confers it: State v. Gallop, 126-983.

2102. Illegal killing of game and birds prohibited. If any person shall at any time hunt, capture or kill any nongame bird, or shall during the close season, or time in each year in which the hunting or killing is prohibited, chase with dogs, hunt, kill, or wound, or in any manner take or capture any game bird, or any deer, opossum, rabbit or squirrel, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. This section shall not apply to birds caught or killed by authority of the Audubon society for scientific purposes only. This section shall not apply to the English or European housesparrow, owls, hawks, crows, blackbirds, jackdaws, turkey buzzards, vultures and rice birds.

Rev., s. 3466; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 14; 1915, c. 182, s. 1.

For local statutes, varying punishments provided in this section, see the laws referred to in Article 4 of this chapter, Close Seasons for Game, and the following:

Pamlico, 1905, c. 47; Halifax and Warren, 1905, c. 137; Montgomery, 1905, c. 284; Granville, 1905, c. 369; New Hanover, 1905, c. 409.

For local statute in Perquimans county as to rewards for the heads of gray hawks and crows, see P. L. 1911, c. 235.

2103. Birds kept as pets or for breeding. It shall be lawful to keep any wild bird in a cage as a domestic pet, or for the purposes of breeding, raising and domesticating.

Rev., s. 1876; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, ss. 6, 7.

2104. Certificates to take birds, nests, or eggs. The Audubon society of North Carolina may issue a certificate to any properly accredited persons of the age of twelve years and upward, permitting the holder thereof to collect birds, their nests or eggs for strictly scientific purposes; said certificate shall be in force only during the calendar year in which issued, and shall not be transferable. In order to obtain such certificates the applicant for same must present to the persons having authority to grant such certificates written testimonials from two well-known scientific men, certifying to the good character and fitness of said applicant to be intrusted with such privilege, and must pay the said society one dollar to defray the necessary expenses attending the granting of such certificate. On satisfactory proof that the holder of such certificate has killed any bird or taken the nests or eggs of any birds other than for scientific purposes, his certificate shall become void, and he shall be further subject for each offense to the penalty provided for such violation of the law.

Rev., s. 1866; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 5.

2105. Destroying nests or eggs of birds. If any person shall take or needlessly destroy the nest or eggs of any wild birds, except those of the English or European housesparrow, owls, hawks, crows, blackbirds, jackdaws and rice birds, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined one dollar for each nest or egg destroyed or taken, or be imprisoned not less than five nor more than ten days for each offense. This section shall not apply to any person taking eggs or nests for scientific purposes only, by authority of the Audubon society of North Carolina.

ART. 3. SHIPMENT OR POSSESSION OF GAME

2106. Shipment of live quail or partridges out of state prohibited. No person shall catch, net, or trap any quail or partridges for the purpose of shipping or transporting the same out of the state. No person, firm or corporation shall transport, or cause to be transported or have possession of with intent to transport or to secure the transportation of, any live quail or partridges beyond the limits of the state. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

All authority given to the Audubon society of North Carolina to grant permits to stop a transport of live quail or partridges beyond the limits of the state is revoked.

2107. Exportation from state prohibited. If any person shall knowingly receive for transportation, or shall transport or cause to be transported, or have in his possession with the intent to transport, or to secure the transportation of, or shall in any manner carry or convey, beyond the limits of this state, except for purposes of propagation under permits issued by the Audubon society of North Carolina, any partridge, pheasant, grouse, shore or beach birds, quail, wild turkey, snipe, woodcock, or nongame bird which have been killed or captured within this state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and each bird so killed or taken or had in possession, received for transportation or transported contrary to the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offense. The reception by any person or corporation within this state of any such birds or game for shipment to a point beyond the limits of this state, shall be prima facie evidence that said birds or game were killed within the state for the purpose of conveying same beyond its limits; but the provisions of this section shall not apply to the common carriers into whose possession any of the birds mentioned in this section shall come in the regular course of their business for transportation while they are in transit through the state from any place without the state.

Rev., s. 3471; 1903 (Pr.), c. 337, s. 7; Code, s. 2835.

For special proviso as to Tyrrell county, see 1909, c. 836.

2108. Packages of game to be marked. If any person shall deliver or knowingly receive for transportation any receptacle or package containing birds or game, unless the same shall be labeled on the address side in plain letters with the name and address of the owner and consignor, and with the kind or kinds of birds which the said package or receptacle contains, or shall falsely label the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

ART. 5. GENERAL HUNTING LAWS

2122. Hunting on Sunday or at night. If any person shall hunt or shoot any wild fowl, or game bird, on any day after the hour of sunset, or before the hour of daylight, or shall use any gun other than can be fired from the shoulder, or shall hunt or shoot wild fowl, birds or game of any kind on Sunday, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that wild fowl may be hunted after sunset and before daylight and by firelight in that part of Bogue sound in Carteret county west of Sally Bell's shoal.

Rev., s. 3459; Code, s. 2837; 1903, c. 346.

See State v. Drake, 64-589.

2123. Hunting wild fowls with aeroplane. It shall be unlawful to make use of any aeroplane, seaplane, or other kind of air machine in shooting, chasing, pursuing, or harassing wild ducks, geese, swan, or other wild waterfowl in and upon the sounds, rivers, creeks, or bays of the state of North Carolina. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not less than sixty days nor more than six months.

1917, c. 85, ss. 12.

2124. Hunting game birds with fire. If any person shall hunt wild fowl, or game birds of any kind, with fire, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction be fined not less than twenty and not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not less than ten days and not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3479; Code, s. 2839.

2125. Hunting deer by firelight. If any person shall hunt for deer with a gun in the woods in the night-time, by firelight, or shall kill or catch any wild deer while swimming streams or other bodies of water, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. When more persons than one are engaged in committing the offense of fire-hunting, any one may be compelled to give evidence against all others concerned; and the witness, upon giving such information, shall be acquitted and held discharged from all penalties and pains to which he was subject by his participation in the offense.

This section shall not apply to Currituck county.

Rev., s. 3462; Code, ss. 1058, 1059; R. C., c. 34, ss. 95, 96; 1774, c. 103; 1784, c. 212, ss. 1, 3; 1801, c. 595; 1856-7, c. 24; 1879, c. 92; 1905, c. 388.

2126. Nonresidents hunting otter, muskrats, or mink. If any person who has not resided within the state two years shall hunt or trap otters, muskrats or minks, or shall sell the hides or skins from these animals in or out of the state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall for each offense be fined not less than thirty dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

Rev., s. 3467; 1905, c. 394.

2127. Hunting without landowner's permission. If any person shall, without having first obtained permission of the owner, hunt with gun or dogs on the land of another, or if he shall fish or attempt to catch fish from said lands after being forbidden, either personally or by notices written or printed, posted at the courthouse door and at three places on said land, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3480; Code, s. 2831; 1895, c. 147; 1915, c. 271, s. 1.

NOTE. For local laws requiring landowner's permission in the counties named, see:

2134. Local by counties: Chasing deer. If any person shall chase deer with dogs in Clay, Graham, Macon, or Swain counties, or in French's Creek, Cypress Creek, Colly, and Turnbull townships, in Bladen county, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3460; 1903, c. 591; 1909, c. 418, s. 1.

2135. Local by counties: Killing wild fowl for sale. If any person shall kill, for sale, any wild fowls in the waters of Dare, New Hanover or Brunswick counties between the tenth days of March and November of any year, or ship out of the state between said dates any wild fowl killed in the waters aforesaid, or if any nonresident shall in said counties, or in Currituck county, shoot any wild fowl from any blind, box or battery or float, not on land at the time, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3477; Code, s. 2840; 1889, c. 59.

2136. Brunswick: Killing deer in water. If any person shall kill by shooting or drowning or knocking in the head any deer while swimming in any waters of Brunswick county, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than five nor more than twenty dollars.

Rev., s. 3463; 1905, c. 413.

2137. Carteret: Hunting wild fowl at night. If any person shall hunt or shoot wild fowl by firelight after the hour of sunset and before the hour of sunrise in Carteret county, except in that part of Bogue sound west of Sally Bell shoal, or use for such shooting any other gun than one that can be fired from the shoulder; or if any person shall hunt or shoot wild fowl in Carteret county with or from batteries or sneak boats from the first day of April to the first day of December of any year; or if any person shall hunt wild fowl with batteries or sneak boats, or shoot them therefrom in that part of Bogue sound, Carteret county, west of Sally Bell shoal, at any season, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than one hundred nor more than two hundred dollars for each offense. Lanterns and other equipment used in fire lighting and found in the possession of persons in the act of going hunting or returning from hunting shall be prima facie evidence that the persons have violated this section.

Rev., s. 3473; 1903, c. 346; 1907, c. 895.

2138. Currituck: Wild fowl hunting regulated. If any person shall put bushes or blinds of any kind on their boats or floats of any kind with the intent to decoy or pursue ducks, or shall sail or row or propel a boat in any way after wild fowl in the waters of Currituck sound, for the purpose of forcing them on the wing, or shoot them with rifle or shotgun from any boat while sailing, or shall place any sail, flag or other device upon any land bordering on the water to frighten any wild fowl, or shall leave more than one stationary bush or blind standing in the water between the hours of sunset and sunrise, or shall fail to anchor any decked boat or float-house or house built over the water and used to live in for the purpose of fishing or hunting wild fowl, in shoal water not more than three hundred yards from the mainland on the west side of Currituck sound, or at some public landing on the east side between the north end of Church's island and the south end of Powell's point, at dark, or shall at sunset fail to take up his decoy and proceed to go to some landing as aforesaid, or shall leave any landing or anchorage before sunrise in the morning for the purpose of hunting or fishing, or shall before sunrise put out any decoys of any kind, or nets, or shall continue to hunt or fish after sunset, or shall between the thirty-first day of March and the first day of November of any year shoot or capture any wild fowl over decoys, or shall between the first day of November of any year and the thirty-first day of March of the next year, on any Wednesday, Saturday or Sunday, hunt, take, kill or capture any wild fowl, or on any of said days shall disturb or rout any raft of wild fowl unless the same be unavoidable in the usual course of navigation, or shall between the first day of November and the fifteenth day of February skiff or ring-shoot any boobies or ruddy duck, or shall between the thirty-first day of March and the first day of November ship out of the county any wild fowl, or shall sail or propel a boat on Sunday for the purpose of locating wild fowl, or if any hired or employed person shall sail or lay around anywhere near any person who may be gunning or fishing to damage his shooting or keep him from shooting, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that nothing in this section shall prevent any person tending a battery or any person shooting from a bush blind from shooting winged or crippled fowls from his boat while sailing or in motion.

This section shall only apply to Currituck county.

2139. Dare: Hunting wild fowl; license and regulation. In the waters of Dare county north of a line running east and west through the northern end of Roanoke island, shooting wild fowl by a nonresident of the state from blind, battery, box or float is subject to a license tax of twenty-five dollars a year. In waters of county lying south of said line, a license fee of twenty-five dollars a year is required to be paid by each club house, shooting resort or other place of resort for sportsmen, the members and guests of which, without further taxation, shall be entitled to shoot wild fowl afloat within four miles of the club, lodge or resort. In waters south of said line, nonresidents not more than two at a time may shoot wild fowl from a blind, battery, box or float, which is the property of a resident of Dare county and upon which a tax of five dollars a year has been paid.

The license above provided for shall be issued by the clerk of the court of Dare county, and the license taxes imposed shall be paid to him, and he shall pay them to the county treasurer for the benefit of the school fund. Any non-resident shooting wild fowl contrary to the provisions of this section and any person hunting wild fowl in any manner not authorized by law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 1877, 1878, 1879, 1880, 3475, 3476; 1897, c. 415; 1899, c. 133, ss. 2, 3; 1901, c. 157.

See State v. Gallop, 126-983.

2140. Hyde, Pamlico sound: Wild fowl hunting regulated. If any person shall shoot any wild fowl in the waters of Pamlico sound, in Hyde county, from any box, battery or float, not on land at the time, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, residents of the state may shoot from batteries not on land on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week, and on no other days.

Rev., s. 3478; 1897, c. 484.

2141. New Hanover: Selling game evidence of illegal hunting. If any person shall offer for sale on the market, in New Hanover county, any quail, wild turkeys or ducks between the first day of March and the first day of September it shall be prima facie evidence of his having killed such game out of season.

Rev., s. 3465; 1905, c. 409.

CHAPTER 39

GAMING CONTRACTS AND FUTURES

ART. 1. GAMING CONTRACTS.

- 2142. Gaming and betting contracts void.
- 2143. Players and betters competent witnesses.

ART. 2. CONTRACTS FOR "FUTURES."

- 2144. Certain contracts as to "futures" void.
- 2145. Prima facie evidence of illegal contract in "futures."
- 2146. Burden shifted by plea of illegality; pleadings not evidence in criminal action.
- 2147. Entering into or aiding contracts for "futures" misdemeanor.
- 2148. Opening office for sales of "futures" misdemeanor.
- 2149. Evidence in prosecutions under this article.

ART. 1. GAMING CONTRACTS

2142. Gaming and betting contracts void. All wagers, bets or stakes made to depend upon any race, or upon any gaming by lot or chance, or upon any lot, chance, casualty or unknown or contingent event whatever, shall be unlawful; and all contracts, judgments, conveyances and assurances for and on account of any money or property, or thing in action, so wagered, bet or staked, or to repay, or to secure any money, or property, or thing in action, lent or advanced for the purpose of such wagering, betting, or staking as aforesaid, shall be void.

Rev., s. 1687; Code, ss. 2841, 2842; R. C., c. 51, ss. 1, 2; 1810, c. 796.

This section construed liberally: Turner v. Peacock, 13-303. Gambling contracts are void: Banking Co. v. Tate, 122-313; Turner v. Peacock, 13-303; Bettis v. Reynolds, 34-344.

Note given in consideration of a bet on horse race in another state not enforceable here: Gooch v. Faucett, 122-270. Renewal note to purchaser for value, without notice that original was for gaming debt, is valid: Calvert v. Williams, 64-168. It is settled that money, or a horse, or a judgment won at cards and actually paid and delivered cannot be recovered if the game was fairly played: Teague v. Perry, 64-41, and cases cited; Dunn v. Holloway, 16-322; Hodges v. Pittman, 4-276—but can be recovered when game unfairly played, or fraud perpetrated, Webb v. Fulchire, 25-485. Note given subsequently, in purchase of a magistrate's judgment which had been won at cards by payee from maker, is not void under statute against gaming: Teague v. Perry, 64-39.

Where stakeholder pays over money after being notified by loser not to do so, he is liable to loser: Wood v. Wood's Executor, 7-172—for as long as money is in hand of stakeholder it belongs to the one having the legal right, Forrest v. Hart, 7-458.

Where A won a justice's judgment from B at a game of cards unfairly played, and took from defendants in the judgment a bond payable to himself for the amount, upon which he brought suit, and to which the statute against gaming was pleaded: Held, that he could not recover: Warden v. Plummer, 49-524.

Ten-pins is not a game of chance: State v. King, 113-631; State v. Gupton, 30-271. "Shooting for beef" where party pays for his privilege of shooting is not a game of chance: State v. DeBoy, 117-702.

Rev., s. 1688; Code, s. 2843; R. C., c. 51, s. 3.

See section 4435 and annotations.

ART. 2. CONTRACTS FOR "FUTURES"

2144. Certain contracts as to "futures" void. Every contract, whether in writing or not, whereby any person shall agree to sell and deliver any cotton, indian corn, wheat, rye, oats, tobacco, meal, lard, bacon, salt pork, salt fish, beef, cattle, sugar, coffee, stocks, bonds, and choses in action, at a place and at a time specified and agreed upon therein, to any other person, whether the person to whom such article is so agreed to be sold and delivered shall be a party to such contract or not, when, in fact, and notwithstanding the terms expressed of such contract, it is not intended by the parties thereto that the articles or things so agreed to be sold and delivered shall be actually delivered, or the value thereof paid, but it is intended and understood by them that money or other thing of value shall be paid to the one party by the other, or to a third party, the party to whom such payment of money or other thing of value shall be made to depend, and the amount of such money or other thing of value so to be paid to depend upon whether the market price or value of the article so agreed to be sold and delivered is greater or less at the time and place so specified than the price stipulated to be paid and received for the articles so to be sold and delivered, and every contract commonly called "futures" as to the several articles and things hereinbefore specified, or any of them, by whatever other name called, and every contract as to the said several articles and things, or any of them, whereby the parties thereto contemplate and intend no real transaction as to the article or thing agreed to be delivered, but only the payment of a sum of money or other thing of value, such payment and the amount thereof and the person to whom the same is to be paid to depend on whether or not the market price or value is greater or less than the price so agreed to be paid for the said article or thing at the time and place specified in such contract, shall be utterly null and void; and no action shall be maintained in any court to enforce any such contract, whether the same was made in or out of the state, or partly in and partly out of this state, and whether made by the parties thereto by themselves or by or through their agents, immediately or mediately; nor shall any party to any such contract, or any agent of any such party, directly or remotely connected with any such contract in any way whatever, have or maintain any action or cause of action on account of any money or other thing of value paid or advanced or hypothecated by him or them in connection with or on account of such contract and agency; nor shall the courts of this state have any jurisdiction to entertain any suit or action brought upon a judgment based upon any such contract. This section shall not be construed so as to apply to any person, firm, corporation or his or their agent engaged in the business of manufacturing or wholesale merchandising in the purchase or sale of the necessary commodities required in the ordinary course of their business.

Rev., s. 1689; 1889, c. 221, s. 1; 1905, c. 538, s. 7; 1909, c. 853, s. 1.

"Bucket shop" defined in State v. McGinnis, 138-724. One buying "futures" for another cannot recover for loss: Garseed v. Sternberger, 135-501; Williams v. Carr, 80-294; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-645. As to sufficiency of evidence of gambling contract, see Cantwell v. Boykin, 127-64. Lender of money to pay losses in futures may recover, if not connected with the speculation: Ballard v. Green, 118-390; Williams v. Carr, 80-294. Statutes forbidding the running of a bucket shop are clearly within police power of state: State v. McGinnis, 138-724.

The intention of both parties that there is not to be a delivery of the property makes the contract invalid: Orvis v. Holt, 173-231; Holt v. Wellons, 163-124; Harvey v. Pettaway, 156-

375; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378; Rankin v. Mitehem, 141-277; State v. Clayton, 138-732; State v. McGinnis, 138-724; Williams v. Carr, 80-294.

If there is in the contract the right to require actual delivery and an intention to demand it if the exigencies of party's business shall require it, this is a legal contract, notwithstanding mere expectation that delivery will not be demanded: State v. Clayton, 138-732. The test is the intention and effect and not the form: Holt v. Wellons, 163-124; Edgerton v. Edgerton, 153-167. Where contract not a gambling one on its face, proper to leave that question to jury: Rankin v. Mitehem, 141-277; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-634. Where plaintiff's agent made contract for futures, but plaintiff intended delivery, plaintiff is bound by act of agent: Sprunt v. May, 156-388.

Contracts for futures made in another state will not be enforced here: Burrus v. Witcover, 158-384. Such contracts are not protected by interstate commerce clause of federal constitution: State v. Clayton, 138-732.

A judgment upon a contract for futures will be set aside: Randolph v. Heath, 171-383. A judgment of another state on such contract will not be sustained: Mottu v. Davis, 151-237.

The last sentence in this section is construed to refer to the burden of proof as provided in section 2146, and not as an exemption from liability: Sprunt v. May, 156-388; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378. See, also, State v. McGinnis, 138-724; State v. Clayton, 138-732.

2145. Prima facie evidence of illegal contract in "futures." Proof that any thing of value agreed to be sold and delivered was not actually delivered at the time of making the agreement to sell and deliver, and that one of the parties to such agreement deposited or secured, or agreed to deposit or secure, what are commonly called "margins," shall constitute prima facie evidence of a contract declared void by the preceding section.

Rev., s. 1690; 1889, c. 221, s. 2; 1905, c. 538, ss. 5, 7.

Where parties to a purchase or sale for future delivery upon "margin" will not need the commodity in ordinary course of business, this section makes the purchase in such case prima facie evidence that such contract is a wagering contract: State v. Clayton, 138-732; State v. McGinnis, 138-724; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-634, 147-645.

2146. Burden shifted by plea of illegality; pleadings not evidence in criminal action. When the defendant in any action pending in any court shall allege specifically in his answer that the cause of action alleged in the complaint is in fact founded upon a contract such as is by this chapter made void, and such answer shall be verified, then the burden shall be upon the plaintiff in such action to prove by the proper evidence, other than any written evidence thereof, that the contract sued upon is a lawful one in its nature and purposes; and the defendant may likewise produce evidence to prove the contrary: Provided, nevertheless, that any allegation or statement of fact made in any pleading in any such action, or the evidence produced on the trial in any such action, shall not be evidence against the party making or producing the same in any criminal action against such party.

Rev., s. 1691; 1889, c. 221, s. 2.

The last sentence of section 2144 is construed as a part of this section: Sprunt v. May, 156-388; Rodgers v. Bell, 156-378.

The burden is upon the claimant to show a legal obligation: Heath v. Heath, 175-457; Holt v. Wellons, 163-124; Cobb v. Guthrie, 160-313; Burns v. Tomlinson, 147-634, 147-645. Where an administrator has paid a debt and the legatees or distributees contest it as illegal, the burden is upon the legatees: Overman v. Lanier, 157-544.

2147. Entering into or aiding contract for "futures" misdemeanor. If any person shall become a party to any contract declared void in this article; or if any person shall be the agent, directly or indirectly, of any party in making or furthering or effectuating the same; or if any agent or officer of a corporation shall in any manner knowingly aid in making or furthering any such contract to which the corporation is a party, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and may be imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

If any person shall, while in this state, consent to become a party to any such contract made in another state, and if any person shall, as agent of any person or corporation, become a party to any such contract made in another state, or in this state do any act or in any way aid in the making or furthering of any such contract so made in another state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, and may be imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., ss. 3823, 3824; 1889, c. 221, ss. 3, 4.

See annotations under section 2144. This section is constitutional: State v. McGinnis, 138-724; State v. Clayton, 138-732.

Section referred to in Garseed v. Sternberger, 135-501; Cantwell v. Boykin, 127-64.

2148. Opening office for sales of "futures" misdemeanor. If any person, corporation or other association of persons, either as principals or agents, shall establish or open an office or place of business in this state for the purpose of carrying on or engaging in making such contracts as are forbidden in this article, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction be fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3825; 1905, c. 538, ss. 1, 2.

See State v. McGinnis, 138-724; State v. Clayton, 138-732, and other cases cited under section 2144.

2149. Evidence in prosecutions under this article. No person shall be excused on any prosecution under the provisions of this article from testifying touching anything done by himself or others contrary to the provisions thereof, but no discovery made by the witness upon such examination shall be used against him in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall be altogether pardoned of the offense so done or participated in by him. In all such prosecutions proof that the defendant was a party to a contract, as agent or principal, to sell and deliver any article, thing or property specified or named in this article, or that he was the agent, directly or indirectly, of any party in making, furthering or effectuating the same, or that he was the agent or officer of any corporation or association or person in making, furthering or effectuating the same, and that the article, thing or property agreed to be sold and delivered was not actually delivered, and that settlement was made or agreed to be made upon the difference in value of said article, thing or property, shall constitute against such defendant prima facie evidence of guilt. Proof that any person, corporation or other association of persons, either as principals or agents, has established an office or place where are posted or published from information received the fluctuating prices of grain, cotton, provisions, stocks, bonds and other commodities, or of any one or more of the same, shall constitute prima facie evidence of being guilty of violating the provisions of this article.

Rev., s. 3826; 1905, ss. 3, 4, 5.

See State v. McGinnis, 138-724; State v. Clayton, 138-732, and other cases cited under section 2144.

2202. Duties and compensation of solicitor.

ART. 1. JURISDICTION IN MATTER OF GUARDIANSHIP

2150. Jurisdiction in clerk of superior court. The clerks of the superior court within their respective counties have full power, from time to time, to take cognizance of all matters concerning orphans and their estates and to appoint guardians in all cases of infants, idiots, lunatics, inebriates, and inmates of the Caswell training school.

Rev., s. 1766; Code, s. 1566; R. C., c. 54, s. 2; 1762, c. 69, ss. 5, 7; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 4; 1917, c. 41, s. 1.

See section 2285. Powers which court of equity formerly exercised in regard to orphans and their estates now conferred upon clerk: Duffy v. Williams, 133-197.

Jurisdiction of clerk in appointment of guardians of infants does not extend to a case where petitioner asks for custody of child who had been placed by mother under control of another: In re Lewis, 88-31. Appointment of guardian is matter of discretion: Battle v. Vick, 15-294; Long v. Rhymes, 6-122; Grant v. Whitaker, 5-231; Mills v. McAllister, 2-303—exercise of which cannot be reviewed by supreme court, Battle v. Vick, 15-294.

Court not bound to confirm choice of guardian made by infant of fourteen years of age and upwards: Grant v. Whitaker, 5-231; Wynne v. Always, 5-38.

For old case dealing with jurisdiction of courts under section, see Harriss v. Richardson, 15-279.

ART. 2. CREATION AND TERMINATION OF GUARDIANSHIP

2151. Appointment by parents; effect; powers and duties of guardian. Any father, though he be a minor, may, by deed executed in his lifetime and with the written consent and privy examination of the mother, if she be living, or by his last will and testament in writing, if the mother be dead, dispose of the custody and tuition of any of his infant children, being unmarried, and whether born at his death or in ventre sa mere, for such time as the children may remain under twenty-one years of age, or for any less time. Or in case the father is dead and has not exercised his said right of appointment, then the mother, whether of full age or minor, may do so. Every such appointment shall be good and effectual against any person claiming the custody and tuition of such child or children. Every guardian by deed or will shall have the same powers and rights and be subject to the same liabilities and regulations as other guardians.

Rev., ss. 1762, 1763, 1764; Code, ss. 1562, 1563, 1564; R. C., c. 54; 1762, c. 69; 1868-9, c. 201; 1881, c. 64; 1911, c. 120.

Where testator by will directs that children should be placed with certain person until their majority, of whose circumstances testator was aware, such person entitled to their custody in absence of finding of unfitness: In re Young, 120-151.

Father entitled to custody of children against claims of every one: In re Fain, 172-790; In re Jones, 153-312; Newsome v. Bunch, 144-16; Latham v. Ellis, 116-30—except those to whom he may have committed their custody and tuition by deed, Latham v. Ellis, 116-30—or unless found to be unfitted for their care and custody, Ibid.

Testator cannot appoint testamentary guardian except to his own children: Camp v. Pittman, 90-615.

Court intimates that mother cannot make disposition of her child so as to confer upon another the right to its custody and control: In re Lewis, 88-31.

Provisions of section allowing father to appoint testamentary guardian for children does not embrace grandchildren: Williamson v. Jordan, 45-46.

Father cannot appoint guardian for children, nor impose upon any one the duties and obligations of that office, except by deed executed in his lifetime, or by last will and testament executed in writing: Peyton v. Smith, 22-325—but where it can be clearly collected from will of father that certain persons are thereby appointed to have custody of person and estate of children until they arrive at age, such appointment will constitute them guardian, Ibid.

No one has right to guardianship of an infant, except as testamentary guardian, or as appointed by father by deed, or by the court: Long v. Rhymes, 6-122.

Testamentary guardian entitled to custody of child: In re Young, 120-151.

2152. Natural guardianship on death of father. In case of the death of the father of an infant, the mother of such child surviving such father shall immediately become the natural guardian of such child to the same extent and in the same manner, plight and condition as the father would be if living; and the mother in such case shall have all the powers, rights and privileges, and be subject to all the duties and obligations of a natural guardian. But this shall not be construed as abridging the powers of the courts over minors and their estates and to the appointment of guardians.

Rev., s. 1765; Code, s. 1565; 1883, c. 364.

Mother, if suitable person, entitled to care and custody of infant child, even if there be others more suitable: Ashby v. Page, 106-328. Court intimates that mother cannot make a disposition of child so as to confer upon another right to its custody and control: In re Lewis, 88-31. As to mother's duty to support her child, see Ibid.

Rev., s. 1770; Code, s. 1571; R. C., c. 54, s. 4; 1888, c. 16; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 9.

2154. Appointment when father living. The clerk of the superior court may appoint a guardian of the estate of any minor, although the father of such minor be living. And the guardian so appointed shall be governed in all respects by the laws relative to guardians of the estate in other cases, but shall have no authority over the person of such minor.

Rev., s. 1771; Code, s. 1572; R. C., c. 54, ss. 4, 7; 1806, c. 707; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 10.

2155. Separate appointment for person and estate; yearly support specified; payments allowed in accounting. Instead of granting general guardianship to one person, the clerk of the superior court may commit the tuition and custody of the person to one and the charge of his estate to another, whenever and at any time during minority, inebriety, idiocy or lunacy, it appears most conducive to the proper care of the orphan's, inebriate's, idiot's, or lunatic's estate, and to his suitable maintenance, nurture and education. In such cases the clerk must order what yearly sums of money or other provisions shall be allowed for the support and education of the orphan, or for the maintenance of the idiot, lunatic or inebriate, and must prescribe the time and manner of paying the same; but such allowance may, upon application and satisfactory proof made, be reduced or enlarged, or otherwise modified, as the ward's condition in life and the kind and value of his estate may require. All payments made by the guardian of the estate to the tutor of the person, according to any such order, shall be deemed just disbursements and be allowed in the settlement of his accounts; but for the payment thereof by the one and the receipt thereof by the other merely, no commissions shall be allowed to either, though commissions may be allowed to the tutor of the person on his disbursements only.

Rev., ss. 1767, 1768, 1769; Code, ss. 1567, 1568, 1569; R. C., c. 54, s. 3; 1840, c. 31; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 6, 7,

As to maintenance and education of ward generally, see Duffy v. Williams, 133-195; Tharrington v. Tharrington, 99-118. As to disbursements and commissions generally, see sections 2189, 2190.

2156. Proceedings on application for guardianship. On application to any clerk of the superior court for the custody and guardianship of any infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school, it is the duty of such clerk to inform himself of the circumstances of the case on the oath of the applicant, or of any other person, and if none of the relatives of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school are present at such application, the clerk must assign, or for any other good cause he may assign, a day for the hearing; and he shall thereupon direct notice thereof to be given to such of the relatives and to such other persons, if any, as he may deem it proper to notify. On the hearing he shall ascertain, on oath, the amount of the property, real and personal, of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school, and the value of the rents and profits of the real estate, and he may grant or refuse the application, or commit the guardianship to some other person, as he may think best for the interest of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school.

Rev., s. 1772; Code, s. 1620; C. C. P., s. 474; 1917, c. 41, s. 2.

Failure to notify relative who has custody of child of proceedings to appoint guardian is irregularity under section, which does not render appointment of guardian void, though not conclusive upon such relative: In re Parker, 144-170. Except as between parents, under section 2241, right of custody of child cannot be determined under writ of habeas corpus: Ibid. As to who may take proper steps to set aside appointment of guardian, see Ibid.

2157. Letters of guardianship. The clerk of the superior court must issue to every guardian appointed by him a letter of appointment, which shall be signed by him and sealed with the seal of his office.

Rev., s. 1773; Code, s. 1621; C. C. P., c. 475.

2158. Removal by clerk. The clerks of the superior court have power, on information or complaint made, at all times to remove guardians and appoint successors, to make and establish rules for the better ordering, managing and securing infants' estates, and for the better education and maintenance of wards; and it is their duty to do so in the following cases:

1. Where the guardian wastes or converts the money or estate of the ward to his own use.
2. Where the guardian in any manner mismanages the estate.

3. Where the guardian is about or intends to marry any ward in disparagement.

4. Where the guardian neglects to educate or maintain the ward in a manner suitable to his or her degree.

5. Where the guardian is legally disqualified to act as a person would be to be appointed administrator.

6. Where the guardian or his sureties are likely to become insolvent or non-residents of the state.

Rev., s. 1774; Code, s. 1583; R. C., c. 54, ss. 2, 13; 1762, c. 69; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 20; C. C. P., ss. 470, 476.

Court (now clerk superior court) can at any time remove guardian upon proper cause shown, and has entire discretion in appointment of successor: In re Dixon, 156-26; Bray v. Brumsey, 5-227.

Use by guardian of funds of his ward for his own business is sufficient to warrant his removal: Ury v. Brown, 129-270.

Word "disparagement," with reference to marrying off ward, defined: Shutt v. Carloss, 36-232. Guardian not answerable in pecuniary damages for marrying female ward in disparagement: Ibid.

Where guardian of infant moves to another state, taking with him part of infant's property, court has right to remove him and appoint another in his place: Cooke v. Beale, 33-36.

An order by superior court clerk in a cause pending before him for removal of testamentary guardian, where it is not alleged nor found as a fact by clerk that estate of ward had been wasted, nor that guardian insolvent so that ward should be unable to recover balance due on final settlement, is improperly made: Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79-369.

For annotations on removal of administrators, see under section 31, which may be useful in construing this section.

2159. Interlocutory orders on revocation. In all cases where the letters of a guardian are revoked, the clerk of the superior court may, from time to time, pending any controversy in respect to such removal, make such interlocutory orders and decrees as will tend to the better securing the estate of the ward, or other party seeking relief by such revocation.

Rev., s. 1775; Code, s. 1607; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 44.

2160. Resignation; effect; accounting on resignation. Any guardian wishing to resign his trust may apply in writing to the superior court, setting forth the circumstances of his case. If, at the time of making the application, he also exhibits his final account for settlement, and if the clerk of the superior court is satisfied that the guardian has been faithful and has truly accounted, and if a competent person can be procured to succeed in the guardianship, the clerk of the superior court may accept the resignation of the guardian and discharge him from the trust. But the guardian so discharged and his sureties are still liable in relation to all matters connected with the trust before the resignation.

Rev., s. 1776; Code, s. 1608; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 45.

Where permission given to guardian by clerk of court to file ex parte final account and turn over guardianship to another, he is not thereby discharged from liabilities connected with his trust arising before resignation: Luton v. Wilcox, 83-20. Section merely referred to in Ellis v. Scott, 75-111.

ART. 3. GUARDIAN'S BOND

2161. Bond to be given before receiving property. No guardian appointed for an infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, shall be permitted to receive property of the infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate until he shall have given sufficient security, approved by a judge, or the court, to account for and apply the same under the direction of the court.

Rev., s. 1777; Code, s. 1573; C. C. P., s. 355.

See sections 339, 346, 2162. Guardian and his bond liable for all moneys due his wards which he has collected or ought to have collected: Loftin v. Cobb, 126-58—and where administrator of former guardian himself becomes guardian, he and his guardian bond become liable for any balance due from solvent estate of former guardian, Ibid.

Giving of bond required of guardians not essential to validity of appointment itself: Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75—though failure to take bond subjects the officer whose duty it is to see that it is made to consequences of omission, Ibid.

Rev., ss. 323, 1778; Code, s. 1574; R. C., c. 54, s. 5; 1762, c. 69, s. 7; 1825, c. 1285, s. 2; 1833, c. 17; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 11; 1874-5, c. 214.

Bond guarantees good faith and reasonable diligence: Smith v. Patton, 131-397; Moore v. Eure, 101-11; Atkinson v. Whitehead, 66-296. Penalty in bond omitted: Rollins v. Ebbs, 138-140, 137-355—or other sureties to sign, Barnes v. Lewis, 73-138.

Breach of bond for failing to educate ward and protect estate: Boyett v. Hurst, 54-166—for failure to account for money collected, or which should have been collected, Rollins v. Ebbs, 138-140; Loftin v. Cobb, 126-58; Topping v. Windley, 99-4; Humble v. Mebane, 89-410; Harris v. Harrison, 78-202. When condition deemed to be broken: Barrett v. Munroe, 20-334.

Action on bond in name of state for benefit of plaintiff: Norman v. Walker, 101-24; Williams v. McNair, 98-332; Carmichael v. Moore, 88-29; Jones v. McKinnon, 87-294; McKinnon v. McKinnon, 81-201.

Defense in action on bond: Felton v. Long, 43-224; Ledford v. Vandyke, 44-480; State v. Cordon, 30-179. Construction of bond: Iredell v. Barbee, 31-250. Account as evidence: Loftin v. Cobb, 126-58; Turner v. Turner, 104-566; Luton v. Wileox, 83-20. Judgment on bond: Anthony v. Estes, 101-541.

For statute of limitations on bond, see section 439.

2163. To be recorded in clerk's office; action on bond. The bond so taken shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court appointing the guardian; and any person injured by a breach of the condition thereof may prosecute a suit thereon, as in other actions.

Rev., s. 1779; Code, s. 1575; R. C., c. 54, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 12.

For action on guardian bonds, see section 2162. Person to whom court of equity has decreed that guardian should pay fund according to tenor of bond is person injured within meaning of section: State v. Brown, 67-481. As to breach of bond, see Ibid.

Rev., s. 1780; Code, s. 1576; R. C., c. 54, s. 8; 1822, c. 1161; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 13.

2165. Renewal of bond every three years; enforcing renewal. Every guardian shall renew his bond before the clerk of the superior court every three years, during the continuance of the guardianship. The clerk of the superior court shall issue a citation against every guardian failing to renew his bond, requiring such guardian to renew his bond within twenty days after service of the citation; and on return of the citation duly served and failure of the guardian to comply therewith, the clerk shall remove him and appoint a successor.

Rev., ss. 324, 1781, 1782; Code, ss. 1581, 1582; R. C., c. 54, s. 10; 1762, c. 69, s. 15; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 18, 19.

See section 2167. As to liabilities of sureties upon first bond where same renewed, see Jones v. Blanton, 41-115; Butler v. Durham, 38-589; Jones v. Hays, 38-502. Section merely referred to in Topping v. Windley, 99-4. Clerk not liable upon official bond for failure to issue ex officio a notice to guardian to renew bond: Sullivan v. Lowe, 64-500; see, also, Jones v. Biggs, 46-364; but see State v. Watson, 29-289.

2166. Relief of endangered sureties. Any surety of a guardian, who is in danger of sustaining loss by his suretyship, may file his complaint before the clerk of the superior court where the guardianship was granted, setting forth the circumstances of his case and demanding relief; and thereupon the guardian shall be required to answer the complaint within twenty days after service of the summons. If, upon the hearing, the clerk of the superior court deem the surety entitled to relief, the same may be granted by compelling the guardian to give a new bond, or to indemnify the surety against apprehended loss, or by the removal of the guardian from his trust; and in case the guardian fail to give a new bond or security to indemnify when required to do so within reasonable time, the clerk of the superior court must enter a peremptory order for his removal, and his authority as guardian shall thereupon cease.

Rev., s. 1783; Code, s. 1606; R. C., c. 54, s. 35; 1762, c. 69, ss. 21, 22; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 43.

Where sureties of guardian obtain order for counter security under section, and at that time guardian owes ward, and never afterwards returns account or makes payment, no presumption of satisfaction arises from his then being able to pay sum he owed, and sureties to first bond liable for it, although order for counter security expressly releases them: Foye v. Bell, 18-475. Where new sureties ordered to be given, obligation of bond given by new sureties extends to entire guardianship, retrospective as well as prospective: Bell v. Jasper, 37-597—and such second bond is at least additional and cumulative security for ward, Ibid.

2167. Liability of clerk for taking insufficient bond. If any clerk of the superior court shall commit the estate of an infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate to the charge or guardianship of any person without taking good and sufficient security for the same as directed by law, such clerk shall be liable, on his official bond, at the suit of the party aggrieved, for all loss and damages sustained for want of security being taken; but if the sureties were good at the time of their being accepted, the clerk of the superior court shall not be liable.

Rev., s. 1784; Code, s. 1614; R. C., c. 54, s. 2; 1762, c. 69, ss. 5, 6; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 51.

Giving bond required of guardian is not essential to validity of appointment, but failure to take bond subjects officer to consequences of such omission: Howerton v. Sexton, 104-75—and neither clerk nor his sureties will be heard to deny that guardian, appointed by former, improperly received funds which he is shown to have taken possession of for ward, Topping v. Windley, 99-4. Clerks of superior court liable upon official bonds for all losses sustained by reason of their failure to require proper security upon guardian bonds: Ibid. As to when action may be maintained against clerk on official bond, see Jones v. Biggs, 46-364; also section 927.

For old case under section now practically valueless, see Davis v. Somerville, 15-382.

2168. Liability of clerk for other defaults. If any clerk of the superior court shall willfully or negligently do, or omit to do, any other act prohibited, or other duty imposed on him by law, by which act or omission the estate of any ward suffers damage, he shall be liable therefor as directed in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 1785; Code, s. 1615; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 52.

ART. 4. POWERS AND DUTIES OF GUARDIAN

2169. To take charge of estate. Every guardian shall take possession, for the use of the ward, of all his estate, and may bring all necessary actions therefor.

Rev., s. 1786; Code, s. 1588; R. C., c. 54, s. 21; 1762, c. 69, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 25.

It seems that a guardian may compromise a claim for damages for injury to ward, but this will not be binding upon the ward if attended with fraud: Bunch v. Lumber Co., 174-8. Guardian having no title to land of ward, it is not his duty to sue for recovery of realty: Cross v. Craven, 120-331. Guardian may exchange personal for real security for debt due ward: Christmas v. Wright, 38-549.

2170. To sell perishable goods on order of clerk. Every guardian shall sell, by order of the clerk of the superior court, all such goods and chattels of his ward as may be liable to perish or be the worse for keeping. Every such order shall be entered in the order record of the superior court and must contain a descriptive list of the property to be sold, with the terms of sale.

Rev., s. 1787; Code, s. 1589; R. C., c. 54, s. 22; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 26.

2171. How sales and rentals made. All sales and rentings by guardians shall be publicly made, between the hours of ten o'clock a.m. and four o'clock p.m., after twenty days notice posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. But, upon petition by the guardian, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land of the ward is situated, or of the county wherein the guardian has qualified, may make an order, on satisfactory evidence, upon the oath of at least two disinterested freeholders acquainted with the said land, that the best interests of the said ward will be subserved by a private renting of said land, allowing the guardian to rent the land privately. The terms of all such rentings shall be reported to said clerk of the superior court and be approved by him. In cases where guardians have heretofore rented their ward's land at private rentings in good faith and for the benefit of the ward's estate, they shall not be liable to the penalty heretofore prescribed by law. The proceeds of all sales of personal estate and rentings of real property, except the rentings of lands leased for agricultural purposes, when not for cash, shall be secured by bond and good security.

Rev., s. 1788; Code, s. 1590; 1891, c. 83; 1901, c. 97; R. C., c. 54, s. 26; 1793, c. 391.

Section impliedly declares it to be to the interest of wards to rent lands publicly: Duffy v. Williams, 133-198.

Provisions of section requiring sales by guardians to be public does not apply to sales made under direction of superior court in exercise of its general jurisdiction in equity: Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712. Provisions of section requiring all sales and rentings of real and personal property by guardians to be made publicly, and upon terms therein prescribed, are peremptory: Pate v. Kennedy, 104-234—and leave no discretion to guardian, Ibid. Private renting is valid as to third parties: Perry v. Perry, 127-23.

Section merely referred to in Norman v. Dunbar, 53-317.

2172. When lands may be leased. The guardian may lease the lands of an infant for a term not exceeding the end of the current year in which the infant shall come of age, or die in nonage. But no guardian, without leave of the clerk of the superior court, shall lease any land of his ward without impeachment of waste, or for a term of more than three years, unless at a rent not less than three per centum on the assessed taxable value of the land.

Section merely referred to in Melton v. McKesson, 35-475.

2173. When guardians to cultivate lands of wards. Where any parent of a minor child qualifies as guardian of such child, and the ward owns or is entitled to the possession of any real estate used or which may be used for agricultural purposes, such guardian may make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land is situate for permission to cultivate it, and the petition shall set forth the nature, extent and location of the same. It shall then be the duty of the clerk to appoint three disinterested resident freeholders, who shall go upon the land and, after being sworn to act impartially, assess the annual rental value thereof. The commissioners shall report their proceedings and findings to the clerk within ten days after the notification of their appointment, and if the clerk shall deem the same to be the interest of the ward he shall make an order allowing the guardian to cultivate the land for a term not exceeding three years at the annual rental value assessed by the commissioners to be paid to the ward by the guardian. The term, however, shall not extend beyond the minority of the minor. The commissioners shall receive as compensation for said services the same fees as are allowed commissioners in partition of real estate.

2174. When timber may be sold. In case the land cannot be rented for enough to pay the taxes and other dues thereof, and there is not money sufficient for that purpose, the guardian, with the consent of the clerk of the superior court, may annually dispose of or use so much of the lightwood, and box or rent so many pine trees, or sell so much of the timber on the same, as may raise enough to pay the taxes and other duties thereon, and no more.

Rev., s. 1790; Code, s. 1596; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1762, c. 69, s. 14; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 33.

Where guardian sold timber on land of ward without order of court as required by section, and took note for purchase money, maker of note cannot, when sued upon same by guardian and ward, set up failure of guardian to observe statutory mandate: Evans v. Williamson, 79-86.

2175. Plate and jewelry to be kept. All plate and jewelry shall be preserved and delivered to the ward at age, in kind, according to weight and quantity.

2176. Personal representative of guardian to pay over to clerk. In all cases where a guardian of any minor child or of an idiot, lunatic, inebriate or insane person dies, it is competent for the executor or administrator of such deceased guardian, at any time after the grant of letters testamentary or of administration, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where such deceased guardian was appointed, any moneys belonging to any such minor child, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, and any such payment shall have the effect to discharge the estate of said deceased guardian and his sureties upon his guardian bond to the extent of the amount so paid.

Rev., s. 1794; Code, s. 1622; 1881, c. 301, s. 2.

Administrator of deceased ward not entitled to recover from administrator of deceased guardian moneys which came into guardian's hands as proceeds of ward's real estate sold under decree of court in partition: Allison v. Robinson, 78-222. As bearing on section, see Jennings v. Copeland, 90-572.

2177. Collection of claims; duty and liability. Every guardian shall diligently endeavor to collect, by all lawful means, all bonds, notes, obligations or moneys due his ward when any debtor or his sureties are likely to become insolvent, on pain of being liable for the same.

Rev., s. 1795; Code, s. 1593; R. C., c. 54, s. 23; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 30.

Guardian responsible not only for what he receives, but for all he might have received by exercise of ordinary diligence and highest degree of good faith: Armfield v. Brown, 73-81. Guardian accountable to ward for sum of money in hands of administrator if such administrator or his sureties were solvent at time when such funds ought to have been paid to guardian: Covington v. Leak, 65-594—or within time when judgment could have been obtained upon administration bond, Ibid.

Where guardian waited six months after principal in note, held by him as guardian, died insolvent, before he sued surety, who also became insolvent before suit brought, guardian having opportunity of knowing condition of affairs, he is liable for debt: Williamson v. Williams, 59-62.

Guardian having no title to land of ward, it is not his duty to sue for recovery of realty: Cross v. Craven, 120-331.

Guardian liable to ward for negligence in failing to sue on note due ward until parties thereto become insolvent: Coggins v. Blythe, 113-102. Where guardian carelessly and without consideration, upon hasty opinion of counsel, employed by debtor, and not by way of compromise of doubtful claim, accepted from solvent debtor half sum he should have collected, he is responsible for what he failed to collect: Culp v. Stanford, 112-664.

Guardian acting in good faith not responsible for omitting to collect note during late war, when it appears that obligors solvent during war, and rendered insolvent by its results: Love v. Logan, 69-70.

For additional annotations hereunder, see section 2308.

Rev., s. 1796; Code, s. 1595; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1762, c. 69, s. 14; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 32.

2179. Liability for costs. All fees and costs of the superior court for issuing orders, citations, summonses or other process against guardians for their supposed defaults shall be paid by the party found in default.

Rev., s. 1797; Code, s. 1611; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 48.

For duty of guardian to pay owelty, see Partition, s. 3224.

For compound interest on obligations to guardians, see Interest, s. 2308.

ART. 5. SALES OF WARD'S ESTATE

2180. Special proceedings to sell; judge's approval required. On application of the guardian by petition, verified upon oath, to the superior court, showing that the interest of the ward would be materially promoted by the sale or mortgage of any part of his estate, real or personal, the proceeding shall be conducted as in other cases of special proceedings; and the truth of the matter alleged in the petition being ascertained by satisfactory proof, a decree may thereupon be made that a sale or mortgage be had by such person, in such way and on such terms as may be most advantageous to the interest of the ward; but no sale or mortgage shall be made until approved by the judge of the court, nor shall the same be valid, nor any conveyance of the title made, unless confirmed and directed by the judge, and the proceeds of the sale or mortgage shall be exclusively applied and secured to such purposes and on such trusts as the judge shall specify. The guardian may not mortgage the property of his ward for a term of years exceeding the minority of the ward. The word "mortgage" wherever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust.

Rev., s. 1798; Code, s. 1602; R. C., c. 54, ss. 32, 33; 1827, c. 33; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 39; 1917, c. 25S, s. 1.

Powers of court hereunder settled in Ex parte Dodd, 62-99; Troy v. Troy, 45-87; Williams v. Harrington, 33-616; Harrison v. Richardson, 15-279.

Clerk should require satisfactory proof of necessity to sell in addition to verified petition: In re Propst, 144-562—and decree should not be made upon ex parte affidavit, Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136.

Court may sell land of minors for better investment when they are properly represented before court: Hutchinson v. Hutchinson, 126-671—and court will act, when all interests are found in classes, if one of each class is before court, Ibid.

By this section clerk and court in term have concurrent jurisdiction in matter of ordering sale of infants' lands upon petition of their guardians: Barcello v. Hapgood, 118-712. Not erroneous or irregular to order sale of infant's land to be made privately by guardian: Ibid.; Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162-146. Where judge renders judgment, upon finding by referee that sale should be made, that sale be made privately, purchaser acquires good title: Ibid.

While formal direction to make title is not always necessary, confirmation of sale cannot be dispensed with: In re Dickerson, 11-108. Where court directed sale to be made without taking any means to ascertain necessity therefor, and report of sale was never confirmed, not error in court, upon motion of infant, to set aside sale and order another: Ibid.

Ward has right to subject land sold by his guardian to payment of purchase money: Murrill v. Humphrey, 88-138.

Where ward's land sold under decree of court upon petition of guardian the title acquired is not rendered invalid by reversal of decree on account of irregularity in proceeding of which purchaser had no notice: Sutton v. Schonwald, 86-198.

One who conducts suit as guardian of infants is not party of record, but infants themselves are real plaintiffs: George v. High, 85-113—nor will any one who has an interest in action hostile to that of infants be permitted to conduct same, Ibid.

Court of equity not only has power, but should, in exercise of its discretion in proper cases, authorize and confirm private sale of land of infants; therefore, where guardian, in accordance with order of court, exposes at public sale land of wards, but no sale for want of bidders at fair price, and land subsequently sold privately, upon terms approved by court, purchaser acquires good title: Rowland v. Thompson, 73-504.

For cases under section prior to enactment of section 1744, allowing sale of estates limited to persons not in esse, see Ex parte Dodd, 62-97; Houston v. Houston, 62-95; Watson v. Watson, 56-400.

Where all persons who have an interest in land, whether vested, contingent or executory, are in esse, and are before court, court may make order of sale: Houston v. Houston, 62-95 (note that court can sell land in certain cases where some of parties not in esse under section 1744).

After sale, it ought to appear to be for the benefit of infant to confirm same: Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136.

Where guardian obtains decree of court for sale of ward's land to make him liable for any loss in consequence of such sale, it must appear that he willfully practiced deception on court by false allegations and false evidence, or by industriously concealing material facts: Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136.

Where purchaser fails to pay note for purchase money of land under section, land may still be held liable for purchase money, although irregular and invalid deed made by commissioners contrary to directions of court: Singletery v. Whitaker, 62-77. Bidder at judicial sale acquires no rights until proposition accepted by court: Dula v. Seagle, 98-458. Decree directing commissioner to sell lands, receive purchase money and make title, without requiring report and confirmation of sale by court, is irregular: Ibid.

Superior courts have authority to direct sales of property of infants, both real and personal, in proper cases: Tate v. Mott, 96-19. Guardian appointed in another state has no authority to represent his wards in suits and proceedings in this state, but when he brings suit for them as guardian he will be treated as if he were next friend: Ibid.

Section merely referred to in Ex parte Miller, 90-627; Morris v. Gentry, 89-252; Smith v. Witter, 174-616.

2181. Fund from sale has character of estate sold and subject to same trusts.

Whenever, in consequence of any sale under the preceding section, the real or personal property of the ward is saved from demands to which in the first instance it may be liable, the final decree shall declare and set apart a portion of the personal or real estate thus saved, of value equal to the real and personal estate sold, as property exchanged for that sold; and in all such cases of sale, whereby real is substituted by personal, or personal by real property, the beneficial interest in the property acquired shall be enjoyed, alienated, devised or bequeathed, and shall descend and be distributed, as by law the property sold might and would have been had it not been sold, until it be reconverted from the character thus impressed upon it by some act of the owner and restored to its character proper.

Rev., s. 1799; Code, s. 1603; R. C., c. 54, s. 33; 1827, c. 33, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 40.

Although duty of court of equity, where real estate of infant is sold under its decree, to direct proceeds to be held as real estate: Harrison v. Bradley, 40-136—yet husband of such infant, who has received proceeds from wife's guardian, has no right to complain that such course has not been adopted, Ibid. Where female ward's land sold for her benefit, and she marries and dies before coming of age: Held, that money retained character of realty: Wood v. Reeves, 58-271.

Section merely referred to in Tate v. Mott, 96-22; Ex parte Miller, 90-627; Douglas v. Caldwell, 59-21.

2182. Sale of ward's estate to make assets.

When a guardian has notice of a debt or demand against the estate of his ward, he may apply by petition, setting forth the facts, to the clerk of the superior court wherein the guardianship was granted, for an order to sell so much of the personal or real estate as may be sufficient to discharge such debt or demand; and the order of the court shall particularly specify what property is to be sold and the terms of sale; but no real estate shall be sold under this section, in any case, without the revision and confirmation of the order therefor by the judge of the superior court. The proceeds of sale under this section shall be considered as assets in the hands of the guardian for the benefit of creditors, in like manner as assets in the hands of a personal representative; and the same proceedings may be had against the guardian with respect to such assets as might be taken against an executor, administrator or collector in similar cases.

Rev., ss. 1800, 1801; Code, ss. 1604, 1605; R. C., c. 54, s. 34; 1789, c. 311, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 41, 42.

Before lands of infant can be sold for payment of debts, there must be a judgment of court that there is a debt against estate of ward which renders sale necessary: Pendleton v. Trueblood, 48-96; Coffield v. McLean, 49-15; Leary v. Fletcher, 23-259—and must be alleged in petition that debt to be satisfied was one against ancestor, and not simply debt contracted by ward or his guardian, Coffield v. McLean, 49-15—but amount of such debts, to whom due, or other particular description not essential to validity of order authorizing sale, Pendleton v. Trueblood, 48-96. Court must select part or parts of property which can be disposed of with least injury to ward: Leary v. Fletcher, 23-259.

Where court, on petition of guardian of infant, made order that he, said guardian, sell land of said deceased, or so much thereof as will be sufficient to discharge debt, such order unauthorized and void, and purchaser thereunder acquired no title: Ducket v. Skinner, 33-431; Leary v. Fletcher, 23-259.

Guardian of lunatic may, by order of county court (now clerk superior court), rightfully sell personal property of ward for payment of debts, provided no fraud in proceeding: Howard v. Thompson, 30-367.

Order “to sell land of ward named in petition, adjoining lands of A. B. and others, containing about 110 acres,” is sufficient specification of land under section, where it appears that ward had no other land: Pendleton v. Trueblood, 48-96.

Sale of land by guardian under order of clerk superior court, made without ascertaining that there were debts against ward which made sale necessary, and which did not designate with certainty land to be sold, is void: Spruill v. Davenport, 48-42.

Money from sale of lands belonging to wards is subject to attachment in hands of clerk after confirmation of sale: LeRoy v. Jacobsy, 136-443. When guardian of infant under order of court sells ward’s land for payment of debts of ancestor, he is bound to observe same priority in payment of debts as administrator or executor in applying personal assets: Marchant v. Sanderlin, 25-501.

ART. 6. RETURNS AND ACCOUNTING

Rev., s. 1802; Code, s. 1577; R. C., c. 54, s. 11; 1762, c. 69, s. 9; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 14.

Duty of guardian within three months after his appointment to exhibit account, upon oath, of estate of ward, to clerk superior court, and to make annual return: Norman v. Walker, 101-26. Section merely referred to in Self v. Shugart, 135-186; Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79-371.

2184. Procedure to compel return. In cases of default to exhibit the return required by the preceding section, the clerk of the superior court must issue an order requiring the guardian to file such return forthwith, or to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him. If, after due service of the order, the guardian does not, on the return day of the order, file such return, or obtain further time to file the same, the clerk of the superior court shall issue an attachment against him, and commit him to the common jail of the county till he files such return.

2185. Additional assets to be returned. Whenever further property of any kind, not included in any previous return, comes to the hands or knowledge of any guardian, he must cause the same to be returned within three months after the possession or discovery thereof; and the making of such return of new assets, from time to time, may be enforced in the same manner as prescribed in the preceding section.

Rev., s. 1804; Code, s. 1579; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 16.

2186. Annual accounts. Every guardian shall, within twelve months from the date of his qualification or appointment, and annually, so long as any of the estate remains in his control, file in the office of the clerk of the superior court an inventory and account, under oath, of the amount of property received by him, or invested by him, and the manner and nature of such investment, and his receipts and disbursements for the past year in the form of debit and credit. He must produce vouchers for all payments. The clerk of the superior court may examine on oath such accounting party, or any other person, concerning the receipts, disbursements or any other matter relating to the estate; and having carefully revised and audited such account, if he approve the same, he must indorse his approval thereon, which shall be deemed prima facie evidence of correctness.

Rev., s. 1805; Code, s. 1617; R. C., c. 54, ss. 11, 12; 1762, c. 69, ss. 9, 15; 1871-2, c. 46.

Word "account" defined: State v. Dunn, 134-668. Vouchers should show character of, and necessity for, expenditures: McLean v. Breese, 109-564. Ex parte accounts filed are taken to be correct until shown erroneous: Turner v. Turner, 104-572. Guardian should set out how he invested ward's estate and nature of securities which he holds as guardian: Collins v. Gooch, 97-186. Ward entitled to demand of guardian annual statement of manner and nature of his investments of ward's estate: Moore v. Askew, 85-199. Annual accounts are presumptive evidence against sureties: Loftin v. Cobb, 126-58. Section merely referred to in Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79-317.

2187. Procedure to compel accounting. If any guardian omit to account, as directed in the preceding section, or renders an insufficient and unsatisfactory account, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith order such guardian to render a full and satisfactory account, as required by law, within twenty days after service of the order. Upon return of the order, duly served, if such guardian fail to appear or refuse to exhibit such account, the clerk of the superior court may issue an attachment against him for contempt and commit him till he exhibits such account, and may likewise remove him from office.

Rev., s. 1806; Code, s. 1618; C. C. P., s. 479.

Word "account" defined: State v. Dunn, 134-668. Clerk must require guardians to make quarterly and annual returns, and on failure to do so to attach and remove guardians from office: Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79-371; In re Dixon, 156-26.

2188. Final account. A guardian may be required to file such account at any time after six months from the ward's coming of full age or the cessation of the guardianship; but such account may be filed voluntarily at any time, and, whether the accounting be voluntary or compulsory, it shall be audited and recorded by the clerk of the superior court.

Rev., s. 1807; Code, s. 1619; C. C. P., s. 481.

Upon the death of the ward the trust ends and the distributees may have administration and call for an account: Lowden v. Hathcock, 150-438.

Section not intended to bestow upon guardian ward's money and property for six months after he becomes of age: Self v. Shugart, 135-189—nor to deprive him of right to bring action during that period, but simply means that guardian presumed to have settled with ward within six months, and after its lapse clerk can call on guardian to file final account, with receipts of ward, in full settlement, to complete record in his office, for section states that such return shall be audited and recorded, Ibid.—but such final account is intended to be subsequent to settlement with ward, not preparatory thereto, Ibid.

Ten years after ward coming of age bars action by him against his guardian for settlement: Dunn v. Beaman, 126-766; Lowden v. Hathcock, 150-438.

Clerk of superior court has jurisdiction of proceeding against guardian for account and settlement: McNeill v. Hodges, 105-52; Donnelly v. Wilcox, 113-408; McLean v. Breece, 113-390; Clodfelter v. Post, 70-733; Rowland v. Thompson, 65-110—and of course between guardian and ward's personal representative, McLean v. Breece, 113-390—therefore judgment rendered therein is estoppel to action in superior court between same parties and upon same question, Donnelly v. Wilcox, 113-408.

Where guardian surrendered office to one whom he supposed to be legal successor and made settlement with him, although he was not regularly appointed guardian until nine months thereafter, management of fund during that period is treated as exercise of agency of former guardian: Jennings v. Copeland, 90-572.

Superior court has no original jurisdiction of action for an account by existing guardian of infant children against their former guardian: Sudderth v. McCombs, 65-186; Rowland v. Thompson, 65-110—such action must be brought before clerk, Ibid.

As to jurisdiction of deputy clerk in proceeding for account and settlement, see Rowland v. Thompson, 65-110.

For practice before clerk in taking accounts of guardians, see Rowland v. Thompson, 64-714.

Settlement between guardian and ward and receipt by latter of former's personal bond for balance, is sufficient defense to action on guardian bond: State v. Cordon, 30-179; Ledford v. Vandyke, 44-480.

For charging guardian with compound interest in making final settlement, see section 2308.

Rev., s. 1808; Code, s. 1612; R. C., c. 54, s. 28; 1762; c. 69, ss. 18, 19; 1799, c. 536, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 49.

See section 2155. For annotations as to allowances made administrators, etc., see under section 157 (reasoning very similar).

In passing the accounts of a guardian he cannot, except under rare circumstances, be allowed disbursements beyond income of ward: Caffey v. McMichael, 64-507; Johnston v. Coleman, 56-290; Long v. Norecom, 37-354.

Court may allow money in excess of income expended in education without permission of clerk: Duffy v. Williams, 133-195.

Clerk may allow costs of suit brought by guardian for ward where guardian went on prosecution bond and had to pay costs individually: Green v. Burgess, 117-495—may allow disbursements made to pay debts of lunatic (his ward) contracted before his lunacy, he being dead and his child being of age, McLean v. Breece, 113-390—may allow reasonable attorney's fees paid in good faith, Burke v. Turner, 85-500; Whitford v. Foy, 65-265; Moore v. Shields, 69-50—may allow expenditures demanded by such circumstances amounting to physical necessity as would compel court to authorize them without hesitation, Long v. Norecom, 37-354.

No allowance to father, though he be guardian, for maintenance of child, if he is able to maintain it: Burke v. Turner, 85-500—nor to father as guardian for education of child, he being able to educate it, Walker v. Crowder, 37-478. No allowance for counsel fees when counsel employed for personal advantage of guardian: Johnston v. Haynes, 65-509—or to keep ward out of just rights, Moore v. Shields, 69-50—or in defending action brought by ward for settlement, Ibid.

Guardian who advances money for ward over and above income of estate in order to set him up in business or for other purposes, without applying to court for leave, not entitled to charge ward with it: Shaw v. Coble, 63-377.

Where guardian grossly abusing his trust, claims credit for certain amount for ward's expenditures, and files no exhibit of items of expenditures, and does not make it appear that same proper, such credit will not be allowed him: Boyett v. Hurst, 54-166.

Guardians are chargeable with highest rate of interest where funds are used in his own business: Fisher v. Brown, 135-198.

2190. Commissions. The superior court shall allow commissions to the guardian for his time and trouble in the management of the ward's estate, in the same manner and under the same rules and restrictions as allowances are made to executors, administrators and collectors.

Rev., s. 1809; Code, s. 1613; R. C., c. 54, s. 28; 1762, c. 69, ss. 18, 19; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 50.

For annotations as to commissions allowed administrators, etc., see under section 157 (may be of service in construing this section). Where guardian uses funds of ward, but makes regular annual settlement, charging himself with interest thereon, he is entitled to his commissions: Fisher v. Brown, 135-198; Carr v. Askew, 94-194.

Where sum received was $10,000 and there was no trouble or litigation connected with estate, commission of 2½ per cent on receipts and 5 per cent on disbursements was allowed: Carr v. Askew, 94-194.

Commissions allowed by referee will not be reduced unless they are manifestly excessive: Wilson v. Lineberger, 88-416.

Ex parte order of court allowing commissions to guardian not conclusive in litigation between ward and guardian: Walton v. Erwin, 36-136. Possibly there may be cases in which, office being troublesome, and guardian faithful, and dying or giving up office upon some necessity, court may give to such guardian full commission and also reasonable compensation to successor: Ibid. Two and one-half per cent is reasonable commission where guardian had received nearly whole of ward's estate in notes, had collected very little on notes, and paid same over to succeeding guardian: Ibid.

Guardian not entitled to commissions on money collected and used by him in own business: Burke v. Turner, 85-500; but see Fisher v. Brown, 135-198; Carr v. Askew, 94-194—nor on debts of his ward paid to firm of which guardian is a member, Burke v. Turner, 85-500.

Compensation of guardians should depend upon time employed, labor performed, services rendered and responsibility encountered in performance of duties: Whitford v. Foy, 65-265; Hodge v. Hawkins, 21-564; Shutt v. Carloss, 36-232.

Guardian entitled to commissions although he omitted to keep and render regular accounts, where no imputation cast upon his integrity by reason of neglect: McNeill v. Hodges, 83-504. Guardian not entitled to commissions upon any disbursements made after ward arrives at full age: Ibid. Reasonable commissions will always be allowed to guardian unless in case of fraud or very culpable negligence: Whitford v. Foy, 65-265—but rate will depend upon amount of estate, trouble of managing same, and whether fees paid to counsel for assisting in management, last of which will lessen rate, Ibid. Commissions should be allowed guardian on amount of notes and other securities for debt delivered to ward upon cessation of guardianship: Whitford v. Foy, 65-265. Not unreasonable to allow 5 per cent commissions to guardian on receipts and disbursements, which embrace large number of receipts and vouchers extending through period of fourteen years: Covington v. Leak, 65-594. Guardian entitled to commissions upon payments made for goods bought of firm of which he is a member: Williamson v. Williams, 59-62—but not on charges for board while ward lived in his family, Ibid.

Where guardian keeps no account and makes no report of trust, as general rule he will not be allowed commissions: Topping v. Windley, 99-4.

Compensation cannot be allowed independent of commissions to guardian for time and trouble: Shutt v. Carloss, 36-232.

ART. 7. PUBLIC GUARDIANS

Rev., ss. 1758, 1759; Code, ss. 1556, 1560; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 1, 5.

2192. Bond of public guardian; increasing bond. The public guardian shall enter into bond with three or more sureties, approved by the clerk in the penal sum of six thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned faithfully to perform the duties of his office and obey all lawful orders of the superior or other courts touching said guardianship of all wards, money or estate that may come into his hands. Whenever the aggregate value of the real and personal estate belonging to his several wards exceeds one-half the bond herein required the clerk of the superior court shall require him to enlarge his bond in amount so as to cover at least double the aggregate amount under his control as guardian.

Rev., ss. 321, 322; Code, ss. 1557, 1558; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 2, 3.

2193. Powers, duties, liabilities, compensation. The powers and duties of said public guardian shall be the same as other guardians, and he shall be subject to the same liabilities as other guardians under the existing laws, and shall receive the same compensation as other guardians.

Rev., s. 1761; Code, s. 1561; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 6, 7.

2194. When letters issue to public guardian. The public guardian shall apply for and obtain letters of guardianship in the following cases:

1. When a period of six months has elapsed from the discovery of any property belonging to any minor, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, without guardian.

2. When any person entitled to letters of guardianship shall request in writing the clerk of the superior court to issue letters to the public guardian; but it is lawful and the duty of the clerk of the superior court to revoke said letters of guardianship at any time after issuing the same upon application in writing by any person entitled to qualify as guardian, setting forth a sufficient cause for such revocation.

Rev., s. 1760; Code, s. 1561; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 6, 7.

ART. 8. FOREIGN GUARDIANS

2195. Right to removal of ward's personalty from state. Where any ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, residing in another state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, or Canada, or other foreign country, is entitled to any personal estate in this state, or personal property substituted for realty by decree of court, or to any money arising from the sale of real estate, whether the same be in the hands of any guardian residing in this state, or of any executor, administrator or other person holding for the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, or if the same (not being adversely held and claimed) be not in the lawful possession or control of any person, the guardian of the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, duly appointed at the place where such ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person resides, may apply to have such estate removed to the residence of the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person by petition filed before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the property or some portion thereof is situated; which shall be proceeded with as in other cases of special proceedings.

Rev., s. 1816; Code, ss. 1598, 1601; R. C., c. 54, s. 29; 1820, c. 1044; 1842, c. 38; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 35, 38; 1874-5, c. 168; 1913, c. 86, s. 1.

Where it appears that property of ward residing in another state is in this state, consisting of good bonds at interest in hands of guardian here, and ward nearly of age, no special necessity appearing for such transfer, court will refuse order to transfer property: Douglas v. Caldwell, 59-20.

For cases prior to enactment of section and rendered nugatory by same, see McNeely v. Jamison, 55-186; Pugh v. Mordecai, 41-61. Section referred to in Tate v. Mott, 96-28.

Rev., ss. 1817, 1818; Code, ss. 1599, 1600; R. C., c. 54, s. 30; 1820, c. 1044, s. 2; 1842, c. 38; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 36, 37.

For removal of trust funds from the state, see Trustees, Art. 2.

Section merely referred to in Tate v. Mott, 96-28.

For rate of interest guardian notes to bear, see section 2308.

For guardians of idiots, inebriates and lunatics, see sections 2284-2290. For cross-index of appointments of guardian, see section 952. For payment of owelty of partition due from ward, see section 3224.

ART. 9. ESTATES WITHOUT GUARDIAN

2197. Duty of grand jury as to orphans and guardians. The grand jury of every county is charged with and shall present to the superior court the names of all orphan children that have no guardian or are not bound out to some trade or employment. They shall further inquire of all abuses, mismanagement and neglect of all such guardians as are appointed by the clerk of the superior court. The clerk of the superior court shall, at each term of the superior court, lay before the grand jury a list of all the guardians acting in his county or appointed by him.

Rev., s. 1810; Code, s. 1609; R. C., c. 54, s. 18; 1762, c. 69, s. 17; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 46.

2198. Solicitor to apply for receiver for orphans' estates. Whenever an orphan, having any estate, is presented by a grand jury, for whom no suitable person will become guardian, the clerk of the superior court must give notice thereof forthwith to the solicitor of the state for the judicial district, who shall apply in behalf of the orphan to the judge of the superior court of the county where such presentment was made, to the end that a receiver be appointed.

Rev., s. 1811; Code, s. 1610; R. C., c. 54, s. 19; 1846, c. 43; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 47.

Section merely referred to in Rogers v. Odom, 86-432.

2199. Solicitor to prosecute bond of guardian removed without a successor. Whenever any guardian is removed, and no person is appointed to succeed in the guardianship, the clerk of the superior court shall certify the name of such guardian and his sureties to the solicitor of the judicial district, who shall forthwith institute an action on the bond of the guardian in the superior court, for securing the estate of the ward.

Rev., s. 1812; Code, s. 1584; R. C., c. 54, s. 14; 1844, c. 41; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 21.

Action under section is properly action brought by solicitor for benefit of ward when guardian has been removed, and infant is not necessary party, perhaps not proper party, to it: Temple v. Williams, 91-89; Becton v. Becton, 56-419—therefore infant not bound as party to action by record, and it is not conclusive upon him when afterwards, suing by next friend, or suing after he comes of age, to call former guardian to account: Temple v. Williams, 91-89; Becton v. Becton, 56-423.

2200. Judge to appoint receiver; his rights and duties. The judge of the superior court, either residing in or presiding over the courts of the district, before whom such action is brought, shall have power to appoint the clerk of the superior court or some discreet person as a receiver to take possession of the ward's estate, to collect all moneys due to him, to secure, lend, invest or apply the same for the benefit and advantage of the ward, under the direction and subject to such rules and orders in every respect as the said judge may from time to time make in regard thereto; and the accounts of such receiver shall be returned, audited and settled as the judge may direct. The receiver shall be allowed such amounts for his time, trouble and responsibility as seem to the judge reasonable and proper; and such receivership may be continued until a suitable person can be procured to take the guardianship.

Rev., s. 1813; Code, s. 1585; R. C., c. 54, s. 15; 1844, c. 41, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 22.

When clerk superior court is appointed receiver he is liable officially for funds coming into his hands: Hannah v. Hyatt, 170-634. But he is not so liable when he makes payments under order of court: Ibid.

Appointment of receiver for insane person's estate should be made only on motion of solicitor after wife and one or more adult children, if there are such, or some near relative or friend, have been brought before judge at chambers or in term: In re Hybart, 119-359.

Where in order of court appointing A. B., clerk superior court, receiver of infant's estate, word "as" was omitted before words "clerk superior court," the intention of court to appoint clerk receiver in his official capacity was sufficiently indicated: Waters v. Melson, 112-89. Under section, court has authority to appoint clerk of superior court receiver of infant's estate: Ibid.—and sureties on official bond liable for any breach of his duties as such receiver, Ibid.; Boothe v. Upchurch, 110-62; Syme v. Bunting, 91-48; Rogers v. Odom, 86-432.

Burden upon receiver and his sureties to show that he used due diligence in investing money in his hands: Waters v. Melson, 112-89. As a general rule receiver is responsible for his own neglect only, and is protected when he acts in entire good faith: Collins v. Gooch, 97-186—but when receiver appointed to take charge of infant's estate who has no guardian and is directed to lend out money and pay income over to ward, he will be held to same accountability as guardian, Ibid. Receiver may keep money in bank as safe place of deposit, or may use bank as means of transmitting money to distant places, and if he uses reasonable diligence, will not be held liable if bank fails: Ibid.—but this does not authorize loan to bank by such trustee without taking security, Ibid. Where receiver was appointed to take charge of infant's estate and invest same, and report to court annually, and deposited portion of money in bank in another state, which afterwards failed, he is liable for loss if he failed to report to court manner of the investment of estate, though he acted in the best faith: Ibid. Receiver appointed to take charge of ward's estate when guardian removed is not invested with powers of guardian, but acts under control of court until another guardian appointed: Temple v. Williams, 91-82—and a settlement with such receiver, even though under direction of court, is not conclusive against ward, but only raises presumption that account and settlement correct: Ibid.

For procedure where receiver alleged to have committed breach of trust, see Atkinson v. Smith, 89-72.

Section merely referred to in Timberlake v. Green, 84-660; Harris v. Harrison, 75-433.

2201. Receiver to pay over estate to infant or guardian. When another guardian is appointed, he may apply by motion, on notice, to the judge of the superior court for an order upon the receiver to pay over all the money, estate and effects of the ward; and if no such guardian is appointed, then the ward, on coming of age, or in case of his death, his executor, administrator or collector, and the heir or personal representative of the idiot, lunatic or insane person, shall have the like remedy against the receiver.

Rev., s. 1814; Code, s. 1587; R. C., c. 54, s. 17; 1844, c. 41, s. 4; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 24.

Settlement with receiver, even if had under direction of court, not conclusive against ward: Temple v. Williams, 91-82—but only raises presumption that account and settlement correct, Ibid.

Section merely referred to in Timberlake v. Green, 84-660.

2202. Duties and compensation of solicitor. The solicitor shall prosecute the action and take all necessary orders therein, and for his services shall be allowed such reasonable compensation as may be just, not to exceed ten dollars; in passing on the returns of receivers, where the estate of the infant does not exceed five hundred dollars, not to exceed five dollars; and where the estate exceeds five hundred dollars, not to exceed ten dollars. The amount in each case to be fixed by the judge.

Rev., s. 1815; Code, s. 1586; 1895, c. 14; R. C., c. 54, s. 16; 1844, c. 41, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 23.

Section merely referred to in Timberlake v. Green, 84-660.

ART. 1. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS

2203. Remedy without delay for restraint of liberty. Every person restrained of his liberty is entitled to a remedy to inquire into the lawfulness thereof, and to remove the same, if unlawful; and such remedy ought not to be denied or delayed.

Rev., s. 1819; Const., Art. I, s. 18.

2204. Habeas corpus not to be suspended. The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended.

Rev., s. 1820; Const., Art. I, s. 21.

ART. 2. APPLICATION

2205. Who may prosecute writ. Every person imprisoned or restrained of his liberty within this state, for any criminal or supposed criminal matter, or on any pretense whatsoever, except in cases specified in the succeeding section, may prosecute a writ of habeas corpus, according to the provisions of this chapter, to inquire into the cause of such imprisonment or restraint, and, if illegal, to be delivered therefrom.

Rev., s. 1821; Code, s. 1623; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 1.

Habeas corpus is not a substitute for an appeal: State v. Burnette, 173-734; State v. Webb, 155-426; In re Holley, 154-163; Ex parte McCown, 139-95. The only inquiry is as to the power of the court to make the order under which the petitioner is held: Ibid.

Where defendant, charged with burglary with intent to commit murder, pleaded guilty of larceny and was sentenced to imprisonment in penitentiary, he is entitled to writ of habeas corpus that he may be taken from penitentiary and held to answer charge in court below: State v. Queen, 91-659.

Person illegally detained in hospital for the dangerous insane cannot be released on habeas corpus if he is insane at time of return of writ: In re Boyett, 136-415.

The filing of a true bill for murder does not deprive court of power to issue habeas corpus and to admit defendant to bail: State v. Herndon, 107-934.

2206. When application denied. Application to prosecute the writ shall be denied in the following cases:

1. Where the persons are committed or detained by virtue of process issued by a court of the United States, or a judge thereof, in cases where such courts or judges have exclusive jurisdiction under the laws of the United States, or have acquired exclusive jurisdiction by the commencement of suits in such courts.

2. Where persons are committed or detained by virtue of the final order, judgment or decree of a competent tribunal of civil or criminal jurisdiction, or by virtue of an execution issued upon such final order, judgment or decree.

3. Where any person has willfully neglected, for the space of two whole terms after his imprisonment, to apply for the writ to the superior court of the county in which he may be imprisoned, such person shall not have a habeas corpus in vacation time for his enlargement.

4. Where no probable ground for relief is shown in the application.

Rev., s. 1822; Code, s. 1624; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 2.

Writ of habeas corpus will not be issued when it appears on face of petition that petitioner is detained by virtue of final judgment of court of competent jurisdiction: In re Croom, 175-455; State v. Dunn, 159-470; Howie v. Spittle, 156-180; In re Holley, 154-163; In re Brittain, 93-587—as power is denied to courts in such cases, Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527; In re Schenck, 74-607—and application must be refused even where it appears that applicant imprisoned in state's prison and sentence of court erroneous, In re Schenck, 74-607; but see State v. Queen, 91-659.

2207. By whom application is made. Application for the writ may be made either by the party for whose relief it is intended or by any person in his behalf.

Rev., s. 1823; Code, s. 1625; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 3.

2208. To judge of supreme or superior court; in writing. Application for the writ shall be made in writing, signed by the applicant—

1. To any one of the justices of the supreme court.

2. To any one of the superior court judges, either at term time or in vacation.

Rev., s. 1824; Code, s. 1626; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 4.

Presenting petition to judge for writ of habeas corpus gives him jurisdiction of subject: State v. Edney, 60-463. Section merely referred to in State v. Herndon, 107-938; In re Schenck, 74-608.

2209. Contents of application. The application must state, in substance, as follows:

1. That the party, in whose behalf the writ is applied for, is imprisoned or restrained of his liberty, the place where, and the officer or person by whom he is imprisoned or restrained, naming both parties, if their names are known, or describing them if they are not known.

2. The cause or pretense of such imprisonment or restraint, according to the knowledge or belief of the applicant.

3. If the imprisonment is by virtue of any warrant or other process, a copy thereof shall be annexed, or it shall be made to appear that a copy thereof has been demanded and refused, or that for some sufficient reason a demand for such copy could not be made.

4. If the imprisonment or restraint is alleged to be illegal, the application must state in what the alleged illegality consists; and that the legality of the imprisonment or restraint has not been already adjudged, upon a prior writ of habeas corpus, to the knowledge or belief of the applicant.

5. The facts set forth in the application must be verified by the oath of the applicant, or by that of some other credible witness, which oath may be administered by any person authorized by law to take affidavits.

Rev., s. 1825; Code, s. 1627; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 5.

Parties may waive all errors in proceedings on petition for habeas corpus: State v. Edney, 60-463. What may constitute waiver of errors: Ibid.

Petition must allege that the imprisonment has not been already adjudged upon prior writ of habeas corpus: In re Brittain, 93-587.

Where defendant was not originally liable for arrest and had been discharged upon habeas corpus, he cannot be held upon a surrender by his sureties: Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527.

2210. Issuance of writ without application. When the supreme or superior court, or any judge of either, has evidence from any judicial proceeding before such court or judge that any person within this state is illegally imprisoned or restrained of his liberty, it is the duty of said court or judge to issue a writ of habeas corpus for his relief, although no application be made for such writ.

Rev., s. 1826; Code, s. 1632; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 10.

Section merely referred to in State v. Jones, 113-672; State v. Applewhite, 75-232; In re Schenck, 74-610.

ART. 3. WRIT

2211. Writ granted without delay. Any court or judge empowered to grant the writ, to whom such applications may be presented, shall grant the writ without delay, unless it appear from the application itself or from the documents annexed that the person applying or for whose benefit it is intended is, by this chapter, prohibited from prosecuting the writ.

Rev., s. 1827; Code, s. 1628; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 6.

Duty of judge to whom application for writ of habeas corpus made, to issue same if petition made in conformity to statute: In re Patterson, 99-407—and if it has been obtained upon false statements, or by suppression of facts which would prevent its issue, will be dismissed upon hearing, Ibid. Presumption of innocence applies only on a trial, and does not avail to furnish presumption that detention of party on regular process, when committing officer has jurisdiction, is alleged: State v. Jones, 113-669.

For review of decision, see annotations under section 2234.

Rev., s. 1828; Code, s. 1631; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 9.

2213. Sufficiency of writ; defects of form immaterial. No writ of habeas corpus shall be disobeyed on account of any defect of form. It shall be sufficient—

1. If the person having the custody of the party imprisoned or restrained be designated either by his name of office, if he have any, or by his own name, or, if both such names be unknown or uncertain, he may be described by an assumed appellation, and any one who may be served with the writ shall be deemed the person to whom it is directed, although it may be directed to him by a wrong name, or description, or to another person.

2. If the person who is directed to be produced be designated by name, or if his name be uncertain or unknown, he may be described by an assumed appellation or in any other way, so as to designate the person intended.

Rev., s. 1829; Code, ss. 1629, 1630; 1868-9, c. 116, ss. 7, 8.

2214. Service of writ. The writ of habeas corpus may be served by any qualified elector of this state thereto authorized by the court or judge allowing the same. It may be served by delivering the writ, or a copy thereof, to the person to whom it is directed; or, if such person cannot be found, by leaving it, or a copy, at the jail, or other place in which the party for whose relief it is intended is confined, with some under officer or other person of proper age; or, if none such can be found, or if the person attempting to serve the writ be refused admittance, by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place on the outside, either of the dwelling-house of the party to whom the writ is directed or of the place where the party is confined for whose relief it is sued out.

Rev., s. 1833; Code, s. 1657; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 32.

See Ex parte Kerr, 64-816.

ART. 4. RETURN

2215. When writ returnable. Writs of habeas corpus may be made returnable at a certain time, or forthwith, as the case may require. If the writ be returnable at a certain time, such return shall be made and the party shall be produced at the time and place specified therein.

Rev., s. 1830; Code, s. 1656; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 31.

2216. Contents of return; verification. The person or officer on whom the writ is served must make a return thereto in writing, and, except where such person is a sworn public officer and makes his return in his official capacity, it must be verified by his oath. The return must state plainly and unequivocally—

1. Whether he has or has not the party in his custody or under his power or restraint.

2. If he has the party in his custody or power, or under his restraint, the authority and the cause of such imprisonment or restraint, setting forth the same at large.

3. If the party is detained by virtue of any writ, warrant, or other written authority, a copy thereof shall be annexed to the return; and the original shall be produced and exhibited on the return of the writ to the court or judge before whom the same is returnable.

4. If the person or officer upon whom such writ is served has had the party in his power or custody, or under his restraint, at any time prior or subsequent to the date of the writ, but has transferred such custody or restraint to another, the return shall state particularly to whom, at what time, for what cause and by what authority such transfer took place.

Rev., s. 1831; Code, s. 1633; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 11.

2217. Production of body if required. If the writ requires it, the officer or person on whom the same has been served shall also produce the body of the party in his custody or power, according to the command of the writ, except in the case of the sickness of such party, as hereinafter provided.

Rev., s. 1832; Code, s. 1636; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 14.

ART. 5. ENFORCEMENT OF WRIT

2218. Attachment for failure to obey. If the person or officer on whom any writ of habeas corpus has been duly served refuses or neglects to obey the same, by producing the body of the party named or described therein, and by making a full and explicit return thereto, within the time required, and no sufficient excuse is shown for such refusal or neglect, it is the duty of the court or judge before whom the writ has been made returnable, upon due proof of the service thereof, forthwith to issue an attachment against such person or officer, directed to the sheriff of any county within this state, and commanding him forthwith to apprehend such person or officer and bring him immediately before such court or judge. On being so brought such person or officer shall be committed to close custody in the jail of the county where such court or judge may be, without being allowed the liberties thereof, until such person or officer make return to such writ and comply with any order that may be made by such court or judge in relation to the party for whose relief the writ has been issued.

Rev., s. 1834; Code, s. 1637; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 15.

Where officer of troops, acting under authority of governor, the commander in chief, refuses to obey the writ of habeas corpus there is "sufficient excuse" under section: Ex parte Moore, 64-809. As bearing upon section, see Ex parte Moore, 65-349.

2219. Liability of judge refusing attachment. If any judge willfully refuses to grant the writ of attachment, as provided for in the preceding section, he shall be liable to impeachment, and moreover shall forfeit to the party aggrieved twenty-five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1835; Code, s. 1638; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 2.

2220. Attachment against sheriff to be directed to coroner; procedure. If a sheriff has neglected to return the writ agreeably to the command thereof, the attachment against him may be directed to the coroner or to any other person to be designated therein, who shall have power to execute the same, and such sheriff, upon being brought up, may be committed to the jail of any county other than his own.

Rev., s. 1836; Code, s. 1639; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 16.

2221. Precept to bring up party detained. The court or judge by whom any such attachment may be issued may also at the same time, or afterwards, direct a precept to any sheriff, coroner, or other person to be designated therein, commanding him to bring forthwith before such court or judge the party, wherever to be found, for whose benefit the writ of habeas corpus has been granted.

Rev., s. 1837; Code, s. 1640; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 17.

See Ex parte Moore, 64-810.

2222. Liability of judge refusing precept. If any judge refuses to grant the precept provided for in the preceding section, he shall be liable to impeachment, and moreover shall forfeit to the party aggrieved twenty-five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1838; Code, s. 1641; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 3.

2223. Liability of judge conniving at insufficient return. If any judge grants the attachment, or the precept, and gives the officer or other person charged with the execution of the same verbal or written instructions not to execute the same, or to make any evasive or insufficient return, or any return other than that provided by law; or shall connive at the failing to make any return or any evasive or insufficient return, or any return other than that provided by law, he shall be liable to impeachment, and moreover shall forfeit to the party aggrieved twenty-five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1839; Code, s. 1642; 1870-1, c. 221, s. 4.

2224. Power of county to aid service. In the execution of any such attachment, precept or writ, the sheriff, coroner, or other person to whom it may be directed, may call to his aid the power of the county, as in other cases.

Rev., s. 1840; Code, s. 1643; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 18.

"Power of county" means men of county in which writ is to be executed: Ex parte Moore, 64-811. As to posse comitatus generally, see Worth v. Comrs., 118-122.

2225. Obedience to order of discharge compelled. Obedience to a judgment or order for the discharge of a prisoner or person restrained of his liberty, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, may be enforced by the court or judge by attachment in the same manner and with the same effect as for a neglect to make return to a writ of habeas corpus; and the person found guilty of such disobedience shall forfeit to the party aggrieved two thousand five hundred dollars, besides any special damages which such party may have sustained.

Rev., s. 1841; Code, s. 1649; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 24.

2226. No civil liability for obedience. No officer or other person shall be liable to any civil action for obeying a judgment or order of discharge upon writ of habeas corpus.

Rev., s. 1842; Code, s. 1650; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 25.

2227. Recommittal after discharge; penalty. If any person shall knowingly again imprison or detain one who has been set at large upon any writ of habeas corpus, for the same cause, other than by the legal process or order of the court wherein he is bound by recognizance to appear, or of any other court having jurisdiction in the case, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3581; Code, s. 1651; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 26.

A party released on writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the court committing him has no jurisdiction, may be again arrested for the same cause upon legal process from a court having jurisdiction: Barbee v. Weatherspoon, 88-19.

2228. Disobedience to writ or refusing copy of process; penalty. If any person to whom a writ of habeas corpus is directed shall neglect or refuse to make due return thereto, or to bring the body of the party detained according to the command of the writ without delay, or shall not, within six hours after demand made therefor, deliver a copy of the commitment or cause of detainer, such person shall, upon conviction on indictment, be fined one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding twelve months, and if such person be an officer, shall moreover be removed from office.

Rev., s. 3597; Code, s. 1652; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 27.

2229. Penalty for false return. If any person shall make a false return to a writ of habeas corpus, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3582; Code, s. 1653; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 28.

2230. Penalty for concealing party entitled to writ. If any one having in his custody, or under his power, any party who, by law, would be entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, or for whose relief such writ shall have been issued, shall, with intent to elude the service of such writ, or to avoid the effect thereof, transfer the party to the custody, or put him under the power or control, of another, or shall conceal or change the place of his confinement, or shall knowingly aid or abet another in so doing, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3583; Code, ss. 1654, 1655; 1868-9, c. 116, ss. 29, 30.

ART. 6. PROCEEDINGS AND JUDGMENT

2231. Notice to interested parties. When it appears from the return to the writ that the party named therein is in custody on any process, or by reason of any claim of right, under which any other person has an interest in continuing his imprisonment or restraint, no order shall be made for his discharge until it appears that the person so interested, or his attorney, if he have one, has had reasonable notice of the time and place at which such writ is returnable.

2232. Notice to solicitor. When it appears from the return that such party is detained upon any criminal accusation, the court or judge may, if he thinks proper, make no order for the discharge of such party until sufficient notice of the time and place at which the writ has been returned, or is made returnable, is given to the solicitor of the county in which the person prosecuting the writ is detained.

Rev., s. 1844; Code, s. 1635; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 13.

Where it appears from return on writ of habeas corpus that petitioner detained on criminal charge, court may continue hearing for reasonable time to give solicitor opportunity to examine into case: State v. Jones, 113-669.

2233. Subpœnas to witnesses. Any party to a proceeding on a writ of habeas corpus may procure the attendance of witnesses at the hearing, by subpœna, to be issued by the clerk of any superior court, under the same rules, regulations and penalties prescribed by law in other cases.

Rev., s. 1845; Code, s. 1659; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 34.

2234. Proceedings on return; facts examined; summary hearing of issues. The court or judge before whom the party is brought on a writ of habeas corpus shall, immediately after the return thereof, examine into the facts contained in such return, and into the cause of the confinement or restraint of such party, whether the same has been upon commitment for any criminal or supposed criminal matter or not; and if issue be taken upon the material facts in the return, or other facts are alleged to show that the imprisonment or detention is illegal, or that the party imprisoned is entitled to his discharge, the court or judge shall proceed, in a summary way, to hear the allegations and proofs on both sides, and to do what to justice appertains in delivering, bailing or remanding such party.

Rev., s. 1846; Code, s. 1644; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 19.

Petition will be dismissed where writ was obtained upon false statements, or by suppression of facts which would prevent its issue: In re Patterson, 99-407.

No appeal lies from decision of the judge, but the case may be reviewed by certiorari: In re Croom, 175-455; In re Wiggins, 165-457; In re Holley, 154-163; Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527; State v. Herndon, 107-934; Walton v. Gatlin, 60-318.

If, upon certiorari, supreme court reverses and sets aside judgment of court below and proceedings are remanded, no procedendo issues to any particular judge, but petitioner can exercise his statutory right to apply, de novo, to any judge authorized to grant the writ: State v. Herndon, 107-934.

Presumption of innocence applies only on a trial, and does not avail to furnish presumption that detention of party on regular process, when committing officer has jurisdiction, is illegal: State v. Jones, 113-669—therefore burden rests on petitioner to show commitment illegal, Ibid.

2235. When party discharged. If no legal cause is shown for such imprisonment or restraint, or for the continuance thereof, the court or judge shall discharge the party from the custody or restraint under which he is held. But if it appears on the return to the writ that the party is in custody by virtue of civil process from any court legally constituted, or issued by any officer in the course of judicial proceedings before him, authorized by law, such party can be discharged only in one of the following cases:

1. Where the jurisdiction of such court or officer has been exceeded, either as to matter, place, sum or person.
2. Where, though the original imprisonment was lawful, yet by some act, omission or event, which has taken place afterwards, the party has become entitled to be discharged.
3. Where the process is defective in some matter of substance required by law, rendering such process void.
4. Where the process, though in proper form, has been issued in a case not allowed by law.
5. Where the person, having the custody of the party under such process, is not the person empowered by law to detain him.
6. Where the process is not authorized by any judgment, order or decree of any court, nor by any provision of law.

Rev., s. 1847; Code, s. 1645; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 20.

Where it appears from sheriff's return to habeas corpus that petitioner is in custody on mittimus regularly issued for failure to give bond to answer criminal charge of which court had jurisdiction, detention clearly legal: State v. Jones, 113-669—and burden on petitioners to show wherein it was illegal, not upon state to show that they were lawfully in custody, Ibid.

Where defendant was sentenced to imprisonment in two cases, the sentences are concurrent unless otherwise specified, and upon the expiration of the time he may be discharged upon habeas corpus: In re Black, 162-457; State v. Cathey, 170-794.

The state cannot appeal from an order discharging a prisoner in habeas corpus: In re Williams, 149-436.

Section referred to in Ashby v. Page, 108-6.

2236. When party remanded. It is the duty of the court or judge forthwith to remand the party, if it appears that he is detained in custody, either—

1. By virtue of process issued by any court or judge of the United States, in a case where such court or judge has exclusive jurisdiction.
2. By virtue of the final judgment or decree of any competent court of civil or criminal jurisdiction, or of any execution issued upon such judgment or decree.
3. For any contempt specially and plainly charged in the commitment by some court, officer or body having authority to commit for the contempt so charged.
4. That the time during which such party may be legally detained has not expired.

Rev., s. 1848; Code, s. 1646; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 21.

Party is remanded when it appears that he is held under the process or judgment of a competent court: In re Hinson, 156-250; In re Holley, 154-163. Provision of subsection 3 as peremptory as that of subsection 2: State v. Queen, 91-662. Section merely referred to in Ashby v. Page, 108-8. See section 2206.

2237. When party bailed or remanded. If it appears that the party has been legally committed for any criminal offense, or if it appears by the testimony offered with the return of the writ, or upon the hearing thereof, that the party is guilty of such an offense, although the commitment is irregular, the court or judge shall proceed to let such party to bail, if the case is bailable and good bail is offered; if not, the court or judge shall forthwith remand such party to the custody or place him under the restraint from which he was taken, if the person or officer, under whose custody or restraint he was, is legally entitled thereto; if not so entitled, the court or judge shall commit such party to the custody of the officer or person legally entitled thereto.

The prisoner may be held to bail to appear before proper court for hearing: State v. Burnette, 173-734; State v. Herndon, 107-934. See annotations under sections 2234, 2235.

Rev., s. 1850; Code, s. 937; R. C., c. 31, s. 111; 2 Hen. V., c. 2.

See Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527; State v. Herndon, 107-934.

2239. When party ill, cause determined in his absence. When, from the illness or infirmity of the person directed to be produced by a writ of habeas corpus, such person cannot, without danger, be brought before the court or judge where the writ is made returnable, the party in whose custody he is may state the fact in his return to the writ; and if the court or judge is satisfied of the truth of the allegation, and the return is otherwise sufficient, the court or judge shall proceed to decide on such return and to dispose of the matter in the same manner as if the body had been produced.

2240. No second committal after discharged; penalty. No person who has been set at large upon any writ of habeas corpus shall be again imprisoned or detained for the same cause by any person whatsoever other than by the legal order or process of the court wherein he shall be bound by recognizance to appear or of any other court having jurisdiction in the case, under the penalty of two thousand five hundred dollars to the party aggrieved thereby.

Rev., s. 1852; Code, s. 1651; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 26.

Where defendant was not originally liable to arrest, and had been discharged upon habeas corpus, he cannot be held upon surrender by his sureties: Ledford v. Emerson, 143-527. Party set at large by writ of habeas corpus upon ground that judgment of imprisonment void for want of jurisdiction in court, may be again arrested for same cause upon legal process of court having jurisdiction: Barbee v. Weatherspoon, 88-19.

ART. 7. HABEAS CORPUS FOR CUSTODY OF CHILDREN IN CERTAIN CASES

2241. Custody as between parents in certain cases; modification of order. When a contest shall arise on a writ of habeas corpus between any husband and wife, who are living in a state of separation, without being divorced, in respect to the custody of their children, the court or judge, on the return of such writ, may award the charge or custody of the child or children so brought before it either to the husband or to the wife, for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions as will, in the opinion of such court or judge, best promote the interest and welfare of the children. At any time after the making of such orders the court or judge may, on good cause shown, annul, vary or modify the same.

Rev., s. 1853; Code, s. 1661; 1858-9, c. 53; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 36.

For consequence of divorce on right to custody of children, see Divorce and Alimony, s. 1664.

For effect of abandonment, see Adoption of Minors, s. 189.

Except as between parents, under this section right of custody of child cannot be determined by writ of habeas corpus: In re Parker, 144-170.

Where the custody of the child is decreed in a divorce proceeding, the remedy is by motion in the cause and not by habeas corpus: Page v. Page, 166-90; s. c., 161-170. But a decree of divorce in another state awarding the custody of a child may be disregarded, and custody awarded under this section: In re Alderman, 157-507; Harris v. Harris, 115-587.

Parents of child, while living together, have prima facie right to custody: In re Jones, 153-312. Mother of illegitimate child has first right to custody: Ibid.

As between father and mother, the father's right to custody of child is recognized: In re Fain, 172-790; In re Jones, 153-312; Newsome v. Bunch, 144-15. But the welfare of the child is first consideration: In re Alderman, 157-507, and cases cited—and the judge may, in the exercise of discretion, award the custody to the mother, even when nonresident, In re Means, 176-307; Harris v. Harris, 115-587—or to a third person, In re Turner, 151-474.

Where it appears that both father and mother are of good character and able to support and educate child, but that mother had married again and that new husband was a man of dissipated habits, proper to award custody of child to father: In re D'Anna, 117-462.

Section confers upon court very large powers to "promote interest and welfare of children": Jones v. Cotten, 108-458. Section is express that custody shall be given either to father or mother: Thompson v. Thompson, 72-33. Where no abandonment of child proven, court must still find facts entitling plaintiff to child's restoration: Newsome v. Bunch, 142-19. Section referred to in Latham v. Ellis, 116-33; Musgrove v. Kornegay, 52-72.

2242. Appeal to supreme court. In all cases of habeas corpus, where a contest arises in respect to the custody of minor children, either party may appeal to the supreme court from the final judgment.

Rev., s. 1854; Code, s. 1662; 1858-9, c. 53, s. 2.

In habeas corpus cases involving custody of children, either party may appeal: Musgrove v. Kornegay, 52-71; State v. Miller, 97-451. The supreme court will review errors of law, but not findings of fact by the lower court upon competent evidence: Stokes v. Cogdell, 153-181; Harris v. Harris, 115-587.

Section referred to in Jones v. Cotten, 108-457; Brown v. Rainor, 108-204.

ART. 8. HABEAS CORPUS AD TESTIFICANDUM

2243. Authority to issue the writ. Every court of record has power, upon the application of any party to any suit or proceeding, civil or criminal, pending in such court, to issue a writ of habeas corpus, for the purpose of bringing before the said court any prisoner who may be detained in any jail or prison within the state, for any cause, except a prisoner under sentence for a capital felony, to be examined as a witness in such suit or proceeding in behalf of the party making the application.

Such writ of habeas corpus may be issued by any justice of the peace or clerk of the superior court, upon application as provided in this section, to bring any person confined in the jail or prison of the same county where such justice or clerk may reside, to be examined as a witness before such justice or clerk.

In cases where the testimony of any prisoner is needed in a proceeding before a justice of the peace, or a clerk, and such person is confined in a county in which such justice or clerk does not reside, application for habeas corpus to testify may be made to any judge of the supreme or superior court.

Rev., ss. 1855, 1856; Code, ss. 1663, 1664; 1868-9, c. 116, ss. 37, 38.

Section applies only to parties strictly so called, and not to state: State v. Jones, 176-702; Ex parte Harris, 73-65; State v. Adair, 68-68—therefore it is error in court below to refuse petition of solicitor for habeas corpus ad testificandum to bring prisoner under death sentence, that he might testify in trial then pending, Ex parte Harris, 73-65; State v. Adair, 68-68. Parties litigant have no right to writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum under section for witness under sentence for (capital) felony: State v. Adair, 68-70.

2244. Contents of application. The application for the writ shall be made by the party to the suit or proceeding in which the writ is required, or by his agent or attorney. It must be verified by the applicant, and shall state—

1. The title and nature of the suit or proceeding in regard to which the testimony of such prisoner is desired.

2. That the testimony of such prisoner is material and necessary to such party on the trial or hearing of such suit or proceeding, as he is advised by counsel and verily believes.

Rev., s. 1857; Code, s. 1665; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 39.

2245. Service of writ. The writ of habeas corpus to testify shall be served by the same person, and in like manner in all respects, and enforced by the court or officer issuing the same as prescribed in this chapter for the service and enforcement of the writ of habeas corpus cum causa.

Rev., s. 1858; Code, s. 1666; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 40.

2246. Applicant to pay expenses and give bond to return. The service of the writ shall not be complete, however, unless the applicant for the same tenders to the person in whose custody the prisoner may be, if such person is a sheriff, coroner, constable or marshal, the fees and expenses allowed by law for bringing such prisoner, nor unless he also gives bond, with sufficient security, to such sheriff, coroner, constable or marshal, as the case may be, conditioned that such applicant will pay the charges of carrying back such prisoner.

Rev., s. 1859; Code, s. 1667; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 41.

2247. Duty of officer to whom writ delivered or on whom served. It is the duty of the officer to whom the writ is delivered or upon whom it is served, whether such writ is directed to him or not, upon payment or tender of the charges allowed by law, and the delivery or tender of the bond herein prescribed, to obey and return such writ according to the exigency thereof upon pain, on refusal or neglect, to forfeit to the party on whose application the same has been issued the sum of five hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1860; Code, s. 1668; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 42.

2248. Prisoner to be remanded. After having testified, the prisoner shall be remanded to the prison from which he was taken.

Rev., s. 1861; Code, s. 1669; 1868-9, c. 116, s. 43.

For costs of habeas corpus, see Costs, s. 1244.

ART. 1. INNKEEPERS

2249. Must furnish accommodations. Every innkeeper shall at all times provide suitable food, rooms, beds and bedding for strangers and travelers whom he may accept as guests in his inn or hotel.

Rev., s. 1909; 1903, c. 563.

An inn or hotel is a public house of entertainment for all who choose to visit it: Holstein v. Phillips, 146-366.

A guest's right of occupancy of an inn is dependent upon proper behavior, decent conduct and obedience to reasonable rules and regulations: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457—and if wrongly evicted, can only sue for damages, Ibid.

As to right of innkeeper to expel from inn persons who are not guests, see State v. Steele, 106-766. As to right to put out persons, or refuse lodging to persons, who apply to become guests who are considered objectionable on account of character or color, see Ibid. As to rights of hotel to arrange for a livery business connected therewith or to grant a monopoly of soliciting the livery business to a party, see Ibid.

One who occasionally entertains strangers, receiving compensation therefor, is not an innkeeper: State v. Mathews, 19-424.

Boarding-house distinguished from an inn: State v. McRae, 170-712.

2250. Liability for loss of baggage. Innkeepers shall not be liable for loss, damage or destruction of the baggage or property of their guests except in case such loss, damage, or destruction results from the failure of the innkeeper to exercise ordinary, proper and reasonable care in the custody of such baggage and property; and in case of such loss, damage or destruction resulting from the negligence and want of care of the said innkeeper he shall be liable to the owner of the said baggage and property to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars. Any guest may, however, at any time before a loss, damage or destruction of his property, notify the innkeeper in writing that his property exceeds in value the said sum of one hundred dollars, and shall upon demand of the innkeeper furnish him a list or schedule of the same, with the value thereof, in which case the innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of said property because of any negligence on his part for the full value of the same. Proof of the loss of any such baggage, except in case of damage or destruction by fire, shall be prima facie evidence of the negligence of said hotel or innkeeper.

Rev., s. 1910; 1903, c. 563, s. 2.

A boarder, as distinguished from a guest, is one who abides at a place: Holstein v. Phillips, 146-366. Facts in this case held to show that there was a relation of innkeeper and guest between parties, and hotel was liable as insurer for loss of money of guest as at common law, hotel having failed to comply with provisions of section 2254: Ibid. Common-law liability of innkeeper for loss of goods of a guest, also liability of boarding-house keeper for loss of goods of a boarder, stated: Ibid. A guest in hotel who holds position of regular boarder or lodger can only hold proprietor to the exercise of ordinary care on the part of himself and employees as to goods and money of guests: Ibid.

Innkeeper is bound to use reasonable care for the personal safety of his guests: Patrick v. Springs, 154-270.

2251. Safekeeping of valuables. It is the duty of innkeepers, upon the request of any guest, to receive from said guest and safely keep money, jewelry and valuables to an amount not exceeding five hundred dollars; and no innkeeper shall be required to receive and take care of any money, jewelry or other valuables to a greater amount than five hundred dollars: Provided, the receipt given by said innkeeper to said guest shall have plainly printed upon it a copy of this section. No innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of any money or jewels not so deposited.

Rev., s. 1911; 1903, c. 563, s. 3.

See annotations under section 2250.

2252. Loss by fire. No innkeeper shall be liable for loss, damage or destruction of any baggage or property caused by fire not resulting from the negligence of the innkeeper or by any other force over which the innkeeper had no control. Nothing herein contained shall enlarge the limit of the amount to which the innkeeper shall be liable as provided in preceding sections.

Rev., s. 1912; 1903, c. 563, s. 4.

Liability for personal injury of guest: Patrick v. Springs, 154-270.

2253. Negligence of guest. Any innkeeper against whom claim is made for loss sustained by a guest may show that such loss resulted from the negligence of such guest or of his failure to comply with the reasonable and proper regulations of the inn.

Rev., s. 1914; 1903, c. 563, s. 7.

The guest must exercise reasonable care to protect himself against personal injury: Patrick v. Springs, 154-270.

For lien of innkeepers on baggage and other property, see section 2461.

2254. Copies of this chapter to be posted. Every innkeeper shall keep posted in every room of his house occupied by guests, and in the office, a printed copy of this article and of all regulations relating to the conduct of guests. This chapter shall not apply to innkeepers, or their guests, where the innkeeper fails to keep such notices posted.

Rev., s. 1913; 1903, c. 563, ss. 5, 6.

For lien of innkeepers on baggage and other property, see Liens, Art. 5.

Facts held to show that there was relation of innkeeper and guest between the parties, and the hotel was liable as insurer for loss of money of guest as at common law, hotel having failed to comply with this section: Holstein v. Phillips, 146-366.

ART. 2. SANITARY INSPECTION AND CONDUCT

2255. Definitions: Hotel, restaurant; transient guest. A hotel within the meaning of this article is an inn or public lodging-house of more than fifteen bedrooms where transient guests are fed or lodged for pay in this state.

The term "restaurant" as used in this article shall include lunch counters and cafés.

The term "transient guest," within the meaning of this article, shall mean one who puts up for less than one week at such hotel.

1917, c. 66, s. 1.

2256. Rates for rooms to be posted. Every transient hotel shall keep posted in a conspicuous place in the office a list of its charges for rooms, with or without meals, in accordance with the plan or plans on which the hotel is operated, giving the exact transient rate, and shall also keep posted in each room the rate for that room, with or without meals, in accordance with its plan as stated above, giving the transient rate per day and week, and the rate for each person in the room.

2257. Fire extinguishers. Every hotel shall provide each floor with one or more fire extinguishers of a type approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which shall be kept in good working order at all times, with plain instructions thereon.

2258. Stairways and fire-escapes. All hotels hereafter constructed in this state, over two stories in height and over one hundred feet in length, shall be constructed so that there shall be at least two stairs for the use of guests leading from the ground floor to the uppermost story, and for larger buildings such number as the state insurance commissioner shall designate. Every hotel in this state over two stories in height shall be provided, without delay, with permanent iron balconies with iron stairs leading from one balcony to the other, above the ground floor, and with stairway or ladder extending to the ground, in case such hotel is over one hundred and fifty feet in length, and in other cases such number as may be directed by the state insurance commissioner or agent: Provided, that where said hotels already built and only three stories in height are, in the opinion of the state insurance commissioner or agent, provided with sufficient inner stairways, so located as to furnish sufficient egress in case of fire, the aforesaid official may waive the requirement for outside iron balconies and stairs. Such balconies and iron stairs shall be constructed at the expense of the owner of said hotel: Provided, that where hotels are already built where fire-escapes are located so as to go through any room, this section shall not apply: Provided, that this article shall not apply to private residences at which lodgers are not received for hire.

2259. Directions to fire-escapes. In every hotel having fire-escapes directions for reaching the fire-escapes shall be kept posted at the entrance of stairway, elevator shaft and in each bedroom above the ground floor. From eight o'clock in the evening until six o'clock in the morning the location and direction of the fire-escapes shall be indicated with red lights.

1917, c. 66, s. 5.

2260. Inside courts to be provided with escapes. The owner or proprietor, or person in charge of every hotel now existing or hereafter constructed with an inside court or lightwell inclosed on all sides and with sleeping rooms or lodging apartments, the only windows of which open upon or into such court or lightwell, shall provide a proper escape from such inside court or lightwell through a room or rooms, or otherwise, on a level with the lowest floor to which the lightwell extends.

2261. Life-lines at bathing beaches. Every keeper or proprietor of a hotel or boarding-house, and every person having for use a bathing-house upon any beach or shore of the ocean for the accommodation of his guests or of other persons for pay, shall provide and maintain for the safety of such bathers two lines of sound, serviceable, and strong manila or hemp rope, not less than one inch in diameter, securely anchored at some point above high water, at the same distance apart as the line of bathing-houses or space fronting on such beach occupied by them is in width; and from the two points at which such life-lines are so anchored such lines shall be made to extend as far into the surf as bathing is ordinarily safe and free from danger of drowning to persons not expert in swimming; and at such points of safety such lines shall be anchored and buoyed. From the two points of lines so extended, and anchored and buoyed, a third line shall be extended, connecting the two extremities, and buoyed at such points as to be principally above the surface of the water, thereby inclosing a space within such lines and the beach within which bathing is believed to be safe. Every such keeper or proprietor or other person shall cause to be painted and put up, in some prominent place upon the beach near such bathing-houses, the following words: "Bathing beyond the lines is dangerous." Such lines so placed, anchored and buoyed, and such notices so put up shall continue and be so maintained by every such keeper, proprietor, or other person during the entire season of bathing. The owner of the bathing-house shall not be subject to the provisions of this section where it is used, occupied, or maintained by a lessee for hire; but such lessee shall be deemed the keeper or proprietor thereof.

2262. Water-closets and bath-rooms; sewer connections. In all cities, towns, or villages where a system of waterworks and sewerage is maintained for public use, every hotel therein accessible to water main and sewer main shall be equipped, within six months after February 26, 1917, with suitable water-closets for the accommodation of its guests, which water-closets shall be connected and trapped by proper plumbing with such water and sewerage systems, and there shall be some adequate means of flushing said water-closets with the water in such manner as to prevent sewer gas from arising therefrom. The water-closets and bath-rooms must be sufficiently lighted to permit the reading of ten point roman type eighteen inches from the normal eye. The wash-bowls in the main wash-room of such hotel must be connected and trapped and equipped in similar manner, both as to method and time; all such equipment to be paid for by the owner.

2263. Privies. In all towns and villages not having a system of waterworks and sewerage, every hotel not provided with waterworks and wash-rooms as in the preceding section provided shall have properly constructed privies as approved by the state board of health, the same to be kept in sanitary condition at all times.

1917, c. 66, s. 9.

2264. Cisterns and tanks to be screened. The proprietor of every hotel shall keep all cisterns, tanks and other receptacles containing standing water screened or otherwise so covered as to prevent the entrance of flies, mosquitoes, and other disease-carrying insects. The term "standing water" as used in this article shall mean water that remains for ten days or more in a cistern, tank, or other receptacle.

2265. Water not from public water supply to be analyzed. A sample of water used in every hotel and restaurant, except in cases where the water is derived from some public water supply, shall be sent by the proprietor to the state laboratory of hygiene for analysis twice each year, with a certificate that it is the water used in such hotel or restaurant, and if the sample is found by said laboratory to be unfit for the use that is made of the water in the hotel or restaurant, the further use of such water shall be discontinued until permission is granted by the state board of health to resume the use of such water.

2266. Prevention of flies; screens, etc. The proprietor or keeper of every hotel or restaurant shall keep screened the doors, windows and all openings of the kitchen and dining-room with suitable mesh-wire gauze from the first of April to the first of December. Every hotel must have all bed-room windows screened or else provide each bed with a mosquito bar for the use of its patrons for protection against flies, mosquitoes, and other insects, and it shall be the duty of the proprietor or keeper of every hotel and restaurant to use such other means, as fly paper, fly traps, etc., as may be necessary to keep their restaurant, kitchen, and dining-rooms reasonably free from flies.

2267. Bed-rooms; size and arrangement of beds. In every sleeping-room the minimum floor area shall be sixty square feet per bed, and under no circumstances shall there be provided less than five hundred cubic feet of air space per bed. There shall always be space in each room and the arrangement of each room shall be such that there may be a space of two feet between any beds in the room. All beds shall be so arranged that the air shall circulate freely under each. In no hotel shall beds or bunks in the same room or apartment be placed one above another: Provided, this section shall not apply in cases of emergency.

2268. Windows and blinds for rooms. Each room in every hotel hereafter constructed shall be well lighted, with outside window space not less than one-eighth the floor space. Each window in each hotel now existing or hereafter constructed shall be provided with either blinds having hinges and shutters or slats freely movable and in good working order, or with a movable shade which effectively excludes the light when drawn.

1917, c. 66, s. 14.

2269. Sheets and bed linen. All hotels shall hereafter provide each bed, bunk, cot, or other sleeping place for the use of guests with pillow-slips and under and top sheets of sufficient width to cover the mattress thereof, and to be at least ninety inches long. All pillow-slips and sheets after being used by one guest must be washed and ironed before being used by another guest, a clean set being furnished each succeeding guest.

1917, c. 66, s. 15.

2270. Vermin. All beds, bedclothing, mattresses, and pillows shall always be kept clean and free from vermin.

1917, c. 66, s. 16.

2271. Diseased guests; disinfection. Every room after being occupied by any one known or suspected to be suffering from tuberculosis, diphtheria, or any contagious disease must be thoroughly disinfected as prescribed by the state board of health before further occupancy; and every room after being occupied by any one known or suspected to be suffering from measles or whooping cough must be thoroughly aired for twenty-four hours before subsequent occupancy.

1917, c. 66, s. 17.

2272. Towels; roller towels forbidden. All hotels shall furnish each guest with a clean towel; and the use of the roller or other towels used in common is hereby prohibited in all hotels and restaurants.

1917, c. 66, s. 18.

2273. Refrigerators, cold storage rooms, kitchen. The refrigerator, ice boxes, and cold storage rooms of all hotels or restaurants must be kept free from foul and unpleasant odors, mold, and slime. The kitchen must be well lighted and ventilated, the floor clean, and the side walls and ceilings free from cobwebs and accumulated dirt.

1917, c. 66, s. 19.

2274. Tableware and kitchen utensils. All dishes, tableware, and kitchen utensils must be thoroughly washed and rinsed with clean water after using; food served to customers when part of same has been used must not again be served to other customers.

1917, c. 66, s. 20.

2275. Garbage. All garbage must be kept covered and protected from flies, in barrels or galvanized iron cans, and removed at least twice a week.

1917, c. 66, s. 21.

2276. Premises, walls, and fixtures. Every lodging-house and every part thereof shall at all times be kept free from filth and rubbish in or on the premises belonging to or connected with the same. All water-closets, wash-basins, baths, windows, fixtures, fittings, and painted surface shall at all times be kept clean and in good repair. The floors, walls, and ceilings of all rooms, passages, and stairways must at all times be clean and in good repair.

1917, c. 66, s. 22.

2277. Annual inspection and certificate by state board of health. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article the state board of health is authorized and required to inspect, through its officers or agents, without cost to the hotels, all hotels and restaurants in the state once a year. If upon inspection of any hotel or restaurant it shall be found that this article has been fully complied with, the secretary of the state board of health shall issue a certificate to that effect to the person operating the same, and such certificate shall be kept posted in plain view in some conspicuous place in said hotel or restaurant.

2278. Special inspections by state board authorized. No hotel or restaurant shall be inspected oftener than once a year, unless there is a change of proprietors, or unless it shall appear to the state board of health from the inspection made that additional inspections are necessary, or upon a verified complaint signed by three or more patrons, setting forth facts showing that such hotel is in an unsanitary condition or that fire-escapes and appliances are not kept and maintained in accordance with the provisions of law. Upon receipt of such complaint, the state board of health shall make, or cause to be made, an inspection or examination of the matters complained of, and if upon inspection such complaint is found to be justifiable, the actual cost of inspection shall be charged and collected from the proprietor of the hotel. In case the complaint is found to be without reasonable grounds, the actual cost for such inspection shall be chargeable against and collected from the person or persons making the complaint.

2279. Inspection reports to be filed. The official representative or agent of the state board of health shall after inspection make a report of the condition of the hotel inspected upon blanks to be provided by the state board of health, showing in detail the condition of the hotel with reference to compliance with this article, which report shall be filed in the office of the board.

1917, c. 66, s. 25.

2280. Entry for inspection authorized. The inspectors, officers, or agents of the state board of health are hereby empowered and authorized to enter any hotel at all reasonable hours to make such inspection; and it is hereby made the duty of every person in the management or control of such hotel to afford free access to every part of the hotel, and render all aid and assistance necessary to enable the inspector to make a full, thorough, and complete examination thereof; but no inspector shall violate the privacy of any guest without his or her consent.

1917, c. 66, s. 26.

2281. Inspector to notify proprietor of violation of article. It shall be the duty of the inspector, upon ascertaining, by inspection or otherwise, that any hotel is being carried on contrary to any of the provisions of this article, to notify the manager, or proprietor, in what respect it fails to comply with the law, requiring such persons within a reasonable time to do or to cause to be done the things necessary to make it comply with the law, whereupon such proprietor or manager shall forthwith comply with such requirements.

1917, c. 66, s. 27.

2282. Violation of article or obstructing enforcement a misdemeanor. Any owner or manager, agent or person in charge of a hotel, café, or restaurant, or any other person who shall willfully obstruct, hinder, or interfere with any inspector in the proper discharge of his duty, or who shall willfully fail or neglect to comply with any of the provisions of this article after notice from the inspector or any other person in authority, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and each day that he shall fail to comply shall be a separate and distinct offense.

1907, c. 66, s. 28.

2283. Inspector to swear out warrants. It shall be the duty of the inspector, in case he shall have knowledge of any violation of this article, to swear out a warrant against the person offending.

1917, c. 66, s. 29.

CHAPTER 43

INSANE PERSONS AND INCOMPETENTS

ART. 1. INEBRIATES.

2284. Inebriates defined.

ART. 2. GUARDIANSHIP AND MANAGEMENT OF ESTATES OF INCOMPETENTS.

2285. Inquisition of lunacy; appointment of guardian.

2286. Guardian appointed on certificate from hospital for insane.

2287. Restoration to sanity or sobriety; effect; how determined.

2288. Legal rights restored upon certificate of sanity by superintendent of hospital.

2289. Estates without guardian managed by clerk.

2290. Allowance to abandoned insane wife.

ART. 3. SALES OF ESTATES.

2291. Clerk may order sale or renting.

2292. Purposes for which estate sold; parties; disposition of proceeds.

2293. Sale of land of wife of lunatic upon petition.

2294. Wife of insane person entitled to special proceedings for sale of his property.

ART. 4. SURPLUS INCOME AND ADVANCEMENTS.

2295. Income of insane widowed mother used for children's support.

2296. Advancement of surplus income to next of kin.

2297. For what purpose and to whom advanced.

2298. Distributees to be parties to proceeding for advancement.

2299. Advancements to be equal; accounted for on death.

2300. Clerk may select those to advance.

2301. Advancements to be secured against waste.

2302. Appeal; removal to superior court.

2303. Advancements only when insanity permanent.

2304. Decrees suspended upon restoration of sanity.

ART. 1. INEBRIATES

2284. Inebriates defined. Any person who habitually, whether continuously or periodically, indulges in the use of intoxicating liquors, narcotics or drugs to such an extent as to stupefy his mind and to render him incompetent to transact ordinary business with safety to his estate, or who renders himself, by reason of the use of intoxicating liquors, narcotics or drugs, dangerous to person or property, or who, by the frequent use of liquor, narcotics or drugs, renders himself cruel and intolerable to his family, or fails from such cause to provide his family with reasonable necessities of life, shall be deemed an inebriate: Provided, the habit of so indulging in such use is at the time of inquisition of at least one year's standing.

Rev., s. 1892; Code, s. 1671; 1891, c. 15, s. 7; 1903, c. 543; 1879, c. 329.

For rules for admission into hospitals, see Hospitals for Insane.

See In re Anderson, 132-246.

ART. 2. GUARDIANSHIP AND MANAGEMENT OF ESTATES OF INCOMPETENTS

2285. Inquisition of lunacy; appointment of guardian. Any person, in behalf of one who is deemed an idiot, inebriate, or lunatic, or incompetent from want of understanding to manage his own affairs by reason of the excessive use of intoxicating drinks, or other cause, may file a petition before the clerk of the superior court of the county where such supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic resides, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner; whereupon such clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into the state of such supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic. Upon the return of the sheriff summoning said jury, the clerk of the superior court shall swear and organize said jury and shall preside over said hearing, and the jury shall make returns of their proceedings under their hand to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

Either the applicant or the supposed idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person may appeal from the finding of said jury to the next term of the superior court, when the matters at issue shall be regularly tried de novo before a jury, and pending such appeal, the clerk of the superior court shall not appoint a guardian for the said supposed idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person, but the resident judge of the district, or the judge presiding in the district, may in his discretion appoint a temporary receiver for the alleged incompetent pending the appeal. The trial of said appeal in the superior court shall have precedence over all other causes.

The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hands to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an idiot, inebriate, lunatic or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

Rev., s. 1890; Code, s. 1670; C. C. P., s. 473; 1919, c. 54.

See section 2155. While not required by section that idiot should be brought before clerk or jury in person, it is prudent to have such idiot personally before court, or at least to give such notice as will give information of proposed action in ample time for him to be present: In re Propst, 144-562; Dowell v. Jacks, 53-389.

Where jury finds defendant to be of unsound mind and incompetent to manage his own affairs, but not an idiot or lunatic, court should appoint guardian: In re Anderson, 132-243.

Section embraces four classes of persons for whom guardians may be appointed, namely, idiots, lunatics, inebriates and those who are incompetent from want of understanding to manage their own affairs by reason of excessive use of intoxicating liquors or other cause: In re Anderson, 132-243.

Words "idiot," "lunatic," "inebriate," "incompetent to manage affairs" interpreted: Ibid.; In re Denny, 150-423.

Appointment of guardian for lunatic valid until proceedings and orders under inquisition reversed: Sims v. Sims, 121-297. Report of jury in inquisition of lunacy need not be formally confirmed by clerk of court, section only requiring it to be filed and recorded: Sims v. Sims, 121-297.

Inquisition of lunacy not conclusive against person dealing with supposed lunatic: Parker v. Davis, 53-460—but he may show that at time of contract supposed lunatic had sufficient capacity to make same, Ibid.

Inquisition which merely states that person is "of unsound mind" does not show, even prima facie, that he is an idiot: Christmas v. Mitchell, 38-535. Ancient presumption of law that one born deaf and dumb is an idiot does not now exist: Ibid. While it is proper that inquisition should distinctly find party to be lunatic or idiot, sufficient if equivalent description be used, as that "he is of insane mind": Armstrong v. Short, 8-11. Moral debasement not necessarily and of itself insanity: Mayo v. Jones, 78-402. Insanity cannot be proven by general reputation: State v. Coley, 114-879. Feebleness of health, with occasional fits, is no evidence of insanity: Chamblee v. Broughton, 120-170. General power of court over person and property of lunatic explained: Smith v. Witter, 174-616, citing Blake v. Respass, 77-195.

Case under former enactment somewhat similar to above: Bethea v. McLennon, 23-523. Section referred to in Price v. Price, 133-510; Smith v. Smith, 106-502.

2286. Guardian appointed on certificate from hospital for insane. If any person is confined in any hospital for insane persons, in any state, territorial or governmental asylum or hospital, in this state or any other state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, the certificate of the superintendent of such hospital declaring such person to be of insane mind and memory, which certificate shall be sworn to and subscribed before the clerk of the superior court or any notary public, or the clerk of any court of record of the county in which such hospital is situated, and certified under the seal of court, shall be sufficient evidence to authorize the clerk to appoint a guardian for such idiot, lunatic or insane person.

Rev., ss. 1891, 4609; Code, s. 1673; 1860-1, c. 22; 1907, c. 232.

Section referred to in Somers v. Comrs., 123-584; In re Hybart, 119-365.

2287. Restoration to sanity or sobriety; effect; how determined. When any insane person or inebriate becomes of sound mind and memory, or becomes competent to manage his property, he is authorized to manage, sell and control all his property in as full and ample a manner as he could do before he became insane or inebriate, and a petition in behalf of such person may be filed before the clerk of the superior court of the county of his residence, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner, whereupon the clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the person alleged to be no longer insane or inebriate, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of six freeholders to inquire into the sanity of the alleged sane person, formerly a lunatic, or the sobriety of such alleged restored person, formerly an inebriate. The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hands to the clerk, who shall file and record the same, and if the jury find that the person whose mental or physical condition inquired of is sane and of sound mind and memory, or is no longer an inebriate, as the case may be, the said person is authorized to manage his affairs, make contracts and sell his property, both real and personal, as if he had never been insane or inebriate.

Rev., s. 1893; Code, s. 1672; 1901, c. 191; 1903, c. 80; 1879, c. 324, s. 4.

When insanity once shown to exist, there is presumption that it continues; open to be rebutted by testimony showing restoration of mental soundness: Beard v. R. R., 143-136. Appointment of guardian for lunatic continues until declared sane: Sims v. Sims, 121-297.

2288. Legal rights restored upon certificate of sanity by superintendent of hospital. Any person who has been declared of unsound mind and memory under the section 2286, and for whom a guardian has been appointed, may be fully restored to his rights to manage his or her property by a certificate from the superintendent of the hospital where such person of unsound mind and memory has been confined stating that such insane person has been restored to sound mind and memory. This certificate shall be sworn to and subscribed before the clerk of the superior court or notary public for the county in which the hospital wherein such person has been confined is located, and certified under the seal of said court to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein said person has his legal residence immediately before being declared of unsound mind and memory. The clerk of such resident county shall record the certificate and immediately issue a notice to the guardian of such person, requiring him to file his final account within sixty days from the date of service of the notice. From the date of docketing the record of such certificate the person formerly of unsound mind and memory shall be restored to all his legal rights.

2289. Estates without guardian managed by clerk. When any person is declared to be of nonsane mind or inebriate, and no suitable person will act as his guardian, the clerk shall secure the estate of such person according to the law relating to orphans whose guardians have been removed.

Rev., s. 1894; Code, s. 1676; R. C., c. 57, s. 6; 1846, c. 43, s. 1.

See section 2199. Under section, appointment of receiver for insane person's estate should be made only on motion of solicitor, after wife and one or more adult children, if there are such, or some near relative or friend have been brought before judge at chambers or in term: In re Hybart, 119-359.

2290. Allowance to abandoned insane wife. When any insane wife is abandoned by her husband, she may, by her guardian, or next friend, in case there be no guardian, apply to the clerk of the superior court for support and maintenance, which the clerk may decree as in cases of alimony, out of any property or estate of her husband.

Rev., s. 1895; Code, s. 1686; 1858-9, c. 52, s. 1.

Solvent insane not entitled to free admission to asylum: Hospital v. Fountain, 128-23.

ART. 3. SALES OF ESTATES

2291. Clerk may order sale or renting. When it appears to any clerk of the superior court by report of the guardian of any idiot, inebriate or lunatic, that his personal estate has been exhausted, or is insufficient for his support, and that he is likely to become chargeable on the county, the clerk may make an order for the sale or renting of his personal or real estate, or any part thereof, in such manner and upon such terms as he may deem advisable. Such order shall specify particularly the property thus to be disposed of, with the terms of renting or sale, and shall be entered at length on the records of the court; and all sales and rentings made under this section shall be valid to convey the interest and estate directed to be sold, and the title thereof shall be conveyed by such person as the clerk may appoint on confirming the sale; or the clerk may direct the guardian to file his petition for such purpose.

Rev., s. 1896; Code, s. 1674; R. C., c. 57, s. 4; 1801, c. 589.

This section applies only to the sale of vested interests: Smith v. Witter, 174-616. For sale of contingent interest the jurisdiction is in superior court at term under section 1744: Ibid. See, as to sales of ward's lands by general guardian, sections 2180, 2182.

Section merely referred to in Adams v. Thomas, 81-297; Howard v. Thompson, 30-369.

2292. Purposes for which estate sold; parties; disposition of proceeds. When it appears to the clerk, upon the petition of the guardian of any idiot, inebriate or lunatic, that a sale of any part of his real or personal estate is necessary for his maintenance, or for the discharge of debts unavoidably incurred for his maintenance, or when the clerk is satisfied that the interest of the idiot, inebriate or lunatic would be materially and essentially promoted by the sale of any part of such estate; or when any part of his real estate is required for public purposes, the clerk may order a sale thereof to be made by such person, in such way and on such terms as he shall adjudge. The clerk, if it be deemed proper, may direct to be made parties to such petition the next of kin or presumptive heirs of such nonsane person or inebriate. And if on the hearing the clerk orders such sale, the same shall be made and the proceeds applied and secured, and shall descend and be distributed in like manner as is provided for the sale of infants' estates decreed in like cases to be sold on application of their guardians, as directed in the chapter entitled Guardians.

This does not apply to sale of contingent interest; for such interests the jurisdiction is in superior court at term under section 1744: Smith v. Witter, 174-616.

See, as to sales of wards' estates generally, sections 2180, 2182.

Subject to reasonable maintenance of lunatic and his minor children, residue of his property is liable to pay his debts anterior to lunacy: Adams v. Thomas, 83-521. Property of lunatic cannot be applied to debts unless sufficient part thereof has been retained for support of wife and infant children: McLean v. Breese, 109-564; Adams v. Thomas, 81-296; Ex parte Latham, 41-408; In re Latham, 39-231.

Court of probate (now clerk superior court) has no power to provide for payment of debts of lunatic contracted prior to lunacy: Smith v. Pipkin, 79-569; Blake v. Respass, 77-193—but such jurisdiction vested in superior court, Blake v. Respass.

Superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction with clerk over lunatics and their estates: Smith v. Pipkin, 79-569.

Where land of lunatic sold on petition of guardian, proceeds are under direction of court, and no creditor can claim priority: Ex parte Latham, 41-406—no creditor can seize same under execution, teste of which subsequent to date of decree: Latham v. Wiswall, 37-294—for such decree is one substantially in rem, and subjects property to control of court, Ibid.

Jurisdiction in lunacy strictly territorial, and court in this state can neither charge land of lunatic in another state nor its proceeds in hands of heir here for his support: Allison v. Campbell, 21-152.

2293. Sale of land of wife of lunatic upon petition. Where the wife of a lunatic owns real estate in her own right the sale of which will promote her interest, a sale of the same may be made upon the order of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the land lies, upon the petition of the wife of said lunatic and the guardian of the lunatic husband, and the proceeds of said sale shall be paid to the wife of said lunatic.

Rev., s. 1898; Code, s. 1687; 1881, c. 361.

The wife has her election to proceed under this section or make the conveyance without the joinder of husband under section 2529: Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178-22.

2294. Wife of insane person entitled to special proceeding for sale of his property. Every woman whose husband is a lunatic or insane and is confined in an asylum in this state, and who was living with her husband at the time he was committed to such asylum, if she be in needy circumstances, shall have the right to bring a special proceeding before the clerk of the superior court to sell the property of her insane husband, or so much thereof as is deemed expedient, and have the proceeds applied to her support: Provided, that said proceeding shall be approved by the judge of the superior court holding the courts of the judicial district where the said property is situated. When the deed of the commissioner appointed by the court, conveying the lands belonging to the insane husband is executed, probated, and registered, it conveys a good and indefeasible title to the purchaser.

1911, c. 142, ss. 1, 2.

ART. 4. SURPLUS INCOME AND ADVANCEMENTS

2295. Income of insane widowed mother used for children's support. When a father dies leaving him surviving minor children and a widow who is the mother of such children, but leaving no sufficient estate for the support and maintenance and education of such minor children, and the mother is or becomes insane and is so declared according to law, and such insanity continues for twelve months thereafter, and she has an estate which is placed in the hands of a guardian or other person, as provided by law, the estate of such insane mother shall in such cases as are provided for in the succeeding section be made liable for the support, maintenance and education of the class of persons mentioned in said section to the same extent, in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations as applies to estates of fathers thereunder.

Rev., s. 1899; 1905, c. 546.

2296. Advancement of surplus income to next of kin. When any nonsane person, of full age, and not having made a valid will, has children or grandchildren (such grandchildren being the issue of a deceased child), and is possessed of an estate, real or personal, whose annual income is more than sufficient abundantly and amply to support himself, and to support, maintain and educate the members of his family, with all the necessaries and suitable comforts of life, it is lawful for the clerk of the superior court for the county in which such person has his residence to order from time to time, and so often as may be judged expedient, that fit and proper advancements be made, out of the surplus of such income, to any such child, or grandchild, not being a member of his family and entitled to be supported, educated and maintained out of the estate of such person.

Rev., s. 1900; Code, s. 1677; R. C., c. 57, s. 9.

2297. For what purpose and to whom advanced. Such advancements shall be ordered only for the better promotion in life of such as are of age, or married, and for the maintenance, support and education of such as are under the age of twenty-one years and unmarried; and in all cases the sums ordered shall be paid to such persons as, in the opinion of the clerk, will most effectually execute the purpose of the advancement.

Rev., s. 1901; Code, s. 1678; R. C., c. 57, s. 10.

2298. Distributees to be parties to proceeding for advancement. In every application for such advancements, the guardian of the nonsane person and all such other persons shall be parties as would at that time be entitled to a distributive share of his estate if he were then dead.

Rev., s. 1902; Code, s. 1679; R. C., c. 57, s. 11.

2299. Advancements to be equal; accounted for on death. The clerk, in ordering such advancements, shall, as far as practicable, so order the same as that, on the death of the nonsane person, his estate shall be distributed among his distributees in the same equal manner as if the advancements had been made by the person himself; and on his death every sum advanced to a child or grandchild shall be an advancement, and shall bear interest from the time it may be received.

Rev., s. 1903; Code, s. 1680; R. C., c. 57, s. 12.

2300. Clerk may select those to advance. When the surplus aforesaid is not sufficient to make distribution among all the parties, the clerk may select and decree advancements to such of them as may most need the same, and may apportion the sum decreed in such amounts as are expedient and proper.

Rev., s. 1904; Code, s. 1681; R. C., c. 57, s. 13.

2301. Advancements to be secured against waste. It is the duty of the clerk to withhold advancements from such persons as will probably waste them, or so to secure the same, when they may have families, that it may be applied to their support and comfort; but any sum so advanced shall be regarded as an advancement to such persons.

Rev., s. 1905; Code, s. 1682; R. C., c. 57, s. 14.

2302. Appeal; removal to superior court. Any person made a party may appeal from any order of the clerk; or may, when the pleadings are finished, require that all further proceedings shall be had in the superior court.

Rev., s. 1906; Code, s. 1683; R. C., c. 57, s. 15.

2303. Advancements only when insanity permanent. No such application shall be allowed under this chapter but in cases of such permanent and continued insanity as that the nonsane person shall be judged by the clerk to be incapable, notwithstanding any lucid intervals, to make advancements with prudence and discretion.

Rev., s. 1907; Code, s. 1684; R. C., c. 57, s. 16.

2304. Decrees suspended upon restoration of sanity. Upon such insane person being restored to sanity, every order made for advancements shall cease to be further executed, and his estate shall be discharged of the same.

Rev., s. 1908; Code, s. 1685; R. C., c. 57, s. 17.

CHAPTER 44

INTEREST

2305. Legal rate is six per cent.

2306. Penalty for usury; corporate bonds may be sold below par.

2307. Time from which interest runs.

2308. Obligations due guardians to bear compound interest.

2309. Contracts, except penal bonds, and judgments to bear interest; jury to distinguish principal.

2310. Judgment by default final, clerk ascertainment.

2311. Interest from verdict to judgment added as costs.

2305. Legal rate is six per cent. The legal rate of interest shall be six per cent per annum for such time as interest may accrue, and no more.

Rev., s. 1950; Code, s. 3385; 1895, c. 69; 1876-7, c. 91.

“Interest” defined: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-392; Bledsoe v. Nixon, 69-91. Legal rate of interest is six per cent: Topping v. Windley, 99-10—and no more can be allowed, Ibid.

State not bound to pay interest unless it specially contracts to do so: Attorney-General v. Navigation Co., 37-444.

How interest counted in case of partial payments stated in Reade v. Street, 122-301; Bunn v. Moore, 2-279.

Where contract made in one country to be performed in another, rate of interest will be according to law of latter: Roberts v. McNeely, 52-506—but where money loaned in Virginia on real estate in this state contract is governed by rate of interest in this state, Faison v. Grandy, 128-438—however, it is held that parties may stipulate otherwise, Arrington v. Gee, 27-590. Where contract for loan of money made in another state, it will bear rate of interest of such state, though note for amount loaned be executed in this state: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424.

Where interest payable at specific time, action lies for failure to pay, before maturity of obligation: Scott v. Fisher, 110-311; Parker v. Horton, 176-143.

On suit to enforce option, six per cent is legal rate of interest properly allowed from time obligation matured, in absence of express stipulation in instrument for lower rate: Alston v. Connell, 145-1. Under act authorizing collection of delinquent taxes, interest and penalties, no rate of interest being fixed therein, only six per cent can be recovered: Wilmington v. Stolter, 122-395; Wilmington v. Cronly, 122-388.

For cases under section prior to amendment of same, see Trimble v. Hunter, 104-138; Hughes v. Boone, 102-137; Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-392; Wilson v. Lineberger, 88-427.

Section merely referred to in Fisher v. Brown, 135-198; Faison v. Grandy, 126-829.

2306. Penalty for usury; corporate bonds may be sold below par. The taking, receiving, reserving or charging a greater rate of interest than six per centum per annum, either before or after the interest may accrue, when knowingly done, shall be a forfeiture of the entire interest which the note or other evidence of debt carries with it, or which has been agreed to be paid thereon. And in case a greater rate of interest has been paid, the person or his legal representatives or corporation by whom it has been paid may recover back twice the amount of interest paid, in an action in the nature of action for debt. In any action brought in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover upon any such note or other evidence of debt, it is lawful for the party against whom the action is brought to plead as a counterclaim the penalty above provided for, to wit, twice the amount of interest paid as aforesaid, and also the forfeiture of the entire interest. Nothing contained in the foregoing section, however, shall be held or construed to prohibit private corporations from paying a commission on or for the sale of their coupon bonds, nor from selling such bonds for less than the par value thereof. This section shall not apply to contracts executed prior to February twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

Rev., s. 1951; Code, s. 3836; 1895, c. 69; 1903, c. 154; 1876-7, c. 91.

For special usury statute for New Hanover and Guilford counties, see 1905, c. 819.

For statute of limitations, see section 442. For damages against officers for money unlawfully detained, see section 357.

History of usury laws discussed in Tayloe v. Parker, 137-418; Bank v. Loven, 172-666.

GENERAL EFFECT OF STATUTE. Interest is a creature of statute, and usury has been unlawful from the days of Moses: Hughes v. Boone, 102-137. Section prohibits any one, without exception, from exacting more than six per cent for the loan of money: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882. Purpose and effect of section is to make void, ipso facto, all agreements for usurious interest: Ward v. Sugg, 113-489; Bank v. Lineberger, 83-458; Erwin v. Morris, 137-48; Banking Co. v. Tate, 122-317; Glisson v. Newton, 2-336. Custom of merchants will not be permitted to modify usury laws: Gore v. Lewis, 109-539.

A note tainted with usury retains the taint in the hands of a subsequent holder. The forfeiture of interest is the decree of the law: Faison v. Grandy, 126-827, and cases cited—therefore a note embracing usurious stipulation is void as against maker, in hands of purchaser before maturity for value and without notice, to extent to which contract usurious, Ward v. Sugg, 113-489, overruling Coor v. Spicer, 65-401; Collier v. Nevill, 14-30.

Where mortgage executed to secure usurious note, usury only affects interest and does not impair validity of mortgage: Spivey v. Grant, 96-214.

Provision in charter allowing corporation to lend money at usurious rate of interest does not confer power upon it to do so: Bank v. Manufacturing Co., 96-298—but provision to borrow money at such rate not liable to any objection, Ibid.

Contract not affected by usurious element if it is incorporated by mistake: Webb v. Bishop, 101-99.

Where usurious interest is reduced to and included in judgment, judgment cannot be impeached as to that part, but is valid as to whole: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 105-498.

The statute applies to banks, and in case of loans made to an officer or stockholder: MacRackan v. Bank, 164-24. Pawnbrokers are not exempt, see section 7006.

Section does not apply to contracts antedating its ratification: Grant v. Morris, 81-150; Roberts v. Life Ins. Co., 118-429—and right of plaintiff to recover on contract made prior to that time governed by section 3836 of the Code of 1883, Ibid.

For cases prior to amendment of section, see Elliott v. Sugg, 115-236; Moore v. Beaman, 111-328; Rogers v. Bank, 108-574; Cook v. Patterson, 103-127; Hughes v. Boone, 102-137; Webb v. Bishop, 101-99; Moore v. Cameron, 93-51; Dail v. Harper, 83-4; Bank v. Lutterloh, 81-143; Kidder v. McIlhenny, 81-123; Comrs. v. R. R., 77-289; Latham v. Bldg. and Loan Assn., 77-145; Coble v. Shoffner, 75-42; Simonton v. Lanier, 71-498; Pond v. Horne, 65-84.

WHEN CONTRACT USURIOUS. What constitutes usury is a question of law to be determined by court when facts not in dispute: Grant v. Morris, 81-150. Nature and terms of contract determine its character and purpose, and if it be usurious in itself, it must be taken to have been so intended, and parties cannot be heard to contrary: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-389.

To constitute a usurious transaction, four requisites must appear: (1) There must be a loan; (2) an understanding that the money is to be returned; (3) a greater rate of interest than the law allows is to be paid or agreed to be paid; (4) this must be done intentionally: Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-380; Loan Co. v. Yokley, 174-573; Monk v. Goldstein, 172-516; Doster v. English, 152-341; Bennett v. Best, 142-168; Yarborough v. Hughes, 139-199; Miller v. Ins. Co., 118-612.

Usury distinguished from a profit-sharing investment: Riley v. Sears, 154-509.

Agreement that person was to have one and one-half per cent per month (or 18 per cent per annum) upon overdrawn sums is usurious as to excess for charge for overdrafts above legal rate of interest: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 100-389. Where a bank makes a loan at legal rate, and requires the borrower to keep a certain per cent of the loan on deposit, it is usury: Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-380, 177-284. Where person takes negotiable security and advances thereon, after deducting interest in advance up to date of maturity, a less sum than value, yet holding person advanced for full amount, the loan is usurious: Ballinger v. Edwards, 39-449; but see Bennett v. Best, 142-168.

Stipulation in note or mortgage for payment by mortgagor, or out of proceeds of sale, of attorney's fee in addition to principal and interest of note, is evidence of usurious nature of transaction: Williams v. Rich, 117-235; Briseo v. Norris, 112-671; Tinsley v. Hoskins, 111-340. Stipulation in mortgage that mortgagee should retain from proceeds of sale costs and charges, including commissions of five per cent for making sale in addition to principal and interest due on debt, is not usurious in absence of proof of usurious intent, as provision is not part of consideration of loan: Howell v. Pool, 92-450. See Turner v. Boger, 126-300.

Usury in contract by insurance company to lend money secured by real estate mortgage and by reassignment of endowment policy equal to amount of loan: Miller v. Ins. Co., 118-612; Carter v. Ins. Co., 122-338. Agreement entered into with full knowledge and with intent to pay and receive greater rate of interest than allowed by law, whereby it is stipulated that lender shall receive commission as consideration therefor, in addition to legal interest, is usurious: Arrington v. Goodrich, 95-462.

Mistake in construction of law, if it results in taking more than legal rate of interest, will render contract usurious: Collier v. Nevill, 14-30—but error in fact by which more than legal rate is reserved will not vitiate, Ibid. Wherever debtor by terms of contract can avoid payment of larger by payment of smaller sum at earlier day, contract not usurious: Moore v. Hylton, 16-429—for, to constitute usury, obligation to pay more than legal interest must be absolute, Ibid. Where payee of a note receives payment in full before maturity, only on condition that interest is paid to maturity, it is not usury: Smithwick v. Whitley, 152-366.

Usury consists in unlawful gain, beyond rate of six per cent taken or reserved by lender, and not in actual or contingent loss sustained by borrower: Ehringhaus v. Ford, 25-522—and the proper subject of inquiry is what borrower is to pay for forbearance, Ibid. Presumed that person taking bond embracing usurious interest did it knowingly and therefore corruptly: Dawson v. Taylor, 28-225. Acceptance of any consideration, as here notes on other parties in payment of usurious interest, is in violation of section and will subject payee to penalty: Pritchard v. Meekins, 98-244; Cavaness v. Troy, 32-315.

If security, founded upon antecedent lawful consideration, is tainted with usury, original demand will be revived and may be enforced: Rountree v. Brinson, 98-107. See, also, Cobb v. Morgan, 83-211.

Mere entry on account and subsequent presentation of usurious claim is not "charging" within the meaning of section: Grant v. Morris, 81-150. Transfer of money by debtor to creditor under contract for usurious interest cannot be treated by courts as payment on principal debt, when it was not so intended by parties at time: Cobb v. Morgan, 83-211.

Every attempt by bank to put upon borrower bank bills not its own and below par at that time and place is usurious, unless bank by contract of loan engage to make notes as good as cash: Bank of State v. Ford, 27-692.

Pure contract of indemnity against doubtful claim is not within section: Dowell v. Vannoy, 14-43.

"Time" price charge of ten per cent on cash price for supplies furnished under agricultural lien, being usual rate of advance, is not usurious: Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426.

To render person liable to penalty for usury it is not necessary to show that principal money has been paid: Seawell v. Shomberger, 6-200—for offense complete when anything received for forbearance over and above rate of six per cent per year, Ibid.

Agreement to pay interest on note "at rate of six per cent per annum, to be compounded annually" renders contract usurious: Cox v. Brookshire, 76-314. But interest upon interest due at a specified time and unpaid is not usury: Crowell v. Jones, 167-386; Scott v. Fisher, 110-311, and cases cited. Not usury for indorsee of note to take new note from maker at end of six months, payable immediately, including accrued interest: Holland v. Mosteller, 51-582. Taking interest by a bank upon discounting negotiable security, though payable directly to the bank, is not usurious: State Bank v. Hunter, 12-100.

The owner of a note may sell it for any price agreed upon, but if the purchaser requires the owner's indorsement as a guaranty of payment, it is in effect a loan and the usury law would apply: Sedbury v. Duffy, 158-431; Bynum v. Rogers, 49-399.

Where charter of corporation allowed it to borrow money upon such terms as directors might determine, and to issue bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, it may sell bonds below face value, and the loan is not usurious: Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-298.

Provision in contract for payment of penalty for failure of borrower to ship certain cotton as agreed will not be adjudged usurious upon the face of the contract, but only upon proof aliunde of intent to make penalty a device for securing more than legal rate of interest: Elliott v. Sugg, 115-236.

Contract payable in another state to avoid usury law is usurious: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 112-842.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS NOT EXEMPT. State usury laws apply to loans by foreign building and loan associations at home office: Rowland v. Building Assn., 115-825; Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882; Dickerson v. Bldg. Assn., 89-37. In absence of special legislation, corporations are affected by usury law to same extent as natural persons: Comrs. v. R. R., 77-289. Inasmuch as general law fixes rate of interest at six per cent per annum, no special act of legislature can be allowed to alter or change general law in this respect: Rowland v. Loan Assn., 116-877. Building and loan associations calling borrower "a partner" or substituting "redeeming" for "lending," or "premium" for "bonus" for an amount they profess to have advanced and yet withhold, or "dues" for "interest," or any like subterfuge, will not avail to avoid usury laws: Mills v. B. and L. Assn., 75-292; Hallowell v. B. and L. Assn., 120-286. Transaction between quasi-building and loan association and its borrowing stockholder is simply a loan, and is usurious where he is liable under certain circumstances to pay more than amount loaned and legal interest: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882.

In accounting in action to foreclose mortgage given to secure loan by building and loan association, borrower should be charged with principal of loan, with legal interest, and credited with payments made on account of principal, interest, fines and penalties: Rowland v. Loan Assn., 118-173—and be charged his pro rata part of expense account of association, Williams v. Maxwell, 123-586.

Where usury exacted and taken, all interest is thereby forfeited, and debtor becomes only liable for the principal: Cheek v. B. and L. Assn., 126-242; Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-249. Borrowing member of building and loan association who has paid usurious interest can recover twice the amount of usurious interest so paid: Cheek v. B. and L. Assn., 126-242; Hallowell v. B. and L. Assn., 120-286—for in such case legal consequences follow irrespective of question of intent, Cheek v. B. and L. Assn., 126-242—and this though borrower is in pari delicto in transaction, Hallowell v. B. and L. Assn., 120-286.

Effect of contract where usury charged is simply a loan without interest; all payments made must be credited on principal, and, in addition, borrower entitled to recover, or have credited on debt, double the amount of payments made as interest within two years prior to action brought: Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-249. See, also, Rowland v. Loan Assn., 118-173.

LEX LOCI CONTRACTUS AS AFFECTING USURY. Where contract made in one state to be performed in another, rate of interest will be governed by law of latter state: Roberts v. McNeely, 52-506—unless parties stipulate otherwise, Arrington v. Gee, 27-590. Where money loaned in Virginia upon land in this state, contract is governed by rate of interest in this state: Faison v. Grandy, 128-438. Where contract for loan of money made in another state, it will bear rate of interest of such state, though note for amount loaned be executed in this state: Davis v. Coleman, 29-424.

Contract made in another state stipulating for rate of interest legal in that state is not unlawful here: Houston v. Potts, 64-33; but see Morris v. Hockaday, 94-286—for whether contract usurious is question to be determined by laws of state where contract made, Copeland v. Collins, 122-619—though some cases hold that it is determined by laws of state where it is to be performed, Hilliard v. Outlaw, 92-266.

Where bond dated in this state, but had not specified place of payment, it is governed by the usury laws of this state: Morris v. Hockaday, 94-286—though if it appear that bond given for goods purchased in another state, rule would be different, Ibid.

In enforcement of mortgage on land, usury law of state in which land is will govern, security having been given for money to be used in state, though payment of loan in another state provided: Meroney v. Loan Assn., 116-882.

PENALTY FOR USURY. Forfeiture of all interest is by operation of law, while the penalty of double the amount of interest paid is a cause of action: Ervin v. Bank, 161-42; Faison v. Grandy, 126-830; Cheek v. B. and L. Assn., 126-242; Bank v. Ireland, 122-576.

The penalty is to be recovered only for usury actually paid: Corey v. Hooker, 171-229. In action to recover for overpayment of interest made by mistake, recovery cannot be had for forfeiture of double the interest as penalty for usury: Gilliam v. Ins. Co., 121-369—since upon allegation of such overpayment by mistake no legal implication arises that plaintiff is suing for forfeiture, Ibid.

In action to recover twice amount of interest paid, plaintiff entitled to recover back double entire interest paid at time of usurious transaction, and not merely double usurious excess, provided it occurred within two years before action brought: Tayloe v. Parker, 137-418.

Court of equity will not permit enforcement of usurious contract: Beard v. Bingham, 76-285.

Usury in debt secured by mortgage on household and kitchen furniture a misdemeanor, see section 4509; State v. Davis, 157-648.

PLEADING AND PRACTICE HEREUNDER. Payer of usurious interest may recover same in action for money had and received to his use: Cobb v. Morgan, 83-211—or by way of counterclaim when action brought for balance due on usurious contract, Ibid.

Plea of usury can be taken advantage of only by borrower or debtor, or other person directly connected with transaction upon whom burden of usury falls: Faison v. Grandy, 128-438—mortgagor may show that consideration of bond secured by mortgage is tainted with usury, Arrington v. Goodrich, 95-462; Moore v. Beaman, 111-328; Gore v. Lewis, 109-539. Surety may set up defense of usury: Bank v. Loven, 172-666. Grantee of mortgagor may also set up defense, to determine amount of the debt: Elliott v. Brady, 172-828; Ervin v. Morris, 137-48. Whether a creditor may plead usury against another creditor, to protect debtor's estate, see Riley v. Sears, 154-509.

Wife who is surety for husband, for money borrowed, cannot sue lender or recover by way of counterclaim for usurious interest not paid by her: Meares v. Butler, 123-206. Receiver appointed to take charge of estate may recover for usury paid: Riley v. Sears, 154-509. A decedent's estate is not liable for usury received by administrator: Whisnant v. Price, 175-611.

Where A. executed a mortgage to secure debts of a firm after a certain time, and there was prior indebtedness subject to usury, A. can claim benefit of usury law only as it affects his liability; and when a judgment is rendered including the usury, the land may be sold to pay it: Burwell v. Burgwyn, 105-498.

Defendant may set up usury as a defense in an action to recover property for purpose of sale under chattel mortgage: Noland v. Osborne, 177-14; Moore v. Woodward, 83-531.

Usury must be paid in money or money's worth before an action can be maintained therefor: Corey v. Hooker, 171-229; Rushing v. Bivens, 132-273; Stedman v. Bland, 26-296—and renewal of note given for usury does not amount to payment, Rushing v. Bivens, 132-273.

A purchaser of property who agrees to pay, as part of the price, a note affected with usury, cannot take advantage of the usury: Riley v. Sears, 154-509, and cases cited. When the parties come to an agreement and settlement of their rights growing out of usury, it cannot be used again in an action on the original debt: Beck v. Bank, 161-201.

For complaints held to be sufficient under section, see Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-249; Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426; Morgan v. Bank, 93-352. If usury pleaded, the facts which it is alleged constitute it must be specifically set forth so that court may see that, if true, transaction illegal: Rountree v. Brinson, 98-107. In action to recover usurious interest, it is immaterial whether debtor solicited extension of time upon his own suggestion of bonus, or whether creditor suggested usury: Tayloe v. Parker, 137-418.

To avoid bond on ground of usury, it must be shown to have been illegal ab initio: Wharton v. Eborn, 88-344—for if good in its creation, cannot be avoided by any subsequent usurious agreement, Ibid.

An agreement with principal, upon usurious consideration, to extend time of payment of a note will discharge the surety: Scott v. Harris, 76-205; Carter v. Duncan, 84-676, overruling on this point Bank v. Lineberger, 83-454.

If usurious character of transaction not manifest upon face, but depends on facts and circumstances connected with transaction, as part of res gestæ, it is question of fact as well as law, and should be submitted to jury: Miller v. Ins. Co., 118-612.

In an accounting before referee in action by borrower against a bank, lender, where it appeared that bank charged usury for its various loans to plaintiff, and such usury was paid by separate check at different times: Held, that it was not part of the account so as to be credited to plaintiff, but a separate matter which plaintiff could have recovered penalty for if suit brought in two years: Rogers v. Bank, 108-574.

In proving usury, it is competent to prove facts and circumstances connected with the matter, amount actually paid, amounts actually due, and calculations made: Cuthbertson v. Austin, 152-336; Bennett v. Best, 142-168—but mere fact that amount received by debtor is less than apparent principal of debt, and treating amount thus received as true principal would render transaction usurious, will not alone constitute proof of usury, Ibid.

Where note and mortgage were admitted to be in consideration of debt due on prior mortgage, and it appeared that new mortgage debt exceeded old debt by several hundred dollars, for which no consideration was proved, difference between true amount of old debt and amount of new mortgage usurious: Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426.

For time in which action against foreign corporation to recover usury must be brought, see Williams v. B. and L. Assn., 131-267, and cases cited; Roberts v. Ins. Co., 118-429.

Debtor seeking aid of court of equity will have usurious element eliminated from debt only upon his paying principal and legal rate of interest: Corey v. Hooker, 171-229; Owens v. Wright, 161-127; Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426; Gore v. Lewis, 109-539; Carver v. Brady, 104-219; Cook v. Patterson, 103-127; Manning v. Elliott, 92-48; Purnell v. Vaughan, 82-134; Kidder v. McIlhenny, 81-123; Beard v. Bingham, 76-285; Ballinger v. Edwards, 39-449; McBrayer v. Roberts, 17-75—the only forfeiture enforced against creditor being excess of legal rate, Churchill v. Turnage, 122-426—but this rule not applicable when creditor comes into court, asking enforcement of usurious claim, Manning v. Elliott Bros., 92-48—nor in an action to recover usurious interest paid, Cuthbertson v. Bank, 170-531; Cheek v. B. and L. Assn., 127-121.

Decree of foreclosure based on usurious mortgage will not be disturbed on appeal where defendant did not demand judgment he might have been entitled to under this section: Elks v. Hamby, 160-20.

As to costs in action under section to recover double amount of interest paid, see Smith v. B. and L. Assn., 119-249.

As to jurisdiction of state courts over actions to recover penalty for taking usurious interest under statutes of United States, see Morgan v. Bank, 93-352; Bank v. Ireland, 122-576. The remedy against a national bank for usury is by independent action and not by counterclaim: Bank v. Wysong & Miles Co., 177-380.

2307. Time from which interest runs. Interest is due and payable on instruments, as follows:

1. All bonds, bills, notes, bills of exchange, liquidated and settled accounts shall bear interest from the time they become due, provided such liquidated and settled accounts be signed by the debtor, unless it is specially expressed that interest is not to accrue until a time mentioned in the said writings or securities.

2. All bills, bonds, or notes payable on demand shall be held and deemed to be due when demandable by the creditor, and shall bear interest from the time they are demandable, unless otherwise expressed.

3. All securities for the payment or delivery of specific articles shall bear interest as moneyed contracts; and the articles shall be rated by the jury at the time they become due.

4. Bills of exchange drawn or indorsed in the state, and which have been protested, shall carry interest, not from the date thereof, but from the time of payment therein mentioned.

Rev., s. 1952; Code, ss. 44, 45, 46, 47; R. C., c. 13; 1786, c. 248; 1828, c. 2.

See section 2998. Coupons, when detached from bond to which they were annexed, bear interest from time they were due and payable: Burroughs v. Comrs., 65-234. An order upon a county treasurer, signed by chairman of board of commissioners, bears interest from time of demand of payment: Yellowly v. Comrs., 73-164. A bond on contract due at a certain time, "without interest," bears interest from maturity: Dowd v. R. R., 70-468.

Method of computing interest in case of partial payments stated in Reade v. Street, 122-301; Aiken v. Cantrell, 127-416; Bunn v. Moore, 2-279.

2308. Obligations due guardians to bear compound interest. Guardians shall have power to lend any portion of the estate of their wards upon bond with sufficient security, to be repaid with interest annually, and all the bonds, notes or other obligations which he shall take as guardian shall bear compound interest, for which he must account, and he may assign the same to the ward on settlement with him.

Rev., s. 1953; Code, s. 1592; R. C., c. 54, s. 23; 1762, c. 69; 1816, c. 925; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 29.

For additional annotations as to investment of ward's money and liability of guardian for compound interest, see under sections 4018 and 2189.

GUARDIAN'S INVESTMENT OF WARD'S MONEY. Policy of section is to require investment by guardian to be secured by bond or note of some person in addition to borrower: Watson v. Holton, 115-36. Where guardian loaned ward's money to one member of firm for private purposes of latter, taking his bond, with borrower's partner as surety, both of whom solvent at that time, but afterwards became insolvent, guardian not liable for loss, for in addition to borrower there was a person responsible for loan who might have remained solvent despite the insolvency of his partner, the borrower, Ibid. Guardian not bound to have money ready to pay ward when he comes of age, but ward bound to take bond in discharge of guardian, which latter properly took and has not made his own by fraud or laches: Goodson v. Goodson, 41-238—for such a bond in truth belongs to ward, just as much as specific chattel, Ibid. As to assignment by guardian to third persons of bonds of ward, see Newsom v. Newsom, 40-122; Exum v. Bowden, 39-281; Fox v. Alexander, 36-340; Lockhart v. Phillips, 36-342; Powell v. Jones, 36-337.

Guardian having personal security for debt due ward may exchange such personal for real security, and if he does so bona fide he is not responsible to ward: Christmas v. Wright, 38-549.

Investments of ward's money are in guardian's discretion, as they are upon his responsibility: Gary v. Cannon, 38-64—and courts will never undertake to dictate to guardian of ward to whom he shall loan money, or how long he shall lend money to any particular person, Ibid.

For case under section dealing with losses caused by result of civil war, see Whitford v. Foy, 65-265.

If bond with two obligors, of whom principal solvent and surety doubtful, be accepted by guardian, he is liable if money lost: Hurdle v. Leath, 63-597. Words "bond with sufficient security" defined: Hurdle v. Leath, 63-600.

GUARDIAN CHARGEABLE WITH COMPOUND INTEREST. In settlement of guardian's accounts he should be charged with compound interest on all moneys collected, or which he might have collected, for his ward: Latham v. Wilcox, 99-367. Interest not compounded against guardian for time when funds of ward remain in his hands after relation has ceased: Mitchell v. Robards, 17-478. Simple interest is to be computed against guardian in favor of ward from death of former, unless compound interest received: Ryan v. Blount, 16-382. Ordinarily guardian is to be charged with compound interest, but he may be exempted from it by proving that after suitable exertions he was unable to realize it: Ibid. Guardian can only be charged with compound interest to death of his ward: Carr v. Askew, 94-194; Whitford v. Foy, 65-273—or marriage, Whitford v. Foy, 65-273—and from that time only bears simple interest, though if guardian received more he would be liable to pay it, Ibid.

Where same person executor of will and guardian of minor children, he is chargeable with compound interest from time administration of estate was, or might have been, concluded: Hodge v. Hawkins, 21-564—unless he can show special equitable circumstances to discharge him of such accountability, Ibid.

Guardians of lunatics are responsible for compound interest in same manner and to the same extent as guardians of infants: Spack v. Long, 36-426—and bonds, etc., payable to them as guardians bear compound interest in same manner as bonds payable to guardians of infants, Ibid.

Upon marriage of feme ward, compound interest ceases, and she has no right to demand same in settlement with guardian: Winstead v. Stanfield, 68-40; Whitford v. Foy, 65-273.

Guardian's primary duty is to invest trust fund, and he will be chargeable with interest in absence of proof that it remained in his hands unemployed without his fault: Wilson v. Lineberger, 88-416.

Rule for compounding interest upon notes due guardians is to make "annual rests," making aggregate of principal and interest due at end of particular year a capital sum bearing six per cent interest, thence forward for another year, and so on: Little v. Anderson, 71-190; Ford v. Vandyke, 33-227.

Section merely referred to in Rowland v. Thompson, 73-517; Smith v. Gilmer, 64-548; Williamson v. Williams, 59-65. For old case under section, see Wood v. Brownrigg, 14-430.

2309. Contracts, except penal bonds, and judgments to bear interest; jury to distinguish principal. All sums of money due by contract of any kind, excepting money due on penal bonds, shall bear interest, and when a jury shall render a verdict therefor they shall distinguish the principal from the sum allowed as interest; and the principal sum due on all such contracts shall bear interest from the time of rendering judgment thereon until it is paid and satisfied. In like manner, the amount of any judgment or decree, except the costs, rendered or adjudged in any kind of action, though not on contract, shall bear interest till paid, and the judgment and decree of the court shall be rendered according to this section.

Rev., s. 1954; Code, s. 530; R. C., c. 31, s. 90; 1786, c. 253; 1789, c. 314, s. 4; 1807, c. 721.

CONTRACTS. Upon money contract in this state plaintiff entitled to have six per cent by way of interest, to be ascertained either by jury or clerk, as mere matter of calculation: Houston v. Potts, 65-41. When verdict gives interest from maturity, judgment can fix date from admitted contract sued on: Penniman v. Alexander, 112-778. Interest is chargeable from time of subscription to stock of corporation until paid: Cotton Mills v. Burns, 114-353. Where person orders another, who is indebted to him, to pay balance to third person, interest should be computed on such balance from day order presented: Brem v. Covington, 104-589.

As law implies contract on part of tenant in common in possession and in sole enjoyment of common property to account with cotenants for rents and profits, he is chargeable with interest from date of demand or suit brought: Jolly v. Bryan, 86-462.

Where, in action to recover value of tract of land, amount of damages bears interest from time it fell due by contract of sale: Farmer v. Willard, 75-401.

Judge has no right to leave it to jury to give plaintiff interest or not, as they should think proper: Barlow v. Norfleet, 72-535—but should instruct them that if they found that defendant owed the principal money demanded, plaintiff was entitled to interest from time it was due, Ibid.

In actions for money loaned, or money paid or had and received or due on account stated, jury should be instructed to allow interest, promise to pay being implied from nature of transaction: Devereux v. Burgwin, 33-490—and in trover and trespass de bonis asportatis jury may, in their discretion, allow interest upon value from time of conversion or seizure, Ibid.

In action for breach of warranty, plaintiff not entitled to interest upon amount recovered: Lewis v. Rountree, 79-122; but see Kester v. Miller Bros., 119-475.

Interest is allowed upon items of independent account when used as set-off or counterclaim to extinguish or reduce debt: Overby v. B. and L. Assn., 81-56—but not upon payments as such, whose effect is to reduce pro tanto sum due, interest being first discharged, Ibid.

General rule for interest on accounts in ordinary dealings is that it is chargeable only after account has been rendered: Holden v. Peace, 39-223—unless otherwise agreed, or course of business shows it to be otherwise understood, Ibid.

Verdict allowing "interest to date" in a case where proof is that principal sum was due in April, 1876, is sufficiently definite as to time for which computation is to be made: Greenleaf v. R. R., 91-33.

In a recovery for breach of contract, if amount is ascertained from the terms or by relevant evidence, interest should be added: Chatham v. Realty Co., 174-671; Bond v. Cotton Mills, 166-20. In cases not within this section, interest is not allowed unless there has been some default in withholding funds: Ibid.

In action by shipper to recover from carrier money wrongfully received by reason of illegal freight charge, amount of overcharge draws interest: Lumber Co. v. R. R., 141-171.

Interest is not allowed when not in contemplation of parties: Vick v. Vick, 126-127. Interest may be allowed as equitable set-off against use, under parol purchase of land: Pass v. Brooks, 125-129. Interest must not be calculated on interest: Aiken v. Cantrell, 127-416. Administrator who did not use funds is not chargeable with interest: Coggins v. Flythe, 113-102. Assignee should collect interest on debts over one year old: Weisel v. Cobb, 118-11. Interest is offset by rents in action for quiet enjoyment: Wyche v. Ross, 119-174. On false warranty as to quality, interest is chargeable from date of delivery: Kester v. Miller Bros., 119-475. How interest computed in case of partial payments stated in Reade v. Street, 122-301; Aiken v. Cantrell, 127-416; Bunn v. Moore, 2-279.

Where bond or other instrument for payment of money does not specify on face that interest is to be paid, interest is in nature of damages, and payment of principal money will bar action for interest: King v. Phillips, 95-245—but where interest stipulated for in contract itself, it becomes part of debt, and may be recovered, though principal sum has been paid, Ibid.

PENAL BONDS. Recovery upon penal bond cannot exceed penalty named therein, though excess is for interest on amount of defalcation after breach of bond: Sewing Machine Co. v. Seago, 128-158. Interest cannot be charged against sureties on penalty in administrator's bond: Moseley v. Johnson, 144-274.

As to proper judgment upon penal bond, see Wall v. Covington, 83-144; Trice v. Turrentine, 35-212.

Penalty imposed upon sheriffs and tax collectors for failure to settle with county treasurer does not bear interest: Davenport v. McKee, 98-500.

CLAIMS NOT ARISING OUT OF CONTRACT. Interest is not allowed as damages in action for personal injury: Penny v. R. R., 161-523. Interest not allowed on recovery in tort, as a matter of law, except from the judgment: Hoke v. Whisnant, 174-658. But jury may allow interest in an action for destruction of property: Harper v. R. R., 161-451; Ripley v. Miller, 46-479.

Although allowance of interest in action for damages for conversion of property is discretionary with jury: Stephens v. Koonce, 103-266—yet, after verdict judgment for damages assessed bears interest by virtue of section, Ibid.—and this is so though verdict for certain sum “without interest,” Ibid.

Interest is not allowed as a matter of law in action of claim and delivery, as section does not embrace such cases: Fountain Co. v. Schell, 160-529; Patapsco v. Magee, 86-350—but jury may, in discretion and as damages, allow interest upon value of property from time it was taken, Ibid.

Interest is not allowed on the value of land taken under eminent domain, except from the judgment: Durham v. Davis, 171-305; R. R. v. Mfg. Co., 166-168. But interest may be considered in estimating the compensation of the landowner: Ibid.; Abernathy v. R. R., 159-340.

JUDGMENTS. Judgment bears interest from time of rendition till paid: In re Chisholm's Will, 176-211; McNeil v. R. R., 138-1; Stephens v. Koonce, 103-266; Deloach v. Worke, 10-36.

Design of section to allow plaintiff interest on principal sum recovered from time judgment rendered: Deloach v. Worke, 10-36—and jury must distinguish between principal and interest where whole sum assessed in damages, but where principal and interest are discriminated on record, or by inspection of record it can be collected what principal is, interest shall be calculated on that, Ibid.

Amount of judgment should be calculated up to first day of term at which rendered and principal thereof should bear interest from such time until paid: Reade v. Street, 122-301.

When the jury has found the principal sum due by contract, the judgment should include interest from date of contract: Chatham v. Realty Co., 174-671; Bond v. Cotton Mills, 166-20; Lumber Co. v. R. R., 141-171.

When jury has fixed amount due in tort, it is error for the court to add interest, but the judgment bears interest from the first day of the term: Hoke v. Whisnant, 174-658; Harper v. R. R., 161-451; Fountain Co. v. Schell, 160-529; Penny v. Ludwick, 152-375; Lance v. Butler, 135-419.

Where judgment by default and inquiry, and on inquiry jury responded to issue that certain amount due, it was error to add interest to amount so found for time elapsed prior to inquiry: Williams v. Lumber Co., 118-928—as such interest presumed to have been included in verdict as rendered, Ibid.

Where definite amount ascertained to be due distributee upon settlement of estate, and ordered to be paid, no demand necessary before suit brought to entitle him to interest on amount from date of decree: McRae v. Malloy, 87-196. Judgment for taxes should include interest on amount due: Wilmington v. McDonald, 133-548; see, also, Wilmington v. Cronly, 122-388; Wilmington v. Stolter, 122-395. Widow entitled to interest upon judgment against personal representative of deceased husband for amount covering deficiency of personal estate so as to make up total sum allowed her as year's support: Long v. Long, 85-415. Where compromise judgment was entered whereby legatees named in will were to receive certain amounts in settlement of their legacies which were ordered to be paid by administrator c. t. a. thereafter to be appointed, judgment was not such as would, under section, draw interest from date: Moore v. Pullen, 116-284.

2310. Judgment by default final, clerk ascertains. When a suit is instituted on a single bond, a covenant for the payment of money, bill of exchange, promissory note, or a signed account, and the defendant does not plead to issue thereon, upon judgment, the clerk of the court shall ascertain the interest due by law, without a writ of inquiry, and the amount shall be included in the final judgment of the court as damages, which judgment shall be rendered therein in the manner prescribed by the preceding section.

As to power of court to correct mistake of clerk in calculation of interest under section, see Griffin v. Hinson, 51-154.

Section merely referred to in Rogers v. Moore, 86-86; Parker v. Smith, 64-291; Hartsfield v. Jones, 49-312.

2311. Interest from verdict to judgment added as costs. When the judgment is for the recovery of money, interest from the time of the verdict or report until judgment is finally entered shall be computed by the clerk and added to the costs of the party entitled thereto.

Rev., s. 1955; Code, s. 529.

ART. 1. JURY LIST AND DRAWING OF ORIGINAL PANEL

2312. Jury list from taxpayers of good character. The board of county commissioners for the several counties at their regular meeting on the first Monday in June, in the year nineteen hundred and five, and every two years thereafter, shall cause their clerks to lay before them the tax returns of the preceding year for their county, from which they shall proceed to select the names of all such persons as have paid all the taxes assessed against them for the preceding year and are of good moral character and of sufficient intelligence. A list of the names thus selected shall be made out by the clerk of the board of commissioners and shall constitute the jury list, and shall be preserved as such.

Rev., s. 1957; Code, ss. 1722, 1723; 1806, c. 694; 1889, c. 559; 1899, c. 729; 1897, cc. 117, 539; 1899, c. 729.

Statutory provisions are directory with reference to revision of jury list, making up jury list, time, place and manner of drawing jury; and a failure to observe these does not invalidate the venire in the absence of bad faith or corruption: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v.

Teachey, 138-587; State v. Daniels, 134-648; State v. Dixon, 131-810; Moore v. Guano Co., 130-235; State v. Perry, 122-1018; State v. Smarr, 121-669; State v. Stanton, 118-1182; State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-660; State v. Hensley, 94-1027; State v. Martin, 82-672; State v. Griffice, 74-319; State v. Haywood, 73-437; State v. Seaborn, 15-310.

Irregularity of commissioners failing to make prepayment of taxes a qualification for persons on jury list is not ground for quashing indictment found by grand jury drawn therefrom: State v. Daniels, 134-641; State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-659—and merely purging jury list of names of those who have not paid taxes, without adding any new names thereto, does not vitiate venire in absence of fraud or corruption on part of commissioners, State v. Dixon, 131-808—moreover, where commissioners laid aside names of several persons otherwise qualified because they did not know whether they were residents of county, and list completed by names of other qualified persons: Held, that if there was irregularity it did not affect action of jurors drawn and summoned, State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

Objection for defects in jury list or in drawing the jury, or to the qualification of a grand juror, must be made before entering the plea of not guilty: State v. Banner, 149-519.

Only qualifications for jury service are payment of taxes for preceding year, good moral character and sufficient intelligence: State v. Peoples, 131-788; State v. Sherman, 115-774; State v. Edens, 85-524—and, if on original panel, juror not required to be freeholder, Hall v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Freeman, 100-432; State v. Mills, 91-593; State v. Wincroft, 76-38.

Juror must be twenty-one years of age, State v. Griffice, 74-316—and must have paid taxes for fiscal year next preceding time when name placed on jury lists: State v. Sherman, 115-773; State v. Davis, 109-780; State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Hargrave, 100-484; Sellers v. Sellers, 98-13; State v. Haywood, 94-847; State v. Carland, 90-673—though where sheriff enjoined from collection of tax, failure to pay same no disqualification, State v. Heaton, 77-505. Juror of original panel is not disqualified though he has served on jury in same court within two years: State v. Brittain, 89-481. No objection to tales juror that name does not appear on jury list: Lee v. Lee, 71-139. Ground for objection to indictment that grand jurors who found bill had not paid taxes for preceding year: State v. Watson, 86-624; State v. Griffice, 74-316—though indictment will not be quashed because jury list from which grand jury drawn failed to contain names of all persons in county qualified to act as jurors, State v. Haywood, 73-437.

Competency of grand juror depends upon competency at time of service, not at time when name put on list: State v. Perry, 122-1018; State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

Findings of court as to whether challenged juror had paid taxes is final and not reviewable: State v. Carland, 90-668; State v. Wincroft, 76-38.

Only exemptions from jury service are those prescribed by section 2329: State v. Cantwell, 142-604.

Section merely referred to in State v. Vick, 132-996; State v. Sharp, 110-607; Boyer v. Teague, 106-619.

2313. Names on list put in box. The commissioners at their regular meeting on the first Monday in July in the year nineteen hundred and five, and every two years thereafter, shall cause the names on their jury list to be copied on small scrolls of paper of equal size and put into a box procured for that purpose, which must have two divisions marked No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, and two locks, the key of one to be kept by the sheriff of the county, the other by the chairman of the board of commissioners, and the box by the clerk of the board.

Rev., s. 1958; Code, s. 1726; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 5.

For manner of drawing jury in Guilford, see 1905, c. 613; in Cleveland, see 1909, c. 356; Johnston, P. L. 1917, c. 31.

Partitions of jury box marked "jurors drawn" and "jurors not drawn" instead of "No. 1" and "No. 2," and only one key which unlocked both partitions, and same in custody of register: Held, special venire drawn therefrom was legal: State v. Potts, 100-457—and failure of sheriff, chairman and clerk of commissioners to keep box locked is not ground for challenge to array, State v. Hensley, 94-1021.

Section merely referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-784.

2314. Manner of drawing panel for term from box. At least twenty days before each regular or special term of the superior court, the board of commissioners of the county shall cause to be drawn from the jury box out of the partition marked No. 1, by a child not more than ten years of age, thirty-six scrolls except when the term of court is for the trial of civil cases exclusively, when they need not draw more than twenty-four scrolls. The persons whose names are inscribed on said scrolls shall serve as jurors at the term of the superior court to be held for the county ensuing such drawing, and for which they are drawn. The scrolls so drawn to make the jury shall be put into the partition marked No. 2. The said commissioners shall at the same time and in the same manner draw the names of eighteen persons who shall be summoned to appear and serve during the second week, and a like number for each succeeding week of the term of said court, unless the judge thereof shall sooner discharge all jurors from further service. The said commissioners may, at the same time and in the same manner, draw the names of eighteen other persons, who shall serve as petit jurors for the week for which they are drawn and summoned. The trial jury which has served during each week shall be discharged by the judge at the close of said week, unless the said jury shall be then actually engaged in the trial of a case, and then they shall not be discharged until the trial is determined.

Rev. s. 1959; Code, ss. 1727, 1731; 1889, c. 559; 1897, c. 117; 1868-9, c. 175; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 6; 1806, c. 694; 1901, c. 636; 1901, c. 28, s. 3; 1903, c. 11; 1905, cc. 38, 76, s. 4; 1905, c. 285.

For special act for Buncombe county, see 1907, c. 239; for Columbus county, see 1909, c. 608. Provision of section requiring persons named on scrolls drawn from jury box to constitute jury is mandatory: Moore v. Guano Co., 130-229—but provision fixing number of jurors to be drawn is directory, State v. Watson, 104-735—and indictment will not be quashed for failure to observe them where it does not appear that there was corrupt motive, Ibid. The time of drawing is considered directory, if the drawing is otherwise properly done: Lanier v. Greenville, 174-311.

Where one whose name was not drawn from the box was summoned and served by mistake, the grand jury is illegally constituted: State v. Paramore, 146-604. Where sheriff, who was defendant in action to be tried, received scrolls as drawn, called names and passed same into locked box, without submitting scrolls to the inspection of commissioners: Held, drawing irregular, and array set aside: Boyer v. Teague, 106-576—though where commissioners, while drawing jurors, laid aside several names, otherwise qualified, because they did know whether they were residents of county, and jury list completed by names of other qualified persons: Held, same did not affect action of jurors so drawn and summoned, State v. Wilcox, 104-847.

No constitutional limitation upon powers of legislature to prescribe method by which jurors are to be selected and summoned: State v. Brittain, 143-668. Grand juries are essential constitutional constituents appertaining to system of superior courts, and may not be discontinued by county commissioners under legislative enactment of 1899, chapter 371: Mott v. Comrs., 126-866. Mandamus is proper remedy to force county commissioners to draw jury for the term, and solicitor is proper party to apply for same: Ibid. Drawn by commissioners instead of by boy under ten, challenge to array sustained: Moore v. Guano Co., 130-229.

Where the court is not held until the second week it is not error to take the jurors summoned for that week as grand jurors: State v. Wood, 175-809.

Section merely referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-785; Leach v. Linde, 108-550; State v. Gardner, 104-742; Sellers v. Sellers, 98-17—and, as incidentally bearing upon section, see State v. Teachey, 138-587.

2315. Local modifications as to drawing panel. In Buncombe county forty-eight jurors shall be drawn to serve the first week and twenty-four to serve the second week.

In Cumberland county the commissioners may, in their discretion, cause an additional twelve scrolls to be drawn, to serve as the jury for the first week.

In Forsyth county the board of county commissioners is authorized and empowered to draw as jurors from the box, as provided in the preceding section, an additional number of jurors to those now provided by law. At all civil terms, regular and special, for the first week thirty jurors shall be drawn and summoned, and likewise for the second week. At all criminal terms, regular and special, for the first week forty-two jurors shall be drawn and summoned. For the second week thirty jurors shall be drawn and summoned.

In Hertford county fifteen extra jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week.

In Iredell county twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week.

In Randolph county forty-two scrolls shall be drawn for the first week and twenty-four for the second week. The commissioners may at the same time and in the same manner draw the names of twenty-four other persons who shall serve as petit jurors for the week for which they are drawn and summoned.

In Rockingham county the board of county commissioners is authorized and empowered to draw as jurors from the box, as provided in the preceding section, an additional number of jurors to those now provided by law. At all civil terms, regular and special, for the first week thirty jurors shall be drawn and summoned; for the second week twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned. At all criminal terms, regular and special, for the first week forty-two jurors shall be drawn and summoned; for the second week twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned.

In Rowan county twenty-four jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week.

Rev., s. 1959; 1907, c. 239; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 4; P. L. 1915, cc. 233, 744, 764.

For special law applicable to Cleveland county, see 1909, c. 356.

2316. Jurors having suits pending. If any of the jurors drawn have a suit pending and at issue in the superior court, the scrolls with their names must be returned into partition No. 1 of the jury box.

Rev., s. 1960; Code, s. 1728; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 7; 1806, c. 694.

Where juror has suit pending and at issue in court it is fundamental objection to him when-ever made to appear: Hodges v. Lassiter, 96-351—and is cause of challenge, though commissioners allowed name to go on venire, Ibid.—but fact that juror has suit pending, but not at issue at term at which drawn to serve, is not disqualification, State v. Smarr, 121-669; State v. Hopkins, 154-622.

Where indictment against juror pending to which he had never pleaded, held not disqualified by section even if same applicable: Hodges v. Lassiter, 96-351. Where judgment rendered in action to which juror was party at same term, from which appeal taken, though same not perfected, held same was suit pending and at issue: Wilson v. Hughes, 94-182. Juror not disqualified by fact that he has suit pending and at issue in court unless it is to be tried at same term at which he is drawn to serve: State v. Spivey, 132-989. Juror is not party to action pending and at issue in court, though interested as creditor in fund for which receiver has brought suit: Vickers v. Leigh, 104-260—though on prosecution bond of another plaintiff in another action, though against same defendant on similar cause of action, Jenkins v. R. R., 110-438—though prosecutor in criminal action, State v. Brady, 107-827.

Grand juror not disqualified because he has civil action pending in another court of county: State v. Edens, 85-525—though fact that grand juror had suit pending and at issue in same court is ground for motion to quash indictment, State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Smith, 80-410; State v. Liles, 77-496.

Regulations of section as to revision of jury list directory only: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Dixon, 131-810; State v. Perry, 122-1018—and failure to observe same does not vitiate venire in absence of bad faith or corruption on part of commissioners, Ibid.

Section merely referred to in State v. Sharp, 110-607; State v. Parish, 104-687.

2317. Disqualified persons drawn. If any of the persons drawn to serve as jurors are dead, removed out of the county, or otherwise disqualified to serve as jurors, the scrolls with the names of such persons must be destroyed, and in such cases other persons shall be drawn in their stead.

Rev., s. 1961; Code, s. 1729; 1889, c. 559; 1897, c. 117, s. 5; 1806, c. 694.

2318. How drawing to continue. The drawing out of partition marked No. 1 and putting the scrolls drawn into partition No. 2 shall continue until all the scrolls in partition No. 1 are drawn out, when all the scrolls shall be returned into partition No. 1 and drawn out again as herein directed.

Rev., s. 1962; Code, s. 1730; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 9; 1806, c. 6, s. 94.

Where, in drawing grand jury, names of some drawn and put back in box and others drawn instead to equalize number among townships, held not grounds for challenge to array, as section merely directory: State v. Martin, 82-672; but see Moore v. Guano Co., 130-229. There is no restriction upon powers of legislature to regulate manner in which jurors shall be selected and summoned: State v. Brittain, 143-668.

Section merely referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-785; Boyer v. Teague, 106-619.

2319. Drawing when commissioners fail to draw. If the commissioners for any cause fail to draw a jury for any term of the superior court, regular or special, the sheriff of the county and the clerk of the commissioners, in the presence of and assisted by two justices of the peace of the county, shall draw such jury in the manner above prescribed; and if a special term continues for more than two weeks, then for the weeks exceeding two a jury or juries may be drawn as in this section provided.

Rev., s. 1963; Code, s. 1732; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 11.

The twenty days specified in section 2314 not applicable to this section: Lanier v. Greenville, 174-311—the deputy sheriff may act for the sheriff, Ibid.

Where commissioners fail to draw jury for third week of court, and court orders same drawn as prescribed by section, such jury is legal: Leach v. Linde, 108-547—though sheriff not required to act unless commissioners neglect to draw jury, Boyer v. Teague, 108-619—and then duty devolves upon him, clerk of commissioners and two justices of the peace, Ibid.

ART. 2. PETIT JURORS; ATTENDANCE, REGULATION AND PRIVILEGES

2320. Summons to jurors drawn; to attend until discharged. The clerk of the board of county commissioners shall, within five days from the drawing, deliver the list of the jurors drawn for the superior court to the sheriff of the county, who shall summon the persons therein named to attend as jurors at such court. The summons shall be served, personally, or by leaving a copy thereof at the house of the juror, at least five days before the sitting of the court to which he may be summoned. Jurors shall appear and give their attendance until duly discharged.

Rev., s. 1976; Code, s. 1733; 1868-9, c. 9, s. 12; R. C., c. 31, s. 29; 1779, c. 157, ss. 4, 6.

For provision for additional jurors from other counties, as a substitute for removal when a fair trial cannot be had, see Civil Procedure, s. 473.

For service by telephone, see section 819. Section referred to in Boyer v. Teague, 106-621. When the list is given to the sheriff he has no authority to change a name: State v. Paramore, 146-604.

2321. Summons to talesmen; their disqualifications. That there may not be a defect of jurors, the sheriff shall by order of the court summon, from day to day, of the bystanders, other jurors, being freeholders, within the county where the court is held, or the judge may, in his discretion, at the beginning of the term direct the tales jurors to be drawn from the jury box used in drawing the petit jury for the term, in the presence of the court; such tales jurors so drawn to be summoned by the sheriff and to serve on the petit jury, and on any day the court may discharge those who have served the preceding day. The judge may, upon his own motion, or upon the request of counsel for either plaintiff or defendant, instruct the sheriff to summon such jurors outside of the courthouse. It is a disqualification and ground of challenge to any tales juror that such juror has acted in the same court as grand, petit or tales juror within two years next preceding such term of court.

Rev., s. 1967; Code, s. 1733; R. C., c. 31, s. 29; 1779, c. 156, s. 69; 1911, c. 15; 1915, c. 210.

Tales jurors must have same qualifications as regular jurors with additional one of being freeholders: Hale v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Sherman, 115-773; State v. Hargrave, 100-485; State v. Carland, 90-668; State v. Whitley, 88-691—and must own real estate in county where court sits, State v. Cooper, 83-671—but tenant by curtesy initiate is freeholder, Hodgin v. R. R., 143-93; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; State v. Mills, 91-581—as is mortgagor in possession of freehold, State v. Ragland, 75-12—though juror who holds license to lay off oyster and clam bed in waters of state is not freeholder, State v. Young, 138-571. Freeholder defined in State v. Ragland, 75-12; see, also, State v. Hensley, 94-1021. While deputy sheriffs are not exempt from jury duty, the court may excuse them from serving as tales jurors: McLawnhorn v. Harris, 156-107.

The court may order a new jury to be summoned from the bystanders after the regular jury has been discharged: State v. Manship, 174-798.

Only tales jurors come within provisions of section disqualifying jurors who have acted in same court within two years: Hale v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Whitfield, 92-831; State v. Brittain, 89-481. To disqualify them it must appear that they were not only summoned, but acted as jurors in same court within two years: Burnett v. Roanoke Mills Co., 152-35; State v. Whitfield, 92-831; State v. Outerbridge, 82-617; State v. Howard, 82-623; State v. Thorne, 81-555—but juror of original panel cannot be challenged upon such grounds, State v. Brittain, 89-481.

Talesmen may be summoned from bystanders in court, or the officer may be directed to go outside and summon them: Lupton v. Spencer, 173-126—when they come in they are bystanders: State v. McDowell, 123-764; State v. Lamon, 10-175. No objection to tales juror that name does not appear on list made out by county commissioners: Lee v. Lee, 71-139.

Exemption of members of fire company from jury service in general does not discharge them from service as talesmen: State v. Willard, 79-660, and, as bearing upon question of exemption releasing from service as tales jurors, see State v. Williams, 18-372; State v. Hogg, 6-319.

Court may order any number of talesmen necessary: State v. Lamon, 10-175.

Section merely referred to in State v. Sharp, 110-607; Boyer v. Teague, 106-621; State v. Wineroft, 76-39; State v. Benton, 19-201.

2322. How talesmen summoned when sheriff interested. When, in the trial of any action before a jury, the sheriff of the county in which the case is to be tried is a party to or has any interest in the action, or when the presiding judge finds upon investigation that the sheriff of the county is not a suitable person, on account of indirect interest in or relative to the cause of action, to be entrusted with the summoning of the tales jurors in any particular case pending, such judge shall appoint some suitable person to summon the jurors in place of the sheriff.

Rev., s. 1968; 1889, c. 441.

Court has power to appoint suitable person to summon jury from bystanders, where array set aside for irregularity of sheriff in drawing jury, sheriff being party to action: Boyer v. Teague, 106-576. And where the person so appointed has been guilty of improper conduct in regard to selection of jurors, a new trial will be granted: Lupton v. Spenceer, 173-126.

2323. Penalty for disobeying summons. Every person on the original venire summoned to appear as a juror who fails to give his attendance until duly discharged shall forfeit and pay for the use of the county the sum of twenty dollars, to be imposed by the court; but each delinquent juryman shall have until the next succeeding term to make his excuse for his nonattendance, and, if he renders an excuse deemed sufficient by the court, he shall be discharged without costs. Every person summoned of the bystanders who shall not appear and serve during the day as a juror shall be fined in the sum of two dollars, unless he can show sufficient cause to the court; and the clerk shall forthwith issue an execution against the estate of the delinquent tales juror for such amercement and costs.

Rev., s. 1977; Code, ss. 1734. 405; R. C., c. 31, s. 30; 1779, c. 157, s. 4; 1783, c. 189; 1806, c. 694.

Section referred to in State v. Jones, 67-285.

2324. Jury sworn; judge decides competency. The clerk shall, at the beginning of the court, swear such of the petit jury as are of the original panel, to try all civil cases; and if there should not be enough of the original panel, the talesmen shall be sworn. The petit jurors of the original panel, as well as talesmen, shall be sworn as prescribed in the chapter entitled Oaths. Nothing herein shall be construed to disallow the usual challenges in law to the whole jury so sworn or to any of them; and if by reason of such challenge, any juror is withdrawn, his place on the jury shall be supplied by any of the original venire, or from the bystanders qualified to serve as jurors. The judge or other presiding officer of the court shall decide all questions as to the competency of jurors in both civil and criminal actions.

Rev., s. 1966; Code, s. 405; R. C., c. 31, s. 34; 1790, c. 321; 1822, c. 1133, s. 1.

CHALLENGE TO THE ARRAY. Objection to manner of summoning jury should be taken by challenge to array: State v. Douglass, 63-500. A challenge to the array can be taken only when there is partiality or misconduct in the sheriff, or some irregularity in making out the list: State v. Speaks, 94-865; Moore v. Guano Co., 130-231. Objection must be made before entering on the formation of the jury and before challenge to the polls, or before the jury has been completed or sworn, or before entering on the trial: State v. Parker, 132-1014. A challenge to the array must affect the whole panel: State v. Hensley, 94-1021. It is duty of court to see that jurors are competent, fair and impartial: State v. Boon, 80-461.

In criminal case, solicitor for state said: "If any member of jury has formed and expressed an opinion that prisoner is not guilty, let it be known." No juror answering thereto, prisoner thereupon admits the cause as a challenge to the array: Held, not a challenge to the array: State v. Walker, 145-567.

CHALLENGES FOR CAUSE. Judge determines facts as well as legal sufficiency of challenge based upon them: State v. Kilgore, 93-533. Rulings of law by court on challenge for cause are subject to review: State v. Vick, 132-995—though findings are conclusive, State v. Vick, 132-997—as are also findings of fact and law on challenges to the favor, Ibid.; State v.

Green, 95-611. Finding of judge that juror is indifferent is not reviewable: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Register, 133-746; State v. Kinsauls, 126-1095; State v. Potts, 100-457.

Challenge for cause must be made in apt time: State v. Lambert, 93-618; State v. Boon, 80-461. Too late for challenge where juror accepted by prisoner and served on trial: State v. Lambert, 93-618. A good challenge for cause before juror is sworn, if denied, is ground for new trial; if made afterward, it is within the discretion of the court: Carter v. King, 174-549. Discretionary with court to permit juror to be challenged for cause after being tendered to defendant and before jury impaneled: State v. Green, 95-611; see Dunn v. R. R., 131-449. Court may excuse juror, before impaneled, though solicitor has passed him to prisoner, and has not challenged him for cause: State v. Vick, 132-995. Discretionary power of judge as to challenge is limited to "challenges for cause," and he cannot extend time for peremptory challenges: State v. Fuller, 114-885; Dunn v. R. R., 131-446. See section 2331.

Where general question was asked if any juror had formed and expressed an opinion that plaintiff ought not to recover, and one juror responded that he had, but added, on being questioned, that "notwithstanding such expression of opinion, I can try case impartially according to evidence and charge of court": Held, his honor properly found him to be a competent juror: Dunn v. R. R., 131-446; State v. Bohanon, 142-695; State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Efler, 85-585; State v. Collins, 70-241.

A tales juror called on a trial in April, 1894, is not disqualified because he had not paid his taxes for 1893, he having paid them for 1892: State v. Sherman, 115-773—but where he has not paid his taxes for fiscal year preceding first Monday in September next before time he is called on to serve, he may be excluded on being challenged: State v. Hargrave, 100-484. See, also, State v. Gardner, 104-739.

A tales juror must have same qualifications as regular juror, with the additional one of being a freeholder: Hale v. Whitehead, 115-29; State v. Hargrave, 100-485; State v. Sherman, 115-773—and the finding by trial judge that juror is not a freeholder is conclusive on appeal, State v. Register, 133-746. Tenant by curtesy initiate is a freeholder: Hodgin v. R. R., 143-93; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109-508; State v. Mills, 91-581—as is mortgagor in possession of freehold, State v. Ragland, 75-12—but one who holds license to lay off oyster and clam bed in waters of state is not a freeholder, State v. Young, 138-571.

That a juror is the employee of a party is a good cause of challenge: Oliphant v. R. R., 171-303; Norris v. Mills, 154-474; Blemis v. Cotton Mills, 150-493. Cause for challenge that a juror is interested in a corporation as a party: Walters v. Lumber Co., 165-388; Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-683.

Where it does not appear that a party is insured in an indemnity company, it is error to allow the question whether any juror is interested in such company: Starr v. Oil Co., 165-587—otherwise where a party carries a policy in an indemnity company, Featherstone v. Cotton Mills, 159-429.

Where the county is a party, the relationship of a juror to one of the county commissioners is too remote: Gates County v. Hill, 158-584.

The causes of challenge given in the statutes are in addition to the cause of pecuniary interest: Bank v. Oil Mills, 150-683. When a party objecting to a juror on the ground of pecuniary interest has exhausted his peremptory challenges, it is error for the court to refuse the challenge: Ibid.

2325. Questioning jurors without challenge. The court, or any party to an action, civil or criminal, shall be allowed, in selecting the jury, to make inquiry as to the fitness and competency of any person to serve as a juror, without having such inquiry treated as a challenge of such person, and it shall not be considered by the court that any person is challenged as a juror until the party shall formally state that such person is so challenged.

1913, c. 31, s. 6.

Effect of change made by this section explained: State v. Christy, 170-772.

2326. Causes of challenge to jurors drawn from box. It shall not be a valid cause of challenge that a juror called from those whose names are drawn from the box is not a freeholder or has served upon the jury within two years prior to the court at which the case is tried. In other respects the cause of challenge shall be the same as now provided by law, and nothing herein shall modify any law authorizing jurors to be summoned from counties other than the county of trial.

Section probably refers to special venire under section 2339. See, also, section 2321.

2327. Jurors impaneled to try case furnished with accommodations. When a jury, impaneled to try any cause, is put in charge of an officer of the court, the said officer shall furnish said jury with such accommodation as the court may order, and the same shall be paid for by the party cast or by the county, under the order and in the discretion of the judge of the court.

Rev., s. 1978; Code, s. 1736; 1876-7, c. 173; 1889, c. 44.

Verdict of jury cannot be impeached because sheriff declined to give them refreshments except water until they agreed on verdict or until judge directed him to take them to dinner: Gaither v. Generator Co., 121-384. County not liable for board of jury in capital case during pendency of trial: Young v. Comrs., 76-316.

2328. Exemption from civil arrest. No sheriff or other officer shall arrest under civil process any juror during his attendance on or going to and returning from any court of record. All such service shall be void, and the defendant on motion shall be discharged.

Exemption of jurors from civil arrest does not apply to parties arrested in criminal proceedings: White v. Underwood, 125-25—and section does not repeal by implication the common-law exemption of nonresidents from service of civil process while attending litigation in courts of state: Cooper v. Wyman, 122-784.

Section merely referred to in Greenleaf v. Bank, 133-296.

2329. Exemptions from jury duty. 1. All practicing physicians, licensed druggists, telegraph operators who are in the regular employ of any telegraph company or railroad company, train dispatchers who have the actual handling of either freight or passenger trains, regularly licensed pilots, regular ministers of the gospel, officers or employees of a state hospital for the insane, active members of a fire company, funeral directors and embalmers, printers and linotype operators, all millers of grist mills, all United States railway postal clerks and rural free delivery mail carriers, locomotive engineers and railroad conductors in active service, and all members of the national guard of North Carolina who comply with and perform all duties required of them as members of said national guard, shall be exempt from service as jurors.

Rev., s. 1980; Code, ss. 1723, 2269; 1885, c. 289; 1889, c. 255; 1897, c. 32; 1901, c. 118; 1909, cc. 333, 868; 1913, c. 38, s. 1; 1915, c. 260.

For dentists exempt from jury duty, see section 6640. Exemption from jury service is a mere privilege, not a contract, and may be revoked by legislature at any time: State v. Cantwell, 142-604. Exemption from jury service in general does not release from service as talesman: State v. Willard, 79-660; State v. Williams, 18-372; State v. Hogg, 6-319—but he is not bound to serve on special venire, State v. Whitford, 34-99.

Section referred to in State v. Peoples, 131-785; State v. Haywood, 94-850.

2. On the first day of January and July of each year the commanding officer of each company, troop, battery or division of the national guard of North Carolina shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said company, troop, battery or division is located a statement giving the names and rank of each member of his organization who has performed all military duties required of such member during the preceding six months, and any member of such military organization whose name shall not appear upon the statement shall not receive the benefit of the exemption provided above during the six months immediately following the filing of said statement.

1913, c. 38, s. 2.

3. The board of county commissioners of any county in North Carolina may, in their discretion, exempt any ex-confederate soldier in their county from jury duty who shall apply to them for exemption.

1915, c. 228.

2330. Clerk to keep record of jurors. The clerk of the superior court shall record alphabetically in a book kept for the purpose the names of all grand and petit jurors and talesmen who serve in his court, with the term at which they serve.

Rev., s. 1981; 1893, c. 52, s. 3.

ART. 3. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGES IN CIVIL CASES

2331. Four peremptory challenges on each side. The clerk, before a jury is impaneled to try the issues in any civil suit, shall read over the names of the jury upon the panel in the presence and hearing of the parties or their counsel; and the parties, or their counsel for them, may challenge peremptorily four jurors upon the said panel, without showing any cause therefor, which shall be allowed by the court.

Rev., s. 1964; Code, s. 406; R. C., c. 31, s. 35; 1796, c. 452, s. 2; 1812, c. 833.

For peremptory challenges in criminal actions, see sections 4633, 4634.

Party has right to reject jurors, but not to select them: State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Sultan, 142-574; State v. Register, 133-750; Dunn v. Railroad, 131-447; State v. McDowell, 123-764; State v. Jacobs, 106-695; State v. Jones, 97-469; State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Gooch, 94-987; State v. Smith, 24-402; State v. Arthur, 13-217—and to secure fair and impartial jury to try cause, State v. Jones, 97-469; State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Gooch, 94-987. Exception of party to eligibility of juror cannot be sustained where he has not exhausted his peremptory challenges: Carter v. King, 174-549; Oliphant v. R. R., 171-303; Hodgin v. R. R., 143-93; State v. Sultan, 142-569; State v. Bohanon, 142-695; Ives v. R. R., 142-131; State v. Teachey, 138-587; State v. Register, 133-750; State v. Kinsauls, 126-1095; State v. Brogden, 111-657; State v. Pritchett, 106-667; State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Freeman, 100-429; State v. Jones, 97-469; State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Gooch, 94-987; State v. Brittain, 89-504; Caperhart v. Stewart, 20-101; Whitaker v. Carter, 26-461; State v. Arthur, 13-217.

Party's reason for peremptorily challenging juror cannot be inquired into: Dupree v. Ins. Co., 92-417—as law gives litigant right to object to limited number of jurors without assigning cause, Ibid. Where jury has been accepted by parties, it is error to allow peremptory challenges to be made: Dunn v. R. R., 131-446.

Challenge must be made before impaneled: Baxter v. Wilson, 95-137; State v. Williams, 66-126.

Whether there are one or more plaintiffs or defendants, only four peremptory challenges on each side allowed: Bryan v. Harrison, 76-360; but see section 2332.

No peremptory challenge allowed after juror has been passed and accepted: Dunn v. R. R., 131-447; State v. Fuller, 114-885.

2332. Where several defendants; challenges apportioned; discretion of judge. When there are two or more defendants in a civil action the judge presiding at the trial, if it appears to the court that there are divers and antagonistic interests between the defendants, may in his discretion apportion among the defendants the challenges now allowed by law to defendants, or he may increase the number of challenges to not exceeding four to each defendant or class of defendants representing the same interest. In either event, the same number of challenges shall be allowed each defendant or class of defendants representing the same interest. The decision of the judge as to the nature of the interests and number of challenges shall be final.

Rev., s. 1965; 1905, c. 357.

See section 4634.

ART. 4. GRAND JURORS

2333. How grand jury drawn. The judges of the superior court, at the terms of their courts, except those terms which are for the trial of civil cases exclusively, and special terms for which no grand jury has been ordered, shall direct the names of all persons returned as jurors to be written on scrolls of paper and put into a box or hat and drawn out by a child under ten years of age; whereof the first eighteen drawn shall be a grand jury for the court; and the residue shall serve as petit jurors for the court.

No grand jury for special terms, unless required by order, see section 1454. The grand jury may be composed of less than eighteen, but not less than twelve. If only sixteen appear on the regular panel, the judge may use these as the grand jury without further drawing: State v. Wood, 175-809.

2334. Grand juries in certain counties. At the first fall and spring terms of the criminal courts held for the counties of Gaston, Guilford, Mecklenburg, and Wake, grand juries shall be drawn, the presiding judge shall charge them as provided by law, and they shall serve during the remaining fall and spring terms, respectively.

2335. Exceptions for disqualifications. All exceptions to grand jurors for and on account of their disqualifications shall be taken before the jury is sworn and impaneled to try the issue, by motion to quash the indictment, and if not so taken, the same shall be deemed to be waived. But no indictment shall be quashed, nor shall judgment thereon be arrested, by reason of the fact that any member of the grand jury finding such bills of indictment had not paid his taxes for the preceding year, or was a party to any suit pending and at issue.

Rev., s. 1970; Code, s. 1741; 1907, c. 36, s. 1.

Regular way of making objection where facts appear on face of record is by motion to quash: State v. Haywood, 94-847—but where same do not appear on record, objection should be taken by plea in abatement, Ibid.—though distinction not held to be important now, and motion to quash permitted in either case, Ibid. See, also, State v. Banner, 149-519.

Motion to quash must be made in apt time: State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Haywood, 94-847; State v. Griffice, 74-316; State v. Seaborn, 15-305—which is before plea, State v. Watson, 86-624; State v. Baldwin, 80-390; State v. Griffice, 74-316—and if motion made before plea, defendant has right to have same granted, State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. DeGraff, 113-688—if made after plea but before jury impaneled, it may be granted in sound discretion of court, Ibid.— but if motion not made till after jury sworn, objection deemed to be waived: State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Banner, 149-519.

When motion to quash for disqualification of grand juror is made after plea, and declined without assignment of reason, it is presumed it was declined in the discretion of the court, hence no appeal will lie: State v. DeGraff, 113-688.

Plea in abatement filed before pleading generally to indictment is proper way to raise question of qualification of an individual grand juror: State v. Sharp, 110-604; but see State v. Haywood, 94-847—though such plea will not be sustained, unless shows want of some positive qualification prescribed by law, State v. Sharp, 110-604—and all other objections to competency of grand jurors must be taken by challenge in apt time, Ibid. Plea in abatement, on grounds of incompetency of one of grand jurors, put in after pleading to indictment, is not in apt time: State v. Potts, 100-457.

Motion to quash allowed where persons of negro race excluded from grand jury solely on account of color, and defendant is a colored man: State v. Peoples, 131-785—where grand juror failed to pay taxes for preceding year, State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-659; State v. Griffice, 74-316—where one of grand jurors who found bill at time a suit pending and at issue in same court, State v. Gardner, 104-739; State v. Smith, 80-140—where one of grand jurors under age of twenty-one years at time of finding bill, State v. Griffice, 74-321.

Motion to quash not allowed on ground that prepayment of taxes was not made qualification for persons on jury list from which grand jury found: State v. Daniels, 134-641; State v. Fertilizer Co., 111-658—that son of prosecutor was member of grand jury and actively participated in finding bill, State v. Sharp, 110-604—that it appeared that jury list from which grand jury drawn did not contain names of all persons in county qualified to act as jurors, State v. Haywood, 73-437.

An act of legislature making concurrence of nine members of grand jury sufficient is unconstitutional: State v. Barker, 107-913.

Defendant is not required to show affirmatively that grand juror, who was disqualified by having suit on docket, was actually present and participated in deliberations of grand jury when bill found: State v. Smith, 80-410. No evidence of disqualification is necessary when court refuses motion to quash solely on ground that it is too late: State v. Haywood, 94-847. Juror not disqualified for nonpayment of tax for preceding year where he was not liable to tax: State v. Perry, 122-1018. No disqualification for grand juror that he is not a freeholder: Ibid. Burden of showing disqualification of juror is upon the defendant: Ibid. Fact that grand juror was a minor when his name put upon jury list is immaterial if he was of age at time he served: Ibid.

That the foreman of grand jury was prosecutor and swore out the warrant before the justice is not sufficient ground to quash the bill: State v. Pitt, 166-268.

Omission of foreman to mark on indictment names of witnesses sworn and examined is no ground for quashing bill: State v. Hines, 84-810.

If a minor serves on grand jury, a plea in abatement would lie as to all bills in whose finding he took part: State v. Perry, 122-1021.

Certificate on back of bill of indictment not appearing to have been signed by foreman is not ground for motion to quash: State v. Long, 143-670.

2336. Foreman may administer oaths to witnesses. The foreman of every grand jury duly sworn and impaneled in any of the courts has power to administer oaths and affirmations to persons to be examined before it as witnesses: Provided, that the said foreman shall not administer such oath or affirmation to any person except those whose names are endorsed on the bill of indictment by the officer prosecuting in behalf of the state, or by direction of the court. The foreman of the grand jury shall mark on the bill the names of the witnesses sworn and examined before the jury.

Rev., s. 1971; Code, s. 1742; 1879, c. 12.

Authority of foreman to swear witness to be examined before grand jury does not oust such power of clerk of court: State v. White, 88-698; State v. Allen, 83-680. Judge has no power to require grand jury to have state's witnesses examined publicly: State v. Branch, 68-186.

Record stated that persons impaneled as grand jurors, among whom was the one appointed foreman, were "duly drawn, sworn, and court, having appointed J. P. foreman, are charged": Held, that it sufficiently appeared that foreman had been properly drawn and sworn: State v. Weaver, 104-758.

Recital that "jurors upon their oath present," etc., raises presumption, when accompanied by endorsement "a true bill," signed by foreman, that it was duly returned and presented in open court: State v. Weaver, 104-758.

The indorsement "a true bill" raises presumption that every member of grand jury concurred in finding it: State v. McNeill, 93-552.

One defendant cannot be examined against his codefendant for purpose of obtaining true bill against both: State v. Krider, 78-481.

A presentment need not be signed by any one; it is the returning of indictment in open court and its being there recorded that makes it effectual: State v. Cox, 28-440.

Not ground to quash indictment that blank space after "thus" in certificate "witnesses whose names are marked thus, were sworn and examined" was not filled in with cross-mark or check: State v. Sultan, 142-569; State v. Sheppard, 97-401—as requirement that foreman shall mark on bill names of witnesses sworn and examined is merely directory, State v. Hollingsworth, 100-535; State v. Hines, 84-810—and endorsement upon back of indictment forms no part of record, State v. Sheppard, 97-401.

Where it does not appear by endorsement on bill that witnesses were sworn and examined, it is no ground for motion to quash indictment where proof is that witnesses were sworn: State v. Hollingsworth, 100-535; State v. Sheppard, 97-401; State v. Hines, 84-810—or for motion in arrest of judgment after verdict, State v. Sheppard, 97-401—and motion in arrest of judgment will not be sustained where it does not appear from endorsement on indictment that witnesses were sworn before sent to grand jury, State v. Roberts, 19-540.

Not necessary that it should appear that state's witnesses sent before jury by solicitor: State v. Frizell, 111-722.

No endorsement on bill of indictment by grand jury necessary: State v. Long, 143-676; State v. Sultan, 142-569, overruling State v. McBroom, 127-528—and record that it was presented by grand jury is sufficient in absence of evidence to impeach it, State v. Sultan, 142-569; State v. Guilford, 49-83; State v. Cox, 28-440; State v. Calhoun, 18-376; and as bearing upon same, see State v. Harwood, 60-226; State v. Roberts, 19-540. Indictment need not be signed by any one: State v. Mace, 86-668; State v. Cox, 28-440; State v. Calhoun, 18-374.

The foreman can excuse a grand juror for the term: State v. Perry, 122-1022.

Section merely referred to in State v. Ivey, 100-540.

2337. Grand jury to visit jail and county home. Every grand jury, while the court is in session, shall visit the county home for the aged and infirm, the workhouse, if there is one, and the jail, examine the same, and especially the apartments in which inmates and prisoners shall be confined; and they shall report to the court the condition thereof and of the inmates and prisoners confined therein, and also the manner in which the jailer or superintendent has discharged his duties.

Rev., s. 1972; Code, s. 785; R. C., c. 30, s. 3; 1816, c. 911, s. 3.

For duty of grand jury in reporting infants without guardian, see Guardian and Ward, s. 2197.

ART. 5. SPECIAL VENIRE

2338. Special venire to sheriff in capital cases. When a judge of the superior court deems it necessary to a fair and impartial trial of any person charged with a capital offense, he may issue to the sheriff of the county in which the trial may be a special writ of venire facias, commanding him to summon such number of persons qualified to act as jurors in said county as the judge may deem sufficient (such number being designated in the writ), to appear on some specified day of the term as jurors of said court; and the sheriff shall forthwith execute the writ and return it to the clerk of the court on the day when it is returnable, with the names of the jurors summoned.

Rev., s. 1973; Code, s. 1738; R. C., c. 35, s. 30; 1830, c. 27; 1913, c. 31, s. 1.

For special law applicable to New Hanover county, see 1909, c. 342.

For application of special act, see State v. Sandlin, 156-624. Discretionary with judge to order special venire in capital cases: State v. Brogden, 111-656. Special venire ordered hereunder only where person charged with capital offense: State v. Bullock, 63-570. Where on trial for murder solicitor states he will only ask for verdict of manslaughter, no special venire necessary: State v. Hunt, 128-584. Discretionary with judge whether he will order venire under this section or section 2339: State v. Smarr, 121-669—though practice of drawing jury under section 2339 commended, State v. Brogden, 111-656. Judge may determine number of special venire: Ibid.—which he may likewise change by another order, Ibid. Order for special venire sufficient if made at term at which trial had: State v. Murph, 60-129—but not necessary that record should show that writ of venire facias issued by clerk where shown that order obtained and jurors attended, State v. Perry, 44-330.

Objection to manner of summoning special venire should be taken by challenge to array: State v. Douglass, 63-500—but it is no cause of challenge to array by negro accused of crime that special venire is composed entirely of white men, there being no charge of corruption or unfairness against sheriff, State v. Sloan, 97-499.

Juror summoned on special venire is qualified to serve, if freeholder of county where trial had: State v. Powell, 94-965; State v. Kilgore, 93-533; State v. Carland, 90-668. See section 2326.

It is no cause of challenge that a special venireman had served on the jury within the past two years: State v. Starnes, 94-973; State v. Kilgore, 93-533; State v. Whitfield, 92-831; but see State v. Cody, 119-909, and section 2326—or had not paid taxes for preceding year, State v. Kilgore, 93-533; but see State v. Cody, 119-909—or that has suit pending and at issue in court, State v. Starnes, 94-973; but see State v. Cody, 119-909—but that juror is nonresident of county where trial had is cause of challenge, State v. Bullock, 63-570.

Special venire is in aid of original panel, and only such jurors are taken from it as required to form jury after original exhausted: State v. Washington, 90-664—and jurors of regular panel should be drawn from box before special venire summoned and drawn, State v. Benton, 19-196.

Person exempted by law from jury service not bound to serve on special venire: State v. Whitford, 34-99.

Prisoner has right to have jurors stood aside by state in capital case tendered to him or challenged by state before another venire resorted to: State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Washington, 90-664; State v. Shaw, 25-532.

An alien is not entitled to a jury de mediatate lingue in this state: State v. Antonio, 11-200.

Not error for judge, in ordering special venire, to direct sheriff to summon only freeholders who have paid taxes for preceding year, who have not served on jury within last two years, who have no suits pending and at issue in court, and not under indictment: State v. Cody, 119-908; but see State v. Starnes, 94-973; State v. Kilgore, 93-533.

For who are freeholders, see under section 2321.

2339. Drawn from jury box in court by judge's order. When a judge deems a special venire necessary, he may, at his discretion, issue an order to the clerk of the board of commissioners for the county, commanding him to bring into open court forthwith the jury boxes of the county, and he shall cause the number of scrolls as designated by him to be drawn from box number one by a child under ten years of age. The names so drawn shall constitute the special venire, and the clerk of the superior court shall insert their names in the writ of venire, and deliver the same to the sheriff of the county, and the persons named in the writ and no others shall be summoned by the sheriff. If the special venire is exhausted before the jury is chosen, the judge shall order another special venire until the jury has been chosen. The scrolls containing the names of the persons drawn as jurors from box number one shall, after the jury is chosen, be placed in box number two, and if box number one is exhausted before the jury is chosen, the drawing shall be completed from box number two after the same has been well shaken.

Rev. s. 1974; Code, s. 1739; 1897, c. 364; 1913, c. 31, s. 2.

See section 2326.

Statute must be strictly observed: State v. Parker, 132-1015. Immaterial that error in middle letter of name of juror entered on scroll: State v. Mills, 91-581—or that Christian name only indicated by initial letters, State v. Simmons, 51-309.

It is no cause for challenge to array that sheriff failed to summon several of special venire drawn from jury box: State v. Stanton, 118-1182—or that jury box not revised by county commissioners, in absence of allegation that sheriff acted corruptly or with partiality in summoning venire, or that something was done which affected the integrity and fairness of entire panel, Ibid.

Action of judge in determining qualifications of juror when his name drawn from the box is ground for challenge to array by motion to quash and set aside entire panel: State v. Moore, 120-570—and in absence of such challenge defendant cannot take advantage of alleged error after trial and judgment, Ibid.

Integrity and fairness of special venire not affected by fact that one man named in writ had removed from county, and another was dead when jury list revised by commissioners: State v. Whitt, 113-716; State v. Hensley, 94-1021—nor by fact that one named in writ is not summoned, State v. Whitt, 113-716—nor by fact that sheriff, in copying list of venire, omitted by mistake the name of one person, and such person in consequence was not summoned, Ibid.

Not grounds for challenge to array that sheriff returned on writ that he had not summoned one juror because dead, and had not summoned three others because they could not be found: State v. Speaks, 94-865.

Where special venire drawn by boy over ten years of age, and several of venire served as jurors, such facts should be taken advantage of by challenge to array: State v. Parker, 132-1014—or by motion to quash panel before jury sworn, and not by motion in arrest of judgment, Ibid.

Practice of drawing jurors from box under this section commended: State v. Brogden, 111-656; State v. Whitson, 111-695—though section not mandatory, State v. Whitson, 111-695—but discretionary with court whether it will summon venire under this section, State v. Smarr, 121-669.

Where special venire exhausted without completing jury, court may order further venire to be summoned from bystanders: State v. Stanton, 118-1182. Only freeholders can be summoned: State v. Moore, 120-566—and findings of judge that persons drawn on special venire were not freeholders is conclusive on appeal, State v. Register, 133-746. As to who are freeholders, see under section 2321.

Where partitions of jury box marked ‘jurors drawn’ and ‘jurors not drawn’ instead of ‘No. 1’ and ‘No. 2,’ and only one key, which unlocked both partitions, same being in possession of register, special venire drawn therefrom under directions of presiding judge was legal: State v. Potts, 100-457.

Quere, whether juror who holds bond to make title to tract of land, on which portion of purchase money still due, is freeholder capable of serving upon special venire: State v. Hensley, 94-1021.

Court at term to which writ of special venire returnable may permit amendment of return to writ by sheriff showing list of names of veniremen, those summoned and those not summoned, together with reason why not summoned: State v. Whitt, 113-716.

It is not error, after special venire is exhausted, to have names of special veniremen who were stood aside put in the hat and drawn again instead of having them called in order in which they were stood aside: State v. Utley, 132-1022.

Section referred to in State v. Jones, 97-470; State v. Gooch, 94-1006.

2340. Penalty on sheriff not executing writ or jurors not attending. If any sheriff fails duly to execute and return such writ of venire facias, he shall be fined by the court not exceeding one hundred dollars. All jurors so summoned shall attend until discharged by the court, under the same rules and penalties as are prescribed for other jurors.

Rev., ss. 1975, 3602; Code, s. 1740; R. C., c. 35, s. 31; 1830, c. 27, s. 2.

Where a sheriff, in making his return on a writ and list of special venire, endorsed thereon: "Received October 25, 1893; executed October 30, 1893, by summoning one hundred and fifty men," it was within discretion of court to which writ returnable to permit amendment of return so as to show those actually summoned and those not, with reasons why they were not: State v. Whitt, 113-716.

For jurors in justices' courts, see section 1504.

For jury trial in divorce proceeding, see section 1662.

For right of jury trial, see sections 556, 562, 2370.

For waiver of jury trial, see section 568.

For argument to jury, see section 203.

For verdict of jury, see sections 585, 588.

- 2374. Restitution of tenant, if case quashed, etc., on appeal.
- 2375. Damages to tenant for dispossession, if proceedings quashed, etc.

ART. 4. FORMS.

- 2376. Forms sufficient.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

2341. Lessor and lessee not partners. No lessor of property, merely by reason that he is to receive as rent or compensation for its use a share of the proceeds or net profits of the business in which it is employed, or any other uncertain consideration, shall be held a partner of the lessee.

Rev., s. 1982; Code, s. 1744; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 3.

Lessor and lessee are not partners: State v. Keith, 126-1115. Where one person was to furnish land, farming implements, feed and team, and another person was to do the work, and crops to be equally divided, there was no agricultural partnership: Lawrence v. Weeks, 107-119; Day v. Stevens, 88-83, correcting Curtin v. Cash, 84-41.

Section merely referred to in Belcher v. Grimsley, 88-90.

2342. Attornment unnecessary on conveyance of reversions, etc. Every conveyance of any rent, reversion, or remainder in lands, tenements or hereditaments, otherwise sufficient, shall be deemed complete without attornment by the holders of particular estates in said lands: Provided, no holder of a particular estate shall be prejudiced by any act done by him as holding under his grantor, without notice of such conveyance.

Rev., s. 947; Code, s. 1764; 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 9; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 17.

2343. Term forfeited for nonpayment of rent. In all verbal or written leases of real property of any kind in which is fixed a definite time for the payment of the rent reserved therein, there shall be implied a forfeiture of the term upon failure to pay the rent within ten days after a demand is made by the lessor or his agent on said lessee for all past-due rent, and the lessor may forthwith enter and dispossess the tenant without having declared such forfeiture or reserved the right of reëntry in the lease.

2344. Recovery for use and occupation. When any person occupies land of another by the permission of such other, without any express agreement for rent, or upon a parol lease which is void, the landlord may recover a reasonable compensation for such occupation, and if by such parol lease a certain rent was reserved, such reservation may be received as evidence of the value of the occupation.

Rev., s. 1986; Code, s. 1746; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 5.

Where lease void under statute of frauds, lessor could only recover for time premises were occupied: Harty v. Harris, 120-411.

2345. Rent apportioned, where lease terminated by death. If a lease of land, in which rent is reserved, payable at the end of the year or other certain period of time, is determined by the death of any person during one of the periods in which the rent was growing due, the lessor or his personal representative may recover a part of the rent which becomes due after the death, proportionate to the part of the period elapsed before the death, subject to all just allowances; and if any security was given for such rent it shall be apportioned in like manner.

Rev., s. 1987; Code, s. 1747; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 6.

2346. Rents apportioned, where right to payment terminated by death. In all cases where rents, rent charges, annuities, pensions, dividends, or any other payments of any description, are made payable at fixed periods to successive owners under any instrument, or by any will, and where the right of any owner to receive payment is terminable by a death or other uncertain event, and where such right so terminates during a period in which a payment is growing due, the payment becoming due next after such terminating event, shall be apportioned among the successive owners according to the parts of such periods elapsing before and after the terminating event.

Rev., s. 1988; Code, s. 1748; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 7.

Section referred to in Spruill v. Arrington, 109-195.

2347. In lieu of emblements, farm lessee holds out year, with rents apportioned. When any lease for years of any land let for farming on which a rent is reserved determines during a current year of the tenancy, by the happening of any uncertain event determining the estate of the lessor, the tenant in lieu of emblements shall continue his occupation to the end of such current year, and shall then give up such possession to the succeeding owner of the land, and shall pay to such succeeding owner a part of the rent accrued since the last payment became due, proportionate to the part of the period of payment elapsing after the termination of the estate of the lessor to the giving up such possession; and the tenant in such case shall be entitled to a reasonable compensation for the tillage and seed of any crop not gathered at the expiration of such current year from the person succeeding to the possession.

Rev., s. 1990; Code, s. 1749; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 8.

Whenever relation of landlord and tenant exists, without any limitation as to time, such tenancy shall be from year to year: Stedman v. McIntosh, 26-291; Murrill v. Palmer, 164-50.

Lease of land made by tenant for life terminates at his death, but by this section lease continued to end of current lease year, that tenant may gather crops: King v. Foscue, 91-116—but in such case remainderman entitled to part of rent proportionate to part of year elapsing after termination of life estate to surrendering of possession to remainderman, Ibid.; Hayes v. Wrenn, 167-229.

Section embraces lease for single year, although it provides in terms “for any lease for years”: King v. Foscue, 91-116.

Section merely referred to in Spruill v. Arrington, 109-195; Railroad v. Railroad, 104-671; Dail & Bro. v. Freeman, 92-358.

2348. Grantees of reversion and assigns of lease have reciprocal rights under covenants. The grantee in every conveyance of reversion in lands, tenements or hereditaments has the like advantages and remedies by action or entry against the holders of particular estates in such real property, and their assigns, for nonpayment of rent, and for the nonperformance of other conditions and agreements contained in the instruments by the tenants of such particular estates, as the grantor or lessor or his heirs might have; and the holders of such particular estates, and their assigns, have the like advantages and remedies against the grantee of the reversion, or any part thereof, for any conditions and agreements contained in such instruments, as they might have had against the grantor or his lessors or his heirs.

Rev., s. 1989; Code, s. 1765; 32 Hen. VIII, c. 34; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 18.

2349. Agreement to rebuild, how construed in case of fire. An agreement in a lease to repair a demised house shall not be construed to bind the contracting party to rebuild or repair in case the house shall be destroyed or damaged to more than one-half of its value, by accidental fire not occurring from the want of ordinary diligence on his part.

Rev., s. 1985; Code, s. 1752; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 11.

2350. Tenant not liable for accidental damage. A tenant for life, or years, or for a less term, shall not be liable for damage occurring on the demised premises accidentally, and notwithstanding reasonable diligence on his part, unless he so contract.

Rev., s. 1991; Code, s. 1751; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 10.

For liability of landlord and tenant for injury resulting from defective premises, see Fields v. Ogburn, 178-407; Bailey v. Long, 175-687; Rucker v. Willey, 174-42; Knight v. Foster, 163-329.

2351. Willful destruction by tenant misdemeanor. If any tenant shall, during his term or after its expiration, willfully and unlawfully demolish, destroy, deface, injure or damage any tenement house, uninhabited house or other out-house, belonging to his landlord or upon his premises by removing parts thereof or by burning, or in any other manner, or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, destroy, pull down, injure or remove any fence, wall or other inclosure or any part thereof, built or standing upon the premises of such landlord, or shall willfully and unlawfully cut down or destroy any timber, fruit, shade or ornamental tree belonging to said landlord, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3686; Code, s. 1761; 1883, c. 224.

Meaning of word "wilful" as here used: State v. Whitener, 93-590.

A charge of burning a dwelling-house by defendant as "lessee" comes hereunder: State v. Graham, 121-623. Evidence that defendant at a prior time was guilty of a similar offense, inadmissible: Ibid.

Burden of proof is upon state to establish that the relation of landlord and tenant existed; that during the term, or after its expiration, tenant willfully and unlawfully injured the house, etc.: State v. Godwin, 138-582. And if defendant destroyed the house under reasonable and bona fide belief that he had right to do so, he is not guilty: State v. Lumber Co., 153-610. A corporation is indictable hereunder for acts of its agents: Ibid.

Section cited in State v. Chaffin, 125-660; State v. Morgan, 136-630, approving State v. Whitener, 93-590.

2352. Lessee may surrender, where building destroyed or damaged. If a demised house, or other building, is destroyed during the term, or so much damaged that it cannot be made reasonably fit for the purpose for which it was hired, except at an expense exceeding one year's rent of the premises, and the damage occur without negligence on the part of the lessee or his agents or servants, and there is no agreement in the lease respecting repairs, or providing for such a case, and the use of the house damaged was the main inducement to the hiring, the lessee may surrender his estate in the demised premises by a writing to that effect delivered or tendered to the landlord within ten days from the damage, and by paying or tendering at the same time all rent in arrear, and a part of the rent growing due at the time of the damage, proportionate to the time between the last period of payment and the occurrence of the damage, and the lessee shall be thenceforth discharged from all rent accruing afterwards; but not from any other agreement in the lease. This section shall not apply if a contrary intention appear from the lease.

Rev., s. 1992; Code, s. 1753; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 12.

2353. Wrongful surrender to other than landlord misdemeanor. Any tenant or lessee of lands who shall willfully, wrongfully and with intent to defraud the landlord or lessor, give up the possession of the rented or leased premises to any person other than his landlord or lessor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3682; Code, s. 1760; 1883, c. 138.

2354. Notice to quit in certain tenancies. A tenancy from year to year may be terminated by a notice to quit given one month or more before the end of the current year of the tenancy; a tenancy from month to month by a like notice of seven days; a tenancy from week to week, of two days.

Rev., s. 1984; Code, s. 1750; 1891, c. 227; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 9.

Where tenant, under lease for year 1896 at specified price per month, payable in advance, held until June, 1897, and the landlord received rent up to June, 1897, the tenancy was from month to month in 1897: Simmons v. Jarman, 122-195.

Where tenant from month to month, who has paid his rent to June 1, 1897, received notice from landlord on May 18, 1897, "to get out within thirty days," such notice was invalid as to May, as rent had been paid: Simmons v. Jarman, 122-195—and invalid as to June because prescribed time for quitting did not end with end of month, Ibid.

What constitutes a tenancy from year to year: Murrill v. Palmer, 164-50; Holton v. Andrews, 151-340. Whenever relation of landlord and tenant exists without any limitation as to time, such tenancy shall be from year to year: Stedman v. McIntosh, 26-291—and neither party can put an end to it, except by regular notice, Ibid.

Persons occupying stalls in town market house do not acquire rights of tenants from year to year by being permitted to hold over after period covered by their license has expired: Hutchins v. Durham, 118-457.

Where person put in possession of land by owner without any agreement for rent and with express provision that he shall leave whenever owner requires him to do so, he is not tenant from year to year: Humphries v. Humphries, 25-362—and not entitled to statutory notice, Ibid.

Where tenant leased premises at stipulated rent per month and held over for several months, paying same rent without any new agreement, he was a tenant from month to month, and entitled to fourteen (now seven) days notice to quit: Branton v. O'Bryant, 93-99.

Where person leased to another, who assigned same to third person, notice to quit given by landlord instead of by immediate lessor is sufficient: Waters v. Roberts, 89-145.

Tenant entitled to written or verbal notice to quit: Vincent v. Corbin, 85-108—and mere demand for possession is insufficient, Ibid.

For cases prior to amendment changing law, see Vincent v. Corbin, 85-108; Jones v. Willis, 53-430; Stedman v. McIntosh, 26-291.

ART. 2. AGRICULTURAL TENANCIES

2355. Landlord's lien on crops for rents, advances, etc., enforcement. When lands are rented or leased by agreement, written or oral, for agricultural purposes, or are cultivated by a cropper, unless otherwise agreed between the parties to the lease or agreement, any and all crops raised on said lands shall be deemed and held to be vested in possession of the lessor or his assigns at all times, until the rents for said lands are paid and until all the stipulations contained in the lease or agreement are performed, or damages in lieu thereof paid to the lessor or his assigns, and until said party or his assigns is paid for all advancements made and expenses incurred in making and saving said crops. A landlord to entitle himself to the benefit of the lien herein provided for, must conform as to the prices charged for the advance to the provisions of the article Agricultural Liens, in the chapter Liens.

This lien shall be preferred to all other liens, and the lessor or his assigns is entitled, against the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, who removes the crop or any part thereof from the lands without the consent of the lessor or his assigns, or against any other person who may get possession of said crop or any part thereof, to the remedies given in an action upon a claim for the delivery of personal property.

Rev., s. 1993; Code, s. 1754; 1876-7, c. 283; 1917, c. 134.

Common-law remedy of lessor by distress does not obtain in this state: Howland v. Forlaw, 108-567.

Where tenants in common agreed to make partition of lands and fix boundaries, and that one should occupy whole and pay to other his portion of crop raised thereon, such agreement did not create relation of landlord and tenant between parties: Medlin v. Steele, 75-154.

As to whether parties are tenants or croppers, see Neal v. Bellamy, 73-384; Hudgins v. Wood, 72-256; Haywood v. Rogers, 73-320; State v. Burwell, 63-661; Denton v. Strickland, 48-62; Harrison v. Ricks, 71-7. Cropper has no estate in land, and his possession is that of landlord: State v. Austin, 123-749. Tenant or cropper and servant distinguished in State v. Etheridge, 169-263. Where contract is one of tenancy, relation terminates upon division of crops, there being no unsatisfied lien for advances or to secure performance of other stipulations: Curtis v. Cash, 84-41.

Where it appeared that there had been an adjustment between parties of conflicting claims to land, and agreement that defendant should remain in possession of and cultivate land upon payment of part of crop as rent, relation of lessor and lessee existed under contract, which is supported by sufficient consideration: Durant v. Taylor, 89-351.

Hay is ordinarily embraced in word "crops" as used in section, but not, it seems, when it is merely a spontaneous growth, as crab-grass sprung up after another crop housed: State v. Crook, 132-1053.

For cases under prior enactment, see Durham v. Speeke, 82-87; Foster v. Penny, 76-131; Varney v. Spencer, 72-382; Deaver v. Rice, 20-576.

Tenant can recover damages for failure of landlord to furnish him with fertilizers which he agreed to do: Herring v. Armwood, 130-177.

"ADVANCEMENTS." Where landlord either pays for or becomes responsible for supplies to enable tenant to make a crop, such supplies are advances: Powell v. Perry, 127-22. Supplies necessary to make and save crop are such articles as are in good faith furnished to and received by tenant for that purpose: Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276—and proper for court to leave it to jury to find whether mule, wagon, etc., were treated as advancements, Ibid. When landlord and tenant undertake by collusion and fraud to create indebtedness to former, under color of advancements, to prejudice of creditors of tenant, such transaction will not be sustained: Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276. Advancements for which lien is created in favor of landlord by section embraces anything of value supplied by landlord to tenant, or cropper, in good faith, directly or indirectly, for purpose of making and saving crop: Brown v. Brown, 109-124—and where advancements are of such things as in their nature are appropriate and necessary to cultivation of crop, as farming implements and work animals, they will be presumed to create lien, Ibid.—but when they are of articles not in themselves so appropriate and necessary, as dry goods and groceries, whether they create a lien depends upon purpose for which they are furnished, and it must affirmatively appear that they were made in aid of crop, Ibid. Where landlord furnished board to tenant and family while crop was being cultivated, if landlord supplied board so that tenant might make and save crop, nothing to contrary appearing, reasonable value of such board would constitute advancements within meaning of section: Ibid.

Where landlord advanced certain cotton seed, etc., to his tenant in 1884, and in 1885 and 1886 allowed tenant to retain parts of undivided cotton seed and crops as advancements, he had a landlord's lien on such seed and crops: Thigpen v. Maget, 107-39—which took priority over lien of tenant's vendee of crops, who had advanced supplies to tenant, Ibid.—division of crop and delivery back to tenant not being necessary to constitute a valid advancement, Ibid.

LANDLORD'S LIEN. Law implies lien by virtue of section when relation of landlord and tenant established: State v. Smith, 106-653. Landlord's lien superior to all other liens: Reynolds v. Taylor, 144-167; Brewer v. Chappell, 101-251; Wooten v. Hill, 98-48; Ledbetter v. Quick, 90-276. When defendant rents store upon plaintiff's lands for mercantile purposes and land for agricultural purposes, under an entire and indivisible contract to pay stipulated sum and certain portion of crops raised on land as entire rent of store and lands, without apportionment of any distinct part to be paid for store, plaintiff has a landlord's lien on all products grown on land until entire rent paid: Reynolds v. Taylor, 144-165. Lessee who sublets land and furnishes supplies to sub-tenants, holds prior lien to mortgagor of crops: Perry v. Perry, 127-23. Landlord's lien under section is released only upon absolute and unqualified division to tenant of his share: Jarrell v. Daniel, 114-212—and where landlord and tenant through common agent set apart share of crop which tenant was to have whenever advancements paid on it, and tenant was not to remove such share until lien paid off, there was no such division as to divest lien of landlord, Ibid.

After default by vendee of land to pay purchase money, vendor may by contract become landlord of vendee so as to avail himself of landlord's lien given by section, rent, however, to go as credit upon purchase price agreed to be paid for land: Jones v. Jones, 117-254— and courts will not declare such contract void, Ibid.

Section makes judgment for rent a lien on crop: Hargrove v. Harris, 116-419.

Subrenting does not release landlord's lien upon crops: State v. Crook, 132-1054; Montague v. Mial, 89-137—though sub-tenant's crop may thereby be subjected to double lien, that of landlord and his immediate lessor, but lien of landlord paramount, Montague v. Mial, 89-137; Moore v. Faison, 97-322.

Where a note is executed for rent of land which the tenant has the option to purchase, the owner has a landlord's lien on the crop: Burwell v. Warehouse Co., 172-79. When landlord and tenant join in a mortgage to a third person and landlord pays the debt, his lien is prior to that of the mortgage as against the tenant's right to have the property applied: Tripp v. Harris, 154-296.

That lease between lessor and lessee is void does not affect relations existing between lessee and sub-tenant as to lien for advancements: Perry v. Perry, 127-23.

Tenant being estopped from denying that party from whom he leased is his landlord and entitled to rents cannot escape landlord's lien by claiming personal property exemptions out of crop: Hamer v. McCall, 121-196; Durham v. Speeke, 82-87.

Agreement after default between mortgagor and mortgagee that mortgagor was to remain in possession as tenant would confer landlord's lien upon mortgagee: Cooper v. Kimball, 123-120.

Landlord's lien extends to and includes costs of such legal proceedings as are necessary to recover his rents: Slaughter v. Winfrey, 85-159—and as all crops are his until such lien discharged, tenant has no property therein which he can claim as his constitutional exemption as against such costs, Ibid.

Where lessee sublets part of farm, he becomes lessor to his sub-lessee, and he is entitled to same lien on crop which section gives to lessor: Moore v. Faison, 97-322—but original lessor, after his lessee has paid him in full, has no lien under section on crop of sub-lessee for advances made by him to sub-lessee, Ibid.

Landlord's lien may be given up, but contract to give it up, in order to be enforced, must be based upon consideration: Sugg v. Farrar, 107-123. Although lien of landlord for advances is superior to that of third party making advances to tenant, nevertheless, such priority exists only for advances made, or rents accrued, during year in which crops were made, and not for balance due for antecedent year: Fleming v. Davenport, 116-153; Ballard v. Johnson, 114-141.

Except in case of landlord and tenant, provided for specially by section, lessor has no lien upon products of leased property as rent: Howland v. Forlaw, 108-567—it is for all purposes, until division, deemed vested in tenant, and his sale to third parties before rent ascertained and set apart conveys good title, Ibid.

POSSESSION AND TITLE TO CROP. All crops raised on land, whether by tenant or cropper, are deemed to be vested in landlord, in absence of agreement to contrary, until rent and advancements paid: State v. Austin, 123-749; Boone v. Darden, 109-74; Smith v. Tindall, 107-88; State v. Smith, 106-654; Durham v. Speeke, 82-90—and an attempt to appropriate and carry off crop may be repelled by landlord by force, provided no more force is used than necessary to protect his possession, State v. Austin, 123-759. Although constructive possession of crop is vested by section in landlord, yet during cultivation, and for all purposes of making and gathering crop, actual possession is in tenant until rent and advances become due, or division can be had: Jordan v. Bryan, 103-59; State v. Townsend, 170-696.

For lessor's protection, as between him and tenant, possession of crop deemed vested in lessor: State v. Higgins, 126-1112; State v. Keith, 126-1114; Bridgers v. Dill, 97-222; Kesler v. Cornelison, 98-383—but as between tenant and third parties, tenant entitled to possession and crop, Ibid. Until division of crop and possession by tenant of his share, tenant can not convey legal title to purchaser: McNeely v. Hart, 32-63. Section gives landlord title to crop until rent actually paid (whether claim be reduced to judgment or not) and such title not impaired by fact that tenant conveys crop to third person, who takes without notice of landlord's claim: Belcher v. Grimsley, 88-88. Tenant may in good faith, for purpose of preserving crop, sever it from land and remove it to place of security upon land upon which produced, without notice to landlord: State v. Williams, 106-646.

Where occupant of land is vendee or mortgagor in default, though he may for some purposes be considered a tenant at will, he is not a lessee whose crop, under section, is vested in landlord: Taylor v. Taylor, 112-27.

Landlord who has agreed to take portion of crop, or specified sum of money as rental, and has received part of rental in money, is entitled to possession of whole crop until rent satisfied: McGehee v. Breedlove, 122-277.

When cropper abandons before maturity, he forfeits all interest in crop, which becomes fully the property of landlord: Beacom v. Boing, 126-136.

DIVISION OF CROP. Cropper cannot convey legal title to his share of crop to third person before actual division and appropriation: McNeely v. Hart, 32-63. Where in contract between landlord and tenant no time was fixed for division of crop, landlord was not obliged to wait until whole crop had been gathered, but had right to bring action for possession of crop before it was fully harvested: Rich v. Hobson, 112-79. Proper course, ordinarily, between landlord and tenant, is to have crops divided as they are gathered, subject to convenience and interest of parties, and as soon as reasonably can be. Smith v. Tindall, 107-88. Landlord was entitled to have his crop, that is, enough for rent and advancements, gathered at time he demands it, and he was not obliged to wait for division until whole crop was gathered, Ibid.

Where, by agreement between landlord and tenant, advances made by former to latter should be due and demandable "when all crops gathered and divided," but no agreement as to time when they should be divided, landlord's right to demand rent and pay for advances did not accrue until crop gathered and ready for division: Jordan v. Bryan, 103-59—and where he divided corn with tenant, who removed his share thereof, landlord waived and lost his lien on defendant's share, Ibid.

Where landlord and tenant set apart share of crop for tenant to have upon paying advances due upon it, and tenant told not to move such share until lien paid off, there was no such division as to divest lien of landlord: Jarrell v. Daniel, 114-212.

PRIORITY AS BETWEEN LANDLORD AND THIRD PARTY. Landlord's lien for rent and advances is superior to that of third party making advances to tenant: Fleming v. Davenport, 116-153; Ballard v. Johnson, 114-141; Spruill v. Arrington, 109-192; Branch v. Galloway, 105-193—notwithstanding priority of latter in point of time, Spruill v. Arrington, 109-192.

Where it does not appear that mule sold to tenant was part of supplies advanced by landlord, mortgage creditor has prior lien on crop as to it, and landlord could not retain crops for its purchase money: Branch v. Galloway, 105-193—use of mule in cultivation of crops not necessarily making it an advancement, Ibid.

Where landlord, who had lien on certain property, directed purchaser of such property from tenant to pay purchase money to tenant, but revoked order before same paid, there being no consideration for the order, and no change of status of parties, and purchaser afterwards paid money to tenant, landlord entitled to recover value of property from purchaser: Sugg v. Farrar, 107-123.

Landlord liable to account to person advancing supplies to tenant for value of crops in excess of his lien: Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-142.

Landlord's lien for rent takes priority of mortgage for advancements, especially when parties contract that landlord's lien for rent shall be retained: Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-444.

After forfeiture, mortgagee can by contract become landlord of mortgagor so as to avail himself of landlord's lien which, though such contract be oral and unregistered, has priority over supplies furnished by third persons who by registration of mortgage are fixed with notice of mortgagor's default and mortgagee's right of entry: Ford v. Green, 121-70.

REMEDY TO RECOVER POSSESSION. Action will lie, not only where crop removed from land leased, but also in a case where tenant or cropper or any other person takes crops into his absolute possession and denies right of landlord thereto: Livingston v. Farish, 89-140. If tenant at any time before satisfying landlord's liens for rent and advances, removes crop or any part of it, he becomes liable civilly and criminally: Jordan v. Bryan, 103-59. Landlord cannot bring claim and delivery for crop before time fixed for division, unless tenant about to remove or dispose of crop, or to abandon growing crop: Ibid.; see Smith v. Tindall, 107-88.

Landlord may bring claim and delivery to recover possession of crops raised by tenant or cropper, where his right of possession denied: Livingston v. Farish, 89-140—or may resort to any other appropriate remedy to enforce his lien for rent due and advances made, Ibid.—and may bring action in nature of trover, Alsbrook v. Shields, 67-333.

Crops produced by tenant being vested in lessor until rents shall be paid, he can maintain an action for recovery of an undivided portion, and it is not necessary that he shall specially designate in his complaint or affidavit in claim and delivery such undivided part: Boone v. Darden, 109-74.

As to jurisdiction of actions under section, see Durant v. Taylor, 89-351; Montague v. Mial, 89-137; Deloach v. Coman, 90-186; Foster v. Penny, 76-131; State v. Surles, 74-33.

Section merely referred to in Parker v. Brown, 136-280; Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-158; Cooper v. Kimball, 123-124; State v. Ewing, 108-756; Brown v. Miller, 108-395; State v. Turner, 106-694; Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229; State v. Copeland, 86-692.

2356. Rights of tenant. When the lessor or his assigns gets the actual possession of the crop or any part thereof otherwise than by the mode prescribed in the preceding section, and refuses or neglects, upon a notice, written or oral, of five days, given by the lessee or cropper or the assigns of either, to make a fair division of said crop, or to pay over to such lessee or cropper or the assigns of either, such part thereof as he may be entitled to under the lease or agreement, then and in that case the lessee or cropper or the assigns of either is entitled to the remedies against the lessor or his assigns given in an action upon a claim for the delivery of personal property to recover such part of the crop as he, in law and according to the lease or agreement, may be entitled to. The amount or quantity of such crop claimed by said lessee or cropper or the assigns of either, together with a statement of the grounds upon which it is claimed, shall be fully set forth in an affidavit at the beginning of the action.

Rev., s. 1994; Code, s. 1755; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 2.

Where cropper dies before harvesting his crop his personal representatives are entitled to recover his share of the crop: Parker v. Brown, 136-280.

When lessee wrongfully deprived of actual possession of crop by lessor, he is left to his civil remedy for the breach of trust, should lessor refuse to account: State v. Keith, 126-1114—and can resort to claim and delivery after five days notice, State v. Austin, 123-751; Boone v. Darden, 109-78; Wilson v. Respass, 86-112.

Right of cropper to receive his portion of crops is protected by section, which for certain purposes creates lien in his favor, and which will be enforced against employer, or landlord, or his assigns: Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229—and which has precedence over agricultural liens made subsequent to contract, but before crop harvested, Ibid.

Where landlord took crop into his sole possession, refusing to divide same when demanded, on ground that crop was not in condition for division, but not denying tenant's right to division, and crop destroyed by fire while in his possession, tenant cannot maintain action in nature of trover against him: Shearin v. Rigsbee, 97-216.

Lessor has no right, where there is no agreement to that effect, to take actual possession from lessee or cropper, and can never do so, except when he obtains same by action of claim and delivery, upon removal of crop by lessee or cropper: State v. Copeland, 86-694.

2357. Action to settle disputes between parties. When any controversy arises between the parties, and neither party avails himself of the provisions of this chapter, it is competent for either party to proceed at once to have the matter determined in the court of a justice of the peace, if the amount claimed is two hundred dollars or less, and in the superior court of the county where the property is situate if the amount so claimed is more than two hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 1995; Code, s. 1756; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 3.

Widow of tenant cultivating land on shares, after crop allotted to her in her year's support, may maintain action for conversion against landlord: Parker v. Brown, 136-280—and not compelled to resort to remedy prescribed by section, Parker v. Brown, 136-287—but may bring civil action to recover value of crops, subject to such deductions as lessor is entitled to by reason of advancements, and such damage as he may have sustained by inability of lessee to perform contract, Ibid.

Damages resulting from failure of landlord to furnish fertilizers to his tenant are not too remote for consideration: Herring v. Armwood, 130-177.

Although action under section is wrongfully brought before clerk of court, yet when it gets into superior court at term, by appeal or otherwise, latter has jurisdiction of whole cause: Elliott v. Tyson, 117-114.

Special jurisdiction of justices of the peace under section does not extend to torts, but is confined to actions for enforcing contracts: Montague v. Mial, 89-137.

Action by landlord against tenant for recovery of rent, sum demanded not exceeding $200, is action upon contract of lease and cognizable in court of justice of the peace: Deloach v. Coman, 90-186.

As bearing upon section, see Durant v. Taylor, 89-351. Section discussed in Wilson v. Respass, 86-114. Section referred to in Elliott v. Tyson, 116-184; State v. Copeland, 86-694.

2358. Tenant's undertaking on continuance or appeal. In case there is a continuance or an appeal from the justice's decision to the superior court, the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, shall be allowed to retain possession of said property upon his giving an undertaking to the lessor or his assigns, or the adverse party, in a sum double the amount of the claim, if such claim does not amount to more than the value of such property, otherwise to double the value of such property, with good and sufficient surety, to be approved by the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court, conditioned for the faithful payment to the adverse party of such damages as he shall recover in said action.

Rev., s. 1995; Code, s. 1756; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 3.

See annotations under section 2357.

2359. Crops delivered to landlord on his undertaking. In case the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, at the time of the appeal or continuance mentioned in the preceding section, fails to give the undertaking therein required, then the constable or other lawful officer shall deliver the property into the actual possession of the lessor or his assigns, upon the lessor or his assigns giving to the adverse party an undertaking in double the amount of said property, to be justified as required in the preceding section, conditioned for the forthcoming of such property, or the value thereof, in case judgment is pronounced against him.

Rev., s. 1996; Code, s. 1757; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 4.

Where lessor solvent and required to give bond of indemnity, court will not restrain him from selling crop: Wilson v. Respass, 86-112.

Section merely referred to in Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229.

2360. Crops sold, if neither party gives undertaking. If neither party gives the undertaking described in the two preceding sections, it is the duty of the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court to issue an order to the constable or sheriff, or other lawful officer, directing him to take into his possession all of said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the claimant's demand and costs. and to sell the same under the rules and regulations prescribed by law for the sale of personal property under execution, and to hold the proceeds thereof subject to the decision of the court upon the issue or issues pending between the parties.

Rev., s. 1997; Code, s. 1758; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 5.

Landlord's lien extends to and includes cost of such legal proceedings as are necessary to recover rents: Slaughter v. Winfrey, 85-159—and tenant has no property therein which he can claim as his constitutional exemption as against such costs, Ibid.

2361. Tenant's crop not subject to execution against landlord. Whenever servants and laborers in agriculture shall by their contracts orally or in writing be entitled, for wages, to a part of the crops cultivated by them, such part shall not be subject to sale under executions against their employers, or the owners of the land cultivated.

Rev., s. 1998; Code, s. 1796.

Section referred to in Tedder v. R. R., 124-344.

2362. Unlawful seizure by landlord or removal by tenant misdemeanor. If any landlord shall unlawfully, willfully, knowingly and without process of law, and unjustly seize the crop of his tenant when there is nothing due him, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, or any other person, shall remove a crop, or any part thereof, from land without the consent of the lessor or his assigns, and without giving him or his agent five days notice of such intended removal, and before satisfying all the liens held by the lessor or his assigns, on said crop, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 3664, 3665; Code, s. 1759; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 6; 1883, c. 83.

LANDLORD'S LIABILITY. The word "crop" includes that which is ungathered as well as gathered, and a charge against the landlord for seizing "corn growing and unmaturing in the field" is sufficient: State v. Townsend, 170-696.

It is not essential that the landlord should take forcible or even manual possession of tenant's crop. The offense is complete if he secures such control over crop as to prevent tenant's removing his part in a peaceable manner: State v. Ewing, 108-755. Section cited in State v. Williams, 106-649.

TENANT'S LIABILITY. This section extends to and protects receivers charged with the management of lands: State v. Turner, 106-691. Lessor who has sold his interest in crop to another, indictable for removing hereunder: State v. Rose, 90-712.

Tenant cannot set up as a defense the landlord's breach of contract, whereby he owes the landlord nothing: State v. Bell, 136-674, overruling State v. Neal, 129-692. If tenant aids and abets subtenant in removing a crop before paying the lien of the landlord, he is guilty: State v. Crook, 132-1053. As to punishment, see State v. Powell, 94-920.

Landlord's right to lien is not impaired by sub-letting: Montague v. Mial, 89-137.

See generally: State v. Long, 78-571. As to whether hay is part of crop, see State v. Crook, 132-1053.

Section cited in Jordan v. Bryan, 103-65; State v. Ewing, 108-756; Ellis v. Hampton, 123-194.

INDICTMENT. Sufficiency of, generally: State v. Turner, 106-971; State v. Walker, 87-541; State v. Rose, 90-712. Sufficient to aver that the act was done "wilfully and unlawfully": State v. Pender, 83-651. Should aver removal "before satisfying all liens held by the lessor or his assigns on said crop": State v. Merritt, 89-506; State v. Rose, 90-712—"without having given any notice of such intended removal" is sufficient, State v. Powell, 94-920. Not necessary to aver that landlord had a lien on said crop: State v. Smith, 106-653—not necessary to negative any agreement between the parties that crop should not be subject to statutory liens, State v. Turner, 106-691.

EVIDENCE. Offense not complete unless failure to give notice is proved; and it may be proved by any competent evidence; it is not necessary that it be proved by the landlord, his agent or assignee: State v. Crowder, 97-432.

INTENT. The tenant may sever and remove crop, for purpose of preserving it, to a place of security upon land upon which it was produced; but if he removes it from land, he is guilty, and the intent is not an essential element: State v. Williams, 106-646; see, also, Varner v. Spencer, 72-381; compare State v. Pender, 83-651.

VARIANCE. State v. Ray, 92-810. No variance where the allegation was that A. was owner of the land and the landlord, and the proof was that A. was landlord, but that he rented the land of another: State v. Foushee, 117-766.

COMPARE. Cropper cannot be guilty of larceny for secretly appropriating crop, while it is in his possession: State v. Copeland, 86-691; State v. McCoy, 89-466—but he is guilty of larceny for such an appropriation after his possession has terminated by delivery to landlord: State v. Webb, 87-558; State v. King, 98-649.

2363. Turpentine and lightwood leases. This chapter shall apply to all leases or contracts to lease turpentine trees, or use lightwood for purposes of making tar, and the parties thereto shall be fully subject to the provisions and penalties of this chapter.

Rev., s. 1999; Code, s. 1762; 1893, c. 517; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 7.

Where A. agrees to allow B. to cultivate pine trees where A. lives for a year to enable him to make and save turpentine, and for compensation B. is to have one-half of turpentine, this is not a lease of land or of trees: Denton v. Strickland, 48-61.

2364. Mining and timber land leases. If in a lease of land for mining, or of timbered land for the purpose of manufacturing the timber into goods, rent is reserved, and if it is agreed in the lease that the minerals, timber or goods, or any portion thereof, shall not be removed until the payment of the rent, in such case the lessor shall have the rights and be entitled to the remedy given by this chapter.

Rev., s. 2000; Code, s. 1763; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 16.

A timber option or purchase is not a leasehold interest: Timber Co. v. Wells, 171-262.

ART. 3. SUMMARY EJECTMENT

2365. Tenant holding over may be dispossessed in certain cases. Any tenant or lessee of any house or land, and the assigns under the tenant or legal representatives of such tenant or lessee, who holds over and continues in the possession of the demised premises, or any part thereof, without the permission of the landlord, and after demand made for its surrender, may be removed from such premises in the manner hereinafter prescribed in either of the following cases:

Remedy by summary proceedings in ejectment before justice of peace is restricted to cases where relation between parties is that of landlord and tenant: McIver v. R. R., 163-544; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248; McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481; Hughes v. Mason, 84-472. Where relation existing between parties is that of vendor and vendee, vendor not entitled to evict vendee by summary proceedings under section: Johnson v. Hauser, 82-375; Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248; Riley v. Jordan, 75-180; McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481.

Where defendant held under an agreement to pay rent and an option to purchase which he had failed to comply with, the section applies: Jerome v. Setzer, 175-391. When vendee unconditionally surrenders his rights under contract of purchase, and enters into contract of lease, he may be evicted hereunder, and it is not necessary that he should actually surrender possession of land and receive it again at hands of lessor: Riley v. Jordan, 75-180. That vendee remained silent when contract of sale of land was mutilated under direction of vendor, is not sufficient evidence of abandonment of rights under contract, nor of change of relations from vendor and vendee to landlord and tenant to give justice of peace jurisdiction of action to summarily eject vendee: Boone v. Drake, 109-79. See, also, Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248.

Where in action under section it appeared that defendant, a slave, entered into possession of land as tenant of plaintiff, and in 1865 refused to pay further rent and disclaimed being plaintiff's tenant, he was estopped to deny plaintiff's title, and plaintiff was entitled to recover: Wilson v. James, 79-349.

Section does not apply to mortgagor who is allowed to remain in possession, and on demand, after default, refuses to surrender possession: Culbreth v. Hall, 159-588; Greer v. Wilbar, 72-592; McMillan v. Love, 72-18. Bargainer in deed of trust, containing stipulations for retention of possession of land conveyed until sold under terms of trust, and who holds possession after sale of premises by trustee, is not such tenant as comes within section: McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481—hence proceedings cannot be taken under section to evict him, Ibid.

This remedy does not apply when title to land is involved or the equitable rights of the parties are to be adjusted: McLaurin v. McIntyre, 167-350.

Lessee cannot resist action by lessor for recovery of land, brought after termination of lease, by showing superior title in third person or in himself acquired before or after contract: Davis v. Davis, 83-71.

Right of tenant to homestead is no defense to action to recover premises brought by landlord: Abbott v. Cromartie, 72-292.

When tenant, sued for possession, denies his tenancy, landlord not required to prove demand for possession, or that term has expired: Springs v. Schenck, 99-551.

Section merely referred to in Featherstone v. Carr, 132-800; Crinkley v. Egerton, 113-450; Cottingham v. McKay, 86-241.

1. When a tenant in possession of real estate holds over after his term has expired.

Summary proceedings in ejectment before justice under subsection can only be had where simple relation of lessor and lessee exists, and there is a holding over after term: McIver v. R. R., 163-544; McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272; Hughes v. Mason, 84-472—and jurisdiction of justice excluded where relation is that of mortgagor and mortgagee, or vendor and vendee, Ibid.; Culbreth v. Hall, 159-588; Hauser v. Morrison, 146-248; Riley v. Jordan, 75-180; McCombs v. Wallace, 66-481; Greer v. Wilbar, 72-592; McMillan v. Love, 72-18.

The issue hereunder is: Was defendant tenant of plaintiff, and does he hold over after expiration of tenancy? McDonald v. Ingram, 124-272.

Effect of acceptance of rental for period beyond term, see Vanderford v. Foreman, 129-217.

Subsection constitutional: Credle v. Gibbes, 65-192. Subsection referred to in Parker v. Allen, 84-466; Medlin v. Steele, 75-154.

2. When the tenant or lessee, or other person under him, has done or omitted any act by which, according to the stipulations of the lease, his estate has ceased.

Summary proceeding under section begun during lessee's term cannot be maintained where contract of lease contained no condition breach of which would authorize reëtry by lessor: Meroney v. Wright, 81-390—and mere failure to pay rent upon "lease at _____dollars a year, payable monthly," does not warrant such reëtry: Ibid.

Subsection referred to in Parker v. Allen, 84-467. See section 2343.

3. When any tenant or lessee of lands or tenements, who is in arrear for rent, or has agreed to cultivate the demised premises and to pay a part of the crop to be made thereon as rent, or who has given to the lessor a lien on such crop as a security for the rent, deserts the demised premises, and leaves them unoccupied and uncultivated.

Rev., s. 2001; Code, ss. 1766, 1777; 4 Geo. II, c. 28; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 19; 1905, cc. 297, 299, 820.

2366. Local: Refusal to perform contract ground for dispossession. When any tenant or cropper who enters into a contract for the rental of land for the current or ensuing year willfully neglects or refuses to perform the terms of his contract without just cause, he shall forfeit his right of possession to the premises. This section applies only to the following counties: Alleghany, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Burke, Cabarrus, Camden, Carteret, Caswell, Chatham, Chowan, Cleveland, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Duplin, Edgecombe, Franklin, Gaston, Gates, Greene, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hyde, Jackson, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Nash, Northampton, Onslow, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Randolph, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Sampson, Swain, Tyrrell, Union, Wake, Wayne, Washington, Wilson, Yadkin.

Rev., s. 2001, subsec. 4; Code, ss. 1766, 1777; 4 Geo. II, c. 28; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 19; 1905, cc. 297, 299, 820; 1907, cc. 43, 153; 1909, cc. 40, 550.

2367. Summons issued by justice on verified complaint. When the lessor or his assigns, or his or their agent or attorney, makes oath in writing, before any justice of the peace of the county in which the demised premises are situated, stating such facts as constitute one of the cases above described, and describing the premises and asking to be put in possession thereof, the justice shall issue a summons reciting the substance of the oath, and requiring the defendant to appear before him or some other justice of the county, at a certain place and time (not to exceed five days from the issuing of the summons, without the consent of the plaintiff or his agent or attorney), to answer the complaint. The plaintiff or his agent or attorney may in his oath claim rent in arrear, and damage for the occupation of the premises since the cessation of the estate of the lessee: Provided, the sum claimed shall not exceed two hundred dollars; but if he omits to make such claim, he shall not be thereby prejudiced in any other action for their recovery.

Rev., s. 2002; Code, s. 1767; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 20; 1869-70, c. 212.

Where defendant denies alleged tenancy, it is the duty of justice to proceed and try issue of tenancy: Foster v. Penry, 77-160. Provision for renewal in lease gives an equity which may be set up as a defense in summary proceedings in ejectment: McAdoo v. Callum, 86-419. Tenant may set up in answer any equitable defense which he may have to landlord's claim: Forsythe v. Bullock, 74-135. If he fails to set up the defense that he is not a tenant, but holds under an agreement to purchase, whether he can afterwards maintain an action to enforce such agreement, see Isler v. Hart, 161-499.

Question of jurisdiction is not to be determined by matter set up in answer, but court should hear evidence upon issue of tenancy: Hahn v. Guilford, 87-172. Section referred to in Medlin v. Steele, 75-154.

2368. Service of summons. The officer receiving such summons shall immediately serve it by the delivery of a copy to the defendant or by leaving a copy at his usual or last place of residence, with some adult person, if any such be found there; or, if the defendant has no usual place of residence in the county and cannot be found therein, by fixing a copy on some conspicuous part of the premises claimed.

Rev., s. 2003; Code, s. 1768; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 21.

2369. Judgment by default or confession. The summons shall be returned according to its tenor, and if on its return it appears to have been duly served, and if the defendant fails to appear, or admits the allegations of the complaint, the justice shall give judgment that the defendant be removed from, and the plaintiff be put in possession of, the demised premises; and if any rent or damages for the occupation of the premises after the cessation of the estate of the lessee, not exceeding two hundred dollars, be claimed in the oath of the plaintiff as due and unpaid, the justice shall inquire thereof, and give judgment as he may find the fact to be.

Rev., s. 2004; Code, s. 1769; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 22.

2370. Trial by justice; jury trial; judgment; execution. If the defendant by his answer denies any material allegation in the oath of the plaintiff, the justice shall hear the evidence and give judgment as he shall find the facts to be. If either party demands a trial by jury, it shall be granted under the rules prescribed by law for other trials by jury before a justice; and if the jury finds that the allegation in the plaintiff's oath, which entitles him to be put in possession, is true, the justice shall give judgment that the defendant be removed from and the plaintiff put in possession of the demised premises, and also for such rent and damages as shall have been assessed by the jury, and for costs; and shall issue his execution to carry the judgment into effect.

Rev., s. 2005; Code, s. 1770; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 23.

Judgment for tenant is not an estoppel on landlord to extent of precluding him from showing in subsequent action advancements made prior to eviction to which he was entitled: Burwell v. Brodie, 134-540. Judgment for plaintiff is an estoppel as to the question of tenancy, and defendant cannot restrain the execution of the judgment: Isler v. Hart, 161-499.

2371. Damages assessed to trial. On appeal to the superior court, the jury trying the issue joined shall assess the damages of the plaintiff for the detention of his possession to the time of the trial in that court, and judgment for the rent in arrear and for the damages assessed may, on motion, be rendered against the sureties to the appeal.

Rev., s. 2006; Code, s. 1775; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 28.

Where an appeal is taken to superior court, rents and damages may be recovered against defendant and his sureties to the time of trial: Dunn v. Patrick, 156-248.

Section referred to in Nesbitt v. Turrentine, 83-538.

2372. Rent and costs tendered by tenant. If, in any action brought to recover the possession of demised premises upon a forfeiture for the nonpayment of rent, the tenant, before judgment given in such action, pays or tenders the rent due and the costs of the action, all further proceedings in such action shall cease. If the plaintiff further prosecutes his action, and the defendant pays into court for the use of the plaintiff a sum equal to that which shall be found to be due, and the costs, to the time of such payment, or to the time of a tender and refusal, if one has occurred, the defendant shall recover from the plaintiff all subsequent costs; the plaintiff shall be allowed to receive the sum paid into court for his use, and the proceedings shall be stayed.

Rev., s. 2007; Code, s. 1773; 4 Geo. II, c. 28, s. 4; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 26.

Tender by tenant of rent accrued after termination of lease does not preclude landlord from recovering possession: Vanderford v. Foreman, 129-217. Acceptance by landlord of rent accruing after termination of lease, after suit for possession, does not preclude landlord from recovering: Ibid.

2373. Undertaking on appeal; when to be increased. Either party may appeal from the judgment of the justice, as is prescribed in other cases of appeal from the judgment of a justice; but no execution commanding the removal of a defendant from the possession of the demised premises shall be suspended until the defendant gives an undertaking in an amount not less than one year's rent of the premises, with sufficient surety, who shall justify and be approved by the justice, to be void if the defendant pays any judgment which in that or any other action the plaintiff may recover for rent, and for damages for the detention of the land. At any term of the superior court of the county in which such appeal is docketed after the lapse of one year from the date of the filing of the undertaking above mentioned, the tenant, after legal notice to that end has been duly executed on him, may be required to show cause why said undertaking should not be increased to an amount sufficient to cover rents and damages for such period as to the court may seem proper, and if such tenant fails to show proper cause and does not file such bond for rents and damages as the court may direct, or make affidavit that he is unable so to do and show merits, his appeal shall be dismissed and the judgment of the justice of the peace shall be affirmed.

Rev., s. 2008; Code, s. 1772; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 25; 1883, c. 316.

Where enjoined from bringing actions upon each installment of rent as vexatious, such person not precluded thereby from issuing execution on judgment for recovery of property after expiration of lease: Featherstone v. Carr, 134-66. As to action against sureties on undertaking, see Blackmore v. Winders, 144-212. Should bonds become impaired, or if litigation should become protracted to such an extent as to require additional security to protect plaintiffs in their rents, superior court can require additional security under section: Featherstone v. Carr, 132-802. Justice has discretion as to sufficiency of surety upon undertaking, which judge will not review in absence of any suggestion that justice acted dishonestly or capriciously: Steadman v. Jones, 65-388. As bearing upon section, see Rollins v. Henry, 76-269; Dunn v. Patrick, 156-248.

2374. Restitution of tenant, if case quashed, etc., on appeal. If the proceedings before the justice are brought before a superior court and quashed, or judgment is given against the plaintiff, the superior or other court in which final judgment is given shall, if necessary, restore the defendant to the possession, and issue such writs as are proper for that purpose.

Rev., s. 2009; Code, s. 1774; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 27.

As to writ of restitution generally, see Railroad v. Railroad, 108-304. Where party put out of possession of land under judgment which is afterwards reversed or set aside, court will restore party to possession of land: Lytle v. Lytle, 94-522. Where in action before justice judgment rendered for plaintiff, who was put into possession, but on appeal to superior court, judgment for defendant, defendant entitled to writ of restitution as part of judgment: Meroney v. Wright, 84-336. Whenever party put out of possession by process of law, and proceedings adjudged void, order for writ of restitution is part of judgment, and should be made: Perry v. Tupper, 70-538.

2375. Damages to tenant for dispossession, if proceedings quashed, etc. If, by order of the justice, the plaintiff is put in possession, and the proceedings shall afterwards be quashed or reversed, the defendant may recover damages of the plaintiff for his removal.

Rev., s. 2010; Code, s. 1776; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 30.

Under section, tenant who secures reversal of summary proceedings against him may have damages for eviction assessed in original or in a separate action: Burwell v. Brodie, 134-540. As to complaint in action hereunder, see Ibid.

ART. 4. FORMS

2376. Forms sufficient. The following forms, or substantially similar, shall be sufficient in all proceedings under this chapter :

A. B. (his agent or attorney) having made and subscribed before me the oath, a copy of which is annexed, you are required to appear before me on the ___ day of _____, 19___, at _____, then and there to answer the complaint; otherwise judgment will be given that you be removed from the possession of the premises.

Witness my hand and seal this ___ day of _____, 19___

J. K., J. P. (Seal).

To C. D., defendant.

The justice attaches the oath of the plaintiff to the summons and delivers them, and a copy of both of them, to the officer, and makes the following entry on his docket, or varies it according to the facts :

DOCKET ENTRIES

A. B., plaintiff, against
C. D., defendant. } Summary proceedings in ejectment for (describe the premises).

Oath of plaintiff (his agent or attorney) filed on the ___ day of _____ 19___
Plaintiff claims _____ dollars for rent from _____ to _____, and _____ dollars for occupation from _____ to _____ Summons issued the ___ day of _____, 19___, to _____, constable (or sheriff, as the case may be).

The officer serves the summons and returns it to the justice with the oath of the plaintiff, and with his return indorsed:

RETURN OF OFFICER

On this day I served the within summons on the defendant, C. D., by delivering him a copy thereof, and of the oath of A. B., annexed (or by leaving a copy thereof and the oath of A. B. at the usual place of residence of the defendant C. D., with an adult found there) (or the said C. D. not being found in my county, and having no usual or last place of residence therein) (or no adult person being found at his usual or last place of residence, by posting a copy of the summons and of the oath of A. B., annexed, on a conspicuous part of the premises claimed).

N. M., Constable.

The ---- day of -----, 19----.

RECORD TO BE ENTERED ON DOCKET

A. B., plaintiff, against C. D., defendant.	}	Summary proceedings in ejection.
---	---	----------------------------------

It appearing that the summons, with a copy of the oath of the plaintiff (his agent or attorney), was duly served on defendant,* and whereas the defendant fails to appear (or admits the allegations of the plaintiff), I adjudge that the defendant be removed from and the plaintiff put in possession of the premises described in the oath of the plaintiff. I also adjudge that the plaintiff recover of defendant ----- dollars for rent from the ---- day of -----, 19---- to the ---- day of -----, 19----, and ----- dollars for damages for occupation of the premises from the ---- day of -----, 19----, to this day, and ----- dollars for his costs; the ---- day of -----, 19----.

If the defendant admits part of the allegations of plaintiff, but not all, the judgment must be varied accordingly; for example: follow the foregoing to the asterisk (*), and then proceed:

And whereas the defendant appears and admits the first and second allegations of the plaintiff, and denies the residue; and whereas both parties waived a trial by jury, I heard evidence upon the matters in issue, and find (here state the findings on the matters in issue separately).

Supposing the findings are for the plaintiff, the record would proceed:

I therefore adjudge that the defendant (and so on from the asterisk (*)).

If either party demands a jury, the record will proceed from the asterisk (*) as follows:

And whereas the plaintiff (or defendant, as the case may be) demanded a trial of the issues joined by a jury, I caused a jury to be summoned, to wit: (here give the names of the jurors summoned) from whom the following jury was duly impaneled, to wit: (here state the names of the six jurors impaneled), who find (here state the verdict of jury; if they find all the issues for the plaintiff, say so; if any particular issues, say so; also state the sums assessed by them for rent and for occupation to trial). Therefore, I adjudge, etc. (as in form No. 5, from asterisk (*)).

If either party appeals, the justice will enter on his docket as follows, altering the entry according to the facts:

RECORD OF APPEAL

From the foregoing judgment the plaintiff (or defendant, as the case may be) prayed an appeal to the next superior court of said county, which is allowed.

EXECUTION ON JUDGMENT FOR PLAINTIFF

ART. 1. NATURE OF PROCEEDING

2377. Jurisdiction in superior court. For the purpose of enabling all persons owning real estate within this state to have the title thereto settled and registered, as prescribed by the provisions of this chapter, the superior court of the county in which the land lies in the state shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all petitions and proceedings had thereupon, under the rules of practice and procedure prescribed for special proceedings except as herein otherwise provided.

1913, c. 90, s. 1.

General purpose and history of the statute explained. Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65; Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167-63.

This statute is remedial in its nature and should be liberally construed to carry out its intent: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65. The power of the court as to making parties and allowing amendments the same as in other proceedings: Mfg. Co. v. Spruill, 169-618.

2378. Proceedings in rem; vests title. The proceedings under any petition for the registration of land, and all proceedings in the court in relation to registered land, shall be proceedings in rem against the land, and the decrees of the court shall operate directly on the land, and vest and establish title thereto in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

2379. Rules of practice prescribed by attorney-general. The attorney-general, with the approval of the supreme court, shall from time to time make, change, revise and revoke rules of practice in the superior court for the administration of this chapter. He shall in like manner prescribe forms for use in such court, and in the notation of the registry of titles of memorials, claims, liens, lis pendens, and all other involuntary charges upon and to such registered lands. Whenever a question shall arise in the administration of this chapter as to the proper method of protecting or asserting any right or interest under the law, and the method of procedure is in doubt, it shall be the duty of the clerk or register of deeds to notify the attorney-general, who, with the approval of the supreme court, shall prescribe a rule covering such case.

1913, c. 90, s. 31.

ART. 2. OFFICERS AND FEES

2380. Examiners appointed by clerk. The clerk of the superior court of each county shall appoint three or more examiners of titles, who shall be licensed attorneys at law, residing in the state of North Carolina. They shall qualify by taking oath before the clerk to faithfully discharge the duties of such office, which oath shall be filed in the office of the clerk. The term of office shall be two years. Examiners of titles shall have and exercise the jurisdiction and perform the duties hereinafter prescribed, and receive the fees herein provided. They shall not appear in or have any connection with any proceeding instituted under the provisions of this chapter, and they shall be subject to removal at will by such clerk or judge of the superior court.

2381. Fees of officers. The fees to be allowed the clerks and sheriffs in this proceeding shall be the same as now allowed by law to clerks and sheriffs in other special proceedings. The examiner hereinbefore provided for shall receive, as may be allowed by the clerk, a minimum fee of five dollars for such examination of each title of property assessed upon the tax books at the amount of five thousand dollars or less; for each additional thousand dollars of assessed value of property so examined he shall receive fifty cents; for examination outside of the county he shall receive a reasonable allowance. There shall be allowed to the register of deeds for copying the plot upon registration of titles book one dollar; for issuing the certificate and new certificates under this chapter, fifty cents for each; for noting the entries or memorandum required and for the entries noting the cancellation of mortgages and all other entries, if any, herein provided for, a total of twenty-five cents for the entry or entries connected with one transaction. The county or other surveyor employed under the provisions of this chapter shall not be allowed to charge more than forty cents per hour for his time actually employed in making the survey and the map, except by agreement with the petitioner: Provided, however, that a minimum fee of two dollars in any case may be allowed.

There shall be no other fees allowed of any nature except as herein provided, and the bond of the register, clerk and sheriff shall be liable in case of any mistake, malfeasance, or misfeasance as to the duties imposed upon them by this chapter in as full a manner as such bond is now liable by law.

1913, c. 90, s. 30.

ART. 3. PROCEDURE FOR REGISTRATION

2382. Who may institute proceedings. Any person, being in the peaceable possession of land within the state and claiming an estate of inheritance therein, may prosecute a special proceeding in rem against all the world in the superior court for the county in which such land is situate, to establish his title thereto, to determine all adverse claims and have the title registered. Any number of the separate parcels of land claimed by the petitioner may be included in the same proceeding, and any one parcel may be established in several parts, each of which shall be clearly and accurately described and registered separately, and the decree therein shall operate directly upon the land and establish and vest an indefeasible title thereto. Any person in like possession of lands within the state, claiming an interest or estate less than the fee therein, may have his title thereto established under the provisions of this chapter, without the registration and transfer features herein provided.

2383. Land lying in two or more counties. In every proceeding to register title, in which it is alleged in the petition or made to appear that the land therein described, whether in one or more parcels, is situated partly in one county and partly in another, or is situated in two or more counties, that is to say, when an entire tract, or two or more entire tracts, are situated in two or more counties (but not separate or several tracts situated in different counties) it shall be competent to institute the proceedings before the clerk of the superior court of any county in which any part of such tract lying in two or more counties is situated, and said clerk shall have jurisdiction both of the parties and of the subject-matter as fully as if said land was situated wholly in his county; but upon the entry of a final decree of registration of title, the clerk by or before whom the same was rendered shall certify a copy thereof to the register of deeds of every county in which said land or any part thereof is situated, and the same shall be there filed and recorded; and every such register of deeds, upon demand of the person entitled and payment of requisite fees therefor, shall issue and deliver a certificate of title for that part of said land situated in his county. This section shall apply and become effective in all cases or proceedings heretofore conducted before any clerk of the superior court of this state for registration of title, as in this chapter authorized, when the land described in the petition as an entire tract was situated in two or more counties, as aforesaid; and upon the filing and recording of a certified copy of the final decree or decree of registration therein, the register of deeds shall issue and deliver a certificate of title to the present owner or person entitled to the same, for that part of the land situated in his county, as aforesaid, upon payment or tender of proper fees therefor.

2384. Petition filed; contents. Suit for registration of title shall be begun by a petition to the court by the persons claiming, singly or collectively, to own or have the power of appointing or disposing of an estate in fee simple in any land, whether subject to liens or not. Infants and other persons under disability may sue by guardian or trustee, as the case may be, and corporations as in other cases now provided by law; but the person in whose behalf the petition is made shall always be named as petitioner. The petition shall be signed and sworn to by each petitioner, and shall contain a full description of the land to be registered as hereinafter provided, together with a plot of same by metes and bounds, corners to be marked by permanent markers of iron, stone or cement; it shall show when, how and from whom it was acquired, and whether or not it is now occupied, and if so, by whom; and it shall give an account of all known liens, interest, equities and claims, adverse or otherwise, vested or contingent, upon such land. Full names and addresses, if known, of all persons who may be interested by marriage or otherwise, including adjoining owners and occupants, shall be given. If any person shall be unable to state the metes and bounds, the clerk may order a preliminary survey.

1913, c. 90, s. 5.

2385. Summons issued and served; disclaimer. The clerk of the court shall issue a summons directed to the sheriff of every county in which persons named as interested may reside, such persons being made defendants, and the summons shall be returnable as in other cases of special proceedings, except that the return shall be at least sixty days from the date of the summons. The summons shall be served at least ten days before the return thereof and the return recorded in the same manner as in other special proceedings; and all parties under disabilities shall be represented by guardian, either general or ad litem. If the persons named as interested are not residents of the state of North Carolina, and their residence is known, which must appear by affidavit, the summons must be served on such nonresidents as is now prescribed by law for service of summons on nonresidents.

Any party defendant to such proceeding may file a disclaimer of any claim or interest in the land described in the petition, which shall be deemed an admission of the allegations of the petition, and the decree shall bar such party and all persons thereafter claiming under him, and such party shall not be liable for any costs or expenses of the proceeding except such as may have been incurred by reason of his delay in pleading.

2386. Notice of petition published. In addition to the summons issued, prescribed in the foregoing section, the clerk of the court shall, at the time of issuing such summons, publish a notice of the filing thereof containing the names of the petitioners, the names of all persons named in the petition, together with a short but accurate description of the land and the relief demanded, in some secular newspaper published in the county wherein the land is situate, and having general circulation in the county; and if there be no such paper, then in a newspaper in the county nearest thereto and having general circulation in the county wherein the land lies, once a week for eight issues of such paper. The notice shall set forth the title of the cause and in legible or conspicuous type the words "To whom it may concern," and shall give notice to all persons of the relief demanded and the return day of the summons: Provided, that no final order or judgment shall be entered in the cause until there is proof and adjudication of publication as in other cases of publication of notice of summons. The provisions of this section, in respect to the issuing and service of summons and the publication of the notice, shall be mandatory and essential to the jurisdiction of the court to proceed in the cause: Provided, that the recital of the service of summons and publication in the decree or in the final judgment in the cause, and in the certificate issued to the petitioner as hereinafter provided, shall be conclusive evidence thereof.

1913, c. 90, s. 7; 1915, c. 128, s. 1; 1919, c. 82, s. 2.

What is sufficient publication of notice: Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167-63.

2387. Hearing and decree:

1. Referred to examiner. Upon the return day of the summons the petition shall be set down for hearing upon the pleadings and exhibits filed. If any person claiming an interest in the land described in the petition, or any lien thereon, shall file an answer, the petition and answer, together with all exhibits filed, shall be referred to the examiner of titles, who shall proceed, after notice to the petitioner and the persons who have filed answer or answered, to hear the cause upon such parol or documentary evidence as may be offered or called for and taken by him, and in addition thereto make such independent examination of the title as may be necessary. Upon his request the clerk shall issue a commission under the seal of the court for taking such testimony as shall be beyond the jurisdiction of such examiner.

2. Examiner's report. The examiner shall, within thirty days after such hearing, unless for good cause the time shall be extended, file with the clerk a report of his conclusions of law and fact, setting forth the state of such title, any liens or encumbrances thereon, by whom held, amount due thereon, together with an abstract of title to the lands and any other information in regard thereto affecting its validity.

3. Exceptions to report. Any of the parties to the proceeding may, within twenty days after such report is filed, file exceptions, either to the conclusions of law or fact. Whereupon the clerk shall transmit the record to the judge of the superior court for his determination thereof; such judge may on his own motion certify any issue of fact arising upon any such exceptions to the superior court of the county in which the proceeding is pending, for a trial of such issue by jury, and he shall so certify such issue of fact for trial by jury upon the demand of any party to the proceeding. If, upon consideration of such record, or the record and verdict of issues to be certified and tried by jury, the title be found in the petitioner, the judge shall enter a decree to that effect, ascertaining all limitations, liens, etc., declaring the land entitled to registration accordingly, and the same, together with the record, shall be docketed by the clerk of the court as in other cases, and a copy of the decree certified to the register of deeds of the county for registration as hereinafter provided. Any of the parties may appeal from such judgment to the supreme court, as in other special proceedings.

4. No judgment by default. No judgment in any proceeding under this chapter shall be given by default, but the court must require an examination of the title in every instance except as respects the rights of parties who, by proper pleadings, admit the petitioner's claim. If, upon the return day of the summons and the day upon which the petition is set down for hearing, no answer be filed, the clerk shall refer the same to the examiner of titles, who shall, after notice to the petitioner, proceed to examine the title, together with all liens or encumbrances set forth or referred to in the petition and exhibits, and shall examine the registry of deeds, mortgages, wills, judgments, mechanic liens and other records of the county, and upon such examination he shall, as hereinbefore provided, report to the clerk the condition of the title, with a notice of liens or encumbrances thereon. The examiner shall have power to take and call for evidence in such case as fully as if the application were being contested. If the title shall be found to be in the petitioner, the clerk shall enter a decree to that effect and declaring the land entitled to registration, with entry of any limitations, liens, etc., and shall certify the same for registration, as hereinbefore provided, after approval by the judge of the superior court.

2388. Effect of decree; approval of judge. Every decree rendered as hereinbefore provided shall bind the land and bar all persons and corporations claiming title thereto or interest therein; quiet the title thereto, and shall be forever binding and conclusive upon and against all persons and corporations, including the state of North Carolina and the state board of education, whether mentioned by name in the order of publication, or included under the general description, "to whom it may concern"; and every such decree so rendered, or a duly certified copy thereof, as also the certificate of title issued thereon to the person or corporation therein named as owner, or to any subsequent transferee or purchaser, shall be conclusive evidence that such person or corporation is the owner of the land therein described, and no other evidence shall be required in any court of this state of his or its right or title thereto. It shall not be an exception to such conclusiveness that the person is an infant, lunatic or is under any disability, but such person may have recourse upon the indemnity fund hereinafter provided for, for any loss he may suffer by reason of being so concluded. Such decree shall, in addition to being signed by the clerk of the court, be approved by the judge of the superior court, who shall review the whole proceeding and have power to require any reformation of the process, pleading, decrees or entries.

In a suit brought to sell property under this statute, if the requirements are fully met the deed by the commissioners cuts off the rights of all persons, when an attorney is appointed to represent possible contingent interests under section 1744: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

Power of the judge as to review of proceedings, allowing amendments, etc.: Mfg. Co. v. Spruill, 169-618.

ART. 4. REGISTRATION AND EFFECT

2389. Manner of registration. The county commissioners of each county shall provide for the register of deeds in the county a book, to be called Registration of Titles, in which the register shall enroll, register and index, as hereinafter provided, the decree of title before mentioned and the copy of the plot contained in the petition, and all subsequent transfers of title, and note all voluntary and involuntary transactions in any wise affecting the title to the land, authorized to be entered thereon. If the title be subject to a trust condition, encumbrance or the like, the words "in trust," "upon condition," "subject to encumbrance," or like appropriate insertion shall indicate the fact and fix any person dealing with such certificate with notice of the particulars of such limitations upon the title as appears upon the registry. No erasure, alteration, or amendment shall be made upon the registry after entry and issuance of a certificate of title except by order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

1913, c. 90, s. 10; 1919, c. 236, s. 1.

Cited in Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

2390. Certificate issued. Upon the registration of such decree the register of deeds shall issue an owner's certificate of title, under the seal of his office, which shall be delivered to the owner or his agent duly authorized, and shall be substantially as follows:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA—COUNTY OF _____

The certificate of _____

I hereby certify that the title is registered in the name of _____ to and situate in said county and State, described as follows: (Here describe land as in decree.)

Estate _____ (here name the estate and any limitation or encumbrance thereon, as fee simple, upon condition, in trust, subject to encumbrance, and the like). Under decree of the land court of _____ county, entitled _____

Registered No. _____, Book No. _____, page _____

Witness my hand and seal, at office at _____, this _____ day of _____, A. D. 19____

1913, c. 90, s. 10.

Cited in Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

2391. Certificates numbered; entries thereon. All certificates of title to land in the county shall be numbered consecutively, which number shall be retained as long as the boundaries of the land remain unchanged, and a separate page or more, with appropriate space for subsequent entries, shall be devoted to each title in the registration of titles book for the county. Every entry made upon any certificate of title in such book or upon the owner's certificate, under any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be signed by the register of deeds and minutely dated in conformity with the dates shown by the entry book.

1913, c. 90, s. 11.

Section cited in Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

2392. New certificate issued, if original lost. Whenever an owner's certificate of title is lost or destroyed, the owner or his personal representative may petition the court for the issuance of a new certificate. Notice of such petition shall be published once a week for four successive weeks, under the direction of the court, in some convenient newspaper, and noted upon the registry of titles, and upon satisfactory proof having been exhibited before it that the certificate has been lost or destroyed the court may direct the issuance of a new certificate, which shall be approximately designated and take the place of the original, but at least thirty full days shall elapse between the filing of the petition and making the decree for such new certificate.

2393. Registered owner's estate free from adverse claims; exceptions. Every registered owner of any estate or interest in land bought under this chapter shall, except in cases of fraud to which he is a party or in which he is a privy, without valuable consideration paid in good faith, and except when any registration has been procured through forgery, hold the land free from any and all adverse claims, rights or encumbrances not noted on the certificate of title, except (1) liens, claims or rights arising or existing under the laws or constitution of the United States which the statutes of this state cannot require to appear of record under registry laws; (2) taxes and assessments thereon due the state or any county, city or town therein, but not delinquent; (3) any lease for a term not exceeding three years, under which the land is actually occupied.

1913, c. 90, s. 25.

Cited in Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

2394. Adverse claims existing at initial registry; affidavit; limitation of action. Any person making any claim to or asserting any lien or charge upon registered land, existing at the initial registry of the same and not shown upon the register or adverse to the title of the registered owner, and for which no other provision is herein made for asserting the same in the registry of titles, may make an affidavit thereof setting forth his interest, right, title, lien or demand, and how and under whom derived, and the character and nature thereof. The affidavit shall state his place of residence and designate a place at which all notices relating thereto may be served. Upon the filing of such affidavit in the office of the clerk of the superior court, the clerk shall order a note thereof as in the case of charges or encumbrances, and the same shall be entered by the register of deeds. Action shall be brought upon such claim within six months after the entry of such note, unless for cause shown the clerk shall extend the time. Upon failure to commence such action within the time prescribed therefor, the clerk shall order a cancellation of such note. If any person shall wantonly or maliciously or without reasonable cause procure such notation to be entered upon the registry of titles, having the effect of a cloud upon the registered owner's title, he shall be liable for all damages the owner may suffer thereby.

2395. Decree and registration run with the land. The obtaining of a decree of registration and the entry of a certificate of title shall be construed as an agreement running with the land, and the same shall ever remain registered land, subject to the provisions of this chapter and all amendments thereof.

1913, c. 90, s. 26.

2396. No right by adverse possession. No title to nor right or interest in registered land in derogation of that of the registered owner shall be acquired by prescription or adverse possession.

1913, c. 90, s. 27.

2397. Jurisdiction of courts; registered land affected only by registration. Except as otherwise specially provided by this chapter, registered land and ownership therein shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the courts in the same manner as if it had not been registered; but the registration shall be the only operative act to transfer or affect the title to registered land, and shall date from the time the writing, instrument or record to be registered is duly filed in the office of the register of deeds, subject to the provisions of this chapter; no voluntary or involuntary transaction shall affect the title to registered lands until registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that all mortgages, deeds, surrendered and canceled certificates, when new certificates are issued for the land so deeded, the other paper-writings, if any, pertaining to and affecting the registered estate or estates herein referred to, shall be filed by the register of deeds for reference and information, but the registration of titles book shall be and constitute sole and conclusive legal evidence of title, except in cases of mistake and fraud, which shall be corrected in the methods now provided for the correction of papers authorized to be registered.

1913, c. 90, s. 28.

No distinction is made between creditors and purchasers under the act: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65. Registration of titles is necessary, constitutes the only operative act and is conclusive legal evidence of title: Dillon v. Broeker, 178-65.

2398. Priority of right. In case of conflicting claims between the registered owners the right, title or estate derived from or held under the older certificate of title shall prevail.

1913, c. 90, s. 29.

2399. Compliance with this chapter due registration. When the provisions of this chapter have been complied with, all conveyances, deeds, contracts to convey or leases shall be considered duly registered, as against creditors and purchasers, in the same manner and as fully as if the same had been registered in the manner heretofore provided by law for the registration of conveyances.

1913, c. 90, s. 32.

ART. 5. ADVERSE CLAIMS AND CORRECTIONS AFTER REGISTRATION

2400. Limitations. No decree of registration heretofore entered, and no certificate of title heretofore issued pursuant thereto, shall be adjudged invalid, revoked, or set aside, unless the action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree of registration or certificate of title issued pursuant thereto is attacked or called in question be commenced or the defense alleging the invalidity thereof be interposed within twelve months from March 10, 1919.

No decree of registration hereafter entered and no certificate of title hereafter issued pursuant thereto shall be adjudged invalid or revoked or set aside, unless the action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree or of the certificate of title issued pursuant thereto is attacked or called in question be commenced or the defense alleging the invalidity thereof be interposed within twelve months from the date of such decree.

No action or proceeding for the recovery of any right, title, interest, or estate in registered land adverse to the title established and adjudicated by any decree of registration heretofore entered shall be maintained unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date last mentioned; and no action or proceeding for the recovery of any right, title, interest, estate in registered land, adverse to the right established by any decree of registration hereafter shall be maintained unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date of such decree.

No action or proceeding for the enforcement or foreclosure of any lien upon or charge against registered land which existed at the date when any decree of registration was heretofore entered, and which was not recognized or established by such decree, shall be maintained, unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date above mentioned; and no action or proceeding for the enforcement or foreclosure of any lien upon or charge against registered land in existence at the date of any decree of registration hereafter entered, and which is not recognized and established by such decree, shall be maintained, unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date of such decree.

2401. Adverse claim subsequent to registry; affidavit of claim prerequisite to enforcement; limitation. Any person claiming any right, title, or interest in registered land adverse to the registered owner thereof, arising subsequent to the date of the original decree of registration, may, if no other provision is made for registering the same, file with the register of deeds of the county in which such decree was rendered or certificate of title thereon was issued, a verified statement in writing, setting forth fully the right, title, or interest so claimed, how or from whom it was acquired, and a reference to the number, book, and page of the certificate of title of the registered owner, together with a description of the land by metes and bounds, the adverse claimant's place of residence and his postoffice address, and, if a nonresident, he shall designate or appoint the said register of deeds to receive all notices directed to or to be served upon such adverse claimant in connection with the claim by him made, and such statement shall be noted and filed by said register of deeds as an adverse claim; but no action or proceeding to enforce such adverse claim shall be maintained unless the same be commenced within six months of the filing of the statement thereof.

2402. Suit to enforce adverse claim; summons and notice necessary. Upon the institution of any action or proceeding to enforce such adverse claim, notice thereof shall be served upon the register of deeds, who shall enter upon the registry a memorandum that suit has been brought or proceeding instituted to determine the validity of such adverse claim; and summons or notice shall be served upon the holder or claimant of the registered title or certificate or other person against whom such adverse claim is alleged, as provided by law for the institution of suits or proceedings in the courts of this state.

If no notice of the institution of an action or proceeding to enforce an adverse claim be served upon the register of deeds and upon the holder of the registered title or certificate, or other person, as aforesaid, within seven months from the date of filing the statement of adverse claim, the register of deeds shall cancel upon the registry the adverse claim so filed and make a memorandum setting out that no notice of suit or proceeding to enforce the same had been served upon him within seven months as herein required, and that such adverse claim was therefore canceled; and thereafter no action or proceeding shall be begun or maintained to enforce such adverse claim in any of the courts of this state.

2403. Judgment in suit to enforce adverse claim; register to file. The court shall certify its judgment to the register of deeds; if such adverse claim be held valid, the register of deeds shall make such entry upon the registry and upon the owner's certificate of title as may be directed by the court, or he may file and record a certified copy of the judgment or order of the court thereon; if such adverse claim be held invalid the register of deeds shall cancel such adverse claim upon the registry, noting thereon that the same was done by order or judgment of the court, or he may file and record a certified copy of the judgment or order of the court thereon.

2404. Correction of registered title; limitation of adverse claims. Any registered owner or other claimant under the registered title may at any time apply to the court in which the original decree was entered, by petition, setting out that registered interests of any description, whether vested, contingent, expectant or inchoate, have terminated and ceased, or that new interests have arisen or been created which do not appear upon the certificate, or that any error or omission was made in entering or issuing the certificate or any duplicate thereof, or that the name of any person on the certificate has been changed, or that the registered owner had married or, if registered as married, that the marriage has been terminated, or that a corporation which owned registered lands has been dissolved, without conveying the same or transferring its certificate within three years after the dissolution, or any other reasonable and proper ground of correction or relief; and such court may hear and determine the petition after notice to all parties in interest, and may make such order or decree as may be appropriate and lawful in the premises; but nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any such court to open any original decree of registration which was entered more than twelve months prior to the filing of such petition, and nothing shall be done or ordered by the court to divest or impair the title or other interest of a purchaser who holds a transfer or certificate of title for value and in good faith. No action or proceeding shall be commenced or maintained to set up or establish any right, claim, interest or estate adverse to the order or decree or certificate of title issued thereon made or entered upon any petition or other proceeding authorized by this section, unless the same shall be brought and instituted within six months from the date of such order or decree authorized by this section.

1919, c. 236, s. 1.

ART. 6. METHOD OF TRANSFER

2405. When whole of land conveyed. Whenever the whole of any registered estate is transferred or conveyed the same shall be done by a transfer or conveyance upon or attached to the certificate substantially as follows:

A B and wife (giving the names of the parties owning land described in the certificate and their wives) hereby, in consideration of ----- dollars, sell and convey to C D (giving name of purchaser) the lot or tract of land, as the case may be, described in the certificate of title hereto attached.

The same shall be signed and properly acknowledged by the parties and their wives and shall have the full force and effect of a deed in fee simple: Provided, that if the sale shall be in trust, upon condition, with power to sell or other unusual form of conveyance, the same shall be set out in the deed, and shall be entered upon the registration of titles book as hereinafter provided; that upon presentation of the transfer, together with the certificate of title, to the register of deeds, the transaction shall be duly noted and registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and certificate of title so presented shall be canceled and a new certificate with the same number issued to the purchaser thereof, which new certificate shall fully refer by number and also by name of holder to former certificate just canceled.

1913, c. 90, s. 12.

2406. Conveyance of part of registered land. The transfer of any part of a registered estate, either of an undivided interest therein or of a separate lot or parcel thereof, shall be made by an instrument of the transfer or conveyance similar in form to that herein provided for the transfer of the whole of any registered estate, to which shall be attached the certificate of title of such registered estate. In case of the transfer of an undivided interest in a registered estate, such instrument or transfer or conveyance shall accurately specify and describe the extent and amount of the interest transferred and of the interest retained, respectively. In case of a transfer of a separate lot or parcel of a registered estate, such instrument of transfer or conveyance shall describe the lot or parcel transferred either by metes and bounds or by reference to the map or plat attached thereto, and shall in every case be accompanied by a map or plat having clearly indicated thereon the boundaries of the whole of the registered estate and of the lot or parcel to be transferred.

2407. Duty of register of deeds upon part conveyance. Upon presentation to the register of deeds of an instrument of transfer or conveyance of an undivided interest in a registered estate, in proper form as above prescribed, it shall be his duty to cancel the certificate of title attached thereto and to issue to each owner a new certificate of title, each bearing the same number as the original certificate of title and accurately specifying and describing the extent and the amount of the interest retained or of the interest transferred, as the case may be. Upon presentation to the register of deeds of an instrument of transfer or conveyance of a separate lot or parcel of a registered estate, in proper form as above prescribed, it shall be his duty to cancel the certificate of title attached thereto and to issue to each owner a new certificate of title bearing a new number and describing the separate lot or parcel retained or transferred, as the case may be, either by metes and bounds or by reference to a map or plat thereto attached.

2408. Subdivision of registered estate. Any owner of a registered estate who may desire to subdivide the same may make application in writing to the register of deeds for the issuance of a new certificate of title for each subdivision, to which application shall be attached a map or plat having clearly indicated thereon the boundaries of the whole of the registered estate in question and of each lot or parcel for which he desires a new certificate of title. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the register of deeds, upon payment by such applicant of necessary surveyor's fees, if any are required, and of the amount herein provided for issuing the certificates of title and recording the map, to cancel the certificate of title attached to said application and to issue to such owner new certificates of title, each bearing a new number, for each lot or parcel shown upon the said map, describing such lot or parcel in such certificates either by metes and bounds or by reference to a map or plat attached thereto.

1919, c. 82, s. 4.

2409. References and cross-references entered on register. In all cases the register of deeds shall place upon the registry of title books and upon the certificate of title of such registered estate therein, references and cross-references to the new certificates issued as above provided, in accordance with the provisions of this article, and the new certificates issued shall fully refer by number and by name of the holder to the canceled certificate in place of which they are issued.

1919, c. 82, s. 4.

2410. When land conveyed as security.

1. Whole land conveyed. Whenever the owner of any registered estate shall desire to convey same as security for debt, it may be done in the following manner, by a short form of transfer, substantially as follows, to wit:

A B and wife (giving names of all owners or holders of certificates and their wives) hereby transfer to C. D. the tract or lot of land described as No. _____ in registration of titles book for _____ county, a certificate for the title for same being hereto attached, to secure a debt of _____ dollars, due to _____, of _____ county and state, on the _____ day of _____, 19____, evidenced by bond (or otherwise as the case may be) dated the ____ day of _____, 19____. In case of default in payment of said debt with accrued interest, _____ days notice of sale required.

The same shall be signed and properly acknowledged by the parties making same, and shall be presented, together with the owner's certificate, to the register of deeds, whose duty it shall be to note upon the owner's certificate and upon the certificate of title in the registration of titles book the name of the trustee, the amount of debt, and the date of maturity of same.

2. Part of land conveyed. When a part of the registered estate shall be so conveyed, the register of deeds shall note upon the book and owner's certificate the part so conveyed, and if the same be required and the proper fee paid by the trustee, shall issue what shall be known as a partial certificate, over his hand and seal, setting out the portion so conveyed.

3. Effect of transfer. All transfers by such short form shall convey the power of sale upon due advertisement at the county courthouse and in some newspaper published in the county, or adjoining county, in the same manner and as fully as is now provided by law in the case of mortgages and deeds of trust and default therein.

4. Other encumbrances noted. All registered encumbrances, rights or adverse claims affecting the estate represented thereby shall continue to be noted, not only upon the certificate of title in the registration book, but also upon the owner's certificate, until same shall have been released or discharged. And in the event of second or other subsequent voluntary encumbrances the holder of the certificate may be required to produce such certificate for the entry thereon or attachment thereto of the note of such subsequent charge or encumbrance as provided in this article.

5. Other forms of conveyance may be used. Nothing in this section nor this chapter shall be construed to prevent the owner from conveying such land, or any part of the same, as security for a debt by deed of trust or mortgage in any form which may be agreed upon between the parties thereto, and having such deed of trust or mortgage recorded in the office of the register of deeds as other deeds of trust and mortgages are recorded: Provided, that the book and page of the record at which such deed of trust or mortgage is recorded shall be entered by the register of deeds upon the owner's certificate and also on the registration of titles book.

1913, c. 90, s. 14; 1915, c. 245.

6. Sale under lien; new certification. Upon foreclosure of such deed of trust or mortgage, or sale under execution for taxes or other lien on the land, the fact of such foreclosure or sale shall be reported by the trustee, mortgagee or other person authorized to make the same, to the register of deeds of the county in which the land lies, and, upon satisfactory evidence thereof, it shall be his duty to call in and cancel the outstanding certificate of title for the land so sold, and to issue a new certificate in its place to the purchaser or other person entitled thereto; and the production of such outstanding certificate and its surrender by the holder thereof may be compelled, upon notice to him, by motion before and order of the clerk of the superior court in the original proceeding or the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies; but the right of appeal from such order may be exercised and shall be allowed as in other special proceedings, and pending any such appeal the rights of all parties shall be preserved.

1919, c. 82, s. 5.

2411. Owner's certificate presented with transfer. In voluntary transactions the owner's certificate of title must be presented along with the writing or instrument conveying or effecting the sale, and thereupon and not otherwise the register shall be authorized to register the conveyance or other transaction upon proof of payment of all delinquent taxes or liens, if any, or if such payment be not shown the entry and new certificate shall note such taxes or liens as having priority thereto.

1913, c. 90, s. 15.

2412. Transfers probated; partitions; contracts. All transfers of registered land shall be duly executed and probated as required by law upon like conveyances of other lands, and in all cases of change in boundary by partition, subtraction or addition of land there shall be an accurate survey and permanent marking of boundaries and accurate plots, showing the courses, distances and markings of every portion thereof, which shall be duly proved and registered as upon the initial registration. Such transfers shall be presented to the register of deeds for entry upon the registration of titles book and upon the owner's certificate within thirty days from the date thereof, or become subject to any rights which may accrue to any other person by a prior registration. All leases or contracts affecting land for a period exceeding three years shall be in writing, duly proved before the clerk of the superior court, recorded in the register's office, and noted upon the registry and upon the owner's certificate.

1913, c. 90, ss. 15, 32.

2413. Certified copy of order of court noted. In voluntary transactions a certificate from the proper state, county or court officer, or certified copy of the order, decree or judgment of any court of competent jurisdiction shall be authority for him to order a proper notation thereof upon the registration of titles book, and for the register of deeds to note the transaction under the direction of the court.

1913, c. 90, s. 16.

2414. Production of owner's certificate required. Whenever owner's certificate is not presented to the register along with any writing, instrument or record filed for registration under this chapter, he shall forthwith send notice by registered mail to the owner of such certificate, requesting him to produce the same in order that a memorial of the transaction may be made thereon; and such production may be required by subpoena duces tecum or by other process of the court, if necessary.

1913, c. 90, s. 17.

2415. Registration notice to all persons. Every voluntary or involuntary transaction, which if recorded, filed or entered in any clerk's office would affect unregistered land, shall, if duly registered in the office of the proper register as the case may be, and not otherwise, be notice to all persons from the time of such registration, and operate, in accordance with law and the provisions of this chapter, upon any registered land in the county of such registration.

1913, c. 90, s. 18.

2416. Conveyance of registered land in trust. Whenever a writing, instrument or record is filed for the purpose of transferring registered land in trust, or upon any equitable condition or limitation expressed therein, or for the purpose of creating or declaring a trust or other equitable interest in such land, the particulars of the trust, condition, limitation or other equitable interest shall not be entered on the certificate, but it shall be sufficient to enter in the book and upon the certificates a memorial thereof by the terms "in trust" or "upon condition" or in other apt words, and to refer by number to the writing, instrument or record authorizing or creating the same. And if express power is given to sell, encumber or deal with the land in any manner, such power shall be noted upon the certificates by the term "with power to sell" or "with power to encumber," or by other apt words.

2417. Authorized transfer of equitable interests registered. No writing or instrument for the purpose of transferring, encumbering or otherwise dealing with equitable interests in registered land shall be registered unless the power thereto enabling has been expressly conferred by or has been reserved in the writing or instrument creating such equitable instrument, or has been declared to exist by the decree of some court of competent jurisdiction, which decree must also be registered.

1913, c. 90, s. 20.

ART. 7. LIENS UPON REGISTERED LANDS

2418. Docketed judgments. Whenever any judgment of the superior court of the county in which the registered estate is situated shall be duly docketed in the office of the clerk of the superior court, it shall be the duty of the clerk to certify the same to the register of deeds. The register of deeds shall thereupon enter the certificate of title, the date, and the amount of the judgment, and the same shall be a lien upon such land as fully as such docketed judgment would be a lien upon unregistered lands of the judgment debtor.

2419. Notice of delinquent taxes filed. It shall be the duty of the sheriff or other collector of taxes or assessments of each county and town, not later than the first day of March in each year, to file an exact memorandum of the delinquency, if any, of any registered land for the nonpayment of the taxes or assessments thereon, including the penalty therefor, in the office of the register of deeds for registration; and if such officer fails to perform such duty, and there shall be subsequent to such day a transfer of the land as hereinbefore provided, the grantee shall acquire a good title free from any lien for such taxes and assessments, and such sheriff or other collector of taxes and his sureties shall be liable for the payment of the taxes and assessments with the penalty and interest thereon.

2420. Sale of land for taxes; redemption. Whenever any sale of registered land is made for delinquent taxes or levies, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer to make such sale forthwith, to file a memorandum thereof for registration in the office of the register of deeds; and thereupon the registered owner shall be required to produce his certificate for cancellation, and a new owner's certificate shall be issued in favor of the purchaser, and the land shall be transferred on the land books to the name of such purchaser, unless such delinquent charges and all penalties and interest thereon be paid in full within ninety days after date of such sale; but a note shall be entered upon the certificate of title and also upon any such new owner's certificate, reserving the privilege of redemption in accordance with the law. In case of any redemption under this section of land sold for taxes, a note of the fact shall be duly registered, and if an owner's certificate has been issued to any purchaser, the same shall be canceled and a new one shall be issued to the person who has redeemed.

2421. Sale of unredeemed land; application of proceeds. If there be no redemption of land under the preceding section, in accordance with the law, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other collector of taxes in the county or town in which the land lies to sell the same at public auction for cash, first giving such notice of the time and place of sale as is prescribed for execution sales, and the proceeds of sale shall be applied, first, to the payment of all taxes and assessments then due to the state, county and town, with interest, penalty and costs; second, to the payment of all sums paid by any person who purchased at the former tax sale, with interest and the additional sum of five dollars; third, to the payment of a commission to the officer making the sale of five per centum on the first three hundred dollars and two per centum on the residue of the proceeds; fourth, to the satisfaction of any liens other than the taxes and assessments registered against the land in the order of their priorities; fifth, and the surplus, if any, to the person in whose name the land was previous to sale for taxes, subject to redemption as provided herein, his heirs, personal representatives or assigns. A note of the sale under this section shall be duly registered, and a certificate shall be entered and an owner's certificate issued in favor of the purchaser in whom title shall be thereby vested as registered owner, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to affect or divert the title of a tenant in reversion or remainder to any real estate which has been returned delinquent and sold on account of the default of the tenant for life in paying the taxes or assessments thereon.

1913, c. 90, s. 23.

ART. 8. ASSURANCE FUND

2422. Assurance fund provided; investment. Upon the original registration of land and also upon the entry of certificate showing the title as registered owners in heirs or devisees, there shall be paid to the clerk of the court one-tenth of one per cent of the assessed value of the land for taxes, as an assurance fund, which shall be paid over to the state treasurer, who shall be liable therefor upon his official bond as for other moneys received by him in his official capacity. He shall keep all the principal and interest of such fund invested, except as required for the payment of indemnities, in bonds and securities of the United States, of this state, or of counties and other municipalities within the state. Such investment shall be made upon the advice and concurrence of the governor and council of state, and he shall make report of such funds and the investment thereof to the general assembly biennially.

1913, c. 90, s. 33.

2423. Action for indemnity. Any person who, without negligence on his part, sustains loss or damage or is deprived of land, or of any estate or interest therein, through fraud or negligence or in consequence of any error, omission, mistake, misfeasance, or misdescription in any certificate of title or in any entry or memorandum in the registration book, and who, by the provisions of this chapter, is barred or in any way precluded from bringing an action for the recovery of such land or interest or estate therein or claim upon same, may bring an action in the superior court of the county in which the land is situate for the recovery of compensation for such loss or damage from the assurance fund. Such action shall be against the state treasurer and all other persons who may be liable for the fraud, negligence, omission, mistake or misfeasance; but if such claimant has the right of action or other remedy for the recovery of the land, or of the estate or interest therein, or of the claim upon same, he shall exhaust such remedy before resorting to the assurance fund.

2424. Satisfaction by third person or by treasurer. If there are defendants other than the state treasurer, and judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the treasurer and some or all of the other defendants, execution shall first be issued against the other defendants, and if such execution is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part, and the officer returning the same shall certify that it cannot be collected from the property and effects of the other defendants, or if the judgment be against the treasurer only, the clerk of the court shall certify the amount due on the execution to the state auditor, who shall issue his warrant therefor upon the state treasurer, and the same shall be paid. In all such cases the treasurer may employ counsel who shall receive reasonable compensation for his services from the assurance fund.

1913, c. 90, s. 35.

2425. Payment by treasurer, if assurance fund insufficient. If the assurance fund shall be insufficient at any time to meet the amount called for by any such certificate, the treasurer shall pay the same from any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; and in such case any amount thereafter received by the treasurer on account of the assurance fund shall be transferred to the general funds of the treasury until the amount advanced shall have been paid.

1913, c. 90, s. 36.

2426. Treasurer subrogated to right of claimant. In every case of payment by the treasurer from the assurance funds under the provisions of this chapter the treasurer shall be subrogated to all the rights of the plaintiff against all and every other person or property or securities to a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in benefit of the assurance fund.

1913, c. 90, s. 37.

2427. Assurance fund not liable for breach of trust; limit of recovery. The assurance fund shall not be liable to pay any loss, damage or deprivation occasioned by a breach of trust, whether expressed, constructive or implied, by any registered owner who is a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in a mortgage or deed of trust. Nor shall any plaintiff recover as compensation under the provisions of this chapter more than the fair market value of the land at the time when he suffered the loss, damage or deprivation thereof.

2428. Statute of limitation as to assurance fund. Action for compensation from the assurance fund shall be begun within three years from the time the cause of action accrued. In cases of infancy or other disability now recognized by law, persons under such disability shall have one year after the removal of such disability within which to begin the action.

1913, c. 90, s. 39.

CHAPTER 48

LIBEL AND SLANDER

- 2429. Libel against newspaper; notice before action.
- 2430. Effect of publication in good faith and retraction.
- 2431. Anonymous communications.
- 2432. Charging innocent woman with incontinency.

2429. Libel against newspaper; notice before action. Before any action, either civil or criminal, is brought for the publication, in a newspaper or periodical, of a libel, the plaintiff or prosecutor shall at least five days before instituting such action serve notice in writing on the defendant, specifying the article and the statements therein which he alleges to be false and defamatory.

Rev., s. 2012; 1901, c. 557.

For pleadings in libel and slander, see section 542.

Complaint must allege five days notice to defendant in writing, specifying article and false statements therein: Williams v. Smith, 134-249; Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. Effect of failure to give notice: Ibid. Where newspaper publishes retraction, no notice as required hereunder need be given: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. Failure of complaint to allege the five days notice is demurrable: Ibid.—and where demurrer sustained, plaintiff entitled to amend, Ibid.; Williams v. Smith, 134-249.

2430. Effect of publication in good faith and retraction. If it appears upon the trial that said article was published in good faith, that its falsity was due to an honest mistake of the facts, and that there were reasonable grounds for believing that the statements in said article were true, and that within ten days after the service of said notice a full and fair correction, apology and retraction was published in the same editions or corresponding issues of the newspaper or periodical in which said article appeared, and in as conspicuous place and type as was said original article, then the plaintiff in such case, if a civil action, shall recover only actual damages, and if, in a criminal proceeding, a verdict of “guilty” is rendered on such a state of facts, the defendant shall be fined a penny and the costs, and no more.

Where statute for libel applies equally to all newspapers and periodicals, it does not amount to unconstitutional discrimination: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628.

Provision of section taking away from person right to recover punitive damage is constitutional: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. Where paper pleaded retraction of publication, it is necessary for it also to show that publication was made in good faith, and with reasonable ground to believe same to be true, in order to remove it from punitive damages: Osborn v. Leach, 135-628. “Actual damages” includes pecuniary loss, physical pain, mental suffering and injury to reputation: Ibid.—and is property, while punitive damages is not property, Ibid.

2431. Anonymous communications. The two preceding sections shall not apply to anonymous communications and publications.

Rev., s. 2014; 1901, c. 557, s. 3.

Article signed “Smith” is not anonymous publication: Williams v. Smith, 134-249.

2432. Charging innocent woman with incontinency. Whereas doubts have arisen whether actions of slander can be maintained against persons who may attempt, in a wanton and malicious manner, to destroy the reputation of innocent and unprotected women, whose very existence in society depends upon the unsullied purity of their character, therefore any words written or spoken of a woman, which may amount to a charge of incontinency, shall be actionable.

Rev., s. 2015; Code, s. 3763; R. C., c. 106; 1808, c. 478.

For criminal libel and slander, see Crimes and Punishments, Art. 13.

As to damages in action hereunder, see Bowden v. Bailes, 101-612; Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303. Not necessary to allege that words "wantonly and wilfully" uttered: Bowden v. Bailes, 101-612. Words which amount to charge of incontinency must import not merely lascivious disposition, but fact of adultery or fornication: McBrayer v. Hill, 26-136; Lucas v. Nichols, 52-35; State v. Moody, 98-671.

"Innocent" woman means one who has never had actual illicit intercourse with a man: State v. Misenheimer, 123-758; State v. Malloy, 115-737; State v. Hinson, 103-374; State v. Brown, 100-519; State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Grigg, 104-882; State v. Ferguson, 107-849.

Husband is liable for wife's slander: Presnell v. Moore, 120-390. As to action by husband for slander of wife, see Harper v. Pinkston, 112-293.

Words which impute to female wanton and lascivious disposition only are not actionable: Lucas v. Nichols, 52-32.

WHAT AMOUNTS TO CHARGE OF INCONTINENCY. Saying of woman that she had sexual intercourse with a male dog: State v. Hewlin, 128-571—that she is a "d—whore," State v. Shoemaker, 101-690—that if plaintiff (an unmarried woman) "did not give birth to child she missed a good opportunity of having it," Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303—that she "was kept by a man," McBrayer v. Hill, 26-136. It is not charging incontinency to say that a single woman looked like she had miscarried: State v. Benton, 117-788—or that she is a "damned bitch," State v. Harwell, 129-550. The words spoken must amount to a charge of actual illicit sexual intercourse: State v. Moody, 98-671; State v. Aldridge, 86-680. When the words spoken are ambiguous, it is for the jury to determine whether they amount to a slanderous charge: State v. Howard, 169-312.

- 2492. Local: Commissioners to furnish blank records.

ART. 1. MECHANICS', LABORERS' AND MATERIALMEN'S LIENS

2433. On buildings and property, real and personal. Every building built, rebuilt, repaired or improved, together with the necessary lots on which such building is situated, and every lot, farm or vessel, or any kind of property, real or personal, not herein enumerated, shall be subject to a lien for the payment of all debts contracted for work done on the same, or material furnished.

Rev., s. 2016; Code, s. 1781; 1901, c. 617; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 1.

History of statutes: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285, and see Const. N. C., art. 14, s. 4, which is foundation of successive statutes.

"Mechanic's lien," "laborer's lien" and "material lien" discussed and distinguished: Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443.

LIEN: CHARACTER AND ESSENTIALS. The lien is statutory, given to enforce a debt, and without a debt there can be no lien: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704; Weathers v. Borders, 124-610; Boone v. Chatfield, 118-916; Grissom v. Pickett, 98-54; Wilkie v. Bray, 71-205. Relation of debtor and creditor must exist, and the lien depends on and is incident to debt: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Baker v. Robbins, 119-289. Thus no lien against owner for improvements put up on credit of, and under contract with, lessee: Boone v. Chatfield, 118-916; Weathers v. Cox, 159-575. No lien to person who officiously without authority on contract builds upon another's land: Thompson v. Taylor, 110-70—nor against mortgagee, where, without his knowledge or subsequent ratification, improvements made by contract with mortgagor, though mortgagor's equity is subject to lien: Baker v. Robbins, 119-289.

There must be a contract, express or implied, under which materials were furnished or work done in order for the lien to exist: Nicholson v. Nichols, 115-200. See Bruce v. Mining Co., 147-642.

Statute designed to protect those who work or supply materials and who, in absence of the statute, would have no security but the personal obligations of employer: Grissom v. Pickett, 98-54.

PROPERTY SUBJECT TO LIEN. Nothing that does not become part of realty is the subject of mechanic's lien; therefore trade fixtures put up by lessee not subject to lien: Woodworking Co. v. Southwick, 119-611—mortgagor's removing house after lien attached does not affect the lien, Turner v. Mebane, 110-413.

Subject to mechanic's lien—estate by entireties, for materials furnished under contract with both husband and wife: Finch v. Cecil, 170-72—leasehold for five years, Woodworking Co. v. Southwick, 119-611—property of corporation chartered to supply water to city, Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-615.

Not subject to mechanic's lien—courthouse: Snow v. Comrs., 112-335—public school building, Hardware Co. v. Graded School, 150-680—property of municipal corporation, but laborers and material men, as beneficiaries of contract between municipality and contractor, can sue on contractor's bond, and municipality may be liable for any balance due contractor, Schefflow v. Pierce, 176-91. See Gastonia v. Engineering Co., 131-363. See, also, section 2445.

Where contractor undertakes to put up and complete building on undivided tract of 80 acres, the mechanic's lien extends to whole of tract, and it is no segregation that house and improvements enclosed by fence: Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443.

As to agricultural liens on crops and sufficiency of description of land thereunder, see section 2480.

“WORK DONE.” Work done must be actual, manual labor, done under contract for such labor: Bruce v. Mining Co., 147-642; Cook v. Ross, 117-193.

Statute includes the contractor, under whom his employees and agents work: Schefflow v. Pierce, 176-91; Lester v. Houston, 101-605—contractor has lien against railroad for work on construction, etc., Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999.

Semble, includes only services or labor for betterment of property on which it is bestowed; in other cases laborer must secure himself as at common law: Tedder v. R. R., 124-342.

Superintendent of laborers who does no manual labor himself is not entitled to lien: Cook v. Ross, 117-193. Caretaker has no lien: Bruce v. Mining Co., 147-642; Morrison v. Mining Co., 143-250. So overseer: Whitaker v. Smith, 81-340. So bookkeeper, though he occasionally did manual labor: Nash v. Southwick, 120-459.

MATERIAL FURNISHED. “Material furnished” means such material as enters into and becomes part of property and adds to its value: Coal Co. v. Electric Co., 118-232. These words mean something furnished to be appropriated on the land to some lawful purpose connected with the land: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-615. Semble, materials are not furnished hereunder unless actually appropriated to improvements on land; but where not so used nor understanding for such use, no lien arises: Lanier v. Bell, 81-337.

Where subject-matter for which debt incurred keeps its identity it is not “material” within this section: Fulp v. Power Co., 157-154. Poles, wires, and appliances for carrying electricity held not material furnished: Ibid. So, steam engine, though built into wall: James v. Lumber Co., 122-157. So electric dynamo: Electric Co. v. Power Co., 122-599. Plans and specifications furnished by architect are not material hereunder: Stephens v. Hicks, 156-239.

Whether coal furnished to factory a lien on product, quere: Norfleet v. Cotton Factory, 172-833.

AMOUNT SECURED. Where contractor labors and furnishes material under entire and indivisible contract, his lien embraces entire outlay, whether in labor or materials: Isler v. Dixon, 140-529; Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443.

PRIORITIES. Lien attaches at the beginning of the work or of the furnishing of materials: McAdams v. Trust Co., 167-494; Cheesborough v. Sanatorium, 134-245; Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263.

Lien does not affect mortgages and encumbrances existing prior to lien's attaching, but is superior to those subsequently attaching: McAdams v. Trust Co., 167-494; Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999. Such lien entitled to no preference over prior mortgage as against mortgagee; would only be lien against mortgagor on his equity of redemption: Cox v. Lighting Co., 152-164.

Mechanic's lien hereunder is, under const., art. 10, s. 4, superior to homestead exemption of owner; but mere material lien is not entitled to the constitutional priority: Broyhill v. Gaither, 119-443; Cumming v. Bloodworth, 87-83.

As to priority between liens hereunder and corporate mortgages under section 1140: McAdams v. Trust Co., 167-494; Cox v. Lighting Co., 152-164; Moore v. Industrial Co., 138-304; Electric Co. v. Power Co., 122-599; James v. Lumber Co., 122-157; Coal Co. v. Electric Co., 118-232.

DECREEING LIEN. In action to recover for work and labor upon construction of house, court may, in judgment for amount due, decree lien on premises: Oakley v. Van Noppen, 95-60.

SECTION REFERRED TO: Harvey v. Johnson, 133-358; James v. Lumber Co., 122-160; Cameron v. Lumber Co., 118-267; Paper Co. v. Chronicle, 115-145; Cook v. Cobb, 101-69; Bank v. Mfg. Co., 96-309; McDougall v. Crapon, 95-294.

2434. Buildings on married woman's land. The preceding section applies to the property of a married woman when it appears that such building was built or repaired on her land with her consent or procurement. In such case she shall be deemed to have contracted for such improvements.

Rev., s. 2016; Code, s. 1781; 1869-70, c. 206; 1901, c. 617.

Section is constitutional: Finger v. Hunter, 130-529. Lien under section is for all debts contracted for work and labor done on married women's property: Ball v. Paquin, 140-83. Written consent of husband not necessary to charge wife hereunder: Ball v. Paquin, 140-98; Finger v. Hunter, 130-529.

No lien on wife's land for improvements made by husband: Kearney v. Vann, 154-311; Anderson v. Anderson, 177-401. See Stephens v. Hicks, 156-239.

Where married woman contracted with her husband to repair her house, and he bought material, material man has no lien unless notice given before she paid husband in full: Payne v. Flack, 152-600. Before Martin act (section 2507), in absence of lien on married woman's separate property, contract void unless made as required by law: Stephens v. Hicks, 156-239—and before this section married woman could not subject her real property to lien for improvements, Weathers v. Borden, 124-610. See Green v. Bennett, 120-394; Thompson v. Taylor, 110-70; Weir v. Page, 109-220; Nicholson v. Nichols, 115-200.

2435. On personal property repaired. Any mechanic or artisan who makes, alters or repairs any article of personal property at the request of the owner or legal possessor of such property has a lien on such property so made, altered or repaired for his just and reasonable charge for his work done and material furnished, and may hold and retain possession of the same until such just and reasonable charges are paid; and if not paid for within thirty days, if it does not exceed fifty dollars, or within ninety days if over fifty dollars, after the work was done, such mechanic or artisan may proceed to sell the property so made, altered or repaired at public auction, by giving two weeks public notice of such sale by advertising in some newspaper in the county in which the work may have been done, or if there is no such newspaper, then by posting up notice of such sale in three of the most public places in the county, town or city in which the work was done, and the proceeds of the said sale shall be applied first to the discharge of the said lien and the expenses and costs of keeping and selling such property, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid over to the owner thereof.

Where A. contracted with lumber company to cut, haul and raft logs standing on plaintiff's land, severance of the logs from the land converts them into personalty, and A. is entitled to lien under this section on logs for labor in performing contract: Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623. See Huntsman v. Lumber Co., 122-583. Mere mortgagee of personal property in possession entitled to no lien: Block v. Dowd, 120-402.

Lien hereunder depends upon laborer's or artisan's possession of the chattel, and is lost when he surrenders possession: Tedder v. R. R., 124-342; Block v. Dowd, 120-402; McDougall v. Crapon, 95-292. See Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623—but lien is not lost unless the surrender is voluntary, Auto Co. v. Rudd, 176-497.

Statute gives right to enforce lien by sale: McDougall v. Crapon, 95-292. Sale restrained until existence of lien and amount of indebtedness are determined: Huntsman v. Lumber Co., 122-583.

Relation of lien hereunder to common-law lien for services: Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623; McDougall v. Crapon, 95-292.

Section cited: Glazener v. Lumber Co., 167-676.

2436. Laborer's lien on lumber and its products. Every person doing the work of cutting or sawing logs into lumber, getting out wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark, has a lien upon the said lumber for the amount of wages due them, and the said lien shall have priority over all other claims or liens upon said lumber, except as against a purchaser for full value and without notice thereof: Provided, any such laborer whose wages for thirty or less number of days performed are due and unpaid shall file notice of such claim before the nearest justice of the peace in the county in which said work has been done, stating the number of days of labor performed, the price per day, and the place where the lumber is situate, and the person for whom said labor was performed, which said statement shall be signed by the said laborer or his attorney, and the said laborer shall also give to the owner thereof, within five days after the lien has been filed with the justice of the peace, as aforesaid, a copy of said notice as filed with the said justice of the peace. If the owner cannot be located, then notice shall be given by attaching said notice on the logs or lumber, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark upon which the labor sued for was performed, and any person buying said lumber or logs, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark after such notice has been filed with the nearest justice of the peace, shall be deemed to have bought the same with notice thereof, but no action shall be maintained against the owner of said logs or lumber, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark or the purchaser thereof under the provisions of this section unless same is commenced within thirty days after notice is filed with the justice of the peace by such laborer, as above provided.

1913, c. 150, s. 6.

Requisites for lien under section examined, and no lien unless claimant shows compliance with all requisites: Bryson v. Lumber Co., 171-700. Various mill hands in mill where lumber sawed held entitled to lien hereunder, but hands engaged in operating log train only not entitled: Hogsed v. Lumber Co., 170-529; s. c., sub nomine, Glazener v. Lumber Co., 167-676. Liens hereunder of laborers employed by contractor exist only when owner of the lumber on which the labor is bestowed is indebted to the contractor: Bryson v. Lumber Co., 171-700, and cases cited.

Notice required for, and priority of, lien: Bryson v. Lumber Co., 171-700; Glazener v. Lumber Co., 167-676.

Quere whether notice before justice of peace required when company operated by receiver under order of court: Walker v. Lumber Co., 170-460.

Observations on construction of section: Thomas v. Merrill, 169-623.

ART. 2. SUBCONTRACTORS', ETC., LIENS AND RIGHTS AGAINST OWNERS`

2437. Lien given subcontractors, etc., on real estate. All subcontractors and laborers who are employed to furnish, or who do furnish labor or material for the building, repairing or altering any house or other improvement on real estate, have a lien on said house and real estate for the amount of such labor done or material furnished, which lien shall be preferred to the mechanics' lien now provided by law, when notice thereof shall be given as hereinafter provided, which may be enforced as other liens in this chapter, except where it is otherwise provided; but the sum total of all the liens due subcontractors and material men shall not exceed the amount due the original contractor at the time of notice given.

Rev., s. 2019; Code, ss. 1801, 1803; 1880, c. 44, ss. 1, 3.

History of subcontractor's lien statutes: Ingold v. Hickory, 178-614; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Lester v. Houston, 101-605.

The section enacts that the laborer and the material man may, by giving notice to the owner, have a lien on the property of the owner to the extent of the contract price; that the owner is liable for the amount due the contractor at the time of notice; and that when lien once acquired by notice, owner, as trustee, must distribute fund pro rata: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704.

Lien obtained by filing notice or itemized statements before owner has paid contractor in full: West v. Laughinghouse, 174-214; Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704; Building Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87; s. c., 174-57; Supply Co. v. Eastern Star Home, 163-513; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Pinkston v. Young, 104-102—whereupon owner becomes liable as trustee to the amount due contractor, Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87; s. c., 174-57; Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704—for lien is limited to owner's indebtedness to contractor, Wood v. R. R., 131-48; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115—and owner not otherwise responsible to subcontractor or laborer, Wood v. R. R., 131-48.

By giving proper notice, subcontractor substituted for contractor as to amount due or to become due from owner, without regard to account between contractor and subcontractor: Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371; Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354. See Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426; Powell v. Lumber Co., 168-632.

Laborer's lien, or lien for materials, when filed, relates back and takes priority over all liens attaching subsequent to beginning work or furnishing first materials: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263; Chadbourne v. Williams, 71-444.

Right to lien does not apply to public property, and right to payment out of funds depends on lien: Hutchinson v. Comrs., 172-844—though no lien may be filed against town, it may be liable to subcontractors for balance due contractor when proper notice given; and laborers and material men may sue on contractor's bond, Scheflow v. Pierce, 176-91.

Mere fact that laborers and subcontractors are working on building is not notice to owner not to pay contractor until he has ascertained how much is due by him to every subcontractor and laborer: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115.

Lien given by section does not supersede that in favor of contractor: Lester v. Houston, 101-605—but only gives it a preference to extent of amounts which may be due subcontractor, provided it does not exceed sum which may be due original contractor, Ibid.

Subcontractor may enforce lien for labor or materials against owner of property, though contract with principal contractor has not been completed: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658—or has been abandoned, Ibid.

Section merely referred to: Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999; Parsley v. David, 106-225.

Public laws 1911, c. 761, as to liens in certain counties, invalid: Supply Co. v. Eastern Star Co., 163-513.

2438. Notice to owner; liability. Any subcontractor, laborer or material man, who claims a lien as provided in the preceding section, may give notice to the owner or lessee of the real estate who makes the contract for such building or improvement at any time before the settlement with the contractor, and if the said owner or lessee refuses or neglects to retain out of the amount due the said contractor under the contract as much as is due or claimed by the subcontractor, laborer or material man, the subcontractor, laborer or material man may proceed to enforce his lien, and after such notice is given, no payment to the contractor shall be a credit on or discharge of the lien herein provided.

Rev., s. 2020; Code, s. 1802; 1880, c. 44, s. 2.

Lien acquired by notice to owner, and exists only from date of notice: Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87; s. c., 174-57; Wood v. R. R., 131-48; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Pinkston v. Young, 104-102. And see cases infra this note. Mere knowledge that laborers at work or that materials furnished is not sufficient notice: Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87; s. c., 174-57; see Clark v. Edwards, 119-115. Notice held sufficient to establish lien: Building Corp. v. Jones, 174-57.

Notice must be given to owner before he pays contractor: Supply Co. v. Eastern Star Co., 163-513. Material man dealing with husband, who has contracted with his wife to build her house, must notify wife before she pays her husband: Payne v. Flack, 152-600.

Subcontractor can enforce lien against owner only to extent of sums due contractor at date of giving notice to owner of his claim: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115. Where one furnishes material to subcontractor and gives notice to owner, his right to recover depends on amount due contractor, not on amount due subcontractor: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426; Powell v. Lumber Co., 168-632; Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371. Relation of debtor and creditor exists between owner and subcontractor, or material man, only to extent of lien acquired by giving notice: Hardware Co. v. Graded School, 151-507; Hall v. Jones, 151-419.

Materials furnished must be to one engaged on the building and actually used in the building: Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371.

After notice to owner suit must be brought in six months; lien need not be filed with clerk: Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639. If after notice given lien lost by failure to sue in time, claimant may yet recover from owner his pro rata share of amount due contractor: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639.

Subcontractor may enforce lien for labor or materials against owner, though contract with principal contractor has not been completed or has been abandoned: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658. Contractor cannot sue owner for benefit of subcontractor without showing express trust: Perry v. Swanner, 150-141. Enforcement of subcontractor's lien for materials furnished: Bain v. Lamb, 167-304. Sufficiency of complaint in action to enforce material man's lien hereunder: Parsley v. David, 106-225. Action by owner against surety of defaulting contractor; items properly allowable as damages, etc.: Donlan v. Trust Co., 139-212.

Judgment against owner should declare only amount due for which execution may issue, and should not direct payment into court: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639.

Contractor necessary party to action to enforce lien of subcontractor: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658—but trustee in conveyance subject to lien is not, Ibid.

Section referred to: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-618; Lester v. Houston, 101-605.

See infra this chapter, art. 8.

2439. Statement of contractor's indebtedness to be furnished to owner; effect.

When any contractor, architect or other person makes a contract for building, altering or repairing any building or vessel, or for the construction or repair of a railroad, with the owner thereof, it is his duty to furnish to the owner or his agent, before receiving any part of the contract price, as it may become due, an itemized statement of the amount owing to any laborer, mechanic or artisan employed by such contractor, architect or other person, or to any person for materials furnished, and upon delivery to the owner or his agent of the itemized statement aforesaid, it is the duty of the owner to retain from the money then due the contractor a sum not exceeding the price contracted for, which will be sufficient to pay such laborer, artisan or mechanic for labor done, or such person for material furnished, which said amount the owner shall pay directly to the laborer, mechanic, artisan or person furnishing materials. The owner may retain in his hands until the contract is completed such sum as may have been agreed on between him and the contractor, architect or other person employing laborers, as a guaranty for the faithful performance of the contract by such contractor. When such contract has been performed by the contractor such fund reserved as a guaranty shall be liable to the payment of the sum due the laborer, mechanic or artisan for labor done, or the person furnishing the materials as hereinbefore provided.

This and the following four sections (statute of 1887) provide an additional method of creating and enforcing a lien in favor of mechanics and laborers; the contractor is required to give owner notice of claims of subcontractors and others; but there is no lien until prescribed notice is given: Pinkston v. Young, 104-102. By giving notice claimant has double security, a lien upon property enforceable by suit, and to his share of money due from owner to contractor: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704; West v. Laughinghouse, 174-214; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285.

When statement is furnished by contractor, obligation arises on part of the owner which material man may enforce in his own name: Perry v. Swanner, 150-141—but obligation not debtor and creditor except to amount of lien acquired, Hardware Co. v. Graded School, 151-507. Lien only in favor of material man furnishing material to one having some contract relation to the work: Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371.

When lien fixed by notice, claimant may enforce it without regard to condition of account between contractor and subcontractor: Powell v. Lumber Co., 168-632; Brick Co. v. Pulley, 168-371.

It is duty of owner to retain out of amount due contractor sum to pay laborers and material men: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639.

Notice given by contractor to architect of owner of claims is not without further proof of agency sufficient to raise lien hereunder: Building Supplies Co. v. Hospital Co., 176-87.

Section not repealed by amendments to section 2444, contained in 1913, c. 150: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426.

2440. Laborer, etc., may furnish statement of claim to owner; effect. Any laborer, mechanic, artisan or person furnishing materials may furnish to such owner or his agents before he shall have paid the contractor an itemized statement of the amount owing to such laborer, mechanic or artisan employed by said contractor, architect or other person for work or labor on such building, vessel or railroad, and any person may furnish to such owner or his agents an itemized statement of the amount due him for materials furnished for such purposes. Upon the delivery of such notice to such owner or his agent the person giving such notice is entitled to all the liens and benefits conferred by law in as full and ample a manner as though the statement was furnished by the contractor, architect or such other person. And after the notice herein provided is given, no payment to the contractor shall be a credit or a discharge of the lien herein provided.

Rev., s. 2021; 1887, c. 67; 1891, c. 203; 1899, c. 335; 1903, c. 478; 1913, c. 150, s. 4.

See annotations under preceding section.

2441. Sums due by statement to constitute lien. The sums due to the laborer, mechanic or artisan for labor done, or due the person furnishing materials, as shown in the itemized statement rendered to the owner, shall be a lien on the building, vessel or railroad built, altered or repaired, without any lien being filed before a justice of the peace or the superior court.

Rev., s. 2022; 1887, c. 67, s. 2.

Section dispenses with necessity of filing itemized statement before justice of the peace or clerk: Pinkston v. Yjung, 104-102; Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354; Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639. Claim filed with owner constitutes lien on property to extent of amount due contractor: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704.

2442. Where sums due contractor from owner insufficient; payment pro rata. If the amount due the contractor by the owner is insufficient to pay in full the laborer, mechanic or artisan, for his labor, and the person furnishing materials, for materials furnished, it is the duty of the owner to distribute the amount pro rata among the several claimants, as shown by the itemized statement furnished the owner, or of which notice has been given the owner by the claimant.

Rev., s. 2023; 1887, c. 67, s. 3; 1913, c. 150, s. 5.

Where there are several claims filed, distribution is pro rata: Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704; West v. Laughinghouse, 174-214; Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285. Lien properly perfected has priority over attachment lien: Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354.

Section does not repeal the three preceding sections: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426—not in conflict with section 2471, Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285.

2443. Contractor failing to furnish statement, or not applying owner's payments to laborer's claims, misdemeanor. If any contractor or architect shall fail to furnish to the owner an itemized statement of the sums due to every one of the laborers, mechanics or artisans employed by him, or the amount due for materials, before receiving any part of the contract price, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any contractor shall fail to apply the contract price paid him by the owner or his agent to the payment of bills for labor and material, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3663; 1887, c. 67, s. 4; 1913, c. 150, s. 8.

Referred to: Pinkston v. Young, 104-102.

2444. Laborer for railroad contractor may sue company; conditions of action. As often as any contractor for the construction of any part of a railroad which is in progress of construction is indebted to any laborer for thirty or less number of days labor performed in constructing said road, or is indebted for more than thirty days to any person furnishing material for the construction of said road, such laborer or material man may give notice of such indebtedness to said company in a manner herein provided, and said company shall thereupon become liable to pay such laborer or material man the amount so due for labor or material, and action may be maintained against said company therefor. Such notice shall be given by said laborer to said company within twenty days after the performance of the number of days labor for which the claim is made, and such notice shall be given by the material man to said company within thirty days after the materials have been furnished. Such notice to be given by the laborer shall be in writing and shall state the amount and number of days labor and the time when the labor was performed for which the claim is made, and the name of the contractor from whom due, and shall be signed by such laborer or his attorney; and such notice of the material man shall be in writing and shall state the amount of material furnished and when furnished, and the name of the contractor to whom furnished and by whom due, and shall be signed by such material man or his attorney. The notice shall be served on an engineer, agent or superintendent employed by said company having charge of the section of road on which such labor was performed or material furnished, personally or by leaving the same at the office or usual place of business of said engineer, agent, or superintendent, with some person of suitable age. But no action shall be maintained against any company under the provisions of this section unless the same is commenced within ninety days after notice is given to the company by such laborer or material man as above provided.

Rev., s. 2018; Code, s. 1942; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 12; 1913, c. 150, s. 1.

Section considered with reference to sections 2439, 2440, 2470, 2474: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426.

A logging railroad is a railroad within this section: Carter v. Lumber Co., 160-8. Laborer seeking to subject railroad company hereunder must show substantial compliance with section: Moore v. R. R., 112-236. Privilege conferred by section restricted to laborers, and for work done for thirty days or less in constructing road, and company can in no event be held liable for payment of accounts due by contractors for materials: Ibid. Contractor or subcontractor entitled to file lien within one year of doing work or furnishing material: Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999. After complying with requirements of section, laborer can assign claim as debt either against employer or railroad company: Moore v. R. R., 112-236—and assignee can enforce claim, Ibid.

2445. Contractor on municipal building to give bond; action on bond. Every county, city, town or other municipal corporation which lets a contract for the building, repairing or altering any building, public road, or street, shall require the contractor for such work (when the contract price exceeds five hundred dollars) to execute bond with one or more solvent sureties before beginning any work under said contract, payable to said county, city, town or other municipal corporation, and conditioned for the payment of all labor done on and material and supplies furnished for the said work. The amount of the said bond to be given by said contractor shall be equal to the contract price up to two thousand dollars, and when the contract price is between two and ten thousand dollars the amount of said bond shall be two thousand dollars plus thirty-five per cent of the excess of the contract price over two thousand dollars and under ten thousand; when the contract is over ten thousand dollars, the amount of the said bond shall be two thousand dollars plus twenty-five per cent of the excess of the contract price over the sum of two thousand dollars. If the official of the said county, city, town or other municipal corporation, whose duty it is to take said bond, fails to require the said bond herein provided to be given, he is guilty of a misdemeanor. Any laborer doing work on said building and material man furnishing material therefor and used therein, has the right to sue on said bond, the principal and sureties thereof, in the courts of this state having jurisdiction of the amount of said bond, and any number of laborers or material men whose claims are unpaid for work done and material furnished in said building have the right to join in one suit upon said bond for the recovery of the amounts due them respectively.

Section requires municipal corporation to take a bond and authorizes laborers and material men to sue on the bond, and a provision in the bond interfering with this right of action is invalid: Ingold v. Hickory, 178-614. Where bond taken from contractor by municipality was for protection of obligee alone, sureties are not liable to material men: McCausland v. Construction Co., 172-708. Semble, that section for protection of county, etc., and that subcontractors and material men acquire no rights thereunder: Fore v. Feimster, 171-551.

ART. 3. LIENS ON VESSELS

2446. For towage and for supplies at home port. Every vessel, boat, scow, lighter, flat, raft or other water craft is subject to a lien for the payment of towage done by any steamboat or tugboat; and every vessel and boat is subject to a lien for debts due for materials and supplies furnished to such vessel or boat in her home port. These liens shall be filed and enforced as is provided for other liens.

Rev., s. 2040; 1893, c. 357; 1909, c. 147.

2447. For labor in loading and unloading. Every vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, is subject to a lien for all labor done by contractors or others in loading or discharging the cargo of such vessel, and also for all labor done by any subcontractor or laborer employed in discharging or loading any such vessel, when such labor is done under contract with a contractor or stevedore who may be employed by the master, agent or owner of such vessel.

Rev., s. 2041; Code, s. 1804; 1881, c. 356, s. 1.

2448. Filing lien; laborer's notice to master. The liens provided for in the preceding sections shall be filed as is provided for other liens. The subcontractor or laborer may give notice to the master, agent or owner of such vessel, that the contractor or stevedore is or will become indebted to him. It shall then be the duty of such master, agent or owner of such vessel to retain out of the amount due to such contractor or stevedore under his contract as much as is due or claimed by the person giving the notice, and after such notice is given no payment to the contractor or stevedore shall be a credit on or a discharge of the lien herein provided.

Rev., s. 2042; Code, s. 1805; 1881, c. 356, s. 2.

Section referred to: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-628.

2449. Enforcement of lien. The enforcement of such lien shall be by summons against the contractor or stevedore, and also against the master, agent or owner of such vessel, who made the contract with such contractor or stevedore, if over two hundred dollars, to be issued by the clerk of the superior court, and if under two hundred dollars, by a justice of the peace.

Rev., s. 2043; Code, s. 1806; 1881, c. 356, s. 3.

2450. Judgment against contractor binds master and vessel. The judgment against the contractor or stevedore shall also be a judgment against the master, agent or owner of such vessel, and also against such vessel itself, her tackle, apparel and furniture, which shall be seized, held and sold under execution for the satisfaction of such judgment.

Rev., s. 2044; Code, s. 1807; 1881, c. 356, s. 4.

2451. Liens not to exceed amount due contractor. The sum total of all the liens due to different subcontractors and laborers, performed for any contractor or stevedore under any contract with any master, agent or owner of any vessel, shall not exceed the amount due to the contractor or stevedore at the time of notice given to the owner, agent or master, or the amount due to the contractor or stevedore at the time of the service of summons upon the master, agent or owner, when no notice has been given.

Rev., s. 2045; Code, s. 1808; 1881, c. 356, s. 5.

Section referred to: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-628.

2452. Owner to see laborers paid. In all cases where steamships or vessels of any kind are loaded or unloaded or where any work is done in or about the same by the contractors to do the same known as stevedores or "boss stevedores," who in doing the same employ laborers to assist or do the work by the hour, day, week or month, it is the duty of the owner or agent of the vessel to see that the laborers employed in or about the same by the stevedore, contractor or "boss stevedore" are fully paid the wages that may be due such laborer before he makes final settlement with the contractor, stevedore or "boss stevedore."

Rev., s. 2046; 1887, c. 145, s. 1.

2453. Owner may refuse to settle with contractor till laborers paid. Any owner or agent referred to in the preceding section may refuse final settlement with the "boss stevedore" or contractor until he or they satisfy the said owner or agent, by written oath if necessary, that the same has been done.

Rev., s. 2047; 1887, c. 145, s. 2.

2454. Owner may pay orders for wages. It is lawful for the owner or agent of such vessel to pay off from time to time such orders for wages as may be due and given therefor in favor of the laborers by the contractor or stevedore, which on final settlement may be deducted from the contract price.

Rev., s. 2048; 1887, c. 145, s. 3.

2455. Laborer's right of action against owner. Any owner or agent of such vessel who neglects or refuses to comply with the preceding provisions is liable to such laborer in a civil action for the amount of the wages so due him by the contractor, stevedore or "boss stevedore."

Rev., s. 2049; 1887, c. 145, s. 4.

2456. Stevedore's false oath punishable as perjury. If any contractor, stevedore or boss stevedore shall make any false oath or false representation with intent to wrong, cheat or defraud any laborer in violation of the four preceding sections, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished as is now prescribed by law for perjury.

Rev., s. 3613; 1887, c. 145, s. 5.

2457. Stevedores to be licensed; omission misdemeanor. No person shall engage in the business of loading or unloading vessels upon contract, nor shall any person solicit or make any contract for himself or for any other person to load or unload any vessel either by day's work or by the job, without having previously obtained a license therefor, in the manner provided by law for other licenses for trades and occupations. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., ss. 2050, 3791; 1891, c. 450; 1899, c. 595.

2458. Tax and bond on procuring license. Before the sheriff shall issue the said license the applicant shall pay to the sheriff an annual tax of fifty dollars, and shall execute a bond with two or more approved sureties in the sum of two thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties and the due and lawful payment of all sums due to laborers assisting in the work of loading or unloading any vessels upon which the applicant may be engaged. And every bond so taken shall be renewed annually, and shall be filed with and preserved by the register of deeds in trust for every person that shall be injured by the breach of his contracts, who may severally bring suit thereon for the damages by each one sustained.

Rev., s. 2051; 1891, c. 450.

ART. 4. WAREHOUSE STORAGE LIENS

2459. Liens on goods stored for charges. Every person, firm or corporation who furnishes storage room for furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise and makes a charge for storing the same, has the right to retain possession of and a lien upon all furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise until such storage charges are paid.

1913, c. 192, s. 1; 1915, c. 190, s. 1.

2460. Enforcement by public sale. If such charges are not paid within ten days after they become due, then such person, firm or corporation is authorized to sell said furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise at the county courthouse door, after first advertising such sale for ten days at said courthouse door and three other public places in said county, or in some newspaper published in said county where the goods or tobacco are stored, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay the costs and expenses of sale and all costs and charges due for storage, and the surplus, if any, pay to the owner of such furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise.

1913, c. 192, s. 2; 1915, c. 190, s. 2.

ART. 5. LIENS OF HOTEL, BOARDING AND LODGING-HOUSE KEEPER

2461. Lien on baggage. Every hotel, boarding-house keeper and lodging-house keeper who furnishes board, bed or room to any person has the right to retain possession of and a lien upon all baggage or other property of such person that may have been brought to such hotel, boarding-house or lodging house, until all reasonable charges for such room, bed and board are paid.

Rev., s. 2037; 1899, c. 645, s. 1; 1917, c. 26, s. 1.

Lien recognized: State v. Hill, 166-298. Innkeeper has a lien even upon goods of third person held by guest, and brought within inn, unless he knew that they were not the property of guest: Covington v. Newberger, 99-523—but one who entertains strangers only occasionally, although he receives compensation therefor, is not an innkeeper, State v. Mathews, 19-424.

2462. Baggage may be sold. If such charges are not paid within ten days after they become due, then the hotel, boarding-house or lodging-house keeper is authorized to sell said baggage or other property at the courthouse door, after first advertising such sale for ten days at said courthouse door and three other public places in the county, and out of the proceeds of sale to pay the costs and expenses of sale and all costs and charges due for said board, bed or room, and the surplus, if any, pay to the owner of said baggage or other property.

2463. Notice of sale. Written notice of such sale shall be served on the owner of such baggage or other property ten days before such sale, if he is a resident of the state; but if he is a nonresident of the state, or if his residence is unknown, the publication of such notice for ten days at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county shall be sufficient service of the same.

Rev., s. 2039; 1887, c. 645, s. 3.

ART. 6. LIENS OF LIVERY-STABLE KEEPERS

2464. Lien for ninety days keep on animals in possession. Every keeper of livery, sale, or boarding stables has a lien upon and the right to retain the possession of every horse, mule, or other animal belonging to the owner or person contracting for the board and keep of any horse, mule, or other animal, for any and all unpaid amounts due for board of any horse, mule, or other animal. This lien shall not attach for amounts accruing for a longer period than ninety days from the reception of such property or from the last full settlement; nor does this lien apply if the property is removed from the possession of said keeper of said livery, sale, or boarding stable.

1911, c. 141, s. 1.

2465. Enforcement by public sale. If such charges are not paid within fifteen days after they become due and demand is made for the same, then the keeper of such livery, sale or boarding stable is authorized to sell the property at the county courthouse door, after first advertising said sale for ten days at the county courthouse door and three other public places in said county, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay the costs and charges due for the board and keep of said horse, mule, or other animal, including the charges for keeping said animal until said sale, and the surplus, if any, pay to the owner of said animal.

1911, c. 141, s. 2.

2466. Notice of sale to owner. Written notice of such sale shall be served on the owner of such horse, mule, or other animal ten days before such sale, if he is a resident of the state; but if he be a nonresident of the state, or if his residence is unknown, the publication of such notice for ten days at the county courthouse door and three other public places in the county shall be sufficient service of the same.

1911, c. 141, s. 3.

ART. 7. LIENS ON COLTS, CALVES AND PIGS

2467. Season of sire a lien. In all cases where the owner, or any agent for or employee of the owner, of any mare, jennet, cow or sow, turns the same to a studhorse, jack, bull, or boar, for the purpose of raising colts, calves, or pigs, the price charged for the season of the studhorse, jack, bull, or boar constitutes a lien on the colt, calf, or pigs until the price so charged for the season is paid.

Rev., s. 2024; Code, s. 1797; 1885, c. 72; 1887, c. 14; 1872-3, c. 94, s. 1; 1915, c. 18, s. 1.

2468. Colts, etc., not exempt from execution for season price. The colt, calf, or pigs shall not be exempt from execution for the payment of said season price by reason of the operation of the personal property exemption: Provided, the person claiming such lien institutes action to enforce the same within twelve months from the foaling of the colt, dropping the calf, or farrowing of the pigs.

Rev., s. 2025; Code, s. 1798; 1885, c. 72; 1872-3, c. 94, s. 2; 1879, c. 47; 1915, c. 18; 1917, c. 229.

ART. 8. PERFECTING, ENFORCING AND DISCHARGING LIENS

2469. Claim of lien to be filed; place of filing. All claims against personal property, of two hundred dollars and under, may be filed in the office of the nearest justice of the peace; if over two hundred dollars or against any real estate or interest therein, in the office of the superior court clerk in any county where the labor has been performed or the materials furnished; but all claims shall be filed in detail, specifying the materials furnished or labor performed, and the time thereof. If the parties interested make a special contract for such labor performed, or if such material and labor are specified in writing, in such cases it shall be decided agreeably to the terms of the contract, provided the terms of such contract do not affect the lien for such labor performed or materials furnished.

Rev., s. 2026; Code, s. 1784; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 4; 1876-7, c. 53, s. 1.

For local variation as to justice's jurisdiction in Johnston county, see 1907, c. 148.

For clerk's duty to record, see section 952, subsection 23.

Claim filed under this section must be in substantial compliance with statute and must set forth in detail the character of labor performed or materials furnished, the time when performed or furnished, the amount due therefor, and the property upon which labor performed or materials furnished: Jefferson v. Bryant, 161-404; Fulp v. Power Co., 157-157; Cook v. Cobb, 101-68; Wray v. Harris, 77-77—without such particulars, is irregular and void, Wray v. Harris, 77-77—cannot be amended by court in action to enforce the lien, Jefferson v. Bryant, 161-404. Creditors with claims for materials, who have not filed liens at time of issuing an insurance policy, cannot claim benefits under the policy: Roper v. Ins. Co., 161-151.

Upon filing of notice within proper time and in prescribed manner, lien given laborers and mechanics attaches to property upon which labor or materials bestowed: Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263—and relates back to time of beginning of work or furnishing of materials, Ibid.; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Chadbourn v. Williams, 71-444—and is effectual not only against all other liens or encumbrances which attached subsequently, but against purchasers for value and without notice, Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263. Notice of lien on land must be filed in office of superior court clerk: Lanier v. Bell, 81-337. Lien of person who furnished materials for building is not avoided because in notice thereof filed with clerk it is made to attach on two distinct lots separated by street: Chadbourn v. Williams, 71-444. Notice of lien required to be filed since enactment of section should be filed with clerk of superior court, though materials began to be furnished before section went into effect: Ibid. Only original contractor can file notice of mechanic's lien: Zachary v. Perry, 130-289.

Laborer's lien filed after employer's death is valid though employer named in caption instead of administrator: Pugh v. Baker, 127-2. For claim of laborer held to be made out in substantial compliance with section, see Cameron v. Lumber Co., 118-266.

Taking note for debt is not waiver of lien, nor is an extension of time of payment unless beyond time allowed for filing: Lumber Co. v. Trading Co., 163-314.

Section merely referred to: Kornegay v. Styron, 105-19; Jarrett v. Self, 90-479.

As to justice's jurisdiction in Johnston county, see 1907, c. 148.

2470. Time of filing notice. Notice of lien shall be filed as hereinbefore provided, except in those cases where a shorter time is prescribed, at any time within six months after the completion of the labor or the final furnishing of the materials, or the gathering of the crops.

Rev., s. 2028; Code, s. 1789; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 4; 1876-7, c. 53, s. 2; 1881, c. 65; 1883, c. 101; 1909, c. 32; 1913, c. 150, s. 7.

Section valid: Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-623. Where lien filed in proper time it relates back to time of furnishing material, etc.: Granite Co. v. Bank, 172-354. Filing within six months necessary to affect purchasers for value and without notice: Lumber Co. v. Trading Co., 163-314. The shorter time referred to herein means the time referred to in section 2444: Powder Co. v. Denton, 176-426. Section formerly required one year instead of six months: Dunavant v. R. R., 122-999.

2471. Date of filing fixes priority. The liens created and established by this chapter shall be paid and settled according to the priority of the notice of the lien filed with the justice or the clerk.

Rev., s. 2035; Code, s. 1792; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 11.

Liens which are to be filed with the justice or clerk are paid according to priority; subcontractors' claims which require only notice to owner are paid pro rata: Mfg. Co. v. Andrews, 165-285; Foundry Co. v. Aluminum Co., 172-704.

Laborer's lien, or lien for materials, when filed relates back and takes priority over all liens attaching subsequent to beginning work or furnishing first material: Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263; Chadborn v. Williams, 71-444.

2472. Laborer's crop lien dates from work begun. The lien for work on crops given by this chapter shall be preferred to every other lien or encumbrance which attached to the crops subsequent to the time at which the work was commenced.

Rev., s. 2034; Code, s. 1782; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 2.

Lien of laborer has precedence over agricultural liens made subsequent to his contract, but before crop harvested: Rouse v. Wooten, 104-229.

Lien provided by section arises out of simple relation of debtor and creditor for labor done or materials furnished and where there is no other security than personal obligation of debtor: Grissom v. Pickett, 98-54. Where plaintiff, having abandoned contract with defendant to cultivate crop on shares and attempted to assert lien upon crop for labor performed on same, he does not come within section: Ibid.

Section merely referred to: Tedder v. R. R., 124-344; Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-617; Brewer v. Chappell, 101-254; Farrar v. Staton, 101-79. Cases of interest, not entirely applicable under present law: Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Burr v. Maultsby, 99-263; Warren v. Woodard, 70-382.

2473. Duly filed claims of prior creditors not affected. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect the rights of any person to whom any debt may be due for any work done for which priority of claim is filed with the proper officer.

Rev., s. 2036; Code, s. 1786; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 6.

See section 1140 as to priority between corporate mortgage and claims for labor, etc.

2474. Action to enforce lien. Action to enforce the lien created must be commenced in the court of a justice of the peace, and in the superior court, according to the jurisdiction thereof, within six months from the date of filing the notice of the lien. But if the debt is not due within six months, but becomes due within twelve months, suit may be brought or other proceedings instituted to enforce the lien in thirty days after it is due.

Rev., s. 2027; Code, ss. 1785, 1790; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 7; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 5; 1876-7, c. 250; 1876-7, c. 251.

Failure to commence action within time specified discharges the lien: Norfleet v. Cotton Factory, 172-833.

Defects in claim under section 2469 not cured by alleging necessary facts in pleading in action brought to enforce lien: Cook v. Cobb, 101-68; Jefferson v. Bryant, 161-404.

Section cannot have been intended for case in which resort to any court unnecessary, and complete relief may be obtained by parties' own act: McDougall v. Crapon, 95-295.

Action against a married woman for less than $200 for material used in building a house must be brought before a justice of the peace: Finger v. Hunter, 130-529; Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85—but where proceeding not under section, but an action to coerce payment out of separate estate of feme covert for her contracts, superior court alone has jurisdiction, although amount be less than $200, Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85. But see section 2507.

As to parties to action hereunder, see Pugh v. Baker, 127-2; Lumber Co. v. Hotel Co., 109-658; Clark v. Edwards, 119-115; Moore v. R. R., 112-236.

Section merely referred to: McMillan v. Williams, 109-252; Hodges v. Hill, 105-131; Boyle v. Robbins, 71-133.

2475. When attachment available to plaintiff. In all cases where the owner or employer attempts to remove the crop, houses or appurtenances from the premises, without the permission, or with the intent to defraud the lience of his lien, the claimant may have a remedy by attachment.

Rev., s. 2031; Code, s. 1795; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 14.

As to sufficiency of affidavits to obtain attachment, see Brogden v. Privett, 67-45.

2476. Defendant entitled to counterclaim. The defendant in any suit to enforce the lien is entitled to any setoff arising between the contractors during the performance of the contract, or counterclaim allowed by law.

Rev., s. 2032; Code, s. 1788; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 8.

2477. Execution. Upon judgment rendered in favor of the claimant, an execution for the collection and enforcement thereof shall issue in the same manner as upon other judgments in actions arising on contract for the recovery of money only, except that the execution shall direct the officer to sell the right, title and interest which the owner had in the premises or the crops thereon, at the time of filing notice of the lien, before such execution shall extend to the general property of the defendant.

Rev., s. 2029; Code, s. 1791; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 9.

Judgment to enforce mechanic's lien upon specific property for its satisfaction must contain general description of such property, and execution thereon must direct that such property shall first be sold to satisfy judgment: McMillan v. Williams, 109-252. Justice cannot declare, but can render direct judgment appropriating funds belonging to plaintiff: Markham v. McCown, 124-163. Property subject to lien must be first sold: McMillan v. Williams, 109-252; Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 111-615.

Section merely referred to: Burr v. Maultsby, 99-266; Boyle v. Robbins, 71-133.

2478. No justice's execution against land. No execution issued by a justice of the peace, under this chapter, shall be enforced against real estate or any interest therein, but justices' judgments may be docketed on the judgment docket of superior court for the purpose of selling such estate or any interest therein.

Rev., s. 2030; Code, s. 1794; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 13.

When land to be sold in enforcing lien, judgment rendered before justice shall be docketed in superior court, whence execution may issue: Smaw v. Cohen, 95-85.

2479. Discharge of liens. All liens created by this chapter may be discharged as follows:

1. By filing with the justice or clerk a receipt or acknowledgment, signed by the claimant, that the lien has been paid or discharged.
2. By depositing with the justice or clerk money equal to the amount of the claim, which money shall be held by said officer for the benefit of the claimant.
3. By an entry in the lien docket that the action on the part of the claimant to enforce the lien has been dismissed, or a judgment rendered against the claimant in such action.
4. By a failure of the claimant to commence an action for the enforcement of the lien within six months from the notice of lien filed.

Rev., s. 2033; Code, s. 1793; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 12.

Lien lost by failure to sue in six months: Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147-639; Norfleet v. Cotton Factory, 172-833.

ART. 9. AGRICULTURAL LIENS FOR ADVANCES

2480. Lien on crops for advances. If any person makes any advance either in money or supplies to any person who is engaged in or about to engage in the cultivation of the soil, the person making the advance is entitled to a lien on the crops made during the year upon the land in the cultivation of which the advance has been expended, in preference to all other liens, except the laborer's and landlord's liens, to the extent of such advance. Before any advance is made an agreement in writing for the advance shall be entered into, specifying the amount to be advanced, or fixing a limit beyond which the advance, if made from time to time during the year, shall not go; and this agreement shall be registered in the office of the register of the county where the person advanced resides within thirty days after its date.

Rev., s. 2052; Code, s. 1799; 1893, c. 9; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 1; 1872-3, c. 133, s. 1.

As to husband's creating lien on crop raised on wife's land, see Loftin v. Crossland, 94-76; Bray v. Carter, 115-16; Rawlings v. Neal, 126-271; Wells v. Batts, 112-283; Branch v. Ward, 114-148; Guano Co. v. Colwell, 177-218.
