4059. Title in third person no defense; exceptions. Except as provided in the two preceding sections and except when the goods may have been delivered to the person authorized to have such delivery, as heretofore provided in this article, or when the goods may have been sold to satisfy the warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, as hereafter provided in this article, no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt.

4060. Failure to deliver goods as described. A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt for damages caused by the nonexistence of the goods or by the failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at the time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that the packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor.

4061. Liability for negligence. A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise; but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

1917, c. 37, s. 21.

For liability of warehouseman, see Motley v. Finishing Co., 124-232.

4062. Goods kept separate. Except as provided in the following section, a warehouseman shall keep the goods so far separate from goods of other depositors, and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued, as to permit at all times the identification and redelivery of the goods deposited.

1917, c. 37, s. 22.

4063. Effect of confusion of goods. If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole.

Rev., s. 3034; 1917, c. 37, s. 23.

4064. Liability of warehouseman for confusion of goods. The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and redelivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been kept separate.

1917, c. 37, s. 24.

4065. Goods not subject to attachment or execution. If goods are delivered to a warehouseman by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the court.

4066. Creditor's remedy against receipt. A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipt or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

4067. Warehouseman's lien. Subject to the subsequent provisions of this article specifying what liens may be enforced against a negotiable receipt, a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on the proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, cooperating, and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice and advertisements of sale, and for sale of the goods where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien.

1917, c. 37, s. 27.

See chapter on Liens.

4068. Against what goods lien enforced. Subject to the subsequent provisions of this article specifying what liens may be enforced against a negotiable receipt, a warehouseman's lien may be enforced—

1. Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted; and

2. Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, if such person has been so entrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid.

1917, c. 37, s. 28.

4069. Loss of lien. A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods—

1. By surrendering possession thereof, or

2. By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of this act.

1917, c. 37, s. 29.

4070. What liens enforced against negotiable receipts. If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerate other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms for a warehouseman's lien as heretofore provided in this article, although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt.

1917, c. 37, s. 30.

4071. Right to retain until liens satisfied. A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied.

1917, c. 37, s. 31.

4072. Other legal remedies for warehouseman. Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay.

1917, c. 37, s. 32.

4073. Enforcement of liens. A warehouseman's lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

1. Notice given. The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain—

a. An itemized statement of the warehouseman's claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due;

b. A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists;

c. A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered or from the time when the notice should reach its destination according to the due course of post if the notice is sent by mail; and

d. A statement that unless the claims are paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

2. Sale of goods. In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed, an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held, and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein. From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement, and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods.

3. Right of claimant to pay charges. At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of this act, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise, the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit.

4075. Other remedies not excluded. The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman's claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property.

Rev., s. 3041; 117, c. 37, s. 35.

4076. Liability discharged by sale for liens. After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman's lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the receipt given for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable.

1917, c. 37, s. 36.

ART. 4. NEGOTIATION AND TRANSFER OF RECEIPTS

4077. Negotiation by delivery. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery—

1. Where by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer; or

2. Where by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where by the terms of a negotiable receipt the goods are deliverable to bearer, or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee.

4078. Negotiation by indorsement. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the receipt deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer, or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer, or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner.

4079. Transfer of nonnegotiable receipts. A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee.

A nonnegotiable receipt cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right.

1917, c. 37, s. 39.

4080. By whom receipt negotiated. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated—

1. By the owner thereof, or

2. By any person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted by the owner, if by the terms of the receipt the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted, or if at the time of such entrusting the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery.

1917, c. 37, s. 40.

4081. Rights acquired by negotiation. A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

1. Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value; and

2. The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him.

4082. Rights acquired by transfer. A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby, as against the transferrer, the title of the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferrer. If the receipt is nonnegotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt. Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferrer or transferee of a nonnegotiable receipt, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferrer, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferrer or a subsequent purchaser from the transferrer of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferrer.

4083. Right to compel indorsement. Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferrer is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferrer to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made.

1917, c. 37, s. 43.

4084. Warranties in negotiation and transfer. A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—

1. That the receipt is genuine;
2. That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it;
3. That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt; and
4. That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose, whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby.

1917, c. 37, s. 44.

4085. Indorser not liable for failure of prior parties. The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the warehouseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfill their respective obligations.

1917, c. 37, s. 45.

4086. No warranty by collection of debt secured by receipt. A mortgagee, pledgee, or holder for security of a receipt who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described.

1917, c. 37, s. 46.

See Mason v. Cotton Co., 148-492.

4087. Rights of bona fide holder not affected by fraud. The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was induced by fraud, mistake, or duress to entrust the possession or custody of the receipt to such person, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake, or duress.

4088. Subsequent purchasers protected. Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage, or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation.

4089. Right of purchaser superior to seller's lien. Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancellation.

1917, c. 37, s. 49.

ART. 5. CRIMINAL OFFENSES

4090. Issuing receipt for goods not stored. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both.

1917, c. 37, s. 50.

4091. Issuing receipt with false statement. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

4092. Issuing fraudulent duplicates. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods, knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncanceled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word "duplicate," except in the case of a lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings for delivery as heretofore provided in this chapter, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both.

1917, c. 37, s. 52.

4093. Failure to state in receipt the interest of warehouseman. Where there are deposited with or held by a warehouseman goods of which he is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, such warehouseman, or any of his officers, agents, or servants who, knowing this ownership, issues or aids in issuing a negotiable receipt for such goods which does not state such ownership, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

4094. Delivering goods without obtaining receipt. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods is outstanding and uncanceled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, except in the cases heretofore provided for in this chapter for the delivery of goods upon a lost receipt and for the sale of goods to satisfy the warehouseman's lien or because of their perishable or hazardous nature, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

1917, c. 37, s. 54.

4095. Fraudulent deposit and negotiation. Any person who deposits goods to which he has not title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable receipt which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to deceive and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

1917, c. 37, s. 55.

ART. 1. DISSENT FROM WILL

4096. Time and manner of dissent. Every widow may dissent from her husband's will before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such will is proved, at any time within six months after the probate. The dissent may be in person, or by attorney authorized in writing, executed by the widow and attested by at least one witness and duly proved. The dissent, whether in person or by attorney, shall be filed as a record of court. If the widow be an infant or insane, she may dissent by her guardian.

Dissent of widow may be made in person or by attorney: Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-29—formerly made in person only, Hinton v. Hinton, 28-274.

Widow may dissent, notwithstanding executor induced her to agree otherwise under seal, if she was ignorant at the time of the condition of the estate: Richardson v. Justice, 125-409. Where widow agrees to adhere to provisions of will and, in consequence thereof, executor proceeds to pay legacies and assume obligations which would cause loss to him if widow were to dissent, she will be estopped by her agreement; but where in such case she offers to put the estate in statu quo, and executor has not acted under her agreement so as to cause him any loss, she is not estopped: Yorkly v. Stinson, 97-236.

Where widow is appointed executrix, proves the will and qualifies, she cannot afterwards renounce and dissent, but must carry out will in all of its provisions: Yorkly v. Stinson, 97-236; see Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 53-287; Syme v. Badger, 92-706; Allen v. Allen, 121-331; Jones v. Gerock, 59-195. But she may still dissent within the six months where qualification was had under an agreement with those interested to increase her allowance, and this was not carried out: In re Shuford's Will, 164-132.

Where widow fails to dissent, and brings action after six months from probate for a year's allowance, such action is not maintainable: Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-86. Dissent not necessary to maintain claim to year's allowance, when will provided for the allowance: Flippin v. Flippin, 117-376. Widow is entitled to provision from both personal and real estate of husband, and where she is provided for with one in the will she may obtain the other by dissenting from the will: Craven v. Craven, 17-338. Widow is entitled to dower without dissenting when no provision is made for her in the will: Miller v. Chambers (not reported), cited in Craven v. Craven, 17-338—but where provision made, she must dissent in six months, Redmond v. Coffin, 17-437.

If widow, donee of a power in a will, dissents from will, she renounces all powers and estates given, at least of such powers as imply personal trust and confidence: Hinton v. Hinton, 68-104; Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 53-287.

Where widow dissents to will in one state, it seems she cannot come here and claim under the will: Jones v. Gerock, 59-195; Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 53-287.

Fact that widow enters a caveat to will and contests its validity does not prevent her from accepting any benefit given her by will if its validity is established, or from entering her dissent thereto in the proper time: Yorkly v. Stinson, 97-236.

An election to take under the will once made, though by matter in pais, is binding: Horton v. Lee, 99-227. Widow who takes under a will is barred of dower in the lands included in such will because of her election, and not under an idea that she has received consideration therefor: Mitchener v. Atkinson, 62-23; but see same case, 63-585.

This section is a statute of limitation and only affects the remedy: Hinton v. Hinton, 61-410.

Where widow, being under age and without guardian, dissented from husband's will in open court and dower was assigned, it was held that, though dissent erroneously made, assignment of dower cannot be impeached in an action of ejectment brought by her for its recovery: Cheshire v. McCoy, 52-376.

4097. Effect of dissent. Upon such dissent, the widow shall have the same rights and estates in the real and personal property of her husband as if he had died intestate.

Rev., s. 3081; Code, s. 2109; R. C., c. 118, s. 12; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 38.

The "estate" is her dower, and her "rights" are the year's support and share as distributee: Drewry v. Bank, 173-664. Upon dissent the widow takes such interest as she would have taken if husband had died intestate; and her interest is subject to inheritance tax: Corporation Com. v. Dunn, 174-679.

How distributive share in personalty arrived at when widow dissents from will: Arrington v. Dortch, 77-367, and cases cited.

Where property is devised to widow for life and then to another, and she dissents to will, such property descends at once to the remainderman unless assigned to widow in her dower: Baptist University v. Borden, 132-476; Adams v. Gillespie, 55-244; Wilson v. Stafford, 60-647. Upon a dissent of widow, will should be so construed as to affect devisees and legatees to as small a degree as possible: Ibid.

For further annotations, see under section 4096.

4098. Widow's interest not liable for husband's debts. The dower or right of dower of a widow, and such lands as may be devised to her by his will, if such lands do not exceed the quantity she would be entitled to by right of dower, although she has not dissented from such will, shall not be subject to the payment of debts due from the estate of her husband, during the term of her life.

Rev., s. 3082; Code, ss. 2104, 2105; R. C., c. 118, s. 8; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 34; 1791, c. 351, s. 4.

Failure of the widow to dissent does not deprive her of her dower in the land as against the rights of creditors: Trust Co. v. Stone, 176-270; Lee v. Giles, 161-541; Shackelford v. Miller, 91-181; Simonton v. Houston, 78-408; Avery, ex parte, 64-113—and she is entitled to the same remedies as in an application for dower, Simonton v. Houston, 78-408.

Where will gave certain legacies and devises to widow in lieu of dower, which amounted to less in value than her dower, such legacies and devises were not assets liable to pay debts of testator: Smith v. Smith, 79-455. A decree of sale in a petition to sell land for assets does not estop the widow to claim dower in the proceeds unless her right was adjudicated: Trust Co. v. Stone, 176-270.

Where the widow is entitled to a homestead in right of her husband she is not put to her election to hold under the will or against it by dissent: Fulp v. Brown, 153-531.

ART. 2. DOWER

4099. Who entitled to dower. Widows shall be endowed as at common law as in this chapter defined: Provided, if any married woman shall commit adultery, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, or shall be convicted of the felonious slaying of her husband, or being accessory before the fact to the felonious slaying of her husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband; and any such adultery or conviction may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of dower.

Rev., s. 3083; Code, s. 2102; 1889, c. 499; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 32; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44.

Nature and history of dower discussed: Corporation Com. v. Dunn, 174-679. Widow's claim is in nature of a "writ of right" and is favored by law, and cannot be lost or forfeited, except for causes prescribed by statute or common law: Brown v. Morisey, 126-772.

Where decree in an action for divorce a mensa et thoro directed that husband pay a sum in gross and be discharged from all further liability for the support of his wife, after his death wife was entitled to dower in his lands: Taylor v. Taylor, 93-418.

Wife who commits adultery and is not living with her husband at time of his death is thereby deprived of her dower: Lee v. Thornton, 176-208; Phillips v. Wiseman, 131-402. Bigamy of wife forfeits all right of dower in first husband's estate: Irby v. Wilson, 21-568.

4100. In what property widow entitled to dower. Subject to the provision in the preceding section, every married woman, upon the death of her husband intestate, or in case she shall dissent from his will, shall be entitled to an estate for her life in one-third in value of all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized and possessed at any time during the coverture, in which third part shall be included the dwelling-house in which her husband usually resided, together with offices, outhouses, buildings and improvements thereunto belonging or appertaining; she shall in like manner be entitled to such an estate in all legal rights of redemption and equities of redemption or other equitable estates in lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized in fee at any time during the coverture, subject to all valid encumbrances existing before the coverture or made during it with her free consent lawfully appearing thereto. The jury summoned for the purpose of assigning dower to a widow shall not be restricted to assign the same in every separate and distinct tract of land, but may allot her dower in one or more tracts, having a due regard to the interest of the heirs as well as to the right of the widow. This section shall not be construed so as to compel the jury selected to allot dower to allot the dwelling-house in which the husband usually resided, when the widow shall request that the same be allotted in other property.

For partition and dower, see section 3226.

NATURE OF DOWER RIGHT. Widow claims her dower under statute, not under her husband, often against him: Brown v. Morisey, 126-772. Right of wife to dower is paramount to and does not arise from the estate of the heir, but is a continuation of that of husband: Love v. McClure, 99-290; Everett v. Newton, 118-922; see Campbell v. Murphy, 55-357; Reitzel v. Eckard, 65-673.

Right of wife to have lands exonerated from mortgage debts, as against heirs, legatees, etc.: Creedy v. Pearce, 69-67; Caroon v. Cooper, 63-386; Gore v. Townsend, 105-228; Gwathney v. Pearce, 74-398; Klutts v. Klutts, 58-80.

Action for waste lies against tenant in dower, when: Carr v. Carr, 20-317—but not against husband of such tenant, Davis v. Gilliam, 40-308—unless such husband attempts to remove a house therefrom, even though he built it himself, Dozier v. Gregory, 46-100. Action for permissive waste can be brought against life tenant: Sherrill v. Connor, 107-630. Creditor cannot bring action: Jones v. Britton, 102-174. The right to sue for waste includes the right to restrain its commission: Morrison v. Morrison, 122-598. Assignee of dower entitled to cut how much timber from dower land, see Joyner v. Speed, 68-236.

Where the wife joined the husband in conveyance of timber, payment for extension of time, made after husband's death, should be to the heir and not to the widow: Morton v. Lumber Co., 178-163.

The widow's right of dower is an inchoate right, and she has no present right to property, nor to its possession; she has only a right contingent upon surviving her husband: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-504. Until allotment of dower has been made the widow has no right to retain possession of land against the heir or those claiming under him: Morton v. Lumber Co., 178-163; Fishel v. Browning, 145-71, and cases cited.

Where widow by ante-nuptial agreement agreed to take same interest in husband's lands as an heir in lieu of dower, etc., such agreement is enforceable on her: Brooks v. Austin, 95-474—as is also agreement to take nothing, Cauley v. Lawson, 58-132.

Dower interest is not shown by widow proving only a deed to her husband, without proving title in grantor or possession for seven years under deed: Brown v. Morisey, 128-138.

Open, notorious, and exclusive possession for twelve years, accompanied by claim of ownership, is constructive notice of an equity, even though it be in possession of one entitled to dower which had not been allotted. It would have been otherwise if dower had been allotted, as to the part embraced in the allotment: Ross v. Hendrix, 110-403.

Debt being one prior to 1868, defendant, widow of execution debtor, is not entitled to a homestead in the land so sold, but purchaser at sheriff's sale became owner and is entitled to recover land subject only to widow's right of dower: Buie v. Scott, 112-375.

In suit by widow against heirs to recover payments allotted to her as dower and made a charge on land, heirs cannot set up by way of counterclaim damages for waste committed by widow, but must proceed under statute: Hybart v. Jones, 130-227.

In a decree for specific performance of a contract to convey land, in which the wife did not join, compensation may be made for wife's dower right as an encumbrance: Bethell v. McKinney, 164-71.

LANDS IN WHICH WIDOW ENDOWED OR NOT ENDOWED. Wife is entitled to dower, under statute, in equitable as well as legal estates: Fortune v. Watkins, 94-304; see Rhea v. Rawls, 131-454; Efland v. Efland, 96-488—in all estates which any child she might bear could by any possibility have taken by descent: Pollard v. Slaughter, 92-72—only in an estate of inheritance, of which husband has a seizin in law or a seizin in deed, at any time during coverture; and therefore she is not dowable of a reversion or remainder expectant upon an estate of freehold: Houston v. Smith, 88-312; Redding v. Voght, 140-562; Thomas v. Bunch, 158-175; Phifer v. Phifer, 157-221; Royster v. Royster, 61-226.

Seizin of husband in order to support dower must be seizin in law; not only actual or constructive possession, but legal right to possession: Haire v. Haire, 141-88; Efland v. Efland, 96-488; Barnes v. Raper, 90-189. Widow is not entitled to dower where husband had only a life estate: Sprinkle v. Spainhour, 149-223; Gilmore v. Sellars, 145-283; Thompson v. Crump, 138-32.

Where land acquired and marriage took place prior to dower act of 1867, and husband conveyed in 1872 without concurrence of wife, land was not subject to dower: Jenkins v. Jenkins, 82-208. Where vendee, who was married before dower and homestead acts, makes a contract to buy land, bearing date before passage of those acts, but deed is not made until after their passage, his wife is not entitled to dower or homestead in such land unless he be seized of them at his death, and deed for them without her joinder conveys good title: Fortune v. Watkins, 94-304. Widow who married since the common-law dower act is not entitled to dower in lands sold during coverture under execution for debts contracted prior to dower act. And this is not changed because some of debts under which lands were sold were contracted subsequently. In this view, dower act does not impair obligations of the contract between debtor and creditor: Patton v. Asheville, 109-685. Not entitled as against purchaser at bankrupt sale, where marriage and acquisition of land were prior to 1860: Baird v. Winstead, 123-181.

Where husband and wife joined in a bond to convey a tract of land to defendant, but wife was not privily examined, and after death of husband she received payment for land and invested money in other land, she was estopped from taking advantage of want of privy examination, and therefore was not entitled to dower in land sold by her husband: Hodge v. Powell, 96-64.

Where a man executed and delivered deed to tract of land prior to his marriage and remained on land up to his death, and deed was not recorded until after his death, his widow is not entitled to dower: Haire v. Haire, 141-88.

Where widow fails for fourteen years to have dower allotted she cannot take dower in lands bought by third persons from heirs, where there is enough realty left out of which to secure her dower: Howell v. Parker, 136-373.

Where there is a devise in fee simple, with an executory devise over, wife's right to dower attaches on first estate, and is not defeated on its determination: Pollard v. Slaughter, 92-72.

Where land was purchased and paid for by husband, but deed was made to a third party in order to defraud creditors of husband, he has no such seizin as will support a claim for dower on part of his widow, although he was in possession of land: Efland v. Efland, 96-488; Barnes v. Raper, 90-189—but where land of which husband was seized during coverture was sold at execution sale and purchased by a third party with money of husband, and title was made to purchaser, with a like intent to defraud, wife is entitled to dower, Ibid.

A conveyance before marriage to defeat intended wife of dower right is void: Barnes v. Raper, 90-191; Littleton v. Littleton, 18-327; see, also, Tate v. Tate, 21-22; Pinner v. Pinner, 44-475.

If husband made a void deed, seizin remained in him and right of dower attached thereto: Norwood v. Morrow, 20-578.

Widow has right of dower in land covenanted to be conveyed to husband, but not fully paid for at death: Overton v. Hinton, 123-1; Smith v. Gilmer, 64-546; Thompson v. Thompson, 46-430—or paid for and no deed executed, Howell v. Parker, 136-373.

Widow entitled to dower in land voluntarily conveyed to husband, even though deed not registered: Tyson v. Tyson, 37-137; Tyson v. Harrington, 41-329.

Where husband conveys land in trust to satisfy creditors, but continues in possession till his death, his widow is not entitled to dower therein: Taylor v. Parsley, 10-125 (decision under a prior statute).

Widow's right of dower in partnership realty, see Sparger v. Moore, 117-449; Stroud v. Stroud, 61-525; Patton v. Patton, 60-572; Summey v. Patton, 60-601—in land held by husband as tenant in common, Dudley v. Tyson, 167-67—in land in which there has been an equitable conversion and reconversion, Phifer v. Giles, 159-142; s. e., 157-221.

When first wife paid for land and deed was made to husband by mistake, second wife is not entitled to dower: Hendren v. Hendren, 153-505.

Where deed not registered, and is lost at husband's death, he did not die seized, and widow therefore not entitled in law: Thomas v. Thomas, 32-123—but whether in equity, see Tyson v. Harrington, 41-329.

Where, on death of intestate, his widow and son live together on his land, and son marries and dies and his mother has her dower allotted in the same homestead tract, the son's wife can have no dower therein: Reitzel v. Eckard, 65-674.

Widow not entitled, in land of second husband, when first husband still alive, and no divorce, though he was absent from state and not heard from in seven years when second marriage took place: Ward v. Bailey, 118-55.

Where testator made several specific bequests to widow and children and provided that residue should be disposed of according to law, widow is entitled to dower as in case of intestacy: Bost v. Bost, 56-484.

A reservation of dower to wife of trustor in deed of trust to pay debts is void, but does not render deed void: Carter v. Cocks, 64-239.

Contract before marriage that neither, in case of death of one of them, should claim anything that belonged to other before marriage is sufficient to exclude widow from dower, from year's allowance and distributive share: Cauley v. Lawson, 58-132.

Where it becomes necessary to resort to lands of testator to pay his debts, widow is entitled to her dower: Gully v. Holloway, 63-84; Avery, ex parte, 64-113.

Acceptance by widow of a homestead laid off in lifetime of husband does not bar her right of dower in the other lands of husband: McAfee v. Bettis, 72-28.

Where widow was general devisee under husband's will and conveyed a large part of the land in trust for her creditors, and, after passage of ordinance of March, 1868, dissented and sought to have dower therein: Held, that she was entitled: Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63-231.

Widow, who has taken dower in another state, has no interest in rents from estate of deceased husband: Carroll v. Montgomery, 128-278.

Widow not entitled to dower in land deeded to her husband under parol agreement of a reconveyance by way of mortgage, and she refuses to sign mortgage: Bunting v. Jones, 78-242.

Widow entitled in lands sold after husband's death under a fi. fa. tested before: Frost v. Etheridge, 12-30, overruling Winstead v. Winstead, 2-243.

Dower of widow shall embrace residence last usually occupied by deceased husband, and if value thereof is as much as one-third of the realty of which husband died seized, widow has no interest in balance of estate: Howell v. Parker, 136-373; Harrington v. Harrington, 142-517. But when the husband dies seized only of a house and lot, the widow is not entitled to have the whole as dower: Caudle v. Caudle, 176-537.

4101. Dower not affected by conveyance of husband; exception. No alienation of the husband alone, with or without covenant of warranty, shall have any other or further effect than to pass his interest in such estate, subject to the dower right of his wife: Provided, that a mortgage or trust deed by the husband to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, of land bought by him, shall, without the wife executing the deed, be effectual to pass the whole interest according to the provisions of the said deed.

For annotations as to necessity of signature and private examination of wife in order to bar her dower, see section 997.

Husband may convey land acquired before the constitution of 1868 without joinder of wife, and thereby bar wife of dower or homestead: Cawfield v. Owen, 129-286.

Where wife is not a party to an action for specific performance of contract to convey land executed by her husband he cannot avoid decree for conveyance by asserting that his wife was entitled to dower in land: Rodman v. Robinson, 134-503—compensation allowed for dower right as an encumbrance, Bethell v. McKinney, 164-71.

While land sold without joinder of wife is subject to dower, the purchaser has the right to have the dower allotted out of other lands descended: Harrington v. Harrington, 142-517.

The restriction placed upon alienation in fee by dower must be so construed as to carry out kindly purpose for which it was created with no more restraint on power of alienation than is necessary to make it effectual: Hughes v. Hodges, 102-236.

4102. Dower conveyed by wife's joinder in deed. The right to dower under this chapter shall pass and be effectual against any widow or person claiming under her upon the wife joining with her husband in the deed of conveyance and being privately examined as to her consent thereto in the manner prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 3086; Code, s. 2107; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 36.

For necessity of married woman's signing deed and being privately examined to bar her dower right, see under section 997. See chapter Married Women.

Where only interest that feme defendant in an action by grantee of her husband and herself to recover land is her contingent right of dower, her failure to sign deed or to be privily examined will not affect right of plaintiff to recover: Deans v. Pate, 114-194.

4103. Conveyance of home site without wife's signature. No deed or other conveyance, except to secure purchase money, made by the owner of a home site, which shall include the residence and other buildings together with the particular lot or tract of land upon which the residence is situate, whether actually occupied by said owner or not, shall be valid to pass possession or title during the lifetime of the wife without the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signified on her private examination according to law: Provided, the wife does not commit adultery, or has not and does not abandon the husband and live separate and apart from him.

ART. 3. ALLOTMENT OF DOWER

4104. By agreement between widow and heir. If the personal property of a decedent be sufficient to pay his debts and charges of administration, the heir or devisee with the widow may, by deed, agree to an assignment of her dower.

Rev., s. 3087; Code, s. 2110; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 39.

Agreements to assignment, see Jones v. Slaughter, 96-541; Waters v. Waters, 125-590.

Allotment of dower at law and in equity explained: In re Gorham, 177-271.

Dower must be allotted in a single action brought in county in which deceased last usually resided: Howell v. Parker, 136-373; see Askew v. Bynum, 81-350.

Summons must be returnable before clerk only: Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113-312. Equitable jurisdiction of superior court over dower has not been taken away by giving cognizance of such matters to clerk; but in order for jurisdiction to attach as a general rule, some equitable element should appear in application: Pollard v. Slaughter, 92-72; Efland v. Efland, 96-488.

Right to apply for allotment of dower by special proceeding under this section is a legal right, personal to the widow, and cannot be transferred by assignment: Parton v. Allison, 109-674—and assignee of dower right is left to his remedy by civil action in superior court: Ibid.; s. c., 111-429. Action of assignee of dower right is primarily against widow, but in absence of an averment that lands described were all of which she was entitled to be endowed, heirs and devisees are properly made parties, so that whole matter may be determined in one action: Parton v. Allison, 111-429—widow is a necessary party, and conveyance will be treated in equity as a contract to have it allotted to her and then to convey it to purchasers: Ibid.

Court may permit creditor of person who dies seized and possessed of lands to be made party to a proceeding for dower, and contest claim of widow: Welfare v. Welfare, 108-272—but creditors are not necessary parties, Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63-231. A tenant for years in possession is a proper party to a proceeding for dower: Ingram v. Corbit, 177-318.

In petition for dower it is incumbent on widow, by proper evidence, to show seizin in husband during coverture and summons served on heirs: Waters v. Waters, 125-590—and simply showing deed to husband will not do, Brown v. Morisey, 128-138.

Declarations of heir of husband are not competent against widow upon trial of an action wherein it is sought to defeat her right to dower: Love v. McClure, 99-290.

Equitable defense that heir's money was used in purchase of land will not avail against widow in absence of fraud, mistake, etc.: Vance v. Vance, 118-864.

Widow's right not being yet denied, no need to allege when marriage took place: Parton v. Allison, 111-429.

There is no statute of limitations barring the application of a widow for her dower: Brown v. Morisey, 126-772; Simonton v. Houston, 78-418.

Right of widow to an account for rents: In re Gorham, 177-271.

4106. Dower assigned by jurors summoned by sheriff. If dower be adjudged, it shall be assigned by a jury of three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demand a greater number, not exceeding twelve, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet on the premises or some part thereof, and being duly sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands within five days to the clerk of the superior court.

When the husband dies seized and possessed of lands in any other county than that in which dower is to be assigned, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which dower is to be assigned shall, upon application of the widow entitled to dower, issue a commission to the sheriff of such other county requiring him to summons three or more persons, as may be asked in said application, qualified to act as jurors, to go upon the lands of said husband in the county of said sheriff and assess the value of the same after being duly sworn by the sheriff for that purpose, and report their assessment under their hands and seals through the sheriff, who shall countersign the same as their report to the clerk issuing said commission; and said report in the hands of the jury summoned to assign the dower shall be considered by them a true valuation of the lands mentioned in the report, and said last-mentioned jury shall be deemed to have met on the lands thus assessed and shall assign the dower accordingly.

A widow's dower must be assigned; she cannot take what part of her husband's lands she pleases: Williamson v. Cox, 3-5.

In petition for dower, where lands consisted principally of different parcels mortgaged in several deeds by husband and wife, allotment should not be in part of lands as if unencumbered or subject to same encumbrance, but in each parcel separately, and then widow can work out her relief by asserting her equity against each creditor, as he seeks to enforce his security: Askew v. Askew, 103-285—nor should widow be allowed the use for life in a specific sum of money in lieu of dower in a parcel of the mortgaged lands, not deemed susceptible of allotment by metes and bounds, but allotment should be of one-third of the premises in value, for life, her share being fixed by law, and not depending on estimates: Ibid.

Dower should embrace the residence last usually occupied by deceased husband, and if value thereof is as much as one-third of realty of which husband died seized, widow has no interest in balance of estate: Howell v. Parker, 136-373; see Askew v. Eynum, 81-350; Harrington v. Harrington, 142-517—but where the husband owned only a house and lot, the wife is not entitled to the whole as dower: Caudle v. Caudle, 176-537.

Value of real estate of an insolvent partnership cannot be taken into consideration in estimating the dower of the widow of a deceased partner so as to increase such dower allotment: Sparger v. Moore, 117-449.

Where husband conveyed portions of his land for valuable consideration without joinder of wife, but retained lands, which descend to his heirs, of a kind and quantity which permit that dower be assigned out of lands descended, purchasers may require that dower be allotted out of lands descended, and lands which they have purchased be relieved of widow's claim: Harrington v. Harrington, 142-517.

Judgment in a special proceeding for allotment of dower to widow was intended by statutes to be and is conclusive upon heirs, devisees or other claimants who may be made parties, as to title of husband and rights of widow: Boyd v. Redd, 118-680; Sigmon v. Hawn, 86-310, 87-450; Mood v. Sugg, 91-93; Askew v. Bynum, 81-350.

Sheriff is not required to attest the report of jury to allot dower: Brickhouse v. Sutton, 99-103. When secondary evidence of contents of report may be used: Wells v. Harrell, 152-218.

EXCEPTIONS; REALLOTMENT; APPEAL. Practice in filing exceptions to report, moving for new allotment and appeal: Welfare v. Welfare, 108-275; Moore, ex parte, 64-91; Avery, ex parte, 64-113; Lowery v. Lowery, 64-112; Stiner v. Cawthorn, 20-640; Eagles v. Eagles, 3-181.

Trial judge, in exercise of sound discretion, is judge of how often, for just cause, court will order a reallocation of dower, and such discretion is not reviewable where it appears that court below, after proper hearing, confirmed order of clerk directing a reallocation: Wilson v. Featherstone, 118-840.

A supposed heir, not a party to proceeding, cannot intervene and move to set aside final judgment: Lowery v. Lowery, 64-110.

Rev., s. 3090; Code, s. 2114; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 43.

For allotment in proceeds of sale for partition, see section 3226.

ART. 4. YEAR'S ALLOWANCE

Part 1. Nature of Allowance

4108. Who entitled to allowance. Every widow of an intestate, or of a testator from whose will she has dissented, shall be entitled, besides her distributive share in her husband's personal estate, to an allowance therefrom, for the support of herself and her family for one year after his decease, and such allowance shall be exempt from any lien, by judgment or execution, acquired against the property of her husband: Provided, if any married woman shall commit adultery, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, or shall be convicted of the murder of her husband, or of being accessory before the fact to the murder of her husband, she shall thereby lose all right to a year's provision, and to a distributive share from the personal property of her husband, and such adultery or conviction may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of such rights and estates.

Rev., s. 3091; Code, s. 2116; 1889, c. 499, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 81; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44; 1880, c. 42.

As to distributive share in husband's estate, see section 137 et seq.

Purpose of the year's support is to provide for the dependent family of deceased residing with the widow at death of her husband, and not at the date of her application: In re Hayes, 112-76.

Widow's claim to her year's allowance has priority over all other claims against decedent's estate except such as are secured by specific liens on property, even over funeral expenses and costs of administration: Denton v. Tyson, 118-542; Hinkle v. Greene, 125-489; Williams v. Jones, 95-405. She takes subject to a mortgage or conditional sale, though not registered until after husband's death: Williams v. Jones, 95-405; Hinkle v. Greene, 125-489.

Where testator provided in his will that his wife should have a year's allowance for her support for one year not exceeding the amount allowed by law, and widow and executor selected three men to lay off her year's support under will, and both parties assented to the report in writing endorsed thereon; in the absence of fraud and undue influence, widow is estopped by award and cannot maintain a proceeding under statute for a year's allowance: Flippin v. Flippin, 117-376.

Distributive share of widow consists of one-half of personalty after debts, expenses of administration, her year's allowance, and specific legacies are deducted from total value of personal estate: University v. Borden, 132-476.

When wife commits adultery, and is not living with husband at time of his death, she is barred of right to "year's provision": Leonard v. Leonard, 107-171; see section 2522—but adultery committed prior to enactment does not bar, Cook v. Sexton, 79-304. Bigamy bars: Irby v. Wilson, 21-568.

Widow is barred from recovering a year's support by an ante-nuptial contract, relinquishing all claim to any property of her husband: Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-86; Cauley v. Lawson, 58-132; Brooks v. Austin, 95-474.

Clerk of superior court has no jurisdiction to render judgment on report of arbitrators appointed by court, in term, against heirs to whom decedent conveyed land prior to his death, for amount of their respective shares of widow's year's allowance and make payment of such sums a lien on the land, and judgment so rendered is void: McCauley v. McCauley, 122-288.

If a widow dies before allotment of her year's support is made or before report is confirmed, her right ceases, and it does not survive either to the children or to her administrator: Simpson v. Cureton, 97-112.

Widow of tenant cultivating land on shares, after the crop is allotted to her in her year's support, may maintain an action for conversion against landlord: Parker v. Brown, 136-280. Where landlord agrees with widow of tenant, to whom crop has been allotted as part of her year's support, that he will harvest same, and after deducting expenses pay her part, he thereby recognizes the allotment: Ibid.

WHERE HUSBAND DIED A NONRESIDENT. A widow's relations to her deceased husband's estate is governed by his domicile at death: Simpson v. Cureton, 97-112; Cade v. Davis, 96-139; but see Jones v. Layne, 144-600—and if the state of his domicile makes provision for widows, and there are not enough chattels in that state to satisfy that provision, it may be that such laws would be given effect in this state, but this would be in subordination to the rights of residents, and perhaps of all creditors: Ibid.—for a widow of a deceased citizen of another state, as a rule, cannot have her allowance set apart here, though she became a citizen of this state since the death of her husband, Ibid.; Medley v. Dunlap, 90-527—however, this seems to be changed by Jones v. Layne, 144-600, as to widows resident here. An allotment to nonresident widow is void: Simpson v. Cureton, 97-112.

4109. Amount allowed. Except in cases in which a larger allowance is hereinafter provided for, the value of a year's allowance shall be three hundred dollars, and one hundred dollars in addition thereto for every member of the family besides the widow.

Rev., s. 3092; Code, s. 2118; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 10.

4110. Family defined. The family of the deceased, for the purposes of this chapter, shall be deemed to be, besides the widow, any child with which she may be pregnant at the death of her husband, every child, either of the deceased or of the widow, and every other person to whom the deceased or widow stood in place of a parent, who was residing with the deceased at his death, and whose age did not then exceed fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3093; Code, s. 2119; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 11; 1909, c. 93.

The death of a child, after death of husband, does not diminish the allowance to the widow, as she gets allowance for every child "residing with deceased at his death": In re Hayes, 112-76—but where widow declined to take two children by former marriage, under 15 years of age, and keep them for one year and apply a portion of the money received as her allowance to their support, she is entitled to only $300, and not an additional $100 for each of the children: In re Stewart, 140-28.

Where testator provides for his infant children by former marriage—appointing guardian of their persons and property, directing him to take them to live with him (which he does), and educate them out of the profits of the estate, they do not constitute part of family of his widow after his death, and such widow is not entitled to extra allowance for their support: Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-29.

4111. When children entitled to allowance. If a man die intestate leaving no widow surviving him, or if his widow die before her year's allowance is assigned her, then there shall be assigned to every other member of the family, as in this chapter defined, the sum of one hundred dollars each, which shall be turned over immediately to the guardian and used by him in the care and education of the members of the family, respectively; and if there be no guardian, it shall be received and disbursed by the clerk of the superior court for their benefit.

4112. From what property assigned. Such allowance shall be assigned from the crop, stock and provisions of the deceased in his possession at the time of his death, if there be a sufficiency thereof in value; and if there be a deficiency, it shall be made up by the personal representative from the personal estate of the deceased.

Rev., s. 3095; Code, s. 2117; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 9.

Allotment of a year's support from growing crops at a specified value is sufficiently definite to admit record thereof in evidence by widow in action for conversion: Parker v. Brown, 136-280.

Administrator is personally liable if he have assets applicable to the deficiency and he fails to pay it: Irvin v. Hughes, 82-210.

Court may enter judgment nunc pro tunc in favor of widow against personal representative for deficiency in allotment of widow's year's allowance; widow also entitled to interest on such judgment: Long v. Long, 85-415.

Surplus of assets from sale of land to pay debts of a decedent remains real estate and cannot be applied to payment of a judgment against administrator in favor of widow for balance of her year's allowance: Denton v. Tyson, 118-542.

No part assigned out of amount recovered for wrongful death of husband: Broadnax v. Broadnax, 160-432.

When crops of husband exceed landlord's lien, wife is entitled to have her year's allowance in the crops: Sessoms v. Tayloe, 148-369.

Part 2. Assigned by Justice of the Peace

4113. Duty of personal representative. It shall be the duty of every administrator, collector, or executor of a will, from which the widow of a testator has dissented, on application in writing, signed by the widow of such intestate or testator, at any time within one year after the decease of the husband, to assign to her a year's allowance in the manner prescribed in this chapter, to the value herein prescribed, deducting therefrom the value of any articles consumed by the widow and her family since the death of her husband to the time of the assignment. If there be no widow, or if she should die before the year's provision is assigned, the personal representative shall assign one hundred dollars to every other member of the family as defined in this chapter; but if there be no personal representative it shall be assigned by a justice of the peace, upon the application of the guardian or next friend of the children entitled.

Rev., s. 3096; Code, s. 2120; 1889, c. 496; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 12.

As to who are members of the family, see section 4110.

4114. Value of property ascertained. The value of stock, crop and provisions assigned to the widow, as well as that of the articles consumed, shall be ascertained by a justice of the peace and two persons qualified to act as jurors of the county in which administration was granted or the will proved.

Rev., s. 3097; Code, s. 2121; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 13.

4115. Procedure for assignment. Upon the application of the widow, the personal representative of the deceased shall apply to a justice of the peace of the township in which the deceased resided, or some adjoining township, to summon two persons qualified to act as jurors, who, having been sworn by the justice to act impartially, shall, with him, ascertain the number of the family of the deceased according to the definition given in this chapter, and examine his stock, crop and provisions on hand, and assign to the widow so much thereof as will not exceed the value limited in this chapter, subject to the deduction prescribed in this chapter: Provided, that in case there shall be no administration upon such estate, or in the event that the personal representative shall fail or refuse to apply to a justice of the peace as aforesaid for the space of ten days after the widow shall have filed with him the application as aforesaid, or if the widow shall be the personal representative, she may make the application, and it shall be the duty of the justice to proceed in the same manner as though the application had been made by the personal representative: Provided further, that in all cases, if there be no crop, stock or provisions on hand, or not a sufficient amount, the commissioners may allot to the widow any articles of personal property of the deceased, and also any debt or debts known to be due him, and such allotment shall vest in the widow such property, and the right to collect the debts thus allotted: Provided further, that where the widow and personal effects of the deceased husband shall have been removed from the township or county where deceased husband resided before his death, the widow may apply to any justice of the peace of any township or county where such personal property is located, and it shall be the duty of such justice to allot and assign the year's allowance as if the husband had resided and died in that township.

Rev., s. 3098; Code, s. 2122; 1891, c. 13; 1899, c. 531; 1870-1, c. 263.

If widow is a minor and without guardian she may be represented by her next friend in applying for year's allowance: Hollomon v. Hollomon, 125-29.

Where widow fails to dissent to will and brings action after six months from probate thereof for a year's allowance, such action is not maintainable: Perkins v. Brinkley, 133-86—unless she has been deceived by executor and induced not to dissent, Bolin v. Barker, 75-47.

Where year's allowance provided in the will and three persons selected by widow and executor to allot it, to whose report widow assents in writing, she is estopped from bringing proceeding hereunder, in the absence of fraud or undue influence: Flippin v. Flippin, 117-376.

Application barred after one year from death of husband: Cook v. Sexton, 79-305.

An assignment under this section does not prevent a further allowance under section 4121: Mann v. Mann, 173-20.

4116. Report of commissioners. The commissioners shall make and sign three lists of the articles assigned to the widow, stating the quantity and value of each, the number in the family, and the deficiency to be paid by the personal representative. One of these lists shall be delivered to the widow, one to the personal representative, and one returned by the justice, within twenty days after the assignment, to the superior court of the county, and the clerk shall file and record the same and enter judgment against the personal representative, to be paid when assets shall come into his hands, for any residue found in favor of the widow.

Rev., s. 3099; Code, s. 2123; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 15.

Filing and recording the list of articles allotted to widow as her year's support, as required by statute, is essential to its validity and to the vesting of the property or debt allotted in her: Kiff v. Kiff, 95-71. Allotment must be made with such reasonable certainty as to indicate what property was intended by the commissioner, otherwise allotment will be void: Ibid. It is intimated that in case of uncertainty widow could have list corrected by a proper proceeding: Ibid.

As to recovery of residue from personal representative, see section 4112.

4117. Right of appeal. The personal representative, or the widow, or infant by his guardian or next friend, or any creditor, legatee or distributee of the deceased, may appeal from the finding of the commissioners to the superior court of the county, and, within ten days after the assignment, cite the adverse party to appear before such court on a certain day, not less than five nor exceeding ten days after the service of the citation.

Rev., s. 3100; Code, s. 2124; 1897, c. 442; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 16.

4118. Hearing on appeal. At or before the day named, the appellant shall file with the clerk a copy of the assignment and a statement of his exceptions thereto, and the issues thereby raised shall be decided as other issues are directed to be. When the issues shall have been decided, judgment shall be entered accordingly, if it may be without injustice, without remitting the proceedings to the commissioners.

Rev., s. 3101; Code, s. 2125; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 17.

4119. Personal representative entitled to credit. Upon the settlement of the accounts of the personal representative, he shall be credited with the articles assigned, and the value of the deficiency assessed as aforesaid, if the same shall have been paid, unless the allowance be impeached for fraud or gross negligence in him.

Rev., s. 3102; Code, s. 2126; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 18.

4120. When above allowance is in full. If the estate of a deceased be insolvent, or if his personal estate does not exceed two thousand dollars, the allowance for the year's support of his widow and her family shall not, in any case, exceed the value prescribed above; and the allowance made to her as above prescribed shall preclude her from any further allowance.

Rev., s. 3103; Code, s. 2127; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 19.

When an additional allowance may be made: Mann v. Mann, 173-20.

Part 3. Assigned in Superior Court

4121. Widow may apply to superior court. It shall not, however, be obligatory on a widow to have her support assigned as above prescribed. Without applying to the personal representative of her deceased husband, she may, at any time within one year after the death of her husband, apply to the superior court of the county in which the will was proved, or administration granted, to have a year's support for herself and her family assigned to her.

Rev., s. 3104; Code, s. 2128; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 20.

The proceedings hereunder are statutory and not equitable in nature: Drewry v. Bank, 173-664.

4122. Nature of proceeding; parties. The application shall be by summons, as is prescribed for special proceedings, in which the personal representative of the deceased, if there be one other than the plaintiff, the largest known creditor, or legatee, or some distributee of the deceased, living in the county, shall be made defendant, and the proceedings shall be as prescribed for special proceedings between parties.

See Drewry v. Bank, 173-664; Flippin v. Flippin, 117-377.

4123. What complaint must show. In her complaint the widow shall set forth, besides the facts entitling her to a year's support and the value thereof, as claimed by her, the further facts that the estate of the deceased is not insolvent, and that the personal estate of which he died possessed exceeded two thousand dollars, and also whether or not she had an allowance made her, and the nature and value thereof; and if no allowance has been made, the quantities and values of the articles consumed by her and her family since the death of her husband.

Rev., s. 3106; Code, s. 2130; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 22.

4124. Judgment, and order for commissioners. If the material allegations of the complaint be found true, the judgment shall be that she is entitled to the relief sought; and the court shall thereupon issue an order to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county, commanding him to summon a justice of the peace and two indifferent persons qualified to act as jurors of the county, to assign to the plaintiff from the crop, stock and provisions of the deceased a sufficiency for the support of herself and her family for one year from the death of her husband; and if there be a deficiency thereof, to assess such deficiency, to be paid by the personal representative from the personal assets of the deceased, deducting, nevertheless, in all cases from such allowance the articles, or the value thereof, consumed by the widow and her family before such assignment, and also any sum previously assigned her.

Rev., s. 3107; Code, s. 2131; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 23.

4125. Duty of commissioners; amount of allowance. The said commissioners shall be sworn by the justice and shall proceed as prescribed in this chapter, except that they may assign to the widow a value sufficient for the support of herself and her family according to the estate and condition of her husband and without regard to the limitation aforesaid in this chapter; but the value allowed shall not in any case exceed the one-half of the annual net income of the deceased for three years next preceding his death. This report shall be returned by the justice to the court.

Rev., s. 3108; Code, s. 2132; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 24.

4126. Exceptions to the report. The personal representative, or any creditor, distributee or legatee of the deceased, within twenty days after the return of the report, may file exceptions thereto. The plaintiff shall be notified thereof and cited to appear before the court on a certain day, within twenty and not less than ten days after service of the notice, and answer the same; the case shall thereafter be proceeded in, heard and decided as provided in special proceedings between parties.

Rev., s. 3109; Code, s. 2133; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 25.

The findings of fact by the lower court will not be reviewed on appeal: Drewry v. Bank, 173-664.

4127. Confirmation of report; execution. If the report shall be confirmed, the court shall so declare, and execution shall issue to enforce the judgment as in like cases.

Rev., s. 3110; Code, s. 2134; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 26.

ART. 1. EXECUTION OF WILL

4128. Infants incapable. No person shall be capable of disposing of real or personal estate by will until he shall have attained the age of twenty-one years.

Rev., s. 3111; Code, s. 2137; R. C., c. 119, s. 2; 1811, c. 280.

4129. Married woman capable. A married woman owning real or personal property may dispose of the same by will.

Rev., s. 3112; Code, s. 2138; R. C., c. 119, s. 3; 1844, c. 88, s. 8.

The wife can dispose of her property, acquired since 1868, by will and thereby bar the husband's right as tenant by the curtesy: Watts v. Griffin, 137-572; Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132-947; Watts, ex parte, 130-237; Tiddy v. Graves, 126-620; s. c., 127-502.

4130. Local: Wills of married women in Gaston. All devises and bequests heretofore or hereafter made by any married woman to her husband shall be void, if such married woman has thereafter or shall hereafter become insane, and if a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii or a mensa et thoro has been obtained or shall hereafter be obtained by either party to such marriage: Provided, that this section shall apply only to Gaston county.

4131. Formal execution. No last will or testament shall be good or sufficient, in law, to convey or give any estate, real or personal, unless such last will shall have been written in the testator's lifetime, and signed by him, or by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least, no one of whom shall be interested in the devise or bequest of the estate, except as hereinafter provided; or, unless such last will and testament be found among the valuable papers and effects of any deceased person, or shall have been lodged in the hands of any person for safe-keeping, and the same shall be in the handwriting of such deceased person, with his name subscribed thereto or inserted in some part of such will; and if such handwriting shall be proved by three credible witnesses, who verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it appears to be, then such will shall be sufficient to give and convey real and personal estate.

Rev., s. 3113; Code, s. 2136; R. C., c. 119, s. 1; 1784, c. 204, s. 11; 1784, c. 225, s. 5; 1840, c. 62; 1846, c. 54.

For annotations as to holograph wills, see section 4144 (2)—as to nuncupative wills, see section 4144 (3).

The right to dispose of property by will is regulated by statute: Peace v. Edwards, 170-64; In re Allred's Will, 170-153; In re Garland's Will, 160-555; Pullen v. Comrs., 66-363.

Whether an instrument is a deed or a will, how determined: Phifer v. Mullis, 167-405. No particular form required: In re Edwards' Will, 172-369. Letter may be a will: In re Will of Ledford, 176-610; but see Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83; Alston v. Davis, 118-202.

EXECUTION OF WILL BY TESTATOR. A paper prepared by an attorney from stenographer's notes, taken at dictation of deceased, as to the disposition of her property, is not a will if unsigned and unwitnessed: Kennedy v. Douglas, 151-337. A will may be written on separate sheets of paper which are attached to each other or where there is internal evidence of their relation: In re Swaim's Will, 162-213. Where there were four wills found folded together, all in the handwriting of testator, and making a different disposition of the property, in the absence of evidence as to which was the last will, neither will be valid: Peace v. Edwards, 170-64.

It is not necessary that a will should be read over to an illiterate person before he signs it: King v. Kinsey, 74-261.

Signing by the testator need not be by his signature at the bottom of the will; it may be in the body of the will or even below the signatures of the witnesses: Devereux v. McMahon, 108-134; Peace v. Edwards, 170-64—nor does the will require a date, Ibid. A holograph will is sufficiently signed when the writing is in a sealed envelope and the signature is on the outside: Alexander v. Johnston, 171-468.

It is not necessary that the testator should sign the will in the presence of the witnesses; an acknowledgment is sufficient: In re Will of Margaret Deyton, 177-494; In re Broach's Will, 172-520; Watson v. Hinson, 162-72; Ripley v. Armstrong, 159-158; In re Herring's Will, 152-258.

SUBSCRIBING WITNESSES. It is not necessary that the testator request the witnesses to sign; the request may be by attorney: Burney v. Allen, 125-314; In re Herring's Will, 152-258—or the request may appear from the circumstances, In re Will of Margaret Deyton, 177-494.

The witnesses must sign in the presence of the testator: In re Will of Margaret Deyton, 177-494; In re Herring's Will, 152-258. The testator must actually see, or be in a position to see, not only the witnesses but the will itself at the time of signing: Ibid.; Burney v. Allen, 125-314; In re Snow's Will, 128-100; Jones v. Tuck, 48-202; Bynum v. Bynum, 33-632—and where he could see the backs of the witnesses, but not the paper, it was not a good attestation, Graham v. Graham, 32-219. It may be shown from the location of the parties, the furniture in the room, etc., that testator could have seen the witnesses sign the will: Burney v. Allen, 127-476.

The witnesses need not sign in the presence of each other: In re Margaret Deyton's Will, 177-494; Watson v. Hinson, 162-72; In re Herring's Will, 152-258; Eelbeck v. Granberry, 3-232.

The attestation must be on the same sheet as that which contains the signature of the testator, or on a paper physically connected with it: In re Baldwin's Will, 146-25—and when witness signed a paper before testator signed, and did not see testator after paper was left at his house to be executed, it was not a proper execution, Ibid.

The witness may sign by making his mark: Pridgen v. Pridgen, 35-259; Devereux v. McMahon, 102-284, and cases cited—and it is immaterial that he was at the time able to write his name, In re Will of Elijah Pope, 139-484.

It is sufficient if witnesses sign before the testator, if signed in his presence: Cutler v. Cutler, 130-1; In re Baldwin's Will, 146-25.

To be held as a witness to a will it is essential that subscriber consent to be such and that he sign in the presence of the testator: Boone v. Lewis, 103-40; Jones v. Tuck, 48-202; Gaskill v. King, 34-211; Bynum v. Bynum, 33-632; Graham v. Graham, 32-219; Ragland v. Huntington, 23-561. Where one signs a will where subscribing witnesses usually sign, there is a presumption that he signed as a subscribing witness, but the contrary may be shown: Boone v. Lewis, 103-40—and he is not deprived of his benefits under the will, if in fact he did not sign as a subscribing witness, Ibid.

Statement that will was proven by the oath of two subscribing witnesses would imply legal proof of its execution: Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158-251.

A blind man may execute a will, and the signing of the witnesses in his presence is sufficient: In re Allred's Will, 170-153.

The contents of a lost will may be proved by the testimony of one witness: In re Hedgepeth, 150-245.

4132. Execution of power of appointment by will. No appointment, made by will in exercise of any power, shall be valid unless the same be executed in the manner by law required for the execution of wills; and every will, executed in such manner, shall, so far as respects the execution and attestation thereof, be a valid execution of a power of appointment by will, notwithstanding it shall have been expressly required that a will made in exercise of such power should be executed with some additional or other form of execution or solemnity.

ART. 2. REVOCATION OF WILL

4133. Revocation by writing or by cancellation or destruction. No will or testament in writing, or any clause thereof, shall be revocable otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator himself, or in his presence and by his direction and consent; but all wills or testaments shall remain and continue in force until the same be burnt, canceled, torn, or obliterated by the testator, or in his presence and by his consent and direction; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, signed by him, or some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, all of which shall be in the handwriting of the testator, and his name subscribed thereto or inserted therein, and lodged by him with some person for safe-keeping, or left by him in some secure place, or among his valuable papers and effects, every part of which will or codicil or other writing shall be proved to be in the handwriting of the testator, by three witnesses at least.

Rev., s. 3115; Code, s. 2176; R. C., c. 119, s. 22; 1784, c. 204, s. 14; 1819, c. 1004, ss. 1, 2; 1840, c. 62.

There may be a partial revocation of a will: Baker v. Edge, 174-100; Barfield v. Carr, 169-574.

A joint will by husband and wife conveying property held by entirety may be revoked by the survivor: Ginn v. Edmundson, 173-85.

Where one erases the name of the executor at the request of the testator and inserts the name of another it amounts to a revocation as to the first executor if he is living; if he is dead, the change does not affect the will; and if the change is not properly made and witnessed, it would be inoperative as to second executor: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72.

To constitute a valid revocation it is essential, among other requirements, that entire writing, including signature, should be in testator's writing, where it is not attested by witnesses: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

Where will was found in mutilated condition among deceased's papers immediately after his death there is a presumption that mutilation was done by him for the purpose of revocation, although the repository was accessible to a stranger and to deceased: Bennett v. Sherrod, 25-303—but presumption is otherwise when will is found mutilated two days after and it has been in custody of party adversely interested, Ibid.

A cancellation, obliteration or erasure made after execution of a will, which does not in fact destroy some material part of it, is not a revocation: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

A clause of attestation being annexed to a paper not attested is not conclusive evidence of abandonment by testator of his intention that it should operate as his will: Robeson v. Key, 15-301.

A direction to one to burn will, given by testator, when not complied with, is no revocation: Hise v. Fincher, 32-139—otherwise when testator throws it upon the fire and only partially burns, but does not interfere with the writing: White v. Casten, 46-197.

No will can be revoked by parol: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218—nor can parol evidence be introduced to show revocation, In re Venable's Will, 127-344.

Testator's declaration cannot be received to change or add to the will already duly executed: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218—but declarations of testator made after the date of an alleged revocation, written on margin of a will, tending to prove that he did not write or execute alleged revocation, were competent, Ibid.

Where will, having been in possession of testator, has signature of testator erased, it is prima facie evidence of its revocation: Cutler v. Cutler, 132-190. A cancellation is prima facie a revocation; but jury may decide from all the evidence whether testator so intended: Bethell v. Moore, 19-311.

Second will, afterwards destroyed, does not affect, in any way, validity of first: Marsh v. Marsh, 48-77.

Later will does not revoke a former one unless the two are so inconsistent as to be incapable of standing together: In re Venable's Will, 127-344—and parol evidence is not admissible to show revocation, Ibid. Question for jury, as between two paper-writings, as to which is the will: Fleming v. Fleming, 63-209.

Where copy of lost will is presented for probate as against an original of earlier date, and it is shown that testatrix had one which was lost in her possession when it was last seen, the presumption is that she destroyed it: Scoggins v. Turner, 98-135.

Where testator knows of defacement and mutilation of his will by vermin, whether he intended it to be revoked thereby is a question for jury: Cutler v. Cutler, 130-1, 132-190.

Revocation of a will is an act of the mind, demonstrated by some outward and visible sign: White v. Casten, 46-197.

There cannot be republication by oral declaration merely of what purports to be an attested will; and it is doubtful whether there can be of a holograph. As to a paper purporting to be an attested will, there cannot be a republication unless by a reëxecution of a codicil with ceremonies required by the statute: Love v. Johnston, 34-355.

Other cases of interest: Battle v. Speight, 31-288; In re Zollicoffer, 50-309; Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52-133; McCormick v. Jernigan, 110-406; Croom v. Sugg, 110-259.

BURDEN OF PROOF. In proceeding for probate of will, on the margin of which was written an alleged revocation, after propounder offered the will and proved its due execution, burden of proving that will had been legally revoked was upon contestant: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

Where a will has been in testator's possession and is offered for probate with name of testator torn off or eaten by vermin, burden of showing that it had not been revoked is on propounder: Cutler v. Cutler, 130-1; s. c., 132-190.

Where the will is found among the papers of the testator and is mutilated by having the name torn and the word "canceled" written on two important sections, the burden is on the propounder to show the will is not revoked: In re Wellborn's Will, 165-636.

Where court erroneously put upon the propounder of a will the burden of proving that an alleged revocation of will was not genuine, contestant, at whose request it was done, cannot complain: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

Presumption that lost will, which was last seen in hands of testator, was destroyed by him, is not conclusive; burden is upon person asserting will to show it was not so destroyed: Scoggins v. Turner, 98-135.

4134. Revocation by marriage; exception. All wills shall be revoked by subsequent marriage of the maker except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the real or personal estate thereby appointed would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his heirs, executor or administrator, or the person entitled as his next of kin, under the statute of distributions.

Directly sustaining section: Byrd v. Surles, 77-435.

How holograph will, revoked by subsequent marriage, revived and republished: Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52-133.

The will of a married woman is revoked by another marriage contracted after will was made and her verbal declaration, during the last coverture, that said paper-writing was her last will and testament, without any further execution thereof in accordance with statute, does not constitute a reëxecution and republication: Means v. Ury, 141-248. See, also, Winslow v. Copeland, 44-17.

4135. No revocation by altered circumstances. No will shall be revoked by any presumption of an intention on the ground of an alteration in circumstances.

4136. No revocation by subsequent conveyance. No conveyance or other act made or done subsequently to the execution of a will of, or relating to, any real or personal estate therein comprised, except an act by which such will shall be duly revoked, shall prevent the operation of the will with respect to any estate or interest in such real or personal estate as the testator shall have power to dispose of by will at the time of his death.

No conveyance or other act done after execution of a will, unless it amounts to a revocation, will affect its provisions: Wood v. Cherry, 73-110.

Since 1844 parol evidence is not admissible to attach a trust to a devise of land: Chappell v. White, 146-571, and cases cited, discussing Wood v. Cherry, 73-199.

ART. 3. WITNESSES TO WILL

4137. Executor competent witness. No person, on account of being an executor of a will, shall be incompetent to be admitted a witness to prove the execution of such will, or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof.

Rev., s. 3119; Code, s. 2146; R. C., c. 119, s. 9.

An executor is competent to prove a will, when it has been burned, though he is a devisee: Cox v. Lumber Co., 124-78; Pannell v. Scoggins, 53-408.

4138. Beneficiary competent; interest rendered void. If any person shall attest the execution of any will, to whom or to whose wife or husband any beneficial devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment of or affecting any real or personal estate shall be thereby given or made, such devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment shall, so far only as concerns such person attesting the execution of such will or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under such person, or wife or husband, be void; and such person so attesting shall be admitted as a witness to prove the execution of such will, or the validity or invalidity thereof.

Rev., s. 3120; Code, s. 2147; R. C., c. 119, s. 10.

Being a legatee or devisee does not disqualify a witness from attesting the execution of a will, but his legacy becomes void: McLean v. Elliott, 72-70; Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-548; Vester v. Collins, 101-114; McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

Where question raised as to whether signature of devisee was as a subscribing witness or as attesting the signature of a subscribing witness who signed by making his mark, see Boone v. Lewis, 103-40.

A decedent executed a deed of trust and on the same day a will, which referred to former. The trustee was one of the attesting witnesses to the will and was authorized by the trust to retain his compensation. He was an incompetent witness: Allison v. Allison, 11-141.

Devisee competent to prove holograph will: Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592.

Witness disinterested at time of attestation of will, but interested before probate, not competent: Hampton v. Garland, 3-147.

Widow and devisee of testator is a competent witness to prove fact that script was found among valuable papers of deceased: Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-542; McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

A witness who is a devisee under script executed in January is not competent upon trial of issue devisavit vel non to speak of conversations with testator tending to impeach a script executed in May thereafter: Hathaway v. Hathaway, 91-139.

ART. 4. PROBATE OF WILL

4139. Executor may apply for probate. Any executor named in a will may, at any time after the death of the testator, apply to the clerk of the superior court, having jurisdiction, to have the same admitted to probate. Such will shall not be valid or effective to pass real estate or personal property as against innocent purchasers for value and without notice, unless it is probated or offered for probate within two years after the death of the testator or devisor. If such will is fraudulently suppressed, stolen or destroyed, or been lost, and an action or proceeding shall be commenced within two years from the death of the testator or deviser to obtain said will or establish the same as provided by law, then the limitation herein set out shall only begin to run from the termination of said action or proceeding, but not otherwise.

Rev., s. 3122; Code, s. 2151; C. C. P., s. 439; 1919, c. 15.

In the absence of some statute to the contrary there is no limit of time after testator's death within which a will may be proved, and when duly proved it relates back to death of testator so as to vest title from that date as between parties who claim under it: Steadman v. Steadman, 143-345; In re Dupree's Will, 163-256. No statute of limitations applies to probate of lost will: McCormick v. Jernigan, 110-406. Cases decided before amendment of section, see section 4163.

4140. Executor failing, beneficiary may apply. If no executor apply to have the will proved within sixty days after the death of the testator, any devisee or legatee named in the will, or any other person interested in the estate, may make such application, upon ten days notice thereof to the executor.

Rev., s. 3123; Code, s. 2152; C. C. P., s. 440.

This section applies to a codicil as well as to the will: Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83.

4141. Clerk may compel production of will. Every clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, on application by affidavit setting forth the facts, shall, by summons, compel any person in the state, having in possession the last will of any decedent, to exhibit the same in his court for probate; and whoever being duly summoned refuses, in contempt of the court, to produce such will, or (the same having been parted with by him) refuses to inform the court on oath where such will is, or in what manner he has disposed of it, shall, by order of the clerk of the superior court, be committed to the jail of the county, there to remain without bail till such will be produced or accounted for, and due submission made for the contempt.

Rev., s. 3124; Code, s. 2154; C. C. P., s. 442.

Duty of respondent to produce will, even though in wrong jurisdiction: In re Scarborough, 139-423. As to attachment for contempt: Ibid.

This is neither an action nor a special proceeding, and issues of fact do not arise; upon an answer denying the allegations as to possession, the respondent should be discharged unless applicant offers evidence: Williams v. Bailey, 177-37.

4142. What shown on application. On application to the clerk of the superior court, he must ascertain by affidavit of the applicant—

1. That such applicant is the executor, devisee or legatee named in the will, or is some other person interested in the estate, and how so interested.

2. The value and nature of the testator's property, as near as can be ascertained.

3. The names and residences of all parties entitled to the testator's property, if known, or that the same on diligent inquiry cannot be discovered; which of the parties in interest are minors, and whether with or without guardians, and the names and residences of such guardians, if known. Such affidavit shall be recorded with the will and the certificate of probate thereof, if the same is admitted to probate.

Rev., s. 3125; Code, s. 2153; C. C. P., s. 441.

4143. Proof and examination in writing. Every clerk of the superior court shall take in writing the proofs and examinations of the witnesses touching the execution of a will, and he shall embody the substance of such proofs and examinations, in case the will is admitted to probate, in his certificate of the probate thereof, which certificate must be recorded with the will. The proofs and examinations as taken must be filed in the office.

Rev., s. 3126; Code, s. 2149; C. C. P., s. 437.

The old law did not require this; and when the will appeared upon the record where it should be if properly probated, it is presumed to have been placed there in the regular way: Poplin v. Hatley, 170-163.

Section referred to in Roscoe v. Lumber Co., 124-42; McClure v. Spivey, 123-680; Haygood Will Case, 101-577.

4144. Manner of probate. Wills and testaments must be admitted to probate only in the following manner:

1. In case of a written will, with witnesses, on the oath of at least two of the subscribing witnesses, if living; but when any one or more of the subscribing witnesses to such will are dead, or reside out of the state, or cannot after due diligence be found within the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, then such proof may be taken of the handwriting, both of the testator and of the witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent, and also of such other circumstances as will satisfy the clerk of the superior court of the genuineness and the due execution of such will. In all cases where the testator executed the will by making his mark, and where any one or more of the subscribing witnesses are dead or reside out of the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, it shall not be necessary to prove the handwriting of the testator, but proof of the handwriting of the subscribing witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent shall be sufficient. The probate of all wills heretofore taken in compliance with the requirements of this section are hereby declared to be valid.

GENERALLY. Objectors to the probate of a will who attend before clerk and contest will, with counsel and evidence, are virtually caveators, and may be so termed: Collins v. Collins, 125-98.

There is no particular form required for a will; one in the form of a contract is sufficient if it shows clearly the intention of the testator to make a will: In re Edwards' Will, 172-369; In re Will of Margaret Deyton, 177-494. See, also, In re Belcher, 66-51.

Joint will may be probated as to each on his death, but not as a joint will until death of both: In re Davis' Will, 120-9.

In proceedings to probate a will, parol proof that paper offered for probate is a copy of the will of testator which had been destroyed is inadmissible, in the absence of any physical connection between the paper and the will: In re Baldwin's Will, 146-25.

Probate is a proceeding in rem, of which statute confers jurisdiction on clerk and court; upon issue of devisavit vel non all persons interested should be brought in; and, strictly speaking, there are no parties who can withdraw or nonsuit case: Powell v. Watkins, 172-244; Collins v. Collins, 125-98; Young's Will, 123-358; Hutson v. Sawyer, 104-1; St. John's Lodge v. Callender, 26-335; Love v. Johnston, 34-355.

Probate of a lost will must be made before clerk: McCormick v. Jernigan, 110-406; Ricks v. Wilson, 154-282; In re Hedgepeth, 150-245. What is sufficient proof of lost will and its contents: Ibid.

The probate of a lost will relates back to the death of testator, but an intervening judgment determining the title to the property as between the claimants will be an estoppel and will protect an innocent purchaser: Stelges v. Simmons, 170-42.

Manner of probate where one of subscribing witnesses is dead: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72.

In a proceeding for probate of a will, where the usual issue was submitted, "Is the paper-writing propounded for probate, and every part thereof, the last will and testament of deceased?" to which jury answered "Yes," verdict was not ambiguous because the will had on its margin an alleged revocation, as the marginal words were no part of the will: In re Shelton's Will, 143-218.

That an executor is appointed is sufficient to entitle the will to be admitted to probate, if properly executed, and an exception that propounder had offered no evidence that there was a beneficiary under the will capable of taking, cannot be sustained, as the probate court has no jurisdiction except to inquire into the execution of the will: In re Murray's Will, 141-488—and the only question presented is whether the will was duly executed, Redmond v. Collins, 15-430.

A letter may be construed as a will and admitted to probate: Alston v. Davis, 118-202; overruled in Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83; but see this explained in In re Will of Ledford, 176-610.

Case of R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-24, clerk's jurisdiction of probate of wills, distinguished from case bearing on probate of will under old county court system: Davis v. Blevins, 123-379.

Incorporating an agreement into the probate of a will that certain ones would not resist probate if paid certain legacies is irregular: Gardner v. Anderson, 79-24.

As to presumption of acquiescence in probate, see Gray v. Maer, 20-41; Etheridge v. Corprew, 48-14; see section 4145. Acquiescence in probate in common form will work forfeiture of right to probate in solemn form: Etheridge v. Corprew, 48-14.

Probate of will in common form cannot be set aside on petition for reprobate without showing some reason why former probate was wrong. That there was no notice to those interested is not sufficient: Armstrong v. Baker, 31-109; McNorton v. Robeson, 31-256.

Length of time which must elapse to set aside a will and an application for a reprobate must depend upon circumstances of each case: Dickenson v. Stewart, 5-99.

For setting aside probate and reprobate, see McNorton v. Robeson, 31-256; Gray v. Maer, 20-41.

A WILL WITH SUBSCRIBING WITNESSES. Where there were three subscribing witnesses to will, only two need be examined for probate in common form: Boone v. Lewis, 103-44—and, if nonresidents, handwriting of only two need be proven: Bethell v. Moore, 19-311.

Where paper offered for probate was written by third person, who signed as witness before testator signed, and not in his presence, and who never saw testator after paper was left at his residence to be executed, will was not proved within meaning of section requiring will to be subscribed in the presence of testator by witnesses, though, where signing of testator and of witnesses takes place at same time, it may be immaterial who signed first: In re Baldwin's Will, 146-25.

Mere recitation in attestation clause of will that it was signed in presence of two witnesses, etc., is not affirmative evidence: R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-241.

In case of wills admitted to probate prior to January 1, 1856, when a will appears upon its face to have been attested by two witnesses, testimony of the one subscribing witness authorized by Rev. Stat., chap. 122, sec. 6, to prove it is presumed to have shown that both subscribed in the presence of the testatrix: Jenkins v. Jenkins, 96-254.

Prior to January 1, 1856, when the Revised Code went into effect, a will attested by two witnesses could be proved in common form by oath and examination of one of them only. Since that time it must be proved by at least two of the subscribing witnesses, if living: Jenkins v. Jenkins, 96-254; Cowles v. Reavis, 109-417.

When a will, executed with proper formalities, etc., is offered for probate, it must be established without consideration of trusts therein declared: Wood v. Sawyer, 61-251.

The signing may be proved from the witnesses having seen it written by testator, or from having heard him acknowledge it. It is not necessary, if he acknowledged the signing, that name or signature or handwriting should be before him at the time. If paper lie at a distance on the table, and he acknowledge the signature without seeing it, it is sufficient: Eelbeck v. Granberry, 3-232.

Where, after two witnesses had signed, an insertion of the name of one of the witnesses as executor was made, and a third witness was called in who signed after the testator acknowledged the execution, this did not impair its validity: Grigg v. Williams, 51-518; Bateman v. Mariner, 5-176; Malloy v. McNair, 49-297.

Under statutes now regulating attestation and probate of wills the document must be subscribed in the presence of the testator by at least two witnesses, and the evidence upon which the will is admitted to probate must show that fact: In re Thomas, 111-409. Where the certificate of probate, after reciting the testimony, failed to show that the witness attested the execution of the will in the presence of the testator, the probate was defective: Leatherwood v. Boyd, 60-123; see Howell v. Ray, 92-510.

While the subscribing witnesses to a will are necessary and are the law's witnesses, their statement is not conclusive: In re Will of Margaret Deyton, 177-494.

Under the doctrine of "incorporation by reference" a will properly executed may refer to another defective will or to another document in such a manner as to make it a part of the valid will: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72.

There is no statute of limitations as to the probate of a will: In re Dupree's Will, 163-256; Steadman v. Steadman, 143-345; but see section 4139.

2. In case of a holograph will, on the oath of at least three credible witnesses, who state that they verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be, and whose name must be subscribed thereto, or inserted in some part thereof. It must further appear on the oath of some one of the witnesses, or of some other credible person, that such will was found among the valuable papers and effects of the decedent, or was lodged in the hands of some person for safe-keeping.

A writing in the form of a letter may operate as a will: In re Will of Ledford, 176-610—but it must appear to have been the intention of the writer to dispose of his property after his death, Ibid.; Spencer v. Spencer, 163-83, overruling Alston v. Davis, 118-202.

A holograph will is not invalidated by having an attestation clause: Hill v. Bell, 61-122—nor by having a subscribing witness, Brown v. Beaver, 48-516; Harrison v. Burgess, 8-384.

A script written in a book containing accounts, found eight months after death, may be proved as a holograph will: Brown v. Eaton, 91-26; Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592.

In probate of a holograph will there must be affirmative and direct proof that it was deposited with some one as a will, or was found among the valuable papers of testator after his death: St. John's Lodge v. Callender, 26-335; McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

The wife of testator may be the person to whose safe-keeping his will, in his own handwriting, is intrusted: Harrison v. Burgess, 8-384.

Holograph will found among valuable papers, bearing particular date, presumed to have been deposited by testator on date named: Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52-133.

'As to what constitutes finding "among the valuable papers" of decedent, see In re Shepard's Will, 128-54; Collins v. Collins, 125-98; Cornelius v. Brawley, 109-542; Adams v. Clark, 53-56; Sawyer v. Sawyer, 52-133; Brown v. Eaton, 91-26; Hill v. Bell, 61-122; Hughes v. Smith, 64-493; Winstead v. Bowman, 68-170; Little v. Lockman, 49-494; St. John's Lodge v. Callender, 26-335.

"Valuable papers and effects," "and" may be construed "or"; "effects" is a broad term and will include life insurance policies; "valuable papers" does not mean most valuable: In re Jenkins, 157-429.

Where the holograph will is found among the valuable papers and is signed by testator, but it is also marked "canceled" and the signature is torn, the burden is on the propounder to establish it as a valid will: In re Wellborn's Will, 165-636.

A second probate of holograph will may correct defect in first probate: Boggan v. Somers, 152-390.

A will written on the back of envelope containing insurance policies and found in a safe with valuable papers may be valid: Harper v. Harper, 148-453. The fact that a holographic will is found among valuable papers and effects implies that it was placed there to take effect as a will: In re Jenkins, 157-429.

Joint will, in the handwriting of the husband and signed by the husband and wife, may be the holographic will of the husband: In re Cole's Will, 171-74.

Where four papers are presented as holograph wills, all making different dispositions of property, neither will be valid, in the absence of evidence as to which was the last will: Peace v. Edwards, 170-64.

3. In case of a nuncupative will, on the oath of at least two credible witnesses present at the making thereof, who state that they were specially required to bear witness thereto by the testator himself. It must also be proved that such nuncupative will was made in the testator's last sickness, in his own habitation, or where he had been previously resident for at least ten days, unless he died on a journey or from home. No nuncupative will shall be proved by the witnesses after six months from the making thereof, unless it was put in writing within ten days from such making; nor shall it be proved till a citation has been first issued or publication been made for six weeks in some newspaper published in the state, to call in the widow and next of kin to contest such will if they think proper.

Rev., s. 3127; Code, s. 2148; 1893, c. 269; 1901, c. 276; C. C. P., s. 435.

Nuncupative will must be proved on oath of at least two credible witnesses present at making thereof, who state that they were specially required to bear witness by testator himself. It must have been made in his last sickness, in his own habitation, or in one where he had been resident for at least ten days previous, unless he died on a journey or from home: Bundrick v. Haygood, 106-468; In re Garland's Will, 160-555.

Nuncupative will which has been reduced to writing within ten days after it was made may be proved for probate either before or after the lapse of six months after making thereof; but if not put in writing within ten days it cannot be proved after the expiration of six months: Haygood Will Case, 101-574.

To establish a nuncupative will it is not necessary that the persons called by testator to witness his testamentary declarations should have been designated by him by name: Long v. Foust, 109-114.

Statute must be strictly observed in the probate of a nuncupative will: Bundrick v. Haygood, 106-468; Brown v. Brown, 6-350; Rankin v. Rankin, 31-156. Notice to heirs is necessary: Ibid. Due execution of nuncupative will not proven: Bundrick v. Haygood, 106-468; Kennedy v. Douglas, 151-337. A nuncupative will must be proven by two witnesses present at the same time: Wester v. Wester, 50-95; Smith v. Smith, 63-637; Haden v. Bradshaw, 60-259.

Land cannot pass by nuncupative will: Smithdeal v. Smith, 64-52—it only applying to personal property, Newman v. Bost, 122-533.

After contents of nuncupative will are established within time and in manner prescribed by statute it cannot be admitted to probate until citation or publication has been made according to statute, but it is essential that this citation or publication and the probate based thereon shall be completed within six months from making of alleged will: Haygood Will Case, 101-574.

Probate will not be valid if next of kin are not cited: Rankin v. Rankin, 31-156.

Rev., s. 3128; Code, s. 2150; C. C. P., s. 438.

Probate of wills is a judicial proceeding in rem, and judgment is a judgment in rem and is good against the world, and cannot be attacked collaterally: Davis v. Blevins, 123-379; Granbery v. Mhoon, 12-456.

Probate of a will by clerk is a judicial act, and his certificate is conclusive evidence of validity of will, until vacated on appeal or declared void by a competent tribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose: Starnes v. Thompson, 173-466; Powell v. Watkins, 172-244; McClure v. Spivey, 123-678; In re Beauchamp's Will, 146-254; Mayo v. Jones, 78-402; Hampton v. Hardin, 88-592; London v. Railroad, 88-584; Morgan v. Bass, 25-243.

It is sufficient evidence of a probate of a will that it is certified by the clerk that it was proved in open court by H., a subscribing witness, and recorded, where it appears from the will that there were two subscribing witnesses: Harven v. Springs, 32-180—also sufficient where stated "was produced in open court for probate and duly proved according to law," Davis v. Blevins, 123-382—also "the will of R., proved by H., executor T. qualified," Marshall v. Fisher, 46-111.

Under the law at date of this decision where will attested by two witnesses, and probate is by one, it is presumed that it was legally proven: University v. Blount, 4-455.

In an action of ejectment, party who claims under deed from devisee in a will cannot question validity of probate of will: Steadman v. Steadman, 143-345.

Where will has been admitted to probate, party claiming property disposed of by it to another cannot, in an action to recover same, attack will on ground of lack of testamentary capacity of testatrix, and evidence offered for that purpose is properly excluded: Varner v. Johnston, 112-570.

Section referred to: Holt v. Ziglar, 163-390.

4146. Wills filed in clerk's office. All original wills shall remain in the clerk's office, among the records of the court where the same shall be proved, and to such wills any person may have access, as to the other records.

Rev., s. 3129; Code, s. 2173; R. C., c. 119, s. 19; 1777, c. 115, s. 59.

4147. Certified copy of will proved in another state. When a will, made by a citizen of this state, is proved and allowed in some other state or country, and the original will cannot be removed from its place of legal deposit in such other state or country, for probate in this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the testator had his last usual residence or has any property, upon a duly certified copy or exemplification of such will being exhibited to him for probate, shall take every order and proceeding for proving, allowing and recording such copy as by law might be taken upon the production of the original.

Rev., s. 3130; Code, s. 2157; C. C. P., s. 445; R. C., c. 44, s. 9; 1802, c. 623.

See section 1777.

Certificate of probate of will executed in another state, disposing of real estate in this state, is defective which does not show affirmatively that will was executed according to the laws of this state: R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-241.

A will proved in another state, bearing certificate of clerk of court wherein probate was had to the oath of attesting witnesses, but having no other authentication, is inadmissible in evidence: Hunter v. Kelly, 92-285.

4148. Probate of will made out of the state. Whenever it is suggested to the clerk of the superior court, by affidavit or otherwise, that a will has been made without the state, or that a will has been made in the state and the witnesses thereto have moved out of the state, disposing of or charging land or other property within the state, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the property is situated may issue a commission to such person as he may select, authorizing the commissioner to take the examination of such witnesses as may be produced, touching the execution thereof, and upon return of such commission, with the examination, he may adjudge the will to be duly proved or otherwise, as in cases on the oral examination of witnesses before him, and if duly proved, such will shall be recorded.

Rev., s. 3131; Code, s. 2155; 1899, c. 55; C. C. P., s. 443.

4149. Probate when witnesses are nonresident. Where one or more of the subscribing witnesses to the will of a testator, resident in this state, reside in another state, the examination of such witnesses may be had, taken and subscribed in the form of an affidavit, before a notary public residing in the county and state in which the witnesses reside; and the affidavits, so taken and subscribed, shall be transmitted by the notary public, under his hand and official seal, to the clerk of the court before whom the will has been filed for probate. If such affidavits are, upon examination by the clerk, found to establish the facts necessary to be established before the clerk to authorize the probate of the will if the witnesses had appeared before him personally, then it shall be the duty of the clerk to order the will to probate, and record the will with the same effect as if the subscribing witnesses had appeared before him in person and been examined under oath.

4150. Probate when witnesses in another county. When a will is offered for probate in one county of this state and the witnesses reside in another county, the clerk of the court before whom such will is offered shall have power and authority to issue a subpoena for the witnesses requiring them to appear before him and prove the will; and the clerk shall likewise have power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of such witnesses when they reside more than seventy-five miles from the place where the will is to be probated, such deposition and commission to be returned and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proven. Also, when it shall be found as a fact upon affidavit or other proof, by the clerk of any county where a will is to be probated, that any witness to the will resides outside of the county, and seventy-five miles or less from the place where the will is to be probated, and that the witness is so infirm of body as to be unable to appear in person before the clerk to prove the will, then the clerk shall have the power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of the witness, the commission and deposition of the witness to be returned, and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proved thereon as if the witness had appeared in person before him.

Rev., s. 3132; 1899, c. 55; 1911, c. 13.

Where deposition is taken and the alleged will is shown to the witness, it may be shown by parol evidence what paper was exhibited to the witness: In re Clodfelter's Will, 171-528.

4151. Probate of wills of soldiers and sailors. In addition to the methods already provided in existing statutes therefor, the will of a soldier or sailor, executed while in the actual service of the United States, shall be admitted to probate (whether there were subscribing witnesses thereto or not, if they, or either of them, is out of the state at the time said will is offered for probate) upon the oath of at least three credible witnesses that the signature to said will is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be. Such will so proven shall be effective to devise real property as well as to bequeath personal estate of all kinds. This section shall not apply to cases pending in courts and at issue on the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

The provisions of this section shall expire by limitation on April sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

4152. Certified copy of will of nonresident recorded. Whenever any will made by a citizen or subject of any other state or country is duly proved and allowed in such state or country according to the laws thereof, a copy or exemplification of such will, duly certified and authenticated by the clerk of the court in which such will has been proved and allowed, if within the United States, or by any ambassador, minister, consul or commercial agent of the United States under his official seal when produced or exhibited before the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein any property of the testator may be, shall be allowed, filed and recorded in the same manner as if the original and not the copy had been produced, proved and allowed before such clerk. But when any will contains any devise or disposition of real estate in this state, such devise or disposition shall not have any validity or operation unless the will is executed according to the laws of this state; and that fact must appear affirmatively in the certified probate or exemplification of the will; and if it does not so appear, the clerk before whom the copy is exhibited shall have power to issue a commission for taking proofs, touching the execution of the will, as prescribed in the preceding section; and the same may be adjudged duly proved, and shall be recorded as herein provided.

Rev., s. 3133; Code, s. 2156; 1885, c. 393; C. C. P., s. 444; 1883, c. 144.

A will executed in Tennessee and proved by only one witness cannot be read in evidence here: Blount v. Patton, 9-237.

Where nonresident testator devises land in this state, and record of foreign court of probate, duly certified, contains certificate of probate, which refers to certified examination of witnesses, the whole forming one transaction, exemplification of which and of will being duly recorded in county where land lies, will is sufficiently proved and passes property: Roscoe v. Lumber Co., 124-42; see Drake v. Merrill, 47-368.

A devise by citizen of another state of land in this state can have no operation until proved before proper court in this state to have been executed according to our laws: Drake v. Merrill, 47-368.

Will of nonresident devising realty must conform to statutes of this state, while as to personality the law of the testator's domicile controls: McEwan v. Brown, 176-249; R. R. v. Mining Co., 113-241; Drake v. Merrill, 47-368.

Record and certification of exemplified copy is sufficient though pages may not be in regular order: Lumber Co. v. Hudson, 153-96.

The requirement that a will duly executed and probated in another state may be allowed and recorded on certificate is a valid exercise of power: Vaught v. Williams, 177-77. Insufficient certificate under this section: Riley v. Carter, 158-484.

4153. Probates validated where proof taken by commission or another clerk. In all cases of the probate of any will heretofore made in common form before any clerk of the superior courts of this state, where the testimony of the subscribing witnesses has been taken in the state or out of it by any commissioner appointed by said clerk or taken by any other clerk of the superior court in any other county of this state, and the will admitted to probate upon such testimony, the proceedings are validated.

4154. Probates by deputy clerk validated in certain counties. All probates of wills heretofore made before a deputy clerk of the superior court, wherein no contest or suit is pending for the purpose of annulling the probate, shall be deemed to have been probated before the clerk of the superior court, and the acts of the deputy clerk in probating the same shall be deemed as effectual and valid in law as if done by the clerk in person. This section shall apply only to Burke and Scotland counties.

4155. Probates in another state before 1860 validated. In all cases where any will devises land in this state, and the original will was duly admitted to probate in some other state prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty, and a certified copy of such will and the probate thereof has been admitted to probate and record in any county in this state, and it in any way appears from such recorded copy that there were two subscribing witnesses to such will, and its execution was proved by the examination of such witnesses when the original was admitted to probate, such will shall be held and considered, and is hereby declared to be, good and valid for the purpose of passing title to the lands devised thereby, situated in this state, as fully and completely as if the original will had been duly executed and admitted to probate and recorded in this state in accordance with the laws of this state: Provided, that this section shall in no way affect actions or suits pending on March 8, 1913, or any vested rights.

1913. c. 93, s. 1.

4156. Local: Validating probate of certain old wills. In all cases where wills and testaments were executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, and which appears to have two or more subscribing witnesses thereto, and such wills and testaments were admitted to probate in jurisdictions outside of North Carolina upon the proof of one witness, and such wills, or exemplified copies thereof, were presented to the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state where the makers thereof owned property, and by such clerk recorded in the records of wills for his county, said wills and testaments, or exemplified copies thereof, so recorded, if otherwise sufficient, shall have the effect to pass the title to the real and personal property therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution of such wills had been proven by two subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by the laws of this state. And where such wills and testaments were duly admitted to probate in jurisdictions outside of North Carolina, upon proof of one witness, and in cases where parties interested desire to have them recorded in this state, where they have not already been so recorded, the clerk of the superior court of any county in North Carolina, when such wills or exemplified copies thereof are duly authenticated and presented to him by parties interested, shall receive and record the same; and if same are otherwise sufficient such wills shall have the effect to pass the title to all real and personal property therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution of such wills had been proven by two subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by the laws of this state. This section shall not have the effect to invalidate the title of any person owning any land embraced in the provisions of any such will which was valid prior to the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen. This section shall not apply to suits pending on the tenth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and nothing herein shall be construed to prevent such wills from being impeached for fraud. This section shall only apply to Henderson and Transylvania and Wake counties.

4157. Wills in Haywood. All wills recorded by the clerk of the superior court of Haywood county, under and by virtue of chapter eight of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, shall be deemed and held to have been duly probated and recorded, subject to the right of any person interested to show by competent proof that said will has never been proved and recorded.

Rev., s. 1614; 1885. c. 8.

ART. 5. CAVEAT TO WILL

4158. When and by whom caveat filed. At the time of application for probate of any will, and the probate thereof in common form, or at any time within seven years thereafter, any person entitled under such will, or interested in the estate, may appear in person or by attorney before the clerk of the superior court and enter a caveat to the probate of such will: Provided, that if any person entitled to file a caveat be within the age of twenty-one years, or a married woman, or insane, or imprisoned, then such person may file a caveat within three years after the removal of such disability.

Coverture not a disability affecting statute of limitations, see sections 407, 408.

A person interested may file a caveat to probate of will in common form and require proponent to prove it in solemn form, if there has been no unreasonable delay: In re Hedgepeth, 150-245.

A will devising realty executed by a resident of another state may be contested where the land is situated; as to personalty, the caveat is at the testator's domicile: McEwan v. Brown, 176-249.

Where an action is brought for the construction of a will and judgment rendered, the parties are estopped and cannot afterwards file a caveat: In re Will of Lloyd, 161-557.

A caveat is a proceeding in rem, and upon an issue devisavit vel non the only question determined is the validity of the will: Phifer v. Mullis, 167-405.

While there was no statute of limitation as to caveat before this section, there was a presumption which might bar the caveators by acquiescence or unreasonable delay: In re Dupree's Will, 163-256; In re Bateman's Will, 168-234.

Upon an issue devisavit vel non the will must be proved per testes, and the examination taken before the clerk may be used only as corroborative evidence: In re Will of Chisman, 175-420. Upon a caveat filed, the will cannot be set aside by consent: Holt v. Ziglar, 159-272; s. c., 163-390. Practice in filing caveat reviewed in Randolph v. Hughes, 89-428.

Amendment to section fixing seven years after probate of a will in common form as the time within which a caveat for probate in solemn form may be filed, and permitting seven years after ratification of act as to wills theretofore proven, did not revive a right to file a caveat which had been lost by forty years acquiescence: In re Beauchamp's Will, 146-264.

Failure from 1863 for over forty years to file a caveat for probate of will in solemn form may not be excused by married woman on ground that until laws of 1899, statute of limitations did not run against her, since there was no statute of limitations as to time in which caveat should be filed until 1907: Ibid.

Right of next of kin and heirs at law to require probate in solemn form may be forfeited by acquiescence or unreasonable delay, after notice of probate; and such right was forfeited where petitioner knew for more than forty years of the probate in common form and of the qualification of executors, of their removal from state, of the appointment of an administrator with the will annexed, and of his proceeding for final account and settlement, to which she was a party: Ibid.

Wife may sue for probate of her father's will in solemn form without joining her husband, if he is opposed: Ibid.

Issues as to execution of a will and testator's capacity may only be determined after probate in solemn form is allowed, and will not be considered on a preliminary question whether right to caveat has been forfeited by unreasonable delay: Ibid.

As to undue influence or fraud in procuring execution of will, see McDonald v. McLendon, 173-172; In re Mueller's Will, 170-28; In re Allred's Will, 170-153; In re Abee's Will, 146-273; Linebarger v. Linebarger, 143-229; In re Peterson, 136-13; Westbrook v. Wilson, 135-400; In re Worth, 129-223; Evans Will Case, 123-113; Vester v. Collins, 101-114; Lee v. Williams, 111-200; Ray v. Ray, 98-566; Mullen v. Helderman, 87-471; Barnhardt v. Smith, 86-473; Gilmore v. Gilmore, 86-301; King v. Kinsey, 74-261; Lee v. Lee, 71-139; Lawrence v. Steel, 66-584; Paine v. Roberts, 82-451; Amis v. Satterfield, 40-173; Wright v. Howe, 52-412; Marshall v. Flinn, 49-199; Downey v. Murphey, 18-82; Eelbeck v. Granberry, 3-232; Howell v. Borden, 14-442.

As to testamentary capacity of testator at time will executed, see In re Staub's Will, 172-138; Bond v. Mfg. Co., 140-381; In re Peterson, 136-13; In re Snow's Will, 128-102; Mitchell v. Corpening, 124-473; In re Burns' Will, 121-336; Crenshaw v. Johnson, 120-270; Williams

v. Haid, 118-481; Ray v. Ray, 98-566; Wood v. Sawyer, 61-251; Varner v. Johnson, 112-570; Mayo v. Jones, 78-402; Horah v. Knox, 87-483; Earnhardt v. Smith, 86-473; Syme v. Broughton, 85-367; Bost v. Bost, 87-477; Cornelius v. Cornelius, 52-593; Amis v. Satterfield, 40-173; Horne v. Horne, 31-99; Keerans v. Brown, 68-43; Lawrence v. Steel, 66-584; Love v. Johnston, 34-355; Bell v. Clark, 31-239.

4159. Bond given and cause transferred to trial docket. Upon any caveator giving bond, with sufficient surety to be approved by the clerk, in the sum of two hundred dollars, payable to the propounder of the will, conditioned to pay all costs which may be adjudged against such caveator in the superior court by reason of his failure to prosecute his suit with effect, or deposit the money or give a mortgage in lieu of such bond, or shall file affidavits and satisfy the clerk of his inability to give such bonds or secure such costs, the clerk shall transfer the cause to the superior court for trial; and he shall also forthwith issue a citation to all devisees, legatees or other parties in interest within the state, and cause publication to be made, for four weeks, in some newspaper printed in the state, for nonresidents to appear at the term of the superior court, to which the proceeding is transferred and to make themselves proper parties to the proceeding, if they choose. At the term of court to which such proceeding is transferred, or as soon thereafter as motion to that effect shall be made by the propounder, and before trial, the judge shall require any of the persons so cited, either those who make themselves parties with the caveators or whose interests appear to him antagonistic to that of the propounders of the will, and who shall appear to him to be able so to do, to file such bond within such time as he shall direct and before trial; and on failure to file such bond the judge shall dismiss the proceeding.

Rev., s. 3136; Code, s. 2159; 1899, c. 13; 1901, c. 748; C. C. P., s. 447; 1909, c. 74.

The general issue devisavit vel non may be submitted, or a special issue as to any part of the will: McDonald v. McLendon, 173-172.

Upon an issue devisavit vel non the proof of the formal execution of the will must be made de novo: Watson v. Hinson, 162-72; In re Hedgepeth, 150-245; In re Thomas, 111-409.

Proper charge of court upon an issue devisavit vel non: In re Thorp, 150-487.

Upon caveat filed, the burden is upon the propounder to establish the will by showing formal execution, or, if lost or destroyed, that it was not intentionally done so as to make a revocation: In re Hedgepeth, 150-245.

Issue as to whether paper-writing is the will of decedent being raised by the caveat filed thereto, no answer to such caveat is necessary: Crenshaw v. Johnson, 120-270.

4160. Affidavit of deceased witness as evidence. Whenever the subscribing witness to any will shall die, or be absent beyond the state, it shall be competent upon any issue of devisavit vel non to give in evidence the affidavits and proofs taken by the clerk upon admitting the will to probate in common form, and such affidavit and proceedings before the clerk shall be prima facie evidence of the due and legal execution of said will.

Rev., s. 3121; 1899, c. 680, s. 2.

4161. Caveat suspends proceedings under will. Where a caveat is entered and bond given, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith issue an order to any personal representative, having the estate in charge, to suspend all further proceedings in relation to the estate, except the preservation of the property and the collection of debts, until a decision of the issue is had.

Rev., s. 3137; Code, s. 2160; C. C. P., s. 448.

Does not affect right of husband to administer on wife's estate, will naming no executor: In re Meyers, 113-545.

Executor cannot be removed and collector appointed simply upon filing of caveat: In re Palmer's Will, 117-133.

In absence of an order to suspend further proceedings upon filing of caveat, acts of executor in filing a petition or proceeding for sale of land were not void nor were rights of purchasers affected: Carraway v. Lassiter, 139-145; Syme v. Broughton, 86-153.

Filing of caveat to probate of will does not prevent executor, upon giving bonds prescribed by statute, from proceeding in collection of debts due testator: Hughes v. Hodges, 94-56.

Section referred to: Holt v. Ziglar, 163-390.

ART. 6. CONSTRUCTION OF WILL

4162. Devise presumed to be in fee. When real estate shall be devised to any person, the same shall be held and construed to be a devise in fee simple, unless such devise shall, in plain and express words, show, or it shall be plainly intended by the will, or some part thereof, that the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity.

Rev. s. 3138; Code, s. 2180; R. C., c. 119, s. 26; 1784, c. 204, s. 12.

The purpose of construction is to arrive at the intention of testator, and the whole will must be considered: Taylor v. Brown, 165-157; Fellowes v. Durfey, 163-305; Herring v. Williams, 158-1, reversing s. c., 153-231.

A codicil is a part of the will, and the two must be construed together: Darden v. Matthews, 173-186.

No technical words of conveyance are required in wills: Keith v. Scales, 124-514; Alston v. Davis, 118-202.

A devise will be construed in fee unless it appears otherwise by clear and express words: Fellowes v. Durfey, 163-305. A devise to L for life with remainder to "her bodily issue" is construed to convey an estate to L for life, with remainder to her children: Ford v. McBrayer, 171-420. An estate to one generally, with the power of disposition, carries the fee: Griffin v. Commander, 163-230; see Mabry v. Brown, 162-217—but a devise to one for life, with power of disposition, gives only a life estate, with power to convey the fee, Makely v. Land Co., 175-101; Darden v. Matthews, 173-186; Fellowes v. Durfey, 163-305, and cases cited. The intention to create the power of disposition in the devisee must clearly appear from the language of the will: Herring v. Williams, 158-1, reversing s. c., 153-232. The word "lend" may be construed to convey a fee: Cohoon v. Upton, 174-88. Will construed as conveying a defeasible fee: Kornegay v. Cunningham, 174-209; Satterwaite v. Wilkinson, 173-38.

An action by one devisee against other devisees to obtain a construction of a will to determine their interests under the will cannot be maintained as a proceeding in equity, their interests being purely legal: Heptinstall v. Newsom, 146-503.

While laying down a rule of construction, this section leaves open the question of intention of testator, and where there is a particular interest and a general interest in conflict in the will, the general interest must prevail: Leeper v. Neagle, 94-338.

Purpose of section is to establish a rule between heir and devisee in respect to the beneficial interest of the latter: Alexander v. Cunningham, 27-430.

Section referred to: Kirkman v. Smith, 174-603; Jones v. Richmond, 161-553; Cox v. Jernigan, 154-584; Whitfield v. Garris, 134-27; s. c., 131-148; Gates v. Max, 125-139; Baird v. Winstead, 123-182; Vickers v. Leigh, 104-257; McKrow v. Painter, 89-439.

4163. Probate necessary to pass title; rights of innocent purchasers. No will shall be effectual to pass real or personal estate unless it shall have been duly proved and allowed in the probate court of the proper county, and a duly certified copy thereof shall be recorded in the office of the superior court clerk of the county wherein the land is situate, and the probate of a will devising real estate shall be conclusive as to the execution thereof, against the heirs and devisees of the testator, whenever the probate thereof, under the like circumstances, would be conclusive against the next of kin and legatees of the testator: Provided, that the probate and registration of any will shall not affect the rights of innocent purchasers for value from the heirs at law of the testator when such purchase is made more than two years after the death of such testator, unless the will has been fraudulently withheld from probate.

See annotations under section 4145, and section 4139.

When the formalities of probate have been complied with, it relates back to the death of deviser, but not to affect the rights of innocent purchasers from the heirs when the purchase is more than two years after the death of the deviser (1915, c. 219): Cooley v. Lee, 170-18.

Probate of will in the proper court is an indispensable prerequisite to its validity as a conveyance of real or personal estate: Osborne v. Leak, 89-433.

Probate of will ought regularly to appear upon minutes of county court, and the will itself ought to be recorded: Sumner v. Roberts, 13-527.

Section referred to in Curlee v. Smith, 91-172; Floyd v. Herring, 64-411.

4164. What property passes by will. Any testator, by his will duly executed, may devise, bequeath, or dispose of all real and personal estate which he shall be entitled to at the time of his death, and which, if not so devised, bequeathed, or disposed of, would descend or devolve upon his heirs at law, or upon his executor or administrator; and the power hereby given shall extend to all contingent, executory, or other future interest in any real or personal estate, whether the testator may or may not be the person or one of the persons in whom the same may become vested, or whether he may be entitled thereto under the instrument by which the same was created, or under any disposition thereof by deed or will; and also to all rights of entry for conditions broken, and other rights of entry; and also to such of the same estates, interests, and rights respectively, and other real and personal estate, as the testator may be entitled to at the time of his death, notwithstanding that he may become entitled to the same subsequently to the execution of his will.

An interest in remainder in land passes by the will: Jones v. Huntley, 156-410.

Prior to statute no land acquired after date of will could pass thereby: Hines v. Mercer, 125-71.

Lands acquired after publication of holograph will do not pass thereby: Jiggitts v. Maney, 5-258.

Land cannot pass by a nuncupative will: Smithdeal v. Smith, 64-52.

Where interest in money is bequeathed, the principal to be paid to personal representative of beneficiary at her death, beneficiary may dispose of same by will: Lyon v. Bank, 128-75.

Section referred to in Freeman v. Lide, 176-434; Kornegay v. Miller, 137-663; Church v. Young, 130-11; Champion, ex parte, 45-246.

4165. Will relates to death of testator. Every will shall be construed, with reference to the real and personal estate comprised therein, to speak and take effect as if it had been executed immediately before the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will.

Will speaks as of the death of the testator: Perry v. Perry, 175-141.

Prior to statute, title of no land after date of the will could pass thereby; but since statute, all lands owned by testator at his death will pass, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will: Hines v. Mercer, 125-71; Aydlett v. Small, 115-1.

This section does not apply to wills executed prior to its enactment: Battle v. Speight, 31-288.

Section referred to in Church v. Young, 130-11; Starbuck v. Starbuck, 93-186; Twitty v. Martin, 90-646; Edwards v. Warren, 90-606; Robbins v. Windy, 56-285; Champion, ex parte, 45-246; Williams v. Davis, 34-21.

4166. Lapsed and void devises pass under residuary clause. Unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will, such real estate or interest therein as shall be comprised or intended to be comprised in any devise in such will contained which shall fail or be void by reason of the death of the devisee in the lifetime of the testator, or by reason of such devise being contrary to law or otherwise incapable of taking effect, shall be included in the residuary devise (if any) contained in such will: Provided, there shall be no lapse of the devise or legacy by reason of the death of the devisee or legatee during the life of the testator, if such devisee or legatee would have been an heir at law or distributee of such testator had he died intestate, and if such devisee or legatee shall leave issue surviving him; and if there is issue surviving, then the said issue shall have the devise or bequest named in the will.

Rev., s. 3142; Code, s. 2142; R. C., c. 119, s. 7; 1844, c. 88, s. 4; 1919, c. 28.

Where a codicil revokes part of a devise and no further disposition is made of the property, it passes under the residuary clause: Baker v. Edge, 174-100. Where the construction of the will shows a contrary intention, the property will not pass under the residuary clause: Howell v. Mehegan, 174-64. This will apply where the will attempts to devise land, but no devisee is named: Faison v. Middleton, 171-170.

Unless contrary intent appears, residuary clause will pass both personalty and realty: Powell v. Woodecock, 149-235.

A devise which lapsed by death of devisee before testator passes under residuary clause, where there is nothing in the will which shows a contrary intention: Duckworth v. Jordan, 138-520; Barfield v. Carr, 169-574.

Heirs of testator, and not residuary legatees, take property included in a lapsed specific devise, unless it appears that testator intended it otherwise: Holton v. Jones, 133-399.

Words "balance and residue of my estate of every kind" include reversionary interest in real estate in which a life estate had been carved out: Foil v. Newsome, 138-115.

Under a devise in a residuary clause that "surplus of testator's estate should be equally divided between P. M. and the children of S., share and share alike, to each and every of them, their executors, etc., forever," devisees took per capita, and a child of S., born after death of testator, was entitled to share with other children: Culp v. Lee, 109-675.

Person made residuary legatee as to all personal property does not take land which testator fails to devise: Sain v. Baker, 128-256.

Unless there is something to show contrary intention on part of testator, a general residuary devise will operate as an execution of a power to dispose of property by will: Johnston v. Knight, 117-122.

Section referred to in Saunders v. Saunders, 108-330.

4167. General gift by will an execution of power of appointment. A general devise of the real estate of the testator, or of his real estate in any place or in the occupation of any person mentioned in the will, or otherwise described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any real estate, or any real estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper; and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will; and in like manner a bequest of the personal estate of the testator, or any bequest of personal property, described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any personal estate, or any personal estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will.

Where donee of a power to dispose of property by will to certain persons devises property to such persons by a residuary clause without referring to the power, the devise will be considered an intentional and not an accidental exercise of the power: Johnston v. Knight, 117-122.

It is a presumption of fact that every man that makes a will intends to dispose of all of his estate: McCallum v. McCallum, 167-310; Austin v. Austin, 160-367; Powell v. Woodcock, 149-235; Peebles v. Graham, 128-225; Blue v. Ritter, 118-580; Jones v. Perry, 38-200.

A bequest of "all my property of every description to J." passes stocks, bonds, and all interests of the testator: Hurdle v. Outlaw, 55-75.

4168. Gifts to children dying before testator pass to their issue. When any person, being a child or other issue of the testator, to whom any real or personal estate shall be devised or bequeathed for any estate or interest not determinable at or before the death of such person, shall die in the lifetime of the testator, leaving issue, and any such issue of such person shall be living at the death of the testator, such devise or bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect and vest a title to such estate in the issue surviving, if there be any, in the same manner, proportions and estates as if the death of such person had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will.

Rev., s. 3144; Code, s. 2144; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 61.

This applies only to devises or legacies to child or other issue of the testator: Howell v. Mehegan, 174-64.

Devise to a child who died before testator does not lapse, but by force of statute goes to issue of such deceased child: Cox v. Ward, 107-507—but this does not have reference to devises to children not in esse, Lindsay v. Pleasants, 39-320.

This statute is not intended for the benefit of creditors of such deceased parent: Smith v. Smith, 58-305.

Legacy to grandchild, who died before will was made, is void: Scales v. Scales, 59-163.

Section referred to in Buchanan v. Buchanan, 99-317; Gordon v. Pendleton, 84-100; Whitehead v. Thompson, 79-453; Lefler v. Rowland, 62-143; Williamson v. Williamson, 57-282; Hester v. Hester, 37-320.

4169. After-born children share in testator's estate. Children born after the making of the parent's will, and whose parent shall die without making any provision for them, shall be entitled to such share and proportion of the parent's estate as if he or she had died intestate, and the rights of any such after-born child shall be a lien on every part of the parent's estate, until his several share thereof is set apart in the manner prescribed in this chapter.

Rev., s. 3145; Code, s. 2145; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 62.

Applies only when after-born child has not been provided for through inadvertence or mistake. Does not control provision parent should make: Flanner v. Flanner, 160-126. Does not apply if omission was intentional or provision made ultra: Ibid.

A will expressly excluding the children of testator born after the execution thereof makes a "provision" for them under section, and such children do not share in estate as though testator had died intestate: Thomason v. Julian, 133-309.

Where, by will of their father, two children in esse were to take upon a contingency which failed to occur, a posthumous child, who was to share equally with them, will be precluded also: Clark v. Benton, 124-200.

Where it can be gathered from the will that it was intention of testator that a posthumous child should share equally with his two children, in esse, court will effectuate his intention: Ibid.

Devise to children of S., share and share alike, to each and every of them; devisees take per capita with child of S. born after testator's death: Culp v. Lee, 109-675; see Coggins v. Flythe, 113-102.

Section merely referred to in Johnson v. Chapman, 45-213; Windley v. Gaylord, 52-55.

4170. Administrator c. t. a. must observe will. In all cases where letters of administration with the will annexed are granted, the will of the testator must be observed and performed by the administrator with the will annexed, both in respect to real and personal property, and an administrator with the will annexed has all the rights and powers, and is subject to the same duties, as if he had been named executor in the will.

Rev., s. 3146; Code, s. 2168; C. C. P., s. 455.

See chapter Administration, section 22.

An administrator cum testamento annexo can execute any power conferred by will on executor therein named: Council v. Averett, 95-131.

An administrator d. b. n., c. t. a., although required to execute will, does not stand on same footing in all respects as an executor, as his authority is derived from the law and not from the will, and he cannot sue in another jurisdiction to recover assets of estate: Grant v. Reese, 94-720.

Administrator c. t. a.'s duties as trustee: Clark v. Peebles, 120-31; Smathers v. Moody, 112-791; Saunders v. Saunders, 108-327; Creech v. Grainger, 106-213; Gay v. Grant, 101-206; Vaughan v. Farmer, 90-612; Hester v. Hester, 37-330; Jones v. Jones, 17-387.

Administration c. t. a. was granted upon a will proven in common form; a subsequent contest in regard to the will does not necessarily annul the letters of administration: Floyd v. Herring, 64-409—but it suspends the action of such administrator pending contest: Syme v. Broughton, 86-153.

Injunction lies to prevent administrator from selling land for assets where validity of will in controversy: Galbreath v. Everett, 84-546.

Section referred to in Grant v. Reese, 94-731.

SUBCHAPTER 1. GENERAL PROVISIONSART. 1. FELONIES AND MISDEMEANORS

4171. Felonies and misdemeanors defined. A felony is a crime which is or may be punishable by either death or imprisonment in the state's prison. Any other crime is a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3291; 1891, c. 205, s. 1.

Felonies and misdemeanors distinguished: Jones v. Brinkley, 174-23. The punishment which may be imposed fixes the nature of the crime, whether felony or misdemeanor: State v. Hyman, 164-411. Prior to this statute the line between felonies and misdemeanors was not clearly drawn: State v. Holder, 153-606.

Indictments for offenses made felonies by this section must state that offenses were committed "feloniously": State v. Taylor, 131-711; State v. Shaw, 117-764; State v. Caldwell, 112-854; State v. Wilson, 116-979; State v. Bryan, 112-848; State v. Skidmore, 109-795.

Section held constitutional: State v. Lytle, 138-738. Section merely cited in State v. Shine, 149-480; State v. Lewis, 142-630; State v. Frisbee, 142-674.

4172. Punishment of felonies. Every person who shall be convicted of any felony for which no specific punishment is prescribed by statute shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state prison not exceeding two years, or be fined, in the discretion of the court, or if the offense be infamous, the person offending shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state prison not less than four months nor more than ten years, or be fined.

Rev., s. 3292; Code, s. 1096; R. C., c. 34, s. 27.

See generally: State v. Rippey, 127-516. Section merely cited in In re Holley, 154-163; State v. Mathis, 109-816; State v. Powell, 94-920; State v. Driver, 78-426.

4173. Punishment of misdemeanors. All misdemeanors, where a specific punishment is not prescribed shall be punished as misdemeanors at common law; but if the offense be infamous, or done in secrecy and malice, or with deceit and intent to defraud, the offender shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or shall be fined.

Rev., s. 3293; Code, s. 1097; R. C., c. 34, s. 120.

See generally: State v. Mallett, 125-718; State v. Powell, 94-920; State v. McNeill, 75-15; In re Schenck, 74-607.

Punishment by imprisonment in the penitentiary cannot be imposed at common law: State v. Smith, 174-804; State v. McNeill, 75-15. For punishment for misdemeanors at common law, see State v. Manly, 95-661; State v. Powell, 94-920; State v. Jackson, 82-565; State v. McNeill, 75-15. As to excessive punishment of misdemeanors at common law, see State v. Miller, 94-904; State v. Perkins, 82-682; State v. Pettie, 80-367; State v. Driver, 78-423; State v. Miller, 75-73.

Where statute makes commission of an act "unlawful" and specifies no mode of proceeding, violation of its provisions is a misdemeanor punishable by indictment at common law: State v. Bloodworth, 94-918; State v. Parker, 91-650; see, also, State v. Snuggs, 85-541.

The word "or," in criminal statutes, cannot be interpreted to mean "and" when the effect is to aggravate the offense or increase punishment: State v. Walters, 97-489.

As to punishment for simple assault, see State v. Nash, 109-824—for tenant's removing crops unlawfully, State v. Powell, 94-920—for fornication and adultery, State v. Manly, 95-661—for conspiracy to charge another with infanticide, State v. Jackson, 82-565—for assault and battery, State v. Driver, 78-423—for receiving stolen goods, State v. Brite, 73-26.

Where punishment within court's discretion it is not reviewable: State v. Woodlief, 172-885; State v. Miller, 94-904.

Power of legislature to declare certain offenses misdemeanors: State v. Dunlop, 159-491; Jones v. Brinkley, 174-23.

Where statute which person had violated was repealed before he was sentenced, no punishment can be imposed: State v. Perkins, 141-797; State v. Williams, 97-455; State v. Long, 78-571; State v. Wise, 67-281, 66-120; State v. Nutt, 61-20; State v. Cress, 49-421; State v. Kent, 65-311—and where penalty increased by statute it cannot be imposed where indictment concludes as at common law, State v. Lawrence, 81-522.

Where no time of imprisonment is fixed by statute, two years is not excessive: State v. Farlington, 141-844.

Other cases of interest hereunder: State v. Hamby, 126-1066; State v. Wilson, 121-650; In re Griffin, 98-225; State v. Manly, 95-661; State v. Perkins, 82-681; State v. Bennett, 20-170; State v. Pugh, 3-55.

Section cited in In re Holly, 154-163; State v. Rippey, 127-516; State v. Hall, 108-776; State v. Crumpler, 90-701; State v. Lawrence, 81-522; State v. Driver, 78-423; In re Schenck, 74-607; see, also, State v. Kent, 65-311.

4174. Violation of town ordinance misdemeanor; punishment. If any person shall violate an ordinance of a city or town, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3702; Code, s. 3820; 1871-2, c. 195, s. 2.

Mayor or other chief officer has jurisdiction of violations of ordinances: State v. Wilson, 106-718; State v. Smith, 103-403. See section 2635. Justice of peace has concurrent jurisdiction with mayor or other chief officer to try misdemeanors arising from violations of ordinances: State v. Wood, 94-855; State v. Cainan, 94-880. Superior court has no original jurisdiction: State v. Threadgill, 76-17.

Town ordinances are in subordination to public laws, and must give way to a general statute on the same subject: State v. Langston, 88-692; State v. Keith, 94-933; State v. McCoy, 116-1059. A town ordinance cannot make criminal or prescribe a punishment for acts which are indictable at common law or by statute: State v. Austin, 114-855; State v. Stevens, 114-873; State v. Taylor, 133-755.

For this section to operate, the ordinance must be valid; and one which leaves the penalty in the discretion of the court is uncertain and void: State v. Irwin, 126-989; State v. Webber, 107-962; State v. Rice, 97-422; State v. Worth, 95-615; State v. Cainan, 94-883; State v. Crenshaw, 94-877. The state must show a valid ordinance and its violation: State v. Prevo, 178-740.

Prior to this section there was no way of enforcing a town ordinance: School Directors v. Asheville, 137-509.

A conviction under a town ordinance for disturbing the good order and quiet of the town by fighting is no bar to a prosecution by state for an assault: State v. Taylor, 133-755.

This section gives the right to arrest for the violation of a city ordinance, but a clause in such ordinance authorizing the arrest for a violation thereof is void: State v. Earnhardt, 107-789.

WARRANT. Sufficiency of: State v. Merritt, 83-677. Insufficiency of: State v. Deaton, 92-788. An averment which takes the case out of the jurisdiction of the mayor may be amended, where it appears from the allegations in the warrant and affidavit that such mayor has jurisdiction: State v. Wilson, 106-718. In an indictment for loud and boisterous swearing it is not necessary to set out the words used by the defendant: State v. Cainan, 94-880. Not necessary to set out ordinance in warrant, but a reference to it, so as to point it out with certainty, is sufficient: Ibid. Compare Hendersonville v. McMinn, 82-532; State v. Edens, 85-522. Since enactment of section 2673 it is not necessary to aver any authority to pass the ordinance alleged to have been violated: State v. Merritt, 83-677. See further annotations under section 2673, as to valid and invalid ordinances.

ART. 2. PRINCIPALS AND ACCESSORIES

4175. Accessories before the fact; trial and punishment. If any person shall counsel, procure or command any other person to commit any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any statute, the person so counseling, procuring or commanding shall be guilty of felony, and may be indicted and convicted, either as an accessory before the fact to the principal felony, together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon; or he may be indicted and convicted of a substantive felony, whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice, and may be punished in the same manner as any accessory before the fact to the same felony, if convicted as an accessory, may be punished. The offense of the person so counseling, procuring or commanding, howsoever indicted, may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction to try the principal felon, in the same manner as if such offense had been committed at the same place as the principal felony or where the principal felony is triable, although such offense may have been committed at any place within or without the limits of the state. In case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the offense of counseling, procuring or commanding shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the last mentioned offense may be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in either of such counties: Provided, that no person who shall be once duly tried for any such offense, whether as an accessory before the fact or as for a substantive felony, shall be liable to be again indicted or tried for the same offense.

Rev., s. 3287; Code, s. 977; R. C., c. 34, s. 53; 1797, c. 485, s. 1; 1852, c. 58.

See generally: State v. McLean, 121-589; State v. Davis, 87-514; State v. Ives, 35-338; State v. Duncan, 28-236; State v. Smith, 24-402; State v. Chittum, 13-49. Difference between accessory before the fact and principal: State v. Jarrell, 141-722; State v. Fox, 94-928; State v. Cheek, 35-114; State v. Hardin, 19-407. Accessory before the fact defined: State v. Jones, 176-702; State v. Barden, 12-518. Accessory before the fact may be convicted on an indictment for murder found against him as principal: State v. Bryson, 173-803, seemingly changing the rule in State v. Dewer, 65-572. One who is present at the commission of a felony, and does not try to prevent it, does not partake of the guilt by his mere inactivity: State v. Hildreth, 31-440.

Meaning of the word "command": State v. Mann, 2-4. Act of 1797 construed in State v. Groff, 5-270. Principal and accessory may be indicted and tried together: State v. Register, 133-746. Prior conviction of principal unnecessary, but where principal has been tried and acquitted it is left as at common law: State v. Jones, 101-719; State v. Ludwick, 61-404.

When principal is not amenable to process of law, indictment must contain an averment to that effect: State v. Ives, 35-339; State v. Groff, 5-270.

No accessories before the fact in larceny; all are principals: State v. Fox, 94-928; State v. Stroud, 95-626—and where indictment charges A with committing the theft and B with aiding and abetting, and the proof is the reverse, it is not a variance, State v. Fox, 94-928.

Confession of principal not substantive evidence against accessory, but corroborative only: State v. McCall, 131-798; see State v. Duncan, 28-98. Whatever makes a man an accessory before the fact in felony will make him a principal in a misdemeanor: State v. Cheek, 35-114; State v. Barden, 12-518. Where parties indicted with others for barn-burning, they cannot be convicted as principals if evidence shows they were not present at the burning: State v. Dewer, 65-572. Acquittal of principal as complete defense to indictment against accessory: State v. Jones, 101-719. One charged as principal in indictment for assault with intent to kill cannot be convicted as accessory: State v. Green, 119-899. Conviction as principal as evidence of accessory's guilt, see State v. Duncan, 28-98; State v. McCall, 131-798; State v. Chittem, 13-49. What indictment against accessory must show: State v. Davis, 87-514.

Where statute creates offense not existing at common law, and imposes a separate and distinct punishment upon principal and his agent for violating it, principal cannot be held further liable as an accessory before the fact to act of agent violating provision of statute: State v. R. R., 145-495.

Other cases of interest hereunder: State v. Reid, 178-745; State v. Stephens, 170-745; State v. Robertson, 166-356; State v. Turner, 143-641; State v. Jarrell, 141-722. Section cited in State v. Powell, 168-134.

4176. Punishment of accessories before the fact. Any person who shall be convicted as an accessory before the fact in either of the crimes of murder, arson, burglary or rape shall be imprisoned for life in the state's prison. An accessory before the fact to the stealing of any horse, mare, gelding or mule, on being duly convicted thereof, shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than five nor more than twenty years, in the discretion of the court. Every accessory before the fact in any other felony shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison or county jail for not more than ten years, or may be fined in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3290; Code, s. 980; 1868-9, c. 31, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 212.

When defendant was convicted of murder in second degree and sentenced to imprisonment for twenty years, he is not entitled to resentence as an accessory: State v. Bryson, 173-803.

4177. Accessories after the fact; trial and punishment. If any person shall become an accessory after the fact to any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any statute made, or to be made, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and may be indicted and convicted together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon, or may be indicted and convicted for such felony whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, and may also be fined in the discretion of the court. The offense of such person may be inquired of, tried, determined and punished by any court which shall have jurisdiction of the principal felon, in the same manner as if the act, by reason whereof such person shall have become an accessory, had been committed at the same place as the principal felony, although such act may have been committed without the limits of the state; and in case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the act by reason whereof any person shall have become accessory shall have been committed within the body of any other county, the offense of such person guilty of a felony as aforesaid may be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in either of said counties: Provided, that no person who shall be once duly tried for such felony shall be again indicted or tried for the same offense.

See generally: State v. Ives, 35-338; State v. Duncan, 28-98; State v. Smith, 24-402; State v. Chittam, 13-49. Section generally construed; form of indictment: State v. Winton, 61-196; State v. Beatty, 61-52; State v. Ives, 35-338; State v. Groff, 5-270. Evidence against accessory; record of conviction of principal: State v. Duncan, 28-98; State v. Chittam, 13-49. Husband of one charged as accessory is not competent witness in favor of one charged as principal: State v. Ludwick, 61-401. Petty larceny does not admit of an accessory, therefore receiver of stolen goods is no longer an accessory: State v. Tyler, 85-569.

Rule that principal must be first tried and convicted before accessory has no application between two principals in first and second degrees: State v. Jarrell, 141-722.

Misdemeanor in "first degree" and "second degree" in statute against prostitution, see section 4361.

SUBCHAPTER 2. OFFENSES AGAINST THE STATE

ART. 3. REBELLION

4178. Rebellion against the state. If any person shall incite, set on foot, assist or engage in a rebellion or insurrection against the authority of the state of North Carolina or the laws thereof, or shall give aid or comfort thereto, every person so offending in any of the ways aforesaid shall be guilty of a felony, and, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison for not more than fifteen years and by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 3437; Code, s. 1106; 1868, c. 60, s. 2; 1861, c. 18; 1866, c. 64; Const., Art. IV, s. 5.

4179. Conspiring to rebel against the state. If two or more persons shall conspire together to overthrow or put down, or to destroy by force, the government of North Carolina, or to levy war against the government of the state, or to oppose by force the authority of such government, or by force or threats to intimidate, or to prevent, hinder or delay the execution of any law of the state, or by force or fraud to seize or take possession of any firearms or other property of the state, against the will or contrary to the authority of such state, every person so offending in any of the ways aforesaid shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned not more than ten years in the state's prison and be fined not exceeding five thousand dollars.

Conspiracy generally: State v. Jackson, 82-565.

4180. Secret political and military organizations forbidden. If any person, for the purpose of compassing or furthering any political object, or aiding the success of any political party or organization, or resisting the laws, shall join or in any way connect or unite himself with any oath-bound secret political or military organization, society or association of whatsoever name or character; or shall form or organize or combine and agree with any other person or persons to form or organize any such organization; or as a member of any secret political or military party or organization shall use, or agree to use, any certain signs or grips or passwords, or any disguise of the person or voice, or any disguise whatsoever for the advancement of its object, and shall take or administer any extra-judicial oath or other secret, solemn pledge, or any like secret means; or if any two or more persons, for the purpose of compassing or furthering any political object, or aiding the success of any political party or organization, or circumventing the laws, shall secretly assemble, combine or agree together, and the more effectually to accomplish such purposes, or any of them, shall use any certain signs, or grips, or passwords, or any disguise of the person or voice, or other disguise whatsoever, or shall take or administer any extra-judicial oath or other secret, solemn pledge; or if any persons shall band together and assemble to muster, drill or practice any military evolutions except by virtue of the authority of an officer recognized by law, or of an instructor in institutions or schools in which such evolutions form a part of the course of instruction; or if any person shall knowingly permit any of the acts and things herein forbidden to be had, done or performed on his premises, or on any premises under his control; or if any person being a member of any such secret political or military organization shall not at once abandon the same and separate himself entirely therefrom, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than two hundred dollars, or be imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3439; Code, s. 1095; 1870-1, c. 133; 1868-9, c. 267; 1871-2, c. 143.

ART. 4. COUNTERFEITING AND ISSUING MONETARY SUBSTITUTES

4181. Counterfeiting coin and uttering coin that is counterfeit. If any person shall falsely make, forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, forged or counterfeited, or willingly aid or assist in falsely making, forging or counterfeiting the resemblance or similitude or likeness of a Spanish milled dollar, or any coin of gold or silver which is in common use and received in the discharge of contracts by the citizens of the state; or shall pass, utter, publish or sell, or attempt to pass, utter, publish or sell, or bring into the state from any other place with intent to pass, utter, publish or sell as true, any such false, forged or counterfeited coin, knowing the same to be false, forged or counterfeited, with intent to defraud any person whatsoever, every person so offending shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years.

4182. Possessing tools for counterfeiting. If any person shall have in his possession any instrument for the purpose of making any counterfeit similitude or likeness of a Spanish milled dollar, or other coin made of gold or silver which is in common use and received in discharge of contracts by the citizens of the state, and shall be duly convicted thereof, the person so offending shall be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, or be fined not more than five hundred dollars.

Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Collins, 10-191. For other annotations on forgery generally, see under section 4296.

Compare under act of 1816, ch. 900: State v. Humphreys, 19-555.

4184. Receiving or passing unauthorized substitutes for money. If any person or corporation shall pass or receive, as the representative of, or as the substitute for, money, any bill, check, certificate, promissory note, or other security of the kind mentioned in the preceding section, whether the same be issued within or without the state, such person or corporation, and the officers and agents of such corporation aiding therein, who shall offend against this section shall for every such offense forfeit and pay five dollars, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section cited in State v. Bank of Fayetteville, 48-450.

SUBCHAPTER 3. OFFENSES AGAINST THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE

ART. 5. CORRUPT PRACTICES AT ELECTIONS

4185. Certain acts declared misdemeanors. Any person who shall in connection with any primary, special, general or other election in this state do any of the acts and things declared in this section to be unlawful shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. It shall be unlawful—

1. To fail as election officer to perform duties. For any person to fail as an officer or as a judge or registrar of election, or as a member of any election or canvassing board, to prepare the books, tickets and return blanks which it is his duty under the law to prepare, or to distribute the same as required by law, or to make the returns, or to perform any other duty within the time and in the manner required by law.

Rev., s. 3396; 1901, c. 89, s. 46; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.

2. To act as election officer after removal. For any person to continue, or attempt, to act as a judge or registrar of election, or as a member of any election board, after having been legally removed from such position, and after having been given notice of such removal.

Rev., s. 3399; 1901, c. 89, s. 10; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.

3. To interfere with elections and the duties of election officers. For any person to break up, or by force or violence to stay or interfere with, the holding of any election, to interfere with the possession of any ballot box, election book, ticket or return sheet by those entitled to the possession of the same under the law, or to interfere in any manner with the performance of any duty imposed by law upon any election officer or member of any election or canvassing board.

Rev., s. 3385; 1901, c. 89, s. 51; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.

4. To disturb election officers in the performance of their duties. For any person to be guilty of boisterous conduct so as to disturb any member of any election or canvassing board, or any judge or registrar of elections, in the performance of his duties as imposed by law.

Rev., s. 3385; 1901, c. 89, s. 51; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.

5. To bet on elections. For any person to bet or wager any money or other thing of value on any election.

Rev., s. 3384; 1901, c. 89, s. 55; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.

Compare Bettis v. Reynolds, 34-344.

6. To intimidate or oppress voters. For any person to directly or indirectly discharge or threaten to discharge from employment or otherwise intimidate or oppress any legally qualified voter on account of any vote such voter may cast, or consider casting, or intend to cast or not to cast, or which he may have failed to cast.

Rev., s. 3387; 1901, c. 89, s. 53; 1913, c. 164, s. 1.

Turning one out of church because he voted a certain ticket is not within section: State v. Rogers, 128-576. Compare State v. Williams, 117-753.

7. To make contributions toward campaigns without properly reporting same. For any person to spend or contribute directly or indirectly any money or other thing of value to aid in the campaign or election of any candidate for any office in a primary or in a general election, unless the same be reported immediately to such candidate, to the end that it may be included by him in the reports required of him by law, or unless such contribution be reported to the campaign committee of such candidate within the meaning of "campaign committee" as herein defined. The term "campaign committee," as used in this subsection, shall embrace only such committees as are designated by candidates for office before primary elections and reported to the secretary of state at least thirty days before any such primary election by those who are candidates for any office embracing a greater territory than a county, and reported to the clerk of the superior court in the county of the candidate at least thirty days prior to the primary election by those who are candidates for any office to be voted for only by the electors in a particular county or subdivision thereof. It shall be the duty of each candidate to receive from such campaign committee, and of each campaign committee of each candidate to give to the candidate appointing such committee, all the information they may have, and for such campaign committee and candidate to embrace such information in the reports required of them by law, and it shall be unlawful for the candidate and the members of his campaign committee to fail to do so.

8. To fail before primary elections to report campaign receipts and disbursements. For any person who is a candidate or member of the campaign committee to fail to report under oath, within the time required by law for the report from such candidate, the amount of money received in connection with or in aid of his campaign, the sources thereof, and for what purposes it has been applied. The report to be made by the campaign committee of any candidate before the primary shall be made in duplicate, one copy thereof to be filed with the candidate and one copy to be filed with the officer to whom such candidate is required to report, and shall be made within the time required for a report from such candidate.

9. To expend more than a certain sum for campaign purposes before primary elections. For any person who is a candidate for any political office before a primary to expend or knowingly assent to or permit the expenditure of more than fifty per cent of what the annual salary of such person will be if elected to the office for which he is a candidate, except that a candidate for governor and a candidate for the United States senate may spend or allow others to spend a total amount, which shall not be greater than the annual salary would be if the candidate were elected to such office, and such candidate may lawfully pay in addition his transportation expenses and board and lodging bills while campaigning for such office.

1913, c. 164, s. 1.

10. To fail before general elections to report campaign receipts and disbursements. For any person who is a member of any executive, managing or other committee of any political party for any county or subdivision of any county in the state, to fail to report to the clerk of the court of such county, not more than fifteen nor less than ten days before any general election, the amount of money received by such committee for campaign purposes, and within twenty days after the election to make a similar report of money received and from whom, and the purposes for which it was used, such report to be made under oath by the secretary or chairman of the committee who has full knowledge of all the details of the committee's affairs; or for any chairman or secretary of such committee of a political party having a territory embracing more than one county to fail to make, within the time required by law, similar reports to the secretary of state.

11. To publish unsigned derogatory charges concerning candidates. For any person to publish in any newspaper or pamphlet, or otherwise, any charge derogatory to any candidate, or calculated to affect the candidate's chances of election to office, unless such publication be signed by the party giving publicity to and being responsible for such charge.

1913, c. 164, s. 1.

12. To circulate false derogatory charges concerning candidates. For any person to publish or cause to be circulated derogatory reports with reference to any candidate, known by the person publishing or circulating such report to be false, when such report is calculated or intended to affect the chances of such candidate for such office.

1913, c. 164, s. 1.

13. To promise political appointments in securing political support. For any person to give or promise, in return for political support or influence, any political appointment or support for political office.

1913, c. 164, s. 1.

4186. Certain acts declared felonies. Any person who shall in connection with any primary, special, general or other election in this state do any of the acts and things declared in this section to be unlawful shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than four months, or fined not less than one thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court. It shall be unlawful—

1. To register in more than one precinct or impersonate other voters. For any person fraudulently to cause his name to be placed upon the registration books of more than one election precinct, or fraudulently to cause or procure his name, or that of any other person, to be placed upon the registration books in any precinct when such registration in that precinct does not qualify such person to vote legally therein, or to impersonate falsely another registered voter for the purpose of voting in the stead of such other voter.

Compare State v. Boyett, 32-336; State v. Pearson, 97-434.

2. To buy and sell votes. For any person to give or promise or request or accept at any time before or after any such election any money, property or other thing of value whatever, in return for the vote of any elector.

Rev., s. 3386; 1901, c. 89, s. 54; 1913, c. 164, s. 2.

3. To make fraudulent entries and returns. For any person who is an election officer, a member of a canvassing or election board or other officer charged with any duty with respect to any election, knowingly to make any false or fraudulent entry on any election book, or any false or fraudulent return, or knowingly to make, or cause to be made, any false statement on any ticket, or to do any fraudulent act, or knowingly and fraudulently to omit to do any act or make any report legally required of such person.

4. To swear falsely in connection with elections. For any person knowingly to swear falsely with respect to any matter pertaining to any such election.

1913, c. 164, s. 2.

5. To qualify any one fraudulently as an elector. For any person falsely to make or present any exemption from poll tax, tax receipt, certificate or other paper to qualify any person fraudulently as an elector, or to attempt thereby to secure to any person the privilege of voting.

Rev., s. 3401; 1901, c. 89, s. 13; 1913, c. 164, s. 2.

4187. Persons pardoned compellable to testify. Any person subpoenaed by the state to testify relative to any offense arising under the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be required to testify, but such person shall be immune from prosecution and shall be pardoned for any violation of law about which such person is so required to testify.

1913, c. 164, s. 3.

ART. 6. OTHER OFFENSES AGAINST THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE

4188. Disposing of liquor at or near polling places. If any person shall give away or shall sell any intoxicating liquor, except for medical purposes and upon the prescription of a practicing physician, at any place within five miles of the polling place, at any time within twelve hours next preceding or succeeding any public election, whether general, local or municipal, or during the holding thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 3389; 1901, c. 89, s. 76; 1905, c. 531.

General discussion of this and former statutes: State v. Edwards, 134-636. Indictment, sufficiency of: State v. Stamey, 71-202.

4189. Voting of felons at elections. If any person convicted of a crime which excludes him from the right of suffrage shall vote at an election, without having been restored to the right of citizenship, he shall be guilty of a felony and punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the state's prison not exceeding two years, or both.

Rev., s. 3388; 1901, c. 89, s. 71.

4190. Corrupt taking of oath by voter. If any person shall corruptly take the oath prescribed for voters, he shall be guilty of perjury, and shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than two nor more than five years.

Rev., s. 3390; 1901, c. 89, s. 49.

Cases under this section: State v. Fenner, 166-248; State v. Griffin, 175-767.

4191. False oath of voter in registering. If any person shall knowingly register under the permanent registration law who is not qualified within the meaning of that law and article six, section four, of the constitution, or if any person shall knowingly take any false oath in registering under the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not more than five years.

Rev., s. 3392; 1901, c. 550, s. 12.

4192. Voting illegally at elections; fraudulent entries by registrars and clerks. If any person shall, with intent to commit a fraud, register or vote at more than one box or more than one time, or shall induce another to do so, or if any person shall illegally vote at any election, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than six nor more than twelve months, or fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court. If any registrar of voters, or any clerk or copyist, shall make any entry or copy with intent to commit a fraud, he shall be guilty of a like offense.

Rev., s. 3394; 1901, c. 89, s. 48.

Where an illegal vote is voluntarily given, the unlawful purpose attaches prima facie to the act: State v. Hart, 51-389.

A decision of the judges of election that a person is entitled to vote is no complete defense to an indictment for illegal voting, although such person, in fact, was not entitled to vote: State v. Pearson, 97-434.

That the election was irregularly held is no defense to illegal voting: State v. Cohoon, 34-178. Compare State v. Boyett, 32-336.

4193. Willful failure of returning officer to discharge duty. If any chairman of the county board of elections, or other returning officer whatever, shall willfully, or of malice, neglect to perform any duty, act, matter or thing required or directed in the time, manner and form in which such duty, act, matter or thing is required to be performed in relation to the election, and returns thereof, of the governor, representatives in congress, justices of the supreme court, judges of the superior court, solicitors, electors for president and vice president of the United States or other officers, the person so offending shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not less than one nor more than three years.

4194. Willful failure of registration officer to discharge duty. If any officer charged with any duty under the permanent registration law willfully fails and neglects to perform the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall forfeit his office and be fined not more than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not more than five years.

Rev., s. 3393; 1901, c. 550, s. 11.

4195. Making false returns or tampering with poll books. If any person shall make, certify, deliver or transmit a false return of an election held in this state, or make any erasure or alteration in the poll books, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than one year, and shall, in addition, forfeit and pay five hundred dollars, one-half to the use of the person who shall sue for the same and the other half to the use of the state.

Rev., s. 3397; 1901, c. 89, s. 83.

4196. Refusing to furnish copy of election returns. If any register of deeds or clerk of the superior court shall refuse to make and give to any person a duly certified copy of the returns of any election, or of a tabulated statement of any election, the returns of which are by law deposited in his office, upon the tender of the fees therefor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be dismissed from office and imprisoned for one year.

Rev., s. 3398; 1901, c. 89, s. 83.

4197. Failing to furnish poll-tax list. If any sheriff or tax collector shall fail, between the first day of May and the tenth day of May of any year in which a general election occurs to certify to the clerk of the superior court of his county a list of all persons who have paid their poll tax for the previous year, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3400; 1901, c. 89, s. 13.

4198. Failing to give or falsely dating poll-tax receipt. If any tax collector or sheriff shall willfully fail to give a tax receipt to any person paying his poll tax, or shall falsely date any tax receipt or duplicate thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3402; 1901, c. 89, s. 13.

4199. Using funds of insurance companies for political purposes. No insurance company or association, including fraternal beneficiary associations, doing business in this state shall, directly or indirectly, pay or use, or offer, consent or agree to pay or use, any money or property for or in aid of any political party, committee or organization, or for or in aid of any corporation, joint-stock company, or other association organized or maintained for political purposes, or for or in aid of any candidate for political office or for nomination for such office, or for any political purpose whatsoever, or for the reimbursement or indemnification of any person for money or property so used. Any officer, director, stockholder, attorney or agent of any corporation or association which violates any of the provisions of this section, who participates in, aids, abets, advises or consents to any such violation, and any person who solicits or knowingly receives any money or property in violation of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year and a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. Any officer aiding or abetting in any contribution made in violation of this section shall be liable to the company or association for the amount so contributed. The insurance commissioner may revoke the license of any company violating this section. No person shall be excused from attending and testifying, or producing any books, papers or other documents before any court or magistrate, upon any investigation, proceeding or trial for a violation of any of the provisions of this section, upon the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate or degrade him; but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may so testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, and no testimony so given or produced shall be used against him upon any criminal investigation or proceeding.

SUBCHAPTER 4. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PERSON

ART. 7. HOMICIDE

4200. Murder in the first and second degree defined; punishment. A murder which shall be perpetrated by means of poison, lying in wait, imprisonment, starving, torture, or by any other kind of willful, deliberate and premeditated killing, or which shall be committed in the perpetration or attempt to perpetrate any arson, rape, robbery, burglary or other felony, shall be deemed to be murder in the first degree and shall be punished with death. All other kinds of murder shall be deemed murder in the second degree, and shall be punished with imprisonment of not less than two nor more than thirty years in the state prison.

See generally: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Covington, 117-834.

Difference between first and second degree: State v. Thomas, 118-1113. General effect of section discussed in State v. Rhyne, 124-847; State v. Ewing, 127-555; State v. Barrett, 142-565; State v. Matthews, 142-621. This section does not make a new definition of murder, but recognizes its different kinds as they existed at common law: State v. Dalton, 178-779; State v. Banks, 143-625.

Killing by lying in wait: State v. Walker, 170-716; State v. Wiseman, 178-784—motive may be considered as a circumstance in determining guilt: Ibid. Killing while attempting robbery: State v. Logan, 161-235. When one in attempting to kill another kills an innocent bystander, the degree of guilt depends upon his intent and conduct toward his adversary: State v. Dalton, 178-779.

INDICTMENT. Sufficiency of, under section 4614: State v. Gilchrist, 113-673; State v. Covington, 117-866; State v. Matthews, 142-621. Sufficiency of under acts 1893, chapter 85: State v. Covington, 118-834. Words "premeditation and deliberation" need not be used: State v. Cole, 132-1069. Charging murder, grand jury cannot return for murder in second degree: State v. Ewing, 127-555; State v. Hunt, 128-584.

MALICE. Presumed where killing is with deadly weapon: State v. Love, 166-333; State v. Simonds, 154-197; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Worley, 141-764; State v. Kendall, 143-659; Overcash v. Electric Co., 144-581—or killing proved, nothing else appearing, the law presumes malice, but not premeditation and deliberation, and the killing is murder in the second degree, State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Wilcox, 118-1131; State v. Rhyne, 124-848; State v. Hicks, 125-636; State v. Capps, 134-628. Implied when an act dangerous to others is done so recklessly or wantonly as to evince depravity and a disregard for human life: State v. Lilliston, 141-857. Sufficiently shown to make out case in first degree, when there has been a wrongful and intentional killing of another, without lawful excuse or mitigating circumstances: State v. Banks, 143-652; State v. Kendall, 143-659; State v. McDowell, 145-566; State v. Adams, 136-617; State v. Wilcox, 132-1143; State v. Turner, 143-642. When the homicide is shown or admitted to have been intentionally committed by lying in wait, poisoning, starvation, imprisonment, or torture, the law raises a presumption of murder in the first degree, but the presumption may be rebutted: State v. Matthews, 142-621. When the intentional killing is done by other means than the above, the presumption is only of murder in the second degree: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Dowden, 118-1145; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Hicks, 125-636; State v. Capps, 134-628; State v. Worley, 141-764; State v. Matthews, 142-621.

Malice is necessary to constitute murder in the second degree: State v. Baldwin, 152-822; State v. Fowler, 151-731.

In the killing with a deadly weapon the defendant must not only rebut the presumption of malice, but also the presumption that it was unlawful: State v. Fowler, 151-731—and the burden is on the defendant to show justification or mitigation to the satisfaction of the jury: State v. Cox, 153-638; State v. Baldwin, 152-822; State v. Fowler, 151-731; State v. Quick, 150-820; State v. Roberson, 150-837; State v. Patterson, 149-533.

PREMEDITATION AND DELIBERATION. What constitutes: State v. Walker, 173-780; State v. Coffey, 174-814; State v. McClure, 166-321; State v. Cameron, 166-379; State v. Daniels, 164-464; State v. Thomas, 118-1113. No particular time necessary for premeditation and deliberation; and if purpose to kill has been deliberately formed, the time elapsing before the execution of such purpose is immaterial: State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. McCarmoe, 116-1033; State v. Covington, 117-834; State v. Dowden, 118-1153; State v. Daniel, 139-549; State v. Banks, 143-652. Where prisoner weighs the purpose to kill long enough to form a fixed design, he is guilty of murder in the first degree; but where the intent to kill is formed simultaneously with the act, it is not murder in the first degree: State v. Dowden, 118-1145; State v. Barrett, 142-565; State v. Jones, 145-466. Whether certain evidence shows premeditation and deliberation is a question of fact for the jury: State v. Daniels, 134-671; State v. Daniel, 139-549.

DEFENSES. What is self-defense, excessive force, etc.: State v. Cox, 153-638. Son can justify fighting for father only when the circumstances amount to self-defense: Ibid. Self-defense is not to be proved beyond a reasonable doubt, but only to the satisfaction of the jury: State v. Little, 178-722. There is a presumption of sanity, and the burden is upon the defendant to prove insanity: State v. Cloninger, 149-567; State v. Banner, 149-519. The fact of drunkenness should be considered when the intent is necessary: State v. Murphy, 157-614.

EVIDENCE. Sufficiency of, for conviction of murder in first degree: State v. Bynum, 175-777; State v. Covington, 117-834; State v. Banks, 143-652—insufficiency of, for murder in first degree, State v. Thomas, 118-1113; State v. Rhyne, 124-847; State v. Bishop, 131-733; State v. Cole, 132-1069. Sufficiency of, for conviction of murder in second degree: State v. Hinson, 150-829; State v. Lilliston, 141-857; State v. Tillman, 146-611; State v. Kendall, 143-659. Sufficient evidence of premeditation and deliberation: State v. Cain, 178-724; State v. Lovelace, 178-762; State v. Johnson, 172-920; State v. McKay, 150-813; State v. Roberson, 150-837; State v. McDowell, 145-63; State v. Daniel, 139-549; State v. Hunt, 134-684; State v. Teachey, 138-587; State v. Jones, 145-466; State v. Barrett, 142-565. Where killing with deadly weapon is admitted the burden is still upon the state to show premeditation and deliberation: State v. Roberson, 150-837.

Admissibility of dying declarations: State v. Quick, 150-820. Inadmissible declarations: State v. Worley, 141-764. Evidence of threats by deceased: State v. Stratford, 149-483. Testimony of nonexperts to prove insanity: State v. Banner, 149-519. Motive as a circumstance to be considered in evidence: State v. Stratford, 149-483. Words of defendant immediately after the killing: State v. Baldwin, 152-822. What was said to defendant as tending to produce insanity is admissible, but the truth of the statement is not in question: State v. Green, 152-835. Evidence as to the dangerous character of deceased is not admissible when there is no evidence of self-defense: State v. Dunlap, 149-550; State v. Fisher, 149-557—nor when the defense is insanity, State v. Banner, 149-519.

Where there is no evidence of manslaughter it is not error for the judge to instruct the jury to return a verdict of murder in the first or second degree, or not guilty: State v. McKay, 150-813. Upon conviction of murder in second degree it was not error for judge to charge that there was not sufficient evidence to convict of first degree: State v. Fisher, 149-557. Where solicitor elects not to prosecute for murder in first degree, and the evidence tends to show suicide or first degree, it is not error to instruct the jury to convict of murder in second degree or acquit: State v. Stratford, 149-483. Defendant is not prejudiced because solicitor asks only for a conviction of murder in second degree: State v. Casey, 159-472.

Jury rendering a verdict of guilty of murder in first degree "with mercy," and only one of the jurors said "with mercy," upon polling the jury, it is proper for the judge to send the jury back for a proper verdict: State v. McKay, 150-813.

The order of proof upon trials of homicide is usually left to sound discretion of judge, and is not reviewable on appeal unless made to appear that some substantial injustice has been done: State v. Guthrie, 145-492.

Where circumstances do not bring the killing within the cases made murder in the first degree per se by the statute, the state must prove premeditation and deliberation beyond a reasonable doubt: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Thomas, 118-1113; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Daniels, 134-675. Compare State v. Matthews, 142-621.

Defendant only required to show matters in mitigation or excuse to satisfaction of jury: State v. Willis, 63-26; State v. Vann, 82-632; State v. Brittain, 89-502; State v. Mozon, 90-676; State v. Wilcox, 118-1131; State v. Barrett, 132-1005; State v. Worley, 141-764.

Before a conviction for murder can be had, an unlawful and intentional taking of another's life must be shown or imputed, as is sometimes the case, by reason of a killing with a deadly weapon, or under circumstances which indicate a reckless indifference to human life: State v. Stitt, 146-643.

4201. Punishment for manslaughter. If any person shall commit the crime of manslaughter he shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state prison for not less than four months nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 3632; Code, s. 1055; 1879, c. 255; R. C., c. 34, s. 24; 4 Hen. VII, c. 13; 1816, c. 918.

What constitutes manslaughter: see State v. Cobb, 177-588; State v. Kennedy, 169-288; State v. Rowe, 155-436; State v. Quick, 150-820; State v. Ramsey, 50-195; State v. Curry, 46-280; State v. Floyd, 51-392; State v. Messoge, 65-480; State v. Harmon, 78-515; State v. Brittain, 89-481; State v. Vines, 93-493; State v. Gaskins, 93-547; State v. Durham, 141-741; State v. Walker, 145-567; see, also, annotations under section 4200. Where one points gun at another, thinking it unloaded, and it goes off and kills, defendant is guilty of manslaughter: State v. Stitt, 146-643; State v. Trollinger, 162-618; also see State v. Limerick, 146-649; State v. Turnage, 138-566. Criminal negligence to constitute manslaughter: State v. Tankersley, 172-955. Running over and killing a person by negligently driving an automobile: State v. McIver, 175-761; State v. Gash, 177-595. Selling intoxicating drink containing poison: State v. Keever, 177-114. Firing a pistol from a train and killing some one: State v. Lance, 149-551. Involuntary manslaughter: State v. Oakley, 176-755. Aiding and abetting in manslaughter: State v. Cloninger, 149-567.

Act of 1909, c. 80, s. 6, does not interfere with the power of the court to imprison a defendant in the state prison: State v. Killian, 173-792.

Where the indictment is for murder, it is error to fail to charge as to manslaughter if the circumstances of the case require it: State v. Merrick, 171-788.

4202. Punishment for second offense of manslaughter. If any person, having been convicted of the crime of manslaughter and sentenced thereon, shall be convicted of a second crime of the like nature, he shall be imprisoned in the state prison not less than five nor more than sixty years; and in every such case of conviction for such second offense, the prior conviction of the same person and sentence thereon may be shown to the court.

Rev., s. 3633; Code, s. 1056; R. C., c. 34, s. 25.

4203. Killing adversary in duel; aiders and abettors declared accessories. If any person fight a duel in consequence of a challenge sent or received, and either of the parties shall be killed, then the survivor, on conviction thereof, shall suffer death; and all their aiders or abettors shall be considered accessories before the fact.

See annotations under section 4411.

As to sending, accepting or bearing a challenge, see s. 4411.

For death as result of wilfully wrecking railroad train, see ss. 4417, 4418.

ART. 8. RAPE AND KINDRED OFFENSES

4204. Punishment for rape. Every person who is convicted of ravishing and carnally knowing any female of the age of twelve years or more by force and against her will, or who is convicted of unlawfully and carnally knowing and abusing any female child under the age of twelve years, shall suffer death.

Rev., s. 3637; Code, s. 1101; R. C., c. 34, s. 5; 18 Eliz., c. 7; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 2; 1917, c. 29.

Infant under the age of 14 years cannot commit the crime of rape, nor be guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape: State v. Sam, 60-293; State v. Pugh, 52-61.

Carnal knowledge of married woman by personating her husband not rape: State v. Brooks, 76-1; see section 4207.

To carnally know and abuse a female child under the age of ten years is rape, irrespective of consent: State v. Goldston, 103-323; State v. Johnson, 76-209.

Crime not complete where genital organs only injured and abused, but the least penetration is sufficient: State v. Monds, 130-697; State v. Hargrave, 65-466.

If prosecutrix offered to have connection with prisoner upon certain terms, and he attempts to force connection without complying with the terms of the offer, he is guilty of rape if he succeeds, and assault with intent to commit rape if he does not succeed: State v. Long, 93-542.

One who, by threatening to kill, compels his wife to submit to, and another man to attempt, sexual connection, is guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape upon his wife: State v. Dowell, 106-722.

A female who aids and abets a male assailant in an attempt to commit rape upon a female child becomes a principal in the offense: State v. Hairston, 121-580; State v. Jones, 83-605.

Where evidence shows girl raped by defendant several times, state need not make election until its testimony closed: State v. Parish, 104-679.

INDICTMENT. The word "her" sufficiently indicates that person ravished was a female: State v. Terry, 20-289; State v. Farmer, 26-224. Necessary to charge that the act was done "feloniously": State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Goldston, 103-323; State v. Scott, 72-461. Must allege that the act was done "forcibly and against her will" or words equivalent: State v. Marsh, 132-1000; State v. Peak, 130-713; State v. Powell, 106-635; State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Jim, 12-142. Not necessary to state that the female ravished was above the age of ten years; but if the female is under age of ten years, such fact should appear: State v. Farmer, 26-224; State v. Storkey, 63-7. If child under ten years is forcibly ravished, her age need not be set out; but if she consents, her age must be set out: State v. Johnson, 100-494. Not necessary to charge that prisoner "ravished" the child if she is under ten years of age: State v. Smith, 61-302. Two persons may be jointly indicted for rape: State v. Jordan, 110-491.

EVIDENCE. Sufficiency of: State v. Dancy, 83-608; State v. Johnson, 76-209. Character of woman competent: State v. Jefferson, 28-305; State v. Hairston, 121-579; State v. Freeman, 100-429—incompetent evidence, when, State v. Arnold, 146-602; State v. Jefferson, 28-305; State v. Hairston, 121-579. Expert testimony as to age of child ravished admissible: State v. Smith, 61-302—and family Bible also admissible to prove age of child, State v. Hairston, 121-579. Long silence on part of female is not presumption, but is matter of fact to be passed upon by jury: State v. Peter, 53-19. Fact that prosecutrix did not tell her aunt, whom she met soon after the occurrence, does not entitle defendant to instruction that her testimony should be disregarded: State v. Marshall, 61-49. Competent for prosecutrix to testify that she told her husband immediately after assault: State v. Stines, 138-687. Proof of emission of seed not necessary; proof of penetration only necessary: State v. Storkey, 63-7; State v. Hodges, 61-231—as the least penetration only is necessary, State v. Monds, 130-697; State v. Hargrave, 65-466.

Failure to make outcry is evidence in favor of defendant: State v. Smith, 138-700; State v. Stines, 138-687.

Where prisoner sets up defense that he was under fourteen years when alleged offense committed, burden is on him to prove it, and jury may look on him and judge his age from his appearance: State v. McNair, 93-628.

Evidence that witness near by called to prosecutrix at time of alleged assault is competent as showing that she knew witness was near: State v. Huff, 136-679. Defendant had right to cross-examine prosecutrix as to contents of letter written by her to him after alleged rape for purpose of showing that sexual relations between them were voluntary on her part: State v. Hayes, 138-660—and this is so even though letter be offered in evidence, Ibid. Fact that prosecutrix followed prisoner into woods is not conclusive evidence of consent: State v. Marshall, 61-49.

4205. Punishment for assault with intent to commit rape. Every person convicted of an assault with intent to commit a rape upon the body of any female shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than one nor more than fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3638; Code, s. 1102; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 3; R. C., c. 107, s. 44; 1823, c. 1229; 1917, c. 162, s. 1.

Where prisoner made an assault with an intent to commit rape, and then desisted, he is guilty of the assault: State v. Elick, 52-68.

Infant under age of 14 years cannot commit rape, nor be guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape: State v. Sam, 60-293; State v. Pugh, 52-61.

Woman may be guilty of rape or assault with intent to commit rape by being present, aiding and abetting a man: State v. Hairston, 121-579; State v. Jones, 83-605.

One who, by threatening to kill, compels his wife to submit to, and another man to attempt, sexual connection, is guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape upon his wife: State v. Dowell, 106-722.

If prosecutrix offered to have sexual connection with prisoner upon certain terms, and he attempts to force the connection without complying with the terms of the offer, he is guilty of rape if he succeeds, and of an assault with intent to commit rape if he does not succeed: State v. Long, 93-542.

Superior court may convict a person, charged with an assault hereunder, of simple assault: State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Reaves, 85-553; State v. Perkins, 82-681.

Offense hereunder was a misdemeanor until section 4171 was enacted: State v. Perkins, 82-681.

INDICTMENT. In an indictment for an assault with intent to commit rape, the word "intent" is not necessary if other sufficient words are used, as "attempt": State v. Hewett, 158-627, overruling State v. Martin, 14-329, and State v. Goldston, 103-323. Necessary to charge that assault was "felonious": State v. Jesse, 19-297. A charge that assault was made with "intention" to commit rape, good: State v. Tom, 47-414. Necessary to charge that the assault was made with intent to "feloniously" ravish and carnally know: State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Scott, 72-461. Must allege that the assault was "forcible and against her will" or words equivalent: State v. Powell, 106-635; State v. Marsh, 132-1000; State v. Peak, 130-713; State v. Johnson, 67-55; State v. Jim, 12-142. Not necessary to state the age of the female in the bill: State v. Staton, 88-654—nor to state that accused is a male person: State v. Tom, 47-414.

EVIDENCE. Sufficient to be submitted to jury: State v. Arnold, 146-602; State v. Garner, 129-536; State v. Page, 127-512; State v. Daniel, 87-507; State v. Boon, 35-244. Sufficient to be left to jury as to intent: State v. Mitchell, 89-521. Not sufficient to be submitted to jury: State v. Massey, 86-658 (overruling State v. Neely, 74-425); State v. DeBerry, 123-703; State v. Jeffreys, 117-743. Proof of an assault with intent to abuse and carnally know a female under ten years of age sufficient: State v. Staton, 88-654; State v. Dancy, 83-608; State v. Johnson, 76-209. As to virtue of prosecutrix, competent: State v. Daniel, 87-507; State v. Arnold, 146-602. Long silence of female does not raise presumption in favor of defendant, but is matter for the jury: State v. Peter, 53-19. "Intent" must be established beyond a reasonable doubt: State v. DeBerry, 123-703—and the intent must be to gratify one's passion notwithstanding resistance of woman, State v. Jeffreys, 117-743.

4206. Emission not necessary to constitute rape and buggery. It shall not be necessary upon the trial of any indictment for the offenses of rape, carnally knowing and abusing any female child under twelve years old, and buggery, to prove the actual emission of seed in order to constitute the offense, but the offense shall be completed upon proof of penetration only.

Rev., s. 3639; Code, s. 1105; 1860-1, c. 30; 1917, c. 29.

Proof of emission of seed necessary before this section: State v. Gray, 53-170. The fact of penetration essential, but no particular form of words necessary to establish it: State v. Hodges, 61-231; State v. Storkey, 63-7—and the least penetration is sufficient, State v. Hargrave, 65-466; State v. Monds, 130-697; State v. Hodges, 61-231.

4207. Obtaining carnal knowledge of married woman by personating husband. If any person shall have carnal knowledge of any married woman by fraud in personating her husband, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison at hard labor for not less than ten nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 3624; Code, s. 1103; 1881, c. 89, s. 1.

"Fraud in personating husband" need not be in words, but "acts and conduct" are sufficient: State v. Williams, 128-573. Does not amount to rape: State v. Brooks, 76-1.

4208. Attempted carnal knowledge of married woman by personating husband. Every person convicted of an assault upon any married woman, with intent to have knowledge of her by fraud in personating her husband, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison at hard labor for not less than five nor more than fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3625; Code, s. 1104; 1881, c. 89, s. 2.

Does not amount to attempt to commit rape: State v. Brooks, 76-1.

4209. Obtaining carnal knowledge of virtuous girls between twelve and fourteen years old. If any person shall unlawfully carnally know or abuse any female child over twelve and under fourteen years old, who has never before had sexual intercourse with any person, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be fined or imprisoned in the state's prison, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3348; 1895, c. 295; 1917, c. 29.

See generally: State v. Monds, 130-697. Punishment is in discretion of court: State v. Rippey, 127-516. Man and woman may be both guilty of abusing and carnally knowing a female child: State v. Hairston, 121-580. Family Bible competent evidence to prove age of child: Ibid.

ART. 9. ASSAULTS

4210. Malicious castration. If any person, of malice aforethought, shall unlawfully castrate any other person, or cut off, maim or disfigure any of the privy members of any person, with intent to murder, maim, disfigure, disable or render impotent such person, the person so offending shall suffer imprisonment in the state's prison for not less than five nor more than sixty years.

Rev., s. 3627; Code, s. 999; R. C., c. 34, s. 4; 1831, c. 40, s. 1; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 6.

See generally: State v. Girgin, 23-121; State v. Skidmore, 87-509. Malice aforethought is express or to be implied from circumstances: State v. Irwin, 2-112. Previous threats inadmissible: State v. Skidmore, 87-509; State v. Norton, 82-628.

Rev., s. 3626; Code, s. 1000; R. C., c. 34, s. 47; 1754, c. 56; 1791, c. 339, ss. 2, 3; 1831, c. 40, s. 2.

See generally: State v. Girgin, 23-121; State v. Skidmore, 87-509. What constitutes "maim" hereunder: State v. Girgin, 23-121. Not necessary to prove malice aforethought hereunder: Ibid. Malice aforethought is express or to be implied from circumstances, as also is intent to maim: State v. Irwin, 2-112; State v. Evans, 2-325. When during fight defendant bit off opponent's ear, burden is on defendant to show that it was done in self-defense: State v. Skidmore, 87-509.

Indictment must state the offense to have been done "on purpose": State v. Ormond, 18-119. Indictment for biting off ear, not necessary to state which ear: State v. Green, 29-39.

Previous threats are not admissible: State v. Skidmore, 87-509; State v. Norton, 82-628. Prima facie case made out when act is proved or admitted: State v. Evans, 2-281; State v. Girgin, 23-121; State v. Skidmore, 87-509; State v. Crawford, 13-425. Section cited in State v. Miller, 75-77.

4212. Malicious maiming. If any person shall, of malice aforethought, unlawfully cut out or disable the tongue or put out an eye of any other person, with intent to murder, maim or disfigure, the person so offending, his counselors, abettors and aiders, knowing of and privy to the offense, shall, for the first offense, be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, and be fined, in the discretion of the court; and for the second offense shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than five nor more than sixty years.

Rev., s. 3636; Code, s. 1080; R. C., c. 34, s. 14; 1754, c. 56; 1791, c. 339, s. 1; 1831, c. 12; 22 and 23 Car. II, c. 1 (Coventry Act).

What constitutes maiming: State v. Girgin, 23-121.

"Malice aforethought," meaning of, under act 1791: State v. Crawford, 13-425; State v. Evans, 2-281. Malice aforethought is express or to be implied from circumstances: State v. Irwin, 2-112. Intent presumed from act, unless rebutted: State v. Crawford, 13-425; State v. Girgin, 23-121; State v. Skidmore, 87-509. Intent may be implied from circumstances: State v. Irwin, 2-112.

Count in indictment hereunder cannot be joined with count for assault and battery: State v. Bridges, 5-134. Indictment need not state which ear injured: State v. Green, 29-39.

4213. Maliciously assaulting in a secret manner. If any person shall in a secret manner maliciously commit an assault and battery with any deadly weapon upon another by waylaying or otherwise, with intent to kill such other person, notwithstanding the person so assaulted may have been conscious of the presence of his adversary, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in jail or in the penitentiary for not less than twelve months nor more than twenty years, or by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3621; 1887, c. 32; 1919, c. 25.

Section includes all assaults committed in a secret manner: State v. Shade, 115-757. Meaning of words "or otherwise in a secret manner": State v. Jennings, 104-774; State v. Shade, 115-759. "In secret manner" means that the person assaulted was unconscious of the presence as well as the purpose of his adversary: State v. Gunter, 116-1068; State v. King, 120-612; State v. Harris, 120-577; State v. Patton, 115-756; State v. Jennings, 104-774 (changed by act of 1919, c. 25). Although indictment omits the words "by waylaying or otherwise," it is sufficient: State v. Shade, 115-757; see, also, State v. Gunter, 116-1068.

Malice defined: State v. Knotts, 168-173. A secret assault upon two persons at the same time may be charged in the bill: Ibid. All who are present aiding and abetting are guilty: Ibid.

Sufficient evidence of secret assault: State v. Bridges, 178-733. Evidence sufficient as to aiding and abetting: State v. Chastain, 104-900—sufficient as to identity, State v. Telfair, 109-878. In a prosecution for secret assault it is not necessary to prove a motive for the crime, but it may be shown to ascertain the identity of the defendant: State v. Carmon, 145-481.

Indictment for assault in secret manner, verdict may be for simple assault: State v. Jennings, 104-774.

4214. Assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill resulting in injury. Any person who assaults another with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, and inflicts serious injury not resulting in death, shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison or be worked on the county roads for a period not less than four months nor more than ten years.

4215. Punishment for assault. In all cases of an assault, with or without intent to kill or injure, the person convicted shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that where no deadly weapon has been used and no serious damage done, the punishment in assaults, assaults and batteries, and affrays shall not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days; but this proviso shall not apply to cases of assault with intent to kill or with intent to commit rape, or to cases of assault or assault and battery by any man or boy over eighteen years old on any female person.

Rev., s. 3620; Code, s. 987; 1870-1, c. 43, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 6; 1879, c. 92, ss. 2, 6; 1911, c. 193.

As to punishment of offense hereunder, see State v. Battle, 130-655; State v. Hight, 124-845; State v. Holmes, 118-1201; State v. Haynie, 118-1265; State v. Roseman, 108-765; State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Norwood, 93-578; State v. Warren, 92-825; State v. Driver, 78-423. No imprisonment in penitentiary for assault with deadly weapon: State v. Smith, 174-804. The last proviso in this section makes the punishment greater than in other cases of assault: State v. Love, 166-411. Compare, as to punishment, under act of 1870-71, ch. 43: State v. Heideburg, 70-496; In re Schenck, 74-607; State v. McNeill, 75-15; State v. Miller, 75-73.

ELEMENTS OF ASSAULT. An assault is a demonstration of hostility that puts the prosecutor in fear and causes him to leave a place at which he has a right to be sooner than he would otherwise have done, or to desist from doing what he has the right to do: State v. Horne, 92-805; State v. Marsteller, 84-726; State v. Rawles, 65-334; State v. Shipman, 81-513; State v. Church, 63-15; State v. Hampton, 63-13; State v. Morgan, 25-186—is where an unequivocal purpose of violence is accompanied by an act which, if not stopped or diverted, will be followed by personal injury, State v. Daniel, 136-574; State v. Jeffreys, 117-743; State v. Reavis, 113-677; State v. Vannoy, 65-532; State v. Davis, 23-125—is an offer or attempt by violence to do an injury to person of another, State v. Scott, 142-582; State v. Leggett, 104-784; State v. Horne, 92-805; State v. Crow, 23-375; State v. Martin, 85-508; State v. Marsteller, 84-726; State v. Millsaps, 82-549; State v. Shipman, 81-513; State v. Vannoy, 65-532; State v. Rawles, 65-334. The touching of the person of another in anger or against his will may constitute an assault, but the intent with which it is done is material: State v. Hemphill, 162-632. Discussion of the distinction between ‘attempts to strike’ and ‘offer to strike’ and between effect of words used where an ‘offer to strike’ is made with deadly weapon or without one: State v. Myerfield, 61-108.

It is not an assault where there is an apparent present purpose not to strike: State v. Crow, 23-375—and it is only a menace of violence where one engages in loud and angry talk without offering to use weapons, and causes no one to alter his course, see State v. Daniel, 136-576; State v. Millsaps, 82-549; State v. Mooney, 61-434.

An indiscriminate assault upon several persons is an assault upon each: State v. Merritt, 61-134. An assault by one, others being present and abetting, all may be found guilty: Ibid.

Jailer guilty of assault where he cruelly beat a female prisoner: State v. Roseman, 108-765. One who strikes another is guilty unless he justifies upon ground of self-defense: State v. Gibson, 32-214. One who threateningly places his open hand on another’s breast and pushes him down is guilty: State v. Baker, 65-332.

Where the facts of the fight are such that, had defendant killed prosecutor, he would have been guilty of manslaughter, defendant is guilty of assault and battery: State v. Leary, 88-615.

Members of a voluntary association who, during a ceremony expelling a member according to the rules, suspend him from the wall by means of a cord against his will, are guilty: State v. Williams, 75-134.

Druggist who sells to customer medicine for the purpose of being given another as a trick, which inconveniences or injures him, is guilty: State v. Monroe, 121-677—and it is not necessary that the medicine be poisonous or deadly, Ibid.

Police officer is judge of amount of force necessary to be applied to suppress fights, and he is not guilty unless he uses his power wantonly or maliciously or unnecessarily: State v. Pugh, 101-737.

Where two men go toward a man, cursing him and threatening him, and he runs to save himself from being beaten, the two men are guilty of assault: State v. Jones, 118-1237; State v. Rawls, 65-334.

As to right to resist officers without legal right to make arrest, see State v. Queen, 66-615; State v. Briggs, 25-357; State v. Brittain, 25-17; State v. Worley, 33-242. See State v. Dula, 100-423. Where defendant in attempting to get away intentionally tripped up one in whose custody he was lawfully placed, he is guilty of assault: State v. Hedrick, 95-624. If officer, in pursuit of one who has escaped who is charged with a misdemeanor, fires his pistol when within 30 feet of fugitive, he is guilty of assault, whether he intended to hit the fugitive or to cause him to stop: State v. Sigman, 106-728.

A person may lawfully use so much force as is reasonably necessary to protect his property or to retake it when it has been wrongfully taken by another, or is withheld without authority: State v. Scott, 142-582; State v. Burke, 82-551; State v. Taylor, 82-554—but if he use more force than is required for the purpose he will be guilty of an assault, State v. Scott, 142-582; State v. Crook, 133-675; State v. Goode, 130-651; see State v. Taylor, 82-554—for human life must not be endangered or great bodily harm threatened, except, perhaps, in urgent cases; moderate means must be first used, State v. Scott, 142-582. He has no right to take his stock in the pound by violence, even though town ordinance invalid: State v. Black, 109-856.

As to use of deadly weapon to repel a simple assault, see State v. Hill, 141-769. Wife can fight in defense of husband, but cannot use excessive force unless circumstances demand it for his defense: State v. Bullock, 91-614. Wife who assaults third person in presence of husband is presumed to act under his constraint, and this must be rebutted: State v. Williams, 65-398.

RIGHTS OF TEACHER OR PARENT TO PUNISH CHILD. There is a presumption that teacher exercised his authority correctly in whipping pupil: State v. Thornton, 136-610.

Teacher has a discretionary power in punishing pupils and is the judge when punishment is necessary and the degree of punishment: State v. Stafford, 113-635; State v. Thornton, 136-610—and they are not criminally responsible unless punishment is such as to occasion permanent injury, or inflicted merely to gratify malice or evil passion: State v. Pendergrass, 19-365; State v. Thornton, 136-610; State v. Long, 117-791; State v. Stafford, 113-635.

Warrant charging teacher with immoderate punishment, but setting out no facts showing serious damage, is for a simple assault: State v. Thornton, 136-610—and indictment alleging simply that “bruises” were inflicted does not take case out of justice’s jurisdiction, State v. Stafford, 113-635.

Indictment need not set forth the quo animo of the teacher: Ibid.

Parent not guilty of assault and battery in whipping child, however severe and unmerited, unless permanent injury results or unless whipping done through malice or dishonest motive: State v. Jones, 95-588.

As to the right of those standing in relation of parent to punish child, see State v. Bost, 125-707; State v. Alford, 68-322.

HUSBAND AND WIFE; ASSAULT BY ONE ON OTHER. In determining whether husband guilty of assault and battery on wife, the criterion is the effect produced and not the manner of producing it or the instrument used: State v. Rhodes, 61-453.

Husband cannot be convicted of a battery on his wife unless such excessive violence or cruelty as indicates malignity or vindictiveness, and it makes no difference that they are living separate by agreement: State v. Black, 60-262. Instances of excessive cruelty: State v. Oliver, 70-60—of serious damage done, State v. Huntley, 91-617.

Husband and wife competent witnesses against each other in cases where one assaulted received serious injury or where weapon used showed malice: State v. Davidson, 77-522; State v. Hussey, 44-123.

JURISDICTION. Justice of the peace has jurisdiction of simple assault where no deadly weapon used or serious damage inflicted: State v. Johnson, 94-863; see section 1481.

Superior court has exclusive original jurisdiction of assaults with deadly weapons: State v. Roseman, 108-766; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Murphy, 101-701; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-774; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults where serious damage done, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults with intent to commit rape, State v. Taylor, 84-773; State v. Moore, 82-659—of assaults with intent to kill, Ibid. In a charge of assault with intent to commit rape under laws 1911, c. 193, it is not necessary to allege the age of defendant: State v. Smith, 157-578.

Superior court has jurisdiction concurrent with justice’s court of affrays committed within one mile of place of the sitting of court: State v. Battle, 130-656; State v. Bowers, 94-910—and has jurisdiction as to both offenders where in an affray a deadly weapon is used, State v. Coppersmith, 88-614.

Where indictment charges assault with deadly weapon, or other offense of which superior court has jurisdiction, and proof shows simple assault, or other lesser degree of offense, jurisdiction of superior court not ousted: State v. Fritz, 133-725; State v. Price, 111-705; State v. Roseman, 108-765; State v. Fesperman, 108-770; State v. Porter, 101-715; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Johnson, 94-863; State v. Cunningham, 94-824; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Speller, 91-526; State v. Ray, 89-587; State v. Reeves, 85-553—though charge of simple assault in indictment would give superior court prima facie jurisdiction, and burden is on defendant to show twelve months had not elapsed since commission of offense and before superior court took jurisdiction, State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Fesperman, 108-771; State v. Porter, 101-714; State v. Earnest, 98-743; State v. Moore, 82-662.

Objection to jurisdiction is a matter of defense and may be taken advantage of under plea of not guilty: State v. Reeves, 85-553; State v. Berry, 83-604; State v. Taylor, 83-601; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663. If justice had no jurisdiction, the superior court will have none where the trial is on the warrant: State v. Wiseman, 131-795.

Justice has exclusive original jurisdiction of affrays where no deadly weapon used or serious damage done: State v. Shields, 78-417; State v. Davis, 65-298. Affray is cognizable in superior court as to both defendants where deadly weapon used by either: State v. Coppersmith, 88-614.

It is not necessary in this case that bill found by grand jury for assault and battery should aver that deadly weapon was used: State v. Taylor, 83-601—that any serious damage done, Ibid.—that six (now twelve) months had elapsed before finding of bill, and no justice had taken jurisdiction, Ibid.; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663—or that offense was committed within one mile of court during session thereof, State v. Taylor, 83-601—but where jury by special verdict finds that assault was committed within six (now twelve) months next before finding of indictment, jurisdiction of superior court ousted, State v. Berry, 83-603.

“DEADLY WEAPON.” What is a deadly weapon: State v. Beal, 170-764. A deadly weapon is not one that must or may kill, but one which would likely produce death by manner of its use by defendant: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Huntley, 91-617—some being deadly per se, others owing to manner of their use become deadly, State v. Archbell, 139-537; State v. Huntley, 91-617—but a club is ex vi termini a deadly weapon, State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713—as is also an axe, State v. Shields, 110-497—and court will take judicial notice that a pistol is also a deadly weapon, State v. Swann, 65-330.

Whether weapon used is a deadly weapon is a question of law for the court where there is no dispute about the facts concerning its character, size, etc.: State v. Sinclair, 120-603; State v. Norwood, 115-789; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Speaks, 94-865; State v. Huntley, 91-617; State v. West, 51-505; State v. Collins, 30-407; State v. Craton, 28-164—and in determining the question, the size, nature and manner of use of weapon, and size and strength of assailant, and person upon whom it is used should be considered, State v. Sinclair, 120-603—as a gun or a penknife may, under certain circumstances, both be deadly weapons, Ibid.—for even a pin is a deadly weapon where it is pushed down the throat of an infant, producing death, State v. Norwood, 115-789. Where the deadly character of the weapon is to be determined by the relative size and condition of the parties and the manner in which it is used, it is proper and necessary to submit the matter to jury with proper instructions: State v. Archbell, 139-537.

“SERIOUS DAMAGE DONE.” It is necessary to describe the serious damage done, its character and extent, so that court can see from face of indictment that the damage was serious: State v. Battle, 130-657; State v. Stafford, 113-635; State v. Phillips, 104-786; State v. Porter, 101-713; State v. Shelly, 98-673; State v. Earnest, 98-740; State v. Russell, 91-624; State v. Moore, 82-659. “Serious damage” must be such physical injury as gives rise to great bodily pain: State v. Nash, 109-824—and also damage to the peace, good order, decencies and proprieties of society, State v. Huntley, 91-620.

INDICTMENT. Where six months (now twelve) had elapsed before indictment found, not necessary to aver that deadly weapon used, that serious damage was done, that six months (now twelve) had elapsed before the finding of the bill, and not necessary to aver that committed within one mile of courthouse during session in order to preserve the jurisdiction of superior court: State v. Taylor, 83-601; State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hopper, 82-663. The fact that indictment was found within six months of commission of offense is matter of defense under plea of not guilty: State v. Moore, 82-659; State v. Hooper, 82-663; State v. Taylor, 83-601.

A prosecution for simple assault may be tried in superior court on justice’s warrant without indictment: State v. Thornton, 136-610.

But if indictment was found within six months (now twelve) of commission of offense, it is necessary to state, to preserve jurisdiction of superior court, that assault was made with deadly weapon, or that serious damage was done: State v. Shelly, 98-673.

Where serious damage done it is necessary to describe its character and extent: State v. Battle, 130-657, and cases there cited: State v. Russell, 91-624. For assault with intent to kill, not necessary to describe instrument used by assailant: State v. Gainus, 86-632.

An indictment of a policeman need not state his official character: State v. Belk, 76-10.

Use of words “an axe” ex vi termini imports use of deadly weapon: State v. Shields, 110-497—as does also the use of the word “club,” State v. Phillips, 104-786. Where several counts are drawn to present different phases, court will not compel an election: Ibid. An indictment against a teacher for assaulting a pupil need not state the quo animo: State v. Stafford, 113-635.

JUSTIFICATION AND DEFENSE. One who by his conduct provokes an assault cannot defend on the ground of self-defense: State v. Shields, 110-497; State v. Bryson, 60-476; State v. Lawhorn, 88-634; State v. Perry, 50-9. An assault in retaliation for a blow previously received cannot be justified: State v. Gibson, 32-214.

It is not one's belief that he is about to be stricken that will justify striking first, but a belief founded on reasonable grounds: State v. Bryson, 60-476—and whether the grounds were reasonable should be submitted to the jury, State v. Hill, 141-769.

When one armed with a deadly weapon enters the house of another and stands his ground defiantly, the occupant may resort to force, and the doctrine of molliter manus does not apply: State v. Taylor, 82-554. Where tenant assaults landlord with a deadly weapon while landlord is collecting advancements out of crop, and landlord knocks him down with a stick, landlord is not guilty: State v. Burwell, 63-661. But the same act cannot be self-defense and excess of force: State v. Jones, 77-520.

The judge should not instruct the jury that defendant is guilty on his own evidence, when the jury might have found from the evidence that he acted in self-defense: State v. Green, 134-658; State v. Nash, 88-618.

One who accompanies an officer in discharge of his duty has the same protection as the officer: State v. James, 80-371.

EVIDENCE. Previous threats made by the prosecutor against defendant are not admissible: State v. Skidmore, 87-509; State v. Kimbrell, 151-702, and cases cited. Proving identity of person committing the offense: State v. Burton, 94-947; State v. Griffis, 25-504.

Where evidence that correction inflicted by master upon apprentice was excessive, evidence of bad character of apprentice is not admissible: State v. Dickerson, 98-708.

On an indictment for an affray, one defendant may be examined as a witness against the other: State v. Weaver, 93-595; State v. Frizell, 111-722. Husband and wife competent witnesses to prove an assault upon one by the other: State v. Davidson, 77-522; State v. Hussey, 44-123.

4216. Assaulting by pointing gun. If any person shall point any gun or pistol at any person, either in fun or otherwise, whether such gun or pistol be loaded or not loaded, he shall be guilty of an assault, and upon conviction of the same shall be fined, imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3622; 1889. c. 527.

Pointing pistol at another with the hand and pistol inside of coat pocket makes defendant guilty: State v. Atkinson, 141-734. When one points a gun at another under circumstances which would not excuse its discharge, and death ensues, defendant at least guilty of manslaughter: State v. Stitt, 146-643; State v. Limerick, 146-649.

Intimated that party in this case guilty under section 4216: State v. Scott, 142-585.

Section cited in State v. Coble, 177-588; State v. Turnage, 138-568. For assault generally, see under section 4215.

ART. 10. HAZING

4217. Hazing; definition and punishment. It shall be unlawful for any student in any college or school in this state to engage in what is known as hazing, or to aid or abet any other student in the commission of this offense. For the purposes of this section hazing is defined as follows: "to annoy any student by playing abusive or ridiculous tricks upon him, to frighten, scold, beat or harass him, or to subject him to personal indignity." Any violation of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor.

4218. Expulsion from school; duty of faculty to expel. Upon conviction of any student of the offense of hazing, or of aiding or abetting in the commission of this offense, he shall, in addition to any punishment imposed by the court, be expelled from the college or school he is attending. The faculty or governing board of any college or school charged with the duty of expulsion of students for proper cause shall, upon such conviction at once expel the offender, and a failure to do so shall be a misdemeanor.

4219. Certain persons and schools excepted; copy of article to be posted. This article shall not apply to females, nor to schools or colleges not keeping boarders, nor to schools keeping less than ten student boarders. A copy of this article shall be framed and hung or displayed in every college or school to which it applies.

1913, c. 169, s. 3.

4220. Witnesses in hazing trials; no indictment to be founded on self-criminating testimony. In all trials for the offense of hazing any student or other person subpoenaed as a witness in behalf of the state shall be required to testify if called upon to do so: Provided, however, that no student or other person so testifying shall be amenable or subject to indictment on account of, or by reason of, such testimony.

1913, c. 169, s. 8.

ART. 11. KIDNAPPING AND ABDUCTION

4221. Punishment for kidnapping. If any person shall forcibly or fraudulently kidnap any person, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction may be punished in the discretion of the court, not exceeding twenty years in the state's prison.

Rev., s. 3634; 1901, c. 699, s. 1.

State must establish fact that child had been actually carried away, as well as that defendant did it: State v. Harrison, 145-408—and that the carrying away was forcibly or fraudulently done, Ibid. Certain circumstantial evidence held competent in this case: Ibid. Evidence sufficient to convict of kidnapping weak-minded girl: State v. Marks, 178-730.

4222. Enticing minors out of the state for the purpose of employment. If any person shall employ and carry beyond the limits of this state any minor, or shall induce any minor to go beyond the limits of this state, for the purpose of employment without the consent in writing, duly authenticated, of the parent, guardian or other person having authority over such minor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five hundred and not more than one thousand dollars for each offense. The fact of the employment and going out of the state of the minor, or of the going out of the state by the minor, at the solicitation of the person for the purpose of employment, shall be prima facie evidence of knowledge that the person employed or solicited to go beyond the limits of the state is a minor.

Count hereunder may join with count under section 4223: State v. Burnett, 142-577.

4223. Abduction of children. If any one shall abduct or by any means induce any child under the age of fourteen years, who shall reside with its father, mother, uncle, aunt, brother or elder sister, or shall reside at a school, or be an orphan and reside with a guardian, to leave such person or school, he shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the state's prison for a period not exceeding fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3358; Code, s. 973; 1879, c. 81.

See generally: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676. Abduction defined: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676; State v. George, 93-567.

Indictment, sufficiency of: State v. George, 93-567; State v. Burnett, 142-577. Allegation and proof that the taking was "against father's will and without his consent" necessary: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676; State v. George, 93-567.

As to declarations of father of abducted child, see State v. Chisenhall, 106-676. State need not show a want of father's consent, and if it is relied on as defense, burden of proof is upon defendant: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676. Consent of child is no defense: Ibid. Inducement offered child may be simply persuasion: Ibid.

The wife indicted for abduction, whether presumption that she is acting under coercion of her husband applies, see State v. Nowell, 156-648.

Section cited in Howell v. Howell, 162-282; State v. Sullivan, 85-506.

4224. Conspiring to abduct children. If any one shall conspire to abduct, or by any means to induce any child under the age of fourteen years, who shall reside with any of the persons designated in the preceding section, or shall reside at school, to leave such persons or the school, he shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction shall be punished as prescribed in the preceding section: Provided, that no one who may be a nearer blood relation to the child than the persons named in the preceding section shall be indicted for either of said offenses.

"Abduction" defined: State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676; State v. George, 93-567.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. George, 93-567.

As to manner of abduction that makes one guilty hereunder, see State v. Burnett, 142-577; State v. Chisenhall, 106-676.

Effect of proviso: State v. George, 93-567. Section cited in State v. Sullivan, 85-560.

4225. Abduction of married women. If any male person shall abduct or elope with the wife of another, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned not less than one year nor more than ten years: Provided, that the woman, since her marriage, has been an innocent and virtuous woman: Provided further, that no conviction shall be had upon the unsupported testimony of any such married woman.

Rev., s. 3360; 1903, c. 362.

Elopement of the wife is her voluntary act in deserting her husband to go with and cohabit with another man: State v. O'Higgins, 178-708. Testimony of husband as to innocence and virtue of wife: Ibid. Burden of proving the facts under first proviso is upon the State: State v. Connor, 142-700. Evidence as to general character of woman for her virtue is admissible hereunder: Ibid.

ART. 12. ABORTION AND KINDRED OFFENSES

Rev., s. 3618; Code, s. 975; 1881, c. 351, s. 1.

Criminal abortion: State v. Summers, 173-775. It is indictable at common law to administer a noxious drug to produce abortion: State v. Slagle, 82-653. The crime is the advising and procuring the woman to take the drug with the intent: State v. Crews, 128-582. The intent is the material element and not so much the nature of the drug: State v. Shaft, 166-407. The woman is not an accomplice: Ibid.

Form of indictment: State v. Brady, 177-587. Indictment need not set out overt acts used: State v. Crews, 128-582. Indictment charging attempt to kill by administering poisonous drug, and also attempt to produce abortion, is not defective for misjoinder: State v. Slagle, 82-653.

4227. Using drugs or instruments to produce miscarriage or injure pregnant woman. If any person shall administer to any pregnant woman, or prescribe for any such woman, or advise and procure such woman to take any medicine, drug or anything whatsoever, with intent thereby to procure the miscarriage of such woman, or to injure or destroy such woman, or shall use any instrument or application for any of the above purposes, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the jail or state's prison for not less than one year nor more than five years and shall be fined, at the discretion of the court.

The offense is committed by administering any substance with intent to procure an abortion: State v. Shaft, 166-407. See annotations under section 4226.

4228. Concealing birth of child. If any person shall, by secretly burying or otherwise disposing of the dead body of a new-born child, endeavor to conceal the birth of such child, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, such imprisonment to be in the county jail or state's prison, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that the imprisonment in the state's prison shall in no case exceed a term of ten years: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the mother, who may be guilty of the homicide of her child, from being prosecuted and punished for the same according to the principles of the common law. Any person aiding, counseling or abetting any woman in concealing the birth of her child shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3623; Code, s. 1004; R. C., c. 34, s. 28; 1818, c. 985; 1883, c. 390; 21 Jac. I, c. 27. See 43 Geo. III, c. 58, s. 3; 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, s. 14.

If child be born dead, concealment is not an offense: State v. Joiner, 11-351—and burden is not on state to show it was born alive, but upon defendant to show it was born dead: Ibid. (note, this decision was rendered under statute of 1818, c. 985).

Plea of former conviction on charge of concealment is no defense to charge of murder: State v. Morgan, 95-641.

A sufficient indictment in State v. Stewart, 93-539. See decision rendered under 21 Jac. 1, ch. 27, now repealed: State v. Jeffreys, 7-480.

ART. 13. LIBEL AND SLANDER

4229. Communicating libelous matter to newspapers. If any person shall state, deliver or transmit by any means whatever, to the manager, editor, publisher or reporter of any newspaper or periodical for publication therein any false and libelous statement concerning any person or corporation, and thereby secure the publication of the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3635; 1901, c. 557, ss. 2, 3.

For punishment of libel by newspaper, see section 2430.

4230. Slandering innocent women. If any person shall attempt, in a wanton and malicious manner, to destroy the reputation of an innocent woman by words, written or spoken, which amount to a charge of incontinency, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3640; Code, s. 1113; 1879, c. 156.

For civil action, see section 2432.

See generally: State v. McIntosh, 92-794; State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. McDaniel, 84-803.

Slander of innocent woman is a malicious misdemeanor, and is not barred in two years by section 4512: State v. Claywell, 98-731.

This section has no effect on the awarding of punitive damages in a civil suit for slander of an innocent woman: Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303.

Husband is not indictable for slander of his wife: State v. Edens, 95-693; but see concurring and dissenting opinions in State v. Fulton, 149-485. Divorced husband can be guilty of slandering his divorced wife: State v. Misenheimer, 123-758. One cannot justify his charge by simply showing that he himself had intercourse with prosecutrix, having seduced her: Ibid.

Statements made before a church council are privileged: State v. Misenheimer, 123-758—but not so when made to one's wife, State v. Shoemaker, 101-690.

INCONTINENCY. Necessary to prove that the words amounted to a charge of actual, definitive, illicit sexual intercourse: State v. Moody, 98-671; State v. Brown, 100-519. A charge of intercourse with a male dog is sufficient: State v. Howlin, 128-571. To call a woman a bitch and say "I have a quarter for you" not criminal per se: State v. Harwell, 129-550. Calling an innocent woman "a damned whore" in the presence of a third person is a charge of incontinency: State v. Shoemaker, 101-690. Saying of a woman "she has promised to let me have criminal intercourse with her, and I intend to have that thing," does not amount to a charge of incontinency: State v. Moody, 98-671—nor does saying "if she didn't have a child by that man she missed a good chance," Sowers v. Sowers, 87-303; State v. Benton, 117-788. "That she is no lady, but a crook," is ambiguous and subject to explanation to constitute a charge of incontinence: State v. Howard, 169-312.

INNOCENT WOMAN. A pure woman, one whose character is unsullied: State v. McDaniel, 84-803—one who never had actual illicit intercourse with a man, State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Malloy, 115-737; State v. Brown, 100-519—one who has never had intercourse with a man, although she was surprised in the embraces of a man and prevented from the act, State v. Hinson, 103-374—one who at the time of the slanderous charge and at the time of the trial is chaste and virtuous, although she may have made a slip in her conduct in the past, State v. Grigg, 104-882; State v. Misenheimer, 123-758; see, also, State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Aldridge, 86-680; and see, reviewing this subject, although both cases are prosecutions under another statute, State v. Horton, 100-447; State v. Ferguson, 107-848.

INDICTMENT. Must aver that woman is innocent: State v. McDaniel, 84-805; State v. Aldridge, 86-680—must charge that there was an attempt in a "wanton and malicious" manner to destroy the reputation of an innocent woman, State v. Harwell, 129-550; State v. Mitchell, 132-1033.

Not necessary to set out the circumstances under which the words were spoken, but it is necessary, as well as sufficient, to use the words of the statute: State v. McIntosh, 92-794; State v. Haddock, 109-873. It seems that it is only necessary to allege that the words spoken in substance charged an innocent woman with incontinency: State v. Edens, 95-693.

EVIDENCE. Malice is implied where slanderous charge is made, except in cases of privileged communications: State v. Malloy, 115-737; State v. Hinson, 103-374; State v. Misenheimer, 123-758. Sufficient if it is made to appear that the words spoken amounted to a charge of incontinency and were spoken in the presence of a third person: State v. Shoemaker, 101-690.

Prevalent report of incontinency cannot be shown in defense, but may be shown, after verdict of guilty, to the court in extenuation: State v. Hinson, 103-374. As to expert testimony, see State v. Hinson, 103-374. Defendant bound by the answer of the question whether husband of prosecutrix had had sexual intercourse with prosecutrix before marriage: State v. Morris, 109-820. No presumption that the woman is innocent, and when defendant admits that he spoke the words charged, the burden does not shift to him to show that he has not slandered an innocent woman: State v. Smith, 155-473; State v. McDaniel, 84-803.

Words written or spoken before or after the alleged slander are admissible to show animus; also mode and extent of their repetition: State v. Mills, 116-1051.

Discretionary with judge to allow defendant's counsel to ask prosecutrix questions tending to show reason for her frequent separations from her husband: State v. Morris, 109-820. Error to refuse testimony as to character of woman at time of trial, witness having stated her character up to time of the alleged slander: State v. Spurling, 118-1250.

Where words are admitted to have been spoken and truth is the justification offered, the only question is the innocence of the woman: State v. Malloy, 115-737.

4231. Derogatory statements about banks. Any person who shall willfully and maliciously make, circulate or transmit to another any statement, rumor or suggestion, written, printed or by word of mouth, which is directly or by inference derogatory to the financial condition or affects the solvency or financial standing of any bank, savings bank, banking institution or trust company doing business in this state, or who shall counsel, aid, procure or induce another to start, transmit or circulate any such statement or rumor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

1915, c. 273.

SUBCHAPTER 5. OFFENSES AGAINST THE HABITATION AND OTHER BUILDINGS

ART. 14. BURGLARY AND OTHER HOUSE-BREAKINGS

4232. First and second degree burglary. There shall be two degrees in the crime of burglary as defined at the common law. If the crime be committed in a dwelling-house, or in a room used as a sleeping apartment in any building, and any person is in the actual occupation of any part of said dwelling-house or sleeping apartment at the time of the commission of such crime, it shall be burglary in the first degree. If such crime be committed in a dwelling-house or sleeping apartment not actually occupied by any one at the time of the commission of the crime, or if it be committed in any house within the curtilage of a dwelling-house or in any building not a dwelling-house, but in which is a room used as a sleeping apartment and not actually occupied as such at the time of the commission of the crime, it shall be burglary in the second degree.

Rev., s. 3331; 1889, c. 434, s. 1.

Word "dwelling-house" construed in State v. Foster, 129-704; State v. Williams, 90-724; State v. Pressley, 90-730; State v. Outlaw, 72-598; State v. Potts, 75-129; State v. Mordecai, 68-207; State v. Jake, 60-471; State v. Jenkins, 50-430; State v. Whit, 49-349; State v. Langford, 12-253; State v. Wilson, 2-242.

This section does not authorize conviction for burglary in the second degree when the evidence shows that the house was actually occupied at the time: State v. Johnston, 119-883.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Johnston, 119-883; State v. Cody, 60-197; State v. Halford, 104-874; State v. Outlaw, 72-598—since crime divided into degrees, State v. Johnston, 119-883; State v. Fleming, 107-905. Insufficiency of indictment, State v. McPherson, 70-239. Compare State v. Wise, 67-281, 66-120.

Burglary at common law defined in State v. Jake, 60-471; State v. McDaniel, 60-245; State v. Jenkins, 50-430; State v. Langford, 12-253.

One charged with burglary in first degree may be convicted of burglary in second degree: State v. Fleming, 107-905.

One breaking into a bedroom in a storehouse, where person regularly sleeps and is sleeping, is guilty of first degree burglary: State v. Foster, 129-704—as is also person breaking into the storeroom, where bedroom, connected therewith by a door left open, is regularly occupied and is occupied at time by person, Ibid.

As to felonious intent, see State v. Staton, 133-643; State v. Ellsworth, 130-690; State v. Haynes, 71-79; State v. McDaniel, 60-245; State v. Boon, 35-244.

As to "breaking," see State v. Ellsworth, 130-692; State v. Foster, 129-710; State v. Fleming, 107-905; State v. Rowe, 98-629; State v. Mordecai, 68-207; State v. Willis, 52-190; State v. Johnson, 61-186; State v. Boon, 35-346; State v. Henry, 31-463.

As to houses "within the curtilage of a dwelling-house," etc., see State v. Roper, 88-656; State v. Twitty, 2-102.

As to breaking "in nighttime," see State v. McKnight, 111-690; State v. Whit, 49-349.

Other cases of interest hereunder: State v. Bowden, 175-794; State v. Smarr, 121-669; State v. Alston, 113-666; State v. Drake, 113-624; State v. Ward, 103-419; State v. Queen, 91-660; State v. Powell, 94-965; State v. Drake, 82-592; State v. Davis, 77-490; State v. Wineroff, 76-38; State v. McDonald, 73-346; State v. Graves, 72-482; State v. McPherson, 70-239; State v. Grisham, 2-13.

4233. Punishment for burglary. Any person convicted, according to due course of law, of the crime of burglary in the first degree shall suffer death, and any one so convicted of burglary in the second degree shall suffer imprisonment in the state's prison for life, or for a term of years, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3330; Code, s. 994; 1889, c. 434, s. 2; 1870-1, c. 222.

Under the amendment (act 1889, ch. 434) the power to commute punishment does not reside in the jury: State v. Alston, 113-666; State v. Fleming, 107-905. Section cited in State v. Jones, 69-364.

4234. Breaking out of dwelling-house burglary. If any person shall enter the dwelling-house of another with intent to commit any felony or other infamous crime therein, or being in such dwelling-house, shall commit any felony or other infamous crime therein, and shall, in either case, break out of such dwelling-house in the nighttime, such person shall be guilty of burglary.

Rev., s. 3332; Code, s. 995; R. C., c. 34, s. 8; 12 Anne, c. 7, s. 3.

What constitutes "breaking": State v. Boon, 35-244. Entering chimney: State v. Fleming, 107-905; State v. Willis, 52-190. There is no presumption of law that the breaking occurred in the nighttime rather than in the day: State v. Whit, 49-349.

Indictment must charge the "breaking out": State v. McPherson, 70-239.

Section cited in State v. Peak, 130-713. Compare, as to constructive breaking, State v. Johnson, 61-186; State v. Henry, 31-463.

4235. Breaking into or entering houses otherwise than burglariously. If any person, with intent to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein, shall break or enter either the dwelling-house of another otherwise than by a burglarious breaking; or any storehouse, shop, warehouse, banking-house, counting-house or other building where any merchandise, chattel, money, valuable security or other personal property shall be; or any uninhabited house, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3333; Code, s. 996; 1874-5, c. 166; 1879, c. 323.

See generally: State v. Hughes, 86-662. One charged with burglary may be convicted of the crime created by this section: State v. Fleming, 107-905.

To complete the offense, under this section, "intent" is all that is necessary to accompany breaking: State v. Christmas, 101-749; State v. McBryde, 97-393. The "intent to commit a felony" is held to apply to all the breakings in this section and not alone to the one with which it is closely connected: State v. Spear, 164-452.

Defendant not guilty where act done with consent of owner or his servant: State v. Goffney, 157-624.

Indictment: State v. Peak, 130-713; State v. Ellsworth, 130-690; State v. Christmas, 101-749; State v. Tytus, 98-705; State v. Hooker, 145-581.

Breaking and entering storehouse with intent to steal was no crime at common law: State v. Dozier, 73-117.

An acquittal on prosecution for larceny will not bar a subsequent prosecution for breaking and entering to commit larceny: State v. Hooker, 145-581.

Section cited in State v. Gadberry, 117-831; State v. McKnight, 111-690.

4236. Preparation to commit burglary or other house-breakings. If any person shall be found armed with any dangerous or offensive weapon, with the intent to break or enter a dwelling, or other building whatsoever, and to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein; or shall be found having in his possession, without lawful excuse, any pick-lock, key, bit or other implement of house-breaking; or shall be found in any such building, with intent to commit a felony or other infamous crime therein, such person shall be guilty of a felony and punished by fine or imprisonment in the state's prison, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3334; Code, s. 997; 1907, c. 822.

Indictment: State v. Tytus, 98-705. See, as to common law: State v. Dozier, 73-117.

4237. Breaking into or entering railroad cars. If any person shall, with intent to commit larceny or other felony, break any seal upon a railroad car containing any goods, wares, freight or other thing of value, or shall unlawfully and willfully break or enter into any railroad car containing any goods, wares, freight or other thing of value, such person shall upon conviction be punished by confinement in the penitentiary in the discretion of the court for a term not exceeding five years. Any person found unlawfully in such car shall be presumed to have entered in violation of this section.

1907, c. 468.

ART. 15. ARSON AND OTHER BURNINGS

4238. Punishment for arson. Any person convicted according to due course of law of the crime of arson shall suffer death.

Rev., s. 3335; Code, s. 985; R. C., c. 34, s. 2; 1870-1, c. 222.

See generally: State v. Wise, 66-120, 67-281; State v. Jones, 69-364; State v. Bullock, 63-570.

Constitution of 1868 repealed only the death penalty in R. C., ch. 34, sec. 2: State v. Wright, 89-507; State v. King, 69-419.

As to alleging ownership of property in indictment, see State v. Gailor, 71-88. Indictment for arson at common law: State v. McCarter, 98-637.

Burning necessary to constitute arson: State v. Hall, 93-571; State v. Mitchell, 27-350; State v. Sandy, 25-570. As to intent, see State v. Mitchell, 27-350; State v. McCarter, 98-637. "Dwelling-house" defined: State v. Clark, 52-167.

Indictment charging defendant with burning a dwelling-house occupied by him as "lessee" falls within section 2351 and not under this section: State v. Graham, 121-623.

4239. Burning of certain public and other corporate buildings. If any person shall willfully and maliciously burn the statehouse, or any of the public offices of the state, or any courthouse, jail, arsenal, clerk's office, register's office, or any house belonging to any county or incorporated town in the state or to any incorporated company whatever, in which are kept the archives, documents, or public papers of such county, town or corporation, he shall, on conviction, be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than five nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3344; Code, s. 985, subsec. 3; R. C., c. 34, s. 7; 1830, c. 41, s. 1; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 5.

Burning must be both wilful and malicious: State v. Mitchell, 27-350. If a prisoner burn a part of the jail merely to make his escape, and not with the intent to destroy the building, he is not guilty under this section: State v. Mitchell, 27-350; State v. Laughlin, 53-455.

Section cited in State v. Graham, 121-623; State v. Hall, 93-571; State v. Laughlin, 53-455.

4240. Setting fire to schoolhouse. If any person shall willfully set fire to any schoolhouse, or procure the same to be done, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or the county jail, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3345; 1901, c. 4, s. 28; 1919, c. 70.

Rev., s. 3337; Code, s. 985, subsec. 4; R. C., c. 34, s. 30; 1825, c. 1278.

Section cited in State v. Graham, 121-623.

4242. Setting fire to churches and certain other buildings. If any person shall wantonly and willfully set fire to any church, chapel or meeting-house, or to any stable, coach house, outhouse, warehouse, office, shop, mill, barn or granary, or to any building or erection used in carrying on any trade or manufacture, or any branch thereof, whether the same or any of them respectively shall then be in the possession of the offender, or in the possession of any other person, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than two nor more than forty years.

Rev., s. 3338; 1885, c. 66; 1903, c. 665, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 228; Code, s. 985, subsec. 6.

Effect of act 1885, chapter 66: State v. Massey, 103-356, 97-465; State v. Rogers, 94-860. As to intent under act of 1874-75, see State v. England, 78-552; State v. Jaynes, 78-504. State must show criminal intent: State v. Morgan, 136-628.

Evidence: State v. Freeman, 131-725; State v. Battle, 126-1036; State v. Parker, 109-813; State v. Thompson, 97-496. Evidence sufficient to sustain charge: State v. Arthur, 151-653; State v. Allen, 149-458. Evidence and charge as to "wantonly": State v. Millican, 158-617. Instructions by the judge under this section: State v. Barrett, 151-665.

INDICTMENT. Sufficient charge in bill of indictment under this section: State v. Sprouse, 150-860. Intent: State v. Thompson, 97-496; State v. Rogers, 94-860—"wantonly and willfully," State v. Battle, 126-1036; State v. Pierce, 123-745; State v. Morgan, 98-641; State v. Massey, 97-465—under act 1874-5, State v. Phifer, 90-721; State v. Porter, 90-719; State v. England, 78-552; State v. Jaynes, 78-504—must charge that the offense was done "feloniously," State v. Roper, 88-656. For offense under statute which has been amended since the commission of the offense, see State v. Massey, 97-465. Not necessary to allege that the burned building was in the possession of some person named: State v. Daniel, 121-574.

WORDS OF STATUTE DEFINED. "Shop": State v. Morgan, 98-641. "Barn": State v. Laughlin, 53-354; see, also, State v. Cherry, 63-493; State v. Jim, 53-459; State v. Laughlin, 53-455. "Outhouse": State v. Roper, 88-656.

Section cited in State v. May, 118-1204; State v. Green, 92-783. Compare State v. King, 69-419.

4243. Burning of boats and barges. If any person, with the intent to destroy the same, shall willfully and maliciously, or for a fraudulent purpose, set fire to and burn any boat, barge or float, whether he be the owner thereof or not, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or fined in the discretion of the court.

4244. Burning of gin-houses, tobacco houses and stables. Every person convicted of the willful burning of any gin-house or tobacco house, or any part thereof, or, in the nighttime, of any stable containing a horse or a mule, or cattle, shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than two nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3341; 1863, c. 17; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 5; 1903, c. 665, s. 1; Code, s. 985, subsec. 2.

Indictment; sufficiency of: State v. Rogers, 168-112; State v. Pierce, 123-745; State v. Green, 92-779; State v. Thorn, 81-555—must allege stable to have been burned in the "night-time," State v. England, 78-552. "Burning," defined in State v. Hall, 93-571.

Evidence: State v. England, 78-552; State v. Green, 92-779. Term of imprisonment: State v. Dunn, 86-731.

Section cited in State v. Battle, 126-1036. Compare State v. Keen, 95-646—which has been modified by section 4171.

4245. Fraudulently setting fire to dwelling-houses. If any person, being the occupant of any building used as a dwelling-house, whether such person be the owner thereof or not, or, being the owner of any building designed or intended as a dwelling-house, shall willfully and wantonly or for a fraudulent purpose set fire to such building, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

See State v. Daniel, 121-574.

4246. Attempting to burn dwelling-houses and certain other buildings. If any person shall willfully attempt to burn any dwelling-house, uninhabited house, barn, stable or outhouse, or any mill, manufacturing house, cotton gin, tobacco barn, granary or turpentine distillery, the property of another, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3336; Code, s. 985, subsec. 7; 1876-7, c. 13.

At common law an attempt to commit a felony was a misdemeanor, but under this section an attempt to commit arson is a felony: State v. Stephens, 170-745; State v. Rogers, 168-112—while section 4244 punishes the offense of burning, Ibid. Defendant may be convicted of arson or of an attempt to commit arson: State v. Stephens, 170-745.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Lee, 114-844. As to what is a "dwelling-house" within the section, see State v. Clark, 52-167. As to what is an "outhouse," see State v. Roper, 88-656.

Section cited in State v. Hill, 91-561.

4247. Failure of owner of property to comply with orders of public authorities. If the owner or occupant of any building or premises shall fail to comply with the orders of the chief of the fire department, or of the insurance commissioner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars for each day's neglect.

Rev., s. 3343; 1899, c. 58, s. 4.

4248. Failure of officers to investigate incendiary fires. If any town or city officer shall fail, neglect or refuse to comply with any of the requirements of the law in regard to the investigation of incendiary fires, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and may be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than two hundred dollars.

Rev., s. 3342; 1899, c. 58, s. 5.

For burning woodlands, grass and crops, see this chapter, art. 22.

ART. 16. LARCENY

4249. Distinction between grand and petit larceny abolished. All distinctions between petit and grand larceny, where the same has had the benefit of clergy, are abolished; and the offense of felonious stealing, where no other punishment shall be specifically prescribed therefor by statute, shall be punished as petit larceny is: Provided, that in cases of much aggravation, or of hardened offenders, the court may, in its discretion, sentence the offender to the state's prison for a period not exceeding ten years.

Rev., s. 3500; Code, s. 1075; R. C., c. 34, s. 26.

Effect of this section on section 4250: State v. Brite, 73-26.

Larceny defined: State v. Kirkland, 178-810. Larceny a felony at common law and in North Carolina: State v. Haughton, 63-491. In petty larceny all who participate are principals: State v. Barton, 12-518; State v. Gaston, 73-93; State v. Tyler, 85-569; State v. Fox, 94-928; State v. Stroud, 95-626.

Jurisdiction in superior court: State v. Haughton, 63-491. Section merely cited: State v. Lawrence, 81-525.

Punishment may be imprisonment at common law: State v. Kearzey, 61-481. Punishment under this section: In re Holly, 154-163; State v. Shuford, 152-809.

INDICTMENT. Must allege that the theft was done "feloniously": State v. Haughton, 63-491. Joinder of counts for larceny of a horse at common law and receiving under the statute, permissible: State v. Lawrence, 81-523. Person may be described by any particulars which furnish sufficient identification: State v. Brite, 73-26. Sufficiency of: State v. Fox, 94-928.

EVIDENCE. Declarations of codefendant admissible, although they tend to convict both defendants: State v. Brite, 73-26. Evidence of accomplice sufficient: State v. Stroud, 95-626.

4250. Receiving stolen goods. If any person shall receive any chattel, property, money, valuable security or other thing whatsoever, the stealing or taking whereof amounts to larceny or a felony, either at common law or by virtue of any statute made or hereafter to be made, such person knowing the same to have been feloniously stolen or taken, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be indicted and convicted, whether the felon stealing and taking such chattels, property, money, valuable security or other thing, shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice; and any such receiver may be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in any county in which he shall have, or shall have had, any such property in his possession, or in any county in which the thief may be tried, in the same manner as such receiver may be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in the county where he actually received such chattel, money, security, or other thing; and such receiver shall be punished as one convicted of larceny.

To constitute receiving stolen goods no personal possession of the goods is necessary, but their receipt by an agent is sufficient: State v. Stroud, 95-626. Crime complete even if defendant did not act from motives of gain, but only to aid the thief: State v. Rushing, 69-29.

Evidence: State v. Bethel, 97-459—guilty knowledge, State v. Mincher, 178-698. Intent must be felonious: State v. Caveness, 78-484. Punishment same as for larceny: State v. Brite, 73-26. Section cited: State v. Kittelle, 110-593. Compare as to indictment: State v. Ives, 35-338; State v. Beatty, 61-52.

INDICTMENT. Insufficiency of: State v. Phelps, 65-450. No averment of the person from whom the goods were stolen necessary: State v. Minton, 61-196; State v. Martin, 82-672. A count for larceny, concluding at common law, may be joined with a count for receiving under the statute: State v. Lawrence, 81-522. A count for larceny and one for receiving, to meet the different phases of proof, may be joined: State v. Morrison, 85-561.

VERDICT. Form of verdict: State v. Gregory, 153-646. Sufficiency of: State v. Stroud, 95-626—insufficiency of, State v. Whitaker, 89-472—erroneous where there is a general verdict on two counts of an indictment, one for horse-stealing under the statute and the other for receiving under the statute, as they are offenses of different grades, State v. Johnson, 75-123; State v. Goings, 98-766.

4251. Larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods, not exceeding twenty dollars in value. The larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, of the value of not more than twenty dollars, is hereby declared a misdemeanor, and the punishment therefor shall be in the discretion of the court. If the larceny is from the person, or from the dwelling by breaking and entering, this section shall have no application: Provided, that this section shall not apply to horse stealing. In all cases of doubt the jury shall, in the verdict, fix the value of the property stolen.

See generally: In re Holly, 154-163; State v. Harris, 119-811.

This is a felony, and there must be a conviction in the superior court upon a bill of indictment: State v. Newell, 172-933. As to jurisdiction, see section 4252. As to punishment, see State v. Shuford, 152-809.

Indictment need not aver that property stolen exceeded $20 in value, nor that the taking was neither from the person nor the dwelling, as these are matters of defense: State v. Harris, 119-811; State v. Bynum, 117-749.

Burden is upon defendant to show value of property in diminution of punishment: State v. Dixon, 149-460.

Section cited in State v. Hullen, 133-661.

4252. Jurisdiction of the superior courts in cases of larceny and receiving stolen goods. The superior courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction of the trial of all cases of the larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, of the value of more than twenty dollars.

1913, c. 118, s. 2.

Superior court has exclusive jurisdiction of larceny from the person, without regard to the value: State v. Brown, 150-867.

4253. Larceny by servants and other employees. If any servant or other employee, to whom any money, goods or other chattels, or any of the articles, securities or choses in action mentioned in the following section, by his master shall be delivered safely to be kept to the use of his master, shall withdraw himself from his master and go away with such money, goods or other chattels, or any of the articles, securities or choses in action mentioned as aforesaid, or any part thereof, with intent to steal the same and defraud his master thereof, contrary to the trust and confidence in him reposed by his said master; or if any servant, being in the service of his master, without the assent of his master, shall embezzle such money, goods or other chattels, or any of the articles, securities or choses in action mentioned as aforesaid, or any part thereof, or otherwise convert the same to his own use, with like purpose to steal them, or to defraud his master thereof, the servant so offending shall be fined or imprisoned in the state prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that nothing contained in this section shall extend to apprentices or servants within the age of sixteen years.

Rev., s. 3499; Code, s. 1065; R. C., c. 34, s. 18; 21 Hen. VIII, c. 7, ss. 1, 2.

See generally: State v. Higgins, 1-36; State v. Jarvis, 63-556.

Meaning of "servant": State v. Higgins, 1-36; State v. Fann, 65-317; State v. Costin, 89-511.

Jurisdiction of superior court: State v. Jarvis, 63-556.

INDICTMENT. Must aver that property was received and held by defendant in trust or for the use of the master: State v. Wilson, 101-730. Averment that defendant was not within the age of 18 years, sufficient: State v. Wilson, 101-730.

4254. Larceny of choses in action. If any person shall feloniously steal, take and carry away, or take by robbery, any bank-note, check or other order for the payment of money issued by or drawn on any bank or other society or corporation within this state or within any of the United States, or any treasury warrant, debenture, certificate of stock or other public security, or certificate of stock in any corporation, or any order, bill of exchange, bond, promissory note or other obligation, either for the payment of money or for the delivery of specific articles, being the property of any other person, or of any corporation (notwithstanding any of the said particulars may be termed in law a chose in action), such felonious stealing, taking and carrying away, or taking by robbery, shall be a felony of the same nature and degree and in the same manner as it would have been if the offender had feloniously stolen, or taken by robbery, money, goods or property of any value, and the offender for every such offense shall suffer the same punishment and be subject to the same pains, penalties and disabilities as he should or might have suffered if he had feloniously stolen or taken by robbery money, goods or other property of value.

When possession is presumption of guilt: State v. Jennett, 88-665. Section cited in State v. Wilson, 101-732.

SECTION CONSTRUED. Check drawn by U. S. pension agent on the treasurer is within the act: State v. Bishop, 98-773. "Due bill" is within the act: State v. Campbell, 103-344—but if "due bill" has been paid indictment hereunder will not lie, State v. Campbell, 103-344.

INDICTMENT. Sufficiency of description: State v. Rout, 10-618; State v. Brown, 53-443; State v. Fulford, 61-563; State v. Banks, 61-577; State v. Thompson, 71-146; State v. Bishop, 98-773.

EVIDENCE. That party indicted was seen with bill of unknown denomination is inadmissible: State v. Carter, 72-99. Evidence that defendant stole either treasury note or national bank note not sufficient: State v. Collins, 72-144—but evidence that witness believed he stole the treasury note sufficient, State v. Freeman, 72-521.

4255. Larceny, mutilation, or destruction of public records and papers. If any person shall steal, or for any fraudulent purpose shall take from its place of deposit for the time being, or from any person having the lawful custody thereof, or shall unlawfully and maliciously obliterate, injure or destroy any record, writ, return, panel, process, interrogatory, deposition, affidavit, rule, order or warrant of attorney or any original document whatsoever, of or belonging to any court of record, or relating to any matter, civil or criminal, begun, pending or terminated in any such court, or any bill, answer, interrogatory, deposition, affidavit, order or decree or any original document whatsoever, of or belonging to any court or relating to any cause or matter begun, pending or terminated in any such court, every such offender shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and in any indictment for such offense it shall not be necessary to allege that the article, in respect to which the offense is committed, is the property of any person or that the same is of any value. If any person shall steal or for any fraudulent purpose shall take from the register's office, or from any person having the lawful custody thereof, or shall unlawfully and willfully obliterate, injure or destroy any book wherein deeds or other instruments of writing are registered, or any other book of registration or record required to be kept by the register of deeds, or shall unlawfully destroy, obliterate, deface or remove any records of proceedings of the board of county commissioners, or unlawfully and fraudulently abstract any record, receipt, order or voucher or other paper-writing required to be kept by the clerk of the board of commissioners of any county, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3508; Code, s. 1071; R. C., c. 34, s. 31; 8 Hen. VI, c. 12, s. 3; 1881, c. 17.

Sufficiency of description in indictment: State v. McLeod, 50-318. Sufficient evidence to convict: State v. Gouge, 157-602.

4256. Larceny, concealment or destruction of wills. If any person, either during the life of the testator or after his death, shall steal or, for any fraudulent purpose, shall destroy or conceal any will, codicil or other testamentary instrument, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3510; Code, s. 1072; R. C., c. 34, s. 32.

Rev., s. 3503; Code, s. 1069; 1811, c. 816; R. C., c. 34, s. 21; 1868-9, c. 251.

Indictment will lie against lessee or cropper for secretly appropriating crop where his actual possession has terminated by delivery to the landlord: State v. Copeland, 86-692; State v. Webb, 87-558.

Jurisdiction in superior court: State v. Cherry, 72-123; State v. Graham, 76-195. Evidence, admissibility of: State v. Bragg, 86-668.

Section cited in Flynt v. Conrad, 61-190; State v. Vosburg, 111-718; State v. Buck, 141-829. Compare: State v. Foy, 82-679 (before section 4625).

INDICTMENT. Must allege that product was "cultivated for food or market," unless the article stolen is one of those specifically named in the statute: State v. Liles, 78-496; State v. Thompson, 93-537; State v. Bullard, 97-443—must allege that product was "growing, standing, or ungathered," State v. Bragg, 86-688.

4258. Larceny of ginseng. If any person shall take and carry away, or shall aid in taking or carrying away, any ginseng growing upon the lands of another person, with intent to steal the same, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned not less than two years nor more than five years, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that such ginseng, at the time the same is taken, shall be in beds and the land upon which such beds are located shall be surrounded by a lawful fence.

For digging ginseng, see section 4510.

4259. Larceny of wood and other property from land. If any person, not being the present owner or bona fide claimant thereof, shall willfully and unlawfully enter upon the lands of another, carrying off or being engaged in carrying off any wood or other kind of property whatsoever, growing or being thereon, the same being the property of the owner of the premises, or under his control, keeping or care, such person shall, if the act be done with felonious intent, be guilty of larceny, and punished as for that offense; and if not done with such intent, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3511; Code, s. 1070; 1866, c. 60.

For act as to certain counties, see sections 4307, 4308.

Tenant not estopped to deny landlord's title to timber land not embraced in the portion which he rented: State v. Boyce, 109-739.

This statute embraces only such property as was not subject to larceny at common law: State v. Vosburg, 111-718—therefore does not embrace money, Ibid.—but does embrace brass fixtures on an engine which is attached to freehold, State v. Beck, 141-829.

Accused may show title to be in third person: State v. Boyce, 109-739.

As to sufficiency of indictment hereunder, see State v. Holloway, 117-730; State v. Calloway, 118-864. Sufficient description of property: State v. Caylor, 178-807.

Felonious intent necessary to convict hereunder: State v. Crosset, 81-579. Effect of recent possession: State v. Jennett, 88-665.

Compare, as to jurisdiction: State v. Rice, 83-660.

Rev., s. 3505; Code, s. 1066; 1868, c. 37, s. 1; 1879, c. 234, s. 2; 1866-7, c. 62; 1917, c. 162, s. 2.

One borrowing horse with felonious intent to deprive owner of it, and to appropriate it to his own use, is guilty of larceny: State v. Bryant, 74-124.

Evidence, sufficiency of: State v. Thompson, 95-596. Effect of recent possession: State v. Adams, 2-463; State v. Jennett, 88-665; see State v. Hullen, 133-656.

Compare, as to punishment, State v. Putney, 61-543; State v. Evans, 69-40.

VERDICT. General verdict of guilty on two counts, one charging stealing a horse, under the statute, and the other charging receiving, is error: State v. Johnson, 75-123; State v. Goings, 98-766—but no error where the charge of horse-stealing is made at common law, State v. Lawrence, 81-552.

4261. Taking horses or mules for temporary purposes. If any person shall unlawfully take and carry away any horse, gelding, mare or mule, the property of another person, secretly and against the will of the owner of such property, with intent to deprive the owner of the special or temporary use of the same, or with the intent to use such property for a special or temporary purpose, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3509; Code, s. 1067; 1879, c. 234, s. 1; 1913, c. 11.

Indictment not defective because it charges the stealing of the temporary use of a buggy as well as a horse: State v. Darden, 117-697.

Section cited: Clark v. Whitehurst, 171-1; State v. Thompson, 95-596.

4262. Taking of automobiles and electric vehicles for temporary purpose. If any person shall unlawfully take and carry away any automobile or electrical vehicle of any nature, kind or description whatsoever, the property of another person, secretly and against the will of the owner of such property, with intent to deprive the owner of the special or temporary use of the same, or with the intent to use such property for a special or temporary purpose, the person so offending shall be guilty of larceny, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to repeal any other section of this article.

See annotations under section 4261.

4263. Larceny of taxed dogs misdemeanor. The larceny of any dog upon which the license tax provided in article two of the chapter entitled Dogs has been paid shall be a misdemeanor.

1919, c. 116, s. 9.

See section 1683.

4264. Pursuing or injuring livestock with intent to steal. If any person shall pursue, kill or wound any horse, mule, ass, jennet, cattle, hog, sheep or goat, the property of another, with the intent unlawfully and feloniously to convert the same to his own use, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punishable, in all respects, as if convicted of larceny, though such animal may not have come into the actual possession of the person so offending.

Rev., s. 3504; Code, s. 1068; 1866, c. 57.

See generally: State v. Butler, 65-309. Description as a "certain cattle beast" sufficient in indictment: State v. Credle, 91-640.

Compare, as to defense, State v. Rivers, 90-738.

4265. Local: Killing unmarked livestock with felonious intent. If any person, not being the owner of any unmarked neat cattle, sheep or hogs, shall kill any unmarked neat cattle, sheep or hogs in the range, such person shall, if the act be done with felonious intent, be guilty of larceny and punished as for that offense, and if not done with such intent shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that this section shall apply only to the counties of Haywood, Hyde and Tyrrell.

Rev., s. 3316; 1891, c. 258; 1895, c. 8; 1909, c. 597.

ART. 17. TRAIN ROBBERY

4266. Train robbery. If any person shall enter upon any locomotive engine or car on any railroad in this state, and by threats, the exhibition of deadly weapons or the discharge of any pistol or gun, in or near any such engine or car, shall induce or compel any person on such engine or car to submit and deliver up, or allow to be taken therefrom, or from him, anything of value, he shall be guilty of train robbery, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison for not less than ten years nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 3765; 1895, c. 204, s. 2.

4267. Attempted train robbery. If any person shall stop, or cause to be stopped, or impede, or cause to be impeded, or conspire with others for that purpose, any locomotive engine or car on any railroad in this state, by intimidation of those in charge thereof or by force, threats or otherwise, for the purpose of taking therefrom or causing to be delivered up to such person so forcing, threatening or intimidating, anything of value, to be appropriated to his own use, he shall be guilty of attempting train robbery, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by confinement in the state's prison for not less than two years nor more than twenty years.

Rev., s. 3766; 1895, c. 204, s. 1.

ART. 18. EMBEZZLEMENT

4268. Embezzlement of property received by virtue of office or employment. If any person exercising a public trust or holding a public office, or any guardian, administrator or executor, or any officer or agent of a corporation, or any agent, consignee, clerk or servant, except persons under the age of sixteen years, of any person, shall embezzle or fraudulently or knowingly and willfully misapply or convert to his own use, or shall take, make way with or secrete, with intent to embezzle or fraudulently or knowingly and willfully misapply or convert to his own use any money, goods or other chattels, bank note, check or order for the payment of money issued by or drawn on any bank or other corporation, or any treasury warrant, treasury note, bond or obligation for the payment of money issued by the United States or by any state, or any other valuable security whatsoever belonging to any other person or corporation, which shall have come into his possession or under his care, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished as in cases of larceny.

Rev., s. 3406; Code, s. 1014; 21 Hen. VII, c. 7; 1871-2, c. 145, s. 2; 1889, c. 226; 1891, c. 188; 1897, c. 31; 1919, c. 97, s. 25.

As to jurisdiction, see State v. Blackley, 138-620. Demand not necessary to support a prosecution: Ibid. Review of amendments to the original section in Durham v. Jones, 119-270; State v. Connelly, 104-794. Under this section embezzlement is punishable as larceny, but the offense is not made larceny: State v. Lanier, 88-658, 89-517. Section merely cited in State v. Hill, 91-562; State v. Harper, 94-936.

THE CRIME OF EMBEZZLEMENT. Not a common-law offense: State v. McDonald, 133-682. Embezzlement means not only to appropriate to one's own use, but also to misappropriate fraudulently: State v. Foust, 114-842. The use of funds from one source to meet a default in another transaction is embezzlement: State v. Klingman, 172-947. Distinguished from larceny by fact that in larceny there is necessarily a trespass: State v. McDonald, 133-684. Constituent elements of the crime pointed out in State v. Blackley, 138-620. Intention to restore the property, and even a restoration itself, is not a defense: State v. Summers, 141-841.

One making locust pins out of prosecutor's timber under contract to go halves in profits is not guilty of embezzlement where he sells pins and keeps all the money: State v. Barton, 125-702.

Section does not embrace relation of landlord and tenant: State v. Keith, 126-1114—and landlord selling crop and not accounting to tenant does not make embezzlement, Ibid. The appropriation by defendant does not raise presumption of fraudulent intent: State v. McDonald, 133-680. Property must be that of prosecutor: State v. Barton, 125-702.

Word "servant" defined: State v. Costin, 89-511. Contractor with prosecutor is not an officer, clerk, employee or servant of prosecutor: Ibid.

INDICTMENT. What the indictment should charge: State v. Gullede, 173-746. Need not allege that goods were committed in custody of defendant nor any branch of trust except that growing out of relation of owner and servant or agent: State v. Wilson, 101-730. Must allege that defendant is not an apprentice nor within age of sixteen: State v. Blackley, 138-620; State v. Lanier, 88-658; State v. Wilson, 101-730; State v. Connor, 142-708. Where count for embezzlement contains charge of larceny, charge of larceny will be treated as surplusage: State v. Harris, 106-682. Need not incorporate the words "with force and arms": State v. Harris, 106-682. As to description of property, see State v. Fain, 106-760. Where two charged with embezzlement in one count and one of the two also charged with embezzlement in another count, no misjoinder: State v. Harris, 106-682. Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Foust, 114-842; State v. Harris, 106-682; State v. Fain, 106-760; State v. Wilson, 101-730.

BURDEN OF PROOF. Though appropriation admitted, burden is on state to show felonious intent beyond reasonable doubt: State v. Summers, 141-841; State v. McDonald, 133-680—being the essential element of the crime and peculiarly a question for the jury, State v. Dunn, 138-672; State v. Dewey, 139-556; State v. Summers, 141-841; State v. Blackley, 138-620; State v. McDonald, 133-680. Burden is not on state to prove defendant is not an apprentice nor under age of sixteen, but is on defendant: State v. Blackley, 138-620; State v. Connor, 142-708.

EVIDENCE. Not necessary to prove any breach of trust or confidence except that which grows out of the relation between owner and servant or agent: State v. Wilson, 101-730. Court properly excluded question asked defendant, if he were willing to deposit money alleged to have been embezzled in clerk's office to await result of civil action about the matter: State v. Summers, 141-841.

4269. Embezzlement of state property by public officers and employees. If any officer, agent or employee of the state, or other person having or holding in trust for the same any bonds issued by the state, or any security, or other property and effects of the same, shall embezzle or knowingly and willfully misapply or convert the same to his own use, or otherwise willfully or corruptly abuse such trust, such offender and all persons aiding and abetting, or otherwise assisting therein, shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined not less than ten thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the state's prison not less than twenty years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

See annotations under section 4268. Section cited in State v. Hill, 91-562; State v. Connelly, 104-798.

4270. Embezzlement of funds by public officers and trustees. If any officer, agent, or employee of any city, county or incorporated town, or of any penal, charitable, religious or educational institution; or if any person having or holding any moneys or property in trust for any city, county, incorporated town, penal, charitable, religious or educational institution, shall embezzle or otherwise willfully and corruptly use or misapply the same for any purpose other than that for which such moneys or property is held, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined and imprisoned in the state's prison in the discretion of the court. If any clerk of the superior court or any sheriff, treasurer, register of deeds or other public officer of any county or town of the state shall embezzle or wrongfully convert to his own use, or corruptly use, or shall misapply for any purpose other than that for which the same are held, or shall fail to pay over and deliver to the proper persons entitled to receive the same when lawfully required so to do, any moneys, funds, securities or other property which such officer shall have received by virtue or color of his office in trust for any person or corporation, such officer shall be guilty of a felony. The provisions of this section shall apply to all persons who shall go out of office and fail or neglect to account to or deliver over to their successors in office or other persons lawfully entitled to receive the same all such moneys, funds and securities or property aforesaid. The punishment shall be imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail, or fine in the discretion of the court.

See annotations under section 4268. Section cited in State v. Hill, 91-562. Compare State v. Heaton, 81-542; State v. Connelly, 104-794.

Rev., s. 3409; Code, s. 1017; 1879, c. 105.

See annotations under section 4268. This section creates two offenses, lending money of society without consent, and failure to account for such money: State v. Dunn, 138-672.

Words "benevolent and religious association" and "account" interpreted in State v. Dunn, 134-663. Section cited in State v. Hill, 91-562.

4272. Embezzlement by officers of railroad companies. If any president, secretary, treasurer, director, engineer, agent or other officer of any railroad company shall embezzle any moneys, bonds or other valuable funds or securities, with which such president, secretary, treasurer, director, engineer, agent or other officer shall be charged by virtue of his office or agency, or shall in any way, directly or indirectly, apply or appropriate the same for the use or benefit of himself or any other person, state or corporation, other than the company of which he is president, secretary, treasurer, director, engineer, agent or other officer, for every such offense the person so offending shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction in the superior or criminal court of any county through which the railroad of such company shall pass, shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than three nor more than ten years, and fined not less than one thousand nor more than ten thousand dollars.

For annotations on embezzlement, see under section 4268.

4273. Conspiring with officers of railroad companies to embezzle. If any person shall agree, combine, collude or conspire with the president, secretary, treasurer, director, engineer or agent of any railroad company to commit any offense specified in the preceding section, such person so offending shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction in the superior or criminal court of a county through which the railroad of any company against which such offense may be perpetrated passes, shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than three nor more than ten years, and fined not less than one thousand nor more than ten thousand dollars.

Rev., s. 3404; Code, s. 1019; 1870-1, c. 103, s. 2.

Conspiracy generally; order of proof: State v. Jackson, 82-565. As to jurisdiction, see State v. Lewis, 142-633. Section cited in State v. Hill, 91-562. For annotations as to embezzlement generally, see under section 4268.

4274. Embezzlement by insurance agents and brokers. If any insurance agent or broker who acts in negotiating a contract of insurance by an insurance company, association or fraternal order or society, lawfully doing business in this state, embezzles or fraudulently converts to his own use, or, with intent to use or embezzle, takes, secretes or otherwise disposes of, or fraudulently withholds, appropriates, lends, invests or otherwise uses or applies any money or substitute for money received by him as such agent or broker, contrary to the instructions or without the consent of the company for or on account of which the same was received by him, he shall be deemed guilty of larceny.

4275. Embezzlement by surviving partner. If any surviving partner shall willfully and intentionally convert any of the property, money or effects belonging to the partnership to his own use, and refuse to account for the same on settlement, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the state's prison in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3405; 1901, c. 640, s. 9.

For annotations as to embezzlement generally, see under section 4268.

4276. Embezzlement by tax officers. If any officer appropriates to his own use the state, county, school, city or town taxes, he shall be guilty of embezzlement, and may be punished by confinement in the state's prison not exceeding five years, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3410; Code, s. 3705; 1883, c. 136, s. 49.

See annotations under section 4268. Section cited in State v. Hill, 91-562; State v. Connelly, 104-794.

ART. 19. FALSE PRETENSES AND CHEATS

4277. Obtaining property by false tokens and other false pretenses. If any person shall knowingly and designedly, by means of any forged or counterfeited paper, in writing or in print, or by any false token, or other false pretense whatsoever, obtain from any person or corporation within the state any money, goods, property or other thing of value, or any bank-note, check or order for the payment of money, issued by, or drawn on, any bank or other society or corporation within this state or any of the United States, or any treasury warrant, debenture, certificate of stock or public security, or any order, bill of exchange, bond, promissory note or other obligation, either for the payment of money or for the delivery of specific articles, with intent to cheat or defraud any person or corporation of the same, such person shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than four months nor more than ten years, or fined, in the discretion of the court: Provided, that if, on the trial of any one indicted for such crime, it shall be proved that he obtained the property in such manner as to amount to larceny, he shall not, by reason thereof, be entitled to be acquitted of the felony; and no person tried for such felony shall be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for larceny upon the same facts: Provided further, that it shall be sufficient in any indictment for obtaining or attempting to obtain any such property by false pretenses to allege that the party accused did the act with intent to defraud, without alleging an intent to defraud any particular person, and without alleging any ownership of the chattel, money or valuable security; and, on the trial of any such indictment, it shall not be necessary to prove an intent to defraud any particular person, but it shall be sufficient to prove that the party accused did the act charged with an intent to defraud.

Rev., s. 3432; Code, s. 1025; R. C., c. 34, s. 67; 1811, c. 814, s. 2; 33 Hen. VIII, c. 1, ss. 1, 2; 30 Geo. II, c. 24, s. 1.

CONSTITUENT ELEMENTS OF THE CRIME. False pretense is the false representation of a subsisting fact, calculated to deceive, intended to deceive, and which does deceive, whether it be in writing, words or acts, whereby one man obtains value from another without compensation: State v. Whedbee, 152-770; State v. Davis, 150-851; State v. Phifer, 65-321; State v. Hefner, 84-751; State v. Matthews, 121-604; State v. Mangum, 116-998; State v. Mikle, 94-843; State v. Matthews, 91-636; State v. Dickson, 88-643; State v. Eason, 86-274; State v. Young, 76-258; State v. Moore, 111-667.

Elements of the crime: State v. Carlson, 171-818. A mere lie is not sufficient to make out the crime; there must be a false token or contrivance calculated to deceive the ordinary man: State v. Matthews, 121-604; State v. Fitzgerald, 18-408; State v. Justice, 13-199; State v. Simpson, 10-620—and it must be a false pretense of an existing fact in contradistinction to mere promise or opinion, State v. Knott, 124-814; State v. Daniel, 114-823. Selling articles by short weight: State v. Ice Co., 166-366; s. c., 166-403. The false representation may be made to the agent of the owner of the goods: State v. Taylor, 131-711.

There is no crime where party to whom false pretense made knows it is false or ought to have known it: State v. Whidbee, 124-796; State v. Moore, 111-667. Section does not apply where property obtained under false pretense was land: State v. Burrows, 33-477—where payment is made for goods delivered and change is given in counterfeit coin, State v. Allred, 84-749—where caveat emptor applies, State v. Wilkerson, 103-337; State v. Young, 76-258. But it does apply where property obtained was money, although obtained in a transaction conveying land: State v. Munday, 78-460. Instances of false pretense, see State v. Burke, 108-750; State v. Jones, 70-75.

INDICTMENT. Must state that pretense made was in fact false, and in what respects false: State v. Lambeth, 80-393; State v. Pickett, 78-458; State v. Holmes, 82-607—that defendant knew it was false, State v. Mangum, 116-998; State v. Moore, 111-667—that it was made feloniously, State v. Wilson, 116-979; State v. Bryan, 112-848; State v. Caldwell, 112-854; State v. Howard, 129-584.

Must show connection between the false pretense and the thing of value secured: State v. Whedbee, 152-770—and this connection must be proved, State v. McCloud, 151-730.

Not necessary to allege an intent to defraud any particular person: State v. Ridge, 125-658; State v. Howard, 129-584; State v. Taylor, 131-714—nor the person deceived, State v. Ice Co., 166-366; s. c., 166-403—nor that order used to obtain goods was written or oral, State v. Mikle, 94-843—nor what kind of currency counterfeited and passed for something of value, State v. Boon, 49-463—nor the value of property obtained, State v. Gillespie, 80-396; State v. Boon, 49-463.

Goods obtained by false pretense must be described: State v. Reese, 83-637.

Indictment sufficient in State v. Carlsen, 171-818; State v. Claudius, 164-521; State v. Marsh, 162-603; State v. Ridge, 125-658; State v. Howard, 129-584; State v. Burke, 108-750; State v. Dixon, 101-741; State v. Wilkerson, 98-696; State v. Sherrill, 95-663; State v. Mikle, 94-843; State v. Dixon, 88-643; State v. Eason, 86-674; State v. Hefner, 84-751; State v. Pickett, 78-458; State v. Boon, 49-463—insufficient, State v. Holmes, 82-607; State v. Lambeth, 80-393; State v. Pickett, 78-458; State v. Burrows, 33-477; State v. Fitzgerald, 18-408; State v. Patillo, 11-348.

GENERALLY. See State v. Dixon, 101-741; State v. Phifer, 65-321; State v. Burrows, 33-477. A corporation may violate this section: State v. Ice Co., 166-366; s. c., 166-403.

Sufficiency of evidence: State v. Marsh, 162-603; State v. Taylor, 131-711; State v. Matthews, 121-604; State v. Wilkerson, 98-696; State v. Johnson, 75-123; State v. Jones, 70-75—insufficiency of, State v. Knott, 124-814; State v. Corbett, 46-246; State v. Alphin, 84-745. Burden of proof is on prosecution to establish the truth of every averment necessary to constitute the offense: State v. Wilbourne, 87-529.

As to judge's charge, see State v. Taylor, 131-711; State v. Wilkerson, 103-337; State v. Alphin, 84-745; State v. Wilbourne, 87-529.

A charge of obtaining money by false pretense is not sustained by proving the fraudulent obtaining of a promissory note: State v. Gibson, 169-318; s. c., 170-697. A new indictment for obtaining a note is not twice in jeopardy: Ibid.

Special verdict must set out all the facts necessary to constitute the crime: State v. Oakley, 103-408; State v. Blue, 84-807. As to variance between indictment and proof, see State v. McWhirter, 144-809; State v. Ridge, 125-658; State v. Ashford, 120-588; State v. Mikle, 94-843; State v. Corbett, 46-264.

Compare State v. Crumpler, 90-701.

4278. Obtaining signatures or property by false pretenses. If any person, with intent to defraud or cheat another, shall designedly, by color of any false token or writing, or by any other false pretense, obtain the signature of any person to any written instrument, the false making of which would be punishable as forgery, or obtain from any person any money, goods, wares, merchandise or other property or valuable thing whatsoever, he shall be punishable by fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the state's prison for a term of not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3433; Code. s. 1026; 1871-2, c. 92.

For annotations upon "false pretense" generally, see under section 4277.

Obtaining money by fraudulently obtaining prosecutor's signature to a note: State v. Gibson, 169-318; s. c., 170-697. Section not applicable where "caveat emptor" applies: State v. Young, 76-258; State v. Wilkerson, 103-337—where property obtained was land, State v. Burrows, 33-477—but it does apply where property obtained was money, although obtained in a transaction conveying land, State v. Munday, 78-460. Criminal intent is essential: State v. Austin, 79-624.

INDICTMENT. Since act of 1891, ch. 205, it must charge that the act was done "feloniously": State v. Caldwell, 112-554; State v. Taylor, 131-711. Sufficiency of: State v. Eason, 86-674. Insufficiency of: State v. Lambeth, 82-393; State v. Pickett, 78-458; State v. Holmes, 82-607. There must be an averment of false pretense: State v. Holmes, 82-607—but no averment as to value of property necessary, State v. Gillespie, 80-396. Description of goods obtained necessary: State v. Reese, 83-637.

Sufficiency of evidence hereunder: State v. Jones, 70-75. Compare State v. Crumpler, 90-701.

4279. Obtaining property by false representation of pedigree of animals. If any person shall, with intent to defraud or cheat, knowingly represent any animal for breeding purposes as being of greater degree of any particular strain of blood than such animal actually possesses, and by such representation obtain from any other person money or other thing of value, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall for each offense be punished by a fine of not less than sixty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Rev., s. 3307; 1891, c. 94, s. 2.

4280. Obtaining certificate of registration of animals by false representation. If any person shall, by any false representation or pretense, with intent to defraud or cheat, obtain from any club, association, society or company for the improvement of the breed of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, fowls or other domestic animals or birds, a certificate of registration of any animal in the herd register of any such association, society or company, or a transfer of any such registration, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Rev., s. 3308; 1891, c. 94, s. 1.

4281. Obtaining advances under promise to work and pay for same. If any person, with intent to cheat or defraud another, shall obtain any advances in money, provisions, goods, wares or merchandise of any description from any other person or corporation upon and by color of any promise or agreement that the person making the same will begin any work or labor of any description for such person or corporation from whom the advances are obtained, and the person making the promise or agreement shall willfully fail, without a lawful excuse, to commence or complete such work according to contract, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Evidence of such promise or agreement to work, the obtaining of such advances thereon and the failure to comply with such promise or agreement shall be presumptive evidence of the intent to cheat and defraud at the time of obtaining the advances and making the promise or agreement, subject to be rebutted by other testimony which may be introduced by the defendant.

Rev., s. 3431; 1889, c. 444; 1891, c. 106; 1905, c. 411.

Section constitutional: State v. Norman, 110-484. As to sufficiency of evidence hereunder, see Ibid. The last part of the section as to presumptive evidence is unconstitutional: State v. Griffin, 154-611; State v. Isley, 164-491.

4282. Obtaining advances under written promise to pay therefor out of designated property. If any person shall obtain any advances in money, provisions, goods, wares or merchandise of any description from any other person or corporation, upon any written representation that the person making the same is the owner of any article of produce, or of any other specific chattel or personal property, which property, or the proceeds of which the owner in such representation thereby agrees to apply to the discharge of the debt so created, and the owner shall fail to apply such produce or other property, or the proceeds thereof, in accordance with such agreement, or shall dispose of the same in any other manner than is so agreed upon by the parties to the transaction, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, whether he shall or shall not have been the owner of any such property at the time such representation was made.

Section constitutional: State v. Torrence, 127-550. The representation hereunder must be a false representation of an existing fact: State v. Torrence, 127-550; State v. Whidbee, 124-796. As to sufficiency of indictment and evidence: State v. Torrence, 127-550. The indictment should follow the statute, using the essential words descriptive of the offense: State v. Mooney, 173-798. See annotations under section 4277.

4283. Obtaining property in return for worthless check, draft or order. Every person who, with intent to cheat and defraud another, shall obtain money, credit, goods, wares or any other thing of value by means of a check, draft or order of any kind upon any bank, person, firm or corporation, not indebted to the drawer, or where he has not provided for the payment or acceptance of the same, and the same be not paid upon presentation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. The giving of the aforesaid worthless check, draft, or order shall be prima facie evidence of an intent to cheat and defraud.

The offense is called a misdemeanor and may be punished on appeal from recorder's court to the superior court without a bill of indictment: State v. Freeman, 172-925. What is meant by obtaining a thing of value: Ibid.

4284. Obtaining entertainment at hotels and boarding-houses without paying therefor. Any person who obtains any lodging, food or accommodation at an inn, boarding-house or lodging-house without paying therefor, with intent to defraud the proprietor or manager thereof, or who obtains credit at an inn, boarding-house or lodging-house by the use of any false pretense, or who, after obtaining credit or accommodation at an inn, boarding-house or lodging-house, absconds and surreptitiously removes his baggage therefrom without paying for his food, accommodation or lodging, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

What is meant by a boarding-house: State v. McRae, 170-712. Removing baggage from hotel without paying bill: State v. Hill, 166-298.

4285. Obtaining wearing apparel on approval. If any person, with intent to cheat and defraud, shall solicit and obtain from any merchant any article of wearing apparel on approval, and shall thereafter, upon demand, refuse or fail to return the same to such merchant in an unused and undamaged condition, or to pay for the same, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Evidence that a person has solicited a merchant to deliver to him any article of wearing apparel for examination or approval and has obtained the same upon such solicitation, and thereafter, upon demand, has refused or failed to return the same to such merchant in an unused and undamaged condition, or to pay for the same, shall constitute prima facie evidence of the intent of such person to cheat and defraud, within the meaning of this section.

4286. Obtaining money by false representation of physical defect. It shall be unlawful for any person to falsely represent himself or herself in any manner whatsoever as blind, deaf, dumb, or crippled or otherwise physically defective for the purpose of obtaining money or other thing of value or of making sales of any character of personal property. Any person so falsely representing himself or herself as blind, deaf, dumb, crippled or otherwise physically defective, and securing aid or assistance on account of such representation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

1919, c. 104.

ART. 20. FRAUDS

4287. Fraudulent disposal of mortgaged property. If any person, after executing a chattel mortgage, deed of trust or other lien for a lawful purpose, shall make any disposition of any personal property embraced in such mortgage, deed of trust or lien, with intent to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of any person to whom or for whose benefit such deed was made, every person so offending and every person with a knowledge of the lien buying the property embraced in any such deed or lien, and every person assisting, aiding or abetting the unlawful disposition of such property, with intent to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of any person to whom or for whose benefit any such deed or lien was made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. In all indictments for violations of the provisions of this section it shall not be necessary to allege or prove the person to whom any sale or disposition of the property was made, but proof of the possession of the property embraced in such chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien, by the grantor thereof, after the execution of said chattel mortgage, deed of trust, or lien, and while it is in force, and further proof of the fact that the sheriff or other officer charged with the execution of process cannot after due diligence find such property under process directed to him for its seizure, for the satisfaction of such chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien, or that the mortgagee demanded the possession thereof of the mortgagor for the purpose of sale to foreclose said mortgage, deed of trust or lien, after the right to such foreclosure had accrued, and that the mortgagor failed to produce, deliver or surrender the same to the mortgagee for that purpose, shall be prima facie proof of the fact of a disposition or sale of such property, by the grantor, with the intent to hinder, delay or defeat the rights of the person to whom said chattel mortgage, deed of trust or lien was made.

Rev., s. 3435; Code, s. 1089; 1887, c. 14; 1873-4, c. 31; 1874-5, c. 215; 1883, c. 61.

There are three classes of offenders against whom the statute is directed: State v. Woods, 104-898. Infant cannot be convicted hereunder: State v. Howard, 88-650.

Intent is essential: State v. Ellington, 98-749. It is presumed where disposition of property necessarily results in hindering, delaying, or defrauding the mortgagee; otherwise, question of fact for jury: State v. Manning, 107-910. Intent is presumed where sale is proved, and no evidence offered to explain such sale: State v. Holmes, 120-573.

Indictment should charge aiding and abetting where such is the offense: State v. Wood, 104-898. Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Surles, 117-720.

Evidence; sufficiency of: State v. Logan, 100-454—insufficiency of, State v. Woods, 104-898. Proving the intent: State v. Jeffries, 117-727. Burden of proof is upon defendant to disprove criminal intent where prosecution has made out prima facie case: State v. Holmes, 120-573; State v. Surles, 117-720.

Section cited in State v. Barrett, 138-635; State v. Torrence, 127-550; State v. Jones, 113-669.

Compare, as to jurisdiction, State v. Jones, 83-657—as to indictment, State v. Pickens, 79-652; State v. Burns, 80-376.

4288. Secreting property to hinder enforcement of lien. Any person removing, exchanging or secreting any personal property on which a lien exists, with intent to prevent or hinder the enforcement of the lien, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3436; 1887, c. 14.

4289. Fraudulent entry of horses at fairs. If any person shall knowingly enter or cause to be entered in competition for any purse, prize, premium, stake or sweepstake offered or given by any agricultural or other society, association or person in this state, any horse, mare, gelding, colt or filly under an assumed name or out of its proper class, he shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the state's prison for not less than one nor more than five years, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

See section 4335.

4290. Fraudulent and deceptive advertising. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or association, with intent to sell or in anywise to dispose of merchandise, securities, service or any other thing offered by such person, firm, corporation or association, directly or indirectly, to the public for sale or distribution, or with intent to increase the consumption thereof, or to induce the public in any manner to enter into any obligation relating thereto, or to acquire title thereto, or an interest therein, to make public, disseminate, circulate or place before the public or cause directly or indirectly to be made, published, disseminated, circulated or placed before the public in this state, in a newspaper or other publication, or in the form of a book, notice, handbill, poster, bill circular, pamphlet or letter, or in any other way, an advertisement of any sort regarding merchandise, securities, service or any other thing so offered to the public, which advertisement contains any assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading: Provided, that such advertising shall be done willfully and with intent to mislead. Any person who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

4291. Blackmailing. If any person shall knowingly send or deliver any letter or writing demanding of any other person, with menaces and without any reasonable or probable cause, any chattel, money or valuable security; or if any person shall accuse, or threaten to accuse, or shall knowingly send or deliver any letter or writing accusing or threatening to accuse any other person of any crime punishable by law with death or by imprisonment in the state's prison, with the intent to extort or gain from such person any chattel, money or valuable security, every such offender shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3428; Code, s. 989; R. C., c. 34, s. 110.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Harper, 94-936. Sufficient evidence: State v. Frady, 172-978.

4292. Fraudulent removal of manufacturer's serial number from automobile. Every person within this state is hereby prohibited from knowingly buying, selling, receiving, disposing of or concealing any automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle from which the manufacturer's serial number or any other distinguishing number or identification mark has been removed, defaced, covered, altered, or destroyed, for the purpose of concealing or misrepresenting the identity of said automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle. Any person violating the provisions of this section, and any person who shall knowingly buy, sell, receive, dispose of, or conceal any automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle from which the manufacturer's serial number or any other distinguishing number or identification mark has been removed, defaced, covered, altered, or destroyed, for the purpose of concealment or misrepresenting the identity of said automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to automobiles in the possession of innocent purchasers who acquired title or possession prior to March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

1919, c. 110.

ART. 21. FORGERY

4293. Forgery of bank-notes, checks and other securities. If any person shall falsely make, forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure the same to be done, or willingly aid or assist therein, any bill or note in imitation of, or purporting to be, a bill or note of any incorporated bank in this state, or in any of the United States, or in any of the territories of the United States; or any order or check on any such bank or corporation, or on the cashier thereof; or any of the securities purporting to be issued by or on behalf of the state, or by or on behalf of any corporation, with intent to injure or defraud any person, bank or corporation, or the state, the person so offending shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or by a fine in the discretion of the court.

See, also, annotations under section 4296. See generally, as to forgery: State v. Hall, 108-776; Barnes v. Crawford, 115-76; State v. Cross, 101-770; State v. Covington, 94-913; State v. Thornburg, 28-79; State v. Gherkin, 29-206; State v. Lytle, 64-255; State v. Dourden, 13-443.

Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Hall, 108-776; State v. Monds, 9-443; State v. Twitty, 9-248; but see State v. Perry, 4-130.

Former acts which tend to bring the scienter home to defendant, competent: State v. Twitty, 9-248.

Compare State v. Tow, 44-214.

Rev., s. 3427; Code, s. 1031; R. C., c. 34, s. 61; 1819, c. 994, s. 2; 1909, c. 666.

For the presentation of a false certificate of exemption from the poll tax or a false tax receipt, see s. 4186, subsec. 5, of this chapter.

See annotations under section 4296. Indictment held multifarious: State v. Jarvis, 129-698. Expert testimony: State v. Harris, 27-287.

4295. Selling of certain forged securities. If any person shall sell, by delivery, indorsement or otherwise, to any other person, any judgment for the recovery of money purporting to have been rendered by a justice of the peace, or any bond, promissory note, bill of exchange, order, draft or liquidated account purporting to be signed by the debtor (knowing the same to be forged), the person so offending shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years.

4296. Forgery of deeds, wills and certain other instruments. If any person, of his own head and imagination, or by false conspiracy or fraud with others, shall wittingly and falsely forge and make, or shall cause or wittingly assent to the forging or making of, or shall show forth in evidence, knowing the same to be forged, any deed, lease or will, or any bond, writing obligatory, bill of exchange, promissory note, endorsement or assignment thereof; or any acquittance or receipt for money or goods; or any receipt or release for any bond, note, bill or any other security for the payment of money; or any order for the payment of money or delivery of goods, with intent, in any of said instances, to defraud any person or corporation, and thereof shall be duly convicted, the person so offending shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, or fined in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3424; Code, s. 1029; R. C., c. 34, s. 59; 1801, c. 572; 5 Eliz., c. 14, ss. 2, 3; 21 James I, c. 26.

See generally, as to forgery: Barnes v. Crawford, 115-76; State v. Hall, 108-776; State v. Cross, 101-770; State v. Covington, 94-913; State v. Shaw, 92-768; State v. Dourden, 13-443.

Falsely, wittingly and corruptly rubbing out and obliterating an acquittance, indorsed on a bond, is not forgery in North Carolina: State v. Thornburg, 28-79—nor falsely putting the name of a witness to a bond, which does not require a witness, State v. Gherkin, 29-206—nor is a writing binding on no one a subject of forgery, State v. Lytle, 64-255.

As to name, see State v. Morgan, 19-348. Punishment may be by imprisonment in penitentiary: State v. Williams, 86-671.

As to verdict, see State v. Cross, 101-770, 106-650. As to jurisdiction of state courts over forgery of notes to cover up national bank defalcations: Ibid.

SECTION CONSTRUED. "Receipt for money": State v. Dalton, 8-3—"shall show forth in evidence any deed," State v. Britt, 14-122—"order for payment of money or delivery of goods," State v. Lamb, 65-419; State v. Thorn, 66-644; State v. Leak, 80-403; State v. Williams, 86-671.

INDICTMENT. Where forged instrument lost, bill need not allege the fact: State v. Peterson, 129-556—and only the substance need be set out, Ibid. As to indictment for forging bond, State v. Ballard, 6-186—for forging order on store, State v. Lane, 80-407—for forging instrument, where extrinsic facts necessary to show its capacity to deceive, State v. Covington, 94-913—for forging receipt against a book account, State v. Dalton, 6-379, 8-3—for forging deed, State v. Street, 1-186—for changing date of note, State v. Weaver, 35-491—for forging railroad pass, State v. Weaver, 94-836—for forging bond by one of the obligors named therein against another of the obligors named, State v. Gardiner, 23-27—for forging order in name of overseer or agent against principal, State v. Thorn, 66-644.

Indictment for forging instruments where errors in names: State v. Covington, 94-913; State v. Collins, 115-716. Fraudulent intent is a necessary ingredient of the crime of forgery: State v. Wolf, 122-1079; State v. Collins, 115-716.

EVIDENCE. Possession of forged instrument, in favor of possessor, presumption of guilt: see State v. Patterson, 129-556; State v. Lane, 80-407; State v. Britt, 14-122. Competency of witness and of evidence: State v. Bateman, 25-474; State v. Cross, 101-770. Sufficiency of evidence: State v. Matlock, 119-806; State v. Lane, 80-407; State v. Morgan, 19-348. Insufficiency of evidence: State v. Smith, 78-462; State v. Harrison, 69-143.

4297. Forging names to petitions and uttering forged petitions. If any person shall willfully sign, or cause to be signed, or willfully assent to the signing of the name of any person without his consent, or of any deceased or fictitious person, to any petition or recommendation with the intent of procuring any commutation of sentence, pardon or reprieve of any person convicted of any crime or offense, or for the purpose of procuring such pardon, reprieve or commutation to be refused or delayed by any public officer, or with the intent of procuring from any person whatsoever, either for himself or another, any appointment to office, or to any position of honor or trust, or with the intent to influence the official action of any public officer in the management, conduct or decision of any matter affecting the public, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail or state's prison not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the court; and if any person shall willfully use any such paper for any of the purposes or intents above recited, knowing that any part of the signatures to such petition or recommendation has been signed thereto without the consent of the alleged signers, or that names of any dead or fictitious persons are signed thereto, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished in like manner.

Rev., s. 3426; Code, s. 1034; 1883, c. 275.

4298. Forging certificate of corporate stock and uttering forged certificates. If any officer or agent of a corporation shall, falsely and with a fraudulent purpose, make, with the intent that the same shall be issued and delivered to any other person by name or as holder or bearer thereof, any certificate or other writing, whereby it is certified or declared that such person, holder or bearer is entitled to or has an interest in the stock of such corporation, when in fact such person, holder or bearer is not so entitled, or is not entitled to the amount of stock in such certificate or writing specified; or if any officer or agent of such corporation, or other person, knowing such certificate or other writing to be false or untrue, shall transfer, assign or deliver the same to another person, for the sake of gain, or with the intent to defraud the corporation, or any member thereof, or such person to whom the same shall be transferred, assigned or delivered, the person so offending shall be imprisoned in the county jail or state's prison not less than four months nor more than ten years.

See annotations under section 4296.

4299. Forgery of bank-notes and other instruments by connecting genuine parts. If any person shall fraudulently connect together different parts of two or more bank-notes, or other genuine instruments, in such a manner as to produce another note or instrument, with intent to pass all of them as genuine, the same shall be deemed a forgery, and the instrument so produced a forged note, or forged instrument, in like manner as if each of them had been falsely made or forged.

Rev., s. 3420; Code, s. 1037; R. C., c. 34, s. 66.

SUBCHAPTER 7. CRIMINAL TRESPASS

ART. 22. TRESPASSES TO LAND AND FIXTURES

4300. Forcible entry and detainer. No one shall make entry into any lands and tenements, or term for years, but in case where entry is given by law; and in such case, not with strong hand nor with multitude of people, but only in a peaceable and easy manner; and if any man do the contrary, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3670; Code, s. 1028; R. C., c. 49, s. 1; 5 Ric. II, c. 8.

To constitute the crime there must be some force or violence in excess of a mere trespass: State v. Leary, 136-578. Justice of the peace has no jurisdiction of forcible entry and detainer: State v. Yarborough, 70-250; R. R. v. Johnston, 70-348; R. R. v. Sharp, 70-509; Perry v. Shepherd, 78-83.

Difference between forcible trespass and forcible detainer: State v. Laney, 87-535. Strictly speaking, forcible trespass applies to personal property and forcible entry to real property: State v. Jacobs, 94-950. Forcible trespass (or entry and detainer) explained: State v. Davenport, 156-596.

Entry may be peaceable, without any objection, but may become forcible after party being forbidden: State v. Robbins, 123-730; see State v. Condor, 126-988.

Under this section the lands must be in the actual possession of the person whose possession is charged to have been interfered with: State v. Bryant, 103-436; see State v. Leary, 136-578. Overseer on plantation is not in possession as against the owner, and owner may evict him without being guilty hereunder: State v. Curtis, 20-363. Landlord can forbid trespassers, even though tenant in possession: State v. Robbins, 123-730. Widow living on land not yet assigned as dower cannot prosecute hereunder: State v. Thompson, 130-680.

For examples of forcible entry, see State v. Jacobs, 94-950; State v. Smith, 100-466; State v. Shepard, 82-614; State v. Robbins, 123-730; State v. Davis, 109-809; State v. Caldwell, 47-468.

INDICTMENT. Not necessary to charge or show that proprietor of the house where the alleged forcible entry and detainer was committed was in the house or present at time of offense: State v. Fort, 20-332; State v. Shepard, 82-614—but if trespasser warned off by child of owner, must be stated that he was member of owner's family residing there: State v. Morgan, 60-243. Not necessary to allege that defendant had no title to land: State v. Whitfield, 30-317. Sufficient when it charges "that defendant unlawfully and with a strong hand did break and enter into a certain house of J. D., he, the said J. D., being then and there in the peaceable and quiet possession of same": State v. Whitfield, 30-315. Must charge actual possession in person whose possession is alleged to have been disturbed: State v. Bryant, 103-436. As to sufficiency of indictment generally, see State v. Eason, 70-88. Indictment is to be considered as containing two counts, one for forcible entry and the other for a detainer: State v. Ward, 46-291.

EVIDENCE. Sufficiency of: State v. Bordeaux, 47-242; State v. Davis, 109-809; Mos-seller v. Deaver, 106-495; State v. Smith, 100-466; State v. Caldwell, 47-469—insufficiency of, State v. Leary, 136-578; State v. Mills, 104-905; State v. Pridgen, 30-84; State v. Smith, 24-127. For variance between allegations and proof, see Jordan v. Rouse, 46-119.

4301. Malicious injury to real property. If any person shall maliciously commit any damage, injury or spoil upon any real property whatsoever, either of a public or private nature, for which no punishment is provided by any existing law, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that nothing herein shall extend to any case where the party trespassing or doing the injury acted under a fair and reasonable belief that he had a right to do the act complained of, nor to any trespass, not being willful and malicious, committed in hunting, fishing or the pursuit of game. When the owner, or one of the owners, of an estate in possession shall complain of the injury before a justice of the peace of the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed before the regular term of the superior court next after the commission of the offense, and shall fail to state in his complaint that the damage exceeds ten dollars, the punishment, upon conviction of the offense, shall not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days.

Acts of 1873-74, ch. 176, do not embrace offense of forcible trespass: State v. Batchelor, 72-468.

For injury to houses, churches, fences, walls, etc., see section 4317.

4302. Trespass on public lands. If any person shall erect a building on any public lands before the same shall have been sold or granted by the state, or on any lands belonging to the state board of education before the same shall have been sold and conveyed by them, or cultivate or remove timber from any of such lands, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Moreover, the state board of education can recover from any person cutting timber on its land three times the value of the timber which is cut. When any person shall be in possession of any part of such land, it shall be the duty of the sheriff of the county in which the land is situated, and he is hereby required, to give notice in writing to such person, commanding him to depart therefrom forthwith; and if the person in possession, upon being so notified, shall not, within two weeks after the time of notice, remove therefrom, the sheriff is required to remove him immediately, and if necessary, he shall summon the power of the county to assist him in so doing.

Rev., s. 3746; Code, s. 1121; R. C., c. 34, s. 42; 1823, c. 1190; 1842, c. 36, s. 4; 1909, c. 891. Section cited in Worth v. Comrs., 118-125; Land Co. v. Board of Education, 101-35.

4303. Disorderly conduct in and injuries to public buildings. If any person shall make any rude or riotous noise or be guilty of any disorderly conduct in or near any of the public buildings of the state, or of any county or municipality, or shall write or scribble on, mark, deface, besmear, or injure the walls of any of the public buildings of the state or of any county or municipality, or any statue or monument, or shall do or commit any nuisance in or near any public building of the state or of any county or municipality, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The keeper of the capitol or any person in charge of any of such public buildings shall have authority to arrest summarily and without warrant for a violation of this section. The words "public building," as used in this section, shall include the grounds around such buildings.

Rev., s. 3742; Code, s. 2308; R. C., c. 103, ss. 7, 8; 1829, c. 29, ss. 1, 2; 1842, c. 47; 1915, c. 269.

4304. Local: Erecting artificial islands and lumps in public waters. If any person shall erect artificial islands or lumps in any of the waters of the state east of the Wilmington and Weldon railroad and the Petersburg and Weldon railroad, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3543; Code, s. 986; 1883, c. 109.

4305. Trespass on land after being forbidden; license to look for estrays. If any person, after being forbidden to do so, shall go or enter upon the lands of another, without a license therefor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that if any person shall make a written affidavit before a justice of the peace of the county that any of his cattle or other livestock (which shall be specially described in such affidavit) have strayed away, and that he has good reason to believe that they are on the lands of a certain other person, then the justice may, in his discretion, allow the affiant to enter on the premises of such person with one or more servants, without firearms, in the daytime (Sunday excepted), between the hours of sunrise and sunset, and make search for his estrays for such limited time as to the justice shall appear reasonable. The only effect of such license shall be to protect the persons entering from indictment therefor, and the license shall have this effect only where it is made bona fide and the entry is effected without any damage except such as may be necessary to conduct the search.

Rev., s. 3688; Code, s. 1120; 1866, c. 60.

A person who enters land under a bona fide claim of title or right is not guilty hereunder: State v. Faggart, 170-737; State v. Wells, 142-590; State v. Winslow, 95-649; State v. Crossett, 81-579; State v. Hause, 71-518; State v. Ellen, 68-281; State v. Hanks, 66-612—so servant of bona fide claimant, entering at his command, is not guilty, State v. Winslow, 95-649—but a mere belief is not sufficient; there must be proof of a claim of title, or facts upon which defendant based a bona fide claim of right, State v. Fisher, 109-817; State v. Crawley, 103-353; State v. Bryson, 81-595; State v. Glenn, 118-1194; State v. Durham, 121-546; compare State v. Boyce, 109-739. Failure to charge as to bona fide claim of defendant no error, when no such instruction is prayed: State v. Yellowday, 152-793.

Although forbidden by the landlord, if a person entered the land on the invitation of the tenant he is not guilty: State v. Lawson, 101-717. Husband is not indictable for trespass on lands of his wife after being forbidden by her: State v. Jones, 132-1043. Indictment hereunder will lie against railroad employee for entry after being forbidden on lands which company is seeking to condemn: State v. Wells, 142-590; State v. Mallard, 143-666.

Defendant's guilt need not be established where the question of entry under bona fide claim of right has not been determined: State v. Wells, 142-590.

Justice has exclusive original jurisdiction of this offense: State v. Dudley, 83-660. Compare State v. Edney, 80-360; State v. Presley, 72-204.

Where indictment charges that "defendant did unlawfully enter upon the premises of the prosecutor, he, said defendant, having been forbidden to enter on said premises, and not having a license so to enter," etc., is sufficient: State v. Whitehurst, 70-85. Necessary in indictment to negative defendant's having license to enter: State v. Bullard, 72-445. The word "premises" equivalent to "land" in indictment: State v. Yellowday, 152-793. Possession of agent of owner is sufficient allegation of possession of owner: Ibid.

The omission of the words "unlawfully and wilfully" in a warrant of a justice of the peace is fatal: State v. Whitaker, 85-566—but superior court has power to amend the warrant in this respect after verdict: State v. Smith, 103-410; State v. Yellowday, 152-793.

Warrant which does not contain necessary descriptive words of the offense, but refers to an attached affidavit which does, will not be quashed: State v. Winslow, 95-649.

Evidence that defendant went on land under bona fide claim of title competent: State v. Crawley, 103-353. Insufficient evidence of reasonable belief of title or right of entry: State v. Fisher, 109-817; State v. Mallard, 143-666; State v. Durham, 121-546; State v. Glenn, 118-1194. State must prove entry after being forbidden, but it is upon defendant to show, by way of defense, to the satisfaction of jury, that he entered under license or bona fide claim of right: State v. Durham, 121-546; State v. Glenn, 118-1194. Where charge is that land was in possession of A and the proof that it was in possession of B, the variance is fatal: State v. Sherrill, 81-550.

Section cited in State v. Connor, 142-708; State v. Holmes, 120-576; State v. Yarborough, 70-254.

4306. Cutting, injuring, or removing another's timber. If any person, not being the bona fide owner thereof, shall knowingly and willfully cut down, injure or remove any standing, growing or fallen tree or log, the property of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3687; 1889, c. 168.

4307. Local: Cutting, felling or removing another's timber. If any person, or his agent or employee, shall cut, fell or remove any timber tree, for the purpose of sale or gain, knowing the same to be upon the land of another, without the consent of the owner thereof, the person so cutting, felling or removing, or causing the same to be done, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court, and shall also be liable to such owner for an amount equal to double the value of the timber so cut, felled or removed, to be recovered in a civil action to be brought therefor. The prosecution for any offense committed under this section shall be commenced within one year after its commission. This section shall apply only to Caldwell, Wilkes, Watauga, Burke, McDowell, Yadkin, Cherokee and Mitchell counties.

Section cited in Lumber Co. v. Hayes, 157-333.

4308. Local: Purchasing timber unlawfully removed from another's land. If any person or corporation shall purchase or receive any timber tree, knowing the same to have been cut or removed from the lands of another without the consent of the owner thereof, or shall purchase or receive any logs, planks, boards, staves, shingles or other lumber made from such timber tree, knowing the same to have been cut or removed as aforesaid, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court, and shall be liable to double the amount of the actual damages to the owner of such timber, to be recovered in a civil action brought therefor. This section shall apply only to Caldwell, Wilkes, Watauga, Burke, McDowell, Yadkin, Cherokee and Mitchell counties.

Section cited in Lumber Co. v. Hayes, 157-333.

4309. Setting fire to grass and brush lands and woodlands. If any person shall intentionally set fire to any grass land, brush land or woodland, except it be his own property, or in that case without first giving notice to all persons owning or in charge of lands adjoining the land intended to be fired, and without also taking care to watch such fire while burning and to extinguish it before it shall reach any lands near to or adjoining the lands so fired, he shall for every such offense be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. This section shall not prevent an action for the damages sustained by the owner of any property from such fires. For the purposes of this section, the term "woodland" is to be taken to include all forest areas, both timber and cut-over land, and all second-growth stands on areas that have at one time been cultivated. Any person who shall furnish to the state evidence sufficient for the conviction of a violation of this statute shall receive the sum of twenty dollars, to be taxed as part of the court costs.

Rev. s. 3346; Code, ss. 52, 53; R. C., c. 16, ss. 1, 2; 1777, c. 123, ss. 1, 2; 1915, c. 243, ss. 8, 11; 1919, c. 318.

See generally: Roberson v. Morgan, 118-991; Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534.

The action for penalty here given may be brought before a justice of the peace in a county other than the one where the offense was committed, if such county is where defendant resides: Fisher v. Bullard, 109-574.

Only adjoining landowners can maintain an action under this section: Roberson v. Morgan, 118-991.

Penalty here provided is only incurred by voluntary firing of woods; not in cases of burning woods from necessity or accident: Caton v. Toler, 160-104; Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534; Averitt v. Murrell, 49-322; Tyson v. Rasberry, 8-60.

This applies only to woods: Mizzell v. Mfg. Co., 158-265. "Woods" defined: Achenbach v. Johnston, 84-264; Hall v. Cranford, 50-3; Averitt v. Murrell, 49-322.

Liability for damages in burning without giving notice: Stanland v. Rourk, 168-568. An agreement by adjoining landowners to take less than two days notice will not bar a stranger from recovering the penalty: Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534; Wright v. Yarborough, 4-687. Proof of waiver of notice is a sufficient answer to an action for damages: Lamb v. Sloan, 94-534; Roberson v. Kirby, 52-477. See, also, Garrett v. Freeman, 50-78.

Section cited in Lumber Co. v. Hayes, 157-333.

4311. Setting fire to woodlands and grass lands with campfires. Any wagoner, hunter, camper or other person who shall kindle a campfire or shall authorize another to kindle such fire, unless all combustible material for the space of ten feet surrounding the place where such fire is kindled has been removed, or shall leave a campfire without fully extinguishing it, or who shall accidentally or negligently by the use of any torch, gun, match or other instrumentality, or in any manner whatever, start any fire upon any grass land, brush land or woodland without fully extinguishing the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days. For the purposes of this section the term "woodland" is to be taken to include all forest areas, both timber and cut-over land, and all second-growth stands on areas that have at one time been cultivated.

Rev., s. 3347; Code, s. 54; 1885, c. 126; 1913, c. 8; 1915, c. 243, ss. 9, 11.

4312. Certain fires to be guarded by watchman. All persons, firms or corporations who shall burn any tar kiln or pit of charcoal, or set fire to or burn any brush, grass or other material, whereby any property may be endangered or destroyed, shall keep and maintain a careful and competent watchman in charge of such kiln, pit, brush or other material while burning. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not exceeding thirty days. Fire escaping from such kiln, pit, brush or other material while burning shall be prima facie evidence of neglect of these provisions.

4313. Burning or otherwise destroying crops in the field. If any person shall willfully burn or destroy any other person's corn, cotton, wheat, barley, rye, oats, buckwheat, rice, tobacco, hay, straw, fodder, shucks or other provender in a stack, hill, rick or pen, or secured in any other way out of doors, or grass or sedge standing on the land, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state's prison for not less than four months nor more than five years.

Rev., s. 3339; 1885, c. 42; 1874-5, c. 133; Code, s. 985, subsec. 2.

See generally: State v. Huskins, 126-1070; State v. Avery, 109-798. Insufficiency of indictment: State v. Hall, 93-571. Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Huskins, 126-1070.

4314. Local: Removing dog-tongue and certain other products from another's land. If any person shall enter upon and remove from the lands of any other person, without first obtaining permission from the landowner, any dog-tongue (or vanilla), whortleberries or other fruits, or any other marketable product of the soil, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that this section shall apply to the counties of Sampson and Duplin only.

Rev., s. 3683; 1889, c. 77.

4315. Injuries to dams and water channels of mills and factories. If any person shall cut away, destroy or otherwise injure any dam, or part thereof, or shall obstruct or damage any race, canal or other water channel erected, opened, used or constructed for the purpose of furnishing water for the operation of any mill, factory or machine works, or for the escape of water therefrom, he shall, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3678; Code, s. 1087; 1866, c. 48.

Placing obstructions in a mill-race below mill is not a violation of this section: State v. Tomlinson, 77-528. Section cited in State v. Suttle, 115-788.

4316. Taking unlawful possession of another's house. If any person shall enter upon the lands of another and take possession of any house or other building thereon, without permission of the owner or his agent and without a bona fide claim of right or title so to enter and take possession, and shall fail or refuse to vacate such premises within ten days after being notified personally in writing to do so, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

See annotations under section 4305.

4317. Injuring houses, churches, fences and walls. If any person shall, by any other means than burning or attempting to burn, unlawfully and willfully demolish, destroy, deface, injure or damage any of the houses or other buildings mentioned in this chapter in the article entitled Arson and Other Burnings; or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, demolish, pull down, destroy, deface, damage or injure any church, uninhabited house, outhouse or other house or building not mentioned in such article; or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, destroy, pull down, injure or remove any fence, wall or other inclosure, or any part thereof, surrounding or about any yard, garden, cultivated field or pasture, or about any church or graveyard, or about any factory or other house in which machinery is used, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3673; Code, s. 1062; R. C., c. 34, s. 103.

As to what constitutes a "cultivated field," see State v. Campbell, 133-640; State v. McMinn, 81-585. As to what constitutes a "fence," see State v. Roberts, 101-744. A jail is included in "houses or buildings" previously mentioned in this chapter: State v. Bryan, 89-531. Destruction of crib by use of dynamite: State v. Martin, 173-808.

Under an indictment for arson, where a special verdict is rendered making defendant guilty hereunder, court may proceed to judgment as for a misdemeanor: State v. Clark, 52-167.

To be guilty hereunder defendant must be guilty of a trespass, and to be guilty of a trespass he must act wilfully and unlawfully: State v. McCracken, 118-1240; State v. Watson, 86-626;

State v. Headrick, 48-375; State v. Williams, 44-197—and a mortgagor in possession after a sale under the mortgage is not a trespasser, and is not guilty hereunder, State v. Jones, 129-508. Act of removing fence justified under judgment to establish a cartway: State v. Hardy, 158-652.

Indictment hereunder cannot be supported by proof that the act was done by owner or his tenant: State v. Mace, 65-344; see, also, State v. Williams, 44-197; State v. Watson, 86-626—but the landlord is guilty if he removes a fence over the protest of his tenant, State v. Piper, 89-551. Lessee not indictable hereunder for injury to house during the continuance of his term: State v. Whitener, 92-798.

Where state shows actual possession in the prosecutor, defendant cannot exculpate himself by showing title to the land upon which the fence, etc., was situated: State v. Taylor, 172-892; State v. Campbell, 133-640; State v. Fender, 125-649; State v. Howell, 107-835; State v. Marsh, 91-632; State v. Piper, 89-551; State v. Hovis, 76-117; State v. Graham, 53-397.

INTENT. Party who by mistake builds houses on land of another, and pulls them down while still in possession, is not guilty hereunder: State v. Reynolds, 95-616. If the act is done by one under direction or by permission of another whom he honestly supposes the owner of the premises, he is not guilty: State v. Roseman, 70-235. As to removal by town marshal, see State v. Goodwin, 145-461.

INDICTMENT. Must allege possession in actual possessor: State v. Whitener, 92-798; State v. Mason, 35-341. Must aver that fence or wall surrounds or incloses the field: State v. Biggers, 108-760. Where trespass is upon a garden it should be so charged: State v. McMinn, 81-585.

Sufficient charge "that defendant did cut and destroy a wire fence inclosing a pasture": State v. Biggers, 108-760. Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Taylor, 172-892.

EVIDENCE. As to bona fide claim to the locus in quo admissible to explain possession of defendant, see State v. Reynolds, 95-616; State v. Roseman, 66-634—also evidence of a claim of a bona fide agreement to remove a fence admissible, State v. McCracken, 118-1240. Under indictment for removing fence, evidence that defendant was acting for another inadmissible: State v. Campbell, 133-640. The manner, occasion, circumstances attending the doing of the injury make evidence going to prove that the intent was wilful or otherwise: State v. Howell, 107-835; State v. Whitener, 93-590; State v. Marsh, 91-632; State v. Watson, 86-626; State v. Hovis, 76-117.

ACT OF 1846, CH. 70. This act reduces burning of a barn from a felony to a misdemeanor: State v. Upchurch, 31-454. Under it a person may be convicted for removing fence around a field in course of preparation for cultivation: State v. Allen, 35-36. Indictment must allege possession in actual possessor: State v. Mason, 35-341. To be guilty under this act one must be guilty of a trespass: State v. Headrick, 48-375. Does not extend to persons in rightful possession of premises, as quasi tenant: State v. Williams, 44-197.

Section cited in State v. Padgett, 82-544; Gudger v. Penland, 108-600; State v. Perry, 64-305. As to conflict between this section and section 1831, see State v. Biggers, 108-760.

4318. Injuring bridges. If any person shall unlawfully and willfully demolish, destroy, break, tear down, injure or damage any bridge across any of the creeks or rivers or other streams in the state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3771; Code, s. 993; 1883, c. 271.

4319. Removing, altering or defacing landmarks. If any person, firm or corporation shall knowingly remove, alter or deface any landmark in anywise whatsoever, or shall knowingly cause such removal, alteration or defacement to be done, such person, firm or corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to landmarks, such as creeks and other small streams, which the interest of agriculture may require to be altered or turned from their channels, nor to such persons, firms or corporations as own the fee simple in the lands on both sides of the lines designated by the landmarks removed, altered or defaced. Nor shall this section apply to those adjoining landowners who may by agreement remove, alter or deface landmarks in which they alone are interested.

Rev., s. 3674; Code, s. 1063; 1858-9, c. 17; 1915, c. 248.

A wooden stake set as a mark is within this section: State v. Jenkins, 164-527.

Indictment charging that "one A. B., with force and arms, wilfully and unlawfully did alter, deface and remove a certain corner tree, the property of C.," etc., is sufficient: State v. Bryant, 111-693—and it is not necessary to negative the matter contained in the proviso hereunder, Ibid.

4320. Removing or defacing monuments and tombstones. If any person shall, unlawfully and on purpose, remove from its place any monument of marble, stone, brass, wood or other material, erected for the purpose of designating the spot where any dead body is interred, or for the purpose of preserving and perpetuating the memory, name, fame, birth, age or death of any person, whether situated in or out of the common burying ground, or shall unlawfully and on purpose break or deface such monument, or alter the letters, marks or inscription thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3680; Code, s. 1088; R. C., c. 34, s. 102; 1840, c. 6.

Where owner of land consents, expressly or impliedly, to the burying of dead bodies upon his land, he has no right afterwards to remove the bodies or deface or remove monuments, etc., erected to their memory: State v. Wilson, 94-1015.

Sufficiency of indictment generally: Ibid. Not necessary to designate name of person whose tomb has been defaced: Ibid. Not necessary to charge in terms that dead body was that of a human being: Ibid.

Evidence sufficient to go to jury as to guilt, see Ibid.

4321. Interfering with graveyards. If any person shall unlawfully take away any stone, brick, iron or other material that encloses private graveyards, or shall cut or keep open any ditch or drainway, or put any permanent log or other obstruction not intended as a monument to a grave in such graveyards, or knowingly plow over and tear up any grave, or shall remove or change the location of any fence around such graveyard without the consent of such person or persons as may have parents, children or brothers or sisters buried therein, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3681; 1889, c. 130; 1919, c. 218.

4322. Disturbing graves. If any person shall, without due process of law, or the consent of the surviving husband or wife or the next of kin of the deceased, and of the person having the control of such grave, open any grave for the purpose of taking therefrom any dead body, or any part thereof buried therein, or anything interred therewith, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3672; 1885, c. 90.

The opening of the grave for purpose of removing anything interred therein is conclusive as to the intent: State v. McLean, 121-589. Mayor of town counseling commissioners that they had right to remove bodies, etc., guilty in this case: Ibid.

4323. Interfering with gas, electric and steam appliances. If any person shall willfully, with intent to injure or defraud, commit any of the acts set forth in the following subsections, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor:

1. Connect a tube, pipe, wire or other instrument or contrivance with a pipe or wire used for conducting or supplying illuminating gas, fuel, natural gas or electricity in such a manner as to supply such gas or electricity to any burner, orifice, lamp or motor where the same is or can be burned or used without passing through the meter or other instrument provided for registering the quantity consumed; or,

2. Obstruct, alter, injure or prevent the action of a meter or other instrument used to measure or register the quantity of illuminating fuel, natural gas or electricity consumed in a house or apartment, or at an orifice or burner, lamp or motor, or by a consumer or other person other than an employee of the company owning any gas or electric meter, who willfully shall detach or disconnect such meter, or make or report any test of, or examine for the purpose of testing any meter so detached or disconnected; or,

3. In any manner whatever change, extend or alter any service or other pipe, wire or attachment of any kind, connecting with or through which natural or artificial gas or electricity is furnished from the gas mains or pipes of any person, without first procuring from said person written permission to make such change, extension or alterations; or,

4. Make any connection or reconnection with the gas mains, service pipes or wires of any person, furnishing to consumers natural or artificial gas or electricity, or turn on or off or in any manner interfere with any valve or stop-cock or other appliance belonging to such person, and connected with his service or other pipes or wires, or enlarge the orifice of mixers, or use natural gas for heating purposes except through mixers, or electricity for any purpose without first procuring from such person a written permit to turn on or off such stop-cock or valve, or to make such connection or reconnections, or to enlarge the orifice of mixers, or to use for heating purposes without mixers, or to interfere with the valves, stop-cocks, wires or other appliances of such, as the case may be; or

5. Retain possession of or refuse to deliver any mixer, meter, lamp or other appliance which may be leased or rented by any person, for the purpose of furnishing gas, electricity or power through the same, or sell, lend or in any other manner dispose of the same to any person other than such person entitled to the possession of the same; or,

6. Set on fire any gas escaping from wells, broken or leaking mains, pipes, valves or other appliances used by any person in conveying gas to consumers, or interfere in any manner with the wells, pipes, mains, gate-boxes, valves, stop-cocks, wires, cables, conduits or any other appliances, machinery or property of any person engaged in furnishing gas to consumers unless employed by or acting under the authority and direction of such person; or,

7. Open or cause to be opened, or reconnect or cause to be reconnected any valve lawfully closed or disconnected by a district steam corporation; or,

8. Turn on steam or cause it to be turned on or to reënter any premises when the same has been lawfully stopped from entering such premises.

Rev., s. 3666; 1901, c. 735.

4324. Injuring fixtures and other property of gas companies; civil liability.
If any person shall willfully, wantonly or maliciously remove, obstruct, injure or destroy any part of the plant, machinery, fixtures, structures or buildings, or anything appertaining to the works of any gas company, or shall use, tamper or interfere with the same, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days for such offense. Such person shall also forfeit and pay to the company so injured, to be sued for and recovered in a civil action, double the amount of the damages sustained by any such injury.

Rev., s. 3671; 1889 (Pr.), c. 35, s. 3.

4325. Tampering with engines and boilers. If any person shall willfully turn out water from any boiler or turn the bolts of any engine or boiler, or meddle or tamper with such boiler or engine, or any other machinery in connection with any boiler or engine, causing loss, damage, danger or delay to the owner in the prosecution of his work, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3667; 1901, c. 733.

4326. Injuring wires and other fixtures of telephone, telegraph and electric-power companies. If any person shall willfully injure, destroy or pull down any telegraph, telephone or electric-power-transmission pole, wire, insulator or any other fixture or apparatus attached to a telegraph, telephone or electric-power-transmission line, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined and imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3847; Code, s. 1118; 1881, c. 4; 1883, c. 103; 1907, c. 827, s. 1.

4327. Making unauthorized connections with telephone and telegraph wires. It shall be unlawful for any person to tap or make any connection with any wire or apparatus of any telephone or telegraph company operating in this state, except such connection as may be authorized by the person or corporation operating such wire or apparatus. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than ten days for each offense. Each day's continuance of such unlawful connection shall be a separate offense.

4328. Injuring fixtures and other property of electric-power companies. It shall be unlawful for any person willfully and wantonly, and without the consent of the owner, to take down, remove, injure, obstruct, displace or destroy any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current, or any poles, towers, wires, conduits, cables, insulators or any support upon which wires or cables may be suspended, or any part of any such line or appurtenances or apparatus connected therewith, or to sever any wire or cable thereof, or in any manner to interrupt the transmission of electrical current over and along any such line, or to take down, remove, injure or destroy any house, shop, building or other structure or machinery connected with or necessary to the use of any line erected or constructed for the transmission of electrical current, or to wantonly or willfully cause injury to any of the property mentioned in this section by means of fire. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not longer than one year, or both fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the court

1907, c. 919.

4329. Felling trees on telephone and electric-power wires. If any person shall negligently and carelessly cut or fell any tree, or any limb or branch therefrom, in such a manner as to cause the same to fall upon and across any telephone, electric light or electric-power-transmission wire, from which any injury to such wire shall be occasioned, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall also be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every offense.

Rev., s. 3849; 1903, c. 616; 1907, c. 827, s. 2.

4330. Interfering with telephone lines. If any person shall unnecessarily disconnect the wire or in any other way render any telephone line, or any part of such line, unfit for use in transmitting messages, or shall unnecessarily cut, tear down, destroy or in any way render unfit for the transmission of messages any part of the wire of a telephone line, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned for a term not exceeding two years, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3845; 1901, c. 318.

ART. 23. TRESPASSES TO PERSONAL PROPERTY

4331. Malicious injury to personal property. If any person shall wantonly and willfully injure the personal property of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, whether the property be destroyed or not, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3676; Code, s. 1082; 1885, c. 53; 1876-7, c. 18.

A promissory note or a due bill is "personal property" within meaning of this section: State v. Sneed, 121-614—so also an electric street car, State v. Martin, 141-832.

The offense here created may be committed jointly by two persons, one doing the act and the other, as principal, aiding and abetting him, or participating with him: Ibid.

Indictment which charges that the act was "wantonly and wilfully" done is sufficient: State v. Martin, 107-904. Indictment which charged the killing of a hog "unlawfully and on purpose" cannot be sustained hereunder: State v. Tweedy, 115-704. Since the act of 1885, ch. 53, it is unnecessary to allege or prove any malice toward owner of the personal property: State v. Sneed, 121-614. Proof of injury to an ox will not support an indictment charging injury to a cow: State v. Hill, 79-656. Wounding cattle maliciously was not an indictable offense at common law: State v. Manuel, 72-201. No defense to indictment hereunder for injury to livestock, that stock law prevailed in community, and prosecutor turned his stock out: State v. Brigman, 94-888. Owner of dog has such property in him as will sustain indictment for injury to property: State v. Latham, 35-33.

Section cited in State v. Avery, 109-798. Compare, as to meaning of words "wanton" and "wilful," State v. Brigman, 94-888. As to necessity to lay the property truly in indictment, a variance in that respect being fatal: State v. Mason, 35-341; State v. Hill, 79-656.

4332. Malicious removal of packing from railway coaches and other rolling stock. If any person shall willfully and maliciously take or remove the waste or packing from the journal box of any locomotive, engine, tender, carriage, coach, car, caboose or truck used or operated upon any railroad, whether the same be operated by steam or electricity, he shall upon conviction thereof be fined or imprisoned in the jail or state's prison, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3759; 1905, c. 335.

4333. Removing boats or their fixtures and appliances. If any person shall take away from any landing or other place where the same shall be, or shall loose, unmoor, or turn adrift from the same, any boat, canoe, pettiaugua, oars, paddles, sails or tackle belonging to or in the lawful custody of any person; or if any person shall direct the same to be done without the consent of the owner, or the person having the custody or possession of such property, he shall forfeit and pay to such owner, or person having the custody and possession as aforesaid, the sum of two dollars, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, in the discretion of the court. The owner may also have his action for such injury. The penalties aforesaid shall not extend to any person who shall press any such property by public authority.

Rev., s. 3544; Code, s. 2288; 1889, c. 378; R. C., c. 14, ss. 1, 3.

4334. Injuring livestock not inclosed by lawful fence. If any person shall willfully and unlawfully kill or abuse any horse, mule, hog, sheep or other cattle, the property of another, in any inclosure not surrounded by a lawful fence, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3313; Code, s. 1003; 1868-9, c. 253.

See generally: State v. Deal, 92-802; State v. Godfrey, 97-507. Construction of word "cattle": State v. Groves, 119-822—of word "inclosure," State v. Staton, 66-640.

As to warrant and indictment generally, see State v. Deal, 92-802; State v. Howe, 100-449—sufficiency of, State v. Allen, 69-23; State v. Painter, 70-70—insufficiency of, State v. Staton, 66-640; State v. Simpson, 73-269; State v. Hill, 79-656; State v. Parker, 81-548; State v. Whitaker, 85-566.

Wounding of cattle maliciously is not an offense at common law: State v. Manuel, 72-201; State v. Hill, 79-656. Shooting at cattle carelessly renders person criminally liable: State v. Barnard, 88-661.

Case of interest hereunder: State v. Godfrey, 97-507.

For fraudulent entries at fairs, see section 4289.

SUBCHAPTER 8. OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALITY AND DECENCY

ART. 24. OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALITY AND DECENCY

4336. Crime against nature. If any person shall commit the abominable and detestable crime against nature, with mankind or beast, he shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than five nor more than sixty years.

Rev., s. 3349; Code, s. 1010; R. C., c. 34, s. 6; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 6; 5 Eliz., c. 17; 25 Hen. VIII, c. 6.

What constitutes the crime under this section: State v. Griffin, 175-767; State v. Fenner, 166-247. Defendant may be convicted of an attempt to commit the crime: State v. Savage, 161-245.

4337. Incest between certain near relatives. In all cases of carnal intercourse between grandparent and grandchild, parent and child, and brother and sister of the half or whole blood, the parties shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished for every such offense by imprisonment in the state's prison for a term not exceeding fifteen years, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3351; Code, s. 1060; 1879, c. 16, s. 1; 1911, c. 16.

Incest not a criminal offense at common law: State v. Cutshall, 109-774; State v. Brittain, 117-783; State v. Kresler, 78-469. Carnal intercourse with one's illegitimate child is incest: State v. Lawrence, 95-659. Relation existing between the parties may make one guilty of incest without the guilt of the other: Strider v. Lewey, 176-448.

Amended by 1911, ch. 16, the law is not repealed, but offenses before amendment are punished under original section: State v. Broadway, 157-598.

As to indictment, see State v. Lawrence, 96-659.

Wife's confession to husband, under his threats, that she committed incest is not admissible: State v. Brittain, 117-783—nor like confessions to third party in husband's presence, Ibid.

4338. Incest between uncle and niece and nephew and aunt. In all cases of carnal intercourse between uncle and niece, and nephew and aunt, the parties shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3352; Code, s. 1061; 1879, c. 16, s. 2.

Incest not a criminal offense at common law: State v. Brittain, 117-783; State v. Cutshall, 109-774; State v. Kresler, 78-469. Carnal intercourse with daughter of half-sister is incest: State v. Harris, 149-513.

4339. Seduction. If any man shall seduce an innocent and virtuous woman under promise of marriage, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court, and may be imprisoned in the state prison not exceeding the term of five years: Provided, the unsupported testimony of the woman shall not be sufficient to convict: Provided further, that marriage between the parties shall be a bar to further prosecution hereunder. But when such marriage is relied upon by the defendant, it shall operate as to the costs of the case as a plea of nolo contendere, and the defendant shall be required to pay all the costs of the action or be liable to imprisonment for nonpayment of the same.

Rev., s. 3354; 1885, c. 248; 1917, c. 39.

Section contemplates a seduction under promise of marriage in the nature of deceit: State v. Horton, 100-443.

Essentials to convict: State v. Cline, 170-751. The defendant, if of marriageable age, may be convicted: State v. Creed, 171-837.

Deceit being of the essence of seduction under promise of marriage, section 4512 excepts it from the two-year statute of limitations: State v. Crowell, 116-1052.

Consent is no defense, if seduction proved: State v. Horton, 100-443.

The words "innocent and virtuous woman" interpreted: State v. Whitley, 141-823; State v. Crowell, 116-1052; State v. Ferguson, 107-841.

Punishment may be by fine or imprisonment, but not both: State v. Crowell, 116-1052.

Indictment need not aver a marriage contract: State v. Whitley, 141-823. As to definiteness and persuasiveness of the promise, see State v. Ring, 142-596; State v. Raynor, 145-472; State v. Whitley, 141-823. A bill of indictment which uses the words "innocent virtuous," omitting "and," is not defective: State v. Ratliff, 170-707.

Counsel allowed to comment upon fact that defendant admitted to prosecutrix that he had intercourse with another woman: State v. Kincaid, 142-657.

EVIDENCE. As to sufficiency: State v. Fulcher, 176-724; State v. Cooke, 176-731; State v. Ferguson, 107-841; State v. Horton, 100-443; State v. Ring, 142-596. Corroborating testimony: State v. Pace, 159-462; State v. Malonee, 154-200; State v. Kincaid, 142-657; State v. Whitley, 141-823; State v. Ferguson, 107-841. What is supporting testimony: State v. Moody, 172-967. Declarations: State v. Kincaid, 142-657. Child may be shown to jury for them to see if there is any resemblance between such child and defendant: State v. Horton, 100-443. Character: State v. Kincaid, 142-657; State v. Whitley, 141-823; State v. Ferguson, 107-841.

Evidence of intoxication of prosecutrix prior to seduction is competent: State v. Garland, 95-671—as also is evidence of her inconsistent statements, Ibid. Competent to ask defendant if he has not transferred his property to avoid result of indictment: State v. Kincaid, 142-657. Competent for prosecutrix to tell the inducements and circumstances under which she yielded: State v. Raynor, 145-472; State v. Whitley, 141-823. State can show intercourse of prisoner with prosecutrix after the first act: State v. Robertson, 121-551.

Subsequent familiarities do not negative character as innocent and virtuous woman, but may be considered with reference to character as a witness: State v. Lang, 171-778. As to competency of testimony that there were reports in the neighborhood derogatory to character of prosecutrix, see State v. Whitley, 141-823.

4340. Miscegenation. All marriages between a white person and a negro, or between a white person and a person of negro descent to the third generation inclusive, are forever prohibited, and shall be void. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of an infamous crime, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail or state's prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years, and may also be fined, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3369; Code, s. 1084; Const., Art. XIV, s. 8; R. C., c. 68, s. 7; 1834, c. 24; 1838-9, c. 24.

This section was not affected by changes in the federal and state constitutions, nor by the civil rights bill: State v. Hairston, 63-451; Puit v. Comrs., 94-709; State v. Reinhardt, 63-547.

Marriage solemnized in a state whose laws permit such marriage between a negro and white person, domiciled in such state, is valid in this state: State v. Ross, 76-242—but such marriage solemnized out of this state, with intent to evade our laws, is void, State v. Ross, 76-242; State v. Kenney, 76-251.

As to evidence, see Hopkins v. Bowers, 111-175.

Section cited in State v. Fore, 23-378; State v. Hooper, 27-201. Compare State v. Watters, 25-455; State v. Melton, 44-49.

4341. Issuing license for marriage between white person and negro; performing marriage ceremony. If any register of deeds shall knowingly issue any license for marriage between any person of color and a white person; or if any clergyman, minister of the gospel or justice of the peace shall knowingly marry any such person of color to a white person, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

4342. Bigamy. If any person, being married, shall marry any other person during the life of the former husband or wife, every such offender, and every person counseling, aiding or abetting such offender, shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail for any term not less than four months nor more than ten years. Any such offense may be dealt with, tried, determined and punished in the county where the offender shall be apprehended, or be in custody, as if the offense had been actually committed in that county. If any person, being married, shall contract a marriage with any other person outside of this state, which marriage would be punishable as bigamous if contracted within this state, and shall thereafter cohabit with such person in this state, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished as in cases of bigamy. Nothing contained in this section shall extend to any person marrying a second time, whose husband or wife shall have been continually absent from such person for the space of seven years then last past, and shall not have been known by such person to have been living within that time; nor to any person who at the time of such second marriage shall have been lawfully divorced from the bond of the first marriage; nor to any person whose former marriage shall have been declared void by the sentence of any court of competent jurisdiction.

Rev., s. 3361; Code, s. 988; R. C., c. 34, s. 15; 1790, c. 323; 1809, c. 783; 1829, c. 9; 1913, c. 26. See 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, s. 22.

JURISDICTION. Where offense committed outside of state there is no jurisdiction: State v. Ray, 151-710 (but see change in section as to living as man and wife in this state); State v. Cutshall, 110-538; State v. Burnett, 83-615. The punishment is not for bigamy in another state, but for living together here in bigamous cohabitation: State v. Moon, 178-715. Venue in county where defendant may be apprehended: Ibid.; State v. Ray, 151-710 (but see State v. Bray, 35-289, saying must be in county where second marriage took place)—and where wrong county, plea in abatement is proper remedy where permissible, State v. Long, 143-671.

INDICTMENT. As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Long, 143-670; State v. Connor, 142-707; State v. Goulden, 134-743; State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Davis, 109-780; State v. Bray, 35-289; State v. Norman, 13-222. Not necessary to state date of marriage: State v. Long, 143-670—nor where second marriage took place, Ibid.—nor the name of first wife, State v. Davis, 109-780—nor that defendant had never been divorced from first wife, State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Davis, 109-780. As to variance in name of first wife, see State v. Davis, 109-780. Defendant can ask for bill of particulars: State v. Long, 143-671; see, also, section 4613.

BURDEN OF PROOF. Where want of mental capacity is relied on as defense, burden is on defendant to satisfy jury that he had not sufficient capacity to know right from wrong: State v. Davis, 109-780. Burden on defendant to show valid divorce or seven years absence of the other party to the marriage: State v. Herron, 175-754; State v. Long, 143-671; State v. Goulden, 134-744—and that he did not know first wife was living, Ibid. Burden on defendant to show second marriage took place in another state: State v. Long, 143-671.

EVIDENCE. Second wife is a competent witness either for or against husband: State v. Patterson, 24-346. First wife competent to prove her marriage: State v. Melton, 130-591. Proof of first marriage may be made by admission of defendant or by circumstantial evidence: State v. Goulden, 134-743; State v. Wylde, 110-500. As to use of marriage license in proving fact of marriage, see State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Davis, 109-780. Record of marriages for county is competent to prove marriage: State v. Melton, 120-591. Other cases as to proving marriage: State v. Bray, 35-289; State v. Robbins, 28-23.

After absence of wife for seven years, defendant not justified in remarrying without making inquiry as to whether first wife living, he having driven her from home: State v. Goulden, 134-744.

GENERALLY. The section constitutional: State v. Long, 143-670—except that part which attempts to constitute a second, or bigamous, marriage in another state a crime without parties subsequently living together in this state: State v. Cutshall, 110-538. Bigamy no crime at common law: State v. Burns, 90-707; State v. Barnett, 83-615.

Amended by 1913, c. 26, divorce in another state granted upon constructive service is not sufficient defense: State v. Herron, 175-754; s. c., 173-801.

As to marriage of former slaves, see State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Whitford, 86-636.

Carnal knowledge not necessary to validity of marriage: State v. Patterson, 24-346. Ceremony by de facto justice is valid: State v. Davis, 109-780.

No defense that at first marriage defendant had no license: State v. Robbins, 28-23. Ignorance of law, and advice that defendant's first marriage was not valid, are no defenses: Ibid.

4343. Fornication and adultery. If any man and woman, not being married to each other, shall lewdly and lasciviously associate, bed and cohabit together, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that the admissions or confessions of one shall not be received in evidence against the other.

Rev., s. 3350; Code, s. 1041; R. C., c. 34, s. 45; 1805, c. 684.

Upon trial for fornication and adultery, where one defendant is found guilty and the other not guilty, no judgment can be rendered against the former: State v. Mainor, 28-340; State v. Reinhart, 106-787—except when the intent is not the same, when one may be acquitted and the other convicted, State v. Cutshall, 109-764, overruling in part State v. Mainor, 28-340; State v. Simpson, 133-676—but in an indictment against two, one may be convicted and punished without, or before, any conviction of the other, State v. Lyerly, 52-158; State v. Parham, 50-416.

Marriage, divorce and remarriage in another state, and according to the laws of that state, are valid here: State v. Schlachter, 61-520.

Persons who were formerly slaves, and married as such, are not guilty of fornication and adultery by cohabitation after emancipation: State v. Adams, 65-537.

Marriage of a white person and a negro void: State v. Kennedy, 76-251; State v. Ross, 76-242; State v. Reinhart, 63-547; State v. Hairston, 63-451; State v. Melton, 44-49; State v. Hooper, 27-201; State v. Fore, 23-378; see annotations in chapter entitled Marriage.

One may be guilty of both rape and fornication and adultery: State v. Summers, 98-702. Where verdict returned as to fornication, but not as to adultery, see State v. Cowell, 26-231. New trial may be granted one defendant and judgment pronounced as to the other: State v. Parham, 50-416.

Punishment in discretion of court: State v. Manly, 95-661.

Compare cases under act 1805, holding that the man may be indicted separately: State v. Parham, 50-416; State v. Mainor, 28-340; State v. Cox, 4-597—that indictment must charge that the man and woman have not intermarried, State v. Dickinson, 18-349; State v. Aldridge, 14-331—that defendants may be convicted of either fornication or adultery, State v. Cowell, 26-231.

Section cited in State v. Custer, 65-339; State v. Vermington, 71-264; State v. Perry, 71-522. Referred to in Prendergast v. Prendergast, 146-226.

INDICTMENT. Sufficiency of: State v. Jolly, 20-108; State v. Fore, 23-378; State v. Lyerly, 52-158; State v. Tally, 74-322; State v. Guest, 100-410; State v. Stubbs, 108-774. Need not charge that parties were male and female and not married, if marriage is negatived and the offense charged according to the statute: State v. Lashley, 84-754; but see dicta in State v. Connor, 142-708; see, also, State v. Aldridge, 14-331; State v. Dickerson, 18-348. Indictment sufficient which alleges that defendants "did unlawfully bed and cohabit together": State v. Britt, 150-811.

EVIDENCE. Generally: State v. Gay, 94-814; State v. Summers, 98-702. Sufficiency of: State v. Wade, 169-306; State v. Chaney, 110-507; State v. Poteet, 30-23; State v. Eliason, 91-564; State v. Dixon, 104-704; State v. McDuffie, 107-885; State v. Dukes, 119-782; State v. Rhinehart, 106-787. Insufficiency: State v. Pope, 109-849; State v. Jones, 89-559; State v. Waller, 80-401; State v. Ballard, 79-627; State v. Adams, 65-537. Competency: State v. Manly, 95-661; State v. Roby, 121-682; State v. Guest, 100-410. Corroborating: State v. Austin, 108-780; State v. Wheeler, 104-893; State v. Pippin, 88-646; State v. Kemp, 87-538.

Witnesses competent: State v. Guest, 100-410; State v. Phipps, 76-203. Declarations of wife: State v. Austin, 108-780. Admissions: State v. Simpson, 133-676; State v. Rinehart, 106-787. Burden of proof: State v. Connor, 142-708; State v. Cody, 111-725; State v. McDuffie, 107-885.

1917, c. 158, s. 1.

4345. Opposite sexes occupying same bedroom at hotel for immoral purposes; falsely registering as husband and wife. Any man and woman found occupying the same bedroom in any hotel, public inn or boarding-house for any immoral purpose, or any man and woman falsely registering as, or otherwise representing themselves to be, husband and wife in any hotel, public inn or boarding-house, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished in the discretion of the court.

1917, c. 158, s. 2.

4346. Permitting unmarried female under eighteen in house of prostitution. Whoever, being the keeper of a house of prostitution, or assignation house, building or premises in this state where prostitution, fornication, or concubinage is allowed or practiced, shall suffer or permit any unmarried female under the age of eighteen years to live, board, stop, or room in such house, building or premises, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 18.

4347. Certain evidence relative to keeping disorderly houses admissible; keepers of such houses defined. On a prosecution in any court for keeping a disorderly house or bawdy-house, or permitting a house to be used as a bawdy-house, or used in such a way as to make it disorderly, or a common nuisance, evidence of the general reputation or character of the house shall be admissible and competent; and evidence of the lewd, dissolute and boisterous conversation of the inmates and frequenters, while in and around such house, shall be prima facie evidence of the bad character of the inmates and frequenters, and of the disorderly character of the house. The manager or person having the care, superintendency or government of a disorderly house or bawdy-house is the "keeper" thereof, and one who employs another to manage and conduct a disorderly house or bawdy-house is also "keeper" thereof.

1907, c. 779.

For statute declaring prostitutes and keepers of bawdy-houses vagrants, see section 4459.

A disorderly house is a house kept in a way to disturb and scandalize the public generally or a particular neighborhood or the passers-by: State v. Wilson, 93-608; see, also, State v. Wright, 51-25; State v. Thornton, 44-252; State v. Boyce, 32-536; State v. Matthews, 19-424.

A bawdy-house is the common habitation of prostitutes, a brothel: State v. Evans, 27-603. A woman living alone who allows men to come in and have illicit intercourse with her does not keep a "bawdy-house": State v. Evans, 27-603; State v. Calley, 104-858.

Person renting a house to another with the knowledge that it is to be used, and it is used, as a bawdy-house, is guilty: State v. Boyd, 175-791.

For evidence sufficient and insufficient to establish guilt, see State v. Calley, 104-858; State v. Wilson, 93-608. Evidence as to character and reputation of house is admissible: State v. Price, 175-804.

As to powers of city authorities in the enactment of ordinances concerning bawdy-houses and houses of ill-fame, see State v. Webber, 107-962.

4348. Obscene literature, indecent exposure and lewd dances. If any person shall exhibit for the purpose of gain, lend for hire or otherwise publish or sell for the purpose of gain, or exhibit in any school, college or other institution of learning, or have in his possession for the purpose of sale or distribution, any obscene book, paper, writing, print, drawing or other representation; or if any person shall post any indecent placards, writings, pictures or drawings on walls, fences, bill-boards or other places; or if any person shall make any public exposure of the person or other indecent exhibition, or take part in any immoral show, exhibition or performance, where indecent, immoral or lewd dances or plays are conducted, in any booth, tent, room or other place to which the public is invited; or if any one shall permit such exhibitions or immoral performances to be conducted in any tent, booth, or other place owned or controlled by him, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section referred to: Brèwer v. Wynne, 163-319.

1907, c. 344.

4350. Using profane or indecent language on passenger trains. It shall be unlawful for any person to curse or use profane or indecent language on any passenger train. Any person so offending shall upon conviction be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

1907, c. 470, ss. 1, 2.

4352. Local: Using profane or indecent language on public highways. If any person shall, on any public road or highway and in the hearing of two or more persons, in a loud and boisterous manner, use indecent or profane language, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. The following counties shall be exempted from the provisions of this section: Dare, Tyrrell, Washington, Beaufort, Martin, Pitt, Watauga, Cleveland, Brunswick, Stanly, Perquimans, Pasquotank, Camden, Swain, Gates, Davie, Orange, Jones, Transylvania, Macon and Craven.

The provisions of act 1908, c. 125, as to disorderly conduct in public road in Robeson, does not change the common-law offense: State v. Foulk, 154-638.

Any person who shall use vulgar or obscene language on the premises of the Kannapolis Cotton Mills shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars, or be imprisoned not more than ten days. See 1909, c. 46, s. 3.

4353. Lewd women within three miles of colleges and boarding-schools. If any loose woman or woman of ill-fame shall commit any act of lewdness with or in the presence of any student, who is under twenty-one years old, of any boarding-school or college, within three miles of such school or college, she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Upon the trial of any such case students may be competent but not compellable to give evidence. No prosecution shall be had under this section after the lapse of six months.

Rev., s. 3353; 1889, c. 523.

4354. Obstructing way to places of public worship. If any person shall maliciously stop up or obstruct the way leading to any place of public worship, or to any spring or well commonly used by the congregation, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3776; Code, s. 3669; R. C., c. 97, s. 5; 1785, c. 241.

For injuries to gates across cartways, see section 3837.

In absence of a laying out by public authority or actual dedication, it is essential, in order to constitute a church road which it is indictable to obstruct, not only that there must be a user for 20 years, but the road must have been worked and kept in order by public authority: State v. Lucas, 124-804; see, also, State v. Gross, 119-868; State v. McDaniel, 53-284; State v. Marble, 26-318; State v. Hunter, 27-369.

See annotations under section 3789.

Rev., s. 3705; Code, s. 3670; R. C., c. 97, s. 6; 1809, c. 779, s. 1; 1907, c. 412.

Section cited in State v. Stovall, 103-418.

4356. Permitting stone-horses and stone-mules to run at large. If any person shall let any stone-horse or stone-mule of two years old or upwards run at large, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. This section shall not apply to Hatteras township in Dare county.

Rev., s. 3323; Code, s. 2325; R. C., c. 17, s. 6; 1907, c. 412.

ART. 25. PROSTITUTION

1919, c. 215, s. 2.

4358. Prostitution and various acts abetting prostitution unlawful. It shall be unlawful:

1. To keep, set up, maintain, or operate any place, structure, building or conveyance for the purpose of prostitution or assignation.

2. To occupy any place, structure, building, or conveyance for the purpose of prostitution or assignation; or for any person to permit any place, structure, building or conveyance owned by him or under his control to be used for the purpose of prostitution or assignation, with knowledge or reasonable cause to know that the same is, or is to be, used for such purpose.

3. To receive, or to offer or agree to receive any person into any place, structure, building, or conveyance for the purpose of prostitution or assignation, or to permit any person to remain there for such purpose.

4. To direct, take, or transport, or to offer or agree to take or transport, any person to any place, structure, or building or to any other person, with knowledge or reasonable cause to know that the purpose of such directing, taking, or transporting is prostitution or assignation.

5. To procure, or to solicit, or to offer to procure or solicit for the purpose of prostitution or assignation.

6. To reside in, enter, or remain in any place, structure, or building, or to enter or remain in any conveyance, for the purpose of prostitution or assignation.

7. To engage in prostitution or assignation, or to aid or abet prostitution or assignation by any means whatsoever.

1919, c. 215, s. 1.

4359. Prosecution: in what courts. Prosecutions for the violation of any of the provisions of this article shall be tried in the courts of this state wherein misdemeanors are triable except those courts the jurisdiction of which is so limited by the constitution of this state that such jurisdiction cannot by statute be extended to include criminal actions of the character herein described.

1919, c. 215, s. 6.

4360. Reputation and prior conviction admissible as evidence. In the trial of any person charged with a violation of any of the provisions of this article, testimony of a prior conviction, or testimony concerning the reputation of any place, structure, or building, and of the person or persons who reside in or frequent the same, and of the defendant, shall be admissible in evidence in support of the charge.

1919, c. 215, s. 3.

4361. Degrees of guilt. Any person who shall be found to have committed two or more violations of any of the provisions of section 4358 of this article within a period of one year next preceding the date named in an indictment, information, or charge of violating any of the provisions of such section, shall be deemed guilty in the first degree. Any person who shall be found to have committed a single violation of any of the provisions of such section shall be deemed guilty in the second degree.

1919, c. 215, s. 4.

4362. Punishment; probation; parole. Any person who shall be deemed guilty in the first degree, as set forth in the preceding section, shall be subject to imprisonment in, or commitment to, any penal or reformatory institution in this state for not less than one nor more than three years. In case of a commitment to a reformatory institution the commitment shall be made for an indeterminate period of time of not less than one nor more than three years in duration, and the board of managers or directors of the reformatory institution shall have authority to discharge or to place on parole any person so committed after the service of the minimum term, or any part thereof, and to require the return to the said institution for the balance of the maximum term of any person who shall violate the terms or conditions of the parole.

Any person who shall be deemed guilty in the second degree, as set forth in the preceding section, shall be subject to imprisonment for not more than one year. The sentence imposed, or any part thereof, may be suspended; or the defendant may be placed on probation in the care of a probation officer designated by law or theretofore appointed by the court, upon the recommendation of five responsible citizens.

Probation or parole shall be granted or ordered in the case of a person infected with venereal disease only on such terms and conditions as shall insure medical treatment therefor and prevent the spread thereof, and the court may order any convicted defendant to be examined for venereal disease.

No girl or woman who shall be convicted under this article shall be placed on probation or on parole in the care or charge of any person except a woman probation officer.

1919, c. 215, s. 5.

4363. Constitutionality. The declaration by the courts of any of the provisions of this article as being in violation of the constitution of this state shall not invalidate the remaining provisions.

1919, c. 215, s. 7.

SUBCHAPTER 9. OFFENSES AGAINST PUBLIC JUSTICE

ART. 26. PERJURY

While original section called perjury a misdemeanor, the punishment which might be imposed made it a felony: State v. Hyman, 164-411.

For indictment for perjury, see section 4615. Where witness, sworn with uplifted hand, deposes falsely, he is guilty of perjury: State v. Whisenhurst, 9-458. The administration of the oath is an essential element: State v. Glisson, 93-506.

Where indictment alleges that defendant was sworn "on the Holy Gospels of God," it must be strictly so found: State v. Davis, 69-383. It is presumed that oath was correctly administered: State v. Mace, 86-668.

In a trial for perjury, the burden is not upon defendant to show the truth of the matter: State v. Cline, 150-854.

Where defendant in bastardy indicted for perjury, being charged with falsely swearing that he never had sexual intercourse with prosecutrix, and she swears she never had intercourse with another man, defendant has right to show that she was criminally intimate with another man before birth of child: State v. Jones, 91-629.

Where perjury assigned is that defendant swore in civil case that he never had been member of certain firm, he may show that no such firm ever existed: State v. Smith, 119-856. He is not estopped to deny his former declaration to others who were witnesses that he was a member: Ibid.

Where evidence of prosecuting witness sufficiently corroborating to warrant jury in finding defendant guilty, see State v. Peters, 107-876; State v. Hawkins, 115-712; State v. Glisson, 93-506; State v. Molier, 12-263.

Although one believes the allegation to which he testifies, yet unless he has probable cause for such belief he may be convicted of perjury: State v. Knox, 61-312. See, also, as to intent: State v. Houston, 103-383; State v. Curtis, 34-270.

As to when incompetent witness may be convicted of perjury: State v. Molier, 12-263.

False testimony under oath must have been taken before court having jurisdiction: State v. Alexander, 11-182; State v. Wyatt, 3-56; State v. Ridley, 114-827; State v. Gates, 107-832; State v. Knight, 84-789.

As to whether there was a fatal variance between indictment and proof, see State v. Hester, 122-1047; State v. Green, 100-419; State v. Collins, 85-511; State v. Hare, 95-682; State v. Lewis, 93-581; State v. Davis, 69-383; State v. Harvell, 49-55; State v. Caffey, 6-320; State v. Groves, 44-402; State v. Avera, 4-669; State v. Bradley, 2-463.

As to whether matter testified to falsely was material, see State v. Harris, 145-456; State v. Murphy, 101-697; State v. Hare, 95-682.

As to plea of former acquittal hereunder, see State v. Williams, 1-591.

Section merely cited in Gudger v. Penland, 108-599. See, also, State v. Swaim, 97-462.

4365. Subornation of perjury. If any person shall, by any means, procure another person to commit such willful and corrupt perjury as is mentioned in the preceding section, the person so offending shall be punished in like manner as the person committing the perjury.

Rev., s. 3616; Code, s. 1093; R. C., c. 34, s. 50; 1791, c. 338, s. 2.

4366. Perjury before legislative committees. If any person shall willfully and corruptly swear falsely to any fact material to the investigation of any matter before any committee of either house of the general assembly, he shall be subject to all the pains and penalties of willful and corrupt perjury, and, on conviction in the superior court of Wake county, shall be confined in the state's prison for the time prescribed by law for perjury.

Rev., s. 3611; Code, s. 2857; 1869-70, c. 5, s. 4.

For annotations as to perjury generally, see under sections 4364, 4615.

4367. Perjury in court-martial proceedings. If any person shall willfully and corruptly swear falsely before any court-martial, touching and concerning any matter or thing cognizable before such court-martial, he shall be liable to the pains and penalties of perjury.

See annotations under section 4364. See State v. Gregory, 6-69.

4368. False oath to insurance statement. Any person who shall make oath to a willfully false statement in the annual report or other statement required by law from an insurance company shall be guilty of perjury.

Rev., s. 3493; 1899, c. 54, s. 97.

Rev., s. 3487; 1899, c. 54, s. 60; 1913, c. 89, s. 28.

4370. False oath to statement required of fraternal benefit societies. Any person who shall willfully make any false statement in any verified report or declaration under oath, required or authorized by law from fraternal benefit societies, shall be guilty of perjury.

1913, c. 89, s. 28.

See section 6529.

4371. False oath to certificate of mutual fire insurance company. Any person taking a false oath in respect to the certificate required by law before issuing policies in a mutual fire insurance company, that every subscription for insurance is genuine and made with an agreement that every subscriber will take the policies subscribed for by him within thirty days after granting a license to such company, shall be guilty of perjury.

Rev., ss. 4738, 4834; 1899, c. 54, s. 32; 1901, c. 391, ss. 3, 4; 1903, c. 438, s. 4.

ART. 27. BRIBERY

4372. Bribery of officials. If any person holding office under the laws of this state who, except in payment of his legal salary, fees or perquisites, shall receive, or consent to receive, directly or indirectly, anything of value or personal advantage, or the promise thereof, for performing or omitting to perform any official act, or with the express or implied understanding that his official action, or omission to act, is to be in any degree influenced thereby, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison for a term not exceeding five years, or fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3568; Code, s. 991; 1868-9, c. 176, s. 2.

Indictment is not defective when it charges that defendant "did receive and consent to receive" instead of "did receive or consent to receive": State v. Wynne, 118-1206. Indictment must allege that act charged was done with wilful and corrupt intent: State v. Pritchard, 107-921.

4373. Offering bribes. If any person shall offer a bribe, whether it be accepted or not, he shall be guilty of felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not less than one year nor more than five years in the state's prison or county jail, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3569; Code, s. 992; 1870-1, c. 232.

4374. Bribery of legislators. If any person shall directly or indirectly promise, offer or give, or cause or procure to be promised, offered or given, any money, bribe, present or reward, or any promise, contract, undertaking, obligation or security for the payment or delivery of any money, goods, right of action, bribe, present or reward, or any other valuable thing whatever, to any member of the senate or house of representatives of this state after his election as such member, and either before or after he shall have qualified and taken his seat, with intent to influence his vote or decision on any question, matter, cause or proceeding which may then be pending before the general assembly, or which may come before him for action in his capacity as a member of the general assembly, such person so offering, promising or giving, or causing or procuring to be promised, offered or given any such money, goods, bribe, present or reward, or any bond, contract, undertaking, obligation or security for the payment or delivery of any money, goods, bribe, present or reward, or other valuable thing whatever, and the member-elect who shall in anywise accept or receive the same or any part thereof, shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined not exceeding double the amount so offered, promised or given, and imprisoned in the state's prison not exceeding five years, and the person convicted of so accepting or receiving the same, or any part thereof, shall forfeit his seat in the general assembly and shall be forever disqualified to hold any office of honor, trust or profit under this state.

4375. Bribery of jurors. If any juror, either directly or indirectly, shall take anything from the plaintiff or defendant in a civil suit, or from any defendant in a state prosecution, or from any other person, to give his verdict, every such juror, and the person who shall give such juror any fee or reward to influence his verdict, or induce or procure him to make any gain or profit by his verdict, shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3697; Code, s. 990; R. C., c. 34, s. 34; 5 Edw. III, c. 10; 34 Edw. III, c. 8; 38 Edw. III, c. 12.

See State v. Pritchard, 107-921.

ART. 28. OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE

4376. Breaking or entering jails with intent to injure prisoners. If any person shall conspire to break or enter any jail or other place of confinement of prisoners charged with crime or under sentence, for the purpose of killing or otherwise injuring any prisoner confined therein; or if any person shall engage in breaking or entering any such jail or other place of confinement of such prisoners with intent to kill or injure any prisoner, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction, or upon a plea of guilty, shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars, and imprisoned in the state's prison or the county jail not less than two nor more than fifteen years.

Rev., s. 3698; 1893, c. 461, s. 1.

See generally: State v. Lewis, 142-626. The force and effect of acts 1893, ch. 461, is not impaired by the fact that it has been split up and its different sections placed under appropriate headings: Ibid.

As to indictment, see concurring opinion of Walker, J., in State v. Lewis, 142-647. Upon an indictment under this section defendant may be convicted of an attempt: State v. Rumble, 178-717.

Rev., s. 3699; 1893, c. 461, s. 3.

The force and effect of act 1893, ch. 461, is not impaired by the fact that it has been split up and its different sections placed under appropriate headings: State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4378. Resisting officers. If any person shall willfully and unlawfully resist, delay or obstruct a public officer in discharging or attempting to discharge a duty of his office, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3700; 1889, c. 51, s. 1.

A deputy sheriff collecting back taxes after his term of office has expired is a public officer within this section: State v. Alston, 127-518.

Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Dunn, 109-839. Not necessary to set out the process under which officer acted when he was resisted: State v. Dunn, 109-839.

It is too late after verdict to move in arrest of judgment for misjoinder in the counts where different defendants are indicted, in same bill, though under different counts, for offense here created and that under section 4379: State v. Perdue, 107-853.

As to extent of force to which officer can go in making arrest, see State v. McClure, 166-321; State v. Pugh, 101-737; see annotations under sections 976, 2642, 2639, 4542-4547. What is resisting an officer: State v. McClure, 166-321.

Section cited in State v. Durham, 141-745; State v. Conoly, 28-244.

4379. Failing to aid police officers. If any person, after having been lawfully commanded to aid an officer in arresting any person, or in retaking any person who has escaped from legal custody, or in executing any legal process, willfully neglects or refuses to aid such officer, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3701; 1889, c. 51, s. 2.

Liability for failure to assist in an arrest: State v. Ditmore, 177-592. It is too late after verdict to move in arrest of judgment for misjoinder in courts where different defendants are indicted in same bill, though under different counts, for offense here created and that under section 4378: State v. Perdue, 107-853. See, also, State v. Dunn, 109-839.

4380. Intimidating or interfering with jurors and witnesses. If any person shall by threats, menaces or in any other manner intimidate or attempt to intimidate any person who is summoned or acting as a juror or witness in any of the courts of this state, or prevent or deter, or attempt to prevent or deter any person summoned or acting as such juror or witness from attendance upon such court, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3696; 1891, c. 87.

This section is additional to, and not a repeal of, the inherent right of the court to protect itself by proceedings as for contempt: In re Young, 137-552. Section cited in State v. Hodge, 142-670.

4381. Failing to attend as witness before legislative committees. If any person shall willfully fail or refuse to attend or produce papers, on summons of any committee of investigation of either house of the general assembly, either select or committee of the whole, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction in the superior court of the county in which such witness may reside or be found, he shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and shall be subject to imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3692; Code, s. 2854; 1869-70, c. 5, s. 2.

ART. 29. MISCONDUCT IN PUBLIC OFFICE

4382. Buying and selling offices. If any person shall bargain away or sell an office or deputation of an office, or any part or parcel thereof, or shall take money, reward or other profit, directly or indirectly, or shall take any promise, covenant, bond or assurance for money, reward or other profit, for an office or the deputation of an office, or any part thereof, which office or any part thereof shall touch or concern the administration or execution of justice, or the receipt, collection, control or disbursement of the public revenue, or shall concern or touch any clerkship in any court of record wherein justice is administered; or if any person shall give or pay money, reward or other profit, or shall make any promise, agreement, bond or assurance for any of such offices, or for the deputation of any of them, or for any part of them, the person so offending in any of the cases aforesaid shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall forfeit all his right, interest and estate in such office, and every part and parcel thereof, and shall be imprisoned and fined at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3571; Code, s. 998; R. C., c. 34, s. 33; 5, 6 Edw. VI, c. 16, ss. 1, 5.

Sheriff farming out office, see section 3946.

4383. Acting as officer before qualifying as such. If any officer shall enter on the duties of his office before he executes and delivers to the authority entitled to receive the same the bonds required by law, and qualifies by taking and subscribing and filing in the proper office the oath of office prescribed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be ejected from his office.

Rev., s. 3565; Code, s. 79.

4384. Willfully failing to discharge duties. If any clerk of any court of record, sheriff, justice of the peace, county commissioner, county surveyor, coroner, treasurer, constable or official of any of the state institutions, or of any county, city or town, shall willfully omit, neglect or refuse to discharge any of the duties of his office, for default whereof it is not elsewhere provided that he shall be indicted, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If it shall be proved that such officer, after his qualification, willfully and corruptly omitted, neglected or refused to discharge any of the duties of his office, or willfully and corruptly violated his oath of office according to the true intent and meaning thereof, such officer shall be guilty of misbehavior in office, and shall be punished by removal therefrom under the sentence of the court as a part of the punishment for the offense, and shall also be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3592; 1901, c. 270, s. 2.

If an officer willfully fails to perform his duty he is subject to indictment; and if such failure is wilful and corrupt he may be removed from office: Battle v. Rocky Mount, 156-329.

Sheriff indictable for failure to return process: State v. Berry, 169-371. County commissioners indictable for failure to provide suitable courthouse: Ward v. Comrs., 146-534; State v. Leeper, 146-655—or for failure to provide four (now six) months public school, Board of Education v. Comrs., 150-116; Collie v. Comrs., 145-170. Enforced by mandamus: Ibid.; Gilmer v. Holton, 98-26. Manner of levying tax is within commissioners' discretion: Board of Education v. Comrs., 150-116.

For penalty, acting without bond, see section 325.

For fuller annotations, see under section 4385.

Cases as to clerk of court prior to this enactment: State v. Dayton, 119-880; State v. Connelly, 104-794—as to register of deeds, State v. Snuggs, 85-541—as to sheriff, State v. Joyce, 2-43; State v. Johnston, 2-293—as to county commissioners, State v. Hatch, 116-1003; State v. Justices, 11-194—as to town commissioners, State v. Comrs., 48-399—as to overseer of poor, State v. Hawkins, 77-494.

4385. Failing to make reports and discharge other duties. If any state or county officer shall fail, neglect or refuse to make, file or publish any report, statement or other paper, or to deliver to his successor all books and other property belonging to his office, or to pay over or deliver to the proper person all moneys which come into his hands by virtue or color of his office, or to discharge any duty devolving upon him by virtue of his office and required of him by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3576.

Officer abusing or fraudulently exceeding definite powers conferred is guilty hereunder even though no injury results to any one. The crime consists in his public example, in perverting powers committed to him as instruments of benefit to, and safety of the rights of, the citizens: State v. Glasgow, 1-264.

Officer who must exercise his judgment or discretion is not indictable for errors honestly made, but any officer acting corruptly is liable both criminally and civilly, whether acting under the law or without the law: State v. Powers, 75-281; Staton v. Wimberly, 122-107; see State v. Williams, 34-173—but honesty and good intent are not always a good defense when wilful carelessness, resulting in injury to public, is shown, State v. Hatch, 116-1003; see Turner v. McKee, 137-254, and cases there cited.

This section embraces acts of omission only, and does not extend to every illegal act done by virtue of office: State v. Snuggs, 85-541; see, also, State v. Hatch, 116-1003.

Officer not indictable for obeying unconstitutional act, nor for refusing to perform duties under act repealed by unconstitutional one, at least until after court declares same unconstitutional: State v. Godwin, 123-697; see State v. Powers, 75-281.

Officer cannot refuse to act because of certain supposed defects in indictment in this case: State v. Davis, 111-729.

Indictment must allege that officer was required to take oath of office: State v. Pritchard, 107-921. Indictment alleging that defendant "did receive and consent to receive" unlawful compensation not defective because word "and" used instead of word "or": State v. Wynne, 118-1206. Indictment against overseer of poor for failure to provide adequately for paupers must state names of paupers or that their names are unknown: State v. Hawkins, 77-494. Sufficiency of indictment: State v. Cole, 156-618.

De facto officers indictable hereunder: State v. Wynne, 118-1206. As to de facto officers generally, see annotations under section 3204.

Secretary of state indictable for fraudulently issuing land warrants: State v. Glasgow, 1-264.

Clerk of court not indictable hereunder for embezzling distributee's share paid to him by administrator: State v. Connelly, 104-794. Semble, that clerk indictable hereunder for neglecting to send up transcript of appeal in criminal action, whether fees paid or not: State v. Deyton, 119-880. Failure of clerk to pay over a license tax raises presumption that such failure was wilful, and clerk must rebut presumption: State v. Heaton, 77-505.

Register of deeds not indictable hereunder for issuing marriage license to female under marriageable age without written consent of father: State v. Snuggs, 85-541.

Chief clerk of house of representatives liable for negligently permitting bill to be delivered for enrollment, and enrolling clerk for enrolling a bill which had not been passed; as to sufficiency of evidence to warrant verdict of guilty, see State v. Satterfield, 121-558; State v. Brown, 119-789.

Sheriff indictable for false return: State v. Joyce, 2-43—even though deputy made the return in sheriff's name, State v. Johnston, 2-293; see section 3936. Officer failing to return civil process: State v. Berry, 169-371.

County commissioners selling county property at grossly inadequate price and for less than could have been obtained by reasonable effort, and without opportunity for competition, is evidence of omission of duty: State v. Hatch, 116-1003. County commissioners indictable for failure to levy taxes to build a jail: State v. Justices, 11-194.

Town commissioners indictable for failure to let out repairing of streets and to levy tax therefor when statute empowers and requires them to do so: State v. Comrs., 48-399.

Overseer of poor indictable hereunder for neglect of duties or abuse of powers: State v. Hawkins, 77-494.

Registrar of election not indictable for refusing to register voter for failure to pay taxes, though such provision requiring it may be unconstitutional: State v. Powers, 75-281. Failure of an officer in a primary election to perform his duty properly: State v. Cole, 156-618.

Officer armed with process for a breach of the peace may lawfully break open doors of house, after having been refused entrance, to effect the arrest, if he act in good faith, and is not indictable hereunder: State v. Mooring, 115-709.

4386. Swearing falsely to official reports. If any clerk, sheriff, register of deeds, county commissioner, county treasurer, justice of the peace, constable or other county officer shall willfully swear falsely to any report or statement required by law to be made or filed, concerning or touching the county, state or school revenue, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3605; Code, s. 731; 1874-5, c. 151, s. 4; 1876-7, c. 276, s. 4.

4387. Making of false report by bank examiners; accepting bribes. If any bank examiner shall knowingly and willfully make any false or fraudulent report of the condition of any bank which shall have been examined by him, with the intent to aid or abet the officers, owners or agents of such bank in continuing to operate an insolvent bank; or if any such examiner shall receive or accept any bribe or gratuity, given for the purpose of inducing him not to file any report of an examination of any bank made by him, or shall neglect to make an examination of any bank by reason of having received or accepted any bribe or gratuity, he shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3324; 1903, c. 275, s. 24.

Rev., s. 3572; Code, s. 1011; R. C., c. 34, s. 38; 1825, c. 1269; 1826, c. 29.

A county commissioner is indictable for receiving extra pay for his time, etc., in investigating a bridge: Davidson v. Guilford, 152-436. A member of a board of aldermen who is also an officer of private corporation is liable under this section for contracting with the private corporation: State v. Williams, 153-595.

Section does not extend to contracts between a city and those having an employee as alderman: State v. Weddell, 153-587. Not necessary to show moral turpitude to convict under this section: Ibid.

Rev., s. 3575; Code, s. 1009; 1868-9, c. 260.

Sheriff not guilty where he purchases county claims below par for benefit of county and at instance of county commissioners: State v. Garland, 134-749.

4390. Acting as agent for those furnishing supplies for schools and other state institutions. If any member of any board of directors, board of managers, board of trustees of any of the educational, charitable, eleemosynary or penal institutions of the state, or any member of any board of education, or any county or district superintendent or examiner of teachers, or any trustee of any school or other institution supported in whole or in part from any of the public funds of the state, or any officer, agent, manager, teacher or employee of such boards, shall have any pecuniary interest, either directly or indirectly, proximately or remotely, in supplying any goods, wares or merchandise of any nature or kind whatsoever for any of said institutions or schools; or if any of such officers, agents, managers, teachers or employees of such institution or school or state or county officer shall act as agent for any manufacturer, merchant, dealer, publisher or author for any article of merchandise to be used by any of said institutions or schools; or shall receive, directly or indirectly, any gift, emolument, reward or promise of reward for his influence in recommending or procuring the use of any manufactured article, goods, wares or merchandise of any nature or kind whatsoever by any of such institutions or schools, he shall be forthwith removed from his position in the public service, and shall upon conviction be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars and be imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

See section 4388.

4391. Buying school supplies from interested officer. If any county board of education or school committee shall buy school supplies in which any member has a pecuniary interest, or if any school officers or teachers shall receive any gift, emolument, reward or promise of reward for influence in recommending or procuring the use of any school supplies for the schools with which they are connected, such person shall be removed from his position in the public service and shall, upon conviction, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3835; 1901, c. 4, s. 69.

See section 4388.

4392. Selling bonds without giving proper notice. It shall be unlawful for any board of county commissioners, board of road commissioners, school board or school committee, or any drainage commissioner or board of drainage commissioners of any county, city, town, road, school, or drainage district to sell bonds for any purpose, either at public or private sale, without giving notice of the time and place of sale in some newspaper published in such county, city or town at least thirty days prior to the date of sale: Provided, that where there is no newspaper published in the county, such notice shall be posted at the courthouse door in such county at least thirty days prior to the sale.

Any violation of this section by any person or corporation whose duty it shall be to issue and sell such bonds shall constitute a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

4393. Allowing prisoners to escape; burden of proof. If any person charged with a crime or sentenced by the court upon conviction of any offense, shall be legally committed to any sheriff, constable or jailer, or shall be arrested by any sheriff, deputy sheriff or coroner acting as sheriff, by virtue of any capias issuing on a bill of indictment, information or other criminal proceeding, and such sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, constable or jailer, willfully or negligently, shall suffer such person, so charged or sentenced and committed, to escape out of his custody, the sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, constable or jailer so offending, being thereof convicted, shall be removed from office, and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court before whom the trial may be had; and in all such cases it shall be sufficient, in support of the indictment against such sheriff or other officer, to prove that the person so charged or sentenced was committed to his custody, and it shall lie upon the defendant to show that such escape was not by his consent or negligence, but that he had used all legal means to prevent the same, and acted with proper care and diligence: Provided, that such removal of a sheriff shall not affect his duty or power as a collector of the public revenue, but he shall proceed on such duty and be accountable as if such conviction and removal had not been had.

Rev., s. 3577; Code, s. 1022; R. C., c. 34, s. 35; 1791, c. 343, s. 1; 1905, c. 350.

Escape defined: State v. Ritchie, 107-857; State v. Johnson, 94-924.

This section contemplates two kinds of escape—one the result of negligence and the other the result of wilful act of officer: State v. McLain, 104-894. Actual negligence the test of guilt when negligence charged: State v. Johnson, 94-924—and it is implied when prisoner escapes; exceptions, Ibid. Officer must use due diligence and good faith to keep prisoner, and as to whether he did is a question for the jury: State v. Blackley, 131-726; State v. Lewis, 113-622; State v. Hunter, 94-829. Failure to put handcuffs on prisoner is not negligence per se: Ibid.

Not necessary to charge in indictment that escape was “wilfully” or “unlawfully” permitted, but that it is “negligently” permitted is sufficient: State v. McLain, 104-894. Indictment lies at common law for an escape independently of this section: State v. Ritchie, 107-857; State v. Johnson, 94-924. It will not be quashed on the ground that the judgment against prisoner committed was illegal: State v. Garrell, 82-581.

Indictment for assisting escape must show prisoner lawfully imprisoned: State v. Jones, 78-420. Defendant cannot justify by showing judgment against prisoner erroneous: State v. Garrell, 82-580. Parol mittimus from justice will not make officer acting under it liable for escape: State v. Dean, 48-393.

Where escape pending appeal, appeal will not be dismissed, but may be continued till prisoner retaken: State v. Cody, 119-908; State v. Jacobs, 107-772; State v. Pickett, 94-97—or court can proceed, and judgment will not be invalid simply because prisoner was not in custody or before the court, State v. Jacobs, 107-772.

Procedure where prisoner under death sentence escapes and is not recaptured before date set for execution, see State v. Cardwell, 95-643.

When escape proved or admitted, burden to show that it was not unlawfully allowed or that there was no negligence shifts to defendant: State v. Lewis, 113-622; State v. Kittelle, 110-573; State v. Hunter, 94-829.

Compare, as to indictment charging that prisoner was lawfully detained, State v. Jones, 78-420.

4394. Solicitor to prosecute officer for escape. It shall be the duty of solicitors, when they shall be informed or have knowledge of any felon, or person otherwise charged with any crime or offense against the state, having within their respective districts escaped out of the custody of any sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, constable or jailer, to take the necessary measures to prosecute such sheriff or other officer so offending.

See annotations under section 4393.

4395. Disposing of public documents or refusing to deliver them over to successor. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court of each county, and every other person to whom the acts of the general assembly, supreme court reports or other public documents are transmitted or deposited for the use of the county or the state, to keep the same safely in their respective offices; and if any such person having the custody of such books and documents, for the uses aforesaid, shall negligently and willfully dispose of the same, by sale or otherwise, or refuse to deliver over the same to his successor in office, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3604; Code, s. 1112; R. C., c. 34, s. 118; 1818, c. 980, s. 3; 1827, c. 20, s. 4.

See generally: Harrell v. Warren, 100-259. This applies to civil process as well as to criminal process (overruling Mfg. Co. v. Buxton, 105-74): State v. Berry, 169-371.

Not liable for penalty for declining to receive a process which at that time could not be served: Fentress v. Brown, 61-373.

Several penalties against the same defendant may be joined, and when they exceed $200 superior court has jurisdiction: Burrell v. Hughes, 116-431.

That the clerk of the court mailed a process to sheriff of another county is prima facie evidence that sheriff received it, and will support a judgment nisi, if there is no return of the process: State v. Latham, 51-233.

Section cited in State v. Brown, 119-827. Compare State v. Ferguson, 76-197; State v. Johnston, 2-293; State v. Joyce, 2-43.

Rev., s. 3788; Code, s. 3823; 1870-1, c. 177, s. 2.

See section 2681. Section cited in Covington v. Rockingham, 93-139; Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126-70; Wilson v. Green, 135-352.

4398. Failing to file report of fines. If any officer who is by law required to file any report or statement of fines or penalties with the county board of education shall fail so to do at or before the time fixed by law for the filing of such report, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3579; 1901, c. 4, s. 62.

4399. Failure of ex-justice of the peace to turn over books and papers. If any justice of the peace, on expiration of his term of office, or if any personal representative of a deceased justice of the peace shall, after demand upon him by the clerk of the superior court, willfully fail and refuse to deliver to the clerk of the superior court all docket, all law and other books, and all official papers which came into his hands by virtue or color of his office, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3578; Code, ss. 828, 829; 1885, c. 402.

Section cited in Bailey v. Hester, 101-540; Whitehurst v. Transportation Co., 109-344.

ART. 30. MISCONDUCT IN PRIVATE OFFICE

4400. Failure of certain railroad officers to account with successors. If the president and directors of any railroad company, and any person acting under them, shall, upon demand, fail or refuse to account with the president and directors elected or appointed to succeed them, and to transfer to them forthwith all the money, books, papers, choses in action, property and effects of every kind and description belonging to such company, they shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state's prison for not less than one nor more than five years, and be fined at the discretion of the court. All persons conspiring with any such president, directors or their agents to defeat, delay or hinder the execution of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished in like manner. The governor is hereby authorized, at the request of the president, directors and other officers of any railroad company, to make requisition upon the governor of any other state for the apprehension of any such president failing to comply with this section.

Rev., s. 3760; Code, ss. 2001, 2002; 1870-1, c. 72, ss. 1-3.

Acts of February 5, 1870, and of March 8, 1870, which dispose of special tax bonds, make this section refer only to money, choses in action, property and effects belonging to the company: State v. Jones, 67-210.

4401. Malfeasance of bank officers and agents. If any president, director, cashier, teller, clerk or agent of any bank or other corporation shall embezzle, abstract or willfully misapply any of the moneys, funds or credits of the bank, or shall, without authority from the directors, issue or put forth any certificate of deposit, draw any order or bill of exchange, make any acceptance, assign any note, bond, draft, bill of exchange, mortgage, judgment or decree, or make any false entry in any book, report or statement of the bank with the intent in either case to injure or defraud or to deceive any officer of the bank, or if any person shall aid and abet in the doing of any of these things, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than four months nor more than fifteen years, and likewise fined, at the discretion of the court.

See State v. Dewey, 139-556.

4402. Making false entries in banking accounts; misrepresenting assets and liabilities of banks. If any person shall willfully and knowingly subscribe to, or make, or cause to be made, any false statement or false entry in the books of any corporation, partnership, firm or individual transacting a banking business, or shall knowingly subscribe to or exhibit false papers, with the intent to deceive any person authorized to examine into the affairs of such corporation, partnership, firm or individual, or shall willfully and knowingly make, state or publish any false statement of the amount of the assets or liabilities of any such corporation, partnership, firm or individual, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3326; 1903, c. 275, s. 27.

ART. 31. PRISON BREACH AND PRISONERS

4403. Escape of hired prisoners from custody. If any prisoner, who shall be removed from the prison of the respective counties, cities and towns under the law providing for the hiring out of prisoners by counties and towns, shall escape from the person or company having him in custody, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned at hard labor not more than thirty days, or fined not more than fifty dollars.

Rev., s. 3658; Code, s. 3455; 1876-7, c. 196, s. 4.

Counties and towns may hire out convict prisoners, see sections 1356-1358.

4404. Prison breach and escape. If any person shall break prison, being lawfully confined therein, or shall escape from the custody of any superintendent, guard or officer, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3657; Code, s. 1021; R. C., c. 34, s. 19; 1 Edw. II, st. 2d; 1909, c. 872.

This section reduces common-law offense from a felony to a misdemeanor: State v. Brown, 82-585.

4405. Permitting escape of or maltreating hired convicts. If any person charged in any way with the control or management of convicts, hired for service outside of the state's prison, shall negligently permit them to escape, or shall maltreat them, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; but this provision shall not be held to relieve any person from any criminal liability.

Rev., s. 3659; Code, s. 3450; 1881, c. 127, s. 2.

See annotations under section 4393. Negligence is implied, unless the escape is occasioned by the act of God or an irresistible adverse force: State v. Johnson, 94-924.

Officers and agents will not be held to the strict common-law responsibility for the custody of convicts employed outside of the penitentiary; actual negligence being the test of guilt: State v. Johnson, 94-924. Section cited in State v. Sneed, 94-809.

4406. Conveying messages and weapons to convicts and other prisoners. If any person shall convey to or from any convict any letters or oral messages, or shall convey to any convict or person imprisoned, charged with crime and awaiting trial any weapon or instrument by which to effect an escape, or that will aid him in an assault or insurrection, or shall trade with a convict for his clothing or stolen goods, or shall sell to him any article forbidden him by prison rules, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that when a murder, an assault or an escape is effected with the means furnished, the person convicted of furnishing the means shall be sentenced to not less than four years hard labor in the state's prison.

Rev., s. 3662; Code, s. 3441; 1873-4, c. 158, s. 12; 1911, c. 11.

4407. Injury to prisoner by jailer. If the keeper of a jail shall do, or cause to be done, any wrong or injury to the prisoners committed to his custody, contrary to law, he shall not only pay treble damages to the person injured, but shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3661; Code, s. 3463; R. C., c. 87, s. 8; 1795, c. 433, s. 6.

4408. Confining prisoners to improper apartments. If the sheriff or jailer shall wantonly or unnecessarily confine those committed to his custody in any apartment, other than that provided and designated by law for persons of the description of the prisoner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3660; Code, s. 3471; R. C., c. 87, s. 16; 1795, c. 433, s. 4.

4409. Requiring female prisoners to work in chain-gang. If any officer, either judicial, executive or ministerial, shall order or require the working of any female on the streets or roads in any group or chain-gang in this state, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3596; 1897, c. 270.

SUBCHAPTER 10. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC PEACE

ART. 32. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC PEACE

4410. Carrying concealed weapons. If any one, except when on his own premises, shall carry concealed about his person any bowie-knife, dirk, dagger, slung-shot, loaded cane, brass, iron or metallic knuckles or razor or other deadly weapon of like kind, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court. If any one, except on his own premises, shall carry concealed about his person any pistol or gun, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than thirty days nor more than two years, at the discretion of the court. Upon conviction or submission the deadly weapon with reference to which the defendant shall have been convicted shall be condemned and ordered confiscated and destroyed by the judge presiding at the trial. If any one, not being on his own lands, shall have about his person any such deadly weapon, such possession shall be prima facie evidence of the concealment thereof. This section shall not apply to the following persons: officers and soldiers of the United States Army, civil officers of the United States while in the discharge of their official duties, officers and soldiers of the militia and the state guard when called into actual service, officers of the state, or of any county, city or town, charged with the execution of the laws of the state, when acting in the discharge of their official duties.

Rev., s. 3708; Code, s. 1005; 1917, c. 76; 1919, c. 197, s. 8.

Meaning of "his own premises": State v. Bridgers, 169-309; State v. Hewell, 90-705; State v. Terry, 93-585; State v. Anderson, 129-521; State v. Perry, 120-580. Statute embraces a "butcher's knife": State v. Erwin, 91-545. "Fine or imprisonment" does not mean both: State v. Taylor, 124-803. The exceptions do not include officers of corporations which invite the public to use their lines for travel: State v. Perry, 120-580—nor do they include a mail carrier, State v. Boone, 132-1107.

This offense consists in the guilty intent to carry the weapon concealed, and does not depend upon the intent to use it: State v. Brown, 125-704; State v. Reams, 121-556; State v. Lilly, 116-1049; State v. Dixon, 114-850; State v. Brodnax, 91-543; State v. Gilbert, 87-527.

Carrying concealed weapons off one's premises is not excused even in self-defense: State v. Woodlief, 172-885; State v. Speller, 86-697—nor is it excused when carried for hunting, State v. Woodfin, 87-526.

A person acting in ignorance of the law, in good faith, and upon the advice of the clerk of the court or an attorney, but in violation of the statute, is not excused: State v. Simmons, 143-613.

Statute constitutional: State v. Speller, 86-697. Superior court has exclusive jurisdiction: State v. Ramsour, 113-642.

Whether or not weapon is concealed is a question for the jury: State v. Lilly, 116-1049; State v. Reams, 121-556. Defendant offering himself as witness may be asked if he has carried concealed weapon off his premises within the two years next preceding the indictment, and can be compelled to answer it, he having waived his constitutional privilege to refuse to incriminate himself: State v. Allen, 107-805; State v. Mitchell, 119-784. A mere servant or hireling is indictable if he carry weapon concealed on his master's premises: State v. Dayton, 119-880.

A verdict "guilty of carrying concealed weapon in a suitcase" is not sufficient: State v. Parker, 152-790.

PRIMA FACIE CASE AND BURDEN OF PROOF. Where defendant has two pistols buckled around him, without scabbards and naked on a belt, the prima facie case of the statute is rebutted: State v. Roten, 86-701. Prima facie case raised by the statute may be rebutted, and is by a specific finding that the act was done without intent to conceal it: State v. Brown, 125-704; State v. Gilbert, 87-527; State v. Dixon, 114-850, overruling State v. Harrison, 93-605; State v. Brodnax, 91-543. Statute makes possession prima facie evidence of concealment, and the burden is upon the defendant to rebut the presumption by satisfactory proof to jury: State v. Hamby, 126-1066; State v. Reams, 121-556; State v. Lilly, 116-1049; State v. McManus, 89-555. As to effect of "prima facie evidence," see State v. Wilkerson, 164-432.

The burden is upon a civil officer to show that he was actually engaged in the discharge of his official duty: State v. Simmons, 143-613; State v. Hayne, 88-625.

Section cited in State v. McNeely, 92-829; State v. Barrett, 138-635; State v. Divine, 93-784; State v. McBrayer, 98-626. Compare State v. Wilson, 84-777.

4411. Sending, accepting or bearing challenges to fight duels. If any person shall send, accept or bear a challenge to fight a duel, though no death ensue, he, and all such as counsel, aid and abet him, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, moreover, be ineligible to any office of trust, honor or profit in the state, any pardon or reprieve notwithstanding.

For fighting a duel when death ensues, see section 4203. Duel defined to be a combat between two persons, fought with deadly weapons by agreement: State v. Fritz, 133-727.

Challenge may be by word or letter: State v. Farrier, 8-487. A challenge to fight with fists and hands, no deadly weapon to be used, is not a challenge to fight a duel: State v. Fritz, 133-725.

A challenge to fight a duel out of the state is indictable: State v. Farrier, 8-487.

Jurisdiction is in superior court, but on indictment in superior court accused may be found guilty and convicted of a simple assault: State v. Fritz, 133-725—and punishment should be such as justice of the peace could inflict, Ibid.

Indictment need not set out copy of challenge: State v. Farrier, 8-487.

Rev., s. 3707; 1895, c. 28, ss. 1-4.

Governor to prevent prize fights, see section 7636 (6).

4413. Disturbing picnics, entertainments and other meetings. If any person shall willfully interrupt or disturb any picnic, excursion party, school entertainment, political meeting, or any meeting or other organization whatsoever lawfully and peaceably held, either at, within or without the place where such picnic, excursion party, school entertainment, political meeting or other meeting or organization is held, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3704; 1897, c. 213.

Wilful disturbance of Sunday school is indictable at common law and under the statute: State v. Branner, 149-559. Disturbing a religious meeting at a private residence is indictable: State v. Starnes, 151-724.

4414. Disturbing schools and scientific and temperance meetings; injuring property of schools and temperance societies. If any person shall willfully interrupt or disturb any public or private school or temperance society or organization or any meeting lawfully and peacefully held for the purpose of literary and scientific improvement, or for the discussion of temperance or question of moral reform, either within or without the place where such meeting or school is held, or injure any school building, or deface any school furniture, apparatus or other school property, or property of any temperance society or organization, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3838; Code, s. 2592; 1885, c. 140; 1901, c. 4, s. 28.

Claiming the right to occupy a schoolhouse and refusing to surrender it to one elected to teach a public school thereat, and thus preventing the school's being held there, is not interrupting or disturbing a public school within this section: State v. Spray, 113-686.

Section cited: State v. Cooper, 104-890.

Rev., s. 3706; 1901, c. 738.

DECISIONS ON SIMILAR STATUTES. To make the disturbance indictable the people must have collected together at or about the time and at the place where the public worship is to take place: State v. Bryson, 82-576. Disturbing a congregation engaged in public worship is indictable, though it be not in a church, chapel or meeting-house especially set apart for that purpose: State v. Ramsey, 78-448; State v. Swink, 20-492—in private house, State v. Starnes, 151-724. Disturbing Sunday school: State v. Branner, 149-559.

Not indictable if the disturbance takes place after the service is over: State v. Davis, 126-1059; State v. Ramsey, 78-448; State v. Fisher, 25-111. Where two men fight near a church and a third party runs to church and calls out, "They are fighting at the fire," the two men are not guilty hereunder: State v. Kirby, 108-772.

Disturbance of a church congregation by singing is not indictable where the singer is taking part conscientiously in the service: State v. Ramsey, 78-448; State v. Linkhaw, 69-215.

Insufficiency of indictment: State v. Bryson, 82-576. Sufficiency of evidence: State v. Jasper, 15-323; State v. Ramsey, 78-448.

4416. Detectives going armed in a body. If any body of men composed of more than three persons, calling themselves detectives or claiming to be in the employ of any detective agency or known and designated as detectives, shall go armed, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3703; 1893, c. 191.

SUBCHAPTER 11. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC SAFETY

ART. 33. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PUBLIC SAFETY

4417. Malicious injury of property of railroads and other carriers; causing death or other physical injury thereby. If any person shall willfully and maliciously put or place any matter or thing upon, over or near any railroad track; or shall willfully and maliciously destroy, injure or remove the road-bed, or any part thereof, or any rail, sill or other part of the fixture appurtenant to or constituting or supporting any portion of the track of such railroad; or shall willfully and maliciously do any other thing with intent to obstruct, stop, hinder, delay or displace the cars traveling on such road, or to stop, hinder or delay the passengers or others passing over the same; or shall willfully and maliciously injure the road-bed or the fixtures aforesaid, or any part thereof, with any other intent whatsoever, such person so offending shall be guilty of a felony and shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars nor less than two hundred dollars, and be imprisoned in the state's prison or county jail not less than four months nor more than ten years, and shall be committed to jail till he find surety for his good behavior, for a space of time of not less than three nor more than seven years. If it shall happen that by reason of the commission of the offenses aforesaid, or any of them, any engine or car shall be displaced from the track, or shall be stopped, hindered or delayed, so that any one thereby be instantly killed, or so wounded or hurt as to die therefrom in twelve calendar months thereafter, or shall thereby be maimed or be disabled in the use of any limb or member, then, and in every such case, the party so offending, his counselors, aiders and abettors, on conviction, shall suffer death, if the person is killed, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than five nor more than sixty years if the person is maimed or disabled. If any person shall maliciously destroy or injure any plank-road, turnpike or canal, or any appurtenance or fixture belonging thereto or used therewith, or shall maliciously destroy or injure any lock, dam or sluice, the same being a part of any work erected or made for the purpose of navigation, or improving the navigation of any water, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall suffer the like punishment as in this section is provided for maliciously injuring a railroad.

Rev., s. 3754; Code, s. 1098; R. C., c. 34, ss. 99, 100; 1838, c. 38; 1879, c. 255, s. 2; 1911, c. 200.

Section cited in State v. Holder, 153-606.

4418. Injuring without malice property of railroads and other carriers; causing death or other physical injury thereby. If any person, unlawfully and on purpose, but without malice, shall commit any of the offenses mentioned in the preceding section, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If it shall happen that by reason of the commission of any such offense any person shall be instantly killed, or so wounded or hurt as to die therefrom in twelve calendar months thereafter, or shall thereby be maimed or disabled in the use of any limb or member, then, and in every such case, the party so offending, his counselors, aiders and abettors, shall be imprisoned not less than twelve months, and fined at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3755; Code, s. 1099; R. C., c. 34, s. 101.

4419. Shooting or throwing at trains or passengers. If any person shall willfully and unlawfully cast, throw or shoot any stone, rock, bullet, shot, pellet or other missile at, against, or into any railroad car, locomotive or train, or any person thereon, while such car or locomotive shall be in progress from one station to another, or while such car, locomotive or train shall be stopped for any purpose, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the county jail or state's prison, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3763; Code, s. 1100; 1887, c. 19; 1876-7, c. 4; 1911, c. 179.

The presumption that every man intends the natural consequences of his acts is only prima facie, and where there is evidence that defendant was drunk, the intent is properly left to jury: State v. Barbee, 92-820.

Indictment must aver that the train was in actual motion or stopped for a temporary purpose: State v. Boyd, 86-634.

Not necessary to show that the pistol discharged by defendant was loaded with ball or shot, or that the car was struck, and burden is on defendant to show that pistol was unloaded, as matter in defense: State v. Hinson, 82-597.

Section referred to in State v. Holder, 153-606.

4420. Operating trains and street cars while intoxicated. Any train dispatcher, telegraph operator, engineer, fireman, flagman, brakeman, switchman, conductor, motorman, or other employee of any steam, street, suburban or inter-urban railway company, who shall be intoxicated while engaged in running or operating, or assisting in running or operating, any railway train, shifting-engine, or street or other electric car, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3758; Code, s. 1972; 1891, c. 114; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 38; 1907, c. 330.

4421. Displaying false lights on seashore. If any person shall make or display, or cause to be made or displayed, any false light or beacon on or near the seacoast, for the purpose of deceiving and misleading masters of vessels, and thereby putting them in danger of shipwreck, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years.

Rev., s. 3430; Code, s. 1024; R. C., c. 34, s. 58; 1831, c. 42.

A board fence with barbed wire on top, within ten yards of a public highway, is a violation of this section: State v. Thomas, 149-565.

4423. Exploding dynamite cartridges and bombs. If any person shall fire off or explode, or cause to be fired off or exploded, except for mechanical purposes:

in a legitimate business, any dynamite cartridge, bomb or other explosive of a like nature, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3794; 1887, c. 364, s. 53.

4424. Storing explosives near causeway on Eagle's island. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to erect or keep any magazine or other building for the storage of gunpowder, dynamite or other explosives within one hundred yards of the road or causeway on Eagle's island between the Cape Fear and Brunswick rivers: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to warehouses for the storage of spirits of turpentine, rosin and tar. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, or be imprisoned thirty days, or both, in the discretion of the court. 1907, c. 768.

4425. Keeping for sale or selling explosives without a license. If any dealer or other person shall sell or keep for sale any dynamite cartridges, bombs or other combustibles of a like kind, without first having obtained from the board of commissioners of the county where such person or dealer resides a license for that purpose, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3817; 1887, c. 364, ss. 1, 4.

4426. Failing to enclose marl beds. If any person shall open any marl bed without surrounding it with a lawful fence, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, this shall not apply to any person whose marl bed is situated inside his own enclosure.

Rev., s. 3796; 1887, cc. 235, 268.

SUBCHAPTER 12. GENERAL POLICE REGULATIONS

ART. 34. LOTTERIES AND GAMING

4427. Advertising lotteries. If any one, by writing or printing or by circular or letter or in any other way, advertise or publish an account of a lottery, whether within or without this state, stating how, when or where the same is to be or has been drawn, or what are the prizes therein or any of them, or the price of a ticket or any share or interest therein, or where or how it may be obtained, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3725; 1887, c. 211.

4428. Dealing in lotteries. If any person shall open, set on foot, carry on, promote, make or draw, publicly or privately, a lottery, by whatever name, style or title the same may be denominated or known; or if any person, by such way and means, expose or set to sale any house, real estate, goods, chattels, cash, written evidence of debt, certificates of claims or any other thing of value whatsoever, every person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding two thousand dollars or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or both, in the discretion of the court. Any person who engages in disposing of any species of property whatsoever, including money and evidences of debt, or in any manner distributes gifts or prizes upon tickets or certificates sold for that purpose, shall be held liable to prosecution under this section.

Rev., s. 3726; Code, s. 1047; R. C., c. 34, s. 69; 1834, c. 19, s. 1; 1874-5, c. 96.

“Lottery” defined: State v. Love, 178-770; State v. Perry, 154-616; Winston v. Beeson, 135-271. Chance is the essential element of a lottery, as where one by paying a small sum regularly for a certain time has the “chance” of being the recipient of a gift: State v. Lipkin, 169-265.

Note given in consideration of lottery or gift enterprise is invalid: Mfg. Co. v. Benjamin, 172-53. Contract of surety company to secure the performance of such contract is also void: Basnight v. Mfg. Co., 174-206.

The right conferred in the charter of a corporation to carry on a lottery is a mere license and not a contract between the state and the corporation, and act of 1874-75, ch. 96, is constitutional: State v. Morris, 77-512.

The charter of a corporation giving it the right to sell and dispose of any property, placed in its hands for sale, in any mode or manner the corporation may deem best, does not authorize it to sell property in violation of this section: State v. Krebs, 64-604.

The purchase of a lottery ticket is not punishable hereunder: State v. Bryant, 74-207—but it seems to be punishable under section 4430, State v. DeBoy, 117-705.

Examples of lotteries: State v. Lumsden, 89-572; State v. Bryant, 74-207.

Punishment held not excessive: Compare State v. Miller, 94-907.

4429. Selling lottery tickets and acting as agent for lotteries. If any person shall sell, barter or otherwise dispose of any lottery ticket or order for any number or shares in any lottery, or shall in anywise be concerned in such lottery, by acting as agent in the state for or on behalf of any such lottery, to be drawn or paid either out of or within the state, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished as provided for in the preceding section.

The purchase of a lottery ticket is not punishable hereunder: State v. Bryant, 74-207—but it seems to be punishable under section 4430, see State v. DeBoy, 117-705.

4430. Gambling. If any person play at any game of chance at which any money, property or other thing of value is bet, whether the same be in stake or not, both those who play and those who bet thereon shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3715; 1891, c. 29.

Punishment in Avery county, see P. L. 1919, c. 105. For dealing in futures, see sections 2147-2149.

Defendant “did unlawfully and wilfully play at a game of cards at which money was bet,” held to sufficiently describe a game of chance: State v. Taylor, 111-680.

“Ten-pins” not a “game of chance” within this section: State v. King, 113-631; see, also, State v. Gupton, 30-271. A “raffle” is a “game of chance”: State v. DeBoy, 117-702. As to games of chance generally, see Ibid. All who participate in game of chance are principals: Ibid.

Indictment may charge the offense hereunder together with the offense of keeping and maintaining a gaming house: State v. Morgan, 133-743—and state need not make election, Ibid.

Witnesses may be compelled to testify, although their testimony tends to criminate them, as they are pardoned under section 1800: State v. Morgan, 133-743.

Infant under fourteen playing at “shooting craps,” not knowing it to be unlawful, but knowing right from wrong, not guilty: State v. Yeargan, 117-706.

Indictment charging that defendant did unlawfully play at a game of cards, without charging that he bet on the game, is defective: State v. Brannen, 53-208.

4431. Allowing gambling in houses of public entertainment; duty of police officers; penalty. If any keeper of an ordinary or other house of entertainment, or of a house wherein liquors are retailed, shall knowingly suffer any game, at which money or property, or anything of value, is bet, whether the same be in stake or not, to be played in any such house, or in any part of the premises occupied therewith; or shall furnish persons so playing or betting either on said premises or elsewhere with drink or other thing for their comfort or subsistence during the time of play, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars and be imprisoned not less than six months. Any person who shall be convicted under this section shall, upon such conviction, forfeit his license to do any of the businesses mentioned in this section, and shall be forever debarred from doing any of such businesses in this state. The court shall embody in its judgment that such person has forfeited his license, and no board of county commissioners, board of town commissioners or board of aldermen shall thereafter have power or authority to grant to such convicted person or his agent a license to do any of the businesses mentioned herein. It shall be the duty of every police officer of the cities, towns and villages of this state to make diligent inquiry and to exercise constant watchfulness to discover whether any of the offenses enumerated in this section are being committed, and to report once a week under oath to the mayor or other chief officer of his city, town or village, whether such offenses are being committed, and all the facts within his knowledge, or of which he has information relating thereto. If any such police officer shall know or have information that such offenses are being committed and shall fail or neglect to report the same to such mayor or other chief officer, together with all the information known to him, as to the person or persons committing the same, the time and place of the commission and the names of the witnesses thereto, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court, and shall forfeit his office. It shall be the duty of such mayor or other chief officer to require the report herein provided for, and to require that the same shall be verified by the oath of such policeman, and if it appear upon such report that any of the said offenses have been committed, it shall be the duty of such mayor or other chief officer to issue his warrant for the arrest of the offender. Any such mayor or other chief officer of any city, town or village who shall fail or neglect to require the reports herein mentioned, or shall fail or neglect to require of such police officer to verify the same upon oath, or who shall refuse or neglect, upon its appearing from such reports that there is probable cause to believe that any of the said offenses have been committed, to issue his warrant for the arrest of the offender, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person committing any of the offenses mentioned in this section shall be liable to a penalty of five hundred dollars, to be recovered by suit in the superior court in the county in which such offense may have been committed, one-half thereof to the use of the person bringing such suit and one-half to the school fund for the county.

Rev., s. 3716; Code, s. 1043; 1901, c. 753; R. C., c. 34, s. 76; 1799, c. 526; 1801, c. 581; 1831, c. 26.

What included in "premises occupied therewith": State v. Terry, 20-325; see, also, State v. Black, 31-378; State v. Keisler, 51-73.

Only necessary to show the fact that liquor was retailed in the house, and not necessary to show that the retailer has complied with the law in obtaining a license: State v. Hawkins, 91-626; State v. Terry, 20-325.

A fine of $2,000 and imprisonment for thirty days held not excessive punishment: State v. Miller, 94-904.

4432. Gambling with faro-banks and tables. If any person shall open, establish, use or keep a faro-bank, or a faro-table, with the intent that games of chance may be played thereat, or shall play or bet thereat any money, property or other thing of value, whether the same be in stake or not, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined at least two hundred dollars and imprisoned not less than three months.

Rev., s. 3717; Code, s. 1044; R. C., s. 71; 1848, c. 34; 1856-7, c. 25.

Section cited in State v. Bryant, 74-207; State v. Norwood, 94-936.

4433. Keeping gaming tables or betting thereat. If any person shall establish, use or keep any gaming table (other than a faro-bank), by whatever name such table may be called, at which games of chance shall be played, he shall on conviction thereof be fined not less than two hundred dollars and shall be imprisoned not less than thirty days; and every person who shall play thereat or thereat bet any money, property or other thing of value, whether the same be in stake or not, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten dollars.

Indictment need duly charge offense in words of statute: State v. Howe, 100-449.

Section cited in State v. DeBoy, 117-705; State v. Norwood, 94-939; State v. Bryant, 74-207.

4434. Allowing gaming tables on premises. If any person shall knowingly suffer to be opened, kept or used in his house or on any part of the premises occupied therewith, any of the gaming tables by this article prohibited, he shall forfeit and pay to any one who will sue therefor two hundred dollars, and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined and imprisoned.

Rev., s. 3719; Code, s. 1046; R. C., c. 34, s. 73; 1798, c. 502, s. 3; 1800, c. 5, s. 2.

See State v. Black, 94-809.

4435. Gaming tables to be destroyed by justices and police officers. All justices of the peace, sheriffs, constables and officers of police are hereby authorized and directed, on information made to them on oath that any gaming table prohibited to be used by this article is in the possession or use of any person within the limits of their jurisdiction, to destroy the same by every means in their power; and they shall call to their aid all the good citizens of the county, if necessary, to effect its destruction.

Rev., s. 3720; Code, s. 1049; R. C., c. 34, s. 74; 1791, c. 336; 1798, c. 502, s. 2.

Section cited and approved in State v. Homer, 139-226.

4436. Property exhibited by gamblers to be seized; disposition of same. All moneys or other property or thing of value exhibited for the purpose of alluring persons to bet on any game shall be liable to be seized by any justice of the peace, or by any person acting under his warrant. Of the moneys or other property or thing which shall be so seized one-half shall belong to the person seizing them, and the other half shall go to the use of the poor.

Section cited and approved in Daniels v. Homer, 139-226.

4437. Opposing destruction of gaming tables and seizure of property. If any person shall oppose the destruction of any prohibited gaming table, or the seizure of any moneys, property or other thing staked on forbidden games, or shall take and carry away the same or any part thereof after seizure, he shall forfeit and pay to the person so opposed one thousand dollars, for the use of the state and the person so opposed, and shall, moreover, be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section cited and approved in Daniels v. Homer, 139-226.

ART. 35. PROTECTION OF MINORS

4438. Selling cigarettes to minors. If any person shall sell, give away or otherwise dispose of, directly or indirectly, cigarettes, or tobacco in the form of cigarettes, or cut tobacco in any form or shape which may be used or intended to be used as a substitute for cigarettes, to any minor under the age of seventeen years; or if any person shall aid, assist or abet any other person in selling such articles to such minor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3804; 1891, c. 276.

4439. Aiding minors in procuring cigarettes; duty of police officers. If any person shall aid or assist any minor child under seventeen years old in obtaining the possession of cigarettes, or tobacco in any form used as a substitute therefor, by whatsoever name it may be called, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

It shall be the duty of every police officer, upon knowledge or information that any minor under the age of seventeen years is or has been smoking any cigarette, to inquire of any such minor the name of the person who sold or gave him such cigarette, or the substance from which it was made, or who aided and abetted in effecting such gift or sale. Upon receiving this information from any such minor, the officer shall forthwith cause a warrant to be issued for the person giving or selling, or aiding and abetting in the giving or selling of such cigarette or the substance out of which it was made, and have such person dealt with as the law directs. Any such minor who shall fail or refuse to give to any officer, upon inquiry, the name of the person selling or giving him such cigarette, or the substance out of which it was made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3805; 1891, c. 276, s. 2; 1913, c. 185.

4440. Selling or giving weapons to minors. If any person shall knowingly sell, offer for sale, give or in any way dispose of to a minor any pistol or pistol cartridge, brass knucks, bowie-knife, dirk, loaded cane or sling-shot, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3832; 1893, c. 514.

4441. Permitting young children to use dangerous firearms. Any person, being the parent or guardian of, or standing in loco parentis to, any child under the age of twelve years, who shall knowingly permit such child to have the possession or custody of, or use in any manner whatever, any gun, pistol or other dangerous firearm, whether such firearm be loaded or unloaded, or any other person who shall knowingly furnish such child any such firearm, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

1913, c. 32.

4442. Permitting minors to enter barrooms, billiard rooms and bowling alleys.

If the keeper or owner of any barroom, billiard room or bowling alley shall allow any minor to enter or remain in such barroom, billiard room or bowling alley, where before such minor enters or remains in such barroom, billiard room or bowling alley, the owner or keeper thereof has been notified by the parents or guardian of such minor not to allow him to enter or remain in such barroom, billiard room or bowling alley, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3729; 1897, c. 278.

4443. Exposing children to fire. If any person shall leave any child of the age of seven years or less locked or otherwise confined in any dwelling, building or enclosure, and go away from such dwelling, building or enclosure without leaving some person of the age of discretion in charge of the same, so as to expose the child to danger by fire, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3795; 1893, c. 12.

4444. Marrying females under fourteen years old. If any person shall marry a female under the age of fourteen years, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3368; Code, s. 1083; R. C., c. 34, s. 46; 1820, c. 1041, ss. 1, 2.

Compare State v. Watts, 32-369. Proving marriage by admissions of defendant: State v. Melton, 120-591; State v. Wylde, 110-500—by record of book of marriages, State v. Melton, 120-591—by eye-witness to marriage, State v. Wylde, 110-500.

4445. Separating child under six months old from mother. It shall be unlawful for any person to separate or aid in separating any child under six months old from its mother for the purpose of placing such child in a foster home or institution, or with the intent to remove it from the state for such purpose, unless the consent in writing for such separation shall have been obtained from the clerk of the superior court and the county health officer of the county in which the mother resides, or of the county in which the child was born; and it shall be unlawful for any mother to surrender her child for such purpose without first having obtained such consent. Any person violating this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars or imprisoned for one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

4446. Failing to pay minors for doing certain work. Whenever any person, having a contract with any corporation, company or person for the manufacture or change of any raw material by the piece or pound, shall employ any minor to assist in the work upon the faith of and by color of such contract, with intent to cheat and defraud such minor, and, having secured the contract price, shall willfully fail to pay the minor when he shall have performed his part of the contract work, whether done by the day or by the job, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3428a; 1893, c. 309.

ART. 36. PROTECTION OF THE FAMILY

4447. Abandonment of family by husband. If any husband shall willfully abandon his wife without providing adequate support for such wife, and the children which he may have begotten upon her, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3355; Code, s. 970; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 1; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 10; 1879, c. 92.

There must be a willful abandonment and a failure to support: State v. Taylor, 175-833; State v. Smith, 164-475. Abandonment and failure to support are both essential, and they must have occurred in this state: State v. Toney, 162-635; but see State v. Kerby, 110-558, where failure to support children is sufficient to establish guilt. To constitute abandonment it is not necessary that husband should leave the state: Witty v. Barham, 147-479. Consent of wife to separation is not abandonment, but subsequent acts may constitute it: Ibid. "Willful abandonment" construed: State v. Deaton, 65-496. Wife guilty of adultery, husband not liable for abandonment: State v. Hopkins, 130-647.

Statute of limitations bars indictment after two years from separation: State v. Davis, 79-603. Abandonment is not a continuous offense for which husband can be twice indicted, the act of separation being the gist of the offense: State v. Davis, 79-603; State v. Dunston, 78-418. When the first abandonment might be barred by the statute, a new abandonment within the time would sustain the charge: State v. Hannon, 168-215. If, upon trial for abandonment of wife and children, husband agrees to support them and does not, this is a new abandonment for which he may be indicted: State v. Davis, 79-603.

Jurisdiction is in superior court: State v. Woolard, 119-779. Indictment must aver failure to support: State v. May, 132-1020—and must allege "willful" abandonment, State v. Hopkins, 130-649.

Competent for wife to testify as to fact of abandonment: State v. Brown, 67-470—and as to fact of marriage (explaining or overruling State v. Brown), State v. Chester, 172-946.

Where husband claimed he abandoned wife on account of her adultery, which she denied, it is error to leave question of guilt to jury to depend upon question of adultery, as that is collateral: State v. Hopkins, 130-647.

Case where defendant pleads that marriage to prosecutrix was void: State v. Davis, 79-603. Section cited in Steele v. Steele, 104-637.

4448. Evidence that abandonment was willful. If the fact of abandonment of and failure to provide adequate support for the wife and children shall be proved, or, while being with such wife, neglect by the husband to provide for the adequate support of such wife or children shall be proved, then the fact that such husband neglects applying himself to some honest calling for the support of himself and family, and is found sauntering about, endeavoring to maintain himself by gaming or other undue means, or is a common frequenter of drinking houses, or is a known common drunkard, shall be presumptive evidence that such abandonment and neglect is willful.

Section cited in Steele v. Steele, 104-637.

1917, c. 259.

4450. Failure of husband to provide adequate support for family. If any husband, while living with his wife, shall willfully neglect to provide adequate support for such wife or the children which he has begotten upon her, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3357; Code, s. 972; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 11; 1879, c. 92.

ART. 37. INTOXICATING LIQUORS

4451. Adulteration of liquors. If any person shall adulterate any spirituous, alcoholic, vinous or malt liquors by mixing the same with any substance of whatever kind, except as provided in the following section, or if any person shall sell or offer to sell any spirituous, alcoholic, vinous or malt liquors, knowing the same to be thus adulterated, or shall import into this state any spirituous or intoxicating liquors, and sell or offer to sell such liquor, knowing the same to be adulterated, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3512; Code, s. 982; 1858-9, c. 57, ss. 1, 4.

Construe this section with section 4752. Compare, as to intent, State v. Powell, 141-780.

4452. Selling recipe for adulterating liquors. If any person shall sell or offer to sell any recipe or formula whatever for adulterating any spirituous or alcoholic liquors, by mixing the same with any substance of whatever kind, except as is herein provided, he shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined or imprisoned as is provided in the preceding section: Provided, that this section and the two sections that immediately precede and follow it respectively shall not be so construed as to prevent druggists, physicians and persons engaged in the mechanical arts from adulterating liquors for medical and mechanical purposes.

Rev., s. 3513; Code, s. 984; 1858-9, c. 57, ss. 2, 3.

4453. Manufacturing or selling poisonous liquors. If any person shall manufacture, sell, or in any way deal out spirituous liquors, of any name or kind, to be used as a drink or beverage, and the same shall be found to contain any foreign properties or ingredients poisonous to the human system, he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than five years, and may be fined in the discretion of the court. It shall be competent for any citizen, after making purchase of any spirituous liquor, to cause the same to be analyzed by some known competent chemist, and if upon such analysis it shall be found to contain any foreign poisonous matter, it shall be prima facie evidence against the party making such a sale.

Section cited: State v. Barrett, 138-635. Compare, as to prima facie case, State v. Barrett, 138-630. Sale of poisonous drink: State v. Keever, 177-114.

4454. Selling or giving away liquor near political speaking. If any person shall sell or give away, either directly or indirectly, any spirituous liquors, wine or bitters containing alcohol, within two miles of any place at which political public speaking shall be advertised to take place, and does take place, during the day on which such speaking shall take place, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding twenty days.

Section cited: State v. Eaves, 106-755. Compare: State v. Knotts, 131-705.

4455. Giving intoxicants to unmarried minors under seventeen years old. If any person shall give intoxicating drinks or liquors to any unmarried minor under the age of seventeen years; or if any person shall aid, assist or abet any other person in giving such drinks or liquors to such minor, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court; but nothing in this section shall prevent any parent or other person standing in loco parentis from giving or administering any such drinks or liquors to his minor child for medicinal purposes, nor any physician from giving or administering such drinks or liquors to any minor patient under his care; nor shall this section apply to the giving or using of wine in the administration of the sacrament.

4456. Selling or giving intoxicants to unmarried minors by dealers; liability for exemplary damages. If any dealer in intoxicating drinks or liquors sell, or in any manner part with for a compensation therefor, either directly or indirectly, or give away such drinks or liquors, to any unmarried person under the age of twenty-one years, knowing such person to be under the age of twenty-one years, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and such sale or giving away shall be prima facie evidence of such knowledge. Any person who keeps on hand intoxicating drinks or liquors for the purpose of sale or profit shall be considered a dealer within the meaning of this section.

The father, or if he be dead, the mother, guardian or employer of any minor to whom a sale or gift shall be made in violation of this section, shall have a right of action in a civil suit against the person so offending by such sale or gift, and upon proof of such illicit sale or gift shall recover from the party so offending such exemplary damages as a jury may assess: Provided, that such assessment shall not be less than twenty-five dollars.

Rev., ss. 3524, 3525; Code, ss. 1077, 1078; 1873-4, c. 68; 1881, c. 242.

Physician who keeps liquor for sale or profit is a "dealer": State v. McBrayer, 98-619.

Dealer guilty, although authorized to make sale by father of minor: State v. Lawrence, 97-492—but the dealer is not guilty where the minor acts merely as agent for the father in making the purchase, the dealer knowing the liquor was for the father, State v. Walker, 103-413.

Dealer who supplies liquor to minor at request of adult is guilty, and the adult is an aider and abettor: State v. Scoggins, 107-959; State v. Best, 108-747.

Dealer responsible for sale to minor by his agent, although without his knowledge and against his instructions: State v. Kittelle, 110-560—but seems contra as to druggist, when sale is made by a registered pharmacist, State v. Neal, 133-689.

In case of an interstate shipment, with draft and bill of lading to the consignor, notify, the cashier of a bank, paying the draft and delivering the bill of lading to the purchaser, is not guilty of selling: State v. Fisher, 162-550. Construction of this section with reference to interstate commerce and the effect of the Wilson act: Ibid.

"Civil damage act" creates a new cause of action, and a "dealer" is liable as herein provided: Spencer v. Fisher, 161-116. It is necessary to allege that the minor is unmarried: Spencer v. Fisher, 158-264.

Several defendants may be indicted and convicted hereunder for a single unlawful act: State v. Scoggins, 107-959. Sufficiency of description in indictment, State v. Best, 108-747. Sufficiency of evidence: State v. Scoggins, 107-959. When liquid is plainly intoxicating, the court will so declare; but when it is doubtful, it is a question for the jury: State v. Parker, 139-586. Unlawful intent conclusively presumed from the doing of the act: State v. McBrayer, 98-619; State v. Scoggins, 107-959.

Section cited: State v. Austin, 114-855; Holloman v. Howard, 119-155; State v. Barrett, 138-635.

Compare: State v. Wray, 72-253—as to constitutionality, State v. Austin, 114-855—as to prima facie case, State v. Barrett, 138-635.

ART. 38. PUBLIC DRUNKENNESS

4457. Public drinking on railway passenger cars; copy of section to be posted. Any person who shall publicly engage in the drinking of intoxicating liquors in the presence of passengers on any passenger car shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. This section shall not apply to any smoking compartment or to any closet, dining or buffet car. It shall be the duty of all railway companies to have posted a copy of this section in all passenger coaches used for transporting passengers within the state.

4458. Local: Public drunkenness. If any person shall be found drunk or intoxicated on the public highway, or at any public place or meeting, in any county, township, city, town, village or other place herein named, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished as is provided in this section:

1. By a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in the counties of Ashe, Catawba, Cleveland, Dare, Gaston, Graham, Greene, Haywood, Henderson, Hyde, Jackson, Lincoln, Macon, Madison, Mecklenburg, Moore, Pitt, Richmond, Rutherford, Scotland, Stanly, Swain, Union, Vance, Warren and Washington, in the townships of Fruitville and Poplar branch in Currituck county, and at Pungo in Beaufort county.

1907, cc. 305, 785, 900; 1908, c. 113; 1909, c. 815; P. L. 1915, c. 790; P. L. 1917, cc. 447, 475; P. L. 1919, cc. 148, 200.

2. By a fine of not less than three dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in Yancey county.

1909, c. 256.

3. By a fine of not less than two dollars and fifty cents nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in Buncombe county.

1909, c. 271.

4. By a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than ten days, in Cherokee and Yadkin counties.

1907, c. 976.

5. By a fine of not less than three dollars nor more than five dollars in Clay county, all such fines to go to the public school fund of that county.

1907, c. 309.

6. By a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars in Wake county, all such fines to go to the general road fund of that county.

1907, c. 908.

7. By a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in Mitchell county: Provided, that this subsection shall not apply to incorporated towns in that county.

1909, c. 111.

8. By a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than ten days, in the village of Kannapolis, or on the premises or within one mile of the Kannapolis cotton mills.

1909, c. 46, s. 2.

9. By a fine, for the first offense, of not less than ten nor more than twenty dollars; for second and further offense, not less than twenty nor more than thirty dollars, or imprisoned for not more than twenty days, in Transylvania county.

P. L. 1919, c. 190.

ART. 39. VAGRANTS AND TRAMPS

4459. Persons classed as vagrants. If any person shall come within any of the following classes, he shall be deemed a vagrant, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, however, that this limitation of punishment shall not be binding except in cases of a first offense, and in all other cases such person may be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court:

1. Persons wandering or strolling about in idleness who are able to work and have no property to support them.

2. Persons leading an idle, immoral or profligate life, who have no property to support them and who are able to work and do not work.

3. All persons able to work having no property to support them and who have not some visible and known means of a fair, honest and reputable livelihood.

4. Persons having a fixed abode who have no visible property to support them and who live by stealing or by trading in, bartering for or buying stolen property.

5. Professional gamblers living in idleness.

6. All able-bodied men having no other visible means of support who shall live in idleness upon the wages or earnings of their mother, wife or minor children, except of male children over eighteen years old.

7. Keepers and inmates of bawdy-houses, assignation houses, lewd and disorderly houses, and other places where illegal sexual intercourse is habitually carried on: Provided, that nothing here is intended or shall be construed as abolishing the crime of keeping a bawdy-house, or lessening the punishment by law for such crime.

Rev., s. 3740; 1905, c. 391; 1907, c. 1012, s. 1; 1913, c. 75; 1915, c. 1.

Under subsection 7 reputation of house may be considered in evidence: State v. Price, 175-804. The circumstances with reputation of house may show guilt of vagrancy: Ibid.

Compare under act 1866, ch. 42, State v. Custer, 65-339.

4460. Police officers to furnish list of disorderly houses; inmates competent and compellable to testify. It shall be the duty of the chief of police, marshal, constable or other chief ministerial officer of each city and town in this state to furnish every thirty days to the police justice, recorder, mayor or other trial officer of such city or town a list of the bawdy, assignation, lewd and disorderly houses and other places where illegal sexual intercourse is carried on, together with the names of the keepers and inmates of such houses and places, in such city or town; and it shall be the duty of such police justice, recorder, mayor or other trial officer, upon the filing of such list, to issue his warrant for the persons declared in subsection seven of the preceding section to be vagrants, and to punish in accordance with the provisions of that section such of them as may be found guilty. In all trials under said subsection seven of the preceding section any keeper or inmate of any of the houses or places named, or his employees, shall be competent and compellable to give evidence of the character and nature of such house or place and of the character and acts of the keepers and inmates thereof; but the person so testifying shall not be prosecuted or punished for the commission of any crime about which he shall have been required to testify.

If any chief of police, marshal, constable or other chief ministerial officer of any city or town shall fail to furnish the list of houses and places provided for in this section, or shall suppress the name of any person whom he is required herein to report, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3735; Code, ss. 3828, 3829, 3831, 3833; 1897, c. 268; 1879, c. 198, ss. 1, 4, 6.

4462. Trespassing and the carrying of dangerous weapons by tramps. If any tramp shall enter any dwelling-house or kindle any fire on the land of another without the consent of the owner or occupant thereof, or shall kindle a fire on any highway, or shall be found carrying any firearm or other dangerous weapon, or shall threaten to do any injury to the person, or to the real or personal estate, of another, he shall be punished by imprisonment at the discretion of the court, not to exceed twelve months.

Rev., s. 3736; Code, s. 3829; 1879, c. 198, s. 2.

4463. Malicious injuries by tramps to persons and property. If any tramp shall willfully and maliciously do any injury to the person, or to the real or personal estate, of another, he shall be punished by imprisonment, at the discretion of the court, not to exceed three years.

Rev., s. 3737; Code, s. 3830; 1879, c. 198, s. 3.

4464. Arrest of tramps by persons who are not officers. Any person, upon a view of any offense described in the three preceding sections, shall cause the offender to be arrested upon a warrant and taken before some justice of the peace, or he may apprehend the offender and take him before a justice of the peace, for examination, and, on his conviction, he shall be entitled to the same fee as a sheriff.

Rev., s. 3738; Code, s. 3832; 1879, c. 198, s. 5.

ART. 40. REGULATION OF SALES

4465. Selling or offering to sell meat of diseased animals. If any person shall knowingly and willfully slaughter any diseased animal and sell or offer for sale any of the meat of such diseased animal for human consumption, or if any person knows that the meat offered for sale or sold for human consumption by him is that of a diseased animal, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3442; 1905, c. 303.

Section referred to in Ward v. Sea Food Co., 171-33.

4466. Unauthorized dealing in railroad tickets. If any person shall sell or deal in tickets issued by any railroad company, unless he is a duly authorized agent of the railroad company, or shall refuse upon demand to exhibit his authority to sell or deal in such tickets, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3764; 1895, c. 83, s. 1.

Compare under act of 1891, ch. 290, decision that sale of one ticket no offense: State v. Ray, 109-736.

4467. Sale of cotton at night under certain conditions. If any person shall buy, sell, deliver or receive, for a price, or for any reward whatever, any cotton in the seed, or any unpacked lint cotton, brought or carried in a basket, hamper or sheet, or in any mode where the quantity is less than what is usually baled, or where the cotton is not baled, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. On conviction, in Mecklenburg and Nash counties, the offender shall be imprisoned not less than three months nor more than twelve months, and shall also be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, one-half of which shall go to the party suing for same and one-half to the public schools of the county.

Rev., s. 3813; Code, s. 1006; 1873-4, c. 62; 1874-5, c. 70; 1905, c. 417.

Similar statute held constitutional: State v. Moore, 104-714.

Indictment must set forth the manner in which the articles were "brought or carried": State v. Whiteacre, 98-753.

4468. Local: Sale of corn at night in less than five-bushel lots. If any person shall buy, sell, deliver or receive for a price or for any reward whatever, any corn in the ear or shelled of a less amount than five bushels, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. In all prosecutions under this section it shall be necessary for the state only to allege and prove that the defendant bought or received the corn as charged, and the burden shall be upon the defendant to show that the provisions of this section have been complied with: Provided, this section shall apply only to the counties of Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Tyrrell, Washington, Pamlico, Halifax and Edgecombe.

Rev., s. 3809; 1889, c. 90; 1891, c. 6; 1891, c. 8.

ART. 41. REGULATION OF EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE

4469. Enticing servant to leave master. If any person shall entice, persuade and procure any servant by indenture, or any servant who shall have contracted in writing or orally to serve his employer, to leave unlawfully the service of his master or employer; or if any person shall knowingly and unlawfully harbor and detain, in his own service and from the service of his master or employer, any servant who shall unlawfully leave the service of such master or employer, then, in either case, such person and servant shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisoned not exceeding six months.

Rev., s. 3365; Code, ss. 3119, 3120; 1866, c. 58; 1866-7, c. 124; 1881, c. 303.

Section held constitutional: State v. Harwood, 104-724. No defense at common law to entice infant from the service of parent: State v. Rice, 76-194. Section has reference only to "enticing" servants, and indictment will not lie hereunder against servant for wilfully breaking contract to labor: State v. Daniel, 89-553. Section does not apply where the servant has merely made a contract to serve; he must be induced to leave the service of his master: Sears v. Whitaker, 136-37. There must be something more than mere employment; it must appear that defendant enticed or persuaded servant to leave the master: State v. Holly, 152-839.

Contract that tenant, as part of the rent, will work for landlord when he can leave his own crop and when he is needed by landlord does not constitute the relation here contemplated: State v. Hoover, 107-795; State v. Etheridge, 169-263.

It is a violation of the statute to entice a servant, although the contract for labor be voidable on account of the infancy of the servant: State v. Harwood, 104-724—but if the contract is entered into without the consent of the parents they may demand such infant to leave the service of his employer, without incurring any liability hereunder: State v. Anderson, 104-771.

Contract must be by indenture, in writing or oral: State v. Rice, 76-194; State v. Anderson, 104-771.

Indictment, sufficiency of: State v. Harwood, 104-724. Section cited in Haskins v. Royster, 70-601.

Rev., s. 3374; 1901, c. 682; 1903, c. 365; 1907, c. 238, s. 2; 1907, c. 402; 1919, c. 274.

4471. Enticing seamen from vessel. If any person shall induce any seaman, in the employment of any domestic or foreign vessel, in any of the ports of North Carolina, to leave any such vessel before his term of service shall have expired, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3555; Code, s. 1108; 1879, c. 219, s. 1; 1881, c. 256, s. 1.

4472. Secreting or harboring deserting seamen. If any person shall secrete or harbor any seaman who has deserted from any domestic or foreign vessel, knowing that such seaman has deserted, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days; and if such seaman be found concealed or secreted by any person on his premises, such concealment and secretion shall be deemed prima facie evidence that such person knew that such seaman was a deserter.

Rev., s. 3556; Code, s. 1109; 1879, c. 219, s. 2; 1881, c. 256, s. 2.

Compare, as to prima facie case: State v. Barrett, 138-636.

4473. Search warrants for deserting seamen. If any credible witness shall complain, upon oath before any justice of the peace, that any person has concealed on his premises any seaman who has deserted from any such domestic or foreign vessel, it shall be lawful for such justice to grant a search warrant to be executed within the limits of his county to any proper officer, authorizing him to search for such seaman, and to arrest the person on whose premises he may be found; and the person on whose premises such seaman shall be found shall be adjudged to pay the costs of the search warrant, if on examination it shall appear that such seaman was secreted or concealed by such person; otherwise the costs shall be paid by the party making the complaint.

Rev., s. 3557; Code, s. 1110; 1881, c. 256, s. 3.

4474. Appeal in cases of deserting seamen regulated. In all cases arising under the three preceding sections, if any appeal is prayed by either party at the time of the trial, it shall be granted; but no appeal shall be granted by any justice at any time after the final hearing of the case. In case an appeal is prayed at the trial, it shall be the duty of the justice to proceed immediately to reduce to writing the testimony of any witness whose testimony is material (if such witness shall be master, officer or seaman on board of any vessel), in the presence of the adverse party, who may cross-question such witness, which testimony shall be subscribed by such witness and returned by the justice with the papers in the case; and on the hearing in the appellate court, the testimony so taken and reduced to writing by the justice shall be read, heard and accepted as the true and lawful testimony of such witness, as if such person were in person present to give evidence. For reducing such testimony to writing the justice shall receive the same fees as are allowed for taking depositions.

Rev., s. 3558; Code, s. 1111; 1881, c. 256, ss. 4, 5.

4475. Influencing agents and servants in violating duties owed employers. Any person who gives, offers or promises to an agent, employee or servant any gift or gratuity whatever with intent to influence his action in relation to his principal's, employer's or master's business; any agent, employee or servant who requests or accepts a gift or gratuity or a promise to make a gift or to do an act beneficial to himself, under an agreement or with an understanding that he shall act in any particular manner in relation to his principal's, employer's or master's business; any agent, employee or servant who, being authorized to procure materials, supplies or other articles either by purchase or contract for his principal, employer or master, or to employ service or labor for his principal, employer or master, receives, directly or indirectly, for himself or for another, a commission, discount or bonus from the person who makes such sale or contract, or furnishes such materials, supplies or other articles, or from a person who renders such service or labor; and any person who gives or offers such an agent, employee or servant such commission, discount or bonus, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court.

1913, c. 190, s. 1.

4476. Witness required to give self-criminating evidence; no suit or prosecution to be founded thereon. No person shall be excused from attending, testifying or producing books, papers, contracts, agreements and other documents before any court, or in obedience to the subpoena of any court, having jurisdiction of the crime denounced in the preceding section, on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or to subject him to a penalty or to a forfeiture; but no person shall be liable to any suit or prosecution, civil or criminal, for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before such court or in obedience to its subpoena or in any such case or proceeding: Provided, that no person so testifying or producing any such books, papers, contracts, agreements or other documents shall be exempted from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

1913, c. 190, s. 2.

4477. Blacklisting employees. If any person, agent, company or corporation, after having discharged any employee from his or its service, shall prevent or attempt to prevent, by word or writing of any kind, such discharged employee from obtaining employment with any other person, company or corporation, such person, agent or corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars; and such person, agent, company or corporation shall be liable in penal damages to such discharged person, to be recovered by civil action. This section shall not be construed as prohibiting any person or agent of any company or corporation from furnishing in writing, upon request, any other person, company or corporation to whom such discharged person or employee has applied for employment, a truthful statement of the reason for such discharge.

Statute explained: Seward v. R. R., 159-241. This section should be construed in the light of the common-law rule in regard to discharge: Ibid. The statement as to a discharged employee is not privileged, if made maliciously: Ibid.

4478. Conspiring to blacklist employees. It shall be unlawful for two or more persons to agree together to blacklist any discharged employee or to attempt, by words or writing or any other means whatever, to prevent such discharged employee, or any employee who may have voluntarily left the service of his employer, from obtaining employment with any other person or company. Persons violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court.

See section 4477.

4479. Issuing nontransferable script to laborers. If any person who employs laborers by the day, week or month shall issue in payment for the services of such laborers any ticket, certificate or other script bearing upon its face the word "nontransferable," or shall issue such ticket, certificate or other script in any form that would render it void by transfer from the person to whom issued, or shall refuse to pay to the person holding the same its face value, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3730; 1889, c. 280; 1891, c. 78; 1891, c. 456; 1891, c. 46; 1891, cc. 167, 370; 1895, c. 127; 1891, cc. 167, 456.

This does not authorize the assignee of a ticket or script payable in merchandise to demand and receive payment in money: Marriner v. Roper Co., 112-164. Meaning of "face value": Ibid.

ART. 42. REGULATION OF LANDLORD AND TENANT

4480. Local: Violation of certain contracts between landlord and tenant. If any tenant or cropper shall procure advances from his landlord to enable him to make a crop on the land rented by him, and then willfully abandon the same without good cause and before paying for such advances; or if any landlord shall contract with a tenant or cropper to furnish him advances to enable him to make a crop, and shall willfully fail or refuse, without good cause, to furnish such advances according to his agreement, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any person employing a tenant or cropper who has violated the provisions of this section, with knowledge of such violation, shall be liable to the landlord furnishing such advances for the amount thereof, and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. This section shall apply to the following counties only: Wayne, Lenoir, Greene, Johnston, Jones, Onslow, Craven, Cleveland, Sampson, Pitt, Duplin, Gates, Cumberland, Perquimans, Chowan, Robeson, Bladen, Nash, Harnett, Edgecombe, Hertford, Wilson, Rockingham, Pender, Currituck, Gaston, Northampton, Beaufort, Chatham, Tyrrell, Mecklenburg, Halifax, Caswell, Camden, Cabarrus, Columbus, Martin, Washington, Wake, Alexander, Montgomery, Pamlico, Rowan, Rutherford, Bertie, Warren and Lincoln.

Rev., s. 3366; 1905, cc. 297, 383, 445, 820; 1907, c. 84, s. 1; 1907, c. 595, s. 1; 1907, cc. 8, 639, 719, 869.

Distinction between tenant or cropper and servant: State v. Etheridge, 169-263.

Indictment should allege fraud, and abandonment of crop without cause, and before paying for advances: State v. Williams, 150-802.

Justice of the peace has final jurisdiction: State v. Wilkes, 149-453.

4481. Local: Tenant neglecting crop; landlord failing to make advances; harboring or employing delinquent tenant. If any tenant or cropper shall procure advances from his landlord to enable him to make a crop on the land rented by him, and then willfully refuse to cultivate such crops or negligently or willfully abandon the same without good cause and before paying for such advances; or if any landlord who induces another to become tenant or cropper by agreeing to furnish him advances to enable him to make a crop, shall willfully fail or refuse without good cause to furnish such advances according to his agreement; or if any person shall entice, persuade or procure any tenant, lessee or cropper, who has made a contract agreeing to cultivate the land of another, to abandon or to refuse or fail to cultivate such land, or after notice shall harbor or detain on his own premises, or on the premises of another, any such tenant, lessee or cropper, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Any person who employs a tenant or cropper who has violated the provisions of this section, with knowledge of such violation, shall be liable to the landlord furnishing such advances for the amount thereof. This section shall apply only to the following counties: Wake, Hyde, Anson, Hertford, Sampson, Franklin, Union, Richmond, Moore, Lincoln, Rowan, Rutherford and Halifax.

Married women not liable under this section for breach of contract unless contract falls within the exceptions in Revisal, section 2094: State v. Robinson, 143-620. See section 2507, changing section 2094 of Revisal.

4482. Local: Tenant violating contract not to rent land from others. Whenever land shall be rented for agricultural purposes and the tenant renting the same shall, at the time thereof or at any subsequent time during the term of such renting, enter into a contract in writing with his lessor, from whom he so rented, that he, the tenant, will not thereafter, without the lessor's consent, rent any land for agricultural purposes from any other person than such lessor during the same term of renting, nor become a cropper on the land of any other person than the lessor during such term, any tenant who shall willfully violate the written contract so entered into by him, without just cause and lawful excuse therefor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days. This section shall apply only to Greene County.

ART. 43. CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

4483. Cruelty to animals; construction of section. If any person shall willfully overdrive, overload, wound, injure, torture, torment, deprive of necessary sustenance, cruelly beat, needlessly mutilate or kill or cause or procure to be overdriven, overloaded, wounded, injured, tortured, tormented, deprived of necessary sustenance, cruelly beaten, needlessly mutilated or killed as aforesaid, any useful beast, fowl or animal, every such offender shall for every such offense be guilty of a misdemeanor. In this section, and in every law which may be enacted relating to animals, the words "animal" and "dumb animal" shall be held to include every living creature; the words "torture," "torment" or "cruelty" shall be held to include every act, omission or neglect whereby unjustifiable physical pain, suffering or death is caused or permitted; but such terms shall not be construed to prohibit lawful shooting of birds, deer and other game for human food.

Rev., s. 3299; Code, ss. 2482, 2490; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 34, s. 1; 1881, c. 368, ss. 1, 15; 1907, c. 42.

See generally: State v. Neal, 120-621; State v. Isley, 119-862; State v. Tweedy, 115-704; State v. Porter, 112-887; State v. Butts, 92-784; State v. Sheets, 89-543. Section construed in State v. Porter, 112-887; State v. Neal, 120-613.

As to sufficiency of indictment, see State v. Allison, 90-733; State v. Butts, 92-784; State v. Watkins, 101-702; State v. Tweedy, 115-704; State v. Neal, 120-621.

Where there is no finding that the act was "wilfully and unlawfully" done, a verdict cannot be sustained: State v. Tweedy, 115-704; State v. Isley, 119-862.

The needless killing of chickens is of itself cruelty hereunder, though done without torture: State v. Neal, 120-613—and this is so even though they may be destroying crop, and owner has been warned, Ibid.

Killing or wounding pigeons for sport is within the statute: State v. Porter, 112-887—as is also impaling a chicken on a sharp stick and beating a hen till she died, State v. Neal, 120-613—as also, poisoning a chicken, State v. Bossee, 145-579.

Killing a dog when it was not necessary to protect defendant's property: State v. Smith, 156-628. Civil action for damages: Scott v. Cates, 175-336. An officer killing an unmuzzled dog by authority of a valid town ordinance is not guilty under this section: State v. Clifton, 152-800.

Justice has no original jurisdiction of offense of cruelty to animals: State v. Bossee, 145-579.

Section cited in State v. Holt, 90-749.

Rev., s. 3300; Code, s. 2487; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 6.

Section cited in State v. Porter, 112-887; State v. Allison, 90-734.

4485. Bear-baiting, cock-fighting and similar amusements. If any person shall keep, or use, or in any way be connected with, or interested in the management of, or shall receive money for the admission of any person to, any place kept or used for the purpose of fighting, or baiting any bull, bear, dog, cock, or other animal; or if any person shall encourage, aid or assist therein, or shall permit or suffer any place to be so kept or used, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

For special act for Cabarrus county, see acts of 1907, c. 436. Section cited in State v. Allison, 90-734; State v. Holt, 90-750.

Rev., s. 3302; Code, s. 2486; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 5.

ART. 44. ANIMAL DISEASES

4487. Selling, using or exposing diseased animals. If any person shall sell, offer for sale, use or expose, or cause or procure to be sold, offered for sale, used or exposed, any horse or other animal having the disease known as glanders or farcy, or any other contagious or infectious disease known by such person to be dangerous to life, or which shall be diseased past recovery, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3295; Code. s. 2488; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 7.

4488. Disposal of carcasses of animals. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to permit knowingly the bodies of animals or fowls dying of disease of any kind to remain unburied or unburned on the land which such person, etc., owns, rents, or has charge of in any capacity, for the space of twenty-four hours after the death of said animal or fowl; such burying to be of such a depth as to prevent disinterment by prowling dogs.

1919, c. 36.

Burial of dead animals in Scotland county, see P. L. 1919, c. 143.

Rev., s. 3296; Code, s. 2489; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 8.

Rev., s. 3297; 1889, c. 173, s. 1; 1891, c. 67, ss. 1, 3; 1903, c. 106; 1899, c. 47; 1913, c. 120.

4491. Shipping hogs from cholera-infected territory. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation in any district or territory infected by cholera to bring, carry, or ship hogs into any stock-law section or territory, unless such hogs have been certified to be free from cholera either by the farm demonstration agent of the county or some other suitable person to be designated by the clerk of the superior court. Any violation of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor.

4492. Distributing, selling or using hog-cholera virus without permission. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to distribute, sell or use virulent blood from cholera-infected hogs, or "virus," unless and until written permission has been obtained from the state veterinarian for such distribution, sale or use. Any person, firm or corporation guilty of violating the provisions of this section, or failing or refusing to comply with the requirements hereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars for each offense, and may be imprisoned, in the discretion of the court, not less than ten nor more than thirty days. The offender shall also be liable to any person injured on account of such violation to the full amount of all damages and costs.

1915, c. 88.

ART. 45. PROTECTION OF LIVESTOCK RUNNING AT LARGE

4493. Failing to show hide and ears of livestock killed while running at large. If any person shall kill any neat cattle, sheep or hogs in the woods or range, and shall for two days fail to show the hide and ears to the nearest justice or to two freeholders, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. In Tyrrell county this section extends to the killing of neat cattle in enclosures.

Rev., s. 3315; Code, s. 2318; R. C., c. 17, s. 2; 1901, c. 546; 1907, c. 821.

4494. Molesting or injuring livestock. If any person shall unlawfully and on purpose drive any livestock, lawfully running at large in the range, from said range, or shall kill, maim or injure any livestock, lawfully running at large in the range or in the field or pasture of the owner, whether done with the actual intent to injure the owner, or to drive the stock from the range, or with any other unlawful intent, every such person, his counselors, aiders, and abettors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. In the counties of Graham, Swain, Haywood, Jackson and Transylvania he shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished as if convicted of larceny: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prohibit any person from driving out of the range any stock unlawfully brought from other states or places. In any indictment under this section it shall not be necessary to name in the bill or prove on the trial the owner of the stock molested, maimed, killed or injured.

Rev., s. 3314; Code, s. 1002; 1885, c. 383; 1887, c. 368; 1895, c. 190; R. C., c. 34, s. 104; 1850, c. 94, ss. 1, 2.

See generally: State v. Rivers, 90-738; State v. Hill, 79-656. As to indictment generally, see State v. Hill, 79-656.

Wounding of cattle maliciously is not indictable at common law: State v. Hill, 79-656; State v. Manuel, 72-201.

Person is not liable under section 104, chapter 34, Rev. Code, for injuring stock within his own field which is inclosed and under cultivation: State v. Waters, 51-276.

Section merely cited in State v. Tweedy, 115-704; State v. Pollard, 83-597; State v. Simpson, 73-269.

4495. Altering the brands of and misbranding another's livestock. If any person shall knowingly alter or deface the mark or brand of any other person's horse, mule, ass, neat cattle, sheep, goat, or hog, or shall knowingly mismark or brand any such beast that may be unbranded or unmarked, not properly his own, with intent to defraud any other person, the person so offending shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished as if convicted of larceny.

Indictment; sufficiency of: State v. King, 84-737; State v. O'Neal, 29-251; State v. Davis, 24-153.

Parol evidence allowed to prove "marks" of prosecutor: State v. King, 84-737.

4496. Placing poisonous shrubs and vegetables in public places. If any person shall throw into or leave exposed in any public square, street, lane, alley or open lot in any city, town or village, or in any public road, any mockorange or other poisonous shrub, plant, tree or vegetable, he shall be liable in damages to any person injured thereby and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3318; 1887, c. 338.

ART. 46. PROTECTION OF LETTERS, TELEGRAMS, AND TELEPHONE MESSAGES

4497. Wrongfully obtaining or divulging knowledge of telephonic messages. If any person wrongfully obtain, or attempt to obtain, any knowledge of a telephonic message by connivance with a clerk, operator, messenger or other employee of a telephone company, or, being such clerk, operator, messenger or employee, willfully divulge to any but the person for whom it was intended, the contents of a telephonic message or dispatch intrusted to him for transmission or delivery, or the nature thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Rev., s. 3848; 1903, c. 599.

4498. Violating privacy of telegraphic messages; failure to transmit and deliver same promptly. If any person wrongfully obtain, or attempt to obtain, any knowledge of a telegraphic message by connivance with a clerk, operator, messenger, or other employee of a telegraph company, or, being such clerk, operator, messenger, or other employee, willfully divulge to any but the person for whom it was intended, the contents of a telegraphic message or dispatch intrusted to him for transmission or delivery, or the nature thereof, or willfully refuse or neglect duly to transmit or deliver the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3846; 1889, c. 41, s. 1.

4499. Unauthorized opening, reading or publishing of sealed letters and telegrams. If any person shall willfully, and without authority, open or read, or cause to be opened or read, a sealed letter or telegram, or shall publish the whole or any portion of such letter or telegram, knowing it to have been opened or read without authority, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., s. 3728; 1889, c. 41, s. 2.

Indictment must charge the opening without authority of a sealed letter or telegram, or the publishing of the whole or any portion of such letter or telegram knowing it to have been opened and read without authority: State v. Bagwell, 107-859.

ART. 47. MISCELLANEOUS POLICE REGULATIONS

4500. Desecration of state and national flag. Any person who in any manner, for exhibition or display, shall place or cause to be placed any word, figure, mark, picture, design, drawing, or any advertisement of any nature upon any flag, standard, color or ensign of the United States or state flag or ensign of this state, or shall expose or cause to be exposed to public view any such flag, standard, color or ensign upon which shall have been printed, painted or otherwise placed, or to which shall be attached, appended, affixed or annexed, any word, figure, mark, picture, design or drawing or any advertisement of any nature, or who shall expose to public view, manufacture, sell, expose for sale, give away, or have in possession for sale or to give away, or for use for any purpose, any article or substance of merchandise, or a receptacle of merchandise or article or thing for carrying or transporting merchandise, upon which shall have been printed, painted, attached or otherwise placed a representation of any such flag, standard, color or ensign, to advertise, call attention to, decorate, mark or distinguish the article or substance upon which it is so placed, or who shall publicly mutilate, deface, defile, or defy, trample upon or cast contempt, either by words or act, upon any such flag, standard, color or ensign, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days. Any person violating this section shall also forfeit a penalty of fifty dollars for each offense, to be recovered with costs in a civil action or suit in any court having jurisdiction. Such action or suit may be brought by and in the name of any citizen of this state, and such penalty, when collected, less the costs and expenses of the action or suit, shall be paid one-half to the person suing and one-half to the school fund of the county in which suit was brought; and two or more penalties may be sued for and recovered in the same action or suit.

The words, flag, standard, color or ensign, as used in this section, shall include any flag, standard, color, ensign, or any picture or representation of any of them, made of any substance or represented on any substance, and of any size, evidently purporting to be a flag, standard, color or ensign of the United States of America, or a picture or a representation of any of them, upon which shall be shown the colors, the stars and the stripes, in any number of either thereof, or by which the person seeing the same, without deliberation, may believe it to represent the flag, colors, standard or ensign of the United States of America.

The possession by any person other than a public officer, as such, of a flag, standard, color, ensign, article, substance, or thing, on which there is anything made unlawful by this section, shall be presumptive evidence that the same is in violation of this section.

1917, c. 271.

4501. Pollution of water or lands used for dairy purposes. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation owning lands adjoining the lands of any person, firm, or corporation which are or may be used for dairy purposes or for grazing milk cows, to dispose of or permit disposal of any animal, mineral, chemical, or vegetable refuse, sewage or other deleterious matter in such way as to pollute the water on the lands so used or which may be used for dairy purposes or for grazing milk cows, or to render unfit or unsafe for use the milk produced from cows feeding upon the grasses and herbage growing on such lands. This section shall not apply to incorporated towns maintaining a sewer system. Any one violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned for not more than thirty days, or both, and each day that such pollution is committed or exists shall constitute a separate offense.

4502. Cutting timber on town watershed without disposing of boughs and débris; misdemeanor. Any person, firm or corporation owning lands or the standing timber on lands within four hundred feet of any watershed held or owned by any city or town, for the purpose of furnishing a city or town water supply, upon cutting or removing the timber or permitting the same cut or removed from lands so within four hundred feet of said watershed, or any part thereof, shall, within three months after cutting, or earlier upon written notice by said city or town, remove or cause to be burned under proper supervision all tree-tops, boughs, laps and other portions of timber not desired to be taken for commercial or other purposes, within four hundred feet of the boundary line of such part of such watershed as is held or owned by such town or city, so as to leave such space of four hundred feet immediately adjoining the boundary line of such watershed, so held or owned, free and clear of all such tree-tops, laps, boughs and other inflammable material caused by or left from cutting such standing timber, so as to prevent the spread of fire from such cutover area and the consequent damage to such watershed. Any such person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

This is a valid exercise of police power: State v. Perley, 173-783.

4503. Injuring notices and advertisements. If any person shall wantonly or maliciously mutilate, deface, pull or tear down, destroy or otherwise damage any notice, sign or advertisement, unless immoral or obscene, whether put up by an officer of the law in performance of the duties of his office or by some other person for a lawful purpose, before the object for which such notice, sign or advertisement was posted shall have been accomplished, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding twenty-five dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days at the discretion of the court. Nothing herein contained shall apply to any person mutilating, defacing, pulling or tearing down, destroying or otherwise damaging notices, signs or advertisements put upon his own land or lands of which he may have charge or control, unless consent of such person to put up such notice, sign or advertisement shall have first been obtained, except those put up by an officer of the law in the performance of the duties of his office.

Rev., s. 3709; 1885, c. 302.

4504. Defacing or destroying public notices and advertisements. If any person shall willfully and unlawfully deface, tear down, remove or destroy any legal notice or advertisement authorized by law to be posted by any officer or other person, the same being actually posted at the time of such defacement, tearing down, removal or destruction, during the time for which such legal notice or advertisement shall be authorized by law to be posted, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

Rev., s. 3710; Code, s. 981: 1876-7, c. 215.

4505. Erecting signals and notices in imitation of those of railroads. No person, firm or corporation other than a railroad or street railway company shall, for advertisement or other purposes, erect and maintain on or near any highway any cross-arm post or other post or standard containing the words "Stop! Look! Listen!" or other such words or combinations of words in imitation of railroad signals or notices. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

4506. Operating automobile while intoxicated. Any person who shall, while intoxicated or under the influence of intoxicating liquors or bitters, morphine or other opiates, operate an automobile upon the public highways of any county or the streets of any city or town in this state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than fifty dollars or imprisoned not less than thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

1919, c. 234.

4507. Sale of Jamaica ginger. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to sell the compound known as Jamaica ginger except upon the prescription of a duly licensed and regular practicing physician; the person, firm, or corporation selling Jamaica ginger upon prescription shall keep a list of said prescriptions, and shall allow said list to be examined by any officer of the law, and no prescription shall ever be filled but once; it shall be unlawful for any physician to give a prescription for Jamaica ginger except to a person directly under his care, and then only in good faith for medicinal purposes only.

1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761.

4508. Furnishing intoxicants, poisons or firearms to inmates of charitable and penal institutions. If any person shall sell or give to any inmate of any charitable or penal institution any intoxicating drink or any narcotic, poison or poisonous substance, except upon the prescription of a physician, or shall give or sell to any such inmate any deadly weapon, or any cartridge or ammunition for firearms of any kind, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court; and if he be an officer or employee of any institution of the state, he shall be dismissed from his office.

Rev., s. 3517; 1899, c. 1, s. 52.

Compare, as to constitutionality, State v. Barringer, 110-525. Dentist not a "physician": State v. McMinn, 118-1259.

4509. Usurious loans on household and kitchen furniture. Any person, firm or corporation who shall lend money in any manner whatsoever by note, chattel mortgage, conditional sale or otherwise, upon any article of household or kitchen furniture, and shall take, receive, reserve or charge a greater rate of interest than six per cent, either before or after the interest may accrue, or who shall refuse to give receipts for payments on interest or principal of such loan, or who shall fail and refuse to surrender the note and security when the same is paid off or a new note and mortgage is given in renewal, unless such new mortgage shall state the amount still due by the old note or mortgage and that the new one is given as additional security, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in addition thereto shall forfeit double the interest which has been theretofore paid.

1907, c. 110.

Indictable to charge usury in debt secured by mortgage on household and kitchen furniture: State v. Davis, 157-648. Section declared constitutional: Ibid.

This section does not change the rule that the debtor asking for equitable relief must pay legal rate: Owens v. Wright, 161-127.

4510. Digging ginseng on another's land during certain months. All persons shall be allowed to dig ginseng at any time of the year for the purpose of replanting the same. If any person dig ginseng, except on his own premises, or for the purpose of replanting the same, between the first day of April and the first day of September, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for each day's or part of a day's digging, and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Rev., ss. 3502, 3714; Code, s. 1053; 1866-7, c. 60; 1905, c. 211.

For larceny of ginseng, see section 4258.

4511. Shooting rifles across Currituck sound and waters of Dare county. If any person shall shoot a rifle across or over the waters of Currituck sound, or the waters of Dare county, except in East Lake township, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not less than ten days nor more than thirty days.

Rev., s. 3734; 1889, c. 21, ss. 1, 2; 1903, c. 617.

ART. 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS

4512. Statute of limitations for misdemeanors. All misdemeanors, and petit larceny where the value of the property does not exceed five dollars, except the offenses of perjury, forgery, malicious mischief, and other malicious misdemeanors, deceit, and the offense of being accessory after the fact, now made a misdemeanor, shall be presented or found by the grand jury within two years after the commission of the same, and not afterwards: Provided, that in case any of the misdemeanors, hereby required to be prosecuted within two years, shall have been committed in a secret manner, the same may be prosecuted within two years after the discovery of the offender: Provided further, that if any indictment found within that time shall be defective, so that no judgment can be given thereon, another prosecution may be instituted for the same offense, within one year after the first shall have been abandoned by the state.

Rev., s. 3147; Code, s. 1177; R. C., c. 35, s. 8; 1826, c. 11; 1907, c. 408.

“Deceit” defined: State v. Christianbury, 44-46; State v. Crowell, 116-1052. “Secret manner” construed: State v. Watts, 32-369; State v. Christianbury, 44-46.

Section not applicable to a continuous nuisance: State v. Long, 94-896; State v. Holman, 104-861—to slander of an innocent woman, State v. Claywell, 98-731—to conspiracy, which is a felony, State v. Mallett, 125-718; State v. Christianbury, 44-46—to bastardy proceeding, State v. Hedgepeth, 122-1039; State v. Perry, 122-1043.

An indictment or presentment is the beginning of the prosecution and arrests the running of statute of limitations; and a nol. pros. does not cause the statute to run again: State v. Williams, 151-660. Presentment within two years sufficient, although indictment after two years, State v. Cox, 28-440; State v. Cooper, 104-890. What constitutes a presentment: State v. Morris, 104-837.

Indictment, although by wrong name, sufficient to take out of statute: State v. Hailey, 51-42—for assault and battery after two years insufficient, State v. Mason, 66-636; State v. Frisbee, 142-671. State not restricted to offense charged in indictment, if same offense proved within two years, State v. Newsom, 47-173.

Discretion in allowing statutes as defense when not pleaded, see Privett v. Calloway, 75-233.

4513. Issue and return of criminal process. All process, warrants and precepts, issued by any judge or justice of the peace, or clerk of any court, on any criminal prosecution, may issue at any time, and be made returnable to any day of the term of the court, to which such warrant, process, or precept is returnable.

Rev., s. 3148; Code, s. 1178; R. C., c. 35, s. 9; 1777, c. 115, s. 15.

4514. Date of receipt and service indorsed on process. Every sheriff or other officer shall indorse on all process and subpoenas issuing in criminal cases, whether for the state or defendant, the day when such process and subpoenas came to hand, and also the day of their execution; and on failure of any sheriff or other officer to perform either of said duties he shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for every case of neglect, to be recovered for the use of the state, in the same manner as forfeitures are recovered against sheriffs by parties in civil suits for failure to make due return of process delivered to them.

Rev., s. 3149; Code, s. 1179; R. C., c. 35, s. 10; 1850-1, c. 57.

4515. Accused entitled to counsel. Every person, accused of any crime whatsoever, shall be entitled to counsel in all matters which may be necessary for his defense.

Rev., s. 3150; Code, s. 1182; R. C., c. 35, s. 13; 1777, c. 115, s. 85.

Argument of counsel: State v. Whit, 50-224; State v. Smallwood, 78-560; State v. Rogers, 112-874; State v. Powell, 94-965; State v. Robinson, 124-801; State v. Anderson, 101-758; State v. Collins, 70-241.

Comment of counsel: State v. Sykes, 79-618; State v. Davis, 92-764; State v. Collins, 70-241; State v. Noland, 85-576; State v. Smallwood, 78-560; State v. Powell, 94-965; State v. Miller, 75-73; State v. Sheets, 89-543; State v. Powell, 106-635; State v. Speaks, 94-865; State v. Rogers, 94-860; State v. Jones, 77-520; State v. Lewis, 93-581; State v. Kiger, 115-746; State v. Craine, 120-601; State v. Caveness, 78-484; State v. Gay, 94-418; State v. Underwood, 77-502; State v. Weddington, 103-364; State v. Pearson, 119-871; State v. Hill, 114-780; State v. Smallwood, 75-104; State v. Rivers, 90-738; State v. Wilson, 90-736; State v. Harrison, 145-414, and cases cited.

Presence of defendant at trial in criminal case: State v. Cherry, 154-624; State v. Frieze, 170-710.

Retorts and repartee of counsel, which brings applause from crowd, not ground for new trial: State v. Harrison, 145-408.

4516. Fees allowed counsel assigned to defend in capital case. Whenever an attorney is appointed by the judge to defend a person charged with a capital crime, he shall receive such fee for performing this service as the judge may allow, not to exceed twenty-five dollars; but the judge shall not allow any fee until he is satisfied that the defendant charged with the capital crime is not able to employ counsel. The fees so allowed by the judge shall be paid by the county in which the indictment was found.

4517. Imprisonment to be in county jail. No person shall be imprisoned by any judge, court, justice of the peace, or other peace officer except in the common jail of the county, unless otherwise provided by law: Provided, that whenever the sheriff of any county shall be imprisoned, he may be imprisoned in the jail of any adjoining county.

Rev., s. 3151; Code, s. 1174; R. C., c. 35, s. 6; 1797, c. 474, s. 3; 1879, c. 12.

See State v. Norwood, 93-578.

4518. Post-mortem examinations directed. In all cases of homicide, any officer prosecuting for the state may, at any time, direct a post-mortem examination of the deceased to be made by one or more physicians to be summoned for the purpose; and the physicians shall be paid a reasonable compensation for such examination, the amount to be determined by the court and taxed in the costs, and if not collected out of the defendant the same shall be paid by the county.

Rev., s. 3152; Code, s. 1214; R. C., c. 35, s. 49.

How county required to pay expense of examination: Withers v. Comrs., 163-341.

4519. Stolen property returned to owner. Upon the conviction of any felon for robbing or stealing any money, goods, chattels, or other estate of any description whatever, the person from whom such goods, money, chattels or other estate were robbed or stolen shall be entitled to restitution thereof; and the court may award restitution of the articles so robbed or stolen, and make all such orders and issue such writs of restitution or otherwise as may be necessary for that purpose.

Rev., s. 3153; Code, s. 1201; R. C., c. 35, s. 34; 21 Hen. VIII, c. 11.

4520. Magistrate may associate another with him. Any magistrate, to whom any complaint may be made, or before whom any prisoner may be brought, as by law provided, may associate with himself any other magistrate of the same county; and the powers and duties herein mentioned may be executed by the two magistrates so associated.

Rev., s. 3154; Code, s. 1159; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 28.

Constitutional: State v. Flowers, 109-841.

4521. Speedy trial or discharge on commitment for felony. When any person who has been committed for treason or felony, plainly and specially expressed in the warrant of commitment, upon his prayer in open court to be brought to his trial, shall not be indicted some time in the next term of the superior or criminal court ensuing such commitment, the judge of the court, upon notice in open court on the last day of the term, shall set at liberty such prisoner upon bail, unless it appear upon oath that the witnesses for the state could not be produced at the same term; and if such prisoner, upon his prayer as aforesaid, shall not be indicted and tried at the second term of the court, he shall be discharged from his imprisonment: Provided, the judge presiding may, in his discretion, refuse to discharge such person if the time between the first and second terms of the court be less than four months.

The requirements of this section are peremptory, but no appeal lies from the refusal of the court to grant a discharge, the remedy being by certiorari: State v. Webb, 155-426.

See State v. Herndon, 107-938.

ART. 2. WARRANTS

4522. Who may issue warrant. The following persons respectively have power to issue process for the apprehension of persons charged with any offense, and to execute the powers and duties conferred in this chapter, namely: The chief justice and the associate justices of the supreme court, the judges of the superior court, judges of criminal courts, presiding officers of inferior courts, justices of the peace, mayors of cities, or other chief officers of incorporated towns.

Rev., s. 3156; Code, s. 1132; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 1.

Mayor pro tem. may issue process: State v. Thomas, 141-791. Pubic-local laws 1913, c. 569, s. 9, authorizes the judge of recorder's court or chief of police to issue process: State v. Turner, 170-701.

Justice of the peace may issue process to another county than his own, which must be endorsed by a justice of the second county: State v. James, 80-372; see section 4526.

Section referred to in State v. Joyner, 127-543; State v. Jones, 100-438.

Rev., s. 3157; Code, s. 1133; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 2.

Complaint when crime committed in another state: State v. James, 80-370.

No written complaint or affidavit is required: State v. Bryson, 84-780; State v. Peters, 107-879. Before warrant issues, complaint must be made on oath: Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369—and must show offense, State v. Moore, 136-581—need not be signed, State v. Ransome, 2-1.

Warrant need not state that it was issued on a sworn complaint: State v. Price, 111-703.

4524. Warrant issued; contents. If it shall appear from such examination that any criminal offense has been committed, the magistrate shall issue a proper warrant under his hand, with or without seal, reciting the accusation, and commanding the officer to whom it is directed forthwith to take the person accused of having committed the offense, and bring him before a magistrate, to be dealt with according to law. A justice of the peace or a chief officer of a city or town shall direct his warrant to the sheriff or other lawful officer of his county.

Special provision as to justice's warrant in Pender county, P. L. 1917, c. 333.

FORM AND CONTENTS OF WARRANTS. Necessity for seal: Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104-512. Warrant need not recite that the complaint was on oath: State v. Price, 111-70; Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-371. Description need not be as exact as indictment: State v. Jones, 88-671. Must recite accusation: State v. Jones, 88-671. Rule as to stating the offense when the statute contains an exception or proviso: State v. Moore, 166-284. Verbal orders of no effect: State v. Jones, 78-455. No written complaint or affidavit necessary: State v. Bryson, 84-780; State v. Peters, 107-879.

On a motion to quash or in arrest of judgment the warrant is to be considered in connection with the affidavit: State v. Hinton, 158-625; State v. Yellowday, 152-793; State v. Davis, 111-729; State v. Winslow, 95-649.

Warrant may be amended, when: State v. Vaughan, 91-532; State v. Crook, 91-536; State v. Sykes, 104-694; State v. Taylor, 118-1262; State v. Norman, 110-484—in superior court, State v. Telfair, 130-645; State v. Cauble, 70-62. Power of superior court to amend warrant: State v. Lee, 164-533; State v. Poythress, 174-809.

Defective process is waived by appearing and submitting to the jurisdiction of the court: State v. Cale, 150-805.

Warrant sufficient in form to protect the officer: State v. Gupton, 166-257.

4525. Where warrant may be executed. Warrants issued by any justice of the supreme court, or by any judge of the superior court, or of a criminal court, may be executed in any part of this state; warrants issued by a justice of the peace, or by the chief officer of any city or incorporated town, may be executed in any part of the county of such justice, or in which such city or town is situated, and on any river, bay or sound forming the boundary between that and some other county, and not elsewhere, unless indorsed as prescribed in the section following.

Rev., s. 3159; Code, s. 1135; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 4.

4526. Warrant indorsed and served in another county. If the person against whom any warrant is issued by a justice of the peace or chief officer of a city or town shall escape, or be in any other county out of the jurisdiction of such justice or chief officer, it shall be the duty of any justice of the peace, or any other magistrate within the county where such offender shall be, or shall be suspected to be, upon proof of the handwriting of the magistrate or chief officer issuing the warrant, to indorse his name on the same, and thereupon the person, or officer to whom the warrant was directed, may arrest the offender in that county: Provided, that an officer to whom a warrant charging the commission of a felony is directed, who is in the actual pursuit of a person known to him to be the one charged with the felony, may continue the pursuit without such indorsement. The justice of the peace or a chief officer of a city or town shall direct his warrant to the sheriff or other lawful officer of his county, and such warrant when so indorsed as herein prescribed shall authorize and compel the sheriff or other officer of any county in the state, in which such indorsement is made, to execute the same.

Rev., s. 3160; Code, s. 1136; 1917, c. 30; 1901, c. 668; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 5.

For indorsement, see State v. James, 80-370. Restricted to criminal cases: Fisher v. Bulard, 109-574.

4527. Magistrate not liable for indorsing warrant. No magistrate shall be liable to any indictment, action for trespass or other action for having indorsed any warrant pursuant to the provisions of the last section, although it should afterward appear that such warrant was illegally or improperly issued.

Rev., s. 3161; Code, s. 1137; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 6.

Exemption extends to all who aid in execution: State v. James, 80-370.

4528. Before what magistrate a warrant returned. Persons arrested under any warrant issued for any offense, where no provision is otherwise made, shall be brought before the magistrate who issued the warrant; or, if he be absent, or from any cause unable to try the case, before the nearest magistrate in the same county; and the warrant by virtue of which the arrest shall have been made, with a proper return indorsed thereon and signed by the officer or person making the arrest, shall be delivered to such magistrate.

Rev., s. 3162; Code, s. 1143; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 12.

See generally: State v. James, 78-455. Returnable before mayor pro. tem., when: State v. Thomas, 141-791. Magistrate may make warrant returnable before himself or some other magistrate: State v. Lord, 145-479—or before a recorder who has jurisdiction, Ibid.

ART. 3. SEARCH WARRANTS

4529. In what cases issued, and where executed. If any credible witness shall prove, upon oath, before any justice of the peace, or mayor of any city, or chief magistrate of any incorporated town, that there is a reasonable cause to suspect that any person has in his possession, or on his premises, any property stolen, or any false or counterfeit coin resembling, or apparently intended to resemble, or pass for, any current coin of the United States, or of any other state, province or country, or any instrument, tool or engine whatsoever, adapted or intended for the counterfeiting of any such coin; or any false and counterfeit notes, bills or bonds of the United States, or of the state of North Carolina, or of any other state or country, or of any county, city or incorporated town; or any instrument, tool or engine whatsoever, adapted or intended for the counterfeiting of such note, bill or bond, it shall be lawful for such justice, mayor or chief magistrate of any incorporated town to grant a warrant, to be executed within the limits of his county or of the county in which such city or incorporated town is situated, to any proper officer, authorizing him to search for such property, and to seize the same, and to arrest the person having in possession or on whose premises may be found such stolen property, counterfeit coin, counterfeit notes, bills or bonds, or the instruments, tools or engines for making the same, and to bring them before any magistrate of competent jurisdiction, to be dealt with according to law.

Right to issue at common law: State v. McDonald, 14-468.

Rev., s. 3164; Code, s. 1172; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 39.

Search warrant for seaman, see section 4473.

ART. 4. PEACE WARRANTS

4531. Officers authorized to issue peace warrants. The following magistrates have power to cause to be kept all the laws made for the preservation of the public peace, and in execution of that power to require persons to give security to keep the peace, in the manner provided in this chapter, namely: The chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court, the judges of the superior courts, and of any special courts which may hereafter be created, the justices of the peace, the mayors or other chief officers of all cities and towns.

Rev., s. 3165; Code, s. 1216; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 1.

Peace warrant is a criminal action and is within the exclusive original jurisdiction of a justice of the peace: State v. Oates, 88-668; State v. Locust, 63-574. Peace warrant must show facts from which fear is well founded: State v. Cooley, 78-538. Error for justice of the peace to bind over to the superior court applicant for a peace warrant: State v. Arthur, 75-139.

See generally: State v. Arthur, 75-139; State v. Sneed, 84-816.

Rev., s. 3166; Code, s. 1217; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 2.

Where no threat alleged, nor fact nor circumstance from which court can determine whether there is fear of prosecutor, quashed: State v. Cooley, 78-538; State v. Goram, 83-664.

4533. Warrant issued. If it shall appear from such examination that there is just reason to fear the commission of any such offense by the person complained of, it shall be the duty of the magistrate to issue a warrant under his hand, with or without a seal, reciting the complaint, and commanding the officer to whom it is directed forthwith to apprehend the person so complained of, and bring him before such magistrate or some other magistrate authorized to issue such warrant.

Rev., s. 3167; Code, s. 1218; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 3.

See generally: State v. Cooley, 78-538; State v. Arthur, 75-139; State v. Goram, 83-664.

4534. To whom warrant directed. The warrant shall be directed to the sheriff, coroner or any constable, each of whom shall have power to execute the same within his county; and if no sheriff, coroner or constable can conveniently be found, the warrant may be directed to any person whatever, who shall have power to execute the same within the county in which it is issued. No justice of the peace, or mayor, or other chief officer of any city or town shall direct his warrant to any officer outside the county of said justice or chief officer.

Rev., s. 3169; Code, s. 1219; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 4.

When directed to private person: State v. Campbell, 107-948; McKee v. Angel, 90-60.

See generally: State v. Campbell, 107-948.

4535. Defendant recognized to keep the peace. Whenever any person complained of on a peace warrant is brought before a justice of the peace, such person may be required to enter into a recognizance, payable to the state of North Carolina, in such sum, not exceeding one thousand dollars, as such justice shall direct, with one or more sufficient sureties, to appear before some justice of the peace within a period not exceeding six months, and not depart the court without leave, and in the meanwhile to keep the peace and be of good behavior towards all the people of the state, and particularly towards the person requiring such security.

Rev., s. 3170; Code, ss. 894, 1220; 1879, c. 92, s. 9.

Gives to justices of the peace exclusive original jurisdiction of peace warrants and proceedings thereunder: State v. Oates, 88-668.

4536. Defendant discharged, or new recognizance required. If the complainant does not appear, the party recognized shall be discharged, unless good cause be shown to the contrary. If the respective parties appear, the court shall hear their allegations and proofs, and may either discharge the recognizance taken or they may require a new recognizance, as the circumstances of the case may require, for such time as may appear necessary, not exceeding one year.

Rev., s. 3171; Code, s. 1226; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 12.

4537. Defendant imprisoned for want of security. If such recognizance is given, the party complained of shall be discharged; if such person fails to find such security, it shall be the duty of the magistrate to commit him to prison until he shall find the same, specifying in the mittimus the cause of commitment and the sum in which such security was required.

Rev., s. 3172; Code, s. 1221; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 6.

Prisoner hereunder may be worked on the roads: State v. Yandle, 119-874.

4538. How discharged from imprisonment. Any person committed for not finding sureties of the peace as above provided, may be discharged by any magistrate upon giving such security as was originally required of such person, or by a justice of the supreme court, or judge of the superior or criminal court, by giving such other security as may seem sufficient.

Rev., s. 3174; Code, s. 1222; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 7.

4539. Defendant may appeal. In all proceedings on peace warrants the defendant may appeal from the decision of the justice of the peace to the superior court by giving the bond required by the justice of the peace to keep the peace, in addition to the appeal bond, when the case shall be heard by the judge holding the court in the county.

Rev., s. 3173; 1901, c. 66.

This section renders obsolete State v. Walker, 94-857; State v. Lyon, 93-575; State v. Gregory, 118-1199.

4540. Breach of peace in presence of court. Every person who, in the presence of any magistrate specified in the first section of this article, or in the presence of any court of record, shall make any affray, or threaten to kill or beat another, or to commit any offense against his person or property; and all persons who, in the presence of such magistrate or court, shall contend with hot and angry words, may be ordered by such magistrate or court, without any other proof, to give such security as above specified, and in case of failure so to do, may be committed as above provided.

Rev., s. 3168; Code, s. 1224; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 9.

4541. Recognizance returned to superior court. Every recognizance taken pursuant to the provisions of this article shall be transmitted by the magistrate taking the same to the next term of the superior court for the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed.

Rev., s. 3175; Code, s. 1223; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 8.

ART. 5. ARREST

4542. Persons present may arrest for breach of peace. Every person present at any riot, rout, affray or other breach of the peace, shall endeavor to suppress and prevent the same, and, if necessary for that purpose, shall arrest the offenders.

Rev., s. 3176; Code, s. 1124; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 1, s. 1.

4543. Arrest for felony, without warrant. Every person in whose presence a felony has been committed may arrest the person whom he knows or has reasonable ground to believe to be guilty of such offense, and it shall be the duty of every sheriff, coroner, constable or officer of police, upon information, to assist in such arrest.

Rev., s. 3177; Code, s. 1129; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 1, s. 6.

Felony must be committed in presence of party making the arrest: Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

Party making arrest must make known his purpose, else he will be guilty of a trespass: State v. Bryant, 65-327.

See generally: Neal v. Joyner, 89-287; State v. Bryant, 65-327; State v. Stancill, 128-606 (see dissenting opinion of Cook, J.); State v. McNinch, 90-695; Martin v. Houck, 141-317.

4544. When officer may arrest without warrant. Every sheriff, coroner, constable, officer of police, or other officer, entrusted with the care and preservation of the public peace, who shall know or have reasonable ground to believe that any felony has been committed, or that any dangerous wound has been given, and shall have reasonable ground to believe that any particular person is guilty, and shall apprehend that such person may escape if not immediately arrested, shall arrest him without warrant, and may summon all bystanders to aid in such arrest.

4545. House broken open to prevent felony. All persons are authorized to break open and enter a house to prevent a felony about to be committed therein.

Rev., s. 3179; Code, s. 1127; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 1, s. 4.

Rev., s. 3180; Code, s. 1128; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 1, s. 5.

4547. Persons summoned to assist in arrest. Every person summoned by a judge, justice, mayor, intendant, chief officer of any incorporated town, sheriff, coroner or constable, to aid in suppressing any riot, rout, unlawful assembly, affray or other breach of the peace, or to arrest the persons engaged in the commission of such offenses, or to prevent the commission of any felony or larceny which may be threatened or begun, shall do so.

Rev., s. 3181; Code, s. 1125; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 1, s. 2.

See section 4379, as to punishment for failure to assist. This section does not authorize justice of the peace, after an affray is over, to summon persons to arrest the participants without a warrant: State v. Campbell, 107-948. It is the duty of those summoned to aid the officer, and the protection extended to the officer extends to them: State v. McMahan, 103-379.

See generally: State v. Stancill, 128-606 (see dissenting opinion of Cook, J.); Merrimon v. Comrs., 106-369.

4548. Procedure on arrest without warrant. Every person arrested without warrant shall be either immediately taken before some magistrate having jurisdiction to issue a warrant in the case, or else committed to the county prison, and, as soon as may be, taken before such magistrate, who, on proper proof, shall issue a warrant and thereon proceed to act as may be required by law.

ART. 6. FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE

4549. Outlawry for felony. In all cases where any two justices of the peace, or any judge of the supreme, superior, or criminal courts shall, on written affidavit, filed and retained by such justice or judge, receive information that a felony has been committed by any person, and that such person flees from justice, conceals himself and evades arrest and service of the usual process of the law, the judge, or the two justices, being justices of the county wherein such person is supposed to lurk or conceal himself, are hereby empowered and required to issue proclamation against him reciting his name, if known, and thereby requiring him forthwith to surrender himself; and also, when issued by any judge, empowering and requiring the sheriff of any county in the state in which such fugitive shall be, and when issued by two justices, empowering and requiring the sheriff of the county of the justices, to take such power with him as he shall think fit and necessary for the going in search and pursuit of, and effectually apprehending, such fugitive from justice, which proclamation shall be published at the door of the courthouse of any county in which such fugitive is supposed to lurk or conceal himself, and at such other places as the judge or justices shall direct; and if any person against whom proclamation has been thus issued, continue to stay out, lurk and conceal himself, and do not immediately surrender himself, any citizen of the state may capture, arrest and bring him to justice, and in case of flight or resistance by him, after being called on and warned to surrender, may slay him without accusation or impeachment of any crime.

Rev., s. 3183; Code, s. 1131; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 1, s. 8; 1866, c. 62.

Even "outlaws" are entitled to be "called upon and warned to surrender" before they are allowed to be slain: State v. Stancill, 128-606 (see dissenting opinion, Cook, J.). Fugitive from justice defined: State v. Hall, 115-811.

See generally: State v. Stancill, 128-606; Wilson v. R. R., 142-343 (concurring opinion of Walker, J.).

See chapter Extradition in Appendix to Consolidated Statutes.

4550. Fugitives from another state arrested. Any justice of the supreme court, or any judge of the superior court or of any criminal court, or any justice of the peace, or mayor of any city, or chief magistrate of any incorporated town, on satisfactory information laid before him that any fugitive or other person in the state has committed, out of the state and within the United States, any offense which, by law of the state in which the offense was committed, is punishable either capitally or by imprisonment for one year or upwards in any state prison, has full power and authority, and is hereby required, to issue a warrant for such fugitive or other person and commit him to any jail within the state for the space of six months, unless sooner demanded by the public authorities of the state wherein the offense may have been committed, pursuant to the act of congress in that case made and provided. If no demand be made within that time the fugitive or other person shall be liberated, unless sufficient cause be shown to the contrary.

Rev., s. 3184; Code, s. 1165; 1895, c. 103; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 34.

Warrant must issue before arrest can be lawfully made: State v. Shelton, 79-605.

Departure from jurisdiction, after the commission of an act in furtherance of a crime subsequently consummated, is a flight from justice: In re Sultan, 115-57.

See generally: In re Hughes, 61-57; In re Patterson, 99-407; State v. Glover, 112-896; In re Sultan, 115-57; State v. Hall, 115-811 cured by section 4604.

For forms for extradition papers, see chapter Extradition in Appendix to Consolidated Statutes.

4551. Record kept, and copy sent to governor. Every magistrate committing any person under the preceding section shall keep a record of the whole proceedings before him, and immediately transmit a copy thereof to the governor for such action as he may deem fit therein under the law.

Rev., s. 3185; Code, s. 1166; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 35.

4552. Duty of governor. The governor shall immediately inform the governor of the state or territory in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, or the president of the United States, if it be alleged to have been committed within the District of Columbia, of the proceedings had in such case.

Rev., s. 3186; Code, s. 1167; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 36.

4553. Person surrendered on order of governor. Every sheriff or jailer in whose custody any person so committed shall be, upon the order of the governor, shall surrender him to the person named in such order.

Rev., s. 3187; Code, s. 1168; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 37.

4554. Governor may employ agents, and offer rewards. The governor, on information made to him of any person, whether the name of such person be known or unknown, having committed a felony or other infamous crime within the state, and of having fled out of the jurisdiction thereof, or who conceals himself within the state to avoid arrest, or who, having been convicted, has escaped and cannot otherwise be apprehended, may either employ a special agent, with a sufficient escort, to pursue and apprehend such fugitive, or issue his proclamation, and therein offer a reward, not exceeding four hundred dollars, according to the nature of the case, as in his opinion may be sufficient for the purpose, to be paid to him who shall apprehend and deliver the fugitive to such person and at such place as in the proclamation shall be directed; and he may from time to time issue his warrants on the state treasurer for sufficient sums of money for such purpose.

Rev., s. 3188; Code, s. 1169; 1891, c. 421; R. C., c. 35, s. 4; 1800, c. 561; 1866, c. 28; 1868-9, c. 52; 1870-1, c. 15; 1871-2, c. 29.

See generally: Burton v. Furman, 115-171.

4555. Officer entitled to reward. Any sheriff or other officer who shall make an arrest of any person charged with crime for whose apprehension a reward has been offered, is entitled to such reward, and may sue for and recover the same in any court in this state having jurisdiction: Provided, that no reward shall be paid to any sheriff or other officer for any arrest made for a crime committed within the county of such sheriff or officer making such arrest: Provided further, that the foregoing proviso shall not apply to Wake county; and that in Wake county, upon conviction of convict of an escape, the reward paid to the sheriff or other officer for the apprehension of such escaped convict shall be taxed against such convict in the bill of costs.

This changes the rule stated in Malpass v. Governor, 70-130.

4556. Expenses paid, in bringing fugitive from another state. In all cases where the governor of the state has made a requisition on the governor of another state for any fugitive from justice and has sent an agent to receive such fugitive, it shall be lawful for the governor to issue a warrant on the state treasurer for the amount of money necessary to pay the expenses of the agent and other costs in the arresting of the fugitive from justice, to be paid by the treasurer of the state.

Rev., s. 3189; Code, s. 1170; 1870-1, c. 82.

See generally: Burton v. Furman, 115-171.

ART. 7. PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION

4557. Waiver of examination. If any person arrested desires to waive examination and give bail, it is the duty of the officer making the arrest to take him before any magistrate of the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed, or before any judge of the supreme or superior court.

Rev., s. 3190; Code, ss. 1138, 1139; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 7, 8.

For bail, see section 4477.

4558. Procedure, when justice has not final jurisdiction. In all cases where a justice of the peace has not final jurisdiction of the offense, he shall desist from any final determination of the action or complaint, and proceed as hereinafter provided.

Rev., s. 3191; Code, s. 896; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 7; 1879, c. 302, s. 2.

Justice of the peace has no jurisdiction after he binds prisoner over to court: State v. Lucas, 139-569. For criminal jurisdiction of justices of the peace, see section 1481.

4559. Duty of examining magistrate. The magistrate before whom any such person shall be brought shall proceed, as soon as may be, to examine the complainant and the witnesses produced in support of the prosecution on oath, in the presence of the prisoner, in regard to the offense charged, and in regard to any other matters connected with such charge which such magistrate may deem pertinent. The defendant shall be allowed a reasonable time before the hearing begins in which to send for and advise with counsel.

Rev., s. 3192; Code, ss. 1144, 1145; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 13.

Examination taken hereunder may be used before the grand or petit jury when the witness is dead: State v. Valentine, 29-225; State v. King, 86-603; State v. Bridgers, 87-562; see section 4572.

Admissions of prosecuting witness are admissible against him on another trial for the same or any other offense: State v. Simpson, 133-676. Prisoner entitled to counsel: State v. Matthews, 66-106.

See generally: State v. James, 78-455; State v. Bridgers, 87-562; State v. Conrad, 95-666; State v. Ellis, 97-447; State v. Jones, 100-438; State v. Staton, 114-813; State v. Hawkins, 115-715; State v. Moore, 136-581.

Rev., s. 3193; Code, ss. 1146, 1150; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 14, 19.

Justice of the peace required to take down only the substance of what witness says: State v. Bridgers, 87-562. Notes of evidence made by the committing magistrate are not conclusive as to the testimony of a witness: State v. Hooper, 151-646.

Magistrate can testify as to what witness swore before him, although such testimony was reduced to writing: State v. Adair, 66-298; State v. Jordan, 110-491. Testimony taken hereunder cannot be used as evidence in chief, but only to refresh memory or contradict statement made by witness: State v. McLeod, 8-344; State v. Adair, 66-278; State v. Jordan, 110-491—unless witness is dead: State v. Valentine, 29-225; State v. King, 86-603; State v. Bridgers, 87-562—too ill to be present, or insane, or removed from the state at instigation of defendant; and proof that he did not respond to summons is not sufficient, State v. King, 86-603; see section 4572.

Admissions or confessions made under oath by prisoner before committing magistrate inadmissible: State v. Parker, 132-1014. Prisoner entitled to benefit of counsel: State v. Matthews, 66-106.

See generally: State v. Conrad, 95-666; State v. Staton, 114-815.

4561. Prisoner examined; advised of rights. The magistrate shall then proceed to examine the prisoner in relation to the offense charged. Such examination shall not be on oath; and before it is commenced, the prisoner shall be informed by the magistrate of the charge made against him, and that he is at liberty to refuse to answer any question that may be put to him, and that his refusal to answer shall not be used to his prejudice in any stage of the proceedings.

Rev., s. 3194; Code, ss. 1145, 1146; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 14, 15.

Prisoner must have a full and perfect knowledge of his rights, but the caution need not be in the exact words of the statute: State v. King, 162-580; State v. Rorie, 74-148; State v. Rogers, 112-875; State v. DeGraff, 113-688.

Such caution need only be given when the prisoner is examined before a magistrate: State v. Howard, 92-776—and the examination must have begun, State v. Conrad, 95-666. Caution comes too late to make confession admissible, when a question is asked before such caution is given: State v. Matthews, 66-106.

Any admission or confession made by the prisoner while under oath before a committing magistrate, whether reduced to writing or not, or made in the presence of witnesses, should not be used in evidence: State v. Parker, 132-1014.

When prisoner takes the stand as a witness in his own behalf and is sworn, this section does not apply: State v. Ellis, 97-447; State v. Hawkins, 115-712; State v. Simpson, 133-676. Right of prisoner to testify in his own behalf, see sections 1799, 1802.

See generally: State v. Vaughan, 156-615; State v. Moore, 136-581; State v. Parker, 132-1014; State v. Hawkins, 115-712; State v. Ellis, 97-447; State v. Howard, 92-772; State v. Pressley, 90-730; State v. Spier, 86-600; State v. Needham, 78-474; State v. Matthews, 66-106.

4562. Exclusion of witnesses at examination. The witnesses produced on the part either of the prisoner or of the prosecution shall not be present at the examination of the prisoner; and while any witness is under examination the magistrate may exclude from the place in which such examination is had all witnesses who have not been examined, and may cause the witnesses to be kept separate and prevented from conversing with each other until they shall have been examined.

Rev., s. 3195; Code, s. 1149; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 18.

For excluding bystanders in trials for rape, see section 4636.

Sequestration of witnesses in trials generally is within the discretion of the court, and upon violation of the order the court may refuse to allow the witness to testify: State v. Davis, 175-723; Lee v. Thornton, 174-288; State v. Lowry, 170-730; State v. Hodge, 142-676.

“Witnesses should not be present at examination of prisoner” quoted and discussed: State v. Parker, 132-1014; State v. Moore, 136-581.

4563. Answers in writing, read to prisoner, signed by magistrate. The answer of the prisoner to the several interrogatories shall be reduced to writing by the magistrate, or under his direction. They shall be read to the prisoner, who may correct or add to them; and when made conformable to what he declares is the truth, shall be certified and signed by the magistrate.

Rev., s. 3196; Code, s. 1147; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 16.

The magistrate is not required to put down the very words of the witness, but an accurate substance of the testimony is sufficient: State v. Bridgers, 87-562.

The section does not require that the examination shall be certified under the private or official seal of the committing magistrate: State v. Pressley, 90-730.

See generally: State v. Parker, 132-1014.

Section merely referred to in State v. Suggs, 90-530.

4564. Witnesses for defendant examined. After the examination of the prisoner is complete, his witnesses, if he have any, shall be sworn and examined, and he may have the assistance of counsel in such examination.

Rev., s. 3197; Code, s. 1148; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 17.

See generally: State v. Parker, 132-1014.

4565. Examination of prisoner not required in misdemeanors. Nothing contained in the preceding sections shall be construed to require any magistrate, before whom a prisoner charged with a misdemeanor shall be brought, to take the examination of such prisoner, except where such magistrate shall deem it material so to do, or where such examination shall be required by the prisoner.

Rev., s. 3198; Code, s. 1153; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 22.

Right of prisoner to testify in his own behalf, see sections 1799, 1802.

4566. When prisoner discharged. If, upon examination of the whole matter, it shall appear to the magistrate either that no offense has been committed by any person or that there is no probable cause for charging the prisoner therewith, he shall discharge such prisoner.

Rev., s. 3199; Code, s. 1151; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 20.

See State v. Lucas, 139-567.

4567. When prisoner held to answer charge. If it shall appear that an offense has been committed, and that there is probable cause to believe the prisoner to be guilty thereof, if the offense be bailable, and the prisoner offer sufficient bail, such bail shall be taken and the prisoner discharged; if no bail be offered, or the offense be not bailable, the prisoner shall be committed to prison.

Rev., s. 3202; Code, ss. 1152, 1156; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, ss. 21, 25.

Section cited and discussion had of bail in capital offenses: State v. Herndon, 107-939 (dissenting opinion of Merrimon, C. J.).

After committing or binding prisoner over to superior court, a justice of the peace has no further power or jurisdiction: State v. Lucas, 139-567.

Section merely cited in Lovick v. R. R., 129-427.

4568. Witnesses against prisoner recognized. The magistrate shall bind by recognizances the prosecutor and all the material witnesses against such prisoner to appear and testify at the next term of the court having jurisdiction for the county in which the offense is alleged to have been committed.

Rev., s. 3203; Code, s. 1152; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 21.

A justice of the peace or magistrate cannot require a witness to give bond for his appearance before such justice or magistrate: Lovick v. R. R., 129-427.

After committing or binding the prisoner and witnesses against him over to the superior court, a justice of the peace has no further power or jurisdiction: State v. Lucas, 139-567.

4569. Witnesses required to give security for appearance. Whenever the magistrate is satisfied by the proof that there is good reason to believe that any such witness will not fulfill the conditions of the recognizance unless security be required, he may order the witness to enter into a recognizance with such sureties as he shall deem meet for his appearance at such court.

Rev., s. 3204; Code, s. 1154; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 23.

A justice of the peace or magistrate cannot require a witness to give bond for his appearance before such justice or magistrate: Lovick v. R. R., 129-427.

4570. Investigation in case of lynching. Whenever the solicitor of any judicial district ascertains that the crime of lynching has been committed in any county in his judicial district, it is his duty to go to such county at the earliest possible moment, and at once institute proceedings for the investigation of the crime before the coroner of the county, some judge of the superior court, or justice of the peace, and for the apprehension of the offender. In the performance of this duty he shall cause to be issued subpoenas or other process to compel the attendance of witnesses and examine such witnesses on oath as to their knowledge or information touching the crime being investigated. In all cases where, upon preliminary investigation, it appears probable that any person is guilty of the crime charged, it shall be the duty of the coroner, judge or justice before whom the case is heard to bind such person, with good security, for his appearance at the next ensuing term of the superior or criminal court of some county adjoining the county in which the crime was committed for trial, and in default of bail to commit him to the jail of such adjoining county for safe-keeping, and all necessary witnesses shall be recognized to appear at such term as witnesses for the state.

Rev., s. 3200; 1893, c. 461, s. 2.

As to venue, see State v. Lewis, 142-626 (concurring and dissenting opinions).

4571. Witnesses in lynching not privileged. In all investigations before a justice of the peace, coroner, judge, grand jury, or courts and jury, on the trial of the cause, as authorized by the preceding section or under existing law, no person shall be excused from testifying touching his knowledge or information in regard to the offense being investigated, upon the ground that his answer might tend to subject him to prosecution, pains or penalties, or that his evidence might tend to criminate himself; but no discovery made by such witness upon any such examination shall be used against him in any court or in any penal or criminal prosecution, and he shall, when so examined as a witness for the state, be altogether pardoned of any and all participation in any crime arising under the provisions of the preceding section, or under existing law, concerning which he is required to testify.

Rev., ss. 1638, 3201; 1893, c. 461, s. 5.

For cases on section analogous to this, see section 1800. Force and effect of original act, of which section is part, not impaired by fact that same is split up and different sections placed under appropriate heads: State v. Lewis, 142-626.

The part of this statute with reference to pardon of witness is constitutional, and witness is pardoned even though his evidence did not tend to criminate himself: State v. Bowman, 145-452. Plea of pardon treated as motion to quash, so that state can appeal: Ibid.

4572. Proceedings certified to court; used as evidence. All examinations and recognizances taken pursuant to the provisions of this chapter shall be certified by the magistrate taking the same to the court at which the witnesses are bound to appear, within twenty days after the taking of such examinations and recognizances: Provided, that any criminal case tried within twenty days before the sitting of criminal court shall be returned on Saturday before the court convenes. The examinations taken and subscribed as herein prescribed may be used as evidence before the grand jury, and on the trial of the accused, provided he was present at the taking thereof and had an opportunity to hear the same and to cross-examine the deposing witness, if such witness be dead or so ill as not to be able to travel, or by procurement or connivance of the defendant has removed from the state, or is of unsound mind.

Rev., s. 3205; Code, s. 1157; 1913, c. 24; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 26.

See section 4560. Section discussed: State v. King, 86-603. Section referred to as sufficient taking of evidence: State v. Wilson, 158-599.

Such examination, to be used as evidence, need not contain the exact words of the witness: State v. Bridgers, 87-562.

That such examination may be used as evidence in chief, it must have been taken in accordance with the statute: State v. Pierce, 91-610; State v. Jordan, 110-495—and it must be shown what has become of the witness: State v. Grady, 83-646; State v. King, 86-603; State v. Pierce, 91-610.

Section merely cited: State v. Lucas, 139-569.

4573. Penalty for failing to return. If any magistrate shall refuse or neglect to return to the proper court any such examination or recognizance by him taken, he may be compelled by rule of court forthwith to return the same, and in case of disobedience of such rule, may be proceeded against by attachment as for contempt of court as provided by law.

Rev., s. 3206; Code, s. 1158; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 27.

ART. 8. BAIL

4574. Officers authorized to take bail, before imprisonment. Officers before whom persons charged with crime, but who have not been committed to prison by an authorized magistrate, may be brought, have power to take bail as follows:

1. Any justice of the supreme court, or a judge of a superior court, in all cases.

See generally: State v. Herndon, 107-939 (dissenting opinion of Merrimon, C. J.).

2. Any justice of the peace or chief magistrate of any incorporated city or town, in all cases of misdemeanor, and in all cases of felony not capital.

Rev., s. 3209; Code, s. 1160; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 29; 1871-2, c. 37.

See generally: State v. Herndon, 107-939 (dissenting opinion of Merrimon, C. J.).

4575. Officers authorized to take bail, after imprisonment. Any justice of the supreme court or any judge of a superior court has power to bail persons committed to prison charged with crime in all cases; any justice of the peace or chief magistrate of any incorporated city or town has the same power in all cases where the punishment is not capital.

Rev., s. 3210; Code, s. 1161; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 30.

Section construed: State v. Herndon, 107-934. See, also, State v. Herndon, 107-939 (dissenting opinion of Merrimon, C. J.). Section cited in State v. Lucas, 139-567.

4576. Recognizance filed with clerk. Whenever any prisoner is bailed by any officer under the preceding section, such officer shall immediately cause the recognizance taken by him to be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county to which the prisoner is recognized.

Rev., s. 3211; Code, s. 1162; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 31.

4577. Bail allowed on preliminary examination. If the offense charged in the warrant be not punishable with death, the magistrate may take from the person so arrested a recognizance with sufficient sureties for his appearance at the next term of the court having jurisdiction, to be held in the county where the offense is alleged to have been committed.

Rev., s. 3207; Code, s. 1139; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 8; 1871-2, c. 37, s. 1.

A recognizance defined: State v. Mills, 19-552; State v. White, 164-408. A recognizance in the form of a bond with conditions, signed and sealed by defendant and his sureties, is valid: State v. Jones, 100-438; State v. Houston, 74-549.

See annotations under section 4582.

4578. Duty of magistrate granting bail. Any magistrate taking bail shall certify on the warrant the fact of his having let the defendant to bail, and shall deliver the same, together with the recognizance taken by him, to the officer or other person having charge of the prisoner, who shall deliver the same without unnecessary delay to the clerk of the court in which the prisoner has been recognized to appear.

Rev., s. 3212; Code, s. 1140; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 9.

4579. Sheriff or deputy may take bail. When any sheriff or his deputy arrests the body of any person, in consequence of the writ of capias issued to him by the clerk of a court of record on an indictment found, the sheriff or deputy, if the crime is bailable, shall recognize the offender, and take sufficient bail in the nature of a recognizance for his appearing at the next succeeding court of the county where he ought to answer, which recognizance shall be returned with the capias; and the sheriff shall in no case become bail himself.

4580. Sheriff may take bail of prisoner in custody. If any person for want of bail shall be lawfully committed to jail at any time before final judgment, the sheriff, or other officer having him in custody, may take sufficient justified bail and discharge him; and the bail bond shall be regarded, in every respect, as other bail bonds, and shall be returned and sued on in like manner; and the officer taking it shall make special return thereof, with the bond, at the first court which is held after it is taken.

Rev., s. 3228; Code, s. 1232; R. C., c. 11, s. 8.

4581. Bail on continuance before a justice. Upon the continuance of any criminal action returned before any justice of the peace for trial, in which the justice is authorized to take bail on a finding of probable cause or in which he has final jurisdiction, it is the duty of the justice of the peace to take bond for his appearance, payable to the state, on the same being tendered by the accused, with such surety as in his opinion will be sufficient to insure the appearance of the accused for trial at a time and place mentioned in the bond.

Rev., s. 3213; 1889, c. 133.

For mortgage in lieu of personal security, see sections 347, 348.

See generally: State v. Jenkins, 121-641.

Before this statute a justice of the peace had no power to allow a party accused of an offense, of which he had no final jurisdiction, to give bail during the postponement of the examination: State v. Jones, 100-438; State v. Jenkins, 121-641.

ART. 9. FORFEITURE OF BAIL

4582. In recognizance to keep the peace. Every person who shall have entered into a recognizance to keep the peace shall appear according to the obligation thereof; and if he fail to appear the court shall forfeit his recognizance and order it to be prosecuted, in the manner provided by law, unless reasonable excuse for his default be given.

Rev., s. 3214; Code, s. 1225; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 10.

As to jurisdiction in which recognizance prosecuted: State v. Oates, 88-668.

A recognizance is a conditional judgment and a scire facias is notice to the cognizor to show cause: State v. Mills, 19-552; State v. Smith, 66-620. A bond with conditions, signed and sealed by the parties, is good as a recognizance: State v. Houston, 74-174, 74-549; State v. Jones, 100-438.

A recognizance, conditioned for the appearance of a party on one day, is not forfeited by his failure to appear on another day, to which the holding of the court was changed by a law passed after the taking of the recognizance, the law containing no provision to that effect: State v. The Meltons, 44-426.

A recognizance, conditioned that the defendant appear at the courthouse in C on the eighth Monday after the fourth Monday in March, is not forfeited by the defendant's failure to appear on the twenty-second of February: State v. Houston, 74-174. But where the recognizance is on condition that the defendant appear at the next regular term, and such term is not held on account of the absence of the judge, the defendant must appear at the next special term appointed and held: State v. Horton, 123-695.

A defendant bound to appear at court must not depart the court without leave: State v. Eure, 172-874; State v. White, 164-408.

An agreement by solicitor to discharge defendant if he would become a state's witness against a codefendant will not relieve such defendant from a forfeited recognizance. A recognizance is a matter of record, and can only be discharged by a record or by something of equal solemnity: State v. Moody, 69-529.

Forfeited recognizances in general: State v. Jenkins, 121-637; State v. Jones, 100-438; State v. Cherry, 13-550; State v. Raiford, 13-214; State v. Dickinson, 7-10.

4583. When recognizance deemed broken. No recognizance taken under this chapter shall be deemed to be broken except in the failure of the principal in such recognizance to appear and answer according to the obligation thereof, unless such principal be convicted of some offense amounting in judgment of law to a breach of such recognizance.

Rev., s. 3215; Code, s. 1227; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 12.

See annotations under section 4582. Surety upon appearance bond is not released by principal being drunk and under arrest when his case was called in court and continued, and by principal having since become a fugitive from justice under charge of a different offense: State v. Holt, 145-450.

A failure to sign the warrant does not affect the validity of a bond given for appearance: State v. Mitchell, 151-716.

4584. Recognizance prosecuted. Whenever evidence of such conviction shall be produced in the court in which the recognizance is filed, it shall be the duty of such court to order the recognizance to be prosecuted, and the solicitor shall cause the proper proceedings to be thereupon taken.

Rev., s. 3216; Code, s. 1228; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 13.

When all the matters are of record, the judge decides the forfeiture without a jury; but when the answer raises an issue of fact, it is to be decided by a jury: State v. Sanders, 153-624.

The judgment of forfeiture is entered in the court in which recognizance is filed, and the prosecution for forfeiture is not an independent proceeding: Ibid.

4585. Notice of judgment nisi before execution. No execution shall issue upon a forfeited recognizance, or to collect a fine imposed nisi, until a notice has issued against the person who has forfeited his recognizance or upon whom the fine has been imposed, and his sureties.

Rev., s. 3217; Code, s. 1208; R. C., c. 35, s. 43; 1777, c. 115, s. 48.

It is imperative to give the notice required hereunder: State v. Mills, 19-554.

4586. What notice must contain. When any recognizance, acknowledged by a principal and sureties, shall be forfeited by two or more of the recognizers, the notice issued thereon shall be jointly against them all, designating which of them are principals and which sureties, and when they are bound in different sums, stating the amount forfeited by each one, and the clerk shall have no greater fee on such notice than is due when it is issued against one defendant.

4587. Service of notice. All notices issuing upon forfeited recognizances shall be executed by leaving a copy with each of the defendants, or at his present place of abode. And in case he cannot be found, and has no known place of abode, and the matter be returned, then a notice shall issue, and on the like return the same shall be deemed duly served.

Rev., s. 3219; Code, s. 1210; R. C., c. 35, s. 45; 1812, c. 836, s. 2.

4588. Judges may remit forfeited recognizances. The judges of the superior courts may hear and determine the petition of all persons who shall conceive they merit relief on their recognizances forfeited; and may lessen, or absolutely remit, the same, and do all and anything therein as they shall deem just and right and consistent with the welfare of the state and the persons praying such relief, as well before as after final judgment entered and execution awarded.

Rev., s. 3220; Code, s. 1205; R. C., c. 35, s. 38; 1788, c. 292, s. 1.

When surety made a deposit for the principal to secure appearance, principal appeared and pleaded guilty and left the court before sentence, the court may, upon notice, condemn the deposit for the forfeiture: State v. White, 164-408.

The discretion here given to superior court judges may be exercised either before or after final judgment: Board of Education v. Moody, 74-73—and their decision is a matter of judicial discretion, not subject to review except upon alleged error of law or legal inference, Ibid.; State v. Morgan, 136-600.

Under this section solicitor has no vested right to his fee under an absolute judgment upon a forfeited recognizance which was subsequently set aside by the court in the exercise of its discretion: State v. King, 143-681.

Section merely cited in State v. Horton, 123-697.

4589. Money refunded by clerk. The clerk of the superior court, on the remission of any forfeited recognizance which has been paid into his office, shall refund the same, or so much thereof as shall be remitted.

Section merely cited: Moore v. Comrs., 70-344.

4590. Money refunded by treasurer. If the money has been paid to the county treasurer, he shall refund it to the person entitled, on his producing an attested copy of the record from the clerk of the court, certifying that such recognizance has been remitted or lessened, signed with his own proper name, with the seal of the court affixed thereto.

4591. Forfeiture of bond before justice. On the failure of the accused to appear at the time and place mentioned in any bond taken by any justice of the peace for a continuance of any cause pending before him, and answer the charge, or, having appeared, shall depart the court without leave thereof first had and obtained, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace then presiding to enter judgment nisi against the principal and his sureties in the bond for the amount mentioned therein, if the sum does not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars; and immediately issue notice to the principal and the sureties in the bond, giving ten days time, specifying time and place, to appear and show cause, if any they have, why the judgment nisi shall not be made final.

Rev., s. 3223; 1889, c. 133, s. 2.

4592. Judgment final, rendered and enforced. If the defendant shall fail to appear and show satisfactory reasons for not complying with the provisions of the bond, it shall then be the duty of the justice of the peace to render a final judgment thereon for the amount of the same, and immediately make and transmit to the clerk of the superior court a transcript thereof, which shall be entered upon the judgment docket of the court, and the clerk shall issue execution on the final judgment against the principal and his sureties for the collection of the amount thereof as in other judgments in behalf of the state.

Rev., s. 3224; 1889, c. 133, s. 3.

4593. Forfeiture over two hundred dollars before justice. If the bond shall exceed the sum of two hundred dollars, and the accused shall fail to appear as therein provided to answer the charge, or, having appeared, shall depart the court without leave first had and obtained, it shall be the duty of the justice to have the accused called, and enter upon the bond that the defendant was called and failed to answer, and immediately return the original papers in the case, together with the bond, to the clerk of the court having jurisdiction to try such action, who shall immediately enter the case upon the criminal docket of his court and enter judgment nisi for the amount of the bond, and issue notice to the accused and his sureties to appear at the next term of the court to show cause why the judgment should not be made final and proceeded in as other cases of forfeited bonds in behalf of the state in such court. The entry on the bond by the justice of the peace shall be prima facie evidence that the principal therein had been called and failed to answer. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent justices of the peace from remitting the penalty of the bond or the right of appeal from the justice of the peace to the superior court by the defendant or his surety.

See generally: State v. Jenkins, 121-637.

4594. Right of bail to surrender principal. The bail shall have liberty, at any time before execution awarded against him, to surrender to the court from which the process issued, or to the sheriff having such process to return, during the session, or in the recess of such court, the principal, in discharge of himself; and such bail shall, at any time before such execution awarded, have full power and authority to arrest the body of his principal, and secure him until he shall have an opportunity to surrender him to the sheriff or court as aforesaid; and the sheriff is hereby required to receive such surrender, and hold the body of the defendant in custody as if bail had never been given: Provided, that in criminal proceedings the surrender by the bail, after the recognizance forfeited, shall not have the effect to discharge the bail, but the forfeiture may be remitted in the manner provided for.

Rev., s. 3226; Code, s. 1230; R. C., c. 11, s. 5; 1777, c. 115, s. 20; 1848, c. 7.

See generally: State v. Schenck, 138-560; State v. Lingerfelt, 109-775.

Condition of bail bond is not performed by the appearance, conviction and sentence of defendant: State v. Schenck, 138-560—but defendant must submit to the punishment, Ibid.

Rev., s. 3227; Code, s. 1231; R. C., c. 11, s. 6; 1827, c. 40.

4596. Defenses open to bail. Every matter which would entitle the principal to be discharged from arrest may be pleaded by the bail in exoneration of his liability.

Rev., s. 3229; Code, s. 1233; R. C., c. 11, s. 9.

ART. 10. COMMITMENT TO PRISON

4597. Order of commitment. Every commitment to prison of a person charged with crime shall state:

1. The name of the person charged.
2. The character of the offense with which he is charged.
3. The name and office of the magistrate committing him.
4. The manner in which he may be discharged; if upon giving recognizance or bail, the amount of the recognizance, the condition on the performance of which it shall be discharged, and the persons or magistrate before whom the bail may justify.
5. The court before which the prisoner shall be sent for trial.

Rev., s. 3230; Code, s. 1163; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 32.

See generally: State v. James, 78-455. The verbal order of a justice of the peace is not sufficient: Ibid.

Compare State v. Armistead, 106-639.

4598. Commitment to county jail. All persons committed to prison before conviction shall be committed to the jail of the county in which the examination is had, or to that of the county in which the offense is charged to have been committed: Provided, if the jails of these counties are unsafe, or injurious to the health of prisoners, the committing magistrate may commit to the jail of any other convenient county. And every sheriff or jailer to whose jail any person shall be committed by any court or magistrate of competent jurisdiction shall receive such prisoner and give a receipt for him, and be bound for his safe-keeping as prescribed by law.

Rev., s. 3231; Code, s. 1164; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 2, s. 33.

4599. Commitment of witnesses. If any witness required to enter into a recognizance, either with or without sureties, shall refuse to comply with such order, it shall be the duty of such magistrate to commit him to prison until he shall comply with such order, or be otherwise discharged according to law.

Rev., s. 3232; Code, s. 1155; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 24.

See generally: Lovick v. R. R., 129-427.

ART. 11. VENUE

4600. In case of lynching. The superior court of any county which adjoins the county in which the crime of lynching shall be committed shall have full and complete jurisdiction over the crime and the offender to the same extent as if the crime had been committed in the bounds of such adjoining county; and whenever the solicitor of the district has information of the commission of such a crime, it shall be his duty to furnish such information to the grand juries of all adjoining counties to the one in which the crime was committed from time to time until the offenders are brought to justice.

Rev., s. 3233; 1893, c. 461, s. 4.

Section merely cited with approval: State v. Long, 143-675.

4601. In offenses on waters dividing counties. When any offense is committed on any water, or water-course, whether at high or low water, which water or water-course, or the sides or shores thereof, divides counties, such offense may be dealt with, inquired of, tried and determined, and punished at the discretion of the court, in either of the two counties which may be nearest to the place where the offense was committed.

Rev., s. 3234; Code, s. 1193; R. C., c. 35, s. 24.

Section merely cited in State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4602. Assault in one county, death in another. In all cases of felonious homicide when the assault has been made in one county within the state, and the person assaulted dies in any other county thereof, the offender shall be indicted and punished for the crime in the county wherein the assault was made.

Rev., s. 3235; Code, s. 1196; R. C., c. 35, s. 27; 1831, c. 22, s. 1.

No offense hereunder is newly created nor raised to a higher offense, nor an additional punishment annexed, but a difficulty which existed in the trial is merely removed: State v. Dunkley, 25-116.

The term "assault" as used here does not mean a mere attempt, but an injury inflicted, of which one dies: State v. Hall, 114-909.

Section merely cited in State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4603. Assault in this state, death in another. In all cases of felonious homicide, when the assault has been made within this state, and the person assaulted dies without the limits thereof, the offender shall be indicted and punished for the crime in the county where the assault was made, in the same manner, to all intents and purposes, as if the person assaulted had died within the limits of this state.

Rev., s. 3236; Code, s. 1197; R. C., c. 35, s. 28; 1831, c. 22, s. 2.

No offense hereunder is newly created nor raised to a higher offense, nor an additional punishment annexed, but a difficulty which existed in the trial is merely removed: State v. Dunkley, 25-116.

Validity of section affirmed: State v. Hall, 114-909; State v. Caldwell, 115-800. Section held not applicable where party in North Carolina puts in motion a force which kills a party in Tennessee: State v. Hall, 114-909.

Section merely cited: State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4604. Person in this state injuring one in another. If any person, being in this state, unlawfully and willfully puts in motion a force from the effect of which any person is injured while in another state, the person so setting such force in motion shall be guilty of the same offense in this state as he would be if the effect had taken place within this state.

Rev., s. 3237; 1895, c. 169.

The necessity for this section was brought to attention of legislature by case of State v. Hall, 114-909.

Section merely cited in State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4605. In county where death occurs. If a mortal wound is given or other violence or injury inflicted or poison is administered on the high seas or land, either within or without the limits of this state, by means whereof death ensues in any county thereof, the offense may be prosecuted and punished in the county where the death happens.

Rev., s. 3238; 1891, c. 68.

Section merely cited in State v. Lewis, 142-626.

4606. Improper venue met by plea in abatement; procedure. Because the boundaries of many counties are either undetermined or unknown, by reason whereof high offenses go unpunished; therefore, for the more effectual prosecution of offenses committed on land near the boundaries of counties, in the prosecution of all offenses it shall be deemed and taken as true that the offense was committed in the county in which by the indictment it is alleged to have taken place, unless the defendant shall deny the same by plea in abatement, the truth whereof shall be duly verified on oath or otherwise both as to substance and fact, wherein shall be set forth the proper county in which the supposed offense, if any, was committed; whereupon the court may, on motion of the state, commit the defendant, who may enter into recognizance, as in other cases, to answer the offense in the county averred by his plea to be the proper county; and, on his prosecution in that county, it shall be deemed, conclusively, to be the proper county. But if the state, upon the plea aforesaid, will join issue, and the matter be found for the defendant, he shall be required to enter into recognizance as in other cases to answer the offense in the county averred by his plea to be the proper county, provided the offense be bailable; and, if not bailable, he shall be committed for trial in the county; and, if it be found for the state, the court in all offenses or misdemeanors shall proceed to pronounce judgment against the defendant, as upon conviction; and, in all cases of felony, the defendant shall be at liberty to plead to the indictment, and be tried on his plea of not guilty.

Rev., s. 3239; Code, s. 1194; R. C., c. 35, s. 25.

For venue in larceny and receiving, see section 4250. For venue in beating way on trains, see section 3508. For venue in indictments against railroads for discriminating against A. and N. C. Railroad, see section 3419.

See generally: State v. Outerbridge, 82-618; State v. Mitchell, 83-674; State v. Allen, 107-805; State v. Lytle, 117-799; State v. Carter, 126-1011; State v. Lewis, 142-626.

Venue is a matter under the control of the legislature: State v. Woodard, 123-710; State v. Lewis, 142-626. Section only applies to offenses committed wholly within the state: State v. Mitchell, 83-674.

In an indictment for murder, offense must be charged in body of bill to have been committed within the district over which the court has jurisdiction: State v. Adams, 1-56—but this need not be proven unless prisoner denies it by plea in abatement, State v. Outerbridge, 82-617.

Laws conferring, withdrawing or limiting jurisdiction do not enter into and become a constituent part of the offenses to which they apply: State v. Williamson, 81-540. The want of an averment of a proper and perfect venue is not fatal to a bill of indictment: Ibid.

As to plea in abatement and removal, see generally: State v. Reid, 18-377; State v. Swepson, 81-571; State v. Jones, 88-671; State v. Haywood, 94-847; State v. Flowers, 109-841; State v. Lytle, 117-799; State v. Woodard, 123-710; State v. Holder, 133-709; State v. Burton, 138-578; State v. Lewis, 142-626; State v. Long, 143-674; State v. Pace, 159-462. Plea in abatement must state the facts upon which it is based, and these must be sufficient to defeat the further prosecution of the action: Emery v. Chappell, 148-327.

Section merely cited with approval in Peek v. Culberson, 104-425; State v. Harris, 106-689; State v. Holder, 133-709; State v. Burton, 138-578.

ART. 12. PRESENTMENT

4607. No arrest nor trial on presentment. No person shall be arrested on a presentment of the grand jury, or put on trial before any court, but on indictment found by the grand jury, unless otherwise provided by law.

Rev., s. 3240; Code, s. 1175; R. C., c. 35, s. 6; 1797, c. 474, s. 3; 1879, c. 12.

Const., Art. I, ss. 11, 13, 17.

There must have been a legal indictment found by a competent grand jury: State v. Cain, 8-352; State v. Griffice, 74-316.

It is the returning of the bill of indictment, publicly and in open court, and its being there recorded, that makes it effectual; and it need be signed by no one: State v. Cox, 28-440.

A bill of indictment is not defective when it is made to appear that the witness has been sworn and examined, although there is no endorsement on the bill to that effect: State v. Hines, 84-810; State v. Roberts, 19-540.

Defective indictment may be taken advantage of by plea in abatement in apt time: State v. Seaborn, 15-305; State v. Haywood, 73-437; State v. Griffice, 74-316; State v. Baldwin, 80-390.

Section merely cited in State v. Quick, 72-241.

4608. Names of witnesses indorsed on presentment. When a presentment shall be made of any offense by a grand jury, upon the knowledge of any of their body, or upon the testimony of witnesses, the names of such grand jurors and witnesses shall be indorsed thereon.

Section merely referred to in State v. Allen, 83-680.

4609. Subpœna for witnesses on presentment. In issuing subpœnas for witnesses whose names are indorsed on presentments made by the grand jury, the clerk of the court shall name therein the first Tuesday of the term of court as the time for such witnesses to appear and give evidence. And no clerk shall issue a subpœna for any such witness to appear on Monday, except upon written order of the solicitor of the district.

1913, c. 168.

ART. 13. INDICTMENT

4610. Waiver of bill of indictment. No waiver of the finding and return into court of a bill of indictment in any criminal action shall be allowed in the superior courts of this state except in cases wherein the offense charged is a misdemeanor which does not include or contain the element of fraud, deceit or malice; nor shall such waiver be made in any such action except upon a plea of guilty, or a submission, or a plea of nolo contendere by the defendant in the same. No such waiver of a bill of indictment shall be allowed by the court unless by the consent of the defendant's counsel in such action, who shall be one either employed by the defendant to defend him in the action or one appointed by the court to examine into the defendant's case and report as to the same to the court; which service by an attorney so appointed by the court shall be rendered without fee or reward.

4611. Bills returned by foreman except in capital cases. Grand juries shall return all bills of indictment in open court through their acting foreman, except in capital felonies, when it shall be necessary for the entire grand jury, or a majority of them, to return their bills of indictment in open court in a body.

Rev., s. 3242; 1889, c. 29.

It is the returning of the bill of indictment in open court, publicly, and its being there recorded, that makes it effectual; and it need be signed by no one: State v. Cox, 28-440.

As to waiver of requirement that bill be returned in open court, see State v. Ledford, 133-714; but see section 4610.

4612. Substance of judicial proceedings set forth. In every indictment, information, or impeachment in which, by the common law, it may be necessary to set forth at length the judicial proceedings had in any case then or formerly pending in any court, civil or military, or before any justice of the peace, it is sufficient to set forth the substance only of the proceedings, or the substance of such part thereof as makes, or helps to make, the offense prosecuted.

Rev., s. 3243; Code, s. 1184; R. C., c. 35, s. 15.

Legislature has power to modify old form of indictment or to establish new one, provided form established is sufficient to apprise defendant with reasonable certainty of the nature of the offense of which he stands charged: State v. Harris, 145-456; see State v. Tisdale, 145-424, and cases cited.

Indictment for offense under law amended since offense committed should state that it was committed before amendment: State v. Massey, 97-465.

Informalities and mere discrepancies in indictment held not fatal, see State v. Flowers, 109-841; State v. Evans, 69-40; State v. Best, 108-747; State v. Davis, 80-384; State v. Tribatt, 32-151; see under section 4623.

As to caption and title of case, see State v. Sprinkle, 65-463; State v. Simons, 68-378; State v. Sutton, 5-281.

As to conclusion, see State v. Kirkman, 104-911; State v. Davis, 80-384; State v. Tribatt, 32-151; but see section 4625.

Section cited, commented on and approved: State v. Davis, 69-495; State v. Simmons, 70-336; State v. Murphy, 101-697. Section merely cited: State v. Haney, 67-467; State v. Evans, 69-40.

4613. Bill of particulars. In all indictments when further information not required to be set out therein is desirable for the better defense of the accused, the court, upon motion, may, in its discretion, require the solicitor to furnish a bill of particulars of such matters.

Rev., s. 3244.

See generally: State v. Brady, 107-822; State v. Gates, 107-832; State v. Dunn, 109-839; State v. Bryant, 111-693; State v. Shade, 115-757; Townsend v. Williams, 117-337; State v. Pickett, 118-1231; State v. Howard, 129-657; State v. Van Pelt, 136-633; State v. Dewey, 139-556; State v. Long, 143-670; State v. Holder, 153-606; State v. Stephens, 170-745.

A bill of particulars is not a part of the bill of indictment, and is only intended to enable the defendant to prepare his defense: State v. Gullede, 173-746. A bill of particulars, not being made by the grand jury, cannot supply a defect in an indictment: State v. Cline, 150-854; State v. Van Pelt, 136-633.

The rule governing applications for a bill of particulars stated in State v. Brady, 107-822. When application must be made: State v. Shade, 115-757; State v. Leeper, 146-655. Bill of particulars should be asked instead of waiting and making a motion in arrest: State v. Corbin, 157-619.

Bill of particulars must be asked for, and it is within the discretion of the court: State v. Hinton, 158-625; State v. R. R., 149-508—and refusal to grant it is not appealable except possibly in a case of gross abuse of discretion, State v. Dewey, 139-556.

Section cited in State v. Horner, 174-788.

4614. Essentials of bill for homicide. In indictments for murder and manslaughter, it is not necessary to allege matter not required to be proved on the trial; but in the body of the indictment, after naming the person accused, and the county of his residence, the date of the offense, the averment “with force and arms,” and the county of the alleged commission of the offense, as is now usual, it is sufficient in describing murder to allege that the accused person feloniously, willfully, and of his malice aforethought, did kill and murder (naming the person killed), and concluding as is now required by law; and it is sufficient in describing manslaughter to allege that the accused feloniously and willfully did kill and slay (naming the person killed), and concluding as aforesaid; and any bill of indictment containing the averments and allegations herein named shall be good and sufficient in law as an indictment for murder or manslaughter, as the case may be.

Rev., s. 3245; 1887, c. 58.

For full annotations on subject of homicide, and indictments for homicide, see under sections 4200, 4201.

Section held constitutional, and an indictment drawn in accordance with it approved: State v. Moore, 104-743; State v. Brown, 106-645. See generally: State v. Arnold, 107-861—the word “wilfully” is not essential to the validity of an indictment for murder, State v. Arnold, 107-861.

Failure to allege whether the person killed was a man or a woman is not defect: State v. Pate, 121-659.

Section merely cited: State v. Hunt, 128-584; State v. Matthews, 142-623.

4615. Form of bill for perjury. In every indictment for willful and corrupt perjury it is sufficient to set forth the substance of the offense charged upon the defendant, and by what court, or before whom, the oath was taken (averring such court or person to have competent authority to administer the same), together with the proper averments to falsify the matter wherein the perjury is assigned, without setting forth the bill, answer, information, indictment, declaration, or any part of any record or proceedings, either in law or equity, other than aforesaid, and without setting forth the commission or authority of the court or person before whom the perjury was committed. In indictments for perjury the following form shall be sufficient, to wit:

The jurors for the state, on their oath, present, that A. B., of _____ County, did unlawfully commit perjury upon the trial of an action in _____ court, in _____ County, wherein _____ was plaintiff and _____ was defendant, by falsely asserting, on oath (or solemn affirmation) (here set out the statement or statements alleged to be false), knowing the said statement, or statements, to be false, or being ignorant whether or not said statement was true.

Rev., ss. 3246, 3247; Code, s. 1185; R. C., c. 35, s. 16; 1842, c. 49, s. 1; 1889, c. 83.

See generally: State v. Bryson, 4-115; State v. Ammons, 7-126; State v. Gillimon, 24-372; State v. Hoyle, 28-1; State v. Davis, 69-495; State v. Knight, 84-789; State v. Collins, 85-511; State v. Roberson, 98-751; State v. Murphy, 101-697; State v. Peters, 107-876; State v. Harris, 145-458; State v. Cline, 146-640.

Section enacted in 1791, but repealed by Revised Statutes 1837: State v. Gillimon, 24-372—reënacted in 1842, State v. Hoyle, 28-1.

This section simplifies the charge of perjury, but the constituent elements of the offense remain as before: State v. Peters, 107-876.

On appeal from recorder's court on a charge of perjury, it is necessary that a bill of indictment should be found: State v. Hyman, 164-411.

A bill of indictment for perjury should charge that the matter alleged to be false was material to the issue: State v. Cline, 150-854.

In an indictment for perjury the record of the case in which the perjury is alleged to have been committed need not be set forth, but if such record is set forth, it must be correct: State v. Ammons, 7-126; see, however, State v. Flowers, 109-841. When the record is produced it must correspond to the allegations in the bill of indictment: State v. Harrell, 49-55; State v. Lewis, 93-581.

An indictment for perjury which does not aver that the false oath was taken "wilfully" and "corruptly" is defective: State v. Davis, 84-787. The form of indictment for perjury hereunder approved in State v. Harris, 145-458; State v. Thompson, 113-638; State v. Gates, 107-832.

Section referred to in State v. Cline, 146-640.

4616. Bill for subornation of perjury. In every indictment for subornation of perjury, or for corrupt bargaining or contracting with others to commit willful and corrupt perjury, it is sufficient to set forth the substance of the offense charged upon the defendant, without setting forth the bill, answer, information, indictment, declaration or any part of any record or proceedings, and without setting forth the commission or authority of the court or person before whom the perjury was committed or was agreed or promised to be committed.

4617. Former conviction alleged in bill for second offense. In any indictment for an offense which, on the second conviction thereof, is punished with other or greater punishment than on the first conviction, it is sufficient to state that the offender was, at a certain time and place, convicted thereof, without otherwise describing the previous offense; and a transcript of the record of the first conviction, duly certified, shall, upon proof of the identity of the person of the offender, be sufficient evidence of the first conviction.

When the second conviction is punished with other or greater punishment than the first, the first conviction should be charged as here required: State v. Davidson, 124-839; State v. Dunlap, 159-491. See In re Holley, 154-163.

4618. Manner of alleging joint ownership of property. In any indictment wherein it is necessary to state the ownership of any property whatsoever, whether real or personal, which belongs to, or is in the possession of, more than one person, whether such persons be partners in trade, joint tenants or tenants in common, it is sufficient to name one of such persons, and to state such property to belong to the person so named, and another or others, as the case may be; and whenever, in any such indictment, it is necessary to mention, for any purpose whatsoever, any partners, joint tenants or tenants in common, it is sufficient to describe them in the manner aforesaid; and this provision shall extend to all joint-stock companies and trustees.

Rev., s. 3250; Code, s. 1188; R. C., c. 35, s. 19.

See generally: State v. Edwards, 86-666; State v. Patterson, 68-292; State v. Capps, 71-93.

An indictment for larceny which charges the thing taken to be the property of "A and another or others" is fatally defective under this section: State v. Harper, 64-129.

An indictment for injury to livestock, where the property was laid in "A and others," and the proof was that A was the sole owner, is defective and not cured by this section: State v. Hill, 79-656.

Section merely cited: State v. Daniel, 121-574; State v. Lewis, 142-636.

4619. Description in bill for larceny of money. In every indictment in which it is necessary to make any averment as to the larceny of any money, or United States treasury note, or any note of any bank whatsoever, it is sufficient to describe such money, or treasury note, or bank note, simply as money, without specifying any particular coin, or treasury note, or bank note; and such allegation, so far as regards the description of the property, shall be sustained by proof of any amount of coin, or treasury note, or bank note, although the particular species of coin, of which such amount was composed, or the particular nature of the treasury note, or bank note, shall not be proven.

Rev., s. 3251; Code, s. 1190; 1876-7, c. 68.

See generally: State v. Reese, 83-637; State v. Freeman, 89-469; State v. Carter, 113-639.

A charge of theft of "$5 in money of the value of $5" is good, and is sustained by proof of theft of any amount of coin, bank note, etc.: State v. Carter, 113-639.

Section merely cited in State v. Reynolds, 87-544; State v. Brown, 113-645.

4620. Description in bill for embezzlement. In indictments for embezzlement, except when the offense relates to a chattel, it is sufficient to allege the embezzlement to be of money, without specifying any particular coin or valuable security; and such allegation, so far as regards the description of the property, shall be sustained if the offender shall be proved to have embezzled any amount, although the particular species of coin or valuable security of which such amount was composed shall not be proved.

Rev., s. 3252; Code, s. 1020; 1871-2, c. 145, s. 2.

Section cited in State v. Fain, 106-760. See sections 4268-4276.

4621. Intent to defraud; larceny and receiving. In any case where an intent to defraud is required to constitute the offense of forgery, or any other offense whatever, it is sufficient to allege in the indictment an intent to defraud, without naming therein the particular person or body corporate intended to be defrauded; and on the trial of such indictment, it shall be sufficient, and shall not be deemed a variance, if there appear to be an intent to defraud the United States, or any state, county, city, town, or parish, or body corporate, or any public officer in his official capacity, or any copartnership or member thereof, or any particular person. The defendant may be charged in the same indictment in several counts with the separate offenses of receiving stolen goods, knowing them to be stolen, and larceny.

Rev., s. 3253; Code, s. 1191; R. C., c. 35, ss. 21, 23; 1852, c. 87, s. 2; 1874-5, c. 62.

See sections 4249-4265. See generally: State v. Beatty, 61-52; State v. Leak, 80-403; State v. Lawrence, 81-522; State v. Lanier, 89-517; State v. Carter, 113-639; State v. Brown, 170-714.

Under this section the court will not order the solicitor to elect on which count of an indictment, charging larceny and receiving stolen goods, he will proceed: State v. Morrison, 85-561.

If defendant is convicted upon two counts in an indictment under this section, it is no ground for arrest of judgment that one count is defective; judgment will be given on the sufficient count: State v. Beatty, 61-52; State v. Tisdale, 61-220; State v. Bailey, 73-70; State v. Leak, 80-403.

Section cited in State v. Hastings, 86-596; State v. Crass, 101-783; State v. Hall, 108-779.

4622. Separate counts; consolidation. When there are several charges against any person for the same act or transaction or for two or more acts or transactions connected together, or for two or more transactions of the same class of crimes or offenses, which may be properly joined, instead of several indictments, the whole may be joined in one indictment in separate counts; and if two or more indictments are found in such cases, the court will order them to be consolidated: Provided, that in such consolidating cases the defendant shall be taxed the solicitor's full fee for the first count, and half fees for each subsequent count upon which conviction is had: Provided, this section shall not be construed to reduce the punishment or penalty for such offense or offenses.

4623. Bill or warrant not quashed for informality. Every criminal proceeding by warrant, indictment, information, or impeachment is sufficient in form for all intents and purposes if it express the charge against the defendant in a plain, intelligible, and explicit manner; and the same shall not be quashed, nor the judgment thereon stayed, by reason of any informality or refinement, if in the bill or proceeding, sufficient matter appears to enable the court to proceed to judgment.

Rev., s. 3254; Code, s. 1183; R. C., c. 35, s. 14; 37 Hen. VIII, c. 8; 1784, c. 210, s. 2; 1811, c. 809.

The act of 1811 applied to indictments in the superior courts and cured the same defects that were cured in indictments in the county courts by the act of 1784: State v. Newmans, 4-171.

See generally: State v. Cherry, 7-7; State v. Brown, 12-137; State v. Moses, 13-452; State v. Fore, 23-378; State v. Gallimon, 24-372; State v. Shepherd, 30-195; State v. Boon, 49-463; State v. Perry, 50-252; State v. Morgan, 60-243; State v. Beatty, 61-52; State v. Smith, 63-234; State v. Bell, 65-313; State v. Parker, 65-453; State v. Harris, 106-683; State v. Arnold, 107-861; State v. Van Doran, 109-872; State v. Flowers, 109-841; State v. Barnes, 122-1031; State v. Ridge, 125-655; State v. Bryson, 127-574; State v. Jarvis, 129-698; State v. Marsh, 132-1000; State v. Roberson, 136-587; State v. Cole, 156-618; State v. Rogers, 168-112; State v. Stephens, 170-745; State v. Cain, 175-825.

Motion to quash or to arrest judgment will not be sustained unless the bill is so defective that the court cannot proceed to judgment: State v. Carpenter, 173-767; State v. Taylor, 172-892. While not necessary to allege matters of form, the bill should allege matters of substance so that the court may see the offense charged, and the defendant be informed of the charge: State v. Cline, 150-854; State v. Lunsford, 150-862; State v. Gibson, 170-697.

The rule against technicalities may be invoked to protect defendant in his objection to the bill of indictment: State v. Wood, 175-809.

Essential allegations in an indictment for false pretense: State v. Whedbee, 152-770; State v. Marsh, 162-603—for violation of trust law, State v. Craft, 168-208—for an affray, State v. Lancaster, 169-284—for fornication and adultery, State v. Britt, 150-811. Where a statute makes a crime the indictment is sufficient under this section if it charges the offense in the words of the statute: State v. Roberson, 136-587; State v. Whitley, 141-823; State v. Harrison, 145-408; State v. Leeper, 146-655.

In a charge for a statutory offense, when it is necessary to negative an exception: State v. Moore, 166-284.

If the process is improperly issued and the defendant appears or is brought into court, it may be corrected or set aside and defendant held for new process: State v. Turner, 170-701. An answer to the merits waives the defect: Ibid.

INDICTMENTS REMEDIED BY THIS SECTION. One which has a misrecital of the proper county in the caption, State v. Sprinkle, 65-463—where blanks in the caption are not filled out, State v. Francis, 157-612—which uses “said court” for “said county” where the context shows what was meant, State v. Evans, 69-40—which fails to describe the defendant by the addition of his occupation, State v. Newmans, 4-171—which describes the defendant as “N. J. S.” in one place and as “Nimrod, J. S.,” in another, and similar cases, State v. Henderson, 68-348; State v. Best, 108-747; State v. Hester, 122-1047; State v. Drakeford, 162-667—which fails to state the time and place of the offense or states the time incorrectly, when time and place are not of the essence, State v. Cherry, 7-7; State v. Shepherd, 30-195; State v. Wilson, 67-456; State v. Williamson, 81-540; State v. Arnold, 107-861—which omits a word not especially required and where the sense is shown by the context, State v. Lane, 26-113; State v. Simons, 70-336; State v. Rinehart, 75-58; State v. Walker, 87-541; State v. Arnold, 107-861; State v. Barnes, 122-1031; State v. Ridge, 125-655—which omits the word “did” in the indictment, State v. Hawkins, 155-466—which charges “the intent to commit a felony” instead of using the word “feloniously,” State v. Gaffney, 157-624—which merely adds evidential matters, State v. Wynne, 151-644—which uses superfluous words, State v. Guest, 100-411; State v. Arnold, 107-861; State v. Darden, 117-697; State v. Piner, 141-760—for the slander of an innocent woman, which does not set out the words spoken, when the charge is directly made, State v. Haddock, 109-873—for rape, which charges that act was done “violently and feloniously” instead of “forcibly,” State v. Johnson, 67-55—which uses the word “blow” for “wound,” where the context shows that a wound was given and nature of it, State v. Norblett, 47-418—which is for the larceny of a “calf” skin and the proof was the larceny of a “kip” skin, and similar cases, State v. Campbell, 76-261; State v. Underwood, 77-502—which uses the word “spinster” after the name of a married female defendant, State v. Guest, 100-411—which lays the offense as committed against the “act of assembly,” instead of against the “statute,” State v. Tribatt, 32-151—which fails to have the names of the witnesses checked off, as examined, unless it is shown as a fact that the witnesses were not sworn and examined, or one not signed by the foreman or not signed “true bill,” State v. Sultan, 142-572, overruling State v. McBroom, 127-528; State v. Long, 143-670—where a secret assault upon two persons at the same time is charged, State v. Knotts, 168-173—where the affidavit and warrant taken together make the charge definite, State v. Poythress, 174-809. See section 4625.

INDICTMENTS NOT REMEDIED BY SECTION. One which contains several counts, charging distinct and separate felonies, State v. Rell, 80-442; State v. Perdue, 107-853—a count in the indictment which does not contain the name of the defendant and distinctly charge him with the offense, State v. Phelps, 65-450. Cured by section 4625. One for felony which fails to charge that the offense was done “feloniously”: State v. Purdie, 67-25; State v.

Roper, 88-656. One for perjury which does not aver that the defendant "wilfully and corruptly" took the false oath: State v. Davis, 84-787. One for assault with intent to commit rape which does not charge the offense to have been done "forcibly and against her will": State v. Powell, 106-635; State v. Marsh, 132-1000.

SECTION MERELY CITED. See State v. Hollingsworth, 100-535; State v. Murphy, 101-697; State v. Fair, 106-760; State v. Warren, 113-683; State v. Shade, 115-757; State v. Darden, 117-697; State v. Johnston, 119-898; State v. Neal, 120-620; State v. Wilson, 121-654; State v. Perry, 122-1023; State v. Railway Co., 125-671; State v. Lumber Co., 153-610.

4624. No quashal for grand juror's failure to pay taxes or being party to suit. No indictment shall be quashed nor shall judgment thereon be arrested by reason of the fact that any member of the grand jury finding such bills of indictment had not paid his taxes for the preceding year, or was a party to any suit pending and at issue.

Section referred to in State v. Banner, 149-519.

4625. Defects which do not vitiate. No judgment upon any indictment for felony or misdemeanor, whether after verdict, or by confession, or otherwise, shall be stayed or reversed for the want of the averment of any matter unnecessary to be proved, nor for omission of the words "as appears by the record," or of the words "with force and arms," nor for the insertion of the words "against the form of the statutes" instead of the words "against the form of the statute," or vice versa; nor for omission of the words "against the form of the statute" or "against the form of the statutes," nor for omitting to state the time at which the offense was committed in any case where time is not of the essence of the offense, nor for stating the time imperfectly, nor for stating the offense to have been committed on a day subsequent to the finding of the indictment, or on an impossible day, or on a day that never happened; nor for want of a proper and perfect venue, when the court shall appear by the indictment to have had jurisdiction of the offense.

It is not necessary that an indictment conclude "against the peace and dignity of the state": State v. Kirkman, 104-911 (overruling State v. Joyner, 81-534); State v. Peters, 107-876—nor "against the form of the statute (or statutes)", State v. Sykes, 104-694; State v. Kirkman, 104-911; State v. Harris, 106-682; State v. Peters, 107-876. Indictment need not charge the place where an affray was committed: State v. Lancaster, 169-284—nor the time when time is not material, State v. Francis, 157-612. To omit the word "and" in describing an "innocent and virtuous woman" is immaterial: State v. Ratliff, 170-707. The date charged in the bill is immaterial: State v. White, 146-608.

This section does not remedy an indictment for felony which fails to charge that the offense was done "feloniously," State v. Shaw, 117-765—an indictment for murder by a stroke or blow which fails to allege the infliction of a "mortal wound," State v. Morgan, 85-581—an indictment which charges several distinct and separate offenses in same count may be quashed, but the objection is waived by failure to move in apt time, or by a nol. pros. as to all but one charge, or by verdict, State v. Burnett, 142-577.

ART. 14. TRIAL BEFORE JUSTICE

4626. In cases of final jurisdiction. When the justice is satisfied that he has jurisdiction, if no jury is asked for, he shall proceed to determine the case, and shall either acquit the accused or find him guilty, and sentence him to such punishment as the case may require, not to exceed in any case a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for thirty days.

Rev., s. 3256; Code, s. 897; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 8.

See generally: State v. Shelly, 98-673. For jurisdiction of justice in criminal actions, see section 1481 and annotations thereunder.

4627. Trial by jury, if demanded. If either the complainant or the accused shall ask for it, the justice shall allow a trial by jury, as is provided in civil actions before justices of the peace.

Rev., s. 3257; Code, s. 898; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 9.

Constitutionality of trial without jury: State v. Stewart, 89-563; see cases collected under Const., Art. I, sec. 13.

Section merely cited in State v. Powell, 97-417; State v. Moore, 136-581.

4628. What submitted to jury. In case a trial by jury is had, the justice shall submit to the jury in each case simply the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused of the offense charged, and shall enter the verdict on his docket, and adjudge accordingly.

Rev., s. 3258; Code, s. 899; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 10.

4629. Commitment after judgment. The commitment to the county prison shall set forth—

1. The name of the guilty person.
2. The nature of the offense of which he is convicted and the date of the trial.
3. The period of his imprisonment.
4. It shall be directed to the sheriff of the county, or to the keeper of the county jail, and shall direct him to keep the prisoner for the time stated, or until discharged by law.
5. The name of the constable or other officer required to execute it.
6. It shall be signed by the justice and be dated.

Rev., s. 3259; Code, s. 1238; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 17.

See generally: State v. Armistead, 106-640.

That the mittimus does not comply, in all respects, with the requirements of this section is no defense to the charge of taking by force, from the custody of a lawful officer, a prisoner legally committed to his charge: State v. Armistead, 106-640.

Rev., s. 3260; Code, ss. 902, 903; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, ss. 13, 14.

As to former conviction, see State v. Lucas, 139-567. Section merely cited: State v. Lyon, 93-575.

4631. Justice to make return of cases to superior court. It is the duty of each justice of the peace on or before Monday of every term of the superior court of his county, to furnish the clerk of the court with a list of the names and offenses of all parties tried and finally disposed of by such justice of the peace, together with the papers in each case, in all criminal actions, since the last term of the superior court. The clerk of the court shall hand a copy of such list to the solicitor and to the grand jury at each term of court; and no indictment shall be found against any party whose case has been so finally disposed of by any justice of the peace: Provided, that this section shall not be deemed to extend or enlarge or otherwise affect the jurisdiction of justices of the peace, except as provided by law.

Rev., s. 3261; Code, s. 906; 1869-70, c. 110.

Section cited: State v. Foy, 98-744; State v. Latham, 110-490.

ART. 15. TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

4632. Prisoner standing mute, plea "not guilty" entered. If any person, being arraigned upon or charged in any indictment for any crime, shall stand mute of malice or will not answer directly to the indictment, the court shall order the plea of "not guilty" to be entered on behalf of such person; and the plea so entered shall have the same force and effect as if such person had pleaded the same.

Rev., s. 3262; Code, s. 1198; R. C., c. 35, s. 29; R. S., c. 35, s. 16.

As to deaf-mutes: State v. Harris, 53-136.

Plea may be entered after verdict in some cases: State v. McMillan, 68-440.

It is within the judge's discretion to allow defendant to withdraw a plea of guilty and enter a plea of not guilty, or vice versa: State v. Branner, 149-559.

Plea of former acquittal, effect of, and to what it applies: State v. Freeman, 162-594.

Section cited: State v. Pollard, 83-598. Also, see State v. Farrar, 104-702; State v. Jackson, 82-565.

4633. Peremptory challenges of jurors by defendant. Every person on joint or several trial for his life may make a peremptory challenge of twelve jurors and no more; and in all joint or several trials for crimes and misdemeanors, other than capital, every person on trial shall have the right of challenging peremptorily, and without showing cause, four jurors and no more. And to enable defendants to exercise this right, the clerk in all such trials shall read over the names of the jurors on the panel, in the presence and hearing of the defendants and their counsel, before the jury shall be impaneled to try the issue; and the judge or other presiding officer of the court shall decide all questions as to the competency of jurors.

Rev., s. 3263; Code, s. 1199; 1913, c. 31, s. 3; 1887, c. 53; R. C., c. 35, s. 32; 1871-2, c. 39; R. S., c. 35, ss. 19, 21; 1777, c. 115, s. 85; 1812, c. 833; 1801, c. 592, s. 1; 1826, c. 9; 22 Hen. VIII, c. 14, s. 6.

See annotations under sections 2331, 4634. See generally: State v. Benton, 19-196; State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Hunt, 128-584.

Jury trial means by twelve men. In a criminal case the defendant cannot consent to a trial by less than twelve: State v. Rogers, 162-656.

Neither of two defendants in an indictment on a joint trial has cause to complain of a challenge by the other: State v. Smith, 24-402. The right of the defendant is to object to, not to select, jurors: State v. Banner, 149-519.

Prisoner must exhaust his peremptory challenges before he can assign as error the ruling of the court upon the competency of a juror challenged by him: State v. Hensley, 94-1021;

State v. Pritchett, 106-667; State v. Kinsauls, 126-1095; State v. Teachy, 138-587; Ives v. Railroad, 142-131; State v. Sultan, 142-569; State v. Bohanon, 142-695; State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. English, 164-497; State v. Terry, 173-761; State v. Carroll, 176-730.

On an indictment for murder, where the solicitor states that he will only ask for a verdict of murder in the second degree or manslaughter, the defendant is not entitled to more than four peremptory challenges: State v. Hunt, 128-584; State v. Caldwell, 129-682.

Standing a juror aside to be called at end of panel is a challenge for cause by the state: State v. Benton, 19-196. Defendant cannot stand jurors aside until panel is finished: State v. Bone, 52-121.

Error to permit state to peremptorily challenge juror after he has been passed upon by state and tendered to prisoner: State v. Fuller, 114-885. But not error to permit state to challenge a juror after passing him and before he was accepted by defendant, when defendant has not exhausted his peremptory challenges: State v. Carroll, 176-730.

Where juror in a capital case states that he is opposed to capital punishment and has religious scruples against acting as a juror, trial court should excuse him: State v. Vick, 132-995. Trial court can excuse juror, before jury impaneled, although solicitor has passed him to prisoner and has not challenged him for cause: Ibid.

Where a trial judge rests his refusal to exercise his discretion upon the mistaken opinion, either that it is not vested in him or that the facts are not such as to call for its exercise, it is error: State v. Fuller, 114-885.

Competency of jurors is in the discretion of the court: State v. Bohanon, 142-695; State v. Register, 133-746; State v. Vick, 132-995; State v. Kinsauls, 126-1095; State v. DeGraff, 113-688; State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Green, 95-611; State v. Hensley, 94-1021; State v. Kilgore, 93-533; State v. Brittain, 89-481; State v. Collins, 70-241; State v. Dove, 32-469; State v. Ellington, 29-61; State v. Benton, 19-196.

Section cited in Dunn v. R. R., 131-449; State v. Hargrove, 100-484; State v. Davis, 80-385; State v. Patrick, 48-443; State v. Caldwell, 46-289; State v. Morgan, 19-348.

CHALLENGE TO ARRAY. Action of trial judge in determining qualifications of a juror, if erroneous, is ground for challenge to the array by motion to quash and set aside entire panel, and in absence of such challenge a defendant cannot be allowed to take advantage of the alleged error after trial and judgment: State v. Moore, 120-570.

It is not a challenge to the array for solicitor to ask "if any member of the jury had formed and expressed the opinion that the prisoner was not guilty, to let it be known": State v. Walker, 145-567.

Not ground of challenge that sheriff failed to summon some drawn from box, or that box not properly revised, there being no charge of corruption or partiality: State v. Stanton, 118-1182; State v. Banner, 149-519—such objection comes too late after a plea of not guilty, Ibid.—or that one man named in writ had removed from county; that another was dead when jury list revised; that one was not summoned; nor that sheriff, in copying list, omitted, by mistake, the name of one who in consequence was not summoned, State v. Whitt, 113-716; see, also, State v. Speaks, 94-865—or that no person of color, the prisoner being a colored man, was summoned upon the special venire, State v. Sloan, 97-499.

Provisions of law as to revising of jury list are directory and not mandatory, and it is no cause of challenge to the array that they were not revised at time and place specified, a proper revision having been made: State v. Teachy, 138-587.

CHALLENGE OF JURORS FOR CAUSE. If juror called is biased by prejudice against prisoner's race: State v. McAfee, 64-339—or has a personal grudge, State v. Benton, 19-210. If juror related to parties interested: State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Perry, 44-330; State v. Shaw, 25-532; State v. Ketchey, 70-621.

If juror formed and expressed an opinion: State v. Potts, 100-457; State v. Green, 95-611; State v. Efer, 85-585; State v. Collins, 70-241; State v. Benton, 19-209—but if juror states he is not so prejudiced that he could not render a fair and impartial verdict, he is competent, State v. Terry, 173-761; State v. Foster, 172-961; State v. Banner, 149-519; State v. Kilgore, 93-533; State v. DeGraff, 113-688; State v. Bohanon, 142-695; State v. Ellington, 29-66; but see State v. Benton, 19-217.

The only requisite for a special venireman is that he is a freeholder of the county: State v. Kilgore, 93-533—no cause of challenge that he has served on jury within two years, Ibid.

Party knowing of ground for challenge before trial, and not availing himself of it, shall not have a new trial: State v. McEntyre, 1-267.

Regular juror cannot be challenged on ground that he has served on jury within past two years: State v. Brittain, 89-481.

Juror can himself state to court why he is not competent to serve: State v. Vann, 162-534; State v. Benton, 19-222; State v. Jones, 80-415; State v. Vestal, 82-563—and if he states, after being accepted, that he has served on jury within past two years, it is not error in the court to then allow a challenge by the state: State v. Vestal, 82-563; see State v. Jones, 80-415.

A prosecutor in a criminal action to which defendant has not pleaded is not disqualified as a juror in another cause: State v. Brady, 107-822. That juror is a nonresident of county is good ground for challenge, but not for a new trial after verdict rendered: State v. Upton, 170-769; State v. White, 68-158.

Juror prejudiced against prosecuting witness: State v. Little, 174-793.

Where cause of challenge admitted by the state, prisoner is bound by his challenge: State v. Creasman, 32-395.

4634. Peremptory challenges by the state. In all capital cases the prosecuting officer on behalf of the state shall have the right to challenge peremptorily four jurors for each defendant, but shall not have the right to stand any jurors at the foot of the panel. The challenge must be made before the juror is tendered to the prisoner, and if he will challenge more than four jurors he shall assign for his challenge a cause certain; and in all other cases of a criminal nature a challenge of two jurors shall be allowed in behalf of the state for each defendant, and challenge also for a cause certain, and in all cases of challenge for cause certain the same shall be inquired of according to the custom of the court.

Rev., s. 3264; Code, s. 1200; 1913, c. 31, s. 4; 1907, c. 415; 1887, c. 53; R. C., c. 35, s. 33; 1827, c. 10; 33 Edw. I, c. 4.

For annotations, see sections 2331, 4633.

4635. Challenge to special venire same as to tales jurors. In the trial of all criminal cases, where a special venire shall be ordered, the same causes of challenge to the jurors summoned on the special venire shall be allowed as exist to tales jurors.

Rev., s. 3265; 1887, c. 53.

For causes of challenge, see chapter entitled Jurors.

4636. Exclusion of bystanders in trials for rape. In the trial of cases for rape and of assault with the intent to commit rape, the trial judge may, during the taking of the testimony of the prosecutrix, exclude from the court-room all persons except the officers of the court, the defendant and those engaged in the trial of the case; and upon the preliminary hearing before a justice of the peace of the offenses above named, that officer may adopt a like course.

4637. Term expiring during trial extended. In case the term of a court shall expire while a trial for felony shall be in progress, and before judgment shall be given therein, the judge shall continue the term as long as in his opinion it shall be necessary for the purposes of the case; and he may in his discretion exercise the same power in the trial of any other cause under the same circumstances, except civil actions begun after Thursday of the last week.

Rev., s. 3266; Code, s. 1229; 1893, c. 226; C. C. P., s. 397; R. C., c. 31, s. 16; 1830, c. 22.

Section declared constitutional: State v. Adair, 66-298; State v. Jefferson, 66-309; State v. Taylor, 76-64; State v. Monroe, 80-373. Section (1893, c. 226) approved: Bank v. Gilmer, 116-700.

Expiration of term is no reason, in felony case, to discharge jury before verdict; judge can continue court, and if he is due to begin another court on the next Monday, he can postpone it for four days: State v. McGimsey, 80-377—or the governor may designate another judge to hold the next court: State v. Wood, 175-809; State v. R. R., 145-495.

See generally: State v. Penley, 107-808. Section cited in State v. Bullock, 63-570; State v. Jefferson, 66-309; State v. McGimsey, 80-377; Taylor v. Erwin, 119-274.

4638. Justification as defense to libel. Every defendant who is charged by indictment with the publication of a libel may prove on the trial for the same the truth of the facts alleged in the indictment; and if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the jury that the facts are true, the defendant shall be acquitted of the charge.

Rev., s. 3267; Code, s. 1195; R. C., c. 35, s. 26.

See generally: State v. Lyon, 89-568. The defendant cannot justify under this section by showing a general report in the neighborhood of the truth of his libelous publication: State v. White, 29-180.

Evidence: State v. Sherman, 115-773; State v. Lyon, 89-568. Variance: State v. Townsend, 86-676.

Section cited in Jones v. Brinkley, 174-23.

4639. Conviction of assault, when included in charge. On the trial of any person for rape, or any felony whatsoever, when the crime charged includes an assault against the person, it is lawful for the jury to acquit of the felony and to find a verdict of guilty of assault against the person indicted, if the evidence warrants such finding; and when such verdict is found the court shall have power to imprison the person so found guilty of an assault, for any term now allowed by law in cases of conviction when the indictment was originally for the assault of a like character.

Rev., s. 3268; 1885, c. 68.

See generally: State v. Lance, 166-411; State v. Hunt, 128-586; State v. Fritz, 133-725; State v. Nash, 109-824; State v. Johnson, 94-863.

Section explained in State v. Smith, 157-578.

4640. Conviction for a less degree or an attempt. Upon the trial of any indictment the prisoner may be convicted of the crime charged therein or of a less degree of the same crime, or of an attempt to commit the crime so charged, or of an attempt to commit a less degree of the same crime.

Rev., s. 3269; 1891, c. 205, s. 2.

See generally, as to murder: State v. Matthews, 142-621—as to rape, State v. Lance, 166-411. In a charge for murder, defendant may be convicted as accessory before the fact: State v. Bryson, 173-803.

Since this section the joinder, in an indictment for an offense, of a count for a lesser offense, or for an attempt to commit the same, is mere surplusage: State v. Brown, 113-645.

Section cited in State v. Horner, 174-788; State v. Stephens, 170-745; State v. Fenner, 166-247; State v. Savage, 161-245; State v. Smith, 157-578.

4641. Burglary in first degree charged, verdict for second degree. When the crime charged in the bill of indictment is burglary in the first degree, the jury may render a verdict of guilty of burglary in the second degree if they deem it proper so to do.

Rev., s. 3270; 1889, c. 434, s. 3.

See generally: State v. Foster, 129-704.

4642. Verdict for murder in first or second degree. Nothing contained in the statute law dividing murder into degrees shall be construed to require any alteration or modification of the existing form of indictment for murder, but the jury before whom the offender is tried shall determine in their verdict whether the crime is murder in the first or second degree.

Rev., s. 3271; 1893, c. 85, s. 3.

Section declared constitutional: State v. Cole, 132-1069. See generally: State v. Lane, 166-333; State v. Gilchrist, 113-673; State v. Covington, 117-834; State v. Matthews, 142-621.

An indictment, though drawn according to the precedent in use before act of 1893, is in proper form and charges the offense of murder in the first degree: State v. Lipscomb, 134-689.

This section applies equally to all indictments for murder: State v. Matthews, 142-621. Since the act, when nothing else appears, the killing is presumed to be murder in the second degree: State v. Wilcox, 118-1131; State v. Dowden, 118-1145; State v. Booker, 123-713; State v. Rhyne, 124-847; State v. Hicks, 125-636; State v. Bishop, 131-733; State v. Daniels, 134-676; State v. Capps, 134-628.

It is the duty of the jury to determine in their verdict whether the crime is murder in the first or second degree: State v. Gadberry, 117-811; compare State v. Gilchrist, 113-673; State v. Daniels, 134-675—and this is duty of petit jury and not the grand jury, State v. Ewing, 127-555; State v. Hunt, 128-584. The verdict is construed with reference to the charge and the evidence: State v. Wiggins, 171-813; State v. Murphy, 157-614—but the judge should have the jury express in the verdict the degree of the crime, State v. Bagley, 158-608.

When the whole evidence shows the offense to be murder in the first degree or not guilty, it is not error for the judge to so instruct the jury: State v. Walker, 170-716.

4643. Demurrer to the evidence. When on the trial of any criminal action in the superior court, or in any criminal court, the state has produced its evidence and rested its case, the defendant may move to dismiss the action or for judgment of nonsuit. If the motion is allowed, judgment shall be entered accordingly; and such judgment shall have the force and effect of a verdict of "not guilty" as to such defendant. If the motion is refused, the defendant may except; and if the defendant introduces no evidence, the case shall be submitted to the jury as in other cases, and the defendant shall have the benefit of his exception on appeal to the supreme court.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the defendant from introducing evidence after his motion for nonsuit has been overruled; and he may again move for judgment of nonsuit after all of the evidence in the case is concluded. If the motion is then refused, upon consideration of all of the evidence, the defendant may except; and, after the jury has rendered its verdict, he shall have the benefit of such latter exception on appeal to the supreme court. If defendant's motion for judgment of nonsuit be granted, or be sustained on appeal to the supreme court, it shall in all cases have the force and effect of a verdict of "not guilty."

1913, c. 73; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 32.

As to nonsuits in criminal cases generally: State v. Killian, 173-792; State v. Carlson, 171-818; State v. Isley, 164-491; State v. Houston, 155-432; State v. Moody, 150-847. As to sufficient evidence to go to the jury in case of arson, State v. Clark, 173-739—as to homicides, State v. Bridges, 172-879.

Demurrer to the evidence and motion of nonsuit are proper methods of taking advantage of a variance in criminal cases: State v. Gibson, 169-318; s. c., 170-697. If allowed it has the effect of an acquittal: State v. Moore, 166-371.

A nonsuit in a criminal case does not interfere with the power of the judge to order a mistrial in his discretion: State v. Andrews, 166-349.

If the defendant's motion is denied and he introduces evidence he loses the benefit of the first motion: State v. Killian, 173-792.

Demurrer to the evidence in criminal case must be taken before verdict: State v. Leak, 156-643; State v. Houston, 155-432. But the attorney-general may consent to a demurrer to the evidence in the supreme court: Ibid. For practice in civil cases, see section 567.

4644. New trial to defendant. The courts may grant new trials in criminal cases when the defendant is found guilty, under the same rules and regulations as in civil cases.

Rev., s. 3272; Code, s. 1202; R. C., c. 35, s. 35; 1815, c. 895.

See generally: State v. Gee, 92-756; State v. Bennett, 93-503; State v. Bailey, 100-528; State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Perry, 121-533; State v. Lilliston, 141-857; State v. Turner, 143-641.

Where special verdict is so defective that court cannot pronounce judgment upon it, the rule is to order a new trial: State v. Hanner, 143-632, and cases cited.

The defendant is not entitled to a continuance in order that he may apply for a pardon: State v. Newell, 172-933—nor is a defendant entitled to be discharged because he has been used as a witness for the state against other defendants, Ibid.

When the judge directs the clerk to enter a verdict of not guilty, as upon a variance, and afterwards strikes out the entry and makes a mistrial, such action is not reviewable: State v. Ford, 168-165.

Where a trial judge rests his refusal to exercise his discretion upon the mistaken opinion either that it is not vested in him or that the facts are not such as to call for its exercise, it is error: State v. Fuller, 114-885; State v. Perry, 121-533.

When a motion for a new trial is based upon affidavits, the supreme court will not look into them; the court below must find the facts and spread them on the record: State v. Best, 111-638; State v. DeGraff, 113-689—and where the trial judge finds the facts and refuses to grant a new trial, his decision on that ground is not reviewable, State v. Fuller, 114-885.

The granting of a new trial upon newly discovered evidence is, in criminal cases, within the discretion of the trial judge, in the absence of gross abuse, and the supreme court cannot entertain such a motion, nor can it entertain a petition to rehear a criminal case: State v. Trull, 169-363; State v. Ice Co., 166-403; State v. Arthur, 151-653; State v. DeGraff, 113-689; State v. Lilliston, 141-857; State v. Turner, 143-641; State v. Starnes, 94-973, 97-423; State v. Rowe, 98-629.

A new trial will not be granted, on motion, to the state: State v. Freeman, 66-647—or for a variance between the allegation and proof, where no exception is taken in the court below, State v. Craig, 89-475—or for an erroneous statement of the law which the finding of the jury corrects, State v. Grady, 83-643—as a matter of law because a witness was not sworn and the fact was not discovered until after the jury had retired, State v. Gee, 92-756—because of abuse of privilege in the argument to the jury, except where it is gross, and probably injured the complaining party and was not properly checked by the trial judge, State v. Rogers, 94-860; State v. Davenport, 156-596—because a juror is not a resident of the county in which the indictment is tried, State v. White, 68-158; State v. Upton, 170-769—because a juror who says on oath that he has not made up his opinion, said before summoned that he had made up his opinion, State v. Scott, 8-24—because the jury took refreshments after retiring, unless it appear that the refreshments were furnished by the party in whose favor the verdict was given, State v. Sparrow, 7-487—or because the jurors were allowed to sleep in separate but adjoining rooms, State v. Trull, 169-363.

Where a defendant is acquitted upon one count in an indictment and convicted upon another, and a new trial is awarded, it must be to retry the whole case: State v. Stanton, 23-424; see, also, State v. Grady, 83-643; State v. Bridgers, 87-562.

4645. Nol. pros. after two terms; when capias and subpœnas to issue. A nolle prosequi “with leave” shall be entered in all criminal actions in which the indictment has been pending for two terms of court and the defendant has not been apprehended and in which a nolle prosequi has not been entered, unless the judge for good cause shown shall order otherwise. The clerk of the superior court shall issue a capias for the arrest of any defendant named in any criminal action in which a nolle prosequi has been entered when he has reasonable ground for believing that such defendant may be arrested or upon the application of the solicitor of the district. When any defendant shall be arrested it shall be the duty of the clerk to issue a subpoena for the witnesses for the state indorsed on the indictment.

Rev., s. 3273; 1905, c. 360, ss. 1, 3, 4.

For clerk's nol. pros. docket, see section 952.

Solicitor can enter a nol. pros. in his discretion: State v. Thompson, 10-613—and capias cannot again issue without leave of court, State v. Smith, 129-547; State v. Thornton, 35-256—but when nol. pros. "with leave" entered, solicitor can issue capias without further leave, State v. Smith, 129-546.

Effect of a nol. pros. being entered is not to acquit defendant, but he may still be prosecuted for the same offense: State v. Smith, 170-742; Wilkinson v. Wilkinson, 159-265; State v. Thornton, 35-256; see State v. Smith, 129-547.

Entering a nol. pros., with leave, does not start the statute of limitations again: State v. Williams, 151-660.

4646. Prisoner not to be tried in prison uniform. It shall be unlawful for any sheriff, jailer or other officer to require any person imprisoned in jail to appear in any court for trial dressed in the uniform or dress of a prisoner or convict, or in any uniform or apparel other than ordinary civilian's dress, or with shaven or clipped head. And no person charged with a criminal offense shall be tried in any court while dressed in the uniform or dress of a prisoner or convict, or in any uniform or apparel other than ordinary civilian's dress, or with head shaven or clipped by or under the direction and requirement of any sheriff, jailer or other officer, unless the head was shaven or clipped while such person was serving a term of imprisonment for the commission of a crime.

Any sheriff, jailer or other officer who violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

1915, c. 124.

ART. 16. APPEAL

4647. Appeal from justice, trial de novo. The accused may appeal from the sentence of the justice to the superior court of the county. On such appeal being prayed, the justice shall recognize both the prosecutor and the accused, and all the material witnesses, to appear at the next term of the court, in such sums as he shall think proper; and he may require the accused to give sureties for his appearance as aforesaid. In all cases of appeal, the trial shall be anew, without prejudice from the former proceedings.

Rev., s. 3274; Code, s. 900; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 4, s. 11; 1879, c. 92, s. 10.

See generally (for a discussion of this act as amended from time to time): State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Griffis, 117-709.

In a criminal prosecution no appeal lies except from a final judgment: State v. Ford, 163-165; State v. Webb, 155-426. For appeal on peace warrant, see section 4539.

The appeal allowed by this section and under article 4, section 27, of the constitution is for the benefit of the accused only; but so much of the judgment as is personal to the prosecutor and taxes him with the costs may be appealed from: State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Morgan, 120-563.

Upon an appeal from a justice of the peace this section does not make it necessary that the defendant should be tried upon an indictment found by a grand jury: State v. Quick, 72-241; State v. Thornton, 136-616—nor is it necessary when appeal is from a recorder's court, State v. Freeman, 172-925; State v. Dunlap, 159-491; State v. Jones, 145-460; State v. Lytle, 138-

738. But if the offense is not within the jurisdiction of the lower court a bill of indictment is necessary: State v. McAden, 162-575; State v. Hooker, 145-581; State v. Fesperman, 108-770; State v. Hyman, 164-411.

Defendant not entitled to new trial because punishment imposed by police justice was unauthorized; the case should be remanded for resentencing: State v. Black, 150-866.

On appeal from a justice of the peace's refusal to grant a motion in an arrest of judgment, the whole case is brought up and the defendant is entitled to a trial de novo, unless he has pleaded guilty, when he is only entitled to bring up for review the question whether the facts charged and admitted by the plea constitute the offense: State v. Koonce, 108-752; State v. Warren, 113-683.

4648. Justice to return papers and findings to superior court. In every case in which an appeal shall be prayed the justice shall forthwith transmit to the clerk of the superior court of the county all papers in the case, together with a copy of the verdict, if any, of his determination of the facts if there shall have been no trial by jury, and of the sentence, in which shall be set forth all the facts found by him, as well as his finding of those which were alleged in the complaint and which were found by him not to be proved.

Rev., s. 3275; Code, s. 901: 1868-9. c. 178, subc. 4. s. 12.

Section cited in State v. Lyon, 93-575.

4649. When state may appeal. An appeal to the supreme court may be taken by the state in the following cases, and no other. Where judgment has been given for the defendant—

1. Upon a special verdict.
2. Upon a demurrer.
3. Upon a motion to quash.
4. Upon arrest of judgment.

Rev., s. 3276; Code, s. 1237.

As to the law before this section, see State v. Lane, 78-547; State v. Keeter, 82-457; State v. Padgett, 82-544; State v. Seanlan, 85-601; State v. Swepson, 83-584.

See generally: State v. Swepson, 83-584; State v. Moore, 84-724; State v. Powell, 86-640; State v. Ballard, 122-1024; State v. Savery, 126-1083; State v. Southern Ry., 126-1073.

State may appeal when judge sustains defendant's demurrer to pleading, and not to the evidence: State v. Moody, 150-847. State cannot appeal when judge directs a verdict of not guilty: Ibid.—nor when the judge strikes out a plea of guilty and enters a verdict of not guilty without a jury, State v. Branner, 149-559.

In case of an appeal lost without laches, the state may have a writ of certiorari as substitute: State v. Swepson, 83-584.

Section cited in State v. Miller, 97-451; State v. Monger, 107-771; State v. Morgan, 120-563; State v. Hinson, 123-755; State v. Davidson, 124-839; State v. Bost, 125-710; State v. Southern Ry., 126-1073; State v. Bowman, 145-454; State v. Lancaster, 169-284.

4650. Appeal by defendant to supreme court. In all cases of conviction in the superior court for any criminal offense, the defendant shall have the right to appeal, on giving adequate security to abide the sentence, judgment or decree of the supreme court; and the appeal shall be perfected and the case for the supreme court settled, as provided in civil actions.

Rev., s. 3277; Code, s. 1234; R. C., c. 4, s. 21; 1818. c. 962, s. 4.

The statutory appeal takes the place of the old writ of error: State v. Webb, 155-426. Appeal by the defendant in a criminal case from the superior court to the supreme court vacates the judgment of the former: State v. Applewhite, 75-229; State v. Jones, 69-16; State v. Miller, 94-908.

Appeal to obtain a new trial for the admission of improper, or rejection of proper, evidence: State v. Clark, 34-151; State v. Keath, 83-626; State v. Barber, 89-523; State v. Skidmore, 109-795.

Appeal, without assigning error or showing new facts, dismissed: State v. Miller, 97-450; State v. Brown, 106-645.

Premature appeal, if taken otherwise than from a judgment on conviction or on a plea of guilty: State v. Ford, 168-165. No appeal from a motion to quash: State v. Burnett, 173-750.

Withdrawal of appeal by accused in misdemeanors and felonies: State v. Leak, 90-655; State v. Brewer, 98-607.

Upon suspension of judgment with consent of defendant, he waives his right to appeal on the question of his guilt or innocence: State v. Tripp, 168-150.

On appeal by defendant when the complete record cannot be sent up, he should docket the case and ask for certiorari: State v. McDraughon, 168-131.

If, pending an appeal in a criminal case, the statute authorizing the indictment is repealed, or when an "amnesty act" which includes the prisoner is passed, judgment will be arrested: State v. Nutt, 61-20; State v. Applewhite, 75-299.

When, pending the appeal of a prisoner who has been convicted of a capital felony, he makes his escape, the supreme court has power in its discretion to dismiss the appeal or hear or continue it: State v. DeVane, 166-281; State v. Keebler, 145-560; State v. Jacobs, 107-772; State v. Anderson, 111-689.

Certiorari as substitute for appeal: State v. Leak, 86-647; Turner v. Quinn, 92-501; State v. Butts, 91-524; State v. Lee, 90-652; State v. Swepson, 82-541; State v. Gooch, 94-983; State v. Walters, 97-489; State v. Sloan, 97-499; State v. Webb, 155-426.

An appeal does not lie from an interlocutory judgment in a criminal action: State v. Bailey, 65-426; State v. Wiseman, 68-203; State v. Keeter, 80-472; State v. Hinson, 82-540; State v. Lock, 86-647; State v. Polk, 91-652; State v. Hazell, 95-623; State v. Webb, 155-426.

Power of the court to suspend judgment in a criminal case, impose conditions, and punish for violation of such conditions: State v. Burnette, 173-734; State v. Greer, 173-759; State v. Johnson, 169-311; State v. Tripp, 168-150; State v. Everitt, 164-399; State v. Hilton, 151-687.

Judgment in criminal case to be enforced at a future day: In re Hinson, 156-250.

Withdrawing juror and ordering a mistrial in criminal case: State v. Cain, 175-825; State v. Upton, 170-769.

Section cited in State v. Swepson, 82-541; State v. Moore, 93-501; State v. Starnes, 94-974; State v. Walters, 97-491; State v. Griffin, 117-713; State v. Deyton, 119-882.

PERFECTING APPEAL. See under section 642 et seq. Must be perfected during the term, whether by giving bond or procuring an order dispensing with one: State v. Dixon, 71-204; State v. Gaylor, 85-551. Case for supreme court settled as provided for in civil actions: State v. Lee, 90-352; State v. Cameron, 121-572; State v. Perry, 122-1018; State v. Crook, 91-536; State v. Byrd, 93-624. Duty of presiding judge to make up case on appeal: State v. Randall, 88-611. If counsel can agree, judge takes no part in case on appeal, but judge's action is final: State v. Gooch, 94-983; State v. Chaffin, 125-660. Difference between case on appeal and record, record controls: State v. Carlton, 107-956. Exceptions to case on appeal must be specific: State v. King, 119-910. Judge's case on appeal prima facie correct: State v. Jarnigan, 120-568. Solicitor must pass on "case on appeal" for the State: State v. Cameron, 121-572—and he is bound by the case passed upon, State v. Wilson, 121-650.

The judge cannot authorize the case on appeal to be served upon any other than the solicitor or counsel acting for him: State v. Stevens, 152-840.

When appellant's case is served in time and there is no exception or countercase served, it is "the case": State v. Carlton, 107-956. Transcript should be made up in proper form: State v. Butts, 91-524; State v. Farrar, 103-411. Sufficiency of undertaking: State v. Byrd, 93-624.

Supreme court will not consider case on appeal when it does not appear to have been served upon opposing party and no case on appeal appears in the record proper: State v. Lewis, 145-585, and cases cited.

4651. Defendant may appeal without security for costs. In all cases of conviction in the superior courts, the defendant shall have the right to appeal without giving security for costs, upon filing an affidavit that he is wholly unable to give security for the costs, and is advised by counsel that he has reasonable cause for the appeal prayed, and that the application is in good faith.

Rev., s. 3278; Code, s. 1235; 1869-70, c. 196, s. 1.

See generally: State v. Gatewood, 125-694.

Appeal in forma pauperis allowed only in term by the judge, and it must be perfected during the term at which verdict was rendered: State v. Gatewood, 125-694; State v. Dixon, 71-204; State v. Barham, 85-88; State v. Gaylor, 85-551. For an appeal in forma pauperis it must appear that the application is in good faith: State v. Martin, 172-977; State v. DeVane, 166-283; State v. Smith, 152-842.

When an appeal is taken it is to the next term of the supreme court: State v. Hawkins, 72-180; State v. O'Kelly, 88-609.

The court has no authority to dispense with, or the prosecutor to waive, the requirements of this section: State v. Kerns, 90-650; State v. Moore, 93-500; State v. Gatewood, 125-694. Appeal will be dismissed when defendant files no bond and there is no order allowing him to appeal without bond: State v. Patrick, 72-217; State v. Spurtin, 80-362; State v. Walker, 82-696; State v. Donaldson, 83-683; State v. Gaylor, 85-551; State v. Gatewood, 125-694.

If on appeal in forma pauperis there is an order allowing such an appeal, but no affidavit, the affidavit will be presumed correct; but where the substance of the affidavit is set out, and the court sees that it is incorrect, the appeal must be dismissed: State v. Jones, 93-617; State v. Jackson, 112-849; State v. Harris, 114-830.

The affidavit is a necessary requirement: State v. Martin, 172-977. For requirements of affidavit, see State v. Divine, 69-390; State v. Morgan, 77-510; State v. Moore, 93-500; State v. Payne, 93-612; State v. Tow, 103-350; State v. Conry, 103-352; State v. Duncan, 107-818; State v. Wyld, 110-500; State v. Shoulders, 111-637; State v. Rhodes, 112-856; State v. Perkins, 117-698; State v. Bramble, 121-603; State v. Atkinson, 141-734.

Section merely cited in State v. Dixon, 71-204; State v. Starnes, 94-974.

4652. Appeal granted; bail for appearance. It shall be the duty of the judge on filing the affidavit required in the preceding section to grant the appeal without security for costs, and for any bailable offense shall require the defendant to enter into recognizance in a reasonable sum to make his appearance at the first term of the superior court to be held in the county and to further answer the charge preferred.

Rev., s. 3279; Code, s. 1236; 1869-70, c. 196, s. 2.

Appeal in forma pauperis can be allowed only in term time and by the judge: State v. Gatewood, 125-694. The order to appeal in forma pauperis must be signed by the judge: State v. Parish, 151-659.

Section merely cited in State v. Spurtin, 80-362.

4653. Bail pending appeal. When any person convicted of a misdemeanor and sentenced by the court, shall appeal, the court shall allow such person to give bail pending appeal.

Rev., s. 3280; Code, s. 1181; R. C., c. 35, s. 12; 1850-1, c. 2.

The sentence of the defendant does not end the liability of the sureties on the bail bond for appearance: State v. Schenck, 138-562—but he must submit to such punishment as shall be adjudged, Ibid.

4654. Appeal not to vacate judgment; stay of execution. In criminal cases an appeal to the supreme court shall not have the effect of vacating the judgment appealed from, but upon perfecting the appeal as now required by law, either by giving bond or in forma pauperis, there shall be a stay of execution during the pendency of the appeal. The clerk of the superior court shall, as soon as may be after execution is stayed, as provided in this section, notify the attorney-general thereof. Said notice shall give the name of defendant, the crime of which he was convicted, and, if the statutory time for perfecting the appeal has been extended by agreement, the time of such extension. If for any reason the defendant should wish to withdraw his appeal before the same is docketed in the supreme court, he may go, or be taken, before the clerk of the superior court in which he was convicted, and said clerk shall enter such withdrawal upon the record of the case, and notify the sheriff, who shall proceed forthwith to execute the sentence.

Rev., s. 3281; 1887, c. 191, s. 1; 1887, c. 192, s. 4; 1919, c. 5.

Section cited and approved: State v. Jacobs, 107-772.

4655. Judgment for fines docketed; lien and execution. When the sentence in whole or in part directs the payment of a fine, the judgment shall be docketed by the clerk and be a lien on the real estate of the defendant in the same manner as judgments in civil actions, and executions thereon shall only be stayed, upon an appeal taken, by security being given in like manner as is required in civil cases. Should the judgment be affirmed upon appeal to the supreme court, the clerk of the superior court, on receipt of the certificate from the supreme court, shall issue execution on such judgment.

Rev., s. 3282; 1887, c. 191, s. 3.

4656. Procedure upon receipt of certificate of supreme court. The clerk of the superior court, in all cases where the judgment has been affirmed (except where the conviction is a capital felony), shall forthwith on receipt of the certificate of the opinion of the supreme court notify the sheriff, who shall proceed to execute the sentence which was appealed from. In criminal cases where the judgment is not affirmed the cases shall be placed upon the docket for trial at the first ensuing term of the court after the receipt of such certificate.

Rev., s. 3283; 1887, c. 192, s. 3.

ART. 17. EXECUTION

4657. Death by electrocution. Death by hanging under sentence of law in North Carolina is hereby abolished and electrocution or death by electricity substituted therefor.

1909, c. 443, s. 1.

4658. Manner and place of execution. The mode of executing a death sentence must in every case be by causing to pass through the body of the convict or felon a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause death, and the application of such current must be continued until such convict or felon is dead; and the warden of the penitentiary of North Carolina or, in case of his death, inability or absence, a deputy warden shall be the executioner; and when any person, convict or felon shall be sentenced by any court of the state having competent jurisdiction to be so executed, such punishment shall only be inflicted within a permanent death chamber which the superintendent of the state penitentiary is hereby authorized and directed to provide within the walls of the North Carolina penitentiary at Raleigh, North Carolina. The superintendent of the state penitentiary shall also cause to be provided, in conformity with this article and approved by the governor and council of state, the necessary appliances for the infliction of the punishment of death in accordance with the requirements of this article.

4659. Sentence of death; prisoner taken to penitentiary. Upon the sentence of death being pronounced against any person in the state of North Carolina convicted of a crime punishable by death it shall be the duty of the judge pronouncing such death sentence to make the same in writing, which shall be filed in the papers in the case against such convicted person, and a certified copy thereof shall be transmitted by the clerk of the superior court in which such sentence is pronounced to the warden of the state penitentiary at Raleigh, North Carolina, not more than twenty nor less than ten days before the time fixed in the judgment of the court for the execution of the sentence; and in all cases where there is no appeal from the sentence of death and in all cases where the sentence is pronounced against a prisoner convicted of the crime of rape it shall be the duty of the sheriff, together with at least one deputy, to convey to the penitentiary at Raleigh such condemned felon or convict forthwith upon the adjournment of the court in which the felon was tried, and deliver the convict or felon to the warden of the penitentiary: Provided, that in all cases where an appeal is taken from the death sentence by any person convicted of a crime punishable by death, except the crime of rape, such convicted felon or convict shall not be taken or conveyed to the penitentiary unless, in the judgment of the sheriff of the county in which the felon was tried and the solicitor prosecuting the felon, it shall be deemed necessary for the safety and safe-keeping of the convicted person or felon during the pendency of the appeal.

4660. Warden or deputy to execute sentence. The warden or deputy warden (in case of the disability, death or absence of the warden), unless a suspension of execution be ordered, shall cause the person, convict or felon against whom the death sentence has been so pronounced to be electrocuted as provided by this article. At such execution there shall be present the warden or deputy warden, the surgeon or physician of the penitentiary and twelve respectable citizens. The counsel and any relatives of such person, convict or felon and a minister or ministers of the gospel may be present if they so desire.

4661. Certificate filed with clerk. The warden, together with the surgeon or physician of the penitentiary, shall certify the fact of the execution of the condemned person, convict or felon to the clerk of the superior court in which such sentence was pronounced, and the clerk shall file such certificate with the papers of the case and enter the same upon the records thereof.

1909, c. 443, s. 5.

4662. Notice of reprieve or new trial. Should the condemned person, convict or felon be granted a reprieve by the governor or obtain a writ of error, or a new trial be granted by the supreme court of the state of North Carolina, or should the execution of the sentence be stayed by any competent judicial tribunal or proceeding, notice of such reprieve, new trial, appeal, writ of error or stay of execution shall be served upon the warden or deputy warden of the penitentiary by the sheriff of Wake county, in case such condemned person is confined in the penitentiary, or upon any sheriff having the custody of any such condemned person, also upon the condemned person himself.

4663. Judgment sustained on appeal, governor fixes day for execution. In case of an appeal, should the supreme court find no error in the trial or should the execution of the sentence be stayed by any competent judicial tribunal or proceeding, such condemned person, convict or felon shall be executed as heretofore provided in this article, the governor of North Carolina setting the day for such execution; and it is made the duty of the governor to set the date for such execution and notify the warden of the penitentiary thereof.

4664. New trial granted, prisoner taken to place of trial. Should a new trial be granted the condemned person, convict or felon against whom sentence of death has been pronounced, after he has been conveyed to the penitentiary, then he shall be conveyed back to the place of trial by such guard or guards as the warden of the penitentiary shall direct, their expenses to be paid as is now provided by law for the conveyance of convicts to the penitentiary.

1909, c. 443, s. 7.

4665. Disposition of body. Upon application, written or verbal, of any relative as near as the degree of fourth cousin of the person executed, made at any time prior to the execution or on the morning thereof, the body, after execution, shall be prepared for burial under the supervision of the warden or deputy warden and shall be returned to the nearest railroad station of the relative or relatives asking for such body. The cost of preparing the body for burial, including transportation, shall in no case exceed the sum of fifty dollars, and shall be paid by the state of North Carolina upon a warrant of the auditor of the state. In the event that no relative asks for the body of such executed person, convict or felon, the same shall be disposed of as other bodies of convicts dying in the penitentiary.

1909, c. 443, s. 9.
